Canton loses father figure

John Flodin's battle with cancer is over

By M.B. Dillon Ward and Diane Frea staff writers

Township Clerk John Flodin, revered by many as Canton's "father figure," died early this morning at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ypsilanti at the age of 63. He had been recovering from radiation treatments for Hodgkin's disease.

Born in Detroit, Flodin lived in Canton Township most of his life. He graduated from Wayne High School in 1938 and did additional studies at the University of Detroit, Michigan State University and Detroit Technical.

Starting out as a handyman at Canton Township offices in 1953, Flodin was elected township clerk in 1956 and served in the office ever since.

"Everyone here is taking it very hard. He really was one of a kind," said Doris Kelley, Flodin's secretary.

"I spoke with him yesterday afternoon. He was so worried about the election. After you work here a while, it kind of gets in your blood."

Trustee Steve Larson said the news of Flodin's death had been a shock to him. Larson had thought the cancer was in total remission and the prognosis had been that "the worst was over," he said.

Larson had been working on Flodin's re-election campaign at township hall last night and had heard the news early this morning.

Funeral arrangements, to be handled by Uht Funeral Home in Westland, were scheduled to be made later today.

FLODIN HAD BEEN dividing his days, making outpatient visits to the hospital and working a few hours at township hall until his recent hospitalization.

The radiation treatments tired him so that Flodin often had to stop and rest several times while walking from the parking lot to his office, said Flosie Tonda, who also was working on Flodin's campaign.

"John would get tired just walking across the room," she said. "He called me before my party — Tonda recently retired from the school board and was honored with a dinner — and told me he wanted very badly to come, but just couldn't afford to, for fear he would get caught something."

"With the cancer, he said he just couldn't take the chance, he was so susceptible."

FLODIN'S DETERMINATION to keep working was cause for both admiration and worry on the part of township employees, Kelley said.

"It concerned us. We were afraid he might hurt himself by trying to do too much. But he was so darn dedicated to the whole community," Kelley said.

Longtime Canton resident John Flodin, who worked his way up from "town hall handyman" to township clerk, died early Thursday.

"He was so thrilled when he came in and said the cancer was cured. But he was very weak. His blood count was way down. He had gotten so very weak, he had no strength and no immunity. Some fight back, and some don't."

Flodin, diagnosed with Hodgkin's disease last May, had been hospitalized since Oct. 6. It was expected he would be released after regaining his strength, and resume his duties in the clerk's office. While Flodin had been unable to campaign for November's general election, he was responding to candidates' questionnaires and was signing township documents from his hospital bed.

"Even in his hospital bed, we talked to him. He wanted to know what was going on. We felt good to be able to tell him (retired Wayne Clerk) Geneva Ford was going to help us out (with the election)," Kelley said.

"We were delighted she could help us out. We're glad she'll be with us. We know what to do, but there's always the fear of the unknown."

There was speculation Thursday that votes cast for John Flodin Nov. 6 would be ruled invalid, in essence handing votes to political newcomer Linda Chuhuran, Republican candidate for clerk.

That could not be confirmed by press time, however.

FLODIN IS SURVIVED by his wife, Bernice, a retired schoolteacher who he married in 1942; daughter Mary Jo Marsh of Belleville, son-in-law Richard, and three grandchildren.

In an interview with the Observer's W.W. Edgar last summer, Flodin said, "I lived an odd sort of life before I landed here. I am content to remain here the rest of my working days if the people still want me."

"Would you believe," Flodin added, "my one big ambition as young fellow was to be a football star and possibly go to the pro leagues?"

A football player at Wayne High, Flodin was talented enough to attract the attention of several college scouts, eventually playing center on Gus Dorais' University of Detroit football team.

After he left college, Flodin went to Ford Motor, where "I worked for 35 cents and hour." He left Ford to join his aunt and uncle in the chicken hatchery business, where he worked until 1953 when he came to Canton Township.

Supt. Hoben lambastes Proposal C

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools expect to lose almost $3 million in total income in 1986 if Proposal C is approved by voters in November.

Faced with that prospect, the school board at its last meeting unanimously approved a resolution urging defeat of the ballot proposition which is also known as "Voter's Choice."

Superintendent John M. Hoben says if Proposal C is approved the school district in fiscal 1986 will lose about $1.7 million in state aid and another $1.3 million in local property tax income.

Hoben reports that the negative effect of Proposal C on public education would be "insurmountable in terms of current levels of funding."

"It is felt that the legislation is so loosely written that the district would well be in litigation for an extended period of time attempting to get clarification of intent and meaning," added Hoben.

THE PROPOSAL WOULD:

- Require voter approval of any legislative change in the rate or base of a state or local tax if the change would result in increased revenue.

- Require voter approval of any new tax.

- Effectively repeal any tax base increase or a new tax adopted after Dec. 31, 1981.

- Limit nonresident local income taxes to a maximum of one-half of one percent.

- Require that any increase in state or local fees be approved by a four-fifths vote of the governing body (State Legislature, City Commission, etc.).

- Require ballot proposals on tax questions to state the total anticipated revenue, intended use of the revenue, and an expiration date.

Hoben said Proposal C would severely limit the district's ability to raise fees such as for community education and summer school, admission tickets, school bus rental fees, or school use fees.

Trustee E.J. McClendon pointed out Proposal C likely would require a new vote on the millage just approved earlier this month which, in effect, disenfranchises voters who made the decision to approve the local millage increase.

"Obviously a good deal of time, money and energy will be expended on annual millage elections to allow the district to levy previously authorized millage," said Hoben.

The Wayne County Intermediate School District reports Proposal C would cut revenue dedicated to the state School Aid Fund by $36 million in

Cable TV customers can look for higher rates

By Gary M. Cates staff writer

Deregulation of the cable-television industry likely will result in higher subscription rates, according to local government officials.

Last week the U.S. Congress approved legislation calling for a national cable-television policy which abolishes many of the controls originally granted to local governments.

"I think the absence of rate regulation will not benefit all subscribers," said Terry Carroll, a Canton Township official.

"Until some of the federal regulatory language comes out we probably won't be able to gauge the full impact of the legislation on township subscribers," Carroll said.

The House approved a compromise version of Senate Bill 66. President Reagan is expected to sign the legislation sometime this week.

The most important part of the bill is a two-year phase out of local rate control. During that period cable operators can institute a 5-percent rate increase without local approval.

After the two years, cable companies can set their own rates — in effect letting the market control rates.

The legislation also allows communities to receive 5 percent of a cable company's rate revenues without Federal Communications Commission (FCC) approval. Originally local governments were entitled to 3 percent and could request an additional 2 percent if they proved a need to the FCC.

Among the "federal regulatory language" Carroll mentioned are provisions for:

- Increased penalties for theft of cable and satellite services, including language calling for communities to participate in the prosecution.

- Requiring cable operators to wire all parts of a community, regardless of the economic feasibility. Yet to be determined is whether this provision includes cable systems already intact.

- Requires lock-out devices for channels which may carry adult-oriented programming. The bill also strengthens court rulings which allow communities to decide what is pornographic or unacceptable.

- Establishes procedures to prevent unfair denials of franchise renewals by requiring such denials to be based on objective criteria.

"DURING THE two-year grace period, the 5-percent rate increase will be automatic," Carroll said. "Without direct competition the market forces don't always act swiftly."

Likewise, Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen has reservations about how well the market will dictate rates.

"Cable rates were quite reasonable before," Breen said. "The key will be competition."

Because of the large expense in setting up a cable system, both Carroll and Breen look to satellite television as the competition for cable.

Some communities are limiting satellite through zoning restrictions on satellite dishes, Breen said. Livonia recently enacted restrictions on the placement of satellite receivers.

"Cable is a favored utility. It is questionable whether or not your rates will be reasonable, especially if local governments limit competition through zoning regulations," Breen said.

Even if competition does exist, Carroll points out another problem.

"The township board could have acted immediately. The market forces will take longer to take effect," he said.

Sterlini has no regrets but is sad to leave

BILL BRESSLER/staff photographer

By Diane Frea staff writer

"You don't intend to rock the boat. You try to make things right."

That's the appraisal of the last six years by Maria Sterlini, Canton Township treasurer.

Sterlini, who did not file to run for re-election next month, will be leaving her post as "custodian of all township funds" on Nov. 19. At filing time in June, advice from her doctor made her decide not to run again, Sterlini said.

Sterlini was appointed deputy treasurer in 1978 by Treasurer Jim Donahue, after opposing him in that year's election. She resigned the job in February 1980 and was elected to the full-time treasurer's job in November.

Throughout her six years in the treasurer's department, years that were rife with controversy, Sterlini said she has relied on her personal support system to get her through.

"Nobody could survive the turmoil in this political office without the people behind you," Sterlini said.

HER OFFICE is decorated with plaques, signs, clippings and quotes, all gifts from friends and family members, proof of the "many beautiful relationships" she said she has developed. "I have the kind of friends that very few people have," she said.

"When things are down, people usually back away from you," fearing association, Sterlini said. Despite the hurt and discredit her family and friends have suffered, they remain "people who care about you and never leave your side," she said.

STERLINI SAID she is most proud of the changes she has effected in the treasurer's office during her term. An automated system now keeps track of all township funds, a total of $60 or $70 million dollars a year, she said.

The management system of previous years has been replaced. Many of the changes have been brought about by employee complaints or suggestions and public comments. "It's been teamwork all the way," she said.

"Everything that's here today is what I set up within the last six years. It's been fun and it's been difficult. But it works. It all works," she said.

As auditor of the township, she has the responsibility of ensuring the public trust of all moneys, Sterlini said. All township funds have been handled with integrity and safety, she said, and she speaks with pride of bookkeeping that balances to the penny.

ALTHOUGH STERLINI has not officially endorsed either candidate for the treasurer's office, Democratic Trustee Carol Bodenmiller or Republican Jerry Brown, she does have strong feelings about the qualifications necessary to perform the job.

Sterlini has two folders of recommendations that "I would like to see the new treasurer follow," starting with a review of the laws that govern

Would-be trustees sought; long-term objectives outlined

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is encouraging persons interested in filling the vacancy created by Trustee Thomas Yack's resignation to submit letters of intent by 5 p.m. Monday.

Letters should be addressed to the Board of Education, 454 S. Harvey Street, Plymouth 48170.

Board members will appoint the applicant they consider best qualified.

The decision was reached following some discussion at Monday night's workshop.

Trustee Nancy Quinn said, "I think it's only appropriate that we fill the spot with the person who came in third in the June election." Quinn and Trustee Les Walker were elected to two spots in the June election, with Dean Swartzwelter placing third.

"I've always been a person who says the community should vote for its school board. So I'd support appointing Swartzwelter," she said.

Swartzwelter, who was in the audi-

2 wins, 1 loss at Steelers' homecoming games

An Ann Arbor Rams player eats dirt in the tracks of Plymouth-Canton Steeler Chris Johnston. Another Ram is in hot pursuit.

The undefeated junior varsity and varsity teams of the Plymouth-Canton Steelers Jr. Football club continued their winning streaks with victories over the Ann Arbor Rams during the Steelers' homecoming games Sunday.

The game was scoreless at the end of the first quarter. Chris Johnston returned a Rams punt 65 yards for a touchdown with two minutes left in the first half.

Homecoming festivities began Sunday afternoon with the freshman game at Central Middle School in Plymouth. The two unbeaten teams clashed and the Steelers suffered a 21-7 loss. Jase Nickerson scored on the first Steelers' possession with a 36-yard run. Jim Raglow added the extra point to put the Steelers ahead 7-0. The game was tied at the half and the Rams scored two touchdowns in the second half.

Opening the second half, Steelers quarterback Scott Hauncher passed for 15 yards to Darren DeTata who ran eight yards into the end zone. Lee Krueger kicked the two extra points as rules allow in junior league football, and the Steelers led 14-0. In the third quarter, Krueger found the end zone from the one-yard line to increase the lead to 20-0 at the end of the quarter.

The junior varsity Steelers defeated the JV Rams by a score of 9-0.

Late in the fourth quarter the Rams scored a touchdown, bringing the final score to 21-6.

The varsity Steelers are now 5-1 for the season.

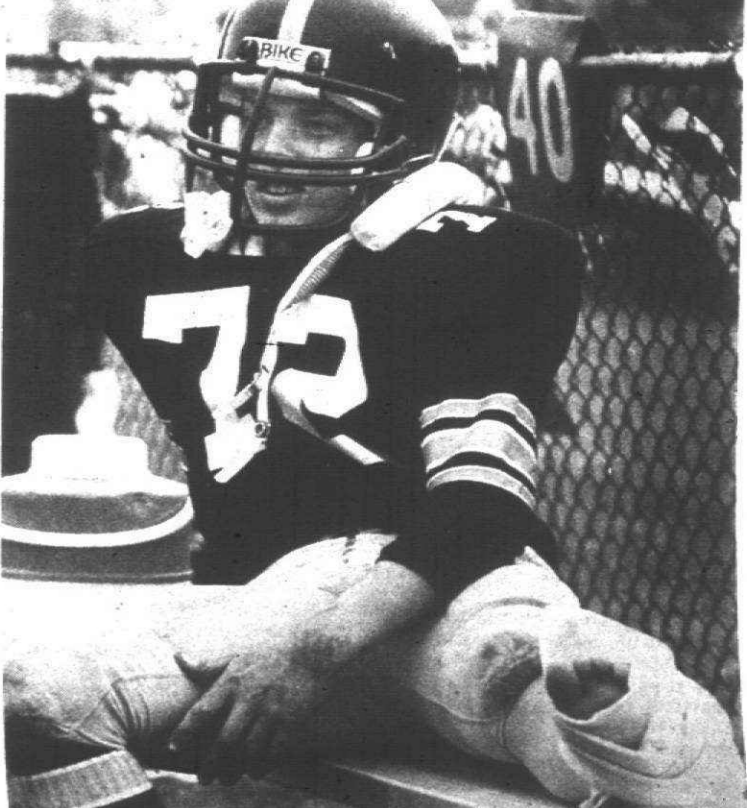

The Varsity Steelers have not been beaten in the last 30 games, since 1980.

Early in the second quarter, a Rams fumble was recovered by Mike Plunkett on their 35 yard line. Chris Decker made a 14-yard run for the touchdown.

Mothers of all the players and cheerleaders were presented with flowers prior to each game. The cheerleaders did special dance routines during half-time homecoming activities.

The Steelers defense continued to contain the Rams, and the final score of the game was made by Scott Swartzwelder with a quarterback sack for a two-point safety.

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers will travel to Ypsilanti Sunday to meet the Huron Braves. The first game begins at 1 p.m. in the Ypsilanti High School stadium.

New enterprise pairs retirees, vacationers

By Diane Freer
staff writer

Scenario: You're getting ready to go on a long-awaited 10-day vacation. But the thought of having to kennel the dog and the cat, stop the mail and newspaper, find someone to water your plants and garden, and clean out the refrigerator is enough to make you start unbuttoning.

Solution: Call Doris and Al Sutherland of Canton Township, owners of Home Sitting Services of Tri-County Inc.

Home Sitting Services Inc. based in Denver, through which the Johnsons bought rights for their western Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw counties operation, is a nationwide service which matches retired people with homeowners who wish to hire a home sitter while they are away.

The retired person occupies the home around the clock, feeds and cares for pets, waters plants, accepts mail, answers the phone and handles maintenance emergencies while the homeowner is away.

The charge for the service is $22.50 per day plus food for the sitter. Eight dollars of the fee is given to the house sitter; the remainder of the fee goes to the business owner who operates the home-sitting service.

Home sitters work in husband and wife teams or are not paid twice, but clients must provide food for both.

According to Al Sutherland, founder and chairman of the board, the most important aspect of the service is providing useful and constructive activity for retirees enabling them to be productive members of their communities.

Sutherland, who is 78 and a resident of Denver, founded the company in 1972 after retiring from an active career in sales. There are Home Sitting Services available in more than 50 cities nationwide.

He tells retired seniors, "You can live as long as you are alive - or you can be dead until you die." Sutherland said that there is no age requirement for the sitters, just that they be retired. "Retired means financially able to take care of their expenses," he said.

The money retirees make from the home sitting services is not enough to endanger their Social Security benefits, even if they work year-round, Sutherland said, nor is it intended as steady income. It only supplements other incomes, he said.

Besides the money, the benefits the sitters receive are reduced food and fuel bills. Sitters are allowed two hours per day away from the home to take care of personal errands. Sutherland said. They are not required to do housework but are expected to clean up after themselves.

DORIS JOHNSON recently attended a five-day training seminar for Home Sitting Services operators to learn the marketing, legal and contractual basics of setting up shop. Currently, she is busy recruiting retirees who are interested in home sitting.

In addition to being fully bonded and insured, the sitters are carefully screened. To qualify, they must be friendly, physically able to get around and interested in being involved. References are carefully checked, Mrs. Johnson said.

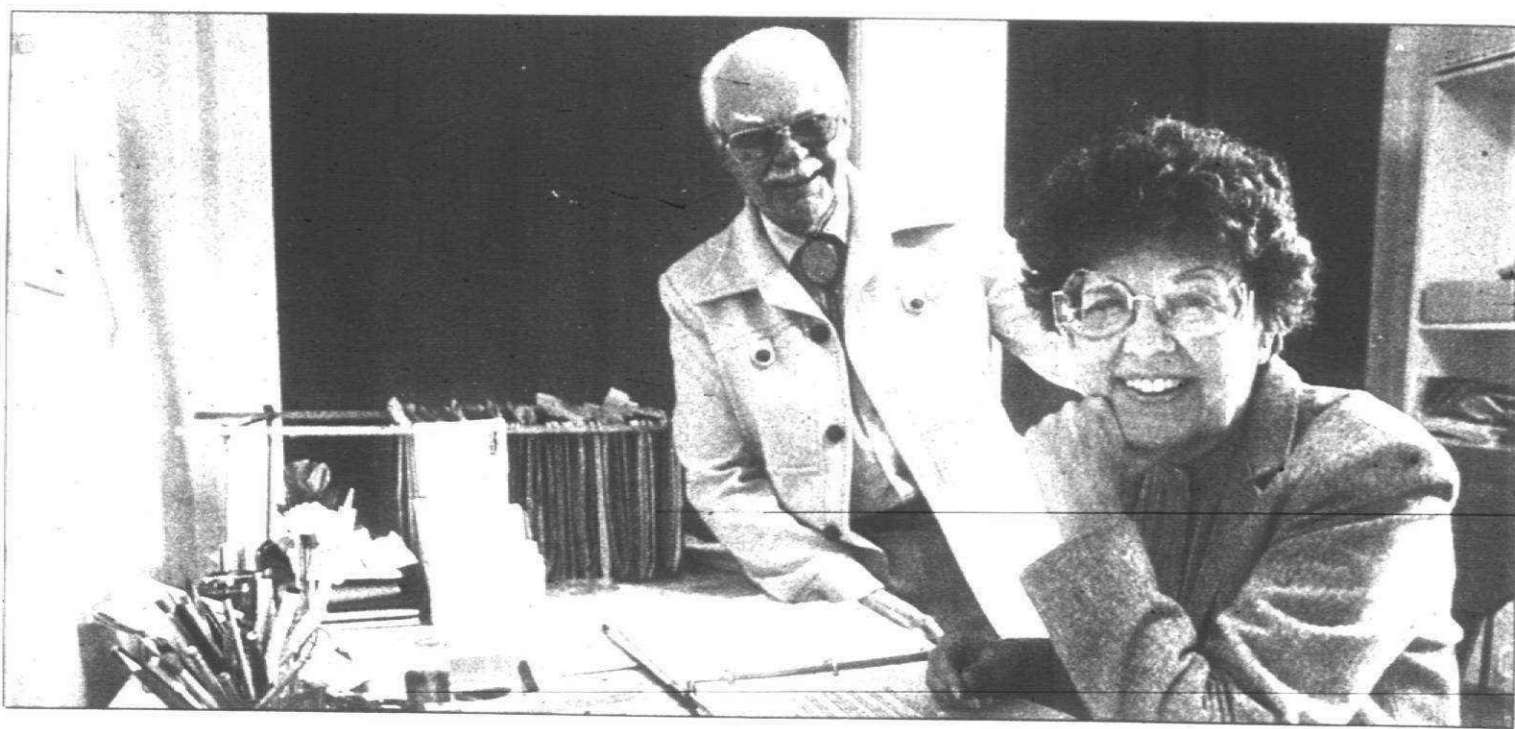

Back-up sitters are always available if an emergency arises and the original sitter is not available.

SINCE ABOUT 90 percent of clients use the service for pets, retirees who do not like animals should not apply for the job, Mrs. Johnson said. The sitters also cannot take their own pets to clients' homes.

Mrs. Johnson said sitters receive no special training, "because it's just like going to your own home. Clients fill out a two-page form before leaving, which lists details about the care of the home and pets, where the gas and water shutoffs are located and who to call in an emergency."

The occupied pet owner is a benefit for the homeowner, Sutherland said. There has never been a break-in or vandalism during any sitter's stay in the nearly 13 years the businesses have been operating nationwide. In several cases, flooded basements and electrical fires have been averted because alert sitters were at the homes, Sutherland said.

Sutherland said the sitters are not hired and they are guest-residents in the clients' homes. "It's just like Uncle Jim and Aunt Suzie coming to visit," Sutherland said.

Home Sitting Services founder Al Sutherland looks over the books with local owner Doris Johnson at her home office in Canton Township.

Higher cable bills on horizon

"I think anytime the local people can have control over their own destiny, it's better than having the FCC or some other federal agency do it for us," said Plymouth City Manager Henry Graper.

DESPITE THE reservations of local officials, cable operators were able to convince federal lawmakers of the need for the legislation.

The last few years have seen numerous changes in the rules which govern cable television," said John R. Liskey, executive director of the Michigan Cable Television Association.

"Courts across the country have had difficulty applying the antiquated 1934 law to cable television."

"We believe the establishment of a national cable policy will stabilize the regulatory environment and therefore foster growth in the development of this young but fast-changing industry," Liskey said.

"This legislation carefully balances marketplace forces with municipal and cable industry interests."

"The compromises represented by the township and the officials' roles. We need people that understand how to run a multi-million dollar business - professionally, not politically," she said.

received 1,241 votes behind Walker's 1,403 and Quinn's 1,726. Casting ballots in the election were 5,023 voters.

Trustee Dave Artley presented a different view. "While I realize the populace has spoken, a number of options are available to us," he said.

"We should keep in mind, first and foremost, the kids. This third-place finisher is particularly qualified, but I worry about that one time when we don't have a person of the desired caliber."

"I don't want to cast any aspersions on other districts but I think it would be more proper to look for the most qualified and interested person."

Walker and Trustee Elaine Kirchgatter agreed that appointing the best-highest voter-getter would be precedent-setting and could lead to future problems.

"I feel that when the people of the district voted, they selected two, not three," said Kirchgatter.

The appointment will be effective through June, at which time he or she may run for the remainder of Yack's term which was to have expired in 1987. Yack resigned to devote more time to career, educational and personal goals.

A second spot on the board also is up for grabs in June, as Artley's term expires in 1985.

"THOSE SERVING on the Plymouth-Canton school board have their work cut out for them."

At Monday night's workshop, which focused on details of the instructional skills program, Supt. John Hoben outlined a lengthy list of "things to do."

Hoben's long-term goals include:

- reducing class size from the 28-29 average to 24 students;
- studying housing patterns to more effectively use school buildings;
- preparing for next year's negotiations;
- enhancing "outcome-based and mastery learning" methods, in which children are evaluated based on what they learn without great emphasis upon their ages or grade levels;
- considering the possibility of joining the Association of Middle City Schools (an area group of 26 medium-sized school districts) in order to exchange expertise;
- stepping up foreign language programs for middle school students;
- renovating Central, Haining, Field and Eriksson schools to decrease noise levels, enlarge classrooms, and make building improvements;

Senate Bill 66 should ease many of the tensions which have marked the past several years of the cable-television franchising process," he said.

1985 and $54 million in a full year; cut state general fund revenue by about $285 million in 1985 and $524 million in 1986; and would cut state school aid in 1984-85 by $92 million and in 1985-86 by $153 million.

Opponents also stress that passage of Proposal C will wipe out the "truth in taxation" provisions of the Headlee Amendment which allows local school boards, city councils and township boards to adjust downward or maintain current tax rates after a public hearing.

"I don't want to throw the knowledge away," Sterlino said.

ment. That knowledge and experience will make the difference between a "figure head and a true finance person."

Sometimes that person "does have to take the role of not always being the nice guy, but you try to get people to understand," Sterlino said.

AS FAR AS her future goes, Sterlino said she has been "spending more time leaving the department the way I'd have liked to have found it" than on her own personal plans.

Sterlino said she has "so many ideas" about what she'd like to do, and they involve upper-level finance or running her own business based on a household financial cash management system she developed. Her resumes are out, and she has had offers from the area, in other states and even some from abroad, Sterlino said.

Although political office is not a consideration for the near future, she doesn't rule out the possibility later. "I don't want to throw the knowledge away," Sterlino said.

Cops seek promotion

Twenty Canton Township police officers, about two-thirds of the police force, have been tested in the first portion of the examination for promotion to sergeant, according to Personnel Director Daniel Durack.

Those that pass the written portion of the test, which was given Oct. 3, will be scheduled for an oral board examination. Those who pass will have their names placed on an eligibility list, from which two will be selected to fill sergeant vacancies on the force.

Durack said the written portion of the test consisted of 155 multiple choice questions designed to test the officers' overall knowledge of police work, department rules and regulations and police administration.

Durack said this is the first time the police sergeant promotion examination has been conducted by the township. Previous sergeant openings were filled from the outside because of the relative newness of the force, Durack said. Officers must have at least two years of experience to apply for the testing, Durack said.

Riley stresses need for court reform, improvement

By Susan Roelck staff writer

Dorothy Comstock Riley and former U.S. Sen. Robert Griffin brought their campaigns for the Michigan Supreme Court to western Wayne County this week, stressing the need for an independent judiciary that will interpret, not rewrite, laws.

"We have a crisis on the Supreme Court," Riley told some 50 guests at a breakfast fund-raiser sponsored by the Livonia Chamber of Commerce Political Action Committee.

"The court desperately needs to regain and recapture the respect of the citizenry. It needs to dispose of cases in a definitive fashion and issue opinions in clear and concise language," Riley said.

Riley criticized the partisanship she said exists among some current members of the high court. As evidence of that partisanship she pointed to her ouster from the Supreme Court in February 1983.

The first woman to serve on the Michigan Court of Appeals, Riley, who lives in Grosse Pointe, was re-elected to a six-year term in 1978. On Dec. 9, 1982, she was appointed to the Michigan Supreme Court by Lameduck Gov. William Milliken. He named her to Blair Moody Jr.'s unexpired term and a full eight-year term to which Moody was re-elected before his death.

After three months on the bench, the Supreme Court ousted her on the ground that Milliken lacked authority to make the appointment. Gov. James Blanchard put U.S. District Judge Patricia Boyle in her seat.

"I was ambushed," said Riley.

But Riley is not running against Boyle. She is challenging Justice Thomas Giles Kavanagh. Griffin is running against Boyle, Riley, Griffin and Justice James Brickley were nominated in September by the Republican party at its statewide convention. The candidates will appear under the non-partisan section of the Nov. 6 ballot.

A former U.S. Senator, Griffin said the Riley ouster exposed the court for "the blatant, partisan court it is."

"Griffin pledged, if elected, to go on the court without bias against business or for unions."

"I'll go on the court and call 'em as I see 'em," said Griffin urging the electorate to "turn it (the court) upside down and do something about it."

Griffin said he is running for the high court because "I'm one of those old-fashioned lawyers who believes that service on the court is the pinnacle of the profession."

Proposal B aims to stop 'raids' on land fund

By Tim Richard
staff writer

It couldn't be done by law. So now the backers of the Kammer Land Trust Fund of 1976 want to elevate it into the Michigan Constitution.

"The concept is that the royalties from oil and gas taken from state-owned lands be pledged to a fund," said John F. Greenlit, one of its chief promoters.

"The fund would accumulate until it reaches $200 million, he said. It would be invested, and earnings of $10-15 million a year would be used to pay for state, regional, county and local projects proposed to the land trust board.

"We would take the proceeds from non-renewable natural resources and reinvest them in the lands and waters of the state. No other state has done this," he said.

Greenlit is executive director of the Michigan Recreation and Park Association, a professional group of 2,500 parks and recreation professionals.

"The Legislature pledged the first $150 million," Greenlit said. "After that, the money was to go into the general fund. The fund should have reached the $150 million mark in 1984. Actually, it's about $8 million because, unfortunately, it has been raided on five different occasions.

"The Legislature's 'raids' netted $142 million. Reasons: to make $6 million in loans to petroleum carriers to modify or replace double-bottom tankers; to get $26 million to balance the state's fiscal 1979 budget and $46 million for the fiscal '80 budget; to create a Heritage Trust Fund; and to provide $16 million for Gov. James Blanchard's Youth Job Corps.

"THE LEGISLATURE itself admitted it couldn't keep its hands off the fund and placed Proposal B on the ballot itself. Opposition was scarce.

State Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor, lone senator to oppose it, did so for constitutional reasons. In a statement for the Senate Journal, she said:

"I am a consistent opponent of earmarking public funds, no matter how worthy the cause. The earmarking of public funds has several drawbacks:

- It reduces the ability of the Legislature to respond to changing needs of the state.
- It removes the Legislature from accountability to the public.
- It reduces the overall bonding capacity of the state in direct proportion to the percentage of state funds that are earmarked.
- And as 'good cause' issues become protected by earmarking, funding is reduced for other equally good causes that are less popular, such as mental health and social services.

Pollack told this newspaper, however, that she would not actively fight against Proposal B.

CO-CHAIRS of a supporting group — Rep. Jerry Greenlit said. "After that, the money was to go into the general fund. The fund should have reached the $150 million mark in 1984. Actually, it's about $8 million because, unfortunately, it has been raided on five different occasions.

"The creation of this fund will help promote Michigan tourism, now our third leading industry," they said.

Not only is Proposal B backed by environmentalists and the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, but by the State Chamber of Commerce, tourism groups and the retail hardware industry.

Greenlit said the Farm Bureau and Michigan Township Association "took a walk" on the issue, neither supporting nor opposing it.

IS THERE a danger in some future year that the fund will have too much money — that, as Sen. Pollack said, the state will be pumping money into lands and recreation development and not into other needed programs?

"No," said Greenlit. "There are 11 requests for money for every one that is granted. Besides, southern Michigan lands are getting more and more expensive.

"And the fund is 'capped.' If oil and gas revenues explode, the excess goes into the general fund. The legislative process can make appropriations.

"Again, the concept is that this money came from public lands, and it should be used to replace public lands."

Proposal B — land trust

Here is the actual ballot language of Proposal B on the Nov. 6 ballot:

A proposal to establish a natural resources trust fund and a board to administer it, to provide revenues for it from natural resource leases, and existing funds and to specify and limit the expenditures therefrom.

The proposed amendment would:

1. Establish a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund to be funded by certain royalties, bonuses and rentals collected by the state from the drilling of oil and gas or mining of minerals on state-owned land.
2. Require that earnings from the Trust Fund be used only for: a) purchasing land or rights in land; (1) for public recreation; (2) of environmental importance; or (3) of particular scenic beauty; b) developing public recreation facilities; c) administering the Natural Resources Trust Fund.
3. Require creation of a Natural Resources Trust Fund board to recommend projects to be approved by the legislature.

Should the proposed amendment be adopted?

Hunting, fishing good; nature walks abound

By Lem Meseo
outdoors writer

Bird hunting is generally good to excellent, according to the Pontiac district office of the state Department of Natural Resources.

Woodcock and squirrel hunting are improving with the loss of foliage. Pheasant hunting on state early-release areas has been good.

In the lower Detroit River, Pointe Mouillee and Erie State Game Areas, waterfowl hunting has been fair to good. Many hunters have taken their limits on wood ducks and mallards.

Perch fishing is picking up on Lake Erie. Salmon are being taken from the Hubbard Drive, Dearborn. Tom Needels at 531-9622 has dinner tickets and membership information for interested newcomers.

Price of $40 covers a prime rib dinner, membership and subscription to the monthly DU magazine. The program features a live auction and an update from a DU national representative on the organization's wetland habitat programs in the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

DEC. 1 IS the deadline for nominating degraded trout streams for restoration work under the five-year Trout Stream Restoration Project, which begins next year. It's a cooperative program between DNR and two private groups — The Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation and Trout Unlimited — with the blessing of Gov. James J. Blanchard.

The public has a chance to identify degraded streams and provide basic information about their problems. A DNR district fisheries biologist will review each proposal and forward them to Lansing.

DNR will make recommendations to a committee comprised of TU and Wildlife Habitat members. Several streams each year will be selected and prioritized for restoration. Both private groups have provided money for the work.

Nominating forms can be obtained by writing: Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation, 2325 S. Cedar, Lansing 48910.

Proposals may come from DNR staff, individuals or groups. They must be sent to a DNR district office by Dec. 1.

THE CAMPER and Travel Trailer Show has new dates and a new home. Instead of being held in late winter in the W. Eight Mile Armory, it will be held Nov. 30 to Dec. 9 in Cobo Hall in downtown Detroit.

"Cobo Hall is the only place big enough and nice enough for our show now, with hundreds of recreational vehicles to display and 100,000 people attending," said David S. Pickering, show director.

"Our earlier dates will give recreational vehicle buyers more time to deand the Huron River.

Also, Lincoln Park Recreation, 28 acres on Ecorse Creek, and Sheridan Heritage Park, Taylor, 20 acres.

WAYNE COUNTY

Acquired: St. Aubin Park, Detroit, 12.5 acres.

Proposed: Marine City, Detroit, 6.5 acres on riverfront; Point Mouille State Game Area, 38 acres along Lake Erie property in Farmington Hills, 212 acres.

Also, Pines of Scripser Park, Oxford, 5.7 acres; Horseshoe Lake State Game Area, 800 acres; and St. Mary's land acquisition, Hazel Park, 10 acres.

WASHTENAW COUNTY

Acquired: Parker Mill, county land on Huron River and Fleming Creek, 27 acres; Waterloo State Recreation Area, 307 acres; Pinckney State Recreation Area, 123 acres; and Johnson-Greene parkland, Ann Arbor, 21 acres.

Proposed: Pinckney State Recreation Area, 28 acres.

WHY CAN'T the Michigan Legislature just take these revenues and buy land? Why do the voters have to do it by a constitutional amendment?

"This idea was born during the 1976 Pigeon River crisis," Greenlit said.

It was a compromise between 1) those who wanted to make the U.S. energy self-sufficient by developing the nation's own oil and gas and 2) environmentalists who didn't want to lose parts of the Pigeon River State Forest, home of the Kirtland's Warbler and the elk herd.

The fund was named for then-state Sen. Kerry Kammer, D-Waterford, an avid conservationist.

to help out with shipments of blood to the Detroit area. But last week, donations declined in these other blood regions.

Blood can be donated by anyone in good general health between 17 through 65 years old. Donating blood is relatively painless and takes less than 30 minutes.

Blood need 'urgent'

Area hospitals are facing a critical shortage of blood, as blood donations continue to decline, reported the American Red Cross Blood Services.

Hospitals will be asked to postpone elective surgery which requires blood transfusions unless blood donations increase within the next several days, the Red Cross warned.

The most urgent need is for both positive and negative Type O blood. Because Type O is the most common blood type, it is the one most in demand.

Blood can be donated at the following donor centers: Bloomfield, Dearborn, Livonia, Oak Park, Roseville, Southgate and Sterling Heights. Call 494-2800 for an appointment or the nearest donor center.

According to a spokesperson for Red Cross, collections have been low since the 12-day nurses' strike ended Sept. 3. Other Red Cross blood regions across the country, however, have been able

YMCA thanks Run helpers

To the editor: With the help of volunteers, the Plymouth 'Y's fifth annual Fall Run was a huge success. Some 400 runners participated in the One Mile, Five and Ten Kilometer runs. The routes went through some of Plymouth's most scenic residential areas. Hundreds of onlookers filled Kellogg Park and The Gathering for the event.

After the runners crossed the finish line, refreshments of grapefruit juice, apples, grapes, fried chicken and baked goods were served followed by an awards presentation. You all are responsible for the extremely successful run. We thank each and every one of you.

Janet Leese Executive Director Plymouth Family 'Y'

Human peace chain will link 2 armories

Church bells will ring all over the tri-county area as thousands of residents form a human chain Saturday linking two military armories in metropolitan Detroit.

"During the peaceful silent 'action,' they will join hands at noon for eight minutes in a Survival Line along Eight Mile Road. The display of 'unity for peace and justice' will connect the Light Guard Armory on Detroit's east side with the Artillery Armory on the West side in Oak Park.

EIGHT MINUTES is the time organizers predict it would take for the first nuclear weapons to reach the United States or the Soviet Union. The event is calling for an immediate bilateral U.S.-U.S.S.R. nuclear weapons freeze, an end to military intervention in Central America and a reordering of U.S. spending priorities to meet human needs and secure jobs.

area's "action" was put off until Saturday because of the World Series activity. "We knew the Tigers were going to win so we planned around it," said Miller. "Chicago had a big event last weekend. They must have known the Cubs weren't going to win."

While preparing for the Survival Line, organizers met with city councils of the neighboring cities of Detroit, Ferndale, Oak Park and Royal Oak Township. They also discussed their plans with police departments of those cities.

"Safety was on everyone's mind. They were concerned about traffic and access to area businesses," said Miller. "But we were able to work everything out."

RAIN OR shine, the Survival Line will run 6 1/2 miles along Eight Mile from just east of Greenfield to just east of Ryan. Traffic will be allowed to travel along Eight Mile during the peace action.

There will be singing before and after the event. Area churches are being asked to ring bells during the silent eight-minute Survival Line.

The proposals C has savage fishhooks in its bait

PROPOSAL C on the Nov. 6 ballot contains tempting bait: the allure of rolling back the 1983 personal income tax hike and of sending a message to the Establishment in Lansing. Never mind that we elected the Establishment. Never mind that voters sent shock waves through Lansing by recalling two state senators. Never mind that 60 percent of the tax increase already has been rolled back, and that the rest will be rolled back when our fiscal house is in order.

Backers of Proposal C obviously have touched a responsive chord by pointing to ineptness in the state capital. The question now becomes how much damage their medicine will do. UNDERNEATH THE juicy bait, Proposal C has some savage fishhooks. Governing boards would need 80 percent "super majorities" to raise such fees as college tuitions, building permits, dog licenses, swimming pool admissions, library fines, registration charges.

On an eight-member board, seven votes would be needed for passage. With one member typically absent, one demagogic board member could hold up the entire plan. Yes, the plan could be put before the voters for approval — and can you imagine having a statewide referendum on lifting the physics lab fee for Northern Michigan University? Proposal C would make a farce of both republicanism and democracy.

Michigan's tradition of municipal home rule and local self-government would be grossly violated. Proposal C would amend city charters and arbitrarily change the rules for other units of government by freezing property tax rates — even if charters and voters had authorized higher rates.

For example, if a city charter set a 10-mill property tax limit and the council levied only eight mills, Proposal C would amend the charter by freezing the rate at eight mills. About half of our suburban cities and charter townships and many school districts would have their business tampered with by Proposal C. Michigan's roads and bridges are just being put back in shape, after a decade of deterioration, thanks to a 1982 increase in gasoline and weight taxes. These increases were tolerable because our newer cars are lighter and burn less fuel and generate less revenue. Good roads are essential to industry, tourism, commerce, our own personal safety and comfort. Proposal C would halt this critically necessary program in its tracks.

Proposal C probably would invalidate $357 million in unemployment compensation taxes which are needed to pay back funds advanced to Michigan by the federal government during the recession. Without a repayment plan, Michigan would be subject to federal penalties. So it's true — Proposal C would make Michigan "the credit deadbeat of America."

BACKERS OF Proposal C have pointed — correctly — to state spending on welfare and prisons. Their dream is that cutting taxes will reduce spending on welfare and prisons. Their tactic will backfire. The budgeting process first takes care of social services (which are governed by the welfare caseload and Medicaid prices charged by the health care industry), followed by prisons and the courts.

What will suffer? Aid to education first, school districts will bang on the door for more property taxes; colleges will raise tuitions — or try to. Cities next — and there goes some police protection and library hours. Then property tax rebates, which return nearly $600 million to two-thirds of the state's households. State police — the delight of speed demons and drunk drivers. Conservation officers — to the delight of deer poachers. The toxic waste cleanup program — to the delight of polluters.

Proposal C should be defeated. Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

State is ripe for vote fraud

To buy a $5 piece of merchandise with a plastic credit card, you frequently have to show a couple of pieces of identification, with a picture, and wait around while the clerk runs a check on your card. But to vote — well, it's getting easier and easier in Michigan. We are used to laughing at Chicago and Cook County, Ill., where people listed on gravestones who gave addresses as empty lots cast ballots. My guess is that sooner, rather than later, the same thing will happen in Michigan.

It's significant that major portions of the political parties' campaign budgets are going into advertising, pamphlets and travel expenses for candidates, but into voter registration drives. Clearly the politicians aren't waiting for dutiful citizens to stroll down to city or township hall to register. Voter registration in itself is a political tactic.

REPUBLICANS AND Democrats are distributing absentee ballot applications like crazy. One difference is that the Republican Party also plans to act as the collecting agent for AV applications — picking them up and returning them to the proper authorities.

That immediately creates the suspicion they will return only those of persons they know to be favorable to their cause and possibly lose certain other ones. They've been warned against this practice by the Secretary of State's office.

Club's walls fall for Moms

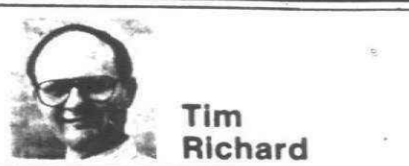

IN THE HISTORY of mankind, it will not merit a chapter, not even a sentence. But a few weeks ago, another discriminatory barrier fell when women were admitted to an all-male organization.

No, it was not the much-publicized Jaycees. I'm talking about the athletic boosters club of my children's suburban school. Boosters often run a school's sports program. They hire coaches, buy uniforms and hold numerous fund-raisers to pay the bills. Most of the Booster Clubs I've known have been all-male.

Women usually joined the Parent Teacher Organization (PTO), which is directed at the academic side of schools. It says something about sex stereotyping that adult women joined the PTO while adult men become Boosters.

All-male school athletic clubs ignore the fact that there are just as many female as male athletes today. Girls' basketball, volleyball and softball attract as many participants as football, boys' basketball and baseball.

FATHERS OF girl athletes argue they can represent their daughters. But Father doesn't know what it's like to be a little girl. Only Mom knows that. In my children's school, mothers have helped the Boosters for years. They've sold hot dogs and pop. They've cleaned up after parties. Sometimes, they've even been invited to attend a Booster meeting.

Tim Richard
STATE ELECTIONS Director Chris Thomas warns that you are not entitled to an absentee ballot just for the asking. You must have a legal reason — age, health or being out of town on election day.

SECRETARY OF State Richard Austin is registering voters at the time they obtain driver's licenses and forwarding the registrations to city and township clerks. Unfortunately, some addresses are box numbers and post office addresses. A single post office may serve four townships in three counties.

Which clerk gets the registration card? Often the wrong one. And while the clerks make corrections, they still have a mess to deal with.

Austin, a man who shamelessly uses his offices and mail to promote himself, is undaunted by the criticism. He likes the idea of registering voters through his department.

Nick Sharkey
The women walked over to a small card table and sat down. I resisted the impulse to sit down with a buddy and sat down with them. Quietly and without fanfare, they had broken a all-male barrier.

The meeting went smoothly. The women did come in for some good-natured teasing. At one point, the president asked if members had any questions on the budget. A hand shot up in the back of the room. "I'd like to know why the women are here," he asked. All the men laughed. The women had nervous grins.

After the meeting, beer and pop were served, and everyone began to socialize. The three women remained. They talked to several men and seemed to enjoy themselves. They volunteered to work on several committees.

rollcall report

Area legislators split on public broadcasting

Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 5 through Oct. 11.

HOUSE
Public broadcasting — By a vote of 167 for and 233 against, the House rejected an amendment to increase public broadcasting funding by 15 percent rather than 25 percent over three years.

The vote cleared the way for House approval of the 25 percent hike. The bill (S 607) was sent to the White House. It raises fiscal 1987-89 authorizations for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting to $675 million. This essentially restores a 40 percent cut inflicted by Congress in 1981 at the Reagan Administration's request.

Opponent John Dingel, D-Mich., said the higher budget would "assure high quality programming on radio and TV of the kind which is desperately necessary."

Members voting no favored a higher funding level for public broadcasting. Voting yes: Pussell, Broomfield. Voting no: Hertel, Ford, Levin. Conservation Corps — The House passed, 296 for and 75 against, a bill to establish an American Conservation Corps at a three-year cost of $50 million. The bill (HR 999) was sent to the White House.

Some 18,000 young persons of ages 16 to 25 would receive the minimum wage for maintenance work on Indian reservations and other public lands. They would work for state and federal agencies, which would be encouraged to hire poor youths.

Sponsor John Seiberling, D-Ohio, said, "There are 1.4 million teenagers who are looking for work (and) the unemployment rate for black teenagers alone is nearly 42 percent."

Opponent Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., called it wasteful to spend taxpayers' money to fill 18,000 jobs "which might well be done by others more effectively."

Members voting yes wanted to establish an American Conservation Corps jobs program for young people. Voting yes: Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, Sander Levin, D-Southfield. Not voting: Carl Pussell, R-Plymouth, William Ford, D-Taylor, William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

SENATE
Government funding — The Senate passed, 78 for and 11 against, a $370 billion appropriations measure to partially fund the federal government in fiscal 1985, which began Oct. 1.

This cleared the bill (HJ Res 648) for President Reagan's signature. The House failed to conduct a record vote when it approved the measure. Enactment of a catchall funding approach was necessary because the 98th Congress during two years of work was unable to pass the full complement of individual appropriations bills.

Senators voting yes supported the bill. Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., voted yes. Carl Levin, D-Mich., was absent.

Nuclear freeze — By a vote of 55 for and 42 against, the Senate tabled (killed) a nuclear freeze proposal urging the Administration to negotiate with the Soviet Union a mutual halt in weapons production and a mutual reduction in arsenals. The vote occurred during debate on a debt ceiling measure (HJ Res 654) that later was approved.

John Tower, R-Tex., who voted to table the amendment, said the proposal "would freeze the Soviet Union into a position of superiority in the nuclear field."

Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., asked: "Instead of overkill upon overkill, why not start now with a (mutual) freeze?"

Senators voting no favored the nuclear freeze amendment. Voting no: Levin, Riegle. Highway funding — By a vote of 75 for and 21 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to change the interstate highway funding formula to the benefit of states having the nation's heaviest snow and highest volume of truck traffic.

This amendment sought to add snowfall to the formula and substitute truck traffic for total traffic. It set off a regional conflict, because it would have penalized about 25 states, most of them in the Sunbelt.

It was proposed to a highway bill (S2054) that was shelved when the 98th Congress adjourned. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, who voted to kill the amendment, called the proposed change "totally unacceptable" to states such as his.

Arlen Specter, R-Pa., said one 40-ton truck does as much road damage as 9,600 cars, and he noted that salting to melt snow also is a destructive force. Senators voting no favored the formula change. Voting yes: Levin, Riegle.

U.S. Rep. John Dingel, D-Trenton, said the higher budget would assure high quality programming on radio and TV of the kind which is desperately necessary.

Land getting scarce; B would save it

ORDINARILY, WE frown on earmarking taxes for a particular purpose. But when the Michigan Legislature itself frankly confesses it can't keep its hands off the state land trust fund, it is an extraordinary occasion which demands our attention.

The Legislature created the land trust fund in 1976 by law during the Pigeon River Country State Forest oil drilling controversy. Since then it has raided the fund five times for other purposes.

So repentant Legislature has placed Proposal B on the Nov. 6 ballot as a constitutional amendment to earmark revenues from oil and natural gas leases on state lands. These revenues will go into a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund which will be capped at $200 million.

Interest earned on the $200 million will be used to fund proposals by state, regional, county and local officials. A list of current proposals is in today's news columns. A board will administer the fund.

The Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund would be used: 75 percent to buy land for recreation, environmental importance and scenic beauty. 25 percent to develop facilities on the land.

No good case for 'A'

PROPOSAL A is an attempt to fix something that isn't broken, and there is no strong argument for adopting it.

Placed on the ballot by the state Legislature, Proposal A would amend the constitution to give a Joint Committee on Legislative Rules year-around power to review administrative rules and regulations.

The Legislature already has that power. First, the state constitution (Art. IV, Sec. 37), empowers "a joint committee of the Legislature, acting between sessions, to

"Now that Sue's here at Harper, we all feel better."

"Sue's doctor came to Harper when he had cancer. I think that says a lot!"

Some say there are no choices when it comes to cancer, fate deals all the cards. But that's not entirely true. Patients make choices every step of the way from prevention through recovery. Regular check-ups and frequent self-examinations are choices of prevention. Selection of a personal physician and electing timely treatment after diagnosis are recovery choices. And the correct choice regarding hospitalization may be a matter of life or death.

Memorial Fund to honor Faber

School officials are expected to announce Monday the establishment of a memorial scholarship fund honoring the late Nancy Faber, a speech pathologist for 14 years with Plymouth Canton Community Schools.

Faber, a mother of two, was robbed and killed last November by a Ypsilanti woman and an accomplice as she was leaving a grocery store in Ann Arbor where she lived.

The scholarship will be awarded to speech- and language-impaired students based on financial need, degree of impairment, and recommendations from staff speech pathologists.

Faber, who was highly regarded by her colleagues, taught at several schools including Field. A committee of special education teachers from seven schools worked together on the Faber tribute.

DNR has Wayne's solid waste plan

Wayne County's Solid Waste Management Plan is awaiting approval of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources after three years of preparations and two lawsuits.

The plan was sidetracked temporarily last week when a landfill firm called Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) obtained a circuit court order requiring an additional public hearing on its site in Van Buren Township.

A required two-thirds majority of the 43 cities and townships in the county has approved the Solid Waste Plan.

SOUTHWESTERN communities adamantly opposed the BFI site, near Metropolitan Airport, threatening to veto the plan if it were included.

After hold the court-ordered hearing last week, the Solid Waste Planning Committee voted 11-1 to exclude BFI. It listened to 18 witnesses, including pilots, airport managers and city officials.

"The fix was in," said BFI's attorney, James Collier, who obtained a second restraining order within hours of the vote. But after listening to arguments, Circuit Judge James Hathaway lifted the restraining order, allowing county officials to submit the plan to the DNR.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER Milton Mack, D-Wayne, a member of the planning committee, said DNR has six months to act, but he added that "it's imperative that they approve the plan by Dec. 1 or Detroit will lose its funding for a giant resource recovery plant to be built on the east side."

Mack, whose district includes much of the southwestern portion of the county, including Canton Township, had opposed BFI's inclusion.

Once DNR has approved the plan, it will be returned to the county for implementation. The Solid Waste Plan does not deal with hazardous or poisonous waste materials, which are governed by a separate state law.

Toymakers' preview of '84 collection

By Richard Lech
staff writer

THE CABBAGE patch could be barren once again this Christmas.

But there'll be plenty of Care Bears, Rainbow Brites, GoBots, and other toys, new and old, to go around.

That's the word from Jake Hoogerwoerd, Sears national catalogue sales promotion manager. Hoogerwoerd was in Livonia recently to give the lowdown on kids' stuff — including the gloomy news that the catalogue department already is out of Cabbage Patch dolls.

"We bought almost eight times as much as last year's sales," he said. "The catalogue came out Sept. 10, and three days later we were sold out."

"We just aren't accepting orders for them anymore. We don't want to disappoint anyone. We recommend that people who do want them shop for them as early as possible."

Other stores report similar problems in keeping the so-ugly-they're-cuddly-dolls in stock.

FOR ANY toy to be in such big demand two years running is very unusual, Hoogerwoerd said. But, then again, the Cabbage Patch youngsters, which retail for $26.99 when they're available, are very unusual to begin with.

"All the Cabbage Patch Kids are different," he said. "Each one has a birth certificate, so it has a lot of uniqueness to it. It's not a doll that you buy off the shelf with every doll looking the same."

New this year are some chips off the old bulbous heads, Cabbage Patch babies called Preemies ($26.99), 14 inches tall, 2 inches shorter than their "older" cousins. Also new from Coleco are Koosas ($24.99), Cabbage Patch stuffed animals.

Before the Cabbage Patch dolls were released, toy experts predicted they'd be big — but they had no idea they would be that big. Hoogerwoerd said. This year, toy prognosticators are expecting Rainbow Brite, by Hallmark Cards, to be a heavyweight in the hug-'em-and-squeeze-'em sweepstakes.

The gimmick here is color — enough different colors on each doll to make Jesse Jackson green with envy. Rainbow Brite herself, a flashily dressed little girl doll, comes in an 18-inch size ($19.99) as well as the 9-inch economy size ($9.99). Her wood sprite friends White Twink, Blue Champ, Green Lucky, Red Romero and Yellow Spark retail for $9.99 apiece, not to mention the color bug-gy ($10.99) and Color Cottage ($17.99).

ANOTHER NEW toy, the GoBot, is not what it seems. A GoBot starts out looking like a sportscar but transforms into menacing robot, and back again. GoBots, produced by Tonka, range in price from Terrifying Psycho, Enemy Robot Show Car ($9.99) to the GoBot Command Center ($21.99). They're for ages 5 and up.

Last year's favorites, such as Care Bears, Masters of the Universe, G.I. Joe, trivia games and others will be big again this year, Hoogerwoerd said. But he doesn't expect the Care Bears to be anywhere near as scarce as they were at times last Christmas.

Care Bears, a Kenner product, come in colors no real bear would consider wearing — pink, green and yellow — and sell for $14.99. And each one has a much better disposition than the grumpy bruins that invade your campsite. They're recommended for ages 4 and up.

While one fad toy of the past is fading fast, some old favorites are making a comeback. "The video-game craze is kind of diminished, because no new games have been issued," Hoogerwoerd said. "But old toys that are coming back are items such as telescopes, microscopes, sewing machines for the girls, and small furniture they can play with with their dolls."

Another old standby, Mattel's Barbie, is taking a ride on the wild side. Where once America's favorite fashion doll would decline a ride in boyfriend Ken's sports car because it might mess her hair, she now can do wheelies on her own remote-controlled motorcycle ($9.99). But Babs hasn't gone completely punk. The cycle is colored shocking pink. This Mattel product is for ages 5 and up.

GROWNUPS aren't shut out of the toy market, either. Toys for big kids include 20 different kinds of trivia games and The Singing Machine for would-be Barbra Streisands or Frank Sinatras.

This device, already selling well in Japan, allows kitchen crooners to sing along to a music cartridge into a professional microphone, with the whole performance being picked up on cassette tape. The machine, which sells for $250, also has an echo chamber to Elvis-Prezley-ize even the thinnest vocal talent.

More than 700 cartridges are available, with four songs to a tape, including standards such as "The Way We Were," "New York, New York," and "Oh, What A Feeling." The tapes retail for $6.99 each.

Trivial Pursuit no longer has the trivia market all to itself. There are trivia games from People Magazine, Time Magazine and TV Guide, Ripley's Believe It or Not, Isaac Asimov, Bible trivia, music trivia, rock trivia, entertainment trivia, M*A*S*H trivia, baseball trivia.

Trivial Pursuit itself has expanded to include specialized games Baby Boomer, Silver Screen and All-Star Sports, the last three selling for $24.99, $2 cheaper than the original version.

For toy lovers with champagne tastes, the catalogue also offers its "When you think you've seen it all" items. These include the "thousand-dollar" train, a Wild West era train set with 14-inch long cars, the whole set going for $1,000; an old-fashioned popcorn wagon ($1,500); an executive rocking horse, 5½ feet of handcrafted pine ($1,000); and an authentic replica of a Victorian-era brass bed from the 1897 catalogue ($1,100).

Betty Niemer of Sears' Detroit office shows some of the toys projected to be big favorites this Christmas. These include Trivial Pursuit, GoBots, Care Bears, Rainbow Brite dolls and Maxx Steele robots. And just when you think you have seen everything — there's a "thousand-dollar train."

SEARS IS shipping 14½ million of the catalogues, which feature items ranging in price from 69 cents for a Christmas tree replacement lightbulb to $2,499 for a Blackglama mink coat.

Customers can order as late as Tuesday, Dec. 18, and still get their orders in time for Christmas, Hoogerwoerd said. But it's better to order well before that to avoid any unexpected shortages, he said.

"We do urge customers to shop early so they are not disappointed. Order before Oct. 31," he said. "Last year, there were some shortages on the Care Bears, which we do not expect this year. Two years ago, it was the Star Wars figures."

Local toy retailers pretty much echoed Hoogerwoerd's comments, but added a few toys to the list of hot items for 1984.

A spokeswoman for the Toys R Us store in Livonia said in addition to Cabbage Patch pets, Rainbow Brite and Transformers, another hot new item will be My Pretty Pony, which comes in pastel colors, such as a blue pony with purple hair.

Ken Coniff, director of advertising for Kay-Bee Toy and Hobby Shop, which has 516 retail outlets in the United States, said Trivial Pursuit continues to sell well.

"Trivial Pursuit is a phenomenon itself, especially with all its spin-offs... Sports Edition, Baby Boomer, Silver Screen," Coniff said. "The fantasy area is doing well. For instance, Mattel's Masters of the Universe and accessory items."

Barbie and Transformers also are selling very well, Coniff said.

"Some of the toys I've already mentioned indicate a trend back to basics, like the dolls and board games," he said.

"This is a strong year with more sales. All indications look like it's going to be a strong retail year for toys."

Babes in Toyland know their stuff

By Richard Lech and Marie McGee
staff writers

IT WAS THE acid test. After the word came down from the Adult World on what was big in Toyland, we decided to go right to the grass roots consumers — the kids — and see if they agreed with the projections.

A panel of small fry "experts" was selected at random from various schools in the areas. They were asked to go through the toy section of Sears' "Wish Book" and pick out five toys they would most like to receive.

The results were not too surprising. For the most part, the kids echoed what Santaland's earthly representatives said.

THE GIRLS, RANGING from preschoolers to sixth grade, agreed that Cabbage Patch dolls are still the big favorites and they were delighted to find out that now the Cabbage Patchers have new family members plus a bundle of accessories.

The male contingency were in agreement that GoBots were the runaway favorites.

Some interesting selections surfaced that could be attributable to a particular emphasis of the child's family background.

That was the case of eight-year-old Andy Raisanen of Westland, who picked a Quizatron over a GoBot "because it was real good for learning."

Andy proudly pointed out that he was one of the smartest kids in his third grade class at Patchin Elementary School in Westland.

Sometimes the popular toy was rejected because of a particular experience the panelist had in the past with that type of toy. Many of those were "fake plastic" that didn't hold up under the wear and tear by its young owners or just "looked dumb."

Most of the panelists said they were not unduly influenced by TV commercials but agreed that they often first heard of the toy through TV ads. Several said they make up their own mind either after seeing it or playing with it at a friend's house.

HERE'S HOW OUR panel of judges made their selections — and some comments about their choices.

Erin Trainor, 8, third grader from Livonia, picked Barbie Dream Cottage, Precious Loving Wonder, Cabbage Patch Kid, Cabbage Patch Musical Swing, Cabbage Patch Pet, Bald-Headed Cabbage Patch Kid (baby).

Her neighborhood chum Kelly Holt, 9, fourth grader from Livonia, picked Cabbage Patch Zipper Summer Bag, Bald-Headed Cabbage Patch Kids, Cabbage Patch Musical Swing, and Precious Loving Wonder.

Kelly and Erin explained that Precious Loving Wonder is a doll that moves its arms and legs like a real baby, and can be fed a bottle and it wets its pants.

"It's cute and fun to play with," Erin said.

"It feels like a real baby, looks like a real baby," Kelly said.

ERIN SAID THE first time she ever saw it was in the catalogue, Kelly saw it on TV.

They both have at least one Cabbage Patch Kid.

"They're lovable, squeezable, fun to play with," Erin said.

"They feel like real babies. Come with shoes and socks. They've got a belly button. There's a signature on the bottom."

Kids talk about Christmas toys

When the Cabbage Patch Swing moves, it makes music.

"It keeps them off your back," Erin said.

New items, Cabbage Patch pets, the Koozas, are cute, they both agreed. The animals come with their own leash, little cage and name tag.

Both admitted they were tempted to list Rainbow Brites dolls. They were asked if they thought Rainbow Brites would ever overshoot Cabbage Patch kids.

"Noooooo!!!!" was their joint response.

"Nothing is good as a Cabbage Patch — well, maybe big babies that are real," Kelly said.

Then they gave an expert analysis of why Cabbage Patch is superior to Rainbow Brites.

"Rainbow Brites has got a hard head," Kelly said.

"CABBAGE PATCH Kids have brains," Erin said.

"You can't take off their (Rainbow Brites) shoes," Erin said.

"You can't take her hair out of a pony tail," Kelly said of R. Britie.

They both like to improvise by adding yarn to their Cabbage Patch Kids' hair to make it longer, since the doll's hair is made of yarn. But Rainbow Brites have string-type hair, and that takes away this creative option, the two youngsters said.

What didn't they like?

"All the boy stuff. G.I. Joe and everything," Erin said.

Kelly disliked play dishes, stuffed animals that get rips in them too easily, fake jewelry and makeup.

They both said that collecting dolls is a good hobby because it's something that grownups do too.

When Kelly washes her Cabbage Patch, she likes to put it in a bathtub with a rubber duckie and bubble bath.

How's that for reality, mom?

DAMIAN TAUCHER, 10, a fifth grader from Westland, picked radio-controlled Corvette, Stomper Bigfoot, big race car track, Trans Am GoBot and Star Wars figures.

His friend Derek Pych, 11, also a fifth grader from Westland, picked Zed GoBot, Masters of the Universe Snake Mountain, Robotix, Jabba the Hutt and Stomper Water Diver.

According to them, Stompers are big-wheeled toy vehicles that run on batteries.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Boyde Jr. of Canton Township announce the birth of their son, Wesley James, on Aug. 19 in Providence Hospital, Southfield. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Boyde Sr. of Dothan, Ala., and Helen Krawchuk of Grosse Pointe Woods.

David and Carrie Porter of Plymouth Township have announced the birth of their daughter, Allison Hanes, Oct. 19 in St. Joseph's Hospital, Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. Porter also have a son, Robert David, two years old.

JESSICA LAPRADD, 9, also of Livonia, admitted she's influenced by TV, but her choices didn't fall exactly in the range of what was "in."

She chose a Santaland make-your-own suncatcher kit, a back pack, a digital watch and a bike plus a Cabbage Patch travel bag because she needs "something to put her baby clothes in."

Preschoolers Andrea Chimier, 4, and Jimmy Vergona, 4, who attend Good Hope Nursery School in Garden City, didn't waste any time picking out what they wanted.

Jimmy's dad is a firefighter, and he learned toward toys of that nature, including a wooden fire truck and a play oxygen mask. But he also chose a Masters of the Universe play set and a Knight Rider dashboard.

She also picked a Star Traveler Motor Home accessory for her Barbi doll and then picked a Unicorn sleeping bag to round out her choices for overnights at Traci's house, no doubt.

RAINBOW BRITES didn't make much of an impression on the two. "Cute" said Traci. "Ugly" said Katie. Cabbage Patch dolls are popular, they said, because "they're not as hard and feel more like real."

"And, oh yes, throw in an old-fashioned Viewmaster updated with a "Thriller" reel of Michael Jackson," said the dimply member of the bubbly-gest.

A coffeemaker caught Traci's eye.

They both said that collecting dolls is a good hobby because it's something that grownups do too.

Brisbois-Hough

Elizabeth L. Brisbois and David W. Hough, former Plymouth residents, exchanged marriage vows Oct. 5 in the First United Presbyterian Church, Plymouth. The Rev. Philip Magee officiated. The bride is the daughter of Harold Brisbois and the late Joanne Brisbois of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and the bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Wendell Hough of Plymouth. Both are graduates of Plymouth Salem High School. The bridegroom graduated from the Culinary Institute of America and is employed by Monte Carlo Country Club, Fort Pierce, Fla. The bride is employed by the Howard Johnson Corp. They will reside in Fort Pierce. Attendants were Barbara Wurtmuth of Westland, Meg Stocker of Plymouth, Nancy and Brad Hoffman of Tempe, Ariz., Cora Arnold of Garden City, Robert Hough of Sarasota, Fla., and James Hough of Sarasota, Fla. Grandparents attending were Louise Bristol of Murfreesboro, Margaret Walsh of Largo, Fla., and Jeanette Hough of Ft. Myers, Fla. A reception at the home of the bridegroom's parents followed the ceremony.

They both said that collecting dolls is a good hobby because it's something that grownups do too.

When Kelly washes her Cabbage Patch, she likes to put it in a bathtub with a rubber duckie and bubble bath.

DAMIAN TAUCHER, 10, a fifth grader from Westland, picked radio-controlled Corvette, Stomper Bigfoot, big race car track, Trans Am GoBot and Star Wars figures.

His friend Derek Pych, 11, also a fifth grader from Westland, picked Zed GoBot, Masters of the Universe Snake Mountain, Robotix, Jabba the Hutt and Stomper Water Diver.

According to them, Stompers are big-wheeled toy vehicles that run on batteries.

REGISTER OR FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, call 261-6410... Double, a former English teacher in the Livonia public schools, fairly bubbly with enthusiasm for the group which she joined after she was pink slipped and had to make a career change... "In my eight years as a recruiter, I have seen twice as many women enter the sales field and earn twice as much money as they did five years ago," Gilmore, Double and Bays all add a resounding amen to that.

Conference makes pitch to promote women in sales

A HIGH POINT for the fledgling organization will come Saturday, Oct. 20, when the membership hosts an all-day sales conference at Mercy College featuring 34 workshops on various topics plus an address by Lt. Governor Martha Griffiths and keynote speeches by sales entrepreneurs Beverly Kievmann and Carol Hyatt... "There's a lot of money to be made out there in sales," the three women note. "Women make excellent sales people. We have definite advantages. We communicate with others easier. We come across as being more honest." "We DON'T HAVE that male huckster image," they continued. "We are more perceptive in picking up any vibes that could help or hinder a sale." None of the three has encountered any great amount of harassment from male clients. Professionalism is the key, they added. "If you have product knowledge, you don't have a problem." And the higher the corporate status of the person you're dealing with, the easier it is to receive fair treatment. "You encounter more prejudice in a mom-and-pop operation than you do at the corporate level," said Dauble. Women are returning in droves to the work force, Gilmore noted, but most are in lower paying jobs like fast food operations or getting stuck in "pink collar" secretarial jobs. Sales careers, she feels, offer stronger economic power at a faster pace. The outlook for women in sales is excellent, according to PWS vice president Mary Walsh, a recruiter for major Detroit area companies seeking professional salespeople. "I've seen twice as many women enter the sales field and earn twice as much money as they did five years ago," Gilmore, Double and Bays all add a resounding amen to that.

Assistant Pastor Paul Patton stands in front of the historic Briggs house that serves as Trinity's parsonage. It will be the scene of an old-fashioned chicken dinner and tour as part of special "homecoming" services marking the church's 60th anniversary.

Trinity observes 60th anniversary

Trinity Baptist Church, with locations in Livonia and Detroit, will mark the 60th anniversary of its founding with special services at both churches.

The opening service in the observance will be Sunday at the Detroit Church, 8738 Fenkel Ave., Detroit, with the closing service at the Livonia location, 14800 Middlebelt.

Dr. Lyle M. Adams, pastor emeritus, who pastored the Trinity congregation for nearly 25 years, will speak at each location's morning worship service on Sunday.

A highlight of the observance will be a "homecoming event" Friday, Oct. 26 with the presentation by the church's drama ministry, Trinity House Players, of "A Meeting in Kansas," written and directed by assistant pastor Paul Patton.

Women in the Livonia church made this quilted banner in honor of Trinity's 60th anniversary. Quilters included Zoe Moore (left of Redford, Ruth Attef of Livonia, Jenni McCormick of Redford, Jill Ball of Livonia and Delma Schwalm, also of Livonia.

THE CHURCH HAS had only six pastors in its 60 years.

To meet the needs of young families who were settling in the Redford-Livonia area, the congregation in 1928 purchased a site on Middlebelt, south of Five Mile, Livonia and in October of that year, services were started in nearby Adams Elementary School.

Several years ago, additional acreage was purchased near Haggerty Road on Six Mile, adjacent to Schoolcraft College. The site was eventually developed into a 99-bed residential home for the aged.

It was the second such development in Trinity's history. The first came in 1972 when the congregation completed Trinity Park, a 40-unit non-profit senior citizen center providing housing at a reasonable cost for retired persons. The development is adjacent to the Livonia chapel on Middlebelt Road.

History came into play in 1973 when the congregation voted to save the historic Luther Briggs house from the pathway of I-75 and moved it to the Six Mile property. The house was restored and serves as the parsonage.

AT ADJACENT Trinity House - sometimes referred to as Union Church extension services were conducted until March 1983 when the small group of dedicated parishioners decided to join the Middlebelt church. The building is now used for the drama ministry.

As part of the 60th anniversary and homecoming celebration, a 12-square quilted wall hanging based on the theme selected for the anniversary, Psalm 90:1 "Lord, you have been our dwelling place throughout all generations." It will be on display in the Livonia church.

Norman Mathias is Trinity senior pastor. Patton is assistant pastor in Livonia and Rev. Hollis Evans is pastor in Detroit.

False prophets vs. true prophets

One of the greatest achievements of American democracy is our tradition of religious liberty.

It is founded on the principle of the separation of church and state. This constitutional safeguard guarantees that the government, which represents all the people, has no business generating pressure of any religious belief on any individual citizen.

It guarantees that persons can conduct their religious practices and express their religious beliefs free from the pressure of government.

This principle is now under challenge. Organized religious groups have entered the political arena passing resolutions or proposing actions that embody their request for governmental support of their religious viewpoint.

THESE GROUPS have demanded: some form of prayer in the public schools (non-denominational prayer, silent prayer, The Lord's Prayer, Bible reading); subsidies of one kind or another for religious education; the display of traditional symbols of religion; the requirement that public officials and/or appointees to the Supreme Court pass "qualifying tests" with regard to their views on abortion and other matters.

moral perspectives
Rabbi Irwin Groner

Much of the support for this passionate involvement by religious institutions into the political process stems from the belief that an increased presence of religion in governmental activities could help restore traditional morality.

This assumes, first of all, that all religions share a common view of morality, which, of course, they do not. On the issue of abortion, significant differences can be found in the doctrines of diverse religions.

More important, the connection between the presence of religion in government and the preservation of moral values is more apparent than real.

"Did that program effectively teach morality to the German people? If it did, it would be difficult to explain the rise of Hitler and the total moral collapse and even depravity of the German people, which resulted in the torture and death of millions of Jews and Christians."

THE BIBLE DESCRIBES the "false prophets" who were on the payroll of the king, and who prophesied what the king wished to hear. The use of religion to further the interests of a political party or even the agenda of the government as a whole will deprive society of the benefits of religion's independent and often critical voice, and will result in the distortion of the message of religious institutions to make it conform to the interest of its patron, the state.

Religion, like the true prophets of ancient Israel, must be independent of officialdom and not subservient to the state financially or otherwise.

Surely, religion need not be an enemy of government, but it must be independent of it, so that it can criticize government when it believes God demands such criticism. It is in the highest interest of religion to protect the integrity of its vision and the independence of its institutional life.

The method of religion is not coercion through political power, but rather the method of moral authority whose strength is in persuasion, witness, and positive example.

Proud Nederlander fears erosion at U-M

By Tim Richard
Staff writer

You could see what Robert E. Nederlander was up against when he spoke to the University of Michigan Club of Detroit.

The all-male luncheon audience, meeting in the sanctuary of the University Club on E. Jefferson, allotted the U-M regent five minutes and asked no questions.

Next speaker was the Wolverines' baseball coach, who was accorded 45 minutes for a speech and questions. The table conversation was largely about Bo Schembechler's sagging football fortune.

"I don't make many speeches," said Nederlander, 51, a Birmingham lawyer and president of a nationwide theater company who is seeking his third eight-year term on the Board of Regents.

"Mostly I talk to newspaper editors and television stations outside," he added. "I don't talk to coffeees."

EIGHT EDUCATION posts are on the Michigan ballot Nov. 6 — the state Board of Education and the governing boards of the "big three" universities.

By and large, the education positions are won by the prevailing party in that year's election — but not always. Democrat Nederlander won his first eight-year term in 1968 when Nixon was elected president, his second term in 1976 when Carter won. This year he is on the ballot again.

Nederlander's talk to the University Club was hardly a candidate's campaign speech, although the club chairman gave a non-partisan pep talk on his behalf. Instead, Nederlander talked about his work on the presidential search committee a few years back and the $160-million capital campaign he's heading up. He talks proudly about the alma mater where he earned degrees in economics and law and was captain of the Big Ten championship tennis team.

"I WAS HEAD of the selection committee. We visited the presidents of Harvard, Princeton and Yale — not to interview them for the job but to find out what the job needed."

"They said it was the best job of all in the United States. There is a small board — just eight — to work with compared to 26 in California. They pointed out we get $200 million from the state along with private contributions."

"They said, 'Don't experiment.' So we came back to our academic vice president, Harold Shapiro, for president. He was the best of all."

"THERE AREN'T a lot of great people out there. There are two great public universities — Michigan and (University of California at Berkeley).

"As far as the world is concerned, Michigan is in the top five in the country. We don't realize the kind of institution we have," he said, building up the audience's pride.

If they had heard tales of declining numbers of college students, Nederlander said to forget them. "Applications are up 15 percent among in-state students and 35 percent for out-of-state students. To get into the University of Michigan today, you've got to be in the top 7 percent of your (high school) class."

"We couldn't get a chairman for the capital campaign," said Nederlander, confessing the job had fallen to him.

President Gerald Ford and General Motors Chairman Roger Smith have been "great" and "terrific," and they've raised $65 million toward the $160 million, four-year goal.

"There isn't any way you've paid for your education," he said referring to the tuition they had paid. "You oughta pay it back now."

AND THAT WAS THE END of his speech.

WHEN DEMOCRATS nominated their 1984 ticket in August, Nederlander got none of the air time and ink accorded to his running mate of '68 and '84 — Gerald Dunn.

A lobbyist for school districts, Dunn had taken pro-management positions on some items of legislation for his clients, earning the wrath of the United Auto Workers leaders. Dunn was dumped in favor of Marjorie Lansing, 68, and an Eastern Michigan University professor. Nederlander was renominated easily.

Among some Democrats, including Dunn, a popular issue is "divestment" — selling stocks of all companies doing business in racially segregated South Africa. Nederlander is cool to the idea, explaining,

"The board voted a couple of times not to divest. The legislature passed a law that education institutions must divest. The dilemma is our (U-M's) constitutional autonomy versus dealing with the Legislature.

"We decided to sell a certain portion of our stock and keep the stock in corporations that did business in Michigan. We brought suit (against the state law) in Ingham Circuit Court. The suit is pending.

"It's a difficult question. There's no right answer. People argue both sides of it — very persuasively."

IN AN INTERVIEW after his University Club speech, Nederlander admitted some serious worries about U-M's future.

Tuition is now bringing in 45 percent of the operating budget ($345 million). It used to be 30-percent eight or nine years ago. The state is supplying less and less (percentage-wise).

"The state of Michigan has to ask itself if they want to maintain a quality institution in Ann Arbor. We are out of reserves. We've not been able to replace equipment. We've got to make renovations."

U-M has the highest tuition of any public university in the U.S., and Michigan State and Wayne State rank second and fourth nationally. U-M raised tuition 7 percent last year.

Festival to help abused children

The city of Livonia is sponsoring its first Fall Fest on beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Livonia Civic Center, Five Mile and Farmington roads.

The family activity is also a fund-raiser for the Rosalyn Bryant Fund, which provides direct aid to abused and neglected children. The fund was established last year by Livonia residents Michael and Kay Eisbrenner in memory of a Detroit child who was tortured to death.

Funds raised this Saturday will be used to establish a crisis center for abused children at St. Mary's in Livonia, the first such facility in the state of Michigan.

Highlights of the day are:

- 9 a.m. Registration for Livonia youngsters who wish to have their name attached to balloons used in the opening ceremony. (Senior Citizen Center parking lot)
- 10 a.m. Opening ceremony — Release of 1,000 helium balloons. (Senior Citizen Center parking lot)
- 10 a.m. Bake sale in City Hall.
- 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Art show — City Hall 5th floor.

- 10:30 a.m. Magic show (City Hall Auditorium) $1 donation.
- 10:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. On-going entertainment (Civic Center Park)
- 11 a.m. Fingerprinting of children for parents' record only (Senior Citizen Center)
- 11:30 a.m. Putting Green — Hole-in-One Contest — $1 for 5 balls
- Noon to 2 p.m. and 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. "Taste of Livonia." (Senior Citizen Center)

THE AGONY — Columnist W.W. Edgar finds that the pain of raking leaves is modest when compared with the joy provided by the autumn colors.

Leaves: what pain, but what joy

FOR YEARS when The Stroller was a young lad going to school in the Pennsylvania Dutch Country, he was told all about the beauty of Michigan — especially the Upper Peninsula — and the wonderful color scenes that could be viewed each fall.

The teacher kept reminding us that if we ever got the chance, never to miss a trip up there. She said it was a scene that never could be forgotten.

She emphasized it, saying that in the fall of the year it is almost a miracle when the trees in the woods change and the leaves become the envy of professional painters.

Little did The Stroller think in those days that he ever would see Michigan, let alone the so-called fabulous Upper Peninsula.

BUT LIFE sometimes can be puzzling, and the day came when he boarded the train for Michigan to continue his stroll along the river of printer's ink.

As he stepped on the train that unforgettable night, one of the family's best friends reminded him, "Don't forget to go to the Upper Peninsula if you get the chance. They say there is nothing like it."

It was good advice. But 16 years before the chance came to make the trip to the copper country in the fall. And it was a trip well worthwhile. The color was grand.

Then one day, after he had been a resident for years, came the chance to purchase a piece of property in the Detroit suburbs.

"You'll like it," was the advice he was given, and the real estate broker added, "It is the wooded section of an old abandoned farm. It could be a most unusual place."

WITH THOSE words ringing in his ears, a deal was made, and it wasn't very long until a home was being built in the heart of the woods.

This was like a miracle for The Stroller never expected to own his own home. Sure, it was a dream

THE ECSTASY — There's nothing quite like a pile of leaves to enthrall a couple of youngsters. These fellows enjoy their at times, but he had little hope of seeing it come alive.

Well, the home was built. The ground was prepared, and before he knew it the little white house with the green shutters was standing there in the middle of the trees.

It was a sight to behold — that is, until the first fall came along. Then his eyes were opened with one of the grandest scenes he could expect.

HE PEERED out the window and gasped. The leaves were changing, and there were all sorts of colors. It mattered little at the time that these same leaves would become a problem after they fell from the trees. It mattered little that morning, for the sight was well worth all the work that would be required before the snow fell.

It so happened that a road had been built in the woods to give us an avenue into our home and garage. When the snow came, it was quite a job. It took days to rake the leaves.

But each day as he finished. The Stroller looked about, and again the view of the trees and the changing colors came to mind. Then he recalled the old saying that there is nothing free in this world, that you must pay for all you get.

Well, the scene was worth the effort, and when Mother Nature puts on her fall miracle, it is worth the price one has to pay — even if it is raking leaves until darkness comes.

Graper thanked for assistance

We are the owners of the Plymouth Veterinary Hospital who were displaced from our building on Harvey Street to make way for the construction of the Arbor Health Center.

While relocating our practice after 13 1/2 years in one spot was not a task we relished, we would like to thank City Manager Henry Graper for the imaginative and equitable settlement he oversaw between ourselves and the city.

Without his personal intervention we certainly would not have been able to stay in downtown Plymouth and to accomplish the move to our new facility with a minimum of disruption to our patients and clients.

• GREAT BOOKS

The Adult Great Books discussion group of western Wayne County will meet 8-10 p.m. the first and third Thursday of each month in the Carl Sandburg Branch Library, 30100 Seven Mile (next to Livonia Mall), Livonia. For information and a reading list, call Zo Chisnell at 349-3121.

• WRITERS UNLIMITED

Writers Unlimited, a creative writers' club, meets on the first and third Tuesday of each month at the Canton Public Library. Members read and critique manuscripts; the focus is on getting published. New members are welcome to attend the next meeting or call 420-0604 for more details.

• EMPLOYMENT DYNAMICS

The Growth Works Employment Dynamics Program is enrolling participants through June 1985. Purpose of the program is to help young people find permanent employment. The federally funded program for ages 16-21 offers job search skill training, work experience and job placement assistance. Persons may enroll at Growth Works at 271 S. Main, south of Penniman Avenue in Plymouth.

• PLUS PRESCHOOL REGISTRATION

Registration is being taken for parents and children for the PLUS program for fall 1984-85. Children must be age 4 on or before Dec. 1 and live in the attendance areas of Field, Eriksson, Gallimore and Starkweather. The program, which is in its 10th year, offers classes for parents and children in Plymouth-Canton Community School District at Central Middle School from September to June. Registration blanks are available at the schools or applicants may call PLUS at 451-6656. Class day will be determined following an orientation and testing session.

• SPECIAL EDUCATION SERVICES

Preprimary special-education services for children 6 and younger are available through Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. If you have a child who may be mentally or emotionally impaired, have a physical or visual disability, or a hearing or speech impairment or learning disability, call the Infant and Preschool Special Education Program at Farrand Elementary School, 420-0363, for information.

• BRAILLE CLASSES

Tri-County Braille Volunteers are again offering classes in Braille transcription leading to Library of Congress certification. Anyone interested in learning this skill may call 420-0626 or 420-0994 for further information.

• NEW HORIZONS

New Horizons, a sharing exchange for mothers, will meet the second and fourth Fridays of each month 9:30-11:30 a.m. at Faith Moravian Community Church, 46001 Warren west of Canton Center Road. For information, call Mary at 455-8221.

On Friday, Oct. 26, Virginia Wilhelm from Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College will be discussing "Career Decision Making" for women who want to resume employment. She also will discuss classes available at Schoolcraft.

Crum named Eagle Scout

Brian R. Crum, 16, of Canton has earned the highest advancement award — the Eagle rank — offered to scouts by the Boy Scouts of America.

Brian, son of Barbara and Russell Crum of Canton, is a member of Troop 743 which is sponsored by Plymouth Elks Lodge 1780.

Scoutmaster Ken Kramer says Brian is one of about 2 percent of all Boy Scouts who attain Eagle rank.

Each candidate must earn 21 merit badges and complete a service project. Brian organized and conducted a clothing drive to benefit the Plymouth-Canton Clothing Bank which resulted in 1,640 pounds of clothing being donated for needy families of the community.

His leadership roles since joining the troop in 1979 include: assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, librarian, assistant senior patrol leader, senior patrol leader and currently junior assistant scoutmaster and instructor.

He also is active in the Order of the Arrow, an honorary scouting camping and service society.

A special Eagle induction ceremony was held Sunday, Oct. 14, at Faith Community Church in Canton where Brian is a member and usher. He is an honor student at Plymouth Canton High School.

Observer co-sponsors candidates rally Sunday

Voters throughout western Wayne County are invited to an old-fashioned political rally featuring candidates for local, state and national office from 1-4 p.m. Sunday in Eaton Place at Wonderland Shopping Center.

The rally is sponsored by the Michigan Women's Political Caucus Southeast Michigan Chapter, Observer Newspapers and Wonderland Center.

Candidates will have an opportunity to introduce themselves to the crowd. Campaign literature will be available, and voters will have an opportunity to meet the candidates. A pep band from Catholic Central High School in Redford Township will be on hand.

Candidates who plan to attend and their approximate speechmaking times are:

• Lyn Bankes and Michael McGee, candidates for the state house from the 35th district which includes most of Livonia, 1 p.m.

• Justine Barnes, candidate for state House from the 38th District, which includes Westland, 1:15 p.m., and Edward Zaleski, 38th District candidate, 2:30 p.m.

• John Bennett and Chris Huff, candidates for the state House from the 34th District, 2-3 p.m. The district includes Redford Township and the eastern section of Livonia.

• Laura Toy and Mary Dumas, candidates for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners from the 10th District, 2-3 p.m. The 10th District includes the Livonia, Northville and Plymouth.

• William D. Ford, candidate for U.S. House of Representatives from the 15th District which includes Garden City, Westland and a portion of Livonia, 2-3 p.m.

• Mike McCauley and James H. Hudler, candidates for U.S. House of Representatives from the 2nd District which includes Livonia and Plymouth, 2-3 p.m.

• Barbara Levin will speak for Carl Levin, candidate for U.S. Senate, 2-3 p.m.

• Gary Bonus and Robert Ficano, candidates for Wayne County Sheriff, 1-2 p.m.

• John MacDonald, candidate for 35th District (includes Plymouth and Northville) Court Judge, 2-3 p.m.

• David Kerwin and Judge Richard Hathaway, candidates for Wayne County Circuit Court, 2-3 p.m. and Judge John H. Gillis Jr., a candidate for Wayne County Circuit Court, 3 p.m.

What girls need is time, not rush

NOW LET'S be fair about this. This is not to be misconstrued as a condemnation of high school girls' sports.

Since Title IX was enacted, those favoring female sports have waged a long and bitter battle against a stodgy, male-oriented state athletic association mired in an ancient belief that girls belong in Home Ec class, not on a basketball court.

I don't believe that. I believe every girl deserves her share of time on court. Sport is not sexual.

But I'll tell you what I do believe. I think sometimes we go too fast. We overreact. We try to correct a wrong as old as mankind with one quick decision, a wrong that has existed since the first Neanderthal went hunting with the boys, leaving the wife alone in the cave.

And I don't think that's the way to do things.

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY is my example. I pick it because it is one sport in which females could, in the not-too-distant future, catch and perhaps surpass males. Articles written at the time of the Los Angeles Olympics pointed out that Joan Benoit's marathon times indicated faster improvement by women distance runners than men.

Women are said to possess a greater tolerance for the pain of distance running. This has been scientifically mapped out. There's only one problem: interest.

Or lack thereof. The marathon runners of tomorrow should be training on the high school cross-country teams of today.

But they aren't. In fact, in some areas they're staying away in droves.

EXAMPLE: The Metro Suburban Activities Association (MSAA). The eight-team circuit will hold its league meet Saturday, and there will be a full contingent of boys teams.

But there could be as few as four girls squads. "West Bloomfield will probably have a team," predicted Southfield-Lathrup cross country coach Gerry Mineweaser. "And we'll have one, but our level of competitiveness won't be too much. We have six girls and, frankly, a couple are below the fitness level."

By that, Mineweaser means they have trouble breaking 28 minutes for 3.1 miles — about a nine-minute-a-mile pace.

At the Oakland County meet, 37 schools entered in the girls race and 37 schools entered in the boys race. In the standings, 36 boys teams finished, but only 26 schools had enough girls finish to qualify in the team placing.

Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Rochester and Birmingham Groves have all enjoyed dual meet success in the MSAA this season. Yet, of Groves' five wins, at least three were by default. Royal Oak Dondero, Rochester Adams and Troy Athens never had enough girls for a team.

IN THE NORTHWEST Suburban League (NSL), girls cross country finally made it as a league sport. It made it because this year, for the first time, four schools have teams.

Part of the problem is choice. In the fall, girls can compete in basketball, tennis and swimming, as well as cross country.

"We have an exceptional cross country team — playing basketball," said Farmington coach Gerry Young. "They're great track performers and they'd be great in cross country, but they think basketball is more fun."

Steve Dollaway, who rejuvenated Livonia Franklin's girls' cross country program, agreed. "The glamour sports are basketball and soccer," he said.

But another problem is coaching. Boys still run faster than girls, and if a school has just one coach for both teams, he goes with the frontrunners. The girls often get neglected.

"One coach for both boys and girls keeps girls away," Dollaway, who coaches just Franklin's girls, said. "They don't get the attention they need in workouts."

BUT THERE is another more disturbing problem. As Young put it: "There's not as much interest as there are programs."

Which means that, yes, we are developing the athletes. Several girls sports have made tremendous strides, like basketball and soccer.

But are there enough good, or even decent, female athletes to populate all the sports?

Not yet. Depth is a problem for nearly every girls team. Any girl wishing to compete at the varsity level has a solid chance of at least making the team, even though she may possess a minimum of skill.

There's no easy answer to this, which is exactly my point. A dozen years ago, girls gave up sports before they reached high school. Now they're being pushed into them. Somewhere in there must be a terrible dilemma.

I figure it will take another generation — about 10 years — before the transformation is complete. It'll take that long for girls to receive the same encouragement and athletic training at the same early age boys do and carry that on to the high school level.

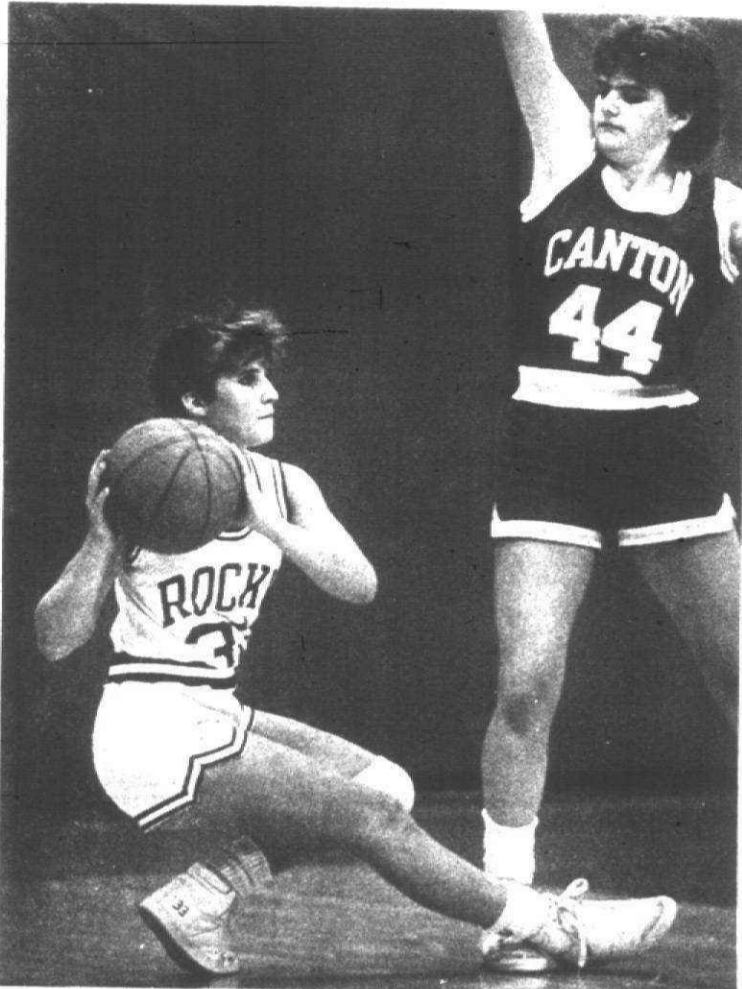

They shouldn't be burdened with league championships in sports in which either interest or skill is lacking just because boys have them. They'll end up making comparisons, which could leave deep-rooted feelings of inferiority.

And that could lead to another tragedy.

Canton rally dies in OT

Frigge leads Chiefs' back, Rojeski, Head save Rocks

By Scott Adler

photos by BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Fran Whittaker takes a seat Tuesday night — with a bit of encouragement from Canton's Laura Darby. The Rocks beat rival Canton in OT.

Sluggish Chiefs survive scares

Plymouth Canton soccer coach Mike Morgan is perplexed.

"The last couple of games we've come out flat," he said. "I wish I could figure out why that's been happening."

The slow start nearly earned Canton an early exit from the state playoffs Monday against lowly Livonia Franklin.

The Chiefs sputtered and struggled for 80 minutes Monday. When the regulation clock expired, the game was still tied 1-1.

Then, for the second time in three days, Morgan gave his troops a loud piece of his mind. "I gave them a lesson in what they should be doing out there," he said. And his team memorized it.

The Chiefs responded by scoring three goals in the first four minutes of the 10-minute overtime period to beat the Patriots 4-1.

"We didn't play soccer for the first 80 minutes, but we made up for it in the first four of OT," Morgan said.

Steve Morell, who's been on a torrid goal scoring spree of late, notched the first overtime goal. Then Tim Mueller scored. Then Bryan Whiteley, who scored the first Chief goal, got the finale.

The win raised Canton's record to 12-2-1 and earned them the right to meet Catholic Central at 7 p.m. Friday in the next round of state district tournament games. The game will be played at Redford's Bell Creek Park. CC, the champion of the Catholic League, is 17-2 and riding the crest of a 14-game win streak.

THE CHIEFS got off to another slow start against Livonia Bentley Saturday. Before the first half was half over, Bentley had roared to a 3-0 lead — a lead most teams don't overcome against powerful Bentley.

Once again Morgan went into a tirade. "I raised a little hell and did a little switching and we started to play like we can," he said.

Morell scored three straight goals to earn Canton a 3-3 tie.

"To be able to come back and gain a tie against a team like Bentley says a lot for the kind of team we have," Morgan said.

Morgan also applauded the defensive play of Rob Opatny.

The tie keeps Canton's hopes for a conference title share alive. The Chiefs, the champs of the Western Lakes Division, have a 9-1-1 conference record. Livonia Stevenson, undefeated in league play, still has a match to play with Bentley. If Bentley wins, Canton and Stevenson tie for the Western Lakes crown.

STEVENSON 2, PLY. SALEM 0: The soggy Livonia Stevenson field slowed both teams down Monday, but No. 1-ranked Spartans stayed a step ahead. John Gelmisi scored a goal in each half to lead Stevenson to its 14th win of the season.

"We played a great first half," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "We're just not getting the first goal early that could lead an upset. You can't miss your opportunities against a good team like Stevenson."

Stevenson enjoyed a 15-8 edge in shots. Credit goalie Dan Millner with the shutout. Salem is 9-4-1.

It started out Tuesday night like any other one-sided romp and ended up a typical Canton-Salem battle for hometown bragging rights.

After a terrible first quarter, the visiting Plymouth Canton girls basketball team charged back and was denied a win by the Rocks, 41-35, in overtime.

The Rocks completely shut down the Chiefs in the first quarter, outscoring them 19-4. The Chiefs were only allowed five shots in the opening stanza and their defense looked like a Kung Fu class, sending Salem to the foul line nine times.

Salem's hot hand from the floor built up what looked like an insurmountable lead at the half, 25-11. Despite Canton's second quarter improvement, it looked like a lost cause for the Chiefs.

CANTON APPLIED a tenacious full-court trap defense which led to Salem turnovers and the Chiefs took advantage of them. Junior point guard Beth Frigge began penetrating on offense and the Canton shots began to fall. By the start of the final period, the Chiefs trailed by six, 29-23.

With 5:05 remaining in the game, Frigge stole the ball, drove the length of the court and was fouled. The foul was ruled intentional and Frigge's layup was good. She converted both free throws and the score was tied for the first time, 31-31.

Both teams traded baskets for the final five minutes, Salem's points coming on long range jump shots by Reggie Rojeski.

With nine seconds remaining, Canton failed to take advantage of a Salem turnover and sent the game into overtime.

Salem clearly controlled the overtime, working the ball into freshman center Dena Head, who hit two clutch baskets.

Head led all scorers with 14 points and played well for Salem in the first half. But it was Head's tough inside play that kept the Rocks in the game in the second half. She scored all of Salem's points in the third quarter and six of the Rocks' 10 the entire half. She also pumped in four of Salem's six overtime points.

"(HEAD) PLAYED very well for us tonight," Salem coach Fred Thomann said, noting she is only 14-years-old. "Reggie Rojeski played well down the stretch for us. She hit some jumpers late in the fourth quarter that kept us in the game."

While Thomann wasn't happy to be in such a close game at the end, he said he was pleased his team kept its poise down the stretch.

"It's a credit to our team that they withstood the heat and took control in the overtime," he said. "But you know that when you're playing Canton, there is no easy ride. They are a very capable team."

Despite the first quarter deficit, the Chiefs were never out of it, according to coach John Mulroy.

"I expected us to be there at the end," he said. "If there's one thing about these girls it's that they never quit. They play all-out until the final buzzer."

Mulroy said he is worried, however, by his team's continued slow starts.

"We've done this a lot," he said, about the poor opening quarter. "This is the fourth game in a row we've arrived in the second quarter when everybody else gets here in the first. These girls know they have the game in the bag if we play tough in the first quarter."

Laura Darby led Canton (5-6 overall, 4-4 in league play) with eight points and was instrumental in the comeback. Lisa Russell scored seven points and Kathy Ross and Frigge added six each.

For Salem (11-2, 7-1), Fran Whittaker scored seven points and Rojeski added six.

SOUTHFIELD CHRISTIAN 48, PLYMOUTH CHRISTIAN 40: Plymouth Christian staged a late fourth quarter rally Tuesday, but ran out of steam against league rival Southfield Christian, 48-40.

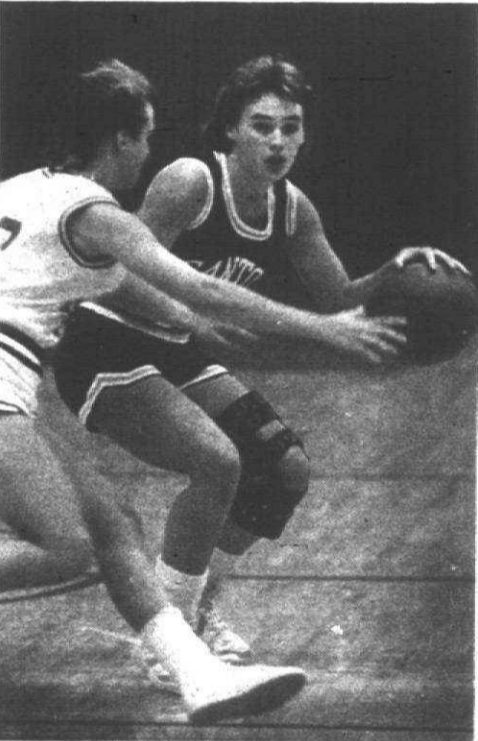

The Eagles trailed by 11 at intermission, 25-14, but pulled to within three late in the final period only to fall short of victory. It was Plymouth's ninth loss in 10 games. The Eagles Michigan Independent Athletic Association league record fell to 1-8.

Debbie VanHoose tallied 10 fourth quarter points and finished with a game high 22 for the Eagles. Mychele Paul pumped in 16 for the winners.

Plymouth Christian lost another heartbreaker Thursday, this time to Oakland Christian, 45-44.

The Eagles led by two at the half 23-21 but fell behind for good in the third period.

VanHoose took scoring honors with 15 points and Jill Schaufele added 11 for Plymouth Christian.

Diana Knickerbocker of the Chiefs tries to shake the sticky defense of Salem's Mary Beth West.

Dave Duelo: a 'reborn' marathon man

By Chris McCosky staff writer

DAVE DUELO figured his life, as he had known it for 23 years, was over.

It had ended in 1980 on a stretch of 10 Mile Road, near the Godwin Glen Golf Course.

He was driving a truck on his way home from a landscaping job he'd been working. Driving toward home was another car. The driver reached down to the floor apparently to adjust a portable radio. In so doing, the car swerved into Duelo's lane.

The car, going 60 mph, met Duelo's truck head on.

When Duelo regained consciousness, he found himself in an intensive care unit of Botsford Hospital. His right elbow had been shattered into 60 pieces. A large chunk of metal ripped through his right knee and severed tendons and ligaments.

Because oil and grease had entered and infected the wound, doctors feared the leg would be lost. Dave Duelo, they said, was simply lucky to be alive.

"Laying in the hospital, I had more or less given up on everything," Duelo said. "I was really depressed."

His depression was certainly understandable. Duelo was a standout athlete at Farmington High School, graduating in 1975. He played baseball and ran cross country.

He went on to pitch for two years at Jackson Community College. He eventually got his degree from Michigan State University in 1979.

He had just started working in his field of study, landscape design, when the accident occurred. He was still very much involved in athletics.

Now, as a result of the accident, he was facing perhaps the loss of a leg.

Even the news that his leg could be saved didn't do much to cheer him initially. He was still facing at least six months confined to a wheelchair and nearly two years of rehabilitation.

"I was just completely out of it. I didn't want to do anything to help myself," he said.

Indeed, his life would never be as it was the first 23 years. But, thanks to a powerful lecture delivered by a Botsford nurse, Duelo's life was far from over.

people in sports

AS DUELO, still moping about, was ready to be discharged from the hospital, he received a very stern lecture from his nurse.

"She took me aside and really set me straight," Duelo said. "She told me I was darn lucky to even be alive and that I should appreciate it. She told me to do as much as I can with my life."

Duelo took the nurse's advice to heart.

After the six-month wheelchair sentence, he tore into his rehabilitation program with the zeal of a man possessed.

"Being in sports all my life really helped me," he said. "I knew what it would take to get me back."

While the prescribed program called for workouts two or three days per week, Duelo worked out five days a week, three hours a day.

"It was like learning to walk all over again," he said.

IN 1982 he ran in his first marathon. He completed the Detroit Free Press Marathon in 3:01:00.

"The knee was just unbelievably good," he said. "No pain at all. The doctors were shocked when they found out I was running. They couldn't believe it."

The next year, after running some 94 miles a week in preparation, Duelo ran the Free Press race in 2:47:00 and qualified for the prestigious Boston Marathon — which he ran the following spring in the same 2:47:00.

"That was a great thrill," he said. "To run with the crowds and with the elite runners across the country was just great."

Last Sunday, Duelo ran his best time in the Free Press Marathon. He was the 70th runner to cross the finish line, the first from Farmington, in 2:43:03.

Not bad for someone who nearly lost his leg four years ago.

Now people approach Duelo with amazement, wondering how he managed to survive his ordeal. His answer is simple and from the heart:

"God saved my leg," he said. "I didn't want to just sit around. It motivated me to use it and do as much as I can with it."

Andy Rama: CC's goal-scoring wizard

By Brad Emmons staff writer

You'd think Andy Rama would have been somewhat upset.

The record-scoring forward from Redford Catholic Central, who entered Sunday's Catholic League soccer championship with 57 goals, was held scoreless.

But that didn't bother Rama, who puts "the team" ahead of personal glory. The bottom line, as far as he was concerned, was the final score: CC 3, Warren DeLaSalle 1.

"You should have seen the jubilation in his face," said CC first-year coach Paul Scicluna. "He was the happiest guy out there."

On Sunday, Rama was marked frequently by three DeLaSalle players. And for the final 14 minutes, the CC star was moved to defense to protect the lead.

"I saw the other side of him in that game," said Scicluna. "I didn't start him because I wanted to see what kind of alignment DeLaSalle was in."

"Andy did his job. He took his three guys and opened it up."

THE 5-FOOT-8, 145-pound senior takes the double- and triple-teaming in stride.

"I just try to move around and get free for the ball," he said. "When I get free, I'm able to get the ball to the other players. We do a pretty good job of that. Everybody tries to get the ball to each other."

It was only two weeks ago that Rama broke the Class A state record goals, shattering the mark of 48 set by Livonia Stevenson's Gary Mexicotte in 1982.

"He doesn't score if his teammates

Rama is something special, almost in the class by himself.

"The guy is a complete soccer player," said the CC coach. "He has great field vision. He always knows what's going on."

"He's a lot like Gretzky. You don't know what he's going to do. He's a bonafide player. He's got side and lateral movement. He's an accurate shooter — the best."

"And he's very dedicated, a hard worker who takes practice seriously."

Although Rama was a unanimous All-State and All-Observer pick last year as a junior, some soccer observers say that he's piled up the goals against inferior competition. They say he wouldn't get as many if CC played against the Stevensons, Bentleys, Churchills, Cantons and Northvilles of the Western Lakes Soccer League.

"I think there are three or four teams in the Catholic League that are very competitive — Brother Rice, DeLaSalle and Notre Dame — that could give the public schools all they want," said Rama, who is being courted by some 20 colleges.

CC WILL GET a chance to prove that its 17-2 record is not a fluke when they meet highly touted Plymouth Canton in a pre-regional game Friday at Redford's Bell Creek Park.

Golf pro John Miller eyes U.S. Open title

By C.J. Riak staff writer

"I've always enjoyed things that go fast," said Miller. "Old guys never grow up, their toys just get bigger."

Miller confirmed that he is hitting the ball pretty good, for me. I wish the Chrysler was next week."

MILLER DIDN'T win a tour event last year but had the odd distinction of being in the lead of the only two five-round tournaments — the Bob Hope and Las Vegas Open — after four rounds.

"Just my luck," he said.

He's planning on better fortunes this season. He's worked on his putting, a problem in the past, and is ready to get the season started. He teamed with Jack Nicklaus to win the Chrysler Tourney last year, and they'll team up again to defend their title.

Of course, Miller will be back in town next June, for the U.S. Open at Birmingham's Oakland Hills. Miller played at Oakland Hills twice before, in the 1972 and 1979 PGA Championships.

"I don't remember not doing well on the course," he said. "I always tell people it's a golf course where you have to hit it, then chase it. It's a long, tough, fine golf course. It doesn't think you to death."

OAKLAND HILLS is one course Miller wouldn't pass up a chance to play. "One reason I play tournaments is the courses. Till they're over, I don't want to play well at your tournament, you can offer him anything you want and he won't come back. He only plays courses he likes."

Shamrocks win league crown

Two champions were crowned this week in boys soccer.

Livonia Stevenson, the state's top-ranked team, wrapped up the Western Lakes Soccer League crown for the fourth consecutive year with a 2-0 victory Monday over visiting Plymouth Salem.

The other champion is Redford Catholic Central, which captured the Catholic League championship Sunday with a 3-1 victory over Harper Woods Notre Dame.

John Gelmsi scored two goals for Stevenson (14-0-1), raising his season total to 27.

Goalie Dan Millner turned away eight Salem shots on the wet Stevenson field.

Meanwhile, CC got two goals from Dave Niebrzydowski and one from Bill Wilson to claim its first Catholic League crown. Rob Tartaglia assisted on the first Niebrzydowski goal and Dan Jakubowski the second.

Brian Young scored in the first half to give DeLaSalle a 1-1 tie.

But then he raised his record to 17-2 overall with a 5-1 pre-regional win Tuesday over Dearborn Fordson at Redford's Bell Creek Park.

Scoring sensation Andy Rama netted four goals, raising his state record total to 61. Vitas Ruginius had the other goal for the Shamrocks and C.J. Wendt contributed two assists.

BENTLEY 4, DEARBORN 1: Livonia Bentley (11-2-3) also advanced in state tournament Monday night behind Gary LaRoeca's goal and three assists.

Bill Rowan chipped in with a goal and an assist for the state-ranked Bulldogs. Jim Radeback and Gene Pulice scored the other Bentley goals.

BENTLEY 3, CANTON 3: The Bulldogs couldn't hold a 3-1 halftime advantage Saturday at Plymouth Canton as Steve Morelli led the second half comeback with three goals.

"We played a super game in the first half, but we let up a little in the second half," said Bentley coach Tom Caraniciolas.

LaRoeca, Dennis Patchett (his 17th) and Radeback scored the Bentley goals.

CANTON 4, FRANKLIN 1 (OT): The Chiefs (12-2-1) exploded for three goals in the first 10-minute overtime session Monday to advance in the state tournament against visiting Livonia Franklin.

Morelli, Tim Mueller and Bryan Whiteley broke the 1-1 deadlock with goals in the second, third and fourth minute, respectively, of overtime.

CHURCHILL 3, HARRISON 1: Brett Murphy scored all three goals Tuesday as Livonia Churchill (9-3-2) got past stung Farmington Harrison.

Eric Wise had the lone goal for Harrison (3-10-4).

"Harrison is far improved," said Churchill coach John Neff. "They've come a long way."

"My offense played well. We had lots of opportunities and we moved the ball well."

● CORRECTION

Angelo Cairo took second place in the 8-year-old division of the Canton Township Fun, Pass and Kick competition which took place last weekend.

It was reported that Adam Bakowski placed second Bakowski, in fact, placed third.

● STEELER STREAK STOPPED

Well, it had to happen sooner or later.

One of the three Plymouth-Canton Steeler junior league football teams was finally beaten. The freshmen lost a 21-7 decision to the Ann Arbor Rams last Sunday. The junior varsity and varsity Steelers, however, kept their winning streak intact.

Jase Nickerson scored the lone touchdown for the freshmen on a 36-yard run and Jim Raglow added the extra point. The Rams remain undefeated. The Steeler frosh fall to 5-1.

The JV Steelers scored 8-0 win to improve its record to 5-0-1. Chris Decker scored on a 14-yard run and Scott Swartzwelder sacked the Rams quarterback in the end zone for a two-point safety.

The varsity Steelers maintained its four-year winning streak with a 20-6 triumph. Chris Johnston sparked the win with a 65-yard punt return for a score.

Darren DeTata added another on a 23-yard pass from Scott Haucher. Lee Krueger kicked a two-point extra point.

● COED VOLLEYBALL

The Canton and Plymouth parks and recreation departments will again sponsor a coed volleyball league at West Middle School.

The league will be limited to eight teams. Matches will be played Friday evenings beginning Nov. 2.

The fee is $120 per team, plus $15 for each player living outside the Plymouth-Canton school district.

Registration for returning teams will take place Oct. 16-19. Registration for new teams, Oct. 22-Nov. 2. Register at the Plymouth or Canton rec offices.

Call 397-1000 or 466-6620 for more information.

● ROCK TANKERS DUNK CHURCHILL

The Plymouth Salem girls swim team Tuesday bested host Livonia Churchill, 121-51.

The Rocks got good performances from Kristal Taylor and Laura Shaffer enroute to their sixth win in nine starts.

Taylor won the 200-yard freestyle (2:07.5) and 100 freestyle (59.9) while Shaffer capped firsts in the 50 free (27.0) and 100 butterfly (2:15.4).

Salem's team of Lindsay Olson, Shannon Murphy, Sue Bennett and Shaffer won the 200 medley relay in 2:07.6.

Other firsts for the Rocks included Cory Silver with a 164.45 in the diving competition, Olson in the 100 backstroke (1:11.9), Bennett in the 100 breaststroke (1:16.9) and Tracy Meszaros in the 500 free (5:56.9). Salem's team, Cindy Elliott, Karen Dilpe, Meszaros and Taylor, won the 400 freestyle relay in 4:06.1.

Kendra James took home the lone first place for Churchill in the 200 individual medley in 2:28.0.

Zero-coupon bonds are attractive to some

By Sid Mittra and Dean Calvert
Special writers

Part I

In recent years, zero-coupon bonds have been attracting increasing attention among investors looking for high returns with safety. A zero-coupon bond is one that is bought at a deep discount and increases in value at a compound rate. At maturity, it is worth several times the initial investment. As its name indicates, it pays no interest along the way.

ZERO-COUPONS ARE thus well suited for building a retirement fund

For example, a person age 45 could buy a high-quality, tax-exempt bond for $16,490 and receive $100,000 at age 65.

The investor would receive a 10-percent annual return, which might be attractive to him and to many investors like him.

With no interest payments received in cash, the investor does not have to reinvest odd sums several times a year, as with ordinary bonds. And there is no federal income tax on bonds issued by state and municipal units.

U.S. TREASURY Bonds, currently yielding close to 12 percent, also are available in zero-coupon form. So are corporate bonds and even some certificates of deposit.

But, unlike tax-exempt securities,

finances and you

Sid Mittra

these pose a special problem to individual taxpayers.

The Internal Revenue Service "imputes" interest annually on those bonds that are taxable, even though no interest actually is paid to the holder, and requires payment of income tax on that amount.

SUCH A procedure also can apply to state taxes on tax-exempt that were issued outside the buyer's home state.

Federal tax treatment of capital gains or losses applies only if the bonds are sold before maturity, something that does not usually happen. Nevertheless, the gains or losses usually are not very large because of the IRS's system of figuring interest and value.

Zero-coupon bonds are made in a somewhat esoteric manner. On a treasury bond, for instance, dealers strip from a bond the dated coupons that ordinarily are redeemed every six months for regular interest payments. Then both the coupons and the stripped bonds are sold at discount as zero-coupon bonds.

NEXT WEEK: Advantages and drawbacks of zero-coupon bonds.

Educational Seminar: The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the Coordated Financial Planning staff will conduct a seminar Tuesday, Nov. 13, 7-10 p.m. at the Kingsley Inn, 1475 N. Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills.

This seminar will address the following questions: Taxes — how to defer or eliminate them; Investments — how to invest in stocks for growth, income or stability; Real estate — how to find partnerships with excellent prospects; Financial plans — for whom and what they offer. Two out-of-town speakers will discuss specific real estate and oil and gas limited partnership investments.

The seminar is free, but registration is required. For more details, call 643-8888.

Ford, UAW offer families preretirement planning

Ford Motor Co. employees and their spouses are heading to the classroom to learn how to get the most out of retirement.

The UAW-Ford National Development and Training Center has launched a national preretirement program, "Successful Retirement Planning," as part of the "New Avenues for Employee Growth" program for active employees announced in December 1983.

A similar program for retired employees has been designed by Ford's Personnel and Organization staff, executive director Craig Hausman said. "The program provides the necessary insights and tools to begin planning now for a successful and fulfilling retirement."

DETAILS OF the program for hourly employees were announced by Stephen F. Yokich, UAW vice president, and Peter J. Pestillo, Ford vice president for Labor Relations, who serve as co-chairman of the center's governing body.

Developed during the past six months, "Successful Retirement Planning" addresses issues of interest to older employees. Approximately 10 percent of Ford's UAW-represented workers are eligible for retirement.

Both the salaried and hourly programs are designed to: • Reduce apprehension regarding retirement. • Identify ways to ease the transition into retirement. • Assure adequate information to allow comprehensive planning, including a personalized estimate of retirement benefits.

• Enhance understanding of benefit provisions applicable to retirees. "RETIREMENT SHOULD be an enjoyable experience, and it can be if the individuals are adequately prepared," Pestillo said.

The lawsuits against the company are not new and have been known to investors long enough so that the present price of the stock should reflect the market's judgment as to what the eventual effect on the company may be.

A NUMBER OF similar companies, when threatened with gas shortages several years ago, contracted for supplies of gas at higher rates and agreed to pay for the gas if they did not take it. The suppliers forced these agree-

Business activity index drops after GM strike

In September, the Detroit Area Business Activity Index, depressed by a seven-day walkout at General Motors, fell to 126 from the August level of 139, according to Manufacturers Bank.

August was revised downward from 140. Auto sales and motor vehicle output surged in August in anticipation of work stoppages. October is expected to represent fundamental operating levels of the local economy more accurately than either August or September.

The only index components showing gains in the latest reporting period were steel output and the average hourly workweek in manufacturing. Year-to-date, the Detroit economy after removing inflation, is up 18.5 percent over three quarters of 1983. Inflation is up 3.4 percent.

Booking entertainment is another facet of musician-composer Mel Ball's career

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

GARY CASKEY/staff photographer

Versatile Mel Ball is both a performer, playing vibes for his group Colours, and president of Mel Ball Productions

Inc. His agency in West Bloomfield books bands and other entertainment throughout the metropolitan area.

ON THE BANDSTAND, Mel Ball is the picture of contentment and composure but posing for a photo in the office of his entertainment agency in West Bloomfield, he's quite the opposite.

"I don't take a good picture," he said, suddenly looking not at all relaxed. Only after the photo session was over did he break into a big grin, as he talked about his dual career — as entertainer and as businessman who books top flight, sophisticated musical groups for hotels, clubs and private parties throughout metropolitan Detroit.

He's certainly no slouch as a performer himself. His slick vocal and instrumental group Colours, for which he plays vibes, is in the second year of its engagement at Detroit's poshest eatery, the London Chop House.

Despite filling his evenings at the Chop, Ball puts in a full day's work at the agency. It's near his home, which is in West Bloomfield, but the business is expanding and will soon move to larger offices at 31800 Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills.

"I LIKE TO keep busy," he said simply, when asked about his schedule that also includes songwriting and recording. Colours has just finished recording its first album, which includes his own song "We're With You America (The Time Is Here the Moment Is Now)," with Michelle Goulet on lead vocals.

"She's a very talented girl," he said of Goulet. Others who appear with Colours are Jose Carretero, keyboards and vocals; Dan Valeen, lead vocals and guitar; Dan Oestrike, lead vocals and bass, and George Bennett, drums.

"We're With You America" also will be released as a single and probably will be out within the next three-four weeks, Ball said. The song has already gotten some special treatment. He said last week, "We did it live for President Reagan yesterday at the Ukrainian Cultural Center in Warren."

Ball wrote the song "out of patriotic feelings — it's the mood of the country." It was submitted to the Committee to Re-elect the President, which gave the go-ahead for the song to be performed at a luncheon during the President's recent visit to metro Detroit.

While Ball didn't get to talk personally to Reagan, or find out exactly what the President thought of it, "He seemed very interested in it."

JUST TO QUOTE a bit of the lyrics, it begins:

*We're with you America
We'll never leave your side
We need you America
They have tried to hurt your pride*

*America, America
Though you suffered much pain
It's behind us now America
And we'll never part again*

upcoming things to do

LARADOS SING Singing group the Larados will perform at a Rock 'n' Roll Flashback Party at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 3, at Roma's of Livonia on Schoolcraft Road between Middlebelt and Lakeland roads. The event, sponsored by the Vietnam Veterans of America, Detroit Chapter No. 9, is a fund-raiser for the renovation of the organization's counseling center in a building. Tickets for the dance party include free pizza. They're available through CTC, Ticket World and Hudson's.

Performance matches fine plot

Performances of the Spotlight Players production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" continue at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, Oct. 19-20, at the John Glenn High School Auditorium in Westland. For ticket information, call 355-6177.

Wayne-Westland's Spotlight Players opened its silver anniversary season Friday with a delightful version of Joseph Kesselring's delightful play, "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Directed by Carla R. Lenhoff, this well-rehearsed group of performers works together exceedingly well. Although there are several outstanding characters, the group seems to hold fast to the philosophy that "the play is the thing" — and nobody hogs the spotlight or seems hellbent on chewing up scenery. The result is a nicely balanced, harmonious piece of community theater that entertains from start to finish.

Set in Brooklyn in the 1930s, the play centers around the Brewster family, which is to put it mildly, rather "unusual." There's Teddy, who thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt. There's Johnathan, a "bad dude" if ever there was one (the kind of person who, as a child, "liked to cut worms in two" with his teeth) who's the Mortimer, who's a drama critic. ("Don't think harshly of Mortimer because he's a drama critic," says his aunt. "Somebody has to do those things.")

Micki Carden is Adelaide and Kirk Krekier is Nathan Detroit in the Garden City Civic Theatre production of "Guys and Dolls."

DINNER THEATER Neil Simon's "I Oughta Be in Pictures," directed by Jeff Nahan, continues Saturdays-Sundays through Nov. 18 at Mario's Dinner Theatre, 4222 Second, Detroit. Dinner is at 7:30 p.m. An early show is at 5:30 p.m. Sundays. Dinner and show is $24.95, show only $8. For reservations, call 626-7374.

YOUNG FLUTIST Mark Estes, a 20-year-old flutist from Livonia, performed "The Fantasia" by Gabe, for audience and judges in the recent "Quest for Excellence" on radio station WQRS-FM. The young artist competition is open to the public without charge and broadcast live from the Fall-Winter season Tuesday. Auditions begin at 7 p.m. in Room F310 of the Forum Building on campus in Livonia. Rehearsals run from 7:30-10 p.m. The choir, beginning its 30th year, represents many communities in the metropolitan area. Robert Ballard, choral director at Livonia Franklin High School, is beginning his third year as conductor of the Schoolcraft Community Choir. For more information, call Community services at 591-6400, ext. 409, or Principal Sally Moag at 591-6489.

TRU GRIST Westland resident Leo Daignault is playing the role of Nicky, the warlock brother, in the True Grist Ltd. restaurant and dinner theater production of "Bell, Book and Candle" at the True Grist in Homer, Mich. The comedy about witchcraft by John Van Druten continues through Sunday, Nov. 18. For further information call 517-568-4151 or Michigan tollfree 800-628-6181.

FLUTE RECITAL Stephen M. Newby will be presented in his senior flute recital by the Music Department of Madonna College at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, at Kresge Hall on campus in Livonia. Newby will perform works by Bach, Demillac, Genzmer, Ibert and Varese. He will be accompanied by Linette Popoff on piano. Helene Jablonski on guitar and Michelle May on violin. The concert is open to the public should indicate the preferred night of attendance, and this choice also should be indicated on the check. For more information, call the Office of Special Events at 591-6400, ext. 216.

CON CLAVE IX Waldo & Magic, Inc., and the Eastern Michigan University Science Fiction Society announce the ninth in their series of science fiction conventions, ConClave IX, to be held Friday-Sunday, Nov. 2-4, at the Plymouth Hilton Inn, 14707 Northville Road, Plymouth. The convention will feature Hugo-Award-winning author David Brin, a banquet with entertainment, a masquerade ball, sing-alongs, a movie room, tournament gaming, and a dealers room where books and SF-related items may be purchased. Admission is $15 including the weekend's activities. Daily admission also is available. For more information, call Anna O'Connell at 559-1828 between 4-10 p.m.

Agency books local bands, big stars

Continued from Preceding Page. He spends more time with the children in the morning. "I roll out of bed and at least say hi. At the dinner hour, I go to the Chop. I spend a full day here. I do a lot of recording, afternoons and weekends." Ball's class group Colours has played everywhere from P.Jazz, the outdoor summer concert series at the Hotel Pontchartrain, to celebrity weddings. Colours was the musical group chosen for wedding receptions and wedding parties for Mr. and Mrs. Al Taubman, Henry and Kathy Ford, the Max Fisher family, and Bill Agee and Mary Cunningham. For special occasions, the original members of Colours may be supplemented, with up to 20 musicians performing. Mel Ball Productions started nine years ago in the entertainer's home and for the last five years has been at the West Bloomfield office, on Maple Road near Orchard Lake Road. "I've played professionally all my life," Ball said, going back to the beginning of his musical career. "When the band Colours became so much in demand, I started to refer other bands to (club owners) then I decided, 'I could be doing this'."

Agency in Dearborn and Flint. He books all their entertainment. At the Dearborn hotel, for example, he has booked a piano player downstairs, a disc jockey in the Rotunda lounge and entertainment for functions in the ballroom. Last New Year's Eve, Colours and Maynard Ferguson's band were among six bands he booked to play at a big New Year's Eve ballroom party. Colours, Ferguson and four other bands will play there again this New Year's. Ball handles the Sheraton Oaks in Novi exclusively. Novely, one of his bands, plays there, and for the hotel's exclusive restaurant, Raphael's, he booked a harp player and vibist during the week. His agency has booked entertainment for the Troy Hilton and Northfield Hilton, also in Troy. He booked Top 40 bands for the Sheraton Southfield before that hotel switched to Hilton bands. OTHER SPOTS he handles entertainment for exclusively include the London Chop House, Caucus Club and Hotel Pontchartrain, all in downtown Detroit. Conetti's in West Bloomfield, the Steak and Ale in Farmington and Plymouth, Holiday Inn-Farmington, Holiday Inn-Livonia West, Holiday Inn-Metro Airport in Romulus and Holiday Inn-West Bank in Ann Arbor, and Franco's in Dearborn. Besides Colours and Nouveaux, other acts Ball handles are Mystique, Secrets, Lyric, Heartbeats, Rendez-vous, Virtue, Sa Shay, Prime Time, Expo Facto, Justin Paul & Trilogy, Pam Wallace, Pierre

Glass

Collectors prize '30s treasures

By Mary Klemic
staff writer

At one time, it was given away in cereal boxes. Now it is worth hundreds of dollars.

Depression glass, the colorful, practical glasswork made during the time of the Great Depression, is still at home with many collectors.

"It's really very pretty. It's the beauty of it," said Dearborn resident Norma Godwin, vice president of the 200-member Michigan Depression Glass Society. "And it's a nostalgia-type thing. I remember the Depression and the glass being given away."

GODWIN'S HUSBAND Ken is president of the society, which will present its 12th annual All Depression Glass Show and Sale this Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20 and 21, in Dearborn. The show, featuring 30 exhibitors from several states, will take place from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Ave., west of Greenfield. Some 2,000 people attended last year's show.

Donation is $1.50 per person. Food will be available. Guests will be authors Gene Florence of Lexington, Ky., and William Heacock of Columbus, Ohio. Richard Heldenbrand of Sterling Heights will be on hand to repair damaged glass.

Era glass will be featured as well. This glass was of a better quality.

Depression glass was made from the 1920s to the end of the 1930s. Most of the glass was made from molds instead of by craftsmanship. It was clear or came in a variety of colors, including pink, green, amber, dark blue, light blue, ruby red and even black.

"IT WAS made in such a short span of time, not a whole lot was really created," said antique dealer Earlene Woodard, owner of Yesterday and Today, 157 W. Liberty in Plymouth. "It was given away — at the theater, in sacks of flour."

"You collected it," Godwin said. "They would have glass nights at the moviehouse. You could add to a set — tumblers, everything."

"There are complete table settings. We have a large collection of animals, a candelabra, everything for the home."

"I can serve 50 people, and everyone could have a different place setting," she said. "It's really very beautiful when you walk into a show. If you're a glass lover, it takes your breath away."

EXHIBITS OF the glass, arranged by Godwin, can now be seen at the Dearborn Civic Center and the neighboring Henry Ford Centennial Library, also on Michigan Avenue.

Some pieces may be worth $700 to $800 each, Woodard estimated.

A swan punch bowl set was made by the Cambridge Glass Co.

Norma and Ken Godwin, vice president and president of the Michigan Depression Glass Society, display their collection in their basement.

"It's the collecting part of it as much as anything," said Wanda Britton of Westland, another representative of the Michigan Depression Glass Society. "It's fun to know you're buying something that's an investment."

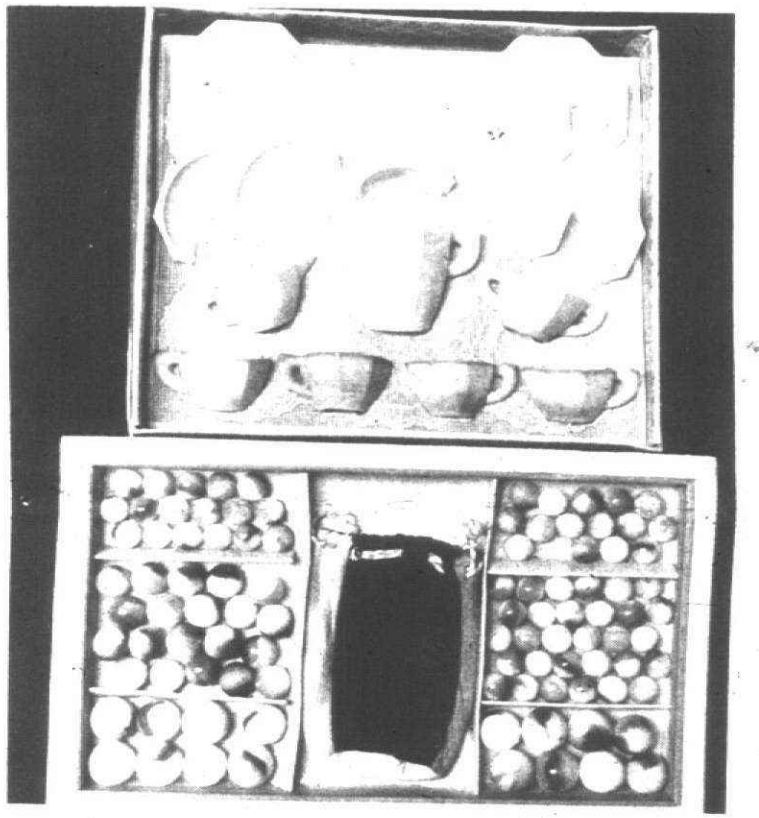

Godwin began collecting Depression glass some 10 years ago, when she found and purchased six divided plates made of the glass at a garage sale.

"I THOUGHT THEY were beautiful," she said. "That started it. I started looking for it at every garage sale and antique show."

"I'm sure my mother could have had some of the pieces," she said. "We did own most sets of this."

Depression glass can be recognized by its coloring and texture, according to Woodard. While it resembles other glass, Depression glass tends to be heavier and sometimes features such imperfections as bubbles or folds. Also, its patterns appear to be molded into it. More information can be found in books on the subject, she said.

Founded in 1972, the Michigan Depression Glass Society is dedicated solely to the preservation of Depression and era glass. It is one of many similar clubs throughout the country. Meetings are held on the first Monday of the month at the Senior Citizens Building at Five Mile and Farmington roads in Livonia.

Follow directions for that chrome look

This is another in a series of lessons on art and drawing by special columnist David Messing. He has taught for eight years and operates an art store, Art Store and More, 18774 Middlebelt, Livonia. Messing encourages questions and comments from readers. You may write him at his store or c/o Observer Newspapers, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington MI 48024.

By David Messing
special writer

The time is about 11:30 p.m., the year is 1972 and the date is Christmas eve, December 24. With a cool and confident tone Sandy says to me, "Honey, why don't you put little Scottie's Big Wheel together so it will be all ready for him in the morning." "Oh, sure," I said, "no problem." I mean, hey, I got a degree and stuff, that's nothin', maybe a 20 minute job at the most. I am mechanically minded and I always read the directions before I try to put anything together.

So with the "Twelve Days of Christmas" playing on the radio, I sat down by the light of the Christmas tree, to read the directions. By the time I heard "six geese a laying," I knew my goose was cooked. This was 12 years ago and a Big Wheel was a whole new thing. The instructions were in about six different languages and the English was broken at best.

For example: "very carefully slip on cap nut like so," read: "velly carefully swip on cap nut, ah so!" With the cardboard fireplace flickering it's artificial blaze, I sunk into my chair wondering what the instructions were saying. How could this be, it was 1 a.m. in the morning, Sandy was asleep, Johnny Mathis was singing "Blue, Blue Christmas," and I was singing it too.

EVERYTIME I put it together there were parts left over. So I kept taking it apart and putting it together until the attaching parts were . . . attached. I am afraid that today's Artifacts may seem just as difficult to understand but the steps are very simple and the results very professional. Look at it this way, at least it's all in English.

To end this third article about commercial art, I would like to tell you how to do perhaps your best single commercial entry. This lesson is what we at the Art Store call the Logo lesson. What we have the student do is, first think up a word they would like to illustrate. The finished product will look like letters made of chrome on an even black background or a blend of dark colors.

Maybe you are thinking, "no, I can't do chrome because I haven't got an airbrush." Well, not to worry friend, this lesson is most often done in colored pencil. I will, however, tell you how to do this lesson in airbrush. First pick a style of letter that best suits the name or word you have chosen. To help in your search use the sample catalogs of dry transfer letters. These catalogs contain hundreds of complete alphabets in every style you could ever want. Best of all they are usually free. We sell Zipatone transfer letters and screens and the company goes out of its way to stress that their catalogs are free.

WORK UP your design on any paper and when perfected transfer it to a smooth black mat board. Fat or thick stroked letters are best to show the reflections of light on chrome. Transfer your design to black mat board with a graphite stick. Now you can carefully outline your letters with a white prism color pencil. For this lesson done in colored pencil you need only three pencils: white, non-photo blue and slate gray. Use the non-photo blue at the top of the letters. Push hard to produce a rich opaque blue and lighten up on your pressure as you move down to the half line of the letter.

At the half line of the letter, rule a clean hard white line. Now again push hard to produce a strong white. So far you should have a bright blue at the top tinting all the way to pure white at the halfline. Now at the bottom of the letter begin with a rich opaque slate gray and as you move upwards fade quickly and evenly to the black of the board. What makes this lesson look "chrome" is to have the whitest white next to the blackest black. If you do this wrong, the "chrome" look becomes a "crummy" look. So be sure to leave the blackness of the board against the whiteness at the half line.

If you have an airbrush then here is your assignment. This is the fifth lesson in my airbrush class and I am proud to insert this beautiful job done by my son, Scott.

After developing your letters on white paper place a piece of frisket over it and carefully trace your design. Now peel the frisket and position it on a piece of cold press illustration board. Now with a sharp razor knife carefully cut out your letters. Remember, for the clean commercial look, always use a straight edge when possible. After cutting peel each letter completely off the illustration board. Your board should

Set a mood for artistry

Do you know what the two most important things in photography are? The first is you, and the second is your subject.

And there's no better area in photography to optimize this relationship than in making mood pictures. The scenic photographer will take a picture and say, "this is what I saw." The mood photographer, on the other hand, takes a photograph and says, "this is what I felt."

With a little practice, you can develop a sensitivity for moods which will lead you to a new, almost intimate approach to your photography.

TO BEGIN with, take time to examine your environment, looking for the inherent beauty in the smallest of flowers as well as the magnificence of a towering forest. Search out beauty in ordinary things such as delicate weed or reflection patterns in a puddle of mud.

Study your subjects carefully, getting to know them well, always keeping in mind that you're building that all-important relationship between you and your subject.

Never rush into snapping the shutter. Study how light affects form and texture. View your subject at different times of day and in different types of weather.

Nature's elements are among the key ingredients you can capture in making mood photographs. Fog, mist, water, clouds, and soft sunlight all present conditions suitable for obtaining mood in your pictures.

Early morning or late afternoon light offers the best opportunity for capturing textures and shadows. Side or backlighting will add a certain sparkle to your shot and will help place emphasis on the main subject.

Fog and mist will subdue backgrounds and will produce soft, subtle tones and colors.

Water can give you many different moods. Reflections in a still lake will produce a feeling of seclusion and quietness. Splashing waves result in an exciting mood while flowing water captured during a long exposure (tripod is a must) gives a peaceful, serene mood.

As always, pay attention to depth-of-field. A wide aperture will produce shallow depth which will isolate your subject by throwing everything else out of focus. A small aperture, of course, will render sharp much of what you see through the viewfinder.

NO ONE film is best for capturing mood. Just make sure the ASA is satisfactory for the subject and weather conditions. In subdued light you may need a faster film so always keep a few rolls handy.

Early morning fog set the mood for this Monte Nagler photograph taken in Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula.

While we've been talking mainly about mood in scenic shots, don't overlook other areas such as people's faces. They are fertile fields for capturing moods such as joy, excitement, even pensiveness.

Natural light on an overcast day is the best that can be used either outdoors or filtering in through a window.

Remember, become involved with your subject no matter what it may be. With experience, you'll find your photography shifting from the literal recording of a scene to an artistic expression of mood.

Dear Mike and Steve,
 We are writing this letter to express our gratitude for the way you helped us in building our new home. You were honest and straight forward about the true building costs so that there were no surprises during the actual building process as is often the case. Best wishes on your continued success. We will recommend you services whenever possible.
 Sincerely,
 Larry & Carol Miller

Professor honored

Jay W. McCormick, professor of English, Wayne State University, will be honored upon his retirement with a luncheon and readings by two of his former students — Esther Broner and Philip Levine.

The functions will take place noon to 5 p.m. Friday, at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, McCormick has been a member of the WSU faculty since 1944 and has been director of the creative writing program.

He is a published novelist, short story writer and frequent book reviewer for the "Detroit News." Levine, a poet, was the 1982 recipient of the Arts Achievement Award from the English department and Broner is this year's recipient. Both will read from their recent works.

For luncheon reservations or additional information, telephone 577-2450.
