Voters say no to community center

By a 60-40 percent vote, Canton voters said no to an $8 million township community center proposed for land behind township hall.

Unofficial totals showed 10,303 voters opposing the 1.2-mill, 20-year tax increase. There were 6,834 yes votes.

The community center would have included an indoor swimming pool and track, gymnasium, meeting rooms and a banquet facility. The tax hike would have meant an additional $48 per year in property taxes for the owner of an $80,000 home.

Mike Gouin, Canton recreation superintendent, said he was neither surprised nor disappointed by the results.

"I'M NOT discouraged. Almost 7,000 people voted to have their taxes raised. They're starting to look at this," said Gouin.

"Some people call me fatalistic. In this case, I'd call it realistic. We would have termed it a miracle if it passed. Others said the same thing without any prompting from me."

"I can't say it wasn't a resounding no, but if you look at millages as a whole in a presidential election, a large amount of people are going to vote no," Gouin said.

"Those who didn't see it as a benefit to the community probably opposed it."

CANTON SUPERVISOR James Poole, who hasn't supported the community center, was surprised.

"I thought it'd pass. I don't know why people voted it down. You could say they don't like additional millages, but Canton passed the special millage, and Proposals C and D."

DON KOONTZ, ONE of the center's chief supporters and chairman of Canton's Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee, wasn't as upbeat.

"We did a survey, and 71 percent of the residents said they were interested (in a community center)," said Koontz, whose spirits sank as election results trickled in at township hall Tuesday night.

Survey respondents especially favored an indoor pool, "which fit in beautifully" with the plans, said Koontz.

Because there was no organized opposition to the center, Koontz was hard-pressed to explain its defeat.

"Usually if you go out and talk to groups and you're running for office, or saying this is your stand on something, you get people saying, 'You're all wet' if they disagree with you.

"But there was no outpouring of disagreement at all," said Koontz. "I couldn't give you the name of an individual or a group who was against us."

ABOUT $1,000 — mostly out-of-pocket contributions — and "too many" hours spent pushing the plan via the mail and phone calls were donated by Koontz, township board members, the parks and recreation board, Canton Soccer Club, Supervisor-elect Thomas Yack, residents and business people, Koontz said.

McDonald's restaurants in Canton printed pro-community center messages on its tray liners.

New clerk says he will probe poll problems

By Neal Haldane

With the election completed, one of the first things newly elected township clerk Loren Bennett would like to resolve is why it took so long for people to vote.

Waits of three hours were not uncommon in some precincts in Canton Township and Bennett wants to prevent that from happening in the next election.

"The first thing we have to do is find out why we had the lines we had. It's a shame that happened," said Bennett who defeated Democratic challenger Cindy Burgess.

Unofficial totals gave Bennett almost 58 percent of the vote. He garnered 9,893 votes to Burgess' 7,249.

The addition of voting machines, at a cost of about $200 each, might have shortened some of the waiting periods, he said.

"THE COST of the equipment is so miniscule compared to the inconvenience," said Bennett who successfully went from trustee to clerk. "Tonight was not a pretty scene."

Bennett will replace Linda Chuhran who he defeated in the Republican primary in August.

During the campaign, both Bennett and Burgess focused on credibility problems in the clerk's office and what changes they would make.

Fixing problems in the office remains high on Bennett's list.

4 GOP candidates take trustee seats

All four Republican candidates won seats on Canton's board of trustees Tuesday.

Incumbent Elaine Kirchgatter, with 10,799 votes or 20 percent of ballots cast, pocketed the biggest win.

"I want to restore Canton Township to one that we all as a community can be proud of by working in harmony with the board and staff," said Kirchgatter, who was appointed earlier this year to serve a vacated term.

JOHN PRENICZKY, a one-term incumbent, came in second with 10,000 votes or 19 percent of the ballots.

"We need something to replace the balloon festival," said Preniczky referring to the now-defunct event.

"And the Canton Country Festival was really a disaster this year," he said suggesting that an amateur sports event would be a good community booster.

Challenger Hank Whalen Jr. garnered 9,748 votes or 18 percent of ballots cast, and Robert Shefferly was close behind with 9,725 votes or 18 percent of the ballots.

Whalen, who ran on a platform of promoting better development and "more aesthetic contributions by developers," said he "sees nothing but pluses" in Canton's future.

"The sewer issue is something we have to get going on," said Shefferly, referring to a system the township is hooking up with in Ypsilanti.

"I'd like to get the traffic situation under control," Shefferly said. "There's too many accidents in Canton."

DEMOCRATIC candidates Ed Rasmussen Jr. earned 7,107 votes or 13 percent of the ballots and Matie Ostrum tallied 6,699 votes or 12 percent of the total.

"I think it was a good race," Rasmussen said. "And I congratulate those winners. It was just unfortunate that people out in Canton who vote, vote partisan, basically."

Candidates who run on the Republican ticket, "even if they're card-carrying American Civil Liberties Union members can win, at least in the last two presidential elections," Rasmussen said.

"Hopefully the people who did win, ran because they have a concern for the community," said Rasmussen adding he would be interested in an appointed township committee or commission seat. "I want something that affects the future of the township."

Ostrum said she felt good about running a "hard clean race."

"I have nothing to be ashamed of," she said. "I'm very proud over 5,000 people had faith" in my ability.

"I do care about this community and . . . I will continue to fight for what is right," she said. "I will speak up. I had a lot of people help me, and I thank each and everyone of them."

Brown elected to treasurer's post

The rematch in the race for Canton treasurer has the same ending as the original four years ago.

Republican Gerald Brown defeated Democratic challenger Carol Bodenmiller in Tuesday's general election. Brown won the job in 1984 by defeating Bodenmiller.

Unofficial results gave Brown 61 percent of the vote. That translates into 10,349 votes for Brown to 6,559 for Bodenmiller.

"I feel pretty good," Brown said about his victory. "I think you have to come to the conclusion Canton is basically a Republican area."

Now that he is ready for his second term as treasurer, Brown said the new board will be different.

"I think it will be a good board," he said. "We'll get down to business and get some things done. I look forward to it."

Controlling development is the key issue the new board will face in the next few years, Brown said.

Local voters mirror national results

Canton voters mirrored both national and state results for president and the statewide ballot proposals.

But the 53 percent of the registered voters who cast ballots in Canton disagreed with the majority when it came time to increase property taxes for special education programs in Wayne County.

Kosteva nets 3rd House term by more than 2 to 1 margin

By Diane Gale

Voters handed James Kosteva, D-Canton, an overwhelming victory for a third term as state representative Tuesday.

Kosteva won by more than 2-1, according to unofficial Wayne County election office tallies Wednesday.

He earned 13,013 votes while his opponent, David Dossette, received 6,444 votes in the race for the 37th District seat.

The district includes the southern and western portions of Canton, as well as Romulus, Belleville, Wayne and Van Buren Township.

THE RACE was much closer in Canton where Republicans were the strong victors. In his hometown community, Kosteva tallied 2,671 votes or 58 percent compared to Dossette's 1,923 votes or 42 percent.

"I'm glad to have an opportunity to use my seniority in the Democratic-controlled House," Kosteva said. "I'm pleased that the people were able to see me as a strong independent in an otherwise strong Republican area."

Dossette, a freelance photographer and Wayne State University student majoring in political science, campaigned as an "economic conservative."

The Romulus resident and political newcomer often referred to himself as the campaign underdog and was realistic about his chances of winning.

He was unavailable for comment Wednesday morning.

Locally Kosteva is best remembered for state revenue sharing and shepherding a $100,000 grant for the

Teen shot in forehead

A 17-year-old Canton resident was shot in the forehead by a 13-year-old boy in a suspected accidental shooting at Honeytree Apartments Tuesday.

Jeffrey Wright was taken to St. Mary Hospital treated and released at 7:25 p.m., 3½ hours after the incident, according to a spokeswoman at St. Mary Hospital.

As Wright descended a flight of stairs, the 13-year-old pulled a .38-caliber snub-nose revolver from under his sweater, said Dave Boljesic, Canton police spokesman.

"It appeared he was playing with his gun, and he pointed in the direction of the 17-year-old," he said.

Apparently the bullet entered his forehead and exited through the top of his head, Boljesic said.

"We're petitioning the courts to bring charges — perhaps of reckless use of firearms" against the 13-year-old, Boljesic said.

Police learned the gun was stolen in 1971 from Virginia.

Three other youths were in the Joy and I-275 apartment, but no one else was injured, Boljesic said.

Cause of Heritage Square fire still unknown

The cause of a fire and explosion that gutted four units of the Heritage Square Apartments on Mill near Main Friday hasn't yet been determined, said Plymouth Fire Chief Al Matthews.

The cause of a separate fire, discovered seven hours later at a rental unit at 454 N. Main, is also undetermined and under investigation, Matthews said Tuesday.

"We have taken samples at both fires and they're being analyzed at the Michigan State Police lab in Northville," Matthews said. "We're also conducting interviews."

Matthews said he doesn't believe the two fires are related.

Once the evidence has been reviewed, a meeting will be scheduled with the state fire marshall and insurance investigators to consider subsequent action, he said.

THE CONDITION of Guy Zukowski, 25, was upgraded from fair to good Tuesday, according to the University of Michigan Burn Center. Zukowski suffered burns over half his body in the Heritage Square fire that Investigators believe originated in his apartment. Family members have established a trust fund, Friends of Guy Zukowski, P.O. Box 535, Plymouth 48170, to help defray medical and personal expenses.

"He has no medical insurance. He lost everything," said Larry Hottum, an uncle.

One witness reported smelling natural gas before the explosion, said Paul Sincock, assistant to city manager. Other witnesses at the scene said Zukowski had pulled his gas stove away from the wall go retrieve a fallen salt shaker. Sometime later, he lit a cigarette, and the explosion occurred.

Hottum said his nephew told him he was en route or in the bathroom when he lit a cigarette and an explosion occurred.

Zukowski graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1980 and served in the U.S. Navy, Hottum said.

Zukowski owns a janitorial service, said Robbie Perrin, the tenant who rescued him and said he was scheduled to begin working for Zukowski the day after the fire.

TWO PLYMOUTH firefighters — Capt. Thomas Lenaghan and William Warren — were treated for smoke inhalation after the second fire Friday and were expected to report back for duty Wednesday, Matthews said.

Matthews estimated structural loss at Heritage Square at $150,000-$175,000 and loss of contents at $30,000.

Joseph Dylag, a Clarkston resident, said he bought the apartment complex about a year and a half ago.

"We will rebuild," he said. "The building should be back to normal by mid-January, the contractor tells me. Three of four tenants whose units were destroyed want to come back."

Ten of the 18 units were expected to be liveable by Monday, Dylag said.

"THE COMPLEX itself is like a small community," he said. "People knew each other and socialized. It's just tragic something like this happened. The fire department did an excellent job containing the fire."

To his knowledge, none of the tenants had renters' insurance to protect their personal property, Dylag said.

Records in the city assessor's office indicate that the wood frame, brick veneer Heritage Square Apartments were built in 1952.

The complex, with 18 one-bedroom units, has a state equalized valuation (half of market value) of $115,750.

Plymouth firefighters were assisted by departments from Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Northville Township and the city of Northville. Forty firefighters and 10 fire trucks were called to the scene.

Canton buys 50 acres for recreation complex

By Susan Buck
staff writer

The Canton Recreation Complex doubled in size last week.

Canton Township officials signed closing papers authorizing payment of $250,000 for 50 acres of farm land south of the existing complex on Proctor.

The purchase brings the total number of acres at the complex to 104.

"Final deeds have been signed," said Mike Gouin, superintendent of Canton Parks and Recreation.

The land will be used for soccer fields, baseball diamonds and additional picnic areas.

A $50,000 Michigan Land Trust Fund grant was applied toward the purchase with the remaining amount coming from Canton's general fund, said Gouin.

EARLIER THIS year, Paula Pulkownik, an appraiser hired by the township, appraised the land at $4,000 per acre.

A nine-member Canton Township Recreation Advisory Committee recommended this purchase over two other parcels of land owned by the Plymouth Canton school district.

One of these is a 15-acre parcel west of the Canton recreation complex consisting of a soccer field and an open field that the township has been leasing from the school district on an annual basis.

The other is 9.59 acres that borders Barchester and Hanford, west of Lilley, which Gouin said the township is "in the process of acquiring."

The average of three separate appraisals at the site will be used as a basis to determine the selling price, said Gouin.

The land, currently maintained by homeowners in the area as a neighborhood park, would then be transformed into a community park.

"The homeowners are in no position to purchase it," said Gouin.

Ah, relief: The library is open

By Susan Buck
staff writer

When Monday morning arrives, two local librarians will heave a sigh of relief.

Jean Sebestyen-Tabor, Canton public library director, will open the doors of the township's new library to the public one-half hour earlier than usual, at 9:30 a.m.

Pat Thomas, director of Plymouth's Dunning-Hough Library, will say "adieu" to Canton residents who have flocked to that library, on Main Street, since their own library closed Oct. 17 in preparation for the move. Until then, for eight years, the Canton Public library had been on the third floor of the Canton Administration Building.

"Thank God," said Thomas, goodnaturedly, when told of the public dedication ceremony scheduled 1-4 p.m. Sunday, at the library, 1200 S. Canton Center, directly south of township hall.

"WE HAVE been deluged with people," said Thomas. "We're a very busy library in the fall anyway. The extra patrons have just added to that. We're certainly pleased for them (Canton residents)."

The number of circulated items at the Dunning-Hough Library in October skyrocketed to 24,896 compared to 17,400 for the same time period in October 1987, said Thomas.

All through 1988, however, the Dunning-Hough library has been 15 percent busier than in previous years, she added.

The opening of the $4.5 million Canton public library brings several new features to library patrons:

- Longer hours — the library will open one-half hour earlier Monday through Saturday. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday; 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and 12-5 p.m. Sunday.
- More staff — newly hired are five part-time librarians, four part-time clerks, two receptionists, two pages and a building security monitor. Eventually, another custodian will be added.
- Four new computers for public use as well as two typewriters.
- A videotaped collection of 300 magazines and three months of New York Times newspapers.
- A separate children's department with its own activity room. "The noise level was really bad in the old library," said Tabor.
- More square footage — library space will increase from 12,000 square feet to 31,000 square feet.

"We are so full," said Tabor. "The first people who come in will have a lot of good choices of books to pick from."

Tabor expects circulated items to increase from 380,000 a year to 450,000.

"I'm tired," said Tabor. "It's going to be a joy to work here. It will be so nice to spread out."

bring dignity back to the office again," Bennett said. "It takes a long time to live down a bad reputation."

Bennett said he plans to create a management plan for the office and asked residents to give him some time to make the changes.

"People will have to deal with the clerk's office a couple of times before they see a change," he said.

Bennett has served on the township board of trustees since 1980 and also is a member of the planning commission.

Burgess, running for office for the first time, said she was pleased even though she lost.

"It was a good campaign, a fun campaign and a solid campaign," she said Tuesday night. "Whatever the end result is, I'm glad I did it. I learned a lot."

Burgess said she plans to remain involved with politics and the League of Women Voters.

The incumbent also had some good words for his opponent.

"She's a nice lady," he said. "I wish she would take an active role on some important committees for us."

Bodenmiller, who served as trustee from 1978 to 1984, told supporters early Tuesday night that the Republicans would sweep in Canton.

She also issued a release giving thanks.

to voters "is not out of the realm of possibility," said Gouin. "Obviously, a lot of people wanted to see it."

After analyzing the vote and "determining what has to be done, if there's a consensus, we may go after it again. The question becomes how do you refine it, and how much time does that take?" Gouin added.

"The board will have to evaluate it and make that decision. Right now we have no idea if that might be in four years, two years, one year or six months," he said.

THE COMMUNITY center idea, now nearly 10 years old, picked up steam among township trustees during the past year after the survey showed a majority of residents favored the center.

So the voters' decision puzzled Koontz.

"As a community grows, you'd like to think that all the activities you wish to participate in as adults and parents are here in the township," he said.

"Homes that increase in value are homes that are surrounded by facilities that enhance the community.

"For the last year now at board meetings, as talk centers on the township selling land and on development, the emphasis is we want to enhance the community. We don't want a second-class image.

"Based on the survey, I thought Canton was ready to grow up and enhance the community with a facility like this."

One thing is certain, added Koontz, a Canton soccer coach. A few years down the line, it'll cost more than $8 million to build a community center.

Law says he's ready to go to bat for his constituents

The morning after the election, an exhausted and hoarse state Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, said he's ready to go to bat for constituents seeking school-finance reform, toxic-waste grant money, funding for recycling and solutions to the solid-waste problem.

Law was elected to a fourth term as state representative in the 36th district, defeating Livonia attorney Jeanne Stempien by a 68-32 percent margin.

Unofficial results showed 25,159 total votes for Law and 11,721 for Stempien.

Libertarian candidate Jeff Hampton collected 437 votes, just more than 1 percent of the total votes cast.

Law awaited election returns until the early morning hours, finally giving up and heading home.

"I QUIT trying to figure it out about 2 a.m. Canton was just bringing results in," said Law, who attended a get-together election night at Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen's home.

Law said his victory wasn't a foregone conclusion. "Every time there's an election, I get nervous. You never know what'll happen."

The 36th District includes the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville Township, and parts of Canton Township and the city of Northville.

STEMPIEN WAITED for returns at a small election party with family and friends at the Versatil Building in Plymouth.

Her "campaign flu" was the result of hard campaigning and 12 hours spent doling out coffee, doughnuts, snacks and enthusiasm to poll workers.

Stempien, a Northville resident, said she suspected strong local support for George Bush worked against her.

"I think the top ticket can be an influence for the rest of the offices. It should carry over," she predicted at about 8:30 p.m.

Stempien, who spent twice as much as Law on her campaign — between $10,000 and $11,000 — said she may make another bid for public office.

"I wouldn't rule out another campaign," said Stempien, who drew strong support among women voters and organized labor.

"It's hard to predict what your life will be like two years from now, but I enjoy campaigning. It's tiring, and it's a lot of hard work. But the number of people you meet on the stump — other candidates, business people, homeowners, voters — that aspect was very rewarding."

Local (unofficial) results were:

- Canton — 8,081 for Law, 4,707 for Stempien and 173 for Jeff Hampton.
- Plymouth Township — 2,887 for Law to 1,472 for Stempien. Hampton garnered 124 township votes.
- Plymouth — Law totalled 2,887, Stempien 1,472 and Hampton 51.
- Northville Township — Law received 5,275 votes, Stempien 1,937 and Hampton, 76.
- Northville — Law with 825 votes, Stempien 428 votes and Hampton, 13.

LAW, VICE CHAIR of the House committee on state affairs, said he hopes to again serve on the judiciary, insurance and public health committees.

"I'd trade if I could get on the education comittee, but sometimes the waiting line is too long," said Law, who earns about $39,000 plus expenses as a state representative.

Law said his win was due in part to the large amount of constituent work he does.

Kosteva wins 3rd House term

Cherry Hill historical restoration project.

During his two terms in Lansing, Kosteva has rallied the loudest for education and environmental issues. And Tuesday night when the tide of votes was clearly in his camp, Kosteva maintained those commitments.

EQUALIZING THE amount of money spent by various districts on education has been a primary Kosteva goal since 1985 when he sponsored reform legislation.

"The school finance property tax remains my first priority," Kosteva said.

He maintains it's unfair that some areas have a higher tax base allowing for more money to be spent for education. Under the present system it's just a matter of "luck where a child is born." He wants to take away the element of chance and spread the wealth.

"Efforts to maintain the environmental quality and to pursue efforts to find workable answers to dealing with solid waste issues" is another priority, he said.

The Republican Bush-Dan Quayle ticket was the choice of 65 percent of local voters. Michael Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen took home close to 34 percent of the vote with the remainder split between the other minor parties.

Canton voters also sided with the majority when it came to the controversial Proposal A on ending state funding of abortions.

LOCAL VOTERS overwhelmingly favored a stop to state funding. The yes vote captured 11,053 votes or 60 percent.

Proposal B to include crime victims' rights in the state constitution was approved by a much greater margin. Yes racked up 84 percent of the vote.

Canton residents also suppported a pair of environmental bond issues, Proposals C and D.

Proposal C for environmental cleanup programs was approved by 80 percent of local voters.

And Proposal D for state and local recreation programs was supported, but by a smaller margin, 65-45 percent.

But Canton voters did split with the majority when it came to raising property taxes for special education.

By a narrow margin, 8,262-8,120, the special education tax hike was defeated.

THE COMMUNITY also shed its total Republican leanings by voting for three Democrats who were all re-elected.

State Rep. James Kosteva captured 58 percent of the vote in the 37th District, the western and southern portion of the township.

U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, also earned the votes of 54 percent of Canton residents in the 15th District.

And the third Democrat with Canton support was U.S. Sen. Don Riegle. He ended up with almost 55 percent of the local vote.

Ford calls his landslide win in 15th District bittersweet

By Todd Schneider
staff writer

The landslide victory Tuesday of U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, was bittersweet for the longtime congressman.

"Naturally, I'm more than a little pleased that voters in this (15th) district continue to approve of the job I've done," Ford said as he watched election returns at the Taylor Democratic Club.

"But it's a little disappointing to return to Washington knowing that I'll have to fight it out with another Republican administration."

The district includes Canton.

The incumbent Ford easily beat Republican challenger Burl Adkins, a self-employed Southgate businessman, by a 2-1 margin.

Based on nearly complete totals, Ford received 68,515 votes, compared to Adkins' 34,092. The unofficial tally is based on 86 percent of the Wayne County vote being counted and 97 percent of the Washtenaw County vote.

With 86 percent of the Wayne County vote tallied, Ford led 48,808 to 23,786. In Washtenaw County, with 97 percent of the votes counted, Ford led 19,707 to 10,306.

Ford said he believed people have been going to the polls with the philosophy that they can elect a Republican president and "even it up" by returning him to office.

"I'm one out of 435 members of Congress," Ford said. "By myself, I don't have the power to keep an eye on him (the president).

Rep William Ford wins 13th term

FORD SAID he isn't sure what to expect from president-elect George Bush, although he said "nothing could be as bad as it was working under (President Ronald) Reagan."

The 24-year congressman, who will start his 13th term in January, said Bush's decisive victory still doesn't give him the mandate that Reagan received in landslide wins of 1980 and 1984.

Ford said his agenda for the coming term will focus on education, job training for young people, the nation's health insurance "crisis" and continued measures to improve the U.S. trade imbalance.

"Both (presidential) candidates said they were going to focus on education, and I take them at their word on that," Ford said.

"Now that we've passed a trade bill that gives us a level playing field with the Japanese and others, we're going to have to push the hell out of it and make sure it is used in our best interests," Ford said.

Incumbents retain grip on government

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County government will remain in the same hands in the wake of Tuesday's county election.

Sheriff Robert Ficano, a Livonia resident, prosecutor John O'Hair and clerk James Killeen were all returned to office by comfortable margins.

All three will receive new four-year terms. Salaries are currently $68,850 for all three positions.

County voters also approved a ballot proposal that would ban casinos in suburban areas if they were also banned in Detroit. (For information on the county special education tax proposal, see related story.)

FICANO, WHO easily outdistanced two challengers in the August primary, carried 94.3 percent of the vote in Tuesday's general election. He defeated Libertarian Robert Gale, 539,746-32,350. Ficano carried 90 percent of the vote in his hometown, No Republicans filed for the post.

O'Hair, a Detroit resident, won re-election as prosecutor with 70.6 percent of the vote. He defeated Republican candidate Donnelly Wright Hadden, 478,022-198,772. Hadden is a Detroit-based attorney who specializes in environmental law.

The low-key race centered on whether Democrats or Republicans were tougher on crime, though Hadden said he had "no personal disapproval" of the incumbent. Killeen of Grosse Pointe Farms will add to his 13 years as clerk by capturing 71.4 percent of the vote. He defeated GOP candidate Lawrence Schweiger of Livonia, 481,060-192,270. Schweiger, who had previously run for a number of city and county posts, is an order processing supervisor with Ford Motor Co., Livonia. Schweiger carried his hometown with 53.8 percent of the Livonia vote.

SCHWEIGER CALLED himself a "voice for change," though the race was issue-free and attracted little voter attention. In a mild election surprise, Schweiger carried Livonia with 53.8 percent of the vote. But there were nearly twice as many straight-GOP-ticket voters in his hometown, than straight Democratic voters.

Schweiger and Hadden, the Republican candidate for prosecutor, carried Canton and Plymouth townships and the city of Plymouth.

Livonia voters also backed Hadden.

All county incumbents won easily in Garden City, Westland and Redford Township.

Treasurer Raymond Wojtowicz and register of deeds Forest Youngblood were winners in uncontested races.

All area county commissioners also returned to office in uncontested races.

Winning commissioners included:

● Richard Mannning, D-Redford Township, 9th District. The district includes Redford and a portion of western Detroit.

● Milton Mack, D-Wayne, 11th District. The district includes Canton Township, Wayne, Belleville, Romulus, Flat Rock, Rockwood and Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron townships.

● Kay Beard, D-Inkster, 12th District. The district includes Westland, Garden City and Inkster.

County voters approved the casino proposal, 405,869-226,209, even though it isn't entirely clear what the result means. Each county community can still pass its own legislation approving or reject the gambling palaces. Western Wayne community leaders said no one had ever approached them about building casinos in their communities.

The next scheduled county election occurs in 1992, when county Executive Edward McNamara's term expires.

Special ed tax gets approval

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County voters approved a 1-mill special education tax increase Tuesday, after rejecting the same measure in August.

The proposal passed with 57.1 percent of the vote. Voters countywide approved the tax increase 347,653-260,564.

The increase will help finance regional centers that serve an county youngsters with severe mental, physical or emotional handicaps. An estimated 6,000 youngsters attend center programs.

The increase translates to $37.50 a year for people living in homes with a market value of $75,000.

The proposal passed in Livonia, 22,147-18,058; Westland, 12,369-11,056 and Plymouth, 2,294-1,778. It also passed in Redford Township, 12,698-9,740 and Plymouth Township, 5,544-5,269. It failed in Canton Township, 8,120-8,262.

Centers that will benefit include the county center for autisic children in Garden City and additional county centers in the Livonia, Wayne-Westland, Redford Union and South Redford school districts.

There is a possibility surplus center money will be returned to support standard special education in each of the county's 34 public school district. Special education programs are required by state law.

The county will continue to levy its original 1-mill special education tax, originally approved by voters in 1974.

The existing 1-mill special education tax was supposed to cover regional center operating costs, but has fallen short in recent years.

Though the county maintains the regional centers, individual districts had been billed for center services given to students who live within their boundaries. the so-called "bill backs" had stretched some district budgets to the limit.

The tax increase will save Livonia Schools at least $478,826 a year, based upon recent bill backs. Similar savings for other area districts include Wayne-Westland, $389,225, Plymouth-Canton, $259,852, Redford Union, $252,492; Garden City, $174,029; and South Redford, $123,731.

The tax increase was proposed by Wayne County Intermeidate Schools, which oversees the regional centers. Intermediate school district officials kept their fingers crossed during the campaign. They generally believed the issue stood a better chance of passing in August. But the increase was defeated 110,095-103,355 during the Aug. 2 primary.

Changes in campaign strategy may have made the difference this time.

In August, special education boosters ran a low profile campaign. This time, they vowed to generate more publicity.

Proposal A wins a big victory in western Wayne

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Opponents of Proposal A knew that if they wanted to beat the proposed ban on Medicaid abortions, they would have to carry Wayne County. After all, the ban was supposed to discriminate against the poor, and a disproportionate number of the state's poor live in the county.

But Proposal A eked out a narrow win in Wayne County, 358,497 to 338,578, thanks to solid support in the suburbs. That and a big margin outstate gave anti-abortion foes a resounding victory, 1,950,955 to 1,481,459, or 56.8 percent to 41.2 percent.

Some polls taken in the waning days of the campaign had predicted a closer result. One poll published on election day in the Detroit Free Press said it was becoming a dead heat, with Proposal A opponents cutting into the pro-lifers' big early lead.

But those polls weren't reflected at the polls. Proposal A passed in every western Wayne County community, with a close vote only in the city of Plymouth, where A passed, 2,323 to 2,224. It passed in Livonia, 28,719 to 18,339; in Westland, 16,018 to 11,209; in Redford Township, 15,305 to 9,126; in Garden City, 7,077 to 4,377; in Canton Township, 11,053 to 7,311; and in Plymouth Township, 6,764 to 4,949.

"You always get nervous as it gets closer and closer to the election," said Barbara Listing, chairman of the Committee to End Tax-Funded Abortions, which promoted and financed the campaign for A.

"The Free Press poll scared me. I should thank them. That got the vote out and it pushed our local people to work even harder," said Listing. She said her committee will disband after it raises the $500,000 it owes from the campaign.

WOMEN STILL CAN have abortions under the new law, but they must find private funding.

Last year, state payments were about $6 million for about 18,500 abortions.

Gov. James Blanchard and former Gov. William Milliken appeared together at press conferences to oppose A.

State Treasurer Robert Bowman warned that a ban on abortion could cost the state up to $45 million annually in welfare deliveries and child-support payments.

Listing said results in other states that have banned tax-funded abortions show that most poor women who want abortions end up paying for them privately and that state welfare costs do not go up.

The ban on Medicaid-funded abortions will take place 10 days after the State Board of Canvassers certifies the results. The board must meet within 20 days of the election and certify it within 40 days.

Local blitzkrieg: C, D win easily

Michigan and Wayne County voters showed their support for a cleaner environment and better parks by overwhelmingly approving ballot proposals C and D.

Statewide, C passed by 2,500,003 to 773,513, or 76 percent to 24 percent. Proposal D passed, 2,043,877 to 1,200,804 or 63 percent to 37 percent.

In Wayne County, C passed, 528,723 to 133,563, and D was approved, 431,381 to 203,035.

Both are bond proposals, which require no increase in taxes.

PROPOSAL C won in every local community — 20,524 to 5,338 in Westland; 8,111 to 2,216 in Garden City; 19,018 to 4,433 in Redford Township; 37,454 to 7,012 in Livonia; 14,354 to 3,504 in Canton Township; 9,369 to 2,054 in Plymouth Township; and 3,753 to 663 in the city of Plymouth.

Proposal D also passed in each local community — 16,796 to 8,656 in Westland; 7,151 to 3,538 in Garden City; 15,233 to 7,822 in Redford Township; 29,774 to 14,606 in Livonia; 11,401 to 6,254 in Canton; 7,280 to 3,908 in Plymouth Township; and 2,943 to 1,380 in the city of Plymouth.

Proposal C authorizes the state of Michigan to borrow up to $660 million for programs that would clean up toxic waste sites and other environmental contamination, contribute to a regional Great Lakes protection fund, and address issues of sewage, polluted water and solid waste.

It is the largest bond issue ever put before the voters in Michigan. It puts $425 million toward waste clean-ups, $150 million toward funding disposal of state garbage, $60 million for a state and federal loan program for fixing sewer problems, and $25 million toward an eight-state Great Lakes fund for clean-up and research.

Proposal D authorizes the state to borrow $140 million to finance state and local recreation projects, including the refurbishing of state parks.

Half would go toward state parks, with the other half going to local communities. The money can not be used to build stadiums.

According to State Treasurer Robert Bowman, the first bond sales likely will be early next year, depending on market conditions.

There was no organized opposition to either proposal. Both were linked in campaign supporting them, even though they were voted on independently.

Kirk Gibson, the former Detroit Tiger and now member of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, appeared in radio and TV ads supporting the proposals.

Students score goals in hockey program

These players don't have to worry about the off-ice antics of Bob Probert of the Detroit Red Wings.

In fact, they don't even have to worry about ice.

They play their hockey on the floor at Isbister Elementary School. Students in first through fourth grade strap on their tennis shoes and hit the tile floor for a round of action.

The program is sponsored by the Plymouth Community YMCA and is part of the organization's fall schedule. Eighteen students are enrolled in the program and another session is scheduled to start in January.

While it may be too late to learn all about floor hockey this fall, the Y is still seeking members for some other programs.

The preschool Kreatives class for children 3 to 5 years old has some openings.

The program includes art, music, crafts, reading and physical activities.

The tumbling class for children 5½-7 also has some openings available.

Classes for the winter session are scheduled to start the week of Jan. 9.

Incumbents win re-election to state, county court seats

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Tuesday was re-election day for all 11 of the Wayne County Circuit Court judges who were on the ballot seeking full, six-year terms.

It was also re-election day for two state Supreme Court justices.

Justice Charles Levin topped a field of six candidates with 1,679,588 votes. Justice James Brickley came in second with 1,443,968 votes.

Jerry Kaufman, who was nominated by the Tisch Independent Citizens Party, finished third with 461,309 votes. Marvin Stempien, a Wayne County circuit judge and Plymouth Township resident, finished fourth with 430,299 votes. He is a former state legislator from Livonia.

Though the race is officially nonpartisan, Stempien was nominated by the Democrats and Levin, an independent, was endorsed by Democrats. Brickley and Richard Johnston, who received 406,117 votes, were nominated by Republicans.

Donald Warmbier, who was nominated by the Libertarian Party, polled 203,935 votes.

In the race for two new seats on the state Court of Appeals from the first district, which includes Wayne, Washtenaw, Livingston, Monroe, Lenawee and Jackson counties, Maureen Reilly, 53, topped a field of four with 349,471 votes.

Thomas Brennan, 66, a Wayne Circuit Court judge for 16 years, came in second with 320,676 votes. He edged out fellow circuit court judge Richard Hathaway who polled 319,030 votes.

Y. Gladys Barsamian, 56, a juvenile court judge from Plymouth Township, came in last with 207,622 votes.

The court expanded from 18 to 24 judges this year, with two judges coming from each of three districts. Reilly won an eight-year term, while Brennan received a six-year term.

The sole circuit-court challenger who was not already a circuit judge, Andrea Ferrara, 36, of Grosse Ile, finished last in the field of 12, missing office by 4,439 votes.

Ferrara was the first person to challenge a sitting judge in the county circuit court in 12 years. There are circuit-court elections every two years.

U.S. prepares for '90 census

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

An army will soon be mobilizing locally as the U.S. census bureau begins the mammoth task of finding every person in the country and then counting them all in a single day, April 1, 1990.

Outposts already have been established — the three-state regional census headquarters opened in Southfield last November and now has a staff of 125 — with plans well under way to hire 11,000 temporary employees statewide.

Three more census offices open in January — at undetermined locations downtown, in southeast Oakland County and in Lansing.

Fourteen more field offices will open in the state next fall, with one expected to be in western Wayne County, near the Oakland County border, according to Dwight Dean, director of the Michigan-Ohio-West Virginia region.

Up to 700 people would be employed in the western Wayne office, with most of those earning about $5.50 an hour, Dean said. The highest paid of the temporary employees would make about $14 an hour, for managing district offices.

THE CENSUS will begin heavy recruiting for employees next fall, through ads, flyers, brochures and local civic groups. Dean said applicants would be tested to see if they can read and do simple math, and they must have transportation.

Applicants must be at least 18 or high school seniors. There is no upper age limit.

"We've got people in their 80s, now, who are doing field surveys, and they'd run me into the ground," said Dean.

Most of the jobs will last for three-six months, though some will last longer. The bureau will need computer data-entry personnel, clerical staff, office supervisors, field supervisors, crew leaders and, in the largest numbers of all, enumerators, who will go door to door trying to reach those residents who do not return their surveys by mail.

Dean told a gathering of local municipal officials last week that the census bureau would be seeking their input more than it has in past bead counts.

He said in a follow-up interview that local officials will be asked for advice on where to open offices, where to publish hiring notices and which local groups to use to get the word out on hiring. And they will be furnished with pre-census population estimates and post-census preliminary figures to help eliminate some past problems with undercounts.

"You have to be able to rely on local knowledge and leadership," said Dean. "And we're obviously not local."

Shop for your birthing center the way you shop for your nursery.

Getting ready for a new baby is a big job. You could spend hours picking out just the right clothing, toys and furniture. When it comes to the type of birthing experience you want for your baby, you have just as many choices. And you should be just as careful when deciding on a birthing option and a hospital.

That's why Annapolis Hospital invites you to do some "comparative shopping" by touring our modern, comprehensive Birthing Center. Choose a natural childbirth experience in the warm, home-like setting of our new birthing rooms, or our traditional delivery room option. If you need help choosing an Obstetrician, just call our free Doctor Directory at 1-800-338-3627. Should the need arise, Annapolis now has the services of a Neonatologist available 24 hours a day, to care for newborns with special needs.

With small touches, like a gourmet dinner for new parents and liberal visiting hours for siblings and grandparents, we help you celebrate your special delivery. We even provide a range of prenatal educational programs, from an early pregnancy class to natural childbirth preparation classes. All to make you feel completely at ease and comfortable.

Visit the Birthing Center at Annapolis Hospital today. You'll see that our whole outfit is beyond compare.

Another bicentennial — 200 years of census

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

The year 1990 will mark the latest in a series of bicentennials — this one the bicentennial of the first U.S. census.

Why have a national census every 10 years? After all, this one is costing $2.6 billion, which will work out to about $10 for each American counted.

For one thing, it says so in the U.S. Constitution — Article I.

For another, the census is the basis for an incredible array of political and social decisions. How many U.S. representatives will Michigan have in the year 2000? How will political power be apportioned in Lansing? How will the billions of dollars in federal aid and grants be divided among the states?

No longer just a simple head count, the modern census seeks information on economic development and social issues and is crucial for government planning, at national, state and local levels.

This census is particularly crucial. Policies that grow out of it will determine the course of this nation as it begins the trip through the next century.

Here, then, is everything you ever wanted to know about the census:

BEGINNINGS:

In the beginning, there was just Adam and Eve and not much need to count heads.

Later, the Old Testament mentions various censuses, but these were primarily military inventories.

Later, censuses were taken in Egypt, Rome, Babylonia and China for fiscal reasons.

The modern concept developed in the 17th and 18th centuries, with the U.S. census of 1790 being one of the first national censuses. In 1801, the British followed suit.

When the Second Continental Congress assembled after the battle of Lexington, it was clear that a system was needed to raise money "for the forces in the field. But would the states be taxed equally? Or would they be taxed according to their ability to pay? Or would there be a head tax? And if there was a head tax, would you count slaves, too.

On April 18, 1783, a compromise was reached. Alexander Hamilton proposed that all whites and freed slaves would count as one each. Slaves would count as three-fifths. Indians would count as zero, unless they paid taxes; then, they would count as one.

And Hamilton's language made its way into the Constitution five years later, after long debates about whether a census should count voters, property owners or free inhabitants. Each state would have two senators, but representation in the House of Representatives would be based on a head count every 10 years, with some heads worth less than others.

It might have made sense to count just voters; but some states had more women than men, and women couldn't vote, so those states would be underrepresented. And then there were such disparate laws between the states as to who could vote.

New Hamsphire restricted voting rights to those males who were at least 21 and who weren't paupers. New Jersey let you vote if you were worth 50 pounds. You had to own 50 acres in North Carolina to vote for a senator, but just pay taxes to vote for a member of the U.S. House.

Most states had religious qualifications, so much for the separation of church and state. In North Carolina, you couldn't run for office if you "denied the truth of the Protestant religion."

In New York, Jews could run for office, but not Catholics. Jews lived in Rhode Island "as strangers." Maryland permitted Catholics to run for office, but not Jews or "freethinkers." Massachusetts limited office holding to Christians, including only those Catholics who "renounced the superiority of papal authority in any matter, civil, ecclesiastical or spiritual."

ALIENS:

All aliens are counted in the census. Illegal aliens — whether they came across the border from Mexico or flew in from Asia — are counted. States with more illegal aliens, such as New York and California, end up with more representatives.

That bothers some politicians, and at least four bills were introduced in the 100th Congress to bar the counting of illegal aliens. They were unsuccessful because most constitutional scholars agree that the wording is unmistakably clear in Article I, section II. The count shall include "all persons."

Of course, there were no immigration laws in 1788, and the U.S. was a vast country with few people and a beckoning frontier. Immigration was encouraged.

Illegal aliens place demands on society. They ride public transportation; their children go to school; they hold jobs, pay taxes, enjoy various government-supported services.

They should then be counted, say proponents, when it comes to allocating federal resources and determining representation.

In 1990, as in all previous censuses since slavery was abolished, all heads count, even those here illegally.

THE UNDERCOUNT:

Demographic experts, sociologists and census officials all admit there is an undercount in any census. But the undercount is worse for minority populations, who tend to be more mobile, harder to locate and likely to fall through the cracks.

Census officials say the overall undercount in the 1980 census was about 1.5 percent. Bureau estimates of the black undercount range from 5.6 percent to 6.5 percent, and some experts say it could have been as high as 11 percent in central cities and could be as high as 22 percent in Detroit in 1990.

Huge sums of money are at stake. The city of Detroit, where conservative estimates place the undercount in 1980 at 35,000, unsuccessfully sued the federal government, demanding upward adjustments so as not to lose out on federal funds and representation in state and national government.

(In 1970, fewer than just 300 people switched the 435th seat in the House from Connecticut to Oklahoma.)

Census officials were confident they had devised a statistical model to greatly reduce the undercount in 1990, but high federal officials ordered the plan scrapped, according to U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, whose district includes Garden City, Westland, part of Livonia and Canton Township.

"This may be the first time such partisan bickering has involved the census," said Ford.

In 1980, blacks were 11.7 percent of the U.S. population. Yet, they accounted for 53 percent of the undercount.

Bills have been introduced in both the U.S. Senate and House to require future census counts to include statistical revisions to allow for the undercount.

ODDS AND ENDS:

- Michigan's population in 1980 was 9,262,078. In 1990, preliminary projections are that on April 1, 1990, the state's population will be 9,330,000. Though the state population is up slightly, less than 1 percent, the increase nationwide is expected to be 9.4 percent.

As a result, Michigan will lose at least one and probably two of its 18 House seats. New York could lose as many as five and Pennsylvania three. California, Florida and Texas, meanwhile, could gain as many as five seats each.

Statistics and background information in this report came from testimony from last summer's hearing before the U.S. House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service. The hearing was conducted in Ypsilanti by U.S. Rep. William D. Ford.

Census army to mobilize

including years of planning, forming mailing lists, hiring 300,000 employees nationwide and mailing out more than 100 million surveys — will be $2.6 billion, according to census officials.

The number of temporary employees will make census bureau employment larger than that of all but two of the corporations in the U.S.

In 1980, about 83 percent of the households returned a completed survey by mail. Officials hope to match that figure in 1990, with much of the manpower used to track down and interview residents of the other 17 percent.

To reach minorities, who historically have been undercounted, the bureau has hired black, Asian, Hispanic and Native American advertising companies.

The bureau is in the process of compiling a list of about 1.1 million rural households that currently don't appear on purchased mailing lists and another list of about 2 million urban households that don't appear on mailing lists.

Most Michigan lawmakers rated as spenders

By Richard G. Thomas
special writer

In the U.S. Senate, William Proxmire, D-Wis., had the most tightfisted voting record in 1988. In the U.S. House, Republican Philip Crane of Illinois led in austerity voting during the legislative year, according to a survey by Roll Call Report Syndicate.

On the other side of the ledger, Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., was the senator voting most often to raise spending on roll calls that presented a clear choice between higher or lower outlays. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, was the House member whose voting showed least concern about the annual deficit.

The newspaper syndicate's second annual Spending Index, a study of nearly 100 key roll calls conducted in 1988, shows how often lawmakers cast austerity votes to back up their political boasting on the deficit issue. It is the only national study of its kind by a news organization.

THE SURVEY found the average senator voting for austerity on only 19 percent of the year's roll calls posing a choice of more or less spending in 22 roll calls. Michigan's Carl Levin scored 14 percent and Donald Riegle 18 percent. Both are Democrats.

The average House member supported the less-spending alternative only 22 percent of the time in 76 roll calls. The higher the score, the more austere the record.

Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, scored 33 percent, second highest among Michigan's 18 representatives. William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, scored 12, second-lowest among Michiganians.

Among Democrats, Dennis Hertel of Harper Woods and William Ford of Taylor scored 17; and Sander Levin of Southfield, 15.

Lowest-ranked Michigan member was Rep. John Dingell of Trenton, 9. Most austere was Paul Henry, R-Grand Rapids. Detroit congressmen John Conyers and George Crockett rated 20 and 16, respectively, higher than suburban Democrats.

The Spending Index covered nearly all votes in the House and Senate chambers offering a choice between more or less spending, regardless of the amount of money at stake.

It tracked yeas and nays on efforts to establish or eliminate programs, create new agencies and commissions or dismantle existing units of government, hike or trim entitlement benefits, curb increases, increase outlays and inflict direct spending cuts.

THE SURVEY excluded several roll calls on highly charged issues such as Contra aid and abortion, where policy considerations overwhelmed fiscal concerns.

The less-spending alternative prevailed on only 12 percent of those 98 roll calls.

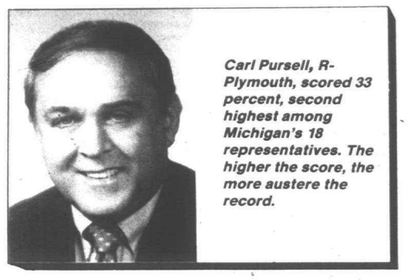
Proxmire, who voted the austerity position 68 percent of the time, was followed by Sens. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., who scored 55 percent, and Jesse Helms, R-N.C., 41 percent.

Chiles registered zero percent, and ranking just above him were Sens. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., and Albert Gore, D-Tenn., each with pro-austerity scores of 5 percent.

CRANE SCORED 59 percent. Ranking immediately behind him were GOP Reps. Bob Stump of Arizona with 57 percent, Norman Shumway of California with 55 percent, William Dannemeyer of California with 51 percent and James Sensenbrenner of Wisconsin with 50 percent. No other House member voted pro-austerity at least half the time.

Wilson recorded the lowest House score by supporting the less-spending alternative less than 1 percent of the time. He was followed by Democratic Reps. Sam Stratton of New York and Dan Mica of Florida, each with 4 percent, Ronald Coleman of Texas with 5 percent and Kika de la Garza of Texas with 7 percent.

The Spending Index weighs all votes equally and is non-partisan and is non-ideological.



Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, scored 33 percent, second highest among Michigan's 18 representatives. The higher the score, the more austere the record.

County dental care plan could continue for needy

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Dental care for needy Wayne County youngsters could continue if the county parts with some of its cash reserves, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said.

The county dental program, primarily used by needy children in western Wayne and downriver communities, had been threatened with elimination due to rising costs.

Last week, McNamara recommended saving the dental program by transferring $600,000 from county reserve accounts. Services are provided at five county clinics, including ones in Westland and Inkster.

McNamara proposed abandoning the clinics earlier this month in his original budget recommendations to county commissioners. Since then, both the executive and commission have been under pressure to continue providing dental services.

Those using the program began a letter-writing campaign. By their own estimate, they've delivered at least 139 letters to county officials.

"I'VE RECEIVED lots of letters, lots of calls," said commissioner Kay Beard, D-Inkster, whose district includes the Westland and Inkster clinics.

Beard said she was pleased clinics could remain open and would have no trouble transferring county reserves to keep the dental program operating.

"It's a very important program to the people I represent and to other people in the county as well," Beard said. "There's small children who wouldn't get any dental care without it."

The program primarily serves children of low-income parents, though pregnant women of low to moderate income are also eligible.

It provides routine dental care, including checkups and fillings. An estimated 7,000 low-income county residents currently use the program.

In addition, 2,000 school children are served through a related county fluoride program. The reserve transfer would also allow that program to continue.

Even with the transfer, McNamara said the program might not be able to serve as many people as before.

The new proposal "represents a scaled-down version of the current dental program," the executive said in an Oct. 31 letter to county commission Chairman Arthur Carter.

"(IT) REPRESENTS the minimum funding level necessary to maintain the program," McNamara said.

Dental services had been targeted for elimination because of the strain they place on the county's general operating budget, McNamara Administration officials said. Though the program is partially financed by a federal grant, officials said operating costs have risen in recent years while the grant hasn't.

The debt-ridden county had pledged to balance its general operating budget under last year's debt pay-back agreement with the state.

College board incumbents pass their tests

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

State voters gave passing grades to all five incumbents running in Tuesday's university board races and elected a newcomer to the Michigan State University board.

They also split their tickets electing one Democrat and one Republican each to the University of Michigan, Wayne State and MSU governing bodies.

• U-M — Deane Baker, Republican of Ann Arbor and Nellie Varner, Democrat of Detroit.

• WSU — Richard Van Dusen, Republican of Bingham Farms and Murray Jackson, Democrat of Detroit.

• MSU — Newcomer Robert Weiss, Democrat of Grand Blanc and Thomas Reed, Republican, of DeWitt.

U-M WINNER Baker is president of a land development company. He has been a member of the U-M board for 10 years. Fellow incumbent Varner is vice president and associate broker of Strather & Varner, Inc., a Detroit-based real estate firm. She has been a regent since 1981.

U-M vote totals were: Baker, 1,582,487; Varner, 1,492,838; Cliff Taylor, Republican of East Lansing, 1,460,445; Thomas Lewand, Democrat of Birmingham, 1,450,438. Other candidates were James Hudler of Chelsea, Libertarian, 54,497; and John Salvette of Bloomfield Hills, Libertarian, 47,588.

WSU WINNER Van Dusen is senior partner and chairman of a Detroit-based law firm and chairman of the Greater Detroit chamber of Commerce. He was appointed to the board in 1979 and elected in 1980. Fellow incumbent Jackson is an associate professor of higher education at the University of Michigan. He was first elected to the board in 1980 and was chairman this year.

Vote totals in the WSU race were: Van Dusen, 1,523,228; Jackson, 1,451,842; Vicki Kremm, Democrat of Rochester Hills, 1,441,130; Hattie Massey, Republican of Detroit, 1,415,479. Other candidates included James Kaufman of Huntington Woods, Tisch Independent Citizens, 70,008; Jack Freeman of Berkley, Libertarian, 49,720; Randy Szabla of Farmington Hills, Libertarian, 47,645.

MSU WINNER Weiss is Genessee County prosecutor. Fellow board member Reed was the lone incumbent in the race. He is general manager of the Michigan Livestock Exchange. He was first elected first to the board in 1980.

MSU vote totals were: Weiss, 1,513,567; Reed, 1,505,447; Barbara Rom, Democrat of Detroit, 1,487,943; Edward Liebler, Republican of Lansing, 1,412,665. Other candidates included Joseph Kozlowski, Tisch Independent Citizens, 72,414; and Diane Szabla of Farmington Hills, Libertarian, 65,522.

Dumochelle, Crawford win state board seats

Former board member Barbara Dumochelle of Grosse Ile and newcomer Lawrence Crawford of Saginaw won seats Tuesday on the Michigan State Board of Education.

• Dumochelle, 56, a Republican, served on the state board from 1979-87.

• Crawford, 39, a Democrat, is a former mayor of Saginaw.

Final vote totals for major party candidates were: Dumochelle, 1,562,761; Crawford, 1,532,724; Marilyn Lundy, Republican, 1,525,193; Stephen Economy, Democrat, 1,370,793.

Lundy, 63, of Grosse Pointe, is president of the League of Catholic Women of Detroit.

Economy, 49, of Farmington Hills is executive assistant to the president of Michigan Bell.

Crawford and Economy ran first and second in Wayne County; Dumochelle and Lundy ran first and second in Oakland County.

Other candidates included:

Robert Tisch, of Laingsburg, Tisch Indpendent Citizens, 113,937; Fayanne Kaufman of Huntington Woods, Tisch Independent Citizens, 55,187; Virginia Cropsey of Sterling Heights, Libertarian, 39,363; James Clifton of Addison, Libertarian, 33,856; Annette Johnson of Highland Park, Workers Against concessions, 27,680 and Verna Baird of Flint, Workers Against Concessions, 21,491.

Tisch is his party founder and a former gubernatorial candidate. As a local councilman, Clifton was the first Libertarian elected to state office in Michigan.

Victims receive ballot approval

As expected, a ballot proposal giving constitutional rights to crime victims easily passed statewide and in Wayne County.

The passage of Proposal B makes Michigan one of the first states in the nation to have such a constitutional guarantee. Florida also passed such a law Tuesday.

The proposal calls for victims to be treated with respect and dignity, to be notified of court proceedings, to confer with the prosecution and to make a statement in court at the time of sentencing. It also gives the Legislature the right to enact laws to enforce victims' rights, including a plan to assess criminals financially for problems they caused their victims.

The vote was 2,647,674 to 651,777 statewide, or 80 percent to 20 percent. It passed by 525,493 to 126,491 in Wayne County.

Locally, B passed in Livonia, 38,454 to 7,012; in Redford Township, 19,511 to 4,052; in Westland, 21,065 to 4,686.

"Give your boss $9.99 and tell him to leave town!"

You can spend a lot more getting to Metro Airport or back. But now you know about the Budget Metro Shuttle.
When you have a flight out on a Sunday or Monday, you can drive to the airport in one of our cars, from our locations in Birmingham, Southfield, Warren or Ann Arbor. And you can drive one of our cars back when you return on a Friday or Saturday. And, of course, the reverse for out-of-towners coming to see you. Tell them. The cost? Yes, $9.99 each way.
In either direction, you get three hours, a fifty-mile allowance, and enough gas to make the trip – all at a remarkably low rental rate. Why? Because on those days we need to move some cars from one place to another. And you need to move you from one place to another. See how it works out?
So be sure your travels via Metro Airport include a call to Budget Reservations, 355-7900. Say that you want to sign up for the Budget Metro Shuttle and go to the airport first class at economy rates.

School finances

Take a stand on tax diversion

The district must come up with a way to retain a portion of property taxes now diverted from educational purposes.

IT'S COMMON KNOWLEDGE the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools are experiencing financial problems.

But what is not as well known is that the schools are not getting all of the property tax dollars due for education.

That is happening in the school district because of the use of Downtown Development Authorities.

As the school district copes with budgetary problems, it's time educational officials speak out on the use of DDAs and their effect on education in the Plymouth-Canton community. The district must come up with a way to retain a portion of property taxes now diverted from educational purposes.

OTHER SCHOOL systems have been successful in having a say in the diversion of tax dollars. Plymouth-Canton can also make a difference by taking a stand on this important issue.

The DDA controversy is complicated. Simply put, DDAs were designed to promote economic growth and bolster declining property values.

When a DDA is created, a base year is set. Any new development or growth in property values after that base year remains in the DDA district to be used for improvements in that specific area.

That means all property taxes generated above the base are retained, even those property taxes that normally would go to the schools.

So far, that hasn't been a problem for the schools. The state reimburses school districts for the lost revenue.

But there is a catch. The state only reimburses schools that are in-formula, i.e. they get state financial aid because of a low tax base. The Plymouth-Canton schools are scheduled to go out of formula next year.

SO THE state will no longer reimburse the schools for the lost revenue. And that will put an additional financial pinch on a school district trying to cope with rising costs and flat revenues.

Voters have already said no to four tax hike requests so other money-raising options have to be explored.

How much money is diverted? So far, not too much.

From 1985 to 1987, the district has lost slightly more than $215,000 to the two DDAs — one in downtown Plymouth and one along Ford Road in Canton.

That is not a huge amount of money considering the schools have a $55 million budget.

But it does represent an important chunk of change considering the district has a pay-to-play policy for sports programs and has eliminated and cut programs throughout the system.

Before asking the voters for more money, the schools owe it to taxpayers to find alternate sources of revenue. That includes working out some sort of arrangement with the DDAs.

However, David Artley, school board president, has said he knows of no formal stands taken against the tax districts.

In Oakland County, though, the Avondale schools did take a stand. When Auburn Hills created a tax district for the Oakland Technology Park, the schools took action.

The result? The schools share 50 percent of the revenues generated by new development in the district.

By speaking up, that money now goes to education and books rather than roads and sewers.

We're not saying DDAs are bad. They bring in new growth and stabilize areas. But the schools should have some say in how their tax money is spent.

And it's time they voiced their concerns.

What's obscene?

Look at history not just law

The Michigan House of Representatives needs to look at some history lessons, not just law books, as it takes up Senate Bill 864 to regulate "obscene" material.

THOSE WHO fail to learn from the mistakes of history are destined to repeat them. The Michigan House of Representatives needs to look at some history lessons, not just law books, as it takes up Senate Bill 864 to regulate "obscene" material.

That bill, which passed the Senate 34-0, will open the door to a lot of trouble by allowing "contemporary community standards" to be used in defining offensive material appealing to prurient interests. Yes, a U.S. Supreme Court opinion allows contemporary community standards. That doesn't mean such a law makes good sense.

THE HISTORY of contemporary community standards is a train of abuses.

Item: National Geographic magazine, currently celebrating its 100th anniversary, reminds us of the controversy it generated in past decades with its photos of native women. Contemporary community standards.

Item: In California during the 1920s, Hermine Schwed and the Better America Federation disapproved of Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street." Contemporary community standards.

Item: Utah in 1921 considered a bill to fine women for wearing skirts higher than three inches above the ankle. Contemporary community standards.

Item: Tennessee, Oklahoma and Mississippi, at one time or another, have had anti-evolution laws on their books. Contemporary community standards.

Item: Carol F. Karlsen, a University of Michigan historian, relates how the law was applied in "The Devil in the Shape of a Woman: Witchcraft in Colonial New England." Most likely to be accused of witchcraft were "older women without husbands (who) were likely to be a financial burden to their children or the community." A critic of Puritan authorities was accused of heresy and banned from Massachusetts. A woman who served a sentence for witchcraft but died three nevertheless had a wooden stake driven through her body "to exorcise the 'baleful influence' that she supposedly possessed." Witchcraft trials died out in the 18th century as the power of Puritanism waned, Karlsen writes. Contemporary community standards.

Item: Great Britain bans post-bombing media interviews with Irish Republican Army spokesmen who appear to gloat over the incidents. Contemporary community standards.

THE STATE SENATE bill seeking to amend state law on pornography makes a number of mistakes that the House should clean up:

- It would remove a prohibition against local ordinances. Thus, it panders to tiny groups who can stampede a city council into passing something foolish. Our view is that any law should be statewide.
- The bill would remove from the law a requirement for "expert testimony or other ancillary evidence" in determining whether material is obscene — in other words, no art experts need speak.
- It allows "the average individual" to define whether a performance or exhibition, "taken as a whole," is obscene by these standards.

In legal fiction, ours is "a government of laws, not men." In fact, human beings must interpret the law and serve as jurors. The law means what judges and jurors, sometimes influenced by pressure groups, say it means.

Many Americans who have endured military service can tell hair-raising stories about what border guards and officers declare to be obscene. A person with a few chevrons on his sleeve can ban a history book.

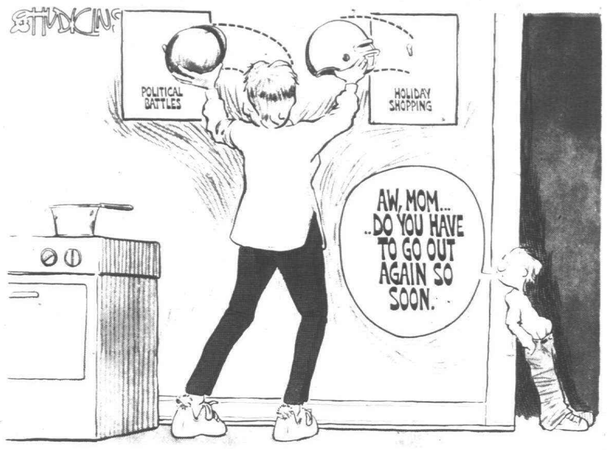
WRITING LAWS against obscenity is an extremely difficult business. Some jurists think government shouldn't even try.

An alternative more realistic than "contemporary community standards" is family standards. Parents have the duty of applying standards to what their kids look at, what stores and theaters they patronize.

Another valid tool is to determine whether anyone — a child, an unwilling adult, an animal — has been exploited in the production of (say) a film. If consenting adults are involved, better to ease up.

Senate Bill 864 has one good protection that deserves enactment. It would provide that a publisher or distributor couldn't force a local retailer to carry defined obscene material or sexual devices.

The chain bookstore owner, for example, couldn't even be threatened with the loss of a franchise for refusing to carry such materials. Such a law would protect responsible business people rather than empower tiny groups in tiny towns to beat up on those they don't like.



Case of a stolen truck and parking lot blues

SOME UNRELATED issues to help you clear your head of campaign debris:

One of the better phone calls of the year came across my desk last Saturday from Redford Township's Carol Vallance. Like many of us, she is hollering for a little help from a society gone mad.

Her story, although weird, is somehow less than surprising.

About a month ago Carol and her husband, Bob, found themselves joining the long list of crime victims. A trip in their truck to the shopping center at Telegraph and West Chicago ended in dismay when, after their shopping foray, they found their beloved blue Ford Ranger missing.

But wait, that's only the beginning. The best is yet to come.

Having owned the 1979 vehicle for about three years, they found it to be more than transportation. Carol says her husband polished it so much that the paint was literally coming off.

They also used it to haul their recreational vehicle. When stolen, the truck was full of camping equipment, a CB and Bob's glasses.

MORE THAN a month passed and the Vallance family was pretty well used to the idea that the Ranger had been retired to a chop shop or at least was far, far way from the Redford range.

But a phone call from neighboring Dearborn Heights alerted them that old FR 3721 (that's the license number) was sitting in the parking lot at the Carriage Hills apartments.

Carol raced to the scene to find the trusty Ranger parked in broad daylight, not changed a whit. Two phone calls and 45 minutes later the Dearborn Heights police decided to show up. Meanwhile Carol had parked her car behind the truck, ensuring that the bad guy couldn't escape.

"Hey, I was scared. Whoever stole that truck could have been watching me through the curtains. He could have had a gun."

The truck's ignition having been removed by the thief, the truck couldn't be moved. Carol volunteered to go get help, mistakenly assuming the officer would investigate, or at least stand by while she went for help.

Wrong.

When Carol came back, gone was the cop and, you guessed it, the truck.

The thief more than likely had been watching through the curtains. A witness told Carol the cop left immediately after she went for help, and the culprit retrieved his stolen booty.

"This idiot is driving around in our truck," she said in utter frustration.

So if you see a blue Ford Ranger with a white cap and the above-mentioned license plate, give Carol a hand and call a cop. Better yet, call Carol, she responds a whole lot quicker.

SPEAKING OF QUICK response, don't plan on it when coming or going from suburban Detroit's newest entertainment spot — the Palace. The arena truly is a state-of-the-art gem on the inside. But the traffic situation is nothing short of a nightmare.

Give yourself at least an hour's waiting time to get in and more than that to get out of the facility. That's above and beyond your travel time.

It's impossible to imagine what will happen the night that Oakland County has a full plate of entertainment and the Silverdome, Meadowbrook, Pine Knob and the Palace spill their patrons onto I-75 all at the same time.

County exec uses double standard

To the editor:

Anyone who read Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara's comments on the Mackinac Center's report recommending privatizing Metro Airport must have had their eyes opened. What's good for the goose is apparently not good for the gander.

I have steadfastly maintained that a strictly governmental function, as the jails are, should not be privatized for a host of reasons from too expensive, to no control over the company. Those arguments were never refuted by county executive McNamara. He gave only the usual political rhetoric. It didn't work then and it is more pathetic now.

An independent study recommended privatizing Metro Airport because of inefficiencies in land use, development, consumer orientation and outmoded contracts. McNamara says it won't work. Now he says it would cost more and end up a monopoly because few bidders are in the market. I thought he was quoting me and Sheriff Ficano, on jail privatizing.

Hopefully, he can make up his mind and apply the same standards to everyone on privatization. Ironically, the airlines are most happy with the sheriff's deputies providing security at the Airport. One can only wonder how much pure power politics plays in McNamara's two-faced position on private jails but not airports. Maybe now he will straighten up and fly right on the issue.

It's easy to blame others

To the editor:

Reply to "Where is school spirit?" (Oct. 31 issue).

As I am writing to take issue with Philip T. LaVeck's article, I suppose I must include "a little personal history." Our family has lived in Plymouth area for 16 years, we have three sons who have played football at Salem and we attended every single game over the last 10 years.

Mr. LaVeck's comments relative to Salem's style of play are subjective. He complains that "the offense at Salem has not changed in years." That our opponents know what we are doing on every play. That our "offense is unimaginative."

I wonder how it is that six of nine teams with "imaginative" offenses — and knowing what Salem was doing, could have been beaten by Salem by an average of 20 points? Of the three defeats the Rocks had, two were by 7 points or less. During the season, 12 different players carried the ball on rushes, seven different players caught passes, and four players threw the ball. I suppose you could call that boring, if you were ignorant of what football is all about.

I am very upset by Mr. LaVeck's third-party description of a Salem linebacker meeting at which our invited guest graciously gave us a 45-minute film and enhanced explanation of the "Theory of the Wishbone." The meeting began at 7:30 p.m., our guest left at 8:30 p.m., and the meeting adjourned at 9:15 p.m. The comments after the presentation reflected an appreciation for the complexity of the game.

For Mr. LaVeck to insinuate that Salem coaches would take reprisals against one of their players because his parent made some foolish comment is both beneath reply and rather pompous.

I was puzzled by Mr. LaVeck's idea that there is a relationship between school spirt and the $50 sports fee. Does he feel the fee would be justified if the student body would cheer louder?

I agree that there is a need to instill school spirit and pride in the student body. Perhaps our "fantastic CEP band" could lead the way. What if they were not dismissed at half-time? What if they stayed through the game and actually played the school fight song at critical points? Have you ever seen an "S" or a "C" formation from this "fantastic band?" You see how easy it is to blame others?

Student apathy is really a reflection of parent apathy. We are too busy; we have our own priorities. When was the last time you attended a school activity with your child? Where are the parents of those 2,500 milling students?

Voting — a gift to savor

Rich Perlberg

SOME PEOPLE didn't vote Tuesday and that bothers me. It shouldn't be a worry, I suppose. Maybe it is comforting that those with no interest in their government at least have the kindness not to help select the leaders.

But still it bothers me. This is a democracy, after all, and people should vote. They owe it to themselves, their children and their ancestors. People died so they could vote. People are dying for the right to vote elsewhere. Blacks and whites alike died in America for the right to vote. Given that, none of us has a good reason not to vote.

If the above sounds self-righteous, chalk it up to the zeal of one who has been reformed. Years ago I wallowed in the cynicism of one who said voting was a waste of time. Why bother? They are all just a bunch of politicians anyway.

Talk is cheap, of course. Despite my words, I still voted. But it was not an enthusiastic trip to the ballot box. Instead it was more of a duty — like brushing my teeth or making my bed each morning — drummed into my routine by my upbringing.

SOMEWHERE, AND I can't pinpoint the time or place, my thinking changed. It was about the time I started to grow up. Leaving a voting booth, I felt proud to be a part of the process. None of the races was particularly close, and I recall knowing that most of the people I voted for were going to lose. And they did.

But it still felt good. Standing in line I listened to farmers and business executives talk about the weather, sports, what ailed them and, of course, a little politics. They also seemed to feel good about what they were doing. It was an obligation, but it was also a reaffirmation that they belonged in this system. To them, voting was not a price to be paid but a gift to savor.

This is not a deep or original thought, and it skips over some serious reasons why people don't vote. Some people are discouraged from voting, although it is nowhere near as bad as the Poll Tax days. Others are too discouraged to vote. They are disenfranchised and defeated. Such people represent both failures of our society and threats to its stability.

ON THE other hand, there are success stories on which to dwell.

Earlier this year, a National Public Radio reporter accompanied a woman who was voting for the first time. The first-time voter was one of those adults who was hiding the fact that she could not read. She was taking reading lessons, and one of the benefits was the chance to vote for the first time in her life. She laughed and cried at the experience. Her joy was only slightly dimmed by the fact that her polling place was virtually empty; those who had the chance to vote were passing on the opportunity.

I thought about that woman this last week as I filled out my ballot. Because I work all day on Election Day, I voted by absentee ballot. I know my vote counts just as much this way, but I felt cheated. I miss the voting booth. And I resent the people who altogether miss the vote.

Exercising their right to vote, these residents concentrate on their ballots at a polling precinct in Cass Elementary School, Livonia. Columnist Rich Perlberg says people "owe it to themselves, their children and their ancestors" to vote.

Racing circuit is no match for rigors of local freeways

Fred DeLano

STANLEY BOYNTON is a name that may ring a bell in your memory if you attended old Baldwin High School in Birmingham and then Alma College during the '40s, flew F-86s as a fellow Air Force pilot in the '50s, or thrilled to sports car drivers like Stan hitting speeds up to 250 mph on the public roads of LeMans, France, in the '60s and '70s.

As exciting as those chapters of his life may have been, when I met Boynton he had developed a slight paunch, his hairline was receding, his automotive role was as owner of a car leasing firm headquartered in Ann Arbor, and he had just passed his 59th birthday. Without turning on my hearing aid, I found it hard to eavesdrop, two bar stools away, on what racing anecdote he was telling a friend. But I tried. And then I butted in.

Our paths crossed because he resides part of every week in the same town where I live, commutes twixt times to his home in Columbus, Ohio, where his wife is on the faculty of Ohio State University, and because he wins more football wagers than he loses. I like his style.

What's more, until this chance meeting not long ago, I never had heard cockpit comments from a driver who had placed in the money in the 24-hour LeMans race, or who had won one of at least 20 tries in our own around-the-clock total mileage marathon at Daytona, Fla.

Boynton confesses that no matter what the speed, neither competition was as scary as driving the Lodge, the Jeffries or Northwestern Highway. "On the race track, at least you know — for the most part — what the other guy is going to do," he explained.

So maybe you're asking what was Baldwin High School, no longer found in the summary of prep scores in your favorite newspaper. Well, the last class to graduate was in 1951, after which Birmingham opened a new high school, renamed Seaholm after Groves was added in the late '50s.

Raised as the son of a Detroit advertising agency owner, Stan graduated from Baldwin in '46 and Alma in '50. He competed athletically at both in each case serving as football co-captain in his senior year. He also found time to write a column on high school sports for the Birmingham Eccentric during his last two high school years, a fact that helped cement our relationship as blood brothers.

Delightfully affable but not loquacious, he mentioned at a luncheon joined by business associates Nancy and Mack Downs that as a sprinter he had held the 100-yard dash record for several years in the MIAA, the league to which Alma belonged. Maybe it was that swiftness that made him speed-conscious. The following years were testimony that it did, starting with his birdman bit in the Air Force.

It was a friend in Pittsburgh who was driving prototype cars on the Sports Car Club of America circuit who coaxed Stan into taking the wheel himself. He found it an outlet from the rigors of car dealership sales and management, making his first SCCA start in 1962. He didn't quit until after going to the starting line, "probably 400 times or so."

The decision to get out came after a 12-hour race at Sebring. His eyes had done him in.

"I was going fine but I found that I didn't have depth perception going into the corners at more than 200 miles an hour after dark," Boynton said, matter-of-factly. "Sebring doesn't end until an hour before midnight and I couldn't see at night. Speed is relative and it doesn't seem you're going that fast because everyone else is too. But the problem is in the corners. Depth perception is a must."

Now Stan rarely goes to the races. "It's fun to do, but I don't get that big a kick out of watching a race," is the way he put it.

Then he added after a pause, "It was very, very satisfying. I enjoyed it a lot. It started as a sport and ended as a business. It takes coordination and quick reflexes, but most of the guys I know are pretty slow drivers out in public."

As Nancy reached (successfully) for the luncheon check — honest, she really did and all three guys bowed to feminine logic — I thought to myself that maybe some of the nuts out there on the freeways would do well to pay heed to such a comment from a true professional. Speed may be relative, as Stan said, but the way some of them drive they won't have any relatives.

Dingell: Debt robs environmental aid

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-Dearborn, summed up the between-a-rock-and-a-hard-place situation local communities find themselves in trying to meet federal clean-air and clean-water standards.

"We've imposed enormous responsibilities on local communities, but funds are harder to come by," Dingell told a gathering of municipal officials last week at the Airport Hilton in Romulus.

Attending were officials from Dingell's district and that of Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, whose district includes Garden City, Westland, southern Livonia and Canton Township. The one-day conference featured national and state officials and experts discussing such issues as the federal budget, solid-waste disposal, the federal Superfund for cleaning up toxic waste sites, clean-air standards and the 1990 census.

Both Ford and Dingell blamed the enormous federal deficit for a decline in federal money available for state and local governments.

Ford said the U.S. will spend $210 billion next year on debt interest, alone. "It won't buy a brick. It won't clean a stream. It's going to bankers all over the world," said Ford.

THE BUDGET:

Shirley Ruhe, staff member of the House Budget Committee, said budget cutbacks of about $40 billion are required next year under Gramm-Rudman. Just 16.7 percent of the federal budget for 1989 is for non-defense discretionary items, which take the brunt of Gramm-Rudman cutbacks.

Social Security, debt interest and other mandatory expenses account for 58.6 percent of the 1989 budget, and defense spending accounts for 24.8 percent.

Charlie Bartech, a senior analyst for the Northeast-Midwest Institute, said federal mandates for states would continue to increase service demands "but many lack federal funding."

Kevin Riper, deputy director of the state's Department of Management and Budget, said new federal nursing-home regulations result in the spending of $120 million, none of it federally financed.

'We've imposed enormous responsibilities on local communities, but funds are harder to come by.'

— U.S. Rep. John Dingell D-Dearborn

ON THE ENVIRONMENT:

Howard Levenson, a U.S. House staff member, said 80 percent of this country's solid waste is buried in landfills. But the landfills are filling so fast, 80 percent of the existing capacity will be gone in 25 years.

He said any solution must require a combination of reducing waste by repackaging and designing products before they enter the market, recycling and incineration.

Barbara Lambert, manager for the waste-management division of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, said the EPA is aiming for 25 percent recycling.

Municipal leaders were told these facts on state garbage — in 1978, 26,000 tons of garbage were churned out each day, and in 1988, it is 32,000 tons; we could fill the Silverdome to the roof with garbage 300 times a year; there were 1,500 landfills in the state in the 1960s and about 150 today.

THE CONFERENCE had its somber moments, such as when Ford said: "The chance of getting revenue sharing back in the near future is slim and none."

But it had its funny moments, too, such as when Dingell said of his long relationship with Ford: "We've made integration work downriver. I'm a Polack and he's a hillbilly, and we get along just fine."

And when Lambert, in the middle of her speech, paused, looked around and said: "I'm glad to see we don't have Styrofoam cups here. I go to a lot of these things and we'll be talking about how to reduce garbage and I'll look around and there will be all these Styrofoam cups."

54 prep bands in competition

Fifty-four high school marching bands will gather at the Pontiac Silverdome Friday and Saturday for the Bands of America 1988 Grand National Marching Band Championship.

They will present complex programs, with music ranging from classical to jazz, show tunes to pop, with costuming, colorful props and choreography.

Outstanding marching bands represent a dozen states. More than 30,000 participants, parents and spectators are expected at the two-day event.

IT WILL include an exhibition performance by the 300-plus-member James Madison University Marching Royal Dukes from Virginia. The "Dukes" have been featured with Walt Disney Productions and at professional football games.

Thirteen Michigan bands are scheduled to participate.

The event returns to Pontiac for the second year. It is sponsored in part by Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurants and several Hilton Inns — Troy and Northfield — and the Michigan Inn.

SOME 26 BANDS will perform Friday in preliminary competition beginning at 12:30 p.m.

The remaining 28 bands will perform on Saturday beginning at 8:15 a.m.

The top 12 bands from preliminary competition will then perform in the finals at 7 p.m. Saturday. Gates open at 6 p.m.

Ticket prices are $7 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens for each day of prelims; all finals reserved seats are $10.

Safety belt usage hits 46 percent

Seat-belt-use by drivers in the United States hit an all time high of 46 percent, Secretary of Transportation Jim Burnley said.

"It is gratifying to see belt use reach the highest point it has ever been in this country, but better yet, increasing public acceptance of safety belts is saving lives and preventing injuries," Burnley said.

"Among front-seat passenger-vehicle occupants (passenger cars, light trucks and vans), safety belts saved about 4,000 lives in 1987. From 1983 through 1987, safety belts have saved nearly 11,000 lives — 6,900 due to belt use laws."

Burnley said the 46 percent use figure was based on 98,000 observations in 19 cities. No Michigan city was in the survey.

In 1982, before the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration began a campaign and issued a rule that encouraged states to adopt mandatory seat-belt-use laws, only about 11 percent of drivers used safety belts. The survey was conducted between June and August this year.

"Americans today are safer on the highway than any time in recent history. The fatality rate, the best measure of your risk on the road, is 2.4 per 100 million miles of travel — the lowest in history," Burnley said.

"Drunk-driver fatalities have decreased 14 percent since 1982, and belt use continues to increase," Burnley said.

Currently, 32 states and the District of Columbia have seat-belt-use laws.

High school ambition grows into parks and rec job

By Julie Brown
staff writer

As a high school student, Bob Dates was interested in a career in parks and recreation.

Dates, 35, who grew up in Ann Arbor, worked seven consecutive summers for the Parks and Recreation Department there. Now he is recreation supervisor for Canton's Parks and Recreation Department.

"Last month was my ninth year. It doesn't seem like it's been nine years. Time goes by fast.

"All the way through high school and college, that was my summer job," he said, listing his responsibilities that ranged from junior playground leader to citywide tournament director.

"I really enjoyed it, and I was hooked on it. I knew I wanted to get into that field."

DATES GRADUATED from Pioneer High School and earned a bachelor's degree in parks and recreation from Central Michigan University, known for its parks and recreation program.

Then it was off to Columbia, S.C., where he worked for two years as recreation supervisor.

"That was when I was single, and I loved the warm climate."

While living in South Carolina, Dates earned some graduate credit hours through CMU's off-campus program. He had to return to Mount Pleasant to complete work on his master's degree in parks and recreation administration.

'I never did get back to South Carolina'

"I never did get back to South Carolina."

Instead, Dates met his wife, Ann, and learned about the job opening in Canton.

After getting his master's, Dates started working for Canton's Parks and Recreation Department. He worked part time for a few months, helping with the summer softball leagues and other activities. That fall, the full-time position became available.

Now, as recreation supervisor, Dates is in charge of all the department's programs, except those for senior citizens.

PROGRAMS ARE offered throughout the year for people of all ages.

"Canton's a young community. Soccer, of course, is booming here . . ."

Dates' interest in sports goes back to his youth when he played football, basketball, baseball and golf.

And today? "My real passion is golf. I try to combine traveling with golf if possible."

His wife, Ann, who works for J.C. Penney at Twelve Oaks, also plays golf.

"So it works out really well."

They travel to northern Michigan to golf and to the Myrtle Beach area in South Carolina.

Back in Canton, Dates said he enjoys working with his boss, Mike Gouin, and the many high school and college students who work part time for the department.

Some who have worked there in the past come back to visit — all grown up and with families of their own.

"NOW THEY'RE lawyers and teachers. They still stop in. That's very nice. You always knew they would make a success of their lives, but it's nice to see that they did."

Dates' duties take him around the community frequently. He keeps in contact with area businesses who provide support for various recreation programs. He also visits schools, distributing fliers on parks and recreation programs, and he visits program sites, to make sure everything is working.

Said he, in an understatement: "I'm out and about a lot.

Dates is active in the Michigan Recreation and Park Association and the National Recreation and Park Association. He is involved in GERMS, the Southeast Michigan Recreation Executive Group. That group includes parks and recreation officials from about 30 communities. Members meet once a month and share program ideas and other advice.

Dates intends to continue to work in Canton.

"We're still growing with plans for bigger and better things," he said. "I still find it challenging and very enjoyable."

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Bob Dates, Canton's recreation supervisor, has been on the job for nine years. "I still find it challenging and very enjoyable," the Canton resident said. Dates' office at Canton Township Hall is full of sports memorabilia, much of it honoring the University of Michigan. Canton sweatshirts, such as this one, can also be found there. (The sweatshirts are sold at the Canton Parks and Recreation Department office.)

Dr. William Myers, an ophthalmologist, checks for signs of cataracts. Myers is director of the Michigan Eyecare Institute.

Surgery can help seniors stay active

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Dr. William Myers knows that seniors today are more active than ever.

Myers, an ophthalmologist, is director of the Michigan Eyecare Institute. So far, the oldest patient he has seen for cataract surgery was 106.

"Chronology has very little to do with it as far as I'm concerned," Myers said.

One patient recently visited Myers in his Canton office. That Plymouth man, in his 70s, is in a bowling league. Some others in that league are older and boast respectable averages.

"Those are the kind of people that benefit the most," said Myers, a Birmingham resident. "Their expectations are greatly increased in terms of what they want to achieve in life."

Myers earned his medical degree from the University of Michigan. Cataract surgery is one area he specializes in.

The Michigan Eyecare Institute has its main office in Southfield, with several other offices in the area. One is in the Canton Professional Park, on Canton Center Road.

WHEN MYERS was a resident, "magic numbers" were used to determine when cataract surgery was called for.

"The concentration now is on something called visual needs," he said.

Myers uses several criteria in determining whether surgery is called for. The first is that there be a cataract. A second or third opinion can be called for in determining that.

At birth, the lens in each eye is clear, except for those with congenital conditions. As some people age, that lens becomes cloudy. That is a cataract.

In deciding whether to perform surgery, Myers determines if the cataract is causing the problem. A visometer test — in which light is projected onto the back of the eye on the retina — can assess beforehand the outcome of surgery.

Myers also asks if the patient is bothered by the loss of vision.

"That's where this tremendous variability comes in," he said.

CATARACTS ARE more common among older adults, although they can affect younger people as well.

"The method of removing the cataract has changed a great deal," Myers said.

He and his colleagues prefer ultrasound removal. In this procedure, a tiny incision is made, and the cataract is dissolved with sound waves and removed.

The incision made is just under 3

This pastime is for the birds

By Julie Brown, staff writer

Evelyn Edgar knows that birds need the same things to survive that people do. They need water, food, shelter and a safe place to raise their young.

People who start feeding birds this time of year need to continue doing so throughout the winter.

"You take on responsibility for those birds too."

Bill and Evelyn Edgar, Plymouth Township residents, enjoy visits from a variety of birds in their yard. They talked about birds during a program offered by the Friends of the Plymouth Dunning-Hough Library.

The program was held Nov. 3, at the library. Bill Edgar showed slides of birds while his wife, a retired schoolteacher, talked about how to attract birds.

"The little chickadee is really a clown." Those birds are insect-eaters who eat suet in the winter.

"It's just beef fat," she said.

SUET'S AVAILABLE in the meat section of area stores. Many birds eat it in the winter when insects aren't readily available. Some birds eat sunflower seeds and other seeds.

Evelyn Edgar talked about attracting such birds as cardinals and blue jays.

"They're here all year long," she said of the blue jays. "They're noisy, they eat a lot, but they are beautiful."

A wire mesh suet feeder is a good choice, she said. It helps to keep raccoons from eating the suet meant for birds.

Goldfinches, house finches, robins and mourning doves can also be attracted to area yards.

"Mourning doves aren't always the brightest birds," she said. Their nests aren't well-constructed, and they sometimes lose their babies through holes in those nests. Although they're not all that bright, Evelyn Edgar sort of likes the mourning doves.

Peanut butter can help birds get through a long winter.

"It should be mixed with something else." Birds don't digest peanut butter well, so it needs to be mixed with bread crumbs, corn meal or melted suet.

NOT ALL BIRDS who come to visit stay very long.

"I call them accidental or occasional visitors," she said. Some birds, such as flickers, may visit for just a few days.

"If you don't know what a flicker sounds like, come down to Miller Woods. There are lots of them there."

The Edgars are involved in the Friends of the Miller Woods, with Evelyn Edgar serving as president of that organization. The site is on Powell Road in Plymouth Township.

The Miller Woods site is owned by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, with many volunteers working to maintain it and make its presence known. Area schoolchildren visit the woods, to learn about nature and wildlife.

In addition to slides of birds, the Edgars showed slides of the Miller Woods. That site is home to many visiting birds.

Part of the fun for the Edgars is not knowing just what birds will visit their yard.

"You never know what's going to turn up in your back yard," she said.

Titmice, meadow larks and some game birds, such as quail and pheasants, have found their way to the Edgar yard, as have other birds.

SQUIRRELS ALSO visit for meals.

"As long as there's one or two, we don't mind it," she said. Having more than that is too many, as the squirrels eat food meant for the birds.

Birds also need water year-round. The Edgars have a pedestal birdbath at their home and keep that water heated year-round. The heater is the same kind used on poultry farms.

"It works very well, and I don't think our electricity bill goes up an awful lot more," she said.

The Edgars have a pond with a pump used to recirculate and aerate the water. A friend of theirs in Northville has a fish pond.

"That's the ultimate in providing water for the birds, I think." Although it's not as elaborate, a garbage can lid turned upside down and filled with water will also provide water for birds.

During the library program, Edgar talked about different kinds of feeders and nesting boxes. Several feeders, on loan from Saxton's Garden Center in Plymouth, were on display.

She talked about the placement of feeders; bushes can provide some protection for birds. Evergreens provide good shelter, as do other shrubs and trees.

Sumac serves as an emergency food for birds; if a snowstorm hits in the early spring, robins will descend on sumac, looking for food.

"Don't plant your shrubs far apart," Evelyn Edgar said. Having a small thicket is better than having shrubs scattered around the yard.

The Edgars have been working to attract birds to their yard for more than 30 years. They've done work with the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts; Evelyn Edgar taught school, retiring in 1972 from the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

Bill Edgar grew up on a farm; Evelyn Edgar's father was interested in the outdoors.

"So I guess that's where it started," she said of their interest in birds. Evelyn Edgar enjoys her work at Miller Woods and seeing area schoolchildren benefit from their visits to the woods is rewarding.

BPW honors Zimmerman

Nancy Zimmerman was among women from throughout Michigan recently honored at the Clarion Hotel and Convention Center in Lansing. The ceremonial banquet was held to mark the kickoff of National Business Women's Week, observed Oct. 16-22 across the U.S.

Zimmerman was chosen as the "Woman of Achievement" honoree by the Canton Business and Professional Women's Club. She is a member of the Canton BPW and is also the president-elect of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Zimmerman is employed by Manufacturers Bank-Detroit.

The "Woman of Achievement" award recognizes women who have distinguished themselves in their career and community. Marilyn Alimpich, a field representative for the Social Security Administration, was chosen as "Woman of Achievement" by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club.

Active seniors benefit from cataract surgery millimeters. There was a slight disadvantage, in that the implants measured some 6 millimeters. It used to be necessary to enlarge the incision to put in the lens implant.

Implants are now available made out of silicone. They can be folded or rolled and then inserted, making it unnecessary to enlarge the incision.

After surgery, patients can do pretty much what they want, Myers said. He has had patients go bowling or golfing the day after surgery.

Indicators of cataracts include a general blurring of vision. Some patients don't have that problem, but are bothered by glare from sunlight or headlights.

"Glare in some people can be a real big problem," Myers said.

Those patients are often able to read the eye chart in the doctor's office, but have vision problems elsewhere.

FROM THE doctor's standpoint, cataract surgery has become increasingly complex and difficult.

"The equipment is tremendously expensive and complex and requires a support team (including nurses and technicians)," Myers said.

For patients, the surgery isn't all that difficult, he said.

"From the patient's standpoint, it seems tremendously simple. And they're seeing very quickly."

Myers gives cataract surgery patients a nerve block, so that they won't blink during surgery. That wears off in an hour or so; the patient doesn't even have to wear an eye patch when he or she leaves after surgery.

MYERS DOES surgery either at the Michigan Eyecare Institute's main office in Southfield or on an outpatient basis at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia.

CATARACT SURGERY is done one eye at a time, rather than both eyes at once. Generally, Myers waits four to eight weeks after doing one eye before operating on the second, although surgery is sometimes done sooner for those who have traveled a distance.

"Complications are exceedingly rare," he said.

Even so, it's best to wait and be sure the first eye is perfect before operating on the second one.

CATARACT SURGERY, which has made great progress in recent years, goes back centuries. A technique used many years ago was known as couching. It involved poking a sharp instrument into the eye to push the cataract back.

Surgery went through many stages. More than 50 years ago, in the pre-suture stage, it involved extensive bed rest for a patient. A patient was surrounded by sandbags on the bed, to keep him or her from moving. After sutures came about, that wasn't necessary.

Myers calls the early 1970s the "golden years" of eye surgery. Lens implants were worked on, as were other areas.

"A whole host of lasers have come out in the intervening time," Myers said.

HE ATTRIBUTES that golden age to the genius of people, and to technology catching up with that genius.

MYERS INVENTED the Nova-Curve Lens.

The field will continue to grow, he said.

"There's no question about that."

It is possible that an injectable lens will become available; animal studies are being done on that.

"We're almost there with this foldable lens," Myers said.

Another type of lens being worked on allows the patient to focus both on objects near and far away.

"It isn't something you can go and ask for right now," Myers said.

That lens, which works in a way similar to bifocals, may become available in a year or two, if approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

MYERS also is doing laser surgery. (See related story.)

Research focuses on preventive care

There are several theories related to preventing cataract formation.

Ultraviolet light, such as that used in tanning booths, can be a problem. Research is being done in that area.

"We don't know yet," said Dr. William Myers, an ophthalmologist and director of the Michigan Eyecare Institute.

It's important to wear glasses with an ultraviolet filter in the lens when exposed to such light, he said.

Some studies suggest that taking an aspirin a day can reduce the risk of cataract formation. Those who can tolerate taking aspirin can do so. This could help in the future.

"It's not expensive and it's not dangerous," Myers said.

EYE PROTECTION is also important. Some people need to wear eye protection on the job.

"On the job, there's generally someone there to enforce it," Myers said.

When working with tools or doing yard work, eye protection is essential. Some sports, such as racquetball, also require use of protective eyewear.

The genetics of cataract formation haven't been worked out yet, Myers said.

If both of your parents have had cataracts, your chances of developing cataracts will be greater. That doesn't mean you will get cataracts.

Computers don't get much blame for causing cataracts, according to Myers.

"The radiation coming off of there is so very small that most scientists don't consider that a real concern," he said.

New Morning School has midyear openings

New Morning School in Plymouth Township has immediate openings in its early primary class.

The individualized kindergarten program meets 12:15-3 p.m. daily. Activities are geared toward the needs of each child.

The program is also appropriate for some older 4-year-olds. Its curriculum includes music, French, computers, science and cooking. Reading and math readiness skills are also covered.

Playtime and interaction with other children are included. Midyear enrollment will be accepted for the afternoon early primary class.

Additional information is available from Elaine Yagiela, executive director at New Morning School, 420-3331. Yagiela is a Northville resident.

The school, founded in 1973, is a state-certified, nonprofit parent cooperative. It serves children in preschool through the eighth grade.

At New Morning School, parents are involved in all aspects of the program. Parents help in the classroom and assist with administrative tasks. Extended hours and use of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools bus system help accommodate the schedules of working parents.

Student-teacher ratio at the school is set at 12 students per teacher.

For more information, call 420-3331 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

New Morning School is at 14501 Haggerty Road, just north of Schoolcraft in Plymouth Township. Car pools are available from many areas.

Group enjoys fun-filled outing

Participants and staffers from the Plymouth Adult Day Care Center were recently guests of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. They visited the hotel on Thursday, Oct. 27, for lunch.

"They loved it, they just loved it," said Mary Mauro, site director for the center. "It was something that doesn't happen every day."

Gladys Szatkowski, a waitress at the Crow's Nest, has had her mother at the center for the past nine months. She arranged with management at the Mayflower for the older adults to visit for lunch.

The center is operated by Plymouth Family Service, a Plymouth Community United Way agency. It is based at St. John's Episcopal Church on Sheldon Road in Plymouth Township.

The group visiting the hotel included about nine participants and four staff members, Mauro said.

"We don't get out much from the church here, so it was really special," she said. A van was available to provide transportation to and from the hotel.

The group has been invited back to the Mayflower to see the holiday decorations, Mauro said.

At the Plymouth Adult Day Care Center, older adults meet Monday through Friday for a variety of activities, including socialization and recreation. For more information, call 451-1455.

Outreach focuses on widowed

By C.L. Rugenstein
staff writer

All of a sudden you're alone. There's no one to do things with, things you took for granted before — going to dinner, to the movies, for walks, or to just talk to. The life built around a deceased spouse is gone, and along with it, the comforting companionship of everyday life.

Such has been the experience of Bernice Barduca, and many other widows and widowers who belong to group called NAIM. NAIM is a special outreach of the Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit and serves as a support group to surviving spouses. NAIM seeks to fill the need for companionship.

"You don't even need to go out for coffee," Barduca, a member of the Rochester NAIM chapter, said. "With NAIM, you can get out your list and call someone to just talk."

The group, started about 25 years ago in downtown Detroit by Monsignor Clifford Sawyer, has grown to six chapters throughout the Detroit metropolitan area.

Sawyer named it for a city in a familiar Gospel story, said the archdiocese's Family Life director, Bud Ozar. It was at the city of Naim that Jesus of Nazareth stopped a funeral procession and raised the only son of a widow from the dead.

"IT'S AN extension of the compassion Jesus extended in the Gospel, and we're extending that today through NAIM," Ozar said. "The basic thrust of the group is friendship and companionship through social, educational and spiritual activities."

And what activites they have.

"It's incredible," said Ozar with a laugh. "A good part of their monthly meeting is just getting their calendar straight."

Once someone becomes a member of one chapter, they're entitled to participate in the activities of all the others. Some of the more recent activites have been spending a day at the Hazel Park Race track, a trip to Holland or Greek Town or Frankenmuth, movie nights, and an "everybody's" birthday party — one card serves all, Ozar said.

There are a lot of things to choose from depending on the need, but the people don't want to get too busy and not get through the grief process, Ozar said.

The groups' primary purpose is to build friendships to help get through the hard times.

The groups meet in churches or church-related buildings like Knights of Columbus halls or American Legion halls. Members find NAIM a lot of times, but many referrals come from the local parishes.

"We're very dependent on them to make contact, to talk with the surviving spouse within three to four months (after the funeral)," Ozar said.

There are a couple of groups for younger widows, but average ages range from 40-45 and 60-65.

WHILE many groups for the widowed (and divorced) have a reputation for being "meat markets"— places to meet a new partner — Bernice Barduca was pleased to find NAIM was not.

"The atmosphere was more relaxed," she said about her first meeting. "People are so much more friendly and open. That's what I was looking for, somebody to do things with."

Barduca had married at 18, had her three children by 24, and was widowed at 51. Never having worked outside the home, she'd built her life around her husband and family.

NAIM was a godsend for her. She got involved with the Rochester group and has served in several capacities, including activities chairman for two years. And she found a new friend who she travels with.

"She was born in Wales and I was born in the Upper Peninsula, and we were amazed at the similarities of our experiences," she said. They're so amazed that they're planning a harvest festival dinner for the Rochester chapter like the festivals they remember from their home towns.

"You never get over the every day loneliness" of the loss of a spouse, Barduca said, but, with friends to share it, it does get easier.

NAIM's chapters are Wayne, Macomb, Rochester, Oakland, Belle River and Downriver. They're planning a special Day of Recollection in Windsor on Nov. 12 at the Pope John XXIII Center, with a trip to a local restaurant after.

"It'll be an opportunity to look at the losses they have in common," said Ozar.

For more information about NAIM, contact Rev. Syl Taube at the Family Life Office of the Archdiocese of Detroit, 237-5892.

The vote should make us motivated moral perspectives

Rev. Lloyd Buss

The election is over; we know the winners. But do we know what they are going to do as our elected representatives?

That depends. It depends on how much we plan to participate in the ordering of public life.

The political campaign 1988 style was a great disappointment and bodes grievious times. Getting elected has always been a goal for seekers of public office, but never in vintage memory has it been with such disdain for the maladies of public life that need our urgent and careful attention.

However, before we chastise and castigate the contestants, we need to examine and remember our demands upon their presence.

Contestants for public office keep a most watchful eye on the interests and desires of the voting public. Opinion polls, nightly newscasts, crowd size and responses, financial support et al are all weighty factors in creating speech rhetoric and one-line slogans.

Contestants for public office 1988 style told us what we wanted to hear. They were more interested in establishing a public consensus than in creating a public conscience.

THIS IS not the first time, nor will it be the last. In the sixth century, B.C., Jeremiah directed his oracles against Judah and Jerusalem and it included a scathing indictment from the Lord: "For the least to the greatest of them, every one is greedy for unjust gain . . . they have healed the wound of my people lightly, saying 'peace, peace' where there is no peace." (Jeremiah 6:14)

Josiah and the people of Judah had ignored Jeremiah's prophetic words as wind, but the wind would return as the consuming word of God.

Does all this suggest that the political campaign 1988 style did not include the important issues of our public life? Of course not.

Opinion polls, nightly newscasts, campaign speech rhetoric and one-line slogans et al covered taxes, the national deficit, jobs, foreign trade, crime and punishment, national defense and nuclear disarmament, as well as abortion, waving flags and praying in public schools.

What we wanted was a 30-second analysis, resolution and candidate guarantee. It is entirely possible that that is exactly what the political campaign 1988 style has produced.

Unfortunately for our time and, even more unfortunately, for the times to come, that will not serve us well as we move forward into an ever changing world.

PREOCCUPIED as we have been with electing our candidates, even as our candidates have been preoccupied with being elected, we have left untouched the soul-wresting experience of affirming and establishing fundamental justice and truth in our times of great change.

Political candidates only promote what they believe the public desires. Political candidates, turned into political officeholders, will be equally anxious to meet the expectations of their constituency.

The political campaign 1988 style is over . . . at last. Now the real work for the American public has begun — at least if the American public intends to meet the demands and opportunities of these times with spirit and resolve that created this nation and time in which we live and hope.

The Rev. Lloyd Buss is pastor of Abiding Presence Lutheran Church in Rochester Hills.

Area Lutherans participate in convocation

Staff people and members of Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church in Livonia were some of the 6,500 people who attended The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's Great Commission Convocation recently in St. Louis, Mo.

Those in attendance from Christ Our Savior were senior pastor the Rev. Luther Werth and his wife, Norma. Other staff members and congregational members included Fred Reese, director of Education and Spiritual Gifts; his wife, Judy Reese, director of pre-school, Linda Waara, director of Evangelism; Randy Wendt, youth director; and Mr. and Mrs. Walt Roessler.

Highlights included performances by a 2,100-voice children's choir, a friendship festival with Dr. Oswald C.J. Hoffmann of the "Lutheran Hour" radio show and a multi-media presentation at the close of the convocation.

This year's convocation, the third held by the Synod since 1980, offered participants more than 180 workshops designed to help them improve their lives and ministries.

Workshops focused on such topics as good parenting, marriage enrichment, facing stress, responding to divorce, AIDS, refugee resettlement, the role of women in the parish and the use of computers in the ministry.

The 2.6-million member Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, based in St. Louis, is the second largest Lutheran denomination in the United States.

SEMCOG steps up van, car pool efforts

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Would you like a new, $20,000 van in your driveway — at no cost to you? Would you like to drive it to work — again at no cost to you? And be able to use it on weekends and after work as you see fit?

It may sound too good to be true, but it isn't. You can get just such a free vechicle — avoiding downpayments, monthly bills, and all maintenance and repairs, too — just by volunteering to drive a van pool during the week.

The Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments will do a computer search to help find the 12-15 riders necessary to qualify for the van. The riders are assessed a monthly fee to cover their rides to and from work, and that fee in turn goes to pay for the leasing of the van.

RideShare
CALL 963-RIDE

Van Pool Services, a Chrysler subsidiary, leases the vans. There is no government subsidy, so everyone wins, said Anita Ste. Marie, RideShare manager for SEMCOG. The driver gets a new, free van, riders save money on gas and parking, and society benefits in terms of fuel savings, a decrease in pollution and less clogged freeways.

Currently, 200 vans are in use statewide, with about 60 operating in the seven-county SEMCOG region.

WINTER IS COMING, which means an increase in interest in van and car pooling, according to Ste. Marie.

To help promote pooling, SEMCOG offers a free program to area employers. SEMCOG officials will come to the worksite with on-site displays, literature and application brochures to help promote pooling.

The employer benefits, too, with less demand for parking space and less on-site congestion, less wear and tear on parking facilities and, according to SEMCOG, even lower levels of absenteeism.

SEMCOG uses a computer to match riders, based on home and work location and work hours.

Presentations were made recently in Livonia at Manufacturers National Bank and Northwest Airlines. Two van pools were organized for the bank, one from Roseville and one from Dearborn.

Eight vans pool riders to Comerica in Auburn Hills, and one takes riders from Garden City to Troy, for example.

Back to basics

Dean Witter VP returns to sales

By Tom Henderson
staff writer

Many young stockbrokers and investment counselors dream of the day when they run will the office, with all the perks that entails — power, a nice title and a salary well up in the six-figure range.

Robert Hecker of Bloomfield Hills had all three — he supervised 40 brokers and 20 other staffers as senior vice president in charge of the Southfield office of Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. and supervised a staff of 12 at a satellite office in Flint.

But one day this summer, sitting out by the water at his summer home on Torch Lake near Traverse City, Hecker decided that while the power was nice for his ego and the salary good for his bank account, what he really wanted to do was what he had done as a young man — he wanted to manage money, not brokers. And so, he asked Dean Witter to find someone else to run the office and let him go back to the no-guarantees, commission-only world of account management.

"I was sitting at my summer retreat and I came to the conclusion that at 50, I wanted to return to the roots of the business. I was contemplating the world, looking at the water, and I realized that's what I really wanted to do," said Hecker.

"No, it wasn't a mid-life crisis," he said, laughing. "I went through that when I was 38."

And it wasn't a result of coming to grips with his own mortality. He'd already done that when he went through open-heart-surgery in February of 1986. No, making such a rare, and some would say backward, step was just a matter of a deciding that after a long and successful career of being the complete company man, moving from city to city and post to post, it was time to do what he wanted to.

STOCK BROKERS and money managers have taken a bit of a beating lately. The movie "Wall Street" portrayed many of them as greedy Yuppies driven wild over short-term profits; Ivan Boesky took his big tumble; and the stock market took its big tumble last October, losing 500 points in a single day.

Hecker said that some of the bad reputation of young brokers is justified. And that one of the reasons he resigned his position last month is because it was time for the old-fashioned way of money management to make a comeback.

"There is a need for someone like myself who is long in the tooth and grey of hair. I have withstood a lot of cycles in this business," said Hecker. "I take the long-term view, you bet. I'm not in a get-rich-quick business."

Too many brokers today, he says, don't want to put in the long days and Saturdays that went into his career. "But that's not just this business. It's the world. Everything is best demonstrated by the fast-food industry. People want their food in two minutes, not an hour. This is a let's-get-it-quick world."

As differing as their investment styles might be, Boesky and Hecker come from the same background. They went to Mumford High School

Residential building declines

Westland, Farmington Hills and Southfield led the seven-county southeast Michigan region in construction of residential dwellings for the first six months of 1988. But building in the region was down 1.9 percent compared with last year, continuing a leveling off of construction that began in 1987.

According to figures compiled by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the region's housing industry began to rebound in 1983, following the record low year for residential permit issuance in 1982. Steady increases in residential building permits continued through 1986. But in 1987, the number of permits began to level off when figures showed only a 1-percent increase over the 1986 total.

SEMCOG recorded the issuance of 1,201 building permits for single-family, two-family and multiple-family units for the first half of this year compared to 12,439 permits for the same period last year. Permits issued in all three categories declined.

Among counties in the region, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair and Monroe registered drops in the number of permits issued. But Oakland still led the region's in total permits issued with 4,209. Wayne, Washtenaw and Livingston all recorded increases in permits issued. Wayne had a 60.9 percent increase, registering the highest numerical increase with 1,042 more permits for a total of 2,754.

Westland led the top 10 communities based on total authorized new dwelling units with 745. It was followed by Farmington Hills, 599; Southfield, 507; Shelby Township, 503; Clinton Township, 502; West Bloomfield, 434; Chesterfield Township, 394; Dearborn, 387; Detroit, 362; and Sterling Heights, 340. Last year, Westland and Southfield failed to make the top 10. Conversely, Rochester Hills, Novi, Ann Arbor, Auburn Hills and Livonia, all ranked in the top 10 last year, did not finish near that level this year.

Westland also led the region in two-family and multiple-family permits issued with 672, followed by Southfield with 502.

SEMCOG increases van, car pool effort

While SEMCOG officials hope their latest push at expanding pooling services will increase cooperation with local companies, individuals may also participate.

Individuals seeking information or company officials who would like pooling among their employees can call SEMCOG at 963-RIDE.

Since van pooling involves a minimum of 12 riders, Ste. Marie said it is often easier to organize car pooling, where riders take turns driving and make their own arrangements regarding times of departure and costs. After a driver applies, SEMCOG's computers furnish a list of phone numbers of persons with compatible work hours and destinations. The applicant then does the arranging.

RIDESHARING was first introduced by the federal government during World War II to conserve gas and tires for the war effort. The next big push for pooling came during the oil embargo of 1973-74.

SEMCOG began its rideshare program in March of 1980. Since then, more than 20,000 computers have applied to the program.

Nationally, according to SEMCOG figures, 16 million Americans carpool or vanpool, which saves the U.S. 3.5 billion gallons of gasoline a year.

Since the inception of RideShare in southeastern Michigan, more than 115 million vechicle miles have been saved — the equivalent of 4,600 trips around the world. Van pooling alone, has saved nearly 4.5 million gallons of gas locally, with car pooling saving another 3.5 million gallons.

Pooling has reduced air pollution locally by 450 tons of hydrocarbons and 4,400 tons of carbon monoxide.

By reducing the number of cars on the road, it is estimated that 685 accidents and 225 injures have been prevented.

There have been 41 carpool sites established along major roads in southeastern Michigan to facilitate the pooling of riders who may not live close to each other.

together — Hecker was in the class of '56 and Boesky was a year older — and they both soon found themselves on the fast track in New York.

"Ivan and I were good friends. I remember when he was the maitre d' at the Brass Rail, which was on Grand Circus Park," said Hecker. As for Boesky's techniques, which involved inside knowledge of upcoming mergers, Hecker said:

"I had the great fortune to work with three phenomenal bosses. One of them was Bill Simon (who later became U.S. Treasury secretary). Simon had a saying: 'When someone says something is unbelievable, that's because it is. It's unbelievable.' He also said incredible and BS were synonymous. That they were interchangeable. If someone has an incredible deal for you, it's BS."

HECKER ADMITS there are moments of awkwardness walking in the door as just another employee where once he was boss. "But I was never the BOSS," he explains.

And it is not quite accurate to depict him as just another employee. He still retains the title of vice president. He still has a fine office with a pafforamic view from the 19th floor of one of the Town Center buildings, and he has a CPA and two administrative assistants to help him build and service a stable of customers. Hecker and his assistants even have one of those nice, understated titles: "Capital Management Group."

Hecker has worked in New York, Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The Detroit Grand Prix makes a smart move

Writing a column has something in common with a dog chasing cars, in that sometimes you have to deal with what happens when you catch one.

As the most vocal critic in the local media of the proposed move of the Detroit Grand Prix to Belle Isle, I was more than a little dumbfounded when Detroit Renaissance president Robert McCabe et al took my advice and returned the race to the streets of downtown Detroit.

Much as I'd like to think someone was listening, I suspect the collective displeasure of major race supporters — not inconsequently the major auto suppliers in the habit of renting hotel suites along the track, contemplating their major customers broiling in the grandstands or trapped in the island traffic — might have had something to do with it.

But McCabe threw in a curve by announcing that along with the return of the race downtown, the competition would shift to Champion Auto Racing Team (CART) cars instead of the European Formula One racers of past events.

CART cars (also known as Indy cars after the race held a month earlier than Detroit in some Indiana cornfield south of here) are technically similar to Formula One — both are open-wheeled race cars capable of speeds in excess of 200 mph. The main difference is that CART drivers aren't as crabby as Formula One drivers, and CART drivers' hangers-on aren't as well dressed.

auto talk
Dan McCosh

CART SPONSORSHIP also is considerably cheaper than Formula One — in fact, $12 million cheaper, according to McCabe. The race guarantees alone are less for CART than for Formula One, even before trying to pay for a brand-new race track, grandstands and garages on Belle Isle.

Of course, a few cynics might note that going before the Detroit City Council for another couple of million bucks in questionable public appropriations for a race track on the heels of a series of exposes of big-ticket land scandals might also have swayed the decision.

It's also obvious that ultimately the casinos were supposed to have supported the race — another pipe dream because even Las Vegas dropped Formula One after reappraising the costs.

Chevrolet, Buick, Ford and Porsche should like the switch, considering their recent efforts at building new engines and some chassis for CART events. The national television coverage also may improve, since CBS had a lock on the Formula One event, while the two other networks cover CART racing.

Actually, Detroit was the last holdout among American cities sponsoring a Formula One event. Long Beach, Las Vegas and Dallas all switched to CART after a brief fling with Formula One, and the result seems to have made everybody happy.

Well, maybe not everybody.

The demise of the Detroit Formula One event means the U.S. isn't represented on that international racing circuit — at least until the Formula One sponsors find another civic sucker. It's also a setback for the foreign car companies that recently have poured millions into new Formula One engines to meet a new engine rule for 1989 — including Honda, Subaru and Lamborghini — and now will get no exposure in the biggest retail car market in the world.

At least the deer will be safe. And I plan to buy my hot dog next June and wander the infield at Hart Plaza as usual, savoring the sights and sounds of the race, not to mention my new role as watchdog of what is right and proper.

Options can increase your return finances and you

Sid Mittra

Every investor knows the risks associated with stock market investment, thanks to the October 1987 market crash and the subsequent lackluster performance of the DJIA. However, option writing on stocks already owned by you may reduce your market r... Here is how.

Earning income with options

You generate an income by selling a "call" option, the right to buy 100 shares of your stock. The option will specify two things: the price for which you are willing to sell your stock, and the amount of time (usually between one to nine months) during which it can be purchased by the option holder at that fixed price.

For this right, a person will pay you the option "premium." It will be yours to keep, no matter what happens to your stock price. You will be required to deposit your 100 shares of stock with your broker, who in turn may deliver your stock if the option holder decides to exercise the option. However, you will earn and retain all dividends paid on your stock unless or until your option is exercised.

Sale of stock

If the option is exercised, you will have to sell your stock for the price you originally specified. Although you still get to keep the premium you received, you will not benefit from any price appreciation of the stock above the exercise price. For example, suppose someone buys a call option on 100 shares of your stock and pays you a $500 option premium. If your option specifies a price of $50 per share for your stock, and it is exercised, you will receive $5,000 for this stock. Since you have already received a $500 premium for the option, your total proceeds will be $5,500.

The nature of downside risk

When you sell a call on your stock, the only downside risk that you have involves your stock, and you would have that risk whether or not you sold a call option. The call option itself, however, presents you with no downside risk. Also, the money you receive from your option will at least partially offset unrealized stock losses.

For example, suppose you sell a call option on your stock currently selling for $50 per share. By expiration of the option period, the price of your stock declines to $48. The option is not exercised, but your 100 shares of stock are now worth only $4800. Compared to the stock's price when you sold your option, this represents a paper loss of $200 ($5,000-$4,800). However, if you received $500 for the option, it more than offsets the $200 loss, and you are still ahead of your original position by $300.

Option buy back

Before the option is exercised, you can cancel your obligation by executing a "closing purchase transaction." It is nothing more than the purchase of a call identical to the one that you have sold. That is, you may purchase an option that has the same exercise price, the same expiration date, and, of course, covers the same security. The price that you will have to pay to buy back this option may be equal to, below or above the original premium you received, depending upon fluctuations in the market, and may therefore, result in a profit or a loss.

Educational Seminar: Main Topics: 1. The Market Crash, One Year Later; 2. Making Money in a Sideways Market; 3. Creative Uses of Single Premium Whole Life; 4. CD: No Penalty for Early Withdrawal; 5. Trading in Limited Partnerships.

The seminar, sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and Coordinated Financial Planning will be held 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 6, in the offices of Coordinated Financial Planning, Sheffield Office Park, 3250 W. Big Beaver, Suite 540, Troy 48084. For reservations call 643-8888.

Band to begin winter series

The Plymouth Community Band, noted for its "Concerts in the Park" series in Kellogg Park during the summer, brings its performances indoors for the winter.

At 8 p.m. Friday in the Canton High School Little Theater is the beginning of a series of programs by the band.

Under the direction of Carl Battishill, the band will begin its winter season with a concert on Veteran's Day, paying tribute to American veterans. Music such as "Victory at Sea," "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" and many marches from World War II will be featured.

The band also will pay tribute to the memory of one of its founding members, Keith Burton, who died this fall. Elliot Del Borgo's "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night," a moving and powerful piece based on a poem by Dylan Thomas, will be the memorial tribute to Mr. Burton.

The concert is free to the public. The Plymouth Community Band is an ensemble of volunteer musicians who give their time and talent to entertain the members of our community.

Canton High School is at the corner of Joy and Canton Center. Enter the parking lot from Canton Center Road. The theater is just to the right of the main entrance of the building.

Other concerts in the series are Dec. 9, Feb. 3, March 17, April 21, and May 19.

Melissa Ambrose rehearses at the Barton organ, where she will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Redford Theatre in Detroit. The concert is under the auspices of the Motor City Organ Society, which brought the old movie house and its organ back to life.

A proud history

Organ society restoring theater to original glory

By Victoria Diaz
special writer

A DETROIT LANDMARK made its public debut on a frosty January night 60 years ago when John Kunsky's glittering, $500,000 Redford Theatre on Lahser Road near Grand River Avenue, opened its doors to more than 2,000 moviegoers.

Ushered into its green, gold and scarlet lobby, and then into its auditorium, which resembled an exotic, Oriental amphitheater on a starry night, the crowd was treated to an evening of sing-alongs and live entertainment before settling down to watch the main attraction.

Accompanied throughout by mood music on the impressively gilded Barton organ, the gun-blazing Western was titled "The Gay Defender" and starred popular actor Richard Dix. Tickets went for as much as 25 cents.

Since that night, a lot of movies and movie patrons have come and gone, and the Redford has seen its good days and bad. But, in this, its 60th anniversary year, the future looks as bright as a Shirley Temple smile. Designed by the Detroit architectural firm of Verner, Wilhelm, Molby and R. F. Shreve, and erected within months of the Paradise Theatre in Chicago, the Roxy in New York and Grauman's Chinese in Hollywood, the Redford, though its personality has changed a bit over the years, has outlasted many of the grand old picture palaces.

ITS CONTINUED SUCCESS is due essentially to the ongoing efforts of the 400-member Motor City Theatre Organ Society, which leased the neighborhood theater and began showing vintage family-type movies, after Community Theatres Inc. decided to close it down as a conventional movie house in 1974.

Three years later, when Community Theatres decided to sell the Redford, the society — a non-profit organization that works to restore, preserve and present theater organs in their original settings — voted to buy the old movie house for $125,000.

Since then, the MCTOS has continued to operate and to restore the theater, paying costs out of its own money.

"Everything's been done with money raised at our garage sales, Christmas bazaars, biweekly movie series and concerts," said Dorothy Van Steenkiste, MCTOS publicity director.

Restoration of the theater began in 1974 — soon after the society began leasing the theater — with the removal of drapery, which had covered the walls of the old auditorium for many years. The same heavyweight fabric also was removed from around the face of the theater organ chamber.

"Under all that gold drapery, we found walls painted what I call 'gymnasium yellow,' " said restoration director, Donald Martin, a graphic artist. "We didn't like that, so we put up battleship gray instead. Somebody was able to get a whole bunch of it cheap, I guess. In some areas, we did a simulated cinder-block effect."

NEXT WAS INSTALLATION of a new, updated sound system. The old projection booth was ripped out to make way for 70mm, six-channel stereophonic equipment, which Steenkiste now refers to as "the best there is."

The society's ultimate goal is to return the Redford as closely as possible to its appearance in 1928, using old photos and drawings as guides. (Four auditorium wall lamps are the only appointments remaining from the original decor, done by Anthony Eugenio Sr., who also served as interior designer of the Guardian Building.) Though Steenkiste says it will take years to reach that goal, the group is hoping to speed things up a bit by obtaining grant money.

The organ society, which purchased the Redford three years after its orginal closing in 1974, is trying to make the theater look the way it did at the grand opening in 1928. Organ society restoring theater

"It's a matter of learning how best to apply for a grant and also finding out just what's available to us," she said. "We're doing that right now. We've appointed a grant chairman. There's extensive work to be done, but we're on our way."

To date, almost all restoration work has been done by members on a volunteer, spare-time basis, and projects often take years to complete. Restoration of the inner lobby, which is almost finished, began in 1981.

"We didn't have a picture of this area," said Martin. "So the restoration was an archeological task, in a sense. We'd remove coverings of layers of paint and find things we had no (expectation) of finding."

IN THE LOBBY, a pair of refurbished Oriental-style chandeliers — complete with fanciful peacock motif — hang from a ceiling that was stripped of five layers of paint, then repainted its original ecru. Volunteers on scaffolding took turns at hoisting Martin onto their shoulders for hours, so that he could airbrush the high ceiling for just the right effect.

Also, as part of the lobby renovation, MCTOS volunteers tore out wall coverings and stripped wall surfaces down to original paint and multicolored stencil designs, before meticulously matching colors and designs, and reapplying them.

The "new" chandeliers, rescued from the now-defunct Oriental theater downtown, were cleaned, and glass panels were painted to match the original Redford Theatre chandeliers' design. Most of the original panels had been destroyed, so MCTOS invested $1,200 in specially made panels. Restoration of the chandeliers, plus installation, took almost two years to complete.

Martin said the next item on the restoration agenda will be new seating and carpeting. What is thought to be the original carpeting was found on one of the staircases several years ago. The society intends to match a swatch of that as closely as possible.

Restoration of the theater organ has been complete for several years, and the 3-manual, 10-rank organ is played before all biweekly movie presentations and during intermissions.

THE ORGAN, which originally cost "somewhere in the neighborhood of $10,000," went mostly unused through the '40s and '50s, Martin said.

"In the mid-'60s, our group started, with the permission of theater management, to get it going. At that time, it had just been gathering dust for about 20 years. The plaster had been damaged on the pit side. Some of the members replaced and repainted that. Mice had chewed away at the cables, and we had to take care of that. Then, there was a lot of effort put into cleaning out the dirt and debris that had accumulated between the keys. Also, much of the leather had rotted, especially where the ceiling had leaked. Back in those days, before we were an 'official' group, you'd find that a lot of these people were just paying for these things out of their own pockets."

Now, monthly concerts are presented, from fall through spring each year, and the console is also used for the local annual Young Theatre Organist Competition, the winners of which compete in national finals. Last year's winner, Melissa Ambrose of Royal Oak, went on to capture the national title and will be featured in one of the society's biggest concert fund-raisers of the year, coming up Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Redford. (For ticket information, call 537-1133 or 537-2560.)

Coming attractions in the theater's biweekly movie schedule include "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," a 1963 MGM musical starring Debbie Reynolds (Friday-Saturday, Nov. 18-19); "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," with Robert Donat in a 1939 Oscar-winning performance (Friday-Satuday, Dec. 2-3), and "Happy Landing," a 1938 musical-on-ice with Sonja Henie (Friday-Saturday, Dec. 16-17).

Anyone interested in theater and theater organs may join the Motor City Theatre Organ Society, Steenkiste said. "We come from all over the area, and one thing that's wonderful about our organization is that it's made up of people of all ages. All aren't organists. They're just people who are attracted to the theater, and who like to listen to good music.

Plymouth melodrama first-rate

Performances of the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Night of January 16th" by Ayn Rand continue through Saturday, Nov. 19, at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. For ticket information, call 420-2161.

Bob Weibel

If you've been yearning for a bit of good ol' Perry Mason courtroom theatrics, you will no doubt enjoy the Plymouth Theatre Guild's "Night of January 16th." It's filled with juicy, melodramatic scenes of conflicting testimony, hysterical outbursts, surprise witnesses and courtroom confessions.

Bob Ketterer is very natural as the prosecutor. His lines never seem memorized. One wishes, however, that he would go for the jugular more often.

And it has a rather interesting hook. The jury is chosen from the audience. There are two endings, depending on the jury's decision.

Director Al LaCroix has added another bonus with some clever casting. The judge is being played by local community leaders.

Maurice Breen, Plymouth Township supervisor, handled the gavel rather convincingly the first weekend. Plymouth Mayor Karl Gansler is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 11, and Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack for Friday-Saturday, Nov. 18-19.

LaCroix is also doing the original Ayn Rand script, not the edited, more commercial version.

Heavy thinkers are often surprised that one of the nation's most provocative intellectuals, and the mother of Objectivist Philosophy, penned this bit of histrionics. Perhaps its just a prelude to her advocacy of rational self-interest.

BRIEFLY, HERE are the essentials of the trial. A wealthy man who was involved in a financial swindle to save his empire is shot and falls from the balcony of his penthouse.

The prosecution charges that he was murdered by his secretary and fellow conspirator. She says it was suicide. And if you believe certain witnesses, she may be telling the truth.

PTG has created the ambiance of a trial with a modern courtroom setting, but the proceedings are sometimes too tame — more like an insurance fraud than first-degree murder. Let's see more emotional sparks and projection. Every word of testimony must be heard in a courtroom drama.

Bob Ketterer is very natural as the prosecutor. His lines never seem memorized. One wishes, however, that he would go for the jugular more often. Nancy Schuster plays the defense attorney with clarity, but some flair and theatrics would add spice and authority to her character.

Laurel Twichell in the role of the defendant, Karen Andre, strikes an aura of mystery. Her sophistication is sometimes betrayed, however, by a youthful voice and mannerisms.

Some of the better characters among the many witnesses are Rosemary Moorehead as the coroner; Sue Suchyta as the bereaved wife; Mike Hammonds as the spirited police inspector and Hollis Denham as the mesmerizing street hood, Larry Regan. Deborah Nalepa and Maria-Louise Capote do a nice job with Swedish accents, but Nalepa ought to tone down her makeup.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a free-lance writer who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

Singers to compete for scholarships

A vocal scholarship competition for musicians of high school age living in Genesee, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties is being sponsored by the Madrigal Chorale and Maccabees Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Southfield.

The grand prize will be a $1,000 educational cash award with four $500 educational cash awards. All winners will be offered an opportunity to perform with the Madrigal Chorale during next year's concert season.

To be eligible, a student must be enrolled in a public or private high school in the five county area, be between 14-18 and hold amateur status.

Applicants are asked to submit two cassette tapes, one of which is from a required repertoire, the other to be the applicant's choice. One must be in English, the other in a foreign language. All tapes must be postmarked by Dec. 1. For complete information, contact: Vocal Scholarship Competition, P.O. Box 3194 Southfield, 48037 or call 737-4199 or 861-9128.

Twelve finalists will be chosen to compete in a live performance on Feb. 14 at Varner Hall, Oakland University, Rochester.

Singer-actress will appear in her 11th MOT production

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

Mary Callaghan Lynch of Birmingham didn't have to move out of her hometown to find stardom on stage. She has performed in many local productions, as well as traveled to do other shows.

MARY CALLAGHAN LYNCH describes her life with the adage "An apple doesn't fall far from the tree." "Hitch your wagon to a star" might be more germane.

She has done 10 productions for Michigan Opera Theatre in the last 12 years. Six weeks ago, David DiChiera cast her again. This time she has the leading role of Mabel in MOT's main stage production of "The Pirates of Penzance," opening at 8 p.m. Friday at Detoit's Fisher Theatre. Performances continue through Sunday, Nov. 20.

"This is going to be the best show of the fall season," the enthusiastic Birmingham resident said, as she sipped tea at a local restaurant. "I have been blessed with the opportunities offered by MOT."

A year ago last summer, Lynch was in New York and saw "The Pirates of Penzance" at the Glimmerglass Opera. Little did she realize that she would be singing the part of Mabel in front of those same sets with Broadway director and choreographer Lara Teeter, Gary Sandy of television's "WKRP in Cincinnati" and Mel Brooks movie veteran Zale Kessler.

LYNCH CALLS Teeter's directing campy.

"The production is a cross between D'Oyly Carte and Joe Papp," Lynch said. "They are adding the trio number 'It Really Doesn't Matter' from 'Ruddigore' and considered adding 'Sorry My Lot' for me to sing. They have dropped that idea. The overture will be staged. That is Teeter's idea."

D'Oyly Carte is the traditional English version as it was sung when the operetta opened in New York in 1879. The Joe Papp version is the one used recently on Broadway with Linda Ronstadt.

The very funny G&S specialist, Englishwoman Jocelyn Wilkes, is the "rather plain (ugly)" Ruth. Since she last appeared in Detroit in MOT's "Orpheus in the Underworld" as Juno, she has lost 100 pounds.

The effusive Lynch draws attention as she marks a few of the vocal lines in her lyric coloratura role. Around us, others cannot help but be interested in the conversation.

"Mabel is no wimp, and I am no lyric soprano," Lynch said. "The part requires a strong vocal technique and tends toward opera."

(When the show first opened in 1879, the orchestra threatened to strike because it thought the music was opera and the musicians should have extra money for performing it. Sullivan told them he would ship an English orchestra over to play, and that ended the strike.)

THE DARK-HAIRED Lynch has become a familiar face from her now-running F&M Drug Store commercial and other TV commercials. Recently she played the role of Tiger owner Tom Monaghan's wife in a San Diego production. She talks with pride of her Musetta in the Toledo Opera's production of "La Boheme."

Apples do not fall far from the tree, and Lynch now lives in the city where she was born (Birmingham) near the 25-room Tudor where she and her 17 brothers and sisters were raised.

"My twin brother and I were Christmas babies — Joseph and Mary," she said, waiting for a reaction. "Now he lives in Lansing where he is an accounting professor."

Lynch attended Holy Name School and met her husband, Patrick E. Lynch, singing at a funeral at the Birmingham-based family-owned operation Lynch & Sons. The couple now has two children, Caitlin, 8, and Paddy, 4.

On Sundays, she is the cantor at the Holy Name Church where her father, John F. Callaghan, is the organist. Six of her brothers and sisters sing in the choir.

Her pentic attended Syracuse University on musical scholarships and now teach piano and organ. Lynch's brother sings with the Southfield Madrigal Choral and another brother is a Utica organist. All the children put themselves through college. Thirteen of them earned master's degree and five earned doctoral degrees. Lynch holds a bachelor's of fine arts degree in acting from Marygrove College in Detroit. In April the family will welcome its 53rd grandchild. Her sisters and brothers now range in age from 27 to 50.

"One year we had to rent a hall so we could all get together for Christmas," Lynch said.

Folk tale series geared for youth

A series of theater presentations of folk tales from around the world begins Saturday, Nov. 12, and Monday, Nov. 14, at the Oakland University Center for the Arts.

The series, aptly called "Folk Tales,' opens with a collection of stories from Canada. Michael Gillespie, head of the theater program in the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance, directs the Folk Tales Players, whose members include students from the theater program.

First program of the series will be at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Nov. 12 and at 10 a.m. Nov. 14. An 11:30 a.m. Nov. 14 program will be added if demand warrants. The Nov. 14 programs are part of the Concerts-for-Youth Series presented by the Center for the Arts.

Tickets for all shows are $4. Group rates are available. For details, call the Center for the Arts box office at 370-3013.

To junco, our region is 'south' nature

Timothy Nowicki

FALL IS the season when plants and animals prepare for the rigors of winter. Squirrels are storing food, turtles and frogs have found places in which to bury themselves until spring, and a few will hibernate.

Mobile animals, like birds, are able to migrate to warmer or more suitable climates, just like the Michigan "snowbirds" who drive to Florida when the weather gets cold.

One winter visitor that many will see at their bird feeding stations this winter is the dark-eyed junco. Many people call this small, gray bird with a white belly a "snowbird," because they see it only when snow is on the ground.

PEOPLE WITH cottages in the Upper Peninsula may see the junco during the summer, but most of us will only be able to enjoy it during the winter months. The birds we see at our feeders have migrated south from their northern Canada nesting grounds.

This northern forest nesting species migrates and winters as far south as Florida. But individuals that nest in the high elevations of the Smokey Mountains only migrate down the mountain to the lower elevations. At the base of the mountains, the climate is moderate enough for them to survive the winter.

Dark-eyed juncos not only have two different migratory patterns, but they also look different depending on where you see one in the United States.

In the western states, males have a gray head, a white belly and two white outer tail feathers just like the birds in the eastern states.

But those in the west have darker heads, and they also have buff-colored feathers on their sides. Eastern birds have gray on their sides.

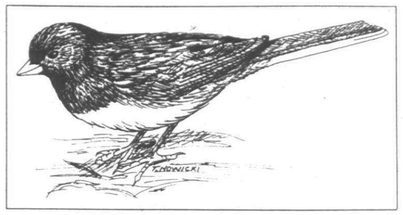
IF YOU visit friends in the great plains area during winter, you may see some birds with a mixture of these characteristics.

Not long ago, eastern and western juncos were considered two different species. But since they interbreed and produce young that can produce young, today they are considered two forms of the same species.

At your feeder, juncos will spend most of their time on the ground feeding on the small millet seeds that are often found in mixed birdfeed.

When you see a small, dark-colored bird flash white from its tail, you are watching a junco that has arrived from Canada.

The writer is staff naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park.



For the dark-eyed junco, going "south" in winter means southern Michigan

Entrants sought for high school journalism contest

High school journalists from throughout the state are invited to participate in the 1988-89 Michigan Press Women high school journalism contest.

The contest is open to all high school students who have had work published in a professional newspaper or school publication, including yearbooks, between Jan. 16, 1988, and Jan. 15, 1989.

This year's competition includes five categories: news, sports, features, personal columns, editorials and photography. A $2 entry fee is required.

First, second and third place certificates will be awarded in each category. First place winners will be automatically entered in the organization's national contest.

Rules and entry forms have been mailed to high schools throughout the state. Entrants must submit a complete entry form by Monday, Jan. 16.

Winners will be honored at a youth awards dinner Feb. 26 in Plymouth. Michigan Press Women will assist first-place winners in attending the national awards luncheon June 23 in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho. National winners will receive a $250 scholarship for first place, $100 for second and $50 for third.

Additional information is available by writing Naida A. Ayadi, director, MPW high school journalism contest, 1105 Eastfield, Lansing, MI48917, or by calling 517-323-3111.

You've just lost your last reason for not having beautiful teeth.
Smile Now. Pay Later.
It's The Orthodontic Treatment Center's Third Annual Smile Now, Pay Later And Save $1000 Plan.
If you don't waste any time getting braces for your child's teeth, you can take your time paying for them at the Orthodontic Treatment Centers.
It's quite simple, starting right now, and through the entire month of January, 1989, our complete orthodontic care program, consultation, braces, retainers, the works, is available to you with no money down, and no payments until February 1st, 1989.
Now, doesn't that sort of coincide with the Holiday season when you have earmarked your hard-earned dollars for a lot of other things? But, that's the Orthodontic Treatment Centers for you. We're not just professional and reliable orthodontists. We want the whole world to have a beautiful smile. Without paying through the nose.

BUSINESS NEWS 591-2300 Ext.325

The business section is published Thursdays. In addition to the story coverage and columns, the section contains several calendars: BUSINESS PEOPLE covers promotions, internal awards and retirements for anyone living or working in our circulation area. We will print photographs if space permits. DATEBOOK covers upcoming meetings and courses of interest to business people. MARKETPLACE briefly covers new businesses, new products and other business-related items. Submit items for these in writing by 5:00 p.m. Monday. For these calendars, call Barry Jensen (ext. 325) For all other items, call Marilyn Fitchett, 591-2300, Ext. 331.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS, ANNIVERSARIES

We publish photographs and announcements of weddings, engagements and major anniversaries of local residents or former local residents. These appear as soon as possible, depending upon available space. Forms for announcing these events are available from any of our local offices, or you may model your announcement on an example you've read in the newspaper. The best reproduction can be made from a 5"x 7" black and white photo, but others will do. Please avoid regular or color Polaroid pictures.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Reprints of photographs that appear in the paper are not available. However, if a photograph is used and not needed for our files, it will be made available to the first person calling in. Such photographs will be held in any of our offices for two months, awaiting pickup. To inquire about a photograph, please call the editor who ran the picture, i.e.: Sports, Suburban Life, Entertainment, Creative Living, News.

RELIGION

Religious news is published Thursdays. The religion calendar is published on these pages. Calendar deadline is Monday noon. All material must be in writing. For more information, call your local suburban life editor.

OBITUARIES

We publish obituaries of local residents and former local residents. Most obituary information is received from area funeral homes. If a local funeral home is not involved, please call the community editor at the appropriate telephone number. All obituaries appear at the discretion of the community editor. Obituaries are printed without charge.

CREATIVE LIVING

News of the arts appears every Thursday. Deadline for notices of gallery shows (which must be legibly written) is 5:00 p.m. Monday. For more information, call the appropriate Creative Living editor.

ENTERTAINMENT 591-2300 Ext. 305

Entertainment pages appear Thursday and include feature stories, theater and other entertainment reviews, TABLE TALK restaurant news column, and the UPCOMING calendar,, which deadlines each Thursday (for items to appear the following Thursday). Submit all information to Ethel Simmons, entertainment editor.

MOVIE REVIEWS 591-2300 Ext. 302

All questions about movie reviews, which appear every Monday in our STREET SCENE section, should be directed to Sue Mason.

Steve Barnaby is Managing Editor of The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers; 591-2300 ext 300

Evening exercise can be hazardous

Barry Franklin

Most exercise fatalities on state roads occur at night, rather than during daylight hours.

Wearing light-colored clothing isn't enough. Runners and walkers should wear special fluorescent or reflective clothing, use clip-on lights, avoid headphones, stay off high-speed roads, and train against the traffic.

Cyclists should also make sure their bikes are equippped with head and tail lights, numerous reflectors, and a rearview mirror.

DID YOU KNOW that

- Cold water (not butter) is by far the most effective immediate first-aid treatment for a burn.
- If you are confined to bed due to an illness or injury, don't spend all your time on your back. Alternate from back to side every few hours, and try to sit or stand up frequently during the day. Simple maneuvers — but they can markedly reduce the deterioration in physical fitness that normally accompanies bed rest.
- Nearly 1.5 million people suffer heart attacks each year. Approximately 40 percent of these individuals die from the attack, half before reaching a hospital.
- On again, off again, dieting involving exteme caloric restriction can actually make you fatter over the long haul. Why? Crash dieting results in reductions in both body fat and muscle. However, when you stop dieting, the weight you gain back is mostly in the form of fat, not muscle.
- Recently, blood cholesterol levels for adults have been classified as desirable (less than 200); borderline-high (200 to 239); and high (240 and above). These medicinal guidelines, defined by the Adult Treatment Panel of the National Cholesterol Education Program, apply to both men and women over the age of 20.
- Saturated fats, especially the fats in meats and dairy products, are the key dietary factor raising blood cholesterol levels. In contrast, dietary cholesterol has a much smaller effect on blood cholesterol levels.

Barry A. Franklin, Ph.D., is director of cardiac rehabilitation and exercise laboratories, William Beaumont Hospital, Royal Oak, and associate professor of physiology, Wayne State University School of Medicine.

Ford UF gifts total $11 million

Pledges by Ford Motor Co. employees in southeastern Michigan and a gift from the company fund will add a record $11 million to the 1988 United Foundation Torch Drive.

Joseph A. Kordick, vice president and general manager of the automaker's parts and service division, reported the contribution at a UF luncheon.

Kordick said the combined total of $11 million is the largest single amount ever pledged to the Torch Drive in its 40-year history. He also noted that it is the largest single amount that has ever been pledged to the United Way in the history of that organization.

Employees this year reached their pledge goal with a record $9.8 million. The company fund gift was $1.2 million.

Appointed

Schoolcraft College graduate Carina Childs of Livonia has been named assistant to the vice president for student services. She will help recruit students. She holds an associate's degree from Schoolcraft and a bachelor's from Michigan State. She worked in the Schoolcraft counseling center and student activities office while a student.

October was cold, more gas used

October was cold. How cold was it?

It was Michigan's coldest October in 63 years, according to National Weather Service statistics.

Average high temperatures only reached 54.2 degrees Fahrenheit, according to the service's Detroit office. The normal average high is 62.5 degrees. Average lows were 37.7 degrees last month; the normal figure is 41.2 degrees.

EMPIRE OF AMERICA
HOME EQUITY LINE OF CREDIT

WE PAY YOUR CLOSING COSTS AND ALL FEES

You don't pay a penny! Closing costs on other Home Equity Lines of Credit can add up to hundreds of dollars. But at Empire of America, we pay your closing costs on lines up to $100,000, saving you as much as $600* or more! Plus, you pay no application fee.

Enjoy a guaranteed rate cap. Our current Home Equity Line of Credit rate is 12.00%† annual percentage rate. Plus, with our guaranteed rate cap, you'll never pay more than 5% over the rate in effect at the time you close.

And more... You can pay off your other higher cost loans and charges. Plus you may still be able to deduct 100% of your home equity interest. See your tax advisor for details. Besides that, you'll have a revolving line of credit, so as you pay off your loan, that money again becomes available to you.

Come to your local Empire of America office to receive a free estimate of how much you'll be able to borrow. And once you apply you'll have an answer on approving your credit within 24 hours. Start saving now.

Krug to fill pivot for SC

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Some things can't be equaled. Schoolcraft College women's basketball coach Jack Grenan doesn't want this year's team to equal last season's success (20-8 overall, 10-4 in the Eastern Conference).

He wants something better. And he thinks he has a team that can accomplish it.

"This year's team will be quicker, deeper and better shooters," Grenan predicted. "If everyone stays healthy, we should peak in the second half.

"I'm looking for us to be better than last year."

What Grenan would really like to improve is the Lady Ocelots' conference standing. After finishing first for five consecutive seasons, they fell to third, a game behind co-champs Highland Park CC and Oakland CC.

SC starts building toward that goal in Saturday's season-opener at Kalamazoo Valley CC. The Lady Ocelots' first five games are on the road.

GRENAN HAS just two returnees, but the 10 freshmen are talented, according to their coach. Back are two starters, both sophomores: 5-foot-6 guard Darlene Bazner, who averaged 15 points a game the last half of the season and seven steals throughout it, and 5-10 forward Michelle Dyksinski, a 15-points-per-game scorer.

Grenan called Bazner the "quickest guard in the state," but she might be challenged on her own team by 5-6 guard Denise Wendt, a "Bazner clone," said Grenan. They are two of six guards, a focal point for the team.

Others are Ann Hardy, 5-8, from Inkster; Tracy Osborne, 5-6, from Mount Clemens L'Anse Creuse; Diane Lindsay, 5-5, from Livonia Clarenceville; and Angie Harmsen, 5-6, from Warren Lincoln.

Ferko spree lifts Canton

girls basketball

Susan Ferko scored a career-high 33 points and yanked down 17 rebounds Tuesday, leading state-ranked Plymouth Canton to a 59-44 girls basketball victory over visiting Walled Lake Central.

The victory puts the Chiefs (18-1) in Saturday's championship game of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Canton will face upstart Walled Lake Western (10-8) for the title, beginning at 8 p.m. at Plymouth Salem High. (Western defeated North Farmington in the other semi-final on Tuesday, 44-34.)

Canton led 32-20 at halftime and put the game away with a 19-12 spurt in the third quarter before coasting home.

Ferko, a junior center, got help from guards Michelle Fortier (17 points, 10 assists) and Jenny Russell (six assists).

"Our guards did a great job of getting the ball into Susan," said Canton coach Rob Neu. "We took awhile to get into the game, but we played exceptionally well in the second and third quarters. Our girls worked hard and eventually the shots started falling."

SALEM 38, FRANKLIN 32: In a WLAA consolation game Tuesday, visiting Plymouth Salem (15-4) rallied in the final quarter to beat stingy Livonia Franklin (11-7).

The Rocks jumped out to an 8-0 lead at the outset, but Franklin rallied to knot the count at 29-all after three quarters before Salem got a lift from Jill Estey, who scored five of her 11 points in the decisive final period.

Teri King, a senior center, paced Salem with 14 points and 12 rebounds.

"She was really a key because their defense keyed on Jill and forced her into a non-offensive mode," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

Senior center Leslie Szaflarski led the Patriots with 10 points and 10 rebounds. Freshman guard Dawn Warner, despite being handicapped with four fouls in the third quarter, added nine.

"It was a good battle and I was extremely pleased with the way our players played," said Franklin coach Dan Freeman. "We've come a long way defensively."

Chiefs end up 9th in Class A meet cross country

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Canton carried the banner for area teams in the Class A girls cross country meet Saturday, while Observerland also had several individual standouts.

The Chiefs, who were 11th in the state last year, improved on that by moving up to ninth in their highly competitive division.

Canton, the dominant power among area teams the last two seasons, and its competition had to battle difficult course conditions in the wake of continuous rain late last week.

"We were fortunate we ran in the first race," coach George Przygodski said. "So the course was not as chewed up, but it definitely was the worst conditions we ran in the last few years."

The Chiefs had hoped to finish among the top five, but their failure to do so was not the result of a lack of effort, assured Przygodski.

"OUR TIMES WERE as fast as we've run all year," he said. "Under the conditions, I think that's really good. We ran as well as we could."

As they have done all season, junior Lori Penland and senior Cindy Spessard paced Canton. They finished 34th and 37th with 20:35 and 20:39 times.

Also scoring for the Chiefs were junior Missy Jasnowski in 55th place (20:56), senior Kris Marquard in 72nd (21:15) and senior Lynda Schendel in 76th (21:21). Canton's seven-runner contingent fared well as junior Adrienne Garrow placed 82nd (21:31) and junior Cathy McCabe 103rd (21:52).

"The difference between us and the teams in the top five is we don't have a runner who can run 19:30," Przygodski said.

"Everyone else had one or two runners ahead of us. Where we need to improve at the state level is to have that top-flight runner."

Przygodski added Canton's state-meet performance resulted in an emotional dichotomy. The Chiefs should be satisfied with a solid effort but can't help doing a little second guessing.

"REASON SAYS WE ran as well as we could, but emotionally you always wish you could finish up higher," he said.

Canton will lose Marquard, Spessard and Schendel to graduation, but it will return the other four plus "some real promising JV runners" led by Carolyn Way.

"I think we've got a bright future," Przygodski said. "We'll have a good bunch of seniors, and tradition can carry you a long way. We'll get some other athletes coming out who will pick up for those who are graduating."

Jennifer Kiel of Farmington and Lisa Rives of North Farmington, both juniors, distinguished themselves in the Class A individual race.

Both have been within one or two places of each other in every meet this season, and the state meet was no different. Kiel was fifth in 19:46 and Rives sixth in 19:47.66.

Both received all-state honors that go to the top 25 runners after the team and individual results are combined. Rives is the first North girl to earn such recognition.

It will be power against power when Shamrocks battle Glenn

By Brad Emons
staff writer

It's the first-ever meeting between Redford Catholic Central and Westland John Glenn in football, but the way the two teams approach the game, it's safe to say they've been keeping an eye on each other for quite a long time.

Saturday's Region III showdown pits the No. 1-ranked Shamrocks (10-0) against the host Rockets (9-1) in a game for area bragging rights.

Although strangers, the two schools have a lot in common.

Consider these items.

- Both coaches prefer to play power football and throw only on occasion.
- CC has been to the playoffs four times, winning the 1979 Class A crown and finishing second last year, while Glenn has made three appearances in last four years, including a heartbreaking 6-3 loss in the 1986 semifinals to Muskegon.
- Both teams are physically fit for Saturday and noted for being physically strong.

Please turn to Page 4

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

Scott Hauncher (15) has been the main gear in CC's offense. He quarterbacked the Shamrocks to a 28-0 playoff-opening triumph over Ford.

● SPORTS SALE

Canton Parks and Recreation Department will have its Fourth Annual Used Sports Equipment Sale on Saturday, Dec. 3.

The public can bring its sale items to the Canton Township Administration Building on Thursday, Dec. 1, between 6 and 9 p.m. to be priced and tagged. The seller sets the price and keeps all but 15 percent of the money, which goes to the recreation department.

Volunteers will be on hand to do the selling, so the seller need not be present. Money can be collected or unsold items reclaimed Saturday, Dec. 3, 2-3 p.m. Call Bob Dates at 397-5110 for information.

● SPORTS COLLECTORS

The third annual Plymouth-In-The-Fall Sports Collectors Convention will take place the weekend of Nov. 25-27 at the Plymouth Hilton.

The show attracts nationally known baseball card and sports memorabilia dealers to sell, buy and trade their wares. The cost is $3 per day and $7 for a weekend pass.

New York Yankee outfielder Dave Winfield and Hall of Famers Willie Stargell and Juan Marichal will be on hand to sign autographs.

● MEN'S RACQUETBALL

A men's racquetball league, sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Department, starts Wednesday, Nov. 30, at Rose Shores of Canton.

The fee is $82 per person for 13 weeks. Court times are 7:30 and 8 p.m. The league is divided up into divisions based upon player ability.

An organizational meeting will take place the first night of league play. Call 397-5110 for information.

● SPIKE TOURNEY

Schoolcraft College will be host for the Region 12 women's volleyball tournament Thursday through Saturday, with 13 teams from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio competing for a chance to advance to the NJCAA championship tournament in Tampa, Fla.

SC is one of the favorites entering the tournament, which begins with matches at 5, 6:30 and 8 p.m. Thursday. The Lady Ocelots won their fourth-straight Eastern Conference championship last week. They are currently ranked fourth in the NJCAA, and they have not lost a single game at home this season.

Friday matches will be played at 11 a.m. and 1 and 2:30 p.m. On Saturday, semifinal matches will be at 1 and 3 p.m., with the championship slated for 5 p.m. Daily admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

● CHEERLEADING CONTEST

The first Schoolcraft College Cheerleading Championships will be Saturday, Nov. 19, at the school's gymnasium.

The competition is open to varsity, JV and freshman teams (morning session), seventh and eighth grade, fifth and sixth grade squads (afternoon session).

For more information, call Dave Bogataj at 591-6400, Ext. 480; or write: Dave Bogataj, Schoolcraft College, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia 48152.

Rebuilt Ocelots improved

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Schoolcraft sports

Rebuilding is a fact of life every basketball coach must face. It just comes more often — like annually — to those in the junior college ranks.

For Schoolcraft College men's coach Dave Bogataj, that may be a blessing.

There's precious little Bogataj would like to keep from his first season as the Ocelot coach. Hired two weeks prior to the season's start, he ran into just about every catastrophe possible: player defections, academic ineligibilities, and, ultimately, losing.

Not just losing, but blown-out losing. By season's end, walk-ons were starting against major college-caliber competition.

So it was with some relief that Bogataj could announce, as his first full season as coach approached — SC opens at the Macomb Tip-Off Classic against Kellogg CC at 6 p.m. Friday — that he had an "all new" roster.

Thirteen freshmen. Most coaches in his situation would be a bit apprehensive. Bogataj was relieved.

"Once again, size is not our forte," he noted. "We're quick, and we're not as small as last year. All our players are between 6-1 and 6-6."

THAT'S NOT big enough to challenge for the Eastern Conference championship, nor do the Ocelots have the talent and experience to be serious contenders. But they're far better than last season's 8-22 (1-15 in the conference) team, which relied on one player: Steve Hawley.

There's no one of Hawley's caliber on the current roster, but there are five guards who should make the backcourt stronger overall.

All five will play, and typical of Bogataj's brand of basketball, "they all can shoot. We've got some real nice shooters, and all of them can shoot the three-pointer."

Which makes Bogataj's offensive strategy obvious: relying on the perimeter game, hoping it will "open it up inside for others."

Backcourt players are Bernard McGee, from Detroit Benedictine; Ken Fuster, from River Rouge; Rob Harmon, from Redford Bishop Borgess; John Moran, from Allen Park Cabrini; and Mike Mercer, from Southgate Aquinas. McGee, Fuster and Harmon are all 6-foot-2, while Moran and Mercer are 6-1.

ALL BUT Harmon, who was a reserve on Borgess' state finalist team, averaged in double figures in scoring. McGee hit between 10 and 12 points a game; and Mercer, an '87 grad, was a 14-point scorer. Both will play the point.

Fuster was all-league, scoring 19 a game, while Moran led Cabrini with a 23-point average.

There's more scoring potential up front, with Livonia Franklin grad J.J. Swindall, a 6-4 forward (12-14 points per game); Garden City's Ken Nelson, a 6-4 forward (16-17 points and a league-leading 11-12 rebounds); Novi's Joe Miskovich, a 6-3 forward (13-14 points); Borgess' Dameon Smith, a 6-3 forward; Royal Oak Shrine's Ed Hudson, a 6-4 forward (12-14 points); South Lyon's Mark Koronka, a 6-4 forward-center (18 points, 11 rebounds); Ypsilanti Lincoln's Dan Hall, a 6-6 center (12 points, 12 rebounds); and Romulus' Al Hudson, a 6-6 center (nine points, nine rebounds).

With far more depth to work with, and so many interchangeable players, Bogataj should have no trouble keeping a capable lineup on the floor.

"WE HAVE good speed, we're much stronger than last year, and we have much more talent," he said.

What SC doesn't have is a proven leader, someone like Hawley to go to at crunch time. Rebounding and inexperience will also haunt the Ocelots.

Few weaknesses will go undetected in the rugged Eastern Conference. Highland Park and Mott CC are perennial powers; Oakland CC has been, too, the last few years. Macomb is coming off a strong season, and Alpena and Delta are expected to be vastly improved.

Which won't make Bogataj's job easier. His approach is realistic: "We want to end up qualifying for the state tournament, and we'd like to finish in the top four so we could host the opening round," he said. "I think finishing in the middle of the pack would be realistic, and over .500 overall."

Chief runners finish 9th

"BEING HER FIRST big competition, she was pleased with her performance," North coach Bill Pinnell said. "She wasn't bothered by the course and all the mud."

In the Class A boys individual race, Farmington's Brad Moore and Ben Goba kept pace with each other as they have all year, too. Moore, a senior, was 11th with a 17:02 time and Goba, a sophomore, 12th with a 17:03 finish.

"Both ran super races," coach Jerry Young said. "Moore had an outstanding season and came on real well at the end.

"He gained a lot of self-confidence and really grew. And Ben pushed him to run hard. He didn't want a sophomore to beat him."

Young called Goba the outstanding young runner in the area, adding he was the first sophomore to finish the individual race and had the third-best time of any sophomore in the state.

Harrison's Jeff Barringer, another of the area's best, was 30th in the Class B individual contest, running 18:06.

"HE DOESN'T NEED a running scholarship," coach John Reed said. "He's gotten four full-ride offers for academics. That's really important to him, and he's a good runner to boot."

Plymouth Canton's Brian Beach, in the Class A meet, and Harrison's Dave Foss, in Class B, suffered the same fate when they were inadvertently spiked by other runners and unable to finish due the injuries, neither of which was serious.

In the Class D individual race, Plymouth Christian senior Randy Gauthier was 26th, running 20:45 at Frankenmuth. He was 21st a year ago.

"His time was not a reflection of his effort," coach Steve Bauslaugh said. "It was a very tough course on a day like that."

Canton sinks Glenn to set up showdown

Tonight's the night.

Plymouth Canton swamped Westland John Glenn last week, 117-51, in a girls swim meet, setting the stage for a showdown tonight at Livonia Churchill.

If Canton, 7-2 overall, wins, there will be a three-way tie between the Chiefs, Churchill and Northville for the Western Division title in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Churchill can win the title outright with a win against the Chiefs.

Last week, the Chiefs had little trouble with Glenn, winning eight of the 11 events.

Glenn's Julie Jensen kept the Rockets respectable, winning both the 200-yard freestyle (2:00.85) and the 500 freestyle (5:25.78). Karen Rice claimed the other title for Glenn, winning the 100 freestyle (1:01.8).

Chris Lang and Lori Engelhuber both starred for Canton.

swimming

They took one event each, and both were members of the winning relay teams. Lang and Engelhuber teamed with Val Gildhaus and Nicole Drake to win the 200 medley relay (2:02.7). The duo also combined with Kelly Rische and Kristy Brugar in the 400 freestyle relay (3:57.05).

LANG'S INDIVIDUAL title came in the 200 individual medley (2:29.43), while Engelhuber won the 50 freestyle (28.35).

Other titles for Canton went to Amy Van Buhler, diving, 187.35 points; Beth Yack, 100 butterfly, 1:12.82; Janet Roberts, 100 backstroke, 1:11.73; and Drake, 100 breaststroke (1:18.53).

They're so gifted, Grenan plans to use all of them in an all-out attack. "We'll apply full-court pressure the whole game," he said. "It'll be up-tempo. Talent-wise, they're fairly even.

"We aren't a big team, but we've got plenty of speed. Rebounding is a concern, with a smaller team. But this is the best defensive team I've coached in 15 years."

REBOUNDING WON'T be a concern if player potential is realized. A big part of the load will fall on 6-2 center Barb Krug, from Plymouth Salem. "She'll start," Grenan said flatly. "She's very coachable and has a fantastic attitude.

"The big thing with Barb is she's too nice. We're trying to teach her not to smile so much. We're trying to make her mean."

Grenan figures Krug can get eight-to-10 points a game on offensive rebounds alone. With Dyksinski and a couple more good-sized forwards, Tracy Baron and Lisa DePlanche, both 5-10 and both from Allen Park Cabrini, Krug should have help. DePlanche is an inside player, a good rebounder; Baron is better on the perimeter.

Stacey Swanderski, a 5-10 forward from Farmington, and Denise Vince, a 5-10 forward from Livonia Stevenson, are expected to provide key minutes off the bench.

As improved as the Lady Ocelots are, they still must overtake Highland Park and OCC. The latter returns the conference's best player in Regina Woodard, a 6-1 center from Bloomfield Hills Lahser who averaged in double figures in both scoring and rebounding.

SC doesn't open its home season until Nov. 30, when it entertains Delta CC. By then, Grenan plans to have his lineup and rotation set.

Riverview to test Hawks

By Dan O'Meara

football

For the third straight year, Farmington Harrison will play the Huron League football champion in a Class B regional encounter at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Hawks and Riverview, both 10-0 teams, battle at Madison High School in Madison Heights. The winner advances to the semifinals and within one game of a Silverdome appearance.

Harrison and the Pirates are no strangers, having faced each other in the opening round of the 1986 tournament.

The Hawks, who were 35-6 winners over last year's Huron League winner, Monroe St. Mary-Catholic Central, won that game 21-14 but not without a struggle from Riverview.

"I just looked at the film, and I really feel they outplayed us two years ago," Harrison coach John Herrington said.

The Pirates have four seniors who were members of that team, including then-sophomore quarterback Bob Guiney, whose fumble led to Harrison's go-ahead touchdown.

RIVERVIEW HELD a 14-7 lead before the Hawks rallied with two TDs, the second coming after the turnover. The Pirates punched out a game-tying drive only to have it nullified by a holding penalty.

"They played us so tough the last time I don't think they'll be intimidated," Herrington said. "They've got a three-year quarterback who has played against us, and that experience really helps."

Riverview coach Don Lessner, a high school coach for 30 years — the last 22 as head of the Pirate program, hopes his current team, which he said compares to the '86 ballclub, can give Harrison another good game.

"But they're on a roll," he said of the Hawks. "They're cleaning up on people. They really haven't had to work up a sweat."

While the Hawks have shut out six opponents and outscored the opposition 415-47, the Pirates have an impressive record, also. Riverview, though it averages 16 fewer points per game, has won most by at least three-TD margins.

The exceptions are a 20-13 defeat of Riverview Gabriel Richard in the season opener and a 7-0 victory over Huron League member Monroe Jefferson in the playoff opener.

"WE'VE HAD OTHER teams that were dominant and suddenly been in a dogfight," Herrington said. "You know there will be tough games coming up, and this will probably be the one."

Harrison anticipates a tougher game than it got from Clawson — a team it beat 32-0 in the mud and rain last week — and perhaps its toughest of the year with the possible exception of the Western Lakes Activities Association final against Westland John Glenn.

Though he would never anticipate another lopsided victory like the 45-7 defeat Harrison dealt the Rockets, Herrington has full confidence in his team.

"I expect the same type of game (as the teams played in '86), but I think we'll play better than we did that year," he said. "I feel this team is a little quicker on defense and has a few more tools on offense than we had then."

Lessner would no doubt agree after seeing the Hawks beat Glenn. As most coaches are, he is impressed by Harrison's Mill Coleman, who has passed for 1,571 yards and 22 touchdowns. He has completed 78 of his 129 attempts.

"Coleman may end up being the greatest quarterback in the history of Michigan high school football," Lessner said. "They seem to have excellent skill people — kids who can run with the ball, kids who can catch it."

BRYAN WAULDRON, who has 37 receptions for 855 yards and 10 touchdowns, needs another 92 yards to break Brian Smolinski's school record of 1,658 career receiving yards. In addition, Chad Burgess has 20 catches for 408 yards and six TDs this season.

The Pirates also have an excellent quarterback, though maybe not in the same class as Coleman, in the 6-foot-2, 185-pound Guiney, who has passed for 782 yards and four TDs.

He throws to any of four receivers, including diminutive swingback Brett McCartney (5-6, 130), a nephew of former Riverview great and University of Missouri coach Bill McCartney.

"Our receivers are not going to be like Harrison's," Lessner said. "Those two they have are phenomenal, and the others are not too bad.

"I have to believe (Burgess and Wauldron) are major college players the way they play."

Riverview's remaining holdovers from the '86 team are safety Joel Kaczor (6-0, 180), defensive tackle David Zysk (6-4, 220) and linebacker Jeff Howey (6-0, 173). Kaczor and Zysk also started as sophomores.

THE HAWKS WILL face a big opponent with good size across the front lines. The Pirates also have guard Bill DeAngelis (6-2, 200), offensive tackles Pat Cooney (6-4, 185) and Dave Fox (6-3, 235) and safety Mike Orr (6-3, 185). Herrington rates Riverview noseman Spiro Papadopoulos (5-11, 198) very highly.

"They appear to be strong and big," he said. "We may be a little smaller and quicker, although their noseguard is extremely quick. He's fast, and we think he's a very good football player."

The Hawks, who have a mix of size and quickness on defense, have made the latter their key for success, however. Even in the mud last Saturday, they used it effectively to hold Clawson to negative total yards.

"That's probably why they're No. 1," Lessner said. "Their line (offense and defense) moves very well.

"You hear so much about their offense, but their defense is not too bad. It seems they give the offense the ball in good field position."

Bryan Wauldron's pass-catching abilities is one good reason why Harrison is favored to win the Class B title.

Harrison refuses to be beaten by expectations

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

By now certainly, every devoted fan of high school football knows Farmington Harrison is the favorite to win the Class B football championship.

The Hawks have lived with high expectations, lofty ratings and grand predictions hanging overhead all season, and they have held up well en route to their 10-0 record.

Because of that, there's probably no more pressure on the Hawks now than when the season began in September. In a way, all the talk has become stale and boring.

"We were rated No. 1 in the preseason and were expected to win the tournament before the season started," Harrison coach John Herrington said.

"So we kinda forget about it and play the games. You know there's going to be other good teams out there."

The Hawks are expected to meet one such team at 1:30 p.m. Saturday when they play Riverview in the second round of the playoffs at Madison High School.

If scores are the only consideration, Harrison had its toughest game in the season opener when it beat Southfield 25-12. The Blue Jays finished with a 6-3 record.

Herrington is confident the Hawks will respond favorably, as they did a year ago when they rallied from a 20-7 deficit to beat Marysville 35-20 in the state semifinals, should they have a close game with the Pirates.

"Kids like (Chad) Burgess, (Bryan) Wauldron and (Mill) Coleman played in the Marysville game, were in the state championship and have been in tough ballgames," he said. "When it comes, I think they'll react very well."

The opening round of the playoffs showed what can happen in post-season play when Auburn Hills Avondale toppled highly-regarded Marysville 6-0 last week. Both were undefeated, but the Vikings were considered a solid title contender. The poor conditions were thought to be a big factor in the outcome.

"I didn't think it was that much of an upset," said Herrington, adding Avondale hasn't lost a regular-season game in three years. "They almost beat them last year. If they hadn't fumbled, they probably would have."

The Harrison-Riverview winner meets either Avondale or Mount Morris in the semifinals on Saturday, Nov. 19, at Flint Atwood Stadium.

QUESTION MARK: The Hawks stunned Clawson with a 44-yard touchdown pass on the first play of the game last Saturday, and there's no doubt Coleman will be testing the Riverview defense this week.

But there's one problem.

"It's very difficult to know what they do against the pass because nobody we've faced them against threw the ball at all," Herrington said.

"At this point, we don't know how good their secondary is. We'll have to find out when the game starts."

NO QUESTION: Coleman later threw 32 yards to Wauldron on first down the next time Harrison had the ball, setting up another TD. Expect to see the Hawks throwing on first down again.

"We don't worry about the down and distance anymore," Herrington said. "If the play feels right, we just go ahead and call it."

MIXED OFFENSE: The Pirates try to be as balanced as possible on offense and "use whatever is working," according to coach Lessner.

Riverview also uses a number of backs, and only one time has anybody had more than 100 yards rushing in one game. Jason Turcotte has 125 against Class A Gibraltar Carlson.

Turcotte has 400-plus yards and 10 TDs; Joel Kaczor, who scored the only TD in Riverview's 7-0 playoff win over Monroe Jefferson, 300-plus and 10 TDs. Kaczor also does the kicking and has scored 85 points.

Quarterback Bob Guiney has more than 2,300 passing yards and 14 touchdown passes in his three-year varsity career.

PIRATE PAST: Riverview is making its second playoff appearance this year. The Pirates lost to Harrison in the 1986 tournament, 21-14.

The school has quite a tradition under Lessner. Riverview has been 8-1 six times and 7-1-1 once. The Pirates lost only three games between 1980 and 1982 but failed to make the playoffs each time.

"We've missed it so many times by one game," said Lessner, who has 140-plus career victories.

Riverview had its second unbeaten regular season this year. The first was in 1968 when the Pirates won the mythical Class B championship.

Stevenson gains revenge in rematch

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

One by one, Livonia Stevenson players admired the Region II boys soccer trophy Monday — until Aaron Brown got his hands on it.

Brown cradled the hardware like a baby. You would have thought he was taking it home with him.

Brown's second-half goal broke a 1-1 tie and helped decide Stevenson's 3-1 championship win over Southfield.

The victory at Northville High School gave the Spartans (16-0-2) their sixth regional crown in seven years.

It also put Stevenson in Wednesday's Class A semifinal round against Portage Northern at Okemos. (See related story.)

The last time Stevenson won a regional crown was in 1986, when Brown was a sophomore at Redford Catholic Central. He transferred to Stevenson last year, but Southfield upset the Spartans in last year's regional final, while snapping their 66-game unbeaten string in the process.

STEVENSON GOT revenge and the trophy Monday, so Brown knows what he was missing.

"It feels great because this is the farthest I've gotten," Brown said as he fondled the trophy. "We've worked real hard this season. Southfield is a tough team."

Brown received a sharp pass from the corner-kick area by Shane Millner and headed the ball past Southfield goalkeeper Steve Shoemake with 33:20 left in the game. The goal was Brown's ninth of the year. Pete Galea, playing with two cracked ribs, added a goal just in case about five minutes later, but Brown's tally is the one that gave Stevenson momentum.

"It was an excellent pass," Brown said. "I was just fortunate to be in the right place at the right time. At first I thought I was offside, but I thought I could dive for it. I did and I buried it behind him."

THE GAME originally was scheduled for Saturday at Brighton's Scranton Middle School, but rain and bad field conditions caused the postponement of that game. The Northville field was in excellent shape, but midway through the first half a circuit breaker on one of the light towers blew and none of the lights in that tower worked the rest of the game.

Despite darker conditions in the south end of the field, the game continued.

"We had lots of excitement here," Stevenson coach Pete Scerri said. "I was scared at first. I thought they'd postpone it again."

Southfield coach Wally Barrett was disappointed with the outcome, but satisfied with his team's effort and overall record of 14-4-3.

STEVENSON'S KURT WILL scored the game's first goal, heading in a corner kick by Marc Strayer.

Southfield tied the game 1-1 before halftime when Jason Goldsmith raced by a Stevenson defender and drilled the bal by Smolenski.

"We played our hardest," Barrett said. "There were just a couple of situations in front of the net where they took advantage of their size and strength. They played to win today.

"We didn't finish a couple of breaks tonight, and against a strong team like Stevenson you've got to finish your opportunities. Stevenson is better this year. I said earlier this year when we were struggling, it looks like it will be a classic final between Stevenson and Troy Athens and it might."

The second half was more physical than the first with two Stevenson players, Mark Thomas and Jason Flynn, and Southfield's Chris Delgado receiving yellow cards.

Scerri denied that revenge was an added motive for Stevenson, which was bounced from last year's state tournament by Southfield.

THE BLUE JAYS win ended the Spartans' bid for a third straight Class A title.

"There's no revenge factor," Scerri said. "Before the game there were a lot of psychology words used to give them something to think about. But we didn't play any harder than any other game."

CC, Glenn face off

• Both coaches are highly organized and respect each other's programs.

"GLENN SEEMS to be very physical with two big backs (Bryant Satterlee and Andre Dixon) that can run and get you the tough yards," observed CC coach Tom Mach.

Glenn coach Chuck Gordon, meanwhile, is hoping his team will not suffer another embarassment like the 45-7 drubbing three weeks ago against another No. 1 team, Class B title contender Farmington Harrison.

"We might be a power team, but they (CC) are powerful," Gordon said. "You have to realize that CC may be the best team that we've ever played at Glenn. They're so much bigger and stronger than we are. It's going to be tough going toe to toe. Once they get the ball they'll try and jam it at us with that big line with that big back (Lee Krueger).

"They're a different team than Harrison. Harrison has a little extra flair on offense. Scott Hauncher (CC's quarterback) can throw it, but they just assume run it down your throat.

Mach is leery of Glenn's passing attack and trickery.

"THEY HAVE A couple of cute plays to keep you honest like the pitch pass and the transcontinental play," said the CC coach.

The homefield advantage is also in Glenn's favor.

"The familiar surroundings will help," Mach said. "But in the playoffs you have to come and play, no matter what the conditions or weather is like."

The Shamrocks come into the game at full strength, something Mach attributes to the team's off-season conditioning work.

"We've played 23 games in the last two years with no serious injuries," Mach said. "We do a good job in the off-season of getting our kids physically able to play. We work out before school starts and during the summer we open up the weight room three nights a week. That's a big part of avoiding injuries. We also lift two times a week during the season to maintain our strength."

Mach said the addition of trainer Jeff Lomber has improved the team's performance.

"This year it's a lot easier dealing with the injuries we did have," said the CC coach. "It's worked out well for us. We save 15 to 20 hours on our coaching staff so they can concentrate on football."

ONE PLAYER WHO has benefitted from the off-season work is center-linebacker Pat McHale, a 5-foot-10, 190-pound senior. He is one of the Shamrocks' unsung players.

"He's our second leading tackler and he hasn't had a bad snap all year," said Mach. "He gotten better at both positions as the season went along. He's a tough football player, a smart football player. He is great at handling the nose man."

Glenn, meanwhile, will counter with Dixon, a 6-2, 210-pound battering ram who is going both ways.

Dixon played on the JV squad last year after transferring. He's been starting all year at fullback and has moved into the defensive line on a regular basis during the latter stages of the season.

"We felt he was a player, even when he was on the JV team," Gordon said.

Glenn's interior front is nothing to kick sand at with the likes of junior John Hodor (6-2, 175), Tom Kessler (5-8, 185), Dan Croft (6-0, 177), Dereck Tharp (6-4, 201) and Kraig Kuban (6-0, 171).

Michigan Hawks enjoy banner year

The Under-19 Michigan Hawks girls soccer team posted a 10-0 record this fall, winning its fourth-straight Little Caesars "Ilitch Division" outdoor championship.

During that streak, the Hawks were 33-1-6 overall.

Brooke Gillespie of Troy recorded nine shutouts throughout the campaign, surrendering only one goal while the Hawks scored 45.

Earlier this fall, the Hawks captured their third consecutive MSYSA state title. They also won the Wolverine Tournament, the Bluewater Invitational, the National Invitational and the Omega Labor Day Shootout.

Team members are Natalka Litkewycz, Margaret Kopmeyer (Bloomfield Hills); Shannon Meath (Canton); Lisa Yderstad, Caerllion Thomas, Susan Gibson, Carrie Maier, Jennifer Misaros and Amy Trunk (Farmington); Erin Morgan and Julie Stabnick (Plymouth);, and Patty Boyle, Bonnie Boyle, Liz Brooks and Jacquie Silgayi (Troy).

Paul Dugan has coached the team to six state championships and eight-straight league titles. Mike Yderstad is the manager and Ralph Gibson is the trainer.

Lady Ocelots are favored in regional

The pursuit of an NJCAA Region 12 volleyball championship will have to wait one day longer for Schoolcraft College, thanks to a first-round bye.

SC is hosting the tournament, which starts with three matches today. At 6:30 p.m., Muskegon meets Lansing and Delta goes against Grand Rapids. At 8 p.m., Vincennes (Ind.) faces Cuyahoga Metro (Cleveland) and Kalamazoo Valley battles Sinclair (Ind.).

On Friday, SC plays the Vincennes-Cuyahoga winner at 10 a.m., Macomb goes against the Delta-Grand Rapids winner, Southwestern meets the Kalamazoo-Sinclair winner and Lake Michigan faces the Muskegon-Lansing winner.

The unbeatens meet in a semifinal match at 1:30 p.m. Friday, with the winner advancing to Saturday's final round of the double-elimination tournament.

The losers' bracket begins at noon Friday, with matches following at 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. The first match of the final round Saturday will be played at 10 a.m., with another at 1 p.m. if necessary.

The region winner advances to the NJCAA tournament Nov. 21-23 in Miami. Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students each day.

A YEAR AGO, SC failed to reach the NJCAA tournament after two successive appearances when it lost to Southwestern in the regional finals. That hasn't been forgotten by the returning players.

Schoolcraft sports

"They know the pain of losing," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "No one likes to lose. Going to Miami for the nationals is a nice reward for any team that's had a good season."

The Lady Ocelots, ranked third in the NJCAA with a 37-4 overall record (29-2 against junior colleges), will have a great advantage playing on their home court. They have yet to lose a single game at home this season.

But Teeters is cautious. "We haven't played well in the last week," he said. "The flu has plagued a couple of players, and in last Wednesday's loss to the University of Windsor only Alisha Love's serving and Sarah Heddle's hitting were up to par.

Teeters hopes all those ills are cured by this weekend.

MADONNA VOLLEYBALL: Madonna College missed qualifying for the NAIA District 23 tournament in spite of a 27-10 record and a winning record against at least one of the teams that qualified.

Report bear thieves to preserve numbers

Bill Parker

THIS column was supposed to preview the opening of the firearms deer season, but it won't.

Not all of the outdoor press releases we receive at the Observer & Eccentric are of the positive nature. Occasionally, there is bad news to report.

Such is the case today.

In the past year poachers have killed six black bear in our great state.

These thieves are stealing our resources right in front of our eyes. What's worse is that no one seems to care enough to get involved.

Rewards are being offered in each of the cases in an effort to bring justice to the culprit or culprits responsible. Although no one has come forward with information yet, someone out there knows something.

SOMEONE KNOWS about the two, 100-pound black bear found shot and their hides removed in mid-September near Alpena in Presque Isle County.

Someone has heard the friend of a friend bragging about the small female black bear he shot in mid-August near Spring Pond on Drummond Island.

Someone has heard a story about so-and-so's cousin who shot a 200-pound black bear in early May just south of the Oscoda/Montmorency county line.

Someone has been told the story of how what's-his-name claims to have shot two bear cubs last October in Montmorency County near Atlanta.

If you're that someone, stand up for your rights as a Michigan outdoorsman. Turn in the friend of a friend, so-and-so's cousin or what's-his-name. You don't owe these jerks anything. They owe us, and only you can make them pay for their crimes against nature.

IN THE MOST recent case, a $500 reward is being offered through the DNR's Report All Poaching (RAP) program, for information in connection with the killing of two 100-pound black bears. The bears were found shot and their hides removed on Sept. 18 at the Rayburn Road/U.S. 23 intersection near Alpena in Presque Isle County.

DNR law enforcement officials say the bears were abandoned at the site sometime between 7 p.m. Sept. 17 and 10 a.m. Sept. 18, the day they were found. Due to the decomposed condition of the carcasses, DNR officers believe the bears were taken two to three days prior to the Sept. 16 bear hunting opener.

Anyone with information on any of the illegal killings should call the DNR's 24-hour RAP Hotline, 1-800-292-7900 or the DNR's Gaylord Office at (517) 732-3541. All information will be kept confidential.

ILLEGALLY KILLING or posessing a bear, or parts of a bear, is a misdemeanor. Penalties include fines ranging from $200 to $1,000, five to 90 days in jail, $1,500 in restitution and loss of hunting privleges for three years.

The following rewards also remain available for information on the other bear killings.

- $2,700 — year old, 70-pound, female black bear found shot August 17, near Spring Pond on Drummond Island.
- $1,500 — 200-pound black bear found shot May 5 just south of the Oscoda/Montmorency County line.
- $2,000 — two bear cubs found shot in October, 1987 near Atlanta in Montmorency County.

BY THE WAY, outstanding deer management practices by the Michigan DNR, along with back-to-back mild winters, has enabled the deer herd to grow to close to 1.6 million animals, the largest the herd has ever been.

The DNR expects a record harvest of better than 300,000 deer.

Close to 100,000 hunters will receive bonus antlerless-only deer licenses as the Michigan DNR tries to reduce the herd by 200,000 by next October.

If you're a successful hunter, send me your success story. Send your name, phone number and information about the deer to: Outdoors, Observer & Eccentric, 1225 Bowers, Birmingham 48012.

Good, bad and bucolic
Assessing public art

By C. L. Rugenstein
special writer

Public art — those corporate monoliths, war memorials or fountains spouting dancing figures, are meant to be more than decorations, according to Charlotte Stokes. They not only document history and mark social change, they say something about the place they occupy and the people who put them there.

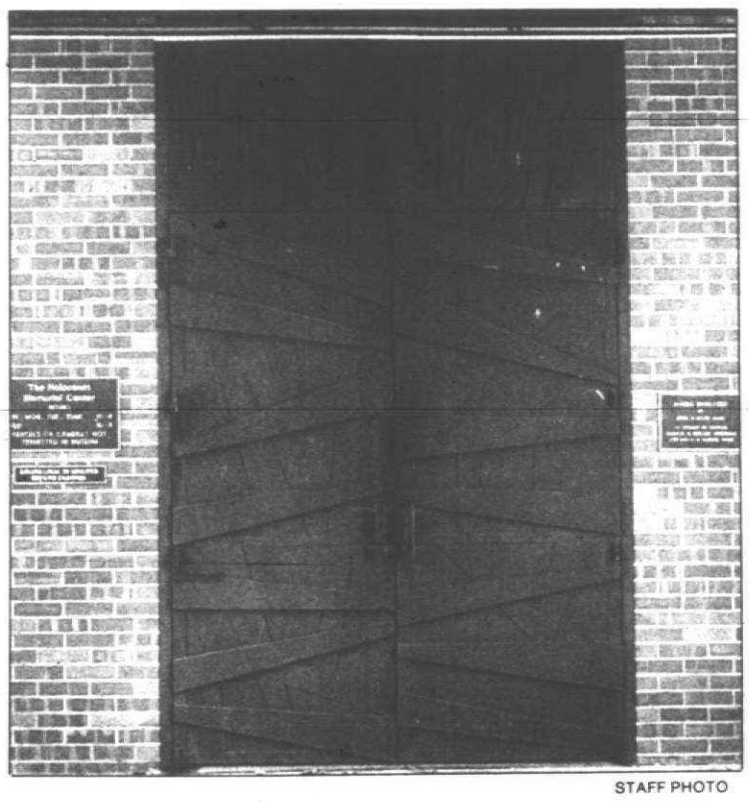
"If you want public art to work for an institution (civic, religious, or corporate) it definitely has to say something about the institution," she explained. "It enhances — sets it up a little, like a woman with beautiful eyes wearing eye makeup." Good public art makes people want to get a closer look, perhaps eat their lunch by it, Stokes said.

Stokes, chairman of the department of Art and Art History at Oakland University spoke recently on the good — and not so good — uses of public art in Oakland County.

She offered illustrations and contrasts in the use of public art through a slide presentation.

One of the first examples was the use of traditional art, a bronze Marshall Fredericks sculpture fronting a Methodist Church in Waterford of Christ with a flock of sheep. "Christ the Good Shepherd" needs no explaining.

"It illustrates a well-understood story . . . and was not meant to be emotional, because it's so well understood," Stokes said.



STAFF PHOTO

Doors of the Holocaust Memorial Center of West Bloomfield were designed by Detroit sculptor Morris Brose. They relate deeply and directly to the human tragedy that is documented at the center.

On the other hand, the "Holocaust Doors" on the Holocaust Memorial at West Bloomfield's Jewish Community Center are less traditional.

CREATED BY MORRIS BROSE, the irregular lengths of criss-crossed black metal are still recognizable for what they represent — the boxcar doors of the trains that went to the death camps. The doors, with the Memorial's small, barred windows evoke with power the shrunken space and meanness of what they represent.

"They're not traditional Jewish symbols, they explore new territory," Stokes noted. Jewish institutions in general are more adventurous she added, and will commission "a good proportion of advanced art, in terms of religious art."

Corporate art also came in for its share of attention. Stokes singled out two works with different receptions by their viewing public.

One, the large stone head in front of K mart world headquarters in Troy, does its job very well. The open panel in one side makes a nice statement, according to Stokes.

"It asserts the power of the corporation: one must insinuate one's ideas a little but still remain part of the organization," she pointed out.

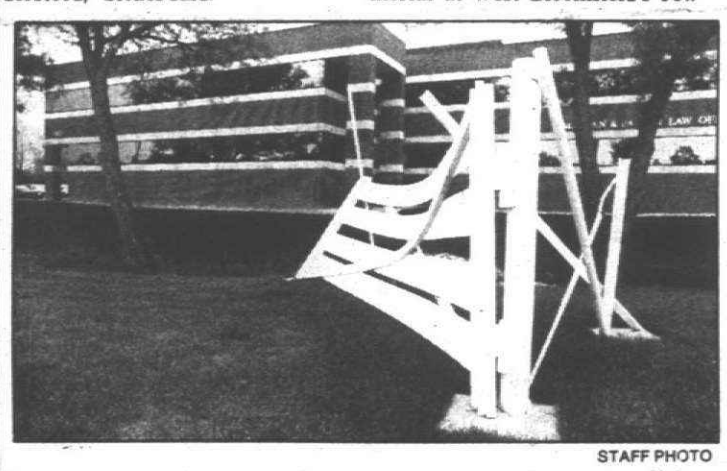
A controversial piece of sculpture by Oakland County artist Michael Hall, has not been as fortunate. The curving, white-painted work looks like a gate, part of a farm fence.

Placed by art enthusiast and collector Gilbert B. Silverman in front of a building that houses his company's offices in Farmington Hills, neighbors have complained about it and want it taken away. Because the piece is too close to the road, Farmington Hills' zoning board may have the last word about its disposition.

"The piece has no obvious corporate symbolism, but it does comment on traditional rural America," Stokes said. Placed against a too-green lawn, with sculpted, reflecting pebbly-bottomed brook — "with duck . . . it's so bucolic, so manufactured."

CITIES CAME IN for their share of scrutiny, also. Stokes contrasted the way Birmingham and Pontiac have preserved their city centers, or, in Pontiac's case, failed to preserve its centrality.

"Pontiac has lost something with the dispersal of its public buildings," Stokes said. She added that she doesn't think Pontiac will ever regain a strong, central civic sense because of that, but commented on two positive uses of public art there.



STAFF PHOTO

Michael Hall's sculpture, "Covington," has been the center of controversy since it was placed in front of a building on Northwestern Highway. While some people appreciate the memories of country life that it evokes, others find it distasteful.

'It is the stuff pageantry and poetry are made of — the stuff of art and humor . . . Color is the first and the most important buying decision a consumer makes."
— Jack Lenor Larsen

Larsen predicts new brightness for the '90s

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

Internationally renowned fabric designer Jack Lenor Larsen shared his insider's predictions on the trends and colors of the '90s when he spoke at the Michigan Design Center in Troy recently.

For his presentation, Larsen added to his businessman's gray suit the dash of a sunshine yellow knit tie and glasses with stark white frames. In his design business, he strikes a similar balance between innovation and marketing knowledge by combining his artist's color vision and his weaver's enthusiasm for textures and fiber possibilities, with the acumen of a businessman who for years has dealt successfully in international design markets.

Larsen spoke with enthusiasm of color.

"It is the stuff pageantry and poetry are made of — the stuff of art and humor," he said.

Next to light, color is the most important design element because it powerfully affects how we feel, he said.

From the business point of view, "color is the first and the most important buying decision a consumer makes," he said.

After the beige '70s and the apricot that "flared then collapsed in the early '80s," Larsen predicted "new brightness" for the '90s with middle intensity colors, not necessarily bright or primary colors, but a palette that is "vibrant and joyful, cheerful and brave."

He expects to see more blues mixed with red, he said.

"The end of U.S. dominance as a world force will open us to color, especially from Asia and the Pacific rim."

LARSEN ANTICIPATES the return of texture. Nubbier textured fabrics will make inroads on the current vogue for smooth, matte finishes.

"Too much interior color (now) is lifeless, flat and laminated," Larsen said.

Instead of the expanses of flat color now popular, Larsen favors the "broken colors of nature," the shattered, mottled gradations seen in sand, granite, tree trunks and bird plumage.

Luxury is on the upswing. Larsen predicted an increase in "lush, overscaled, textural cloth in iridescent colors and a return to silk, fine linen, good worsteds and Egyptian cotton."

THE NEW technology of faster, computerized looms enables manufacturers to produce fabric less expensively for a broader market. New printing pigments and half-tone printing techniques that shade colors smoothly from one tone to another dramatically open up fabric possibilities for the future.

Larsen foresees more intricate fabric-making techniques such as printing on the warp before weaving a fabric, printing designs over damasks and other richly textured materials, and more two-sided fabrics, he said.

Silk screen printing processes now permit designers to use fireworks of up to 88 different colors and discharge printing, in which fabric is first dyed black and then the color is taken out, creating another intricate craft-like effect.

Larsen expects nonchalant elements and surprise to figure more prominently in future designs, he said.

"I still don't understand museum rooms," he said. "They're stiff, formal and boring, but you see a lot of them — a lot of them get published.

"Consumers will be exposed to more state of the art space," he said.

Design will blossom in hospitals and throughout the health care industry, as well as in hotels and the hospitality industry. Hotels embraced the "luxury business" because they need to make up to consumers for the fact that service sometimes falters, Larsen said.

"The jewel tones and small pattern worsteds (that dominated office furniture) will not carry over," he said.

HE ANTICIPATES an increasing difference between office and residential colors, patterns and fibers, he said. White walls will lose ground to colored walls and to fabric-covered walls.

Light will brighten more dark corners in the '90s with low-voltage lamps coming from many sources. Larsen foresees an increasing awareness of the sensitive relationship between color and light. Both designers and consumers will make more color selections on site, using the actual lights that will reflect on fabrics, he said.

He lamented the "shoe box" design of many modern, dry-walled rooms because they lack architectural interest. In such rooms color and fabric become essential to add design and bring a room to life.

WHEN LARSEN first came to New York to launch his career as a designer, khaki was his favorite color, he said. Personally he finds he is again drawn to the bronzes because "they're good foils for brighter colors," he said.

Colors often run in 30-year cycles, and Larsen sees in the return of bronze-khaki evidence that avocado, the blockbuster color of the early '60s, may have come full circle, he said.

Since 1951 when he opened his studio in New York, Larsen has earned an impressive array of honors and has designed for Steven's, Martex, Dansk, Pan Am, Braniff and the Rockefellers, just a few of the big names recognizing his expertise.

LARSEN'S NEW line of linens for Martex, "Reflections," will be in stores at the turn of the year. It features finely woven, all-cotton sheets.

"It's the first time I've been allowed to design bed linens in all cotton," Larsen said.

They are priced higher than blends, but "they feel wonderful to sleep on, and require little or no ironing," he said.

He described the new line as "classical, country, with some elegance." Two of the new design groups are based on old quilt patterns, he said.

HIS COMPANY, Jack Lenor Larsen, runs production centers in 31 countries worldwide and has added carpet, leather and furniture divisions to his original line of fabrics. He is affiliated with 41 institutions and schools, including the Cranbrook Academy of Art, where he studied in his early years.

One of the boards on which he serves recently chose the palette that will dominate upholstery fabrics, carpeting, tiles, towels, drapery, paints and linens in 1991.

The aim of the group is to coordinate colors in all the design industries. It includes Mary McFadden, designer for wealthy clients, as well as the president of Pittsburg Paints, which sells largely to middle market Americans.

Each member of the group submits 40 fabric swatches for consideration. Then the board meeets for most of a day to discuss the nuances of color, to debate intensities and compatibilities in order to arrive at seven or eight colors that will break into the limelight at furniture shows in a year or two, colors that will be splashed across future pages of Architectural Digest and will eventually dominate the middle market.

In 1991, brides will pick towels in hues Larsen recently helped select. New sofas and chairs in those hues will be carried into houses and dentist offices across the country and around the world.

Unusual programming continues as Artists Series opens season

American Artists Series opens its new season with a chamber concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, in Kingswood Cranbrook Auditorium.

The series, founded 19 years ago by Joann Freeman, artistic director and pianist, will continue on four more Sundays, Jan. 15, March 5, April 9 and May 7.

The opening concert will feature the American Artists Chamber Players — Hart Hollman, viola; Linda Snedden Smith, violin; John Thurman, cello; Ervin Monroe, flute; and Freeman, piano. Hollman, Smith, Thurman and Monroe are members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

The program includes the Piano Quartet by Saint-Saens, a string trio by Beethoven and trios for flute and strings by Max Reger and Albert Roussel.

For ticket information, call 851-5044 or the AAs office, 647-2230. Season tickets, $45, and individual tickets, $9.50-11, are available at Harmony House, Royal Oak, Farmington Hills; Metro News Center, Telegraph and Maple, Bloomfield Township; Book People, Orchard Mall, West Bloomfield; and Everything Music, Farrell Shopping Center, Southfield.

For the January concert, the New Baroque Soloists from New York will present compositions by Giovanni Legrenzi, Johann Joachim Quantz, C.P.E. Bach, Johann Friedrich Fasch, Francois Couperin, Wilhelm Friedemann Bach and Johann Cristoph Friedrich Bach.

The March concert will spotlight brothers Sergio and Odair Assad, guitarists from Brazil in works by Sor, Rameau, Debussy, de Falla, Villa-Lobos, Gismonti, Piazzolla and Sergio Assad.

In April, guest pianist Jutta Czapski, wife of Maestro Gunther Herbig, will join Freeman in a performance of Schumann's Andante and Variations for two pianos, two celli and French horn. Ronald Fischer, violin, viola and Eugene Wade, French horn will join the Chamber Players for a program that includes the Horn Quintet by Mozart and the Piani Quintet by Saint Saens.

For the final and only evening concert of the season on May 7, Jane Rosenson, Detroit Symphony Orchestra harpist, will be the guest artist with the Chamber Players in a program that includes Danses Sacree et Profane by Debussy, "Masque of the Red Death" by Andre Caplet and the Trio Elegiaque by Rachmaninoff.

In her programming, Freeman is dedicated to presenting the unusual, the seldom-played and obscure works of great composers.

The camaraderie that has developed over the years among the Artiscan Artists Series Chamber Players results in notable teamwork when they perform. Shown in rehearsal, from left, they are: Hart Hollman, viola; Linda Snedden Smith, violin; Joann Freeman, pianist and artistic director; and John Thurman, cello.

AFTER 10 years of retail experience, I can safely say "I haven't the slightest idea of what's going on." Retail changes every year. As soon as you think you have it figured out, it completely flip-flops.

I remember when there was "Back-to-School" then "Halloween," then down the road came "Thanksgiving" and finally the "Christmas season." This year people are already asking "Where are those Christmas art kits you guys make up?" And I'm standing there thinking "Christmas? I haven't even taken in the garden hose and there is still a pumpkin on my porch, and this lady wants a Christmas art kit!"

Is it me? What happened to Thanksgiving? I'm still griping about the hot summer we had, and some people are getting ready for Christmas. Well, believe it or not, it's true. So I am writing my buyer's guide article a little early . . . no, make that a lot early.

Here's a good example. A lady called my store and said, "I want to buy my grandson an easel for Christmas, and I can't find what I want." "How old is your grandson?" I asked. "Fourteen," she replied. "Did he ask for an easel?" I asked with doubtful tones. "No," she said. "But he likes art, I figured he'd want one."

I POLITELY TOLD her that her grandson would probably kiss her, say "Wow, grandma, I love it," and then never use it.

Free-standing easels are best for painters and pastel painters. Teens are usually more into drawing media. For example: pencil, colored pencil, charcoal pencil, pen and ink etc. For drawing media, it is best to work slightly elevated at a desk, drafting table or even a lap board. There is a little-known accessory called a board elevator that will hold a lap board or even a piece of masonite at any angle. This will transform the kitchen table or a bedroom desk into a beautiful drawing surface.

Painters, some pastel artists and all air-brush people need easels. Free-standing easels are needed for larger works of art, and many artists are just as happy with table easels. The thing about art materials is that they get used up and artists are usually frugal . . . no make that cheap! Often grimacing, an artist will lay three tubes of paint at the register and say something like "I need these three colors but someday I'm going to get that $3 tube of Naples Yellow over there." But seriously, I guess I'm that way myself. It's hard with the everyday expenses of life to go into an art supply store and get whatever suits your fancy. That is precisely why artists' loved ones appreciate a gift of art materials.

PAINTERS NEED paint, they also need brushes. If they have enough brushes, buy them one really nice brush or a specialty brush. We have one brush that is $69! Personally, I could never use that brush, I'd be afraid I would get paint on it! My favorite special oil brushes are Mongoose-Badger hair brushes, monkey hair and sable. My favorite watercolor brushes are black squirrel hair pointed mops, oval wash brushes, mongoose hair flat wash, most pointed sables and script liner brushes.

All oil and acrylic painters need canvas to paint on. All watercolor painters need paper. Sounds easy but it can get complicated. The best thing to do is ask for help wherever you shop. If the store people just point to a shelf, you're likely to buy the wrong thing. Ask what they recommend and have an idea of what you would like to spend.

briefly speaking

● SCHOOLCRAFT RECITAL

Mary Katherine Mrogan, soprano, and pianist Linda C. Wotring will perform arias and songs at an autumn recital at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, in the Livonia City Hall auditorium. The recital is sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Music Club and Music Department.

Tickets are available in the Schoolcraft College Student Activities Officer, lower Waterman Center, and at the door the night of the recital. General admission is $4. Students and children under 12 are $2. Proceeds will benefit the college's music student scholarship fund. For more information, call 464-4400, Ext. 5043.

● SPECTRUM CLUB ART SHOW

Art students of Livonia artist Muriel Linton will have their work on display and for sale in the 14th annual art exhibit of the Spectrum Art Club from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, in Faith Covenant Church, corner of 14 Mile and Drake, Farmington Hills.

Judging the show, which will have over 100 works, will be Marie Larson, a member of the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association staff. The public may attend. Refreshments will be available.

● VAAL ART SHOW

The fall exhibit of the Visual Arts Association of Livonia is under way in the lobby of the Livonia City Hall. Viewing hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily.

● DEARBORN SYMPHONY

The Dearborn Symphony's second concert of the season at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, will feature international-award-winning Polish emigre pianist Leszek Bartkiewicz in Franz Liszt's bravura First Piano Concerto.

"Coffee, Team and Symphony," a concert preview, will present Bartkiewicz in a more relaxed and informal setting at 9:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17. The event is hosted by the Dearborn Orchestral Society in the Henry Ford Centennial Library and offered to the public free.

Tickets prices for the Friday concert are $10 for adults and $4 for students. The concert will be held in Crestwood High School, 1501 Beech Daly Road, Dearborn Heights.

● PALMER LECTURE

Hope Palmer, Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association instructor, will talk about contemporary art at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16, in the Livonia Civic Center Library on Five Mile. The lecture is open to the public. The sponsor is the Livonia Arts Commission.

● ANN ARBOR SYMPHONY

The Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra continues its 60th anniversary season with a concert in the Michigan Theater, Ann Arbor, at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20. The concert will feature Tian Ying, a young Chinese pianist who is the recipient of impressive international awards.

He will perform with the orchestra under the direction of music director Carl St. Clair in Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 in F. Minor. Also on the program is Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" and Suzanne Shepherd's "The Divine Call."

Tickets are available at the Michigan Theater box office, 668-8397. Tickets are priced at $12 and $8, with $2 discounts for students and senior citizens, $4 discount for children under 12. For more information, call 994-4801.

● ART FACULTY SHOW

Work by Henry Ford Community College art faculty will be on exhibit in Sisson Gallery in the MacKenzie Fine Arts Building on the college campus through Nov. 23. Featured will be drawing, painting, photography, ceramics, sculpture and weaving. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily with evening hours of 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday.

● YWCA CRAFT SHOW

The Northwest YWCA will be host to over 50 artists and crafters at its 13th annual arts and crafts show from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13. On display and for sale will be holidays crafts, toys, jewelry, ceramics and other items. Food service will be available and door prizes will be given. The Northwest YWCA is at 25940 Grand River, Redford. For more information, call 537-8500.

Cairn sculptor in area

Tom Clark, sculptor of the Cairn Collectibles, will make two guest appearances tomorrow in the area, one at 2:30 p.m. and the other at 7:30 p.m. in the Ramada Inn, 8270 Wickham Road, Romulus. The noted artisan will show new releases of his work plus a large display of his collectibles, which will be available for sale and signing. One of the sponsors of the event is Marion's Gift Box, in Wonderland Mall.

Slide montaging can add pizazz to pictures

The sun was never there in the initial photo of the lighthouse. Monte Nagler "placed" it there to achieve a dazzling result in this slide sandwich.

Would you like to learn a way to liven up a "dull" slide or take a good slide and make it even better? It's called slide montaging or slide sandwiching. It's easy to do, requires no darkroom and adds exciting impact to your photographs.

Before we get into how it's done, let's discuss some picture possibilities that lend themselves to montaging. Silhouettes are good for starters. Those stark trees and lonely lighthouse shots with backlighting make dramatic photos when combined with a colorful sunset or abstract cloud pattern.

A close-up of wood grain sandwiched with an overall shot of a barn results in a slide full of mood.

Even try shooting a colorful flower arrangement totally out of focus to give you a slide of color "blur." This, when combined with a portrait or any other exciting subject, will reward you with sensational combination.

WHEN SHOOTING slides for the purpose of montaging (always use slide film because you will see what the end result will be), try to overexpose slightly. This way, when you make your sandwich, the result won't be too dark.

Keep files of your slides to be used for montages. You can have a file of sun shots, cloud shots, silhouettes, etc. This makes your montaging much easier.

Is your appetite whetted? OK, here's how it's done:

Take the two transparencies that will produce your final sandwich and remove the film from the cardboard mounts. This is easily done by cutting right down the middle of the "Kodak" logo and then carefully peeling the film away from the cardboard.

After blowing off any dust particles, place the two pieces of film together, emulsion facing emulsion. This is done so that when the final slide is projected, it will be as sharp as possible. (The emulsion side of a slide is always on the same side as the Kodak logo and also has texture when you let light skim across it).

YOU'LL NEED a supply of glass slide mounts. The brand I recommend is called Gepe because they are easy to use and come with anti-newton-ring glass. Newton rings are distracting bands of light caused when the base side of film is pressed against glass. The special glass in Gepe mounts eliminates this problem.

Simply place your slides in the Gepe mounts, snap the two halves together, and there you have it . . . an exciting photo combination! Your finished slide can now be projected on a screen, or you can have a print made.

Don't overlook other combining possibilities. Most camera stores sell 35mm texture screens available in dot, tapestry, linen and other designs that are easily combined with your transparency to superimpose the texture when projected or printed.

Even try sandwiching a piece of lens cleaning tissue cut to the proper size with your transparency. A dramatic "fiber" background will result.

Contemporary can mean a state of mind

Eve Garvin

Frequently new clients will tell me that the look they want is contemporary.

This means different things to different people. For me, contemporary means "today." Our marketplace is bubbling with fresh design. So contemporary can be a group of modern furnishings. It can be modern with non-modern or it can be eclectic. For example, a 19th century bentwood used in a supergraphic room can look right at home.

Contemporary is perhaps a state of mind, a way of being daring in shaping one's environment.

HERE'S HOW I gave a facelift in what my client called a contemporary look.

The house is in the modern idiom both inside and out. It has nine-foot ceilings, stark white walls and virtually nothing in the way of architectural detail.

The foyer has two guest closets with louvred wood doors. Flooring is white ceramic tile. The living room or great room and dining room is carpeted in a berber, bone, oatmeal and cinnamon. With two youngsters in the house we decided to be very practical, but not to sacrifice a look for practicality.

Guest closet doors were replaced with beveled mirror doors.

THE DINING room was the first we tackled. This 13-by-14 room has two long, narrow windows spaced between a six-foot wall. The windows face a ravine at the rear of the house. The clinical white walls gave way to a soft vanilla throughout the living-dining areas. Mini blinds to match the walls fit inside the windows to give a simple, uncluttered look.

A 40-by-80 rectangular table of travertine marble, which will seat up to 12, is luxurious and still practical. The perfect foil for the table are the Louis XV chairs of bleached oak with a white wash. The chairs are upholstered seat and back in bone ultra suede.

A glass sideboard for company entertaining its on the side wall. The glass works perfectly here from the standpoint of being practical and giving an light, airy feeling.

Two large Oriental vases sit on either end of the dining table. For lighting, a brass strip with inner lights follows the perimeter of the table. The total look is soft — like sinking into a marshmallow.

THE LIVING room, which is really the great room in that it has a dual purpose, is practical, but quite elegant. A custom-made entertainment center covers one wall. This houses a wet bar, television, VCR tapes and books. The material is an almond mica that resembles lacquer. Two buttery soft leather sofas form an L in front of the fireplace. Cafe au lait works perfectly as the color for the sofas.

A lounge chair and ottoman flank one side of the fireplace and are upholstered in a strie fabric of bone, almond and cinnamon. A flip top table in back of the sofa faces the fireplace and doubles as a desk, or with the top flipped, a table for extra dining service.

A Louis XVI chair inherited from grandmother is refinished in a cinnamon shiny lacquer with upholstery in colors used with a hint of drudgy green — a contemporary pattern on a silk and linen fabric.

The same fabric is used on the huge throw cushions on the sofas. Two crystal heron bird lamps face each other on the sofa table/desk with grandmother's chair facing the fireplace.

The two eight-foot doorwalls have verticals in the wall color with a suede look to the material.

A glass cocktail table holds a collection of snuff bottles and small memorabilia.

A ficus tree in a terra cotta pot appears to have found its natural habitat. Its presence completes the room.

Christmas Walk set

Northville's charming historical Mill Race Village — dressed up in holiday finery — will be open to visitors two weekends this month as part of a "Christmas Walk."

Dates are Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 19-20, and the following weekend, Nov. 26-27. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays. Adult donation is $5, each accompanied child $3, and families (two adults and children) $15. Tickets may be purchased at the gate or in some downtown businesses. For more information, call the Northville Historical Society office, 348-1845, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Reception to honor fresco artist team

Supporters of fresco have organized an art auction and reception for Lucienne Bloch and Stephen Pope Dimitroff Sunday, in West Bloomfield.

Twenty-five area artists have donated works to be auctioned, and two local fresco artists will show slides on the technique.

The event is sponsored by the Fresco Friends, a group organized to encourage fresco work and to support the work of Pope and Dimitroff, two former assistants to Mexican master Diego Rivera.

Pope and Dimitroff were hired last year to clean the Detroit Institute of Art's frescos, "Detroit Industry." They have held seminars locally, including one last summer at the University of Michigan. The pair will be negotiating next week to create a fresco at a museum in Flint.

Fresco, which thrived for centuries, has not seen widespread use in America the 1930s.

Fresco is the art of grinding then applying earth colors on wet, lime plaster so the mural fuses with the wall surface to become permanent.

Bloch and Dimitroff met while working with Rivera. The daughter of composer Ernst Bloch, Lucienne took the only pictures believed to exist of Rivera's murals at Rockefeller Center in New York, which were later destroyed.

Dimitroff joined Rivera as an assistant during the Detroit project, and the pair has since done frescos in several states.

For more information on the reception and auction, contact Jeanne Poulet, 464-6914.

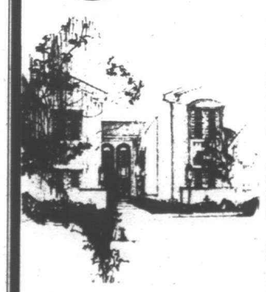
Superlative Rental Living In The Hills of West Bloomfield



NEW lavishly large 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace ranch dwellings of unsurpassed size that are utterly extraordinary - up to 2,800 square feet and every amenity: private entries, attached garages, fireplaces, cathedral ceilings, designer kitchens with separate breakfast areas, master bedroom suites with dressing area, double vanities, double closets and walk-in closets too, in-residence laundry and storage, full carpeting, central air conditioning, patio or balcony.
Truly resort-like recreational facilities include: oversized pool in a spectacular wooded setting, a manor-home like clubhouse — ideal for private parties — tennis courts and, of course, a 24-hour manned gatehouse with package reception services. There is even a private lending library. All on over 130 incomparable private acres for estate-like living.
Unquestionably the standard for beauty and luxury. For their size, design and breathtaking setting, YOU MUST SEE the 1, 2 and 3 bedroom terrace homes of ALDINGBROOKE.
Travel Maple Road to Drake Road; turn north and drive through the woods, to the summit of the hill, and enter ALDINGBROOKE through the manned gatehouse on your left.
Note: Limited number of short term executive rentals available. 1 and 2 year leases being offered.

TELL JACK FROST TO TAKE A HIKE.

"Isn't it something? No two snowflakes are ever the same!" "Oh, look! Everything seems to be covered in an endless blanket of snow." "See the pretty pictures Jack Frost has painted on the windowpane!" That's all well and good, but winter loses some romance when you're trying to scrape a half-inch of frozen slush off your windshield at 7:42 a.m.

At Chimney Hill, your private, attached garage will keep your windshield free of frost and your morning free of misery. You'll step from your warm, cozy apartment into your garage and be on your way. And when you get home, your fireplace will greet you with some more wintertime T.L.C. At Chimney Hill, Old Man Winter doesn't have a lease.

Who says lake living's just fun in the summer?

Living on Ford Lake's great 365 days a year. In summer there are all the water-sports, tennis and sun-worshipping pleasures. In fall, the color change is spectacular when you take a walk or jog. In winter, the cross-country skiing, snowmobiling, snowman-building, ice-skating and ice-boating are tops. (So are the indoor pleasures of watching the snow fall through your balcony window.) It's active, Year-round on the outside. Quiet and peaceful on the inside. See all that the designer-decorated 1 and 2 bedroom contemporary apartments can offer you. Now.
