Eatery robbed

A lone gunman escaped with an unknown amount of money taken during a robbery Friday night in the White Castle restaurant on Ford just west of the I-275 freeway in Canton Township.

The robbery occurred about 8:30 p.m., but no shots were fire and no one was injured.

The gunman was last seen driving west on Ford in a mid-size car, possibly a Ford.

He is described as in his early 30s, about 5-feet-7-inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes.

The Canton Connection

Wayne in Canton?

Canton residents have been calling township officials, complaining about census forms that started arriving last week.

It seems that the forms use Wayne and not Canton as the address of the residents.

Township officials say residents who are worried about being counted as Wayne residents should check the code on the form.

If it's 2443, it's OK, you'll be counted in Canton.

Egg decoration

The Canton Public Library will present a Ukrainian Egg Decoration class at 7 p.m. March 29 in the library meeting room.

Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. March 26 by phone or at the library.

Wrong number

Don't be fooled if you get a call from a police and fire association asking for donations.

Representatives are saying that they are affiliated with the Canton public safety department.

Pat Nemecek, Canton public safety director, said the group is not affiliated with Canton.

And area officials are not supporting or endorsing the group's efforts, he said.

Incumbents to sit out school race

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

With incumbents Marilyn Schwinn and Jeanette Wines choosing not to seek re-election in June, the Plymouth-Canton school board race is wide open.

Thus far, four candidates — Carl Battishill, Jack Farrow, Diane Stamp and Richard Sumpter — have filed for two four-year terms to be decided in the election June 11. There are no millage questions on the ballot.

Candidates have until 4 p.m. Monday, April 9, to file nominating petitions. A minimum of 62 valid signatures is needed.

Schwinn, board treasurer, said she's not running again for several reasons.

"Five years is a long time. There are new things to do, and I have to move on," she said. "Mostly it was just where I wanted to put my time and energy in the future. There are new things happening, and those have become most important."

Schwinn, the single parent of three sons, works for The New Health Center, a Livonia agency providing AIDS education and counseling.

"There's the possibility of a new job, and of course my AIDS education and counseling has become very important to me," she said.

"When I originally was appointed to the board I wasn't employed. Now that I am employed and self sufficient it just takes more time."

Schwinn says she doesn't begrudge the years she's served.

"It has been time consuming, but was something I chose to do. I really enjoyed it. It's been a wonderful growth experience. I enjoyed the people in the community, on the board and people I worked with in the school district. It's been most worthwhile and enjoyable."

TRUSTEE WINES said her decision was an agonizing one.

"My decision was a while in the making, but the real impetus was my husband's position.

"When we thought he was going to be transferred, I started thinking (of not running again,)" said Wines, who cares for her ill father.

"I stepped back to decide whether that's how I wanted to continue. I decided I just needed a break. It's been too much of a hectic type of living the last few years. I've enjoyed what I've done with the kids, the schools, the teachers and administrators, but I think I need a little bit of a break. My time is becoming more valuable to me.

"Four years sounds like a long time," she added. "If it was two years, I might have hesitated a little bit more."

Wines said she's not going to give up her involvement with education.

"I'm sure this isn't going to go on forever. I still will be interested in what's happening with the district and keep abreast of it. I really do like serving in that capacity."

Wines said she hopes the candidates who choose to run will be committed. "I think it takes a person who is interested in children and not just a cause or a particular issue. It's a big commitment," she said.

Like Schwinn, Wines has no complaints about her stay on the board. "I've enjoyed it; it's been interesting. I wouldn't have changed anything."

Tyburski murder 'doesn't matter' to new owners

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Imagine living in the Canton home where Dorothy Tyburski was murdered and stored in the basement freezer for more than three years.

Denny and Michael Muscat don't have to make believe. They bought the ranch-style house on Avon in Willow Creek subdivision west of Lilley Road north of Ford Road for $97,000 recently, according to Wayne County records.

'Aside from what occurred here it's really a nice house. We want it to be a our home. I don't want to bring it (the murder) up or bring it through the mud.'

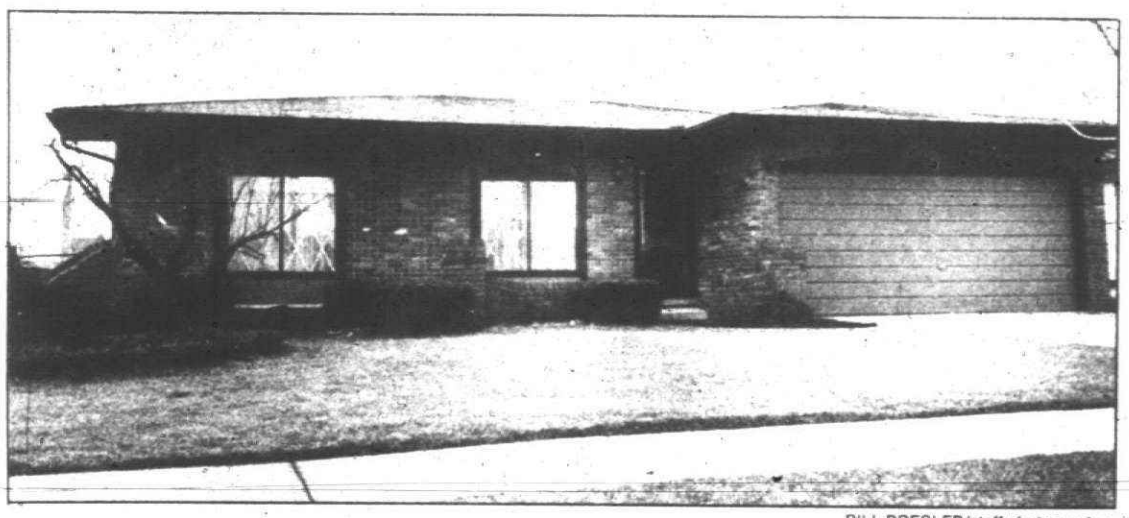
— Denny Muscat

AND THEY say the murder story that goes with it doesn't matter.

"This is our house now," said Denny Muscat. "It's the Muscat estate or the Muscat residence."

She said the murder and the freezer story "doesn't bother us a bit. We don't have any feeling about it."

Denny Muscat said they want to put the murder behind them despite the shocking stories that were covered extensively by local media and picked up by the international press.



BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

The Tyburski home in Canton has new owners.

Leonard Tyburski is serving a 20-40 year sentence in Jackson Prison for a second-degree murder conviction in the bludgeoning death of his wife Dorothy Tyburski. The case began to unfold after the couple's teenage daughter found her mother in the family freezer.

Tyburski testified in June 1989 that he beat his wife's head against a basement beam and flung her body into a freezer in September of 1985 after an argument about an affair she had with their daughter's 18-year-old boyfriend.

"Aside from what occurred here it's really a nice house," Denny Muscat said. "We want it to be a our home. I don't want to bring it (the murder) up or bring it through the mud."

DENNY MUSCAT said the house was on the real estate market for more than one year before their offer was approved.

"I really believe it was on the market for so long, because of what happened," she said, adding that the bids had come in low.

New Virginia law to pay $25,000 to wrongfully convicted area man

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Virginia Sen. Sonny Stallings, D-Virginia Beach, figured that if he didn't help former Navy man Craig Bell, no one else would.

The senator went to bat for the 28-year-old Canton Township resident, who in 1986 was wrongfully convicted of killing his fiancee in Virginia Beach.

In consecutive legislative sessions, the senator introduced the Craig Bell Relief Bill, seeking restitution for Bell's legal and medical expenses and lost wages.

Not wishing to "set precedent," Virginia legislators shot Stallings down every time, until finally, earlier this month, the bill granting $25,000 to Bell and his family passed.

Gov. L. Douglas Wilder is expected to sign the legislation sometime next month.

Woman's murder touched off nightmare, legal battle for fiance

'I was sitting on the floor holding her. She couldn't talk. I said, 'I love you, baby.' I kissed her and she died right after that.'

—Craig Bell

The day Dee Stroup was murdered, Craig Bell was off.

He spent the morning doing touch-up painting and work around the couple's Virginia Beach, Va., townhouse in preparation for their move to Michigan. They'd been engaged for several months and were planning their wedding.

Stroup, who had two children from a previous marriage, was working at the grocery store deli that had recently hired her.

That afternoon, Bell and his buddies watched friends compete in a softball tournament. Afterward, they hit a few bars.

When Bell returned home at about 2 a.m., Stroup was on the couch, watching TV. She was still there when Bell went upstairs to bed.

About 5 a.m., Bell said Stroup staggered upstairs to the bedroom, bleeding from the arm and chest.

"She said, 'I've been stabbed — put a tourniquet on my arm,'" Bell said. "I asked her, 'Who did this to you?'

technician with the rock group Bon Jovi, was in Chile with the band on a concert tour.

"I was in shock. The baby was one month early," she said.

She felt the baby coming out and called her older sister, who called 911. EMS called her and calmed her down.

She woke up her son who got towels and ice for her. "He held my hand instead of running away," Douglas said. "He let the firemen in. He was shaky, but stayed with me until I told him "You can go. It's O.K. now."

A few minutes later, a neighbor and Douglas' two sisters arrived. "It was a crowded bathroom. The sergeant sitting on the toilet, one fireman named Greg delivering, one named Michael holding my head, another fireman holding my older sister and two Canton policemen trying to peel my baby sister off the ceiling."

Douglas said her youngest sister believes babies should be born in hospitals and, therefore, was having a hard time adjusting to her nephew being born in an apartment's bathroom.

At one time, Douglas was told to stop pushing. "By how quiet it got, I could tell something else was going on."

Rory Douglas was on hand to help his mother.

The baby had the umbilical cord wrapped around his neck, but the firefighters unwrapped him and revived him.

"They never let show that anything was wrong, so I didn't go into a panic," Douglas said.

Once the baby was born, at 2:20 a.m., Douglas and her new child were driven to St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia.

Now, Douglas said she is thankful to the Canton EMS unit.

She said that besides arriving within minutes of receiving the call, "They did a remarkable job and saved my baby's life. My son also did a marvelous job."

Douglas said the nurses at the hospital told her that children born at homes usually have problems with their umbilical cords, but her son's was cut at the proper length and clamped lightly.

"Right down to the last detail the guys were great."

Douglas said she is especially thankful to two firefighters.

"Greg Tellner at the business end and Mike Caruso who held my head," she said.

Tellner, 23, has been a firefighter for five years. He said it was the first time he delivered a child, but he's trained as an emergency medical technician and knows how to deal with complications.

Tellner said Caruso, 26, coached Douglas and held her head.

"He has delivered a few before," Tellner said. "I think it was his third."

While driving to Douglas' house, Tellner said he was nervous, but once he got there, he knew what to do. "I think it was great, a wonderful experience. I am glad everything came out OK and the baby is fine."

Now that the concert tour is over the whole family is at home. "Bon Jovi gave me a bonus and my husband got the month to come home."

BATTISHILL, who teaches music at West Bloomfield High School, ran for school board last year. He is a Plymouth resident.

Jack Farrow, also a Plymouth resident, is an innovator with Medar Inc. of Farmington Hills, a welding controls firm. Farrow is active with I CARE, a citizens' committee dedicated to educational excellence. Stamp, a day care provider from Plymouth, says she stands for a return to family values and tradition in the schools.

Sumpter, a Canton resident, is a salesman. This will be his fourth bid for office. He ran for Plymouth-Canton school board in 1985, 1986 and 1988.

Petition forms are available at the board office at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth. They must be returned by 4 p.m. April 9.

ELIGIBLE TO RUN for school board is any resident of the school district who is registered to vote.

Petition forms are available at the board office at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth. They must be returned by 4 p.m. April 9.

Candidates have until 4 p.m. April 12 to withdraw from the race.

Voting will take place from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, June 11.

Officer to teach drug lesson

Canton police officer Leonard Schemanske has a gift for fifth and sixth grade students and he's hoping they'll carrying it with them for life.

This September he'll begin to introduce the DARE program to Plymouth-Canton district elementary school students to teach them to have enough self-confidence to stay away from drugs.

DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) is different from other drug resistance programs, because an officer instructs the course.

"The power of the uniform is unbelievable with the kids," Schemanske said. "Just by walking into the classroom, those little ones think you're special and very important."

SCHEMANSKE RECENTLY finished a training program to instruct the 17 lessons, which will include building self-esteem and assertiveness by showing the children different ways to stay off drugs.

Schemanske learned communication skills and teaching ideas, as well as information about child abuse and drugs.

"It's a very emotional training," Schemanske said.

He could talk about the benefits of the program for hours, he said.

"I'm committed to it," he said.

THE DARE program originated in 1983 in a Los Angeles school system by educators in an effort to stop young people from experimenting with drugs.

Currently, 183 DARE officers are in the state, 58 of whom are in Wayne County. Twenty-two percent of students in the state had DARE training last year.

It's not new to the Plymouth-Canton district. State police brought the idea to the district last year.

After the program is established, it could be expanded to teach students in other grade levels.

Suspect flees in chase, but police recover jewelry

A breaking and entering suspect, who was being chased by police, eluded the officers and is believed to have broke into three more homes, according to Canton officer Keith Lazar.

The man reportedly broke into a home on Simcoe and stole an undetermined amount of jewelry. He dropped a bag, with the jewelry inside, after police began chasing him.

Police recovered the jewelry, but lost the man.

He reportedly broke into three more homes in that area, police said Friday afternoon.

SLOPPY THIEVES: A man and woman were foiled in a robbery attempt at a Canton gas station after a clerk reported an earlier robbery at a separate Canton station.

The man and woman were arrested for larceny, fleeing and eluding and possession of narcotics paraphernalia.

After a clerk reported that two people stole cartons of cigarettes at the Hop-In gas station on Michigan Avenue, a man and woman tried to do the same thing at a Total gas station on Canton Center and Ford roads.

In the second incident, the man asked for a bucket of water and the clerk went to the back room to get it. Meanwhile, the woman called the clerk to the counter and asked for a job application.

While the clerk's attention was diverted, the man went to the store room and loaded a milk carton with cartons of cigarettes.

The clerk reached under the counter for a stick, which he pushed at the woman and asked the would-be robbers to leave, police said.

crime watch

The woman was using abusive language with the clerk and told the clerk she would shoot him.

The thieves then left the cigarettes, police said.

A Canton officer chased the car until it came to a stop south on Ridge Road where the man got out of the car and ran into a wooded area.

A tracking dog, borrowed from Van Buren Township police, found the man in the area of Ford and Ridge roads.

SITTER SPAT: A man reported last week that the woman he hired to baby-sit his 5-year-old boy mistreated the youngster by making him stay outside in 30-40 degree weather for a long period of time, because the youngster wet his pants, police said.

The boy was waiting on the baby sitter's front porch when his father picked him up.

The boy told his father that he ate his lunch on the porch, police said.

After the father reportedly called the baby sitter to find out what happened, the baby sitter said the boy wet his pants and she didn't want him in the house, a report said.

The father told police that even though the boy had a coat on, it was too cold for him to be out for a long time.

The woman, who has watched the boy for five weeks, was referred to the boy's parents by their church.

The boy appeared unhappy, but didn't complain about the baby sitter, the parents told police. They said they thought with time he would become accustomed to staying with the sitter.

DRUNK ARREST: Canton police arrested a man for disorderly conduct after he ordered them to provide a ride for him last week, police said.

Two officers arrested a driver for drunk driving and told the passenger to walk to a pay phone to get a ride home.

The man began to walk toward the phone, but returned saying that he didn't have money to make the call. The officer reportedly gave him $1.

The man became upset and demanded that the officers either give him a ride to the phone or his home.

The man told the officers that he pays taxes and the officer was obliged to give him a ride. Police said the man also used foul language.

"It was not an exceptional deal considering what happened," Denny Muscat said. "We didn't take advantage of the situation, and we made a very fair offer."

Meanwhile, Ralph Simpson, a state appellate court attorney appointed to the case, is reviewing transcripts of the Wayne County Circuit Court case looking for legal errors or improprieties.

He said he expects there will be an appeal.

"It would be quite unusual that in a second-degree murder case that there would be no basis for an appeal," Simpson said.

Confiscated vehicles put up for sale

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Bargain hunters got discount prices on semi-trucks, a Mercedes Benz and other merchandise during an auction Wednesday of goods seized by a Canton-based theft task force.

A Detroit chop shop that was busted by the Western Wayne Auto Theft Task force after a three-year investigation netted 17 semi-trucks, all of which sold Wednesday at the Boulevard and Trumbell towing company auction.

The trucks, which sell for between $80,000 and $90,000 when new, were bought for as low as $4,500 at the auction. The Mercedes went for $2,250.

TO THE 100 or so bidders and spectators, the sale was a bargain that most dealers can't beat.

But getting a good deal wasn't as easy as it appeared, according to the shoppers. Buying confiscated vehicles is taking a chance on possibly getting a lemon, they said.

"If you know what you're doing it can be a good deal — if you don't it can be real expensive," said Murle Denney of Huntington Woods, who was observing the auction on the windy, cold morning.

"There's a risk factor, but a risky person can make a lot of money," said Jim Staub of Big Rapids.

"You can make money, but you have to anticipate they're bad," said Staub, who bought two trucks — one for $5,750 and the other for $4,500.

POLICE SEIZED the trucks after an investigation of Paul Garavaglia Trucking Co. in Detroit.

"When parts would break they would steal a part and put it on the trucks," said state police Detective Sgt. James Gavigan, in charge of the investigation.

Garavaglia was convicted in September 1989 of numerous counts of operating a chop shop and concealing and receiving stolen goods. He was sentenced for two to 7½ years and was ordered to pay $296,000. Garavaglia, 69, died in jail two months later.

A number of other people, mostly from the metro Detroit area, were collectively charged with 80 felony counts during the investigation, Gavigan said.

WEDNESDAY'S AUCTION of semi-trucks was the first of its kind by the task force, said Michigan State police Lt. Sandy Miller, auto theft task force commander.

The task force is a consortium of officers from various communities and Michigan State Police who work to combat commercial vehicle theft.

The force is part of the Auto Theft Prevention Authority, a state body financed by Michigan insured motorists.

"It took us three years, but we did it," said Stallings, who has never met Bell.

"I'm glad to have it over with. I'm glad to get him something. Hopefully he will have his money in 60 days. I hope he gets back on his feet."

PUTTING HIS LIFE back together has been a trying experience for Bell, who in 1986 was a top-ranked supervisor working on radar weapon systems on Navy aircraft in Oceana, Va.

Before the true killer, a 19-year-old minister's son, confessed, Bell had served 2½ months of a 20-year sentence for fatally stabbing Dee Stroup. Jesse Calvin Smith is serving two life terms for murdering Stroup, raping another woman and sexually assaulting a 12-year-old girl.

For a time, Bell was hospitalized for suspected heart failure. Later, his life was threatened. Bell's mother, Joan Watson, suffered a heart attack on the courthouse steps the day her son was sentenced. Bell's father died of liver cancer in August 1987.

TO HELP meet their expenses, Watson and her husband, Norman, re-mortgaged their Canton house.

Since his return to Michigan, Bell has lived with his mother and stepfather, looking for work in electronics and doing whatever odd jobs he could find.

He recently landed a carpentry job with Interior Design Services in Detroit. He does home renovations and custom cabinetry, and says he enjoys it.

Bell is dating someone, and his family is looking forward to the June wedding of Craig's sister, Colleen.

BELL LEARNED OF the passage of Stallings' bill from The Observer.

"I appreciate what Sen. Stallings is doing," Bell said, "but it just amazes me they can get away with what they did.

"There was so much wrongdoing on the part of the police department and the prosecutor's office. It was never looked into, which I don't think was right.

"What's to keep them from doing it again and again? Maybe the next person won't be so lucky to get out."

"The police went off trying to find evidence that Craig did it, rather than look at evidence dispassionately," said Philip Barr, Bell's attorney and a former Navy-Marine Corps Court appellate judge.

"All the evidence was consistent with everything Craig said, and contrary to what the commonwealth said."

ASKED WHY his colleagues finally passed the restitution bill, Stallings said that ironically, the impetus was the case of another wrongfully convicted man.

"What did the trick was another similar case in northern Virginia," Stallings said. "In the Fairfax area a man served five years for rape in the penitentiary before it was learned that he didn't commit the crime.

"Because he got $210,000 and there were a lot of delegates supporting him, they had a hard time telling Craig he wasn't entitled to any money."

Stallings originally asked for $56,000 in compensation for Bell.

"It was whittled down to $10,000 for Craig and $15,000 for his mother to match what was consistent with the tort claims at the time the crime took place," said Frankie Farmer, Stallings' legislative assistant.

"We wish it could have been more, but half a loaf is better than none."

Woman's early morning murder began long nightmare for fiance

"I was sitting on the floor holding her. She couldn't talk. I said, 'I love you, baby.' I kissed her and she died right after that."

Near the couch, police found a pair of jogging shorts and undershorts. A serrated kitchen knife lay on top of them.

Months later, Virginia Beach homicide detective Ray Greenwood, who worked on the Stroup case, happened to be in the police station the day Jesse Calvin Smith was being questioned about recent window peeping incidents and rapes.

Greenwood saw commonalities. The incidents all had taken place in the same apartment complex. The victims were all white women, attacked at night while they were sleeping. Kitchen utensils were used as weapons.

According to police who recounted Smith's confession, Smith was walking home from a party when light from a townhouse window caught his eye.

He looked in and saw Stroup lying on the couch. Smith removed the screen, pushed the window open and climbed into the apartment.

Stroup had fallen asleep, and didn't stir as Smith stepped over the coffee table and crept into the kitchen. He found a serrated knife, returned to the living room and took off his shorts and underwear.

When Stroup awoke to find a naked man with a knife standing over her, she screamed. They struggled, and he stabbed her in the arm and chest. Stroup managed to stand up and run upstairs. Smith panicked and jumped out the window, leaving his clothes behind.

Paul Sciortino, then commonwealth attorney, said that according to jurors, Bell "unfortunately was his own worst witness. There were a lot of inconsistencies in his statements to the police, and he was not able to explain those inconsistencies."

Bell acknowledges his testimony didn't help him. "The jury mentioned I was unemotional.

"I wasn't going to cry for them, which is what they wanted. They expected a show for the public. They didn't see me when I was with friends and family and cried every night."

BELL WOULD LIKE to see "possibly some legislators from this area look into it and put some pressure on them from this angle, because down there they're not going to" investigate.

"One officer told three different stories under oath, and nothing was done to him. That's all in court records they could look up," Bell said.

Prosecutors say they apologized to Bell, "but what they did was send a letter to the newspaper and send me a copy," said Bell. "Humphreys (the commonwealth's attorney who prosecuted the case) said he didn't err in the case and would authorize prosecution again."

Local student in National Geography Bee

By A. Giralt Bedford
staff writer

Michael Young doesn't like to be called a straight A student, and he is quick to point out that he got a B in sewing.

"He doesn't like to be tagged a brain," said his father, Michael. "It has this nerdy implication."

But next week, Dusty, 12, will represent the Plymouth-Canton school district in the Michigan's National Geography Bee.

The Michigan bee is the second level of the national competition sponsored by the National Geographic Society to foster interest in geography.

More than 200 schools participated in preliminary bees, and the top 100 scorers will compete in the state level, March 30. Dusty, a seventh grader at Lowell Middle School in Canton, is one of them.

"I am pretty surprised," he said. "I didn't think I was gonna get this far."

Althought he doesn't like to be considered the smart kid in school, he said his favorite subject is math, with geography being something he picked up.

Dusty Young knows his way around the world.

He said he became interested in the subject because he had a world map in his room that aroused his curiosity. He said he also learned about the world by watching the news on television and reading newspapers and magazines.

John Shellhaas, Dusty's geography teacher, said he's an excellent student with a special knowledge of geography.

Shellhaas said some questions in the test covered material not taught in the seventh grade, but at the high school and college level. "We don't coach the kids to get them ready for the test," Shellhaas said. "A lot of things he had to learn for himself."

As far as Shellhaas knows, Dusty is the first student from the school to go on to the state level competition.

Sitting in his living room, Dusty looked away when he talked and rubbed his hands, but he said he doesn't think he's shy. "My mom thinks I am," he said.

When he was younger he wanted to be a scientist, but now he said he thinks he would like to be a doctor. "I like that kind of study about the body." He said he would like to go to the University of Michigan.

When he's not in school, Dusty likes to play basketball and Nintendo. He collects baseball cards. "I have about 10,000." He said his most valuable card is probably a 1983 Topps set, worth about $120. Now, he's started collecting basketball cards and is looking forward to getting one of Michael Jordan.

Dusty's parents are proud of his performance in school, but his mother said he should study more. "He hears it once and it stays. It's nice, but not nice because he should be developing studying habits." When he heard his mother's remarks, Dusty looked away and smiled.

For winning the school competition, Dusty received a book and a globe beach ball. If he wins the state competition, he'll receive $100 and an all-expenses-paid trip to the May 24 final competition in Washington, D.C. The national champion receives a $25,000 college scholarship. Students from grades 4 through 8 participate.

Although Dusty admits it would be great to win the state competition, he said he's just happy he's representing the school and is not too confident about winning. "I'll be lucky if I just come in close to winning."

Quiz covers big area

The questions presented to the students at the National Geography Bee vary in difficulty. Here are a few questions similar to those they will have to answer:

Q. When it is summer in France, what season is it in Australia?
A. Winter.

Q. There are two landlocked countries in South America. Name one.
A. Bolivia and Paraguay.

Q. The Suez Canal connects the Mediterranean with what other sea?
A. The Red Sea.

The competition will take place at 9:30 a.m. Friday, March 30, in the Moore Hall Kiva of Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant. It is open to the public.

Late baseball registration set

The Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League will hold late registration 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 4, at the Canton High School Cafeteria. Boys ages 7-15 and girls ages 7-18 are encouraged to sign up. Registration fees range from $30-$40 per player, with a family plan available.

Playing age is based on age as of July 31, 1990. Birth certificates are required.

Adult help is needed. There are openings for board members, directors, managers, and umpires. For more information call Chris Mroczka at 455-5253.

Sidewalks approved for 2 area schools

By Mary Washko
staff writer

Responding to residents' concerns about children having to walk on the shoulder of the road, the Canton Township Board has approved installing sidewalks at Plymouth-Canton High School and Gallimore Elementary School.

Proposals are being drawn for the sidewalks and work should begin this summer, said Susan Folsom, an engineer with Canton. Completion of the project is scheduled for August before school begins.

The township approved the sidewalks in response to residents' complaints during the past few years, Folsom said.

"We've had a lot of people call and complain that their kids have to walk on the shoulder of the street instead of a sidewalk," Folsom said.

THE PROPOSED sidewalk near Plymouth-Canton High School will run on the east side of Canton Center Road from Joy to Sheldon roads. The township will pay for the sidewalk, but Folsom said a cost estimate isn't available.

A sidewalk will be installed in front of Gallimore Elementary School on Sheldon Road and along a section of Sheldon Road south of Joy Road.

The Gallimore sidewalks will be financed by Community Development Block Grant money, with a cost estimate of $100,000, Folsom said.

The new sidewalks are not a direct result of a student being hit by a car near the high school in October, said Dan Calabrese, administrative assistant to the supervisor.

Shortly after that incident, Canton revived a traffic survey of the area, at which time many had suggested installing sidewalks in that area.

Student is top young musician

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

With his shy smile, oversized sweater and scuffed sneakers, Tony Bonamici looks like the typical teenager.

He could be mistaken for the kid who bags your groceries or the kid who cuts your lawn. But there's no mistaking that he's one of Michigan's top young pianists.

Bonamici, 14, recently won first place honors in a statewide concerto competition sponsored by the Michigan Music Teachers Association. It was the sixth major title captured since November by Bonamici, who studies piano technique at Schoolcraft College.

"What sets Tony apart is that his interest in music is very deep," said Schoolcraft music professor Donald Morelock, his teacher for four years. "Today, we don't want prodigies who copy the notes by rote. We want someone with an understanding of what they play. And Tony has that."

Bonamici, a freshman at Livonia's Stevenson High School, is much more modest in assessing his talent — so modest, in fact, that many of his classmates might not be aware he even plays piano.

"MY CLOSEST friends, they know, they've heard me," he said.

His talent is no secret, however, to sponsors of statewide competitions or national music camps.

Earlier this month, Bonamici captured first place in his age group during a competition sponsored by the Ann Arbor Bach Association. He added the award to four others recently received for his piano playing and a fifth for his violin playing.

In addition to studying at Schoolcraft, he has participated in prestigious music camps in Interlochen and California.

Despite his school and practice schedules, and the two hours a day he spends at the family piano, Bonamici still finds time to serve as a principal second violinist with the Livonia Youth Philharmonic of Michigan.

Piano, though, is his primary instrument. He began playing at age 5, after a trip to a local music store.

"We didn't even have a piano at the time," said his mother, Carol. "But he wanted to play the organs that were on display."

Soon after the family added a piano to the variety of instruments at its Livonia home. His father, David, is a former music teacher with the Redford Union Schools. His mother is a former flutist.

"IT'S NICE that we're able to share this as a family," Carol Bonamici said.

At present, Bonamici is preparing for the Music Teachers National Association finals in Little Rock, Ark. He was also a national finalist in last year's PTA "Reflections" competition for young musicians.

His long range plan include pursuing a music degree and, eventually, honing his skills as a composer and arranger.

For the short term, his goal is to sit down and play, "at least until it's time to do my homework."

Parties squaring off in accident fund bout

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Minority Republicans in the House brought the Democratic leadership to one knee recently in another round of the Accident Fund fistfight.

In a compromise, the House voted budget money for the Accident Fund only until June 1 as the years-long battle is played out in the courts.

"The questions are: Should the state be doing this (selling workers comp insurance in competition with private business)?" said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

"And: will there be politics running it?" Law added.

AFTER A four-hour deadlock, the House Thursday passed a budget bill for the Accident Fund that is $9 million less than Democrats wanted. It will last the agency three months less than the full fiscal year.

House Speaker Lew Dodak, D-Montrose, had a problem: 10 Democrats missed the session, including John Bennett of Redford and Wilfred Webb of Hazel Park. Others such as John Maynard of St. Clair Shores took a walk.

Other Observer & Eccentric area lawmakers voted along party linies.

Democrats put together a 68-32 majority to pass the bill with the help of several outstate Republicans who offered the compromise.

Senate majority leader John Engler, the GOP candidate for governor, didn't call the Senate into session although Thursday is normally a work day. The bill goes this week to the Senate, where it faces an uncertain future.

"The questions are: Should the state be doing this (selling workers comp insurance in competition with private business)?" said Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth.

"And: will there be politics running it?" Law added.

REPUBLICANS like Law and Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion say Gov. James Blanchard's administration will play politics with the Accident Fund, artificially keeping rates lower than private business and awarding administrative jobs to political favorites.

Rep. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, said the bill is needed so that the 470 Accident Fund employees, many living in her district, won't miss a paycheck. "John Engler has said we want to play political football and hold these employees hostage," Stabenow charged.

Replied Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, who also has some Accident Fund employees in his district: "We're not here because of John Engler insider baseball. We're here because of Frank Kelley (attorney general) and Jim Blanchard insider baseball."

Since the mid-1970s, there have been legal and political arguments about whether the Accident Fund, founded in 1912, is a private business or a state agency.

Democrats like Kelley say it's government and won in court. Republicans say it should be a business.

AFTER A STATE Court of Claims judge last week ruled a line-item in the state budget is needed for the Accident Fund to meet its payroll, House Democrats sought $30 million for the full fiscal year.

In a 20-minute meeting, the House Appropriations Committee gutted a Senate appropriations bill for the military affairs department to provide for the Accident Fund and sent the bill to the House floor.

Dunaskiss said the rush-rush procedure left unanswered such questions as which emloyees become civil servants and at what level.

"As a legislator, I asked for a list of employers in my area that are part of the Accident Fund. They wouldn't give it to me. But Jim Blanchard will write to them," Dunaskiss said.

REPUBLICANS offered a series of test amendments to cut the appropriation and quickly learned that Dodak was 10 troops short.

EMU president at S'craft graduation

Eastern Michigan University President William Shelton will be commencement speaker at Schoolcraft College graduation ceremonies Saturday, May 5.

Shelton was named EMU's 18th president in October 1989. Prior to that, he was vice president for institutional advancement at Kent State University.

He holds a bachelor's in history and political science and a master's in American history from Memphis State University and a doctorate in higher education from the University of Mississippi.

POST TRAUMA MYALGIA
Post trauma myalgia is a condition which begins after an accident that is life-threatening or terrifying. The incident may include a fall from a building, an automobile crash, or an occurrance in which machinery, loosened from its moorings, pins the individual to the ground for minutes to hours.
The person, though injured, has no muscle tear or bleeding at that time. Rather, the intense aching begins days or weeks after the original event. The pain is present day and night, and includes the muscles in the shoulders, thighs and legs. Repeat x-rays, blood tests, and muscle examinations fail to reveal any abnormality.
The cause is unknown, though it is suspected that the emotional shock following a brush with death plays a role. Psychotherapy centering around the event fails to stop the pain. Heat, rest, drugs and injections do little good; exercise therapy has provided inconclusive results to date.
In time, individuals with post trauma myalgia recover. In the interim such persons seem to do best by keeping as active as possible, attempting to continue work, and avoiding painkiller drugs. Leading as usual a life as possible accelerates the return to a normal state.

Survey: Area Jewish population small, stable

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Though expectd to be a small part of the overall county census, western Wayne County's Jewish population is staying constant — and even thriving — according to a spokeswoman for the area's sole synagogue.

Roghly 80 percent of metro area Jews live in southern Oakland County, accroding to a recent survey that showed much less Jewish migration than expected.

While a much smaller number of Jews live in communities south of Eight Mile Road, they, too are staying put.

They're staying because they like the community and they like the congegation," said Phyllis Sherman, director of publicty for the Livonia Jewish Congregation. "We're now on our third generation of membership."

Figures released this monthshowed the metro area Jewish community to be larger than expected — 96,000, with about 76,800 in Oakland County.

FIGURES WERE part of a $250,000 study commissioned by the Jewish Welfare Federation over an 18-month period to determine living patterns among Jews so their needs could more readily be addressed.

The survey, the first of its kind since 1963, shows metropolitan Detroit to be the 10th largest Jewish community in the United States and the second in the Midwest, behind Chicago.

Western Wayne County's Jewish population is not only smaller but also moredifficult to track than that of some Oakland County communities.

"There are many Jewish families in Livonia, but many of them are members of other congregations," Sherman said. The Livonia Jewish Congregation includes members from Detroit, Oak Park and Farmington Hills, in addition to other western Wayne communities.

Despite its size — about 80 families — the congregation has been active.

"One thing we're proud of is that we've always been active in the Livonia community," Sherman added. Its members have served on various community study groups and panels, and are also active participants in annual Livonia Prayer Breakfast.

SURVEY RESULTS were greeted as good news by Jewish community leaders throughoutnthe area.

"They show that Jews didn't follow the lure of the sun belt," said Rabbi Dannel Schwartz, who said his Temple Shir Shalom in West Bloomfield Township has grown from 30 to 550 families in 17 months.

Like other area Jewish leader, Schwartz was concerned the Jewish population in metropolitan Detroit was on the wane. "When I came here 17 years ago, the Jewish population was about 80,000," he said. "Ten years ago it was down to 70,000."

THE SURVEY shows that the communities where Jews are moving include: West Bloomfield, with nearly 7,000 homes; Bloomfield Township, less than 4,000 homes; and Farmington Hills, with about 3,000 homes.

The remainder live in a ring around the main communities including northwest Detroit and Livonia.

It shows that Southfield is the largest Jewish community in the area, while West Bloomfield Township is the most rapidly growing.

Newspaper gives details on city commission

To the editor:

I would like to thank your newspaper for supplementing the statutorily mandated minutes of our city commission. It has consistently detailed the progress, or lack thereof, of the city commission in their quest for a new city manager.

The commission's minutes only reveal that Bartell & Bartell was hired and Mr. Byrne was their choice. The minutes are void of everything else. The picture is clear that the selection committee has failed to report back to the commission as a whole. This has reinforced the perception that the selection committee acts independently of the commission. We have a right to have the entire elected body discuss and act in this vital selection.

The commissioners beg the public not to believe everything they read in the newspaper. Yet it is the paper and not the minutes that provide the public with the details. What the public should hear at an open meeting must be read between the lines of the press. Unfortunately I do not believe that this satisfies the intent and purpose of the Open Meetings Act.

Periodically there should be on the commission agenda a report by the selection committee. Regardless of their perception, they are a subcommittee.

Thank you again for providing what our elected officials fail to do.

Animals are abused by American farm system

To the editor:

I feel that I must respond to your Feb. 22 column, "Silly protest." It states that God put animals on Earth to be used by people.

The Humane Society of the United States reports that intensive animal farming (for bacon and New York strips) is accountable for a significant contribution to environmental destruction.

Carbon dioxide (from clearing forests for livestock grazing), nitrous oxide (from the chemical fertilizers for the grain to feed the animals) and methane (from the billions of farm animals' excrement) all have taken toll on the atmosphere and ozone layer.

Also, industrial animal agriculture is currently responsible for an estimated 50 percent of water use in the U.S. (irrigation of food crops, direct consumption and manure management).

By supporting the intensive farm systems we have today, people are using the Earth, too, which I don't think God intended. The Humane Society (and other groups as well) have introduced modern, productive alternatives to animal agribusiness that is ecologically sound and humane (they actually go hand in hand, even if one doesn't care about the animal's well-being).

Meanwhile, you can buy the meat and eggs of humanely and sustainably raised animals at various local and chain markets. Or, you might cut out meat eating altogether and perhaps reap some health benefits to boot.

Finally, in my opinion, comparing bird watching to the rough handling and misfeeding (for optimal "performance") of donkeys is like comparing people watching to accosting, handling and dominating them.

School visitation policy is too restrictive

To the editor:

Few residents knew that the Plymouth-Canton School Board was voting on a revision, adding restrictions to the parents and taxpayers, of the school's visitors policy.

Since this policy change was not publicized by the board prior to the meeting, I felt others should be made aware of it. I distributed 2,000 notices informing citizens of this action, stating that the board greatly desires community and parental input in its policy-making decisions.

Unfortunately, our school board (excluding member Barbara Graham) showed me, at this meeting, that it did not desire our input. Instead, in effect, it told 15 citizens who took the time to come out and express their concerns, that they were not interested in their involvement.

I found several members arrogant and condescending and felt that the citizens were there more for entertainment of the board than thoughtful, cooperative inteaction. I apologize to those who received a flier, for my assumption was that our opinions were welcomed.

A number of citizens asked that the visitation issue be tabled until a new committee composed of both staff, community and parents could reach a satisfactory wording for this new policy that would protect both the rights of the parents and the teachers. It would have been very easy for the board to agree and it would have helped to improve community-school relations, clarify misunderstandings concerning the policy and leave a more trusting relationship in its wake.

This new policy makes it mandatory for a parent to "make arrangements ahead of time with the classroom teacher" before visiting his child's classroom.

Since it is possible that the problem lies with the teacher, it is counterproductive for the parent to have to obtain permission from this teacher to see his child in a classroom environment. Instead, it should be mandatory for the parent to report his presence to the school office and prove the appropriateness and stability of his visit. I have every confidence that the principal's office is capable of adequately screening individuals who are irate or out of control.

Despite our voice of concern, the school board voted to restrict parents from entering the public school's classroom and insist the taxpayers give up their rights to free access in a reasonable and peaceful fashion.

My feelings on this meeting are that it is more than ever a time for a change in our school board. I am extremely disappointed in the lack of responsiveness and accountability of our present board. I would encourage other citizens to think seriously about just what they want in a school board.

Price will be paid in future

Tim Richard

GOV. JAMES Blanchard would give some nice property tax relief to people who already own a house.

But the young bucks and does planning to buy houses in the years ahead will pay "full retail price," as they say in the ethnic jokes about WASPS.

Assessments on suburban houses have been rising with the market, at double-digit rates in recent years.

Blanchard's plan is aimed at capping property assessments at the rate of consumer price inflation in Detroit.

The long-term effects of the governor's plan will be to reward those who stay in one place for many years and sock newcomers.

Here's how it could work:

SUPPOSE BLANCHARD'S relief plan had gone into effect 10 years ago. Suppose I had bought a house then for $50,000. It would be assessed at 50 percent, or $25,000.

Suppose market prices rose 10 percent a year compounded. In the 10th year, my house would be worth $117,898 and assessed for $58,949.

Ah, but Blanchard's treasury has been there to help me.

My effective assessment would rise just 5 percent compounded, the CPI rate. So I pay school property taxes on the basis of my original $25,000 assessment times 5 percent compound — just $38,783 in the 10th year.

The state treasury pays my school operating property taxes on $20,166 — the difference between the true SEV of $58,949 and the adjusted rate of $38,783.

THE AVERAGE school tax rate in Michigan is about 33 mills, or $33 per $1,000 of assessment. Without Blanchard's relief plan, I would pay the full $1,945 in school taxes in the 10th year.

But with his plan, the state treasury writes a check to my local district for 33 mills times $20,166 or $665.

I would pay just $1,280.

The longer I stay in my house, the greater the share of my local school property tax paid by the state. In my hypothetical 10-year period, the state would have paid a total of $2,772 of my taxes.

Moreover, the state aid I receive encourages me to vote higher tax rates for schools. Shucks, my young neighbors and the store owners pay the full bill, but I won't.

LET'S SAY I sell my house in the 10th year for any reason — growing family, empty nester, retirement, a new job in a different town.

The newcomers start by paying the full shot of $1,945 in school property taxes.

That's not a nice thing to do to young people trying to start families.

The Greeks had a word for it: gerontocracy, government by the elderly.

THE IRONY is that Blanchard also is pushing a program called HOST, home ownership savings trust. The prospective house buyers put their savings in a state-operated, tax-sheltered fund and earn interest to accumulate a down payment on their first house.

With one hand, the state helps them save. With the other, it socks them with a property tax bill larger by half than the last one I paid.

Let's look at it from the pioneer point of view — westward the wagons, adventure ho, new opportunity.

What incentive do I have to take the risk of a new economic adventure elsewhere if I'm going to be punished for moving by paying $665 a year more in property taxes for the same-sized house?

BLANCHARD'S plan would discourage what the late "Engine Charlie" Wilson called the hound dogs, who hunt for opportunity, and reward the kennel dogs, who sit on their fannies and howl for food to be brought to them. I'm still surprised that someone so business-oriented even offered it.

Any property tax plan I support should help young, middle-aged, old, homeowners, farmers and business.

No favorites.

Herbs add character or accent

In most ethnic cuisines, certain herbs are so important to a given dish that it would lack its character without them.

The dish would become something else — and certainly something less.

Often, one herb is so characteristic of a region or country that its fragrance and taste can call to mind an entire cuisine.

Thyme, rosemary and marjoram, the herbs that make up the basics in that neat little pot of "Herbs from Provence" that many gourmet retailers sell for ridiculously steep prices, would be considered the character herbs from the Provence region of France.

Oregano, freshly diced and rubbed into an olive oil-draped leg of lamb, heralds from Greece. While basil, the main staple in pesto and classic tomato sauces, has its passport stamped from Italy.

But it's just not as simple as chopping up a handful of these fresh beauties and tossing them into a dish to make it shine like an August moon. In addition to the so-called, above-named character herbs, sophisticated cooks should also be aware of the accent herbs. Parsley, chives, chervil and dill offer a subtle background to many dishes that are virtually nonexistent to the untrained palate.

THE MAIN DIFFERENCE between the two groups of herbs is, of course, the taste. The character herbs are robust and can easily overpower when sprinkled with a heavy hand. The accent herbs have the property to mellow out and accentuate the taste from within.

Robust herbs can, with one swoop of the senses, blow away a delicately flavored fish or poultry. Seemingly, they can add magic to a vegetable while another herb might become lost.

Big deal, you say. You know what you like and like what you use, right? I'm sharing this with you because now is the perfect time to begin a fresh herb garden. With winter passing peacefully into oblivion, clean out the spice cabinet and rid your kitchen of those assorted jars and bottles that have long sinced passed their prime.

Once a cook has tasted the intense and distinctive flavors of fresh herbs, it seems a culinary crime to go back to using a dried variety.

Last year, the Janes gang garden sprouted an assortment of parsleys, a chive plant that has already returned with the early spring weather we experienced two weeks ago, fresh basil, thyme and, of course, mint. This year, we have already budgeted a larger area for herbs that will undoubtedly include the likes of fresh watercress, sorrel, oregano and some sage.

These are all basic herbs which can be bought in seed form at just about any garden shop and, for the uninitiated, can even be bought in little pots right up to growing season from larger and more specialty greenhouses.

Bordine's, the garden mecca for north and east siders in Rochester, always seems to have an abundance of domestic and exotic herbs in both seed and pot form.

On the west side, Graye's Greenhouses in Plymouth is one of those neat little, virtually unknown spots that has been around for years for the serious gardener but for some odd reason remained unknown to the press.

There's still time to locate one of the many great seed catalogues out there. Some of my favorites include "The Cooks Garden, P.O. Box 65, Londonderry, Vt. 05148; "Shepherds Seeds, 30 Irene Street, Torrington, Conn. 06790, and Redwood City Seed Co., P.O. Box 361, Redwood City, Calif. 94064.

DOUGLAS SUSALLA

Shop has saucy appeal

By Janice Brunson
staff writer

GETTING SAUCED is, according to a pair of creative suburban entreprenurs and a culinary arts graduate, an ideal state of being.

Not sauced, as in alcoholic titillation, but sauced as in an array of savory relishes, marinades, dressings and other mouth-watering offerings available at Get Sauced, an inviting shop in Detroit's Trapper's Alley whose collection of sauces and related fare is possibly the largest ever gathered.

Unique enhancements for otherwise plain or bland food is "a developing art," said Eric Berkley, pointing to some 300 decorative condiments on display. "You'd be amazed at the variety of tastes that are available," he said.

Berkley, a Farmington Hills attorney, launched the shop five months ago with partner Mark Hyman of Troy, who owns two additional Trapper's Alley shops, a toy store dubbed Lost and Wound and the Children's Book Mark.

Long-time friend Ann Frogner, a 1975 graduate of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program in Livonia, manages the endeavor, personally taste-testing each item and guaranteeing it meets health and ingredient guidelines she has established.

A STROLL ABOUT Get Sauced is an experience in international cuisine, a journey of taste to far-away places. There is pungent marinade studded with tamarind from Thailand, hot Jaimaican Hell Fire and Pickapeppa sauces or Jerk paste for preserving meats, and creamy Almond Cooking Sauce prepared by an East Indian woman drawing on traditional family cuisine.

Many of the offerings are based on family heritage, old recipes handed down from one generation to the next and translated into commercial offerings by enterprising descendants.

"People have had recipes for years and have decided to spread the wealth," Berkley observed.

Jabar's Complements, a line of unusual vinaigrettes spiced with peaches, raspberries and other fruits for marinating chicken and meat, is a case in point. Drawing on tried and true recipes from the past, two Walled Lake women prepare the marinade and introduce it to gourmands in cooking demonstrations at Get Sauced and elsewhere.

"A tremendous amount of good flavors come from Michigan," Hyman said, adding the store's two top sellers hail from Michigan — Billy Bone's Original BBQ Sauce and Mucky Duck Mustard. Billy Bone's concoction, the current reigning champion sauce in international barbeque competition, is produced by the master barbequer in Sanford. Mucky Duck, a pungent English pub-style mustard of eggs, vinegar and sugar, is prepared by a woman in Franklin Village.

Other Michigan products include Houlihan's Gourmet Applesauce and a version for toddlers, made in Auburn Heights, and low-calorie American Spoon Foods jams and jellies produced in Petoskey.

"TRY THIS. I'VE been trying it on bread for a couple of days now,"said Frogner, providing an ample dolup from a sample jar of a new smoky sweet mustard. If the mustard passes Fogner's taste-test muster, it will be included in the shop's ever-expanding inventory. Frogner and the partners are continuously looking for new items.

Matouk's Hot Calypso Sauce, for example, was recently added after a customer, a commercial airline pilot from the West Coast, extolled the product, describing it as "the best ever." Frogner immediately obtained a sample from Oregon and, agreeing with the pilot's assessment, now stocks it.

J.C.'s Hot Sauce, a delicious salsa prepared in Texas and another recent addition, was discovered by Berkley at a New Year's Eve party. His sister-in-law is currently perfecting a family recipe for a hot fruit sauce, described as "out of this world," and an area restaurateur of Lebanese descent is busy creating garbanzo bean and eggplant relishes. When ready, each will be submitted to Frogner for taste testing.

Other recent additions include select nuts, soups and pastas, including Cinnamon Spice Pecans from Georgia, low-salt Swedish Lentil Soup and a new pasta topping with the tantalizing name of Cowboy Caviar.

HEART SMART products, aimed at the health conscious or others on restricted diets, feature Cajun Power, a garlic sauce free of salt, and other products low in salt and sugar. Preservatives are eschewed in all products, according to Frogner.

Ever tasted Garlic Lover's Herb Sauce by Cook's Classics, a seemingly gentle sauce that packs a subtle wallop of taste sensation? Purchase $40 in goods from Get Sauced and receive a free jar, an excellent marketing ploy, according to Hyman, because once tasted, Lover's becomes addictive.

New weekly column focuses on wine

Introducing Eleanor and Ray Heald, wine journalists, who will begin writing a weekly column "Focus on Wine," to appear each Monday in Taste starting April 2.

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

The Healds, who live in Troy, began writing their first regular column about wine in 1982 but their fascination with the grape goes back a few years earlier.

"Our interest in wine came first, when we started making amateur wine at home," Ray Heald said. "We began buying wine to make a comparison. We went to Karl Bailey for many years. Eleanor and I picked a ton of grapes one fall and made wine from it in small batches."

Bailey, who is now deceased, had a vineyard on Adams Road in Bloomfield Hills, which is now managed by different owners.

The Healds began to do freelance writing and in 1978 went to Europe, where they pursued their study of wine.

"We went to all the wine regions," Eleanor Heald said. "When we came home, we showed slides to our friends and they said, 'You should do something with this skill.' We looked for more positions to place our writing."

SINCE 1979, the Healds have been teaching a class in wine appreciation at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills.

"In 1982, we started our first regular wine column in the Ann Arbor News and did weekly columns for six years," Ray Heald said. "In 1983, we started writing for Practical Winery & Vineyard, a technical publication. Eleanor and I both have master's degrees in chemistry."

Their knowledge of chemistry has been invaluable. "We know how to make the chemical tests, to analyze the grapes we were using to make the wine," Ray said.

The Healds also are wine editors and columnists for the Beverage Journal, published in Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania. "Our monthly column has appeared for the last four years," Eleanor said. The journal is a publication for wine retailers, wholesalers and restaurateurs.

The couple continues to work as contributing editors for Practical Winery & Vineyard. In addition, the Healds are feature writers for the Quarterly Review of Wines and for the bi-monthly Wine News, both consumer publications with national distribution, where their writing appears in every issue.

Eleanor and Ray Heald, who both have master's degrees in chemistry, started as amateur winemakers and now write authoritatively about their knowledge of the grape.

"OUR FOCUS is on wines of the world," Eleanor said. Readers of the new column, "Focus on Wine," will learn about all kinds of wine from every part of the globe where good wine is made.

The Healds have a philosophy, which states: "Our column is directed to responsible adults, who understand that moderate wine consumption can enhance the mealtime experience, the total enjoyment of life, and add a delightful dimension to their lifestyle."

They point out that the column will emphasize wine, as paired with food at mealtime, not wine drinking by itself. "We will very frequently talk about wine and food combinations," Eleanor said.

"Not only do we write about wine but wine-based beverages," she said, and listed these as sherries, ports and cognacs.

Ray said that because they have traveled in the wine areas, they occasionally will do a column on that subject. Their travels have taken them to the major wine areas of France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, California, Oregon, Washington and the eastern United States.

THE HEALDS' wine appreciation classes at OCC are offered in the spring, fall and winter. Because the topic is changed each quarter, people frequently repeat the class.

Ray said, "Another class is coming up in May." The wine classes are always held five consecutive Wednesdays. The next class runs from May 9 through June 6.

Chef Larry gives recipes to try

PESTO-TRAPANESE

6 garlic cloves
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup fresh basil leaves
1 cup blanched almonds, chopped
4 ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped
⅓ cup olive oil
1⅓ pounds spaghetti

In a mortar, pound the garlic, salt and basil into a paste. Add the almonds, little by little, then add the tomatoes. When all the ingredients are reduced to a pulp, add the oil and the pepper. (This can be done in a blender, in which case add the oil in the beginning.) Cook the pasta in boiling salted water, drain and toss in a serving bowl with pesto until well distributed. Serve at once.

From "Pomp and Sustenance; Twenty Five Centuries of Sicilian Food" by Mary Tyler Simeti (Knopf, $25).

GREEK LAMB STEW

1 large eggplant, peeled and cut into 1-inch cubes
8 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon butter
3 pounds lean boned shoulder of lamb, cubed and patted dry salt, pepper, flour and sugar
2 cups finely minced onion
3 cloves garlic, minced
one 28-ounce can plum tomatoes, drained and chopped
1 tablespoon tomato paste
1 large sprig fresh oregano
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon cumin
2 cups lamb or beef broth
2 tablespoons chopped oregano

Arrange eggplant in a single layer on a double thickness of paper towel. Sprinkle with salt and let sit 1 hour. Rinse, dry thoroughly, set aside.

Position rack in the center of the oven and preheat to 350 degrees. Heat some oil and butter in a heavy skillet, add lamb in batches and brown on all sides, removing with a slotted spoon and adding oil and butter to skillet as necessary. Season to taste with salt and pepper and then sprinkle lightly with flour and sugar. Continue sauteing until lamb is nicely glazed, for 3 minutes. Transfer to a casserole dish. Add a little more oil and butter to the skillet. Add onion and minced garlic and saute till vegetables are soft. Add canned tomatoes, tomato paste, oregano, bay leaf and cumin and bring to a boil. Pour over lamb and stir in broth. Cover and braise until lamb is fork tender, about 1½ hours.

Meanwhile, heat more oil and butter in skillet, add eggplant and saute until nicely browned on all sides. Drain well on paper towel. Chop. Stir eggplant into lamb. If necessary, thicken with a little more flour dissolved in broth.

New shop has saucy appeal

On any given day in Get Sauced, sample tastes are available from 20 or so different offerings, tangy tastes of Flower of Flames or Inner Beauty hot sauces, a unique peanut sauce by Larry Forgione of Petoskey, Amaretto Divinity from San Diego and a host of other delectables.

Prices range from $2.99 for a bottle of Schnlitzuis Red Pepper Sauce, once used in cowboy stews and favored by the Comanche Indians, to $6.99 for a jar of Helen's Tropical Exotics Passion Fruit Sauce, reportedly good enough "to die for."

Gourmet baskets, self-descriptive Michigan, Sampler, Sweets and Steak Lovers baskets that make excellent gifts, range in price from $12.95 to $39.95. Newly created Easter baskets will include marinades for wild game and rarebit, dessert sauces and other selections of choice.

A Get Sauced newsletter, featuring and describing individual items, is available on request. Future issues will include new additions, recipes and helpful hints.

Get Sauced is open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday-Thursday, 10 a.m. to 11 p.m., Friday-Saturday and noon to 7 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call 961-3643.

Student wins scholarship for recipe

Michael Kmet of Inkster, who attends the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland, has been selected as the state of Michigan winner in the Johnson & Wales University National High School Recipe Contest.

More than 500 recipes were submitted by students representing most states in the nation. Although Kmet's recipe was not chosen as one of the 10 finalists for a cook-off, he earned a $1,000 annual renewable scholarship as a result of his winning entry.

The scholarships are renewable up to four years of full-time study at Johnson & Wales University in Providence, R.I.

The scholarships are renewable up to four years of full-time study at Johnson & Wales University in Providence, R.I. Renewability is contingent on achieving an annual grade point average of 2.75.

Here is the recipe submitted by Kmet:

JULIENNE STUFFED CHICKEN
2 ounces carrots; julienne
2 ounces yellow squash, julienne
2 ounces zucchini, julienne
2 ounces muenster cheese, julienne
4-6 ounces chicken breasts, boneless
4 basil leaves, fresh
12 tarragon leaves, fresh
4 ounces Veloute Sauce
variable parsley, fresh chopped

Julienne carrots, squash, zucchini and muenster cheese.

Take skin off chicken breasts. Place breast between 2 pieces of plastic wrap. Flatten with meat mallet until ⅛-inch thick.

Put ⅓ ounce of carrots, squash, zucchini, cheese and 3 leaves of tarragon inside a fresh basil leaf and roll it up.

Roll step 3 into a chicken breast like an eggroll. Repeat 4 times.

Bread in "traditional" breading (flour, egg, seasoned bread crumbs).

Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 20 minutes.

Place on a 1-ounce bed of Veloute Sauce, garnished with chopped fresh parsley.

RICE MEDLEY
3 ¼ cups water
1 tablespoon margarine
1 cup white rice
½ cup brown rice
⅓ cup wild rice
¼ cup pine nuts
1 teaspoon olive oil
½ cup green peppers, ¼-inch dice
½ cup red peppers, ¼-inch dice

Bring water and margarine to a boil.

Add rice and cook until tender. (Follow directions on rice package.)

Saute pine nuts in olive oil. Add peppers and saute for 2 minutes.

Add peppers and nuts to rice. Mix and serve.

VELOUTE SAUCE
1 quart hot water
1 ounce chicken base
1¾ ounces cornstarch

Add chicken base to hot water to make a stock.

Dilute cornstarch in a small amount of water. Slowly add to stock, whipping constantly. Continue to cook until thickened.

PINEAPPLE GARNISH
2 slices pineapple, fresh
4 strawberries

Cut 2 ½-inch slices of fresh pineapple. Broil pineapple for 30 seconds on each side to mark.

Cut pineapple in half and remove core.

Cut strawberries partly through and form a fan.

Place strawberry fan in center of pineapple slice.

Plant minigarden for harvest in week

AP — When you're anxious for warm days and green, growing things, get a preview of spring by planting an indoor minigarden. In less than a week you can harvest fresh, green sprouts for salads and sandwiches. Kids enjoy this project because the sprouts grow so quickly.

WHAT TO PLANT — Alfalfa seed, barley, radish seed, lentils, Mung beans, rye berries, wheat berries and/or buckwheat groats.

For sprouting, buy only seeds from a supermarket or health-food store. Beans or seeds that are sold for gardening are treated with fungicides that are poisonous.

HOW TO PLANT — Place seeds in a bowl and cover with water. Let stand at room temperature about 3 hours or until seeds swell; drain. If you plant more than one type of seed at a time, soak each type separately.

Line a shallow tray with three layers of paper towels; top with a single layer of cheesecloth. Arrange seeds in a single layer over cheesecloth. You can plant more than one type of seed in a tray; just keep each in a separate section.

Spray seeds thoroughly with a fine water spray.

Tear off a piece of foil large enough to cover the tray; prick holes in the foil. Cover tray loosely with foil. Store in warm, dark place.

Several times a day, uncover tray and spray with water until seeds sprout and grow ¼ inch. Then spray two or three times a day, keeping sprouts moist at all times.

Sprouts are usually ready to eat in 3-5 days. At that time, remove foil and set tray in a sunny place for several hours to let leaves turn green. Continue spraying with water.

To harvest sprouts, pull them off the cheesecloth.

YIELDS — 2 tablespoons alfalfa seeds yield 4 cups sprouts; mild tasting and tender.

2 tablespoons barley yield 1 cup sprouts; nutty-tasting and crunchy.

¼ cup buckwheat groats yield 2 cups sprouts; nutty tasting and tender.

2 tablespoons lentils yield 1½ cup sprouts; mild tasting and crisp.

¼ cup Mung beans yield 1½ cup sprouts; mild tasting and crunchy.

2 tablespoons radish seed yield 1 cup sprouts; peppery tasting and tender.

¼ cup rye berries yield 1 cup sprouts; slightly sweet tasting and tender.

¼ cup wheat berries yield 1 cup sprouts; sweet tasting and tender.

Make chocolate-banana dessert

AP - Need an instant treat for the dessert lovers around your table? Prepare this layered dessert, then store it in the freezer for nights when you need dessert for guests, want to make dinner a special occasion, or are just running late.

CHOCOLATE-BANANA DESSERT
1 cup finely crushed vanilla wafers (22 wafers)
¼ cup margarine or butter, melted
¾ cup margarine or butter
two 3-ounce packages cream cheese
1½ cups sifted powdered sugar
2 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder
1 egg
2 medium bananas, sliced
one 4-ounce container frozen whipped dessert topping, thawed
½ cup broken pecans

For crust, in a mixing bowl stir together crushed wafers and ¼ cup melted margarine or butter. Press mixture onto the bottom of an 8-by-8-by-2-inch baking pan.

In a small bowl beat together ¾ cup margarine or butter and cream cheese until smooth. Add powdered sugar and cocoa powder. Beat until smooth. Add egg and beat until fluffy. Spread cream cheese mixture over crust. Arrange sliced bananas on cream cheese mixture. Spread dessert topping over all. Sprinkle with nuts. Cover and freeze for 5-24 hours or up to 2 weeks. Makes 16 servings.

Spaghetti, meatballs a hit with youngsters

Betsy Brethen

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Marie Leinonen of Westland and son Jesse, 5, look forward to her Winner Dinner of Spaghetti and Meatballs.

A song sung to the tune of "On Top of Old Smokey" goes:

"On top of spaghetti, all covered with cheese, I lost my poor meatball when somebody sneezed.
"It rolled off the table and onto the floor, and then my poor meatball rolled out the front door."

This was a very popular song at the dinner table when I was growing up in Indiana. It was sung with great regularity whenever my mother served spaghetti and meatballs to me and my three brothers.

It does make me wonder as to who actually does make up songs like that.

And furthermore, who keeps teaching them to succeeding generations of children? I am always amazed and delighted when I hear my three boys telling the same jokes that were hilarious hits when I was growing up.

Of course, when I mention to them that I used to tell that same joke when I was young, they make a clamor and want to know what else I did "back in the olden days." Really, children can be s-o-o-o impertinent, sometimes.

AS YOU may have guessed, this week's Winner Dinner is a wonderful recipe for spaghetti and meatballs.

Submitted by Marie Leinonen of Westland, these meatballs have a great taste and, because they cook in the sauce, they don't have to be prebrowned.

Served with a tossed green salad, garlic toast and a refreshing dish of sherbet or frozen yogurt, this is one dinner that your family is bound to enjoy.

LEINONEN AND HER husband are the parents of two young sons. Their family of four led a very normal life until Marie was diagnosed as having a rare kidney disease in 1987.

She received a kidney transplant in December 1988. Unfortunately, her body rejected it four months later. Now back on the waiting list for another transplant, she has to undergo four dialysis treatments a day at her home.

In addition to being National Nutrition Month, March is also being hailed as National Kidney Month. It is for this reason that Leinonen's menu is being featured today.

She asked me to encourage people to be aware of donating organs, and to check off the little boxes on the labels affixed to the back of all Michigan driver's licenses.

Many lives are lost every year because there are not enough donors of organs. Successfully transplanted, a donated organ is literally the gift of life.

If you have any questions about organ donation, call toll free 1-800-482-4881.

Thank you, Marie Leinonen, and congratulations on being our Winner Dinner Winner of the week.

I appreciate your taking the time to share your menu with us and I sincerely hope your health will improve. Good luck and take care.

Scones grow in popularity

AP — Move over muffins, scones are the hot new breakfast bread. The low-fat version of this sweet treat is made with egg whites and skim milk, trimming both fat and cholesterol content. Serve them with reduced-calorie jam or jelly instead of margarine or butter, or enjoy them plain.

OATMEAL-RAISIN SCONES
1 cup all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1 ½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup margarine or butter
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats
½ cup raisins, chopped
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons skim milk

In a medium mixing bowl stir together flour, sugar, baking powder and cinnamon. Cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats and raisins. Add egg whites and 2 tablespoons milk; mix well. (Dough will be sticky.)

On a lightly floured surface roll or pat dough into a 7-inch circle. Cut into 12 wedges, dipping knife into flour as needed to prevent sticking. Place on an ungreased baking sheet; brush tops lightly with more milk. Bake in a 400-degree F oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden. Serve warm. Makes 12 servings.

MARIE'S SPAGHETTI AND MEATBALLS

This recipe makes enough sauce and meatballs for at least one other dinner so just freeze what you don't use and you will have a dinner waiting for you. Although I did not test this, I see no reason why ground turkey meat couldn't be used in lieu of the ground beef.

MEATBALLS
3 pounds ground round
3 eggs
2 cups Progresso Italian bread crumbs
½ cup Italian (Zesto) Salad Dressing fresh minced garlic cloves or garlic powder, to taste salt and pepper, to taste
2-3 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

SAUCE
3 cans tomato sauce, 15-ounce size
1 can tomato paste, 6-ounce size
1 can of water, 6 ounces
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine the ingredients for the meatballs. Mix with both hands and then form into small balls, about the size of a walnut. Mix up the ingredients for the sauce in a heavy-bottomed pan. Drop in the meatballs and simmer at a medium-low heat for 1½ hours, stirring frequently so that the sauce and meatballs don't burn. Serve over cooked spaghetti noodles.

TOSSED GREEN SALAD

Mix up washed and dried salad greens and add chopped veggies of your choice. Toss with a light coating of Italian salad dressing.

GARLIC TOAST

If you are a garlic fan, you will love this easy recipe for garlic toast. Mash well or put through a garlic press 3-4 fresh cloves of garlic. Put them in a saucepan along with ¼ cup of butter or margarine. Heat and stir until the butter or margarine is completely melted. Brush on freshly sliced pieces of Italian bread. Sprinkle with a light dusting of Parmesan cheese or chopped fresh parsley. Broil until bubbly and golden and serve at once.

SHERBET OR FROZEN YOGURT

There is nothing fancy or complicated about this dessert. Simply offer a refreshing dish of sherbet or frozen yogurt to your family, a light and cooling ending to a tasty dinner.

Shopping List

3 pounds ground round
3 eggs
Progresso Italian bread crumbs
Italian (Zesto) Dressing
3 cans tomato sauce, 15-ounce size
1 can tomato paste, 6-ounce size
grated Parmesan cheese, 2 cups fresh garlic or garlic powder fresh parsley
salt pepper
spaghetti noodles
salad ingredients
salad dressing
1 loaf of fresh Italian or French bread butter or margarine
sherbet or frozen yogurt

Take care to keep fruits, vegetables fresh

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

A headache is spending a $100 on food, then finding fruits and vegetables rotting in the refrigerator or on the kitchen counter. Even under ideal storage conditions, the right temperature and humidity, some fresh vegetables retain top quality only a few days.

Some fruits last longer, but special care needs to be taken to ensure all the nutrients and good flavor are retained. Following are some storage tips for fruits and vegetables.

Green leafy vegetables quickly wilt and change flavor as water evaporates from tissues. Most fresh green vegetables keep well and stay crisp if put in covered containers or plastic bags, then refrigerated. If you wash lettuce, celery and other leafy vegetables before storing, drain thoroughly because too much moisture can hasten decay.

Store these vegetables away from the fruits in the refrigerator. As some fruits ripen, they produce a gas that will make lettuce, spinach and other leafy greens turn brown. When this happens we generally throw the brown away and there goes your money.

REMOVE THE TOPS of carrots before refrigerating. The top drains the carrots of moisture, making them limp and dry. Tops also should be removed from beets and radishes before refrigeration. Corn, beans, peas and other vegetables will lose sweetness as sugar in their tissues turn to starch. Store them dry and unwashed in plastic bags in the refrigerator. Room-temperature tomatoes are more flavorful than refrigerated ones. Do not ripen tomatoes on the window sill as the sun leeches out some of the Vitamin C.

Bruised produce loses more Vitamin A and C than smooth unblemished specimens. To lessen the likelihood of bruising, use a sharp knife or scissors when trimming, slicing or cutting vegetables.

Jerusalem artichokes, also known as sun chokes, accumulate calories during storage because of a chemical change that takes place in their carbohydrate content. When freshly dug, small tubers contain as few as seven calories. After storage, the calorie level can jump to 75.

Store fennel in the refrigerator because the stalks stay fresh only three to four days before drying out and losing their unique flavor. Fennel has 13 calories per half cup and a fair source of Vitamin A, niacin, calcium and iron.

Cabbage contains a compound called calcium pectate, which some studies have shown to lower blood cholesterol levels. Cabbage is a good source of dietary fiber and low in calories. Don't overcook cabbage; it destroys the true taste and texture and bleeds out many valuable vitamins and minerals. Cabbage can be stored one to two weeks in the refrigerator crisper.

EGGPLANT SHOULD BE stored at cool room temperature, about 60 degrees. If the air is dry, keep eggplant in plastic bag to retain moisture. Store one to two days. Get rid of eggplants' bitter taste by salting slices and allowing them to drain in a colander for 30 minutes. Be sure to rinse the slices to get rid of the salt.

Vegetables cooked in the microwave retain more Vitamin C than those boiled. Microwave cooking not only exposes foods to heat for shorter time than boiling but also requires very little water. Cook vegetables only until tender — crisp. To prevent dark spots from forming, add salt only after microwaving vegetables. Don't add salt to green salad until just before serving. Salt wilts and toughens salad greens.

It is best to store most fruits in the refrigerator. Allow melons, avocados and pears to ripen at room temperature, then refrigerate. Ripe oranges sometimes undergo a process known as re-greening. This occurs when a ripe orange pulls some green chlorophyll from its stem and leaves, back into the peel. Such greenish oranges are extra ripe and thus often sweeter than other oranges.

Pink grapefruit is pink because, in part, it contains much more beta-carotene than white grapefruit. Beta-carotene is the nutrient that turns into Vitamin A inside your body. When refrigerated, grapefruit will keep up to four months.

Take advantage of the delectable selection of fresh fruits and vegetables available. Nutritionally, they are unbeatable — low in calories yet bursting with flavor. They add color and textures and are very versatile in meal planning. Store them correctly so that when you are ready to eat or serve them, they are still top quality, and you will get your money's and nutritional worth.

Plant indoor minigarden for a spring harvest

AP — When you're anxious for warm days and green, growing things, get a preview of spring by planting an indoor minigarden. In less than a week you can harvest fresh, green sprouts for salads and sandwiches. Kids enjoy this project because the sprouts grow so quickly.

WHAT TO PLANT — Alfalfa seed, barley, radish seed, lentils, Mung beans, rye berries, wheat berries and/or buckwheat groats.

For sprouting, buy only seeds from a supermarket or health-food store. Beans or seeds that are sold for gardening are treated with fungicides that are poisonous.

HOW TO PLANT — Place seeds in a bowl and cover with water. Let stand at room temperature about 3 hours or until seeds swell; drain. If you plant more than one type of seed at a time, soak each type separately.

Line a shallow tray with three layers of paper towels; top with a single layer of cheesecloth. Arrange seeds in a single layer over cheesecloth. You can plant more than one type of seed in a tray; just keep each in a separate section.

Spray seeds thoroughly with a fine water spray.

Tear off a piece of foil large enough to cover the tray; prick holes in the foil. Cover tray loosely with foil. Store in warm, dark place.

Several times a day, uncover tray and spray with water until seeds sprout and grow ¼ inch. Then spray two or three times a day, keeping sprouts moist at all times.

Sprouts are usually ready to eat in 3-5 days. At that time, remove foil and set tray in a sunny place for several hours to let leaves turn green. Continue spraying with water.

To harvest sprouts, pull them off the cheesecloth.

YIELDS — 2 tablespoons alfalfa seeds yield 4 cups sprouts; mild tasting and tender.

2 tablespoons barley yield 1 cup sprouts; nutty tasting and crunchy.

¼ cup buckwheat groats yield 2 cups sprouts; nutty tasting and tender.

2 tablespoons lentils yield 1½ cup sprouts; mild tasting and crisp.

¼ cup Mung beans yield 1½ cup sprouts; mild tasting and crunchy.

2 tablespoons radish seed yield 1 cup sprouts; peppery tasting and tender.

¼ cup rye berries yield 1 cup sprouts; slightly sweet tasting and tender.

STORING AND USING SPROUTS

Store harvested sprouts in a covered container in the refrigerator. They're best if eaten within a few days but will keep about 1 week.

Use sprouts in salads, soups, sandwiches, stir-frys.

Coffee tips help brew better cup

AP — With a history and mystique as romantic as that of wine, coffee represents America's favorite after-dinner beverage. These tips from coffee merchant Douglas Carpenter will help you brew a better cup every day. For special occasions, please your guests with one of these dessert coffee suggestions.

FOR BETTER COFFEE

- Start with fresh coffee that has been stored in an airtight container in a cool, dry place.
- Match the grind of coffee to your coffeemaker.
- Measure — don't guess — the amount of coffee. Carpenter recommends 2 level tablespoons (1 coffee measure) of coffee per 6 ounces (¾ cup) of water.
- Use fresh, cold water. For best flavor, your coffeemaker should heat the water to about 200 degrees.
- Choose a coffeemaker that passes water through the coffee just once.
- Serve brewed coffee immediately; never leave on a warmer more than 30 minutes. If it must wait, transfer to an insulated server after brewing.
- Keep your coffeemaker clean. Oil buildup affects the flavor.

SPECIAL COFFEES

- After tasting many types of coffee you can develop your own blend. Ask your coffee merchant to grind together beans of two or more coffees. Make up a small amount at a time, taste, and experiment until you have exactly what you want.
- Try a flavored coffee. Both regular and decaffeinated coffee are available with flavors such as hazelnut, vanilla and amaretto.

DESSERT COFFEES

In a cup or mug stir together ½-cup hot coffee and the desired flavoring. Dollop with whipped cream; sprinkle with ground cinnamon or nutmeg. Each drink makes one 6-ounce serving.

- Cafe Alexander: Stir 1 tablespoon creme de cacao and 1 tablespoon brandy into hot coffee.
- Cafe Benedictine: Stir 2 tablespoons Benedictine and 2 tablespoons light cream into hot coffee.
- Cafe Caribe: Stir 1 tablespoon coffee liqueur and 1 tablespoon rum into hot coffee.
- Cafe Colombian: Stir 2 tablespoons coffee liqueur and 1 tablespoon chocolate-flavored syrup into hot coffee.
- Cafe Dublin: Stir 1 tablespoon Irish whiskey and 2 teaspoons sugar into hot coffee.
- Cafe Holland: Stir 2 tablespoons chocolate-mint liqueur into hot coffee.
- Cafe Israel: Stir 2 tablespoons chocolate-flavored syrup and 2 tablespoons orange liqueur into coffee.
- Cafe Almond: Stir 2 tablespoons amaretto or Fra Angelico into hot coffee.

REDUCE YOUR CHANCES OF GETTING HEART DISEASE, KIDNEY DISEASE OR GOING BLIND.

Obesity can start a chain reaction to poor health that can be devastating.

To begin with, most physicians and researchers consider obesity to be the major cause of diabetes in adults. Up to 90% of adults diagnosed as having diabetes, in fact, are overweight.

Of course, once you have diabetes your chances of developing heart disease, kidney disease, or going blind increase dramatically.

As a person with diabetes you'll be twice as prone to heart disease. 17 times as prone to kidney disease. And 25 times as prone to blindness, if you are insulin-dependent.

Diabetes, in fact, can shorten your life expectancy by one-third.

Fortunately, diabetes in adults, in most cases, can be prevented with careful weight control, healthy eating habits, and regular exercise.

So if you're overweight, doesn't it make sense to take off the extra weight?

FIGHT SOME OF THE WORST DISEASES OF OUR TIME.

Rocks must develop young talent

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Plymouth Salem softball coach Rob Willette will be working with a young and inexperienced team this spring, but that won't stop the Rocks from making a run at the title.

Despite beginning the season with just one senior, Willette remains optimistic.

"We are a young team," he said. "All that means is that I have to do a little more coaching. I believe it's important for us to get off to a good start. If we can begin strongly, I know we will progress and have a successful season."

Senior Jenny Jencks and junior outfielder Missy Holmes are the only returning players on the Salem squad.

"HOPEFULLY, I can get a lot of leadership out of Jenny Jencks and Missy Holmes," Willette said. "I am sure they will take charge and keep everyone positive. Many of these girls have never played fast-pitch softball. It's a whole new game compared to slow-pitch. Hopefully, this young crop of girls will be able to make the adjustment."

Junior Andrea Welling is expected to lead the Rocks from the mound. She was a pitcher on last year's junior varsity team. She will get relief from sophomore Emily Giuliani.

Willette says both pitchers can be effective if they throw strikes.

"Because we have such a young team and may not score a lot of runs, it is important that we get good pitching," Willette said. "These pitchers will have to throw strikes in order to be effective."

The middle of the infield will be tended by freshman Caryn Tatterton and Jenny Garvey. They will play second base and shortstop, respectively.

"TATTERTON AND Garvey are inexperienced right now but will improve as they go along," Willette said. "I consider it a luxury for me to have these two girls as freshmen. It gives me the opportunity to groom them over the next four years.

"They are going to be great players. Eventually, these two girls will be the best combination in the district."

Willette says he has many other freshmen on the junior varsity squad who could have been on the varsity team.

"We a lot of good freshman players in our program," he said. "We could very well have a whole team of freshmen. That makes our team look good two or three years down the road."

softball

Although Willette says many of his positions are still undecided, he expects an improvement on last season's 12-10 record.

"We are looking to be a good team," Willette said. "I think we will get better as the season goes on, and who knows what will happen? The team has a good attitude and works together real well. I think it will be important for us to win our first couple of games in order to instill some confidence."

Other members of the team expected to contribute include Alissa Varton, junior outfielder; Kellie Daves, junior outfielder; Chris Griffis, sophomore infielder; Stephanie Beech, junior infielder; Amy Plouffe, sophomore infielder; Eileen Lyons, junior outfielder; Heather English, junior infielder; Dawn Alex, sophomore infielder; Stefanie Turek, junior catcher.

"EVERYONE WILL get a chance to play," Willette said. "With only one senior, I will need to look at a lot of these girls and evaluate them. We've only been able to practice outside on a few occasions, and that is why a lot of positions, especially the outfield, are up in the air."

Salem will open the season Thursday, April 5, at home against Farmington Hills Harrison. The Rock will play in the Allen Park Tournament on April 7.

"The tournament in Allen Park will be a good test for us," Willette said. "We have four tournaments scheduled this season. It will allow some of our younger players to get some playing time and game experience."

Willette says he expects many teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association to be tough this season.

"I look for Walled Lake Central to be a force," he said. "They return a good pitcher. Also, look for North Farmington to make a run for the title."

Area stars 2nd to none

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

WHEN THE SPORT is girls volleyball, Observerland teams take a back seat to no other region of the state.

Three area teams — Livonia Ladywood, Farmington Hills Mercy and Wayne Memorial — won regional titles. Mercy was a state semifinalist, eliminating Wayne in the quarterfinals, and Class A runner-up Ladywood was in the finals for the third straight year, ousting rival Mercy in the semis.

Furthermore, three-time Western Lakes Activities Association champion Livonia Churchill and Livonia Stevenson also won district championships.

Individually, the talent found in Observerland gets high marks, too.

Mercy's Nikki Burns and Ladywood's Kari Domanski were named to the Class A all-state first team, Mercy's Jennifer Goff and Wayne's Evette Sluder the second team. Mazie Pilut of Redford Bishop Borgess was a first-teamer in Class B.

The honor squad chosen by area coaches in conjunction with the Observer sports staff includes four repeat selections: Goff, Pilut, Burns and Domanski. Garden City's Diane Allison, Sluder and Stevenson's Sue Bell were second-team picks a year ago.

Mercy coach Tim DeBeliso, who guided the Marlins to the Catholic League title in his fourth year at the school and the No. 2 ranking in the season's final poll, was named Coach Of The Year.

The following are profiles of the 12 players comprising the 1990 All-Area team:

Christina Garry, junior, Churchill: Garry was the driving force behind Churchill's continued dominance in the WLAA.

She pounded 210 kills out of 490 good spikes, and she had 35 aces while serving at 80 percent. Garry, a first-team WLAA player, rated 87 percent on her serve reception, and she had 56 solo blocks and assisted on 95 others.

"Christina is an extremely competitive person and takes pleasure in playing opposite the opposing team's toughest offensive player," coach Mike Hughes said. "Her competitive nature makes her an outstanding blocker as well as a fine middle hitter.

"Christina's greatest asset is her constant desire to achieve excellence. As a consequence, she has improved all aspects of her game and could be one of the outstanding players in the state next year."

Jennifer Goff, senior, Mercy: Goff started all four years at Mercy and was twice an all-league and all-region performer.

An outside hitter, she had a kill percentage of .376, and she also had efficiency levels of 92 percent on her serving and 91 percent as a passer. Goff recorded 101 aces and averaged 3½ digs per game.

"Jennifer is extremely dedicated and was our emotional leader," DeBeliso said. "She was able to raise her level of play to new heights in our toughest matches. She is an outstanding hitter and has tremendous range on defense."

Nikki Burns, senior, Mercy: Burns was the unsung hero on Mercy's team, the one who set the table for attackers Goff, Lee Albrecht, Andrea Velthoven and Maureen Paulin.

She averaged 9½ assists per game and had more than 2,000 assist attempts for the season. She also served at 97 percent and had 80 aces. Burns is a two-time, all-league player, too.

"She ran our 5-1 offense to perfection for two years," DeBeliso said. "Our hitters had outstanding years because of Nikki, the finest setter to come out of Mercy. She had her best performances in our biggest matches, too."

Andrea Velthoven, senior, Mercy: Velthoven, a three-year starter and an all-Catholic League choice, played opposite Goff as the other outside attacker.

She carved out a .303 kill percentage, and she was a 91-percent server and 89-percent passer. Velthoven contributed 88 service aces for the year and more than four digs per game.

"Andrea's improvement from last year was dramatic," DeBeliso said. "She turned herself into a powerful hitter and aggressive defensive player."

Diane Allison, senior, Garden City: Allison was voted the most valuable player in the Northwest Suburban League and received a berth on the all-region first team.

Forty-three percent of Allison's spikes went for kills, and 24 percent of her serves resulted in aces. She also averaged three blocks per match.

"Diane is a very good player with excellent potential," coach John Groves said, adding Allison, who has a 3.5 grade-point average plans to attend Henry Ford Community College on a scholarship.

Karl Domanski, senior, Ladywood: Domanski, who was a three-year regular and helped the Blazers win back-to-back state championships in her sophomore and junior seasons, was named to the Michigan High School Coaches Association's Dream Team this year.

During her three varsity seasons, Ladywood was 147-17, which included two Catholic League titles and a runner-up finish this year. She was called on to be a middle blocker, left-side spiker and setter as a senior.

"Over the last three years, Kari has had the greatest combined impact on Ladywood volleyball," coach Tom Teeters said.

"Just prior to the district tournament, we had our eighth lineup change, and Kari's new responsibilities were setter, left-side spiker and cross-court defense.

"This added to our offense in a big way and resulted in victories over Churchill, Sterling Heights Stevenson and the big one — Mercy," he added. "Even though we lost to East Kentwood in the final, Kari's performance was one of the best I've seen."

Marsie Spender, senior, Ladywood: Spender took on a starting role in her senior year and helped the Blazers remain a statewide power in the sport.

"Marsie's improvement came because of two decisions: staying at the JV level for passing and setting experience during her junior year and playing Junior Olympic volleyball last spring," Teeters said.

"Marsie proved to be our top passer in serve reception and played a major part in our offense by setting three positions and freeing up Kari Domanski to spike in the front row."

Sue Bell, junior, Stevenson: Bell, an outside hitter, had 144 kills out of 401 good spikes, and she had 101 aces out of 353 good serves. Bell also had 30 solo blocks and 27 assist blocks. Her serving percentage was .842, hitting percentage .848 and reception percentage .883.

"Sue has been our most consistent player all year," coach Lee Cagle said. "She is our serve-ace leader, our most reliable defensive player and left-side hitter.

"She has been a team leader for two years and did a wonderful job again this year."

Renea Bonser, senior, Stevenson: Bonser was voted the Spartans' most valuable player and was named to the all-WLAA first team.

She posted 225 kills out of 499 good attacks. She had 588 attempts for a hitting percentage of .849. Bonser also had 192 set assists and a setting percentage of .949 (562-592). She served 83 aces — 22½ percent of her serves. Bonser made 51 blocks and assisted on 43 others.

"Renea has done very well given the multiple roles I had for her, setting and left-side, middle and right-side hitter," Cagle said. "She really came on this year as an all-around player, but her contribution as a senior leader is most appreciated."

Mazie Pilut, senior, Bishop Borgess: The Spartans centered their game plan around Pilut, who was asked to set the ball in the 6-2 offense and also do a large share of the hitting.

Pilut, who has committed to play for Madonna College where she will be reunited with former Borgess coach Jerry Abraham, had a kill percentage of nearly .450.

Veteran trackmen boost Canton outlook

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

Plymouth Canton boys track coach Bob Richardson looks for his team to improve on last season's 3-4 dual meet record, thanks to a good attitude and an experienced crop of athletes.

"Last season we were a sophomore- and junior-oriented team," Richardson said. "This year we are a junior and senior team. That experience will help us."

Richardson said the shot put and discus events really hurt the team last season, but he expects an improvement this campaign.

"Those two events really gave us fits," Richardson said. "I think we can improve on them this year."

Seniors Max Corona and Bill Jacobson, along with junior Dean Benedict, are expected to handle the shot put and discus this year.

SENIOR JEREMY Rheault and Eric Miller will lead the Chiefs in the long jump, while junior Mike DeJarnett and senior Craig Miller will participate in the high jump.

boys track

"Our field events are going to be stronger than they were last season," Richardson said. "We have a bunch of excellent athletes."

Seniors Jeff Pryslak, Ron Staples and Miller hope to spark Canton in the sprints.

"Our sprint people are in good shape," Richardson said. "Our sprint and distance people will give the team a lift."

Seniors Brian Beach and Matt Boland will guide the Chiefs in the distance events. Juniors Mike Ream and Jason Napolitano are also expected to contribute.

Seniors Dennis Monticelli and Pryslak will run the hurdles for Canton.

Richardson expects the relays to be his team's strongest asset.

"All four of our relays are strong," Richardson said. "We have a lot of depth in these events; therefore, we don't have to run the same people and tire them out."

Richardson said it will be difficult to decide what the relay runners combinations should be.

"WE HAVE such a large team with many outstanding athletes," Richardson said. "It's hard to say which of these people will run the relays.

"We have about 90 guys at practice every day. Sometimes it dips to 70 but almost always we have a good turnout. We are going to have to take two buses to the meets like the football team. Using these runners will be like a chess match."

Richardson said the team's attitude has been positive, and he believes this will be important in determining the its success.

"These guys have a great attitude," he said. "Their work habits are especially good."

The Chiefs will open their season at the EMU Relays on Saturday, March 31, at Eastern Michigan's Bowen Field House. Canton will face Livonia Stevenson and Redford Bishop Borgess in a tri-meet April 9.

Misfortune follows Taormina

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Bad luck isn't a constant companion of Sheila Taormina's. It just seems that way.

The reason is timing. When bad luck visits Taormina, it picks the worst time possible to do it.

Taormina, a junior at Georgia and former swimming standout at Livonia Stevenson, has been among the NCAA's top half-dozen in the 400-yard individual medley since her freshman season as a Lady Bulldog. But in that race at the NCAA championship meet, Taormina has:

- Been disqualified as a freshman;
- Had her arms tighten up during the 400 IM final in her sophomore year after swimming a sprint in the 200-yard freestyle relay 10 minutes earlier;
- And, this year, been drugged into the worst performance of the season.

It should be understood, first and foremost, that unless it's an Olympic year, the one event collegiate swimmers focus on during training is the NCAA meet. So, essentially, Taormina had been working since last summer with the 400 IM race in the NCAA finals, which were last week at the University of Texas in Austin, as her focal poipt.

"I JUST wish I could take that day back," Taormina said. "I was having a great meet until I did something really, really stupid.

"If I could, I would take it all back."

What Taormina did was take a non-prescription drug after experiencing stomach cramps in her Friday morning preliminary swim in the 400 IM. She finished her prelim race in 4:19.06, her best time of the season. "My goal was 4.17," she said. "I was happy with that for a morning swim. I thought I could drop two or three seconds in the finals that night."

Team trainers told Taormina what drug to take to alleviate the cramps, that it was allowable under NCAA drug guidelines and that it wouldn't make her drowsy.

So she did. Only she fell into the worst — but most often violated — trap involving drugs. If one pill helps, two will help more.

DIRECTIONS CALLED for one pill every 12 hours. "I took six in a five-hour period," Taormina said.

By the time she stroked through the first 100 yards, the butterfly leg, of her 400 IM, Taormina had little feeling left in her arms. "I was so drugged out, I was just trying to finish the race," she said.

She laughs about it now, for a reason. "I have to laugh or I'd go crazy every time I think about it," she said. "I'm really bummed out because my best time would have gotten fifth."

Instead, Taormina finished eighth (last in the championship heat) in 4:26.22 — way off her usual pace and not even close to the NCAA qualifying standard of 4:23.39.

It was a tragic turn of events for Taormina, but she was still Georgia's highest finisher, and she earned All-American honors. On Thursday she swam the 200 IM, placing 18th in 2:03.17.

"I think that's the toughest event to final in in the NCAAs," Taormina said of the 200 IM. "There's only three individual events that day, and the other two are both freestyles, so everyone else enters the 200 IM."

HER OTHER events were the 200 free relay and the 400 medley relay, both of which finished 11th. Georgia placed 13th in the team standings.

Her misfortune at the NCAA meet hasn't discouraged Taormina. She plans to spend this summer in Fort Lauderdale training with former Olympic coach Jack Nelson, whom she worked with prior to her senior year at Stevenson.

He's real good on technique," said Taormina. "He really helped me with my breaststroke before, and now I need to work on my backstroke. It's my worst stroke."

She has no plans to continue swimming after her senior season at Georgia. A two-time academic All-American who is certain to make it three after this year (a management major, she has a 3.4 grade point average), Taormina has other plans. Her immediate future, however, is finite. She wants to pursue.

But that doesn't mean she won't attack her senior season with a vengeance — and also a bit of wariness. "I'm just waiting to see what will go wrong next year," she said.

'I just wish I could take that day back. I was having a great meet until I did something really, really stupid. If I could, I would take it all back."

Top players honored

we put the ball in her hands and let her see what she could work out," coach Cynthia Jones said. "We tried to focus things around her and let her skills come forth in the competition.

"She's a good leader and a very smart player. She knows the game very well and knows how to lead her team in the clutch."

Sara Brorby, senior, Walled Lake Central: Brorby was a three-year choice for all-league honors in the WLAA and was twice named to the Rochester Kiwanis all-tournament team.

She had 447 kills and a kill percentage of .268 last season, and her spiking percentage was .280 with 714 good spikes and 915 total attacks. Brorby also had 396 blocks and 83 aces. Her serving percentage was .920.

She was the strongest middle blocker we've ever had in terms of hitting and blocking," coach Mike Linzbottler said. "The physical force she had was incredible.

She understood her position better than most kids. She's a real student of the game. Her playing AAU volleyball in the spring and going to camps had a lot to do with that."

Tim DeBellso, coach of the year, Mercy: In his fourth year at Mercy, DeBellso took the Marlins to their most successful season.

Mercy was 35-5, achieved the No. 2 ranking in Class A and won the Catholic League title after being runner-up to Lady wood the last two years. The Marlins also defeated their arch rivals in four of five matches and also winning the Central Division crown.

"It was a fantastic year for us," DeBellso said. "It was the best year in Mercy history. We had the most wins, fewest losses and most tournament wins. We were league, district and regional champs and we made our first Final Four appearance.

"It was the kind of year every coach dreams of having. We were fortunate to have the kind of kids to do the kind of things we did."

Livonians lift Jets

The Bloomfield Jets, members of the North American Junior Hockey League, have three Livonia standouts who've contributed during a rocky rebuilding season.

Despite a last-place finish, Mike Kneiding, Scott Lock and Jason Weber are extremely talented hockey players, according to Jets General Manager and Head coach Tim Opie.

"Whatever the circumstances, they come to play 100 percent of the time," said the coach.

Weber and Lock are on the same line that has mustered an 11-game scoring streak.

Weber, a 16-year-old center, is playing in a league that is normally stocked with 17 to 20 year olds.

Currently a junior at Livonia Stevenson, Weber played for the Little Caesars Bantam Major team last season. That team won a state championship, while compiling a perfect 60-0 record. (Weber had 53 goals and 76 assists.)

WEBER RECEIVED two most valuable awards in the five Canadian tournaments the Little Caesars team attended.

Weber, whom Opie considers one of the best stick handlers in Junior A, plans to play college hockey after another season at the Junior A ranks.

As of March 7, Weber had tallied 16 goals and 19 assists.

Lock, an 18-year-old freshman at Schoolcraft College, recorded eight goals and 22 assists in 39 games.

Last season, Lock attended Redford Catholic Central and racked up 60 points in 20 games. He also received numerous honors including Most Improved Player, All-State (first team), All-Observer and All-League first team.

Opie considers Lock to be one of the top forwards in Junior A.

"He has a lot to offer with unrivaled skating, shooting and passing ability," said Opie.

Lock's future ambitions are to play college hockey and pursue a career in architectural drawing.

KNEIDING, ALSO a student at Schoolcraft College, plays forward for the Jets. He proves his ability to put the puck in the net, tallying 19 goals and 14 assists in 36 games.

Scoring goals is nothing new to Kneiding. He recorded 62 points in 25 games last season for the Livonia Churchill hockey team. He also achieved All-Observer, All-State and All-League honors a season ago.

Be cautious when doing butt exercises

Dear Myrna: I read your column about butt exercises. I've started lifting weights. Can you give me some heavy duty exercises with weights for my butt? Thank you, Jackie.

Without knowing you, your body type or your strengths, it is really difficult for me to recommend the proper butt exercises by letter.

Butt exercises, using a lot of weight, can be very tricky. You have to be very cautious and conscious of your lower back. I would like to discuss some principles of weight training to eliminate any injuries which could occur. I call it hard and easy days.

Top athletes don't perform the same activity each day to prevent overtraining and injury. Hard days are those days when you put (what might feel like) all your energy into weight training. Improvement comes from hard days when the body is stressed. Stress refers to the intensity a person puts into her workout, not the amount of time spent.

The body, however, must be stressed for a minimum amount of time in order for the improvement to take place. This time will vary with the muscle group. You should feel your heart rate go up and also produce a good sweat. No more than three hard days a week.

Our muscles require time to heal. That's why you need easy days in your training program. You will benefit from your heavy hard-day workout only if you allow your muscles time to recover. If your muscles are stressed before they recover, they can deteriorate.

Here are three reasons why your muscles need to recover:

- Muscle fiber is damaged by hard exercise and requires healing time proportionate to the amount of injury.
- Muscle fuel — glycogen — is used up. It takes the body hours and hours to replenish it.
- Potassium, a mineral released from the muscle cell to control heat, also is depleted. Again, it takes hours and hours to restore the supply.

This is a basic training principle you should know. I hope you have a professional helping you with your weight training. Please feel free to stop in and talk. I have to analyze your situation in order to recommend the best butt exercises for you. I hope you appreciate my cautiousness. See you soon.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company, Inc. of Bloomfield Township and recent appointee to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions regarding exercise. Please send your questions to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mi. 48009.)

APPLICATIONS are now being accepted for the Jack Ritger Academy for Bowlers.

This is a four-day instructional series for the advanced bowler who has aspirations to become a top-notch competitor.

Dick Ritger has become one of the top stars in professional bowling, capturing 20 titles. He has also been regarded as one of the top instructors in the game, teach both ameteurs and professionals.

Today, Ritger is not only one of the leading PBA winners, but he has led the ABC Tournament 10-year average list.

In 1978, Ritger was president of the PBA and is a member of the Pro Bowlers Hall of Fame.

During the past few years, Ritger has held his academy on a worldwide basis, traveling through 17 foreign countries, Canada and the United States.

THE COST of this instructional series is $85 in U.S. currency. It will be held May 31 to June 3 at Crescent Lanes in Winsor, Ontario.

The training session includes four nights of bowling with individual instruction in all phases of the game.

This instruction includes: Bowling analysis of each student with individualized charts, common faults and corrections, scientific spare sessions, alignment for spare zones, adjusting to meet lane conditions, advanced hook and strike techniques, balls (hard, soft and plastic), mental training and how to read the lane.

The Dick Ritger Academy for bowlers has developed the concept called "Feelings Centers Association of Michigan.

Cohen runner-up at state

Steve Cohen of the Bulldog Aquatic Club, competing in the Boys 15-18 age category, took runner-up high-point honors at the State Short Course Meet March 16-18 at Michigan State University.

The meet, hosted by the Capital Area Swim League, attracted 38 clubs.

Cohen set new pool record for Lansing Community College in the 1,650-yard freestyle with a time of 16:29.56. He also took third in the 400 individual medley, 500 and 1,000 freestyles. Cohen also placed fourth in the 200 butterfly and eighth in the 200 freestyle.

● HOOP CHAMPS

The Michigan Elite Girls Basketball Club's 13-and-under team won the Eighth Annual Waterford Classic on March 17.

The Elite rolled to five consecutive victories to win the 27-team tournament. The Elite, an AAU team made up of seventh and eighth graders from Observerland schools, will play in the regional Friday, April 27, at Plymouth Canton High School.

Team members are Dawn Pelc, Cindy Lehnis, Michelle Glud, Julie Kalbfleisch, Shannon Worosz, Jennifer Jansen, Carrie Carpenter, Julie Salmonson, Christine Hall, Christina Williams, Sara Yoches and Erin Chopp. The team is coached by Wayne Worosz and Jim Kalbfleisch.

● The Knicks were playoff champions of the Boys B League in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Basketball Association this year.

The players are Brian James, Scott Huegerich, Chris Campbell, Cliff Schwartz, David Heid, Kevin O'Shaughnessey, Matt Ammons, Ranvir Gujral, Glenn Cabauatan, Kevin Marcicki, David Burian and Kris Hornick. Coaches were Glenn Cabauatan, Chuck Hornick and Jack Ammons. The manager was Nicholas Cabauatan.

● COLLEGE HOOPS

Freshman guard Michelle Fortier of Plymouth Canton established herself as a Mid-American Conference women's basketball player in her first year at Western Michigan University.

Fortier received a number of votes and barely missed being selected for the MAC all-freshman team.

Fortier started all 27 games for the Broncos and set personal highs of 17 points (vs. Toledo), six rebounds (vs. Toledo) and 13 assists (vs. Kent State). She ranked fifth in the MAC in assists and averaged 5.6 points per game.

● STEELER FOOTBALL

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers Junior Football League will register players and cheerleaders on Saturday, April 28, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Canton High School cafeteria. Boys and girls age 8-14 are eligible.

The cost is $50 per player, $40 per cheerleader. There is a $135 family maximum. For information call Sue Herman at 455-7299. A birth certificate, signed and dated by a parent or guardian, is necessary.

● GOLF LEAGUES

A men's golf league, sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation Services, will begin its season on Wednesday, April 25, at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

The registration and greens fees for the first 10 weeks is $135. Space is limited to 36 golfers. Returning players can register through Friday, March 23, and new players Monday, March 26, until the league is full.

Only Canton residents are eligible. Tee times will be from 5 to 5:55 p.m. Call 397-5110 for information.

● Canton Parks and Recreation Services will have a women's golf league, too. The season begins with tee-off at 9 a.m. Friday, May 4, at Fellows Creek Golf Course.

Registration begins Monday, April 2, and can be done in person or by mail at the parks and recreation office: 1150 S. Canton Center Road. The fee is $10 plus weekly greens fees.

There will be a league meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 25, at Fellows Creek.

● RECREATION HOOP

The spring session of the Canton Parks and Recreation Department men's recreation night basketball begins Wednesday, March 28.

The program takes places from 6:45 to 9:45 p.m. at Eriksson Elementary School and will run for 10 weeks. The fee is $15 and open only to Canton residents. Call 397-5110 for details.

Falcons loom as favorite

As the trees bloom and the snow melts, girls soccer flourishes.

With the season just around the corner, many of the areas teams are looking forward to successful seasons.

It appears Farmington, which posted a 16-1-4 record last season, will be one of the most talented teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association, a conference which has produced six state champions over the past seven years.

"Farmington is the team to beat this season," said Livonia Churchill coach Nick O'Shea. "They only lost a couple of players. They should be tough."

The Falcons, who reached the Class A semifinals last year before losing to Troy Athens, return four all-area players in Carrie Maier, Amy Trunk, Sue Gibson and Margaret Martin.

Maier scored 23 goals and tallied 14 assists last season, while Trunk sparked the Falcons with 24 goals and 21 assists.

"They're all tough — Churchill, Salem, Canton, Farmington and Northville," said Livonia Stevenson coach Mary Kay Boots.

Churchill, which finished with a solid 6-3-5 record last season, returns both goaltenders in Dana Keller and Monia Cervi.

"WE NEED to score a few more goals than we did last season," O'Shea said. "If we do that we have the solid goaltending to be a good team."

Plymouth Salem will try to repeat its success of last season when it posted a 12-2-2 record and won the Lakes Division crown.

The Rocks return sophomore goalie sensation Jennifer Emmett. She earned all-area honors last season, while recording 11 shutouts and a 0.38 goals-against average.

Stevenson, a team dominated by underclassmen, will try and improve on last year's 11-4-3 record.

Led by all-area sophomore midfielder Ragen Coyne, the Spartans are expected to make a run for the Lakes Division title.

John Ozog of Livonia Ladywood and Joe Galea of Livonia Franklin will making coaching debuts for their respective schools this season.

Redford Bishop Borgess, according to athletic director Mike Fusco, has dropped its girls soccer program. The Spartans were a member of the Catholic League Central Division.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

● Head coach: Nick O'Shea, fourth season.
● League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association (Western Division).
● Season opener: Monday, April 2 at home vs. Farmington Hills Mercy.
● Last year's record: 6-3-5.
● Notable losses to graduation: Andrea Szymanski, first-team All-Area stopper; Mandy Mase, second-team All-Area midfielder.
● Leading returnees: Nikki Johnson, senior forward; Mechelle Brazin, junior midfielder; Lori Place, junior forward, Stephanie Speen, junior sweeper; Fran Priebe, junior defender; Dana Keller, senior goalie; Monia Cervi, junior goalie.
● O'Shea's '90 outlook: "We should be competitive. We are looking to score a few more goals. We also have solid goaltending in Dana Keller and Monia Cervi."

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

● Head coach: Joe Galea, first season.
● League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association (Western Division).
● Season opener: Monday, April 9 at home vs. Plymouth Canton.
● Last year's record: 6-7-2.
● Notable losses to graduation: Angee Stigmaier.
● Leading returnee: Patty Shea, sophomore midfielder; Erica Sundeck, senior halfback; Kari Zabell, sophomore fullback; Carla Strugala, sophomore forward; Keri MacKay, sophomore midfielder.
● Galea's '90 outlook: "We are trying to set up a system. We have promising youngsters coming up. You never know what will happen."

LIVONIA STEVENSON

● Head coach: Mary Kay Boots, second season.
● League affiliation: Western Lakes Activities Association (Lakes Division).
● Season opener: Friday, April 6 at home vs. Dearborn.
● Last year's record: 11-4-3.
● Notable losses to graduation: Defender Sharlene Sudek, midfielder Michelle Hussey (midfielder), defender Nicole Quarles and second-team All-Area forward Karen Carney.
● Promising newcomers: Patty Diamond, freshman; Karen Groulx, freshman goalie; Michele Brach, freshman; Kristen Oswandel, freshman.
● Boots '90 outlook: "We have no seniors. It will be interesting to see how our newcomers blend with the good core of players we already have back.

"Goaltending not as much of a concern as last year. They get along great, they'll play together. The big thing is will we be able to run-and-gun with other teams."

LIVONIA LADYWOOD

● Head coach: John Ozog, first season.
● League affiliation: Catholic League (Central Division).
● Season opener: Monday, March 26 at Dearborn Edsel Ford.
● Last year's record: 6-7-2.
● Notable losses to graduation: Heather Plummer (goalie) and Katie Parker.
● Leading returnees: All-Catholic selection Cassie Ozog, senior; Christa Ozog, junior fullback; Amie Morelli, junior forward; Jennie Craddick, senior fullback.
● Promising newcomers: Liz Gunn, Val Adzima and Betsy Menczka.
● Ozog's '90 outlook: "We're in the process of rebuilding our team. Seven of our players graduated last year, including our goalie. It will be an interesting season and I'm looking forward to it."

GARDEN CITY

● Head coach: Amy Weber, second season.
● League affiliation: Northwest Suburban.
● Season opener: Monday, April 2 at home vs. Pinckney.
● Last year's overall record: 8-6-1.
● Notable losses to graduation: Tisha Gudo, goalie, Kristin Hahn, halfback forward; Renee Noti, fullback; Lila Trombley, halfback; Chris Buggy, halfback.
● Weber's '90 outlook: "Our returning players are going to have to be our leaders. Most of our new players are going to need their leadership. Our underclassmen are, for the most part, inexperienced. The attitude is good. The girl's realize they are out here to have fun and do their best."

REDFORD UNION

● Head coach: Al Burnham, fourth season.
● League affiliation: Northwest Suburban.
● Season opener: Tuesday, April 3 at home (Pearson School) vs. Southfield.

Michael Veillette of Rochester resident has won the Michigan state table tennis singles championship six times. He'll be trying for number seven Saturday at the University of Michigan-Dearborn fieldhouse.

A table top affair with tennis . . .

By A. Giralt Bedford
staff writer

Under the bright lights of the gymnasium, the player swings his racket. He drives the ball, sending it spinning across the table. In a fraction of a second, his opponent hits it back to him.

The player is tense and in control. His muscles seem ready to explode, but instead the energy is channeled to his arm. His eyes are fixed on the ball as if hypnotized by it.

The player is table tennis state champion Michael Veillette. The Rochester resident has won the Michigan state singles championship six times and is listed among the top 40 players in the country. He will be defending his title in play Saturday, March 31, at the University of Michigan-Dearborn fieldhouse.

"I've been doing it all my life," said Veillette, whose father was coach for the table tennis club that met at Cobo Hall. "I think I like it because I had some success. I got a chance to travel a lot and it's good exercise. I have an office job and sit all day."

Veillette, an engineer for Rockwell International, is a member of the Detroit Table Tennis Club. The club has some 200 members who play at one or more of four centers in Auburn Heights, West Bloomfield, Royal Oak and Southgate.

The club has some of the best players in the state. Detroiter David Skrzypek represented the United States in the 1988 Para-Olympic games in Seoul, Korea. He had "a couple of wins and played against the winner."

HE ALSO is proof that table tennis is a suitable sport for people with physical challenges. Skrzypek wears an artificial leg. He started playing table tennis six years ago. He also plays tennis and throws the javelin.

"I like table tennis better because I've reached a higher level in it," he said. He won a gold medal at the 1988 U.S. Amputee Athletic Association Games. He hopes to represent the U.S. again in the 1992 Para-Olympic games in Barcelona, Spain.

The object of table tennis is simple — hit a small white ball over a net and into your opponent's field in such a way that either your opponent misses the ball or hits it only after it has bounced twice on his side, so you score a point. The person who scores 21 points, with a two-point lead, wins the game.

The racket is extremely important to the game. Players choose which kind of rubber sheet they want on each side, depending on their playing style. The same swing will have a totally different effect depending on the type of rubber. Some rubber sticks to the ball, while others repel it.

Under international rules, one of side of the paddle surface must be black and one side red. Prior to the game, the player must show his opponent the racket to see what kind of surface it has. Thanks to the colors, the player knows which surface is hitting the ball and what kind of spin it will have.

PLAYERS HOLD their rackets two different ways. With the shake-hand style, used here and in Europe, the player holds the racket as if he were shaking somebody's hand. With the Oriental or pen-hold style, favored by Asian players, the player holds it as if it were a pen.

According to Veillette, a good player has "speed, agility and brains."

"It's all concentration," he said. "You have to keep your eyes on the ball and it's hard because it is so small."

As far as what to look for, "the two most important things are speed and spin, a forward spin in the ball," Veillette said.

Players must pay constant attention to the ball and to the side of the racket being used. They have to read the speed of the ball as it is coming toward them, one reason why it is so hard to watch table tennis on television. The image on the screen cannot reflect the speed and spin of the ball. It may look as if it were traveling slowly, when in fact it is going very fast.

"It is much quicker than any of the other racket sports," Veillette said.

While some people may not think of table tennis players as all-around athletes, many of them play other sports. The majority play tennis during the summer and table tennis during the winter. Veillette plays tennis, golf and softball. In winter, he goes cross-country skiing.

CLUB MEMBER Bill Byrnes said most people play the game for fun and practice. Once popular during the Depression, table tennis isn't as much now, partly because "Americans go for expensive sports like golf and tennis."

Most people start playing the game in their basements; others "play at the YMCA or at a youth center, Byrnes said. "If they get good they start looking for better competition and find it in a club like this."

The Detroit Table Tennis Club has centers in Auburn Hills, Southgate, West Bloomfield and Royal Oak. For information, call George Scheipner at 354-5940.

The state table tennis championship will start at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, March 31, in the fieldhouse at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, Evergreen at Hubbard Drive, Dearborn. It is free and open to the public.

Mixing fast-paced fun with fitness

By Joan Borum

It was what the Irish call a "soft day." In other words, it drizzled. And sometimes, it rained.

But to the 1,000 or so participants in the eighth annual Motor City Stridders St. Patrick's Day run/walk, 1990's bone-numbing dampness was a great improvement over 1988's blizzard.

"Actually, it's the best weather we've ever had for this race," Dr. Ed Kzoloff, president of the Motor City Striders, told the crowd.

Mention running club and what comes to mind? Masochism, right? "No pain, no gain" and similar mantras? Well, maybe some running groups, but not the Striders.

Sure, there are dedicated lean-and-mean marathoners, but many members are more casual runners or walkers who just like to exercise and enjoy the camraderie that characterizes Striders' meet. There are even a few hardcore sloths, eating sticky buns, while presiding over the registration tables.

"We welcome anybody who wants to join us for regular exercise," said Kozloff, who has been president since 1975. "We try to have a mix of race types so everybody can participate and enjoy. The Belle Isle run is a pure killer, while the St. Patrick's Day run is a family event.

"The Detroit Dietatic Association one mile and 10-K is somewhere in between."

(For those of us who don't know how far 10-K is and didn't know who to ask, Kozloff offers the answer. A 10-K equals 6.2 miles.)

CERTAINLY, there seemed to be something for everyone at the St. Patrick's Day race.

There was a 440-yard run for children 12 and younger, which drew about 20 entrants. The youngest runner was 3½-year-old Allison Simms, who ran accompanied by her father. An even younger, anonymous participant was disqualified because his father carried him the entire quarter mile.

"All finishers get ribbons and certificates," said Kozloff, "to discourage the 'Little League Syndrome.' We don't want parents pushing their children to win."

There was a 2-K (1¾ miles) walk, with ribbons and certificates to all winners, and the main event, the four-mile run. The first 100 men and the first 150 women each received medals and all finishers picked up certificates. The top five men and woman got awards.

The team spirit of the Striders is reflected in the fact that almost every participant gets some recognition for their efforts, and that times are not officially recorded. It's the duty of every finisher to remember his or her own time as displayed on a large digital clock at the finish line.

Had justice been served, there would have been an award for best costume. Naturally, green was predominant, in every possible genre of clothing, including a well-muscled adult male in an elf suit.

"This event is almost as colorful as our Halloween run, although the New Year's run comes a close second," said Tom Fraser.

Like some other Striders, including Kozloff, Fraser spends more time officiating than running at events. Both men do most of their running on their own time.

THERE MAY be such a thing as "runner's high," but most of the Striders, whatever their endurance level, emphasize the general sense of well-being that comes from regular exercise.

Up until four years ago, Rosemery Brockelhurst's idea of

One of the fringe benefits of racing in the streets of Detroit is the chance to literally run the stop light.

Children take off for a 440-yard Motor City Striders' race.

Getting in stride with these races

Interested in trying your luck at a Motor City Striders' event? Well, here's a few races coming up in the next few months:

- The sixth annual American Dietetic Association 10-K-arrot run 9:30 a.m. Sunday, April 1, at Hart Plaza, Detroit. Voted most nutritious post race refreshments (whole grain Twinkies!). Free race packets include information on sports nutrition and high carbohydrate recipes.
- Boblo Island Fun Run 10 a.m. Saturday, May 19. Kids races, one- and four-milers. Race course is a loop through the beautiful grounds of Boblo Island.
- Third annual Run for Your Life 8:30 a.m. Saturday, July 8, Southfield Civic Center. Two-mile run, 8-K and non-competitive two-mile fun walk.

Entry fees for races average around $10 (more for Boblo, of course) and include a commemorative T-shirt.

For information on joining the Motor City Striders or on individual events, call Dr. Edward Kozloff at 544-9099, or write him at 10144 Lincoln, Huntington Woods 48070.

Several readers — JCH of Bloomfield Hills and LWB of West Bloomfield — wrote to suggest that I had missed the boat on "Hunt for Red October." Thanks for your comments, but I'm sticking to my guns. For me the film was neither thrilling nor itense.

Charm, good spirits, fine dialogue and excellent performances successfully elevate a hackneyed old storyline into a romantic comedy hit. Give me a break with the plot for "Pretty Woman" (A-, R, 120 minutes) — major Wall Street mogul falls for a prostitute. Love changes both their lives.

Sounds soapy and dopey, but fine acting by Richard Gere as Edward Lewis, the Wolf of Wall Street, and Julia Roberts as Vivian Ward, something special in girls of the street, makes all the difference.

Roberts mixes the correct proportions of careless diction, insouciant hip movements, intelligent charm, a will to learn, wide-eyed naivete and street smarts.

That combination of charm and talent propels Vivian's dialogue beyond the easy and clichéd: "To the Wolf of Wall Street she says, "I see, your business is the same as mine, you screw people for money."

Doing just that, buying companies at bargain prices and selling them for their assets is what Lewis does so well with help of his attorney, Philip Stuckey (Jason Alexander) who plays it with a feral intensity that should raise everybody's blood pressure over at the Bar Association.

THE BACKGROUND to Vivian and Edward's love affair is an attempt to take over Morse Industries whose president, James Morse, is played with retired good grace by Ralph Bellamy.

It all adds up to a Pygmalion fantasy as Vivian, the lady of the night, becomes a charming lady — in the best sense — and represents the essence of femininity.

Good pacing, crisp editing, sharp dialogue, elegant Beverly Hills cinematography, lots of good music and fine supporting performances — hey, sounds like a terrific, romantic comedy. It is.

Whether or not "Cinema Paradiso" (A-, 120 minutes) wins tonight's best foreign film Oscar, it remains an excellent, endearing film. In particular, if you're a film buff, if you get all warm and fuzzy thinking about Italian films of the '50s or if you're just a sucker for nostalgia, "Cinema Paradiso" will sweep you off your feet.

It's the story of Salvatore DeVita, a very charming young boy in a small, post World War II Sicilian town. Nicknamed Toto, his one passion is movies and he hangs out with Alfredo, the town's projectionist who teaches him about life as well as how to project motion pictures.

Alfredo becomes the father Toto lost during the war. When he can, Toto sneaks in to watch the town's priest screen and censor all the new movies. All kissing (and other bad stuff) is removed although Toto manages to see and enjoy most of it before it is excised at these sessions.

THE FILM and the town's life revolve around the local cinema and the film is a superb evocation of that time in our history when motion pictures were a civic religion. As well, the film depicts the end of that religion as life has changed in recent decades, even in small Sicilian towns. While "Cinema Paradiso" probably is too long, it was so much fun watching that we can forgive it its length.

In the final analysis, it is not only a celebration of old movies but an affirmation of life and a testimony to the finest love, that which sacrifices for the sake of the beloved.

Meanwhile in another venue, they're still fighting the Cold War. Unlike "Red October," "The Fourth War" (C+, R, 90 minutes) has some intense moments and is far better positioned politically than that submarine epic. What happens to Cold Warriors when peace breaks out?

Ever since Vietnam, Colonel Jack Knowles (Roy Scheider) has been on the muscle, so to speak, looking for trouble. It is the winter of 1988 and he has been assigned command of an America patrol along the West German-Czech border. His counterpart on the Soviet side, Colonel N.A. Valachev (Jurgen Prochnow), has the same bitterness from Afghanistan that Knowles does from Vietnam.

The basic plot structure is promising — What happens when there is no need for violence but aggressive, authoritarian men filled with hostility and trained to fight are given power?

THE ANSWER, of course, is obvious and frightening but the film gets trite and sappy in its latter stages and collapses from the weight of its clichés. As well, it's rather hard to believe that Colonel Knowles could so easily sneak across a heavily guarded border, particularly after hostilities between the two colonels escalated.

Still, "The Fourth War" is well-paced, nicely photographed and includes a fine supporting performance by Harry Dean Stanton as Gen. Hackworth. But we never learn to whom his voice-over narrative is directed. The trite derivation of the title, when added to all the clichés, wipes this one out of contention for top honors.

"Coupe de Ville" (A-, PG-13, 90 minutes), written by Detroiter Mike Binder, is a funny, touching story of brotherly hate, fatherly love and the recognition of the importance of family bonds and loyalty.

Marvin (David Stern), Buddy (Ayre Gross) and Bobby (Patrick Dempsey) have been summoned to Florida for their mother's (Rita Taggert) birthday. The boys' father (Alan Arkin) has purchased a '54 Coupe de Ville as a birthday present. He arranges for his three sons to drive it from Michigan to surprise his life.

THROUGH a series of misadventures, the boys become men and the men become brothers. All the performances are first rate. Dempsey is especially excellent as Bobby, the delinquent with a heart of gold. Alan Arkin also is very good as Fred Lubner, a dying man whose gesture brings joy to his wife and closeness to his boys. The attention to period details is worth noting as well — particularly for those of us who remember the old Stuckey signs.

"Coupe de Ville" reminds us all of the feeling of connection that we share or should share with our families. See it with someone who might have forgotten that it's OK to agree to disagree and still be fond of each other. (Reviewed by Susan Fincham.)

In "A Shock to the System" (B, R, 90 minutes), Graham Marshall (Michael Caine) is a mild, easy-going but harassed advertising executive with a nagging wife, Leslie (Swoosie Kurtz), two poodles and a house in Connecticut.

When a younger colleague, Bob Benham (Peter Riegert), is promoted in his place, Marshall feels the magic has gone out of his personal life as well as out of his career. In his mind he fancies himself a magician and decides to get some of the magic back.

AFTER HE accidentally pushes a bum under a subway train — and doesn't get caught — he feels no guilt and starts eliminating all the people who annoy him. His methods are unique and clever, always relying on his own personal magic.

This murder mystery features fine performances including Elizabeth McGovern as Marshall's office love interest, Stella Anderson and Will Patton as Lt. Laker, but Caine's cool, intelligent character steals the show. Despite a predictable story line, "A Shock to the System" is unique enough to hold everyone's interest until the surprise ending. (Reviewed by Kathy Guyor.)

"The Forbidden Dance" () (PG-13) is another dance movie while "Welcome to Oblivion" () (R) is a sci-fi thriller.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Foreigners' dominate Oscars

By John Monaghan
special writer

When the nominees for best foreign film are read at tonight's Academy Awards ceremony, most viewers will have little background on which to base an educated guess. Only France's "Camille Claudel" (playing this weekend at the Detroit Film Theater) has had solid booking.

"Camille Claudel" is based on the obsessive relationship between French sculpture Auguste Rodin and his talented pupil. Isabelle Adjani has been nominated in the best actress category, a relative rarity for a foreign language film.

Actually, this year's Oscars have a decided international flair. In several of the major categories, filmmakers from lands far away have a chance at taking the gold-plated statuette.

Consider the best picture nominees. "My Left Foot" comes from Ireland. Two others, "Driving Miss Daisy" and "Dead Poets Society," were directed by Australian expatriates Bruce Beresford and Peter Weir. "Foot's" Jim Sheridan was nominated for best director as was Britain's Kenneth Branagh (also best actor) for "Henry V."

THOUGH IT isn't likely to win for best picture, "My Left Foot" did get that award from the New York Film Critics Circle. If old Uncle Oscar has any taste at all, Daniel Day-Lewis will take best actor for his role as artist Christy Brown, a talented man stricken with cerebral palsy.

It wouldn't be that big of a surprise, Oscar likes an obviously difficult role, especially when it deals with an individual fighting either an affliction or drunkenness. At various times through "My Left Foot," Day-Lewis displays both.

Tom Cruise, as the wheelchair-bound Vietnam vet of "Born on the Fourth of July," has a similar advantage.

Sound a little smarmy and overly cynical? It should. Oscar from his conception has been something of a star-studded joke. If there really is a best picture of the year, Oscar always seems to pick the wrong one.

I wasn't even born yet and I'm still fuming because "Citizen Kane" (the greatest film ever made) lost to "How Green Was My Valley" in 1941. I think I stopped watching the Awards when muscle-bound "Rocky" beat "Taxi Driver" in 1976. Was "Doctor Doolittle" really nominated or was I dreaming?

Politics and popularity dominate the Academy Awards. This year's foreign film selections both play by the rules and break them. Many feel that Claude Chabrol's "Story of Women" should have been nominated. Perhaps the subject (a woman's abortionist executed in the 1940s) changed the Academy's mind.

YET, THERE is also "Jesus of Montreal," a French-Canadian film about a drunken actor whose role of Jesus Christ on stage translates bizarrely into his screwed-up personal life. It generated a fair amount of controversy in the North American press.

My choice for best foreign language film? The last two nominees, "Santiago, the Stoy of His New Life" (Puerto Rico) and "Waltzing Regitze" (Denmark), are out of the running for obscurity reasons.

Italy's acclaimed "Cinema Paradiso" is the most obvious popular choice. In it, a young boy during World War II finds solace at his local movie theater. Hopefully, it will win so we can finally see it on area screens.

SCREEN SCENE

DETROIT FILM THEATRE, Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call 833-2323 for information. ($4)

"Camille Claudel" (France — 1988). 7 and 9:45 p.m. March 30-31 and April 1. The story of the complex, obsessive relationship between French sculptor Rodin (Gerard Depardieu) and his talented pupil (Isabelle Adjani), who became a respected artist in her own right.

DETROIT SCIENCE CENTER, 5020 John R. Detroit. Call 577-8400 for information. ($2-5)

"Seasons," through April 30. William Shatner narrates this study of the seasons, with music by Vivaldi and images that will take your breath away. Shown on the giant domed Omnimax screen.

HENRY FORD CENTENNIAL LIBRARY, 16301 Michigan Ave., Dearborn. Call 943-2330 for information. (Free.)

"An Evening of Shorts," 7 p.m. March 26. A sampling of Academy Award-winning short subjects, including "Young at Heart," directed by a pair of Michigan filmmakers.

HILL STREET CINEMA, Hill Auditorium, 1429 Hill St., Ann Arbor. Call 769-0500 for information. ($2.50 for a double feature)

Errol Morris — "Gates of Heaven" (USA — 1978) and "The Thin Blue Line" (USA — 1988). Starting at 8 p.m. March 29 and 31. Morris, the most inventive documentary filmmaker working today, sets his sights on two bizarre American Phenomenas in "Gates," he examines the pet cemetery business in California. "Line" actually does rough justice to Randall Adams, serving a life sentence for supposedly murdering a Dallas policeman. The film's convincing evidence proves him innocent beyond a shadow of a doubt.

LIVONIA MALL, Seven Mile at Middlebelt, Livonia. Call 476-1166 for information. (Free.)

"Quo Vadis" (USA — 1951), 10 a.m. March 27. Lavish MGM epic about the persecution of Christians and the burning of Rome during Nero's reign. Concluding the mall's month-long tribute to Robert Taylor.

MICHIGAN THEATRE, 603 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 668-8397 for information. ($4, $3.25 students and senior citizens)

"Porky's" (USA — 1982), 4 p.m. March 27 and 7:30 p.m. March 28. The theater says that the tasteless teen pic is being shown in conjunction with a University of Michigan film class. You figure.

"Crimes and Misdemeanors" (USA — 1989), 9:15 p.m. March 28. Woody Allen's latest (and perhaps best) film, a morality tale with humor that stars Allen, Martin Landau, Anjelica Huston and Mia Farrow. Nominated for several Academy Awards.

"L'Aventura" (Italy — 1960), 7 p.m. April 1. Michelangelo Antonioni's stunningly photographed study of alienation in the modern world. When a member of a yachting party is lost at sea, her husband and another woman embark on a love affair during the search. Starring Monica Vitti. (Free admission this film only)

REDFORD THEATRE, 17360 Lasher, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50).

Shirley Temple — "The Little Colonel" (USA — 1935) and "Wee Willie Winkie" (USA — 1937). Beginning at 8 p.m. March 30-31. Two of Temple's best loved films. In the first, a Civil War story, she tap dances down a staircase with Bill "Bojangles" Robinson. In the second, directed by John Ford, she plays a young girl who lives on a British Army base in India. Special prizes awarded for Shirley Temple look-alikes.

TELE-ARTS, 1540 Woodward, Detroit. Call 963-3918 for information ($3.50, $2.50 students and senior citizens.)

"sex, lies and videotapes" (USA — 1989), 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. March 28-29 and 5:30 p.m. March 30. Stephen Soderbergh's award-winning examination of four friends and lovers. Perhaps overrated but still fascinating.

"The Magic Toy Shop" (England — 1988), March 28-April (call for show times). A disturbing fairy tale for adults. (CityWide Cinema)

"Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer" (USA — 1986), 11:30 p.m. March 30-31 and 9 p.m. April 1. Loosely based on the exploits of Henry Lee Lucas, a Texas serial killer responsible for the deaths of countless women. Obviously not for all tastes.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN-DEARBORN, Recreation Center, 4901 Evergreen, Dearborn. Call 593-5390 for information (free)

"Uncle Buck" (USA — 1989), 7:30 p.m. March 28-29. John Candy as the irresponsible uncle who shows up to care for a household of kids. John Hughes directed.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Not all the March madness is at the NCAA Tournament as movies on video cassette continue to appear in eye-straining quantities.

As always, there's the good, the bad and the mediocre. In the latter category is another Jessica Lange feminist country film, "Far North" (1988, color, PG, 88 minutes). Released on cassette last year, it's now available on a sell-through basis for $19.95 although it's not worth owning.

Katie (Lange) returns home — a farm near Duluth, Minn. — because the family horse injured her father, Bertram (Charles Durning), so badly he's in the hospital and there's no one to shoot the horse. There's a houseful of nutty ladies — sister, mother, grandmother and so on — bet no one to shoot the horse. Katie must do it in order to win her father's love.

This Sam Shepherd comedy affirms the cliche that they don't make movies like they used to. Speaking of which . . .

CBS/Fox Video has a promotion for eight "Classic Films of Epic Proportions" due out March 29. We'll forgive them their hyperbole because there's some pretty terrific viewing here. Three of the eight have never been released before on tape and are appropriate to the Easter/Passover season: Gregory Peck and Vincent Price in "The Keys of the Kingdom" (1944, 137 minutes), Richard Todd and Jean Peters in "A Man Called Peter" (1955, 117 minutes) and Elana Eden in the title role of "The Story of Ruth" (1960, 132 minutes).

THE FIVE previous released titles, also appropriate for this time of year, are: John Huston's "The Bible" (1966, 171 minutes), Elizabeth Taylor's "Cleopatra" (1963, 185 minutes), Burt Lancaster as "Moses" (1976, 11 minutes), Richard Burton in the five Oscar-winning "The Robe" (1953, 135 minutes) and Charlton Heston and Rex Harrison in "The Agony and the Ecstasy" (1965, 138 minutes).

All except "A Man Called Peter" are in color. None of these were rated, but there's no need to fear offending anyone by screening them.

Bargain hunters and Bette Davis fans will be pleased with her 16 titles available this month at the reduced, sell-through rate of $19.95. Included in this collection from MGM/UA are "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Dark Victory," "The Corn is Green" and "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex."

If Westerns are more to your liking, Republic Pictures Home Video has a dozen this month, including three available for the first time on video: "Jubilee Trail" (103 minutes) with Forrest Tucker, Vera Ralston and Joan Leslie, "Radrod" (94 minutes) features Joel McCrea, Veronica Lake and Donald Crisp and "Thunder Pass" (76 minutes) with Dane Clark and Andy Devine.

In Hollywood's studio years, Republic specialized in producing B-Westerns and these three, along with the other nine, are ample proof of their excellence in that genre.

PAUL NEWMAN fans will be pleased to learn that seven of your hero's titles are being re-released at the bargain price of $19.98. Even though they've been in video circulation for some time, these are some of Newman's best films and, at this price, should attract new viewers.

Leading the list is the well-known "Butch Cassidy & The Sundance Kid" (1969, color, R, 111 minutes) with Robert Redford. "From the Terrace" (1960, color, unrated, 144 minutes) also stars Joanne Woodward. Another western, "Hombre" (1967, color, unrated, 111 minutes), was based on Elmore Leonard's novel and directed by Martin Ritt ("The Front," "Norma Rae" and "Nuts").

The well-known "The Hustler" (1961, black and white, unrated, 135 minutes) stars Jackie Gleason and George C. Scott, as well as Newman, and was a prequel of sorts to Newman's recent success in "The Color of Money."

Orson Welles, Joanne Woodward, Angela Lansbury and Lee Remick join Newman in "The Long Hot Summer" (1958, color, unrated, 117 minutes), a tense and powerful story, also directed by Martin Ritt.

Finally, this Newman collection includes "Quintet" (1979, color, R, 118 minutes) and "Verdict" (1982, color, R, 128 minutes) in which Sidney Lumet directs Newman as an alcoholic attorney with his last chance to redeem himself.

Not quite movies, but close, are 11 episodes of Sherlock Holmes, available this Wednesday. All are not rated, in color, run just under an hour and cost pennies less than $25. The Baker Street Irregulars should have a ball.

STREET BEATS

Hannibals chart a musical course

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

College is a wonderful place. The perfect setting where there is always someone different, someone you've never quite met before or will ever again.

Be it that roommate who plays the oboe and reads Dostoevski, yet thinks Madonna is a musical genius. Or be it the classmate who wears Army fatiques, drinks beer out of a flower vase and can speak four languages fluently.

Ah, college. From the ivy-infested walls also comes some great music from people of different backgrounds. Such is the case with the Hannibals, a four-man outfit by way of East Lansing.

In this case, the cauldron of creativity was stirred by a chance meeting. Matt Aljian, Dave Christie and Chris Johnston — all originally from Birmingham — ran into Chris Geherin, a guitarist of exceptional skill from Ypsilanti.

At the time, the Birmingham trio were in a non-descript cover band Kool-Aid Smile. They played songs from the psychedelic '70s for appreciative Michigan State students, but soon grew tired of it.

Geherin turned the crew onto a new perspective, the alternative sounds of the '80s. He had the key.

"It was a real change for the three of us," said drummer Aljian, 22, who is a Birmingham Seaholm graduate. "We were doing something that was totally new to us. We had our doubts at first.

"We had gotten into the safe trap of being a cover band."

The Hannibals, a four-man outfit out of East Lansing, includes Matt Aljian, Dave Christie and Chris Johnston — all originally from Birmingham — and Chris Geherin of Ypsilanti.

UNLIKE SOME cover bands, the Hannibals had talent to write their own songs — and very fine songs at that. All it took was some prodding from Geherin.

The Hannibals' sound is a matrix of flowing progressive pop consciousness. R.E.M. might be used as a reference point only because the numbers are guitar-oriented. Without a doubt, the Hannibals are charting their own course musically.

Emphasis is placed on songs. The group once took three months off to write a batch.

Although creative, band members keep attitudes quite simple:

Johnston on singing — "I don't try to sound like anybody. I just sing what comes out."

Geherin on playing guitar — "My style is stripped down . . . I like to keep it to the basics."

People around East Lansing simply like the Hannibals. The band has become a hot commodity in 1½ years at clubs there, bouyed by radio support on MSU station WDMB-FM.

The Hannibals already have two tapes out, the first quickly sold out all 175 copies. Nearly 275 of 500 copies of the second tape, "Hammer of Rain," are already gone. A full-length compact disc or cassette is in the works for a fall release.

Of course, the next step is to go beyond East Lansing circles. But it's not easy.

"WE'RE HAVING a hard time getting booked because we're an East Lansing band," said Aljian, whose band does its own promotion and bookings. "They say, 'You have a following up there. What about down here?' It's a Catch 22."

Things are going well for the Hannibals. One might wonder how something as tenuous as three friends and an outsider could last without exchanging gunfire. There are no doubts in Hannibal territory.

The Hannibals will perform on Wednesday, March 28, at Rick's Cafe, 611 Church, Ann Arbor. For information, call 996-2747.

Phineas Gage has a chemistry with the crowd

By Jill Hamilton
special writer

There are two Phineas Gages that have become well-known.

The first Phineas Gage will be remembered in psychology textbooks for years to come. He was a young foreman on a work crew who had an accident in which a steel rod was embedded into his brain. Amazingly, he survived the accident but had a marked personality change. It was the first case of a well-documented frontal lobotomy.

The second Phineas Gage, less infamous than the first, is a band consisting of Sean Hickey on guitar, Dave Wallise on drums, Alex Lumelsky on guitar, Reed Schwallie on bass, Chris Farnum on vocals. They are, perhaps, one of the best bands playing around Detroit.

Even when Phineas Gage has a bad night, it's still a good night for the audience.

On this night at 3-D in Royal Oak, as the band waits to go on stage, they are a little nervous because there hasn't been a sound check. Their worry turns out to be prophetic.

Throughout their short set, the band is plagued with sound problems. Although the audience seems not to notice, the band is frustrated by the problems and ends their set after about six songs.

Phineas Gage consists of Sean Hickey on guitar, Dave Wallise on drums, Alex Lumelsky on guitar, Reed Schwallie on bass, Chris Farnum on vocals.

"THEY'RE USUALLY a lot more energetic and 'into it,'" whispers a girl in the audience when asked what she thought of the set.

"I come and see these guys all the time," a guy remarks. "They sound good to me."

The songs are tight and catchy, the playing style is impeccable and Chris Farnum's vocals are biting and expressive. These guys are talented — pretty amazing, considering that the band has only been together for little more than a year. Well, little more than a year as Phineas Gage, that is. Before that, three of the members played in the band Pray for Rain. The other two were in Common Chapter. In other words, these guys have more than 20 years of band experience between them.

Since their first gig at the Waiting Room Lounge in Hamtramck, Phineas has enjoyed a steady stream of local gigs. They count a performance at Saint Andrew's Hall as their favorite because, as Farnum puts it, "it's easier to play well when there's a lot of people. We got really into it."

It's true, a strange sort of chemistry exists between the band members and the audience during a Phineas performance. Each band member goads the other on to dance faster, play better and sing louder.

That gets the audience more excited which only serves to pump more energy back into the band. It's a cycle that leaves everyone happy, if not a little winded.

NOW PHINEAS plans to reap the benefits of their busy year. They have saved all the money they earned playing around town and will use it next month when they head to Ann Arbor's Schoolhouse studios to record a nine-song cassette.

They said the tape should be "pretty good" because the songs are all very different. They credit that to their different musical tastes. Hickey has training in classical and jazz music, while some of the others were weaned on rock'n'roll.

"It's not like we all listen to the Cure and only want to do Cure covers," Wallise said.

One musical point they do agree on — they all hate Paula Abdul. After a few mintues spent making fun of this MTV diva and silly pop music in general, Phineas Gage goes on to say that they've developed a taste for local music.

"As we get busier," Farnum said, "I find myself more interested in local bands."

"Crossed Wire . . . they're our heroes," Lumelsky said.

They also like other alternative local rocks like Ann B. Davis and Granfalloon, but add that local music is suffering because of 21 and over clubs and lack of radio support.

"I have to go to MTV to hear new music," Wallise said. "That's really sad."

The way Phineas Gage's career is going, they may one day find themselves making one of those "sad" videos for MTV.

REVIEWS

CAUTION HORSES — Cowboy Junkies

It's one of those days where you're so sure the whole world is out to stomp on your soul that you can't even get out of bed.

The phone rings, and you just let it, "'cause everybody knows that good news always sleeps till noon,'" as the Cowboy Junkies declare on their latest release, "The Caution Horses," (RCA) the follow-up to last year's critically canonized "The Trinity Session."

You follow the advice the band offers on the LP's opener, "Sun Comes Up, It's Tuesday Morning:" "There's something about an afternoon spent doing nothing/ Just listening to records and watch the sun falling." So you listen to "The Caution Horses" with the shades drawn, reclining like the lifeless, lonesome shell you are.

The somber songs hold you motionless, a 16-ton anchor on your heavy heart. Margo Timmins' sugary vocals hauntingly float atop a mix of accordions, mandolins and steel guitars that mesh in a musical Venetian gondola ride down the Mississippi.

You're transfixed as the Junkies affix their unique stamp to Neil Young's "Powerfinger." But what really gets to you is the emergence of Michael Timmins as a mystical and masterful lyricist.

Timmins penned seven of the album's 10 songs and co-wrote another with sister Margo, in whom he has the perfect mouthpiece for his tales of betrayal, break-up and gut-wrenching loneliness: "'Never thought a man could become so desperate/Never thought a life could lose so much hope," Margo moans in "Thirty Summers."

It's only a record, you tell yourself as your eyes well with mist during "Escape Is So Simple," a story of abandoned love: "Yeah, I remember when we said 'forever'/was the craziest word that we knew/But I think that I like it much better than I do 'goodbye.'"

The album closes with "You'll Be Loved Again," ending a desolate record with a trace of optimism, but it's no use. You can't get up. You hit the repeat button on the remote and prepare for another round of catharsis. Alone.

PORTENT HUE — Caterwaul

Probably one of the lamest, cliched, and certainly the most overused method of opening a record review is with a definition from Webster's dictionary. And, although some of us have sworn off using this particular opening, in this case, using a dictionary definition seems unavoidable.

You may have noticed that the name of this band is Caterwaul. Not very catchy, right? Some sort of reporter's sixth sense told us to look in the dictionary for some insight on why the group chose this particular name. Viola! Caterwaul is an actual word. It means "to make a discordant sound or shriek." Ah, it's all becoming clearer.

As it turns out, Caterwaul is a very appropriate name for the group. Lead singer and general focal point of the band, Betsy Martin, has an unusual voice/wail that could be most easily described as being similar to that of Siouxsie of Siouxsie and the Banshees.

Her appearance is a cross between the blond earth mother look and a heavy metal groupie who abuses black eyeliner. Her voice ranges from banshee-like screeching in "Alex's Aphrodisiac" to a sublime soprano in "Small Things in Heaven."

When Caterwaul wants to be discordant, as they are on approximately 80 percent of "Portent Hue," they succeed admirably. "Alex's Aphrodisciac" is filled to the brim with Mark Schafer's chaotic guitar in a "wall of sound" effect, while Martin experiments with her upper vocal range.

However, all is not chaos on "Portent Hue." Two songs on the album, "Small Things in Heaven" is a sparse acoustic number with Martin's gentile, ethereal vocals accompanied solely by a mandolin.

I.R.S. seems to be giving this band time to make its mark, as "Portent Hue" is their third release on the major label. "Portent Hue" is Caterwaul's follow-up album to their mildly-successful 1988 offering, "Pin & Web." For this release, they enlisted the help of producers David Ogilvie (Skinny Puppy) and Greg Reely (Sarah McLachlan). I.R.S. seems to believe in the band.

We'll see what happens.

VIOLET AND BLACK — Scott Merritt

"Violet and Black" is Scott Merritt's third album but is his first to be released in the U.S. Merritt's first two records — "Serious Interference" and "Gravity is Mutual" — were only distributed inside the boundaries of his native Canada, but allowed him, as a virtual unknown, to work with some influential artists.

He recorded "Serious Interference" at a studio close in Hamilton, Ontario, run by two brothers — Bob and Daniel Lanois. On "Gravity is Mutual," guest artists included Andrew Belew and avant-garde percussionist David Van Tiegham.

Merritt is a songwriter in the tradition of Bruce Springsteen, Robbie Robertson, and John Cougar, whoops, make that John Mellancamp. In other words, he writes good old American music. Strange, since Merritt is Canadian. He writes about the simple things in day-to-day life — his hometown of Brantford and the people who live there. Merritt lived in Brantford for his whole life and "Violet and Black" seems almost a tribute to the town. In a larger sense, Merritt's Brantford serves as a microcosm for the universal stories that we all know.

"Are You Sending," for example, is about the floods that plague Brantford in the spring. The song begins by describing how the flood affects one specific Brantford citizen with the words, "Oh, look a Francis standing in the rain/with that bird held in his hand."

The best songs on the album are the ones that kick off each side — "Burning Train" and "Radio Home." The poignant "Burning Tree" is a Springsteen-esque tale, even to the point of being sung to a girl named Mary.

"Radio Home" sounds a bit like XTC in that it is heavy on acoustic guitar and quirky rhythm. In a phone call for a departed friend to return, Merritt sings, "nicotine, caffeine, Novocaine/sometimes I love that chemical haze/And I'm waiting on you/ why am I waiting at all?"

"Violet and Black" is a fine debut. It's honest music — straight from the heartland. So what if this particular heartland is Canadian. Truth doesn't recognize national borders.

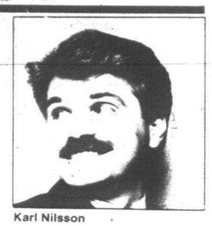
FEAR & LOAFING

Enough stuff



Karl Nilsson

The moon weighs 81 quintillion tons.

In case you skipped Mr. Wizard, a quintillion is a thousand quadrillions. And, as Wayne Newton's bookkeeper surely knows, it's written as a one followed by 18 zeros.

In other words, the cold-hearted orb weighs about half as much as the piles of useless junk stacked inside my house.

About this time every spring, I get the powerful urge to shovel out my stockpile of unused items and get organized. But every year, I trip over the same old boxes, get discouraged and fall asleep on a heap of magazines.

What causes an ordinary-looking non-hobo to become obsessed with saving 8-track tapes, old truck tires and slivers of soap?

Anthropologists tell us every human in every culture is born with two instinctive, primal fears — the fear of falling and the fear of finding an eyelash in his cornflakes.

However, a compulsive saver is driven by a third terror — the dread that some day, somewhere, he will need something and won't have it because (A) his spouse, (B) the zoning board or (C) the health department made him throw it out.

THIS FEAR has inspired me to horde up hundreds of souvenir napkins, dried-up ballpoint pens and socks without partners. With no professional assistance, I have developed my own unique decor, best described as early "Sanford & Son."

Take the kitchen. My culinary tastes are simple. A can opener, a toaster oven and running water are about all the gadgets I can handle without hurting myself. But for some reason, I've accumulated 31,000 small electric appliances, including a "Hot-Dogger," "Salad Shooter," air popper," egg pocher, ice crusher, deep fryer and buffalo chipper.

Eventually, broken-but-repairable objects displaced every molecule of air in the basement, attic and garage. Now, my clothes are hanging from tree limbs. Forced out of the nursery by 30 years of National Geographics, the kids have burrowed under the lawn for shelter.

As far as I can remember, I've only been free from clutter twice in my adult life.

The first time was back in the turbulant early '70s when I traded the Plastic Decadence of Suburbia for the Untainted Urban Experience. Between classes at Wayne State, I dragged my stereo and lava light off campus to join the nouveau poor's protest against consumerism. I assumed the street-people around my Cass Corridor tenament would feel sympatico with their new brother in the struggle against capitalist oppression.

OF COURSE, my apartment was immediately ransacked. The unenlightened thieves grabbed everything of value, including my power to people, share the riches literature rack.

In reaction to the impromptu redistribution of wealth, I bought the biggest Doberman in AKC history. Unfortunately, the dog had read Thoreau. To curb my materialistic tendencies, he would systematically chew and destroy everything that wasn't nailed to the ceiling.

My second chance at Walden Pond came during my mandatory "Hitchhiking Across Europe Experience." For the Woodstock generation, that meant flying Icelandic Airlines and landing with no credit cards, no tour guides and no reservations. Just a small knapsack and a copy of "Europe on 50 Cents a Day."

For one glorious summer, I had nothing to insure, nothing to lock up and basically nothing to eat.

When money ran out, I came back. Like Jimmy Stewart in "It's a Wonderful Life," I promised myself I would work just long enough to bankroll a trip around the world.

Unfortunately, instead of saving money, I started saving things. Thousands of things. Things like dead batteries, body shirts and little packets of horsey sauce from Arby's.

Ever since then, I've had to stay home and protect my stuff from becoming sombodyelse's stuff.

The moral is this: Next time somebody promises you the moon, remember how heavy it is, how tough it would be to cart around and how crowded your closets are.

STREET SENSE

Try changing your outlook on life

Dear Barbara,

I work with my parents and brothers in a family-owned business. It is a successful manufacturing company and I am doing well for my age.

I have always been considered the "flighty" one in the family. I have a learning disability and never did as well as the rest of my family in school. I did manage to go to college although not one that they approved of.

I feel that I am working as hard as any of them now, but they don't seem to think so and do not treat me with the respect with which they treat each other. This is depressing for me. I have thought of moving away, but this is an excellent business in which I will one day share ownership.

I don't have the kind of family that I could bring this up with. They would construe my behavior as "whiny." I really feel stuck. Can you help?

A Woman Eager to be Respected

Dear Eager to be Respected,

I am having difficulty answering your letter in a way that you won't take harshly. As you read this, you will understand why I have this problem.

I don't know where the truth lies. I don't know if you are working as hard as any of them or if they see the same style that you showed as a child.

Can I sidestep this dilemma by saying that your sense of well being should be based on how well you know you are doing not on how you think they are treating you. The yardstick that you should be using is whether you are continuing to grow and develop and become more adequate.

If you had this inner feeling of well-being, if you were at one with yourself, you wouldn't be depressed. If you can't move away because one day you will share ownership in an excellent business, try changing your attitude. Since you were so successful, despite your learning disability, in graduating from college, you may be equally successful in changing your outlook toward life.

The Striders get the 'Motor City' up and running strenuous exercise was knitting with a heavyweight yarn. Then, as a part of a cancer recovery program at Beaumont Hospital, she agreed to walk regularly. Beaumont wanted to know if expending energy would increase energy in recovering cancer patients.

"I started walking two miles a day," said Brockelhurst. "And I felt better almost at once. My husband, Jim is a walker, too, and we attend almost all of the Striders' walking events.

"If there's no provision for walking, we go as volunteers to help."

Linda and Jack Levely are a mixed marriage — he runs and she walks.

"I got up to 10-K, but my body just wasn't built for running," Linda said. "I decided that walking was my sport. I used to be just exhausted when I got home from teaching school. Now, after I watch my soaps, I go for a long walk.

"Not only is the walk invigorating, I'm much healthier than I used to be."

'I started walking two miles a day. And I felt better almost at once.'
— Rosemer, Brockelhurst

Jack joined the Striders in 1980, after running casually for fitness for several years. He ran his first marathon in 1981 in 3½ hours.

"I sometimes run 80-90 miles a week," he said. "I run every day, rain or shine. I just feel better; I have a better attitude toward life, and I'm a lot healthier."

"I HAD ALWAYS been active in some kind of sport," said dedicated marathon man Ric Filarmo. "But when I started to run, it was like any other kind of addiction. I just couldn't get enough."

Filarmo's best marathon is 2½ hours and his idea of a good time is to run from Birmingham to Oakland University and back — 20 miles!

"No other sport can match the feeling of general well-being that you get from running," said Filarmo, who runs six miles every day and who holds the distinction of being the only Strider ever to break a rib while running.

It was during the 1989 Jingle Bell race. The pavement was icy and Filarmo stepped on a jingle bell dropped by another Strider. Down he went, his elbow digging into his ribs. Did he drop out of the race? No! Did he run the Reuther with a broken rib? What do you think?

Not everybody is enamored of strenuous exercise or its side effects. Overheard in the crowd at the St. Patrick's Day race: "He used to be a weight lifter. He had the nicest body. Then he took up running and turned into a little twerp."

A streetlight was all Shannon Bedford needed to do her stretches before the race.

The top 10 in the '90s

Wondering what will be "in" in the 1990s?

Here's 10 predictions from Alan Teitel, the trendologist with his finger on the pulse of what's new and now.

(1) World War II nostalgia. The 50th anniversary of the Big One brings back into fashion the music and styles of the 1940s.

Women will wear their hair longer and in "page boys." Short coats, the "boxy" look, the military and nautical looks in clothing are the rage, as are khaki, navy, black and bright colors.

(2) Pearl jewelry. The '90s brings in pearl chockers, ropes, rings and pins in both cultured and faux jewelry.

(3) Better quality goods. Manufacturers across the spectrum are working on improving product lines with better workmanship and high quality materials appearing soon on store shelves.

(4) Ethnic look. Turn on the television and you'll see Africa, Central America and the Middle East dominate the news.

At the stores, the best of Third World cultures spark an uprising in fashion, wielding great influence in jewelry and clothing.

(5) "Thin is in." Diets, exercise and health continue to set the pace for those on the fashion fast track. Better start conditioning yourself now for another lean and mean decade.

(6) Symphonic music. European classical music is reborn in the '90s. A new generation of young people discovers a new favorite.

(7) Ultra-bright colors. Neon and fluorescent hues glow in clothing, backpacks, bicycle bags, waist bags, running shoes, bag wear, hair accessories and T-shirts.

(8) Bright makeup. Women create a big splash in the new decade with reds, oranges, greens and yellows. Look for Crayola and Day-Glo colors on the women in your life.

(9) Laser-cut stones. Termolines, topaz and amethysts laser cut and set in 14 karats are the forward look in high technology for the '90s. Look for these stones in pins, necklaces, earrings and especially rings.

(10) Water babies. America has a love affair with anything nautical. Swimming is the sport of the '90s. Seafood replaces ethnic food as the hot new category in specialty restaurants.

Boating and fishing are the new "in" pastimes and concern about fresh water will be our most urgent environmental priority.

John Bizarre: Not so bizarre comedy style

By Susan Steinmueller
staff writer

Before finding his niche as a stand-up comedian, John Bizarre had jobs in which he was like a round peg in a square hole.

While living in New York, the 28-year-old Los Angeles comic was a disc jockey at an adult contemporary music station playing the songs of Barbara Streisand and Neil Diamond.

"I would tell jokes and they didn't fit in with the format and I lost my job," he said.

Another job was at a roller skating rink.

"That was harder work. You need platform shoes for that," he said.

None of these or many other jobs seemed to gel — "I was the poorest employee. I showed up late if I did show up. I was just the worst."

Then, in 1982, he did a stand-up comedy gig.

"I did it for lack of anything else to do. I used some of the material I used to do on the radio," he said.

The gig went well, and the rest is history. Bizarre had finally found a job that fit. He also found a job he loves.

"I LOVE the lifestyle — it's the freest lifestyle," Bizarre said. "I think it's great."

Bizarre does not even mind the traveling.

"I like hotel rooms. I like to meet people. I like to travel. I like the business, and I like comedians," he said. "I like the Sesame Snack sticks from Pepperidge Farm."

His playful comedy brings as much fun as his name implies. Bizarre describes his act as "very fast-paced. I have a lot of energy on stage. I move around the stage a lot."

A gigantic boom-box radio is one of his props, contributing to his act also being "loud and raucous." Bizarre keeps away from too much offensive language and humor.

"That's too easy," he said. "I really do a pretty clean show. My material comes from things that irritate me."

Topics run the gamut. His standard for whether or not to use the material is whether it makes him laugh.

"If I think it's funny, then I can sell it to the audience."

Bizarre grew up as an "army brat." He was born in Japan and lived in Portugal and "most of the northeast United States." When he was 18, his family moved to New York, where he made his home for the next 10 years.

Six months ago, he moved to Los Angeles and things have been going well for him there.

HE HAS appeared twice on "Comic Strip Live," and just finished a Showtime Comedy Club Network show. Next week he will be filming a segment for an MTV comedy show.

"It's helped a lot living out here, because all the television is here," he said. "Television and movies — that's really where I want to go."

His list of television credits also includes appearances on "Stand Up HBO Short Take," "Bill Boggs' "Comedy Tonight" and Fox Network's "Comedy Express."

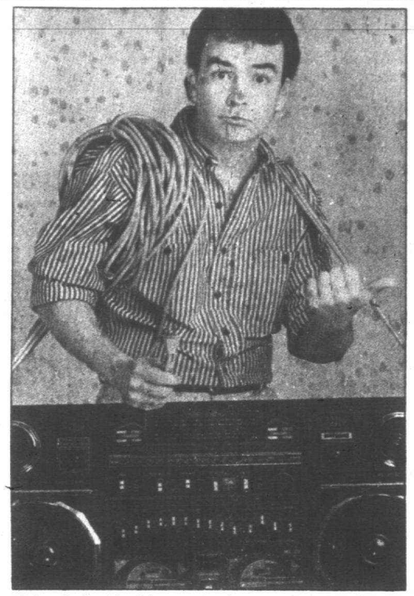
Bizarre also showcased at the 1988 and 1989 American Comedy Convention, at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas. He has opened for the Charlie Daniels Band, Robert Palmer, Marc "Skippy" Price and Greg Allman.

He is a frequent performer at colleges, and recently appeared at Kalamazoo College. He has showcased three times for the National Association of Campus Activities.

His catchy name doesn't hurt when it comes to his career. It dates back to his job as a D.J., and it's one he decided to keep.

Other things you need to know about Bizarre — his four heroes are Daffy Duck, Bill Murray, David Letterman and Groucho Marx.

And, his love of Sesame Sticks — "I can't really emphasize enough how much I like Sesame Snack sticks."



Before finding his niche as a stand-up comedian, John Bizarre worked at such jobs as a disc jockey at an adult contemporary music station and at a roller skating rink.

John Bizarre will headline Wednesday through Saturday, March 28-31, at Joey's Comedy Club and Sports Emporium, 15246 Southfield. Allen Park Show times are 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday and 8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday. For more information call 382-7041.

We Need Volunteers Who Love Happy Campers!

Sun Deer® campers are happy campers and it's no wonder because most severely asthmatic kids are forced to spend their summers indoors. At Camp Sun Deer® asthmatic kids ages 9-12 participate in a variety of outdoor activities, but they can't do it without your help. The limitations and doubts they face can be diminished by a volunteer who cares. Your participation at Camp Sun Deer® can make all the difference in an asthmatic child's summer.

KALAMAZOO

There's plenty to see and do

By William Coutant
staff writer

Kalamazoo is much more than a train stop with a funny name.

Unlike "the freckled face kid" in the song "I got a gal in Kalamazoo" made famous by Glenn Miller, this city of about 80,000 in southwest Michigan is all grown up. And it has something for just about everyone.

On I-94, halfway between Detroit and Chicago, Kalamazoo boasts not only an industrial and commercial base, but the amenities to go along with a much larger city.

The Amtrak train station is only two blocks from the city's downtown shopping district.

Kalamazoo's downtown mall, the first such mall in the country, features a luxury hotel complex with indoor shops and restaurants, Gilmore's and Jacobson's stores, cafes and smaller specialty shops.

For the kids, Kalamazoo has a museum with special traveling displays; the Kalamazoo Air Zoo, an aircraft museum near the city's airport featuring vintage airplanes that still fly; an antique auto museum that is open from May to October; a nature center with a working farm; a bird sanctuary with resident wild turkeys; and a hatchery with several fish on display in their natural environment.

The Kalamazoo area is famous for producing some of Michigan's best wine. Two area vintners, St. Julian and Warner Viniards in nearby Paw Paw, offer tours and free samples.

A newer venture that is catching on is the Kalamazoo Brewing Company, which offers tours and tasting in its cozy downtown brewery.

VISITORS TO Kalamazoo will find a city well endowed in the arts.

Kalamzaoo has a well-established community theater company that produces plays, musicals and other performances throughout the year.

There is also a symphony, an art museum and a ballet company.

WITH FOUR colleges and a population with a taste for everything from country music to professional hockey, Kalamazoo knows how to entertain.

Wings Stadium is home to the Kalamazoo Wings Hockey Club, a member of the International Hockey League. It also hosts everything from rock concerts to swap meets.

Downtown nighclubs include Chaps on Main, which features live jazz, blues and comedy. Club Soda, another downtown establishment, brings in bands playing everything from reggae to rock.

Several Kalamazoo nightclubs play to students from Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo College, Nazareth College and Kalamazoo Valley Community College, leaving no one's musical taste, or urge to dance, unsatisfied.

IF ALL this works up your appetite, Kalamazoo has the variety of restaurants at a variety of prices.

You may recognize many of them: The Olive Garden. Mr. Steak and the national fast food chains. But Kalamazoo offers some unusual dining establishments.

Le Metropol, atop the Kalamazoo Center, specializes in French cuisine. The Final Curtain, in the East Town Mall, features full-length films while you dine.

Patrons of The Black Swann Inn enjoy elegant dining while viewing imported Australian black swan on a lake tucked away in the beautiful Parkview Hills subdivision.

SPEAKING OF imports and ambiance, Kalamazoo also has its share of unusual establishments, geared for a special clientele.

The Pilsen Klub, in the basement of Waldo's on Western's campus serves up 55 imported beers and a quiet, cozy and comfortable atmosphere.

Patrons can enjoy their favorite imported brew and conversation before the bar's fireplace.

AND IF you plan to stay overnight or for the weekend, Kalamazoo has a place.

Hotels include Holiday, Ramada, Red Roof and the Kalamazoo Center inns.

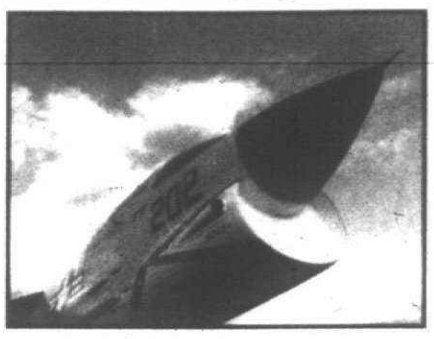
For something different, Kalamazoo also offers bed and breakfast inns.

One B & B, the Stuart Avenue Inn, is in one the city's historic areas, just west of the city's downtown.

Whether you spend a day or a weekend, Kalamazoo will prove a lot more than a whistle stop.

Air Zoo is what's up

By William Coutant
staff writer



JIM JADGFELD/staff photographer

A U.S. Navy Crusader jet stands guard outside the Kalamazoo Aviation History Museum. This model doesn't actually fly, but most of the museum's vintage planes take turns flying during the warmer months, much to the delight of visitors to this popular attraction.

If you'd like to travel, but you're bringing the kids and you're looking for something they'll like, Kalamazoo is the place.

The Kalamazoo Air Zoo, near the airport south of town, has an impressive menagerie of aircraft.

The collection includes World War II combat planes and the DC-3, the aircraft many still remember as the first passenger plane on which they flew.

The air museum "pieces" all have another unusual feature, said museum volunteer Fred Russell.

"They all fly," he said. "Weather permitting, in the summer they fly a different one every day."

The 2 p.m. flights are a delight to the museum's visitors, who can enjoy the show from the front of the museum, which is next to the international airport, Russell said.

The "Zoo" is named for its collection of flying felines: Wildcats, Bearcats, Hellcats and Tigercats.

KALAMAZOO ALSO shares in the state's automotive history.

The distinctive Yellow Cabs were made in Kalamazoo. The plant now makes parts for General Motors.

But during the warmer months, the Gilmore Classic Car Club Museum, 15 miles north of Kalamazoo, shows off its collection of 120 antique cars on afternoons.

Kalamazoo's museum, in the library building downtown, features traveling exhibits, such as realistic dinosaurs that move, and the historic collection "The Treasure Chest of Toys."

It features permanent attractions as well, like an Eqyptian tomb, an Invention Center and a planetarium.

VISITORS TO the 600-acre Kalamazoo Nature Center can enjoy 11 trails that wind through meadows and woodlands, as well as an interpretive center, a restored homestead and a working farm.

The Kellogg Bird Sanctuary allows walks on trails among the wild turkeys and peafowl that life there. The sanctuary's Wintergreen Lake is host to thousands of migrating Canada goose each fall.

The Michigan Fisheries Interpretive Center, 6½ miles west of the city, features several species of fish in their natural environment.

Who knows? Parents might find they enjoy the sights more than the kids do.

The decor is authentic, functional and comfortable at the Stuart Avenue Bed and Breakfast.

Eat, sleep, be cheery

By William Coutant
staff writer

Kalamazoo has its share of hotels and motels, from the luxurious Kalamazoo Center Inn to Holiday, Ramada and Sheraton Inns and less expensive Red Roof and Knight's Inn.

But for those looking for something different, Stuart Avenue Inns may be the answer.

"We have two basic types of clientele," said innkeeper Bill Casteel. "We have a lot of businessmen during the week and a different kind of weekend guest."

Those weekend guests, who could be parents of graduating college seniors or "romantic couples — he's from Detroit, she's from Chicago" — enjoy the trappings and amenities of restored late 19th century houses once owned by Kalamazoo's most wealthy and influential families.

All five houses are decorated for the period, and supper, as well as breakfast, can be part of the stay.

IF YOU'D RATHER dine at a restaurant during your stay, there are plenty from which to choose, from familiar chains, like Olive Garden, to the less familiar and distinctive restaurants.

Chardonay's features a large wine selection. Le Metropol, in the Kalamazoo Center complex, specializes in French cuisine.

The Final Curtain shows full-length films while customers enjoy a drink or dinner. Not surprisingly, it's also next door to a theater complex in the East Town Mall.

The Black Swann, named for the beautiful imported birds native to Western Australia, features entrees from Chateaubriand to Michigan Trout, table-side food preparation, a beautiful open dining room with a fireplace, and a spectacular view of a lake graced with waterfowl, including the swans.

AFTER DINNER, Kalamazoo offers a wide variety of entertainment, including one bar geared for less volume — and less noise.

The Pilsen Klub, on the campus of Western Michigan University, serves 55 varieties of imported beer, some specialty drinks and even a special Latvian dinner.

But the quiet, cozy bar offers patrons a good place for some relaxing conversation.

Here you can watch pour nice Hackerpschorr Weiss beer, add a slice of lemon and enjoy. Be careful not to pour to fast, this beer has body that won't quit.

Some of the bar's patrons come from the "spillover" of large "college night" crowds from other bars, said bartender Mark Hamady.

"They come in here and it's quiet, Hamady said. "They really like that. It's a nice change."

K'zoo: It has its own brew

By William Coutant
staff writer

"Industrial strength," that's what Larry Bell called the kind of beer you usually buy in a store.

So the Kalamazoo man decided to brew his own beer without the pasteurizing and filtering that bring a brew to "an inch of its life."

Bell found he could make good beer with a good head without all the processes that sap beer and ale of their body and flavor.

His beer was so well-liked, and his operation became so large, that he decided to make it pay.

"I OUTGREW a home-brewing hobby," Bell said.

Now, after almost five years in the business, the only trouble Bell has is making enough beer.

Bell managed to convince a local bank to loan him $7,000 to start his business, but it wasn't easy.

"Trying to convince a bank to loan you money to start a brewery? Most of 'em wouldn't even talk to me."

But they're talking to him now. The brewery, which sells much of its beer and ale in southeastern Michigan, including Troy, Ann Arbor, Southfield and Birmingham, is negotiating for a $30,000 loan to increase its capacity and sell in northern Indiana and southern Wisconsin as well as other parts of Michigan.

THE OPERATION is still small, using 20-year-old school soup cookers and beer cartons that advertise more familiar brands.

Still, customers are loyal to the brews, which come in a variety of styles, from dark ale to pale beer.

"I love it," said Dan Miller, a Dearborn Heights native who lives in Kalamazoo and no longer drinks his better-known namesake. "I buy it by the gallon, so it's not much more expensive than a regular 12-pack."

But for some, there's the rub. The beer retails for from $10 or more for a six-pack. Bell said the price is relative when it comes to enjoying his beer.

"IF YOU'RE eating some spicy food, you really want a beer that will stand up to it, not something you drink like water," Bell said.

The brewery has made 11 different types of beer or ale since its opening. Some, such as Bell's Best Brown Ale, are standbys, while others, like Two Hearted Ale have had swings in popularity.

JIM JADGFELD/staff photographer

Brewmaster Larry Bell has found a market for the beer and ale made at his small Kalamazoo brewery. Bell has enjoyed enough success in his nearly five years in the business that he expects to expand his operation and sell his products in northern Indiana and southern Wisconsin.

"I don't know," Bell said with a laugh. "What's our flavor of the month?"

BELL'S BREWS also have distinctive labels, most often made from drawings of local "characters."

Bell said his brewing process and aging time vary depending on the type of brew. He also does some experimental brewing for a local spice company.

A city of arts in all seasons

By William Coutant
staff writer

Don't let Kalamazoo's size fool you.

Thanks to four colleges and a large group of professionals willing to support the arts, this city of some 80,000 can hold its own with bigger towns in the areas of theater, dance, music and art.

Kalamazoo's Civic Theater is enjoying its 61st season, while the New Vic in Kalamazoo and The Barn Theater in nearby Galesburg both offer professional productions.

Western Michigan University also hosts professional productions, including off-Broadway musicals, at Miller Auditorium on campus.

THE Kalamazoo Symphony, under the direction of Yoshimi Takeda, a pupil of the late Cleveland Symphony conductor George Szell, provides a forum for some of the world's finest visiting classical performers.

This year violinist Nadja Salerno-Sonnenberg and conductor Yehudi Menuhin are among the featured guest performers.

In the warmer months, the symphony performs outdoors in its free series of Symphonies in the Park.

THE Kalamazoo Institute of Arts is the hub of a thriving regional art community.

The institute, in the city's downtown, has hosted collections of artists from Pablo Picasso to Andy Warhol.

Permanent collections include works by Alexander Calder and Charles Birchfield, along with pieces in a variety of media by regional artists.

The institute tries to bring art in its many forms to a wide audience, curator Helen Sheridan said.

A current exhibit features works of artists in two media. This September, the works of Chicago artist John Himmelfarb will be shown in a special exhibit.

Kalamazoo also has a ballet company celebrating its 21st season.

Update on mail campaign

Dear Readers: Last year I started my Less is Better campaign to see if 3rd class "junk" mail could be decreased. After receiving many suggestions, I promised to follow up after new rate changes were proposed.

The Postal Service has now petitioned the Postal Rate Commission to increase all postal rates, with proposals for a 30-cent first-class rate and 18.5 cents for regualr third-class bulk mailing. Various discounts for items such as presorted regular saturation mail could dip the cost as low as 11.3 cents and non-profit down to as little as 7 cents per item.

After studying the situation in depth, I find that junk mail is only the tip of the iceberg of postal problems. The Postal Service has invested millions of dollars in automated equipment in recent years but failed to properly anticipate the cost of putting it into use. As a result, the post office will face a $7.5 billion deficit without the proposed increase. The sad fact is that the post office is in desperate need of the largest volumes of mail it can get in order to provide revenues to pay for its huge investments.

When I told the Secretary of the Board of Governors of the Postal Service that I was considering a national letter writing campaign last year, he told me, "Good! Send us all the letters you can get. We'll make 5 cents on every letter, so I hope we get a million letters! Boy, will we make money on that!" In light of our nation's waste disposal problems, I find that attitude disheartening.

WHEN THE LAST rate increase went into effect, third-class bulk mail volumes did decrease slightly and the proposed increases should lighten the load of targeted bulk mail considerably more. Despite popular opinion, first class mail does not subsidize third-class costs. In fact, it is estimated that if there was only first-class mail, stamps would cost about 50 cents.

My present concern is about saturation mail (items delivered to every address within a given area) which is given rock bottom rates because it is presorted and easy to deliver. Because it will continue to be so inexpensive, I fear we will see even more saturation mail being dumped on every address on carrier routes and fewer carefully targeted items. This could result in even greater volumes of less interesting mail, not only for people who don't want it, but also to be handled in our already burgeoning disposal systems.

The managment of the U.S Postal Service is a monumental problem. One knowledgeable Washington expert told me that the U.S. Postal Service is very poorly managed and that neither Congress, the courts "nor even Ralph Nader" seem to know how to correct its difficulties.

If you are concerned about the low cost of saturation mail and its effects on our environment, you can write to George W. Haley, Chairman, Postal Rate Commission, 1333 "H" St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20268. As promised, I am forwarding to him all the letters I received last year supporting this campaign. My thanks to all who wrote.

Birdhouse contest winners announced

Each student built a birdhouse designed for a specific species of bird. There were nine categories . . . following DNR plans.

OVER 100 seventh and eighth grade students in Wayne and Oakland County schools participated in the "Best Birdhouse Builder Contest" held at the International Builders Home Flower Furniture Show which just concluded an attendance-setting week in Detroit's Cobo Center.

The contest, a first and now to be an annual event, was sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, and the Department of Natural Resources.

Seventy-two birdhouses submitted by 108 seventh and eigth graders — as individuals or in teams of two — were on display during the builders show.

In all, there were 26 winning houses constructed by 35 contestants. Top honors went to:

SEVENTH GRADE: Branden Bogard, West Middle School, Plymouth, a bluebird house, first place; Damien Fron, St. Valentine Catholic School, Redford, wren house, second place; Brigette Ohlrich, Our Shepherd Lutheran School, Birmingham, bluebird house, third.

EIGHTH GRADE: Amy Watroba, St. Valentine Catholic School, Redford, wren house, first; Patrick Horn, Curt Smart, Hilbert Junior High, Redford, flycatcher, second; Carrie Burrows, Susan Williams, Hilbert Junior High School, robin house, third.

Honorable mentions in the seventh-grade division went to: John Doonan, St. Valentine, Redford, wren; Mike Danic, St. Valentine, Redford, wren; Chethan Devireddy, Detroit Country Day, Birmingham, wood duck; Jim Guyette, Hilbert Junior High, Redford sparrow/flycatcher; Chris Prysok, St. Valentine, Redford, wren; Christine Greene, Our Shepherd Lutheran, Birminghan, robin; Jason Kreltyke, St. Valentine, Redford, wren; Angela Kovtun, Our Shepherd Lutheran,Birmingham, bluebird; Terrence Chan, Detroit Country Day, Birmingham, wren; Sarah Raymond, Detroit Country Day, Birmingham, bat.

In the eighth-grade category, honorable mentions went to: Dennis Rossi, Paul Kouba, Hilbert Junior High, Redford, wren; Andy Artero, Mike Yarbrough, Hilbert Junior High, Redford, bluebird; Melissa Dutton, Dawn O'Connor, Hilbert Junior High, Redford, robin; Curt Smart, Brian Bowman, Hilbert Junior High, Redford, robin; Eric Bowman, Nate Norton, Hilbert Junior High School, wren; Len Miles, Our Lady of Refuge, Orchard Lake, bat; Randy Skutnick, Hilbert Junior High, Redford, wren; Mike Cebalt, Mike Styles, Hilbert Junior High School, wren; Joe Helm, Greg Hallman, Hilbert Junior School, Redford, wren; Tom Crowley, Hilbert Junior High, Redfo.d, bluebird.

Judges were Tim Nowicki, Detroit Audubon Society, Royal Oak; Jim and Evelyn Bonadeo, Bonadeo Builders, Livonia; Randy Raymond, Department of Natural Resources, NonGame Wildlife Fund, Lansing; Corinne Abatt, Oakland County creative living editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Birdhouses were designed for a specific species of bird. The nine categories were: purple martin, house wren, bluebird, barred owl, robin, wood duck, great crested flycatcher, American kestrel and the little brown bat. Each participant followed plans from the book "Woodworking for Wildlife," which describes the habitat needs of each species written by the DNR.

Participating schools included: St. Valentine, Redford; West Middle School, Plymouth; Hilbert Junior High School, Redford; Lowell Junior High School, Westland; West Maple Middle School, Birmingham; Detroit Country Day, Birmingham; Novi Middle School, Novi' Our Shepherd Lutheran School, Birmingham; Our Lady of Refuge, Orchard Lake.

First-place winners will receive a Yamaha electronic keyboard, the two second-place winners will receive Roller Hockey Blade skates; and the two third-place winners will each receive a Nintendo Game Boy.

Twenty honorable mention winners will receive a Sony radio headphone set. All students whose birdhouses were displayed at the builders show will receive a $35 gift certificate from Harmony House, a hard-bound book, "The Birds Around Us," and a certificate of achievement from the O&E.

Teachers of first, second and third place winners will receive a $200 gift certificate designated for the school program of their choice.

NO RENT UNTIL MAY 1
The Crossings At Canton.
Apartment living just got better.
We're making The Crossings a better place to live and a better value. You'll feel it in the new hallways and newly refurbished clubhouse. You'll see it in the plush landscaping when you enter the grounds. And that's just the beginning. It's the new look and feel of The Crossings at Canton—and it's for you.
The Crossings at Canton offers 19 different floorplans with 1 to 4 bedrooms. And whether you choose a 2-level townhome or a luxury apartment, the renewed beauty of this charming rental community shines through in every one—the result of our recent "Capital Improvements & Upgrading" program. These apartments and townhomes are the largest in the area, yet are still incredibly affordable.
Discover these features at The Crossings at Canton:
• Dens & Fireplaces
• Fully-appliianced Kitchens
• Patios or Balconies
• Central Air Conditioning
• A Clubhouse with sauna, indoor pool, exercise room, a new party room, and more!

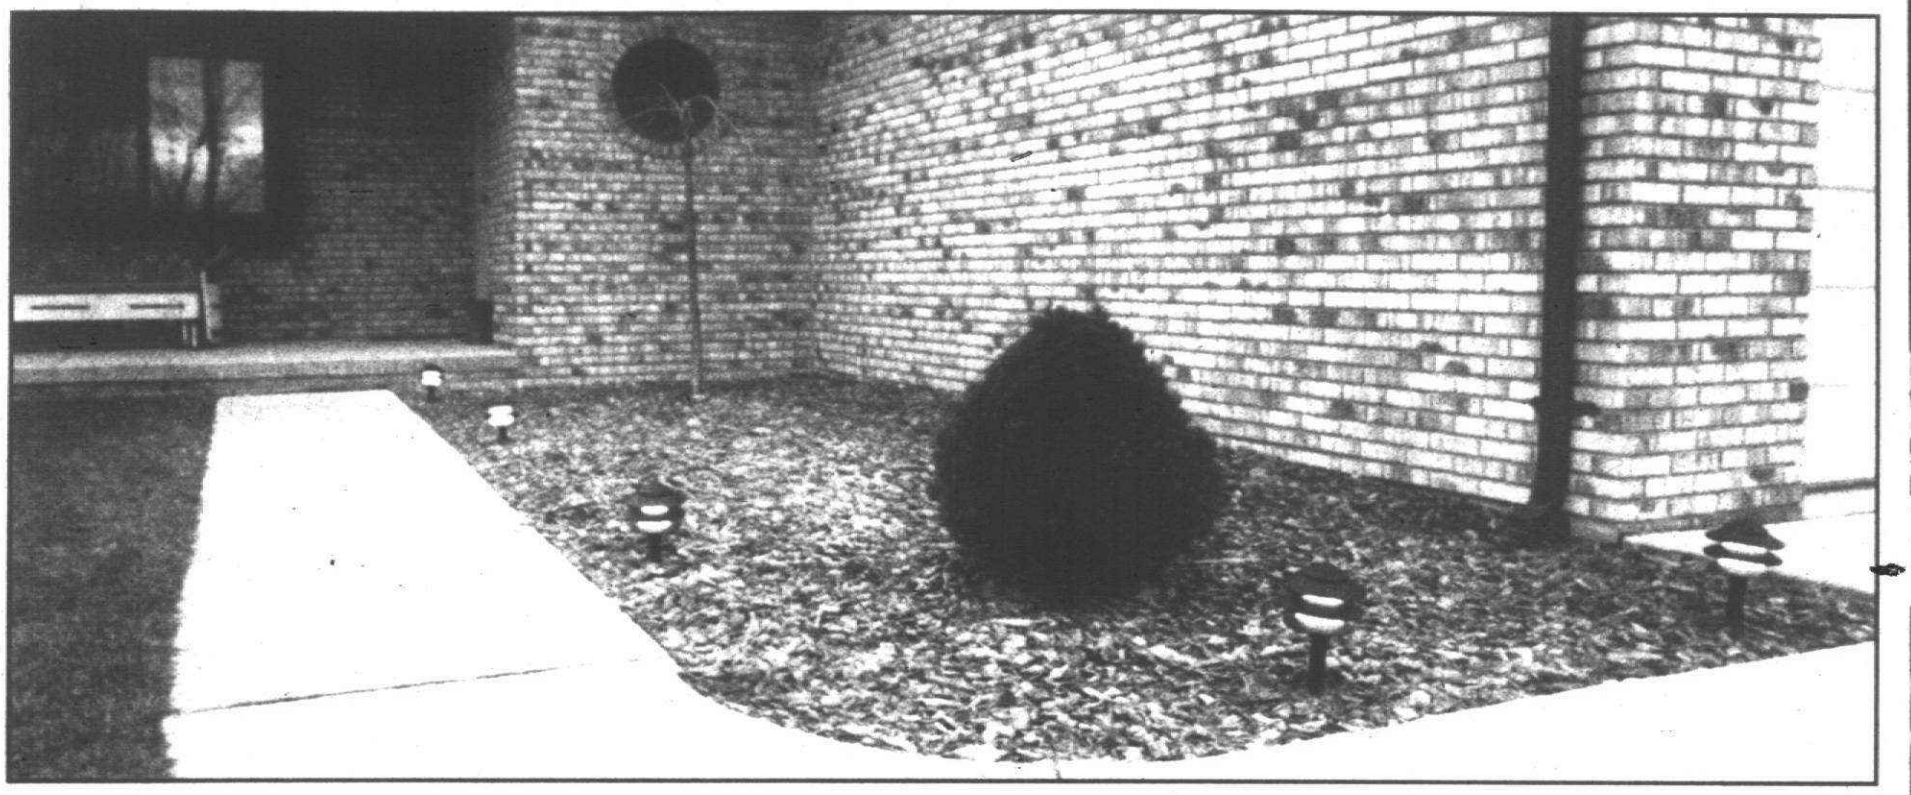
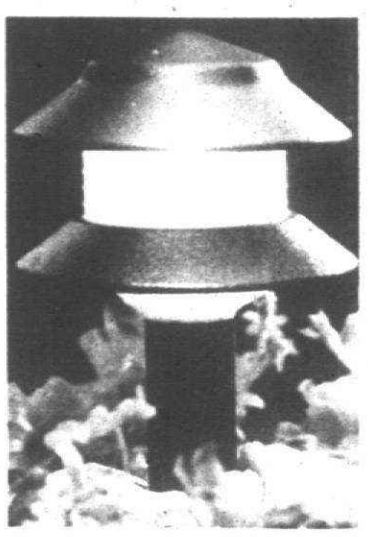
Low voltage lamps shed new light on yards

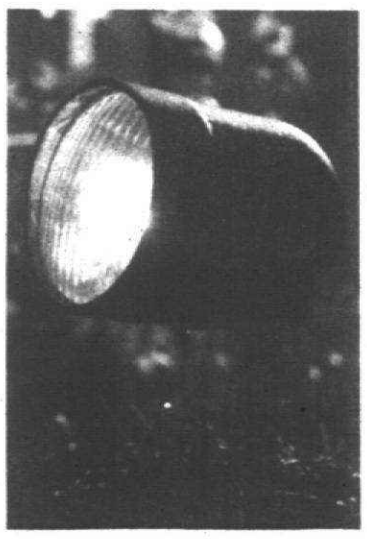


GUY WARREN/staff photographer

The front walkway of Jim and Sylvia Skelton's Westland home is illuminated by low-voltage lighting. The outdoor lighting is becoming quite popular, though some homeowners use it for decoration while others use it for security.



Tier lights are one of the most popular forms of low-voltage lighting designs.



The floodlight design provides brightness to highlight shrubs, trees and fences.

Solar-powered lights are another option that requires no wiring.

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Look for low voltage outdoor lighting systems to start sprouting in neighborhoods as the temperature rises, days lengthen and we spend more time outside working and playing.

Low-voltage lights, fixtures 12 to 18 inches above ground level, are powered by a transformer plugged into a standard wall outlet. It can be activated by switch, timer or photoelectric cell.

Fairly inexpensive, a set of 10 plastic lamps with 100 feet of cable and a transformer with a timer can be purchased for $80.

They have both a decorative and safety function.

Jim and Sylvia Skelton recently built a house in Westland. Sylvia was immediately attracted to low voltage outdoor lighting after getting a look at the system of her mother-in-law's neighbor.

"I WANTED it for decoration and when I saw how dark it (sidewalk) was, I wanted it for safety, too," she said. "I think they're very attractive."

The Skeltons, still landscaping, have positioned lights to accentuate several trees and plan to add more along a pond and stream in their yard.

William and Louise Scherer of Redford, owners of an older house on a corner lot, were concerned about safety.

"It's a dark corner," William said. "It (system) lights the sidewalk when you walk around. My porch is built so someone could hide underneath, so we put a light under there."

Different kinds of fixtures throw different patterns of light. One manufacturer, Intermatic, offers a Malibu line that includes tier light, floodlight, mushroom light, globe light and well light.

A TYPICAL lamp is one-sixth to one-quarter as bright as a 75-watt light, Intermatic reports.

It costs $15 to $25 per year for electricity to operate a typical strand of four low voltage fixtures, said Joan Bradley, a lighting specialist for Detroit Edison.

Another big attraction of low voltage lighting is the ease of installation.

"You don't need a permit. You or I could install it comfortably," Bradley said.

Most people get a transformer with a timer, said Phil Kinzer, marketing manager for Intermatic. "It's straightforward, easy to do. It doesn't leave lights on all night," he said.

Other buyers prefer a power source with an on-off switch right on the transformer. Others like a photocell.

Still others have more sophisticated hook-ups and tap into indoor switches that also may be connected to regular outdoor spotlights.

UPWARDS OF 70 percent of all sales are to individuals, the rest to contractors, Kinzer said. "Most of ours are do-it-yourself, people working on their yards."

That includes people who build new or move into used houses.

A big reduction in price — more than 100 percent in some cases — over the past decade has sparked consumer interest in the product. It's been around for some 25 years.

A Christmas promotion through K mart a couple of years ago "did quite well" and proved that low voltage lighting sales could be a year-around proposition even in northern climates, Kinzer said.

"This is something people see in magazines, on TV or at a neighbor's house and say, 'This is a good idea. This is pretty,' " said Jim McPherson, home center manager for the Livonia K mart.

"The primary reason people enjoy it is landscape beautification," Kinzer said. "The next reason is safety. You don't want to trip on a bicycle or skateboard, a crack in the sidewalk. Lighting, by it's very nature, is a security product."

Replacement parts and more powerful transformers are available separately.

The biggest mistake consumers make is trying to get too many lights on one transformer, cautioned Tom Ostrenga, an electrical consultant at Builders Square of Livonia.

MUST group works to smooth over construction union image

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Southeast Michigan union workers someday will get an equal chance at construction jobs. And someday, building owners and developers won't need to worry about unnecessary work stoppages and jurisdictional disputes.

Someday is still not today.

Management and Unions Serving Together (MUST), a coalition of unionized contractors in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and building trades managers, was formed in December 1988 to remove the impression that southeast Michigan has a bad business and labor climate with over-priced union work.

This is not going to happen overnight or over the course of several months, according to Thomas Miner, MUST executive director.

"These things we're talking about took years to create," Miner said.

The relationship between worker and manager constantly is evolving, but it is still largely an adversarial one, Miner said. Working together — the ultimate goal of MUST — is made more difficult by this antagonism.

"I'm hopeful that as we go down the line we won't have owners with preconceived notions about union work and unionized contractors will have a fair shot at jobs. That would be MUST's greatest accomplishment," he said.

Raymond Glowski, Detroit Building Trades Council secretary-treasurer and co-chair of MUST, said he's pleased with the progress of MUST thus far, but added there hasn't been a great deal of movement.

"THE WHOLE point behind this is selling unionism, and to an extent we've done that," Glowski said.

Regular meetings with builders and communication between the two sides has improved builder perception of union labor. It's difficult to gauge the effects of that communication, Glowski said, especially in the typically slow winter building months.

"But just the fact that we're talking, letting our hair down and letting each other know what's bothering us is a good sign."

Little was done during the first six months of MUST's existence," Glowski said, but that was to be expected. "Setting up the rules and regulation and the ground work was expected to take at least that long.

"We knew it was going to take at least 15 to 18 months before we'd be able to see concrete results," he said. The winter construction period and the economy slowdown may make determining the results even more difficult.

"Realistically, not enough has been done to tell if we've succeeded (in any way)," Miner said.

The fact that MUST exists is proof of good intentions and having the two sides communicating is progress, though concrete solutions and accomplishments are not as easy to identify, he said.

"It's really too early to be talking about victories. We'd like to get rid of the adversarial relationship between union contractors and owners — to get rid of strikes," he said. "I mean, there will always be strikes involving contract negotiations, but to get rid of unnecessary strikes."

The management/labor relationship has improved over the years, Glowski believes, and that should help dispel the impression that southeastern Michigan has a poor business and labor climate.

GLOWSKI SAID the builders and unions will contribute additional funding this year to ensure MUST's continued existence. "I would say somewhere in the neighborhood as last year, about $70,000."

"I really don't think the relationship was that bad to begin with," Glowski said, adding the adversarial relationship was more perception than reality.

Perceptions, however, can have an effect.

"I'd like to drive down the street and point at every construction job and be able to say that's 100 percent union, but that wasn't the case."

At one time, union workers were involved in every construction job, but in recent years that hasn't been the case, Glowski said. Glowski said he couldn't quantify the percentage of work that was going to non-union workers, but it was enough to realize there was a problem.

MUST board members meet monthly and regularly invite owners to come in and discuss their problems with unionized labor, Miner said. "How can we fix something if

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

Our contract for the sale of our house was contingent upon a professional inspector's evaluation of it.

The contract stated that should the inspector discover major structural problems or defects of a substantial nature, then the contract could be terminated by the purchaser. The sellers of the house have contested our right to cancel the transaction based on these findings.

They basically have taken the position that we breached the contract because there were no major structural problems and that the necessary repairs, though expensive, were not substantial as would have been necessary to terminate the contract. They apparently have an expert witness to substantiate that fact.

What do you think the court's decision will be if we have to litigate?

While I am not aware of a specific ruling on that issue in Michigan, the Maine Supreme Court found that it was not within the trial court's domain to overrule the inspector because the contract specifically stated that it was the inspector's judgment of the house that must be relied upon in determining whether the sale should go through.

The court noted that there was no evidence in that case indicating the inspector did not give his honest opinion and that, therefore, there was no breach of contract as long as the third party honestly is not satisfied with the condition of the house.

I would bring this matter to the attention of your seller as at least there is out of state precedent to support your position.

Can you briefly describe what type of potential civil liability I might incur as a result of recent environmental laws, particularly at the federal level.

Can you give me an insight?

Lawyers currently are witnessing growth in the area of civil liability for clients involved in commercial lending, business acquisitions and mergers.

This liability, which can result in substantial financial exposure to clients, was brought about by enactment of the Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation and Liability Act of 1980, as amended by the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986.

These statutes represent a congressional response to public concern over the effects of environmental contamination by imposing civil liability on buyers, sellers and lending institutions involved in mergers, acquisitions and real estate transfers.

It is clear, therefore, that prior to such transaction, careful inquiry into the potential impact of CERCLA as well as the other state and federal environmental laws, should be undertaken, even where a particular business and/or property site does not have a history of an involvement in the manufacturing and/or disposition of hazardous substances.

While I appreciate this question does not have anything directly to do with real estate, I do work for a real estate company that has apparently unilaterally changed its written employment policy from one of "just cause" to one "at will."

I am sure as a lawyer you know what I mean, but can he get away with that?

Yes. An employer may unilaterally change a written "just cause" discharge policy to an "at will" policy, despite failing to reserve the right to do so, provided that it give reasonable notice to affected employees.

However, there must be adequate notice to those affected in order to avoid arbitrary and unfair termination.

BASM now nation's 5th largest building group

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

The Builders Association of Southeast Michigan (BASM) leap frogged from being the 11th to the fifth largest organization in the country, gaining national recognition for the highest membership percentage increase.

Association membership chairman Bernard Glieberman said the association recruited 652 new members during 1989, bringing BASM's total membership to approximately 1,700 professional builders, developers and associates.

The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) honored the southeast Michigan chapter with a Grand Prize award for the highest percentage membership increase in the country and a Honor Award for the second highest numerical increase in its size category.

Kelly Hayes, NAHB membership program administrator, said the grand prize and honor awards are two of the most prestigious awards presented at its annual convention. There are over 800 local associations ranging from 50 to 2,600 members.

"A 62 percent increase (in membership) is an extremely impressive effort," Hayes said. "I don't know what the highest percentage increase we've ever had was, but (62 percent) is something to be proud of."

BASM moved from the 11th largest local builders association to the 5th largest builders association.

"We represent — this is a guess — about 50 percent of the production (in southeast Michigan)," Glieberman said. "That's not the number of builders — some builders construct few homes — but the amount of building."

Hayes of the NAHB said increasing membership is always important because without it, the local and national organization cannot continue to better the future of building.

Lobbying efforts and education — both for the builder and the general public — is the main thrust of both the local, state and national associations, Hayes said.

Increase membership is also important because it helps the association promote responsible development, Glieberman said.

"This isn't just about builders — it's very important that development survives," Glieberman said. "Building involves a lot of commerce — every home that is built provides $10,000 in taxes."

Because of building's wide impact, BASM also recruits members from commercial businesses and the building trades, Glieberman said.

Glieberman said BASM — which was established in 1926, making it one the oldest associations in the country — has always been one of the largest associations, but it wasn't until the mid 1980s that membership took off.

"Southeast Michigan is probably the 15th to 18th largest region in housing construction starts, but we're the fifth largest local association — those are fantastic numbers."

Retention efforts are just as important as aggressive recruiting, Glieberman said. "We have 95.6 percent retention — I don't know too many organizations that can say that."

By comparison, the NAHB retention rate is 91.2 percent.

Glieberman said BASM membership costs depend on the number of homes a builder constructs. "The limit is $2,000 — the average member pays between $500 and $800 a year."

Associate members pay between $200 and $300, he added."

Wall-to-wall carpeting isn't the only floor cover option

AP — Let your home reflect your needs by choosing floor coverings suited to your taste, lifestyle and budget.

If wall-to-wall carpeting in every room of the house isn't appealing, there are practical alternatives:

Wood Floors

Wood floors work well in living rooms and other formal areas. Wood flooring can be either hardwood or softwood.

Hardwood, primarily oak, is available in many finishes and in parquet squares as well as plank or strip flooring boards. Hardwood is warm and comfortable underfoot, has a natural look and ages well.

Oak is durable and, if properly sealed, water resistant. It is by far the most popular wood for new floors.

Softwood, which includes spruce, fir and pine is more easily dented or scratched than hardwood. But an existing softwood floor may be a good candidate for refinishing.

If you have an older home with wood floors, don't make any decisions about new flooring before considering a face lift for the old wood. The floors may only need polishing or, at the most, sanding down and sealing with polyurethane or tung oil for a band new look.

If your wood floors are in such poor condition that they can't be revived by sanding, staining or bleaching, they may still be rescued by paint, which can cover a multitude of pits and blemishes.

Tough, durable and washable deck paint gives a thick protective coating to heavy-traffic areas such as stairs and entryways. For longer wear, finish off a painted floor with a couple of coats of polyurethane.

To postpone repainting, apply a new coat of polyurethane every year or so.

Finally, to give extra character to a stained wood floor, try stenciling a border or paint a checkerboard pattern or an "area rug" on it.

Ceramic Tile

Ceramic tile comes in a variety of sizes, shapes, colors and patterns. Unglazed or mat-glazed tiles usually are used on floors (tiles with a glossy finish are more slippery).

If you choose unglazed tiles, coat them with a waterproof sealant.

Ceramic tile is durable and stain resistant, but susceptible to scratching. Even mat-glazed tiles can be slippery when wet, so consider placing a non-skid mat or rug on a tile floor that is near the kitchen sink, in the bathroom or in an entryway.

Resilient Flooring

Resilient flooring includes sheet vinyl, vinyl tile, vinyl-asphalt tile and cork tile. Resilient flooring is durable but keep in mind the material's thickness usually determines how long it will last.

It is water and stain resistant but may show scuffs and scratches. Vinyl tiles or sheets with a no-wax surface offer resistance to most household scratches and stains.

Resilient flooring is available with embossed, carved, textured and grained surfaces that offer good-looks as well as the ability to hide wear, seams, floor irregularities and dents left by furniture.

Area Rugs

If you like carpeting but don't care for wall-to-wall, try an area rug. You save the cost of having the carpet installed, you can reposition the rug to distribute wear and you can take it with you if you move.

Unions work to shed negative image

we don't know what's broken."

Communication between unions and management is imperative so these meetings are important, he said. Miner said that attendance at the board meetings is good even though the group formed more than a year ago.

"Interest hasn't petered out so far and that's good — I wouldn't want to waste time with something that isn't supported."

There are many misconceptions about union work, but there is also a lot that owners and developers agree on, he said. The trick is to accentuate the positive aspects and to dispel the misconceptions.

"But to do that we have to find out what's causing the (bad) impression misconceptions is the first place," he said.

Miner said owners usually agree work completed by unionized laborers is satisfactory.

"WORKERS TEND to be more skilled, the availability of workers is good, and they complete work in a timely fashion." Those same owners also agree about the negative aspect about unionized labor, Miner said.

Unionized labor, for example, still carries a stigma of being too costly, Miner said. "But that's not a universal impression," he added. 'It's not unusual for union contractors to underbid for a project. We hear it happens a lot, but there's still that impression."

Productivity, Miner said, is also an issue.

"Not just the loafer and poor effort issues, but other things that are part of productivity — having the right tools, scheduling, and having enough people," Miner said.

Unnecessary work stoppages and jurisdictional disputes between two unions also give a black mark to unionized labor, Miner said.

"We hope to come up with a jurisdictional dispute board that will resolve these disputes without work stoppages which are a great concern to owners."

GARAGE Sale

Now is the time to clear out those closets, attics, basements and garages and make some quick cash in the process.

How do you plan a garage sale?

It's easy!

Just follow these simple guidelines:

1. Gather together the items you have for sale. Sort them into appropriate categories and price them fairly.

2. Place a classified advertisement in The Observer & Eccentric by calling one of the numbers below.

3. Hang signs throughout your neighborhood alerting residents to the upcoming sale.

4. Decide what to do with all the money you'll have after your sale!

Or, if you love to bargain-hunt and would rather shop then sell, be sure to look for our special garage sale listings every Monday and Thursday in your hometown newspaper. Observer & Eccentric classifieds make it easy to earn money and save money. Discover for yourself, today!
