Police reconsider

Police say there "is no indication" that Stephen Nalepa, the 8-year-old who hanged himself recently in his Canton family's home, committed suicide, according to Canton public safety director John Santomauro.

Earlier police said it was "undecided" whether the boy committed suicide or if he accidentally hanged himself.

The killdeer carefully examines whoever comes close to her nest. She's made her home in the wood chips framing the path to the Canton police station front door.

Bird moves in on police

By A. Giralt Bedford

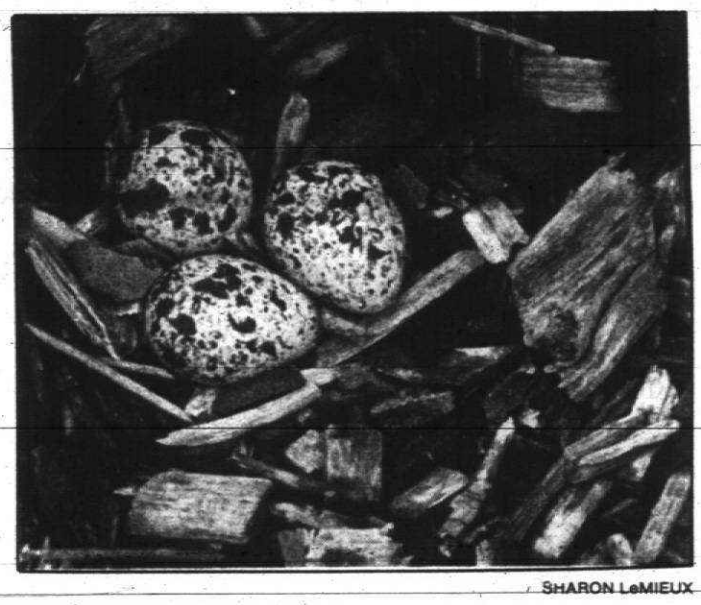
If it snows and rains, it must be spring in Michigan. The time for flowers to bloom and for birds to nest.

A couple of killdeer have a peculiar sense of the perfect housing location. To build their nest, they have chosen the wood chips along the path to the Canton police station front door.

"We noticed it about two weeks ago. I've been trying to keep people away from her, to let her do her thing," said Canton Police Sergeant William Lenaghan.

He said that two weeks ago, the wood chips were the only spot without snow, and probably that's the reason the birds nested there.

The killdeer is very protective of her eggs. When somebody walks by, she spreads her wings and turns around, defensively facing the intruder. If the person gets closer, she squawks loudly and flaps her wings, warning him to leave her eggs alone.



SHARON LeMIEUX

On the rare occasions when the bird leaves the nest, we can see her eggs, which match the color of the surrounding wood chips.

'We noticed it about two weeks ago. I've been trying to keep people away from her, to let her do her thing.'

— William Lenaghan
Canton police sergeant

She is seldom away from her nest. Lenaghan said "Somebody has given her bird seed, so she doesn't need to go far."

Some people have mixed feelings about the bird.

"On the one hand, I think she's kind of nuts for laying her eggs there. On the other hand, I hope they make it. It's kind of a dangerous spot," said Mary Webb, a police dispatcher. The nest is less than a foot from people's path.

Webb said that recently, a group of children on a tour of the police station walked and ran on the wood chips where the eggs are. "It's strange they didn't step on them," she said.

Lenaghan said that since the gestation period of the eggs is six weeks, they should hatch in about a month.

Cops want law to regulate teen havens

'We spend a lot of resources policing that club and I would like to return to normal operations.'

— John Santomauro
public safety director

Police have arrested 46 youngsters since January at Canton's teen haven, Club Ferrari, where brawls are commonplace.

John Santomauro, Canton public safety director, said he would propose an ordinance regulating teen clubs at Tuesday's board meeting.

"The police department doesn't want to provide security service for a private business," Santomauro said.

Earlier this month, a fight broke out that resulted in 11 police reports and eight arrests.

From January through March 10, police were called to the Ford Road establishment 43 times. The arrests involved liquor violations, peace disturbances, larcenies, non-aggravated assaults, aggravated assaults, property damage and drunken driving.

"We spend a lot of resources policing that club and I would like to return to normal operations," Santomauro said.

POLICE HAVE added extra patrols and other measures to respond to disturbances at Club Ferarri. From January through March, Canton police spent $719 on police overtime to patrol the club, Santomauro said.

Club Ferrari teen nights are Fridays and Saturdays for 13- through 18-year-olds. The club holds 1,050 teens, who each pay a $6 admission fee.

"The market we looked for are 15- or 16-year-olds — the ones who don't have anywhere to go," said Club Ferrari owner John Sassak.

Police and other observers have pointed to racial conflicts as part of the problem.

"The biggest problem is whites, blacks and Arabs," Sassak said. "Blacks, when they come and something happens, they all join in. They think they're being taken advantage of, and it's the same with the Arabs.

"It's not all blacks or Arabs — it's just that they are so protective of themselves.

"One on one it's no problem, you just escort them out. But if you have 50 people jump in the pile, it's hard to separate them. Kids want a place to go and when they get there, it's

McDonald's files suit over location

Canton officials decided McDonald's didn't deserve a break today, so the fast food chain filed a lawsuit.

McDonald's wanted to build a restaurant on 3.7 acres on the north side of Ford Road between I-275 and Lotz Road in Canton. The lawsuit alleged that officials unfairly refused to give the company land use approvals.

"Monetary values haven't been determined, but of course damages are asked for," said Rhoda Renaud, McDonald's real estate representative.

Township officials were served with the lawsuit late Friday afternoon.

"The request was denied and consequently they are not happy," said Canton supervisor Tom Yack.

When McDonald's applied to the township for special land use the first time in June 1987 the property was zoned C-3, which allows fast food restaurants.

In December 1989 Canton revised most township ordinances and listed the property in question as C-4, which bans fast food restaurants unless they're attached to a larger building.

At that time McDonald's took the case to the Wayne County Circuit Court and the Court of Appeals after the Canton planning commission and board of trustees denied the special land use request.

The appeals court said the company could submit another request, but the court wouldn't force the township to approve the application. The board recently denied the request again.

"The concept on the east side of I-275 is that there would be developments in that area that basically would not piecemeal the frontage of Ford Road the way it has been on the west side of I-275," said Yack. "Can-

Compost program to begin

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Residents in Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships will be asked this summer to separate grass clippings and other yard materials for a community compost pile.

Initially the program will be voluntary, but will be mandated in the future, said Ann Bollin, executive director of the Western Townships Utility Authority. WTUA is a consortium established to deal with sewer, solid waste and other issues. No specific date was set for mandated separation.

"Conceptually it will be curbside and will be picked-up the same way as the regular household garbage is collected," said Tom Yack, Canton supervisor.

"A decision hasn't been made on how to identify it as yard waste," he said.

TOGETHER THE communities have to match 25 percent of the grant. This is part of a county program requiring communities to reduce the amount of waste going to landfills.

Peter Rekshan, owner of Compost Systems Incorporated, will manage the compost site on the corner of Geddes and Beck in Canton on property that was recently sold by the estate of Malcolm Padget. Bob Padget, a former Canton trustee, is one of many heirs, Rekshan said.

"We had negotiated on another piece for a long period of time," Rekshan said. "We were never successful in closing the deal and we decided to go with that piece."

Dave Denski, of Canton Recycling, will serve as subcontractor operating the compost site.

The three townships are using a $242,000 state grant to cover start-up costs and to buy equipment, which WTUA will lease to CSI, Bolin said.

Educator remembered for joy he brought others

The Plymouth-Canton school community will remember Earl T. Gibson Jr. of Plymouth as a giving teacher, principal and leader who brought enjoyment to many people.

Mr. Gibson died April 5 in St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Superior Township.

He was buried Thursday from Lambert-Vermeulen Funeral Home in Plymouth.

"Earl was an outstanding teacher and administrator who served the Plymouth-Canton community for more than 34 years," said Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben. "He made outstanding contributions to students, teachers and parents.

"He was one of the most dependable and giving individuals in our organization. His loss will be felt by this community, which he served so nobly."

East Middle School Principal Tom Workman knew Mr. Gibson for 30 years. The two were elementary principals together from 1967 until Mr. Gibson retired in 1985.

"We worked together on the outdoor education program, in the elementary principals' group, and we worked on establishing the school farm that was operational in the late 1960s and early 1970s," said Workman.

"Earl brought an awful lot of enjoyment to many, many people. He enjoyed the contributions of kids, teachers and his colleagues.

"Earl was many positive things to many people in this community," added Workman. "I think he lived a full life, although it seems awfully short when you look at it from this respect."

Mr. Gibson spent his entire educational career with Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. He moved to Michigan in 1950 to accept his first teaching position with the district.

Mr. Gibson was born Dec. 14, 1924 in Penbrook, Penn. He was raised in Toledo, Ohio, and graduated from Scott High School. He received his bachelor's degree in elementary education from the University of Toledo.

Mr. Gibson received his master's degree in business administration from Michigan State University.

A charter member of the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth, Mr. Gibson belonged to the Sons of the American Revolution, the Order of Elks in Plymouth, the Community Fund, Masonic Temple, American Legion, the American Red Cross and other organizations.

Mr. Gibson was preceded in death by his wife Betty. He is survived by daughters Kerry Moore of Durand, Mich., and Mary Jane Gariepy of Plymouth; sons Thomas Gibson of Montrose and William Gibson of Grayslake, Ill.; fiancee Helen Wetnight of Bullhead City, Ariz.; sisters Dorothy Goon of Toledo, Ohio and Elsie Frank of Harrisburg, Penn.; brothers Robert Gibson of Palos Verdes, Calif., Mahlon Gibson of Chicago and Edgar Gibson of Toledo; and 12 grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association or the Earl T. Gibson Memorial Fund for the Geer School restoration project.

Plans under way for area compost program

Residents in all three communities will have access to free fertilizer from the compost and WTUA is expected to receive a percentage of the profit if the fertilizer is sold.

Bollin said there isn't much written research about composting, but indications show there is not a problem with toxic material seeping into the ground. The Department of Natural Resources doesn't regulate composting.

CANTON RAN a voluntary pilot compost program last year with 800 households in the area bounded by Cherry Hill, Palmer, Lilley and Haggerty roads to weed out problems and to test how residents would respond.

Loren Bennett, Canton clerk, estimated that between 60-75 percent of the households were involved.

On some blocks most residents took part and very few were involved on other blocks, said Bennett, who started the program.

Smelly, green slime was one problem discovered.

"Grass itself is 75-80 percent water and if you compact it a green slime comes out from on top of the truck and onto the road and leaves an aromatic smell," he said.

the 5 percent that ruin it for everyone."

OTHER TEEN CLUBS — Bahama Mamma's in Taylor and the Grande Ballroom in Westland, also report disturbance problems among patrons.

The Grande Ballroom, which was often the scene of parking-lot fights, recently closed and is expected to reopen in Livonia.

Joe Telmos, general manager of Bahama Mamma's, said there were problems with fights among teenagers, especially in the parking lot, last fall.

"We had a minor problem in the fall and we pretty much solved them with the Taylor police," Telmos said.

Sassak has met with Canton police, who have suggested making the following changes:

- Identify security people by having them wear the same shirt.
- Screen patrons.
- Prosecute all violators.
- Call police as soon as trouble starts.
- Fence the area, restricting club patrons from using the adjacent residential apartment complex for parking.
- Hire uniformed security officers.
- Post signs indicating that loiterers will be prosecuted.
- Close off the parking lot when it reaches capacity and post a security guard and a sign: "Club Ferrari Closed — No Admittance."

Building a fence, Sassak said, is the only item he hasn't fulfilled.

"There's that 1 percent you can't get your hands on," he said. "I tell them to tell the manager and they'll throw them out."

Sassak said one of his biggest concerns is when youngsters throw chairs.

ton has so little remaining land that would serve that function and the east side of I-275 would serve that."

A traffic study showed that the restaurant would be 350 feet from the north bound I-275 "on" ramp, which would be dangerous, Yack said.

"The need aspect in some people's mind was that they didn't satisfy that the township needed another fast food restaurant, specifically McDonald's," he said.

There are two McDonald's outlets in Canton, one on Ford Road and the other on Michigan Avenue.

Company officials have said that McDonald's has been unfairly singled-out by the township, because while the McDonald's issue was brewing a Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant was allowed to be built on Ford Road west of I-275.

Yack wrote a letter to McDonald's owner Joan Kroc to express displeasure with attorneys representing the fast food chain.

"Throughout the application process your attorney's represented themselves in a very threatening and intimidating manner," Yack wrote. "I always got the impression that McDonalds was civic minded and wanted to be perceived by its host community in a positive light. I can tell you McDonald's is currently seen as an uncaring, muscle swinging, cold-hearted and impersonal corporation."

Meanwhile McDonald's is facing resistance for another restaurant.

Westland residents are battling a McDonald's plan to build a restaurant in their neighborhood at the southeast corner of Joy and Merriman. They are worried that a fast-food restaurant would lower property values, increase noise, traffic, trash and vandalism, specifically involving teens from nearby Livonia Franklin High School.

School newspaper stacks up awards

By A. Giralt Bedford
staff writer

The staff of the student newspaper at Plymouth-Canton and Plymouth-Salem high schools hangs its awards on the wall of the journalism classroom. But if they keep up the work, soon they'll have to find an additional place.

To the 30 awards already hung there, the students will soon add the Golden Crown, an award given for journalism excellence.

For the third consecutive year, CEP Perspective, the Centennial Educational Park student newspaper, has received the Golden Crown Award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Michelle Lewis, the Perspective's feature editor, said, "It's really rewarding to work in the paper and get the Golden Crown, the highest honor a high school paper can get."

MORE THAN 1,000 private and public high schools throughout the country competed in 65 categories with 11,000 entries, according to Chris Peal, journalism teacher and the Perspective advisor. The CEP students received seven awards.

"Seventeen papers got the top award, which put the paper in the top 1 percent in the country," Peal said.

The paper is put together during journalism lab. In order to enroll, students must have completed an introduction to Journalism class. Peal said that in the introductory class, the first semester, students learn how to write news stories and the second one, study law and ethics in the press.

When asked about the reasons why the Perspective received the awards, Peal said, "They do an excellent job. They are serious about what they do, they are responsible and they realize the importance of the task that they are doing. They do consistent good work."

Being in an award-winning newspaper could be an incentive for other students to enroll in the class, but Peal said that when they sign up, "They do it for more than the award, to exercise their First Amendment responsibilities."

ABOUT THE content of the papers, Peal said, "They tackle comparatively speaking serious issues. They don't just cover fluff news."

Peal added that the students write stories, take photos, do their own editing, sell ads and take care of production. "It's completely student press."

Sixteen students traveled to New York March 21 to receive the awards and to participate in a series of seminars that took place at Columbia University.

Reena Shah said she hadn't been to New York before. "It was really exciting. It was a lot of fun seeing Columbia University and attending the different seminars." She said that although the seminars lasted for three days, the students stayed five days in New York. She said they shopped and visited the sights, Soho, the Empire State Building, Chinatown and Greenwhich Village among others.

Andy Albus Jr. said he found very interesting a seminar on design and layout.

"They showed new ways of designing newspapers, looking at magazines' approach for newspapers, saying that in the future, newspapers will have to look like magazines to attract readers," he said.

The awards recognized the good work of last year's newspapers.

Christopher Martiniano, graphics editor, said that the paper has changed its image since then; it has more graphics and it's 60 percent computerized.

The issues reported have also changed, he said. "In the past, the writing was very conservative. This year, we try to do more environmental issues."

The students have hopes of winning again. Martiniano said, "The format has changed and the point of view has changed. If they take these changes into account and think they're favorable, I think we'll win again."

Jennifer Whiteaker, the Perspective feature editor, blue-pencils the galleys. She is one of the students who traveled to New York to receive the awards.

Staffers get scoop on honors

Besides winning the Golden Crown Award for the 1988-89 CEP Perspective, six students won Golden Circle Awards, Columbia Scholastic Press Association's highest individual honors.

- Debbi Steffen won first place for editorial writing. A 1989 Salem graduate, she now attends Princeton University.
- Emily Zinn won first place and a certificate of merit for serious column writing. A 1989 Salem graduate, she now attends University of Michigan.
- Jennifer Whiteaker won a certificate of merit in the entertainment review category. She is a Canton senior.
- Josh Worth won a certificate of merit for an art portfolio. A 1989 Canton graduate, he now attends University of Michigan.
- Mark Toth won second place in the comic division. He is a 1989 Canton graduate.
- Christopher Martiniano won a certificate of merit for a black and white illustration. He is a senior at Canton High School.

Road survey maps out needed repairs in area

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The first ever review of road conditions in Plymouth Township shows roads are generally in good shape, and most major roads are wide enough to handle traffic.

As part of the study, township engineer Paul Jones has put together a map of township roads detailing where repairs are needed.

The study, to be presented to the township board of trustees Tuesday, also shows that Haggerty Road at Ann Arbor Road handles 16,000 cars per day, indicating widening would help traffic flow.

ALL TOWNSHIP roads except private roads are maintained by the county, which claims limited money to pay for road repairs.

"We can't do a thing without their permission," Jones said.

The study details what could be done to improve roads, if the township had an unlimited budget, said James Anulewicz, municipal services director.

"Once we arrive at that final list of improvements the board would have an opportunity to study it in detail," Anulewicz said.

Costs will likely be assigned to various repairs, and then trustees "would want some time to take a look at it — get some general attitudes from the general public," he said, on what repairs residents would be willing to fund — if residents tax money was needed.

Some road repairs planned for this summer are paid for in part by assessing residents whose property faces a road needing repair.

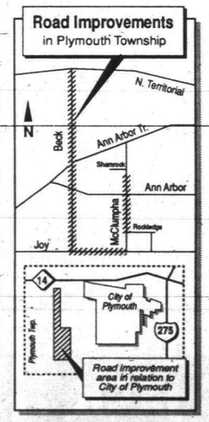
Township officials say that because the county isn't maintaining roads as well as it should, the township could consider spending its own money on repairs.

SOME ROAD improvements are planned and contracted for this summer. They include:

- The county-paid paving of 9,600 feet of Beck from Joy to North Territorial.
- The paving of 2,600 feet of Joy from Beck to McClumpha, also paid for by the county.
- The paving of McClumpha from Rockledge to north of Ann Arbor Road, paid by assessing homeowners.
- Repairs of sections of five residential streets — Green Valley, Talltree Drive, Appletree, Trailwood and Spicer — paid for by the county.

Jones' wish list of street repairs include repairs needed in some older township subdivisions, including Beacon Hill just west of Plymouth and Lakepoint in north central Plymouth Township. The roads were built in the mid '60s, Jones said.

Roads in several township subdivisions have been identified as needing asphalt sealing.



The township board meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the board office, 42350 Ann Arbor Road.

Effective parents topic of seminar

Useful tips for becoming more effective parents will be shared in a free seminar May 24 by a couple who has raised 20 children.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. in Churchill High on Newburgh just north of Joy in Livonia.

Dorothy and Robert DeBolt, whose efforts in raising 20 children have been featured in Academy Award-winning films, TV specials and several magazine articles, will lead the program.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Independent Order of Foresters, a not-for-profit fraternal organization founded more than a century ago to help families.

The IOF is hosting seminars across the country as part of its public service efforts to help Americans become more effective parents.

The DeBolts, experts on how families can work together as a team, will offer their insights to parents of school-age children on how to communicate better and build self-esteem in children.

"Effective parenting doesn't happen by chance," said Robert DeBolt. "It takes a team effort and you have to work at it. The key is learning how to deal with the pressures and anxieties that go along with parenthood."

The DeBolts have earned a wide variety of awards from business, education, and government leaders, including commendations from the U.S. Congress and presidents Nixon, Ford and Reagan.

Dorothy and Robert DeBolt

Besides raising six biological and 14 adopted children, the DeBolts founded and developed Aid to Adoption of Special Kids, the country's first national adoption program for children with special needs.

Special surprise

Brother, sister reunited after 48 years

By Leonard Poger
staff writer

Garden City's Robert LaGraff usually predicts accurately what his five sons and daughters will buy for an upcoming birthday or Christmas gift.

But when he marked his 55th birthday, his "streak" was broken.

Even when the limo stopped in front of home on Hennepin near Farmington Road, LaGraff didn't know what was going on.

Stepping out of the limo was Janet Miller, his sister whom he hadn't seen in 48 years since they were adopted by different families after their mother was killed in a car-train accident.

The reunion came at a good time — just one week before one of LaGraff's son, Robert, Jr., was to be married to Brenda Sowa.

The reunion of the two came 15 months after they first made telephone contact on Christmas Eve, 1988 because of the determination of Mrs. Miller's husband, Richard.

LaGraff, a millwright for Howmet Corp., Plymouth, and Janet spent most of last week sharing memories, including an enlargement the sister made of a snapshot showing the two of them when they were about 6 and 4 years old, respectively.

LOOKING AT the photo, LaGraff recalled that he thought Janet was "the prettiest girl in the country."

He wasn't far off. Others also felt she was attractive.

Before marrying and moving to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., her home for the past 30 years, Miller was a model who worked at Hudson's, Crowley's and Demery's in downtown Detroit.

The pair's other siblings are sister Dorothy Kroepel of Lincoln Park, Don, and Gil. Their father, William, lives with Dorothy.

Their mother, Mary LaGraff, died of injuries suffered when the car she was driving collided with a train in Detroit nearly 49 years ago.

Bob and Don were placed in St. Francis Orphanage in Detroit, where they lived for several years before being adopted by different families.

Janet, now 53, was 4 when her mother died. She was later adopted by Arthur and Mary Lund. Mr. Lund knew her father through their jobs at Ford Motor Co., Miller said.

In recalling the series of events leading to the reunion with her brother, Miller said she knew she was adopted but "thought I had a sister only.

"After my adopted father died in 1985, I went through his files and found my birth certificate, my mother's death certificate, and my adoption papers."

"But I didn't do anything right away."

WHEN HER adoptive mother died a few months later, she started making phone calls throughout the country to find a LaGraff. The calls included contacts with Sacred Heart Church in Dearborn where the LaGraff children were baptized and going through phone directories.

A Sacred Heart priest called Miller and said there were five LaGraff children, not just the two Miller had assumed.

"I couldn't believe it," she said when learning that she had three "extra" siblings.

Miller even researched directories for a Revoir, her natural mother's maiden name, and quickly made contact with a brother, Gil in California, who visited Miller about five years ago.

But the search was dropped for several years — until Miller's husband, Richard, said on Christmas Eve, 1988:

"I'm going to find your brother," she recalled.

This time, Mr. Miller had success, thanks to a telephone company directory assistance operator.

"There were several LaGraff names in the Detroit area," Janet recalled. "The first one we made contact with was Bob, who turned out to be my brother."

Actually, it was Bob LaGraff's wife, Mert, who took the call from Janet.

WHEN MERT learned who the caller was, she screamed and exclaimed, "We found Janet! We found Janet!"

Bob said he thought about Janet "all the time but I didn't know how to contact her."

There were several phone conversations during the next year.

When Bob's 55th birthday approached, his sons and daughters combined to buy an airplane ticket for Miller to come to Garden City for a surprise visit.

When Janet walked into the house and greeted his long-lost brother, who was on a long distance call.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

Both he and Janet later admitted that it took several days for the emotions of the reunion to sink in.

But it's clear that the contacts will be much more frequent.

Senate approves ban on local gun control

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Local gun control ordinances would be illegal under a Senate-passed bill aimed at giving Michigan a uniform law.

Senate Bill 813, which goes now to the House, was a defeat for lawmakers from Detroit, Ann Arbor and Flint.

"This is fertile ground for abuse of power," said the sponsor, Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton, who had the support of the sheriffs' association, State Police, sportsmen's clubs and the National Rifle Association.

Senators gave the bill 28-5 approval. Among area senators, only Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, voted no.

Faxon was joined by William Faust, D-Westland, in vainly trying to amend the bill to give cities some local controls.

DINGELL, A first-term lawmaker and son of the veteran congressman, carried the three-hour debate alone. He told stories about abuses of local control:

- Detroit used to have a waiting period up to six months for a handgun permit and made an assistant county prosecutor wait the full six months.
- Detroit advertises it has a training school for gun permit applicants, but a Dingell staffer calling the number was able only to reach an annoyed water department clerk. (A senator from Detroit said the program started in February.)
- A sheriff in a southern state told him: "Don't worry about having a local permit around here. We've never heard of a white person having a problem." Added Dingell: "That was in the mid-'70s."

'It's like there's some fundamental right to buy a gun and fiddle around with it and see what happens . . .'
— Sen. Jack Faxon D-Farmington Hills

Dingell argued that the amendments allowing local units to have stiffer handgun rules than state law were unnecessary because they wouldn't result in longer prison terms for the guilty.

"Michigan has a practice of concurrent sentencing. A person wouldn't get a longer sentence (for being convicted under a local ordinance). He or she probably wouldn't even be charged for the second offense," he said.

FAXON HEAPED ridicule on proponents as he argued for local-control amendments.

"We're not taking away anybody's guns. You can't measure what the (local) waiting period does because the people are still alive . . .

"It's like there's some fundamental right to buy a gun and fiddle around with it and see what happens . . .

Supporting the failed amendment of Sen. Lana Pollack, D-Ann Arbor to allow cities to prohibit guns in many institutions, Faxon said, "It's like we're sending a message: This is a free gun state. You can go into nursery schools, private schools, hospitals. Give them their guns! Give them an Uzi!"

Replied Dingell: "The demagoguery of my colleagues has hit a new low."

DINGELL SAID local ordinances were unnecessary to require training because the injury rate "has been coming down drastically through private action — not through government."

He praised sportsmen's clubs for hunter safety and gun safety programs.

Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit, said his city operates an eight-hour course at the Detroit Police Academy building. Smith gave a telephone number.

This newspaper called the number and learned it's the office of Commander James Jackson in the academy; that there is a gun training program; that it is offered regularly whenever enough people sign up; that the cost is $60; and that it's open to Detroit residents only.

MSU offering alcohol-free housing

By Pat Murphy
staff writer

Michigan State University will offer alcohol-free dormitory facilities to students this fall, a move that an Oakland County legislator hailed as a step toward addressing alcohol abuse on campus.

"I am very pleased to see MSU come around," said David Honigman, a Republican from West Bloomfield who helped lead a local movement to compel universities to offer students the option of choosing roommates who don't use alcohol or drugs.

The movement was started almost two years ago and drew positive and immediate response from most state universities. But MSU did not respond as quickly, drawing criticism from Honigman as well as Federal Judge Bernard Friedman.

Honigman and Friedman say they are still upset with the state's private colleges and universities for not offering similar alcohol- and drug-free living quarters.

"I hope I don't have to again introduce legislation," said Honigman. "I hope they (private colleges) come around like MSU did."

AN MSU spokesman said the school ran into opposition from student groups when it advocated an option for alcohol-free dormitory facilities.

"Some students argued that their parents, rather than the students themselves, would end up making the decision," said James D. Studer, assistant vice president for student affairs and services.

Beginning this fall students will have a box on their enrollment forms to check if they want a roommate who pledges not to use alcohol.

The enrollment forms do not give students the option of choosing roommates who pledge not to use drugs.

"That's a matter philosophy," said Studer. "Drugs are illegal, so we see no need to offer drug-free living quarters."

Men, if you're about to turn 18, it's time to register with Selective Service at any U.S. Post Office.
It's quick. It's easy. And it's the law.

Pursell opposes child care bill

Here's how Observer & Eccentric area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending March 31:

HOUSE:

CHILD CARE — By a vote of 265 for and 145 against, the House sent to conference with the Senate a bill (HR 3) expanding federal programs to help parents of limited means obtain day care for their children, at a cost of $27 billion over five years. More than half of the cost derives from earned income tax credits for families earning up to $20,270 annually.

The bill finances school-based programs for "latchkey" children, as well as state efforts to upgrade the safety and quality of supervision at child care centers in public, private and religious settings.

It turns Head Start into an all-day occupation for preschoolers. And it provides states with block grants, to be spent mainly on operating expenses of child care centers and vouchers parents would use to secure child care. Vouchers could be spent for church-sponsored care.

Members voting yes supported the bill.

Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, and Sander Levin, D-Southfield, voted yes.

Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham, voted no.

GOP SUBSTITUTE — By a vote of 195 for and 225 against, the House rejected a Republican child care substitute that was backed by the White House.

Its costs of $20 billion was about $7 billion less than that of the Democratic bill (above). Another key difference was that it gave states more leeway in setting child care standards.

Members voting yes supported the GOP substitute.

Pursell and Broomfield voted yes. Hertel, Ford and Levin voted no.

NEW CABINET DEPARTMENT — By a vote of 161 for and 266 against, the House rejected a White House-backed amendment limiting the scope of a new cabinet-level Department of Environmental Protection. The amendment sought to keep its power in line with that of the EPA, which it will supplant. The House sent the bill (HR 3847) to the Senate by a wide margin.

Members voting yes wanted to limit the scope of the new department.

SENATE:

ACID RAIN ISSUE — By a vote of 71 for and 26 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment providing a 20-percent tax credit to utilities in mid-American states that must install coal scrubbers under the acid rain section of pending clean air legislation (S 1630). The equipment is to cut sulfur dioxide emissions.

Senators voting yes opposed the tax credit.

Michigan Democratic senators Carl Levin and Donald Riegle voted yes.

AID TO MINERS — By a vote of 49 for and 50 against, the Senate refused to provide $500 million in aid to coal miners who lose jobs as a result of efforts to reduce acid rain. The amendment to help miners of high-sulfur coal in Appalachia was offered to the clean air bill (above).

Senators voting yes supported the special aid.

Senators Levin and Riegle voted no.

GOP wants property tax cut in trade for utility tax

By Tim Richard
staff writer

State Senate Republicans want property tax relief for both business and homeowners as the price for reinstatement of Detroit's utility tax.

"It's not a Republican or Democratic, Engler or Blanchard approach," said Senate majority leader John Engler, R-Mount Pleasant, in describing the three-bill, $125 million package the upper chamber advanced last week.

"The House action ($344 million in property tax cuts for homeowners voted in March) that would have resulted in a $400 million increase on employers was bad economics. It's not the way to go," the GOP's gubernatorial hopeful told the chamber.

"We didn't set one class of the population against another. We didn't set one part of the state against another."

SENATE DEMOCRATS, joined by Republican Richard Fessler of Union Lake, failed again Thursday to force out of committee a bill to reinstate Detroit's 5 percent utility tax.

The city faces a Wednesday deadline for getting permissive legislation or Wayne Circuit Judge Marvin Stempien could order its collection to cease. The tax is worth nearly $60 million in future annual revenue and $100 million in past revenue from mid-1999 to early 1990. The House of Representatives has already passed the bill.

Republicans held a 19-17 line against forcing the bill out of the Finance Committee for the second straight week. Their message: No utility tax action until House Democrats act on GOP property and inheritance tax proposals.

The Michigan Legislature is in a two-week Easter recess. Negotiations between party leaders in the two chambers reportedly broke down Thursday.

STATE TREASURER Robert Bowman called a part of the Senate GOP package as "our" and "the governor's" bill in a brief interview.

He referred to Senate Bill 895, sponsored by Fessler, which would give income tax credits for property taxes in excess of the rate of inflation. The state treasury would pay $85 million in such relief to local units of government.

The Senate last week expanded the program from both Blanchard's and Fessler's original proposals to include:

- All property — not just homesteads.
- All property taxes — not just school operating.
- A single business tax cut of $35 million for firms whose property tax increases exceeded the consumer price inflation rate.

THE SENATE rejected, on an unrecorded vote, an amendment by Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, to grant greater relief to persons with Alzheimer's and Parkinson's disease.

"The appropriations bill was here last week," said Fessler, saying that that bill was the proper vehicle to accomplish Faxon's goal.

The property tax relief bills aren't true cuts, Engler said.

"This doesn't cut anybody's taxes. This limits the increase," he said.

If the bills become law, their effect would be to take $125 million from the state general fund, pay it to local units (particularly schools) and reduce pressure on property taxes.

Both parties admitted it left unanswered the question of what in the $7.6 billion state budget will be cut to pay for the property tax relief.

Anglers reeling over regulations

Tim Richard

"WHEN DOES trout season open?" shouted my fishin' buddy.

I reached for the DNR's 1990 Michigan Fishing Guide. Hmmmph! No longer is it a fold-out brochure. It's a 24-page booklet.

"Last Saturday in April to Sept. 30," I read, but there was more.

"Longer on streams with extended seasons. See pages 8, 9, 10, 11. Except: (see Note 5)."

Note 5 on the same page says: "Lake trout and splake — Open season, Lakes Michigan and Huron and their tributary streams; May 1 through Labor Day."

"WHADDAYA MEAN 'extended season?' " my fishin' buddy asked.

I read from page 8: "The following streams and portions of streams from their designated upstream limit to their mouths are open to hook and line fishing for trout and salmon and other species of fish on which the season is open during the extended seasons from April 1 through the Friday before the last Saturday in April and from Oct. 1 through Dec. 31. In addition, stream sections noted with an asterisk and all non-trout streams not specifically listed are open year around for the taking of species qualified above (exceptions noted)."

Pages 8-11 listed 150 or so streams, printed in insurance policy type.

"What's that mean in English?" my friend inquired.

"On some streams, we can fish now," I translated.

"Wanna go to the Rifle River?" he asked.

I looked it up: "Rifle — Arenac, Ogemaw — Junction of Devoe Lk. outlet and Rifle R. Note: Rifle River Closed to the taking of brown trout during extended season only." Fourteen other rivers on the four-page list had special exceptions.

I turned to my friend: "My throat's parched with all that reading. Gimme a beer." He obliged.

"SKIP THE exceptions. Just tell me the creel limit — still five?" said my buddy.

Page 13 of the rules said: "5 in any combination from inland lks. in Great Lks, Lk. St. Clair, St. Marys, St. Clair & Detroit Rs.; 5 in any combination, but no more than 3 of any one species, Except pink salmon, nor more than 2 Lake trout or splake from Lk. Mich. On streams, 10 in any combination, but no more than 3 fish over 16 inches (see Note 8). Except on streams during the extended trout and salmon season the limit is 3. See Note 6 and Quality Trout Regulations, p. 18. Except AuSable River, see Iosco Co. page 16. Except: Pere Marquette R., page 18."

I took a deep swallow of the malt beverage and plowed on.

"Note 8 — The 16-inch size limit does not apply to pink salmon. 5 extra pink salmon may be taken from the St. Marys River.

"Note 6 — Possession limit on salmon: one may possess an additional 2 days daily limit, possession being: canned in a sealed container, cured by smoking or drying or frozen in a solid state."

"I GET PARCHED just listening to you," said my companion, opening himself a brew. "Skip the details. Anything about that pretty stretch of the Huron River in the Proud Lake Area?"

I found it on page 18 under Quality Fishing Regulations. "Huron River (Oakland Co.) — Mouth Lake to signs 100 yds. below Wixom Rd. (2 miles) catch and release (no kill) with artificial flies only Apr. 1-Day before last Saturday in April. Regular trout rules beginning last Saturday in April-Sept. 30."

By now my fishin' buddy was smirking. "My kid is thinking about Wall Street as a career. I'm gonna tell him ferget it and be an environmental lawyer, explaining the fishing rules to poor slobs like us. He can get rich.

"Why don't we get out our cane poles and the boat and go over to good ol' Kent Lake for panfish? Anything complicated about that?"

"No," I replied, "as soon as we get our licenses, our sportsmen's book, a license for the trailer, a license for the boat, a Metroparks pass and a boat launch pass."

At that moment, my buddy opted for grain alcohol as being less injurious to his mental health than fishing rules, regulations and licenses.

Columnist should study abortion

To the editor:

After reading Jack Gladden's March 29th column regarding the Right to Life groups which picketed the homes of abortionists in West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Hills, Bloomfield Township and Orchard Lake, I felt that I had to respond to his comments.

I will not discuss the issue of abortion with Mr. Gladden, but I will comment on the terminology used by him to describe the demonstrators, whom he clearly dislikes intensely. He describes the people as a "motley group of people," thus inferring that they are unkempt and dirty. Would he dare use this term to describe members of NOW who might be at an outdoor rally and dressed for the cold weather? He described the placards carried by these people as "their usual baggage." Would he ever use this term to describe visual aids used by members of homeless coalitions at their demonstrations? Terms such as "intimidate," "harassment," "sanctimonious," "radical" were used to describe the intentions of the demonstrators. I think he would be more respectful of the political position of NOW and homeless coalitions, perhaps because he happens to agree with their cause.

Mr. Gladden should really study the abortion issue before writing a column which is clearly uninformed and so full of inflammatory phrases. He may just find that these demonstrators have a worthy cause and are willing to suffer through groundless attacks, such as Mr. Gladden's, if it will bring the attention of the public to the serious matter of abortion.

Would I want to know if my neighbor was an abortionist? Yes, because it would tell me what kind of doctor lives in my area. As a woman, I would not want such a doctor to treat me at all.

Reporter did good job

To the editor:

On Feb. 12 two articles appeared in the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers featuring the accomplishments of the Western Wayne Auto Theft Elimination Effort. I would like to compliment reporter Diane Gale on her thorough research of the history of this task force, the auto theft issues it addresses, and its effectiveness. Her reporting is commendably factual.

We are very proud of this team which has been successful through the cooperative efforts of area police agencies and the support of the Automobile Theft Prevention Authority. It is a pleasure to have its positive impact presented to the citizens it serves in such a professional manner.

Please thank Diane for all the attention she has given to our team. She is a fine representative of your agency and a pleasure to work with.

Magazines shouldn't be sold at store

To the editor:

I am writing this letter in regard to our local downtown bookstore, Little Professor Book Store. Sunday afternoon I was in the store browsing through craft magazines when I noticed two young boys looking through a magazine titled "Fangore."

Their shrieks of "gross," "look at that — oh my G-" made it hard to ignore them. This was not the first time I had witnessed the effects of this magazine — several months prior or the same situation occurred — only with younger boys.

The pictures filled with people with their heads split open, women scantily dressed with blood and ropes covering their bodies, children being mutilated (in a very true to life fashion I must say) brought on much anger and disbelief that our local bookstore would carry such distasteful, unprofitable material for young readers.

I spoke with the store clerk and asked him to share my feelings with the management several months ago, but obviously it made no impression.

Well, now with this letter I am hoping to express with a lot more enthusiasm my feelings of disappointment and dissatisfaction with their store and would encourage others who share my view that this kind of magazine has no place on the magazine rack will express it to the owners and shop for their reading materials elsewhere.

"Choose you this day where you will shop for reading materials — but for me and my house — we will shop some place else."

Recycling is important

To the editor:

As one who has devoted a lifetime to helping America's youth in the classroom, I was deeply moved by student Jack S. Gatlin's letter in The Observer (Monday, April 2), entitled "Recycling is important for future generation." For his understanding of the urgency for recycling and willingness to do something about it, student Gatlin, his teachers and especially his parents can be proud.

Indeed, it is "frightening that we have lost 25 percent of the world's forests . . . An average American uses the equivalent of seven trees every year in paper products." What factual information for students and teachers and businesspeople too, to take note.

Perhaps a couple of additional facts need to be called to student Gatlin's attention: Stop excessive use of ditto and Xerox papers. Make sure that every sheet of paper is used on both sides for practice work before discarding. There would be less need for cleaning the mess after leaving the classroom if it were not carelessly made in the first place.

Keep telling 'em, Jack Gatlin. Bless you for having the guts to tell it like it is. Not only your younger sisters, brothers and cousins appreciate you for trying to improve the environment, but we all say you are loved for telling us that working together "we can make a difference."

Tax editorial was on target

To the editor:

Congratulations on your analysis of the Patterson-Anderson tax hike plan.

They've made it so complicated, some people have been falsely sold that the Patterson-Anderson proposal will cut their property tax assessments. It won't — even if it gets enough petition signatures to put the tax shift/increase on the Nov. 6 ballot, and voters are further misled by Messrs. Patterson and Anderson to vote for it.

Write to urge cleanup law

To the editor:

I am writing to urge all readers to contact their state senator to express support of state Senate Bill 375, "The Comprehensive Clean-Up Act."

Michigan has a serious, expensive toxic waste disposal problem (2700 toxic waste sites) that won't be solved until those responsible for the problem, not the taxpayers, are forced to pay to clean it up.

CONSUMER ALERT
By Larry Thomas

WASHINGTON In an effort to reduce the number of infant suffocations, the Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a safety alert that advises parents not to leave infants unattended on any adult or youth bed

CPSC officials said the agency received more than 200 reports of infants suffocating on such beds between 1985 and 1989, and said most occurred when the child rolled to the edge of the bed and became trapped.

"The commission staff urges that infants not be left on adult or youth beds, whether mattress type or waterbed," the safety report reads. "Preferably, infants should be placed in a crib that meets the federal safety standards and industry voluntary standards for cribs and has a tight fitting mattress."

The alert was issued in the wake of a petition filed in July asking the CPSC to require warning labels on waterbeds. The petition, filed by the Consumer Federation of America and the New York attorney general's office, asks for labels with wording similar to the safety alert.

Leather Luxury: The scent, the prestige, the durability, the eye appeal, the ease of maintenance, the economy and the feel of leather are the reasons people desire to own leather.

Leather has an aesthetic appeal. It has it's own pleasant aroma that appeals to the sensitivity of everyone in a very special way that no other product can. Leather is no longer a cold, hard product purchased only for its looks and prestige. Today's leathers unsurpassed warmth and comfort year round.

Many people feel leather will become too hot in the summer, this is not true. Leather adjusts quickly to body temperature and is comfortable year round. The natural network of fibers in the leather allows air to circulate through it.

Leather is the strongest upholstery material known to man. Leather has an interwoven network which makes it flexible, it will bend and not break.

To meet consumers demands for increased softness in leathers and expanded range of colors, tanneries have developed new processes such as aniline dyeing. Aniline dyeing, a process in which the full hide is dyed, results with leather being softer and supple. Leathers which have been semi-aniline dyed combine both the softness of aniline dyeing and the benefits of surface protection. These leathers are available in any color a home owner could want.

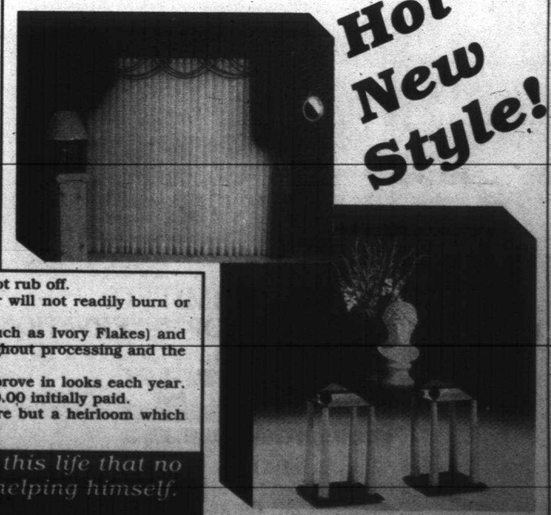
The finishes are permanent and the colors are absorbed by the leather and will not rub off.

Modern chemicals ensure that the leather finish will not crack or peel. Leather will not readily burn or melt, and unlike most fabrics and vinyl, it is extremely difficult to puncture.

The care of leather is very simple. Wipe gently with a solution of mild soap (such as Ivory Flakes) and water. Wipe dry and you are finished! The beauty of the hide is protected throughout processing and the natural oils of leather have been sealed in permanently.

While other materials depreciate in value, leather is found to appreciate and improve in looks each year. At the end of the 20 years, a chair most likely will be worth more than the $1,200.00 initially paid.

Leather will last forever. A leather product is not just another piece of furniture but a heirloom which could be passed down from generation to generation!



Hot New Style!

It is one of the most beautiful compensations of this life that no man can sincerely try to help another without helping himself.

RECYCLING IS GOOD NEWS:

Overcrowded landfills. Garbage barges no one wants to deal with. Terminal trash.

News.

Bad news.

The good news? More and more people, businesses and industries are finding ways to recycle.

It takes more than 6,000 tons of newsprint each year to print The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers plus a number of other publications, so we're doing a number of things to help the solid waste situation:

1.For years we've sold our waste newsprint to a recycling firm.

2. 25% of the newsprint we print on is recycled and we're increasing this amount by another 25% this year.

3. Our employees have begun to routinely put office paper (memos, computer paper, waste copy paper) in recycle bins instead of waste baskets.

Of course, we still deliver thousands of newspapers twice each week. It's our business to bring you news of your local government, schools, sports scene and community events; the news you need to know.

And when you're finished reading your hometown newspaper there are places that will recycle them.

We've listed a few for you on this page because we think recycling Good News.

No-buzz coffees terrific

I'm still green behind the ears when it comes to the coffee market. I've drank the best (Royal Kona Hawaiian and Jamaician Blue Mountain) and have made the worst.

Probably two of the major changes that have hit today's coffee market is the decline in regular coffee drinking contrasted by a skyrocketing rapid rise in the use of decaffeinated and gourmet coffees and the transition from wishy-washy decafs to actually great tasting non-buzzing brews.

As we speak, the coffee market is undergoing yet another major change, greatly improved decaffeinating processes, which are chemical free.

Removing the caffeine from coffee beans has been around for the last 30 or so odd years. Sales of decaffeinated coffee, however, never rose to expectations because usually the decaf process left a coffee that was watered down with hardly any flavor and almost no aroma. Couple the lost flavor and aroma with the fact that the decafing process involved using a chemical solvent (methylene chloride) employed in direct contact with the beans and you had not just a crummy-tasting cup of coffee but also one that had somewhat questionable health standards.

THE METHYLENE chloride used in most over-the-counter brands of coffee you and I purchase has reportedly caused cancer in laboratory animals and is considered a "possible human carcinogen" by the EPA and FDA. Because of these findings, methylene chloride was banned last summer for use in hair sprays and cosmetics. It is, however, still used in most lesser-quality decaf coffees because the EPA and FDA claims that "the residual level of methylene chloride in the final product is very low and therefore considered safe." Yea, OK, and someday I'm going to win Lotto 47.

So off you run to your can of coffee and with a sigh of relief, you read that your decaf coffee is processed with ethyl acetate. Coffee decaffeinated with this solvent is often called "natural" because ethyl acetate exists in some fruits. It does, but only in minute quantities like 10-20 parts per million.

Ethyl acetate is used industrially as a solvent in lacquers and varnishes and in the manufacture of artificial leather. Guess what? The FDA says that it, too, is considered safe, in the quantities left as a residue on the beans after the decaf process. And they say, "Trust me"!

But there are alternatives for those of us who really don't wish their coffee be treated with industrial solvents. Two methods that produce a great-tasting decaffeinated cup of coffee are the Supercritical Carbon Dioxide method and the Swisswater method.

IN THE SUPERCRITICAL CO_2 process, coffee beans are first saturated in water and then treated with carbon dioxide that has been compressed to 200 times normal atmospheric pressure. This method is used by more upscale and slightly more expensive decaf brands, such as Sanka.

Companies boasting the Swiss water method have discovered newer technology that has the green coffee beans first soaked in water to remove the caffeine. The caffeine-laced water is then run through a series of carbon filters used to purify drinking water. As the water cycles between the beans and the carbon, the concentration of coffee solubles in the water increases until it equals that of the beans.

Once at this point, these flavor components are no longer removed from the beans because they are in balance between the beans and the water mixture. Therefore, the final product is a full-flavored coffee with only the caffeine removed.

Lamb is flavorful and tender

By Larry Janes
special writer

MOMMA ALWAYS served a whole ham at Easter, completely studded with cloves, rings of canned Dole pineapple slices and bottled-in-red-dye-number-three maraschino cherries. We ate Easter ham all week and then found it tucked between Wonder Bread in our school lunches and, finally, almost cooked beyond recognition in a large pot with great Northern beans and vegetables.

We never ate lamb. Not at Easter, never at Christmas. In my maturation years, my experiences with lamb were based solely on visits to the Detroit Zoo.

Contrary to what some say, age does have its benefits. Being all of 18, I had just been flown (my first airplane ride) to the Culinary Institute in Hyde Park, N.Y., for a shortened summer session. The first night's dinner was, and to this day I can remember it like it happened yesterday, a roast sliced leg of lamb. Tasting that lamb was like a first ride in a convertible. I wanted more.

Lamb has long been noted for its delicate flavor and tenderness. Pick up the menu at any fine dining establishment around the world and lamb will be featured in one way or another. Sliced leg, crown roasts, braised chops, broiled rack, rolled breast, you name it, and just like beef, you can accomplish it with lamb.

SURPRISINGLY, HOWEVER, we don't eat a lot of lamb in the United States. According to American Meat Institute figures for 1986, Americans eat 1.4 pounds of lamb annually, quite a difference from the 62-plus pounds of pork and the whopping 76 pounds of beef.

Granted, most butchers in the United States seldom carry all three varieties (heck, some won't even carry lamb because it's a slow mover), but the three basic types of lamb are milk fed, spring and mutton.

Baby milk-fed lamb, traditional for people of many cultures for the Easter holiday, is the most delicate, sought after and, of course, most expensive. These are annually less than three months old when slaughtered and are, because of their size, sold whole, halved or quartered for full roasting on either a spit or a very large oven.

Spring lamb can be anywhere from three to nine months old. Until the end of October, it will be stamped "genuine spring lamb." From November on, it becomes winter lamb.

Jack Ubaldi, author of "The Meat Book," Macmillan, 1987, actually comes forward and says in his book, "The worst time of the year for lamb is January to April, when the majority of lambs available to buy are yearlings, which fall into a sort of lamb limbo, too old for lamb and too young for mutton." Comments like that kind of squelch the reasons for cooking an Easter lamb, eh?

Matzoh — it's special at Passover

By Nechama Bakst
special writer

Tonight, on the first night of Passover, children in Jewish households around the world will be reciting the traditional four questions.

First of all, they will ask, why is it that on all other nights of the year we eat leavened bread and unleavened bread (matzoh), while on Passover we eat only matzoh?

Actually, it's food for thought. After all, matzoh, traditionally made of flour and water with no eggs, salt, sugar or fat, is a wholesome, low-calorie carbohydrate sold in supermarkets throughout the year.

And matzoh balls (round balls made of matzoh meal) served with chicken soup are a year-round staple on Jewish menus.

SO WHAT makes matzoh so special on Passover?

Eating matzoh throughout the year is strictly a physical experience, according to Rabbi Elimelech Silberberg, spiritual leader of the Bais Chabad Torah Center in West Bloomfield.

"Matzoh is characteristically called the bread of affliction and humility," Silberberg said.

"By eating matzoh on Passover we ask God to imbue us with the selflessness and modesty so necessary in carrying out our mission as Jews."

THESE SPIRITUAL implications are only relevant during the Passover holiday when God charged the Jews with this commandment, Silberberg said.

"It's not that you couldn't do it (eat matzoh) during the year," said Southfield resident Vera Silverstein. "But it just doesn't taste the same. There's nothing like Pesach (the Hebrew word for Passover)."

An innovative cook, Silverstein said her family of seven uses "tons of matzoh" not only for eating but in cooking and baking.

ONE REASON her matzoh tastes different on Passover is that Silverstein uses only "shmura" matzoh, a darker, coarser matzoh than the kind usually packaged year-round.

"Shmura matzoh means that the wheat has been watched from the time it was cut . . . to protect it from becoming leavened," said Avrohom Plotnik, co-owner of Spitzer's Hebrew Book and Gift Center in Southfield.

Plotnick sells close to 3,000 pounds of matzoh of different kinds during the Passover season, which starts about a month before Passover.

The store carries shmura hand matzoth (plural for matzoh) at $10.50 a pound that are mixed, rolled out and baked completely by hand.

These — the traditional round matzoth — are the coarsest.

There is shmura machine matzoth, round or square, but also dark and coarse, at $6.95 a pound, and regular matzoth at $3.25 a pound.

SOME FOODS taste better with the coarser matzoh, said Silverstein, who uses shmura hand matzoth for eating and shmura machine matzoth for cooking.

Take stuffed cabbage, she said.

Because rice is forbidden on Passover in some Jewish households, Silverstein makes sweet-and-sour stuffed cabbage with matzoh.

"Stuffed cabbage Pesach time comes out better than the rest of the year," Silverstein said.

FOR ABOUT three pounds of ground beef, she uses about one to 1½ cups of matzoh ground coarsely in a food processor.

She adds three eggs to the processed matzoh and stir fries the mixture in a little oil in a frying pan, turning it until it is sauteed.

Then she adds two diced onions, salt and seasoning to taste, along with the ground meat.

The mixture is used to fill cabbage leaves, which are then cooked, with tomato juice diluted in a little water and sugar, on top of a low flame for 1-1½ hours.

"It's delicious," Silverstein said. "The matzoh gives it a very special taste. My kids love it better than during the year."

BUT SILVERSTEIN doesn't stop at giving traditional foods a Passover twist.

Some of her recipes are pure creativity.

Would you envision lasagna made with matzoh?

"Take tuna, matzoh and cheese. Add tomato juice or tomato sauce, and you got lasagna," she said. "Instead of the lasagna noodles you use the matzoh."

THEN, OF course, there are the Passover staples.

In most families, Passover wouldn't be Passover without someone sitting down to a meal or a snack of matzoh and butter.

And at breakfast, "matzoh 'brie' is the big thing," Silverstein said.

For matzoh brie, matzoh is soaked in water and drained, then added to beaten eggs and fried in oil in a frying pan.

"I let it brown very well on both sides, so it comes out almost like a pancake," Silverstein said.

It's eaten either alone or with sugar, jelly or syrup.

Vera Silverstein says the trick to fluffy matzoh balls is separating the eggs.

Here's her recipe for soft, fluff "knaidlach" or matzoh balls.

4 eggs
½ cup oil or shortening
½ cup water
1 teaspoon salt pepper
1-1¼ cups matzoh meal

Separate eggs. Add to yolks shortening, water, salt and pepper. Beat whites until stiff. Add matzoh meal to yolk mixture and fold in whites.

Refrigerate about 1 hour and form mixture into balls. Cook in boiling, salted water covered about ½ hour.

Another recipe for matzoh balls comes from "A Little Jewish Cookbook" by Barbara Bloch.

1 tablespoon freshly chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon ground ginger (optional)
salt and pepper to taste
4 tablespoons melted schmaltz (chicken fat) or oil
4 eggs
½ cup sparkling water
1 cup matzoh meal

Stir parsley, ginger, salt and pepper into chicken fat. Add eggs and sparkling water and beat to blend. Stir in matzoh meal (mixture should be moist). Regrigerate 1 hour. Wet hands and form into walnut-sized balls. Bring 8-10 cups chicken soup to a boil. Drop balls into boiling soup. Reduce heat and cover to simmer 20 minutes or until balls float on top. Serve 2-3 balls per person.

Try Raiselle Snow of Southfield's turkey stuffing made with matzoh.

One 16-20 pound turkey

8-pieces matzoh broken into pieces
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
1 large onion, diced
2 ribs celery, diced
1 clove garlic, diced vegetable oil
2 eggs
salt and pepper to taste

Soak matzoh pieces in water until soft.

Rub skillet with garlic, cover bottom pan with oil. Mince garlic and add to oil, mix in vegetables, and simmer until tender.

Squeeze water from matzoh. Place pieces in bowl and add sauteed vegetables with oil. Mix in eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Mixture should be moist. Stuff cavity and neck of turkey loosely with stuffing.

Don't know what to do with all those leftovers from big holiday dinners? Here's a recipe that uses leftover cooked chicken and matzoh.

3 cups matzoh coarsely ground or matzoh farfel
2 cups chicken broth, heated
2 onions, diced
2 stalks celery, diced
1 cup mushrooms (or 2 cans)
½ green pepper
3 tablespoons oil
3 eggs
salt, pepper, paprika and garlic powder to taste

Combine matzoh or farfel and broth in mixing bowl. Let stand while sauteing vegetables in heated oil.

Add chicken and cook a few minutes longer, stirring to mix well.

Beat eggs. Add eggs and vegetable-chicken mixture to farfel. Mix well. Season to taste. Bake in well-greased casserole at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

ANOTHER CHOICE might be mutton, which is a two-year-old male sheep. This lamb has a strong taste particularly enjoyed by the English.

Thanks to modern technology and shipping techniques, much of the lamb we enjoy comes from New Zealand and Australia. Never, however, underestimate the flavor of fresh lamb, especially from one of the butchers down in the Gratiot Central market, a stone's throw across the Fisher Freeway from the Eastern Market main entrance. The metro Detroit's widely expanded Middle Eastern community has made our area a prime market for fresh lamb products.

If you are looking for the freshest lamb, look for meat with a bright and light red tinge, not a dark, deep ruby red found in beef. You should be able to see some red in the bones. If they are white and bleached out, the lamb is old.

Lamb is the smallest of the four-footed meat animals. If you have never seen a lamb before, imagine the difference between lamb and beef with a leg of beef weighing in at more than 80 pounds while a leg of lamb comes in between six and eight pounds, maximum. Lamb is a fatty animal and, unlike pork, the fat is not edible. It is more like tallow. This contributes to the high price of lamb because by the time the lamb is trimmed of its fat and other non-edible parts, the resulting meat is only about 40 percent of its weight. The fat is another reason the best time to purchase lamb is from May to November, when the lamb has developed less solidified fat than when it's older.

I HAVE CERTAINLY made up for my first 18 years of not enjoying lamb. Occasionally, I splurge and have my meat man tie up a crown roast of lamb that will serve six people. Unfortunately, this comes pretty close to a day's wages and those days are few and far between. A sample polling of some of metro Detroit's finest restaurants found a rack of lamb for one person priced between $25 and $50.

On the other hand, every now and then I get the urge to pick up a small leg of lamb. If I shop around, I might be able to find it at under $1.80 per pound. I slather on imported olive oil and then rub in rosemary, garlic and kosher salt with my hands, and roast it in a slow oven or toss on the barbecue's one-hour-old coals.

Then again, sometimes I'll just pick up a package of little lamb chops at a frightful price and pop them under a broiler for a light, low-cal dinner entree with a few steamed vegetables. Even the ground lamb patties available at most good markets easily can be made into stuffed cabbages broiled by themselves, or mixed with rice, lemon juice and herbs for a stuffed grape leaf that would melt in your mouth.

So don't just enjoy lamb around Easter. The best lamb to hit the fresh market here in Detroit will be available beginning the first of May.

ROAST LEG OF SPRING LAMB
1 leg of lamb, about 6-8 pounds
2 cloves garlic, peeled and slivered
1 tablespoon rosemary salt and pepper to taste, preferably fresh ground
2 tablespoons oil
½ cup dry sherry, dry vermouth or water

Trim the lamb, leaving only a tiny amount of fat on to keep the juices inside. I like to remove all fat.

Remove all the fat within the pelvic bone and whatever fat is on top of the round.

With a small, sharp knife, make a few deep cuts near the bone. In each, place some garlic, rosemary, salt and pepper.

Rub the surface of the lamb with oil and rub completely with garlic, salt, pepper and more rosemary.

Place the leg in a shallow roasting pan. Roast in a preheated 350-degree oven for 15-18 minutes per pound. (About 1½ hours per 6 pound leg for rare, 2 hours for medium rare, 2½ hours for medium and 3 hours for well done.) Brush every half hour with sherry or water to make a gravy.

BROILED MARINATED LAMB CHOPS
8 lamb chops, about 1 ¼ inch thick
2 cloves garlic, peeled and chopped fine
½ teaspoon thyme juice of 1 lemon
salt and fresh ground pepper to taste

Place the chops in a deep glass dish and sprinkle them with the above ingredients. Refrigerate for at least 1 hour. Place 4-6 inches from the broiler and broil to desired doneness.

PERSIAN LAMB WITH ORANGE HERBED RICE
¾ cup slivered almonds
1 ½ pounds ground lamb
1 ½ to 2 cups chopped onion
2 to 4 cloves garlic, minced
1 beef bouillon cube juice of 1 lime
1 tablespoon dried mint
1 medium bunch fresh spinach, well washed
1 medium tomato, cut into wedges
1 ripe avocado, peeled, pitted and cut into wedges

Heat a small amount of olive oil in a large skillet. Add almonds; beat and stir until golden. Remove to a plate.

In same skillet, brown lamb with onions, garlic and bouillon, about 10 minutes. Add lime juice and mint, cook and stir 1 minute.

Line a large platter with fresh spinach. Drain any fat from lamb; place in the center of the platter. Surround with tomato and avocado wedges. Serve with herbed orange rice.

This recipe was created by Doreen Pollock at Dayton Hudson's and is featured in "Potluck for 24,000: recipes from the great Dayton Hudson cook-off, a benefit for the United Way. The book is available at most Dayton Hudson stores.

ORANGE HERBED RICE
¼ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onions zest of 1 orange
1 cup water
½ cup orange juice
dash salt
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
1 cup long-grain rice

In a 2-quart saucepan, melt butter. Add celery and onion. Cook over medium heat about 5 minutes. Add water, orange juice, zest and spices. Heat to boiling. Add rice. Reduce heat to a simmer. Cover and cook 20 minutes. Uncover, fluff rice with fork before serving.

Children, adults love make-ahead casserole

Betsy Brethen

Although spring has finally sprung, the greenest grass in town is still the shredded cellophane that will soon line Easter baskets.

Have you ever wondered who invented that awful stuff? My guess is that it was probably someone connected to the vacuum cleaner industry who cleverly knew that it would help pick up business.

In addition to Easter and Passover, which happen to fall concurrently this year, spring is always a time for many celebrations.

Mother's Day, Father's Day, bridal showers and graduation parties all offer wonderful opportunities for friends and families to assemble for brunch.

BUT, AS much fun as it is to break bread together, none of us wants to break our back doing it. That's why this week's Winner Dinner, Make-Ahead Sausage and Egg Casserole, is sure to become a favorite.

It is easy to assemble, must be made ahead, can be frozen, and is delicious and filling.

Submitted by Pat Canfield of Garden City, this is one meal that children as well as adults always seem to love. Canfield likes to serve this casserole with freshly made bran muffins, applesauce and orange juice.

THE PARENTS of four grown children and part of a close-knit family, the Canfields are looking forward to having an Easter egg hunt for their six grandchildren.

Although Canfield's husband has recently retired, she continues to work part time as a baby sitter.

In her spare time, she teaches quilting and crafts, belongs to two quilting guilds and is the coordinator of her church's parish quilt, which will be raffled off in September.

In addition to all this, Canfield and her husband enjoy square dancing, golf and camping. Their busy and fulfilling lives are enriched by the many varied activities in which they are involved.

Thank you, Pat Canfield, for sharing your tasty and timely recipes with us. The quilted star design on the apron you made for the accompanying picture proclaims you for what you are — our star Winner Dinner Winner of the week.

MAKE-AHEAD SAUSAGE AND EGG CASSEROLE

This tasty dish must be made a day in advance and refrigerated, can be frozen. It serves 8.

1 pound regular pork or turkey sausage
6 eggs
2 cups milk
6 slices white bread, cubed
1 teaspoon salt, optional
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup packed, grated cheddar cheese

Lightly brown and crumble pork sausage. Drain and cool. In a bowl, beat eggs. Add milk, salt, mustard, cubed bread and stir. Add cheese and sausage.

Pour into a glass dish, 9-by-13-inches or 1½ quarts. Refrigerate overnight. Place in oven uncovered and bake for 50 minutes at 350 degrees. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

If you would like to freeze this casserole, assemble and place in the freezer until the day you will be serving it. Thaw and bake according to the above directions.

BRAN MUFFINS

This is a recipe for a master mix that keeps up to five weeks in your refrigerator. From now on, you and your family can have fresh, home-baked bran muffins every morning. This is a tastier recipe than the one on the cereal box.

15 ounces Post Raisin Bran cereal
5 cups flour
3 cups sugar
5 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt, optional
1 quart buttermilk
4 eggs
1 cup oil

Mix all the ingredients together. Spray muffin tins with a non-stick spray and fill half full with the batter. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes.

Obviously, this recipe makes a lot of muffins and they can be made ahead and frozen. That's what is so wonderful about it. Or, store the extra batter in a covered plastic container in the refrigerator and date it. It will keep for five weeks.

Shopping List

1 pound regular pork or turkey sausage
10 eggs
white bread
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
15-ounce box of Post Raisin Bran cereal
5 cups flour
3 cups sugar

How to match sauvignon blanc with foods

Eleanor and Ray Heald

Sauvignon blanc in its multiple wine styles from the Loire Valley and the Graves region of France, together with those from California, make it the most versatile of white wines to match with food.

With some wines, the type of food is the most important focus. With sauvignon blanc, it is clearly more a function of the cooking method, the acid/sugar levels and the herbs used in the sauce that determine a good matchup.

Sauvignon blanc is a fine-edged wine. Before considering food complements, you have to determine whether the wine is grassy, bordering on weedy, or if it's melony with grapefruit characters and, lastly, whether it's sweet because the residual sugar is above 0.5 percent.

Because of the wine's fine edge, if you put fresh cilantro (coriander) or tarragon with it, wine flavors are destroyed, unless the wine is grassy and herbal.

Basil works well if you don't choose the most pungent of its many hybrids. Raw, sweet basil used as the principle greens with a high-acid vinaigrette produces a salad that complements sauvignon blanc because the acidity reduces any aggressive components.

A COLD, dilled potato salad served with a well-chilled sauvignon blanc will destroy the myth that vinaigrettes don't match with wine. Certainly, white distilled vinegar doesn't complement, but vinegars made from quality wines and herb-flavored vinegars work well.

It's a question of balance. You have to experiment, know the flavors of the wine and adjust ingredient amounts. You can't do it directly from a recipe. That's the trick.

Bell pepperiness is frequently associated with sauvignon blanc so the natural tendency is to avoid their use. Peppers can complement the wine as long as you heighten the citrus character with fresh lime juice and chop the peppers rather than pureeing. Bell peppers roasted over high heat are also good. Tank-fermented sauvignon blancs with little or no wood aging do well here.

With more aggressive styles of sauvignon blanc, complementing is not always the way to go because you're risking whether the magic will be there or not. In this case, contrasting is probably more interesting.

The more melony styles of sauvignon blanc pair well with grilled fish and a splash of fresh lemon juice. Acid crispness and a slight charcoal-burnt flavor on the fish playing against the rounder, softer, melony wine flavors are a duel on the palate. There's a stimulation from one focus to the other. Here, the perfect match is the foil.

COMPLEMENTARY ingredients with high acidity and low sugar levels include: Michigan sun-dried cherries, fresh vegetables salsas, mustards, vinaigrettes, fruit relishes and chutneys.

They're called food and wine marriages, but frequently in marriages, it's the opposites that attract. Wine acidity causes two effects in the marriage of food and wine: 1. Food flavors induce a reaction with the wine on the palate that is pleasant; 2. The contrast of a smooth, creamy sauce and the wine's acidity create a chalkiness or curdling effect on the palate which is unpleasant.

Cream-base sauces are difficult matches with sauvignon blanc. Classical French creams with herb infusions get lost. The tongue becomes coated and the wine disappears.

However, soured, curdled or clotted creams will work; so do butter sauces. There must be a relatively high level of acid in the sauce in order to make it work with sauvignon blanc. Sauces that finish soft are lost with the wine.

You need firmer fish, like swordfish, red snapper or pike, to match textures with the wine in the mouth.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1988 Matanzas Creek Winery Sauvignon Blanc ($15) is a well-styled and focused wine. Its steely yet approachable character shouts, "Bring on the oysters." Melons, vanilla and a hint of grass highlight the nose. The wine is complex with bright acidity and a crisp, lengthy finish. Excellent.

1988 Taft Street Sauvignon Blanc ($6.75) with delicate hints of melon and assorted tropical fruits is straightforward, clean and value-priced.

Chicken, because of its low-sugar, grainy mustard sauces, and mustards with a slight horseradish addition highlight textures.

Jamie Morningstar, resident chef at Inglenook-Napa Valley, is responsible for a food and wine program that markets wines through the image of sitting down and eating.

"PEOPLE HAVE different tastes and preferences, so I hesitate discussing what doesn't work and prefer to emphasize what does," she says. "Because I'm opinionated, I must point out foods that I think don't work well with sauvignon blanc.

"Smoked foods come to mind immediately. They don't usually pair well with sauvignon blanc unless the wine has a smoky quality of its own. If the wine style is steely, smoked foods accentuate dryness and acidity and make the wine puckery in the mouth.

"Plain goat cheese becomes more pungent with sauvignon blanc, so if you like goat cheese, it's great. It works because of the acidic component in the goat cheese. The high butterfat content of most cheeses coats the tongue and cancels the wine's finish. Herbed goat cheese emphasizes the herbal quality of sauvignon blanc and reduces the goaty character of the cheese."

Cajun and creole orientations work if they are not overly spicy and hot. Clean, plain, gutsy foods with good acidity do best. Defined food flavors along with clearly identifiable sauvignon blanc flavors can't miss.

Easy salad dressing tastes like homemade

Call this elegant salad amazing. The dressing is amazingly easy. It mixes right in the bottle, and it tastes amazingly like homemade. The simple arrangement of fruit and greens look amazingly impressive.

To choose a prime papaya for this salad, look for one with smooth, undamaged skin. Allow a firm papaya to ripen at room temperature for 3 to 5 days or until it yields to gentle hand pressure. Once ripe it will keep for several days in the refrigerator.

GREENS AND PAPAYA SALAD
¼ teaspoons poppy seed
one 8-ounce bottle coleslaw salad dressing
1 papaya
2 heads bibb or Boston lettuce
1 head Belgian endive
one 8-ounce can grapefruit sections (water pack), drained
½ cup sliced almonds

Add poppy seed to salad dressing bottle. Cover; shake well. Chill until serving.

Peel, seed and slice papaya. Line a large platter with lettuce leaves. Fan papaya to one side, endive to the other. Spoon grapefruit in the center. Sprinkle with nuts. Cover and chill until serving time.

Before serving, shake dressing; drizzle over salad. Makes 8 servings.

clarification

The recipe for Paella, accompanying the article on country club chefs in Taste on Monday, April 2, should have read 2 cups rice, not 12 cups. The Paella recipe is from Executive Chef Lon McCracken of the Meadowbrook Country Club.

Cookbook gives Passover recipes

A section on Passover is included in the cookbook "The Galilee Gourmet Book II," from the Galilee Chapter B'nai B'rith Women.

Here are some recipes in that section.

APRICOT PASTRY
½ pound softened unsalted butter (or margarine)
2 egg yolks
Pinch of salt
1 cup sugar
2 cups sifted cake meal
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Combine preceding ingredients for pastry. Spread ¾ of the dough on the bottom of a greased 9-by-13-inch pan and up the sides 1-inch. Bake for 20 minutes at 325 degrees. Refrigerte remaining dough until needed. Remove the crust from the oven.

STUFFED CABBAGE
14-16 large cabbage leaves
1 pound ground beef
1 matzo, broken
½ cup water
1 egg, beaten
1 large onion, diced
¼ cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar
¼ cup water
1 can tomato and mushroom sauce

Remove leaves from large head of cabbage carefully. Place in a large pot, cover with boiling water, and simmer 5 minutes. Drain. Soak broken matzo in the ½ cup water until soft. Combine this mixture with ground meat and egg. Place a heaping tablespoon of this mixture in the center of each cabbage leaf. Fold in the sides to cover meat and roll. Place cabbage rolls in a large saucepan with open sides down. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over cabbage rolls. Bring to a boil and then reduce heat. Simmer about 1½ hours, basting occasionally. Serves 5-6.

Copies of the cookbook may be ordered by calling Linda Rosenberg of Southfield at 559-6706.

clarification

"Apple sauce" appeared instead of "apple slice" (in the paragraph on oxidation) and the word "color" instead of "odor" (in the paragraph on nose) in the Focus on Wine column that ran Monday, April 2, in Taste.

Be careful how you treat those Easter Eggs

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

Foods don't make people sick, bacteria does.

Any raw food of animal origin; meat, poultry, raw milk, fish and eggs may carry salmonella.

This bacteria can survive to cause food poisoning if these specific foods are not thoroughly cooked.

That means, no more servings of "Sunny Side Up" eggs. Instead, cook them until well done to be sure the salmonella bacteria is destroyed.

It is also important to stress Easter Egg safety. Decorated eggs are typically hard-cooked but many people abuse them by storing them improperly at room temperature.

Thus the eggs become a haven of bacteria and have potential to create food-borne illnesses.

Food safety starts when you buy the eggs from your local grocery store. The Federal and State inspectors have taken the guess work out of choosing a bad egg.

The eggs are inspected and graded by size for us. However, no inspector is able to detect if salmonella bacteria is present, but the potential is there.

Just remember that this bacteria is destroyed by heat, so cook eggs thoroughly and don't eat raw or undercooked eggs.

Before you place your carton of eggs in the shopping cart, open the carton and visually inspect the eggs.

Only buy ones that are clean and uncracked. Then be sure to refrigerate the eggs as soon as possible.

The best quality of eggs are maintained when refrigerated in the original carton.

If not, the porous egg shells pick up strong odors that exist in the refrigerator or they may lose moisture through the shell if they are left uncovered in the egg tray provided in most refrigerators.

REFRIGERATED RAW eggs in the shell need to be used within five weeks and hard-cooked eggs in the shell or peeled must be used within one week.

As the egg ages, the white clears and spreads thin when broken into a dish. A blood spot in a raw egg is harmless.

The next step in food safety is to cook hard-cooked eggs properly. Place the raw eggs in a pot of cold water. Heat the eggs over medium heat until the water boils. Immediately reduce the heat to keep the water simmering and simmer for 20 minutes. Never boil eggs. The dark ring that forms around the yolk after hard cooking is harmless. It's an interaction between iron and sulfur in the egg.

Air-cool the eggs in their shells in an open container in the refrigerator. Water cooling is not recommended because of the possibility that germs in the water can penetrate the egg shells.

After the eggs are cooked and cooled, you can decorate them with pure food colorings or dyes formulated with food-grade colorants.

Decorated hard-cooked eggs should be stored in the refrigerator before decorating, after decorating and after the Easter Egg hunt. Decorated eggs should be eaten within two or three days if they were out of the refrigerator a total of two hours or less for coloring, hunting and display. If the two-hour limit is a problem, you may want to color two sets of eggs, one for eating and one for displaying. Be sure to label each set clearly.

EGGS ARE sometimes called "nature's pre-packaged convenience food," but there are some additional tips for egg usage. Keep the heat down as high temperatures and overcooking toughens eggs.

If you plan to separate yolks and whites, do so as soon as you remove eggs from the refrigerator. Cold yolks are less likely to break. Egg whites whip to a larger volume at room temperature.

Either medium or large eggs may be used in most standard recipes. To cut down the cholesterol, substitute two whites for every whole egg.

Cutting out all egg yolks may make some baked goods and other dishes dry and tasteless, so use two whites plus one whole egg instead of two eggs.

Keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot. Just because something is cooked does not mean it can't contain bacteria. Cleanliness and proper storage temperatures are the answer to safe eggs and a safer food supply.

Apples popular since Garden of Eden

Store large quantities of apples in a cold (34 to 40 degrees F), moist place.

AP — From Adam and Eve to Johnny Appleseed to your family, apples have delighted all who sampled them.

VARIETIES

- Red Delicious: Named in 1894 when a nurseryman exclaimed, "My that's delicious." Sweet and juicy. Best for snacking; poor for baking. Available year-round.
- Golden Delicious: No kin to Red Delicious. Slightly elongated; sweet and juicy. An all-purpose apple, great for snacking, cooking and baking. They discolor slowly when cut and make wonderful applesauce without added sugar. Available September to June.
- Granny Smith: Maria Smith nurtured first seedling in the 1800s. Mildly tart. Best for snacking; good for baking. Available year-round.
- Jonathan: Deep red; mildly tart, rich flavor. Versatile apple, excellent for snacking, pies and other baking. Available September to April.
- McIntosh: First apple tree planted by John McIntosh about 1811. Two-toned red and green. All-purpose apple. Available September to June.
- Red Rome (Rome Beauty): Named for an apple-growing area in Ohio, not Italy. Slightly tart. Best for baking. Available October to August.
- Winesap: Granddaddy of American apples. Winelike flavor. All-purpose apple. Available November to July.

STORING

- Store large quantities of apples in a cold (34 to 40 degrees F), moist place. Small quantities of fruit should be stored in a plastic bag in the refrigerator away from the freezer section. Be sure the bag has holes to allow the fruit to breathe.

APPLE ARITHMETIC

- 1 pound apples equals 4 small or 3 medium or 2 large apples.
- 1 pound apples makes 3 cups diced or 2¾ cups sliced apples.
- 1 bushel apples equals 126 medium apples or 18 to 20 quarts of canned or frozen apple slices or 16 to 20 quarts of applesauce.
- 2 pounds of apples makes enough sliced apples for one 9-inch pie.

NUTRITION

- A medium apple contains about 80 calories, vitamins A and C, soluble fiber, and no fat.

Rocks roll over Harrison in opener

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

Shelby Carey of Salem advances the ball upfield in Friday's season opener. The Rocks opened with a 12-0 defeat of Harrison.

By Dan O'Meara and Bill Parker
staff writers

Plymouth Salem had the ideal season opener in girls soccer Friday.

The Rocks got a lot of players involved and gained confidence with their 12-0 defeat of visiting Farmington Hills Harrison.

"The team looks good," said Salem coach Ken Johnson, who saw his squad take a 10-0 halftime lead. "We've got a lot of talent out there. In the second half, I told them to ease off and just pass the ball."

The Rocks had a impressive debut without star forward Michele Minton, who left Thursday on a European tour with the Midwest Olympic Development soccer team.

Minton — as well as Farmington's Carrie Maier and Livonia Stevenson's Ragen Coyne — will be gone until the week after Easter, but freshman Kris Goff played well in her stead, leading Salem with three goals.

"That's a bonafide all-stater," said Johnson of Minton. "Kris Goff looked good in the middle taking her place."

ERIN HARVEY followed with two goals and two assists, and Erin Bagozzi and Sara Egloff also scored two goals apiece. Jennifer Marshall, Kim Goff and Amy Krajewski each scored once.

Jenny Oleksiak and Sara Hayes assisted on two goals each, Egloff and Bagozzi one apiece.

Johnson also was pleased with the leadership demonstrated by tri-captains Hayes and Jennifer Marshall. Hayes is a halfback and Marshall a defender. Minton is the third captain.

"They held the fort tonight," Johnson said. "They had a steadying influence and followed instructions well in the second half, passing the ball."

Harrison had celebrated its first victory in two years Wednesday when it defeated host Redford Union 3-0 in its season opener.

"You're only as good as your competition," Harrison coach Glenn Breuhan said. "I feel RU is more our competition. (Both) have a lot of inexperienced players, and that made for a good game.

"I was very pleased with their performance Wednesday. It was good, basic soccer, though we need to work on our skills as the season goes along."

soccer

The Hawks played Salem without goal keeper Stephanie Kallen, sweeper Molly Horton and striker Robyn LaHuiller, all of whom were injured.

"Ken's team looked great; they were impressive," Breuhan said. "Three of our top players were out, but it wouldn't have made a difference in the game. It might have been 10-0 instead of 12-0."

The team's best player, Flora Plumaji, was on the bench Friday, too, Breuhan said, but he hopes she is available to play Tuesday against Walled Lake Central. Plumaji was a surprise addition to the team but must pass the routine physical examination before being eligible, Breuhan said.

COACH HENRY Klimes isn't worried about Farmington Hills Mercy's lack of offense in its first three soccer games.

The Marlins are undefeated, after all.

Klimes does approve of the defense Mercy has played in posting a 1-0-2 record to date, the latest was a 1-1 draw with Catholic League rival Birmingham Marian on Thursday.

"The goals will come," Klimes said. "We're very strong defensively, and I'm very optimistic.

"Last year we lost to Marian 3-0 both times we played. To be able to tie them and have the opportunity to win it shows how far we have come.

"We look strong; we're really getting it together," he added.

Mercy junior Dana Lehmkuhl scored the team's lone goal late in the second half, with an assist coming from senior halfback Rachel Demascio.

Going against the wind in the first half, the Marlins managed eight shots to Marian's 11. Mercy turned Kris Goff (3) closes on Kelly Choinski of Harrison. Goff had to play defense this time, but she had a big night on offense, scoring three goals to pace Salem's lopsided victory.

Success at any price isn't worth cost

SOMETHING'S WRONG. Very, very wrong.

There are people on this planet working endless hours, searching for cures to cancer and AIDS. And who do we immortalize? We make demigods out of somebody with no talent except an uncanny ability to jump high or run fast.

Athletes are the most overrated people in this world. And we should be terrified that they carry the clout they do.

The death of Doug Briggs, the Plymouth Salem football player, should not be ignored if indeed it resulted from a supposed training technique.

BRIGGS WAS discovered in his basement March 25. He had hung himself. A recent theory is that his death was accidental; he had read in a sports magazine how Mark Bavarro, all-pro tight end with the New York Giants, used self-strangulation as a training tool.

Briggs decided to give it a try. It would supposedly help him control his breathing and increase his stamina.

This is more than a bit crazy. It suggests a trend — we'll do anything to be a success in sports. And that's scary.

The question is, where does sacrifice end and stupidity begin?

Bigger, faster, stronger. Is that all that matters? No limits, no reason?

IT'S NOT worth it. Certainly not at the price Briggs paid. Or even what it cost Dave Houle.

Remember big Dave Houle? He should have been a guy worth emulating. Houle was everything Briggs treasured. They shared a common background, both attending Salem High School and playing football for coach Tom Moshimer. The difference was Briggs was average; Houle was the best player to ever come out of Salem.

Houle went on to stardom at Michigan State, a starting offensive tackle who helped the Spartans capture a Big Ten title and Rose Bowl championship. In the process, though, he suffered all sorts of agonies, both mental and physical.

C.J. Risak

Houle will never be remembered for what he accomplished on the playing fjeld for MSU. Instead, his name will forever more be linked with the steroid scandal that has ravaged the Spartan campus.

A former teammate claims Houle used the illegal, muscle-enhancing drugs. Houle continues to deny it. He denied it when reporters from the Detroit News called and confronted him (although the News' story suggests Houle refused to talk to them).

"I WORKED out in the weight room six days a week," Houle said in explaining his weight growth at MSU, from 217 as a freshman to 282 as a senior, five years later. "Funny they never mentioned that (in the News' story)."

According to Houle, a bleeding ulcer kept him from putting on weight during his senior year at Salem. Improved training and eating habits enabled him to bulk up once at MSU. Lunacy seems to be an accepted part of a football lineman's training. Houle said he and MSU teammates used to "keep hitting each other (pads against pads) before a game." He had never heard of anything like Briggs did.

But he can understand the motivation, especially if a superstar like Bavarro had supposedly tried it. "When you get to that point, you're working your butt off and there's nothing left to do. Most people would think, 'I'll try it if it'll help.'

"If someone told me it would help, I'd think about it."

BUT HOULE also insists "there are no shortcuts. If you're not getting big enough lifting three times a week, lift four times a week. If you're not fast enough running four times a week, run five times."

No shortcuts. That's worth remembering. Because sacrificing your health, and your life, to play a game is ridiculous. But as Houle noted, if you have a shot at a million bucks, you'll take that chance.

Houle did. He trained and worked and sacrificed, and got drafted by the Giants. In training camp prior to his rookie season, he injured both shoulders in a one-on-one blocking drill. He continued to practice; that made matters worse. Finally, he was forced to leave camp — and football.

Houle had to retire from pro ball before his dream got started. Now, more than a year later, he still can't play a game of pick-up basketball without his shoulders aching.

Does that sound like something to strive for? Houle insists it was worth it to him, even with his tarnished reputation and aching joints.

But it's something to think about. The price for athletic success is high; sacrifice is a necessity. Still, making it in sports shouldn't carry an at-any-cost tag.

It's just not worth it.

Chiefs set to tee off

By Ray Setlock

Due to the unpredictable weather, Plymouth Canton girls golf coach Dan Riggs says his team hasn't been able to get in a lot of practice rounds.

But when the first match rolls around he is confident the Chiefs will be ready.

For the past several weeks, most of Canton's practices have taken place in the Oasis Golf Dome on Five Mile Road.

"It looks like we'll be able to get on the course around noon," Riggs said, "and then the weather takes a turn for the worse and we end up driving balls under the dome. But we have to realize every other team is in the same boat, and we are going to have to just deal with it."

Last season, the Chiefs finished with an 8-8 mark, something Riggs hopes this year's team can improve on.

"I think we can do better than we did last season," he said. "We are in a tough league, but we have a tough team."

PACING CANTON'S game is junior Kerri Kittleson. Also expected to spark the Chiefs are seniors Sara Broschay and Meggan Olesky. Along with Kittleson, they are the team's tri-captains.

"Kerri is our No. 1 player," Riggs said. "She shoots in the mid 40s and is just a good golfer."

Senior Jennifer Brunet and juniors Mellissa Vernon and Sarah Beckman will also contribute this season, according to Riggs.

"The team is looking good," he said. "We have 18 people on our roster and some outstanding freshmen. It should be a good season."

Canton impressive in debut

Plymouth Canton will be a contender in Western Lakes Activities Association girls track and field this year.

The Chiefs demonstrated that at the outset of the 1990 season Thursday by winning a triangular meet at Livonia Stevenson.

Canton, which has won the Western Division dual-meet championship the last five years, scored 63 points to finish ahead of the host Spartans, who were runners-up in the WLAA last year and are expected to be one of the powers this year, too.

Milford Lakeland won four events, including a pair of relays, but was last with 44 points.

"It was an excellent start," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "It was good to see the way we measured up against a good team and program like Stevenson.

"Overall, the times and distances from top to bottom were excellent for this early in the season and the weather conditions we had today."

girls track

Kim Gudeth had an outstanding day for the Chiefs "along with a lot of other kids," Przygodski said. Gudeth contributed to Canton victories in the 3200- and 1600-meter relays and won the open 400 run with a 1:04.5 time.

Amy Smith, Adrienne Garrow, Gudeth and Christie Saffron combined for a 10:40.7 time in the 3200 relay, and Monica Pellow, Jennifer Hartke, Kristy Brugar and Gudeth finished the 1600 in 4:32.8.

Canton's Jessica Souter won the long jump, reaching a distance of 15-5½, and freshman Stephanie Gray won the high jump at a height of 4-10.

The Chiefs had a strong finish, too. Besides winning the last relay, Michelle Dean won the 200 dash in 29.2 and Smith the 3200 run in 12:33.5.

"We scored in every event with the exception of the 400 and 800 relays where we botched handoffs," Przygodski said. "I was pleased with our overall strength and showing. It's early and we look to improve on (the handoffs)."

Stevenson won four events, with Jessann Martin winning two. She threw the discus 103-1 and the shot put 33-2½. Lisa Christensen won the 300 hurdles with a time of 50.3, and Tracy Clark broke the ribbon in the 800 run, coming across in 2:43.0.

Lakeland's victories came in the 100 hurdles, 1600 run and sprint (400 and 800) relays.

Canton will host for a four-team meet Wednesday. The Chiefs will compete against Redford Bishop Borgess, Ypsilanti and Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher.

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE opened its girls track season Friday with a 65-45 victory over visiting Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

Roberta Wiggle had four first places for the Lady Trojans, including three in open events. She won the long jump (15-2), the 800 run (2:41.6) and the 100 dash (13.2).

She also ran the leadoff leg of the 1600 relay, combining with Tricia Wiggle, Michelle Sroka and Jennifer Nunnery for a 4:49.0 time.

Tricia Wiggle and Nunnery also had individual wins. Wiggle was first in the 400 run (1:10.9) and Nunnery in the high jump (4-5). Clarenceville's Jennifer Loukargarvi was the 200 dash winner in 29.3.

The Lady Trojans won three of the relays. Chris Zupanic, Angela Mangers, Sue Tatom and Julie Stoliker had the best 400 time at 1:00.02, and Tricia Wiggle, Nunnery, Stoliker and Loukargarvi finished the 800 relay in 2:01.0.

Farmington teams win 2 trophies in city meets

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

It was an all-Farmington High School show in the annual city meets for track and field Wednesday.

The Falcons won both competitions at Harrison High School, the Farmington girls winning their fourth straight championship and the boys winning for the first time in four years.

"Our kids were real elated about winning the city meet, and it's a good way to begin our season," Farmington boys coach Jerry Young said.

"I told the other coaches 'Let's pass out the letters, have the banquet and call it a fine season. We'll end it on a high note, right here.'"

— Jerry Young, Farmington track coach

The Falcons ended Harrison's three-year reign in the boys competition. Farmington had 74 team points, the Hawks 62 and North Farmington 39.

"WE HATED to do it," Harrison coach John Schuntacher said of having to surrender the title. "We knew Farmington would be loaded in the distances, and that's definitely where they got us."

The Hawks dominated in the sprints, winning the 100- and 200-meter dashes and the 800 and 1600 relays, but the Falcons were better in the longer distances and did well at other points in the meet.

Farmington junior Ben Goba won the 1600 and 3200 runs, and the Falcons took three of the four places in those events. Farmington also won two relays, with Don Sowinski and Dave Link contributing to victories in the 1600 and 3200 contests.

"The distance kids really did a job. From the quarter on up, there's no question we dominated things," Young said.

"And our hurdlers did well. We haven't had the nice hurdle performances like this in some time. They ran well, especially our high hurdlers."

Farmington's Joe Miller won the 110 hurdles, and teammate Todd Wight was third. Steve Vlahakis got second place in the 300 hurdles.

THE FALCONS offset a pair of field-event victories by Harrison's Art Cayse by having Jason Gutting take first place in the shot put and Chris Marting win the pole vault.

"I hope to see him unload soon," said Young of Gutting, who won the shot put with a toss of 47-4½. "I'd like to see him get out of this 40 stuff and into some 50 stuff. He hit 50-2 last year, and I'd like to see him get back there."

Young also cited the performance of sophomore Kevin Kishowsky, who anchored the 1600 relay, placed third in the 400 and also ran the 800. Eric Crawford, Matt Langdon and Gary Kurzer were other relay team members.

"For us this is a real nice achievement, and we're happy with (the title) for sure," Young said. "We had 21 kids score. That's a lot to be involved in scoring, and it will help us as the season goes along. It's something to build on."

Cayse won the long jump and high jump, and Harrison's top sprinters were Marcus Bolar and Brad Owens, who won the 100 and 200 dashes, respectively. Bolar and Owens, as well as Joe George, were on both winning relay teams. Will Matthews rounded out the 800 foursome, Dante Anderson the 400 quartet.

North had three individual winners: Todd Pawlowski in the discus, Tony Catchings in the open 400 and Craig Stoe in the 800 run.

FARMINGTON GIRLS coach Bruce Brown was happy to accept the winner's trophy once again, but he didn't want to over-emphasize the significance of the victory.

"I hate to keep saying this, because it sounds trite," he said. "But it's the first meet of the year, and we try to downplay it. It's a real important meet for the girls, but look at the time of year it is and the weather.

"It was good for us to see what some kids could do. It's nice to get off to a good start, but it's a long season ahead."

Junior Sheili Gaul and senior Jennifer Kiel were instrumental in the Farmington girls remaining city champions. The Falcons had 70½ points, North 47 and Harrison 46½.

Gaul had four first places, winning the high jump, 100 hurdles and 200 dash and anchoring the 800 relay team. Kiel won the 1600 run and anchored Farmington's other two first place relays, the 3200 and 1600.

"That's the first time Gaul ever ran the open 200, and Kiel has never run the 1600 relay before," Brown said. "We're moving (Kiel) around and giving her a lot of speed work right now. She had the fastest quarter time on the relay.

"SHEILI DEFINITELY had a big day," he said. "She's a junior now and we're asking her to step it up another notch."

Kerri Owczarzak led a Farmington sweep of the shot put, and Susan Gibson was the best long jumper The Falcons also got second places from Carrie Gattuso (shot), Susan Davidson (hurdles), Dawn Montrose (hurdles) and Jenny Derwinski (3200).

In addition to Kiel, the 3200 relay consisted of Derwinski, Gretchen Clappison and Cheryl Casaroll. Carrie Maier and Amy Trunk were on the 800 and 1600 teams, with Kristy Bodary contributing in the 800 and Sherri Ylitalo in the 1600.

Lisa Rives had two of runner-up North's three first places, winning the 800 and 3200 runs. She was second in the 400, also. Adrienne Mocello was the other winner.

Heather Conley led a near sweep in the 100 dash for the Hawks, who went 1-2-4 in that race with Conley winning it. Audra Cockerham won the 400 and sophomore Colleen Heinzmann the 300 hurdles, and the foursome of Conley, Nicole Leo, Carrie Hentnik and Nivin Hakim won the 400 relay.

"I thought we had some great performances," Harrison coach Mark Babcock said. "(Heinzmann) wasn't even a varsity hurdler last year, so she's come on and done a nice job."

Salem golfers ready

By Ray Setlock
staff writer

The Plymouth Salem girls golf team suffered through a miserable campaign a season ago, but coach Jim Stevens is confident this year's team can muster a solid season.

The Rocks were winless last year, losing 12 matches and tying one. They finished 17th in the region.

"I feel we can do much better than last year," Stevens said. "We sure as heck cannot do any worse. The girls are much better than they were last year."

Senior Jamie Cloar leads a returning group of veterans this season, and Stevens has high expectations for her.

"JAMIE IS a very capable lady," he said. "I anticipate her shooting in the 40s."

Junior Elizabeth Koehl and senior Natalie Joyce also return for the Rocks.

"Both of these girls went to Michigan State's golf camp this past summer," Stevens said. "They have improved tremendously."

Juniors Michelle Stuber and Meagan Andrews also return for Salem.

"The girls' attitude has been excellent," Stevens said. "I believe they're ready to get the ball rolling."

Salem begins its season Wednesday at Howell.

Zebras top Wyandotte

Reggie Brandon scored in the seventh inning Friday to break a tie and give Wayne Memorial a 2-1 baseball victory over visiting Wyandotte in a Wolverine A League game.

Brandon entered the game in the seventh inning as a pinch runner for Rob Honeycutt, who drew a walk. Brandon quickly stole second and third. He scored on a fielders choice by Scott Goleniak.

Joe Coughlin pitched seven innings for Wayne, giving up three hits and striking out six.

Brent Tapp and Joe Limotte accounted for both of Wayne's hits.

LUTHERAN WESTLAND 11, LUTH. WEST 1: Mike Hardies tallied a school record 14 strikeouts Friday to lead host Lutheran Westland past Detroit Lutheran West.

The Warriors scored four runs in the fifth inning and three in the fourth inning to break open a close game.

Hardies, along with Jon Dean, Jason Zielinski and Eric Schilbe, each collected two hits for the winners.

Clarence Leavings took the loss for Lutheran West.

that around in the second half, outshooting the Mustangs 13-4.

With a minute left in the game, Lehmkuhl hit the goal post with the potential winning goal. Klimes also cited the play of keeper Renee Larabell, who made some nice saves, he said.

The game was Marian's season opener. The Marlins play host to Madison Heights Bishop Foley in another key league game at 4 p.m. today.

CHERYL WALLER put on a one-player scoring clinic Wednesday, putting in three goals for North Farmington and lifting the Raiders to a 3-1 season-opening win over host Walled Lake Central.

Waller put North on the scoreboard first when she scored on a breakaway midway through the first half.

Sophomore forward Wendy Wolski scored her third goal of the season for Central when she drilled a free kick into the Raider net from 20 yards to tie the game at 1-1 moments before the half ended.

"That breakaway was really about the only time they had the ball at our end in the first half," Central coach Julie Ilacqua said. "Waller was pretty much all they had; unfortunately we couldn't contain her. She is very fast and a very good player."

Waller put the Raiders ahead to stay early in the second period when she scored on a blistering shot from 30 yards out. She iced the victory later in the half with her second breakaway goal.

"I thought we outplayed them," Ilacqua said. "We had better skill and we dictated the play, but you don't get points for that. We played very aggressively, but we couldn't contain Waller. She is a very good player.

"(After the game) I had a talk with the girls about taking a player like (Waller) off the ball. It would have been better to make her pass the ball than to give her the breakaways like we did. On her second goal, there really wasn't anything we could have done, but the two breakaways we should have taken her off the ball."

Chargers dump Athens

Livonia Churchill knocked off defending state Class A girls soccer champion Troy Athens, 2-0, in a non-league encounter Wednesday night.

The host Chargers scored during the opening minute of play as Mechelle Brazin booted in a corner kick from Nikki Johnson.

Churchill's Lori Place then scored an insurance goal with three minutes left in the match to secure the win.

"I'm pleased with the way we played," said Churchill coach Nick O'Shea, whose team is 1-0-1 overall. "I thought we had a few more chances, although we missed them. Last year we had trouble scoring, but at least we scored in this game. And our defense was holding tough."

One of the keys to the victory was the play of Fran Priebe, who helped keep Athens All-Stater Lisa Grace off the scoreboard. Sweeper Stephanie Speen also played a key role, according to O'Shea.

"They sent up an extra attacker in the second half and they had a couple of good shot," said the Churchill coach. "It took some time for us to adjust."

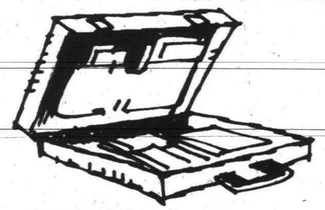
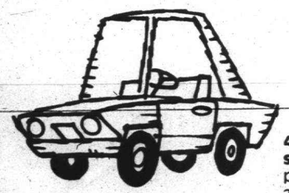
WRITE IT AND REAP!

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!



2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.



4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

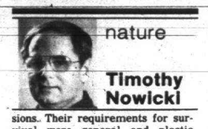
Adapting to human intrusion means animals have to live in some strange places — even under a car's hood.

This mouse was an 'engineer'



nature

Timothy Nowicki

Man's encroachment on the natural world has been relatively recent, compared to the length of time most animals have been around.

Changes on the land by man have been broad based and rapid. Too rapid for many animals. They have not been able to adapt to loss of habitat, intrusions of man and foreign products such as chemicals.

Woodland caribou that once lived in Michigan need large expanses of forest. Prairie chickens need undisturbed, open fields in which to survive. These are but two of several animals that cannot tolerate changes brought about by man.

SEVERAL ANIMALS, though, have adapted well to man's intrusions. Their requirements for survival were general and plastic enough before man arrived, that man's modification to the land were adapted to quickly.

A small, insect-eating bird known as a chimney swift once nested on the vertical walls of hollow sycamore trees. Today, chimneys are substituted for trees.

Animals with narrow food or habitat requirements are not as likely to fare well. Omnivorous animals that eat both plant and animal matter, like raccoons, opossums and skunk can find food around man more easily than animals that eat only other animals. Coupled with a nocturnal activity cycle, omnivorous animals incur another advantage for their survival.

Loss of natural habitat forces these animals to seek food and shelter wherever they can. This may often be an attic, or under a deck or some other man-made structure.

NOT LONG ago, I went to change the spark plugs of my car. In order to get at them I had to remove the air cleaner. When I removed the air cleaner, I saw several pieces of acorn shell around the carburetor. This same thing happened when I left my car outside an old farmhouse I lived in while going to college.

White-footed mice seek shelter from the cold winter in garages and find the warmth of the engine an added benefit. While staying warm, they also enjoy eating.

The other day, I started the car and drove a mile or so down the road and had to stop. When I stopped, I saw a mouse run from the direction of the car. I think I caught him napping and when he got a chance, he headed for good old terra firma.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Medicaid's changes on her mind

Q. My husband is in a nursing home. He is on Medicaid. I still live in our home. What are the new laws concerning the amount of money I can keep to maintain my home and myself?

A. As of Jan. 1 the amount of income allowed a person living in the community who has a spouse in a Medicaid nursing home is $815 per month. In addition, Medicaid has also increased the amount of countable assets, such as Certificates of Deposit, Money Markets, stocks, bonds and savings accounts that the spouse remaining in the community may keep. For those nursing home residents admitted on or after Sept. 30 their spouses may keep the greater of: the first $12,000 of the couple's countable assets or one-half of the countable assets but not more than $60,000.

As a result of the change in income limitations, the Patient Pay Amount, which the nursing home resident pays to the nursing home, will be lowered. In order to change the Patient Pay Amount, the spouse must make his or her request, in writing, to the Department of Social Services.

For additional information or assistance call Citizens for Better Care, 962-5965; Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. or toll free 1-800-284-0046. When you call it will be helpful for the operator to know if your spouse is presently in a nursing home and the name and location of the nursing home.

Q. My elderly neighbor has cancer. He is on a fixed income and has to spend a large portion of his money on medical supplies. Can anyone help him?

A. Jolayne Farrell

A. The American Cancer Society will provide durable medical equipment such as hospital beds, wheelchairs, commodes, over the bed tables, etc. and medical supplies such as blue pads, sheepskin or egg crate mattresses, and dressings for cancer patients. Some of the supplies are covered by Medicare; however, there is no direct charge to the patient. The society also helps women who have had mastectomies and are on a limited income to obtain a proper fitting prosthesis. Limited transportation to hospitals for chemo or radiation therapy is available in Oakland and Macomb counties.

Support groups are offered for the patient, family and friends in various locations throughout Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties. There is also a program called "Reach to Recovery." Mastectomy patients, through their doctor's request, are visited in the hospital following surgery by trained personnel to help the patient through this difficult time. In Oakland County home visits are possible without a doctor's order.

For additional information call the following offices: Oakland County, 557-5353, Wayne County, 425-6830, Macomb County, 758-7800. All offices are open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Renee Mahler is a gerontologist and the Director of Communications and Admissions at a Rochester Hills nursing facility. Send your questions to her at Observer & Eccentric, 805 East Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009.

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS & THE LUNGS

Since rheumatoid arthritis affects more of the body than the bones and joints, a better designation of this condition might be rheumatoid disease.

For example: rheumatoid 'arthritis' can cause inflammation to the lungs. The lungs have a covering like a single layer of plastic wrap, and are similar to the cells that line joints. The cells lining the lungs can become irritated by the same stimuli that affect joints. When inflammed, the lung lining cells impinge on nerve endings particularly upon deep breathing.

You become aware that a problem exists when taking a breath results in sharp chest pain. You may think you are having a heart attack, but the pain continues at rest and decreases when you walk, an indication that the pain is not cardiac in origin. Connecting your lung pain with your arthritis is difficult since lung involvement may occur when the rheumatoid arthritis is not flaring, and the joints are not particularly inflammed.

Steroids are the treatment of choice for rheumatoid inflammation of the lung. This therapy provides rapid relief and prevents a recurence; no other medicine gives equal results in such a timely manner.

Fewer calories doesn't mean less fat

consumer mailbag

Q. I've been eating more salads recently. How much better are the reduced-calorie and lite-type dressings?

A. You'll be surprised to learn that all those virtuous vegetables you're crunching are being swamped in more calories, fat and sodium than you need or want — even the "reduced-calorie" and "lite" varieties.

Two tablespoons (a typical serving amount — not the one tablespoon serving listed on the bottle) can have as many calories as a candy bar! For example, if you use one 12-ounce bottle of dressing in a week and 9 out of 10 people do, by the way, half of your total fat allowance may be coming from the dressing alone. Two tablespoons of regular dressing contain from 10 to 16 grams of fat.

According to the FDA, a salad dressing can only use the term "light" or "reduced-calorie" if it has at least one-third fewer calories than the regular version. Fewer calories does not mean less fat or sodium, however. Many low calorie versions contain as much fat as the brand's regular variety.

Most "light" variety dressings are even more confusing because the term "light" (in any spelling) is not as closely monitored as the "reduced-calorie" labeling. Most "light" dressings are really reduced-calorie dressings in disguise.

Two rules of thumb, according to recommendations from Nutrition Action, to help you sort out the dressing dilemma: One, look for dressings that have no more than two grams of fat per two tablespoon (one ounce) serving. This isn't difficult if the dressing has nutrition labeling on it. If it makes a "reduced-calorie" or "low sodium" claim, it must have nutrition labeling, otherwise, it's the manufacturer's choice.

If there's no nutrition labeling, check the ingredients label. All ingredients must be listed in descending order by weight. So, if the ingredient listed first is oil, you can be pretty safe in assuming that it's got more than two grams of fat per serving.

Two, look for dressings that have no more than 300 milligrams (mg) of sodium per two tablespoon servings. Unfortunately, the ingredients list isn't going to give you any help with sodium and without nutritional labeling, you'd be guessing. Most, however, have more than the 400 mg. of sodium per serving especially the non-creamy Italian varieties.

Remember, don't assume lower fat also means lower sodium — it usually doesn't. Some lower fat brands have a lot of sodium while some super fatty varieties have less than 300 mg. per serving.

The Consumer Mailbag answers your questions. Address mail to The Consumer Mailbag, Concern Detroit, One Kennedy Square, 4th Floor, Detroit, MI 48226.

Bowlers receive a free game by bringing canned goods to local bowling centers.

The goal is to collect more than 1.5 million cans of food for Gleaners Community Food Bank of Greater Detroit.

Western Wayne and Oakland County sites include:

Why I had my baby at Grace.

Sherri Wright Wyandotte

Grace Physicians and Staff Sherri: My doctor made me feel as though I was his only patient. Patrice: A positive attitude exists at Grace. It just felt like the staff was a family.

Patrice Figarola Farmington Hills

Grace Nurses Rochelle: They were always available and made me feel relaxed. Dawn: They took the time to sit with me and even held my hand.

Rochelle Hamiel Detroit

High-Risk Capability Thelma: I was extra nervous because I was high-risk, but being at Grace made it easier. Patrice: I was not high-risk but I felt more secure knowing Grace had the high-risk capability if I needed it.

Dawn Rodriquez Dearborn Heights

Labor Delivery Recovery Room Rita: The staff treated my family, including the kids, like they belonged there.

Thelma Graye Detroit

A Full Range of Options Sherri: I was delighted that the program at Grace was so extensive. Natural birth, LDR rooms, traditional delivery, midwives. Grace has almost everything. Chandra: It was very important to have the option of having a midwife. She offered techniques to make labor easier.

Rita Ray Oak Park

Chandra Reynolds Detroit

The Wayne State University Affiliation Ilene: Because of the affiliation with the medical school, Grace Hospital is up on all the latest technology.

Shins are an easy moving target for slashing sticks when the floor hockey action gets fast and furious.

Wall-to-wall

Floor hockey: It's fast and furious at EMU

By Pat Schutte
staff writer

Take a rectangular utility gym with rounded corners, throw in some lumber, a puck and a bunch of savage college kids and you have the ingredients for a furious intramural activity that pits student against student in a battle of aggression release.

Floor hockey is one of the most popular and definitely the rowdiest intramural sport at Eastern Michigan University. It's expected. At the team managers meeting, Tom Vocke, the court supervisor, said, "If you want a non-contact sport, try modern dance."

Certain steps are taken, though, to throttle the aggression and ensure player safety. First off, all players must wear a helmet. And two student officials watch over the action, calling penalties just like a National Hockey League official would.

"We allow checking, but you can't put someobody's imprint on the cement walls," said Vocke.

Still, as in any contact sport, the occasional fisticuffs break out.

"Shoves lead to dropped gloves and we tell players just to stand back and watch," Vocke said.

EMU doesn't have an intramural ice hockey program, so many of the students there with an ice hockey background show up for floor hockey. The new ones are surprised at the fierce action of floor hockey.

"IT'S A LOT tougher than I thought it would be," said Derek Delacourt, 18, of Westland. "It's a lot more choppy (stick swinging) and the puck tends to bounce a lot more. Also, there's not a high price on passing."

The scoring average is considerably higher than an NHL game, sounding more like a football game. And with NHL-sized goals, a no mercy rule and three eight-minute periods, a good team can beat a lousy team by 20-30 goals.

The utility gym that the games are held in looks as if it was made specifically for floor hockey. About 80 feet long and 30 feet wide, the rectangular room features rounded corners to keep the puck traveling easier.

The puck itself is a light, hollow plastic version of a regulation puck that "leaves welts but doesn't break bones," said Vocke.

"The old puck we used had iron pellets in it . . . one broke a goalie's nose right through his mask," he said.

The sticks are required to have a plastic blade attached to where the wooden blade used to be. This protects the players from splinters, yet lends itself to the sport like a scalpel to a surgeon.

Injuries are at a premium and the players accept it.

"Last year we had a wide variety of cuts and stitches," said Vocke. "The worst happened in a fight when one punch opened a guy up for 18 stitches."

BUT A MAJORITY of the bloodshed happens below the shins.

"If they want to slash and take chunks out of each other's shins, that's fine," Vocke said. "We just tell them to keep the sticks down."

"It gets a little out of hand," said Brian Harlow, 18, of Westland, whose shins were dripping blood after the game. "They dropped the puck and this 'hack' (an inexperienced player who just runs around swinging his stick at anything) cracked me right across the shin."

Sounds wild, doesn't it? Sure. Even the helmetless student officials who are enclosed with eight stick-swinging players, find the action amusing.

'If you want a non-contact sport, try modern dance.'
— Tom Vocke court supervisor

"We just try to keep the action going as fast as we can," said student official Jeff Thomas, 18, of Farmington. "There's never a dull moment."

That's for sure. Take the time an official named "Bob" got popped with a high stick.

"You could hear it CRACK all the wway across the hall," said Vocke. "Bob had his nose broken and wasn't even going to kick the guy out of the game until he said the magic word."

Besides blatant high sticking and excessive rough play, the only thing Vocke and his officials do not tolerate is swearing.

"I just eject them from the game and tell them how it will be from now on," said student official Domenic Serra, 18, of Croswell.

EMU'S FLOOR hockey penalty system works on the same concept as the soccer red and yellow card system. For fighting or very abusive language, the guilty party is given a red card and suspended for a game. The yellow card is for slight official slander . . . two yellows equal one red.

Guys are getting cut up and loving it. Even the guy who wears the most padding, the goalie, gets his share of welts.

"I get it around the wrists," said Pat Boyle, 19, of Redford. "When I smother the puck with my gloves, guys always try to chop it out."

Of the 32 teams that participate in the floor hockey program, they're spilt up into the residence, independent and fraternity leagues. A women's league and co-rec league are offered, but "nobody shows up," Vocke said. And the most unruly of all the leagues is the frat league.

"They bring all their people (and they have to pack them like sardines in a small room at one end of the court to watch)," Vocke said. "And when a scrape breaks out, the next thing you know, there's 30 guys piling out of the stands to join in. And the frat guys are the biggest complainers, too. They're like talking to a 5-year-old when they're mad."

It's fast, furious and sometimes bloody. And they love their floor hockey at EMU.

'Designing' shoppers find best for less

By Charlene Mitchell
special writer

Gone are the days when resale clothing shops catered mainly to mothers looking for inexpensive outfits for their kids or previously owned maternity wear.

The sale of used clothing has come out of the closet. Forget the neighborhood garage sale. It's out in the open and attracting buyers whose incomes allow them to afford higher prices, but prefer to save.

The latest addition to the resale business scene is Encore Encore in Farmington. While most resale shops locate in free standing buildings, Encore Encore has opted for a mall, which automatically attracts other shoppers who may not have an interest in shopping in a resale store.

"People's attitudes about resale shops have changed," said owner Lois Griffin. "When I was a child, buying used clothing insinuated that you were poor and most of the time the merchandise was available only at rummage sales."

'When I was a child, buying used clothing insinuated that you were poor and most of the time the merchandise was available only at rummage sales.'

One thing that is drastically different about the resale stores of the '90s is that the merchandise is practically new in most instances and a peek at the designer labels lets you know immediately that these duds came from some pretty high class closets.

"We have some spectacular evening dresses that cost anywhere from $300 to $1,000 when they were purchased new and we're selling them from $65 to $150," said Griffin as she carefully arranges the silks, chiffons and sequined pieces on the rack inside the store.

A TWO-PIECE Calvin Klein pantsuit was one of the first ensembles scooped up by a Livonia resident. Perfect for her college-bound daughter, the camel colored wool suit was marked $68.50, about $250 less than when it was new.

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Cinema' deserves honor

By John Monaghan
special writer

A beam of light shoots from the sculpted lion's mouth that frames the projection booth window. Look at it long enough and the lion comes to life, breathing fire.

For Toto, the 7-year-old hero of "Cinema Paradiso," the movies have this powerful, mesmerizing effect. Director Guiseppe Tornatore's reflections on a lifelong love affair with the movies was quickly booked into the Maple Theatre after winning the Academy Award for best foreign film. It's a touching tearjerker, full of memorable characters.

In a tiny Italian village shortly after World War II, young Toto falls asleep as an altar boy but absolutely adores the movies. He watches curiously as his puritanical church pastor screens upcoming movies privately, signaling the projectionist with a bell for the scenes that must be cut.

As the film unreels for an audience the following weekend, a lover's embrace leads to an awkward cut and an entirely different scene. The villagers don't see a screen kiss until the mid 1950s.

Toto's interest in movies grows into an obsession. When the projectionist (wonderfully played by Philippe Noiret) almost perishes in a fire caused by the films' flammable silver nitrate,, Toto gets his chance to run the machine. The relationship that develops between the boy and the old man, now blind, becomes the most powerful part of the film.

Three actors play Toto at various stages of his life. Salvatore Vascio fares best, as the young boy. Later, the film dwells on the teenage Toto's quest for a beautiful young woman only to be separated from her by the military conscription.

Most fascinating, "Cinema Paradiso" paints a vivid picture of the power of movies. The rowdy audience at the Cinema Paradiso gets the same enjoyement out of the movies as the blacony denizens of "Children of Paradise" did from the theater. Glimpses of films from Ford, Visconti, Renoir and Chaplin also appear on the screen.

Director Tornatore isn't the first filmmaker to compose a love letter to the movies. In many ways, however, he has written an obituary for the local moviehouse, showing it in the halicon days (when it was a village's sole and very popular entertainment) to decay and demolition in the impersonal age of videotape.

Philippe Noiret plays the projectionist and Salvatore Cascio the young Toto in Guiseppe Tornatore's Academy Award-winning "Cinema Pardiso."

Kevin Kline is bright spot in 'I Love You to Death'

The first third of "I Love You to Death" (C-, R, 96 minutes) shows great promise.

Pizzeria owner Joey Boca (Kevin Kline) is rendered with masterful strokes. Kline's portrayal exudes joy of life and living as this incredible and very happy man makes pizza, fixes plumbing in the apartment building he owns and makes love to half dozen or so women every week — all the while maintaining a respectable family life.

He has two slightly overweight and undistinguished but generally acceptable children, Carla (Alisan Porter) and Dominic (Jon Kasdan), and a very funny Yugoslavian mother-in-law, Nadja (Joan Plowright).

A nephew-like relationship is maintained with the pizzeria's busboy, Devo (River Phoenix), a slightly vacant and out-of-place hippie-type spiritualist.

But most of all, Joey has a wife, Rosalie (Tracey Ullman), who loves Joey so much that scenarist John Kostmayer and director Lawrence Kasdan would have us believe she doesn't notice Joey's numerous infidelities. Even when Devo tells her what her eyes have seen, she passes it off as "all men look at girls."

Ullman's slightly ditzy, old-world woman living in and adapting to America is more than one could (or should) expect given the writing and directing. Rosalie's character, however, as written, is so unbelievable that NOW and other feminist groups ought to protest the insulting stereotype.

When Rosalie finally confronts irrefutable evidence of Joey's infidelity, her bumbling, confused and indecisive attempts at revenge wipe out any hope for an entertaining film.

The last two-thirds are muddled and murky and the impossible plot complications are solved by a matriarchal morality as unpleasant and offensive as the macho-masculinity with which the film begins.

To make matters worse, the pacing falters so badly that even the promise, however male-oriented, of the film's first third is never fulfilled. It's a shame to waste so many fine performances on a weak script interpreted by such poor direction.

Another disappointment this week is the mediocre "Crazy People" (C-, R, 90 minutes) which opens Wednesday, April 11. Emory Leeson (Dudley Moore) goes round the bend while working in the Drucker Ad Agency. He is struck with a novel idea, advertisements should tell the truth. Naturally he is rapidly committed to a mental institution, Bennington Sanitarium, where he quickly gains the confidence of a number of disturbed individuals.

Not unexpectedly, in this murky fable about who is crazy and who isn't — and how much advertising is — Emory's honesty campaign catches fire and the nasty ad agency boss, Charles Drucker (J.T. Walsh), must depend on Emory and all the mental patients up at Bennington Sanitarium.

None of the relationships or situations are clearly developed. Certainly Leeson's instant appeal to the Bennington inmates goes unexplained while his romance with Kathy Burgess (Daryl Hannah) is similarly under-developed. As with so much of "Crazy People," audiences are forced to take it or leave it. I suggest the latter. This clever idea falls flat as a one-joke film with a great deal missing. There is, and should be, much more to a story about life and love and people and advertising.

"The First Power" (D, R, 95 minutes) is an unpleasantly violent story of a serial killer, Patrick Channing (Jeff Kober), who is executed for his crimes but his spirit returns and possesses other bodies in a quest for revenge against the detective, Russell Logan (Lou Diamond Phillips), who put him away in the first place.

In his mission to rid the world of Channing's evil spirit, Logan enlists the aid of a psychic, Tess Seaton (Tracy Griffith), who conveniently enough is the film's romantic involvement. Sound trite? Right.

After the first 30 minutes, the tension evaporates and "The First Power" is bloody and inconsistent as it meanders through a variety of repetitious fights between Logan and the various bodies Channing's spirit inhabits.

Ever listen to a fairly bright kid make up a story to explain why he missed curfew — the kind where the facts and events fit neatly on the surface but the whole story collapses with one or two timely questions.?

"Impulse" (D+, 120 minutes) is a lot like that. Theresa Russell's emotionally complex character and performance trip over bulky, unbelievable plot devices. This thriller about a female undercover cop who gets caught on the wrong side of murder by being in the wrong place at the wrong time is overlong and unrelentingly dark.

So dark in fact that director Sondra Locke rarely shows any character's full face unless the situation absolutely demands it. The technique is interesting at first, frustrating for a while and irritating in the end. Kind of like the film as a whole. There are some entertaining and suspenseful moments but Russell and Jeff Fahey can't save enough of "Impulse" to make it worth while.

When "Cry-Baby" (B-, PG-13,) Johnny Depp steps into focus the female audience swoons, as in any heart-throb, teen-age movie. After the first few minutes, however, viewers soon discover that with its spirit of the '50s, "Cry-Baby," has potential as a cult classic.

The plot is altogether common but director John Waters is determined to make everything else fantasy in this world of teenage juvenile delinquents who call themselves "drapes" who are juxtaposed to scholastic-minded, clean-cut "squares."

Johnny Depp, in the title role, is a drape who falls in love with Allison (Amy Locane), a square. His challenge is to win her love and keep it. As the plot develops, wild and bizarre characters reflecting and satirizing the '50s are introduced.

The movie relies heavily on '50s music with an Elvis style voice dubbed in for Johnny. Exaggerated costumes and make-up along with unusual personalities and simple dialog quite likely will make a success of this teen-age trip down nostalgia lane.

Covingtons: Not quite the '60s

By John Logie
special writer

The Covingtons' story starts with Fred Munchinger's mother.

"My mom bought me this electric guitar for $2 at a garage sale, and it had a sticker on it that said 'Covington,'" Fred recalled. In a twisted echo of Arthurian legend, the guitar signified to Fred that there should be a band called the Covingtons and that he should be the lead singer for this band.

Munchinger had been discussing forming a band with drummer Greg Bowes. The pair hooked up with guitar player John Michaels, and the Covingtons were born.

After trying to secure the services of other bass players, Munchinger, with nominal competence filled in when the trio opened for Captain Dave and the Psychedelic Lounge Cats at the Halfway Inn in Ann Arbor.

"We were just a three-piece with seven songs," Michaels said. "In order to fluff up our set list we had to have one song like 'Interstellar Overdrive,' — a 15-minute song — to make a half-hour long show. It was really raw and raunchy, '60s-based guitar music."

Both Munchinger and Michaels recall being happy with the original, stripped-down Covingtons' sound. But it wasn't long before the band started expanding their line-up. Having to play bass "kind of held Fred down," Michaels said.

"At one point, we were playing with the Victims of Circumstance, and Fred sang 'You're Gonna Miss Me,' with them and just went nuts," he said.

From there, the band moved to a quartet, adding a bass player to allow an unencumbered Munchinger to sing lead. And then the band decided to add a keyboard player.

"WE GOT THE keyboard before we even had keyboardist," Michaels said. "We said, 'OK, we're going to get this Farfisa, and then we'll find someone who will play it for us.'"

The band expanded to a quintet with the addition of a keyboard player. Then, after the bass player's departure, the Covingtons recruited two ex-members of the Victims of Circumstance — bassist Bob Kaufman and guitar player Tom Conway. After a few shows as a stage-clogging sextet, the keyboard player quit.

The band is now a quintet, with Michaels, Conways and sometimes even Munchinger playing guitar.

The band plays grungy garage music, mixing covers with originals. The band is true to Munchinger's original inspirations, the "Nuggets" albums, and bands like the 13th Floor Elevators, the Seeds and the Count Five.

The Covingtons include Fred Munchinger, Greg Bowes, John Michaels, Bob Kaufman and Tom Conway.

But the '60s inspiration doesn't end there. The Covingtons sometimes dress "funny," favoring suit jackets similar to those sported by '60s geek rockers like the Nightcrawlers or the Vectors.

"We dress up nice to play wild rock'n'roll," Munchinger said.

Munchinger and Michaels write most of the Covingtons' originals. Their first song, Munchinger's paradox-ridden psychodrama "I Hate You, Baby," is characteristically simple, but undeniably entertaining.

"FRED USUALLY writes about losing some chick, but he doesn't care because he's too cool to lose any chick," Michaels said. "It kind of sounds like 'Stepping Stone.' With four chords, you're bound to end up with that. It's the excitement that makes it fun."

Conway recently bought the eight-track recording equipment that was used at the now-defunct Garageland Studios, and the Covingtons hope to have a recording available this summer.

Until then, they are looking to continue churning out forgotten garage classics, bizarre psychedelia like Dave Allen and the Arrows' "Blues Theme" and an increasing number of originals. If they do that, Michaels said they will have surpassed their own expectations.

"We started out because we figured out that instead of just going out and getting hammered on weekends, we could go out, play, and get hammered. It gave us one more thing to do. And the beers are sometimes half-off, depending on how we play."

The Freemasons find niche in music

By Jill Hamilton
special writer

The guys in the Freemasons are into using aliases.

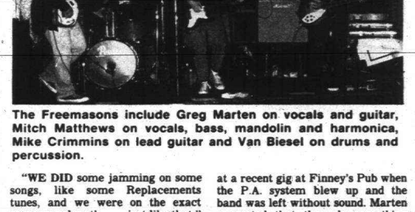
No less than two of the four members of the band choose to go by stage names instead of their actual names.

So, did they take the Gun N' Roses route and choose glamorous and vaguely dangerous alias like "Slash" and "Axl?" Well, not exactly. They picked the tamer monikers of "Mitch Matthews" and "Van Biesal."

Mr. "Matthews" said he uses the alias for a several reasons — his real name "sounds like a weather forecaster's name" and because it's sort of fun to have an alias.

The Freemasons pride themselves on having no former members of Bitter Sweet Alley, Halloween, Toby Redd or Flash Kahan among their ranks. The band does, however, consist of former members of The Good Catholic Boys, Red September and Dancing Smoothies. Officially, (aliases included) The Freemasons include Greg Marten on vocals and guitar, Mitch Matthews on vocals, basss, mandolin and harmonica, Mike Crimmins on lead guitar and Van Biesel on drums and percussion.

The band is only six months old, but already the members think they have found "it" — that elusive combination of musicians where everything seems to work.



The Freemasons include Greg Marten on vocals and guitar, Mitch Matthews on vocals, bass, mandolin and harmonica, Mike Crimmins on lead guitar and Van Biesel on drums and percussion.

"WE DID some jamming on some songs, like some Replacements tunes, and we were on the exact same wavelength . . . just like that," Matthews said. "It was rough, but it sounded good."

Their pounding, guitar-driven rock sound apparently hits the spot for the band members. Even though they all have quite varying musical tastes — ranging from polka to Neil Young to the Red Hot Chili Peppers — they all like the Freemason's sound.

"It's the first band I've been in that, even if I weren't in this band, I'd go see it all the time," said Matthews, happily.

This synchronicity came in handy at a recent gig at Finney's Pub when the P.A. system blew up and the band was left without sound. Marten suggested that they do something acoustic and proceeded to play a song that he had written.

"It was so cool because it wasn't loud and it was all improvised," recalled Matthews, "It was the first time any of us besides Greg had heard the song."

The audience loved the songs and now it has become part of The Freemason's regular song set. This type of thing is business as usual for the band — they know their job is to do what the audience wants.

"The people who come to see a show want to get up and dance," Matthews said. "If you're paying four or five bucks, you want to laugh and have fun. We're there to entertain."

THAT'S WHY you'll find a Freemason's concert short on political diatribes. If you don't have anything to say, don't say it, Matthews said.

"I'm a band like U2 has traveled around the world so they can write about these things," he said. "Everyone writes about South Africa, but I say go down to Detroit — we've got it just as bad.

"I see 18- and 19-year-olds singing about politics . . . they probably haven't even voted yet. They should write about something they know, like something that is irritating them at school."

The Freemasons, on the other hand, presumably know better because, as Matthews puts it, they "are degreed people." Marten is working on a history degree, Biesel is an engineer at Chrysler, Crimmins is the head video editor for a cable channel and Matthews is a teacher at a center for troubled boys in Farmington Hills.

"We're really serious about the band but we know there's a million to one chance that we'll make it," Matthew said. "We wouldn't do it without something to fall back on."

In the meantime, the band plans to continue playing the local club circuit and making demos on a trusty old four-track.

LIVE REVIEW

SECOND SELF — Saint Andrew's Hall

A true sign a band has made it: A record deal? No. A wall-to-wall crowd at Saint Andrew's? No.

A group can tell if it's reached the pinnacle in local circles when people start professing longtime associations with them. Like, for instance, everyone and their mother in this area is a friend, knows friend, went to school with or played basketball with Bob Seger.

In the line-up outside at Saint Andrew's Hall recently, people were trying to outdo one another in the who-knows-who department. "We know the drummer, Jeff," said one group. "Yeah, we're friends with Andy," added another.

Once inside, everyone got to meet the music of Second Self. These are fine times for the Detroit quintet — A recently-released LP "Mood Ring" on a major label, a healthy push from EMI and rumblings of a big breakout.

No doubt, this fueled Second Self on their homecoming. The band tore through a 12-song, hour-and-10-minute set with vengeance.

This was the Mark Gastineau dance after the quarterback sack, the lap around Wembley after winging the F.A. Cup.

Exuberance, at times, interfered with music. Rough edges were exposed, sometimes guitars and vocals were a bit out of sync. But it was soothed with the talc of the home crowd's acceptance and the moment itself.

One thing is apparent. Second Self has arena-sized visions as a support act. The show was complete with the obligatory drum solo, incessant gesturing and a hastily called encore. At times, the band looked like Donald Trump locked in as manager of a travel lodge.

As a front man, Michael Nehra goes the physical route. He struts and chews off the lyrics to rockers, such as "Dream Train" and "Ghoul Dance," and spits them out. The highlights of the evening, though, come when he carefully sings the words to stellar numbers as "Red October" and the set-closing "Lose Those Shadows."

Brother Andrew Nehra flew around the stage on bass and Jeffrey Fowlkes flailed away on drums, providing a bevy of movement on stage. Only Greg Giampa was grounded, providing some piercing guitar work that has become the trademark of the Second Self sound.

When it was over, Fowlkes tossed his drumsticks into the crowd. On this night, at least, there was somebody who wanted to catch them.

FLOOD — They Might Be Giants

Remember those quirky guys in junior high who named their fetal pig Dennis and played chopsticks with their feet in music class?

They're grown up now, and they're in a band called They Might Be Giants, and they're as quirky as ever.

They Might Be Giants enjoyed reasonable success with a minor hit last year, "Ana Ng." The duo's latest, "Flood," their major-label debut, is a 19-song LP that would make a fine EP.

About one-third of the album is thoroughly enjoyable, fun music with insightful, often amusing lyrics. The required single is the infectious "Birdhouse in Your Soul," a rhythmic jaunt that gets fairly decent rotation on MTV, if that's any barometer of success.

"Your Racist Friend," another highlight, is a big college radio song about an uncomfortable encounter with a bigot to which most can relate. The meeting ends on a sour note, and the "racist friend" apologises, saying it was all in jest, but that's no consolation to the Giants, who conclude in their frenetic nasal twang, "Can't shake the devil's hand/And say you're only kidding."

The humor shows in "Dead," where the speaker is reincarnated as a bag of groceries "accidentally taken off the shelf before the expiration . . . I won't ever be around anymore/I'll be up there on the shelf at the store." One regret he has is that he "didn't apologize for when I was eight/and I made my younger brother/have to be my personal slave."

The biggest problem with the rest of "Flood" is that so much of it sounds like the soundtrack for an old Disney cartoon, particularly "Whistling in the Dark," a baritone tale with full orchestration that could have been lifted from "Jungle Book."

They Might Be Giants have a lot of good things to say on "Flood." But, in the end, they say too much.

COVER ME — Various artists

This is one of Bruce Springsteen's best albums — and he doesn't even show up.

Instead, Rhino Records has compiled 15 cover versions of Springsteen tunes, drawing on artists from Johnny Cash to the Pointer Sisters, from the Replacements to the Hollies.

Because of the personal, highly stylized nature of his work, Springsteen isn't the easiest artist to cover. But no one embarrasses themselves here. On the whole, it's a pretty enjoyable album for Springsteen fans and non-fans alike.

Some of these records — the Pointers' "Fire" and Gary U.S. Bonds' "This Little Girl" — even made it big on the pop charts. Likewise, Patti Smith's "Because the Night" was a late '70s FM radio staple.

Then there's Southside Johnny and the Asbury Jukes, who made a career out of recording Springsteen-penned tunes. Inclusion of "The Fever," "Talk to Me" and others, almost makes this their greatest hits album as well.

While those South Jersey bar band buddies stayed pretty close to Springsteen's own style, the Hollies polished the rambling "Fourth of July, Asbury Park (Sandy)" into a shiny pop bauble. The British Invasion band was one of the first to recognize Springsteen's songwriting talent, covering his songs as far back as the mid-'70s.

One of the album's few disappointments is the absence of Hollies vocalist Allan Clarke's near-impossible-to-find cover of "Born to Run." (Thankfully, Natalie Cole's dreary, high tech "Pink Cadillac" is also absent.)

That aside, what's left is quality stuff. The best moment belongs to U.S. Bonds and '60s soul mate Chuck Jackson, who turn the obscure "Club Soul City" into a four-alarm burner. Neither man has a record contract today, which just shows you where talent and good taste will get you.

SETTLING FOR LESS — The Colors

The Colors are oldtimers of the local music scene. They started back in the early days of the 1980s — 1984 to be exact — when the members were just starting high school.

Since then they have released two records — "Vivid Colors" and "Malos Colores" — and had songs featured on three compilation records, "It Came From the Garage" on Metro-American Records and "End of the World A Go-Go" and "Folksongs from the Twilight Zone" on Tremor.

Of these, "Malos Colores" was the most successful and allowed them to garner some tour dates with such luminaries of the alternative scene as The Dead Milkmen, The Bolshoi and The Saints.

Now, The Colors have started working with Rage Records, a New York independent label that also handles local rockers Crossed Wire, to work on promoting this latest nine-song LP "Settling for Less."

The songs are of a strange breed that can be angry and out of control at one moment then swiftly become beautiful and philosophical in the next. In other words, these guys want to play punkish, wild music but find that they are too talented to make truly ugly music.

The best reason to throw "Settling for Less" on the turntable is for Dan Manion's cool lyrics. He writes pretty depressing stuff but always manages to lighten his words up somehow with a cleaver turn of the phrase or strange, twisted metaphors.

But, don't be misled by the sound of the lyrics. "Settling for Less" is not a gloom-o-rama album. The music is powerful and tight and makes for a good driving-the-car-with-the-music-blasting listen.

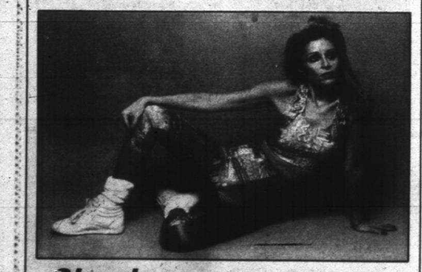
Puzzling ideas

Special Occasions in West Bloomfield has created novelty designs of fashion and home accessories items. Picture frames, hand mirrors, lapel pins, barrettes and boxes all have a puzzling theme. The puzzle piece items are affordably priced from $4 to $40. Call 661-2316 to order.



Shaping up

It helps to look good in trying to get in shape. This colorful set from Leotards Etc. in Bloomfield Plaza makes it plain how serious you are. The mosaic print racer-back crop-top ($22) is appealing in shades of lavender, teal, hot pink. The lycra crop pant ($33) is in the mosaic print on one leg and a sizzling hot pink on the other. The crop pant eliminates the problems of working out in tights that so often "run." The cotton slouch sock ($8) completes the outfit.

STREET SENSE

Raising baby: Know his signals

Dear Brabara,

I am a new mother, 23 years old. My son was born six months ago. Am I supposed to pick him up when he cries or will this just make him cry more? My mother-in-law says that I will teach him to cry more if I pick him up, but my mother disagrees. She says that it is mean to let a child cry.

My son is a pretty good boy, although it took him a long time to sleep through the night. Again, my mother-in-law said that was because I didn't let him cry.

Obviously, I am confused. I'm on maternity leave for a year and I will need to tell whomever is going to take care of my son how I want him handled when I am away.

"New Mom".

Dear "New Mom,"

You have a lot of insecurity about caring for your child. That is often the case and understandable in a new young mother. There is considerable research on this subject, some of which is contradictory. I will try to help sort it out and give you an opinion.

The question you are really asking is: "What should I do to help my son grow up to be his healthiest, happiest self?"

During the '50s, your mother in-law's views were widely held. They are based on the principles of behavior modification, which state that the more reinforcement you give a behavior, the more the behavior will occur.

Thus, mothers were taught not to pick up crying babies, just as your mother-in-law advocates. Th logical outcome of picking them up would be a monstrous crybaby.

At about the same time, other researchers started looking at mother-child bonding in other ways. Their findings contradict those of behaviorists. These other researchers are called, "attachment theorists" and they favor a completely different style of mothering.

They say that their experiments show that mothers who are more responsive to feeding signals and crying of their infants raised more secure children, not crybabies.

The conclusion of this research is that warm, sensitive care does not create dependency, but autonomy. At present, this research appears valid.

But still, in spite of the validity of this research, each parent must try to understand their own unique child. What do you see and feel about your son? Be alert to how he reacts to different situations. In that way, you will gain confidence in providing him with the individualized approach that is most appropriate for him.

FEAR & LOAFING

Blissful eating: 'Where's the beef?'

When it comes to nutrition and health, what you don't know can't hurt you . . . At least that's the theory behind my new diet.

This "ignorance is bliss" principle is demonstrated every time a cartoon character runs over the edge of the cliff. Instead of falling, he hangs suspended in mid-air — until he makes the fatal mistake of looking down. Once he knows he's in danger, he instantly plummets to earth.

But don't take Wile E. Coyote's word for it. Think about your own family tree. Who lived the longest? I'll bet two Twinkies and a King Don it's the relative with the worst eating habits.

At our last family reunion, I let the roast beef pass by without taking any. Noticing my mother had fainted into the gravy bowl, I decided to explain my beef boycott with reliable information taken directly from the pages of newspapers sold only in supermarkets.

As discretely as possible, I delicately, tastefully, cheerfully mentioned that someone in America dies of a heart attack every 45 seconds. That most heart disease was caused by high cholesterol linked to red meat. That in 1988, Meat Board spokesman James Garner had quintuple coronary artery bypass surgery.

Karl Nilsson

Before I could get to the part about antibiotics in livestock, someone piped up, "Your grandpa Schultz lived to be 87. He ate steak and eggs every morning."

Above the snickers, another voice rose, "What about Uncle Floyd? He's 84 and eats T-bones three times a day. Between meals, he chews beef jerky."

BY NOW people were shouting. "Don't forget Cousin Erma. Ate meat all her life. Then her smart-alec-boy doctor made her cut back. She went into a coma. Only thing that saved her was a transfusion of bacon grease!"

No doubt you've heard similar stories around your own holiday table. I used to think they were merely exceptions that proved the rule. But slowly, a pattern began to emerge. The only thing these octogenarians had in common was their ignorance about the dangers of a bad diet.

Think about it. All through the '50s and '60s, a whole generation grew strong and tall on a steady diet of burgers and fries. Nobody on "Happy Days" worried about cholesterol or high blood pressure. Nah, they worried about important stuff, like hiding a hickey from their parents.

In those carefree days, "grease" was something good. You ate it. You wore it in your hair and packed your wheel bearings with it. And we felt great.

Later, in the '70s, the local malt shop was replaced by the golden arches. Charm was replaced by convenience, but the basic fat-salt-sugar ratio was left intact. Burger consumption hit the billions. And we still felt great.

Then the lettuce growers hired someone to ruin our lives. For the last 10 years, we've been bombarded with reports that anything you could possibly enjoy eating causes heart disease or cancer.

Terrified by each new medical bulletin, we switched from artery-clogging cheeseburgers to the salad bar. Hoping to add back the years beef tallow had robbed from our lifespan, we lined up three deep behind the sneeze guard.

THEN WE discovered those fresh-looking veggies were loaded with sulfating agents. The shiny fruit was sprayed with Alar. The salad dressing contained more fat than a room full of fritters. And the artificial bacon bits made laboratory rats talk backwards.

Need more proof? The first actor to play Ronald McDonald was Jeff Juliano. He was earning mucho McBucks until he heard the bad news — one Big Mac contains 541 calories, 31.4 grams of fat, 75 mgs. of cholesterol and 963 mgs. of sodium. Today, Jeff is an unemployed vegetarian.

No wonder my relatives would rather have me set fire to the tablecloth than hear how I kicked my junk food addiction. Once they know the facts, they'll be as miserable as I am.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

If it's true that there are only 100 basic plots and the difference between success and failure is how the story is told, then HBO Video has a winner with their April 11 release of "Perfect Witness" (1989, color, 101 minutes). Although bloody enough to earn an R, it is not rated.

But this mob-killing-and-now-let's-terrorize-the-witness film is a cut above what one ordinarily expects from such a plot line.

Good performance throughout are a major plus as Sam Paxton (Aidan Quinn) is the unlucky character of the title. Sam runs a restaurant in Manhattan's meat-packing district. Late one night in Costello's Bar, Sam witnesses Kevin O'Rourke (David Proval) carrying out a mob contract killing. Costello (Ken Pogue) looks the other way.

Unlike the street-smart folks in the neighborhood who are conveniently blind during the killing and quickly disappear afterward, Sam agrees to testify against O'Rourke, when asked to do so by District Attorney Berger (Delroy Lindo).

But it's not that simple. Enter U.S. Attorney James Falcon (Brian Dennehy) who is trying to wrap up a major racketering case against a mob, The West Side Boys, who routinely shake-down the entire meat-packing industry. Falcon needs Sam's testimony.

But the mob would rather Sam shut up and they take appropriate steps including beating up Sam's nine-year-old son Danny (Neal Lancaster) and terrorizing Mrs. Paxton (Laura Harrington).

There's enough pressure on Sam so he finally refuses to testify. Falcon has him jailed for contempt and matters settle down for a while in a mild "Innocent Man" vein.

COMPLICATING the situation is the animosity between Falcon and D.A. Berger who thinks, as many do, that Falcon is positioning himself for a political career. Further complicating things is Falcon's affair with Assistant U.S. Attorney Lynn Sapperstein (Stockard Channing).

The latter involvement, besides its awkward implications, simply doesn't ring true. The former complication, however, is a convenient lead into a pretty literate discussion of the political uses of the legal system and the politics of justice.

What is the nature of a citizen's duty and how far may officers of the court go in seeing to it that citizen's do their duty? At best, a difficult question, particularly in these days of widespread, organized violence.

At times, Falcon's lectures on these issues become uncomfortable sermons, especially when directed at his lover, Attorney Sapperstein. But, for the most part, Dennehy's acting — and everyone else's performance as well — overcome such deficits.

The film has an effective, gritty, urban look and some pretty tough music which support these excellent performances.

For those who enjoy crime stories, there's a score to be released April 12 by Republic Pictures Home Video. A comic interpretation of crime is represented in eight of those 20, first-time home video releases of "Car 54, Where Are You?"

These eight originally aired in the fall of 1961 and are available in four volumes (two programs per tape) at $14.98 or $59.98 for the entire set.

The 12 feature-length crime stories star many legendary Hollywood names and include three available on home video for the first time: "The Finger Man" with Frank Lovejoy, Forrest Tucker and Peggie Castle is a story of a bootlegger with a choice, life in the pen or undercover work for the Feds.

"HOODLUM EMPIRE" also features Forrest Tucker along with Brian Donlevy and Claire Trevor. It develops the same theme, a top gun goes straight and threatens to testify against Mr. Big. The thiru of these never-before-released on video cassette, "When Gangland Strikes," is also about mobs and public prosecutors but its cast, Raymond Greenlead, Marjie Millar and Anthony Caruso, are not as well-known as the others.

The remaining eight titles, now re-released at a reduced price ($19.98) are "Force of Evil" with John Garfield, Thomas Gomez and Marie Windsor, "Kiss Tomorrow Goodbye" with James Cagney, "Riot in Cellblock 11" featuring Neville Brand, "Crashout" with William Bendix and Arthur Kennedy and "Try and Get Me" with Frank Lovejoy and Lloyd Bridges.

William Conrad, Dick Powell and Rhonda Flemming star in "Cry Danger." "Cry Vengenace," "Plunder Road" and the "City That Never Sleeps", completes this package of old-time gangster movies.

Class clowns: This college helps turn yuks to bucks

AMEEN HOWRANI

Roundhouse Comedy College founder Jonathon Round, teacher and professional guide to some of Detroit's finest young comedians.

By Pat Schutte
staff writer

Question: Where do the best of the high school class clowns go when they graduate?

Answer: Some go to jail, some get serious and successful, some don't, some go into sales and some go to college.

"Dad, guess what? I'm going to college after all!"

"Great son, where did you decide to go?"

"Roundhouse Comedy College, Dad!"

"What?"

Yep. That's what happens to some of the Detroit areas' funniest class clowns, along with a wide variety of other quipsters who want to hone their comedic talents to a point of going on stage to make people laugh.

And, thanks to guys like Jonathon Round and his Roundhouse Comedy College (formerly Chaplin's Comedy College), students of laughter can learn everything from writing their own material to performing in front of an audience.

Roundhouse Comedy College is split into several different humor channels. Called "Smart Comedy" workshops, due to the scientific approach used, Round begins by helping students write their own material.

'It's like learning to walk and talk again . . . shaky at first, but once you get it down, you're on your way.'
— Jonathon Round.

"WE START by helping students recognize and organize their resources," said Round, a hulking, bearded gentleman cast in the Santa Claus mold, who got his start in show business 20 years ago. "We don't just stamp out comedians here, we give people hints on understanding their resources and broadening their comic horizons."

Students at Roundhouse Comedy College are taught to steer away from the norm.

"Monology is out," said Round. In other words, the standing joke teller is a thing of the past. Audiences want innovation, which makes comedians like Gallagher and Steven Wright so popular.

At Roundhouse, not only will you find young hopefuls emulating the likes of Sam Kinison and Andrew Dice Clay, but you'll also find an engineer from General Motors or the a vice president from Shearson, Lehman and Hutton trading laughs and techniques with Round and his students.

"The college did two things for me," said Ken Brown, an industrial engineer at General Motors, who at 28, has been touring the country for two years as a professional stand-up comic. "Jonathan's course gave me more knowledge on how to write material and it also gave me some valuable stage time."

"The first thing you learn is that this is no 'la-de-da' course," said Lenny Weiss who is with Shearson, Lehman and Hutton in Birmingham. He retired from stand-up comedy at the tender age of 37 after 25 shows.

"HIS COURSE is a lot like college, Jonathon talks, and talks, and talks, you take notes and notes and then you get to work on your routine in front of the class," Weiss said. "I still keep in touch with some of the people I met."

One of Weiss' contacts is Gilda Hauser, who also graduated from the college with a degree in hardy-har-har.

"I probably wouldn't have done it if it wasn't for Jonathon's courses," said Hauser, a University of Michigan graduate from Southfield who's been working on the local open mike circuit for six months. "I was really chicken and even went as far as to say that I was finding out about the course for a friend, so they wouldn't think it was me."

After students have discovered what they're about, what their resources are, and ways that they can create material, they work on coming up with a 10-minute act. That's phase-two of the course, or, the performance bit.

"While learning to write material, the students develop a routine," said Round, who, after a stint with the "Second City" comedy troupe in Chicago, began teaching improvisational comedy in Detroit in 1980. "We then videotape their routine and later discuss delivery, mike use, facial language and prop use."

THE COURSE costs $240 and meets eight weeks, one night a week, for three hours.

"The class helps you with becoming more aware of daily things that may be funny, and Jonathan helps you translate that into material," said Brown.

Comedy student Jennie McNulty of Westland agrees and also points out that students aren't spoon-fed by Round.

"He'll give you a different twist to add to your material, guiding you along by asking you questions to get you to think," said McNulty, who has a degree in psychology and a master's degree in kinesiology from the University of Michigan. She's been touring across the states as a stand-up comic for four months.

Round believes that the ability to successfully perform on stage depends entirely on the person's confidence in the material they've developed.

"It's like learning to walk and talk again . . . shaky at first, but once you get it down, you're on your way," said Round.

"In my first show, I went through these two killer sets," said McNulty. "The audience was way into it, and I looked down and saw my heart beating through my shirt . . . very inspiring."

Not only does Round lend himself to building talent, he also sees to it that his students get a fair crack at local jobs which can lead to quite larger engagements. Just ask Comedy College graduate/electrical designer Nick Paredes.

"OUT OF THE whole class, I'm the only one who's gone on to headline status," said Paredes who isn't shy about blowing my own horn."

"Round's classes knocked off two years of open mike-style roadwork for me," he said. "You have to be hungry though."

Hungry, in a sense, but not hungry due to the lack of money. Beginning comedians can make from $250 to $375 (roughly) for several nights work, depending on the nights.

Once established, a stand-up comic can make $500 to $600 for just a couple of nights work . . . and that's just top shelf local talent. Couple that with income from a daytime job and you're making some pretty good bucks.

Not bad a bad ticket . . . being funny for money.

For more information about the Roundhouse Comedy College, call Jonathon Round at 543-0002.

Humor processed with byte

It used to be that comedians found their material in bathrooms and bars. But this is the 1990s. Now they can conjure up material via a computer.

Computerized comedy, yeah, that's the program.

The "Humor Processor" is a piece of software put out by Responsive Software of Berkeley, Calif. The program, written by Alan Macy, uses a cross-referencing technique that puts hundreds of thousands of word and phrase association possibilities at the comedian's fingertips.

Built around a collection of bits of data — i.e., people, movies, places — the "Humor Processor" program is, what they call in the business, "incomplete set-up lines."

The program appears on the computer screen in the form of two columns. The column on the left offers words and phrases associated with one topic, and is manually advanced by the user. The column on the right of the screen has another list of words and phrases associated with a different topic, and advances on its own every five seconds.

The trick is to pull out a phrase from each side and create a comparative joke . . . sort of. Here's an example:

LET'S TAKE cars as the topic and cross-reference it with . . . say . . . cows.

Under cars, you'll find things like bring 'em back alive, hula dancer in back window, going to traffic school, teaching husband to drive and fuel pump. Under cows, taking the bull by the horns, roll in the hay, grazing in the grass, meanwhile back at the farm and chocolate milk.

Now, using comedian math, you could come up with 15,525 joke possibilities with these 10 phrases. With 50 to 400 phrases in each of the 25 different categories, a good comedian could come up with a joke for every person on the Eastern Seaboard for the next 37.4 years.

IN REALITY, what the program does is aid in the thought process when writing material, not only for comedy, but for speeches, articles and memos.

"We don't have any really famous comedians using the program . . . yet," said Macy, who said the original idea for the program came from "America's foremost humor consultant," Malcolm Kushner. "We have sold programs to Toyota, Proctor & Gamble and the Disney Corp."

Locally, Jonothan Round of Roundhouse Comedy College has been using the program, which runs for $49.95, for around three months.

"The program, if used correctly, can raise the consciousness and add to the ability of the comedian to be effective," Round said. "It also works well as a lap-top program which would make it a useful road companion in a comedian's developmental stage."

If you think of it, the program is like a simplified thesaurus, lending itself as an electronic aid to those who put the word to paper or over a microphone. It was inevitable.

"As long as comedians understand why and how a joke works, I'd say it's a very useful tool," Round said. "I doubt they'll declare another Easter holiday about it, though."

This comic is for women only

By Pat Schutte
staff writer

She's known as the only comic in America who shares the same birthplace as Jesus Christ — Bethlehem. Her tour is also one of the most controversial on the stand-up circuit — men are not allowed inside the club when she is appearing.

At a time when a high price is paid for innovation in stand-up comedy, Jenny Jones has struck it rich.

Jones' show, "Girls' Night Out," plays to sold-out audiences across the country and can best be described as a two-hour group therapy session that has evolved from a 25-minute stand-up routine.

Women are encouraged to participate, to open up and involve themselves in the act. Men have gone underground, dressed up in drag to review her show. They have surfaced not quite understanding what went on.

"We laugh at things inside of us women of all ages," said Jones, who has been recovering from a bout with the measles. "The shows get very personal, but not dirty. Men may be curious about what goes on, but they wouldn't be comfortable there."

At just a few years of age, Jones (who's real name is Jenny Stronski) moved with her parents (who met in a bread line in Poland) and sister from Bethlehem to London, Ontario.

She first got into the business as a model, her face gracing the cover of a facial soap called Select. She also did what she believes to be the first topless bathing suit ad in Canada for Catalina swimsuits.

Half-naked?

"YEAH, BUT I had long hair at the time," Jones said. (Hint: Picture Darryl Hannah in the movie "Splash.")

After a successful Las Vegas act, called "Jenny Jones and the Cover Girls" — the first all-girl act to do the Nevada circuit — in which Jones played the drums (after only three months of practice), she was spotted by Wayne Newton and worked for him as a backup singer with the Jive Sisters. She then dropped her musical career and took on stand-up comedy.

With less than five years of comedy experience, Jones gave the stand-up comic portion of the TV show "Star Search" a shot. In the end, she was $100,000 richer, and to this day, the only woman ever to win the comedy portion of the show.

Sheesh! A hundred grand. "What did you do with the money?"

"Oh, I bought cars for my parents . . . and I bought them a house," said Jones, whose parents were in the wedding gown business when Jenny was growing up.

Jenny Jones had arrived.

Within months, she was touring with such headline acts as Tony Bennett, Sammy Davis Jr. and the Pointer Sisters. She became a regular on "Hollywood Squares" and appeared on such stardom launch pads as "Arsenio Hall," "An Evening at the Improv" and the "Super Dave Osborn Show" on Showtime.

During this time, Jones came up with the concept for "Girls' Night Out.",

"IT'S A LOT of fun," said Jones. "It moves so fast that the two hours seem like about 20 minutes."

While the audience is made up mostly of young women — and an occasional cross dresser — older women seem to add the most to Jones's show.

"The ladies in their 60s to 80s really get into it," Jones said. "They've all done and seen so much more."

Mark Ridley, owner of the Comedy Castle, where Jones will be appearing tonight, couldn't be happier with the controversy surrounding the all-woman show. (Complaints of sex discrimination have been filed in Boston and Seattle and a Los Angeles agency refused to sell tickets to one of her performances.)

"I think it's fantastic what she does . . . just another way of taking talent and putting it to good use," Ridley said. "This is the kind of thing that can be around for a long time."

Jenny Jones and her show "Girls' Night Out" will be appearing Monday, April 9, at the Comedy Castle, 269 E. Fourth, Royal Oak. Show time is 7:30 p.m. For more information or reservations, call 542-9900.

Magda Moursi work the essential oils of rosemary, lavender, rosewood and geranium into the skin of Carolyn Hefner of Birmingham as part of her aromatherapy.

By John Logie
special writer

For patrons of Magda Moursi, treatment begins the moment they walk into her Birmingham office.

A small machine hums quietly on a shelf in the corner. At first glance, the machine appears decorative. A delicate glass bell, filled with translucent liquid, rests atop a nondescript blue base. The base, despite its bland appearance is busily diffusing the contents of the bell throughout the room.

The odors, spread about the office by the diffuser, combine with the smells from various plants Moursi has selected to create a pleasant blend. But Moursi means to do more than just refresh her visitors.

Merely sitting in her office serves as a subtle introduction to aromatherapy — the art and science of using nasally and topically ingested plant materials to treat the body and the mind.

The blending of the odors is changed every three weeks to fit the needs of Moursi's patrons. Typically, she gears the blend to relax her visitors.

"People are really in such a very intense, fast type of life that I have yet to find a person that doesn't need to relax," Moursi said.

Aromatherapy is, to some extent, an ancient discipline. As early as 4,000 years ago, Chinese doctors were documenting the curative powers of certain plants. Moursi cites the work of the Greek physician Hippocrates and the burial practices of ancient Egyptians as ancestors to her practice.

"THE EGYYPTIANS used many different oils to embalm bodies," Moursi said. "In fact, in some of the tombs they found alabaster jars with ointments that are still valid today, if you analyze them."

Moursi remembers becoming interested in plants and their curative properties while growing up in Egypt.

"As a person having a deep respect for th earth and whatever the earth has to give us as far as plants, I felt that there was a remedy in the plant world for almost every kind of ailment," she said. "So I started to study plants and herbs and aromatherapy, and I've been practicing this for over 25 years."

Moursi studied aromatherapy and skin treatment in France and practiced in Paris before moving to Southfield 18 years ago. She moved her office to downtown Birmingham in 1983. She returns to Europe annually to keep abreast of new developments in her specialty.

The modern practice of aromatherapy is popular in Japan and Europe — particularly in England and in France — but it isn't especially popular in the United States.

MOURSI IS one of, at most, a handful of practitioners of aromatherapy in the area and she combines it with more common skin and beauty treatments.

At present, Moursi uses 30-40 different oils but hopes to increase that number.

"In my learning, I get to know more and more plants and more and more oils," she said. "If you come see me in two years, I'll probably increase that to a hundred."

Moursi keeps her oils in a medicine cabinet in her reception area. They are stored in tiny brown bottles, which, she said, are necessary to preserve the odoriferous molecules of the essential oils. The diminutive bottles each have their own faint aroma and each features a tiny label.

SOME LABELS are handwritten, but some are elaborate tiny advertisements, with miniscule drawings of the plants from which the oils were derived and references to the special properties of the oils.

Moursi also keeps a shelf of books, including a polyglot guide to plant names and book by '70s natural food enthusiast Euell Gibbons.

Moursi's international background, and her ability to read in four languages is especially helpful as nearly all of the oils she uses must be imported from other countries.

Most of the oils in her cabinet hail from India, Malaysia, Tunisia or some equally distant locale. The only domestically produced (from Michigan) oil in Moursi's office is peppermint oil.

When a client visits Moursi for the first time, she begins a process of determining an appropriate blend of essential oils for that particular client. The factors governing the blend can range from the particular complaints of the individual to the condition of the skin, even the shape of the face and the plant leaves or the flower petals being used.

"I do something called intuitive blending," Moursi said. "I work with many different formulas and also really use my intuition as far as blending oils." She refers to the resulting blends as "synergies," which develop special properties when used in complementary combinations.

THE BLENDS reach Moursi's patrons in several ways. The can be applied topically as part of a face or neck massage. Oils also are directed at the nose through the use of a steamer, a devise resembling a small teapot with a trigger handle and nozzle which draws oil and water from separate chamber and mixes them into a fine mist.

She also places blends into bottles so that patrons can apply or smell their blends at home.

Aromatherapy is a field where, to a certain extent, customer satisfaction is guaranteed. Smell is a personal matter and what smells pleasing or refreshing to one person might offend the nose of another. But Moursi has never sent a customer home with a blend that was, to the customer's nose, malodorous.

"In assessing and evaluating the client, this is all taken into consideration," she said. "If the person doesn't like the smell of something, there's no way they're going to use it. It will be doing a counter-effect."

While aromatherapy's name suggests a nasal focus, Moursi stressed the role of the skin as a receptor for essential oils.

"The skin is the largest organ of the whole body, so we don't want to exclude it," she said.

THAT PROPERTY is perhaps the most important for Moursi's practice. Essential oils are fat soluble and because they are derived from nature, easily transported from the skin throughout the body, she said.

"Within 20 to 60 minutes, these oils are penetrating to the deepest layers of the skin," Moursi said, "taking with them all these beneficial ingredients of each plant into the deepest parts."

She added that the oils are helpful in stimulating hormones, cleaning the pores, rejuvenating dry skin and even aiding people suffering from insomnia.

Michelle Guisewite, a vice president/associate creative director with Ross Roy Advertising in Bloomfield Hills, visits Moursi regularly for facials and aromatherapy. She feels that Moursi's methods have been at least as helpful as other therapies she has employed.

"My skin has really cleared up dramatically," she said. "I've been to dermatologists. It's not like I have terrible skin, but I tend to be one of these people that breaks out a little bit, and I find that my skin is just in better condition . . . my complexion's a little rosier."

The basics . . .

As the names implies, aromatherapy has to do with scents.

Its main ingredients are the potent distilled plant essences, called "essential oils, derived by placing plant material like flower petals in a special receptacle and forcing steam through the material.

The mixture is allowed to evaporate, then cool. Water is then drawn from the material, leaving a highly concentrated oil, containing more than 100 complex constituents or ingredients.

Over the years, aromatherapist Magda Moursi of Birmingham has become somewhat of an expert on the lore behind various flora. She is adept at explaining how the sandalwood tree functions as a parasite, feeding from the roots of other trees without ever developing its own root systems.

She also tells the story of how Captain Cook's Australian settlers despaired at the absence of traditional tea and finally settled for boiling the leaves of an indigenous plant, calling it "teatree."

Moursi also has knowledge of the characteristics attributed to the various oils. Lemon oil, for example, tightens blood vessels and strengthens tissue. And pine and eucalyptus oils aid in respiratory metabolism by helping the skin to breathe better.

But knowledge about plants and there characteristics doesn't mean you can do aromatherapy. Forget do-it-yourself aromatherapy by simply surrounding yourself with the appropriate plants.

According to Moursi, the plants themselves do not provide powerful enough concentrations of their special properties.

And novices shouldn't dabble in the oils either since some of them are toxic. Moursi has elimated all toxins from her practice, but an amateur might not know enough to do so, she said.

an indication of Griffin's goal of filling the racks with good looking clothes that are in tip-top condition.

Another outfit that quickly caught the eye of several customers was a red wool trumpet skirt the owner had matched with a red sweater, accented with black leather piping and black mink at the shoulders. The two pieces weren't by the same designer, but the colors were identical and the young lady who bought them for under $75 was elated.

"I'm going to wear this to my in-laws for dinner," she said, adding that her husband would never believe that she spent so little. "This was such a good price, I was able to pay cash and leave my credit card in my wallet."

Like every customer we talked with, this 32-year-old school teacher preferred not to give her name. The anonymous shoppers aren't embarrassed to be seen in the store, but they'd just as well not publicize the fact that Mrs. So-and-So of Bloomfield Hills once owned the dress they're buying.

Although the stigma of resale clothing stores hasn't completely disappeared, Griffin feels the '90s will be a time when shops like hers start popping up in affluent areas all over the country.

'We have some spectacular evening dresses that cost anywhere from $300 to $1,000 when they were purchased new and we're selling them from $65 to $150.'

"JUST TAKE a look at Los Angeles for example," she said. "The celebrities wear their beautiful gowns to the Academy Awards, then ship them off to the high class resale shops where the up and coming actresses buy them for less and don't mind saying that the dress is used!"

Even though none of the dresses on the racks at Encore Encore were ever worn by Joan Collins or Elizabeth Taylor, there are several pieces on consignment that have been worn by Detroit area socialites and media personalities as well as wives of major sports figures.

Griffin hopes to convince some of the more well known ladies who consign clothing or buy at her shop to have photographs taken for her "Celebrity Corner."

The idea is still in the planning stages, so when a customer asks if a particular item belonged to anyone special, the saleswoman simply says "Shhh, we're not allowed to tell."

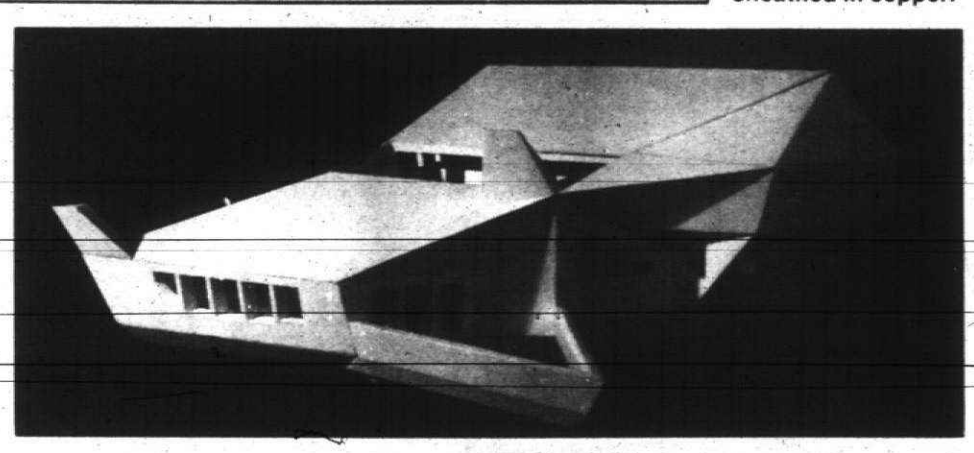
The form of the Museum of Glass in Corning, N.Y. (left) is an analogy to glass itself, which flows in its molten state, but is highly structured crystal when cool. (Below) The model of the Marge Monaghan House on Drummond Island illustrates how the architect drew on natural forms in the landscape. The structure will be wood frame sheathed in copper.



Gunnar Birkerts closes one door, opens another

By Joan Karner
special writer

A building, according to Gunnar Birkerts, is more than four walls and a roof. It is symbolism and metaphor created by an architect combining site, budget, finances, technology and his own background, said Birkerts, an internationally known architect, based in Birmingham.

Buildings lasting a hundred years or more become part of history, he said.

Birkerts, professor of architecture at the University of Michigan, spoke recently at the Chrysler auditorium on North Campus. The College of Architecture and Design honored the retiring professor by selecting him to present its John Dinkeloo Memorial Lecture.

Birkerts elaborated on his technique of building design which creates buildings of symbolism and metaphor designed to fit specific situation.

He said, "I refer to my design methodology as organic synthesis, synthesizing all the factors that need to be considered in the design project in order to arrive at the appropriate architectural solution. It has the ingredients . . . of the building site, its location, the regional position, geographical position, its orientation, the building program, the building budget, the available technology."

THE FINAL INGREDIENT he said, is zeitgeist, a combination of "the recognition of the time we live in" and the background of the architect. All of these factors combine or synthesize to create the buildings which are metaphorical and symbolic and fit in the place selected for them.

One example of symbolism and metaphor in Birkerts' work is the Corning Museum in Corning, N.Y. Created for the Corning glass company, the outside of the building features reversing half-circles in an amorphous design, much like an amoeba. This apparently wandering design represents, according to Birkets, the molten form of glass. The museum is built entirely of glass.

"If we could have used cat's eye marbles instead of gravel on the roof, we would have," he said.

Illustrating his lecture with slides, he demonstrated several meanings of the circle. For example, the circular library at Cornell University, represents the extent of knowledge. Protrusions in the circle show the continuing search for knowledge.

In Wyoming, the circular shape of the historical center represents the circle of the wagons formed each evening by the settlers crossing the state. The Iowa law school library Birkerts created based on a circle represents the law as one of the purest professions.

A building representing both metaphor and the use of the site and local building materials is the U.S. Embassy in Caracas, Venezuela, he said. The building is "not traditional federal architecture" rather, it blends with the mountains in the background. The blending is reinforced with the use of local granite in its facade. The design of the building reflects the shapes of the mountains and accommodates the chosen site.

Birkerts explained that the house he designed for Mrs. Mohaghan uses copper on the outside and wood on the inside utilizing two of Michigan's natural material.

Gunnar Birkerts

HE ALSO DESCRIBED his design of a soccer stadium just outside of Venice.To aid crowd control, he created a spider-like building with eight entrance-exit ramps to funnel crowds in and out effectively.

A native of Latvia, Birkerts received the Diplom-Igeneur Architects from the Technische Hochschule in Stuttgart, Germany in 1949. Following graduation, he came to the United States and worked for Perkins and Will in Chicago. Prior to opening his office in Birmingham in 1959 he worked for Eero Saarinen in Bloomfield Hills and for Minoru Yamasaki in Birmingham.

He has taught architectural design at the University of Michigan since 1960. He also holds the position of Thomas S. Monaghan Architect-in-Residence Professorship. Birkerts will retire form the university May 31 and receive the title emeritus.

Birkerts, always in demand as architect and teacher, said that while his retirement from the U-M faculty won't actually give him any "free time," he will be able to consider answering the many requests he has from all over the world to speak and give workshops and seminars.

New leasing concept can ease work load

Q: I started a small retail shop two years ago which has become very successful. I have two clerks and now I'm having to spend so much time doing book work, tax forms, etc. that my sales volume is suffering because I can't devote enough time to it. How can I spend more time doing what I want to do and less time on bookkeeping drudgery?

A: A simple rule for success is to concentrate your efforts on the work you do best and delegate tasks you don't do as well. This would seem especially desirable in your case.

A recent Small Business Administration report estimated the average manager spends from seven percent to 23 percent of his/her time handling employee-related government requirements. To avoid this huge time commitment, you have several alternatives. 1) You can hire a new employee to do your payroll or 2) pay an outside bookeeping service to do it for you.

A third alternative is a fairly new concept of leasing employees. Not to be confused with temporary help services, leased employees work for you but are technically hired and paid by an employee leasing company. All you do is write the leasing company one check periodically and it handles all the payroll, worker's compensation insurance and taxes (FICA, FUTA, MESC) including quarterly reports, W-2's, etc. It also offers the opportunity to be included in a choice of benefit plans which you could not afford to provide on your own, along with a myriad of other advantages. In turn you can attract and retain better employees.

Employee leasing began in 1972 and was considered a legal loophole while "Safe Harbor" laws were in effect from 1983 through 1985. It now offers legal tax advantages to employees and employers, but is no longer considered a tax shelter.

The National Staff Leasing association has some 135 accredited company members in the U.S. who must adhere to a standard code of ethics. Tom Dennis, president of the new Staffco Services Inc. of Bloomfield Hills, says his company can not only relieve you of payroll headaches while saving you time, it can actually decrease your employee dollar outlay in most cases.

Employee leasing began in 1972 and was considered a legal loophole while 'Safe Harbor' laws were in effect from 1983 through 1985. It now offers legal tax advantages to employees and employers, but is no longer considered a tax shelter.

Dennis and vice president Pamela Zawicki told me that, among still other advantages, they can reduce exposure to employee/government lawsuits, assist in screening applicants and even handle severance notification when asked to do so. This contract arrangement can be utilized by businesses with one employee or several hundred.

Whichever alternative you choose, I strongly encourage you to assign your payroll and bookkeeping tasks to someone else and focus your talents on sales.

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer

Before someone commits to buying one of these (above), the first step is walking through a model (photograph at right) to determine what is the best style. Builders often will sell models to buyers at a lower cost, with added options.

Model homes: top amenities at a lower cost

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Buyers of new houses or condominiums frequently can get more for their dollars by looking at models in residential subdivisions.

Models, although generally not cheaper in and of themselves, usually have upgraded features that would cost more if they were to be included in the same kind of unit built on another lot in the sub.

"They end up getting a package cheaper than they probably could do putting the stuff together," said Angelo Spagnoli, president of S&S Homes of Plymouth.

"You'll get some wallpaper, some drapery. Carpeting probably will be a better grade, appliances a better grade," he said.

Price discounts on models may be available, depending on market conditions, when a builder wraps up a project.

"A builder wants to sell," Spagnoli said. "He doesn't want to sit on it. He may be willing to bargain."

BUT DON'T expect a steal unless some unusual circumstances surround a buy.

"It's not a fire sale," Spagnoli said.

'A builder wants to sell. He doesn't want to sit on it. He may be willing to bargain.'

— Angelo Spagnoli
S & S Homes president

Sheldon Rott, national sales and marketing manager for Lifestyle Homes of Farmington Hills, projected that a buyer probably could get a condo model for about $205,000 that would cost $220,000 if built from scratch.

"They get a lot of amenities they normally wouldn't buy or get them gradually over the years," Rott said. "I can't say we don't charge anything, but we don't charge what it costs us."

Landscaping, security systems and fireplaces generally are included as upgrades.

MODELS, MANY of which are furnished at the builder's expense, most often appeal to transferees, people searching for a specific decorative look and investors.

They may prefer not bothering with the piecemeal approach to buying and furnishing.

"It's someone who wants new but doesn't want to buy from scratch," said Ellen Whitefield, director of marketing for The Selective Group of Farmington Hills.

Then there are impulse buyers who just fall in love with models and feel compelled to buy, she said.

"You have wallpaper up, light fixtures up, some upgraded things like faucets, maybe appliances," Whitefield said. "It's done, you can see it, you can move into it. You're there."

Models almost invariably are clean and well cared for because they serve as signature pieces for a builder's work.

"Anyone would be crazy to let a model get out of hand," Rott said.

Pulte Homes of Michigan in Royal Oak, like most area builders, doesn't necessarily discount models, but does offer good value for the money, said Deen Hyde, marketing director.

"WE WILL normally put a model on the market three to six months before close-out," she said.

"We don't do a lot of extra built-ins because we want people to see what kind of house they're going to get delivered," Hyde said.

Buyers of Pulte models could expect to get wallpaper, drapes, a landscaped lot and a sprinkling system.

The big draw Hyde finds is "no hassle moving in."

Jo Vincenti, marketing and sales manager for Tri-Mount of Novi, speculated that condo buyers could get $10,000 to $15,000 in discounted extras buying a $200,000 condo model than building and decorating on their own.

"They pay more than the base price but not as much as extras are worth," she said.

"We might tile the kitchen, which isn't standard. We may put marble on the fireplace, put up mirrors. Then we wallpaper, put in window treatments. They might like certain pieces of art.

"Instead of paying full value, they get extras for way below," Vincenti said.

BUT BUYERS should know that market conditions at a given time usually determine the value of a property.

"Models are strange," Vincenti said. "It depends on how fast you sell out, how quickly you turn over, how much prices go up."

"In some cases, a builder builds (and holds) a model and three years later, prices are up $50,000," Spagnoli said. "If it's a buyer's market, you'll probably get a better deal."

Real estate firm expands its scope

Uniprop Inc., a Birmingham- and Denver-based real estate equity investment firm, is expanding to include medical/professional office development and management activities.

Uniprop president Paul Zlotoff called the progression from manufactured housing to hospital expansion and neighborhood "satellite" offices as "a natural progression."

Financial lenders and investor groups are increasingly interested in this type of investment vehicle because of the stability of the income properties, he said.

Uniprop currently owns and manages the Novi Professional Village in Novi; the Maple Park Office Center in West Bloomfield, which was co-developed with Nosan/Cohen Associates of West Bloomfield; and the Bloomfield Medical Village in Bloomfield Township.

Michael Bramson and Judith Westlund have joined The Selective Group, a Farmington Hills-based development and building firm.

Westlund was hired as sales coordinator, responsible for all sales at St. Lawrence Estates, a condominium community in Northville.

The Michigan Association of Life Safety Equipment Contractors recently announced its campaign against proposed Michigan House Bill 5168, which would require technicians handling low-voltage equipment to become licensed journeyman electricians in order to work in a structure regulated under the state construction code.

The association is a newly formed group representing 4,800 Michigan residents employed by businesses that install and service low-voltage equipment.

This equipment includes intercoms for hospitals, burglar, fire and security alarm systems, closed-circuit television, data processing equipment, sound systems and, in some instances, telephones.

Don Maillatesi called the adjustable rate mortgage plan advantageous to home buyers.

"Our flexible underwriting guidelines and 10 percent minimum down payment make it easier for borrowers to qualify," he said.

"With loan amortizations as long as 40 years, larger-than-average maximum loan amounts and initial interest rates currently as low as 7 ⅜, even first and second-time buyers can now afford more home for their money."

First-time home buyers continued to be a major economic force in the U.S. housing market in 1989, according to statistics compiled by Century 21 Real Estate Corp.

First-time buyers represented 38 percent of the more than 400,000 transactions recorded by the Century 21 system in 1989. There has been no significant change in that percentage for the last year fives.

Condo associations can protest assessments as dwellers' proxy

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

With the recent increase in tax assessments across the board, is there anything a condominium association can do to help the individual owners with their assessments?

As you know, in most instances the condominium association does not normally own any of the real estate and the assessments from the local assessor are imposed on the individual co-owner.

On the other hand, I have seen situations where the association has been recognized as a representative body of certain co-owners who authorize it to go to the city or township assessor in an effort to make an adjustment for the condominium units in the project as a whole.

The association may be in the position, perhaps, to retain counsel to assist it more economically in advancing the interests of the individual co-owners and by providing information which would be of benefit. That approach can be taken only if there is no conflict between the individual co-owners vis-a-vis the individual assessments.

In any event, the condominium association can serve as a clearing house for information between the individual co-owners and can provide assistance by way of economic information to the individual co-owners regarding the tax assessment so long as that action is authorized by the members of the association.

In short, while the association can be of assistance in this regard, it should be undertaken only with the advice of the association's legal counsel so as to insure that the association is not stepping on anyone's legal toes in the association.

I understand you handle a number of construction defect lawsuits for associations. Can you brief me on the present status of the issue concerning fire retardant plywoods that can be treated to the point of becoming unsafe.

According to a report on fire retardant plywood published by the National Association of Home Builders, the problem was discovered when some townhouse owners began reporting excessive waviness in their roofing near the firewalls.

In some cases, further inspection showed that the sheathing had deteriorated to the point where the roof was unsafe to walk on. It appeared that heat and moisture in and around the roof was contributing to a chemical reaction which caused the plywood to become extremely brittle and deteriorate.

Plywoods treated with ammonium phosphate formulas appear to show the greatest amount of deterioration. When exposed to wide variations of heat and humidity, the phosphates break down and in the process dissolve the middle lamella of the plywood. I am advised that drywood often has a charred brown appearance which is similar to a condition caused by a brown-rot fungi.

An industry task force on fire retardant plywoods is studying the extent of the problem, researching methods for repairing structures that have damaged fire retardant plywood and investigating options to fire retardant plywood.

Apparently even after the current test and study results are available, the long-term ramifications of using fire retardant plywood may not be known for years.

In the meantime, community associations which have responsibility for the maintenance, repair and/or replacement of this condition should be exploring the situation and determining whether there is any liability and who will bear responsibility for same.

Wood requires limited heat, humidity, sun

Fine wood furnishings need more than dusting and polishing: They need a healthful environment.

To avoid unnecessary weathering, aging or damage, Better Homes and Gardens magazine recommends placing precious pieces away from excessive exposure to these natural furniture foes:

- Humidity: Wood easily absorbs moisture, then dries out just as readily. A friendly atmosphere in the 30 to 40 percent relative humidity range will reduce drying and warping, splitting, or loosening of joints.
- Heat: Furniture experts say 68 to 70 degrees is the ideal indoor temperature for wood pieces. Keep the temperature consistent and that will help pieces avoid wood stress.
- Sunlight: Keeping wood furniture away from direct sunlight protects against the ultraviolet-light fading that the sun's rays cause. It also reduces the exposure to the rapid heat changes produced by the sun.
- Liquid: To avoid finish damage, wipe up liquids immediately after a spill. The worst offenders are solvent-based fluids, such as alcohol, paint thinner and nail polish remover. Also, be careful of dripping candles.

Give special furnishings a vacation when taking one. When leaving home for a season or a couple of months, put favorite pieces under wraps. Otherwise, dust will build up, blow about and contribute to scratching and dulling finishes the next time furniture needs polishing.
