Man files complaint against art show

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton resident Mark Baidel has filed an obscenity complaint against an Ann Arbor art exhibit he refers to as "a satanic mortuary."

Baidel took photos of what he described "as evidence of the obscene, sadistic and masochistic" exhibits at "Fear No Art" in the Performance Network in Ann Arbor.

Baidel is among five people who filed obscenity complaints with the Ann Arbor police, according to Detective Jerry Reynard. Washtenaw County Prosecutor William Delhey was out of town last week and is expected to return today. The misdemeanor is punishable by up to one year in jail and a $5,000 fine.

MARK AND his wife, Elizabeth, organized a group called "Art in Heaven," which has picketed the Performance Network every Saturday since it opened Oct. 4. The group plans to continue the picketing until the exhibit closes. It's scheduled to run through Dec. 2.

The purpose of the show is to solicit debate, said Johanna Broughton, Performance Network program manager. Pencil and paper are provided at every exhibit to elicit responses. Viewers have given a wide range of opinions, she said.

> 'They have a right to look at it, but those who put it out don't have a free reign.'
> — Elizabeth Baidel

"We were trying to create a forum for reasonable, rational discussion," Broughton said. "They feel God wants it that way, and that's the way it is. They won't have discussions with us, and they won't talk to us. I find that rude."

And rude was the way Elizabeth Baidel described viewers who insist to the picketers that the U.S. Constitution protects their right to see the art. Other viewers, however, picked up picket signs and marched, she said.

THEIR FIGHT won't end in Ann Arbor, she said. If the exhibit shows up in another city "we will be there too. It will be an ongoing thing."

"Someone has to be held accountable," Elizabeth Baidel said. "They have a right to look at it, but those who put it out don't have a free reign. There are pornography laws. It should not be labeled (as) art but as pornography."

The Canton Connection

Arts council dinner

The Canton Arts Council will celebrate its first anniversary with a benefit evening to raise money for 1990-91 programming projects.

The evening will include a gourmet dinner prepared by the Oakland Community College-Orchard Ridge Campus Culinary Arts Department, and the Smith Theatre Guild's opening production of "The Nerd," a comedy by Larry Shue.

The benefit will be 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25 at the Orchard Ridge Campus, Orchard Lake Road just south of the I-696 exit ramp.

The cost is $10 per person. Tickets must be bought in advance and can be obtained by calling Bev Versele at 471-7700.

Proceeds of the evening will be earmarked for 1990-91 arts council projects, which include a Spring Arts Show and Piano Play-a-thon.

The Canton Arts Council is a committee of the Canton Community Foundation.

School liaison

Ray Buckman of Plymouth Township has been named legislative liaison for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools by the board of education.

Buckman, 83, will serve on a voluntary basis tracking bills in Lansing and working with legislators.

Out-of-formula districts such as Plymouth-Canton have seen the state reduce financing in recent years.

"The state is taking money away. A deep desire of mine is to get some of that money back. There are a lot of things I'll be working on," said Buckman, who became active in school affairs in 1988.

Buckman worked as a governmental liaison and on finance with the Committee Researching Educational Workings. He also served on the I Care Committee that campaigned for the millage.

Buckman is retired from the Masco Corp., where he was in purchasing.

New appointment

Patrick O'Donnell has been appointed executive director of pupil personnel services by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

O'Donnell — formerly director of special programs, student services and pupil personnel — will be responsible for all special programs in the district, including special education programs, PLUS/Head Start, the Infant Pre-School Special Education Program and drug-related programs.

The appointment will improve organization and control over some programs that have not had direct leadership for some time, said Superintendent John Hoben.

Gender equity

Barbara Church, curriculum coordinator for the Plymouth-Canton schools, will talk about gender equity in math and science at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at a meeting of the American Association of University Women.

The meeting will be at Ernesto's restaurant, 41661 Plymouth Road, and is open to the public.

Resident has her handle on baskets

By A. Giralt Bedford
staff writer

Stella Delap has baskets for everybody, even for people who don't like them.

The owner of Basket Kreations, in Canton, makes and sells gift baskets for every occasion, taste and person. Baby and wedding showers, Halloween and Christmas, golf and car fanatics — every special need can be fulfilled with a basket made to order.

And for those who love soup, but not baskets, she also has something for them. A blue pot takes the place of the expected basket, holding two cups, ladle, mitten, soup cookbook and a bag with the ingredients to make bean soup.

The Canton resident was a manager for Photo Corp. of America International, but quit to raise two children. Later, she decided she wanted to find some type of employment. "I wanted to do something that I could do from home. I wanted to get back in the work force so badly, but I didn't want to leave my children," she said. Her two boys are 3 and 6 years old.

Delap began to make gifts baskets, giving them away as presents. When she saw the reaction her baskets got, she decided to turn her interest into a business.

Now she said she enjoys every aspect of her job, especially the home parties — where she presents her baskets — and meeting new people. "They are so appreciative. They're wonderful to work with."

Her busiest time is coming up with the holidays, but she said she also likes that. "My family pitches in an awful lot. It's nice to have family and friends during the holidays." Even her children help, fetching ribbons and small items.

Her work was also recognized nationally when she won third place in an international gift basket competition hosted by Gift Basket Retailers International in Chicago last August.

Now she has been invited to teach a seminar in design at the International Gift Basket Convention and Gift Show, scheduled to take place in Tampa, Fla., next April.

She said the toughest point in getting her business started has been dealing with some suppliers who do not understand that a cottage industry can one day become a major business. She said she was very offended when a floral supplier told her, "We give priority to other businesses, not your kind." She laughed saying she takes comfort thinking one day she may buy that floral supply business.

Although she is working out of her house, she plans to move to a store or gift gallery in the future. "Once I build a nice, strong clientele," she said.

Her clients are getting more numerous every day and soon she will be able to service them better with a catalog scheduled to be published in the coming weeks, she said.

Her baskets range in price from $10 to $150 and they come with a hand-written card, wrapped and with ribbons.

Dulap also takes special orders, requesting a minimum of 24 hours to prepare a basket which she also home delivers.

And people who don't need a special order, can have fun examining the baskets — and tasting them, especially the one for the chocolate lover. For the diabetic chocolate lover, there is one full of sugar-free products. She also sells a "Made in Michigan" basket with state-grown products, such as Sanders hot fudge sauce and nuts.

For additional information, call 397-5999.

Religious freedom

Since the Soviet Union recently adopted the law on "Freedom of Conscience and Religious Organizations," the mood among Russian Orthodox believers is one of cautious optimism. For the story, please turn to Page 3A.

Student count growing

Residential development in the area should result in about 1,954 new students, an increase of 13.1 percent, for the Plymouth-Canton schools from now through the 1994-95 school year, according to a survey by administrator Carl Taylor.

Taylor, the former principal at Pioneer Middle School who will retire in December after finishing several special assignments, made a study of current and planned building projects to determine their impact on the student population. His survey is an update of a survey first done in 1987 by consultant Raymond Spear.

Taylor reported that the increase in students can be absorbed by the two current high schools and the five middle schools, but that an additional elementary school likely will be needed. The district has 12 elementary schools.

The school system has what it refers to as a blue-ribbon committee studying school needs between now and the year 2010.

A subcommittee studying needs over the next five years has Taylor's report, according to Richard Egli, the district's community relations director.

TAYLOR CONCLUDED that the city of Plymouth and the townships of Salem and Superior will have minimal impact on student-population growth, and that residential growth in Northville Township will contribute only about 60 students to

Recycling plan eyed

By Diane Gale
staff writer

When Canton's garbage hauler, David Denski, unveiled the ultimate recycling method, it was a clear sign that residents will be swept up in the national wave sooner than they think.

Denski recycled an old garbage truck to pick up garbage and recyclables, all at the same time. The truck saves buying a new specialized truck and saves sending two trucks, one for garbage and one for recyclables to the same neighborhoods. Denski is owner of Canton Recycling.

Canton trustees are expected to vote Tuesday on launching a pilot curbside recycling program. They haven't chosen an area.

EVERYONE in Canton will be asked to take part in a curbside

Does Canton need a recreation center?

Canton Township officials are discussing building a recreation center. The township has hired an architectural firm to study the question and is looking at different ways to pay for a center.

In 1988 voters rejected a special tax to raise $8 million for such a center. But times change.

We'd like to know what you think. Please tell us in 50 words or less if the township should build a center and how it should be paid for.

We will use all the responses we receive, so please include your name and address.

Band equipment taken from store

More than $4,000 worth of band equipment was stolen Wednesday night or Thursday morning from the Mid American carpet store on Market.

A 25-year-old employee of the store, a Wayne resident, had been storing his equipment there.

The thief or thieves pried open a rear door, then opened a bay door and drove a vehicle in to load the equipment, which including a monitor, mixing board, microphone, computer equipment and amplifiers.

Damage was estimated at $50.

PINGS PICKED: Ping irons were the choice of a thief who broke into the Fellow Creek Golf Club early Thursday morning.

The thief tossed a large rock through a window to gain entrance. He stole 20 clubs, all of them Ping 3-, 4-, 5- and 6-irons.

The total loss was set at $1,200.

CREDIT FRAUD: A man used a woman's credit card to defraud the Meijer's store on Ford out of two VCR's, three Nintendo tapes and a tank full of gasoline.

Two of the purchases were made Oct. 13 and two more on Oct. 14 before the card was confiscated after it was reported stolen.

The reason a man could use a woman's stolen credit card, according to the employee who reported the fraud to police, is that Meijer's doesn't require credit-card users to show ID.

GOLD HEIST: The owner of the Classic Gold shop on Ford Road reported that four gold bracelets and two gold rings were taken Monday, sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The owner told police he thinks he knows who stole them. He said the total value was $4,280.

Resident files obscenity complaint against show in which the child died, according to Broughton — has been the focus of attention and debate.

Elizabeth Baidel said that she refuses to see the exhibit.

"I've seen pictures of it," she said. "I've taken a stand that I won't go in and see it. It's a den of iniquity."

The Baidels said they're against public funds supporting Performance Network. Broughton, however, said arts council support is solely designated for specific productions and the "Fear No Art" exhibit is not one of them.

If a groundswell of people believe the exhibit is acceptable, Mark Baidel said, then the state obscenity law should be changed.

The number of people going to the exhibit has dwindled since the group began protesting, said Elizabeth Baidel.

Broughton said it's frustrating that other Performance Network productions have been ignored while "Fear No Art" has grabbed all the attention. On the other hand, the picketers — at least initially — have attracted patrons to "Fear No Art," she said.

"They're (picketers) not disturbing us in any way, but picketers marching back and forth does draw attention," Broughton said.

Mall offers magic, pumpkin painting

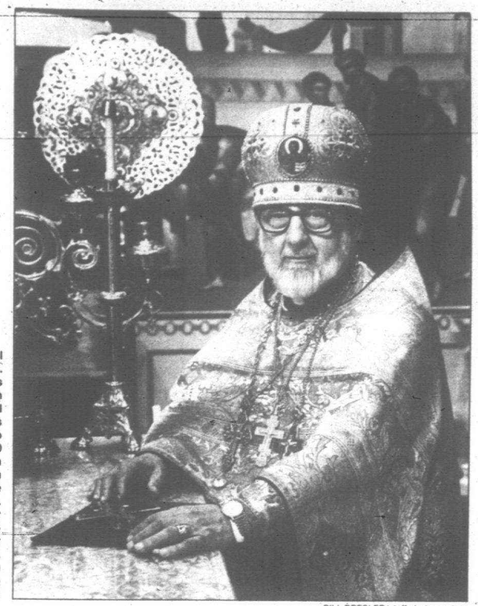
Orthodox clergy cautious of Soviet reforms

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer



The Rev. Michael Barna of St. Michael's Orthodox Church in Redford Township says it's not unusual to see 6,000 or 7,000 worshipers in church on a Sunday in the Soviet Union. Like his father and great-grandfather before him, Rev. Michael is a Russian Orthodox priest.

BILL BRESLER/staff photographer

Russian Orthodox clergy say that while believers here are overjoyed that their Soviet brethren are enjoying more religious freedom, the mood is one of cautious optimism.

With its adoption last month of the law on "Freedom of Conscience and Religious Organizations," the Soviet legislature formally ended decades of religious repression.

"It's unpredictable, but we feel there will be more freedom for other churches to come into being," said the Rev. Michael Barna, pastor of St. Michael's Russian Orthodox Church in Redford Township. "But the Soviet people by getting their freedom will have to take responsibility too. Now it will fall to the people to support their churches.

"It leaves the door open for lots of pros and cons," said Barna, who has visited the Soviet Union numerous times, most recently in 1988 to celebrate 1,000 years of orthodoxy in Russia.

"We don't know how it's going to go. Their greatest fear is will Mikhail Gorbachev last long enough to see the changes through? Under the czars, there was a lot of underhandedness going on all the time. People are very cautious."

THE REV. ROMAN STAR, pastor of St. Innocent Russian Orthodox Church in Redford Township, estimates there are more than 50 million Orthodox believers in the Soviet Union and 3 million to 6 million in the United States.

"I was in the Soviet Union in 1988 for the millennium. Of course things have changed considerably since then, but their churches were packed. At that time there was no problem," Star said.

Effects of the conscience law will be felt in various ways, he predicts.

Despite the introduction of perestroika and glasnost in 1988-89, there were certain areas of the Soviet Union where the local government still didn't accept tolerance of religion," Star said. "Maybe now with the law of conscience, which has some teeth, local government officials will accept the church and its practices and beliefs without interference.

BARNA AND Star credit the Soviet people, particularly the grandmothers, or "babas," with keeping faith alive during the Communist regime.

"It was the people themselves, especially the grandmothers, who trained all the children in religion and kept their faith despite Communist propaganda," said Barna.

Russia's ornate cathedrals — built by the czars at a time when the people were going hungry — were converted to museums by the Communists.

Barna saw evidence first hand in 1988 that religious freedom was becoming a reality.

In Leningrad, Barna was visiting St. Isaac's Cathedral, "one of the most beautiful churches I've ever seen in my life," when fellow clergyman the Rev. John Sviridov said, "You know what we should do? We should have a service."

"I told him, 'You know, we might get in trouble,' but he persuaded me.

"So we asked people in the museum if they could sing the liturgy, and they said yes.

"Father John started, and the people joined us and sang the whole service. Even though Communist guards were watching us, no one stopped us.

"Afterwards, they called Father John and took him away behind the altar. We thought we wouldn't get out of Russia.

"A general asked him, 'What are you doing? Father John was honest.

"They said, 'Well, don't do it again,' and let him go. So, the Patriarch served the first service in 70 years at the Kremlin this year, but we had a service in 1988, but it wasn't official."

Soviet churches are opening by the thousands, said Star.

"In 1985, three new parishes were registered in the Orthodox church in the Soviet Union. In 1986, there were 10 new parishes. In 198/, there were 16, and in 1988, 809 new churches. In the first nine months of 1989, 2,185 parishes opened or were newly constructed. Now there are 9,734 churches in the Soviet Union, including 35 monasteries and convents."

WHILE THE number of churches has grown, the number of believers has been considerable for a long time. "The church basically grows and faith becomes stronger in times of persecution," said Star.

Barna says he's seen congregations in the Soviet Union of 6,000 to 7,000.

"You see men in the armed services on their knees for an hour-and-a-half-long liturgy; two-and-a-half to three hours if there's a bishop," said Barna, whose father and great-grandfather also were Orthodox priests. "The whole congregation would sing the creed. You can't believe it's possible.

"If you ever fainted, you couldn't fall over, there are so many people. There are no pews, because they believe you don't sit in the presence of the Lord," said Barna's wife, Jane Barna, choir director at St. Michael's.

Seventh Day Adventists cheer church changes

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Among the Seventh Day Adventist congregation, there is joy, optimism and skepticism about the ending of religious repression in the Soviet Union.

David Grams, pastor at Plymouth Seventh Day Adventist Church, attended the church's World Congress in Indianapolis last July.

"So much has changed in recent times it's unbelievable," said Grams. "We had more than 50,000 people from all over the world, 190 countries including the Soviet Union."

On the agenda was the election of church leaders, the presentation of plans formulated by committees during the past five years, and organizing a division of the world church in Russia.

SEVENTH DAY Adventists number more than 726,000 in the United States; about 35,000 in the Soviet Union and more than 6 million worldwide.

Not only was the Soviet congregation allowed to take part, "the Soviets sent over their own state TV crew to cover the World Congress," said Grams.

"At one time, the concept of doing something outside the Soviet Union that would impact the country was repugnant. They wouldn't accept that until before the conference."

The "law of conscience" recently passed by the Soviet legislature will enable the church to become visible, he said.

"It will allow the church to carry on what we consider the evangelistic arm of the church without having to hide and be brought in every five minutes.

"The biggest thrill to them is being able to meet together and rejoice in the Lord without fear of being taken on a free trip to Siberia," said Grams. "The thrill for them of meeting with their brothers and sisters to worship without fear of recrimination; it's hard to describe in this country. It's so beautiful to them, the meeting has to go on and on. In this country, everyone rushes out when the clock strikes 12. Over there they're just thrilled to be able to share these wonderful things and develop programs like education that could never be developed before."

The church is also at work exercising the new freedom to publish and build seminaries, Grams said.

WOLFHARD TOUCHARD, collection development librarian for Andrews University in Berrien Springs, is setting up a library at a newly-opened Seventh Day Adventist seminary 130 kilometers southeast of Moscow.

He made his second trip to the Soviet Union last September.

"One-thousand seven-hundred people donated their time and help to build the seminary. They came from everywhere, including Siberia," said Touchard, an East German who has done similar work in Africa and the Middle East.

"There are more than 30,000 people visiting the seminary each year. One Friday night, I saw 10 buses arrive.

"What we're feeling is a resurgence of longing for spirituality and for spiritual food. It's a religious awakening."

At the church's regional center in Tula in the Soviet Union, an offer recently was made to hold Bible studies if interest was sufficient, said Touchard. "Two hundred people applied.

"We worked our tails off, but it was a revival for me. I will never forget the experience."

On a tour, Touchard said he learned about the "total destruction of churches under Stalin. Now the government is encouraging the people to rebuild them. People are able to worship without fear, as they please."

The new Zaokski Seminary of the Seventh Day Adventists, which hosted Touchard as its first lecturer, accepted 30 seminarians the first year. "Thirty students are being added every year," he said.

Randy Skeete, head elder of the Seventh Day Adventist Church of Ypsilanti, said the church members here are "elated, because Adventists are taught and trained to take the gospel message to those who have not yet heard it. I expect that will happen.

"But there are no guarantees the freedoms are going to last. The mood of the church in the Soviet Union is to do it while we have the time. Gorbachev is the personification of glasnost, perestroika and an open society. But many people have rebelled against him and against his liberal approach. If he goes, there is no telling what might happen."

Area resident sees danger in returning to Soviet Union

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Soviet-born Anna Kocherovsky, now a Canton resident, says that while "this has been a terrific year for change in the Soviet Union" she has no desire to return there.

As a Jew, "it is too dangerous," said Kocherovsky, who with her husband Eugene tried for nine years to leave the Soviet Union before finally receiving permission last year.

"Soviets now feel more freedom, but we don't know what happens if Gorbachev leaves. Maybe some else comes and takes freedom away. It's been a crazy year. So many things happened."

THE KOCHEROVSKYS and their son Roman, 10, came to Plymouth Township in February from New York when Eugene Kocherovsky was offered a job at Hertel Cutting Technologies in Plymouth Township.

Anna Kocherovsky's parents, brother and sister-in-law still live in Moldavia, which is struggling for independence from the Soviet Union. Compounding the danger confronted by Jews in Moldavia is political unrest, she said.

"So many people move to Russia from Moldavia. They want to have their own country. It is not a safe place.

"At the beginning of the century, people were stopped, beaten and killed only because they were Jewish," she added. "A lot of people came to this country for that reason. We feel that could happen again. It would be a bad future for my kid," said Anna, who graduated with her husband from the Moscow Machine Tools Institute.

Both Kocherovsky's father and grandfather were imprisoned during world War II. "My dad was in prison in Siberia. It was awful. Only as an adult do I understand it. My family never talked about it.

In the Soviet Union, being Jewish goes far beyond religion, she said.

"Our passports say we are Jewish, not Russian. If you want to go abroad, you will have a terrible time. They try to keep you in the country, and nobody says why. We tried to get to America in 1980 and were refused. The government said something about the job of my husband."

Kocherovsky isn't sure why the family was allowed to leave.

"I don't know if we were able to leave because of Gorbachev or the American president, but this time we got permission. We left the first of June, 1989. We were sad about it. My parents cried and all of us cried. But we are happy they will try to come to this country. We don't know what happens next."

Kocherovsky said that while living in Moscow, "on occasion I would go for celebration to the synagogue. But it was better if people don't know about it. The synagogue was in the center of Moscow on a small street. There are policemen, and you feel somebody is watching you. It is not comfortable.

"When we left the country, we were beginning to feel more freedom. I saw a lot of weddings and religious ceremonies I didn't see when I was a little girl."

Religious discriminatibe is a fact of life, added Kocherovsky, an accomplished weaver.

"I was trying to find a new job. I came to a place that told me, 'You have wonderful credentials for a designer. Just fill out the application.

"When I filled it out they said, 'We will think about it. You know we cannot have you. We don't have a place.'

"We feel the government is behind it. Maybe the government isn't, but it cannot stop it. It doesn't help us."

Soviet Jews feared sending their children to Jewish kindergartens and summer camps, she added.

"I was afraid to place my kid there because usually the government knows about it. It feels like somebody is watching you all the time.

"At summer camp, policemen come and check the place. They come to check the rooms. Maybe they want to keep people more stressful; I don't know."

Kocherovsky says she thinks her family will be happy here.

"Your churches are so different; they're like a big club. Not in Russia. People only come for the services. We feel more freedom. I feel my life is wonderful. They gave my husband a very interesting job with good people. I only hope my son will like it here, too."

Russian emigre Anna Kocherovsky, now a Canton resident, says it was better when she lived in the Soviet Union if no one knew you went to the synagogue.

compost program next spring, according to clerk Loren Bennett, who has become a local expert on recycling and composting. The program will be voluntary at first, he said.

A new state law prohibits disposal of leaves, grass and other yard debris in landfills and incinerators, according to James Kosteva, D-Canton. The ban will start in two years for yard waste on government owned land and in four years for households.

After a land agreement is settled with Detroit Edison, Canton's compost likely will be 52 acres and, according to Bennett, that would be one of the largest composts in the nation. All western Wayne County communities will use the compost south of Michigan west of Morton Taylor behind the Department of Public Works.

Canton, Northville and Plymouth townships, which formed the Western Townships Utility Authority, received a $250,000 grant from the state Department of Natural Resources to cover start up costs.

The compost will be operated by a private company, Compost Systems, Inc. and will give the authority royalties. Communities will be charged $4 a cubic yard, however, the cost for authority communities is $1.95 a cubic yard, Bennett said.

Development of the compost will be documented, Bennett said, because it likely will be used as an example for other composts.

MIKE DEDES, owner of Michigan Compost on Chubb Road in Salem Township, said his compost facility is regularly visited by people wanting to start composts. Michigan Compost has been open one year.

He questioned why Canton failed to take its compost to that facility while township officials looked for a location. He said it was unfortunate that during that time Canton continued to haul yard waste filling valuable landfills.

Bennett said he understood the company charged "considerably" more than what CSI will charge. Meanwhile, Dedes said he believes CSI's contract is unbelievably low.

"The last time I checked into it (Michigan Compost) I thought it would be irresponsible for the township to get involved, because I was under the impression that they didn't have a viable operation," Bennett said. "We have been working for a year and a half with WTUA on creating our own composting facility."

Growing student count creating need for new school the district over the next five years.

He estimated 798 new students will come from Plymouth Township and 1,006 from Canton Township.

Taylor used the district's established criteria for arriving at his projections. Each new single-family unit generates an average of eight-tenths of a student, with condominiums generating .25 apiece and apartments about .1.

The survey revealed there would be 3,615 new residential units in the school district by the end of the 1994-95 school year.

The survey revealed there would be 3,615 new residential units in the school district by the end of the 1994-95 school year — 2,092 single family, 851 condos and 672 apartments.

Taylor also used established criteria in determining the breakdown of students, with 50 percent elementary, 30 percent middle school and 20 percent high school.

He projected 978 new elementary students, 585 middle-school students and 391 high students entering the system over the five-year period.

The district now has 14,937 students.

DEAR TAXPAYERS:
Do You Want To Buy Mettetal Airport?
The Republicans Will Sell It To You!

They say it won't cost you anything, because the Federal Aviation Agency will pay 90%, (Isn't that your money?) and the state will pay 5%; (Isn't that your tax money?) and "private money" will make up the remaining 5%. Gerald Law says "yes, let's do it." Let's pay $4,000,000 dollars of your money to his friends who bought it for $2,000,000.

Before you re-elect him, ask yourself these questions:

1. Why did an FAA report say "(Mettetal) was not found to be directly responsible for any significant economic development in the service area?"
2. If the runway has to be extended beyond its present 2550 feet, who is going to pay for it? You?
3. Since there is no instrument approach facility there, and one cannot be put in, how will new business be attracted there?
4. What if the 25-year-old gas tanks have to be replaced? Who is going to pay for that? You?
5. What are the potential environmental clean-up costs if those tanks leak? Who is going to pay for that? You?
6. What about bringing all the structure up to code - parking, sewers, building repairs, etc. (An estimated $600,00.00) Who is going to pay for that? You?

Economists: Tax hike, spending cuts needed

By Dave Varga
staff writer

As Congress spent the weekend trying to bang out a compromise between House/Democratic and Senate/Republican plans for cutting the federal deficit, local economists say the best medicine for our nation would be a bit of both plans.

"While it's a little unfair to categorize broadly, Republicans want spending cuts, Democrats want higher taxes. They're both right," said Barbara Murray, chairwoman at the University of Michigan department of finance, business and economics.

"Tax increases are necessary, but we're never going to balance our budget unless we get a handle on spending. Unfortunately, I don't see any proposal out there on spending."

Ronald Tracy of the Oakland University economics department agrees that compromise will be the best solution. "I think there's a lot to be said for doing a little bit of both."

BOTH THE HOUSE and Senate plans include tax hikes for the nation's wealthiest taxpayers, but those hikes differ by degrees. One element, a 10 percent surtax on those who earn more than $1 million, is expected to be part of a final package. "That tax is more a show than anything else," Tracy said.

The House plan, which hits the wealthy hardest, also includes more taxes on alcohol, cigarettes and certain luxury items, but limits Medicare cutbacks and doesn't include a gasoline tax. The Senate plan doubles the current gas tax, hits harder on Medicare recipients but goes easier on those who earn more than $200,000 a year.

Representatives in local Congressional offices expected a budget compromise will take until Wednesday when the most recent budget extension, signed by President George Bush Friday, expires.

Both current plans, if enacted right now, would have a negative impact on the economy, Tracy said. "Both plans are probably going to speed us up in going into a recession, the House plan perhaps a little faster," he said.

TAX INCREASES on the wealthy won't really harm the economy. "Above $75,000 these people have more discretionary income. It's not going to affect it," Tracy said.

"It's politically inopportune to raise taxes on the less wealthy," Murray said, "and the middle income is paying enough. As far as raising the level for higher income Americans, you have to remember, not that long ago that rate for these people was 70 percent."

Excise and gasoline tax increases — which many expect to be part of the final package — will cause some people to consume less, Tracy said. Yet, he said, "all of these goods are not real sensitive to small price increases."

As for Medicare cuts, both economists mentioned recent increases in Social Security payments as an offsetting factor.

"(Medicare cuts) are controversial, obviously there is a large well-organized constituency," Murray said. "But, while I don't believe it should be increased as large as the first proposal, These people are getting an increase in Social Security payments."

Tracy said both his parents are affected by paying more for Medicare. "They both complain," he said. "I think it's appropriate that they pay a little more. For some, it's going to be a hardship. But they can always go on Medicaid."

Death and Snoring

how this nuisance can be deadly serious.

Most people know someone who snores. If you do, you know how snoring can ruin your sleep. But, did you know that snoring is interfering with the snorer's sleep, too? This leads to sleep deprivation which effects work, grades, concentration and many other activities in daily living. And, yes it is true, that snoring is the primary symptom of sleep apnea which can be fatal. So, stop hiding under your pillow. We can effectively treat snoring, including sleep apnea, and give you back the good night's sleep you deserve. Besides, you might be saving the life of the "loud" person sleeping next to you. Open letter to residents

Hello, my name is Ken, and I am a resident of Plymouth. I live at 303 Roe Street. I have lived here approximately two weeks. I have some friends who live at the apartment complex with me.

We are in a wonderful program that was specially designed to help the recovering alcoholic and addict to re-enter the work force by helping to start small businesses.

This program has taken 3 years to become a reality. The founder of this program, Dr. Marcia Anderson, began with a dream of helping recovering people many years ago as a registered nurse, after seeing the suffering that the alcoholic and addict endure with their disease.

My friends and myself have families just as you do. Many of us have children, just as you do. I have two wonderful daughters that I love very much. We have mothers and fathers as well as sisters and brothers. Some of us attend church on a regular basis and would like to worship with you on Sundays.

You see, we are very much like you with the exception that we have a disease called addiction. You may have a friend, neighbor, or relative who has this disease. You may have this disease yourself.

The addiction may not be to alcohol or drugs. It could be an addiction to eating, gambling, sex, work, shopping or any one of a number of other addictions that have 12 step programs modeled after the Alcoholics Anonymous program.

My friends and myself would like very much to be accepted by the people of Plymouth. We are here to open small businesses in Plymouth as well as the surrounding areas. We have been carefully screened prior to our acceptance into this program both by the staff of Personalized Nursing and the state of Michigan as well as the management of the apartment complex where we live.

This program is not a rehabilitation program. Every one of us has completed a rehabilitation program prior to our acceptance to this program, as this is one of the requirements of acceptance. We are all dedicated to remaining clean and sober. That is our number one priority.

We all attend Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous meetings in town, along with other residents of Plymouth. It is a well-known fact that addicts can best recover in an emotionally supportive environment which is what we have developed through our working and living arrangement.

We understand your concerns, and we would appreciate your input on how to eliminate your fears. We believe we can contribute to the city of Plymouth in many ways. We will be able to bring more revenue to the city and with your suggestions, we could possibly bring services that would help the community.

You see, my friends and myself only ask that you give us a chance. We have done nothing wrong and have no intention of doing so.

Please judge us on our actions, not a pre-conceived idea of what an addict is. All we want to do is to get back into the work force, so when we leave this program, we can go back to our families or move into a neighborhood and live life and enjoy life as you do.

We invite you to stop by our office at 575 Main Street Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and talk with us, or call us at 451-7800.

I thank you for taking the time to read this letter and wish you a good life. May God bless you.

Ken,

Roe Street residents made a choice

To the Honorable Mayor Bila:

Five years ago I moved to this area from Frankenmuth. My first year I rented a historical home in Ypsilanti. It didn't take but a few weeks to realize what a mistake I had made as I was living only a few houses away from two halfway houses.

For a small-town girl, who didn't have any prejudices, that year in Ypsilanti proved to be very educational. I found men and women hanging out at street corners and telephone booths, sitting on their porch steps tossing comments to people who walked by. Late night arguments were common, glass breaking, and approximately once every one to two weeks an ambulance would take away someone who had overdosed.

I honored my one-year lease and began looking for an area that would be more like my hometown, and I found Plymouth. Working two jobs I was able to buy a home (on Roe Street) about two years ago. I am still working two jobs in an attempt to update my little house and one of my goals was to try to win the Beautification Award as, my neighbors have.

Now, ironically the atmosphere I left in Ypsilanti has all the potential to carry over to Plymouth. No more night walks, wandering through Kellogg Park, unlocked doors.

Long ago I learned we all have choices in this life. Who of us hasn't had bad times, divorces, job loss, all kinds of skeletons in our closets, but our choice was to roll up our sleeves and work our way through.

The men and women in the program also had a choice but they turned to substance abuse and hid in it. Now we're asked to empathize with these people — and to a point I do, everyone needs a chance — but are we on Roe Street to suffer safety and property devaluation because droves of people are being housed at the end of our street because their choice was substance abuse?

Please consider the future. Our quaint Norman Rockwell town and all the pride we have in this wonderful community will be sacrificed, and for what? Our goods will to a mass of people whose rehabilitation percentage is very low. They will be off doing who knows what, hopefully good but not according to past statistics.

We are the ones left to wonder what the next group brings with them, pay taxes on property the value of which has decreased. These people have already left a trail of hurt and turmoil in the lives of their families and friends because of their choice to substance abuse — let it stop there.

Marcia Anderson can certainly find the proper dormitory facilities to house and attempt to rehabilitate these people in an area which would not negatively affect the surrounding area.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Marcia J. Sheppard,

Reporting on schools is subjective

To the editor:

Accusing the school board of Plymouth/Canton Schools of "Mind Control" is akin to accusing a bucket full of a slow leak in the roof dumped into the Rouge River of causing the flood.

Something strange happened along the way. As a former journalist and in attendance at the school board meetings you refer to in your "Hoben tries to control news" editorial, it appears to me that you are using the First Amendment as a shield of defense for subjective news reporting.

As you state, "when you control information, you control minds." With 30 to 40 people present at a board meeting, on the road in Pioneer Middle School, versus the countless thousands receiving your newspaper, who is trying to control minds?

I witnessed over 40 minutes of the two hour-plus meeting discussing the growing demographics and needs for expansion in the district, and the potential for educational use of the Mettetal Airport. Both very important positive items to discern to the public. You chose not to provide mention of this. Instead, an annual accounting of the school property becomes news as potential sale opportunities, at the same time the District is grappling with the student growth of the near future?

As you stand behind your new story as "100 correct," I agree, for 25 percent of the story. I never heard sales arrangements, or immediate financial needs from board members to sell any of the properties. You decided that.

You acuse the Board of wishing to "make their decisions in secret." Your reporter should have noted that 5 minutes before the board voted on the subject of "educational resources" the audience and board were presented with over 15 minutes of citizen input. The board is bringing the meetings closer to the public with the traveling site. (Again, no mention by your reporters). In final, I disagree with your accusation that the school board controls the news because you hold the cards, and I personally witnessed a "slight of hand" on your part.

If I were a teacher, I would grade you a "C" simply because of your on-time delivery of biodegradable material. That's average in the mind of the informed reader, and far below standards that Thomas Jefferson had in mind.

Column was pretty sneaky

To the editor:

Recently I read your "Points of View" column regarding the animal rights debate. I must say, it was pretty sneaky of Jeff Counts to portray himself as a rather belligerent bumpkin in order to give anti-animal rights people a negative image. Admittedly, I was fooled at first, but continuing to read, soon resolved that a professional journalist would not employ such rhetoric unless slyly attempting to prove a point.

Regardless of one's stand on the issue, Jeff must be admired for his willingness to jeopardize his own journalistic credibility (to those who did not catch on) in order to further the cause of his true passion — the rights of animals. Commendable work, Jeff.

Al Smitley,
Hartland

Animal rights a reality some day

To the editor:

We have received several copies of Jeff Counts' editorial slamming the goals of animal rights activists. If his opinions weren't so laughable they might be depressing (even frightening) to animal rights activists.

What's so absurd about the goals of animal rights "nuts?" Anyone who can empathize with individuals who have been oppressed and exploited would not fight the desire to extend compassion and respect to include other-than-human animals. They, too, have the capacity to feel emotions and suffer pain. Even chickens, cows, cats, and rats feel sadness, happiness, loneliness, and fear — just like the baby seals and whales whom Mr. Counts deems worthy of his concern.

Animals don't have to vote, they don't need drive, and they have no desire to "clog the courts." But you can bet, if given the chance, they'd choose to be out of the laboratory cages, the meat grinders, the scope of hunters' rifles, the three-ring circus, and fur farm cages. With the efforts of people who are willing to make simple changes in their lifestyle habits and speak out for animals, one day animal rights will be a reality.

Support for DARE urged

To the editor:

After attending the DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) parent information night at Isbister Elementary School last night, I came away impressed with the quality of the program and the way in which it is presented to the students.

My son thoroughly enjoys the meetings with Officer Jamie Senkbiel. He thinks Officer Jamie is "awesome." She has reinforced a positive attitude toward police as well as created a rapport with the students that encourages trust.

In these times with drug abuse such an overwhelming problem, it's great to see first hand how the school is helping to educate the students before drug and alcohol abuse becomes a problem in their lives.

The program is an intensive 17-week program that deals with not only the harmful effects of drug abuse, but the skills to refuse temptation.

Isbister is really a quality school with dedicated leadership, so I was disheartened by the lack of parental interest in this program last night. Fewer than 20 students were represented by their parents out of over 100 fifth graders. Parents, it is imperative to not only support our school's efforts, but to show our children that learning about this program personally is worth our time.

Igor Shpilband, 26, one of six Soviet skaters to defect in the Detroit area, teaches a student at the Detroit Skating Club in Bloomfield Township.

Russian pair skates to freedom

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

The defection came eight months after four Soviet ice dancers defected and found teaching jobs at area skating clubs.

The suburban Detroit area is luring an increasing number of Soviet ice skaters who have defected to the United States, despite massive political reforms in their homeland.

Tuesday's announcement that Soviet ice skater Andrei Torossian and his wife, Irina Kortchach, had defected as the "Moscow on Ice" show closed a three-month U.S. tour, brought to six the number of Russian skaters embraced by the metropolitan area after seeking political asylum.

The defection came eight months after four Soviet ice dancers — Igor Shpilband, Veronica Pershina, George Sur and Elena Krykanova — defected and found teaching jobs at area clubs, including the Detroit Skating Club in Bloomfield Township. They, too, sought political asylum while on a professional tour.

HOWEVER, THE DETROIT area can't quite become smug about its seemingly superior ability, compared to other U.S. cities, to attract top-notch Soviet skating professionals.

"I think it's just coincidence," said Johnny Johns, the Detroit Skating Club's executive director.

For one thing, the four ice dancers who defected last winter came here only after they sought political asylum in New York. They learned of teaching jobs in the Detroit area from New York skating officials who provided the connection they needed.

And this week's defection of Torossian, 23, and Kortchach, 27, apparently occurred here because the The Palace of Auburn Hills was the last stop of the "Moscow on Ice" tour.

Still, Torossian and Kortchach may have been impressed by the success that the other four Soviet skaters have found since they began teaching at Detroit-area clubs, Johns said. Teachers here earn $36 to $40 an hour, while an instructor in the Soviet Union makes only $1 a day, he said.

Aromatic the word for rice

It was inevitable: rice, the food that is relied upon as a dietary staple by more than half the world's population, is beginning to be appreciated in the United States.

There are more than 40,000 varieties of rice in the world but only a handful of them are changing the way Americans think about this simple grain.

Walk into any trendy restaurant in metropolitan Detroit and rest assured that rice will have some sort of premier presence on the menu. With the exception of Oriental eateries, plain old white rice took the last slow boat to China and, it is hoped, will never return. In its place, the new and coming rices to watch for will have exotic names like Basmati, Texmati, Wild Pecan, Arborio, Jasmine and Black Japonica.

Most common on the trendy rice circuit these days is the very aromatic Basmati, heralding from Pakistan and Northern India. This thin, long-grain, cream-colored rice fills the kitchen with an aluring aroma from the minute it begins to cook — an aroma which lingers all the way to the table and stays on the palate.

NOT TO BE outdone, the Americans have since developed a strain similar to Basmati called Texmati. This domestic version, grown in Texas, smells much like popcorn and carries a typically nutty flavor at about half the price of the imported competition.

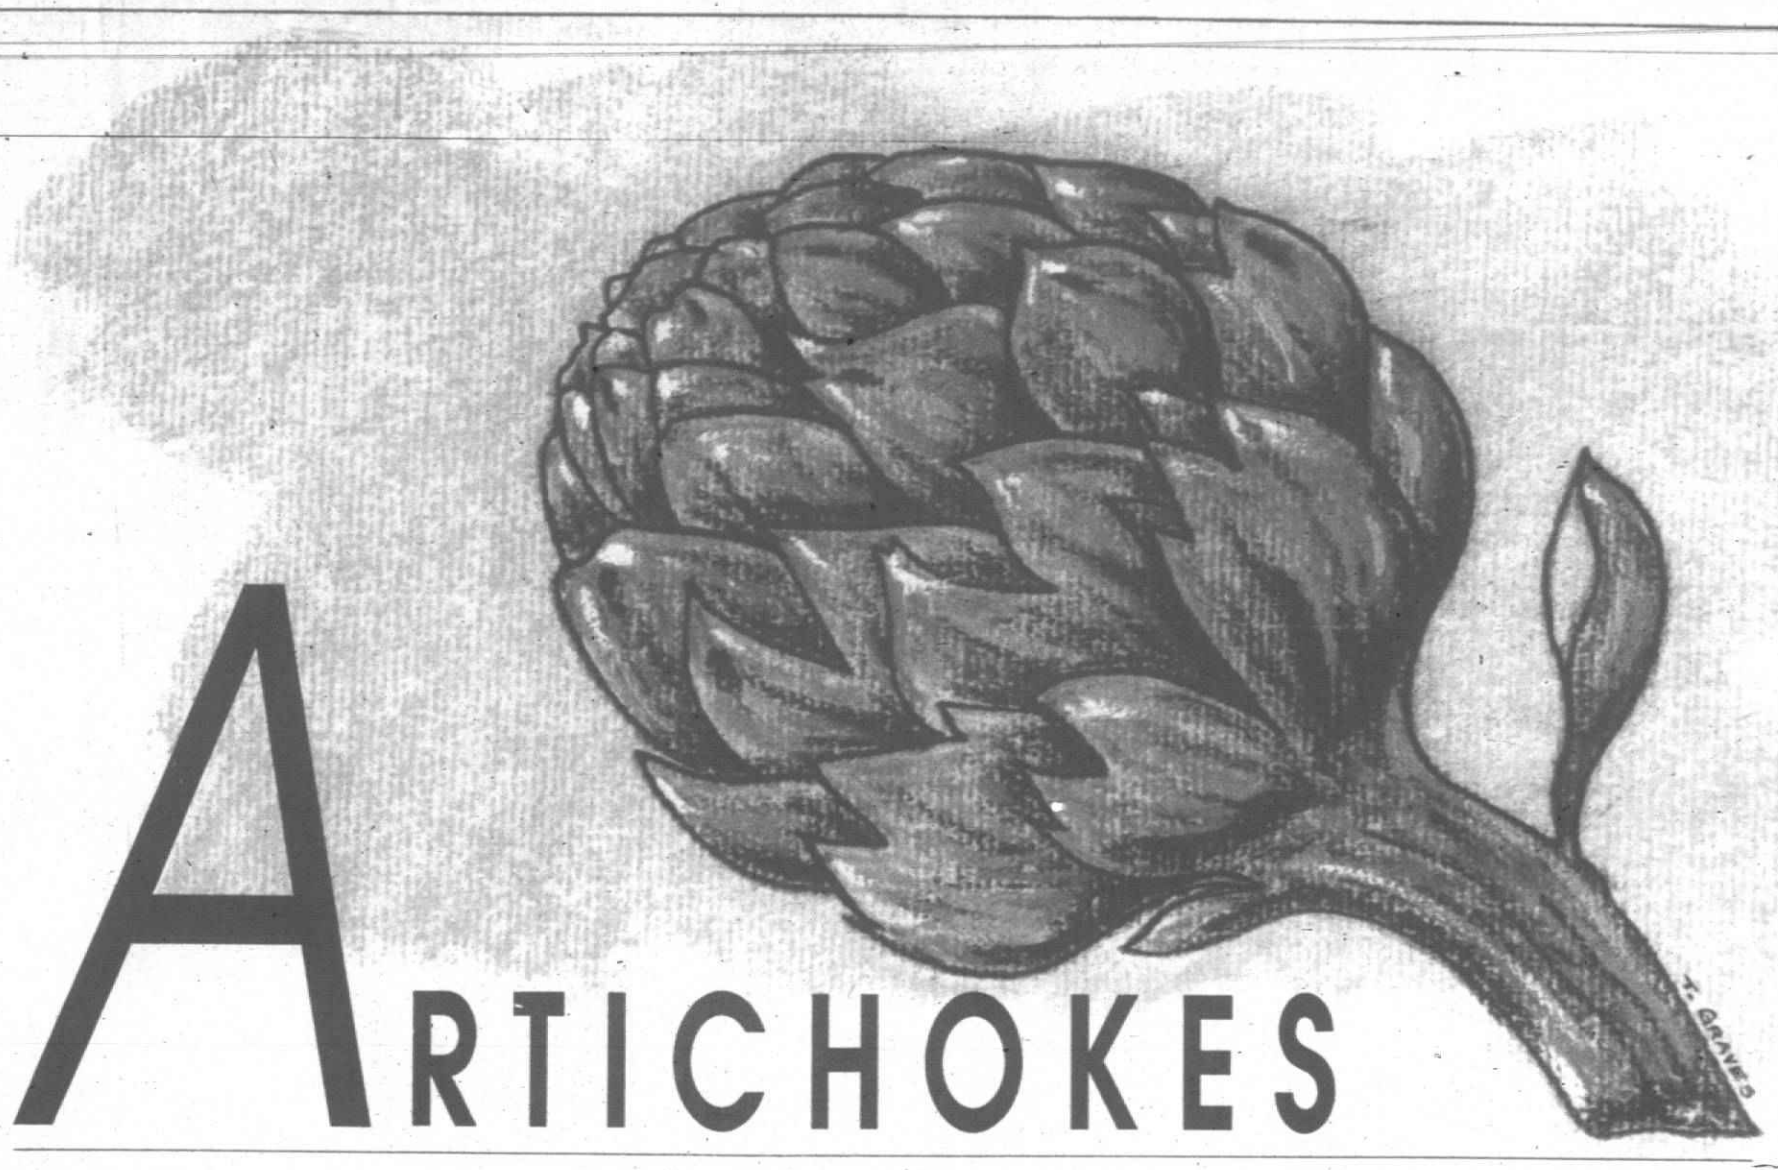
Arborio rice is a short-grained import hearlding from Italy. With nearly 80 percent of the rice eaten in America being a long-grained version, the short grains are gaining in popularity, mainly because they are softer, stickier and, if anything, more versatile in cooking. Their outer layer softens more readily and has a tendency to absorb the flavors in the cooking medium more than long grains. Arborio makes a great rice used in the preparation of risotto, a classic creamy rice dish flavored with chicken stock, butter and Parmesan cheese.

Here's a rice that's creeping up in popularity: Knoriko Wild Pecan. This aromatic rice grown in New Iberia, La., is neither wild nor tastes of pecans, but it smells nutty when cooked. Mike Davis, president of Conrad Rice Mill, the oldest operating rice mill in the USA, says they called it Wild Pecan because, "When we think of nuts, we think of pecans, and the best pecans are wild."

Already appearing on the best-dressed plates on the West Coast are telltale signs of Jasmine and Black Japonica rices. The Jasmine variety is a long-grain rice that cooks up like a short grain, soft and moist. And, yes, it does have a faint aroma of Jasmine, something that West Coasts chefs are sporting as the latest food trend.

The Black Japonica variety appearing from Japan has unusually tinted indigo-colored bran layers that leach out during the cooking process, turning the cooking water and rice purple. Unfortunately, this rice looks better than it tastes and can usually be found being mixed with other rices, mainly for the interesting color contrasts.

So if you thought that the only thing Momma could cook was something from an Uncle Ben's box, try one of the new aromatics and watch the family's taste buds say "Wow!"



ARTICHOKES

By Geri Rinschler
special writer

IT'S JUST ABOUT this time every year that I reminisce about Sunday dinners at my grandparents' home.

On a typical Sunday all seven Familetti grandchildren would assemble to our assigned chairs awaiting a banquet-sized dinner. No matter what the season, pasta was always the first course, followed by a meat course of roasted veal, chicken or stuffed beef. As enjoyable as those first two courses were, I couldn't wait for my favorite, stuffed artichokes.

Now this was not a weekly standard on my grandmother's menu because she only prepared artichokes when they were in their prime during April and May or during the second artichoke season in late fall or early winter. So, having been brought up on these edible thistles, I was shocked to find out in my teenage years that many folks didn't even know they were edible.

According to food authority Waverly Root, in his last culinary endeavor, "Food" (Simon & Schuster, 1980), artichokes were a rare and unknown luxury in the United States in the 1920s. Most reference books site that the artichoke was first introduced into Europe in the 15th century.

CHRONICLERS such as Jane Grigson give Catherine de Medici credit for popularizing artichokes. It's said that once, "She ate so many artichokes at a wedding feast in 1575 that she nearly burst." This was considered scandalous because young women in the 16th century were not supposed to eat in public any foods considered to be aphrodisiacs.

It is certain that artichokes grew in the vicinity of Naples in the 15th century, and their popularity spread to other parts of Europe, especially France and Spain. Most food authorities agree the Spanish first brought artichokes to California where they are cultivated today. Nearly 50,000 tons of artichokes are harvested each year in Castroville, Calif., which claims to be the artichoke capital of the United States.

I have to admit that the artichoke may be one of the most artistically designed vegetables, but it also is the most time-consuming to prepare and eat. Once you have mastered the fine art of preparing them and the pleasure of eating them, the extra care and cooking time won't matter to you at all.

Shopping for this luxurious vegetable is as easy as selecting cucumbers, once you know what and what not to look for. When shopping, look for artichokes which are large, rounded and tightly packed. Loose, spreading leaves are a sign of over-maturity.

In the spring, the leaves should and will be a brighter green than those in the fall. To make sure the artichokes are fresh, squeeze the top of the vegetable with your fingers. Generally, if you hear a squeaky sound, they are fresh and moist. Store them wrapped in a perforated plastic bag in your refrigerator. They will last up to one week, before using them.

ONCE YOU ARE ready for cooking, you need to take a few precautions to prevent discoloration. I often wear thin disposable plastic gloves so that the artichoke's natural color doesn't stain my hands. Whether you prepare them whole to be served with a sauce or for stuffing, use only a stainless steel knife or scissors.

After rinsing the artichokes in cold water, pat dry. With a large knife, cut off the stem flush with the base. This is done so the artichoke will stand upright when steaming. Remove the loose or discolored leaves around the base. Trim the top by cutting off one inch evenly across, using a large knife. Once that is done, trim the prickly point of each leaf using a scissors.

Next step is to remove the feathery choke out of the center. This may require a little twisting and tugging. Lastly, carefully scoop out the tiny, sometimes pinching fibers which are attached to the artichoke bottom. Best method to accomplish this is to scrape them out by using the tip of a teaspoon. After that last, somewhat tedious job is completed, squeeze lemon juice into the cavity and on the freshly trimmed leaves to prevent discoloration.

In almost all artichoke recipes, you need to boil or steam them in either acidulated water (with lemon juice) or water with olive oil. To prevent further discoloration or a bitter flavor it is pertinent that the artichokes are cooked only in a stainless-steel, enamel, cast-iron or tin-lined copper pot.

For medium-to-large-size artichokes, simmer them in liquid three-four inches deep, uncovered. Cooking them with the lid on the pot also will cause them to discolor. Once tender, they may be removed gently with a pair of tongs, draining off excess water. At this point they can be served with a garlic butter sauce or a mayonnaise-mustard sauce.

TO SERVE THEM with a stuffing, follow the procedure just described but parboil them only about 20 minutes, then drain and fill or stuff. When using traditional Italian cheese or bread stuffing, as my grandmother did, an additional 20-30 minutes of steaming is necessary after stuffing. The artichokes are cooked when the leaves pull out easily and

His store is a natural

By Joan Boram
special writer

Just don't call it a health food store.

Nature's Market owner Todd Guleich is affable, voluble and believable, but he does get upset when people confuse whole foods with "health" or "natural" foods.

"This business is a marriage between a dream and a commitment," he explains. "My original college major was in fisheries and wildlife: I switched to economics because there was potentially more money in business. When I graduated I went into banking.

"But last January I decided to quit chasing the dollar, follow my natural inclinations and become involved in environmental issues. I had always wanted to have my own business, and a natural foods store is the epitome of environmental responsibility, so here we are."

Nature's Market, "Where Foods Have Integrity," opened June 23. Business is doing well, though not as well as a former banker would hope. Business has only doubled, instead of tripled, as Guleich had projected. The word is out, though, and business gets better all the time.

"Whole foods emphasize wholesomeness and purity, explains Guleich. "Whole foods are usually organically produced and will include some of the highest- quality natural foods available. You will find no refined sugars, bleached flours, stabilizers, dyes, etc., in whole foods.

"NATURAL FOODS, on the other hand, are made with all natural ingredients, but there's considerable use of synthetically derived chemicals as pesticides or enhancers in these products. Even foods with natural extracts from plants or animals change the natural chemical compostion of the foods.

"Generally, health foods are more vitamin-supplement oriented. In fact, about 50 percent of the profits in most "health" food stores come from vitamin supplement sales. Also, most health food stores are vegetarian oriented. Nature's Market has many vegetarian clients, but we do sell organically grown meat.

"It all boils down to the integrity of foods: Mother Nature got it right the first time. Whenever we add substances to foods to affect appearance, flavor, shelf-life or texture, we take something away from the food's original flavor and nutritional value.

"But even more important, research is beginning to expose the adverse health effects of the many foreign substances that we have been using in the production and processing of our foods.

Artichoke memories

the base or artichoke bottom (my favorite part) will be soft enough to pierce with a fork.

Once you have accomplished this technique and become "hooked" on artichokes, you undoubtedly will want to include them in your meal plans on a regular basis. This natural, cooked vegetable cup also becomes a great garnish or small serving accessory, for warm sauces to be served with a fillet of fish or an appropriate salad, as well as for stuffing with tossed mini-vegetables or a traditional shrimp salad.

To appropriately eat a cooked artichoke, remove one leaf at time, using your thumb and index finger. Then, gently scrape the tender inside of the leaf with your teeth. Discard the remainder of the leaf by setting on your dinner plate. The stuffing, artichoke heart and bottom can then be eaten with a fork.

Whole artichokes may be cooked in advance, refrigerated and then re-steamed, either stuffed or hollow before serving.

Here are a few authentic regional Italian recipes for stuffing and another traditional sauce for dipping without stuffing. To serve without a stuffing, slice each whole artichoke in half from the tip to the stem after steaming.

CARCIOFI ALLA RICOTTA
(Artichokes Stuffed with Ricotta Cheese)
Makes 4 stuffed artichokes

4 medium trimmed, artichokes, parboiled 20 minutes
1 pound fresh ricotta cheese
1 large egg
4 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup dried currants
1 cup dried bread stuffing
Salt/pepper
1-2 tablespoons olive oil, for parboiling artichokes
½ cup extra virgin olive oil

Mix together cheeses, egg, stuffing and seasoning in a medium-size mixing bowl. Divide filling into quarters. Using a large spoon fill each of the artichokes. Set them in a Dutch oven with ¼ cup and about 3-4 inches of hot water. Make sure that they remain upright. Bring pot to a boil and simmer partially covered about 20-30 minutes. The artichokes are cooked when the leaves can be easily removed and a paring knife inserted into the center of the stuffing is hot when touched. For extra-large artichokes allow for extra stuffing.

CARCIOFI RIPIENI DI PROSCIUTTO
(Artichokes Stuffed with Prosciutto)
Serves 4

4 medium artichokes, trimmed and parboiled 20 minutes
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
4 generous cups of bread stuffing
1-2 large eggs
½ cup sliced and chopped prosciutto (Italian smoked ham)
¼ cup pine nuts
½ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
Salt to taste
1 teaspoon dried basil
Pinch dried marjoram
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ cup extra virgin olive oil

In a medium-size mixing bowl combine stuffing, cheese egg, prosciutto, pine nuts and seasonings. Mix well and divide into 4 equal parts. Stuff each of the artichokes and set in a Dutch oven. Add olive oil and 3-4 inches of hot water to pot. Bring to a boil, reduce to a rolling simmer and cook until tender, 20-30 minutes, partially covered.

BAGNA CAUDA
Serves 6

This classic warm sauce also can be served with a variety of raw vegetables as well as steamed artichokes.

2 cups heavy cream
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon anchovy paste
1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
Pinch dried basil leaves
Freshly ground black pepper

In a small saucepan, heat butter and oil. Add garlic and saute until lightly golden. Remove from heat. In another small saucepan, heat heavy cream and bring to a simmer. Reduce cream until there is 1 ½ cups. Add butter, garlic and seasonings. Serve warm in individual petite bowls.

Make chocolate dishes all day

AP — Who can resist chocolate?

With the "Ghirardelli Original Chocolate Cookbook," you can make chocolate dishes for breakfast, lunch and dinner — everything from Earthquake Coffee Cake and California-Style Chicken Mole to Gold Rush Carrot Cake and Clock Tower Chocolate Trifle.

Ghirardelli chocolate was created in 1852. By the 1880s, the Ghirardelli Chocolate Co., based in San Francisco, was one of the largest in the West, selling more than 50,000 pounds a year.

The company's plant is now located in San Leandro, but Ghirardelli confectionary shops are located in San Francisco's historic Ghirardelli Square, the company's headquarters for more than half a century.

Baking hints, directions for making chocolate roses, cutouts and leaves, and a glossary of chocolate are included in the cookbook, which is available by mail ($9.45 including shipping).

The following recipe is so quick and easy to make that children can help push the buttons on the food processor and pour the batter into a prepared baking pan.

GREAT DAY COCOA BROWNIES

½ cup butter or margarine, cut into 4 pieces
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup unsifted flour
½ cup unsweetened cocoa
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped walnuts

Line an 8-inch square pan with waxed paper. Butter the waxed paper. Place the butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla into the bowl of a food processor; process about 15 seconds. Or in mixer, cream softened butter with same ingredients.

Sift flour with cocoa, baking powder and salt; blend into creamed mixture. Fold in nuts. Spread into prepared pan and bake in a 350-degree oven for 20-25 minutes. Cool. Frost if desired. Cut into squares. Makes 16 squares.

Quick Fudgy Frosting

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup unsweetened cocoa
1 ½ cups powdered sugar
2-3 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter; remove from heat and add cocoa, stirring until smooth. Mix in sugar, 2 tablespoons milk and vanilla. Beat until thick, adding remaining milk a little at a time, as needed. Beat until thick enough to spread. Frost brownies. Sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired.

This meal wins raves for family's chief cook

Betsy Brethen

STEPHEN CANTRELL/staff photographer

Mary Beth MacGuidwin of Birmingham offers meals centered around Chicken Almond Casserole.

We have a very interesting phenomenon that occurs at our home every night after dinner. Everyone leaves the kitchen quickly (this even includes my husband) so as not to be enlisted into helping out with the dishes.

Actually, if the truth be known, I don't mind doing the dishes, especially if the news is on. But, lately, doing the dishes has taken a new twist, so to speak, as our oldest son has taken up practicing his drums right after dinner. In the privacy of my own kitchen and with no one watching who is going to say, "Ohhh, Mom!" I find myself doing the watusi as I wash the dishes, strutting my stuff and swiping my dishcloth to the beat that resounds throughout the house.

And speaking of dishes, this week's Winner Dinner, submitted by Mary Beth MacGuidwin of Birmingham, does come to mind. Her recipes for Chicken Almond Casserole and Chocolate Chip Cookie Surprise are sure to win rave notices for you — your family's chief cook and dishwasher. MacGuidwin's twin daughters love this dinner and eagerly assist their mom in its preparation. MacGuidwin enjoys it, too, as it is so tasty and one way she can get her girls to eat their broccoli.

MacGuidwin is married to her high school sweetheart. She and her husband are chairing a party with nine other couples to help raise funds for Simon House, which offers shelter and support for babies and moms who have AIDS. She also is planning the Preview Night for the Detroit Country Day School auction, to be held in April.

AN AVID COOK, MacGuidwin has taken cooking lessons from Cindy Weiner, a family friend and Cordon Bleu cooking school graduate, who has taught her how to make, among other things, jam tarts that she and her daughters enjoy making together.

Thank you, Mary Beth MacGuidwin, for sharing your recipes with us, and congratulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner. Much good luck to you, your family and the worthwhile organizations you are supporting.

If your family has a favorite hearty stew or soup recipe, I encourage you to send it in. Until next week, all the best and, remember, the beat goes on.

Pair fresh veggies, salmon

AP - Combine fresh vegetables and canned salmon for a vegetable saute that cooks in just minutes in your microwave oven.

MICROWAVE SALMON VEGETABLE SAUTE

1 ½ cups fresh or frozen asparagus
1 ½ cups fresh or frozen broccoli
1 ½ cups fresh or frozen pea pods
½ cup sweet red pepper, cut into strips
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger
2 tablespoons water
1 cup sliced mushrooms
½ cup bean sprouts
½ cup chicken broth
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 teaspoons light soy sauce
1 teaspoon sesame oil
One 7 ½-ounce can salmon
2 tablespoons green onions, sliced diagonally
Pepper to taste
Toasted sesame seeds

In a 2-quart, microwave-safe dish combine asparagus, broccoli, pea pods, red pepper, garlic, ginger and water. Cover and cook on high for 3 minutes. Stir; add mushrooms and bean sprouts. Cook on high 2 minutes.

In microwave-safe glass measure, combine chicken broth, cornstarch, soy sauce and sesame oil. Cook on high 1 minute; stir into vegetables. Drain and flake salmon; add salmon and green onions to vegetables. Cook on high 1 minute or until vegetables are heated through. Season with pepper and sprinkle with sesame seed. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Recipe was developed for 600- to 700-watt microwave ovens.

CHICKEN ALMOND CASSEROLE
TOSSED SALAD AND YOUR CHOICE OF DRESSING
CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIE SURPRISE

CHICKEN ALMOND CASSEROLE

A tasty casserole that works well for families eating at different times, this dish can be made ahead and frozen or, if after serving you have some left over, freeze it and save it for another dinner. This is also a great dinner to serve when you are entertaining casually. This recipe serves 8.

¾ cup Hellman's mayonnaise
2 tablespoons instant or freshly minced onions
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon flour
1 can Campbell's cream of chicken soup
1 empty soup can milk
½ to 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
6 ounces cooked spaghetti
4 cooked chicken breasts, cut into chunks
10-ounce package frozen, chopped broccoli, thawed
1¼ cup sliced almonds
4 ounce can of sliced mushrooms
4 ounce jar diced pimentos, optional

In a medium-sized saucepan, combine the mayonnaise, flour, soup and seasonings. Gradually add milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add the cheese and stir until melted. In a large bowl, combine the mayonnaise, mixture, spaghetti, chicken, broccoli, mushrooms and ¾ cup of almonds. Toss lightly and place in a 9-by-13-inch baking dish that has been sprayed with a non-stick spray. Sprinkle remainder of almonds on top the casserole. Cover with foil and bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes.

TOSSED SALAD AND DRESSING OF CHOICE

CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIE SURPRISE

These are sooo good. They won't last long!

1 roll Pillsbury Chocolate Chip Cookie Dough
1 package miniature Reese's Peanut Butter Cups
Cupcake liners

Place liners in a cupcake tin. Place a large tablespoon of cookie dough in a liner. Bake at 375 degrees for about 8-9 minutes. The cookies should look like they are almost done. Remove them from the oven and immediately push a Reese's Peanut Butter Cup into the middle of the cookies. Let cool and enjoy.

Shopping List

Natural foods featured at Rochester Hills store

Whole foods are safer foods."

Many Nature's Market customers have zero tolerance for food additives of any kind, or are sensitive to common foods such as yeast, sugar, salt or corn syrup.

FOR THOSE WHO are sensitive to wheat, there are pastas made from spelt, toff and quinon. These are names you will never find on a kitchen cannister set, but they are wholesome grains, organically grown, that allow spaghetti-lovers to indulge without discomfort — unless they eat too much.

"Ten percent of our clients do all their shopping here," says Guleich. "Most of those are people who just cannot tolerate food additives. Their ages range from 5 to 72 years old.

"About half of our clients do half of their shopping here. Others come in for a specific item. One man comes in just for the baby dills made from organically grown cucumbers."

What assurance does Guleich have that the vegetables are indeed organically grown? Isn't it possible that a farmer could sneak in a pesticide and nobody would know?

"Many of our vegetables come from California," Guleich explains. "California has a very rigid inspection and certification program that's very strict about claims of organically grown.

"Colorado provides a lot of our vegetables. There are fewer pests at high altitudes than you'll find in Michigan, for instance, so there's less need to revert to pesticides. You'll find that these are dedicated people — many of them are highly educated and dropped out of the system to dedicate themselves to clean foods — and a cleaner world."

NATURE'S MARKET provides several services to its clients. The store takes special orders for almost any product, from a food supplement to 25 pounds of carrots. There's a grinder and a juicer available, and, starting Thursday, Nov. 1, there will be delivery service.

An educational program is in the works. The book selection is being expanded, and guest speakers and cooking lessons are in the offing.

Nature's Market is at 139 W. Auburn Road, Rochester Hills, phone 852-9327.

CHEESY-CHILI CASSEROLE

1 cup cooked bulgur wheat
1 cup cooked soybean flakes
2 tablespoons chili powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon salt (optional)
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 cup cooked brown rice
2 cups yogurt
¼ tablespoonx whole wheat flour
One 4-ounce can chopped green chilies
1 pound Monterrey Jack cheese, grated

Combine first eight ingredients, mix well and set aside. Combine next four ingredients. Layer mixtures alternately in large casserole. Top with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve immediately with green salad. Yield: 4-6 servings.

Source: Arrowhead Mills

CURRIED RED LENTILS

1 cup dried red lentils
1 teaspoon salt (optional)
2tablespoons butter
2 onions, chopped
1 teaspoon cumin
1 teaspoon poppy seed
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon tumeric
2 teaspoons coriander seed
6 whole cloves
1 cinnamon stick
4 cardamom pods
1 cup fresh, grated coconut
4 peppercorns
4 garlic cloves

Put lentils and salt in large saucepan with enough water to cover; bring to a boil, cover and reduce heat. Simmer for 30 minutes or until lentils are tender; drain. Heat butter and saute onions until golden. Combine remaining ingredients in blender or processor; process to a paste; add to onions and cook for one minute; add the lentils, cook for further two minutes. Serve hot on a bed of rice.

Variations: 1. Serve with crisp raw vegetables, and thin slices of onion and tomato in lemon juice. 2. Serve plain yogurt and mango chutney as an accompaniment. Yield: Four servings.

RISOTTO WITH FOUR CHEESES

1 medium onion
4 ounces Fontina cheese
5 ounces Gorgonzola
6 cups chicken stock or 3 cups canned chicken broth
5 tablespoons butter
2 cups Arborio rice (15 ounces)
3 tablespoons fresh grated Parmesan
3 tablespoons fresh grated Pecorino cheese
Fresh ground black pepper

Peel and mince the onion. Cut the Fontina and Gorgonzola into a small dice. Bring the chicken stock (or chicken broth and 3 cups water) to a boil; cover and keep warm. Heat 4 tablespoons butter in a large soup kettle. Add onions and saute until softened, about 4 minutes. Stir in rice and saute until translucent and coated with butter, 1 to 2 minutes. Add ½ cup hot stock and, stirring continuously, simmer until liquid completely evaporates, about 1-2 minutes. Stirring continuously, repeat procedure with remaining stock, adding ½ cup at a time. Add more stock only after previous additions have been absorbed. Continue to cook, stirring until rice is creamy and just tender, about 25 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in cheeses and 1 teaspoon pepper. Serve immediately.

CUBAN BLACK BEANS AND RICE

1 cup black turtle beans (about 7 ounces)
½ medium onion
1 small clove garlic
1 small green pepper
1 slice bacon
¼ cup vegetable oil
1½ cups long-grain rice (such as Basmati or Texmati)
2½ cups chicken broth
Salt and fresh ground pepper to taste

Place beans in a large bowl and cover with water. Let stand 24 hours. For faster preparation, place beans in a soup pot with 1 quart water, bring to a boil, remove from heat; let stand 30 minutes. Peel and mince the garlic and onion. Stem, seed and cut the green pepper into small dice. Cut the bacon into small dice.

Drain beans and place in a large soup kettle with 1 quart water. Bring to a boil and simmer until almost tender, about 25 minutes; drain and set aside. Heat oil in a heavy skillet. Add bacon and saute until crisp, about 5 minutes. Add onions, garlic and peppers; saute until softened, about 3 minutes. Stir in beans, mashing ½ with a spoon. Add rice and chicken stock. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer until rice is tender, about 20 minutes. Add ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon fresh ground pepper. Serve immediately.

Use meat in a dish for flavor

AP — To trim the amount of fat you eat, use meat to add flavor, not as a main ingredient, recommends Martin Yan.

Yan, one of TV's most popular cooks, is a member of the Project Lean team of cooking professionals, who are encouraging Americans to lower their fat consumption. Yan's stir-fry recipes use small amounts of lean ground beef in a flavorful sauce, making a terrific new bean-and-beefburger with just 25 percent of calories from fat.

ZIPPY BEEF AND BEAN SANDWICHES

½ pound lean ground beef
1 medium onion, chopped (½ cup)
One 8-ounce can red kidney beans
One 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Few dashes bottled hot pepper sauce
Dash pepper
4 French rolls or kaiser rolls, split and toasted
1 cup alfalfa sprouts or shredded lettuce (optional)

In a large skillet, cook beef and onion until brown. Drain. Wipe skillet with paper towels. Return mixture to skillet.

Stir undrained kidney beans, tomato sauce, brown sugar, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, hot pepper sauce and pepper into meat mixture. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Simmer, uncovered, 3 minutes or until desired consistency.

Spoon meat mixture into rolls. Top with alfalfa sprouts or shredded lettuce, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Italian wines taste good with so many foods

Eleanor and Ray Heald

We love Italian wines. They harmonize well with food.

Cook what you want. It doesn't have to be Italian cuisine. Prepare meat and potatoes, meat loaf or hamburgers. Italian wines will make anything you prepare taste better.

You probably don't believe that French wines require coq au vin or veal cordon bleu, so you needn't insist on veal parmesan or fettucini with porcini mushrooms as matches with Italian wines.

The following are wine recommendations based on a recent tasting of two dozen Italian wines from a broad spectrum of Italian wine regions.

THE WINE firm of Mastroberardino is south of Rome in the region known as Campania.

Lacryma Christi del Vesuvio, grown in the volcanic ash at the foot of Mount Vesuviuis, is a generous white wine. The 1989 version ($13) boasts fresh, juicy apple and pear aromas and flavors.

Lungarotti is a winery in Umbria, near the hill city of Perugia, the only land-locked province in Italy.

Here, Theresa Lungarotti has taken over the winemaking reins from her father, Giorgio, and is producing world-class wines.

Among Lungarotti's superb red wines are the 1986 Rubesco ($13) and the 1980 Rubesco Riserva ($29).

Made from the same grapes as chianti, Rubesco is a versatile red that features good berry aromas of flavors — a wine to open and enjoy.

Lungarotti's Rubesco Riserva is a serious wine (with a serious price), released after eight years of aging in Lungarotti's cellar.

The red berry character is still there with added dimensions of leather, mushroom and spice. It's a big well-structured wine for the person who wants a real mouthful.

FROM PERSONAL visits with the Ceretto brothers in the Piedmont, we have learned first-hand their dedication to producing quality, value-priced wines.

One of the outstanding white wines from this region is the 1989 Ceretto Arneis "Blange" ($20). It boasts fresh pear aromas and flavors with a freshness that is unbeatable either as a refreshing sipper or as an accompaniment to food.

The 1986 Ceretto Barolo "Zoncchera" ($21) is undoubtedly the best value among Barolos on the market. Barolos are big red wines that frequently cost $30 and more.

This wine has lots of flavor and is drinkable now. It has good structure in case you should want to age it for another year or two.

IN CHIANTI are seven sub-regions or zones. Most people think that Chianti Classico makes the best wine, but the word classico simply means the heart of the region. Capezzana, for instance, makes chianti in the Montalbano zone, northwest of Florence.

The 1988 Capezzana Chianti Montalbano ($8) is blended with 10 percent cabernet sauvignon. It exudes fresh, supple fruit and is very easy to like.

Monsanto is a producer of chianti in the classico zone that stretches south of Florence to Siena.

If you prefer a big, chewy red wine with the added advantage of some age, try the 1982 Monsanto Chianti Classico Riserve "Il Poggio" ($28). It boasts a dried berry and spice character with big tannins and a rich mouthfeel.

The wines recommended in this story can be found at better wine shops in the metropolitan area. If you can't find the wine you're looking for, ask the retailer to order it for you.

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

Soave is a white wine made in the northern wine region known as Trentino Aldo Adige. Much Soave is light and undistinguished but not the 1989 Anselmi Soave Classico ($8). The aromas are reminiscent of apples, pears, spice and flowers. Clean, refreshing tastes invite another sip. This wine is a great aperitif all by itself, with appetizers, or grilled fish with a delicate sauce. Bravo!

WINE BULLETIN BOARD

A great way to relax with wine and food on a Friday. Fran Kysela, national sales director for Kermit Lynch Wines, will host a tasting of eight wines and a dinner buffet centered around the theme "French Country Wines" at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the Rattlesnake Club in Detroit. Cost is $47.50 all-inclusive. Phone 567-4843 for reservations.

● MUFFIN CHIPS

A new bakery product, Muffin Chips, has been introduced by Jacqui Ridley and Gail Jacob, owners of Ridley's "Baked in Good Taste."

When Ridley's muffins were first baked — in unreliable ovens — a few batches came out overbaked. Soon everyone in the bakery began fighting over the crispy morsels. Ridley and Jacob say, so they decided to bake the chips in earnest.

Muffin Chips come in eight varieties: Chocolate Chunk Madness, Nuts Over You, Dried Cherry Jubilee, Peanutiest Chocolate, Cranberry a la Orange, Zesty Lemon Poppyseed, Simply Cinnamon, and Pure and Simple. The chips are priced at $2.99 a package.

They are available at Penniman's Deli in Plymouth; R.I.K.'s in Bloomfield Township, Market Basket in Franklin, Plaza Deli in Southfield, Deli Unique in West Bloomfield, Gréat American Basket in Farmington and Barnum and Basket in Union Lake.

More locations are Merchant of Vino (Birmingham, Troy and Southfield), Expressions in Walled Lake, Michigania in Birmingham,, Vineyards in Farmington Hills and the Cloverleaf Market in Southfield.

Area resident a finalist

(AP) — Ellen Knollenberg of Troy was among five finalists in the recent McCall's California Avocado Cook-off. She submitted a recipe for Avocado Frittata.

Betty Shenberger of Beaverton, Ore., was awarded a $5,000 grand prize as winner. Finalists were flown to New York for the cook-off in McCall's Park Avenue test kitchens.

The judges rated Shenberger's salad tops in appearance, texture and flavor.

Slices of avocados and pears, and steamed asparagus and green beans, were arranged on a bed of lettuce.

The dressing was made with pureed avocados, safflower oil, sour cream and seasonings.

The contest was co-sponsored by McCall's magazine and the California Avocado Commission, a nonprofit organization financed by 7,000 California avocado growers.

Here is Shenberger's winning recipe:

SALAD WITH FLUFFY AVOCADO DRESSING

Salad:
1 ripe avocado
1 ripe pear
¼ cup lemon juice
1 bunch (16 stalks) asparagus
¾ pound green beans, trimmed
Dressing:
Non-stick cooking spray
1 or 2 green onions, sliced
2 ripe avocados
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup safflower oil
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
3 heaping tablespoons sour cream
12 leaves butter or red leaf lettuce, washed and crisped
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 thin slices prosciutto, cut into strips

Pare and slice avocado in half lengthwise; remove pit. Halve and core pear. Cut each avocado and pear lengthwise into four slices. Dip slices into lemon juice; drain. Reserve remaining lemon juice. Set aside avocado and pear slices.

In a large saucepan, in steam basket placed over boiling water, steam asparagus and green beans until tender crisp. Immediately place in bowl of ice water to stop cooking.

When vegetables are cold, drain. Pat dry with paper towels. Cut tips from asparagus; reserve remainder for another use.

For dressing, grease skillet with non-stick cooking spray; place over medium heat. Add onion; saute until tender, about 3 minutes. Place onion in food processor with reserved lemon juice.

Pare and halve avocados; remove pit. Cube avocados; place in food processor. Add salt, sugar, pepper, oil and mustard. Puree and transfer mixture to a bowl; with rubber spatula, fold in sour cream.

Arrange lettuce leaves, asparagus tips and green beans on each of 4 to 6 salad plates, dividing evenly. Top with some dressing; sprinkle with Parmesan and prosciutto, dividing evenly.

Garnish each plate with avocado and pear slices. Makes 4 to 6 servings; 1½ cups dressing.

Note: If desired, salad many be made ahead of time, covered with plastic wrap and refrigerated; the dressing keeps several days in the refrigerator.

Canton wins with defense over Pats

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

girls basketball

Dawn Warner's 1,000th career point came on a night she'd rather forget.

Warner, Livonia Franklin's junior guard, made 15-of-16 free throws but missed all 16 of her shots from the field in the Patriots' 46-40 loss Thursday to visiting Plymouth Canton.

The outcome gave Canton a 4-0 record in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association and assured the Chiefs of the regular-season division crown. The Patriots are 2-2 in the division and 12-2 overall. Canton is 9-5 overall.

Warner scored her 1,000th career point on a free throw with 2:41 left in the game. It was her only memorable moment of the night.

"I DIDN'T think we could do it," said Canton coach Bob Blohm, when told the Chiefs held Warner without a field goal. "She's too good a player to have that happen. But she made 15 free throws so obviously we were hacking her or bothering her on offense.

"I feel real good for our kids. We struggled the first 12, 13 games of the season and had some highs and lows, but the nice thing is they always work hard. To clinch the division outright, and get it against Livonia Franklin on their court, is a credit to our team."

Canton sophomore guard Christy Saffron deserves much of the credit for shutting down Warner, but so do teammates Mary Barna, Amy Westerhold, Britta Anderson and Kristin Ford. It was a team defensive effort for Canton, which held Franklin to only three first-half field goals and limited the Patriots to 25 percent shooting (10-40) for the game.

WARNER LED Franklin with 15 points, and Julianne Stesiak contributed 13, but the next highest scorer was Jenny Mayle, with six.

Warner was averaging 18 points and shooting about 39 percent from the field before Thursday's game, according to Franklin coach Dan Freeman.

"All of our perimeter kids we had switching off on Warner and their other two guards (Julianne Stesiak and Patty Shea)," Blohm said. "We tried to keep someone in front of them all the time. We have good team quickness."

Said Saffron: "I just tried to stay on my feet and not let her (Warner) take the three's — make her go baseline so she can't cut toward the middle."

Four sophomores dot the Chiefs 12-player roster, including center Stephanie Gray, who poured in a game-high 19 points. Anderson, the team's only freshman, finished with 10 points and Barna added nine.

Gray kept the Chiefs in the game early — scoring eight first-quarter points — and she had 12 by halftime when Canton led 20-19. Canton led 32-30 after three quarters and outscored Franklin, 9-2 in the last four minutes of the game to seal the outcome.

Gray's two free throws with 1:56 left gave the Chiefs the lead for good, 39-38. A basket by Gray and a free throw by Barna gave the Chiefs a 42-38 lead with 51 seconds left. Franklin pulled to within two, 42-40, on Tracy Parenti's basket but the Chiefs made their last four free throws.

Canton made 18-27 free throws for the game.

"WE LOST TO A good team," Franklin coach Dan Freeman said. "You can't take anything away from Canton, they have young players who are playing well. Dawn Warner is a very heady player and she was working hard out there. Those are shots that normally go for her. They didn't drop tonight but I wouldn't hesitate to have her take those shots all day long.

"The real difference was our defense on Gray. She doesn't just stand down there in the box. She moves, flashes and cuts and we didn't do a good job of fronting her. That was our game plan — to front her."

Stesiak had an impressive third quarter for Franklin, making all four of her shots, including one from three-point land, for nine of her 13 points.

"We wanted to win (the division) this year," said Stesiak, one of three Franklin seniors. "I knew Dawn was having an off-night and we needed more scoring from but I didn't get the ball enough. I could have worked harder to get open, though. We're going to pull together and the Plymouth Salem game (Tuesday at Franklin) will be a good one."

Amy Smith of Canton took first place in 21:29 to lead the Chiefs in their title-clinching victory over Northville at Cass Benton Park.

cross country

If anyone wants to talk about sports dynasties, the Plymouth Canton girls cross country team shouldn't be overlooked.

The Chiefs won the Western Division dual-meet championship in the Lakes Activities Association for the fifth straight year Thursday.

Amy Smith led Canton to a 20-35 victory over Northville, giving the Chiefs a 5-0 record in division duals. Canton is 6-0 overall.

"The way we look at it is that it's an accomplishment for the kids who are currently running," coach George Przygodski said, "and a continuation of a program that's going real well right now. You can't beat tradition."

Smith took first place with a 21:29 time at Cass Benton Park. Canton got the top three places with Lana Boroditsch finishing second (21:51) and Heather Meyer third (22:06).

Northville runners filled the next two spots. Marci Dart was fourth (22:16) and Kamal Bagga fifth (22:25), but the Chiefs put their people in two of the next three places to win the meet.

Canton's Kim Gudeth was sixth (22:34) and Anne Dibble seventh (22:36), completing the scoring for the Chiefs. Canton's top seven included Lara Antczak (23:35) and Alison Way (24:56).

Also scoring points for the Mustangs were Amy Goode, who was seventh at 22:36; Michelle McQuaid, ninth at 23:05; and Cheryl Mittman, 10th at 23:11.

Canton will be among the contenders for the WLAA championship when the league meet takes place at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Cass Benton.

"The favored team is going to be (Lakes Division champ Livonia) Stevenson," Przygodski said. "If Stevenson runs its best race, nobody can beat them. If Stevenson doesn't, then they can be beaten."

Farmington and Plymouth Salem should be in contention, also.

"If anyone has the opportunity to beat them, we match up real well," Przygodski said, "but it's all up to how Stevenson runs. They have their fate in their own hands.

"Seven people have to run together, and anything can happen. All we're doing is waiting for them to slip up a little and, if they do, we'll be waiting."

SALEM CAPPED a fine Lakes Division season Thursday with a 23-37 win over North Farmington at Oakland Community College.

The Salem girls finished second to Stevenson in the division with a 4-1 record and stand 4-2 overall. The Raiders are 1-4 and 5-5.

Salem boys repeat in Lakes

Plymouth Salem is becoming the perennial power in Lakes Division boys cross country.

The Rocks captured their second straight dual-meet championship Thursday when they finished an unbeaten division season (5-0) with a 15-49 rout of North Farmington.

"It's a nice honor, but it's just a start," Salem coach Geoff Baker said. "We still have the big three (meets) coming up. We're tuning up for the big ones."

Salem will be among the contenders Wednesday in the Western Lakes Activities Association meet at Cass Benton Park. The boys race begins at 4:30 p.m.

After that are the regional and state meets.

Salem runners claimed the top six places Thursday at Oakland Community College and seven of the top eight.

John Thomas led the Rocks with a winning time of 17:32. Steve Boudreau was second (18:07), Derek Cudini third (18:12), Andy Hellmers fourth (18:19), Mike Patterson fifth (18:20) and Jayson McDonald sixth (18:46). Teammate Matt Erickson was eighth (19:17).

North runners in the top 10 included Jon Szutarski, who was seventh at 19:06; Josh Chinitz, ninth at 19:33; and Spencer Turett, 10th at 19:34.

Salem is 5-1 overall in dual meets, the Raiders 3-2 in the division.

THE PLYMOUTH Canton boys nailed down second place in the Western Division, defeating Northville 18-41 Thursday.

The Chiefs are 4-1 in the division, losing only to Walled Lake Western, and 5-1 overall.

Mike Ream and Jason Crain paced Canton to the victory, finishing first and second with 17:10 and 17:32 times, respectively, at Cass Benton Park.

The Chiefs shut the door on Northville by taking the Nos. 4 through 8 places.

Gridiron victories set stage for finale

Chiefs clobber North, 34-9

By Dan O'Meara

football

Everybody knows what Plymouth Canton's offense is capable of doing.

The Chiefs demonstrated their proficiency again Friday night, rolling over visiting North Farmington 34-9 and running their season record to 7-1.

Almost overlooked is the defense, which has quietly done its job while operating in the shadow of an offense averaging 31⅓ points a game.

But the defensive unit had a leading role in Canton's latest victory, helping get the Chiefs started with a 10-3 lead in the first quarter. The final tally had Canton holding North's first-team offense to zero yards rushing and 67 passing.

"It's the defense that wins games, and it's the offense that guarantees the win," said Canton linebacker Liam Rentz, who had a fumble recovery and an interception.

"THE DEFENSE is kinda underrated. People say the defense doesn't work hard enough. But we've got good players who don't get down on themselves and keep hitting hard."

Canton's defense, allowing just 11 points per game, jumped on the Raiders (4-4) right away.

The Chiefs downed a punt at the North 5-yard line, and Canton end Mark Meszaros dropped North tailback Matt Mummert in the end zone for a safety on first down.

The Raiders forced another punt but fumbled, and Rentz recovered at the North 24. Karl Wukie ran 15 yards for the first of two rushing touchdowns, and he passed to Jason Riggs for the conversion and a 10-0 lead.

North went to the air, throwing on six straight plays and marching to the Canton 6. But the Chiefs stopped the drive there, and the Raiders settled for Mike Ober's 23-yard field goal.

"Our defense did a good job," said Canton coach Bob Khoenle, who admits to being a perfectionist. "They're improving and getting better.

"I guess I'm just a stickler for that. I'd like to see the kids play harder. I like to see them get better and better each week. Maybe I expect too much, but that's OK, too."

AFTER HOLDING the Raiders to a field goal — their only points until reserve back Jack Wilks ran 66 yards for a touchdown with 23 seconds left — Canton had a 14-play, 80-yard scoring drive that, all agreed, was pivotal in deciding the outcome.

Wukie ran 4 yards for his second TD at 7:38 in the second quarter, and the 17-3 lead held up through halftime.

The Chiefs came up with another defensive stand late in the half. Dave Rankin recovered a Canton fumble at the Canton 28, but the Chiefs held on fourth-and-11 at their 16.

"We had a great night," Canton's other linebacker, Josh Walaskay, said of the defense. "Liam was great. He was totally awesome. It helps to have the defensive line like we have, doing their jobs right.

"What really set the tone was Meszaros and the safety. He got in there and put the guy down — and got everybody going."

Rocks avenge loss to N'ville

By Neal Zipser

football

Plymouth Salem's football team went to sleep Friday night with dreams of making the post-season playoffs while the Northville squad hoped Friday night's game was just a bad nightmare.

The real nightmare was Rock tailback Leon Hister, who rushed 26 times for 171 yards, leading Salem to a 27-13 victory at Northville. The Rocks improved to 6-2 overall and 5-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"The only thing we'll be thinking about this week is our next game (Plymouth Canton)," Salem coach Tom Moshimer said. Salem finished 8-1 last year but was not chosen for the playoffs despite having a better record than Ann Arbor Pioneer (7-2).

"I'm not even worried about the playoffs," Moshimer said. "We will take whatever is given to us. I'm very proud of our kids. We graduated most of our starters from last season and we've made a lot of progress."

But the Mustangs, who also entered the game with visions of the playoffs, left the field with the vision of Hister's No. 39 freshly implanted in their heads.

HISTER TOOK control of the game in the third quarter, gaining 117 yards in 10 carries and keeping the potent Mustang offense off the field.

Northville saw its record fall to 5-3 overall and, with it, any playoff hopes.

"You have to credit to their offensive line," Mustang coach Darrell Schumacher said. "They dominated our defense in the second half. We knew they would run it and they have a good back in Hister."

"This game took the heart out of the team. It took their goal away, which was to make the playoffs. They worked very hard this year."

When Schumacher looks over the scorebook, he may even be more disappointed. His Mustangs outgained the Rocks in total offense 351-317, which included an outstanding performance by Ryan Huzjak. The junior quarterback completed 21 of 28 pass attempts for 256 yards.

The way the game started it looked like the Mustangs would be playing football in November. Northville took the opening kickoff and in nine plays drove to the Rock 26-yard line. But Kevin Craggs forced Huzjak to make a bad pitch, and the fumble was recovered by Jake Dempsey.

NORTHVILLE GOT the ball back and drove to midfield, but the Rocks' Allen August forced another errant Huzjak pitch. Scott Rodgers recovered this time.

Hister paces win for Salem

Salem took advantage of the second miscue and, seven runs and 3:13 later, scored the game's first points. On a fourth-and-1 at the Mustang 1, Rock senior quarterback Chris Tebben kept the ball and sneaked in for the touchdown. K.C. Kirkpatrick's point after gave Salem a 7-0 lead.

Tebben completed four of six passes for 56 yards.

When Northville got the ball back, it looked like that lead would be short lived. After Huzjak hit Ryan Kilner for 15 yards, Huzjak scrambled for a 53-yard gain down to the Rock 5-yard line. But another bad pitch resulted in the third Mustang turnover.

The Mustang defense held Salem, and after a short punt and a face-mask penalty, Northville found itself at the Rock 23-yard line. Four plays later, sophomore Rob Subotich ran untouched from 6 yards out, making the score 7-6 in favor of Salem.

Northville drove once more before the half ended behind four Huzjak completions, but the clock ran out before the Mustangs could attempt a field goal.

"We felt very lucky going into halftime with the lead. We got all the breaks," Moshimer said, whose team was outgained 234-103 yards.

"WE SAID AT halftime the three turnovers cost us the lead," Schumacher said.

The third quarter belonged to Hister. He ran eight straight times and drove the Rocks to the Mustang 13. Tebben hit John Flynn to give Salem a 14-6 lead.

Salem got the ball back and Hister ran up the middle for a 56-yard touchdown, giving Salem a 20-6 lead and shocking the Mustangs. The shock was that Hister was supposed to have a pulled groin injury.

"I have played bette... d felt better," Hister said. "It was a big win for us tonight, but we have to win next week, also."

The Mustangs didn't roll over. Northville drove 57 yards in 10 plays. Senior Bill Kelley made a one-hand catch to haul in a Huzjak 6-yard touchdown pass and close the margin to 20-13.

The Rocks took control of the game — and the clock — in the fourth quarter. Salem kept the ball for seven minutes and 16 plays, scoring on a Hister 5-yard touchdown run. Kirkpatrick's point after made it 27-13.

Northville drove the field one more time, but Pete Zantop picked off a Huzjak pass at the Rock 2-yard line, ending all Mustang comeback hopes.

Junior Dan Burke carried 10 times for 69 yards for the Rocks. Senior Mark Hilfinger was the leading Mustang receiver with five receptions for 83 yards.

"We did what we do best — run the football," Moshimer said. "We added a couple of wrinkles but basically we did what we usually do."

Defense shines for Canton

The Chiefs finished off North by scoring on their first three possessions of the second half and building a 34-3 lead early in the fourth quarter.

THE FIRST drive resulted in Jeff Nafe's 30-yard field goal. Later a good punt return by Mike Wougamon gave Canton the ball at the North 32, and Wougamon, after a lateral pass from Wukie, passed 20 yards to Brett Howell for a TD.

The Chiefs converted Rentz' interception into another score. A holding penalty nullified a 21-yard TD run by Chris James, but Wougamon ran 11 yards for the team's final score four plays later.

"We were concerned about North Farmington," Khoenle said. "They have a good team, and if you lose one it's hard to climb over that."

With the win, Canton continues its pursuit of a playoff berth. As was the case last year, the season finale between the Chiefs and Plymouth Salem (6-2) will have a bearing on postseason play for both teams.

"It's going to come down to the last game like last year," Khoenle said. "It'll be a helluva game. It will be an emotional game as it is. Plus all the other stuff added to it is going to make it something else."

Wukie finished 8-of-15 passing for 63 yards. The Chiefs piled up 236 of their 319 yards on the ground. James rushed for 58 yards on 13 carries, Riggs 45 on 12 and Wukie 36 on six. Riggs and Howell caught three passes apiece.

ALL OF NORTH'S plus-77 rushing yards came on its last series. Quarterback Mark Temple completed seven of 20 passes for 67 yards.

"We just didn't establish anything," North coach Jim O'Leary said. "Our kids didn't quit, but we just didn't play very good football.

"We couldn't dictate what we wanted to do. We were forced to throw the ball. They're a good football team; they're not as good as John Glenn, but they do things well and we didn't take advantage of what was there."

The Raiders close the season Friday at South Lyon.

"There's only been three teams in the history of North Farmington that had losing seasons," O'Leary said, "and I don't want to be one of them. Next week we'll find out if they know what Raider pride is all about."

Salem cagers cruise

Plymouth Salem, behind 18 points from sophomore forward Yolanda Jackson, defeated visiting Farmington Thursday in a Western Lakes Activities Association girls basketball game.

Salem is 13-2 overall and a perfect 9-0 in the WLAA. The Falcons are 2-13 and 1-8.

The Rocks also received offensive contributions from junior center Darcie Miller, who chipped in 16 points, and senior guard Sarah Ruete, who added 10 points.

Kim Owczarzak scored nine points in a losing cause for Farmington.

PLY. CHRISTIAN 50, HURON VALLEY 44: Plymouth Christian jumped to a 28-19 halftime lead Friday en route to a win over Westland Huron Valley Lutheran.

The Eagles are 9-3 overall and 3-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Junior forward Jill Butler sparked Plymouth Christian with 13 points. Senior guard Tamara Tilley added 11 points, while junior center Jenny Moore contributed 10.

Huron Valley had three players score in double figures: Sandy Dengel (15), Nancy List (12) and Brenda Mayworm (11).

The Hawks are 5-9 overall and 2-4 in the MIAC.

Canton swim winner

Plymouth Canton's girls swimming team raced by Walled Lake Western Thursday 135-51 in a Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division dual meet at Western.

The Chiefs are 3-5 overall, 2-5 in the WLAA and 2-2 in the Western Division.

Canton won all three relays and won eight individual events by eight different swimmers in securing the victory.

Stacey Setter won the 200-yard freestyle for Canton in 2:21.5 and she also was involved in the Chiefs' 400 freestyle relay team which won in 4:31.0. Setter's teammates included Jennifer Warnke, Heather Anderson and Laura Schilling. The Chiefs, behind Amy Butzlaff, Sarah Larson, Jill Barnes and Danielle Yockey, also won the 200 medley relay in 2:11.83.

April Brian was an individual winner, taking the 50 freestyle (29.00), and she also was a member of the winning 200 freestyle relay team in 2:04.0. Other members of the team were Kristin Davis, Yockey and Lybra Lindke.

The Chiefs other individual champions included: Amy Kodrik, diving (211.75 points); Warnke, 100 freestyle (1:04.65); Dawn Sammut, 500 freestyle (6:19.4); Jill Mellis, 100 backstroke (1:12.17); and Susan Daoust, 100 breaststroke (1:25.43).

Dropping scores due to new lane conditions

Al Harrison

WHAT HAVE THEY done to the lanes?

This question has been popping up all over town as scores are down at most bowling houses.

There are some leagues where the scores are drastically down from last season. Without a doubt, there are far less honor scores being reported.

Honor scores, consisting of 300 games and 700 series, were coming through in bunches last season. That has not been the case this year.

Ever since the short oil system was introduced in 1986, bowlers have had to adjust this new surface. Bowlers adjusted well, perhaps too well, as scores began to rise.

While it takes a lot of skill to maintain a 200 average, the high numbers began to concern many in the bowling industry, including ABC.

One bowler told me: "I felt great about the 300 game I shot, until I saw three others on the same night."

NEXT SEASON, there are new ABC rules coming out regarding lane conditioning and the way a ball can be drilled to create a different effect.

This season, the various bowling centers seem to have made a few subtle changes in the way they oil the lanes.

Some bowling houses have gone to a urethane finish. This calls for a different method of oiling and they are just finding out about the best methods and types of oil for this situation.

There are newly developed plastic sheets which cover the lane surface. Some bowling centers have adopted this system and it takes time to find a good formula which will provide a good shot for players.

In some establishments, they have switched to synthetic lanes, which in itself can be a challenge for bowlers.

"Someday the industry will have to find a lane surface which needs no oil or conditions at all," professional bowler Brian Voss said. "They need to find a surface where the shot will be challenging, but consistent everywhere at any time."

MEANWHILE, IT is up to the individual bowler to adjust his or her game to meet the lane conditions. Sometimes, this can be a simple guessing game.

You begin to ask questions about stance, speed of the ball and polish on the ball.

To anyone who is having more trouble this season with their game, I say, don't give in, keep trying to bowl your best and learn to adjust to the lanes.

● Any team interested in a one-day tournament can enter the Fall Open Team Tournament at Westland Bowl. First prize is $1,200 guaranteed and entry fee is $100 per team.

The tournament will take place on Sunday, Nov. 4, and is open to any five-person team. Both men and women are invited to participate.

For further information call Westland Bowl at 722-7570.

● If you noticed the item in last week's column about the Dunkin Donuts National Bowling Challenge Tournament well here is some more information: The only participating bowling center in this area is Wonderland Lanes in Livonia.

FOR A $5 qualifying fee, you can come in and enter during open bowling time even if you are in a regular league elsewhere.

To qualify, you must bowl your average or better. After qualifying, you advance to the house finals in November. The ones closest to their actual average go on to compete in the National Competition with all expenses paid. The National Competition takes place in Reno, Nev. In case of a tie, there will be a roll off to determine a house winner.

During the televised finals, a top prize of $1 million is awarded if you bowl your exact average.

For more details call Ken Bashara at 427-1060. The deadline is Oct. 31.

● The YABA presented an award to Lona Palise of Garden City for placing fourth in the nation last season at Westland Bowl. Lona rolled a 748 series last year in the junior major girls division.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS to Lona.

● Many of the Observer and Eccentric area's finest bowlers compete in the various Classic Leagues. From time to time, these scores will appear here in this column.

At Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park, Troy Stus of Garden City rolled a 269/713 in the H&L Tuesday All-Star Classic, while Tom Brudzinski of Canton recorded a 255/725, John Putti of Birmingham (266/721) and Ken Kossick of Canton (278/709).

● Garden City bowler Rick Eiermann was named Bowler of the Month for September.

CEP rivals clash in district

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Salem begins its quest for a return trip to the Class A boys soccer final today, and traditional rival Plymouth Canton presents the first obstacle on that road.

The Rocks, who were runners-up to Troy Athens last year, play Canton at 7 p.m. at Centennial Educational Park.

Salem, the Western Lakes Activities Association champion and 15-1-1 overall, has beaten the Chiefs twice this season. While both games were shutouts, each was close in score.

The Rocks defeated Canton 2-0 in the championship game of the Plymouth Invitational in early September, and Salem edged the Chiefs 1-0 during a regular-season contest.

"We have to do it again on the field," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "There's always that unknown aspect, the mystique of the Canton-Salem game. We can do it, but we have to play our decent, steady game."

CANTON FINISHED 7-4 in the WLAA and is 9-8 overall. The Chiefs know they have their work cut out for them, coach Don Smith said.

"They sorta dominated the games," he said. "The second one was much better than the first one. We got some action down around the goal, but we definitely have to get more if we're going to make a difference. We have to put a lot more pressure on their defense and, hopefully, they'll make mistakes."

Salem goalkeeper Derek Olson has 10 shutouts this season, and defenders Jake Baker, Chris Lajoy, Matt Lee and Ryan Fitzpatrick have been outstanding as expected.

IN THE WLAA final Wednesday at Livonia Churchill, Salem reserves Matt Cook, Ryan Kramer, Rick Andrusiak and Joe Perron did well in relief of the starters and helped preserve Salem's 2-0 lead late in the second half.

"We'll have to play an extremely good game," Smith said. "But we're hustling well right now. We're playing pretty good soccer. We played well against Stevenson the other night."

Canton lost 2-0 to the Spartans in their WLAA crossover game Wednesday night.

The Chiefs and Salem, as runners-up in their respective divisions, met in the crossover last year and had to face each other again the next Monday in the district opener.

BUT THIS year the Rocks beat Stevenson for the first time in regular season play and, for the first time, enter district competition as the WLAA champion.

"I think it will give us a little confidence, because in the past we'd just been defeated by Stevenson," Johnson said. "I think we're in a better position this year, because it's been a while since we last played (the Chiefs).

"Canton always gets fired up. This year I know they want to knock off the conference champ. We always get fired up when we're playing a No. 1 team or a team that hasn't been beaten."

SMITH HOPES a change to put more offense in the Canton lineup will help. The Chiefs are using three forwards instead of two when they last played Salem.

"Hopefully, we can spread them out defensively a little more," he said. "With two forwards, they were ganging up on us, because our halfbacks weren't getting to the play fast enough."

The teams also will play each other for the first time on their new, wider field.

"They're a good team at moving the ball around and spreading the field, too," Smith said. "So that may be more of an advantage for them. We'll see."

SALEM'S DEFENSE will be watching for Canton forward Mike Presley, Johnson said.

"He's a steady boy, quick and dangerous," he said. "He had a pretty good game every time I saw them. We'll have to mark him and hope the rest of the team doesn't play above themselves. We can't relax in other words."

The Canton-Salem winner will play either Churchill or Livonia Franklin in the second round Wednesday. The final is scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday at Redford Union's Kraft Field.

Chiefs retain title

"We're a contender (for the conference title), and we should be in the top four or five teams easy," Salem coach Mike Krafchak said. "We've got everybody healthy, so we should have a shot at it."

North's Jenny Weh captured first place in 21:44, but the Rocks filled six of the next seven places.

Stacey Witthoff was second (21:57), Corey Gulkewicz third (22:00), Emily Farrell fifth (22:28), Beth Turomsha sixth (22:30), Kelly Morante seventh (22:37) and Julie Cutting eighth (22:53).

Tracy Mitchell and Carolyn Atto placed fourth and ninth, respectively, for North. Mitchell ran 22:03 and Atto 23:27. Salem's Jill Czaplicki rounded out the top 10 with a 23:45 time.

North's scorers included Alicia Crossland, who was 11th overall (24:02), and Lisa Biederman, 13th at 25:06.

Northville's Steve Coon was third (17:45), but Jim Carnes (17:54), Dave Yack (17:55), Jason Napolitano (18:14), Chris Nelson (18:44) and Shawn McNamara (18:50) grabbed the next five places for the Chiefs.

Kirk Stewart finished 10th and was Canton's top JV runner at 19:17. Ryan McClain ran 19:32 and Justin Sarrach 19:49 as the Chiefs won that meet 15-50.

Canton hopes to challenge Western in the WLAA meet at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday at Cass Benton.

"I certainly hope we race Walled Lake Western a little better than we did last week," Canton coach Jim Hayes said. The Chiefs lost that meet 18-45. "Western is certainly the team to beat."

PREGNANCY & ARTHRITIS
Pregnancy remains among the best treatments for arthritis. The hormones of pregnancy act similarly to steroids but without the side effects; as pregnancy proceeds, joint inflammation subsides and movement becomes pain free.
Moreover, because of the good effect of pregnancy on arthritis, anti-rheumatic medications can be decreased or even stopped, thus eliminating a potential harm to the development of the baby.
One exception to the above is lupus arthritis. When that condition is associated with kidney disease, a possible problem arises because of the need for strong kidneys to handle the increased body fluid volume that is part of pregnancy. Women with lupus arthritis may develop the "lupus anticoagulant" antibody. This antibody causes clotting of the blood vessels that supply the placenta; if narrowing of the arteries goes far enough, the child may deliver prematurely.
The beneficial effects of pregnancy end 6 weeks after delivery; then arthritis returns, usually to the degree that existed before conception. Thus, it is important that the husband learns how to dress, feed, and participate in the child's daily care. He well may need to undertake this active role. Often his wife has the more difficult task of adjusting physically and emotionally to the limitations that arthritis brings to her as a mother.

Imagine if you had to ask for blood to save the life of someone you love. Next time the American Red Cross asks, give blood, please.
GIVE BLOOD, PLEASE

Beginning October 23, you must dial "1-313" or your long distance call will not go through.

As of October 23, if the first three digits of your phone number are listed below, you must dial "1-313" when dialing long distance within the 313 area. Otherwise, your call won't be connected. Because that's when final conversion of your neighborhood to "1-313" long distance dialing will be complete. So if you haven't already reprogrammed your speed calling, call forwarding, modem communications software and automatic dialers, you should do so immediately.

And remember, local and zone calls are still seven digits. Not sure what's long distance and what's not? Just check the front of your Ameritech PagesPlus® White Pages directory.

Thanks for dialing "1-313." Because by doing it you're helping to create 1.5 million new phone numbers for our area. And a completed call for yourself.

Beginning October 23, if the first three digits of your phone number are listed here, you must dial "1-313" for long distance calls in the 313 area.

Seniors can receive low cost legal services on aging

Renee Mahler

Q. Is there anyone who can provide legal services, at a very reasonable cost, for homebound seniors?

A. Recently a new legal service, for Michigan residents 60 years of age or older, has been created under the direction of the Legal Counsel for the Elderly, the State Bar of Michigan Senior Justice Committee's Pro Bono Project and the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging. This statewide program provides direct toll-free telephone access to experienced attorneys at no cost to the older adult. The service, called The Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians, is particularly interested in making attorneys available to homebound seniors and older people in rural areas throughout the state.

The Legal Hotline is staffed by specially trained lawyers who can help seniors with a variety of legal problems, including Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, consumer law issues, Medicare and Medicaid, real estate problems and landlord-tenant disputes.

To reach the Legal Hotline call, toll free, 1-800-347-5297, Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Q. My 67-year-old uncle is having difficulty hearing. What is the best way to go about having his hearing checked? I am concerned about having the proper type of examination for him.

A. Regulations by the Food and Drug Administration and the Federal Trade Commission provide general guidelines to assist people in making informed decisions regarding hearing health care.

They suggest that a person suffering a hearing loss have a medical evaluation by a licensed physician and preferably by a physician who specializes in diseases of the ear. These doctors are often referred to as otolaryngologists, otologists or otorhinolaryngologists. These are physicians who specialize either in the ear or in the ear, nose and throat. The purpose of the medical evaluation is to make certain that any conditions that affect the hearing and can be medically treated are identified and treated prior to the purchase of a hearing aid.

Following the medical evaluation, the physician will give you a written statement stating that the hearing loss has been medically evaluated and that the individual may be considered as a candidate for a hearing aid. The doctor will probably refer you to an audiologist or a hearing aid specialist for a hearing aid evaluation. They will then conduct a hearing aid evaluation, which will enable them to select and fit the proper hearing aid. Federal law now prohibits the sale of hearing aids without an evaluation from a licensed physician unless the patient waives his or her rights, declining a medical evaluation, for religious or personal beliefs.

If there is any question concerning the individual's ability to adapt to the use of a hearing aid, many hearing aid dispensers now offer a trial-rental program. The hearing aid may be worn for a period of time, for a nominal fee, after which the decision to purchase can be made.

There are a variety of hearing aids and other mechanical devices to help people with hearing loss. It is important to remember however, that hearing aids may not work for everyone and they cannot restore function to normal.

The average cost of hearing aids may range from approximately $450 to $750 and in general, the larger the aid the more powerful it will be. There are five basic designs of hearing aids and patients should check them all out. There are body-type hearing aids worn on the body with a cord connecting to a receiver in the earmold; behind-the-ear hearing aids that are smaller, have no connecting cord and are connected usually by clear tubing to an earmold; hearing aids with the aid mounted to an eyeglass frame; all-in-the-ear hearing aids, which are earmolds containing all of the mechanisms; and canal hearing aids, with all of the mechanisms in a case that fits into the ear canal.

Toy fair scheduled

Yo yo demonstrations, magic tricks and horses of finely honed wood, will all be part of a toy fair sponsored by Northwest Communities Association for Retarded Citizens.

Hundreds of items, all meant to entertain the small fry, will be on display and for sale, 4-9 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 24, at Bryant School, 18000 Merriman, Livonia. The center, a former junior high school converted into use for the mentally handicapped, is north of Six Mile.

Among the available goodies are horses, trains, cradles and book ends fashioned by wood crafting students at Churchill High School. Personalized books, created on the computer by Michelle's Creations of Livonia, and unusual books from the Curious Child, Plymouth will also be available. Mikel's Toy Box will be on hand with a wide variety of educational toys.

The toy fair, a public service meant to acquaint the public with quality toys, is open to the public said Nancy Cole, co-organizer of the event with Christine Lerchen.

Lerchen directs Lekotek, a lending library of toys maintained by Northwest Communities for retarded youngsters. Northwest, an association for retarded persons, is in Redford. It is affiliated with ARC, the Association for Retarded Citizens.

For more information on the toy fair, or on Lekotek, call 937-2777.

Law firms stress local ties at S'craft hearing

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Call it L.A. (Livonia area) law.

Local ties were stressed Wednesday by three of the four firms that auditioned to be Schoolcraft College's legal representative.

Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, the college's current representative, stressed its long time ties to Schoolcraft.

Law, Hemming, Essad & Polyczyk, of Plymouth, stressed its ties to surrounding area governments.

Meanwhile, Livonia-based Brashear, Tangora and Spence stressed its ties to that city and nearby Madonna College.

While all brought their big guns, it may have been the fourth firm, Plunkett & Cooney of Detroit, that brought the biggest gun — a former U.S. Congressman.

Former U.S. Rep. William Broadhead, head of the firm's governmental affairs division, was among five Plunkett & Cooney attorneys who appeared before the Schoolcraft board. It was the biggest contingent sent by any firm.

Each firm was granted a half-hour interview with trustees. Trustees are expected to announce their choice during the Wednesday, Oct. 24 board meeting.

While trustees were impressed with Broadhead's presence — and the firm's promise to make the Livonia-based community college a "prestige" client — they made no commitment to any firm.

"I'D SAY it's pretty open," board president Mary Breen said. "We haven't polled anybody yet, so it's hard to say how they feel."

Several trustees, however, expressed a lack of preference for Miller, Canfield, even though the firm has the most experience representing Michigan community colleges.

While the Detroit-based firm drew praise for its swift response to Schoolcraft legal questions, its' service charge, $160-190 a hour, was deemed the most expensive of the four firms considered.

"Their fees are high but they've given us good service," college President Richard McDowell told the board.

Schoolcraft paid Miller, Canfield $9,543 for legal services in its last fiscal year.

Referrring to a three-year-old incident, trustee Jeanne Stempien questioned the firm about changing attorneys while Schoolcraft was negotiating to develop the Seven Mile Crossing office park.

Attorneys for Miller, Canfield admitted the change was a mistake.

Trustees also expressed concerns about a last-minute statement from Miller, Canfield that the project's 75-year lease was unworkable.

"We want someone who will show us how to do what we want," trustee Michael Burley said. "Not say it's impossible."

OTHER FIRMS fared somewhat better.

Law, Hemming stressed its ties to the Western Townships Utility Asssociation, an intergovernment group that includes Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships, three areas served by Schoolcraft.

No mention was made of the controversy surrounding the firm's bid. Trustee Jack Kirksey had charged Breen and attorney Robert Law with unfairly lobbying the board — a charge denied by Breen and the firm.

Law, Hemming was the initial choice of several board members for the job, though the board agreed to consider to interview other candidates after the controversy emerged.

Brashear, Tangora & Spence stressed its Livona ties — even to the point of reminding trustees the firm helped draw up the city's charter and documents that helped create Schoolcraft itself.

Plunkett & Cooney told trustees it was willing to vary its fees to accommodate the college's needs.

Law, Hemming and Brashear, Tangora & Spence are smaller.

"It's a question of whether we want to be a big fish in a small pond or a small fish in a bigger pond," Burley said.

MHS seeks 'collectors'

The Michigan Humane society will hold its sixth annual Halloween Collection for the Animals Oct. 31.

Young people and adults will be asking for donations instead of candy.

Proceeds will be used for the humane society's cruelty investigation division to assist abused animals.

Volunteers are needed to assist with the collection. Canisters are available at Michigan Humane Society shelters, including the Westland Kindness Center, 37255 Marquette, and the Rochester Hills shelter, 3600 Auburn Road.

Additional information is available by calling 872-3400.

We Need Volunteers Who Love Happy Campers!
Sun Deer® campers are happy campers and it's no wonder because most severely asthmatic kids are forced to spend their summers indoors. At Camp Sun Deer® asthmatic kids ages 9-12 participate in a variety of outdoor activities, but they can't do it without your help. The limitations and doubts they face can be diminished by a volunteer who cares. Your participation at Camp Sun Deer® can make all the difference in an asthmatic child's summer.

No 'La Bamba,' please

They were riding high on the college radio circuit. Then came "La Bamba." The film was a hit and so was their music. Fine for some bands, but Los Lobos would rather start from scratch and recapture the "coolness" they once had. For more, See Page 3D.

The Whitcomb Conservatory:

photos by BILL HANSEN

In the showhouse courtyard, water dances merrily from the fountain.

Orchids, cacti and palms give the eyes and nose a workout

"Mums the word" at the Whitcomb Conservatory on Belle Isle. Mums up to 2 inches in diameter are in the showhouse.

By Greg Kowalski
staff writer

If trees could talk, what would the giant canary palm in the Belle Isle Conservatory say? That 65-foot tree has spent most of its past 100 years in the huge greenhouse.

And what would its neighbor, an equally impressive and nearly as tall East Indian palm add? How would their companion, an unusual fish-tail palm, feel?

"Well, they don't have to worry about hurricanes here," said Jim Justus, the conservatory's floricultural supervisor.

The trees are well-fed and watered, and during the winter, can view the dreary snow from the steamy comfort of the glass structure.

"Here," Justus said, "you can go to Florida without going to Florida."

For nearly 90 years, Belle Isle, Detroit's "jewel on the river," has glowed with a spectrum of floral colors. The 15,000-square-foot Anna Scripps Whitcomb Conservatory, adjoining lily pool, 10 acres of gardens and 20 greenhouses, offer a lush variety of plants, flowers and trees, ranging from common caladiums to exotic cacti.

Lush, indeed. The conservatory walk takes you through the steamy tropics, past the desert and into a primeval fern forest. Here, you'll find the strange screw pine from Madagascar (now the Malagasy Republic), which grows in a winding corkscrew shape. And here are the representative trees from which we get lemons, bananas, coffee and, until synthetics, rubber.

BEYOND ARE the cacti. The room is not for the nervous. Spikes abound. Huge yucca plants grow here. Over there is a strange Saint Jospeh's Coat with large floppy leaves. The owl's eye cactus watches with a cluster of spiny white orbs.

Other cacti have spines as feathery as gossamer; some present huge thorns. Different varieties of aloe abound.

And just as you leave the room, look for the gently jellybean plant.

In the fern room, you stand on a small balcony and look into an earlier age of Earth. A steady flow of water splashes across the floor below and gives the room the steamy muginess of a swamp. Straight ahead is an Australian Ixer fern — a real tree fern — standing nearly 20 feet tall.

All around are different types of ferns, one of the first plants to have appeared on th earth.

Enough of the heat. The conservatory presents six especially popular flower shows a year, beginning in January.

The winter show — held the second week of January to just before Easter — features cyclamen, cineraria, calcelorias and primroses.

The Easter show — from Easter to Mother's Day — highlights Easter lilies, tulips, narcissi, genistas, azeleas and rhododendrons.

THE MOTHER'S Day show — the first week of May to the first week of June — shines with widy hydrageas, schizanthus and snapdragons, along with a Mother's Day favorite, Martha Washington geraniums.

The summer show — June to October — displays several varieties of fuschias, caladiums, gloxinias, coleus and foliage plants.

The chrysanthemum show — the second week of November to the second week of December — glows with a spectrum of colors befitting the accompanying tall-stemmed giants and miniature button mums.

Finally, the Christmas show — from the week before Christmas to the second week of January — blazes with red, white and pink poinsettias and Jerusalem cherries.

Next to the conservatory is the lily pool. About 30 feet by 90 feet, the recently refurbished languid pool is surrounded by a rock garden.

Also outdoors is the 10-acre formal gardens. The outer perimeter of the formal garden area is edged with boxwood.

Myriad flowers and a wide swath of grass separate the outer area from the inner sunken gardens. There can be found poppies, daisies, dalphinium, phlox, narcissi, roses and other flowers.

ACTUALLY, THE outdoor gardens don't have anything exceptionally exotic, but they have a lot , enough variety to ensure a glowing pallet of colors.

MOVING PICTURES

'Avalon' excells as look at life

"Avalon" (A+, PG, 126 minutes) is an excellent film reminding viewers that America is still the land of opportunity. Writer/director Barry Levinson tells an autobiographical story of the simple complexity of family ties.

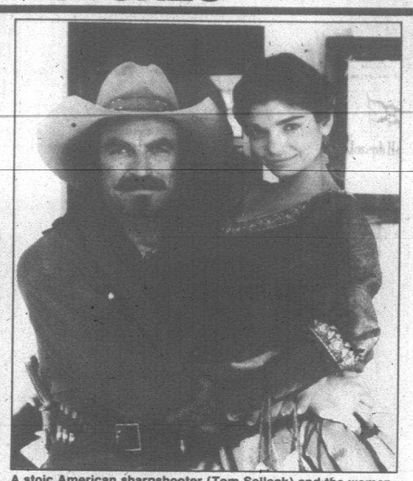
The immigrant Krichinsky elders and their first generation of American off-spring are superbly portrayed by an international cast which includes Armin Mueller-Stahl, Joan Plowright, Aidan Quinn and Elizabeth Perkins. Their performances are so strong that it's impossible to single out any one over another.

"Avalon's" only drawback — and it is a minor one — is that Levinson is not subtle in conveying his primary message about television, success, the suburbs and their pivotal role in breaking down even the closest of family bonds in modern society.

Eva and Sam Krichinsky (Plowright and Mueller-Stahl) are the lynchpins in a family whose love brings them to America and eventually teams them apart. Jules Kaye (Quinn) and Izzy Kirk (Kevin Pollack) are cousins, American sons who feel the need to change their names in order to enjoy the fruits of success as television salesmen in the late '40s when the medium began to dominate American culture. Their move to the suburbs and their fascination with television are the roots of destruction of their close-knit family ties.

Aside from that obvious quality in "Avalon" the film is nearly a perfect experience. Be prepared to leave the theater ready to celebrate both family and an America that probably never was and certainly never will be again. But are all so fortunate that someone thinks it was. (Reviewed by Susan Fincham)

MATTHEW QUIGLEY (Tom Selleck) is a true American hero — a man Americans can be proud of, and an individual who carries the American values of justice, honor and quality down under to Australia.



A stoic American sharpshooter (Tom Selleck) and the woman he befriends (Laura San Giacomo) face the dangers of the untamed Australian frontier in "Quigley Down Under."

Or at least that's how Pathe Entertainment envisioned "Quigley Down Under" (D, PG-13). Unfortunately the film, billed as a comedy-action-adventure, lacks humor and excitement. Most damaging, however, is its moral component.

Enticed by an ad seeking an expert sharpshooter, Matt Quigley travels from the American Wild West of the 1860s to Australia where he is appalled to discover that Australian rancher Marston Slater (Alan Rickman) has hired him to murder "backward and primitive" Aborigines.

With his arrogant manner and witty words, Matt is unable to do anything except make enemies. Marston is upset when Quigley throws him through a window. The rest of the film is devoted to Marston's search for revenge.

Crazy Cora Cobb (Laura San Giacomo) provides the romantic element as she travels trough the outback with Quigley.

Disney's grand experiment

By John Monaghan
special writer

Disney has long thrived on the re-release of their classic features, introducing them to a brand new generation every eight years or so. "Fantasia," currently celebrating its 50th anniversary in area theaters, has long been for me the high watermark of studio animation.

"Fantasia" developed from a short vehicle for Mickey Mouse. Walt Disney collaborated with conductor Leopold Stokowski to combine animation with Paul Duka's "The Socerer's Apprentice," starring the famous mouse. With Stokowski's urgings, the project developed into a feature-length collection of sequences — a true fantasia.

Disney's top animators and scenarists sampled countless hours of classical music to find appropriate pieces to illustrate. What they came up with was a blend of comic, dramatic, narrative and abstract sequences presided over by the silver-haired silhouette of Stokowski, his back to the audience atop the conductor's podium.

EVERYONE HAS their favorite images from "Fantasia." Some of mine occur during the opening sequences. "The Nutcracker Suite," with winged sprites introducing the seasons, and the flowing abstract forms set to Bach offer an eye-popping preview of things to come.

Stravinski's "The Rite of Spring," meanwhile, depicts the rise and fall of the dinosaur. "Dance of the Hours" offers ballet-dancing alligators, hippos, strichen and elephants. Both sequences capture the physical characteristics of their animal subjects.

The film ends with "Night on Bald

Everything runs in cycles and videopics are no exception. One such cycle — World War II films emphasizing individual, human suffering because of the Nazis — starts Oct. 25 with Claude Chabrol's "The Blood of Others" (1984, color, not rated, 131 minutes).

"Murderers Among Us: the Simon Wiesenthal Story" (1990, color, no rating, 157 minutes) stars Ben Kingsley ("Ghandi") as Weisenthal. It's due out Oct. 31, while Nov. 7 is the release date for "That Summer of White Roses" (1990, color, R, 98 minutes), starring Tom Conti, Susan George and Rod Steiger.

All three are above-average in scope, cast and direction when compared to most video productions.

Along with Francois Truffuat, Alain Renais and Jean-Luc Godard, Chabrol became internationally renowned three decades ago as a leader of the Franch New Wave. That movement was instrumental in turning motion pictures from large-

Lobos return to roots

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

For Los Lobos, there is no more "La Bamba." That makes them happy.

Perhaps now the East L.A. five-some can get down to the business of making music — their own music.

While the soundtrack from the hit movie thrusted Los Lobos into the spotlight, the irony of it all was this was anything but a cover band.

In fact, Los Lobos' creative hybrid of Mexican folk with rock'n'roll sensibilities had a ground swell of followers on the college circuit. The band's first two albums — "How Will the Wolf Survive?" and "By the Light of Moon" — sold decently and were critically acclaimed.

Then came the film biography of 1950s Latino music sensation Ritchie Valens and the ensuing soundtrack. The LP sold more than 2 million copies and the title track remained No. 1 for three weeks on the charts.

Fickle followers of college radio went their way; newly-won fans clamored for "La Bamba."

"We had it (support from college radio)," said vocalist/guitarist David Hidalgo in a telephone interview. "It's funny, college radio. Once we were accepted by the masses . . . We weren't cool anymore."

Certainly, Los Lobos couldn't be accused of a sell-out. After all, the band followed the soundtrack with "La Pistola y El Corazon" — an album of Mexican folk songs sung in Spanish.

So, when other bands would be counting the profits, Los Lobos talks about starting from scratch.

"Neighborhood" (Warner/Slash) is the group's latest album. The LP is chockful of the hallmarks of what made critics rave about Los Lobos in the first place — Mexican folk rhythms and rock'n'roll along with new elements such as country and R&B.

Also, Los Lobos gets by with a little help from their friends. Band member Cesar Rosas and blues great Willie Dixon co-wrote "I Can't Understand." John Hiatt and The Band's Levon Helm serve as guest musicians on the LP.

"We were happy with what happened (with "La Bamba")," Hidalgo said. "It got us in front of a lot of people.

"After 'La Pistola y El Corazon' we wanted to tour. We just wanted to make a good record."

A part of what makes "Neighborhood" a good record is the songwriting. Hardly prosaic, the lyrics have a directness and a sincerity few records possess in this day and age.

Drummer and multi-instrumentalist Louis Perez shares the songwriting with Hidalgo. Their songs about love can be optimistic without being maudlin.

SKETCHES OF life in barrios are particularly vivid. The album jacket contains paintings of the neighborhood they sing about where crime and decay have taken their toll.

The title track speaks of today. Hidalgo recalls the way it used to be where he lives.

"East L.A. was a working class neighborhood," Hidalgo said. "There were kids everywhere. Problems existed then, but they were not as out of proportion as they are now. It was like any small town in a way because you were away from the city itself."

Remembering the old neighborhood is one of few reminisces Hidalgo allows himself. He does ask about Joe's Star Lounge in Ann Arbor where the band performed several times.

But Los Lobos is very much in the present. Although the group has been together for more than seven years — coming out the L.A. club scene with bands such as X and the Blasters — music still very much about discovery.

"We never go too much one way. It's a combination of all this stuff we grew up with," Hidalgo said. "That's what makes this a unique band, I guess."

Los Lobos will perform 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, at State Theater, 2111 Woodward, Detroit. Reserved tickets are $17.50. For information, call 996-8742.

These Animals thirst for success

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Fortunately, Thirsty Forest Animals are only carnivorous when it comes to performing music. Indeed, they are hungry.

And band members are also young. Bass player and vocalist Matthew Baker and guitarist Campbell Doughty are fresh-faced chaps bordering on their 20s.

Thirsty Forest Animals belie their name, possessing a sound that is optimistic and surging. Most would call it new music.

"That's where you would find it in the record store," said Baker, 18, who lives in Southfield. "There is that definite scene there. We don't try to particularly cater to any group. I hope we'll keep changing."

Seeing the show

Thirsty Forest Animals will perform Nov. 11 at The Shelter, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For more information call 961-MELT.

Change is to be expected. After all, Thirsty Forest Animals are only peeking over the edge of life.

Instead of acting bigger than their years, Baker and Doughty fully recognize and accept the place they are at — which might reveal an already underlying maturity.

As a result, some the band's more recently written songs are taking on an edge. Whereas "Sculpture" — the Thirsty Forest Animal's debut cassette tape — is a collection of youthful introspection, the group is veering toward more infense, inexplicable territory.

"This is a time when you're growing up a lot of negative emotions come out," said Doughty, 19, who speaks in a distinct Aussie growl. "And it finds its way into the music."

Thirsty Forest Animals met at school. Guitarist Andrew Peters, drummer Mark Patterson, Baker and Doughty attended Southfield Christian High School. Doughty moved to the area with his family from Australia.

Despite the conservative setting, the four got together one day and started playing. The vibe was right, as they say. Thirsty Forest Animals clicked from the start.

The band entered the studio with a handful of songs and recorded "Sculpture." Though all four come from different backgrounds, the cassette reveals a tightness that should serve Thirsty Forest Animals well in the future.

"If you talk to us, our views are so different," Baker said. "Then we get together and we all head in the right direction."

One direction the band has not taken is becoming a regular entity on the club circuit. Thirsty Forest

REVIEWS

ALL SHOCK DOWN — The Replacements

This record says Replacements on it, but after hearing the varied texture of the songs and seeing the extensive list of "musicians who played on this recorded thing," you get the feeling that "All Shook Down" is a Paul Westerberg solo album that the other Replacements happened to play on.

The fact is, Westerberg's maturing, at least musically. It's been a gradual process from the early '80s thrashing punk of "The Replacements Stink" and "Sorry, Ma, Forgot to Take Out the Trash" to the bopping pop of last year's "Don't Tell a Soul" and finally to "All Shook Down," an LP of acoustically-based songs with the rough edges left on.

It's that roughness, the demo-like quality that brings an immediate appeal to "All Shook Down," which, incidentally, has one of the greatest album-covers ever.

The music is pretty straightforward, kept in time by the omnipresent poising of Chris Mars' drums. For old-time Mats fans, Westerberg threw in the rave-ups "My Little Problem," a wailing duet with Concrete Blonde's Johnette Napolitano, and "Bent Oct of Shape," a "Tim"-like tune featuring the staple siren of Slim Dunlap's guitar.

But Westerberg is at his best on songs like the title track, "When it Began," and "Someone Take the Wheel." Rock's potted poet laments in "Nobody," a great tune with a Beatlesque guitar hook, "You're still in love with nobody/And I used to be nobody."

His hold-up-the-bar lyrics have a knack for hitting the heart without missing the guts: "Hush was the first word you were taught," he hisses with a mouth full of spit in the opener, "Merry Go Round."

NEW LEGEND — New Legend

The name of the CD as well as the band is New Legend. I'm not quite sure they live up to that title, but I am sure that their debut disc is worth a listen.

The music of New Legend is best described as a mix between the late great Stevie Ray Vaughan and raspy singer Joe Cocker.

This band hails from the Lowlands of Germany, this is the stretch of land that borders on Holland. They sing of this in their gritty blues tone appropriately entitled "Lowlands."

"I was born in the flat land/Where the sky's always low/Your head is constantly higher/Than the earth below."

There are nine solid, raucous bluesy tracks in this package. For the most part they're all pretty palatable to a blues lover's ear. One song of specific mention would be "Felt So Good," this is a classic blues cut.

Peter Bootsman has that raspy vocal quality that melts in well with the placid guitar style of guitarist Carl Carlton.

"I see a song as 50 percent music, 50 percent music lyrics," said Carlton. "A song, even a funny song is a little piece of art."

The band has a 19-year-old keyboardist, Pascal Kravetz, but for the most part he is seldom heard.

The song "Mean Mistreater" breaks the blues mold and helps wind up the disc on a purely rock'n'roll note.

While this is the band's debut album they are not novices to the rock'n'roll biz, all but one of the members of the group used to play in Dutch rock bands through out the '80s. This seems to have broadened their spectrum a bit.

If you're in the market for a little something new in the R&B category, I think New Legend might fit the bill. Their compact disc comes complete with all the words to the songs. That's always nice.

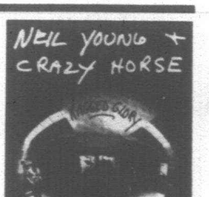
RAGGED GLORY — Neil Young



Neil Young & Crazy Horse's newest work, "Ragged Glory," isn't ragged or glorious.

Much like Young's career, this one has moments of greatness and mediocrity. Young, reunited with Billy Talbot, Ralph Molina of Crazy Horse fame, this time joined by guitarist Frank Sampedro, set out to achieve the elusive "garage band" sound that so many nostalgia-feeling aging rockers have been seeking. They found mixed results in a barn on Young's farm.

The sound is raw and lively, but muddied mixing sometimes ruins otherwise good tracks.

But when Young and Crazy Horse succeed, which is most of the time, this recording is worth a look.

"Country Home" reveals that Young still yearns for the simple life, and "Days That Used to Be" hints that perhaps the years are creeping up on him and he'd like to return to the days of his youth.

"Over and Over" is another well-intentioned love song of sorts — nothing earth shattering, just a decent track.

In "Fkin' Up," an intentionally brazen tip of the hat to censors everywhere, Young dares the moral majority to slap a sticker on his album. In "White Line" a deceptively titled song about driving at night, succeeds in blending folk rocker Young's passion with his electric guitar inclinations.

Even the somewhat preachy "Mother Earth" (Natural Anthem) works well.

Unfortunately, Young also includes several "so what" tracks in which he falls back into one of his greatest failings — his refusal to end a song before the idea gets old — "Love to Burn" and "Love and Only Love," as well as the downright awful "Farmer John."

Endless guitar licks that do little more than highlight average musicianship really defeats the purpose behind the reason we buy these records in the first place — Young's caustic wit and angry no-longer-young man views.

STREET SENSE

Move states your preference

Barbara Schiff

Dear Barbara,

I am a gay mother of a 10-year-old girl. I have been divorced from her father for four years. Throughout my adolescence and young adulthood, I had intimate experiences with both sexes. Since my divorce, my experiences have been almost exclusively homosexual although I continue to think of myself as bisexual.

But none of this is really the problem. The real problem is I have a girlfriend who is moving in with me. We have been dating for over a year and we are in love. My daughter is happy and excited about having "two mommies," as she puts it. We are all very compatible.

However, I am very anxious about this move. I have never discussed my homosexuality with my daughter. I don't know what to say to her and I am afraid that she will reject me. I am also worried about my ex-husband's reaction.

Will this give him legal grounds to sue for custody? He knows about my situation. He has voiced concerns about our daughter's psychological well-being. This never fails to anger me.

As you may be able to tell, I am quite confused.

Shirley

Dear Shirley,

Your situation is one made complicated not only by the personalities of all those involved, but also society's attitude toward homosexuality.

Life is full of compromises and by deciding to live with your girlfriend and, thus, announce your sexual preference, you are making one. You are saying through your actions that your autonomy is more important than the censure it might cause to your daughter.

The children of homosexuals relate that society's discrimination toward them and their parents is the heaviest burden that they must carry and with your actions, you have become part of a minority group which, whether one agrees or not, is stigmatized in our society.

Your daughter may already know that you are gay without having discussed it. Your lack of discussion may be construed as embarrassment or shame. This will be confusing for her.

Informal research has indicated and common sense supports, that if you are comfortable with your decision and confident discussing it, your daughter is more likely to share your feelings.

Many parents in your situation have had to tolerate periods of rejection from their children. Most say that when previous relations had been good, this is a knee-jerk reaction which subsides after the initial resentment is acted out.

Your husband's concern for the daughter you share is a common one. Do you get angry at him because you are defensive and unsure of your choice? You have made a decision which, while best for you, is difficult for them. Further burdening with your anger would be divisive.

There are good books that deal with this subject and support groups to help you sort through your feelings. Parents-FLAG (Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays) at (313) 478-8408 is one. Affirmations at (313) 398-7105, a gay community center in Ferndale, is another.

Lawyers that I consulted on the legal issue say that any non-married unions can be used as a morality charge against the perpetrators. This is another of the harsh realities that you must accept.

Animals bring on new tune

Animals has performed only a handful of bar shows, preferring to concentrate on their craft.

Baker said the band doesn't want to be pigeonholed as a bar band. Instead, the group has come up with some viable alternatives to the spooky din of the nightclub when performing live.

MEMBERS RENTED a YMCA gymnasium in Birmingham for a couple of its shows. They got ahold of a public address system, promoted the gig and, as it turned, drew a decent crowd. Best of all, Baker pointed out, the band was "in control" of the production.

Thirsty Forest Animals members may be young but they possess a sound that is optimistic and surging.

One might surmise the band steering clear of the bar scene could have something to do with their Christian upbringing. Not so, according to Doughty, who quickly shoots down the label Thirsty Forest Animals are a "Christian rock band."

"We went to a Christian school," he said. "I feel there are better ways to show you are a Christian than through Christian rock. It has such a bad feeling to it."

Thirsty Forest Animals will perform Nov. 11 at The Shelter, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For information, call 961-MELT.

Mountain" and "Ave Maria." The devil, wings spread like a huge bat, resurrects ghostly skeletons from their graves before being put at bay by the first rays of morning sunlight. The devil's facial characteristics were reportedly based on Bela Lugosi's.

Not all of "Fantasia" works this well. Beethovan's "Pastoral," sporting an Art Deco look, represents the cornier aspects of Disney's cinema. Even the well-drawn dinosaur segment, one of the few that really holds kids' attention, grows overly melodramatic.

Audiences were confused by "Fantasia" in 1940. High-brow audiences didn't find it artistic enough, while wider audiences were scared away by its artistic pretensions.

WALT DISNEY'S $3 million experiment came during the studio's lowest financial solvency and didn't show a profit until years later, when '60s audiences found its content most enjoyable after smoking marijuana.

The re-release of "Fantasia" is something special. Color has been restored, along with the square image which prevents the top and bottom from getting lopped off.

screen studio epics to subjective, interior films now so widely prized.

That small band of rebels evolved new techniques necessitated by low-budgets and lack of studio background or training. Now, however, success has given them access to mainstream money and major personalities.

THAT'S NOT to say that they have the clout of Eddie Murphy or Sylvester Stallone. When it came to the first film made from a Simone de Beauvoir novel in 1984, "The Blood of Others," Canadian co-producers John Kemeny and Denis Heroux ("Quest for Fire" and "Atlantic City") had to scramble to raise the $7 million budget.

Their creative solution was an international one involving several scripts shot simultaneously but for different release dates in France, the United States and Canada. The video available Oct. 25 is the two-hour American theatrical release

HBO screened the four-hour version in the fall of 1984 and the six-hour cut was designed as a mini-series. The cast reflects the interest of international backers with American actress Jodie Foster taking the lead as Helene Bertrand, a dress designer in Paris just before (1938) World War II. She is employed by Madame Gigi (Stephane Audran), a real operator. A well-known French actress, Audran is the ex-wife of director Claude Chabrol.

GRADING THE MOVIES

back with Quigley to escape Marston. They befriend a tribe of Aborigines, run into a pack of dingoes and enjoy many late-night camp fires. Quigley becomes a hero for his valiant defense of the Aborigines attacked by Marston's posse and the plot is neatly tied together in an unbelievable and unsatisfying ending.

Acting and dialogue seem phony and out of place with Marston's distorted, painful smirk and Quigley's thick, unappealing, Old West accent. Plot elements will be recognized readily — they're borrowed from numerous other films.

Although one purpose of the film is to raise a moral question about the treatment of the Aborigines, the approach is weak. The fact than an American is depicted as a crusader for Aborigine rights and the Australians as mass murderers is paradoxical considering the genocide of native Americans in that period of American history.

Though "Quigley Down Under" had high hopes of delivering a message in an atmosphere of fun, in the end its poor acting, trite dialogue and overly familiar plot elements leave viewers unsatisfied. (Reviewed by Brian Dunn)

In 1968 George Romero got tired of filming commercials and lensed a black-and-white, low-budget horror epic, "Night of the Living Dead." It was funny in its own bizzare and slightly gruesome way. It quickly became a cult hit and spawned full-color sequels. The gag wore off, but the fascination with zombies and gore continues so be prepared for a gross tour de force in the 1990 remake of "Night of the Living Dead" (R).

"Death Warrent" (B-, R, 87 minutes).

STREET CRACKS

She trades books for the limelight

By Rebecca Haynes
staff writer

Brett Butler unofficially began her comedy career at the age of 8, much to the chagrin of her Georgia elementary school teachers.

But she waited another 16 years before officially beginning a career that has now spanned the past eight years on the comedy circuit.

"My mother encouraged me since I was 8," Butler said. "She was the only hip, liberal, middle-aged southern woman I knew, and she used to write down some of the funny things my sisters and I would say or do and send them into Reader's Digest."

Butler would take those anecdotes and combine them with material of George Carlin, her favorite comedian at the time, and use them to entertain classmates.

"I just remember all of these beehive hairdos looking at me with their mouths dropped open and my mother laughing in the background," she said. "My family has always been incredibly supportive."

Although she was born and raised in Marietta, Ga., Butler opted for a move to the Big Apple a few years back.

"IT JUST seemed like the thing to do," she said. "It was a big adjustment, but the rewards have been 100-fold. There's an edge here that wasn't really indigenous to the area where I grew up."

She likes the East Coast mentality, and says she's finding her comedy voice amidst the intellectual stimulation the New York atmosphere provides.

"I'm really leaning into the political and societal quirks," Butler said. "And when I say societal quirks I mean things like our preoccupation with how we look."

She also has some things to say about being a southern woman who relocated to New York City, and said her material is definitely adult-oriented, although not profane.

"I can't make statements about politicians without having something funny to say," Butler said. "People are surprised by my liberalism. They see my name and they think, 'Oh a woman from the South,' and they automatically come to certain conclusions.

"BUT THE people at my shows usually take it (her liberalism) pretty well. I think nowadays the only people who can afford to buy tickets are Republicans and as long as I have a punch line at the end they seem to forgive me."

Butler recently returned from a stint at the Edinborough Arts Festival and will perform in London for 10 days before her upcoming Detroit appearance.

Nominated for "Funniest Female Stand-Up" at the 1989 American Comedy Awards, Butler has also made appearances on The Tonight Show, The Joan Rivers Show and HBO Live from Montreal. She also worked as a writer and performer on Dolly Parton's television show.

Her first appearance on The Tonight Show three years ago changed her life, she said.

"It raised my level of credibility and respect in the business," she said.

And she jokes about the appearances she made on the game show Hollywood Squares.

"YES, THAT was an artistic pinnacle I'd never hoped to reach," she said, laughing. "People on the New York subways recognized me for a year after that."

Butler is also working on a concurrent career as a short story author, and admits that although she loves her work in comedy, she doesn't wish to travel from club to club for the rest of her life.

"Things have gotten much better from when I started," she said. "I think I did 500 shows the first year and 500 the second year I was in the business."

Her husband, a New York attorney, is very supportive, she said.

"He encourages my jokes, and when I say jokes I mean I talk about real relationship issues," she said. "The things I say may not always put him in the best light, but he says if it's funny, use it.

"Generally speaking people don't pay to come to hear a funny woman, they come to hear someone funny, period," Butler said. "I do think audiences have more curbed expectations of what a woman comedian will be like.

"I think I'm unique. I don't think there's another woman headliner who does political comedy. Elaine Boosler might disagree with me, but I don't know anybody out there's who's quite like me."

Brett Butler will appear at the Mainstreet Comedy Showcase Roadshow at the Ramada Heritage Center, 17201 Northline Road, Southgate, at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25. Tickets are $8. Call 283-4400 for show information. On Friday and Saturday, Oct. 26-27, she'll appear at Ann Arbor's Mainstreet Comedy Showcase. Friday shows are at 8:30 and 11 p.m., with Saturday performances scheduled for 7, 9 and 11 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 996-9080. The club is at 314 E. Liberty, underneath Seva Restaurant.

Brett Butler was doing comedy at the age of eight, but waited until her 20s to being working the comedy circuit.

"A GATHERING OF FRIENDS"
Sunday, October 28 Hill Auditorium
Michigan Union Ticket Office & all Ticketmaster outlets

How to win at the numbers game.

The game is newspaper advertising — and the rules are changing. Rates are up in the Detroit News and Free Press. Suburban circulation is down. And all around town, advertisers are wondering what numbers to trust — and where to place their media dollars. What should you do?

LUCKY U PICK 'EM

Beware of smoke and mirrors.

Right now, the News and Free Press circulation is unstable at best. On the other hand, SPRING's network of 39 Detroit suburban newspapers delivers to more than 500,000 households — and that's a real number.

How do we know? All SPRING newspapers are audited. Every year, the circulation figures for each SPRING newspaper are verified by either CAC or ABC — two of the industry's most highly-respected independent auditors.

No slippery stuff here. SPRING's numbers are tested, tried, and true.

Place your bet on SPRING.

Once you've studied the numbers, we're sure you'll agree: SPRING is a sure winner.

SPRING's circulation is solid and stable. It's audited. And it represents more than one million readers who have the means to buy what you sell.

No matter how you figure it — those are very good odds, indeed.

See what's behind the numbers.

OK — so dazzling numbers can be misleading. And, when it comes to newspaper circulation figures, you want more than quantity. You want quality.

We've got it. SPRING's one million readers are some of the most affluent consumers around. SPRING newspapers go to suburbs with the spending power to buy more cars, condos, boats, bikes, appliances, apparel, gizmos, and gadgets than most other Michigan communities combined.

Best of all, SPRING delivers this upscale suburban market at a lower cost per thousand than either the News or the Free Press.

The inside of a Cinema 'n' Drafthouse reflects the philosophy of combining movie going with comfortable dining and drinking experience and is designed for young professionals, 21-35 years of age.

Eat, drink and . . . enjoy the movie

By Annahid Derbabian
special writer

Just when you thought all the fun things in life were already invented, something new and fresh appears.

Enter the Wayside Cinema 'n' Drafthouse in the Ann Arbor/Ypsilanti area.

"It's a new entertainment concept for Michigan," said Garry Smyth, who along with Jon Kirn are managing partners of the new dining/drinking/movie watching emporium.

Take some friends and saunter into Wayside's art deco theater/restaurant. Ease into comfortable, movable, swivel chairs at round cabaret-style tables. A waiter appears, takes your beverage — beer, wine or pop — order while you peruse the menu choices. The lights dim, but not too dark, and suddenly a popular movie begins, shown on a full-sized screen.

Michigan's first Wayside Cinema 'n' Drafthouse will open Nov. 1 in the old Wayside Cinema on Washtenaw Avenue. Its philosophy of combining movie going with comfortable dining and drinking experience is designed for young professionals, 21-35 years of age.

"I'm originally from Washington, D.C., and I've been going to the Cinema 'n' Drafthouse ever since I was able to drink," Kirn said. "It's inexpensive and a lot of fun. When I came to Michigan, I looked for something similar and found that it just didn't exist."

THE ORIGINAL Cinema 'n' Drafthouse opened in Orlando, Fla., in 1975. Its immediate success prompted a franchise start-up a few years later. Today, 19 Cinema 'n' Drafthouse establishments exist throughout the southeast and southern United States.

Smyth and Kirn came together in 1989 as partners, due to their enthusiasm about Wayside and a shared belief that Michigan would welcome and enjoy such an activity.

"When I was first exposed to the Cinema 'n' Drafthouse in Orlando, I thought to myself, 'This is the best way to see a movie that I've ever come across,' " Smyth said.

Movable tables and chairs allow friends and families to assemble themselves in any fashion and enjoy the experience of eating, drinking and movie as close together or as far apart as they desire.

"The theme is art deco," Smyth said. "A lot of glass block and neon in the lobby. Indirect lighting and Charlie Chaplin motif can be found inside the theater."

The movies are intermediate run, which means they are accessible to Wayside six to eight weeks after their first release.

Standard, state-of-the-art projection and sound equipment is used. The screen is the size of those found in theaters. The 13,000-square-foot building houses two 200-seat theater/restaurants, with shared kitchen and lobby space.

THE CUSTOMER chooses one of two movies being shown at the Wayside. Each movie is shown twice each evening weekdays, with a midnight showing on weekends.

"On the weekends, between the late show and the midnight show, we offer a live, stand-up comedian in each theater," Smyth said. "They perform for 15 minutes each and then switch theaters and perform again."

And although the age minimum for the Drafthouse will be 21, there will be exceptions, Smyth said.

"We plan on running specials during the Christmas holidays, spring break and summers as well as special events for families, children and the elderly," he said.

Smyth and Kirn estimate that customers spend about $7.50 each at the Wayside. That includes the admission price — $2 Sunday-Thursday and $3 Friday-Saturday — with the balance food and beverage.

"It's an inexpensive night out," Smyth said.

The menu consists of sandwiches, salads and desserts, along with a variety of drinks.

You'll find party platters filled with such foods as baby back ribs, spicy chicken wings, potato skins and teriyaki chicken strips. There's also the usual nachos, totilla chips and salsa,, popcorn, veggie platters, hamburgers, clubs, subs and sandwiches, coney dogs and pizza.

FOR DESSERT, there's chocolate suicide cake, cheese cake, root beer float or hot fudge sundae.

Beer is served in chilled mugs or the pitcher. Wines, wine coolers and champagne can be ordered by the glass, carafe or bottle. Soft drinks come in regular and jumbo sizes, and there's also iced tea and coffee.

Waiters and Watresses walk among the tables throughout the evening, taking orders, serving food and quietly removing dishes.

"The service is what you would find at a casual restaurant, such as a Bennigan's and TGIF," Smyth said. "You don't need any special skill to go to the Wayside. You don't need any special attire. You don't need to make reservations. You don't need to spend a lot of money.

"Everyone knows how to eat, drink and dress casually. It's for everyone."

Smyth and Kirn also plan on featuring special events, such as close circuit broadcasts of boxing matches, NBA games University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University away games as well as evenings targeted for special groups.

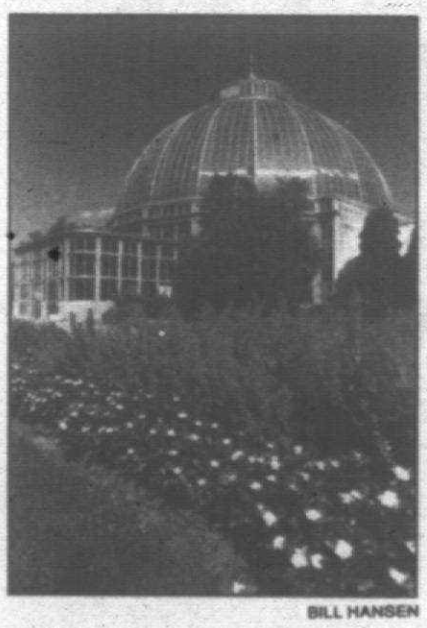
Belle Isle Conservatory reflects a lush world



BILL HANSEN

The glass dome of the Whitcomb Conservatory is a fitting cover for the showhouse, where flowers bloom by the thousands.

"Basically, we sit down and think about what would look good (when planting the gardens)," Justus said. "If it looks good and grows well, we go with it. We try not to get real fancy."

Maybe they don't try hard enough. The gardens and the conservatory are the only places in Michigan in the "Don't Miss" section of "The American Garden Guidebook," which lists the finest gardens in the nation.

Justus and his staff of 16 full-time employees and 10 summer youth workers have to make the most of their limited budget.

Detroit's financial woes leave little for such amenities as gardens. "None of us is getting rich," Justus said.) Still, the crew does and impressive job. Not only do the gardens generate their own flowers, but also supply plants for all the city's municipal offices and builders' shows held at Cobo Hall and more than 200 flower boxes and beds throughout the city.

The gardens and the conservatory are the only places in Michigan in the 'Don't Miss' section of 'The American Garden Guidebook,' which lists the finest gardens in the nation.

And not to be overlooked is the huge floral clock at the entrance to the island. The gardens supply more than 3,000 flowers for the 30-foot-wide clock face.

ALL OF THESE plants, of course, aren't grown in the conservatory and formal gardens. Behind the scenes (actually across the street from the aquarium) are the 20 greenhouses where thousands of plants are nurtured, including one of the largest orchid collections in America.

Aside from the six flower shows, Justus said the conservatory and gardens offer a peaceful retreat year-round.

"In winter, people come for the solitude," he said.

And the gardens are large enough to handle the summer throngs. About 500,000 people visit the gardens annually.

HOROSCOPE

October 21 through October 27

By C.C Clark

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Your romance sector seems a little off. Don't worry, this phase will soon pass. Use discretion when dealing with a loved one's quandaries.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
It is important for you to channel your creative energies in a productive and informative way. Don't gamble with your hard-earned finances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Look at the facts and know that you are your own best judge of character. This is a good time to party, but be wary of the opposite sex.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Listening could quite possibly be the most important activity you participate in this week. Use others' ideas to make wise decisions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Family members could bring havoc into your love life. Of course, they don't realize what they are doing, and it is important you let them know.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Work plans move ahead on a smooth course. Friends appreciate your social graces in a sticky situation. A chance to improve becomes evident.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
A friend's indecision could cause pain for others. Talk to this person and tell them what they are doing. They really don't understand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Take matters into your own hands concerning family situations. Don't shy away from confrontations. Get your facts straight and then go for it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Don't be overly critical of others. It seems easy to pick on those you love, but you must look at yourself to see where the real problems lie.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
A change in plans is in store for this week, but don't let that throw you. You are ready for just about anything that comes your way.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Present yourself well to superiors this week. They could be judging you for future projects and may be determining how well you could handle them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Keep your temper this week, no matter what obstacles you may face. Travel plans could inspire you to seek the happiness you deserve.

'WIOU' brings humor, wit to dramatic newsroom setting

By Mary Ann Townsend

WIOU marks a huge turning point in actor John Shea's career.

His first venture into series television is set to debut Wednesday, Oct. 24, on CBS, unless the World Series requires a seventh game.

Throughout his acting career, the Yale Drama School graduate has garnered an impressive list of Broadway and feature film credits, with Broadway's 1976 production of Yentl and filmdom's 1982 Missing among them.

But a recent painful event, the loss of a close relative, prompted Shea to put work on hold for six months to re-evaluate his life and the direction his career had taken. He realized he needed to make his name more well known, but he did not want to sacrifice his standards of quality in the process. He's hoping, and with good reason, that WIOU will help him attain that goal.

"I wanted to do this now instead of later, because when someone close to you dies, you realize just how fragile the whole thing is. It sort of hits you in a place that you never really knew before. It sort of wakes you up and shakes you up and you start thinking very, very seriously about how you're spending your time and what you want to accomplish," Shea explained.

While his acting credits are impressive, Shea said he realized he had little name recognition, and that was hurting his chances to pursue his talents for directing.

"I felt like I'd been orbiting. I've been doing a lot of things that are offbeat these last few years, kind of off-Broadway things and art films, and things that weren't particularly commercial or successful or mainstream. And I realized that it had come time in my career where I had to do something like that."

Having been identified with heavy roles such as the title character in HBO's The Impossible Spy, a young American killed in the Chilean revolution in the feature film Missing, and a Nazi in NBC's Hitler's SS: Portrait in Evil, to name a few, Shea said he looked for a role that blended comedy with drama. After reading 30 scripts for this fall's new shows, Shea knew there was only one role that fit him, that of news director Hank Zaret in WIOU.

Zaret is trying to pull a fading big-city television station out of the ratings cellar while coping with the egos and eccentricities of his staff. The storylines can focus on current social and political topics, which appealed to Shea's serious side, while at the same time provide humorous moments.

As icing on the cake, WIOU boasts an impressive cast, including Helen Shaver, Mariette Hartley, Phil Morris, Harris Yulin and Dick Van Patten.

Shea researched the role by observing the news staff at KCBS in Los Angeles. He found some similarities between him and his character.

"It's a delicate dilemma that my character gets into, and will have to constantly walk this tightrope to make this station successful and make it first place without compromising the ethical standards, the journalistic standards that he was brought up with," Shea said.

"And that's a problem that I face," the actor continued, discussing putting his name into a mainstream project in which he could take pride.

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

It all began at the Novi Chamber of Commerce luncheon when Steve Myers and I sat next to one another. We shared enthusiasm for each of our careers. Steve Myers and his wife Izumi Suzuki own a consulting firm dedicated to eliminating cultural barriers that could hinder business relations between small American and Japanese firms. This in itself I found fascinating, but more so the energy which Steve Myers radiated. I immediately shared with him the wonderful opportunity offered by Community Television. He was pleased because the experience could include his entire family.

As a result of his dedication and his family's enthusiasm, the Myers are a cable television family. Together they produce a cable television program entitled 'Junior Japanese'. Son, Ken, who is ten years old, instructs the class. Daughter, June, helps in the audience of children. Mother, Izumi, prepares the content while pappa Steve is in the Control-room.

"This all started out as a father-son activity," says Steve, "but soon the whole family got involved." Producing 'Junior Japanese' enables the entire family the opportunity to work together before and after the show. The entire experience reinforces their belief that language learning can be fun.

In addition to the Metrovision viewing area, the following channels and stations have expressed an interest in showing 'Junior Japanese': GRTV in Grand Rapids; Booth Communications in Birmingham; MetroVision of Livonia; TV22 in Saline and Omnicom in Canton.

The production team included Bridget Dean, Amy Hamlin, Nancy Covert, Izumi Suzuki and Akiko Sakuma who worked on the course content; Keith Croket and Kathy Friedricks put together the video crew. Amy Hamlin was an educational consultant. All were sponsored by Lee Mamola Architects and World Book/Childcraft.

'Junior Japanese' is delightful to watch. Learning is easy. When, as an adult, you watch children who are eager to learn and not afraid to make a mistake, it is hard not to pick up a pad and pencil and join in.

Even Cable News-Network found the curriculum and unique blend of student-teacher-family a pleasing human interest story. Ken teaches Japanese phrases, customs and vocabulary to his students as well as demonstrating Tae Kwan Do and origami, the Japanese art of paper folding.

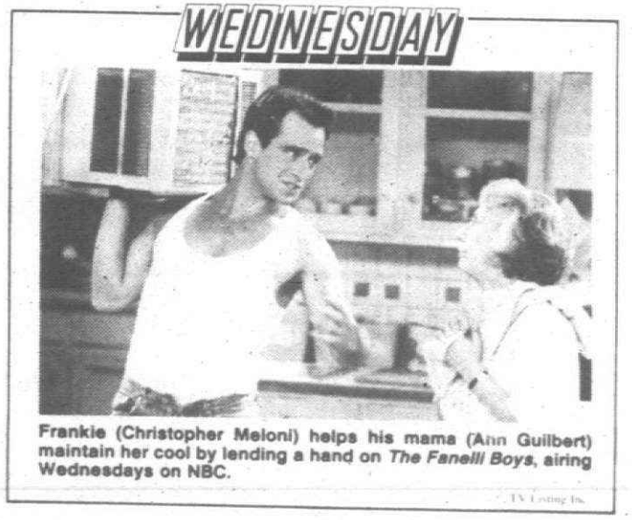
This program has been part of the Cranbrook P.M. program and Novi Community Education.

For a period of time the Myers family kept the control room humming as they also produced with other community residents an art and culture talk show called "Vladislav at Victor's". The program was taped at Victor's Restaurant in Novi. Concert pianist Vladislav Kovalsky and Virginia Dickerman, professional tap and jazz dance instructor co-hosted the series. They interviewed painters, sculptors, performing artists, and museum curators. The audience could sup at Victors while the program was being taped. Kovalsky is an artist-in-residence at Wayne State University and has given concerts throughout Europe and the U.S. Virginia Dickerman still owns her own Dance Studio and lectures on the power of positive thinking.

Once again Steve Myers understood the delicate balance of blending talent, business and community in a non-commercial environment. Hard work and a lot of time are bottomline factors to every show. Including family, friends and business contacts is also a challenging and rewarding benefit of the creative television involvement.

Ken Myers

The Myers family are a perfect example of how to appreciate the opportunities surrounding us. How many times do we go by something and say, "I should do that" and don't because we are too busy. What we find through such an active family is that if one does do now, without delay then all is done and experiences nurture opportunity.



Frankie (Christopher Meloni) helps his mama (Ann Guilbert) maintain her cool by lending a hand on The Fanelli Boys, airing Wednesdays on NBC.

Superstar Burt Reynolds makes a TV comeback

Small-town story draws big-name talent

By AMY SCHMIDT

When ABC moved Burt Reynolds and "B.L. Stryker" from Monday nights to Saturdays, the death knell was struck. Reynolds knew it and recalls a conversation he had with "Columbo's" Peter Falk: "We had lunch and I said, 'Do you think we're on the wrong night, Peter?' And he said, 'People keep asking me when we're going to bring 'Columbo' back.'"

Reynolds decided to throw the towel into ABC's ring and try something else. And when word got out that Burt Reynolds was interested in doing a half-hour comedy, he found no shortage of suitors.

Nabbing Reynolds was no easy task, says 'Evening Shade' creator and executive producer, Linda Bloodworth-Thomason. (She is also the creative force behind CBS' hit show 'Designing Women.') "He had an encampment in his front yard. I mean, I had to wade through people almost in tents to get inside. When I walked into Burt's house, he was inundated with gifts. He had a really nice leather jacket from Columbia Pictures, and he had received phone calls in the middle of the night from people named Peters and Gubers, or whatever their names are — and all kinds of movie deals and game shows. Piles of them."

It wasn't Reynolds' most lucrative offer, but he liked Bloodworth-Thomason's work and the premise of the show: "I wanted to play a man with a family because that's kind of the way I am now. I can identify with it," says the actor, husband to actress Loni Anderson and father of their one son, Quinton Anderson Reynolds.

Reynolds also remembers growing up in a small town in Florida, not unlike Evening Shade, Ark. "I went to school barefooted every day until I was in the eighth grade... I was a big rebel; I was constantly in trouble all the time. And then I found athletics." He later attended Florida State University on a football scholarship.

On "Evening Shade," Reynolds plays a retired pro-football player who moves his family back to his hometown, where he coaches the local football team. Evening Shade, Ark. really does exist. Located 240 miles northeast of Little Rock, it boasts a population of 360, and has one grocery store and three filling stations. It doesn't really have a football team, but it does have a basketball team.

Reynolds has been a big drawing card for the show. "Evening Shade's" cast — Marilu Henner, Elizabeth Ashley, Hal Holbrook, Charles Durning and Ossie Davis, to name a few — is impressive. Also, Bloodworth-Thomason hadn't written a script, but CBS signed the show anyway.

But why should a big-name star like Reynolds do a comedy series at all? Why not revamp his movie career? Reynolds is both candid and glib: "I had a wonderful movie career which I don't think I'll ever match again. I can't go back and have that kind of success again. So, I would hope that I could have some success in this kind of medium."

"When people talk about the dead-end of my career, and people certainly love to talk about it," he jokes, "and they make analogies of me and Tom Selleck not having a hit movie — I love Tom Selleck, and I think his acting style is wonderful. It's mine," he kids. No question about it, Reynolds has a good instinct for comedy.

ABC debuts World of Discovery with "Cougar: Ghost of the Rockies," Sunday.

STAR NOTES

Series not in plans for Dick Van Dyke

By Amy Schmidt

Dick Van Dyke is the first to admit that drama's not his forte. But when NBC offered to cast him as a publishing magnate in Keys to the Kingdom, he couldn't resist. "People will find it interesting watching me trying to play a strong man."

When asked if he would do another comedy series, Van Dyke hesitated. The thought of a 15-hour-a-day grind gave him pause. Besides, he said, he is coming up on his sixty-fifth birthday. Also, that would leave little time for Dick's favorite pastime — sailing.

Experience has shown it would be unlikely that Van Dyke could replicate the success of the The Dick Van Dyke Show, anyway. The New Dick Van Dyke Show dragged along for three years while Van Dyke and Company aired only one season. The actor then briefly co-starred on The Carol Burnett Show.

When The Dick Van Dyke Show ended it seemed Dick's film career would skyrocket. That didn't happen either. Nonetheless, he will always be remembered for Mary Poppins, Chitty Chitty Bang Bang and Bye Bye Birdie.

But it ain't over 'til the fat lady sings. Van Dyke guest starred on The Golden Girls last season. This season he will appear on Coach as the older brother of his real-life younger brother, Jerry Van Dyke.

TIME OUT

Super Bowl legends come head-to-head

By Steve Paschal

It will be a battle of the Super Bowl legends on CBS Sunday, Oct. 21, when the Pittsburgh Steelers take on the San Francisco 49ers.

The NFC 49ers are the reigning Super Bowl champions after demolishing the Denver Broncos 55-10 in Super Bowl XXIV.

The Steelers, who were the undisputed "team of the 1970s" with an unprecedented four Super Bowl trophies, beat the Los Angeles Rams 31-17 in Super Bowl XIV. Then, the 49ers won the NFL championship in 1982 and again in 1989-90 to become known as the "team of the 1980s."

Now the Steelers believe they are ready to challenge the 49ers for the title, "team of the 1990s."

Also on Sunday, NBC offers a doubleheader of regional telecasts beginning with either Dallas at Tampa Bay, New Orleans at Houston or Philadelphia at Washington. The second game will feature either Phoenix and the Giants or Atlanta and the Rams.

ABC's Monday Night Football will showcase two other AFC teams that are itching to get a shot at the NFC champion on Jan. 27 in Tampa Bay. The Cincinnati Bengals, heartbreak losers to the 49ers just two years ago, travel to Cleveland to face the Browns, who are trying to overcome three losses to Denver in the AFC Championship over the last four years.

CABLE NEWS

Jessica Lange hosts Vivien Leigh profile

By Christy Bergslien

Jessica Lange will host Vivien Leigh: Scarlett and Beyond on Monday, Oct. 22. This one-hour TNT special will trace Leigh's legendary 30-year career — from her Gone with the Wind triumph to her emotional problems later in life.

The Disney Channel airs two original presentations based on classics by Mark Twain and Charles Dickens. First, on Sunday, Oct. 21, Tom Sawyer (Raphael Sbarge) and Huckleberry Finn (Mitchell Anderson) reunite as grown-ups to investigate a murder in Back to Hannibal: The Return of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. Directly following will be the first of the four-part miniseries The Life and Adventures of Nicholas Nickleby, performed by the Emmy Award-winning Royal Shakespeare Company. Kenneth Branagh will introduce the four episodes comprising the 8-1/2-hour adaptation of Dickens' novel.

Patrick Swayze plays a Chicago cop using his Kentucky hillbilly wiles to track down a killer in Next of Kin, debuting Sunday, Oct. 21, on HBO.

Who played the Clays in 1962 film?

By Steven Alan McGaw

Questions:

1. Name the 1962 film about an unhappy couple named Joe and Kirsten Clay. Now, who played the roles?

2. In that same year, '62, a certain actress was nominated for Best Supporting Actress. (She didn't win; Patty Duke did.) The woman in question now stars in a popular, fairly long-running series on CBS. a.) Name the actress. b.) Name the movie. c.) Name the series.

3. Let's go back two years. In 1960, the Best Actor and Best Supporting Actress trophies went to performers in the same film. The actress later went on to star in a memorable, if somewhat lamebrained, series on ABC in the early '70s. In the show, her stepson played her son. a.) Name the actor. b.) Name the actress. c.) Name the film. d.) What was the series? e.) Identify her stepson.

Answers:

1. Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick in The Days of Wine and Roses.

2. Angela Lansbury was nominated for her chilling portrayal in The Manchurian Candidate. Lansbury now is seen in Murder, She Wrote.

3. Burt Lancaster and Shirley Jones were recognized for their performances in the classic Elmer Gantry. Jones went on to star in The Partridge Family with stepson David Cassidy.

BITS AND PIECES

Offbeat 'MacGyver' episode to feature variety of guests

A host of well-known stars and character actors joins series star Richard Dean Anderson in a wildly offbeat episode of MacGyver that has recently completed filming in Vancouver, B.C. The episode, titled "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad Nomad," will be telecast during the 1990-91 season on ABC. Guesting are John Anderson, Dick Butkus, James Doohan, Henry Gibson, Sandra Gould, Richard Kiel, Rich Little, Marion Ramsey, Marion Ross, Abe Vigoda, Jesse White and Wendy G. Williams.

The creators of The Golden Girls and Empty Nest are developing a new half-hour comedy for ABC called Good and Evil. Susan Harris will create and write the series that looks at the good and evil elements of a family, specifically twin brothers. One brother is innocent while the other is evil incarnate.

Carole King and Melissa Manchester collaborated on the theme song heard on The Trials of Rosie O'Neill, the new CBS drama series starring Sharon Gless. King composed the song, which Manchester sings over the credits.

Singer/songwriter Martika joins Steven Bauer in the cast of Wiseguy for the series' first six-hour arc. She plays Dahlia Mendez, a latin night club singer who lives with disbarred attorney Michael Santana, played by Bauer. In preparation for the role, Martika recorded her own renditions of some classic torch songs, which she will perform throughout the arc.

Edward Woodward sees the premiere of his new detective series Over My Dead Body, Friday on CBS.

Visilios Choulos, a lawyer representing Sammy Davis Jr.'s family, labels the headlines on several tabloids as untrue. The late singer left an estate worth $6 million to $8 million. Mrs. Davis is also working on prospective books, movies and documentaries about her life with Davis.

Pretty Marg Helgenberger stars in China Beach, ABC's acclaimed Vietnam War drama, Saturdays.

SOAP TALK

The arts kept Billy Hufsey out of trouble

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I would love to meet Emilio from Days of Our Lives. I always watch him when he is on the show; he's so good looking. Could you please tell me more about him? —Alma Olivas, Big Spring, Texas

Dear Alma: Billy Hufsey (Emilio, Days of Our Lives) began his career on the popular prime-time series Fame, where he played Christopher Donlon. The 26-year-old actor was happy to make the switch to daytime, and he really enjoys playing an adult role, rather than a high school student.

Born in Brookpark, Ohio, he spent his youth in a mixed ethnic neighborhood, fostering the self-reliance required to survive and flourish. The youngest child in a close-knit German/Irish family, Hufsey found the arts a means to express his inner turmoil and idealism, without getting into trouble.

He is both strong and graceful, which has helped him become a No. 1 athlete and dancer. In fact, during high school he became an undefeated welterweight Golden Glove competitor and enjoyed honors as the school's "Outstanding Athlete of the Year." Then, in 1979, he won the United States Singles Dance Championship.

After testing his wings in New York, Hufsey decided to head for Hollywood. According to the actor, he had only $100 in his pocket and a desire for acting. His desire paid off when he landed the role on Fame.

"Christopher Donlon was the closest character to my real self," commented Hufsey. "He had the same struggles that I have in my life. But growing up, I have known guys like Emilio and I understand who they are and how to play them."

Apart from his abilities as an actor and dancer, Hufsey is also a gifted singer and musician who plays guitar, drums, saxophone, trumpet and piano. When not consumed with his acting obligations, he enjoys dating and practicing karate and judo.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

FAMILY FAIRE

Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn grow up

By Amy Schmidt

Mark Twain once remarked, "Someday it may seem worthwhile to take up the story of the young ones and see what they turned out to be." The Disney Channel does just that with two of Twain's most beloved characters in Back to Hannibal: The Return of Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, debuting Sunday, Oct. 21.

The one-hour world premiere sees Tom Sawyer, played by Raphael Sbarge, and Huckleberry Finn, portrayed by actor Mitchell Anderson, into adulthood. Tom is a fledgling lawyer in Chicago, and Huck is a struggling cub reporter in St. Louis. The two old friends are reunited after being summoned back to their hometown of Hannibal to investigate the murder of Becky Thatcher's (Megan Follows) husband. The prime suspect is the duo's old pal Jim, played by Paul Winfield.

Faced with the entire town angrily intent on hanging Jim, Tom and Huck meet up with a young orphan boy (Zachary Bennett) whose daring and guile reminds them of themselves in their own youth. The trio must employ some quick thinking, fast talking and brazen cunning in order to find the real killer and save Jim's life. Also co-starring in this story of adventure and intrigue are Ned Beatty, who plays The Duke of Bridgewater, and William Windom as Judge Thatcher.

Dennis Farina tries to break tough cop stereotype

By Polly Vonetes

Q: What can you tell me about an actor named Dennis Farina? How old is he? What state does he live in? Has he done anything besides Crime Story? I have tried every source possible to obtain this information, only to come up empty. You may be my last hope, don't let me down. —Scott Corl, Salem, Ohio

A: Dennis Farina was born in Chicago, Ill. on Feb. 29, 1944, and continues to make his home in Chicago. He is married and has two children. Before coming to Hollywood, he spent 18 years as a Chicago police detective. Following the demise of Crime Story and his character Mike Torello, Farina turned down a number of "tough cop" roles before accepting a small role as Jane Alexander's gambling-addicted husband in the TV movie Open Admissions because, he explains, "I wanted a role as different from Torello as possible." His next role was in Midnight Run, then he starred in NBC-TV's Blood Brothers: The Hillside Stranglers. His most recent work was in the miniseries Blind Faith.

Q: I would like the address of Bette Davis. She has been a favorite of mine since I was a little girl. Does she still send out autographed pictures of herself? —Donna Slover, Knoxville, Tenn.

A: Somewhere along the line you must have missed the news that Bette Davis succumbed to cancer at the American Hospital in Paris on Oct. 6, 1989. She was 81 years old.

Q: I saw a movie on late night TV years ago, the name of which escapes me. It starred Doug McClure and Katharine Ross and was a WWII adventure about an American GI and an Army nurse who try to escape the Japanese with a busload of children in a jungle setting. I would love to know the title of this film and whether or not it is available for rental. I would guess it was made in the late '60s. —Carol Sanderson, DeRidder, La.

A: The movie you requested has two titles, Longest Hundred Miles and Escape from Bataan. The film also starred Ricardo Montalban. A 1967 NBC made-for-television movie, I do not have it listed as available on video.

Restored to its original appearance over a 20-year period at a cost of $6.8 million, Orchestra Hall, built in 1919, now looks as nice as the Detroit Symphony sounds. The glazed colors — browns, metallic gold, green, blue, earth red — reflect the understated intent of the carefully engineered project. The founding of the DSO was begun Jan. 8, 1914, by a group of socially prominent ladies. Led by Frances Sibley, each donated $100 to cover the costs of the rental of a hall, eight rehearsals and a concert conducted by Weston Gales.

Acoustical jewel

Early conductor lit spark that led to Orchestra Hall

By Joan Boram
special writer

IT WAS a wedding to tell the grandchildren about. Instead of rice, chunks of masonry flew through the air. Accompanying the good wishes of friends and family were cries of, "Look out, they're going to blast the wall!"

It was April 23, 1919. The location was the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Woodward and Parsons, slated for demolition so a new concert hall could be erected on the Detroit church's foundation.

So great was the urgency to provide conductor Ossip Gabrilowitsch and the fledgling Detroit Symphony Orchestra with the concert hall demanded by the maestro, demolition of the church was begun while a wedding was in progress. As the bride and groom said their "I do's," part of the roof fell in.

The founding of the DSO was begun Jan. 8, 1914, by a group of socially prominent ladies. Led by Frances Sibley, each donated $100 to cover the costs of the rental of a hall, eight rehearsals and a concert conducted by Weston Gales.

PLAGUED BY a lack of public support and internal difficulties, the orchestra limped along until mid-season 1917-18, when Gales abandoned the project. For the remainder of the season, the orchestra imported guest conductors, among whom was a Russian-born pianist, Ossip Gabrilowitsch.

Gabrilowitsch was a great success and was engaged as conductor for the following season. He accepted the position with the provision that a suitable hall be built for the orchestra.

William H. Murphy, long a generous music patron, subscribed $100,000 for the project and that amount was matched by Horace E. Dodge. Other subscriptions followed. The Orchestra Hall building committee included noted Detroit architect Albert Kahn.

The designated architect was C. Howard Crane, a specialist in theatre design. Working with Gabrilowitsch, who had performed in most of Europe's major concert halls, Crane designed a dignified Renaissance building. And work was begun.

ORCHESTRA HALL had to be ready for the 1919-20 season. Workers labored into the night, by lanterns, floodlights and torches. The hall was meant to be built on the square, but that was impossible because of the church foundation.

Often, Horace Dodge would arrive on the scene to find that an "insurmountable" problem had manifested itself. Dodge, a mechanical genius, would design a solution on the spot and say, "Here, make this part by tomorrow, and see if it doesn't work."

As construction proceeded, it was frequently necessary to modify design to meet existing conditions. The acoustics of the hall are a mystery. They were not the results of acoustical technology, which didn't exist at the time, but rather an accident of construction. It's tempting to describe them as miraculous.

EXACTLY SIX months after the interrupted wedding, on Oct. 23, 1919, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra opened the season in Orchestra Hall.

A weekly newspaper, "Detroit Saturday Night," remarked, "Considering the suburban exodus of many of our most discriminating pleasure lovers . . . an appeal (was made) to the fair weather god for good road conditions." (Oct. 25, 1919).

Now 71 years young, Orchestra Hall boasts such original decor as leafy scrolls, winged cupids, ornamental grillwork, trompe l'oeil painting, faux limestone, burgundy draperies, carved moldings and cartouches. New touches include six trompe l'oeil ceiling portraits of six people significant to the hall in 1919.

New music director of DSO honed style in Soviet Union

Neeme Jarvi takes the podium to lead the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in the first of three consecutive weeks of concerts, his first as music director.

For his premiere as music director, Jarvi has chosen a program that includes Weber's "Overture to Oberon;" Hindmith's "Symphonic Metamorphoses of Themes" by Carl Maria von Weber; Hanson's "Pastorale for Oboe and Strings," Donald Baker, soloist; and Nielsen's "Symphony No. 4."

Performances are at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 3:30 p.m. Sunday at Orchestra Hall. For tickets, call 833-3700.

Jarvi began his tenure as 11th music director of the Detroit Symphony on Sept. 1, his first position with an American symphony orchestra.

Born in Estonia in 1937, he graduated from the Tallinn Music School with degrees in percussion and choral conducting. He later completed his studies in opera and symphonic conducting at the Leningrad State Conservatory. He made his conducting debut at 18 at the Kirov Theater.

In 1963, he became director of the Estonian Radio and Television Orchestra and began a 13-year tenure as chief conductor at the Tallinn Opera.

In 1971, Jarvi won first prize in the Conductors Competition in Rome. That led to invitations to conduct major orchestras worldwide. In the Soviet Union, he became chief conductor and artistic director of the Estonian State Symphony.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Clara Clemens Gabrilowitsch describes the event in her book, "My Husband, Gabrilowitsch:"

"In spite of great haste to meet an inflexible date, the magnificent architect, Mr. Robert Crane, conceived and built a concert hall that not only Detroit, but all America may be proud of . . .

"The size was exactly right, both artistically and practically. It seated 2,200 people and the acoustics filled the requirements of musical sound. The soft decorations in blue-green shades gave esthetic pleasure — in fact, one fell in love with the place."

ON CONCERT nights, Parsons was designated a one-way street. The carriage trade would arrive in their chaffeur-driven autos at the side door and go directly to their boxes. Since the balcony can only be reached through the front lobby, the hoi polloi entered from Woodward.

Each chauffeur was given a number before he drove off to park on Woodward. After the concert, an electronic device on the marquee displayed the appropriate number, signaling to the chauffeurs that their party was at the door.

Gabrilowitsch conducted the DSO for 16 triumphant seasons. Tragically, he died of cancer on Sept. 14, 1936. He was only 58. At the public funeral in Orchestra Hall, the orchestra played Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," as Gabrilowitsch had wished.

Gabrilowitsch had assisted in the foundation of the Palestine Orchestra. A grove of 1,100 trees was planted in his honor in Palestine. The Gabrilowitsch Grove stands today, in Upper Galilee.

IT WAS the depths of the Depression and the orchestra was struggling for survival.

On July 17, 1939, the orchestra played its last concert at Orchestra Hall and moved to the new Masonic Auditorium. The magnificent hall, where Heifitz, Swarthout, Stravinsky, Rubenstin and George Gershwin had performed, became a first-run movie house, re-named the Town Theatre.

There was a brief golden period, 1943-52, when, as the Paradise Theatre, the hall featured jazz greats such as Count Basie and Duke Ellington.

From 1953-56, the grand old building served as the Church of Our Prayer. It then was abandoned to the elements and to vandals.

The DSO, under maestro Antol Dorati, continued to record there, however, and groups such as the Cantata Society of Detroit rehearsed there, holding umbrellas to protect themselves from raindrops and from the pigeons who infested the crumbling interior.

IN 1959, the hall was sacked by vandals, chairs were smashed, ropes cut, and scenery and curtains torn.

On Sept. 17, 1970, Richard Magar, leasing manager for the Professional Plaza, across the street from Orchestra Hall, looked out his window and saw ladders leaning against the Parsons wall of the building.

Inquiring, he learned that the hall was scheduled to be demolished in two weeks, to make way for a fast-food outlet.

Mager contacted DSO bassoonist Paul Ganson, who had joined the orchestra in 1969. The two of them convinced Gino's Pizza, Inc. to sell the hall for $100,000.

All they needed was a down payment of $25,000 to secure a mortgage.

IN 1971, David Dodge, an architect, a music lover, and a grandson of Horace Dodge, flew back to the United States from Switzerland for the express purpose of saving Orchestra Hall. His check for $30,000 saved the day. In 1971, Orchestra Hall was placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

A volunteer group, Save Orchestra Hall, Inc., was formed to raise money to pay for restoration. Concerts were offered to acquaint the citizens of Detroit with the acoustical marvel in their midst.

Paul Ganson recalls a concert given by pianist James Tocco in June 1971, to show off the hall's acoustics: "In the middle of a particularly delicate passage, Tocco was accompanied by the 'Coo, coo' of pigeons."

Today, Save Orchestra Hall owns the facility. Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall, Inc., a partnership between the boards of Save Orchestra Hall and the DSO, operates it. (Yes, the pigeons are long gone.)

IT TOOK 20 years, but the Orchestra Hall that thrills music lovers today is almost identical to the hall that Clara Gabrilowitsch fell in love with in 1919.

The work was done in two phases:

The first, costing over $5.3 million, covered the necessities, including a new stage and new stage and aisle lighting, a new sprinkler system and expansion of restrooms.

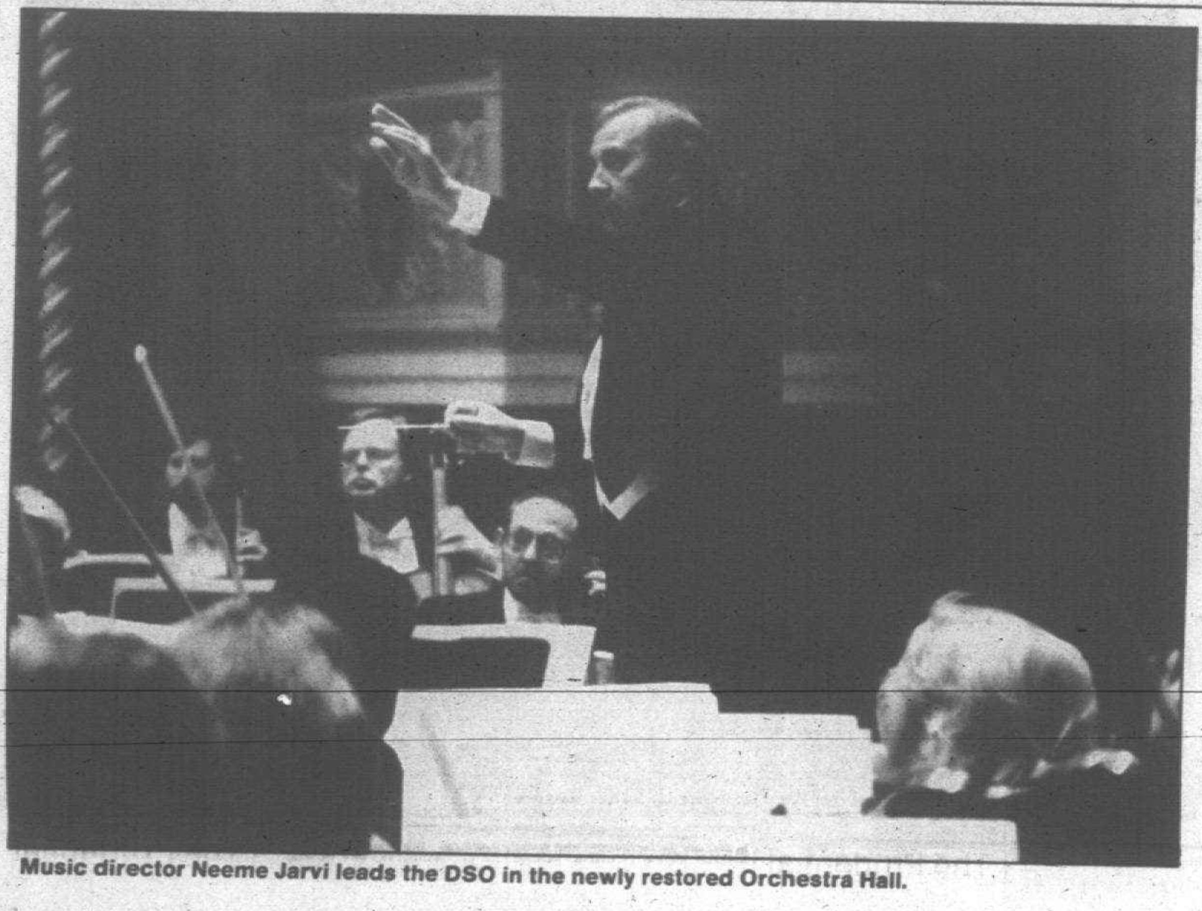
The second phase, almost as miraculous as the original four-month construction, cost $1.5 million. In only nine weeks, the interior of the hall was restored to its original elegance.

AIDED BY paint preservationist (and former Detroiter) Darla Olson, colors were researched and carefully matched. Working from old photos to reproduce the original artwork, Evergreen Painting Studios of New York effected the decorative painting. Twelve painters and one supervisor worked 10 hours a day, five days a week, to complete the painting.

Like the acoustics, the visual effect can't be described; it has to be experienced.

Paul Ganson, certainly the single person most responsible for the preservation and restoration of Detroit's treasure, said: "No matter how often a musician plays a great piece of music, there's always something to discover: some nuance that has escaped attention before."

"And every time I walk into the hall, as many times as I've been here, as closely as I've been involved in the restoration, I see something new and wonderful."



Music director Neeme Jarvi leads the DSO in the newly restored Orchestra Hall.

Jarvi in full swing at the helm

JARVI EMIGRATED to the U.S. in 1980, making his American orchestra debut with the New York Philharmonic. Since then, he has conducted major orchestras in North America and Europe.

He's equally renowned for his opera conducting, including with the Metropolitan Opera.

This year, he conducted with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Berlin Philharmonic, the Cleveland Orchestra and the Boston Symphony.

Jarvi has won awards for his recordings of the complete Prokofiev symphonies as well as his ongoing project to record all of Sibelius' orchestral music.

Jarvi will be the guest at the pre-concert conversation at 7 p.m. Friday in the ANR Pipeline Friday Night Concert Series. There is no additional charge to attend the conversation, hosted by writer and music critic Lawrence B. Johnson.

Johnson will be guest for the AT&T Thursday Night Concert Series lecture, also at 7 p.m.

Activities of Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall are made possible in part with support of the City of Detroit Council of the Arts, the National Endowment for the Arts and the Michigan Council for the Arts.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Learning to organize: a key to secure living

ONE OF my seminar students had a story I felt might be helpful, interesting and possibly create discussion on several aspects of organizing (names are fictitious):

"I've been reading your column with intense interest as you mention right-brained people organize in a different way than left-brained people. This is of particular interest to me. I'm an artist, very right-brained and have found it difficult to organize.

'I'm an artist, very right-brained and have found it difficult to organize.'

"I've been working on my problem for about 10 years. When I began my business, I was highly motivated to organize my files, work and home in order to function more efficiently. The book "Messies Manual" (by Sandra Felton) helped me a great deal.

"My problem was that I made progress in this area, but I was ready to kill my daughter, Jane, who continued in her messy ways. Her room was so cluttered, one could not walk across the floor as there were clothes, books, garbage, etc. Trying out for the part of Mother of the Year and being a former school teacher, I decided to follow the advice of the experts and just 'close the door.'

"Once when I had just folded some of Jane's laundry, I decided to place it in her dresser drawer to avoid having to wait for her to do it. She was 17 years old then, I opened the drawer and wondered why there was a dirty sock sitting in there. Lo and behold, the sock contained a box of assorted pills. I called the poison control center to find out one was a tranquilizer and the others were diet pills. It was then I realized my daughter was using drugs.

"That was five years ago. She was put in a recovery program and now has been sober for four years. Although she has made great strides in many areas of her life, such as getting a 3.5 grade average in college (when she got D's in high school), working as a legal secretary etc., she still does not clean her room.

"I told her to clean her room or move, so she moved out to an apartment on campus. I know her messy ways have gotten her in trouble with her roommates. Since I've suffered much pain and embarrassment because of my problem, I wanted to save her from the same pain. I know now that's impossible to do.

"I have five children; some of them are messy, some are not. My youngest daughter, Deanna, is messy. She is in the eighth grade. I have decided that she is living in my house and my house is going to stay neat and orderly, so I will not 'close the door.'

"Instead, every day I go into her room and help her pick it up. I don't allow her to pile things under her bed, behind her dresser, etc. I so wish I had done that with my older daughter. I feel so guilty for not teaching her to organize. But I really didn't know how to organize. At any rate, that's my story. I hope it helps others who are struggling to find peace, order and contentment in their lives."

You can still enroll in the last three "Organizing For Success" classes at the Birmingham Community House. Call 644-5832 for information. Dorothy Lehmkuhl is a Birmingham-based time management consultant. Her column runs weekly in Creative Living.

Floor treatments in new houses today go beyond the simplistic. Here, a French limestone foyer in a home built by Kerry Bentivolio is set off by carpeting on the steps.

Designers mix, match flooring treatments

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Step into a new house today and you probably won't see one kind of floor treatment throughout.

You're more likely to find a mix — something like marble in the foyer, wood in the den and dining room, carpeting in bedrooms and the family room, vinyl in the kitchen and ceramic in the bathrooms.

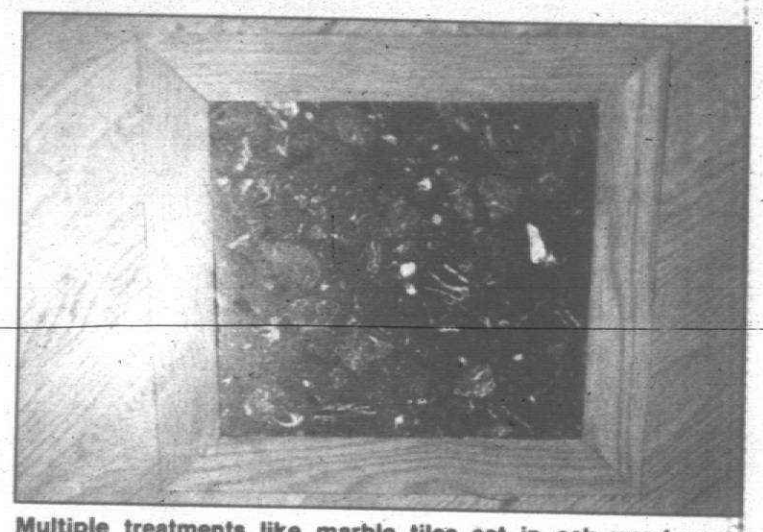
Maybe not to that degree or exact configuration, but some kind of mix.

And in some instances, you might find two different treatments — vinyl or marble squares set within wood, or carpeting surrounded by a wood border — in one room.

All to make a statement.

"A lot of products now weren't readily available 10 years ago, even five years ago. Things like marble," said Pat Zatina, design director for Scott-Shuptrine in Novi.

"There are now more options, and they're more readily available," she said. "Consumers are much more educated. They are demanding more."



Multiple treatments like marble tiles set in oak wood can punch up the appearance of a simple floor design.

THE INDUSTRY has become more sophisticated," said Debra Osborne, a sales consultant for Virginia Tile of Southfield. "A lot of people will come into the showroom and have no idea what they can do. They get intrigued."

"There's a bigger variety of hard surfaces," said Vicki Bockart, owner of Harbor Floors and Interiors in Keego Harbor. "I think the average customer has two if not three surfaces in the house."

A quick look at what a couple of area builders did at the fall Homearama, a showcase of idea homes, illustrates the point.

Richard Koch, a Troy builder, showcases a foyer of Italian marble and Brazilian cherrywood and a kitchen with granite squares inlaid in cherry in his Dynasty Model.

Timothy McDonald, a Rochester builder, put marble in the foyer, wood in the den and carpeting in the dining room all within a few steps of each other in his Glengarry Model.

"People are looking for ways to make their home stand out," said Terrie Koch, project manager for her father's company. "It's hard for people to envision new ideas. When they see it, they want it."

COSTS VARY for different treatments and even within a category depending on quality.

Wood starts at about $5.25 per square foot installed, ceramic tile $9, marble $12 and granite $20, Bockart said. Vinyl tiles range from $1.30 to $3.30 per square foot.

Marble, wood and granite are natural products. Vinyl is a petroleum-based synthetic and ceramic is fired clay.

"The more labor involved, the more you're going to pay," said Jim Moody, owner of Paynter Floors of Novi.

"Every time you do something more creative it pushes costs up," said Bockart.

But buyers could upgrade a bit and get more bang for their bucks by using two relatively inexpensive treatments in a single room, suggested Kerry Bentivolio, a Milford builder.

"Maybe they will make part of the room an oakwood flooring and put a carpet inlay in the center," he said "That way, they'll spend $1,000 rather than $4,000."

ALL TREATMENTS aren't appropriate to every room and every family situation.

Wood, which expands and contracts, would be a poor choice for a high-humidity bathroom with a lot of towels lying around, Moody said.

"Hard floors (wood, marble, ceramic) are not good where you want acoustic quality, like a media room," Zatina said. Carpeting would do better there.

"I wouldn't sell the best vinyl to a family with five kids and a dog," said Bockart.

Different treatments make different statements. Few things impress a first-time visitor to a home as a granite or marble in the foyer, especially if it flows to wood.

"Tiles say cleanliness and beauty in a powder room, carpets the same in a living room," Moody said. "Wood says warmth in kitchens, living rooms and dens."

"Wood is a product that I think works pretty much for everyone and is in a price range for almost everyone," Bockart said.

"Marble and vinyl tile are great in high-use areas," Zatina said. "The material itself cleans well. It's easy to maintain."

All kinds of people can have a hand in making decisions on floor coverings.

"A lot of times the architect determines what's going to be in the house," Zatina said. "Sometimes, builders are stubborn about the flooring and windows they want.

"In custom-built homes, builders would never make those decisions," she said." That's where designers working directly with buyers come into the picture with their expertise.

Carpet industry suffers

(AP) — The economically sensitive carpet and rug industry faces a slowing economy which could lead to hard times for the trade.

"The current outlook is a bit on the troubled side," said Frank C. Wilson, an international management consultant who follows the carpet and rug industry from Dalton, Ga.

The industry is an example of one being dragged into a recession. It is sensitive to general economic trends, particularly home construction starts, and is dependent on oil.

Opinions differ as to the severity of the downturn ahead, but there is agreement that the outlook soon might be grim.

"I don't know that I would use the word 'recession' yet," Wilson said. "But it's certainly in a downturn."

W. Fred Davis Jr., president of Palmetto Spinning Corp., a Laurens-based company that spins yarn for carpet and rug makers, was more certain.

"There's no question," Davis said. "Our industry is in a recession right now."

Either way, troubles in the carpet and rug industry will be felt.

THE INDUSTRY is concentrated in and around Dalton, Ga. About 35,000 employees in Georgia plants produce about 66 percent of all carpet and rugs made in the United States, according to the Carpet and Rug Institute in Dalton.

When people are feeling unsure about the economy, they delay expensive purchases, such as carpet.

"You can always walk on it another year or two," Wilson said.

Said Davis: "It is a discretionary purchase that a consumer can put off for one year, two years, even three years. During recessionary times, people don't replace carpet. Carpet is not going to wear out. It just sort of 'uglies' out."

Housing, another key indicator for carpet sales, also has been lagging. Housing starts have fallen to 1983 levels.

EACH HOUSE not built represents 100 square yards of carpet not sold, Wilson said.

Also, the bankruptcy-ridden retail industry also has been a factor in slowing carpet and rug sales. The most spectacular example might be the bankruptcy filing involving the U.S. retail operations of Canada's Campeau Corp., which includes familiar retailers such as Rich's and Jordan Marsh.

"They were big buyers of carpet," said Jack Dings, vice president of the man-made fiber division for Wellman. "These department stores, like the Jordan Marsh chain and other chains, don't have the money to put inventory in."

Wilson estimated the industry's total 1990 shipments at 1.225 billion square yards, which would represent a decline of 4 percent from 1989.

Board liable for upkeep of property

Our board refuses to increase the assessment to meet urgently needed repairs to the common areas and to hire a lawyer. The board is afraid it will be ridiculed by members, some of whom are on fixed incomes. I am concerned about the propriety of their actions as I am on the board with no insurance. Do I resign?

No. Even if you had insurance, which you should, you would still be vulnerable to being sued for mismanagement. Your board suffers from the malady of many boards — an unwillingness to raise and then spend adequate monies to properly run the association's affairs. This malady affects affluent as well as modest or low-income condominiums.

The answer is educating the board members as to their liabilities and responsibilities to run the condominium like a business, which requires proper maintenance of the project together with property management and legal assistance. A book full of legal cases where boards have been found liable for their misdeeds might be a therapeutic and mandatory reading session for the board encouraged by you. Don't quit. Stay on and fight for what you know is right and what is correct and in the best interests of all members of the association.

Robert M. Meisner

The railroad is tearing up and removing some track just outside the confines of your condominium. We want to use it for recreational vehicle storage. What can we do to get the property for the association?

Find out if the railroad is selling the right of way in individual parcels or whether it is being dedicated to a municipality or the like. Contact the railroad to express the association's interest in the right of way. If so, the association would obtain a warranty deed to the property. Watch out for any potential title problems plus access problems. Get a survey and a title insurance policy with the help of your association's lawyer. Also, get an environmental report on the property and make sure your association has the authority to "buy" the tract.

WINTER CONSTRUCTION SAVES YOU MONEY!

WINTER CONSTRUCTION: The assumption that "You can't or shouldn't build in the winter is A MYTH! Both modular and conventional construction is done in the winter months almost as easy as when done in the summer months. MODULAR CONSTRUCTION has Many benefits including the fact that the structure of your home will never see the outside weather conditions. Also, we can build modular homes up to 3,400 sq. ft. in styles of Ranches, Cape Cods, Colonials, Contemporarys, etc...

WINTER CONSTRUCTION WILL SAVE YOU MONEY: Typically construction slows down in the winter months thanks to the old wives tale. Because of this we have discounted our pricing for all of our homes being built in the winter months, (Specific dates apply). We do this so we can stay busy during the winter months.

NEW OPTIONAL CONSTRUCTION/PRICING METHODS: We have developed some new optional methods of charging customers. These methods range from owner participation to a complete – Turn Key Package, and Fixed Guaranteed Prices to a Percentage Over Actual Cost Program.

THANKS St. Jude for prayers answered. CM.

PRAYER TO ST. CLARE. Pray nine Hail Marys once a day, for nine days. On the 9th day publish this prayer & wish for three things. Even though you don't have faith, your prayers will be answered.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals, You give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and You are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with You, my loved One, in your Perpetual Glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After 3 days your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as the favor has been granted. Thanks, St. Jude, for favors received.

"HOLY SPIRIT, You Who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You Who give me the divine gift to forgive & to forget all evil against me in that in all instances of my life You are with me. I want in this short pray to thank You for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You, even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with You in eternal Glory. Thank You for your mercy toward me & mine." Say this pray for 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it may appear difficult. This pray must be published immediately after. CWP.
