The Canton Connection

Resolution

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack presented a resolution to the Canton Board of Trustees applauding the community work done by resident Sandy Preblich.

"Sandy Preblich served with dedication and distinction during her tenure on the Canton Township Planning Commission; and Preblich has, in addition, given her time and efforts to countless other community activities toward the goal of making Canton an ever-improving place in which to live."

Sump pumps

Canton has installed 112 sump pumps in a massive project to keep residents' basements from flooding.

Canton wants to place 2,000 pumps in Canton houses, including homes that don't flood, because those homes could add to the flooding problem of someone down the sewer line.

The pump program also will help reduce Canton's cost in a Western Township Utilities Authority project, because the pumps will lower the sewage flow that needs to be treated at an Ypsilanti plant.

Every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 3:30 p.m., Canton engineer Tom Casari conducts sump pump demonstrations for anyone interested. For information, call 397-5405.

Charity game

The Detroit Red Wings Alumni will play the Westland Over-35 All-Stars in a benefit hockey game at 6 p.m., Saturday, March 9, at the Westland Sports Arena, Wildwood and Ford Road.

Proceeds will go to the Dell'Orco family of Canton. Seven members of the Dell'Orco family died in a fire in December.

Advance tickets are available at the Computer Connection, 44473 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, and at Play Ball Cards & Comics, Westland.

For more information, call 455-2983.

Rally held for U.S. troops in Desert Storm

By Diane Gale
staff writer

A Vietnam veteran talked about the importance of showing troops that the people back home care.

Tears were in the eyes of a mother whose son is serving in the gulf war.

A wife of a serviceman looked for other military wives.

And a father recited lyrics from a ballad written for allied troops and dedicated to his son.

THE FOUR people are Canton residents who were among 190 supporters to attend a Desert Storm rally on Sunday sponsored by the Canton Community Foundation at Fellows Creek Golf Course, Canton. The purpose was to show support for service people in the gulf.

Sue Reed became pen pals with a 25-yer-old Ohio serviceman after she sent packages to troops. The letters from her new pen pal, she said, often stress how much he appreciated the overwhelming support from people back home.

Her husband, Larry Reed, a Vietnam veteran, remembers a different reception.

"I spent two years in Vietnam and no one sent me anything," Reed said. "The first thing that I remember on returning from Vietnam is the protesters and that says it all. It wasn't that they were protesting war. They were protesting (U.S. troops). I think it's important that everyone show, even if they are against the war, that they support the troops."

Mary Hayes paused ocassionally to compose herself as she explained that her son Kenneth P. Hayes, 22, a 1987 Plymouth-Salem High School graduate, is serving in an Army chemical recovery unit.

"I've had a really hard time dealing with this," Hayes said. "There are days that all I do is cry. I hold a lot of it in and I get to a point that you need someone to talk to. You need groups like this." She said Kenneth's brothers and sisters, Kimberly, a Salem senior; Chris, 21; and Shaun, 8, "really miss him."

'I spent two years in Vietnam and no one sent me anything.' - Larry Reed said

Lee Jakolski sat at Hayes's table during the rally. By coincidence, Jakolski picked Kenneth Hayes's name off a bulletin board to become pen pals. Jakolski said she's frustrated by the war "even though I don't have a family member there."

Deborah Vachon brushed back a strand of hair from her 3-year-old daughter's face as she explained that she and her husband, Stephen E. Vachon, were thinking about having another child when he was sent to the Persian Gulf as part of the Army special forces. Her husband expects to be promoted to captain next week, she added.

Deborah Vachon attended the support rally "hoping to find someone who has a husband over there."

When asked where her father is and what he is doing, Jessica, 3, said: "Saudi Arabia. Beating up." Whose that bad man? Deborah Vachon prompted her daughter? "Saddam Hussein," Jessica answered.

Larry Kaneeshaw is producing a song, "Desert Strength" with a friend and Canton resident, Eric Weber. The song is dedicated to Kaneeshaw's son, Scott, who is in the 86th Airborne.

Some of the lyrics are: "The sun is going down in the desert sky. Bullets are flying, soldiers are fighting. Stand behind the flags that you represent. Let it be your desert shield. Moving through the sand like a Desert Storm. Hearts of fury, minds of glory. Moving through the air like a screaming arrow."

Kaneeshaw said he plans to donate

Reservist gets grand send-off

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Every seat was taken in the conference room at ProCoil Thursday afternoon. But at this meeting of plant managers, union officials and employees, steel processing was not on people's minds.

Fred Oliver was.

Oliver, a 28-year-old team leader in the Canton company's packaging department, leaves this week for Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. The reservist from Redford Township expects to be sent to Saudi Arabia.

With his wife, Kelli, and children Danny, 2, and Staci, 1, Oliver was asked to come to ProCoil for a presentation.

"WE JUST wanted to get together to wish you the best of luck and tell you both we very much support what you are doing and we care," said Paul Janshego, plant manager.

— Paul Janshego plant manager

"Harry has a little presentation for you."

Executive vice president Harry Hasuko handed the Olivers a check for $1,000.

"Maybe that will help you get over the hump a bit, or at least in the immediate future," Janshego said. "Whatever we can do to help, just let us know.

Airport recall campaign hovers

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The recall campaign against five Plymouth city commissioners could get serious Tuesday.

That's when the Wayne County Elections Commission meets to review language submitted on five petitions that seek to recall Mayor Dennis Bila, Mayor Pro-Tem Ralph (Jack) Kenyon, and commissioners John Vos, James Jabara and Ron Loiselle.

The group Plymouth Concerned Citizens is seeking the recall of the five, saying they voted against the public's wishes last month when they approved creation of a joint governing board with Plymouth Township to run Mettetal Airport.

The elections commission is scheduled to meet to review the petitions at 9:15 a.m. in Room 203 of the city-county building in Detroit.

"What the elections commission is supposed to look at is the clarity of the language on the petitions," said Marya Sieminski, chief deputy election clerk.

She said those gathering petition signatures must collect a number equalling at least 25 percent of the total number of votes cast in the last governor's election.

That means that in Plymouth, 827 signatures are required on each of the five separate petitions, she said.

Fisher appeal on murder conviction denied

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Convicted murderer Charles R. Fisher, charged with suffocating his wife by wrapping her face with duct tape in their Canton Township home, has been denied an appeal.

Court of Appeal Judges Robert J. Danhof, Mark J. Cavanagh and William R. Beasley threw out all 11 issues raised by Fisher's attorney, R. Steven Whalen, to overturn the first-degree murder conviction.

Whalen will take the case to the Michigan Supreme Court, he said.

"I think it's important, especially for Dr. Fisher, but important for the law, that the Supreme Court look at the issues and decide the law," Whalen said.

"Dr. Fisher did not have a fair trial. I think it's important that we play by the rules, and I don't think that was done in this case."

FISHER, NOW 50, is serving a mandatory life in prison sentence on first-degree murder charges in the Ionia State Prison.

The Fulbright scholar and microbiologist maintained burglars knocked him unconscious and bound him with rope and duct tape.

He said he regained consciousness, freed himself and found his wife, Ella (Ria) Maria Mercado Fisher, 30, lying face down on the floor with her head covered with duct tape and a blanket over her. She died five days later, July 20, 1984, after life support units were removed.

Fisher was convicted in 1984. However, Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Claudia House Morcom set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial, based on a comment made by a Wayne County prosecutor in closing arguments.

The case went before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Foley in 1988 and again the jury found Fisher guilty.

Child reported home alone

Canton police received a call from a Farrand Elementary School employee who reported that a 6-year-old was home alone Thursday. The mother told police she went to work thinking that the child's father was going to pick up the child. The Department of Social Services was called.

crime watch

FLAG BURNING: Although the Supreme Court ruled that flag-burning is legal, whoever burned a Canton family's flag could have started their Willow Creek Drive house on fire recently.

The flag was connected to the McKimmy family house when they left the residence for the evening Feb. 2. Luckily, vinyl siding recently was installed on the house, Madaline McKimmy said. The wood that the vinyl replaced might have caught fire and spread through the building, she said.

No one was reported injured.

UP IN SMOKE: A man walking out of Meijer, on Ford and Canton Center roads, was stopped by an employee who asked him if he had paid for the cigarettes that were in the plastic bag he was carrying Wednesday.

The man ran out the door, police reported. He stole six cartons of cigarettes valued at $89.94.

CAR BREAK-IN: A 1986 Chevrolet two-door was reportedly broken into while it was parked at Bill Brown Auto Clinic on Lilley Road. An AM-FM cassette, valued at $300, and a $200 Clarion were reported stolen. Damage to the dashboard was valued at $500.

APARTMENT BREAK-INS: Thieves reportedly stole a $600 stereo system and $300 worth of jewelry when they broke into an apartment complex on Sandhurst on Wednesday. The apartment dweller also reported $1,000 worth of damage to a door.

In a separate case, a $1,500 set of drums and more than $2,000 worth of tools were reportedly stolen last week from an apartment on Eaton.

Also, a woman reported a $400 ring and $100 cash stolen from her apartment on Warren on Monday.

She told police that a few days earlier she left her apartment door unlocked for a couple of hours while she visited a neighbor. The woman said that when she returned she hadn't noticed anything missing. However, later in the week she realized the ring and money were gone.

Court of Appeals denies Fisher appeal room drama filled with details about a doomed marriage, international intrigue, obsessive jealousy, prophetic passages in a diary written by the victim and sexy love letters.

The couple had lived in the West Indies where Fisher taught at a university before Mercado-Fisher moved to the Detroit area to pursue a nursing career. Her husband followed.

Mercado-Fisher, who apparently wanted a divorce, told friends she was certain her husband had been reading her diary because he made a reference to something she had once written. One diary passage said she had a feeling as if her husband was suffocating her with his possessiveness and overbearing manner.

MEANWHILE, FISHER appealed to her parents, Evelyn and Manuel Mercado, to help save the failing marriage. He wrote his in-laws letters trying to prove she was having an affair with her cousin, Javier Horato, who was living in Germany.

"From now on I will show you proof I have not lied," Evelyn Mercado read in court from a letter written by Fisher.

"Under the shower I remember you then I open the cold shower to be quiet," a passage on a card written by Horato to Mercado-Fisher said. Other sexual comments were written about each other.

"How sick an animal would relate to his cousin this way," Fisher wrote his in-laws. "I was afraid it would happen as it has happened over and over again."

Mercado-Fisher had plane tickets for Germany and was scheduled to leave a few days after the attack.

THE APPEAL request, according to court documents, said the court erred in admitting "the victim's state of mind regarding her marriage; testimony without evidence was allowed and the Wayne County prosecuting attorney allegedly made numerous mistakes."

A comment by Fisher about finding Kool cigarette butts in his yard and suggesting that because black people smoke Kools, black people must have been responsible for the attack, were "irrelevant and highly prejudicial," the appeal request charged.

Also, it charged, a transcript of a 911 tape was inaccurate and unreliable hearsay, and the tape itself was largely inaudible.

Co-workers rally around reservist

"All the team members support what you are doing. Hopefully this (the Persian Gulf War) will be over quickly and you will be back with us soon."

"THANK YOU. I appreciate it," said Oliver, a member of the Marine Corps from 1983-87. "I'll send you postcards."

Oliver's unit is more fortunate than some others that received just 72 hours notice of their departure, he said.

"I found out this past weekend. Leaving the family is the toughest part. The military part I can handle."

Oliver played trombone in the Marine band. He'll drive military vehicles for the Air Force, and may play in a band as part of his Air Force duties, "or just to pass the time."

"It's going to be hard with him being gone," Kelli Oliver said. "The kids sure are going to miss him. We've never been apart. There'll be a lot of changes.

"It's not Saudi Arabia. So I'm real grateful for that. I'm lucky in that aspect of it."

OLIVER IS well respected at ProCoil, a joint venture firm formed in 1988 by National Steel and the Maruberi and Mitsubishi corporations to cut steel for the automotive industry.

"Fred is one of the best staff at ProCoil and we are losing him," Hasuko said.

"The check is something small, but we wish to help him more. We wish to do more for him. We are looking forward to working together again as soon as possible. That's my word to him; that's a promise."

Oliver was among the first to be hired at ProCoil, said Bob Brown, production, planning and control manager.

"He's been with us right from the beginning. He's an exemplary employee. He will be missed," Brown said.

"We're sorry to see him go, but we're pledging our support to him and looking forward to having him back."

OLIVER'S CO-WORKERS apparently feel the same way.

"He's a really good guy; a great leader of the team," said Ken Milligan, a utility floater in the packaging department.

"He's very understanding. If you have a problem, you can come to him for help."

Commission to review recall petition Tuesday

Collected signatures are filed with the county clerk, then sent to the Plymouth city clerk who compares each signature with those on voter registration cards.

The county then tallies the number of validated signatures and if the required number is submitted, a recall election is scheduled within 60 days, Sieminski said.

The commissioner then can be recalled from office by a majority vote in favor of that action.

While a petition was submitted in recent weeks to seek the recall of Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, that petition has since been withdrawn and will not go to the elections commission.

Sieminski said the man whose name appeared on that petition, Warren Dusbiber, "since that time contacted us to say the filing is not valid."

'I resent the position that I have been put in as a trustee — having to vote on the airport without an environmental audit.'

— John Stewart
Plymouth Township trustee

Richard Padzieski, chief of operations with the Wayne County prosecutor, said he was asked Thursday by Breen's attorney John Nora to investigate the petition filing.

"Whether or not there is any criminal involvement here, I'm not entirely sure that there is," Padzieski said, adding the name of one filing the petition doesn't have to appear on that petition.

Plymouth Township Trustee John Stewart declined to comment on the contention of some Mettetal Airport backers that he submitted the petition seeking Breen's recall to the county clerk.

Asked if he was seeking Breen's recall, Stewart responded: "I am not." Stewart was the lone trustee voting against the effort to create an airport board to buy and run Mettetal Airport.

"I resent the position that I have been put in as a trustee — having to vote on the airport without an environmental audit," Stewart said, adding the matter would be best resolved by putting it before citizens in a public vote.

On Wednesday, Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman threw out an injunction against the city and township filed earlier by airport opponents, saying the governments could pursue their effort to buy and run the Canton airport.

Fire damages new home

A fire late Saturday destroyed the roof and one bedroom of a new home on Oak Manor Court East in the Sunflower Subdivision in Canton.

No one was injured in the fire which started in the attic, according to Lt. Ken Witt of the Canton Township Fire Department.

Damage was estimated at $50,000. Witt said the rest of the house also suffered extensive water damage.

Fire officials said the residents were home when they were alerted to the fire by neighbors. The couple had about four other guests at the time, fire officials said.

A public safety department dispatcher said the fire was called in at 11:30 p.m. Units were on the scene at 11:35 p.m. The last unit left the scene at 3:15 a.m. Sunday, according to a department dispatcher.

Dawn Schwab, 18, a 1990 Plymouth-Canton High School graduate, attended the rally to share worries with other people who have loved ones in the war. Her boyfriend, Todd Vershave, also 18, and a 1990 Plymouth-Salem High School graduate, is part of Operation Desert Storm.

"I've been feeling down watching the news," Schwab said. "Being (at the rally) helps. Other people can't really relate. When you have someone who can relate with the feelings it helps out a lot."

Rose and Joe Bianchi, along with their neighbor Melba Hatch, came to the rally to show support for "our country and our people there," Rose Bianchi said.

"I feel a closeness to people who have relatives there," Hatch said. "I had a son in Vietnam. I'm upset by all this. It brings back a lot of memories. Vietnam was not supported like this."

Canton church takes heart over turnout for blood drive

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Holding Red Cross blood drives isn't a new thing for members of Geneva Presbyterian Church.

"We've done it for a long time," said the Rev. Kenneth Gruebel, pastor of the Canton church. "We're just delighted to be able to help out in this way."

A blood drive was held Monday, Feb. 4, at the church. It's been a tradition for a number of years to have a blood drive during January or February, Gruebel said, and the event wasn't scheduled because of the Persian Gulf War.

This year, 72 people showed up for the blood drive and 67 were able to donate. That's more than double the number from last year. Some but not all of the donors worship at Geneva Presbyterian Church.

"We had a host of drop-ins," said Gruebel, who gave blood on Monday.

"This has to do with the conflict in the Middle East. I think it's a deep concern for our troops," he said. "It seems like a small way to help."

BLOOD DRIVES are a tremendous help, said Denise Morrow, public affairs specialist for the American Red Cross.

"The churches and the high schools are very important." Blood drives are held throughout the year at businesses and other community sites. Donations collected by the 13 mobile units help the Red Cross meet the ongoing need for blood.

The Red Cross has sent blood from the southeastern Michigan region to the Persian Gulf, although there isn't a national call out for donations.

"We're not in a critical situation," she said. That could change with the escalation of a ground war in the Middle East.

"We're going to have to be prepared to send a large amount," said Morrow, who's a regular blood donor. She and other Red Cross officials have noticed an increase in donations since the war began.

"We have seen a terrific surge in patriotism." Donating blood helps people do something to support the troops, she said.

Soldiers aren't the only ones who need blood. Regular donations help to provide much-needed blood for accident victims, patients undergoing surgery and others.

IT'S MORE difficult to get donors in during the summer, Morrow said. Many are away on vacation or have other commitments. Blood drives can't usually be held at schools in the summer.

Blood can be donated by those age 17 and older who are in good health and weigh at least 110 pounds. There's absolutely no risk of getting AIDS from giving blood, Morrow said.

"We still encounter that every day. We try to explain and educate our donors."

Police honor slain former co-worker

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Steven Reuther showed "a lot of sensitivity toward people" during his 3½ years as a part-time police officer in Plymouth Township.

And Friday, 25 former co-workers from the Plymouth Township Police Department paid their respects by attending Reuther's funeral in Tecumseh, after his shooting death Feb. 4 in Milan.

Reuther, 32, a full-time Milan police officer, was shot and killed while walking into work for the 5 p.m. shift by a man armed with an assault rifle, said a Michigan State Police investigator.

Charged in the slaying is Vito J. Trupiano, 39, of Taylor. Police say they suspect Trupiano in a series of shootings that began on Detroit area freeways three years ago.

REUTHER "WAS an excellent officer," Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry said. Ruether served as a patrol officer on the night shift.

"He had a high arrest rate and conviction rate on OUIL (drinking and driving) arrests," Berry said.

Reuther, of Tecumseh, was a full-time Milan officer when he worked part-time in Plymouth Township. He chose to leave his Plymouth job in August, Berry said, when the Plymouth Township, department began phasing out part-time positions in favor of full-time officers.

"He had the seniority there (Milan)," said Plymouth Township Sgt. Robert Antal.

After news of Reuther's shooting death, "Everyone around here was upset," Antal said. "You couldn't ask for a nicer guy."

FUNERAL SERVICES were at 2 p.m. Friday at the Tecumseh Civic Auditorium, with burial at Brookside Cemetery in Tecumseh.

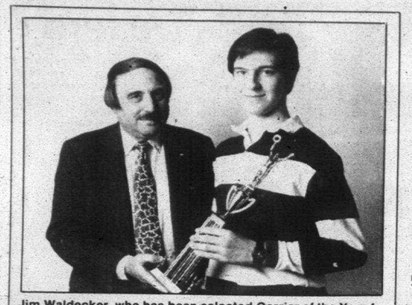
Survivors include two daughters, Amanda and Megan; wife Laurie; father Glenn; one brother and two sisters.

Reuther graduated from the Jackson Police Academy in 1979 and worked as a police officer for 12 years.

TRUPIANO SURRENDERED to police shortly after the shooting. He was arraigned Feb. 5 in 1st District Court in Monroe on a murder charge and a felony firearms charge. No plea was entered at that arraignment, a court official said.

Trupiano faces a preliminary exam before 1st District Judge Terrance Bronson at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

No bond has been set for Trupiano, who remains in the Monroe County Jail, state police said.



Jim Waldecker, who has been selected Carrier of the Year for 1990 by the Canton Observer, receives his award from Fred J. Wright, circulation director.

Carrier of Year is named

Jim Waldecker has been selected carrier of the year for 1990 by the Canton Observer.

The selection of the carrier is based on the length of service, amount of collection, prompt settling of accounts, customer service, up-to-date records and having been a carrier of the month.

Waldecker is a Catholic Central High School student who plans on attending college or becoming a baseball player.

His favorite subjects are history and algebra. He said other youths could benefit from a route because it teaches them how to deal with money and it gives them more responsibility.

each donor, she said. Needles are immediately thrown away after being used.

Minor discomfort is a reality for blood donors, but the pain is minimal and doesn't last long, she said. Even so, some people are a bit apprehensive about donating.

"A lot of people are afraid of needles," Morrow said.

Those who missed the blood drive at Geneva Presbyterian Church can still give blood. Another Red Cross blood drive will be held 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 16, at St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1343 Penniman, at Evergreen in Plymouth.

Ask The Eye Doctor

Q. Why are Jason and Jennifer "poor readers" and "slow learners" even though they seem to have average or above average intelligence?

A. Jason and Jennifer may be described as having a learning disability, dyslexia or attention deficit disorder. But what is the underlying reason causing them to lack the ability to learn or concentrate. One possible answer is the visual system.

Having "perfect" or "20/20" vision DOES NOT guarantee that your eyes work together. Nor does it guarantee that your visual perceptual system, which is how your brain responds to what your eyes see, is functioning properly. Some of the symptoms may be blurry vision especially later in the day, skipping or re-reading lines, reversals, headaches after school, tired eyes, poor concentration or attention span or even double vision.

Methods to correct these problems may include reading glasses, bifocals, eye muscle exercises, perceptual therapy or a combination of the above.

When children or even adults have reading problems, it is always wise to have a comprehensive eye exam to rule out eye or visual problems.

Child care cuts shock providers

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Plans to eliminate child care licensing have sent shock waves through area nurseries and day care centers, with operators stunned such a move was even being considered.

"I'm not saying a license is the only reason a center is good, but I can't understand why you wouldn't want to have licensing," said Carol Tresik, of Learning Tree Child Care Center, Livonia.

That would happen by March 16, however, as part of a 9.2 percent cut in the state's Social Services budget. As of that date, Michigan would be alone among the 50 states in eliminating licensing.

"This would be devastating," said Tresik, one of a number of center operators who recently discussed the issue with state Social Services Director Gerald Miller.

"I can't imagine any insurance company giving insurance to an unlicensed facility and without insurance you can't even operate."

While removal of licensing could increase the number of centers, area center operators say competition worries them far less than what they believe will be a decline in quality of child care.

"IT OPENS the door for any individual to hang out a shingle," said Geri Angel, district manager for Children's World Learning Centers, which operates child care facilities in Canton, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Redford and Southfield, among other communities.

Beyond that, Angel said, state regulators often provide helpful information to center operators.

"They're our first source," she said. "We'll call upon them, for their expertise."

"The bottom line is what's best for the children," said Sheila Niehaus, district manager for Kinder Care Learning Centers, which operates child care facilities in Farmington Hills, Westland, Plymouth Township and Canton, among other communities.

Though cuts appear driven by economics, not philosophy, some political conservatives have long questioned licensing. Some believe licenses tax business without protecting the consumer.

Child care providers, however, say that's not the way it is in their businesses.

"Our inspector was very thorough," Tresik said. "We welcome the inspection."

"THIS IS an industry that wants to be licensed," said state Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia. "These are people who'd even pay a fee to keep licensing going."

Bankes, a member of the House Republican Task Force on Child Care, said she been working for years to increase the number of state regulators.

"In Ingham County right now, there's a six month wait to open a center just to get the regulator there," Bankes said.

The GOP task force is meeting Feb. 19 to discuss the proposal as well as alternative changes in state regulations.

One plan, Bankes said, would set up regional regulating bodies, though she noted that proposal hasn't received strong support from center operators.

Despite the fact that state regulators have received pink slips, Bankes said she was optimistic licensing would continue.

Without it, she said, the state would stand to lose more than $20 million in federal money.

Beyond that, Bankes quoted Gov. John Engler's campaign pledge to make education and children a top state priority.

"I know that in Gov. Engler's executive order, he held licensing and regulations harmless (from cuts) and he's holding education harmless," she said. "He cares about children and he's shown this."

Lawmakers study auto injury catastrophic claims

By Tim Richard
staff writer

In 1980 you hardly noticed the $3 item in your auto insurance bill.

By 1986 the item was $16 per vehicle.

Last year it cost $67, this year $101, and by 2000 state lawmakers fear it could soar to $350.

The drain on the Michigan Catastrophic Claims Association is getting a hard study by Sen. Doug Cruce, R-Troy, and his Commerce Committee. Under state law, insurers set up a non-profit group in Livonia to pay auto injury claims of more than $250,000, mostly for brain and spinal cord injuries.

"There's an ominous chance of unlimited benefits," MCCA head Edward M. Machowski told the panel last week.

COMMITTEE member Paul Wartner, R-Portage, asked, "In summary, we're out of control -- right?"

"I would say so," Machowski answered.

"MCCA distributes unlimited losses so no one insurer suffers a catastrophic loss. The cost is passed on to policyholders," Machowski explained. "The insurer bears the loss of the first $250,000, and MCCA bears the loss beyond that amount."

Michigan's no-fault insurance law requires insurers to pay benefits for "all reasonable charges incurred for reasonably necessary products, services and accommodations for an injured person's care, recovery or rehabilitation." There are no annual or lifetime limits.

Claims have escalated: $2 million in 1982, $9 million in '84, $24 million in '86, $55 million in '88, and about $100 million last year.

MICHIGAN law is the most generous in the nation, MCCA said.

Cruce put it another way: "The state has imposed a cost on people who own autos that the state is not willing to bear. The state has shifted the burden to auto insurance carriers and imposed a higher level of care."

Machowski said insurers have no control over the costs, nor have they any incentive to challenge big claims. "The charges tend to be as heavy as the traffic will bear," he said.

Gregory Hayward, a State Farm actuary who works with MCCA, said early premiums were "grossly inadequate", because the rate-making committee had no experience from which to estimate future costs.

"Rising costs are not due to more claims but utilization of technology and rising costs," Hayward said.

CRUCE SAID there is no bill before the Legislature, but he indicated several directions in which lawmakers would look:

- Charge more for motorcycles. Cyclists pay 4 percent of total assessments but suffer 8.5 percent of the catastrophic injuries.
- Cap medical care charges.
- Limit coverage to (say) $1 million.
- Base premiums on the number of drivers rather than the number of vehicles. A person with three vehicles pays three times.
- Look at risk factors. Young drivers have a higher injury rate, and the elderly will live fewer years and receive fewer benefits.
- Consider geographic area, as is done with regular auto insurance.

Cruce, who gave up his Appropriations Committee seat for the Commerce chair, said his panel would continue its study at its 3 p.m. Tuesday meetings into March. Excused from the first session was Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, who was out of the state.

Seminar targets home security

Self-defense and home security are among the topics to be discussed at a Crime Prevention Seminar, Saturday, Feb. 23, at Madonna College, Livonia.

The program will be presented 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Kresge Hall for adults 17 and older.

Police specialists will offer tips on detecting would-be attackers, con artists and other criminals.

Enrollment is limited. Fee is $25 for those pre-enrolled; $35 at the door. Groups are welcome.

Additional information is available by calling Jan Lewis of the college athletic department, 591-5163.

Madonna is at I-96 and Levan, Livonia.

Gibson seeks auction items

More than 400 items will be available at the third annual Gibson School for the Gifted auction Saturday, March 23, at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The independent, co-educational day school, based in Redford, seeks auction donors.

The school serves 120 students, age 4-13 from 27 communities in metro Detroit.

The auction helps keep student tuition down.

Anyone who wishes to contribute items to be auctioned is invited to call 537-8688.

Political reform focuses on PACs, big bucks

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Big-money campaigns clearly are tainting politics and frustrating voters, said a panel of Republican legislators in Oakland County.

"PACs (political action committees) have too big a role. Money has too big a role. You have to force the campaign to be run in the streets," said Terry Sever, a Farmington Hills resident who sought the Republican nomination for state senator in 1990.

"Special interests dominate the process," said Karen Holcomb-Merrill of Common Cause of Michigan, citing how legislators collect money at the same time policy decisions are being made in Lansing.

BUT THE TASK force chair, Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge, warned that fixing the system wasn't as simple as putting spending limits into state law because of the "rule of unintended consequences." If PAC spending is limited, Fitzgerald said, PAC leaders will get around the law by collecting "individual" donations or running "third-party" campaigns on behalf of a favored candidate.

Joining Fitzgerald in the Friday hearing in the Farmington Hills library were Reps. Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Barbara Dobb of West Bloomfield, William Bryant of Grosse Pointe and minority leader Paul Hillegonds of Holland.

The task force is a device minority Republicans use to influence the agenda that later will be set in Democratic-run House committees.

HERE ARE some of the ideas that speakers on the task force urged:

- Joe Knollenberg, 18th Congressional District GOP chair: "I would like to see power restored to the political parties." PACs can't be eliminated, as President George Bush advocates. But PACs have the bad effect of reinforcing incumbents who get 95 percent of PAC money. Parties should have either high spending limits or none. County executive campaigns have no spending limits. People see that judicial races are being "bought . . . from family money or single sources . . . but I have no solution."
- Common Cause's Holcomb-Merrill: In 1978 PACs provided 40 percent of campaign money; in 1988, 70 percent. Prevent officeholders from "building up financial war chests" by requiring them to return or give to charity their unspent campaign funds. She advocated more fund disclosure, limiting the amount candidates can accept from PACs and public funding of campaigns.
- Dobb, a freshman lawmaker, was skeptical about the value of disclosing contributors. "In this area, there was a lot of media attention on expenditures. But the people who spent big amounts got elected," she said.
- Sever: Limit PAC spending to 30 percent of any campaign.
- Jean Fox, Farmington Hills councilmember and an active Republican: "Campaign expense reports need to be out before people go to the polls." Copies of candidates' spending and collecting reports should be filed in city and township halls as well as county seats and the state capital.
- Barbara Moorhouse, Bloomfield Hills, representing the state League of Women Voters: Limit size and type of contributions, provide public funding of campaigns or allow reduced postage rates for candidates.
- Mary Avery, Farmington Hills: Require unspent campaign funds to be given to the state or charity.
- Isaac Sheppard, Clawson: Limit campaign spending to a percentage of an officeholder's salary. "Can you imagine a business surviving if they spent 600 percent of its revenue on advertising?"
- William Liba, Farmington political activist: "We should have public financing."
- Dick Poehlman, president of the Farmington Republican Club and vice president of the local chamber: "Legislating should be viewed as a public service, not as the best job in town." Maximum pay should be $50 a day. Pay should based on 20 hours' a week times 50 weeks at a rate of four times the minimum wage. Professionally run campaigns are "shallow but expensive media hype" and should be replaced by less costly candidates' speeches and interviews.
- Bob Heinrich, president of the Farmington Area Chamber of Commerce with experience in raising bank PAC funds: PACs should be prohibited from contributing to elections outside their area.
- Patrick Anderson, anti-tax economist with Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co.: School districts openly violate state law by using their funds to campaign for property tax increases, but no one enforces the law. The Farmington district newsletter advised people wanting to get involved in favor of its tax request to call the millage committee or the teachers union office.

Consumers campaign raises nearly $200,000 to aid needy

Consumer's Power officials announced the company's 1991 People-Care campaign has raised $197,584 for the Salvation Army to date.

The program raises money for Salvation Army public assistance programs aimed at helping elderly, low income and unemployed people.

The campaign continues this month. In it, Consumer's customers are asked to add a $5 contribution to their monthly bill. Contributions can also be made by writing a check to: The Salvation Army/People Care, c/o Consumers Power Co., 212 W. Michigan Ave., Jackson, Mich. 49201.

In addition to customer contributions, Consumers Power is making available $200,000 in bill credits to help needy area residents pay their energy bills.

Last year, the program raised a record $571,559 in contributions and bill credits. A Consumer's Power spokesman said it was likely this year's campaign would match or exceed that figure.

Mettetal a resource for the area

To the editor:

As the local aviation community ponders the future of Plymouth Mettetal Airport, it stands ready and anxious to serve the community.

You have been presented with a plan, shown by experienced school administrators to be feasible, where a vocational school could be built at Mettetal, to serve the Plymouth-Canton school district.

As a former vocational student, and a 12-year veteran of light aviation, the image I see as I look toward that future is simply breathtaking; the very idea that this industry which I love could so serve this community which I love.

The purpose of this letter is to talk about other things; because a little airport can contribute so much to the quality of life for those who never intend aviation as avocation, for those who never in their life will take stick and rudder into their own hands — but who will always dream.

The spirit of community in Plymouth is the envy of many communities. In one man, Steve Klock, the spirit of community was so strong that he refused an offer of $4.3 million on his property, as is, from a manufacturing concern.

He chose instead to offer it to an airport authority for $4.1 million, spending his own $118,000 on a new runway and other improvements. And this man is not a pilot, doesn't own an airplane.

He acted out of love of the community, and was in return abused by the Canton government. It appears as though a third of a million dollars in community spirit doesn't mean much to Tom Yack.

As the public-ownership issue gained a higher profile, it crystallized the local aviation community into a cohesive group; with her future assured, Mettetal's people will know that their efforts to make her a part of the community can succeed.

I've passed some of aviation's toughest exams; I've sweated out grueling check flights with quick-tempered examiners; I've soared in gliders high above the peaks of Colorado . . .

But nothing in aviation has ever exited me like this. I lay awake nights, excited about what Mettetal and her people can teach the community's youths; the trade skills they will take with them into the future.

I dream about how she will thrill her community's children, with unusual airplanes to see and pilots to meet. I envision her as a place where adults of all ages will stop in just to look around, or visit with other locals, or buy their kid an airplane ride for his birthday.

I anticipate the day when Mettetal, with her open space and fascinating atmosphere, is incorporated into other community events, or is a community event, all by herself. We of the aviation community are willing.

William T. Kern,
Farmington Hills

Church plans are opposed

To the editor:

We are strongly opposed to Our Lady of Good Counsel's plans for expansion. There are many small children in this neighborhood whose safety is jeopardized by the excessive traffic which Good Counsel brings to these streets. An expansion of their facilities will only exacerbate this barely tolerable situation.

Currently, many Good Counsel parishioners exhibit hazardous driving by routinely ignoring the stop signs at the corners of Irvin and William and Arthur and William.

If this proposed expansion means that Good Counsel will host activities where alcohol is served, this disregard for traffic signs can only get worse.

Please ask Good Counsel to find a non-residential area for their meeting facilities.

James and Catherine Proppe,
Plymouth

Education is questioned

To the editor:

I recently attended the PTO meeting at Field Elementary on the Michigan Model. I am worried that the state now openly admits it is teaching "community values" and trusting the judgment of the teachers to ensure materials will be age-appropriate. The parent supplement to the Model's Second Grade Substance Abuse section reads:

". . . your second grader will learn to identify the effects that a drug, alcohol, has on physical activities . . .

5. "Alcohol is a drug.

6. "The first ability of a person to be affected by drinking alcohol is judgment.

9. "An alcoholic beverage that some people drink from a can is called beer.

10. "Coffee and tea both contain a drug called caffeine.

11. ". . . we say he/she is drunk.

12. "The soda that contains caffeine is called cola."

They have just equated alcohol as a drug to caffeine as a drug. What kind of craziness is this to teach a 7-year-old who has probably already had the "cola" drug?

The manual does not describe calm breathing, which the state says is just three breaths. But, the calm breathing, quieting response, basic relaxation technique and mini-vacation were all taken from the book "QR: The Quieting Reflex," by Charles F. Stroebel.

Charles Stroebel says, "Breathing has been the cornerstone of self regulation techniques like yoga throughout history, because when we alter our breathing, we alter our consciousness and our life momentarily.

"After the children learn QR — which takes only 16 to 20 days . . . Suddenly a hush falls over the classroom. All the little faces break into smiles, and you can see the kids take in breaths through their "magic breathing holes," drop their jaws, and slump their shoulders. Six seconds after asking for the QR, the teacher has 30 creative, active, alert, wiggly little minds with de-wiggled bodies."

What do New Agers have to say about this? Dick Stuphen says, "One of the biggest advantages we have as New Agers is, once the occult, metaphysical and New Age terminology is removed, we have concepts and techniques that are very acceptable to the general public. So we can change the names and demonstrate the power. In doing so, we open the door to millions who would not normally be receptive."

If you don't object to New Age occultism in school under the guise of "breathing" or "stress management," then please check into why the Model uses a form of psychotherapy called "nondirectional psychotherapy." This is where the teacher is the facilitator (non-directional) to let your child choose his own values without parental interference.

This was developed by Abraham Maslow, Carl Rogers, and Dr. Coulson in the '60s. When it destroyed a California school system, William Coulson said he wanted out! I hope parents do, too.

Officials ignore public on Mettetal

To the editor:

Mr. Nastoff says it like it is. From listening to Mayor Bila tell us at one commission meeting that all who attended, even outsiders, should be heard because Plymouth has a policy of "open meetings," to another meeting where we are told that the commission will not hear anything on the Mettetal issue regardless of what anyone wanted to say (during the citizen comments portions of the meeting).

There were only one or two citizens who wanted to ask questions of our elected officials on the airport issue. It wasn't like there would be so much time used up, especially when there was time for another lecture by Mayor Bila on how he was not intimidated by recall talk and he had lawyers in the family. Was that more appropriate than Mettetal being brought up? I certainly didn't come there to intimidate anyone, but I sure didn't get the opportunity to ask my questions after taking the time to attend for that purpose. Is this why so many people refuse to get involved in our political system?

It's no wonder. Who wants to take the time to come and be scolded or told that what they have to say is not going to be discussed because the commissioners don't want to hear about the subject?

Many Plymouth voters are wondering what these elected officials thought we put them in office for. But Commissioner Vos informed us that we elected him to make decisions for us, apparently regardless of how we citizens feel. Don't think I couldn't kick myself for voting for him along with encouraging others to do so when he was elected. Commissioner Vos at the last meeting mentioned he would do anything for a vote. Well give us our referendum on the airport issue. That's not too much to ask, is it?

Also more than a few people made comments about Commissioner Vos that he wouldn't have been pleased to hear as we left the meeting on the night Mr. Nastoff referred to. People wondered why he didn't scold the night of the Cultural Center meeting when the "pro-airport" faction near the microphone kept smarting off to the citizens who came to talk against the airport. But all decided that the man who said, "We didn't come here to be scolded!" said it all.

Commissioner Vorva seems to be the only member who has any questions about the airport. Yet he was scolded for bringing them up at the commission meeting. I thought this was the purpose of commission meetings. It was refreshing to hear someone else is checking into this thoroughly and has unanswered questions.

No we don't ask to vote on every issue that comes before the commission. However, when we feel as strongly about something that affects us all, then we want to be heard and not have someone else decide what they think is best for us. I am willing to go along with what the majority wants in this community. Why aren't our elected officials?

Arts council is thankful

To the editor:

The Plymouth Community Arts Council would like to thank The Plymouth Observer for the publicity of our 1990 Plymouth Christmas Card. We also extend a special thank you to the following stores that sold our Plymouth Community Christmas Cards during this past holiday season. It's the combination of businesses like these and organizations like ours that make this such a special community:

Wiltse's, Me and Mr. Jones, The Petite Shop, Orlandi's, Frameworks, Good's Nursery, Plymouth Nursery, Wild Wings, PCAC Art Rental Gallery, Roadside on Joy, B.J. Corey's Hair Design, Beautiful People Hair Forum, Country Cupboard, Chamber of Commerce, Trailwood Garden Club, Porterhouse and Frameworks II.

Thank all of you for purchasing the cards. As you know, all proceeds fund our many programs.

City didn't know facts about airport

To the editor:

Six members of the Plymouth City Commission voted on Jan. 21 to join with Plymouth Township in the acquisition, operation and maintenance of Mettetal Airport without knowing or divulging to its citizens:

1. The source of public funds to provide 5 percent of the purchase price.

2. The degree of ground contamination from 50 years of operation.

3. The potential loss of school taxes from permanently removing 60 acres from the school tax rolls.

4. The cost of expanding the current airport to a T-5 jet airport size.

5. That the JOA resolution passed by the city commission states "General Obligation and Revenue Bonds may be issued in accordance with and limited by the laws of The State of Michigan."

Plymouth city residents are not opposed to Mettetal Airport. They simply believe the city should stay out of the acquisition, operation and maintenance of an airport and if a purchase agreement is to be considered citizens should decide if their taxes are to be put at risk.

Tax checkoff aids children

The current recession means hard times for Michigan's children, says one of the state's top child abuse prevention experts.

According to Joe Crump, chairman of the board of the Children's Trust Fund for the Prevention of Child Abuse, "It's a vicious circle."

"One of the tragic outcomes of tough economic times is the increase in family stress, which in turn produces a sad increase in child abuse. And all this is happening at the same time there is a decrease in the amount of money available to provide child abuse prevention services," said Crump.

Crump said the Children's Trust Fund itself is the victim of the current economic downturn.

"Less than 3 percent, only 121,260 Michigan taxpayers, were concerned enough about child abuse last year to check off the CTF line of their income tax form," he said.

"The funds collected through the income tax check-off are vital to child abuse prevention efforts in this state. In the past eight years these donations have made possible the funding of hundreds of programs which have provided help to more than 300,000 Michigan children and families.

"We're hoping Michigan taxpayers will be generous with their contributions this year. Last year we had to reduce our support because of dwindling donations and cuts in a federal matching grant. This year, programs offering child abuse prevention services are depending on us more than ever because there is less money available from other sources. You can be sure that state budget reductions will hit these programs hard," Crump said.

This year's tax form includes a new CTF logo which Crump hopes will draw more taxpayers' attention to the check-off. The new logo includes the words "Stop Child Abuse," is a child-like print with an octagon stop-sign shape and the word "Before Another Child is Hurt" underneath.

The trust fund is an independent, non-profit agency established in 1982 as a permanent source of funding for local programs throughout the state to prevent child abuse and neglect. Currently more than 100 programs and local child abuse prevention councils receive funding in 76 of Michigan's 83 counties.

"It's important we all recognize that child abuse is everyone's problem. We either pay now to prevent child abuse or we pay a much higher price later," said Crump.

NEEDING MEDICATION

You awaken in the morning with stiff hands. Walking up stairs hurts your legs, and you have curtailed shopping in the malls because walking causes your knees to ache. Perhaps it is time to start medication for your arthritis.

Perhaps not, as medicine, besides offering help, brings hazards.

Taking medication exposes you to drug side effects and to the possibility the new medication may interact and render ineffective other drugs you are using.

Once you begin an arthritis medicine you have an obligation to remain faithful to its dosing schedule. Missing doses results in a marked loss of efficacy. Doubling up may only increase the likelihood of stomach upset or cause the body to improve its effort to eliminate the drug.

Your condition may be the result of heredity and aging, and despite treatment, your stiffness, ache, ignits, and deformities will remain. Heat, rest, and pacing your activities might remain as your best therapies.

Furthermore, an understanding of your arthritis and its severity could be all you require. Relieving your concerns may eliminate tension that accompanied your joint discomfort; gaining this perspective may be the best reason to visit your doctor.

taste buds

chef Larry Janes

It's cold and he's crabby

It must be this cold weather that brings out the crabbies in me. Being the eternal optimist, thank heaven, I don't get crabby too often. But when I do, watch out.

Having just spent two weeks doing some incredible travel, I will never understand how airlines get away with passing off that tray garbage labeled as food. I took a charter flight to Las Vegas and was tossed a tray containing an entree, vegetable and starch measuring no more than three-by-five inches.

It contained something that remotely resembled chicken, some rice that tasted like overdone instant and some pole beans cooked beyond oblivion. Couple that with a salad of questionable age, a roll that doubled as a hockey puck, and the only remotely tasty item in the box — a two-pack of Pogen's Danish Shortbread Cookies — even McDonald's sounded good on the way home.

So you think this only happens on charter flights, eh? The above description makes dinner on United Airlines to New York City sound like a banquet. The only word of advice when flying domestic, either pack your own (and be prepared for airport security to crush your Oreos), or do as I will do from now on, order a specialty kosher or vegetarian meal when booking your flights.

ANOTHER OF life's little idiosyncrasies is the meaning-to-do-well servers who insist on filling my glass to the brim, sometimes after one sip from the wine glass. Even with reminders, they all must have gone to that Biafrian school that says you must drink and eat it all. Things got so out of hand at a trendy Royal Oak eatery the other day that I literally picked the bottle from the bucket and set it next to me, out of any server's reach. Read my lips folks: I'll pour my own wine, whenever I want.

I would love to get my hands on the person who invented that seemingly-innocent-looking raspberry container that make it look like you are getting somewhat near your money's worth. Instead, you open it to find that the sides slant in on a 45-degree angle and what looked like two cups of raspberries has shrunk to nothing more than half a cup.

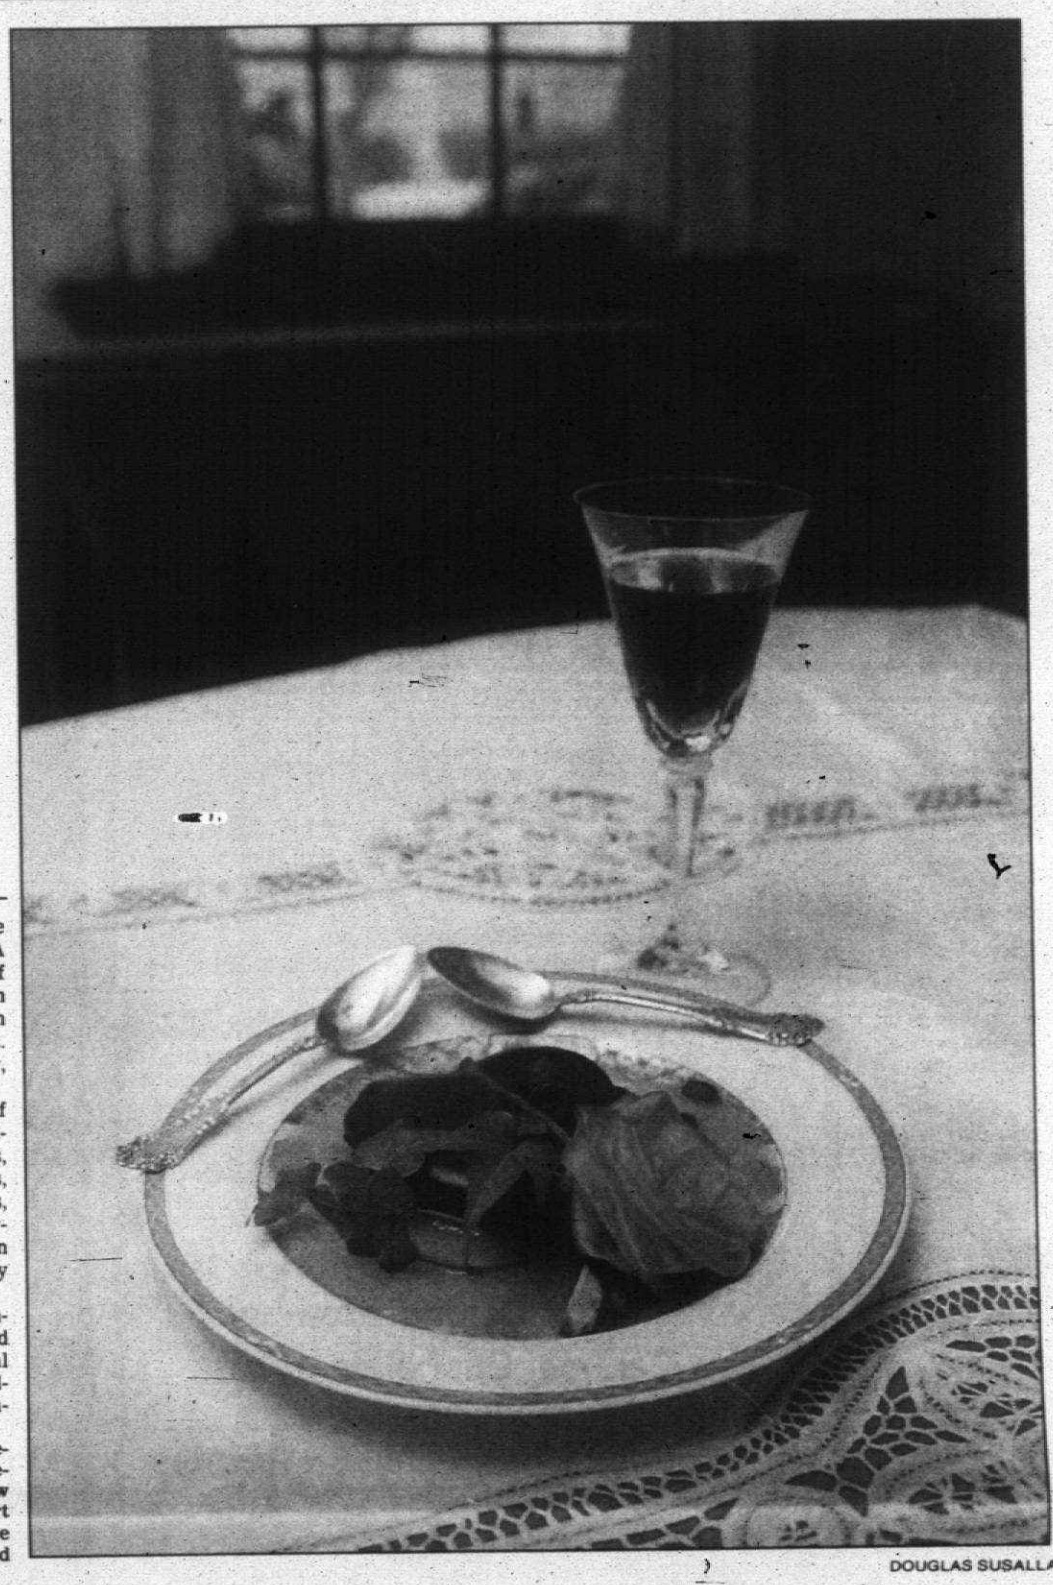
This entire column could be spent on television commercials. The one that most readily comes to mind is of the floor-cleaning women who can make a dirty kitchen floor "shine like new." First off, I can't just damp mop my kitchen floor and expect it to be even remotely clean. The way I cook, this job turns out to be one of those down-on-your-hands-and-knees sessions I always dread.

Can you really damp mop a floor and expect it to be clean and shiny? Am I the only person who has to scrape off crud with a butter knife while washing my kitchen floor?

I do the grocery shopping for the Janes Gang. Someday, I hope to get called for "The Price is Right." I will never be able to understand how or why the price of soap powder can fluctuate. One week, I can get a 40-pound box of All for $8.99 and two weeks later it goes for $12.49. Does Saddam Hussein exert control over the United States laundry market?

I have come to realize that I have about as much control over the food an airline serves me as I do the price of soap powder. One thing that always makes me feel better is a batch of double chocolate cookies and an oversized mug of hot chocolate, especially in the throes of winter.

With Love: Desserts and Wine



DOUGLAS SUSALLA

By Geri Rinschler
special writer

DOES ANYONE KNOW who St. Valentine was? No one seems to know for sure. A number of legends describe the patron of lovers. Author Edna Barth explains in "Hearts, Cupids and Red Roses" that early church records list a number of martyrs with the name St. Valentine, and they all shared the same feast day, Feb. 14, during the third century.

In spite of its obscure origins, the celebration of love has survived through the centuries. What better way to celebrate the holiday than with hearts, the symbol of love: chocolate cheesecake hearts, pastry hearts filled with custard and fresh fruits, genoise layer-cake hearts layered with buttercream, custard cream and strawberries; or frozen chocolate ice cream hearts filled with lingonberry sauce and topped with bittersweet chocolate.

A Valentine dessert party is an easy way to entertain because all the desserts can be made ahead or purchased from a number of talented local chefs or bakers. Complement the desserts by adding four or five fine dessert wines, to create a majestic dessert, wine-tasting party.

If you have never attempted a tasting party before, there are some things you need to know. Decide on the number of guests, then select a few sumptuous recipes and a few appropriate dessert wines. Not sure where to begin? To help out, we have consulted experts in the field of fine food and wine.

AFTER ESTABLISHING the guest list, develop the menu. Elwin Greenwald of Elwin's Tu-Go in Royal Oak and David Auer of Baking by the Auers in Southfield returned our challenge with three fabulous heart-shaped delights. For a party of 10, the experts agreed five desserts is a workable number to generously accommodate the group.

Greenwald suggested the menu have at least one chocolate dessert. He decided to prepare Espresso Way Tu Your Heart, individual chocolate cheesecakes served with a passion fruit sauce and a pastry heart filled with custard and topped with honeydew, cantaloupe and watermelon balls.

One of Auer's most spectacular recipes is for a Bagatelle Torte. This French genoise cake is layered with pastry cream, buttercream and fresh strawberries covered with a layer of pink-tinted marzipan and topped with a hand-shaped fondant rose, at our request.

To round out the menu, we added an apple-cranberry crisp and a 10-inch chocolate ice cream heart, filled with lingonberry sauce and topped with melted bittersweet chocolate.

Five desserts for 10 guests may seem extravagant but is essential for a dessert-tasting party when dinner is not being served. One guideline to keep in mind is that the desserts should be distinctly different from each other — a few very light and one or two of them very rich. For a larger party with 20 guests, five or six courses are certainly ample, just double the recipe.

Eleanor and Ray Heald

Gary Danko knows food. Gary Danko knows wine. Many chefs know food but not many know wine. Gary Danko knows wine because for the last several years he has been the chef/manager for The Restaurant at Chateau Souverain Winery in Sonoma County, Calif.

During his tenure at Chateau Souverain, the Restaurant received a four-star rating from the Wine Spectator magazine, and Chef Danko was honored as one of the Top 10 New Chefs of 1989 by Food and Wine magazine.

Danko recently demonstrated his skills of matching wine and food, at Detroit's London Chop House, where he participated in the Great Chefs program. "First and foremost," Danko said, "freshness is the hallmark of my cuisine."

Beginning with a coupe of Maison Deutz California Brut Cuvee, Danko explained that the Deutz had a French taste because the limestone-chalk soils at Deutz are very much like the soils of Champagne, France. "Salty, fried, spicy and Thai foods go best with sparkling wine," Danko suggested. "The bubbles lift the food and refresh the palate. I prefer this wine when it is served very cold."

WITH THE 1989 Beringer Napa Valley Sauvignon Blanc, Danko prepared Pan Steamed Fresh and Smoked Salmon with Fennel, Leeks and Spinach. Pinwheels of fresh and smoked salmon were quickly sauteed to leave a center of delicate pink flesh. "Salmon is a medium fatty fish," Danko said. "It matches well with dry, high acid wines like sauvignon blanc. The wine's acidity cuts through the fatty character of the fish just like lemon."

Grilled Marinated Quail was presented with Polenta Croutons, Cranberry Onion Compote and three vintages (1984, '85, and '86) of Beringer Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon. The small game birds matched with the cabernets because the cranberries tied the dish to the wine. The tannin in the cranberries heightened the fruit character of the wines and acted as the tie that binds.

The same three wines accompanied the third course of Lamb Medallions, Tarragon Lamb Essence, and Celery Root-Garlic Puree. A completely different phenomenon carried off this combination. The puree of celery root, with its earthy flavors, played against the natural herbal qualities of the cabernets, highlighting a completely different wine personality.

"Serve the best wines early in the meal," Danko advises, "before the palate tires or dessert arrives. I serve a 'savory course' following the entree to allow the diner to finish the red wine before dessert."

Our savory was a Warm Sonoma Goat Cheese Tart with Carmelized Onions on a bed of mixed greens and walnuts dressed with a delicate touch of walnut oil. The 1987 Chateau Souverain Zinfandel was fesh and fruity, but we preferred to enjoy the last few sips of the 1985 Beringer Reserve Cabernet.

DANKO'S FINISHING touch was a Gratin of Apples with Warm Nutmeg Cream and Pistachio Ice Cream served with the 1986 Beringer Late Harvest Johannisberg Riesling. It is difficult to skillfully pair dessert and wine, particularly when the wine is sweet enough to be dessert by itself. With a residual sugar of 16.4 percent, this wine is definitely sweet.

In this case, it tastes even better with the dessert than it does alone. The tart, spicy apple gratin brings out the wine's spicy character and keeps the acids in balance.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

1989 Dry Creek Vineyard Fume Blanc ($11). This is one of the nicest fume blanc (sauvignon blanc) we have tasted. It shows fresh pineapple and grapefruit aromas and flavors with a hint of straw just to let you know that it is 100 percent sauvignon blanc.

1989 Beringer Vineyards Sauvignon Blanc ($10.50). This wine showcases delicious, up-front, melony flavors with fresh, clean acidity. A great wine to serve with seafood, fresh fish, or fresh clams and oysters. Beringer also makes a second style of sauvignon blanc called Fume Blanc.

1989 St. Julian, Lake Michigan Shore Chambourcin ($10.75). Right on target for those preferring a lighter-style red wine, this one has pleasant berry and red cherry aromas reminiscent of a young pinot noir. Attractive flavors mirror the aromas with generous, depthful fruit. Don't miss one of Michigan's best red wines.

ESPRESSO-WAY TO YOUR HEART

Crust:
2 cups vanilla cookie crumbs
3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa
1 teaspoon coffee powder
4 tablespoons butter, melted

Mix ingredients thoroughly in a bowl and divide evenly among 12 individual heart-shaped molds 4-by-3-inches each. Press equal amounts of crumb mixture into bottom of molds. Chill until crumbs are set.

Batter:
6 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
1 ½ pounds cream cheese, softened
½ cup sugar
2 large eggs
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup espresso coffee
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Melt the chocolate in the top of a double boiler over hot, simmering water.

In a mixer bowl, beat the softened cream cheese with sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add cream and beat well until blended.

Remove chocolate from heat when melted and cool slightly. Slowly pour chocolate into cheese mixture beating well. Add coffee, vanilla and blend thoroughly.

Pour cheese mixture into the 12 prepared heart molds. Bake for 15-20 minutes or until edges of cake pull away from the sides of the pan. Remove pan from oven and cool on a rack. Chill until firm, 1 hour. When firm, run edge of a paring knife around edges to loosen from mold.

Carefully unmold cakes onto a rack, invert and arrange on a serving plate. Refrigerate until serving time.

Passion Fruit Sauce:
2 cups pureed passion fruit, made from ripe fresh passion fruit or canned
1 cup sugar
Juice and zest of 1 orange
1 tablespoon fruit liqueur (such as Le Grand Passion)

Combine passion fruit, sugar, orange juice and zest in a saucepan and cook over medium heat until mixture is reduced by about ¼ and becomes thickened. Remove from heat and stir in liqueur. Cool, cover then refrigerate until serving. Serve at room temperature or warmed. Serve alongside each cheesecake. Makes 12 individual cheesecakes (3-by-4 inches).

PAIRING APPROPRIATE wines with five different desserts is not an easy task. Although the general rule of matching light wines with light food and rich wines with rich food holds true, the alchemy of sweet dessert wines is more complicated. To help sort out the confusion, Joe Bruno, wine consultant for the Merchant of Vino's Birmingham store, came to the rescue.

How does one decide on which wines to choose? After planning the dessert menu, organize a list of the desserts and their prominent flavors.

A good, experienced wine consultant should be able to recommend a variety of wines to choose from, based on the outstanding flavors of each recipe, the number of guests and your wine budget. It is helpful to set cost parameters. For this wine tasting party the object was to spend no more than $20 per bottle and no less than $10.

Bruno, who has traveled throughout vinyards in Europe and the United States, pointed out that there is no set formula for matching dessert wines to specific desserts. He said, "In order to choose the right wines, you must first visualize the scents and smells of a wine as well as the taste."

The olfactory senses play an important role in wine matching. "Honestly, a dessert wine is a dessert in itself and can stand alone beautifully," Bruno added.

DURING THE conversation he suggested making notes of the wines sampled and recording likes, dislikes and distinctive flavors and aromas. After examining the recipes and ingredients, Bruno recommended five wines based on the body, alcohol content, sugar content, taste and aroma.

For the apple-cranberry crisp, Bruno selected a white, California riesling from Jekel Vineyards because the riesling has an apple aroma, which marries well with a buttery apple dessert. A 1988 Moscato d'Asti was highly suggested to serve with the Bagatelle Torte.

Bruno explained that the delicate egg custard and fresh strawberry filling make the perfect combination to accompany the light sparkle of this unique Italian wine.

For the custard-melon tart, a 1982 Chateau Monbazillac white Bordeaux wine was chosen because of its resemblance to ripe fruits. "Since cheese and port have an affinity for one another, I selected a Harvey's Hunting Tawny Port," Bruno added. Tawny port is a fine port, and with its almost citron quality is a natural companion to the individual chocolate cheesecakes with passion fruit.

Chocolate ice cream with a chocolate topping is by far the richest of the desserts on the menu. "Sherry, which is one of the strongest wines in the world, closely resembles the body of chocolate," Bruno said. A Pedro Ximenez Sherry by Emilio Lustau is the very sweetest of the dessert wines and one with a rich taste that needs to be acquired.

ENTERTAINING WITH desserts and dessert wines needs a little extra planning for serving pieces and wine glasses. You will want to have enough individual dessert plates for each course for every person. If you don't have enough wine glasses to go around, it is perfectly acceptable to rinse the glasses in between courses.

For an elegant evening, plan to serve the desserts one at a time with an appropriate wine. You also will need to have lots of mineral water for palate cleansing between courses and regular and decaffinated coffee served toward the end of the party.

To order the chocolate cheesecake hearts or the custard heart with melons and almonds, contact Elwin's Tu-Go, 515 S. Lafayette, Royal Oak, phone 547-8846, or fax at 547-1620.

To order the heart-shaped Bagatelle Torte, contact Baking by the Auers, 29207 Southfield Road, Southfield, phone 424-8660.

Healthy meal centers around Teriyaki Steak

Betsy Brethen

With Valentine's Day coming up, thoughts turn to affairs of the heart. It is always fun to remember loved ones with cards and little treats. This week's Winner Dinner will help you offer them healthy fare for their hearts as well.

Planned by Linda Millard of Livonia, the menu features recipes for spinach salad, teriyaki steak and rice, and home-made fortune cookies. After five years of studying and internship, Millard recently became registered as a dietician. She is very aware of the importance of eating healthy, well-balanced meals, and the menu she submitted is low in fat, calories and sodium.

Married for three years, Millard works at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia as an assistant dietician. She loves her job and especially enjoys interacting with the patients, offering them advice and helping them with any food-related problems they may have.

When not working, Millard loves to sew and do cross-stitch. She also loves to cook and always makes a point of garnishing plates, using whatever fruits and vegetables she might have on hand.

Millard included with her menu and recipes a list of some dietary guidelines for Americans. They are as follows:

- Eat a variety of food.
- Maintain a healthy weight.
- Choose a diet low in saturated fat and cholesterol.
- Choose a diet with plenty of fruit, vegetables and grain products.
- Use sugars only in moderation.
- Use salt and sodium only in moderation.
- If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation.

The following saying is one she keeps in mind when dealing with others. It is particularly relevant with Valentine's Day just around the corner: "Gifts from the heart are never forgotten. They are merely left in the hearts of others."

Thank you, Linda Millard, for sharing your tasty and nutritious recipes with us, and congratulations on being this week's Winner Dinner Winner.

Until next week, all the best. In the spirit of St. Valentine, I look forward to receiving more heart-healthy menus.

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere, to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. All submissions become the property of the publisher.

Linda Millard of Livonia, a registered dietician, believes in meals that are good for your heart.

ORIENTAL SALAD
TERIYAKI STEAK AND RICE
FORTUNE COOKIES AND SORBET

ORIENTAL SALAD

4 cups fresh spinach
1 can mandarin oranges, drained, 8-ounce size
¼ cup slivered almonds
1 sweet red pepper, cut into strips
Sliced water chestnuts (optional)

Combine the ingredients and divide evenly onto 4 separate salad plates. Use 1 tablespoon of your favorite low-calorie dressing. Kraft Low-Cal Catalina dressing tastes particularly good with this salad.

TERIYAKI STEAK AND RICE

Although this recipe uses beef, you also may use boneless chicken or turkey breast meat. Other vegetables, such as chopped onion, chopped celery, chopped green pepper and broccoli flowerettes can be added during the last half hour of cooking. Pea pods, which add color and crunch, can be added in the last 5 minutes of cooking. This recipe serves 4.

1 pound lean round steak or sirloin, trimmed of all fat
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1½ teaspoons sugar
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
¼ cup low-sodium soy sauce
1-2 cloves garlic, minced or ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
4 cups cooked rice
Your choice of vegetables

Combine the first 6 ingredients in a crockpot and cook for 1½ hours at 350 degrees. Or, if a crockpot isn't used, place the ingredients in a large skillet and simmer for 1½-2 hours. If necessary, add a little more soy sauce in order to prevent dryness.

Serve over 1 cup of cooked rice.

FORTUNE COOKIES AND SORBET

Fun to make, these fortune cookies will delight your family. Serve them with a dish of your favorite fruit-flavored sorbet.

¼ cup flour
2-3 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 egg white
1-2 tablespoons water
8 small strips of paper with fortunes written on them

Mix flour, sugar and cornstarch. Add oil and egg white and stir until smooth. Add water and mix well. Pour 1 tablespoon of batter on a small skillet that has been sprayed with a non-stick spray. Spread the batter out thinly in a 3-to-4-inch circle. Cook over very low heat for about 4 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn the cookie over with a spatula and cook for 1 more minute. Remove the cookie from the pan and fold in half, placing the fortune in the middle. Fold cookie again over the edge of a bowl. Place in a muffin tin to cool. Repeat the process with the remaining batter.

Shopping List

1 bag fresh spinach
1 can mandarin oranges, 8-ounce size
Slivered almonds

A menu for Valentine's Day

Gundella

In today's busy world, we all tend to cut corners, and look for the quickest way to do everything. In cooking, quickest is not always best.

Not only does the taste not always measure up, but I believe that the time and effort put into creating a special meal can have a calming, almost therapeutic effect on the cook.

The satisfaction of setting a really good table is good for the soul, as well as the stomach, of the one who does it, and of those who partake of the meal.

On Valentine's Day this year, why not take the time to prepare a really special menu, with all the extra touches that make a meal a memorable occasion?

USE YOUR BEST crystal and china. Have candlelight, soft music and fresh flowers. You don't need an expensive floral arrangement. Just one flower, with a sprig of ivy, floating in a bowl of water or a brandy snifter, can add grace to your table.

If you don't have the right tablecloth and napkins, don't despair. You can make them cheaply and easily, without even sewing a stitch. Go to your nearest fabric store and look for lace remnants. They will be on a sale table or in a bin.

Choose a piece that will fit your table (or can be cut to do so), in a color that will either match your table service, or in red or pink for Valentine's Day.

Cover your table first with any plain white cloth or paper. Then cover with the lace, so that the white shows through.

For napkins, buy any inexpensive white material that feels good. Cut into large squares and fray the edges, making an attractive fringe effect. If you don't have appropriate napkin rings, make some — by braiding ribbons, silk flowers, pipe cleaners or what-have-you.

If you are well established in a relationship, make this a romantic dinner for just the two of you. But if you are in a new relationship, or if this is the very first time you have invited your new friend to dinner, you don't want to scare him or her away. So make an intimate dinner for four.

Invite another compatible couple that you feel comfortable with. It can still be a very romantic affair and can set the mood for future dinners for two.

CHOOSE YOUR menu carefully. Each dish should be a special event, not something your guests might have had for dinner just last week.

Here is a suggestion for such a menu:

Strawberry Spinach Salad
Beef Wellington
Roasted Potatoes
Hot Rolls and Butter
Ice-Cream-Topped Cream Puffs, Topped with Home-made Hot Fudge
Rose or Red Wine
Coffee

BEEF WELLINGTON

This is a very special dish. It is expensive and time-consuming to make. It is also an artistic delight that tastes even better than it looks. It speaks of love to those who eat it. Only those who really enjoy cooking should attempt it.

To prepare enough for 4 generous servings, you will need:

Beef tenderloin roast, about 3 pounds. Important: do not substitute any other cut of meat.
1 sheet frozen puff pastry. This is available in most supermarkets. Be sure it is completely defrosted before you unroll it.
Salt and pepper
Flour, for dredging
½ cup liver pate Canned will do, but homemade is much better. If you don't have a recipe, call me.
2 tablespoons cognac, or carroway liqueur
Dijon mustard, about 1 tablespoon
1 egg
1 tablespoon water

Rub meat with salt and pepper and sprinkle with flour. Place on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Bake uncovered at 425 degrees for about 30-35 minutes. Do not overcook. Remove from oven and cool. Save pan drippings for gravy.

Roll out puff pastry sheet and spread with a mixture of mustard, pate and liqueur. Adjust to taste, as you mix it.

When meat is cool enough to handle, place it in the center of the pastry sheet. Pull up sides and ends of pastry to neatly cover the roast. Cut off excess pastry and save. Seal by pinching and turning edges under attractively.

Beat egg in a cup and add 1 tablespoon water. Brush this mixture over the pastry, making sure all edges are sealed.

Using the leftover pieces of pastry, shape or roll and cut out hearts, flowers and birds. Use them to decorate the pastry-covered meat. Use the egg mixture to stick them on.

Place finished roll on a well-greased cookie sheet.

If you are not ready to bake your roast at this time, refrigerate it, so that the pastry won't rise.

When you are ready, place the roast in a 425 degree oven and bake an additional 20 minutes or so, until crust is a beautiful golden brown.

To serve, slice crosswise and cover each slice with gravy made from the pan drippings, or with fresh sauteed mushrooms.

SOME OF THE BEST MANAGERS IN THE WORLD HAVE DIABETES.

Controlling glucose levels is the management challenge of a lifetime.
There are blood tests to conduct, exercise routines to plan, and special meals to prepare..
And for nearly one million Americans with insulin-dependent diabetes, daily injections to administer.
Not to mention coping with the stress of knowing diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, and blindness.
For all the work they do, people with diabetes deserve more than a pat on the back.
They deserve a cure.

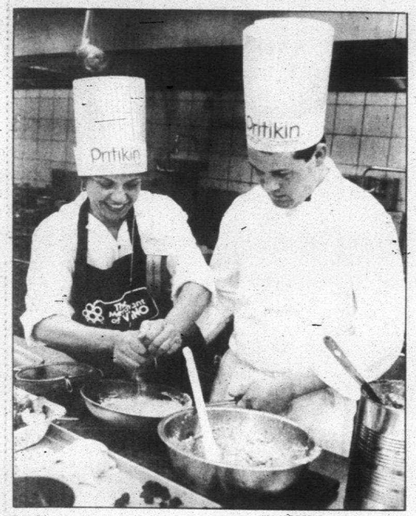
Pritikin's top prize goes to Chef Steve Allen



JIM JAGDFELD/staff photographer
Juliette Jonna of Merchant of Vino and assistant Jeff Randall work on her entry of stuffed catfish fillets, turkey barley, and mixed greens with a cherry-vinaigrette dressing.

By Ethel Simmons
staff writer

Chef Steve Allen of the Golden Mushroom in Southfield was awarded Best of Show in the first Pritikin Culinary Classic on Monday at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Allen took first place in both the Dinner in My Restaurant category and the Mystery Basket category. His prize is a two-week stay at the Pritikin Longevity Center in Santa Monica, Calif.

For Dinner in My Restaurant, chefs created a menu and prepared the courses they would serve in their restaurant. For the Mystery Basket, each chef had to select from ingredients provided in a mystery basket, and then prepare the food.

Every recipe was required to follow the guidelines of the Pritikin program for healthy eating.

Ed Janos of Too Chez in Novi received second place for Dinner in My Restaurant and Steven Schopen of the Whitney in Detroit, third place. Schopen also placed second among Mystery Basket winners and Jeff Gabriel of Les Auteurs in Royal Oak, third.

A category called Four Local Favorites (People's Choice) included as winners Ed Janos of Too Chez, Pat Dunn of the Van Dyke Place in Detroit, Jeff Baldwin of Norm's Eton Street Station in Birmingham and James Kowalski of Opus One in Detroit.

ROBERT PRITIKIN, director of the Pritikin Longevity Centers, headquartered in California, was on hand for the event.

While the 19 chefs prepared their dishes in the Schoolcraft College kitchen, Pritikin talked to the Observer & Eccentric about the Pritikin program. It was started more than 20 years ago, by his late father, Nathan, and was "thought of as a very effective Rx (presription)" for people with medical problems who were concerned about their health.

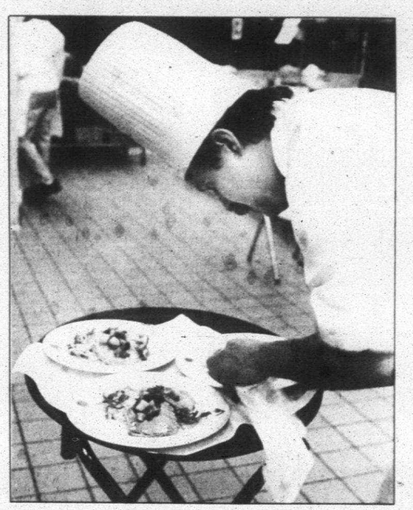
"The Hollywood set started going through the program the last eight years," Pritikin said, "and we had the Who's Who of Hollywood." The top tri-athletes in the country were next to be attracted to the program because, "It gave them more endurance."

One of the main points of the Pritikin program is to reduce fat intake to 10 percent of the individual's total diet. That's the only diet that's ever shown reversal for patients with coronary disease, Pritikin said, contrasting results of four recent studies that indicate a 30-percent-fat diet, recommended by the health community, has led to regression of coronary disease, in some instances.

"People are starting to say, 'Maybe your diet's not so extreme,'" he pointed out.

ALTHOUGH MANY people think that tasty food and healthy food are not compatible, "You can follow the healthiest diet and it can be tasty," Pritikin said.

The chef's competition is part of the Pritikin Systems Inc. current "Eat Healthy! Live Hearty!" campaign in metropolitan Detroit. Pritikin products are sold in groceries, and Kroger, A&P, Farmer Jack and Shopping Center Markets are participating in the project.



Greg Ervin of Tres Vite cleans edges of plates for his entry of roasted ahi tuna, roasted pepper-papaya salsa, and rice noodles tossed with basil.

'People are starting to say, "Maybe your diet's not so extreme."'

Patriots topple Canton in WLAA hoop

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

For Livonia Franklin junior Keith Roberts, Friday's basketball game began much earlier than the scheduled 7:30 p.m. start.

"I came here right after school and shot until 5, so I got about three hours of shooting," said Roberts after he scored a career-high 28 points — one more than his previous varsity best — as the Patriots downed visiting Plymouth Canton 65-60.

The win was especially important for Franklin, which knocked off one of the Western Lakes Activities Association leaders at a time when teams are positioning for the post-season tournament.

The Patriots are 6-3 in the league and 10-5 overall. The Chiefs, who have lost three of their last four games, are 7-3 and 9-7.

"(The extra practice) did help a lot because my shot was flat," Roberts said. "We don't have that much time in warm-ups. We come here late at night, too, so I've been shooting a lot lately."

THE 5-FOOT-8 guard was a big factor early in the game when Franklin nearly ran away with it and again in the last quarter when the Patriots rallied to overcome Canton.

Roberts scored 11 points in the fourth period when Franklin outscored the Chiefs 22-13 and reversed a 47-43 deficit entering the finale. He made three perimeter shots early in the quarter and was 4-of-5 shooting free throws. His free throws with 17 seconds remaining gave the Patriots a 63-60 lead.

"Roberts was not going to let his team lose that game," Canton coach Dave Van Wagoner said. "He took over and said 'We are not going to lose this game.' That was the last three minutes, I think."

After an unimpressive first half, the Chiefs regrouped in the third quarter to outscore Franklin 21-6 and own the lead with eight minutes left.

Mike Stafford scored all of his 12 points in the second half, including seven in the third, and post players Brett Howell and Rob Wilson made key contributions in the third quarter, too.

Stafford's triple tied the score at 43, and his layup off the fast break gave Canton its first lead of the game, 45-43. The Chiefs were 9-of-18 from the floor in the third period, Franklin 3-of-15.

"WE'VE GOT too many good people and too much senior leadership to fold," Franklin coach Rod Hanna said. "That's not our style. We've got too good a work ethic; we're too dedicated.

"We had our spurt in the fir quarter, and they had theirs in the third. Fortunately, we got our second spurt in the fourth, and tha helped us win the game."

Roberts restored the lead (57-55) for the Patriots with a basket at 3:40. After Dave Roman's free throws made it 61-58, Canton missed three tries from three-point distance, but Karl Wukie got the Chiefs within one with a pair of free throws with 19 seconds to play. Roberts made it 63-60 with free throws, and Stafford's three-point attempt rolled off the rim with :05 remaining.

Hanna also had some praise for Roberts, who had six assists, three rebounds and four steals.

"We keep the ball in his hands at the end," he said. "We're smart enough to know that. He's a pressure player; he wants the ball. Shooting those crucial free throws, he was smooth as silk on that line.

"Keith's game will improve, and he'll be one of the better guards to play for our school by the time his career is over."

HANNA LIKED the play of 6-foot-1 Russ Keberly, who missed the last two games and spent two days in the hospital with an infected knee. He returned Friday to lead Franklin with eight rebounds.

Hanna added the Patriots were sharp at the free throw line in the last quarter, making seven of eight shots.

"We only missed one free throw in the fourth quarter and that was important. We would have won four more games if we had made 65 percent or better."

Roberts, who made three triples, scored 10 first-quarter points as Franklin built a 25-11 lead. Steve McCool had half of his 12 points in the opening period.

After Jon Paupore's triple got Canton within 12-11, the Patriots, who were 11-of-15 from the floor in that quarter, scored the last 13 points.

Matt Cronan goes to the basket past Huron Valley's Melton Stoudemire. Plymouth Christian won the game 70-53 to clinch second place in the MIAC.

"I just don't think our guys were ready to play and we got outquicked," Van Wagoner said. "We weren't ready to play with the intensity Franklin wanted to play tonight, and I'll take the blame for that. They were red hot but when you don't guard people it's pretty easy to make 11 of 15."

DESPITE A drop to 3-of-11 shooting in the second quarter, the Patriots still led 37-26 at halftime. Roberts had 13 points and McCool 10 at the halfway point.

"We were real positive with our kids at halftime," Van Wagoner said. "I thought we would come back and win the game, but it slipped away from us."

Roman added nine points and Keberly seven for Franklin. Howell scored 13 points for the Chiefs; Wilson nine and Karl Wukie seven.

Rocks ground Falcons

Plymouth Salem built a 43-19 halftime lead Friday en route to an 82-40 rout over visiting Farmington.

The Rocks are 13-2 overall, 8-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, 3-1 in the Lakes Division. Farmington is 1-13, 0-8 and 0-4.

Senior forward K.C. Kirkpatrick scored a game-high 14 points for Salem. Senior guard Mike Mulder and senior center Cliff Lee tallied 13 and 10, respectively.

Forward Steve Gallagher had 11 points in a losing cause for the Falcons.

PLYMOUTH Christian Academy clinched second place in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference with a 70-53 win over Westland Huron Valley Lutheran at Stevenson Junior High Friday.

The Eagles improved to 9-6 overall and 5-1 in the league. Huron Valley is 7-6 and 3-2.

Plymouth Christian led 24-19 at halftime and 49-36 after three quarters.

Senior forward Keith McCants and junior forward Jeff Hess scored 16 points each to lead the winners. Senior guard Manish Nandani added 15 points and six assists, while Rob Askew chipped in 11 points.

Sophomore forward Melton Stoudemire tallied a game-high 32 points for Huron Valley. Aaron Thompson added 15.

Tigers top Salem wrestlers

Plymouth Salem tangled with a familiar foe Wednesday in the district wrestling tournament, but the Rocks would just as soon the reunion never took place.

For the second year in a row, Salem took an early exit from post-season team competition after losing to host Belleville, 32-26.

"When we were in the old league (Suburban Eight)," Salem coach Ron Krueger said, "Belleville and us used to battle, battle, battle for the league title, so we go back a long time."

As is usually the case in close meets, Salem didn't win as expected at certain weights and settled for decisions instead of pins at others. Those circumstances often make the difference as opposed to the heavyweight bout, the focal point to which tight duals usually boil down.

"Belleville wrestled real tough; they beat us," Krueger said. "Our kids did not wrestle to their capabilities. We didn't wrestle to what we've done in the past and therefore we were beaten."

SALEM HAD a 19-0 lead after winning the first four bouts, but the Tigers had four wins and a draw in the next five weights to trim the difference to 21-17.

Salem's only win following the 125-pound contest was Charlie Apigian's decision at 160. That gave the Rocks a 25-17 advantage, but Belleville won the last three bouts, two by pin, to make the come-from-behind victory possible.

Salem's early wins had John Moran (103) defeating Tom O'Kelley 7-2, Scott Martin (112) pinning Josh Monte in 5:33, Dan Bonnett (119) pinning Mike Champagne in 3:21 and Chad Wilson (125) winning a 9-0 decision over John Ratliff.

The Tigers began their comeback with Steve Davis pinning Dan Phillips in 52 seconds, and Belleville followed with three favorable decisions. Billy Yuhas (135) defeated Jeff Shumate 12-10, Fred Garcia (140) defeated Jeff Coleman 6-3 and Sean Zaborowski (152) defeated Bob Hansen 7-0. The 145-pound bout between Salem's Josh Viau and Belleville's Mike Rochon ended in a 9-9 stalemate.

Apigian whipped Marty Sacco 9-1, but the Tigers got within 25-23 on Mike Komaromi's pin (1:03) over Phil Haynes at 171.

Carl Rowsey avoided being pinned by Wade Langdon (189) and won an 11-6 decision, which gave Belleville a 26-25 edge. Jim Howe decided the final score when he pinned Ken Coker at 1:49 of the heavyweight contest.

A HANDFUL of Salem wrestlers had their opponents on their backs but settled for decisions or ended up losing instead of pinning, Krueger said.

"It seemed we had kids on their backs for half an hour," he said. "You have to put them away. If you don't dispose of your opponent, he's going to come back and dispose of you, and that's what happened."

The Rocks would have earned seven additional points if they had pinned in the three bouts they won by decision. That would have tied the score, and a reversal of one setback would have given Salem the win.

In meetings earlier this year, Shumate defeated Yuhas 14-1 and Coleman, though he was not 100 percent because of a shoulder injury Wednesday, had beaten Garcia, Krueger said.

If all of those positive scenarios had been realized, "Then we wouldn't have needed Langdon and Coker (to win)," Krueger said. "What happened would have been OK."

In the other semifinal match at the Belleville district, Canton did the same as the Rocks, taking a big lead over Ypsilanti in the early rounds before suffering a close loss, 37-36.

THE CHIEFS also won the first four bouts to build a 21-0 lead. Andy Strahan (103) defeated Mohammed Attaudii 9-2, Dave Smith (112) won on a walkover, Mark Armstrong (119) pinned Pugh Nafe at 1:06 and Jerry Flynn (125) pinned Jeremy Kniepper at 5:45.

Ypsilanti cut the deficit to 21-15 when Canton voided the 130 and 140 weights and Jeff Randolph defeated Justin Reed 8-1 in the 135 contest.

Liam Rentz (145) pinned Matt Schooley at 3:23 and boosted Canton's lead to 27-15, but the Braves won the next two bouts and closed to 27-25. Chuck Kooley (152) bested Tyron McCall 9-0 in a decision, and Lonnie Bryant (160) pinned Brian Bogater at 3:27.

Ypsilanti didn't have a 171-pounder, and the Chiefs didn't have a heavyweight. The Canton coaches decided to move George Young (171) and Mark Meszaros (189) up a weight, create a double void at 171 and challenge the Braves.

Young, the Western Lakes Activities Association champion at 171, defeated Carter Votgum on an 8-5 decision at 189, giving Canton a 36-31 lead. Both teams received six points for the double void.

Ypsilanti, with a size advantage at heavyweight, edged the Chiefs when 6-foot-2, 250-pound Rich Beachtram pinned the 6-1, 190-pound Meszaros late in the third period (5:29).

Rocks sink Vikes in swimming meet

Plymouth Salem won 10 events and rolled over visiting Walled Lake Central 134-51 in boys swimming Thursday.

The Rocks are 2-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 5-5 overall.

Salem swept the three relays while hitting a state qualifying time in the 200-yard freestyle relay. The team of Gary Bergman, Albert Sneath, Brett Petroskey and Joe Pawluszka won that race in 1:32.68.

The Rocks also won the 200 medley relay (Curt Witthoff, Jon Stridiron, Matt Erickson and Pawluszka) in 1:44.69 and the 400 freestyle relay (Aaron Berlin, Tim Nixon, Drew Varsava and Alan Hunt) in 3:47.42.

Witthoff also won the butterfly while posting a 54.52 time, and Bergman was first in the 50 freestyle at 24.12.

Salem's other winners were Scott Helmstader in the individual medley (2:20.96), Chris Lynn in the backstroke (1:05.53), Todd Piwowar in the 100 freestyle (54.95), Pat McManaman in diving (237.95 points) and Mark Erickson in the breaststroke (1:05.53).

Berlin and Hunt also had second-place finishes, Berlin in the IM (2:22.22) and Hunt in the 200 freestyle (2:04.96). Steve Salhaney was runner-up in diving with 220.70 points.

Volleyball showdown pits Livonia ballclubs

Volleyball supremacy in the Western Lakes Activities Association will be at stake tonight when Livonia Stevenson travels to city rival Churchill.

The match begins at approximately 8.

Both Churchill (22-0) and Stevenson (19-5-4) are coming off weekend action at the Schoolcraft Invitational (see Thursday's paper for results).

On Wednesday, Stevenson was sluggish, but had enough to win at Plymouth Salem, 15-6, 9-15, 15-7, 15-10.

Sue Bell led the Spartans to their 10th straight WLAA win with 19 digs and 10 kills in 25 attacks. She also served 10 aces.

Sophomore setter Patty Diamond added 17 digs and was 15-of-15 serving with one ace. Teammate Teresa Sarno contributed 16 digs, two solo blocks, nine assist blocks and had four kills. Laura Zatorski had 18 digs.

"I think we're playing like we're in the doldrums," Stevenson coach Lee Cagle said. "It's late in the season, but we have to pick it up for the big match Monday (tonight) with Churchill."

Churchill, meanwhile, defeated Plymouth Canton in a match Wednesday at home, 15-8, 15-8, 15-9. The Chargers beat Farmington Harrison earlier in the week, 15-7, 15-4, 15-4.

LIVONIA LADYWOOD clinched second place in the Catholic League's Central Division Thursday with a 15-10, 15-9 victory at Birmingham Marian.

The Blazers finished 8-2 in the Central, one win behind champ Farmington Hills Mercy. Ladywood is 30-9-2 overall.

Ladywood's top hitters on the night included senior Keli Haeger, 11 kills; Liz Gunn, five; and Rebecca Willey, four. Mary Jo Kelly and Haeger also recorded 14 and 10 assist-kills, respectively.

Haeger also ran off a string of 14 service points between the first and second games. Teammate Valerie Adzima contributed two aces.

Julie Wilson had 17 digs and only one error. Tara Wasiak and Michelle Wilson combined for five digs, while Jannel Hemme had two solo blocks.

Coach Tom Teeters also singled out the defensive efforts of Nancy Burr.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN lost in five games Wednesday to visiting Walled Lake Central, 15-8, 15-5, 13-15, 12-15, 15-10.

The Rockets are 8-14-4 overall and 3-7 in the WLAA.

Kara Beeny led the Rockets with 18 kills in 52 attempts with six errors. Teammate Nikki Wojcik added 14 kills in 15 attempts with eight errors.

Kerry Byberg and Jenny Massey each served eight aces in a losing cause.

Nikki Nagel collected 20 digs in 28 attempts.

Glenn's defensive standout was Leighanne Dunlap.

"The comeback effort fell short, but we played with a lot of heart," Glenn coach Linda Jimenez said.

LIVONIA FRANKLIN could not beat WLAA foe Walled Lake Western for the third time this season, falling to the host Warriors, 15-7, 15-13, 16-14.

"Even though we lost, it was our best match of the year," Franklin coach Terri Morehouse said. "Western has really improved."

Despite the loss, Colleen Lai and Ann Mondro combined for eight blockstuffs. Mondro also collected four kills.

Setter Sue Bona recorded 12 assists, while Jacki Warner and Kari Zabell stood out defensively.

The Patriots are 2-5 in the Western Division of the WLAA and 5-12 overall.

S'craft wins ugly over Alpena

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Dr. Jekyll, meet Mr. Hyde.

If you know your literature, then you understand that both characters are part of the same person. Sort of like the Schoolcraft College basketball team.

And the Alpena Community College team, too.

The two Eastern Conference rivals alternated the roles Wednesday night at SC. As SC coach Dave Bogataj described the game moments after his team had repelled a final Alpena rally to win 98-94, "That was an ugly game."

No doubt he was describing his own team's Hyde-like performance down the stretch. Alpena, which trailed almost the entire game — its last lead was 6-4 — had sliced a 17-point deficit to 81-77 with 4:53 left. But the Ocelots got three-pointers from Kwesi McGill and Dave Hamilton and hit four of six free throw trys to rebuild their lead to 91-82 with 2:20 to play.

Safe, right? Wrong.

DAN BRIDGES scored for the Lumberjacks and was fouled; his free throw narrowed the gap to six. Then came the turnovers — three by SC in the final 2:10. Bridges converted on a putback with 2:05 left to make it 91-87.

SC's Randy Watters fit into the Jekyll-and-Hyde scenario quite nicely down the stretch. Watters, who scored 24 points, hit a big-time shot when he swished a three-pointer from the corner with 1:48 left.

But Alpena answered 12 seconds later, with Ryan Marlatt draining a three to make the difference four once again. Again, Watters came up with a pressure play, taking the inbounds pass after Marlatt's basket and driving the floor for a layup and a six-point Ocelot lead with 1:32 remaining.

The SC defense, though, was nowhere to be found. Bridges scored inside again and the 'Jacks forced Hamilton into a travel with 1:07 left. When Mike Kollien banked in a shot to make it 96-94, it seemed the Ocelots were in big trouble.

LIKE THE last time the two teams met, Jan. 5 in Alpena, a reversal in fortunes seemed imminent. SC had just seven players available, and four fouled out, forcing the Ocelots to play the final half-minute with three on the floor. Still, Mitch Fyke looped in a long triple at the buzzer and SC escaped with a come-from-behind 97-96 victory.

The 'Jacks had lots of chances to do the same. Watters tried to drive to the hoop with :32 remaining but lost the ball, then fouled out battling Scott Olsen in the scramble to get possession.

But Olsen missed; Jekyll out, Hyde in for Alpena. The rebound was batted out of bounds and Alpena still had the ball. With :15 left, Bret Benvenuti put up a short jump-hook that bounced out. Bridges tried a tip-in, but that, too, rolled out.

McGill finally boarded for SC and was fouled near midcourt with eight seconds left. He hit two free throws to ice the Ocelot win.

"We had the shots we wanted," said 'Jacks coach Frank McCourt. "We had four or five tips, we just couldn't put the ball in the hole. They made the shots when they had to, and we didn't."

ACTUALLY, SC made the shots in the first half, filling the Dr. Jekyll role nicely. With Watters scoring 12 points in the first 12 minutes, the Ocelots had a 35-18 advantage with 6:30 left. But Alpena took over as Jekyll the rest of the way, outscoring SC 17-10 to close to within 45-35 at the half.

The role changes came more rapidly in the second half. SC led 61-49 with 14:30 left; 1:15 later, Alpena was within six. The Ocelots again lengthened their lead to 12 with 7:01 remaining, but a 10-2 'Jacks run over the next 2:08 made it 81-77 — and set up the final flurry.

"A lot of kids played well," insisted Bogataj. So what happened in the stretch run? "We got silly," he answered. "We just didn't have the energy. We did a real poor job handling the trap. If I were Frank, I would have gone to it earlier. We were near self-destruction because of fatigue."

But SC did hold up, bringing its record to 12-12 overall and 3-9 in the conference. Alpena is 2-10 in the conference, 9-16 overall.

Four other Ocelots reached double-figures in scoring: McGill, who also had 24; Hamilton, 16; Fyke, 11; and Scott Meredith, 10. Benvenuti paced Alpena with 19. Others in doubles were Mike Fonger (14), Bridges (12), Olsen (11), and Marlatt and Kollien (10 each).

Alpena finds right formula

The formula for success against Schoolcraft College's struggling women's basketball team is simple, apparently — force the Lady Ocelots to the perimeter.

Alpena CC did just that Wednesday, particularly in the second half, and it worked for a 77-65 Lady 'Jacks victory at SC.

"It was the same problem," said SC coach Jack Grenan. "Our guard play and inconsistent shooting. In the second half, (Alpena) played zone and we couldn't score outside."

Alpena's sagging zone took the Lady Ocelots' inside players, Tricia Lucas and Nicole Dapprich, out of the game. Lucas, who scored 17 points in the first half to keep SC close (34-30 Alpena at halftime), was limited to one in the second half.

Dapprich netted 11 points and grabbed seven rebounds, Leeann Lightfoot had 10 points and Laurel Haener got nine points and nine boards. Mo Merritt led SC with 13 rebounds.

Foul problems ruined SC's hopes for victory. Lucas fouled out with 10 minutes remaining; Haener followed her to the bench shortly thereafter with her fifth.

Kim Corey led Alpena (now 7-3 in the Eastern Conference, 14-7 overall) with 24 points. Beth Connon added 18 and Jackie Kennard had 12.

The loss, SC's ninth-straight in conference play, left the Lady Ocelots at 8-11 overall, 1-10 in the conference.

Churchill nips Hawks in 2OT

By Neal Zipser
staff writer

Thursday night's Duke-Virginia basketball game proved to be more than just watching a good matchup on television for Livonia Churchill coach Fred Price.

Price watched the contest and learned a defense he thought would work against Farmington Hills Harrison Friday. His strategy worked, as the visiting Chargers upset the Hawks 56-55 in a thrilling, double-overtime Western Lakes Activities Association game.

Senior center Randy Calcaterra's free throw with six seconds remaining in the second overtime proved to be the difference. Harrison junior guard Roy Granger launched a three-pointer at the buzzer, but the ball rimmed out.

Churchill dominated the boards and rallied from four-point deficits in each overtime to end the Hawks' nine-game winning streak.

With the win, Churchill tied Harrison at 3-1 in the Western Division. The Chargers (8-6 overall and 4-4 in the WLAA) face Plymouth Canton and the Hawks (11-3 and 6-2) play Northville in each team's division finale.

Price saw a defense Virginia used on Duke and drew it up on the chalkboard prior to the game. The coach thought it might slow Hawk leading scorer Andrew Smith down. The senior forward was held to 13 points, 10 under his average, and was blanketed all game by junior guard Brian Johnson.

"IT WAS A gimmick defense," Price said. "We never worked on it one second in practice. I drew it up before the game. It shows the team's intelligence by executing a blackboard adjustment."

Granger led all scorers with 16 points. Johnson and Mike Thomas tallied 15 and 13 points for Churchill, respectively.

For Harrison, the innovative defense wasn't as big a factor as Churchill's dominance on the boards. The Chargers held a 49-30 rebounding advantage, led by Calcaterra's 18 boards, including nine offensive caroms.

Harrison coach Mike Teachman realized the rebounding, as well as other factors, doomed his squad.

"Their work on the boards did it," Teachman said. "We didn't get any second shots for most of the game. What really changed the game was that we missed five layups in the first quarter. If we make those, it's a different game.

"They dictated the tempo and you have to give them credit for getting all five of their players back on defense."

The game seesawed for the entire game with neither squad taking control. The Chargers jumped to a 12-4 first-quarter lead, but a 7-0 Hawk run closed the margin to one entering the second quarter.

HARRISON TOOK its first lead of the game at 13-12 on an Andy Fitzpatrick layup. Calcaterra poured in five straight points and asserted himself as a force underneath the basket, collecting half of his four blocked shots midway through the quarter. Smith was held to just two free throws in the first half, but the Hawks only trailed 24-22 going into the third quarter.

The teams dueled to a 16-16 standoff in the third quarter, which featured six ties. The fourth quarter began with Churchill ahead 40-38.

The Chargers scored the next six points on a jumper by senior Steve Townsend and tip-ins by Calcaterra and senior Thomas. However, Churchill couldn't score for the next 3:53 and the Hawks crawled back to cut the lead to 46-42.

Churchill missed three consecutive one-and-one opportunities at the charity stripe and converted only five of its 13 attempts for the game. With 1:02 remaining, Johnson split a pair to give the Chargers a five-point lead.

Fitzpatrick countered with two foul shots and, with 37 seconds left, stole a Charger pass and fed Smith who canned a triple to knot the score at 47-47. Neither team scored again and the game entered the first overtime.

Harrison jumped out to a 51-47 lead behind a Granger jumper and a Fitzpatrick layup. Churchill scored on its next two possessions and tied the score with 1:00 remining. Teachman set up Smith for a final shot, but the forward missed an open 15-footer to send the game into its second extra period.

THE HAWKS again jumped out to a four-point lead behind a jumper and two free throws from Granger. Two jumpers by Johnson set up Calcaterra's heroics.

Calcaterra, who finished with 12 points, broke to the basket, where Thomas found him. Fitzpatrick fouled Calcaterra, who missed his first foul shot but nailed the second.

With Calcaterra in Granger's face, the guard took a desperation three-pointer that almost fell.

"I knew they were watching Andy so I had to take the shots like I did last week (in the Hawks' victory over Canton)," Granger said. "When I let go of it, I couldn't tell if it was going in because the big guy was in my face. But we'll do better from this day on."

The game ended with Churchill players and Price celebrating on the court.

"This was a team victory," Price said. "We had seven players rotating in and everyone of them played a super game. Going two overtimes with seven players shows a lot of heart.

Valentine's bowling: Love at first strike

VALENTINE'S DAY brings thoughts of love and, of course since all bowlers are lovers, the topic is "Lovers Lane."

Hey there, all you guys and gals, no need to hang out at the Brewhaus, seek out the local bowling center and you might just find that special someone.

Now more than ever before bowling is not only a very popular sport, but a great way to socialize with the opposite sex. And how about that first or second date? Rather than taking in a movie, go bowling instead. What a good way to get better acquainted.

Better yet, join a league. Mixed leagues now predominate the bowling secene. Most mixed leagues accept singles, and quite often these singles have become permanent partners, other than on the lanes.

Another venue would be the Saturday night "No-Tap" events held regurlarly at many bowling centers throughout the area. There is almost always someone looking for a partner at these moonlight doubles. A pair might get really lucky and win some money while they're at it.

AS FOR CASH? Why not enter a tournament? There are many coed tournaments as well. John and Zoe Reed of Redford Township first met while competing in a state tournament in Flint. Was it love at first strike?

Sandy and Bill Weed met in the Greenfield Mixed League at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills. They are a very strong husband-and-wife team in some of the local classic leagues.

The Greenfield League is where Carl Hansen met Jan Elliot who are now happily married. In addition, I became involved with my wife through bowling. It was a fun way to get to know each other.

It seems that with all of the many facets of the sport, males and females can bowl on an equal basis. Some women can easily outscore the males and this, too, can make things interesting. So, guys, don't forget to buy her some Valentines candy. And remember the old slogan that still rings true: "Couples that bowl together, stay together."

A theory or two for heart rate followers

Dear Myrna: I am a 30-year-old woman getting started in aerobic exercise. I go to a health club for aerobic classes. They take heart rates before and after class. That is great, but I don't know anything about heart rates — what's good, what's not good? Maybe I shouldn't know. It may make me nervous.

Don't be nervous about taking a heart rate, but don't take it too seriously either. Many times an aerobics class exerciser will make a mistake by a beat or two and God-forbid. In all our classes in and out of the studio, we prefer to use a method called perceived exertion. Working on a scale of one to 10, the exerciser should work six to eight minutes and be able to talk, not sing. This method has been found to be more accurate than taking heart rates, although everyone should understand the heart rate theory.

Because different people have different levels of fitness, exercise physiologists have developed a formula by which you can measure your maximum heart rate and aerobic threshold rates. Although a stress test, done on a treadmill and monitored by electrodes, is the best way to determine your maximum heart rate, the following formula is used by exercise professionals. Are you ready?

Take the number 220 and subtract your age. This equals your maximum heart rate. Using your age — your maximum heart rate is 190. Now, to determine an exerciser aerobic threshold (level you are working at an aerobic pace), take 70 to 80 percent of 190. This equals between 133 to 152 beats per minute. Since you are just starting, work your way from 133 to 152 (and even a little higher eventually) slowly. This is assuming you are sustaining an aerobic heart rate at least 20 minutes.

For shorter sprint intervals, you want to get the heart up to within 10 percent of maximum. Your heart can be exercised to pump harder and faster, therefore, being able to pump greater amounts of blood more quickly, due to strengthened heart muscles. Sprint intervals are to strengthen recovery and settle back into a lower rate after this burst.

Do not overexert yourself. Take this all lightly. Relax and enjoy exercise. Don't get all hung up on a heart rate.

(Myrna Partrich, co-owner of The Workout Company Inc. of Bloomfield Township, and a member of the President's Council on Physical Fitness, is happy to answer any questions readers may have regarding exercise. Send your letters to: Sports Department, Myrna Partrich, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.)

Spartans maintain lead

Livonia Stevenson maintained its one-game lead in the Western Lakes Activites Association (Lakes Division) thanks to Friday's 61-56 basketball win over host Westland John Glenn.

The Spartans are 8-6 overall, 5-3 overall in the WLAA and 4-0 in the division. Glenn falls to 2-12 overall, 1-8 in the league and 0-4 in the division.

Stevenson trailed 38-35 at halftime, but outscored the Rockets 11-7 in the third quarter and 15-11 in the final period.

Glenn led 56-53 with 3:50 remaining in the game, but made just 2-of-9 free throws in the fourth quarter and 3-of-15 for the game. The Spartans scored the game's last eight points.

Senior forward Dan Gibbons led the winners with a game-high 25 points. Matt Grodzicki added 13 and Dave Amey nine.

Gamel Ahmed scored 20 points for Glenn, including three treys. Kevin Champion chipped in 15 points, seven coming in the quarter.

DeLaSALLE 93, REDFORD CC 66: On Friday, host Warren DeLaSalle capped off a perfect 10-0 season in the Catholic League's Central Division with a lopsided triumph over visiting Redford Catholic Central.

The victorious Pilots are 14-2 overall.

Junior forward Bob Kummer scored 23 points for the Shamrocks, who fell to 6-9 overall and 4-6 in the Central.

Chad Varga and Bob Schneider chipped in with 15 and 10, respectively.

CC trailed 46-27 at intermission and could never recover.

Icy records warm winter catch

When the blustery winds of autumn blow in the northern climes, the frozen waters of lakes and rivers beckon the hardy ice fisherman to try his luck.

"The ice fisherman's chance of catching a world record is probably as good or better than during the open water season," said Ted Dzialo, director of the National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame. "It's a matter of record that angling through the ice produces proportionately more trophy size catches of certain species of fish."

Braving the elements offers another advantage. The flesh of fish caught in very cold water is much more firm and tastier than warm water catches.

ICE FISHING need not be an uncomfortable experience if certain basic guidelines are followed.

Several layers of clothing can be warmer than a heavy single garment. A hooded snowmobile suit over lighter garments is a wise choice.

Probably the most critical body parts to keep warm and dry are the feet. Modern insulated, water repellent boots, or boot liners worn in snowmobile style boots serve well to keep feet dry and comfortable. Again, two layers of medium weight sox are warmer than a single pair of heavy sox.

To add further comfort, anglers may want to make or purchase a windbreak screen of plastic or canvas which anchors to the ice. Some anglers prefer a small wooden or canvas shanty which can be left on the ice overnight.

Popular ice fishing waters are often peppered with ice fishing shanties and marinas on some lakes offer rental service.

The following is a list of the current ice fishing records compiled by the National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame in Hayward, Wis. The weights are listed in pounds/ounces. If your favorite species is not listed your catch will begin a new ice fishing classification or fill a vacancy.

TWO METHODS of angling are available to ice fishermen. One method is the pole-and-line method — often called diddling — the other is the tip-up or tilt method.

The pole-and-line method is similar to open water fishing except the pole and the line used on the ice are considerably shorter. Using a long line would require the use of a reel, which would promptly freeze up as the wet line is wound in.

Tip-ups come in a variety of designs. Basically, the unit is set up to span the top of the hole with a signal device (usually a small red flag) above the ice and the line and hook beneath the ice so it doesn't freeze. When a fish takes the hook and begins to pull out the line, the signal device is activated alerting the angler that a fish has been hooked.

KATHY POLICH, records secretary for the Hall of Fame, explained the ice record system this way: "The Hall's ice fishing records program recognizes only the heaviest of a fish species and lists such in the two categories of pole-and-line catch and tip-up catch. Ice records caught on pole-and-line are eligible for the same world all-tackle classification as are fish caught in open water.

"In contrast," added Polich, "because a tip-up is an automatic mechanical device, not a hand-manipulated catch, a fish caught by the tip-up method qualifies only for the heaviest catch in the tip-up classification and is not eligible for all-tackle classification for world record purpose."

To inquire about specific ice fishing records or vacancies that exist in the record book, contact the Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame at: P.O. Box 33, Hall of Fame Drive, Hayward, Wis. 54843 or call the Hall at (715) 634-4440. The records process is a free public service.

THANKSGIVING TO ST. JUDE
O, Holy St. Jude, Apostle & Martyr, great in virtue & rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. To you I have recourse, from the depth of my heart & humbly beg whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my urgent & great need. In return, I promise to make your name known & cause you to be invoked. St. Jude pray for us all who invoke your name. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys, three Glorias. Publication must be promised. Say this novena for nine consecutive days. This novena has never been known to fail. MJ

THANKS to St. Jude and Mother of Perpetual Help for prayers answered. VC

Uncle Lou Sez Fix It Right At LaRiche

HAVING AN ACCIDENT IS BAD ENOUGH.

DON'T LET ANOTHER ONE HAPPEN IN THE BODY SHOP.

When you get bodywork done on your GM car or truck, you might assume that genuine GM parts will be used. Not so. Many second-rate imitations are available on the market. And some insurance companies specify "generic equivalents."
Many imitations don't meet GM strict standards for fit & finish, corrosion resistance or structural strength. That can mean serious problems down the road. Insist on seeing your repair order and specify genuine GM sheet metal parts.
That's all we use. And we'll ever use. Because they're built by the same people who built your GM vehicle. And they're backed by a Limited Lifetime Warranty*.

Students swap flag burning for flag waving to support troops

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Don't bother lecturing Lori Grady of Canton about the unpleasantries of war. Don't tell her about United States casualties or the mounting cost of the endeavor to get Saddam Hussein and Iraq out of Kuwait.

She understands all that.

And though Grady was a mere infant, she's well versed in the history of U.S. involvement in Vietnam. A lesson was learned from the protests of that war, she said.

"That wasn't a positive thing," said Grady, 21, a 1988 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School. "It hindered the troops.

"Here they (U.S. soldiers) were over there and back home here we had riots at Kent State and people burning draft cards. What do the soldiers think? They're wondering 'Why are we here?' "

Wednesday, Jan. 16, Grady saw history repeating itself.

After initial reports of the bombing of Baghdad, Iraq, came on television, Grady and her friends heard an anti-war demonstration outside the window of her dorm room at Eastern Michigan University. Then they saw the United States flag being hung upside down.

She became infuriated.

It's one thing to be upset. It's quite another to spend time organizing a group of students to have a counter rally. Grady decided to act.

"I think a lot of people are confused on this. A lot of people are afraid to support the troops because they believe it's supporting the war."

-LORI GRADY

GRADY AND six other students at EMU formed United Students for the United States. The group has organized several rallies at the campus, designed to show U.S. troops that unlike during the Vietnam War, many students support them.

Some of the organizers have family members fighting in Operation Desert Storm. One person, amiably called "G.I. Joe," fought in the Vietnam War.

Then there are others like Grady. She only knows that Americans her age are fighting and dying for a cause they believe in.

"I think a lot of people are confused on this," said Grady, who estimates 75 percent of the students support U.S. efforts in the Persian Gulf. "A lot of people are afraid to support the troops because they believe it's supporting war."

For her efforts, Grady and her fellow students have been called "war mongers" by some.

Their first rally in the center of the EMU campus was marred by a scuffle, which Grady said didn't involve members of her organization. Eastern Michigan University's Department of Public Safety reported a car damaged during the gathering.

A veteran political activist would say it's part of the territory. Not for Grady.

THE WOMAN with red hair standing in Goddard Hall resembles the average college junior dressed in blue jeans and a sweat shirt clutching a Bart Simpson key chain. She describes herself and the other students involved as "conservative."

Radical or malcontent is not the first words that to come to mind.

Grady is not involved in student government or any political causes. She majors in special education, not political science or any applicable field of study one would associate for a rally organizer.

She's lived a typical white, middle class "Beaver Cleaver" existence. Her personality is more suited to be a spectator than the leader of the pack.

Yet something happened at the first gathering, attended by 800 students.

Anti-war activists state case with words and phrases

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Before going into battle, the anti-war protester first needs to check his uniform.

The olive green Army-issued coat with punk band names such as The Clash, Angry Red Planet and the Blanks scrawled in black marker on the back is put over his frame. He notices the right sleeve is torn.

"I got roughed up at the last demo," said the activist inspecting the shredded material. "I wonder if the police will pay for that."

A couple of buttons are strewn on the table, one is a peace sign. He strategically affixes them to his coat and then places a baseball cap atop his disheveled mane of brown hair.

Bill Boyer, 29, is ready to protest.

In his arsenal are a slew of catchy phrases, ones that lend themselves to sound bites on the 11 o'clock news. Every once in awhile, he tries them out.

" 'Wargasm,' how's that for a word?"

" 'We don't want people to be casual about casualties.' How's that for a quote?"

Today's demonstration won't call for those, however. Boyer and a group calling itself Bread, Not Bombs will stage a silent protest against United States involvement in the Persian Gulf War at the Patrick A. McNamara Federal Building in Detroit.

TWELVE PROTESTERS will sit silent in the lobby of the government site at 4 p.m.

The idea is for workers of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Internal Revenue Service, Social Security Administration and Government Purchasing Office Book Store to take heed and perhaps re-evaluate U.S. participation in the war against Iraq.

"I'd rather show them pictures of casualties than get my picture in the paper. We want to alert people to the realities of the war."

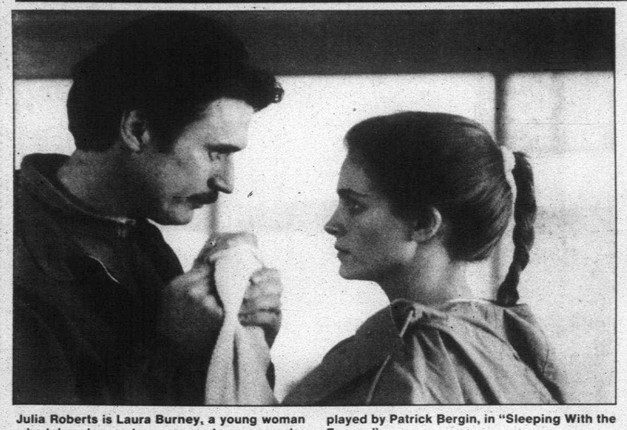
MOVING PICTURES



Julia Roberts is Laura Burney, a young woman who takes desperate measures to escape a destructive relationship with her husband Martin, played by Patrick Bergin, in "Sleeping With the Enemy."

'Sleeping With Enemy' needs some fine tuning

Dan Greenberg

Given her recent track record, "Sleeping With the Enemy" (C+, R, 95 minutes) is not up to Julia Roberts' standards, despite the fact that she gives yet another excellent performance.

But in the final analysis, the film is slow and the tension in this psychotic thriller flows from technical tricks rather than vigorous acting and exciting human interaction.

The basic flaws in the film revolve around the scenario and all the loose ends which need explanation and fine tuning for the film to work on our nerves and our sensibilities.

Roberts is married to a fellow who suddenly turned brutal and psychotic shortly after their wedding. No explanation of this drastic behavioral change is ever provided nor do we learn how she escaped his shrewd, psychotic scrutiny, learned to swim, saved money and planned a successful escape with a new name, Sara Waters — a cheap play on her fear of the water and parallel to her fear of hubby, both of which she has now conquered.

And escape she does to a small town in Iowa where Ben, drama teacher at the local college, courts her and they fall in love. Naturally, her husband tracks her down because of some extraordinary coincidences and her own carelessness.

It's all pretty thin and a good deal of the film's central portion is taken up with a music-video styled sequence as Ben wins her heart by letting her try on costumes in the college theater.

MOST OF the tense moments are telegraphed by obvious musical passages and acute camera angles. Her husband is pretty bland as psychotic threats go these days.

"Sleep With the Enemy" is a minor, predictable film so don't let the promos raise your expectations, it's not all that exciting.

"Cadence" (C+, PG-13, 95 minutes) misses the beat in an unrealistic, cliched story about a wild, unruly soldier, PFC Franklin F. Bean (Charlie Sheen), who ends up in a stockade run by a sadistic, bigoted sergeant, Otis McKinney (Martin Sheen).

The background of Franklin's problem is not all that clear and the film largely is played out on two sets, the stockade and a hard-labor locale. Franklin is confined with five black soldiers who, despite convictions for rape, murder and other sordid crimes, are friendly, loyal and really nice guys who quickly accept Franklin as one of their crowd.

That apparent contradiction is not explained very satisfactorily.

The five, who call themselves the "Soul Patrol," are lead by Stokes (Larry Fishburne) and they march to a different beat, their own "Cadence." Along with Franklin they fight to survive. Their biggest weapon is an attitude, something "Cadence" lacks.

"L.A. STORY" (B-, PG-13, 95 minutes), Tri-Star's latest romantic comedy, stars everybody's favorite "wild-and-crazy guy," Steve Martin, who also wrote the script and served as co-executive producer along with Caroloco CEO Mario Kassar.

Harris K. Tellemacher (Martin) is a TV weatherman in the midst of a series of crises in his personal and professional lives. His girlfriend, Trodi (Marilu Henner), is having an affair with his agent, an electronic freeway sign is sending him messages and he loses his job when his weather forecasts prove to be extremely inaccurate.

Harris has an affair while on his way to finding true love with Sara McDowel (Victoria Tennant), an English journalist on assignment in Los Angeles.

While "L. A. Story" is a love story, its real charm lies in the fact that it is a Los Angeles tale told from an outsider's viewpoint, English director Mick Jackson who noted that "I do bring a fresh eye" to the scene with an exaggerated view of L.A.'s lush qualities.

In case the satire of "L.A. Story" doesn't grab viewers bothered by a weak love story, cameo appearances by Chevy Chase, Woody Harrelson, Rick Moranis and Patrick Stewart help matters along. (Reviewed by Eric Phillips)

No doubt those who remember Part I from 1984 will enjoy "The Neverending Story II — The Next Chapter" (*, PG). Bastian Bux (Jonathan Brandis) returns to Fantasia for another adventure in that wondrous land of magic.

A warlock is a male witch and "Warlock" (a R), is combat between a noted witch hunter and one of them bad types. They battle across the centuries from 1600 to date.

STILL PLAYING:

"Alice" (B+, PG-13, 100 minutes). Woody Allen's latest, fanciful and romantic comedy about New York City stars Mia Farrow as a privileged but troubled lady.

"Awakenings" (B, PG-13, 121 minutes). Robin Williams and Robert DeNiro as doctor and catatonic patient call to mind too many other films. The doctor's special care and sensitivity lead to temporary recovery but film lacks spark expected from these talented actors.

"Come See the Paradise" (B-, R, 130 minutes). American labor organizer (Dennis Quaid) in mid-'30s marries Japanese-American who is interned after Pearl Harbor.

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes). Kevin Costner's magnificent ode to brotherhood and brutality on America's western frontier during and after the Civil War.

"Edward Scissorhands" (C, PG-13, 100 minutes). Unusual young man with scissors instead of hands shakes up the suburbs after moving in with the Avon lady and her family.

"Eve of Destruction" (*, R).

Depardieu makes 'Cyrano'

By John Monaghan
special writer

To make his point, master swordsman Cyrano de Bergerac doesn't always need to brandish his sword. When a pompous young nobleman protests over his actions, Cyrano cuts him down with an extemporaneous string of quips and comebacks that leaves his foe vanquished.

The epic French adventure that cast Gerard Depardieu in the role he was born to play comes to the Maple Theatre for a limited run. When it opened the Detroit Film Theatre season last month, "Cyrano de Bergerac" caught many people off guard (including myself) for its epic wit, romance and excitement.

Cyrano, originally the hero of a play by Edmond Rostand, trains and leads a formidable fighting force of long-haired swordsmen. They are comfortable with their leader but know the one subject that must never come up — his monstrous nose.

So when a new arrival starts poking fun at it, the cadets expect bloodshed. Instead, Cyrano, who has made a promise to his beautiful cousin Roxanne, takes the handsome young man under his wing.

The classic scene under Roxanne's balcony, where Cyrano literally puts beautiful words in the young man's mouth, plays especially well. Cyrano, of course, loves Roxanne and makes epic sacrifices throughout the film to keep her happy.

The filmmakers have wisely scaled down the size of Cyrano's nose. Depardieu's already pronounced proboscis only needed a bit of touching up to bring it up to Cyrano standards.

The production cost of $20 million (a fortune for the French film industry) and every penny shows. The film sumptuously re-creates 17th century theaters, training academies, castles and battlefields.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

Dr. Helen Russell (Barbara Bain) cocks her head and assumes the peculiar stance blonde cheerleaders take while gazing rapturously at star quarterbacks. The object of her regard is Commander Koenig (Martin Landau), commanding officer of Moonbase Alpha, a moon station hurled out of earth's orbit by a major explosion.

All this and much more are being released Feb. 15 by J2 Communications in an exclusive arrangement with Waldenbooks. That's the only outlet (at $14.95 each) for four one-hour episodes of "Space: 1999". If you don't — or can't — deal with Waldenbooks, dial (800) 448-2449.

Actually this "Star Trek" clone isn't that bad despite the fact that Bain and Landau are much more accomplished performers than their dialogue or delivery in "Space: 1999" indicates.

Moonbase Alpha has a mix of international hue, some 300 inhabitants who were flung into inter-galactic space. They are doomed to travel through space unless they can find a planet to colonize — or until the series is canceled.

The episodes are structured with regular fades to black for commercial breaks so "Space: 1999" may very well be pilots for a canceled series. Or did I miss a season on television?

IN ANY event, for an idle hour or two, they're not bad if you're a sci-fi, space fan. In one episode, billed as "Volume 2 — Matter of Life and Death," Dr. Russell's husband, Lee (Richard Johnson), turns up mysteriously after supposedly perishing five years earlier. He warns them not to land on a nearby planet because of its anti-matter characteristics. Naturally, they ignore his advice and run into a good deal of trouble.

The music is obtrusive and phony and some of the technical details are totally unbelievable. On the other hand, the special effects, animation and story concept are all done well enough to attract attention. Unfortunately, the whole thing falls flat when the scenarists write themselves into a corner and get out of it with a completely off-the-wall, unconvincing conclusion.

The Bristols — Kelly Knapp, Kim Ernst, Michele Haber and Colleen Kelly — is making a name for themselves in Boston with two of their records reaching No. 1 on radio charts.

Bristols cook in Beantown

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Probably, the last homecoming Kelly Knapp and Kim Ernst experienced included pom-pons, a marching band, floats and a queen getting crowned on a football field. This one promises to be different.

For one, this homecoming will be their own.

Oh, and there's a band. In fact, the pair of Livonians front it. But the only ones getting crowned will be those in the audience with some lethal doses of rock'n'roll.

Knapp and Ernst return to the area Thursday with the all-female, hard rocking outfit The Bristols. The group opens for The Replacements at Hill Auditorium

It's not quite what most people would've pegged these 1976 graduates of Livonia Churchill High School to be doing 15 years later.

"They would be surprised," said Knapp, who is lead singer of the band.

Naturally, this begs the question: What has kept them away for so long?

Well, blame it on The Bristols. Knapp and Ernst have been busy as the band is making quite a name for itself in the Boston-area and beyond.

The group formed in 1983 as a basement punk outfit and has since evolved into a high-powered, melodic rock entity on the Boston scene. The Bristols play an engaging brand of blistering rock'n'roll that some have likened to a cross between The Rolling Stones and the Pretenders.

ALREADY, THE quartet has had two of its songs, "You're All Around" and "Soldier of Misfortune," reach No. 1 on Boston radio charts (WBCN-FM and WFNX-FM respectively). Also, The Bristols have opened for Julian Cope, The Ramones, 'Til Tuesday and the Del Fuegoes to name a few.

Although Boston-based, some might attribute their raw rock sound to their Detroit upbringing.

"I don't know," said Ernst, who is bassist and backing vocalist. "We're not as punky as the Stooges or MC-5. When we got around to (playing), it was much later and Motown was way before that."

The Detroit music scene, namely Bookies, opened Knapp and Ernst to the wild world of punk in the late '70s. The explosion was just taking off here stateside.

In fact, Knapp and Ernst met up with a band at the legendary club, The Real Kids, who convinced them to load up the truck and move to Beantown.

Only Knapp had any musical experience, performing with Nikki and the Corvettes for a brief period. Knapp and Ernst met up with Michele Haber and Colleen Kelly and The Bristols were started.

"I guess we were searching for something," Ernst said. "We were out in L.A. doing extra work. We didn't like the people and we said, 'We didn't like this.' "

The Replacements map twisting musical course

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

The Replacements have never understood what it takes to please people.

That has been to their credit, and some may argue, has also been their Achilles heel.

When things were ripe for commercial success, The Replacements failed to capitalize. Case in point: The release of "Don't Tell a Soul" in 1989.

The LP wasn't the commercial smasheroo anticipated. "Don't Tell a Soul" marked a considerable detour for the Minneapolis, Minn., quartet, whose laurels were rested snugly upon snarling hard-core punk augured with Paul Westerberg's insightful lyrics.

On "Don't Tell a Soul," the boil became a simmer, Westerberg was more reflective instead of spewing.

In essence, The Replacements had suddenly become accessible, if not commercially acceptable, but in the processes alienated some 20 of their most devofed fans.

Some accused the band of pandering to the programmers of AOR radio. Especially since the change in musical direction happened to coincide with a major record deal with Sire Records.

Two years later, The Replacements offer no apologies.

"We didn't care actually," said bassist Tommy Stinson, whose band performs Thursday at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor. "We just make a record and hope it does well.

"CERTAINLY, some people didn't go for it. Some people did. At that time, it seemed right."

So, in one sense, the acoustic nature of the band's latest offering "All Shook Down" offers yet another paradox to The Replacements legacy. Westerberg decided to produce the effort (with help of noted R.E.M. producer Scott Litt), seeing all 13 songs through to fruition.

REVIEWS

HOODWINKED — The Neighborhoods

For all its guitar bravado and male posturing, The Neighborhoods' "Hoodwinked" is quite humorous, although one would guess that wasn't the intention.

Why would a band dare to risk fame and fortune by releasing such a sophomoric effort at such a pivotal point in its career?

Perhaps it stems from The Neighborhoods' lack of originality.

Of course, insipid lyrics, a somewhat lethargic rhythm section and repetitive (and boring) guitar solos could be easily overlooked considering the genre from which The Neighborhoods work. After all, this is hard rock we're talking about here.

But The Neighborhoods are in some serious need of HUD intervention by the judge of "Hoodwinked."

This effort is a non-stop, chainsaw guitar rock mish-mash with lyrics directed at women since left.

These songs, if anything, produce some priceless lines that span the range of banal — "You were made of glass and steel/I took you home and we made a deal." ("King of Rats") — to the wretchedly funny — "In the time it takes you to do your pancake face . . . another coat of paint" ("Sea of Memories").

But to truly appreciate the depth of The Neighborhoods' musical scope, there is, yes, a song about motorcycle daredevil and paragon of manly pursuit "Evil (sic) Knievel" (Knievel's first name is actually Evel).

Musically, The Neighborhoods sound like a Guns N' Roses-Aerosmith genetic experiment gone bad. The power guitar chords are excessive to the point of being excruciatingly boring. The acoustic strumming in "Love Holiday" offers a hint of tonality but disintegrates into a muddled mess of amplified fodder.

On "Hoodwinked," The Neighborhoods can take solace in one fact: Things can only get better.

NATIVE SONS — The JudyBats

Conventional wisdom tells us to beware of an album that is billed as "a stunning debut from a band that floats like a butterfly and hits like a bat." Sounds like someone in the Sire Records publicity office might try de-caf.

"Native Son" by the JudyBats, though, is an intriguing exploration of various styles of music. This sextet from Knoxville, Tenn., somehow manages to blend cosmic new wave with mud puppy folk among other things and crafts a batch of songs that are sometime infectious if not sometimes annoying.

To their credit, the JudyBats' sound is unlike anything heard before.

From the opening cut, "Native Son," it's quite apparent the JudyBats are working with a skewed vision of trying to be cosmopolitan yet quite rooted in Southern musical tradition. This in the past has led to some great music by R.E.M. and the B-52s. The JudyBats are no exception.

BUT HIPNESS can get this band in trouble. "Convalescing in Spain" starts off promising with an up tempo theme, aided by some jaunty piano. Lead vocalist Jeff Heiskell breaks down into some Steely Danesque melancholy mid-song, ruining the rhythm.

Then there are some rather curious lyrics — "Don't drop the baby cause he might cry /Don't touch my soft spot cause I might die."

"In Like With You" with its Marslike keyboards and soaring vocals sounds like British pop done right. "Woman in the Garden" is a richly orchestrated number that is a rather sad tale about a seemingly happy woman who has "bruises on her face" from a husband "who is a bore."

Songs like these makes the JudyBats' mistakes acceptable, if not endearing, in the sum total of what they have to offer.

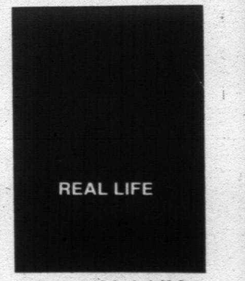
REAL LIFE — Detroit Blues Band



Jim McCarty's best-known work has been with the rocking likes of Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels and, later, The Rockets. He's also contributed his guitar talents to such releases as Bob Seger's "Seger VII" and Jimi Hendrix's "Nine to the Universe."

But the blues is where McCarty's heart truly lies. And there is no better indication of that than in "Real Life," the latest release by the Detroit Blues Band (Blues Factory Records).

McCarty, along with fellow guitarist Emanuel Garza, bassist "Billy" Landless and drummer "T-Bone" Walker, has put together a blues album that is gritty as a dirt top road and yet polished enough to put a military shoeshine to shame. The album features both uptempo dance numbers and some gut-bucket, backwoods blues.

"Back on My Feet Again" provides the first salvo of guitar heat, burning with high spirit and infectious dance rhythms. "My Life is Ruined" runs the opposite end of the spectrum and features some serious heartfelt guitar ache as McCarty reveals his early influences of B.B. King. "Walkin' Out the Door" is a similarly protracted blues guitar number that includes both McCarty and Garza going to the well of pain and rejection.

This is a team effort, though. Garza displays his innumerable skills as a guitarist with the Delta tinged "Scandalous Behavior" and the raucous dance number "Go Downtown." He wrote both songs.

STREET SENSE

Barbara Schiff

Dear Barbara:

My four-year-old son carries his blanket (what is left of it) with him at all times. He seems like a well-adjusted youngster in every other way.

Is it harmful to allow him to carry around his blanket piece? Should I insist that he stop? When I have tried in the past to stop him, he has become furious. Why is it comforting for him to hold pieces of cloth?

Betty

Dear Betty:

Your son is carrying his security around with him. Infants believe they are a part of their mother. They believe that they are one with her as they were in the womb. As they grow, reality sets in and the falsity of this belief becomes apparent.

The reality of their separateness is accompanied by an awareness of their weakness. If he is not one with mom, then he is just a little guy on his own. We can all understand how scary that is.

Children find different methods of coping with their anxiety. One of those methods is to impart mom's power to the blanket (or whatever is left of it). Small children typically think irrationally. If they distort reality, that's OK. When we examine the alternatives, we see that your son has made the best choice.

One alternative is to remain anxious and cling to mom. Thus, your son would be a crybaby and not much fun. The other alternative would be to deny needing mom. This, as is giving mom's power to the blanket, is a distortion of reality, but it is less adaptive.

For most people, distortions of physical reality are easier to correct than are distortions of inner reality. They are tangible and, therefore, more easily proved.

It is important for you to see that this is an adaptive measure. Your son is calming his anxiety by carrying around the blanket. Children will usually give up their "security" blankets by themselves. Either they independently stop needing them or peer pressure forces them to change the world on their own.

But it could happen that he will confound you by giving up the blanket only to take up with a teddy bear. Let him. Children should be allowed the time they need to find out that they can get along without continuously touching mother or her substitute. Each child has his or her own time schedule.

If your son has not given up his blanket or some other security device as it becomes appropriate, please write again and I will give you advice on how to separate him from them with as little trauma as possible.

The Replacements have found success of sorts, even though the group has yet to figure out what it takes to please people.

Replacements: No apology

Though acoustic, the songs are punchy and no less stinging in their commentary about life as seen through Westerberg's eyes.

"He (Westerberg) did a lot of this record to a click," Stinson said. "We (the rest of the band) just came in and started playing some things.

"I think the way the record was made he could get his ideas down the way he saw fit."

"All Shook Down" is affirmation that The Replacements have matured.

The virulent nature of albums like "Sorry Ma, Forgot to Take Out the Trash," "The Replacements Stink," "Hootenanny" and "Let It Be" revealed the work of a group that believed it was immune to the complexities of life, invincible to its pitfalls.

ROCK'N'ROLL was the answer. Even that was tenuous proposition.

With limited musical experience, the outfit relied on pure guile and inspiration from newly-found friends. They practiced nightly, learning their craft from scratch.

Then an opening band for the Nervous Eaters canceled at the last minute for a show at The Rat. The Bristols made their debut.

The group started off playing a jangly '60s style with Knapp's resonant vocals leading the way. As they learned how to play their instruments, the band gravitated to the more melodic, hard-edge part of the spectrum.

"It was nothing contrived," Ernst said about the band's beginnings. "That's all we knew how to play . . . It's simpler music and we didn't know any better.

"That's what was really great about the punk movement. They told us, 'If you want to do it, do it.' "

Elektra thought enough of The Bristols to pay for a five-song demo. The group is still in search of a major record deal, which could be just around the corner.

Major deal or not, the songwriting collaboration and friendship between Knapp and Ernst remains solid. The two have been friends since they were 16 and both were involved in drama at Churchill.

"It's very natural," Knapp said. "I've tried to write with other people. For some reason, it's easy for us to write together."

Tune fest benefits hospital

Big Bang Production will put 30 acts on stage for "Sonic Blur" 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 16, at the Latin Quarter in Detroit.

"We've asked people to check their egos at the door," MacLeod said. "This is a chance for them to shine."

Also, bands performing will help a charitable cause. One-third of the net proceeds will be donated to the general fund of Children's Hospital of Michigan. Admission is $8.

Each group will perform 10 minutes, roughly enough time for two or three numbers.

Two minutes will be allowed to change bands. The goal is to have five groups perform every hour.

To facilitate this, groups will use the same P.A. equipment and drum kit. Names will be drawn from a hat to pick the order of band appearance.

THE MUSICAL tag-team event is expected to be well-attended by artists and repertoire people from both major and independent labels, according to MacLeod. Industry people can expect quite a cross-sampling of Detroit rock'n'roll.

Among the various styles represented will be monster rockers 3-D Invisibles, skameisters Gangster Fun, bubble gum popsters See Dick Run and all-female punk rockers Inside Out.

Area bands on independent labels performing include Metal Blade's Junk Monkeys, 4AD's His Name is Alive and Restless Record's Elvis Hitler. Also, the bill features some of the newer faces on the Detroit music scene such as Blue Nimbus and Love Kings.

The massive undertaking was the idea of Gary Arnett, art director of Orbit Magazine, who jokes he might try for 60 bands next year.

MacLeod said response from bands wanting to participate has been tremendous. Organizers received 80 calls from people wanting to get involved, he said.

The number of bands performing on one stage is the first event of its type in this area. Gary Reichel, who has organized such bandfests for Tremor Records, will be the stage manager for "Sonic Blur."

"He knows how to run a tight show," MacLeod said. "He's going to be up there with a whip."

Sci-fi and fantasy have limitless potential so it's a shame that "Space: 1999" isn't a lot better than it is.

Another kind of fantasy appeared Feb. 7 with "Babar: Barbar Returns", a 49-minute episode of the charming and much-loved children's hero now available on cassette for under $15. This 1989 television program describes Barbar's life in the city with his friend, Madam, and his return to the forest to fight the hunter.

AND FEB. 20 looks to be a major date on the video cassette release calendar so lets jump the gun and cover the crowd. MGM

A Home Video is offering four first-time on home video titles that day plus a number of repackaged and reduced-price videos of well-known films.

The four are all in black and white, unrated as was the case in the early '30s and heavy in the Oscar department. While they're not all that well known these days, there's some interesting stuff in this package.

Wallace Beery won an Oscar as best actor in "The Champ"(1931), 87 minutes). Another Oscar-winning performance is available with Norma Shearer in "The Divorcee" (1930, 83 minutes). Clark Gable stars as a crime boss but, despite his uncouth behavior, he wins Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul" (1931, 91 minutes).

ALTERNATIVE MOVIE

In one of the most exciting sequences, set on a foggy midnight near the waterfront, Cyrano single-handedly takes on 100 swordsmen. Using his hulking physique to knock them into the water like dominoes, he comes through it with only a scratch.

Not just swordplay, "Cyrano" is about the adventure of words and the beauty of his poetry comes across in almost every scene. The careful translation of author Anthony Burgess, who did all the subtitling, helps greatly.

"Cyrano" is only done in by its music, which reminds an audience too much of the countless John Williams scores of the 1980s and more recently Danny Elfman's "Batman" music. Something more unique should have been concocted for the sword play.

You'll be hearing more from "Cyrano" in the months to come. There's talk of Depardieu — who won best actor at Cannes last year — being nominated for an Academy Award this spring. "Cyrano" is also France's entry in the best foreign film category.

"C'est La Vie" (France — 1990), through Feb. 15 (call for show times). The latest film from Diane Kurys traces the devastating effects divorce has on a pair of young girls during summer vacation by the sea. Full of witty and insightful moments only the French seem able to capture.

"The Magician" (Sweden — 1959), 7 p.m. Feb. 12-13. Ingmar Bergman directed and Max von Sydow stars in this brooding account of a 19th century mesmerizer.

"Akira Kurosawa's Dreams" (Japan — 1990), 9:10 p.m. Feb. 14 and 7 p.m. Feb. 15. For some people, this was more of a nightmare, a crazy quilt of dream images from the great director's long and full life. The images range from beautiful (the spirits of chopped-down trees) to embarrassingly bad (casting Martin Scorsese as Van Gogh). For curious Kurosawa fans only.

Elayne Boosler: Fiesty and up front

By Shirlee Rose Iden
staff writer

'They say girls are looking for their fathers in a husband. I can dig that. I can dig a man who gives me money and sleeps with my mother.'
— Elayne Boosler

She's no rose and no shrinking violet either, but bets are on that Elayne Boosler will be a popular valentine in town next week.

If you like your women and your comics feisty and up front, Boosler may be one ticket to an outstanding evening of fun in two shows Thursday, Feb. 14, at the Mainstreet Comedy Showcase in Ann Arbor. She returns Wednesday and Thursday, March 27-28, to Mainstreet.

orn in Brooklyn, with a built in sense of humor, the second child of a tool and die maker and a ballerina, Boosler said she was working toward a degree in tanning at the University of South Florida, when lightning struck. She decided to make a complete turn around and opted for New York and a try at show biz.

Her show business debut was far from auspicious. Boosler started as a singing waitress, but soon decided slinging hash was not her milieu. Turning to plan two, she set her focus on a career as a stand up comedy.

BOOSLER, who was 18, clicked in comedy and after 18 years is considered one of the nation's leading comics. She plays in comedy clubs and large auditoriums from Maine to Malibu.

"For me, any audience is a great audience," she said.

Called "the first lady of stand-up" by Rolling Stone Magazine, Boosler recently starred in a comedy special "Elayne Boosler: Top Tomata" which was broadcast live on Showtime. The production was voted Best Comedy Special of the Year in a Cable Guide readers poll.

The comic has also won accolades as a producer. She heads her own company and has produced five TV specials for which she received award nominations as best performer and best director.

During the summer of 1990, Boosler performed in more than 50 comedy concerts in theaters across the U.S.

Newsweek Magazine called Boosler a "trailblazer — the first to do stand-up from a woman's point of view without pandering to the men in the audience."

Comedian Richard Lewis, in the New York Times Magazine, dubbed Boosler: "The Jackie Robinson of my generation. She is the strongest female working and broke the mold for most female comics."

BOOSLER has never been afraid to look glamorous onstage. Her material, which stays away from the demeaning, sweeps from the topical: "The contraceptive sponge is just a way of making sex seem more like doing the dishes," to "They say girls are looking for their fathers in a husband. I can dig that. I can dig a man who gives me money and sleeps with my mother."

The comic's stage act takes the audience on a trip from puberty and into adulthood. Starting in the mid 1970s, she was one of the few female comics not to poke fun at her body, her significant other or how tough it is being female.

"I talked about the same things everyone else talked about — paying taxes, dating, trying to earn a living," she said. "It was so radical in its simplicity that it hadn't been done, especially by a woman."

Boosler still thinks she's a great singer and set out to prove it last summer when she stood up in front of 35,000 baseball fans in Shea Stadium to sing the "Star Spangled Banner."

"That was really a lot of fun," she said. "I love baseball, especially the Mets and in the summer I plan my tour to dovetail with theirs.

"Once I judged 'Banner Day' for them. They know me very well."

Boosler's rendition of the national anthem was done "way before Roseanne Barr sang," she explained. Still, the audience was there to watch the New York Mets. That you didn't hear about it indicates this wasn't a Roseanne Barr scene, but a dignified performance. And Boosler the comic can still belt it out as Boosler the songbird.

Elayne Boosler will perform two shows, 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 14, at Mainstreet Comedy Showcase, 314 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Tickets are $22.50. For information, call 996-9080. Boosler will also perform Wednesday and Thursday, March 27-28, at Mainstreet.

At the age of 18, Elayne Boosler decided to try a career as a stand-up comic. Eighteen years later she is considered one of the nation's leading comics.

Peace . . . Protests . . . 'Wargasm'

If they get arrested, well, it's the price to get the point across.

"I'd rather them show pictures of casualties than get my picture in the paper," Boyer said. "We want to alert people to the realities of the war."

Before his departure, Boyer checks his pockets once more. He pulls out some blood capsules.

Visual effects, he said.

Despite the slogans and the props, one wouldn't have pegged Boyer to be one of the vocal discontented. Where he was raised, where he went to school . . . those places don't breed anti-establishment types. And Boyer was the model suburbanite in his youth.

The 1979 graduate of Birmingham Seaholm High School has surprised them, though.

"My dad and I had an argument earlier today," said Boyer wearily. "He told me I was too emotional about the war."

BOYER'S IS not the rhetoric of a limousine liberal, a person whose radicalism stops when he plops into his BMW and rushes off to shop for a new fur coat for his paramour. He lives what he preaches.

His residence is the Cass Corridor, an area considered the epicenter for prostitution and poverty. He gets by on $70 a week, giving music lessons to inner-city youths.

"I guess it was moving down here and experiencing real community," said Boyer, explaining his choice of alternative lifestyle. "In the suburbs, community is lending your lawn mower to your neighbor.

"Underneath the violence and poverty, you have a real network of friends. I guess partly out of necessity, but mainly because people try to practice what they believe in."

Boyer's political activism stretches to a wide-array of causes. His most visable campaign has been with the Evergreen Alliance, which fought (and still fights) the incinerator in Detroit.

He's been involved in more than 100 protest rallies and has been arrested three times before this day.

The activist is also an artist. He's guitarist and founder of The Blanks, a raucous neo-political rock'n'roll outfit with a new album "If This Had Been an Actual Emergency . . ."

BOYER IS also a playwright, recently debuting "Deer Crossing" at the Trumbull Theater in Detroit.

He pulls out a frayed copy of Arthur Miller's "Death of a Salesman" before leaving for the sit-in.

Something to read in jail, he said.

Boyer, if anything, exemplifies the '90s anti-war protester who is perhaps more educated, media savvied and, unlike their '60s compatriots, less likely to call U.S. soldiers "baby killers."

"People say we don't support the troops," Boyer said. "We do support the troops. We want them home."

Even if it means sitting crossed-legged of the floor in the Federal Building for 1½ hours.

A member of the building security informs demonstrators they can sit until 5:30 p.m. when the building closes. If they refuse to move then, they'll be arrested.

Another member of security walks by with a handful of plastic handcuffs.

"We're not going to beat them over the head or anything," said a smirking security staff member to a newspaper photographer looking obsequiously hip in tennis shoes and jeans.

A few people stare. For the most part, though, those leaving the building as work lets out seem indifferent.

As the deadline nears, Boyer gets a little antsy. He stands up and walks around, defying security orders.He also changes the plastic lettering on the cafeteria felt menu to spell "peace."

Boyer turns and puts up two fingers to people protesting outside the building. It's not the peace sign, just the number of minutes until the building closes and they'll arrested.

A few minutes after 5:30 p.m., the sitters are handcuffed and led away down the corridor away from photographers. Outside the group sings choruses of "We Shall Not Be Moved," which caps off a rather anticlimatic conclusion to the protest.

For his efforts, Boyer was held by police for three hours and released. He was ticketed for disobeying a lawful order. Boyer said he'll probably plead guilty.

"I thought it was successful," he said. "We reached a lot of people in the building who are only exposed to one side of the war."

BOYER SITS defiantly grasping a "cease-fire" sign with his teeth.

Security scurries about and clears the rear entrance of media. No one is allowed to enter the building.

Bill Boyer, 29, meets with a fellow activist in a parking lot before a recent sit-in in the lobby of the Patrick A. McNamara Federal Building in Detroit to protest U.S. involvement in the Persian Gulf.

Truth and the Red, White and Blue

"It was the most incredible thing," Grady said. "I wrote a speech. I put a lot of heart into it.

"I just got up there and got so full of this confidence and I read it with all this emotion I didn't know I had."

As the rally neared, Grady emerged as more than a mere participant.

Her immaculate dorm room is an enclave of activity. The phone continually rings as she checks out the final details.

"Is G.I. Joe out there with the flag?" she asks Kevin Glazer of Bay City, another organizer for United Students for United States.

A FEW MINUTES before 10 p.m., Grady braces against the near-zero night air in a long overcoat with a red, white and blue ribbon tied around her arm and a yellow bow on the label and trudges out to the rally site.

Only a few students have arrived at the kiosk, which has been painted red, white and blue for the event. A small blond woman goes around with a tape recorder, asking people to say some words of encouragement to be sent to the troops.

"Don't print any of the obscene chants you might hear," Grady asks.

As evening classes let out of Pray-Harrold, the crowd begins to assemble. Many are jumping around, trying to stay warm.

Grady coordinates the confusion with a bullhorn in hand.

"So your brother and his platoon are on the front line of Saudi Arabia and you're coordinating letters to be sent to them? Sweet," Grady says to one of the scheduled speakers.

As the rally proceeds, Grady stirs up the crowd with some Arsenio Hall-style arm thrusts. The students, some dressed in fatigues and some in fraternity jackets, begin to chant "U.S.A., U.S.A."

BILL HANSEN

The door of Lori Grady's room at Eastern Michigan University's Goodard Hall reflects her support for the troops serving in Operation Desert Storm.

Grady puts her hand covered by a white mitten over her heart during the Pledge of Allegiance. A TV crew from WKBD-TV Channel 50 arrives and she commands the throng not to mob the cameras.

THE PATRIOTIC display is complete with heartfelt renditions of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America."

Speakers each take their turn, including the girl asking for people to write to the soldiers in the dessert. She holds up a tape recorder so the troops can hear the cheering.

Grady grasps a small U.S. flag and listens intently.

The rally proceeds in a march around campus. Several students wave large American flags while one supporter carries an Iraqi flag with a cardboard skeleton pinned on it.

Some students poke their heads out of their dorm windows and yell encouragement to the rally. A couple question Saddam Hussein's parentage.

"We have total control tonight," Grady says, beaming as the parade snakes around the dorm halls. "Last time, we lost control.

"These are the true supporters. This is going great."

Part of that credit goes to Grady herself. In an authoritative voice belying her personality, she commands that there be no alcohol. When the line strays onto the lawn, she yells for them to get back.

If anything, the event confirms her belief that many students support the troops in the Persian Gulf. She doesn't hold any malice toward those who don't agree with her and hold anti-war rallies.

"I think they really do care, and they do support the troops in their own way," she said, ". . . but they're going about in the wrong way."

Art flowers in poster competition

'First Tulips," a Polaroid transfer by Dina Kawer of Huntington Woods, took the top $1,000 AAA of Michigan prize in the Detroit Institute of Arts 1991 Art and Flower poster competition.

Her entry will be used as the logo for the fourth "Art and Flowers: A Festival of Spring," to be held April 16-21. In this popular biennial project, members of the DIA's major volunteer groups work with the 7,000 members of Michigan's 250 Federated Garden Clubs in designing flower arrangements to complement works of art from the museum's permanent collection.

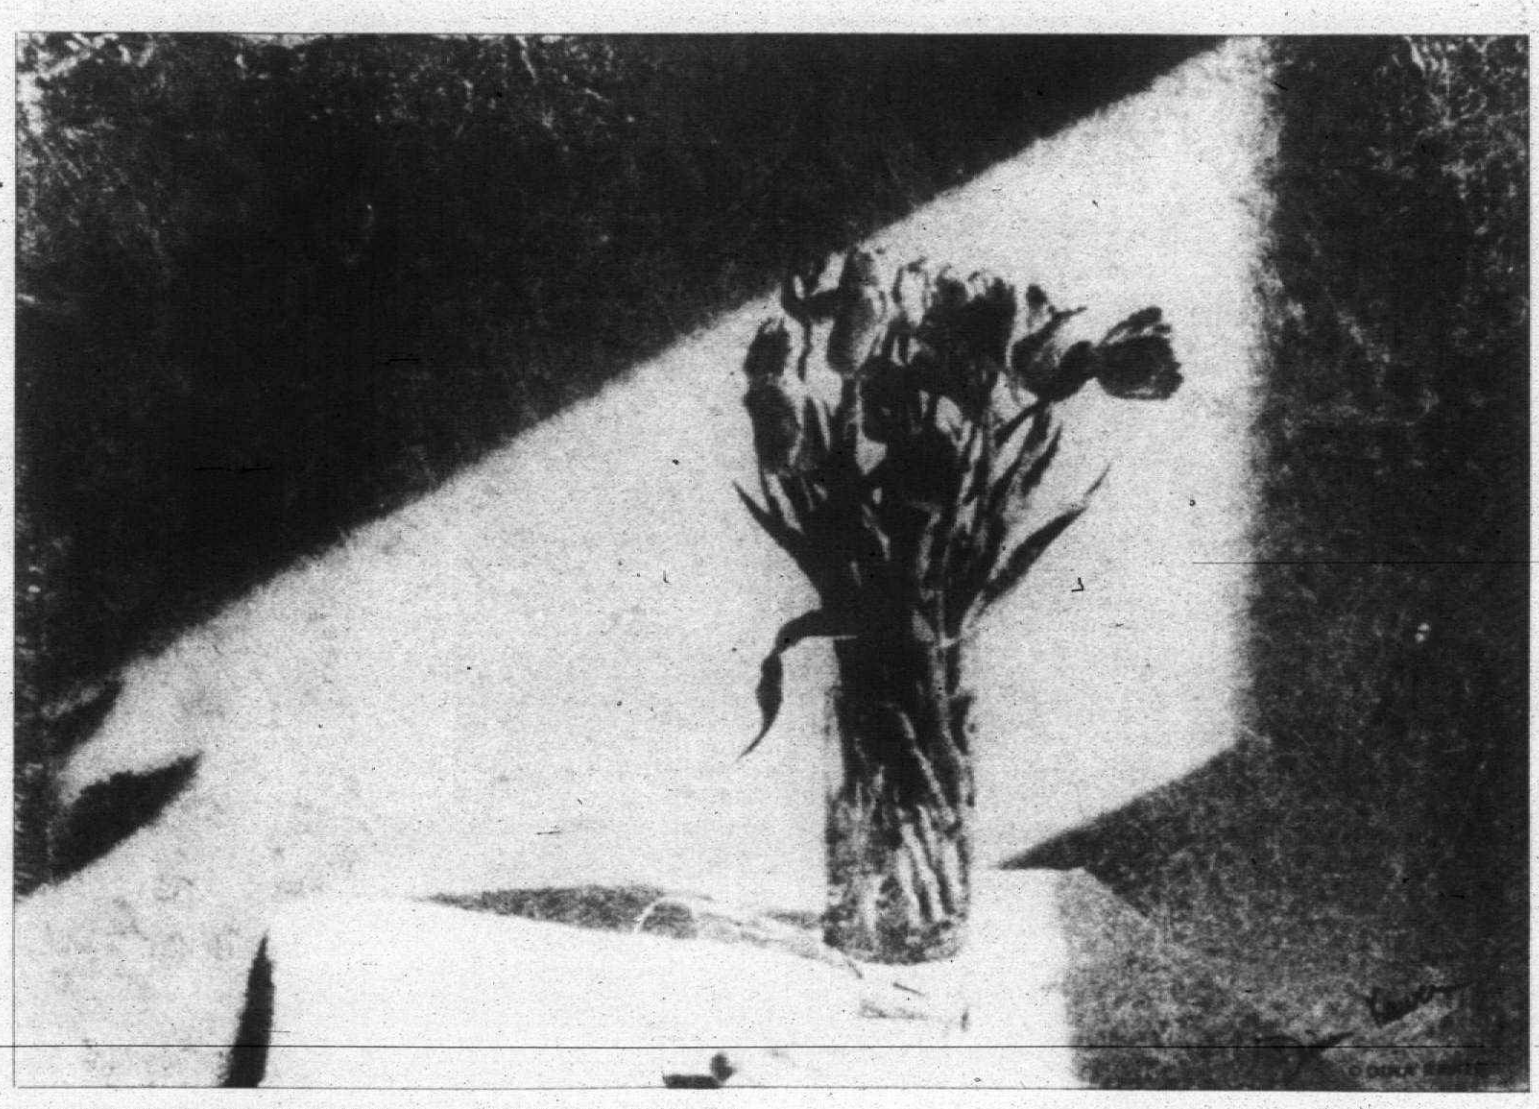
Kawer's design was chosen from 275 entries and her work, along with that of 17 finalists, is part of an exhibition that has been shown in Jacobson's stores. It will be at Jacobson's in Livonia through Sunday. Kawer will be there to sign the posters 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday. The exhibit will be in Detroit's New Center One Building Feb. 19 to March 3 and will close its tour at the DIA March 5 to April 21.

Kawer has said that even when she working on her degree in fine arts at Wayne State, she was interested in transfer processes such as this. She liked the virtually grainless quality of Polaroid film. When she later discovered a source for a particular Japanese handmade paper, Kozo, that gave her exactly the quality she wanted, her output and her enthusiasm increased measureably.

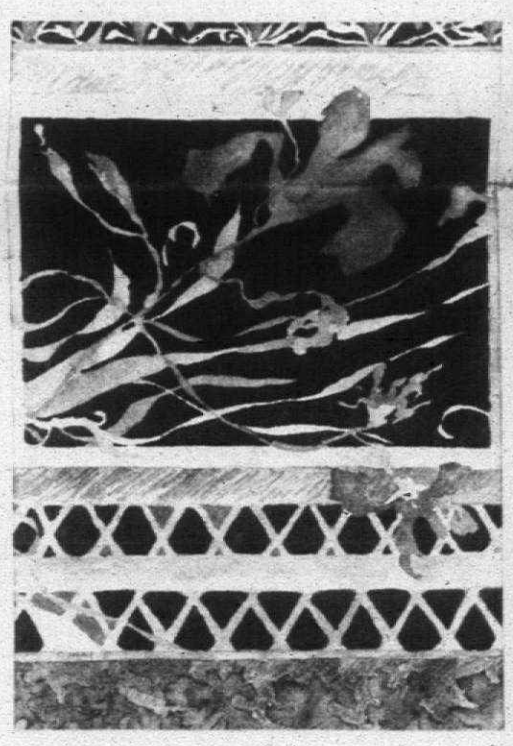
Her prize winning print, 3¼ by 4¼ inches was in her one-artist show at Pierce Street Gallery of Birmingham last April. "It's the only piece I can't part with, it's my personal favorite, so it was especially gratifying to have it win " she said. She can make only one print and there is no way of duplicating it.

Her work is handled in the metropolitan Detroit area by Pierce Street Gallery in in Boca Raton, Fla. by Linda Hayman Gallery.

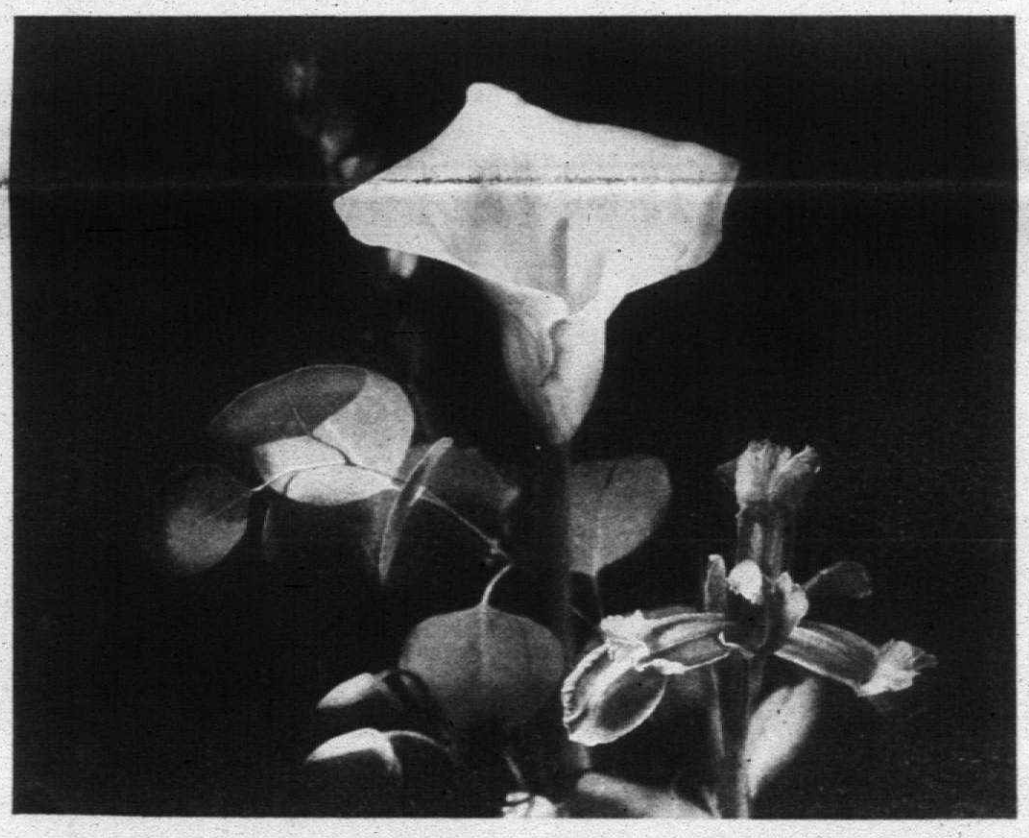
Area artists among the 17 finalists include: V. Janus Benda, Farmington Hills; Marilyn Blinder, Southfield; Marjorie Chellstorp, Farmington Hills; Bertha Cohen, Bloomfield Hills; Carole L. Hadley, Rochester; Sonia Molnar, Troy; Ruth Neuman, Birmingham; Fran Nicholson, Birmingham; and Kathleen Thompson, Farmington.



Dina Kawer's winning Polaroid transfer, "First Tulips," (above) has warm, lush shades of red, green and brown.



Watercolor by Carole L. Hadley of Rochester, one of the finalists, is titled "Bordered Iris."



"La Escencia," a black-and-white photograph by Kathleen Thompson of Farmington, was one of the finalists in the poster competition.

Cleveland Ballet schedules auditions

Cleveland San Jose Ballet has scheduled Detroit area auditions 1-2 p.m. Sunday, March 3, for three male and two female youths to appear as supernumeraries in Michigan Opera Theatre's upcoming presentation of "Coppelia" at the Masonic Temple Theatre.

Five young people will be chosen to play the very active roles of village children to altar boys. They will appear in Acts I and III clad in the colorful costumes of the company's resident designer David Guthrie.

Interested girls should be between 4 feet 4 and 4 feet 8 in height, boys between 4 feet 4 and 5 feet 7 in height. Supernumeraries need have no previous dance experience, but should be enthusiastic, disciplined and able to take direction easily.

APPLICANTS MUST telephone the MOT Production Office at 874-7850 no later than Friday, March 1, to register and for exact rehearsal and performance details.

Auditions will be conducted by Cleveland San Jose Ballet artistic director Roni Mahler and will be at the Michigan Opea Theatre administrative offices, 6519 Second Avenue in Detroit's New Center Area.

The first rehearsal will be immediately after the audition (2:30-4:30 p.m.), so those who audition should be prepared to remain until 4:30 p.m.

Cleveland San Jose Ballet will give four performances of Leo Delibes' storybook "Coppelia" with full symphony orchestra March 8-10 at the Masonic Temple Theatre in Detroit. The company's artistic director, Detroit native Dennis Nahat, choreographed the ballet.

For tickets, call the Michigan Opera Theatre ticket service office, 874-SING.

THE BALLET will have auditions for the 1991-92 season at noon Sunday, March 3, at the Masonic Temple, 500 Temple, Detroit. Nahat will conduct the auditions for both professional positions with the company and for the professional division of School of Cleveland Ballet.

The current season schedule includes performances in Cleveland, Ohio, and San Jose, Calif.

In August 1990, the 15-year-old company made its European debut performing at the Edinburgh International Festival in Scotland as the featured dance company and at the Point Theatre in Dublin, Ireland.

The company performs classical as well as contemporary works by such world-renowned choreographers as Balanchine, Limon, Tudor, deMille, Fokine, Jooss, Massine, Bournonville, Flindt, Horvath and Nahat.

Contracts for apprentice and trainee positions are available. A $10 fee will apply to all auditions. For information, call Cleveland Ballet, 216-621-2260, Ext. 2700 or 1-800-732-5651, Ext. 2700.

Singers invited to compete

The Bel Canto National Opera Competition will be Friday and Saturday, Feb. 22 and 23 at Southland, 23000 Eureka, Taylor.

The competition, sponsored in part, by Michigan Opera Theater, is for singers ages 23-35. One will be offered a chance to study this summer under the tutelage of Maestro Walter Barracchi, director of LaScala Opera House in Milan, Italy.

Suzanne Acton, music director of Michigan Opera Theater, will be one of the judges. Others are Ken Cazan, director of Opera Workshop at University of Michigan and a representative of the Bel Canto Opera Foundation of Chicago.

Interested singers must complete an application form and send an advance audition tape (at least two of the Italian repertoire) to the Bel Canto Foundation in Chicago.

For information, call Charleen Lamphear, manager of sales and marketing, Southland, 374-2807 or Becky Happle, of Michigan Opera Theater, 874-7850.

Dorothy Lehmkuhl

Q: Last week, you discussed the meaning of proactive. There's another word I hear a lot but don't understand and that's paradigm.

A: You're right. Paradigm is another popular word for which the dictionary won't give you a satisfactory explanation. Originally a Greek scientific word, "paradigm" today means a model, theory, perception, assumption or frame of reference. It refers to the way people "see" the world, not visually but rather the way we understand or interpret it.

People's perceptions can be divided into two categories: realities (the way things are) and values (the way we think things should be.) We assume the way we see things is the way they are or the way they should be, yet this may not be the case.

Many years ago, Harvard Business School demonstrated two people can see the same thing, disagree, yet both be right. Students were asked to view a black and white drawing which, when viewed through one perspective, looks like an old woman with a big nose.

By interpreting the same picture differently, however, the nose melds into a slender chin, forming the outline of a glamorous young woman. This is a graphic example of the different ways people "see" life.

Our actions are derived from our attitudes and behaviors, which are based on our paradigms, or the lens through which we "see" the world. For instance, if we see a rugged-looking man menacing a well-dressed woman with a gun, we might perceive the man has ill intentions and something should be done to thwart the man's threat. This would be our paradigm.

The more bound a person is to see life only one way, the more powerful the experience is when new light is suddenly focused. This is called a "paradigm shift." For example, if the man in the forgoing scene turned out to be a plain-clothes policeman and the woman an escaped convict, our paradigm would change (shift).

Paradigms have important implications in every aspect of life, including order. The right-brain-dominant person, for instance, hardly sees clutter, while the left-brain-dominant, highly structured person may perceive clutter as totally unacceptable.

Paradigms can mean the difference between being "stuck in a rut" ("We've always done it that way") and being open to innovative strategies. Looking at problems through the eyes of others can enhance personal relationships or teamwork between corporate departments.

A paradigm shift can be an instantaneious (Aha!) or a slow and deliberate metamorphosis. It can be the willingness to step outside our comfort zone to risk changing jobs, to suddenly understand how to use a computer software program to save time, or to try a new filing system.

Builders hope for easing of regulations under Engler

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

For the first time in a decade, builders are excited about a Michigan governor.

Despite the building boom during the 1980s — which occurred during James Blanchard's term — builders were pleased last election day when John Engler narrowly edged out Blanchard for the governor's seat.

Builders may have enjoyed incredible prosperity under Blanchard, but they also encountered no-growth/slow growth sentiment, stricter wetlands and environmental impact laws, out-of-sight property taxes, and what they saw as a cold shoulder to their concerns.

But Engler, he's their guy. A pro-business, pro-economic development governor, they argue, can only be beneficial to them.

But what of Engler? With the exception of a few nebulous statements on improving Michigan's economic environment, Engler's stand on topics of specific interest to the building industry is unclear.

"We'll need some time to determine just how good Engler's going to be for us," said Donald Pratt, president of the Michigan Association of Home Builders and president and treasurer of Wake-Pratt Enterprises in Troy, said.

Pratt said it was not so much a case of Blanchard being bad for building as it was a case of Blanchard being unsupportive.

One would think, Pratt concluded, that a Democratic governor would be more supportive of builders who provide jobs, revenues and — most importantly — shelter. 'But we never felt we had his support.

"But he (governor Engler) understands the over-regulation of our industry," Pratt said. "He seems very receptive to some of the things we need to do."

MARK WYCKOFF, president of the municipal planning firm Planning and Zoning Center Inc. in Lansing, said Engler may be receptive to private sector interests, but as governor he will also have to answer to the public interest.

Wyckoff, a consultant for several Oakland County communities seeking ways to control development, said Engler may be essentially pro-business, pro-private enterprise or even pro-development, but controlled growth proposals do not run contrary to these initiatives.

Wyckoff is a co-author of a report on existing growth management techniques and proposed legislation to better control growth in Michigan.

"I have a lousy read on the new governor," Wyckoff said. Engler has done little more than propose a budget and make a few appointments. As for identifiable positive or negative signals from Engler on development, Wyckoff said he's not certain where the next four years may lead.

Even if Engler desired to eliminate all growth controls, he couldn't do it, he said. "Just because we have a new governor doesn't mean it all gets thrown out the window."

Any changes to state law would have to pass through there first," he said. "It's not a free ride by any stretch of the imagination."

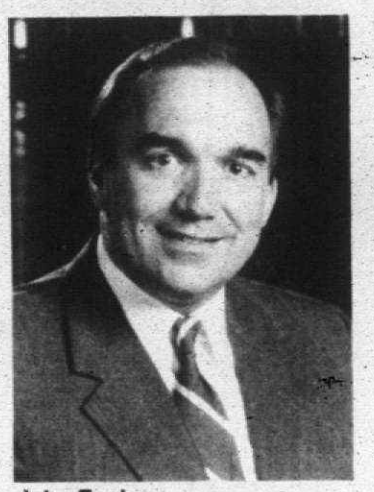
ENGLER'S BASIC philosophy of less government and lower taxes will benefit builders, just as it will benefit all private enterprises, said Engler press secretary John Truscott.

Truscott said specific Engler initiatives that ought to encourage the building industry include a reorganization of the department of natural resources separating recreation and wildlife from its environmental protection functions.

Hopefully, such a move would help to eliminate some of the bureaucracy and redundancy in the department, Truscott said. "In general, the governor believes there's too much redundancy in state government."

Another often-heard complaint from builders is that the state's wetlands preservation act is too vague.

"Governor Engler," Truscott said, "will instill consistency in the state's wetlands regulations. The problem the governor has always had with the wetlands regulations in the past is they haven't been uniform," he said. With no exacting definition, the law has been applied unevenly from case to case.



John Engler
'understands over-regulation'

BUILDER ASSOCIATION of Southeastern Michigan President James Bonadeo said builders don't expect extreme changes in the law that would free builders to develop unrestricted.

What encourages them, is that Engler appears to be a friend of development, whereas Blanchard was not, he said.

Blanchard may have sat in the governor's chair during the building boom of the mid-1980s, but he had little to do with it, Bonadeo said.

"I don't think Blanchard went out of his way to help us in the building industry."

Blanchard's lack of support for the industry resulted in an unprecedented pre-primary election endorsement by the state builder's association which usually waits until after state primaries before backing a candidate, Bonadeo said.

"Hopefully, that will leave some tender feelings (for the building industry)," Bonadeo said.

Gerald Fisher, an attorney with Kohl, Secrest, Lynch, Clark and Hampton in Farmington Hills that represents several municipalities in zoning matters, said it is premature to get either overly enthusiastic or depressed about what to expect of development under Engler.

Fisher is also a co-author of a report on Existing Growth Management Techniques and Proposed Legislation for Michigan.

"My feeling is the governor has an open mind," Fisher said, even though Engler addressed many issues developers might consider beneficial throughout his campaign.

OTHER ISSUES, like controlling urban sprawl and using existing infrastructure — roads, sewers and water — rather than building new infrastructure are likely to favor controlled growth initiatives, Fisher said.

True, builders and developers may have more of a reason to be happy with Engler because of his general inclinations, he said, "but they should also remember these are matters of public interest."

MAHB president Pratt said all builders want are fair laws that will allow them to develop their property. This does not mean unrestricted development that damages the environment or runs contrary to public interest.

Fair, consistent wetlands regulations and a more streamlined platting approval process would go a long way to speeding up — and therefore reducing costs — building projects.

Expediting the permitting and registration process at the local and state level for issues ranging from wetlands and woodlands mitigation to plat approval are making affordable housing an impossibility, Pratt said.

Moving a project from the planning to building phase can take up to three years under current regulations, Pratt said. Shortening that planning period to six months would hurt neither the community nor the project, he said.

Construction expo at Silverdome

The Construction Association of Michigan will host its annual construction expo and conference Wednesday and Thursday at the Pontiac Silverdome, marking its seventh year as the Midwest's largest show of its kind.

More than 600 exhibit spaces will cover the Silverdome's main floor and concourse area with products ranging from hand tools to heavy equipment. Show sponsors do not expect the downturn in the economy to affect attendance.

"Each year the show participation and attendance keep climbing," said James McLaughlin, show manager. "This year doesn't look like any exception to the pattern. With everyone tightening their belts, the show is more important than ever since exhibitors are trying to reach sincere buyers, and buyers are looking for bargains on construction products and services."

He predicts attendance of more than 12,000.

The show will also feature construction-related seminars taught by industry practitioners. The seminars are sponsored by CAM's educational division, the Institute for Construction Management.

Wednesday seminars are:

- The Bidding Process. The program will address bidding, plans and specifications; pre-qualification procedures; and avoiding losses through negotiation. Taught by Mike Ferber, president of Jeffsan, it will run from 1:30-4 p.m.
- Financing Alternatives for the Contractor. Issues are risk assessment; loan structure alternatives; reporting; schedules and backlog; role of a CPA; and case studies. The course will run 3:30-5 p.m. and will be taught by Michael L. Bourke of Comerica.

Thursday seminars are:

- How to Buy or Sell a Business. It will look at ways to determine real value of a business prior to selling; preparation for sale; finding buyers; negotiations; evaluating offers and financing options. It will be offered from 9 a.m. to noon and will be taught by John Engel, director of merger and acquisition services group of Plante & Moran.
- Performance and Payment Bonds: A Clear View of the Total Picture. Class examines the difficulties in getting bonding and restrictions that apply to bonding. It will also address how companies' compute bonding capacity; financial reports; minimum capital and financial condition requirements; and perfecting a claim against a payment bond. The class will be taught by Sherry Vondoring, audit manager of BDO Seidman, Thomas C. Koch, account executive of the construction division of Corroon & Black of Michigan, and Marty Burnstein of Seyburn, Kahn, Ginn, Bess, Howard & Harnish. It will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Drug-free Workplace: Issues include how to comply with federal law; requirements of major owners; extent and cost of substance abuse in the construction industry and why contractors should be concerned. William F. Maloney, professor of construction engineering and management at the University of Maryland at College Park will teach the class, which will run from 1:30-4:30 p.m.
- Attacking the Cash Flow Problem. A panel discussion, the seminar will present an overview of the cash flow situation in the industry. The panel will discuss ways to improve cash flow and how to use the Michigna Lien Law as a way to insure payment. Owners, general contractors and sub-constractors will make up the panel. It will be from 1:30-3 p.m.

In anticipation of larger crowds, there will be two entrances to the show, and advanced registration available. Show hours are 1-9 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday. For more information, call 567-5500.

Condos more attractive than co-ops

condo queries

Robert M. Meisner

We are living in a 30-unit cooperative. A number of the residents have gotten together to consider converting to condominium. What has been your experience in the feasibility of such an endeavor and does it really result in an increase in the marketability of the units?

More and more cooperatives are considering the possibility of converting to condominiums. First, the marketability of the cooperative turned into a condominium is much greater because of the ability to obtain end financing from banks and savings and loans in connection with condominiums as opposed to cooperatives.

Secondly, as a generalization, the general public is more inclined to buy a condominium than a cooperative in most instances because of the availability of financing and a more general acceptability of condominiums in this vicinity. As far as accomplishing the task, you will need the cooperation of the cooperative members, but it can be successful with substantial ecoromic incentive for all members of the cooperative to seriously consider the conversion process.

My unit is badly in need of what should be routine maintenance. I am experiencing strong drafts through all of my windows, even after assuring that they are fully closed. Upon close examination of the windows, I have noticed bad seals, broken latches and cracked caulking that I believe is contributing to the problem. I would take it upon myself to have the windows inspected and repaired as needed, but I fear retaliation from the association if I attempt such a move. I have written a letter directly to one of the officers addressing this issue, but it has been ignored. What action do you suggest I take?

You have not made it clear whether the association has maintenance responsibility for the windows or if you do. If in fact it is the association's responsibility, and they do not undertake to do so, you should advise the board of this fact and of the fact that you are concerned about the board not discharging its responsibilities. On the other hand, if you choose to undertake the maintenance problem yourself, it should only be done if the board allows you the opportunity to do so or if you have the obligation under the condominium documents to perform maintenance on the windows. I would not be worried about retaliation if you undertake routine maintenance, presuming that the board allows you to do so, or as previously indicated, you have an underlying obligation to do so under the documents.

I am co-owner in a cooperative and am sick and tired of some of the kids in the cooperative tearing up the grass when playing football. I have complained to the board of directors but they say that they are powerless to do anything. What can I do to deal with this situation, as I feel that my interest in the cooperative is being adversely affected by these renegade kids, primarily from other housing projects.

It is hard to tell from your question whether the board has done any investigation as to whether it can limit the playing of football on the cooperative premises. Obviously, to the extent that the kids playing on the cooperative are from other projects besides those of the cooperative, you may have a better basis to preclude them from playing there under the basic concept of trespass law. I would write the board and request that they obtain a legal opinion as to the propriety of limiting ball playing, assuming they wish to do so. If they are not willing to do so, I would suggest that you request that they provide you with a written explanation as to why they are not willing to do so.

Robert M. Meisner is a Birmingham attorney specializing in condominiums, real estate and corporate law. You are invited to submit topics about condominiums that you would like to see discussed in this column by writing Robert M. Meisner at 30200 Telegraph Road, Suite 467, Birmingham 48010. Newly Created Opportunities In Mortgage Banking

Independence One Mortgage Corporation, a rapidly expanding subsidiary of one of Michigan's largest banking institutions, has excellent opportunities for the following mortgage banking professionals:

AREA MANAGER

Reporting to the Regional Manager, you'll be responsible for supervising Area Loan Officers and area realtor base development, and developing/expanding new business and client relationships with realtors, builders and Michigan National Bank Branches.

Requirements include 2+ years professional sales and 1-2 years professional supervisory experience, working knowledge of residential mortgage lending, loan origination, and of the secondary market and a B.A. or B.S. degree preferred.

LOAN OFFICER

Reporting to the Area Manager, you will be responsible for developing, retaining and expanding client relationships with realtors, builders and Michigan National Bank Branches, actively cross-selling other products and services of the bank, and generating new mortgage loans.

Working knowledge of Residential Mortgage Lending, Loan Origination and of the secondary market is required; a Bachelor's degree in Finance or Real Estate and 1-2 years of professional sales experience are preferred.

Operating from various locations throughout the State of Michigan, these newly-created positions offer an attractive working environment, career growth potential, and excellent benefits. For consideration, please send resume to: Michigan National Corporation, Human Resources—Staffing/DL-DNA, P.O. Box 9065/10-66, Farmington Hills, MI 48333-9065.

We promote a drug-free environment. Substance abuse testing is part of the pre-employment process.

BIG CHANGE.

$3,000 IN BONUSES IS NO SMALL CHANGE.

There are a lot of big changes taking place at Henry Ford Hospital. To help us staff newly added critical care beds and other critical areas, we're offering Adult Med/Surg, ER, PACU, and Adult Critical Care nurses $3,000 in first year bonuses. To qualify, you need at least one year of hospital-based experience in one of these areas within the last two years, and you must be hired between January 6 and February 28 of 1991 for a full-time position.

You'll find that Henry Ford Hospital has changed a lot more than our bonuses. Our long term plan for change is providing nurses with higher levels of practice, respect, support, education and authority. Our salaries are also among the highest in the region, and our comprehensive benefits include 4.5 weeks of paid time off and on-site child care.

If you'd like additional details or would like to learn what other big changes are taking place at Henry Ford Hospital, call Nursing Employment at (313) 876-1306, Henry Ford Hospital, Clara Ford Pavilion, 2nd Floor, 2799 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit, MI 48202. An Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

HOROSCOPE

February 10 through February 16 By C.C. Clark

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Your schedule will be hectic, but take time to plan a fun trip for the future. Plan to travel with a loved one who thinks as you do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Tensions may ease at work and home by facing reality. You can't always get everything done. Sometimes you have to take time for yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Domestic problems could arise if you continue to misunderstand your partner. Don't alienate loved ones just because you disagree.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Pay close attention to details, especially at work or school. Authority figures understand your thoughts if you keep calm and explain things rationally.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Important people play a major role in your life this week. Make a good impression by being yourself, but don't become self-important.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
A business opportunity may find its way into your life soon. Look at the facts carefully. Be aware of what is going on around you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Love and romance may be just around the corner for the lucky Leo. You may rekindle the flame of an old love affair or find a new person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Don't take yourself or others too seriously. Feelings of gloom and doom can be dealt with easily. Take in a movie or chat with a friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Emotions could play havoc in your work environment if you let them. Keep your head on straight and fight feelings of paranoia with hard facts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Your love life may be waning, but things aren't as dull as they seem. Something is brewing under the surface. Watch your partner closely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
Go after the things you want, not just now, but later on as well. It seems easier to let others take charge, but actually it is not.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Domestic chores need attention. It is important to create a safe and homey atmosphere for yourself and those around you.

Our business is you

Cable Comments

By LARK L. SAMOUELIAN
Executive Director,
SW Oakland Cable Comm.

Through Community television you have the opportunity to meet many people. Each week frankly, I feel as though I have been given a present when I have the opportunity to spend moments with such inspired people. What is fascinating is that most everyone you meet is inspirational; it's just that all people do not recognize this in themselves. Meet Lois Wolfe-Morgan. Lois has the natural gift of guidance and she believes that "we must meet the challenge of individual and organizational growth through high performance and dedication to global self-esteem." Lois expounds upon this philosophy through her chosen medium of Community Television through the weekly program, "Expressions."

As a Professional in the Departmen of Defense for 19 years, Lois hired professionals in management motivation to encourage her staff to excel. This was the seed which inspired her. She has been recognized in the 1990 Edition of Who's Who of Women Executives and has just written a new book "Build Your Own Road."

Lois chose television however, to continue to reach people because of its ability to deliver messages to people in their homes where they have the choice of whether or not to listen and act on the message received. Through television she could bring people together who could demonstrate sensitivity and happiness. If one can see and hear, they will be able to 'believe'.

Lois constantly reinforces that our whole life is made oup of our very own choices. If you don't like what is happening then you may change your direction by making different choices.

As an active member in the

Lois Wolfe-Morgan

Plymouth Business and Professional Womens group, Lois met Omnicom's Department Coordinator for Community Television, Maris Holmes. She told Maria her dreams about reaching people in their homes. She had a goal to learn to ask the right questions. After a preproduction meeting, Maria introduced Lois to Cathy O'Loughlin and John Martin. They are the staff members of Omnicom, who help Produce and Direct the weekly sixty minute show. Lois uses copyright free music in her introduction. Her introduction was produced by Rob Mason. Rob is a radio personality who owns "Media Majic." The intro includes old photos of Lois and family members emphasizing different facial expressions and emotions. Cathy O'Loughlin had a very important part in completing this technical task.

As a professional speaker, author and director of her own training and consulting firm, Lois hosts 'Expressions' to demonstrate, inspire and promote the successful aspects of life, in business and personal relationships. She introduces guests who have proven success steps for the audience to follow; can demonstrate how to transfer skills/strength into success and have the ability to inspire, encourage and guide people of all ages.

Show topics are: the compatibility quotient, crime prevention, women business owners, secrets of negotiating and dealing with stress. These ideas are designed to help people find individual success.

The set is created using a variety of shades of purple because Lois feels that the color purple is regal and she tries to treat each person as having great value.

They have been producing shows since this past summer. To begin the 1991 season with an even more dynamic show, Lois is opening up the weekly format to a STUDIO AUDIENCE for each taping! The seating capacity is limited to twenty-five therefore, call 420-2906 for reservations. The show is taped every Monday evening between 5:30-7:00 pm.

'Expressions' will be a perfect show to be in the studio audience because there will be much interaction between the host, her guest and individuals in the audience. The subject matter will be something that everyone has had some experience with, at some time.

Having a studio audience is a special treat for the host and guest of the show because they will receive immediate feedback on what they say. It will automatically encourage them to let down their guard and be more human and animated in their dialogue. Such an immediate response helps also to cue the television viewing public on what behavior is natural to the subject matter.

Hosts and guests of a studio audience have to concentrate even more because what they discuss will be heard by people immediately. This is something that most do not even think about. Since they assume that every angle is covered. Not true for inhouse audiences. Suddenly the microphones usually attached to ones' lapel does only one half the job. Another mic must be made available to enhance the volume of the speakers. The mic must also make a question-answer session flow

Carl Reiner hosts 'Sunday Best'

New NBC program looks at television past, present

By Mary Ann Townsend

Comedy legend Carl Reiner has been humoring television audiences through five decades ever since he was a regular on 1949's "The 54th Street Revue."

He's at it again as host of NBC's new series "Sunday Best," which looks at funny broadcasting moments since the beginning of television through the present.

While he got his start on television as the photographer in a 1948 series called "Fashion Story," he gained fame for two other roles: his regular spot on the 1950's variety program "Your Show of Shows" and his writing and producing role on "The Dick Van Dyke Show." In fact, the tall, balding Reiner looks the same as he did when he played on the latter show as Alan Brady from 1961 to 1966.

The '60s brought another claim to fame for the comedian. His comedy routine, "The 2,000 Year Old Man" with Mel Brooks, had several incarnations on television and on records.

In the early 1970s he worked for a while on "The New Dick Van Dyke Show," and in 1976 he played Mr. Angel in the short-lived series "Good Heavens." Later in that decade he took his talents to feature films, directing movies like "Oh God" and "The Jerk."

He got his chance to play drama in the 1981 TV movie "Skokie." But he has also continued creating comedy vehicles for others as a writer, producer and director.

As host of NBC's "Sunday Best," Reiner will be guiding viewers through events in television history.

"He's really the father figure who guides you through, and he really is strictly the host. He may do an occasional comedy bit, but we will have other comedy bits on the show," explained Garth R. Ancier, executive producer of "Sunday Best."

Those other comedy bits are provided by an eclectic group of television aficionados including syndicated columnist and TV satirist Linda Ellerbee, actor/comedian (and original Eddie Haskell) Harry Shearer, co-creator of David Letterman's "Late Night" Merrill Markoe and comedian Jeff Cesario. Executives on "Sunday Best" include former CNN managing editor Cissy Baker and former "SPY Magazine" features editor Bruce Handy.

On the premiere episode of "Sunday Best," the contributors paid tribute to Reiner through a segment of clips of his classic shows, including his toupee run on "The Dick Van Dyke Show," "The 2,000 Year Old Man" and skits from "Your Show of Shows."

Each week "Sunday Best" will be divided into various segments, from a look at the previous week in television to highlights excerpted from a week at some other point in television's history. There's a theme segment, a viewer video mail segment, and lots and lots of miscellaneous clips.

"It continues to be molded and shaped. That's the nature of a show like this. It's never been done before, so the whole thing keeps molding as we go along," Ancier said. "We're just having fun with it."

TV comedy king Carl Reiner hosts NBC's new weekly series "Sunday Best." The series takes a look at humorous broadcasting moments from the beginning of television up to the most recent week's shows. "Sunday Best" is broadcast, appropriately, on Sundays.

Real-life husband-and-wife duo Kelly LeBrock and Steven Seagal team up for the action thriller Hard to Kill, telecasting on HBO Friday.

TIME OUT

Networks provide pro, college hoops

By Steve Paschal

The stars of the NBA will shine Sunday when NBC televises the league's annual All-Star Game, but a double-shot of big-time college basketball on CBS and ABC will make it hard for many basketball junkies to keep their hands off the remote control.

While Michael Jordan, Isiah Thomas and the rest of the best in the NBA are putting on their mid-season show in Charlotte, N.C., Nevada-Las Vegas and Arkansas, the top two teams in the pre-season college polls, will clash in the first half of a CBS twin bill that also features Duke and Louisiana State. ABC will counter with Purdue at Indiana followed by either Arizona at UCLA or Illinois at Minnesota.

The Runnin' Rebs of Nevada-Las Vegas proved they were the dominant college team in the nation last year when they crushed Duke by 30 points in the NCAA Championship Game. This year they're gunning for a second straight national championship after a miracle ruling by the NCAA. The ruling allowed the Rebs to escape sanctions that banned them from post-season play because of recruiting violations by Coach Jerry Tarkanian.

Arkansas is in the process of giving the Southwest Conference one last roundball lesson before moving on to the Southeastern Conference. The Razorbacks were the pre-season favorites to take the national title before UNLV returned to the picture.

STAR NOTES

Mother opened door for Susan Flannery

By Candace Havens

She is a licensed pilot, a gourmet cook and a Dodgers and Rams fan, and in her spare time she portrays the conniving Stephanie Forrester on The Bold and the Beautiful.

Susan Flannery is actually one of the original cast members who began with the show in March, 1987. Since that time B&B has grown in popularity and is now in direct competition for a top spot in the ratings with many of the soaps that have been around a lot longer.

Flannery was born in New York City to Marian and Leo Flannery. Her mother was a John Roberts Power model, and that very fact helped to draw Flannery into the entertainment business. After she graduated from college, her mother sent her to Los Angeles to meet a friend who introduced her to an agent. Through that agent she met several others and was signed on by one of them. Her acting career began in the television series Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea.

Shortly thereafter, she was offered a leading role on the daytime drama Days of Our Lives, where she starred as Dr. Laura Horton for eight and a half years. During her last year on the show, she won an Emmy Award as Outstanding Actress in a Daytime Series. Flannery has also starred in The Towering Inferno, The Moneychangers, Women in White and Anatomy of Seduction.

TRIVIA, ETC.

Liza Minnelli had early debut

By Steven Alan McGaw

Correction Dept: Some time ago, I asserted that Liza Minnelli made her film debut in Charlie Bubbles. Wrong! Actor Christopher Bradley hastened to point out that the infant Liza made a brief appearance in her parents' Meet Me in St. Louis. I stand corrected.

Questions:

1. Identify the actor who plays the protagonist of Lina Wertmuller's harrowing 1976 film Seven Beauties.
2. Name the actor who played Tessio in the first two Godfather films. (This character's ingenuity makes a memorable contribution to the first film. As a very large bonus, what is it?)
3. David Bowie has described this work as his "...32 Elvis Presley movies rolled into one." What is it?
4. In Kenneth Branagh's dazzling 1989 film version of Henry V, who plays the King of France? (Bonus: Name the role and film for which this actor received his Oscar.)

Answers:

1. Giancarlo Giannini
2. Abe Vigoda played Tessio, who, in the first film, came up with the hiding place for the gun which Michael Corleone used in an assassination. They hid it behind the toilet.
3. Just a Gigolo
4. Paul Scofield plays the French monarch. Scofield was named Best Actor for his 1966 portrayal of Sir Thomas More in A Man for All Seasons.

BITS AND PIECES

Television classics note 20th anniversaries

CBS will celebrate President's Day weekend (Feb. 16 to 18) with specials commemorating the 20th anniversaries of All in the Family, The Mary Tyler Moore Show and The Best of the Ed Sullivan Show.

Public television stations have chosen the American family as the focus of its community outreach activities in 1991. Under the umbrella title "The Family: All Together Now - Public TV Tunes In To Kids and Families," PBS will present special programming designed to inform and motivate communities to work to solve the problems facing families today.

The latest best seller from Dominick Dunne, An Inconvenient Woman, will be dramatized as ABC Productions' first miniseries. The four-hour, two-part drama starring Jason Robards, Jill Eikenberry and Peter Gallagher is scheduled to air during the current television season.

Mary Tyler Moore

Four-time Grammy winner Olivia Newton-John said she may return to the recording studio later this year to put together a greatest hits album, but she has no desire to resume a full-time career.

Regularly scheduled programming may be interrupted, delayed or pre-empted by coverage of the Middle East crisis.

Lori Loughlin stars as Rebecca Donaldson on the comedy Full House, Fridays on ABC.

Sherman Hemsley says Amen to playing Deacon Ernest Frye on the NBC comedy airing Saturdays.

SOAP TALK

Role more important than recognition

By Candace Havens

Almost every weekday you can see John Aprea portraying Lucas on Another World. His character has gone through a transformation over the past year, beginning as a bit of a hoodlum who could do no right and becoming a man simply trying to prove himself.

"When my character was younger I was supposedly a bit of a scoundrel who was driven out of town. Now I've come back to try to clean up my act," said Aprea in a recent interview.

"I've actually played a lot of characters of ill repute," said Aprea. One such character, Manny Vasquez on Knots Landing, brought him more recognition than he could have ever imagined. "I didn't realize the power of that show. Manny wasn't a part where they call you up and give you a contract. He just started and then ended up going through an entire season. He was a recognizable character, but I didn't feel like a real part of the show. But it turned out that more people knew me during that period than all of the other stuff I've done put together."

After the role on Knots ended, Aprea moved his family, wife Ninon and 2-year-old daughter Nicole, to New York to work on Another World. The flashy show business arena of L.A. became a distant memory. "Another World has been around for 26 years, and there is a real feeling of family there," Aprea explained. "We shoot in Brooklyn, and the crew is a very neighborhood kind of people. It's not at all 'show businessy' there."

He believes the soaps are a great place to perfect the craft of acting. "I've seen some of the people on our show do scenes that were just magnificent, and they didn't have near the time to prepare for it that someone in the movies or theater would have had."

His advice to would-be actors is hard but true. "Don't go into acting, and if you do, know that the only thing that matters is the work itself. You have to know that there is going to be rejection and work is difficult to find. There are a lot of very dedicated people out there who can't make a living. It's a tough business and you've got to love it."

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748.

The camera will find the correct angles for a demonstration of the program being taped. However, extra consideration must be given so that the studio audience may be seen as well.

And face it, it is always flattering to know that people are glad to see you and have questions to ask. The audience is almost a thank-you note within itself. Being part of a studio audience is so very exciting because you are very important to the acceptance of the television program. The television viewers are looking to you, watching your "Expressions" to receive their cues as how and when to respond.
