1st telethon to tell about township

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton's first telethon Sunday will feature what the township has to offer and tell how residents can support local programs.

"We took the telethon as a way to take four hours and tell the story of the Canton Foundation," said Bill Joyner, foundation executive director.

There will be one hour devoted to each of the four areas the foundation targets — education and scholarships; arts and culture; human services and the Canton community.

THE FOUNDATION also sponsors the monthly Canton Economic Club luncheons featuring guest speakers; as well as the the arts council and the Sell-a-Bration program for real estate agents.

Pledges will be taken during the telethon from 2-6 p.m. Sunday, March 3 on channel 15. And for people who can't watch, donations can be made anytime by calling 454-5427.

People who have benefited from the foundation will be interviewed during the telethon. Centennial Education Park musicians will perform during the telethon along with Sand Aid. Larry Kneeshaw started the group with Eric Webster to perform "Desert Shield," dedicated to the men and women serving in Operation Desert Storm. Kneeshaw wrote the ballad to his son who is serving in the Middle East.

"Raising the level of consciousness is the most important aspect of this," Joyner said. "It's not just a blatant appeal for money, we really think the Canton story is an important story to tell. We want to take resources, financially and intellectually and pool them. And this is another step in that process."

The telethon also will feature a short history of Canton's roots, local activities and current events.

Telethon callers can target donations to specific aspects of the foundation or put them in an unrestricted fund.

SINCE THE foundation started in August 1989 more than $120,000 has been donated. Money has been allocated as follows:

- $9,500 for scholarships. (Another $5,000 has been pledged for scholarships and will be allocated this year.)
- $1,000 to the university music society to take 300 elementary students to the opera.
- $7,000 to commission the "Storyteller" sculpture by Canton artist Joe DeLauro. The bronze sculpture will be displayed in the Canton Library in May.
- $6,000 to Plymouth Family Services.
- $500 to the Canton Historic Society.
- $1,000 to the Community Literacy Council.
- $1,000 to the Salvation Army.

Money also was donated to First Step, for abused women; Growth Works, substance abuse programs and Canton Place, senior citizen housing.

The Canton Connection

Shop Canton

The Canton Retail Association kicks off its "Shop Canton" campaign at a Friday, March 8, breakfast at Palermo's Restaurant.

The campaign is to encourage Canton residents to spend their retail dollars in Canton, with the effect of strengthening the community's commercial economy.

Mitch Howard, owner of the Canton Big Boy restaurant, is president of the group. The breakfast is being sponsored by Manufacturers Bank.

Lot rezoning

A public hearing for the rezoning of the area bounded by Warren, Gyde, Beck and Ridge roads is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday, March 4, at the township administration building.

The area is zoned rural residential, which allows one house for every five acres. Canton is considering rezoning the area to half acre lots. Meanwhile, residents are circulating petitions to block the change.

Valentine trip

Plymouth township resident Elizabeth Barker won a trip to Cancun, Mexico, from a call-in contest on Dick Purtan's WKQI 95.5-FM radio show on Valentine's Day.

The "Nine to Five" contest asks callers to name the artist who played at 9 a.m., 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Barker won the contest on Feb. 14 and is scheduled to leave for the warm Mexican shores March 2.

"I was so excited," said Barker, pompon coach for Plymouth-Salem High school.

War memorial

Residents working to build a war memorial in Canton will meet 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 6, not Thursday, March 7, as was previously reported. The planning meeting will be in the Canton administration building, Canton Center south of Proctor, to plan what needs to be done.

Anyone interested in erecting a memorial in Canton is invited to attend.

Jean Zoda said she was grateful for the thoughtfulness of three young men who found and returned an American flag that was stolen from the Canton family.

Stolen flag returned to Canton house

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Old Glory is back home.

Three teenage boys last weekend returned a flag that was stolen from John and Jean Zoda's house on Leeann Lane in Canton.

"They said they knew the girl who had stolen the flag and that she had three or four of them," Jean Zoda said.

The boys, who never identified themselves, said they had seen an Observer article about the theft and wanted to make sure that it was returned.

One of the boys wore a T-shirt with Operation Desert Storm emblazoned on the front.

"They were terribly upset by what she had done and felt the flag should be returned," Jean Zoda said. "Another fella was angry and he said: 'She should be doing this, not us.'"

One of the teenagers said he was upset by the theft, because he has friends in serving in the Persian Gulf War.

"He said: 'I wanted to bring your flag back' and that the girl was sorry," Jean Zoda said.

THE STORY began when the Zoda flag was stolen Feb. 18, Presidents Day. Jean Zoda raised a bedsheet with a passionate message that explained the theft to neighbors. It said: "On this spot, Old Glory Flew. Our patriotism in full view, Presidents Day. Flag Stolen Away. We'll miss you Red, White and Blue."

Tom Sayles, owner of A-1 Michigan Flag Pole in Canton, also read the article and offered to donate a 4-by-6-foot nylon American flag, the same size as the original.

The family appreciated the gesture, but it wouldn't quite be the same, because the flag was a memento from John Zoda's Navy days. Jean Zoda also served in the Navy.

Last weekend, the three young men came to the family's aid. Their hearts and patriotism were in the right place, Jean Zoda said, explaining that they presented the flag folded in military triangle-style.

"I can't believe it," she said. "We just absolutely thought we would never see that flag again. I hugged the three guys and I said: 'It took a lot of courage to bring it back.'"

MEANWHILE, A-1 Michigan Flag came through with its promise to donate a flag. Jean Zoda said the family hasn't decided what to do with the extra flag. They are considering donating it to someone else.

"We're seriously thinking about putting another sheet out to tell people what happened and that it returned our faith in mankind again," she said. "It was returned the day the ground war started."

Cuts in spending ordered

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Township administrators were slapped with a message that reflects the weak economic times last week.

They've been instructed to cut spending at township hall — at least for a few months until after fallout from the recession can be better assessed. Formal reductions will likely follow, according to Canton chief financial officer John Spencer.

Canton plans to postpone $515,600 worth of expenses, according to a memo dated Feb. 13 from Spencer.

"Supervisor (Tom) Yack and I reviewed the proposed budget reductions yesterday," Spencer wrote. "We decided to hold-off on any formal reductions until I review the budget forecast after the first quarter (mid-April)."

EQUIPMENT PURCHASES will be hit the hardest by the cutbacks.

"And some other projects that we had in the works that we're putting on hold," Spencer said.

Township hall is bracing for leaner times, because Canton's main revenue sources are drying up.

About 90 percent of the money in Canton's general fund comes from the state, as well as building fees, permits and interest income. Both areas experienced reductions.

Canton will receive 9.5 percent less from the state compared to last year.

"Those are the areas that are hit by a recession," Yack said.

Fees and permits paid to township hall were below what was anticipated at the end of the last quarter in 1990.

"That was a foreshadowing of what could continue in 1991," Yack said.

Only 10 percent of the money that goes into Canton's general fund is from local property taxes.

"As the economic activity in Michigan falls to revenue projections there is less to share among the communities and obviously you get less money," Yack said. "We're taking an approach of a flat economy for the state."

The freeze includes purchases of items like furniture, computer software, some consultant fees, computer training and some township hall remodeling, Yack said.

Officials balk at stadium plan

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen wants to make one thing perfectly clear: He and other township officials don't want a new Tiger Stadium in Plymouth Township.

While some observers have speculated that Plymouth Township could be a prime site for a new stadium — there's available land and three major freeways serve the area — Detroit Tigers officials won't say what sites they're looking at for a new stadium.

Breen said some residents have called the township offices asking if such a project is in the works.

So on Tuesday, township trustees passed a resolution reading:

"Whereas there has been discussion among the media about the possibility of locating a stadium for the Detroit Tigers franchise in the Charter Township of Plymouth.

"Whereas the Plymouth Township master plan does not allow for the siting of such a stadium within the township boundaries.

"Whereas the community in general does not favor the siting of a new stadium for the Detroit Tigers franchise in Plymouth Township.

"Now, therefore be it resolved that the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees opposes any and all efforts, attempts and plans to locate a new stadium for the Detroit Tigers within the boundaries of the Charter Township of Plymouth."

Are trustees trying to end speculation that a stadium could be built in Plymouth Township?

"That's exactly right," Breen said Tuesday.

"We have all these people calling, all these residents upset," Breen said. "Our master plan doesn't call for it, it's not the type of facility we encourage in Plymouth Township."

Passage of the resolution "doesn't stop anybody," from buying land and seeking necessary rezoning, he noted. "Hopefully it will be clear enough that it won't have a probability," Breen said.

"We've never had any contact from them (the Tigers) at all," Breen said.

"We also don't support the county financing that," he said, referring to a plan touted by Ed McNamara, Wayne County executive.

Area citizens group halts drive for recall

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

The recall is off.

The Plymouth citizens group that sought to recall five city commissioners who voted to buy Mettetal Airport is dropping the recall effort, after a statement from Mayor Dennis Bila last week.

Plymouth Concerned Citizens has turned in more than enough petition signatures to set a public vote on the airport issue. "And I will do everything in my power to implement the vote that comes out, whether it's against the airport or for the airport," Bila said last week.

"We applaud Mayor Bila and the city commission for their willingness to respect the wishes of us — the citizens," said a statement put out Monday by the citizens group.

"There's no reason for this to be a war if we're moving to a resolution through a vote of the people," said Bill McAninch of the citizens group.

"Although we continue to disagree with these elected officials over the issue of Mettetal Airport," the statement said, "all we could ask is that the wishes of the people — in the form of more than 1,100 petition signatures requesting a public referendum — be respected and implemented."

Academy seeks money for gym

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Because there is no suitable gym for varsity athletics, the league co-champ Plymouth Christian Academy Eagles varsity basketball team has to play its games in public school gyms.

But supporters of the school, on Joy Road in Canton along the Plymouth Township border, are trying to raise money to change that.

Mark Immerfall of the school's board of directors is organizing an auction for 6:30 p.m. Saturday, March 16, at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS want to build a gym-field house to serve the preschool through 12th grade Christian school, which has 575 students mainly from Plymouth, Canton and Livonia. The gym-field house will cost around $850,000.

"It's hard to say what our goal would be," Immerfall said. "I'm hoping to raise $40,000 (through the auction)."

Other academy teams that must use facilities at other schools are the boys varsity soccer, baseball and track teams and girls varsity basketball, softball, volleyball and track.

TICKETS ARE $25 for the suit-and-tie affair, where hors d'oeuvres and dessert will be served.

Among items to be auctioned are a four-door 1963 Chevy Bellaire with 47,000 miles; three four-wheel off-road bikes; a grandfather clock; and sports memorabilia including the signed jerseys of Detroit Red Wings Steve Yzerman and Bob Probert.

The hundreds of items are mostly donated from the Plymouth area, said Immerfall, head of promotions for the board.

He said 250 of the 400 available tickets have been sold so far. Tickets are available at the school.

"Things are going great," Immerfall said.

"We hope to see a lot of Plymouth-Canton people come to the auction," school superintendent Roland DeRenzo said. "There will be a lot of great deals, we just look forward to a real elegant evening."

CEO writes prescription for success

By Leonard Poger

Gary Ley, Garden City Osteopathic Hospital's chief administrator, is a good sport when it comes to health and personal hobbies.

He enjoyed sports as a youngster, earned varsity basketball letters at Plymouth High School and is a follower of TV sports.

But it was a chance conversation while refereeing a University of Michigan intramural basketball game that triggered a change of career plans, from a pre-medical school course to hospital administration.

That change ultimately resulted in Ley coming to Garden City Hospital where he is currently the chief executive officer.

Ley, 36, a Canton Township resident, has had a long interest in sports.

While attending Plymouth High School, Ley said that "I was never a star but a good strong substitute."

"I always enjoyed sports," he said. "I was also classified as a jock."

Even today, Ley said he likes all TV sports, "even those sports I know nothing about, such as lacrosse."

Many of his current friends were fellow athletes from Plymouth High School.

LEY WAS a first year pre-med school student at U-M and graduated with majors in biology and organizational psychology.

But in the conversation with the other referee, Ley said the other student talked about public health and was excited about it.

"Until then, I wasn't aware of public health (as a possible career)."

He eventually switched to public health studies, came to Garden City Hospital in 1979 as an administrative assisant and was eventually named chief executive officer in late 1989.

FOR SEVERAL years, he played basketball with hospital doctors and enjoys tennis and swimming.

A new hobby is scuba diving, for which he was recently certified.

He became interested in scuba diving a year ago while attending a business meeting in the Caymen Islands.

He said that on the islands, there is nothing to do "but eat, sleep and dive."

Ley said that he likes sports because it keeps him in shape and provides him a chance to keep in touch with friends.

Sports and scuba diving aren't the only hobbies Ley enjoys in his spare time.

One of his fantasies is to go on a photo-safari trip in Africa for three months.

State school chief supports a local tax increase

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Acting state school Superintendent Gary Hawks sought support Tuesday for a Wayne-Westland school tax increase, saying the district has entered "a very critical stage" that could leave it bankrupt.

"It may be a deficit school district," Hawks said during a press conference Tuesday morning at the school board office.

The district serves southeast Canton.

Hawks rallied for support just 15 days before district voters will decide the fate of a proposed 7.75-mill tax increase that school officials say is needed to avert sweeping budget cuts. A special election will be held Wednesday, March 13.

Hawks, accompanied by state school budget director Calvin Cupidore, came from Lansing as a "personal favor" for Wayne-Westland school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill, who stressed that "we are in a crisis."

Cupidore said the visit "belies the seriousness" of the situation.

Wayne-Westland School District

The district serves southeast Canton.

Hawks talked at length with reporters during the one-hour press conference that also drew local businesswoman Margaret Harlow, who co-chairs the pro-tax-increase citizens group Save Our Schools, and local school business manager Elwood (Woody) London.

Though Hawks and Cupidore conceded there's much local opposition to higher taxes, they stressed that state-level efforts to improve school financing could take several years.

"THAT'S NOT going to happen in time to help you folks here," Hawks said.

His remarks were underscored by Cupidore, who said, "We don't come here today with money in our pockets. In fact, we worry about that (funding) problem every day ourselves."

Hawks, scanning a list of proposed local budget cuts, voiced concerns about reducing the high school instructional day, postponing new textbook purchases, and eliminating elementary art, music and physical education programs.

Trimming high school hours would come at a time when state and national educators are considering longer school days and school years, he said. "Learning can't take place if you're not in school."

Reducing the instructional day would be "a giant step backward" for the district, causing a loss of high school accreditation, Hawks said.

Wayne-Westland textbooks — some up to 13 years old — could leave students unprepared for new state achievement tests that have begun to place more emphasis on critical thinking skills, especially in reading and science, Hawks said.

"That's terrible when you stop and think about it," he said. "We're testing (students) on a new way of thinking, and here you are using textbooks that are 13 years old."

HAWKS ALSO warned that a declining school district could cause local residents and businesses to move out, causing property values to plummet and making it virtually impossible for Westland to compete in a "world economy."

Cupidore, responding to criticism that school officials received for recently approving teacher salary increases of 11.9 percent over two years, said the pay hikes "were within reason" compared to other districts.

When asked what his response would be to residents who believe they're paying more school taxes than neighboring school districts — but seeing less results — Hawks turned to local officials, who noted that Wayne-Westland ranks only 28th among 34 Wayne County districts in per-pupil spending.

Hawks also steered away from extensive comments on how the district can control potential damage to the campaign for the tax increase from Mayor Robert Thomas, who has publicly opposed the tax increase.

"A lot of people don't understand school finances," he said, though his remark didn't appear directly aimed at Thomas.

Mayor's statement puts end to recall

The recall effort against Bila, Mayor Pro-Tem Ralph (Jack) Kenyon and commissioners James Jabara, John Vos and Ron Loiselle was sparked by their vote in January to begin steps to seek state and federal grants to buy and run the Canton airport, along with Plymouth Township.

At commission meetings where the airport issue was discussed, several Plymouth residents urged the commission not to enter into an airport agreement with Plymouth Township. Opponents said the airport purchase could cost taxpayers, while commissioners favoring the purchase said the agreement with Plymouth Township ruled out such costs.

Some opponents urged the commission to schedule a public referendum on the airport issue. But most commissioners said they were elected to decide such matters through commission votes.

Airport opponents have collected more than three times the number of signatures from registered voters needed to seek a vote on a city charter amendment. If passed, the amendment would prohibit the commission from joining an effort to run an airport.

"I appreciate the fact that I don't have to go through a recall. The city has other business that has to be attended to," Bila said.

"Quite frankly, I thought the recall was unfounded in the first place," Jabara said. "Typically recalls are for malfeasance. It would have been a waste of money at this point, there's going to be an election in the fall.

"I'm glad it's put to bed, we just have to move forward," Jabara said.

"I believed we've all worked hard for the best interest of the city," Loiselle said. "It (the recall) wasn't justified just because I disagreed with a certain viewpoint."

"I think that this is a responsible move on the part of the advocates of the recall," Kenyon said, adding their decision would save the community anguish and money. Vos also said he was pleased the recall effort has been called off.

Plymouth-Salem High School pompon girls show their strength as competitors as they practice formation before the state competition.

Shital Patel of the Rockettes practices routines.

Local pompon squads cheer state results

Despite injuries and illnesses, Plymouth and Canton pompon squads did well in the state competition Feb. 23.

For instance, the Plymouth-Salem Rockettes have a 30-member squad. But a broken wrist, mononucleosis and a back out of place kept three girls from competing last weekend.

"And one girl had strep throat, but she competed," said Rockettes coach Elizabeth Barker.

"I was afraid it would demoralize the kids, because they had to make a lot of changes in the last couple of days. But they really pulled it together and performed as a squad really well. My girls do their own choreography."

Six out of the eight squads that won top places "were from our area," Barker said.

EACH POMPON squad is judged on many categories on their four-minute routine. They placed as follows:

- Garden City High School won first place;
- Plymouth Salem High School won second place;
- Plymouth Canton High School, third place;
- Livonia Churchill High School, fourth place;
- Livonia Franklin High School, fifth place;
- Saginaw Heritage High School, sixth place;
- Davison High School, seventh place; and
- Farmington Hills Mercy High School, eighth place.

Last year, the Plymouth-Canton Chiefettes took first place in the state competition.

"It's amazing that there are so many kids from this area who are that good. The competition is incredible, but it's so neat to see what they come up with."

Before the teams were allowed to compete in the state competition at Heritage High School in Saginaw, they had to meet requirements set out in the regionals. That's where some of the teams are weeded out.

District to fill reservist pay loss

Plymouth-Canton schools employees who serve in the armed forces reserves won't suffer a decrease in pay if called to active duty.

The school board on Monday approved a policy calling for employees called to active duty to have their military pay supplemented by the schools to equal their current regular salaries.

"This is a leadership kind of step," said board vice president David Artley. He said the policy could serve as a model for other school districts to follow.

"Some people could be in real economic stress because they're attempting to support their country," said board member E. J. McClendon, in support of the policy.

McClendon said someone in the community, knowing the board was considering the policy, asked if the board was supporting the war. "It is trying to support people," he responded.

By the policy, "This leave entitlement is not to exceed a total of six calendar months per call-up, unless extended by the board.

"All fringe benefits will be continued for the employee and the employee's dependents for up to six calendar months," the policy continues.

Middle school boundary changed

To even out enrollment between East and Central middle schools, the Plymouth Canton Community school board approved a boundary shift that will affect 26 students scheduled to begin sixth grade in August.

The board approved the boundary change Monday. By the board action, sixth graders living in the Crossings of Canton and Stoneybrooke entering middle school for the first time will be assigned to Central Middle School.

And effective June 14, any new middle school students enrolling in the district who live in the Crossings of Canton or Stoneybrooke will be assigned to Central Middle School.

"We're trying to relieve the crowding at East," said Superintendent John Hoben.

Further, for the 1991-92 and 1992-93 school years, all current Crossings of Canton or Stoneybrooke students who will enter grades seven and eight will have the option to continue at East Middle School to complete their middle school years, or attend Central. The district would provide transportation to either school.

Currently, 760 students are enrolled at East Middle School and 580 at Central.

Youth nominations sought for award

U.S. Rep. William D. Ford, D-Taylor, has set March 25 as his deadline for accepting nominations for his annual Medal of Merit for outstanding youths.

Originally conducted in 1976 as part of the bicentennial celebration, the awards program was so well received that the citizens committee, which consisted of volunteers from each of the 20 communities within the 15th District, recommended that it be continued as an annual event.

Committee members are Olan Barnes and Dale Smith of Canton Township; David Keith of Garden City; Amy Juntunen, Beverly Wesner and Dale Jurcisin of Livonia; and Marge Gartz and Anita Cobb of Westland.

"I continue to believe that this is an excellent way to honor some of our truly outstanding young people whose activities and accomplishments too often have gone unnoticed and unrewarded," Ford said.

THREE AWARDS will be available in each of the 20 communities in the 15th District.

The first will be for youths 14 through 18 who are students in senior high school, the second for high school graduates 18 through 22, and the third for youth groups that have made significant accomplishments.

Ford will personally present the medals Sunday, May 5, at the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency in Wayne.

Nomination forms are available from Ford's district offices in Wayne. Call 722-1411.

"THE COMMITTEE will use the same ground rules for the judging criteria which they have followed in the past," Ford said.

"The accomplishments on which judging will be based will be for outstanding, and meaningful activities, and will not be based primarily on academic ability, scholarship, athletic ability or organizational membership.

"A nominee receiving financial payment for their accomplishment will not be eligible."

Recognizing that not all people serve as leaders, Ford said consideration would also be given to nominees who have contributed time and effort toward meaningful projects, such as volunteer practices, heroic acts and humanitarian efforts.

Special education conference set

Inclusive education is the topic of a day-long conference designed for and by parents of children in special education.

Inclusive education is the term used for education in which students with disabilities receive instruction alongside students of the same age.

The conference, sponsored by United Cerebral Palsy of Metropolitan Detroit, will be Wednesday, March 27, in Roma's, on Schoolcraft between Inkster Road and Middlebelt in Livonia.

There is a $10 registration fee.

Speakers include Barbara Leroy, coordinator of the Center for Inclusive Education at Wayne State University's Developmental Disabilities Institute, Jill England and Tom Osbeck of the same institute; Maurice Conn, superintendent of Saline Area Schools; parents and educators in general and special education classes.

Interested parents can call Barbara Cardinal, UCP advocacy coordinator, at 557-5070 for information.

This week's question:

How long do you think the land war in the Gulf will last?

We asked this question at the Plymouth Post Office.

Teacher raises spark charges of poor management

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Wayne-Westland school officials came under sharp attack Wednesday for approving teacher pay increases during a severe budget crunch that, barring a tax increase, threatens deep cuts in programs.

"I thought raises were awarded for a job well done. The kids are failing," said Laurel Raisanen, member of the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee.

Wayne-Westland School District

The district serves southeast Canton.

But school Superintendent Dennis O'Neill defended the salary increases of 11.9-percent over two years. The district already has lost some teachers to higher-paying districts, he said.

Raisanen and O'Neill clashed during an "Education on Education" breakfast Wednesday morning that drew 30 people to Joy Manor in Westland. The debate, sponsored by the Westland Chamber of Commerce, came just two weeks before a March 13 election in which voters will decide whether to increase taxes by 7.75 mills.

The Wayne-Westland district serves southeast Canton.

RAISANEN DEMANDED more accountability from teachers and accused school officials of "blackmail and extortion" for proposing massive budget cuts that will cause the district to "self-destruct" if proposed tax increase is rejected.

"We are being oppressed into a taxation level that many people cannot afford," Raisanen said. "We are being bullied by our public servants into granting them pay increases.

"I don't feel that giving the teachers raises for a job not well done is the way to go," she added later.

BUT O'NEILL took "strong exception" to Raisanen's statement that teachers aren't doing a good job. It's "unfair" to expect them to work for less money than their counterparts in surrounding districts, he said.

The latest salary increases will cost the district $4 million over two years. The proposed tax increase would generate $11.5 million a year and be levied for five years.

Wayne-Westland teacher salaries rank 20th among the 31 districts that have contract settlements among the 34 school districts in Wayne County. The top local salary is $47,355.

Teachers had threatened a strike before they received a new contract on Feb. 11.

"I DON'T feel that the world would have fallen apart if that had happened," Raisanen said. State legislators should be pressed to enact laws preventing public servants from striking, she said.

In other discussion, O'Neill noted that the district already has cut $5 million from its budget. But it will face much deeper cuts if the proposed tax increase is rejected. Those cuts include eliminating busing except for special education students, reducing the high school instructional day by one hour, eliminating sports and other non-academic programs, and postponing textbook purchases.

IF THE proposed tax increase is rejected, O'Neill said, "I don't know what I'll be telling you a year from now. There's nothing left to cut."

Raisanen charged that school officials approved budget cuts with little forethought — an accusation that O'Neill dismissed as "totally off base."

She predicted that voters, who last year rejected two proposed tax increases, will continue their opposition "until they start getting the quality and the sincerity that they deserve."

O'Neill said the district spends $3,879 a year per pupil — less that the surrounding districts of Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Taylor, Romulus, Inkster, Westwood, Crestwood and Van Buren.

"IF WE want to get things going better," he warned, "then we'd better pass the millage, or things are going to get worse."

Although Wayne-Westland is among 200 districts suing the state to get more money, O'Neill said "we can't look to the state for a bailout. It's not going to happen in the near future."

EARLIER IN the meeting, O'Neill accused the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee of an anti-tax-increase effort "to spread lies and half-truths, but they have been unwilling to be responsible for their campaign rhetoric."

O'Neill said he was disappointed that the committee's chairman, David Moranty, didn't attend Wednesday's breakfast.

After the debate, Raisanen declined to discuss O'Neill's remarks at length, saying she didn't want to dwell on personality conflicts.

Brokers say school cuts are hurting sales of houses

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Many house buyers are shying away from Westland — and some city residents want to move out — because local schools are deteriorating, according to some real estate brokers.

The situation worsened when Wayne-Westland school officials last year slashed school programs and services to combat a budget crunch, and the problem is expected to deepen if additional cuts are made, the brokers said.

House buyers, especially those with children, are opting to live in such cities as Livonia, amid widespread concerns that Wayne-Westland schools are on the decline, they said.

The district serves southeast Canton.

Though there's no sweeping consensus, some real estate brokers appear concerned about the impact the school district's woes are having on the local housing market.

"It seems like at one time there was more pride in Wayne-Westland schools, but that seems to be changing," said Walter Tabaka of Camelot Realty, Inc., in Westland.

Westland used to be a bigger draw for house buyers than such neighboring cities as Garden City, because Wayne-Westland schools were considered superior, Tabaka said.

"Now you'll see them (house buyers) leaning more toward Garden City than Westland," he added.

SOME REAL estate brokers offered blunt criticism of the school district, which made budgets cuts last year that included, among others, reducing the junior high school day, trimming elementary art, music and physical education programs, and offering organized sports only on a pay-to-play basis.

"I'm getting a lot of feedback from people who say the school district is going down the tubes," said Ron Patterson, a real estate broker for Metro West in Garden City. "People want to sell and get out of Westland, and it's hurting the values of the homes."

The district's image began to deteriorate in the mid-80s, when it absorbed part of the former Cherry Hill School District, but the problem has worsened because of the latest budget cuts, Patterson said.

"I've even had teachers in the Wayne-Westland school district tell me that this district is going down the tubes," he said. "They see the school district from the inside decaying, and they're telling everybody to get out."

Not every real estate broker gave such a bleak assessment of local schools. Jim Anderson of Century 21 Dynamic in Westland said he's not so sure the district's financial woes have steered house buyers away.

"I DON'T know that they'd be aware of this (the budget cuts)," he said.

Moreover, Anderson questioned whether Westland residents are moving because of a battered school district image.

"No one's moving because of that. At least that's been my experience," he said.

Ironically, the bleak forecast among some real estate brokers came after Westland property assessments rose by about 8 percent. However, the increase preceded the school district budget cuts.

More budget reductions, such as eliminating school busing and reducing the high school day, are planned if voters reject a 7.75-mill tax increase in a special March 13 election.

Although real estate brokers said the school district's problems have scared away some house buyers, they also questioned whether raising property taxes would solve the problem.

Wayne-Westland tax rates already are considered high compared to some neighboring cities, such as Livonia, Tabaka said.

MEANWHILE, LOCAL school officials didn't dispute the remarks of real estate brokers. In fact, Superintendent Dennis O'Neill concurred.

Though school officials have made budget cuts for several years to ease the budget crunch, the latest reductions have been much deeper and — for the first time this year — have directly affected student programs.

O'Neill conceded that the problems could prompt current residents to move out and cause house buyers to stay away.

"Who wants to move into a community with an inadequate school district?" he asked.

School choice

Hot debate soon expected in Lansing

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Look for "schools of choice" to be an issue in Michigan in two months or so. Don't look for it to be a panacea. Expect a lot of distrust in the educational establishment.

That's the prognosis for a plan by which parents would choose the schools their youngsters would attend, and educators would be empowered to offer specialized programs for them to choose from.

"Choice won't be on the front burner for two months," lobbyist Tom White told his boss, the Michigan Association of School Boards, in convention last week.

Added Mike Addonizio, the former college professor who is Gov. John Engler's education adviser: "We do not have a full-blown program for choice. The governor does not view it as a pancea, not as an end in itself.

"A year of planning would be needed for choice," said Addonizio, pointing to fall of 1992 as a starting date. "The governor and Legislature would be interested in supporting the costs — particularly counseling for families and transportation."

WHITE SAID MASB, which represents the elected trustees who govern school districts, is more interested in funding equity between dismally poor and well-off districts. "Choice detracts from the real issues of finance and school improvement."

In Minnesota, half of 1 percent of parents enrolled their children in a statewide choice program. "Of those, only 20 percent did so for academic reasons. The others were for convenience or athletics," White said.

MASB's interests are getting the state to fund transportation, staff development and parental counseling if a "choice" program is adopted here. "We want to be there if this is imposed," White said.

In this area, many districts are wary of choice, fearing their quality programs would be inundated with applicants from lesser districts.

'The governor and Legislature would be interested in supporting the costs — particularly counseling for families and transportation.'
— Mike Addonizio education advisor

ADDONIZIO'S words were reassuring to trustees. An economist and former state Senate Fiscal Agency analyst, he used the words "the governor is interested in ..." when presenting Engler's views.

Engler's goal is improved pupil outcomes, and choice is only one element in that program, Addonizio said. More important elements are state aid, equity between districts and site-based management, he said.

Engler and the State Board of Education have endorsed inter-district choice, and Addonizio said an additional year of planning would be needed. The governor would be interested in providing state grants for pilot programs, transportation costs and formula aid.

To an Oakland County school board member who asked how a limited number of slots would be allocated, Addonizio replied it would be done by random selection. "Everyone seeking a place has the same chance. We wouldn't let the (receiving) schools choose. In large districts which offer choice programs, they guarantee a family one of their first three choices," he said.

THE STATE WILL come close to giving districts the monetary aid increase they want next fall, it appeared.

Lobbyist White said public schools will need an increase of 4 to 6 percent to "keep pace with inflation" on top of rising retirement costs.

Addonizio said they can expect "better than 4 percent, which is not remarkable by mid-1980s standards" but is good in a period of downsizing state government.

Two key lawmakers told MASB is doing better by its public schools than other states.

"Michigan is the only state not cutting K-12 aid," said Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, chair of the Senate appropriations subcommittee. "It will not occur. It is not negotiable. ...A lot of John's problems would go away if he were to decide to cut education."

"K-12 education is a very important human service," said Rep. James O'Neil, D-Saginaw, chair of the House appropriations subcommittee. "Over the last 10 years, alot of money has been diverted from education to other programs."

THE LAWMAKERS said it's unlikely the state would follow through with money for classroom computers, a program started by former Gov. James Blanchard.

"It is not his (Engler's) favorite program," said DeGrow. "School districts were notified they would purchase computers at their own risk. ...Any (computer) money will come from the K-12 slice of the pie (general state aid)."

"Let's face it," added O'Neill. "There's been a change in the administration and a change in the economy."

Board to interview trustee candidates

Every one of the 10 people who applied to fill a vacancy on the Schoolcraft College board of Trustees will be interviewed in person for the job.

Board chairwoman Mary Breen announced the interview policy this week.

Candidate interviews have tentatively been set for Monday, March 11 in the college board room, with each candidate given about 15 minutes to respond to board questions. Interviews are open to the public.

Casndidates to be interviewed include Ronaele Bowman, Livonia; Willis Brauer, Livonia; Paulette Cebulski; Plymouth; Yvonne Constas, Livonia; Robert Gordon, Plymouth; Stephen Ragan, Plymouth; Subramanian Ramamurthy, Canton; Andrea Taylor, Livonia; Jeffrey Theodore, Livonia; and Patricia Watson, Northville.

Bowman, Taylor and Theodore all ran for the board in 1989.

Candidates seek to replace trustee Jack Kirksey. The Livonia resident announced his intention to resign from the board last fall; after a dispute involving selection of the college's legal representative.

Bowman is a trainer at the Michigan Training and Resource Center, Westland. Brauer is a principal at Coolidge Elementary School in Livonia. Cebulski is an assistant director with the University of Michigan Hospital Department of Physical and Medical Rehabilitation. Constas is a social worker in private practice. Gordon is a doctor, with a family practice in Plymouth.

Ragan is an administrative assistant in the Wayne County Division of Airports. Ramamurthy is president of Optimum Management, Inc., an engineering and management consulting firm based in Plymouth. Taylor, a graduate of Schoolcraft's culinary arts program, operates a catering business. Theodore is an assistant Wayne County prosecuting attorney. Watson is a clinical supervisor with Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and is also a mental health professional in private practice.

Kirksey, director of community education for the Livonia Schools, is a Livonia resident.

Kirksey was elected to a six-year board term in 1989; however, his appointed replacement will only serve from April 24-June 30.

IN ADDITION to Kirksey's former seat, seats held by Michael Burley and Jeanne Stempien will also up for election.

The election is scheduled for Monday, June 10.

Bill would ban assisted suicide

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A state Senate panel is moving ahead with a bill to make assisting suicides a felony over a buzzsaw of objections from "Dr. Death" — Jack Kevorkian — and his admirers.

"We should move this quickly," sponsor Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, told the Senate Family Law and Criminal Justice Committee.

"I'm not intimidated. I know I'm right. Time will vindicate me," shouted Kevorkian, the media star witness at whom Senate Bill 32 is aimed.

The bill would punish assisted suicide with four years in prison or a $2,000 fine. It would distinguish between assisting a suicide and removing medical treatment.

COMMITTEE CHAIR Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, scheduled a vote at 3 p.m. next Tuesday in 405 State Capitol Building, Lansing, to report out the bill. Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, is a member.

Kevorkian, a Royal Oak pathologist who gained international fame when he helped a fatally ill Oregon woman end her life with his suicide machine last June, blistered the committee and the medical profession.

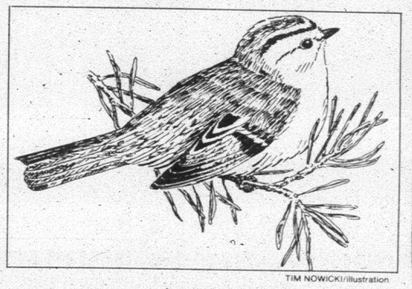
One court dismissed first-degree murder charges, saying Michigan law was inadequate to prosecute Kevorkian. But another slapped an injunction on him to prevent further use of his heart-stopping suicide machine.

Kevorkian, 64, compared himself to medical pioneers who introduced dissection, the smallpox vaccine, assistance to women in labor and birth control.

"Legislators, judges and medical politicians are keeping this nation in the Dark Ages," he said, accusing his legion of enemies of "unspeakable barbarity, cowering under church dogma, knuckling under."

KEVORKIAN and his attorney, Geoffrey Fieger of Southfield, advocated a euthanasia law instead. Under it, a "blue ribbon panel" of medical professionals would whether a patient should be allowed to, and assisted in, taking his or her own life.

Kinglet: Pixie of bird world



TIM NOWICKI/Illustration

Despite its four-inch length and one-fifth ounce weight, the gold-crowned kinglet can survive Michigan winters.

Timothy Nowicki

After spending time in the field over a period of several years, one becomes aware of the usual and the unusual. Last year red-breasted nuthatches were a common sight, but most years they are rare. This winter the golden-crowned kinglet is more common than usual.

In December of 1990 there were 61 golden-crowned kinglets counted within a 15 mile diameter count area. During the 46 years of the Detroit Audubon Society Christmas Counts, there were only four previous years with higher recorded numbers. On the average, only 24 birds are counted. The record of 105 individuals seen in 1973 still stands.

Gold-crowned kinglets and their cousin the ruby-crowned kinglet are the smallest birds found in Michigan, next to the ruby-throated hummingbird. Yet despite their four inch length and one-fifth ounce weight, they can survive Michigan winters.

These pixies of the bird world are very descriptively named. Golden-crown's have a bright yellow-gold patch on the top of their head. Females have an entirely yellow patch. Males have an orange-red patch surrounded by yellow. Bordering the yellow patch in both sexes is a black perimeter. Ruby crowns are only found in males of the ruby-crowned kinglets. Female ruby-crown's do not have any red feathers on their head.

Golden-crowned kinglets have a light line over the eye contrasting with a darkened area below the eye. Creamy colored spots on the wings form what is known as a wing-bar. Their delicate bill is very adept at extracting small insects such as bark beetles, scale insects, insect and spider eggs, and the larvae of injurious moths and plant lice from branches and tree bark.

Southeastern Michigan is a wintering area for the golden-crowned kinglet, but during the summer they are found in the northern coniferous forests. They nest in the upper peninsula of Michigan and on Isle Royale. Some nesting has also occurred in the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula.

Nesting in isolated forest areas may be the reason kinglets tend not to be afraid of man. There are documented instances where golden-crowned kinglets have been petted by people.

It is indeed a great experience to see these feathery flyers fluttering their wings and dashing about with other birds such as brown creepers, downy woodpeckers and chickadees.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

HIPPITY HOPPITY LICKITY SPLIT

"The Easter Bunny lives in a cabbage patch. He's very busy right now, coloring Easter eggs and making Easter baskets. But he is taking time out to see me at Westland, so I can have my picture made with him. He's giving me some carrot seeds, too. I'm going to plant them and see if he'll come live at my house instead of that old cabbage patch."

Economic slowdown hurts animal world too

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Without checking the headlines, Michigan Humane Society officials can tell the economy is in a recession.

That's because society shelters are rapidly filling with unwanted pets.

"I'd say our intake is up substantially over last year," said Sherry Silk, director of central operations for metro area MHS shelters.

The first several months of the year are traditionally a busy time for area shelters, as pet owners abandon animals given as holiday gifts. This year, however, the situation has been compounded by the economic slowdown.

"Here (at the main shelter) in Detroit, we're hearing so many stories of people who have lost their jobs and are giving up their pets," Silk said.

MORE THAN 200 animals are available for adoption at MHS shelters in Detroit, Rochester Hills and Westland, Silk said, an increase of more than 10 percent from this time one year ago.

"Included in that, we have about 10 to 12 purebred dogs," she said. "And you rarely see that many up for adoption."

Despite the rising number of available pets, the MHS remains selective about the people who seek to adopt animals placed in its care.

"WE WANT them to go to people who will be good, responsible pet owners," she said.

Toward that end, the MHS screens potential pet owners through a written questionnaire, verbal interview and inquiries about the health of other pets.

The MHS rejects about "one in 10" people who seek to adopt pets, Silk said, though reasons can vary.

Animals won't go to people with a history of abusing other pets, she said. "If they've had three or four other pets who have been hit by a car, then we won't let them adopt," Silk said.

Nor will animals go to people who use them for anything other than a pet.

"We're not going to allow adoption to someone who's going to keep a dog chained outside as a watchdog," she said. "We want them to become part of the family."

MHS officials would rather see an animal destroyed than go to an irresponsible owner, Silk said.

"Our feeling is it would be better for an animal to be destroyed humanely than to be hit by a car," she said.

IN 1989, the agency took in 46,741 pets, Silk said. Of those, 6,958 were adopted.

"Some of the others were returned to the owners — this is especially common in suburban areas," Silk said. "The rest, unfortunately, were humanely destroyed."

Adoptions through the Animal Welfare Society, another animal protection agency, haven't increased since this time last year, according to a spokeswoman.

The society is an affiliate of area veterinary hospitals, including Kershaw Animal Hospital, Livonia and Bloom Animal Hospital in Livonia. Unlike the MHS, it doesn't destroy animals, however, it handles a much smaller volume of pets.

At present, 14 puppies and six cats are available through society offices.

Like the MHS, the society requires adoptees to sign an agreement calling for humane treatment of the animal and requires pets be kept indoors.

While puppies and kittens are adopted out of veterinary offices, adult pets are adopted through the owners homes.

Owners can reject applicants on their own, the spokeswoman said, without consulting with the Animal Welfare Society or its member veterinarians. Most applications are accepted, she added.

Pets can be adopted through the Michigan Humane Society's Westland Kindness Center by calling 721-7300. The center is at 7225 Marquette, Westland. They can be adopted through the Animal Welfare Society by calling Kershaw Animal Hospital, 421-7878. The hospital is at 9525 Wayne Road, Livonia.

Petition drive is extended

By Greg Kowalski
staff writer

The Friends of the Nature Sanctuary group has extended to March 8 its deadline to turn in petitions calling for the preservation of the Cranbrook Nature Sanctuary.

Previously, the group had set a March 1 deadline for petitions, which are aimed at stopping Cranbrook from selling the 50-acre site between Orchard Lake and Upper Straits Lake and using the proceeds to expand the Institute of Science.

THE GROUP PLANS to present the petitions to science center personnel at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 10, at a ceremony it calls the "March of Petitions." So far, about 1,000 signatures have been collected, said Lorna McEwen, spokeswoman for the group. She said the new deadline will give petitioners more time to collect signatures.

The petitions call on Cranbrook to transfer deed to the land to a steward (a person or group) "dedicated to preserving it." Thirty-five acres of the site were donated to Cranbrook in 1969 by owner Howard Lee Ward. The remainder was sold to Cranbrook by Ward in 1978.

The petition asks that the donated portion of the site be given to the steward. The portion bought by Cranbrook should be sold to the steward "for a fee no less reasonable than the sum you paid for it," according to the petition.

McEwen said the Friends group has received letters from Ward's children and grandchildren opposing the sale.

"I am disappointed and saddened for my father who gave this treasured possession to the end that it might continue to be enjoyed by, and of benefit to, many in the future, as a natural science and ecological history book of our area of Michigan, and as a place of beauty and peace — and a very fitting memorial to his mother and father," wrote Ward's daughter, Elizabeth Palmer Ward DeVine.

WARD'S GRANDSON, Michael E. DeVine wrote: "It is very clear to me that through your efforts you (Friends group) understand the responsibility we share to educate, and to remind some of our neighbors of the importance of woods, flowers, water and animals in a natural preserve."

Granddaughter Suzanne Lee DeVine Koselka wrote: "The nature sanctuary should be preserved, and if Cranbrook won't do it, I hope that Orchard Lake will."

Would-be war support group finds little support

Hitting Home

Maybe there are too many area support groups for families of troops in the Persian Gulf.

That's the way Kay Manie feels as her attempts to organize a support group have been met with polite apathy. The Union Lake resident has good reason to want to share with others her feelings: Her daughter Sgt. Brenda Casari and son-in-law Spec. 4 Jesse Casari are both stationed somewhere in the Gulf. And she hasn't heard from them since the air war began: "I'm worried about them," said Manie.

She knows that other relatives also are concerned about their relatives in the Gulf. That's why so many support groups have sprung up seemingly everywhere — except in her semi-rural neighborhood.

SO MANIE DECIDED to create her own group. She printed up flyers and placed announcements in area church bulletins and newspapers and on cable TV. The result: almost no response.

"I can't get people to answer. One couple came over and said they'd like to meet once a month. I thought we should meet at least twice a month," Manie said. They haven't called back.

Manie admits she has more good intentions than experience in organizing. ("She's actually very shy," said daughter Jamye.) But she is perplexed at the lack of response. Two weeks ago, Manie had a support group organizational meeting in Westacres Library in West Bloomfield. About 10 people attended, but most were family members. Manie wants a broader range of people.

There are at least two support groups in nearby Walled Lake, according to Corinne Lasich, a volunteer with the Walled Lake Military Support Group. Every week about 15 volunteers meet with 35 family members.

"This area is pretty well covered (with support groups)," Lasich said. "There are quite a few groups around."

Still, Caroline Smith, a wellness program coordinator at Botsford General Hospital, sees a "great need" for the groups. The hospital has hosted group meetings and has a counselor who speaks to individuals and refers them for further counseling if necessary.

Since hosting a support group meeting on Feb. 16 there has been a steady stream of callers, Lasich said.

Manie thought of creating a support group while visiting relatives in the Upper Peninsula. By the time she returned home, several groups had already been formed locally, although, she said, "I didn't know then there were other ones around."

SHE BEGAN ATTENDING a group in West Bloomfield and immediately liked it. "There is a closeness there. You can tell people really care about each other," Manie said. Sharing fears and hopes for loved ones in the war "made me feel good," she added.

Daughter Brenda has been in the Army for 10 years and has been stationed in Panama, where a daughter was born, and Germany, so Gulf duty was not unexpected, Manie said. But plenty of other service people, especially reservists, were taken by surprise by the quick deployment in the Gulf. For many families back home, the emotional and economic strain has been great.

While there are early signs that the war might be wrapped up soon, Manie sees a longer-range need for the support groups. "I have a friend who has a son in the Army. He has the idea that his son is coming home tomorrow. I feel sorry for him." In fact, the end of the war doesn't mean an instant ticket trip back to the States for the troops.

"And when they do return, how are they going to handle it?" Manie asked, referring to the long-term psychological damage suffered by many Vietnam War veterans.

"The support groups have to stick together after the war," Manie said. For now, however, she plans to continue to try to organize a support group.

"I still think there are people out there who need someone to talk to," she said.

Maple Syrup Festival will begin March 2

The step-by-step process of making maple syrup will be explored at Cranbrook Institute of Science's 18th annual Maple Syrup Festival 1-4:30 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, March 2-17.

Visitors can view an illustrative slide show explaining sap collecting and evaporation. They can also join a guided tour of the sugarbush to see first-hand how trees are tapped and learn history about syrup making, a technique handed down by Native Americans.

The last step is in the sugar hut where the sap evaporates into syrup. For many, tasting the just-made maple syrup candy is the highlight of the festival.

The festival is included in the regular museum admission price of $3 for adults and $2 for senior citizens and children under 18.

Planetarium shows cost an extra $1. They include "The Winter Sky Tonight" at 1:30, 2:15 and 3 p.m. for those over age 5 and "Wonderful Rocket" at 12:30 p.m. Saturdays for anyone over age 3.

EMU seeks one-room schoolhouses

Eastern Michigan University's College of Education is seeking information about one-room schoolhouses in Michigan to establish an inventory of these 'disappearing' landmarks and provide a network for schoolhouse owners.

The survey, funded by the EMU Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, international education fraternity, the EMU College of Education and the Washtenaw County Historic District Commission, needs those with information on one-room schoolhouses in Michigan to complete and return a two-page survey to EMU.

According to Thomas L. Jones, executive director of the Historical Society of Michigan, many one-room schoolhouses have been purchased from private homes, some have been converted into museums and a few are used by historical societies to provide hands-on learning experiences for children.

Jones said a 1987 study by the Michigan Department of Education found 21 such schoolhouses still in use by Michigan school districts and added, the survey is an attempt "to find out if that figure is accurate in 1991."

EMU and the Historical Society plan to form a network of owners who can benefit from sharing information and resources.

Westerman and Jones announced the survey as part of EMU's plan to renovate and create a museum of its own one-room Town Hall Schoolhouse, donated to the University in 1988 by the Geddes family.

The Town Hall Schoolhouse, which EMU relocated from its out-county location to central campus in 1989, has been restored on the exterior and awaits interior completion.

Already, Westerman said, the building symbolizes EMU's history as a teacher training institution, the first teachers' college west of the Allegheny Mountains.

One-room schoolhouse owners and/or those with information about one-room schoolhouses anywhere in Michigan are asked to write: College of Education, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Mich. 48197.

Commission wants more info on stadium proposal

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara is getting good marks from area county commissioners on his recent State of the County address, but commissioners said they want more information on McNamara's plans to keep the Detroit Tigers in Wayne County.

"It's nice that, for the first time since he's taken office, the executive can address our successes, without having the speech dominated by some big problem we're having," said commission vice chairwoman Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township.

McNamara's proposal to keep the major league baseball team in Detroit was briefly mentioned during the half hour speech earlier this month — but dominated post-speech conversation and speculation.

McNamara has said the county would be willing to help pay for a renovation of Tiger Stadium if the 88-year-old baseball park is kept in Detroit.

"Our position is that the stadium absolutely must be in Detroit, and our second position is that if the present stadium could be utilized, that's where we prefer to see it," McNamara said.

That may not be enough, however, to convince Tigers owner Tom Monaghan to keep the stadium in Detroit. Monaghan recently said he wanted to move the stadium out of Detroit because the city's high crime rate was hurting attendance.

McNamara isn't the only one who wants the ball club to stay in Detroit. The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) last week said the baseball club should reconstruct its 79-year-old stadium or build a new one in the city. The committee said it favors using existing infrastructure over expanding into the suburbs.

But McNamara's proposal, which potentially includes county stadium bonds, is also drawing questions.

"I'd have to take a long, hard look at financing," Kelley said.

Heintz, Shirley Poling, D-Canton, and Kay Beard, D-Inkster, said they were opposed to using county money to finance a new stadium.

"I think (club owner) Tom Monaghan and the Detroit Tigers have enough money of their own," Poling said.

Added Heintz: "I'd never support taxing people to pay for it."

Beard also said she preferred a privately-financed stadium.

"In this day and age, that's the way to go about it," she said.

Though McNamara hasn't officially issued his stadium proposal, he indicated a stadium could be financed without raising county taxes during a December interview with the Observer Newspapers.

McNamara said he was committed to using a new stadium to spur residential and industrial development.

Tiger Stadium, however, wasn't the only item on McNamara's agenda. The executive drew high marks for his plans to stop suburban sprawl.

"YOU CAN see that in my district," said Poling. "On one hand, people are leaving (the city of) Wayne in bunches, while Canton continues to grow."

Poling and others praised McNamara's plans to develop county management teams to work with local officials in retaining residents and businesses.

McNamara's plans to gain county control over general assistance welfare payments faces a less certain future.

Beard said the county shouldn't be too eager to assume responsibility.

"Anytime the state gives you something they give it to you with less than full funding," Beard said. "I can see us putting a lot of money we don't have into this."

Plans to convert general assistance to a job training program are also a concern, Beard said.

"As far as I'm aware, general assistance is going to be done away with," said Heintz. "I don't know if that's something we'd even get the chance to consider."

McNamara's infant mortality task force drew strong support from Poling, one of the commission's newest members.

"I wasn't here when they started it last year, but I'd have to say that infant mortality is one of the county's most serious problems," she said.

True colors

They show in time of war

THE WAR IN THE Persian Gulf is changing the social fabric of our country for the better.

And no where is it more evident than in Canton last week and this week.

The incident was small, but to us it had great significance. It was the theft of a flag from the home of a Canton couple, both of whom served in the Navy.

It was a story with a happy ending. One that restores our faith in mankind. The flag was returned. The story is the stuff of legends. "I can not tell a lie, I chopped down the cherry tree," a young George Washington told his father.

The incident in Canton is a version of that. We can not tell a lie, our friend stole your flag and we're returning it, is basically what the young men who returned it told John and Jean Zoda.

THERE ARE people like John and Jean Zoda in Canton and thousands of other communities in America who proudly display the flag.

And it was while the Zodas were displaying it on President's Day that it was stolen. John Zoda discovered the theft as he was preparing to take it down for the day. The flag was special to the Zodas, a keepsake from John Zoda's days in the Navy.

But Jean Zoda did something about it. She put up a bedsheet that said: "On this spot old glory flew. Our patriotism in full view. Presidents Day: Flag stolen away. We'll miss you red, white and blue."

After a story about the couples' plight appeared in the Observer, Tom Sayles, owner of A-1 Michigan Flag Pole in Canton, gave the couple a flag.

And now the Zodas have two. But they'll still be able to fly the flag that has the most significance for them. Their true Old Glory was hand delivered by three young men in a pickup truck. They said a girl they knew took it and was upset and sorry about what she had done.

One of the young men told Jean Zorda that he had friends in Operation Desert Storm and the incident upset him. The flag was in good shape and was even folded correctly. She hugged the three and thanked them.

She said it restored her faith in mankind.

Ours too.

Our patriotism is like our flag, it may hide, but our true colors don't run.

War cries

Freedom is the right to dissent

WITH THE war in the Persian Gulf winding down, it's time for us to reexamine our views on freedom and democracy.

Most disturbing during this conflict was the attitude which dictated that we should be grateful for the right to speak our minds and criticize our government, but we should shut up and go along with whatever the government decides.

In Livonia, city assessor Ron Mardiros saw fit to call for the reassignment of Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, a longtime peace activist who actively opposes the current war.

In Birmingham, an outraged caller complained to this newspaper about a headline that described local reaction to the war as "mixed."

Despite the newsroom truism that reaction to just about anything always is mixed, this caller, a valued reader, thought it a slap in the face of our troops to suggest the country is not 100 percent behind their cause.

FREEDOM IS the license to express dissenting opinions, especially ones likely to offend the status quo. Democracy, if it means anything, says that all the people have an equal say about the course of government policy and a reponsibility to pull for their point of view.

Unfortunately, the war in the Persian Gulf has moved some, with notable passion, to attempt stifling opinions with which they disagree.

The attitude of a recent guest commentary printed in another area newspaper demonstrates the danger from those who wish to snuff out dissent. The writer paints the entire local Arab-American community with the brush of anti-Americanism for failing to denounce a West Bloomfield man of Iraqi origin who has spoken favorably of Saddam Hussein.

Anti-war protesters, to be sure, also can be self-satisfied and a little too sure of their own correctness. But, as yet, we've heard none of them demand that supporters of the war be deprived of their right to express that support.

THOSE WHO would stifle discussion — those who offer the wisdom that now that war has begun we all have a duty to fall in line and support it — seem to think somehow that because lives are on the line the debate that is essential to democracy should be suspended.

Quite the contrary. War is the result of diplomatic failure. Debate is mandatory — before, during and after. The public examination of our goals, and of our consciences, must never stop.

As for the attitude that any questioning of the war or related policies insults our troops, we say not. Americans feel passionately, and correctly, that our soldiers must never be humiliated or shamed for what our elected leaders ask them to do, as many were in the aftermath of Vietnam. But disagreeing with a policy is no insult to the men and women asked to carry out that policy.

If soldiers can face the enemy's bullets and shells overseas, they can face the words "we disagree" at home.

Besides, there's something disingenuous in the assumption that all the soldiers in the Middle East support the war and expect the same from us. We remember news reports in the weeks following the August deployment in which some soldiers clearly questioned their mission. They have that right, and so do we at home.

What might be most disturbing about all of this is that some people actually fear open debate. It's that strange attitude again that democracy is all-important — and heaven forbid we should actually practice it.

Urban sprawl draws reaction

THE OLD CLICHE OF living in a throwaway society has now evolved into the reality of living in a society with "throwaway cities."

That's the concern of Edward McNamara, Wayne County executive. And he's not alone. In Oakland County officials recently held a summit meeting to discuss the causes and consequences of urban sprawl.

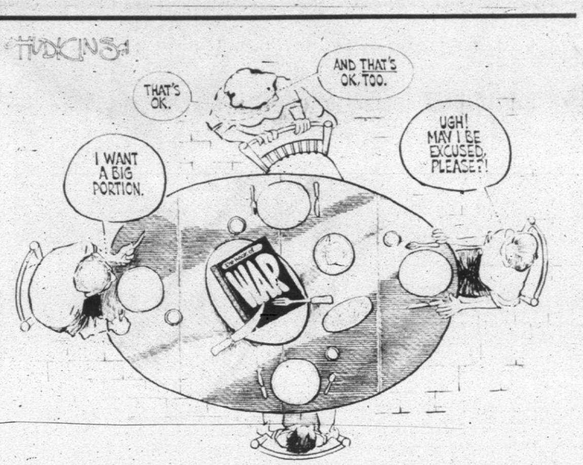
In some cases those are fairly obvious: Wayne County is facing the potential loss of two U.S. Congressional seats due to population loss. In outlying areas of Oakland County where the population is growing, attention to infrastructure needs like roads and sewers is siphoning off support for our older suburbs.

The combination of growth in new areas and abandonment of aging ones is ominous.

"We are trying to head off something that could be disastrous," said Joseph Joachim, director of the Oakland County Department of Community and Economic Development.

Now is not the time to twiddle thumbs. So Oakland County's establishment of a Regional Development Initiative is a good move. So is the team approach being set up by Wayne County.

But it's going to take more than talk to solve these problems. Resolve them before they grow unmanageable.



Engler seeks change in state government

Philip Power

THE TWO great contrasting political executive styles are Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan. As John Engler approaches two months as Michigan's governor, I still can't figure out which he's most like.

Nixon: the ultimate insider — shrewd, clever, calculating, knowledgeable and pragmatic — didn't care much about ideology. His style was to scope out tactically how to attain his objective, then follow through regardless of political philosophy.

Reagan: knew little about details of governance or tactics of maneuver; didn't care. He did know overall philosophy. He defined an overarching ideology and communicated it with so much power as to define the arena for subsequent debate.

Understanding whether Engler is more like Nixon or Reagan provides a way to evaluate the core of a man who, to date, has succeeded in remaining distant and closed to public gaze.

Understanding whether Governor Engler is more like Richard Nixon or Ronald Reagan provides a way to evaluate the core of a man who, to date, has succeeded in remaining distant and closed to public gaze.

IT'S EASY to argue that Engler is a Nixonian tactician.

Engler's entire career since graduating from Michigan State University has been in the sandbox of the Legislature where the primary rule of survival is that skill in maneuver is more important than substance or philosophy.

There he gained respect as the ultimate insider, a master of legislative and procedural detail. His core was adherence to Republican advantage.

Even his come-from-behind election as governor reminds many of Nixon's style. Engler clearly understood that the only issue that could add emotional punch to his superlatively organized but passionless campaign was high property taxes. And his media blitz over the final weekend showed a politician who understood polling data and how to capitalize on it.

TO ARGUE that Engler is more like Reagan requires looking at what he actually has said and tried to do in his earliest days as governor.

First, he consistently has said Michigan's government is too big. At some political damage to himself, he has cut programs — some because they existed rather than in response to results. He has eliminated offices, proposes to consolidate departments, laid off some people and threatens to fire more.

Second, he consistently has said property taxes are too high and should be cut. He has held to this position in the face of a $1 billion-plus budget deficit. He has held to it in the face of criticism that he proposes to pay for his radical philosophy of state government by cutting taxes for the rich and services for the poor.

That isn't the style of the cunning Nixonian tactician. It is the style of the Reaganesque radical.

THE PRIMARY conclusion I reach about Engler's governorship is just how radical it is.

Engler wants fundamental change in the size of government, what government does and how government is paid for. It makes his agenda unlike any governor's in modern Michigan history.

George Romney (1963-68) was a moderate Republican with a pitchman's skills. Bill Milliken (1969-82) was more of the same but with more class and grace. Jim Blanchard (1983-90) consistently sought the political center, possibly to his own defeat. John Swainson (1961-2) was a transitional governor.

You have to go back to the earliest days of G. Mennen Williams' administration (1949-60) to see an ideological core and a policy vision as far reaching as Engler's.

For Engler, the question is whether he can assemble a coalition of support as large and as durable as Williams did in his 12 years in office.

Phil Power is chairman of the company that owns this newspaper. His award-winning column will appear periodically.

Marine happy for support from home

To the editor:

Yesterday I received a letter from my best friend in the Marine reserves. We would both greatly appreciate it if you could publish this letter. Thank you.

Dear friends:

My name is Cpl. James L. Murry, H & S Co. 1st Battalion 24th Marines. My reserve unit, Broadhead Armory-Detroit Michigan was activated on Dec. 9, 1990. I am now stationed in Okinawa, Japan. Because of security reasons I cannot state whether my unit will be going to Saudi Arabia, or when.

I am writing on behalf of many Marines here, and myself. I would like to start by saying, "thank you" for your support to the U.S. troops stationed in the Gulf, and anywhere else.

I've read letters and seen the news about our supporters back home, so I felt compelled to write back just to say "God bless you all." It means so much to us that we are not forgotten about. I would like everyone to know that I am just as proud of you, as you are of the troops. To all of the friends and families, we understand this is as hard for you as it is for us. In many ways harder. Be proud of yourselves.

I would also like to tell our supporters why I feel I'm here. Many times, before the war, I have said what I'm saying now. I grew up an American, and have had many great opportunities to do as I wish, simply because I'm an American.

I've seen the children in my community and watched them grow up. If the time ever comes that I have to fight, and possibly pay the ultimate sacrifice, it will be for the children of America. So they grow up with the same freedom and opportunities I had.

The world is in troubled times, and I think too many people take it for granted what a great place America is to grow up and live in. If the last thing I ever see is the children (our future) grow up with the same opportunities I had, it will be well worth the price. I cannot honestly say I understand all of the politics, but I do understand why I'm here, to protect our way of life.

A major help for us to do this job is the support we receive from back home.

I would like to end by saying I graduated from Plymouth-Salem in 1988. I joined the U.S. Marines and went to boot camp in July of 1988. I am very proud of where I'm from because I know you're thinking about us. Remember, we're thinking about you too. You are the reason for us to carry on.

Once again, thank you for your support, and we are proud of you. One more thing I have to add, I love you and miss you Mom, Dad, John and Wendy.

God bless.

Engler takes heat as 'uneasy head' of state

Tim Richard

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Shakespeare summed it up 300 years ago through the mouth of Henry IV, a king who slept poorly because he was target of a deposition.

As pundits noted after the 1990 elections, people blame governors for everything, whether they're to blame or not. Governors are visible. The buck stops there.

Gov. John Engler is getting 100 percent of the blame for "the cuts." So let's just sort out the budgets.

PLURAL, "BUDGETS." There are six going on seven:

1. In September, the Legislature adopted and Blanchard signed the general fund budget.

2. Later Blanchard submitted a "supplemental" budget of nearly $600 million, 90 percent of it for social services. Republicans said Blanchard had a bad habit of doing that to hide the "bad news." Anyway, it was adopted.

3. After the election, we learned revenues were low by a half-billion. Blanchard, then-Sen. Engler and everyone else agreed to preserve education and cut everything else 9.2 percent.

4 and 5. Engler became governor, discovered spending was a half-billion out of whack and submitted two more budget documents: one making transfers, the other an executive order with a quarter-billion in cuts. The transfers actually restored a lot of ADC welfare and mental health spending. Engler preserved programs that got federal aid and would have reduced staff layoffs from 8,000 to 3,000.

Understand this: Engler's budgets never became law because Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee rejected them.

6. Budget No. 3 (supra) goes in effect. Politically, it now becomes the House Democratic budget — with Engler administering it.

7. This revision of No. 6 is to be a compromise and is going through the Legislature now.

WHO GETS the blame for everything bad? Engler, of course. He asked for the job, didn't he?

Engler is taking the heat for a lot of ADC cuts he never advocated.

On this page, Engler recently took heat for cutting all 125,000 general assistance grants, including those affecting children. A bum rap. His budget would have cut 90,000 adults off GA but retained grants for households with children. The crown is blamed for what never occurred and what it never advocated.

The arts thing is an awful mess. Engler's plan to "zero out" everything that hadn't been spent (No. 5) was rejected. Meanwhile, the state prudently put a freeze on arts grants until No. 7 is passed.

The biggest single line item in the arts area is the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA). Engler was pilloried by a Detroit paper and his own musical and arts tastes examined via an interview with his ex-wife.

What everyone forgot is that DIA is a department of Detroit city government, its director a mayoral appointment and its budget the responsibility of the mayor and council under the Detroit city charter.

Fault the rest of Engler's arts budget, if you will, but it's patently unfair to gore him over the DIA. The city of Detroit abandoned both the DIA and the Detroit Symphony years ago in favor of having the largest police force per capita in the nation.

In seeking to cut GA and job training, Engler was cutting Democratic programs. In proposing to eliminate the arts pork barrel, however, the governor is alienating his Cranbrook area Republican constituency. He could be a one-term governor.

King Henry IV never was deposed, but he died, worn out, at 47. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.

Commitment, not site, is what ails the Tigers

Judith Doner Berne

I KNEW I WASN'T the only one who was up in arms as I read Tom Monaghan's remarks on why he must move Tiger Stadium out of Detroit.

On a plane to Boston from Metro Airport Friday, I overheard the man in the seat in back of me say to his wife: "Monaghan should keep his mouth shut."

"His (Monaghan's) comments infuriated us and our managers," said Tim Brown, senior vice president of operations of RPM Pizza, franchisers in Oakland and Wayne counties for nearly all Domino's outlets.

All this in response to an article in which the Tiger owner blamed poor attendance on fans' perception that it's unsafe to go to the ballpark.

"Something has got to be done, because Detroit all of a sudden has become one of the worst baseball cities in the United States when it used to be one of the best," Monaghan is reported as saying. "I blame it on location."

I'm confident that although many suburbanites don't go into the city routinely, they have little fear of going to Tiger Stadium — one of Detroit's safest areas.

The real reasons attendance is down are: The Tigers are a second-rate ballclub; they do a lousy job at marketing; and they have an uncanny ability to let go of the charismatic people on their ball clubs — the team has never been the same since they traded away Kirk Gibson.

BUT MONAGHAN BLAMES the ball club's ills on the city. And so far he has insisted that the best remedy is a new Tiger Stadium in the suburbs.

That's despite strong public opinion to the contrary; two innovative proposals — the Cochrane Plan commissioned by the Tiger Stadium Fan Club and one more recently proposed by well-known Birmingham architect Gunnar Birkerts — to renovate the stadium; and public officials' opinion both from Detroit and its suburbs.

Last week Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara said the county would be willing to help pay for a renovation of Tiger Stadium if the 88-year-old baseball park is kept in Detroit.

"Our position is that the stadium absolutely must be in Detroit, and our second position is that if the present stadium could be utilized, that's where we prefer to see it," McNamara said.

Also last week the executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments said the baseball club should reconstruct the stadium or build a new one in the city. The committee said it favors using existing infrastructure over expanding into the suburbs.

And the Novi City Council recently donned Tiger hats to unanimously pass a resolution to keep the stadium out of Novi and in Detroit. "The success of Novi depends on the success of Detroit," said Novi councilman Tim Pope. "We must stop removing major projects from the city if we want to survive."

WHICH BRINGS ME to the tremendous gap in philosophy between Monaghan and his rival pizza maker, Mike Ilitch.

Rather than turning his back, Ilitch, a Bloomfield Hills resident, put his faith in Detroit. His Red Wings are firmly entrenched at the Joe. He poured millions into renovating the Fox Theatre, which is bringing thousands of suburbanites back to the city for entertainment and has prompted the openings of other nearby nightlife.

And he very deliberately moved his corporate offices from Farmington Hills to a building adjacent to the Fox — bringing daytime life back to a near-dead row of abandoned storefronts along Woodward Avenue.

The contrast is stark between these two pizza kings — one who gives back to the city and one who would take away.

College teaching varies

Doc Doyle

Question: My son had a 3.6 grade point average when he graduated from high school last year. He now attends a major university. He is not doing well at all and complains about poor teachers and classes with up to 200 students in them. We assumed he would have excellent teachers because the professors have advanced degrees and must have been good high school teachers to get to the college level. Are we missing some of the facts?

Answer: Yes, you are missing quite a few facts. First an advanced degree, such as a doctorate degree, doesn't guarantee that person will be a quality teacher.

The issue, in your case, is that the university your son chose is basically a doctorate-granting institution, meaning many professors are forced to place more value on doing research, getting research grants and publishing articles than on teaching.

Why? Those are the criteria used for promotion and tenure.

RECENTLY THE Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching completed a major study on this issue.

Carnegie asked the faculties of community colleges, liberal arts colleges (Alma, Albion, etc), comprehensive schools (Eastern, Central, etc), doctorate-granting institutions and research institutions a straightforward question.

They asked, "Should Teaching Be the Primary Criterion for Promotion?"

Only 21 percent of the research university teachers said teaching is their primary focus. Obviously they see research and grant-getting as their major responsibilities.

In the doctorate-granting institutions, the type of school your son attends, only 41 percent of their teachers stated teaching is the major criterion for promotion.

In the comprehensive schools (defined as Central, Western, Eastern) 68 percent of the staff saw teaching as their primary job.

Seventy-six percent of the teachers at the small liberal arts schools (Hillsdale, Adrian, etc.) clearly said teaching is the most important aspect of their job. However, these schools generally don't aggressively pursue huge federal and industrial grants.

THEN WHAT group views teaching as most important? The community colleges! Ninety-two percent of the community college teachers view teaching as what they are all about. But, again, community college teachers are in a locked step pay raise contract which allows for money increases every year. They don't need to publish or pursue federal grants for tenure and pay raises.

As you can see many professors are part of a system that doesn't necessarily reward quality teaching as much as it rewards grant-getting and articles published.

So you are missing some of the facts. Your son, a freshman, presently has inexperienced graduate assistants teaching him instead of experienced professors for some of his general, "must take" freshman classes.

He came out of a high school setting with 25 to 30 students in a class and now is in with more than 200 students in an auditorium trying to pick up on general psychology. I personally believe this is a student ripoff for more college tuition, your money.

COLLEGE TEACHERS recognize these issues but are often trapped. In the Carnegie study 68 percent of the professors said colleges do need better ways than publications and research to evaluate their performance for advancement.

There are many excellent, teaching professors. What your son needs to do is find out from upper classmen and women who they are. Then register early to get into those classes.

Son's legacy: Pride and joy

By Julie Brown
staff writer

John Young doesn't want any parent to go through what he did two years ago. Even so, he knows those with a loved one in the military must prepare for the worst.

His son, John, died in a Feb. 20, 1989, plane crash in Florida. Capt. John Young Jr. was an aircraft commander with the U.S. Air Force.

"He's the son men dream of having. I wish I had him back, but I'll never get him back.

"I just suffered it out," Young said of the time after his son's death. "My son was gone and I just had to face the world without him. I just took it step by step.

Young, a Canton resident, doesn't know any families with loved ones in Operation Desert Storm, but his thoughts are with those people.

"I feel very sorry for the parents." He also worries about the soldiers who are fighting in the Middle East. The region's sandy terrain makes their work difficult, he said.

"They really don't even know where their enemy's at."

THAT DAY two years ago, Feb. 20, 1989, is vivid in Young's memory. His son, Young's "pride and joy," died in a peacetime accident at the age of 30. The reality of that death was a shock for Young and other family members.

"I would just say to brace for the worst." He understands that military families want their loved ones home safe and sound. At the same time, they need to prepare for that knock on the door and the worst possible news.

He remembers and appreciates those who helped him deal with his son's death.

"There were a lot of people that gave me comfort." Friends and neighbors were a tremendous help to the Young family. Many of John's friends from high school came to the funeral.

"It was overwhelming, really. I had a lot more friends than I realized."

Support groups are a help for families who have loved ones in the Persian Gulf, he said. Friends, neighbors and co-workers can help those people get through the day.

"Just give them moral support."

John Young Jr. graduated from Plymouth Canton High School in 1977 and from the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1982.

HE TOOK some time off from his studies there, coming home to work and help the family after his mother died. He then returned to Colorado to complete work on his degree. Young participated in athletics at Centennial Educational Park and at the Air Force Academy.

> 'I just suffered it out. My son was gone and I just had to face the world without him.'
> —John Young

Young Sr. and his late wife had six children including John. He wants people to remember that John "was a good son. He enjoyed the service. He had fun while he was in service."

Young's son got to see quite a bit of the world while serving in the U.S. Air Force, and was stationed in Germany for two years. His father went to Europe to visit during that time.

"I think about him every day. I'll never get over it as far as that goes. I just try to stay as busy as possible, keep from thinking about it. In a sense, it's still there, though."

Young Sr. had to leave school as a boy to work on the farm and didn't learn to read. He went back to school several years ago, learned to read and is now working on his GED

MOMS

TAMMIE GRAVES/Observer & Eccentric

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Isabelle Brainard and Genevieve Letke are ready for the end. They don't believe that even media coverage can save them.

In a way, they're fatalists. Even though there are plenty of MOMS out there who could save it, they doubt if any would come forward to do so.

In their mindset, 50 years is long enough.

Brainard and Letke are two of about 145 older women who belong to the last five units of Mothers of Men (and Women) in the Service — MOMS for short. This October, 10 years after the national organization disbanded, the remaining units will close the books on the organization.

"The lifestyle's different now," said Letke. "Back when I joined, a lot of the mothers didn't work. Mothers work now and when they are at home, they're spending time with their families."

MOMS got its start in Dearborn in June 1941. At the time, young seamen were coming to the community to attend the Naval School of Instruction at the Ford Motor Co. They were a long way from home, with nothing to do in their free time. Families began taking in the young men on weekends and soon MOMS was formed.

The organization quickly caught on and by June 1944, it held its first convention.

MOMS UNITS could be found throughout the metropolitan and outstate areas. It spread to Pennsylvania, New York, Texas, Maryland, Oklahoma, Iowa and other states through the Midwest and along the eastern seaboard.

Communities like Livonia, Plymouth, Garden City and Birmingham had MOMS units. Today, there are just five — No. 63 in Southfield, No. 66 in Troy, No. 17 in Hazel Park, No. 14 in Ortonville and No. 33 in Gingellville. Brainard and Letke belong to the Southfield unit.

In its heyday, MOMS had 5,000 members; now it has 145.

"Used to be that at one time women fought to be president," said Letke. "But now this is Isabelle's second time."

From the beginning of World War II and continuing during the Korean War and the Vietnam conflict, MOMS dedicated itself to helping service personnel. The organization provided correspondence and "care" packages for troops as well as raising money for gifts for service personnel at the country's Veterans Administration hospitals.

But even as early as the end of Word War II, MOMS was on the decline.

"Right after World War II, unit after unit disbanded because they felt they weren't necessary anymore," Brainard said. No one anticipated yet another war within five years of such a global confrontation, she said.

Both Brainard and Letke joined MOMS during the Vietnam conflict. Brainard, who had a son in the service, went to a meeting in the mid-1960s to see what it was like and has been going ever since.

"I'VE HELD an office every year but one," the Westland resident said.

Letke became acquainted with MOMS in 1967 after a friend called her about the group. At the time, she had both a son and daughter in the Air Force. She recalls that a meeting announcement for the Southfield unit was printed in the Redford Record. It attracted some women who came to one meeting and never came back.

"I think they thought we were a social group," the Canton Township resident said. "Our aim is to raise money for the veterans."

Through benefits, where possible, the five remaining units raise money for veterans' services at the state's VA hospitals. They also help out with Children's Village in Pontiac.

"We care about the veterans and we also care about the children of veterans who land there," Brainard said.

Larger units such as Ortonville are able to use card parties and the like to raise money. Troy also has a large unit, but "only a few do anything," Brainard said.

The Southfield unit, with seven members, has resorted to a $25 per member yearly due to raise money. Seven members have to be present to make a meeting quorum, but as membership has decreased, rules have been changed.

"WE HAVEN'T had a quorum in months," Brainard said.

The twosome admit that disbanding the organization will be difficult. It is Brainard, as president, who has the job of presiding over the final convention.

The MOMS national organization decided to disband in 1981 due to declining membership and the inability to attract new members and leaders. The same is true of the existing units. Today's mothers want support groups rather than MOMS, the women said.

Brainard was ready to end it all two years ago, but decided to give it two more years.

"My minister told me that after 50 years, it's probably run its course, but something will be there to take its place," she said. "There's going to be a lot of tears shed, but I think there'll be a lot of sighs of relief, too."

Happy campers find information at weekend fair

By Carolyn DeMarco
staff writer

A summer camp fair has been scheduled for 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, March 3, at Bloomfield Hills Middle School, 4200 Quarton. The event is sponsored by The Merrill-Palmer Institute, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and All Things Considered magazine.

"Super Summer for Kids: A Camp and Activities Fair" is free and open to all. Families will have the opportunity to meet with dozens of representatives from local, state and national organizations who sponsor summer programs for children. There will also be an opportunity for those seeking summer employment.

For information on camps to be represented, call Elaine Sturman at Merrill-Palmer, (313) 577-5244.

Camp fairs may be the best way to introduce children and parents to the vast number of summer camps out there.

"Unfortunately, many show up at camp fairs and are overwhelmed," said Cliff Borbas, public relations chairman for the Michigan section of the American Camping Association. "They don't know where to start."

He offers some advice for parents of campgoers. "Ask yourself first if it's day camp or residential that you want," said Borbas, operator of a residential camp in the Upper Peninsula. "Is the child ready to leave home? Is the parent ready for them to leave home?"

Cost is always a factor, Borbas said. "How much can the family afford to spend?" There are highly subsidized camps sponsored by youth organizations and churches as well as private camps which may be $400 per week and higher.

Determine what focus you prefer, Borbas said. "Ours is very rustic, very small for those who value a simpler life. Some like a country club atmosphere. In the end, it's what you want for your kids."

In selecting a camp, know what children's interests are, Borbas said, but don't discount one because it offers activities they haven't done before. "Look beyond what they normally do to offer new experiences."

Borbas encourages parents to include the child in the selection process. "If they go willingly to camp, that's half the battle. Discuss the camp guidelines. Get some brochures that match your aims geographically, financially and in activities and narrow it down to the ones they're interested in."

WHERE POSSIBLE, meet with the directors at camp fairs. Get references and call them. True, camps don't give out names of unsatisfied customers, he said, "but at least you'll get someone unbiased, someone who's not employed by the camp."

As a member of the American Camping Association, Borbas naturally feels ACA accreditation is important.

"In addition to being licensed by the state, these camps have voluntarily been reviewed for accreditation. Every three years, camp visitors (who are managers of other ACA camps) spend a day and fill out a form of 300 questions about the program.

"The camps must provide documentation. It's just additional assurance for campgoers. It's been proven to another association."

Before you attend the camp fair, do that preliminary research on camps, he suggests. The American Camping Association publishes the 1991/92 Guide to Accredited Camps which lists more than 1,900 camps in the U.S. and offers guidelines for selecting a camp. The book is available from the ACA at $10.95 by calling 1-800-428-CAMP.

A free Michigan Children's Camp directory of more than 70 camps (20 percent of all Michigan camps) is available from the Michigan section, American Camping Association, 3208 West Road, East Lansing, Mich. 48823. Call 1-800-852-8368.

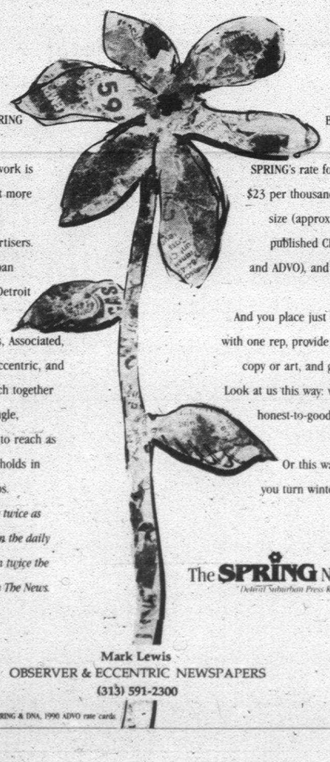
Don't let winter get you down.
You've got SPRING right in your hands.



It's true. This is a SPRING newspaper.
And the SPRING network is making this winter a lot more enjoyable for a growing number of Detroit advertisers.
SPRING (The Suburban Press RING) is the 50 Detroit suburban newspapers published by the Adams, Associated, Heritage, Observer & Eccentric, and Hometown groups, which together deliver advertisers a single, extremely effective way to reach as many as 728,812 households in Detroit's affluent suburbs.
That is approximately twice as many as you can reach in the daily Free Press, and more than twice the number you can reach in The News.
Best of all is the price—SPRING's rate for inserts is just $23 per thousand, regardless of size (approximately half the published CPMs of the DNA and ADVO), and our ROP CPMs are lower, too.
And you place just one order, deal with one rep, provide one set of ROP copy or art, and get one invoice.
Look at us this way: we offer you an honest-to-goodness way to get more for less.
Or this way: we can help you turn winter into SPRING.

Good Citizens do community proud

Annette Whittaker (left), a senior at Plymouth Canton High School, and Amy Sullivan, a senior at Plymouth Salem High School, are among this year's Good Citizen honorees. Students were honored by the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Honoring outstanding high school seniors isn't a new thing for members of the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.
"It's just something they've done for years," said Doris Richard, Good Citizens chairwoman for the DAR chapter. She's impressed with the qualifications of the students who are chosen each year.
"Oh, extremely. I think they're wonderful. They're really outstanding, all of them," said Richard, a Plymouth Township resident. "They're very outstanding, and they have high aspirations."
This year's local Good Citizens are:
● Annette Whittaker, a senior at Plymouth Canton High School. Whittaker's parents are Terry and Novella Whittaker of Canton.
● Amy Sullivan, a senior at Plymouth Salem High School. Sullivan's parents are Jerome and Nancy Sullivan of Plymouth.
● Kamaljit Bagga, a senior at Northville High School. Bagga's parents are Kalyan and Harminder Bagga of Northville.
● Meghan Blake, a senior at Ladywood High School in Livonia. Blake's parents are Joseph and Beverly Blake of Brighton.
● Nancy Kerr, a senior at Livonia Franklin High School. Kerr's parents are Robert and Sandra Kerr of Livonia.
● Sanjay Kacholiya, a senior at Livonia Stevenson High School. Kacholiya's parents are Bal and Aruna Kacholiya of Livonia.
A senior from L'Anse High School in northern Michigan was also recognized as a Good Citizen by the Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter.
The students were honored during a Monday, Feb. 18, tea at the Plymouth Historical Museum. Several students attended with their parents and other family members.
"It's an honor for them to be chosen," Richard said of the Good Citizens. Scholarships are given at the state and national levels by the Daughters of the American Revolution for the Good Citizens.
The students write essays on a different topic each year. This year's theme was "Our American Heritage and My Responsibility To Preserve It."
Students write the essays at school, she said. They're limited to two hours and aren't allowed to use any reference books.
"They have to sit down and write those, hand-write them off the top of their head." Students do an excellent job in their writing, she said.
She's also impressed with the community involvement of the Good Citizens. Many volunteer their time and talents to help others.
"You wonder 'How in the world do they get time?' "
DAR chapter members plan to continue to honor Good Citizens each year. This year, there's been an increased emphasis on patriotism in many circles since the outbreak of the Persian Gulf war.
"People are patriotic now. I think it's good," Richard said. She knows that Americans can at times tend to forget just how valuable freedom is.
"Yes, we certainly do, and I do as well as the next fellow. I think we all do to some extent."

'I think they're wonderful. They're very outstanding and they have high aspirations.'

through Plymouth-Canton Community Education. After that, he plans to continue his studies and earn his high school diploma.
His son encouraged him to return to school.
"He's the one who gave me the most incentive to go," Young Jr. had planned to fly his father to Hawaii following his graduation.
Young supports the actions of President George Bush in Operation Desert Storm and believes Iraq's Saddam Hussein must be stopped.
"Oh, definitely. He's got to be stopped. The boys are over there trying to fight to keep peace. In plain words, somebody's got to die to make peace, to keep peace."
Young's offended by peace protests in the U.S.
"I hate to see that. I don't really think they should have those protests."

"Please, my little girl needs blood."

Imagine if you had to ask for blood to save the life of someone you love. Next time the American Red Cross asks, give blood, please.

The Problems of Suffering

Seminar to focus on church growth

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Evangelism's not a word all Christians are comfortable with.

Often, Christians have faith in God and Jesus, "but have a hard time sharing that faith with their friends, their neighbors and of course strangers," said David Snyder, a member of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth.

"It's kind of a scary thought. We want to make this a more comfortable thought."

Snyder's the evangelism work area chairman at the church. He and others have been working on a "Reach Your Unreached Neighbors" seminar, to be held Saturday, March 2, at the church, 45201 N. Territorial, west of Sheldon in Plymouth Township.

The evangelism/church growth seminar will be presented by The International Bible Society, translation sponsor of the New International Version (NIV) Bible. Overcoming the fear of evangelism's one goal of the seminar.

PARTICIPANTS WILL learn how to use the Bible in witnessing and how to reach out to neighbors through the church. The day-long seminar will include practical sessions featuring a variety of learning activities, such as role playing.

"We're a growing church. The numbers bear that out and so does our recent building renovation," said Snyder, a Plymouth resident. "We feel called to reach out further into the community. We want to prepare and enable our people to go out and share their faith."

The church has nearly 1,400 members. Worshipers recently completed an extensive renovation project.

The Saturday, March 2, seminar's been put together by representatives of The International Bible Society, Snyder said. Such a program hasn't been held in the recent past at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. The church has had evangelistic speakers who aren't of the fire and brimstone variety, such as the Rev. Peter Marshall.

The Saturday, March 2, seminar is open to teens and adults. Registration is $10, $7 for students and senior citizens, including lunch. To register, call 453-5280.

THE SEMINAR is for Christians of all denominations.

"Our faith crosses those boundaries that we've set up as human beings," Snyder said. "This transcends all that. Our faith is much bigger than that."

The biblical call is for Christians to make disciples of all the world. Snyder knows from his own experience that sharing faith can be tough.

"It is not easy. I don't think it's something you necessarily have to push on people." It's possible to share faith and good news with others without being overbearing.

He's an administrator at Plymouth Salem High School where he runs the student radio station, WSDP.

"You have to be very careful because it's a public institution." He doesn't push his faith on others, but tends to incorporate his beliefs into suggestions and comments he makes to students.

"It's just something you have to be very careful with."

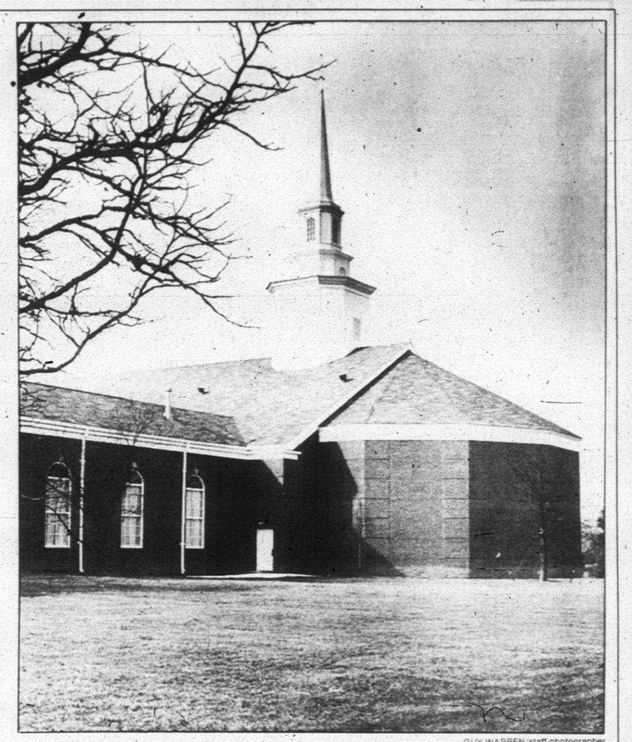
For some Christians, there's a tendency to think "Sunday is the day we go to church and we're Christians between 11 and 12 o'clock," Snyder said. "We have to remember God comes first seven days a week."

Evangelism hasn't traditionally been associated with such mainline Protestant denominations as the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. Snyder has found that members of his church and of others in the area have a firm faith and commitment.

"Therefore, they're open to the idea of evangelism." For many, it's simply a matter of learning more about evangelism.

Ministers and priests aren't the only ones for whom evangelism is important. Laypeople too have a vital role to play in developing faith and sharing it with others.

"Evangelism is something each Christian needs to pursue," Snyder said.



Members of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth recently completed an extensive building project. "We're a growing church," said David Snyder, evangelism work area chairman. "We feel called to reach out further into the community."

You can announce births

The Observer publishes announcements of childbirths and adoptions for current and former Plymouth/Canton residents.

Birth announcements should include the child's full name, gender, date and place of birth (including city or township). The names and hometown of parents (including the mother's first name) should be included, along with the names and hometowns of living grandparents and great-grandparents.

First names and ages of older siblings in the family are also included in birth announcements. A similar format should be followed for adoption announcements, although the child's age rather than birthdate should be used in a case where an older child is adopted.

Written items should be sent to the Observer, 744 Wing, Plymouth, Mich. 48170. The newspaper publishes birth/adoption announcements in cases where grandparents or great-grandparents are current or former Plymouth/Canton residents. A daytime phone number of a person who can verify information should be included. That number won't be published.

Other operations touted when car sales dip

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Automobile dealers who succeed in the 1990s will increase output of their back-end operations — sevice, body shop and parts. And successful dealers will become even more adept at getting customers to return from one car buy to another.

That's the analysis of Jeremy Anwyl, a California-based researcher and consultant to the industry. He pegs the profit margin on gross sales from all operations for most dealers today at one percent or less.

"If you could find 10 percent of the dealers in the U.S. making money on the sales of new cars, I'd be surprised," Anwyl said. "The key is you've got to build up a strong back-end. The service department has to be very busy.

"This is a relationship business," Anwyl added. "Going after the repeat sale is a two- or three-year process. The factor I find with the dealer making money is percentage of business coming in for repeat and referral."

Car sales here are down, way down in some instances, dealers report. Consumers lack confidence to commit to major purchases given the economy and uncertainty about how long the war will last in the Middle East.

So dealers are trying different approaches to pick up the slack.

"IN TIMES like this we tend to hunker down, to cut back on some additional expenses," said Carl Fischer, owner of Buick, Mazda, Subaru dealerships in Troy and president of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association.

"We've held off doing some redecorating of the store. We try to emphasize service a little more, do a little more direct mail advertising. We go after used car business a little stronger."

In January, new car sales at his Buick dealership were up slightly, Mazda sales flat and Subaru down slightly, Fischer said.

Bob Moran, an executive at Pontiac, GMC and Mitsubishi dealerships in Southfield, said tough times are affecting all of his operations.

"People can keep their cars longer than you or I could believe," he said.

"Industry-wide, body shops are down. Every day there are no fewer accidents. If you were laid off and your fender was banged in and you got a check for $400-500, you wouldn't give the money to me, you'd buy groceries," Moran said.

Service and body shop repair orders indicate that people are neglecting their cars, he said.

"We have oil specials, brake specials. We have a free shuttle and reasonable rental rates," Moran said. "You're forced to advertise differently, advertise less. What we do in many cases is eliminate the shotgun approach all over the city."

Ten to 15 percent of the staff, mostly in sales and office personnel, has been laid off since Dec. 1, Moran said. He recently included a letter to employees with their paychecks emphasizing the importance of quality service in all operations.

BUT IT'S DIFFICULT to sell consumers who clam up, he said, "When people aren't spending money, they don't come in."

So what's a dealer to do?

Birmingham Chrysler Plymouth in Troy is promoting itself on a couple of cable TV systems.

"Rather than focus on the price of the car . . . it is basically a half hour program explaining who we are from the service department to the parts department," said Bill Kolath, general manager. "Sales — how we can go about financing a car, used cars. It's really total.

"It (campaign) is something we've had on the burner," Kolath said. "We've been setting up a while. Economic conditions didn't stall or force it."

Listen to Gary Marl, general manager and part owner of Livonia Chrysler Plymouth.

"The key becomes did you take care of them (customers) when they were under warranty. Actually, when you get in a slowdown, you can't instantly get competitive. You begin to tighten a little bit. If you need drastic action, you're in trouble."

Prices for service jobs may be reduced to compete with the independent specialty shops, Marl said. Previous buyers of new cars may receive coupons for free maintenance jobs to get them in and let them know the dealer is thinking about them.

"They do know you can do anything. Maybe you'll get something else," Marl said of spin-off business.

EVEN IF dealers don't, Anwyl said, "Oil changes add up very quickly."

Marl painted a rosier picture than some of his counterparts. "All our departments are slightly up other than new car sales," he said. "I won't feel the pinch as much."

The DADA reported that 342 dealerships were operating in the tri-county area during the run of the North

Investor measures the options in game theory, actual market

By Doug Funke
staff writer

It should come as no surprise that Steve Wingert, a research associate who intends to pursue a graduate degree in business administration, aspires one day to manage investment portfolios.

And if his performance in a recent mock investment competition sponsored by Wall Street Games of Massachusetts is indicative of success, the 23-year-old Southfield resident has a promising future.

Wingert placed ninth nationally among 8,000 players and second in the state in the options division by turning an initial stake of $500,000 in play money plus the ability to borrow another $500,000 on margin into $4.8 million — all in the three-month period October through December.

Wingert won $1,250 in real money for his efforts.

Option investors buy and sell rights to buy or unload the actual stock of companies at a strike price within a specific period of time.

A call option is the right to buy at the strike price, a put option is the right to sell at the strike price. The money received by the option seller from the buyer is the premium.

OPTIONS GENERALLY move at a price considerably lower than the stock, itself. So even small movements in price on options markets present opportunities for big profits — and losses.

"I made a lot of money on takeover stocks, specifically MCA and Square D, all on premiums," Wingert said of the contest.

Wingert sold call options on MCA, an entertainment company taken over by a Japanese firm, and on Square D, an electronics firm subject to takeover rumors. He figured the stock prices wouldn't rise any higher to the strike price and they didn't. The options expired and he kept the premiums.

Wingert sold put options on NCR figuring the stock wouldn't go lower to the strike price. It didn't and he kept the premiums there, too.

Wingert prefers to sell rather than buy options in game theory and real life. He developed that strategy after losing big in an early foray into the real options market.

"THE POTENTIAL is for big gains, but if the stock goes in the other direction, stays the same or only moves a little bit, potential is for losing," Wingert said.

"If (option) buyers are losing 70-80

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY LENDER

Abuse often begets abuse

By R.J. King
special writer

Child abuse, long considered a domestic nightmare, is costing American corporations $3-$5 billion annually as a result of managers who, once abused as children, abuse their own employees.

According to a report by the Bureau of National Affairs, an independent publishing company, managers who were subject to abusive treatment as children, tend to run their businesses by incorporating the values taught to them by their parents. The report, which focuses on relationships between the workplace and family history, reveals one of every four supervisors often yells at subordinates, unfairly criticizes them or engages in other forms of abusive behavior that serves to undermine productivity.

"It's really a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde syndrome where a boss acts like a good guy one day and a bad guy the next," said David Mills, executive director of the Children's Trust Fund in Lansing, the state's largest child abuse prevention agency.

"For children who are improperly parented, it doesn't end there. Some kids who were abused as children turn out to be Mother Teresa, but the majority of cases are people who make mean neighbors, mean drivers and exhibit sharp swings in their personality."

EMPLOYEES ON the receiving end of managerial abuse tend to be "less creative, take less risks, have more health problems and hunker down to stay out of harm's way," Mills said.

Dorothy Mardeusz Chodyniecki, associate executive director of the Judson Center, a family treatment center in Royal Oak, which runs group homes in Beverly Hills, Lathrup Village, Southfield and Troy, said the problem of abuse at the workplace can be corrected.

"In almost all cases of child abuse, the victim suffers from a self-esteem that has been disintegrated," she said. "At the office, this type of person may become obsessed with having absolute control over everything.

"When that person comes here, we assess what happened to the individual, what skeletons or ghosts are there, and then we work toward finding solutions, which includes rebuilding self-esteem."

Treatment, said Chodyniecki, can take anywhere from three to six months of weekly appointments, depending on the nature of the problem. Costs range from $10 to $45 an hour, and may be covered by health insurance.

Dealerships push other car services

American International Auto Show earlier this year. They were owned by 152 principals. Fifteen dealerships closed during 1990 and 13 opened.

"I think that's one of the core issues — too many retail outlets," Anwyl said. "The pie is only so big. When business is tight, a dealer tends to sacrifice gross profit to sell a unit."

Several changes in the car-buying experience were forecast by dealers.

Customers may look forward to having cars brought to their houses or work places for examination and test drives rather than going to dealerships to shop, Fischer projected.

A more low-key relationship between buyer and salesperson with less negotiation on price and few variables like rebates mucking up the process was envisioned by Marl.

Leasing will become even more prevalent than today, opening the new-car market to even more customers, Moran projected.

Abused kids become abusive as managers

To avoid potential abuse problems at the workplace, the study urges employers to become more involved in their employees' private lives, and start programs that can reduce domestic violence and improve performance and productivity.

OFFERING AN example of an abusive boss who suffered from child abuse, the study presented an individual who was a "highly trained, technically competent executive" whose subordinates had difficulty with his management style:

"He constantly changes positions and directions, making it difficult to determine where he stands on issues from day to day; he regularly embarrasses employees by scolding them in front of their peers; and he makes fun of those he considers 'weak.'

In revelations to his company's employee assistance program counselor, the executive said his alcoholic father exhibited similar treatment to him, and as a result, the son asked to be sent away to boarding school at 14 years of age.

Michael Earl, program director for Oakland Family Services, a nonprofit family service agency in Pontiac, which also runs out-patient facilities in several cities, including Rochester, said companies should not overlook the human side of their employees.

"In situations where you have child abuse show up in abusive bosses, it basically boils down to a job performance issue," he said. "If I noticed one of the supervisors in my program was abusive, I would cite the behavior and see if it continued.

"If it did, I would meet with that supervisor, go over all the incidents, and indicate to them that their performance is suffering. I would then recommend they take care of the problem, set out expectations and lay down a time frame."

Earl added most progressive companies have employee assistance programs to deal with such problems, or falling short of that, he recommended companies or employees seek out a family service agency. He also warned there was a tendency on behalf of companies to look at managers' performance from an efficiency level as opposed to one of human relations. Such a pattern may cause companies to be more protective of their managers, he said.

percent of the time, sellers are coming out ahead 70-80 percent of the time." And sellers always get the premiums.

A conservative approach to options actually can be a safe way to invest, Wingert said.

"If someone owned GM stock for 20 years, they could have sold call options (to buy) on shares 15-20 percent higher than the current price and receive premium income every couple of months," he said. "The only risk is willing to part with the stock at a higher price."

That is, if the market price rose so high that someone called the stock and you had to sell at market to cover.

CONVERSELY, if you like a stock at 20 and that's the strike price and the current market price of the stock is 25, selling puts will enable you to collect premium income immediately.

If the market price falls to around 19 near expiration, you get the stock at 20 when it's put to you. Granted, that's not as good as 19, but you thought 20 was a fair price, anyway.

"I'd say a majority of investors will invest only in mutual funds or stock," Wingert said. "I think a majority of investors are scared of options, and the reason they're scared is they haven't taken the time to learn about it.

"They should read and experiment by looking at the newspaper, pretending to buy and sell to get a better understanding how time makes the price go down, how much movement in stock price will affect the option price until they feel comfortable.

"I'M UNCOMFORTABLE buying stock that doesn't have option opportunities," Wingert said. "Believe it or not, your risk is higher. If I buy high and it drags down 50-60 percent, if there are no options, I have to sit with a paper loss day after day.

"I can sell call options at a significantly higher striking price and earn at least premium income.

"I don't use computer formulas," Wingert said of real-life investment strategies. "I read Investors Daily every day. I spot opportunities with two eyes and a knowledge of math. I'll look at most active options, the most up in price."

Wingert, who came to Southfield via Grinnell College in Iowa, was bit by the investment bug while a student in Atlanta, Ga.

"A division of Junior Achievement called Project Business, a member of the community, came to my school . . . and talked about his line of work. He kind of opened my eyes. Just introducing it to me got my blood flowing."

Wingert made his first buy in 10th grade with his father's name on his account. He's always kept up his interest in investments through high school, college and now as a research associate for Deloitte & Touche.

He hopes to begin an MBA program this fall.

"After I go to business school, I plan to get a job as a portfolio manager for a brokerage or manage a mutual fund," Wingert said. "Ultimately, I'd like to own a money management business."

Florida Keys
Taste the Caribbean without leaving U.S.

By Iris Sanderson Jones

The Keys: a 100-mile-long whiplash of bony islands curving out from the southeast corner of the United States toward the warm Caribbean Sea.

Voices. "If they would only move some of those Caribbean islands to the United States and make them American . . ."

Two thoughts flashed through my head. The first: "That's a narrow view of travel." The second: "The Florida Keys."

Voices. "I'm going to sunset. You coming?" The sun goes down all over the world, but there's only one place I know where people "go to sunset" and applaud the sun as it goes down. The Florida Keys.

The Keys: a 100-mile-long whiplash of bony islands curving out from the southeast corner of the United States toward the warm Caribbean Sea. Your American passport is good there, although some people think it's a different world. Voices.

"Welcome to the Conch Republic."

You enter the Conch Republic on Highway 1, which starts at the Canada-US border in Maine and follows the Atlantic coast south until it crosses the intercoastal waterway and does a sharp right turn south toward the Caribbean.

Some people take the Card Sound Bridge to the north end of Key Largo Key and the Ocean Reef Club, a private club where members have names like Monaghan and J.P. McCarthy.

Most of us follow Highway 1 as it narrows and the signs begin amid the roadside scrub: "Patience pays — only three minutes to a passing zone." There's no border, no immigration, but this is where the Conch Republic begins.

Dan Webster has that bleach-headed look you get when you spend a lot of time in the sun. He didn't have it when he graduated from East Garden City High School or when he was opening restaurants all over the metro Detroit area in the 1970s and 80s, but he has it now, after six months of working in the Florida Keys.

He has the Keys Disease.

The Keys are about dive boats, fishermen, funky bars and sunsets, but most of all they are about people. Not just ordinary people, but individualists, people who leave the shirt-and-tie life behind, run away to rediscover their own lives and contract the Keys Disease. It may or may not be incurable.

There are a long list of rugged individualists in the folklore of the Keys. Pirates. Wreckers who swung lanterns to lure Spanish treasure ships to their death on the reefs, then salvaged the contents. Legendary figures like Ernest Hemingway.

Today the individualists are often young men, and occasionally women, who exchange successful nine-to-five careers for a barefoot life and never look back.

The Keys are about Doug, who owned several paint and body shops in Fort Lauderdale, sold them all, bought a boat, and is now a sunbronzed doorman in shorts and boating shoes at Cheeca Lodge. He's got his life on course now. Next year he plans to sail to the Bahamas, the year after that to the Virgin Islands.

When businessman Henry Dunant arrived on the battlefield three days later, he found thousands of soldiers unattended and dying of their wounds.

An open tunnel of concrete resembling a World War I trench leads to the courtyard of the Red Cross-Red Crescent International Museum dug into a grassy hill opening toward the impressive headquarters of The International Red Cross in Geneva, Switzerland.

In the museum's courtyard stand nine bronze sculptures, human in size, draped and faceless, representing prisoners of war. Above are parachute-cloth flags of giant size. One features a red cross on a field of white, the other is emblazoned with an equally imposing red crescent.

These symbols are the only two recognized by the Geneva Convention. The banners filter the light and reflect many times in the floor-to-ceiling window glass.

Inside, etched on the stone wall and equally reflective, are words from Dostoyevsky's "The Brothers Karamazov": "Each one of us is responsible to all others for everything."

The museum attempts and succeeds in portraying the need for a shared responsibility for events that shape world history. Exhibits and films speak of a Red Cross not standing in judgment, but offering humanitarian services to all.

It was soon after the battle of Solferino in 1858, a struggle to liberate Italy, that the Red Cross was created. The French and the Piedmontese Italians had become embroiled in a bloody battle with Austrians they perceived as an occupying force.

When businessman Henry Dunant arrived on the battlefield three days later, he found thousands of soldiers unattended and dying of their wounds.

He mobilized the local population to assist him in caring for the victims and later returned to Geneva to write "A Memory of Solferino." In the museum there is a white sculpture by the American George Segal called "Henry Dunant writing."

He called upon states to "formulate some international principle, sanctioned by a convention inviolate in character, which once agreed upon and ratified, might constitute the basis for societies for the relief of the wounded."

His proposal led to the formation of the Red Cross as well as the Geneva Conventions. In 1863 his "Committee of Five" philanthropists quickly became international. Clara Barton was the first American president of the Red Cross.

The Red Cross has set an international style for the city of Geneva which now hosts not only the Geneva Conventions, but the administrative headquarters for the United Nations and World Health Organization as well.

The interior of the museum is a honeycomb of reinforced concrete with tubes of high-tech air-handling equipment running overhead throughout and forming a stark

Lost bags
Airlines differ in what they'll replace, pay for

AP — Your flight was smooth and on time.

Now, to retrieve your luggage. The last bag has been belched up onto the conveyor belt, but yours is nowhere to be found.

The fact that airlines successfully deliver vast numbers of checked bags to intended destinations on time doesn't impress you as you stand there, claim check in hand, surveying the empty carousel.

You report the bag missing, and the airline immediately puts a tracer on it. With luck, your luggage will be found and delivered to you within 24 hours. If not, what compensation can you expect?

For actual loss, if the bag cannot be found within a reasonable period (often specified as five days), the airline's liability is limited to the amount listed on the back of your airline ticket.

For domestic flights it's $1,250 per incident (not per bag), set by U.S. Transportation Department regulations. For international flights, it's $20 per kilogram, or $9.05 per pound, of checked baggage, determined by the Warsaw Convention. That's $1,269.80 for the 70 pounds of allowable free luggage.

These amounts are frequently inadequate. And, to be compensated, most airlines require passengers to list contents of lost bags, with receipts or other proofs of value.

Passengers have little recourse. Most lawsuits are dismissed, resulting in further frustration.

One notable exception involved a technicality: The check-in agent on a New York to London flight hadn't written the luggage weight on the passenger's ticket. The Warsaw Convention states, "If the baggage check does not contain the weight of the luggage, the carrier shall not be entitled to avail himself of those provisions of the convention which exclude or limit his liability." British Airways settled out of court for a sum substantially higher than $1,269.80.

You can take measures to protect against loss. If you know the airline's limited liability won't cover clothing, work-related items or other accouterments, you can buy additional baggage insurance — a maximum of $5,000 coverage per passenger — at check-in time. The cost is minimal. Delta, Continental and Northwest airlines charge $1 per each additional $100 of value; American and United charge $2 per each additional $100 of value.

What immediate assistance can you expect if your luggage arrives later than you do? Although you'll have to ask, even insist, most airlines reimburse you for necessary purchases. No, you can't buy a new suit. But toiletries, medicine, underwear and, depending on the time elapsed between lost and found, a change of clothing or cleaning services are reimbursable with sales receipts.

Some airlines are more liberal. Most give baggage service personnel some leeway in determining amounts and conditions of payment. Be prepared to state your case politely but strongly to get the best deal.

Delta Airlines, known to be particularly responsive, allows $150 for expenses incurred as a result of delayed luggage. Payment is made in cash upon presentation of receipts.

Northwest Airlines allows $50 if the bag has not been recovered withmiliar in the Caribbean, appears between the palm trees. You see milemarker signs. Mile markers are addresses along the Overseas Highway, the only main street in the Keys, which runs for 100 miles of islands and bridges from Mile Marker 100 in the town of Key Largo to Mile Marker 1 in Key West.

Taste the Caribbean without leaving U.S.

If you're a Humphrey Bogart fan, you saw Bogie in the movie "Key Largo" and you can "meet" him on the restored boat from "The African Queen," which sails out of the Holiday Inn dock in the town of Key Largo.

From Key Largo south everything is related to the sea, especially John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, which gives access to the only living coral reef in the U.S. Boaters can't drop anchor on the reef without being fined, but they can hook up to existing anchors, and travelers can see the reef in glass-bottom or dive boats.

Our first overnight stop was at Cheeca Lodge, on Upper Matecumbe Key in Islamorada. The Cheeca was once a retreat for wealthy sportsmen. It is now a 203-room resort offering golf, tennis, salt and freshwater swimming pools and other amenities.

You've seen President George Bush fishing in that sea out there; he gave the first semi-formal dinner party of his presidency at the Cheeca Lodge. Some people say the natural funkiness of the Keys is giving way to glitz and glamour, but some things don't change. The rising sun still makes a golden path across the Atlantic to the fisherman at the end of the 525-foot fishing pier at Cheeca Lodge.

There was a crowd watching a televised football game on the deck when we drove into the Lorelei Restaurant, at Mile Marker 82, where we ate bonefish overlooking the Gulf of Mexico just a quarter-mile across Upper Matecumbe Key from the Atlantic.

The drive south from Islamorada is a quick lesson in geography and what free souls can do with it when they love water. There are some elegant resorts, like Hawk's Cay Resort on Duck Key near Marathon, or the resort on Little Palm Island, which looks more like the south seas than the United States.

If you stay on the Overseas Highway, however, it still looks like it did in those old Bogart movies. Marinas cluttered with dive boats and fishing boats. Roadside restaurants that serve fresh seafood on picnic tables. Scores of tiny coastal resorts. Herons on an offshore pole. Barefoot beach lovers at Bahia Honda State Park, one of the very few good swimming beaches in the Keys.

There were only a few seagoing souls here when Henry Flagler built his railway down the Keys in 1912, carrying passengers to his grand hotel and by ferry across 90 miles of sea to Havana. One good hurricane wiped all that out but the hotel is still there, now Marriott's Casa Marina.

New England sea captains built these big wooden Conch houses, with their Bahamian architecture in the historic town of Key West. And the Navy kept the town alive for decades, but locals credit the young settlers from the 1960s, especially the gay population, for saving the old houses from oblivion.

Gay is a fact of life in Key West. From the tourist point of view that can mean a marvelous bed-and-breakfast in a restored conch house, a selection of great restaurants and one or two bars that tourists stay out of.

Key West is a good place to be a tourist. Take the Conch Tour Train or the Old Town Trolley and see the sights: the Hemingway House, the maritime museums, the civil war towers, the wildlife preserves.

Everybody should do that, but the real tourist life of Key West for one-and-two-dayers is on Duval Street in Old Town, where you follow the young crowds to the high-amp sounds of Sloppy Joe's and you follow them "to sunset."

The crowds start to gather on Mallory Pier about 5 p.m. Voices. The Cookie Lady on her bicycle singing out, "Hot fresh brownies, key lime pies." The juggler, "OK folks, watch this now!"

There's the bagpiper in his plaid kilt and undershirt. The tightrope walker silhouetted against the orange sky. People sit on the edge of the dock and watch the sun edge toward the horizon across that beautiful sea.

Somebody says: "That old sun did it again!" And we all applaud.

Keys life suits ex-Michiganders at the Ocean Reef Club on Key Largo. He would paint their houses, build their patios, and drive their cars north when the season was over.

He made a lot of money but the pressure got to him. "One day I said to myself, 'If I keep living like this I am going to die.' " He gave his house back to the bank, took a job waiting tables at the Lorelei Restaurant at Mile Marker 82 and put his life back together. Never been happier.

According to Dan Webster, "Everybody in the Keys seems to be hiding or running away."

I met Dan in the dining room of the Cheeca Lodge while I was gazing out the window at the Atlantic Ocean, at the pelican sitting at the end of the fishing pier and the guests gathering for a morning of snorkeling, parasailing, reef watching and fishing.

I met him because I asked my waitress an innocent question: "Is anybody around here from Michigan?"

"I'm from Michigan." That was waitress Cindy Maguire from Six Lakes, near Alma.

"We're from Michigan." That was Michael and Lisa Wysochi, honeymooners from Warren who were sitting at the next table.

"He's from Michigan!" And there was assistant restaurant manager Dan Webster, born in Detroit, raised in Garden City, graduated from East Garden City High School (now Garden City High), student at the University of Michigan.

Dan got into the restaurant business 22 years ago when he worked as a dishwasher at the Nugget Restaurant and went on to help open restaurants all over the metro area. He helped start Salvatore Scallopini's in Madison Heights and Mr. Flood's Party in Ann Arbor before he started moving south to work in restaurants in Indianapolis and Atlanta.

One day he did what most of these 1990s Key Westers did. He got tired of everything, moved to the Keys for a rest, got a job and stayed.

Before you decide to follow Dan Webster into the good life, hear his warning: "The Keys are for people who like water. If you move here and you don't like water you'll get bored, sit in a bar and wonder what you are doing here."

"The sunset in the Keys is great, but it hasn't beaten the sunset on Lake Michigan yet," Dan says.

Red Cross Museum

A paean to humanity amidst warfare

In these tense times of war we can look to this unique museum to find the costs of the use of force.

background for the photographs, films and historic documents which tell the story of the Red Cross from its beginnings.

Just inside the entrance is an emblem on the floor depicting Nancy Reagan and Raisa Gorbachev at the ceremony in 1985 during which the cornerstone was laid.

The first exhibit pays credence to preserving life through works of mercy and underlines this bidding in diverse languages including Chinese, Hindu, Arabic and English displayed on huge illuminated screens.

The Wall of Time displays major events in which the Red Cross has participated from its founding in 1863: wars, epidemics, massacres, genocide, collective and individual tragedies.

It participated first in the Danish War, the Franco-Prussian War and the Russo-Turkish War. It was during the latter that the Turks asked Geneva for permission to replace the cross, which offended their Muslim soldiers, with a red crescent on a white background.

The Red Cross was there during the Sino-Japanese War, Transvaal and Boer wars, Spanish-American War, Russo-Japanese War and the Mexican Revolution.

The movement underwent unprecedented growth during World War I, bringing help to a category of victims not yet protected under the Geneva Convention, the prisoners of war.

On display in glass cases are files of seven million index cards by which prisoners were located, identified and put in touch with their families. Surely an amazing accomplishment before the days of the computer.

Between wars the Red Cross extended its activities to include social services and relief in times of natural disaster. These are shown in photos and films. A cracked pieta-like sculpture entitled "The Humanitarian Gesture" gives theme to these sufferings.

Set into the floor is a radio-telegram of 21,590 words transmitted in 1943 by the United States government to the international committee of the Red Cross, listing the names of German prisoners of war held in the U.S.

Against the threatening background of a nuclear explosion, two stone blocks project rays of hope for the second half of the 20th century: the 1945 Charter of the United Nations and the 1949 Geneva Conventions.

Also, a glass panel illuminates the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights and includes new provisions for the protection of civilian populations.

A cell with three seated figures by Carl Bucher represents 20th century political detention. Beneath scaffolding representing a world under construction is a series of pictures on 20 screens taking up the theme of The Wall of Time and extending it to the recent work of the Red Cross. The music of The Beatles, and particularly that of John Lennon, rings forth in this room.

"Children in War," a temporary exhibition when I was in the museum, showed more than 100 photographs and audio-visuals of children suffering, starving or wounded. Also shown is the film, "I'm 12 and I'm in War, Already a Soldier."

A tour through Geneva's Red Cross and Red Crescent Museum provides a particularly emotional experience. I found it to be an emphatically moving, provocative, educational and inspirational encounter. In these tense times of war we can look to this unique museum to find the costs of the use of force.

Donations to the museum have come from private and public funds. Listed among American benefactors are American Express, Citicorp, Johnson & Johnson, Arthur Anderson & Co. and the Digital Equipment Corporation.

The museum address is 17 avenue de la Paix, CH 1202 Geneva. Telephone, 022-734-52-48. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day but Tuesday. Admission is free. Guided tours on request.

in 24 hours. It adds $25 per day thereafter to a maximum of $150. Occasionally further expenditures are allowed but must be approved within four hours of your arrival.

American and United airlines have similar policies: $25 toward expenses in the first 24 hours, an additional $25 for the next 24 hours to a maximum of $100 if the bag has not been found within three days. Payment is made by check upon presentation of receipts. If the bag is lost, these amounts may be deducted from the settlement.

Continental Airlines covers 50 percent of clothing expenses to a maximum of $100 and pays $25 for toiletries.

With increased security, airlines are adhering strictly to one carry-on bag per person. Pack it with prescription medicines, toiletries, a change of underwear and other essentials. Just in case.

Director's touch makes musicals

The musical "The King and I" will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, March 15-16, and 3 p.m. Sunday, March 17, at the Mercy High School Auditorium in Farmington Hills. Tickets are $8 for adults, $6 for students and seniors. For ticket information call 356-7562.

By Cathie Breidenbach
special writer

Roberta Campion has been putting together musicals at Mercy for seven years.

NO DETAIL ESCAPES the surveillance of Roberta Campion, the free lance director who for the last seven years has produced, directed and choreographed musicals at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills.

This year she is directing a cast and crew of 85 in the Rogers and Hammerstein hit musical "The King and I." In the script, the King of Siam has multiple wives and 67 children, "but we're not that crazy," said Campion, with a director's appreciation for the logistical headache of having 67 children on stage. She has cut the number to 23 children and 23 wives, still a formidable undertaking to cast, costume and coordinate that many young players.

For seven years Campion has pulled together the myriad details for Mercy's musical productions. Packed houses and word-of-mouth praise prove she has the upbeat enthusiasm to develop the talents of her young cast members as well as the raw endurance to survive the schizophrenic demands of producing and directing a huge musical.

"I work about five to six hours a day on the musical alone," she said, as she ticked off responsibilities such as the program, publicity, photos and logo that she oversees, beyond rehearsing, choreographing and directing the show.

A MUSICAL is a long-standing Mercy High School tradition — a tradition Campion remembers fondly from her days as a stage-struck Mercy student. She danced in "The King and I" in a Mercy High School production and went on to earn a bachelor of arts in theater and English and a master of arts in dance and English at the University of Detroit.

Now Mercy faculty such as Larry Teevens, chair of the Music Department, and Michael Bistritzsky, orchestra teacher, under whom she worked as a student, have become her colleagues. She and Teevens choose a show each year that has numerous plum female roles for Mercy's all-girl-high-school students.

"We like to give more kids more chances to be on stage," she said. Male parts, such as that of the king, played by Pascal McGaffey, are cast in open auditions as are children's parts such as the king's stairstep lineup of 23 adorable children.

"This year," Campion said, "we have kids in the show from 32 schools and 23 different communities. Students have to have a good grade-point average to be cast, so we usually have the best students. Most have a G.P.A. of 3.5 and above."

From her command post in Mercy's 1,200-seat auditorium, Campion oversees a rehearsal as Anna (played by Mercy senior Leslie Erin Gaiser) sings "Shall We Dance" and polkas for the first time in her elegant, teal-blue ball gown with a voluminous hoop skirt. Within a span of minutes Campion's comments dart from tips on heightening the romantic tension, as Anna and the king discover their love, to costumes, to musical pacing.

ANNA AND the king are drawn to each other across the broad stage, and the tension of their awakening love must be electric. Campion advises her leads, "Take all the time you want" and "Erin, breathe harder." Cast and crew members meandering about the auditorium sense the energy in the scene and freeze to watch the action.

When Anna picks up the hem of her gown to dance with the king, Campion comments on the new pantaloons peeking out beneath the skirt. She praises the talent of her leads — Anna and the king — and adds, "There's good chemistry between them."

Gaiser (Anna) is an auburn-haired beauty with creamy shoulders and a splendid singing voice. The king, played by Pascal McGaffey, is a handsome black-haired monarch with a regal bearing. Humor and unacknowledged kindness lie beneath the gruff, autocratic presence he presents to the world.

This East-meets-West tale is based on a true story about Anna, a widowed English schoolteacher who traveled to Siam in the 1860s to teach the children of the King. Campion explains the pluck of Anna, the heroine. "She was no wimp to come all the way from England by boat with her son in those days."

review

By Bob Weibel
special writer

The Theatre Guild's season of plays about artists continues with a splendid, thought-provoking production of "The Road to Mecca."

It is by South African playwright Athol Fugard, who has written much about racial strife (most notably "Master Harold and the Boys"). While this play is set in his homeland, it tells of a different sort of intolerance. It is about an artist's struggle to remain true to her vision, which puts her into conflict with her neighbors.

Peggy Joyce is superb as Miss Helen, an aging artist whom the community views as something of an eccentric. An early widow, she copes with the inhospitable outer world by creating her own inner world.

Miss Helen constructs weird concrete sculptures of owls, camels and other creatures for her garden — which she calls Mecca. And she bathes her small cottage in candlelight — creating what she calls "a city of light and color more splendid than anything imaginable."

ONCE FIERCELY independent, the nonconformist but enfeebled Miss Helen is faced with the prospect of giving up her statues and garden for an old-age home.

Trying to talk Miss Helen out of this choice is her rebellious and troubled young friend, Elas, a schoolteacher from Capetown. Patricia Jones brings great energy and insights to the role of Elsa. At times, however, her anger boils over into badgering Miss Helen, which tends to make her less sympathetic.

Rick Hudson is excellent as the Reverend Marius Byleveld, the villain in the piece. On the surface he appears a harmless pastor looking after the interests of his flock, which in this case is to get Miss Helen into a home before she hurts herself.

It soon becomes quite obvious, however, that the good reverend is really speaking on behalf of a rigid moralistic community which has no tolerance for Miss Helen's lifestyle. The residents will stop at nothing to rid themselves of the village oddball.

Playwright Fugard and director Rebecca Smith combine to show us that we should not be frightened of free thinkers and look upon them as dangerous. On the contrary, the vision artists bring to the world is to be cherished, even if it doesn't agree with our version of the truth.

Filmmakers, animators speak

Vic Spicer, animator, talks about the medium of claymation at "Update 91."

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

It's often been said that metro Detroit is a major filmmaking center, and the recent "Update 91" proved it.

Co-sponsored by Detroit Producers Association and Detroit Area Film and Television and Educational Association, Update brings together filmmakers, students, teachers and film buffs of every sort for a day-long exposure to all aspects of film and video production.

Held for the second consecutive year at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills, Update 91 hosted 150-plus registrants who were treated to presentations by, among others, DPA president Shannon Hammed and her partner, Ron Senkowski, a 1981 North Farmington High School graduate.

Their company, Lighten Up Films, currently is completing its first feature film, "Let's Kill All the Lawyers," which is also the first movie to be edited via a new electronic system, the Avid MediaComposer. The partners leave early next month for the Cannes Film Festival's second selection round, in New York.

THEIR PRESENTATION included clips from the work-in-progress, a description of the electronic editing system and considerable insight into the trials, tribulations and rewards of independent film production.

Len Radjewski, president of the co-sponsoring DAFT organization, said, "Update is a fine, continuing tradition, which improves each year. It's a terrific opportunity for filmmakers and film aficianados to learn what's going on in the film and video media."

Other presentations were "The Art of the Film" by Dearborn film historian Jim Limbacher, who screened videotapes from his television course, "The Screening Room," which ran for many years on local television.

"Independent and student filmmakers seem drawn to animation techniques," said Vic Spicer who, with art director David Messing, currently is working on a feature-length animation, "Christmas Pirates," which will premiere during the holiday season, 1993.

"Animation is the great equalizer," Spicer continued, "where everybody can find something of interest. Cinema is the marriage of the arts, and animation draws all the crafts together."

ANIMATION ALSO appeals to young filmmakers because it is a medium where time, creativity and patience can replace big budgets and reliance on large numbers of personnel.

Continuing Update 91's emphasis on animation techniques, Gloria Joseph of Postique, a post-production facility in Southfield, presented clips and an update on her work-in-progress, "Boundaries," a visual poem based on footage she shot in Poland in October 1989.

Jeff Bloomer, an independent filmmaker and film instructor at Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland, screened and discussed his latest film, "Divine Departure," a stop-motion animation, dream-like vision created from discarded objects he found near his Detroit studio.

The "22nd Tournee of Animation" highlighted film screenings available for Update '91 participants. These 18 animated shorts were complemented by other film presentations, "Boot Cut Slacks and Other Shorts" by Tom Megalis, films by winners of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Student Film Oscars, Michigan Student Film and Video Festival films, and numerous other independent productions.

Local cinematographer Lon Stratton of Miller-Stratton discussed how camera work makes a film look good.

Update 91's day at Orchard Ridge concluded by a screening of Clio winners, award-winning commercials, and a presentation of "Shades of Black Cinema," some of the more than 400 films produced by black filmmakers and collected by Detroiter James Wheeler who has archived black film artists for some 35 years.

'Independent and student filmmakers seem drawn to animation techniques.'

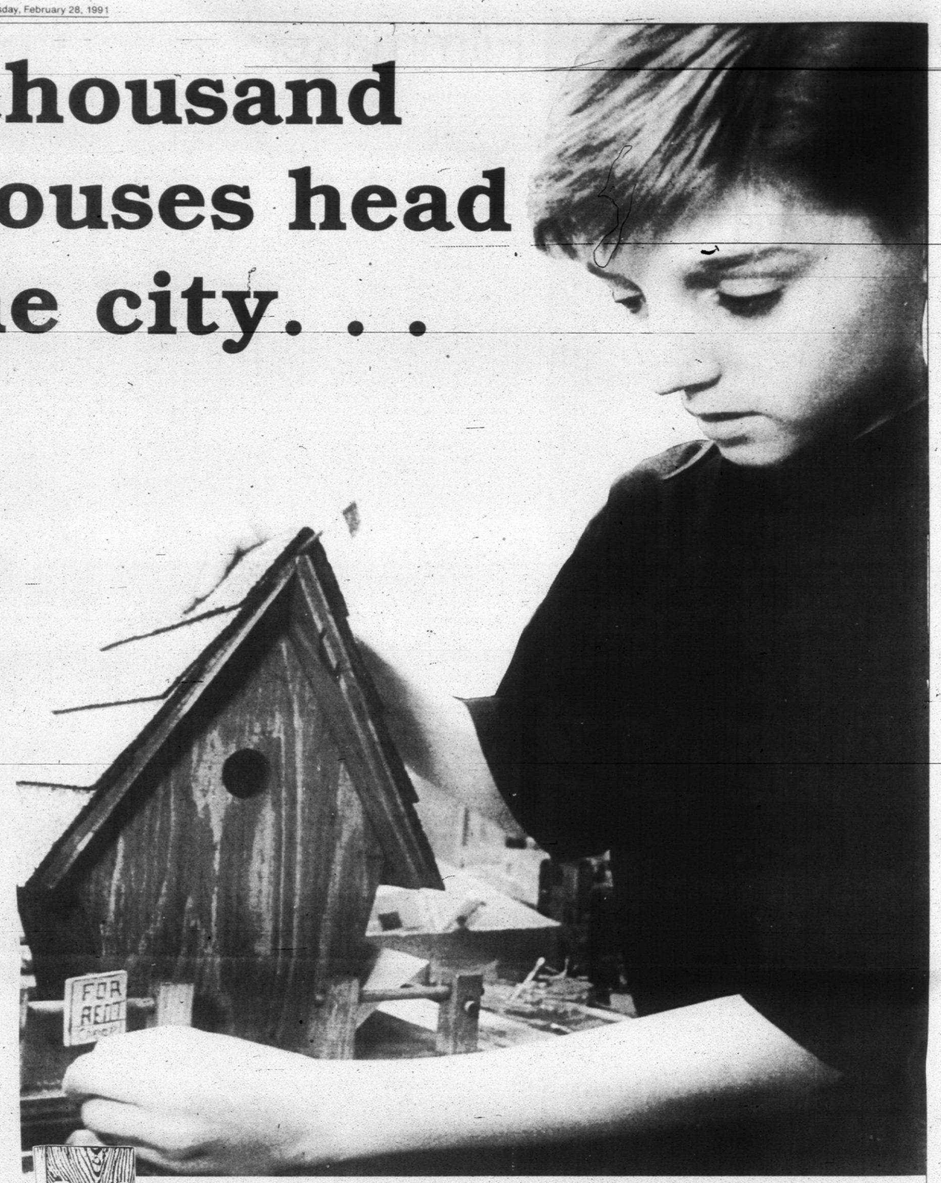
One thousand birdhouses head for the city. . .



One of our 1990 contestants, Damien Fron, puts the finishing touches on his entry.

When the 1991 International Builders Home Flower and Furniture Show opens at Cobo Center this spring, more than one thousand birdhouses will be displayed.

Who built all of these houses? Seventh and eighth grade students from 36 area schools were busy this winter hammering, sawing and nailing together homes for eight species of birds. House Wrens, Bluebirds, Woods Ducks, Barred Owls, Great Crested Flycatchers, American Kestrels, American Robins and Tree Swallows will benefit from the efforts of these young people when, after the show, these houses go up in a thousand back yards.

The 1991 Best Birdhouse Builder Contest, sponsored by The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, challenges each young carpenter to not only build a winning birdhouse, but to learn about the bird that will call it "home."

Contestants learned that the American Kestrel is our smallest falcon and that the tree swallow's eggs are white.

The actual building of these houses offered a challenge as well.

If you'd like to get the feel of this project, just follow the directions below and you'll have made a nest box for the Northern Flicker. In order to attract flickers, you should begin construction with 1½-inch thick cedar boards and fill the interior all the way to the top with sawdust; this imitates a dead limb with soft heartwood.

This is not a contest, but if you're really serious about testing your birdhouse building skills, you should have your construction finished by April 1 for the birds to nest.

That Chapter 73 of the Code of Ordinances of the Charter Township of Plymouth be amended by adding a new section to be known as "73.195 Sump Pump Collection Systems", to read as follows:

73.195. SUMP PUMP COLLECTION SYSTEMS.

(A) Minimum Construction Requirements. All sump pump collection systems in the Township shall be constructed according to the following minimum requirements:

1. The sump pump collection systems shall be constructed with 8" minimum diameter pipe ABS composite (Truss) or PVC Pipe.
2. All sump pump collection systems shall be connected to the storm sewer systems only.
3. All sump pump collection systems shall be placed in drain easements and/or public utility easements.
4. All sump pump collection systems shall be connected with 2" minimum diameter PVC Pipe connected to the sump pump discharge.
5. All sump pump collection systems shall be constructed with a minimum of 3 feet of cover over the pipe with a minimum slope of .30%.
6. All clean-outs must be placed at a maximum of 300 foot intervals and also at the up-stream ends of the system.
7. All sump pump collection systems shall be constructed with a minimum of 2 foot diameter access structures at all pipe intersections.

(B) Review and Approval Procedures. The determination of the acceptability of the proposed sump pump collection systems will be made in accordance with the standard set forth in this Ordinance. The procedures are as follows:

1. At the time of the review and an approval of the Preliminary Plat, or Final Site Plan, the applicant shall indicate in general the method or methods of handling the sump pump water discharge.
2. The foregoing information will be reviewed by the Township Engineer in accordance with sound engineering principles. The Township Engineer shall make his written recommendation to the Township prior to the review by the Planning Commission to the Preliminary Plat or Site Plan submitted for Final Approval.
3. At the time of the Final Approval of the Preliminary Plat, by the Township Board with the recommendations, if any, of the Planning Commission, or the Final Site Plan Approval by the Planning Commission, the acceptability of the proposed sump pump collection system shall be determined.
4. Residential projects other than Plats or Site Plans approved by the Planning Commission shall be reviewed by the Building Department and the Department of Public Works for compliance and determination of the acceptability of the proposed sump pump collection system.

(C) Prohibited Discharges. The discharge of water from sump pumps which results in any of the following conditions shall be considered to be to the detriment of the general public health, safety and welfare and shall be prohibited:

2. Discharges onto lawn areas, including drainage swales, which result in the area being incapable of proper maintenance or which would cause the pooling of water and the promotion of the breeding of mosquitos or other insects.
3. Any discharge not outletting to a suitable storm sewer or waterway which as a result of ground water or other conditions causes the sump pump to cycle on a continuous basis without influence from precipitation.

(D) Existing Sump Pump Systems. Discharges from existing sump pump collection systems which create or cause to create situations outlined in Section 73.195 (C) above shall be defined as prohibited discharges and subject to correction. The following are possible remedies which shall be required to correct existing prohibited discharges:

Dry wells will be permitted only on soil conditions where the discharge water will percolate into the ground without adversely impacting adjoining properties. In general, dry wells will be constructed of perforated pipe 24" in diameter set vertically in the ground and surrounded by a minimum of 6' of stone on the sides and bottoms. The minimum depth of the dry well shall be 48" and suitable lid shall be placed on top which may be covered with earth.
3. In areas where soils are not suitable for dry wells or where an existing storm sewer or drainage ditch does not adjoin the property, the owner may be required to obtain permission from adjoining land owners to gain access to a suitable outlet. Remedies in this situation will be reviewed and prescribed by the Township Engineer and Chief Building Official.
4. Property owners utilizing remedies encompassing more than one property owner may attempt to establish a special assessment district for all beneficial property owners in a manner and in accordance with Michigan law.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT Holy Spirit, You make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideals. You give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrongs that are done to me and You are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with You, my loved One, in your Perpetual Glory. Amen. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After 3 days your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as the favor has been granted. Thanks, St. Jude, for favors received.

Rocks reach final 5th straight year

By Dan O'Meara

basketball

Plymouth Salem gets another shot at winning the Western Lakes Activities Association basketball championship, and Plymouth Canton gets another shot at Salem.

The state-ranked Rocks will be host to the Chiefs in the post-season tournament final at 7 p.m. Saturday. Salem, which escaped with a 65-62 victory at Canton on Jan. 29, is 17-2 and the Chiefs 12-7.

In semifinal games Tuesday, Salem advanced with a 77-64 victory over host Farmington Hills Harrison, and Canton eliminated defending champion Livonia Stevenson 54-46.

The Rocks will be playing in their fifth consecutive championship game, having won in 1987 and 1989, but Salem was upset by the Spartans last year. The Chiefs took their only title in 1984 and, in their only appearance since then, lost to Salem in 1987.

"It's the brass ring we didn't get last year," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "We're glad to have another opportunity, and we're glad it's in our gym."

SENIOR FORWARD K.C. Kirkpatrick was largely responsible for the Rocks getting to the final again, scoring a game-high 26 points against Harrison, 13-5. The Hawks will play Stevenson in the consolation game at 5 p.m. Saturday in the Salem gym.

Jake Baker tossed in 16 points for the Rocks, Cliff Lee 10, Eric Stemmer nine and John Hoffmeyer eight.

"When they play a triangle-and-two, he's going to light it up, because he's a great player," said Brodie of Kirkpatrick, adding he has Division I potential.

"He can do some of the things Jake can do, and he can do some things better. Jake is more powerful, and K.C. uses more finesse."

Kirkpatrick scored 11 of his 13 first-half points in the first quarter and helped Salem take a 20-11 lead. The Hawks made a critical mistake in attempting to defense Kirkpatrick, according to Harrison coach Mike Teachman.

"I told the players before the game he was left-handed," he said. "He gets the ball in the post and makes that little circle move to his left, and our guys were jumping out on his right and getting the foul from behind. That was basically our big faux pas."

SOPHOMORE GUARD Jeremy Teachman, who started in place of Roy Granger, who was ill, had 15 points to lead the Hawks, making all nine free throws in the second half.

Blazo Sarcevich tossed in 12 points, but Harrison's big scorers, forward Andy Smith and center Paul Gilvydis, were in foul trouble and held to 11 and 10, respectively.

Gilvydis provided a counter weight to Kirkpatrick's scoring in the first quarter when he had eight points, and the Hawks closed to 21-17 at the end. But he had only two free throws the rest of the game, and Smith, who also had three first-half fouls, had just three points in the first half.

Harrison still managed to keep it close at halftime, trailing 35-31, with help from Duan'te Anderson (six points), Sarcevich and point guard Dan Hight, who scored all eight of his points in the first half.

Once the Rocks, who dominated at the start, got the nine-point lead, Brodie began substituting his players.

"We wanted to give some guys a rest and stay out of foul trouble," he said. "(Chris) Tebben was in foul trouble, Hoffmeyer was on the border line and Jake had to come out for a rest.

"I DON'T KNOW if it was the inability of our players (that enabled the Hawks to close the gap), or they were just putting it in the hole."

Salem outscored the Hawks 22-15 in the third quarter and all but decided the contest, leading 57-46 going in the finale.

After Jeremy Teachman got Harrison within a point, 35-34, with a three-point play at the start of the third, the Rocks outscored the Hawks 17-4 to build a 14-point lead with three minutes left in the quarter.

Coach Teachman was upset with the manner of officiating, which he said allowed the game to become physical, which in turn favored the Rocks and their style of play.

Salem was 9-of-15 shooting free throws in the third quarter, 15-of-20 for the second half and 23-of-39 for the game. Harrison was 14-of-16 in the second half and 17-of-21 overall.

The disatisfaction with the officiating was reflected by the technical foul called on Mike Teachman and two technicals and one intentional foul given Hight.

"You cannot expect players and coaches to stand there and take it when there is no call," Teachman said. "You take the shot and get knocked down and there's no call.

"OUR MISTAKES were not caused by us. They were caused by getting hammered. They were running into us and tapping our wrists, and the officials were watching the flight of the ball.

"If someone wants to criticize me for bad sportsmanship, I have the right to sit down with them and watch that tape. (Salem) is a great team and I wouldn't mind losing by two, and basically that was a two-point ballgame.

"I'm not disappointed at all," he added. "We played so darn hard and

The much-anticipated dual meet between state-ranked gymnastics teams was not much of a duel Monday night.

Though Plymouth Salem is ranked No. 2 in the state and Plymouth Canton No. 3, the Rocks won the season finale with a comfortable, 6½-point margin. Salem scored 142.4, the Chiefs 136. The Rocks are 9-0 in dual meets, Canton 10-2.

"There was no pressure on this meet," Canton coach John Cunningham said. "We're about four points apart, and that's a lot in gymnastics.

"We had a good meet tonight, but we can be a lot better than we showed. But so can Salem."

Neither team was at its best Monday, partly because the schools were on winter break last week and some team members on both sides had been out of town and had not practiced.

"You're either going to come back one of two ways," Salem coach Kathi Kinsella said. "You're either physically not going to be prepared, so the mental preparation has to be there. Or you'll just blow it. Fortunately, nobody did that."

CUNNINGHAM added that Salem has the potential to score around 146 and Canton 140 to 142.

"I expected to be about four points behind, but it ended up being about six," he said. "My kids performed very well for the amount of practice they've had, but that's the problem with having vacation in the middle of the schedule like this. We should be a little rusty. This was not a good indication for either team."

"In a way, it was a chance to see what the other can do," Kinsella said. "In the big meets, there really isn't time to see each other. We always seem to be on an event at the same time."

Salem won every event and cap-

Shamrocks miss finals

By Marty Budner
staff writer

Like the song, Mike Rodriguez tried to "Put on a Happy Face."

The veteran Redford Catholic Central wrestling coach attempted to take a positive outlook on his team's unexpectedly poor performance at Saturday's Michigan High School Athletic Association Lower Peninsula Individual Wrestling Tournament at the Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek.

But it was tough.

"They did the best they could," he said.

Then, in his next breath, he added, "I thought we'd at least get one (wrestler) into the finals."

Catholic Central qualified five wrestlers for the individual finals. Only four other schools — Clarkston, East Detroit, Temperance-Bedford and Warren Lincoln — had more.

Although the Shamrocks were shut out of a championship-round appearance, they did manage to pick up three medals.

Senior Rob Sylvester took home a fifth-place medal in the 275-pound weight class. Teammates Rusty Fowler (119), a senior who entered the tourney with a credible 51-1 overall record, and junior Dan Kelly (171) each lost their third-place matches and finished fourth.

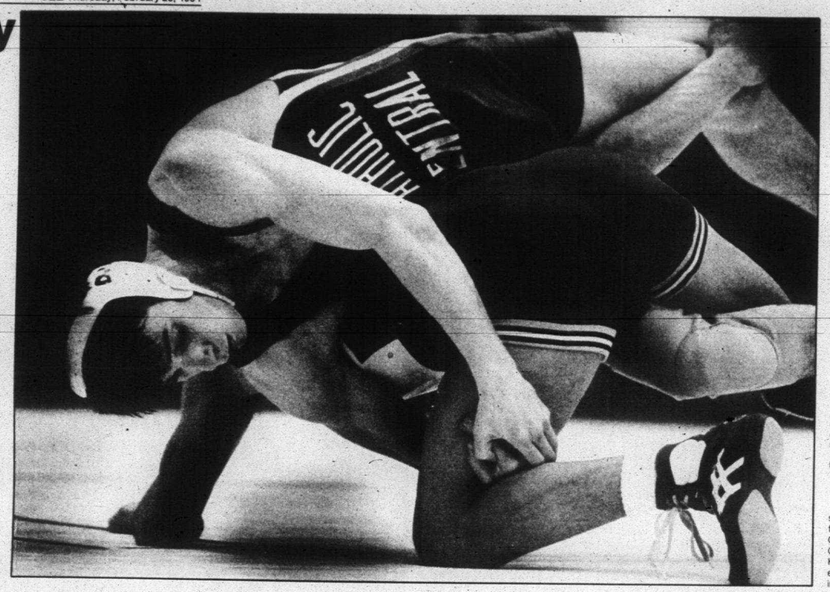
Junior Dan Rieple (145) and sophomore Jason Krueger (160) failed to place.

THE MEDALS, however, were of little consolation to Rodriguez.

"No I'm not satisfied at all," he said. "We should have had one man in the finals I think. But, should-have, would-have, could-have, that's the way it goes.

"They did the best they could and I can't ask any more of them. I just thought we could have had at least one winner and a couple seconds," he said. "Where we come from, I always expect to get someone into the finals when we come up here."

Fowler won his first two matches then dropped a 6-5 decision to eventual state runner-up Jacob Miller of Lansing-Waverly. Fowler fell into the consolation bracket where he defeated Keith Dobner of Sterling Heights, 2-1, then met Augie Facundo of Bay City Central for third place.



GUY WARREN/staff photographer

Catholic Central's Rusty Fowler (top) tangles with Augie Facundo of Bay City Central during the 119-pound consolation final at the state Class A individual wrestling tournament Saturday in Battle Creek. Fowler lost the match, 3-2, to settle for fourth place overall. He finished the year with a 54-3 record.

After a scoreless first period, Fowler let Facundo escape off the whistle to begin the second period and the Bay City wrestler took an easy 1-0 lead which proved to be the difference in the match. Each wrestler scored a reversal — Fowler early in the third period and Facundo with just 15 seconds left in the final period to win a close 3-2 decision.

"(FOWLER) does that all the time," said Rodriguez of Fowler's strategy to begin the second period. "We spend enough time on our feet that we should be able to take people down regardless of who you are or where you come from."

Kelly won his first match, then was dumped into the consolation bracket by Jason Steinacker of of Howell, 5-3. Kelly worked his way into the medal round with three victories only to find Steinacker as his final tournament foe.

Kelly fashioned a 4-3 lead early in the third period in the rematch, but Steinacker scored a takedown with 35 seconds left and held on for a 5-4 victory.

Sylvester was in control all the way in his medal-round match against Jim Jacques of Davison. It was close after two periods, but Sylvester pulled away to dominate the final period and earn a fifth-place medal.

Krueger won one match while Rieple dropped his two matches.

"If you don't demand more of them they'll only give you a little," said Rodriguez. "We'll be back next year, and I think we'll be much stronger over all."

Thurston grappler takes 3rd

Jed Kramer, Redford Thurston's 119-pound wrestler, took third place in the Class B individual state wrestling meet Saturday at Battle Creek.

Kramer, who brought a 36-2 overall record into the meet, went 4-1 during the two-day meet held at the Kellogg Center. Kramer, a senior, was undefeated Friday as he pinned Cedar Springs' Zack Hughes in 4:36 and followed with an 8-3 win over previously undefeated Gary Williams of Fenton.

Defending B champion Ken Buckland of Portland beat Kramer, 3-2, on Saturday, sending the Eagles' lone survivor into the consolation round.

There, Kramer beat Hughes again, 6-5, and pinned Melvindale's Stuart Barringer in 2:01 to take third place.

"It was a great tourney for Jed," Thurston coach Pete Newton said. "He wrestled one bad match and that's what made the difference. His weight class was the toughest in the state, with three undefeated records. He did extremely well, coming out in third place."

Redford Catholic Central wasn't the only area school to send wrestlers to the individual championship tournament over the weekend in Battle Creek. Following are the results of other local state qualifers.

Stafford paces Canton win

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

As the players filed out of Plymouth Canton's locker room Tuesday night, someone offered Mike Stafford a post-game doughnut to eat.

He almost turned it down.

The sophomore guard showed no hesitation in accepting Livonia Stevenson's charity during the game, as he led the host Chiefs to a 54-46 Western Lakes Activities Association semifinal playoff win.

With the under-sized Spartans packed into a zone defense, Stafford responded with four three-pointers and a team-high 16 points as Canton earned its way into Saturday's WLAA final against Salem.

Game time is 7 p.m.

"We're supposed to throw the ball inside, but the shot was there," said Stafford, who sparked a Chiefs' rally with 11 second-half points. "Coach (Dave Van Wagoner) said at halftime, 'We're up by one (21-20) and we're playing bad.' We just had a bad first half and had to play as hard as we could because we've got more ability and we're in better shape, too."

Canton, 12-7 overall, lost 56-53 earlier this year to the Rocks.

"I WANT TO play Salem again — for revenge," Stafford said.

Van Wagoner, who coached the Chiefs the last time they won the WLAA title in 1984, wasn't concerned who the opponent would be Saturday. Canton got this far by limiting Stevenson's guards Matt Grodzicki and Phil Woods to a combined six points and outscoring the visitors, 14-7, in the game's final five minutes.

Canton made eight three-point shots, including three in the fourth quarter, and played much of the game without 6-foot-6 center Tony Coshatt because of foul trouble.

Only Stafford managed double figures for the Chiefs, while Jon Paupore and Karl Wukie scored eight points and Coshatt five before fouling out. Junior Derrick McDonald led with seven assists and Brett Howell, one of four Canton seniors, led all rebounders with eight.

"We had great seniors then (in 1984) and I've great seniors now, so I'm real excited," Van Wagoner said. "It seemed like Livonia Stevenson kind of told us, 'If Plymouth Canton's going to beat us, you're going to beat us on the outside shot.' They packed it in on our big guys and we have some guys who can shoot who made some big shots.

"Stafford is going to be one heck of a high school player. He's pretty good right now. He hit some big-time shots and when Mike is open it's usually down."

STEVENSON, WHICH fell to 12-7 overall, led 38-37 on a Dan Gibbons rebound basket with 6:15 left in the game. A three-point shot by Wukie put Canton ahead to stay, 40-38, and the Chiefs outscored Stevenson, 12-1, in the next five minutes to lead, 52-39.

The Spartans had won eight of their last nine games, losing only to Livonia Franklin at home. Colin Stockton led Stevenson with 17 points, including 12 in the second half, and four three-point shots. Gibbons had 11 and Paul Rockwood 10 for the Spartans, who showed no emotion, according to coach Jim McIntyre.

"We didn't have anything going tonight," McIntyre said. "We finally ran into one of those nights where there was no ignition from anyone on the court. It was probably our lowest effort in terms of enthusiasm in 11 games.

"Give Canton credit, but our I'm not sure if they took us to the cleaners, or if it was us. We did not fly at them on their three-point shots, so I'm not sure if he's (Stafford's) that good a three-point shooter or if we made him one."

Stevenson jumped out to a 15-9 lead after one quarter and led 20-14 after Stockton's first three-pointer in the second quarter, before self-destructing.

"I don't know what it was," said Woods. "We're a better team than tonight and we didn't show it. There are so many guys who can score on our team but the whole team struggled, not just one or two individuals. It's disappointing, is what it is."

executed well. I'm proud of my players — and we were down a big player."

Mike Mulder, Lee and Kirkpatrick scored the first six points of the fourth quarter as the Rocks extended their lead to 63-46. The Hawks, who lost 83-60 to Salem in December, got within 70-62 on a pair of Teachman free throws with two minutes left.

"We knew they were better team," Brodie said. "We looked at the teams they had beaten down the road, and we knew they would be well prepared for this game. We came in with the expectation of a good game, and it took a good effort on our part to win it."

Shamrocks dispatch St. Mary's

basketball

Junior center Chad Varga had 25 points and 11 rebounds Tuesday, powering host Redford Catholic Central over Orchard Lake St. Mary 68-58 in a non-league basketball encounter.

Sophomore guard Bob Schneider added 15 points for the winners, now 8-11 overall.

St. Mary's senior forward Gary Morris had 11 points and senior center Jim Gates added 10 for the Eaglets (5-15).

CC, who outscored St. Mary 21-15 in what proved to be the decisive second quarter.

On Saturday, Damon Phillips scored 12 points, leading the visiting Jungaleers of Detroit Southeastern over the Shamrocks, 49-48.

Varga, who hit a three-point basket at the buzzer, led all scorers for CC with 24 points.

Southeastern is 14-5 overall.

HARPER WOODS 58, PLY. CHRISTIAN 53: The East Siders outscored Plymouth Christian Academy 7-2 in the overtime period Tuesday to defeat the visiting Eagles.

Harper Woods improved to 5-14 overall. Plymouth Christian is 6-12.

Senior guard Manish Nandani led Plymouth Christian with 22 points, and senior forward Keith McCants added 12.

Junior forward Pete Gallagher scored 22 points for the winners, senior center Gerald Trombley added 19.

N. FARMINGTON 48, NORTHVILLE 47: Despite missing four consecutive free throws in the game's final minute Tuesday, North Farmington held on to defeat the host Mustangs.

Northville (12-7), held to just four fourth-quarter points, had a chance to win the game but missed a shot at the buzzer.

"It was total chaos that went on," said North coach Tom Negoshian, whose team improved to 8-11 overall. "We had the ball and missed four free throws down the stretch."

First, Northville was called for an intentional foul, but the Raiders missed both free throws. North got the ball back and was fouled but again missed both foul shots again.

The Mustangs got possession down court and the Raiders knocked the ball out of bounds with four seconds remaining. Northville's desperation shot missed at the buzzer.

The game was close the entire way with the score tied 14-14 at the end of the first quarter and 30-30 at halftime. Northville took a 43-39 lead into the final quarter but was outscored 9-4 in the game's final eight minutes.

Bill Chwalik and Jon Sturtz scored 16 and 11 points for the Raiders, respectively. Mike Lang paced Northville with 11 points.

The Raiders play Livonia Churchill for fifth place in the Western Lakes Activities Association tournament Saturday at Plymouth Salem. Game time is 3 p.m.

GLENN 61, FARMINGTON 55: Westland John Glenn (4-14) converted all eight of its free throw attempts Tuesday and held off visiting Farmington.

The Falcons (2-17) trailed 46-35 entering the fourth quarter but cut the deficit to 51-48. A basket by Kevin Tomaszewski increased Glenn's lead to five with 2:23 remaining. The Rockets then nailed eight consecutive free throws, with Tomaszewski making his four attempts.

Junior forward Jerry Jordan and senior forward Jackie Howard scored 15 and 13 points for Glenn, respectively. Steve Gallagher had a game-high 16 points for the Falcons while Jay Jensen added 11 points.

CHURCHILL 47, FRANKLIN 38: In a preview of Monday's district opener at Livonia Franklin, visiting Livonia Churchill proved too tough in Tuesday's physical game.

"The score indicates how physical a game it was," Churchill coach Fred Price said. "The game really was who can get off an open shot.' There were not a lot of open shots in this game."

Churchill (11-8) will play North Farmington on Saturday in the WLAA tournament and return to Franklin's gym Monday for the district contest.

Senior center Randy Calcaterra tallied 19 points and eight rebounds for the winners, but the key, according to Price, was senior forward Steve Townsend, who came off the bench in the fourth quarter to make three straight field goals.

Churchill led 28-17 at halftime but could only muster six points in the third quarter.

"Both teams were stuck in the mud in the third quarter," Price said. "I give my team's defense a lot of credit for only giving up 17 first-half points."

Senior center Steve McCool led Franklin (10-9) with 19 points, eight coming in the final quarter. Junior guard Brian Johnson and senior forward Scott Bowser added nine points each for the Chargers.

MILFORD 79, REDFORD UNION 74: Senior guard Dan Taylor scored 24 points and Tom Kotalski added 18 Monday, as Milford beat the host Panthers.

Senior forward Chris Mulka led three RU players in double figures with 24 points. Junior guard Bill Maleski added 20 points and senior guard Steve Zimbalatti added 15.

RU, which dropped to 6-12 overall, hit 13-of-20 free throw attempts. Milford was 16-of-23 at the line.

Milford went to 16-2 overall.

BORGESS 71, EAST CATHOLIC 61: On Tuesday, host Redford Bishop Borgess outscored Detroit East Catholic 20-10 in the second quarter en route to the win.

Senior guard Kevin Riser led three players in double figures with 20 points. Senior center ReShawn Sumler and freshman forward Perry Robinson added 16 points apiece.

Roy Lewis led East Catholic with 16 points and Robert Kimbrough added 10.

Borgess improved to 8-11 overall. East Catholic dropped to 8-10.

GALLAGHER 99, ST. AGATHA 43: On Tuesday, host Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher outscored Redford St. Agatha 34-7 in the second period a rout of St. Agatha.

Trenton ousts Churchill from hockey tournament

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Trenton's 6-2 triumph over Livonia Churchill in the Class A regional hockey opener was anything but a blowout.

The victorious Trojans (15-6-2) scored three unanswered goals in the final five minutes to oust the Chargers (17-4-1) in state tournament action Tuesday at Wyandotte's Yack Arena.

"We haven't had any breaks all year, it was nice for a change, we were fortunate to win," Trenton coach Skip Howey said. "It was an even game except for the latter part of the third period."

Frustration was the only way to describe the feeling afterwards in the Churchill dressing room.

The Chargers outshot the Trojans, 27-23, and did a credible job of forechecking and back-checking for nearly the entire 45 minutes.

But the goal that broke Churchill's back came with 4:44 left in the game when Andy Watson, pinned along the boards, flipped what appeared to be a harmless shot toward the net that handcuffed Churchill goaltender Jeremy Niemiec.

THE GOAL pushed Trenton ahead, 4-2.

"He (Niemiec) tried to use his glove when he knows should have used his stick," Churchill coach Rudy Varvari said. "But he (Niemiec) played a good game. He made some good saves."

Watson's unassisted effort had a chilling effect on the Chargers, who appeared to be right back in the game after Larry Allen's blistering shot from the blue line beat Trenton goalie Dave Spurr with 6:23 to go. (Colin Gallagher and Jeff King drew the assists to make it 3-2.)

"I told the kids it was going to be a one-period game," said Varvari, whose team was even at 1-all after two periods. "Give Trenton credit. They have good skaters and they're well disciplined. They hit you quick with two goals. They get them in bunches."

After a scoreless first-period, Trenton's Ken Pierce flicked in a backhand at 6:04 of the second to give the Trojans a 1-0 lead.

But only 50 seconds later, defenseman Tony Dyplowski knifed through the Trenton defense with a couple of nifty stick-handling moves to make it 1-1.

THE TWO state-ranked teams then remained deadlocked into the third period.

Dyplowski was called for a tripping penalty with 12:02 to go and Trenton's Steve Nagy capitalized, ripping a shot from just outside the face-off circle. The puck caromed off Niemiec's mask and just under the crossbar with 11:13 remaining.

Schoolcraft cagers lose to HPCC

Schoolcraft sports

Midway through the first half Saturday, Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team had a seven-point lead. Then Kwesi McGill — who had scored 10 points — reinjured his ankle.

McGill, the only guard among the top five listed on SC's preseason roster remaining, missed the next 15 minutes. With him went the Ocelots' hopes for a win and a berth in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association playoffs — Highland Park CC got both, claiming a 96-86 homecourt victory.

McGill did return, five minutes into the second half. But his effectiveness was limited; he finished with 14 points. By the time he returned, SC was trailing by nine points.

The deficit grew to 16 in the second half, but the Ocelots didn't surrender. With less than four minutes left, SC had crept to within four points. But the final blow was then delivered — leading scorer Randy Watters (27 points) fouled out. Although the Ocelots got to within three, they couldn't keep the comeback going.

Barry Quayle added 15 points and 10 rebounds to the SC effort, with Scott Meredith getting 13 points and eight boards and Dave Hamilton contributing 12 points and seven rebounds.

With McGill out much of the game, and Mitch Fyke — who had been working in the backcourt, too — sidelined with a shoulder separation, turnovers became a problem for SC. The Ocelots had 18 of them, which explained why Highland Park took 18 more shots.

Highland Park (now 5-22) was led by Arnold Wilson, with 21 points; Marco Honey, with 19; Jose Lewis, with 18; Mike Caston, with 15; and Marcus Hall, with 14.

SC ended its season with a 14-15 overall record, 5-11 in the Eastern Conference. The school's administration has opted not to send the team to compete in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division II tournament.

tured the top three places in each. Kim Miller was first on vault (9.45) and uneven bars (8.95), Alysia Sofios on floor exercise (9.3) and Courtney Gonyea on beam (9.2).

Sofios was second (9.3) and Gonyea third (9.15) on vault, Miller second (8.95) and Gonyea third (8.5) on bars, Sarah Makins second (8.9) and Sofios third (8.85) on beam, Miller second (9.1) and Autumn Bunch third (8.8) on floor.

Sofios and Miller also had the top two all-around scores at 36.6 and 35.7, respectively. But they were the only two who competed all-around for Salem, and Kinsella had second thoughts about doing that before the meet.

SHE INVOLVED more gymnasts because it was the last dual meet and also Parents Nights, but those fears were unfounded when the Rocks performed so well. Salem has 13 individuals qualified for the regional meet on vault, 11 on floor, eight on bars and seven on beam.

Canton had fourth place in each event. Johanna Anderson and Kim Rennolds scored 9.1 on vault, Rennolds 8.35 on bars and Heather Murphy, Rennolds and Dawn Clifford 8.5 on beam. Danielle Mirto tied with Salem's Stefanie Angiulo with 8.75 on floor.

Rennolds had an all-around score of 34.5, Anderson 33.85, Murphy 33.15, Clifford 32.65, Mirto 32.6 and Jenny Tedesco 31.35.

"Not that our scores were lower than Salem's, but I thought the scores were low in general," Cunningham said. "The judges wanted to prepare us for regionals. They don't want to inflate the kids' egos with scores they shouldn't have.

"The (Canton) kids have not peaked yet, and I'm hoping we will going into conference and regional meets."

Individuals finishing in the top eight were Bunch (9.05), Mirto (8.55) and Murphy (8.35) on vault; Mirto and Canotn's Laura Anderson (8.25), Tedesco (8.2) and Makins (8.1) on bars; Miller (8.2) and Johanna Anderson (8.05) on beam; Johanna Anderson (8.7), Rennolds (8.55) and Makins (8.5) on floor.

Kinsella, who expanded her lineup to emphasize the team aspect, also liked the job done on beam by second-year gymnast Theresa Giacherio, who has qualified for regional on vault and beam.

"THE GOOD kids will always be good," Kinsella said, "but the background kids like Theresa get left out. I'm real proud of her."

The Rocks will defend their Western Lakes Activities Association title tonight at North Farmington. Cunningham doesn't think they'll have much trouble.

I think Salem is in good enough shape they don't have to look back," he said. "There's nobody chasing them. I think North Farmington will be tough; they should push us."

Kinsella is hoping for good things at the league meet, too.

"I'm hoping we have the highest score of the year," she said. "I know we won't have the advantage of home turf, but I hope coming back off vacation we'll be mentally clear.

"Our objective in the next two weeks is not to work hard but to clean and polish and work on the mental preparation. You either have the routines and the tricks or you don't.

"ONE OF THE things they have to realize is you don't win meets at meets. You win meets because of what you do at practice."

Canton suffered its first dual-meet loss Saturday at Traverse City, ending its streak of 23 straight victories. The host team scored 135.1, the Chiefs 134.35 and Freeland 130.7.

Rennolds was the top all-around gymnast with a 35.8 total. Clifford scored 33.3.

Rennolds was first on vault (9.0), second on beam (9.2) and third on floor (8.9). Clifford was the winner on beam (9.3). Johanna Anderson placed fourth on beam (8.6) and fifth on vault (8.8) and floor (8.6).

Churchill retains crown

volleyball

Livonia Churchill avenged its only Western Lakes Activities Association defeat of the season, spiking city rival Stevenson to win the playoff championship Saturday at Walled Lake Central, 15-0, 15-3.

For the Chargers (38-1-1 overall), it was their fourth consecutive WLAA crown.

"We played exceptionally well all day long," Churchill coach Mike Hughes said.

Churchill ran off 15 straight points against the Spartans in the opening game thanks to three kill shots apiece from Christina Garry and Julie Campau. Teammates Janine Sproul and Keri Hawkins added two each.

Garry, Sproul and Alyssa Belaire all stood out at the net for the Chargers.

In the second game, Belaire had five kills in eight attempts and Garry added four of seven as Churchill romped to victory.

Hughes also singled out the defensive play of Hawkins, Sproul and Stephanie Speen.

In Churchill's 15-3, 15-6 semifinal win over Northville, senior Amy Baron played superbly despite a heavily bandaged knee.

But it was the play of Garry in the final that had Stevenson coach Lee Cagle buzzing.

"SHE (GARRY) was just unstoppable," said the Stevenson coach. "She was high in the air.

"Our game plan was to establish the middle, then back-set and out-side-set, but we didn't block a single ball. They just got the momentum going and we didn't get started.

"It was a great win for Churchill. The way they played, they deserved it."

Stevenson was riding high going into the finals, having polished off North Farmington (15-3, 15-10), Plymouth Salem (15-1, 15-11), Walled Lake Western (15-6, 15-6) and Farmington Harrison (15-1, 15-5) in pool play.

Stevenson, behind the play of senior Laura Zatorski, then bounced host Central in the semifinals, 15-9, 15-11.

"We didn't make any errors, we couldn't be any more prepared for the final," Cagle said. "But you never know the pyschological or emotional factor that comes into play."

Zatorski, who stood out defensively, also had 17 kills on the day.

Senior Sue Bell led Stevenson with a total of 20 kills to go along with 15 ace serves. Junior Teresa Sarno added 10 kills and 14 blocks, while sophomore setter Patty Diamond recorded 56 assists.

"I THOUGHT we were going to make the finals, but we were inconsistent at time during the day," Central coach Mike Lindstrom said.

The Vikings held first-game leads of 6-0 and 8-2 against Stevenson, but couldn't maintain their momentum.

"They started to roll and we weren't tough enough to hang in there," Lindstrom said. "Stevenson played well all day long."

In pool play, Central defeated Plymouth Canton (15-3, 15-5) and Farmington (15-9, 15-10). The Vikings split with Westland John Glenn (15-0, 15-17) and Livonia Franklin (12-15, 15-3).

Forced to play Glenn in a tie-breaker for a semifinal berth, the host Vikings came through in a one-game playoff, defeating the Rockets, 15-13.

Central's top hitters on the day included Stacie Barrett (46 kills), Bridget Norris (42), Cindy Muha (39) and Shannon Capstick (36).

Jacie Friend had 14 ace serves in 33 attempts. Teammate Sharla Yaklin made good on 96 percent of her sets.

GLENN, MEANWHILE, nearly earned a semifinal berth despite a 5-8 conference record during the season.

The Rockets went an impressive 6-2 in pool play, splitting with Churchill (8-15, 15-13) and Central (0-15, 17-15). Glenn also downed Franklin (15-3, 15-4) and Farmington (15-8, 15-4).

Nikki Wojcik paced the Rockets (11-16-6 overall) with 33 kills and 20 solo blocks on the day. Teammate Kara Beeny collected 19 kills and 10 service aces.

Other Glenn contributors included Kerry Byberg (13 aces serves), Nikki Nagel (29 digs) and Jennifer Massey (50 assists).

"I'm very proud of these girls," Glenn coach Linda Jimenez said. "We set a tournament goal to finish in the top four. We came close. The highlight of the day was the effort we put forth against Churchill."

The WLAA champion Chargers not only had some anxious moments against Glenn, but also struggled with city rival Franklin in pool play.

Down 13-3 in the second game to the Patriots after winning the first game handily (15-1), Garry came to the rescue, serving eight straight points to lead a 12-point comeback.

Churchill, the Western Division champions, reached the semifinals with a 7-1 pool record, defeating Franklin, Canton (15-1, 15-7) and Farmington (15-1, 15-11).

Oakland CC to stage national tourney

The largest-ever judo tournament for high school age athletes will be Saturday, March 9, at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge campus in Farmington Hills.

The competition is sponsored by Judo Affiliates of Michigan, Inc.

More than 200 entrants are expected based on early registration figures. Among the talented individuals signed up Caron Catana of Mount Clemens, the state champion who was third in the 1990 national championships; Tony Okada of California, the 1990 national champion at 60 kilograms and Olympic hopeful; Marcus Dawson of New Jersey, the national champ at 78 kilos and a junior national champion since age 9; Harold Gettinga of New Jersey, the national champion at 71 kilos; and Afrika King of Florida, the national female champ at 66 kilos.

"The caliber of competition at this tournament will be very impressive," said Noboru Saito, the event chairperson. "We expect to see all of the top competitors of high school age from around the U.S."

Judo, which evolved as a modern sport in 1882, has been part of Olympic competition since 1964. It derives from the ancient Japanese art of Jiu Jitsu, which was traditionally practiced by Samurai warriors. Judo is well known for providing training for the mind as well as the body since the sport calls for a focusing of mental faculties.

For information on the 1991 U.S. High School National Championships call Saito or Cindy Silk, 585-7582.

In addition to the competition, there will be workshops and instructional sessions at OCC and the event's host hotel, the Farmington Hills Holiday Inn. There will also be testing for referees, leading to certification for participation in future tournaments.

Glenn gymnasts rule invitational

Westland John Glenn captured the Saline Invitational gymnastics meet Saturday with a score of 132.20.

Chris Prough led the Rockets with a second-place all-around finish. Individually, she finished second on floor exercise and third in the uneven bars, balance beam and vault.

Teammate Kyna Morgan was third in the all-around, placing first in floor, second on bars and seven on vault.

Marissa Maybouer took ninth overall, gaining a seventh on bars and an eighth on vault.

Lensman casts peaceful images in infrared

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

REDFORD TOWNSHIP photographer William P. Thayer creates black and white, hand-colored images of landscapes and architecture that instill a sense of tranquility in the viewer.

From the quiet ruins of an English abbey to the simple architectural space of a doorway in a serene Shaker community, Thayer uses lines, forms, balance, and contrasting lights, shadows and geometric shapes to draw an individual into the striking compositions.

"I'm a frustrated painter," said William Thayer at his Plymouth business, Salone International. "I used to work in oils, and pen and ink. Pen and ink, I think that's where I got started working in black and white."

Thayer jokingly refers to "a mid-life crisis" as being the catalyst that projected him into the world of photography.

"About six or seven years to create his serene, calming photographs, Thayer shoots black and white, infrared film, prints the images on matte paper, then hand-colors the work using "transparent oils that they used to use for portraits."

INFRARED FILM is sensitive to visible light and to red beyond the visible spectrum into the invisible infrared.

Being heat sensitive as well, with infrared film it is possible to photograph seemingly invisible objects by the "light" of the heat they give off.

A silhouetted, rocky-mountain at sunset becomes an ethereal, almost impressionistic painting with mountaintop aglow, when Thayer used infrared film for a southwest photograph.

"It's fun to work with infrared," Thayer said, "because it's unpredictable."

Thayer said he uses "the whole month of October just for shooting." October 1990 brought Thayer to the ancient landscapes of Greece.

"I shot probably 60 rolls of film in Greece," Thayer said. "I'll find maybe four or five images that I'll use."

Thayer's "Water Pot" was shot in a Grecian "town built on the rim of a volcano." The water pots catch rain water for household use.

ANCIENT STONE stairs lead the eye upward to the lone, hand-colored object: a clay pot in natural shades of brown. A play of shadows and lights, in grays and whites, create triangular shapes that please the eye. Geometric lines predominating the scene provide contrast to the curved lines of the water pot, while complementing each other.

"What I look for in a negative," Thayer said, "if I can get the same feeling (I had) when I was there, the same feeling that came over me."

The mystery of another land, in another time coupled with the quietness of the Grecian architecture, dominates, "Water Pot."

"The Stop Sign and The Cactus," an unplanned Thayer image of a southwest landscape and a stop sign, creates an environmental statement, a warning to stop destroying the earth.

An unplanned image, it was Thayer's son who urged him to print the photo, which took first place in photography at the Coconut Grove Art Fair in Florida, one of the largest art fairs in the country.

The photo, shot in the southwest at sunset, shouts an eerie warning. "The cactus is back lit and it sort of glows," Thayer said.

A burst of light surrounds the stop sign, drawing the eye to the barely visible lettering, STOP.

THAYER'S SUBJECT matter ranges from landscapes to architecture, but Thayer said "It's mainly architecture, I'm after.

"I did quite a bit of work in the Shaker community," Thayer said. "It has a mystery or quietness about it."

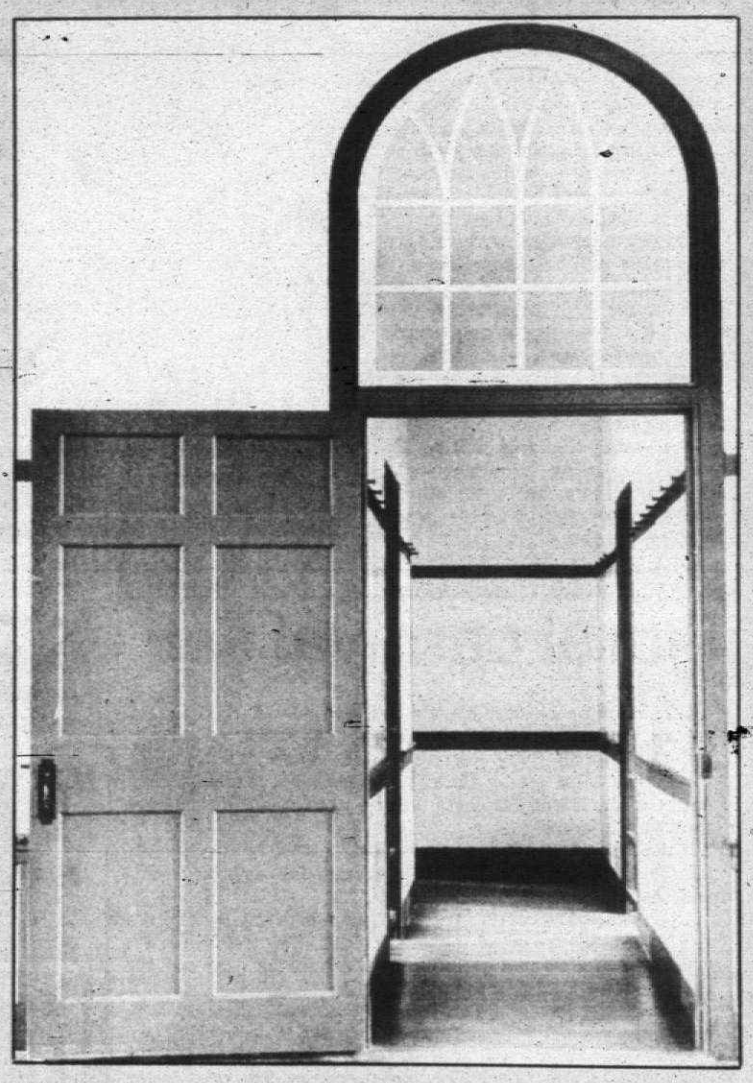
Thayer's black and white photo of a Shaker spiral staircase captures your eye at the bottom of the image. The curves are so strong that they pull the viewer's eye up the snaking staircase. The straight lines of the balustrades contrast the curves of the winding stairs, creating interest and a strong sense of design.

Thayer exhibits his photographs at art fairs throughout the United States at a hectic pace of 25 fairs during spring, summer and fall.

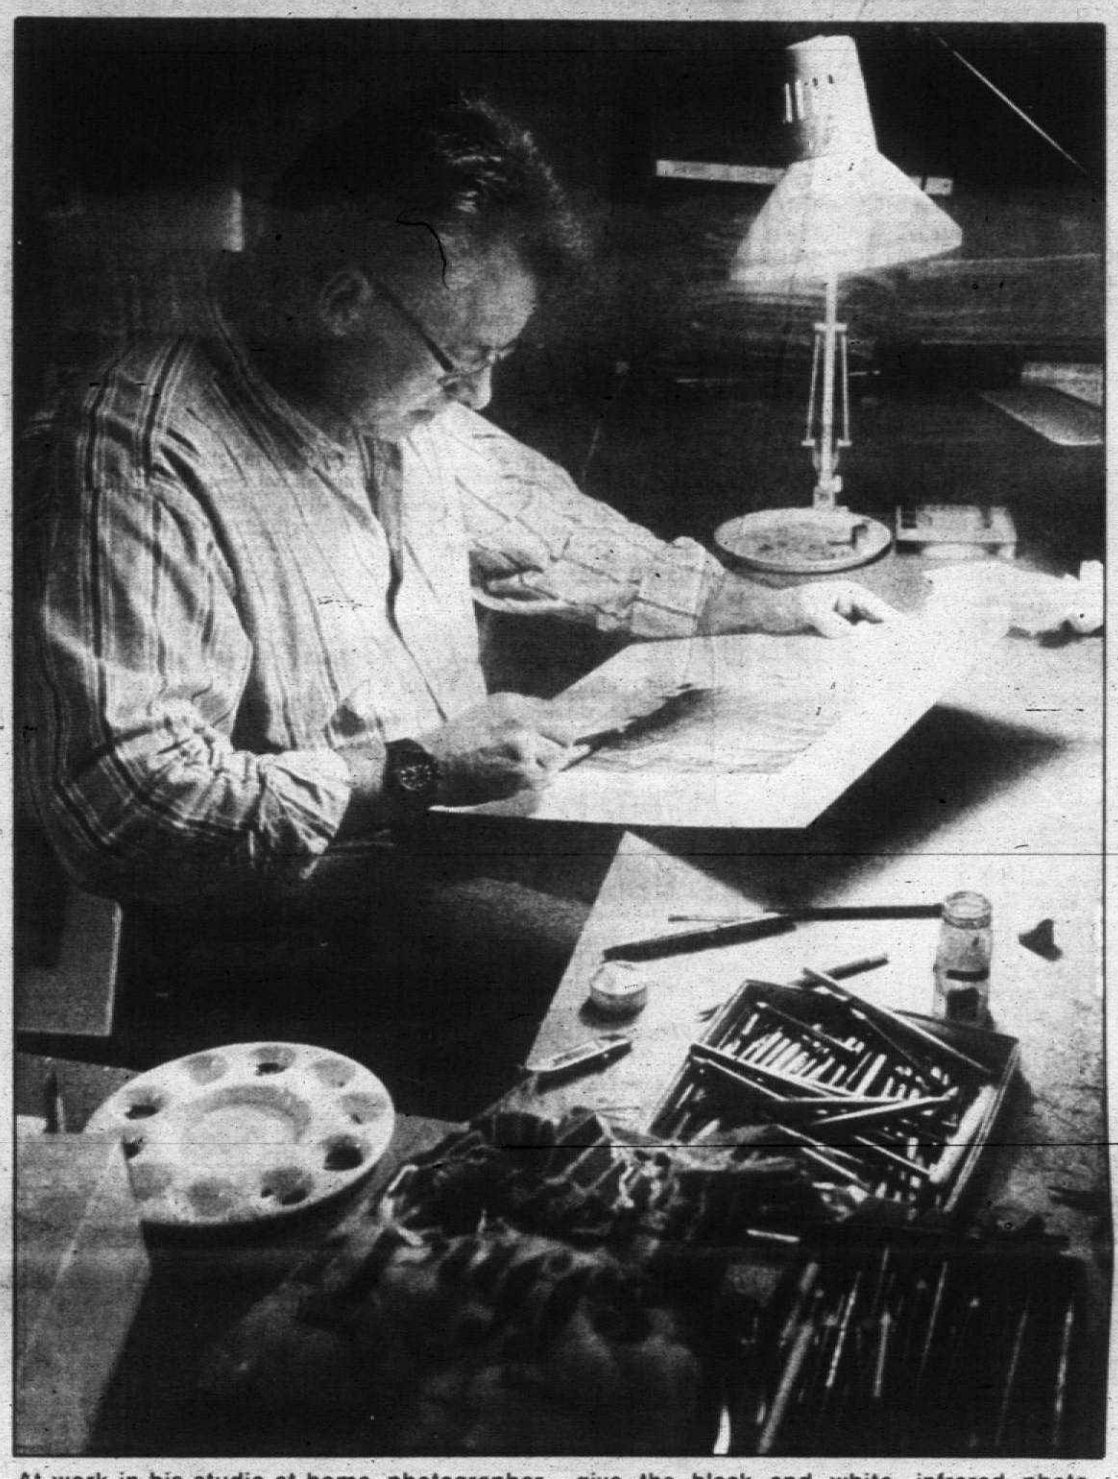
"I really enjoy the art fair, the feedback you get from people coming into the booth," Thayer said. "People will say it's kind of tranquil, or it's peaceful. Sometimes they'll say, it's moody."

Viewing Thayer's images, you are overcome with peacefulness, a sense of calm that invites you into the world, his photographs create.

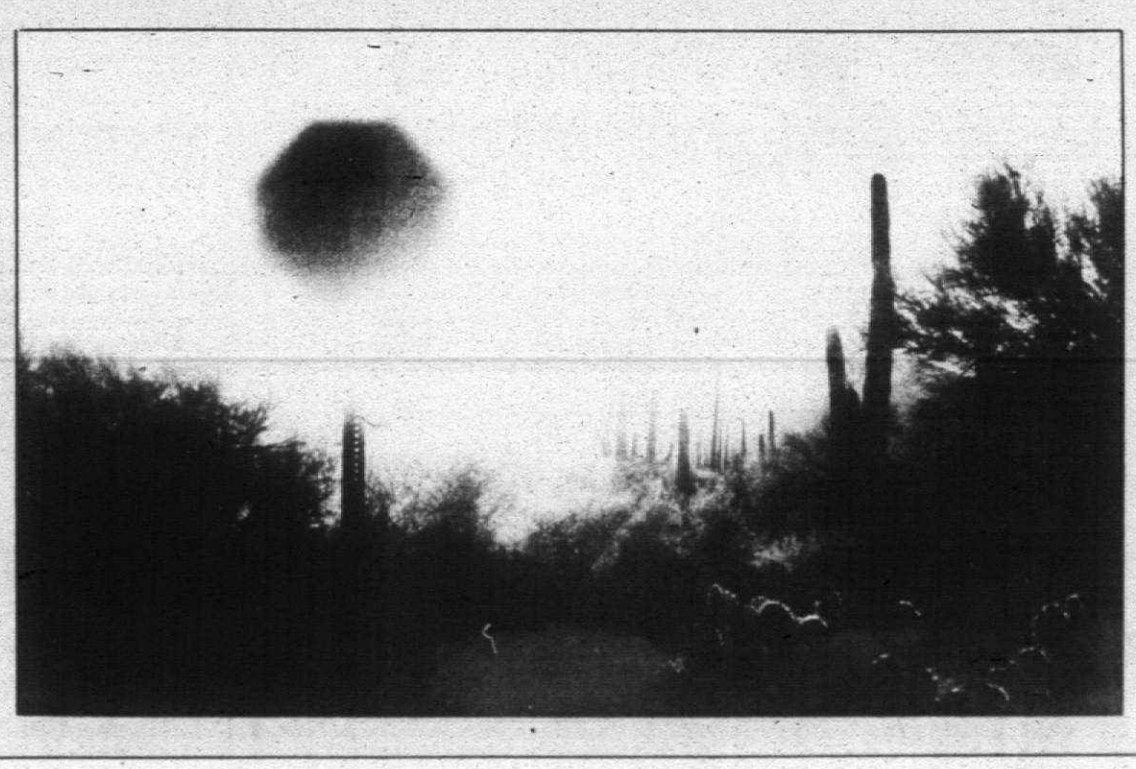
"I always shoot open doors," Thayer said. "If the door is closed, I have to open it."



William Thayer photographed this doorway in a Kentucky Shaker community in 1986. "It has a mystery, or quietness, about it. I always shoot open doors. Even if the door is closed, I have to open it."



At work in his studio at home, photographer William Thayer hand colors a print of Indian Cliff dwellings. He uses transparent oils to give the black and white, infrared photographs a hint of color.



William Thayer considers this photograph, "The stop sign and the cactus," his environmental statement. The stop sign shot of sunset "is backlit and it sort of glows," he said.

'It's fun to work with infrared because it's unpredictable.'

Landmarks shed perspective on community heritage

Bob Sklar

AN INFORMAL drive around Observerland turned up these historical tidbits:

• "In 1987, as a Michigan sesquicentennial project, Cooper teachers and students researched the school's history and discovered its pioneer namesakes."

So says a state historic marker outside Cooper School on Ann Arbor Trail, near Inkster Road, in Westland.

The original Cooper School was built between 1836 and 1841 on a farm owned by Gilbert Cooper near today's Ann Arbor Trail and Middlebelt. The Coopers were Nankin Township pioneers who ran a sawmill on the Rouge.

Cooper School became Fractional No. 1 of Nankin and Livonia in 1849.

In 1865, the district built a one-room schoolhouse on land leased from the Cooper's son, Loren. It was replaced in 1938 with a three-room brick building.

Over the years, the school expanded to 17 rooms. Livonia schools annexed it in 1957.

A new school was built in 1966. "By this time, Cooper School's origins and the Cooper family had been forgotten," according to the historic marker.

The ambitious 1987 research project, of course, helped resurrect and preserve the role both the school and the family played in local history.

• Dr. Ezekiel Webb was Farmington's first postmaster in 1826. His log house, since remodeled, still stands on Farmington Road (Division Street), just north of Grand River (Detroit Road).

"This house served as a post office, physician's office and as a residence for the doctor," reads a city historic marker on the front lawn.

Under the siding at the back of the home, logs still can be seen. Webb had been a friend of Farmington founder Arthur Power in Ontario County, N.Y.

Webb's house "was put up in Farmington by a community house raising," Dian Roth Moehlman tells us in her 1980 book, "If Walls Could Talk, Heritage Homes of Farmington."

Webb's compensation as postmaster? Free mailing privileges. Letters cost about 25 cents to send at the time.

"Dr. Webb would deliver the mail as he made his rounds caring for the sick. It was an honorary job and not too demanding," Moehlman writes.

The coming of the post office officially changed the community's name from Quaker Town to Farmington.

• Under a canopy of shade trees, it anchors a city park, providing a historic backdrop for the popular Music Under the Stars concerts in summer.

But it once was the centerpiece of a major dairy operation in Livonia.

The Wilson Barn was built in 1919 on the burned-out foundation of an earlier structure built in 1888.

"It is a fine example of an increasingly rare bank barn style," relates a state historic marker at West Chicago and Middlebelt.

On the farm owned and operated by his family since 1847, Ira Wilson built a million-dollar enterprise that grew from dairy farming, to delivery to full creamery operations.

Wilson, who died in 1944, held several local elective offices.

• Amid a farming backdrop at Cherry Hill and Ridge Road in Canton Township stands Cherry Hill United Methodist Church.

The congregation, organized in 1834, was one of 10 served by Detroit Methodist Conference circuit rider Marcus Swift, Garden City's first white settler.

Congregants raised $600 to build the first house of worship in 1848. The present red brick, Gothic style church went up in 1882. Various families donated the stained glass windows.

"The well-preserved church has been the setting for many community dinners and social gatherings as well as a religious focus for the community," the state historic marker out front tells us.

Show's gardens use water and fog for effect

By Corinne Abatt
staff writer

James C. Scott of Bloomfield Hills has some kind of track record as landscape architect for the International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at Cobo Center.

This next show, March 16-25, will be his 29th year on the job. And he's as enthusiastic as ever, maybe more so, about the surprises he has in store for the more than 400,000 people who attend annually.

"We started planning the '91 show before the 1990 show was over," he said "This year for the first time, we are building an Easter Bunny that will be about 20 feet long and 15 feet high. It will be filled with thousands of flowers. It is being brought in on a flat bed trailer."

The bunny is being built by Hunters Creek Perennial Gardens of Lapeer.

In keeping with the increased interest in the environment and wetlands, there will be a 40- by 40-foot water garden, prepared by Grass Roots Landscape & Nursery Contractors of New Boston. It will be complete with fish (Japanese koi, an exotic member of the carp family), lots of flowers such as water hyacinths, dwarf papayrus, umbrella palm, water canna, water lettuce, tropical thalia and tropical water-lily.

Gary Bates of Grass Roots said, "We might have a bull frog if we can wake one up," adding that water gardens of all sizes from a half water barrel for a patio to larger ones in the yard with either a soft or hard liner are "very big right now."

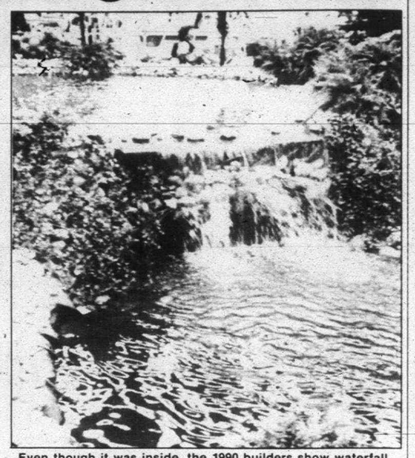
SCOTT SAID, "I think the water garden is part of an evolutionary process. More and more people can have a wetlands garden in their own yard."

He listed some of the other types of gardens new to this year's show — "gardens to eat (an attractive way to have a vegetable garden), a bulb garden (Lease Landscape of Waterford), a Japanese bonsai garden (Bonsai Center of Mount Clemens) and a fog garden."

The Detroit Parks & Recreation Department is working on the fog garden. Scott predicted, "It will be a theatrical garden with the fog coming down the gorge," adding, "and as in past years there will be water — water — water and more flowers than ever before . . . what we have now is a hall of gardens."

Another harbinger of the future of gardens will be the presence of ornamental grass. "You'll see much more it if than before because it's low maintenance and many people just want to keep their property looking soft and natural. . . . naturalism," he said, "is the thing of the future."

Scott said all plants will be labeled, "So bring a notebook to write down the names of plants you want to remember and, oh — wear comfortable shoes."



Even though it was inside, the 1990 builders show waterfall, when finished, was close to the real thing with flowing water, rocks, ferns, trees, shrubs, clumps of flowers — and no mosquitoes. Mark J. Baldwin Associates of Plymouth designed it.

Landscape architect wins award

For the first time last year, James C. Scott, Cobo Center flower show landscape architect, documented the preparations and the final displays on film.

He submitted this documentation to the Michigan Nursery and Landscape Association and received an award for "A Flower Show," at a special luncheon in Grand Rapids last month.

He said each of the garden builders in the show should share in the award. They include: Mark J. Baldwin & Associates, Plymouth; Colasanti Greenhouse, Ruthven, Ontario; Hunters Creek Perennial Gardens, Lapeer; Lease Landscape, Waterford, Michigan Deck Builders, Lake Orion; and Muellers Sunrise Nursery, Shelby Township.

Others sharing in the credit are: City of Detroit Parks & Recreation Department; Soulliere Decorative Stone, Utica; Superior Scape, Utica; Zendt's Landscaping, Mount Clemens; and Bonsai Center, Mount Clemens. All of them will be returning for the 1991 show.

Scott said his responsibility is to "design, coordinate, detail and supervise" this show, which is one of the major ones of its kind in the Midwest.

"Preparation begins one year in advance with the development of the master plan that locates and shapes all the various gardens and parks. Ordering all horticultural materials is next, growers and greenhouses procured and stock brought in for forcing.," Scott wrote in a statement submitted with his pictures for the award competition.

He said while outside show the landscape contractors may be bitter rivals, when they work on the show together, "the esprit de corps is just phenomenal."

Sponsors of the gardens were: Art Van, First Federal of Michigan, National Bank of Detroit and Standard Federal.

Soprano showcases range

By Mary Jane Doerr
special writer

Judith Zorn is a soprano who knows her voice. She knows its capabilities, its features, its distinctions, and its limitations.

Saturday evening, Feb. 9, the Bloomfield Hills resident gave a free recital at the Liberal Arts Theatre at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, picking her music to show off those qualities. The entertainment was a mix of light, popular pieces with a few serious opera arias, a most enjoyable diversion.

Zorn is a stage personality with an exciting demeanor. This critic has witnessed firsthand her acting skill as Aldo Annie in "Oaklahoma," Annie Oakley in "Annie Get Your Gun," and Nellie in "South Pacific" at the Bay View Music Festival.

But because her acting skills are so strong, the tendency has been to character-cast her into these starring roles, not in parts showcasing her vocal range. Feb. 9 was the first opportunity to listen to this soprano singing the right repertoire.

ZORN'S VOCAL range is that of a soprano whose strength is at the top of her range.

Aria's such as Offenbach's "My Lords and Ladies I Salute You" (La Perichole) and Massenet's "Recitative" and "Gavotte" from Manon showed off that power, containing phrasing that was particularly suitable for her emotional interpretation. Her choice of "Standchen" (Strauss) was appropriate, since it suits her range perfectly.

The Manon was the evening's climax. It was well-chosen, not too long, with short phrasing that allowed her to drive out her force without having to sing long, drawn-out phrasing.

Most recitals are in French, English, German, and Italian.

Zorn's diction was good in all the languages and especially in Menotti's famous aria from The Telephone. The words in this piece were funny because her English was clear. Since this song lies in the middle range where she has most difficulty projecting, the small auditorium proved to be an advantage.

review

MOST EFFECTIVE on the concert bill was Mendelssohn's "Hexenlied" and Arnold's "Hist! Hist!" because Zorn maintained an elevated intensity and managed to project excitement with her animated style. Both songs exhibited her best qualities: her acting ability and the range of her projection.

Every singer depends upon a good accompanist. Gale Kramer is exceptional, always at the right place, with the right shading, supportive, never the virtuoso. Harpist Donna Novack provided the Britten trilogy "Afton Water," "The Winter," and "Leezie Lindsay" with cohesion and rhythmic sparkle.

Zorn has been studying with Barbara Windham and obviously is headed in the right direction, working on eliminating the breathy quality in her middle voice and evening out her range.

Mozart's "Ma se colpa non ho," and "batti, batti," Mendelssohn's "Auf Flugeln des Gesanges," and Copland's "Simple Gifts" were not only beautiful additions to the program but represent the kind of singing she should be doing. They will help her develop the sustaining quality of the melodic line of her voice.

Hopefully, the attractive soprano will continue to develop her opera repertoire.

clarification

Livonia resident Karen Smathers, profiled in the Observer Feb. 21, is the first student in the Livonia Public Schools Creative and Performing Arts program to win a Scholastic Arts Awards Hallmark Award.

She won in regional competition for her colored pencil work, "Sharon."

She's a senior, in her fourth year at Churchill High School.

Floral carnival set

Think spring.

The Michigan Floral Association will host its 71st annual spring convention and trade show, "A Floral Carnival," March 1-4 at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, Dearborn.

A carnival of spring floral arrangements created by the nation's top floral designers will be displayed. Four design shows are planned.

More than 3,000 florists from the Midwest will gather to tout their skills, learn about new trends and techniques and shop the trade show.

Professional floral designers will compete in a design contest to exhibit the latest in floral trends. The five designers who score the highest overall will compete for cash and the coveted MFA Designer fo the Year title.

Floral shop designers will be able to work directly with nationally recognized designers during hands-on workshops.

Industry experts will educate florists on how to build a successful business during business sessions. The trade show will boast 150 exhibit booths.

Tours will stop at floral shops and area wholesalers and greenhouse growers.

The Michigan floriculture industry is made up of 470 greenhouse growers, 30 full-line wholesalers plus specialty manufacturers of floral-related products.

The industry provides 8,000 jobs and contributes $254 million annually to the state's economy. Michigan ranks fifth nationally in sales of floriculture products, according to the Federal/State Agricultural Statistics Service.

More than 540 acres, under greenhouse cover in Michigan, produce $100 million worth of product at wholesale value. Only California and Florida have more covered growing area than Michigan.

The Lansing-based MFA represents 1,100 florists, growers and wholesalers of floral products.

Exhibition's focus: 'Sculpture in wood'

The work of wood sculptor Leonard Cave will be featured in an exhibit at the Center for Creative Studies' Center Galleries March 8 through April 19.

The opening reception to meet the artist will take place 4:30-7 p.m. Friday, March 8. Cave will also present a slide lecture discussion of his sculpture at 1:30 p.m. at the Center for Creative Studies Institute of Music and Dance Auditorium.

Afterwards, at 3 p.m., Cave will give an informal talk about the exhibit.

Cave's work reveals a sculptural language that is quick, expressive and immediate. He says that wood's responsiveness and natural qualities play an important role in his aesthetic decision-making process.

Wood's natural beauty, texture, imperfect nature, changes in color, warping, twisting and cracking are all compositional features that characterize this artists style.

"Leonard Cave: Sculptor in Wood" can be seen at the Center Galleries, 15 E. Kirby in Detroit. The gallery is at Woodward Avenue and Kirby in the Park Shelton Building.

Exhibitions are open to the public and admission is free. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Paid parking is available inside the Park Shelton and free parking is available in the Center for Creative Studies parking lots.

Learn the business of being an artist

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

If you're an artist in need of information on turning your talent into an economically successful business, then plan to attend the Livonia Arts Commission workshop on "The Business of Being an Artist."

The informative workshop for artists of all experiences will be 1:30-5 p.m. Saturday, March 16, in the Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Lathrup Village artist and lecturer Nancy Thayer will speak about "vital information that every artist needs to know." Topics such as establishing goals, working with galleries, record keeping and time management are only a few of the areas Thayer plans to cover.

"The workshop will focus on those artists who eventually want to work with galleries both in Michigan and out-of-state," Thayer said.

THAYER IS an accomplished artist who teaches at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit and at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

She received her Master of Arts degree from Michigan State University and a Master of Fine Arts from Instituto Allende, Mexico.

Exhibitions of her work have graced gallery walls in New York, Chicago, Florida, West Germany and Mexico and across Michigan from the Rubiner Gallery in West Bloomfield to the Bay Street Gallery in Northport.

Thayer said she currently is "co-curating the 1992 German American Exchange Exhibition where an exhibition by five Detroit-area artists will be exchanged with that of five artists from West Germany."

IN MARCH, Thayer has been honored with the duty of juror for the Ann Arbor Street Art Fair.

Thayer said information such as preparing work for a gallery, selecting a gallery and working with galleries will be included in the Livonia Arts Commission workshop.

Livonia arts commissioner Therese Jaye initiated the series of workshops and seminars for artists in March 1989. Since that time, guest speakers have revealed information and tips on art topics, which ranged from framing your art to critique sessions.

"When I started on the arts commission, I thought we should have someone come in to speak on art — purchasing art, what to look for, buying art to fit not only your budget but your and your home and (buying) something you can live with," Jaye said.

AT THE end of the first workshop, Jaye said, she realized the audience was predominantly artists hungry for knowledge about marketing their work. That is when Jaye contacted the Michigan Council for the Arts and received Nancy Thayer's name.

Since the first artist's workshop two years ago, artists from Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Plymouth, Farmington, Livonia and Canton benefited from Livonia Arts Commission seminars and workshops.

Among local artists who benefited from the series of workshops is Canton resident Gwen Dietrich. Dietrich's first one-woman exhibition, "Dogs and Dames," opens Friday, March 15 at Nelson's Gallery in Livonia.

"The workshop helped me to focus and plot a strategy to begin exhibiting and selling my work," Dietrich said.

Dietrich, who works in colored pencil, pastel and watercolor, said the series of seminars and workshops created an opportunity to learn from other artists.

"It helped to listen to the other artists and what their concerns were," Dietrich said.

SOME OF what Dietrich learned from the Livonia Arts Commission workshops included how to compose an inventory list of all her pieces, create a file card catalog on each piece submitted to galleries and establish prices for her work.

"I don't know of any other communities that sponsor workshops where the artist can grow and benefit," Dietrich said.

Therese Jaye concurred with Dietrich.

"I'd like to see other communities pick up these workshops," Jaye said. "Especially with the (budget) cuts from the MCA, artists will need these types of programs."

At a Livonia Arts Commission-sponsored session last fall, Thayer asked the audience of artists, "What is it you are aiming for, what are you willing to sacrifice for your art?"

These are key questions for artists which the workshops tries to help them answer.

SINCE THE workshop is underwritten by the Livonia Arts Commission, the charge to the artists is minimal.

Registration fee for the workshop is $3. Refreshments will be served during a mid-afternoon break.

Jaye said the arts commission preferred that artists planning to attend the "Business of Being an Artist" workshop pre-register by contacting the Livonia City Hall's Community Resources Center at 421-2000.

"Although no one will be turned away at the door on the day of the workshop," Jaye said.

Brassy music

Cassette introduces kids to classics

By Susan Buck
staff writer

Kids regard Mark Rubin's latest cassette, "Bring on the Brass" as rousing, foot-stomping fun.

Adults know that it's really classical music for children ages 5 to 8.

The cassette, released in November, is designed to be a primer on the British version brass band and includes a musical story written by Rubin. All the music is performed by the Hannaford Street Silver Band, a Toronto brass orchestra.

Born in Detroit and raised in Huntington Woods, Rubin, 45, is a graduate of Kalamazoo College and Berkley High school.

He now lives in Toronto. He began his career as a photographer and then went on to produce educational and institutional films and videos.

"I asked the band to select several pieces," Rubin said. "The brass band repertoire is not widely recorded."

Eight band members jammed into Rubin's office one day to give a sample.

When Rubin's two children Jacob, 15, and Anna, 13, were younger, they were the inspiration for his musical endeavors.

"I wanted to introduce my son, who was only 3 at the time, to classical music," Rubin said. "I looked for a book and record which had clear, simple explanations with pleasant music and could not find it anywhere. Helping children learn about and appreciate classical music is a tremendously rewarding experience."

Mark Rubin admires music

RUBIN DECIDED the job could best be done himself. Nine years later, with input from Robert Sutherland, his son's former trumpet teacher who is also a flugelhorn player with the Hannaford Band, Rubin released "The Orchestra."

It's a combination of words, music and pictures, providing children with just the sort of audio-visual introduction to clasical music that he envisioned.

"The Orchestra" project enlightened me to a world of musical voids that exist for children," Rubin said. "I'm not a musician in any sense. Music is something I admire."

The book, written by Rubin and illustrated by Alan Daniel, preceded the accompanying recording that features Peter Ustinov as narrator with the Toronto Philharmonic Orchestra performing the music.

The book and record were selected as Parents' Choice "Gold Seal Award Winner," an American Library Association "notable recording," and a Juno Award nominee for "Best Children's Recording."

FOR "BRING on the Brass," Rubin recruited veteran PBS actor Leo McKern, best known for his role in the British television series "Rumpole of the Bailey" to host and narrate the recording.

McKern introduces the concert and each of the selections, relating interesting bits of history and gives explanations about brass instruments along the way. The recording ends with a special story about the musical misadventures of a brass band in search of an audience.

"The music on this recording is very vibrant and alive," Rubin said. "Scott Joplin's 'Stoptime Rag,' several marches such as Abe Holzman's rousing 'Blaze Away March' and nursery songs were used, along with an original composition by Canadian composer, J. Scott Irvine."

"The Orchestra," on video and cassette, is available at all Harmony House and Borders Bookshop locations.

"Bring on the Brass" on cassette tape, is at all Harmony House locations. It is also at Failing Water Books in Ann Arbor, Marmel Gifts & Toys in Farmington Hills, Children's Book Shop in Southfield, Half-Way/Down the Stairs children's bookstore in Rochester and Borders Bookshops.

Antique fare

Dorothy O'Bara of Heilmann Antiques displays some of the Oriental items she'll offer at the 77th Botsford Inn Antiques Show Saturday, March 2, and Sunday, March 3. Twenty-two dealers from southeast Michigan will offer glassware, jewelry, china, sterling silver, furniture and a collection of glass candy containers. The historic inn, a former stagecoach stop between Detroit and Lansing, is at Eight Mile and Grand River in Farmington Hills. Show-goers may tour the ground floor and view the antiques collected by Henry Ford I, who bought and refurbished the inn in the '20s. The inn will be open for lunch and dinner during the antique show. Show hours are noon to 8 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. The $1 admission covers both days. The inn has hosted two to four antique shows each year for 23 years.

Nureyev to perform at Fox

The famous Russian dancer Rudolph Nureyev will be on stage at the Fox Theatre Friday, March 15.

"Rudolph Nureyev and Friends" will perform a selection of classic and modern ballet pieces at 8 p.m.

Nureyev will perform Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer" choreographed by Maurice Bejart, Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty" and Minkus' "Don Quixote," set to his own choreography.

Also on the program is Jose Limon's "The Moor's Pavane," which captures dance of the high Renaissance in portraying the timeless tragic story of a hapless Moor, his wrongfully suspected wife and treacherous friend.

Tickets to Rudolph Nureyev are now on sale at the Fox Theatre, Joe Louis and Cobo Arena box offices and all Ticketmaster Outlets. Tickets are priced at $35 and $20. To charge by phone, call 645-6666. For information, call 567-6000.

● DSO CONCERTS

Zdenek Macal, music director of the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, returns to Detroit to lead the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in performances of Roberto Sierra's SaSiMa and Mussorgsky's Pictures at an Exhibition.

Performances will be 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 28, and Friday, March 1; and 10:45 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Saturday, March 2, at Detroit's Orchestra Hall.

The orchestra will be joined by violin virtuoso Madori, a Japan native, in performances of Bartok's Violin Concerto No. 2.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra will perform "An Evening for America," a benefit concert to assist Michigan families of military personnel in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Underwritten by ANR Pipeline Co. and co-sponsored by the American Red Cross, WXYZ-TV and The Detroit News, the concert will be at 7:30 Sunday, March 10, at Orchestra Hall.

It is an additional performance of the DSO's Weekender Pops concert already scheduled for that week. Led by conductor Richard Hayman with the Dallas Brass, the program will feature works by George Gershwin, Harold Arlen, Irving Berlin and others. Tickets are $25, $50 and $100.

"We are grateful to Pops conductor Richard Hayman and the Dallas Brass, who have graciously consented to perform this additional concert without performance fees in an effort to extend aid to those Michigan families who are bearing the brunt of the war in the Gulf."

"The Southeastern Michigan chapter of the American Red Cross has always provided emergency communications and social services for the families of military personnel," said Robert Miller, Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall chairman.

"Our responsibilities increase significantly in times of armed conflict," said Dr. A. William Shafer, chapter executive director.

"Overtures," a group of metro-Detroit professionals organized to support the development of younger audiences for DSO concerts, will hold its fourth event of the season, a brunch at the Detroit Historical Museum, in conjunction with the Sunday, March 17 concert at Orchestra Hall.

The brunch will be at 1 p.m. in the museum's re-creation of 19th-century Detroit streets.

At 3:30 p.m., those attending will move to Orchestra Hall for a concert led by guest conductor Hugh Wolff and featuring renowned pianist Alicia de Larrocha.

On the program are Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 3 and Aaron Copland's Fanfare for the Common Man and Symphony No. 3.

The $35 tickets include the concert and brunch. The next Overtures event will be Saturday, April 20. Following the 8:30 p.m. concert, participants will move to Detroit's Clubland for a buffet and dancing.

For ticket information for all DSO concerts, call 833-3700.

Called "The Bernie Stevens Associates Degree in Magic," the workshop costs $4 per child. Registration is required. Call 347-0780.

Stevens will show students how to make objects appear and disappear, defy gravity and make solid objects pass through solid objects. He will demonstrate how to do a card trick and how to make a balloon animal. Students will leave with materials for performing their own magic tricks.

● SPRING WALKS

Anyone looking for signs of spring can join a trail walk at 2 p.m. Sunday, March 3 at Matthaei Botanical Gardens in Ann Arbor.

"Called the Secret Signs of Spring," the walk will begin from the main entrance and last 1½ to 2 hours. Participants are encouraged to dress warmly and wear warm waterproof footwear.

For those who would rather stay indoors, docents will offer conservatory tours at 2 and 3 p.m. each Saturday in March — March 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30. The topic will be "Medicinal Plants."

The general conservatory admission charge of $1 per person applies to tours. The tours are limited to 30 people per hour because of space limitations in the conservatory.

Visitors interested in joining the tours are asked to arrive 10-15 minutes early and sign in with the receptionist. Telephone reservations will not be accepted.

The Matthei Botanical Gardens is at 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., 2½ miles north of the Geddes Road intersection. Since Plymouth Road is closed at Dixboro Road, it is best to approach from the south if coming from the University of Michigan campus area.

Gardening

It's time to start to think spring

down to earth

Marty Figley

Q. I forced some crocus bulbs this year and wonder if I can dry them and plant them in the garden this fall.

A. Bulbs that have been forced into bloom use a lot of their energy and it will be several years before they will bloom again, if at all. If space is available in the garden, you might plant them and see what develops. The same is true for grape hyacinths and other bulbs.

Q. My paperwhite Narcissus were so beautiful when I forced them into bloom using water as a medium. Can I now plant them outside so that they can be enjoyed another season?

A. Any bulb that has been grown in water has spent all of its energy and it is best to toss them and buy new bulbs next fall.

Q. When should I plant seeds indoors to get a head start on the gardening season?

A. Toward the end of this month is fine, just read the package directions. I have found that if started too soon, the plants grow leggy and spindly before the ground has a chance to warm up. Jiffy-7 Peat Pellets are easy to use and can be readily planted in the garden without disturbing the roots.

They also make a compressed growing mix, called Jiffy Miracle Mix, which is packaged in a small box as peat plates, and expand when water is added. The three plates per box expand to six quarts of growing mix.

Q. How do I get forsythia, birch, pussy willows and other early flowering shrubs to flower indoors at this time of year?

A. With a sharp knife take long, 12-15 inch cuttings from a desired branch. Put them in a bucket of water and keep them in a cool (60 F) place in a bright area, and as the buds begin to open, mist them several times a day. When they are blooming, provide 40 F temperatures at night for extended enjoyment.

Q. We've been having the "Spring Thaw," what can I do in the garden?

A. Check the mulches and add to them as needed. When the temperatures reach 40 F, reapply an antitranspirant on rhododendrons and other broadleaf shrubs to prevent moisture loss.

Q. I didn't take care of my garden equipment last fall . . . suggestions?

A. Take lawn mower blades to be sharpened and any other equipment that needs professional attention to the shop now, before spring rush. Sharpen pruning shears, clippers, etc. before it is time to use them.

Santa Claus surprised our family with a Toro Superblower 850. It is an electric model that is a leaf blower/vac/shredder. I'm sure it will make yard cleanup a breeze come fall and help the compost pile. If you wish to order one for a Father's Day gift or "just because," place the order now, because I am told the response to these machines far exceeded expectations. I'll report more about the performance at a later date, but for now, I am sold!

Ken Miller Horticulture Consultants, in association with English Gardens, Bordine's and Peppergrove Perennials, is again sponsoring an all-day gardening program, "Accent-Express-Create" on Saturday, March 2, beginning at 8:30 a.m. location: O'Dowd Hall, Oakland University, 118 Oakland Center, Rochester Hills; Cost: $65. If you register by Friday, Feb. 22, you will receive a free Taylor guide ($16.95 retail value). Phone 1-800-347-6565, or send check to: Horticultural Seminars, 111-A North Kirkwood Rd., St. Louis, MO 63112.

Marty Figley is a master gardener, based in Birmingham.

You can learn things the hard way through trial and error. Or you can learn the easy way through the experiences of others.

The New Generation Builders Council, with an emphasis on the second approach, is a loosely organized network organized last year by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan for people new to the business.

They could be builders, developers or suppliers. They may have no family ties to the business or close family associations but not much personal involvement.

Those who think they might be interested in the building industry are welcome. So are seasoned veterans.

"We try to provide a more informal forum to learn nuts and bolts of building," said Nancy Bonadeo, a Plymouth building executive in her mid-30s and co-chairwoman of the council.

"We kind of draw a group of people who in some ways wouldn't be comfortable attending large general meetings of the association," said John Bollan Jr., 37, a Troy builder and co-chairman of the council.

Carey Peters, a staff member for the BASM, helped start the council.

"A LOT OF our people are ready for retirement in the next few years," she said. "We need an infiltration of younger people to keep the association going.

"We find a lot of younger builders . . . have done field work or were in an office doing book work," Peters said. "They don't know what customers needs and wants are, newest technology, how to supervise subs. That's information they're looking for now."

The council convenes for breakfast about eight times a year. The biggest crowds so far came to learn about plywood and kitchen and bath fixtures.

"We try to have one or two meetings a year we call round tables," Bollan said. "It's a cross exchange of ideas, thoughts, questions builders might have who may not feel comfortable addressing a larger group who knows who they are."

Some third-generation builders, like Bollan, and second-generation builders, like Bonadeo, grow up in the business.

But there's always something to learn, Bonadeo maintained.

"Perhaps it's a disdain from workers on the job you being related to the boss," she said. "It (council) would provide a sharing of common experiences, ideas how one person handled it."

Gregory Benson, 32, is a third-generation builder.

"It's been a pretty fair exchange about what's going on, who's doing what, how sales and traffic are," he said of the sessions. "That's pretty valuable information in our business."

Then there are the new builders like Carol Lee, 25, of Livonia. She found little fulfillment in inside sales work and as a real estate agent.

Her father, Alex Fedrigo, had built a few industrial buildings as a personal sideline/investment kind of thing, but wasn't even a licensed builder.

THE TWO built a house for Lee, then afterwards, obtained licenses. She since has established her own building company, Five Star Construction, and has built several more houses.

Lee finds the council informative.

"I'm basically going there because it's filled with people who know what's going on," she said. "I'm there to listen. You're in a room with people who do this every day.

"It was strictly a learn-by-mistake thing," Lee said of her initial building experience. "In this business, mistakes cost money so you learn quick."

Simple things that might not occur to a novice like getting trades people on site at the right time can make all the difference in the world, she said.

Robert Hall, manager of the builders sales division for Erb Lumber of Birmaingham, has attended several meetings.

"It gives us a chance to learn about builders' business, meet customers and it gives us a teaching forum as well," he said. "There's a lot to know in this business. Getting the word out is extremely important to us."

Lee said she's amazed by the willingness of other builders to share information.

"That will make the industry stronger, bring a community spirit into the industry and make it better in the long run," Bonadeo said.

"You may not always want to ask a certain question in front of your competitors," Bollan said, "but everyone is usually pretty open."

"There is a certain camaraderie when you get together," Benson said. "A lot of people are looking over their shoulder. That never bothered me."

Silverdome garden show targets homebodies

"More time at home." That's what trend-watchers say Americans want. Pollsters conclude that people are increasingly citing home as a major priority. It seems that baby boomers — by far the largest demographic in the country, the largest demographic in history for that matter — are "coming home" in droves.

The Michigan Home & Garden Show at the Pontiac Silverdome today through Sunday will offer suggestions on making your house more of a retreat from the outside world.

Ideas for home improvement projects, on-site construction, "how-to" seminars and demonstrations covering topics ranging from gardening to electrical wiring will be offered.

Jerry Baker, master gardener, author, and TV personality, and grill cooks Mad Dog and Merrill will appear.

Hours are 3-10 p.m. today, noon-10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children 6-14. Discount tickets available at Kroger's.

Porches make comeback

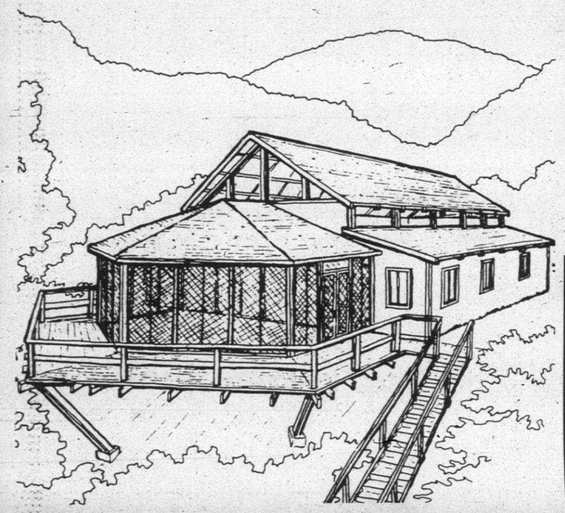
Screen-enclosed porches are back with an new enthusiasm that is reminiscent of their popularity a couple of generations ago. And the reasons are the same: A screen-enclosed porch is a pleasant place to enjoy a quiet summer evening.

For the benefits it offers, a screen-enclosed porch is relatively inexpensive to install if a roofed porch is already in place. Aluminum and fiber glass insect screening is available in rolls up to 48 inches wide at local hardware stores and is simply stapled to studs. Many homeowners combine a chair rail with studs on four-foot (roll width) centers.

If you're starting from scratch to build a new screen-enclosed porch, deck or free-standing garden structure, your first consideration is a design that harmonizes with your home, its site and your landscaping. The screened enclosure should be an integral part of your home and its surroundings, and blend into the overall design.

Recognizing that good design is an important part of your long-term enjoyment of your screened porch or other structure, the Insect Screening Weavers Association has published a booklet, Design for Harmony. The eight-page booklet is available free by mailing a postcard to the Insect Screening Weavers Association, P.O. Box 2636, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230.

The screened enclosure should be an integral part of your home and blend in to the overall design.



A conceptual home design from the booklet Design for Harmony features a cantilevered wrap-round deck and multi-faceted screen-enclosed porch.

Figures released by the Greater Detroit/Southeast Michigan Business Attraction & Expansion Council showed that the total dollar volume of residential construction awards in 1989 was about 11 percent less than 1988 in the Detroit area.

The 1989 Michigan total was about equal to the 1988 record level. U.S. data shows a decrease of less than 1 percent during the same period.

Non-residential figures mirror the residential figures. Total non-residential construction contract awards declined 11 percent in 1989 compared to 1988. This follows an 11 percent decline recorded in 1988 over 1987.

Statewide, the loss for 1988 was recorded at 1 percent compared with the increase of more than 7 percent for the U.S. during the same period.

In terms of total construction contract awards, the Detroit area showed an 11 percent decrease in 1989 compared to 1988. This followed a decrease of 7 percent recorded in 1988 over 1987.

For Michigan, an increase of 16 percent was recorded over the 1988 total. But the U.S. total showed less than a 1 percent improvement.
