'School-within-a-school' program offered

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Plymouth Canton and Salem high school students are being offered the chance this week to enroll in a "school-within-a-school" — a pilot program proposed for Centennial Educational Park next year.

DESIGNED TO ASSIST ninth-graders in making the transition to the large high school setting, the plan features "inter-disciplinary four-hour blocks" whereby students would be able to take their mathematics, science, language arts and social studies classes within a daily, four-period time block. To be housed in whichever high school building can provide the more convenient arrangement, the "school within a school" will be staffed by eight techers, two from each subject area.

Ninth and 10th-graders would be able to fulfill in one year their requirements for two years of social studies and English.

The program is being touted as providing "an exciting learning environment where you have several teachers with a variety of perspectives."

The program is designed to enable "every student to achieve success." It "encourages students to make interesting connections between subjects and lessons." Other advantages include the flexibility of adjusting class time and more individual assistance with school work.

Tom Tattan, executive director for secondary education, said the program is "an attempt to deal with the transition from middle to high school.

"We've looked at having teachers work in teams of two or three so they could deal with getting kids off to a good start. The concept comes from a lot of the research and literature out there as to how you change schooling, given you're still working under the 180-day school year and a 6½-hour school day."

Under the proposal, ninth graders could receive credit for English, Western civilization, life science and algebra or geometry in a four-hour block. Tenth-graders would acquire credit for American literature, U.S. history, biology and geometry or algebra.

Tenth and 11th-graders would take a combination of social studies and English classes in a four-hour block.

"It makes sense at such a large school to try and break it down and make it smaller and more personal, especially for ninth graders, and for the entire student body," said Tattan. "We want to see if a number of students are interested in the concept." A maximum of 280 students could be accommodated in the fall, he said.

Tattan acknowledges that college-bound students may have difficulty fulfilling math, science and foreign language requirements given the block structure.

"It's a definite concern, because any student going into a college program would usually in their sopho-

Lack of say angers teachers

Many teachers are upset that they were left in the dark about new "school-within-a-school" courses students are registering for this week.

MORE THAN 80 teachers signed a letter sent to the administration protesting the circumventing of "the customary process for curriculum change. It is the breach of this process, and not the invention of new courses themselves, that has alarmed us as staff members," teachers said.

Teachers also voiced their concerns at Monday night's board meeting.

An American studies pilot program would enable 10th and 11th graders to take a combination of social studies and English classes in a four-hour block.

A second pilot would enable underclassmen to take math, science, language arts and social studies classes in a four-hour block. Choices for ninth-graders would include English, Western Civilization, Life Science, Algebra I or Geometry. For 10th-graders, choices would be American Literature, U.S. History, Biology, Geometry or Algebra II.

New zoning will stop expansion

Change planned to halt Mettetal Airport growth

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Canton trustees approved a zoning change Tuesday that grounds future growth at Mettetal Airport.

After more than 2½ hours of debate trustees approved the change 6-1 with Elaine Kirchgatter casting the only dissenting vote.

"The owners could come back and hold us liable," Kirchgatter said.

BRUCE KAHN, an attorney representing airport owners, Desert Sand Inc., said the change would cause "a serious economic problem" for his clients.

The Klochko family owns Mettetal and is expected to sell it to a board formed by the city of Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

"This is the taking of property," Kahn said. "You're trying to take property away without compensating the property owner. We will have to take the action necessary to have someone make amends."

The zoning change eliminates airports in the light industrial district, which is the zoning of Mettetal land. Therefore, Mettetal would be a non-conforming use and would not be permitted to expand unless it received board approval.

The Canton Planning Commission and the Wayne County Planning Commission rejected the zoning change. The Canton Township Board has the authority to make such decisions.

Canton treasurer Gerald Brown said: "We're not zoning the airport out of existence."

Trustee John Prenizcky added: "We're zoning the airport out of expansion."

MIL MURPHY, who lives near Mettetal, supported the zoning change, saying she's worried about airport expansion.

"I would live at the end of the runway," she said, adding she fears the airport will one day have jets.

"That scares me to death," Murphy said. "I don't want it to change."

Trustees said they had to make the zoning change quickly, because the airport board appointed Saturday was a sign that the buyers were rushing toward a purchase agreement.

Kosteva wants probe of airport 'contamination'

By Diane Gale
staff writer

State Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton has requested a state investigation into possible contamination at Mettetal Airport in Canton.

There is possible leakage from underground storage tanks and improperly disposed of material at Mettetal Airport, according to a letter written by Kosteva to the state Department of Natural Resources.

Kosteva said he learned of the alleged contamination from an investigation conducted by a private Birmingham firm, Aaragon Investigation Agency. The private investigators were hired by Jan Mueller, owner of New Hudson Airport, a Mettetal competitor, said Joseph Aninos of Canton. Aninos is opposed to the airport purchase.

Kosteva called for the DNR to look into allegations made by Aaragon.

New airport board complete, will meet

By naming two representatives to a Mettetal Airport board last week, Plymouth's city commission continues to pursue steps necessary to operate the airport along with Plymouth Township.

NAMED TO ONE-YEAR terms on the board March 9 were retired Detroit Edison executive Wesley Kappler and local publisher Ed Wendover. They join Plymouth Township's representatives to the board, Tom Kennedy and David Campbell, for the board's first meeting 5 p.m. Saturday at Plymouth City Hall.

The airport board is scheduled to hear a presentation then from John Vergona, assistant Mettetal manager, on suggested improvements before and after the planned purchase of the airport.

A presentation is also scheduled on increasing local business use and profitability of the airport. The public can also comment at the meeting.

Mayor Ralph (Jack) Kenyon said a main task of the airport board will be following the progress of state ap-

INTERNATIONAL BUILDERS HOME FLOWER FURNITURE SHOW

SPECIAL SECTION IN TODAY'S ISSUE

High schools model new fashions tonight

TONIGHT, tonight, won't be just any night.

Tonight Canton and Salem "models" stage the Centennial Educational Park Prom Fashion Show at 7 p.m. in the Canton High School Cafeteria.

The fashion show is intended to inspire the uninspired and give students an idea of what will be in vogue on dance floors this spring.

Models auditioned for a chance to be in the show.

The event is open to the public. Tickets, available at the door, are $3.

This year's junior prom is set for April 12 at the Hellenic Hall in Westland. The senior prom is June 1 at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency Center.

Canton High School is at 8415 Canton Center Road just south of Joy.

Plymouth Township," Kosteva wrote.

Meanwhile, an attorney representing Mettetal owners, the Klochko family, discounted the contamination charges.

"The entire matter is a smear campaign that is simply aimed at a political goal of the Canton Board, which is to prevent my clients to be in a position to improve or sell the property," Bruce Kahn said.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said possible contamination will have no bearing on the proposed public purchase by Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

The Klochkos are required to have an environmental study conducted before a purchase agreement, he said.

"If it's contaminated it has to be cleaned up and the cost is on the seller," Breen said. "That's standard selling procedure. If (contamination is) there it has to be cleaned up."

Kahn echoed those remarks.

"My clients are very responsible people," he said. "If they have a duty or responsibility to anyone they will pay it."

Kahn said questions lie with the legitimacy of the letter written by Aaragon. Statements in the letter are hearsay and "garbage," he added.

In a letter to the DNR, Aaragon investigators said witnesses reported that Mettetal property contains known land contamination coming from leaking jet fuel tanks, paint, gas tanks and improper disposal of oil, solvents, and other materials on the premises.

"We have also uncovered information from these witnesses that on at least one occasion the owners of the airport and other properties failed to report the location of underground tanks when they were required to do so, said the letter from Aaragon.

"All of our witnesses have first-hand information stated in this letter. They have all given statements to us and the FBI and have done so voluntarily."

Sue Henry, public information director of DNR, said Wednesday that the state hadn't received the letter from Kosteva requesting an investigation.

School voters narrowly reject millage hike

By Darrell Clem
staff writer

Wayne-Westland school district voters scored a strikeout against new taxes Wednesday, defeating a millage proposal in a fiery election that school officials said signaled the district's demise.

Voters rejected a 7.75-mill tax hike by 51.6 percent to 48.4 percent, with 7,637 voters opposing the tax and 7,165 supporting it.

It marked the third millage defeat in 13 months, though two proposals last year lost by much wider margins. Nearly one in four district voters went to election polls Wednesday, casting 14,802 votes in a dramatic turnout that exceeded election officials' expectations.

Somber school board members and administrators, addressing a crowd of 300 millage supporters, conceded defeat about 9:40 p.m. Wednesday night at election night headquarters in the Dyer Center on Marquette.

"This is the beginning of the demise of what was once a quality school district," Superintendent Dennis O'Neill said, as some millage supporters wiped away tears.

O'Neill said he didn't know whether officials would place another tax proposal on the ballot in June, when an election will be held for three school board seats.

"We've got to come back and talk to the board and meet with the (pro-millage Save Our Schools) citizens committee," he said.

SOME 100 tax opponents, meanwhile, celebrated a bittersweet victory at the Wayne-Ford Civic League on Wayne Road and attributed the election outcome to a public backlash against school officials.

"I don't think there were any winners in this election," said David Moranty, chairman of the anti-millage Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee. "The kids didn't win, but the biggest losers are the school board and administration. They have shown that they cannot run this district."

School officials "threw in their last trump card" by vowing that a failed millage would usher in such massive budget cuts as eliminating busing and athletics, Moranty said.

"It's unfortunate that the kids have to be used as a pawn for an inept administration," he added.

Moranty suggested that school officials quit their posts because "it is possible that (they) still do not get the message.

"If that is true," he said, "then the day has come for a community-punishing school board to resign or be recalled, and for a school system-demising administration to be replaced by positive leaders who will rebuild confidence, integrity and quality education."

MILLAGE SUPPORTERS appeared optimistic as early results Wednesday set the stage for a close vote. But the mood waned as it became clear that voters had defeated the proposal.

Only nine voting precincts supported the millage, which was defeated in 30 precincts. It tied in the Elliott precinct.

"I guess the inevitable has occurred, and we have to read them (the results) and weep," O'Neill said. "This sure is an archaic way of running the most important business in this country."

O'Neill apologized to "the young people of this community," adding that "it's unfortunate that our priorities are a little confused."

The superintendent commended citizens and school officials who helped with the campaign, saying, "we came close, very frankly, but that just doesn't count at this time."

O'Neill lauded the efforts of school board members.

"Our board has stood tall," he said, "They know what the needs of this community are. They know what the needs of this district are. They were willing to put their heads on the chopping block and take whatever heat came from it."

SCHOOL BOARD President Mathew McCusker thanked millage supporters and said, "I could not be prouder that we came so close in the time that we had."

McCusker held out hope for state-level school-finance reform that he said is needed for a "more equitable and more sane" system of education funding.

As anti-millage forces celebrated at the Wayne-Ford Civic League, Thomas Svitkovich, associate superintendent of administration, invited millage supporters to St. Kevin's Social Hall in Inkster, where he said "we can understand our sadness collectively."

Airport growth grounded

"There's a sense of emergency," Bennett said.

The zoning change would affect a future sale of the property, Kahn said.

"The text amendment is nothing more than subterfuge," he said. The action would stop a future sale or purchase of Mettetal.

It was unclear earlier this week whether plans to expand the runway south of the airport would be affected by the zoning change.

Bill Brown, owner of Bill Brown's Auto Clinic in Canton, referred to the proposed runway expansion as a safety overlap, which likely won't be used by pilots. The Livonia pilot uses Mettetal and was against a zoning change.

"When you change to a non-conformance you really tie the hands of the landowner," Brown said.

Canton resident Jim Kronberg asked Kahn if his clients would be willing to sign an agreement that they would not expand Mettetal.

Kahn said there are many parties involved in the purchase and that he couldn't speak for all of the parties. He added that the word "expand" has many definitions.

"Did you know that we could not replace a building if the zoning change is in effect?"

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack said the public ownership has become an "issue that moves below the surface."

"Looking at all the things that are happening we could have a consummated agreement within days," Yack said.

Hockey match nets $2,000 for area family

Westland All Stars goalie Gary Shakes makes the save as Red Wings player Alex Delvecchio takes offense. Dennis Lapensee and Ken Murray of the Westland team assist.

A benefit hockey game played by the Red Wing Alumni and the Westland Over-35 All Stars gave 800 spectators a breathtaking performance Saturday.

The players raised $2,000 for Canton resident Debbie Dell'Orco and her three children. Dell'Orco's husband, Martin, and six of the couple's nine children were killed in a fire last year.

Some of the Dell'Orco family attended the hockey game in Westland Sports Arena and a dinner at Montana's restaurant in Westland.

It was a close game won by, as you might have guessed, the alumni team, with a one point lead. The score was 12 to 11.

"It was one of the more intense games I've seen (the alumni) play," said Jim Reed, who organized the fundraiser.

Residents, developer to meet

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Residents in Canton's northwest corner convinced the township planning commission March 4 to delay setting standards for a new development in their neighborhood.

About 150 homeowners packed the township meeting hall demanding the commission deny a rezoning request that would allow half-acre lots.

The area bounded by Warren, Gyde, Beck and Ridge roads is dotted by estates surrounded by woods, creeks and wildlife. The land is zoned rural residential, which allows one house for every five acres.

The planning commission agreed to decide the rezoning question after residents meet with developers Joe Bloch and Robert Paciocco.

The developers plan to build a subdivision with two houses on every acre. The idea fits Canton's master plan, a blueprint for development.

"If development does have to happen I think the residents would generally like to attract developers like Mr. Paciocco," said Phyllis Johnson, who recently moved to the area.

"It will enhance all of Canton Township," she said. "It will be the final piece of a full spectrum of real estate with starter homes to intermediate homes to prestigious dream homes. Few communities can offer that."

CANTON ATTORNEY Bruce Patterson volunteered to act as mediator during private discussions with property owners, developers and planning commissioners, John Burdziak and Robert Shefferly.

"We're trying to come to a resolution that is acceptable to both parties," Johnson said, adding that she appreciated efforts made by the commission, developers and Patterson.

However, convincing the commission to go against the master plan will be difficult, Shefferly said.

"Their reasoning would have to be pretty good," he said. "We've got too much based on the master plan as it stands."

The planning commission is expected to hold a public hearing and vote on the rezoning question at its March 25 meeting at the township administration building.

The commission will make a recommendation to the Canton Board of Trustees, which will make the final decision on the rezoning.

Angry teachers weren't told about pilot program

As proposed, the programs could accommodate 280 students. Teachers are concerned that students and parents may be unaware that signing up for the program may make it impossible to fit in math, science and foreign language classes required for college admission, as well as electives.

"We feel strongly there are a number of flaws that could have been corrected if the process had been used," said humanities teacher Cynthia Burnstein, adding that there are no syllabuses or bibliographies for the new courses.

"The process for curriculum change is based on the assumption that new programs should be examined, discussed and approved at each level of staff involvement," teachers said in their letter. "The two new programs that have already begun to solicit students for next year have bypassed all meaningful levels of staff participation."

COUNSELORS AND TEACHERS say they've been at a loss to provide answers for parents with questions about a program they've been told nothing about.

Ignoring the process has caused "alienation of staff at all levels," the teachers added. "It has rendered the terms 'teacher empowerment' and 'lead teacher' insignificant. To bypass these steps is to reject the value of teachers' professional contributions and commitment to curriculum quality."

Al DuBois resigned his position as lead social studies teacher over the issue.

"I guess administration has the contention that it won't directly affect us, so we don't have to be aware of what their decisions are," said DuBois, who realized his resignation was accepted when the lead teacher job posting went up.

"For people who are supposed to be in the communication business, we are not doing real well right now. Teachers had no idea what the pilot programs were. Dialogue between administration and staff would have at least generated that."

DuBois, who as lead teacher was peer coach for 27 staff at Canton and Salem, added that the "school-within-a-school" concept does offer advantages. Teachers would be dealing with 70 or 80 students instead of 140 or 150, enabling them to get to know students better and vice versa.

ADMINISTRATORS ACKNOWLEDGE they need to do a better job communicating.

"We are addressing the whole issue of communication with the administrative team at the high school. I do think there has to be an improved process for communication," said Tom Tattan, executive director for secondary education. "There was a lot of discussion going on in the fall, and in December and January.

"Maybe the discussions did not involve enough people. Obviously, there were some things that were overlooked in terms of communication. Centennial Educational Park is a very large place, and we have to put in place a process that truly allows for that interaction to take place."

Jerry Ostoin, Salem principal, said it's incumbent upon administration to "communicate as effectively as we can.

"In this setting with two separate buildings, it's hard to institute. We have to do everything we can to improve communication. It's a thing we fight every day."

Some teachers theorize the six-hour day is being done away with, and that Dr. Tom MacKenzie was hired as Canton principal to implement the change.

Not true, said Superintendent John Hoben.

"That's a mess of crap," said Hoben, adding that MacKenzie was hired on the basis of his outstanding credentials.

Hoben said the intent of the "school-within-a-school" is to better meet the needs of ninth-graders making the switch from the much smaller middle school setting.

"The whole idea is to break down the bigness, especially for ninth-graders, and give them more of a feeling of home, rather than just being dropped into the huge high school setting," he said.

The "school-within-a-school" pilot won't necessarily be a reality next fall, added Hoben.

"I won't say it can't be implemented, but there has to be some collaboration and a consensus. There've been no decisions made yet at this level. Basically, before any program is implemented on a pilot basis, it has to go to the board, and that hasn't happened. The board hasn't been made aware of any changes.

Until decisions are made at this level and until there is board approval, there isn't a program."

Pilot program offers students downsized educational option

more and junior years want to take their math, science and foreign language" and electives, he said.

"There are some real limitations to the proposal itself because of the four-hour block."

STUDENTS IN THE program would be graded according to the "outcome-based system" of A,B,C, or Incomplete.

Advantages include scheduling flexibility, large group instruction, team teaching, individualized instruction, peer group interaction and independent study.

Students who would benefit most are those who prefer learning in cohesive groups, those who are strongly self-motivated and those seeking more individualization in their educational pursuits, say administrators.

Tattan said the idea is to utilize the staff's talent in "looking at new student-centered ideas and innovations aimed at improving academic performace that are at the same time human in nature so that when students graduate and go out into the world, they can go out and be successful."

Plymouth names 2 to airport board proval for the joint city-township operation agreement, from the attorney general to the governor.

"They will apply for these grants (to buy the airport), or the state applies on their behalf," Kenyon added.

"What our board is not going to do is get involved in the political part of this," Wendover said.

"We're hoping honestly at this point that the airport board will be helpful to the opposition as well as the proponents."

And while the state might not require it, Wendover said the city won't pursue joint operation of the airport without environmental testing.

"WE'RE GOING TO discuss that Saturday," he said. "We'll ask the state (Department of Natural Resources) to provide a list of laboratories," Wendover said, adding there are two in Plymouth.

In an airport-related issue, Richard Padzieski, chief of operations with the Wayne County prosecutor's office, said no charges will be sought in relation to the submission of petitions seeking the recall of township Supervisor Maurice Breen over his effort to buy and run the Canton airport.

While those petitions carried the name of a township man, the man said he did not file the petitions. Breen's attorney, John Nora, asked the prosecutor's office to investigate possible fraud, Padzieski said.

Township trustee John Stewart, who said he wasn't seeking Breen's recall, delivered the petitions to the county clerk's office.

"I do not see where any criminal charges would apply to this situation," Padzieski said. The petitions were not reviewed by the county clerk's office.

"I thought his drinking and drug problem was my fault."

"I kept blaming myself. If I just stopped nagging him. If only I was a better mother.... Maybe then he'd stop drinking and doing drugs."

Still on the ground

Jet noise plan won't begin until summer

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Area residents will have to put up with jet noise a little while longer.

An airport noise reduction test, once scheduld for late March, won't begin until late May.

"There were some technical studies that had to be completed, but we're still going to conduct the test," said county "noise czar" Bryan Amann.

The test will fan out jet takeoffs over a larger number of Wayne County communities, reducing flights over Middlebelt Road and Dearborn.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said the test could begin after they completed an environmental impact study.

County officials say they believe the test could begin by Memorial Day Weekend.

THE DELAY, county and FAA officials said, is insignificant.

"It's actually better to begin during what we call 'open-window season,'" said Carl Ball, regional airport noise director with the FAA office in Chicago. "You want to conduct the test when people are outside, not inside."

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara requested an "open window season" test in a Feb. 19 letter to the Chicago FAA office.

Leaders of an anti-noise citizens group said the county may have been overly optimistic in suggesting tests could begin by the end of this month.

"We're disappointed," said David Esper, head of Citizens Against Aircraft Noise. "We were specifically promised by (County Executive) Ed McNamara that we would not go through another summer with the same flight pattern and we're going to hold them to that."

"We hope this isn't a case of the county not being able to control the FAA," said Esper, a Dearborn attorney who headed an unsuccessful effort to block airport expansion bonds as a protest over airport noise.

County and FAA officials, however, say there is no dispute. "We're working closely," Ball said.

"I must say the guys in Wayne County are working very hard and the FAA has been very accommodating, as well," said Wayne Vance of Dykema, Gossett, the Washington, D.C.-based law firm hired by the county to assist in airport noise matters.

Vance said it was his assumption all along the test wouldn't begin until Memorial Day.

While FAA officials are considering holding a public hearing, it isn't certain whether a hearing would be necessary.

A COUNTY commission study group has already held four public hearings on the county plan. The groups will hold an estimated 10 more meetings before presenting its own suggestions at an April public hearing, said its chairman Susan Hubbard, D-Dearborn.

It is uncertain at this point whether any of those hearings would eliminate the need for an FAA hearing.

Earlier this year, the FAA gave the county the option of adopting changes outright or on a test basis.

Full-time adoption would have required another nine to 12 month environmental impact study — threatening to postpone any action this summer.

The environmental study would still be required after the 180-day test, Ball said. But material could be gathered during the test period, speeding the process.

The county's flight plan proposal was drafted late last year. The plan reduces jet take offs over Livonia, Westland and Garden City, fanning them out over less populated communities to the airport's south.

Other highlights will include an appearance by the Wayne Memorial Marching Band, dinner and dancing.

Coins tossed into "Lake McNamara" will be donated to the county's new homeless shelter set to open in April in Westland.

NATURE'S BUSYBODIES CAUSE ANTIBODIES

Over twenty-two million Americans suffer from seasonal allergies, and more than half of these people have symptoms severe enough to interfere with work and/or leisure activities.

Michigan follows a typical temperate climate pollen sequence. Trees pollinate from February through May, grasses between late April thru mid-July, ragweed from mid-August to early October, and mold spores are present throughout the entire summer.

Victims of pollen allergy often find that using antihistamines alone is ineffective. Allergy injections are the treatment of choice because they interfere with the basic disease process by decreasing the patient's sensitivity.

Starting this treatment before, or early in the season is important because it takes time for allergy injections to stimulate the body's protective mechanisms.

Engler hints he'll support property tax base sharing

By Tim Richard
staff writer

'I'm not prepared to announce any components of that plan today. But I have spoken approvingly of what (plan proponents) are doing. I think they're on the right track.'
— Gov. John Engler

Gov. John Engler dropped a broad hint he'll support property tax base sharing as a method of narrowing the gap between rich and poor among Michigan's 560 school districts.

The plan circulating in Lansing is to put half the growth in commercial and industrial property taxes into the state treasury and distribute it on a per-pupil basis.

"That's something Rep. (James) O'Neill (D-Saginaw) and Sen. (Dan) DeGrow (R-Port Huron), two leading experts on school finance in the Legislature, have advocated as a way, over time, of closing the per pupil expenditure gap," Engler said.

"I'm committed to making progress on that gap because I think it is unfair.

"I'm not prepared to announce any components of that plan today," Engler said Monday in an interview in his temporary Olds Tower office facing the Capitol Building.

"But I have spoken approvingly of what DeGrow and O'Neill are doing. I think they're on the right track," said Engler, who last week promised to attack the equity problem in spring.

THOSE TWO lawmakers chair their respective appropriations subcommittees on school aid.

In a recent joint appearance before the Michigan Association of School Boards, they closed the door on the possibility of a state tax hike to pay for equity. They said equity must come from spreading the commercial and industrial wealth that has sprouted up in suburbs around Detroit and Grand Rapids. Per pupil spending ranges from $2,500 in rural areas to $8,000 in Oakland County suburbs.

Tax base sharing wouldn't cost suburban districts any existing money — just half of future non-residential growth. Suburban lawmakers strongly resist it. Proposal B on the 1989 ballot contained a tax base sharing plan and was rejected by 70 percent of voters.

Engler praised the Republican-led Senate for passing his proposed 20 percent reduction in school operating property taxes even as it raised the price tag, saying, "They're headed in the right direction." But he scored House Democrats for wanting to raise business taxes $500 million to pay for a program of relief to small householders.

ENGLER DEFENDED his plan to cut state funding of the Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Symphony Orchestra and most Michigan Council for the Arts grants, despite criticism from fellow Republicans. For example, Joe Bianco, executive vice president of the Founders Society of DIA, was a strong presence at last week's Lansing rally protesting the cuts and grant freeze. DIA gets virtually all its $16 million operating budget from the state.

"It is impossible to defend funding the arts and cutting families," Enger replied. "We had to make a choice to stand with the families, and that's what we've done."

Francesco DiBlasi, music director of the Livonia Symphony Orchestra, had wondered why LSO's $9,000 grant couldn't have been phased out over three years "so we can plan our lives."

"We have a deficit today that is still in excess of $500 million," Engler replied. "The problem is we've been spending more money than we've been taking in.

"We've been kidding everyone, telling them there was money for their projects, hopes and needs when in fact there was not.

"This has been financed in recent years by a series of one-time measures and gimmicks, and we've run out of those. We've reached the point where honesty is the best policy.

"If we're going to be fair in this, everybody had to share in the challenge. For every impact on the symphony, it's far greater for somebody who happens to be on ADC (aid to families with dependent children)."

ENGLER'S CONSTANT themes are that education is the No. 1 spending priority, and cutting property taxes is the No. 1 method of attracting business. The governor, an upset winner last November, contends the state is trying to support above-average programs with below-average incomes.

Vocation ed enrollments rise with recession

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Enrollments in area vocational programs are up, a sure sign the economy is in a recession.

But enrollments haven't reached early-1980s levels, a sign the recession might not be as bad as predicted.

"Whenever the economy gets tough, we see an increase," Greg Baracy, director of the William D. Ford Vocational/Technical Center in Westland.

Even though the recession appears mild, Barcy said center enrollments have increased significantly.

The 1,100 adults currently enrolled in job training programs are a substantial increase over those enrolled one year ago.

That's not surprising, given that the regional unemployment rate jumped from 7.1 percent to 7.4 percent — or 161,000 people — over the same period, adding 6,000 more metro residents to unemployment rolls.

Though a substantial number of adult enrollees are union auto workers, Baracy said a number of white collar workers are also involved.

"Some are sent back by their company for retraining, but some have been laid off," he said. "We have people with four year degrees coming back to pick up on things they missed."

About 36 displaced workers are currently participating in job training programs at Schoolcraft College, said college business and industrial services director Bruce Sweet.

An additional 14 people are participating in the college's licensed practical nurse program, also targeted, in part, to unemployed workers.

The college usually helps about 40 workers a year through Michigan Job Opportunity Bank programs, he said.

"We find we're mostly helping people from automobile suppliers," he said.

Unemployment rose throughout the state in Januray, according to the MESC.

"The construction, retail trade and service industries, along with state and local education, all reported seasonal employment declines throughout Michigan in January," said MESC director F. Robert Edwards.

The statewide jobless rate rose to 8.6 percent, up from 7.2 percent in December.

Unemployment rose from 62,000 to 389,000, according to MESC figures.

Sharing MAGIC

Group for parents of gifted moves to northern suburbs

By Brenda Dooley
staff writer

MAGIC is moving to Oakland County's northern suburbs.

Otherwise known as the Metro Area Gifted Information Consortium; MAGIC is a volunteer, non-profit support group for parents of gifted children in metropolitan Detroit.

Formed in November 1990, the group now has a membership of about 300. For the first time, group organizers are planning a meeting in the Rochester area.

Sheila Darling, group president, said MAGIC is attracting members from a wide range of communities, including Plymouth, Rochester, Woodhaven, Saline, Oak Park, Pinckney and Livonia.

And no one's more surprised than Darling.

"In January we co-sponsored a speech by author Betty Meckstroth and about 185 people registered, representing 25 different communities," said Darling, a Plymouth resident.

Darling, the mother of two academically gifted children, said she decided to organize MAGIC after attending classes on how to understand gifted children at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

OTHER PARENTS in the class started their own support system after discovering their kids shared the same types of needs, Darling said.

"At the end of the six-week course, you could tell people didn't want it to end," she added.

Soon afterward, MAGIC was formed. Group officers include Darling as president; Lynda Zahm of Canton, vice president; Sue Clulow of Livonia, treasurer; Bill McCully of Plymouth as secretary; and Betty Rowan of Redford as director.

'There are so many differences among gifted kids. The group helps us to be better parents and to understand our kids.'
— Karen Murphy

The group meets once a month at different locations and sponsors information exchanges through speakers, discussion groups and literature.

On Wednesday, March 13, the group meets from 7 to 9 p.m. at the ITT Automotive Auditorium, 3000 University Drive, in Auburn Hills. For reservations call 451-0623 or 656-3747.

At Wednesday's meeting speaker Sue Arnett will answer the question: "Can my gifted child have Attention Deficit Disorder?". Parents, teachers and anyone interested in learning more about gifted children are invited to attend.

Rochester Hills resident Karen Murphy said there's a real need for a support group like this in the Rochester area.

"There are so many differences among gifted kids," she said. "The group helps us to be better parents and to understand our kids."

DARLING SAID many people wrongly assume gifted children "have it made" and sail through school earning straight A's.

On the flip side, gifted children may have trouble socializing with other kids, develop learning disabilities or become gifted underachievers, Darling said.

"If you try to talk to people who don't have gifted children and tell them how you feel, they tend to think 'what lucky problems you have,' " she said. "Or they may become defensive because they think your child is getting a better education. But they (gifted children) have needs just like other kids."

When parents and educators get together, Darling said many members discover how helpful it is to talk to others going through similar experiences.

"It's just like any other support group," Darling said. "It helps to have someone else to share things with."

Upcoming support group meetings will include discussion on gifted underachievers, socialization, learning disabilities and the gifted, counseling issues, matching childrens' learning styles and enrichment and summer experiences.

Family membership dues are $25 a year.

THIS WINTER, THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN WILL BE STRICKEN WITH DIABETES. THE REAL TRAGEDY BEGINS WHEN THEY'RE TREATED FOR THE FLU.

During flu season thousands of children are stricken with insulin-dependent diabetes. These children are usually between the ages of 5 and 16.

Unfortunately, many parents and emergency-room personnel often confuse the warning signs of diabetes with the flu. Or, in some cases, urinary tract infection.

The major warning signs for diabetes to watch out for are: frequent urination, excessive thirst, extreme hunger, dramatic weight loss, nausea and vomiting. As well as irritability, weakness and fatigue. Generally, these symptoms appear over a three or four-week period, but don't appear as suddenly as flu symptoms.

If the child is not treated immediately, his or her blood sugar can go out of control leading to what is called diabetic ketoacidosis. Which in turn can lead to diabetic coma. The warning signs for diabetic ketoacidosis include excessive urination, great thirst, stomach pain, nausea and vomiting, dehydration which can lead to dry lips and sunken eyes, rapid breathing, followed by sleepiness.

So this winter, do something to really protect your child during flu season.

Learn the symptoms of diabetes.

AFTERMATH
Coming Home

Brian Bowser only wanted to serve his country when he joined the U.S. Army four years ago to date Monday.

So he had good reason to smile Tuesday while he munched on a slice of pizza in his mother-in-law's Redford Township home, decorated with American flags and red, white and blue balloons to salute his return from the Persian Gulf war.

Bowser, a 1985 graduate of Thurston High, was home again — reunited with his wife, Linda, and about 20 other family members and friends after returning home from Saudi Arabia where he served in operations Desert Shield and Storm.

"I'm happy as hell to be home," said Bowser, 23, after being separated from wife and family since August when he left for Saudi Arabia with his infantry company.

"I'm glad I made it back alive and everyone here is safe. I just wanted to defend Saudi Arabia if it was invaded by Iraq."

THE BOWSERS were married less than a year before he left for Saudi Arabia, and she led a large contingent of family, including his parents, and friends to greet him Monday afternoon when he flew into Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

The celebration continued in his mother-in-law's home, where he and Linda will live during a 21-day leave. Then it's back to Fort Campbell, Ky., where Bowser was stationed at the time his company was shipped to Saudi Arabia.

Bowser's four-year hitch expired Monday but was extended for at least 180 days after the last reservists are released from active duty, he said.

"It could be shorter or longer."

Then he and Linda will have a touchy decision to make. Bowser, who was promoted from corporal to sergeant while in Saudi Arabia, said he would like to re-enlist, but not so Linda.

However, they weren't discussing that decision Tuesday, a day when prayers were answered.

"I feel a great deal of relief he's home," said Linda, 21, a 1987 Thurston graduate. "I thank God he's safe and we can go on with our lives."

FOR STARTERS, he and Linda took the weekend to spend some time together — destination unknown.

Bowser's parents also were thankful their son was home.

"We thank God he's returned home alive and in one piece," his father, Jerry, said. "He's a fine young man and soldier."

"It's just wonderful," his mother, Sonia, said of her son's return. "We feel very lucky and fortunate and we know it. Who says prayers don't work. We all prayed for him, family, friends and co-workers. We're all glad to have him back."

'I'm happy as hell to be home. I'm glad I made it back alive and everyone here is safe.'
—Brian Bowser

Bowser said his company did not see any combat, though his Third Battalion Bravo Co. was camped at the battle front in a tent city near the King Fahd International Airport in Saudi Arabia, just south of the Iraqui border.

"We spent 20 to 30 days in the field south of Iraqu but didn't see any combat. We saw Skuds fired at nearby positions, but there were no direct hits on our position. Part of me is relieved and part of me is disappointed because every young man wants to test himself in combat."

But he was ready to fight.

"I talked to a Kuwaiti man who told me that his wife had been raped repeatedly by Iraqi occupation soldiers before they killed her, their child and other of his family members. That helped us focus on why we were there and the job we had to do."

BOWSER SAID the closest contact he had with enemy Iraqi soldiers was the sight of them surrendering in long columns.

"They surrendered all day," he said of Iraqi soldiers, including a unit of Iraq's combat-elite Republican Guard. "They just dropped their weapons and gave up.

"I think their will to fight was almost non-existent after 30 days of bombing."

Fellow soldiers told Bowser that Iraqi soldiers were living on rice and some kind of wheat, he said.

"I heard their blankets were lice-infested and they weren't receiving any supplies so they dressed in civilian clothes and roamed from town-to-town for food and water," Bowser said.

Election

Amann, Poole best in primary

BRYAN AMANN and JAMES POOLE are the best choices for local Democrats and Republicans in the Tuesday, March 19 Wayne County Commission primary.

Among the six Democratic candidates, Amann boasts a strong, varied background that would serve Canton residents well.

Bryan Amann

The assistant county executive has also been a regional Democratic Party leader and deputy county clerk. Most recently, he's also been Wayne County "noise czar."

The latter position is especially significant. The district contains Detroit Metro and Willow Run, both county airports, as well as Mettetal, a small, private air field whose future is pehaps Canton's biggest local issue.

Amann is an expert on regional airport issues and his expertise provides valuable assistance in determining the future of Mettetal.

In addition, Amann boasts close ties with county Executive Edward McNamara — a plus if he can be a peacemaker in the often-fractious relationship between the executive and the commission.

While all candidates cite road improvements as a major Canton issue, it's Amann who boasts the long list of contacts that would make road improvements a reality.

Of all the candidates, we believe Amann is the one most in touch with local aversion to tax-and-spend government.

However, we don't necessarily believe his call for across-the-board cuts in property tax assessments is good policy for a county bracing for state budget cuts and a 20 percent property tax cut.

We believe Amann's commitment to holding the line on county spending is genuine.

There're other strong candidates in the race.

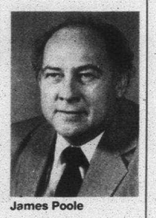
Shriley Poling, appointed to the board in December, has proved a quick study and hard worker.

Bob Beeny and Jimmie Raspberry, also in the field, can each point to a long record in local government.

What sets Amann apart is that he's the candidate whose approach to county government most closely resembles that of former commissioner Milton Mack.

Though often at odds with commission leaders, Mack was a strong, respected voice, not only for district residents and common sense county government.

While respect isn't earned overnight, we believe Amann could eventually fill that same valuable role.



James Poole

On the Republican side, former township supervisor Poole's governmental experience gives him the edge.

A colorful figure, Jim Poole is no stranger to Canton residents — or to controversy.

Frankly, some of his positions make us blanch. As supervisor, Poole encouraged the Detroit Tigers to build a new ballpark in his community — something we believe would provide little benefit for township residents.

But he's clearly his own man and would follow an independent course as commissioner.

Fellow challenger John McCarthy, while a more mainstream Republican, can't match Poole's experience in local government nor his knowledge of Canton-area issues.

While it's easy to overlook county races, especially in special elections, we urge all Canton voters to take the time to cast their ballots. With roads, drains and other development issues still on the front burner, county government serves an even-more important function in Canton than in many other communities.

Bryan Amann is the best choice for Democrats, James Poole for Republicans, in Tuesday's primary.

Abortion

High court should expedite case

The ban, camouflaged as a tax issue, wrongfully eliminated guaranteed state payment for a medical procedure that is guaranteed by the Constitution.

THE MICHIGAN APPEALS court ruling which reverses the voter-enacted ban on Medicaid-supported abortion comes as a breath of fresh air on an odorous decision.

The ban, camouflaged as a tax issue, wrongfully eliminated guaranteed state payment for a medical procedure that is guaranteed by the Constitution.

However, the U.S. Supreme Court allows states to deny funds for Medicaid money for abortions.

Luckily, the Michigan Constitution creates rights which are broader in scope than its federal counterpart.

And the 2-1 appeals court decision, signed by Judges Martin M. Doctoroff of Birmingham and John W. Fitzgerald of Grand Ledge, upturned the November 1988 vote by turning to the state, rather than the federal, Constitution.

In its section guaranteeing equal rights under the law, the Michigan Constitution states: "All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for their equal benefit, security and protection."

THE JUDGES RULED that since the right to choose whether to have an abortion is a fundamental right of all pregnant women, because Medicaid reimburses those who choose to go through with their pregnancy, it must also reimburse those who choose "medically necessary" abortions.

It has been more than two years since indigent, pregnant women have been denied medical care for abortions. It was a mean-spirited decision, which proclaimed to oppose the use of taxpayers' money for abortions, but only attacked women on public assistance, not the tax-funded health plans of state, county, municipal and school employees.

That ban continues while the appeals court decision is taken to the Michigan Supreme Court — a procedure that varies from several months to more than a year.

We are inured to the winds of justice moving slowly.

But given its urgency, the Michigan Supreme Court should take up the issue as quickly as possible.

Meantime, poor women who seek abortions will have to continue to find other ways and means to have them.

Mayors meet

New group duplicates SEMCOG

WOW! THE mayors of the tri-county area, called together by Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, are going to team up to preserve cities, slow urban sprawl, solve the trash problem . . . and so on. Big deal. They're forgetting:

- There already is an organization in existence which addresses the same regional problems — the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. The mayors group simply duplicates SEMCOG's efforts. Moreover, SEMCOG has a staff, which the tricounty mayors group doesn't. Moreover, SEMCOG has federal and state grants to do planning.
- The mayors met behind closed doors, which is Young's style. SEMCOG operates in the sunshine of the Open Meetings Act. Voters and taxpayers can have more confidence in the sunshine group.
- On paper, Young is a Detroit delegate to SEMCOG, but in his 17 years in office he has yet to attend a single SEMCOG meeting. He should try it.

The most valuable thing about SEMCOG is that when elected leaders meet face to face, they drop the harmful rhetoric about "hit Eight Mile Road" and "you people" and are civil to each other. The useless warfare between neighbors winds down.

Gulf War bolsters GOP, liberals left scrambling

Philip Power

God of our fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-flung battle-line,
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine —
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget — lest we forget!

THIS VERSE begins "Recessional," a poem written by Rudyard Kipling in 1897, just as he began to sense the retreat of the British empire from worldwide dominion.

Those lines came to mind exactly a year ago when I stood with my family, gawking and sad, on the immense flight deck of the aircraft carrier USS Independence, berthed at Coronado Island, Calif.

Built in the 1950s when America was rich and powerful and self-confident, this great ship had projected for 25 years the might of our nation throughout the world. But then she lay vast and dark and unused, a silent symbol of the hollowing out of our sense of national purpose and of our own recessional from power.

Far-called, our navies melt away;
On dune and headland sinks the fire:
Lo, all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of the Nations, spare us yet,
Lest we forget — lest we forget!

THIS WEEK, in pride and national self-renewal, we celebrate the first return of our troops from the Persian Gulf. We won the war — a just war, in my view. We not only changed forever the way wars will be waged, but we also demonstrated to ourselves and to the world that we could summon up our national will to carry out a large and difficult enterprise.

What a difference a year can make!

I suspect that the war and the way President Bush has handled it will become a "defining event," one that fundamentally restructures the way things will work for many years.

Abroad, America no longer will be regarded as a paper tiger, with a guilt-ridden military and a political system incapable of sustained purpose. At home, it just may be that the ghost of Vietnam has at least been exorcised.

The Republicans are on a roll, and with good reason. It was their team that won this one, against the doubts and hesitations of many national Democrats who now are scrambling to look like they were on board all along.

Liberals are in trouble, and they will continue to be unless and until they can figure out a way to show that patriotism is not something to be ashamed of and that America's national interests are something to treasure and defend.

LIBERALS ARE in trouble, and they will continue to be unless and until they can figure out a way to show that patriotism is not something to be ashamed of and that America's national interests are something to treasure and defend.

It would be well for such people to remember that the last successful Democratic presidents — Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman — were those who also successfully conducted wars to defend our national interests.

The tumult and the shouting dies;
The captains and the kings depart;
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget — lest we forget!

Iraqi blood begins drying

To the editor:

President Bush, on the eve of the cease fire on the Gulf War started his address to the nation with, "Kuwait is liberated." Perhaps it would have been more appropriate to announce, "Iraq is devastated" in light of the effects of the allied bombing against that country.

Many supporters of the war have been quick to point to the U.S.-Allied military victory as proof of the correctness of the policy of war against Iraq. The facts belie this belief, however.

In the war against Iraq, it is estimated that 100,000 people have died or have been maimed. The war has cost the U.S. and its allies over $80 billion. Both Iraq and Kuwait have had their infrastructures reduced to rubble. Residential areas, economic, industrial, and governmental institutions have been destroyed. The allied response to the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait has been many orders of magnitude greater than the initial offense. This war has brought untold pain on the people of the region. Thousands have been made refugees, widows and orphans.

Many had advocated a peaceful resolution to this conflict. The economic blockade of Iraq, imposed with a vigilance never before seen, could have been given more time to work. Continued political and economic sanctions against Iraq could have reduced the Iraqi regime to comply with United Nations resolutions pertinent to this crisis.

Regrettably, this was not the course taken, and the people of Iraq and Kuwait suffered through 40 days of the most intense, horrific bombing in history. Freeing Kuwait did not have to entail destroying Iraq.

Now, we must do all we can to have a benevolent peace. Money and human commitment need to be donated from governmental, private, and nongovernmental sources to help with the post-war reconstruction of Iraq. The economic blockade should be lifted so that Iraq can begin the rebuilding.

It is telling that many Americans have been euphoric about this war, while the blood in Baghdad and Basra is only now drying. Humanitarianism demands that we recognize first, and foremost the terrible human costs of war. It is incumbent on Americans to recognize the catastrophic losses imposed on Iraq, stop inflicting pain on that country, and allow this grotesque chapter in history to be closed.

Don't cheer the Gulf War

To the editor:

Thank you for printing the letter of Arlene Victor (Feb. 25 Observer) which eloquently expressed my own views about the Gulf War.

We have killed 85,000 people and destroyed a nation. We paid for this war with a military machine built at the expense of our national solvency and our own education, health care, and even water, roads, and quality of life.

I respect the clearly defined views of those (President Bush and U.S. Rep. Broomfield not among them) who say that conflict was necessary to prevent greater evil.

Like Victor, I feel that the war was a tragically wrong way to deal with the situation.

Now that it is over, it seems that this is a time for sober reflection and healing, not a time for sport-championship type jubilation and exaltation.

War is not something to cheer about.

Thumbs up to this soldier

WE'RE VERY fortunate.

Last spring, our son joined the Army on the delayed enlistment plan. Brian went into basic training last Nov. 14. Two months and two days later, the war started.

He hadn't planned on that. Neither had we. However, he said he was ready to go to the Gulf, if that's what the president wanted him to do. When one signs up through delayed enlistment, one gets to choose a place to serve, or a branch of service. Brian chose Germany, not missing the historical significance of being one of the last American troops to patrol what for most of our lives has been the Berlin Wall.

When the ground war started, Brian was less than a week from graduating from basic and advanced training. We attended his graduation at Fort Knox. When the base commander read his name, it was followed by: "next duty station: West Germany."

NO ONE WANTS to send their son to war, even if he wants to go. Brian had thought seriously of volunteering for Gulf duty and skipping his original assignment. Before he could decide, the ground war ended.

No need or opportunity for him to make the decision. He still might be rotated into the Gulf to bat cleanup, but right now he's on his way to Germany.

That's the amazing part. After graduation, he got 14 days leave and spent most of his time in civilian clothing, dog tags buried beneath a Public Enemy sweatshirt, half-inch-long hair covered by a Lakers basketball hat.

Two days ago, though, leave was over. At 5 a.m. I got up, made a pot of coffee and woke up Brian so we could give him a ride to the airport for a 7:30 a.m. flight.

The sweatshirt and hat were gone. The dress uniform was back in place with two new medals hanging above the left pocket. We drove to Metro, and remembered the rule that you're not supposed to pull up and drop people off due to terrorism precautions.

But with three huge duffle bags stuffed with all of Brian's worldly belongings, I couldn't see walking from the parking structure.

I pulled up right in front of the TWA terminal and stopped. Immediately, a Wayne County Sheriff's deputy and three porters started walking toward my car. Then Brian got out of the back seat.

They backed right off and offered to help with his bags. Two of them shook his hand. A woman in a car behind us got out, walked up to Brian, grabbed his hand, said "good job" and got back in her car.

WE WALKED INSIDE to the TWA desk. Besides another soldier already in line, Brian was the only one in uniform walking toward the desk.

It was hard to look around and find someone who wasn't staring at Brian and either smiling, giving him a thumbs-up or nodding.

There's much discussion over whether we should have been involved in the Persian Gulf war. I don't believe so, but found I still could support my son 100 percent while wondering if this particular war was worth the lives of our children.

Brian thought it was a war worth fighting. He's the professional. He doesn't meddle in my writing and I don't offer him tips on warfare. But differences aside, I can't think of a time when I've been more proud of him.

Is there merit in 'social promotion'?

Doc Doyle

Q: I can't believe that after 12 years of schooling some high school graduates can't understand written directions. Others have to be reviewed on the very simple math needed to calculate square yardage. How did these kids get a diploma? Why were they passed from one grade to the next?

A: "Social promotion" is the term educators use for passing a student with weak skills and/or poor performance on to the next grade.

In layperson's terms it means the student is getting too big for the chair he/she is sitting in the classroom.

For example, we have a fifth grade boy who has very limited ability and/or has consistently failed to put forth any effort.

Let's say he was almost 6 when he started kindergarten (5-years-old is the norm for starting kindergarten). Already, in kindergarten, he is nearly a year older than his classmates.

Let's say he repeated the third grade. Now, in the fifth grade, we have a boy who is about two years older than his fifth grade classmates.

Teachers and principals know he shouldn't be passed on to the sixth grade if this decision is to be made based on his lack of basic math/reading comprehension.

Teachers, the principal, and often someone from central office, meet to decide what to do.

Let's assume his home has been a perpetual battlefield between mother and father — possibly abuse . . . if not physical, for sure emotional damage has taken its toll.

Regardless of all these issues influencing a final decision to retain him (poor basic skills, poor social adjustment) it usually comes down to the age and size factors.

If held back again in the fifth grade, he could be almost 11 by the end of the school year in a class with some young 10-year-olds.

He could be twice the size of the other fifth grade children . . . angry, acting-out or withdrawn into a tight shell, knowing all along his childhood peers are now two years ahead of him in school.

After the final conference on this fifth grade boy, it is determined he is not a "bad" kid . . . he just doesn't or can't seem to apply himself at this point in life. Therefore, in the other children's best interest, he is "socially promoted" to the sixth grade.

The sixth grade teachers who teach remedial or refresher math and language arts (English) knows the students referred to here.

The ninth and 10th grade teachers teaching refresher or remedial classes know the patience needed to deal with these students and the small incregments of educational gains achieved over a period of a year.

Nevertheless, as an educator who always worked for success for all students, it is difficult to admit we have our share of disappointments.

It's not a perfect world but then sometimes I wonder why our society believes it is just educators, not the dysfunctional families, drugs etc, that may be the primary cause of "socially promoted" students with poor basic skills.

But to say that would be defensive — wouldn't it.

James "Doc" Doyle is a former Troy Schools administrator. His column on educational issues appears regularly.

Battle wages strong at home

Jack Gladden

NOW THAT THE shooting has stopped in the Persian Gulf, you may think we are no longer at war.

But the battles on the home front are still going strong. Those who would protect us from ourselves are still sniping away, hiding in the shadows of the Forest of Morality.

ITEM: In Jackson, Mich., a judge threw out a lawsuit filed by the mother of a 17-year-old student suspended from high school sports because he chewed tobacco.

The student — who was suspended for a year from participation in Springport High School's football, wrestling and baseball teams — admitted that he had signed yearlong pledges in August 1989 and May 1990 agreeing to abstain from tobacco. He was nailed three times for violating the pledge.

Under the school's code a third violation is punishable by a year's suspension from sports.

Now I'm not arguing that a high school student should be chewing tobacco, but what in the name of freedom gives a high school the right to demand such agreements in the first place?

They know what's best for us.

ITEM: In Salem, Va., offieials have issued a new city policy that police officers and firefighters must stop using tobacco products — that includes cigarettes, cigars, pipes, chewing tobacco or snuff — by June 28 or they'll be fired.

That doesn't just mean they can't use tobacco at work or on the job. That means they can't use it period — at work, at home, on a vacation on Mars, anywhere!

City officials say the policy is designed to "protect" employees' benefits under the workmen's compensation law covering respiratory ailments. Also, according to the Salem city manager, officials want their employees to be healthy.

They know what's best for us.

ITEM: In Salt Lake City, a bill expanding the ban on open containers of alcoholic beverages in motor vehicles eliminates the phrase "on any highway" from the law.

The licensing and compliance manager for the Utah Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control says, yes, he supposes the new ban could apply to golf carts and riding lawn mowers.

"If you take it to its logical next step," he said, "I guess that could include a lawn mower in your backyard."

They know what's best for us.

ITEM: Also in Salt Lake, a loophole in Utah's tough new anti-abortion law could allow prosecutors to bring murder charges against women who have abortions. The loophole relates to a 1983 amendment, still on the books, to include illegal abortions in the state's criminal homicide law.

But a Utah state senator says not to worry. "It was an oversight that was not corrected," he said. "But we fully intend to do that, and we will do that in a special session . . . or next year."

Uh-huh. The check is in the mail.

FINAL ITEM: In West Germany, according to a news report, a 22-year-old mother of one, returning from the Netherlands with her husband, raised the suspicions of West German border guards who figured she had gone to the Netherlands to get an abortion, almost impossible to obtain under West Germany's ultra-restrictive laws.

They searched her car and her bag — and they found a nightgown and two sanitary napkins. Then they forced her to submit to a vaginal exam by a doctor in a nearby hospital who searched her uterus and confirmed that they were right — she had had an abortion.

She is now charged with obtaining a first trimester abortion abroad — a crime punishable by a year in prison.

And if you think it couldn't happen here, you're wrong.

Because they know what's best for us.

Area reps reject amendment to cut economic aid to Israel

Roll Call Report

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the weeking ending March 8.

HOUSE

Aid to Israel — By a vote of 24 for and 397 against, the House rejected an amendment to strip a spending bill of $650 million to help Israel repair the economic damage it suffered in the Persian Gulf war. The bill (HR 1282) appropriating $4.3 billion for a variety of domestic and foreign programs this fiscal year was sent to the Senate with the money for Israel intact.

Sponsor Tim Valentine, D- N.C., said "the state of Israel needs to come to a time when it can stand alone."

Opponent Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., said the aid, recommended by the administration, was necessary to keep Israel secure.

A yes vote opposed sending war-related aid to Israel.

Voting no were Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods, William Ford, D-Taylor, Sander Levin, D-Southfeld, and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Public Housing — By a vote of 177 for and 240 against, the House rejected an amendment to HR 1281 (above) authorizing $787 million for new approaches to public housing and programs for the homeless. The money was to have come from several other public housing programs. It was to have funded administration-backed initiatives enabling tenants to buy their units, block grants to states and cities to spur development of affordable housing, and rental aid and other services for the homeless.

Supporters said providing ownership opportunities would enable tenants to begin to break the poverty cycle, while many opponents said federal money for existing housing needs already is too scarce.

A yes vote was to fund the administration-backed housing and homeless initiatives.

Voting yes were Pursell and Broomfield. Voting no from Michigan were Hertel, William Ford and Levin.

To Fund a War — By a vote of 380 for and 19 against, the House sent to the Senate a bill (HR 1282) appropriating $42.6 billion for U.S. military costs of the Persian Gulf war. American taxpayers would provide up to $15 billion with the remainder supplied by allies. To date, more than $30 billion remains unpaid out of nearly $44 billion pledged by allies to defray U.S. war costs.

In part, the bill earmarks $7.9 billion for personnel costs, $6.3 billion for combat costs estimated at more than $150 million per day, and $2.9 billion for weapons projects such as replenishing and upgrading "smart bombs" and Patriot and Tomahawk missile arsenals.

A yes vote supported gulf war appropriations.

Voting yes were Hertel, William Ford, Levin and Broomfield. Pursell did not vote.

SENATE:

To Pay For S&L Bailout — By a vote of 69 for and 30 against, the Senate passed a bill (S 419) authorizing $30 billion in Treasury borrowing this fiscal year for the taxpayer bailout of failed savings-and-loans. This follows $50 billion already made available for the salvage operation. The Resolution Trust Corp. would use the new money to close up to 200 thrifts. Companion legislation is due soon on the House floor.

Supporter Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said Senators "have no choice" but to pass the bill because to do otherwise would renege on federal deposit insurance obligations "and risk a financial panic" of large proportions.

Oponnent John Kerry, D-Mass., called it unfair "to have taxpayers in New England paying for a savings-and-loan crisis that is by and large concentrated in a few states not in the region."

A yes vote authorized $30 billion to fund the S&L bailout until the end of the fiscal year.

Voting yes were Senators Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D.

Paying For the Bailout — By a vote of 71 for and 28 against, the Senate tabled (killed) an amendment to S 419 (above) requiring the Administration to recommend ways of financing the S&L bailout directly rather than by Treasury borrowing. The pay-as-you-go approach would incorporate the cost into the federal budget and likely require the Administration to ask Congress for higher taxes.

The amendment also sought to cut the new bailout authorization from $30 billion to $15 billion, on the rationale that the Resolution Trust Corp. will perform better if it must return frequently to Capitol Hill to seek funding.

A yes vote opposes the amendment.

Voting yes was Riegle. Levin voted no.

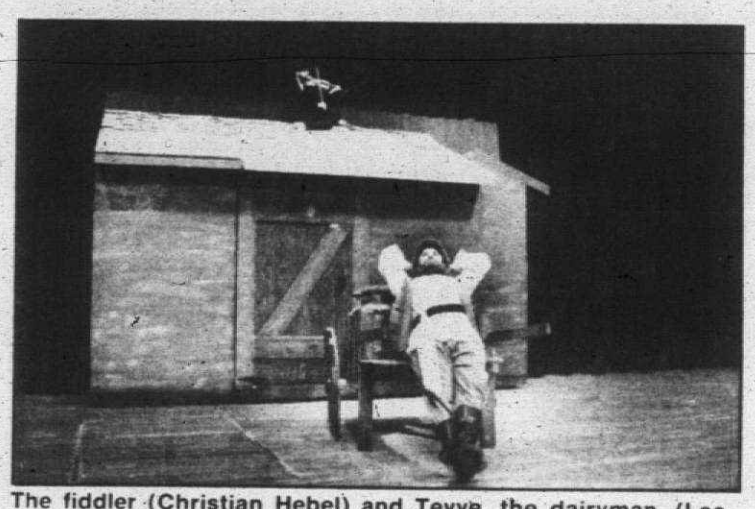
TRADITION HAS its place for the Plymouth Park Players.

The actors are rehearsing for their spring musical, "Fiddler on the Roof." The cast includes students from Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem High Schools.

This isn't the first time students have presented the musical. It was also presented in 1971 and in 1981. Plans are to do the play again in spring 2001.

"Every time you do a production, it's different," said Gloria Logan, the director.



The fiddler (Christian Hebel) and Tevye, the dairyman, (Leo Moschouris) are among "Fiddler on the Roof" cast members.

She has been at the school for 21 years and has been involved in all three productions.

"We opened this theater 20 years ago with 'Fiddler on the Roof.' "

A Saturday, March 16, reunion is in the works for former cast and crew members. The reunion is for those who appeared in "Fiddler on the Roof" in 1971 or 1981 and those involved in other Plymouth Park Players productions in the past.

CURTAIN TIME for the musical will be 8 p.m. Friday-Saturday, March 15-16 and 22-23. Performances will be in the auditorium of Plymouth Salem High School, on Joy west of Canton Center in Canton.

Ticket prices are $4.50 general admission, $5.50 for reserved seating. Tickets will be sold at the door as available. Advance tickets are available at the Salem auditorium. It's best to buy tickets between 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. weekdays. For information, call 459-3518.

The cast includes nearly 60 students, and rehearsals began in mid-January, Logan said. The story of Tevye, a dairyman living in Russia in 1905, his family and the villagers of Anatevka has been popular with audiences.

"I think it goes beyond the Jewish part of the story."

The idea of daughters marrying sons their fathers don't approve of is something audiences can identify with. Dealing with persecution and maintaining hope is also a universal reality.

THE SHOW presented certain staging challenges. A dream sequence takes place in a cemetery, and requires the appearance of people rising from fog-covered graves.

Another scene calls for dancers to dance with glass bottles balanced on their heads.

Dancers use real glass bottles, and aren't gluing or taping those bottles to their hats.

"So far, we've lost one," Logan said with a smile.

Brian Sage, Mordcha; Dave Canales, Rabbi; Jeremy Rosenberg, Mendel; Mohit Mistry, Avrahm; George McConnell, Nachum; Ericka Mac, Grandma Tzeitel; Mary Kay Cook and Michelle Clemens, Fruma Sarah; Matthew Myhrum, Yussel; Michelle Clemens, Shaindel.

The Papas will be played by: Dave Canales, George McConnell, Mohit Mistry, Leo Moschouris, Jonathan Mullins, Matthew Myhrum, Brian Sage, Dan Schaupner, Matthew Wood.

The Mamas are: Sarah Ankofski, Liz Bain, Kim Baldwin, Michelle Clemens, Jennifer Gawlik, Julie Gawlik, Loren Gross, Karyn Gniewek, Lynette Hauck, Julie Rummel, Susan Ratcliffe, Tina Schmidt, Stacy Schaffer, Jennifer Steinmiller, Susan Weycker, Angela Zaetta.

THE SONS are: David Burtka, Andy LeRoy, Scott McCreadie, Jere-

Determination, hard work paid off for author

By Julie Brown
staff writer

When Lucy Taylor's children were young, she didn't have much time to think about self-fulfillment.

Taylor and her husband, Bill, have eight grown children and eight grandchildren. Taylor had thought about becoming a writer, but family responsibilities kept her busy in those days.

"There's really no glory in scrubbing the toilets," she said with a smile.

Taylor decided to get a paid job when her youngest child began kindergarten. She worked for 21 years as a secretary for the Warren Consolidated Schools.

During those years, Taylor, a Utica resident, would write an occasional short essay or poem. As her youngest child approached high school graduation, Taylor started to think about writing as a career.

'What I really wanted to write was a story about Italian immigrants in Detroit.'

— Lucy Taylor local author

"I thought about the fact that my main job would soon be over. Writing had always been sort of a submerged dream." She realized she would have a gift of time, and wanted to put it to good use.

In 1989, Taylor achieved her goal of publishing a novel. "Avenue of Dreams" tells the story of an Italian immigrant family in Detroit.

TAYLOR SPOKE to about 200 people at the fifth annual book and author luncheon, held Tuesday, March 5, at the Novi Civic Center. The luncheon was sponsored by Friends of the Library groups from Canton, Plymouth, Novi and Northville.

Before she started to write, Taylor thought talent was what set writers apart from the rest of the world.

"I soon realized talent is a very small part of it." Dedication, perseverance, imagination and a smidgen of luck are essential.

"Ultimately, you must apply the seat of the pants to the seat of the chair and write, write, write." Taylor received rejections, but didn't get discouraged.

She grew up on the east side of Detroit, graduating from St. Catherine's High School. Taylor married at 19 and had eight children in 11 years.

Later, when she was working as a school secretary, Taylor wrote three short stories one summer. She sent those to three major magazines.

"I sat back and waited confidently for the first one to grab me." She soon realized getting work published wouldn't be that easy.

She began to attend conferences for writers, and found that helpful. She wrote a confession story, which was published in "True Story."

Her husband was proud of that first sale.

"He showed it all over town." He wasn't bothered by the title of the made-up story — "I was in the arms of another man when my husband needed me most."

TAYLOR LATER had similar stories published. She also had work published in "St. Anthony Messenger." Religious magazines and other small publications are good places for aspiring writers to start, she said.

She decided to try writing a romance novel. That effort came back quickly from the publisher with a rejection notice. Taylor sent it out again and hasn't seen it since.

She joined the Romance Writers of America, and submitted a synopsis and three chapters for the group's contest. Comments she received weren't favorable.

"I hid it away. I pretended I had never entered."

She found romance writing constricting.

"What I really wanted to write was a story about Italian immigrants in Detroit."

Her parents had come from Italy to Detroit. Taylor decided to base her book on an arranged marriage that takes place in Italy with the couple then coming to Detroit.

"I kept plodding on and finally finished the book." She met with an editor at New American Library who suggested some minor changes and offered Taylor a contract.

"It was probably the biggest thrill of my writing life."

SHE CONTACTED an agent she'd met at an Oakland University conference for writers. Taylor had about eight months to finish her book.

"Avenue of Dreams" takes in the Great Depression, growth of the auto industry, the beginnings of the UAW, and World War II's impact on Detroit.

Although her book is based on what Taylor knows best, she didn't base her characters on her own family. Her parents had an arranged marriage in Italy, but there are few other similarities. A writer friend encouraged Taylor to distance her characters from her own family.

Taylor does much of her research at the local public library. She tries to write each day, but doesn't wake up in the middle of the night to write.

"My dearest wish in life was to get a full night's sleep." Taylor rarely got that when her children were young, so she doesn't like to miss her sleep now.

She's calling her next book "The Restless Years." The sequel to "Avenue of Dreams" will begin in the 1970s and tell the story of the next generation. She plans to have it done by July, and it's scheduled to be published by New American Library-Signet in 1992.

Taylor encouraged others to consider writing.

'You're never too old to begin a new career. You must not let failure or rejection ever stop you.'

— Lucy Taylor

"You're never too old to begin a new career," she said. "You must not let failure or rejection ever stop you."

Those at the luncheon enjoyed Taylor's talk.

"I thought she was very down to earth," said Jean Tabor, director of the Canton Public Library. Taylor was unpretentious, easy to listen to, and honest in portraying her endeavors, she said.

"I think these are really fun for people who are thinking about writing careers," Tabor said of the luncheon. They can learn from speakers like Taylor what goes into having a book published.

Mid-April spelling bee isn't just kid stuff

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Not all spelling bees are for children.

Adults who have never won a spelling bee will have a chance to do just that next month. The Canton Rotary Literacy Committee will sponsor an adult spelling bee 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 16, in the Little Theatre at Plymouth Canton High School, on Canton Center south of Joy in Canton.

Those who never won a spelling bee are encouraged to enter, as are those who did so and "have not had an opportunity to use that talent for a long time," said Carolyn Burns, executive director of the Community Literacy Council.

"It should be fun. That's the intent."

FOR THE past several years, the Canton Rotary Literacy Committee has sponsored a "Walk/Run for Literacy" in Canton. That annual event took considerable planning time and effort, and organizers decided to look for another idea.

Last summer, Burns, a Canton resident, gave a presentation on literacy at a church function in Albion, Mich. She talked with representatives of literacy councils from Jackson and Albion, and discovered they had sponsored spelling bees for adults.

Burns mentioned that to fellow members of the Rotary committee, who agreed it was worth a try.

TEAMS OF three people will participate. Businesses or organizations are encouraged to sponsor teams. The registration price is $100 per team.

Small businesses can also participate, and organizers can help such businesses find team members who aren't necessarily employees, Burns said. Team members will be able to confer during the spelling bee.

"That takes some of the pressure off the individual."

There will be time limits for competitors. Participants will get the list of words in advance, other than tie-breaker words.

Pronouncers for the event will be newsman Carl Cederberg of WAAM, a radio station in Ann Arbor, and David Snyder, director of the student-radio station WSDP at Centennial Educational Park.

Judges will be Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court, Michigan Rep. James Kogteva (D-Canton), and Creon Smith, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

TEAM MEMBERS are encouraged to come up with names such as the "Spell Checkers." Each participant will receive a T-shirt and the winning team will get a trophy to display.

Admission to the spelling bee is free of charge for spectators. For information on participating, call 451-6555.

Proceeds will help to support the Community Literacy Council, which provides tutoring for foreign-born students and for adults who can't read or who have limited reading skills.

THERE IS no age limit for participants, although the spelling bee has been designed with adults in mind, Burns said.

Fun is part of the program, but organizers also hope to make people aware of the need for language skills in the workplace.

"Yes, there is a lot of sloppy spelling."

She has found good spellers well beyond school age who are anxious to compete in the April event.

"This is just an opportunity to use all of those skills."

A May wedding is planned at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church.

Nancy Lynn Halmhuber of Plymouth and Gary B. Navarre of Ypsilanti were married Dec. 27 at the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth. The Rev. John N. Grenfell Jr. performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Halmhuber of Birmingham.

The bride is a graduate of Birmingham Seaholm High School and of Central Michigan University. She is also a graduate of the University of Michigan, where she earned a Ph.D. She is employed as an assistant professor at Eastern Michigan University.

Her husband is a graduate of Wayne State University, where he earned a Ph.D. He is employed as a professor at EMU.

Sister of the bride Janet Mistele was the matron of honor. Sister of the bride Susan Chrostek was the bridesmaid.

Son of the bridegroom Jeffrey Navarre was the best man. Son of the bridegroom Steven Navarre was the groomsman.

A reception was at the Western Golf and Country Club.

After a wedding trip to Arizona, the newlyweds are making their home in Plymouth.

LaBeau-Haarala

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. LaBeau of Wyandotte announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeree Ann, to Troy Robert Haarala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haarala of Plymouth.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Gabriel Richard High School in Riverview and attended Henry Ford Community College. She is employed as a personnel administrator for Automatic Data Processing Inc. in Allen Park.

Her fiance is a graduate of Plymouth Canton High School and of Central Michigan University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in business administration. He is employed as a contract specialist for the U.S. Army Tank Automotive Command in Warren.

A late June wedding is planned at St. Joseph's Church in Wyandotte.

Council president travels to seminar

Peggy Seery, president of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, attended an advanced management seminar at the Peter F. Drucker Management Center of the Claremont Graduate School in Claremont, Calif.

The event, sponsored by the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., took place Feb. 10-13. Seery, a Canton resident, was one of 41 council presidents who attended the training event.

The seminar covered management and business-related topics, including strategic planning and policy for the 1990s, leadership and power in organizations, and managing change.

Management expert Peter Drucker, author of a number of books on modern organizations and management, was among the guest lecturers.

Claremont professors also participated. At the end of the course, Gale Merseth, dean of the center, awarded a certificate to each president.

Council presidents spent time in work groups, applying the concepts to specific organizational issues within their councils.

Seery is one of 333 local Girl Scout council presidents throughout the U.S. As the top elected officer, a council president is responsible for giving leadership to the policy-making aspects of corporate planning and funding in the council.

Target grant helps to support project

Growth Works Inc. recently received $5,000 from the Target Stores for Project Family, a program designed to help prevent young adolescents from entering the formal juvenile justice system.

Project Family targets adolescents ages 11-14 who may be at risk for delinquent behavior. A parent education/support group is also part of the program.

Students in the program work in groups of eight to 16. Some have had behavioral problems in school or been truant. Some have been involved in such illegal activities as shoplifting or drug/alcohol use.

The Target grant allows the Growth Works program to be provided without cost to participants. For more information on Project Family, call Growth Works, 455-4090.

Tours focus on church history

DETROIT'S CHURCHES are rich in history.

That history is highlighted each month during church tours in Detroit. Tours are co-sponsored by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Michigan, the Detroit Historical Department and the Detroit Historical Society/Museum.

The exterior of Blessed Sacrament Cathedral is an imposing sight.

Tours have been offered since 1972 and are held 10 a.m. the first Monday of each month. The tour bus leaves the Detroit Historical Museum parking lot, 5401 Woodward, at Kirby in Detroit.

"It's a preservation effort," said Lucy Hamilton, a volunteer who runs the tours.

She's been involved in the program since its early days nearly 20 years ago. Hamilton and other organizers found priests and ministers at the churches receptive to the idea of having tours.

"Oh, they were overcome. So many of them said 'We thought nobody cared.' They were delighted to have groups come in."

TOURS STARTED under the aegis of the Detroit Historical Museum, and staffer James Conway was instrumental in getting things going.

"He knew Detroit like the back of his hand," she said. "So we went and looked at them and made a selection."

William Worden, who supervises historic designation in Detroit, also helped get things going. He had contacts at churches, and that helped a great deal, Hamilton said.

Five churches are usually included on each tour. The day includes visits to two churches in the morning, a luncheon served at a third church, and two more church stops in the afternoon.

Tours are held to acquaint participants with the contributions churches have made to religious and cultural life of the area. Participants also learn about the architectural history of churches and the importance of preservation efforts.

Organizers try to include a variety of churches each month. Different denominations are included, as are churches of different architectural styles. Some 60 churches have been included through the years, she said.

Church representatives, either clergy or laypeople, speak at each stop.

"It gives you a much better idea of the church itself," Hamilton said.

SHE WORKS with several other volunteer guides, who provide a running commentary on the buses and help keep things running smoothly.

"They're really very good, and I appreciate the time they give."

Tours, offered year-round, have been popular, and the Monday, March 4, tour included three buses, she said. Larger groups provide their own buses, and others ride on the Detroit Historical Society's Historymobile.

"Recently, we have been getting younger people." She and other organizers are pleased to see young people interested in preservation.

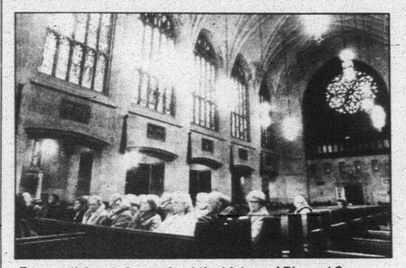
In recent years, organizers have started periodic tours to Monroe's churches and to those across the Canadian border in Windsor.

Some church buildings on the Detroit tours are relatively modern, although the congregations have existed for many years. Organizers have considered adding suburban churches, such as Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak. That's been impractical, in part because tour sites need to be close together, Hamilton said.

"I think that they're fairly well-covered by other groups."

Many times, tour participants have told Hamilton they've spent money to travel to Europe to see churches and cathedrals without realizing how many beautiful churches are in Detroit.

"The churches here are beautiful. This was known as a city of beautiful churches."



Tour participants learn about the history of Blessed Sacrament Cathedral.

Blessed Sacrament Cathedral in Detroit was one of the sites on the Monday, March 4, tour.

Tour price is $8.50 for society members, $10.50 for non-members. Reservations are limited and should be made well in advance; April and May tours are already sold out. Checks should be sent to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward, Detroit, Mich. 48202. Payment should accompany request. For more information, call (313) 833-7934.

After war, our world can never be the same moral perspectives

Rev. Robert Schaden

Shortly after the president gave the green light for a cease-fire, one sidewalk commentator remarked that it was all over but the shouting. Much of what has happened since the tanks turned around would suggest that that one voice spoke what many believe.

The spirit of the shouting has been upbeat, to say the least. Certainly, the children, the parents, the spouses and the friends of returning warriors have reason for relief and gratitude. They have reason to shout, and smile, and cry, and laugh all at once.

But even amid the shouting we would do well to reflect on a comment made by Mr. Bush in his cease-fire announcement. He suggested that this is not a time for euphoria. Certainly, we are joyful in that the cease-fire has begun. Those whose loved ones are returning home do not have to decide to be euphoric. They simply are.

HOWEVER, THERE are a good many others who are not feeling the euphoria. Their hopes have been dashed with news that their loved ones didn't make it out alive.

One talk show caller said it was a "great war" (somewhat of an oxymoron) because so few of our side were killed.

Numbers do not matter that much to those who bury their dead. Their funerals were no more pleasant because the numbers were down.

And what of the tens of thousands who died "on the other side"? The irony, of course, is that while those of us who survive continue to think in terms of our side and the other side, the ones who fell are all on the same side.

WHEN THE war began, we were told more than once that our government had no quarrel with the people of Iraq. It was with their leadership that we found fault.

If that was true when we began then it should be true now. And such a truth would seem to suggest that we be as concerned with the grief on the other side as we are with that on this side.

The real suffering on the other side is felt in the hearts and wracked bodies of the people with whom we said we had no quarrel. When I hear that the Iraqis got what they deserved, I wonder which Iraqis are being talked about.

I AM AS happy about the cease-fire as anyone. However, I cannot get lathered about the "victory parties." Victory parties are for sports events. When one team wins, the other team loses in the record books.

War doesn't work that way. War is not a basketball game. It is not the Super Bowl. It is not about record books. The losing team does not get on the bus and go home to a world untouched by what has happened.

In war, the world can never be the same. For those who do go home, the scars remain. The landscape is raped. The bitterness hangs heavy. The limbs can only be replaced by plastic at best.

And of course, there are the many who don't get on the bus at all. Their remains are buried in the desert or transported to somber ceremonies at which ritual attempts are made to give meaning to the madness.

THE REAL victory parade will make sense only when the living can become convinced of what the dead already know: Sides are not what life is about and a cease-fire is only the beginning to winning the peace.

Winning the war may be about supporting the troops, but winning the peace is about knowing that we are all the troops regardless of the land of our birth.

TAMMIE GRAVES/Observer & Eccentric

Hearts of banks here tick soundly

By Doug Funke
staff writer

EYE on BANKS

In a series of articles, the Observer & Eccentric examines banking. Today, an overview of the industry in this area.

Banks in southeast Michigan are among the healthiest in the nation.

That's the conclusion of Justin L. Moran, an analyst and consultant to the industry and a spokesman for the Michigan Bankers Association.

"In the industrial states, we're the safest and soundest of any around . . . based on earnings, capital position and not having bad loans," Moran said.

Depositors who had some $76.8 billion in commercial banks around the state as of Dec. 31 probably would be delighted to hear that. Especially considering that 168 banks nationally — but none in Michigan — failed last year.

Banks, like any business, are in the business of making money. They're different in the sense that money is their business.

"A bank essentially makes money on the spread between what it's paying on deposits and what it's getting paid on loans. That's core earnings," said Paul Burger, an analyst with First of Michigan Corp.

Loan portfolios have come under increasing scrutiny because they're such an important part of the profitability equation.

IN AGGREGATE, Michigan banks last year had the third lowest nonperforming real estate loan rate in the nation at 2.18 percent, according to Mark Burneko, spokesman for the American Bankers Association.

That compares to 14.6 percent for banks in Arizona, 13.75 percent for banks in Massachusetts and 12.15 percent for banks in Texas.

"Michigan banks got beat up when times were good for not taking chances," Moran said. "When things turned bad, we reaped the benefits. People who run banks (here) learned to do it in a cyclical economy. They learned to be careful of cycles.

"We did not have explosive growth in the 1980s like other parts of the country," Moran continued. "Since we never had the real estate boom, we never had the real estate bust.

"BOTH CONSUMERS and business people have had some bad experiences and are a little quicker to save, a little slower to borrow and a little more conservative," he said.

Stephen Puhr, a banking analyst for Roney and Co., concurred with many of Moran's conclusions.

"Actually five of the top six banks in Michigan if you look at their total assets — NBD, Manufacturers, First of America, Comerica and Old Kent — had record years last year in terms of net income," Puhr said.

"The Midwest is quite healthy," he continued. "The 1982 downturn was difficult. Bankers have been used to operating in a very cyclical environment. They have been trained to be very conservative.

"In looking from '82 forward, we didn't have a glorious recovery here or a boom. Our growth has been stable and steady. That has built a strong economy in the region," Puhr said.

"AGAIN, WE have to look at . . . the environment Michigan banks are used to operating in," Burger said.

Firm pulverizes, recycles papers

By R.J. King
special writer

John C. Thomas believes there are two issues at stake when handling and destroying sensitive documents for bankers, lawyers and car makers at his company headquarters in Livonia.

To Thomas, owner of Document Services Inc. the battle to protect blueprints, drawings, checks and deposit slips from thieves and counterfeiters is joined by the need to protect the environment from mountains of waste.

"There's no question that people can get at sensitive documents by going through Dumpsters and landfills," he said. "People actually make a living doing this, and you'd be surprised by what they get their hands on.

"It can really be detrimental to a company to suddenly find its most private papers the subject of front page news. Anybody could be sifting through your trash at night — thieves, disgruntled employees, even competitors."

While Document Services' primary role is security, both in records retention and destruction, Thomas, 54, said it was actually the company's ability to recycle that led to his start in 1965, five years before the first Earth Day.

"It took me six months to get my first client, and most of the time I was laughed out of institutions," he recalled. "People were just becoming aware of conservation then, and eventually the concept made sense to people."

His cause was helped along by more stringent laws limiting incinerator use in homes and businesses during the 1950s and '60s.

"RECYCLING WAS part of my sales pitch, and the laws helped companies to realize the impact they had on the environment."

A tool maker by training, Thomas said he bought most of his early equipment from salvage yards, including a paper pulverizer and bailer. After rebuilding the equipment to his needs, he set out to find a recycling source.

"The recycling industry was just in its infancy at the time," he said. "In the early years, I sold paper bales to Michigan farmers who used it as cattle bedding. It was also put into insulation."

Now, destroying more than 200,000 pounds of paper a day, the company uses a separate processing facility it owns in Livonia to pulverize documents into quarter-inch squares. The squares cannot be reconstructed, Thomas said. They are sold to paper mills across the country and recycled into paper, tissue and cardboard.

William Ervasti, vice president of bank properties for Manufacturer's National Bank of Detroit said his bank started with Document Services more than 20 years ago because of the company's ability to recycle.

"By collecting, destroying and then recycling our paper, it really put our resources to good use," Ervasti said. "It has also kept our removal costs down while helping the environment."

He said the bank generates 20 tons of waste a day, most of it in the form of paper, plastic and glass. The bank buys back recycled products for use at its 200 branches in the area.

Weekly pick-up fees might range from $25 to $45, based on weight and other factors. Thomas said it was cheaper for firms to hire private contractors to destroy documents, based on such comparative costs as owning and operating a shredder, rental of office space and disposal fees.

Service is focus for '90s

By R.J. King
special writer

'American companies are noting the success of the Japanese . . . and then trying to take it another step.'

— Randall Miller, consultant

How can businesses bolster their bottom line?

In the 1960s marketing was the answer. In the 1970s it was management. During the 1980s everyone strived for excellence. Now, in the 1990s, customer service is king.

Why customer service? Companies figure they can score big gains in sales and profits by satisfying customers first. Another reason: The Japanese have built up entire industries by accommodating buyer needs.

"If you could sit in on a meeting of a company's marketing staff today, there's almost a craze among planners now that close, strong relationships with customers is the way to do business," said Rammohan Pisharodi, associate professor of marketing at Oakland University in Rochester.

"Companies are starting to recognize that once customer service becomes second hand to clients, other opportunities open up. Perhaps more orders are placed or prices can be raised without the client feeling they are unjustified. It's one thing feeding off another."

Competition, said Pisharodi, is behind the recent service craze, especially in the manufacturing sector. For the last two decades American companies have watched foreign competitors, mostly Japanese, walk off with many of their best customers. It wasn't that Americans were doing a poor job, he said. Rather, foreign companies, in their quest for new orders, were doing a better job — not only on price and quality, but overall service.

STORIES ABOUND of Japanese machine tool makers, for instance, who, upon learning one of their customer's machines has broken down, send out a wave of engineers to fix the problem.

"When the Japanese first entered the U.S. market in the 1970s, they basically started at square one, but because they served the customer first, offered quality products, and at competitive prices, they were able to make serious in-roads into domestic markets," Pisharodi said.

Further still, according to a recent study by Deloitte & Touche, one of the Big Six accounting firms, American companies are starting to view superior service as a potentially powerful weapon in their business arsenal. Over half of the 750 U.S. manufacturing executives who responded to the study — taking their lead from the success of overseas competitors — cited customer service as the new competitive battleground for the '90s.

"It's really customer service as a revolution," said Randall Miller, senior manager of management consulting at Deloitte & Touche in Detroit. "American companies are noting the success of the Japanese, incorporating that into their own operations, and then trying to take it another step."

As proof that customer service works, consider the recent success of Ford Motor Co. To develop the auto maker's popular Taurus and Sable models in the early '80s, design engineers asked more customers than ever to evaluate several prototypes. When evaluations revealed consumers were scuffing their shoes because rear seats lacked foot room, engineers sloped the floor underneath the front seats, widened the space between seat-adjustment tracks and made the tracks out of smooth plastic instead of metal.

THE RESULT? Because of these and other customer-driven innovations, the Taurus and Sable models continue to be among the best-selling nameplates in America. In turn, by turning an ear to consumers, Ford's U.S. market share, which had plummeted to 17.2 percent in 1980, is now at 23.5 percent.

As former Chairman Donald E. Peterson put it: "If we aren't customer-driven, our cars won't be either."

Other companies are also finding an urge to serve. Oakland Mall in Troy, recognizing the growing competitiveness of the retail market, began to incorporate more user-friendly services into the mall's day-to-day operations.

"With the introduction of so many malls and strip centers in the last 10 years, the customer has a lot more opportunity to shop in different places," said Douglass Mossman, a partner of Oakland Mall Ltd., which owns Oakland Mall.

"Faced with such an environment, we redoubled our efforts to serving the customer by undertaking a $6 million renovation of the mall and incorporating such amenities as valet parking, more information devices and reaching out to the surrounding communities."

In addition to building a new main entrance to the mall, replacing the ceiling, adding more skylights and upgrading promotions, the mall has also been raising money for college-bound students in the area who raise their grade point average.

THE TOWNSEND Hotel in Birmingham is encouraging all employees to take advantage of its food, wine and French classes as a way of providing guests with more efficient assistance.

"Since we opened in 1988, we felt the only way to survive as a first-class hotel in this area was to put a premium on customer service," said Kitty Adler, the hotel's director of marketing. "We invite our staff members to wear a lot of different hats, so if a guest calls down to the concierge for a bottle of wine, the concierge can offer a few suggestions without having to make another phone call."

In addition, Adler said employees are prepared to take service to the extreme. In one instance, a hotel concierge, upon learning an overnight guest had not been prepared to stay an extra day, took the guest's only set of clothes home, washed them and returned the garments by seven the next morning.

"I think to survive in any business, you have to be prepared to provide service and take that extra step," said Adler. "You have to understand how a customer feels if you're going to have any success in building trust and loyalty."

Auto industry's sexual attitudes have deep roots

Dan McCosh

What do women want?

I was reading one of those "how women aren't making it to top jobs in the auto industry" stories in Automotive News the other day, plowing along through the old cliches about Detroit clubbiness, the old-boy (as opposed to old-girl) networks, "institutional bias" and other worn-out cliches of job discrimination, when this question confronted me.

It doesn't take any great powers of observation to notice that there are few women top executives in heavy industry. A good deal of this is likely to be due to years of bias having its way.

Bias is a genuine phenomenon, and no doubt the auto industry has suffered its share of it. On the other hand, I've noticed that the domestic auto companies generally are run by men who have worked their way from something approximating blue-collar or middling white-collar origins, a marked contrast to the social elite who dominate the bulk of major corporations. Whether this ladder is as available as it once was is another question.

NONE OF the women executives in the story pointed out the obvious — that most of the work done in the auto industry is what used to be called men's work, unless, say, you were in the Soviet Union or on a Chinese commune.

Pouring steel, hot forging and running stamping presses are rather tough jobs, and on occasion involve physical danger and strain on the order of the front line in Iraq. Many of the people who do the work see it as a big improvement over, say working in an independent coal mine where they cut a few corners on the shoring timbers.

For better or worse, most of the men working these jobs feel as if one reason they are doing them is so that they can be sure no woman remotely related to them ever has to get that hot and dirty.

Maybe this doesn't have much to do with why executives get promoted, but the fact is that the male culture has deep roots, in that ultimately an executive has to lead the steel puddlers and hot-forge hammermen.

There also is the fact that cars are almost an all-male obsession. This is demonstrated by the number of women who subscribe to car magazines — which have fewer women readers than Playboy, Penthouse or Sports Illustrated. Tinkering with cars is a male rite of passage ranking only slightly behind asking a girl out to the senior prom.

This has significance in the auto business in that even the new women recruits in automotive engineering rarely spent their adolescence wrestling with the transmission in a 1963 Gremlin.

Those executives who misspent their youth tinkering with cars today are lauded as "car guys" (car persons?), as opposed to the disdainful "bean counter" or otherwise-denigrated bureaucrats who keep the "car guys" from building the cars they really want.

Is all this changing? Frankly, I don't know. Curiously, one of the most prominent women in the Detroit auto business — Meryl Sheriden, who founded Sheriden Industries to manufacture the heavy industrial machinery she invented while working as a machinist, passed away a few years ago with barely a notice.

Today, I have a daughter who is passably good at arc welding, and a son who is a better cook. In fact, I know one GM engineer who likes to work on her restored Porsche in her spare time.

None of this seems to be the makings of much of a shift in the macho base of an industry that melts steel and makes automobiles.

Local banks are among soundest

"They typically are prudent in lending activity during robust times. Then they're not going to have problems in bad times."

Michigan National, however, has been burned by some of its aggressive loans, both Puhr and Burger said.

Banking analysts use information from annual reports to evaluate banks. General rules of thumb and performance over time lead to conclusions.

"Return on assets should be 1 percent. It's exceptional if you get 1.2 and above," Puhr said. "Return on equity for a good commercial bank will be in the range of 16-18 percent."

A high percentage of non-performing assets (bad loans and foreclosed real estate) relative to the loan portfolio is bad news. And high doesn't necessarily mean high as most of us consider numerically high.

"ANYTHING BELOW 1½ percent would be considered acceptable," Burger said. "Above 1¼ becomes a cause for concern. The higher the percentage, the more detail work you should do . . . looking behind the figures. If you saw 3 percent, you're going to say, 'Wait a minute, what's going on?' "

Should people worry whether banks are healthy if their savings accounts and certificates of deposit are federally insured?

"Anyone can put their money in any bank, savings and loan and credit union in the country and sleep well because any time they want that money, they can have it," Moran said.

"Banks provide lubrication to keep the economy going. If they experience difficulty, they cease to operate. Of course, society loses easier credit and a payment system. But even those are esoteric fears. Someone else would always step in," Moran said.

There will be a cost to bank failures, said U.S. Sen. Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee.

"One way or another citizens are going to end up bearing some costs directly through lower (savings) interest rates or higher (service) fees, or indirectly through inflation or higher taxes."

It all depends who's bearing the costs — banks, themselves, or the government.

Next: A look at consumer issues.

'Banks provide lubrication to keep the economy going. If they experience difficulty, they cease to operate. Of course, society loses easier credit and a payment system. But even those are esoteric fears. Someone else would always step in.'

Customers star on karaoke night

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
staff writer

ART EMANUELE/staff photographer
Wayne Reynolds of Karaoke Showtime sings with customer Tina Sears of Garden City at Jimmy's Next Door in Westland.

"I've got all these virgins tonight!", exclaimed Wayne Reynolds. "This is great!"

Better known as Captain Wayne of Karaoke Showtime, Reynolds was referring to people who sang for the first time in public one Wednesday night at Jimmy's Next Door, a popular Westland nightclub.

"What's karaoke?" you ask. Well, it's popular songs with the lead vocals removed. Bar patrons choose from more than 600 songs in Reynolds' catalog, fill out a request slip, swill beer and wait for their turn at the microphone.

Reynolds believes he has tapped the mother lode of entertainment in the 1990s, seeing as how he works seven nights a week emceeing Karaoke Showtime in five Wayne County bars, after having started the business only last December.

TINA SEARS IS one of Reynolds' most vocal fans, literally. She follows him around to the various juke joints and sings almost every night. On a recent Wednesday in Jimmy's, she sang four times in the space of 2½ hours.

Sears discovered karaoke less than three months ago and has since been hooked. "I'd been wanting to sing in public, so it was perfect," she said. "Now I have to be here every night. It's an addiction. We're like (Wayne's) groupies."

Reynolds added, "(Tina) didn't even know she could sing. She blasts this place out."

Perhaps Reynolds' popularity among karaoke aficionados can be traced to his set-up, which he calls "the Cadillac of systems." The songs are recorded on videodiscs and accompanied by music videos fed to every television set in the bar. Each tune's lyrics appear on the bottom of the television screen to prevent embarrassment that can result when one forgets the words.

Reynolds said the hardest part of his job is getting "virgins" to sing for the first time. So it was with a woman who would only give her name as Darlene. Burying her head in Reynolds' shoulder, she repeatedly said she couldn't go on singing. Finally she fled. "I can sing," she said later. "I was just nervous."

ANOTHER WOMAN, Kim Rattray, left her husband and son at home to attend Karaoke Showtime. Despite Reynolds' public entreaties, Rattray refused to unlimber her mellifluous singing voice. "I sing in my car alone," she said. "I watch, but I don't sing. I can dance though."

Reynolds remembers another shy woman who could hardly get through her first number, but "by the third or fourth song, she was up there just like she'd been doing it all her life."

Helping the Stephenson High School graduate run the show are his devoted parents, Shirley and Don, who attend almost every night. But they don't sing. "Dad takes the equipment home and puts it in his basement," Reynolds said. "That's when he does it."

And as for Mom. "Wayne won't let me," she revealed. "I made a tape and he listened to it (and said), 'Mother, I don't think so.' "

Speaking of tapes, Reynolds sells 60-minute cassettes for $3 to patrons who want to record their performances. "You get some people who take this real seriously," he said. "I've got some real good singers, in this bar especially."

IN JIMMY'S, Reynolds said, the ersatz Sinatras and Streisands volunteer themselves to the extent that there are usually 100 requests to sing and only 65 spots in the four-hour format.

In other bars, however, it's a salesman's job to recruit wanna-be troubadours. "I basically harass them to get them up here (on stage)," Reynolds said. "I do. I harass the hell out of them."

Scott Burdom, who delivers bread to Jimmy's, was such a harassment candidate. "The first time we had to break his leg to get him up there," said bar owner Jimmy Capeneka. Burdom added, "If the bread man can do it, anyone can." Putting his singing voice where his mouth is, the bread man eschewed David Gates to perform "Time of the Season," originally recorded by the Zombies.

Steve Valentini, in only his second karaoke performance, cracked the crowd up with his version of Bobby McFerrin's "Don't Worry Be Happy."

"You've got to be loose as a goose," he said. "This is too much fun for one person."

REYNOLDS, WHO formerly piloted a charter boat in Florida, sings quite a bit himself. He got half the audience to its feet, flicking their Bics, when doing his paean to "the troops," singing "America the Beautiful" and Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the U.S.A."

The tribute segment is so popular, he said, that "if I don't do it by midnight, people are coming up to me saying, 'When are you going to do it?' "

Although there are other karaoke shows in the Detroit area, Reynolds and his regulars say his show is tops. "Wayne has more stuff," Debbi Etzler detailed. "He does it better. He has personality."

Tossed in Reynolds, "Naturally I've got the best show. But I can't blow my own horn. I'll let other people do that."

Jimmy the bar owner might agree. "Wayne has tripled my Wednesdays," he said.

Reynolds stages Karaoke Showtime at Jimmy's Next Door every Monday and Wednesday night. Sundays and Tuesdays find him at Chatters, also in Westland. Thursdays he services Melons in Lincoln Park. Fridays he is at Uncle Louie's in Redford Township. Saturdays he is at Drinks Saloon at Gibralter and Jefferson.

● MUSICAL HIT

"Dames At Sea," a bouncy, bubbly romantic musical voyage opens a five-week engagement at the Birmingham Theatre April 2 through May 5. A lovable spoof of the 1930s movie musicals awash with a small-town, stagestruck dancer, a songwriting sailor, jealous star, tap-dancing chorus girls and wisecracking sidekicks, this delightful show encompasses all of the cliches, the glitz and glitter of an oldtime Busby Berkeley extravaganza. "Dames At Sea" opened in New York in late 1968 and ran for a remarkable 17 months. Seniors 60 or older may purchase Tuesday evening tickets for $14.50. Discount is not valid with any other discount. Tickets are available at the Birmingham Theatre Box Office (313) 644-3533 and at all Ticketmaster Outlets.

● PLAYGOING CLASS

The Informed Theatergoer, a four-week playgoing class led by local critic Kenneth Jones, begins April 15 and is sponsored by Southfield Public Schools Community Education. Designed to help theatergoers approach theater in a more critical manner, the class emphasizes discussion of content vs. presentation. Students are required to attend three assigned productions at their own expense. The Informed Theatergoer runs Mondays, 7-9:30 p.m., April 15-May 6 at Southfield-Lathrup High School. Enrollment cost is $24 and registration is required. For details call 746-8700, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday-Friday.

● MOVIE SEQUEL

New Line Cinema's new film release, "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles II: The Secret of the Ooze," will be screened at a benefit premiere for Cystic Fibrosis at the Showcase Cinemas in Pontiac on Thursday, March 21 at 7 p.m. Tickets are $8, and can be purchased at all Ticket Master outlets, by calling (313) 354-6565, or by sending a check or money order to Cystic Fibrosis/Turtles, P.O. ● 'PATENT LEATHER'

The Village Players of Birmingham presents the ever popular "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" This is a classic musical satire of Catholic school education. Sinfully fun and full of heavenly music, it is one of the longest running hits in Chicago theater history. The show times are March 22, 23, 24, 27, 28 and April 5 and 6. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. March 24 is a Sunday Brunch/Matinee at 12:30. Tickets are available at the door, but reservations are recommended. Adult tickets are $9; student tickets are $7. Brunch/Matinee tickets are $18. Reservations may be made by calling 644-2075 anytime.

The ensembles, including a flute choir, brass choir and clarinet choir, will perform at Farmington area nursing homes during the month of March. Tickets for "Classics for Spring" will be available at the door for $3-adult, $2-student/senior, or $8 per family. For more information on this concert or other upcoming concerts, call 553-8919.

● IN COMEDY

The Players Guild of Dearborn's upcoming production of "Love, Sex, and the I.R.S." is a comical farce of mistaken identities, mismatched romances, and misconstrued exploits. Adding to the confusion is the fact that two men are dating the same girl, Kate Dennis (Julie Smith Yolles) of Birmingham. "Love, Sex, and the I.R.S." continues Thursday-Saturday, March 14-16. All performances are at 8 p.m. or matinee which is at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $7 if paid in advance and $8 at the door. A special student rate also is available. For reservations or ticket information, call the Guild ticket line at 561-TKTS.

● TWIN SINGERS

Players party in Porter revue

Performances of the Troy Players production of "Red, Hot and Cole" continue through Saturday at the Troy Community Center. For ticket information call 879-1285.

By Sally Dubats
special writer

Cole Porter often gave parties for his friends, writing songs for them and making each friend feel special. Many of his post-World-War I, Broadway smashes were the result of those parties.

The Troy Players musical presentation of "Red, Hot and Cole," which simulates a lavish Porter party, successfully lures audience members into the festivities.

Bill Hellebuyck presents a likable, wise-cracking Cole Porter, with a warm voice well suited to the 1930s Porter-style sophisticates. Hellebuyck, in white tails throughout, is equally comfortable while crooning or spewing forth facts about Porter's life and lifestyle.

Porter's mate, Linda, is portrayed by Lori Murphy who has a beautiful soprano voice, perfect for the romanticism of "In the Still of the Night." Her forte, however, is definitely soprano. Some of the earthier Porter melodies she sings require more range and volume.

As the party progresses, Porter's many friends are introduced to tell his story through the magic of his music and an ambiance of elegance. Sharon Parrott does a wonderful job in the dual roles of Elsa Maxwell and Ethel Merman. As Merman, Parrott belts out a myriad of fun songs with zeal and confidence.

EQUALLY DYNAMIC is Eileen Kent as Bricktop, the sexy, feisty owner of a Parisian cafe Cole and Linda Porter frequented. The grand piano on stage (complete with candelabra) is most appreciated when Kent sings a smoky number, wearing a feather boa.

Porter, more than any other musical comedy composer, loved the witty use of words in his lyrics. John White as party guest Monty Woolley is the epitome of that quirky wit and comedy during his rendition of "Miss Otis Regrets." Stephanie Wingate puts forth a whimsical Irene Castle while cooing "My Heart Belongs to Daddy."

A very special and romantic moment in the production is a performance of "Begin the Beguine." Porters's longest (108 measures as compared to the usual 32) and probably most famous song. Specialty dancers Simone and Richard are fluid and lithe doing the rumba — a dance sadly lost in the harsh era of rock.

Director Connie Patrick has chosen fine leads for this slick production, but some of her supporting cast cannot keep up with the top talent. Many times dialogue fails to provide the festive backdrop, where it should enhance and add to the excitement. Although Patrick's direction does create many attractive pictures, improved by Denice Spicer's beautiful set design, the chorus sometimes looks like a chorus rather than an assemblage of guests mingling at a party.

Musical director and on-stage pianist Margaret Wunschl does put romance into the evening with a quality intepretation of Porter's music, but she could have produced better results from the chorus had she not been burdened with both jobs.

CHOREOGRAPHED BY Nancy Carol Passalacqua, "Red, Hot and Cole" certainly has a lot of spice in the group numbers, with tap dancing and the Charleston providing exclamation points of interest.

With classic tunes such as "I Love Paris," "Anything Goes" and "Just One of Those Things," a hit would almost be expected, but an effective display of slides also makes this a touching tribute to one of America's most-commemorated musical comedy composers.

'Man of La Mancha' shines

Performances of the the Ridgedale Players production of "Man of La Mancha" continue through Sunday, March 24, at the playhouse in Troy. For ticket information, call 644-8328.

The Ridgedale Players production of Dale Wasserman's "Man of La Mancha" is powerful and moving. Directed by Robin Martin Kearney and assistant Julie West, the seasoned troupe (moving into its 60th year) does credit to one of America's finest musicals.

Thomas J. Murphy turns in a brilliant performance as Miguel de Cervantes/Don Quixote/Alonso Quijana. Murphy moves through the complexities of the plot without a hitch. He manages to give us the poet Cervantes, jailed by the Spanish Inquisition, then, applying a bit of makeup, turns himself into Don Quixote, the wandering knight.

The entire play takes place in the common room of a stone dungeon, yet Murphy manages to make the audience believe we are watching Quixote engage in battle with a windmill. He makes us believe innkeepers are lords of castles, whores are great ladies and rough muleteers are worthy enemies. Murphy understands Cervantes' vision of grace as the factor that enables us to rise above the level of animals.

Grace is the quality Cervantes/Quixote/Quijana share, and for a while, as the prisoners become involved in playing different parts, they (and we) recognize the fact that generosity of heart can transform the landscape. Murphy's rendition of "The Impossible Dream" takes us to the core of the play.

PEGGY JONES is very strong as Aldonza/Dulcinea, the kitchen slave/whore whom Quixote transforms into the Ludy Dulcinea. Jones has a wonderful voice and handles the vexation of "What Does He Want of Me?" and the anger of "Aldonza" equally well. Dulcinea, Quixote's only real convert, moves beautifully from strumpet to the lady she becomes at Squire Quijana's bedside.

Dave Sikkelee as Sancho Panza has a marvelous voice. The sweetness of tone we hear in "I Like Him" and "The Missive" echoes the faithfulness of Sancho Panza, the manservant who would rather be out adventuring on the road. Sikkelee stays beautifully consistent.

Bill Glace is very funny as the unshaven prisoner who takes on the role of Padre. Glace subtly transforms himself into a padre who delivers a sonorous rendition of the Latin "Psalm" at Squire Quijana's bedside. He is dignified and the soul of kindness as he writes Quijana's will.

Patrick Barnard shines as the Governor/Innkeeper, an exasperated fellow with a soft heart for the "mad knight." Jim Patton is equally fine as the barber who allows his shaving bowl to be mistaken for "The Golden Helmet of Mambrino." Mark Carley is fine as the "sane" Duke/Dr. Carrasco.

The Five Muleteers — Tom D. Coffey, Kevin Carden, Jonathan Dykzxeul, Jim Roberts and Stu Pinsky — lend strong support as toughs, rapists, boors, Moors, prisoners and Knights of the Mirrors.

MARY ELIZABETH Lanesky, Denise E. Kasnec and Katherine L. Jensen are amusing as Quijana's niece and housekeeper and the innkeeper's wife. Mary Dignard and Rio-than I. Gerdan are graceful horses, and Dawn Hooper screams long and loud as the prisoner who is taken away. Chick Ray is frightening as the Captain of the Inquisition.

Kudos to the orchestra: Kathy Zuziak on piano, Dan Gardner on guitar and synthesizer, Eric Shea on drums and Diane Michalski on cello. No one missed a note.

Helen Zucker has many years' experience reviewing for newspapers and magazines in Michigan, New York and Massachusetts.

See William of Orange's palace in Gelderland

By Iris Sanderson Jones
special writer

The people of Apeldoorn were outraged when the government stripped the white stucco surface from Het Loo and returned "their palace" to its 17th century splendor, but William and Mary would have been delighted. Het Loo, which means "open space in the woods," looks now exactly as it did when William of Orange built it as a hunting lodge in 1685.

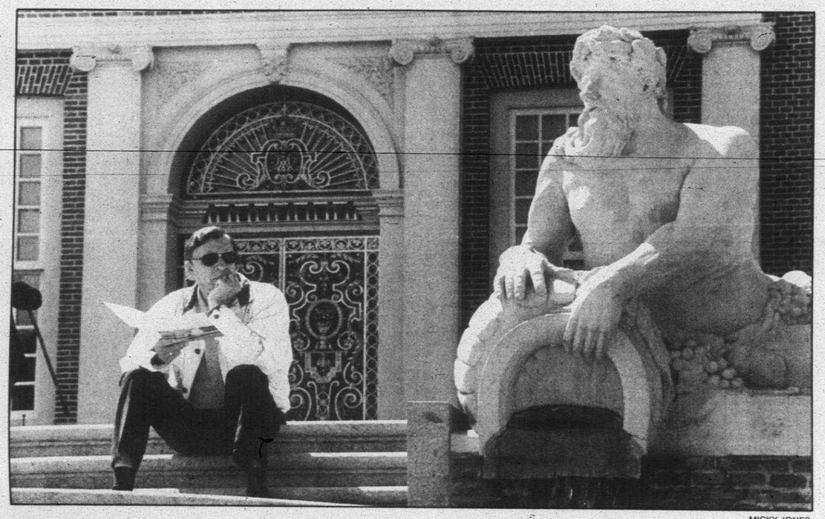
The royal woods are still there too, full of red deer and wild boar, but the woods have several 20th century touches. The extravagant hunting lodge built by a Mr. and Mrs. Kroller-Muller in 1920 is still there.

The stunning Kroller-Muller art museum and sculpture garden is a national treasure. And Netherlanders regularly walk or bike the network of paths through the country's largest nature preserve. Sometimes they use the hundreds of "white bikes" left in the National Park de Hoge Veluwe for their free use.

Het Loo and Apeldoorn are at the north end of the national park. The 17th century has also been restored at the south end, near Arnhem, where community-minded Gelderlanders established an open-air museum to preserve the 17th and 18th century traditions disappearing from Dutch life.

I call the Netherlands Open-Air Museum the Greenfield Village of Holland, although it was built in 1912, long before Henry Ford built his museum in Dearborn.

The site of all this old and new Dutch life is the province of Gelderland, specifically the area known as the Veluwe. Put your finger in the dead center of the Netherlands, two hours east of Amsterdam, where the map sports a large green and purple splotch. Those colors represent the woodlands and heather-covered heath of the Veluwe.



MICKY JONES

A tourist sits on the steps of the Het Loo palace in the Netherlands and contemplates his guide book as a big statue contemplates the tourist. William of Orange built the Het Loo as a hunting lodge in 1685.

Veluwe means "poor soil." Science says that glaciers pushed mounds of sand across Gelderland, but I prefer the Dutch version: Giants dumped sand out of their clogs while walking through.

The Veluwe has been known for its woodlands and sheep-pasturing vative ape sanctuary in Apeldoorn.

They also go to frolic on the grand sand beaches left around inland lakes when the Dutch turned sea into land beside the old Zuider Zee. The Dutch didn't invent dikes, but they may be the only people in the world who can create a new province out of the sea!

"Gelderland is one of 11, pardon me, 12 provinces of the Netherlands. It's hard to keep track." That was Gonnie Sobkowiak, pronounced "coney" with a guttural C. North and south Holland are two of the 12 provinces, which is why the Netherlands are often nicknamed Holland.

Gonnie was walking with us through the Netherlands Open-Air Museum, a pleasant and informative way to explore the life of all the Dutch regions. We walked across wooden bridges, down gabled streets, into the kind of sod farmhouse where Vincent Van Gogh was born, through the paper mill and were on our way to lunch when I stopped dead in my tracks.

There was a windmill exactly like De Zwaan, which stands on Windmill Island in Holland, Mich. No surprise to the well informed. The Reverend Albertus van Raalte left Arnhem in 1846 to establish Holland, Mich.

Arnhem was still a medieval city then, but it's a modern city now thanks to the destruction wrought during World War II. If you saw the movie "A Bridge Too Far," you saw the battle of Arnhem. Many refugees spent 100 days in the relative sanctuary of the Open-Air Museum during the battle.

The museum shows how ordinary people lived while the royal family was retreating over the centuries to the Het Loo Palace in Apeldoorn, 27 kilometers north. If the kings called William confuse you, this William of

It's not hunting that attracts most people. The Dutch go to bike, jog and play in the royal woods, to tour the palaces, museums and other attractions, such as the Apenheul, an innoheath for centuries. The area was described by a 17th century Englishman as "one of the best hunting Countrys in ye World but good for Little else."

Orange married Mary Stuart, became King of England and planted the protestants in Ireland. It was this William and Mary they named the college after in Williamsburg, Va.

One William succeeded another until Napoleon changed the map of Europe and planted his son Louis on the Dutch throne. Louis only hunted at Het Loo Palace for four years, but he made a lot of changes, including plastering the red brick palace with a stylish white.

When he left, the Dutch reinstated the monarchy, who used Het Loo until Queen Wilhemena, who abdicated in 1948, died in 1962. Then the royal family gave the estate to the government. It took years, and millions of dollars, to restore the palace and grounds, but there it is in all its splendor.

Het Loo includes a three-story main building, the wing where they kept the royal horses and now show the royal carriages, and the sculptured formal gardens. The royal family uses a smaller palace next door for vacations. Princess Margriet, born in Canada during World War II, lives with her family in a modern house beyond the grounds.

The royal hunting grounds, 25,000 acres around Apeldoorn, are also open to the public. You can follow gamekeepers down wildlife trails to observation huts or just wander or bike at your leisure. The government has preserved all these woodlands, so you will also find Park Berg en Bos at the edge of town with its lakes and woods. A highlight is the Apenheul, where 250 apes roam free in an innovative zoo setting.

If you have already seen the streets of Amsterdam, this small stretch of Gelderland is a wonderful way to spend a few days exploring lesser-known attractions, as well as biking or walking off some of those pounds you've gained touring Europe.

reader's report

My sister, brother and I were looking for someplace different to spend spring break last year. We were tired of sunny Florida, and Australia was too "down under" and expensive, so we found a very low air fare to London and spent a week there.

Fares are even lower this year because so many people have canceled their trips to Europe.

Walking around downtown London is like stepping back in time. There are many prestigious and historic buildings that surround well-cleaned, narrow cobblestone streets.

We saw all the traditional sights: Big Ben, next to the Houses of Parliament, the London Tower Bridge that crosses over the Thames River, the London Tower where we saw the majestic crown jewels, Buckingham Palace for the traditional "changing of the guard," Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral where Lady Diana and Prince Charles were married.

We also visited the exciting Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum and the spooky London Dungeon.

If you like to shop, make sure you don't miss Harrod's, England's largest department store, where you could spend a week and still not cover every department and floor thoroughly.

For a quiet getaway from the downtown hustle and bustle, we stopped at Kensington Gardens, Hyde Park and Green Park. All three are surrounded by office buildings and highways. Yet ironically, they still offer plenty of green trees, blue lakes and peaceful tranquility.

We also went to the Royal Botanical Gardens just outside London. This place was absolutely breathtaking. Plants, trees, shrubs and flowers of every imaginable kind can be found there.

The world's largest conservatory, built in the Victorian age, is the centerpiece of the gardens. Walking through the magnificent conservatory is like walking into a tropical rain forest, complete with waterfalls and towering jungle plants.

We spent some of our time on day trips outside London. We took a train to Leeds Castle, about 90 minutes from London. The ride was an excellent way to see more of the beautiful English countryside.

This castle is surrounded by a crystal-clear moat. A garden maze, grotto, garden and aviary are also on the grounds.

On another day, we took a train from historic Victoria Station to the elegant Windsor Castle. The castle is only 30 minutes away, so it's very convenient if you're pressed for time.

We spent a week at my sister's house in Grosswallstadt, a picturesque small town on the River Main, an hour's drive from Frankfurt. Then we visited my mother in Augsburg before boarding a Dornberger bus for a four-day round trip to Berlin.

Crossing the border into East Germany, several fellow travelers recalled previous trips to the East during the "bad old days." It wasn't unusual for Vopos (East German police) to remove car seats and rip up trunks during frantic searches for contraband and possible escapees.

Soon we were on "the other side." Huge fields, belonging to "Kilkhoz," a government-owned collective farm, spread across the countryside. The East German villages looked gray and neglected, a stark contrast to the clean white fronts of West Germany.

"They had no paint for 40 years," our driver Michael Wartenberger quipped as he slowed the bus. The posted speed limit was 60 kilometers, about 40 miles per hour. Unaware of the bad road conditions, West Germans speeding east at 100 miles per hour were causing a tremendous number of accidents.

We encountered a huge traffic jam 160 miles from Berlin. Due to the government's eagerness for immediate improvements, West and East German companies were busily tearing up concrete blocks in a joint effort to upgrade the eastern Autobahn.

At the Berliner Ring, the outskirts of free Berlin, we saw the Berliner Funkturn (radio tower). Nicknamed "der lange Lulatsch" (the tall klutz), it was built in 1924. Passing through Grunewald, we arrived at the Hotel Econtel in Charlottenburg.

The next day we toured East Berlin. Driving through the deserted American border crossing Checkpoint Charlie, we traveled the famous "Under the Linden," toward Clara Zetkin Strasse and the Pergamon Museum. In front of the museum flows the River Spree, known for many escape attempts during the years of division.

In the evening my daughter and I set out on our own to visit the western side of the Brandenburg. Covered by scaffolding during renovation, the gate is barely visible. Although we saw few tourists, vendors still hustled pieces of the original wall, uniforms, hats, flags and other East German and Soviet military memorabilia.

Elisabeth labored with an iron bar to chop her very own piece off the wall. I studied the memorial plates and thought of my schoolmate Philip who lost his life helping East Germans escape.

Our flight back to the United States was smooth, and as the plane touched down in Detroit I hugged my daughter. "Honey, we're here. We're home." She looked at me and frowned. "But Mom! That's what you said when we landed in Frankfurt." I hugged her again. It's hard to explain how some borders cut right through the center of our hearts.

People go to view the region's 1,200 grottos, 25 of which were adorned by Cro-Magnon man during the 40,000 years he inhabited the Dordogne Valley. They also go to see vestiges of Gallo-Roman civilization, medieval chateaux-forts and the treasures of Romanesque, Gothic and Renaissance art. They linger to savor the beauty of the landscape and the superb gastronomy.

Restaurants, stores and open-air markets offer strawberries, cepes-mushrooms, prunes d'Agen, walnut oil, duck and goose liver and the most expensive of all gourmet foods: truffles, called "black diamonds," which sell for as much as $200 a pound.

The wines of Dordogne, part of the Bordeaux family of wines, are an excellent complement to regional fare, especially to "foie gras" or goose liver.

A good base for your touring is the town of Les Eyzies-de-Tayac, pronounced lay-zay-zee, which is close to Lascaux and has been called "the cradle of prehistory."

During our various visits to Les Eyzies we stayed at three different hotels that we highly recommend. In peak season, you sometimes must pledge to have dinner in the hotel restaurant to get accommodations.

The Centenaire, an efficient family business a stone's throw from the museum, has now outdistanced the other top hotel, the Cro-Magnon, and offers room televisions, a park, swimming pool and fitness room. The cuisine is superb, renowned and, as the French say, "worthy of a detour."

We personally enjoyed the fare in the second, less expensive hotel just as much. Les Glycines is an old manor on the river with personalized comfort and period furniture dating back to 1862. The memorable food included foie gras, brook trout in prune sauce, escalope of salmon, pot-au-feu and a variety of dishes with cepes-mushroom.

The third hotel, Moulin de Beaune, is a recently renovated, impeccably clean, old mill with a pleasant garden and modern, somewhat austere white-walled bedrooms. It lacks room televisions and has room service only at breakfast. You can get a completely adequate meal next door at Hotel de France et Auberge du Musee, which features, at moderate prices, specialties of the Old Perigord.

Calorie-conscious travelers can find their way through local specialties by ordering poached or boiled fish, which traditionally comes with boiled potatoes, or the outstanding French soup. Stay away from fat and heavy cassoulets and "confits d'oie ou de canard" even if their geese and duck ingredients are a symbol of the area.

reader's report

When I first heard the Berlin wall was coming down, I sat on the living room carpet of my home in Birmingham and cried. Aware of the concerned stares of my children, there was no way I could tell these two all-American kids how I felt at that moment.

They weren't there on the morning of Aug. 13, 1961 when I walked off the train in my German hometown of Augsburg into throngs of people waving newspapers, wiping away tears of anger and shouting "The Communists are building a wall in Berlin. They're actually building a damn wall across the city."

My kids weren't there when I heard that my classmate Philip had been shot and killed at the wall. I'm glad my kids weren't there . . . and yet, I want them to know about Germany, where it has been, where it is and where it might be going.

To witness the changes taking place, I returned to Germany last summer with my daughter Elisabeth, 12. As we descended into Frankfurt at 5 a.m. my eyes grew moist and I reached for my daughter's hand, "We're here honey. We're home."

Local author reveals favorite locales in French countryside

We asked Monique Wagner of Birmingham, author of "From Gaul to De Gaulle, An Outline of French Civilization," to tell us about her favorite haunts in France. Wagner, a specialist in French literature and civilization, is a professor in the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures at Wayne State University.

Her book, described as a "travel companion to sophisticated visitors of France," was published in 1989 by Peter Lang Publishing, New York, as part of the American University Studies series. It has been nominated for the Pinkney Prize for the best book on French history, to be awarded this month by the Society for French Historical Studies.

Wagner was born in Poland, educated in France and has lived in Birmingham with husband Stefan for 30 years. She holds a French "baccalaureat," an M.A. from Wayne State University and a Ph.D from Columbia University. The French government has awarded her the Chevalier des Palmes Academique for her work.

She and her husband spend several months each year exploring France. "The three French regions closest to my heart are the Loire Valley, Burgundy and the South-West," she said.

In the accompanying article, Wagner gives us a taste of an area that chefs know as truffle-country.

This bewiskered old Frenchman examines a truffle, a.k.a. black diamonds for their price of $200 a pound. They grow on the roots of certain trees in the area of France known as either Dordogne or Perigord.

The most popular tourist itineraries in France lead west from Paris to the Loire Valley and south to the Mediterranean by way of the Autoroute due Midi. The Midi is attracting more and more attention, especially the South-West. The ancient name of Aquitaine was restored to that area recently when France was newly divided into regions.

This is the former domaine of Alienor d'Aquitaine, Queen of France as wife of Louis VII, and, after their divorce, Queen of England as wife of Henry II. You saw her in the film "Lion in Winter."

Tourists go to that portion of Aquitaine known interchangeably as Dordogne or Perigord. They go to explore Paleolithic man, especially the cave at Lascaux where prehistoric paintings were discovered by hiking schoolboys in 1940. Deterioration of the colors forced its closing in 1963, but an exact replica has been created a few hundred yards away.

European travel inexpensive in aftermath of Persian Gulf war

John Schroth of Redford has been thinking and worrying for several months about his planned trip to Europe this spring. He and his wife have been overseas several times, visiting family in Hungary and Romania and they were ready to go again in May.

They planned to fly to Frankfurt, Germany, rent a car and spend two weeks on the continent.

Then Desert Storm came along. They started asking questions. When will the war end? Should we still go to Europe? Is it safe to fly? Thousands of Americans asked themselves the same questions while European bookings slowed to a trickle and then stopped.

Iris Jones

An editorial in the London Times said "Americans are wimps!" They were not referring to our soldiers in Desert Storm, who have been lauded by the British. They were talking about our travelers, who were suddenly afraid to visit Europe, even though it was a couple thousand miles from the conflict.

John Schroth decided to put his plans on the back burner while continuing to explore potentially good buys. He had his eyes on Travel Charter International of Troy, which has scheduled weekly flights to Frankfurt on Condor, a subsidiary of Lufthansa, the German airline. (Travel Charter also flies American Trans Air to Amsterdam and London).

Their rates were good, and in January they got better. That's when British Airways decided to dramatically lower its rates to London. A few days later, Northwest announced the best rates I have seen

Mesaba Aviation plans Detroit-Canada air link

Mesaba Aviation Inc., which operates as Northwest Airlink, has filed applications with the U.S. and Canadian governments for authority to provide service from Detroit to London and Hamilton, Ontario.

Mesaba was recently granted an amendment to its Canadian operating certificate that allows for the operation of scheduled airline service in Canada. Since 1987, Mesaba has operated non-scheduled charter service between the U.S. and Canada.

In its application to the National Transportation Agency of Canada and the U.S. Department of Transportation, the regional carrier filed for approval to provide daily non-stop service between Detroit and London and between Detroit and Hamilton.

Mesaba officials said that route approval could be granted this spring, at which time the airline would release additional details of its planned service.

Mesaba hopes to begin service as early as this summer to London, Ontario. Hamilton could be added later in the year, the airline said.

Mesaba currently provides scheduled airline service to 34 cities in 10 states.

for years to Europe. Those British Airways and Northwest rates were both deadlined March 15, so John decided to act.

When the war ended he picked up the phone and made his booking on Northwest Airlines, Detroit to Frankfurt, in May. Now that he has a fabulous air fare, he's shopping for a fabulous rate on a rental car.

"Last time I paid $900 for two weeks because I didn't shop around," John said. That's the big financial mistake of travel: not shopping around.

John is shopping for hotel rates too. Several European hotels are so hungry that they are offering "pound for dollar" rates. That means if a hotel charges 100 English pounds a night (roughly $200) you get it for $100.

There will be a lot of great bargains for travelers to Europe this spring. Keep your eyes and ears open. Send me a postcard with your best buys, to Europe or within the United States. Send it to 23000 Springbrook, Suite 206 C, Farmington Hills, MI 48336.

Geneva Wedding

Daniel Fitzgerald and Jonnie Leverette of Novi planned a European wedding ceremony with the romantic intent of eloping to Switzerland. That was in a letter I received from Daniel's sister Dawne Fitzgerald, who lives in Luxembourg.

The half hour ceremony took place in the Hotel de Ville, the city hall in the heart of Geneva, which displayed its 16th century charms. The founding signatures of the International Red Cross by the Geneva Convention of 1864 can be found in this building.

We were ushered into the wedding room and seated at a gleaming cherry wood table, surrounded by life-size murals, a marble fireplace, a massive mirror and a bouquet of peach roses. It was truly a special place to be wed.

The ceremony was completed in 20 minutes, with the signing of the marital decree by all involved. A formal reading of the document in French reminded us of, our whereabouts!

We spent the next two hours exploring Geneva, including a park where 20 Asian tourists photographed themselves one by one with the bride and groom.

"Geneva is a truly international city, especially the old town, with its well-preserved medieval charm. A musical carousel provides a big thrill for small children.

"We climbed the North Tower of Cathedrale St-Pierre for a terrific view of the old city, the Alps and Lake Geneva. On the picturesque waterfront, popular sights are the beautiful flowers of the Jardin Anglais, and the world's tallest fountain, the Jet d'Eau. Cruises are available, ranging from one to 12 hours.

"The bridal couple chose the Hotel Excelsior, with its marble floors and exquisite parlor overlooking Lake Geneva. Don't ever let it be said that dreams can't come true, because I for one can attest to being part of one."

SOME OF THE BEST MANAGERS IN THE WORLD HAVE DIABETES.

Controlling glucose levels is the management challenge of a lifetime.
There are blood tests to conduct, exercise routines to plan, and special meals to prepare.
And for nearly one million Americans with insulin-dependent diabetes, daily injections to administer.
Not to mention coping with the stress of knowing diabetes can lead to heart disease, kidney disease, and blindness.
For all the work they do, people with diabetes deserve more than a pat on the back. They deserve a cure.

Minutes of a regular meeting of the City Commission of the City of Plymouth, held in the City Hall at 201 South Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan, on Monday, February 4, 1991, at 7:30 p.m.
PRESENT: Mayor Dennis Bila, Commissioners Ralph Kenyon, Mary Childs, Ronald Loiselle, James Jabara, John Vos, III, Jerry Vorva.

The following resolution was offered by Commissioner Ron Loiselle and supported by Commissioner Ralph Kenyon:

WHEREAS, the City of Plymouth (the "City") owns and operates a sanitary sewer system outletting to the Rouge Valley Sewage Disposal System, tributary to the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department, Interceptor System and Wastewater Treatment Plant;

WHEREAS, the Department of Natural Resources of the State of Michigan and the Water Resources Commission created and existing pursuant to Act No. 245, Public Acts of Michigan, 1929, as amended, have entered a Final Order of Abatement dated September 8, 1988 (the "MDNR/WRC Order") in proceedings entitled "In the Matter of Abatement of Water Pollution - City of Plymouth" (Final Order No. 2095; WRC No. NC-04-89-01-008D), to which the City previously consented and which is binding on the City;

2. Necessity; Approval of Plans and Specifications. The City Commission hereby determines that it is advisable and necessary, in order to comply with the MDNR/WRC Order and to prevent or limit pollution of the environment, and it is a public purpose of the City, to undertake and complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by the City Engineer, which plans and specifications are hereby approved.

3. Costs; Period of Usefulness. The total cost to the City of the Project, exclusive of available governmental grant moneys dedicated to the Project, is estimated to be $400,000, including the payment of incidental expenses as specified in Section 4 of this Resolution, and the period of usefulness of the Project is estimated to be not less than 15 years. Such estimates were made by Kenneth K. West, P.E., the City Engineer, and are hereby adopted and confirmed.

4. Payment of Costs; Bonds Authorized. To pay the costs of the Project, including payment of legal, engineering, financial and other expenses incident thereto and to the issuance and sale of the Series 1991 Bonds, the City shall borrow the sum of $400,000 and issue the Series 1991 Bonds therefor pursuant to Act 94. The remaining costs of the Project, if any, shall be defrayed from City funds on hand and legally available for such use.

5. Bond Details; Issuance in Series; Registration and Execution. The Series 1991 Bonds shall (a) be designated "1991 SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM REVENUE BONDS (LIMITED TAX GENERAL OBLIGATION)," (b) be payable out of the Net Revenues as set forth more fully in Section 7 of this Resolution, (c) be issued as fully registered bonds without coupons in the denominations of $5,000, or integral multiples of $5,000 not exceeding in any one year the amount maturing in the year, (d) bear an Original Issuance Date of February 1, 1991, (e) be lettered "R" and numbered consecutively in order of registration from 1 upward and (f) mature on February 1 in the years and principal amounts as follows:

The Series 1991 Bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates to be determined on public sale thereof, not exceeding 10% per annum, payable on August 1 and February 1 of each year, commencing August 1, 1991, by check or draft drawn on First of America Bank - Southeast Michigan, N.A., as transfer agent, or any successor transfer agent as may be named by the City Manager (which successor transfer agent may be any bank or trust company permitted by law to offer and offering the necessary services pertaining to the payment, authentication, registration, transfer and exchange of the Series 1991 Bonds) and mailed to the person or entity which is, as of the 15th day of the month preceding the interest payment date, the registered owner at the registered address as shown on the registration books of the City maintained by the transfer agent. The date of determination of registered owner for purposes of payment of interest as provided in this paragraph may be changed by the City to conform to market practice in the future. The principal of the Series 1991 Bonds shall be payable at the designated office of the transfer agent. The Series 1991 Bonds shall be sold at not less than 98% of their par value.

The Series 1991 Bonds or portions thereof maturing on or after February 1, 2002 shall be subject to redemption prior to maturity at the times and prices and in the manner and with notice as set forth in the form of the Series 1991 Bonds in Section 19 of this Resolution.

In case less than the full amount of an outstanding Bond is called for redemption, the transfer agent upon presentation of the Bond called in part for redemption shall register, authenticate and deliver to the registered owner a new bond in the principal amount of the portion of the original bond not called for redemption. Notice of redemption shall be given in the manner specified in the form of the Series 1991 Bonds contained in Section 19 of this Resolution.

The Series 1991 Bonds shall be executed for and in the name of the City by the facsimile signatures of the Mayor and the City Clerk and shall have a facsimile of the City's seal imprinted thereon. No Bond shall be valid until authenticated by an authorized signer of the transfer agent. The Bonds shall be delivered to the transfer agent for authentication and be delivered by the transfer agent to the purchaser in accordance with instructions from the City Treasurer upon payment of the purchase price for the Bonds in accordance with the bid therefor when accepted. Executed blank bonds for registration and issuance to transferees shall simultaneously, and from time to time thereafter as necessary, be delivered to the transfer agent for safekeeping.

6. Registration and Transfer. Any Bond may be transferred upon the books required to be kept pursuant to this Section 6 by the person in whose name it is registered, in person or by his duly authorized attorney, upon surrender of the Bond for cancellation, accompanied by delivery of a duly executed written instrument of transfer satisfactory to the transfer agent. Whenever any Bond or Bonds shall be surrendered for transfer, the transfer agent shall authenticate and deliver a new Bond or Bonds, registered in the name of the transferee, of any authorized denomination or denominations, in a like aggregate principal amount, of the same maturity and bearing interest at the same rate. The transfer agent shall require payment by the bondholder requesting the transfer of any tax or other governmental charge required to be paid with respect to the transfer. All Bonds surrendered in any such transfer shall forthwith be cancelled by the transfer agent.

The transfer agent shall not be required (a) to issue, register the transfer of or exchange any Bond during the period beginning at the opening of business 15 days before the day of the giving of a notice of redemption of Bonds selected for redemption as described in the form of Series 1991 Bonds contained in Section 19 of this Resolution and ending at the close of business on the day of the giving of such notice, or (b) to register the transfer of or exchange any Bond so selected for redemption in whole or in part, except the unredeemed portion of Bonds being redeemed in part. The City shall give the transfer agent notice of call for redemption at least 20 days prior to the date notice of redemption is to be given.

The transfer agent shall keep or cause to be kept, at its principal office, sufficient books for the registration and transfer of the Bonds, which shall at all times be open to inspection by the City. Upon presentation for such purpose, the transfer agent shall, under such reasonable regulations as it may prescribe, transfer or cause to be transferred, on such books, Bonds as hereinbefore provided.

If any Bond shall become mutilated, at the expense of the owner of the Bond, the transfer agent shall authenticate and deliver a new Bond of like tenor in exchange and substitution for the mutilated Bond, upon surrender to the transfer agent of the mutilated Bond. If any Bond issued under this Resolution shall be lost, destroyed or stolen, evidence of the loss, destruction or theft may be submitted to the transfer agent and, if this evidence is satisfactory to the transfer agent and indemnity satisfactory to the transfer agent shall be given, and if all requirements of any applicable law (including Act No. 354, Public Acts of Michigan, 1972, as amended, being sections 129.131 through 129.135 of the Michigan Compiled Laws) have been met, at the expense of the owner, the transfer agent shall authenticate and deliver a new Bond of like tenor and bearing the statement required by such Act No. 354, or any applicable law hereafter enacted, in lieu of and in substitution for the Bond so lost, destroyed or stolen. If any such Bond shall have matured or shall be about to mature, instead of issuing a substitute Bond the transfer agent may pay the same without surrender thereof.

7. Payment of Series 1991 Bonds; Statutory Lien on Net Revenues. The Series 1991 Bonds and the interest thereon shall be payable from the Net Revenues, and to secure such payment there is hereby created a statutory lien upon the whole of the Net Revenues, which shall be a first lien to continue until: (A) payment in full of the principal of and interest on all Bonds payable from the Net Revenues; or (B) with respect to any particular series of Bonds, until there shall have been made an Irrevocable Deposit sufficient for payment in full of the principal of and interest on all Bonds of such series then outstanding either (i) to maturity or (ii) if any of such Bonds shall have been duly called for redemption or irrevocable instructions to call such Bonds for redemption shall have been given by the City to the transfer agent, to the date fixed for redemption, together with the amount of the redemption premium, if any. Upon the making of an Irrevocable Deposit with respect to any particular series of Bonds as provided in the preceding sentence: (a) the statutory lien shall be terminated with respect to that series of Bonds, (b) the owners of that series shall have no further rights under this Resolution except for payment from the Irrevocable Deposit and (c) the Bonds of that series shall no longer be considered to be outstanding under this Resolution.

8. Pledge of Full Faith and Credit (Limited Tax General Obligation). The principal of and interest on the Series 1991 Bonds are payable primarily from the moneys referred to in Section 7 hereof. Pursuant to the authorization provided in Section 7(3) of Act 94 in circumstances where, as here, such bonds are used to finance the local share of projects which receive more than 25% of financing from federal or state grants, as additional security for the payment of the Series 1991 Bonds the full faith and credit (limited tax general obligation) of the City is hereby pledged for the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on the Bonds as the same shall become due. If for any reason there are not sufficient funds on hand from the Net Revenues to pay the principal of and interest on the Bonds when due, the City Treasurer shall promptly deposit into the Redemption Fund the amount of such deficiency out of general funds of the City. If it becomes necessary for the City to so advance any such moneys, it shall be entitled to reimbursement from Net Revenues subsequently received which are not otherwise pledged or encumbered. The City recognizes and covenants that its full faith and credit pledge hereunder is a first budget obligation, and, to the extent necessary to provide funds to meet such pledge herein provided, it is obligated to levy ad valorem taxes against the taxable property in the City, which taxes, however, shall be subject to applicable constitutional, statutory and charter limitations.

9. Bondholders' Rights; Receiver. Owners of not less than 20% in aggregate principal amount of all Bonds then outstanding may, by suit, action, mandamus or other proceedings, protect and enforce the statutory lien upon the Net Revenues and enforce and compel performance of all duties of the officials of the City, including the fixing of sufficient rates, the collection of Revenues, the proper segregation of the Revenues of the System and the proper application thereof. The statutory lien upon the Net Revenues, however, shall not be construed in any manner to compel the sale of the System or any part thereof.

If there is a default in the payment of the principal of or interest on the Bonds, any court having jurisdiction in any proper action may appoint a receiver to administer and operate the System on behalf of the City and under the direction of the court, and by and with the approval of the court to perform all of the duties of the officials of the City more particularly set forth herein and in Act 94.

The owners of the Bonds shall have all other rights and remedies given by Act 94 and law, for the payment and enforcement of the Bonds and the security therefor.

10. Management; Fiscal Year. The operation, repair and management of the System and the carrying out of the Project shall continue to be under the supervision and control of the City Commission. The City Commission may employ such persons in such capacities as it deems advisable to carry on the efficient management and operation of the System. The City Commission may make such rules and regulations as it deems advisable and necessary to assure the efficient management and operation of the System. The System shall be operated on the basis of a fiscal year beginning on July 1 and ending on the following June 30.

11. Rates and Charges. The rates and charges for service furnished by and the use of the System and the methods of collection and enforcement of the collection of the rates and charges shall be those in effect on the date of adoption of this Resolution. The charges for water service which under Section 21 of Act 94 are made a lien on all premises served thereby, unless notice is given that a tenant is responsible, are hereby recognized to constitute such lien and whenever such charge against any piece of property shall be delinquent for six months the City official or officials in charge of the collection thereof shall certify annually, on April 1 of each year, to the tax assessing officer of the City, the fact of such delinquency, whereupon such charge shall be by him entered upon the next tax roll as a charge against such premises and shall be collected and the lien thereof enforced in the same manner as general City taxes against such premises are collected, and the lien thereof enforced; provided, however, where notice is given that a tenant is responsible for such charges and service as provided by such Section 21, no further service shall be rendered such premises until a cash deposit of not less than $50.00 shall have been made as security for payment of such charges and service.

12. No Free Service or Use. No free service or use of the System, or service or use of the System at less than cost, shall be furnished by the System to any person or entity, public or private, or to any public agency or instrumentality, including the City.

13. Fixing and Revising Rates; Continuing Rate Covenant. The rates now in effect or to be placed into effect prior to the sale of the Series 1991 Bonds are estimated to be sufficient to provide for the payment of the expenses of administration and operation and such expenses for maintenance of the System as are necessary to preserve the System in good repair and working order, to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on the Series 1991 Bonds as the same become due and payable, and the maintenance of the reserve therefor and to provide for all other obligations, expenditures and funds for the System required by law and this Resolution. In addition, it is agreed that the rates shall be set from time to time so that there shall be produced in each fiscal year Net Revenues in an amount equal to 100% of the principal of and interest on the Bonds coming due in each fiscal year. The rates shall be fixed and revised from time to time as may be necessary to produce these amounts, and it is hereby covenanted and agreed to fix and maintain rates for services furnished by the System at all times sufficient to provide for the foregoing.

14. Funds and Accounts; Flow of Funds. Commencing on March 1, 1991, all funds belonging to the System shall be transferred as herein indicated and all Revenues of the System shall be set aside as collected and credited to a fund to be designated CITY OF PLYMOUTH SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM RECEIVING FUND (the "Receiving Fund"). In addition, on March 1, 1991 all Revenues in any accounts of the System shall be transferred to the Receiving Fund and credited to the funds and accounts as provided in this Section 14. The Revenues credited to the Receiving Fund are pledged for the purpose of the following funds and shall be transferred or debited from the Receiving Fund periodically in the manner, at the times and in the order of priority hereinafter specified:

A. OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUND:

Out of the Revenues credited to the Receiving Fund there shall be first aside in, or credited to, a fund designated OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE FUND (the "Operation and Maintenance Fund") monthly a sum sufficient to provide for the payment of the next month's expenses of administration and operation of the System and such current expenses for the maintenance thereof as may be necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order.

A budget, showing in detail the estimated costs of administration, operation and maintenance of the System for the next ensuing operating year, shall be prepared by the City Commission at least 30 days prior to the commencement of each ensuing operating year. No payment shall be made to the City from moneys credited to the Operation and Maintenance Fund except for services directly rendered to the System by the City or its personnel.

B. BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND:

There shall be established and maintained a separate depository fund designated BOND AND INTEREST REDEMPTION FUND (the "Redemption Fund"), the moneys on deposit therein from time to time to be used solely for the purpose of paying the principal of, redemption premium (if any) and interest on the Bonds. The moneys in the Redemption Fund shall be kept on deposit with the bank or trust company where the principal of and interest on the Bonds, or any series thereof, are payable.

Out of the Revenues remaining in the Receiving Fund, after provision for the Operation and Maintenance Fund, there shall be set aside each month commencing March 1, 1991 in the Redemption Fund a sum proportionately sufficient to provide for the payment when due of the next due principal of and interest on the Bonds, less any amount in the Redemption Fund representing accrued interest paid by the original purchasers of the Bonds or investment income on amounts on deposit in the Redemption Fund (the "Credited Amount"). Subject to the Credited Amount, to the extent available: (1) commencing March 1, 1991, the amount set aside each month for interest on the Bonds shall be 1/5 of an amount equal to the total amount of interest on the Bonds next coming due; (2) commencing August 1, 1991, the amount set aside each month for interest on the Bonds shall be 1/6 of the total amount of interest on the Bonds next coming due; (3) commencing March 1, 1991, the amount set aside each month for principal shall be 1/11 of the amount of principal next coming due by maturity; and (4) commencing February 1, 1992, the amount set aside each month for principal shall be 1/12 of the amount of principal next coming due by maturity. If there is any deficiency in the amount previously set aside, that deficiency shall be added to the next succeeding monthly requirements. The amounts to be set aside for the payment of principal and interest on any date shall not exceed the amount which, when added to the money on deposit in the Redemption Fund, including investment income thereon, is necessary to pay principal and interest next due on the Bonds.

C. REPLACEMENT AND IMPROVEMENT FUND:

There shall next be established and maintained a fund designated REPLACEMENT AND IMPROVEMENT FUND (the "Replacement and Improvement Fund"), to be used for the purpose of making repairs and replacements to the System or for additions, improvements, enlargements or extensions to the System, including the planning thereof. On March 1, 1991 there shall be credited to the Replacement and Improvement Fund the sum of $400,000. Out of the Revenues and moneys of the System remaining in the Receiving Fund each month after provision has been made for the deposit of money in the Operation and Maintenance Fund and the Redemption Fund, there may be deposited in the Replacement and Improvement Fund such additional funds as the City Commission may deem advisable. If at any time it shall be necessary to use moneys in the Replacement and Improvement Fund for the purpose for which the Replacement and Improvement Fund was established, the moneys so used shall be replaced from any moneys in the Receiving Fund which are not required by this Resolution to be used for the Operation and Maintenance Fund or the Redemption Fund.

D. SURPLUS MONEYS:

Thereafter, any Revenues in the Receiving Fund after satisfying all the foregoing requirements of this Section 14 may, at the direction of the City, be used for any of the following purposes:

1. Transfer to the Replacement and Improvement Fund.
2. Transfer to the Redemption Fund and used for the purchase of Bonds on the open market at not more than the fair market value thereof or used to redeem Bonds prior to maturity pursuant to Section 5 of this Resolution.
3. Any other use permitted by law.

15. Priority of Funds. In the event the moneys in the Receiving Fund are insufficient to provide for the current requirements of the Operation and Maintenance Fund or the Redemption Fund, any moneys or securities in other funds of the System, except the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, shall be credited or transferred, first to the Operation and Maintenance Fund, and second to the Redemption Fund.

16. Depositary and Funds on Hand. Moneys in the several funds and the accounts established pursuant to this Resolution, except moneys in the Redemption Fund and moneys derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds, may be kept in one or more bank accounts at a bank or banks designated by resolution of the City Commission, and if kept in one bank account the moneys shall be allocated on the books and records of the City in the manner and at the times provided in this Resolution.

17. Investments. Moneys in the funds and accounts established pursuant to this Resolution and moneys derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds may be invested by the City in United States of America obligations or in obligations the principal of and interest on which is fully guaranteed by the United States of America and any investments hereafter permitted by law, and moneys derived from the proceeds of sale of the Bonds may also be invested in certificates of deposit of any bank whose deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Investments of moneys in the Redemption Fund being accumulated for payment of the next maturing principal or interest payment on the Bonds shall be limited to obligations bearing maturity dates prior to the date of the next maturing principal or interest payment on the Bonds. In the event investments are made, any securities representing the same shall be kept on deposit with the bank or trust company having on deposit the fund or account from which the purchase was made. Profit realized or interest income earned on investment of moneys in the Receiving Fund, Operation and Maintenance Fund and Replacement and Improvement Fund shall be deposited in or credited to the Receiving Fund at the end of each fiscal year. Profit realized or interest income earned on investment of moneys in the Redemption Fund shall be credited as received to the Redemption Fund.

18. Bond Proceeds. From the proceeds of the sale of the Bonds there shall be immediately deposited in the Redemption Fund an amount equal to the accrued interest and premium, if any, received on the delivery of the Bonds. The balance of the proceeds of the sale of the Bonds shall be deposited in a bank or banks, designated by the City Commission, qualified to act as depository of the proceeds of sale under the provisions of Section 15 of Act 94, in an account designated PROJECT FUND (the "Project Fund"). Moneys in the Project Fund shall be applied solely in payment of the costs of the Project, including any legal, engineering, financial and other expenses incident thereto and to the issuance and sale of the Bonds. Payments for construction, rehabilitation, repairs or improvements, either on account or otherwise, shall not be made unless the City Engineer or other registered engineer in charge of such work shall file with the City Commission a signed statment to the effect that the work has been completed in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor; that it was done pursuant to and in accordance with the contract therefor (including properly authorized change orders), that such work is satisfactory and that such work has not been previously paid for.

Any unexpended balance of the proceeds of sale of the Bonds remaining in the Project Fund after completion of the Project may, at the discretion of the City, be used for further improvements, enlargements and extensions to the System, if, at the time of such expenditures, such use is approved by the Michigan Department of Treasury (if such approval is then required by law). Any remaining balance after such expenditures shall be paid to the Redemption Fund and may be used for the purpose of purchasing Bonds on the open market at not more than the fair market value thereof, but not more than the price at which the Bonds may next be called for redemption, or used for the purpose of paying principal of the Bonds upon maturity or calling Bonds for redemption.

19. Bond Form: The Series 1991 Bonds shall be in substantially the following form, with such changes, additions or deletions as are not inconsistent with this Resolution:

For prompt payment of principal and interest on this bond, the City has irrevocably pledged the revenues of the sanitary sewer and wastewater system of the City (the "System"), including all enlargements, extensions and improvements thereto, after provision has been made for reasonable and necessary expenses of operation, maintenance and administration (the "Net Revenues"), and a statutory first lien thereon is hereby recognized and created. As additional security for the payment of the bonds of this issue, the City, pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended ("Act 94"), and a majority vote of the elected members of its City Commission, has pledged its full faith and credit (limited tax general obligation) for the prompt payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon. If for any reason there are not sufficient funds on hand from the Net Revenues to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds of this issue when due, the City is required to advance sufficient moneys to make up such deficiency from its general funds, including the collection of any ad valorem taxes which the City is authorized to levy, subject to charter, statutory and contitutional limitations. The City does not have the power to levy any taxes for payment of the principal of or interest on such bonds in excess of its applicable charter, statutory and constitutional limitations.

This bond is one of a series of bonds of even Original Issuance Date aggregating the principal sum of $400,000, issued pursuant to a Resolution duly adopted by the City Commission of the City, and under and in full compliance with the Constitution and statutes of the State of Michigan, including specifically Act 94, for the purpose of paying part of the cost of rehabilitating, repairing and improving the System and acquiring and installing related facilities.

For a complete statement of the revenues from which and the conditions under which this bond is payable, a statement of the conditions under which additional bonds of equal standing may hereafter be issued and the general covenants and provisions pursuant to which this bond is issued, reference is made to the above-described Resolution.

Bonds of this issue maturing in the years 1992 to 2001, inclusive, are not subject to redemption prior to maturity. Bonds or portions of bonds in multiples of $5,000 maturing in the year 2002 and thereafter may be redeemed at the option of the City, in such order as the City shall determine and within any maturity by lot, on any interest payment date on or after February 1, 2001 at par and accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption, without premium.

Notice of redemption of any bond or portion thereof shall be given by the transfer agent at least 30 days prior to the date fixed for redemption by mail to the registered owner at the registered address shown on the registration books kept by the transfer agent. Bonds shall be called for redemption in multiples of $5,000 and any bond of a denomination of more than $5,000 shall be treated as representing the number of bonds obtained by dividing the denomination of the bond by $5,000 and such bond may be redeemed in part. Notice of redemption for a bond redeemed in part shall state that upon surrender of the bond to be redeemed a new bond or bonds in aggregate principal amount equal to the unredeemed portion of the bonds surrendered shall be issued to the registered owner thereof. No further interest on a bond or portion thereof called for redemption shall accrue after the date fixed for redemption, whether presented for redemption or not, provided funds are on hand with the transfer agent to redeem such bond or portion thereof.

The City has convenanted and agreed, and does hereby covenant and agree, to fix and maintain at all times while any bonds payable from the Net Revenues of the System shall be outstanding, such rates for service furnished by the System as shall be sufficient to provide for payment of the interest on and the principal of the bonds of this issue and any additional bonds of equal standing as and when the same shall become due and payable, and to create and maintain a bond redemption fund (including a bond reserve account) therefor, to provide for the payment of expenses of administration and operation and such expenses for maintenance of the System as are necessary to preserve the same in good repair and working order, and to provide for such other expenditures and funds for the System as are required by the Resolution.

This bond is transferable only upon the books of the City kept for that purpose at the office of the transfer agent by the registered owner hereof in person, or by the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, upon the surrender of this bond together with a written instrument of transfer satisfactory to the transfer agent duly executed by the registered owner or the registered owner's attorney duly authorized in writing, and thereupon a new registered bond or bonds in the same aggregate principal amount and of the same maturity shall be issued to the transferee in exchange therefor as provided in the Resolution authorizing the bonds, and upon the payment of the charges, if any, therein prescribed.

The City has designated the bonds of this series as "qualified tax-exempt obligations" for purposes of Section 265(b)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

It is hereby certified and recited that all acts, conditions and things required by law precedent to and in the issuance of this bond and the series of bonds of which this is one have been done and performed in regular and due time and form as required by law.

This bond is not valid or obligatory for any purpose until the transfer agent's Certificate of Authentication on this bond has been executed by the transfer agent.

20. Covenants. The City covenants and agrees with the owners of the Bonds that so long as any of the Bonds remain outstanding and unpaid as to either principal or interest:

(a) The City will maintain the System in good repair and working order and will operate the same efficiently and will faithfully and punctually perform all duties with reference to the System required by the Constitution and laws of the State of Michigan, the City's charter and this Resolution.

(b) The City will keep proper books of record and account separate from all other records and accounts of the City, in which shall be made full and correct entries of all transactions relating to the System. The City shall have an annual audit of the books of record and account of the System for the preceding operating year made each year by an independent certified public accountant, and a copy of the audit shall be mailed to the manager of each syndicate or account originally purchasing any issue of the Bonds. The auditor shall comment on the manner in which the City is complying with the requirements of the Resolution with respect to setting aside and investing moneys and meeting the requirements for acquiring and maintaining insurance. The audit shall be completed and so made available not later than six (6) months after the close of each operating year.

(c) The City will maintain and carry, for the benefit of the holders of the Bonds, insurance on all physical properties of the System and liability insurance, of the kinds and in the amounts normally carried by municipalities engaged in the operation of water supply systems, including self-insurance. All moneys received for losses under any such insurance policies shall be applied solely to the replacement and restoration of the property damage or destroyed, and to the extent not so used, shall be used for the purpose of redeeming or purchasing Bonds.

(d) The City will not sell, lease or dispose of the System, or any substantial part, until all of the Bonds have been paid in full, both as to principal and interest or provision made therefor as herein provided. The City will operate the System as economically as possible, will make no repairs and replacements necessary to keep the System in good repair and working order, and will not do or suffer to be done any act which would affect the System in such a way as to have a material adverse effect on the security for the Bonds.

(e) The City will not grant any franchise or other rights to any person, firm, or corporation to operate a System that will compete with the System and the City will not operate a system that will compete with the System.

(f) The City will cause the Project to be acquired and constructed promptly and in accordance with the plans and specification therefor.

21. Additional Bonds. Except as hereinafter provided, the City shall not issue additional Bonds of equal or prior standing with the Series 1991 Bonds.

The right is reserved in accordance with the provisions of Act 94, to issue additional Bonds payable from the Revenues of the System which shall be of equal standing and priority of lien on the Net Revenues of the System with the Series 1991 Bonds but only for the following purposes and under the following terms and conditions:

(a) To complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor. Such Bonds shall not be authorized unless the engineers in charge of construction shall execute a certificate evidencing the fact that additional funds are needed to complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications therefor and stating the amount that will be required to complete the Project. If such certificate shall be so executed and filed with the City, it shall be the duty of the City to provide for and issue additional revenue Bonds in the amount stated in such certificate to be necessary to complete the Project in accordance with the plans and specifications plus an amount necessary to issue such Bonds or to provide for part or all of such amount from other sources.

(b) For subsequent repairs, extensions, enlargements and improvements to the System or for the purpose of refunding part of any Bonds then outstanding and paying costs of issuing such additional Bonds including deposits which may be required to be made to the Bond Reserve Account. Bonds for such purposes shall not be issued pursuant to this subparagraph (b) unless the Adjusted Net Revenues of the System for the then last two (2) preceding twelve-month operating years or the Adjusted Net Revenues for the last preceding twelve-month operating year, if the same shall be lower than the average, shall be equal to at least 125% of the maximum amount of principal and interest thereafter maturing in any operating year on the then outstanding Bonds and on the additional Bonds then being issued. If the additional Bonds are to be issued in whole or in part for refunding outstanding Bonds, the annual principal and interest requirements shall be determined by deducting from the principal and interest requirements for each operating year the annual principal and interest requirements of any Bonds to be refunded from the proceeds of the additional Bonds. For purposes of this subparagraph (b), the City may elect to use as the last preceding operating year any operating year ending not more than sixteen months prior to the date of delivery of the additional Bonds and as the next to the last preceding operating year, any operating year ending not more than twenty-eight months prior to the date of delivery of the additional Bonds. Determination by the City as to existence of conditions permitting the issuance of additional Bonds shall be conclusive. No additional Bonds of equal standing as to the Net Revenues of the System shall be issued pursuant to the authorization contained in this subparagraph if the City shall then be in default in making its required payments to the Operation and Maintenance Fund or the Redemption Fund.

(c) For refunding a part of the outstanding Bonds and paying costs of issuing such additional Bonds including deposits which may be required to be made to the Bond Reserve Account. No additional Bonds shall be issued pursuant to this subsection unless the maximum amount of principal and interest maturing in any operating year after giving effect to the refunding shall be less than the maximum amount of principal and interest maturing in any operating year prior to giving effect to the refunding.

22. Arbitrage and Tax Covenants. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Resolution, the City covenants that it will not at any time:

(a) permit any proceeds of the Bonds or any other funds of the City or under its control to be used directly or indirectly (i) to acquire any securities or obligations, the acquisition of which would cause any Bond to be an "arbitrage bond" as defined in Section 148 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), or (ii) in a manner which would result in the exclusion of any Bond from the treatment afforded by Section 103(a) of the Code by reason of the classification of any Bond as a "private activity bond" within the meaning of Section 141(a) of the Code or as a "federally guaranteed" bond within the meaning of Section 149(b) of the Code; or

(b) take or fail to take any action (including failure to file any required information or other returns with the United States Internal Revenue Service or to rebate amounts to the United States, if required, at or before the time or times required), within its control which action or failure to act would (i) cause the interest on the Bonds to be includible in gross income for federal income tax purposes, cause the interest on the Bonds to be includible in computing any alternative minimum tax (other than the alternative minimum tax applicable to interest on all tax-exempt obligations generally) or cause the proceeds of the Bonds to be used directly or indirectly by an organization described in Section 501(c)(3) of the Code or (ii) adversely affect the exemption of the Bonds and the interest thereon from State of Michigan income taxation.

23. Qualified Tax-Exempt Obligations. The City hereby designates this issue of the Series 1991 Bonds as "qualified tax-exempt obligations" for purposes of paragraph (b)(3) of Section 265 of the Code; provided that such designation shall have no effect if, at the time the Notice of Sale is published, the Series 1991 Bonds have been determined to be ineligible to be so designated on the basis of the City's reasonable expectations at the time of such publication. In such event, the Notice of Sale authorized in Section 24 hereof and the Bond form shall be changed appropriately.

24. Notice of Intent to Issue Series 1991 Bonds; Notice of Sale. The Mayor, City Clerk, City Treasurer, City Manager and Finance Director of the City, or any one of them, are hereby authorized to (a) prepare and submit an application to the Michigan Department of Treasury for its approval of the issuance of the Series 1991 Bonds as required by law, or in the alternative to make application to such Department for an order of exception from the requirement of prior approval of such Department and to pay the fee in connection therewith; (b) prepare the Notice of Sale in substantially the form attached as Exhibit A to this Resolution and fix a date of sale; (c) publish such Notice of Sale in an authorized publication, at least 14 days prior to the date fixed for sale; and (d) do all other acts and take all other necessary procedures required to effectuate the sale, issuance and delivery of the Series 1991 Bonds, including, if appropriate, purchase of any credit enhancements, and reducing the amount of Series 1991 Bonds sold or delivered if the City Commission determines that the full amount thereof is not necessary to complete the Project. The City Manager is authorized to make appropriate changes to the Notice of Sale, if necessary.

25. Sale of Series 1991 Bonds. The City shall receive bids for the Series 1991 Bonds in accordance with the Notice of Sale approved in Section 24 hereof, award sale of the Series 1991 Bonds to the successful bidder determined in accordance with Act 94 and this Resolution, and take all further necessary steps to issue and deliver the Series 1991 Bonds.

26. No Referendum. The City Commission hereby finds and determines that the Series 1991 Bonds are to be issued to comply with an order or permit requirement of a state agency of competent jurisdiction to prevent or limit pollution of the environment and that, consequently, pursuant to Section 33 of Act 94 there is no requirement for publication of a notice of intent to issue the Series 1991 Bonds and no ensuing 45-day period in which electors residing in the City might otherwise be entitled to petition for a referendum upon the question of issuance of the Series 1991 Bonds. There shall be no such publication and no such right of referendum with respect to the Series 1991 Bonds.

27. Repeal, Savings Clause. All ordinances, resolutions or orders, or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this Resolution are, to the extent of such conflict, repealed.

28. Severability; Paragraph Headings; and Conflict. If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of this Resolution shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the other provisions of this Resolution. The paragraph headings in this Resolution are furnished for convenience of reference only and shall not be considered to be part of this Resolution.

29. Publication and Recordation. This Resolution shall be published in full in the Plymouth Observer, a newspaper of general circulation within the boundaries of the City and shall be authenticated by the signatures of the Mayor and the City Clerk in accordance with Section 6 of Act 94.

30. Effective Date. This Resolution shall be effective upon its adoption.

1999	25,000

PRIOR REDEMPTION: The bonds maturing in or before 2001 shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity. The bonds maturing in or after 2002 shall be subject to redemption prior to maturity, at the option of the City, in such order as the City shall determine and within any maturity by lot, on any interest payment date on or after February 1, 2001 at par plus accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption, without premium.

INTEREST RATES AND BIDDING DETAILS: The bonds shall bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 10.00% per annum, to be fixed by the bids therefor, expressed in multiples of ⅛ or 1/20 of 1%, or both. The interest on any one bond shall be at one rate only and all bonds maturing in any one year must carry the same interest rate. The difference between the highest and lowest interest rates on the bonds shall not exceed 3% per annum. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than 98% of their par value will be considered.

TRANSFER AGENT AND RECORD DATE: First of America Bank - Southeast Michigan, N.A., Detroit, Michigan, has been selected as transfer agent for the bonds. The transfer agent will keep records of the registered owners of the bonds, serve as transfer agent for the bonds, authenticate the original and any re-issued bonds, and pay interest by check or draft mailed to the registered owners of the bonds as shown on the records of the transfer agent on the applicable record date. The record date for each interest payment shall be the 15th day of the month preceding the date of such payment. Principal of the bonds will be paid upon presentation and surrender thereof to the transfer agent when due.

PURPOSE AND SECURITY: The bonds are to be issued under Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, and a Resolution of the City Commission, for the purpose of defraying a portion of the cost of rehabilitating, repairing and improving the City's sanitary sewer and wastewater system (the "System"). The bonds are payable primarily from the net revenues of the System and any additions thereto, and a statutory first lien on such revenues has been established by such Resolution. The City has covenanted and agreed to fix and maintain at all times while any of the bonds are outstanding such rates for service furnished by the System as shall be sufficient to provide for payment of the necessary expenses of operation, maintenance and administration of the System and the principal and interest on all of such bonds when due, and to provide for such other expenditures and funds for the System as are required by such Resolution. The bonds will pledge the limited tax full faith and credit of the City as additional security for payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds. Pursuant to such pledge, if net revenues of the System and any additions thereto are insufficient, the City shall be obligated to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as a first budget obligation from its general funds, including the collection of any ad valorem taxes which the City is authorized to levy, but such levy shall be subject to applicable charter, statutory and constitutional limitations.

The rights or remedies of bondholders may be affected by bankruptcy, insolvency, fraudulent conveyance or other laws affecting creditors' rights generally now existing or hereafter enacted and by the application of general principles of equity including those relating to equitable subordination.

ADDITIONAL BONDS: For the terms upon which additional bonds of equal standing with the bonds of this issue as to revenues of the System may be issued, reference is made to the above-described Resolution.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $8,000 drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the City must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks. Checks of the unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail. The good faith check of the successful bidder will be immediately cashed, and the balance of the purchase price of the bonds shall be paid at the closing.

AWARD OF THE BONDS: The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid produces the lowest interest cost computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified in the bid, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from April 1, 1991, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium or adding thereto any discount.

LEGAL OPINION: Bids shall be conditioned upon the approving opinion of Honigman Miller Schwartz and Cohn, attorneys of Detroit, Michigan, a copy of which will be printed on the reverse side of each bond, and the original of which will be furnished without expense to the purchaser of the bonds at the delivery thereof.

TAX EXEMPTION: In the opinion of bond counsel, assuming compliance with certain covenants, interest on the bonds is excluded from gross income for federal income tax purposes as described in the opinion, and the bonds and interest thereon are exempt from taxation in the State of Michigan, except inheritance taxes and taxes on gains realized from the sale, payment or other disposition thereof. The successful bidder will be required, as a condition of delivery of the bonds, to certify the "issue price" of the bonds within the meaning of Section 1273 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. The form of an acceptable certificate will be provided by bond counsel.

BANK QUALIFICATION: The City has designated the bonds as "qualified tax-exempt obligations" for purposes of deduction of interest by financial institutions under the provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

CUSIP: CUSIP numbers will be printed on all bonds at the City's expense. Any improperly printed number will not constitute a basis for the purchaser to refuse to accept delivery of the bonds.

DELIVERY OF BONDS: The City will furnish bonds ready for execution at its expense. Bonds will be delivered without expense to the purchaser at Detroit, Michigan, or such other location as the City and the purchaser may agree upon. The usual closing documents, including a certificate that no litigation is pending affecting the issuance of the bonds, will be delivered at the time of delivery of the bonds. If the bonds are not tendered for delivery by 12:00 noon, Eastern Standard Time, on the 45th day following the date of sale, or the first business day thereafter if the 45th day is not a business day, the successful bidder may on that day, or any time thereafter until delivery of the bonds, withdraw his proposal by serving notice of cancellation, in writing, on the undersigned, in which event the City shall promptly return the good faith deposit. Payment for the bonds shall be made in immediately available funds. Accrued interest to the date of delivery of the bonds shall be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

NO OFFICIAL STATEMENT: Neither the City nor Hutchinson, Schockey, Erley & Co. will prepare an Official Statement in conjunction with this bond issue.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: Further information may be obtained from Hutchinson, Schockey, Erley & Co., 135 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603 (telephone: (312) 443-1550).

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

ENVELOPES: Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for City of Plymouth 1991 Sewage Disposal Revenue Bonds (Limited Tax General Obligation)."

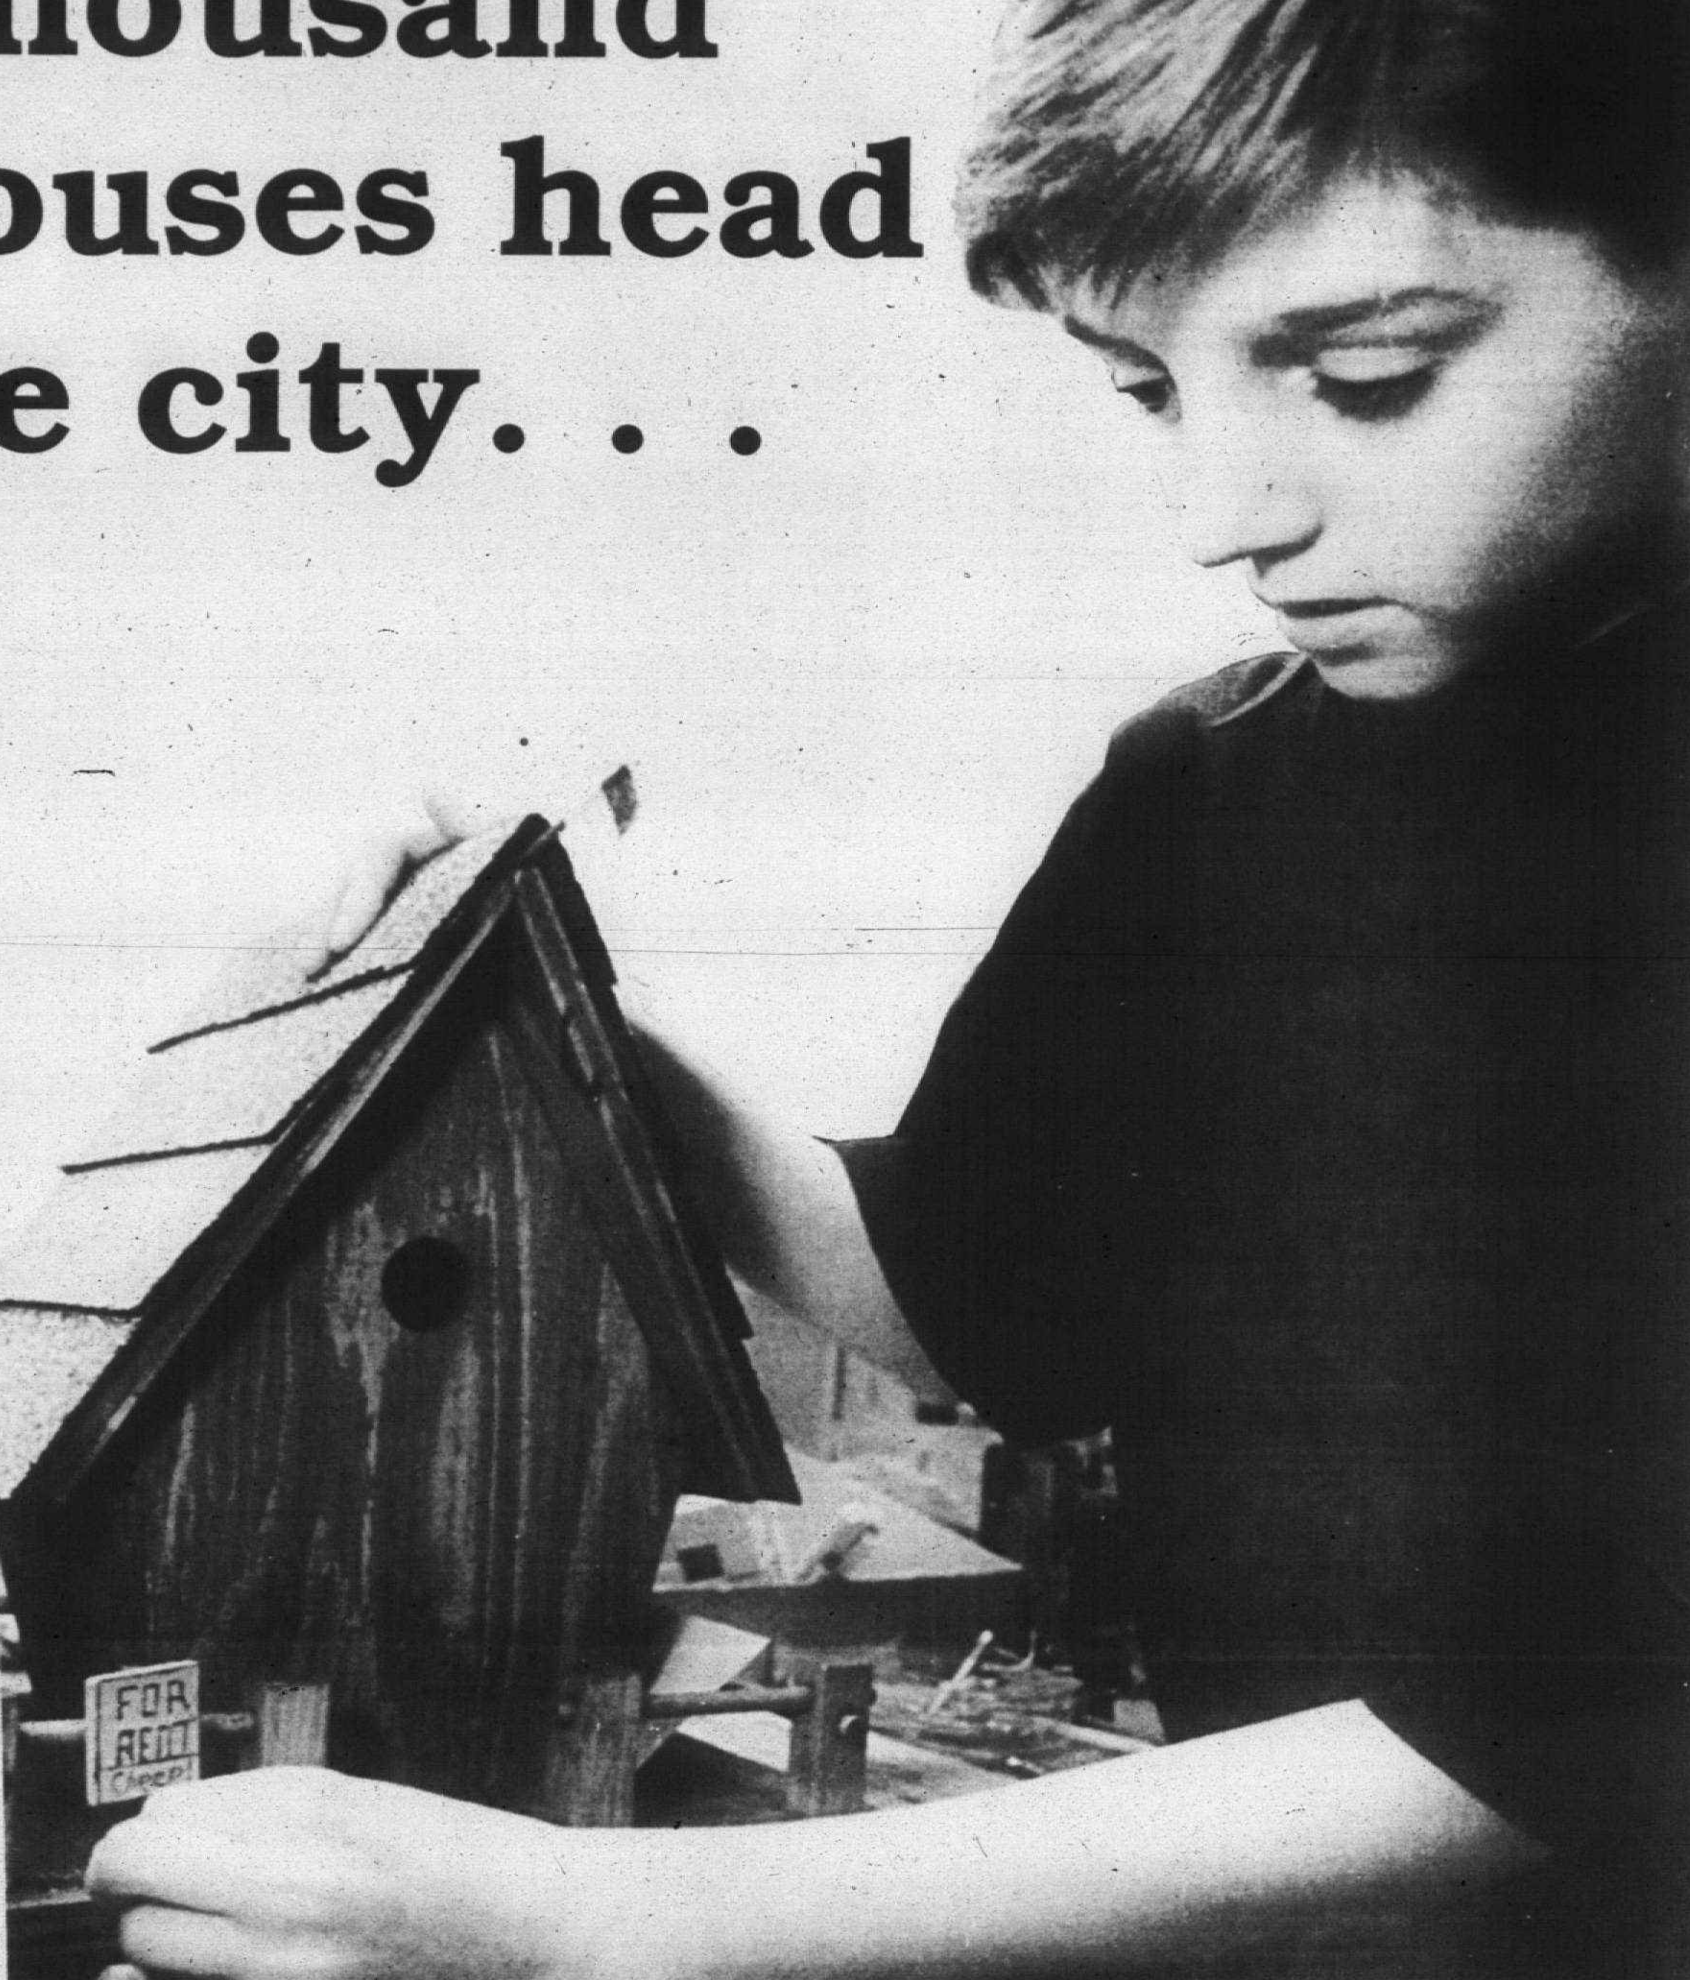
One thousand birdhouses head for the city. . .



One of our 1990 contestants, Damien Fron, puts the finishing touches on his entry

When the 1991 International Builders Home Flower and Furniture Show opens at Cobo Center this spring, more than one thousand birdhouses will be displayed.

Who built all of these houses? Seventh and eighth grade students from 36 area schools were busy this winter hammering, sawing and nailing together homes for eight species of birds. House Wrens, Bluebirds, Woods Ducks, Barred Owls, Great Crested Flycatchers, American Kestrels, American Robins and Tree Swallows will benefit from the efforts of these young people when, after the show, these houses go up in a thousand back yards.

The 1991 Best Birdhouse Builder Contest, sponsored by The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, challenges each young carpenter to not only build a winning birdhouse, but to learn about the bird that will call it "home."

Contestants learned that the American Kestrel is our smallest falcon and that the tree swallow's eggs are white.

The actual building of these houses offered a challenge as well.

If you'd like to get the feel of this project, just follow the directions below and you'll have made a nest box for the Northern Flicker. In order to attract flickers, you should begin construction with 1½-inch thick cedar boards and fill the interior all the way to the top with sawdust; this imitates a dead limb with soft heartwood.

This is not a contest, but if you're really serious about testing your birdhouse building skills, you should have your construction finished by April 1 for the birds to nest.

Jon Paupore chases a loose ball in Wednesday's regional game at Wyandotte. He scored 11 points as Canton whipped the host Bears 67-36. The Chiefs will play Belleville for the title Friday.

Salem's goal to win state championship

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

The long-awaited showdown for the state gymnastics championship between No. 1-ranked Muskegon Mona Shores and No. 2 Plymouth Salem will take place Friday night at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School.

Mona Shores is seen as the favorite, but the Rocks are considered solid contenders with No. 3 Plymouth Canton being the next best team.

The team and all-around competition begins at 6 p.m. Friday. The top eight girls in each event after the first day will advance to the individual finals at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Salem and the Chiefs qualified for the state meet with strong showings Saturday in the regional at Canton. As expected, the Rocks were first at 143.55 and the Chiefs second at 141.25. Adrian was third and qualified with a score of 132.55.

Salem has finished second to Mona Shores in invitationals at Midland and Freeland, but neither time did the Rocks have all of their top gymnasts present or healthy. Kathi Kinsella said her team is ready for this meet.

"I THINK we're going to give them a run for their money, and I'd have to say it's 50-50," she said. "Technically, they have an advantage, but my girls are psyched up and they want it bad. Everything we do has to be clean and done to the max."

If the Rocks should win a state title, it would be a fitting farewell for Kinsella and possibly two of her best gymnasts.

Kinsella more than likely will not coach next year. Her husband is a paratrooper in the U.S. Army and has been stationed in Washington. She plans to join him there.

In addition, sophomore Kim Miller, who hopes to win a second consecutive all-around title this weekend, and junior Autumn Bunch will probably concentrate on club gymnastics next year.

Kinsella, however, would like to win the state for other reasons. It would be a thank you of sorts to Athletic Director Paul Cummings, Assistant ADs Gary Balconi and Bob Blohm, Canton coach John Cunningham and Salem trainer Sharon Bouchard.

"I want to do well for everybody who has helped us through the year," she said. "I don't want it just for me. If we win, it will make a lot of other people feel good, too, including the parents. However well we do, it will be a direct reflection on them."

Cunningham believes the Rocks have a chance to catch Mona Shores, too. Mona Shores was second in the state last year, Salem third and Canton fifth.

"IN THE STATE finals, where you have four girls in each event, if Salem hits and Mona Shores has a mistake or two, they can close (the two-point difference between their best scores)," he said. "I think they have a real shot at them.

"Of course, Kathi has to watch out, too, because we're waiting in the bushes if they have a bad meet. If we hit, third is a lock. If we do poorly, there are several teams that are a couple mistakes behind us."

Cunningham and Kinsella thought the judging at their regional was quite stringent, but Cunningham thinks that could provide a psychological edge on behalf of both teams, especially the Rocks.

Salem's team score actually should have been 144.55, but the Rocks were assessed a penalty point when several vaulting score sheets were out of order.

"Salem is a lot better than its 143.55," Cunningham said. "I think it might be an advantage to have these low scores. I'd love to be in Kathi's shoes, knowing (the) Mona Shores (coach) thinks she's that much better."

Salem qualified three all-arounders for individual state competition: Miller, Courtney Gonyea and Alysia Sofios. Bunch is eligible to compete Saturday on vault.

In addition to the all-around trio, Bunch will do floor exercise and vault in the team meet, Sarah Makins will do uneven bars and balance beam.

THE CHIEFS qualified sophomore Kim Rennolds for the all-around and six others in individual events. Danielle Mirto and Johanna Anderson will compete on vault and beam. Heather Murphy on beam and floor, Jenny Tedesco and Laura Anderson on bars and Dawn Clifford on vault.

"(Centennial Educational Park) will be gunning for the most girls in finals," Cunningham said. "Every single girl has a good shot at getting to the finals. I hope they do their best and we get the whole bunch of them into finals."

Westland John Glenn's Kyna Morgan and Wayne Memorial's Kelly Jacobs also qualified as all-arounders, and Christine Prough of Glenn qualified on vault.

Miller won the regional all-around title with a 37.35 total and is primed for another run at the state championship, according to Kinsella. Miller won it last year with a 36.30 and has a season best of 37.55.

"She's ready," Kinsella said. "We decided this week the judges don't want to see any innovation or originality, even though it's required on the score sheet. I want to get the team as close as I can. Kim will be challenged (by Mona Shores gymnasts), but I feel confident she will have a repeat."

Miller also won the vault, beam and floor titles at the regional, but she has a strong supporting cast. Gonyea was second in the all-around at 37.00 and Sofios fourth at 36.10.

Chiefs break new ground in regional

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

With a chance to be the first Plymouth Canton boys basketball team in a regional championship game, coach Dave Van Wagoner didn't want any slip-ups Wednesday night.

That meant getting past tournament host Wyandotte Roosevelt and not taking the Bears lightly because of their .318 record.

Van Wagoner got his wish as the Chiefs routed Wyandotte 67-36 and earned a berth in the final at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Canton (16-8), having knocked off No. 8-rated Plymouth Salem in the district final, will play No. 7 Belleville (23-1). The Bears finish at 7-16.

"We were worried about the overconfidence factor," Van Wagoner said. "(The coaches) probably got on them more before this game than any all year. We really wanted them to focus on this game, because we wanted to take that next step to the regional final."

THE CHIEFS played three good opponents in the district and, after having an easy time in the regional opener, will face possibly their most formidable foe Friday.

"We'll definitely be the underdog, but our guys have battled all year so I anticipate a good game," Van Wagoner said. "I'd like to think our kids have got another couple (games) in them.

"The key to beating Belleville is beating their pressure. They're quick; they're all over you. Belleville is probably the best offensive rebounding team I've seen all year, so we have to keep them off the glass and control the tempo on offense."

Canton rebounded and shot the ball well against the Bears, who did not.

The shooting stats through three quarters, after which time there was no doubt about the outcome, tell a lot. The Chiefs made 50 percent of their shots (18-of-36) and Wyandotte, playing in its first regional tournament in 22 years, 17 percent (8-of-47).

"In the third quarter, we started to make a run," Wyandotte coach Terry Breneman said. The Bears trimmed Canton's 33-14 halftime lead to 36-23. "We made them turn the ball over and do what we wanted, but you can't win with that kind of shooting."

Karl Wukie comes down with the rebound, not Wyandotte's Joe Alfano.

CANTON ALL but won the game in the first quarter, leading 17-2. Junior guard Derrick McDonald had another fine game, scoring 17 points to lead the Chiefs. Tony Coshatt scored 13 and Jon Paupore 11.

Jason Terrance was the only Wyandotte player in double figures with 12. Junior forward Joe Alfano is the team's top scorer, averaging 16 points, but he was fighting the effects of the flu and had only two.

The Bears were vulnerable to the back-door play in the first quarter, and forward Brett Howell had six of his seven points in the first four minutes to get Canton started.

"We didn't get weak-side help early, and that seemed to get their big guys going," Breneman said. "They looked for them more after that."

Coshatt and McDonald, with seven points apiece in the second quarter, were a good inside-outside combination as were Howell and Paupore in the first. More importantly, the 6-foot-8 Coshatt and 6-7 Rob Wilson dominated the boards at both ends.

"Our game plan was to pound it inside," Van Wagoner said. "Our big guys are really coming along. They've been catching and scoring in the post, which is something they hadn't been doing all year. But they've done it very well in the last four or five games."

FORWARD KEVIN Holmes, at 6-4, didn't play after injuring an ankle in the district final Saturday, but the Chiefs didn't need the extra height. Wyandotte couldn't match up with Coshatt and Wilson, who were on the floor simultaneously at times. Wyandotte's biggest players were 6-4 center Greg Hays and 6-3 forward Dan Yates.

"Coshatt did an excellent job," Breneman said. "He plugged up the middle, and he forced us to change a lot of shots. We got some back doors, but he made our kids pull up early and adjust their shots. And we didn't make them."

Canton, which has won seven of its last eight games, scored the next 12 points — half by Coshatt — after the Bears got within 13 in the third and led 48-25 at the end.

Terrance's two triples narrowed the gap, but Wyandotte was only 2-of-17 in that quarter after going 1-of-12 and 5-of-18 in the first two. Canton was 14-of-28 in the first half and 4-of-8 in the third period.

"Even though it was a blowout, our guys stuck to the game plan, and that's what we were looking for in a game like this," Van Wagoner said. "We're growing as a team and peaking at the right time."

Breneman, whose team lost twice to Belleville in the regular season, agreed with Van Wagoner. The Chiefs will have to handle the pressure defense to be successful.

"Belleville has amazingly quick kids who are very aggressive," he said, adding the Tigers don't have a weakness. "If (the Chiefs) can do that, they can give them a game, because they should be able to rebound with them.

"Canton's style of defense (sagging man-to-man) could give them trouble. If Belleville isn't hitting from outside and the big guys rebound," it could be a good game.

Rocks reap regional reward

Autumn Bunch of Salem qualified on vault for the individual competition and will compete on vault and floor in the team meet.

their usual best (at state)," Kinsella said. "Courtney has shin splints, but we're using ace bandages and going for it.

"I'D SAY it's possible (all the individual state winners could be Salem girls). Friday night is team and all-around, but whatever they do on Friday night will affect what they do on Saturday."

Kinsella protested what she thought was a low score for Bunch on floor and that subsequently led to Salem losing a team point. Bunch received an 8.45 but it was eventually changed to 8.55.

The rules state a protest must be made five minutes after completion of an event, but Salem moved to vault where it had 13 girls preparing to compete.

"I was trying to write a protest and warm up my vaulters," Kinsella said, adding the score sheets for the last three vaulters got mixed up in the process.

"It was my fault we lost a point, but I thought Autumn deserved an extra 10th. It was the best routine I've seen the kid do in all the time she's been competing for Salem, and that score was off. I'm the team coach, but that score was wrong.

"Some people might say 'What's she yelling about; she won anyway.' But tell that to the kid."

Canton's Rennolds won the bars competition with a school-record 9.30 and was third in the all-around. Morgan was fifth and Jacobs sixth.

"IT WAS KIM'S best meet," Cunningham said. "Vault was her last event and had she gotten the score she normally would have gotten, she probably would have set a record in all-around."

Canton was ahead of Salem after two events and "bordered on having an exceptional meet," said Cunningham, adding the Chiefs set a school record with their 141.25 despite low scoring on vault.

Rennolds and Johanna Anderson got 8.7 on vault but usually score in the low nines, an indication of the tough judging, Cunningham said.

"In a way, I think it's good for Canton and Salem to have what appear to be low scores," he said. "We're sorta laying in the woods, if you will, for Mona Shores."

While the Chiefs undoubtedly have one of the best teams in the state, Cunningham knows it's unrealistic to think Canton can beat Mona Shores.

"Four points is a lot to make up," he said. "Someone said it's not real exciting when you know what's going to happen. But this is gymnastics. It's not like Canton-Salem in basketball.

"I was very excited about the competition and the way my girls performed. Some look at placement as exciting, but I was excited that we had a good meet."

Cunningham was saddened by a pair of near misses. Clifford, who was sixth in the state on beam last year, was ninth in the regional and missed qualifying by one place. The same applied to Mirto and Johanna Anderson in the all-around. They were seventh and eighth but only the top six qualify.

Club to host meet

The Michigan Academy of Gymnastics will be host for a USGF Level 9 state meet Sunday. The club is located at 5930 N. Hix Rd., Westland.

Competition begins at 11 a.m with the children (ages 9-11) and junior (ages 12-14) classes. The seniors (age 15 and up) compete at 3:30 p.m.

Some of the best gymnasts in Michigan, including the top high school girls, will perform optional level routines. Admission is $4 at the door, $2.50 for senior citizens, students and children.

Jenny Tedesco of Canton competes on balance beam here but qualified for the state meet on the uneven bars in which she placed sixth.

Kahn goes to state

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

North Farmington senior Heather Kahn overcame a personal hardship Saturday to qualify for the state gymnastics meet in two events.

Kahn became ill with the flu two days before the regional meet at Fraser High School, but she still placed second on the vault and third in floor exercise.

"She didn't even warm up for the meet, because she was so zapped," North coach Jeff Dwyer said. "She just went in and competed. I give her a lot of credit for that."

The top eight in each event and the top six all-arounders from each regional qualify for state competition this weekend at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School.

The team and all-around winners will be decided Friday and the individual champs in four events Saturday. Competition begins at 6 p.m. Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday.

KAHN WAS the No. 2 all-arounder in the state last year but failed to qualify this time. She just missed doing so, however, placing seventh with a 35.00 score. The sixth and last qualifier, Heather Mroz of Fraser, scored 35.20.

"The best description is that it's a sad situation," Dwyer said. "She worked so hard all year, it's her senior year and she wants to look good for the college coaches.

"She tried her best. I don't know if anyone else could have come that close (in the all-around) under those circumstances."

CC swimmers 3rd in 'A' meet

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

If only . . .

If only Pete Leonhardt's next few years coaching Redford Catholic Central's swim team are as successful as his first one. The Shamrocks recorded their best finish ever in the Class A finals, taking third place Saturday at the University of Michigan pool in Ann Arbor.

Bloomfield Hills Andover was an easy winner, scoring 193 points even though a possible first-place relay team was disqualified after jumping the start. Birmingham Groves was second with 119, followed by CC at 105. Grosse Pointe South took fourth (97) and Birmingham Brother Rice finished fifth (87).

"If everything had gone perfect, we could have beaten (Groves)," said Leonhardt, in his first year as coach at CC. "No one was going to beat Andover. The difference (between Groves and CC) was they scored three relays.

"I'm very happy. CC had never been better than sixth (at state meet) before."

Livonia Stevenson scored 31 points to finish 13th, Westland John Glenn scored 21 to place 20th, and North Farmington had 17.4 to take 22nd. In the Class B-C-D meet in Ypsilanti, Farmington Hills Harrison was 18th with 24 points and Redford Thurston was 28th with nine points.

TROY SHUMATE propelled CC to its finish. The senior was a state champion in the 200-yard freestyle in 1:41.87, edging Dan Phillips of Ypsilanti (1:42.07). Shumate also placed third in the 100 butterfly in 51.61.

"Obviously, the highlight of the meet (for CC) was Troy Shumate," said Leonhardt. "He's a very experienced, smart swimmer. He's certainly a blue-chip swimmer."

Senior Mike Hoeflein also had a strong meet for CC, finishing fourth in the 200 free (1:43.14) and fifth in the 500 free (4:43.17) and serving as a "major power on the 200 and 400 free relays," said Leonhardt.

CC's 200 free relay team of junior John Brogan, Hoeflein, senior Alan Afsari and Shumate finished second in 1:26.89, behind only Andover's national record-setters (1:24.04). Shumate, Hoeflein, Afsari and senior Brian Dynda splashed to a third in the 400 free relay in 3:11.85.

The Shamrocks' other point-producers were Brogan, who took eighth in the 50 free (21.86), and freshman James Leslie, who finished 12th in the 500 free (4:50.31). Brogan's 50 free time was a remarkable .54 faster than his state preliminary clocking and 1.44 quicker than his previous-to-state-meet best.

North Farmington junior Mike Drelles finished seventh in the 100 butterfly (52.65), and junior Chris Knoche tied Grandville's Chris Ornee for ninth in the 100 free (48.17) and placed 12th in the 200 free (1:46.16).

North's Knoche, Drelles, freshman Jon Kershaw and junior Keith Lee were 10th in the 400 free relay (3:18.77).

IN THE B-C-D meet, Harrison's Ryan Koonce, a senior, finished second in diving with 371.25 points.

"We were shooting to win the whole thing," Harrison diving coach Dave Mullett said. "It's slightly disappointing, but you have to admit second in the state is really good."

Koonce improved throughout his career, finishing 12th at state as a sophomore and seventh as a junior.

"He's done well," Mullett said. "By far, he's one of the best divers in the state in either class. He's made progress and always been right in there. He's throwing college level dives in high school, so he's pretty talented."

Koonce is being recruited by several colleges and is leaning toward Michigan State, according to Mullett.

Harrison senior Jason Barringer was fourth in the 100 breaststroke (1:01.37), and Thurston's Leonard Moreira placed seventh in the 50 free (21.84) and was 11th in the 100 free (49.80).

"(Barringer has) made so many drops throughout the season, and he ended on a really strong note," Harrison coach Lisa Collins said. "He started the season around 1:03-plus and finished 1:01-low, which is fantastic."

MATT MARTIN did all of John Glenn's scoring. Martin, just a sophomore, was fourth in the 100 backstroke (52.87) and fifth in the 200 individual medley (1:54.96).

Stevenson's Bryan Morrison, a junior, placed eighth in the 500 free (4:43.65) and was ninth in the 200 free (1:44.79). Spartan teammate Aaron Rieder, also a junior, finished 10th in the 200 IM (1:58.72) and 12th in the 100 back (55.96), and Alex Goecke, a sophomore, was 13th in the 100 breaststroke (1:01.44).

Stevenson's 200 medley relay team of sophomore Ryan Freeborn, Goecke, Rieder and senior Taki Caranicolas finished ninth (1:38.72), so did its 200 free relay of Goecke, Morrison, Rieder and Caranicolas (1:29.36).

Madonna baseball goal: progress

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

Mike George doesn't want to corner himself with precise predictions about where his Madonna College baseball team will finish this season. Rather, he talks somewhat obscurely; his team's main goal is merely progress.

Pin him down and George will only get definitive enough to say he would like to see the Fighting Crusaders "improve our (NAIA District 23) play." Madonna was 5-14 in the district in 1990, 24-18 overall.

No boastful forecast about making the district playoffs or finishing first and reaching the NAIA tournament. Not even any talk about what Madonna must do to accomplish those kinds of things.

And George would never take that alternate route many coaches follow and try to make a good situation look bad. His is far too positive a personality for that.

So George is a bit more low-key. The message seems to be that Madonna plans on proving their prowess on the field.

SO FAR, the Crusaders have done just that. They went 6-2-1 on their spring trip to Cocoa Beach, Fla., last week, and George thinks he just might have found what he needed most — pitching.

"We can go 11 deep in the pitching department," said George. "By far (it's better). We have more of a pitching staff, whereas last year we had a throwing staff."

To prove his point, George noted that this year's team will have "seven players who do nothing but pitch." That is the direction he wants his entire squad to take — more specialized.

"Our pitchers can carry us this year," the Madonna coach said.

Of course, he's hoping they won't have to. The Crusaders have lost some of last year's punch — Chris Sisler, the team leader in runs batted in and runs scored, and Pete Berrios, third on the team in RBI, are both academic casualties — but there's still some potent bats in the lineup.

PERHAPS THE most imposing is Ernie Bowling, a junior designated hitter/first baseman who stands 6-foot-3 and weighs 245. Bowling batted .377 with 22 RBI in '90, with team highs in doubles (six) and homers (three). On the trip south, Bowling batted .480 with two homers and 13 RBI.

Others George is counting on are senior centerfielder Mike Wozniak (.397, two homers, 17 RBI and a team-high 31 hits in '90); senior catcher John Bonham (.275, 23 runs scored and a team-best 10 stolen bases); junior shortstop Jeremy Krol (.383, 12 RBI); junior outfielder Kevin O'Connor (.305, 17 RBI); junior first baseman Sean Maloney (.325); sophomore outfielder Bill Terski (.267, five doubles, 12 RBI); and sophomore second baseman Joe Brusseau (.264).

It's a solid nucleus offensively, but questions do remain. George has made some position changes he figures will benefit the defense.

First on the list is moving Krol, the Garden City graduate, from third to short and relocating Terski in the outfield. "I feel we've improved both spots tremendously," said George. "I felt we weren't getting the defense we needed (at short) to be successful."

THE OTHER switch is at catcher, where Bonham takes over for the graduated Steve Coffell. Bonham was an infielder last year, but George said he's been "fabulous" behind the plate so far.

Filling in for Krol at third will be the combination of sophomore Rich Roy (Livonia Clarenceville) and freshman Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill). Both will also see some mound time — especially Roy, who was 4-0 with a 3.60 earned run average last year.

But George doesn't think he'll have to weaken one position to strengthen his pitching (a 5.55 team ERA in '90) — not with six starters.

The mound leader thus far is junior Chris Kloc (Redford Thurston), a righthander who was 3-5 with a 4.61 ERA in 41 innings last year. "He's been our best pitcher since the start of camp," said George. Kloc showed it in Florida, going 2-0 and allowing just two runs (one earned) in 13 innings (0.77 ERA) with 20 strikeouts.

The other mound veteran is junior Mike Hocking (Redford Bishop Borgess), the only lefthander on the staff. Hocking was 3-5 with a 5.71 ERA in '90.

WHICH LEADS directly to a possible problem for Madonna — experienced pitching. Seven of his staff pitchers are freshmen, including Rob Kowalski (Plymouth Salem), Louie McKaig (Southfield-Lathrup) and T.C. Raptis, who figure to be in the starting rotation.

Mike Coleman, George Leung and Pendell will be spot starters; Sean Henkel (Livonia Stevenson) is being groomed as the closer, with Krol ("He's the hardest thrower on the staff,") also serving as a reliever.

Kowalski was particularly impressive in Florida, collecting two wins — the first with 6⅔ innings of relief pitching and the second with 5⅓ innings of no-hit ball. And Raptis got a 3-1 win over Widener.

The pitching talent may be there. The hitting already is. Defense — that still must be proven (although George insists, "Our improved defense is going to make our pitching better"), particularly with some early-season injuries. Wozniak turned an ankle midway through the Florida trip after going 7-for-13 (.538) with seven RBI.

Wozniak will be back soon, and so will sophomore outfielder Rich Bloomberg, who broke his ankle before the season. Junior Kevin Learned (Plymouth Canton) will see action mainly in the outfield until their return, and then just about everywhere else.

Madonna opens its northern season with a double-header Saturday and a single game Sunday at Ohio Northern.

Crusaders fare well in early games

There was a lot of good news and some bad coming back from Florida with the Madonna College baseball team.

The good: six wins in nine games, with some standout pitching performances from junior Chris Kloc and freshman Rob Kowalski (two wins apiece) and great hitting from junior designated hitter Ernie Bowling (.480, two homers, 12 runs batted in).

The bad: losing senior centerfielder Mike Wozniak to an ankle injury midway through the trip, after junior outfielder Pete Berrios had been declared academically ineligible just prior to the trip and junior outfielder Rich Bloomberg broke his ankle during preseason drills.

The Fighting Crusaders opened their season with a 13-7 win over Keene State College (from Keene, N.H.) March 2. Kowalski got the win with 6⅓ innings of relief pitching. He struck out seven and walked one.

Joe Brusseau got three hits, including a triple, for Madonna.

ON MARCH 3, Kloc fanned 11 in a four-hit, 8-1 win over Assumption College (Worcester, Mass.), with Wozniak getting two triples among his four hits. On March 4, junior lefthander Mike Hocking blanked Wentworth Institute (Boston) 6-0 with a three-hitter. Hooking struck out five and sophomore Rich Roy had two hits.

Later that day, the Crusaders suffered their first loss, 6-4 against Clarion University (Clarion, Pa.). Freshman T.C. Raptis had two of Madonna's nine hits; freshman Louie McKaig went 4⅓ innings and took the loss, giving up six runs.

On March 5, Madonna and Rochester Tech (Rochester, N.Y.) battled to a 17-17 tie, with sophomore Bill Terski getting three hits for the Crusaders. On March 6, Raptis scattered eight hits in a 3-1 win over Widener University (Chester, Pa.). Junior Kevin O'Connor had two hits for Madonna.

Later that day, Assumption avenged its earlier loss with a 12-5 win over the Crusaders, tagging freshman Jeff Pendell for five hits and five walks in 2⅔ innings.

Madonna finished its trip with two wins on March 7, 11-1 over Wesley College (Dover, Del.) and 10-3 over Ursinus College (Collegeville, Pa.). Bowling's homer aided Kloc's fourth hitter in the Wesley win, and senior John Bonham's four hits supported Kowalski's five-hit, 10-strikeout performance against Ursinus.

Madonna will take its 6-2-1 record to Ohio Northern this weekend, playing a double-header Saturday and a single game Sunday.

Cody ends CC tourney run

By Brad Emons
staff writer

basketball

Redford Catholic Central's magic carpet ride through the state basketball tournament ended abruptly Tuesday when Detroit Cody of the Public School League eliminated the Shamrocks, 75-65, at Southfield High.

The upstart Shamrocks, who upset Detroit Henry Ford last Friday in the district finals, could not do the trick again, bowing out of the Class A regionals with a 12-12 record.

Cody, now 16-5 overall, advances to Thursday's regional championship against 20-3 Dearborn High at 7:30 p.m.)

The Comets, used to playing second fiddle in past state tourneys to PSL powers Cooley and Mackenzie, are making a name for themselves with a deep and talented bench.

Four players scored in double figures for the winners, including senior guard Larry Bolden (19) and 6-5 senior forward Bristol Greene (17).

Jarvis Murray, a 6-6 senior who did not start, contributed 12, while Jermaine Burden tallied 11.

"They're very quick and that's what we were afraid of," CC coach Bernie Holowicki said. "They're big and they're smart. And (coach) Menefee (Robert) does a good job with them. They also slowed the game down when they had to."

THE SHAMROCKS hung close for 2½ quarters before the Comets went on a pivotal 8-0 run.

Earlier, Cody had held the upper hand with leads of 23-16 (after one quarter) and 37-33 (halftime).

CC then came on strong early in the third quarter, twice evening the count — 39-all on a basket by Jon Barbara with 5:42 remaining; and 41-41 (with 4:59 to go) on a hoop by Mark Gondek.

But the Comets, double-teaming the ball, opened up a 49-41 advantage during a 54-second span, capitalizing on four straight CC turnovers capped by Julian Dozier's layup.

And by the time the dust had cleared, Cody was back in control, leading after three periods, 56-46.

"We wanted to avoid them going into a frenzy where they'd get 8 to 10 points just like that, but we just couldn't avoid it," Holowicki said. "When it was 41-up I thought we had a chance, but they (Cody) raised their game up another level."

CC was never able to get closer than 10 the rest of the way.

Cody enjoyed its biggest lead of the night, 68-51, with 4:35 remaining (on a basket by Greene) before coasting home.

"WE WANTED TO put two men on the ball wherever it was," Menefee said. "We doubled their best ball-handler (Bob Kummer) and were able to force some bad passes during that one stretch, but the guy (Kummer) can play. He's a Division I player all the way."

Kummer, a 6-5 junior who played center last year, had become more comfortable in his role as CC's primary ball-handler during the final stages of the season.

But on this night he was shackled by Cody's cat-like defensive scheme. His shooting was also off, settling for a sub-par 11 points, hitting only three of 13 from the field.

Chad Varga, the Shamrocks' 6-5 junior center, tallied 19 points (on eight of 16 shooting) to share game-high honors with Bolden.

Sophomore Bob Schneider, who hit three triples in the first 10 minutes before cooling off, added nine points along with Barbara.

The Shamrocks hit only 35 percent of their shots from the field (21 of 59), while Cody connected on 27 of 61 from the floor for 44 percent.

"Defensive rebounding hurt and I didn't think would happen to us," Holowicki said. "That's been our strength the last seven or eight games. The last four or five weeks it's very seldom that we gave up the second shot."

DESPITE THE LOSS, CC made a respectable showing this season.

Below the .500 mark most of the year, the Shamrocks made a late charge by winning six of their final eight.

"We've accomplished a lot the last five weeks," Holowicki said. "We've grown up and we've matured since the (Detroit) DePorres game (a 64-63 first-round defeat in the Catholic League playoffs). Our chemistry was good. We even scrapped out there tonight until the very end. We didn't give up."

School AD explains admission policy

An almost apologetic Southfield athletic director Art Carinci called it "either an oversight or lack of consideration on my part" after charging spectators two separate admissions during a Class A regional basketball double-header.

Southfield High hosted a pair of regional games Tuesday, but spectators who bought tickets for the 5:30 p.m. game between Livonia Churchill and Dearborn High were told to clear the gym (after a P.A. announcement) to make way for fans who were arriving for the 7:30 p.m. start of the Redford Catholic Central-Detroit Cody game.

Both Cody athletic director Ernie Scott and Dearborn A.D. Gene Snell were both surprised about the ticket policy.

"The only time I've ever seen that is at the state quarterfinals at U-of-D (University of Detroit's Calihan Hall)," Scott said. "I read my tournament packet over, and I didn't see anything mentioned about it."

Snell was also surprised by the announcement.

"With one start at 5:30 and the other at 7:30, people assumed they were going to see two games for the price of one ticket ($3)," Snell said. "I was not told when I walked in that there was two separate admissions."

CARINCI SAID that "three or four" fans approached him following Dearborn's 68-35 victory over Churchill.

"My rationale was that the state (Michigan High School Athletic Association) asks for specific gate counts for each of the three games," said Carinci, whose school will also host tonight's regional championship. "There were two ballgames tonight (Tuesday), so that's why I charged for each game individually.

"But if anybody came in late for the first game or said anything about it, we allowed them to stay for the second game. My intent wasn't to screw anybody or create enemies."

Despite the announcement to clear out, many fans remained in the gym to see the second game.

Wayne, Churchill go to state

By Brad Emons

volleyball

With a 65-0 record, it's apparent that Holland West Ottawa is the team to beat this weekend in the state Class A volleyball tournament.

But seven other teams, including Observerland hopefuls Livonia Churchill (44-1-1) and Wayne Memorial (41-5), will arrive Friday at Kalamazoo's Nazareth College primed for the upset.

Wayne, a tournament tested club with a second place finish behind Churchill in the always formidable Schoolcraft College Invitational, is making its second straight appearance in the final eight.

The Zebras, led by 6-foot hitting star Brandy Caincross, will not be in awe to the top-ranked Panthers, who have been beaten only three games this season.

"They know the competition," said coach Ann Kolnitys after her team breezed past Lincoln Park (15-4, 15-3) last Saturday in the Wayne regional. "I'm not going to keep it a secret. I think we have the ability to step up the competition. We did at Schoolcraft where we saw a lot of good teams. Last year we had three sophomore starters and the juniors who played last year are a year older. We're definitely stronger."

DESPITE AN OVERALL record of 44-6 last season, Holland West Ottawa played second fiddle to eventual state champion East Kentwood. The 'A' champs administered five of West Ottawa's six losses.

"We consider ourselves the new kid on the block," West Ottawa coach Steve Myers said. "This is a very mature team, the seniors are very hungry."

All-Stater Jodi Sprick, a 6-1 senior, supplies the hitting power for Holland West Ottawa.

Before her career is over, Sprick will have earned 12 varsity letters. She also plays softball and basketball.

"She should be O.K. Conference Female Athlete of the Year," said Holland Sentinel Sports Editor Leo Martinosi. "She's an outstanding shortstop and very good basketball player."

Erika Wade, a third-team All-Stater, is a talented 5-9 senior. Setter Laurie Navas is the team's sparkplug.

In the regional last weekend at Grandville, the Panthers escaped with an 11-15, 16-14, 15-13 triumph over Portage Northern.

"WE HAD TO count our lucky stars to get by them," Myers said. "It was a very tough match."

Myers characterizes his team as having "a lot of quickness, but we're definitely not big."

"We have some good jumpers and some good athletes," Myers said, "but we have to play smart and take advantage of what our opponent gives us. We have to play our game and hopefully things will work out."

While Wayne faces a tough opening-round foe, Churchill is very familiar with quarterfinal opponent Grosse Pointe South (35-4).

South advanced last weekend out of its own regional with a 15-2, 15-11 triumph over Detroit Central.

Churchill, meanwhile, downed city rival Stevenson, avenging its only loss of the season against the Spartans in the regional final at Ferndale, 15-13, 15-3.

THE CHARGERS, have to be considered a favorite to win their opening-round match after beating Grosse Pointe South in January at the Wayne State Invitational, 15-1, 15-2.

"That was a long time ago (Jan. 26)," Churchill coach Mike Hughes cautioned. "We were very pumped up that day and I don't know if they had all their kids there. Somebody mentioned, as I recall, something about taking the ACT test."

If the Chargers can get by the Blue Devils, they'll return to action at 10 a.m. Saturday (in the semifinals) to face the winner of the Birmingham Marian-Bay City Central quarterfinal match.

Depth may well determined the final outcome of the tournament.

The Chargers did not miss a beat last week despite the absence of starter Keri Hawkins, who was attending her brother's wedding.

"The fact that we were able to put some juniors in there with Keri out says something," Hughes said. "But we have six experienced seniors (led by Christina Garry and Alyssa Belaire) who have really improved during tourney time. I don't know how the kids are going to react. Every group is different, but so far, when we've had to play somebody tough, we've picked up our play a notch."

HUGHES SAID there are a lot of parallels between the current team and final four qualifiers of 1978 and '79, when such names Leigh Feenstra, Linda Mix, Gail Oljace, Stacey O'Toole and Julia Brubaker nearly led Churchill to a state championship.

"The teams are very similar in a lot of ways," he said. "Both teams were not very big, with no serious weaknesses to speak of.

"Those girls ('78-79) were ferocious competitors, but this team is more of an offensive team. They're not quite as big, but maybe they're better blockers."

The Chargers may rate as high as No. 2 in the eight-team field after finishing ahead of three other 'A' quarterfinalists at the Schoolcraft Tourney.

Wayne, meanwhile, cannot be underestimated. The Zebras beat quarterfinalists Temperance-Bedford (58-10) and Marian (37-6-5) en route to the Schoolcraft finals before losing to Churchill.

"We may have been ranked No. 1 all year, but it's wide open," said Myers, the West Ottawa coach. "I was talking to Bud Cole, the East Kentwood coach, and he said, 'Watch out for Churchill.' He came away very impressed with them."

On The Patient Lift Of Your Choice.
With Anolift, You Can Safely Move A Bedfast Patient. At Home. By Yourself.

The fact is, bedfast patients are often institutionalized simply because they cannot easily be moved at home.

Now, with our battery-powered Anolift, you can easily, safely and comfortably move a loved one out of bed, into a wheelchair, and back. All by yourself. Without the difficulty and danger of heavy lifting.

ANOLIFT IS EASY TO USE. Greater mobility and comfort for the patient.
Anolift automatically changes from a bed-like stretcher into a "seat" to help you smoothly ease patients out of bed and into a seated position in a wheel- or conventional chair. With Anolift, there's far less danger of pulling stitches, disconnecting catheters and colostomy bags, or causing other patient injuries.

Anolift offers you a choice of four seat styles: folding, molded fiberglass; fiberglass with fabric seat back and leg support; all-fabric with stainless-steel frame; and a frameless fabric sling. They're all designed to move patients in a more "natural" manner that helps to maintain patient dignity and preserve their self esteem.

Maximum protection for the caregiver.
Anolift's quiet, rechargeable-battery-powered hoist can lift up to 500 pounds at the touch of a button. There's no danger of straining or spraining the caregiver's back or causing other personal injuries.

Fixed-frame unit offers full mobility throughout the patient's room

Quality Anolift controls and features:
• Two switches let the caregiver control the unit from either side of a patient's bed or wheel chair.
• Easy-to-operate snap hooks quickly attach or detach the seat from the lifting mechanism.
• Color-coded straps help prevent improper hook up.
• Anolift's seats have a backward-cant that provide unmatched security and comfort.
• A removable commode cover lets the patient use a lavatory while seated on the Anolift "seat."
• Anolift is FDA approved.

Anolift's seat folds flat, like a stretcher, making it easy to load the patient and attach the support straps.
The lift motor automatically raises and positions the patient into a sitting position before transfer to a wheelchair.
Lower the patient onto the wheelchair, remove the straps and the patient remains seated on the comfortably padded Anolift.

Two models to choose from.
Anolift offers two types of residential patient lift systems. The fixed-frame unit which provides full mobility throughout the patient's entire room. And a versatile portable unit which allows easy movement throughout the home.

Gardening classes on tap nature

Timothy Nowicki

Becoming involved with the natural world may take many forms. Some people are birders and establish bird feeding stations. Others may become active in astronomy, insects, amphibians, reptiles, fish, rocks and minerals or any number of other interests.

Initial interest in a particular subject often leads to interest in several other areas — as one becomes aware of the interconnectedness of the natural world. It does not matter what subject(s) is/are pursued, the main thing is to investigate some natural history subjects and see if it interests you.

Many people have become interested in flowers and plants because of an initial interest in gardening. Getting outside, listening to birds singing, watching butterflies flutter by, and getting your hands in the soil is a very satisfying feeling. Watching plants develop from seeds and grow into fruits, vegetables or flowers provides a real sense of pride that makes one feel good.

If you have not tried gardening because you did not know how to start or know what to do, then the Master Gardeners of Wayne County Workshop on April 13 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. is the place for you. During the day you can choose classes such as Organic Vegetable Gardening, Herb Wreath Making, Color Your Landscape, Creating a Compost Pile, Lawn Care, or How To Plan and Plant a Flower Garden.

These classes will be taught by master gardeners who have been working with their subject for many years. Bob Klein has been gardening organicly since he was a child. Leo Blum, another instructor, has worked in horticulture for 42 years. Rose Marsh, who has been active in teaching and establishing garden programs for youths, will also be one of the qualified instructors at the workshop.

If you sign up for some of the classes outlined above, you may register your child (8-12 years old) in garden classes that introduce them to plants through various activities. Introducing students to the pleasures and work of a garden is a great idea. Often, positive experiences such as those associated with the natural world may influence a person for the rest of their life.

For more information about fees and registration procedures, call 453-7374.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence-Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

Come to the Cabaret for music and art

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

Whether you're searching for a way to beat the mid-winter Michigan blues, or simply longing to hear tunes by Irving Berlin as well as Sinatra songs performed in the style of an old-fashioned band concert, a ticket to the Spring Cabaret in Garden City could be the answer.

The Garden City Fine Arts Association, in conjunction with Schoolcraft College, hosts an evening of music Thursday, March 21.

The 48-member Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble, with music director Victor Bordo, will play 7:30-9:30 p.m. at Radcliff Center in Garden City. Visual arts and refreshments will also help to cheer you out of your cabin fever.

"The cabaret is being sponsored by the Garden City Fine Arts Association and Schoolcraft College to provide the community an evening of performing, visual arts and refreshments," said Norma McQueen, GCFAA president and director of The Art Gallery in Garden City.

She is the driving force and the behind-the-scenes producer of the visual and performing arts evening of entertainment, Spring Cabaret.

"ART WILL be displayed around the walls of the auditorium, so it will be both a visual and performing event," McQueen said.

"Refreshments will be provided by the Culinary Arts Department at Schoolcraft College. There will be cabaret seating at tables for eight."

"The ensemble has existed since 1977," said Victor Bordo, director of the Schoolcraft College Wind Ensemble. "It consists of piccolo, flutes, bassoon, clarinet, saxophones, trumpet, French horn, trombones, baritone tuba, and percussion."

This is Bordo's second year as director of the wind ensemble and 35th year in music education. He also is director of bands and chairman of the Fine Arts Department at Troy High School. He received his bachelor of arts and master in music education degrees from Wayne State University.

Guest artist for the evening is Jay Young III, first trombone for the ensemble. Young will be the featured soloist for the selection, "Dramatic Essay for Solo Trumpet and Band" by Clifton Williams.

"He's an outstanding player," Bordo said. "It's always a good decision to feature Jay as a soloist."

ALONG WITH a tribute to Irving Berlin, Bordo said songs from "Sinatra in Concert" are scheduled for the cabaret program. "New York, New York," "It Was a Very Good Year," "The Lady is a Tramp," and the standard Sinatra signature song, "My Way," will be featured in a medley of songs made famous by Frank Sinatra.

A tribute to Irving Berlin concludes the cabaret concert with "There's No Business Like Show Business," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody" and "This is the Army, Mr. Jones."

The final Berlin composition, "God Bless America," will end the evening's upbeat program in patriotic style.

The concert is made possible in part by Norma McQueen's driving ambition to "enhance the cultural aspect of the community," together with the sponsorship by Schoolcraft College and by a seed grant from the Garden City Arts and Entertainment Committee.

"This isn't a fund-raiser," McQueen said. "However, money from ticket sales will be used to repay the grant, like a loan. If there's sufficient response, we'll have more of these."

MEMBERS OF the Arts Association will act as ushers for the concert.

"The Garden City Fine Arts Association has been very active since its inception in 1982, stimulating cultural events in the community," McQueen said.

Cheese, crackers, fruits, vegetables and dip along with coffee, tea and sparkling cider will be served by members of the Garden City Fine Arts Association during intermission.

Tickets for the "Spring Cabaret" are $9. Seating is limited.

Tickets can be bought at these local locations: Tales and Tapes Bookstore, Misty's Cards and Gifts, The Art Gallery, Maplewood Community Center, the Garden City Chamber of Commerce. They also availablel through members of the Garden City Fine Arts Association.

Magical dolls dance to life in 'Coppelia'

By Linda Ann Chomin

MAGIC DOLLS steal your heart, taking center stage as the Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company performs the romantic comedy, "Coppelia," Saturday, March 16.

Curtain time is 2 and 7:30 p.m. in the Plymouth-Canton High School Little Theatre, 8415 N. Canton Center Road, Canton Township.

"This is the company's first production of 'Coppelia,' " said Dawn Greene, artistic director.

The original performance of "Coppelia" took place in Paris on May 25, 1870, danced to a musical score written by the French composer Leo Delibes.

Dancing the role of Swanilda, who is jealous of the mechanical doll named Coppelia, is Dawnell Dryja. Michael Finegan dances the male lead, the role of Franz, Swanilda's love interest. Beck Greene creates the role of Dr. Coppelius, the darkly comic dollmaker. Tiffani Natalini is cast as the Coppelia doll.

THE MAGICAL story of Coppelia weaves its way into your heart as two immature lovers, Swanilda and Franz, spar and play out their silly games.

Franz is a flirt. The iron-willed Swanilda amuses Franz but he fails to take her seriously.

Dr. Coppelius is a maker of dolls, in particular, Coppelia. As Franz falls in love with Coppelia, Swanilda schemes to win his love.

"THERE ARE 35 dancers in our Coppelia," Greene said. "We have about 50 members in the full company."

Greene, a ballet instructor for 20 years, teaches ballet at Joanne's Dance Extension in Plymouth. She serves on the executive board of the Cecchetti Council of America.

Symphony marks milestone; restoration shows resolve

ARTSY INTERLUDES:

• It makes a special kind of music.

And on the 45th anniversary of its founding, I applaud the Plymouth Symphony.

Our community symphonies give music students, music teachers and music lovers the golden opportunity to showcase their diverse skills while working alongside more experienced musicians.

Perfection is their elusive keynote as they strike up the music to blend their string, wind, brass and percussion instruments into a captivating orchestral sound.

As a highlight of its 1990-91 season, the Plymouth Symphony, under Russell Reed's direction, will present a Solid Gold Pops Concert at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, March 16-17, at Fox Hills Country Club in Plymouth.

The dinner concert will let the community salute, as well as support, the symphony.

Make no mistake about it: The concert will benefit the PSO, facing the loss of a $6,000 Michigan Council for the Arts grant in the wake of Gov. Engler's state-spending crackdown. Each concert costs roughly $10,000.

Concert tickets, which include gourmet coffees and desserts, are $25. Pre-concert dinner tickets are $15 with the purchase of a concert ticket. For reservations, call Fox Hills: 453-7272.

Don't think symphony members expect a community bail-out while continuing to reap full pay. Veteran cellists Louise Bradley and Edith Schutze among the membership who've donated their talents this year.

"I'm glad to have the orchestra to play in," she told the Observer. "I worry about not having an orchestra. The cello's been my life."

Concert programs vary but the community symphony's basic mission is very predictable: to bring the wonders of classical music to the people.

• Take it from John Willyard, who has painstakingly spent much of the past 11 years restoring his Greek Revival house to its original 1830s look:

"Don't undertake a project like this lightly if you're not prepared for years of hard work."

An automotive engineer by day, Willyard has devoted many evenings and weekends to restoring the 19th-century character to his Farmington Hills house.

A state historic site awaiting a state historic marker, the John Garfield home, as Willyard calls it, sits perched on a rise in a historic area northwest of 13 Mile and Drake.

A meticulous researcher and stickler for historical accuracy, Willyard has logged an amazing amount of the rough restoration himself — tearing down the stone porch and chimney, customizing windows and doors, replacing floor beams and wind braces.

"You must get rid of everything not original to find what was original," Willyard told the Farmington Historical Society Feb. 27, recounting the story behind his resolve.

Willyard not only has prepared a 67-page analysis documenting early architecture but also tracing early ownership of his two-story home.

His probing revealed that John Garfield bought the original 160-acres from Zolman and Milton Pettibone for $450 in 1831. Two years before, the Pettibones bought the site from the U.S. government for $200. The 1831 sales price shows the Pettibones made only modest improvement.

Willyard found the house's Federal-style construction more typical of the 1830s than 1850s. He found that Garfield sold the site in 1838 for $3,000, noting major improvement. Two later sales noted no such jump in price.

Citing state tax records, Willyard showed the site underwent "no meaningful change in market value," and thus no major development, between 1841 and 1860 — signalling the house pre-dates that era.

"The records clearly indicate that the house was built sometime between 1831-38, timing which is in complete agreement with style and construction techniques evident in the house," Willyard concluded — convincingly.

comedy ballet, "Coppelia."

Greene said she "set it on the original work. Some of it is original, some of it is set."

Along with dolls from Spain, Scotland and China, the production contains six members of the ballet company, dancing a Polish mazurka.

IN NOVEMBER, Dryja won the Junior Miss Dance of Michigan title in a competition that takes place annually by the Dance Masters of Michigan. In July, she competes for the national title in Las Vegas.

To prepare for the competition and the female lead of Swanilda, Dryja practices "seven or eight hours a week," she said.

"I've been dancing since I was 2 years old," Dryja said. "That's 12 years I've been dancing."

Besides practicing ballet regularly, Dryja spends the summers studying it.

For the last two years, Dryja, a student at Plymouth-Canton High School, won summer ballet scholarships to study with the Cleveland San Jose Ballet.

"I haven't auditioned yet for this summer," Dryja said, "but I'm going to. I'd like to dance professionally."

In December, she danced the role of the Sugar Plum Fairy in the Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company's production of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker."

IN DECEMBER, the ballet company joins the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under Russell Reed's direction, to present three performances of the holiday favorite, "The Nutcracker."

"The Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company is a non-profit organization that offers opportunities for local dancers to work and perform in ballet productions," a press release from the company said.

Besides dancers from the Plymouth-Canton area, the ballet company consists of performers from Farmington, Westland, Wayne and Detroit.

Show tickets are $6. Reserved seating is limited to 250. Call the Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company, 397-8828, or Joanne's Dance Extension in Plymouth, 455-4330.

Jessye Norman, Met Orchestra coming

In recollection of the golden days of visits by New York's Metropolitan Opera to Detroit, the University Musical Society brings world-renowned soprano Jessye Norman to Ann Arbor for a gala benefit concert April 30.

Also appearing will be conductor James Levine and the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

The three will unite to present a program featuring an unstaged version of the grand finale to Wagner's monumental Ring cycle, the "Immolation" Scene from Gotterdammerung.

Norman returns to her alma mater to sing Beethoven and Wagner with Maestro Levine and the Met Orchestra in a performance that marks this orchestra's first concert appearance outside of New York.

The special benefit concert is at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 30, in the University of Michigan's Hill Auditorium.

The complete program:

- Ludwig van Beethoven: Scene and Aria, Ah Perfido!.
- Alban Berg: Three Pieces for Orchestra, Op. 6.
- Richard Strauss: Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme Suite, Op. 60.
- Richard Wagner: "Immolation" Scene from Gotterdammerung.

This precedent-setting tour of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra begins in Ann Arbor on April 30. It moves to Columbus, Ohio, before returning to New York for a Carnegie Hall concert on May 3, also with Jessye Norman. That concert is part of Carnegie Hall's season-long Centennial Celebration.

KENNETH FISCHER, executive director of the University Musical Society, gives due credit to society concertgoers: "The ability of the University Musical Society to present these groundbreaking events is a tribute to the commitment and integrity of our patrons, who demand the 'cream-of-the-crop.' The concertgoers of southeastern Michigan deserve the very best that the world has to offer, and the musical society will give them nothing less."

Jessye Norman occupies a special place in the hearts of Michigan music lovers.

Since 1973, under University Musical Society auspices, she has displayed her artistry in two May Festivals (1973, 1989), and two recitals (1974, 1986). In 1978, she performed a benefit concert for the U-M School of Music (her alma mater) and the musical society.

The upcoming concert provides the first opportunity ever outside of New York to hear her with musicians of the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

JAMES LEVINE became artistic director of the Metropolitan Opera in 1986. He has conducted more than 60 different operas at the Met.

This season, he's conducting new productions of Un Ballo In Maschera, Die Zauberflote, and Parsifal, as well as revivals of Don Victor Bordo feels Spring Cabaret offers both musicians and listeners a rare opportunity.

"I think that it's an opportunity to play music that folks don't get to hear very often," he said. "It gives folks the chance to enjoy and experience what an old fashioned band concert used to be like."

So let the tunes set your toes to tapping and leave your blues behind at the door. Come to the Cabaret.

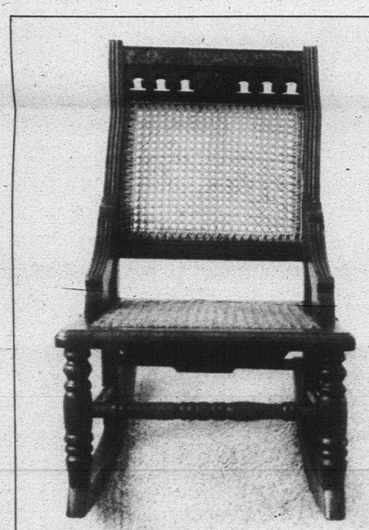
Rocking chair called a 19th-century child's rocker



This child's rocker, made about 1880-1890, would sell for $150-$185, appraiser James G. McCollam says.

Q: Enclosed is a picture of what is either a child's Victorian rocker or a salesman's sample with a caned back and seat. It is 25 inches tall and the seat is 12 inches high.

I would appreciate any information and approximate evaluation.

A: Your little rocker was a child's rocker made about 1880 to 1890. It would probably sell for about $150 to $185.

Q: The attached mark is on the bottom of a porcelain dresser set that consists of an 8-by-10-inch tray, covered powder jar and hatpin holder. The pieces are decorated with yellow flowers on a light blue background. The edges are trimmed with gold.

Can you identify the maker and tell me if this set is valuable?

A: Your dresser set was made by the Martial Redon company in Limoges, France, during the 1890s. It would probably sell for $200 to $225 in good condition.

Q: I have a pressed glass platter with a picture of Theodore Roosevelt. Around the rim are pictures of teddy bears.

Can you tell me something about its vintage and value?

A: Your pressed glass bread tray was made about 1905 and would probably sell for about $150. Someone who collects teddy bears might pay a little more for it.

Q: Are old brass bird cages valuable? I have a typical brass wire cage marked "Hendrix."

Can you tell me anything about it?

A: Your bird cage was made in the United States about 1900. Most cages like this sell in the $75 to $100 range. Very elaborate cages sell for over $1,000.

Q: I found an old stoneware crock marked with a picture of two leaves and "Red Wing Union Stoneware."

Can you tell me when this was made and what it might sell for?

A: This mark was used on machine-made stoneware during the early 1900s. It would probably sell for $50 to $60 in most antique shops.

Help symphony brainstorm fund- raising ideas

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

If you're a Livonia Symphony Orchestra fan with a bright idea for fund raising, mark 7-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 19, on your calendar.

That's when the Livonia Symphony will host a brainstorming-planning session to which everyone interested in its future is invited.

The meeting will be in the dining hall of Madonna College, Levan at Schoolcraft, in Livonia. Discussion topics will include financing, marketing and programming.

"What we're trying to do is the same thing that any corporation does. For any organization to grow, it needs planning," said Ken Kelsey, Livonia Symphony Society Board of Directors president.

The board is the driving force behind the symphony. This is Kelsey's second season as president of the society.

The agenda for the evening's brainstorming session includes locating "new opportunities for earned income and new sources of contributions and grants," he said.

IN JANUARY, Gov. John Engler, as part of a state spending crackdown, froze a Michigan Council for the Arts grant to the Livonia Symphony for $9,900. The symphony budget for the 1990-91 season is "slightly under $100,000," Kelsey said.

Ken Kelsey is president of the Livonia Symphony Society board of directors.

"We need to find other avenues besides grants. We're looking to market ourselves more."

From the inside, Kelsey understands and knows marketing and promotion. For the last 18 years, he has owned and managed Kelsey Advertising Specialties in Livonia.

The symphony is looking for new ideas to obtain financing for the 1991-92 season.

"WHERE ARE we going to get money to carry out the programs we'd like to?" Kelsey asked.

Lee Alanskas is a member of the Livonia Symphony Society's board of directors.

"We'd like people to come and give us their input," she said. "We need fresh ideas and input."

As far as programs the Livonia Symphony would like to institute, the top of the list is "increasing the appreciation of music in schools," Alanskas said.

"We'd like to go into the schools and try to get the students interested in classical music, not only to introduce classical (music) to them, but also the different instruments."

THIS IS the 18th season for the symphony. In 1973, the Livonia Symphony Orchestra was founded as the Oakway Symphony, so named because it covered Oakland and Wayne County. Francesco DiBlasi has been the music director since its inception.

"DiBlasi goes above and beyond the call of duty," Kelsey said. "They (the orchestra) work really hard. They deserve our support."

As far as obtaining money for the symphony, "a lot of fine corporations in our area have made sizeable contributions this year," Kelsey said. "The Ford Motor Co. and Target stores both have sponsored concerts this season."

BASICALLY IT boils down to this: "It's reaching out and finding a way to get to them. Once somebody hears the Livonia Symphony, they're more than willing to help. It's reaching out to them."

The symphony is inviting "all board members, committee members, orchestra members, league members, season ticket holders, sponsors and friends of the LSO to join with us to help brainstorm for the future.

"If they have an interest in the (future of the) symphony, we would love to have them," Kelsey said.

If you plan to attend the March 19 session, call 471-5120 to RSVP.

Giovanni, Porgy and Bess, La Clemenza di Tito and Luisa Miller.

Among his recordings with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra is Wagner's complete Der Ring des Nibelungen. Das Rheingold and Die Walkure (winner of the 1989 Grammy Award for Best Opera Recording) have already been released. Gotterdammerung is scheduled for release in early 1991.

In addition to his activities at the Metropolitan Opera, Levine is well known for his longterm relationships with the Berlin Philharmonic, the Vienna Philharmonic, and the Ravinia Festival, summer home of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

He is also an active chamber musician and pianist, playing recitals with Jessye Norman, Kathleen Battle, and Christa Ludwig, among others, and performs as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony.

THE METROPOLITAN Opera Orchestra is regarded as one of the world's finest orchestras, playing under leading conductors such as Arturo Toscanini, Gustav Mahler, and Leonard Bernstein from the time of the company's inception in 1883.

The Met Orchestra maintains a demanding schedule during the 30-week New York season, performing a repertoire that normally encompasses approximately 25 operas.

After the regular season, there are often opera tours in the parks of New York City, Nassau County, and New Jersey. The Orchestra is now expanding its activities as a concert orchestra with this first tour outside of New York City.

Reservations for the benefit gala are being taken at the University Musical Society's Burton Tower ticket office. Prices begin at $25.

All tickets include a tax-deductible contribution to the University Musical Society as allowed by law. For more information, contact the University Musical Society, Burton Memorial Tower, Ann Arbor, Mich., 48109-1270. Call (313) 764-2538.

This project supported by the Michigan Council for the Arts.

A story last Thursday about Mark and Peggy Smith's Saltbox-style house in Farmington Hills contains a typographical mistake.

The paragraph containing the error should have read:

A family friend had just moved into a new Saltbox-style house, an American architectural style that dates to 1700. Peggy admits she was "a little envious" when she toured the house.

● INTERIOR DESIGN

The Interior Design Studio at Hudson's has created three separate Town Houses for customers to view at their convenience.

The purpose is to display different trends through the creativity of Hudson's interior designers. Artwork, accessories and special-order pieces, not usually included in the furniture showroom, are used. Each room enjoys its own color scheme, mood and design.

The locations are:

- Northland Town House — Lower Level, living room, dining room, master bedroom, foyer. 443-6138.
- Eastland Town House — Third Level, living room, dining room, master bedroom, sun room. 245-2357.
- Westland Town House — Lower Level, living room, dining room, master bedroom, den. 458-5535.

Two to four designers created the Town Houses at each of the three locations.

The Town Houses will be updated as necessary and are open now through September. Individual pieces featured are listed with resource names and retail values.

● AUTHOR SIGNING

Oakland County writer Kathe Koja will sign copies of her debut novel, "The Cipher," at 7 p.m. Friday, March 15 at Borders Book Shop, Novi Town Center, Novi Road, just south of I-96.

In "The Cipher," Koja describes the dead-end life of a failed poet named Nicholas, who, with his girlfriend Nakota, begins to experiment with a mysterious black hole they discover in his apartment.

Objects inserted in the hole come out drastically altered if at all; one day, Nicholas himself is altered in a fall near this "Funhole.'

Koja has been writing fiction most of her life.

Flowery

Roses flourish with drip irrigation down to earth

Marty Figley

Roses are making the news this year.

All-American Rose Selections Inc. suggests using many types of roses for container growing. The process isn't difficult and can be rewarding. Use a pot with enough room . . . 6 inches wide by 8 inches deep for miniatures and 14 by 18 inches for full-sized plants.

Porous pots need a good soaking before the rose is placed in them. All pots need drainage holes and can be lined with gravel, charcoal or shards. Put a little soil in the bottom of the new pot before transferring the rose, add more soil, pack it well, then soak.

Six to eight hours of direct sunlight is necessary, and the soil needs to be kept evenly moist when new growth begins. Apply a liquid fertilizer weekly at half strength until good growth starts, then use full strength on a regular basis.

JACKSON & PERKINS, meanwhile, is sponsoring a new series of TV programs, "Gardens of the World."

The first show has aired but several additional programs exploring a different garden theme will follow this summer. To commemorate the series, the company is offering a hybrid tea rose, "Gardens of the World," with cream buds edged with cherry red. It has a light fragrance.

A new grandiflora rose, "Audrey Hepburn," hardy and disease-resistant, which grows 4 to 5 feet tall with a 2 ½-foot spread, blossoms prolifically. The flower is large, apple blossom pink in color and very fragrant. This rose is suitable for all parts of the country and is available from Spring Hill Nurseries, Peoria, Ill.

"We all have within us a need to create beauty. And we all can in a garden, however small," Hepburn said. "Perhaps if we now take a closer look at our gardens, we will at last awaken to the fragility of our beautiful planet and better understand our lovely Earth."

The TV programs will show many gardens "right in our own living rooms." I look forward to seeing them.

Another rose is making its debut this year, an everblooming landscape shrub, "Carefree Wonder," by the Conard Pyle Co., West Grove, Pa. The petals are rich pink in color with creamy pink on the reverse. The hips, for fall color, are large orange-red.

No wonder the rose is our national flower.

WHEN PLANNING an area for roses, several factors must be taken into consideration.

The first is sun: six to eight hours daily, with morning sun preferable, to minimize the chance of disease problems.

The second is space. Roses need room to grow and air circulation. If there are nearby trees, visualize their mature height in a few years. What now is a sunny location may soon become too shady.

Ideally the soil pH is 6.5 to 6.8; roses will tolerate some leeway on either side. A soil sample will tell, and the soil can be amended if necessary.

Remember, well-drained and well-aerated soil will help the roses thrive.

A DRIP irrigation system in our rose bed works splendidly. It was put in place in 1989 when we planted the roses and it made watering a breeze. I usually let the water seep into the ground for about two hours and test for enough moisture by shoving a stick into the ground.

There are several brands, but we used "Leaky Pipe" R, from Northwest Underground Irrigation Systems Inc., Pendleton, Ore. 97801.

Fertilizers can be applied through the pipe also. A sloping area would be ideal for such a system.

Marty Figley is a master gardener based in Birmingham.

Goal identification key to builder successes

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Before homes, before subdivisions, before lots — there is the land developer. Land developers select the sites, assemble the land, develop site plans and improve the sites that enable builders to construct homes. And while people can see the results of their labor, the process itself remains mystery. Whether it's a 200-lot subdivision or a custom home on a single lot, many of the things are the same.

Novice builders and the merely interested were given a brief introduction into the developing and building industry at a seminar presented by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan at the Troy Hilton last week. (See related story on Page 3.)

Lawrence Cohen, president of Nosan/Cohen Associates in West Bloomfield, said builder/developers have to learn to expect the unexpected.

"Never say, 'That could never happen, because it can and at some time, it will."

Cohen cautioned listeners there are no formulas for developing property, but there are basics outlines.

"Before anything else, identify your goal," Cohen said. What type of product, the price range, and defining the competition are critical to a project's eventual success or failure.

"Too many builder/developers mistakenly lock themselves into a plan before deciding what they will do."

In one case, the builder/developer may assemble property and create a site plan; in another he may create a site plan, develop the infrastructure and then sell lots to builders, Cohen said. Another option would be to develop and build homes.

"Whatever works for you," Cohen said. Now that the builder developer has set goals and decided on a role, it is time to select a site — but there's more to identifying a site then pointing to a piece of property.

IDENTIFYING a site also means visiting the competition, learning everything about the surrounding area, reviewing existing and planned nearby uses (office, residential, commercial), learning about growth patterns and project absorption rates, identifying the quality of schools and just about anything else. The more the builder/developer learns at this stage, the less he will have to find out later.

Once a project is clearly visualized in a builder/developer's minds, it is time to sit down — informally — and talk to municipal officials, Cohen said.

Getting to know community decision makers — and their getting to know the developer — can be an invaluable experience, he said.

Even though two communities share the exact same concerns, it's possible one community will be hostile toward development and another receptive, he said. Getting to know one another permits each side to get a feel for the other.

"The way a project is presented and who presents it can make a big difference," Cohen said.

Before stick one is ever nailed to stick two, the builder/developer should step back and take another look at the project before too much money and time are devoted to the project.

The builder/developer should ask if the planned product a viable one, he said. "When I started in this business, it would take one year to complete a project; now, it can take as long as three years," Cohen said.

"Ask yourself, 'Will the market still be there when I'm ready?' "

If the answer is yes, it's time to rough out the costs of a project, work out a timetable, and take another look at alternatives, he said. "Each project is different in hundreds of aspects."

And now the step most builders/developers dread — financing, Cohen said. From conventional borrowing to joint ventures and partnerships to syndication — in which a builder/developer sells shares in a project and shares the risks as well as profits, this is one of the most dangerous areas.

"If I can emphasize one thing, it's to make sure you're over-capitalized," he said. "The two greatest reasons for lack of success in this business are insufficient funds to do what needs to be done and not enough marketing."

DON'T THINK you're done yet, Cohen said. Really, all you have are a good set of plans and some contacts. You may have already invested several months into a project but now comes the nitty gritty.

One potential problem — that absolutely perfect residential development site in a great school district, close to shopping, in an up and coming community is zoned — ta dah — multiple residential, Cohen said.

If the builder/developer was going to build multiple — condominiums, or apartments — there's no problem. If the plan was for single family residential, a more dense residential, office or commercial it's time to attempt a zoning change, Cohen said.

"It's not impossible to change zoning — it is difficult."

The key to getting a zoning change is proving a different zoning is a better idea, Cohen said. "That means you need to sell the project — if you can't get excited about it, they aren't going to get excited about it."

Once zoning is settled, it's time to begin planning the installation of utilities — sewer, water, electric and gas — and set up temporary power for use during construction.

If you haven't already, it is also time to check the property for toxicity problems, he said. Under current law, a property owner can be liable for toxic contamination problems even if he did not cause the problem.

"Toxicity wasn't even in an issue five or ten years ago," Cohen said. "Today you can't even get a loan unless you've tested the site."

Builders: Wait 'til next year

By Doug Funke
staff writer

Even though traffic at new residential developments has increased in recent weeks, representatives for several builders forecast Monday at an open house display that fewer units will be built this year than last.

But they don't expect the roof to fall in, so to speak, when everything is put into perspective.

"Now that the war is over, there seems to be excitement. Interest rates are right, and people with stability in employment now are making decisions to buy a home," said David Lewenz, director of sales and marketing for S.R. Jacobson Development of Birmingham.

"The next 60 days will give us a pretty good picture," he said. "It (activity) by no means is going to be what it was like two years ago. (But) we see good, consistent numbers."

Two years ago — 1989 — was a record year for residential builders in southeast Michigan. Permits were pulled for 12,400 unit. Activity fell 15 percent last year to 10,500 permits, lowest since 1985 but still the fifth best year on record.

Where Jacobson would normally build 70-80 units in a typical year, expectations are for 60-70 this year, Lewenz said.

JACOBSON is building in Rochester Hills — Vintage Estates ($236,000-300,000) and Sugar Creek Condominiums ($175,000-$195,000) — and West Bloomfield — Mission Springs ($236,000-$270,000) and the Woods of Orchard Lake ($279,000-$350,000).

Jacobson acquired property in Northville Township and is looking at other sites in Oakland and Northville townships.

"Next year (1992) will be a great year. New subdivisions are coming on line. If you look at last two years, things are soft. As you come out of recession, there's pent-up demand."

Building: a step-by-step guide

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Developing a site and getting ready for the home builder is only half of the battle — building the home itself is another labor worthy of Hercules.

Chuck Breidenstein, president of NCI Associates Ltd. — a construction education group that helps to educate builders step-by-step in how to build a house — said building requires planning and attention to detail.

"I could spend 40 hours on all this and still not have enough time," he said.

Experience is the best teacher, he said, but good planning can help first-time and novice builders to avoid the pitfalls encountered by even professional builders.

"In this industry, planning is the one thing that a lot of people don't do well," he said.

The first step in constructing a home — after getting a building site — is to do a site plan. Cataloging a site's topography, its natural drainage, soil and privacy considerations are all important in determining a building's orientation on the property. As for the actual construction, the entire process — after getting all applicable building permits — will take roughly 100 days, he said.

"As anyone can tell you who's ever tried to obtain a permit in southeastern Michigan, 20 days is not enough time — in (some communities) it may take you 20 days to get someone to look at your plans."

Throughout the construction process there are a number of required inspections that are done by municipal building inspectors.

"Realistically, the first thing you want to do is take the building inspector out to lunch," he said. "That way you can pick his brain — find out what's important."

ALTHOUGH BUILDING codes are adopted by the state, local communities alter the codes to suit their own special needs. "So every community you build in is different."

Sitting down with the building inspector is a good way to find out where most builders get themselves into trouble.

The first inspection follows site layout — in which layout stakes defining the physical boundaries of a building on the site are checked against local ordinance setback and encroachment requirements.

Following site layout, Breidenstein said, the builder excavates the site by removing the top layer of soil and digging the hole for the basement — if there is to be one — and the foundation.

Also at this stage, the driveway is roughed in, gas and electrical lines are brought to the site.

There is another inspection following excavation.

After excavation, the builder pours the footings that provide the foundation for the structure, Breidenstein said. The footing distributes the structure's weight evenly to prevent settling, cracking and heaving.

Footing drains, which take water away from the footings and relieve hydrostatic pressure, are also installed at this stage.

There is another inspection following installation of footings.

Excavation and footings are two of the most important steps in the construction of a home — many problems that occur later in a home are a result of mistakes in these two steps, he said.

A COMMON ERROR in excavation occurs when an excavator removes too much soil and then replaces it. A home or other structure should be built on undisturbed or compact soil that will not settle, Breidenstein said.

The most common error that occurs when setting footings is to pour them into wet soil or standing water, he said.

The next step in building a home is laying the foundation, Breidenstein said. Poured concrete, cement blocks or treated wood are built upon the foundation. This is another critical step.

To prevent moisture absorption or infiltration, builders apply a waterproofing to the outer surface of the foundation, surround the foundation with a porous material like pearock or sand to facilitate drainage and build a sloped overlay of clay over the fill material to take water away from the foundation, Breidenstein said.

"People get excited about all the snotty things upstairs — the Jacuzzis and the hot tubs. But if you don't have a good downstairs (foundation) all those things upstairs aren't going to look good when they fall into the basement," he said.

Poured concrete floors and that rest on grade — basement or garage — is often poured at this time, but may happen later, he said.

Another inspection by the building department occurs after the foundation is built.

AT THIS POINT, the builder is roughly 35 days into the job — about one-third of the way through to completion, Breidenstein said. The next third of construction takes a home from a hole in the ground to a roughed in house.

Floor frames, wall frames roof frames and roofing material along with rough mechanical installation of electric wiring and outlet boxes and heating ducts will take between 23 and 25 days, he said.

"When the roof is done you've peaked at two-thirds of the grief and effort, but you're only half way through," Breidenstein said.

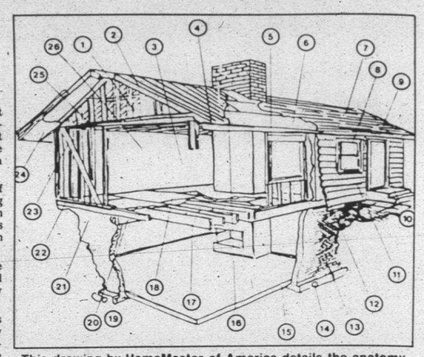
"When a lot of people see all this work, they get excited and think they can move in next week," Breidenstein said. "You have to make sure and tell them there's still a long way to go."

Following rough mechanical construction, there will be another inspection.

Now begins the final stage of construction. Insulation, drywall exterior trim work, hard floors — like tile, wood or linoleum — are applied and kitchen and bath cabinets are built, Breidenstein said.

Lights, switches, plumbing fixtures, heat registers and other finished mechanical work are also prepared for final inspection.

Work that was put off until now — exterior decks, sidewalks, driveway, landscaping, water, gas and storm drain hook ups — are completed while finished painting and staining and carpeting are done, he said.



This drawing by HomeMaster of America details the anatomy of a house. No. 1 ceiling joist; 2, rafter; 3, flooring; 4, fascia; 5, header; 6, roof sheathing; 7, roof covering; 8, window casing; 9, gutter; 10, door jamb; 11, siding; 12, wall sheathing; 13, parge coat; 14, drain tile; 15, slab; 16 chimney flashing; 17, floor joist; 18, sub-flooring; 19, footing; 20, main girder; 21, foundation; 22, sillplate; 23, bracing; 24, soffit, 25. wall board.

Defining the roles of builder/developers

ASSUMING NOTHING is wrong with a site from a toxic standpoint, there are still woodlands and wetlands to contend with, he said. Many communities have adopted ordinances to protect trees or forest areas, while others have ordinances superseding state requirements for preserving wetlands.

"Just because a site has wetlands or woodlands doesn't mean you can't have a development," he continued. Sometimes, the builder/developers can take, move, or create new wetlands and woodlands.

In both cases, it's important for the builder/developer to have an expert, Cohen said. Ideally, a builder/developer should have a land planner who is knowledgeable about wetlands, woodlands and landscaping.

A land planner is essential not only for his expertise in site design and layout but because in any confrontation with the state or a community over an ordinance, the decision-making body is going to have its experts, Cohen said. "A good land planner puts an expert on your side."

AND NOW YOU'RE a mere two to three years away from completion.

At this point, the builder/developer should start getting the various approvals necessary for construction, Cohen said.

Start with general concept meetings with municipal decision makers and neighbors to the site, Cohen said. "Many developers avoid (meeting with neighbors to the site), but I think it's an important step."

If a builder/developer can't get the development's neighbors support, it can be much more difficult down the road, Cohen said. "I can't emphasize this enough."

All the planning and work becomes extremely valuable now, he said.

Following the general concept meetings come tentative subdivision plat reviews with the local, county and state governing bodies, Cohen said.

"Be prepared for changes at every step of the way. Don't plan a project and say, 'If I can get 100,000 square feet it can work,'" he said. "You'd better be able to survive at 60,000 square feet and be happy with anything else you get."

Following tentative plat reviews come modifications, completed designs, more reviews, and at last, final plat approval, he said.

Depending on the community, this process generally takes from 18 to 24 months. If there are problems, it could take as long as three years.

Development process piques builders' interest

By Gerald Frawley
staff writer

Houses don't grow like trees.

No surprise there. Most people have an inkling of the extremely complex nature of home building, from finding and preparing a site, through permitting, through financing, through construction.

The key word is inkling.

In a series of workshops presented by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan at the Northfield Hilton in Troy last week, speakers touched on everything from finding and developing a project site to step-by-step guidelines on home construction for novice builder/developers and the average Joe and Josie off the street.

Scott Glasson, vice president of Sunrise Homes in West Bloomfield, said he attended the seminars in hopes of gaining a better understanding of the development process.

"A lot of times — when you look at a project — you don't see the stages it takes."

Glasson's company builds approximately 10 custom homes per year on lots that have already been developed. He hopes to someday to develop sites in addition to being a builder.

GLASSON SAID, he has only been in the building trade for about three years and he realizes he still has a lot to learn. "Even in a general overview (of the development process) you're going to pick up little things you can use later."

Carol Lee, owner of Five Star Construction in Livonia, said she has been a builder for four years and is constantly amazed at how much there is too learn.

Being a member of the builders association and attending its many seminars — plus taking advantage of the numerous networking opportunities — has been a tremendous tool.

"I come to these (seminars) for the information," she said. "I'm still new to the business and I find listening and talking to others helps."

Although she is a builder, not a site developer, she has considered the possibility of developing a piece of property and either, selling the lots or building on them.

"Now I have a better idea about what that means. A lot of times, the seminars can be about general topics, but you can get a lot of insight from them (the speakers)," Lee said.

Carl Skrzynski, director of development from Rodney Lockwood & Co., a land development group in Birmingham, said he attended the conference not so much for his company's future plans, but because he is going to build a home for himself.

Which isn't to say the information won't be useful in his work his company, "but I was there for more personal reasons," he said.

"I want to get a good understanding, the nuts and bolts, of home building," Skrzynski said. He said he will hire a general contractor rather than act as his own contractor, but he wants to be able to follow along with what the builder is doing.

"I'm trying to learn this stuff so I know what to expect," Skrzynski said.

in the building business, said Norman E. Heilenman, a vice president for Robertson Brothers Co. of Bloomfield Hills.

Robertson, which erected 100 units last year, expects to build 60-70 condominiums this year at the Heathers of Bloomfield Hills ($150,000-$300,000) and Huron Chase in Ann Arbor (starting at $190,000), Heilenman said.

"The year actually started off slow but picked up significantly in the last 45 days. There's only so much absorption out there, so many buyers. It will pick up again. It's a good, solid, steady market. I'm hearing a lot of optimism and strength in the resale market."

The Selective Group of Farmington Hills sold units in all seven of its residential communities in January and February, said Ellen Whitefield, director of marketing for the firm.

SELECTIVE PROBABLY will build a few units less this year than the 125-130 erected during 1990, she said.

"I don't think profits will be where they were," Whitefield added. "Builders are working with consumers. Builders are willing to give extras they might not be willing to give before. People who have bought recently have got great deals."

Selective's low end now is Spring Lake in Clarkston ($150,000-175,000), its medium-priced houses are in Woodlore in Plymouth and Oxford Estates in Farmington Hills ($270,000-330,000) and its upper end is Kirkway Pines in Bloomfield Hills ($450,000).

Whitefield acknowledged that every year can't be a record year for builders. "But you don't want to go backwards."

Lesley C. Mancen, who has represented several builders, has noticed an increase in shoppers in recent weeks.

"There's been a tremendous spurt since the war ended. But then, this is our (busy) season. I'm kind of anxious to see how the next 60 days are going to go, which way the economy is going to go."

So is Paul Levine, president of the Irvine Group of Farmington Hills.

Levine anticipates building just 30 units this year after constructing as many as 70 combined last year at The Lagoons in West Bloomfield and Sierra Pointe in Farmington Hills.

"We can't get new projects started due to financing," he said. "Banks have completely pulled back from lending. My sources now are mostly private sources. If I had financing, there is demand."

The Irvine Group expects to start work in May on its equestrian-oriented community Berwyck on the Park ($175,000-$250,000) and Berwyck Place ($275,000) in Milford.

"We'll have models open this year, late fall. We're preselling units. We expect to deliver when the models open up," Levine said.

Builders show heralds spring's arrival

THE 1991 International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show comes to Detroit's Cobo Exhibition & Conference Center March 16-24.

This year marks the 73rd anniversary of the builders show, which has become the largest home show in the world, all under one roof.

Local folks consider the builders show to be the first official sign of spring with its lavish and extravagant gardens and hundreds of home improvement exhibits spread over 600,000 square feet, using the entire main floor of Cobo.

If you're considering buying a home you'll be able to get some ideas from the display of three full-size, modern manufactured homes in the builders show.

The homes range in price from $25,000 to $50,000 and are part of an exhibit sponsored by Michigan Manufactured Housing Association.

Showgoers will find that today's manufactured homes offer many amenities of conventional stick-built homes, but are at prices attractive to many first-time home buyers.

The builders show is sponsored by the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM).

This year, the builders association's Remodelers Council will give attendees a visual example of what a big difference a little remodeling can do. The council is sponsoring an exhibit of "before" and "after" projects to give the public ideas on the variety of remodeling magic available to spruce up a home.

MORE THAN 500 exhibitors will show off their wares, offering the best in home renovations, furnishings and accessories.

Among the exhibitors are:

- Architectural Roof Tile — A Kalamazoo-based company offering colorful and stylish alternatives to traditional asphalt shingles.
- Michigan Bathtub Liners — featuring its new custom-fitted wall systems that can revive the look of an old shower. The Auburn Hills company also markets a similar

IT'S A lavish harbinger of spring.

And it's chock-full of springtime magic: lush gardens, fresh flowers, home displays, remodeling tips, futuristic technology, kitchens and spas.

It's the 73rd annual International Builders, Home, Flower and Furniture Show March 16-24 at Detroit's Cobo Center.

The garden and home improvement spectacular has come to be recognized as a national-caliber "fix-up, spruce-up" show. Attendees often are treated to demonstrations of products and services brand-new to the industry.

As always, the do-it-yourselfer will find a host of "how to" workshops and demonstrations.

The gardens will boast an international theme representing various countries, including Japan, Holland, England and Italy.

In the Smart House playhouse area, Detroit Edison will provide a peek at futuristic user-friendly devices that give homeowners fingertip control of their kitchen, living room, bedroom and home office.

Within this backdrop the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and the HomeTown Newspapers, both part of Suburban Communications Corp., have put together this special builders show section.

It's geared to homeowners looking for builders, products, property and a lot of advice. It's loaded with helpful hints, whether you're moving or improving.

You'll also be introduced to a sampling of the 500 exhibitors offering the latest in home renovations, furnishings and accessories.

Read on for a preview peek at what has become the largest home show in the world, all under one roof!

Lushness sprouts in these gardens

WHAT WOULD a builders show be without the spectacular gardens that will fill more than one-fourth of Cobo Center?

"The garden portion of the show has become an increasingly important part of the Home, Flower and Furniture Show," said James C. Scott of James C. Scott and Associates, Birmingham. "It's one of the major draws."

All of the gardens' greenery is orchestrated by Scott, who has designed and coordinated the flower portion for 29 years.

Gardens continue to grow in popularity as greenhouses and landscapers offer more alternatives, he said. "People are becoming more and more landscape conscious."

Whether it's of the simple home handyman variety, or the elaborate professional formal to specialized gardens, landscaping can mean the difference between a great home and a truly spectacular showcase, Scott said.

The availability of annuals, which bloom every year, hearty versions of rare and exotic plants that previously couldn't survive the harsh winters, and exciting hybrids developed by horticulturists permit the home, office or commercial property owner to add distinction.

"We are constantly trying to entice the public, to whet their appetite for spring," Scott said.

THE FLOWER section, with its huge variety of flowers and plants, appeals to all the senses.

Obviously, the flowers and plants give the display a visual and aromatic appeal. Scott said, but there also is the aural appela contributed by the sound of water in the contructed waterfalls and ponds.

And although visitors are not encouraged to touch the displays, plants and flowers can appeal to the touch.

As for taste, well, wait until next year. If all goes well, Scott said he is planning an edible garden that appeals to the sight as well as the appetite.

Scott said the garden show can at times be a a logistical nightmare. There are gardens to design, plants to grow, workers to organize, greenhouses to contact, he said. "We're already planning next year's."

There are 3,000 to 4,000 cubic yards of sand and dirt, 10,000 to 15,000 pots of plants, 300 evergreens, 200 hearty flowering shrubs and trees, and 200 tons of stone.

"Add 250 workers, 15 tractors and 18 garden builders, put them all together, shake them up, and after four days working 24 hours a day, you have a show," Scott said.

FOUR OF the most elaborate gardens will be sponsored by Detroit's Parks and Recreation Department, Standard Federal Bank, National Bank of Detroit and First Federal Savings and Loan.

> — James C. Scott landscape architect

The Hall of Gardens, a collection of specialty gardens, florist exhibits and smaller displays throughout the show will make up the remainder of the show, Scott said.

In the Hall of Gardens, there will be a garden dedicated solely to perennials, another to cactus and tropical plants, a Japanese garden featuring miniature or "Bonsai trees, a formal garden and fountain, a patio garden, and a colossal 18-foot flowering bunny rabbit.

Tom Trueman, the owner of the Bonsai Center in Mount Clemens, is building a Japanese Garden of Bonsai miniature trees and specially important plants built around a model of a Japanese tea house.

Trueman, building a garden at the show for only the second year, said the essence of the Japanese Garden is a wish for quiet contemplation on the presence of nature.

Trueman said he has several excellent examples of Bonsai to display this year, including a 100-year-old Chinese Sweet Plum Bonsai and a 130-year-old White Spruce bonsai.

THE FLOWER portion of the Home, Flower and Furniture Show, Trueman said, gives people a chance to see there is more out there than the garden variety garden.

"We can expose people to what's out there. It gives the specialist a chance to show what he has to offer," he said.

Gary Bates, owner of Grass Roots Nursery in New Boston, is designing and building a water garden, a first for the show, sponsored by first Federal of Michigan.

A collection of bog plants, water lillies, water fiyacinths and an assortment of hearty and tropical plants will rebuilt around a series of ponds containing a variety of tropical fish.

"We're actually creating a form of wetland, but a shallow water wetland," he said.

And unlike the kind of wetland that many people might prefer to fill in, these wetlands are actually highly desired.

"We build quite a few of these, ranging from the elaborate, large back-yard garden ponds to the simple barrel gardens people might put on a deck," he said. "It's for the garden enthusiest who's gone one step further."

The Detroit Parks and Recreation Department is keeping a tight gap on its plans, but promises a real showstopper unequalled by past efforts.

DOUG SUSALLA

Waterfalls are a big part of the lush natural settings that help make the builders show a popular wintertime respite.

As always, builders show gardens will showcase mini parks with flowing fountains and benches for attendees to stop and smell the flowers.

Best birdhouses bask amid prizes

THE ACCENT'S on creativity for student woodworkers in the Best Birdhouse Builder contest, quickly becoming a popular part of the builders show.

Last year, nearly 1,200 young architects from suburban Detroit participated in the second annual contest.

This year, the contest again is sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Builders Association of Southeast Michigan.

Designed to meet the Michigan state guidelines for math and science proficiency, the contest is open to all seventh- and eighth-grade students within the O&E circulation area.

In this contest, each student builds a birdhouse designed for a specific species of bird: house wren, bluebird, wood duck, barred owl, great crested flycatcher, American kestrel, American robin and tree swallow.

All birdhouses are judged on strict criteria because each species of bird is very choosy in selecting its home. The house must be perfect to attract the species it was designed for.

EACH STUDENT is supplied with information from a book entitled "Woodworking for Wildlife," by the DNR. The book describes the habitat needs of each species and gives instructions on how to build the most suitable house for each species.

Participating schools each choose one seventh- and one eighth-grade winner. The more than 1,000 birdhouse entries will be on display in Birdhouse Garden at the builders show, located near the middle of the back of the builders show floor, next to the Cafeteria/Entertainment Area.

A panel of judges from the sponsoring organizations will select and announce winners from each grade level on Saturday, March 16.

The two first-place winners will each receive $150 gift certificates. The two second-place winners will each receive $100 gift certificates. The two third-place winners will each receive $50 gift certificates.

Twenty-five honorable mentions will each receive $25 gift certificates. All students whose birdhouses are on display at the builders show will receive a certificate of appreciation from the O&E and $10 gift certificate to Harmony House.

Teachers of first-, second- and third-place winners will receive an evening for two at The Golden Mushroom, Southfield. A plaque commemorating the contest winners will be awarded to each participating school.

Future houses to be smart

THE HOME of tomorrow is coming — soon.

But visitors to the builders show can get a glimpse of futuristic technology and experience first-hand the benefits of the Smart House system in the interactive Smart Playhouse at the Detroit Edison exhibit.

Bille Steele, Detroit Edison builder liaison, said show goers will be able to walk through the four-room "Smart Playhouse" and familiarize themselves with the Smart House system.

"People will be able to go through and play with it, see exactly what we're trying to do," Steele said. "It brings the Jetsons to life. Things we used to see on cartoons, we can do today."

"In it (the Smart Playhouse) are the four most-used rooms in a house: the kitchen, living room, bedroom and home office," Steele said.

Each room will demonstrate specific applications appropriate for that room.

THE THREE most significant technological leaps in the Smart House are in energy management, safety and security, Steele said. Smart House system demonstrations will include control of the home security system, lighting, communications, energy management and various entertainment features.

SMART HOUSE®

Specifically, demonstrations will allow visitors to witness what Smart House will do in case of fire, watch as drapes open and close electronically, and learn how to assign switches to various light fixtures.

"You'll see everything work from outside grills, to speaker systems to lights," Steele said.

A further demonstration will show how a videotape playing in any VCR can be viewed on television in the house and how the same television can be switched over from viewing entertainment to monitoring a child in the bedroom.

Visitors will see how the Smart House system monitors energy rates and schedules appointments to work at the most efficient times during the day.

DESIGNERS OF the Smart House were aware many people are still uncomfortable with technology, so to encourage use of the systems, controls have been built around items already common to most men and women, Steele said.

These controls include a video touch screen, touch tone phone, remote control, keypad and personal computer.

Perhaps even more exciting than the Smart Playhouse, however, is the advent of a fully functioning real Smart House, Steele said. Detroit Edison, Consumers Power and the National Association of Home Builders will choose a builder soon to construct a Smart House in southeastern Michigan.

The first Smart House in Michigan is scheduled to be built in 1992.

"After the first is built and showcased for several months, it will be sold to an average homeowner. Then other builders will have an option to build other smart houses," Steele said.

A Smart House will appear much like the average house on the outside, Steele said, but its capabilities will be significantly different, thanks to an integrated wiring/computer system.

UNLIKE THE conventional home, which is wired with basic 120-volt copper wiring, the Smart House will include three different types of wires designed to carry power, video and communication signals.

product that makes worn-out or cracked bathtubs like "new."

- Allsafe Alarms — The Livonia company specializes in the installation of intrusion, fire and smoke detection systems for residential and commercial use. It carries one of the newest and most sophisticated commercial models on the market, the 2600 System by NAPCO.

- The Gramophone — a Birmingham-based retailer of high-quality stereo systems and components and a distributor of audio/video products. It'll demonstrate a home theater system, including a 70-inch big screen TV and Dolby Surround sound.

- Also, Jenn-Air kitchens, Trevarrow kitchens, Pella Windows and Doors, California Closets.

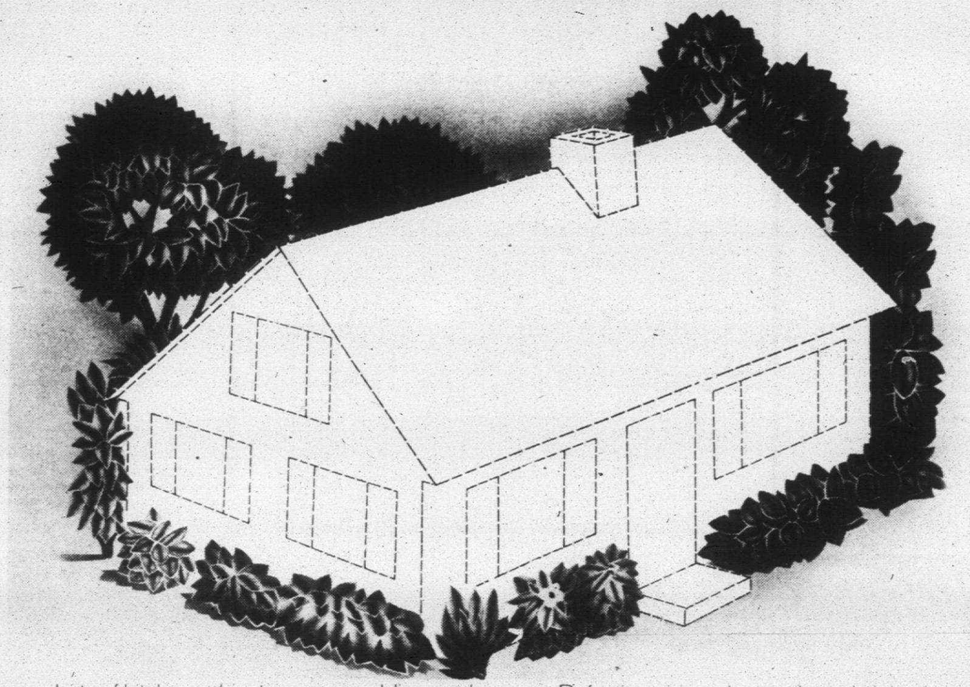
THE BUILDERS show has come to be recognized as the premier "fix-up, spruce-up" show in the nation. Attendees are often treated to demonstrations of products and services that are brand new to the industry.

For example, this year's show will include a demonstation of concrete pumping. If a patio or sidewalk starts to fall apart, sand can be pumped under it providing a permanent, convenient fix in about two hours, without having to replace the concrete.

As always, the do-it-yourself handyperson will find a variety of "how to" workshops and demonstrations at the builders show.

More than 500,000 people are expected to attend the nine-day builders show. Hours are from 1-10:30 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Saturdays and from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays.

THE REAL BEAUTY OF A HOW HOME IS WHAT YOU DON'T SEE.



Lots of kitchen cabinets, crown molding, and extra-large closets are things you can appreciate the moment you see them in a new home.

But the intangibles—things like security and peace of mind—take a little while longer to surface.

That's why more and more new homebuyers are insisting on a home protected by the Home Owners Warranty 10 year protection program.

They know they're getting the best protection money can buy. Good for 10 years, and even transferable to the new owners, should you sell your home during that period.

And even though the odds are slim that something will go wrong, it's good to know you're protected against workmanship and material defects the first year. Defective wiring, ductwork, and piping in the second.

And your home is protected against major structural defects that vitally affect the use of your new home for the full 10 years.* Your builder can give you all the details, including the reasonable exclusions.

So when you look for a new home, look for the HOW symbol.

Forum topic: wildflowers

COLOR IT springtime.

The Wildflower Association of Michigan will hold its annual Wildflower Conference and Exhibit in conjunction with the builders show.

The conference will be March 18-19 at Cobo Center. The wildflower exhibit, on display throughout the nine-day builders show, will consist of a wildflower garden and various other exhibits relating to native Michigan wildflowers.

General sessions will be each morning; the afternoon sessions will be split into two separate groups covering growers' issues and practitioners' issues.

While the focus is on wetlands, a variety of other topics also will be addressed throughout the conference.

The wildflower conference is open to all who have an interest in native Michigan wildflowers and would like more information about them. The registration fee of $15 covers both days of the conference, but does not include admission to the builders show. Pre-registration is encouraged.

To attend the two-day conference, send a check or money order made payable to M.A.S.-W.A.M. to: Wildflower Conference, 6011 West, St. Joseph, Suite 403, Lansing MI 48908-0527.

Showstoppers

Builders show exhibits will include:

- Smart House — a futuristic four-room home whose appliances and utilities are on a computerized system that can be remotely controlled. It is sponsored by Detroit Edison.
- Manufactured Housing — three full-size model homes, including one of the first model homes from the 1940s.
- Consumers Power — an exhibit charting the progress of gas technology through the years.
- Remodelers Council — an exhibit showing current remodeling techniques.
- Wildflower Association of Michigan — the annual Wildflower Conference and Exhibition, including a wildflower garden featuring native Michigan wildflowers.

A VARIETY of contests and demonstrations will spice up the builders show. These events will focus on a variety of interests, including love, food and carpentry:

- Bachelor/bachelorette competition — sponsored by International Dating Service. One man and woman will be selected who best represent the typical Detroit-area single.
- Couple of the year — contestants wil be judged for poise, personality and their overall appearance. This contest is sponsored by Affiliated Models.
- Cooking demonstrations — featuring the culinary talents of local chefs. A different ethnic cuisine will be featured each evening.
- Nail driving competition — apprentices from the Detroit Carpentry Apprentice Training School will challenge patrons on their carpentry skills.

Show visitors will also have the opportunity to enter contests and drawings for prizes. Highlighted contests and drawings include:

- Treasure Chest — numbered entries are dropped off into respectively numbered treasure chests. Daily drawings will be held for prizes. One daily prize will include a wishing well built each day at the show by Detroit Carpentry apprentices.
- House of Nails — tests attendees' skills of approximation to estimate the correct number of nails in the plexiglass structure. Prize is $20,000.
- Exhibitor prizes — various exhibitors will hold drawings for prizes. Prizes range from a houseful of new windows to a new car.
- Radio stations — participating stations will be staging giveaways during live remotes and on-air contests.
- Flower auction — springtime floral displays from Allied and FTD florists will be auctioned Sunday, March 24, with proceeds benefiting Muscular Sclerosis.

Smart

Houses bring Jetsons to life

Instead of rolls of wires, the modular wiring systems are laid in the walls, Steele said. Systems can be attached at any point by plugging them in through a small cut in the wall.

And thanks to the microprocessors that control the system, the Smart House wiring system recognizes systems as they're plugged in. "A child could put a fork into a plug and not risk shock."

Steele estimated it will cost an additional $7,500 to integrate the Smart House system into a 2,000-square-foot home.

The Smart House is the product of the Smart House Limited Partnership, a research and development consortium originated by the National Association of Home Builders National Research Center in 1985.

Detroit Edison is a member of the Smart House National Advisory Council and participates in generating public awareness of the Smart House System.

Nail down money

ESTIMATE THE correct number of nails in the House of Nails and become $20,000 richer.

The popular House of Nails contest will once again be part of the builders show.

The plexiglass House of Nails, 20 by 26 inches wide and 24 inches tall, with a 12- by 12-inch wide, 17-inch-tall addition, is traditionally filled with nails one month before the builders show to give show attendees the chance to brush up on their "skills of approximation."

The House of Nails will remain on display in the lobby of First Federal of Michigan in downtown Detroit until the builders show opens.

On Saturday, March 16, when the doors open at the builders show, attendees will have the chance to register their estimate of the number of nails contained in the house. The person estimating closest to the correct number of nails in the house wins $20,000. The House of Nails will be on display in the center of the show floor from March 16-24.

Vignettes of who's exhibiting what

Home

Business is booming at McCoy Inc., Livonia. The company has been experiencing a 20-percent annual growth in sales and much of the business increase is due to the popularity of its saunas.

"More and more people are making staying healthy a part of their lifestyle, but quite a few of them are getting a little tired of the 'health-club' scene so they're turning to bringing some of the health-club home by installing a sauna," said Russell Elvy, sauna division manager.

McCoy Inc., wich also carries fitness equipment, has been an exhibitor in the builders show for the past five years. For the show, they have the latest sauna model, a triangular-shaped corner heater unit with an all-glass front.

McCoy's saunas are computer-designed and built from kiln-dried, western red cedar. They can be custom installed by the company or it can become a winter project for the do-it-yourselfer. Sizes range from four feet wide to as large as you can accommodate. Prices start at $1,200.

Home

Homeowners are discovering a new, economical way to transform traditional concrete paving into colorful works of art.

Albanelli Patterned Concrete of Farmington Hills is at the forefront of this trend by turning ordinary concrete sidewalks and driveways into colorful and realistic-looking patterns that resemble elaborate tile and paving stones.

Depending on the size ordered, there can be significant savings compared to hand-laid brick or tile.

Owners Paul and Wayne Albanelli shape and color concrete to resemble fancy brickwork, tile or cobblestones. The patterns may be standard or textured.

More than 30 different textured patterns and 40 colors are available. Interior surfaces will keep their original look with occasional vacuuming or mopping. Patterned concrete also has excellent durability in harsh northern climates.

At the builders show, Albanelli will show some of the many ways patterned concrete can be used to enhance a driveway, walk, pool deck or patio.

Flower

Jerry and Valerie Constance of Ann Arbor say they have the perfect solution for those who want to start a garden but haven't the time nor the soil to do it.

The solution is hydrophonics, or "Soil-less Gardening." As the owner/operators of Bronk Hydro Garden, Jerry and Valerie want to show homeowners how easy it is to raise flowers and vegetables in water and nutrients. There are no weeds and no cultivating.

The gardens themselves are designed by Jerry Constance, a builder/contractor. A pump circulates water and nutrients through the plant's roots via PVC pipe. When the pump shuts off, gravity drains the water, allowing the plant's roots to dry out. During draining, the water recaptures oxygen to be circulated next time.

Plants grown this way require less intense sunlight to thrive. Last year, Jerry and Valerie raised tomato plants hydroponically in their heavily wooded back yard.

"Yet the plants grew to nine feet tall," Valerie said.

Furniture

Martin and Morgan Cates, owners of Grandma's Loft, are in the process of readying their highly successful furniture business for franchising. How successful?

In the past five years, they've sold 3,000 dining room sets from just one manufacturer. Since the first store opened in Grand Blanc, six years ago, they've added two more, in Flint and Rochester.

Cates credits part of the company's success story to his lines of solid wood and upholstered, country-style furnishings.

"There was and still is, a lot of junk furniture on the market. So we reasoned that there was also a consumer need and desire for quality, solid wood pieces. I like oak, so we chose that wood for most of the furniture, and a country style. The combination has worked out quite well," Cates said.

Along with dining room sets featuring pedestal tables, Grandma's Loft carries hutches, occasional tables, bookcases, entertainment centers, decorating accessories and custom furniture, which makes up 20-25 percent of the company's sales.

Handyman helps you do it yourself

IF YOU'RE in metro Detroit on a weekend morning, listening to the typical fare of programs, commercials and music on your radio, move your dial to WXYT-1270 AM:

You may be in for a D.I.Y. (do-it-yourself) education.

DIY information fills the airways as Glenn Haege, metro Detroit's foremost "handyman" expert, gives timely tips on simple home repairs.

Back by popular demand, Haege once again will broadcast live from the builders show both weekends of the nine-day show, March 16-17 and 23-24, from 8 a.m. to noon.

Haege has served metro Detroit's do-it-yourself hardware audience for eight years.

Known as "America's Master Handyman," he broadcasts his radio show from WXYT-AM 1270. Once a three-hour show, the program, due to its popularity, was expanded by an hour last year to air from 8 a.m. to noon every Saturday and Sunday morning.

During his talk show, do-it-yourselfers have the chance to call

Glenn Haege on the air

Haege and ask him questions on topics ranging from how to fix leaky faucets to how to repair driveway cracks.

Haege's show, at any time, has 200,000 listeners throughout the four-hour program.

"They protect our home beautifully."

Little factory-built house is grown up

WHAT'S ABOUT 50 years old, eight feet wide, 20 feet long, made a family happy after World War I, and is now the darling of the builders show.

Answer: A vintage model of one of America's first manufactured houses, or, if you prefer . . . an antique trailer.

The war was over, men and women were coming home, and they needed quick, efficient and affordable housing. The manufactured house was born and people moved in and set up housekeeping.

Today, the little house has grown up to be America's best bargain. It's big, modern and still very affordable. In some cases, it can cost about half as much as a conventional "stick-built" house. It's a modern residence that's easy to finance and made of high-quality materials.

The 1940s-era house and two modern 1991 models from manufacturers Schult and Fairmont will be on display at the builders show. Both houses have professionally designed interiors and are surrounded by extensive landscaping.

THE SCHULT house is about 1,800 square feet and includes a master bedroom with attached master bath, two additional bedrooms, another bath-and-a-half, a kitchen, a morning room, a dining area, a family room and a living room. The Fairmont house has two bedrooms, two baths, living room, kitchen and dining area. Both houses are open to visitors.

Visitors can also see free films about manufactured housing in a video theater.

The display is sponsored as an educational exhibit by the Michigan Manufactured Housing Association of Okemos. The MMHA is a professional trade association with 900 members celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

Manufactured houses are an alternative for those who want to build a new house and still want it tailored to specific needs and desires. Manufactured houses allow the buyer to choose different room shapes and configurations, along with an array of different building materials.

Factory-built houses are put together in a controlled environment, then shipped in sections to the consumer.

"Manufactured houses are great buys because they're built inside a factory and not subject to adverse weather conditions and costly delays," said Timothy DeWitt, MMHA executive director.

Add the Beauty of Brick or Stone to Your Home... Affordably!

If you've always admired the rich look of brick and the classic appeal of stone, now you can add it affordably to your home. Thermo Brick™ panels are genuine brick in a variety of colors with a surprisingly significant insulation value. Cultured Stone® has the appearance, color fastness and durability of natural stone, yet is lighter and easier to apply. Either will add value to your home, giving it an appearance you'll be proud of. Installation is easy for the do-it-yourselfer, or professional installation is available.

Burning desire: natural-gas logs

WHAT'S MORE inviting than burning logs in a fireplace?

Being warmed by the heat of the fire and comforted by watching the dancing flames and glowing embers does wonders for those dull fall and winter days.

What we don't need, however, are the hard work, mess and expense that accompanies this heartwarming desire. Whether you cut your own wood or buy it from a vendor, it must be stacked, sorted and dried before it is ready for use.

Once we get the wood in the house, we pray that the creatures who have adopted their wood home for the winter don't wake up and look for a new place in the house to sleep.

Also, no one appreciated the dirt, snow and loose bark scattered along the carpet during the wood-hauling chores. But, what the heck, the warmth and glow of a nice fire are worth it! Or are they?

WELL, THERE'S an alternative that will give you the same warmth and atmosphere without the mess.

Today's alternative is a clean-burning natural-gas log. All it takes is a turn of a valve and . . . instant fire.

Materials placed at the base of the log simulate burning embers.

Modern natural-gas logs are sculptured to make it extremely difficult to tell them from the real thing, that is unless they can find a way to implant those tiny creatures inside. Materials placed at the base of the log simulate burning embers.

After we have experienced this romantic interlude, we again turn the valve, close the damper to keep the heat inside the home, and the magic disappears until we command it again. All this for about 15 cents an hour.

Stop by the Consumers Power exhibit at the builders show and learn how easy it is to create your own fireside comfort with the flick of a wrist.

Also, come see the progress of the latest developments in natural-gas products from yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Enjoy historical look into gas technology

ROBOTS, MANNETRONS (electronic mannequins) and futuristic displays will entertain and educate you at Consumers Powers' "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" exhibit at the builders show.

The exhibit features the progress of natural gas from 1859, when only 100 American families were using gas stoves, to today, when some 50 million homes nationwide use natural gas.

YESTERDAY

See how early natural gas appliances heated homes, cooked food and provided hot water and comforts considered revolutionary for this day and age.

The display features a mannetron from the turn of the century, talking to his wife who is at the gas stove heating water for his bath. Mittens hang drying over the fireplace and an authentic "ice box" adorn the rustic room.

TODAY

On display for outdoor usage are the latest in gas grills, infrared heaters, and pool and spa heaters.

Moving indoors, the versatility of natural gas is featured in water heaters that vent directly outside, eliminating the need for a chimney; high-efficiency furnaces; natural-gas air conditioners; and a combination water heater and furnace that has proven attractive to apartment and condominium dwellers.

Natural-gas technology also has combined efficiency and contemporary looks in producing the glass-top gas range.

Other modern products on display include a small wall-hanging water heater, a fireplace with cozy, clean and economical gas logs and a modern Whirlpool dryer.

TOMORROW

Behind the friendly robot who greets you are five displays of tomorrow's natural gas applications.

- Natural-Gas Heat Pump — in Japan, 60,000 of these efficient and practical heat pumps are currently in operation.
- Outdoor Gas Grills — through remote control, a central computer tells you when the food is ready.
- Natural-Gas Generators — during a power outage, this gas generator produces the necessary power to keep your home up and running.
- Advanced-Gas Water Heaters — automatically and remotely controlled using built-in sensors, the heaters are made from non-metallic material that lessens leakage and guaranteed for the life of a home.

Lifestyle homes going on parade

TRY A homey encounter.

The second annual Parade of Homes exhibit will be a highlight at the builders show.

Visitors can saunter through the 6,600-square-foot promenade done up in an "Old World" theme of brick-paved streets, Victorian lamps, landscaping and gazebos, said Rosalie Lamb, Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan senior staff vice president.

Scattered throughout the display will be renderings of 80 homes, suitable for every lifestyle, in five different counties, Lamb said. Included with the renderings will be information about special features, floor plans and pricing, she said.

But the Parade of Homes is more than just a display of architectural renderings. These homes actually exist and are available to purchase, Lamb said.

The display is a way to gather the work of 80 builders in one place without doing the actual legwork. Potential buyers will be able to see a variety of homes, ranging from condominiums to single-family structures, from Oakland, Macomb, Wayne, Livingston and St. Clair counties without ever leaving Cobo Center.

ALSO AVAILABLE at the display is the Parade of Homes magazine, published by Marketplace Publications, which contains renderings and floor plans of all the homes, said Michael Gauthier, Marketplace publisher.

The magazines contain a map to each home site and give the hours the homes will be open for public tours.

Then, for one month after the show, potential home buyers can take on-site tours of the houses, Gauthier said. He added that builders have agreed to maintain the prices listed in the Parade of Homes magazine.

Gauthier said the Parade of Homes is actually the precursor to the annual Homearamas, which showcase builders efforts. "Ten years ago, we used the Parade of Homes to kick of the spring building season."

Since then, southeastern Michigan builders have held Homearamas, but these events have one drawback, Gauthier said. "Instead of 80 or more builders, the Homearamas are limited to only 10 or so homes."

THE PARADE of Homes also feature homes in a wider range of prices then Homearama, Gauthier said. Instead of elaborate homes costing $300,000 or more, the Parade of Homes will feature more modest houses starting at $80,000.

The $1.2-million homes, of course, also will be featured. "Most homes will be in the $150,000 to $200,000 range."

Similar programs are held — and are quite successful — in other parts of the state and country, he said. "Grand Rapids holds an annual Parade of Homes and they have 170 builders (participating)."

Builders in the Minneapolis area have nearly 500 builders in their annual Parade of Homes, Gauthier said. "That's what we're hoping for. With an area like southeastern Michigan, we ought to have at least 250 builders involved."

A NEW feature for this year's Parade of Homes will be a home builder competition, Gauthier said. A panel of five architects will judge the homes and award prizes to builders of the two best homes in each of four categories: homes priced under $100,000, $100,00 to $200,000, $200,000 to $400,000, and $400,000 and up.

Judging will be based on the design, architecture, special features of the house and the value of the house for the money. Winners will be announced Thursday, March 21, at a luncheon for builders and mortgage bankers preceding a keynote speech on the building industry by Gov. John Engler.

GET IN the swim.

This year at the builders show, the Southeast Michigan Pool Association will display 7,000 square feet of above-ground and in-ground pools, spas, gazebos and jacuzzis.

The Southeast Michigan Pool Association is a local chapter that brings together, in one exhibit, all the new advances and pool products as well as patio furniture and spa enclosures.

Ten different pool dealers will display their wares at the show. Among them will be Viscount Pools, Pietila Pools, Sunspace, Dobat Pools, Michigan Pools and Cornwell Pool and Patio.

Kevin Zacharski of Viscount Pools, manager of the Southeast Michigan Pool Association, is enthusiastic about this year's display.

"It's the best time for consumers who are interested in pool products to see all that's available to them," he said.

Jenn-Air, which specializes in kitchens with looks that are clean, streamlined and European — and upscale — will be among the distributors to have kitchen displays at the builders show.
