The Canton Connection

Election dates

If you live in the 36th state House district mark your calendar for a primary election, Aug. 6.

The election will narrow the race for state representative in the 36th District. The general election is Aug. 27.

The state representative seat was left open when Gerald Law became Plymouth Township supervisor in early May.

Canton residents in the 36th District, about 23,000 registered voters, will be eligible to vote in the election.

The 36th District includes, precincts 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 19, 21, 22, and 23.

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Absentee ballots will be sent to anyone over 60 and anyone who voted absentee since November 1990. The absentee ballots will be mailed the first few weeks in June.

For more information, call Canton's clerk's office at 397-5367.

Tax abatement

Canton Board of Trustees recently approved a 12-year, 50 percent tax abatement for Procoil on Haggerty Road.

The tax break is on real and personal property on a $10.3 million expansion project that will cover 25 acres. According to company proposals the expansion will bring an estimated 21 new jobs to Canton.

The board recommendation now goes to the state for final approval.

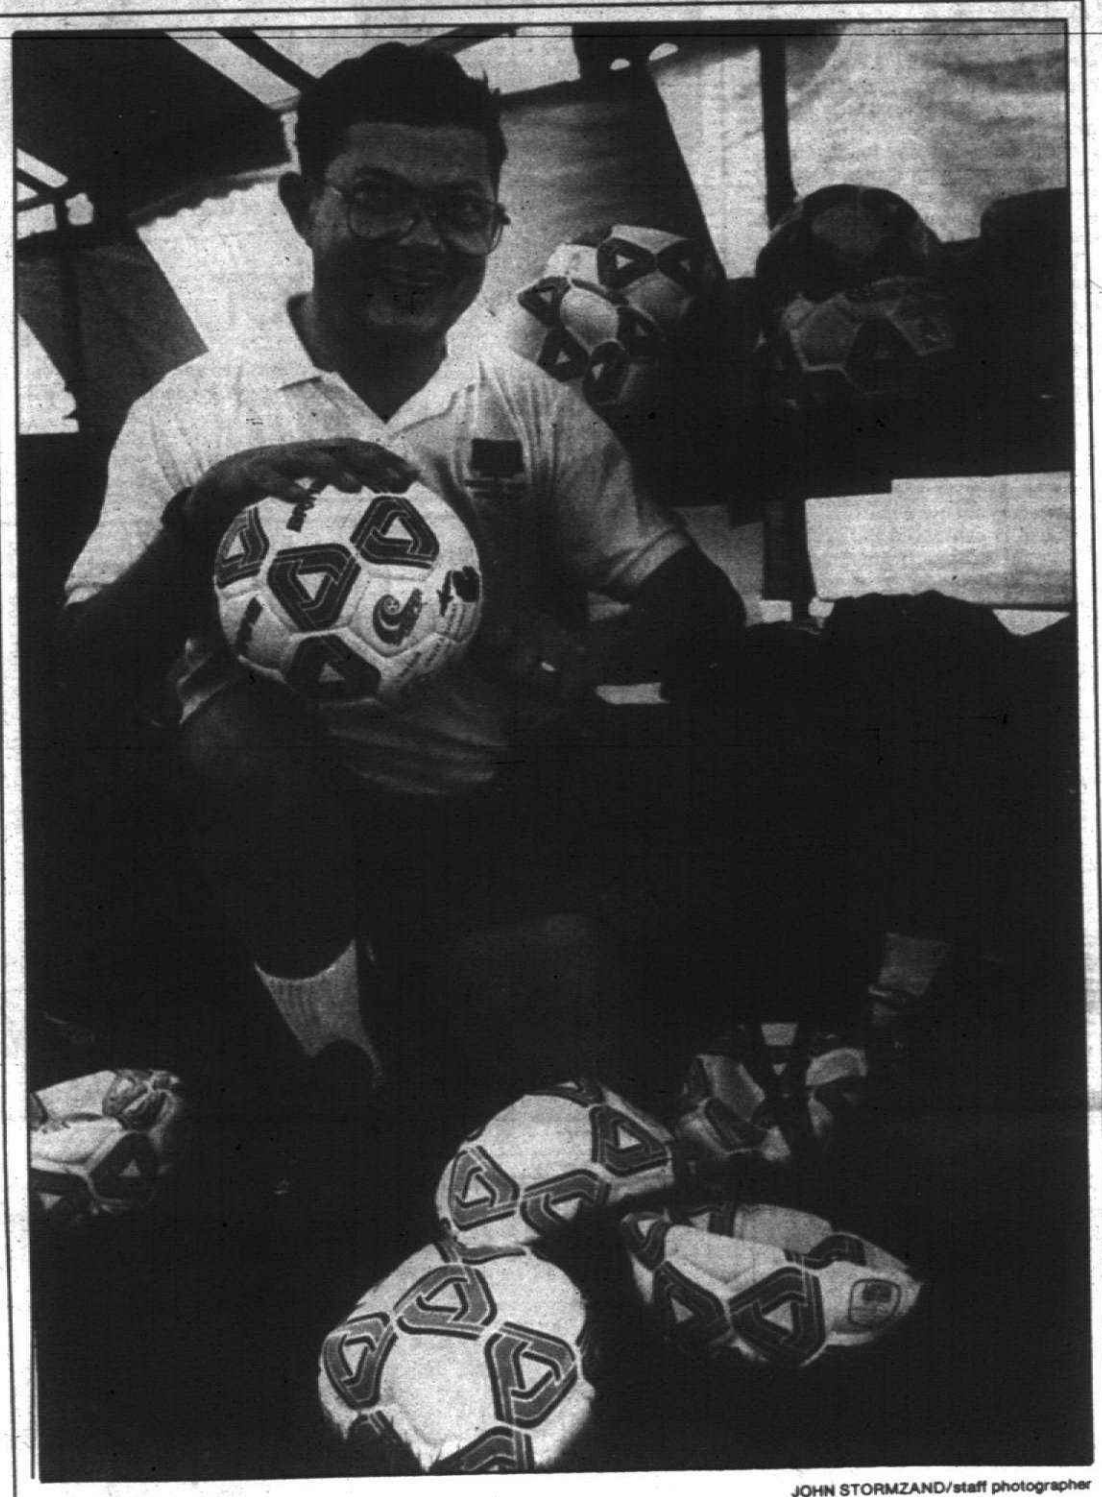

Board of Review results

The Canton Board of Review made $2.7 million worth of tax reductions this year to commercial, industrial, residential, agricultural and other property.

There were 226 reductions and of those 98 were hardship cases.

Another reason to appeal to the board are if the owner believes the property is assessed at a higher rate than the property is valued.

The board of review meets annually in March to review cases.

Kick off

The Canton Challenge Fest got under way Friday and runs through Saturday, with most activities scheduled to take place behind Canton Township Hall. Above, Art Page, president of the Canton Soccer Blub, blows up balls to be given away. The soccer tournament, a part of the fest, ended Sunday. However, there are still plenty of events. Local Meijer gets $6 million in renovations

By Diane Gale
staff writer

Meijer, Canton's largest retail store, is undergoing a $6 million dollar face lift.

After 18 years at the corner of Ford and Canton Center roads, Meijer executives decided it was time to iron out the store's wrinkles and bring it up to par with newer Meijer stores.

'Overall it would be what you might call a face lift on the rest of the store'
— Jennifer White

"WE'RE CONTINUALLY reviewing existing facilities," said Jennifer White, Meijer director of public and consumer affairs.

Some of the additions include: A cheese island with specialty and imported products; a deli and service fish counter. Display colors will be changed and fixtures updated.

"Overall it would be what you might call a face lift on the rest of the store," White said.

The rennovation started this month and will continue through April 1992. The store will remain open while changes are made.

"It may result in some inconvenience, but we'll try to minimize that the best we can," White said.

Outside, the changes will include landscaping, parking lot reconfiguration and signs.

But shoppers won't be able to ignore construction workers in the 247,000-square-foot store.

White said she could not comment about the rennovation cost.

HOWEVER, TOWNSHIP Supervisor Tom Yack said Meijer officials told the township $6 million will be spent on changes.

Merit commission candidates sought

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack is seeking candidates to fill the vacancy left by the recent resignation of Bruce Patterson from the Canton Merit Commission.

Patterson stepped down from the post he held 12 years after it was discovered that there was a potential conflict between Patterson's bid for Schoolcraft trustee and his position on the merit commission.

The merit commission is a three-member board that overseas compensation and job descriptions for township non-union employees. The commission enforces the Merit Commission Ordinance adopted by Canton voters in 1978.

It meets at 7:30 p.m. on the third Monday monthly in township hall. Members receive $40 per meeting.

The person selected to fill Patterson's seat will serve the remainder of his term, which expires Dec. 31, 1992.

Candidates for the merit commission must be:

- an elector of Canton Township;
- a citizen of the U.S.;
- a resident of Canton for least one year before the appointment;
- an elector of Wayne County for a period of lest three years before the appointment;

The deadline for resumes is June 6.

Canton Township Merit Commission, Attention: Dan Durack, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Mich. 48188.

Education director ends career on a high note

JOHN STORMZAND/staff photographer

Shirley Spaniel retires as Plymouth-Canton executive director of elementary education next month after a 33-year career in education.

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

Folks watching her grow up in Bay City wouldn't have been surprised had Shirley Koblinsky become a professional musician.

As a percussionist and pianist at T.L. Handy High School, the future Shirley Spaniel won a citywide music contest and a scholarship to Interlochen. At Bay City Junior College, she majored in music. Spaniel later would make her debut on a four-octave marimba with the Plymouth Community Band in Kellogg Park.

But for Spaniel, the halls of learning beckoned louder than any conductor. Plymouth-Canton's future executive director of elementary education earned her teaching certificate at Central Michigan University and began teaching at the age of 19.

In Bangor Township, near Bay City, Spaniel taught — in one room — 39 third and fourth graders. It was a challenging experience that "taught me the value of combining ages in a classroom. It forces you to look at the strengths and weaknesses of each child; at what they have and what they need," said Spaniel, who next month will cap a career that spans the reign of three Plymouth-Canton superintendents and more than 33 years.

'My early years in education were very challenging and exciting. They prepared me well for my role as executive director of elementary education.'
— Shirley Spaniel

Spaniel moved to this area to pursue a four-year degree at Eastern Michigan University. Spaniel juggled her classes with a teaching job in Washtenaw County.

Thorne Elementary "was a little three-room school. I had a third and fourth grade (combined) class," she said. "In the afternoons, 12 kindergartners would come into my room for instruction. That experience taught me how valuable keeping mixed ages can be for students, and not just for the younger children. We call it cooperative learning now; models are established by the older children for the younger children, and students learn to help each other.

"My early years in education were very challenging and exciting. They prepared me well for my role as executive director of elementary education."

While still a student, Spaniel was recruited to train and supervise student teachers at Eastern's Lincoln Laboratory School. She squeezed in her own classes at night and on Saturdays, eventually earning her master's degree from the University of Michigan.

It was at Michigan's School of Education that Spaniel met nationally-known educators who piqued her interest in research.

"We were right there where research was being conducted," she said. "Dr. Willard Olson, who wrote our text on child growth and development, was right down the hall from where I taught. The father of modern math, Dr. Joe Payne, was there too. Those were exciting years in terms of learning to translate research into learning in the classroom. What I learned was how important it is to continue to search for better ways to teach."

WHILE MOVING INTO an apartment in Ypsilanti, Shirley met a young pilot who was helping a friend move into the same building. A graduate of Texas A&M commissioned with the Air Force, George Spaniel was flying with Capital Airlines out of Willow Run.

Dates on DC-3s led to a walk down the aisle and "a wonderful marriage," said Spaniel. Living with a person whose occupation was so totally different "allowed me to forget about my own job," she said.

The arrival of two children, George, now 27, and Julie, 25, brought short interruptions in Spaniel's education career.

"You wonder when you're a career mother if you can do it all. You can do it all; it just takes a lot of organization and commitment, and not a lot of sleep. Things you sacrifice are some of the social relationships. We were pretty family oriented; our travels were family time. That kind of quality time really made a difference," she said.

Friends and colleagues plan party to say thanks

A retirement celebration for Shirley Spaniel is planned for 3-6 p.m. Wednesday, June 12, at the Fox Hills Country Club's Golden Fox. Anyone interested should call Joyce Deren, 451-6530 to make reservations.

The party is being hosted by friends and colleagues of Spaniel to "thank her for her great contribution to the Plymouth-Canton community and wish her well as she retires," said Sheila Alles, the district's curriculum coordinator for language arts/social studies.

George Jr. is now a pilot with Wolfe Industries, a private corporation that owns the Columbus Dispatch newspaper and Channel 10 in Columbus, Ohio. He's also the father of John, 2¼, "and the light of my life. I look forward to spending more time with him," says Spaniel.

Julie, a recent graduate of the University of North Carolina's dental school, is being married next month in Plymouth before moving to Portland, Ore. to do an internship in oral surgery.

Shirley and her husband plan to visit Portland on a trip to Alaska and the Pacific Northwest this September.

THE SPANIELS have, indirectly, United Airlines to thank for their discovery of Plymouth. "We started out living in Ypsilanti," said Spaniel. "We had some good friends who were United Airlines pilots who in the early '60s bought homes in Plymouth. They loved it here. When we decided to come visit we were so impressed with the communitiy we decided we should buy a house here."

> 'It's tough in education even today for a woman to go beyond the building principal level.'
> — Shirley Spaniel

Spaniel again was recruited — this time by then-Superintendent Russell Isbister — to head a team studying how best to distribute federal funds in the district.

"We developed an assessment team that went around to elementary and middle schools to look at educationally disadvantaged kids in this community and what kind of programs they needed to improve," she said. "That brought about the remedial reading program." When no one could be found to coordinate the remedial program, Spaniel was drafted for duty.

"I began to see how that program impacted the whole language arts curriculum. It had to be looked at in terms of how the program was meeting the needs of all students," she said.

Spaniel became the district's K-12 coordinator for reading and language arts in 1968. Recognizing teachers' need for additional training in reading, she set up two summer reading clinics. Professors from the University of Michigan taught instructors in the mornings, and in the afternoons, summer school students were tutored by the teachers, who earned college credit.

"I think we need to get back to some of that," said Spaniel. "Teachers aren't getting enough practical experience."

In 1972 after visiting England where she researched elementary education, Spaniel opened Miller Elementary, "which I carefully labeled a child-centered school." The highly-successful school, which at one time conducted year-round school, received "visitors from all over Michigan. It was exciting for me because we created something unique," said Spaniel. "I think the new collaborative school improvement process will help put that in place again. We are bringing parents into the process."

As executive director of elementary education, a post Spaniel has held since 1980, Spaniel supervises elementary principals, with responsibility for budgets and all K-6 instructional programs.

Spaniel in 1988 was awarded by the state for organizing two reading conferences at the Novi Hilton for teachers from southeastern Michigan.

Eight years ago she founded a local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, a professional organization for women in education that is thriving with 40 members.

Of late, Spaniel has been questioned by opponents of the controversial developmental learning program — a learn-at-your-own-pace teaching technique in place in kindergarten through second grade throughout the district.

Some parents and teachers have criticized the program, saying that its lack of structure means students aren't learning to spell, read or do math as they should be.

Spaniel is convinced the program will work, because it addresses the fact that students learn at different rates.

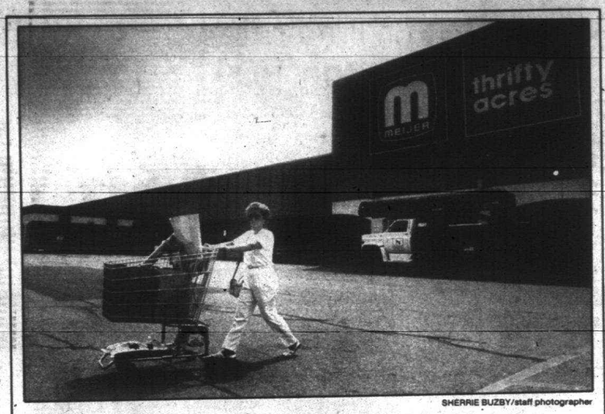

"If we put too much pressure on kids, we will turn them off to learning. That's what we are trying to avoid," she said. "I thik if we are patient and supportive, students will learn unless they have learning defects or intellectual deficits. My concern is that we keep class sizes down to a reasonable limit."

Spaniel's departure leaves an administrative team that's largely male. Not one assistant superintendent is female.

"It's tough in education even today for a woman to go beyond the building principal level," said Spaniel.

She has no complaints regarding the treatment of women educators in Plymouth-Canton. "I think Dr. Hoben has been very open and very fair. He treats candidates equally," she said.

Bringing the Meijer store in Canton out of the '70s and into the '90s will cost $6 million.

"I don't know that it will bring any more people to the community," Yack said. "What I feel good about is that they will provide more services and provide a greater variety of products than they do now.

"It's our largest retailer in the community, and for them to invest $6 million is a major commitment."

The Canton location is one of 60 Meijer stores in Michigan and Ohio. The chain is expected to expand to Indiana.

There was some explosive action in Canton this past weekend.

The skies turned colors, and no, it wasn't the stormy weather, it was fire works on Saturday. And then all weekend, hundreds of soccer teams played in the Canton Challenge Fest tournament.

But the action isn't over. You've got until Sunday to check out the events.

One of the hottest will by the Canton Chili Cook-Off at noon on Saturday. The event, sponsored by the Canton Observer, is now part a preliminary event in the annual Saline chili cook off.

For a registration form, call Lili Donaldson at the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan, 971-2800 or call the Observer at 459-2700.

Other events this weekend include a fishing derby, a used book sale at the Canton library and a remote control car event.

Fight looms over street plan

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

Two sides could be warming up for a street fight in Plymouth.

No, it's not the kind of rumble depicted in, say, "West Side Story." Instead, the potential looms for a fight over the $5 million plan to improve the street appearance in downtown Plymouth.

THE DOWNTOWN streetscape improvement plan — to be paid for by downtown taxes captured by the city's downtown development authority (DDA) — was put together by the DDA and architectural firm Shervisch, Vogel Merz.

The plan is modeled on several financed similarly by DDAs in other Michigan cities through a state law passed to encourage rejuvenation of downtowns.

Backers lament Plymouth's delay in adopting such a plan. They point to Northville as a town where civic leaders showed vision and wisdom in completing their downtown renovation — and it paid off in higher property values, quality development and better-funded schools.

Detractors, however, suggest the streetscape improvement plan would just benefit downtown businesses, and that its overall impact could be overrated.

Further, they maintain that placing the city's faith and credit behind the bond sale is a needless risk for taxpayers.

BILL McANINCH, a founder of Plymouth Concerned Citizens (PCC) and city commission candidate, stresses that he's just begun to examine the downtown development plan. Yet, "I do have a concern about a bond commitment of as much as $5 million," he said.

Rosita Smith, another PCC member, has also raised potential financial risk to the city as a concern.

But Greg Goodman, DDA chairman, stresses that the actual risk to taxpayers is minimal.

By comparison, he said, "You can't keep your child home from school because their's a chance something could happen to them."

"There is nothing in this life that is absolutely free of risk," Goodman said. "But there is risk in inaction, by standing by while communities all around you are developing their commercial districts, enhancing their communities while we stay stagnant," Goodman said.

CONCERNS OVER the DDA plan were raised by former DDA member Jim McKeon, Smith and some other citizens before city commissioners May 21. Rather than defend the plan developed over 18 months by DDA members appointed by the commission, two commissioners said they also had concerns.

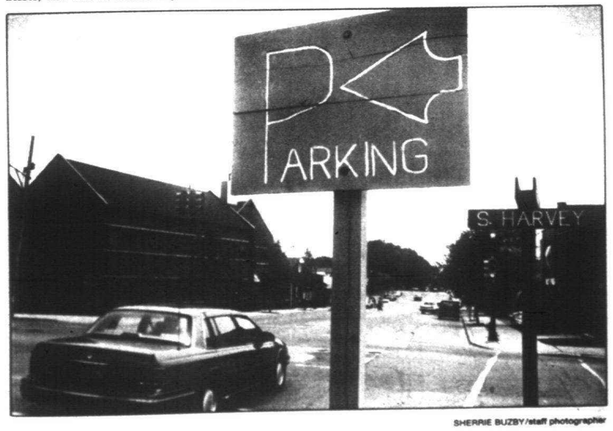

Like some PCC members, Commissioner Jerry Vorva said he was also concerned about putting the city's faith behind the bond sale, and added the $5 million project cost could be more expensive than needed.

Commissioner James Jabara suggested that the plan be phased in, in a way radically different than the phase-in plan developed over 18 months by architects and DDA members.

Goodman said that to whittle away the plan "would be the worst possible way to approach this."

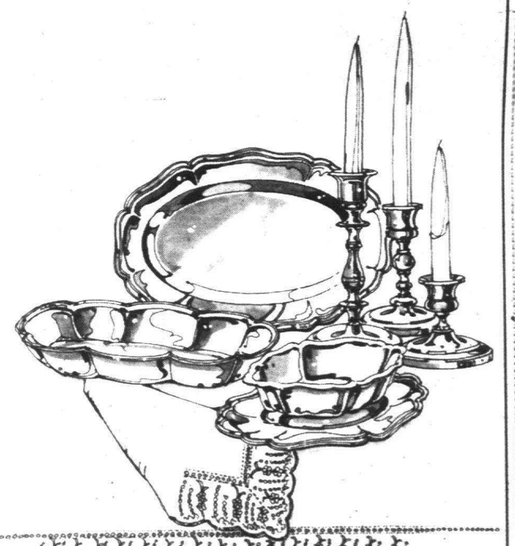

"We've tried to invite them (commissioners and residents) to attend DDA meetings. To come in at this late date and suggest that it be watered down and changed — I think that would be a reprehensible thing," he said.

Goodman said he understands a certain amount of resistance to change. But pointing to the successful streetscape projects around the state, he said, "I don't know how anyone can refute the evidence, it's beyond me."

SHERRIE BUZBY/staff photographer

A battle could loom over the proposed $5 million downtown renovation plan put together by the Plymouth downtown development authority.

Parents to fight secession refusal

By Darrell Clem

Wayne-Westland School District

The district serves southeast Canton.

County school officials' refusal to let a Canton Township neighborhood secede from the Wayne-Westland school district has prompted parents to appeal the decision to the Michigan Board of Education.

Residents of Greenbrook Village subdivision, near Palmer and Canton Center, had launched a petition drive in hopes of convincing county officials to let them switch to the Plymouth-Canton district.

The county's Regional Educational Service Agency board denied the secession attempt May 1, but the Canton residents have filed a state appeal that they had earlier indicated would be sought to overturn the county-level decision.

It wasn't known when the state board will hear the appeal.

The Canton parents have gathered 247 signatures from 172 houses in their subdivision in support of the secession. Parents have denied charges by Wayne-Westland school officials that the session attempt is an effort to "bail out" of the financially-troubled Wayne-Westland district.

Parents said they pay taxes for Canton Township fire, police and library services, and they want to become part of the Plymouth-Canton school district so they can establish a better sense of community.

WAYNE-WESTLAND SCHOOL officials opposed the move, saying the local district could lose $500,000 a year in state aid when it's already engulfed by a budget crisis.

The secession attempt, if successful, would trahsfer 116 students to Plymouth-Canton schools.

In other developments, the Wayne-Westland school board adopted a resolution opposing yet another secession attempt — this one by the Riverpark subdivision near Palmer and Sheldon in Canton Township.

The county board has scheduled a hearing to consider the matter May 30.

Though only 24 Riverpark students would be affected by the secession, local school officials said the subdivision can still grow quite a bit.

In adopting the resolution opposing secession, Wayne-Westland officials last week noted that "the movement of these students will have a detrimental effect on all of our students," because of the potential loss of state aid.

"This detrimental effect on all of our students will be caused by the loss of funds due to decreased enrollment if the transfer is approved," the resolution states.

Massey dealership plan rejected

By Kevin Brown
staff writer

This project has been one tough sell for auto dealer Don Massey.

A plan to level rental houses on Ann Arbor Road and replace them with a car dealership was turned down Wednesday by the Plymouth Township Planning Commission. That marked the fourth time plans for a car dealership there have been rejected.

JOHN THOMAS, the attorney representing Massey before the planning commission, said the rezoning request will be pursued before the township board of trustees.

"It was turned down the same as the other ones were," said Smith Horton, planning commissioner and township trustee.

"It does not comply with the future land-use plan which shows that area to be residential. We're trying to be consistent with our future land-use plan. We are also opposed to strip commercial development in the township."

Massey sought a rezoning along the north side of Ann Arbor Road, from Southworth to a point just west of Bill Knapp's restaurant.

"We'd like to put a car dealership in there," said Warren Musson, president of Massey Holding Co. He and Massey have said the land fronting Ann Arbor Road is appropriate for commercial development, considering the traffic there.

While planning commissioners told Thomas 250 nearby residents are opposed to the development, "We've had a number of neighbors tell us they're not opposed to it," Musson said.

Student gets vocal award

Scott Lefurgy, a sophomore at Plymouth Salem High School, has been selected as one of Michigan's top high school singers by the Michigan School Vocal Association.

As a result, he performed in a recital of the top Michigan high school vocalists on May 11 in the Dalton Center Recital Hall, at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Singers at the performance must achieve superior ratings at both district and state festivals, as well as being identified by the judges as one of the top 12 in the state.

Also, Scott was selected as a runner-up to Emily Benner, a senior from St. Joseph High School in an audition to determine the top vocalist of the 12.

Scott is a member of choral groups at Plymouth Centennial Park, where his director is Don Daniels. His private voice teacher is Wendy Bloom. He will perform music by Mozart and Ralph Vaughan Williams on the recital.

The MSVA Recital of Outstanding Soloists is in conjunction with the Michigan Youth Arts Festival, which each year honors and features the state's most talented students in music, drama, art, dance and creative writing. The Festival, which is took place May 10 and 11 at WMU, featured students and their work in concerts, recitals, plays and exhibits.

S'craft honors residents

Schoolcraft College recently recognized employees for service to the college at its annual Employee Recognition Luncheon.

Plymouth resident Ronald Griffith, of Educational Services, was recognized for 20 years of service.

Canton resident Denise Halahan, of the Information Processing Lab, was recognized for 10 years of service.

ON CLIENT'S PERSONAL STYLE
I listen and I keep my agenda quiet. So when I go into a project, it's not about me. It's a collaboration. It's the client's concepts and my concepts; what emerges is a self-expression of my client. That's the ideal.

ON CARING & RELATIONSHIPS
Probably the main quality that I can bring to a project is taking care of my clients. The service and the commitment to the project emanate from that care. It's being there, with the painter on a touch up, on delivery. It's all of that attention and developing a relationship of trust, which is fundamental for a project to even get off the ground. It's an integral part of a successful design.

ON WHAT DESIGNERS OFFER
I can create a vision out of what a client says to me. Secondly, I have a source of materials not available to the client. What I bring to the party is my availability, materials, artists, workrooms, tradespeople and sources. I come with baggage.

ON USING MICHIGAN DESIGN CENTER
The Michigan Design Center is wonderful for me. I'm there a lot and it's great to be able to take a client there. My clients can see the service that the showrooms provide the designers. If I ask the showroom to please communicate to the factory the importance of having the upholstery tailored in a particular way, they share my concern; and that is what is important to me in representing my client. I support the people that support me.

Experience stressed in 6-year board race

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Questions ranged from long term goals to fixing the college swimming pool ladder during a Meet the Candidates Night for the six-year Schoolcraft College board seat.

But candidates said the choice came down to background, with incumbents Michael Burley of Canton, Jeanne Stempien of Northville and Subramanian Ramamurthy of Canton each stressing their carer and education experience.

VOTERS WILL choose two of the three in the Monday, June 10, election.

Burley, a builder, real estate agent and Northville High School business education teacher and trustee since 1979, said it was a family decision to seek a third term.

"In the next six years all three of my children will have attended Schoocraft and I'd like to be there," he said.

Stempien, partner in a Livonia law firm, said she viewed "exciting times" coming to Schoolcraft and she wanted to play a role in shaping them.

"As a businesswoman and a taxpayer, I stand for fiscal responsibility," she said. Stempien has been a trustee since 1986.

Ramamurthy, who operates a Plymouth business consulting firm, stressed his experience as a "team builder" and said he would "be a friend of Schoolcraft whether elected or not".

On improving relation with the Schoolcraft Faculty forum teachers union, Burley and Stempien stressed a return to mutual gains, or "win/win", bargaining.

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell stepped into the picture — and into the middle of a college election controversy.

A picture of McDowell on campaign literature distributed by trustee candidate Stephen Ragan of Plymouth has become an issue in the June 10 race for a four year Schoolcraft board seat.

Rival candidates called the photo "misleading" and "a conflict of interest."

The photograph, taken on Schoolcraft's main Livonia campus, pictures McDowell, Ragan and three Schoolcraft students.

Controvesy over its campaign use erupted at a "Meet the Candidates Night" cable television program taped Thursday at Livonia City Hall.

"IT'S VERY inappropriate," said rival candidate Ronaele Bowman, responding to an audience question about the photo. "It shows favoritism," said Bowman, a Livonia resident and director of Garden City Youth Assistant Program.

Fellow candidate Willis Brauer, a Livonia resident and principal at Coolidge Elementary School in Livonia, called the photo "misleading," implying McDowell supported Ragan.

McDowell, contacted after the taping, said he wasn't endorsing Ragan or any other candidate, but said he would make himself available for photos with any candidate who asked.

Ilitch, chef team up for area eatery

By Alice Collins
staff writer

Little Caesar owner Mike Ilitch and Rattlesnake Club owner/executive chef Jimmy Schmidt plan to open a Santa Fe Southwest-style restaurant in Southfield.

The 200-seat restaurant, to be named Cocina del Sol, will be located in the former Victoria Station restaurant at 28565 Northwestern Highway south of 12 Mile.

The renovation will cost more than $1 million, attorney John Carlin who represents Ilitch and Schmidt told city council May 20 when he was before council seeking a liquor license for the new establishment.

The Southwest American cuisine and the architecture of the restaurant "will be authentic," said Carlin. "They've done a lot of research and there's none other like it in Michigan now."

On the liquor license application, Ilitch and Schmidt describe their proposed restaurant as "full service of high quality but moderate pricing."

Plans call for a fountain in the middle with a reflecting pool, a skylight, food exhibit area and patio dining as well as indoor seating.

THE PROPOSED site plan was approved by the Southfield Planning Commission and is expected to go to council for consideration soon.

Carlin attended the May 20 council study session seeking a liquor license — either Southfield's only currently available Class C license or a special "million dollar" resort liquor license issued by the state in cases where the development is in excess of $1 million. A limited number of million dollar licenses are issued statewide when there are no remaining Class C licenses in a community.

'They've done a lot of research and there's none other like it in Michigan now.'
—John Carlin, attorney

"We'd have no problem qualifying for the million dollar license . . . and we'd be happy to apply for that," Carlin told council, "but we need a resolution from the council saying the remaining (Class C) license is being held for some future project."

Consensus of council was that it would pass such a resolution at the regular meeting tonight.

"It's exciting," councilwoman Denise Alexander said of the proposed restaurant. "It's (building) been sitting vacant a long time and what we're getting is more than we ever dreamed."

BOTH ILITCH AND Schmidt are well known for their popular and successful restaurants in the metropolitan area and, in the case of Ilitch, throughout the United States with Little Caesar pizza. Ilitch also owns the Detroit Red Wings hockey club; the Fox Theater in Detroit; Tres Vite restaurant and America's Pizza Cafe in the Fox building; and America's Pizza Cafe in Southfield.

Ilitch and Schmidt are currently in business together at Tres Vite.

Ilitch and his wife already own the building which will become Cocina del Sol.

S'craft hopefuls address brochure, college budget

"I'm not endorsing any candidate, I'm not in a position to endorse any candidate," McDowell said. "If another candidate wants a photo, I'm willing to have a photo taken." McDowell said Ragan told him the photo would be used on campaign literature.

Ragan, assistant to the director of finance and administration at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, said he didn't consider the photo an issue.

"A LOT of people use photos of community leaders on their campaign literature," he said.

Ragan was recently appointed to the board to fill a vacancy, but must retain his seat in the election.

Fellow candidate Bruce Patterson, an attorney from Canton Township, who did not seek the appointment, said the appointment process "raised eyebrows."

"Is it to be a political spawning ground for a group with an agenda," Patterson said of trustees who voted for Ragan.

Patterson said a photo of McDowell would appear on his soon-to-be-released campaign literature.

"I've just had the photo taken," said Patterson, who called McDowell "a real asset to the college."

Patterson said the photo will also feature Jack Kirksey, the Schoolcraft candidate whose resignation — in protest over selection of a new college legal firm — prompted the election for the four-year seat.

Patterson said he approached McDowell about the possibility of a photograph. But other candidates said they were unaware of McDowell's position on photographs.

"He hasn't made that offer to me," Bowman said.

Brauer said he, too, "must have been left off the list."

Paulette Cebulski, a Plymouth Township resident and assistant director of physical therapy and center coordinator for clinical education at the University of Michigan Hospital and Medical School, said that "in knowing Dr. McDowell" she didn't believe the college president would show favoritism but added, "the photo still makes me uncomfortable."

Andrea Taylor of Livonia, a Schoolcraft graduate employed by Fonte d'Amore Restaurant, said she didn't think the photo was harmful but admitted it was "a surprise."

"I don't really think it makes a difference," said fellow candidate Robert Gordon, a Plymouth Township physician. "Voters will look at the candidates qualifications."

Patricia Watson of Northville and a clinical supervisor at Northville Regional Facility, agreed. "I'd hope the public would look beyond campaign literature," she said.

McDowell said he couldn't recall ever appearing on any other candidates' campaign literature. He added he was photographed for a campaign brochure on behalf of mid-1980s trustee Sharon Sarris but couldn't recall whether it was ever issued.

Not all candidates issue campaign brochures. Only three candidates had literature available at Thursday's taping session. Patterson had two pieces of campaign literature available, including one with a photo and endorsement from Canton Supervisor Thomas Yack. Cebulski's literature included no photographs or endorsements. Ragan's brochure included endorsements from Schoolcraft board president Mary Breen and her husband, Wayne County Commissioner Maurice Breen, and, among others, state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville Township — misidentified in the brochure as a state representative.

But the most hotly debated topic, discussion of the photograph, was only a part of the overall candidate night presentation.

On other issues, candidates generally agree financing is the biggest issue facing the college, but differ on how they would improve college finances.

Cebulski said she would "examine creative alternatives."

Patterson said he would work to "get graduates to endow the school and get business involved".

Taylor suggested bringing students and counselors closer together.

Gordon said the college needed to keep close tabs on its budget.

Bowman said the college needed to "reach out to business and to people outside the district," including Westland and Redford residents.

Watson criticized the state property tax freeze. "No matter what our feelings, it's a $400,000-$700,000 loss."

Ragan said the college needed to "further tighten its belt" while being more aggressive in pursuing alternative financing.

Brauer said "maintaining program excellence" should be the primary concern.

The League of Women Voters candidate night will be cablecast on Metrovision Channel 13, Livonia, 7-7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 6 for the four-year seat. It will be shown again, with Livonia Schools and candidates for the six-year Schoolcraft seat 5-7:30 p.m. Friday, June 7.

Canton youths on team seeking Quiz Bowl title

By Bill Casper
staff writer

"They are awesome, amazing. Sometimes they frighten me."

That's how Howard Weinberg describes the Catholic Central High School students on his repeat state champion Quiz Bowl team who are now preparing to go after a national title.

An entire glass display case in the school shows off the trophies and gold medals that are testaments to the team's success in the academic Quiz Bowl competition the past three years.

The same group of five students — among them, two Canton Township residents — has won 14 tournament championships in the last two years, including back-to-back state titles. They captured three of the last four state championships and finished in the top 10 in two national tournaments last year.

"It is a national championship that Weinberg and his quiz whiz kids now covet.

"We're working very hard to win at least one national title," said Weinberg, a quiz bowl coach for six years at Catholic Central in Redford, where he teaches economics and government.

"I want to remember this year as the year we won it."

FIRST UP, the starting four quiz bowlers and one substitute drove by van to Lake Forest, Ill., near Chicago. There they spent the Memorial Day weekend trying to outsmart some 60 teams in the national American Scholastic Competition Network Tournament, starting May 23 and running through Tuesday.

Then they will fly to Houston to compete against some 70 opponents in the Texaco Star National Academic Championship June 8-15.

Last year, Catholic Central's quartet finished fourth in Lake Forest and ninth at Houston.

"They're going to miss the senior prom to compete in Houston," Weinberg said. "Now that's dedication."

An appearance on TV's "Jeopardy" show may follow because all of the quiz bowl competitors at the national tournaments are invited to test for the game show, Weinberg said.

HOLLYWOOD ASIDE, Weinberg and his scholarly five are banking on hard work, commitment and experience as the keys to bringing back a national title or two.

"We were an all-junior team last year and they're all back," Weinberg said. "We're better this year and the team that beats us will have to play a very good game.

"The problem we face is that we've established quite a dynasty and we don't take anyone by surprise. Everyone knows we're the top gun and they're all eager to challenge."

There are three secrets for success — preparation, preparation and preparation, Weinberg said.

THE FULL TEAM of 14 students practices for about two hours every Wednesday, Weinberg said. But the real preparation work is done by each individual on his own time.

Team members also spend their own time for fund-raising events that help pay their tournament travel expenses.

Last year, they traveled about 8,000 miles by van and this year they have participated in 11 tournaments and put another 10,250 miles on the van, Weinberg said. Tournaments have attracted them to sites throughout southeast Michigan and 17 other states, he said.

"We've received (financial) help from the school and this year we'll fly the silver bird for the first time to Houston," Weinberg said.

TEAM MEMBERS know that another key to success is specialization.

"Knowledge in various specialties is necessary to compete on the national level," said senior team captain Ati Tislerics, 17, of Livonia. "I would also emphasize commitment. We each spend about a dozen hours per week for individual study."

Tislerics specializes in all of the social studies, including history, geography and government, he said.

He is the state Citizen Bee champion and the best social studies player in the state, Weinberg said. The Citizen Bee requires knowledge of history, government, economics, geography and current events, he said.

Blankenship specializes in the humanities, such as literature, mythology, art and music; Stock's specialties include mathematics and science, some art and music; Richards said he's some kind of math, science, music and sports hybrid; Morrison provides added expertise in literature and pop culture like films.

If experience is key to winning, Catholic Central's players could have an edge in the national tournaments.

"We should be the most experienced team in the country," Tislerics said.

"We're used to the pressure," Blankenship said.

ONE OF THE GREATEST TOOLS FOR SAVING THE ENVIRONMENT.
Take a long piece of string. Wrap it around a small stack of newspapers. Then take it to a recycling center or leave it out for collection on recycling day.
You'll be helping U.S. newspapers in their drive to encourage recycling. More than a third of our country's newsprint was recycled last year. But without your help, we won't have the material to make recycling work.
So tie a string around your finger. It'll help you remember to recycle.

Schoolcraft to get more state aid

By Tim Richard
staff writer

As the 1992 budget inches through the Michigan Legislature, the bottom line of the community college bill is changing little from Gov. John Engler's recommendation.

The argument is over how to spread the $236 million across the 15 two-year colleges.

"The governor recommended a spread of 2 to 9.9 percent," said Richard McDowell, president of Schoolcraft College in northwestern Wayne County.

That would put schools like Schoolcraft and Oakland Community College, with high property tax bases, on the short end.

The House Appropriations Committee closed the gap to 4.1 and 9.4 percent.

Last week a Senate Appropriations subcommittee made the gap even narrower: 4.7 to 6 percent. Members are Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, and Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit.

HERE'S HOW area colleges are affected:

- OCC — The governor asked $16 million, up 3.8 percent; the House panel $16.2 million, up 5.3 percent; the Senate panel, $16.1 million, up 4.3 percent.
- Schoolcraft — Governor $8 million, up 2.7 percent; House $8.2 million, up 4.6 percent; Senate, $8.1 million, up 4 percent.
- Wayne County Community College — All three state aid recommendations are in the $13.2 million ballpark, up 4 percent. But WCCC gets something no one else gets — a special state grant because local voters refuse to levy a property tax. Currently WCCC gets a $10.3 million "tax subsidy." Engler would cut it 20 percent to $8.3 million. Both legislative panels recommend $9.3 million — an even $1 million cut or 9.7 percent.

For years outstate and suburban lawmakers have criticized the tax subsidy to WCCC as discriminatory. Last year Gast promised the phaseout would begin this fiscal year.

To Engler's recommendation, the House and Senate added mandates that WCCC purchase computer hardware and software to establish financial controls.

ENGLER'S MOST favored colleges, in his budget recommendation, were Bay de Noc in the upper peninsula and Kalamazoo Valley, both 9.9 percent, followed by Monroe at 8.8 percent.

Community colleges rely on three basic sources of revenue: state aid, local property taxes of 1-2 mills, and tuition.

Here are the fates of some specialized state grants for community colleges:

- At-risk students — likely to be raised 4 percent to $3.1 million.
- Tuition incentive program (TIP) — A well-publicized Blanchard administration favorite, it currently is funded at $2.4 million in the social services budget. It's designed to introduce youngsters raised on welfare to community colleges. Engler and the House want to raise it to $3.1 million and shift it to the higher education budget. The Senate panel wants it in the community college budget.

Three vie for SC seats

rience as a "facilitator".

All three candidates agreed college Women's Resource Center programs should be continued, despite potential elimination of state support.

While candidates said they'd like to see college programs expanded, Burley suggested adding new satellite centers, expanding learning resource center hours and adding more videotape courses.

While on that troublesome pool ladder . . . Ramamurthy said he "go and see", Burley said it wasn't a board problem, while Stempien suggested notifying college administration.

The League of Women Voters candidate night for the six-year seat will be cablecast on Metrovision Channel 13, Livonia, 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 4. It will be shown again, with Livonia Schools and candidates for the four-year Schoolcraft seat 5-7:30 p.m. Friday, June 7.

Homeowners will pay more taxes to S'craft

Homeowners will pay slightly more in Schoolcraft College taxes this year due to the slowing housing market.

The college operating tax will rise to 1.9177 mills under the state's complex Headlee Tax Limitation format — primarily because property tax assessments throughout the Schoolcraft service area rose more slowly than inflation.

Overall assessments increases on homes in in the Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Garden City and Clarenceville public school districts fell below the 5.4 percent consumer price index for fiscal 1991.

The overall college tax rate, including payment for college bonds, is expected to rise to 1.96 mills. The increase will raise the overall Schoolcraft tax to $147 for people living in homes assessed at $150,000, a $1 increase.

Schoolcraft projects a $28.9 million operating budget for the 1991-92 school year, about a 5.4 percent increase from the past school year.

Trustees will vote on the budget 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 29 in the board meeting room inside the college administration office 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

New program questioned

To the editor:

I am concerned about the whole language reading program being implemented in the Plymouth Canton schools as part of developmental education.

The file on developmental education indicates we are teaching a sight vocabulary with phonics added later. This is the look-say method of reading. It was developed for deaf students. Up until the progressive education movement, reading of English has always been taught by intensive phonics, not look-say.

There were no functional illiterates in school — you either went to school and learned to read, or you didn't go to school. Dyslexia was so exceedingly rare that few people heard of it in 1900. To read an alphabetical system, one needs to first know the individual letters of the alphabet and their associated sounds.

Letter sounds can then be blended to make simple words. Rules can be taught for letter combinations such as "igh." This method consistently produces better readers and spellers than look-say (whole word, sight reading).

The first widespread use of look-say was in Iowa in 1929. It was also the first widespread case of dyslexia. Dr. Orton, neuropsychologist, diagnosed many 6-year-olds. He said the reading problems were due to sight-reading. Also, these seemingly normal children with dyslexia could be cured by intensive phonics. Fifty years later, this is still the cure for dyslexia. Call the Michigan Dyslexia Institute in Detroit for yourselves.

Don't be deceived by whole language. It is an experimental extension of look-say. It has its good qualities, but also some alarming ones. First, it was developed on third graders who could already read.

Ken Goodman's report promoting whole language is titled, "Reading, a Psycholinguistic Guessing Game." Julia Palmer, American Reading Council president, says in whole language reading, "accuracy is not the name of the game," and, "It is acceptable if a young child reads the word house for home." This is why whole language books have so many pictures so children can "read for meaning." Before someone learns to "read for meaning," they need to "learn to read," don't they? Many students taught whole language no longer memorize words, but entire stories. It is very impressive and deceptive all at once.

What will happen to a first grader who memorizes words by seventh grade? Will he figure out how to decode English on his own, or join the ranks of functional illiterates?

Could we not incorporate in our whole language plan a good dose of intensive, explicit phonics instead of the smattering of phonetics which is now taught implicitly (indirectly — not as individual letters)? Can we use the best of both worlds by teaching phonics first, and use some of the good aspects of whole language? I asked my sister-in-law, a Florida teacher, why schools would use sight-reading over intensive phonics. She said phonics is superior, but sight-reading is cheaper and faster, and a less intensive teaching method. I plead with the present administration not to skimp here. I also wish that more of the seasoned teachers who are advocating phonics secretly in Plymouth/Canton had a non-threatening way to make their expertise and experience known.

Some Plymouth/Canton teachers are using good phonics programs along with the whole language approach. I commend them. But let's be sure all children are learning to read. Ohio passed a law mandating the teaching of phonics. I hope we don't have to go that far in Michigan.

Bobbie Cleary,
Canton

Lottery hurts poor

To the editor:

I applaud the May 2 article "Lotteries hurt poor, minorities" by Tim Richard.

It has never been a secret that the poor and minorities are proportionately much bigger spenders on the government lottery. This fact, coupled with the irony that Michigan's schools, while teaching values such as hard work and perseverance, are partially financed by a get-rich-quick gambling scheme, tells me that the lottery can no longer be beyond reproach.

If we desire less regressive sources of revenue and greater integrity in our government's operations, then we ought to consider replacing the lottery with something more honest.

Open house a success at Mettetal

To the editor:

The Plymouth Canton Airport Association and Emerald Aviation would like to sincerely thank the residents of Plymouth and Canton for making Mettetal Airport's first annual open house — grand opening a huge success. Many of you experienced your first general aviation airplane ride and saw Mettetal as the great community asset it is and will continue to be.

Please continue to feel that everyday is an open house at your local airport. You and your family are welcome to come and enjoy watching the daily operations. Perhaps you'll take that second ride or begin a private pilot course. Picnic tables are available for your outing as well as tours for your Scout, school or community group.

Our thanks also to the many pilots and true aviation enthusiasts who freely donated their time, energy, knowledge, and airplanes to make this event what may become the most eagerly anticipated festivity in our combined communities.

Editor was dropped on his head

To the editor:

After reading Jeff Counts' article on men and child care, the only reaction I had was one of relief. Relief that I married the man I did. Relief that my husband takes pride in his son, and takes responsibility for his care.

Then I re-read the article and the answer for Mr. Counts' outdated attitude became very clear. His father obviously did drop him on his head, because he is an idiot.

Invasion of a fishing haunt

Jeff Counts

ON A RECENT morning I walked into the Fly Factory on the banks of the AuSable River in Grayling to purchase some flies for a fishing trip to the Pigeon River.

Usually the shop is filled with fish tales, not the kind you cut off, but the kind you tell.

There are usually heated discussions about an Adams versus a royal coachman. However, this time it was political correctness.

I was disappointed.

When you spend your days staring at a computer terminal trying to make your subject agree with your verb or your source agree with your story, on the weekends, you're ready to dream about brook trout splashing to the top to feed in streams.

The guy whom I usually buy my flies from was giving a lecture to a summer worker, telling him not to believe everything he was taught in his first year of college. "The next thing they'll be saying was that Lincoln was a racist," the shop owner said.

I DIDN'T HEAR the first part of the conversation, but it sounded like the kid had joined the ranks of the terminally sensitive, those who substitute sensitivity for intelligence.

All I wanted was some fishing advice, and here I was hooked on a debate about political correctness. That's the stuff that fuzzy-headed professors talk about in classrooms. They discuss such things as how many feminists can fit on the head of a pin or should we ignore that once upon a time most black people were slaves and picked cotton.

All I wanted to do was talk fishing. I wanted to say something outrageous about Lincoln, hoping to bring the conversation back to fish. Instead, I contented myself by looking at the dry flies in the cases.

But I just couldn't concentrate. I felt like my little hiding place was violated by the world. It was like finding a favorite section of trout stream suddenly polluted.

And in a sense it was. The modern political correct stuff is just pollution of the mind. It's made up of horse droppings deposited at the University of Michigan and spread by former students who become teachers or journalists. Michigan State seems to be different. But then it's an agricultural school and at least there they know the value of horse droppings as a fertilizer.

IT DIDN'T make sense looking at the flies. Like a trout I had risen out of my hiding place to strike at the artificial fly of political correctness.

I thought about Lincoln. He was no stranger to political correctness. One of my favorite stories about him comes from Carl Sandburg's biography.

It seems the church Lincoln belonged to in Illinois expelled two members, one for turning his nose up at whiskey and the other for making it. Well, during a church meeting on the subject, one member got up and said: "Exactly how much of this whiskey do you have to drink to be a member of this church?"

The poor guy was trying to find out what was politically correct.

When I was in college it was politically correct to be a Marxist, socialist, Maoist or existentialist. And since I received a degree in American literature, I tried to be an existentialist.

IT'S FUNNY now. I can barely spell the word and I can't say in one sentence what it is. It has something to do with the belief in nothing. I think I did it so I appeared sensitive enough to pick up women. However, I learned later that a bottle of Jack Daniels worked better than all the Sartre in the world.

An acquaintance of mine quit teaching college because of it. He said he got tired of watching his butt at staff meetings. He taught English at a major university and said the Marxists would hang out together, and didn't like seeing members of their group socialize with the existentialists.

I can understand why somebody would become an existentialist; sex is a great motivator, but being a Marxist in the 1990s is like trying to sell hot dogs at a vegetarian convention.

I identify with the poor bubba in Lincoln's church. I'm just trying to figure out how much whiskey to drink to be politically correct. But when faced with that dilemma, I think about what John Voelker wrote about fly fishing: "It's not that fishing is so important, it's just that everything else is so unimportant."

Trout just don't care what you call them.

Senate bill seeks to reduce doctors' liability

By Tim Richard
staff writer

A bill to exempt hospital emergency care professionals from many liability suits is on its way to the full state Senate over the objections of trial lawyers.

"This is the beginning of a form of blanket immunity to health professionals," warned State Bar representative Mike Karwoski as he opposed Senate Bill 268.

"Under this bill, people go home empty-handed," added Norman Tucker of the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, a plaintiffs' attorney who previously defended Sinai, Henry Ford and the University of Michigan hospitals.

The bill last week was reported out of the Senate Health Policy Committee on a 4-1 vote. Among supporters was Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion.

Beaumont Hospital spokesman Lynn Weimeister announced support for the bill but didn't speak.

SPONSOR JOHN Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, the Senate's lone physician, said that without some legal protection, many medical specialists refuse to respond to emergency room cases "or respond only under duress."

Schwarz told of a neurosurgeon called to treat a drunk who fell downstairs at a party and lay there for six to 10 hours with a depressed skull fracture. "This is the kind of case absolutely made for litigation," said the neurosurgeon, predicting a suit because the drunk would suffer some permanent damage.

"Many emergency rooms in our urban centers — Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids — have difficulty getting physicians to respond to cases of troubled pregnancies and teen pregnancies, many of whom come to the emergency room in labor with no prenatal care," Schwarz said.

"The only opposition (to his bill) comes from those (lawyers) who profit from the tort system. Anyone who doesn't think the malpractice system is a powerful disincentive (to practice medicine) — well, I'll introduce you to the Tooth Fairy," Schwarz said.

THE BILL would exempt emergency care professionals from liability "except for gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct."

It's designed for cases where there has been no previous doctor-patient relationship. Protection ends when doctor and patient set up a voluntary relationship.

The bill covers physicians, dentists, interns, residents, nurses, therapists, anesthetists and technicians.

The lone dissenter was Sen. John Kelly, D-Grosse Pointe. He offered an amendment to limit immunity "to the confines of the emergency room." It died for lack of a second.

Schwarz called it "a killer amendment" that "defeats the purpose of the bill" because care extends beyond the emergency room.

TUCKER OF the trial lawyers group called the bill unnecessary. He said that in recent years there have been just three emergency care lawsuits in Michigan, none involving gross negligence. The cases involved a woman who was left without monitoring (simple negligence), a spinal tap report that was never read and a man in Flint who died because no one followed through on his X-ray.

"It had nothing to do with specialists or consultants. Under this bill (with a gross negligence standard), people (who sue) would go home empty-handed," Tucker said.

HOSPITAL SPOKESMEN, however, said the point wasn't actual suits but the months of hassle with lawyers a doctor endures just fighting a suit.

"Specialists have begun to remove themselves from emergency call lists for neurosurgical, spinal cord and burn cases," said Dr. Brian Hancock of Saginaw, representing the Michigan College of Emergency Physicians.

Hancock countered the trial lawyers claim that the tort system pinpoints only bad doctors. "The threat of malpractice action can never make a good physician out of a bad physician," he said.

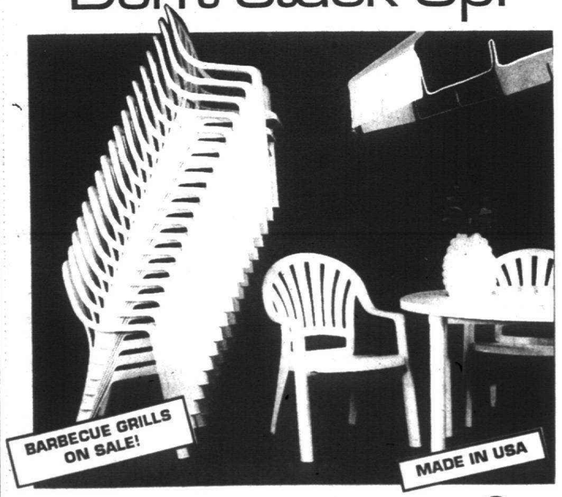

"There is a shortage of emergency physicians in the state," added Gregory Shannon of the Michigan State Medical Society. "They leave primarily because of malpractice (litigation)."

Shannon told of a man wounded seven times during a drug sale. The man had an abscess around a drug needle in his stomach. His suit failed, but Shannon said it resulted in "tens of thousands of dollars in legal costs."

The bill would exempt emergency care professionals from liability "except for gross negligence or willful and wanton misconduct."

Ice cream beats out other food

On Mother's Day weekend, the Janes Gang gathered once again, this time at my house. All in all, 38 of the gang was present to polish off a quarter keg coupled with my grilled brats, Aunt Phyllis' potato salad, sister Rosie's meatballs, twin MaryLea's famed fruit salad and Momma's goulash and glazed ham.

The weekend was glorious, with the temperature hovering around 85 and the tall oak in the backyard providing just enough shade to keep everyone relatively cool. Cameras clicked and whirred. The only mishap was cousin Joey skinning his knee on a faulty slip-'n'-slide backward flip.

The food is always sumptuous, with each relative trying to outdo the others in a non-threatening way and sheer volume ranking as criteria numero uno.

Even with desserts ranging from Finger Lickin' Good Cakes and Tunnel of Fudge bundts to poppyseed tortes and even Rice Krispie Squares and cupcakes, everyone oohed and ahhed when the ice cream was brought forth. Everybody loves ice cream, and the Janes gang can attest to that.

ACCORDING TO statistics from the International Ice Cream Association, more than 98 percent of all American households consume ice cream, making it one of the nation's most popular dessert and snack foods.

Everyone knows the primary ingredients of ice cream are derived from milk. Federal standards state that ice cream must have at least 10 per cent milkfat, the single most critical ingredient. Some gourmet and premium ice creams contain as much as 20 percent milkfat.

There are other little things that find their way into ice cream to help it stabilize and to improve its taste. Milk solids, which contribute nutritional assets such as protein, calcium, minerals and vitamins, are mandatory. Sweeteners, which can vary from corn or cane sugars to honey and stabilizers, such as plant derivitives that prevent the formulation of ice crystals, are routinely added. If you have ever opened up an "all natural" ice cream and left it in the freezer, only to open it again and find a sheeting of ice crystals, you can appreciate these additions.

Depending on the texture, different manufacturers choose to incorporate into their products emulsifiers such as lecithin and mono-diglycerides to help make for a smoother and "drier" body and texture.

Surprisingly so, the basic ingredients are blended, pasteurized, homogenized and frozen before any flavorings or additions are added. The ingredients are either "dropped" or "shot" into the semi-solid ice cream after it leaves the freezer. Only then is the finished product packaged in a variety of containers for wholesale and retail consumption.

BUT BEFORE it reaches the store or your favorite soda shop, the ice cream is quickly transferred to a hardening room where sub-zero temperatures freeze the product to its final stage for storage and distribution.

Don't get me wrong. Everyone enjoyed Momma's cakes and tortes, but there was something magical about the ice cream. No one was interested in the emulsifiers and the homogenization processes, but everyone from 2 to 82 enjoyed licking the cool scoops, on what was to be the first summer-like day of 1991. Hope you enjoyed it, too.

Everybody loves ice cream, and the Janes gang can attest to that.

DAPHNE GRAVES

Be a savvy barbecuer

By Larry Janes
special writer

JUST ABOUT anybody can toss a $10-per-pound steak on a hot grill and get dining nirvana in return, but when it comes to $1.39-per-pound chicken pieces and $1.99-per-pound ribs, it takes a little more grill savvy to end up with an edible product.

Not that there's anything wrong with a good steak, but let's face it good meat cooks good. At almost 10 bucks per pound, it should.

When Memorial Day grillers start talking poultry and ribs, that sends up a whole different smoke, especially when some chicken parts cook faster than others. Do you parboil? Parbake? Marinate? Baste before? During or after? Ditto for ribs.

Experienced backyard barbecuers do agree on one basic point. One of the secrets is a great fire. Without a good bed of glowing coals or lava rocks, you might as well boil the hotdogs on the stove.

GARNERING RAVE reviews from just about every food magazine it touches, the "charcoal chimneys," otherwise known as coal cans, reduce start-up time by as much as 50 percent and are de rigeur. If you don't have one, get one. I've seen them as low as $9.95 and upwards from $40.

They work and they save time. Trust me, you'll wonder how you ever got along without one!

When it comes time to actually grill, you should know that there 5 grilling techniques, one to suit every barbecuer. They include:

- Direct heat grilling: Coals are very hot and placed within 5 inches of food. Fast cooking requires frequent turning to cook evenly. Good for smaller items like burgers, dogs and vegetables.
- Indirect heat grilling: Heat from coals is reflected and circulated off interior space to create an over-all roasted effect. Prepare coals, then spread coals to sides and use foil drip pan(s) to catch natural juices. Best for whole chickens, turkeys, larger meats like roasts and hams.
- Rotisserie Grilling: Using a motorized rotisserie element to continually rotate food while cooking, this procedure usually doubles cooking time but makes for incredibly juicy chicken, ribs, boneless roasts and turkey.
- Microwave to grill: For the yuppie who decides to grill at 5 p.m. and wants to eat by 6 p.m. While the coals are heating up, the food gets nuked to medium rare. It's ok, if you have to!
- Stove to grill: This technique utilizes parboiling or parbaking to accomplish faster cooking and greatly reduces fat from poultry and ribs, which help avoid flare-ups on the grill. Critics claim that this technique reduces the flavor in the food. Personally, I think if you're going to slather on a sauce or marinade, what difference does it make?

I don't use a rotisserie because I don't have one. I refuse to pre-nuke because barbecuing is an art that requires a comfortable chair, plenty of liquid refreshment and glorious weather.

I prefer to parboil my chicken, even if just for a few minutes, mainly to remove some of the fat before grilling. All poultry cuts benefit from this technique.

I take my largest spaghetti pot, bring it to a rolling boil and toss in a cut-up onion and some salt. The cut-up chicken goes in, it returns to a boil, and in 3 minutes, it's removed, drained and ready for the grill.

Busy grillers can do this ahead of time and keep the parboiled poultry in the refrigerator till ready to cook. Poultry can be parbaked, but I find that this makes it tougher than parboiling, probably by drying it out more.

WHEN IT comes to ribs on the grill, there's little doubt that my next life will find me living somewhere in the South with a 55-gallon drum split open and a love for Tabasco. When I cook ribs, I want them lean, tender and lip-tingling.

Ribs are not for wimps. Bottled sauces are for the meek and timid. Ribs are for Bohemians who don't mind eating with their fingers and, best of all, licking their lips. I will cook ribs on the grill during a rainstorm.

There's one school of thought that will argue the parboiling of ribs until the cows come home. Do you or don't you? The choice is yours. Because ribs are even fattier than poultry, the Janes gang definitely parboils.

Unfortunately, this also means that the slab must first be cut into two to four rib chunks to facilitate fitting in the pot. Depending on my mood, I usually do a dry rub incorporating some cayenne pepper or cumin into the ribs while grilling.

I follow with a healthy slather of Tabasco-laden honey and tomato sauce mix the last 15 minutes or so of grilling.

Genitti's is just like eating at home, Italian-style

DISHING IT OUT

Genitti's Hole in the Wall is really nothing to write home about — unless you're in the mood for home-style Italian cooking served family style.

Picture a big Italian family dinner at grandma's house — red tablecloths with checkered napkins and lots of unmatched plates; folding chairs packed eight or 10 to a table; drinks served in mason jars; and an all-you-can eat dinner served not fancy, but with a smile.

John and Toni Genitti transformed their grocery/meat store into such an eatery 11 years ago.

"We had no formal training in the restaurant business," said John Genitti. "We didn't know no fancy recipes. We put together what we were used to around grandma's table."

The meal, like grandma's, features little choice. You get what they're serving — a seven-course dinner that's the same for all the 250 or so who pack into the four rooms.

Meals are served family-style at Genitti's Hole in the Wall in Northville. (Left) Jack Morris, tenor, and Gina Da'Alessio, soprano, perform during Opera Night.

staff photographer

ON A RECENT visit, we began with a tureen of soup — a thin, Mrs. Grass'-like chicken broth with a few vegetables and tiny, bullet-like acini di pepe noodles. Other nights they serve tomato florentine or minestrone. Perhaps those are better.

Next course was pasta — tasty butter/Parmesan over dense, rotini-size noodles called gemelli. That sauce is varied with red clam, a red sauce with tuna fish and a typical meat sauce.

Antipasto salad followed, featuring the usual suspects — olives, pepperoncino, salami, garbanzo beans — and an unusual one, grated cheddar cheese. While the combination was passable, the dressing was imperceptibly mild.

As the salad arrived, courses 4, 5, and 6 showed up in quick order.

FIRST WAS A thin, breaded center cut pork loin that was oiled, breaded and baked. It was certainly the best course, besides the dessert. A spicy, sweet red sauce was served — though not warm enough — on the side. Savory, small, buttery potatoes accompanied.

Baked, breaded chicken was served crispy, yet with a moist, almost greasy taste. The roasted Italian sausage was slightly spicy and good, served in bite-sized pieces with peppers and onions.

Unfortunately, the meal provided the feeling that too much oil had been consumed, similar to what you might get at grandma's.

The seventh and final course was a cannoli (from Nino's in Walled Lake), crunchy outside and creamy inside. Marvelous, but too small.

You pay for more than food at Genitti's. During our visit, a mystery theater was performed in the cramped basement room which held 80 or so diners. Actors performed an enjoyable whodunit that started and stopped during the two hours dinner was served.

BESIDES THE theater, one night a month opera songs are performed, while the rest of the time Genitti himself does a "routine" aimed at putting diners at ease. Genitti's staff succeeds at making visitors feel welcome. Yet, bar service — a very basic choice of Molson on tap, five wines and six name-brand liquors — was very slow for the first hour.

Overall, the food was plentiful, not outstanding. It's the atmosphere that makes or breaks the visit.

● VEGETABLE SALAD

The recipe for Grilled Vegetable Salad, which ran Monday, May 20, should have read as follows: Whisk in a small bowl ⅛ cup olive oil, ½ cup plus 2 teaspoons white wine vinegar, 2 teaspoons dried basil, and salt and pepper to taste. Set aside. Slice ½ red pepper, 2 small yellow squash, 3 zucchini and 2 baby eggplant lengthwise. Brush with olive oil and grill until tender. Julienne cooked vegetables and place in bowl. Chop ½ small red onion and toss with vegetables. Drizzle vinaigrette over top. Marinate overnight. Serves 2.

Lighter Apple Strudel features phyllo dough

AP - Making a great pastry dessert needn't mean spending all afternoon in the kitchen. You can use phyllo dough as a baking shortcut. Not only does phyllo produce flaky crusts like magic, but it can also reduce calories, too — down to 83 calories per serving for this strudel.

Phyllo (FEE-lo), also spelled filo, comes in thin sheets and is used in traditional Greek dishes such as baklava. You can buy it in the freezer section of many supermarkets.

To use phyllo, you layer several sheets together, brushing each sheet with melted margarine or butter as you stack the phyllo. While you're working, be sure to cover the unbuttered sheets with a slightly damp towel to keep them from drying out.

You can use phyllo dough as a baking shortcut.

LIGHTER APPLE STRUDEL

2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
4 medium cooking apples, peeled, cored and thinly sliced (4 cups)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
12 sheets frozen phyllo dough (17-by-12-inch rectangles), thawed
⅓ cup margarine or butter, melted

In a small bowl stir together sugar, brown sugar and cinnamon; set aside. Sprinkle apples with lemon juice; set aside.

On a sheet of waxed paper brush one phyllo sheet with some of the melted margarine or butter. (Cover remaining phyllo sheets with a damp towel.) Top with another phyllo sheet; brush with margarine. Repeat stacking and brushing with 4 more sheets to make 6 layers of phyllo. Repeat to make another stack of 6 layers of phyllo.

Place apples in a 2-inch-wide strip along one long edge of each phyllo stack, leaving 2 inches at short sides. Sprinkle with the sugar mixture. Fold in 2 inches along short sides; roll up tightly, beginning from long side with apples. Place, seam side down, on a greased 15-by-10-by-1-inch baking pan.

Brush rolls with margarine. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Cool slightly; loosen from pan. Cool in pan on a wire rack. Slice to serve. Makes 16 servings.

How to be a savvy barbecuer

See related story, Page 1B.

Heat the bacon drippings and saute onions, pepper and garlic.

THE BEST BARBECUE SAUCE
(There's little doubt, this is it.)
¼ cup bacon drippings
2 cups finely chopped onions
1 cup chopped green onions
½ green pepper, seeded and chopped
4 cloves garlic, minced
14 ounce bottle chili sauce
¼ cup Worcestershire
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
½ cup beer
1 cup bourbon whiskey
2 tablespoons dry mustard
2 tablespoons molasses
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
2 tablespoons chile powder
1 tablespoon sweet Hungarian paprika
¼ teaspoon ground coriander
2 teaspoons liquid smoke
Salt, pepper
Tabasco to taste (I use 4 tablespoons)

Heat the bacon drippings and saute onions, pepper and garlic. Cook, covered for 10 minutes, stirring frequently until vegetables are soft. Stir in remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and reduce to a simmer. Cook 30 minutes. Should be thick but pourable. Makes 3-4 cups.

CLASSIC MARINADE
(Guaranteed to make anything taste better on the grill.)
2 cups dry red wine or 1 cup red wine vinegar
1 bunch green onions, chopped (green and white)
2 cloves garlic, minced
⅓ cup olive oil
¼ cup soy or teriyaki sauce
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 teaspoon fresh grated ginger or ¼ teaspoon dry
2 tablespoons Worcestershire

Combine all ingredients. Use as a marinade or a baste or both.

BONEY MUSTARD MARINADE
(Equally good on chicken or ribs, this marinade is best when used overnight.)
1 cup Dijon-style mustard
1 cup dry white wine (chicken broth can be used)
¾ cup olive oil
¼ cup honey
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons soy sauce

Combine all ingredients. Mix well.

LIP-TINGLING DRY RUB
(Try this rubbed into your next chicken or rib barbecue. Warning: It's more than lip-tingling.)
2 tablespoons Kosher salt
1 tablespoon fresh ground black pepper
1 teaspoon red pepper flakes
2 teaspoons cayenne
3 tablespoons paprika
¼ teaspoon ground mace
½ teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons minced garlic

Combine first 8 ingredients (except garlic) and grind to a fine powder using a mortar and pestle or spice grinder. Add garlic, minced with back of spoon to mix well. Use as a dry rub over poultry and ribs during grilling.

CHERRY SAUCE
(Baste your next chicken grill with this sweet concoction.)
1 can (21 ounces) cherry pie filling
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons sherry
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon allspice

In a small saucepan, combine ingredients and heat over low heat until well combined. Brush over poultry during the last 15 minutes of cooking time.

Ice cream beats out all other party food

See Larry Janes' column Taste Buds, Page 1B.

Unroll cake and remove towel. Spread softened ice cream over cake.

ICE CREAM CAKE ROLL
1 cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 pints ice cream, softened

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Line a 15-by-10-by-1-inch jelly roll pan with foil or waxed paper; grease generously. Beat eggs until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Beat in water and vanilla on low speed. Sift together dry ingredients and gradually add to egg mixture, but just until smooth. Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes. Immediately loosen cake from the edges; invert on clean towel generously sprinkled with powdered sugar. Carefully remove foil. While hot, carefully roll cake from narrow end. Cool on wire rack for 30 minutes. Unroll cake and remove towel. Spread softened ice cream over cake. Roll up. Wrap in plastic wrap and freeze until firm, about 4 hours. Serve with hot fudge sauce, if desired.

ICE CREAM MERINGUES
3 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar
Your favorite ice cream
Fresh fruit for garnish

Preheat oven to 275 degrees. Cover a cookie sheet with heavy brown paper, such as a brown paper bag. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until foamy. Beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time. Continue beating until stiff and glossy. Do not underbeat. Shape meringue onto brown paper bag into circles with back of spoon, building up sides. Bake 1½ hours. Turn off oven and leave meringue in oven with door closed for 1 hour. Finish cooling at room temperature. To serve: top with ice cream and garnish with fresh fruit.

Greek chicken can be made ahead of time

Betsy Brethen

DAN DEAN/staff photographer

Liana Callas Roberts of West Bloomfield came up with a versatile Winner Dinner.

Today is Memorial Day, a time for remembering, with thoughtfulness and honor, those who have given their lives for our country.

Because of the recent war in the Middle East, this year's observance brings with it a sense of solemnity that sets it apart from other years.

And yet, as it is a time to remember, it is also a time for celebrating the sheer joy of life, of being able to live in a wonderful country where freedom reigns and where we all have so much for which to be thankful.

THIS WEEK'S Winner Dinner Winner, Liana Callas Roberts of West Bloomfield, submitted a delicious menu that lends itself to family meals as well as to entertaining friends and relatives on special occasions such as today.

Taking only minutes to put together, Roberts' menu includes a tasty recipe for Greek Chicken that can be made ahead and marinated or, if there isn't time to do that, can be put together and baked right away.

The results are delicious, enhanced by the rice pilaf, chunky Greek salad, Parmesan pita toasts and Boston coolers that round out the menu.

MOTHER OF two young daughters, Roberts is married and is a partner in the A.T. Callas Co., founded by her father.

Roberts has worked for 12 years as a manufacturer's representative for the chemical industry.

She is the newly named president of the Detroit Society for Coatings Technology, a commitment she is looking forward to fulfilling.

ROBERTS IS of Greek heritage, and this recipe is one her mother made for her when she was a child.

She loves to cook and jokingly claims she is sure that is the reason her husband married her.

Like many of us, she finds gourmet meals are a thing of the past, except for special occasions. She usually prepares quick and easy dinners.

Thank you, Liana Callas Roberts, for taking the time to share your family's favorite meal, and congratulations on being selected this week's Winner Dinner Winner.

WITH THE Fourth of July merely five weeks away, I am looking for menus that can be made ahead so that those of us who cook will be freed from the kitchen on Independence Day.

Until next week, all the best. Here's hoping that this Memorial Day will be a special and meaningful one for you and your family.

Submit your recipes, to be considered for publication in this column or elsewhere to: Winner Dinner, P.O. Box 3503, Birmingham 48012. All submissions become the property of the publisher. Each week's winner receives an apron with the words Winner Dinner Winner on it.

Recipes are printed the same size so that you may clip and save them in a three-ring binder. Use a paper punch to make holes in the clippings or paste the clipping on a blank sheet of three-ring notebook paper. Another option is simply to file the clippings in a folder with pockets that will hold them.

AP — For a simple and healthy main course, bake fish, potatoes and vegetables in one dish.

ROASTED RED SNAPPER, CRISP POTATO SLICES AND GREEN BEANS

Four 6-ounce red snapper fillets
5 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 clove garlic, thinly sliced
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
4 cups potatoes (about 1½ pounds), peeled and thinly sliced
Salt and freshly ground pepper
2 cups (about 8 ounces) slender fresh green beans, trimmed, cut into 2-inch lengths

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Place fillets on a plate; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of the oil, the 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, one-half of the garlic and one-half of the thyme. Cover and refrigerate until ready to bake.

Spread the potatoes in a 13-by-9-inch baking dish. Sprinkle with the remaining oil, garlic and thyme; toss to coat. Bake potatoes in a 400-degree oven, turning once or twice, until edges are golden, about 30 minutes.

Sprinkle the green beans on top of the potatoes; carefully combine. Bake in a 400-degree oven for 5 minutes. Place the fish fillets directly on top of the potatoes and beans. Bake until fillets just turn opaque in the center, about 5 to 8 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

GREEK CHICKEN

Taking only 5 minutes to prepare, this delicious dish can either be made ahead and left to marinate or assembled just before baking. Roberts recommends using Juliette's Garlic Powder, available at Merchant of Vino, as it is an all-natural spice and contains no MSG. The amounts of the ingredients in this recipe are vague, as it is all a matter of personal taste. This recipes serves 4.

4 skinless chicken breasts
Olive oil — use 1 ½ tablespoons of oil per chicken piece
Juice of 1 lemon
Oregano — sprinkle over meat to taste
3-4 fresh garlic cloves, mashed (or sprinkle garlic powder on top of meat to taste)
Quartered potatoes
Vidalia onions

Place the meat, surrounded by the potatoes and onions, in a baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 ¼ hour, basting from time to time.

RICE PILAF

Uncle Ben's Converted Long Grain Rice — follow package directions for correct amount of rice
½ onion, chopped finely
1 handful vermicelli, broken into pieces
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cubes chicken bouillon

Saute the chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter until the onion is translucent. Add the broken up vermicelli to the onions, letting it brown lightly. Meanwhile, prepare the rice according to package instructions, reducing the amount of water by a ¼ cup. Add 2 cubes of chicken bouillon to the water and when rice is simmering, add 2 tablespoons of butter and the sauteed onions and vermicelli. Cook until all the water is absorbed.

CHUNKY GREEK SALAD

Chop up 2 tomatoes, 1 cucumber, 1 vidalia onion and 1 avocado. Toss with a salad dressing made of red wine vinegar, olive oil and the juice of a lemon. Add feta cheese to the salad and toss again.

PARMESAN PITA BREAD

Spread a small amount of butter or margarine on an open half of pita bread. Place on baking sheet and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Broil until lightly brown and the cheese is bubbling.

BOSTON COOLERS

Always a refreshing treat. Put 2 scoops of vanilla ice cream in a large glass. Pour Vernor's Ginger Ale over the ice cream. If you are not a Vernor's fan, substitute root beer.

Book boasts about barbecue

The story of barbecue is the story of America. Settlers arrive on the great unspoiled continent, discover wondrous riches, set them on fire and eat them.

Vince Staten, author of the "Jack Daniel's Old Time Barbecue Cookbook," is considered an authority on barbecue.

He has sampled more than 600 barbecue places from coast to coast. His search for great barbecue is captured in almost 300 recipes in this easy-to-follow and humorous-to-read cookbook.

THE "Jack Daniel's Old Time Barbecue Cookbook" gives you hints from some of the great pitmasters and tells you how to cook great barbecue.

There's a whole chapter on the search for the one true sauce.

The book takes an insider's look at barbecue, from Curtis' All-American 9th Wonder of the World Bar-B-Q in Putney, Vt., going as far south as Shorty's in South Miami, Fla.

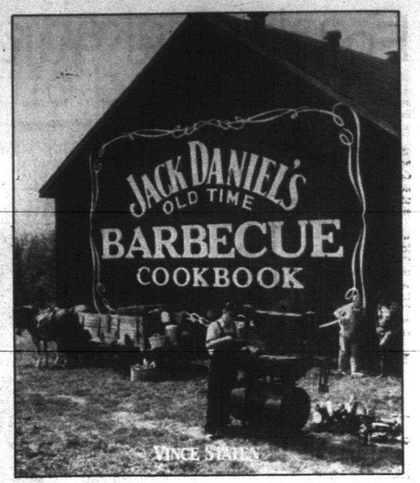

THE COOKBOOK is more than meat and sauce.

The book tells you what to cook and eat and drink with barbecue. It has chapters on appetizers, entrees (including fish) and vegetable side dishes.

The cookbook gives some secrets for fixing casseroles, soups, stews and unusual salads. Home-baked bread and barbecue is a combination as natural as Waylon and Willie, according to Staten.

The "Jack Daniel's Old Time Barbecue Cookbook" is illustrated with scores of color showing not only delicious barbecue, but pastoral, rural America at its best.

It is available at bookstores or by writing The Lynchburg Hardware & General Store, Lynchburg, Tenn. 37352, with a check for $21.95 plus $3.50 for postage and handling.

"The Jack Daniel's Old Time Barbecue Cookbook" offers nearly 300 recipes for barbecued food and accompaniments.

● FOOD/WINE

Classes in Cooking/Wine Appreciation are being offered by the Community House in Birmingham.

Introduction to Wine Appreciation is set for 7:30-10 p.m. Wednesday, June 12. Marc Jonna and Joe Bruno of the Merchant of Vino will teach how to read between the lines of a wine label, how to look for values, use of the Davis grading system and how to scientifically taste wines. The program is co-sponsored by Baldwin Library. Class fee is $22.

Natural Foods Cooking includes a Totally Italian cooking class from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 12, and a Sampler from India from 7:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 19. Each class is $14. Emphasis is on creating meatless meals that contain no refined products, sugars, meat, dairy products or cholesterol, as taught by the staff of Pure n' Simple.

You may register in person, by mail, by phone, or by fax. For more information call 644-5832.

THE LITTLE BIBLE TEACHER'S MUSTARD SLAW

1 head cabbage, shredded
2 onions, chopped
2 green peppers, chopped
½ cup mustard
½ cup vinegar
1 cup sugar
1 cup vegetable oil
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon celery seed

Mix cabbage, onions and peppers in a large bowl.

Combine remaining ingredients in bowl and stir well. Pour vinegar mixture over cabbage mixture, mix thoroughly. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Serves 12.

JACK'S BAKED BEANS

1 28-ounce can pork and beans
½ cup Jack Daniel's Whiskey
2 tablespoons brown sugar, packed
1 teaspoon instant coffee
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine beans, Jack Daniel's, brown sugar, coffee, mustard and lemon juice in a large pot. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

LEESBURG CHECKER CLUB POTATO SALAD

4 cups potatoes, boiled and cubed
2 tablespoons onion, minced
2 tablespoons pimento, minced
1 cup celery, diced
½ cup sweet cucumber pickles, chopped

Follow this guide to California wine country

Interested in traveling the wine regions of California? Here are a few suggestions based on our trips to wine country.

Driving time to the wine regions of Napa and Sonoma is about 1.5 hours north from San Francisco. Cross the Golden Gate Bride heading north on Highway 101. About 45 minutes north of the bridge, follow the signs for route 37 and Napa Valley.

Once in Napa, we suggest you visit wineries along Highway 29 stretching 30 miles from the city of Napa to Calistoga. You can learn which of these wineries is open to the public with specific days and hours for tours and tasting by sending for "Wine Country Guide to California" available from The Wine Spectator, Opera Plaza, Suite 2014, 601 Van Ness Ave., San Francisco, Calif., 94012. Cost is $4.95 plus $2 postage and handling.

Here's a suggested three-day itinerary.

SINCE MOST wineries open for tours about 10 a.m., you can drive from San Francisco on day one and get started at Robert Mondavi Winery. The tour at Mondavi is complete and sufficiently detailed to get you started on understanding the intricacies of winemaking.

Make lunch reservations in advance, (707) 944-8844, at the restaurant at Domaine Chandon. Request an outdoor table if the weather is pleasant. Follow lunch with a winery tour to learn how sparkling wine is made.

Eleanor and Ray Heald

Continue north and stop at Beringer Vineyards, then on to Sterling Vineyards where a gondola ride brings you to the white monastic-looking structure perched atop a hill. Stay overnight in Calistoga and indulge in a massage at a local spa.

Days two and three put you in Sonoma County, much larger and more expansive than Napa Valley. On the morning of the second day, leave Calistoga on Highway 128 north and follow signs to Healdsburg for your day's first visit at Simi Winery. Use your wine country guide for Dry Creek Valley tours and tastings at one or more of the valley's premium wineries.

For lunch, choose one of several smaller eating establishments in central Healdsburg, then continue south on Highway 101 to the sparkling wine producer Piper Sonoma. You will especially want to visit here if you didn't take a tour at Domaine Chandon on day one.

PLAN TO LODGE in Santa Rosa, the heart of Sonoma winegrowing. There are many fine lodging and dining opportunities in Santa Rosa from bed and breakfast establishments to hotel resorts.

Best hotel resort is the Flamingo (707) 545-8530, at Fourth Street and Farmers Lane. It features a complete health and fitness center, massage, tennis, olympic pool and gourmet restaurant. It is also equipped to help arrange horseback tours of wine country, hot air ballooning, canoeing and golfing.

To start day three, drive Route 12 from Santa Rosa toward the city of Sonoma. Many wineries are located along this route. Continue the drive to the city of Sonoma for lunch. Park along the town square and find the French bakery, the Sonoma Cheese Factory and the sausage shop for picnic supplies. If you have bought wine during a morning visit, you are ready for your picnic in the town park.

WINE SELECTIONS OF THE WEEK

While you're preparing a trip to California Wine Country, remember that Michigan has a wine industry that's alive and well. A sampling of some of the recent releases from Good Harbor Vineyards in Lake Leelanau exemplify this fact.

1990 Fishtown White ($6) is reminiscent of a dry-style German riesling and an exceptional wine for the money. Its fresh appley aromas and flavors are very attractive.

1989 Vignoles ($7) is a beautiful marriage of pear and pineapple fruit with vanilla oakiness. It's difficult to find light-style California chardonnays with this quality at the same price.

1990 Riesling ($7.50) is a perfect warm-weather wine. Serve it with a cold shrimp or salmon dish and enjoy its citrus blossom and appley freshness.

WINE BULLETIN BOARD

Attend La Fete au Jardin, a garden party and wine tasting to benefit the children and families served by the St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center. This fourth annual event will be held 2-6 p.m. Sunday, June 2, on the center's grounds at the corner of Inkster and 12 Mile roads in Farmington Hills.

Cost for the fund raiser is $80 per person. Guests will enjoy musical entertainment provided by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, wines from around the world and an array of foods from 54 of the area's best restaurants. For reservations phone 313-626-7527.

● 2 CLASSES

Michigan produce will soon be arriving in local markets, and the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service is offering two classes to help disemminate the latest USDA safest-canning recommendations to the public.

One class is a home study, for $15, and the other is a hands-on two-morning workshop Tuesday, July 16, and Thursday, July 18, for $7.50 a session. Sylvia Treitman, home economist, will teach.

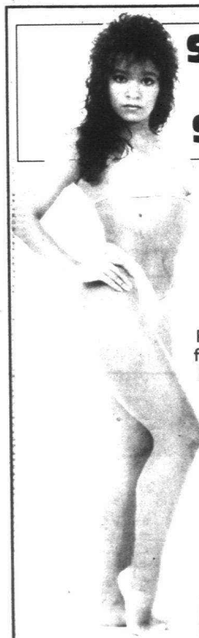

The Food and Nutrition Hotline also is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday for all food and nutrition related questions.

Be EnergyWise

Here's how to make good use of your freezer

Lois Thieleke
home economist, Cooperative Extension Service

Make a friend of your freezer. A freezer can help you add variety to your meals and save time and money.

Remember, though, that a freezer does not work miracles on over-the-hill foods. Select top-quality foods to freeze.

Be wise in preparing foods for freezing. Think about how you will be cooking or serving the food later, then choose company size, family size or individual portions, whichever suits your purposes better.

For example, when freezing a couple of pounds of ground beef in one lump, allow extra thawing time if you want to make hamburgers. It's just easier to package food in convenient servings in meal-sized quantities.

BE RUTHLESS when wrapping foods for freezing. Wrap tightly in a moisture-and-vapor-proof wrap, allowing no unnecessary air to remain.

Storage bags, plastic sandwich bags, produce bags, bread bags or plastic margarine or cottage cheese tubs do not seal well and should not be used.

Don't put a small amount of food in a large container. Extra air left in the container or package draws moisture from the food. It shortens storage life and can cause freezer burn and possible nutrient loss.

Protect the food from drying out and from possible odors coming from the freezer, causing "off" flavors in food.

Freezer-burned foods are edible, but will have an unpleasant flavor. Generally, the burned area is cut away and wasted.

Wrap tightly in a moisture-and-vapor-proof wrap, allowing no unnecessary air to remain.

THE FASTER you can freeze the product the better. When freezing foods, place them in the coldest part of the freezer and allow for plenty of air circulation.

Also, try to avoid freezing too much food at one time. If food is frozen slowly, large ice crystals form and it is mushy when thawed.

Place containers in a single layer on a shelf. Once the food is frozen, stack containers on top of each other to save freezer space.

SOME FOODS do not freeze well. Hard-cooked egg whites toughen when frozen, but the cooked yolks freeze reasonably well.

If pasta products are well-done before freezing, they tend to become soggy or tough when frozen. However, when they are mixed in a combination dish with some liquid, they freeze well.

Pepper, onion, cloves and synthetic vanilla can become strong and bitter when stored. Season foods lightly before freezing. If possible, add herbs and spices when you are ready to cook or serve.

SAUCES FREQUENTLY separate during freezing and thawing. Using homogenized milk and large amounts of fat increases the separation. Beating the sauce when thawed may make it smooth again.

Fried foods, with the exception of french-fried potatoes and onions, become soggy and tough. Pieces of potatoes in soups and stews also may become soggy or grainy, but mashed potatoes freeze very well.

Most breads, cookies, pies and other baked goods freeze well. Fruit pies and cookies can be frozen raw and baked after freezing.

For best results, freeze cakes without the icing. Frozen icing sometimes takes on a "tired" look after thawing. If freezing butter, unsalted butter stores better than salted.

BE VERY thoughtful about thawing frozen foods. The foods you freeze, as well as the commercially frozen foods you buy, may be thawed in the refrigerator under cold running water or during cooking.

We recommend very highly that foods be thawed in the refrigerator and definitely not on the kitchen counter.

To prevent drying and discoloration during thawing, foods should be left in their original freezer wrap except, of course, when they are to be thawed during cooking.

Use the rule "first in, first out." Rotate the food, checking out the back or bottom of the freezer to make sure you are getting the older-dated foods first. Don't collect antiques in your freezer.

TODAY'S BUSY lifestyles allow limited time for preparing meals. By cooking ahead of time, you can thaw as needed and serve a nutritious meal in just minutes.

Use proper freezing techniques to ensure good taste, flavor and quality of your frozen foods.

"Breakthroughs" do not occur in arthritis therapy. Researchers need years and hundreds of patients to assess the efficacy and safety of a new treatment.
During the period that therapeutic trials are underway, physicians obtain preliminary information at meetings or from their journals on the use of the drug. By the time the therapy passes the evaluations necessary to permit its general distribution, doctors know its place in treatment, the possible toxicities, and the optimal dose.
Also be aware that: 'the voice may be the voice of science, but the hand may be the hand of Madison Avenue.' The announcement of a "breakthrough" could represent advance publicity for a pharmaceutical firm that has packaged the "innovation." Or, a Wall Street brokerage house may engage an ad agency before offering the public shares in a company that has synthesized the "breakthrough" in quantities sufficient for the country's 'need.'
Too often you are exposed to a dramatic news item such as the recent one of Boston doctors discovering that interleuken is a cure for arthritis; that report is a distortion of the medication's true worth. In contrast, the medical community has sufficient familiarity to shed the drug of its magic and marvel.

Lawmakers jockeying on tax base sharing

By Tim Richard
staff writer

Suburban school districts in 1993 would get back $72 million in categorical aid that the state took away last year — for a price.

The price would be property tax base sharing, under an aid bill drafted by the Senate Appropriations subcomittee on school aid.

"It would mainly affect districts with cornfields zoned commercial," said Rick Simonson, legislative agent for Oakland Intermediate School District.

Simonson identified Oxford and Novi as the two Oakland districts most likely to be affected by the tax base sharing plan.

Intently watching Tuesday's 15-minute meeting was a group of Birmingham high school students studying funding equity for Michigan schools.

TAX BASE sharing is the pet project of Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, chair of the Senate panel on school funding.

Under it, half of all growth in commercial and industrial property would be collected in common and distributed to all districts on a per-pupil basis.

Option I calls for statewide sharing. Option II calls for multi-county regions.

Under Option II, Wayne, Washtenaw and 11 southernmost counties would be a region. Oakland, Livingston and the middle 23 counties north to Clare would be a second region. A third region would be the Thumb, the northern lower peninsula and the upper peninsula.

Business tax base sharing would have little effect on largely residential districts like Bloomfield Hills or built-up districts like Southfield, South Redford and Livonia.

In return, out-of-formula districts, which get no general state aid, would see the return of $72 million in categorical aid — for special education, bilingual teaching, health and other specific programs. That money was "recaptured" — legislative jargon for taken away — in the 1991 school aid bill. Some 51 districts are suing in the state Court of Appeals.

DeGROW PLACED money for several other favorite projects of his and Gov. John Engler's in the $3.5 billion budget bill:

- $1 million for transportation for schools of choice programs. The plan would allow parents to enroll their children in any available school. Part of the money would be for in-district choice, part for cross-district choice within a county.
- $300,000 for 12 pilot programs for 200-day school years. Current state law requires at least 180 days of school, and most districts provide only the minimum.
- No cap on state Social Security payments for teachers — another pet topic among suburban districts.

DeGrow said his panel would act on the measure, House Bill 4572, next Tuesday, sending it to the full Appropriations Committee for action Wednesday. Meanwhile, the House was to vote on its versionthis week.

Gov. Engler recommended $3.55 billion, up 4.7 percent over the current year's $3.4 billion. The House panel raised the ante to $3.6 billion. The Senate version asks $3.56 billion, up 5 percent overthe current year.

MATT McASKIN, a Birmingham Seaholm High student, said students there took up the school money issue after Gov. Engler spoke to them May 8.

"We collected 1,500 petition signatures," he said. The petition supports equity between school districts but says quality need not be sacrificed in one district to improve others.

Noting some districts have as little as $2,500 per student while Birmingham has $7,500 and Southfield $8,000, he said his group "wants them to meet at the top, not in the middle."

"Our purpose," added 10th grader Katie Weaver, "is not for us as individuals. We'll be graduating. We won't be hurt. We want to help our younger brothers and sisters and students in other districts. We've had 11 years of exemplary eduction."

The student group is called APPLE — for Advocates of Positive Policies for Legislative Education.

John Hoefler, Birmingham's incoming superintendent who accompanied the group, said the 1991 "recapture" provision will cost his district 30 positions.

Students were disappointed the Senate subcommittee session was so brief and that no testimony was taken.

Keep bird feeder well stocked during summer

Timothy Nowicki

One question I am frequently asked is: "Should I feed birds during the summer?"

Yes! I do not want to disillusion those that feed birds, but the reason we feed birds is so that we can watch them. During the winter, birds obtain about 20-25 percent of their food from feeders.

Feeders are very beneficial, however, for birds if there is an extended cold or stormy period. Do not worry about leaving your feeders unattended for a period of time, they should be able to find your neighbors' feeders without too much difficulty.

So if you want to watch birds during the summer, then keep feeding them. You will have to clear the ground more often so fungus does not grow in the discarded shells, and you should clean the feeders more often so fungus does not grow in them either.

Attracting birds to your feeder during the summer will allow you to observe the young of many species using your feeder. Providing food for adults during the summer may reduce the time adults spend finding food for themselves, so they may spend more time finding insects for their young.

No matter what season you feed birds, there is always color and activity to see. That is why we put our daughter's highchair in front of the window by the feeders. She could see the bright red of the cardinal, the blue of the blue jay, and the gold of the goldfinch. In fact, we told her to look at the blue jay so often as she was growing up, that I think her first word was "blue jay."

Watching birds at a feeding station is not only beneficial to young children and families, it is also beneficial to senior citizens. A "semi-scientific" study done at three New York nursing homes showed remarkable changes in attitudes of their residents in just two three-week study periods.

Feeders were placed outside the windows of the nursing homes and maintained by staff. Each resident was given a pamphlet with large type that described how to begin watching birds. They were also given a folder with 26 of the most common species seen and a Peterson guide for beginners. Residents were asked to write down who saw the first of each species on a board by the feeders.

By the end of the second three-week period, staff found a 55 percent improvement in mobility, sociability, activity and cooperation among the residents. Quite remarkable for such a simple addition to their surroundings.

Even surgery patients exposed to views with trees were found to require less medication and felt less upset, according to a 1984 study by a Dr. Roger Ulrich.

Preserving the natural world and incorporating it in our urban sprawl has more benefits than was once thought. Many of these benefits should be qualified in terms of dollars and cents and compared to the cost of destroying the natural surroundings.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia.

"The Christening" keepsake plate by Abbie Williams

A beautiful portrait of innocence and faith, created by noted children's artist Abbie Williams. A lovely memento for parents or godparents. It's sure to be treasured by the child in later years, since it may be personalized on the back with his or her name and details of the christening. Crafted of fine porcelain 7½" in diameter. "The Christening," from Roman, Inc., is priced at $29.50.

Author, student lunch does more than take up space

By Susan Buck
staff writer

The aliens have landed. And they've brought food and a favorite author.

Bruce Coville, an internationally known children's author, arrived last week at Farmington's Warner Middle School for a cosmic feast.

Young people know Coville as the author of the popular book "My Teacher Is an Alien," which has sold a million copies.

Warner's gifted Delta students, dubbed the Unidentified Flying Floaters, sponsored the event.

The Delta program focuses on the advanced language arts classes grades 6-8.

"The best writing comes from inside yourself," Coville told students in Fern Onickel's and Bette Buckler's classes. "The most important thing in the story are the characters. How can you care about what happens if you don't care about who it happens to? Write about what you care about and what matters to you."

COVILLE'S characters span the spectrum of unicorns, giants, ghosts, monsters and, of course, a teacher who is an alien.

Coville, a New York City resident who has written 27 books, plans to release two more student scintillations this year — "My Teacher Fried My Brains" and "My Teacher Glows in the Dark."

While Coville admits that he frequently writes about weird situations at school, he doesn't "use an awful lot" from his own home life."

Before becoming a writer, Coville worked as a toymaker, a gravedigger, a cookware salesman and on an assembly line. He eventually became an elementary teacher and worked with second and fourth graders.

Coville, 41, has three children, Orion, 21, Cara, 16 and Adam, 10.

Warner's Delta students honored their guest with alien skits, papier-mache aliens and a buffet which included items students named: galaxy glop (green rice crispie squares), extra-terrestrial eyes (hardboiled eggs), martian mold (green jello), exotic ectoplasm (green jello with gummy worms), shooting stars (peanut butter jelly sandwiches with star-shaped bread), moon munchies (chocolate chip squares), milky way muck (cake) and crater crunchies (vegetable sticks).

DELTA COORDINATORS are Bob Prior — who handles East and Dunckel Middle schools — and Barb Rebbeck — assigned to Power and Warner middle schools.

Prior and Rebbeck write curriculum and team-teach in the advanced language arts classes.

As part of the Delta program, Rebbeck selects an author and writes a unit for one of his or her novels. Then the author is invited to spend one day in Farmington at all four middle schools.

Coville called the alien luncheon, the "delight of his day" and "a real hoot."

"Gifted students are the most discriminated against kids in the country because they are the least served," Coville said. "I like to work with those kids."

Dean Cobb from TV-10 helped film and edit the alien skits and they were the entertainment during the alien luncheon. Coville was given a copy of the alien skits as a gift.

"Bruce Coville told me he was delighted that his novel was being used as such a springboard for wonderful activities," Rebbeck said. "He's a terrific advocate for gifted kids, and his visit was certainly the highlight of my four years as a gifted coordinator."

DIANE E. SPADE

Services for Diane E. Spade, 50, of Northville were Thursday, May 23, at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville.

Mrs. Spade was born May 28, 1940, in Indianapolis, Ind. She died Monday, May 20, in Ann Arbor. She owned her own craft business, Calico Touch, in Northville. Before moving to the Northville area in 1973, the family lived in Plymouth. She was an active member of the Lakepointe Garden Club in Plymouth and an active member of the Ward Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Spade is survived by her husband, Thomas D. Spade of Northville; one son, Thomas Spade Jr. of Sunnyvale, Calif.; two daughters, Debbie Lawton of Farmington Hills and Kristy Spade of Northville; and her mother, Ruth Clements of Indiana.

Dr. Bartlett L. Hess of Ward Presbyterian Church officiated the service. Memorial contributions may be given to Arbor Hospice, American Diabetes Association or Neurological Research at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Arrangements were made by Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville.

Subsidized housing has waiting list

Renee Mahler

Q. Are there any subsidized housing apartments in the Westland or Wayne areas?

A. Subsidized senior housing is found in both communities. Priority consideration, at all buildings, is given to those who are currently paying more than 50 percent of their income for rent, are now living in substandard housing or who are disabled or homeless. Unfortunately all of the apartments have waiting lists that run from approximately one to eight years.

- The following are subsidized apartments in Wayne:
  Wayne Towers, 721-0660.
  Michigan 29-2, 721-8602.
  Tae-Keuk Village, 729-7920.
- In Westland:
  Greenwood Villa, 261-3200.
  Westgate Tower, 729-2900.
  Thomas F. Taylor Towers, 326-0700.
  Westhaven Manor, 729-3690.

Check the local telephone directories for the addresses of these apartments.

I am 72 years old. When I was younger I was very proud to be able to donate blood to the American Red Cross. Will they still let me donate my blood? I am very healthy.

A. For many years the Red Cross required that blood donors must be under 65 years of age. They have since changed this ruling. A shortage of donors and blood has made the organization change their donor policy. Anyone 65 years or older may donate blood as long as they are in good health. As for any person, donors will be screened for eligibility. You will be asked about the medications you take, your blood pressure and iron level will be checked. You will also be asked if you have had any form of Hepatitis, malaria or AIDS.

Call your local American Red Cross office to make an appointment. You will be screened over the telephone and at the donor site to make certain you and your blood is in good condition.

The Red Cross needs blood donors and this would be a very good way for healthy older adults to help our communities.

Q. I am in desperate need of some transporotation for medical appointments some shopping every so often. Cabs are very costly. I live in the Birmingham area.

A. You are in luck. The Birmingham Area Senior Citizens Council has just inaugurated a Senior Van Service that will run weekdays from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. with evening and weekend transportation available for special events.

The Van Service is available for older adults and physically handicapped people living in the Birmingham School District and it is equipped with a wheelchair lift. Transportation is offered within the Birmingham School District and to other selected locations in Oakland County.

Riders will be picked up at their homes for such trips as medical, dental or personal appointments, senior center activities, shopping and club or church activities. The van then will return to pick up the riders and return them home. The van will not transport for medical emergencies.

Requests for service will be taken at the Birmingham Area Senior Citizens Council from 9 a.m. to noon, Mondays through Fridays only. Requests should be made at least two days in advance.

When requesting transportation the caller will be asked to provide the following information: name, address with nearest cross streets and telephone number, destination with nearest cross street, phone number and purpose of trip. If it is for an appointment, you will be asked the appointment time and estimated length of the appointment. It is suggested that riders schedule appointments before 2 p.m. to ensure a return trip. If it is necessary to cancel a trip, you are asked to notify the Council as soon as possible.

To arrange for a ride call 642-1040 Monday through Thursday between 9 a.m. and noon. A $1 donation is requested each way.

New flight patterns should reduce neighborhood noise

If it was unusually quiet in your suburban neighborhood this Memorial Day weekend, it could be because new flight patterns began 7 a.m. Sunday at Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport.

The new flight patterns are part of a 180-day test agreed to by the Federal Aviation Administration and the county.

They counteract flight patterns inaugurated in November 1989. Those patterns increased the number of flights over suburban neighborhoods in western Wayne county.

Those neighborhoods, especially one in the Middlebelt Road corridor, are expected to be the chief beneficiaries of the revised routes.

Under the test, most flights are being re-routed over less populated areas of southwestern Wayne County.

In other changes, flight patterns over northern suburbs will be fanned out over a wider number of neighborhoods, while late-night arrivals and departures will be limited.

Those with comments on the new flight patterns can call the county noise office, 942-3222.

The danger's not in this dog's bite. It's in what bites this dog.
Heartworm-infected mosquitoes in this area can threaten the lives of unprotected dogs. A mosquito that bites your dog could be carrying heartworm, a common—and potentially deadly—parasite. One bite from a disease-carrying mosquito is all it takes for your dog to become infected.
Treatment for heartworm disease can be dangerous for your dog and expensive for you. The longer this disease goes without detection, the harder it becomes to treat and the greater the risk of permanent damage to your dog's heart.
The good news is that your dog can be protected from heartworm disease. Just see your veterinarian for a heartworm test and find out how easy and convenient prevention can be.
Heartworm disease can be a serious threat to your dog's health—so don't delay. Your best friend's life could depend on it. Call Your Veterinarian For A Heartworm Test Today.

WE'RE ON A BIG ROLL

To be part of the solution, not part of the problem.

Times change. There was once a time when we thought that providing the very best community news coverage was enough.

Today it's not. Today we have a responsibility not only to our readers and advertisers, but also to our environment.

That's why 30% of the newsprint we put on our press has been recycled. This will increase when our other suppliers bring recycled newsprint on line later this year.

Our communities and the entire State of Michigan face a solid waste crisis.

There used to be 624 Type II landfills in Michigan*. The trash from your home, your neighbor's homes and the businesses in your town goes into a Type II landfill. As you read this, there are only 71 of them still open and licensed to do business. That's 71 in all of Michigan's 83 counties. Estimates say one-third of these will be out of business in less than five years.

So what can a business like ours do to be part of the solution and not part of the problem?

We're buying and printing your newspaper on recycled newsprint. We're looking for other recycled products to use in our business. We're recycling all of our newsprint and office paper. We're working to increase public awareness and participation. We're encouraging our readers to recycle.

How can you help? Why not begin with this newspaper; recycle it along with others you may have collected. Then start buying recycled products. Spread the word about those landfills and recycle this page by sharing it with a friend.

And if you are already recycling—thank you.

Chiefs overwhelm league opponents

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Plymouth Canton had too many good athletes, too many strengths and too many points for anyone to stop the Chiefs from winning the Western Lakes Activities Association championship in girls track and field.

The Chiefs accumulated an impressive total of 175 points to win their second league title in four years Wednesday at Farmington.

Defending champion Livonia Stevenson was second with 119 points but still 56 behind Canton. Plymouth Salem was third with 102 and the host Falcons fourth with 90½.

The Chiefs scored in every event and won five. Heather Pastor defeated two-time champion Tracey Livermore of Salem in the high jump, and Stephanie Gray won the high jump, Aleah Collier the shot put and Kim Gudeth the 800-meter run. The Chiefs also won the 3,200 relay.

"What really got the ball rolling was the way we ran in the prelims and Heather Pastor winning the long jump," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "We talked about stepping up doing better than we have, and Heather, without a doubt, got it rolling for us by winning the long jump on her last jump."

PRZYGODSKI CITED the roles played by Aimee Lanzon, who was second in the high jump, Jennifer Hartke (400 dash) and Jill Barnes (3,200 run) as ones who provided unexpected points.

"You always have kids who are going to score well, and they know who they are," Przygodski said, "but in a meet of this kind you always have kids come from nowhere and score points, too."

Ifeoma Okwumabua, Selena Bastine, Angela Fountain, Karina Kilpelainen, Ndu Okwumabua, Alicia King, Lana Boroditsch and Christie Saffron scored in open events for the Chiefs, who achieved their lopsided victory without Amy Smith, one of their best distance runners who was sick. Monica Pellow, Boroditsch, Saffron and Gudeth comprised the 3,200 relay team.

Ifeoma Okwumabua, a senior who was second in the shot put and fourth in the discus, was a freshman on the 1988 team that won the WLAA title.

"It's a great feeling to be able to win it twice," she said, "to know I put in my effort and won it when I was coming in and again when I was going out."

Collier is a longtime Canton resident, but this is her first year at the school. She attended Livonia Ladywood as a freshman and transferred to Canton after two years at Redford St. Agatha where she distinguished herself in the Catholic League.

AFTER READING about the Chiefs in previous years, being a part of a championship team with them as a senior is the crowning achievement for her.

"Everyone is together here," she said. "Even the freshmen let us know they were doing this for the seniors. There were times when the seniors were down (during the season) and didn't want to let it show. But if we stick together in the bad times look what happens: we're league champions."

Przygodski and Stevenson coach Paul Holmberg agreed Canton's depth played a pivotal role in deciding the meet.

☐ WLAA statistics, 2C

"What really sealed the meet was, in the middle, when we went one-two in the high jump and shot put and came away with 44 points in two events," Przygodski said. "That broke it wide open.

"In a lot of events, we scored more than one place, and that's you're depth. Another sign of depth is when you can run distance kids in a limited number of events and we did that today."

Stevenson had six second places, including three in relays, but the Spartans won only one event — the shot put with Teresa Sarno. Canton also had a lot more third places than Stevenson.

"WE THOUGHT we could (beat Canton) if they didn't score all their points, but they got all of them and more," Holmberg said. "When we beat them in one event, they'd be right behind us. In their weak events, they scored well.

"It's a real tribute to Canton to win by that margin. Maybe we can work something out where they win in the odd years and we win in the even years."

Holmberg added the Spartans still had a good meet in terms of individual performances. He cited Jennifer Pfander, who was second in the 800 run and ran on two relays, and Carrie Creehan, who was second in the 3,200 run and fourth in the 1,600.

"In this kind of heat, when the kids are doubling and tripling and have good times, that's outstanding," Holmberg said. "Some of our kids ran better than we expected, so I'm not disappointed in that regard.

"Our kids came a long way since the beginning of the year. Instead of a rebuilding year, it turned out to be a reloading year. We had strengths in different areas this year. We were strong in the hurdles last year, and this year we were better in the

Salem, Canton prevail

Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton moved on to the district baseball tournament at Ann Arbor Huron with preliminary-round victories Thursday.

In pre-district games played at Centennial Educational Park, Salem whipped Ypsilanti 6-0 and Canton edged Romulus 2-1.

The district semifinals Saturday will match the Chiefs against the Adrian-Pinckney winner at 10 a.m. and the Rocks against Western Lakes Activities Association rival Westland John Glenn at 1 p.m.

Scott Rodgers pitched a two-hit, complete game for Salem and improved his record to 9-2. He struck out 15 and walked four.

"He overpowered the majority of Ypsilanti hitters," Salem coach John Gravlin said. "That was the hardest he's thrown all year. He knows we rely on him for the big games."

Greg Dessellier was the losing pitcher. He gave up five hits and struck out six. Ypsilanti is 17-10.

"EARLY IN THE game, Dessellier was really bringing it, and we had some poor at-bats," Gravlin said. "But then we became more aggressive; we didn't chase balls."

The defending district champion Rocks (20-4) scored three runs in the fourth and sixth innings, and all of Tears welled up in the eyes of Plymouth Salem co-captain Gwen Gibbish Friday night after the Rocks won the championship of the Class A district soccer tournament at Ann Arbor Huron.

They weren't entirely tears of joy, however. The junior defender thought she had done less than her best in Salem's 2-0 victory.

The Rocks received a better challenge than some might have expected from Huron, which threatened to tie before Julie Thomas scored her second goal of the night to clinch it for Salem.

"I didn't feel I played up to my game, but I'm glad everyone was behind me," Gibbish said. "It was very scary but we kept together and got it. If we stay together and play as a team, we can do well."

Salem coach Ken Johnson, who attributed the tight game in part to fatigue after the Rocks played three games last week, had some comforting words for Gibbish.

"THEY HAD some fast players and were getting down there more than some teams," he said. "It wasn't that she was playing badly; they were playing well. You can't expect the district final to be a walkover."

Salem, ranked No. 2 in the state and 15-1-1 overall, will play Dearborn Edsel Ford in the Woodhaven regional at 4 p.m. Wednesday. The winner faces either Livonia Stevenson or Farmington Hills Mercy in the final Saturday.

The Rocks fired more shots at the River Rats, forcing Huron goalkeeper Julie Johnson to make 14 saves on legitimate attempts while Jenny Emmett made half as many for Salem.

Thomas scored both goals off throwins by senior co-captain Amy Krajewski, and the Rocks clung to a 1-0 advantage after the junior midfielder got her first goal eight minutes into the game.

"I came here to give it my best shot," Thomas said. "I want to go to state — this whole team does — and I'll do anything to get there. It takes the whole team to get this far."

Kris Goff's shot off Krajewski's first-half throwin was deflected, but Thomas redirected the ball into the net.

HER SECOND goal came at 9:20 of the second half and all but sealed the outcome for Salem. She scored on a header, redirecting a long throwin by Krajewski.

"Throughout the whole game, Amy's throwins kept going over as far as possible," Thomas said. "I just stayed on the far post and waited there by my lonesome. No one was marking me the whole game. It was a matter of being in the right spot at the right time."

The second goal came soon after the Rats, who completed their best season in school history with a 14-5-1 record, had pressed the attack.

Salem had a chance to take a two-goal lead at 11:03, but Goff's penalty kick hit the post. Huron raced back the other way and made a run at Emmett, who kicked the ball away.

The River Rats, who lost 7-0 to Salem last year in the first round of the district, were thinking about a possible shootout to decide the game.

"We were hoping to get a goal sprints and field events."

Salem also surpassed pre-meet expectations. The Rocks had 64 points based on where their athletes stood according to seed times and distances; but they did much better and pushed ahead of Farmington in the final tally.

"I THOUGHT WE ran out of our minds," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "The potential has always been there for us to do real well. We just put it together today."

The efforts of Livermore, Tonya Wheeler, Andrea Kinnelly and Theresa Giacherio drew the praises of the coach.

Livermore also "ran a great leg in the 400 and 400 relays and came back to finish fourth in the 200," Gregor said.

Giacherio "had the 300 hurdles with a school-record time of 47.3, beating the standard set by Jennifer Harris a year ago when she ran 47.5. Wheeler is the league champion in the 400 dash and combined with Livermore, Dana Driscoll and Kinnelly to win the 800 relay.

Gregor also singled out Alysia Sofios, Sarah Makins, Julie Cutting and Emily Farrell as ones who improved their seed times and distances to help Salem move up.

Farmington's Shelli Gaul won the high hurdles and set a school record in the prelims with a 15.1 time. She already had the old record of 15.3, too.

THE FALCONS did well in the sprints with a pair of freshmen, Jaranda Foster and Kay Rodgers, winning the 100 and 200 dashes, respectively. They also combined with Gaul and Cheryl Casaroll to win the 400 relay.

"We didn't expect to win the 100 or 200, but I figured we would do well," Farmington coach Bruce Brown said. "I figured Shelli would win and we'd be in the top three in each one. I think (Gaul) can definitely take a place in the state meet. I'd like to see her be in the hunt."

Other winners were Jennifer Ray of Walled Lake Western in the 1,600 run, North Farmington's Emily Shively in the 3,200 run and the 1,600 relay team from Western.

Chiefs plaster pre-district foe

Plymouth Canton pounded visiting Romulus 11-2 Thursday to earn a berth in the district softball tournament at Ann Arbor Huron.

Kelly Holmes clinched a two-hitter for the Chiefs and was one of two players with three hits and three RBI.

Holmes struck out 11, raising her season total to 141 and her career number to 337 in two seasons. She walked six.

Kris Ford also had three hits and three RBI as Canton supported Holmes with 14 hits. Danielle Mortiere had two hits, including a solo homer and a run-producing double, and Esther Buzuvis drove in a run with a triple.

"Everybody who played had at least one hit," Canton coach Jim Arnold said. "Our bats came to life. It was a complete, total effort by the team. They had fun today and that's what it's all about."

The Chiefs (19-3) will play Adrian or Pinckney in the district tournament at 1 p.m. Saturday.

LADYWOOD 4, FARMINGTON 0: Senior Staci Kowalczyk pitched a two-hitter Thursday, leading Livonia Ladywood (18-14) to a Class A pre-district softball triumph over Farmington (11-13) in a game played at Bicentennial Park.

Kowalczyk struck out two and walked only one in going the distance.

Losing pitcher Cory Wojcik went six innings, allowing three hits and seven walks.

Farmington left only four runners on base.

"Usually, when Cory gives up only four runs, we're in good shape," Farmington coach Julie Ingalls said. "But we hit a lot of pop-ups and balls to the third baseman."

Ladywood got on the board in the second inning when Ann Zazula's two-run single scored Kim Supron and Mary Jo Kelly.

The Blazers added two more in the fourth.

Zazula scored on a passed ball to make it 3-0 for Mercy. Her RBI single in the fifth sparked a three-run uprising.

Paulin knocked one of her two runs on the day during the surge with a sacrifice fly, while Angela Mastrionni contributed a successful suicide squeeze bunt.

Starter Karen Jose, a freshman, worked 6⅓ innings before giving way to Marcy Kneiding in the seventh. Jose allowed six hits and two walks, while fanning four.

Churchill is 7-11 overall. The Chargers lost earlier in the week to Dearborn, 13-6.

SOUTH LYON 7, N. FARMINGTON 1: The visiting Raiders were held to two hits Thursday as the Lions eliminated North in a pre-district softball game.

Lynn Scheloske struck out seven and walked five to earn the victory for South Lyon.

"She wasn't blowing the ball by us," North coach Dave Brubaker said. "My girls just couldn't make contact.

"It was one of those games when we couldn't get anything going, and everything they did went right."

North pitcher Jennifer Lydon (13-4) allowed eight hits, walked four and struck out two. The Raiders made three errors while South Lyon was errorless.

Heather Walters, Rachael Perry and Jenny Shanks had two hits apiece for the Lions. Lydon and Dana Botwick had the only North hits.

The Raiders scored in the top of the seventh inning when a bases-loaded walk to Karen Seremet sent Eve Claar to the plate. Claar, a senior catcher, picked a runner off base for the sixth time this season.

North (16-5) plays host to Plymouth Canton in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover game Tuesday.

FRANKLIN 8, STEVENSON 2: Tracy Parenti, Jenny Murray and Amanda Hosko each collected two hits Thursday, propelling Livonia Franklin (18-5) to the Class A predistrict win over visiting Livonia Stevenson (6-12).

Parenti collected a double and knocked in a pair of runs, while Hosko scored twice.

Winning pitcher Jenny Mayle (18-2) allowed six hits, walked three and struck out four.

Erin Phillips, the Stevenson starter, worked the first four innings, allowing six runs. Lori Shingledecker finished up.

The Spartans, who trailed 6-2 after two innings, committed four errors.

Beth Bisio collected two of Stevenson's hits, including a double. Gayle Richardson added an RBI.

Stevenson won earlier in the week against Dearborn Edsel Ford, 16-11.

MERCY 8, CHURCHILL 0: Farmington Hills Mercy senior pitcher Maureen Paulin blanked Livonia Churchill on three hits in a Class A predistrict game on Thursday.

Paulin walked only one and struck out three in seven innings.

The visiting Marlins (24-8) jumped out to a 2-0 first-inning lead and scored three more times in the fifth to break the game wide open.

Kathleen Berrigan went 3-for-3, knocked in three runs, scored twice and had two stolen bases and Michelle Wilson manufactured her own run when she walked, stoled second, advanced to third on a passed ball and stoled home.

back and go to a shootout because then it's 50-50," Huron coach Brian Borde said.

"LAST YEAR we wanted to keep it close, because we were playing a good team. This year we were playing the No. 2 team in the state, and we wanted to win the game. We got a break on the penalty kick and overall couldn't have done a better job. I think the better team won."

Johnson substituted frequently to overcome fatigue and injuries.

Forward and leading scorer Erin Harvey and midfielder Mackenzie Emmett didn't play and will more than likely miss Wednesday's game, also. Krajewski and defender Lisa Ferguson played but still are trying to recover from sprains.

The Rocks played a draining game — emotionally and physically — with Plymouth Canton on Monday, winning in a sudden-death shootout. They didn't practice Tuesday, defeated Ann Arbor Pioneer on Wednesday and had a light workout Thursday.

"I think we lost a bit Monday in our legs," Johnson said. "After three games, the legs don't respond the way you want them to.

"If it had been our normal first game of the week throughout the season, I think we would have shown a little more dominance, though I thought we extended their goalkeeper quite a bit.

"I just think we were a little weary. I don't think we'll take any team lightly."

Livonia league draws top sandlot talent

By Brad Emons
staff writer

Where have you gone Detroit Astray Baseball League?

If Simon and Garfunkel were singing a new version to this tune, the answer would be: Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

With the folding of the Detroit circuit, players ages 20 and under have flocked to compete for jobs in the eight-team LCBL. Competition will be a lot stiffer this summer in the Livonia league, which began its season Friday.

Opending Day pitted Wendy's of Ann Arbor against Livonia Little Caesars, regular-season champion Fieger & Fieger (formerly Duffy's Plumbing of Livonia) against two-time LCBL playoff champion Walter's Appliance of Livonia.

"There are going to be larger crowds at the games this year because this will be the only place in the area to see college baseball," predicts Walter's manager Mike Keller, now in his 10th season.

Walter's has several players returning, including right fielder Jerry Koester, a Westland John Glenn High product who hit .405 last year. He is joined by holdovers Jason Gabel (Livonia Churchill), a first baseman who led the LCBL in RBI (36) last year; outfielder Joe Sturtz (North Farmington), a part-time starter this season at Indiana; and Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill), a starting infielder this spring for Madonna College.

KELLER HAS also signed several impressive players including University of Detroit Mercy standout center fielder Mike Heard (Wayne High), who may opt to play part of the summer in Cape Cod, Mass. league.

Heard, however, may go in the pro draft along with Henry Ford Community College shortstop Mark Hribar, another Keller signee.

Last year's regular season champ Duffy's Plumbing, now Fieger & Fieger, returns eight players, including the league's leading hitter, second baseman Todd Fracassi (Livonia Stevenson). He led all batters last summer with a .461 average.

Rob Puckett (Wayne), a standout center fielder for Henry Ford CC's state champion team, also returns along with pair of Western Michigan University hurlers, John Schefka (3-2 and 2.80 ERA) and Bill Flohr.

"The league should be fun to watch and it will be a chance to see some darn good baseball," Fieger manager Rey Fracassi said.

Tom Holzer Ford, last place in the LCBL in 1990, has now become Delwal of Brighton.

Manager Bob Peterson, with the help of scout Fred Schmidt, has made some major connections with some of the state's top NCAA Division I schools.

DELWAL'S top-name players include Leo Hutchinson (Redford Catholic Central), a pitcher at Eastern Michigan; pitchers Mike Wiseley (EMU) and Tim Bruce (U-D Mercy); along with outfielder Steve Money (MSU) and infielder Eric Sumpter (MSU). Peterson also has Ron Hollis of Brighton, considered by many as the state's top high school player.

Wendy's, meanwhile, was second in last year's LCBL race.

Manager Dr. Brien Lang will rely on MSU's Hirschman brothers — Stu, a pitcher, and Steve, an outfielder.

The Plymouth-Canton based Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury team is heavily stocked with area players, including first baseman Mike Culver (Plymouth Canton), who is now at Kansas City Community College; and Mike Sulak (Canton), an EMU hurler.

Hines Park should also get a boost from Joe Venturini, a Henry Ford CC standout, who comes over as a pitcher/DH from the Adray Photo team of the defunct Detroit League.

Another team loaded with local players is the Farmington-based Total Travel Values squad, which will try to improve on last year's sixth-place finish.

Familiar names include Henry Ford CC pitcher Craig Murray (Farmington Harrison), who had 54 strikeouts last summer to lead the league; pitcher/first baseman Chris Schmid (Farmington High) and outfielder Kevin Young (CMU and Farmington).

DON MAXWELL, a catcher/first baseman from CMU, was an Class B All-Stater last year at Warren Woods Tower. He is joined on the Total Travel squad by Wisconsin move-in Zachary Zavac, an outfielder at Northern Illinois University.

Livonia Little Caesars, which finished a disappointing fifth and out of the playoffs last year, has beefed up its attack.

Pitcher Jim Miller (MSU quarterback) is gone, but Western Michigan University red-shirt Bill Bannon, who played the last two years for Hines Park, should become the squad's ace.

He is joined by veterans Andy Weighill (Livonia Clarenceville), an outfielder who hit .431 last year; pitcher/infielder Rich Roy (Clarenceville), now at Madonna; and outfielder Joe Ransley (Livonia Franklin), now at Hillsdale.

Another Caesars contributor should be Harper Woods Notre Dame product Jeff Miller (U-D Mercy), a third baseman/shorstop, who was last year's Michigan Gatorade Player of the Year. Kevin Crociata, a U-M freshman, is another top-notch infielder.

THE LCBL will also have some foreign flavor this summer as Detroit Adray League refugee the C.P.O.A. Canucks, based in Windsor, joins the group. The Canucks will be stocked with native Canadians and Wayne State University players.

"The Adray League was very good, but we were outclassed against teams like Adray Appliance and Adray Photo," Canucks manager Tim Gillies said. "We hope to be more competitive at the Livonia level, although this league can only get better."

Now the only thing the league needs is another Joe DiMaggio.

● Promising newcomers: Mike Heard (U-D Mercy), outfielder; Mark Hribar (Henry Ford CC), shortstop; Craig Overaitis (Henry Ford CC), pitcher/utility; Eric Stowe (Henry Ford), catcher/infielder; Joe Brusseau (Madonna), second base; Paul Pirronello (Henry Ford), infielder/outfielder.

● Keller's 1991 outlook: "We should have good defense and hitting. Our team weakness is pitching. Our team looks good on paper, but paper doesn't play."

HINES PARK LINCOLN-MERCURY

● Manager: Dave Carroll (assistant Dr. Gerald Ebmeyer).

● Last year's regular season record: 17-13 (fourth place).

● Players lost: Derek Darkowski (MSU), Todd Marion (U-M), Dennis Szczechowski, Jon Bonkrik.

● Leading returnees: Mike Culver (Kansas City CC), first baseman; Brian Pleupore (Hillsdale College), pitcher; Jeff Kugelman, pitcher; Mike Sulak (Eastern Michigan), pitcher; Jason Dembny (Henry Ford CC), catcher; Dan Kowalski (Madonna), pitcher; Bill Terski (Madonna), shortstop/outfielder; Geoff Allen (Hardin-Simmons), pitcher/infielder.

● Promising newcomers: Keith Bozyk (Adrian College), Scott Hunter (South Central Florida CC), shortstop; Ron Nenney (Saginaw Valley State), infielder; Brian Gracely (Wake Forest), second baseman; Scott Kennedy (Canton High), pitcher; Scott Niemiec (Salem High), catcher; Joe Venturini (Henry Ford CC), pitcher/DH; Mark Stokes (Grambling State), pitcher.

● Hines Park's 1991 outlook: The Plymouth-Canton based team sports good pitching and defense, along with decent team speed.

LITTLE CAESARS

● Manager: John Moraitis (assistant Ken Wandzel)

● Last year's regular season record: 10-18-2 (fifth place)

● Players lost: Eric Linck, Jim Miller, Bill Bertera and Adam Hevey.

● Leading returnees: Andy Weighill, outfielder (.431); Rich Roy (Madonna), pitcher/infielder; Joe Ransley (Hillsdale College), outfielder.

● Moraitis' 1991 outlook: "We'll be young, but we should be decent. We'll be more competitive. We have six or seven pitchers, but you don't know how strong they'll be until you get them out on the mound."

TOTAL TRAVEL VALUES

● Manager: Richard Rechner (assistant Dave Turnquist).

● Last year's regular season record: 10-19.

● Players lost: Jason Hicks, pitcher.

● Leading returnees: Craig Murray (Henry Ford CC), pitcher (54 strikeouts); Brad Ryan (Ferris State), pitcher; Darren Clark (Oakland CC student), pitcher; Rick Rechner (CMU student), pitcher; Mike Julien (CMU), catcher/outfielder; Jason Lichtman (MSU student), second baseman; Leo Devine, shortstop; Mike Mackey (EMU student), third baseman; Chris Schmid (MSU student); Kevin Young (CMU), outfielder.

● Promising newcomers: Gary Devine (Farmington Harrison High), pitcher/outfielder; Scott Nielsen (CMU), pitcher/shortstop; Steve Pollock (Saginaw Valley State), outfielder; Don Mauwell (CMU), catcher/first baseman; Zachary Zavac (Northern Illinois), outfielder; Rob McDonald (MSU student), catcher.

● Rechner's 1991 outlook: "I'm tickled with our pitching. We also have the core of our infield back. We do not have a lot of team speed. I'm pleased with the depth and versatility. We have an excellent returning nucleus and we have added strength at the plate. We'll be much improved all the way around. We should be stronger with Young, Schmid and Devine playing full-time."

BRIGHTON DEWAL

● Manager: Robert Peterson (assistants Fred Schmidt and Bob Hubbert).

● Last year's regular season record: 9-19-1 (formerly Tom Holzer Ford).

● Leading players: Billy Hardy (U-M redshirt), outfielder; Brian Feldman (U-M), pitcher; Ron Hollis (Brighton High and U-M recruit), shortstop; Leo Hutchinson (EMU), pitcher; Jeff Wiseley (EMU), pitcher; Tim Bruce (U-D Mercy), pitcher; Steve Sacco (Jacksonville, Ala. State), infielder; Steve Money (MSU), outfielder; Eric Sumpter (MSU), first baseman; Jason Ahee (Hillsdale College), catcher; Andrew Margolick (North Farmington High), pitcher.

● Peterson's 1991 outlook: "We have a couple of tender arms coming in so pitching is going to be a question mark.

"Our strength is our offense. We'll see what's best defensively to start out with. We're going to have to have a crash course in blending together."

C.P.O.A. CANUCKS

● Manager: Tim Gillies.

● Last year's regular season record: 11-20 (Detroit Adray League)

● Promising: Andy Moody (WSU transfer from U-D), shortstop; Matt Brabent (WSU), first baseman; Darrin Clark (WSU), Tim Chauvin (Windsor Brennan High), pitcher; Chris Lacharpelle (Windsor St. Anne's High), infielder; Chris Hild (WSU), catcher; Ed Monley (WSU transfer from Michigan Tech), outfielder/first base.

● Gillies' 1991 outlook: "We're a strong hitting club. Our weakness is pitching. We're looking for one or two more.

"Monley is fast. He can fly. He does a 4.4 (in the 40-yard dash). Brabent is a good hitter as is LaCharpelle, the Canadian kid."

Harrison pitchers excel

Thursday was No-Hitter Day in a pair of pre-district tournament games at Farmington Hills Harrison High School.

The baseball team's Gary Devine and the softball team's Shelley Bouwens no-hit their Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook-Kingswood opponents in Class B action.

Devine struck out 10 and walked three as the Hawks edged Cranbrook 1-0 in baseball, and Bouwens tossed the third no-hitter of her career in Harrison's 15-5, mercy victory over Kingswood.

The Hawks had only three hits, two by Devine, in the baseball game and scored the only run on Daryl Ferguson's sacrifice fly. In the bottom of the second inning, Mike Pesci walked, went to third on Steve Hagopian's single and scored two batters later.

The Cranes got a runner to third base with two outs in the third inning. Following a walk, the inning ended with a groundout. Devine (5-2) finished the game by striking out the side in the seventh.

Harrison (14-6) will play at Madison Heights High School in the district tournament Saturday.

Bouwens overcame one bad inning in which she issued six of seven walks, but she kept the Aardvarks hitless while striking out three.

Andrea Najarian had three of Harrison's 11 hits, drove in five runs and scored two. Amanda Ault and Lisa Geary had two hits apiece.

The Hawks (5-15) stole 14 bases, four by Ault and two by Najarian. Ault also scored three runs and Geary had one RBI.

Harrison plays in the Madison Heights district tournament at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. Kingswood finished at 6-14.

CC wins pre-district thriller

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Redford Catholic Central baseball coach John Salter might have earned himself a new nickname Thursday at Capitol Park.

"I feel like Sparky (Anderson) today, using five pitchers in eight innings," said Salter, after watching CC rally for an unbelievable 11-10 Class A predistrict win over Livonia Churchill. "I'm happy we won, but winning ugly is the best way to call it.

"Our pitching was shaky and their relief pitching was shaky. We were lucky to have the last at-bats."

The Shamrocks also must feel lucky to have advanced to Saturday's first round district game at Southfield High School. CC will meet Catholic-League Central Division rival University of Detroit-Jesuit at 9:30 a.m.

No matter how far CC goes in the state tournament, chances are the Shamrocks won't win any games more dramatically than Thursday's. The Shamrocks used four pitchers, including Scott Kapla twice, and rallied for five runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to tie the game at 10.

After Kapla re-entered the game in the top of the eighth to end a Churchill threat, the Shamrocks scored the game-winning run on a wild pitch by Chargers losing pitcher Marcus Sarnovsky in the bottom of the inning to win.

"IT WAS LIKE a movie," Churchill coach Herb Osterland said. "You had to wait until the end to see what happens."

Kapla started the game and lasted 3⅓ innings before being replaced by Ross with Churchill ahead 2-0. Salter didn't hesitate to bring in his ace in the last inning to keep CC's season alive and raise his personal record to 7-3.

CC is 16-13 overall.

"Churchill was hitting the ball hard off Kapla early," said Salter, "Ross was all right for an inning or two before he lost it and Dan Gusoff was so-so. Bobby (Kummer) did a good job. You saw our staff today."

We also saw how CC can rally at the plate.

Churchill appeared to have a comfortable 10-5 lead entering the bottom of the seventh inning, but the Shamrocks sent 11 batters to the plate and scored five runs to force extra innings.

Two infield errors and a walk by Churchill reliever Mark Rutherford loaded the bases with no outs.

Osterland decided to pull Rutherford and insert Sarnovsky, the third of three Churchill hurlers, but the move backfired. Sarnovsky walked Matt Roney to force home Joe Vondracek from third base, and then allowed three straight CC hits.

GEORGE CHARNLEY, pinch hitting for Pat Casey, delivered a two-run double to score Gusoff and Dennis Pirronello and make the score 10-8. Kummer, who hit his first home run of the season earlier in the game, made a bunt single to advance Charnley to third.

Aaron Rumberger, who was inserted into the game because of an injury to starting catcher Jason Mahoney, then hit a double to left field out of the reach of a diving Russ McQuaid to score Kummer from third with the tying run.

Osterland defended his decision to replace Rutherford on the mound with Sarnovsky. The Chargers produced 13 hits, so Osterland laid the blame afterward on his porous defense.

"What it boils down to is our offense has done considerably well all year but our defense hasn't been able to put the whole thing together," Osterland said. "A couple errors put runners on base (in the seventh) and you can't pitch with runners on base all the time. It was an exciting game to be involved in, but if you look at it in retrospect we lost it on defense.

"Rutherford was playing shortstop (the first 3½ innings), he got tired, it was a hot day. He did as good as he could. I'm not second-guessing him, the decision or the pitching staff."

Kummer, the fourth CC pitcher to work, held Churchill scoreless in the sixth and seventh innings before walking Rutherford to open the eighth. Salter then called on Kapla, his original starting pitcher, to keep the game tied at 10-10.

KAPLA STRUCK out Mike Brooks and Bobby Coppola before allowing a single by John Foley.

Kapla ended the Chargers' threat, however, getting Vic Randall to bounce back to the pitcher's mound and strand runners on first and second.

CC won the game in the bottom of the eighth on a run without the benefit of a hit. Pirronello started the inning with a walk, went to second on a wild pitch and was sacrificed to third base. With Kummer up to bat, Sarnovsky threw a pitch that hit the front of the plate and bounced high on the screen to score Pirronello from third base with the winning run.

Salter, who guided CC to the 1987 Class A title, compared this game to the one played during that season when the Shamrocks held on to beat Westland John Glenn, 9-8, in the district final.

"It was just a matter of which pitcher got tired first," he said.

CHURCHILL TRAILED 7-2 after Kummer's fourth inning homer but the Chargers sent 12 batters to the plate and scored eight runs in the fifth for a 10-5 lead. McQuaid's grand slam homer off Gusoff, which scored John Foley, Randall and Dennis Creedon, highlighted the scoring.

Rutherford and Brooks each collected triples in the inning for Churchill, which seemed to take a commanding lead — in everyone's eyes but Osterland's.

The Chargers are 7-10 overall.

"I didn't feel confident," he said. "We've had leads before when we've lost ballgames. In high school games, teams can score five or six runs in no time."

Especially on Thursday.

Chiefs, Rocks advance in 'A'

the scoring resulted from a pair of three-run homers by Rodgers and Scott Bright — the third of the year for each batter.

Scott Kennedy pitcher another fine game for Canton, also raising his record to 9-2. He allowed just three hits, struck out 10 and walked four. Kennedy has more than 100 strikeouts for the season.

The Chiefs (19-5) had only three hits, too, and scored both runs in the bottom of the second inning after Romulus had taken a 1-0 lead a half inning earlier.

Jason Riggs walked and scored the tying run on Todd Pniewski's double, and Pniewski advanced on a groundout and scored on a passed ball.

"It's frustrating when you can't get the key hit when you need it," Canton coach Fred Crissey said. "We felt we could have scored 4-5 more runs, but you're going to have those kind of days.

"It's not that we were swinging the bats poorly. We just didn't hit the ball safely. On the other hand, we played good defense and Scott pitched well."

The Chiefs, champions of the Western Division in the WLAA, will play Lakes Division winner Glenn for the title at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Canton.

JOHN GLENN 13, PIONEER 3: "We came to life again," said Westland John Glenn coach Norm Hoenes after his state-ranked Rockets (23-2) pounded out 15 hits Thursday in a five-inning mercy victory over visiting Ann Arbor Pioneer (15-12).

"We had slowed down the last two or three games, but we came out swinging today," Hoenes said. "They (Pioneer) didn't answer and I'm real proud of our hitting."

Glenn's starting pitcher John Ward, who lasted only two-thirds of an inning, came through with the bat. He lashed out two hits, including an RBI double and two-run single. He finished with five RBI.

Gary Pierce, Mike White and Aaron Scheffer each added three hits in the Class A pre-district victory.

Scheffer collected three RBI, while Pierce knocked in a pair of runs.

Glenn led 4-3 through three innings before exploding for five runs in the fourth and four more in the fifth to put Pioneer away.

Lawrence Scheffer, who pitched the final 3⅓ innings in relief, allowed just two hits, to gain the win.

"Ward didn't seem to have it today, but Lawrence came in and did a pretty good job of shutting them down," Hoenes said.

college sports

It was a big week for Eastern Michigan University pitcher Doug Martin.

First, the Redford Catholic Central graduate was named pitcher of the week in the Mid-American Conference, and the honors just kept growing in stature. Next came selection to the all-MAC baseball first team, followed by the ultimate acclimation — his choice as the conference's pitcher of the year.

The senior righthander deserved the awards. He led the MAC in wins for the season, going 10-5 — after starting the campaign with four-straight losses. His 2.99 earned run average was third best in the MAC and he was fifth in strikeouts with 71 while walking just 28 in 96⅓ innings.

In his final week Martin went 2-0, allowing two runs (one earned) on 11 hits while striking out 10 in 15 innings. He beat Central Michigan 4-2 in eight innings and Toledo 1-0.

One of only two first team all-MAC repeaters, Martin set an EMU record for career victories, going 33-17. His 33 wins are also the third highest total in MAC history.

REBECCA WILLEY, soon to be a Livonia Ladywood HS graduate, has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball for University of Detroit-Mercy next season.

A 6-foot-1 center/forward, Willey averaged 16.7 points, 10.2 rebounds and 3.4 assists for the Blazers, who finished with a disappointing 6-12 record. In addition to being named honorable mention all-state, Willey was all-Catholic League for the second-straight season and was named Ladywood's most valuable player.

Basketball wasn't Willey's only athletic endeavor. At last week's Catholic League girls track finals, she was the only three-event champion, capturing titles in the shot put, discus and high jump. She was also all-league in volleyball.

THE SEASON is over for University of Detroit-Mercy's baseball team. The Titans turned in a mediocre performance at the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament, winning their first game but losing their next two, to end an otherwise strong season.

U-D was 18-8 in MCC regular-season play (36-19-1 overall), narrowly missing a first-place finish. Evansville, which was 19-5, grabbed top honors and the first-round tournament bye that goes with it. Notre Dame (19-6) was second and U-D third.

Still, the Titans did get some strong seasons from several players. Like Mike Heard, a junior outfielder from Westland (Wayne Memorial HS), who finished fourth in the MCC in both runs batted in (49, 0.92 per game) and doubles (13, 0.25); seventh in home runs (10, 0.19); and 13th in batting (.328).

CLINT STRAUB, a sophomore at Henry Ford Community College from Westland (John Glenn HS), was named the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 12 most valuable player in baseball.

With good reason. Straub contributed on the mound and at the plate, posting a .460 batting average with nine homers and a region-best 54 RBI (in 39 games). He was also 5-0 as a pitcher with a 3.71 earned run average and 33 strikeouts in 36⅓ innings.

Still, Henry Ford CC coach Stu Rose (formerly baseball coach at Redford Union HS) was named region coach of the year after guiding his team to a 30-9-2 record.

NOW FOR ACADEMIC standouts. Rob Tustian, a senior defenseman on Michigan Tech's hockey team from Livonia (Stevenson HS), was named the recipient of the George McCarthy Award, presented for athletic and scholastic achievement in hockey. Tustian, a team captain, posted a 3.21 grade-point in mechanical engineering.

Eileen Kramer, a junior at Tech from Livonia (Churchill HS), collected the Scholastic Achievement Award for women's swimming, presented at the very same Varsity Awards Banquet May 7. Kramer has a 3.15 grade point, majoring in environmental engineering.

And of course there's Walt Bartels, a Plymouth native (Redford Catholic Central HS) who served as co-captain for Michigan State's hockey team. When not scoring goals for the Spartans, Bartels, a senior, was busy posting a perfect 4.0 grade point with a labor and industrial relations major. Bartels was one of two honored for their grade point as the top graduate student-athlete.

Brunswick center intriguing

Al Harrison

I WAS IN ATLANTA, Ga., 800 miles from Observerland, when I saw a familiar name on the side of a building — "Bowling Center."

I hit the brakes too late and had to back up to the entrance. It was Brunswick Cedar Creek Lanes. Since I've never been to a Brunswick center (mainly because there isn't one anywhere near Observerland), my curiosity got the best of me.

I introduced myself to the manager, Dale Howard, and with typical southern hospitality, he offered to show me around. This was one of 126 bowling centers around the country owned and operated by Brunswick and one of six in the Atlanta area.

Here was a delightful sight to behold, a spacious and clean center with state-of-the-art furnishings and equipment. All lane finishes were of the new synthetic surface and each lane had the automatic scoring system overhead.

Howard showed off the beautiful cocktail lounge and snack bar, which looked very inviting. They also have a fully stocked pro shop, which looked as complete as any in Observerland.

IN ALL, I was truly impressed with the Brunswick center and particularly noted that they run a lot of well displayed promotions, including: a boat giveaway, a $50,000 Coca Cola doubles classic tournament, a juniors Brunswick/M&M's college scholarship tournament, free trips in a seniors Club 55 tournament, and a Pocket 500 singles tournament with more than $2,000 in cash prizes.

Before you make reservations on the next flight to Atlanta, I would also warn you that their rates for bowling are considerably higher than we are accustomed to.

Open bowling runs from $2.85 to $3 per line and league bowlers pay about $7.70 for a three-game set. This pricing is pretty much the same in most parts of the country, Brunswick center-or not.

Even with the anticipated increases in lineage that most all metro Detroit bowlers will bear next season, we still have it pretty good.

Will Brunswick open any bowling centers in our area? I don't have an answer to that. However, the local owners are doing quite well for themselves. I think if Brunswick was coming, it would have been here by now.

• NEARLY 1,000 youth bowlers started at the regional level of the Cain's Potato Chip Youth Scholarship Tournament, with one in 10 moving on to the finals, which will take place Sunday, June 16, in Lansing.

The local kids who have qualified for the finals are Pat Coshatt, Jr., of Westland, and the brother-sister duo of Scott and Julie Wright of Farmington Hills.

First place in each of the 10 divisions is a $1,000 scholarship, $500 for second and $250 for third. The tournament is sponsored by Cain's Potato Chips and the Michigan Bowling Centers Association.

• THE FINALS of the Bowling Charities Tournament will be Sunday, June 9, at Saginaw's State Lanes. Local qualifying rounds are complete and all finalists who qualified will move on to Saginaw to compete for the $2,000 grand prize.

• IF YOU have a cat or dog, it may get you some free bowling when you next purchase Purina pet food. The coupons are on the counter at all BCA bowling centers. Hurry on this one — the offer expires May 31.

• AN INTERESTING format for tournament bowlers is seen in the entry form for the Shammy Burt singles "40 frame game." This is one game of 40 frames with a different incentive for each game.

These are the variations: No Tap — nine pins equals a strike; Pay Day — strike equals cash; Super Sour — no strike equals minus five points per pin; Big Kahuna — strike equals 25 bonus points; Bonus — strike equals 10 extra points; Sour Grapes — no strike equals minus two points per pin; Mulligan — if you don't like first ball, shoot it over; and Bingo-Bango-Bongo — 40th frame strikes earn extra cash.

This carries a first prize of $5,000 for anyone interested in the trip down I-75 to Toledo. The tournament runs until Saturday, June 8, at University Lanes. Call (419) 531-2821 for details.

• MAYFLOWER LANES in Redford is beginning a "No Tap" doubles event at 9:45 p.m. Fridays and 11:45 p.m. Saturdays.

Nine pins on the first ball counts as a strike. Saturday's fee is $15 per couple and Friday's fee is $20 per couple, with any combination of teams.

There will be jackpots, mystery games, prize money and a pot of gold. For details call 937-8420.

White victorious

Al White pitched a four-hitter as Cinnacraz defeated Dick Scott Buick 7-1 in the Plymouth Men's Modified Fast-Pitch Softball League Wednesday.

White struck out one and walked two. Brian Tiller and Doug Kirkpatrick had two hits apiece for Cinnacraz (1-0-1), and Jim Dillon, Ron Wandzel and Jim Foster had one RBI each. Kirkpatrick and Dan Pierce scored two runs apiece.

In other games, AJ's Lounge blanked the Trading Post 7-0, and the Insurance Exchange defeated Dick Scott Buick 6-3.

Brady-Feighan bill off target

Bill Parker

HERE'S AN IDEA. Let's close all the prisons, let the criminals go free and use the money we save to conduct a door-to-door search across the country and confiscate all handguns. That way, if handguns are eliminated from society, there won't be any violent crimes and the need for prisons will be almost nonexistent.

Sure it's an absurd idea, but that's about the same logic used to strum up H.R. 7, the Brady-Feighan bill.

Anyone who actually believes this bill will have a big impact on violent crime must also believe in Big Time Wrestling and the Tooth Fairy. Come on! Get real!

The Brady bill has about as much chance of deterring violent crime as Mr. Rogers has of beating up Mike Tyson.

THE BRADY BILL misses the target. It does absolutely nothing to eliminate the criminal from society, which is the root of the violent crime problem.

Drunken drivers kill people each day, but does Mothers Against Drunk Drivers call for the elimination of alcohol or automobiles from our society? No. That would be ridiculous. MADD demands the elimination of the problem — the drunken driver. It urges stiff, mandatory penalties that deter people from driving drunk.

Simple and effective.

Just because some jerk abuses alcohol and automobiles doesn't mean we must all give up our automobiles or our ability to enjoy the beverage of our choice.

So why, because a very small minority of mindless fanatics chooses to abuse the handgun, should conscientious citizens including millions of hunters, collectors and target shooters be burdened with useless restrictions?

THE BRADY BILL mandates a seven-day waiting period for the purchase of a handgun, but does not mandate a background check. That's an option of the local law enforcement agency. That's also a loophole for the criminal to slip through.

The Brady bill would burden law enforcement agencies by not providing the dollars needed for updated and accurate criminal records. What good is a background check if the records are not up to date?

The Brady bill calls for local law enforcement agencies to implement the system. That means already financially-strapped police departments will have to take men off the street and reallocate funds to process the paperwork needed for the upstanding American citizen to exercise his constitutional right to bear arms.

Why, in the name of fighting crime, would anyone want to take cops off the street?

I doubt that many violent criminals buy guns from sporting goods dealers anyway.

I'M WORRIED about what the Brady bill really stands for. It seems more like a smoke screen for the anti-gunners to assemble behind than a bill to fight crime.

Where will the Brady bill lead us if it does become law?

How often does paperwork from a government agency go through the proper channels on schedule? Seven days, make it 10.

How long will it take before Mr. Law A. Biding is charged with a processing fee to cover the extra man hours and paperwork?

And what happens when the law enforcement officer, whether by neglect, intent or simply lack of available time, fails to acknowledge receipt of the required form?

The Department of Justice doesn't even support the Brady bill.

LET'S CUT the bologna.

Do supporters of the Brady bill — Handgun Control Inc. and other anti-gunners — really want to fight crime, or do they want to force their left-wing views down the throats of all Americans?

If they really want to eliminate crime, why not support legislation that would eliminate the criminal.

Too bad the anti-gunners and the National Rifle Association spend so much time fighting each other on the gun issue instead of attacking the real problem of career criminals. Too bad they can't combine efforts and insist lawmakers pass stiff, mandatory sentences that eliminate the scum from the streets.

According to Department of Justice surveys and NACP law enforcement surveys, 75-80 percent of violent crimes are committed by career criminals, many of them on some form of conditional or early release.

ON AUG. 16, 1990, Leonard Dudzenski — convicted of killing his drug dealer (manslaughter) in 1977, twice convicted of carrying a concealed weapon (1981 and '84) and once convicted of prison escape — walked into a Rochester Hills pharmacy, robbed, stabbed and killed the pharmacist.

On Jan. 17, 1989, Patrick Purdy — arrested eight times on felony charges — opened fire on a schoolyard full of innocent children in Stockton, Calif. Purdy killed five children and injured 30 others before turning the gun on himself. Eight felony arrests and he was still walking the street because our great criminal justice system allowed him to plea bargain down to a misdemeanor each time. Why the hell were these losers still walking the street?

The Brady bill or any other bill that attacks guns will not work. What will work is to convict criminals of the crimes they commit and keep them incarcerated — for good.

WHY DON'T LAWMAKERS support a bill that would eliminate the plea bargain when a handgun is used during the commission of a felony?

Michigan law calls for a mandatory two-year prison term for anyone convicted of using a handgun during the commission of a felony. Two years. . big deal!

The law also stipulates five years for a second offense and 10 years for a third offense. Lawmakers must expect repeat offenders.

How about passing a law that mandates a first offense 10-year prison sentence for the use of a handgun during the commission of a felony? How about life in prison for murder — with absolutely NO parole.

It's not hard to see the real problem here if we just open our eyes. Let's eliminate the criminal. Let's eliminate the multiple offender.

Write to your senators and congressmen and tell them to get tough on crime, not conscientious gun owners. Let's take life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness away from those who choose to take life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness away from us.

Pets of the week

Goldie and Bailey, a pair of mixed breed terriers, and Calvin and Hobbes, a pair of cocker spaniel mixes, need homes. Goldie, a tan female, is described as "very spirited." Bailey, a tan male with black and white spots, is good with children. Calvin, a black female with white toes, is described as energetic. Hobbes is a black male with white spots. These pets are available through the Animal Welfare League. Call Kershaw Animal Hospital, 421-7675, to adopt them. The hospital is at 9525 Wayne Road, Livonia.

Trucking group backs bill to end regulation

A group of trucking companies is backing a bill by state Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, to end state regulation of trucking rates and beef up safety regulation.

Regulation has kept shipping costs high, said the Association for Safe and Competitive Transportation. ASCT is a group of more than 130 trucking companies, factories, small businesses, business organizations and retailers.

"We are clearly losing jobs in Michigan to businesses that are locating outside of the state and taking advantage of cheaper interstate trucking costs to bring goods into the state," said Greg Stachura, a Novi businessman who chairs ASCT.

ASCT SAID intrastate trucking rates, charged for hauling products from one point within Michigan to another, are far higher than interstate rates.

Honigman's bill will mean fewer state tax dollars wasted checking to see that trucking companies are charging the high rates required under current law, and more emphasis on safety regulation.

"It's crazy for the state to send members of the State Police Motor Carrier Division into the offices of trucking companies to see that they are charging enough. Instead of checking invoices and rate filings, we need to put more effort into checking brakes and driving records," said Stachura, president of GSA International Limited in Novi, a freight brokerage company.

Interstate trucking — between states — has been largely deregulated since 1980 by Congress. The result has been a lowering of costs with no evidence of increased safety problems, Stachura said.

MICHIGAN, HOWEVER, continues to regulate intrastate trucking — from one point to another within the state.

A company wishing to start service between two cities in Michigan today must receive approval from the Michigan Public Service Commission on the rates it charges, the routes it drives and the products it carries.

Insect repellent bugs health experts in area

By Sharon Dargay
staff writer

You're hiking in the middle of a mosquito-infested forest.

Or lounging amid hungry horseflies in your backyard.

To keep the biting pests at bay you:

- Douse yourself with diethyl-m-toluamide.
- Spray toxic chemicals into your pores.
- Use a strong, commercially-available insect repellent over every inch of exposed skin.

If you reach for the bug spray, you're probably applying all three, according to the Oakland County Health Division.

The health division is urging caution in the application of insect repellents containing a toxic substance called diethyl-m-toluamide, (deet).

Repellents are available in lotion, spray and liquid forms and may contain 15-100 percent deet to keep bugs away.

Sprays found in one pharmacy offered six-hour protection against insects with deet concentrations ranging from 14-40 percent.

All sprays warned against use of the product in the eyes, on lips, in open cuts or irritated skin. Some cautioned against breathing fumes or applying the chemical to sunburned skin. A few said the repellent could cause skin rashes.

BUT CAROLYN Bird, chief of medical services for Oakland County Health Division, said repeated and excessive use of products containing deet could trigger a multitude of more serious reactions, including "headache, restlessness, crying spells, rapid respiration, poor coordination, convulsions" and in extreme cases, death.

Spokesmen at William Beaumont Hospital and Crittenton hospitals, said emergency room physicians and nurses did not recall treating any cases of deet poisoning.

"No one could recall any cases in their entire careers, let alone here at Crittenton," said Peggy Nagi, public relations director. "But some calls might be referred to the Poison Control Center."

A spokeswoman for the Poison Control Center of Southeast Michigan said the agency does not keep statistics on poisoning treatment.

Bird said Oakland County doesn't keep statistics on deet poisoning either.

Nevertheless, she suggests using smaller doses of deet in conjunction with an insecticide such as Permanone.

"You aren't supposed to use it directly on the skin. You spray your clothing with it."

BUT VITAMINS, herbal preparations, cotton clothing and common sense may be the safest protection against mosquitos and other biting bugs this summer, according to Joanne McConaghic who is active in Parents Against Cancer Plus.

The Troy-based organization is dedicated to research and prevention of environmentally-caused cancers and birth defects.

"The mosquitos come out at our house around 8-8:30 p.m. We come in the house around that time. People should use common sense," McConaghic said.

Her family also takes vitamin B supplements to keep mosquitos away.

Mary Fisher, owner of Ecology Box, Ann Arbor, suggests herbal alternatives to chemical repellents.

To prevent crime in Tucson, police use sensitive, highly sophisticated surveillance equipment: Tim, Rose, Gert, Anthony, Yvonne, and Ramon.

Citizen participation is critical to police effectiveness. Do you care about your neighborhood enough to help protect it?

The Case of The Tucson Tip-off.

In a particular neighborhood in Tucson, Arizona, folks were having a real problem with burglaries and break-ins.

They started talking to each other about what they could do. They got fed up. About 400 people went to the police for advice. They learned about surveillance. They got to know their beat officers. Citizens and police became partners in crime prevention.

In just three weeks, 17 arrests were made and burglaries went down 30%.

And Tucson is only one case where people successfully worked to beat crime.

Local reps split on state department budget bill

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major role call votes in the week ending May 17.

Roll Call Report

HOUSE

The Embassy in Moscow — By a vote of 196 for and 207 against, the House rejected an amendment requiring the partially built U.S. Embassy structure in Moscow to be demolished and replaced with an unbugged building. The vote occurred as the House sent the Senate the State Department's fiscal 1992 authorization bill (HR 1415).

Construction of the new embassy was suspended in 1986 when Soviet listening devices were found implanted throughout it. This vote preserved language in HR 1415 to complete the structure, debugging what has already been built and adding four secure floors atop the building.

A yes vote was to build a new U.S. embassy in Moscow from the ground up.

Voting yes was Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. Voting no were Dennis Hertel, D-Harper Woods and Sander Levin, D-Southfield. Not voting were William Ford, D-Taylor and William Broomfield, R-Birmingham.

Against Budget Cut — By a vote of 155 for and 248 against, the House rejected an amendment to HR 1415 (above) limiting the growth of the State Department authorization bill to 2.4 percent in fiscal 1992. This preserved a committee-approved budget of $5.6 billion for the State Department and related agencies, up 12 percent from fiscal 1991.

The $5.6 billion figure is within spending caps set by last year's five-year budget deal. But amendment sponsor Robert Walker, R-Pa., said spending must be more sharply curbed if the federal budget is to be eventually balanced.

Opponent Dante Fascell, D-Fla., said the Foreign Affairs Committee that the chairs had been "very frugal" in drafting the bill.

A yes vote was to cut about $700 million from the State Department authorization bill.

Voting yes was Pursell. Voting no were Hertel, William Ford, Levin and Broomfield.

Scenic Rivers Issue: By a vote of 333 for and 71 against, the House approved a bill to include 70 miles of the Niobrara River in Nebraska in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System, protecting the segment against commercial encroachment. The bill (s 248) also would study the possibility of establishing Nebraska's first national park, among other provisions.

Groups such as the Wilderness Society and National Wildlife Federation advocate the bill, while Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan and groups such as the American Farm Bureau Federations oppose it.

Supporter Bruce Vento, D-Minn., said many foes of the bill "still harbor notions of damming the river and flooding significant portions of the river valley."

Opponent Craig Thomas, R-Wyo., said the bill provides "a free environmental vote for many members of this body" at the expense of Nebraskans' property rights.

A yes vote was to pass the bill.

Voting yes were Pursell, William Ford, Hertel, Levin and Broomfield.

SENATE

Campaign Finance Reform — By a vote of 50 for and 44 against, senators adopted a "sense-of-the-Senate" resolution designed to make the political point that government spending for campaign finance reform will not come out of the pocket of the average taxpayer.

The non-binding measure was advocated by Democrats. Their campaign finance bill (S 3), now on the floor, entails government subsidies of television advertising, among other Treasury expenses which they say will help to clean up congressional campaign financing.

Republicans seek to kill the bill, and advance one their own reform measure, by portraying S 3 as a raid on the Treasury. In response, Democrats brought to vote the resolution saying the bill will not increase the deficit or be funded by a general tax increase or cuts in other programs.

A yes vote supported the Democratic resolution.

Voting yes were Senators Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D.

Credit For Soviets — By a vote of 70 for and 28 against, the Senate approved a resolution (S Res 117) urging the Administration to grant the Soviet Union $1.5 billion in additional credit guarantees for purchasing U.S. farm products. Farm-state sponsors want the Administration to rule favorably on Moscow's pending request for the credit backing.

Sponsor Bob Dole, R-Kan., said "the Soviets desperately need food and feed, and they must have agricultural credits to pay for them."

Opponent Bill Bradley, D- N.J., predicted "American taxpayers are going to have to foot a big chunk of this bill n ."

A yes vote was to have the Treasury guarantee $1.5 billion in bank loans to the Soviets.

Voting yes was Levin. Riegle voted no.

SC course offers tips on delegating

How to Delegate Effectively, a five-week management course, is being offered at Schoolcraft College beginning Monday, June 3.

The course helps students become more comfortable with delegating work assignments, increasing productivity.

Topics will include choosing the right person for the job, establishing priorities and deadlines and avoiding pitfalls of delegation.

MEMORIAL DAY 1991

It was a day set aside to honor the Civil War dead.

It used to be called 'Decoration Day.'

It used to occupy one spot on the calendar—May 30th.

But things change.

We take up arms again.

And again.

And again.

And. . .

Decoration Day becomes Memorial Day.

The working force of America looks forward to a Monday Memorial Day (observed) that will stretch their weekend to three days, while the original May 30th date goes by virtually unobserved.

But this year, with another war barely over, our Memorial Days—both the observed and the original—have added meaning.

This year when we gather for the parades and ceremonies, the hot dogs and potato salad, many more of us than before will find a quiet moment to truly remember the legions of men and women who have given their lives to preserve the concept of freedom—not just for our nation—but throughout the world.

At one time, the inn was the residence of Colonel William Preston, one of the last officers at Fort Mackinac and mayor of the island at the turn of the century. One of the inn's seven rooms is named after Preston; the others are also named after people important to the island's history.

The Haans have lovingly restored the Greek Revival buildings and filled them with antiques. The inn's size, its age and the innkeepers' enthusiasm, make a stay at Haan's 1830 Inn an intimate connection with the island's history. Island stories are consumed along with continental breakfast around the harvest table each morning.

Haan's 1830 Inn is on Main Street, four blocks east of downtown. Rates are $75 to $105 per room, based on double occupancy. Mix of shared and private baths. P.O. Box 123, Mackinac Island, MI 49757, (906) 847-6244.

COLORFUL INN

Pleasantly out of place in the island's color scheme of white and more white, the Inn on Mackinac sprouted three springs ago in 15 colors. It shed its image as an annex to owner Pat Pulte's Murray Hotel, and made its mark as a 44-room bed & breakfast inn.

The whimsical color scheme continues indoors, where the lobby sports pale lilac walls, and rooms are individually decorated with antiques against pale hues of peach, green and blue. The amenities are as unusual as the colors; every room has a private bath, air conditioning and a telephone. Continental breakfast is served buffet-style in the parlor.

The inn's size precludes the "welcome to my home" feeling that attracts many bed & breakfast travelers, and the owners split their attention among several island ventures, so they aren't an obvious presence. But if you are looking for Pat, he's the one wearing the pastel-colored baseball hat.

Inn on Mackinac is on Main Street, one long block east of downtown. Rates are $49-$160 per room, based on double occupancy. Private baths. P.O. Box 476, Mackinac Island, MI 49757, (906) 847-3361.

FAMILY STYLE

Bogan Lane Inn doesn't have the sophistication, decor or size of the other inns. but it has something very special: an innkeeper who can tell you tales of growing up on the island, attending its school and passing the time during the winter months. Tricia Martin and her father decided to turn the family house into an inn after she visited bed & breakfast places in Stratford and thought Mackinac should have one.

Along with her cousin, Tricia now runs the inn and serves as a craft interpreter at Fort Mackinac. I'd characterize the inn's four rooms as homey, rather than historic or charming. But continental breakfast around the fagnily table and a good book in front of the fireplace on a cold Mackinac day make Bogan Lane a pleasant and affordable alternative.

It's on Bogan Lane, around the corner from the Inn on Mackinac. Rates are $45 per room, based on double occupancy. Shared baths. P.O. Box 482, Mackinac Island, MI 49757, (906) 847-3439.

For more information on Mackinac Island and the straits area, contact the Mackinac Island Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 451, Mackinac Island, MI 49757, (906) 847-6418. Or pick up a copy of my book at your local bookstore or by sending a check for $10.81 to Mackinac Publishing, P.O. Box 215, Mackinac Island, MI 49757.

Travel Channel coming to Michigan

The Travel Channel is bringing its cameras to Michigan to spotlight the state with five half-hour programs.

Paul Ryan, host of "The World Through Celebrities' Eyes" — where celebrities talk about their travels — will host and produce this week-long exploration of the diversity of Michigan as a travel destination.

The segments, titled "Paul Ryan's Special Look at Michigan," will air on the Travel Channel early this summer.

Ryan and his crew began their work May 18 at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel. Segments and guests will include the Big Bay Lighthouse — one of just two lighthouse bead & breakfasts in the nation — the Frankenmuth area, the chef and owner of the Tapawingo Restaurant in Ellsworth, the Grand Traverse Resort, and, of course, the Grand Hotel and Mackinac Island itself.

Ryan will then move south to tape segments focusing on the Lower Peninsula and Detroit, including Tiger Stadium, the Motown Museum, The Whitney restaurant, the Fox Theatre and Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village, as well as civic leaders, entertainers, sports figures, business executives and tourism experts.

The Travel Channel, the only cable television network dedicated exclusively to travel, is carried on more than 700 cable systems and can be seen in more than 17 million homes across the country.

Perhaps you can't afford to pay the going rate to spend the night at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel, but for a mere pittance you'll be allowed to walk the hallowed halls all day long and pretend you're a guest.

Visit the Grand Hotel for $5

You can experience the Grand Hotel, even if you decide not to stay there. For $5, walk on the porch, explore the interior and pretend you are a guest.

If the weather is great, and you want to imagine you are Esther Williams, pay $8 to spend the day at the pool she graced in the movie "This Time for Keeps."

High tea, complete with classical music, champagne and finger sandwiches, is $8 (plus the $5 admission fee).

All hotel restaurants are also open to the public if you'd like to feast in the Grand style. Your $5 admission fee is discounted from your lunch bill in the main dining room, but you'll need to pay the admission fee during the day for all other eating events except at the Grand Stand, which is on the golf course across from the hotel.

There is no admission fee in the evening if you comply with the after-six dress code. You can also wander behind the hotel during the day and explore the Grand barns and collection of antique carriages.

Frankenmuth store doubles in size

If you like numbers, try these: two million visitors and 2,000 motor coaches already go to 25 Christmas Lane in Frankenmuth to browse among the 50,000 trims and gifts, the 260 kinds of Christmas trees, the Bibles printed in 30 languages, the 500 different Nativity scenes, the 6,000 different ornament styles . . . well, you get the picture.

WALLY COULDN'T fit them all in his huge store, so he added 100,000 square feet. The building is now 201,243 square feet, which is five acres or four football fields.

The new west entrance is flanked by an 18-foot Christmas tree hung with a banner proclaiming the Bronner motto: "Enjoy Christmas, It's His birthday; Enjoy life, it's His way."

The new 3,000-square-foot lobby will have local tourist information as well as services. The new 22,000-square-foot atrium salesroom is set up like a European outdoor Christmas market, known as a Weihnachtsmarkt or Chriskindlesmarkt, selling miniature to life-sized Nativity scenes, four-inch to six-foot nutcrackers.

You can be sure that the figures will be dancing and nodding, singing and strumming from every direction and that you will find the words to say 'See you again' and 'God bless you' in four dozen languages.

When Wally Bronner does something, he does it BIG! You will find him, and several members of his family, by taking the northbound exit 136 off I-75 near Flint and following his signs for 10 minutes. Bronner's is open 361 days a year and can be reached toll-free at (800) ALL-YEAR.

BAVARIAN FESTIVAL

The 33rd annual celebration of Frankenmuth's German heritage will be June 8-15, featuring singer Pat Boone.

The Frankenmuth Bavarian Festival begins with a big oom-pah-pah parade and whoops it up all week in beer gardens, children's activities, craft demonstrations and dancing.

THE PLAYS, THE PLAYERS, THE PLACE
Nobody does it better.
No theatre in North America performs the works of William Shakespeare more often – or more passionately – than the Stratford Festival.
Now, for the Festival's 39th season, we invite you to discover the many facets of this immortal playwright. From his greatest tragedy "Hamlet, Prince of Denmark" to the sparkling comedy of "Much Ado About Nothing". And from the magic of "Twelfth Night" to the rarely performed satire "Timon of Athens".
Together with 1991's host of other classic and contemporary plays, theatre simply doesn't get any better than this!
HAMLET, Prince of Denmark — Shakespeare's magnificent tragic hero, the Prince of Denmark in one of the greatest plays of all time. May 4 to November 10
MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING — Lovers Beatrice and Benedick engage in a delightful battle of wits, joyfully conceding a mutual surrender. April 30 to November 8
TWELFTH NIGHT — A tangle of comic complications and mistaken identity transpires in this lyrical tale of romance and reconciliation. May 8 to October 25
TIMON OF ATHENS — In this seldom performed play which is rich with ironic overtones, Shakespeare passionately denounces greed and disloyalty. June 7 to September 13

Mackinac Island Magic

IRIS SANDERSON JONES

Livonia man sells rides in his biplane

Russ Newhouse of Livonia comes from a flying family, so it won't surprise any of his friends when he lifts off the tarmac at Frankenmuth airport in a biplane this summer. He and his wife Kathleen have launched Vintage Air Tours Inc., which will carry travelers in an open cockpit over the Frankenmuth area this summer.

"Russ' grandfather built the airport in Princeton, New Jersey," Kathleen said. "His father is a retired American Airlines pilot living in Phoenix. His four brothers all became air captains. And Russ has been a pilot for Northwest Airlines for 23 years."

Russ was 15 years old when he flew his father's vintage biplane for the first time. He was working for the now-defunct North Central Airlines at age 18.

KATHLEEN HAS also spent a good part of her life in the air. She had been a supervisor for Northwest Airlines for 12 years when she met Russ in 1990. Three months later they were married. Now they are going into the summer travel business together. They will offer tours on weekends.

The biplane is a 1929 Travelair. The captain sits in the back. Two passengers sit in open-cockpit seats in the front, goggles in place. Russ uses an intercom system to give his passengers a tour of Frankenmuth and the surrounding area.

You can reserve your seats and your goggles by calling Kathleen and Russ in Livonia at 462-6227, or just show up at the Frankenmuth Airport, one mile east of town and look for their sign.

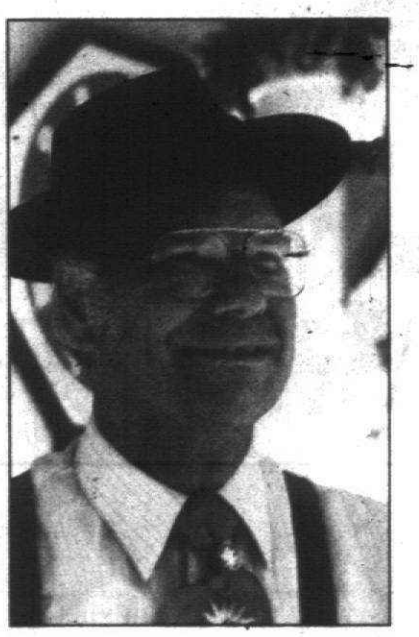

Rides cost $39.50 for adults, $27.50 for children under 12 accompanied by a paying adult.

BRONNER GET BIGGER

Can the world's largest Christmas store get bigger? If your electricity bill is already $500 a day, would you turn more lights on? Do people buy Christmas decorations in summer? The answers are yes, yes and yes.

Nobody who knows Wally Bronner and his family will be surprised to know that Bronner's Christmas Wonderland has doubled in size.

The fudgies are coming!

The solar calendar says summer doesn't arrive for another three weeks, but any midwesterner can tell you that summer begins on Memorial Day. Birds with enough good sense to fly north into the summer sun can follow its path in a flurry of lilacs up I-75.

They blossom north out of Atlanta, through Cincinnati, past Detroit and keep going north to the Mackinac Bridge and Mackinac Island. If the festival planners have done it right, 60 varieties of lilac will bloom on Mackinac Island for the annual Lilac Festival June 7-16. Summer is here and the fudgies are coming.

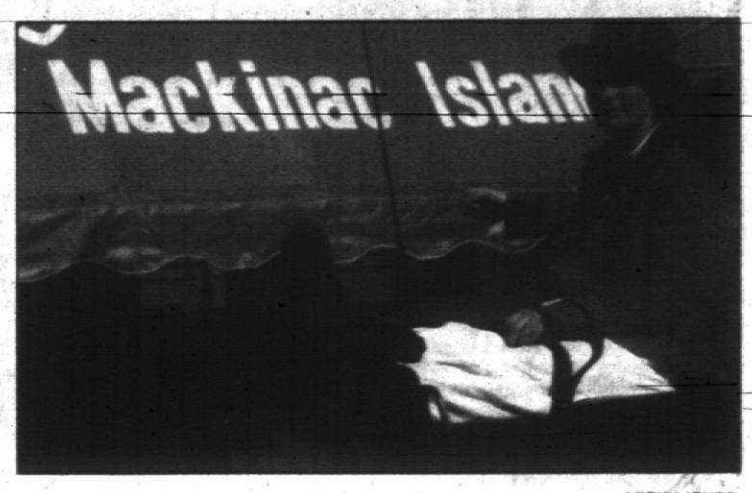

As the ferry approaches the island, you will see lilacs blossoming around the Grand Hotel, up the green grass slopes of Marquette Park to Fort Mackinac and between the fudge shops, hotels, restaurants and bed & breakfast places that line the shore.

People come from all over the continent to savor the atmosphere of the Grand Hotel, made famous in the movie "Somewhere in Time."

Where you stay may determine how you play on Mackinac Island, and what it costs. Amy McVeigh, a summer resident and author of the guidebook "Mackinac Connection: An Insider's Guide," gives us some inside tips on island accommodations.

Highlights of the Lilac Festival on Mackinac Island include the June 13 Taste of Mackinac, a diet-busting opportunity to sample the specialties of the island's chefs.

To work off that event, join the Lilac Festival foot race, an eight-mile sprint around the island's perimeter; or to make it worse, witness and taste the world's largest fudge loaf in the making; both events are June 15.

Vacation on island need not be 'Grand'

AMY MCVEIGH

This is the Inn on Mackinac, a decidedly colorful 44-room bed & breakfast on Mackinac Island. Inside, visitors will find pale lilac walls and rooms individually decorated with antiques against pale hues of peach, green and blue. Rates are $49-$160 per room, based on double occupancy.

By Amy McVeigh
special writer

Mention an overnight trip to Michigan's favorite summer getaway, Mackinac Island, and people will assume you are staying at "the hotel," referring to Mackinac's grand old lady, The Grand Hotel.

The Grand, with its opulent decor and intriguing history, dominates the island's lodging scene.

If you are interested in something smaller than the Grand's 317 rooms, less formal than the Grand's after-six dress code and less expensive than the Grand's minimum $260 double, including meals, there are many alternatives. Some of my favorites are bed & breakfast inns.

The island has 23 hotels, bed-&-breakfast inns and tourist homes with almost 1,200 rooms. When you approach on the ferry, you will see the big hotels, both in price and size.

The Grand Hotel sits on the western bluff. Mission Point Resort, a newly renovated 237-room hotel is perched on a point several blocks east of downtown. The Lakeview and Iroquois hotels are on the edge of the downtown strip near the ferry.

In between are a variety of hotels along the main street. The Island House lays claim to being the oldest hotel and has an excellent location overlooking the yacht harbor a bit outside the main part of town.

The Chippewa, with its famous Pink Pony lounge, is a gathering spot for sailors and others; it's moderately priced and in the heart of town. The Murray is the least expensive of the downtown hotels, with rooms ranging from $49 to $150.

BED & BREAKFASTS

As a summer island resident and the author of "Mackinac Connection: An Insider's Guide," I'm often asked to recommend appropriate lodgings.

My recommendations vary depending on the questioner's needs, but four of the island's bed & breakfast inns are often on the list: Metivier Inn, Haan's 1830 Inn, Inn on Mackinac and Bogan Lane Inn.

I recommend them because staying at a bed & breakfast inn comes close to experiencing Mackinac the way its early visitors did — by staying in one of its stately summer "cottages," as they are called. These inns are all within walking distance of downtown and represent a range of prices and formality.

Bed & breakfast travel, long a mainstay in Europe, was slow to move to the states, and even slower to move to Mackinac Island. Bed & breakfast inns are different from hotels: they are generally smaller, the owner's presence is greater and, as the name implies, breakfast is included in the room rate.

But traveling this way isn't without its challenges; restaurants, televisions, telephones and air conditioners are in short supply on the premises, and bathroom facilities are often shared. Of course, TVs, phones and AC are scarce anywhere on Mackinac Island, where even cars are forbidden by law!

METIVIER INN

Located on historic Market Street, just behind the downtown strip, the Metivier Inn offers a calculated combination of convenience, location and charm. Much of the structure is new, built to look old. Owners Michael and Jane Bacon, and Ken and Diane Neyer, converted the old Metivier family house into a Victorian-style structure, complete with turrets and a long veranda that is perfect for people watching.

The 19 rooms are decorated in two styles: country rooms have period reproduction furniture, while the summer cottage rooms feature wicker chairs and iron and brass beds. The turret rooms are particularly delightful. In the morning, enjoy a buffet-style continental breakfast in the lobby or on the veranda.

Rates are $115 to $165 per room, based on double occupancy. Private baths. P.O. Box 285, Mackinac Island, MI 49757, (906) 847-6234.

HISTORY AND HOSPITALITY

For history buffs, Haan's 1830 Inn gets my vote. As the name implies, the main building was built in 1830; the "modern" addition came in 1847.

MOVING PICTURES

Danny Muldoon (John Candy) is in love with shy Theresa Luna (Ally Sheedy) but can't break the ties that bind him to his domineering mother, Rose (Maureen O'Hara), in "Only the Lonely."

'Thelma and Louise:' Buddy of a good film

It's "Bonnie and Bonnie" for the '90s as "Thelma and Louise" (A, R, 138 minutes) hit the road with a sensational new twist in buddy movies.

Louise (Susan Sarandon) waits tables at a local (Arkansas) restaurant. Her strained relationship with Jimmy (Michael Madsen) calls for a weekend fishing with her girlfriend, Thelma (Geena Davis).

Thelma's husband, Darryl (Christopher McDonald), manager of the local carpet emporium, browbeats Thelma when he's not running around, but Thelma's pretty naive. In fact, she's the ultimate ditz. In the very best comic sense of the term, she is the dizziest of modern women.

Thelma and Darryl have been a thing since high school and she doesn't have the courage to ask permission to spend a weekend with Louise. She finally summons the strength to travel without his approval.

Drinks and dancing in a roadhouse — one thing leads to another and their lives change drastically and permanently. The events are less important than the style with which they occur as the girls run across southwest America. Thelma and Louise are in the great tradition of buddies on the road experiencing middle America at its crassest, funniest, best, worst, violent and most loving moments.

The great glee with which these two actresses attack their roles and the finesse with which they perform is to their credit and to that of director Ridley Scott ("Alien," "Black Rain," "Someone to Watch Over Me").

THERE AREN'T too many films around dealing successfully with serious subjects in a lighthearted, comic and entertaining way but everything works effectively in "Thelma and Louise" which has a lot to say about America, about men and women, and about life — and it says it very well.

For an engaging comic fantasy which tests the limits of human imagination try "Drop Dead Fred" (B+, PG-13, 100 minutes), a comic look at a young girl's (Phoebe Cates) imaginary childhood companion.

Rik Mayall is terrific in the title role as an antagonistic character who represents all the young girl's fear and distrust of her mother (Marsha Mason) and, as well, the force and strength she wishes her father had. Fred also reflects the antisocial urges children learn to surpress as they mature.

How powerful are these childhood fantasies? Are they real? Only when believed, or always? How large do parental figures loom?

These are the questions effectively and comically poised by "Drop Dead Fred" whose comic and entertaining surface hides a lot of pretty sophisticated human psychology.

One complaint, the film's tone changes gears excessively with it's obviously broad farcical opening turning to fairly serious drama before ending with broad comic strokes. Despite that problem, "Drop Dead Fred" is very enjoyable and most entertaining.

ONCE AGAIN, Disney proves that with guts and determination "Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken" (A-, G, 85 minutes). Everyone appreciates heroines (and heroes) who stick to the job and, according to this film, that's all it takes to achieve goals.

This entertaining lesson is delivered by Sonora Webster (Gabrielle Anwar), an orphan who runs away from her aunt to escape the despair and desolation of rural Georgia during the Depression. She joins Dr. F.W. Carver's (Cliff Robertson) Traveling Stunt Show to be part of a diving horse act. While Dr. Carver is impressed with her steadfastedness, she doesn't match his image of a diving horse girl but he does give her a job darting manure.

Although there're a few snags, which Sonora artfully overcomes, "Wild Hearts" is as predictable as a Horatio Alger novel — predictable, but enjoyable. Even though we know there will be a happy ending, watching Sonora reminds us all that our true dreams are within reach and worth fighting for. This typical Disney plot is tried and true, and children of all ages will enjoy it. So will their parents.

In "Only the Lonely" (B, 105 minutes), Chicago cop Danny Muldoon (John Candy), a warm, friendly 38-year-old who lives with his mother, Rose (Maureen O'Hara), thinks his only mission in life is to be there whenever she needs him.

IT'S APPARENT to everyone but Danny that Rose doesn't need any care. She's a strong, opinionated woman with a mouth that won't quit. She firmly believes that no girl is good enough for her son so when Danny meets Theresa Lundi (Ally Sheedy), the plot thickens.

Theresa works at her father's mortuary but has ambitions as a make-up artist. The comic potential of that and other situations are exploited well in a pretty funny script. Danny and Theresa's love affair is mirrored by Nick's (Anthony Quinn) love of Rose while Jim Belushi gives a weak performance as Sal, Danny's cop pal who is bored with his marriage and tries to convince Danny that matrimony is not the answer.

Although the lines are pretty funny, the performances don't rise as high as they might. Still and all, "Only the Lonely" is a pleasant entertainment which proves there's hope for everyone.

Witty dialogue and slapstick comedy are forged into box office gold in "Hudson Hawke" (A, PG-13, 97 minutes). As Hawke, Bruce Willis perfects the caustic humor he began to explore during his days on "Moonlighting."

Willis' charismatic presence adds richness to a better-than-average script which is made great by director Michael Lehmann. Danny Aiello and Andie MacDowell head a stellar supporting cast.

There's a delightfully whacky gang of bad guys determined to steal the missing pieces to DaVinci's legendary and, one presumes, imaginary alchemy machine. Put "Hudson Hawke" on your must-see list, you won't be disappointed. (Reviewed by Susan Fincham.)

ALTERNATIVE VIEWING

'Silk' refreshes, irritates

By John Monaghan
special writer

Mark Salzman didn't want to be just another tourist. When the fresh-faced Harvard grad was assigned to teach English in China in the early 1980s, his fascination with the culture led to his falling in love with a Chinese woman and learning the ancient martial arts.

The communist Chinese government, however, didn't appreciate his interest. Threatened by the "bourgeois liberalism" sweeping through the country and infecting its young people, they put tighter and tighter restrictions on where Salzman could travel.

Salzman relives his experience by starring as himself in the new film "Iron and Silk" at the Star John R Theatre in Madison Heights. The film's naivete and wholesomeness are both refreshing and irritating at the same time.

Salzman harbored an interest in the martial arts when he lived in America. Now, seeing five-year-old Chinese students performing the ancient "wushu" moves, he is inspired to learn for himself.

IT TAKES considerable effort to get Teacher Pan (a famous martial arts instructor who also stars as himself), to take him on as a student. What makes this scenario different from a "Karate Kid" movie is that Salzman isn't training for a climatic fight, He's simply here to learn for learning's sake.

That's the refreshing spot.

There's also a love story tossed in as Salzman falls for a young doctor whose hobby is reading English literature. She's afraid to be seen with him. He finds better success with his students. Chinese adults all studying to become English teachers themselves.

The episodic nature works only part of the time. There are mildly moving scenes in the classroom where the students relate their happiest moments, but we don't really need the diary-like voice-over narration that tells us what this all means.

Salzman's adult students are also played by toothy Chinese locals. But the "cinema verite" quality also works against the film, especially when its main character, Salzman as Salzman, can perform "wushu" a lot better than he can act.

ULTIMATELY, THIS is the kind of wholesome, literary movie that high school English teachers feel comfortable recommending but kids

"The Roaring Twenties" (USA — 1939), 10 a.m. May 28. James Cagney plays a World War I veteran who returns home to find no job and no future waiting for him. He turns to a life of a Prohibition-era crime along with buddies Humphrey Bogart and Frank McHugh at his side. Action-packed direction by Raoul Walsh. Concluding a monthlong tribute to Cagney.

MAPLE THEATRE, 4135 W. Maple, Birmingham. Call 855-9090 for information. ($6, $3.50 twilight; call for show times)

"Impromptu" (Britain — 1990). The relationship between George Sand and Frederic Chopin is given a delightful treatment in this new film directed by James Lapine. Judy Davis is perfect as Sand, the French female writer who insisted on wearing men's clothing. Her pursuit of the frail, feminine Chopin bends the rules on romantic relationships in the movies.

"Truly, Madly, Deeply" (Britain — 1991). A widow, still mourning her dead husband, is shocked to see him appear again as a ghost. Starring Alan Rickman and Juliet Stevenson.

MICHIGAN THEATRE, 16301 E. Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call 669-8397 for information. ($4.50, $3.50 students and senior citizens)

"My 20th Century" (Hungary - 1988), through May 30 (call for showtimes). It begins with Thomas Edison's invention of electricity. But the real story involves twin girls, separated at birth, who embark on very different lives. One becomes a bomb-toting anarchist; the other a femme fatale. Winner of the best first feature award at the 1989 Cannes festival.

"Marriage Italian-style" (Italy — 1964), 7:15 p.m. May 29 and 9:30 p.m. May 30. Sophia Loren wants long-time lover Marcello Mastroianni not only to marry her, but also to stay that way in this spicy comedy from Vittorio De Sica. Concluding a monthlong tribute to Loren.

"The King and I" (USA — 1956), 8 p.m. May 31-June 1. After years on Broadway as the King of Siam, Yul Brynner honed his role to perfection for the film version. Deborah Kerr plays Anna, the widowed school teacher who can't get used to his stubborn ways. The famous Rodgers and Hammerstein score includes "Getting to Know You" and "Shall We Dance."

STAR JOHN R, 32289 John R, at 14 Mile, Madison Heights. Call 585-2070 for information. ($6 evenings; $3.75 bargain shows) Call for showtimes.

"Iron and Silk" (USA — 1990). In this true story, a young English teacher in China in the mid-1980s finds government roadblocks when he wants to experience the country as something more than a tourist. A well-intentioned, occasionally moving, but mostly uninspiring account is given a dose of realism by having key characters in the story played by the actual people who inspired them.

STREET BEATS

. . . The summer outdoor concert season is here! And Street Scene wants you to experience the sounds of summer.

The people at The New Pine Knob Music Theatre are supplying two tickets to see Paul Simon Sept. 6. The people at Advance Limousine (313) 336-0066 are offering the ride.

All you have to do is call 953-2030 and answer these three questions using a Touch-Tone phone. Leave your name, address, age and phone number. Answer the questions correctly, and you'll be entered into our drawing.

We pick your name, you'll be seeing Simon. Two runners-up to be drawn will pick up a Warner Elektra Atlantic CD sampler set, including new releases by Rod Stewart, Chicago, Morrissey and Throwing Muses.

So just call and answer the questions. It's a breeze!

Dusk brings on a new musical day

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Dusk is a band with a blank sheet of paper and a box of 64 Crayolas. The color and shape of things to come is purely up to them.

"Our music is very influenced by British bands," said drummer and co-founder Todd Cochran, 26. "I think we have a very British sound to our music."

This is all fine and dandy, except none of these four lads hail from the Land of Churchill. None of them have actually been there recently, either. British sound? Well, this could encompass everything from The Cure to Motorhead.

Cochran, who is articulate and ever the diplomat, offers to clarify.

"I think our sound is a tunnel of sound," Cochran said. "It surrounds you and envelopes you. It's really dense."

Bands in their infancy, such as Dusk, are merely trying to find their way, sustain their hopes and dreams with wild enthusiasm. They're free of cynicism, devoid of rancor. To ask these groups to describe their music at this stage is almost cruel.

This is all so new to them. It's a time when every nightclub light is a

REVIEWS

DEADICATED — various artists

"Deadicated" is a compilation album featuring a bunch of artists covering Grateful Dead tunes. Part of the reason that the album was made was to highlight the Dead's songwriting abilities and dispel the myth the band can only be appreciated in a live setting.

Somewhere between the generations of dedicated fans, the tie-dye and the whole mystic of the Dead's live shows, the band managed to write some pretty good tunes. The other reason the recording was made was to raise money to the Rainforest Action Network and Cultural Survival.

The reasons to buy the record are more numerous. For one, the disc itself. In the CD version, the disc is covered with typically cool and elaborate Dead art — probably one of the best looking discs ever made.

Secondly, there are copious liner notes. Those who complain the CD's don't give the listener enough info to read should check out "Deadicated." The more than 30 pages of notes include statements from the artists saying why they like the Dead, lyrics to all the songs covered, a few pages about saving the planet, plus a really funny picture of Elvis Costello.

Thirdly, and most importantly, there's the music itself. Although the covers vary in the enjoyability factor, there's not one that stands out as being completely worthless.

They range from straight-forward readings like Warren Zevon and David Lindleys "Casey Jones" to the truly strange like Burning Spear's reggaefied "Estimated Prophet."

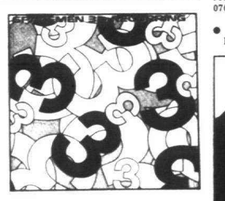

Other highlights are Elvis Costello's mellow-as-all-get-out version of "Ship of Fools," the Indigo Girls' acoustic rendition of the favorite "Uncle John's Band" and Suzanne Vega's double play of "China Doll" and "Cassidy."

Some songs, on the other hand, sound exactly as you'd expect. Bruce Hornsby and the Range's "Jack Straw" sounds just like a Bruce Hornsby song. And the Cowboy Junkies "To Lay Me Down" sounds just like everything else they've recorded.

This record works in two ways. If you're a Deadhead, you'll like hearing the new versions of old favorites. If not particularly into the Dead, but like current music, the record is enjoyable as sort of a sampler of some of the best newer acts around.

RECURRING — Spacemen 3

Spacemen 3 is a lot like a Bauhaus/Love and Rockets Junior.

For one thing, in their not so long existence, they've already had some personnel problems. Bassist/lead vocalist Pete Bassman and keyboardist Rosco defected to form their own Love and Rockets-esque group, the Darkside. (Check out their album "All That Noise," it's quite good).

Remaining members Sonic Boom, on most instuments plus vocals, and Jason, on everything else plus vocals, are left to carry on the tradition of Spacemen 3 on their own.

To carry the metaphor much too far, Spacemen 3 are like Bauhaus in that they're more gothic sounding, less into the 1960s sound and more experimental than their offspring.

Although the band uses such 1990s mainstays as sampling and synthesizers, they are by no means a technopop band. The synthesizers are used sparingly, sound organic and lack the mechanical sound common to bands that get their hands on a synthesizer.

Also, there seems to be a real effort here to use that endangered species — real instruments. On "Recurring," you'll hear an autoharp, bluesharp, piano, a ton of different guitars, as well as a bunch of other instruments that people used to play back in your parents' day.

The sound of "Recurring" is hazy, druggy soundscapes. The vocals are muted and strung through a bunch of different modifiers. The music is harsh, but repetious enough to be lulling in a strange sort of way.

The record is biographic, meaning that all parts of it are contained in each part. "Hypnotized," for example, is a prototypical Spacement 3 song. It's got some sharp maraca playing, fuzzy vocals and a churning sound. The name "Hypotized" also explains the effect of the band's music — its lulling, dreamy sound encourages exploration into the dusty corners of your psyche.

If you like the sort of music that Bauhaus and its spawns make, early Bowie and the Church, you'll like "Recurring."

Talk about the problem with Carol

Dear Barbara,

This is another long story. I hope I don't bore you.

My girlfriend (let's call her Carol) and I have been close for five years. Our families celebrate holidays together and travel together. She and I shop and socialize without our families. She has always been a private person, so possibly we are not as intimate as some friends are, but by most standards, we are good friends.

Last week, Carol called to ask me what I was wearing to a dinner that we had both been invited to. She said she was sick of us looking like the "Bobbsey Twins," as she said that we had at a previous party.

At that party, she wore a blazer, skirt and a camisole. I wore a blazer, pants and a blouse instead of the camisole I had worn previously. I thought all this commotion over noting was strange but did not think further about it.

The night of the dinner we would both be attending, I started to put on the silk shirt and found it was missing two buttons. I couldn't find a needle and thread to sew the buttons back on and so I wore a lace bodysuit.

The entire evening Carol seemed strangely cold but I chalked it up to moodiness and didn't dwell on it. When I called her the next day, she was furious at me. How could I have lied to her that way, she yelled. "We looked like the 'Bobbsey Twins' again," she sputtered.

I told her what had happened with the buttons and asked why this issue was more important than our friendship. She said she hates to be dressed like other people. She never apologized for yelling at me.

I don't know how to understand this. It is true her father has recently died and that she has been somewhat depressed. I want to be understanding, but I don't want to be a fool and continue being hurt by her.

Ruth

Dear Ruth,

You have not bored me. I look forward to receiving and appreciate all the letters readers send me. Thank you for taking the time to write.

The problem with answering your question is that I am lacking sufficient understanding of your friendship to be insightful. That means that there may be undercurrents between you and Carol of which you are not aware. With more information, I could help you be more objective, but since I don't have those details, I can't. Therefore, I will take you at your word, "we are good friends."

That being true, don't worry about being a fool. Carol's father died recently and this is upsetting. Mourning takes time. Many of us tend to be irrational under stress. Overlook Carol's hopefully temporary change in behavior as you would for any loved one. I am sure that if you were in need, you would want a good friend to be accepting and understanding with you.

If you can, try and talk it out with her in the spirit of understanding not of blame.

Your letter brings up another issue. You did not ask me about it but I will answer anyway.

Becoming "hurt" places a burden on the other person by making them responsible for you and your feelings. That seems one of the hardest principles to grasp. We are responsible for our feelings; others do not cause them.

While the Motor City is quite familiar to comedian Steve Billnitzer, he lives in Toledo because he believes it puts him in a better geographic position to make some of his Midwestern gigs.

A cut-up
Glass City comic has write stuff

By Bob Sadler
special writer

May 20, Steve Billnitzer competed, along with 24 other comics, for the right to open up at the Dave Coulier/Dennis Miller show at Pine Knob the following day.

Though Jim McLean took the prize, the regular open mike night crowd at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle in Royal Oak received a special treat.

Originally from Toledo, Billnitzer spent his childhood shuffling back and forth between the Motor and Glass cities. Upon graduating from a Toledo suburban high school, he attend the University of Michigan.

After working in advertising in Detroit for a number of years, the cynical Billnitzer now does stand-up full-time and has moved back to — you guessed it — Toledo.

"It's the center of the universe, as we all know," said Billnitzer, who actually started performing comedy on stage in 1988. "People stop here from all over the galaxy for spiritual and intellectual fulfillment . . . or just to change a tire on the way to Cleveland."

He actually believes living in Toledo puts him in a better geographic position to make some of his Midwestern gigs. Plus, they have "the best hot dogs in the world at Tony Packo's," Billnitzer said.

'It's (Toledo) the center of the universe, as we all know. People stop here from all over the galaxy for spiritual and intellectual fulfillment . . . or just to change a tire on the way to Cleveland.'

— Steve Billnitzer comedian

WHEN ASKED to describe himself and his brand of humor, that cynical edge resurfaced. First, he described himself.

"Police would describe me as a six-foot caucasian, 180 pounds, last seen wearing a blue blazer and driving a black Hyundai 85 miles an hour down I-75."

Then, he got to the heart of the matter.

"Yeah, I'm cynical," Billnitzer said. "It's a pre-requisite in this business. I like to tell jokes because I like jokes. What I don't like is the humor by identification that you see everywhere today. There's no joke there. There's no insight. There's nothing."

Billnitzer grew up admiring the humor of The Three Stooges, the Marx Brothers, Jack Benny and others of that bygone era.

"I remember watching Red Skelton and thinking what a great thing that would be to do," he said.

While he currently is content with performing his comedy on stage, he eventually sees himself moving behind the scenes. He thinks his future is in comedy writing — for either television or movies. He already has some screenplays in progress and readily admits an interest in someday writing for sitcome in the mold of "Married . . . With Children" or "Dear John."

"I consider myself to be a good comic but a great writer," Billnitzer added. "That's what I've been working for."

Steve Billnitzer appears along with Jim McLean and Tom Frank Friday and Saturday, May 31 and June 1, at The Looney Bin, 1655 Glengary, Walled Lake. For information, call 669-9374.

COMEDY REVIEW

Comics shine at New Pine Knob

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

At his worst, Dennis Miller can come off as a smarmy, smart alecky self-absorbed comedian.

At his best, Dennis Miller can be an insightful, biting social commentator whose sling shot never strays far from the target.

Miller was certainly the highlight of last week's comedic triple bill at The New Pine Knob. And appearing with St. Clair Shores native Dave Coulier and WRIF contest winner Jim McLean, that's no easy feat.

One reason is simple: Miller doesn't swerve around issues in his topical commentary. Abortion, animal rights and censorship are only a few topics in Miller's no-holds barred routine, which is largely a saltier outgrowth of his "Weekend Update" sessions on "Saturday Night Live."

"There is a political correctness in this country right now," said Miller, underlying the tone of his routine. "If you don't go along with it, these people will go after your livelihood . . . It's like McCarthyism.

"I think the number one endangered species in this country are those who still have their personal freedom."

OBVIOUSLY, Miller feels the freedom to say what's on his mind. Some samplings:

'There is a political correctness in this country right now. If you don't go along with it, these people will go after your livelihood . . . It's like McCarthyism.'

— Dennis Miller appearing at Pine Knob

● Abortion: "The Supreme Court has now turned the issue of abortion over to the states. Hey, the states can't even pave the roads."

● Savings and loan crises: "They say the S&L crises is going to cost . . . $134 billion. Can you really grasp that figure? Let me put it into layman's terms. If there was only one guy in this country, he'd have to kick in $134 billion."

● Animal rights activists: "It's a chilling moment when people start saving animals rather than their own species . . . I've seen people in New York who step over someone lying on the sidewalk in their own (urine) to spit on someone wearing a chinchilla."

● Born again Christians such as Manuel Noriega and Charles Colson: "I don't have anything against born again Christians . . . I wish I had this ecclesiastical whiteout."

But what separates Miller from other comedians is his ability to whip a metaphorical frenzy on such mundane things as flying. His material is well written and well spoken.

WHEREAS MILLER is a wordsmith, Dave Coulier is a master of voices and impersonations. The star of ABC-TV's "Full House" and "America's Funniest People" brought out all his friends before a receptive hometown audience: the crazed paper boy; the family golden retriever; and da hockey commentator, eh.

Coulier's finest moment came when Johnny Harmonica took the stage. Not only did the comedian play a mean harp, he brought out his band Harmonicats to the delight of the audience, playing a full range of instruments with his voice including bass and trumpet.

Coulier also found time to delve into fatherhood and flatulence with particular aplomb.

Opening act Jim McLean burned through nearly a half hour of fraternity style humor on such things as childhood, Canadians and getting drunk. A majority of it was quite hilarious.

During one bit McLean talked about seeing singer Toni Childs on MTV with a chain running from ear to nose. "What she have up there? A Harley Davidson wallet?"

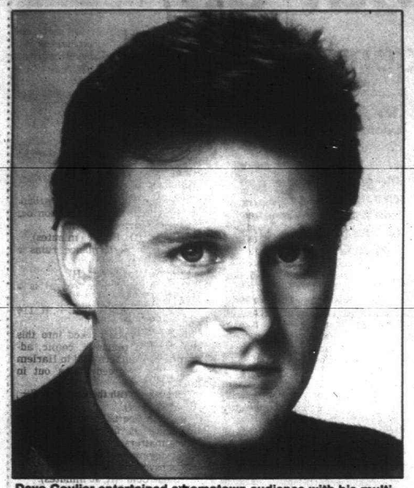

The comedic triple bill also establishes The New Pine Knob's status as another first-rate venue for comedy.

TWO VIDEO displays on each side of the stage allows the audience further away to better view facial expressions and gestures, which is vital when watching comedians. Also, a new lawn speaker system is designed to enhance sound quality for those on the grass.

Overall, the face lift with new concession stands and more restroom facilities makes the experience more enjoyable.

Comedian Bill Cosby christened the renovated outdoor theater, which is now managed by The Palace.

Other comedy acts planned for Pine Knob include Red Skelton, June 30; Budd Friedman's "Night at the Improv" with Louie Anderson, Joe Nipote, Mike Binder, Bobby Collins and Ron Peason, July 1; Don Rickles, July 9; Jay Leno, July 24; George Carlin with guests America, July 25; Alan King with guest Paula Poundstone, Aug.7

GRADING THE MOVIES

ON THE other hand, forget the hoopla and forget the hype because "Backdraft" (C-, R, 130 minutes) is an unqualified disappointment. It's overly long and consistently predictable, a cornball story about two brothers, Stephen (Kurt Russell) and Brian McCaffrey (William Baldwin), Chicago firefighters following in their father's footsteps.

To get to the spectacular, but largely unbelieveable, firefighting scenes viewers must wade through slow-paced sub-plots, a murky conspiracy, divorce and separation — all of which slow up the action. Besides, how many fire engines can you chase?

STILL PLAYING:

"Ay Carmela" (A, NR, 105 minutes).
Politically astute, entertaining film about Spanish Civil War. With English sub-titles.

"Class Action" (C+, R, 100 minutes).
Father-daughter attorneys, Gene Hackman and Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, are not a team.

"Dances With Wolves" (A, PG-13, 180 minutes).
Kevin Costner's magnificent ode to brotherhood and brutality on America's western frontier during and after the Civil War.

"Defending Your Life" (C, PG, 95 minutes).
Unsatisfactory romance in the afterlife as Albert Brooks defends his life and falls in love with Meryl Streep.

"Dice Rules" (F, NC-17, 87 minutes).
Offensive Andrew Dice Clay presentation lacks style, humor, taste or any other positive characteristic.

"The Five Heartbeats" (A-, R).
Good entertainment and excellent music in story of fictitious black singing group.

"FX2: The Deadly Art of Illusion" (C+, PG-13, 105 minutes).
Largely sterile exercise in special effects teams two Brians — Dennehy and Brown — one more time.

"GoodFellas" (B+, R, 145 minutes).
Martin Scorsese's intense, compelling saga of three mobsters returns after receiving half-dozen Oscar nominations. Despite good acting and fine technical values, the film is to be condemned for glorifying vicious and violent gangsters.

"The Hard Way" (B, R, 105 minutes).
James Woods as tough cop doing comedy doesn't match Michael J. Fox's excellent spoof of movies and movie people in this entertaining, unusual buddy film.

"A Kiss Before Dying" (B+, R, 90 minutes).
Nerve-wracking, tense entertainment with Matt Dillon as psychopathic killer preying on wealthy family.

"Love Your Momma" (D, PG-13, 97 minutes).
Interesting independent film event falls flat in writing, directing and acting departments. This story of inner-city Chicago folks fumbles and falters. Pick up the pace, please!

"Mannequin Two — On the Move" (*, PG).
Department store mannequin returns to life.

"Mortal Thoughts" (B, R, 104 minutes).
Poorly structured plot detracts from excellent performances by Demi Moore and Glenne Headly as New Jersey beauticians.

"New Jack City" (B-, R).
Fairly well done, inner-city drug gang and undercover cops story.

"The Object of Beauty" (A-, R, 100 minutes).
Excellent performances by John Malkovich and Andie Macdowell characterize decadent lovers.

"One Good Cop" (A-, R, 100 minutes).
Something different in cop/buddy films with Michael Keaton out to avenge partner's death.

"Oscar" (D-, PG, 105 minutes).
Stallone's performance ruins a terrible script.

"Out for Justice" (*, R).
Macho-man Steven Seagal is a tough cop.

"A Rage in Harlem" (C+, R, 110 minutes).
Just too much packed into this star-studded romantic, comic, adventure of southern gold in Harlem with all the greedy folks out in force.

"Sleeping With the Enemy" (C+, R, 95 minutes).
Julia Roberts' excellent performance as battered wife who takes matters into her own hands can't overcome weak scenario about psychotic hubbie.

"Stone Cold" (R, 90 minutes).
Brian Bosworth is an undercover cop working to bring outlaw biker gang to justice.

"Switch" (A-, R, 90 minutes).
Murdered chauvinist-womanizer returns to earth looking for a woman who will speak on his behalf. But there's a catch.

"Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles II: The Secret of the Ooze" (PG, 88 minutes).
Lots of action but little violence as everybody's favorite turtles do it again.

"Toy Soldiers" (B+, R, 112 minutes).
Entertaining action-adventure as five trouble-making students outwit terrorists who hi-jack prep school.

"Truth or Dare" (F, R, 118 minutes).
Obscene and pretentious display of Madonna's egomania.

"What About Bob?" (B, PG, 97 minutes).
Cute but lightweight story with Bill Murray as patient and Richard Dreyfuss as therapist.

Bruce Willis is the world's greatest cat burglar, coerced into stealing priceless museum pieces after being released from prison, in Tri-Star Pictures' "Hudson Hawk."

ALTERNATIVE MOVIE

hate watching. Like Disney's attempts at live-action drama, this is overly calculated, washed-down entertainment.

"Iron and Silk" is the second in a continuing schedule of "alternative" films at the Star John R. After this and last week's "Ay Carmela," it becomes painfully obvious that all the theater can get its hands on are third-string movies that the Maple and Detroit Film Theatre wouldn't touch.

Dusk: Creating as it goes along strobe, every smattering of applause is a roar and every gig is paramount to their existence.

WITH THREE shows under their belt, Dusk will perform along with Ann B. Davis, Missionary Stew, Voodoo Chili, 27th City and The Grins Saturday, June 1, at the Majestic Theatre in Detroit. The show, "Vintage Voltage," is a benefit for St. Vincent de Paul's summer camp program.

Dusk formed a year ago. It all started with Cochran putting a classified ad in the Metro Times to look for a collaborator, listing his influences of My Bloody Valentine, Sonic Youth and the like.

Guitarist Josh Sparbeck replied. The two met in Cochran's basement and started putting together some songs.

Within a month, the pair knocked off five songs. Soon, Sparbeck and Cochran were looking for others to join in on the creative process. Vocalist Marty Schlotz and bass player Mike Shank of Farmington Hills came aboard in December.

Already the foursome has eight original songs styled in various forms of visceral musical expression. Sparbeck writes a majority of the lyrics, trading places with Schlotz occasionally.

"I pretty much do it (writing song lyrics) as therapy," Sparbeck said. "I try to move people. It's nothing that I think of too far in advance. It's pretty spontaneous."

Accused: A legend in the making

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Something tells us Mike and the rest of his Rights of the Accused mates are not sipping cappuccino in some cafe and discussing surrealism in the post-modern age at this moment.

Don't think so.

This purely empirical hypothesis comes about while talking via phone to the lead singer of the Chicago-based hard rock band. Mike, the one with little hair and vocal ability to match, is a bit distracted while surveying some new Harley-Davidson wallets and rather large hunting knives at a truck stop in Iowa.

"White trash kingdom," says Mike with the glee of a Viking on a pillage.

On this night, Rights of the Accused is playing some club in Iowa. On Saturday, June 1, the band plays St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit. It's a return engagement. In fact, the last time the band played there they didn't get paid. So Mike and the rest of the band took a house microphone with them.

"I'm sure the guy is going to be there waiting for me," Mike adds.

All of this is just part of the rampage of Rights of the Accused, who usually leave a trail of empty beer cans and tales from which rock legends are made in the wake. Why just in Michigan alone, the band has already earned a rather dubious reputation.

AT MICHIGAN State University, Rights of the Accused were asked to leave a school-sponsored show when they violated the ban on smoking and drinking. They didn't get paid for that gig, either.

Then recently, a show in Kalamazoo featured a fist fight between the band and an audience member.

"It was some artsy college student who didn't like us," Mike says. "He was giving us the finger all night and spitting beer at us. So I went out into the crowd and asked him what was his problem. He spit on me when I turned my back and Wes (Kidd, the band's guitarist) jumped off stage and started pounding on him."

Mike goes on to say the audience turned on the heckler and another batch of fans were won over. This bravado is matched with the three other B's important to Rights of the Accused — bikes, booze and babes — on the band's new release "Kick Happy, Thrill Hungry, Reckless and Willing" (Noise International).

On this 11-song effort, Rights of the Accused avail themselves of all the favorite heavy metal vices, but they pull it off with a great deal of humor.

The CD was recorded in a week's time and has the same immediacy as a beer run in a thunderstorm. Several labels expressed an interest, but Mike says record executive didn't feel Rights of the Accused could be a full-fledged metal band.

NOISE INTERNATIONAL saw beyond that spandex tunnel vision and signed the Chicago rockers.

"I think a lot of labels got it but they didn't think people would get it," Mike says. "They know it's funny. And the ones who don't think it's funny, well, they're even better targets."

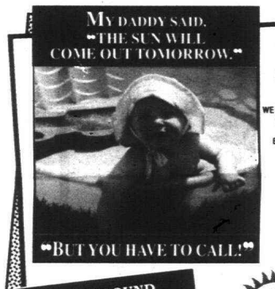

Such politics are usual in the record business, but Rights of the Accused appear immuned to it all. or at least anesthetized.

"Once you put out a record, you're in it," Mike says. "We just have a good time and screw off."

SHOULD PATIENTS WORRY ABOUT DENTAL AMALGAM FILLINGS?
After much discussion about the safety and possible side effects of dental amalgam, the Food and Drug Administration issued a notice saying patients should not ask their doctors to remove dental amalgam. This came after an advisory panel determined that there is no valid data to demonstrate clinical harm to patients from amalgams, or that having them removed will prevent disease or change the course of any existing disease.
The Public Health Service reiterated these findings by approving a statement that said, "there is on data that would support a change in the current use of dental amalgams."
The long standing use of amalgam is still the preferred choice for filling decay as it has proven over the years to be the most stable, least expensive, and longest lasting alternative. Further research is being conducted on this topic, but in the meantime, the FDA does not advise that individuals ask dentists to remove their amalgams.
So in answer to the question of whether or not patients should have concern about dental amalgam fillings, the response is NO.
Plymouth Dental Associates provides these columns to answer topical questions on dental health and will update information as it becomes available. If you have any questions or would like further information on this or other topics of interest, please call our office.

VIDEO VIEWING

By Dan Greenberg
special writer

MPI Home Video has built a reputation (and a library) of newsworthy, historical titles and recently released the Oscar-winning Vietnam war documentary "Hearts and Minds" to complement their shelf of titles on the Vietnam War and annual presentations for the '60s and '70s.

On May 23, MPI published a rather slick catalog in conjunction with ABC News offering almost 100 videos which originally aired on ABC News. The programs are priced from $10 to $25 with most of them at $15 or $20. They run from 30 to 150 minutes and looking through the catalog recalls the top headlines of the past decade.

The '80s were, indeed, filled with "Great TV News Stories," the title of one category of programs offered. While this catalog is devoted to stories of the '80s, there are a few earlier ones, including the Kennedy-Nixon debates, "Racing for the Moon: America's Glory Days in Space" and a program about Watergate.

"Schwarzkopf: How the War Was Won" leads the list of current titles and a good number of top "Nightline" programs are also available.

WEDNESDAY, MPI also is releasing a couple of unusual "classics" — "Mondo Cane" (1964, color, NR, 105 minutes) and "Witchcraft Through the Ages"(1922, black and white, NR, 85 minutes). The latter always had a pretty racy, whispered reputation, most probably created by people who had never seen the film.

"Mondo Cane," on the other hand, blatantly proclaimed its outrageous imagery and delighted in shocking viewers of the '60s, a slightly less affected crowd than today's jaded viewers.

As so often turns out to be the case, while both are interesting, neither seem particularly shocking these days. Time has dulled the impact of their sensationalism although in the '60s, as American culture opened up under the dramatic onslaught of the civil rights, consumer and feminist movements, "Mondo Cane's" attempts to assault viewers' senses by depicting bizarre customs around the world was fairly spectacular.

What was, and still is, interesting about this film is its ironic juxtapositions of habits. The conclusion drawn from the oriental dog meat market and sauteed insects served in an upscale Manhattan restaurant is that people are pretty much people the world round and only the names have been changed to protect innocent sinners.

Despite our technology and protests to the contrary, "civilized" industrial culture isn't as far from the jungle as our egos claim.

"WITCHCRAFT Through the Ages" is a fairly spectacular filmic achievement for the early '20s in Sweden. Obviously originally a silent film, this particular release has a William Burroughs narration and an enjoyable but sometimes inappropriate musical accompaniment led by jazz violinist Jean-Luc Ponty.

The film purports to be a documentary depicting its title subject but concentrates primarily on the Middle Ages with an extended dramatization designed to indict the Inquisition, as well it might.

In addition to some fine special effects — witches flying and devils corrupting — the film unintentionally draws the parallel between the Inquisition and the methods of any autocracy out to enforce orthodoxy, religious, political or cultural. It makes no difference which. Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely.

'Hot Couture:' It ain't heavy, it's aluminum

By Sue Mason
staff writer

Let's face it. Metal has never been to get a toehold in the fashion scene. Sure, there were brief brushes — those clanky suits of armor and tacky chastity belts of the Middle Ages and the tasteless Iron Mask. Oh, and don't forget the what-a-drag ball and chain that went so nicely with black and white stripes.

Couture has done quite nicely without heavy doses of metal. Sure, there's been the obligatory metallic thread, buttons and belts, but for the most part, metal hasn't been used as a fashion statement.

Well, heads up, Coco Chanel; take a look out, Oleg Cassini. A bunch of budding "designers" have added a category to couture — clothing and accessories made from decorative aluminum.

Tibetan jackets, a tuxedo, a wedding dress, a banana dress. Nine students at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit spent a semester working on fashions and accessories, using the textured aluminum Northern Engraving manufactures for industry.

Actually, that's "Hot Couture." That's the name given to the class by instructors Jaymes Leahy and Gerry Craig. Working artists and graduates of the fiber program at Cranbrook Academy of Art, they challenged their students to use nontraditional and unrelated materials together in a garment in a competition that included $2,500 in prize money.

IT WAS no easy task.

"The aluminum is kind of difficult to work with," said Kaiser Suidan. "Either it doesn't move enough or it moves too much."

Move and not move? Aluminum? Now, before you begin conjuring up images of clothing designed with the Tin Man and Robocop in mind, harken back a few paragraphs. See where it says unrelated materials? That's the key to the class and the student projects.

The aluminum was used with fabrics. Knits, tulles, silks, even fur were put together with samples of Northern's aluminum products.

The Sparta, Wis., manufacturer has a library of some 50 types of aluminum — simulated textures, jewel-like finishes and organic materials like onyx, marble and wood grains (and you thought it only came in silver) — that the students used for their projects.

Suidan used Northern's perforated aluminum to trim the lapels and cuffs of his oversized tuxedo. The lines in the played off the pinstripes in the pants and showed up in the bow tie and cumberbun.

The 31-year-old Birmingham resident started making the tuxedo the semester before Hot Couture and finished it up with the aluminum accents.

IT WASN'T a prize winner in the design competition, but it went nicely with Linda Blondy's mini-skirted wedding gown that featured a aluminum bra, silk organza, sheer tulle and industrial parts used as studs.

Suidan found the project frustrating and at one point had decided to drop out of the competition because he didn't think his work was "good enough." An encouraging word from a Northern Engraving representative was enough to change his mind.

"I tried to stress the craftsmanship," said the ceramics major. "It's really a minimal use of aluminum; it's kind of a 'Star Trek" type affair."

Like Suidan, Blondy didn't win anything for her wedding gown, but she did walk away with second-place honors (and $750) for her Tibetan jacket, entitled Tibetan Teng go.

She used a combination of jacquard wool, silk and aluminum for the jacket, which had shoulders embellished with $80 worth of beads and gold thread.

A weaver by penchant, she took out the east-west threads of wool and replaced it with stripes of aluminum, using tweezers do the weaving. The trick, according to Blondy, was to get all of the materials to have the same character as the aluminum.

"IT WAS all an experiment not to be repeated," the Huntington Woods resident said. "I spent eight hours a night for 2½ months on it."

Why? Blondy used a rotary razor to cut the aluminum into strips and then hand filed the rough edges of the metal. She figures she used more than 500 pieces of aluminum in the jacket.

"I experimented and played with the material and found I could use my sewing machine," she said. "I had to put masking tape on both sides and use a fine needle. It worked, but the machine moaned and groaned."

Janice Samoray-Haddad of Farmington also focused on fashions in the contest. Her "Venus Envy" dress featured a silver knit dress from the '70s, embellished with aluminum faucet covers and a faucet with silver tinsel coming from its spout as a breast plate.

Her third-place ($500) winner, "Carmen Banana," played up the tropical theme rampant in Carmen Miranda films. In fact, Samoray-Haddad research the dress's design by watching old films.

Starting with a vintage '30s-'40s dress, she dressed it up with silk black and gold colored bananas and other fruits. And used the aluminum as ruffles at the hem line and on the shoulders. A basket, sewed to a turban and filled with matching fruit, served as the hat.

SAMORAY-HADDAD is in the process of a career change. A former jewelry maker whose works were sold at places like Saks Fifth Avenue and Jacobsons, she found the challenge to be getting the metal to fold like the material.

"It was really time intensive," she said. "We didn't have the tools or the experience to work with the metals so there was a lot of frustrations at the beginning. It was one of the more demanding classes, but it was also one of the more rewarding ones I've taken."

Twenty-year-old Adam Shirley of West Bloomfield didn't walk away with a prize in the competition, but he already has a buyer for his piece.

Shirley blended the aluminum with sterling silver and dyed deer fur to create a shoulder belt. The piece took some 100 hours to create and is both a wearble a piece of art. The sash comes with its own stand.

Shirley had to resort to an assembly line process in making the belt. He also fabricated the entire hinge mechanism for the belt. The process opened his "eyes to the applications of the metal," but it made him mad when he had to redo problem pieces.

ANN SCHNEPF of Birmingham used the aluminum to create those things she loves to collect — purses. She came up with five designs, some resembling houses, some meant for special occasions. One used aluminum, embellished with an ultra suede print, and featured drawstrings and dangles.

"Women basically hold their lives in their purses," she said. "A lot of things revolve around the purse and wherever a woman goes she has her purse with her."

A former flight attendant who is majoring in fiber at CCS, Scnepf found she had to adjust to the idea of using something other than a sewing machine in her work. In her case, it was a drill.

As for the top prize of $1,250. That went to Shawn Caldwell of Union Lake for her Silverwear, a halter top and pleated skirt made of aluminum.As for doing something like that again. Samoray-Haddad is up to the challenge.

"I'll render anything except a bikini."

Kaiser Suidan of Birmingham opted for a mannequin to show off his oversized tuxedo with aluminum accents on the lapels and cuffs.

Linda Blondy of Huntington Woods makes final preparations on her wedding gown, modeled by Karen Smereck for the competition judging, at the 1940 Chop House in Detroit.

Janice Samoray-Haddad adjusts the aluminum shoulder ruffle on her "Carmen Banana," third-place winner in the Northern Engraving competition and modeled by Susan Kenyon.

Artistry of cement, silk featured in benefit show

By Linda Ann Chomin
special writer

ANNETTE FISHER uses cement castings intermingled with silk to express her ideas about life, death and birth.

Work by Fisher is on exhibit at Route 10 Gallery in Farmington Hills through June 15.

On Saturday, June 1, a combination artist's reception and benefit for Common Ground, a crisis intervention center, begins at 8 p.m.

Ten percent of all gallery sales for the week beginning June 1 will be donated to the Oakland County-based, self-help center.

FISHER'S 45-PIECE show features cement wallhangings, sculpture, and blueprint drawings of her cement and silk work.

"Originally, I worked in photography that was surreal," Fisher said in an interview at the gallery.

"When my gallery closed (Mill Gallery in Milford), I was forced to come to terms with what I wanted to say."

Fisher always "dreamt of giving abstract art a try," she said. Now the opportunity has arisen to express herself abstractly in cement and silk.

"I USED cement because it's hard like life sometimes can be, but it can crumble and break. Gray meant life (to me) because gray is vague. Cement is gray."

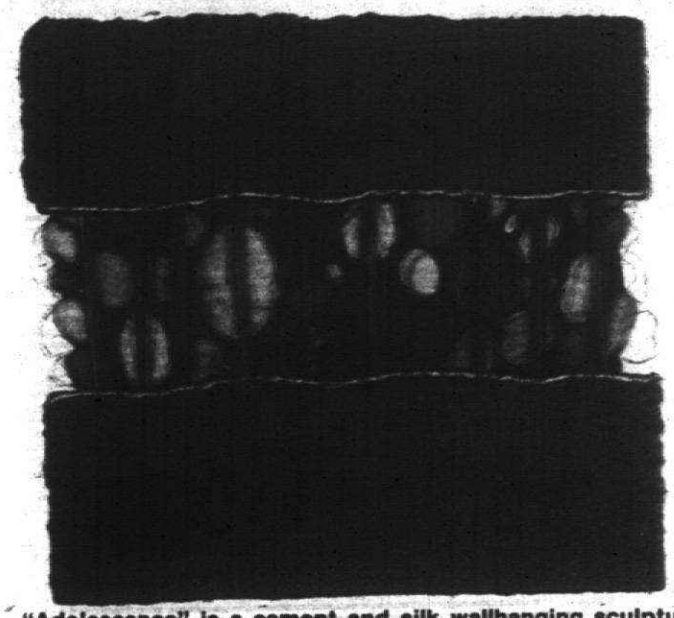

Every time Fisher uses a particular color, "it means something. Peach represents the female; purple the passion.

"Van Gogh used color as a way to express his feelings."

To construct her wallhanging sculpture, Fisher casts the cement portions of the work in a mold. She then places silk-covered abstract pillows between the pre-cast cement slabs.

Fisher's table sculptures are created on a round cement casting, horizontally placed on a lazy susan so that the entire piece turns.

FISHER'S "Pretty Lies" features a female figure wrapped in red silk and bound with gold thread.

"Adolescence" is a cement and silk wallhanging sculpture by Annette Fisher. The silk pillow with balloons represents childhood. The restrictive bars that hold the silk soft sculpture in place speak of the domineering parent in the child's life.

On the outer rim of the slab, Fisher vertically positions wooden poles or posts with smiling death masks all facing the central figure. The figure is being pulled from all sides by strings attached to the poles.

The idea is "when we're children, the adults generally tell how wonderful we are. When we grow up, we learn that life is not always as sweet as adults promised."

FISHER TEACHES part time at St. Robert Bellarmine in Redford Township, where she is artist-in-residence. She began teaching art in 1976 at Holy Redeemer Elementary school in Detroit.

Fisher earned a bachelor of art education degree at Eastern Michigan University. Earlier this year, her work was part of the 12th Michigan Biennial "Beyond Boundaries" at the Kresge Art Museum.

"I'm real pleased with this show," said Doree Schwartz, co-owner of Route 10 Gallery.

"It's very high quality. We like being known as an avant-garde gallery. We try to be on the cutting edge, just on the other side of contemporary; the hard edge."

Fisher's work is priced from $100 to $500.

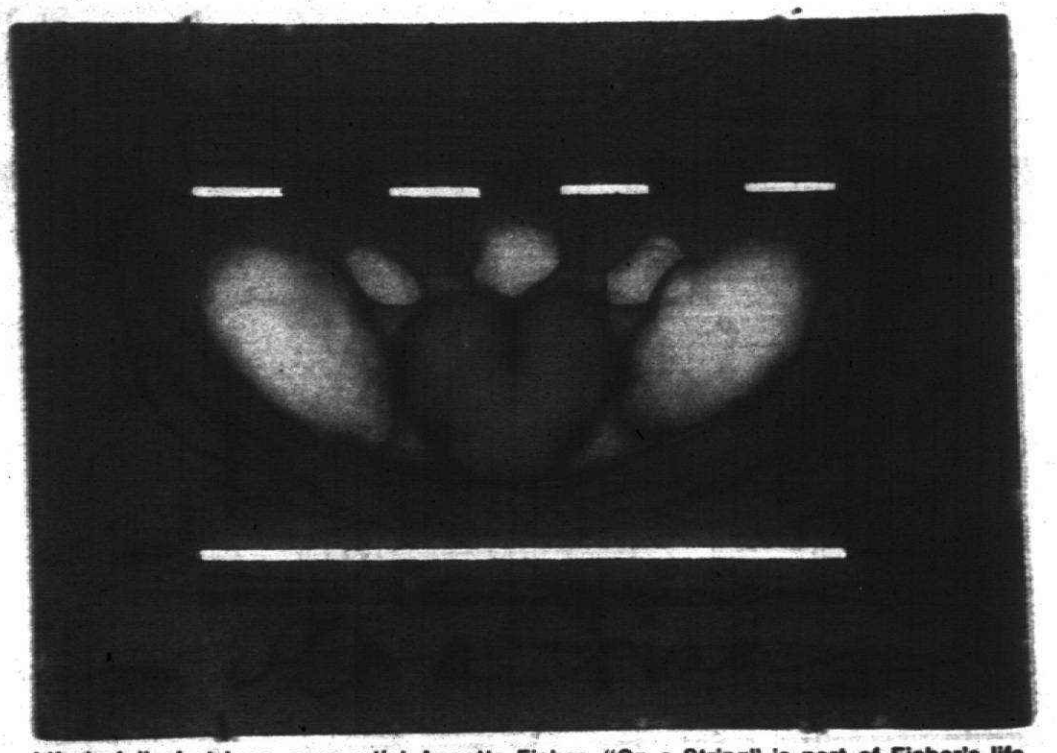

Route 10 Gallery exhibits paintings, works on paper, raku ware, sculpture, blown glass, jewelry, and handmade horse-like creatures with wings. Prices at the gallery range from $20 to $2,000.

COMMON GROUND is a crisis intervention center that has served the area since 1971.

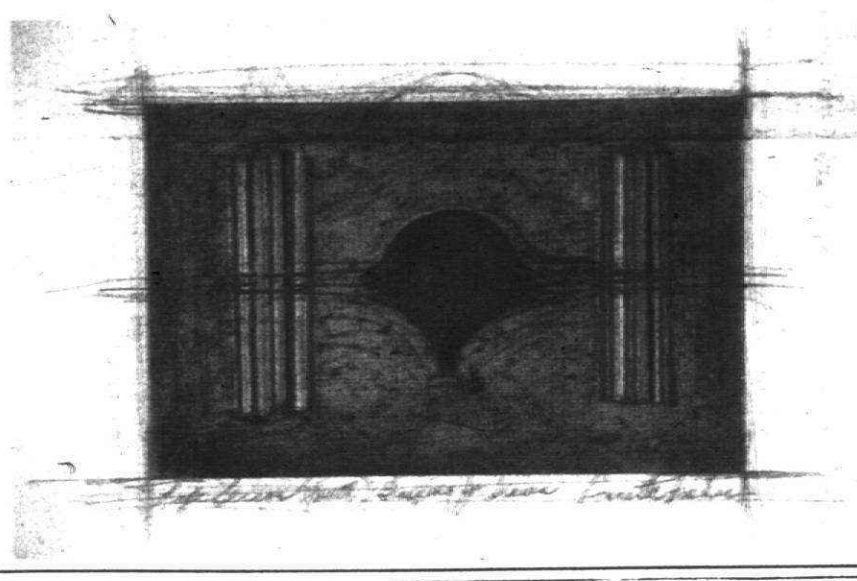

The agency helps 20,000 people a year. The intervention approach is to help people to help themselves.

The Common Ground Crisis Unit is open 24 hours a day. It provides the community with crime victim assistance, a medical and legal clinic, a speakers bureau and prevention services — at no charge.

Route 10 Gallery is at 32430 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Hills. Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday. Call 932-4160.

Life is full of strings, says artist Annette Fisher. "On a String" is part of Fisher's life series. She said the idea behind this piece is that "children are puppets on a string."

Tour to spotlight historic Music Hall

Preservation Wayne will host a boiler-to-roof tour of the historic Music Hall. The downtown theater presents performing arts programs and educational opportunities to suburbanites as well as Detroiters.

The tour will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, June 1. The fee is $8 for members of Preservation Wayne and the Art Deco Society of Detroit and $10 for non-members. Advance reservations are a must. Call 577-3559.

The tour will begin in the lobby of the Music Hall, on the southeast corner of Brush Street and Madison Avenue. Nearby parking is available. Refreshments will be served before viewing the theater.

Preservation Wayne was formed 16 years ago as a result of the threatened demolition of the David MacKenzie House on the Wayne State University campus.

This theater tour is just one of a series of programs and tours the group has planned for 1991.

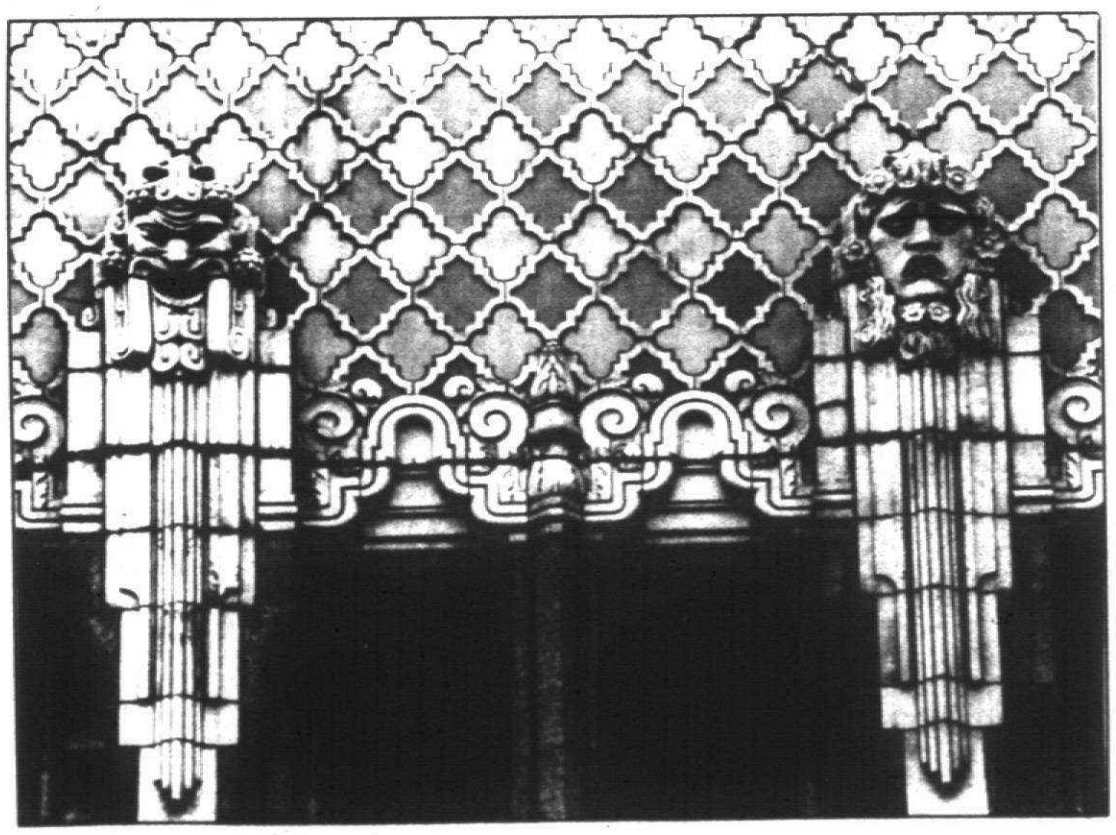

Those on the tour will get a behind-the-scenes look at Music Hall, including the boiler and dressing rooms, offices, balconies, main auditorium and back stage.

A 20-minute slide show will be featured on stage. Weather permitting, there will be a rooftop picnic for a nominal charge after the tour.

THE 62-YEAR-OLD Music Hall is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Built by Matilda Dodge Wilson at a price of $3 million, the theater's sound technology was patterned after the newly built motion picture studios.

Ongoing renovation includes basic maintenance or replacement of components of the building's heating system, restoration of ornate decorations, structural improvements and cleaning.

Terra cotta masks of Comedy and Tragedy are sculpted on the front of Music Hall.

When the theater opened in 1928, its marquee covered the entire front and part of the sides of the building.

Over the years, the marquee was removed and a movie theater-type sign was installed. A new marquee, similar to the original, will be added to the building.

Renovation is targeted to be completed by 1993.

THE Wilson Theatre (as Music Hall Center was originally named) was built during an era of growth and cultural development in downtown Detroit.

This period was marked by other grand building projects and ornate movie palaces, but the Wilson occupied a niche as one of the city's only legitimate theaters.

Fashioned after the great legitimate theaters of Europe, it was crafted by the same architects and artisans who built Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester Hills.

Saved from demolition in 1973 with an acquisition grant from the Kresge Foundation and Detroit Renaissance, Music Hall's initial restoration phase played an important role in the revitalization of downtown Detroit.

Museum builds line of reproduction furniture

Helen Diane Vincent

Many Americans who have had a love affair with Early American furnishings will now have access to a new source familiar to us here in Michigan.

In April, the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village introduced the largest museum reproductions program ever launched at the International Home Furnishings Market at High Point, N.C.

The museum's American Life Collection was well received by both the press and buyers attending the show, foretelling a wide distribution of the line in October.

The collection includes reproductions, adaptations and interpretations of more than 100 18th and 19th century pieces from the museum's exhibition of nearly 90,000 objects.

Harold K. Skramstad Jr., president of the Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, sees the collection as a "different kind of opportunity to share our treasures with the public."

TO CREATE the collection, the Dearborn-based museum carefully screened numerous companies as prospective licensees, chosen for their reputation to ensure accuracy and excellence in reproductions and adaptations of museum pieces.

"Integrity of design and superb quality are evident in every item," said Linda S. Lagerstrom, the museum's manager of product development and licensing.

She hinted at the potential for expansion of this and other collections given the museum's vast resources.

Among the companies that will create the merchandise for the American Life Collection are Century Furniture Industries for case goods and upholstered pieces, Chelsea House-Port Royal for oil paintings and decorative accessories, La Barge Mirrors for decorative wall mirrors, Sligh Furniture for tall clocks, Mountain Rug Mills for hooked rugs and Waverly for some of the textiles.

It was Century Furniture's dramatic display of the collection at the High Point market that elicited such a positive response.

THE ENTIRE American Life Collection will be permanently showcased in a 2,600-square-foot gallery in the Henry Ford Museum for the 1.2 million people who visit the historic complex annually.

This on-site gallery is scheduled to open in early fall. It will include information on participating dealers from around the country.

Contributing to the overall cohesiveness of the furnishings and lending an aura of further authenticity is a collection of 36 Pratt and Lambert Early American paint colors made for both interior and exterior use.

For this collection, the 36 colors are offered in five color families: golds, tans and browns, blues and greens, reds and neutrals. Each of the colors is rendered in rich and subtle tones we all identify with our Early American legacy.

"THE FASCINATION of these artifacts lies in the feelings and insight they give us about the past," said Michael Ettema, a William Clay Ford curator of the Design History Collections Division.

"They connect us through the generations to the lives of our predecessors.

"Mostly, they were people of the 'middling sort,' farmers, merchants, entrepreneurs, artisans . . . people who served long apprenticeships at silversmithing, potting, weaving and, of course, cabinetmaking, not only supplying the practical needs of a nation but also giving the emerging American culture a tangible and visible expression.

"They wanted furniture that was durable but not clumsy, utilitarian but not mundane, serviceable but not dull.

"But they also expected good design . . . furnishings that revealed a shared standard of taste and propriety, but still with an aura of distinction."

Helen Diane Vincent is a design writer based in Troy. Her column runs the fourth Monday of each month.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR SOMEONE SPECIAL!

Long term care nursing demands a lot of a nurse. It's a career that calls for what human skills. But more than that, it's a career that calls for compassion - your ability to help people whose social and emotional needs are every bit as great as their physical ones.
As a long term care nurse you have a little more of yourself, but you get a lot more in return. Working with the same patients overtime creates a very special bond - a feeling of trust and affection that you just can't get in a hospital.
If you are interested in finding out about the special rewards of long term care, call us - we'd be glad to tell you more.

HOROSCOPE

May 26 through June 1 By C.C. Clark

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
This is a very positive time for all Geminis, so make the most of each moment. Don't look back at the past, there is nothing there for you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
There are some terrific money-making ventures around the corner for the crafty Crab. Make sure you stay alert to the advantage of extra income.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
It is important you stay on the straight and narrow. Authority figures will be watching to see if you can handle additional responsibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Cautious Virgo should take stock of your lifestyle. Changes in diet and exercise could bring about the changes you have been hoping for.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
Romance is in the air and you are ready for whatever might come your way. Avoid the excuse to procrastinate about financial matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
Being stubborn with loved ones will only bring you grief. Keep an open mind and you may even surprise yourself when you really listen.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
You will feel on top of the world. Stay away from those who cannot share in your good fortune. They don't deserve to bask in your sunlight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
A friend or business associate in a distant place will bring you good news. Begin a new creative project, preferably one that helps others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
The opposite sex brings you both trouble and great joy. Let things follow their natural course and don't worry about what might have been.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Good news is just around the corner in both your domestic and professional lives. Celebrate life. You need a break from the everyday drone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
The pieces of your life are finally coming together and just in time. Put everything in perspective. Pay attention to health matters.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Wisely use information given to you. It is important you don't use it to harm others, as doing so will surely backfire.

'Miss Saigon,' 'Will Rogers' duel for top Tony honors

Broadway's stars roll with punches

By Amy Schmidt

Broadway can be a nasty place. Take for instance last month's "I Hate Hamlet" incident in which Nicol Williamson lectured co-actor Evan Handler in front of the audience, then hit him with a sword during a dueling scene. Handler, outraged, walked off stage (undoubtedly to rehearse for "I Hate Nicol"), and an understudy finished the performance.

But don't expect high drama like that on Broadway's biggest night of the year: Tony night. The 1991 Tony Awards will be doled out Sunday, June 2, and everyone will exhibit their best behavior for CBS' cameras.

This year's big vote-getters are "Miss Saigon," a Vietnam-set "Madame Butterfly," and "The Will Rogers Follies," a kudo to the American actor and humorist. The two are tied with all 11 nominations each. Leading actors and actresses in both shows are contenders—Jonathan Pryce and Lea Salonga for "Miss Saigon" and Keith Carradine and Dee Hoty for "Will Rogers." (Despite rave reviews for his "I Hate Hamlet" performance, Nicol Williamson found himself left in the cold.)

A total of 27 productions opened this season, including 14 new plays, seven musicals, five revivals and one special attraction—a good year for Broadway. Playwright Neil Simon also won his first Pulitzer for "Lost in Yonkers."

Julie Andrews and Jeremy Irons will co-host the soiree. Both are acting-award vets. Irons won a Tony for "The Real Thing" and copped an Oscar this year for "Reversal of Fortune." Andrews has two Tony nominations to he credit and won an Academy Award for "The Sound of Music."

A montage of talents will help present the awards to the winners. On hand will be Joan Collins, Whoopi Goldberg, Steve Guttenberg, Audrey Hepburn, William Hurt, Raul Julia, Shirley MacLaine, Penn & Teller, Lily Tomlin, Carol Channing and Denzel Washington.

1991's nominees include:

Best Play: "Lost in Yonkers," "Our Country's Good," "Shadowlands," "Six Degrees of Separation."

Best Musical: "Miss Saigon," "Once on This Island," "The Secret Garden," "The Will Rogers Follies."

Best Leading Actor in a Play: Peter Frechette, "Our Country's Good"; Nigel Hawthorne, "Shadowlands"; Tom McGowan, "La Bete"; Courtney B. Vance, "Six Degrees of Separation."

Best Leading Actress in a Play: Stockard Channing, "Six Degrees of Separation"; Julie Harris, "Lucifer's Child"; Cherry Jones, "Our Country's Good"; Mercedes Ruehl, "Lost in Yonkers."

Best Leading Actor in a Musical: Keith Carradine, "The Will Rogers Follies"; Paul Hipp, "Buddy...The Buddy Holly Story"; Jonathan Pryce, "Miss Saigon"; Topol, "Fiddler on the Roof."

Best Leading Actress in a Musical: June Angela, "Shogun, The Musical"; Dee Hoty, "The Will Rogers Follies"; Cathy Rigby, "Peter Pan"; Lea Salonga, "Miss Saigon."

Broadway's biggest stars will come out for CBS' broadcast of "The 45th Annual Tony Awards," live from New York's Minskoff Theatre, Sunday. Multi-award-winners Jeremy Irons and Julie Andrews co-host the telecast. The show also marks the 25th anniversary of the first network broadcast of the event.

FAMILY FARE

CBS adds four cartoons to Saturday mornings

By Christy Bergslien

CBS has announced it will add four new children's shows to its Saturday morning lineup this fall. Back to the Future, Where's Waldo? Riders in the Sky and Mother Goose and Grimm will join the network's already top-rated Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles on the lineup kicking off Sept. 14.

Back to the Future capitalizes on the popular film series of the same name starring Michael J. Fox. The animated show will feature likenesses and voices of Fox and his co-stars Christopher Lloyd and Tom Wilson.

And where do you find Waldo on the CBS schedule? You find the vanishing character airing at 11:30 a.m. Eastern. Where's Waldo? is based on the fastest-selling children's book in history, written by Martin Handford.

Mother Goose and Grimm is based on Pulitzer Prize-winner Mike Peters' syndicated comic strip. "Grimmy" is a rambunctious dog who lives with a thoroughly modern Mother Goose and a variety of other offbeat characters.

Riders in the Sky combines the performances of live singing cowboy stars with puppetry, animation and claymation for a western children's show.

Also returning to the lineup are Jim Henson's Muppet Babies, Garfield and Friends and CBS Storybreak, hosted by Bob Keeshan.

CABLE NEWS

Sports, nature among cable's highlights

By Amy Schmidt

Nick Nolte and Eddie Murphy return for Another 48 Hours. The power-packed feature film broadcasts Saturday, June 1, on HBO.

Also packing a wallop are HBO's continuing boxing bouts. The match-ups continue Saturday on the network when Meldrick Taylor takes on Luis Garcia for the WBA welterweight title.

USA Network will telecast first- and second-round coverage of golf's Kemper Open from Potomac, Md. The million-dollar contest airs Thursday and Friday, May 30 and 31.

Jacques Cousteau and company travel to Australia: Continent of Dreams in search of a lost sea on Sunday. The two-hour TBS documentary is narrated by Mel Gibson.

The largest freshwater lake in the world, Lake Superior, and its surrounding wilderness are explored on Around the Inland Sea. The documentary premieres Monday, May 27, as part of "Discovery Showcase."

ESPN telecasts live coverage of The French Open from Paris beginning Monday. Netters Andres Gomez and Monica Seles are defending champions. Coverage of the tournament, the second grand slam event of the year, will continue through June 6.

The Discovery Channel's series Nature of Things will examine the ecological rape of our forests and alternative land management practices on Sunday.

STAR NOTES

Kathie Lee Gifford always an achiever

By Lisa Otoupal

On the kind of show that would give many performers ulcers, Kathie Lee Gifford successfully brings warmth, humor and charm to millions of viewers as the co-host of Live With Regis & Kathie Lee.

Gifford says her success in surviving a live show is largely because of her upbringing. She was born in Paris and lived there five years before her family relocated to Maryland. Kathie, her brother and her sister constantly put on plays and carnivals. With her parents' encouragement, she and her sister organized a folk group called Pennsylvania Next Right's.

At 17, Kathie Lee became Maryland's Junior Miss. She got her first commercial by winning the Kraft Hostess Award, a national competition. After studying drama, arts and communications in college, she moved to Hollywood. Within a day she was an extra on Days of Our Lives.

In 1977 she was a singer on Name That Tune and then co-starred in Hee Haw Honeys, a spin-off of Hee Haw. She appeared on A.M. Los Angeles (Regis Philbin's old show) and was spotted by the producers of Good Morning America. Within five weeks Gifford was substituting for Joan Lunden.

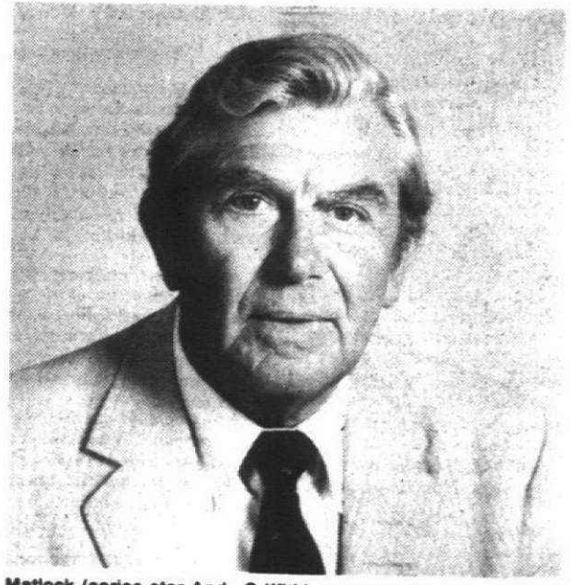

When not spending time with their son, Cody, Kathie and her husband, sportscaster Frank Gifford, are involved with the Special Olympics and The Children's Charity.

BITS AND PIECES

Julia Roberts wants to play 'Renegades' with Kiefer Sutherland

The romance of Julia Roberts and Kiefer Sutherland continues to blossom on and off the screen. The two first starred together in Flatliners and now it is likely they will be co-cast in the romantic western Renegades. Renegades is the story of a half-blooded Indian who robs and gives to her people. Sutherland plays a bounty hunter who stalks and, ultimately, falls in love with her.

Sting, Peter Gabriel, Gloria Estefan, M.C. Hammer, Sinead O'Connor, Rod Stewart and Chris De Burgh have signed up for a worldwide television concert to benefit Kurdish refugees. No date has been set for The Simple Truth concert broadcast.

Entertainment Tonight* focuses on the up-and-down acting career of Andie MacDowell, Friday.

Jackie Collins and NBC have signed a deal for two four-hour miniseries based on Collins' books Lady Boss and Hollywood Husbands. It will also be the first time an author has produced a TV adaptation of her own book.

Corbin Bernsen and Mel Harris will star in NBC's new miniseries Grass Roots, based on best-selling author Stuart Wood's novel Chiefs. The political thriller is the sequel to the miniseries Chiefs, which debuted in 1983. It will telecast during 1991-92.

CBS is selling a videotape chronicling the events of the Gulf War. Desert Triumph, culled from CBS news footage and narrated by Dan Rather, costs $49.95 plus shipping and handling.

The Airport Channel will be tested June 3 through July 14 in the nation's largest airports, including Atlanta, Chicago and Dallas. TBS is launching the new station, which will consist of news, consumer and travel features produced and anchored by CNN/Headline News. American, Delta and United airlines have already signed on to receive the service.
