The Canton Connection

Quiz champs

After a year of concentrated study and tough competition, nine Detroit-area junior high and high school students, including a Canton resident, easily defeated teams from Ohio and Pennsylvania to be crowned World Champions at the World Finals last month at Greenville College in Illinois.

Pat Morgan of Canton Township, who was top quizzer of the tournament, was in the championship team.

Teams from all over the United States and Canada were involved. This capped a championship season for the Detroit team, which took top honors at the Ohio kick-off tournament in December 1990, the tournament of champions in Indiana in April 1991 and the Eastern Regionals in New Jersey in June 1991.

Sports McDonald

McDonald's of Canton, on 44900 Ford, changed its image recently when Al and Rosie Fellhauer, owner/operators, threw a grand reopening of Canton's new sports memorabilia McDonald's.

They celebrated the event by turning over the ribbon-cutting scissors to Willie Horton, former Detroit Tiger.

The restaurant features sports memorabilia from the Pistons, Lions, Tigers, Red Wings, the University of Detroit, the University of Michigan, Eastern Michigan University, Michigan State University, Plymouth Canton High School, Plymouth Salem High School and others.

In addition to the memorabilia, patrons can watch sports on eight television monitors, play video tapes of their favorite sports teams and play the pop-a-shot basketball game for charity.

And children can roam through a maze.

Pump shortage

Forty Canton residents have signed up and are ready for sump pumps to be installed in their homes.

However, they won't be receiving them for awhile because Canton has not been able to receive them quickly enough from the manufacturer.

Overall, 300 homes are ready to receive sumps in a township effort to reduce flooding basements.

So far, 725 sumps have been installed in Canton houses. Meanwhile, presentations about how the sump pumps work are made at 3 p.m. Monday through Wednesday in the the second-floor engineering office of the township administration building.

For more information, call the administration building at 397-5405.

Cancer screenings

Low-income women in Michigan soon will be able to receive low-cost and/or free breast and cervical cancer screenings, thanks to a federal grant.

The Michigan Department of Public Health will receive a $2.9 million federal grant from the Centers for Disease Control, said U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth.

Among the services to be included in the Michigan program for more than 15,000 women over age 40 are clinical breast exams, pap smears, pelvic exams and screening mammography.

Woman 'quacks' case; ducks saved

For the second time this year, a mother duck took up residence behind the bushes of Call's front yard. She leaves corn for them to eat and an overturned garbage can lid for them to swim in.

Friday morning mother duck took her brood for a stroll with near-fatal results. The four duck-

Police on trail of suspect in fatal hit-run

By Diane Gale
staff writer

More than a year after the hit-and-run accident that killed Melissa Chisholm, 14, as she crossed Ford and Lilley roads, police received an anonymous tip leading to their first strong suspect.

A cross and flowers still mark the intersection where the eighth-grade Pioneer Middle School student was killed May 14, 1990.

Police, however, refused to release any information regarding the suspect pending further investigation.

The suspect's attorney, Howard Wallach, advised his client not to speak to police; and Wallach himself declined to comment on the case.

"We think we have the right guy," said Canton Police Capt. Alex Wilson.

"The problem we have is that he had retained an attorney and the attorney has said that we cannot interview his client. It's just made our job a lot harder."

POLICE OBTAINED a search warrant for the suspect's car, a Chevy Nova, which they sent to the Michigan State Police crime lab for further investigation.

"The vehicle has been repaired and our investigation leads us to believe the vehicle had damage at one point in time and had been repaired, Wilson said.

'We think we have the right guy. The problem we have is that he had retained an attorney and the attorney has said that we cannot interview his client. It's just made our job a lot harder.'

"We believe this person has told somebody about the accident," he said. "We need that person to come to us. We need someone with first hand information about this driver."

The anonymous caller, a female, didn't say why the tip was called in more than one year after the accident, police said.

The driver faces one felony charge of leaving a scene of a fatal accident, which is punishable by up to two years in prison and or a $2,000 fine. Ironically, some observers say, that if the driver had stopped after the accident he wouldn't have been charged at all.

Library board seeks tiny tax rate increase

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The cost to operate Canton's library is one of the highest in Wayne and Oakland counties, and township taxpayers can expect to see another increase on their winter tax bill.

Residents who would like to comment about the change can speak out at a public hearing 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Canton Public Library conference room.

Library officials want to increase the tax rate by 0.08 mills from 1.67 mills to 1.75 mills. The Canton Library Board runs the library and determines the millage rate.

Canton is authorized to levy 2 mills to operate the libraries, which is the highest out of the 62 communities in the Wayne and Oakland Library Federation, WOLF deputy director Douglas Whitaker said.

IN DOLLARS and cents, the charge to a resident with a house valued at $150,000 would pay $131.25 annually to operate Canton's library. (Multiply the millage rate, 1.75, by half the market value, $75,000.)

The tax increase would bring in an additional $80,000, said Canton library director Jean Tabor.

"It will allow us to spend more on materials and services," she said.

Also, the library is paying a $418,875 debt for the building on Canton Center north of Geddes. There's a 15-year mortgage.

The public hearing is to fulfill truth and taxation laws that require if property values increase, you have to roll your millage back to come up with the same revenue dollars from the previous year, said John Spencer, Canton finance director.

LIBRARY SUPPORTERS argue that the library is a busy place. For instance, circulation in July increased by 30 percent from the same time last year. Canton loaned out 57,000 books, videos and other library materials.

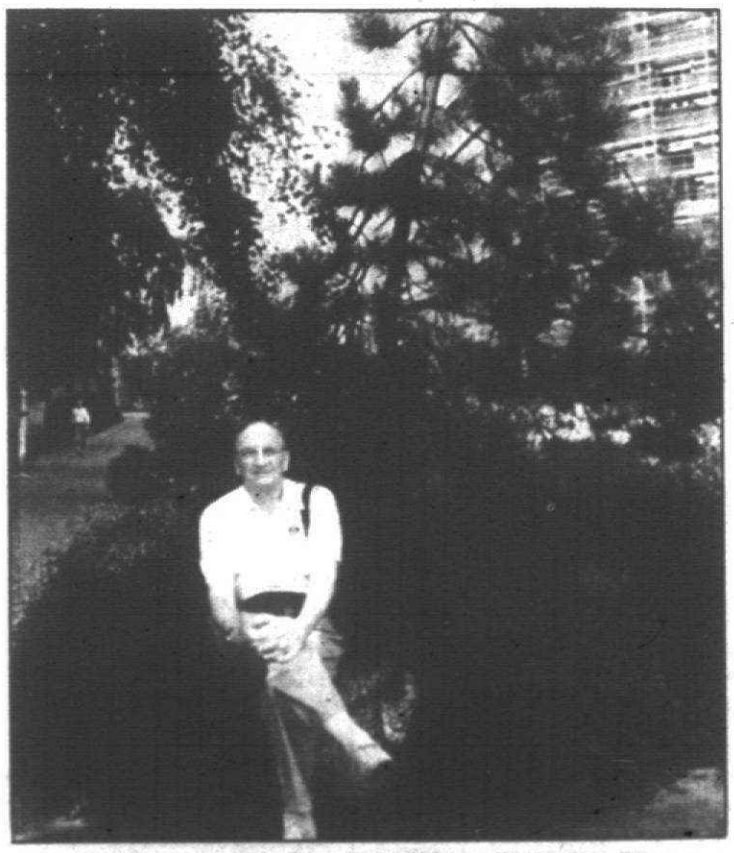
"Sometimes we experience a lull in the summer months, but that didn't happen this year," Tabor said.

Canton began offering free video use in January, she said.

Canton's material circulation is one of the highest among the WOLF communities. By the end of the year Canton's library will circulate more than 600,000 items.

The library also marked record attendance in the children's reading club, with 1,255 children participating in the program this year.

Superintendent spends his vacation in summer 'school'



John Hoben, superintendent of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, takes a break during his trip. He studied education with the Eisenhower People-to-People Program, traveling to Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Germany.

By M.B. Dillon
staff writer

After a tough school year, you might expect Plymouth-Canton School Superintendent John Hoben to hop into his motor home and enjoy a vacation traveling around the United States.

Instead, Hoben went to "school" for a week with The Superintendency Institute in Traverse City; came home, unpacked, repacked and headed off to Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia and Germany for two weeks to study education with the Eisenhower People-to-People Program.

"It was three good weeks of educational experiences," said Hoben, one of 51 superintendents chosen from a field of 8,000 from across the country to take part in the program.

The conference agenda began at 7 a.m. and ended at 10 p.m. Superintendents listened to prominent educators, worked in small groups and made presentations with the goal of "leading the effort to transform America's schools in this decade."

"The idea was to come up with plans for restructuring for school improvement," said Hoben, who met superintendents from Washington state to Vermont. "What came out of it was the establishment of a network with 51 American and Canadian school districts."

School chief goes 'back to school' for summer

European trip was to exchange information with educational leaders in four countries, Hoben said.

Headed by a Michigan State University professor, the group included an 82-year-old college professor from Massachusetts, a representative from the State Department, a retired elementary teacher from the Thumb area, a kindergarten teacher from Saginaw, and a high school librarian and board member from Pigeon.

School structure in Eastern Europe differs considerably from that in the U.S., said Hoben, who picked up his own $4,500 airfare.

Beginning at age 6 or 7, there is 10-year compulsory education. At 17 or 18, students are tested and attend a vocational program or a university depending on the results, he said.

The major difference Hoben found was the curriculum.

Their curriculum reflects "high expectations — not only for teachers, but for students and parents, for that matter. The biggest single difference I noticed is that students are workers, and teachers are facilitators.

"They demand more and they get more. They have homework and things that are different than we experience in this country," said Hoben.

Most of the problems are economic, he added.

Typically, teachers make $100 a month, and university presidents $300 a month. Gas costs $4 a gallon, "so you see a lot of pedestrian traffic and a lot of bicycles.

The first stop was Poland.

"Our first night in Warsaw, I finally got into my hotel room, dead tired, and turned on the English TV station, CNN International," said Hoben. "The first thing I saw was a meeting at Salem High School on the Michigan Model. I told my roommate, 'That's my school!' "

"You're going to hear more about problems in Poland," predicted Hoben, noting that inflation is rampant in Poland, and that there's a perception that Solidarity is contrived and controlled.

"I didn't see any smiling faces," he added. "You can sense the tension."

HOBEN VISITED a Polish elementary school and high school and met with educators who are interested in setting up an exchange program.

Hoben was surprised to learn "two foreign languages are required at the fourth level," which is equivalent to fourth grade in the U.S.

While food was plentiful in the hotels, "the grocery stores were quite bleak with limited choices," he said.

Hoben said the Hungarians can't remove Russian monuments and symbols fast enough.

He found Budapest and its baroque and Gothic architecture "very beautiful," despite the massive destruction it suffered in World War II.

"The Hungarians are a happier lot of people" than the Polish, said Hoben, who stayed in a hotel on the Danube.

As in Poland, "the schools are in transition, going from a Communist to a Democratic system," added Hoben, who met with the Hungarian minister of education and the president of the University of Budapest.

The group took a motor coach to Prague, Czechoslovakia, which appears be "a little bit better off than Hungary."

Hoben was struck by the Czechoslovakian facilities for the severely mentally impaired.

"I was very impressed with the cleanliness, and the love and care given them. It exceeded the care I see in our institutions."

The ratio of residents to staff is about two to one, he added.

The schools have a "rigorous curriculum; the same way in Hungary. They demand more of the children than what's expected here," he said.

After a stop in war-scarred Dresden, Germany, it was on to Berlin.

"There are still remnants of the wall and World War II damage," said Hoben.

Hoben learned that teachers in East Berlin are earning $100 a month, while "those on the other side make $2,000 a month. All the people in the east want to work in the west, so they have some huge problems. We don't know how lucky we are."

HOBEN HAD LUNCH with the first elected mayor of East Berlin, and met the minister of education, who was in the process of firing 400 principals, 400 vice principals and 400 social studies teachers in an attempt to "get rid of the Russian influence," said Hoben.

"He was keeping the math and science teachers, because they aren't indoctrinated. But they'll be monitored to make sure they aren't full of that pedagogy.

"The biggest thing I got out of the trip was that the major difference between American education and their education is that the curriculum is much more rigid, and students are workers.

"I think we have to go back to that in this country if we are going to catch up with the Japanese.

"I think we have to raise our standards. Also, one of the things we need to do is to let teachers decide what their best method of teaching is and hold them accountable to achieving those standards. That's a German principle."

Hoben said he'd like to discuss the issue tonight with the Board of Education. The regular meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the newly remodeled board office, 454 S. Harvey.

Bankruptcy shouldn't affect Coventry mall businesses

By Diane Gale
staff writer

The owner of Coventry Commons shopping mall has filed for bankruptcy, but the financial failure is looking brighter and won't affect businesses in the mall at Morton Taylor and Joy roads in Canton, according to store spokesmen.

Farmer Jack, Arbor Drugs and ACO are the anchor stores in the 114,000-square-foot shopping center at the Plymouth city limits.

"It hasn't cut our business any," said Verne Shoberg, Arbor pharmacist. He said he hasn't worried about the bankruptcy issue ever since the news surfaced a couple of a weeks ago.

Wesley Mewer, ACO director of customer relations, said when someone buys a can of paint they likely don't think about the financial status of people who own the mall at a store from which they're buying the paint.

"That bankruptcy apparently has no affect on us at all," Mewer said. "The consumer doesn't pay much attention to that type of thing. And we don't expect that it will."

THE SHOPPING mall opened in April 1988 and at that time it was owned by Nelson Ross Properties, a partnership between David Nelson and Jay Ross. That partnership dissolved last year when Nelson became sole owner.

Nelson declined to comment. His attorney, Barbra Rom, however, said the bankruptcy picture is looking brighter.

THE NIGHT of the accident Melissa was having dinner with her parents and sister at Johnson's Restaurant.

Melissa and her sister decided to run across Ford Road to Richardson's to buy school folders. Seconds later witnesses ran into the restaurant announcing that a girl had been struck by a car.

The Chisholms couldn't be reached for comment. However, in a December article they pleaded for information about the driver.

"We want to know so that we can rest," said Melissa's mother, Debbie Chisholm.

lings fell through a storm sewer grate, leaving the mother duck quacking in distress.

Call heard the noise and rushed out to see what the commotion was all about. Call grabbed her son's fishing net and attempted a rescue.

"The cover was too heavy to lift," Call said. After a half hour's futile effort, she called police, fire, Michigan Humane Society and the Department of Natural Resources. None were available to help.

Call hailed two workmen on her street. They quickly arrived with a crowbar and removed the storm grate. Bill Hagan and Don Cuozzo climbed down the sewer and lured the ducks out with bread crumbs.

The four ducklings were reunited with their mother.

Prisoner's mom attacks his life sentence for drug possession

By Pat Murphy
staff writer

The Oakland County prosecutor believes he has some good ammunition with which to defend Michigan's tough "over 650 drug-lifer law" — the one requiring life in prison for people convicted of possessing 650 or more grams of cocaine.

The average person sentenced to life in prison under the Michigan's drug-life law is a white male, 32 years old who sold drugs for profit, not necessarily because of addiction, according to prosecutor Richard Thompson.

Thompson said he drew that profile after reviewing statistics provided by the Michigan Department of Corrections on the 144 people sentenced under the drug-lifer law during the almost 13 years it has been in effect.

SHERRIE BUZBY/staff photographer

Linda Fannon displays photographs of her son, Gary, in happier days. Gary is currently serving a life sentence in the Ryan Regional Correctional Facility in Detroit.

"OPPONENTS of the law want you to believe the law puts a lot of underprivileged, 18-year-old kids in prison for the rest of their lives because of a mistake," Thompson said. "That simply isn't the case."

Thompson, one of the state's staunchest supporters of the drug-lifer law, said he expects the information to be useful as state legislators come under increasing pressure to change the law.

One such person is Linda Fannon whose son, Gary, a 1986 graduate of Plymouth Salem High School, was 18 in July 1987, when sentenced under the drug-lifer law. The law mandates a life sentence — with no chance of parole — for anyone convicted of possessing a pound and one-half or more of cocaine.

Thompson, who has obtained more than 80 drug-related indictments from the Oakland citizens grand jury over the last two years, says the tough law helps police use little guys in a drug operation to get to middle-managment operatives.

"Very often the little guys won't talk," Thompson said. "That is, until they realize they face life in prison . . . then they're often ready to make a deal."

LINDA FANNON insists the law is a miscarriage of justice. "Murderers and rapists aren't punished that much," she said.

Fannon, who lives in Westland, insists Thompson, and others like him, are using the law to boost their own image as tough crime fighters, ". . . to build a reputation."

"I don't defend drugs," she said. "I hate them. People like my son should go to prison . . . but not for the rest of their lives, not for a mistake."

Linda Fannon has been interviewed by newspaper columnists and talk show hosts recently as she focuses public attention on the case of her son, and what she considers the unjust drug-lifer law that put him in prison.

She said there are extenuating circumstances in her son's case.

> 'I don't defend drugs. I hate them. People like my son should go to prison . . . but not for the rest of their lives, not for a mistake.'
> — Linda Fannon

One of the Canton Township detectives involved in her son's case, for example, was subsequently fired for allegedly using drugs.

The detective's dismissal was upheld in arbitration, Fannon said. But he was never charged with a crime. "There's no fairness there," she said. "He (the officer) is involved (in drug use) more than my son, but he's not even charged. But my son's in prison for the rest of his life."

Linda Fannon challenges the the validity of the conviction of her son on evidence gathered by police who themselves may have been involved in drugs.

SHE ALSO challenges the Wayne County prosecutor whose office could have charged her son with a lesser offense — one carrying a less severe sentence.

But most of all, Fannon challenges the inflexibility of the drug-lifer law that takes away judicial discretion.

Gary Fannon is currently in the Ryan Regional Correctional Facility in Detroit. His mother said he is 16 college credits short of an associate's degree.

"He's coping," she said. "He's earned numerous commendations for helping other inmates learn to read. He doesn't deserve to be in prison for life."

Linda Fannon said she favors — and will fight for — a modification like that proposed by State Rep. William R. Bryant Jr., R-Grosse Pointe Farms.

Bryant has a bill pending, H.B. 4024, that would modify the law by empowering judges to impose lighter sentences.

H.B. 4024, — which is supported by a number of people including Macomb Prosecutor Carl Marlinga and Oakland Circuit Judge Barry L. Howard — would enable judges to impose life sentences without parole, if warranted.

But it's precisely that kind of tampering with the the drug-lifer law that Thompson hopes to thwart with his profile of the typical felon now serving a life sentence.

THE U.S. SUPREME Court upheld the constitutionality of Michigan's tough drug law, Thompson said. "And I believe it will be upheld this fall (when it's scheduled to be reviewed by Michigan's highest court). But the biggest challenge will come from legislators who want to change the law."

Thompson said he disagrees with the image promoted by those who want to change the law. "They want you to believe the law picks on people who simply made a one-time mistake. That's bunk."

Statistics provided by the Michigan Department of Corrections seem to substantiate the prosecutor's contention that those doing life under the drug-lifer law are far from being the first-time innocent.

Of 144 persons convicted between 1979, when the law went into effect, and last June 27, six are age 19 or younger. Most are between 20 and 29 (52 inmates) or 30 and 39 (50 people). There are 25 people between 40 and 49 currently in prison under the drug-lifer law, and 11 who are 50 or older.

"There are some teenagers," Thompson acknowledged. "But what about the other teenagers who die or become addicted because of the cocaine they were carrying?"

RACIALLY, according to the corrections department, 70 of those serving time under the drug-lifer law are white, 63 are black, six are Hispanic and five are classified as 'other' (Arabic, Asian, Indian, etc.).

But the most telling part of his profile, Thomson said, is the number of inmates who said they do not use drugs. "That disputes the theory most of them sell drugs because they're addicted. They're in it for profit."

Figures on the number of druglifers who themselves use drugs is incomplete and, according to the Department of Corrections, unreliable. Of the 144 inmates less than 50 answered when asked if they themselves are drug users.

And even those responses are suspect, according to prison spokesman Gail R. Light, whose office provided information for Thompson's drug-lifer profile. "The information on drug use was voluntary," Light said. "And there is no way to verify the answer."

Thompson, however, remains convinced that many dealers — particularly white-coller types in Oakland County — are not hooked, but sell drugs because of the enormous profits.

Thompson has never dealt with Linda Fannon. But he said he understands a mother's anguish at the thought of her son in prison — for life.

But that doesn't change the prosecutor's support for the tough drug-lifer law — legislation he says is necessary if society is serious about the war on drugs and drug-related crime.

SOCIETY shouldn't feel sorry for Gary Fannon, said Thompson, "he made his choice. What about the people who would overdose or become addicted with the cocaine he was carrying?"

Thompson said he doesn't know all the specifics of Fannon's case, but he presumes the Wayne County prosecutor probably considered a deal — charging him with a lesser crime providing he cooperated to get the suppliers. "Ask him (Fannon) why he didn't cooperate.

"A lot of young people get into drugs because it seems like easy money," Thompson said. "And they can't envision getting caught."

David Opple

Services for David H. Opple, a 21-year Plymouth Canton schools employee and Plymouth planning commissioner, were Sunday in St. John Neumann Catholic Church, Canton.

Mr. Opple, remembered for his devotion to students and commitment to improving the city of Plymouth, died Wednesday of cancer.

"He had a significant interest in the community and serving our community, which was illustrated through his long involvement in the schools and selfless devotion to activities with city government," said Doug Miller, Plymouth planning commissioner.

Mr. Opple lived in Plymouth, served on the planning commission since 1985 and currently served as chairman.

"He was such a nice man. It's was such a tragedy," Miller said. "He has been ill for more than a year and you just don't like to see anyone suffer."

Mr. Opple began working with the Plymouth Canton schools in 1970 as assistant principal of Central Middle School. He has worked as area coordinator with the schools since 1972.

"I always found Dave to be truly committed to the students who attended high school and was supportive of the students," said Tom Tattan, executive director of secondary education.

"He was truly an advocate of the students."

Tattan said Mr. Opple's commitment extended past the regular work hours where he would often be seen at basketball games, dances and proms.

"He was truly an asset to the high school team and he'll be missed dramatically this school year," Tattan said.

MR. OPPLE was born in Grand Rapids on July 6, 1940, and attended Western Michigan University and Wayne State University. He was a doctoral student of the Mott Foundation in Flint during the late 1960s.

Before he began working for the Plymouth Canton schools, Mr. Opple was a teacher in Wyoming, Michigan and Indiana.

Besides his wife, Mr. Opple is survived by sons, Gregory of Grand Rapids and Matthew of Jackson; daughters Sarah of Plymouth and Carey of Jackson; parents, Haskell and Henrietta Opple; sisters, Nancy and Lois and brothers, Kenneth and Thomas.

Memorial contributions may be given to:

Arbor Hospice, 3810 Packard Road, Suite 200, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48105; St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, New Cancer Unit, Ypsilanti, Mich. 48197; St. John Neumann Expansion Fund, 44800 Warren Road, Canton, Mich. 48187; or the Association for Brain Tumor Research, 3725 North Talman Ave., Chicago, IL. 60618.

The Rev. George Charnley officiated at Sunday's service. Arrangements were made by Schrader Funeral Home, Plymouth.

Principal appointed at Gallimore

Gallimore Elementary School's new principal is Larry L. Cole. Cole was appointed Aug. 5 by the Plymouth Canton Board of Education.

Cole joins Gallimore from the Carman-Ainsworth Community Schools in Flint, where he served as assistant elementary school principal. In addition, he worked as a school psychologist for Carman-Ainsworth from 1981 to 1988.

Cole was the director of Project TRIAD, a public health program for the Genesee Intermediate School District in Flint. Cole developed workshops in inter-personal and problem-solving skills, including a course for Michigan State University.

He began as a consultant for Project TRIAD, working with school districts on management techniques and systems. He also consulted teachers on communication processes and inter-personal skills, and designed staff development programs for school districts.

In addition, Cole has worked as a school psychologist for the Genesee Intermediate School District. His career in education began in 1966 as a secondary English teacher in Flint.

'The Doctor' thrives with Hurt

tickets please

John Monaghan

The blank expression that carried Hurt through films like 'The Accidental Tourist' is replaced here by an entire range of emotions.

William Hurt's winning performance is the right prescription in the film, "The Doctor."

In "The Doctor," William Hurt plays a self-centered sawbones who learns about life on the other end of a scalpel. A brief bout with throat cancer subjects him to the long lines, callous doctors, and reams of paperwork that define a modern hospital visit.

Treat patients with respect, he moralizes. All doctors become patients sooner or later.

If this Aesop's fable of Yuppie self-redemption sounds familiar, it should. Wasn't it just a month or so ago that Harrison Ford, as the lawyer in "Regarding Henry," went through a similar transformation?

Fortunately, this is the superior film of the two which occasionally relies on cheap sentiment and predictability. Like the fables of old, "The Doctor" delivers a simple but powerful message, helped in large doses by William Hurt's winning performance.

The blank expression that carried Hurt through films like "The Accidental Tourist" is replaced here by an entire range of emotions. The opening scene finds Dr. Jack MacKee performing open-heart surgery while singing along with The Four Seasons' "Big Girls Don't Cry," which is piped into the operating room.

A REAL cut-up, MacKee quips to doctors and patients alike, cracking jokes that aren't always in the best taste. When a woman confides that the unsightly scar on her chest worries her husband, Mitchell quips, "just tell him you're a Playboy centerfold and have the staples to prove it."

His philosophy concerning heart surgery is well-known by the young interns he teaches: "Find the problem, fix it, and get out of there," he says.

Giving a damn about the patients as people has nothing to do with surgery.

His own change of heart occurs when he meets June (Elizabeth Perkins) in the waiting room for radiation treatments. MacKee knows that the young woman, who is dying of a brain tumor, could have been saved if the proper tests had been administered.

Their blossoming relationship — as friends, not lovers — is the film's weakest link. She looks too good for someone undergoing the hell of radiation treatment, especially when she dramatically removes the scarf from her head to reveal her Sinead O'Connor scalp.

She's a life-affirming angel in a peasant skirt who has learned to accept her fate. But she's also one-dimensional and a cheap catalyst for the doctor's own complex transformation.

THEIR FRIENDSHIP does effectively contrast the problems between the doctor and wife Anne (Christine Lahti, in another thankless supporting role). She suffers because he, like many patients, keeps the people closest to him at arms' length.

"The Doctor" reunites Hurt with Randa Haines, the director of "Children of a Lesser God." Emotionally, she knows what buttons to push. Visually, she employs a simple style which at its showiest conveys the topsy-turvy feeling of being wheeled into surgery.

You don't need to be a brain surgeon to figure out what direction she's taking us in. Like the block letters MacKee scrawls on his erasable board during recovery, "The Doctor's" message is big, bold and easy to read.

'We're No Angels' doesn't wing it

By LeAnne Rogers
staff writer

pass the popcorn

LeAnne Rogers

As "We're No Angels" begins, the prison warden attempts to put the fear of God into the inmates by graphically describing how a convicted killer will meet his end in the electric chair.

The condemned man sneers and glowers but prisoners Ned and Jim, (Robert DeNiro and Sean Penn), are suitably impressed. Because the pair talked during the warden's exhortations, they are summoned for punishment in the room where the execution is going to take place.

When the killer stages a violent escape from the prison, Ned and Jim are faced with a dilemma. They are really scared of the gun wielding killer, who clearly expects them to escape with him, but when they try falling behind during the chase through the prison, the guards lay down a line of fire.

Trapped like rats, Ned and Jim conclude the killer is the less imminent danger and are soon nervously enjoying their freedom.

Exactly, what Ned and Jim did to end up in prison is not made clear. They don't seem very tough or too worldly. Probably being in the wrong place at the wrong time, based on what happens to them during the film. The duo never is actually able to make a plan and carry it out.

Through a misunderstanding, the pair, looking like a couple Bowery Boys escapees, end up posing as a couple of Arizona priests visiting a monastery at the Shrine of the Weeping Virgin.

NOBODY NOTICES they don't really look much like their pictures. The pair have their eyes set just north of the monastery, across the river to Canada.

The pair make an unlikely set of priests. The biggest laugh I had from the movie was a scene when DeNiro and Penn nervously try to sing along with the French prayers before dinner.

DeNiro provides some rather unorthodox advice to a deputy who is making a confession about cheating on his wife.

Penn's character, a simple and rather gentle soul, uses billboard quotes and comic books as the basis for philosophical statements his listeners find profond.

One amusing bit occurs with the explanation he offers a young monk who notices Penn has a clothes pin attached to the collar of his shirt, swiped earlier from a clothes line.

For a comedy, this film from "Mona Lisa" director Neil Jordan is surprisingly short on laughs. The script by David Mamet is often angry and loud, the violence too much for what should be a light comedy.

SET IN 1935, the film doesn't capitalize on the humor that could evolve out of the situations in which DeNiro and Penn find themselves.

The best performance comes from Penn, who through his simple openness starts feeling drawn to the contemplative life of the monastery. The more peaceful Penn gets, the more desperate DeNiro becomes.

The agitated DeNiro keeps working on schemes to get over the bridge into Canada, a journey foiled several times by police checks. So near, yet so far.

The film moves rather fitfully to the expected conclusion, bringing in a subplot with Demi Moore as a bitter single mother to a deaf mute child.

In the end, "We're No Angels" seems like a lot of talent and potential without a lot to show for it.

County profiles its communities

By Wayne Peel
staff writer

Plymouth Township is part of Michigan's "Golden Corridor."

Westland boasts "excellent access to the freeway system as well as air, sea and rail transportation".

Livonia, meanwhile, "has it all."

At least that's the way all three communities are described in new Wayne County community profiles.

The just-released profiles of all 43 Wayne County communities are part of the county's business-attraction strategy.

"WHEN PEOPLE want to move into Wayne County they often are looking for this kind of information and we wanted to provide it at their fingertips," said Timothy Johnson of the the county office of jobs and economic development.

The surveys have been sent to each community, as well as to area Realtors and business developers.

Printed in blue on white stock, each four-page profile contains a treasure trove of information on each community.

Leading employers, financial institutions and utilities are listed. But the profiles also include such details as community income levels, tax rates and average home sale prices.

Statistics for western Wayne communities are as follows:

● Canton — Described as "rapidly developing" with "a combination of single-family and multiple-family dwellings," nearly 40 percent of Canton households have incomes over $50,000. Its tax rate is 60.39 to 68.55 mills, depending upon school district. Average home sale price is $100,930, a 50 percent increase from 1979-89.

● Garden City — Nearly 30 percent of households have income over $50,000. The tax rate is 76.69 mills. Average home sale price is $57,600, an increase of 43.2 percent from 1979-89.

● Livonia "has it all," according to its profile, including a full array of housing plus substantial commercial, industrial and office development. Nearly 40 percent of households have income above $50,000. The rate is 55.1325 to 65.68 mills. Average home sale price $94,740, a 60.7 percent increase from 1979-89.

● Plymouth — Roughly 25 percent of households have income above $50,000. The tax rate is 65.1. Average home sale price is $97,280, a 61.9 percent increase from 1979-89.

● Plymouth Township — Roughly 50 percent of households have income above 50,000. The tax rate is 54.75 mills. Average home sale price is $151,610, a 103.2 percent increase from 1979-89.

● Redford — Roughly 30 percent of all households have income above $50,000. The tax rate is 60.41 to 68.75 mills. Average home sale price is $56,800, a 38.6 percent increase from 1979-89.

● Westland — Roughly 25 percent of all households have income above $50,000. The rate varies from 58.04 to 77.39 mills, depending upon school district. Average home sale price is $59,770, a 45.67 percent increase from 1979-89.

Breen sweeps through primary

There was no trouble for 10th District County Commissioner Maurice Breen in Tuesday's primary.

Running unopposed, Breen nonetheless received 4,919 votes in capturing the GOP nomination for the two-year, $41,396-a-year county seat.

Breen's district includes the cities of Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, as well as Plymouth and Northville townships.

The former Plymouth Township supervisor was appointed to the seat earlier this year after three-term incumbent Susan Heintz resigned to become director of the governor's southeast Michigan office.

Breen will now run unopposed in the Aug. 27 commission election.

Primary turnout was boosted by the heated GOP primary for the 36th District state House seat. Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss — a friend of Breen — was the winner in that race with 3,061 votes, compared with 2,794 for Plymouth City Commissioner Jerry Vorva and 2,517 for Canton resident Deborah Whyman.

Like Breen, Goss will also appear on the Aug. 27 ballot without a Democratic Party challenger.

Linda Mardirosian, left, and Betty Grantz stock the shelves at the Westland TJ Maxx store where they work. The women, members of a supported employment program, were recently named store "Associates of the Month."

Co-workers share journey toward independent lives

By Wayne Peal
staff writer

Just like everyone else, Betty Grantz and Linda Mardirosian share in the easy banter of co-workers. Day is done at the Westland TJ Maxx store where they work and they're on the way home.

It's a short trip in terms of miles, but a long journey in many other ways.

Betty, 63, and Linda, 44, have spent a combined 52 years in mental health care facilities before their new jobs gave them perhaps their best-ever chance for independence.

Linda, a small, energetic woman, will return in a few days to clean windows, tidy up and stock shelves at the Warren Road store.

Betty, a grandmotherly type for whom legal blindness is no barrier, also stocks clothing at the store.

"THEY GET treated just like anybody else here," said their boss, assistant merchandise manager Marshall Falconer.

Popular with co-workers, the two recently shared the store's "Associate of the Month" award, voted by the store's 65 workers. "I think the award shows how their co-workers feel about them," Falconer said.

"They're good workers," added job coach, Gertrude Potts. "They want to do their own work, they don't want anyone to do it for them."

Potts, employed by Saints Inc., a private, Romulus-based social service agency, works with both women, helping accommodate them to the workforce.

The process is called supported employment, but the day is coming when the support will no longer be required.

"What we like to see is a situation where they can work on their own," said Denise Mogos of Wayne Community Living Services, a state agency that recommended both women for their jobs. "The purpose is for them to become as independent as possible."

Neither Linda nor Betty had ever worked before, according to state records, but their success in the workforce has been accompanied by an upgrade in living conditions.

Linda, a former group home resident, now lives in an apartment in nearby Inkster.

"It's what we call supported independent living," Mogos said. "There are people who look in on her, but she has a degree of independence."

Both women are classified as developmentally disabled, but Mogos said the classification shouldn't lead people to limit them as capable workers or citizens.

"The message we want to get across is they they are people, just like everybody else," she said.

In addition to working two days a week at TJ Maxx, Linda works another two days at a nearby McDonald's and an additional day per week at Saints, Inc. offices.

Betty, a two-year TJ Maxx employee who works five days a week, recently moved into a smaller, less restrictive Redford group home.

At the new home, Betty is responsible for her own cooking, shopping and cleanup, as well as taking care of her two beloved cats.

She also attends night school in the Redford Union Schools.

"She goes everywhere," said home manager Kim Prophet, "out for ice cream, to the movies, to the beach. She really seems to enjoy her autonomy."

Betty states her reaction to her job and new home more simply: "I like it a lot."

In conversation, it's obvious both women take pride in their new responsibilities.

points of view

They disagree but won't fight

Jack Gladden

"WHAT'S HAPPENING to our freedoms?" a co-worker asked me recently. "It seems like every time you turn around, they've taken another one away. Why don't you write a column about that?"

Well, gee, I thought I had been. I've written about the various "wars" — on drugs, alcohol, smoking, abortion, pornography — and the overzealous way some of these wars are being waged by prosecutors, police, politicians, the courts and a variety of "activists."

What had set my friend off this time was that massive abortion protest down in Wichita, Kan., where hundreds of members of Operation Rescue had laid siege to two clinics and vowed to shut them down. Never mind that the clinics were perfectly legal operations. That small point has never bothered Operation Rescue in the least.

And that is part of the problem. The crusaders don't care whether something is legal or not. If they don't like it, they're bound and determined to run it out of town.

But the other part of the problem is why the people who think the crusaders are wrong don't fight back. I'm starting to think it's a combination of laziness, cowardice and apathy. And the abortion question makes an excellent example.

CASE IN point: A while back I wrote a column chastising members of that same Operation Rescue after they paraded in front of a Livonia abortion clinic with signs bearing the names of two patients who were, they said, in the clinic to have abortions.

The column infuriated the prolifers, who bombarded me and the paper with letters and phone calls. Other people, however, sought me out and said things like "Right on," "Great column" or "It's about time somebody took these people on." Two phone calls to my desk led to rather lengthy conversations with the callers, both of whom said they just wanted to tell me that I was absolutely right and it's about time somebody spoke out against activities like that.

But when I suggested to the callers that they put their thoughts in writing and send a letter to the editor, they quickly backed off. One caller said he was a minister who was rather visible in his community and didn't think he should get involved in this issue. The other was a woman who said she was a candidate for political office and she didn't think it would be wise to put her views in a letter.

So there they sit — quietly. It doesn't really matter whether they are members of a silent majority or a silent minority. As long as they remain silent, it doesn't matter at all.

SECOND CASE: The 36th state House district — which includes all or parts of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township and Canton Township — recently held a special primary election to replace Gerald Law, who had resigned the seat.

On most issues there was little difference in the views of the three candidates. All were Republicans with similar ideas on education, government spending, local control of local issues, etc. The only area on which they disagreed sharply was the abortion question.

Jerry Vorva, a Plymouth city commissioner, was adamantly pro-choice. Deborah Whyman, a political newcomer, was staunchly pro-life. Georgina Goss, Northville Township supervisor and a political veteran, refused to be labeled on the issue. Both sides accused her of waffling.

Whether the abortion question was a central issue among voters is anybody's guess, but the pro-lifers were out in force backing Whyman and the pro-choicers were out stumping for Vorva. Goss ended up the winner with a strong showing in Northville, but Whyman, who came in third, was only 544 votes behind Goss.

Abortion questions aside, this was a chance for voters to select the person who would represent their district in the Legislature. The turnout was dismal. About 20 percent of registered voters cast ballots in Plymouth, in Plymouth Township fewer than 17 percent turned out and in Canton only 8¼ percent of the registered voters actually voted.

Whyman, who won in Canton where she lives, did so with 805 votes — 3.4 percent of the registered voters!

What's happening to our freedoms? Do you really care?

Math scores top educators' fears

Tim Richard

I HAD JUST written a story about the State Board of Education's reaction to Michigan students' dismal showing on national math tests. I asked an ad sales colleague, "How did you do in math in school?"

"I hated math," she replied.

Which didn't answer my question. Or perhaps she revealed even more than I was asking.

At the Lansing meeting, Dorothy Beardmore, the state board president, handed me a Seattle Times article headlined "Math: A nation of dunces." The headline was wrong. The first paragraph said American parents and students hate math.

OUR NATION'S problem is worse than most educators fear. It's greater than too few students studying too little math and being unable to reason.

Most Americans hate math. That's different from being less than proficient.

I field ground balls dismally but still enjoy watching an infield double play. You may play the piano sloppily but still appreciate Andre Watts performing Franz Liszt.

Math is the language of science, commerce, industry, governmental budgets. Without math, you're half illiterate.

(Did you notice last week's poor reporting in the Detroit papers about the state "arts summit"? They played the story as the big elite organizations versus the little ethnic groups.

(The truth is that state arts funding soared 40 percent per year during the 1980s. They failed to report it because they couldn't calculate a percentage increase or didn't want to bother.)

I CAN'T BOAST because I was an indifferent math student through 12th grade. Like everyone but the future engineering majors, I hated math.

Why?

Maybe it was because math teachers assumed their course was the only one you were taking. They were conversant in no topic but math. They never related what they were teaching to anything else in the world. They were devoid of humor.

English and history teachers would give you an occasional light assignment or a night free from homework. Not math teachers. They were as merciless as they were narrow.

Apparently schools haven't changed.

THE ONLY math course I ever aced was in college. Can you imagine? After grinding through math at the grade and high school levels, I broke the bank at the toughest university in the state.

The young math professor had wit. He explained binomial functions with the reproduction of bunnies. For reasons I can't explain, I began to grasp trig and five to the power of 10.

Sadly, it didn't last. Near the end of the semester, he was hauled before the House Un-American Activities Committee, quizzed about extensive Communist connections, suspended, fired and sent to a federal slammer for contempt of Congress.

H. Chandler Davis was the only math teacher who ever got me to like the subject.

DAVIS WOUND up teaching in Canada and contributing to Encyclopedia Americana. His articles are models of lucidity and clarity.

Unlike liberal Democrats, Davis never inflicted his political views on a class, so I can't personally tell you he was (not) a Commie. U-M didn't go in for that open meetings stuff, so I don't know whether they had evidence he was (a) Communist, or (b) dangerous off campus.

There's a leftist movement on campus to make amends to him 37 years later. Here's a better idea:

Skip the politics. Address the math hatred problem by offering Davis $1 million to return to Michigan and transfer whatever magic he had to our math teachers.

Given our deteriorating position in the world economy, $1 million invested in a master math teacher would be a wise capitalist investment.

Hotelier raps Duggan plan

To the editor:

As a local hotelier, I am gravely concerned that a hotel tax is being viewed as the best source upon which to build the financing of a new baseball stadium. I am writing to outline several issues which are the basis of my concern.

● Current Depressed Operating Conditions: Due to dramatic increases in hotel rooms supply, occupancies in metropolitan Detroit are severely depressed — a low 49 percent occupancy rate. In an effort to increase occupancies, local hotel rates are significantly lower than comparable metropolitan centers around the nation. The result of a new hotel tax for Wayne County could be the closing of many Wayne County hotels and the loss of many jobs.

● Decreased Competitive Ability: Increased taxes will decrease Wayne County hotels' ability to compete with surrounding counties that do not suffer from this tax. Nationally, this tax will offset any price advantage that Detroit now possesses and could be the death knell for Detroit's troubled convention and trade show business.

● National Hotel Tax Rates: The addition of a five percent tax on top of existing taxes would place Detroit hotels among the highest taxed hotel rooms in the nation. As an example, the total tax currently collected at the Westin Hotel is 12 percent and at the Hyatt Regency it is 11 percent. An increase to 17 percent and 16 percent respectively would place them second only to hotels in New York (19.25 percent plus $2).

● Hotels are not major benefactors of increased Tiger attendance: Local hotels receive little, if any, revenue from the 80 days of professional baseball played in Detroit. Therefore, an improved stadium would not increase hotel revenues to serve as a direct tax base. Hotels could only expect that demand for hotel rooms would decline due to rate sensitivity as a result of a hotel/motel tax financed stadium.

In review of the Duggan Plan, which was prepared for Wayne County Executive, Edward H. McNamara, the biggest benefactor in this issue would be the privately owned Tiger Baseball Club. This Duggan Plan is based on taxing one group of private entrepreneurs for the benefit of another private entrepreneur.

Benefit attracts rockers

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Paying their dues as 13 Engines is Mike Robbins (from left), Grant Ethier, John Critchley and Jim Hughes.

In a fitting tribute to the legacy of Detroit rock'n'roll he helped create, several area musicians are putting together an all-star benefit concert for the family of guitarist Joe Kubert.

The former member of the Detroit Wheels died June 19 of cancer.

The concert Sunday, Aug. 18, at Harpos Concert Theatre, Harper at Chalmers, off I-94, in Detroit will feature a special appearance by Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels. Doors open at 7 p.m. (For information, call 824-1700).

Scott Campbell, Detroit Blues Band, The Rationals with Scott Morgan, The Polish Muslims, Twiggy Barbust & The Lizards in Jars and the Garfield Blues Band are also scheduled to perform.

All proceeds from the concert will go to Kubert's widow and 9-year-old daughter.

"It's important the community supports itself," said Scott Morgan, whose Rationals was another Detroit act making a name for itself in the late '60s. "This is something definitely worthwhile doing.

"It's what the local music scene should be about — being more connected."

Plans include having the show digitally recorded for a live album to be released at a later date along with material Kubert recorded with the Detroit Blues Band.

KUBERT WAS considered to have had a large role in the Detroit Wheels' sound when the band was kicking out hits like "Jenny Take a Ride" in the late 1960s.

"He provided that nice little rhythm," said Mitch Ryder, whose friendship with Kubert dated back to junior high school.

Kubert performed with the Detroit Wheels until 1967 when the Vietnam draft decimated the band, according to Ryder. Kubert later hooked up with Jimmy McCarty and the Detroit Blues Band.

Ryder said the two kept in contact and even worked together a couple of times.

"I have very few male friends in my life," said Ryder in a telephone interview. "I definitely count him as one of them."

"After he left the band, we never got close again," Ryder said. "It's sad. We should have been."

Four months on Nagle Street in Hamtramck? Let's just say 13 Engines ran idle.

"We didn't do much I tell you that," said John Critchley discussing the band's temporary residence two years ago. "We watched a lot of TV. We probably drank a lot of beer and wrote a lot of songs."

THE TORONTO-based band returns to old haunts Friday, Aug. 16, headlining at Alvin's in Detroit. Doors open at 9 p.m.

13 Engines did time in Detroit in the fall of 1989. The four-member outfit hung out here while their second album for Nocturnal Records, "Byram Lake Blues," was being released.

A majority of those songs, in fact, were written during the band's stay in Byram Lake, Mich. Likewise, a portion of the numbers can be heard on 13 Engine's recent SBK release "A Blur to Me Now."

So does this mean members consider Detroit/Michigan something of a second home? Well . . . Critchley is quite the diplomat but he won't go that far.

Instead, the Motor City dwelling is chalked up to the band paying their dues.

"Blur to Me Now" is a back-to-basics in-your-face rock'n'roll album. There isn't an ounce of extraneous guitar matter or pop bombast on this effort.

Part of the credit for that goes to producer David Briggs, who's best known for his work with Neil Young. 13 Engines recorded "Blur to Me Now" in a flat six weeks, rehearsing for awhile at Young's California ranch.

COMPARISONS to Mr. Young are natural, but their validity only comes in the way 13 Engines' streamlined aesthetics when making music.

"If you spend your time in the studio, triggering drum machines it's no longer 13 Engines," Critchley said.

Speaking of studios, Park the Karma is in Tempermill Studio, recording their yet-to-be titled debut album for Black Garlic records. The band features members vocalist Lori Wyatt, Jack Smith, Raquel Salaysay (formerly of The Truncheons) and Kerry Gluckman (formerly of Walk the Dogma).

Mol Triffid goes 'western'

Yes, Kurt Serbus will don the dinner jacket and designer eyeglasses for the last area rendition of "The Devil and Sammy Davis."

By Larry O'Connor
staff writer

Someone better tell Don McLean that Mol Triffid has gone to catch the last train for the coast. Don't worry, the music hasn't died.

It's just moving.

A farewell dose of vocalist Kurt Serbus' apocalyptic screeches and Kimo Ball's double-barreled guitar will be given Saturday, Aug. 17, at Club Heidelberg in Ann Arbor. Oh, but to see Serbus don the dinner jacket and designer eyeglasses for the last area rendition of "The Devil and Sammy Davis."

Then in one fell swoop, Mol Triffid will be off to San Francisco. They're even taking Bloomfield Hills Lahser graduate/drummer Scott Mast, who replaced John Westerman last September.

Simply put, Mol Triffid has grown tired of the scene here.

"There's not a hell of a lot of places to play," said Kimo Ball, sitting in the living room (we think) of their Ann Arbor apartment with a 'For Rent" sign on the door. "Detroit is sad. It's either people loyal to their favorite punk band or apathetic to a Martian band from Ann Arbor."

There's no bitterness in Ball's voice, just resignation. Mol Triffid accomplished more in three years here than the average bunch of long-haired, power-chord metal churning quartet.

THE BAND'S first single last year, "I Want to See Pretty People Doing Ugly Things," revealed Serbus' penchant for exploring the bleakest realms of the human spirit.

Instead of wariness, the lead singer's trembling screams seemed to revel in the madness as he vividly describes a pathetic creature alone watching pornographic films. Ball's incendiary guitar pieces only made the package more hypnotic. More importantly, the 7-inch single was instrumental in garnering the band an instant following.

Since then, Mol Triffid toured the East Coast and the Midwest region extensively and set up a home base in Ann Arbor. While on the coast, the band recorded a majority of their upcoming release, "Touch the Monkey," in Boston.

The six-song project is 50 minutes long and will be released on (fast becoming extinct) vinyl in the fall.

Among the selections will be a number, "Satin Rules," in which Serbus pokes fun at the hysteria revolving around alleged devil worship. Another song is titled, "William Shatner Sleeps on the Eve of the Harmonic Convergence: He Dreams."

MANY OF the Serbus-penned numbers come from his own twisted perspective of every day events. "The Devil and Sammy Davis," for example, was the result of the late singer's biography, which divulged Davis' alleged involvement with the Church of Satan.

Whether a move to the Golden Gate City will lighten up Serbus' songwriting remains to be seen. He wasn't present at the interview.

"He's into it (the move)," said bassist Dave Sahijdak.

As, too, are the rest of the band members. For Mast, the relocation is of particular excitement. The drummer always wanted to be a member of Mol Triffid ever since his former band, Pontiac, opened for them at a show in Ann Arbor.

"Kurt has a lot to do with it," Mast said. "So does the music. He has such a presence. He's so intense."

Mol Triffid will perform with guests, Thudpucker, Saturday, Aug. 17, at Club Heidelberg, 215 N. Main, Ann Arbor. Cover is $4. For information, call 994-3562.

Fanzines are few and far between Fanzines are tiny independent music papers put out by regular people instead of some huge publishing corporation. They're usually cheaply printed on mimeograph paper with crude graphics, a bunch of misspelled words and a casual writing style.

But that's what makes them great.

Instead of beginning a record review with phrases like "the thematic elements and poignant tonal quality . . . " Fanzine writers tend to use sentences like "These boys have plenty of neat-o effects pedals."

Back in the 1960s, alternative magazines were in their heyday and anyone who had something to say would write it down and voila, they were in the publishing biz.

Lately, however, fanzine production — at least in this area — has gone the way of bell bottoms, lava lights and altruistic behavior. A survey of local record stores (the major distribution point for fanzines) revealed that most had zero or at most three copies of local magazines.

Most fanzine producers today have to be well-versed in ad rates and distribution techniques. But there's still a few people, armed with only a copier and something to say, who manage to make their little place in the literary world.

Of the few that are out there, these are some of the best:

New Direction — This is a junior-sized fanzine put out by a guy who calls himself Nick Name and his "proofreader, lover and best friend" Spirulina. Although the mag is tiny, it does get around. The mail section in the front of the book has letters from readers as far away as England.

Anyway, New Direction focuses only on music. Mr. Name's taste in tunes runs toward the alternative/college sort. One issue featured interviews with That Petrol Emotion, Snuff and Lovers and Other Monsters as well as live reviews of bands like the Chills and Social Distortion.

But the real body of the magazine consists of "Nick's Picks," a lengthy section of record reviews. Nick's reviews are like listening to that friend of yours who frequents the indie bin at the record store — they're smart and full of obscure music info.

Scattered throughout the text are a bunch of funny/philosophical quotes like Hans Selye's "If you do what you like, you never really work. Your work is your play." or George Carlin's "I am not a complete vegetarian; I eat only animals that have died in their sleep."

New Direction only comes out twice a year — in June and December — and can be had by sending $1.50 to New Direction, 520 N. Ashley, No. 1, Ann Arbor 48103.

Brassneck — It's a music rag with a wicked sense of humor put out by Chip Porter (lead-off hitter, token chump) and Tim Sendra (field general, token grump).

They say that their debut issue "generated about as much excitement as a Flock of Seagulls reunion," but since Tim is a recent graduate and "doesn't have a job or point in life" and Chip is a worker in a party store where he specializes in stocking canned shrimp, they decided to put out a second issue since they had nothing to do.

The first issue was nearly a masterpiece in "zinedom." It features a comic about Snuggles the cuddly fabric softener bear having a bad day and going on a killing rampage, plus two "horror" stories about the tragedy of going bald at a young age written by the two Sendra boys (baldness runs in their family).

The second issue is more music-oriented, but written in the typical Brassneck style. In his review of the Ride LP, for example, Sendra writes, "Reviewing this record makes me feel like an elephant in a patch of daisies or a cement mixer driving over eggshells."

To get your hands on Brassneck, send one buck to Brassneck HQ, 4746 Northgate, Ann Arbor 48103.

Motorbooty — This is a good bet for those of you are interested in Detroit's infamous past music history circa the late '60s-early '70s.

Oakland County artists received most arts grants

The Michigan Council for the Arts has redistributed money from the poorest parts of the state to the richest, a conservative think-tank study says.

In 1981-86, artists in Oakland County, with Michigan's highest per-capita income, received 46 arts council grants, the largest total of any county in the state, according to a study released today by the Mackinac Center, a Midland-based public policy think tank.

MCA distributed 83 grants to artists in Oakland and Washtenaw counties, which has the state's second-highest per capita income.

Artists in 24 of Michigan's 25 poorest counties received no grants from The Michigan Council for the Arts during a five-year period.

"BY REDISTRIBUTING tax dollars from poor and middle class to rich areas, the Michigan Council for the Arts has failed to serve the public interest," said Greg Kaza, the study's author. The group recommended abolishing the MCA.

Gov. John Engler last week reversed his decision to abolish the MCA, instead establishing a new group that will phase out grants over three years.

The MCA gave more than one-third of its total number of arts council grants to counties with less than one-seventh of the state population, said Kaza, vice president for policy research at the Mackinac Center.

The Mackinac Center study recommended phasing out all state funding to the Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Michigan Opera Theatre and other cultural groups over a three-year period so that they are able to secure alternative funding from private and non-profit sources.

"REFORM IS necessary because there is no empirical evidence documenting that these state-funded organizations are serving the poor," Kaza said.

"The State of Michigan can ill afford the arts council given the prevailing economic recession, budget crisis and the needs of middle-class taxpayers for property tax relief," Kaza said.

The 1981-1986 period was analyzed because it is the most recent time span for which figures are available, he said.

The 24 poorest counties which received no grants are: Lake, Keewenaw, Ogemaw, Baraga, Oscoda, Houghton, Presque Isle, Montmorency, Clare, Schoolcraft, Chippewa, Missaukee, Gogebic, Iron, Kalkaska, Osceola, Alcona, Iosco, Luce, Cheboygan, Arenac, Roscommon, Gladwin and Mackinac.

WHEN CHANGE IN THERAPY IS NOT IN ORDER
When your body aches despite therapy, you may feel it is time to change medications. Unfortunately, the pain may be a reaction to stress not reversible by medical therapy.
For example: you hurt in your heels. The basic problem could be that distortions in the position of the toes make it impossible for you to strike the floor with a normal stride. Your heel pain is the result of a structural impairment of your foot, no medical regimen can straighten the toes, let alone resolve your heel pain.
When your doctor questions you about your joint pain, he gains an idea if a structural problem rather than inflammatory reaction is the cause. Structural pain is boring, continuous, not relieved by rest, and not diminished by heat or medication.
Examination helps decide the question. Looking at the toes often reveals why the heel hurts. An x-ray of the knee, revealing previously unsuspected joint loss, may explain why you developed an ache down your leg that prescriptions or injections fail to relieve.
At times, the alternatives for care are either surgery or acceptance. The experienced doctor knows when you have arrived at such a point, and that trying other medications is a gamble likely to cause more hazard than help.

Mercy honoring Mallon

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Meg Mallon recalls her years as a student at Mercy High School as being among the best experiences of her life.

Her days at the all-girls Catholic school in Farmington Hills put Mallon on the path to becoming a successful professional golfer.

Remembering her roots and returning to pay a debt of gratitude, Mallon is participating today in the inaugural Mercy Golf Outing and Tribute Dinner at Edgewood Country Club.

Mercy also will give Mallon a "thank you" and honor the 28-year-old alumna tonight as the first inductee into the Mercy Hall of Fame.

"That's a head-shaker," said Mallon, who burst onto the national scene this year as a three-time winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Tour.

"There are so many Mercy grads who have contributed and given back. I hope it fills up quickly, because I feel there are others more deserving."

The golf outing, which raised $40,000 for the school, was the brainchild of Larry Teevens, the chairman of the music department and prominent figure in Mercy fund raising.

"I thought of it watching Meg play at Indianwood last year," he said. "When she won a tournament (the Oldsmobile Classic in February) I struck. I didn't even think about it."

While introducing Mallon to a gathering of family, friends and Mercy supporters Thursday evening at Too Chez restaurant in Novi, Teevens said "Meg cooperated beautifully" in promoting the fund-raiser by winning the LPGA Championship and U.S. Women's Open earlier this summer.

"This is easy for me," Mallon said. "Giving back by playing golf is terrific."

FIRST TEACHER

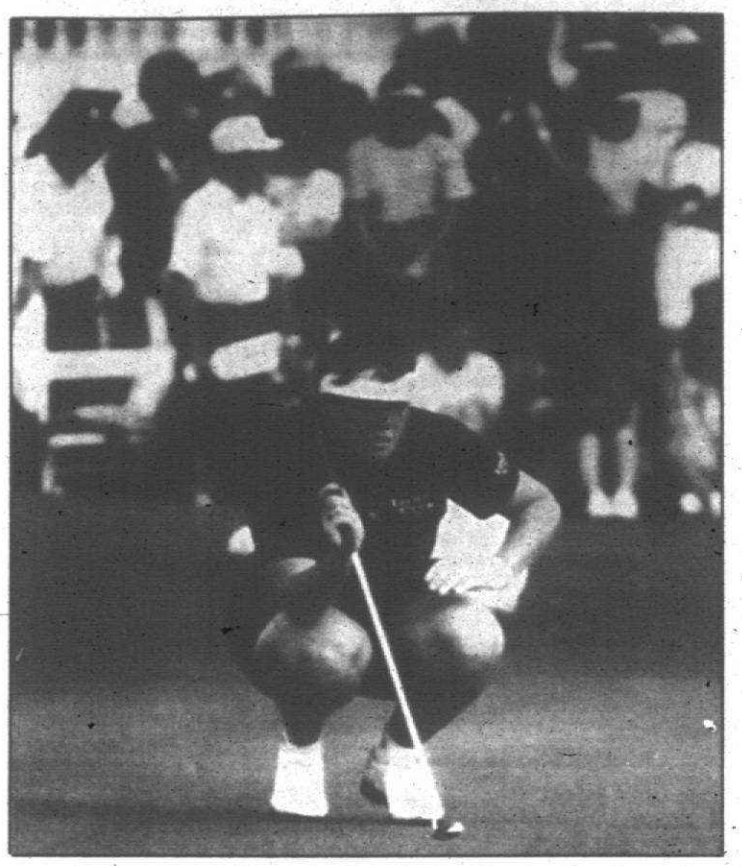
Among those attending the Thursday event was Paul Vanloozen, for 33 years the pro at Edgewood and Mallon's first golf instructor.

"She always had great potential," Vanloozen said. "It's hard to envision (Mallon would be so successful), but she could hit the ball a long ways and she worked hard, so you always knew the potential was there.

"I worked a lot with her on the basics like I would with any kid. She polished her skills with some other pros, but I think I got her started on the right track."

Vanloozen said he was impressed by the way Mallon finished the U.S. Open, holding on to defeat Pat Bradley at the end.

"To come in there with the veteran players she was with and outlast them was a real sign of control and class," he said. "The normal tendency is to gas it a bit when you're not used to that, but she played like a veteran."



Meg Mallon, former Mercy golfer who has become a star on the LPGA Tour, participates today in a fund-raising event for her alma mater.

MERCY PROSPECT

Kristyn Schulkins, who will be a senior at Mercy this fall and plays on the golf team, idolizes Mallon and hopes she can follow in her footsteps one day.

"I asked her if she ever thought she would be on the tour," Schulkins said. "She said she had no idea and look where she is now.

"She's an inspiration to me, because I'm working so hard to get a scholarship. I know it's within reach, getting a scholarship and becoming something of what she is someday."

It wasn't until Mallon was a junior at Mercy that she wanted to pursue competitive golf. She didn't get a college scholarship out of high school but walked on at Ohio State and became an All-American. In her junior year, "I saw teammates going out and becoming pros, and I figured I might as well try it," Mallon said.

She also had some advice for Schulkins — and all golfers.

"(Schulkins) asked me how I felt when I saw my name on the leader board and how I handled it," Mallon said. "The first few times I got caught up in it and didn't play well. In the meantime, I watched 20 others go past. I learned you have to finish the round of golf first."

MALLON'S CAREER

Mallon, who has been on the pro tour for five seasons, earned $1,500 her first year but probably learned the most in terms of what it required to handle the rigors of the tour and be successful.

"I also found I fell in love with the game and wanted to stay out there," she said.

Each succeeding year has been more financially rewarding for Mallon. She earned approximately $25,000, $49,000 and $128,000 the past three years and this year with big paydays in the LPGA and Open has won $446,000.

"There's been a nice progression," she said, "and it's been in the right direction.

"It's strange because the money is so public. Everything is there in the paper. It took a couple years of not making a dime and having to pay people back to get there.

"I'll have to make some investments and secure it. I'm still in the midst of the season and haven't thought about it. They're nice dilemmas I have now."

MALLON, WHO is admired as much for her pleasant personality, has the natural skills to deal with the media, but that has been a learning experience, too.

"It seems everyone has a schedule and a deadline," she said, "and I'm trying to learn the balance of it. I try to cooperate as much as I can, but there comes a time when you need to have time for yourself.

"I have to make sure it doesn't interfere with the reason I'm out there, and that is my practice time."

Gilmore makes Olympic hockey

By Dan O'Meara
staff writer

Mike Gilmore has done it again — bucked the odds and made a hockey team few thought he could.

In this case, the hockey team is the United States Olympic squad.

The Farmington Hills resident was one of three goalkeepers among the 30 players who survived the cut last week at the training center in St. Cloud, Minn.

Fifty-three players were invited to the Olympic Trials, including five goalies. Players reported to camp July 31, and the roster was trimmed less than a week later.

Gilmore and his U.S. teammates were to leave Sunday for France and later Finland for a pair of European tournaments. They will return Friday, Aug. 30, and begin a domestic tour. The team will play about 60 pre-Olympic games.

JUST PRIOR to the 1992 Games next winter, four more players will have to be cut from the U.S. team, but none will be goalies since the U.S. will keep three netminders.

Gilmore is joined on the team by Scott Gordon, a goalie in the Quebec Nordiques farm system, and Wes Kuntar, who played last season for St. Lawrence University.

"They're good but I'm not outclassed," said Gilmore, who made the Michigan State team as a walk-on player and eventually became its top goalie. "We'll see what happens when we go over to Europe. I think that will be the telling card."

"(The coaches) haven't said much. I think they're waiting to see what happens in Europe, too."

Rob Stauber, who won the Hobey Baker Award while playing for the University of Minnesota a few years ago and belongs to the Los Angeles Kings, was invited to the trials but is injured and won't be available until November.

If he comes back, there is the possibility he could bump one of the other three from the team. But Gilmore is part of the team for now; plus, he and the others have a three-month jump on Stauber.

"THERE ARE many variables I can't control," Gilmore said. "I'll just do my thing and let the cards fall where they may."

Gilmore has a fifth year of eligibility remaining at MSU and will return to play for the Spartans if it appears he will be just a back-up goalie with the Olympic team.

"I've got the jersey," he said. "What it all comes down to now is how much playing time am I going to get?"

In the meantime, Gilmore is enjoying the lavish treatment he and the other players are receiving.

In addition to their uniforms with "USA" on the jersey, the Olympians were fitted for sport coats, dress pants, white shirts and "fancy sweatsuits" for travel purposes, Gilmore said. They also receive $30 a day in meal money.

The team is staying at the Econolodge but plans to stay in more expensive hotels once the playing tour starts, he added.

"WE GET new things every day — warmups, uniforms, luggage," Gilmore said. "Everything is first class. So far it's been an unbelievable experience for me. I never thought I would be in this situation."

The Olympic team even had a photographer from a bubblegum card company come to the National Hockey Arena in St. Cloud last week to take action shots of the players.

Albion grid talent includes Brannan

By C.J. Risak
staff writer

It was really no surprise, what college topped the list when the results in the coaches' vote for the preseason favorite in the 1991 Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association football race were announced.

Albion College first, followed by Hope, Olivet, Adrian, Kalamazoo and Alma.

It would be difficult to argue with Albion's pre-eminence. After all, the Britons were 7-1-1 a year ago (4-0-1 in the MIAA), winning their second-straight title.

What's worse — for everyone else in the MIAA, anyway — Albion returns seven starters on defense and eight on offense, including the league's top passer, sophomore quarterback Mike Montico, from Detroit Country Day.

Of course, it should also be noted that in the previous 23 coaches' preseason polls, the right team was selected just eight times.

BUT THIS year, it looks like a lock — even though there are no more patsies in the MIAA. Kalamazoo and Olivet, for years the league's doormats, are both much improved.

Still, Albion has all the ingredients — including depth, with players like junior linebacker John Brannan (6-feet-1, 205 pounds), a Plymouth Salem graduate, and sophomore receiver Mike Spaccarotella (5-7, 155), from Livonia Churchill.

"We've got some holes to fill on defense," said Albion coach Pete Schmidt, trying valiantly to dodge the burden of the favorite's role. "But we have a fine linebacking corps and secondary coming back. That will help."

Hope, which tied Albion 10-10 in '90, and Olivet, which lost 21-20 last year on a blocked extra point in the final minute, will challenge only if they can replace some key people.

At Olivet, that means filling the holes created by all-MIAA first-team quarterback Ken Kubiak and the league's most valuable defensive player, linebacker Jeff Veronie. Bill Thams (5-11, 225), a junior defensive tackle from Plymouth Canton, should help.

BEFORE ALBION'S emergence as favorite, there was Adrian. The Bulldogs were trying to three-peat last year (they tied Albion for the 1989 title), but fell flat with a 4-4-1 overall record, 2-2-1 in the MIAA.

Now Adrian must replace quarterback Pete Mazzoni (Livonia Stevenson), a three-year starter. Entering fall drills, there are eight candidates.

No wonder coach Jim Lyall said "we have a lot of gaps to fill. Our defense will have to carry the load until the offense can come around.

"We are cautiously optimistic."

One reason: the return of senior linebacker Kevin Messner (5-11, 195), a Redford Union graduate. Sophomore Brian Connell (5-10, 210), from Plymouth Canton, could help, too.

Kalamazoo improved to 3-5-1 in '90, but the Hornets were still just 1-3-1 in the MIAA. The hope of coach David Warmack is that they are headed in the proper direction.

World tourney

Stacy Sinke pitched for the Mid-America Mustangs in the 15-and-under girls softball world tournament Aug. 1-4 in Cocoa, Fla. The Mustangs won two games and lost two, finishing 21st in the world. See story on Page 2B.

Soccer team finds tourney rewarding

The Canton Enforcers, an under-17 boys soccer team, didn't bring home a championship trophy from the USA Cup last month but considered their participation a rewarding experience.

The Enforcers, a team composed entirely of Canton and Plymouth players, competed in the under-19 division at the National Sports Center July 7-13 in Blaine, Minn.

Canton made it to the quarterfinals where it lost 4-0 to the Moscow Torpedoes from the Soviet Union.

"The thrill of playing the Russians made the whole trip," Enforcers assistant coach Verne Kirby said. "That was the highlight of the trip."

"The halftime score was 1-0, and the interpreter told (Canton coach) Pete Rogissart we had given them the most competition they had to that point. I think they came out in the second half and said 'Enough of this.' "

THE SOVIETS eventually won the under-19 championship, defeating the Wichita (Kan.) Strykers 2-1 in overtime in the final.

The Enforcers had to win a playoff game with the Mokan Shooters from Leawood, Kan., to reach the quarterfinals.

Both teams were 1-1-1 after pool play. The Enforcers defeated St. Francis, Minn., 6-0, lost to Northridge, Calif., 1-0 and tied Minneapolis 0-0. Canton defeated Leawood 3-1.

More than 400 teams from 30 states and 17 countries competed in the invitational. Most of the foreign teams were from Europe and Central America, but some came from as far as Japan. The only other Michigan team was the Grosse Pointe Mustangs, an under-14 girls team.

The Enforcers are a Little Caesars select team that had a 6-3-1 record in the Ilitch Division. All team members play for either Canton or Salem.

The players are Brian Kirby, Jim Bradley, Ryan Kramer, Eric Stemmer, Gary Wiebe, Dave Sudia, Ray Rogissart, Nick Dazer, Chris Saline, Jason Ripp, Rich Andrusiak, Brett Kearney, Owen Crosby, Todd Kearney and Jeff Zeleji. Chris Rogissart is the team trainer.

"The hardest game is when Canton plays Salem," Kirby said. His son, Brian, plays for Salem, and Rogissart's son, Ray, plays for Canton.

The USA Cup was the fourth tournament the Enforcers competed in this year. They won the Canton Invitational in May and were second at a tournament in Indianapolis.

AJ's claims 2 titles

AJ's Lounge of Plymouth had a big week in men's modified fast-pitch softball last week.

After winning the championship of the Bay County Tournament Aug. 4, the Plymouth-based ballclub won the Livonia Modified League title Monday with a 2-1 victory over Primo's Pizza in a special playoff game.

In the Livonia contest, Curtis Richards was the winning pitcher, and Bob See drove in the winning run with a sixth-inning single.

In the tournament, Jerry Staszel recorded seven consecutive pitching victories, and teammate Brian Dinsmore was named the most valuable player after going 15-for-19 and hitting .789.

AJ's defeated area rival All-American Sports Center in the final. In earlier games, it triumphed over River District (Saginaw) 7-4, Collision Specialist (Bay City) 22-8, Pulaski II (Bay City) 10-2, George's (Port Huron) 16-6, Mid-Joy (Livonia) 8-1 and Pulaski I 12-5. AJ's reached the championship game for the fifth straight year.

The AJ's roster also includes Jim Brady, Lee Harrison, Jeff Kiefer, Pat Malzone, Tim McCrohan, Keith McManaway, John Rathwell, Chuck Robbins, Bob See, Tom See and Ron Sitkauskas.

Mustangs finish 21st

The Mid-America Mustangs softball team finished 21st in the world tournament after winning two of four games in Cocoa, Fla.

The Mustangs won their first two games Aug. 2, defeating the Stingers from Saddelite Beach, Fla., 16-11 and the Supersonics from Kingston, Tenn., 7-0.

But Mid-America was eliminated the next day when it lost 7-2 to the Travelers from Louisville, Ky., and 15-9 to Southern Style from Jackson, Miss.

The Mustangs, who were rated No. 3 in the tournament, had 23 hits in their first game and managed to overcome the eight errors they committed.

Julie Jones was 4-for-4 and scored two runs to lead Mid-America. Michelle Bohnke, Cindy Lehnis and Tara Wasiak were 3-for-4, and Lehnis also had four RBI and scored two runs.

JENNY GARVEY and Christy Walker added two hits apiece. Garvey contributed three RBI and scored three runs, Walker one RBI and two runs.

Winning pitcher Stacy Sinke gave up 11 hits but didn't walk anyone. She tossed a six-hitter and walked one in the next game against the Supersonics.

In the second victory, Bohnke had three hits, and Wasiak, Karen Jose and Walker had two apiece. Wasiak and Jose scored two runs each.

Stacey Fields chipped in a two-run double, Jenny O'Donnell knocked in a run with a triple.

In the first game Aug. 3, the Travelers scored twice in the second and fifth innings to lead 3-1 and 5-2.

Lehnis, Jones and Walker were 2-for-3, and Jones and Lehnis scored the Mid-America runs. Both pitchers allowed 11 hits, with Sinke walking three and striking out two.

Southern Style got 17 hits against Sinke in the next game, but the Mustangs countered with 15. Leslee Dickerson, Wasiak, Lehnis and Jose had two each to lead Mid-America.

Dickerson had three RBI, and one of her hits was a two-run double. Lehnis, Stacy Movinski and Wasiak had single RBI, and Lehnis also scored two runs.

Hoosiers stop Concealed

Concealed Security was eliminated in the second round of the American Amateur Baseball Congress regional tournament in Battle Creek Aug. 2.

The runner-up in the Little Caesars Baseball Federation's Connie Mack League lost its second game to Fort Wayne, 8-0.

Concealed (35-6) was held to two hits, a pair of singles by Randy Glerczak and Ed Wolkind. The score was 2-0 until the fifth inning when Concealed made five of its six errors and gave up six unearned runs.

Mark D'Antonio pitched a complete game, allowing five hits and four walks. He struck out three.

In the first round July 31, Concealed lost to Saginaw Means Stamping 6-0 but stayed alive with a 6-3 win over Marshall.

Saginaw had only three hits but effectively combined them with walks, sacrifices and wild pitches.

Andrew Margolick pitched 5⅓ innings, walked five and had three wild pitches. Eric Miller finished the game.

Concealed had five hits, two apiece by Jim Solak and George Leung.

Solak pitched a complete game against Marshall, scattering six hits, walking five and striking out six.

Shandel Currie had a pair of doubles for Concealed, Scott Niemiec a double and RBI sacrifice fly, Leung an RBI single.

Flint Grassi rallied to beat Ypsilanti in the final game and win the tournament.

MIAA features area talent

"WE MAY surprise some people this year," Warmack said. "We'll be bigger than in the past. And our numbers are up, from 64 to 82 players. Plus, we've had a good recruiting class. I think we'll be more consistent offensively."

Junior John Moldovan (6-0, 195), from Livonia Franklin, may help at offensive guard. And junior Scott Myrand (6-0, 225), also from Franklin, could be a contributor on the defensive line.

One freshman the Hornets figure will have an immediate impact is Westland John Glenn grad Tony Prey (6-1, 248). The only question is where; Prey could win a starting spot on either the offensive or defensive line.

Sophomore Bryan Schultz (6-3, 170), from Plymouth Salem, and junior Dale Collier (5-10, 170), from Churchill, will provide depth in the defensive secondary.

At Alma, hope is high, but reality can be a wearisome weight. First-year coach Jim Cole doesn't have a lot to work with, but junior defensive lineman Jeff Skinner, from Farmington Harrison, may provide some relief.

Is owning a center for you?

10-pin alley

Al Harrison

HOW WOULD YOU like to be the owner of a bowling center?

Although there are very few new bowling establishments being built, there are several bought and sold every year. Here are some facts and figures regarding the industry: There are 6,755 commercial bowling centers in the U.S., with a total of 137,716 lanes.

Many are available, and it seems a worthwhile consideration for someone looking for an investment. Generally, the bowling center provides a unique opportunity for profit compared to other retail businesses.

The sport is here to stay, the equipment will not suddenly become obselete, and there are other amenities within the house which produce revenues (cocktail lounge, vending machines, video games, snack bar, rentals, pro shop, etc.).

ACCORDING TO Sandy Hansell of Sandy Hansell and Associates in Southfield, the cost of a bowling center is usually determined by its locale in relation to the area's population and potential traffic. A bowling center in metropolitan Detroit would cost more than one in Pinconning.

Hansell is a former attorney who has been a bowling proprietor and is now the leading broker of bowling centers in the U.S. Since 1977, his firm has taken part in 217 sales worth more than $192 million.

Hansell recently returned from the Bowling Proprietors National Convention in Louisville, Ky., where he gave a seminar on "Improving your business" to owners from across the nation.

Of course, the first question any erstwhile owner has is how much cash will it take? The answer: Probably a minimum of $100,000 would be necessary, with the remainder provided by backers and lending institutions. In some situations, arrangements can also be made with the those selling the property.

"Buying and owning a bowling center is a challenging, stimulating and highly rewarding experience," said Hansell. "Bowling is a people-oriented, fast-action business offering above average returns, strong cash flow and a long history of stability and success."

BOWLING IS now the fourth largest participation sport and the largest indoor participation sport in the U.S., according to a study published by the Gallup organization in 1989. More than 6 million adults and 675,000 youngsters bowl in regularly scheduled, sanctioned leagues. Over 50 million adults bowl at least once a year.

Bowling is also becoming quite popular worldwide. The FIQ estimates as many as 100 million people in 80 countries bowl on a regular basis. The FIQ has 73 countries as members who compete regularly on an international basis.

There has been a slight decline in league bowling over the past years, but this has been offset somewhat by an increase in special activities and open bowling. There has been significant growth in both senior citizen and youth action. And the bowling industry has taken steps to promote the sport's image with national marketing programs.

The Olympics and Pan American Games also provide exposure. Also, many centers are undergoing renovations. New technological advances, like fully-automated scoring and computerized league record-keeping help attract new customers.

AS A RESULT of these efforts, many industry observers believe bowling is poised for a period of renewed growth. Some of the investment advantages worth noting are:

- The league structure provides stability and predictability of revenues and cash flow;
- Bowling is one of the few industries that thrives on recurring revenues;
- Bowling is a cash business with no receivables. Because of the strong cash flow, a bowling business needs little working capital and funds tied up in inventories are minimal;
- The industry has proven itself unusually stable in difficult economic times, in part due to its low cost per outing and minimal capital outlay for required equipment;
- A bowling center runs little risk of functional obsolescence;
- Bowling centers normally provide a significant tax shelter created by substantial investments in equipment and the building.
- Bowling centers have excellent operating leverage;
- Bowling appeals to virtually all segments of the demographic base. A highly social activity, it is enjoyed by people of all ages, physical abilities and skill levels.

NOW, HOW do you find the right bowling center for you?

Bowling centers come in all sizes and layouts, and in different locations. How successful has it been? The more successful, the more it will cost. A less successful business will cost less but it may take time to turn it around. However, the potential for profit is greater in these "turnarounds."

Take the time necessary to find the right opportunity for you. Be flexible regarding the location; finding the right center may require moving to another city or state.

Don't expect perfection in the property you purchase. And remember: Bowling is a management intensive business. Levels of profitability and revenue are determined as much by the quality of management applied to a center as its location, equipment and appearance.

Have your cash in liquid form. When a business comes on the market, the owner wants to sell it fast. Timing can be critical. Spending time trying to raise capital may result in a missed opportunity.

Anyone interested in becoming a bowling proprietor can call Hansell and Associates in Southfield (located at 28200 Southfield Road, between 11 and 12 Mile) at 559-1818. They can provide information on the best ways to get started. Selling bowling centers is their specialty; indeed, it's all they do.

'Bowling is a people-oriented, fast-action business offering above-average returns.'

Andy Rexin of Westland took the runner-up money recently in the Mid-States Masters Bowling Association Tournament at 300 Bowl in Pontiac.

Although he was the only undefeated bowler, Kevin Dembek of Sterling Heights came out of the losers bracket for the win. The next competition will be Sunday, Sept. 15 at Satellite Bowl. For more information, call Janet "Sam" Greaves at 673-3337.

All league officers — remember to attend one of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association league officer schools. Supplies are handed out beginning a 3:30 p.m. followed a 6:30 p.m. seminar conducted by Tom McKay. This is a must. The schedule is: Thursday, Aug. 15 at Airway Lanes in Pontiac; Monday Aug. 19 at Ark Sterling Lanes in Sterling Heights; Wednesday, Aug. 21 at Satellite Bowl in Dearborn Heights; and Monday, Aug. 26 at Thunderbowl Lanes in Allen Park. If you cannot make any of these meetings, call the GDBA office at 773-6350 so the supplies can be mailed to you.

Savor the rewards of gardening

I'm feeling a little "deja vu" here as I sit and once again, ponder the abundance of zucchini and tomatoes overpowering my garden.

This year, because of composting all of last year's leaves, clippings and food waste, the garden has sprouted forth like never before, while the jar of Miracle Gro sits lonely and untouched on the garage she'f.

I really thought I had planned it a little differently this time. In addition to my over-sized plot of fresh herbs, a single tomato plant coupled with a single zucchini would suffice.

What I didn't plan for were the sprouting of virtually hundreds of pumpkin and spaghetti squash plants inadvertently tossed in the compost pile and tilled into the rich soil from last fall. On returning from a two-week vacation, I found my entire rear yard enmassed in diabolical looking fronds and blossoms. I pulled at least 60 or so plants and left but a few.

As of this writing, I already have pumpkins the size of three gallon stock pots, enough spaghetti squash to half fill a Michigan basement and yes, 5-foot tall tomato plants and zucchini that seems to grow virtually overnight.

As the pumpkins begin to turn a hazy orange and the spaghetti squash fatten with every morning shower, I focus most of my attention on the zucchini, tomatoes and fresh herbs.

This year I have discovered pesto. Having always been a fan of the basil, pine nut, garlic and oil concoction, this year's abundant basil crop has spurred me on to making pesto pasta sauces, not to mention canning herbaceous tomato sauces.

One of the best finds of the summer, however, was locating Alcamo's Market. This old time Italian market on Shaefer just south of Michigan Avenue in Dearborn stocks everything Italian. I could easily drop a paycheck picking up their outstanding imported Mozzarella (that tastes so good layered between thin slices of ripe tomatoes) and Prosciutto de Parma.

On hot summers eves, I wrap paper thin prosciutto around hunks of honeyrock melon with just a twist of cracked black pepper. The taste is nothing short of "dying and going to heaven."

This summer, the Janes Gang has enjoyed baby zucchini, zucchini blossoms dipped in tempura batter, zucchini bread, zucchini and potato pancakes and ratatouille up the kazoo. All this from just one plant.

Momma used to make a dish of sliced cucumbers with buttermilk, sour cream and dill that always tasted so good. I compromised and took some baby zucchini, sliced them as thin as Momma's cucumbers and did the same. Simply out of this world.

Next week, I get out the old Foley Food Mill and begin the annual Janes "puttin' up the salsa" week. About 5 pounds of onions, equal amounts of tomatoes and peppers, not to mention a basket of garlic gets simmered and jarred for those snowy winters eves when you need a little warming up.

If you have a garden, no matter what size, and you still haven't discovered the joys of finding free pay dirt every spring, now is as good a time as any to begin composting. The library has loads of information, as do all the environmental chapters in the area.

This is my first year reaping the rewards of last year's leaves. And if my pumpkins, spaghetti squash, tomatoes, zucchini and herbs are any indication, you just can't beat what you make yourself!

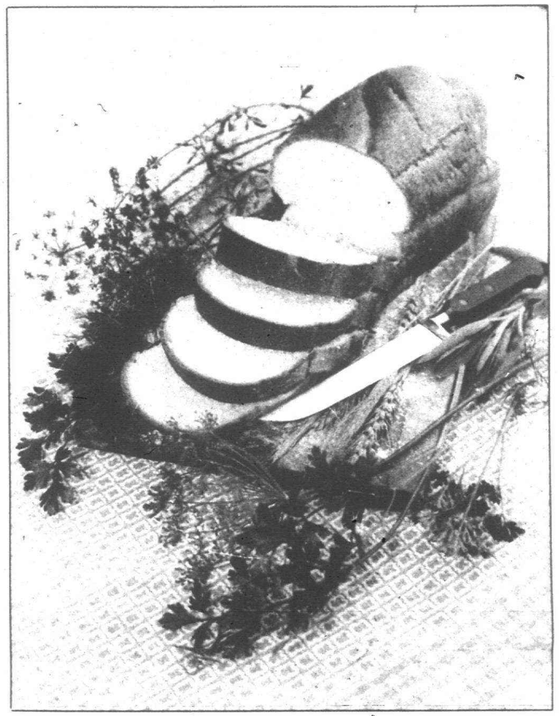
Herbs and spices lend flavor and scent to bread recipes

By Marty Figley
special writer



Garden fresh herb bread surrounded by dill, sage, parsley, thyme, wheat flour and dry sprigs of wheat and rye.

JERRY ZOLYNSKY
staff photographer

BREAD! JUST the word suggests a picture of bread baking in the oven and the aroma wafting throughout the house. With herbs, fresh or dry in the mixture there is a provocative aroma, and the flavor is exquisite.

Bread has been a staple food for centuries; grains used for this purpose have been found dating back 25,000 years. Most every country has a bread suitable for their cuisine, culture and climate.

Wheat, rye, bran, buckwheat, rice, amaranth and others, or a combination of these grains, are used for bread-making. Whole-grain breads are gaining in popularity because they are healthy and give such unique texture and taste.

Of all the grains commonly used, wheat contains the highest amount of gluten (a protein) which, when mixed with water, forms an elastic network to help the dough rise. Many bakers prefer unbleached flour to bleached.

YEAST IS a key ingredient in bread-making and is activated when it is mixed with a sweetener such as sugar, honey or molasses. When it is then mixed with the flour a fermentation process begins.

It isn't clear whether the Chinese or the Egyptians first used yeast, but it is the most common leavening agent for bread. Others are eggs, baking powder, baking soda and starters. . . mixes that were kept for years by the homemaker for this purpose.

On the other hand, salt slows down this action. It also brings out the flavor of the bread. Whether butter, lard, oil or margarine, or a combination, lubricates the gluten in the dough and facilitates rising. It also adds flavor, richness and tenderness. When milk (butter or sweet) is used, the loaf is softer than bread made without it.

Kneading develops the gluten and incorporates air into the dough, causing carbon dioxide to form. This makes the dough rise. After the first rising, it is sometimes necessary to punch the dough down to redistribute the yeast and let it work again before baking.

One grain, amaranth, is new to me. It is very high in protein and is available as an un-hulled whole-grain, a finely-ground flour and and in pasta. Substitute ¼ cup of this flour for all-purpose flour for a fresh and unusual flavor. Look for it in health food stores.

Just about anything can be added to bread dough. Fruits, nuts, meats, cheeses, vegetables and wine enhance the flavor, as do many herbs.

TRY ONE or more of the following: basil, chives, dill, garlic, marjoram, parsley, rosemary, saffron, sage, savory, tarragon or thyme. Herb seeds also add their special pizzaz. Anise, caraway, cumin, dill, fennel, poppy and sesame are possibilities. Ground spices such as cinnamon, nutmeg, and coriander also change the taste and are fun to try.

There is no set way to incorporate herbs into breads. Dried herbs can be mixed with the dry ingredients; fresh or dried herbs can be mixed with the liquid or infused in the oil before they are mixed with the dough.

Kneading herbs into the dough will also work. A pinwheel effect can be achieved by sprinkling them over the dough when it is flattened and rolled, before it is put into the pan.

As a general rule, use a tablespoon of dried herbs or ¼ cup of fresh for each loaf. Used alone or in combination with others, herbs can help you make a bread to suit your own palate.

Here are some combinations to get you started: equal parts sage (or garlic chips, oregano) and parmesan; equal parts basil and chives; one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg with a half tablespoon of thyme; or plain parsley added to the dough. . . all are good. A quarter cup of rosemary is also recommended.

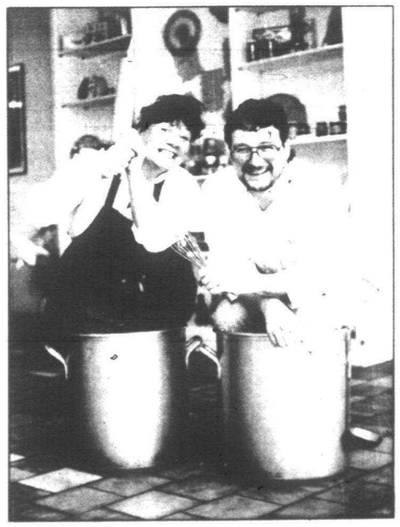
BECKY, OF Becky's Oven in Royal Oak serves the wholesale and retail trade. She told me that when onions are put in bread a bit of garlic will sweeten the flavor. For two loaves, use less than ¼ teaspoon garlic and ⅛ cup of dehydrated onion flakes, or ¼ cup fresh onion.

Dave Auer, of Baking by the Auers in Southfield (also wholesale and retail), uses only fresh herbs and ingredients. He makes bread using rosemary, basil and red and yellow peppers.

Jim Maier, Executive Chef, Henry Ford Museum, Greenfield Village, suggests sprinkling the herbs used in the bread on top of the loaf before baking. If the top is lightly brushed with water or egg and water, the herbs or seeds will adhere better. To add crunch to some breads, cornmeal is sprinkled on the bottom of the pan.

Breads can be made quickly using one bowl; or at a more leisurely pace (especially when yeast is used). Whether you begin with frozen dough or a box mix or start from scratch, experiment and enjoy. Bread making has been around for a long, long time, and many wonderful meals can be planned around this simple food.

Chill out with pasta



Sometimes Janet Bondar and Frank Blair get a little too involved in their work. The two are owners of Francois' Gourmet to Go in Farmington Hills.

What could be more "summer" than a refreshing plateful of chilled pasta salad?

"It's good, healthy food and fairly inexpensive," said Frank Blair, 30, who sings the praises of the versatile pasta salad.

Blair and his partner, 31-year-old Janet Bondar, operate a Farmington Hills restaurant called Francois' Gourmet To Go. The pair have made pasta salads the centerpiece of their summer lineup.

A PASTA salad can be made with any kind of noodle, cooked al dente — until it offers slight resistance to the bite. Once cooled, it can be garnished with carrot slivers or broccoli, olives, sweet onions or any desired vegetable. Toss in some diced meat, cheese or seafood, if you wish.

The crowning touch is a coat of glistening, zesty vinaigrette dressing. The result: an easy, tasty summer meal or tempting side dish.

Blair likes to combine fresh herbs and special ingredients such as pea pods and shiitake mushrooms, along with the pasta and dressing.

"People want something fresh and something different," Blair said.

Francois' Gourmet To Go, which opened almost 1½ years ago, is in Muirwood Square, at Grand River and Drake. Although there is seating for around 20 people, the bulk of the business is in carryouts.

BLAIR TAGGED his restaurant with the name Francois to reflect his upscale goals. Francois is the French equivalent for Frank.

Bondar, 31, of Farmington Hills, is a former banquet sales manager for a local hotel.

Blair is a former maitre 'd for several hotel dining rooms. He also worked as manager for a catering firm and prepared sauces at a local restaurant, now closed.

Blair's style is "fusion cooking," which he defines as blending regional spices and ingredients to create exciting new combinations.

"If something looks good and smells good, chances are it tastes good," Blair said.

The restaurant's popular shrimp salad Oriental combines linguini or angel hair pasta with cooked shrimp, pea pods, red onions, chunk pineapple, shiitake mushrooms, toasted almonds and baby corn ears.

The dressing is a spicy mixture of fresh ginger, garlic, teriyaki sauce, pepper, curry powder, lemon juice and oil.

Blair uses fresh pasta. He often mixes two kinds of oil for a richer blend. Potato salads are made with redskins. His Caesar pasta has sun-dried tomatoes, capers, red onions and parmesan cheese.

A NEW, chilled bean salad, which provides protein and fiber, is a nutritional powerhouse.

"If you are taking the meat out, you have to put in some protein," Blair said. "That comes from the beans."

The salads range in price from around $3 to $3.75 for a half-order and from $5.50 to around $7 for a full order.

The restaurant features a number of other specialties, including several hot pasta dishes, grilled chicken, and spicy blackened meat.

Catering also is available, and the restaurant has served a variety of functions, especially office parties and business meetings.

Francois' Gourmet To Go is in Muirwood Square, Grand River Ave. and Drake, Farmington Hills. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Mon.-Sat., and 3 to 8 p.m., Sun. For information, call 471-8618.

DILLICIOUS BREAD IN A CASSEROLE

This light-textured bread is great to serve with a hearty soup. The "secret" ingredient is cottage cheese.

1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
1 cup creamed cottage cheese
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon softened butter or margarine
2 teaspoons dried dill weed
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 egg beaten
2 ¼ to 2 ½ cups all-purpose

Soften yeast in warm water. Heat cottage cheese to lukewarm and combine with yeast mixture. Add remaining ingredients, except flour, and blend together.

Add enough flour, in several additions, beating well after each, to form a stiff dough. Cover with buttered wax paper and a linen towel. Let rise in warm place (80-90 degrees) until light and double in size, about 50-60 minutes.

Stir down dough and turn into a well-buttered round ceramic or glass casserole (1 ½ - 2 qt. size). Cover and let rise again in a warm place until light, about 30-40 minutes.

Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 40-50 minutes until golden brown. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle lightly with salt. Remove from casserole and cool on rack. Serve warm. Makes one round loaf.

HERBED BREAD FROM A BOX

The herbs can be changed to suit your taste.

1 pkg. (13 ¾ oz.) hot roll mix
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon sage (or rosemary)
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon oregano (or marjoram)

Mix hot roll mix as directed on label, add seasonings with flour mixture. Cover with cloth and let rise in a warm place about 40 minutes or until doubled in size. Punch down and roll or pat into a 9 x 5 inch rectangle; place in a greased loaf pan 9x5x3 inches. Cover and let rise 30 minutes. Bake in 375 degree oven 35-40 minutes or until done. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Makes one loaf.

GARDEN-FRESH HERB BREAD

The combination of herbs inn this recipe can be changed to use herbs growing in your garden.

2 cups warm water
2 pkgs. active dry yeast
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup oil
3 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh chives
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh dill
2 tablespoons parmesan cheese
3-3 ½ cups unbleached all-purpose flour

Combine first three ingredients and let set 3-5 minutes to activate yeast. Stir in the next four ingredients and beat well. Blend in the herbs and cheese. Gradually add the remaining flour; turn out on a floured board and knead until smooth. Place in a greased bowl, turning once to grease the top. Cover and let rise until double in bulk 45-60 minutes. Knead dough down in bowl and divide in half. Shape into loaves and put in 9 x 5 inch rectangle pans, or shape into balls and put into round pans (well-greased). Cover and let rise until almost doubled 30-45 minutes. Bake 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves.

FRANCOIS' SUMMER BEAN SALAD

½ cup black beans
½ cup garbanzo beans
½ cup navy beans (Great Northern)
½ cup lentils
½ cup pinto or kidney beans
¼ cup diced red peppers
¼ cup diced green peppers
¼ cup diced bermuda onions
¼ cup basil vinaigrette dressing (see below)
salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon fresh basil
1 teaspoon garlic, minced
1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar

Prepare beans. Heat to a boil and simmer 1-2 hours depending upon the beans. Rinse and reserve. Canned beans may be substituted to minimize preparation time. Don't cook all beans together because they have different cooking times. If canned beans are used, rinse them with cool water. In a large bowl combine beans, peppers, salt, pepper, garlic, dressing, onions, basil and vinegars. Garnish with more basil and serve over lettuce or as a cool side dish.

BASIL VINAIGRETTE

½ teaspoon garlic, minced
½ teaspoon shallots, chopped
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
1 tablespoon fresh basil
salt to taste
½ teaspoon cracked black pepper
½ cup olive oil
½ cup salad oil

Combine first seven ingredients in mixing bowl. With whisk, mix vigorously. Slowly add oils to emulsify. Yield 1 cup.

SHRIMP SALAD ORIENTAL

10-12 medium shrimp, cooked
½ cup pea pods
½ cup red onions, diced
½ cup chunk pineapple
½ cup shiitake mushrooms, cut in julienne strips
2 tablespoons toasted almonds
½ cup baby corn ears
½ pound pasta, cooked (linguini, angel hair or cellophane noodles)
½ cup oriental vinaigrette (see below)

Combine all ingredients in bowl. Chill and serve. Serves 4.

ORIENTAL VINAIGRETTE

1 teaspoon fresh ginger, chopped fine
1 teaspoon garlic, crushed
¼ cup teriyaki sauce
½ cup red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon fresh cilantro
dash cayenne pepper
dash white pepper
dash curry powder
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon sesame oil
1 cup salad oil

Combine first nine ingredients in a mixing bowl. Mix with whisk vigorously. Slowly add oils to emulsify or use food processor. Yield 1 ½ cups.

JANES GANG TOMATO SALSA

2 cloves garlic, peeled and chopped fine
4 chile peppers, broiled
¼ teaspoon sea salt
1 pound tomatoes
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped red, green or yellow peppers
½ cup loosely packed cilantro, chopped

Blend the garlic, chiles and salt together to form a paste. Gradually add the tomatoes, grinding well after each addition. Stir in the onion, peppers and cilantro. This is a simple sauce made to be eaten the same day. The sauce can be cooked by heating two tablespoons of oil in a large non-mettalic saucepan and adding the first three ingredients. Then add the remainder and cook for 20 minutes or until thickened and reduced by ¼.

Planets less visible this month

skywatch
Raymond E. Bullock

This month is going to be a slow month, astronomically speaking. Of the five naked-eye planets, only Saturn will be easy to see in the morning sky. Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter can be seen only with difficulty; they all appear close to the sun this month. The highlight will be the annual Perseid (PER se id) meteor shower.

The amount of sunlight we receive in August decreases by one hour and 16 minutes. On Aug. 1, the sun rose at 6:29 a.m. and set at 8:57 p.m. for a possible 14 hours and 28 minutes of sunlight. On Aug. 31 these times are 7:01 a.m. and 8:13 p.m., which permits 13 hours and 12 minutes of sun.

New Moon was at 10:28 p.m. on Aug. 9. The moon is located between the earth and the sun and is not visible.

One of the year's best meteor showers, the Perseids (PER see ids), reaches its peak on the mornings of Aug. 12 and 13. Meteor showers are named for the constellation from which they appear to radiate, in this case Perseus. The Perseid shower will be especially nice this year because there will be no moon in the sky scattering light. The darker the sky, the more meteors you can see.

Meteors are more commonly known as 'falling stars' because they look like little stars falling from the sky. Some American Indians thought they were stars running from danger. But they have nothing to do with stars; meteors are rocks falling out of the sky.

But in space there are rocks, stones, grains of dust, and other rubbish tumbling around. If one of these objects falls into our atmosphere it heats up because of friction, burns, and gives off light. A patient skywatcher can expect to see a few sporadic (occasional) meteors any clear night.

Many of these meteors are orbiting around the sun in well-defined orbits. They may be trailing along as the debris of a comet, or they may be the remains of a comet that disintegrated long ago. When the earth passes through the orbit of a meteor swarm, many more meteors than usual can be seen, and we can predict precisely when that will happen.

THE PERSEID swarm is one of the richest. A patient observer can expect to see an average of 50 meteors every hour, which is about one every minute. The best meteor display occurs between 2 a.m. and sunrise. Although Perseus is nearly overhead, the meteors can appear in any part of the sky. Their trails can be traced back to Perseus.

Meteors burn up about 20 miles above the surface of the earth, but if an exceptionally large meteor fails to burn completely, it could strike the earth and produce a crater. Most of Earth is covered with water, so any meteor impact is more likely to produce a big splash than a big crater. Is it possible to be hit by a meteor? The chances of that happening are "astronom-ical."

The bright star above and to the left of the moon on the evening of the 13th is Spica (SPY ka). This is the brightest star in the constellation of Virgo. Spica is about 275 light years away.

Notice the moon's position on the evening of the 14th. It is now below and to the left of Spica. The motion of the moon in just one day is very apparent when it passes a bright star or planet.

The moon is approaching the star Antares (an TAR ees) on the evening of the 17th. Antares is the bright orange-red star to the left of the moon. One night later the moon has passed Antares.

Jupiter is officially in conjunction with the sun on the 17th. It is located behind the sun, as seen from the earth, and is not visible. Late in the month it emerges into the morning sky.

MERCURY is at inferior conjunction with the sun on Aug. 21. It is located between the earth and the sun. On the next day, Venus is at inferior conjunction. Don't worry about collisions occurring during all these conjunctions; the planets are millions of kilometers apart.

You can use the moon on the evening of the 22nd to locate Saturn. Saturn is two degrees to the south (right) of the moon. Saturn's beautiful ring system is easily visible through a small telescope.

Full Moon occurs at 5:07 a.m. on Aug. 25. The moon is fully lighted by the sun and will set in the southwest as the sun rises in the northeast. On the evening of the 25th the moon will rise in the southeast as the sun sets in the southwest. It will rise in the early twilight during the next three nights as well, resulting in the "Harvest Moon" effect that occurs next month.

Mercury, Venus and Jupiter are officially morning objects by the end of the month, but they are very close to the horizon and will be difficult to see. You might want to use binoculars and give it a try. Look toward the east northeast, about 30 minutes before sunrise on the 29th. Venus will be six degrees to the left of due east, just barely clearing the horizon. Mercury will be four degrees to the left of Venus and four degrees above the horizon. Jupiter will be four degrees to the left of Mercury, but only two degrees above the horizon. You have to have a clear, unobstructed horizon to have any hope of seeing these three planets. (A spectacular grouping will occur on September 10.)

The moon is back in Taurus on the evening of the 31st.

Look toward the east northeast around 11:45 p.m. and you'll see the Pleiades rising above the nearly last quarter moon.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly Sky Calendar. A one year subscription is $6 and is available from the Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing, 48824.

The Perseid shower will be especially nice this year because there will be no moon in the sky scattering light. The darker the sky, the more meteors you can see.

Giddyap, city slickers, dude the ranch thing

Area residents saddle up in Wyoming

Julie Candler of Birmingham joined other local travelers recently in Laramie, Wyoming.

By Julie Candler
special writer

You may be met by Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid if you visit the Wyoming dude ranch known as the Vee Bar. The sturdy pair of Belgian horses will provide an old-fashioned Western-style welcome by hauling a hay wagon to meet the train from Laramie.

The railroad line is the Wyoming/Colorado, built in 1887 to run to the tiny gold-mining town of Centennial just a couple of miles beyond the Vee Bar.

As our group leaves the train and climbs aboard the wagon where bailed hay perfumes the air, we are greeted by a handsome man in a cowboy hat. He is Duane Harm, formerly seen in Michigan doing commentaries on WJRT-TV in Flint, which he managed in the mid-'60s.

After Harm signals a giddyap to Butch and Sundance, the two horses bounce us through tall yellow prairie grass. We clomp across lands where the Sioux and Cheyenne once rode near a marker that says, "Overland Trail, 1862-1868."

A CAREFUL observer sees ruts left by pioneer wagon wheels. Everywhere we look, the horizon is lined with mountain ranges. If we watch closely, we can see antelope, deer and elk on nearby hills.

Butch and Sundance slow to cross a narrow wooden bridge. The rippling, rock-bottomed river below us is the Little Laramie, well-known to local trout fishermen. Just beyond, a huge log structure is the barn where horses were stabled when the Vee Bar was a stage coach stop. Alongside is a corral filled with beautiful saddle horses.

After a turn, we see the lodge, built 114 years ago and once a guest house for weary overland travelers. Inside, the walls seem to emit the ghostly figures of hardy homesteaders and settlers who once stayed here.

Harm retired last year from a career in TV management and bought the 870-acre Vee Bar. He and his partner, wife Susan, turned it into a dude ranch because "we wanted to be with people, as well as horses."

Now people come to ride horseback over 26,000 acres of plains and mountain trails. They also fish, hike, eat good food, shoot trap, go tubing on the river, play horseshoes and volleyball.

THE HARMS have renovated the lodge and added a roomy area where people can relax, around a big stone fireplace. Susan used her talent as a professional decorator to add color and coziness to the three cabins and 10 guest rooms, each with a bath.

Among recent guests in these rooms were sportscaster Curt Gowdy, his wife and daughter. Wyoming Governor Michael Sullivan stopped by the Vee Bar recently for a quiet getaway. Vicki Lange of Birmingham and Dutton Morehouse of Bingham Farms are here for a tour and outdoor barbecue with our group.

In winter, skiers using the nearby Snowy Range's 23 runs stay at the Vee Bar. Corporations and groups move in for secluded seminars and conferences.

But the Vee Bar's biggest attraction is 30 beautiful riding horses. "We work hard to pick the right horses," says Harm. "We look for gentle, well-trained horses that know how to be ridden."

Horseback riding and all other ranch activities, plus three meals a day, are included in the Vee Bar's daily rates ranging from $95 a day for one person to $432 for five people.

IF YOU come to the Vee Bar for a week, your riding skills will be assessed and a horse that suits you (with Western saddle) will be yours for your entire stay. You and your horse can go on breakfast, lunch or dinner rides, where guides stop along the trail and prepare food flavored by delicious mountain air. Or you can choose to ride to a picturesque spot in the hills for tenting overnight.

Guests say they prefer the down-to-earth atmosphere at the Vee Bar to what they call "yuppie ranches" with condos and golf courses. Other dude ranches in the area are also serious about horseback riding and outdoor living.

Contact Vee Bar Guest Ranch, on Highway 287, 27 miles south of Laramie, by calling (307) 742-6072. Contact Laramie Area Chamber of Commerce, 800 S. Third St., Ste 200, Laramie, Wyo. 82070 or telephone toll-free (800) 445-5305.

Duane and Susan Harm turned the Vee Bar in Laramie, Wyo., into a dude ranch.

3 Michigan travelers reach mountain top

Three Michigan travelers climbed the three miles from Lake Marie, at 10,000 feet elevation, to the highest peak in the Medicine Bow National Forest, at 12,013 feet, for a great mountain-top view of Laramie. In the group with writer Julie Candler of Birmingham was Vicki Lange of Birmingham and Dutton Morehouse of Bingham Farms.

About two miles up, the trail turned into piles of huge boulders to scramble up. Leading the group on was Shirley Nielsen, an experienced climber. Another seasoned mountain person, Sandra Rardin, was assigned to the rear, to help the stragglers.

"I seldom saw Shirley," Candler said. "I nearly caught up to her when she stopped for a breather once, but then she moved ahead. But I saw a lot of Sandra. I kept asking her, 'Are we almost there?'"

"With lungs that wouldn't adjust to the altitude, I was the last of the group to huff and puff to the top. Without the helping hands of Sandra and another veteran climber named Dick Reddeck who carried my pack, I never would have made it. The view from the top was worth the struggle."

Birmingham writer Julie Candler catches her breath on the mountain top looking down on Mirror Lake.
