Assessment stirs residents

The township has postponed action on a plan to pave a stretch of Haggerty Road. Affected residents would be assessed thousands of dollars to pay for the project, and several of them have objected. Others like the idea. Officials hope a compromise can be reached.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

The Canton Township board delayed its plan last week to pave Haggerty Road between Palmer and Michigan Avenue after several residents complained about impending financial hardship.

A woman whose husband is retired told the board, "We cannot afford this (special assessment for paving). This is going to hurt us terribly."

Attorney Gerald Deans, representing Sharon and Mike Bishop, said "What you're proposing to assess them ($35,000 including interest over 10 years) is too heavy a burden on them." Deans argued further that paving Haggerty would reduce the value of the Bishops' property.

"The Bishops would like to continue to live in peace without the government continually tapping them on the shoulder and saying, 'This is what we're going to do for you,' " the attorney said.

The township was petitioned by just five of the 14 property owners on that stretch of Haggerty asking that the road be paved. However, the law says you only need the say-so of property owners controlling 51 percent of the front footage to form a special assessment district. Hagg II Limited Partnership alone owns more than half of the property in question.

Hagg II representative Stanley Frankel was the only person to speak in favor of the paving at last week's meeting.

Four other property owners wrote letters of protest. Mary Etta and Charles Kreklau wrote that they will be forced to sell their property if the special assessment is approved. Kreklau would have to pay $33,000 over 10 years.

Taddeus Markowski wrote, "Persons of limited income will be forced to sell their property at below property value or risk losing the property due to high taxes and assessments." Markowski would pay $33,000 over 10 years.

The township board put off action on the paving project to see if something can be done to make it more palatable to the angry property owners. "Legally, we could have gone forward because (the nine opposed property owners) are in the minority," clerk Loren Bennett said. "We really need to look at this issue, but the road definitely needs paving."

Township engineer Tom Casari estimated the cost of the project would be $1.4 million.

"This is roadkill," said Pamela Falzon Diponio as she held up the skull of a crow at the Liberty Fest Saturday. "I was lucky the car didn't hit his head."

Diponio, who runs a Plymouth Township animal skull store, was one of many artists who filled two giant tents with their paintings and such last weekend.

Next she held up a large bone that was reputedly removed from the back end of a buffalo. "He was a big buffalo," she exclaimed. "This guy came up to me this morning and said, 'Is this a big shark's tooth?' "

Diponio displayed her collection of heads in a newly purchased authentic buckboard wagon. "The skull business was good the last couple years," she revealed.

Just a short walk from Diponio's heads one finds hair stylist Eric Swearengin and his collection of paintings. Asked where he's from, Swearengin replied, "I'm an American."

Moving on, one encounters Plymouth resident Larry Clark vending a gang of humpback whale renderings. Why whales? "People were buying whales, so I decided to paint them," Clark said.

Then there's the famous painting by Julie Giordano of a miniature doberman apparently about to bite off a cat's head. Giordano heard so many complaints from animal-rights wackos that she titled the painting "The Dog is Yawning."

Budget hangs on vote

Plymouth-Canton school officials are holding their breath in anticipation of Tuesday's state House vote on school aid.

The Plymouth-Canton schools could lose $1.6 million if the House limits per-student aid, state Social Security contributions and tax-base sharing credits, and alters the formula for adult education grants.

All of the measures were contained in a bill approved narrowly Thursday by the state Senate.

"There (are) some big losers: Livonia, Grosse Pointe, Plymouth-Canton, and I don't see any other district gaining too much," said Don Manthe, associate superintendent of the Wayne County Regional Education Service Agency.

The bill's approval stunned many area school districts.

"We're hopeful something can be done in the House, but we honestly thought we had our best chance in the Senate," said Michael Furlong, finance director for the Livonia Schools.

Livonia expects to lose $3.9 million if the bill passes in the Houses.

Plymouth-Canton officials weren't available for comment Friday.

The state action comes on the heels of voter rejection in Plymouth-Canton of a 1.5-mill property tax increase. That rejection forced the schools to plan for $4.9 million in cuts, including a reduction in the number of teaching positions by 56.5. Also to be cut are five administrators, three clerical workers, 10 teaching aides, 13 maintenance workers and 2.2 special education positions.

The school board is expected to approve the cuts at its meeting tonight.

Out-of-formula districts — those that receive state aid only for specific programs — are considered the biggest losers. Poorer in-formula districts could see an increase in state aid, and the action is also expected to help balance the state budget.

Talk, talk, talk

It's a bit unusual, but state Rep. Jim Kosteva, D-Canton, has challenged his challengers to a debate.

Although unopposed in the August primary, Kosteva will face one of two Republicans, Debbie Whyman or Dan Calabrese, in the November election.

"I am asking the press and civic organizations to help coordinate the times and facilities to host these debates," Kosteva said. "It is necessary to give voters as much knowledge as we have about the issues in order for them to make their choice for state representative."

Aussie joint opens

Canton residents pining for a class restaurant in town should be overwhelmed to hear that something called the Outback Steakhouse has taken over a piece of property on Ford Road and set up an Australian restaurant there.

The place opened Tuesday with an Australian decor and menu featuring things like "Aussie-Tizers," steak, chops, ribs, chicken, seafood, pasta and a full-service bar.

If you really like the food there and think the company is sure to prosper, you can buy stock in it. Outback trades on the NASDAQ exchange under the symbol OSSI for almost $29 a share (as of Monday).

Concrete board action

The Canton Township Board approved the installation of a sidewalk on the west side of Canton Center Road from Joy to Plum Hollow.

The idea is to keep pedestrians, particularly high schoolers, from walking on the shoulder of Canton Center. The sidewalk will be built by LaRocca Inc. for about $32,000. Five other companies bid on the job, but LaRocca's bid was lowest.

The board also approved spending about $69,000 to repair, install and/or replace sidewalk in Carriage Hills subdivisions I and II. The job will be done by Italia Construction and is expected to be completed in early August.

Finances exaggerated, resident says

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A Wayne-Westland school district resident Monday questioned whether officials exaggerated the district's financial plight last year to win voter approval of a 7.75-mill tax increase.

Jerry Mercier, noting that the district had a $4.4-million surplus last June, accused school officials of earlier predicting the district would be virtually broke.

Mercier, saying the district's financial plight was exaggerated before voters approved the tax increase in June 1991, renewed his concerns Monday as the board decided to levy the 7.75-mill increase for a second year.

The board will have to win voter approval next June to continue to levy the 7.75 mills.

Despite the $4.4-million surplus, the district needed the tax increase to continue a full instructional program, transportation, athletics and other programs and services, Deputy Superintendent Thomas Svitkovich told Mercier.

Board member Leonard Posey also pointed out that the tax increase helped pay for nearly $1 million that the district has spent on new textbooks, "and we still feel there's much to be done in this area."

But Mercier told school officials they were missing his point. He said he doesn't oppose the instructional program, but merely wanted to point out that he believed the district's financial woes had been exaggerated to win support for the tax increase.

Board member Laurel Raisanen told Mercier she agreed that the public had received some wrong impressions.

But board member Kathleen Chorbagian said she never recalled predictions that the district would be "flat broke" — as Mercier said he had been told. And she indicated that Mercier had misconstrued what officials had said.

That sparked a response from another audience member, Rosemary Miller of Wayne, who said she was "appalled" at board members "attacking" audience members, namely Mercier.

Miller also accused school officials of misleading the public on the tax issue and said "we hope it's going to end tonight."

Another district resident, Delores Lowe, told the board that taxpayers are hurting.

"Do you people understand that people are up against the wall?" she asked. "They cannot afford these high school taxes."

Schools' sewer fee plea shot down

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

A Plymouth-Canton schools agent asked Canton Township to eat $67,000 in sewer and water fees last week, but the board refused.

Acting on behalf of Superintendent John Hoben, Ray Hoedel asked five township board members (Supervisor Tom Yack was absent) to waive most of the cost of hooking up sewer and water to a new school going up on Warren Road.

Hoedel asked that the water debt service fee of $16,800 and sewer capital fee of $50,400 be forgiven. He argued that it doesn't make sense for one government body to bill another government body for services rendered because the money comes from the same place anyway.

Hoedel also reminded the board that similar fees were waived in 1986 when Hoben Elementary School was built.

Clerk Loren Bennett said that going along with what Hoedel request wouldn't be fair to Canton residents who live outside the Plymouth-Canton school district. They would be subsidizing a school district to which they don't pay taxes.

In an interview Thursday, Bennett said he's not sure if it's even legal to waive the sewer and water fees because the fees are set by ordinance.

Although Hoedel was disappointed, he wouldn't complain about the board's conduct. "They treated everything quite fairly as far as (being) cordial and nonthreatening (are concerned)," he said. "Loren Bennett is a good chairperson."

den City.

Major proposed changes include:

● Per-student aid — those 18 to 20 with high school diplomas would no longer be counted, cutting aid to districts with aggressive adult education programs.

● Adult education — In an additional change, certain classes — known as "slot-funded" — would no longer be automatically financed. Instead, money for these programs would be placed in new, competitive grant programs with payment capped at $25 million.

● Social Security — State payments would be limited under a complex formula based on enrollments.

● Tax-base sharing — Payments are suspended pending outcome of a suit involving Macomb County.

tion edifice, Oakwood Hospital personnel were administering free cholesterol tests, but business hardly boomed. "We called in the police to help us round up a few more customers," said a nurse who called herself Bunny Rabbit.

Considering that four Canton cops tested out with low cholesterol, Rabbit said, "I wonder if the Plymouth police could say as much. Inquiring minds want to know. We could have a competition."

Seeing as how the nurses got their lunch from McDonald's that day, Rabbit warned, "Do as we say, not as we do. We're not here to set a good example. We're just doing our job."

A short stroll across the parking lot found Canton police officer Tammy Colling holding forth with a gaggle of crumb crunchers. Colling passed out plastic "junior police" badges, demonstrated the police car siren and got a balloon string caught in her handcuffs while showing a kid what it's like to be arrested.

A little girl sitting in the prowl car turned to a man, presumably her father, and said, "You're under arrest!"

Other cops busied themselves fingerprinting children just in case they get abducted someday. Firefighters showed off their fancy new truck, one of them boasting that it can turn as tight as an ambulance.

Over in the artsy-craftsy tent, tarot-card reader Kathy Badillo sold water-balloon yo-yos while waiting for customers. "I'll get more business this afternoon with the older crowd," she said. "I do a lot of divorced men."

The Liberty Fest's classic car show was a hit too, attracting more tricked-out old cars than Michelle Pfeiffer could by walking down Main Street in Plymouth dressed as Catwoman.

Parked vehicles robbed

CRIME

Three parked vehicles were broken into and robbed in Canton between 1 a.m. last Wednesday and 5:50 a.m. Friday.

The first robbery occurred at Club Canton on Michigan Avenue where a man had left his 1987 Ford Econoline van parked outside.

When the man returned to his vehicle, a saw worth $150 and a fish-finder worth $371 were missing.

The following day a 1989 Chevy station wagon was broken into while parked in the 1100 block of Hampshire. The thief smashed a window to get inside, then ran off with a Panasonic television set worth $500 and a Goldstar videocassette recorder worth $250.

Later that day a Canton resident reported that a thief broke a window to get inside his 1990 Ford Econoline van, which was parked in the 1300 block of Manton. A videocassette recorder worth $500 was missing.

One tough cop

A Canton police officer had to sock a belligerant 33-year-old Westland man in the face Friday after receiving a complaint about a loud radio.

The officer wrote in the police report that the Westland man was asleep in a Ford Escort with the radio playing rather loudly.

The cop woke the man up and asked for some identification. The man told the officer in an extremely unpolite manner to leave him alone.

The man tried to close his car door. The cop opened the door. The man got out of the car and punched the cop in the chest.

The cop grabbed the man and told him he was under arrest for assault. The man pulled away and tried to hit the cop again. Then the cop hit the man in the face and grabbed him. The man twisted away and tried to strike the cop again. The cop grabbed the man around the waist and pulled him to the ground.

Finally, a second officer arrived and the man was taken to the police department and locked up. The man is wanted by Wixom police for failure to show up in court on a fighting complaint.

Canton police booked the man for assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest.

Oh my!

A 26-year-old Canton woman told police she was victimized by a Belleville man who exposed his private parts to her in a parking lot.

The woman had just gotten out of her car when she noticed the 6-foot, 4-inch, 195-pound man sitting in a 1979 Cadillac with his pants down and his private part exposed. "He said nothing," the police report says. "She walked into the store and had police called."

The police found the 27-year-old man, and the victim wants to press charges.

Break-in

A 50-year-old Canton man told police someone entered his unlocked house through the garage door during the night of June 20, stole the TV set and VCR, then grabbed the keys to the victim's 1989 Ford Aerostar from the kitchen counter and drove off in the van.

Police found no fingerprints and have no suspects.

Commode eaper

A 45-year-old Canton man told police that on June 22 during the day someone stole the toilet seat from an upstairs bathroom while his wife and son were home.

stolen vehicles

Five vehicles were stolen in Canton between June 18 and 23. They were: 1988 Chevrolet Sierra, 1990 Mercury Topaz, 1989 Chevrolet S-10, 1992 Chevrolet pick-up truck, 1988 Pontiac 6000.

Driving offenses

Canton police arrested 11 people for drunken driving between June 18 and 25. Also, 15 people were arrested between June 18 and 26 for driving on suspended licenses.

Cop, man face off with guns

Police officer Scott Hughesdon and an irate Canton man faced each other with drawn and loaded guns June 19 while the Canton man held his wife in front of him as a shield, according to the police report.

Hughesdon and officers Mike Tulip and Mike Wells responded to a call from the man's daughter, who said her father was choking her mother and he had a gun.

Upon arrival at the Cornell Road house, the officers stood outside and heard the 34-year-old wife screaming for help upstairs.

Tulip kicked in the front door and the officers proceeded upstairs. Hughesdon looked inside the master bedroom and saw a man holding a loaded Ruger .357 to his wife's head, the police report says.

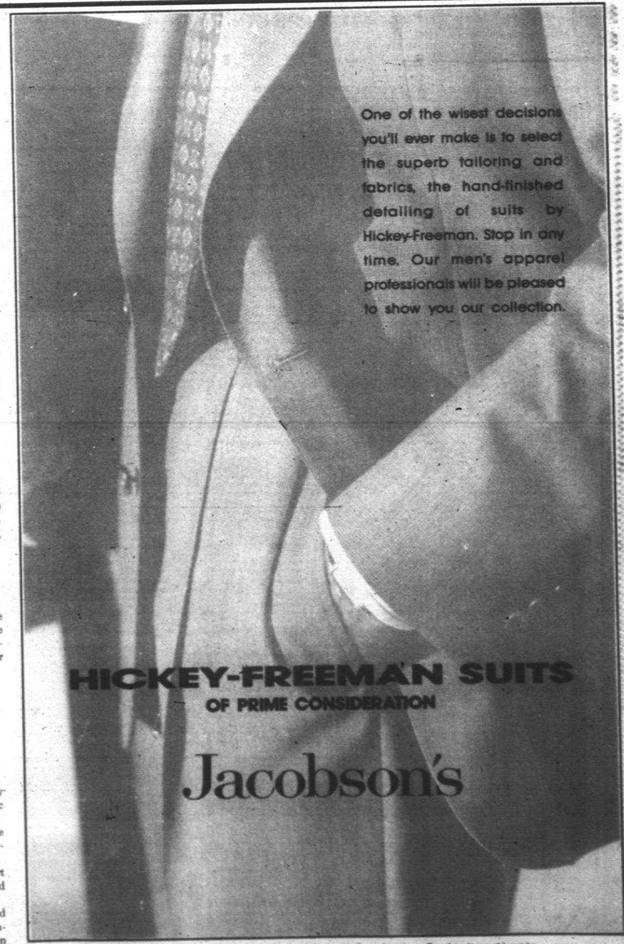

Hughesdon told the man to drop his gun. Holding his wife in front of him, the man yelled at Hughesdon to back away from the doorway, the police report says.

Officers Tulip and Wells, stationed in the hallway outside the bedroom, also drew their semi-automatic pistols and told the man to drop his weapon.

After a short, tense standoff, the man dropped the gun. Police later found it to be loaded with hollow-point ammunition.

Yet the man still resisted arrest, the police report says, and Wells damaged a tendon in his left hand while subduing him.

The suspect, Ronald Allen Burtin, was arraigned June 19 in 35th District Court for assault with a dangerous weapon and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony. A not guilty plea was entered on Burtin's behalf by the court-appointed attorney. Judge John MacDonald set bond at $100,000.

Schools to levy full tax rate

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

Amid concerns about job losses and stagnant family incomes, a Wayne-Westland school board member has suggested easing the burden on school district taxpayers by cutting their property taxes.

But the board, in a 6-1 vote, balked at board member Fred Warmbier's suggestion and decided to stall any potential tax rate cuts for at least six months. The board chose to give Superintendent-elect Larry Thomas a chance to study the district's finances.

Warmbier warned that family incomes aren't stretching as far as they did in past years and that unemployment will increase if General Motors Corp. closes the Willow Run plant in Ypsilanti.

"There are a lot of people who are just overly burdened with taxes," he said, adding later, "I think we have to show some empathy for these people."

But other board members, citing concerns about potential state aid cuts, decided to accept a request from Thomas to postpone any potential tax cuts for six months.

"At this time I feel it's premature for us to decide on the (tax) reduction," Thomas said.

A sometimes-heated dispute arose Monday as the board set a general operating tax rate of 47.1 mills, meaning homeowners would pay $47.10 in school taxes for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation.

The decision came immediately after the board approved an $83.7-million general fund budget that marked a 3.8-percent increase over last year's budget.

Warmbier cast the lone dissenting vote against the budget and the tax rate. He had opposed a two-year, 7.75-mill tax increase that voters approved last June, and he wanted to cut the tax rate Monday.

Warmbier suggested the tax increase wasn't needed last year because the district had a general fund balance of $4.4 million. The surplus has increased to about $9.9 million this year, though the board has placed $3 million of that in a special contingency fund for instructional programs and building improvements. That leaves a $6.9-million fund balance.

"If we didn't need it (the 7.75-mill increase) last year, we certainly don't need it this year," Warmbier said.

But other school officials noted that the fund balance is not exorbitant considering that the district has an $83-million budget.

Board member Kathleen Chorbagian warned Warmbier that his suggestion would hinder Thomas, who "voted to thoroughly study the district's finances before recommending any tax cut.

"You voted for him," Chorbagian told Warmbier, referring to Warmbier's support for Thomas for the superintendency. "Now you want to tie his hands behind his back."

Warmbier told Thomas that he could understand his viewpoint, but Warmbier indicated he had to remain consistent in his opposition to the 7.75-mill tax hike.

Board member Laurel Raisanen also had opposed the 7.75-mill plan last year, but she said Monday she could agree to give Thomas six months to study finances.

However, she did note that taxpayers would receive a slight tax break this year because of a 1.2-mill reduction in debt retirement that will come automatically, because the district has retired some of its debt.

A homeowner with a $65,000 house can expect only a $40 tax cut, school officials said.

"It's not huge, but it's something," Raisanen said.

Area man voted MUCC president

Robert Laich, past president of the Western Wayne County Conservation Association in Plymouth Township, has been elected president of Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Laich will oversee the activities of the conservation and sportsmen organization's 140,000 members, 453 clubs, and a budget of $5 million.

The MUCC is the largest organization of its kind in the country.

"I'm still walking on cloud nine; I'm still trying to get myself together," said Laich a few days after his election at the MUCC's 55th annual convention in Marquette.

A longtime conservationist and a resident of Westland, Laich is responsible for spearheading the effort that resulted in the Johnson Drain being cleaned to the point where the DNR this spring was able to stock it with trout.

Laich has served as MUCC Region IV vice president as well as district chairman. He was honored last year with the MUCC's Harold Hackett Award for outstanding service as a member.

Laich succeeds Robert (Bud) Slingerlend of Atlanta as president.

SC administrators receive new contract

A new three-year contract between Schoolcraft College and its administrators union was ratified last week by college trustees and union members.

The contract calls for a yearly raise of 5 percent for the coming year and 4 percent in each subsequent year for members of SCAAP — the Schoolcraft College Association of Administrative Personnel.

Average yearly wages were $51,000 in the 1991-92 school year for the 29 SCAAP members.

Health insurance deductibles are increased for single subscribers and families under the new contract.

The contract was the second settled under the college's new "target specific" bargaining strategy.

"We feel the new strategy worked very well, it let us all work out problems by giving us access to information," SCAAP director Jean Pike said.

Trustees approved the contract Wednesday after discussing it in closed session.

Host families needed now

Host families are needed from the Garden City, Westland John Glenn and Livonia Franklin attendance areas for high school students from Europe, South America and Asia for the school year beginning in September.

English-speaking students, aged 15-18, will arrive in Michigan in late August and return home either in mid-January or mid-June 1993.

Schoolcraft, OCC turn to tuition increases

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Michigan's two-year colleges are keeping their fingers crossed for a successful property tax drive Aug. 4 at Wayne County Community College.

If voters say yes to a one-mill tax increase, WC3, the only community college district in the state without a local tax, would no longer be able to draw a special $7.2 million subsidy from Lansing.

"That $7.2 million would help us all," said Schoolcraft College vice president A.B. (Butch) Rabe. "Of course, they (state legislators) don't say they will redistribute that to us."

For years state lawmakers have threatened to cut out WC3's special $10 million subsidy that none of the other 28 community colleges received. Last year they cut $1 million.

This fiscal year, a joint Senate-House conference appropriations committee cut $2 million more, leaving $7.2 million. (WC3 still gets a general fund appropriation of $14 million like all the rest.)

Otherwise, state aid to community colleges is almost flat — $240 million for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 versus $241 million in the current year.

That's about equal to the state aid Michigan State University gets.

Hidden cost hike

"Pretty slim pickin's," said Oakland Community College VP Tony Jarson, who argues there's actually a hidden cut in the bill.

"The worst part, if you look at our budget, is what they did with retirement.

"A year ago, we paid 9 percent of base salaries to retirement. In fiscal 1991-2, they (state) raised that to 11.2 percent. As of Oct. 1, 1992, it goes to 12.03 percent.

"This is a $1.2 million cost increase. We're doing worse than two years ago.

"The only segment of the budget that got nailed with these increase is community colleges.

The new state budget will send OCC $17 million, which on paper is a $300,000 increase, not counting the pension cost increase.

"We also got the property tax freeze," said Jarson, referring to the one-year moratorium the Legislature voted on raising property assessments to meet real estate inflation.

OCC has raised tuition per credit hour by $2 to $41 for residents and by $4 to $69 for non-residents.

Total OCC budget will be $69.5 million, with less than 25 percent coming from state aid.

"State aid used to be the biggest part of our budget," Jarson said.

"And we're not counting out an Engler executive order (mid-year cut in appropriations by the governor, permissible under the state constitution). We were exempt from an Executive Order last year," Jarson said.

SC on target

Schoolcraft's Rabe was pleased that the final state aid figure was about what officials at the western Wayne County college anticipated.

"We knew it would be 1 to 1.5 percent," he said. The Legislature voted a 1.65 percent increase — to $8.7 million.

There's also a restricted grant of $163,000 for "at-risk" students, Rabe said.

Schoolcraft this year raised tuition per credit by $3.50 to $40 for residents and by $4.50 to $60 for non-residents. Total budget is $31.4 million.

"Our property tax revenue will go up 1 percent — just new construction," because of the property assessment freeze, Rabe said.

New students need shots

All students who are entering a new school this fall must receive a second measles, mumps and rubella (MMR) vaccination, according to the Michigan Department of Public Health.

In May, the Michigan Department of Public Health enacted the Emergency Communicable Disease Rules and Regulations which require the new immunization standards.

According to the new law, students who are not adequately immunized will be excluded from school in the fall. Exceptions are individuals with: documented blood antibodies; proof of adequate measles protection; those on a medical or other approved waiver; and those born prior to 1957 who were likely to have been naturally infected and therefore considered immune.

Parents can make appointments with their family physician or with the Wayne County Health Department.

The health department will begin appointments on June 29. Appointments can be made by calling 467-3319.

For more information on immunization requirements, contact the Wayne County Health Department at 467-3353.

Emergency benefit program to end July 2

The federal program that provides additional jobless benefits to Michigan workers is being phased out as the program approaches its final day for accepting new claims.

"Workers who are currently receiving or who file for emergency unemployment compensation (EUC) by July 2 can draw all of their benefits, even after the program ends, as long as they meet the program's eligibility requirements," said F. Robert Edwards, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

MESC has paid out approximately $412 million in federal emergency benefits to 115,000 Michiganians since the program began last Nov. 17.

The EUC program originally allowed up to 20 weeks of benefits to those who had exhausted their state unemployment insurance. In February, the program was changed to allow for an additional 13 weeks of benefits, increasing the maximum entitlement to 33 weeks.

The phase-out of the program can affect EUC claimants differently, Edwards said. If those currently receiving EUC become ineligible or decide not to file claims for the weeks ending June 20 or 27, they will have their claims automatically reduced from a maximum of 33 down to 20 weeks.

"For the weeks of July 4 and after, workers can continue to receive EUC benefits if they meet all eligibility requirements for each remaining week in their claims," Edwards said.

"However, a claimant's EUC benefits will end once a worker is declared ineligible for any week."

Under federal EUC law, the program cannot accept any new applications for benefits after July 4. Congress is working on a new EUC bill, but eligibility details and implementation dates are not finalized.

Calling All Reading Challengers!

Be a tour guide.

Pretend that a family from another country is visiting your town, and you have been chosen to be their tour guide. Use this newspaper to plan what you will show them.

Clip photos of interesting things to see, historical sites, tourist attractions, parks and recreation areas. Look through the ads for shops and restaurants to visit. Watch for entertainment possibilities—festivals, concerts and movies. Would they enjoy a garage sale or flea market? Check the classified ads to find several garage sales that look interesting.

Paste all of your newspaper clippings into a notebook, then describe the tour you have planned to your parent guardian or another adult.

POINTS OF VIEW

Smoke screen seems more scary than rap singer

JEFFREY MILLER

It never fails to blow my mind how those who would shape opinion through use of media power get it so consistently wrong.

Those reporters, editors, publishers and news directors who seek to categorize events, those folks whose job it is to impartially deliver the facts of the day continually manage to insinuate their own bias and ideas into the story. In fact, they far too often invent issues, produce crises, provoke alienation and foster divisiveness among we the people.

Now these purveyors of negative images, these powerful men who view the world through skewed lenses, have brought into the presidential fray a non-issue like Sister Souljah. The overkill that occurred in fabricating the remarkable saga of Souljah is almost beyond comprehension.

You know the details, probably. A forum of liberal thinkers gathered back on June 13 for a Rainbow Coalition meeting hosted by the Rev. Jesse Jackson. One of the proposed speakers that day was an obscure rap singer named Sister Souljah who advocated, among other things, equal opportunity murder.

If L.A. gang members of color were killing each other every day, her twisted logic reasoned, it would be a natural extension to expand the circle of death to include those of the Caucasian persuasion.

Bill Clinton, the tarnished warrior sent into the presidential battle as the best of the Democratic Party, seized upon Souljah as his metaphor of a racially divided populace. Comparing Souljah to David Duke, Clinton said her remarks showed "how profoundly alienated and divided some of us are."

Souljah, formerly Lisa Williamson, a one-time church secretary, claimed her remarks were out of context. Her rap, she said, was framed in the mindset of a gang member. "Black deaths are all too common, and white Americans don't seem to care. Why then is this beyond belief that African American castoffs would care about the death of whites," or so she said she meant.

A furor erupted with brushfire speed. Jackson was said to have been livid at Clinton's perceived attack. Clinton was deliberate in his defense of his statement, citing his belief in higher principles and the equality of man.

Political sharks circled in high anticipation of a feeding bonanza, while in the political camps of Bush and Perot, strategists undoubtedly plotted ways to take advantage. And Souljah rapidly became a household name fulfilling Andy Warhol's late '60s prediction of the 15-minute fame game.

But a furor over what? Without question Souljah was delighted with her celebrity. Nightline, CNN, CBS, This Morning, Larry King and countless other TV outlets eagerly sought to air her views. Some compared Souljah to Louis Farrakahn. Others said she was a black Rush Limbaugh. Still others saw the flap as a slap at Jackson, a sort of put-the-boy-in-his-place. Some sneared that the Democratic Party had become a party of the disadvantaged and the underclass.

We have become overwhelmed by a deluge of information, analysis and rationale of the whole Sister mess and left unsure of how to feel. Is this something to be concerned about, we wonder, or just another media diversion?

My guess is Souljah should concern us not at all. Her frightening message of racial warfare should be dismissed as the rantings of a rap neophyte intent on make her place in the unreal underworld of rap music's fringe element.

The concern we should feel, I think, is for a media monster that willingly foments dissension and calls it news. The concern we should have is in not knowing who decides what and how we should think. The concern we must share is of a seemingly opaque information system that falsely colors our world and distorts reality.

What's behind the screen of Sister Souljah smoke? I don't know and to me, not knowing is infinitely more scary than anything that comes out of the mouth of a fledgling rap singer. What about you?

Jeffrey Miller, a Southfield resident, is producer/host of "Transition," seen locally at 8:30 a.m. Saturdays on WXON-TV 20.

He trades 'new age' television in for used golf clubs

JEFF COUNTS

Just when I thought it was safe to turn the television back on, after watching little Billy Clinton on M-TV, there was Geraldo.

Watching Clinton make his pitch to kids on the rock music video station was enough to make me swear off Democrats for a lifetime. But seeing Geraldo host a movie was enough to make me turn in the TV for a set of used golf clubs and take up the idiotic sport.

See, it wasn't just Geraldo. If I had turned the tube on during the day, I'd expect to see him whining away, creating victims and trying to show he feels for every bozo with a cause who wanders into his studio.

The trouble was that he showed up as a commentator about a movie. It was "Anatomy of Murder." A fine flick, with a good story line, set in Michigan's Upper Pensula with trout fishing as a supporting actor.

But when the Chevy truck ad was over, Geraldo's face was on the screen, and he started to whine away. An ad for the pocket fisherman would have been more appealing than this guy who had fat injected in his head to make him look younger. I've suspected the doctor slipped and injected too much.

Here are a couple of his comments: The rapist in the movie deserved to die, and the female victim should have read some books on feminism because she was acting too sexy.

Perhaps it didn't sink into Geraldo's fat head that the movie is about 30 years old and the book older than that.

But then, what should we expect from new age fat heads? They want to judge the past based on the way some people now think.

Of course, Geraldo wanted to make the woman who was raped a victim who needed counseling from feminists. In reality, there was a question left in the viewer's mind as to whether the woman consented to having sex.

It made the plot thicker but less politically correct in 1992. In the 30 years since the movie was made, we've explained all mysteries of life by making everybody a victim of something.

And that's what puts bread on Geraldo's table and fat in his head. But it's more than this bozo. It's all of us.

Because of our good natures, we suck down the lines of every bum who shows up with a sad story. The Democrats have even organized a political party around those ideas. They want to take all our money and give it to the people who whine the most.

But the Republicans aren't any better. They want to take our tax money and give it to those poor but deserving rich people who lost a couple of million in a savings and loan or who built an office building that is now empty. Just remember, if we bail out rich people, they may use that money to hire a maid or have their oil changed.

Perhaps the Republicans would be better off if they could turn Charles Keating into a victim of something and get him on a daytime TV show. He would be out of prison in a week.

I'll be checking the TV listings to see when H. Ross Perot is on.

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers who shares the sentiments of John Voelker, the author of "Anatomy of a Murder," that golf is a way to spoil a good walk.

ASPIRIN & INFLAMMATION

Aspirin remains the premier medication for treating arthritis.

Over a dozen type of arthritis drugs are on the market. The best they can claim is being as good as aspirin, but to date such statements hold no credence in the medical community.

First, aspirin counters pain more effectively than its alternatives. This capability is known worldwide, there being no marketplace where you cannot purchase aspirin for joint aches.

Second, the capability of aspirin to relieve swelling is not equaled by another drug. Aspirin opposes inflammation through the medication's ability to stop joints from producing prostaglandins. The prostaglandins are chemicals which open small blood vessels, encourage the migration of white blood cells, and stimulate these cells to produce chemicals that destroy surrounding tissue. The major anti-inflammatory alternatives base their action on trying to imitate this feature of aspirin, like any imitations, the alternatives cannot equal the efficacy of the original.

Of the anti-inflammatory drugs available for arthritis today, no other has proved better at controlling inflammation than aspirin and none have less side effects than coated aspirin. Finally, no substitute costs less than aspirin. In every way - efficiency, safety, and price - aspirin remains the drug of choice.

Navigate Cape Ann's unspoiled landscape

COURTESY OF MASSACHUSETTS OFFICE OF TOURISM

Sea watch: The Gloucester Fisherman facing the lovely harbor has been a symbol of Gloucester since it was commissioned in 1923 to celebrate the seaport's 300th anniversary.

BY KEN CARLTON
NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

Massachusetts' other cape has somehow remained both undiscovered and unspoiled.

Jutting out in the Atlantic roughly 40 miles north of Boston and 40 miles south of New Hampshire, Cape Ann has elements of virtually every New England landscape.

Wide, sandy beaches contrast with a harsh rocky coastline that surrounds the island. Deep woods are dotted with plunging granite quarries.

There are miles of rocks bordering the sea to hike along, yet the cape rises to a great enough height for picnics on a grassy knoll with expansive ocean views.

While there are a number of tiny villages and communities that make up Cape Ann, all roads lead to the two major towns: Rockport and Gloucester. Rockport is a picturesque New England village with historic bed and breakfasts, galleries and its famous crafts shopping area, Bearskin Neck, alongside Rockport Harbor.

Adjoining Gloucester is America's oldest fishing port with a working fleet that adds a rough authenticity to this community rich with local artists.

While the cape's population grows noticeably on a hot summer's day, a traffic jam by Long Island Expressway standards is unheard of and the local flavor of the two towns is not lost in a flood of tourists.

Unlike some other beach destinations Cape Ann relieves the requirement for sunny weather. The charm and variety of its two seaside towns provides more than a weekend's diversions should a good northeaster blow up (Cape Ann took a wallop last fall during "the storm with no name," but has been rebuilt admirably over the winter).

And there is hardly a turn of the road or a restaurant window table that does not provide a view that inspires early retirement.

Events

July Fourth in Rockport typifies the all-American small-town celebration. The Fireman's Parade, which begins at 6:30 p.m. and draws old-fashioned firefighting equipment from all over New England, winds through Rockport to Back Beach.

The whole town follows to the bandstand, where the local American Legion band performs a free concert. The evening culminates with a huge bonfire at Back Beach.

At the Gloucester Stage Co., at 267 East Main St., Gloucester, "I'm Not Rappaport," by Herb Gardner, will run to July 5.

"The Caretaker" by Harold Pinter, runs July 10 to Aug. 2, and "North Shore Fish," by Israel Horovitz, the company's artistic director, is Aug. 7 to Sept. 6. Tickets are $12 to $18. For more information call (508) 281-4099.

The Rockport Chamber Music Festival takes place Thursdays to Sundays in June at the Rockport Art Association, at 12 Main St., Rockport. Performances begin at 8 p.m. (at 5 p.m. on Sunday), and tickets are $14; $12 for students. For more information call (508) 546-7391.

Sightseeing

A first-time visitor will benefit from a driving tour following the circuitous State Routes 127 and 127A.

The winding two-lane road offers ocean views from one bend to the next, and depending in which direction you set off you can find yourself facing the open sea, the distant Boston skyline or the coast of New Hampshire across Ipswich Bay.

The communities of Annisquam and Lanesville are worth a detour on the north-facing shore, and the drive along Bass Rocks on Atlantic Avenue in East Gloucester provides spectacular vistas of the crashing ocean as well as a view of the twin light houses on Thacher Island.

At Halibut Point State Park, north of Rockport on 127 between Pigeon and Folly Coves, a rugged outcrop of huge boulders that slope down to the ocean provides an ideal if breezy location for hiking and picnicking.

Above the coastline you can take a walking tour of one of the huge old quarries set back in the woods. Parking is $5 a car. For more information call (508) 546-2997.

A number of boats offer whale-watching cruises April to November out of Gloucester Harbor.

One, the Yankee Fleet, operating out of Cape Ann Marina, at 75 Essex Ave., Gloucester, offers half-day excursions for $20; $12 for those under 16. Reservations are advised. For more information call (800) 942-5464.

The same fleets advertised all along the harbor front also offer deep-sea fishing trips. Prices range from $22 and up for half-day trips.

The Rockport Schooner Co., at 10 Tuna Wharf, sails the 56-foot schooner Appledore III five times a day, including a sunset cruise. The 90-minute sail costs $18 a person; $9 for children 10 and younger. For more information call (508) 546-9876.

Starting in the middle of this month Captain Ted, at Tune Wharf, offers one-hour cruises aboard the 60-foot powerboat Lady Dianne for $6 for adults; $4 for those 12 and younger. For more information call (508) 546-2889.

Thacher Island, off the coast between Rockport and Gloucester, is home to the historic twin lights, the keeper's structures and a bird sanctuary. A 23-foot boat makes two trips daily on weekends, leaving from T-wharf in Rockport.

A donation is suggested for maintenance of the island. For more information call (508) 546-2326.

If the sun is shining a day can be spent on the wide stretches of Good Harbor Beach on Thacher Road just off East Gloucester.

Wingaersheek Beach is a gentle, sandy cove ringed by rocky coastline, with a fine view of the Annisquam Lighthouse. The beach is reached by exit 13 off of Route 128 before crossing the bridge onto Cape Ann. Beach parking is usually $10 a day.

Should the weather turn New England, a walk down Bearskin Neck, Rockport, is one option. Main Street and "the neck" are filled with galleries, craft shops and charming small eating places.

Passport to travel savings: Pick the right credit card

BY EVERETT POTTER
SPECIAL WRITER

What's the single most important item a traveler should never leave home without?

A passport? Travelers checks?

For some people it's a credit card.

Now that many consumers choose to put all their travel-related expenses — airline tickets, carrental and gasoline charges, hotel and restaurant bills — on a credit card, vacations are an increasingly cash-free experience.

But not all credit cards are created equal.

Some have yearly fees, while others are fee-free; many have sky-high interest rates that can cripple a customer.

Some cards award frequent-flyer miles to shoppers who use them often. Others, including American Express cards, offer perks such as free travel insurance.

But experts say the bottom line for selecting a credit card should be money — what does the card cost and how high is the interest rate?

"Probably the best credit card you can have is a Visa or MasterCard," said Mary Beth Butler, a spokeswoman for Bankcard Holders of America, a non-profit national consumer-credit and advocacy organization based in Virginia.

Her logic is simple: "Visa and MasterCard are accepted at more locations than American Express. And you can often get them without paying a fee."

In 1990, the last year for which figures are available, Visa and MasterCard were accepted by more than 9 million locations worldwide versus 3.4 million locations for American Express.

It's largely because merchants are charged at least 4.5 percent per transaction by American Express vs. 1 percent to 2 percent by Visa and MasterCard, Butler said.

While not a lobbying organization, BHA is "the only consumer watchdog exclusively concerned with credit cards."

The group has more than 70,000 members who pay $24 a year to receive its bimonthly newsletter packed with advice on credit and savings. Members can also use BHA's consumer-action service, which works to solve their credit problems with banks, retailers and credit bureaus.

BHA has more than 20 publications on consumer credit and debt management that are available for a small charge.

For shoppers selecting credit cards, Butler singles out three good services:

• USAA Federal Savings Bank, P.O. Box 21658, Tulsa, Okla. 74121 (800-922-9092), offers a no-fee Visa or MasterCard at 12.5 percent interest.

• Arkansas Federal Credit Card Services, P.O. Box 8208, Little Rock, Ark. 72221 (800-477-3348), offers both Visa and MasterCard at 8.5 percent interest. But the annual fee is $25.

• Amalgamated Bank of Chicago, 1 West Monroe St., Chicago, Ill., 60603 (800-365-6464), offers a no-fee MasterCard at 12.5 percent interest.

For information contact BHA, 560 Herndon Parkway, Suite S-120, Herndon, Va. 22070. BHA's Low-Rate-No-Fee list of 47 banks offering the best value in credit cards is $4. To order it call (800) 327-7300.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Squeeze some lemons for lemonade, ice tea

If there was one thing I never learned from momma or a pricey cooking school, it was the art of making a true, old-fashioned lemonade and ice tea.

When you give it some thought, there are as many different ways of enjoying these lazy, hazy summer coolers as there are days in July. Upon checking the cookbooks in my library, I was surprised to see that there really is an art in preparing these drinks, lest you thought they only came from a Lipton or Wyler's jar.

There's little doubt that convenience has settled in to our society. Many companies would lead you to believe that all there is to making real lemonade is to open a can and use pre-measured scoops of a dusty powder mixed with ordinary tap water and some ice.

With servings clearly marked, what these companies call "real lemonade" is within a one-minute reach. Loaded with sugar and fructose, and claiming to have less sugar than Coke or Pepsi, these powdered pre-mixes also contain calcium phosphate to reduce caking along with artificial colors and flavors. They might be convenient, but when it comes to comparing them to "real" lemonade, the similarities end.

Frozen concentrates

Frozen concentrates are also convenient, and taste tests have shown, along with a recommendation from "The Joy of Cooking," that concentrates are best when diluted a little less than prescribed by the processor. Melting ice has the tendency to make up for that.

But when it comes to a real, homemade lemonade that not only quenches ones thirst, but also rekindles the thoughts of an earlier day of a glider on the porch and a bamboo hand fan, real homemade lemonade brings back memories of a humongous yellow crock perspiring on the soda fountain counter.

Making lemonade

These were the days when real lemonade had but three ingredients, lemons, sugar and water. "The Joy of Cooking" recommends that to the juice of one lemon (which equals about 1½ tablespoons of pure lemon juice) a cup of water or carbonated water is added along with just the slightest pinch of salt.

This cookbook bible also claims that the quality of the lemonade s much improved when the sugar and water are first boiled for two minutes, probably, in this writer's opinion, to probably make sure the sugar crystals are fully dissolved. After the syrup is cooled, the fresh-squeezed juice can then be added. The process might take 10 minutes, but, put up against anything from a can or jar, you too will agree that the flavor difference is truly noticeable.

Iced tea

When it comes to making tea, the folks from Lipton would just as soon have you opening their jar and using one rounded teaspoon from their jar of tea powder and swirling it in an eight ounce glass of water and ice. Sugar and lemon can be added as desired.

There's little doubt this makes a good glass of iced tea. But for a great glass of iced tea, start with a rounded teaspoon of tea leaves and a kettle of fresh, cold tap water brought to an immediate boil. Cold tap water is essential, because hot water from the tap has been sitting in a water tank for who knows how long.

Allow the tea leaves to mingle with the fresh-boiled water for at least three minutes, (no longer than 5), then strain, chill and pour over ice. Hard water has a tendency to produce a murky tea, so it's best to use bottled or spring for optimum results.

Sun tea and its cousin, iced tea made with cold water is a true summer favorite that lets the maker to stay away from a hot stove. Begin with four teaspoons of loose tea and to that add one quart of cold tap water.

This mixture can be allowed to "brew" overnight in the refrigerator or, in the event of a sunny day, be allowed to brew under the auspices of Old Sol himself.

Simply strain the brew after at least four hours and add ice. Again, the "Joy of Cooking" suggests you refrain from using tea bags, as the paper bags "adulterate" the flavor of the tea.

Lemon, sugar and/or sweetner is, of course, added at the request of the drinker and only at the last minute for optimum results.

So if this summer finds you longing for something more than fruit flavored water or powdery jars, the search for thirst-quenching fluids can be as easy as opening a can, with the flavor results being more spectacular

An OLD-FASHIONED Fourth

Picnic planning for America's birthday

■ Invite family and friends over for an old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic. The food can be prepared in advance so everyone can play and relax.

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

You don't hear as much about picnics as you used to. Barbecues seem to have captured the public imagination, possibly due to Americans' fascination with gadgets.

After all, for a picnic you need only food. For a barbecue, there's a limitless selection of stoves rills, charcoal, charcoal starters, exotic wood chips and utensils, not to mention asbestos mitts, motto-emblazoned aprons and funny hats.

Picnics have much to recommend them. For one thing, the food can be prepared in advance, so everybody gets a chance to play badminton, or join in the conversation.

A simple picnic for two has an aura of intimacy that, well, goes up in smoke if there's smoke. And the boisterous conviviality of a backyard picnic for everybody you know is greatly diminished if you're the person slaving over a hot grill.

When it comes to picnics, Sharon Gardner is a traditionalist.

"We invite relatives, friends, neighbors, and have a real old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic," said the Garden City resident.

"I make fried chicken the day before, as well as potato salad and a big variety of munchies — raw vegetables, potato chips, dips, so whatever diet kick you're on, there's plenty to eat.

" It's a lot of work, but at least I can have a good time and my husband, Mike, isn't locked into cooking for the crowd."

Mike gets a keg of beer and lots of pop, diet and otherwise. There's a selection of fruit juices, too, for the health-conscious.

"Although we burn up a lot of calories in exercise. We have a pool," said Sharon. "We play badminton and croquet, so adults who start out with diet pop and carrot sticks often switch to beer and potato chips before the day is over."

Preparations are a family affair. Son Kevin, 12, helps put up the badminton net, and gets the croquet set in place.

Kevin also sets traps for "critters" that can spoil the fun. He just fills plastic jugs with a few inches of sweet fruit juice. Once insects are in, it's almost impossible for them to get out.

Kevn and Mike together string small white Christmas tree lights around a few bushes in the yard. Even when it's not completely dark, they add a magical touch.

"After a day of eating and exercising and gabbing, we all sit back and let Mike entertain us with a fireworks display in the driveway," said Sharon. "He says it's a lot more fun than cooking at the grill."

Linda Wells is so charmed by picnics that she teaches classes in cooking for picnics, and for the picnic's sportier cousin, the tailgate party, at the Birmingham Community Center.

She shows students how to cook, transport and serve picnic foods, encouraging them to try non-traditional ones.

"For instance, for my picnic class, I prepared a pear and leek soup," said Wells. "Many people would never think of taking a soup to an outdoor meal. But it can be served hot or cold, and to keep it simple, you can pour it out of the thermos into a mug.

"A good main dish that can be eaten out of hand, hot or cold, is steak tortas: steak rolled in a tortilla, with salsa and guacamole. These can be cooked on site, or made up as much as three days in advance.

All in all, Wells feels picnics offer lots of possibilities.

Doughnut fun for the land of the Rising Sun

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Before she took a bite, Japanese actress Makiko Saito smelled the hot dog Olga Bondar served her at Baker Boy Donuts Inc. in Livonia. Then she started laughing, and said "yum, yum, good, good, delicious."

A Japanese film crew from Hiro Enterprises, Inc. recorded her reaction on June 22 for "Naruhodoi: The World," a popular variety program with an information, quiz format that airs 9-10 p.m. Tuesdays in Japan.

The theme of the program was "fooling the eye." Bondar's doughnut creations — hot dogs, hamburgers, fish sandwiches, french fries, and pizzas look like the real thing.

"The actress will think she's eating a hot dog or hamburger. We're going to put her on the spot," said program coodinator Mark Doerrier before Saito arrived. "We travel all over the world and make it fun for celebrities to interact with people."

Baker Boy Donuts was discovered by Hiro Enterprises, Inc. in Los Angeles where they saw a locally produced program about novelty doughnuts.

"Two months ago we got a call to ship the donuts to Los Angeles," said Chun Siev who owns Baker Boy Donuts at 11320 Middlebelt with his wife Rachel. The company liked what they saw.

"I'm really excited, Olga is wonderful," said Chun Siev, who also owns doughnut shops in Shelby Township and Allen Park. "Olga came up with the idea." Bondar, who lives in Garden City, shrugs her shoulders and says she's happy for the Sievs, who have owned Baker Boy Donuts for five years. Bondar has worked there for about eight years. "They're good, hard workers," she said.

It started out as a joke. "One customer started a joking. He'd say, 'I want a hamburger,' or 'I want a hot dog,' " Bondar who now manages the shop, was a donut finisher at the time. She frosted, filled and powdered doughnuts.

GUY WARREN/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Novelty doughnuts: Chun Siev (left), Olga Bondar and Rachel Siev enjoy a hamburger, hot dog and french fries. If you ask for a hot dog, hamburger, pizza or french fries (below) at Baker Boy Donuts, you'll get it. The doughnuts look like the real thing.

"I looked at the donuts, and my brain started working. It just went boom, boom, it went into place. It was a challenge to come up with different things."

That was about seven years ago. "They sell like hotcakes," said Bondar.

The novelty donuts cost 85 cents each. Pizzas come in two sizes, medium $8, large $10 or 85 cents a slice. If you want, they'll write happy birthday on the crust with icing.

Doughnut shop regulars, like Bernice Danduran of Redford were enjoying Baker Boy Donut's five minutes of fame too. "We have fun here, it's very pleasant, a good way to start my day. They all make you feel at home."

Chili champion busy traveling, competing

KEELY WYGONIK

Champion chili cook Marilyn Frederick and her husband Ray of Redford Township have been taking their famous "Time Bomb Chili" to different parts of the country.

On March 7, Marilyn tied for third at a competition in St. George, Fla. Next was the Heartland Cook-off in Alton, Ill. She finished eighth out of 60 cooks. A friend of theirs who wrote to me said "it was very cold, rainy and real windy along the Mississippi on April 25 the day of the cook-off. The stove kept going out, we alternated sitting in the car to get warm and keep out of the rain."

On May 2, Marilyn defended her crown as North Central Region Champion in Saline and placed third. On June 7, she went to Ontario, Canada, to compete. Her chili won first place in 1990, but placed fourth in 1992.

She was scheduled to compete in a cook-off at the Livonia Spree on June 28, and was asked to cook at two cook-offs in Illinois later in the year.

"As long as I can make a good pot of chili that the judges like, I'm happy. It's great to make the finals table at all the cook-offs we've been to. I hope my luck holds out for a few more years," said Frederick, adding she and her husband have a lot of fun at these events, and remember the money raised is for charity. "It's our way of helping out."

Here's her famous recipe. It serves six to eight.

TIMEBOMB CHILI

1½ pounds cubed pork
3½ pounds cubed beef
¼ cup Wesson oil
1 10½ can beef broth
1 10½ can chicken broth
1 can beer
1 large onion
1 large green pepper, chopped
1 large red pepper, chopped
1 banana pepper, chopped
12 cloves garlic, minced
3 14½ ounce cans Hunts tomato sauce
½ cup Gebharts chili powder
1 Tablespoon MSG
2 teaspoons salt
1 Tablespoon honey
1 Tablespoon molasses
1 teaspoon oregano
1½ teaspoon ground anise seed
1½ tablespoons ground cumin
1 tablespoon paprika
1½ teaspoon black pepper
1¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon Tabasco pepper sauce

In a large pot, brown meat. Drain excess grease. Add beef and chicken broth. Cook one half hour on simmer. Add beer. Cook one half hour longer than before and add vegetables.

While cooking meat, rub separate pot with two tablespoons of the minced garlic. Saute chopped vegetables in ¼ cup oil until soft. Add vegetables to meat mixture with tomato sauce, garlic and remaining ingredients. Stir well and bring to boil. Reduce heat and cook 1½ hours.

Betty Crocker tip of the week: Yogurt mixed with pudding and fruit makes a refreshing topping for pound cake or angel food cake.

Can safely

Canning season is almost here, and Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, says canners may have a problem with food safety unless they are using the 32nd edition of the "Ball Blue Book."

Canning methods and U.S.D.A. processing recommendations have changed in recent years. "One very reliable source of accurate canning times and methods is the 32nd edition of the 'Ball Blue Book'," said Treitman. "Most local stores that carry canning supplies also carry this inexpensive paperback book."

The Cooperative Extension Service also has the latest Ball Blue Book for sale. For ordering information, call the Food and Nutrition Hot line at 858-0904 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

CLARIFICATION

There was an error in last week's story about natural food substitutions. One tablespoon cornstarch or arrowroot, 1 tablespoon safflower oil, and ¼ cup water equals one egg.

Have old-time picnic on the Fourth

See related story on Taste front.

SHARON'S FRIED CHICKEN

12 chicken legs and thighs
flour
2 eggs, beaten with 3 tablespoons water
coarsely rolled cracker crumbs, seasoned with salt and pepper
¼ pound butter
2 cups vegetable shortening or 1½ cups olive oil

Flour all parts well, dip into beaten egg, and then roll in cracker crumbs. Chill for 1 hour, being careful to press the seasoned crumbs firmly into the chicken.

Melt the butter and vegetable shortening or olive oil in a heavy skillet or two. The fat should be about 1 inch deep. Add pieces of chicken and be sure to begin the thighs and legs skin-side down.

Cook over fairly brisk heat until nicely browned, then turn and brown the other side. Reduce the heat, and continue cooking for about 15 to 18 minutes. Cover the pan for some of the cooking. Remove chicken pieces to absorbent paper placed on a baking sheet.

FOURTH OF JULY STRIPED JELL-O

1 package strawberry Jell-O
1 package blueberry Jell-O
2 envelopes Knox Gelatin
2 cups hot water
1½ cups cold water
2 cups milk, boiled
1 cup sugar
1 pint sour cream
½ teaspoon vanilla
whipped cream
fresh raspberries, strawberries or blueberries

Assemble three mixing bowls, one for each color of Jell-O. Lightly oil a 9 x 13 glass baking dish.

In bowl No. 1, mix 1 package strawberry Jell-O with 1 cup hot water. Stir to dissolve Jell-O, and add ½ cup cold water. Pour mixture into greased dish and put into refrigerator until just set.

In a saucepan, boil 2 cups milk, and mix in 1 cup sugar. In bowl No. 2, dissolve 2 envelopes of Knox gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Add milk mixture. Set aside, cool to room temperature. Add 1 pint sour cream and ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Pour carefully, or spoon, over set red Jell-O. Put into refrigerator until just set.

In bowl No. 3, dissolve blueberry Jell-O, the same as red Jell-O. When white mixture is just set, carefully pour, or spoon, blue Jell-O on top. Refrigerate until firm.

If you have the patience, you can do all three steps all over again, ending with six alternating red, white and blue layers.

To serve, cut Jell-O mixture into cubes. Serve in sundae glasses, garnished with whipped cream, fresh raspberries or strawberries and blueberries.

INDIAN PUDDING

¼ cup cornmeal
2 cups hot milk
1 cup cold milk
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup molasses
½ teaspoon salt

Stir corn meal, a little at a time, into the hot milk and cook over low heat or in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly, for 15 minutes or until thick. Remove from heat. Mix together sugar, baking soda, salt, ginger and cinnamon, then stir into the cornmeal mixture. Add molasses and cold milk, mixing into the cornmeal mixture. Add molasses and cold milk, mixing thoroughly. Pour into a 1-quart casserole and bake in a preheated 275 degree oven for two hours. Serve warm with whipped cream and a light sprinkling of freshly grated nutmeg. Serves 6 to 8.

Indian Pudding was a dessert Abigail Adams would have served at a Fourth of July dinner. Other items on the menu included turtle soup, broiled salmon steaks or New England poached salmon with egg sauce, green peas, small broiled new potatoes in jackets, coffee and tea.

Making fresh lemonade at home — It's a fine art

See Larry Jane's column on Taste front.

LEMONADE SYRUP

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
the rind of 2 lemons, cut into thin strips
⅛ teaspoon salt
the juice of 6 lemons

Boil the sugar, water, salt and lemon strips for not more than 5 minutes. Strain the syrup and remove the peels. Store in a covered jar and add the lemon juice. To one eight ounce glass of fresh cold tap water or carbonated water, add one tablespoon syrup and two tablespoons of orange, apricot or pineapple juice. Stir and serve over ice. This recipe makes 4½ cups syrup, enough for 30 eight-oz. glasses of lemonade.

ICED TEA

1 tablespoon plus one teaspoon tea leaves
2½ cups cold tap water

Place the tea leaves in a non-reactive preheated pot. You can preheat the pot by pouring boiling water in the pot and allowing to stand for one minute. Drain all water from pot. Bring the cold tap water to a boil and immediately pour over the leaves. Allow to steep for three, but not more than five minutes. Strain tea leaves, cool and add ice, sugar or lemon, if desired. Makes 4, five to six ounce glasses of tea.

Don't wait — refrigerate to avoid food poisoning

LOIS THIELEKE

Food poisoning, not a very pleasant thought! Maybe it sounds better if we call it a food borne illness — no matter, you're sick. Approximately seven million Americans suffer from a food borne illness a year and 85 percent of them could have been avoided if food were handled properly.

According to the Center for Disease Control, these numbers have been escalating since 1980. At the right temperature, bacteria you can't see, smell or taste can multiply to millions in a few short hours and cause illness.

There are naturally occurring bacteria in the air and water, as well as on plants, animals and people so there is a chance for contamination at any stage of food production. However, the statistics show that improper handling of cooked food, under-cooking and poor sanitation are the leading cause of food poisoning. That means that virtually all food borne illnesses are preventable. Prevention of food poisoning starts at the supermarket.

Rule Number One: Buy cold foods last and get it home fast! Grocery shop and take the food straight home to the refrigerator or freezer. Don't buy foods in poor condition. Make sure when you buy refrigerated food at the store that they are cold to the touch and frozen food is rock-solid. If you live more than 30 minutes from the store bring an ice chest to keep foods cold.

Rule Number Two: When you store food, keep it safe, refrigerate! Check the temperature of your refrigerator with an appliance thermometer. The refrigerator should run 38 degrees-40 degrees F and the freezer should be 0 degrees-10 degrees below F. For the most efficient operation, keep the refrigerator fully loaded but with enough space for the air to circulate. Freeze fresh meat, poultry or fish immediately if you can't use it within a few days. Put packages of raw meat, poultry or fish on a plate before refrigerating so their juices won't drip on other food. These raw juices can contain bacteria.

Thawing food

Rule Number Three: When you prepare food, keep everything clean and thaw in the refrigerator! Since bacteria live all around us, wash your hands with soap and hot water before touching food. Bacteria live on kitchen towels, sponges and cloths so launder them frequently. Always use clean utensils and wash them between cutting different foods. Plastic or glass cutting boards are preferable to wooden ones because wood can harbor bacteria in the grooves.

Wash the lids of canned foods before opening to keep dirt from getting into the food. Also, clean the blade of the can opener after each use. Thaw frozen foods in the refrigerator, where bacteria can't multiply. Bacteria can grow in the outer layers of the food before the inside thaws. Microwave thawing is okay but the food has to be cooked thoroughly and then used right away. Never thaw food on a kitchen counter unless you want to be sick!

Rule Number Four: When you're cooking, cook thoroughly! To kill harmful bacteria, foods need to be cooked thoroughly. Eating raw or partially cooked meat, poultry, fish and eggs is taking a risky chance. Do not partially cook a food, stop and then finish cooking later as bacteria can grow between the cooking steps.

Rule Number Five: When you serve food, never leave it out over two hours! Never leave perishable foods out of the refrigerator over two hours. Bacteria that can food poisoning grow quickly at warm temperature. Discard any cooked or chilled food that has been sitting out. If you are having a party, keep cold foods on ice or in the refrigerator. Hot foods need to be kept hot to be safe, otherwise you'll have served food poisoning to your guests.

Handling leftovers

Rule Number Six: When you handle leftovers, use small containers for quick cooling! Divide large amounts of leftovers into small, shallow containers. Don't pack the refrigerator, cool air must circulate around the food container to keep them safe. Store leftovers in the refrigerator as soon as possible. Do not let food cool on the counter!

Rule Number Seven: Reheated foods should be brought to a temperature of at least 165 degrees F. Sauces, soups and gravies need to be brought to a boil before serving. Microwave leftovers using a lid or vented plastic wrap for thorough heating. The steam this creates aids in the cooking of the food.

Rule Number Eight: If you have kept the food too long, throw it out! Never taste food that looks and smells strange. The cardinal rule for all food is, when in doubt, throw it out!

A patriotic dessert — made ahead

Patriotic Parfait: Win "oohs" and "aahs" this Fourth of July holiday with a flag-waving Patriotic Parfait! This delicious dessert stars layers of creamy white chocolate mousse and assorted red and blue berries.

After a fun-filled day of picnicking and fireworks, a star-spangled dessert is the perfect Fourth of July send-off for family and friends. And best of all, it can even fit into your hectic summer schedule.

For an impressive make-ahead dessert that's ready to serve whenever you are, Patriotic Parfaits sing "I'm proud to be American!" Unbelievably simple, the only cooking required is boiling water.

Melted white chocolate is combined with sweetened whipped cream and cream cheese to make a rich, fluffy white chocolate mousse.

Layer the mousse in tall elegant glasses with mixed berries, and garnish each parfait with a small flag on a wooden pick just before serving. The parfaits will hold well in the refrigerator for up to six hours.

PATRIOTIC PARFAIT

3 ounces good-quality white chocolate, broken into pieces, or 3 ounces good-quality white chocolate morsels (about ½ cup)
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 cup sliced strawberries or fresh raspberries
1 cup blueberries
Sliced strawberries, if desired

Place chocolate in medium bowl. Bring 1 cup water to boil in medium saucepan; turn off heat and set bowl over saucepan. Let stand until melted, stirring occasionally. Remove from water. Beat cream in medium bowl until soft peaks form. Slowly add sugar; beat just until stiff peaks form. Transfer to medium bowl; set aside in refrigerator.

In same mixer bowl, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Add chocolate in a stream while beating; beat until smooth. Stir ¼ of whipped cream into chocolate mixture to lighten. Gently fold in remaining whipped cream.

To assemble parfaits, alternately layer mousse and mixed berries in parfait glasses. Parfaits may be served immediately or refrigerated up to 6 hours before serving. Garnish each parfait with sliced strawberries. Makes 4 servings.

Press-ing out wrinkles in music

The Wolfgang Press has been known for its willingness to delve into unchartered territory with its music. The threesome admits they have always ben enamored with the manipulation of sound. Maybe that's why critics are calling their current release their most focused effort to date.

By Larry O'Connor
Staff Writer

The Wolfgang Press is a visceral musical experiment nearly 10 years in the making which is only beginning to draw some clear results.

Critics are calling the band's latest LP "Queer" its most focused to date. While many groups may consider that a slap in the face, The Wolfgang Press actively pursued clarity on the 4AD/Warner release.

"We had a different intention with this album," said vocalist Mick Allen in a telephone interview from London. "The other albums we have done we had more of a tendency to be internal. Instead of being insular with this one we wanted to open everything up and allow everyone in and not be so precious."

Soaring soul riffs combined with ethereal elements of keyboard and judiciously augmented with spritely bits of sampling are turned up in The Wolfgang Press musical excavation.

The group's willingness to delve into uncharted territory is well-documented. The attempt to connect these forays with a semblence of history, brought through sampling or by fiendishly covering Randy Newman's "Mama Told Me Not to Come," creates a precarious balance in the aural assault.

Allen said he and his bandmates, keyboardist Mark Cox and guitarist Andrew Gray, have always been enamored with the manipulation of sound rather than three chords and the truth. Sampling is one area the band excels, using the technique sparingly.

"It's a very new phenomenon, really," Allen said. "When something is new, it gets overused and used badly. What we've tried to do is make it work with the song rather than the sample being the song."

Such a musical aesthetic has allowed The Wolfgang Press to persevere amid several fads in the post-punk age and kept its identity. No easy task, especially since the group is on 4AD, whose bands (Cocteau Twins and His Name Is Alive to name a few) have an undeserved reputation for a producing similar ethereal sound.

The band's 1983 LP's, "The Burden of Mules," started it all and has included a steady stream of releases since in the UK. "Queer" is only The Wolfgang Press' second release stateside. Their penchant for musical revision was denoted early on the band's second LP "The Legendary Wolfgang Press and Other Tall Stories," putting an alternative spin on Aretha Franklin's "Respect." The band's rendition of "Mama Told Me Not to Come" is performed in the same spirit.

"I remember it from 20 years ago," Allen said. "For this album, it was our intention to do a cover version. We played around with various songs. None of them were working. Maybe they were too precious.

"The producer was messing around with the keyboards in the studio and started playing the opening from 'Momma Told Me Not to Come.' We started working on it. I remember the Three Dog Night version of it, actually."

Along with reinventing other's hits, The Wolfgang Press has earned a reputation for rousing live shows. For this tour, opening for the Charlatans UK, the group has enlisted former Jesus and Mary Chain drummer Richard Thomas along with former members of the Ruts, rhythm guitarist Rew and bassist Segs.

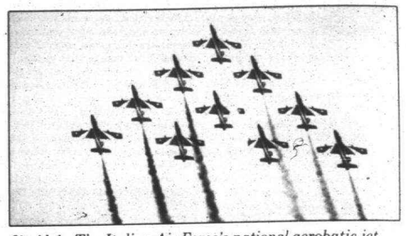

"It was a strange thing (performing live at first)," Allen said. "It was hard to rehearse and keep the emphasis of the songs. Some are so delicate.

"We've done well to achieve that."

The Wolfgang Press will open for Charlatans UK on Thursday, July 2, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For information, call 961-MELT.

AirMichigan goes for tricolored fun, aerial excitement

By Patrick Schutte
Special Writer

Do you want to see something really cool? We mean real, real cool.

Check out July 4-5 at Willow Run Airport where Wings Over Wayne Inc. is putting together another air show. They call it AirMichigan '92.

If you've never been, going to an air show is like watching "Wings" on The Discovery Channel with your head inside the picture tube. Jets that look like dots on the horizon, wall over the crowd and make people tip over in their lawn chairs as they strain to follow them.

Then pilots, who you'd swear were high on jet fuel and low on brains, do things with a plane that birds can't do. And they do these spinning things at very un-bird like speeds approaching 300 miles per hour.

The piece de resistance (read that with a French accent, please) this year will be the Italian national aerobatic team known as the Frecce Tricolori (Tricolored Arrows to those who don't speak Italian). The team showcases a formation of 10 MB-339 trainer/close air support aircraft. This is the Italians' second North American Tour and the first stop is Willow Run.

The tour is part of the 500th anniversary of Columbus' discovery of the New World. You know, "In 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue."

Leading the Americans in the show will be Team America, an award-winning three-plane formation team from California. And coincidentally, they'll be flying Italian-built Marchetti F-260 trainer/light attack planes.

"I think they (the Frecce Tricolori) learn to fly in our plane," said Team America Leaders Chuck Lischer. "We've never seen them, but that connection will be interesting."

Before the jets blow people away, AirMichigan will roll back the aviation clock and feature some old fashioned barnstorming routines. U.S. and world aerobatic champion Gene Soucy of Houston, Texas, will perform some solo aerobatics in his Grumman biplane known as "Showcat." Soucy's plane displays one of the air show industry's biggest smoke producing system.

From there, wingwalker Teresa Stokes, also of Houston, will hop on the top wing of Soucy's plane and, well, walk around a bit.

And to top off the barnstorming display, Chelsea's Jim Mynning will land a Piper Super Cub airplane on the back of a speeding pickup truck, driven by Ann Arbor's Eddie Green.

Mynning is a veteran of more than 30 years of air shows and Green is an experienced wingwalker and Hollywood stuntman.

With a whole mess of other things to do — and eat — The Wayne County air show is something that if you see it once, you'll make a point to come back year after year.

And the world from Wayne County's "Top Gun," so to speak, Executive Edward MacNamara, "our air show is one of the best family entertainment values in southeast Michigan."

So if you're planning to go, plan to make a day of it. The Stealth fighter and Warthog jets, aerobatics, wingwalkers, sky diving, hang gliding — you name it —will be in the air and on the ground.

The main act, the Trecce Tricolori, will hit the sky around 3:40 p.m. each day, so you'll still have time to catch a decent seat for Independence weekend fireworks.

Dates: July 4-5.

Place: Willow Run Airport, I-94 at Belleville Road (Exit 190).

What to bring: Coolers are allowed although cans are preferred over bottles. Complete concession facilities are available. Also included sunglasses, hats, lawn chairs (for general admission) and sunscreen lotion.

Tickets: Reserved box seats are $15. General admission for adults is $12 at the gate ($9 in advance) and $9 ($6 in advance) for children. Children under three admitted free. Parking is $3.

Ticket locations: AirMichigan tickets are available at all Ticketmaster outlets (a fee is charged) and at Willow Run Airport.

"We're just going to keep doing it until we make a half-million bucks," Staels said.

Saturday's event will help contribute a chunk toward such a goal. Anywhere from 4,000 to 5,000 people are expected to attend the event at the reservations, which is 25 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie.

"There's a lot of people traveling (from this area) for this," said Asta Jurgutis of Farmington Hills, an organizer for the event and member of The Hope Orchestra. "Some people are traveling because they want to see the bands they like . . . Some people are traveling because of the cause only."

For information on the Benefest on Saturday, July 4, or "Dream Catchers, Vol. 1," call 543-8433.

Chris Staels takes dream to the U.P.

Chris Staels doesn't subscribe to the cause-of-the-month club.

When Staels, who works at Paradise Post studios in Farmington Hills, released "Dream Catchers, Vol. 1" to benefit the Native Americans of the state last year, he said it was going to be an ongoing project. He wasn't kidding.

The next installment takes place Saturday, July 4, in the form a day-long musical extravaganza at the Bay Mills Reservation in the Upper Peninsula. The event will feature 15 acts and include a fireworks display.

Proceeds from the $10 admission will not only benefit the Bay Mills Chippewas Community but also the Lansing Indian Center and the American Indian College Fund. More so, Staels hopes the event brings awareness to the plight of Native Americans.

"I think in one respect, to get people in that environment is going to be a pretty eye-opening experience," said Staels, who is of Native American descent and who became involved after visiting the reservation. "People have a perception of a reservation from what they see on TV. This is the real thing."

Well-known Native American performer Bill Miller will headline the event, which starts at noon and runs to 1:55 a.m.

Included in the schedule of artists — several of which are from this area — are the Love Kings, Spiral Dance, Red C, The Pedestrains, Waiskey Bay Drum, Short Notice, Richard Cyr, Barb Barton, Dropping Names, The Hope Orchestra, John Lamb and Wild Blue, The Waykools, Billy Brandt and Cafe Zero.

Many of the same artists are also featured on "Dream Catchers, Vol. 1,"which initiated Staels' campaign to help Native Americans. The CD has raised $12,000, according to Staels, most of which has been donated to Bay Mills Community College.

Money raised in the project is matched $2 by the U.S. government for every $1 contributed. The CD is available at area record outlets and retails for $10.

Already, Staels has the second volume in motion to be released in November. The audio engineer says 30 bands have expressed an interest to be on the next release.

'Delicatessen' overloads audience with wild ideas

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

"Delicatessen" makes movies seem young again. The French import, enjoying its area premiere at Ann Arbor's Michigan Theatre, is chock full of crazy ideas and style to spare.

Visually, the movie is an eye-popper right from the opening credits, in which the camera glides across names reflected on mirrors or emblazoned on miniature circus posters.

It's the near future. Cattle and plant life have apparently been wiped off the face of the earth. Dried corn and beans are now used as money. No one questions the origins of the measly parcels sold by the local butcher. They also try not to leave their apartments after dark.

When the butcher loses another assistant to the laws of supply and demand, another ad goes in the paper. This time the new man is a former circus clown named Louison (Dominique Pinon), who falls in love with the butcher's daughter (Marie-Laure Dougnac).

This is the first feature film by the directing team of Jean-Pierre Jeunet and Marc Caro. Jeunet concentrates on honing incredible performances from the talented cast.

Jean Claude Dreyfus plays a character known only as The Butcher. Sometimes he looks like your average slobby couch potato, an overweight Pee Wee Herman. Light him from below and put a meat cleaver in his hand and he becomes a bulging-eyed maniac.

Co-director Caro is a longtime video experimentalist responsible for the movie's knockout visual effects. He creates a series of Rube Goldberg situations, especially in the elaborate suicide attempts rigged up by a neurotic neighbor.

The directors cite early French filmmakers like Rene Clair and American animator Tex Avery as their primary influences. In their hands, the simple sounds of everyday can lead to truly hilarious situations.

In one inspired sequence, lovers fall onto a squeaky bed. Their escalating rhythms echo through the pipes, speeding the progress of a painter, a cellist, a woman beating a carpet, and a man with a bicycle pump into a cross-cutting frenzy.

Brown-tinted cinematography by Darius Khondji gives the film a retro-futuristic feel, with the clothes and mechanical contraptions reminiscent of Europe during World War II.

The camera swirls in and out of pipes and heating ducts. When Louison employs the metal boomerang affectionately dubbed "The Australian," the audience flies right along with it toward an intended target.

Audiences may have trouble keeping up with the frantic pace, which purposely mimics a live-action cartoon. The episodic situations and the radical way they are filmed make it easy to get caught up in the world these wily French filmmakers have so skillfully created.

Great Lakes Games offer challenge for all athletes

This is of interest to any athletes, young or old, who are dying to find out just how good they are.

Or to those former jocks who are trying to rediscover what attracted them to their particular sport so many years ago.

Or to those seeking a new challenge.

Or to those stars of yesteryear who have found they have a significant hole in their life without the limelight, and now want to see if they can recapture it, if only for an instant.

Or even to those first-rate athletes who don't have anything else to do.

More precisely, this is for everybody.

It is the Great Lakes State Games, a collection of 23 sporting competitions that's open to just about anyone. The restrictions: Well, participants for most events can be any age; the only real restriction is you must live in the state — for more than 30 days.

So it's fun for everyone who thrives on athletic competition, including those (like me) capable of inventing all sorts of reasons to give something like this a try. Personally, I learned a long time ago that no matter how hard I worked, I would never win much. So now I compete against myself, or the clock, or something else I can manipulate in my favor.

An Olympics for all

There are others like me, I'm sure, and they'll love this — especially in an Olympic year, which is what the Games are patterned after.

I thought it sad when the Games made their debut in 1987 and attracted 5,200 athletes to the Great Lakes Sports Training Center at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, then were cancelled when the state withdrew its financial support.

What I didn't realize was that clones of the inaugural Great Lakes State Games survived with private support. In the lower peninsula, the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association conducted something very similar in Battle Creek from 1988-90, then in Lansing last year. In the upper peninsula, the Sports Training Center has been home for the same type of games.

"So we decided to merge forces," said Mike Maisner, a spokesman for the MRPA. "Instead of running separate events, let's pool our resources and run one statewide event."

Good idea. The lower peninsula games last year drew nearly 3,000 athletes; combining the two and putting them in a location more central than Marquette should help this year's Games surpass that '87 participation total.

But that's not so important, really — not when considering the Games are scheduled to continue, whatever the draw. This is no one-time experiment; Ann Arbor has already been selected to host the '93 Games.

"We hope it will be around for years to come," said Maisner.

Variety, for certain

Now, for this year's Games. The sports included are, to say the least, varied. Alphabetically, they are:

Archery, basketball, biathlon (3.1 mile run, 25 mile bicycle, 3.1 mile run), bowling, boxing, cycling, diving, golf, horseshoe pitching, ice hockey, powerlifting, road running, shooting, soccer, softball, swimming, taekwondo, tennis, track and field, volksmarch/Walk Michigan, volleyball, weightlifting and wrestling.

There is regional qualifying competition for bowling, diving, soccer, swimming, track and field, and volleyball. The Southeast Regional will be in Ann Arbor July 10-12; top finishing individuals or teams will advance to the finals (deadline for registration in most regional sports is July 3; for more information, call the Ann Arbor Convention and Visitors Bureau at 995-7281).

The finals are scheduled for July 31-Aug. 2 in Lansing. Both regionals and finals are complete with opening ceremonies, and top finishers at the finals will be awarded appropriate medals (gold, silver, bronze).

"This is meant to be an Olympic-style event," said Maisner, adding that most other states offer something very similar. "Michigan's a little behind in state games, but we hope to catch up in a hurry."

The biggest problems the two associations have faced in putting the Games on are intertwined: first, finding the financial support necessary, then making sure the word reaches the competitors. "It's a bit of a struggle in this kind of economy," said Maisner, adding, "Our biggest drawback is getting the exposure."

Well, at least I've helped supply the latter — although I do so with certain reservations. I mean, if I do compete, I wouldn't be too disappointed if there were only three others in my event. I guess I'd rather finish fourth in a four-man race than 12th in a 13-man race. I'm capable of either, on a good day.

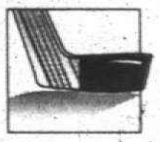

Entry booklets for the Great Lakes State Games are available at most city's recreation offices. There is an entry fee for all events. For information regarding finals-only events, call (517) 483-4021. Sports that don't require regional qualifying may still be offered at the regionals; contact the Ann Arbor Convention and Visitors Bureau at the number listed above for a complete list of regional events.

Females enjoy game of hockey, too

SHERRIE BUZBY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Behind the mask: Stacey Chuhran of Canton plays goalkeeper for a girls travel hockey team that has competed in Russia.

Not only does Stacey Chuhran play ice hockey, last week she got the chance to play the sport overseas — and that's a claim few boys can make. The teen goalie from Canton was selected to play for a team that competed in a recent Russian tournament.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Stacey Chuhran used to play hockey with boys — now she's playing against girls from Russia and several other foreign countries.

Just goes to show how fast hockey for girls and women is growing.

Chuhran, a 15-year-old Canton resident who played in boys leagues up until the 1990-91 season, competed last week in the International Hockey Tournament White Nights in St. Petersburg, Russia.

Chuhran, a goalie, was selected to play on the ACHWA Ambassadors, a team comprised of 14- to 19-year-olds who live in Michigan, Illinois, New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The Ambassadors, one of two teams from the U.S. at last week's tournament, played teams from Russia, Finland, the Ukraine, Estonia and Latvia.

"The Russians have put on a boys tournament for several years," said Stacey's father, Terry Chuhran. "Russian officials were watching a girls hockey game here last year, thought it was great and wanted to get a girls tournament started at home."

The trip overseas for Stacey Chuhran was a new experience but she is no stranger to playing in far-away places. Chuhran has traveled with boys teams for tournaments in Toronto and Sarnia and last year played in Duluth, Minn. with the Michigan Captials Midget girls team at a national tournament.

Chuhran spent last season playing for the Capitals Pee Wee girls team which is based in Brownstown. She had a 2.56 goals against average for the Capitals, a .500 team.

Her background of playing with boys teams has helped.

Chuhran started playing the sport at age seven in her backyard, playing against her older brother Scott. The two have played on several of the same teams together.

"Her brother got her out in the backyard shooting pucks at her and she liked it," Terry said.

Chuhran said her female classmates at Salem High School think her playing hockey is "neat — the guys think I'm tough."

Chuhran showed her toughness a few years back when she suffered a fractured arm during a boys game.

"I went up to the guy to hit him with my blocker but I missed and twisted my wrist," Stacey recalled.

"But she was back on the ice a week later playing," Terry said.

Checking isn't allowed in girls hockey but that doesn't mean the action — or slap shots — aren't fierce.

"Some girls can hit them pretty good," Chuhran said. "I guess they think checking will hurt us but it can get pretty rough sometimes."

Chuhran said her idol is Chicago Black Hawks' goalie Ed Belfour, but in the future she might have another goalie to model herself after — Manon Rheaume, who is the first woman to play for a major Canadian junior team.

Chuhran, who also has played softball, volleyball, basketball, gymnastics and ballet, would like to continue playing hockey in college at an Ivy League school. She carries a 3.5 grade point average.

A couple years ago Chuhgan was featured on television in a "Player of Tomorrow" piece shown during intermission of a Detroit Red Wings game.

She's lived up to that billing.

Age no problem for senior tennis players

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Bill Wendt needed one word to explain his purpose in the Silver's Super Senior Tennis Championships last weekend in Farmington Hills: competition.

"We're competitors," said Wendt, who just turned 80 and was one of three men in the 80-plus division at the Detroit Tennis and Squash Club. "We came here because we want to compete. I compete at stoplights, if there are no police around."

Wendt, who lives in Chicago, defeated 85-year-old Burl Brown Friday and was to meet Herb Houser for the age-group title Saturday. There was no prize money at stake, just a trophy for the winner and the prestige of a possible USTA or Western Tennis Association ranking.

"McEnroe, Cheng and those guys would be playing for the same thing we are — which is nothing — if they were in our situation because they're competitors," Wendt said.

But there was more to their participation in the Super Seniors. Wendt and Brown are living proof tennis is a lifetime sport, and both use it as a means of staying active and healthy.

Wendt was a promising young player at age 17, but he also had a smoking habit.

"At 27 I was in such lousy shape I didn't feel like playing and I didn't for 20 years," he said.

Wendt, who ran a wholesale/retail sporting goods company and still manages real estate interests, quit smoking when he was 37 and began playing tennis again 10 years later. He was ranked fourth by the WTA in the 75-79 age group last year.

"The day I quit smoking I couldn't run across the street," he said. "Now I'm one of the best tennis players in the world for my age. I say it to benefit others. (Smoking) is one of the stupidest things anybody can do.

"As my health deteriorated so did my game. Right now at 80, if I could play against myself at 37 when I quit smoking, I'd probably win."

Both men recommend tennis as a means of exercise and promoting a healthy lifestyle.

"I don't deserve to be in the kind of shape I am," said Wendt, who also is active in the National Horseshoe Pitchers Association. "I eat sensibly and happen to like all the things that are good for me. It was just plain luck. I inherited good genes."

Brown, by his own admission, is not a real good player despite being ranked 11th nationally, but that hardly matters.

"I'm an also-ran most of the time," he said. "I get in there and hit. That's the fun part. I find it hard to make a point.

Volleyball team excels in AAU tourney

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Maybe not much was expected from the Michigan team.

The SOVA 16-and-under squad coached by Tom Teeters was not one of the 12 "elite" teams; only four of the approximately 130 teams competing in pool play would survive to challenge the elite at the AAU Junior National Volleyball Tournament, which ended Tuesday in Chicago.

As it turned out, SOVA deserved the designation. The local team won nine-straight matches to reach the final 16 — which included automatic byes for the 12 elites. SOVA then won its first match against an elite team before finally falling to eventual tournament champion Fort Wayne (Ind.) 15-11, 15-10.

The impressive performance earned SOVA a fifth-place finish, and got some individual recognition for Liz Gunn of Livonia Ladywood. Gunn was named to the AAU All-American team.

A 5-foot-10 left-side hitter who will be a senior this fall, Gunn "got us back into some games with her soft-touch serves and left-side dinks," said Teeters, who coaches at both Schoolcraft College and Ladywood. "She's an extremely hard person to block, both because she's left-handed and she hits so well from the left side."

Gunn's honor was not expected. A player's team had to reach the final 20 before she would be considered for such status, and that was no sure thing for SOVA. "It did (surprise me)," said Teeters of Gunn. "There were some very good players there."

Still, SOVA romped past much of the competition, collecting five-straight wins in pool play. That put them into single-elimination division play, which they survived with four consecutive victories — among them a 15-12, 16-14 triumph over Sports Performance (of Chicago), considered one of the tourney's top teams.

In their first match in the round of 16, SOVA defeated elite team Neris (Chicago) 15-6, 8-15, 15-9.

Teeters praised the performance of several players in the win over Sports Performance, including Valerie Adzima ("She put on a defensive clinic for us"); Amanda Ault, Bridgit Norris and Julie Heist ("Strong blocking"); and Jean Kegerreis ("Off the bench, she scored three of our last four points on kills in the second game").

Those on the team from Ladywood, other than Gunn, are Julie Brogan, Renae Rozell and Adzima; from Farmington Harrison, Ault and Heist; from Farmington, Debbie Schroeder and Carey Perkins; from Walled Lake Central, Norris; from Howell, Katie Reader; and from Saline Christian, Kegerreis.

Walter's topples Little Caesars

Walter's Appliance made up ground on Livonia Little Caesars Friday with a 4-1 win over the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League's first-place team at Ford Field.

Walter's pitcher Mike Coleman (Madonna University) allowed only three Caesars hits, struck out eight and walked five for the victory. Caesars' only run came on a home run by Mike Giacomantonio in the sixth inning.

The win improved Walter's to 8-6. Caesars' first-place record fell to 10-5.

Joe Brusseau (Redford Bishop Borgess and Madonna); Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill and Madonna) and Paul Pirronello (Redford Catholic Central and Henry Ford Community College) had two hits each for Walter's. Brusseau scored two runs, while Jason Gabel (Churchill), Shandell Currie and Pirronello collected one RBI each.

Brusseau led off the third with a single, went to second on a stolen base and scored on an error. Kevin Young (Farmington) singled and came home with the second run of the inning on Gabel's double.

Jeff Schaffer (Livonia Franklin) scored the third run in the fourth. Schaffer singled, went to second on a wild pitch, advanced to third on an error and scored on Currie's sacrifice fly. Pirronello's single in the fourth scored Brusseau with the final run.

Delwal prevails

Derek Wirebaugh tossed a two-hitter Wednesday to lead Delwal to a 5-1 win over Ann Arbor Wendy's in a Livonia Collegiate baseball encounter at Novi High.

Wirebaugh improves his record to 3-1, striking out four and walking three. The lone Wendy's run was unearned.

Delwal had six hits, including two from infielder Mike Pesci (Farmington Hills Harrison). They improve to 8-5 and are alone in second place.

Delwal broke open a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning, scoring four runs, thanks to a bases-loaded single from Chris Munson, scoring a pair.

Mike Schwartzenberger contributed two RBI, one of which came on a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Hines Park wins

Hines Park edged Walter's Appliance 2-1 at Ford Field.

Jeff Paluk (Plymouth Salem) pitched solid for the winners, hurling seven innings and fanning five. Hines Park is 8-6.

Steve Ross (Redford Catholic Central) suffered the loss for Walter's, going the first three innings and allowing both runs, only one of which was earned. Sean Henkel went the final three and gave up just one hit and struck out three.

Walter's (7-6) scored its lone run in the fourth inning when Shandel Currie singled home Kevin Young.

Horton Plumbing wins 3rd game in row

Horton Plumbing-Canton won its third consecutive Connie Mack baseball game Thursday 11-2 over host Northville.

Matt Horn pitched a complete game, scattering seven hits while recording two strikeouts and no walks. Dan Hutchinson gave up 11 hits and suffered the loss.

Todd Pniewski had three hits, including a pair of doubles, and three RBI. Eric Marcotte, Brad Paskiewitch, Horn and Chris Johnson notched two hits each. Marcotte also scored two runs while Paskiewitch and Horn had one RBI.

Horton Plumbing edged Ypsilanti II last Monday when the opposing shortstop made an error on a two-out hopper by Adam Gilles, allowing Mike Stafford to score the winning run.

Canton rallied from a 2-0 deficit. Jon Paupore put down a bunt single, but the third baseman threw the ball into right field. Paupore took third on the play and scored the first run on a passed ball. Mark Schankowski drove in Ryan Fordham with the tying run in the sixth.

MSHL drops puck on another season

The Metro Summer Hockey League began its 10th season Sunday with three games and will continue play for the next six weeks.

Games will be played Sunday through Thursday nights at the Plymouth, Canfield and Westland ice arenas. Admission is $1 to all games.

The majority of players are drawn from local travel and high school teams and includes many college players home for the summer months.

The process will be different this year. The 10 teams will play a round-robin schedule, after which the top five will go into the Bakes Division and the second five into the Windy City Division.

Each division will conduct a round-robin schedule, with the top two teams at the end playing for the division championships. The Windy City final will be Wednesday, Aug. 5, at the Westland arena and the Bakes final Thursday, Aug. 6, at the Plymouth facility.

WHAT EVERY MAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT IMPOTENCE.

IT'S TREATABLE.

The real tragedy of impotence is letting it go untreated and ignore more day. Stop denying yourself and your sexual partner an important part of your life. Impotence can be treated in almost every case.

The STAR™ program developed by Grace Hospital provides complete diagnosis and treatment of male impotence. This confidential program is directed first at determining the cause of the problem. Diseases such as diabetes, cancer, multiple sclerosis and problems with prostate, heart and high blood pressure are common causes. There are many others. Injury to the spinal cord, and low hormone levels can also cause erection failure. So, too, can fatigue, alcohol, drugs, smoking, stress and depression. Medicines used to treat such things as depression, high blood pressure and ulcers can be part of the problem. Age alone is not a cause of impotence. And, yes, some impotence problems are psychologically based; even organic impotence has an important psychological component that requires identification and treatment. An accurate diagnosis is the key to effective treatment. Sometimes, only a change in medication is needed. More serious problems may require surgery. But help is available. Complete, confidential and supportive. Call today and talk to one of our professionals.

Stars turn out for AIDS awareness special

Advertising profits go to charity

By Suzanne Gill

This spring, tennis star Arthur Ashe felt media pressure to go public with information about his own health that he had kept private for four years: He is infected with the HIV virus, which leads to AIDS.

By keeping his own counsel, Ashe had hoped his life would not be overshadowed by AIDS. Yet only weeks after his forced announcement, he is a participant in a television special conceived to focus attention on the disease. "In a New Light," airing Saturday, July 11, on ABC, is a star-studded, emotional appeal to individuals to take part in the fight against AIDS.

"In a New Light," as executive producer Joe Lovett points out, is a new approach to AIDS education and fundraising. The special features a variety of performers calculated to appeal to all audiences — from Anita Baker, Paul Rodriguez and Clint Black to Carol Burnett, Joel Grey and Dustin Hoffman. Some sing or give dramatic readings; all offer personal reflections on the impact of AIDS in their lives. They are not always eloquent, but they wage a war of attrition on our emotional defenses. Their backdrop is the AIDS Memorial Quilt, which now includes some 20,000 panels representing one tenth of those who have died in this country from the disease.

Lovett did not set out to make this special. The former "20/20" producer, who worked on a series of AIDS reports in his years with that program, was — and is — producing a documentary about "Heart Strings," a touring musical show that gives audiences a sense of the spiritual toll of being or loving a person with AIDS. But "Heart Strings," with its cast of unknowns, was turned down by ABC's prime-time chief, Robert Iger, when his late-night counterpart Don Beuth approached him with the idea. It needs stars, Iger reportedly said.

Fourteen months later, "In a New Light" is packed with stars, beginning with Elizabeth Taylor, who briefly introduces the show, and Linda Lavin, Robert Guillaume and Bruce Davison, who are its hosts. A celebrity edition of "Heart Strings" was staged in February and taped for the special.

According to Lovett, everyone involved has been more than generous. Barry Manilow paid all costs associated with his appearance, including musicians' salaries. Gloria Estefan is allowing two of her songs, "Coming Out of the Dark" and "Get on Your Feet," to be "repositioned" in viewers' minds as themes for AIDS awareness. There's even film footage of Disney's "The Little Mermaid" and "Beauty and the Beast" in a tribute to the late lyricist Howard Ashman.

With star power to spare, "In a New Light" was offered to advertisers at full rates, and ABC has earmarked the show's net profits for an AIDS charity.

In its two hours, the special offers a number of messages. First, there's no reason for anyone not already infected ever to contract the disease; its spread can be halted through changed behavior alone. Second, it's a subject people need to talk about, not hide from. (In an ice-breaking comedy routine, Andrea Martin puts a condom over her foot.) Third, women contract the virus more readily from men than men do from women. Worldwide, half of all AIDS patients are female. Fourth, children are at risk, not only for prenatal transmission but through prostitution, which preys on ever younger recruits because they are more likely to be healthy.

Two toll-free telephone numbers will be provided during the show. Both are hotlines of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. The first directs callers with general questions, while the second is a source of information about government drug studies available to those already infected with HIV. With only 40 operators to respond, however, viewers are asked to write down the numbers and phone in later. Though Lovett applauds the government agency's involvement in his show, the phone bank is a meager commitment to a quarter billion citizens.

For all the party atmosphere, brave smiles and star turns of "In a New Light," one stark fact remains: We live in an age of complete disclosure, when no detail of life is too personal or private to be hidden from the camera's eye. As Arthur Ashe discovered, our appetite for such information is insatiable; we do not even wish to go to the movies without knowing the background and personal habits of the stars. It seems an age of idolatry, but it is an age of distrust. We dare trust no one; our very lives are at stake if we do. In this way, at least, AIDS has affected all of us.

Editor's note: Joe Lovett's documentary "Heart Strings: on the Road" is in development for PBS.

'Sesame Street' teaches in day care

By Chris Carpenter

In hopes of offering preschoolers a little more sustenance than cookies and Kool-Aid, North Texas public television station KERA launched the Preschool Education Program (PEP) Initiative in the spring of 1990.

Using Sesame Street episodes in a structured, video lesson plan, over 700 day-care and home-care facilities in the Dallas area are now entering their third year of PEP. Based on their success, 123 other public television stations have followed suit.

Ralph Rogers, president of the Dallas Foundation of Health, Education and Research and founding father of PBS, has fronted the project since its inception, noting that "the first five years are the most important in children's lives. If we can make a difference in those years ... we will have helped them realize their potential."

To cultivate this potential, PEP providers read to the children and supervise fun projects that reinforce social, verbal and problem-solving skills. Supplementing (but not supplanting) the usual day-care drill of playtime, snacks and naps with enjoyable video lessons and stimulating activities, PEP allows kids to be kids while offering an exciting new resource to adults who hope to influence their future for the better.

Parents or day-care providers interested in the PEP Initiative should contact their local PBS affiliate.

Jules (Louis Zorich) has a dispute with a business partner in Brooklyn Bridge, Wednesday on CBS.

Western swing lives in tribute to Bob Wills

Texas Playboys reunite for two-part concert

By Dan Rice

When country and western music underwent a progressive renaissance during the mid-'70s in Texas, mighty efforts were made to shake up the complacent "Nashville Sound" and introduce new elements of musical and personal style. But while those "outlaw" performers distanced themselves from the rhinestone suits, they clung fast to the legacy of the rebel innovators who came before them. As Waylon Jennings sang in his song of the time, "It don't matter who's in Austin, Bob Wills is still the king."

The bridge between the two camps is once more safe to tread, for The Nashville Network's Lone Star import, The Texas Connection, pays tribute to the creator of western swing with a salute to Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys, airing in two parts on Saturday, July 4 and 11.

Host Jerry Jeff Walker welcomes Wills' brother Luke and former Texas Playboys including Johnny Gimble, Joe Ferguson, Smokey Dacus, Joe Ferguson, Buddy Spicher, Herb Remington, Leon Rausch and Tommy Allsup for a concert of songs popularized by the late Wills and his band. Ray Benson, Floyd Domino and Chris O'Connell of Asleep at the Wheel, a band that continues to perform Bob Wills songs, also join in on stage.

A native Texan, Wills was an established professional fiddler in 1933 when he formed Bob Wills and the Playboys in Waco, Texas. After moving to Tulsa, Okla., the band's name was changed to the Texas Playboys. (One of Wills' trademark songs, "Take Me Back to Tulsa," was first known as "Take Me Back to Texas" during this Oklahoma stay.) Wills continually refined his band, adding new players and new instruments such as drums and horns, which were unheard of in country music at the time. His Texas Playboys became a national sensation, selling many records, appearing on radio and in movies. By the early '40s, people across the country knew his catch phrase "Ah, ha! San Antone."

After his death in 1975, the bands that Bob built reunited here and there, most using the name Texas Playboys.

Ray Benson says that western swing is "essentially a cross between popular swing music of the day and a cowboy band instrumentation." Wills "really kept an element of grit or funk or realness in his music, because a lot of western swing slicked up the music. Bob always had that raw blues feel to his music," Benson says.

Fiddler Johnny Gimble, who joined the Texas Playboys in 1949, defines the style as "happy, good time music. Even when you play a sad song like 'Faded Love' it's got a beat that makes you want to dance. It's a dance beat — makes you want to pat your foot and grin."

Besides leaving behind cherished standards like "San Antonio Rose" (which Gimble says was a simple Wills reworking of "The Spanish Two-Step"), Wills was responsible for hundreds of musicians having the title of "former Texas Playboy" because of his perpetual reorganization. The best of the survivors were gathered for the Texas Connection concert, and it's obvious they're still touched by that Bob Wills magic. As Gimble says, "He (Wills) had such charisma, when he'd step on stage the band turned on and played twice as good as it'd been playing."

McEnroe serves court commentary

By Steve Paschal

As a player, John McEnroe earned a reputation for brashness and irreverence — some would say insufferable egotism — on the court. The same qualities that made him one of the most controversial athletes of the 1980s are making him the latest star of the broadcast booth.

When McEnroe joins Dick Enberg in the booth for the Wimbledon lawn tennis tournament this week, his performance will be scrutinized almost as closely as that of Grand Slam hopeful Jim Courier. Earlier this month, McEnroe received high marks for his debut commentary at the French Open.

"Being on the court and being in the booth are two totally different things," the 33-year-old says, admitting "the call doesn't mean nearly as much when it's someone else."

With Jimmy Conners failing to show the same agressiveness as a commentator as he does as a player and Chris Evert's sharp tongue dulled somewhat since she returned from maternity leave, the door was open for McEnroe, who now has a two-year contract with The USA Network and a three-year deal with NBC.

"With this ... deal, I can see if I like broadcasting and if it likes me" he says with the familiar self-confidence. "I can see myself doing this for 10 or 15 years, but if after three years they feel a change is needed, we can do that and I'll just go on to something else."

A little girl is reunited with her mother in P.O.V.'s Finding Christa, Monday on PBS.

LET'S TALK

Garfield the Doorman; Go ahead, show my movie

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I've been wanting to know for years if the voice of Carlton the Doorman on the old show Rhoda is the same voice as Garfield the Cat. Please answer this question because it's really bugging me. —Cora Holtry, Portland, Ore.

A: Be bugged no more. You are correct in the belief that the two voices are the same. That voice belongs to Lorenzo Music, whose drunken, nasal intrusions into Rhoda's (Valerie Harper) affairs via her living room intercom were a favorite feature of the show. A half-yawn, half-whine, Music's vocals are also perfectly suited to that most jaded of cats, Garfield. He frequently voices commercials as well.

Rootin', tootin' Garfield.

Q: I am certain that a very young DeForest Kelley (Dr. McCoy of Star Trek*) appeared in a late '40s movie entitled* Fear in the Night. I'd love to see this old film again. Is it available on video? —Sarah Alboher, Brooklyn, N.Y.

A: As 1940s murder mysteries go, 1947's Fear in the Night is a solid production with much to recommend it, and it deserves to be on tape — which it is. One of the pluses, as you mention, is the presence of a pre-Trek Kelley, playing a man whose dream of murder may actually be a reality.

Q: My daughter, Trina, is developmentally delayed, legally blind and has seizures. She really likes to watch Where in the World is Carmen Sandiego? on PBS. Even though the questions about geography are over her head, she likes the fast pace of the show, the music and especially Greg and The Chief. Trina would like to have one of the show's T-shirts. Would you have an address where I could write the show for her? —Ruby Charles, Grundy, Va.

A: You may write to the show in care of Cathy Gerhardt, Michael Shepley Public Relations, 8 West 19th Street, No. 7-F, New York, N.Y., 10011.

Q: Is the daughter on the first National Lampoon's Vacation the same girl who plays the daughter on National Lampoon's European Vacation? My friend says yes, but I say no. Who's right? —J.B., Metropolis, Ill.

A: Two actresses have played Audrey Griswold, Clark's (Chevy Chase) daughter, but they do share a few similarities. They're both named Dana (with Dana Barron in the first role and Dana Hill in the European sequel), they sort of look alike, and they both played second fiddle to Chase's wild comedy antics.

Q: I once saw a very good made-for-television movie that I wish everyone could enjoy again. It was called Breezy, with William Holden (yes, the great William Holden) and a young Kay Lenz.

The '60s are back in style, so why not show it again? The script was good, and the characters were very touching. He was a mature, down-to-earth businessman who fell in love with a young hippie. They both learned from each other's different lives. Could they dig it out of the can? —Helen de Montpeyroux, Butte, Mont.

A: Like quite a few movies made for television in 1973, Breezy has dated worse than a roomful of 20-year-old lime-green shag carpeting. It is a real blast from the past, but chances of its being rerun nationally are slim, and it's not available on video. One of your local stations may show it sometime, but as of press time it was not scheduled. By the way, the director of this groovy movie was Clint Eastwood.

The Fourth goes pop after furious fists fly

By Dan Rice

Happy birthday, America. Celebrate Independence Day this Saturday, July 4, with A&E's live broadcast of Pops Goes the Fourth. Harry Dickson Ellis conducts the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra in a fireworks-punctuated concert on the banks of Boston's Charles River.

Speaking of birthdays, this Tuesday, June 30, would have been actress Susan Hayward's 74th. AMC remembers Hayward with a Tuesday showing of Deadline at Dawn, A Woman Obsessed, I Can Get It For You Wholesale and Thunder in the Sun.

For a more turbulent Tuesday, Cinemax's Summer of 1,000 Movies offers four fierce films of the late kung-fu master Bruce Lee: Fists of Fury, The Chinese Connection, Return of the Dragon (features Chuck Norris' film debut) and Game of Death, co-starring Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

It's cold, but not cool. The Arctic Man's Last Frontier, airing Monday, June 29, on The Discovery Channel, examines the state of the world's northernmost region. The special examines the effect of environmental disasters, including the Exxon Valdez oil spill and the depletion of the ozone layer, on life in the Arctic.

And then there's sport. Saturday, July 4, marks the beginning of ESPN's same-day taped highlights of the Tour de France bicycle race, which lasts until July 26.

Mare Winningham and Peter O'Toole star in Crossing to Freedom, a wartime drama airing Tuesday on CBS.

SOAP TALK

Reader fills in on closed captioning

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: Recently you advised a reader who complained about being unable to hear the dialogue on soaps to get a closed-captioned decoder.

Unfortunately, not all the soaps are captioned, so a decoder won't help. The only ones that are captioned are Days of Our Lives, Loving and The Bold and the Beautiful. With typical network scheduling, they are all on about the same time in most areas.

It would help if readers would write to the producers of their favorite shows and ask that they be captioned. —Mary Stone, Bardstown, Ky.

Dear Reader: I checked with the National Captioning Institute and you are right about those being the only soaps that are closed-captioned. Thank you for letting us know.

Dear Candace: Last year when Dr. Taylor Hayes came on The Bold and the Beautiful, she was Caroline's cancer doctor. Jake then went to her at Felicia's request about being abused as a child. At that time, Hayes said counseling and psychiatry were not her specialties. Months later we discover she is a full-time shrink. She seems to have acquired this speciality in a very short time.

Where could I write to make suggestions for upcoming shows? —Judy Dickson, Rosharon, Texas.

Dear Reader: Haye's (Hunter Tylo) profession was changed to facilitate a story line. Through psychiatry she can relate with several characters who come to her for advice.

Bill Bell, the creator of B&B, doesn't pay much attention to what the audience writes to him. He completes the story lines several weeks in advance, so by the time the letters reach him most of the action has already happened. He also likes to follow his own intuition and feels he is in touch with what the audience likes to see. He must be doing something right, because one of his soaps, The Young and the Restless, is consistently rated No. 1, and B&B is climbing up to the top.

After all that, if you still want to write him the address is 7800 Beverly Blvd., Suite 3371, Los Angeles, Calif., 90036.

Send your comments to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 961009, Fort Worth, Texas, 76161-1009.

BITS AND PIECES

Ol' Blue Eyes gets miniseries treatment

He's the leader of the Rat Pack, the chairman of the board. Now Frank Sinatra is the subject of a five-hour biographical miniseries being produced for future broadcast on CBS. Sinatra chronicles the life of Ol' Blue Eyes from his childhood in Hoboken, N.J., to the pinnacle of his career in the '60s. Philip Casnoff has the title role, with Oscar winners Olympia Dukakis appearing as Sinatra's colorful mother, Dolly, and Rod Steiger playing mobster Sam Giancana.

ABC keeps its cameras rolling as well. One of its offerings for next season will be the four-hour drama Family Pictures. Anjelica Huston stars as the mother in a family struggling to meet the extraordinary needs of an autistic child. ABC veep Judd Parkin thinks the casting is a coup for the network. "It's thrilling to attract an actress of Ms. Huston's stature and abilities to Family Pictures," Parkins says.

He may not inhale, but he blows a mean horn. Arkansas governor and presidential wannabe Bill Clinton's recent saxophone-playing appearance on The Arsenio Hall Show boosted the talk show's Nielsen ratings to the tune of a 4.6. With any luck we won't see Jay Leno introducing H. Ross Perot and his pipe organ.

But there's no rating those bar-stool potatoes. According to a recent study by the A.C. Nielsen Co., about two million male viewers aged 18 and up watch ABC's Monday Night Football each week from out-of-home locations not measured by the current Nielsen ratings system. Richard Montesano, an ABC executive, says that the study taken from random samples using personal diaries indicates a "7 percent higher level of ratings impact than reported through the people meters."

So grab a pickled egg, order another brewski and be counted.

Marlee Matlin plays an assertive assistant prosecutor in Reasonable Doubts, Fridays on NBC.

Patti LuPone is one of many stars performing in A Capitol Fourth 1992, Saturday on PBS.
