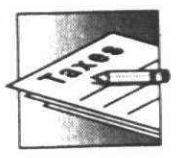
Prop. A faces voters Wednesday



Months of debate will come to an end Wednesday when voters in the Plymouth Canton school district, like others statewide, will go to the polls to decide the fate of Proposal A. The measure would cut property taxes and increase the sales tax.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

The talking about Proposal A will come to an end on Wednesday, and voters will have their say about the plan that would cut property taxes and increase sales taxes.

The Plymouth Canton school board is opposed to the Gov. John Engler-backed proposal, claiming it will cost the district too much money. That opposition drew criticism from the Michigan Education Association, the union that represents local teachers, and a Plymouth man who is a partner in charge of Deloitte & Touche's tax services.

Proposal A would limit annual property tax increases to 5 percent or the inflation rate, whichever is less. Maximum school operating taxes would be reduced to 18 non-voted mills. Districts, which would be guaranteed a minimum $4,800 per pupil, could levy up to 9 additional mills with voter approval.

The sales tax would go from 4 percent to 6 percent, with the additional revenue and lottery proceeds going to schools.

Family and police working to put murder-suicide to rest

BY KEVIN BROWN

Hiding under her bed, Janette Madsen's 15-year-old daughter told the 911 operator on Wednesday, "My mother's just been shot . . . several times."

"Who did it?" the operator asked.

"I think my dad."

Police played the tape of the 5:40 a.m. call from the home on Paciocco Court in Plymouth Township for reporters on Thursday — just hours after Madsen's estranged husband, Donald, committed suicide after a police standoff in Northville.

Donald Madsen, 41, told police over his cellular phone on Wednesday he'd shot his wife over a custody fight. The couple was in court seeking a divorce.

After locating him in his condo on Seven Mile Road near Sheldon, area police surrounded the unit, cut off his phone and electricity, and eventually found him dead in his Cadillac after he shot himself.

Whyman eyes tax impacts

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Before you vote on Proposal A June 2, take a look at your own tax situation and how the plan might benefit you.

"For some it's a tax increase. For others it's a tax decrease," state Rep. Deborah Whyman of Canton told 30 residents at the Plymouth Salem High School Library Wednesday night. "It's important for you to look at your own tax situation."

Whyman was joined by agricultural representatives who had come to talk about the effect of Proposal A on

■ 'If you stay in your house longer, you will receive a benefit.'

Deborah Whyman
state representative

Canton's farmers. But no farmers were in the audience.

She also explained why she voted to put the proposal on the ballot. "I believed it was property tax relief for homeowners and business owners." A compromise plan, Whyman said Proposal A "is not the end-all to school financing and property taxes."

Proposal A would limit property tax assessment increases to 5 percent or the inflation rate, whichever is less. School districts could collect 18 mills without a vote of taxpayers. And taxpayers could approve up to another 9 mills in taxes.

The state sales tax would be increased from 4 percent to 6 percent, with the additional revenue and lottery money going to Michigan's public schools. Proposal A also would guarantee every school district a minimum $4,800 for each student.

"It will make the budgeting process much easier and much more stable," Whyman said. "What we're doing over time is closing the spending gap (between districts)."

Under Proposal A, farmers, particularly like those in Canton who received double-digit property assessment increases, will benefit, said Doug Ewald of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Without Proposal A, farmland assessed at $250,000 would increase to $277,500 in 1993, based on an average 11-percent increase. In 1994 — without Proposal A, and with an average 7-percent increase — the assessment would increase to $296,925 in 1994.

With Proposal A, that same property would be assessed at $257,500 in 1993 and in 1994 at $270,375 (if property values rose 5 percent or more).

By 1999, that property without Proposal A would be assessed at $416,453 — and $345,075 with Proposal A, Ewald said.

Township drops televised forum

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton's community dialogue planned for June 10 has been canceled due to lack of interest.

"In a community of 60,000, I find it interesting only seven people responded," said Ken Voyles, administrative assistant to Tom Yack, township supervisor.

Even after extending the deadline, only seven responded to Voyles' request for reservations to the event, which would have given residents a chance to ask their elected officials any questions they wanted. Voyles was looking for 75 residents.

But the seven who made reservations can take heart. They may still get their chance. "We will try to form a focus group for those who expressed an interest," Voyles said.

He and other officials aren't sure what to make of the apparent lack of interest. "I don't know whether they (residents) are apathetic or satisfied. It's a little disturbing," Voyles said.

The apparent lack of interest may be par for the course. It is rare for the township board of trustees to get a full house of residents at its weekly meetings.

"We weren't implying this was the only way to have a heart-to-heart with the supervisor," Voyles said of the community dialogue. Residents are still free to call their elected officials.

Voyles was hoping 125 residents would call for the community dialogue. From those, 75 names would have been randomly chosen to sit in the audience of the forum, which was to be cablecast.

Voyles also had asked residents to call in with their name and the topic or question they wanted to ask elected officials. A reception was to follow, at which residents could ask more questions.

He acknowledged that perhaps the process was too complicated. Or that perhaps residents didn't appreciate having to tell him in advance what questions they wanted to ask or which topics they intended to address.

Voyles extended the deadline for reservations another week, until May 21, hoping for more public interest. At that time, he explained that he wanted an idea of the type of questions to be asked, but said questions would be randomly chosen during the cablecast.

DNR investigates leaking drums

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

The state Department of Natural Resources is expected to remove materials found in two abandoned barrels on private property on Newton, east of Beck Road.

According to a Canton police report, the property owner met with the Canton Fire Department when he stumbled across two 55-gallon drums thrown on his property.

One of the drums apparently was leaking a gray, thick fluid. Grass on which the fluid had apparently leaked was dried up and dead. A plastic lid found in the material said Ford Engineering Corp., according to the report.

"It's not believed to be of any immediate hazard to life or property," said Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher. "It is still yet to be analyzed. We believe it is an auto paint product or byproduct."

The hazardous materials team was called to the scene. Samples of the material were taken and put in a special drum. The state DNR also was called.

"We had a private company come out, and they gave the land owner an estimate for analyzing (the material) and removal," Rorabacher said.

The property owner apparently also talked to other companies. He also found out that the DNR will remove the materials, which could be a three- or four-week process, Rorabacher said.

Top businessperson lights up Canton

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

You can get lightbulbs just about anywhere. Just don't tell the lady in Florida that.

"She still calls and gets all of her lightbulbs from us," said Hazen Hiller, owner of Master Lighting on Ford Road. "We UPS them down there for her."

That's not to mention the Ohio housing contractor who sends his customers up to Master Lighting for their fixtures.

"They have to pass a half-dozen light stores on their way up here," said Hiller, who was recently honored with the 1993 Small Business Person of the Year Award by the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

By no means have Hiller and his family restricted their work to Michigan. They have decorated homes with lighting in Long Island, N.Y., Colorado and even Alaska.

"We work so much with clients we get to know them," said Hiller's wife, Georgie. "We're invited to people's homes for dinner to see the lights. We're sent flowers.

Master Lighting, which began in the Harvard Square shopping center and moved to its current location in 1984, is a family affair.

Hiller's daughters, Susan and Vicki, are the ones most customers see when they walk into the newly expanded store, designed by architect Stanley Tkacz.

"They're in the trenches," said Hiller, chamber past president and vice president. "My wife and I work behind the scenes. But we enjoy coming to the store and looking at all the toys."

Hiller, who says he's never opened a cash register in his life, handles the financial, administrative and legal side of the business. His wife, Georgie, pays the bills. Susan and Vicki are there.

"When we got involved in the business, there wasn't an option for failure. We always knew we would succeed," Susan said.

Vicki's first job was at Master Lighting. "I used to hang the lights and clean them. And I cleaned the bathroom, too."

Funny thing though, the sisters never played store when they were young. The store actually came to the family as a fluke.

Hiller, who was a sales engineer with an auto industry supplier, helped finance two young men in the lighting business. When they ran into trouble, Hiller stepped in. "I had to take the store over to protect my interest."

The Hillers had to learn about the lighting business. But Hiller followed the philosophy he followed as a sales engineer and while he had his own small manufacturing firm.

"We're here to serve the customer. We feel the sale isn't complete unless the customer is happy, said Hiller, an original member of the Canton Downtown Development Authority.

Add to that recipe a positive attitude, perseverance and dedication. Not to mention following through. Good ideas are good ideas — but so what unless you follow through, Hiller said.

"It's the same outlook you should have as an individual," he added.

It didn't take Vicki and Susan long to learn in the beginning that if they didn't know something, they told the customer: "No. I don't know. But I'll find out," Vicki said.

Talk about a thousand points of light. Master Lighting isn't in the dark. There's no question that customers aren't looking for just a lightbulb to illuminate a dark room. 'All of these things are a piece of artwork," Hiller said. "I don't appreciate some of them. But others are wonderful."

In the beginning, Susan and Vicki say they ate, slept and breathed the business. Today things are a bit easier thanks to a staff they have nurtured as family members.

But business still rules the day. "I kind of miss family dinners when we didn't have to talk about business," Vicki said, recalling Christmas mornings when talk always reverts to business.

Hiller defends himself. "Communication in any business is hard. You have to be sure everyone is walking down the same yellow brick road."

PLYMOUTH-CANTON SCHOOL BOARD ELECTION - JUNE 14

ONE SEAT OPEN FOR 4-YEAR TERM

CANDIDATE:	EMPLOYMENT EDUCATION:	ACTIVITIES:	QUESTION TWO: Do you favor Proposal A?
David Artley Canton resident 15 years	• Employment: Director of Development, Human Services Department, Kalamazoo County Administration • Education: bachelor's degree, Eastern Michigan University	trustee, Plymouth-Canton school board, Plymouth Rotarian; Canton Historic District Commission; Western Wayne Hospice Foundation; Plymouth-Canton Substance Abuse Task Force.	"The citizens of Michigan have waited far too long. There are some very positive things about Proposal A. The problem I have is who knows what is going to happen after it's voted on by the people of the state of Michigan? It's not acceptable to me as a board member or a citizen."
Robert Burger Plymouth Township resident 26 years	• Employment: retired teacher • Education: degrees from Wayne State and Eastern Michigan Universities	pastor, Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.	"I think we lose no matter which way we go. I'm uncertain, but I'm leaning toward supporting Proposal A. We would still need the four mills if we don't have Proposal A. If A passes, we're getting more money from people visiting the state and the tax still would be lower than in surrounding states. I don't think it would hurt the general public to have an increase in sales tax."
Terry Chuhran Canton resident 22 years	• Employment: metallurgical technician, Masco Research and Development • Education: associate degrees from Schoolcraft College. Working on bachelor's degree at Wayne State University	assistant hockey coach, Michigan Amateur Hockey Association.	"Proposal A is good for the entire state. We need to change the way we fund schools. It needs to be more fair. Yes, it means a shortfall here. As citizens of the state of Michigan, we need to look at the bigger picture. Education is for everyone. All kids don't earn up to their potential; those kids are going to support me when I'm retired."
Steve Kilijancyzk Canton resident 14 years	• Employment: systems analyst, Hospice of Southeastern Michigan • Education: bachelor's degree from John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio, master's degree from the University of Chicago.	member, Canton Advisory Council; Allen Elementary parent advisory group; treasurer, Pickwick Village subdivision.	"I'm working out the math for myself, and it doesn't come out in my favor. The elements need to be discussed and haven't been as far as categoricals such as special ed and vocational ed and the underlying definition of what the money is presenting. Before you may have gotten $5,000 per student, but there wasn't Social Security and teachers' pension taken out."
Rev. William Myers Canton resident 7 years	• Employment: pastor, Faith Community Moravian Church, 1986-1992. • Education: degrees from Eastern Michigan University and Moravian Theological Seminary.	pastoral adviser for Mid-states Regional Youth Council of the Moravian Church; I Care and Reproductive Health committees; Business Education Partnership; hospice board, marching band boosters, board of directors, Community Foundation board.	"I wish I knew more about Proposal A, but it sounds good. Anything that looks like it's going to be an improvement for education, I have to be for. But there are are still a lot of loose ends. It's a little bit of a shell game. They guarantee a certain amount of money for students, but we will share all expenses, Social Security and retirement. It's a moving target."

Voters quiz board hopefuls

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton voters quizzed four candidates for the school board at a League of Women Voters' candidates night at Plymouth Salem High School Wednesday.

One four-year term is open. The election is Monday, June 14. Also on the ballot will be a 4-mill tax increase and a 17.74-mill renewal, should Proposal A fail in the statewide election Wednesday, June 2.

Candidates include incumbent trustee David Artley, Robert Burger of Plymouth Township, Terry Chuhran of Canton, Steve Kilijanczyk of Canton, and the Rev. William Myers of Canton. Burger, who is ill, didn't attend.

The forum was taped by Omnicom cable and will be broadcast on Channel 8 at 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 1; 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 5; 8:30 p.m. Monday, June 7, and 5:30 p.m. Thursday, June 10.

In opening remarks, Myers said he is in the race "because there are tremendously important issues regarding the education of our children that aren't being dealt with." Myers said he tried to drop out of the campaign when he discovered he was moving (to take a new job), but that he has since been urged not to by many residents who say he is the only one dealing with the issues.

"We have almost 400 fourth graders who aren't reading," said Myers. "We have overcrowding at the high school which is leading to an increase in violence, and poor communication in the district.

The Myers issue

"I apologize for the fact I have become the issue. Even though the messenger is gone, the message lives on. That's why I am still in this campaign."

Said Chuhran: "I think each and every board member should have a focus to specialize in. I would look at the waste in the system and make sure tax dollars are spent as efficiently as possible."

Chuhran took aim at Myers.

"When I pulled petitions, I fully intended to serve a four-year term. I don't have a job waiting for me any place."

Kilijanczyk said "the reason I got into the race is to improve leadership and the decision-making ability of this board."

Financial skills

As a board member, Kilijanczyk said he would apply his financial skills in helping to solve the critical issues now facing the district. "What I intend to do is to have some open forums and listen to what parents and staff have to say. Right now, I see three major areas: finances, instructional technology and the curriculum, which in the elementary levels is heavily focused on developmental. Many parents are having problems with that."

Artley said he moved to the district because of its schools. "I have a background in business, I've sent my children to these schools and I have a grandchild who may attend Plymouth-Canton schools, which gives me a long-term vested interest."

Artley said getting citizens involved in education "is one of my landmarks."

User-friendly

"The schools must be user-friendly, not so that people will always hear what they want, but so they'll get an answer in a timely fashion," he said.

Candidates were asked whether they're satisfied with academics in the district.

"This school system has one of the better ratings of any school district around here. I know there are problems at the elementary level and I know we need to look at it," said Chuhran.

"To measure the excellence is pretty hard to do," Kilijanczyk said. "To measure results, I would look for feedback in the vocational area to find out if we are really doing things based on the results we expect. I'm especially interested in outcome-based education that the state is supporting."

Said Artley: "The question is, can we do better? Yes. The day you can't improve is the day you should get out of the business. Eighty-three percent of our kids go onto college or vocational training, and our MEAP scores rank very well."

MEAP scores

Myers called the district's MEAP scores disappointing. He said a Realtor he heard from recently said she is having difficulty selling homes "because of the perception that Plymouth-Canton schools are deteriorating."

He said student assessment must go beyond the MEAP. "We don't do any national testing, let alone global," Myers said.

Kilijanczyk said he's dissatisfied with the developmental program. "It leaves a lot to be desired. It's inconsistent and there is no monitoring of it. There are lot of fourth-graders being lost. At a minimum, we need to complement the program with a traditional approach."

Artley said regarding the developmental philosophy that he has "deep concerns about any child with problems in learning. If we had the money, I would like to see the elementary curriculum director back in place."

Myers said the developmental program is designed for classrooms of "15-18 kids. We don't have classrooms with that few; we are closer to double that number. So that system is a bad fit."

Chuhran said "You have a problem that has to be solved and dealt with quickly. What do we do about those students who are behind? Do we train the teachers or scrap the program? We can't let a situation like this continue."

Tax-hike backers plan rally Thursday

The Plymouth-Canton Citizen Election Committee is hosting a rally from 7:20 p.m.-8:20 p.m. Thursday in Phase Three at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

"Explanation, information and motivation" is the theme of the rally.

Voters will be asked June 14 to approve 4 additional mills and renew 17.74 mills if Proposal A fails June 2. If Proposal A passes, just the 4-mill levy will be on the ballot.

School bands will perform beginning at 7 p.m., and the public is invited.

For more information, call election headquarters on Ford Road at 455-7640 in the evening only.

Chamber phone-a-thon ropes in 31 new members

The Canton Chamber of Commerce recently competed in the first annual Chamber Challenge of the Five Star Chambers.

On May 7, the wild Canton Cowboys took on the Westland Redwings, the Garden City Giants, the Westland Wolverines and the Wayne Wildcats in the first annual "Chamber Challenge Member Drive" at Garden City Hospital. The hospital donated the room, phone lines and telephone charges.

The Canton team worked their fingers and their ears to the bone calling the non-member Canton businesses and inviting them to join the chamber. The challenge ended at high noon, with Wayne and Westland tied for first place at 19 members, winning Tigers tickets donated by Jack Demmer Ford.

The Canton Cowboys, however, roped in the most members of the day — 31 — because they continued calling all day.

The Canton chamber had more callers than phones. Chamber executive director Linda Shapona thanked the follwing callers, runners, contributors and coordinators: Carol Hay, chairwoman/cheerleader/caller; Gloria Janks, chamber office runner-coordinator; Nick Kulka, cowboy cheerleader and inspiration; Tom Adamusik, highest memberships sold; Frankie Middleton, prize "rounder-upper"; Cowboy callers Carol Felker, Dennis Thoune, Philip Sugg, Dawn Scott, Jess Callaway, Mary Kay Witzke, Bob Olson, Janet Violante and Thom Kenney; and Cowboy runners Bob Boyer, Ron Lieberman, Lynda Willis and Frank McMurray.

These businesses donated prizes and props: grand prize, 19 Tiger baseball tickets from Jack Demmer Ford; Detroit Edison; Basket Kreations; Outback Steakhouse; Key Services; McDonald's of Canton; Palermo's Pizzeria; Bob Evans restaurant; Silver Sounds Professional DJ; and Michigan Bell.

Local Cubs display skills in district Pinewood Derby

St. Robert of Bellarmine School in Redford was the scene of the 15th annual Gemini District Pinewood Derby race recently for Cub Scouts representing 47 Cub Scout packs from seven communities.

The boys were winners from their local packs' Pinewood Derby races and had qualified to compete in one of the three age classes (Wolf, Bear, and Webelos level) for the top honors in district competition.

A total of 20 awards were presented to the top six finishers and runners-up in each class.

This was the 40th year for Pinewood Derby races in the United States since the first race was held in California in 1953.

Scouts have built and raced more than 81 million pinewood derby cars nationwide.

The Gemini District boys had to lit their miniature race cars from a block of wood, with the assistance from a family adult, for the race. No two car designs were alike, with some of the car designs looking like real race cars, and some were futuristic advance designs. The cars were raced on a three-lane wooden track, with gravity providing the only means of propulsion.

A total of 450 parents and friends were present on May 1 to cheer their favorite entries on to victory. The winners represented 14 packs and received a total of 20 trophies. Each winner was rewarded with a photograph with Al Unser, Jr.'s winning Indy 500 race car.

The awards went to 10 boys from Livonia, four boys from Redford, four boys from Canton, and two boys from Plymouth.

Brandon Lambert of Pack 781 in Plymouth kept his string of wins alive by repeating as the fastest Webelos car. He had previously won the Wolf and Bear categories in 1991 and 1992.

Brandon Czekaj of Pack 271 in Livonia also repeated as a winner in the Bear Class. He was the top Wolf racer in 1992.

Jonathan Rether of Pack 435 in Redford was undefeated in his races in the Wolf Class and beat out Dusten Rhodes of Redford Pack 387 for top honors in the youngest class.

Eric Adams of Livonia Pack 270 moved up from a 1992 Bear Class runnerup to third place in this year's Webelos Class, by barely losing out to Jason Givens of Livonia Pack 870 in a three way race for second place, along with fourth place finisher David Ebersole of Canton Pack 1738.

Elsewhere in the Webelos Class, three other previous trophy winners battled for sixth place behind fifth place finisher Ryan Bartman of Livonia Pack 907. David Brandes of Canton Pack 898 managed to squeak ahead of runnerups Ryan Copi of Livonia Pack 271 and Kris Schimmelpfenneg of Canton Pack 854.

Six Cub Packs had winners in two classes, including Livonia Packs 270, 271, 790, and 870, Redford Pack 387, and Canton Pack 898.

The boys were treated to a closeup look and photographs with Al Unser, Jr.'s winning Indy 500 race car, provided through the courtesy of local Valvoline oil change merchants.

Redford winners include Jonathan Reiher, Dusten Rhodes, Brian Leith, and Mike Arnold.

Livonia winners were Drew Girard, Mike Rodgers, Nick Adams, Brandon Czekaj, Ken Jenk, Andrew Brisette, Jason Givens, Eric Adams, Ryan Bartman and Ryan Copi.

Canton winners were Chris Rallo, David Ebersole, David Brandes and Kris Schimmelpfenneg.

Plymouth winners were Michael Spencer and Brandon Lambert.

Don Tappan, Janette Madsen's brother, said after the standoff, "We're all relieved it's over.

"The children can grieve the loss of their parents and get on with their lives," he said Thursday. "They're still basically in shock; we've had a few tears."

Asked if Donald Madsen had demonstrated behavior that suggested he could murder, Tappan said no.

"I don't want to sit up here and trash the father of my niece and nephew," he said.

He thanked counselors who've talked with the Madsens' children, ages 15 and 8, during the ordeal. They were taken after the shooting to the Plymouth Township offices and are now with relatives.

While Donald Madsen sounded remorseful in some conversations Wednesday afternoon with police, Plymouth Township police Chief Carl Berry said that Madsen also issued threats — to himself, Berry, the judge who was presiding over the divorce, and others.

After leaving a shotgun at the scene of his wife's shooting, Madsen was holding a 9 mm automatic gun and a .22 caliber pistol.

Not long after the shooting, police were able to determine he was in a three-mile radius north of Plymouth — even though he told some friends over his cellular phone that he was at another residence in Brighton.

"We think he was at his condo in Northville the whole time," Berry said.

Jan Madsen's divorce attorney, Garth Jackson, said that while Donald Madsen maintained the shooting was over a denial of his rights to see his children, this wasn't true.

"He had spent three weeks with the children in Australia in November 1992," Jackson said, adding Madsen also had weekly visitation rights.

Chamber of Commerce Business Education Alliance, say that while Proposal A isn't perfect, it provides Michigan with a more stable, balanced tax system.

Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business, said, "It's not that the board isn't for lower property taxes, but we are also for maintaining stability in the schools."

Proposal A definitely is a significant tax cut, he said, but voters will still experience a tax cut if both Proposal A and the 4-mill levy on the June 14 ballot pass.

Proposal A would enable the district to levy 19.26 non-voted mills. Passage of the 4 mills would raise the total levy to 23.26 mills, "which is a 10.61-mill decrease from the current operating levy," said Hoedel. "Proposal A is not very good legislation, particularly for Plymouth-Canton schools." Among its shortcomings is that it doesn't allow for contingency funds in school districts' budgets, he said.

Hoedel said that if Proposal A passes and "we don't get the 4 mills and schools are dropped to 19.26 mills, we are looking at $6[illegible] million in cuts." Cuts already agreed to by the board for next year amount to $4.9 million.

"We have to come up with $2 million to get up to $6.9 million," he said. "That probably means a five-hour day at the middle and high school, and we would seriously look at decreasing transportation at the high school level."

Wolkow told the board it would actually enjoy more, not less, local control if Proposal A passes, since money would arrive in block grant form, not earmarked for specific categories of spending.

Hoedel disagreed. "The state is now contributing roughly less than 5 percent of revenues, and that's including Social Security reimbursement. Under the new plan, they are going to contribute, say, 43 percent of the revenues. It looks like they could and would insist on more state mandates in setting up various rules and regulations. They might attach some strings to it."

Wolkow argued that sales tax revenues have historically increased in Michigan, which makes the proposed financing system stable. "What if the sales tax goes down in Michigan and they are not getting the revenues?" asked Hoedel. "They are going to struggle, too. If they have to maintain these guarantees, they will have to seek the revenue from wherever. There is no free ride."

The 4 mills "isn't a bonanza for us," he said. "It's just maintaining."

Licata, father of two children attending Plymouth-Canton schools, favors A because it reduces property tax rate disparities among communities and reduces average property taxes for local school operating purposes by 37 percent.

It also reduces the inequities in Michigan's current system, "which relies too much on local property taxes," he said.

If Proposal A passes, property tax assessments would revert to the 1991-92 levels with a 3-percent increase — nearly canceling out the huge hikes felt by some farmers. The 5-percent or rate of inflation, whichever is less, clause of the proposal would remain in effect until land is sold. When it is sold, it would be reassessed up to half of market value.

"You take a jump when you sell," Whyman said. "In the second year of home ownership (when you buy), that's where you get the benefit."

Detractors, Whyman said, argue that the system would allow similar houses in a neighborhood to be assessed at substantially different levels.

"If you stay in your house longer, you will receive a benefit," Whyman said.

A resident said that under Proposal A, if all houses in a neighborhood sell, "there goes the break."

But Robert Craig, of the state Department of Agriculture, said that's not necessarily true. "It's no different than it is right now."

SC to raise tuition $3 per credit hour

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College trustees tended to a tower of business last week, raising tuition, adopting a tax levy, adopting a budget and raising the salary of 66 employees.

By unanimous vote, trustees Mary Breen, Michael Burley, Winifred Fraser, Harry Greenleaf, Steve Ragan, John Walsh and Patricia Watson raised tuition for in-district students from $40 a credit hour to $43, a 7.5 percent increase.

In the 29 years since Schoolcraft was founded in 1964, trustees have raised tuition 17 times. Fourteen of those increases have come in the 15 years since 1978.

Trustees also raised non-resident tuition from $60 to $64.50 and out-of-state tuition from $87.50 to $94.

However, Schoolcraft tuition still compares favorably with other suburban area community colleges. Next fall, students at Henry Ford, Oakland and Washtenaw community colleges are expected to pay $41, $45 and $47 per credit hour, respectively.

The reason tuition has risen so dramatically, Schoolcraft officials say, is that the state government's annual subsidies to all community colleges haven't kept pace with inflation. Years ago, the state subsidy accounted for roughly one-third of Schoolcraft's budget. Property tax revenue and tuition comprised the other two-thirds.

In the $32 million budget for 1993-4 approved last week, the state subsidy accounts for 26 percent, property taxes 39 percent and tuition 34 percent. The state subsidy fell by 0.78 percent in dollars, but by more than 3 percent if inflation is factored in.

The $1 million increase over last year's budget comes entirely from additional property tax revenue generated by new construction and by the tuition increase.

Trustees last week saw no alternative to raising tuition short of cutting programs. Greenleaf said the board will have to "take a concentrated look at the whole cost-containment area" in the next few years because the state subsidy isn't expected to rise anytime soon.

Ragan was more blunt. "Some universities are looking at drastic cuts in salary," he said. "We're going to have to look very hard at that."

Yet just a few minutes later trustees voted unanimously to raise the pay of the 12 top administrators and 58 clerical employees by 4.5 percent, effective July 1. Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell said the raises are consistent with what the unions at Schoolcraft are getting this year.

The top three salaries in that group of 12 are:

- $88,000 for vice-president for instruction Conway Jeffress.
- $81,000 for vice president for business service Adelard "Butch" Raby.
- $81,000 for vice president for student services Barbara Geil.

McDowell, whose salary the board will consider raising later this year, currently gets $95,000 a year.

The board also set the next fiscal year's millage levy, reducing it from 1.9231 to 1.8521, in accordance with the Headlee Amendment to the state constitution. The Headlee Amendment says a taxing body has to reduce its millage levy if assessment increases rise faster than the rate of inflation.

Technically, Schoolcraft's authorized millage has been 2.27 since 1986 when voters approved the addition of 0.5 mill.

Although Headlee has reduced that millage levy almost every year since, new construction in the district and inflation have boosted Schoolcraft's tax collection from about $8 million in 1986 to more than $12 million this year.

House party bills heading to Senate

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ Adult hosts of teen drinking parties face jail, and drunk drivers who seriously injure others could have their vehicles confiscated, under bills heading to the state Senate floor.

Adult hosts of teen drinking parties face jail, and drunk drivers who seriously injure others could have their vehicles confiscated, under bills heading to the state Senate floor.

"I call it the 'house party' bill," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, sponsor of Senate Bill 154.

He listed teen deaths along old Grand River Avenue that occur every spring, adding, "There's nothing to prosecute the adult who had served alcohol in his home. This will send a strong message."

The bill, approved 3 to 0 Thursday by the Senate Judiciary Committee, would apply to adults in social gatherings in meeting halls, hotels, conference rooms, their homes, cottages, mobile homes, apartments and even tents. Penalties: up to 90 days in jail and a fine of $500.

Dillingham said the Senate had passed his bill twice in the past, only to have it bottled up in the House Judiciary Committee by chair Perry Bullard, D-Ann Arbor. Bullard has left the Legislature. "We won't get into the no-love-lost between Rep. Bullard and myself," said Dillingham.

"Is a $500 fine enough?" asked Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit.

"It makes the point," said Dillingham.

His bill was supported by the Michigan State Police and Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems. MICAP chief Alan B. Rice said city ordinances prohibiting teen parties have been effective in Saline, Traverse City and Grosse Pointe.

Vehicles only

Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, sponsored SB 555 to authorize prosecuting units of government to seize the vehicles of drunk drivers who caused someone's death or long-term disabling injury.

The state Crime Victims' Fund would share in 25 percent of the vehicle's value.

Smith asked whether it would allow confiscating someone's home. "I told you I have my reservations about taking someone's home," he said.

Bouchard said the bill would apply only to vehicles as "the instrumentality of the crime." He added, "Where they've gone after a person's property, they've done it under the provision to take proceeds of drug activity."

MICAP's Rice also supported the bill, which the Judiciary Committee reported out under another 3-0 vote.

Bills delayed

Chair William Van Regenmorter, R-Jenison, delayed a hearing on his bill to ease some penalties for drunk driving.

His SB 631 would make it a felony for a drunk driver to cause "serious injury." Current felony law applies to "long-term incapacitating injury."

But the penalty for a third offense would be reduced form one year to 30 days

A Senate Fiscal Agency impact statement said the bill would result in more convictions but a cost savings for the prison system. "In 1990, 42 individuals were sentenced to prison under this section of law with an average minimum sentence of 1.7 years. If, in the future, judges chose to sentence only half as many people to prison, annual costs for the Department of Corrections could decrease by $535,500," said the SFA.

Van Regenmorter canceled a hearing on SB 394 to reduce the definition of drunk driving from 0.10 percent blood alcohol content to 0.08. The 0.10 percent law has been in effect since 1972.

For hearing schedules or to comment on bills, write to Senate Judiciary Committee, 405 Farnum Building, Lansing 48913. It helps to refer to the bill number.

Lawmakers fail to curb state corrections spending

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Hold down soaring prison costs, the state house of representatives warned Gov. John Engler last week as it passed a record corrections department budget.

The vote was 78 to 18. Conservatives tried many amendments and succeeded on two.

"The fastest-growing category of state government in the last decade was corrections," said freshman Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, a "no" vote.

"Corrections spending increased from about $200 million in the early 1980s to $1.15 billion in this appropriation. This trend is expected to continue through the 1990s.

"So why is Lansing spending $1.2 million on free college education for maximum security prisoners when so many law-abiding families need tax relief to pay for their own offspring's education? Why are we debating today how to make it easier for prisoners to receive welfare upon their release, when so many working men and women need tax relief to feed their families?" said Kaza.

Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, voted no for different reasons. "I do not support using 37.1 percent of all new revenues for (fiscal) 1994 for the department of corrections," said Profit, one of the inner circle of Democratic leaders.

Profit said the new money should go for "job creation efforts, environmental protection, educational opportunity, mental health and other, more positive, investment-oriented state efforts."

Engler warned

On final passage, all area lawmakers but Kaza voted yes and sent the bill to the Senate.

The real battle was over amendments.

Profit and Republican Bill Martin of Battle Creek won voice approval of an amendment to restrict prisoner workers: "The department shall not allow prisoners to perform any work that would require a license if performed by anyone other than a prisoner."

A second Martin and Profit amendment warned Gov. John Engler and Attorney General Frank Kelley "not (to) enter into a consent decree or judgment concerning the operation of a correctional facility without prior approval" of legislators. It passed by a voice vote.

It was the lawmakers' way of saying they were angry that $84 million in new spending was imposed by federal courts.

Vorva, Jamian lose

Freshman Reps. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, and John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, lost their efforts to amend the bill.

The House rejected Vorva's amendment to require the corrections department to "implement programs to recover the cost of imprisonment and education" by "recovery of costs from tax refunds, wages, judgments" and other payments.

The vote was 44 to 50.

Yes votes were cast by Republicans Penny Crissman of Rochester, Jamian, Kaza, Vorva and Deborah Whyman of Canton.

No votes were cast by Republicans Lyn Bankes of Livonia, Barbara Dobb of Union Lake, Jan Dolan of Farmington, and Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak; and Democrats Maxine Berman of Southfield and Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

Missing the vote were Democrats Justine Barns of Westland and William Keith of Garden City.

Jamian, a second-term member, teamed with David Jaye, R-Utica, in a losing effort to add: "If a prisoner performs tutorial services for another prisoner, half of the funds appropriated . . . shall first be used to pay any amount of restitution owed by the prisoner or used to reimburse the cost of the prisoner's incarceration."

Jamian's amendment failed, 52 to 48, with 55 needed for passage.

Yes — Republicans Bankes, Crissman, Jamian, Kaza, Vorva and Whyman.

McNamara saves tax dollars in commission contract snafu

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Oops!

It was recently discovered that the Wayne County Commission approved a contract in February with Belle Tires of Allen Park for a service the county already had a contract for with RAO Wholesale of Detroit.

All it took to set this error in motion, according to an April 23 agenda for the Committee of Roads, Airports and Public Services, was "a change in staff assignments" in the Purchasing Division.

The three-year $217,000 RAO Wholesale contract was approved in April 1992. But, according to commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, someone erroneously posted a one-year "purchase order" for the contract.

A year later, another purchasing division employee noted the soon-to-expire purchase order, assumed the contract was of one-year duration, and set the wheels in motion to accept bids for another contract.

Then last Feb. 18, just 10 months after the RAO contract was put in effect, a second contract for the same thing was approved with Belle Tires.

Luckily for county taxpayers, county Executive Edward McNamara hadn't signed the new contract when "RAO said, 'Hold it. We've got a three-year contract,'" Amann said.

Deputy Executive Michael Duggan said "the mistake was caught before it did any damage."

The county commission is expected to officially rescind its approval of the Belle Tire contract at its next meeting.

Amann, an attorney, said the commission can rescind the contract without fear of a lawsuit from Belle Tires because McNamara never signed the contract.

Hart opposes Senate bill to deregulate state trucking

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Two area state senators will battle soon over a bill to "get Michigan out of the way of entrepreneurs in the trucking industry."

On the side of deregulation is Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, sponsor of Senate Bill 581. He calls state regulations "a Byzantine nightmare" that forces truck companies over the border to Toledo and raises consumer costs.

Favoring continued regulation is Sen. George Z. Hart, D-Dearborn, whose district includes Garden City. "If intrastate (within Michigan) trucking is deregulated, smaller businesses will enter the industry, hiring non-union, inexperienced drivers.

"These drivers will receive less wages and longer hours. Smaller businesses will seek maximum profits at the expense of safety," said Hart.

With Hart dissenting, Honigman's Senate Labor Committee last week reported out SB 581 for full Senate action. The Capitol corridor outside the second-floor Senate chamber is likely to be full of truckers, Teamsters, lobbyists and lawyers when the bill comes to a vote.

George Hart

PSC regulates

The Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC) approves truckers' routes, certifies which products they may haul and regulates the rates they charge.

Competitors may challenge a company's application — as happened to Jim Vannette of Holland Special Deliveries, a 12-vehicle company hauling automotive parts and supplies.

"I applied for extensions of authority on four different occasions and was denied," Vannette told a packed hearing room last week. "Every mile I travel in Michigan is empty coming back."

To Honigman, that regulation was wasteful — millions of miles traveled burning fossil fuel with no return cargoes.

"Five thousand operating authorities have been issued since 1982," countered Farmington Hills attorney Bob McFarlane for the Transportation Lawyers Association. "His (Vannette's) is the only one I'm aware of where an application has been denied since 1982."

Ron Thompson, traffic services manager for Spartan Stores of Grand Rapids and Plymouth, said the grocery chain's trucks log five million empty miles on return trips.

Honigman asked McFarlane, "What's your rationale for making Spartan Stores go back with empty trucks?"

"By making Spartan more efficient, you make other companies less efficient," said McFarlane. He added that Spartan is approved for carrying only commodities.

Helps minorities

John James of OJ Transport in Detroit, a certified minority auto parts hauler, said "Regulation helps minorities compete with the large companies. Big companies can't use predatory pricing to put small companies out of business."

James said Michigan would do more for trucking by cutting workers compensation rates and taxes. He said Michigan truckers pay 2.5 times as much for workers compensation than Indiana truckers. "Ohio and Illinois (truckers) don't pay sales tax on the equipment used in interstate commerce," James added.

Honigman liked those ideas. "We'll have you back when we do workers comp, unemployment comp and the single business tax," the senator said.

Honigman argued that Michigan regulations make it cheaper for a trucker to cross a state line for an interstate trip than to ship entirely within Michigan.

"Georgia Pacific Co. showed it pays 20 percent more to move goods from Detroit to Grand Rapids (149 miles) than from Toledo to Grand Rapids (174 miles)," he said.

Honigman said a small Lansing moving company, Two Men and a Truck, was hit by complaints from nine big truckers when it sought PSC approval to expand beyond Lansing. "Unable to afford the expensive legal fees to fight those challenges, Two Men and a Truck backed off," he said.

Hart said the federal trend toward deregulation has cost trucking more than 160,000 jobs since the early 1980s and resulted in the bankruptcy of 2,000 interstate carriers in 1991 and 1,600 in 1990.

No — Republicans Dobb, Dolan and Johnson; Democrats Berman, Keith and Young.

Democrat Barns missed the vote.

3 new prisons

The budget measure funds the opening of three new prisons that had been built but mothballed for lack of operating revenue.

It also was a one-year appropriation, though Gov. Engler had proposed a two-year budget.

Jaye, the Utica conservative known for his desire to upset the Lansing applecart, cited a long list of objections to line items in the bill.

"The budget gives Michigan prisoners free college education with no repayment requirements, provides a $500,000 indoor exercise facility at each prison, provides for $200,000 annually for each prison to operate an electronic law library, free health care, free room and board, free laundry services and free entertainment.

"Civilian food testers ensure that mashed potatoes are served hot and Jell-O is served chilled.

■ The House rejected Rep. Jerry Vorva's amendment to require the corrections department to "implement programs to recover the cost of imprisonment and education" by "recovery of costs from tax refunds, wages, judgments" and other payments.

"Michigan convicts are overloading court dockets and squandering $5 million annually with hundreds of frivolous lawsuits against the state. A rapist actually claimed he lost a clearinghouse sweepstakes because the state mailed his entry form too late. . . . Over 34 state-paid attorneys handle 4,008 inmate lawsuits now pending."

Meanwhile, lawmakers are moving to curb court appeals by inmates. The senate has approved a constitutional amendment lifting the automatic right to appeal of convicts who have pleaded guilty.

The house has yet to act. If placed on the 1994 ballot, voters will decide whether to limit prisoners' court appeals.

Belle Isle attracts fans of all ages

Hands[illegible] down holding flags of encouragement — the usual montage of smiling faces trying to squeeze into the camera's view at major sporting events. However, this year at First of America Free Prix Day on Belle Isle, you may see a number of fans straying away from the camera.

Since the event is annually held on a Friday, many of the expected 60,000 race enthusiasts will be escaping from a day of work or school hoping not to be caught by the watchful eye of the camera. Dedicated fans are expected to travel from as far as Canada and northern Michigan to enjoy a day of [illegible]

"I am c[illegible] joyed by th[illegible] into Free P[illegible] troit Grand Prix President Robert McCabe, sponsor of the three-day race.

In addition to the record-setting number, nearly 45,000 are expected to view the Grand Prix race on Sunday.

Race fans range in age and social class grounds, from high-powered businessmen and women to fathers and sons reliving memories of past generations of racing legends. "The attraction of Indy car racing seems to stem from inside race fans and isn't definable by gender, race or social status," commented McCabe. "The diversity of the audience itself plays a major role in the success of racing."

McCabe hopes track conditions continue to be as favorable as in past years [illegible] Indy car race. Race officials assisted volunteers in rescuing the bewildered animal.

Athletes who drive [illegible]

Athletes come in many shapes and sizes, yet constant visions of physically superior "super-beings" pushing themselves to the limits seem to plague the minds of most Americans. This fallacy has led to the exclusion of many deserving athletic groups, one being race car drivers.

The argu[illegible] ing a test of athletic ability? The car expends all of the energy, not the driver."

The rationale becomes clear when you examine the word "athlete." An athlete is someone who takes part in competitive sports. No one can deny that racing cars is a competitive sport. So although race car drivers like Scott Brayton, for example, may not be able to run a mile in under five minutes or bring in the winning run in the ninth inning, they can make hundreds of life-threatening decisions throughout a challenging three-hour race, displaying a level of concentration worthy of any athletic event.

Brayton set his sites on car racing early in life. The son of former Indy car driver Lee Brayton, Scott has been racing cars since he received a go-cart for his fifth birthday. Scott moved up from racing go-carts to open-wheel formula cars and the Formula Ford series. In 1981, Brayton, who hails from Coldwater, Mich., began racing

Brayton started his Indy car career by driving partial campaigns almost exclusively for his family's team. However, he made his mark in 1985 when he set a track-record lap time of 214.99 mph and qualified with a four-lap average speed of 212.354 on opening day of the Indy 500. This year, Scott, sponsored by First of America Bank, will drive No. 22, Amway's Winning Spirit Indy Car in the Detroit PPG Indy Car race, the Indianapolis 500, the Milwaukee 200 and the Michigan 500.

Man faces charge of negligent homicide

■ Ralph Louis Kroll, 68, of Livonia, died May 18 from multiple injuries suffered in the accident. Kroll, who was given CPR after he was slumped over the wheel at the scene, was taken off a life support system at Livonia's St. Mary Hospital.

William C. Underwood, 29, of Northville is scheduled to appear for a preliminary examination in 35th District Court June 4 on a charge of negligent homicide stemming from a May 12 accident on Sheldon north of Ann Arbor Road.

Ralph Louis Kroll, 68, of Livonia died May 18 from multiple injuries suffered in the accident. Kroll, who was given CPR after he was slumped over the wheel at the scene, was taken off a life support system at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Kroll was driving north on Sheldon south of Beech in a 1986 Dodge four-door at 3:25 p.m. when the accident occurred. Underwood was driving west on Beech in a 1992 Ford.

Underwood stopped for the stop sign at Sheldon and then drove into the path of Kroll's car. Kroll attempted to stop but struck Underwood's car at a right angle. Underwood, who registered a blood alcohol level of .00 percent, turned himself in.

Underwood said Kroll was signaling and that he thought Kroll was turning.

"What we have here is a tragedy," said Plymouth Police Chief Robert Scoggins.

At Underwood's arraignment, a $5,000 personal bond was set. Negligent homicide is a misdemeanor punishable by two years in prison or a $2,000 fine.

Student reaction

I am going to be a senior in the fall at Canton High School and I am concerned about the millage vote coming up on June 14.

What concerns me is that if the millage doesn't pass, the sports and all the other co-curricular activities are going to be removed from the school.

That really bothers me because this will be my third year on the varsity football team and I'm looking forward to the next season. That's why I am concerned.

But there are many other reasons why we need these activities. First, let's look at sports. Sports allow the students to learn things that they may not learn in the classroom. They learn to get along with each other. They learn self-discipline and self-confidence.

Now take this for an example. Let's say Joe Blow is the best athlete in the school, plays three sports and carries a 3.0 G.P.A. His senior year is coming up and there are no sports at his school, and he was counting on sports to get into college because he comes from a low-income family and will not be allowed to continue his education without a scholarship.

Now what are his choices? He could transfer to another school, but will not be allowed to play until January or Feb. 2.

He could go after an academic scholarship. But his grade point really isn't high enough to receive one. And lastly, he could ask his family if they want to move so he can play. Most families will not be allowed to move cause they are comfortable here.

But if you cut the co-curricular activities like band, I mean band really put Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem on the map by being the state champion for four straight years and also national champs two years in a row. Our drama and choir classes are really good. I had a sister who was in choir when she attended here.

Some things that might happen is that we have to pay to play. To me, that is total BS. My father, my uncle and students who graduated from here did not have to pay to play. These things are privileges that we deserve and we should have to pay (taxes) for them.

So please, I hope the voters will take all these things into consideration and vote yes on June 14, 1993, on the 4-mill increase.

Kevin Shankle, Canton

Proposal A backed

As a tax professional, Plymouth resident, and parent of two children in the Plymouth-Canton school district, I was both disturbed and embarrassed by the school board's recent vote to oppose Proposal A.

The comments made by certain board members at recent meetings demonstrate both their lack of knowledge and their parochial views on financing public education. Many of their comments were inaccurate, and have fueled the confusion and fear surrounding Proposal A. After reviewing the facts related to Proposal A, it is easy to understand why it has attracted the broad base of support that it takes to effect meaningful change.

Proposal A provides Michigan with a more balanced tax system. Michigan has among the highest property taxes and lowest sales tax in the nation. Our high property taxes are a significant deterrent to business investment, causing Michigan to lose jobs to other states (our relative property tax burden being the second highest in the nation). Michigan's 4 percent sales tax rate is below the national average rate of 6 percent, as well as below the Great Lakes states' average of 6.4 percent, and the industrial states' average of 7 percent.

Proposal A does provide meaningful property tax reduction in two ways. First, it reduces average property taxes for local school operating purposes by 37 percent. Plymouth-Canton's school millage will be reduced over 41 percent, from 33.9 mills to 19.9 mills. This change will significantly reduce the property tax rate disparities between communities. More importantly, Proposal A provides for a constitutionally guaranteed limit on future assessment increases to the lesser of 5 percent or the rate of inflation, with a rollback of your 1993 assessment increase to 3 percent. This limitation will provide substantially more future tax savings than the millage reductions.

However, the most important impact of Proposal A is not the improved balance of Michigan's tax system, but that it represents significant school finance reform to reduce the inequities of Michigan's current system which relies too much on local property taxes. By reducing the over-reliance on local property taxes and increasing the state's responsibility to fund education, taxpayers can limit the recent inflationary increases in school spending without losing any local control of the management of the school system. In addition, the $4,800 per pupil guarantee will provide greater equity in funding public education without implementing the "Robin Hood" proposals that pit wealthier districts against poorer districts.

Taxpayers in the Plymouth-Canton district should realize that under Proposal A our per pupil revenue increases from $4,926 to $5,074, (according to information published by the Michigan Treasury Department) and that it will continue to increase at the rate of inflation or 3 percent per year even if the taxpayers do not approve any future millage increases.

Our School Board doesn't believe that it benefits enough from this proposal. They should be embarrassed by the example they set for our children, that personal greed takes priority over equality — that an inequitable school finance system is more acceptable than a more equitable system, as long as our district is not being treated unfairly. This attitude sounds very similar to another opponent to Proposal A, who opposes it only because it doesn't give any more money to the City of Detroit — Coleman A. Young.

In our political system, history has proven that opportunities to achieve substantive change are few. Let's not squander this constructive change to enhance our state's economic viability and to provide a more equitable means of financing our public school system.

Michael Licata, Plymouth

Millage support

My husband and I moved here from North Olmsted, Ohio, a western suburb of Cleveland, in 1985. We chose the Plymouth-Canton area because of the community atmosphere and the quality of the schools.

My daughter has gone on to the University of Michigan. All her friends are attending college. My son and daughter alike have participated in many extracurricular activities at the Park. These activities have done more than just take up their time. They have learned life skills . . .

Although the classroom is the most important part of formal school learning, I believe education is more than sitting in a classroom. People learn by doing, experimenting and failing . . . activities will suffer if the millage is defeated because our buildings will no longer be open after regular school hours. No more community dance recitals in May. No more track meets, band competitions, football games, swim meets, soccer matches, etc.

The chance to do something after school that is constructive is very helpful to children.

I truly believe that Lansing is trying to balance its budget by getting out of the business of education. And I also believe that no one up there cares about my child's education the way I do. I do not intend to ruin the opportunities of the present and future children of this community for what amounts to a handful of change per day. Let Lansing get its house in order. The 4 mills will give our schools two years of stability while they are coming to terms with the financial problems of this state. I will vote yes for the 4 mills, and I hope and pray there are many more out there who feel as I do.

Susan C. Konovaliv, Plymouth

Millage questions

I am writing to express my concern regarding the recent statistics published in the May 16 Sunday edition of the Detroit newspapers concerning per pupil spending in each school district in the state.

Of the 34 school districts listed under Wayne County, Plymouth-Canton ranks in the bottom seven in per pupil spending. The city of Detroit spends more per pupil, according to this listing, than Plymouth-Canton.

I also recall several years ago, academic ratings were published in the Detroit newspapers, and Plymouth-Canton ranked slightly below the median.

I have lived in Plymouth Township for five years and pay substantial property tax, of which 68 percent is allocated to the school district. Certainly, the tax base of Plymouth-Canton is equal to, if not better than most of the 27 other school districts that allocate more per pupil spending.

I realize personnel costs (teachers' salaries) account for a substantial portion of the school budget, but this factor is shared by all school districts.

When statistics such as these are made public, is the school district's administration held accountable?

It is certainly simplistic to lay the responsibility on teachers' salaries, rather than questionable management.

On June 14th, I am being asked to vote on a school millage question. My question is, if my tax dollars are not going proportionately to per pupil spending, where are they going and why should I give more?

I believe deeply in a strong program of public education. I believe the future of my country depends on public, not private, education. I would hope that the school board shares my convictions and fulfills its role representing the public trust.

Fern Vining, Plymouth

Home and school

As a concerned parent, I am writing to encourage other concerned people to support the upcoming millage increase.

My family moved here two years ago from the state of New Jersey. We faced the same issues there in 1987 as we are now facing here in Plymouth/Canton. Unlike here though, in New Jersey, the parents of the school children banded together to ensure the quality education we demanded and our children deserve. I am appalled by the lack of enthusiasm for the millage increase which will solely benefit the Plymouth Canton school system.

My family's top priority in searching for a home in Michigan was a good school system. People judge a community by the strength of its educational system and the shared concern of the community for a strong school system. If a community has a good educational foundation it therefore becomes attractive to buyers of homes. If an area is attractive to buyers, property values go up. This millage increase resultingly will benefit those even without children.

No one can afford to avoid this issue. It is our community, our children, and our future. Please go to the polls on June 14 and vote yes.

Exec opts for new juvenile training building

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

When local mayors and supervisors talk, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara listens.

Because most of the county's mayors and supervisors were against him, McNamara gave up his plan to fund a program for juvenile delinquents with money that, according to the 1988 ballot language, was supposed to "acquire, build and operate a juvenile work/training institution."

The money, about $2.5 million a year, comes from one-tenth of a 10-year, 1-mill tax voters approved five years ago.

Until recently, McNamara has clung to a legal opinion rendered by his attorney that says juvenile "programs" are the same thing as "institution."

County commissioners and the Conference of Western Wayne have long contended that an institution is a building, not a program.

"We decided to go along with their wishes," said deputy executive Michael Duggan. "These mayors have been our biggest supporters."

The Conference of Western Wayne, an alliance of 18 mayors and supervisors from western Wayne County, recently opposed McNamara's plan and called for a second ballot proposal to ask voters what should be done with the money.

McNamara met with a CWW committee, including Westland Mayor Robert Thomas and Plymouth Mayor Robert Jones, but couldn't convince them that he was right and they were wrong.

Duggan said that McNamara's juvenile program, which would permit non-violent juvenile offenders to stay at home under strict supervision instead of being locked up in a juvenile jail, will continue.

The building might not be a brand-new structure, Duggan said, but perhaps an existing one the county would rent or buy. He has no idea where, when, or what that might be.

The program, Duggan said, might be run in conjunction with the institution, whereby some kids would be kept there all the time and other kids be permitted to go home at night.

"We're exploring all the possibilities."

Part of the problem is that all but $6.6 million of the money collected to date has been spent. McNamara has claimed in the past that $100 million would be required to put up the work/training institution.

McNamara's decision came as a surprise to CWW members. "The county officials have continually told us that building a facility would be too expensive," said CWW director Daniel Gilmartin.

Here are answers to your questions

Your cards, letters and Voice Mail messages have been piling up so I thought I'd make some time to respond to your requests.

You can drop me a note in care of this paper or you can call my Voice Mail number listed at the end of the column. Either way, rest assured that I do return all my calls and that sooner or later, your questions will be answered.

Laura Montambo called with a hot recipe that called for fresh cranberries. She couldn't find any and called for help.

Sorry Laura, I called three wholesale fruit vendors and they all agreed that fresh cranberries are unheard of this time of year.

I located some frozen cranberries at Erwin Farms in Novi, but your best bet are the dried cranberries which are available at most specialty food markets, including Merchant of Vino, and health food stores.

Soak them in water, wine or cranberry juice to plump, then drain well and use as directed. They might be a bit powerful since once dried, their sugar content goes ballistic. Cranberries freeze well so when October rolls around, you might want to flash freeze some for next summer.

Bernie Zachari, Brigette O'Brien and a host of readers called about my mentioning a few restaurants that are personal favorites. Unfortunately, space does not allow me to go into great detail but I will tell you that DePalma's Restaurant is in Livonia, 31735 Plymouth, 261-2430.

Giovanni's Ristorante is at 330 S. Oakwood Boulevard, Detroit, 841-0122.

Zosia's is now called The Polish Village Cafe, and it's at 2990 Yemens Street in Hamtramck, 874-5726.

Momma's pork chops

Christine LaBelle and a host of other readers called in response to the story of my momma which ran on May 10. Rest assured I give momma a big kiss "everytime" I see her. I've included a smothered pork chop recipe culled from her old recipe box in this column.

Jeff Williams called to say that he misplaced a recipe that ran three years ago that was a sweet and sour sauce served with Chinese Pot stickers. I found a great source for home-tasting pot stickers at the Oriental market at Newburgh and Six Mile in the Laurel Commons strip mall in Livonia. They come frozen but are nothing short of spectacular when pan fried or steamed.

Last but certainly not least, I really appreciate all the messages received after my somewhat derogatory story on New Orleans cuisine. I had no idea there were so many crawfish and "Louisianne" coffee lovers out there. I'm headed back there in the fall and this time I'll bring my own coffee and cockroach spray. Bon Appetit!

SWEET AND SOUR POT STICKER DIPPING SAUCE

1 tablespoon fresh ginger, chopped fine
1 clove garlic, chopped fine
3 tablespoons light soy sauce
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon hot pepper oil or sesame oil (optional)

Combine all ingredients and mix well. Serve at room temperature with the hot dumplings.

MOMMA'S SMOTHERED PORK CHOPS

6 ½-inch pork chops, trimmed of most of the fat
½ cup all purpose flour
½ cup fine bread crumbs (dry)
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ cup Parmesan cheese, grated
4 tablespoons oil or bacon drippings
2 cups homemade gravy

Rinse and pat dry pork chops. Set aside. In a bowl, combine flour with bread crumbs, pepper, paprika, salt, garlic powder and Parmesan cheese. Mix well.

Roll chops in coating while heating oil or bacon drippings in a heavy skillet. Place coated chops in hot fat and brown on both sides for 4-5 minutes. Remove from skillet and place chops in a shallow ovenproof baking dish.

Cover with gravy. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Cover casserole dish with foil and bake in oven for 1 hour. Serves 4 to 6.

To leave a Voice Mail message for Chef Larry Janes, dial 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then mailbox number 1896. Be sure to tell him what city you live in, and leave a phone number, and time you can be reached for a return call.

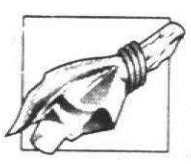
Rekindle flame safely



Keep it simple, hold the sauces, choose leaner cuts of meat and try to prevent that "charred look" by avoiding prolonged exposure to flames for healthier barbecuing. Remy Berdy of the Kingsley Inn and other area chefs offer tips for safe grilling.

BY ROBERT STRIKS
SPECIAL WRITER

Healthy barbecuing is a contradiction in terms. At least that's what doctors and researchers would have you believe.

"How to barbecue has become at least as important as what to barbecue," said Chef Remy Berdy of the Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills.

"People are much more conscious than ever before about what they eat and how their foods are cooked. Today, when we barbecue, we need to pull back from the flames a bit and lighten up."

For healthier barbecuing, gas grills are preferred. There are basically two styles. The less-expensive type features visible gas jets with lava rocks to conduct and diffuse heat.

The other style features gas jets hidden under bars that allow fats and oils to fall through into a collector. The popular grills in this category come from the Weber "Genesis" collection. Retailing for around $500, they're considered among the best and safest when it comes to healthy cooking.

But what is "safe?" And what is it that we are trying to avoid when we

Experts offer grilling tips

Here are some tips for healthier barbecuing from Chef Remy Berdy, Chef Marcus Haight, Chef Rocky Rachwitz, and Leslie Lundmark, registered dietitian.

- Make sure your grill and utensils are clean before you barbecue. That means soap, water, and a wire brush for most grills. This is most important because carcinogens have a cumulative effect if allowed to build up on cooking surfaces.
- If you are using charcoal, don't cook until the coals are white hot. That way, you're certain not to get

Burgers — don't beef about same old grind

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Burgers on the grill are everyone's favorite, and we're not just talking "hamburgers."

"Shopping for ground meat used to mean one thing: hamburger," writes Rick Rodgers, in "365 Ways to Cook Hamburger and Other Ground Meats," (HarperCollins Publishers, $16.95).

"But America's love affair with new flavors and a healthy, vital interest in good nutrition has given rise to a variety of ground meats never before available."

"Twenty years ago if you made a burger from hamburger people would say it was tasteful and good," said Jack Trabue of Word of Mouth Foods and The Porterhouse Meats in Plymouth. "Hamburger is fatty, there's a lot of flavor, but tastes have changed, and people aren't accustomed to eating it."

"Technically, hamburger is ground meat blended with additional fat, seasonings, and flavorings. These additives can supply up to 30 percent of the hamburger's weight," writes Rodgers in his book.

For better burgers, Trabue recommends using either ground round, which averages 85 percent lean, 15 percent fat. Or ground chuck, which averages 80 percent lean, 20 percent fat.

His "ultimate" burger is made with 50 percent ground chuck and 50 percent ground sweet Italian sausage.

"Just buy a pound of ground chuck, and a link of sausage. Take the sausage out of the casing and mix it with the ground chuck. The taste is unbelievable," said Trabue. "I like to baste my burgers with barbecue sauce. Brown both sides of the burger, then add barbecue sauce."

AMERICAN DAIRY ASSOCIATION

American classic: The ever-loved cheeseburger is a winner for serving family and friends. When grilling burgers, top with the cheese of your choice during the last minute of cooking.

If you're counting calories, try burgers made with ground turkey. But read the labels, some ground turkey products are high in fat.

"Make sure you buy ground turkey made with boneless, skinless turkey breast," said Trabue. "You might want to add a little water to keep them moist."

Cook ground turkey over medium heat to retain moisture. Because of the low fat content, sometimes as low as 7 percent, ground turkey tends to dry out. Your burger is done when the meat is white, not pink, through to the center.

Grill beef burgers on a rack 4 to 5 inches above medium goals. It takes 30 to 45 minutes for coals to reach medium heat (they appear to glow through a layer of gray ash). For gas grills, check the owner's manual for cooking instructions for medium temperature.

Turn burgers just once during cooking, and use a long-handled spatula. This is to avoid piercing the burgers and losing natural juices. Patting or flattening burgers while cooking can also make them dry.

Trabue puts his burgers on foil to help prevent them from sticking to the grill.

Take care when handling and cooking ground beef to avoid the risk of illness. Here are some tips from the USDA Food Safety and Inspection Service and American Dairy Association.

- Use refrigerated hamburger and poultry patties in one to two days.
- Cook burgers to medium doneness (160 degrees F) until no longer pink and juices run clear. Total cooking time on an open grill for ½-inch thick burgers (3 to 4 from a pound of ground beef) is about 7 to 9 minutes over medium coals for medium doneness. In a covered cooker, grill over medium coals for 6 to 7 minutes.
- When grilling, remember burgers or other patties which look cooked on the outside may be still underdone inside. Check for doneness by slicing to the center.
- For best quality, store frozen raw ground meats no longer than 3 to 4 months; cooked ground meat and ground poultry (hamburgers, meat loaf and dishes containing ground meats), 2 to 3 months. Defrost frozen ground meat in the refrigerator. It can barbecue?

"Smoke and carbon are our biggest enemies when we barbecue," said Chef Marcus Haight of The Lark restaurant in West Bloomfield.

What Haight is referring to are carcinogens, cancer-causing agents believed to be in smoke and in chemical reactions that take place when we barbecue.

"You can get a terrific smoked flavor in foods without prolonged exposure during cooking," said Haight. "And the carbon build-up, that 'charred' look, is easily avoided."

Healthier barbecuing involves making important substitutions. "Select meats that are naturally lower in fat like poultry and veal. And if you choose beef, try to find cuts that don't have much visible fat," said Chuck "Rocky" Rachwitz of Livonia, chef/owner of Rocky's in Northville. For example, choose tenderloin over sirloin.

"All fish are healthy choices for barbecuing — even fattier fish because they are full of omega-3 fatty acids," said Leslie Lundmark, a clinical dietitian for Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

"Omega-3 fatty acids have an effect of maintaining proper triglyceride levels in the blood. These fish oils may reduce the risk of heart disease by making blood less 'sticky' and therefore less likely to clot."

Haight puts healthy barbecuing in its proper perspective. "My feeling is that barbecuing is, in itself, healthier than other forms of cooking because people tend to keep it simple," he said. "You don't use heavy sauces, and you generally don't use foods that are high in fats and calories."

It's easy to barbecue healthier. All it takes is a little planning, and a bit of common sense. Remember to have all your ingredients ready to go, and think safety first.

any lighter fluid taste in your food.

■ Make sure your grill is super hot before placing food on it. Then, wipe down the grill with a bit of oil to prevent food from sticking.

■ If your meat or fish have been marinated, drain off all marinade and pat dry. Then, just before placing the food on the grill, lightly brush the marinade on the food.

■ You never want to cook in flames so watch out for using too much oil. If flames arise, quickly and carefully move the food to another part of the grill until they subside.

■ Don't mash foods that are on the grill. This forces fats and moisture out and can cause flare-ups. Mashing also causes grilled foods to be dry and less flavorful.

■ Firm seafoods such as swordfish, mahi-mahi, tuna, shrimp, lobster and salmon are best for grilling, but they are higher in fats. Other flakier and less-fatty fish may be cooked in or on the grill through direct heat. This is done by creating an open aluminum foil pouch in which the fish sits on top of diced carrots, celery and onion. You then place this pouch on or in the grill where the seafood will pick up the barbecue flavor during cooking.

■ If you plan to use flavoring chips such as mesquite, hickory or chickory, soak them in water first.

■ Try sprinkling small amounts of herbs such as rosemary and thyme directly over the heat to season foods.

Flavorful combinations put sizzle into burgers

See related story on Taste front. Recipes from — "365 Ways to Cook Hamburger and Other Ground Meats," (HarperCollins Publishers, $16.95) by Rick Rodgers.

TRUCKSTOP MEATLOAF BURGERS

½ cup fresh bread crumbs
½ cup ketchup
¼ cup minced onion
1 egg
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound ground chuck
½ pound ground veal
½ pound ground pork
5 hamburger buns
Optional: Crisp cooked bacon slices, ketchup, mayonnaise, mustard, sliced tomatoes and onions, shredded lettuce Prepare a hot fire in a grill or preheat broiler. In medium bowl, combine bread crumbs, ketchup, onion, egg, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper; stir until mixed. Add ground meats and working as quickly and gently as possible, mix with seasonings until blended. Lightly form into 5 patties about 3½ inches in diameter and ¾ to 1 inch thick.

Place patties on a lightly oiled rack and grill or broil about 4 inches from heat, turning once, until just cooked through but still juicy, 8 to 10 minutes if grilled, 6 to 8 minutes if broiled.

Toast buns on sides of grill or under broiler, 1 to 2 minutes. Place cooked burgers in buns and let everyone choose their own fillings. Serves 5.

POTATO CHIP BURGERS WITH GRILLED ONIONS

1½ pounds ground round (85 percent lean)
1 cup crushed no-salt potato chips (about 4 ounces)
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 large onions, sliced ½ inch thick
2 tablespoons olive oil
4 hamburger buns or kaiser rolls
Optional: Mayonnaise, ketchup, mustard, tomato slices, shredded lettuce

Prepare a hot fire in a grill or adjust broiler rack about 4 inches from source of heat and preheat broiler. In a medium bowl, working as quickly and gently as possible, mix ground round with crushed potato chips, salt and pepper. Lightly form into 4 burgers about 1 inch thick.

Brush onion slices with olive oil and place on an oiled grill set 4 to 6 inches from coals or place in broiler. Cook, turning once, until lightly browned and tender, 5 to 7 minutes. As onion cooks, transfer to a plate and cover with foil to keep warm.

Place burgers on grill or broiler and cook, turning once, until outside is well browned but inside is still pink and juicy, about 8 to 12 minutes for rare to medium-rare, or longer if desired.

Meanwhile, split open buns and toaste on side of grill or under broiler until warm and lightly browned, about 1 minute. Place cooked burgers in buns and top with grilled onions. Let everyone choose their own fixings. Serves 4.

SALSA TURKEY CHEESEBURGERS

1½ pounds ground turkey
1 cup tomato salsa, well drained
1 tablespoon chopped cilantro
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
4 hamburger buns
Optional: Mayonnaise, shredded lettuce, avocado slices, red onion slices, additional salsa

Prepare a hot fire in a grill. In a medium bowl, combine ground turkey, salsa, cilantro, and salt. Using wet hands, form into 4 patties about 1 inch thick.

Place patties in center of an oiled grill set 4 to 6 inches from coals. Grill, turning once, until browned on both sides, about 4 minutes. Transfer burgers to outside edge of grill and continue to grill until burgers are cooked through and meat springs back when pressed lightly with a finger, 10 to 12 minutes. Just before removing burgers from grill, sprinkle cheese over tops of burgers, cover grill and cook until cheese melts, about 1 minute. (Never cook turkey burgers less than medium well-done).

Meanwhile, open buns and toast on sides of grill until warm and lightly browned. Placed cooked burgers in buns and let everyone choose their own fixings. Serves 4.

TURKEY BURGERS DIJON

1½ pounds ground turkey
1 scallion, chopped
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon tarragon
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 French or Italian rolls

Optional: Mayonnaise, sliced tomatoes, shredded romaine lettuce

Prepare a hot fire in a grill. In a medium bowl, mix ground turkey with scallion, mustard, tarragon, salt and pepper. Using wet hands, lightly form into 4 rectangular patties about 1 inch thick, shaped to fit into French rolls.

Place patties in center of an oiled grill set 4 to 6 inches from coals. Cook, turning once, until browned, about 4 minutes. Transfer burgers to sides of grill and continue to cook, turning once, until burgers are cooked through and meat springs back when pressed lightly with a finger, 10 to 12 minutes.

Meanwhile, split open rolls and toast on sides of grill until warm and lightly browned. Place cooked burgers in rolls and let everyone choose their own fixings. Serves 4.

Top burgers with a variety of cheese

From Minneapolis to little Rock and Los Angeles to Washington D.C., great-tasting burgers are on the grill. Even President Bill Clinton likes cheeseburgers, which makes them the unofficial "first food."

To create your own presidential-style burger, don't be conservative; take advantage of the growing variety of delicious cheese offerings. Here are some suggestions from the American Dairy Association.

■ The Deli Cabinet — The supermarket deli offers a wide selection of cheeses that can be sliced to order. Request extra-thick slices of Muenster or Swiss or ask the deli to slice a block of smoky sharp Cheddar or hot pepper cheese.

For one-stop shopping, pick up other innovative burger condiments such as roasted vegetables or coleslaw at the deli counter.

■ The Burger Mandate — Surprise your "House" with cheese-filled burgers. Use two hamburger patties (about ¼ inch thick) for each burger and place shredded Cheddar or the cheese of your choice in the center of one patty and top with the other.

Gently press the edges together to seal. Cook burger to medium doneness. Enjoy!

■ Made In the USA — Spreadable cheeses — usually cream cheese, processed cheese or Neufchatel combined with vegetables, herbs and spices earn "widespread" popularity.

Crescent chicken square recipe corrected

There was an error in the Crescent Chicken Square recipe in the Recipe Makeover on May 24. Here is the corrected recipe.

CRESCENT CHICKEN SQUARES

3 ounces fat free Philadelphia cream cheese, softened
2 cups cooked, cubed boneless, skinless chicken breast
½ teaspoon pepper
5 tablespoons skim milk
1 tablespoon chopped chives or onions
1 package filo dough
¾ cup fat-free bread crumbs
Cooking spray

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

In medium bowl blend cream cheese, chicken, pepper, skim milk, chives or onions.

Place a layer of filo dough in the bottom of a non-stick 8 by 8-inch pan. Spread mixture over dough. Top with another layer of dough.

Spray top of dough with cooking spray (about a 2 second spray). Sprinkle bread crumbs on top. Bake on middle rack of oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Serves 4.

Keep a cooler in the car when you shop

"Spring has arrived and sometimes it is easy to forget that it is warm outside," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. Most cars retain heat so well that even a pleasant spring day of 70 degrees can actually be too hot for food to be left in the car for longer than an hour.

It's a good idea to keep an extra ice chest in your car for summer grocery shopping. Cold foods can be kept safer this way. Often unplanned emergencies arise and you end up making several stops along the way home.

Here are a few more food safety tips for hot weater.

■ Put groceries away immediately after shopping — perishables need to be refrigerated first.
■ Perishable foods should not be left out more than two hours.
■ Defrost all frozen foods in the refrigerator — never at room temperature.
■ If you are eating outdoors never leave food out in the hot sun. Provide a source of cooking such as a bowl of ice to set food in and keep food in a shaded area.

If you have other food safety, food and nutrition or food preservation questions, cal the Food and Nutrition Hotline, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, 858-0904.

June offers prime conditions for spotting planets

June is the month of good news and bad news. The good news: Summer officially arrives. The bad news: It's all down hill from here as the amount of sunlight we receive begins to decrease.

This will be an excellent month for spotting planets; all five of the naked-eye planets will be visible. Mercury will be especially well-placed for locating, Venus reaches maximum elongation from the sun, and Jupiter continues its extremely close grouping with the star Eta Virginis.

You can't miss brilliant Jupiter; it will be high in the south southwest 45 minutes after sunset. (Sunset on the 1st will be at 9:07 p.m. EDT.) Jupiter, located within the constellation of Virgo, is a mere four arcminutes from the star Eta Virginis.

These two objects will appear to be so close together, the star will look like one of Jupiter's moons when viewed through a telescope or binoculars. At least that will be the case until June 7, after which Jupiter's motion will have carried it far enough away from the star to end the illusion. In actual fact, Eta (the seventh brightest star in Virgo, hence the distinction of the seventh letter of the Greek alphabet) will be much brighter than Jupiter's moons and easy to identify.

Notice the star five degrees to the left of the moon on the evening of the 1st. This is Alpha Librae; it is the brightest star in the constellation of Libra, hence it is designated by the first letter in the Greek alphabet. It also has a "proper" name, one that is much more interesting to say: Zuben el Genubi (ZOO ben el gen YOU bee).

Zuben el Genubi means the "southern claw." This star was once considered to be a part of the neighboring constellation to the east, Scorpius the scorpion. Above and to the left of Zuben el Genubi is Beta Librae, also named Zeuben Eschamali (ZOO ben es sha MA lee), the "northern claw."

On the evening of the 3rd, the moon will be located three degrees (six full moon diameters) above Antares (an TAR ees), the "heart" of Scorpius. Also known as Alpha Scorpii, this is the 15th brightest star in the sky. (Notice that the "alpha" star in Scorpius is considerably brighter than the "alpha" star in Libra.) Antares, which means "rival of Mars," has about the same color and brightness as the red planet. The moon will be approaching Antares once again at the end of the month.

Full moon will be at 9:02 a.m. on June 4. The moon will be located behind the earth, as seen from the sun, and will be fully lighted. In fact, the moon will be exactly behind the earth, and it will pass through our planet's shadow, resulting in a total eclipse of the moon. That's the good news; now for the bad. Since the moon is opposite the sun, where do you think it will be located at 9:02 a.m., which is about three hours after sunrise?? That's right: the moon will be below the horizon. Obviously the eclipse will not be visible from Michigan. If you want to see it, you'll have to try Hawaii.

Incidentally, since the full moon is always opposite the sun, and since the sun is at its highest point in the sky in June, the full moon that occurs in June has the LOWEST trajectory of any full moon during the year. The June full moon was called the "Rose Moon," "Flower Moon" and "Strawberry Moon" by various Native American Indians.

The week beginning with June 7 will be the best for spotting Mercury in the evening sky. Use binoculars and look eight degrees (16 full moons) above the west northwest horizon, about 45 minutes after sunset. Once its location has been spotted with binoculars, it should be possible to see it with the naked-eye. (If the ancient skywatchers could see it, so can you!) The moon will pass Mercury in two weeks and help in locating the planet, but by then Mercury will have faded considerably in brightness.

Look for Mars in the west southwest on the evening of the 8th. It will be located in Leo, about eight degrees to the right of Regulus (REG u lus), the "heart" of the lion. Mars will be moving about one-half of a degree (with respect to the stars) from night to night. The two objects will be less than one degree apart in two weeks.

Venus will be at its maximum elongation (greatest angular distance) from the sun on June 10. It will be 46 degrees east of the sun, and will be 15 degrees above the horizon 45 minutes before sunrise. If you look at Venus with a telescope, you may be surprised to discover it will look like a last-quarter moon. (This is best done after the sky has begun to brighten with morning twilight to reduce the contrast between the bright planet and dark sky.)

Venus, which gets its light from the sun like all planets, goes through phases! The planet will remain visible for the next several months, during which time telescopic views will show it slowly changing into a crescent.

Host families needed for exchange students

High school students from Germany, France, Spain, Holland, Brazil, Poland, Russia and Hong Kong will arrive in August to spend five or 10 months studying in an American high school.

The students range in age from 15-18 and need host families. All students have studied English for at least four years, have full medical insurance and have enough money to cover their personal expenses.

Flexible, open-minded, fun-loving families, without or without children of their own, are needed to provide temporary homes for these foreign visitors. Although host families do not get paid, the IRS permits a small tax deduction.

For more information on the program or to select a student, call Lynne Levenbach at 453-8562 or 453-6851.

ROLL CALL REPORT

House approves global catalyst bill

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending May 21. The Senate conducted no roll call votes.

Global Competitiveness: By a vote of 243 for and 167 against, the House sent the Senate a bill (HR 820) using government as a catalyst to make U.S. manufacturing companies more globally competitive.

The bill authorizes $1.54 billion over two years on programs such as Commerce Department outreach centers, financing large-scale research and development consortia, and providing research assistance and federal aid to individual companies.

Supporter Don Johnson, D-Ga., called the bill "a major contribution toward restoring the manufacturing base in this country to world-class competitive standards," particularly helpful to job-producing small and medium businesses.

Opponent Robert Walker, R-Pa., said the bill 'looks, sounds and smells like industrial policy. The bill subsidizes the commercial development of a relatively limited number of federally chosen technologies (and) increases deficit spending."

A yes vote was to pass the bill. Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac, Dale Kildee, D-Flint, Sander Levin, D-Southfield and William Ford, D-Ypsilanti. Voting no: Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham.

To Reject Cut: By a vote of 208 for and 213 against, the House rejected an amendment cutting 10 percent, or about $150 million, from legislation (above) using an array of government programs to improve U.S. global competiveness.

Sponsor John Duncan, R-Tenn., said "this amendment gives members an opportunity to do more than just pay lip service to doing something about the deficit."

Opponent Tim Valentine, D-N.C., said the amendment would "deny the president the opportunity to carry out his mandate" to revive the American manufacturing base.

A yes vote was to trim 10 percent from the $1.54 billion measure. Area representatives voting yes were: Knollenberg. Voting no: Kildee, Levin and Ford. Not voting: Carr.

Benefits for Citizens: The House adopted, 263 for and 156 against, an amendment preventing the $1.54 billion competitiveness bill (above) from directly paying for those who are not U.S. citizens or legal residents.

Sponsor Mac Collins, R-Ga., said "if we are going to expend this kind of money . . . we ought to expend (it) on people who are citizens of the United States of America."

Opponent Tim Valentine, D-N.C., objected that the amendment "gets us over into immigration policy of the United States."

A yes vote was to limit competitiveness aid to U.S. citizens and legal residents. Area representatives voting yes were: Carr, Knollenberg. Voting no: Kildee, Levin and Ford.

Forest Land: By a vote of 317 for and 101 against, the House sent the Senate a bill (HR 873) authorizing acquisition of 80,000 wilderness acres just north of Yellowstone National Park for $12 million to $20 million. The government would use exchanges or cash to acquire the land from a private company that could soon begin harvesting its timber. The acreage would be protected as part of Gallatin National Forest in Montana.

Sponsor Pat Williams, D-Mont., said "if this legislation isn't enacted, we face a public lands disaster on Yellowstone National Park's northern border" in the near future.

Opponent Dan Burton, R-Ind., said "the world is not going to come to an end if the government does not buy another 70,000 acres when we already own one-third of the nation (or) if they develop that and put some housing up there in a responsible, ecologically well-thought-out way."

A yes vote was to pass the bill. Area representatives voting yes were: Carr, Kildee, Levin and Ford. Voting no: Knollenberg.

Group stresses sensible weight loss

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

In the first quarter of 1993, they collectively lost 181 pounds. In February alone, they lost 94 pounds. But they are not Christie Brinkley wannabees.

"We don't want to look like her because we're not her," said Kim Lehmer, a member of Canton TOPS — Taking Off Pounds Sensibly — which meets Thursday evenings at Geneva Presbyterian Church on Sheldon Road.

What they are is a group of Canton women — about 18 active members, ranging in ages from 20-60 — who are sensibly losing weight and working to change their attitudes about food and its emotional role in life.

"There's a food focus to everything you do," said Mary Barry-Bodine, group leader and a registered nurse at University of Michigan Hospital.

Sometimes the problem is also with time management, even laziness. "For women, a lot of the times it's emotional. When our emotions run rampant, we overeat," Lehmer said.

Member Pat Geiseman agreed. "We need to overcome the reasons why we overeat."

TOPS members are working on that. Most members use a 1,200 calorie exchange diet. Members are encouraged to diet under medical supervision. The group also concentrates on exercise, food plans and support.

"We feel the support comes from people knowing we have a weight problem," said Lehmer, who is also a registered nurse.

When members, the majority of whom have become friends, are having a bad day, they phone each other; they meet to talk and exercise. Each knows what the other is going through.

"We've been to all the other weight-loss programs," said Geiseman, a homemaker. "Here we talk to each other. It's more personal. We talk about the things that affect me, like going to the refrigerator and wanting to eat."

A healthy walk: Pat Kananen (left) and Pat Geiseman, members of the Canton TOPS, exercise together at the Plymouth-Salem High School track and support each other in the weight loss program. Canton and Plymouth also offer two other TOPS groups.

Sure. Losing weight and keeping it off is tough work. But TOPS members are having fun. At their weekly meetings, they have contests, such as Babe Bingo. It's just like regular Bingo but the squares on the cards pertain to losing weight.

Members can make a pledge to help themselves. They can pledge to lose, say, one pound per week. If they do, the group's $1 weekly fee is waived. If they don't, the fee is $2.

"Many of the contests are incentives. And they work well for people like me who are motivated by money," Lehmer said.

The group also encourages members to use food charts. Members plot what they have eaten and how much they exercised throughout the week. "You bring that to the meeting and you can realize what you're doing to yourself," Geiseman said.

Unlike other weight-loss programs, members say TOPS is more of a club than a money-making venture. The non-profit national TOPS uses its money for obesity research, Barry-Bodine said.

Members, particularly those who have tried other programs, say TOPS allows them to lose the weight that is good and safe for them, as well as ensuring their privacy and their dignity.

The group also provides members with necessary information. The 30- to 90-minute meetings include talks about the need for calcium or problems with food labeling, for example. Healthy eating is also a popular topic.

"Sometimes we can eat desserts and feel good about ourselves," Lehmer said. "This isn't total deprivation. It's learning to have one piece of dessert, not 10."

Once members reach their personal weight-loss goals, they don't have to leave. KOPS — Keeping Off Pounds Sensibly — is there for them.

"With TOPS and KOPS, you can use whatever program you want. But we don't promote starvation diets. They aren't healthy," Barry-Bodine said.

The TOPS group is looking for new members. Men and teens are welcome. For more information, contact Lehmer, 459-6848, or Barry-Bodine, 981-1505.

COMPARTMENT SYNDROMES

The muscles of the legs, from below the knee to the ankle, consist of a long muscles grouped together and bundled by a covering called fascia. The long muscles in the front of the leg are known as the anterior compartment group. The muscles in the back of the leg are divided into two units: the superficial-posterior compartment, and the deep-posterior" compartment.

If you undertake vigorous running exercise the muscles in one or more of these compartments will enlarge - hypertrophy is the medical name. If you run marathons and play soccer all year round and/or body build your calves, and/or engage in extremes of leg activity, you run into a wall.

What may happen is that the compartment muscles grow bigger than the fascia over them can expand to keep up with the enlarging muscle mass. The result is pain as you undertake the activity you formally enjoyed. The muscle runs up against fascia that has become a tight band. As long as the leg muscles are active, you will feel ever increasing ache.

No medicine can prevent this pain. Special exercises only increase it. Instead, you must de-condition, that is, pull back from your present vigorous schedule, and accept that you look athletics beyond what your body could accept as a challenge and a joy.

Ground breaking: Frank Doczi, president of Home Quarters Warehouse, throws the first shovel of dirt at the company's first site in the metro area.

Home store chain breaks ground here

Home Quarters, an upscale chain of home improvement warehouses, used a groundbreaking ceremony in Livonia last week to announce a new concept for its metro area stores.

"We are very excited to be in the Detroit market," said Frank Doczi, president of Home Quarters Warehouse Wednesday at groundbreaking ceremonies at its site in Livonia at 13700 Middlebelt (corner of I-96).

The warehouses in Livonia, Roseville, Madison Heights and Southgate will be modeled after a new prototype which stresses intensive customer service.

"Customers think conceptually," said Doczi. "They want to start their project with a plan. Yet today, there is simply no place they can go to get truly professional assistance and support in designing a stylish, functional and affordable room addition, deck, kitchen, bath or other remodeling project. The new HQ will be their definitive resource."

The warehouse in Livonia will have several features, including a custom decorating center, a classroom for do-it-yourself clinics, a tool rental area, on-site child care and a 4,600 square-foot greenhouse.

More than 100 types of tools and outdoor power equipment will be available for long- or short-term rental. Tools and equipment include carpet cleaners, generators, chain saws, rototillers, lawn mowers, wheelbarrows, ladders, pneumatic tools, and welders.

The warehouse also will offer installation services to install products, at the customer's request. Installation services will range from kitchens, decks, bathrooms, carpeting, garage doors, attic stairways and fencing.

The warehouse also will have a special desk to serve the needs of commercial contractors.

Supervised care will be offered for children ages 3-8 and will include a play area.

Weight Loss Shocks Scientists

Seattle — A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete food tablet would eliminate world hunger, until the study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause weight loss without dieting.

Scientists in Europe found that an ingredient in the product named Food Complex 3 actually caused people to lose weight, even though they weren't changing their eating patterns. According to a study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, scientists had speculated that the weight loss was due to a reduction in the intestinal absorption of fat grams.

The development of Food Complex 3, a project of First Lite Int'l, Inc., could not be used to fulfill its intended goal but it has been a great success for overweight people. A. Miami Beach, Florida, man struggling with a weight problem for 15 years used Food Complex 3 on the recommendation of his doctor and lost 43 lbs. He said, "My cholesterol dropped 96 points and I lost 43 lbs. Now I have to buy all new clothes." In another report from Mesa, Arizona, a pharmacist lost 16 lbs. in 14 days with Food Complex 3 and never felt hungry.

Food Complex 3 is available through physicians and pharmacists without a prescription.

Food Complex 3 is not a drug and only contains natural ingredients known to be safe by the FDA. Copies of the references are available from First Lite Int'l, Inc. 3370 N. Hayden Rd., 123-157, Scottsdale, AZ 85283. Please allow $3 for shipping and for each request.

Students win top honors in TV contest

Madonna University students took the top three positions at the statewide Television Public Service Announcement competition recently sponsored by the Michigan Cable Television Association.

Judges of the contest, titled "Cable from the capitol," sought out originality, technical accomplishment and creative presentation. The theme of the 60-second announcements was positive issues surrounding government.

Students in Madonna's advanced editing workshop worked individually on original ideas and together on the technical aspects such as camera work, lighting and audio. The course was taught by the husband and wife team who produce the nationally distributed talk show "Madonna Magazine," Sue and Dan Boyd.

"We all brainstormed collectively and once we decided what we wanted to do, we would turn to Dan and say OK, how do we do it?," said Sue Boyd.

The winner of the contest was Stephen Geresy of New Boston, whose announcement was titled "Freedom for everyone." His piece focused on a young boy flipping the pages of a coloring book where images turn to video clips of Americana. Geresy was awarded $500 for himself and $500 toward Madonna's video communications program.

Madonna also took the two finalist positions with Scott Lemerand of Trenton's "Voters awareness test" featuring a takeoff on the emergency broadcast sound alert test to "get out and vote."

Madonna winners: Scott Lemerand, Stephen Geresy and Judy Reyes took top honors at the statewide public service announcement competition recently. The trio attend Madonna University.

Judy Reyes of Westland, whose video was titled "Threads that unite," focused on allegiance, unity and freedom presented through the imagery of the United States flag.

Other Madonna participants were Linda Leone of New Baltimore and Mike McEvoy of Farmington Hills.

"We're very proud of all our students," said Dan Boyd.

Suburban reps say KKK threat unlikely

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

White suburban Wayne County commissioners recently disputed the claims of a black Detroit commissioner that the Ku Klux Klan is alive and well in Wayne County.

Although the discussion never became openly angry, sprinkled as it was amidst more weighty deliberations at the commission's May 20 meeting, the comments of commissioner George Cushingberry, D-Detroit, obviously frosted suburban commissioners.

While expounding at great length and volume on the meaning of some 1988 ballot language, Cushingberry referred to the Klan's presence "out there," allegedly in western Wayne County.

After four suburban commissioners took issue with Cushingberry's off-the-cuff assertion, he countered with, "In Wayne County we have a significant Klan/Nazi operation."

Commission chairman Arthur Blackwell, D-Detroit, who is black, told Cushingberry that if he did not intend to imply that the Klan thrives in Wayne County suburbs then he should apologize to the suburban commissioners.

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, said, "As an Irish-Catholic I've never met a klansman in western Wayne, nor would I want to." (McCotter also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township.)

Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, said, "I'm like commissioner McCotter. I don't want to meet one either." (Amann also represents Canton Township.)

Commissioner William O'Neil, D-Allen Park, said he's lived in western Wayne for "41¾ years and I have yet to meet a klansman in my life."

Commissioner Andrew Richner, R-Grosse Pointe, weighed in with, "There are, to the best of my knowledge, no klansmen in (my district), although I haven't met everyone yet."

Super fan makes rounds year-round

Westland's Bob Kurashige, the undisputed super fan in Observerland, answered my first two questions with questions.

Who is your favorite coach, I asked.

"Which sport?" he replied.

How far have you traveled to see a game?

"Which way?" he asked. "North or west?"

I should have known I'd get answers like these, and not because Kurashige was being sarcastic. Kurashige, a 1979 Westland John Glenn graduate, is a fan of all sports, mostly those played in high school, and he'll go anywhere to watch.

Kurashige says he's been as far north as Midland and as far west as Grand Rapids to watch a high school game but he hasn't considered crossing the Mackinac Bridge.

"Not yet," he said.

Give him time. This guy has made the rounds, year-round for 13 years.

Kurashige never misses a major state championship game and estimates he drives 60,000 miles each year to watch sporting events. Imagine all the oil changes for his 1989 Chevy Cavalier.

Kurashige says he watches at least 1,000 games per year, despite there being only 365 days. This includes junior varsity games, double header baseball and softball games in the summer and volleyball tournaments every Saturday in the winter.

I hope I'm covering them all.

Kurashige's Tuesday's and Friday's are booked each season with high school games, whether they be football, girls or boys basketball, softball, or uh, my favorite, soccer.

He's even been spotted on Saturday night in the dead of winter far away from Detroit. Just ask Chuck Gordon, the Glenn football coach who taught Kurashige in science class at Stevenson Junior High in Westland and also referees high school basketball.

"I was officiating a basketball game in Saline one night a few years ago," recalls Gordon. "It's Saturday, a cold winter night. The gym is packed, I look up and there's Kurashige. I said 'What are you doing here?' He said it's the only game in town. The only game in southeastern Michigan. He's a great guy."

Kurashige subscribes to several newspapers and he's an especially avid Observer reader, stopping at our office Mondays and Thursdays to buy most of our editions.

Kurashige, who works during the day as a medical supplies driver, determines which game to attend by following the schedules in the Observer. For schools out-state, he sends letters to athletic directors, requesting schedules.

They send schedules back.

And he goes.

Kurashige is one of the first fans to arrive at a game, in case "there's a sellout," so he has a seat.

He's one of the last to leave, prompting many coaches to sometimes wonder if he's a sports writer.

Farmington Hills Harrison is one of Kurashige's favorite football teams, no harm intended, Chuck. Harrison coach John Herrington remembers one of the first times he met Kurashige.

"The coaches and I were sitting up near the locker room after a game and Bob came up to talk," Herrington said. "I thought he was a Hawk fan. I guess he likes all the teams."

Most coaches don't know Kurashige by name but they recognize the face, the one with the thick brown hair, glasses and a big smile.

I called Bob the other day to do this story and he said he didn't have time.

"I'm going to Garden City City Park to watch a game," Kurashige said.

I convinced him to meet me at a restaurant in Livonia.

Kurashige agreed and two hours later there he was, waiting for me while sitting with a group of coaches who knew him.

Surprise, surprise.

Another favorite fan

The Redford Union softball team has an avid fan, a fair-weathered fan, if you will.

Nora DeRoche, the 77-year-old mother of RU coach Gary DeRoche, is out there every spring to cheer on her son's team. Nora and her husband of 55 years, Richard, attend most of RU's games and she doesn't sit on her hands.

Nora, who wears the blue-and-gold RU cap to every game, has more energy than some of the players.

"She's 77 years young," Gary said.

"I always tell Gary to get the girls to yell on the bench," Nora said. "One time he said out loud, 'Hey, girls my mom wants to hear you holler more,' more and they did."

The elder DeRoche's don't get out as much in the winter and Nora spends a lot of time indoors watching her favorite team, the Red Wings.

"Some of our friends will ask us if we watched the Bob Hope Special last night and I'll say, 'No, we had the Red Wings on,' " Nora said.

Canton triumphs again in district

Plymouth Canton won the district tournament in girls soccer for the fifth time in six years Friday by beating Plymouth Salem 2-1.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton paved the way for another tournament run in girls soccer Friday when it defeated rival Plymouth Salem 2-1 in the district final.

The No. 5-ranked Chiefs, who were second in the state last year, could well go that far again since the Canton-Salem winner is always a true contender for the Class A title.

Canton (17-1-1) will play the Livonia Stevenson-Livonia Churchill winner at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the regional tournament at Northville High School. The final will be Saturday afternoon.

Coach Don Smith was worried about a letdown after Canton had won its first two district games by a combined 9-0 score over Adrian and Pinckney. The Chiefs put their coach at ease by building a two-goal advantage in the first half.

"I thought we were better off playing Salem than (Ann Arbor) Huron, because they might have thought they could take Huron," Smith said of his players, "and they knew they couldn't take Salem lightly."

For the second year in a row, senior forward Leah Hutko scored the winning goal in a 2-1 victory in the championship game.

Hutko, who has 22 goals and 12 assists, got a rebound from a free kick late in the first half, controlled the ball into the box and got the shot away despite having a defender on each shoulder.

Gundry sparks Hines Park with hot bat

The sound of aluminum is ringing loud and clear off the bat of Ed Gundry, who has sparked Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury to a 4-0 start in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League.

Gundry, a third baseman, is 11-for-18 with five triples, two homers and 13 RBI.

The former Plymouth Salem High product, who helped the Rocks win the 1991 state Class A championship, went 5-for-6, including a triple, homer, three RBI and four runs scored in Hines Park's 12-5 triumph Wednesday over Little Caesars at Livonia's Ford Field.

Tracy Ewald contributed two hits and three RBI.

Winning pitcher Steve Ross went six innings, scattering six hits and two walks before giving way to Chris Kirkey, who pitched the final inning.

■ COLLEGIATE

Losing pitcher Dave Roman, who went 3⅔ innings, suffered the loss.

Jerry Shippe had a two-run triple for Caesars.

On Monday, Hines Park pitcher Jeff Paluk (Saginaw Valley State) went the distance, scattering four hits with nine strikeouts in a 7-4 win over Caesars at Concordia College.

Mark VanAmeyde suffered the loss.

Offensive leaders for Hines Park included: Jason Riggs, two hits and two RBI; Scott Kapla, 2-for-3 with two runs; Gundry, triple, homer and two RBI; and Gary Pierce, 2-for-3.

Lawrence Scheffer had a two-run double for Caesars. Roman tripled and later scored on a groundout.

Hines Park opened its season May 23 by sweeping Del-Wal in a doubleheader, 12-0 and 11-6.

Kapla, a freshman at Eastern Michigan, hurled a three-hitter in the opener. He struck out four and walked only one.

Ewald (College of Ozarks) homered, while Gundry knocked in four runs. Pierce went 3-for-3 and teammate Kevin Craggs contributed two hits.

Andrew Margolick pitched six innings of five-hit baseball to give Hines Park the victory in the nightcap. Margolick relieved Scott Rodgers, who walked seven batters during the opening inning.

Craggs went 3-for-4 with two RBI and three runs scored, while Ewald and Gundry each contributed two hits and three RBI.

Westland Federation

Westland Federation, a newcomer in the LCBL, ran its record to 3-0 with a 4-3 eight-inning victory over the Tecumseh, Ontario Green Giants in a game played Wednesday at John Glenn High.

Chad Grieve belted a solo homer, while pitcher Bobby Arellano earned the victory.

Grieve also socked a three-run homer and was the winning pitcher in relief as Westland beat Wendy's in the May 21 season opener.

Westland also defeated Walter's Appliance, 6-4, as Jeremy Blaylock (Central Michigan University) struck out 12 and scattered seven hits and seven walks in going the distance.

There was a little more suspense to the Western Lakes Activities Association girls track meet Wednesday, but the outcome was still what everyone expected.

The host Plymouth-Canton schools dominated the meet again, winning 11 of 17 events between them, and heavily favored Salem captured its second straight championship.

The Rocks won by a much slimmer margin than last year, 142 to 136½ over Canton. Salem scored 170 and the Chiefs 137 last year, but a change in the scoring format to 10-8-6-5-4-3-2-1 partially accounted for that.

But the team finish was nearly identical, with Livonia Stevenson (96), Walled Lake Western (53) and North Farmington (51) rounding out the top five once again.

"It was a great team effort this year, because we scored in places we were not real sure of our scoring potential," Salem coach Mark Gregor said. "On this team, everybody wants to make a contribution even if it's one point. You win championships with a team and not a group of individuals."

The winner was not decided until the final event, which made every point more valuable and the contest more suspenseful.

Going into the 1,600-meter relay, the Rocks led 132-130½ over Canton. A first-place finish for the Chiefs would have given them the title, but Salem won the race and Canton was third.

"We had a shot; we gave them everything we could and just came up a little short," Canton coach George Przygodski said.

The Chiefs were leading by several points midway in the meet, but Salem had a strong finish in the final seven events. The Rocks won three of them and scored a lot of points in all but the 3,200 run.

"We came to the meet to win and we were not surprised at all to be in that position," Przygodski said. "Salem is just so strong when it comes to the 400 on up. You're running right into the strength of their team."

"We're confident once we get to the 400 dash that we can put up some heavy numbers and we did," Gregor said. "(The 400 dash, 300 hurdles and 800 run) have carried us the last few years, and we're pretty confident when we get there we'll do well."

Senior Tonya Wheeler and sophomore Sarah Hamilton were key players in the Salem victory.

Wheeler won the 400 with a meet-record time of 57.9 and was sixth in the 200. Hamilton was first in the 200 and second in the 400. Both helped the Rocks win the 800 and 1,600 relays, also.

■ 'Sarah Makins has become one of the elite hurdlers in the state in the 100s. I think she can go faster, and that could mean some points in the state meet.'

Mark Gregor
Salem track coach

"Sarah is the heir apparent to the track queen around here (Wheeler), and she's a worthy athlete to pass that title along to," Gregor said.

Salem junior Sarah Makins won the 100 hurdles, and the Rocks also got first in the 3,200 relay. Stacy Witthoff and Courtney Sheldon were on the 3,200 and 1,600 relay teams, too.

"Sarah Makins has become one of the elite hurdlers in the state in the 100s," Gregor said. "I think she can go faster, and that could mean some points in the state meet.

"That would be nice because she's such a hard worker and an enjoyable young lady. You like to see good things happen to those kids."

Canton junior Ndu Okwumabua set a meet record with a winning high jump of five feet/four inches, won the 100 dash and anchored the winning 400 relay.

JOHN STORMZAND/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Canton victory: Ndu Okwumabua crosses the finish line first to win the 400-meter relay for the Chiefs.

"Ndu was tremendous. She had a great, great day," Przygodski said. "We talked about stepping up to the next level, and Ndu certainly has done that this year."

The Chiefs also had first places from Selena Bastine in the discus and Lana Boroditsch in the 1,600.

Stevenson had two winners and both ran impressive races in the finals. Stacy Prais edged Makins in the 300 hurdles, and A.J. Koritnik ran away from the field in the 3,200.

Koritnik ran 11:21.4 to finish ahead of such fine runners as North Farmington's Emily Shively, teammate Bridget MacKinnon and Boroditsch.

"Eleven-forty is as fast as (Boroditsch) has ever run," Przygodski said. "Koritnik is just a tremendous runner and so are Shively and MacKinnon. You run 11:40 and finish fourth; what does that say about the level of competition?"

The other winners were April Boyce, Western (800); Wendy Forster, Northville (long jump); and Lisa Rankey, Westland Glenn (shot put).

Coaches see value in all contributions

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

Outstanding teams have their outstanding athletes, but coaches always say it takes many others of all ability levels to make a successful team.

Plymouth Salem coach Mark Gregor and George Przygodski of Plymouth Canton made that point Wednesday following the Western Lakes Activities Association girls track meet.

Salem won the meet and Canton was second for the second year in a row, and they combined to win 11 of 17 events. But each team got a lot of points other than those earned from first-place finishers.

"We knew Ndu (Okwumabua), Karina (Kilpelainen) and Lana (Boroditsch) were going to score big," Przygodski said. "They've carried us all year.

"But to do well in a meet like this, you need other kids coming up. Those are the ones who help you win or keep you close."

Some of those Canton athletes were Cathy Koshizawa (long jump), Becky Baigrie (discus), Tracy Cavin and Meghan Barresi (400), Shawn Champlin (hurdles) and Stephanie Gray (high jump/shot put). Each finished sixth or lower but contributed points nonetheless.

Kathry Ryan, who was seeded 11th but finished second in the discus, gave the Rocks a big scoring boost.

"She had a state-qualifying throw; unfortunately, she threw it today and not Saturday (in the regional)," Gregor said.

"But she's the kind of person who didn't let it bother her. She came back today and wanted to do something to help the team. Those were eight big points she scored."

Salem was dealt a setback in the 800 run when favored Stacy Witthoff was disqualified because of a false start, but the Rocks still got 10 points from Kelly Stankov and Lynda Sebestyen to keep Salem in the lead.

"I thought they could score, but a lot of times Stacy runs off and they sit back and think they can't catch her," Gregor said. "She wasn't there today and they decided to take the bull by the horns and get us some important points."

Canton teams have been good enough to win most any league title the last two years, but the Rocks have been a little better each time. Przygodski has no regrets, however.

"I don't think it's unfortunate," he said. "Adversity is our ally. Salem makes us a better team, and we make them a better team.

"It's a symbiotic relationship between the two programs. We have a saying: the harder you push, the more you're pulled. It's definitely true in this situation."

freshman in 1990, scored the first Canton goal in the eighth minute, tapping in a free ball.

"When you score that early, it helps but they're the kind of team it doesn't bother," Smith said. "(Salem) knew it would be tough to score, but they're tough defensively, too, so it was to our advantage because they didn't give us too many shots."

"Usually, they come out real strong in the first 10 minutes. They didn't do that this time, and that might be how we got the first goal."

Canton outshot the Rocks (9-3-4) in the first half 7-4 and controlled play for the most part, but a strong wind might have been partly responsible for that. Salem was playing into the wind in the first half and Canton the second.

"We couldn't play our game because of the wind," Salem coach Ken Johnson said. "The girls were not playing like they usually do. The wind affected the passing.

"Mari Hoff had a great game Wednesday, and she was chasing the ball around today."

With the wind at their back, the No. 7 Rocks pressured more, sending eight players on the attack, and had a 5-3 edge in shots.

Salem gained new life when Kelly Lukasik scored its goal with 4:42 remaining. Following a free kick by Kris Goff, the ball bounced off Canton keeper Jori Welchans and Lukasik was there to knock in the rebound.

"It got a little scary at the end," Smith said. "We were playing too well to give one up but that happens."

"Miracles have happened," Johnson said, recalling his 1986 Salem boys team tied Huron in the last 24 seconds and won the district final in a shootout.

"That's what we should have been doing. All of our shots were long, and their keeper had no trouble.

"To beat a keeper like that, you have to take it up close on either side of the goal and pass it back for a tap-in. They took the outside game away, and we didn't get the ball to the wings."

The Chiefs, who seemed to be sitting on the 2-0 lead much of the second half, managed to hold the lead and win their second straight district title.

"The wind changed, too, in the second half," Smith said. "It started blowing their way, and they had some good shots."

Collegiate

Pete Gallagher, who worked five innings, took the loss.

Walter's loses

Lance Stepaniak struck out 12 in seven innings Wednesday, leading Wendy's to a 12-5 triumph over the defending LCBL playoff champions.

Jim Solak went 3-for-4 with an RBI in a losing cause. Mike Zielinski added two hits and knocked in a run.

John Collins had two hits, including a three-run homer for Wendy's. Dan Schmitzer contributed three hits and scored three times, while John Arvai went 2-for-4 with a double.

Ryan Grabetz, who allowed five earned runs in four innings, took the loss.

Del-Wal nips Caesars

Winning pitcher Derek Wirebaugh (five innings) and reliever Todd Boike (two innings) combined on a three-hitter Wednesday as Del-Wal defeated Caesars Wednesday at Ford Field, 2-1.

Boike worked out of a bases loaded jam in the seventh, fanning the final three batters to gain the save.

Matt Recht (University of Michigan) and Chad Cilley (Siena Heights) each contributed RBI singles for the victors, who collected five hits.

Mark D'Antonio (University of Detroit-Mercy) threw a complete game for Caesars, but suffered the loss.

Garvey paces Salem win

Jenny Garvey threw a four-hitter Wednesday as host Plymouth Salem needed only five innings to mercy Livonia Franklin 15-2 in a Western Lakes Activities Association crossover softball game.

Garvey also hit three singles and had three RBI. Dawn Marrocco and Lori Thomczek had three hits and two RBI each for Salem (11-10). Jamey Viau added an RBI triple.

"This was probably the best game we've played all year," Salem coach Al Campbell said. "We made the plays today, and we've had trouble doing that this year."

Michelle Averill went all seven innings, taking the loss for Franklin (15-12).

Averill, Jaclyn Deane, Tabetha Schulte and Aimee Brenner had one hit each for the Patriots.

SALEM BASEBALL

Despite taking a 2-0 lead into the fifth Thursday, Farmington Hills Harrison couldn't hold a late Plymouth Salem surge as the visiting Rocks claimed a 6-2 victory.

The Rocks (15-11) scored four in the top of the fifth and added an insurance run in the sixth to pull away. Salem's Nirav Kher went the distance and struck out four Hawks while walking one.

Salem's 13-hit attack was led by Bryan Zarosely and Charlie Winstel, both of whom went 3-for-4. Dave Knight (two RBI) and Jamie Owens (one RBI) added two hits each.

Keye Smith took the loss for Harrison (9-8) as he allowed 12 hits, struck out six and walked three. Matt Woolf, Jeff Cislo and Joe Pesci were 2-for-3 for the Hawks.

Pilots beat Shamrocks for Catholic title, 5-1

■ BASEBALL

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

The Madonna University baseball program is getting a pitcher that is undefeated at Tiger Stadium.

Warren DeLaSalle senior right-hander Kurt Wilczynski, who signed last week with Madonna, tossed a four-hitter Friday as the Pilots beat Redford Catholic Central 5-1 for the Catholic League A-B championship at Tiger Stadium.

Wilczynski, who played third base when DeLaSalle lost 3-2 to CC in last year's A-B final, allowed only one runner to reach second base after the second inning.

Wilczynski struck out five and walked four and also contributed two hits and two RBI.

The Pilots are 28-8 overall.

"Kurt can pitch, play second base, third, is a great hitter and a hell of a competitor," said DeLaSalle coach Brian Kelly.

The Shamrocks' top four batters were a combined 1-for-13 and Wilczynski also received strong defense. Third baseman Derek Brackon made consecutive plays on tough ground balls in the fourth and right fielder Matt Mlynarek made the play of the day when he made an over the shoulder catch near the warning track to rob Jeff Gutt of extra bases in the sixth.

"With the defense I have, I don't worry about anything," said Wilczynski.

CC took a 1-0 lead in the second inning and the Shamrocks almost had two runs had it not been for a controversial call at home plate.

With two outs, Dave Susalla singled to score Aaron Babicz from third base. Eric Justice, who led the Shamrocks with two hits, also tried to score on the hit but was called out after elbowing catcher Andy Rama in a collision at home plate.

Rama dropped the throw but Justice was ruled out for interference.

"It looked to me like Eric didn't have enough room (to touch home plate)," CC coach John Salter said. "It changed the momentum but we still didn't play that well."

Susalla, the first of four CC pitchers, suffered the loss in three innings of work.

But after holding DeLaSalle scoreless in the first two innings, the Pilots scored two runs in the third thanks to a pair of hits and two CC errors.

Susalla's error on a sacrifice bunt attempt by Brackon put two runners aboard and Wilczynski delivered a two-run single with one out.

Senior right-hander Brian Paluk relieved Susalla but got in trouble in the fifth.

Leadoff batter Jim Kerr doubled and came home one out later on a single by shortstop Dor. DeDonatis to put the Pilots ahead 3-1. Paluk was replaced by Jerry Nozewski and the first hitter, Ryan Soldan, hit into a fielder's choice to force DeDonatis at second.

After a walk to Greg Peterson, Soldan came home on an error by Babicz, CC's first baseman, for a 4-1 lead. The Pilots scored a run in the fifth without the benefit of a hit. Rama walked, was sacrificed to second and came home on consecutive passed balls for a 5-1 lead.

"They're a good hitting team and we gave them extra help," Salter said.

Expo '93 to visit area

AL HARRISON

Bowling Expo '93 is coming to the greater Detroit area this summer. The event will be an exhibit of all aspects of the bowling industry and local centers.

The displays will be comprised of manufacturers, bowling centers, pro shops, trophy shops, travel agents, the Professional Bowlers Tour, tournament organizations, embroidery and silkscreen outfitters, as well as other related items.

This will be the first chance for the public to get a thorough look at what bowling has to offer.

Bowling Expo '93 will take place August 27-29 at the Gibraltar Trade Center South, which is located near Mount Clemens.

This is a timely event, especially since the bowling equipment is going through some radical changes. For those who are involved in the bowling scene, the Expo presents an opportunity to show your wares to the bowling general public.

A 12 by six foot space and eight-foot table are available for as little as $50 for the weekend. For information, call the Bowler's Digest at 286-2450.

As many of the summer leagues have begun, and more are about to begin, there are still some openings available for those who want to get in on the summertime fun.

The summer leagues have short seasons with the bowling centers a nice, cool place to spend a hot summer night. It's a great way to work on your game, try new equipment and stay in good shape so you don't have to start up the fall season rusty.

Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills has openings in the 6:30 p.m. Tuesday Adult/Child League, along with 8 p.m. Sunday 12 Oaks Mixed League.

Westland Bowl has openings in the 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 p.m. Wednesday Mixed Fun Leagues with any combinations (four per team).

Canton's Super Bowl has openings for bowlers in the Wednesday Mixed League which begins at 7 p.m. (four per team).

Plaza Lanes in Plymouth has several youth leagues starting in June for boys and girls ages 6-10 on Mondays. There are also bumper bowling leagues from 3 to 6 p.m. on Tuesdays and at 12:30 p.m. on Thursdays. For more details, call 453-4880.

Apple toss: The historic house isn't a museum; it serves as home for Robin Margraf and her family.

Uncovering of its history earns home recognition

By JANICE JONES
SPECIAL WRITER

When Robin Margraf first saw the large, restored Victorian house on Adams Street in 1990, she wasn't thinking about history. She was looking for a comfortable home for herself; husband, Joe; and sons, Conor and Rory.

"It was love at first sight," said Margraf. "I had such good feelings just walking throught it."

The century-old house has two staircases and lots of interesting corners for young boys to explore. It also has a story which was recently pieced together by the Plymouth branch of the American Association of University Women, which designated the house as a historical landmark May 20.

A mystery

Mary Fritz, head of the AAUW's study group that did the research, said, "It's like a mystery. We kept working until we unraveled it."

To qualify for landmark status a building has to be 75 years old and have some architectural or historical significance.

Fritz and her committee searched through old deeds, checked tax records, and interviewed people to get the following facts.

Local banker and real estate developer William O. Allen built the house on Main Street near the Plymouth High School (now Central Middle School) in 1881. The house was a copy of another Main Street home built in 1879 by H. L. Bennett.

In 1896, Allen married Kate Penniman and moved into her home (the present rectory of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church). The Main Street house was then occupied by Allen's brother, David, until his death in the 1920s, after which it stood vacant until it was purchased in 1925 by the Alfred Smith family.

In 1949, the Allen home and two neighboring houses were purchased by the school district to make way for an addition to the high school. Robert Jolliffee bought the house and moved it to its present site on Adams Street, where he converted it to apartments.

House moved

In its new location, the Allen house was rental property for about 30 years, passing through different owners, and falling into disrepair. In 1986, it was bought by old house enthusiasts David and Kate Solomon, who painstakingly restored it to its original splendor.

The foyer shows off a serpentine wooden staircase leading to a second floor landing. The large front parlor now serves as the living room. Margraf has added an oak fireplace to one wall, and is painting a fireplace screen.

Upstairs, the 10-foot ceilings easily accommodate the yellow pine, canopy bed of the master bedroom, with room to spare for a ceiling fan. Above the windows are hand-painted arches of flowers and ivy, done by Kate Solomon. Margraf has carried on this theme with ivy-covered shades, ivy-filled sconces, and stems of ivy, used as curtain tie-backs.

The bathroom has lots of white tile, windows on two sides, recessed soffit lighting.

"So many people have lived here and influenced the house," Margraf said. "We think of ourselves as the latest occupants. The bottom line is, it's home."

CHEAP EATS

BY LISA RUDY
SPECIAL WRITER

When you first reach the Stage, you'll probably find yourself inwardly moaning "Oh, no." (I know I did.) But if you can get past the dumpy, out-of-date looking outside appearances of this eat in/takeout restaurant and deli, you just might be pleasantly surprised.

Not that the inside is any more aesthetically pleasing, but imagine yourself being able to accept the fact that when this place was new (a mere 35 years ago) when yellow Formica tables and orange vinyl-covered chairs and booths were en vogue. My guess is, however, that even in 1958, more than a few pair of legs stuck to those seats on a hot summer day.

The Stage's menu features a large and interesting enough selection, so prepare yourself for a good read before ordering. Although this place is considered to be a Jewish deli, hot spicy chili is offered right along side cold borscht, and if your leery of sinking your tooth into marinated herring in sour cream, you can always order a "Swankee Frankee,"an innocent-looking hot dog, filled with cheese and wrapped in bacon.

Homemade soups are a hot ticket on the menu, and if you happen to order the matzo ball soup, you're in for good laugh. Don't get me wrong — the soup's great. It's just that this particular matzo ball is one of the biggest I've seen and you're liable to draw a crowd around your bowl.

The Stage also offers a unique selection of salads — colorful fruit salads, tangy salads with herring and Greek olives, and a real scary salad called the Charlie Manos Salad Bowl that consists of crisp lettuce topped with julienne TONGUE (geez, how else would you slice it?), turkey and anchovies. You, of course, get to pick the dressing.

Under the heading of "Never Too Late," omelettes, eggs with inlaced lox and onion, silver dollar pancakes and kippers and onions are available well throughout the dinner hour.

Huge can't-get-your-mouth-around-them sandwiches and the best Rommanian Pastrami you'll ever have will be the things that will bring you back to the stage for an encore. And the meats used in these sandwiches are lean — you honestly won't have to tear your sandwich apart to find the "good" parts. Tasty potato salad or a huge plate of fried onion rings go well with any sandwich selection.

And their rice pudding is fantastic. Cheesecake, apple strudel, and yeah, even Jell-O are listed among the sweets. The guys behind the deli counter will even whip you up a malt or an ice cream sundae, if you wish.

It seemed as though the Stage had enough of a stash in their pantry to make anything. What's more, the staff was more than accommodating. So relax, pull up a vinyl-covered chair. And don't worry about your legs sticking to the seat; they've put in air conditioning since 1958.

There's just something truly spontaneous about The Great Northern that leaves you on the edge of your seat. At first glance, this place seems to harbor all the makings of an up-north lodge with a southwestern flair. But once you're seated and are able to look around, you begin to get the feeling that you've stumbled on to one of the most distinctive, unusual restaurants around.

Surprises are everywhere in this open air, three-room establishment; and the Great Northern's interior beckons you to investigate every nook and cranny. The place is kind of like a museum. Or is it a gymnasium? An Indian reservation? Maybe a hunting lodge? It might just be a Greek coliseum. Who knows . . .

It's hard to tell, because you'll be sitting next to what appears to be a tree trunk and as your eyes wander upward, you'll spot a beautiful Greek column at the top. Fun. While you're admiring the beautiful Navajo tapestries, lining many of the booths and and doorways, don't be surprised if you hear the sounds of a nearby basketball game. The Great Northern houses an enclosed mini basketball court for patrons interested in perfecting their swish-shots (no one-on-one allowed).

Copper Bald Eagle chandeliers hang from the A-frame ceiling in the main dining area; varied, original birdhouses poke out of several different corners; and snowshoes, birch bark kayaks, sailboats and a larger than life hunting license make up many of the features that make this place a constant visual treat.

Harmony: Sometimes Why — Dave Dean, Kenneth Karasek, John Taminski and Jeff Pelione — honed the skill at blending their melody and harmony with the groove on stage at an early age.

Sometimes Why has the answer

With influences like The Alarm, U2, the Red Hot Chili Peppers, The Beatles and Led Zepplin, you might wonder what kind of music Sometimes Why performs. Simple, say band members, who blend melody and harmony with the groove.

BY KYLE GRIEN
SPECIAL WRITER

There is no looking back for the four-member band Sometimes Why, even though today the members laugh about their past.

"We played a lot of shows with our parents in the audience only because (club owners) wouldn't let us play otherwise," said John Taminski, remembering when he and fellow bandmates were too young to perform. "It gave us a stage presence. It was kind of a live rehearsal."

Today with the average age of the members at 20, the band uses its past as a foundation to construct what they hope will be a career.

In preproduction for recording its first release, band members hope their alternative rock sound will appeal to radio listeners, their main goal.

"It's hard for local bands, not saying we are any thing great because we do have a contract, because I do realize that many local bands have contracts with local labels and not so local labels, but I think with a label behind your stuff and a producer and studio behind your stuff, it might be easier to get on the radio," Taminski said.

looked at our dad's record collections and there were a lot of harmony groups like Simon and Garfunkle.

"I guess what we are trying to do right now is blend our melody and harmony with the groove and the riff and that's what you would call classic alternative."

"I don't want you to get the idea that because we are into these classic groups that we are some classic rock band," Dean added. "It all comes out of us differently and obviously it's modern coming out of us."

However, it comes out, the band discovered that the best way to write is to simply play together and feed off their energy, therefore developing up to 60 songs.

"What I find is that when we jam and come up with something it seems to be the most energetic stuff; the stuff with the biggest groove to it," Dean said.

"To me, I haven't heard one that I dislike," Karasek added, "we just keep getting better and better and song ideas keep coming faster and especially now we've been learning a lot of songs and as you can imagine it spears everyone on."

The guitar-based songs contain subject matter obtained from a broad spectrum which the band hopes will find mass appeal.

"In the beginning it was a lot of social, political ideas," Karasek said. "After hanging around Dave for about a year . . ."

"I've cheapened him," interjected Dean with a laugh.

"He was writing cheap love songs, and I loved it," Karasek said about Dean's work. "My first love of music was The Beatles and it reminded us so much of that and I was getting off onto U2-Fresh Basething, so lately I've been writing love songs. Dave, I don't know what he's writing about . . . not-so-cheap love."

Sometimes Why will perform with Verve Pipe, Groovespoon, Majesty Crush, The Charm Farm, Rhythm Corps, BOP (harvey) and Black Market at Summer Jam '93 near Cafe Max in Waterford, 11 a.m. to midnight Saturday, June 5. A portion of the proceeds will benefit the Midwest AIDS Prevention Project. For more information, call 666-2030.

Wallflowers don't shy from stagelights

Wallflowers lead singer Jakob Dylan has learned how to teach journalists that he's not into discussing his famous lineage.

"I don't answer incredibly well," Dylan said with a snicker about his father Bob Dylan. "I don't give up too much."

Dylan and the rest of The Wallflowers — Greg Richling, Rami Jaffee, Peter Yanowitz and Tobi Miller — will play St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit Tuesday, June 2, with special guests the Vudu Hippies. The tour is in support of the band's self-titled debut album which was released in August.

The album has a rather dark and moody feeling which reflects the band's early style, Dyland said.

"I like to think that it's a snapshot of what the band was doing at the time," he said.

The new album, which the group will begin recording after this tour, will have a different feeling, although Dylan wasn't specific about the new sound.

Although the unpretentious roots rock album has received a favorable response from the likes of "Rolling Stone" and "Musician" magazines, Dylan is still apprehensive about his headlining tours.

"We're playing St. Andrew's Hall this time; that's a big place, right? . . . I hope there's not a lot of echo," he said.

As the group tours, Dylan, 23, is seeing the fan base picking up. To get that far, The Wallflowers landed opening spots for the Spin Doctors, 10,000 Maniacs and Virgin Records label mates Cracker.

"It's paying off a little more. We get our name out there and we start getting the rewards," said Dylan.

The Wallflowers, with special guests the Vudu Hippies, will perform Wednesday, June 2, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $6.50. Call 961-MELT for more information.

No simple way for you to cool relationship

STREET SENSE

BARBARA SCHIFF

Message from Voice Mail:

Barbara,

I have befriended a woman at work. A year ago when she was going through a difficult divorce, I was there for her and listened to her difficulties. Now, she tells me everything that happens in her personal life. I am not really interested in hearing all that she wants to tell me and often the material is so intimate that I am embarrassed.

How can I back away without hurting her? I don't want to lose her as a friend, but this is too intense and too intimate.

Dear caller:

Whenever a person like yourself presents a true dilemma, I know I will not be able to give an answer he or she would like to hear.

In your situation, you would like to hear that there is some way to cool the relationship down without any hard feelings. Most likely, that is not possible. In any case you must be able to take the chance of there being resentment.

It is possible that your friend will understand your point of view, but the greater possibility is that she will be hurt. My advice is to cut things clean. However, to do this you will have to be able to handle the fallout, most likely bad feelings.

Your call brought to mind a problem I struggle with as a therapist, as a friend and as the writer of this column. Sometimes people in need want to confide in me. They write letters or call on the phone. Often, I want very much to lend my ear one time, then the person at the other end comes to rely on its presence. That misleads them because time would not allow for it to be available.

I solve this dilemma by setting up clear boundaries for myself. I often wish I could offer more to others but I have been in your position, not because of difficulty with intimacy but with time. It was painful to disappoint people who had come to count on my unlimited attention and so I began to practice prevention. For your sake, I hope you have learned your lesson.

Much to like about Branagh's 'Ado'

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Anyone who doesn't believe in the timeless quality of Shakespeare should catch "Much Ado About Nothing," a new film adaptation of The Bard currently at The Maple. The infectiously jolly story of romance and villainy in 17th-century Italy comes alive through Kenneth Branagh's immensely clever translation.

Branagh, who brought "Henry V" to the screen in 1989, and real-life wife Emma Thompson head the cast. They play Benedick and Beatrice, confirmed bachelor and bachelorette, who spend all of their time together exchanging insults. Of course, their quick wits only hide their passion for each other.

Both are delightful. When the two are tricked into believing that they love each other, both drop their spinster ways and go loopy with love. He splashes up to his knees in a fountain. She rocks wildly on a tree swing. Branagh, not afraid of goofing it up a bit, melds the two images into a montage backed by Patrick Doyle's lilting musical score.

The great Denzel Washington plays Prince Don Pedro, who rides into town with his merry men. They will rest for a month in the picturesque Italian villa owned by the Prince's friend, Leonato (Richard Briers). The visit is filled with the usual Shakespearean touches — mistaken identity, verbal sparring and true love whose course never runs smooth.

The credit sequence sets the happy tone, as the Prince's arrival sends the villa into a frenzy. The women head upstairs for primping and new frocks, their naked bodies revealed tastefully by the camera. Don Pedro's men arrive and strip for a cleansing swim, enthusiastically preparing for the revelry at hand.

With "Much Ado," Branagh has found a medium ground with the Shakespeare directors (Orson Welles and Laurence Olivier among them) who preceded him. He employs a bankable cast, an appealing visual style and just enough reverence to the source so that English majors won't picket the theater.

Branagh's aim to please sometimes goes astray, which isn't surprising with all the personalities at work.

"I am a man of few words," says Keanu Reeves as Don Pedro's half brother, and we're glad of it. Reeves, who butchered an English accent in "Bram Stoker's Dracula," is best seen and not heard. He slinks around effectively as the sharp-bearded evildoer who sets young lovers Claudio and Hero (Robert Sean Leonard and Kate Beckinsale, both quite good) at odds on their wedding day.

Dogberry, who provides the rough comic relief in the play, comes off tediously here. Michael Keaton plays this village constable the same way he did Beetlejuice, with manic facial gestures, doinks in the eyes, and kicks in the groin. The only thing worse would be Robin Williams in the role.

Still, there's something irresistible about seeing these different acting styles together in tribute to Shakespeare. Branagh's film works because he doesn't try to make a textbook version of "Much Ado About Nothing." Just like the playwright, he wants first and foremost to entertain — and that the film certainly does.

'Hot Shots!' sequel: As parodies go, it's non-original America is in crisis. Once again, brave patriots on foreign soil have been taken hostage by a malevolent despot bent on exacting revenge on the United States.

President Tug Benson (Lloyd Bridges) wants action — and he knows only one man can do the job. And that man is "Topper" Harley (Charlie Sheen).

Topper Harley returns to action at the behest of the president in "Hot Shots! Part Deux," the sequel to the international comedy hit of 1991.

After three failed missions, the president turns to Topper — to head a commando team into enemy territory to rescue the men who went in to get the men who went in to get the men . . .

Twentieth Century Fox presents "Hot Shots! Part Deux," a Jim Abrahams film starring Charlie Sheen, Lloyd Bridges, Valeria Golino, Brenda Bakke and Richard Crenna. Jim Abrahams directs from a screenplay by Jim Abrahams and Pat Proft, who is also executive producer. Bill Badalato is producer. Greg Norberg and Michael McManus serve as associate producers.

"So many sequels seem to be just expensive remakes of the original," said writer/director Jim Abrahams. "We wanted to do something different and expensive. Since this is parody, we wanted to move into a different genre — besides, we kind of ran out of flying jokes."

To describe in detail the plot of "Hot Shots! Part Deux" would be to describe any number of other movies that were just as funny — they just didn't know it.

"'No originality'" is our credo," said Abrahams. "What we set out to do first was to find a genre that takes itself seriously, and that whole genre of 'going in to get the guys' is a genre that takes itself very seriously. Then, keeping in mind our motto — No originality — we had to steal our loves stories and our bad guy stories and the rest of our stories from real movies."

From "Rambo III," the filmmakers found the inspiration to place Topper in a monastery at the outset of the film, where he lives peacefully among affection-starved monks.

They added a new element to the character, which would find Topper exposing a whole new side of himself.

"When Charlie read the script, he must have said, 'Whoops, I'm going to be running around with my shirt off this whole movie. I'd better do something.'"

"I've been an athlete my whole life and kept in pretty good shape, but I knew I had to take it to a different level in this film," said Sheen.

He flew to Maui with a personal trainer and a cook, setting up an intensive training program he eventually called "Death Camp '92."

From dawn until dusk, he followed a six-day-a-week regimen of road work, weight training, yoga, swimming and martial arts. His diet was carefully balanced to provide the high carbohydrates and high protein needed to attain the goal of muscle bulk and low body fat.

"The results are absolutely phenomenal," said Jim Abrahams. "He came in for wardrobe and hair tests, and when he took his shirt off and everybody saw what he had invested in his role, it was a very positive moment for the movie because it said wait a minute, this is for real. Charlie set the tone for everyone with his bodybuilding and his efforts."

With twice the body, it's only fitting that Topper should have twice the love interests. Still pining for Ramada (Valeria Golino), who jilted him at some point following the first film, Topper is on the rebound with the lovely and brilliant CIA operative Michelle Huddleston (Brenda Bakke) when Ramada unexpectedly reenters his life — albeit in a slightly different guise.

The psychiatrist/equestrienne/sculptor/torch singer has added "mercenary" to her resume, playing an important, and lethal, role in Topper's mission.

The movie is rated PG-13 — (Parents are strongly cautioned. Some material may be inappropriate for young children).

Now playing at these suburban theaters: AMC Abbey, AMC Wonderland, AMC Southfield City, AMC Laurel Park, Showcase Westland, Star Winchester, Showcase Pontiac, AMC Americana West.

TWENTIETH CENTURY FOX

Comedy Sequel: Charlie Sheen is Topper and Valeria Golino is Ramada in "Hot Shots! Part Deux."

There's just something truly spontaneous about The Great Northern that leaves you on the edge of your seat. At first glance, this place seems to harbor all the makings of an up-north lodge with a southwestern flair. But once you're seated and are able to look around, you begin to get the feeling that you've stumbled on to one of the most distinctive, unusual restaurants around.

Surprises are everywhere in this open air, three-room establishment; and the Great Northern's interior beckons you to investigate every nook and cranny. The place is kind of like a museum. Or is it a gymnasium? An Indian reservation? Maybe a hunting lodge? It might just be a Greek coliseum. Who knows . . .

Nearby bank hit by robbery for second time

An unidentified man escaped with $2,000 from a northwest Livonia bank Wednesday, the second time in three months the branch has been robbed.

Nobody was injured in the incident, police said.

Investigators have few leads and no suspects in the 9:30 a.m. robbery, said Livonia Police detective Lt. Mike Murray.

A Detroit man was charged in a similar robbery Feb. 22 at the First of America bank on Eight Mile, west of Farmington Road, police said.

A bank employee told police a man walked in immediately after the branch opened, walked up to a teller window and demanded money in large denominations.

The man implied he had a gun, the employee said.

After taking stacks of 10- and 20-dollar bills from the counter, the man walked out of the bank and to an adjacent parking lot.

The robber was described as a light-skinned black man, 25-30 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall and 160 pounds. He had a thin mustache and was wearing a white baseball-style cap, white jacket, dark, baggy slacks and white tennis shoes.

'Good opportunity'

Wayne-Westland supports tax plan

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Proposal A supporters have launched a final push in the Wayne-Westland School District to win votes for Wednesday's statewide ballot issue — viewed as a "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity" to slash property taxes and rescue money-desperate schools.

Consider:

- Volunteers have distributed 45,000 pieces of supportive literature, district spokesman Gary Dell said.
- School officials have mailed an equal number of letters to homeowners throughout the 16,500-student district.
- Educators and parents have launched a telephone campaign that continues this week.
- A video made by the state Proposal A committee is being shown four times daily on city cable channels in Westland and Wayne, with an introduction by Wayne-Westland Superintendent Larry Thomas, Dell said.

Polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Proposal A would increase the state sales tax to 6 percent from 4 percent and cut school property taxes. In the financially beleaguered Wayne-Westland district, the tax rate would plummet from 47 mills to 27.

The northern portion of Westland, in the Livonia School District, would realize a more modest tax cut. Those residents now pay an operating levy of 31.50 mills.

(One mill is $1 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation.)

Wayne-Westland would be one of the biggest benefactors under the plan, which officials say could thwart $14 million in budget cuts already approved for next school year. Massive layoffs and program cuts are expected if the proposal fails.

The only other alternative will be for school officials to schedule a Wayne-Westland tax election this summer or early fall. But voters already spoke loudly on April 5 by crushing a local tax proposal.

During a school board meeting last week, Westland resident Walter Warren urged officials to fight relentlessly until Wednesday to win votes for what he called a "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity" to lower property taxes and secure school finances.

School officials also have won support from Westland Mayor Robert Thomas, who said he favors Proposal A.

"It will give them funding for education, and it will not come out of property taxes," Thomas said.

Thomas supports the plan even though the city of Westland would lose $350,000 if it maintains an operating tax rate of 7 mills in the next budget. Losses could top $1 million if the city reduces its tax rate to 6.84 mills, which Thomas said has been considered.

"It's not the best thing in the world, and it's going to hurt a little bit," he said of Proposal A, but added that the burden for paying for public schools must be lifted from property owners.

Voter turnout, meanwhile, is expected to be no more than 20 percent of the city's 51,469 registered voters, said deputy clerk Patricia Gibbons. She also said 2,400 absentee ballots have been mailed out.

Last week, some residents told school officials they are concerned that opposition to Proposal A may be growing. Warren, a Westland attorney and landlord, said he has heard widespread opposition in local coffee shops.

At least two groups, the Wayne-Westland Citizens for Education Committee, and the Westland Democratic Club have also opposed the proposal.

Paul Krarup, Democratic Club board member, announced that the group last week had board of directors and 12 members oppose Proposal A because the sales tax harms poor while property taxes will continue to increase.

LINDA BACHRACK

A summer face is a real put on

If you're as overwhelmed as I am when you visit the cosmetics counter, perhaps you'll appreciate the professional tips in today's column. Initially, I wanted to focus on the soft new makeup colors for summer, but I found myself inquiring about all the cosmetic and skin care secrets that I ever pondered, from eyelash tints to bronzing powders.

Geri Emmett of Trish McEvoy cosmetics in New York answered my color questions. Geri says to think translucent for summer. Sheer textures and light watercolors are the keys to looking cool in warm, humid weather. She recommends a nude eye, brushed in whites and light pinks and lined in a soft brown powder. "A pencil tends to get rather oily in the summer. A powder liner creates a softer eye," she says.

A tinted moisturizer is a good alternative to foundation, and the McEvoy product contains an SPF of 15. This sheer color combined with a bronzing powder produces a sun-kissed look with just two light layers of makeup. (I'm partial to Yves Saint Laurent's Sunny Complexion Powder.)

5 minute limit

If you love your red lipstick all year round, try applying your favorite scarlet hue over a base of tawny brown. Voila! A softer lip look for summer.

"Strive for an application of under five minutes," concludes Emmett. After all, you don't want to waste any daylight.

Find the entire Trish McEvoy line of cosmetics exclusively at Lori Karbal in Birmingham.

For a bit of pampering, make an appointment with Todd Skog, the resident makeup artist at Lori's boutique. I observed this well-respected expert at work as he applied his art to the attractive visage of fashion retailer Adriane Petrakis. Adriane wanted a fresh look and she was partial to navies and violets. "No pinks or roses," she pleaded.

Sponge or puff?

Todd began by removing all traces of Adriane's lipstick with Kiehl's lip balm, a moisturizer that also removes color. He liberally applied Trish McEvoy's concealer to eye lids and lips, using a shade lighter than skin tone. The base color was blended with a sponge for a sheerer look. A puff gives more coverage.

Though Adriane tended toward dark, smoky eyes and dark liner, Todd opted to "pop the eyes out" with a lighter look. An ivory base acted as canvas with a gray/brown shadow lining the lid and a smoky blue in the crease and at the corners. He followed with black mascara and an eyelash curler. Todd warned never to line the inside of the eye, as it takes the white of your eye and makes it smaller.

The finishing touches involved a bronzer for the cheeks and an auburn lip liner with a brown/red lipstick by Kiehl's. And the verdict? "I like my eyes and lipstick a lot," said Adriane. "The bronze cheeks aren't me but I like them. It's very different, not as intense as my usual bright orange/red lipstick and purple eyes."

"That's the best thing about makeup," says Todd. "You can put on a different face every day. You can make subtle changes and experiment."

Lash tints are in

I also picked the brain of aesthetician Naoko Vold, the proprietor of Dol-Vando skin care and beauty center in the Bloomfield Town Square shopping center, 2235 S. Telegraph. Known for her invigorating and healing Shiatsu massages, Naoko is also knowledgeable on the subject of cosmetics. She carries Aveda products in her shop and recommends a "bare eye" for summer. This look is achieved, however, with three natural color shadows in apricot and gold tones.

Naoko says that warm weather dictates less makeup, a concealer and translucent powder are usually enough. And lashes are back. A lash tint ($15) is perfect for summer. Just think, no drippy mascara to mar your dip in the pool.

"I like pale cheeks and stand-out eyes and lips," says Naoko.

A visit to Naoko really wouldn't be complete without a massage ($15-$45). A Shiatsu massage removes lactic acid from the muscles and restores balance through skilled manipulation of pressure points. Naoko uses her Shiatsu training to relieve stress and tightness that can have a physical origin. "I can detect gallstones, lack of estrogen, even stomach irritation," she says. Her facials also include Shiatsu massage techniques ($45-$55).

Next week: a look at bronzers — the healthy way to a summer tan.

Planners like Franklin store

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

"Benjamin Franklin was one of the first people to use a book to get his values in line," explained Robert Bromwell, manager of the Franklin Quest store in Twelve Oaks Mall. "He listed 13 virtues, and he managed to do 12 of them. The 13th was humility, and every time he got to feeling good about the first 12 he'd accomplished, the humility went right out the window."

The Franklin Planner was created in 1983 by a Salt Lake City-based company hoping to simplify the busy executive's schedule with an all-purpose organizer. Today, it's common to see these black or burgundy notebooks pop open at PTA meetings, after club tennis matches, and during shopping mall lunches — almost everyone has one.

"The Franklin Planner will help you become the kind of person you want to be — whether it's a better parent, a citizen more active in the community, a successful executive," said Frank Foley, a sales associate. "Most of our customers come from the corporate world, but you'll see Franklin Planners in all walks of life."

A Franklin Quest store opened in the Novi mall six months ago to meet the growing demand on the "west side of the city" according to Foley. There are also shops in Dearborn and Troy.

The planner is based on Franklin's 13 virtues, and the company adopted Franklin's portrait as its logo. They renamed the virtues "governing values" and by using the planner, personal values are identified and developed, time is managed, and eureka! the user is on the road to success. The company has grown to 26 outlets throughout the country from an original store opened in 1986. Their competition is the day planner and the ordinary calendar, but Franklin Planners have an edge.

"We sell a system," explained Frank Foley, sales associate. "We're not just product based, we are education based. We care about helping people set goals and we show them how to work towards achievement."

Foley described the Franklin Planner as a comprehensive time management diary that includes a personal finance section, extensive reference material, a five-year planning calendar, and pages for dates, addresses and phone numbers.

Some contain road maps and dictionaries of the 7,000 most misspelled words. Add-on modules are available to help those interested in project planning, sales forms, exercise logs and menu planners.

Andria Sitar of West Bloomfield keeps a hectic schedule as manager of a personnel department. She has relied on her Franklin Planner to manage time and note appointments for the past three years.

"My planner allows me to track things on a daily basis," she said. "There's also room for personal data so both business and home contacts can be kept in one spot. The best part of the planner for me, is that the history of events can be kept so you can trace what went on later. It's a tool. A tool I will continue to use."

Patrick Calhoun of Northville, works in retail. He bought a Franklin planner this year after noticing how much his girlfriend relied on hers.

"I carry it with me all the time now," he said. "It's all you need right in your hand, plus your watch. Years ago I had one and it was stolen from my car. "The company replaced the inserts for free and gave me 10-percent off a new binder. Now that's customer service."

The store offers seminars and sells cassette tapes and books to help new customers use the planner most efficiently.

"The seminars are offered twice a month in the Detroit area and you register through the stores," he said. "The $195 fee includes a full day seminar and of course a Franklin Planner. Twenty-thousand people a month take the course throughout the country."

That's quite a following and Foley joked that some people see devoted Franklin planner users as members of a cult.

Malls lighter side

It's not always business as usual in a shopping center. Sometimes real life happens and a sense of humor comes in handy.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

I bet you think malls are just for shopping.

Wrong. Wrong. Wrong.

The following episodes reveal that people fall in love in malls. People get chased by bears in malls. Santa Claus gets his feelings hurt in malls. And some find malls the perfect place for nesting.

Twelve Oaks Mall

Marketing director Elaine Kah recalled the time two employees became engaged at the Novi mall.

"A guy and a gal worked at the mall in separate stores located near each other, and they would take their breaks outside the stores on this mall bench," she explained. "They met on the bench and after some months, the guy proposed to the gal on the bench. When they got married they asked the mall if they could buy this precious bench. Twelve Oaks Mall made them a gift of the bench as a wedding present." Kah said there must be something romantic about Twelve Oaks Mall because once an entire wedding party showed up at Christmas to have their photos taken near the holiday decorations.

Oakland Mall

Before he retired from the Oakland Mall in Troy, which he managed for 20 years, Don Pyden recalled the time a United Parcel Service driver wouldn't take "no!" for an answer.

"We had the Moscow circus in town and we wanted to promote the circus and the mall by having a few of those Russian bears on display," he said. "Well, we had no place to keep the bear until showtime, so we lured him into a rear corridor used for loading.

"The door had no lock, so we stationed a security guard outside. Along comes this devoted UPS delivery guy who insisted on using the corridor to make a delivery. We told him no because there was a bear inside and he just wouldn't believe it. I wish you could have seen his face when he opened that door and came nose to nose with our furry friend."

motions directors," advised Rita Bowles of Summit Place in Pontiac. "Never book guests more popular than Santa. I remember a few years back when our Santa Arrival featured appearances by the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. Well, all the kids were fighting for a chance to hug the turtles and no one was over at Santa's workshop. It was awful."

Somerset, Laurel Park

For two feathered friends with an attitude, the tres upscale Somerset Collection and the stately Laurel Park Place must resemble Palm Springs.

"We were hoping the double doors would eliminate birds flying into the mall," explained Tom Miles, manager of the Somerset Collection. "But every once in awhile we still find one flying around and nesting in our palm trees. We've got to catch this one before he disturbs the diners in the open air Cafe Jardin."

"We need a fishnet," mall housekeeper Rhonda Sunn yelled to her associates as they crept up on the starling drinking water from the mall's pool. Spying their approach, the bird hopped into the poolside greenery and vanished.

The management staff at Laurel Park Place in Livonia recently called a pair of wildlife enthusiasts to relocate a mother duck and her 10 ducklings squawking near a high automobile traffic area on the shopping center's property.

When the babies hatched, many of the mall's employees, including Joe Shevala of Y Not Yogurt fed the feathered family.

"Croissants and water seemed to be the favorite snack," joked Shevela.

Linda and Steve Gray of Garden City, volunteers with the Howell Nature Center, moved the family to a more rustic residence at Hines Park.

"One does carry a lot of information in the planner and it becomes vital to the smooth operation of a day," he said. "Once you discover what it can do for you, you become vehement about having one. It's not a good thing to lose or misplace." There's even a student success cassette geared specifically toward high school and college students, and a computer software planner program. The smallest-size planner in a vinyl binder costs $9.95 and prices range between $9.95 and $250 for the largest planner in a leather binder. Many people start small and upgrade along the way, Foley advised.

The stores are open six days a week, closed Sundays. Franklin Quest also carries a line of small leather goods and a library of related career publications.

Their next store is set for Grand Rapids. Inquiries are welcome at 380-0450.

How Proposal A will affect local taxpayers

Figuring out how your taxes will be changed by Proposal A is like solving a Rubik's Cube, the puzzle where anything you touch affects something else.

Proposal A, if approved Wednesday by Michigan voters, would affect your local school property taxes (mostly down), your state sales tax (up) and your federal income tax (mostly up).

Accountants from Arthur Andersen & Co. figured some typical tax results for some typical people in many communities.

This newspaper provided the firm median income figures from the U.S. Census and median owner-occupied home value figures from the marketing sources. We took half the home value as the state equalized valuation (SEV) on which the property tax is based.

The state Senate Fiscal Agency provided figures on current school millages and expected millage changes if Proposal A passes.

The accountants calculated the impact on the property tax bill and the typical increase in sales taxes. Then they figured the increase in federal income taxes (because property taxes are deductible from income but sales taxes aren't) and the state income ta increase (because of the loss of the Homestead Credit).

Here are the median family figures:

Garden City School District — net increase of $60. Based on city resident with median family income of $32,975, home SEV of $29,850, property tax savings of 17.6 mills or $525, sales tax increase of $239, federal tax increase of $32, state income tax increase $315.

Livonia School District — net increase of $201. Based on Livonia 481154 median family income of $45,971, home SEV of $47,400, property tax savings of 5.9 mills or $280, sales tax increase of $296, federal tax increase of $17, state income tax increase $168.

Livonia School District — net increase of $158. Based on Westland median family income of $29,4495, home SEV of $31,700, property tax savings of 5.9 mills or $187, sales tax increase of $222, federal tax increase of $11, state income tax increase $112.

Plymouth-Canton School District — net cut of $2. Based on Canton Township 48187 median family income of $36,633, home SEV of $54,650, property tax savings of 13.94 mills or $762, sales tax increase of $257, federal tax increase of $46, state income tax increase $457.

Plymouth-Canton School District — net cut of $204. Based on Plymouth Township median family income of $41,665, home SEV of $63,600, property tax savings of 13.94 mills or $887, sales tax increase of $280, federal tax increase of $85, state income tax increase $317.

Redford Union School District — net increase of $59. Based on Redford 48240 median income of $30,930, home SEV of $28,750, property tax savings of 17.4 mills or $500, sales tax increase of $229, federal tax increase of $59, state income tax increase $300.

South Redford School District — net increase of $130. Based on Redford 48239 median income of $32,680, home SEV of $28,750, property tax savings of 11 mills or $316, sales tax increase of $238, federal tax increase of $19, state income tax increase $190.

Wayne-Westland School District — net increase of $158. Based on Westland 48185 median income of $29,495, home SEV of $31,700, property tax cut of 20.1 mills or $637, sales tax increase of $222, federal tax increase of $38, state income tax increase $382.

Clarenceville School District could not be calculated because it is in three Zip codes with no separate home SEV figures.

Angelou has message of love and courage

BY BONNIE SHELLNUT
SPECIAL WRITER

Maya Angelou, one of the country's most visible poets, said she came to Livonia recently to speak about love.

Although the message she brought was simple, her presentation was both romantically lyrical and deeply spiritual. As if she were composing a poem on stage, Angelou, a tall, rich-voiced, woman in her 60s, punctuated her delivery with humor, music and metaphor.

Invited by Walsh College in Troy, the Citizens Insurance Co. of America and the Danforth Holley Leadership Program, Angelou said that love Is a source of human dignity.

She was a single mother in her teens in the 1940s. And, as a black woman, she saw the ugly face of racial discrimination in America and worked with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the civil rights struggle. She was appointed to serve on President Jimmy Carter's commission for women in the mid '70s. She also served as a cultural ambassador to Ghana. Angelou has spent her life exploring humanity.

Inaugural poetry

A popular writer with 12 books to her credit, millions saw Angelou for the first time on television on Jan. 20, when she read her commissioned poem "On The Pulse of Morning" for President Bill Clinton's inauguration. She was the first poet to be given that honor since Robert Frost delivered his poetry for President John F. Kennedy's inauguration in 1961.

Angelou's appearance on the "Arsenio Hall Show" after the inauguration sparked renewed interest in her work, which has spanned five decades. Probably the most well-known book is her autobiography, "I Know Why The Caged Bird Sings," a story of her experiences as a black girl growing up in Stamps, Ark.

Originally scheduled for the Troy Marriott in February, in her lecture at Livonia's Laurel Manor, Angelou said that people today "owe their existence to the love of the ones who have gone on before."

She advised young and old alike to go to the library to find meaning to life, as it has been written about by so many wise people.

Defining love as "the courage to build bridges and to reach other human beings," she also challenged audience members to practice courage, the "most important virtue."

Words to live by

Although Angelou spoke about the black experience, she encouraged everyone to live by a spiritual standard of having the courage to do that which is right.

During the lecture and the question-and-answer period, Angelou's personal philosophy of life was evident.

- Life: "Life is our most precious gift."
- Contribution to society: "Everything you do is for the entire species. Everything you leave undone is a loss to the entire species."
- Racial separatism: "I will not give one inch of what we gained nor will I take one inch from anyone . . . We have given up the best of what we had to take the worst of what they had."
- Inequality: "The world is filled with strife — ageism, sexism, racism . . . I must have a sense of self-love or I will be unable to deal with these issues fairly."
- People: "Humans are more alike than we are unalike." "We are all worth something."

Simple style

David A. Spencer, president of Walsh College, asked the poet what gave her the creative spark to write, act and produce. She answered: "I'm a practicing Christian . . . Some say they are 'already' Christians, but I am still practicing. And it is in the ecstasy of the spiritual flow that . . . the creator smiles on it."

The WTVS-TV (Channel 56) City for Youth Choir, featuring more than 50 young Detroit area male and female voices, and directed by Dr. Deborah Smith, presented two songs to close the program.

After Angelou had taken her seat in the audience and the children had lined up in four rows in front of the stage, Angelou — true to her simple, unassuming style — got up from her seat, came to the stage and asked that the podium be removed so that the choir could sing on the stage. She even started to help Spencer remove the podium.

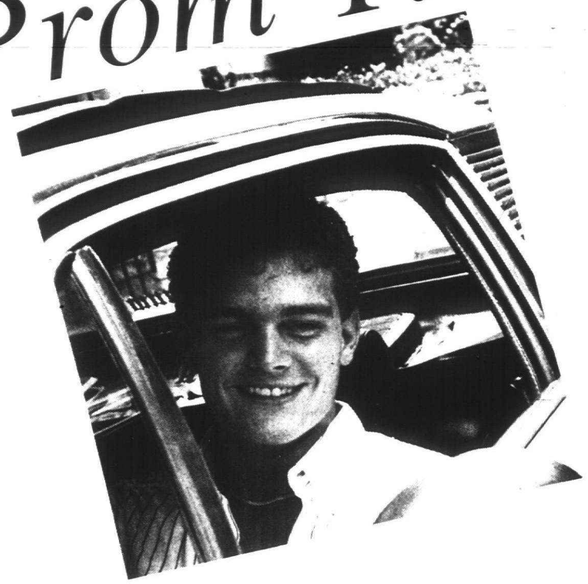
It's Prom Time



Meet John. He will graduate this June. He's on his way to pick up his tux for his senior party. John's an average student and will graduate somewhere in the middle of his class. He's the kind of young man that, if anything happened to him, people would say, "he was such a nice boy, loved sports and was always so willing to help you—not like some of these kids today."

However, nothing is going to happen to John on prom night because he doesn't drink or use drugs. It's not that he's what the kids call a "dork," it's just that he thinks substance abuse is stupid. And, in this, he's smart. Very smart. He knows that the number one cause of death in teens is drinking or drug related automobile crashes and that drinking and driving claims the lives of thousands of teens and adults each year.* All right! John!

*Drunk or drugged driving crashes is the number one cause of death for 16-to-24-year-olds.

Minnelli, Tony Awards salute Broadway's best

By Steven Alan McGaw

In 1965, Liza Minnelli made her Broadway debut in the musical "Flora, the Red Menace." Her performance was recognized with the Antoinette Perry (Tony) Award for Best Leading Actress in a Musical, making Minnelli, at age 19, the youngest actress ever to be so honored.

That, of course, was just the beginning of Minnelli's phenomenal career. Today her resume includes an Oscar, two Golden Globe Awards, an Emmy, a British Academy Award and a pair of Italy's prestigious David di Donatello Awards. She has broken attendance records at both Carnegie Hall and Radio City Music Hall and been named Las Vegas' Entertainer of the Year for three consecutive years. Her recordings have proven consistent sellers, and she scored an international dance club hit and British gold record with last year's "Losing My Mind," from the album "Results," produced by England's Pet Shop Boys.

But the honors that mean the most to Minnelli may be the two additional Tonys she has received. In 1973, she won a special prize for her highly theatrical concert engagement at the Winter Garden theater, and received another Best Actress Tony in 1977 for her performance in "The Act."

"It's my first love," Minnelli says of Broadway. "It's where I feel most at home, most alive." In 1984, she shared the stage with Chita Rivera in "The Rink," and, looking ahead, says simply, "There's always a return to Broadway in my future."

She returns, briefly, on the evening of Sunday, June 6, to serve as host of "The 47th Annual Tony Awards." From the stage of New York's Gershwin Theatre, the two-hour CBS broadcast will honor winners in 19 categories, as well as the recipients of several special awards.

Describing her duties, Minnelli says, "I'll introduce all the presenters and do a couple of numbers. Other than that, I just have to keep things moving." One of the "numbers" Minnelli refers to is a medley of Broadway tunes with her sister, singer/actress Lorna Luft. "We've never sung together in public," she explains, "so I'm thrilled about it." Minnelli also points out that Luft is currently starring in a touring production of "Guys and Dolls," and "killing 'em on the road."

Minnelli says she first attended the Tonys in 1965, the year she was nominated for "Flora."

"I truly had no idea I was going to win," she says. "I borrowed a dress from my agent, who was also my girlfriend, 'cause I didn't own a long dress." As for her win, Minnelli de-

HIGHLIGHTS

Tina Turner is among the artists scheduled to perform in "The World Music Awards," airing Tuesday, June 1, on ABC. Honoring those performers who have achieved top record sales, the presentation was taped in mid-May in Monaco. Actor Michael Douglas is host of the ceremony, which also features performances by Boyz II Men, Billy Ray Cyrus, Rod Stewart and Jon Secada. Michael Jackson will receive three awards, including World's Best Selling Recording Artist of the Era, a first in the 4-year history of the awards.

HIGHLIGHTS

In his 25th documentary, filmmaker Frederick Wiseman ("Titicut Follies") goes behind the scenes at Miami Metrozoo for a look at the complexities of displaying and caring for animals such as this Indian tiger in "Zoo," airing Wednesday, June 2, on most PBS affiliates. One of the best zoos in the country, Miami Metrozoo is a 290-acre complex of naturalistic habitats that is home to 140 species. Among the issues of zoo management covered in this documentary are ethics, finances, administration, technology and research.

scribes the moment as "incredible. It was such a surprise because I was so young and it was my first show. I just remember Fred Ebb (the lyricist for "Flora" and a frequent collaborator) screaming in my ear when they called my name."

The actress' famous parents, Judy Garland and Vincente Minnelli, didn't attend the ceremony, but were listening to the live radio broadcast. (The Tonys were not then televised.) Both were waiting anxiously on the phone for her when she arrived at the Governors' Ball after the awards. "I know they were on pins and needles before," Minnelli says, "and when they got me on the phone, they just went nuts."

Subsequent Tony wins meant just as much, Minnelli says, though each felt a little different, "because of the work leading up to it."

"It was exciting to win for the Winter Garden show," she explains, "because it was so theatrical, and (Bob) Fosse was involved and we'd done the work for the Theatre Fund and raised more money than anyone ever had...Winning for 'The Act,' after all the trials and tribulations of making that show work, was just marvelous."

Minnelli says she understands why the Tony telecasts are a consistent winner in the ratings. "It's because there's an aura about Broadway," she explains. "It's a tradition, an American tradition that people are still interested in. Even if you're in the South or the Midwest or wherever, there's a glamour about it that you still want to relate to. To be in it for those two hours is fun." Asked if such a brief window can really capture the flavor of the Broadway theater scene, the host is quick to respond, "It will this year. I can promise you that," Minnelli says emphatically.

Viewers can expect to see excerpts from current musical hits such as "Tommy," "The Goodbye Girl" and "Kiss of the Spider Woman." Celebrities likely to appear in the show, either as presenters or performers (to say nothing of winners), include Martin Short, Pete Townshend, Ben Vereen, Bernadette Peters, Stephen Rea, Tim Curry, Mercedes Ruehl, Tony Randall and Shirley Jones.

"Tommy," Des McAnuff's adaption of The Who's historic 1969 album, leads this year's list of nominees with 11, including Best Musical, Best Original Score, Best Featured Actress (Marcia Mitzman) and Best Scenic Design. Among straight plays, Tony Kushner's epic "Angels in America" leads the pack with nine nominations.

SOAP WORLD

Williams plays a doctor on TV

BY CANDACE HAVENS

She's beautiful, sexy and savvy. Tonya Lee Williams is on her way to having it all.

Williams portrays Dr. Olivia Barber Hastings on the top-rated soap opera "The Young and the Restless." But acting is only one aspect of this multi-talented woman's life. She is an accomplished musician and plays the piano, violin and tenor sax proficiently. She writes fiction and someday hopes to produce and direct feature films.

"I love acting and working on 'Y&R,' " says Williams, "but someday I want to make movies; I want to be involved from the very beginning with writing the prose, getting the financing and putting the actors together. It is all so exciting."

For now, Williams is content to focus on acting and enjoying her time on 'Y&R.' "The other day I was talking to Veronica (Redd-Forrest), who plays Aunt Mamie on the show," says Williams, "and we commented on how much like a family we really are. We sometimes bicker with one another, but at the same time we are supportive of one another. It is a great place to work."

Williams enjoys playing her character and says she is involved in a terrific story line. "My sister and mother on the show don't get along and I'm trying my best to get them together. In my heart I think it is the sister's fault. I don't see the fact that our mother played favorites, because I was the favored one. The whole situation has made for some great conflict."

Off the set, Tonya shares her home with her two dogs. She says eventually she would like to get married and have a family, but right now her mind is set on her career. "I like going out there and auditioning and working on different things," says the actress.

"This business takes a lot of patience. The other day Bill Bell told us how after the first year of 'Y&R' he went to CBS to talk about taking the show off the air because it wasn't doing well in the ratings. CBS told him to hang in there, and look what happened. I'm taking things step by step, and eventually I get there."
