Some see bill as prerequisite to reform

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

While some observers are attacking state legislators for eliminating property tax funding for schools — a move they see as high-stakes poker victimizing children — others are heralding the move as an unprecedented opportunity for Michigan.

Legislators last week voted to do away with property tax as the main source of funding for public schools. The tax cut will mean a $5.6 billion savings for taxpayers.

Beverly Wolkow, executive director for the Michigan Education Association, said, "I think state Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing, (a candidate for governor who introduced the measure) put a bluff out there. I don't think she was really serious about the issue. I think she was saying, 'If they

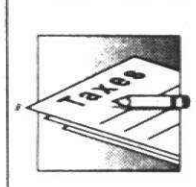
School tax cut to fuel land boom



The state's action to eliminate property taxes for local school operations will probably create a building and real estate boom, if it goes into effect. Local Realtors say young couples will start buying houses, if the property tax system is scrapped.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Realtor Lee Bittinger recalls a young couple who moved from a $136,000 house in Arizona to Canton.

"We were squeezing him into a $96,000 home. He couldn't qualify because of the taxes," said Bittinger, of REMAX Crossroads Realty in Canton. "We have an awful lot of transferees from out-of-town who are absolutely shocked with our taxes."

Some area Realtors hope that shock over property taxes will be a thing of the past with state legislature's $5.6-billion property tax cut.

"We are excited from the standpoint of homeowners' and property owners' rights," said Bill Deacon, president of the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors.

Realtors say they're excited about the tax cut's potential to boost the housing and construction industries. Theoretically, without property taxes to pay for schools, monthly house payments will decrease.

The property tax bill of a Canton resident in the Plymouth-Canton school district will see at least a 56.9-percent decrease. Those in the Wayne-Westland district will see a

Police probe reports of gangs at complex

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton Commons residents say they are plagued with fights, gunfire, vandalism and threats by teens and young adults at the low-income complex.

"The whole complex is in an uproar. This is our home. Enough is enough," said a resident who didn't wish to identify herself.

While residents call the teens gangs, Canton police say they are still trying to determine, if in fact, actual gangs are causing problems at the complex on Haggerty Road.

"That's what we are evaluating," said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer. "We are taking a zero-tolerance approach with dealing with people associated with gangs or with behavior that is illegal."

Last week, police arrested two people involved in fights at the complex. "There has been a lot of intimidation. There haven't been that many acts, but a lot of threats and intimidation," Colling said.

Some residents, however, believe they are being confronted with gang members who call themselves the "D Kings" and wear headbands or bandanas. "There's been gunfire. There's been a couple buildings shot up and gang-related graffiti," said a resident who is worried about his children.

A woman resident said her husband had been confronted by someone she considered a gang member. "He said, 'No one can beat a King,'" the woman said. "They are after our kids."

Some residents also are critical with police response to their complaints about gang trouble. "Police told us last night that these are not gangs. They are wannabees. I don't know if police don't know how to handle the situation or are scared of the situation," a resident said.

On the contrary, police said. They have been educating themselves and Plymouth-Canton school officials about gangs, particularly in the last six months. Agents with the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, trained Canton officers in gang activity in March. Colling has met with the Detroit Police Gang Squad as well as other knowledgeable police officers in downriver communities.

"We've been dealing with this before the complaints came in," said Canton Police Chief John Santomauro. "We are very concerned if they (residents) are not feeling adequately protected."

Police will meet with residents early this week. "We're going to address these issues and concerns and understand fact from fiction," said Colling, who will attend another seminar this week on gangs.

Initially, concerned residents had planned their own meeting. But it was canceled in favor of a meeting with police.

"This is all brand new," said Chris Anderson, Canton Commons resident manager. "The best thing residents can do is leave it alone and keep an eye on their kids."

Santomauro and Colling acknowledge incidents at the complex. The question is whether the troubles are being committed by honest-to-goodness gangs.

"The first time we've gotten reports is this week. Are they gangs? I don't know. We do believe there is some gang association. But we're not seeing anything more unusual this summer than in other summers," Colling said. "We're seeing kids and young adults. They are using a name and using that as an intimidation tool."

Residents say the teens whom they believe are gang members are trying to recruit their children. "I'm very worried about my kids," said one resident, adding that one child in the complex was threatened with a knife.

That resident said he wants a curfew enforced. "There's no reason for these kids to be wandering around at 12:30 a.m.-1 a.m."

Police did not see activity in the schools that indicated the presence of gangs. But police have met with school officials to share information. A seminar for school officials also is planned.

Santomauro said schools and area police agencies, such as Plymouth and Plymouth Township, are planning strategies. "We don't want the schools and different law enforcement agencies to go off in different directions."

Bricks available

Brick pavers are still available for purchase for the Canton Veterans Memorial.

Two sizes are available: a $100 single brick and a $200 double brick. Either size may be engraved. The bricks are put in the walkway leading to the memorial in Heritage Park behind the township municipal building.

Sales of the bricks defray the $15,000 tab that remains on construction of the memorial, which was dedicated at the Canton Liberty Fest June 25.

Orders for bricks must be placed by July 30. For more information call 397-8975 or 397-5421.

The granite memorial honors those who served in any of the armed services branches.

Fisher gets prison sentence for inciting perjury

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Charles Fisher — awaiting retrial in the 1984 murder of his wife — told a Detroit Recorder's Court judge Friday that he did not bribe a fellow prison inmate to take the rap for him.

"The main thing is I'm not guilty," Fisher told Judge Vera Massey Jones at his sentencing. "I intend to appeal."

Fisher was convicted in early June on one count of inciting perjury, a five-year felony. The jury also found the former microbiologist not guilty on one count of attempted obstruction of justice, a 2½-year felony.

Massey Jones sentenced Fisher to serve 6 months to 5 years in prison for the latest conviction. Fisher already has more than 180 days credit for time served.

The sentencing was delayed for more than a month to give Fisher's attorney, Ken Mogill, time to file motions concerning the venue or jurisdiction of the case, as well as double jeopardy.

Mogill had argued that since it was claimed Fisher paid an inmate while at the State Prison of Southern Michigan at Jackson to take the fall for the murder of his wife, Maria Mercado, the case should be tried in Jackson County.

At the time, Massey Jones told Mogill that the perjury and obstruction charges stem from the murder case pending in Wayne County.

"I believe this issue has been argued twice in the course of this trial," said Bob Donaldson, Wayne County assistant prosecutor.

On Friday, Massey Jones denied Mogill's request to dismiss the charges. Regarding any suggestions for sentencing, Mogill said: "It's difficult to make a plea at a sentencing where the jury made the wrong decision."

Donaldson suggested a sentence of 40-60 months for Fisher. "I think the focus in sentencing should be on deterrence," Donaldson said. "Tampering with a murder case with the intention of presenting false testimony is the most direct affront on our system."

Fisher told Massey Jones that throughout the past nine-year process of trials over his wife's death, he has always presented himself in court even when he worked outside the country. "I came back to this country to clear my name," Fisher said.

Explaining he has a full-time job waiting for him, Fisher asked Massey Jones for less than a prison sentence. "If probation could be granted, I certainly would appreciate it."

Massey Jones told Fisher that when a jury finds a defendant guilty, she's mandated to impose a jail sentence. "Inciting perjury strikes at the very heart of the judicial system," she said. "Because I have to let the community know this is a serious crime, I will have to sentence you to jail time."

Fisher was accused of paying a fellow inmate to say he and other inmates broke into the Fisher's Canton house in 1984. Attorney Mogill argued that no evidence had been presented that Fisher had access to prison tokens with which to pay the inmate.

The inmate also testified that Fisher told him he killed his wife by wrapping duct tape around her face.

Fisher had been free on bond awaiting his third trial on first-degree murder charges when he was arrested on the additional felony charges in January. He has remained in the Wayne County Jail since.

A trial date has not yet been scheduled for Fisher's retrial.

Two juries had found Fisher guilty of first-degree murder in his wife's death. The first trial was ruled in error based on a comment made by a prosecutor.

In late 1991, the Michigan Supreme Court reversed the second conviction, ruling that a diary kept by Mercado should not have been admitted into evidence.

Police advise common-sense approach to avoid thefts

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

If you leave your garage door open or your car unlocked, you may as well send thieves an engraved invitation to take what they want.

"Most crimes are crimes of opportunity. Larcenies are definitely crimes of opportunity," said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

Despite numerous reports of stolen golf clubs and other items stored in garages — as well as radios, car phones and even clothes from vehicles — Canton police reported a decrease in the number of larcenies reported in June with 121.

In June 1992, 131 larcenies were reported compared to 138 in 1991. So far this month, 86 larcenies have been reported. If that's doubled for the rest of the month, July would top 172 reported larcenies. In 1992, 154 incidents were reported, compared to 177 in 1991.

"Looking at our population and the new (housing) developments, things are going good," Colling said.

But that doesn't mean home and car owners aren't losing some of their valued possessions — such as golf clubs. "'Tis the season for golf clubs. Even your average citizen likes a deal," Colling said, adding there's no serial numbers to trace stolen golf clubs.

By far, a majority of larceny reports have golf clubs listed. That problem can be controlled, Colling said, if homeowners close their garage doors — even when they are home or in the yard.

"If the garage is open, it's an easy opportunity for someone to walk in and take whatever they want," she said.

Colling suggested that homeowners keep their garage doors closed and avoid leaving bicycles, lawnmowers and other items in the driveway where they are accessible to thieves.

"In the winter, people are more conscientious," Colling said.

She offered the same advice for motorists: Keep your car doors locked and remove or hide valuable items in the car.

Remember, items such as bicycles that have serial numbers are easier to trace when stolen. Bicycle owners can pick up registration packets at the township clerk's office to have serial numbers documented. "We then put that information into the computer," Colling said.

If an item, such as a lawnmower, has a serial number, Colling strongly suggested that you record the number in case of theft.

The Canton Police Department's crime prevention division will conduct bicycle registration drives for groups or homeowners associations. Anyone who is interested may call Colling at 397-5344.

Rotary donates $2,000 to literacy group

The Canton Rotary Literacy Committee donated $2,000 to the Community Literacy Council Inc. from the proceeds of the Rotary's annual spelling bee.

The council is a nonprofit organization which trains and places tutors with adults wanting to improve their reading skills and with children and adults [illegible] as a second language.

Jack Demmer Ford was the corporate sponsor of this year's spelling bee held on May 13.

An additional 19 three-member spelling teams paid $100 to enter the competition. Sponsors of those teams included the Rusty Nail Lounge, Unisys, the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, Johnson's Family Restaurant, individuals from Plymouth Salem High School, Canton Public Library, Plymouth Construction Equipment Inc., Chapter No. 528 of the Plymouth-Canton Vietnam Veterans of America, Western Metro Detroit MSU Alumni Club, Draw-Tite Inc., staff from Plymouth-Canton Community Education, Plymouth-Canton Education Association, Tivadar Balogh (Architect, AIA), Dennis Shrewsbury (Plymouth City Commissioner), Canton Chamber of Commerce, Gale Research, the American Association of University Women, The Roman Forum, and the Canton Rotary Club.

The winner this year and recipient of the traveling trophy and book gift certificates were Lois Moyer, Janie Clemons and Madelyn Deedler, sponsored by the staff from Plymouth-Canton Community Education. The winning word was "echelon." Second place went to the Canton Ministerial Association (Bryan Smith, Bill Myers and John Landis) sponsored by Plymouth Construction Equipment Inc., and third place was secured by the Unisys team (Allen Gordon, Diana Hunt and Becky Sheena). A spirit trophy was awarded to Rob McClain, Spencer Williams and Karanbir Gill from Plymouth Salem High School, for the best audience support.

Plans are already under way for the fourth Annual Community Spelling Bee in 1994. Call Julie at 451-6555 for details.

Chamber head hones skills

Canton Chamber of Commerce executive director Linda Shapona recently completed the second year of a six-year work study program aimed at improving the skills of managers of non-profit organizations.

Shapona received a scholarship from the Center for Leadership Development in Washington, D.C., to attend the Institute of Organization Management at the University of Notre Dame.

The week-long program of study, held annually for six years, is designed specifically for the staff of chambers of commerce and trade organizations. It offers a variety of courses on specialized subjects. Participants in the program use the time between sessions to implement their knowledge and prepare for the next session.

According to Shapona, "The Canton Chamber has made great strides in the past year in many areas," as a result of her participation.

This year, Shapona attended courses in team building, community analysis and development, government relations, staff development and administration, interpreting organization communications and other electives.

WALKING ON CEMENT, GOING ON GRASS
If you have sore feet, you may have wondered if walking on cement caused your discomfort. Did the hard surface give your feet a pounding?
Joggers feel that running on the street is hard on feet while going on grass spares an otherwise inevitable ache.
Though such an association between surface and soreness is appealing, no data exists to prove it. If your feet are healthy, how they respond to a surface is a reflection of your shoes.
If you work on a hard surface, then thick soled shoes are best sited for your needs. If you are a runner, then everything on you, from shirt to shoes, is as lightweight as possible. To meet this goal, running shoes include thin padding, which in turn responds better to a grass surface than as asphalt one.
In medical practice aching feet most often represent an impairment in gait.
The contours of the foot consists of bones curved in an arch and maintained that way by a host of ligaments and tendons. Inflammation or injury may fray these sinews and upset the balance among the bones. The result is a sore foot.
Before you treat sore feet by a renovation of your home or workspace, see your physician or podiatrist. They may find a flaw in your foot that represents a need to change your shoeware or begin medical therapy.

Hines Drive coasts through summer

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

The joy of bicycling ends when you're looking over your shoulder and dodging 16-wheelers.

That's why cyclists, sports enthusiasts and nature lovers take to the paths in Hines Drive when the roads are closed. Vehicles are banned every Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the stretch from Outer Drive to Ann Arbor Trail.

"There's no traffic to worry about — there's all kinds of people roller skating and walking their dogs," said John Hokett, hauling his daughter, Mary, in a bicycle trailer. Daughter Anne and wife Maggie took part in the family ritual.

"What's nice is that you're safe," Maggie Hokett said. "The difference between biking and taking cars is that people will say 'hi' to you on a bike."

There are no worries about parking the car since the Livonia family lives close enough to cycle to the park.

The "Saturday in the Park" road closure program is becoming a family event, according to Tessie Pitsers, manager of recreation for Wayne County parks.

"You see tricycles, training wheels and senior citizens out on their walks. It's interesting seeing the big, wide range group."

A car window somehow obscures the scenery, according to Janet Rose, who was out cycling on the path with her husband, Charles, on a recent hot Saturday morning.

"When you're in a car you miss half of it," she said. "You have to listen for whose coming up from behind. Here it's pretty safe. You're not going to be hit by a car.

"I'd hate it if they take this away from us," the Livonia woman said.

John Alma of Westland was out riding a bicycle on an outing with his wife; daughter, Lori Sawle, also of Westland; and his two grandchildren, Brian, 3, and Adam, 1.

Standing tall on his Rollerblades, Ken Biglane said he logs about 15 miles most Saturdays. The Livonia resident also makes the trip at least once during the week when the road is open to cars.

Allen Henry and Roxanne Peterson, both of Westland, were out in-line skating, despite the heat, with friends from Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

Balancing on the blades, Peterson said, "I'm still learning."

The road wasn't limited to wheels, skates and walkers. Gypsy, a golden retriever, was taking a walk with her owner, Cheryl Lazar of Livonia. The exercising pair lives so close to the park that they walk down.

But plenty of people bring their cars and there's ample parking available at Nankin Mills, at Ann Arbor Tail; Merriman Hollow, east of Nankin Mills; and Warrendale, at Warren Avenue.

Flat tires and heat exhaustion are the most common problems during the road closure, according to Wayne County sheriff's deputy Ken Laskasky, who was patrolling the area one recent Saturday.

"Most of the time it's just scrapes, bruises and flat tires," Laskasky said, adding, however, that the sheriff's office fields a lot of odd reports, too.

"We were looking for a 250-pound naked man. All the witness could say is, 'He had a mustache and black hair.' We're not sure those kinds of calls really happen, because we never find anyone."

In-line skaters: Hines Drive provides an inviting stretch of pavement for in-line skating enthusiasts. Enjoying the car-free roadway on a recent Saturday were Roxanne Peterson of Westland, Allen Henry of Westland, Barbara Scott of Baltimore and Kenneth Boggess of Washington, D.C.

Sharing the road: Hines Drive provides enough room for recreation enthusiasts of all interests and ages. Above, on one Saturday morning, John Alma of Westland and his grandson, Brian Sawle, share the road with in-line skaters. At right, John Hokett hauls his daughter, Mary, in a bicycle trailer. There are no worries about parking the car since the Livonia family lives close enough to cycle to the park.

Signing delay will preserve effect of millage vote

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Plymouth-Canton school officials are breathing a sigh of relief after fearing all week that the district's Aug. 17 millage election would be invalidated by the property-tax bill passed by the state legislature last week.

A provision in the bill, which does away with property taxes as the chief financing source for public schools, says that ballot proposals must spell out how much revenue will be raised with a millage increase.

District officials got word late Friday that Gov. John Engler has agreed not to sign the legislation until Aug. 19.

Plymouth-Canton voters, who defeated a 4-mill tax increase proposal at the polls last month, will be asked again in the upcoming special election to approve a 4-mill, two-year property tax hike.

The bill awaiting Engler's signature grants property owners a $5.6-billion tax break, but doesn't identify a new source for financing schools.

A section in the bill says, "beginning immediately, whenever a millage increase is proposed, the ballot question must state the amount of the tax increase, and provide an estimate of the new revenue the taxing unit will collect in the first year."

Plymouth-Canton's ballot proposal, already in the hands of absentee voters, doesn't say the district will reap $2.2 million for each mill levied.

School board president Roland Thomas said if the bill became law in the next few days, it would have invalidated August elections in 64 Michigan school districts.

Errol Goldman, the district's assistant superintendent for employee relations, contacted state Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, to discuss the issue, Thomas said.

"They were scrambling up there to work with the legislature to fix that," he said. "Sen. Geake wasn't aware that provision would have invalidated the election." Geake and Reps. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, and Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, all voted in favor of this proposal.

District spokesman Richard Egli foresaw a "legal nightmare. If the legislature chose to give this immediate effect and enforce it, it would have created some real potential difficulties for Plymouth-Canton and others who have elections in August," he said.

"I'd suspect that people who are out of town and don't get back in time could have challenged the results either way, positive or negative."

"Those guys in Lansing aren't thinking the process through," said Thomas. "They're not thinking about anything but, 'Let's sell property tax reduction.' They're not thinking about children. I'm sorry, but none of them have even come to ask us, 'What do you need?' We've always had to go to them. I'm tired of that. It's time the legislature started talking to the educational community. Am I irritated? You got it."

Egli said Engler's delayed signature will avoid chaos for Plymouth-Canton.

"Timing was one of the things the board was careful to look at, to be able to get the school year going with buildings open if the 4 mills did pass," he said. "As it stood, we were on a very tight time line. This really could have created chaos in terms of what would happen to the millage."

can do it, we can do it better,' and that the rest of the Legislature called her on it and mob hysteria set in. They're truly playing Russian roulette."

Educational reforms

James Kosteva of Canton, a former state representative and director of research and policy for House Democrats, sees it as a chance for the legislative, educational and business communities to brainstorm ways to redesign education.

Kosteva will serve as one of the principal policy advisors to a House Democratic task force started by House Speaker Curtis Hertel.

"I think one of the first things to do is try to decide what type of educational system we want and what we want the edcational system to look like," said Kosteva.

"What do we want from our public schools? Do we want a system that prepares students for college? A system that prepares students for the workplace? Do we want a system that gives all students equal access to the best teachers and advancements? Do we want a system that guides kids into certain tracks or fields of study?

"As long as we're starting at square one, let's legitimately go back to square one. The second level of questions could be, how much does it cost to do that, and how do we get the money to pay for that system?"

Kosteva said a task force recommendation might be "that we have a true educational summit, possibly facilitated by someone like Dr. Willard Daggett."

Daggett is an educational consultant from New York whose common sense approach to improving education has appealed to school systems throughout the United States and in nations including Japan, Germany and Russia.

"Let him facilitate a summit, if you will, of business people, educators, parents and other interested parties," Kosteva said. "It would help us begin to discuss and then attempt to achieve a consensus around these questions."

Efficient schools

State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, agreed that first on the agenda should be quality education.

"Let's find the most efficient way to run schools. Let's talk about efficiency first and the quality of education and money all in one paradigm. It may be that by consolidating districts and bidding out teachers' insurance, that we can save millions. If you do that, you won't need to raise $5.6 billion."

As for funding education, "everything is on the table," said Vorva. "I don't want to include or exclude anything until I've helped design a system that will be efficient, fair and equate to quality."

Vorva said he plans to hold open forums on the issue in local offices and schools. "I want to hear ideas from the people in my district on what they consider efficiency and quality," he said. "There are multiple good ideas inside and outside the system and the education industry."

Retired U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell of Plymouth served as the ranking Republican on the House education committee.

Fair formula

Pursell, a former educator and state senator, said it's time the educational community — recipients of state aid — stop screaming at the legislature and governor.

"I challenge superintendents throughout the state, who are highly paid, to write a fair school aid formula, since they are in the business of administering our educational program. I don't think legislators in most cases are qualified to do that," said Pursell. "Some legislators are. For the most part, superintendents and local school boards who understand it should write good, fair legislation that would provide for more equal distribution of funding among urban and rural districts."

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, also a former educator, hopes to see the state find creative solutions. "Bidding out medical coverage for educators, bidding out transportation services and main services, vouchers for public and private schools — these sorts of things — and re-thinking how education is delivered in the state I hope are considered," he said.

Yack also suggested looking at intermediate school districts. "I'd ask some basic questions about the need to have such a system. What services does it provide, and can the slack be picked up by someone else in a more cost efficient manner?" Exercising more legislative control over the state's higher education system also has potential as a money saver, Yack said.

Superintendent John Hoben and associate superintendent for business Ray Hoedel both were out of town at conferences and unavailable for comment. District spokesman Richard Egli said that while "we aren't doing as well as we could be, the concern I have is that we don't throw out the good that is here in Plymouth-Canton and other good districts in a race to make change for change's sake.

"Is there a Valhalla? Probably not," said Egli. "Our products, if you will, come to us at different levels. So equal funding does not necessarily mean equal education."

60.4-percent decrease, and a 64.9-percent decrease for those in the Van Buren district, according to Elaine Kirchgatter, Canton Township treasurer.

Bittinger believes that property tax relief will help senior citizens remain in their homes. Young couples who have been unable to buy a house because of property taxes are expected to now qualify.

"Now people can afford to move up," Bittinger said. In many cases, property taxes have prevented homeowners from moving into larger, more expensive homes.

"All of a sudden, your horizon has lifted all across the board. This will help home ownership. Basically, it's the homeowners who have funded the schools," Bittinger said.

With a $25,000 down payment, homeowners — before the tax cut — may have qualified for only a $50,000 mortgage so they bought a $75,000 house. With the tax cut, that homeowner may now be able to get a $90,000 mortgage, said Dennis Dickstein, a director of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, and owner of Ralph Manuel Realtors and Executec Mortgage Corp, Farmington Hills.

The tax cut — and tax increases in other areas — also may change how a homeowner qualifies for a mortgage, Dickstein added.

He said any boost in the housing and construction industry will boost ancillary industries, such as appliances, carpeting and landscaping. "House building creates more jobs than the auto industry," Dickstein said.

Deacon, however, said it is too early to determine to what degree the tax cut will affect the housing and construction industries.

"There's no free lunch. We could have a new sales tax and an income tax increase," Deacon said, adding that homeowners won't have as big a deduction for property taxes on their federal income tax returns.

Township Supervisor Tom Yack would agree. "If property taxes are a consideration (in buying a house), I guess I wouldn't base my decision at this point on the elimination of property taxes."

What if state legislators develop a new revenue package and voters oppose it? "My guess would be that legislators would pass a law making null and void their actions (the tax cut)," Yack said.

He said the tax cut could turn out to be a wash for taxpayers if income and sales taxes increase. "If you're paying $3,000 in property taxes, you could pay $3,000 some other way," Yack said. "Or they could theoretically pay even more than in property taxes.

"Don't you have to make a bare assumption it's revenue neutral?" Yack asked.

Farmers given tax break by House

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Farmers will pay lighter property taxes under a House passed bill designed to correct an assessing flaw.

Rep. Dan Gustafson's bill exempts cherry pitting, onion washing and carrot washing machinery from the state's personal property tax.

"There was an inconsistency in the way they were being taxed," said Gustafson, a first term Republican from Haslett who represents part of Livingston County. Some counties taxed them; others didn't, he said.

Gustafson had no estimate of how big a tax break farmers might receive, but several Democrats objected to cutting school and local revenues.

"We don't know the cost," said Rep. Lyn Jondahl, D-Okemos, Democratic cochair of the House Taxation Committee and a declared gubernatorial candidate.

"They (local units) aren't carrying out their responsibility to assess."

Gustafson said lost revenue would be minimal because that farm equipment hadn't been taxed until a Tax Tribunal decision against Wm. Bolthouse Farms in Newaygo County.

In general, Michigan law exempts farm machinery and equipment from the personal property tax where it is used for farming. The legal question was whether pitting, cooling, cleaning, washing and size grading equipment is part of farming or processing.

The House decided 80 to 15 in favor of the farmer.

Voting yes: Republicans Lyn Bankes of Redford, Penny Crissman of Rochester, Barbara Dobb of Union Lake, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, John Jamian of Bloomfield Township, Shirley Johnson of Royal Oak, Greg Kaza of Rochester Hills, Jerry Vorva of Plymouth and Deborah Whyman of Canton.

Voting no: Democrats Maxine Berman of Southfield, William Keith of Garden City and Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

Absent: Justine Barns, D-Westland.

"Last time I looked at the (state) budget, we were in deficit by $200 million," objected Young, Democratic chair of the Appropriations Committee. "If we keep doing this, it's going to come home to roost."

In floor debate, lawmakers amended Gustafson's bill to exempt water conditioning and cherry pitting equipment. Critics said it was being turned into a "Christmas tree bill" with many ornaments.

The bill is part of a constant Lansing debate over "tax expenditures" — eliminating taxes on politically favored groups. Some conservatives would go even further and eliminate the personal property tax entirely, although it brings in $900 million a year.

The Michigan Farm Bureau and Chamber of Commerce supported the bill. Gov. John Engler's Treasury Department and the Michigan Association of Equalization Directors opposed it.

CHEAP EATS

BY LISA RUDY
SPECIAL WRITER

Beware! Caution! Yikes! Chit chat, gab, gossip. And no stealing other's forks but most importantly have a good time!

These are but a few of the many rules listed on the menu at Royal Oak's La Fondue. This all fondue establishment features everything from pickles and angel food cake to cod and tenderloin all fit for swishing into various concoctions perfect for dunking.

Aside from the chain restaurant booth seating, the scenery inside La Fondue isn't half bad. Dim lighting, assorted wine bottles and muted pink and green tones make up most of it. No need to get bored, however, because once your appetizer has arrived, you're too busy to notice your surroundings anyway.

The appetizer choice is CHEESE. You decide on swiss or cheddar. Both are prepared (along with everything else you order) in a fondue pot situated in the middle of your table. Beer and garlic is heated to "very hot" and Kirsch, some secret spices and mounds of cheese are melted to "bubbly."

Sliced Granny Smith apples are good for dipping, assorted breads (french and rye) are handed out in a basket and vegetables are also available for a little extra. La Fondue makes a big oops by serving bread a little on the boring side and way too soft.

Fondue entrees are pretty much guaranteed to suit anyone's taste — chicken, beef, cod and shrimp are offered separately — and if you just have to have it, all tell your server, "I'll have the feast." Take note that back when fondue first started out, times were rough and food was scarce, so you be the judge as to whether or not the feast is really a feast by today's standards.

"Fondoing" your entree can be fun but tricky business. Take for instance the time factor. In front of you is a plate of the feast, everything on it is cooked for different amounts of time and it's up to you to monitor it. You and your guest each place your matching pieces of beef into the boiling pot, you begin to talk about how great a time you had last weekend. You chat; you gossip. You forget just how long your beef has been in there, and then you forget just how long its supposed to be in there. Relax, and remember next time to check your watch.

If your still up to yet more fondue fun, order dessert. Fresh fruits, marshmallows and bits of angel food cake can be dunked in either dark or white hot chocolate. Heavy, but it's chocolate heaven.

One word to the wise for safe fonduing: leg crossers beware; the heating element underneath the table encourages the use of asbestos knee pads. And another thing share everything, or you'll burn a hole in your pocket!

Birmingham's Midtown Cafe is one of those surprising exceptions to the rule that larger restaurants are cold and impersonal. The cafe's interior has unbelievable presence, hinting at an upscale New York cafe atmosphere and wide open airiness with walls fit for an art gallery. Comfort reigns here with numerous tables for four and tongue-and-groove pine bedecking the vast wall space, giving the place a laid back feeling.

The wait staff is highly efficient, well-versed in the day's fare and interesting and funny to chat with. Not only that, they look pretty spiffy in their all-black attire and they actually look like they are enjoying their work.

Newcomer chef Rich Redmer deftly balances traditional fare with some of his own innovative touches. Rich is fresh in from New Orleans and has been at the cafe for about two months. He's gotten rave reviews from many satisfied patrons.

A hint of creole surfaces in many of Redmer's creations, subtle enough not to overpower entrees, but definitely there. Menu offerings are changed on a daily basis, but favorites find their way onto the menu in one variation or another.

In the way of appetizers, Maryland crabcakes are nicely set off with spicy cocktail sauce and Duck Gallantines with picante and fresh fruit are expertly prepared and beautifully presented. Nachos are still a big hit and tasty pizzas sport artichokes and pesto.

Whatever the Midtown does, it seems to do well. Roast beef is accompanied by spicy red pepper

Indies: Little labels, big dreams

■ Bands have to start some place on the road to success and many times it's with the indies. They're small record labels where the president is everything from promoter to salesman, public relations executive and accountant.

BY KYLE GREEN
SPECIAL WRITER

Commercial success is what all recording companies want with its releases.

On the other hand, independent recording companies pray that someone will listen to its releases.

Nevertheless, when you are the president of a local independent recording label with a Royal Oak post office box and you receive orders from as far away as the Great Britain, France, Poland and Italy, your company has hit the big time.

"The records get out to places that groups have never heard of; the bands definitely get exposure, but for me I want to build my catalog,"

WILLIAM HANSEN

An indie guy: Dennis Breton stands in front of some posters and fliers of some of the groups he promotes through his Icon Records.

■ STREET BEATS

Icon Records founder Dennis Breton said. "I look at the last four years as a major time and money investment."

In today's mass produced, high powered music industry, independent recording labels, such as Icon Records, are slowly edging their way up to the top. Detroit plays host to hundreds of indies (the insiders name for independent labels) who may be in the shadows of major recording companies at first glance, but in due time could become an equal.

Work, work

Indie owners walk a narrow line as the promoters, sales people, public relations executives, accountants, managers, company presidents, secretaries and gig organizer, while the majors with high power and expense accounts, are viewed as big brothers which George Orwell could have never conceived.

"The indie scene is more human; they are doing it for the music," said Sue Summers, founder of Detroit's Chaos Network and Records. "The majors don't listen to the music. They don't know the music."

Summers recently changed her company's name from Chaos to Static after Sony Music Entertainment Inc. notified her that it had a label named Chaos. Summers, who hadn't trademarked her 3-year-old name, filed the appropriate papers for Static. Her roster includes Mental Landscape, Brothers From Another Planet and Red September.

Even with a fresh start, her goal remains the same.

"To get out these bands I heard from the Detroit area . . . The majors are avoiding us because they want to see how the indies are doing," she said. "They seem to be avoiding us because we don't have a sound. Atlanta and Seattle have a distinct sound, where Detroit doesn't.

"I think I can help in getting the music out there and if a band places it, I'll push it."

The love for the art of music is the root to majority of independent labels. Many labels are formed specifically to allow groups which are generally overlooked a medium to express themselves. Other Detroit indies are open to all sounds.

"When I started out there there were a lot of cool bands and a lot of cool stuff here that doesn't get chronologed," Breton said, "and there are a lot of people who think that the local music scene sucks and I'm out to prove them wrong."

Icon's listings range from a 1960s rock'n'roll surf riffs of The Goldentones to the energetic ska sounds of The Exceptions and rock edge of The Colours.

Basic training

Local bands are usually comprised of "people with day jobs who enjoy jamming on the weekends or starry-eyed teens who dream of the ultimate recording contract." Indies provide the basic training for these bands, according to Entertainment Promotions (EP) founder Mark Barnowski.

"Indies are the life line for new talent such as a lot of new acts in country music," said Barnowski, who performs under the name Mark Edwards. "The majors don't have the time to develop the talent."

EP is the promotions division of R&A Records which was started by Barnowski and his brother after receiving some success as members of the group the Relation in the early 1980s. After the group disbanded, Barnowski and his brother formed their label and later developed the promotions division to work with major labels. Today EP is promoting such artists as Bruce Hornsby, Rosanne Cash and Regina Bell out of its Troy office.

Once an indie likes a band's or performer's sound and are signed either to a written or verbal contract, it is typically up to the artist to bear the costs to record the material. From there, the indies may charge or even absorb the cost of publishing on cassette or compact disc.

Transmat Records was formed in 1986 by Detroiter and techno wiz Derrick May to release "Strings of Life" and "Nude Photo" which has received success in Europe and only heard in dance clubs stateside.

Indies know the only way people will hear material is with radio, DJ and retail support.

The lack of that musical infrastructure in Detroit dismays KMS Records founder Kevin Saunderson who has won several gold and silver albums from the United Kingdom as founder of the techno-dance group Inner City.

"I think as a music scene we need to network and help each other then we have in the past," said Saunderson, a Southfield resident. "We need support here in Detroit. We get a lot of support overseas, but as soon as I see the support here I think we can survive."

"That's frustrating, frustrating enough no to do it any more."

Static's Summers is doing something about that. She is one of the developers who brought about the Detroit Music Alliance, a support group for local acts which meets monthly in the metro area to learn about the music industry and find support with one another.

Indies know it takes more than just band fraternization to succeed with the majors, many times it has to be truer than life.

Icon's releases are printed on colored vinyl to attract attention, Breton said, even though he has not made a profit since he started his one-man company four years ago.

Reality for many indies is that they never see a profit and fold faster than they started, but Breton sees a future for indies.

Posies enjoy sweet smell of success

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

The Posies frequently dreamt about whom they would play with when their band made it big. Big Star wasn't one of them. It seemed impossible.

"It's one of those things that I never thought I would experience; it's not like I thought, 'Someday I want to play with Big Star,'" said the soft-spoken Ken Stringfellow.

Stringfellow and fellow Posie Jon Auer played with Big Star and its original members Alex Chilton and Jody Stephens on April 25 in Columbia, Mo., as part of a festival organized by KCOU, the University of Missouri's radio station. It took a little bugging, however, to get the duo in.

"The college radio station had its own people in mind — R.E.M., Matthew Sweet — they did not want to do it. By the time the show came up, they had faced our furious wrath long enough," Stringfellow said with a laugh. "You could see how we could fit in with the Big Star tradition."

Big Star with Stringfellow and Auer will play again on Sunday, Aug. 29, at the Reading Festival in England.

The Posies are trying to start their own tradition with their two-part Beatlesque harmonies and powerful guitars. However, sometimes they find there's a bit of confusion with the other "P" bands.

"I was in L.A. and I went into an Italian restaurant and I saw Kevin DuBrow, lead singer for Quiet Riot. When I was like 13 and in junior high, Quiet Riot was quite the item. Then there's Kevin DuBrow in the bathroom of this Italian restaurant," said Auer, lead guitarist and vocalist.

The excitement continued until they spoke.

"He said, 'Yeah, I think I heard you guys. No wait, that's the Pogues,'" Auer said.

'Justice' suffers from sophomore jinx

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

■ MOVIES

"Boyz N the Hood," about day to-day life and death in South Central L.A., was such an accomplished and emotionally charged work that no one could believe that director John Singleton was only in his early 20s.

In his second feature, "Poetic Justice," Singleton acts his age. This predictably plotted story of mismatched lovers on a long road trip is proof positive of the sophomore slump, but it does have more than a few elements that make it worth seeing.

Janet Jackson, unfortunately, isn't one of them. Though the pop singer is easy to watch, she registers only two emotions — contemplative sadness and profanity-charged anger.

Supposedly, she gained weight for the role so she would look less glamorous, but this is the only thing she has in common with real actors like Robert DeNiro or even Shelley Winters. Her talented fellow actors, especially Tupac Shakur as Lucky, run rings around her.

Jackson plays Justice, who watches her boyfriend gunned down right next to her at the drive-in. Months, maybe years, later she still mopes around the South Central hair salon where she works, not dating, placing her deepest thoughts in a thick book of poetry.

That's where Lucky comes in. A postal worker who has a kid and lives with his mother, he's just the kind of guy that Justice's money-hungry boss warns her about. "The problem with you is, you always pick the wrong kind of man," she says.

And for a while Justice agrees. Then, by a coincidence that has occurred in only about 100 movies before, they are thrown together in Lucky's postal truck on a trip north to deliver mail. Love conquers all, of course, but not without a trip down some rocky roads.

There are several stops on the odyssey, when they make with friends Chicago (Joe Torry) and Iesha (Regina King). They smell barbecue from the road and stop to crash a family picnic, with Lucky masquerading as a relative. But when Iesha gets drunk and Chicago starts a fight, they realize how they don't fit into this world at all.

"Poetic Justice" should have kicked back for a while longer at the barbecue, by far the most entertaining part of the movie. Instead, when the foursome heads down the road to a more radical African-American gathering with pounding drums and speeches, its agenda grows a bit thin — and obvious.

It grinds to a halt when the truck finally reaches its destination in Oakland, only to discover something catastrophic has just happened. Like most road movies, "Poetic Justice" doesn't know when to go with the flow instead of reaching for earth-shattering conclusions.

Justice's poetry, usually read aloud in indulgent montages, is really the work of Maya Angelou, the veteran poet who knocked everyone for a loop at the Clinton inauguration. Her words, along with music by Stanley Clarke and Stevie Wonder, share soundtrack time with the usual rap.

Looking for a message? Singleton has a nice one about the nature of creativity, which comes out in Justice's poetry and in Lucky's sincere attempts at becoming a rapper. We see the silliness of friend Chicago, who can only express himself by "dressing fine" and constantly brushing his almost-shaved head.

Singleton isn't the first filmmaker to hurt his batting average during his second time at bat. Even Spike Lee, with "School Daze," went down a few notches but bounced back with a masterpiece a film or two later. Singleton, now 25, is equally capable of making great movies again.

"Monty Python's The Meaning of Life" (Britain — 1983), 9 p.m. July 26. The irreverent British comedy troupe in what they do best — hilarious vignettes tied together by the thinnest of all possible threads. The best-remembered here is still the eating orgy (and the aftermath) with the world's fattest man.

The group has also been tagged with the "Seattle" genre. Although that's where they're from, that's not one title they find particularly fitting.

"We've always been kinda, dare I say, a rock band live," said Auer. "As much as we are not a grunge band, we are a rock band — not in a traditional Thin Lizzy sort of way — like our video (for "Dream All Day"). If you came and saw us live, we do tend to jump around a lot."

"We're not the antithesis of grooves, however. We're not the Melvins, Soundgarden, Alice in Chains. We're a lot more on the melodic side. They have catchy songs. It's just that it has more to do with the sound of the vocals."

The band, which will play St. Andrew's Hall on Friday, is touring to support its latest release "Frosting on the Beater" which spawned the hit, "Dream All Day." During their set, the band doesn't just stick with newer material. They intend on pleasing fans of their previous two releases, "Dear 23" and "Failure."

The St. Andrew's show is The Posies' first since their debut Detroit show at a heavy metal nightclub. It was a not-so-friendly welcome to the area. To ease their nerves, they got a little goofy on stage.

"Ratt was gonna be playing there the day after; we knew something was wrong then. When you're down on your luck and you're playing a metal club, you resort to strange tactics."

The Posies and Hypnolovewheel perform Friday, July 30, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $5.50 in advance. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. Those 18 and older will be admitted.

mayonnaise, and Caesar salads with grilled chicken are out of this world. Pasta, chicken and seafood are put together with little bits of this and that and even the most well-versed connoisseur will find himself asking, "Just what's in this, anyway?" The best part is they'll tell you.

Desserts are decadent and slices threaten to outgrow your plate. Dessert choices, too, are rotated on a daily basis.

Probably the best part of the meal at the Midtown is the bread. The hard, crusty rolls (warm and soft on the inside) are an endless supply and truly addictive.

The Midtown Cafe is a celebration of food and wide open space. Plus, any place that hands you back your take home nachos wrapped in tin foil the shape of a swan deserves an A-plus in my book.

A good example could help her manage weight

STREET SENSE

BARBARA SCHIFF

Message from voice mail:
Barbara,

My 12-year-old daughter is overweight. She is intelligent and attractive, previously chubby, now fat. Her mother and I don't know what to do. We want her to see a counselor, but she refuses.

I have a weight problem myself, so I believe I know my daughter's feelings. She never expresses concern or unhappiness, but because being fat is such a torture for me, I think she is covering up her true feelings.

Since I am an adult, I have my weight under control. Despite being bigger than I wish I were, I am successful, socially and in business. I worry that with a girl, success will be much more difficult if she is fat, than if she were a boy.

I don't have a lot of hope about her weight because I can't be the weight I want to be. Even though I make this call, I wonder if there is a solution to this problem.

Dear Caller,

I understand the torture a seemingly unsolvable problem like this one can bring. You and your daughter are fat in a thin world. Your worries are valid; our culture discriminates against fat people, especially fat women.

For the past 40-50 years, fat people have been the last group we self-righteously ostracize without guilt. Our culture snubs them because it is believed that they are responsible for their problem. We are taught that others who are traditionally discriminated against, for example, those who are foreign born or those with handicaps, cannot change their condition. Therefore, we sympathize with them rather than make fun of them.

The assumption that fat people are responsible for their condition is challenged by recent research on the subject. The research suggests that weight and body shape are largely hereditary. As I write this, and as you read it, we can all think of those, who despite an inclination to be fat, successfully remain normal size. The research indicates that they are very few. Those who are successful in changing their destiny must make a concerted, lifelong commitment to do so.

Your daughter will decide for herself whether or not she wants to make this commitment. You cannot make the decision for her. You might be able, however, to help, by being as knowledgeable on the subject as possible. The problem is so prevalent that it is hotly researched, so that there is more to know now than at any time in the past.

We know that fat people react differently to food restriction than thin people. We know that dieting, in the old restrictive sense, usually aids obesity, rather than decreasing it. We know that weight maintenance is rarely possible without exercise. We know that the kind of food that is eaten is more important than the quantity. Find out about this research, and talk to your daughter about it. Possibly, if she will not see a counselor, she will consent to seeing a dietitian.

There is another matter, one that concerns the relationship between you and your daughter. Because it is painful, it is frequently a reality that parents deny. You cannot be a role model for your daughter losing weight unless you conquer your weight problem. Often being a good example is the most effective way to teach. Too often with a hostile child, the only way. If, as you say in your call, "I can't be the weight I want," then you must accept that she can't.

Barbara

Dear Readers,

Some months ago this column received a letter from a father considering growth hormone for his son. That column discussed the psychological pros and cons of chemically altering a child's size. At that time none of the experts I interviewed talked about possible harmful, physical side effects.

Recently, I heard Dr. Jeremy Rifkin from the Foundation of Economic Trends say that human growth hormone has been linked to an increased chance of leukemia and other disorders. On the same program, Dr. Gutai, a physician at Detroit's Children's Hospital, strongly disagreed. So, despite a strong recommendation for the drug by many, there is debate on its safety, that some experts do not acknowledge.

Barbara

Hate to cook? Or are you a great cook who just needs a bit of inspiration now and then. Whichever catetgory you fall into, or if you're somewhere in between, our advice is not to read our Monday Taste section without a pair of scissors in your hand. That way you can be ready to clip those interesting, nourishing, super recipes from our readers, Larry Janes and our food editor Keely Wygonik.

POINTS OF VIEW —

Legalizing drugs worth the risk of increased use

Wayne County Sheriff's Department Detective George Wesson sipped champagne with me recently in Detroit. I was his coach at Southeastern High, and we had met to dine and toast the 30th anniversary of his record-breaking 49-second 440-yard dash to the state title.

However, during the course of the meal, we talked more about drugs than track. Despite an out-of-control trade, which has defied all other solutions, Wesson opposes legalizing drugs. So does Walter Chapman, the Highland Park police sergeant decorated for helping solve the serial killings there. So does George Rouhib of the Sterling Heights police. So does Dennis Archer, Detroit's top mayoral candidate. In fact so do all of my knowledgeable friends in police work or other public life — except one — and he shall go unnamed to protect him from the boo-birds who would vilify him for his unpopular opinion.

Vilification, after all, is what boo-birds do best. Witness the mob of boo-bird politicos who seek every opportunity to vilify Bill Clinton less than a year into a presidency already distinguished by his pragmatic style. Clinton's pragmatism has been particularly effective in confronting the national debt (although boo-birds will probably try to blame the Mississippi flood on him). Hopefully, he'll use his style to solve our horrendous drug problem as well.

Witness also the boo-bird professors who vilified president Sandra Packard of Oakland University for comparing college administration to cemetery administration. "In a cemetery, you have a lot of people under you," Packard joked in the June 21 issue of "Crain's Detroit Business," "but you can't get them to do anything." She was merely trying to explain how she involves people in decision-making rather than use a coercive business-type approach.

JOHN TELFORD

Witness also the boo-birds who blitzed me for citing the merits of drug legalization in Rochester Schools' 1990 edition of "Telford's Telescope". As with Clinton's and Packard's boo-birds, my boo-birds' motives were multiple and less than pristine. Their main motives for attacking were my multicultural curricular initiatives and recruitment of minority staff. Biased little boo-birds love to peck away at high-profile people who take stands on tough issues.

Mao Tse-tung obliterated drug use in China by summarily executing sellers and users, but Americans must apply remedies to the drug problem which won't compromise civil liberties. While I respect Detective Wesson and others who speak from gritty experience, I'm still convinced that those remedies are legalization (to eliminate profiteering and corruption), treatment (including supervised alternative drug dispensation), rehabilitation and education.

Several police and municipal authorities who once numbered among my boo-birds have grudgingly come to agree with this. Even Coleman Young — seldom in agreement with me on anything — is saying it now. Prisons are overflowing with youthful dealers ready to risk violent death in order to become millionaires. And if we could somehow prevent the growth of the coca crop or close our porous borders to it, laboratory-produced drugs would simply take over the market.

The one great gamble to legalization is increased use. That's a gamble worth taking, because our inner cities' drug situation couldn't get any worse. Soon it's going to engulf the entire nation.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, was an assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth Canton district.

Vote showed courage

The Michigan Legislature displayed true courage this week when it confronted the long-standing dilemmas of property tax relief and school finance reform.

Those of us who are privileged to represent Oakland and Wayne counties came to Lansing with this goal as a cornerstone of our legislative agendas. Our decision to support this bold move was not made lightly, but we stand by it because we believe it paves the way for a revitalized Michigan.

By eliminating school operating millages we will save our taxpayers $5.6 billion. We recognize that in creating a school finance system we will have to raise revenues, repeal some tax credits and loopholes, cut state spending and enact measures to help our local schools contain costs.

We too have endured years of frustration with a status quo that strangled Michigan's economy, drained family budgets and fostered great spending disparities between schools. Continued inaction would have been irresponsible and an insult to constituents who count on us to set Michigan's agenda.

Special-interest groups that fear change fault the $5.67 billion tax cut plan for not including replacement revenue for schools. We submit that it is best to define the system to be funded rather than pumping precious tax dollars into a structure that lacks direction. In truth, the risk we are taking pales in comparison to the cost of doing nothing.

Columnist disputed

Judith Doner Berne's July 8 column, "Time to rethink teachers' salary goals," gave me pause. Ms. Berne fails to make clear just what those "goals" are. One can surmise from her position that one such goal is to undermine the economy by asking for — in my opinion — moderate annual salary increases.

Berne states that "It's time for teachers to . . . recognize that they are among the few people in this country who have enjoyed yearly pay hikes in this recession/d epression . . . ."

I assure her that she's incorrect: Professional athletes have continued to demand yearly pay hikes. Lawyers and physicians — who so far have not had to had pay hikes awarded or agreed to by monitoring boards — have been able to increase fees as they require. Engineers and other professional, college-educated persons have been awarded moderate increases in salary. Never do I see anyone call for these groups of professionals to relinquish part of their salary for the betterment of their profession, their clients, or their society. Only teachers are asked to make a sacrifice at that level.

Our society must stop paying lip service to children and to education. While not many issues are black and white, this one surely is: Either we believe that our children are worth our time, our effort, and our money or we don't believe it. Michigan's education-financing laws show that we don't really care.

While I'm on this soapbox, allow me to express two additional ideas: First, except for the absolutely worst teachers — those who have no control in their classroom, those who fail 25 percent of every class, those who don't like kids — most teachers deserve every cent they are paid. For all the talk about practitioners (businessmen, scientists, nutritionists, historians) taking the place of teachers, I sincerely and humbly doubt that many non-teachers could (would) endure the classroom experience for a significant period of time. . . .

Second, it is commonly accepted that you can't make a silk purse out of a pig's ear. While calling today's students "pig's ears" is both politically incorrect and professionally foolish, I nevertheless insist that teachers whose students have not prepared for learning under the watchful eyes of parents who are engaged with their children are not going to become scholars in America's classrooms regardless of the teacher, the teacher's salary, the textbook, the football team's record, the caliber of the band or anything else.

Carol Popp, Westland

Keep up with the past

As spokesman for the Michigan branch of the Flat Earth Society, I would like to congratulate The Observer & Eccentric on the level-headed thinking exhibited in Jack Gladden's column in the Monday, June 28, issue ("50s high school studies had priorities in order"). I couldn't agree more. Who needs award-winning high school bands? Football scholarships? Journalism and drama classes? In the '50s kids played football and engaged in other extra-curricular activities for fun, not scholarships.

And when kids weren't busy having fun, they were involved in learning the basics. There was no need for counselors, drug clinics, social workers, media specialists, reading specialists, etc. Teachers gave freely of their own time to help kids put on plays and get out newspapers. Priorities certainly were in order, and the schools were better off for it.

Some would argue that the changing world requires students to learn more than the basics, that they need new skills in order to keep up with the times. If President Clinton has his way, we will drop the trade barriers and encourage competition with the Japanese. He feels this will create many new jobs for Americans. Were this to come about, students would obviously be required to learn much more than basics; they could be required to learn how to use computers, modems and other high-tech gadgetry. They might even have to spend time learning something about the languages and customs of countries we do business with in the future.

While creation of new jobs might sound like a good reason to change our schools, the Flat Earth Society believes competition with the Japanese in the coming high-tech world will encourage the same frustration people felt when schools began teaching children that the earth was round. The reason there was no need for counselors and crisis clinics in the '50s was students weren't threatened by new information and ideas. Why confuse our children with the difficulties of learning to take advantage of these new technologies when they could be out having fun? Besides, the technology is expensive. Pencils and books did the job in the past. Let us do away with frivolous expenditures and continue, as Mr. Gladden has implied, to congratulate ourselves on our past accomplishments.

William Dampier, Plymouth

Observer chairman, owner honored for achievement

Philip H. Power, chairman and owner of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, received Suburban Newspapers of America's 1993 Dean S. Lesher Award. The citation, the industry's highest award, recognizes outstanding lifetime achievement and service to community newspapers.

Power is founder, owner and chairman of Suburban Communications Corp., publisher of more than 50 community newspapers throughout Michigan and in the Cincinnati area. He received the award at a recent SNA publishers' conference in Montreal.

"I'm surprised and abashed. I didn't expect the award," said Power, crediting his management team. "My role has been to find good people, give them a vision, provide them the resources and get out of the way."

Power said "the onrush of technology" in publishing "will spawn a new suburban newspaper industry just as surely as the emergence of the suburbs after World War II created our industry as we now know it."

The award was named for Dean Lesher, a suburban California publisher known, said Power, for his "energy, drive, innovation, entrepreneurial reach and community commitment."

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers is one of five SCC subsidiaries. SCC's newspapers have a combined weekly circulation of more than 500,000 and operate eight composing rooms and three web press facilities.

A native of Ann Arbor, Power began his career as a suburban publisher in 1965 when he acquired the Observer Newspapers in Livonia. Over the years, he has served as director and officer of Suburban Newspapers of America, the main industry trade association. His award-winning column appears regularly in SCC Michigan papers.

Power is an involved public servant. He was appointed to the University of Michigan Board of Regents in 1987 and elected statewide to an eight-year term in 1990.

In 1991, he founded and currently serves as chairman of the Corporation for a Skilled Workforce, a not-for-profit organization which helps communities, states, employers and others achieve world-class workforce development systems.

Power currently serves on the national Commission on the Skills of the American Workforce.

He also serves on the boards of the Power Foundation, The World Press Freedom Committee, Daedalus Enterprises and Jacobson Stores and as a trustee of the National Center on Education and the Economy.

Power, his wife Kathleen, and their two sons live in Ann Arbor.

Honored: Philip H. Power, chairman and owner of this newspaper, accepts the Suburban Newspapers of America's 1993 Dean S. Lesher Award from Charles I. Wrubel, president of Wrubel Communications and a regional director of SNA. Power received the award at a recent publishers' conference in Montreal.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Plan to eat well on family camping trip

I think camping is one of life's rituals that all kids should experience. I remember my first camping trip. We were shipped off on a bus one Monday morning after a frantic weekend of trying to borrow sleeping bags and flashlights. Momma cursed while she sewed our names onto what seemed like everything we owned.

Camp memories

The camp was north of Clarkston in what was then a well-wooded area within walking distance of a lake. I caught fish, swimmer's ear, poison ivy and my first case of homesickness. As far as the food was concerned, all I remember was a Buster Brown shoe box, neatly lined with waxed paper, filled to the brim with momma's chocolate chip cookies.

Somewhere in the Janes Gang family trunk crammed into the attic in Wyandotte is the wallet I made, the belt I wove, the potholder I strung and a few pictures, one of which was a photograph of me surrounded by my fellow campers, and that shoe box full of momma's cookies.

Times have changed and although my kids are still a bit young to be sent off for a week at camp, I'd bet that shoe boxes are still crammed with goodies, and parents still stay up way past the 11 o'clock news to sew names inside underwear.

About eight years ago, the Janes Gang bought one of those good sized pop-up campers that are easily pulled behind the family mini-van. As you're reading this, we will be off, looking for that perfect campsite, setting up our camp and priming the old Coleman stove, anticipating the taste of burnt marshmallows, grilled hot dogs and with a little luck, whatever we catch for dinner.

Trying to keep up the auspices of a gourmet chef at a campground can be tricky, and needs some planning. You have to understand that my wife Diane's idea of camping and roughing it is a Holiday Inn not within walking distance of a major mall. Furthermore, the campsite should be in one of those "suburban camper havens" like a KOA or a state park with electricity and hot showers.

Surviving camping

We have learned to survive camping by following these suggestions, all culled from years of experience.

First off, when it comes to food, we eat well. The camper is well-stocked and stuffed with handy large plastic storage boxes, one stuffed with necessary spices and condiments, one stuffed with a set of cheap non-stick cookware and utensils, one stuffed with reusable plates, bowls and cups, and the last crammed with dry food, cereals, canned goods and a coffee maker.

Simple meals

Breakfast is usually kept as simple as possible with a late lunch serving as the main meal and hot dogs and burgers in the evening around the campfire. Contrary to popular belief, when this chef goes camping, the Cuisinart and Braun handimixer stay home with the cat.

Lunch is usually something that can be made in one skillet. Those storage boxes are a godsend, especially during inclement weather and damp, dew soaked mornings. Since the refrigerator in the camper is not much larger than a tackle box, perishable items are kept in a cooler marked with a big "X" so the kids know that pop and juice are somewhere else to be found.

A few bags of precooked hamburger make their way into a hearty goulash or get mixed with a can of tomato sauce and a packet of taco seasoning for lunch.

I don't want to get the feeling we're Neanderthals out in the woods. A small bag of potatoes we pack gets roasted one evening and then grated the next day for potato pancakes or hash browns.

The kids love cheese fondue and the non-stick fry pan over the old Coleman stove does a great job of heating canned chicken broth while a pound of domestic Swiss cheese is hand grated and dredged with a little flour and garlic powder and stirred into melt.

Chunks of bread, pretzels and a steamed head of broccoli make for a light evening supper. There are a few of life's little luxuries that I simply will not go camping without.

Two good sharp knives and a plastic cutting board are de rigeur along with a good can opener and a Swiss Army knife complete with a corkscrew. And if all else fails, a long extension cord, an electric fry pan and my Visa card, to use at that great Chinese restaurant the park ranger told me about while checking in, when I can't tolerate blackened hot dogs and domestic mustard.

Scouts hit the trails with sure-fire campsite meals

When it comes to camping and outdoor cooking, it pays to be prepared. Local Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and their leaders, who are avid campers share tips and recipes. Some of their creative meal suggestions will surprise you.

BY ARLENE FUNKE
SPECIAL WRITER

Quentin and Lynn Lloyd of Redford never settle for scorched burgers or a slapped-together meal when they're cooking outdoors.

The Lloyds and their four children ages 8 to 15 years are involved in scouting. And they've been avid campers for years.

"We cook like we do at home," said Lynn Lloyd, a preschool teacher. "We like real food. I don't like to sacrifice nutrition."

Summer is the peak season for outdoor cooking. Millions of people are heading off to campgrounds and beaches.

"It's being out in nature," said Katharine Redcay of West Bloomfield, a Girl Scout leader, organizer and camp consultant. "It's good to be away from phones and cars."

Mom and dad teach kids healthy habits

LAURA LETOBAR

What do you do when someone in your family refuses to eat low-fat foods — especially when that person is the primary cook in the family? This is the situation in the Dehne household.

Ron and Anne Dehne have lived in Livonia since 1987. Everyone who knows this couple knows that Ron does most of the family cooking. But, Anne is concerned about the large amount of fat Ron uses when he cooks.

Ron sounds like your typical "meat and potatoes" kind of guy. He likes to eat steak with lots of butter on his potatoes. Fortunately, Ron is very active. He is a sergeant for the Livonia Police Department. In his spare time he shoots balls in the basketball hoop on the driveway or swims in the family's new pool.

Anne is also extremely busy. She is an IRS revenue agent. When they are not at work the Dehne's have a full schedule at home with their two children. Kristyn, who is 7½, attends Kennedy Elementary School. She told me she likes to eat healthy foods and would like to be a vegetarian as long as she doesn't have to eat beans. Kristyn said she also learned about low-fat foods in school. But her mother has been the most important influence in teaching her about healthy eating.

Alexander is 4. If you ever want to see perpetual motion just look him up. Alex told me he loves carrots. When I asked him if he likes them cooked or raw he said "neither, I like them plain."

While I was interviewing Anne both children asked if they could have a snack. Instead of the usual junk food, these kids were given fruit. I thought that was great because when I was their age a snack was a cupcake or chips.

I think Ron and Anne are doing a wonderful job teaching their children to choose healthy foods for starting a round of short camping trips, like well-rounded meals when they're traveling in their pop-up camper.

Some of the Lloyds' typical campsite meals are shish-kabob, Salisbury steak with gravy and boiled potatoes, and one-pot meals featuring browned meat, rice and onion soup mix for flavor.

Quentin Lloyd, an assistant scoutmaster, likes to show his flair for improvisation. Have you ever heard of scrambled eggs prepared in a resealable plastic bag? How about hamburger patty cooked in a hollowed-out orange?

Redcay, a homemaker, enjoys teaching her Girl Scouts how to cook using tin cans as pots and griddles.

"You should see the looks on their faces when they see you can really cook on them," Redcay said.

The possibilities are endless, whether cooking over an open fire, on a barbecue grill or on an outdoor stove, say the scout leaders. But planning and teamwork are vital.

Pam Jones and Mary Jane LeForge, both of Livonia, are co-leaders of two Girl Scout troops.

"Before we go, we know exactly what we are going to eat," said Jones. "It cuts down on waste."

Jones got into scouting with her daughter Shauna, now 13. Whenever there's a trip, the troop members plan exactly what they will need, including foodstuffs, utensils and recipes.

Camping trips with the scouts teach youngsters how to be resourceful and work together, said Quentin Lloyd, a mockup technician at Chrysler Corp.

For example, scrambling eggs in a bag is quick and easy. It requires no utensils and little cleanup.

Crack two eggs into a resealable plastic bag. Add a little milk. Salt and pepper to taste. Close bag tightly and knead with fingers until contents are mixed. Drop into a pot of boiling water. Cook about two minutes and serve.

The Lloyds also take family vacations in their camper. Their children, Sean, 15, Kyle, 11, Chad, 10, and Meghann, 8, are seasoned travelers.

The Lloyds plan meals with no leftovers. Space is limited. Eating up reduces demands on the cooler.

During the trip Lynn Lloyd makes quick trips to the grocery store to buy fresh corn or salad fixings.

One-dish meals are efficient. Hobo stew is a favorite of Sean Lloyd, who's working on his Eagle Scout ranking.

Hobo stew combines hamburger, canned mixed vegetables and canned cream of mushroom soup.

"Mix it and wrap in foil tightly," Sean said. "It takes about a half-hour to cook." Kyle, 11, enjoys hamburger cooked in a hollowed-out orange. It's quick, easy and requires no utensils or pots. "The orange peel protects (the meat) from burning, and gives it a little orange taste," Kyle said.

During scout outings, adults supervise while youngsters do most of the chores, according to Redcay. They gather firewood and dice vegetables. Troop leaders make sure safety rules are followed.

Redcay's daughter, Rachel O'Connor, 9, is a Junior Girl Scout. Rachel's sister, Margaret O'Connor, 6, is a Brownie. They attend Meadow Lake Elementary School in Birmingham.

Novelty is a big part of the camping adventure. For example, leaders teach the safe use of the "buddy burner" and "vagabond stove."

A buddy burner is a tuna fish can filled with wood shavings and paraffin. It's used with a vagabond, or hobo, stove. The vagabond stove is an empty, institutional-size can with vented sides, top and bottom. Cooking is done on the top of the can.

"We want the girls to feel good about themselves," Redcay said. "They deal with a little bit of adversity and have fun."

Rachel O'Connor, a veteran of several camping trips, enjoys the challenge.

"You can make pretty good scrambled eggs and sausage (on a hobo stove)," Rachel said.

Mishaps can occur.

Kyle Lloyd remembered the time his dad was fixing sweet-and-sour chicken outdoors. Oil in the too-thin pan caught fire and started a small grass fire.

Jones' group once made Indian pudding, a heavy-on-the-molasses dessert. "It smelled really good, but nobody would eat it," Jones said.

More successful was the Jell-O, prepared and popped into a double-bagged resealable plastic bag and buried one foot below ground.

The Lloyds enjoy baked apples. The apple is cored, almost all the way through. Sprinkle cinnamon into the hole. Place on a skewer and cook over fire.

Rachel O'Connor's favorite dessert is the classic S'mores, a blend of graham cracker squares, chocolate and marshmallows, toasted. Presumably, they're so tasty you just have to ask for "s'more"

As the scouts advance through ranks, their skills sharpen. Creativity blossoms.

"They're developing a sense of confidence," Redcay said.

2 ounces (8 tablespoons) olives, pitted, sliced, divided
2 ounces (8 tablespoons) mushrooms, cleaned, sliced, divided
1 green pepper, washed, seeded, cored, chopped
8 ounces (1 cup) mozzarella cheese, shredded, divided

Preheat coals. In large mixing bowl, combine biscuit mix and water. Mix to thick paste. Line 4 mess kits or 9-inch foil plates with foil and divide dough into quarters. Press dough out on mess kits or foil plates to make crust. Place 3 ounces (⅜ cup) pizza sauce on each of the 4 pizza doughs, spreading evenly. Top each pizza with preferred toppings. Top each pizza with ¼ cup mozzarella cheese.

Seal mess kit cover or top each foil pie plate with a second unlined foil pie plate and wrap with a layer of foil to keep them together. Place in coals.

Using tongs place hot coals on top of mess kit or pie plates. Cook 5-10 minutes until crust is done and cheese is lightly browned. Remove from coals, uncover, lift foil liner with pizza out of mess kit or pie plate. Serves four.

Note: This recipe can also be baked as one pizza in a well-greased Dutch oven, using ⅓ less biscuit mix.

BISCUITS

2 cups prepared biscuit mix
⅔ cup milk or water
flour
shortening

Put Dutch oven over coals with some coals on lid to heat thoroughly. Grease pan for biscuits. Put 2 cups prepared mix and ⅔ cup milk or water into the mixing bowl.

Stir with a fork until mixed. Stir as little as possible. If dough appears to be too moist or sticky, add a little more biscuit mix and stir in.

Sprinkle a little flour on a clean, dry, flat surface. Put dough on flour and sprinkle a little flour on dough. Roll dough out until ¾ or ½ inch thick.

Cut dough into biscuit size pieces, knife can be used to cut into 1½ inch squares or use the end of a small can. There should be at least 16 pieces.

Put the cut dough in the greased pan and put in hot (450 degree) Dutch oven. Dutch oven should be put over hot coals with some hot coals on lid.

Check in 5 minutes. There should be only slight evidence of a crust. If there is not evidence, add more coals. If there is heavier crusting, remove some coals. Check in 10 minutes. There should be slight evidence of some browning. Change the heat as needed. Check in 15 minutes, test to see if done. use the splinter test — (shove a splinter or toothpick into one biscuit that looks less done than the rest and pull it out. If it comes out with dry crumbs, it is done. If the crumbs are moist, additional cooking time is needed).

Biscuits should be done in 15-20 minutes actual cooking time. Remove Dutch oven from fire as soon as you take the biscuits out.

Alternate intstructions.

Spread a little oleo around the bottom and sides of a cold frying pan. Then coat the pan with flour by shaking a teaspoon of flour inside it.

In a bowl add ¼ cup cold water to each cup of biscuit mix. Mix the dough. To make it easy to handle, rub some flour on your hands. Shape the dough into biscuits about ¼ inch high and 2 inches wide and set these in pan. Cover.

Cook over a flame or shove the pan into some hot coals, covering it with coals. When cooking over heat, the flame must be low. If it isn't, simply move the pan around to distribute the heat and hold the pan off the heat part of the time to keep the bottoms of the biscuits from burning. Cook them 5-7 minutes on one side, then turn them over with a spatula and cook 5 minutes more. Be patient and give the baking powder time to work.

MOCK ANGEL FOOD CAKE

1 loaf French bread, sliced
3 (14-ounce) cans condensed milk
3 cups shredded coconut

Dip bread in condensed milk, then role in coconut. Toast over coals with a toasting stick.

S'MORES

Graham crackers
Marshmallows
Chocolate bars

Toast marshmallows on stick. When golden brown, sandwich between chocolate and graham crackers. Evenly toasted marshmallows melt the chocolate. Be careful not to flame the marshmallows.

treats. They also encourage their children to be outside and active instead of sitting indoors watching TV.

Now, back to Ron. We needed to come up with a very convincing recipe makeover if we were ever going to persuade him to eat low-fat foods. Usually, when large amounts of fat are omitted from a recipe the texture or flavor is slightly different from the original recipe.

But this reduced-fat no-bake cheesecake tastes very close to the original box brand no-bake cheesecakes from Jell-O. Be sure to read next month's column on Aug. 23 to find out Ron's reaction to the cheesecake.

Here's a suggestion to help lower the fat at your house. Have only the low-fat versions of common products on hand. For example — low-fat cream cheese, low-fat or skim milk, pretzels instead of chips, salsa and corn chips instead of chips and dip. Try one of the new no-fat brands of tortilla chips that are now available.

Try egg substitutes in place of real eggs, frozen yogurt instead of ice cream, fruit or fruit snacks instead of candy.

If you have a favorite recipe and would like a lower fat version, please send it to Keely Wygonik, Taste/Entertainment Editor, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150 or fax recipes via 591-7279. We will consider all recipes submitted.

Fresh vegetables make tasty entrees

Delicious dish: Grilled slices of fresh zucchini and a slightly spicy marinara sauce top rigatoni pasta in the Olive Garden's Rigatoni con Zucchini.

Summer is the perfect time to create delicious entrees using fresh vegetables from the garden or local farmer's market.

The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant's Rigatoni con Zucchini offers a delicious pasta dish with a summertime twist: sauteed zucchini and stewed fresh tomatoes. Rigatoni con Zucchini is a new entree featured on The Olive Garden's Summer Funtastico menu, available now through Sept. 6.

For other summertime vegetable-filled dishes, the following tips supplied by the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, will help you choose the freshest produce.

■ Beans — Pods should be firm, crisp and slender with good green color. Beans should break with a "snap." Wash before using.

■ Mushrooms — May be white, tan or cream-colored. Freshest mushrooms are closed around the stem by a thin veil. However, those having open veils caused by loss of water are just as nutritious, but have a more pungent flavor. Refrigerate in a paper bag or ventilated plastic container. Avoid storing in plastic bags.

■ Onions — Choose onions that are clean and firm. The skins should be dry, smooth and crackly. Avoid onions with wet, soggy necks or soft, spongy bulbs, which indicate decay. Keep at room temperature in a well-ventilated area. May be refrigerated; above all, keep dry. May be stored three to four weeks.

■ Potatoes — Choose firm, clean and relatively smooth potatoes free of cuts or bruises. Avoid green-colored potatoes and those with sprouts. Never refrigerate potatoes, but keep them in a cool, dark, well-ventilated area. Keep away from light (which can cause greening) and moisture.

■ Summer Squash — Should be fresh, heavy for its size and tender. Choose small to medium sizes. Refrigerate and use as soon as possible.

■ Tomatoes — Choose smooth, firm and plump-looking tomatoes with good color. Place away from sunlight. Putting tomatoes in a bag hastens ripening. Best if never refrigerated.

■ Broccoli — Look for compact bud clusters. Color varies from dark green to purplish green, depending on variety. Yellow and wilted leaves indicate aging.

The new Summer Funtastico menu is available at The Olive Garden Italian Restaurants at 14000 Middlebelt Road, Livonia; 2615 Rochester Road South, Rochester Hills; 43300 Crescent Boulevard, Novi; and 41980 Ford Road, Canton.

Here's a recipe from the menu to try at home.

RIGATONI CON ZUCCHINI

½ cup olive oil
1 cup onion, chopped
1 pound fresh mushrooms
1½ teaspoon garlic, finely minced
3 cups crushed tomatoes
1 16-ounce can tomatoes, diced and drained
1½ cups tomato puree
1 cup black olives, sliced and drained
2 teaspoons capers, drained
½ teaspoon oregano, dried
½ teaspoon basil, dried
¼ teaspoon black pepper
¼ teaspoon crushed red peppper
½ teaspoon fennel seeds
½ teaspoon salt
Zucchini preparation
4 large zucchini sliced lengthwise, ¼ inch thick
2 tablespoons olive oil
basil, dried oregano, dried
salt
black pepper
1 pound rigatoni pasta
Parmesan cheese, freshly grated

Chop onion. Divide mushrooms into 2 equal portions. Cut 1 portion into quarters and reserve. Finely mince remaining portion. Mince garlic. Heat olive oil in heavy Dutch oven over medium heat. Add onion and minced mushrooms. Cook 10 minutes or until onions are very soft, stirring frequently. Add garlic and mushroom quarters and cook 5 more minutes stirring constantly.

Add remaining ingredients, stir and bring to a simmer. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes, stirring frequently.

Bring a large pot of water to a boil. Cook rigatoni according to package directions.

To prepare zucchini — cut ends off of zucchini. Cut lengthwise into ¼-inch thick rectangular slices. Sprinkle sliced zucchini with salt, pepper, basil and oregano. Heat 1 tablespoon of olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Place zucchini slices in one layer in the pan.

Saute about 3 minutes per side just until tender. Remove to heated platter, and cover to keep warm while sauteeing remaining zucchini. Add remaining olive oil as needed.

Drain cooked rigatoni and transfer to a serving platter. Ladle sauce over the pasta. Top with zucchini slices and serve. Pass extra and freshly grated Parmesan cheese. Serves 4-6.

1 pound hamburger, cooked and drained
1 large can tomato sauce
1 medium onion, chopped
1 package dry sloppy joe mix
2 cups uncooked macaroni

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan or skillet. Heat over medium heat for 5 minutes. Cover with aluminum foil and lower heat to a simmer and cook for 15 minutes. Serves 4.

CAMPER'S FONDUE

1 pound Swiss cheese, grated or cut into small cubes

Dash of Tabasco or other hot sauce
Bread and steamed vegetables for dipping.

Grate the cheese and dredge with flour. Toss to coat. Set aside.

Warm up to food safety

Warm up to food safety: That's the message from the United States Department of Agriculture which warns there are more cases of food poisoning during the warm weather months. Here's some food for thought.

■ Don't use food from damaged containers. Check cans and glass jars for dents, cracks or bulging lids, paper packages for leaks and stains.

■ Serve food quickly from the cooler and replace it inside the cooler fast.

Planning makes cooking outdoors easier

See related story on Taste front.

Remember that old motto about scouts always being prepared?

When it comes to camping and outdoor cooking, that adage really pays off.

"Planning makes it easier," said to Quentin Lloyd, an assistant scoutmaster from Redford

The following tips reflect prescribed scouting guidelines, as well as the personal experiences of Lloyd and other scouting leaders interviewed for this story.

■ Plan meals in advance. Be flexible.

■ Assemble basic mixes in advance. If you're planning to serve pancakes, make up mix and put it in a resealable bag. This conserves space and is economical.

■ Plan meals with no leftovers. Always make sure you have proper utensils and pots before leaving home.

■ Cut up vegetables in advance. For convenience, use canned or dried vegetables. Use packaged or canned soups for gravy or seasoning.

■ Have everyone take part in the meal preparation. Rotate duties.

■ When preparing food, observe hygiene and safety. Wash hands. Tie back hair and loose clothing before starting a fire.

■ Use only the amount of wood needed for a fire. Keep a bucket of sand or water nearby. Know which direction the wind is blowing.

■ Be especially careful with perishable foods such as eggs, milk, meats and poultry. To avoid spoilage, don't leave food out more than one hour.

■ Keep hot food hot and cold food chilled.

■ When putting out a fire with water, sprinkle, rather than pour. If re-kindling a fire, put embers of coal next to the logs. Blow or fan.

■ Keep plenty of water, juice or Kool-Aid on hand. It's easy to get dehydrated on hot days or during strenuous activities.

■ Store all food in containers.

■ Never leave food, toothpaste, drinks or dirty clothing in your tent, to avoid attracting animals into the sleeping area.

Sizzling books shade summer

Summer sizzles with the latest in paperbacks and hardcovers for your pool, beach or airplane reading enjoyment. Though you may opt for easy reading entertainment during the summer months, don't overlook some of the new thought-provoking novels.

The following is a list of the more popular reads of the season, compiled by local bookshop staffs. Thanks to the expert bibliophiles at Bookpeople in the Orchard Mall, West Bloomfield; Curious Child, 11 Forest Place in Plymouth; and Farmington Book Center, 37115 Grand River in Farmington. Their level of personal service and knowledge are invaluable to those who seek assistance in sifting through endless volumes of the printed word.

Hot off the press

■ "The Bridges of Madison County" by Robert James Waller is the summer's hottest seller. It's a quick read, pure romance written in lyrical prose. It recounts the chance meeting of a National Geographic photographer and an Iowa farm wife. You'll be drawn into their passionate, yet impossible love affair.

■ "All the Pretty Horses" by Cormac McCarthy is the coming-of-age story of a 16-year-old who runs away to Mexico from his Texas ranch. It's a National Book Award winner and is appropriate for college-age or adult readers. "Should have won the Pulitzer Prize," according to Bookpeople staff.

■ "Colony" by Anne Rivers Siddons. If, like me, you're a Siddons fan, Colony is populated with her usual appealing and indomitable women characters. Her newest, in hardback, is "Hill Towns."

■ "Pigs in Heaven" by Barbara Kingsolver continues the saga of Taylor and Turtle, characters first introduced in The Bean Trees. This bestselling book explores the bonds of family and the sensitivity of Native American culture. I love this author, as does my teenage daughter.

■ "I'll Be Seeing You" by Mary Higgins Clark is a spellbinding tale of murder and the duplicity of hidden lives and medical secrets. "I couldn't put it down," said a Bookpeople customer.

■ "Perfect" by Judith McNaught is perfectly wonderful romantic garbage. "I'm a teacher and I wanted to get away from child abuse and substance abuse. This was a terrific pool read," said Joyce Weiner. Also recommended for beach or pool — "Private Scandals" by Nora Roberts and "French Silk" by Sandra Brown.

■ "Fatherland" by Robert Harris is a popular mystery based on the premise that Hitler won World War II. Other hot mysteries include "Mistress of Justice," "Just Cause," "For the Sake of Elena," "Kissing the Gunner's Daughter" and "A Stained White Radiance." For espionage, try "Scimitar" by John Abbott.

■ "The Client" by John Grisham is his newest hardback. "Grisham has stolen summer," said Skip Rosenthal, proprietor of Books Abound, Books for Less and Farmington Book Center.

"Charms for the Easy Life" by Kaye Gibbons chronicles three generations of Southern women. Leslie Gowan, a Gibbons fan, highly recommends it.

■ A science fiction lover? Michael Doyle of Farmington suggests "Neuromancer and Garden of Rama," the latest in a series.

"The Virgin Suicides" by former Grosse Pointer Jeffrey Eugenides examines the suicides of five sisters through the eyes of the local townspeople. "A quick read," said Gowan. And not as morbid as it sounds.

For kids only

What's wonderful for kids? I asked Susan Fitzmaurice, owner of Curious Child in Plymouth. The immensely popular "Brain Quest" game of questions and answers is out in a brand new version for preschoolers and kindergartners. "Tsugele's Broom" by Valerie Carey is a charming old tale of a young woman who wants to make her way in the world. A story of unconditional love, Orange Cheeks is about an eventful trip to Grandma's. "The Secret Garden" has been rewritten for elementary kids. It features beautiful illustrations and a simplified text.

For older children, check out "Little House on Rocky Ridge," written by a descendant of Laura Ingalls Wilder, and "Secrets of a Summer Spy" by Plymouth author Janice Jones.

And don't forget baby. Shoelace Board Books are perfect for babies who "really need books," according to Fitzmaurice.

If you would like to personalize your child's reading by literally drawing him into the book, Warren and Anne Bonner of Southfield specialize in classic book titles that weave your child into the storyline ($9.95-$12.95). Call 552-1242 for mail order information.

Will bigger is better win in the end?

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

"The cycle in retail right now says bigger is better," said Sanford Weber, president of LaKritz-Weber and Co. of Southfield, a commercial real estate firm. "It's the day of the Big Box Users, or as we say, the category killers."

Weber recently chaired a panel discussion sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers on how the Michigan market will be affected by warehouse-style retailers "hitting the area by storm."

His panel included Sandra Ambrozik of Best Buy appliance stores, based in Minneapolis, Minn., Wendy Frost of Michael's Stores Inc., a retailer of arts and crafts items based in Irving, Texas, Noal Solomon of Office Max Inc. of Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Celia Wing of Home Quarters, home improvement stores based in Landover, Md.

These real estate scouts are currently seeking metro Detroit locations for stores. Some have already opened stores here and others have stores under construction.

Best Buys hopes to open 10 stores in Michigan by the end of the year, according to Ambrozik. The stores sell appliances and music software in huge buildings with prototypes of either 35,000 or 45,000 square feet. They will land with a splash to compete with Fretter and ABC Warehouse. Recall that the Highland Appliance chain filed for bankruptcy recently.

Michael's, a giant retailer of arts and crafts items, is "the biggest in the country," according to Frost. "We have over 35,000 items in stock, with 189 stores in 28 states," she said. "We're opening soon at Lakeside, in Troy, in Dearborn and Southgate. Down the road, we'd like stores in Novi, Bloomfield and Canton townships."

Michael's will compete with Frank's Nursery and Crafts and Lee Wards for the dollars of local crafters.

Office Max, in Detroit since 1989 with the opening of the Madison Heights store, now has 20 stores in Michigan, 296 stores throughout 40 states. Office Max was recently purchased by the Kmart Corp., based in Troy. The prototype store is 23,000 square feet, (compare that to the traditional office supply store of 6,000 square feet) favoring locations in regional or power centers." Sales were $528 million in 1992, and Solomon predicted sales of $1.5 million this year.

Home Quarters, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hechinger's of the Washington, D.C., area, has 46 stores in 13 states, all east of the Mississippi River. Sales topped $1.9 billion in 1992 so the company wants to expand.

"We have broken ground in Livonia, Madison Heights, Roseville and Southfield," Wing said. "We're looking for other locations in Pittsfield and Bloomfield townships. Eventually we want 10 stores in the metro De-

Commission, McNamara joust about budget cuts

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County officials are working in strange and mysterious ways to close an $11.75 million budget deficit.

The battle seemed to be joined two Fridays ago as deputy executive Michael Duggan, acting on behalf of Executive Edward McNamara, threatened to lay off more than 300 county employees and veto the county commission's deficit reduction package.

Duggan called the nine commissioners who approved the package a "phony group of hypocrites" and singled out commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, for especial criticism. (Plawecki also represents Redford and Livonia east of Middlebelt.)

But no one has been laid off yet, no veto has been signed, and Duggan has changed his mind completely about Plawecki.

"It's a week later and (Plawecki) has come down and she's trying to pull people together and is really doing a good job," Duggan said last Friday.

Said Plawecki, "I think (Duggan) has calmed down and realized, 'Oh my God, I have to get eight votes and she might be one of them.' "

Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, said that Duggan "runs off at the mouth and it's too bad because he hurts his boss and makes himself less admirable. It's time for him to mature."

■ 'They're just using the layoffs as a smokescreen. It's a political ploy to put the heat on the commission.'

Michelle Plawecki
County commissioner

State law says that the county's $11.75-million deficit must be erased, and that means budget cuts. Like the state government, county governments are not allowed to run deficit budgets.

The commission didn't like the budget cuts McNamara submitted two weeks ago and so approved its own set of cuts by a 9-4 vote July 16. Duggan says the veto will definitely be issued, but in the meantime he's negotiating with "several commissioners" to find a compromise. Duggan isn't negotiating with commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell, D-Detroit, because, "We can't find him," he said.

Area commissioners voting against the commission's plan were Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, and Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton. Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, was absent and didn't vote, but said she supports the commission proposal.

The main problem Duggan has with the commission's package is that some of the cuts, he said, are impossible to implement, making layoffs necessary.

For example, the commission voted to reduce rent and utilities expenses of the public services department by $600,000. But the rent expense is a fixed cost, Duggan said, because leases were signed.

Plawecki said that the public services department received money it never spent in each of the last four years. The commission merely voted to take away the extra money, she said.

The commission proposal also includes a $500,000 reduction in the county contribution to a fund for abused and neglected children. Duggan said the amount of that contribution is required by law to be $750,000 and can't be reduced. (Commissioners tried and failed to cut this contribution last year, too.)

A majority of commissioners disliked McNamara's suggestion that $500,000 be axed from the commission's $6-million-plus personal budget.

"His proposal was for the commission to lay off $500,000 worth of people," said commissioner William O'Neil, D-Allen Park, adding that Duggan "does things for his political future and that's it. Anything he says, I don't care."

Amann said it would be easy for the commission to cut $500,000 without layoffs. The common commission practice for several years, he agreed, is to put more money in the auditor general's account than necessary, then periodically transfer money from that account to cover overspending elsewhere.

"The commission certainly knows about front-door budgeting and back-door spending," he said.

Duggan said that layoff notices began going out last week. First to go will be 123 part-time, temporary and contractual employees, he said, followed by 190 full-timers. But if a compromise is reached, Duggan added, everyone might keep their jobs.

Amann, who supports McNamara's plan and used to be on McNamara's staff, doesn't believe the layoffs are necessary. "I know how (Duggan) operates," he said. "If they liked the commission's package they would find a way to implement it without layoffs. (Duggan's) experience is that the commission understands fear better than anything."

Plawecki said "they're just using the layoffs as a smokescreen. It's a political ploy to put the heat on the commission."

Amann said the debate is far from over. "There ain't no fat lady singing here."

troit area. We need sites with 10 to 12 acres."

Home Quarters will compete with Home Depot, Handy Andy, Builders Square and all neighborhood hardware stores for home improvement dollars. Their edge, according to Wing, is on-site child care staffed by professionals in their "Kids Quarters," a tool department with a selection second to none and a "greatly enhanced service level."

"We plan to invest $200 million in the Detroit area. That's $10 million per store," Wing said. "We've done our research. There are plenty of market shares to go around. I'd compare the Detroit market to the Boston market — you're both hot right now."

Solomon agreed.

"It's easy to enter the Detroit market because you have available land around the regional areas," he said.

When pressed, these out-of-town retailers said they did not want suburban locations exclusively. They would also consider stores within the city of Detroit, just not the "inner city."

Weber concluded that time will tell what effects the Big Box Users have on smaller retailers. But he pointed out how national chains wiped out independent retailers of local women's fashions such as Kay Baum, Siegel's and Himelhoch's.

Spitfires track champs

The Spitfires Track Club had three winners Wednesday night in the United States of America Track and Field area championships at the University of Toledo.

Courtney Sheldon won the long jump (14-5), Laura McWilliams the 3,000-meter run (11:14) and Tracey Cavin the 800 run (2:32). Kathy Jost was second in the 3,000 (12:20).

All four qualified for the state championships Saturday, Aug. 21, at the University of Michigan.

Sheldon competes for the Class A runner-up Plymouth Salem girls track team, McWilliams and Cavin for Plymouth Canton. Jost will be a freshman at Salem this fall.

Canton's Raegan Barnes was sixth in the 100 hurdles and Salem's Kim Czaplicki seventh in the 1,600 run.

Vardar in soccer final

The Vardar III under-16 boys soccer team, representing Region II, reached the finals of the U.S. Youth Soccer Association Saturday after gaining a 3-1 semifinal victory Thursday over the Dallas Texans at the Cave Creek Complex in Phoenix, Ariz.

Plymouth Canton High's Jeff Fliss scored for Vardar, while Northville's Brandon Moggio (Birmingham-Detroit Country Day) and St. Clair Shores' Dan Savich also tallied goals against the Region III representative.

Milford's Alex Garn (Country Day) was in goal for the winners.

Other members of Vardar III, coached by Mike Lupenec, include Livonians Jeff Babinski and Dan Brody (both attend Country Day); Canton's Paul Dood, Doug Herriman and Mike Kley (all of Salem High); Farmington Hills' Justin Marshall (Country Day); Inkster's Brian Collier (Redford Catholic Central High); Milford's Jason Howard (Country Day); Novi's Fred Olson (Country Day), Ann Arbor's Steve Tramontin (Pioneer High); Pontiac's Bryan Turpin (U-D Jesuit); and Jim Weber of Brighton.

Region II soccer team

The Michigan Hawks '81, sponsored by the Livonia Y, represented the state in last month's USYSA Region II championship in Springfield, Mo.

The Under-12 squad, which tied the Troy Dyamite for first in the Little Caesars Premier League (spring season), is coached by Kelly Taylor and Jennifer Huegli.

Members of the '81 Hawks include Becky Peterson, Mary Gignac, Carrie DiBasio, Kristena Stachura and Sarah Wittrock, all of Livonia; Danah Manteuffel and Shannon Konarski, Redford; Lisa Tomasso, Canton; Erin Cain and Heather Pedersen, West Bloomfield; Bethany Bryant and Kristin Shea, Northville; Beth Quiney, Milford; Janelle Harwood and Sarah McDonald, Brighton; Jeannie Vquera, South Lyon; and Melissa Lawson, New Hudson.

Scheffer pitches Travelers to title

In a season-ending showdown pitting Connie Mack teams loaded with Observer & Eccentric area talent, the VFW Travelers defeated North Farmington-West Bloomfield I Friday in the Little Caesars Baseball Federation finale.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Aaron Scheffer overcame one bad inning Friday night to pitch the VFW Travelers to the Connie Mack championship in the Little Caesars Baseball Federation.

The Westland John Glenn ace pitched a complete game and didn't allow a hit outside of the third inning as VFW won the showdown 12-5 over visiting North Farmington-West Bloomfield I at Capitol Park in Redford.

The two-time champion Travelers were 12-1 after the win with one regular-season game to play Saturday against Kensington Valley. VFW could afford to lose that one and still win the tie-breaker over NFWB (12-2).

VFW earned a district tournament bye and automatic bid to the AABC regional in Battle Creek, as well as the top three draft picks from the LCBF teams not in post-season play.

"Little Caesars is one of the toughest leagues in the country," Travelers coach Dick Henry said. "This is the strongest it's been in five years, so winning it this year is kinda special."

Scheffer started well and entered the third inning with a 4-0 lead, but NFWB rallied to score five runs and have all five of its hits. VFW made two of its five errors in that inning.

Mark Rutherford's single scored the first run, but an outfield error allowed another to score. NFWB followed with Chris Ogden's RBI triple and RBI singles by John Heller and Jeff Ross.

"I think the defense fell apart, and that rattled (Scheffer) a bit," Henry said. "He settled down and came back to pitch a great ballgame.

"Aaron digs down and finds that little extra. The more pressure you put on him, the better he plays."

Scheffer, who struck out four and walked four, didn't allow another hit and got plenty of offensive support (nine hits) from his teammates.

Glenn teammate Bryan Besco crushed a two-run homer in the first inning, and Jeff Lance and Derek Besco finished the scoring with solo homers in the sixth.

"I thought we were ready to explode with the bats tonight," Henry said. "We were due and it came at the right time.

"We came back off a 12-day road trip, and the kids have been tired and not moving the bat.

"When they went up 5-4, I knew we were still coming back. It was our day and you could see it from the word go."

The Travelers (30-8) led 4-0 in the second when an outfield error allowed two runs to score on Scheffer's line drive down the third-base line.

VFW regrouped in the bottom of the third, scoring three runs to regain the lead (7-5). Brian Hicks ripped a two-run double and Dave Kapla added an RBI on a sacrifice fly.

The Travelers made it 10-5 in the fourth, scoring two runs on an infield error and another on Mark Watt's sacrifice fly. Lance, Derek Besco and Hicks had two hits each.

NFWB coach Jim Ferguson also gave Scheffer credit for a fine pitching performance and the VFW batters for their display.

"(Scheffer) got a little wild and we got on him (in the third)," he said. "I've seen him pitch since he was 13. He's matured and become a very good pitcher. We average 11 runs a game and got five; what does that tell you?"

Dan Pydyn started and took the loss for NFWB (28-6). He allowed six runs and five hits and left after giving up the Hicks double in the third.

Pydyn and Ogden, who pitched the last four innings, combined for eight walks and that compounded the effect of VFW's hitting, Ferguson said.

NFWB also enters post-season play, most likely in the district tournaments at Jackson or Ypsilanti.

Deja vu: The turn of events Thursday in a Connie Mack baseball game resembled the hard luck Concealed Security pitcher Craig Benedict of Canton had during the recent high school season. He was pitching a no-hitter through five innings when VFW Travelers rallied for a 7-6 victory in the last two innings.

Benedict denied no-hitter in Mack loss

SANDLOT

Bryan Besco's two-out, two-run homer in the seventh inning Wednesday gave the VFW Travelers a 7-6 win over Concealed Security Systems.

The victory kept VFW — a Connie Mack team filled with Observerland talent — a half game behind North Farmington-West Bloomfield I in the Little Caesars Baseball Federation.

The Travelers (11-1) and NFWB (12-1) met Friday night at Capitol Park in Redford to decide the regular-season championship. VFW still had to play Kensington Valley in its finale Saturday.

Concealed led 2-0 and Plymouth Canton product Craig Benedict was throwing a no-hitter until the sixth inning at Madonna University Park.

VFW came up with five runs in that inning, but Concealed responded with four more in the bottom half to lead 6-5.

Dave Susalla was aboard in the seventh after receiving a walk when Besco, who plays for Westland John Glenn, won it for the Travelers.

In the VFW fifth, Jeff Lance hit a two-run double after a Juan Sanchez bunt and walk to Susalla. A pair of infield errors and Derek Besco's RBI single and Dave Kapla's squeeze bunt led to the other three runs.

Tim White hit a two-run double for Concealed in the first inning. CSS added four runs in the sixth on John Raasch's RBI walk, Eric Marcotte's two-run single and Paul Kuhn's sacrifice fly.

Rick Wing pitched the last 1⅓ innings for VFW to get the win. Benedict went the distance, allowing five hits and two walks. Marcotte and Brett Walter had two hits each for Concealed, Bryan Besco two for VFW.

White hurled a no-hitter Thursday as Concealed finished the regular season Thursday with an 8-0 victory over host Northville. White struck out six and walked two over seven innings.

Jesse Sund hit a two-run homer for Concealed, and Kuhn and J.R. Taylor had solo shots. Kuhn, Sund, Jeff Martin and Mike Murray had two hits each. Martin had two RBI and so did Craig Petersen with a double.

Sund also made an outstanding catch at the center-field fence in the sixth inning to save White's no-hitter, according to Concealed coach Lou Pirronello.

Concealed was 3-3 in a Battle Creek tournament the weekend of July 17-18. Kuhn batted .563 (9-16) and Walter .467 (7-15). Kuhn also had four RBI and Walter (home run) three.

The top five Little Caesars teams will advance to post-season play. The league champ gets an automatic bid to the AABC regional tournament in Battle Creek while the others must enter district play.

Two Little Caesars teams will go to the AABC district at Eastern Michigan University and another to Flint. The fifth-place team goes to the NABF tournament in Ohio.

Lady Ocelots set for successful season

VOLLEYBALL

The 1992 season for Schoolcraft College's volleyball team was the kind coaches dream of.

The final result wasn't SC's best — not really even close. The Lady Ocelots finished tied for ninth in the NJCAA Tournament, their worst finish in the past five seasons.

But, according to coach Tom Teeters, they really shouldn't have gotten that far. Which is what pleased him — they overachieved. SC collected its fifth-straight Region 12 championship, posting a 37-13 record and once again winning the Eastern Conference (they've been first in the conference in each of Teeter's eight seasons as coach).

And in the '92 pre-season, he didn't think they could possibly win the conference.

Unfortunately, Teeters' '93 team won't match last year's team in terms of overachievement. The reason — there's just too much talent.

Indeed, this could be the most talent Teeters has ever had to work with.

"We have a lot of experience, and athletically we're very strong," he said, searching for possible weaknesses in his team.

Finding them, opponents are bound to discover, won't be easy.

Solid nucleus

First, however, the losses. Outside hitters Julie Wood and Nancy Ehlert have graduated and taken their talents elsewhere — Wood to Madonna University, Ehlert to University of Toledo, where she follows another SC standout, her sister Jill.

Also not returning: Jennifer Damphousse, who has decided not to play and has transferred to Henry Ford CC, and Erica Edwards, who has left school.

Five players are back: 5-foot-8¼ Tracia Clendenen, a "do-everything" by Teeters' description; 5-11 middle blocker Danni Sheehy; 5-5 Shannon Capstick; 5-7 Janine Sproul; and 5-8 Sharla Yaklin.

Not a bad nucleus to build around, certainly. Factor in the material Teeters has coming in, and this project is first-rate.

Let's start with the transfers, both from Henry Ford CC. When Teeters examined a '92 Hawks lineup that included these two, he thought there was no way SC could reclaim the conference crown.

But things didn't work out, and now Kristen Barnes — a 6-1½ Class A all-state middle blocker at West Bloomfield HS as a senior — and Danielle Pfeffer — a 5-11 all-around standout from Dear-

OCC cagers have what it takes

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Rearm and rerun.

That's the general idea at Oakland Community College, anyway. The men's basketball program keeps chugging along, replacing stars of the past with a new batch of 6-foot-5 quicksters.

Coach Lynn Reed's biggest problem every year seems to be finding the right combination.

After hearing him list his recruits for the '93-94 campaign, the feeling once again is the talent is there to make a run at the Eastern Conference championship — and maybe go a bit further.

There are losses, to be sure. Gone are 6-6 forward Myron Banks (to NCAA Division I Buffalo), 5-10 point guard Kevin Woodmore (to Siena Heights), 6-7 forward Bill Knight (to Ferris State) and 6-2 guard Troy Coleman (still looking).

Returning, there's some fire-power in 5-11 shooter Craig Martin, 6-3 swingman Willie Payne, 6-5 forward Mark Galbraith and 6-4 forward Randy Hicks. Then there's Will Marcoux, a 6-6 forward from Redford Catholic Central, and Curtis Long, a 5-2 super-quick guard, both of whom sat out last year.

So much for the known quantities. What's new? What has Reed added? Is there anything that could push the Raiders beyond their 15-14 record of last season?

Not surprisingly, the prospects are aplenty. Among the most promising: 6-9 Perry Elliott, from Detroit, a talent who has displayed "phenomenal improvement." He must make his grades in summer school to be eligible, however.

Then there's Troy Daniels, a 5-10 point guard from California. "He's a tough kid, a good player," said Reed.

Also Troy McNeil, a 6-7, 230-pounder who graduated from Troy HS two years ago but hasn't been playing. "I think he's a late bloomer," Reed said. McNeil is bringing someone with him: his cousin, Mike White, a 6-5 forward from Ohio.

Two others who look particularly promising are 6-5 Tony McNeal, from Walled Lake Western, whom Reed compares to former OCC star Toine Murphy; and 6-6 Chris MacFarlane, from Walled Lake Central. Both could develop and become instant contributors.

So could several others. Like 6-4 Freeman Jones from Pontiac Northern, who also must make his grades in classes this summer; 6-3 guard Scott Goddard, from Waterford Mott; 6-4 forward Damon Henry, from Oakland Christian; 5-10 P.J. Woods, from Romeo; 6-1 Harold Golson, who played at Macomb CC several seasons ago; 6-2 Ken Clay, from Detroit Renaissance; and 6-5 Robert Antwine, from Pontiac Central.

Goddard and Henry are shooters. Clay has been out of high school a year; he didn't play at Renaissance, but Reed likened him to another OCC great, Rashe Reviere; both Woods and Golson have been out of school a while, but their games are sharp; and Antwine has exhibited enough ability to make a positive impression.

Or, as Reed put it, "It gives me a start, something to work with. If Elliott continues to improve . . . he runs well and can block shots as well as anyone I've had."

A 6-9 impact player could push OCC over the top. In '92, the Raiders lost a half-dozen games in the final minute, by a couple of points. A talented big man could reverse that.

And in so doing, convert an also-ran into a title contender.

born Edsel Ford — are playing for him.

"We originally tried to recruit both of them, but they chose Henry Ford," said Teeters. He insists he did nothing to change their mind, except possibly injecting some frustration into their '92 season by guiding SC to consecutive wins over the Hawks in conference play.

Both secured releases from the program, and now could make the Ocelots NJCAA title contenders. Barnes "has been working very hard weight-lifting." As for any possible attitude problems, Teeters assured, "There won't be. She wants to play very much."

Impressive newcomers

Barnes should give the Ocelots the kind of power they enjoyed two years ago with Kari Van Deusen and Renea Bonser. Pfeffer, on the other hand, provides something more.

"She's a 5-11 setter with great speed, a great jump and one of the best blocks I've ever seen," gushed Teeters. "She's one of those players who's making us be very creative. She can play the right side and set, she can middle block and set, she can play the left side and hit.

"Wherever we need her to make the team better, we'll use her."

Both Barnes and Pfeffer have one year of junior college eligibility left.

Another major addition to the lineup is Livonia Churchill grad ('92) Julie Campau, a 5-11 middle blocker/outside hitter who went to Michigan State (but did not play) last year. "She's got great hands," said Teeters. "She'll have an immediate impact on the team. She's real aggressive, a team leader."

Another sizable newcomer is Tracia Kazyaka, 6-1 from Warren Woods Tower. Kazyaka was a standout in basketball (she may join Jack Grenan's SC team after volleyball) who could not find an appealing collegiate hoop offer. Like Barnes and Pfeffer, "she's a great blocker," said Teeters.

Last but hardly least on the list is Margaret Heddle, a 5-9 outside hitter from Ypsilanti and the sister of former SC player Sarah Heddle. Margaret's all-around ability was apparent at Ypsi, where she was the Braves' setter. Teeters expects her to back up Clendenen at setter and provide defense.

Practices have not yet officially begun for SC (although conditioning has). Still, Teeters knows where more work will be needed. "Defense is something I hope we get better at," he said. "Also outside hitting. Replacing Julie and Nancy is something we have to do."

Then there's serving and . . . well, given time, Teeters could think of a dozen things. But he also admits this is as talented a team he has ever had, with the possible exception of the '88 NJCAA championship squad, which had more overall speed but less size.

In the final analysis, if these Ocelots can come close to the '92 team's ability to overachieve, they'll match up with any NJCAA foe.

Bowler cherishes tourney triumph

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Lee Snow's bowling pals appropriately call him "Snow Man."

The 15-year Farmington Hills resident has experienced a lot of highs during his bowling career. Now as the official winnner of the "Peterson," Lee Snow has hit the ultimate taste of victory. It meant a lot more to him than the $45,000 first place money. Snow is a nostalgia buff and this achievement means his name and picture will be on the wall at the house on 35th and Archer streets in Chicago right along with many of the legendary names.

A lot of good bowlers have tried the Peterson Classic, only to come away muttering to themselves in despair, for this is no ordinary tournament. Eight games are bowled across 16 lanes, and each lane is different.

One may have 60 feet of oil, the next one bone dry.

They have bad racks, so the pins are not properly spotted. The pins are heavier and mixed and all this is done on purpose.

It poses a real challenge to the bowlers, and only those who are properly prepared can succeed.

As Snow says, "some of the lanes hook a lot, some not at all, you have to take whatever the lane will give you."

His strategy was to be sure to hit the head pin on the first ball and not to miss any one-pin spares.

There are no arrows or dots or other spots on the lanes, it makes it much more difficult to find a line and sit on it. Snow's total score was 1,589 pins, which happened to be the second lowest winning score in all 83 Peterson tournaments.

His last two games were 230 and 248, and that made the big difference. Part of the winning strategy was to use an older ball, a black diamond, which proved to react more consistently on the varied conditions, instead of one of the newer Urethane or reactive balls which are less predictable.

Winning isn't exactly new to Lee Snow.

He was the NCAA in 1973 while at Eastern Michigan and he won the Bowlers Journal Classic Division at Tampa in 1979.

He has won two Michigan Majors titles, six city association championships and two state titles. He bowls in the Stroh's Traveling All-Stars and Ansaras Classic at Drakeshire. His highest average last season was 221.

Snow is the current president of the Stroh's Michigan Majors Bowling Association. He has competed in the Pro Bowlers Tour in the 1970s, managed several bowling centers, owned a pro shop and serves as color commentator for the MMBA on PASS TV every month.

■ The Wayne-Westland Bowling Association and the Tri-City Women's Bowling Association are jointly conducting league officers schools and supplies at Westland Bowl on Aug. 12.

The officers sessions will be held at 1 p.m. and again at 7 p.m. The supplies will be available throughout the day regardless of the meetings. For information, call Westland Bowl at 722-7570.

■ The Wayne-Westland Association just had a new highest-ever series bowled at Super Bowl in Canton. Ron Toswell, bowling in the battle of the sexes, rolled games of 288-300-277. His series total was 865, the highest ever in the men's associaiton.

For Toswell, a Plymouth resident, it was his first 300 game and his first 800 series as well. There was a 300 game by Chuck Graddick and 299 from Calvin Simmons. Toswell's series consisted of 34 strikes and two spares.

HIGHLIGHTS

Veteran broadcaster Tom Brokaw examines the bleak outlook for employment minded high school graduates in "The Lost Generation" on "The Brokaw Report" airing Wednesday, July 28 on NBC. Today, high school graduates hoping to join the work force have few prospects other than "McJobs," low paying, unskilled positions that offer little chance of advancement. Brokaw looks at programs springing up to help these youths, including one whose enrollees were near suicidal one year ago.

It's always fair weather with Willard Scott

By Steven Alan McGaw

A letter once passed through the busy New York City postal system addressed simply to "Portly, Sunny Weatherman, NBC, New York."

Not surprisingly, it found its way to the crowded mailbag of NBC's Willard Scott, a staple of the network's "Today Show." With all due credit to the mail handlers involved, it could scarcely have been intended for anyone else.

Since March 1980, when he made his "Today" debut, Scott has been one of television's most popular - and colorful - broadcasters, a mix of canny showmanship and unabashedly corny bonhomie. Whether engaged in a folksy rumination about rain in the Northeast, or saluting a grateful Georgian's 100th birthday, Scott provides a respite from the polished, even self-important style of most TV news staffers.

That Scott musters his genial, ebullient delivery so early in the morning is testimony to both his energy and his professionalism. "Oh, I usually lay around in bed until 3:30 or so," he laughs, describing his morning regimen. "I told somebody last week-and I wasn't trying to be funny-that I loved being on vacation 'cause I could sleep 'til 6:30 or 7.

And as for the other residents of the Scott household? "It's just my wife and I now," he explains, "and she doesn't care what I do. Hell, one time she made up the bed with me it it."

One presumes Scott is in no such danger when staying in a hotel on one of his many road trips, doing his "Today" segments from various fairs, festivals, fund-raisers and parades around the nation. Despite the rigors of travel, Scott describes the remotes as "kind of my trademark...I love it."

Scott says the rewards of the road trips are multiple. "No. 1, of course, I'm a ham," he admits. "I just come alive when I'm with people. There are also practical, business spinoffs. People want to hire you a week later to make a speech, or someone in an ad agency sees you and says, 'Hey, that guy's okay, he's working with a cow, or with kids.'"

In his speaking engagements, titled "The Joy of Living," Scott opens with anecdotes from his years in broadcasting as well as other humorous topics.

"I usually take a hairpiece with me that I use as a prop," he says, "and then I look for some baldheaded guy in the audience to kid around with. And hope he doesn't sue me."

The second part of Scott's speech is a bit more serious, turning to the thing he describes as "the second great love of my life, which started just as a fluke." He's referring to his trademark birthday salutes to centenarians and his feelings in general for the treatment and respect accorded the elderly.

"I've been saying for several years," says Scott, "that we need to get older people and younger people together and have a dialogue. There's a lot of ills in our society that come, I think, from people not knowing or spending time with their grandparents. It teaches you respect...and older people have a lot to offer, a great deal of wisdom."

The author of four books (including a best-selling recipe collection), Scott has gained a lot of his own wisdom through a lifetime in radio and television. He became infatuated with broadcasting after wandering into a Washington radio station at age 8 and watching none other than Eric Sevareid read the news.

"I never forgot that," Scott recalls. A make-believe station in his parents' basement led to the real thing by the time he was a teenager, working with a souped-up system he ordered through the mail from St. Louis. His partner was one David Sharp, and the call letters of their fledgling enterprise were WSSD.

"We were broadcasting one Saturday morning," Scott remembers with a laugh, "and some guys from the FCC came to my house and shut us down. They said we were coming in over the Pan Am frequency as flights came in at the airport. I'm lucky I didn't go to jail."

Weekday mornings, veteran broadcaster Willard Scott serves up weather forecasts, folksy humor and his trademark 100th birthday salutations on NBC's "Today Show." Scott says he caught the broadcasting bug at the age of 8.

STAR NOTES

Udy enjoys playing shady character

BY SCOTT WHITE

When asked what research she has invested in her characterization of Myra, an indentured prostitute on the CBS hit "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman," Helene Udy laughingly responds, "Well, let's say I've assimilated that information over the years."

She goes on to explain, "I mean, I've been very interested in Westerns anyway. In terms of what it was like to be a hooker in those times, I know it was not a glamorous thing, an easy thing. Women had a hard enough time as it was, so hookers put themselves at the lowest place on the totem pole. ... It wasn't like the Renaissance; it wasn't an intellectual time. It was a time when you were just surviving if you were lucky. That just made [Myra's] profession a whole lot harder."

Raised in Montreal, Udy has directed several noted plays, including "Out in America," which earned her a Dramalogue Award.

HIGHLIGHTS

"Nature" host George Page visits one of the most cuddly of Australia's indigenous species, the koala, in "The Nature of Australia: A Portrait of the Island Continent," repeating this week on PBS. The six-hour series, airing Monday through Wednesday, July 26-28, examines the continent's development from its geographic split with South America and Antarctica 50 million years ago to its current status as a highly urbanized agricultural power. Also featured is a look at Australia's diverse wildlife and weather extremes.

SOAP WORLD

Colleen Dion works soaps coast to coast

BY CANDACE HAVENS

She's bold and beautiful, and she is on "Another World." Colleen Dion has been through some big changes this year with her move from the West Coast and a job on the daytime serial "The Bold and the Beautiful" to the East Coast and a job on "AW." The move was made possible when "B&B" took her off contract status and her character became a recurring role. Not one to sit around and see what happens, Dion landed a contract role as architect Brett Gardner on "AW" after only one week of looking for a new job. She and her husband, Steve, were ready for a change, and moving to New York City seemed like a good idea.

"Things still haven't settled down," says the actress. "The job is great, but Steven and I are looking for a bigger place to live. We looked upstate a little bit, but it is just more convenient to live in the city."

Colleen grew up in Chicago and upstate New York, and she was prepared for the cold weather when the couple arrived in December, but her husband wasn't. "I told him that it hardly ever snows in the city, and then we get here and it is the worst winter they had in years. I'm never going to live that one down."

The weather wasn't the only thing that was different when Dion arrived in New York; she also had an increased workload. "I was doing a half hour show in Los Angeles, and 'AW' is an hour long. The first day I went to work, I had 20 pages of dialogue to learn, and I flipped. It has gotten easier with time, but I was scared to death at first."

"AW" is Dion's fifth soap opera. She was Evie Stone on "Search for Tomorrow," Cecila on "Loving," Felicia on "B&B," and she also appeared on "Santa Barbara." Many of her fans have followed her to the different soaps, and Dion feels lucky to have one faithful fan in particular – her mom. "My mom is my biggest fan and my best friend. She watches the show every day." What would fans be surprised to know about her? "That I am boring." Dion replies. "I love to stay at home and watch TV and just hang out with my husband."

More Elvis on the way; TNT tallies votes for favorite films

Raycom, a sports and entertainment company based in Charlotte, N.C., has announced a five-year contract with the estate of singer Elvis Presley. The arrangement calls for a series of syndicated television specials co-produced by Raycom and the estate, culminating in a 1997 spectacular commemorating the 20th anniversary of Presley's death on Aug. 16, 1977. The first two offerings air this summer in a two-week window beginning Aug. 7. Lisa Hartman-Black and Mac Davis serve as co-hosts and narrators for both programs. "America Comes to Graceland" offers a tour of the singer's opulent Memphis home, as well as interviews with celebrities such as Elton John, George Harrison and Travis Tritt on the influence of Presley's music. "Elvis: His Life and Times" is billed as the "definitive Elvis biography," featuring candid comments from members of the singer's family and inner circle of friends, as well as never-before-seen footage of Presley at work and at play.

Attention, film fans. There are two weeks left to cast votes in TNT's "America's Favorite Movie Poll." As a feature of its summer movie showcase, the cable network is operating a phone number (1-900-786-4TNT) for viewers to call and name their favorite films. The remaining opportunities to phone in are Thursday, July 29, when Jason Alexander introduces 1963's "Jason and the Argonauts," and Wednesday, Aug. 11, with Martin Scorsese serving as host for an airing of David Lean's "Lawrence of Arabia." The results of the poll will be announced in the series' last installment on Thursday, Sept. 16, when Whoopi Goldberg fronts George Cukor's "A Star is Born." Proceeds from the poll go to the Actor's Fund of America, which operates several retirement and nursing homes.

Recent casting news includes Macaulay Culkin in the feature version of the comic strip "Richie Rich" and Jaye Davidson as an alien in the futuristic thriller "Stargate."

'Article 99' entertaining, thought-provoking despite flaws

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

Imagine "M*A*S*H" rewritten and co-directed by Billy Wilder, Frank Capra and a TV sitcom neophyte, and the result might be something like 1992's "Article 99," a film little seen in its brief theatrical release. A blend of icy cynicism, hearty belief in the "little guy" and sometimes threadbare plot developments, Howard Deutch's film is at once entertaining, thought-provoking and maddeningly uneven.

Perhaps the problem is that "Article 99" just never decided what it wanted to be when it grew up. The film seems to meander between "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" and "The Hospital," with occasional forays into the territories of Rambo-style machismo and poorly staged slapstick. It just never picks a path and sticks to it.

But some films, like some people, can be forgiven a lot just because of good intentions. "Article 99" springs from a good idea, the performances are sound, and the statements it makes, however clumsily, need to be made.

Ray Liotta ("Unlawful Entry," "Dominick and Eugene") stars as a rebellious, resourceful doctor in a Veterans Administration hospital. Frustrated with the VA's dense bureaucracy and ceaseless cost-cutting, Liotta and his confederates (John C. McGinley, Forest Whitaker, Lea Thompson) have become experts at going around the proper procedures, even if it means scheduling patients for prostate surgery when they really need a triple bypass, or shifting patients from one ward to another rather than let them be returned to the street.

Into the fray comes intern Kiefer Sutherland, a young man with his eyes on lucrative private practice and totally unprepared for the grim realities of real-life medicine.

Stand-out performances come from Liotta and John Mahoney as the hospital's ruthless, politically minded director. Kathy Baker ("Picket Fences") is appealing as a rule-bound psychiatrist angered, then attracted, by Liotta's maverick behavior.

HIGHLIGHTS

During July, CBS shows Kids how captioning is done by airing open-captioned episodes of "Uncle Ed's American Tales" on Saturday mornings. Previously, a special decoder was needed to provide captioning for the hearing impaired. Now, all new television sets are required by law to include a switch that allows instant access to captioning. Captioned programs also aid those learning to read or learning English as a second language. Parents can turn the sound down on their sets to encourage children to read along.
