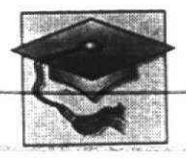
Forum participants trade barbs



A forum on education reform called by state Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, led to some suggestions on changing the current system. It also led to some tension on the subject of pay increases, and on legislators' recent vote to end local school property taxes.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, stood in front of a group of local teachers Tuesday and told them they shouldn't take a pay raise.

That made them mad.

Vorva is asking constituents for ideas on how to pay for education in Michigan in a series of public forums.

He got several ideas from nearly 100 attending a forum Tuesday at Plymouth City Hall. But he also took heat from educators and schools supporters for his vote to end property tax support for schools and for suggesting educators should make sacrifices.

George Belvitch of Plymouth Township and some others attending the forum suggested it was irresponsible of state legislators to do away with the property tax system when there was nothing else in place.

"There are a lot of people out there who are unhappy with taxes," Vorva said.

The vote happened, he said, "because the system had to change."

Vorva said that schools' budgets should be examined, as have those of government.

"There are the inefficiencies, the cost overruns, not bidding out services — all the things that are wrong with government are wrong with the government of schools," he said.

Vorva suggested cost savings could involve merging business operations of school districts.

One teacher said, "I want local control; I want to be able to choose the textbook for my students. I find it really scary to think that you guys in Lansing are going to tell me how I have to teach."

"A lot of the infrastructure that is there is fine," Vorva said, adding the Residents drive for preservation

"They are working with our people in relation to the presentation of their materials," said Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

The homeowners organization wants about 3.5 miles of roads in western Canton, south of Ann Arbor Road, to be given natural-beauty status by Wayne County. The area targeted for designation includes Napier Road, from Ann Arbor Road south to Warren, and Joy from Ann Arbor Road to Ridge, and Ridge from Joy toward Warren, and Gyde going east from Ridge.

"We're trying to keep some trees on this planet," said Mike Olin, co-chair of the Northwest Canton Homeowners Association. "I drive down that road and think what would happen if the utilities wanted to clear cut there."

Eric Krupp, also co-chair of the association, agreed. "What prompted us was seeing developers and utility companies come here and clear cut trees. That was unnecessary. We appreciate the value of tree canopies on the roads. The designation doesn't prohibit cutting trees, but it will make it more difficult."

School tax-hike vote nears

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Phone poll results, 3A

If you're a registered Plymouth-Canton voter, your chance to influence the fate of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools arrives Tuesday, Aug. 17.

On the ballot will be a 4-mill property tax increase. With the $8.4 million the levy would generate, the district would recall 68 laid-off and pink-slipped teachers, restore extracurricular activities and sports, open two new elementary schools, and rehire other pink-slipped employees.

If absentee voter turnout is any indication, the special election will draw even more voters than did the schools' June election, which attracted a record 16,000-plus voters.

Thus far, a record-high 2,300 absentee voters have cast ballots, according to elections clerk Ellen Schroeder.

The district also would allocate with millage revenue $2.5 million for a contingency fund; restore public use of school buildings; keep the Central Middle School pool open and purchase textbooks.

Voting will take place at regular school precincts. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. If you're unsure where to vote, call the elections office at 451-3135. Voter registration deadline was July 19.

According to the ballot language — finalized before the state Legislature scrapped property tax as the chief funding mechanism for schools — the tax hike request is for two years. But under the new legislation, to be signed into law Aug. 19, it will in fact be levied for just one year.

If you're voting absentee, applications are available at the E.J. McClendon Center, 454 S. Harvey, through Monday, Aug. 16. The election office is open from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Township sets hearing on increasing tax rate

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

A public hearing to discuss whether the township should raise the tax rate by .11 mills for Canton's general operation fund is scheduled for Sept. 14.

Last Tuesday, trustees unanimously approved a maximum rate of 1.22 mills. However, trustees may levy a rate lower than 1.22.

The current rate for the general operations fund is 1.11 mills. The fire and police funds would remain the same at 2.94 mills for fire operations and 4.96 mills for the police fund.

The increase for the general fund would cover costs of rubbish pickup and disposal. There was a $380,000 increase in costs for pick-up by Canton Waste Recycling from last year to this year, according to Supervisor Thomas Yack.

"This would be the first tax increase in 15 years," Yack said. "This was the administration's method to let you know that we can't absorb increases of that size. We're living in some degree with growth in Canton Township. If building starts were to go to zero, it's quite likely a 2-mill increase would be required."

Meanwhile, Canton earned tipping royalty fees and enjoyed free dumping for being home to the landfill, Saulk Trails.

That money went to the community improvements fund, which pays for projects like the proposed Canton community center; sidewalk replacement; road improvements and other beautification projects.

"The dollars saved at the landfill should not be budgeted in the general fund, because it gives a distorted view of the cost to collect and dispose of garbage," Yack said. "Someday the community is going to have to deal with those costs."

Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter said she believed the board has to discuss in depth what should be done about waste pick-up.

"Right now what is paid in local taxes no longer covers the costs," she said. "We have to continue to increase the taxes or start charging people individually."

Another problem is that people in other communities, where residents pay by the amount of trash they place at the curb, sometimes drop their garbage off with their Canton friends and family, Clerk Loren Bennett said.

Last year Canton exceeded the amount of free dumping and paid a minimal amount to Wayne Disposal.

Sales tee off at new Fairway Pines development

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

The first homes were sold recently in the long awaited residential golf community.

Houses in Fairway Pines are selling for between $220,000 to $260,000. The development will be among two other housing projects, a condominium complex and a golf course on 650-acres with Canton Center, Beck, Cherry Hill and Newton roads as the boundaries. The entired project has been christened Pheasant Run.

"They started selling homes in Fairway Pines a couple of months ago," according to Supervisor Tom Yack, who spearheaded the plan more than five years ago.

The intent of the project was to augment an upscale image in south Canton. The golf community would also add to the main community park around township hall.

"I think already we've accomplished a great deal in that peoples' attitudes of south of Ford Road has changed dramatically," Yack said. "For a long time if you lived south of Ford Road or south of Cherry Hill you were looked down on as living on the bad side of town. The purpose of the project was to blur the east-west line that separated the community in a couple of different places and that has been accomplished. No longer do you have to say in an apologetic way: 'I live in the south part of Canton."

Fairway Pines, south of Cherry Hill and east of Beck, is the first phase of Pheasant Run.

Homeowners will present materials making a case for the designation at a joint meeting of the township board and planning commission Tuesday, Oct. 5.

"My observation is that the area the group has identified is an area that doesn't see much human involvement," Yack said. "We would basically be capturing — as long as the natural beauty designation stays in place — the uniqueness of the area. It really would not impact the future or development. I see no reason to say no."

Homeowners will ask township officials for a resolution of support. "They can then use that as a tool with Wayne County," said Casey Hans, township municipal services information coordinator.

Homeowners are working on their presentation, which will include pictures, diagrams and drawings, to show the area meets state law requirements for natural beauty road designation, Olin said.

"We're shooting for everything we can to inundate them. Ultimately, we have to present this to Wayne County," Olin said.

Because Wayne County has no natural beauty roads designated, homeowners are basing their presentation on Oakland County's system for designation.

"They've come up with enough points, much more than required under the Oakland County system," Hans said.

Homeowners began their quest with a required petition boasting approximately 1,000 signatures, a majority of which were obtained during Canton's Liberty Fest in June.

"We needed only 25 from the area," Olin said. "With close to 1,000, if I were (President Bill) Clinton I would call it a mandate."

Though natural-beauty road designation is available under state law, a final decision rests in the hands of Wayne County officials. Canton Township cannot make a decision because it does not own the roads. Homeowners also will have to appeal to Superior Township and Washtenaw County because the west side of Napier is under those jurisdictions.

"The primary intent was to preserve the native vegetation and scenic beauty," said Kim Herman of the state Department of Natural Resources. "The goal is to generally protect the vegetation in a reasonable way. The county still has to maintain the road."

Natural beauty designation does not prevent development. And at any time, the designation can be revoked. "If development were to take place that would change the characteristics of the roads there would be no use in designating it," Herman said.

The designation, however, doesn't prohibit installation of lighting, but it can prevent widening and additional infrastructure. It also does not determine the speed limit on designated roads, Hans said.

According to state guidelines, the designation does not curtail or cut back existing road maintenance programs. It also will not prohibit the application of "sound forest management in the right-of-way." The designation will not affect the right of a public utility to control vegetation in connection with the maintenance, repair or replacement of facilities that were constructed in or across the road before designation.

Wayne County officials aren't giving any clue to how they might react to the designation request. "We said we would research the issue and come up with a proposal," said Allen Richardson of Wayne County's transportation planning. "It's a very sensitive issue. We are reacting to the township asking us to look into it."

Following the official receipt of the homeowners' request, Wayne County is required to schedule a public hearing. Wayne County has 30 days after that to announce its decision.

Richardson said that Wayne County has paid out hefty damages for deaths and injuries on, for example, Napier, which winds and banks toward Warren Road.

Northwest Canton homeowners also are relieved with a Plymouth Township decision to follow a developer's plan to build a pump station at the southern end of the township instead of sending a sewer line down Joy Road, taking with it trees and wild flowers.

The developer's plan has an approximate $400,000 tab, versus the township's suggested sewer extension at $1.4 million.

"We simply said that the developer is going through with this (development) project and it would be the least damaging (to nature) to follow the plan the developer submitted," Olin said. Plymouth Township trustees agreed.

feeling in Lansing is that local school boards should remain.

Some challenged Vorva on his contention that the the Plymouth Canton schools could cut millage from its present allotment and not cut the quality of education.

Chuck Portelli, head of the Plymouth Canton teachers union, told Vorva that belief is irresponsible. Tom Kalis, a schools supporter, pressed Vorva for specifics on where he'd cut.

"The teachers and administrators don't take pay raises," he suggested, adding the district could "start bidding out things that are not bid out now," merge business operations with other districts, and lay off administrators.

When one teacher suggested Vorva not take a pay raise, Vorva noted that he voted against the 1993 raise passed by the Legislature.

"I didn't think it was right," he said, adding he's donating it to the Plymouth YMCA and other groups.

School board president Roland Thomas defended the board's efforts to save money, saying the board has sought ways to cut insurance costs.

Betty Bloch, coordinator of the schools' business education partnership program, suggested that legislators "bring in education and private industry, let them put their heads together and see how it will change."

Vorva said he and other Republicans in the state Legislature will meet with the governor later this month to talk over ideas, and a plan could be put together by Thanksgiving.

pleted by February or March. Construction dates on homes in Pheasant View, east of Beck and south of the old Proctor Road, are undecided.

Condominiums are expected to be built on 60 acres of township-owned land at Canton Center south of the library.

Groundbreaking on the golf course, the project's focal point, is scheduled to begin this fall, one year behind schedule. Opening date for the publicly owned course is slated for mid-summer of 1995 allowing for details like the grass on the 18-hole course to grow. The course will be located south of Cherry Hill to the Rouge River and Canton Center to Beck, according to Mike Gouin, recreation superintendent.

Architects of the course are Arthur Hill & Associates. Smith & Associates designed the club house.

Rumors that the long-awaited project was killed were untrue, Gouin said adding that his office fielded calls recently from people inquiring about the status.

Two Oakland County judges to teach at Madonna in fall

Judges Fred M. Mester and Gene Schnelz of Oakland County Circuit Court will be among the faculty for 14 legal assistant courses being offered by Madonna University this fall.

Mester will teach Legal Research and Writing II; Schnelz will teach Legal Interviewing and Investigation and Law Office Economics and Management.

Madonna's legal assistant program, the first in Wayne County approved by the American Bar Association, offers associate and bachelor of science degrees and post baccalaureate certificates in the field.

Registration for the fall term is being held through Friday, Sept. 3. Classes begin Tuesday, Sept. 7.

Special Problems in Law: Environmental Law-Hazardous Waste Management is a new class which will focus on transportation and disposal of hazardous wastes. THe workshop will be held 6-10 p.m. Fridays, Sept. 17, and 24 and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays, Sept. 18 and 25. The course will be taught by Mary Urisko, a local attorney and assistant director of Madonna's legal assistant program.

Urisko will also teach Special Problems: Computer Assisted Legal Research, Legal Assistant Orientation and Legal Research and Writing I.

Detroit attorney Richard Dimanin will conduct Special Problems in Law: Arbitration and Mediation, a course with emphasis on assembling facts to present a case before an arbitration panel or mediation tribunal.

Dimanin will also teach Torts: An Overview of Negligence and Medical-Legal Concepts and Medical Records which will familiarize the paralegal with medical-legal concepts, medical terminology and medical record review.

Other course include: Constitutional Law taught by attorney Rheo Marchand, Litigation taught by Detroit attorney Debra Holt, Using Computers in the Law by Barry Brickner and Taxation II by Charles Stahl, chairman of the department of accounting and finance at Madonna. Jennifer Cote, Brighton attorney and director of Madonna's program, will conduct Legal Seminar and Practicum.

Grandmother shoots for the top

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

Plymouth grandmother Bonny McLeod shot her first gun only six years ago, but she's emerging as one of the state's top bullseye shooters.

"It's very challenging," said the 20-year Plymouth resident and mother of two grown sons.

"You compete with yourself to improve your own scores, you compete with the people on your team and you also compete against them. And you compete with everyone who's shooting," she explained.

Shelves in her upstairs den hold more than a dozen trophies, and there are several wall plaques and displays of shooting medals.

One of the awards she's most proud of is the fist-sized medallion she won in February in the National Rifle Association Sectional Championship. She finished third overall.

She also finished as high woman in the state in the recent Michigan Rifle and Pistol Association competition.

"My dream is to make the Olympic Team," she said.

Now that she's caught up in the world of target shooting, do friends joke that they better not mess with her?

"I get a little of that," she said, adding her two grown sons "think it's great."

Several black and white paper targets with neat holes blasted through their centers are also displayed among her trophies.

"You have to learn to stand properly, hold your breath, grip the gun properly and squeeze the trigger," McLeod said, adding shooting is "90 to 95 percent mental."

"You need to line the sights up in an area on the target that would cause the shot to fall at the center of the target, and at the same time cause the hammer to fall without disturbing that alignment," she said, recalling a prime instruction offered in a shooting guidebook.

"Within 20 minutes I was hooked," she said. She now belongs to the Howell club, the Taylor Pistol Club and the Livonia Sportsman's Association, of which she's secretary.

McLeod said those interested in shooting are of all ages and professions, and there are several women involved.

"My shooting coach tells me women do well because they don't start out with bad habits," she said.

For example, men often start as boys shooting guns in "Kentucky windage" style — "Aiming six inches behind a squirrel instead of changing the sight," McLeod said.

But she stresses she's strictly a bull's-eye shooter.

"I wouldn't want to kill anything. I'm satisfied putting holes in paper," she said.

Her favorite guns? "I like the .22," she said, "because it's a new toy."

Competitions traditionally involve eight hours of shooting, with a lunch break in between. The maximum attainable score is 2,700, she's scored a 2,583.

Serious shooters abstain from caffeine and tobacco, to keep the heart rate down for a steadier shot, McLeod said.

Trespass charge steams publisher

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

The publisher of a local newspaper was ticketed by CSX Transportation for trespassing and is scheduled to appear in 35th District Court at 9 a.m. Monday.

The offense is punishable by a maximum fine of $500.

Edward Wendover, publisher of The Community Crier, said he was photographing a Chessie steam engine Aug. 3 at the Starkweather rail yard when a CSX detective "having a bad hair day grabbed me. I demanded he call Plymouth police. He refused and handcuffed me, very harshly," he said.

CSX officials said the crowd was dispersed for safety reasons, and that Wendover refused to leave.

Wendover said he was among "probably 75 folks; men, women children and dogs" on hand to see the 100-year-old steamer. Some of onlookers had video cameras and were closer to the train than he was, Wendover said.

After being held for 45 minutes in a security van, Wendover was taken to the Plymouth police station by the CSX officer, who identified himself only as Patrolman Kaltz.

CSX Transportation spokesperson Kathy Burns said company policy bars disclosure of employees' names.

Posters reading "Free Wendover: He was railroaded," are popping up around town. They were produced by Bruce Mirto, a local insurance agent and friend of Wendover's.

Wendover says he'll request a jury trial.

Mirto plans to attend Monday's court hearing, perhaps with other members of the "Committee to Free the Plymouth One."

"We might turn up with picket signs and have an anti-railroad demonstration. Or maybe we'll block the next train that's coming, or have a citizens' revolt, since we all love the railroad in the city," Mirto said. "The railroad has held the citizenry hostage at four- and five-minute intervals for years."

CSX spokesperson Burns said the issue was security.

"There was a steam engine in the Plymouth yard on CSX private property," she said. "A crowd had gathered to see this steam engine. Our CSX police and special services officers were there to ensure not only the safety of CSX Transportation property, but also the personal safety of the individuals there.

"It was their job to disperse the crowd, because this was a yard where our trains were operating. The engine wasn't on a dedicated siding. It was a live yard situation."

Burns said Wendover, a Crier reporter, and other members of the crowd were asked to leave. "He resisted. He then apparently did make, or take action, to leave," she said. "But as soon as got he got into his vehicle, he turned around and came back. He was again asked to leave.

Air affair

State officials dither on Clean Air Act

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Regional and business leaders are getting nervous as the state House of Representatives delays voting on a local version of the federal Clean Air Act.

"It doesn't have any support," said Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, of the bill that is languishig on the House calendar after months of committee work.

Gov. John Engler supports a clean air bill, though reluctantly. "We're caught in a squeeze play — Washington mandates that west Michigan clean up its air by 1996 or face stiff sanctions," Engler said.

Service station dealers are opposing it. An aide to Rep. Mary Brown, R-Kalamazoo, says the bill is a must-pass measure that needs an education effort.

Under the 1990 federal Clean Air Act, Michigan must clean up its air some more. The list of "non-attainment" counties is up to 10 and includes three near Lake Michigan — Kent, Ottawa and Muskegon.

The western counties are balking because they say their dirty air comes from the Chicago area. "Residents in this area should not be mandated to clean up problems over which they have no control," said Rep. Harold Voorhees, R-Wyoming.

Centralized tests

For the seven counties in southeastern Michigan, the federal law means they must reduce air emissions 15 percent below 1990 levels.

Currently in the tri-county area, 1,400 auto service stations perform the annual $10-per-car chore of checking emissions levels. Under the Brown bill, advocated by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, centralized testing facilities would administer tougher emissions tests at a cost of about $30 every two years. Local stations would lose the work.

"Asking consumers to wait for hours for the test, pay three times more for it and drive miles just to get one — all for a program that may not work — is ludicrous and bad policy," said Terry Burns of the Service Station Dealers Association.

If Michigan fails to meet federal standards, say SEMCOG chiefs, three bad things can happen:

- The state can lose $500 million in federal highway aid.
- Smokestack permits for industries can be halted, throwing a monkey wrench in the state's economic recovery.
- The federal government would impose its own program.

In floor debate last month, Rep. Vincent Joe Porreca, D-Trenton, objected: "We're doing this for industry. It's not fair to my constituents to have to stand in line three hours so someone (industry) can be left off the hook."

"I don't much like this bill," added Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield. "I don't know if I'll vote for it, even if my amendments are adopted."

The bill was shoved aside late in July as the House passed 1994 budget bills and the school tax cut.

Bill supported

Michigan has until Nov. 15 to show the feds it is complying, and the clock is running. SEMCOG is fighting back charging the service stations with a "self-serving scare campaign based on half-truths."

Joining with SEMCOG, the seven-county regional planning agency, are the American Automobile Manufacturers Association, the Michigan Association of Manufacturers, Michigan Chemical Council, Michigan Chamber of Commerce, Detroit Edison Co. and Consumers Power Co.

So are several environmental groups: Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Eastern Michigan Environmental Action Council and Sierra Club.

John Amberger, SEMCOG executive director, offered this rebuttal to the service station dealers:

"The current AET test is outdated and produces a false failure rate as high as 30 percent because of significant engineering improvements in vehicles made in the past several years. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency — charged with enforcing the Clean Air Act — will not count results of the current or basic AET program against the 15 percent required emissions reduction.

"If a significant portion of the 15 percent is not realized from this AET program, then severe and costly restrictions on industrial emissions will be required."

To the dealers' charge that drivers will face long waits for tests, Amberger said drivers in Minnesota, which has centralized tests, wait an average of two minutes. Most testing areas can be put within 10 minutes of residents.

While the test may cost more, it will be required every two years instead of the current once-a-year. And in a 1991 survey, 96 percent of Minnesotans rated the waiting time good or very good, Amberger said.

New gas tax won't help roads, group says

None of the 4.3 cents per gallon Michigan motorists soon will pay on a gallon of gasoline will fix roads and bridges or fund public transportation, says a state interest group.

Citizens for Improved Transportation, a Lansing-based group of organizations dedicated to raising adequate funds for Michigan roads, bridges and mass transit systems, wants Michigan residents to know that President Clinton's fuel tax hike "doesn't give a dime" to transportation.

"Michigan's roads, bridges and mass transit systems are woefully under-funded," said Larry Martin of CIT. "It is important that no one confuse the intent of this federal gas tax increase. All of it is to pay off some of the debt racked up by years of free-spending by the federal government.

In contrast, Michigan's fuel taxes are constitutionally earmarked for roads and public transportation.

Martin said Michigan's roads and bridges continue to crumble faster than funds are available to fix them. "The fact is that Michigan is spending less now, in real dollars, on roads and bridges than 30 years ago. That's because the state gas tax has been locked at 15 cents a gallon for nearly a decade, while costs have skyrocketed and more fuel-efficient vehicles have taken to the roads.

Five other states now have lower gas tax rates than Michigan, according to a new survey by the Highway Users Federation in Washington. The July 1 survey shows that the average state gas tax is 18.1 cents per gallon versus Michigan's 15.

The most recent state to increase its gas tax is Ohio (by a penny a gallon, to 22 cents, effective July 1).

CIT said it is studying ways to raise adequate funds for Michigan roads and bridges. A new report soon will be issued rating the condition of Michigan roads and bridges.

Frito-Lay set to open area distribution center

A ground-breaking ceremony attended by company and township officials happened at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the site in the Metro West Industrial Park off of Sheldon Road just north of M-14.

"It's probably going to be open in January 1994," said Brian Coughlin, area product supply manager of Frito-Lay.

The distribution center will combine into one facility the operations formerly performed at smaller facilities in Waterford and Canton, he said.

The facility will be the central distribution center for Detroit and the suburbs and will employ 120.

The product is manufactured in Allen Park, Coughlin said.

From the Plymouth Township site, trucks will deliver Frito-Lay products to stores and supermarkets. Some product will also be warehoused at the site.

"When it is open it will be the largest facility of that type for Frito-Lay in the whole country — until a bigger one is built in suburban Chicago next year," Coughlin said.

The employees who worked at the Canton and Waterford sites "will come into the new building," he said.

The employees include sales representatives, truck drivers, and mechanics working in an on-site vehicle maintenance facility.

Cloverdale Dairy building houses new Chinese eatery

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Goodbye, Cloverdale; hello, Dinersty.

The owners of the Dinersty Chinese restaurant set in the former location of a historic Plymouth dairy opened this week.

Work on renovating the former Cloverdale Dairy began last year, and was completed last week. General partner Jimmy Hsiao described the restaurant as a family restaurant specializing in food from various regions of China.

"I think the location is good for us because it's not far from Ann Arbor," he said, where they already operate a Dinersty restaurant on Liberty Street.

"We looked around the area; nobody is offering the kind of service we can provide to the region," Hsiao said.

"Plymouth is very centered," he said, between Northville and Canton from where the owners also hope to draw customers.

As work to ready the restaurant continued Thursday, one could spot the restaurant's slogan on a menu: "If you can't get to Chinatown, Dinersty brings Chinatown to you."

A sign on the door read "Help wanted." Hsiao said the restaurant plans to hire 15-20 staff people.

Menu selections are displayed overhead behind the service counter, and range in price from around $4 to nearly $9.

Various Chinese regional food is represented, including Cantonese, featuring light Oriental dishes; offerings from the Peking region featuring more pastas; spicy Sichuan fare; "and some nouveau Chinese cuisine," Hsiao said.

The renovation of the inside included creating bigger windows for a well-lit look inside, gray and black tables and padded chairs, large beige planters and hanging plants.

The restaurant seats 85, Hsiao said.

The site was last open for business in January 1992, when owner Joyce Kallos who sold the dairy in 1989 to a Plymouth Township couple took over when they couldn't make scheduled payments.

"It's a bad location for a (dairy) manufacturing plant now; there's not much of a route," Kallos said then.

ROLL CALL REPORT

HOUSE

Clinton Economic Plan: The House approved, 218 for and 216 against, the Democratic plan to use higher taxes and slowed spending to restrain the growth of the national debt by $496 billion over five years through fiscal 1998.

The bill raises the federal levy on gasoline from 14.1 to 18.4 cents per gallon, taxes better-off Social Security recipients on a larger share of their benefits, and raises rates on taxable incomes above $115,000 for singles and $140,000 for couples, among other revenue measures.

Its biggest restraint on entitlements is to slow Medicare payments to doctors and hospitals by $56 billion over five years. It requires nearly $150 billion in discretionary spending slowdowns, in defense and other programs, but delays most of that restraint until late in the five-year cycle.

The measure also creates red ink. It increases spending for programs such as food stamps and childhood immunization. It forgoes future tax revenue by enlarging the earned income tax credit for the working poor, creating new tax breaks to attract economic development to blighted areas, and carving out several tax exemptions for a variety of special interests.

Supporter Robert Matsui, D-Calif., said: "Eighty-five percent of the tax increase will be paid by those families making $180,000 or more a year. In fact, somebody making between $30,000 and $40,000 a year will only have a $5-a-month increase in their taxes. Somebody making $75,000 to $100,000 . . . an increase in their taxes of $27 a month, and it's basically the gasoline tax."

Opponent Peter King, R-N.Y., called the measure "a repudiation by the president of the promises he made in his campaign - not to have a gasoline tax, not to raise taxes on the middle class. It is because of budgets such as this that the economy is going to be damaged and the people lose faith in their government."

A yes vote was to pass the bill. Area representatives voting yes were: Bob Carr, D-Pontiac; Dale Kildee, D-Flint; Sander Levin, S-Southfield; William Ford, D-Ypsilanti. Voting no: Joseph Knollenberg, R-Birmingham.

SENATE

National Service plan OK'd: By a vote of 58 for and 41 against, the Senate sent to conference with the House a bill (S 919) to begin President Clinton's national-service program at a three-year cost of $1.5 billion. Working for a new federal agency and local sponsoring organizations, participants 17 and older would perform up to 1,700 hours of community service each year, in return for up to $4,775 annually in higher education or job-training vouchers. They would get approximately minimum-wage pay, health and child-care benefits, and in some cases paid medical and family leave. National service is expected to enlist 47,000 workers by its third year.

Supporter John Glenn, D-Ohio, called national service "a coherent and cost-effective program that addresses both the needs of our nation and . . . of our young people."

Opponent Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said, "With a national debt of over $4.3 trillion, I question the advisability of authorizing a new, large program that we cannot afford."

A yes vote was to pass the bill. Michigan Sen. Carl Levin, D, voted yes. Sen. Donald Riegle, D, did not vote.

National Service remains 3-year plan: By a vote of 41 for and 52 against, the Senate rejected a Republican amendment to authorize the national service bill (S 919) for two years rather than the three years sought by President Clinton.

Supporter Bob Dole, R-Kan., said, "The American people are not demanding new spending programs" and are "looking for us to keep them as lean and tight as possible, at least until we find out whether or not they are going to work."

Opponent Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said three years was necessary to give national service ample time to attract large numbers of participants and prove itself.

A yes vote supported a two-year authorization for national service. Sens. Levin and Riegle voted no.

Not based on need: By a vote of 55 for and 31 against, the Senate killed a proposal to base national service educational vouchers on need, as is the case with most other federal payments for post-secondary education. Depending on family means, vouchers were to have ranged from $1,500 to $4,725 annually under the rejected amendment. The vote occurred during debate on S 919 (above).

Harris Wofford, D-Pa., said means testing of national service participants "undermines the central spirit of bringing Americans together in common service to the common good."

Sponsor Hank Brown, R-Colo., said his amendment would make scarce federal dollars available to a larger number of national service participants.

A yes vote opposed basing national service educational benefits on need. Levin and Riegle voted yes.

Ginsburg Confirmation: By a vote of 96 for and three against, the Senate confirmed Judge Ruth Ginsburg of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia as the 107th justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. Ginsburg, 60, will be paid $164,000 as an associate justice.

Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., praised Ginsburg as "one of the foremost defenders of the twin ideals which lie at the heart of our nation and our Constitution, fairness and equality."

Jesse Helms, R-N.C., criticized Ginsburg for her "outrageously simplistic and callous position" in support of abortion rights.

A yes vote was to put Ginsburg on the Supreme Court. Levin voted yes. Riegle did not vote.

Hackney Confirmation: By a vote of 76 for and 23 against, the Senate confirmed University of Pennsylvania President Sheldon Hackney to head the National Endowment for the Humanities. Hackney, 59, will earn $123,100 in the post. Critics questioned his support of free speech in incidents on his campus involving insults shouted at black coeds and the confiscation of a newspaper press run by black students protesting an editorial position.

Supporter James Jeffords, R-Vt., said Hackney "has assured me of his commitment to the freedom of expression, something he has adamantly advocated throughout his life."

UM-D to host open house at child care center

The University of Michigan-Dearborn Child Development Center will host an open house for its kindergarten program 5-6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 25.

Prospective fall kindergarten students and their families and other community members are invited. Kindergarten teachers and staff members will provide information about enrollment, tuition, scholarship and other topics.

Fall 1993 enrollment for the UM-Dearborn kindergarten program is open to all children who will have reached the age of 5 before Dec. 1, 1993. Full-time (8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.) and half-time (8 a.m. to noon) schedules are offered with full-time given priority. Extended care hours, 7:30-8 a.m. and 3:30-5:30 p.m. are available at an additional charge.

The open house will be held at the kindergarten classroom, Modular Building 29 on the Dearborn campus. The site is adjacent to the Henry Ford Estate cottages that house the Child Development Center.

TRAVELERS DIARRHEA, HOW TO AVOID IT

Many travelers develop diarrhea while on a trip for vacation or business. Diarrhea can spoil your trip and make it miserable. There is a high risk of diarrhea in traveling to some areas in particular, such as third world countries. A variety of organisms can cause diarrhea. While you are on a trip you should pay close attention to the preparations of foods and beverages. In most of the cases diarrhea will last only for a short period of time and stop spontaneously. In a few occasions the illness may become more severe and require immediate medical attention. Foods which sit in room temperature (sauces, salad, buffet offerings), untreated water and unpeelable fruits (grapes, berries) constitute unsafe foods to consume. There are some over-the-counter medications such as Bismoth subsalicylate (Pepto-Bismo) which can be taken prophylactically. If you are planning a trip especially to a high risk area it would be advisable to discuss it with your physician and seek advice regarding medication, if it becomes necessary.

Volunteers needed for food program

Volunteer drivers are needed to deliver Focus: HOPE monthly supplemental food packages to needy homebound senior citizens.

A commitment of a couple hours a month is needed.

Edna Jackson, Focus:HOPE volunteer manager, suggests that suburbanites who are unfamiliar with Detroit neighborhoods form delivery teams of at least three people. Volunteer teams should have their own vehicle, a Detroit city map and one team member must be able to carry 30 pounds of food.

For more information or find out about other volunteers activities, call 883-7440 weekdays between 8:30 am. and 5 p.m.

'Madonnathon' hits Southfield

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

Like Madonna's tasselled brassiere her popularity is on again, off again.

It's off according to local bookstores and record stores selling her controversial photo book,"Sex" and record stores selling "Erotica," her faltering new album.

This weekend, however, Madonnamania may heat up one more time.

Madonnathon '93 is back in Southfield for the second consecutive year and promoters hope the hype over the girl next door — Rochester Hills' material girl — continues.

Bassline Entertainment predicts triple the number of fans that came to last year's Madonna extravaganza. And last year 1,200 people from as far away as Portugal and Sweden came to Southfield. This year fans will trek from Mexico, Quebec and England, said Bruce Baron, organizer and promoter for Bassline.

Perhaps her local popularity needs the boost. Her newest record release, "Erotica," a 14 cut selection that came out this year isn't selling well, at least not in the past two months.

"It sold really well at first, like phenomenally well, but right now it's not selling at all," said Harmony House salesperson Tom Barratta.

"I think she's still popular, but I think her popularity did go down hill," Barratta said. "Of course when she comes out with a new release that will all change."

Michael Austin, manager of Waldenbooks at 12 Mile and Northwestern agreed, 'I think we'll see her around for awhile."

And if anyone didn't see Madonna bare all in her controversial book "Sex," don't run out to get it now. It's unavailable since only a limited number were available, said Austin. The Southfield Waldenbook outlet sold out before Christmas, about a month after its release.

Promoter Baron said Madonna's popularity is far from fading and will pick up momentum when her fall tour "The Girly Show" begins in London next month. She already has U.S. concert dates set up in Miami, New York and Chicago. No news yet of a local performance, he said.

The Madonnathon has captured the interest of numerous media outlets including MTV, People magazine and the ABC News program Day One — all will all be in Southfield to cover the event.

The Madonnathon kicks off on Saturday morning with several two hour bus tours to Madonna's childhood sites — including the parochial school where she reportedly had her mouth taped shut by nuns. The bus leaves from the Southfield Plaza Hotel at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 3:15 p.m. The 55-mile tour costs $35.

Also on Saturday at Menjo's Nightclub in Detroit there will be an all-male Madonna drag-lip synch contest at 10:45 p.m. Madonna and Christopher Flynn went to Menjo's in the 1970s. Part of the proceeds will benefit the Midwest AIDS Prevention Project. Cover charge for the MAPP benefit is $4 at the door.

A Collectors Expo will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Plaza Hotel. Dealers will sell rare Madonna collectibles. Also, a Madonna art competition, lip synch and a female Madonna look-a-like show will be featured. Cover is $5.

On Monday — Madonna's 35th birthday — the Tel-X theater at Telegraph and 10 Mile Road will feature Madonna Movie-rama beginning at noon. Three Madonna films will be shown.

Finally, the Madonnathon wraps up with a birthday bash at the Industry nightclub in Pontiac at 9 p.m. "Erotica" leatherwear fashion will be featured by models from Noir Leather of Royal Oak. Cover is $5.

Faust wins

Senator gets access to state accident fund

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Democratic state Sen. William Faust has won access to Accident Fund records withheld by the Engler administration.

Ingham Circuit Judge William Collette ruled last week that state Insurance Commissioner David Dykhouse is required by the Freedom of Information Act to disclose contents of a financial analysis of the Accident Fund, a state-owned workers comp insurer.

"We believe that Gov. John Engler and Senate Republicans are covering up the fact that the fund is keeping rates higher than the law allows and is hiding a windfall profit of millions of dollars that would go to the purchaser of the fund," said Faust, of Westland.

Engler wants, and the Senate has passed, bills to allow sale of the Accident Fund, founded in 1912. Engler contends government shouldn't be in the insurance business.

William Faust

Faust and some Democrats have fought the sale, arguing it would be a financial windfall to a favored buyer.

The accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand made the financial analysis in 1991. The administration denied Faust's request on the ground that the Senate or a committee — not individual senators — should have filed the request.

The administration also denied access on the ground that confidential information was involved. Faust argued that the Accident Fund, as a state agency, was subject to FOIA, not the Insurance Code.

Blues want to bid

Meanwhile, debate raged in House corridors about whether Blue Cross-Blue Shield should be allowed to bid on the Accident Fund, as allowed in a Senate bill.

Doug Cruce, president of the Michigan Insurance Federation, opposes a Blues bid. "Blue Cross was set up by state law and given special protection from competition to carry out a specific function — provide general health care to the widest possible group of Michigan residents. It was not established to provide workers' compensation insurance to state businesses," said Cruce, a former state senator from Troy.

MIF argues that Blue Cross is a quasi-public company with a board of directors appointed by the governor. Nancy McKeague, lobbyist for the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, said that selling to the Blues would fail to achieve the goal of privatizing the Accident Fund because the Blues "operate under legislative control as a quasi-public tax-exempt institution."

Under Blues ownership, she said, the Accident Fund "would continue to be subject to the same political pressure and premium manipulation the chamber first criticized under the Blanchard administration."

E.L. Cox, executive director of the Accident Fund, would not comment on the fund's value.

The Senate bills ask a minimum bid of $100 million. Legislative analysts peg the value at $275 million. The Blues reportedly has placed the value at $250 million.

S'craft fund-raiser features area eateries

The Schoolcraft College Foundation presents it second annual Culinary Extravaganza from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19, in the school's Waterman Campus Center.

Joe Muer, restaurant owner, is the event's honorary chairman for the second year, along with co-chairwomen Betty Jean Awrey of Awrey Bakery in Livonia and Jean Shapero of Northville.

All proceeds will fund culinary arts scholarships.

The following restaurants and beverage corporations will offer a gourmet taste of their appetizers, entrees, desserts, wines and liquors: 2 Unique Caterers, Acadia, American Harvest, Booldes, Cafe Bon Homme, Cafe Cortina, Canteen Corp. Caucas Club, Central Distributors of Beer, Charley's Crab, Cherry Blossom, Chez Pierre, Chimayo, Courthouse Brasserie, Cocina Del Sol, DaVinci's Market at the Novi Hilton, DePalma's Diamond Jim Brady's, Edward's Caterer of Northville, Elite Sweets, Exaclibur, Fox & Hounds, Golden Mushroom, Good Time Party Store, Gratzi, Heavenly Bakery and Jacques Demer's.

Raffle prizes will be awarded throughout the day.

Tickets are $35 per person and can be reserved by calling Schoolcraft's Institutional Advancement office 462-4417. Visa, MasterCard, Discover and personal checks are accepted.

AROUND CANTON

Committee needs sponsors

The Canton Beautification Committee is asking local businesses to participate in a program to recycle telephone books as an environmental awareness effort and to raise money for the group.

The committee is working with Ameritech Publishing to set up a "DirectoRecycle" program in Canton.

Ameritech has agreed to pledge 10 cents for each directory, up to $1,000 to the beautification committee. The group would use the money to underwrite printing of the group's annual awareness activity book, which is distributed to third graders in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The books offer lessons and tips about beautification for the district's social studies curriculum.

Committee members are asking for Canton businesses to serve as collection points for the used directories. The group also needs volunteer help to transport telephone books to the recycling facility.

Committee members are hoping to get the program off the ground this fall. For more information about the program or to volunteer call committee member Pam Swiderick, 453-1122.

Family trip

Canton residents are invited to join a trip to Cedar Point, Saturday, Aug. 14, sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation Services.

The trip, for Canton residents only, is $23 per person, which includes admission to Cedar Point and bus transportation. Space, however, is limited.

The bus will leave the Canton Township Administration parking lot at 7:30 a.m. and return at approximately 10:30 p.m.

BY SUE BUCK
STAFF WRITER

The cling and clang of pinball machines has always been music to Dr. Jim Schelberg's ears.

But it wasn't until Schelberg's wife, Marilyn, bought him his first pinball machine for his 40th birthday four years ago that he could enjoy the game privately.

"It was hard to find one as old as he wanted," she said. "I wanted something from the mid-'50s and early '60s, from when we were kids. It was his 40th birthday . . . you know, the proverbial second childhood."

Schelberg of Farmington Hills loves "taking dirty, junky stuff apart and cleaning all the little parts. It takes getting into detail, like taking a couple lines off a coil to make it more powerful."

Schelberg's interest quickly grew. The podiatrist with a practice in Plymouth is now editor of the two-year-old pinGame journal, a monthly magazine, with 900 subscribers around the world, including Italy, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Australia, France and Germany.

"I'm the world authority on pinball," Schelberg said. "I get calls from all over the world. There's only one magazine and I write it."

The Schelbergs have two children — David, 10, listed as the magazine's "youth adviser," and Jonathan, 4.

One game in the Schelberg basement, called "Nip It," is the same type seen at Arnolds's in the "Happy Days" TV program, Schelberg said.

In the April/May 1993 issue, a letter that Marilyn Schelberg, a non-player, wrote to Don Moser, editor of The Smithsonian magazine, is reprinted.

Marilyn refers to herself as a "pinball widow."

"Pinball machines are fascinating from a cultural point of view," she wrote. "Their themes and artwork tend to reflect what is currently fashionable in our society at large, from the pin-up girls and cowboys and Indians of the '30s and '40s, to the bell-bottom pants and the space program of the '60s and '70s and to the current focus and influence of television programs and the rest of the entertainment industry. Looking at the machines over the years is like taking a course in pop culture."

While she often deplores the "male orientation and female distortions," she finds many of the artists to be "highly talented."

Salvation Army official stresses efficient service

BY DIANE GALE
STAFF WRITER

Howard Matthews wants to help everyone who walks through Salvation Army doors in Plymouth, but don't expect him to blindly sign over a blank check.

In fact, when he took on the job as director of social services more than a year ago he developed a form that would help the agency understand exactly who they're helping, identify their needs and share information with other service providers.

It also helps weed out the people who are trying to beat the system. This safeguard, he said, allows him to solicit money with a clear conscience.

"The purpose of it is for us to make an intelligent decision on how to help and in some cases not help individuals with their needs, Matthews, a Troy resident, said.

"When I say not help, it would be important to footnote that we never turn people away for things like food and so forth. We can be wrong in our judgments and food is such a basic need," Matthews, 31, said.

"Here in Plymouth, the people who come to see me are for the most part who they say they are. They're very needy. It's a rare instance where we so call catch someone. But it could be that we have put these reasonable checks and balances into the system."

Helping people doesn't always mean a hand out. Sometimes it involves counseling and pointing them in the direction of programs, like Gov. John Engler's social contract requiring most people on public assistance to work part time, attend school or be involved in job training.

"We encourage people to take advantage of that, not to do it because they have to, but because it's the best thing," Matthews said. "We try to recommend ways they can solve their problems."

Growing up in a family of 16 children, Matthews knows the troubles many of these people face. He knows what it's like to have needs, to have the utilities shut-off, and to "scrape the bottom of the bowl," he said.

"That has helped me to treat people with the respect and dignity that people deserve and I try to treat them the way I would want to be treated," he said.

A lot of people don't realize the Salvation Army is not just a social welfare agency, but a place where you can get spiritual counseling and needs, he said. The programs are based on the Judeo Christian value system.

Matthews and his siblings found ways out of poverty through their religious beliefs and strong family unit. Their successes include six siblings who work in various church ministries; a Harvard graduate; a data processor and a general manager of an ambulance company. Matthews was also voted class president of Royal Oak's Dondero High School.

"Really my mother is the one who should get all the credit," he said. "Her name is Mary and to me she is St. Mary. She has sacrificed her life for her children."

And just like the members of his family, some of the people who go to the Salvation Army for help turn their lives around.

Recently a single mother visited the Plymouth office and blurted out that she needed someone to talk to. The Canton woman told Matthews she was afraid she was going to hurt one of her five children.

"She was exhausted and she wanted someone to give her some stress management skills," he said. "Along the way I found I could help her with food and rent assistance."

He also set up a program with her children by assigning them chores. If they kept it up for a month they would be awarded with a night out for pizza. They also talked about appropriate ways she could discipline her children.

"Just recently she's been in to say thank you," Matthews said.

Millage

Voters should reject increase

It's tough to accept, especially when children are involved, but when Plymouth-Canton voters said no to more school taxes in June, we believe they meant no.

School trustees — the policy-makers in this district — haven't done anything in the last two months to change many minds. The current millage campaign was poorly timed and poorly executed.

Although we supported the last request, after it was defeated we urged the board to restructure the request, make some changes and listen to the public. That didn't happen.

In a district that says it needs more money, the board approved salary increases for teachers and administrators. It appears that the school board believes it's OK for taxpayers to make sacrifices they are unwilling to make themselves.

Voters on Tuesday, Aug. 17, should send yet another message to the board and reject the 4-mill property tax increase proposal on the Plymouth Canton school ballot.

The tragedy is that the school district had a chance to win voters over but has done nothing to address the concerns of "no" voters.

The board ignored a study of "no" voters done by the schools. The study said about 50 percent of voters mistrust the schools. The survey didn't even ask voters why they voted "no."

Plymouth Canton teachers received a 25-percent pay hike in the last four years and were asked to give back a 3-percent pay hike scheduled for fall.

The teachers refused. If they had given a portion of that raise back, it would have told voters teachers are willing to make sacrifices for education.

School administrators aren't blameless. In a year when the education finance system is coming apart, administrators took a 5-percent pay hike. Granted, 2 percent of that was deferred from the previous year.

While teachers and administrators are taking raises, they're asking the public to take a pay cut, about $200 a year for an average home in Canton or Plymouth. That's the cost of the 4-mill increase.

The school board is also at fault. After voters rejected the 4-mill increase, the board put the same question back on the Aug. 17 ballot. It's too much.

The message sent was: We don't care why people voted no; we gave the teachers and administrators raises, and now you have to pay for it.

If the teachers had taken a one-year pay freeze, the administrators had done the same, and the board had asked for a lower millage increase, it would have told voters the schools are acknowledging the public vote.

It will be the children who suffer from a millage defeat — not administrators and not teachers. No, there probably won't be a band or sports in the fall.

However, it's time to change the mind-set in this district.

Voters shouldn't be made to feel guilty about this. It's the education industry that's using children as a shield in their raids on the public trough.

It's certainly not the best way to force educational improvements, but it appears to be the only method the public has when dealing with the educational establishment.

Paper's role makes sense

Webster's New World Dictionary

We are a newspaper.

We consider it our job to bring you the news of your community.

We cover government, schools, police and fire, business, sports, entertainment, the arts and the individual residents who make your community what it is.

We also give you our opinions on local issues.

We know you look to us for this kind of information.

For us, this goes beyond being a business matter of dollars and cents, since our parent group of newspapers, Suburban Communications Corp., also publishes "shoppers." It is an issue of what constitutes a newspaper and what can be counted on to give the public legitimate notice on a regular basis.

Recently the state House of Representatives passed a pair of bills that would lower our standards for informing the public. They would allow your local "shopper" — that's a paper with little or no news content — to run the so-called legal and public notice advertising that up to now has been limited to newspapers which carry at least 25 percent editorial content.

That's contrary to the way other states and the federal government regulate this issue. And it's contrary to a number of state court rulings that have required that a publication be published regularly (usually daily or weekly) and that it contain information appealing to the general public.

NEWSpapers have a responsibility to cover news and inform readers. People subscribe to most newspapers; or they buy them on the newsstands. ADpapers or shoppers just "show up," or sometimes they don't.

Local representatives who said "shoppers" are an appropriate vehicle to provide the public with legitimate public notice are: Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills; Barbara Dobb, R-West Bloomfield; Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak; Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights; Lyn Bankes, R-Livonia; Deborah Whyman, R-Canton; and Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills.

Reps. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, and William Keith, D-Garden City, did not vote.

We are hopeful that the Senate will refuse to pass these bills once they come out of committee. Area Sens. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Oxford; William Faust, D-Westland; Robert Geake, R-Northville; David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield; and Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, reportedly will vote against them.

Area Sens. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, and George Hart, D-Dearborn are still uncommitted. So it's important to let them know that you want the legal public notices of your community, school district or county published in a newspaper you count on for news and make a choice to read.

Taxpayers should wake up

Take a drive out and around the school complex at Joy and Canton Center Roads and see where the school taxes are going. The grounds have been torn up by earth movers and bulldozers building new earth berms and tearing up the tennis courts for new parking access, renovating the entrance way off of Canton Center Road, relocating light posts for parking areas; installing drainage pipe and sprinkler system for soccer field and sodding the soccer field.

After the 4 mill, 2 year millage proposal lost in the last election within 2 weeks a large article appeared in the Plymouth Observer stating that Plymouth-Canton had found a million dollars in the school funds and that they could now recall 10 teachers and six administrators. We have people working to watch our money and expenses at $75,000 — $80,000 a year who cannot make ends meet. A year or two ago it was the same department that let a lot on the south border of the school property slip into the Property for Sale tax roles and was bought up by an individual. The person who bought it wanted a price and the School Board was trying to come to an agreement to buy it back. What the outcome was, I do not know as there was nothing further in the Plymouth Observer. This transaction should have been printed, as the txpayers who are paying the freight have a right to know where their money is going.

When John Hoben and many others who have made a lucrative living off the school taxes retire, they will move to Florida, Nevada, Arizona or some other state and take their money, pension and Social Security with them to spend elsewhere. They will not be putting any money into the Plymouth area economy.

I suggest one way to run this system in a sensible, non-slip shod operation would be to sublet all grass cutting and snow removal. That would eliminate some pensions and health insurance costs which are growing in leaps and bounds.

There are lots of ways that small percentages in reductions can be applied. I say all taxpayers should wake up and smell the coffee before it's too late. They are asking for 4 mills for 2 years and then they will want to renew or increase it in 1995. People whose household has increased in size have to make their working dollar stretch and cut the meat a little thinner. It seems to me that the operation of Plymouth-Canton schools are led by a few people who are constipated with intelligence instead of good old common horse sense.

The Superintendent of Schools has as many perks and fringes as a man with all his money invested in a small business — $7,200 a year for a Cadillac — what a comedy.

I am voting no and think you should too or you won't have a roof over your head in a few years.

P.S. They also removed a good cable TV tower by the athletic field and are in the process of installing a larger and taller new one. What a waste of money. I may be wrong but it is all part of the operation.

G. Neiman, Plymouth

Teachers overpaid

Looking at my summer property tax, it indicates a yearly increase of about $180 to support our school system in Plymouth Canton area. This is an increase of about 2 mills. Why does the school system still need an additional 4 mills? Is it so that our already overpaid school teachers can again hold us hostage for another salary increase? Teachers in our district earn as much as $10,000 for nine months more than teachers in other districts. If teachers really care, when are they going to make concessions instead of threats? Teaching is the only occupation I can think of whose salary is based not on performance but on the ability of the taxpayers in the district to pay them, and they wonder why we don't trust them.

Higher taxes don't sell homes.

Z. M. Taylor, Plymouth

Can't fight city hall

On June 23, 1992, my business was wrongfully entered by State of Michigan District court officer Larry P. Mullen and another rude, obnoxious court officer, several Canton Police officers and a locksmith. I was informed they were here as a result of a default judgment and they were to lock my business.

I informed them the judgment had been satisfied two weeks earlier and I showed them a copy of the receipt. Mr. Mullen's associate was very rude and said he had a job to do and had wasted enough time. Get the people out of the gym; change the locks and go. He would not listen, nor cared that I had a receipt.

The end result was I had to pay the officer again. They left my business after nearly 45 minutes of humiliation, and damaging comments only to find that the 35th District Court had made a mistake. The court, embarrassed by their error, called World Gym's attorney and requested us to come back in and get our money back.

I find it unbelievable that the 35th District Court kept $380.00 of my business' money for court costs, and would not write a letter of apology for the disruption to my business. I feel that in situations such as this municipalities should not be immune to legal action for such gross negligence. But I guess this falls under the heading "You Can't Fight City Hall?"

Judge McDonald and the 35th District Court owe my business no less than a public written apology.

POINTS OF VIEW

Schools need tough love

GUEST COLUMNIST

JERRY VORVA

When I think of how to make representative government better (which includes school boards, and administrators they hire), I can't help but think of the parenting analyogy.

No matter what age our children are, we keep an eye on them and constantly interact with them. Likewise, we should not elect our school boards and not interact or keep an eye on them.

The recent news is full of parents falling down on the job (small child drowning in a tub while not being watched by father; the small children playing with a shotgun resulting in one's death while the grandfather slept on the job). Accordingly, we have seen many school districts poorly run from both financial and academic points with very detrimental results — and guess what? We have to, as electors, assume some of the blame.

Frequently, as we raise our children, doing the right thing is giving a little tough love and we have to say no, but just saying no would be an incomplete job. The no, as we have learned, is followed up by explanation and discussion as to why and what other alternatives are available. Inasmuch as we have been overly permissive with our school boards and administrators, due to our devoted love of our children, the time has come to exercise some tough love and say no.

Again, we must work with our elected school officials to assist them in making some of the tough political decisions that result from our actions.

Remember, over the past decade the cost of educating our children in our district has quickly escalated, while the overall enrollment is down by 1,300 students for the same period. Just this year the schools will be receiving several million dollars more from us locally (via our increased double-digit assessments) than they did last year.

We have given well enough financially; now is the time to give our personal time and ideas to assist them. So, on Aug. 17, do the right thing and say no.

Jerry Vorva is a Plymouth resident and a Republican state representative for Plymouth. He voted yes when the state House approved eliminating property taxes as funding for schools.

Board tells why vote should be yes

The Board of Education has heard from you in many ways. We have had phone calls, personal conversations, letters and group discussions. We are just as concerned as you are about controlling costs and providing an effective education for our children.

We have been successful in keeping costs low when compared with other Wayne County districts — our spending per pupil ranks 20th out of 34.

Regardless of our past performance, however, we will consider very carefully what you have told us about pay increases, benefits and other controllable costs.

We also are very aware of the vote on June 14. We want to thank you for your support of the millage renewal. That vote was extremely important to our students. While many of you voted against the proposed increase, the board was strongly encouraged by parents and students to give them one more chance to pass the 4 mill increase. Parents, students and the board believe that without this millage the educational quality in our community will suffer.

There are four points that we ask you to consider before you vote on Aug. 17:

- This millage will be for only one year. While the ballot will continue to read "two years," the state's action in abolishing the property tax for school funding will cancel the second year. Therefore, you will actually be voting for four mills for one year.
- Your board, by formal resolution, unanimously agreed to levy less than the four mills if the state does not shift all the FICA and one third of the retirement cost to us next year. Any reduction will be based on what the state does in the state aid act. This probably will not be known until late September. Any reduction will appear in your winter taxes.
- We will continue to work with our legislators to provide them with information about the needs of our schools. This is crucial as they work to design a new school system for the state and to bring about new funding for schools.
- We also are working with the other 10 largest school districts in the state to make recommendations to the governor and the legislature that will help them in designing a system that provides quality, equity, local control, adequate funding and cost controls.

■ We unanimously believe that passage of the August millage request is imperative if we are to maintain quality education in Plymouth-Canton. We are just trying to do what is best for the future of our children and our community.

We unanimously believe that passage of the August millage request is imperative if we are to maintain quality education in Plymouth-Canton. We are just trying to do what is best for the future of our children and our community.

If you have questions or ideas, we encourage you to contact any of us. While we as individuals cannot speak for the board, we will be pleased to share your thoughts with other board members.

School board has been poor steward of tax dollars

GUEST COLUMNIST

GEORGE HOLDEFER

The Plymouth-Canton school board was elected to represent the district's residents, but they have done a much better job of representing the administrators and teachers. Instead of reducing the "cost" side of the equation, the board continues to focus on the "revenue" side. The problem is not the lack of revenue increases — it is clearly the excessive spending via unwarranted pay increases that the board has granted to administrators and teachers. The school board obviously has focused on providing an ever-increasing standard of living for the employees of the district at the direct expense of the standard of living of the area's residents.

The proposed 4-mills on the Aug. 17 ballot would raise everyone's taxes by an additional 11.2 percent for operating millage. The district's taxpayers already are faced with large tax increases resulting from higher assessments. If the proposed 4-mill increase were to pass, my taxes for operating millage would increase by more than 21 percent this year. The total taxes would sky-rocket for everyone. And the board has developed no solution to the problem to contain costs once any two-year "temporary" millage were to expire.

Trust is the key issue. Our school board has repeatedly shown itself to be exceptionally poor stewards of tax dollars. The board has needlessly granted millions of dollars in unwarranted pay increases to the district's administrators and teachers. While inflation has averaged only 3-4 percent since 1990, the school board granted all administrators annual 7 percent pay increases for 1990-92 and 5 percent increases for both 1993 and 1994. The board also granted similar pay increases to teachers of 7 percent in 1990, 6 percent in 1991, 7 percent in 1992 and 3 percent this year. In any one year, pay increases greatly in excess of inflation would be hard to justify — but it continues unabated.

While these negotiated pay increases have averaged twice the rate of inflation, they reveal only half of the story. Few people realize that, through the "generosity" of the school board, only those employees paid at the maximum (e.g., $59,100 for teachers and much higher for administrators) and "limited" to pay increases that are "merely" two times the rate of inflation. The truth is that the majority of these employees also receive a second-annual increase that is at least equal to the negotiated pay increases. This second-annual increase automatically raises teacher's pay from the minimum of their pay scale ($29,800) to the maximum in 10 years. The combined effect of these two annual increases is four times the rate of inflation. How many of the area's residents have had sustained pay increases that have averaged two to four times the rate of inflation over a five-year period?

The average salary for Plymouth-Canton teachers is 45 percent higher than the average paid nationally to teachers ($51,300 vs. $35,300). How many of the area's residents believe that they are paid 45 percent above what other people receive nationally for doing comparable work?

If the board, administrators and teachers truly had the best interest of the students at heart, they would negotiate a two-year salary freeze which would still result in all employees receiving pay increases during a five year period (1990-1994) that exceed both inflation and the average pay increases received by most of the area's residents during this period. Average salaries for the district's administrators and teachers in 1994-95 would still be about 40 percent above the U.S. average, while the "savings" from a two-year pay freeze would permit continuation of all extracurricular activities.

Does anyone really believe that the board has resolved its unjustified spending habits? While I am concerned about the quality of our educational program, we can't afford to keep throwing money at this problem with absolutely no solution in sight.

Engler's education costs containment is still alive

TIM RICHARD

■ Gov. Engler cannot agree to replacing all $6 billion in lost property taxes with other taxes. There must be a net reduction for him to use the slogan 'Promises Made, Promises Kept.'

Back in March, when state legislators were negotiating Proposal A, I obtained an outline of one of the plans where item 9 was crossed over with black lines and labeled "OUT."

"That," said a lawmaker, "is what Engler wanted." Item 9 was labeled "Legislation to help contain K-12 operating costs."

Voters flushed down Proposal A on June 2, so now lawmakers have started over by repealing $6 billion in school operating property taxes. Gov. John Engler's item 9 is very much alive. And the Michigan Education Association should be sweating.

Now, to understand collective bargaining, you need to grasp that there are three parties: management, the union and the workers. The union bargains not only for what workers want, but for what the union wants.

So it is with MEA. The school employees union bargains not just for health care benefits, but for the carrier. It insists the carrier be its subsidiary, MESSA, for Michigan Education Special Services Association.

I don't comprehend all the details, but it seems MESSA, with a staff of 200-plus, markets Blues health care. Then MESSA buys $8 million in computer services from another MEA subsidiary. (I draw this data from the famed June 7 Forbes magazine article.) MEA, MESSA and the data subsidiary share the same switchboard.

So you see that MEA staff jobs, not just teachers' issues, are at stake here.

Engler has promised to reduce property taxes along with a net reduction in the cost of government in Michigan. Therefore, he cannot agree to replacing all $6 billion in lost property taxes with other taxes. There must be a net reduction for him to use the slogan "Promises Made, Promises Kept."

The first point under item 9, containing school operating costs, is "Requirements to bid out health care insurance for school employees."

Next point is to "Reform teacher tenure laws." Senate Republicans have pushed through those bills. They would 1) lengthen the probationary period, 2) require annual performance evaluations during probation, 3) require individual development plans for the teacher and 4) revise the hearing process in teacher tenure cases, shortening it to 300 days from nearly 1,600 days. In the last point, the goal is to keep school boards from "buying out" bad teachers in order to avoid the prolonged hearing process.

The third point is to require school districts to bid out such work as busing, maintenance, driver's education, nursing and social services rather than hire school employees (represented by MEA).

Fourth point is to penalize districts for 1/180th of their state aid for every day of a teachers' strike. As it is, MEA strikers are assured 180 days of work a year, unlike auto, steel and utilities workers.

Those are Engler's agenda points, not necessarily mine. If I were running the show, two other goals would emerge:

- Reduce the number of school districts from 562 to maybe 200. The average school district in Michigan has 3,500 pupils and supports a superstructure of administrators and principals. A 200 district plan would save money and allow the offering of a more specialized high school curriculum.
- Prohibit school district employees from serving on any board of education, college board or in the Legislature until 10 years after they have left the school payroll. We have too many school people sitting on both sides of the bargaining and budgeting tables.

Engler and the Legislature, by cutting school property taxes, have taken the most dramatic step in Michigan government since passage of the sales tax during the Great Depression. Even bigger changes are coming.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events. His office phone is (313) 349-1700.

'Cook the Brook' outing to help rescue Rouge River

Efforts to restore and protect the Rouge River will get a boost on Aug. 14 and 15 when the new owners of Bonnie Brook Golf Club host "Cook the Brook," a fun-filled golf outing and chicken barbecue to benefit Friends of the Rouge.

"Cook the Brook" will feature golf and a complete chicken barbecue meal for just $29.95 for two, plus fund-raising contests to benefit Friends of the Rouge, organizers of the annual Rouge Rescue cleanup of the Rouge River.

"We're proud that the Rouge River adds to the beauty and challenge of our golf course," said Tom McManaman, co-owner with his brother, Jack, of the club located at the intersection of Telegraph and Eight Mile roads.

"We want everyone who cares about the environment to come out to Bonnie Brook on Aug. 14 or 15 to enjoy a day on the course, a great meal, and a chance to contribute to the renewal of an important natural resource — our Rouge River."

For $29.95 two people will get nine holes of golf and a barbecue chicken dinner complete with corn on the cob, special baked potato, and coleslaw. Singles can enjoy the golf/meal deal for $15 each.

"Cook the Brook" will tee off from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 14 or 15.

Call Bonnie Brook at 313-538-8383 for reservations. While on the course, golfers will have an opportunity to contribute to Friends of the Rouge and receive gifts through various shot-making competitions, such as closest to the pin. There will also be a chance to receive free memberships in the Bonnie Brook Golf Clubs, valued at $1,500 each.

Bonnie Brook, once a dairy farm and chocolate factory, is celebrating its 75th anniversary as a golf club this year. Friends of the Rouge, a community-based non-profit organization founded in 1986, is dedicated to promoting restoration and protection of the Rouge River through education and citizen involvement.

On June 5, nearly 2,500 volunteers braved wet and cold weather to take part in the eighth annual Rouge Rescue, clearing the river and its banks of logjams and debris, planting trees, creating wood chip trails, placing nesting boxes for birds, ducks and bats, and stenciling storm drains with warnings against dumping toxic materials like motor oil, anti-freeze and paint.

The Friends of the Rouge Education Project teaches students in elementary, middle and high schools about water pollution and takes them on field trips to the Rouge to monitor the river's water quality.

Vardar teams triumph

Vardar III Soccer Club's under-18 and under-14 boys won championships in the AAU Junior Olympic Games in Knoxville, Tenn.

The under-18 team defended its title with a 6-1 win over Knoxville United in the final. The first half ended in a scoreless tie, but Vardar increased its effort after conceding the first goal.

Scott Rooney (two), John Truskowski, Matt Suckley, Adam Pichler and Caleb Porter scored goals for Vardar, which defeated the Nashville Sting in the semifinals.

Tom Baker, Mike Giese and Tony Jones were named to the all-tournament team. Other members of the under-18 team are Chad Kingsbury, Alan Placek, Mike Reynaert, Mike Wdowiak and Rick Weinberg.

The under-14 team defeated the Miami Strike Force in the final, 5-0. Ryan Gibbs scored three Vardar goals in the championship game, Kirk Hodges and Corey Woolfolk one each.

Both teams are coached by Mark Christensen.

Canton softball champs

Mexican Fiesta, which sneaked into the men's softball league playoffs by winning its last regular-season game, used a six-run first inning to overpower Rusty Nail and win the Canton Parks and Recreation championship, 16-5.

During its post-season roll, Mexican Fiesta defeated GMAC (23-7), Selimis (16-6), American Yazaki (19-13) and Rusty Nail (12-7) before suffering its only loss in the double-elimination tournament to eventual runner-up Rusty Nail (5-4).

Charity golf shootout

The Ronald McDonald Children's Charities Hole-In-One Shootout will be Aug. 13-22 at Country Club Village in Northville (Haggerty and Six Mile roads).

The event is open to all individuals who are not professional golfers. For a $5 daily entry fee, participants will receive three golf balls to try their luck at the 110-yard qualifying hole. Additional balls will cost $1 apiece.

The five participants who are closest to the pin or make a hole-in-one each day will win prizes and advance to the finals. There will be 45 finalists. Men finalists will shoot from a distance of 160 yards, women from 150.

For more information, call Country Club Village at 420-0144.

Travelers run short of heroics in tournament

The VFW Travelers, with the help of Canton brothers Scott and Dave Kapla, fought their way through the AABC regional tournament in Battle Creek only to fall short of the finai Sunday.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Of three area teams in the tournament, the VFW Travelers made the strongest bid for the AABC regional championship in Battle Creek.

The Travelers, with 11 players from communities serviced by the Observer and Eccentric newspapers, were one game away from the final when they were eliminated Sunday.

VFW, which won four straight games after losing its first, suffered its second loss when Youngstown (Ohio) scored a run in the bottom of the 11th inning to break a 1-1 tie.

The Travelers had a stellar pitching effort by Scott Kapla, who returned late Saturday from Pennsylvania where he had played with Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury in the AAABA regional and drove to Battle Creek in time for the 12:30 p.m. Sunday start.

Kapla (Canton) went the distance, scattering six hits, despite having been bothered by a sore arm while pitching for Hines Park earlier in the summer.

"After every inning, I kept asking him 'Scotty, how do you feel,' " VFW manager Dick Henry said. "He kept saying 'I'll go another inning.' He ended up going all the way.

"I figured he took us this far; it was his game to win or lose. I had nobody on the bench who could throw any better than he was at that point."

The Travelers scored first and should have won the game in seven innings, according to Henry. Jeff Lance (Redford), who had two hits, scored the run on a single by Derek Besco (Westland).

Youngstown tied the score in the fourth when a miscommunication caused a flyball to drop between third base and left field, allowing a runner to score from first. VFW left 14 runners on base in scoring position.

Dave Kapla (Canton) made a big defensive play in the bottom of the seventh to preserve the tie and send the game into extra innings. His throw from center field gunned down a runner at home plate, and his brother struck out the next batter to

Racer resigns as Madonna softball coach

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Dave Racer sounded more like the All-State Insurance man than the outgoing Madonna University women's softball coach Monday.

He said the program has been left in good hands, but to whom?

Racer, who helped build the program into a varsity sport, unexpectedly submitted his resignation late last month to athletic director Ray Summers.

Racer stepped down citing conflicts with business commitments.

He owns Westland Tree Service, which contracts work out to six different suburban cities.

"I'm doing a lot of work right now and I'm out on the job more," said Racer, who compiled an overall record of 62-60 during his three-year stint. "We're putting in a bid with the City of Dearborn and that would increase my business significantly.

"But I'll always like coaching, and when I'm out, I'm sure I'll miss it."

The Lady Crusaders finished under .500 last spring (18-26 overall), made a run in the NAIA District 23 playoffs before losing the championship game to to Northwood Institute, 2-1.

Several key players return from that runnerup squad.

"I hate to put pressure on the new coach, but they should have the strongest pitching and strongest outfield since I've been there," Racer said. "It should be a good team."

Summers said he will "conduct a thorough search" to find a replacement.

"Dave did a super job," Summers said. "He's a good friend, but he's also a good coach. He established women's softball here. His dedication will be unmatched as far as his love for the game."

Racer said he has not ruled out the possibility of returning to coaching. He has been rumored to replace Mark LaPointe for the Plymouth Canton baseball job.

World tourney performance leaves Finesse disappointed

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

SOFTBALL

The world tournament didn't produce the favorable result Finesse had envisioned for itself in the USSSA slo-pitch girls 18-and-under event in Muncie, Ind.

Finesse, with a roster composed almost entirely of area players, was the No. 1-seeded team entering the tournament but finished with a 2-2 record and was eliminated Saturday.

The team that won the world championship with an unbeaten record, the Club Hollywood Flames from Euclid (Ohio), was the same team Finesse had beaten to win the state title.

"We never played them, but it was their weekend and not ours," Finesse manager Barry Patterson said. "Our expectations were real high, which makes it more disappointing when you do lose."

Furthermore, Finesse had mercied four of the top six teams during the regular season. Finesse, which placed first or second in every tournament but the last, finished between 15th and 20th place.

"Unfortunately, we ran into — I don't know if you'd call it bad luck — but no luck," Patterson said. "We didn't get the big hits at the right time, but it wasn't for lack of effort or lack of talent."

Finesse began the tournament with a 13-0 win over the Jackson (Ohio) Bears.

Jenny Kintz (Garden City) had four hits (two doubles) and two RBI, Cindy Lehnis (Plymouth) three (double/triple) and five RBI, Lisa Selmi (Redford) three (home run) and four RBI. Tara Wasiak (Canton) was the pitcher in all four games.

Finesse lost 3-2 Friday to the defending world champs, the Georgia Bandits, but rebounded with a mercy-rule win Saturday over White's Angels from Tennessee, 16-1.

Selmi (two triples), Lehnis (triple), Dearborn's Erica Desentz and Union Lake's Jenny Czach (triple/homer) had two hits apiece. Czach also had three hits, Selmi and Lehnis two each.

The Mississippi Dixie Darlings eliminated Finesse 1-0 Saturday. Finesse left the bases loaded twice and runners at the corners in two other innings. Selmi and Wasiak had two hits each in the finale.

In skill competition following the opening ceremonies, Selmi finished second in the home run contest and Kintz second in the baserunning event.

Mustangs finish 10th

The Mid-America Mustangs had the highest finish of a Michigan team in a slo-pitch world tournament, competing in the 16-and-under event in Hutchinson, Kan.

The Mustangs defeated the Blue Thunder (Arkansas) 11-2 and Texas Team Blue 11-9 before losing games to the Bedford (Texas) Renegades 3-0 and the Louisville Grayhawks 2-1.

Stacy Sinke of Canton completed a four-year career with the Mustangs, who also lose Amy Yocum (Belleville) to the age limit.

Other players who are eligible to return next year are Julie Jones (Belleville), Lisa Rozum (Canton), Heidi Wahl (Southfield), Jessica Johnson (Woodhaven), Trish Kesner (Garden City), Amanda Boston (Canton), Lauren Wright (Redford), Jennifer Jacek (Livonia) and Sue Huber (Canton).

The Mid-America Marvels were 18th in the 16-and-under tournament with a 2-2 record. They lost to the Northgate (Miss.) Dixie Diamonds 9-4, defeated the Plainsfield (Ind.) Lady Red Devils 16-12, beat the Louisville Hit and Misses 2-0 and lost to the Willoughby (Ohio) Stars 12-0.

Jennifer and Michelle Gibson of Canton and Nicole Mead (Flat Rock) concluded their Mid-America careers.

Westland team gains World Series

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Going to the American Amateur Baseball Congress Mickey Mantle-age World Series has become old hat for manager Jerry Pitcher.

Pitcher is making his ninth appearance since 1977, but for his Westland Federation America squad, it's a new and exciting experience for his latest crop of 15-16 year-olds, who play Springfield, Ill., in the first-round of the eight-team double-elimination tourney in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Winning five of six games, Westland America ran its overall record to 42-5 by winning the AABC North-Central Regional title Sunday with a 12-4 victory over the Kentucky Colonels in Coldwater.

Team fools manager

"This team is very surprising," Pitcher said. "Four weeks ago, the way we were playing, I would have said, 'No way.'

"But all of a sudden we're playing outstanding defensive baseball. And we hit more home runs (14) in 11 district and regional games than we had all season long. We've really started to hit the ball."

Westland America is also getting the job done on the mound.

Draftee Brian Berryman proved to be a wise pick-up from the Redford Mickey Mantle team.

The right-hander from Redford Union High opened the Coldwater regional Aug. 4 with a complete-game, four-hit 2-1 victory over Janssen's Refrigeration of Sterling Heights. In seven innings, Berryman struck out eight and walked five.

Berryman beats Kentucky

Berryman came back with three days rest on Sunday to eliminate the Colonels, scattering nine hits and three walks.

He allowed just one run before tiring in the seventh when he allowed three runs.

But by that time Westland America had the game well in hand.

Co-tourney MVPs Jason Copeland and Mike Brusseau (Redford Catholic Central), the team's shortstop-second base double-play combination, provided the offensive spark.

Copeland, who batted .534 for the tourney with three homers, went 4-for-5 with an RBI. Brusseau, meanwhile, contributed three hits and three RBI.

"He (Brusseau) just made some outstanding plays," Pitcher said. "It's been five years since I've had anybody make those kind of plays."

Tape-measure job

Marcus Williams contributed a mammoth two-run homer to spark a nine-run Westland America uprising in the third. Berryman also had a two-run roundtripper during the surge, giving his team a 4-1 lead.

Berryman and third baseman Kevin Sullivan, both whom made all-tourney, each collected two hits.

"Brian threw a nice game against one of the tougher teams (Janssen's) in the tourney," Pitcher said. "But he also hit the ball well and played well in the outfield (right and left). He also threw out a runner trying to stretch a single into a double."

Lopsided victory

Westland America avenged Saturday's 8-4 loss to Flint Grossi with a five-inning 17-1 mercy-rule win in the first game on Sunday.

Brusseau went 4-for-4 with six RBI, while pitching the final two innings.

Williams cracked a three-run homer and Sullivan followed with a solo shot for a back-to-back effort in the first. All-Tourney pick Mark Taylor went 3-for-3, including two doubles and two RBI, while Mike Williams (Farmington High) added two hits.

On Friday, Westland edged TSI of Macomb County, 4-1, as Marcus Williams outdueled hard-throwing Gary Kinnie.

Williams, a 6-foot-5 right-hander out of Detroit Henry Ford, struck out eight and allowed just four hits in seven innings.

He also helped his own cause with an RBI double and RBI single.

Reliever comes through

On Thursday (Aug. 5), Westland trimmed the Wyoming Royals, 7-4, as Mitch Jabczenski earned the save. He hurled the final 1⅓ innings in relief of starter Brandon Robinette, who gained the decision. Trying to protect a 6-3 lead, Jabczenski walked the first batter he faced with the bases loaded in the sixth, but got out of the inning before retiring the side in the seventh.

Copeland homered twice and knocked in three runs to pace the offensive attack.

Travelers

end the inning.

"The tournament director (Woody Bohker) said it was one of the best Connie Mack games and two of the finest pitching performances he had ever seen," Henry said.

"From a coach's standpoint, it was a killer; from a spectator's standpoint, it was something to watch.

"I don't think I've ever been so drained after a game. I don't know if the kids could have played another one."

Youngstown advanced to the final but lost to Fort Wayne, 4-3.

The Travelers had to fight for their survival after losing their first game on Wednesday of last week to Youngstown, 8-5.

VFW had its ace on the mound — Aaron Scheffer (Westland), who signed with the Seattle Mariners last week. Henry said he thought that event distracted Scheffer, who' had seven walks and was not helped by a handful of errors.

"He was a little nervous," Henry said. "His mind had been on the contract and (Seattle) talking with him, so he was not quite himself."

The Travelers rebounded with a 4-3 win over Saginaw Means Stamping with Bryan Besco (Westland) pitching Thursday.

The addition of pitcher Steve Hornsberger, who was drafted from the Brighton team for the regional, proved to be a great move by VFW. He was the winning pitcher in relief in the next three games.

"He's not a real big kid, but he's a gamer," Henry said. "He has a nice breaking ball; he's sneaky quicky. He comes up and comes at you. He'll challenge you in a heartbeat."

Hornsberger entered with VFW trailing 5-1 Friday against the Royals from Wyoming, Mich. He shut the door while the Travelers rallied to win 8-5. The Bescos, Brian Hicks (Garden City) and Dave Kapla had key hits.

VFW was losing Saturday to the Kansas City Creekers when Hornsberger did it again, working the last two-plus innings as the Travelers came back to win 6-5 with a six-run sixth inning.

Bryan Besco hit a three-run homer and Brad Willey, a draftee from Kensington Valley, a two-run shot in that inning for VFW.

The Travelers next faced Macomb Steeles, the top-rated team in Michigan, and produced more late-game heroics, erasing a 7-1 deficit with a six-run seventh and winning 8-7 in 10 innings.

Lance's solo homer was the winning hit. Derek Besco had a two-run triple and Dave Kapla a two-run double in the seventh, and Scheffer had a run-scoring single to tie.

Hornsberger was on the mound again at the end to get his third win in as many games, working the last three innings.

"I was wondering 'Who do I have left' to pitch? Henry said. "He jumped up and said 'Coach, I think I can give you another inning or two.'

"I said 'Isn't your arm stiff? You've pitched in relief the last two games.' He said 'It doesn't make any difference now, coach. I think I can give you what you want.' I said 'Ok, go out there and do it.'"

NFWB, Concealed exit tourney early

BASEBALL

North Farmington-West Bloomfield I and Concealed Security Systems had hoped for longer stays in Battle Creek but were eliminated after three games from the AABC regional tournament last week.

NFWB (33-7) had an encouraging start in the double-elimination Connie Mack event when it defeated Flint Grossi 4-2 on Wednesday.

Mark Rutherford pitched a complete game for NFWB, allowing five singles and no earned runs.

Aaron Babicz (two RBI), Jeff Ross (one RBI) and Derek Fox led the offense with two hits each.

NFWB's downfall began Thursday when it lost 6-5 to the eventual champions from Fort Wayne, leaving 12 runners on base. In each of the last three innings, NFWB left the bases full.

Marcus Sarnovsky was the losing pitcher, allowing six runs in two innings. Dan Pydyn allowed just one hit during five innings of scoreless relief.

NFWB scored twice in the seventh for a 6-5 final. John Heller, Rutherford, Fox, Chris Ogden and Ross had one RBI apiece.

Battle Creek Cadillac Coach eliminated NFWB on Friday, 8-6. Ogden pitched six innings and allowed eight runs (six earned) and eight hits.

NFWB left eight runners on base this time. Sarnovsky had two hits and two RBI, Fox a two-run single, Mike Jehle two hits and Babicz an RBI single.

Concealed finishes 30-18

Concealed Security lost its opener Wednesday, 7-0 to the Wyoming Royals. Craig Benedict pitched a complete game but didn't get much support from his teammates, according to manager Lou Pirronello.

Kevin Sheredy of East Kentwood, who is going to Arkansas to play baseball, threw a one-hitter for Wyoming. Benedict, who struck out seven and walked two, allowed six hits but only three earned runs.

Concealed defeated Flint Scrub-A-Dub 8-1 Thursday as Tim Holland pitched a complete game with five hits, five strikeouts and two walks.

Tim White had a two-run single for Concealed, Craig Petersen and Eric Marcotte RBI singles and Greg Nesbitt an RBI sacrifice fly. Paul Kuhn had two hits.

Concealed's season ended Friday with a 9-1 loss to Macomb Steele. Kurt Wilczynski, a Madonna University recruit from Warren DeLaSalle, pitched five innings to get the win.

Derek Dubois, a draftee from Ontario, was the loser. Marcotte had two hits and Petersen an RBI single.

Marauders regain league soccer title

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

SOCCER

OK. So John Pettersson, team manager for the Marauders, isn't noted for his tact.

That's no revelation. So it was no shock what Pettersson, who also serves as president of the Great Lakes Men's Soccer League, said when he presented the Clark Trophy to his own team: "The cup is back where it belongs."

Boastful, yes. But there's more than a bit of truth to it, too.

The Marauders avenged last year's 2-1 loss to Bud Light in the GLMSL's First Division final by edging their arch-rivals in an overtime penalty-kick shootout Sunday at Livonia's Bicentennial Park.

The victory gave the Marauders their fourth GLMSL summer season championship in five years.

This one did not come easily. The match was scoreless through 80 minutes, until the Marauders' Steve McCaul sprinted in behind the Bud Light defense on a breakaway. McCaul's shot banged off the crossbar, but Steve Weiger was there to punch it home for the game's first goal.

With four minutes left in regulation, the score was tied 1-1.

It remained that way through the remainder of regulation and 30 minutes of overtime. When the best-of-five penalty kick shootout started, the pressure was concentrated on the keepers, Brian O'Shea and Bud Light's Curtis Payment.

O'Shea, who starred at Schoolcraft College and has played for the Detroit Rockers, was equal to the challenge. He didn't anticipate which angle the Bud Light shooters would take: "I just waited and reacted (to their shot). I had the whole second half of the overtime to think about what I was going to do."

Robbie Ludwig opened for the Marauders, who shot first, by netting his attempt. Bud Light fell behind immediately when their first shooter, Doug Consigny, shot wide to the left.

But the Marauders' Mike Gentile was thwarted on a diving stop by Payment, and Bud Light tied the shootout at 1-1 after two rounds when Pete Crawley put his shot past O'Shea.

The Marauders went ahead for good in the third round, Paul Kaliszewski beat Payment to the left corner. O'Shea made a diving save on Jeff Dresser, leaving the Marauders ahead by a goal through three rounds. Lars Richters connected for the Marauders and Steve Burns hit for Bud Light to keep it a one-goal difference after four rounds.

Forcing two misses on four penalty shots might have pleased some keepers. Not O'Shea — "I should have had the other two," he said as he left the field.

The win capped a solid campaign for the Marauders, who also won the GLMSL regular-season title — thanks, in part, to a 2-0 blanking of Bud Light (both goals courtesy of Scott Steiner).

Arsenal, Wings win

In the Second Division final, also played Sunday at Bicentennial, regular-season champion Michigan Arsenal got a goal from Rick Cota in the 71st minute to beat Loyola 2-1. Dario Rauker's goal had put Arsenal ahead in the first half, but Loyola's Juan Sauceda tied it with three minutes left in the half.

In the Third Division title match Sunday at Bicentennial, the Red Wings added a summer title to the championship they captured in the spring by beating the North Oakland Blizzard, 2-1. Billy Morcom scored first to put the Red Wings ahead, but Darren Woodward tied it for the Blizzard. Steve Wisely got the gamewinner late in the opening half.

The 5½-hour drive to-and-from Naperville, Ill., was well worth the trip for Herb Sistrunk.

The 40-year-old captured the first-place prize of $100 by winning the U.S. Tennis Association's Men's 35 Singles title Sunday at the Grand Slam Tennis Club of the Livonia Family Y. (The event was also sponsored by the Racquets Unlimited and Dunlop).

The former Southfield resident, who was transferred to the Chicago suburb by his company (Nalco Chemical) last December, made it through an exhausting weekend by defeating Kalamazoo's Tom Koopsen, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5, for the title.

Sistrunk, who erased a 4-1, 40-15-point deficit, rallied to pull out the three-hour, three-set marathon match.

"While I was driving home I counted up the number of games I played Saturday and Sunday (including doubles) and it was a 142," Sistrunk said. "Now, if anybody had told me that going in, I would have said 'that's crazy, there's no way.'"

Gratifying victory

The top seed did find a way, describing his victory as "unbelievable joy."

"As a rule, I play 12 to 20 tourneys a year," said Sistrunk, who is ranked No. 32 nationally. "I like to play as often as I can because I enjoy the competition. It's a hobby, it's exercise and it's therapeutic."

With many of his Detroit-area friends supporting him, Sistrunk was able to mount a late charge to beat a tired Koopsen in the decisive third set.

"The last match I played him (1989 in Portage), I got hurt (sprained ankle), but got lucky and won," Koopsen said. "Today was the same, I got hurt (leg cramps), but wasn't as lucky and lost.

"But overall I'm pleased with my result, just a little disappointed I didn't win. Herb played well and you can't take anything away from him. He was in better shape and came up with winners when he had to. And he has a very good serve."

1st tourney appearance

Koopsen, 39, a former player at Central Michigan University, was playing his first tournament of the year. He won $75 for finishing second.

He works in a family-owned business, a paint and wallpapering store in Kalamazoo.

"My job normally doesn't let my have the weekends off," he said. "I teach (tennis), but I really don't play that much. But it's like riding a bike. Once you get back into it, you just have to work through it."

After losing the first set, 6-3, the unseeded Koopsen turned the tables by squaring the match at 1-all with a 6-1 second-set win.

"He's a great competitor with a bulldog-type mentality," said Sistrunk, a former basketball player from South Carolina who took up the game relatively late (age 22) when he accepted a job in Detroit. "I had some great support, there were a lot of people in my corner. And believe me, it makes a big difference. It's tougher when you're out there on the court all by yourself with nobody around."

Doubles champions

In doubles, Koopsen and his partner Mickey Schmidt won the first-place prize of $75 with a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Mark Simcina and Sistrunk.

Both semifinal doubles matches went three sets.

Koopsen and Schmidt, ranked No. 10 nationally in the Men's 35s by the USTA, outlasted Len Baziuk (Farmington Hills) and Pete Duda (Livonia), 6-7, 6-1, 6-2, while Simcina and Sistrunk nipped Fred Trapnell (Northville) and Pat Trapnell (Redford), 6-7, 6-2, 7-5.

There were a total of nine three-set matches in singles and doubles during the three day tournament, including nine tiebreakers.

"As far as depth, this is as good as most of the tournaments I go to," Sistrunk said. "It was also a very good tournament the way it was run."

Coming back again

Zori Duda, who co-directed the tourney along with Jean Carman, said plans are in the works to bring the nationally-ranked players back again next year.

"We hope to make it bigger and better," she said. "This is such a beautiful setting for tennis. We're pleased with the way it went."

Tourney referee Jack Kingsbury was also elated with the conduct of the players.

"It was an absolute pleasure to officiate," he said. "There was never a time we needed to bring in a line judge. I never had to offer a warning, but yet it was high-intensity tennis."

Area all-star linebackers do inside job

By Steve Stein
Staff Writer

The bad news turned out to be good news for Bruce Calhoun.

Calhoun, who rushed for 1,131 yards and 20 touchdowns from his tailback position last season in leading Wayne Memorial to its first state playoff appearance, played inside linebacker in the Michigan High School All-Star Football Game.

"When I got here, the coaches told me they were short inside linebackers, so they asked me to play there," Calhoun said after helping the East beat the West on Saturday, 29-6, at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing.

"At first, I was really disappointed because I love to run the ball,' Calhoun admitted. "But I realized that where I play shouldn't make a difference. Once I saw our offense was so pass-oriented, that made me feel even better."

Linebacking duo

Calhoun, also an outstanding inside linebacker last fall for 7-3 Wayne, played side-by-side Saturday with the other Observerland player on the East roster, Livonia Franklin inside linebacker Jason Facione.

They also were All-Star week roommates.

"Bruce played very well," Facione said. "He's great on pursuit because he has those quick tailback feet. It seemed like all the linemen on both teams outweighed us linebackers by 60 pounds, but I think we held our own."

There's no doubt that the East defense did a fine job against a West offense, which featured Notre Dame-bound tailback Randy Kinder of East Lansing and Michigan-State-bound Marvin Wright, a quarterback from Saginaw Arthur Hill.

Calhoun, a 6-foot-1, 195-pounder who will play his college football at Grand Valley State, was credited with four tackles. He called the defensive signals when he was in the game. Facione (6-3, 220), one of a dozen Central Michigan recruits on the field, had three tackles.

Early game hits

The two first-team All-Observer three tackles in four plays during the West's first possession.

Facione knocked wide receiver Brian Echols (Benton Harbor/Michigan State) out of bounds after a 10-yard gain on a reverse. Two plays later, Calhoun held Wright to a four-yard gain on a quarterback draw. He then nailed Kinder for a four-yard loss.

The West picked up just seven first downs, rushed for 68 yards and threw for 37. Its only score came on a fourth-quarter interception return. The East completed 20-of-32 passes and it had just 11 rushing plays.

Both Calhoun and Facione enjoyed playing against the cream of the crop in Michigan high school football, saying it was great preparation for the college ranks.

"It was a bigger, quicker game," said Facione, a three-year starter at middle linebacker and tight end at Franklin and the Patriots' all-time leading career (306) and single-season (129) tackler. (He led Franklin to a 7-2 record last fall while earning All-State honors.)

Getting ready for CMU

"I feel I'm a week ahead of the other guys at Central," added Facione, who reported to the Chippewas' camp the next morning. "I think I did a good job in the game even though I really played with only one hand. I hurt my (right) hand during practice when I got it caught in a face mask.

"It was fun to meet and play with all these All-Stars. I'm especially glad I got a chance to know Bruce. We were acquainted with each other from playing pickup basketball, but that was it."

Calhoun and Facione were both three-time basketball and football letter-winners in high school. Facione started all three years in basketball and he was the team captain as a senior.

Facione's mother, Cheryl, enjoyed watching her son play on the artificial turf at Spartan Stadium.

"This was an opportunity of a lifetime for Jason," she said. "It probably won't hit him until 10 years from now.

"What's especially great is the East defense didn't give up any points. That's a great accomplishment."

College plans revealed

Facione says he's going to pursue a degree in secondary education at Central Michigan.

Calhoun, who plans to study business at Grand Valley, was a standout outside and inside the classroom at Wayne. He maintained a 3.8 grade-point average during his final three years of school, he was president pro-tem of the student senate and he was a member of the National Honor Society.

Redford Catholic Central lineman Joe Suhajda was nominated to play in the All-Star Game, but he turned down the invitation because he had to report to the Air Force Academy.

Diamonds shine in all-star game

The Farmington Hills Diamonds are champions of the Incredible Girls Softball League, so it was fitting two of their players should be the standouts in the annual all-star game Saturday.

Wendy Roy was named the most valuable player and Melanie Cheney was the winning pitcher as they led the Nationals to a 14-7 victory over the Americans at Massey Field in Plymouth.

Roy, who will be a sophomore at Livonia Clarenceville High School, had two hits — a solo home run and a run-producing double — and scored two runs. She also played first base for three innings.

"She blew off a Gus Macker tournament to play in this all-star game, so she's real serious about her softball," Diamonds and National coach Dave Brubaker said.

Cheney started and pitched three innings. She left with a 5-2 after the National team scored five times in the top of third inning to erase a 1-0 deficit.

She allowed just two hits, struck out three and walked three during her mound stint. Cheney also contributed two hits, one RBI and two runs to the National cause.

Jamie Sikora of the Canton Cobras (three hits, five strikeouts, two walks) pitched three innings and Becky Thursam of the Diamonds (two hits, one strikeout, no walks) finished with two scoreless innings.

Jaclyn Dean (Livonia Lasers) was 2-for-3 and had three RBI, two on a double. Heather LaGrow (Cobras) hit a three-run triple in the sixth inning to give the Nationals an 11-2 lead.

Kate Mackie (Diamonds) added an RBI single, Sarah Wojtowicz (Lasers) scored two runs and Heather Schaefer (Cobras) had a hit and scored a run.

Jenny Sikora of the Canton Commanders was the top offensive player for the American team with two hits, including an RBI double, and two runs.

Amber LaGrow (Commanders) drove in a run with a single and scored a run. Kim Sanders (Farmington Hills Majestics), Amy LaGrow (Commanders) and Melissa Petrosky (Northville Niners) had one hit and scored one run each.

Erin Lacosse (Farmington Hills Hornets), Andrea Moretti (Niners), Sikora and Heather Jonna (Majestics) pitched two innings apiece for the American side, with Moretti taking the loss.

The Mustangs are managed by Linda Frost, the Marvels by Rick Shaw. The coaches are Lisa Parsons, Tony Alioto, Tom Gibson, Tom Breil, Larry Bauman and Neil December.

The Mustangs will have tryouts Saturday for girls age 9 to 18. For information call Ray Knickerbocker (455-5893) or Mike Jacek (478-8399).

14-and-under tourney

The Mid-America Motion was 2-2 in the world tournament in Garland, Texas. The Motion, 17-14 in the tournament season, won its first two games — the second featuring a five-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning for an 11-10 victory.

The players are Stefanie Volpe, Melissa Bako, Jenni Talbot, Melisa Thompson, Gina Yaquinto, Jillian Gross, Diana Jastrzebski, Kari Flynn, Shannon Boston, Brianne Moore, Jenny Trott, Lisa Shaw, Annie Bolognino and Jenny Conner.

'WSRO' puts '40s radio on stage

SALLY DUBATS

Standing Room Only (SRO) Productions presents an entertaining 1940's radio show with a trio of stories, complete with sound effects and commercials with jingles certain to trigger fond memories. "WSRO On The Air" is a piece of history which amuses young and old alike.

"WSRO On The Air" is a collaboration of old standards such as "The Bickersons," a new work by Royal Oak resident Tom Ferrell, "The Shared Man," and a Sir Arthur Conan Doyle short story "The Dying Detective," a Sherlock Holmes mystery adapted for "radio" by Joseph Haynes.

Co-directors Marje King and Wiliam Mandt bring to life the classic radio style. The stories are read in a radio studio with microphones and a sound table. While the stories are told, horses can be heard galloping, paper and change shuffle, doors open and close — all details which made radio so believable to the imagination during its height of popularity.

"The Shared Man" is a cute story which forecasts the year 2065 with an overabundance of women who rule the world politically. One of the laws is that each man must have two wives due to the shortage of men.

Steve Zizka as Joe, the man with two wives, is comical in his dead-pan delivery of lines such as "The punishment for bigamy is two wives."

Maggie Savage and Annabelle Marshbanks both offer fun and variety in their interpretations of Mary and Teri, the two women who must legally share Joe.

Commercials interrupt the stories, such as the memorable "Mmm, Mmm, Good" Campbell's Soup ad which features a quartet of gifted singers including Michelle Cloutier, Maggie Savage, Marc Rosati and Kevin Branshaw. The quartet also sings such longtime standards as "Sentimental Journey" and "The Trolley Song." The lovely arrangement of these songs also lends to the 1940's atmosphere.

Ralph Rosati and Judie Rosati make it easy to laugh at the foibles of John and Blanche, perhaps the most famous miserable married couple on radio. "The Bickersons" is a very funny skit with such marital bantering as John's proclamation that "Marriage isn't a word. It's a sentence."

As Blanche readies for slumber and says, "I have to finish my face," John grumpily retorts, "Your face is finished." The Rosatis' comedic timing while delivering these lines make them all the more entertaining.

Act II reaquaints the audience with one genre of radio that was perhaps the most effective during its heyday. Left to the imagination, the mystery theatre drew pictures sometimes more horrifying or thrilling than can be created on the big screen today.

"The Dying Detective," a Sherlock Holmes mystery, lends itself to a sense of urgency as Greg Morgan skillfully executes a British accent in one of Dr. Watson's famous narratives. Steve Zizka also does a wonderful job as the dying Sherlock Holmes, complete with wheezing and coughing.

Marc Rosati also enhances a terrific element of mystery with intriguing British characterizations of cabbies; as well as Culverton Smith, an enemy of Sherlock Holmes who is pehaps the only man who can save him from certain death.

SRO is contemplating making "WSRO On The Air" an annual summer event. With such abundant treasured material as "The Green Hornet," "The Shadow," and Red Skelton as "The Bad Little Boy," and Fanny Brice as "Baby Snooks," it would be an annual event to anticipate with pleasure.

Sally Dubats of Madison Heights is an an actress, director and teacher, who teaches at community theaters in the metropolitan area. She is artistic director of West End Productions headquartered in Livonia.

"WSRO ON THE AIR" Theater:
SRO Productions at the City of Southfield's historic center, The Burgh, in the renovated 1864 church on the northeast corner of Civic Center Drive and Berg Road, one block east of Telegraph.
Curtain time: 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 13-14, Aug. 20-21, 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 15 and Aug. 22
Tickets: $7 general admission, $6 seniors and children. Available at the Southfield Parks and Recreation Department, 26000 Evergreen Road, Southfield, 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday thorugh Friday; 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays. To charge tickets or for information, call 827-0700. Open seating, tickets will be held at the door by charge only.

Bookstore, park concerts on LSO calendar

Three musicians with the LSO will perform a one-hour recital of selected French compositions at noon Sunday, Aug. 15, in Borders Books & Music, Novi Town Center, off Novi Road, just south of I-96.

Villenueve

The performers are soprano Nancy Delewsky Villenueve, violinist Alyze Dreiling and pianist Brandon Cagnon. LSO maestro Francesco DiBlasi will narrate.

"It's in keeping with something we have found pleasant for the store," said Wanda Freeman, community relations coordinator for Borders in Novi.

The store has a long tradition of monthly music concerts usually built around a holiday. This one's no exception, even if the holiday is obscure.

Chauvin Day is named after Nicholas Chauvin, a French soldier who worshiped anything to do with his native country, especially his emperor, Napoleon Bonaparte. Fittingly enough, Chauvin Day falls on Napoleon's birthday. He also lends his name to a word found in the English language, "chauvinism," which originally meant belligerent patriotism and later absurdly intense attachment to any case.

The artists set to perform at Borders have long been associated with the LSO. Delewsky Villenueve has been a soloist on several occasions with the symphony. Dreiling is concertmaster of the International Symphony of San Diego and is currently performing with the LSO. Cagnon, well-known in the area as a pianist, is a former student of Donald Moorelock and will study with Anton Nell at the University of Michigan this fall.

Another free concert is in the offing 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 19, when the symphony plays "Music Under the Stars" at the Livonia Civic Center Park, Five Mile, east of Farmington Road. In case of rain, the concert will be at Madonna University, Levan and Schoolcraft. Soprano Jennifer Fitch is the soloist.

"Sunday Sports & Symphony," an annual benefit for the LSO sponsored by Laurel Park Place, is set for 6-9 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 29. Howard Watkins, pianist, will perform "Rhapsody in Blue." Nancy Delewsky Villenueve will make another appearance with the LSO, this time performing a medley of Broadway favorites in a center-court pops concert.

As part of the benefit, "A Taste of Livonia" will feature food from more than 25 area restaurants, hotels and food services. An appearance by ex-Detroit Pistons star Vinnie Johnson will help provide the "sports" part of the event's title.

A silent auction will feature a resort vacation sponsored by Marriott Hotels and Northwest Airlines.

Tickets are $25 per person in advance, $30 at the door. For ticket information, call 464-2741 or 462-1100. Dress is casually elegant.

There are several string section openings with the LSO for its 1993-94 season. For audition information, call Lisa Kebridle, 477-3350.

'The Secret Garden': tale of spiritual, physical uplifting

Based on the 1908 children's classic by Frances Hodgson Burnett, the movie opens Friday at suburban theaters.

In a story of physical rejuvenation and spiritual renewal, the lives of three lonely children and an embittered adult are changed through their involvement in restoring an old walled garden.

The role of truculent, independent Mary Lennox is played by Kate Maberly, who at 10 is already a veteran of British television productions.

While living with her self-involved parents in India, Mary endures their lack of interest. Orphaned when they die of a plague, Mary returns to England as a lonely, wild child. Through friendships forged in the garden, she evolves from a spoiled, angry child to a happy, creative young girl.

Mary learns to follow her own instincts and defies her adult guardians when she tries to help another angry, spoiled youngster, Colin Craven, played by newcomer Heydon Prowse. It's Colin's father, Lord Craven (John Lynch), who owns the estate on which the garden is rediscovered by the children.

Drowning in his grief over his young wife's death, Lord Craven gives over much of the bedridden Colin's care to the housekeeper, Mrs. Medlock, played by Academy Award winner Maggie Smith.

PREVIEW

Together, Colin and Mary befriend two local children, Dickon (Andrew Knott) and his sister Martha (Laura Crossley), who works in Craven's house. Knott and Crossley are both young veterans of the BBC soap, "Coronation Street," seen in the Detroit area on CBC Channel 9 from Windsor.

The garden, with its pivotal role in the story, almost qualifies as another cast member. Instead of using an existing garden, production designer Stuart Craig decided to build one. After studying both famous and obscure gardens, Craig and the filmmakers decided to construct their walled paradise around a ruined abbey reminiscent of Yorkshire's historic Fountains Abbey, a popular attraction in northern England.

"We looked into the possibility of building the garden at Fountains, but it's one of the country's most visited places and it made more sense to build a ruin in the gardens at Pinewood Studios and construct our garden there," Craig said.

In addition, Dickon's love of animals required filmmakers to fill the garden with oh-so-cute lambs, goats, squirrels, crows, geese, ducks, rabbits, foxes and "Albert the deer."

Special effects came into play to help the garden bloom.

"From the moment Mary and Dickon put the first lily bulb into the ground together, we wanted to show they were creating something unusual and not completely of this world," said producer Fred Fuchs.

"Their ability to replant and cultivate this enormous garden, their success in helping Colin become strong and healthy — all of these events are metaphors for the internal blossoming of their spirits."

A participant in the Prague Spring of 1968 and a survivor of Communist repression of her work, Holland's films are usually far from lighthearted.

As a child in Poland, "The Secret Garden" was one of her favorite books. She's turned it into perhaps her most optimistic film to date with an unabashedly joyous ending.

"The children in this story experience loss, pain, loneliness and anger and they learn to love, trust and help one another," she said. "These emotions and experiences are central to adults and children; I think they're one reason this story has been so well loved by entire families through the years."

Made under the aegis of executive producer Francis Ford Coppola's American Zoetrope for Warner Bros., "The Secret Garden" is Holland's first big budget Hollywood film.

"The Secret Garden"is rated G.

MURRAY CLOSE

Family tale: A game of hide-and-go-seek delights Dickon (Andrew Knott), Colin (Heydon Prowse) and Mary (Kate Maberly) in Warner Bros.' new film of the classic family story, "The Secret Garden."

JOHN MONAGHAN

The locale and supporting characters changed weekly but the final image remained the same: Richard Kimble, the title character in "The Fugitive," walking alone toward an uncertain future.

A new film version of the existential and wildly popular 1960s television series crams four seasons of action into just over two hours. And though the movie doesn't know when to quit, it should keep you planted on the edge of your seat.

Harrison Ford now plays Richard Kimble, the prominent Chicago surgeon who arrived home one night to find his wife being assaulted by a one-armed man. When the police arrive, evidence mounts against the innocent Kimble, who is tried and sentenced to death by lethal injection.

REVIEW

A mishap en route to Death Row sends Kimble's prison bus tumbling in front of an oncoming train. The doctor escapes and heads back to Chicago to find the real killer.

Ford, who starts the film with a shaggy professor's beard, brings surprising depth to Kimble. He fills in emotional gaps left untouched by TV's David Janssen, whose stiffness and stoicism defined that oh-so-serious show.

Character actor Tommy Lee Jones ("Lonesome Dove"), meanwhile, brings humor to his part of Sam Gerard, the U.S. marshal determined to get his man.

Early in the chase, the temporarily trapped Kimble makes it clear once again that he didn't kill his wife. Gerard answers equally honestly, "I don't care."

For the tenacious Gerard, just like the makers of this movie, Kimble is simply an excuse to mount an epic chase. After all, the fugitive is no mad-dog killer on the loose. Time and again, he shows how humane he really is.

The filmmakers give nods to Alfred Hitchcock, from the wrong man theme to the use of familiar locations, here Chicago's St. Patrick's Day parade and a massive dam. The movie also has its own kinetic energy that keeps it running almost to the final frame.

I say almost because "The Fugitive," like so many Hollywood projects, isn't satisfied with one slam-bang ending. There are no fewer than four climaxes here, giving the audience its money's worth but also dragging the movie out longer than it deserves.

This is nothing compared to the mistakes "The Fugitive" could have made, such as adding romantic interest to Richard's already complicated life. There are also more brains and less bloodshed than in your typical movie of this type.

Cleverly plotted and engagingly acted, "The Fugitive" is something rare: a trip back to TV's golden age that in many ways improves upon its source.

Former child star helps young actors

By Keely Wygonik

Paul Petersen, best remembered for his role as Jeff Stone on the long running television show "The Donna Reed Show," will be in Troy on Aug. 22 to present a workshop with the American Performing Arts Network titled — "How to Get Into Show Business the Right Way."

"The goal is to educate and inform people that the creative process of acting can be an inspiring and enriching experience that doesn't have to leave you unprotected, broke or ripped off," said Julie Matthews of American Performing Arts Network in Ohio who is presenting the workshop with Petersen.

Metro Detroit is just one of their stops. The program, designed for people who want to pursue careers in television, movies, commercials and print, will be presented 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 22, at the Troy Holiday Inn, 2537 Rochester Court, (Rochester Road exit off I-75).

The cost is $125 per person or $145 for children accompanied by a parent, and $20 for each additional family member. A $25 discount is available with Mastercard/Visa registration by calling 1-(800)-SHOWKIDS. For information, call (216) 932-7995.

According to Petersen, founder of "A Minor Consideration," an organization dedicated to the support of child actors who have had trouble due to a lack of knowledge about the entertainment business, show business can be risky.

"There's an investment of time and money, and you have to make sure your kid has the interest. It's something you have to weigh carefully," said Petersen in a phone interview from his home in Los Angeles.

Petersen said you don't have to go to LA or New York to find work. There are many opportunities in this region for people who want to act, and work behind the scenes.

"We have a program that can save people thousands of dollars in the beginning," he said. "One woman we met in Cleveland was fresh out of high school and her parents spent almost $5,000 on an audio tape, that's outrageous."

Often times, people starting out in show business are talked into paying agents an annual fee, and getting expensive photographs taken.

"There are some agents you don't have to pay," said Petersen. At the seminar he and Matthews offer participants pointers on succeeding at an audition, explain who hires talent and where to find them, where to get the most inexpensive head shots, resumes and demo tapes, how to find agents, managers and casting directors, how to protect children from exploitation, labor laws and money management, and how to avoid scams.

Participants will also have the opportunity to make video screen tests which will be viewed by one of the largest talent agencies in New York and Los Angeles.

Petersen said in addition to young people and their families who want to learn the ins and outs of the entertainment industry, several people in their 40s and 50s have attended the seminar. Participants including actors, dancers, singers and musicians, have ranged in age from six to 60.

Chefs stage tasty fund-raiser for collegues

The Michigan Chefs de Cuisine Association is hosting a dinner to raise money for the Chef's Disability Fund 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 13 at Indian Wood Country Club, 1081 Indianwood, Lake Orion.

Tickets are $35, call 693-9100. Participating chefs include Brian Polcyn, Pike Street, Chimayo and Acadia restaurants; Edward Janos, Avenue Dinner; Kevin Brennan, Orchard Lake Country Club; and Chuck Rachwitz, Rocky's. The chefs of Oakland Community College's Culinary Arts Program will take part in the preparation.

Mark your calendars for the feast of the season when the Schoolcraft College Foundation presents its second annual "Culinary Extravaganza," 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 19, in the College's Waterman Campus Center.

Joe Muer of the popular Joe Muer's in Detroit is the Extravaganza honorary chair for the second year, with co-chairs Betty Jean Awrey of Awrey Bakery in Livonia, and Jean Shapero of Northville.

Tickets are $35 per person, and can be reserved by calling 462-4417. The college is at 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia.

Over 60 of the finest restaurants and beverage corporations in the Detroit metro area will be participating.

Big Bands swing and sway through Southfield's summer concert series

Southfield's Parks and Recreation Cultural Arts Division offers enough Big Band music to fill up several sultry August evenings.

Two free concert series are set for a couple of sites along Civic Center Drive. Bring lawn chairs and blankets long for extra comfort.

At 7 p.m. on Sundays, it's the Southfield Concert in the Parks series held at the Prudential Sunbowl, located behind the 3000 Prudential Town Center off of Civic Center Drive. Cosmopolitan, an 11-pieces Big-Band orchestra replays the hits of the 1940's on Sunday, Aug. 15.

The Dick Morrow Orchestra, a "society band" in the style of Glenn Miller, take the stage on Sunday Aug. 22.

At 7 p.m. on Wednesdays the music swings at the historic Burgh Gazebo, Berg Road and Civic Center Drive. Picnic suppers can be purchased from 6-7:30 p.m. on concert nights. The Bob DuRant Orchestra continues the Big Band theme Wednesday, Aug. 18.

The Emil Moro Band winds up the Wednesday series at the gazebo on Aug. 25. Originally formed in 1968 as a rehearsal band for musicians, it's developed its own style and has become one of the most prominent Big Bands of the Midwest.

For more information on these series call the Parks and Recreation Cultural Arts Division at 354-4717.

Partial funding for these concerts was made possible by the City of Southfield, Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, New Initiatives in the Arts and the Federation of the Arts. U.S. recording companies furnish funds in whole or in part for the instrumental music for these performers through the Music Performance Trust Funds as arranged by Local 5, Detroit Federation of Musicians.

Blame Lansing

Over the past several weeks, much discussion and rhetoric has passed through the pages of your newspaper relative to the millage increase vote on Aug. 17.

Arguments have attempted to blame everyone from the teachers to the school board to the superintendent to the teacher's union to community apathy (and probably many others I have missed). As the 17th approaches, however, it is time to stop pointing fingers and start thinking about the children with a YES vote.

I am not suggesting that a "Who Cares" approach is the answer. Real answers to the problem are critical to preventing this situation from reoccurring the next time we have a millage election. To that end, we must first put the immediate fire out with a YES vote; then we need to point our fingers at the real culprits in this issue.

Our wonderful elected representatives in Lansing have spotlighted themselves with a drop in the property tax (which despite the fact that a great deal of grandstanding is taking place, in itself should make the millage a one-year-only need).

Frankly, property tax is an evil tax which needs to be ELIMINATED (No American should need to live in fear of losing their home simply because they are unable to pay taxes on THEIR property.) Last year 66,000 homeowners lost their homes from the inability to pay their taxes. Our founding fathers would be appalled that the very sovereignty they fought for could so easily be taken away by a coercive tax-and-spend government.

Keep in mind that our representatives sold us the concept of the Lottery on the basis that all of these funds would be for our schools when in fact they stuck the Lottery money into the general fund and at the same time took out the equivalent amount of the Lottery money to spend on more of their pork barrel programs.

Our representatives are so deeply mired in pork — in order to perpetuate their jobs — that they have long ago lost touch with reality. If taxpayers would take the time to really look into the spending patterns and programs, most of our "heroes" involves themselves in, they could not help but be appalled.

Are there more long-term answers to the funding problem? These might be a starting point:

1).Let's first try a simple belt tightening in Lansing. Trim down and eliminate many of the useless and redundant departments and positions.

2).Consider a part-time Legislature.

3).Look into eliminating the income tax. As a point of fact, when you spend your time at a job, you are truthfully trading this time for money — hardly income.

4).Operate government with a sales tax — not on services — in lieu of the proprty and income taxes. Many people argue that a graduated income tax or some sort of flat percentage income tax would do the job. Unfortunately, a large segment of the population would escape this form of tax simply because they deal in cash.

5).Determine an equitable sum to distribute to the local school systems and allow local communities the opportunity to tax on a limited scale to supplement, if necessary, the sum from the state. This would be a truly temporary need to be unnecesary and phased out as more sales are generated.

At this time we must take a step forward — for the children. In today's complex world our future leaders need every opportunity to become the best they can be. For many of these children there may be only one opportunity and if it is lost, there is no turning back for a second chance. The very lives of our community's children may be damaged, potentially beyond repair. Therefore, your support is critical.

Let's put out the immediate fire with a YES vote. Then let's go after Lansing for some real answers.

Kids traded for votes

Child trafficking is still illegal in Michigan, as long as they are sold for cash. But children can be traded for votes; in fact, it seems to be standard operating procedure as of late in the Michigan Legislature.

America 2000 has had as one of its goals a national curriculum, one that will promote dependency on government and an increasing government role in every facet of a child's life. This will ensure a safe haven for bureaucrats and an ideological victory for socialists. It will involve collaboration of state education with social services of every kind.

But some states still pose problems for national control: Some still collect taxes locally, increasing the difficulty in obtaining complete compliance with the federal education goals. The number of districts to be dealt with needs to be reduced to 50: one for each state.

Gov. John Engler, who sat on the Goals Committee for America 2000, played a key role. Michigan switched its law in 1990 by amending the school code, mandating that all schools restructure to provide outcome-based education and teach a state curriculum called the Model Core Curriculum.

The curriculum is written to ensure that nationalism is replaced with one-worldism, freedom is replaced with social planning, and individualism is replaced with collectivism. The students thus trained will vote their rights away as U.S. citizens and help promote the New World Order, a one-world socialist government.

Many involved parents have been busy informing others of what is behind outcome-based education (OBE), as implemented in over 40 states nationwide. OBE has been the subject of many radio talk shows lately, with callers being almost exclusively in opposition to OBE. Since OBE was in imminent danger, something had to be done to ensure that local control of schools was not regained.

"Robin Hood," the recapture by the state of some school aid, was one attempt at restructuring the financing of schools to impede local control. After Robin Hood failed, Proposal A was attempted by Engler. It would also have shifted the funding to a statewide basis rather than a local basis.

Those wealthy districts that obtain almost all of their money locally could no longer thumb their noses at the State Department of Education, because they were just bankrupted. And citizens who oppose the waste of tax money on teacher raises and top-heavy administration can no longer have the satisfaction of voting "no" on millages. And the MEA now only has one megadistrict to barter with. Their PAC money will be multiplied manifold in influence.

But what was the bait for conservative legislators? One can only conclude that they traded local control of the schools and the children for the votes of senior citizens, as they got their promised property-tax relief.

It didn't dawn on me until I reflected on a recent controversial bill, S.B. 114. That bill put parents of school-age children under the thumb of the state. If their child had two unexcused (as defined by the school) absences in a month, the parents could lose their exemption for the child on their income taxes. This helped the national plan in two ways: first, more state agencies would gain access to the data on students, as the tax code was amended and linked to education. Second, parents who have been pulling their children from objectionable classes or who exercised authority in not placing them in class for their own reasons on any given day could now be punished financially, much as social programs are enforced in other nations, such as China. Get with the state program or be penalized and harassed.

One local conservative legislator told me this was a bad bill. The next day he voted for it. His reason to me was because they amended the bill to give an exemption to senior citizens on their income taxes for pensions, a totally unrelated issue. But it is painfully clear to me. Conservatives have sold out on us. They have handed the children over to state domination and have compromised the integrity of the family for the votes of senior citizens. As I said, they traded the children for votes.

Kids are bottom line

It was interesting to read the Observer last Monday, Aug. 1. There were many letters to the editor written by people who are not voting for the millage. Hopefully, everyone reading the information written in any letters to the editor will make an attempt to verify the facts that are written in order to make informed decisions in the voting booth. Remember, you can't believe everything you read. Sometimes you must find things out for yourself.

Also, it was interesting to read the lengthy article concerning a forum that is being offered to parents in our Plymouth-Canton community concerning gang-related activities. It seems that even though we might not have formal gangs in our area at this time, it is not unreasonable to suspect that this may become possible in the future, or else why is this forum being offered to parents?

The article stated that it is important for parents to encourage children to become involved in positive experiences because gangs can provide a "family" for children who have nothing to do. This is not to imply that every child will become a gang member if our millage fails, but we feel that there could be a direct relationship between the formation of gangs and the loss of extra curriculars or other meaningful activities that take place in our schools. If the millage fails, we will also be losing counseling and alternative education programs for our children who are experiencing difficulties. We believe that it is far better for our children to belong to a "family" of students who are interested in sports, music, art, theater, honor activities, than in a gang that interested in gang-mentality activities.

You might say this is a scare tactic, but we didn't write the article on gangs. We are simply pointing out that the world can be a scary place for kids with nothing to do. We will all have to deal with this in September if the millage fails. We are concerned about all the children in our community. Please vote yes, because in reality we feel our children, not money, are indeed the bottom line.

By the way, Observer editor Jeff Counts, Representative Jerry Vorva, and Gov. John Engler, can be as negative toward our schools as they want. But the direct fact is they do not have children in our schools, and thus will not be directly affected by these decisions. Also, the millage will be for one year instead of two. Vote yes for one year. Then if you have a gripe, show up at the school board meetings and become involved in positive change in education.

Support education

This letter is to let your readers know that the Educational Excellence Foundation supports the millage which the Board of Education is requesting for the young people in our schools.

Growing up today is a difficult job at best. Growing up without the opportunities which we can provide in our schools can make that job nearly impossible for many of our kids.

The Educational Excellence Foundation assists the schools in helping to provide some of the materials which can be used to further education, but which are not available in the budget. To this end we have provided more than $25,000 in support of a variety of projects since our founding. Still, we recognize that the majority of funding for our schools must come from our communities' tax support.

At the same time, we know the need for personnel and programs which will provide basic education and extra-curricular activities; since we consider the "extra-curriculars" to be a valuable part of basic education for many students. We know the needs of today's teens don't end with just the three Rs. They must be fully functional and ready to compete in a global economy during their lifetimes. We also know that extra-curricular education can be the basis for young people to blossom and mature.

We support and we ask you to support education as you vote on August 17.

Hugh Harsha, president

Face the facts

The paper today is full of letters regarding the school millage.

Let's face facts. Last week a letter to the Crier said it all. The biggest part of the blame for our school shortages is the school board. Granting wage increases of 40 to 45 percent over six years is the reason. A teacher who was making $40,000 is now making more than $56,000 plus another 3 percent this year.

I think we can also blame the city council and the township board of trustees. Every good old boy has received a tax abatement. Just think if we had 100 percent of their school taxes instead of 50 percent.

I can't vote in Plymouth, I just have to pay property taxes on the property I own here but in Northville where I live we hear the same story.

What turns me off in our younger generation is when I see about 20 students lighting up after they get off the school bus. They look like bums, and they act like bums. Let's blame parents, too.

Excuse me for being a depression kid, but we wore shirts and ties, had a band, played football, had a debating society and everything you say you can't have today.

In my 50 years in the business world I have learned one fact. Two people can work side by side in the same job. One has a nice house, car and all the things necessary for a nice living.

The other lives in a shack, drives an old car, looks and acts like a bum. It all comes down to priorities and discipline.

I think you'll just have to do like the rest of the owners of businesses, just tie a knot on the end of the rope and hang on.

Answer is clear

In Thursday's Aug. 5 Detroit News, a feature article was published concerning the recent rise in violence and crime at Canton Commons. While it focused upon the increase in police presence as a short-term deterrent, it noted that in the long-run some type of recreational program for the young people was needed so that they would have something to do in their free time.

From my experience of over 16 years as an assistant Wayne County prosecuting attorney, while many factors cause a person to turn to criminal activity, the lack of recreational opportunities for young people leads an to an abundance of free time which is too often filled with alcohol and drug consumption as well as the commission of petty crime and vandalism of young people looking for something to do.

Now as the result of the defeat of the 4-mill property tax increase, the school buildings will be closed at the end of the school day. On Aug. 17 the residents of the Plymouth-Canton School District will have the opportunity to vote on this issue again. The failure to approve this millage increase will lead of the cancellation of not only all school-related activities such as sports, scouts and classes for both children and adults who use these facilities. While the passage of the millage will not make our community crime-free; the failure of it will lead to an increase in groups of teens hanging around the malls, downtown Plymouth and our neighborhoods looking for something to do.

I do not like paying more taxes, however, I also do not like paying more for home repairs or insurance but I do so to protect the investment I have made in my family's home and to continue to live in a comfortable, desirable community.

The several hundred dollar increase in my property taxes will help to insure that my investment will be protected while reform in school funding is by necessity addressed by our state government in the coming year. However, without the millage increase, the investment in my home will be hurt. For who will want to purchase a $300,000, a $200,000 or any home in an area where the schools have no extra-curricular activities while areas with comparable housing have schools with these activities?

The answer is quite clear.

Frank Bernacki, Canton

She's appalled

Your article 'Educational Industry Tries to Hoodwink Taxpayers" makes only one thing evident. Your childhood feelings are articulated poorly.

I was appalled the editor of a somewhat respected newspaper would belittle himself and minimize his effectiveness with what resulted in childish name calling.

To perpetuate such ignorance is more likely sheer opportunism. It is the unfortunate plight of educators to be "lumped" in one group as you have so amply stated.

It is unlikely that this form of outdated prejudice will perpetuate among well-read people who fortunately will use articles such as yours to wrap the remains of dead fish. This is the plight of your unenlightened journalism.

Mary Wilkinson, Livonia

Reteach educators

As round two of the millage increase vote approaches, what may not be evident to voters is the planning process of outcome-based decision making being used by the educational community to direct this election exercise.

Outcome-based education (decision making) says the student (taxpayer) must demonstrate the proper behavior to meet the expected goal to pass a class (millage) before being allowed to advance.

First you establish a need, such as the need for a 4-mill tax increase. The second phase, the curriculum phase, is where you teach why your need is important. This was accomplished with the initial millage advertisements and then after the first defeat with yes voters writing letters that repeated the same detail to no voters who they interpreted didn't understand the lesson (need). This allowed yes voters to act as outcome peer counselors to reteach no votes. The third phase is the assessment phase to see if you have met the goal. Your measurement of the goal is called an exit outcome. If the exit outcome is unacceptable, such as the defeat of the millage increase, then you enter the remediation phase, our current position. In this phase you need to be retaught about the issue once your objections are known. Thus we have the recent no voter survey to understand why taxpayers voted no. Not to accept input on changing the need but to overcome and better sell the desired exit outcome because a no vote on the millage increase, which was a vote for accountability and living within the budget, was deemed an invalid exit outcome.

I think we need to reverse this learning process and reteach our educators. By voting no again, our community educators will learn they are truly experiencing a new era of educational reform in this state backed by strong public demand.

Stephen Kiljanczyk, Canton

No vote hurts property values

Several years ago I moved to Michigan and settled in Plymouth because of the strong schools and property value. Now, faced with a millage increase proposal, my community may be stripped of the reputation.

A strong school system not only is good for families with children, it is also good for homeowners without children. If you don't have kids in our schools and vote no to our millage increase, you will be hurting your property value. Don't be short-sighted. Without strong schools we will not have high property values and your investment in your home will be hurt.

Support the millage increase on Aug. 17. We all benefit. Vote Yes.

John B. Palmer, Plymouth

Stop bashing

Jeff Counts, an editor for two papers, wrote an article in your Aug. 2 issue of the Livonia Observer equating the KKK to our education establishment.

My question is, How did he ever become an editor with analogies that are insults to our law-abiding decent citizens?

Our schools need help and reform, not this continual bashing from many, and the media. Your editorial indicates a lack of constructive thinking.

It is unconscionable that our legislators removed funding for our public schools with no plan to replace it. Perhaps the salaries of the legislators should be suspended until they become more responsible to the people they represent, but that never happens to the politicians.

Margaret A. Catallo, Livonia

One-way method

I wonder how the school board would have reacted had the millage increase passed in the June election and the "no" voters proposed to place the same issue on the ballot in August again so as to give the people another chance to vote it down.

Perhaps one or all of the board members would like to make a comment about this. I'm sure it would be interesting to hear their one-way method of reasoning.

Footnote (y) is the last footnote to the Schedule of Regulations.
Footnote (z) would therefore be an additional footnote.

Section 16.2 notes to Schedule of Regulations is hereby proposed to be amended by adding a footnote (z) which reads as follows:

(z) The rear yard in a R-1-E, R-1-H, R-1-S and R-1 Single Family Residential District may be reduced after approval of the Zoning Board of Appeals upon the Zoning Board of Appeals finding that the following specific requirements have been met.

1) The single family structure may not extend more than 10 feet into the required 50 foot rear yard.
2) The rear yard of the residence must back to the rear yard of the adjoining residence and not to a side yard.
3) The width of the single family structure extending into the required 50 foot rear yard shall not exceed forty percent of the width of the portion of the single family structure which must comply with the 50 foot setback.
4) The proposed penetration into the rear yard setback is the only practical location for the proposed addition.
5) The completed structure will be consistent and compatible with the other houses in the immediate area in overall size, construction, quality, finish and aesthetic appearance.
6) The proposed extension into the rear yard shall not have a substantial negative impact on the open and expected vistas for adjoining properties.
7) The rear yard setback otherwise required is not less than 50 feet, on account of a consent judgment or other special exceptions.
8) The proposed structure shall comply with all other requirements of the ordinance.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the proposed amendment to the text, as printed, may be examined at the Township Hall, Community Development Department, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, during regular business hours, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., until the date of the Public Hearing. Social Security...You Get What You Pay For...

You may not have thought about this before, but right now you are earning disability insurance, survivors benefits, a retirement program, and future Medicare coverage. It's all paid for by the Social Security taxes withheld from your paycheck—and matched dollar for dollar by your employer.

And now you can find out just what those taxes are earning for you. It's easy to do and it's free. Just call 1-800-772-1213 and ask for a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement. When you get it, you'll see a complete history of your earnings, the Social Security taxes you've paid, and estimates of what you and your family could receive in Social Security retirement, disability, and survivors benefits.

And if there's an error or omission in your earnings record, Social Security will help you correct it.

Cleaning the tongue effectively reduced decay causing plaque and odor causing bacteria, Syal said. "People here aren't aware of that. They need to be educated."

Syal said the frequent suggestion that people brush their tongue with a toothbrush doesn't wash. Cleaning the tongue with a toothbrush often triggers a "gag reflex."

Making changes

Inventors, Broccardo said, may have a great idea, but a great idea isn't always enough.

"Where do they go?" he said. "Who should they see? How should it be packaged for shipment? For display? What should be the price? What type of deal do you give the retailer? What should be the percentage for profit?"

Those are just some of the questions that have to be answered, Broccardo said. Large manufacturers have all this information, but small guys who just starting out need a hand.

In the case of the Sakool tongue cleaner, Broccardo made several recommendations. First, change the packaging. "People have no idea how important that can be."

Packaging must explain the product very succinctly so buyers can quickly ascertain what the product's about, why they should buy it, and how it should be used.

Broccardo also suggested the addition of flavors to the tongue cleaner, since toothpaste and mouthwashes have conditioned people to expect flavoring in oral hygiene products.

Other changes not quite as obvious to the consumer include package design that allows the product to be easily displayed, a marketing plan, finding purchasers and casing packaging that allows the Sakool tongue cleaner to be distributed more easily.

He then uses his contacts within the retail industry to get the product into the hands of the consumer. There's no mystery in why Broccardo works in mainly medically related products and services.

Until starting Consumer Product Consulting years ago he was a purchaser for more than 15 years, most recently for pharmaceutical company. "You do what you know."

As a purchaser, he was constantly beset by company and salespeople with products that were difficult to market or poorly displayed.

His company also represents already developed products and processes that are being introduced in this area.

Selling ADApath

Another company Broccardo is currently working with is the Pasadena, Maryland-based ADApath. ADApath has developed a "detectable pathway" that helps facilities meet the requirements of the American Disabilities Act.

■ ADApath national sales manager Bob Shigenaka said that under the American Disabilities Act, wherever pedestrian walkways, ramps or blended sidewalks meet traffic areas and there's no curb present — for example, curb cuts at crosswalks — it must be distinguishable from the regular pavement to warn pedestrians that they should be careful. 'If a blind person comes out and there's no curb, he doesn't know where to stand,' he said. 'This solves that.'

ADApath national sales manager Bob Shigenaka said under the American Disabilities Act, wherever pedestrian walkways, ramps or blended sidewalks meet traffic areas and there's no curb present — for example, curb cuts at crosswalks — it must be distinguishable from the regular pavement to warn pedestrians that they should be careful.

"If a blind person comes out and there's no curb, he doesn't know where to stand," he said. "This solves that."

Up until now, contractors have attempted to use cement overlays or tiles embedded into the pavement. The overlays have had cracking problems and embedded tiles break up or come lose to easily.

ADApath covers the existing concrete with a newly developed material that alerts pedestrians by color and by small ridges detectable to a blind person with their feet, a cane or a seeing-eye dog.

All new and existing construction was supposed to be in compliance with the American Disabilities Act by July 26, 1993. Obviously, Shigenaka said, very little headway has been made, but that's partially because no practical, cost effective way has been available — until ADApath.

Shigenaka said Consumer Product Consultants job will be to act as ADApath's representative in the area.

At Saturn, Gill was able to make an appointment and he was assured the repairs wouldn't take longer than 20 minutes.

"What's the problem?" said Emerson Russell of Detroit, who also had his Saturn fixed at Plymouth Wednesday. "You come in, get an appointment and they give you good service. Why complain?"

All of the Saturns sold before last April, some 380,000 nationally, have been recalled by GM. The repair should take about a half hour and customers have been asked to make an appointment to have the work done.

Reid said that about 200 were fixed at his dealership Monday and Tuesday.

Parker hired temporary clerical help to answer phones and he moved a couple of technicians from an Oldsmobile dealership under common ownership to assist with the repairs.

"It's a very simple repair. We can handle 12 an hour," Parker said.

"We've committed to 90 percent completion in 90 days," Sciculna said. "It's been a real good team-building process."

Dealers reportedly were notified about the company recall last week a few days before notices were mailed to customers.

"You never like to hear of a problem with a product," Reid said. "You say, 'How can we make it as best we can for the customers so we can get it resolved as quickly as possible.' "

The dealerships said it remains to be worked out with GM who will pay for the extra expenses like temporary help and food associated with the recall.

"We've just got to take care of people," Parker said.

The dealers are optimistic that the massive recall won't affect future sales.

"I think our reputation will come out untarnished," Sciculna said.

Saturn owners, at least those who were waiting on repairs at the Plymouth dealership Wednesday, echo that sentiment.

"I have no problem with this," said Russell. "This could happen with any car, and as far as I'm concerned, this is just a precaution they are taking on my behalf. These people have given me the best service I've ever had since I've owned a car and until I get bad service, I won't complain."

Said Gill: "I'm very happy with this car. But I'd be even happier if I could drive it more. My wife takes it most of the time."

Saturn of Plymouth has sold about 5,000 cars since opening in November, 1990; Saturn of Troy 3,500 since January, 1991; and Saturn of Southfield 950 since opening last December, the dealerships reported.

Chris McCosky contributed to this report.

Marketing man breathes life into lab-locked concepts

Livonia-based Consumer Product Consultants take inventions and schemes out of the laboratories and drawing rooms and deliver them in clever, marketable packages into the hands of the general public.

BY GERALD FRAWLEY
STAFF WRITER

You've got this . . . thing . . . and you just know that someone will want to use . . . this thing . . . but you haven't the slightest idea how to get it in the hands of the people who need it.

That's where Livonia-based Consumer Product Consultant comes in.

Company founder Lou Broccardo started Consumer Product Consultants about four years ago to help inventors and companies bring products, typically medically related, from concept to end-user.

"When an inventor gets an idea, they often don't know what to do with it," he said. His job, Broccardo said, is to take the product from idea to reality.

Broccardo has helped get more than 20 different products into the hands of consumers since the company's inception, ranging from home catheterization kits and exercise boards for paraplegics, to kinetic motion wheelchairs that reduce pressure on the back by redistributing weight and barrier-free showers and tubs.

One of Broccardo's current projects is getting the Sakool Tongue Cleaner into general distribution.

Raj Syal, president of Sakool Co. in Detroit, had already distributed his tongue cleaner to the specialty medical markets, but he didn't know how to get it into Joe Average's hands — or to be more specific, into Joe Average's mouth.

Syal grew up in India where the practice of tongue cleaning for better oral hygiene is common. For some time now, even American Dentists and hygienists have extolled the value of tongue cleaning.

Local private schools bracing for possible enrollment surge

BY MARY RODRIQUE
STAFF WRITER

While state lawmakers hash out the future of public school financing, many parents not content with the uncertainty are ringing the phones of private and church affiliated schools as an alternative.

"We've had a surge of inquiries at all levels, from pre-kindergarten through upper school," said John Gilbert, an assistant to the headmaster of Detroit Country Day School in Beverly Hills.

Already the school which draws students primarily from the Birmingham/Bloomfield area has increased its enrollment by 55 students, from 1,255 last year to the current 1,310.

"They're careful shoppers," Gilbert said of the inquiring callers. "They ask interesting, precise questions about our philosophy, curriculum, about what we offer."

Four adjoining campuses set on 66 acres offer an academic college preparatory curriculum featuring the international baccalaureate program. Athletics is also a required part of the program.

Tuition ranges from $7,400 for pre-kindergarten class to $11,950 for the high school program. A cottage boarding program is available to students outside commuting distance.

"We still have a few openings but we're near capacity," Gilbert said. "We're really taking the cream of the crop."

Average class size for high school is 16 students, he said. At the elementary level, if there are over 22 students, an aid works with the classroom teacher.

Although Cranbrook Schools also has received a barage of calls since lawmakers nixed property tax funding for public education, a spokeswoman at the Bloomfield Hills school said enrollment — hovering near 1,200 — hasn't been affected.

"It's had minimal impact," said Annmarie Erickson, executive director of public relations and marketing. "We polled the five deans of admission and they all said they had a few inquiries."

"Every time there's a bit of a crisis, there's a segment of the population that says lets look at private school.

"It's everyones hope that the legislature will work something out."

Cranbrook has a science center, an art museum, and a graduate program in addition to its junior kindergarten through high school program.

While most students are from Oakland County, last year the roster included students from Korea, Japan, the former Soviet Union, Bahran and Belize.

"We keep class size small and there is always a waiting list," said Erickson. Tuition ranges from $4,900 to $11,850.

Parents checking with some area Catholic high schools, such as Redford Township-based Catholic Central and St. Agatha, are greeted by a recorded message stating offices are closed until mid-August.

Others, like Farmington Hills Our Lady of Mercy and Bishop Borgess in Redford, are operating on reduced summer schedules with minimal staff.

"We may have had a number of calls. Our recruitment director is off right now," said Sister Regina, principal of Mercy High. "When the Detroit Schools were on strike we had numerous calls. But we want to be sure the students won't pull out, that they're here to stay. We interview them. If they don't want to be here, we don't want them."

Mercy currently has an enrollment of 800 students in grades nine through twelve. Tuition is $4,800 for the strictly adhered college preparatory program.

"Mercy was built for more students," she said. "We could accommodate more. Many people may be waiting to see what happens (with public school funding) before taking action."

Meanwhile the property tax cut will have no impact on public schools for their fiscal year until the July 1994 tax bill.

Saturn dealers keep owners smiling

BY DOUG FUNKE

Saturn dealerships were going all out this week trying to make it as easy as possible for customers whose cars have been recalled by GM to deal with a wiring problem.

Extended service hours, complimentary food while customers wait and courtesy rides back home or to work are the order of the day.

Customers have responded positively for the most part, the dealerships reported.

"They've been very cordial," said David Parker, general manager at Saturn of Troy. "The hectic point is the phones. People coming in are understanding. There's TV to watch, something to eat."

"Everyone seems to have a good attitude about it," said Bert Reid, general manager and part owner of Saturn of Southfield. "I'm amazed that people have responded so positive."

"Most are very understanding and very patient with us," said John Scicluna, general sales manager at Saturn of Plymouth. "I think most are pretty pleased that this is a voluntary safety campaign. The government and national highway safety administration didn't mandate we do this."

Jack Gill of Taylor brought his Saturn to the Plymouth dealership Wednesday. Not only did he get the wiring problem done, the repairman also took time to perform routine maintenance checks.

"This is very nice," he said. "I had a recall on another car (a Pontiac) a few years ago. It was a minor seat belt problem, but they couldn't tell me how long it would take and wanted me just to leave it. Needless to say, I never got it fixed."

FAMILY LIFE

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

With props, kids learn through play

As mentioned in previous articles, play time for children offers learning as well as fun opportunities for children to put into practice what they observe in the real/adult world.

Children are able to create something new, problem solve, experiment and manipulate to their satisfaction. Observing children while engaged in socio-dramatic play experiences gives adults a preview of how children see the world around them through familiar settings, places and people.

Childcare professionals and parents can assist children in getting the best out of socio-dramatic play by providing resources and give a hint as to what to play through theme development and props.

A good way for parents to tell whether or not socio-dramatic play, which can be called life skills play, is being promoted effectively in their child's kindergarten classroom, day care home or center, is to look around for plenty of props. The more props available and accessible to children provide for a better starting point to build or expand upon.

The likelihood of realistic learning experiences relating to life skills and appropriate dialogue that may go along with these experiences can come with play.

Say, for example, the theme of play is house painter. It would be easier for a child to get into the role of painter, if a painter's hat and overalls were asccessible. A painter should have something to paint with, so provide brushes, paint sticks and the like. It's not mandatory paint should be included — at least not real paint. Try water and food coloring.

Now, most children will be able to think of other things and/or items that go along with the theme. A starting point has been provided — the props.

If you were to ask a child or three or may be four years, what did he or she do at preschool or day care, he or she would probably tell you what they ate for lunch or talk about what they played — usually a socio-dramatic learning-play activity.

Therefore, it might suggest that these experiences are ones that successfully impact children in a way that influences their thinking because it was significant enough for them to recall as part of their activity involvement.

Since socio-dramatic play experiences are significant and illustrated through child-to-adult conversation as children tell of their day, then adults should take pride and strive to enhance as well as create ways to make such play experiences meaningful and fun. Focus on the theme development work in appropriate props to match the theme.

Restaurant — To create an appropriate theme have such props as tables and chairs, menus, play dishes, silverware, order pad, trays, aprons, placemats, paper money, cash register, paper napkins and snack food on hand.

Car wash — Use toy cars and trucks, bicycles, rags or wash cloths, a pail, plastic squeeze containers, paper money, a small amount of mild soap with a small amount of water in the pail.

Post Office letter carrier — Use old envelopes, shoulder bags, junk mail, old magazines, postcards and the like, stamps made by the children, a toy mail box or one made by the children, mail carriers hat and sweater, small boxes and pens and pencils.

Baby care — Use dolls of different ethnic groups, doll clothes or infant T-shirts (available at a resale store), plastic dish pans, mild soap and water, infant-sized diapers, small wash cloth, travel-sized powder and lotion, child-sized comb and brush and a blanket.

Singer or musical entertainer — Use a variety of clothing that can be mixed and matched, hats, scarves, shoes and boots (not too large, small enough to fit safely), costume jewelry, makeup, tissue or cotton balls to apply makeup, toy microphone or one made by the children, tape recorder, tapes and musical instruments.

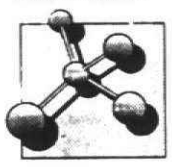
Kids get stuck on science at school

■ Oobleck and ransom notes hardly sounds like things you'd experience in summer school. But at New Morning School's "Discovery Days Classes," youngesters were toughening up with a gooey mixture of corn starch, water and green food coloring and using ransom notes to find out what colors are used to create colored ink.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER



Joey Boumaroun's parents will be surprised to hear their son was "toughened up" at New Morning School's "Discovery Days Classes."

"Ewe! I turned to stone," said Boumaroun as he smeared his arms with Oobleck, a green gooey mixture of corn starch, water and food coloring.

"No, you're slime!" said classmate Bobby Hoernschemeyer in hysterics.

The experiment taught the kids about chemical properties — specifically liquids and solids and how some mixtures can be both.

The students also discovered through several notes written on paper towels that sometimes marker manufacturers use a mixture of colors to make the color black.

After reading the letters, which were ransom notes demanding money in exchange for the release of Batman, teacher's aide Carol Watson-Himm dipped the towels in a pan of water. When lifted out of the water, the colors separated.

"Discovery Days" classes teach children about a myriad of subjects through hands-on experiments, according to teacher Barbara Courtney of Plymouth.

"The children discover things on their own," Courtney said. "I think because they're doing the work they're more interested in learning."

"We're trying to make learning interesting and fun . . . especially with math and science. There's not very many people from the United States going into math and science in college," added teacher Carla Ratcliff of Livonia. "The numbers are way down."

Aside from physics, Science Camp I and II also include lessons in earth science, botany, chemistry, oceanography, birds and night creatures.

Later in the course, the children experiment with LEGO TC/Logo Sampler, a graphic computer language which allows students to use special LEGO blocks to create vehicles and structures when they then operate via Logo programming.

The LEGO DACTA program teaches students to design and build devices which incorporate simple machines. To delve deeper into the subject, the students use project guidelines prepared by the Society of Automotive Engineers to investigate force, friction, air resistance, air pressure and mass and balance.

Math and science aren't the only subject taught during the school's summer program. "Student Involvement and Success" explains the importance of study and language skills.

New Morning School, a pre-kindergarten-eighth grade parent cooperative, has held "Discovery Days" classes since 1981. The school, established in 1973, carries its summer class philosophy into the regular school year.

The non-profit school prides itself on stressing individualized learning, student decision-making, goal-setting and hands-on learning.

"Without the parents, we couldn't do the things we do," said teacher/summer director Marilyn Romack.

For information about New Morning School's 1993 summer classes, which run through Aug. 20, or regular enrollment call 420-3331. The school is at 14501 Haggerty Road at M-14, Plymouth.

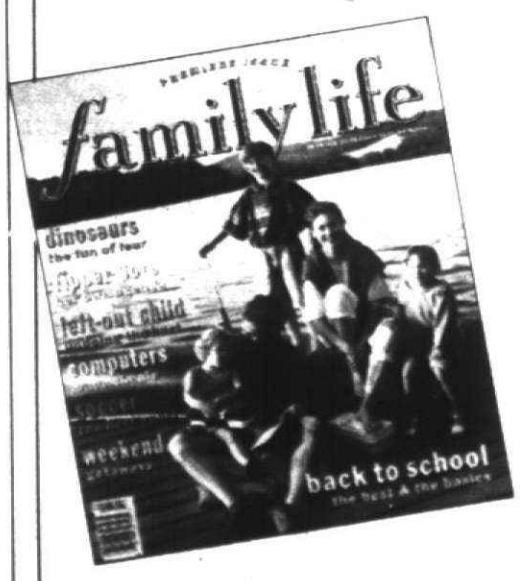
Magazine aims at boomers with kids



First, it was comfortable fitting slacks and jeans to fit the changing size of the baby boomers. Then it was reunion concerts of bands, reviving those mellow feelings of their '20s.

Now it's a magazine for the folks who once raised hell and are now raising kids, brought to them by the same publisher that brought them their bible of music, Rolling Stone..

Straight Arrow Publishers Inc. this week launched its newest magazine that offers, in a recognizable format, baby boomers the "relevant" things they need to raise their kids. Family Life has the shape, feel and colorful look of Rolling Stone, but instead of the musical menu, it serves up stories as unusual as they are interesting.

Hitting newsstands in time for the start of school, it provides parents with the latest in back-to-school fashions, ideas for making lunch box offerings that are not only interesting but tasty (handprint peanut butter and jelly sandwiches) and the best dictionaries for kids 3-5, 5-8 and 8-12 years of age.

"It deals with issues that all families deal with, not just the two-parent, two-car family, but the single father family or the grandparents raising the children families," said Erika Lavyne, assistant publicist for Straight Arrow. "There's no one magazine that addresses these issues for adults. They may teach you to knit something your child won't ever wear, but we're different. We deal with the more real, the more relevant issues for the '90s family."

Real? There's nothing more real than computers and for the children of the television age setting up a home computer system for the family may be mind-boggling. The magazine has the lowdown, from what to buy and what you get to where to buy and why as well as software that parents and kids find friendly.

Lavyne acknowledges that while there are other magazines for parents on the market, they're not competitors of Family Life because of the niche it is filling.

"(It's) the first family magazine to cover the wide spectrum of topics important to the 49 million parents with children aged 3-12," said Lavyne.

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green,

Today was the first time I read your column. I've always been interested in handwriting analysis.

I noticed you don't really explain how you drew your conclusions from the handwriting, such as what it means when you write the letter "e" a certain way.

I would really appreciate it if you could analyze mine. When I was in school, I graduated in '90, I noticed my handwriting was always different from the other girls.

K. L., Westland

The reason I do not attempt to explain how I arrive at the various traits is that everything on the paper must be considered before a determination can be accurately made. The length of the column does not allow me to go into this amount of detail. However, I would like to share that the way in which the writer uses her space is a major consideration. This includes, letter, word and line spacing in addition to the four margins.

Many contemporary authors of graphology books use the trait/stroke approach. They take each letter and assign it a meaning. Using this method alone can be misleading. Graphologists have an important rule: "No trait stands alone. Each must be considered in combination with the remainder of the handwriting."

In today's handwriting, the many fluctuations in spacing and in letter size tell me the writer is still in a state of flux about many issues and elements in her life.

She appears to be a tad rebellious. Was the early authority figure too strict or disappointing in some way?

Protocol is not terribly important to her. She does not want to be held back by past roots nor traditional norms.

At this juncture in her development, she has not learned the value of discipline. She is inclined to work as the mood moves her. It is important for her to realize that success in any area of life requires self-discipline.

Our writer appears to be careless about many things in her life. This probably results in small accidents, the look at my boo-boo type. It also gives her attention and caring from those around her, which she needs. However, if not checked it could develop into accident proneness.

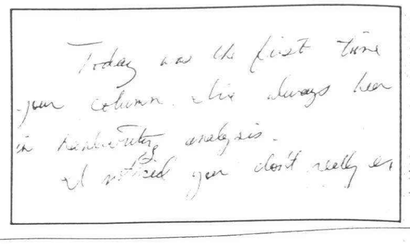
Seemingly her bailiwick is often in a state of disarray. Neatness is not a big priority item here. Many unfinished projects are probably around. Goals are not firmly in place and present accomplishments may not be too rewarding.

Feelings of self-worth appear to fluctuate which suggests a healthy self-concept has not developed as yet. When feeling insecure she becomes defensive and is quick with her retort.

This is a sensitive young woman and is easily threatened by criticism of her personal self. Did she receive too much of it in the formative years?

Much of the time she has a nice way with words, and can be quite tactful. She does not like to be pinned down and knows how to wiggle out of difficult situations.

Like most young people she wants to make friends and be part of the crowd. However, her changing moods tend to make this difficult at times. When upbeat she can be friendly and enjoyable company. When feeling discouraged or unhappy, she retreats into her shell. Those around her may either not know how to deal with this, nor take time to understand, so close relationships may not develop easily.



While I do not know the reason for her unhappiness I do hope she will talk to someone and try to work out the problem. Perhaps a religious adviser or trusted friend might be helpful. I know it is not easy. However, if she will make the effort perhaps the other parts of her life will fall into place.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are all helpful. Objective feedback is always welcomed.

Seminars are 'oil change' for mind

By Sue Mason
Staff Writer

All of us have what we like to call quirks, but deep down inside we know they're habits. Some are good habits. And others . . . well, they're . . . not so good habits.

And we all know how difficult dumping those not so good habits can be. Give up smoking and turning into a walking, talking eating machine. Have a bad experience getting a job and, poof, you're locked into negative feelings about the employment picture.

But it doesn't have to be that way, according to Damon Reinbold, who with Dr. Douglas Ruben will be in Livonia and Southfield next week for a series a seminars designed to shed bad habits and get a better grip on your life.

"The mind is like a computer; it does what it's conditioned to do," said Reinbold. "It does it even when you don't want it to do it. My job is to get to the subconscious and change that program."

Reinbold will do two seminars — "Stop Smoking, Lose Weight" and "Get Your Mind off Your Ex," while Ruben serve up his family recovery seminar and "Rate Your Date." The seminars will run concurrently at 6 and 8 p.m. Aug. 16 at the Holiday Inn-West, Six Mile and I-275 in Livonia, and Aug. 19 at the Holiday Inn on Telegraph north of 10 Mile Road, Southfield.

Reinbold practices perception therapy, a non-medical therapy for fast paced people who know what they want and want it instantly.

"My technique is like an instant oil change," Reinbold said. "Positive thinking seminars are dynamite, but the problem is they tell people what to think, but they don't tell them how to think it. With my technique, I show people how to think in the first place so thay take those perceptions into the real world."

According to Reinbold, change doesn't have to take a long period of time or be painful. It can be as simple as helping people change how their perception of themselves. It can be as simple as providing an anchor — a feeling of being in control — to overcome a stressful situation.

■ 'The mind is like a computer; it does what it's conditioned to do. It does it even when you don't want it to do it.'

Damon Reinbold

Taking into consideration that no two people think alike, Reinbold individualizes within his seminars as much as possible. "Getting Your Mind Off Your Ex" doesn't necessarily mean an ex-spouse, but a former job or anything that has left the person with bad memories that hold them back in the present.

"I change how they feel about themselves, their self-esteem," he said. "I change their responses to bad self memories."

Reinbold didn't start out to be therapist. He was a seminarian when an older priest asked him to be a participant in an experiement he was doing for his master's degree. The subject was hypnosis and even though Reinbold thought he was faking it because he wasn't asleep, he discovered that the priest was able to plant a thought in his mind during a second session.

"He planted the idea in my mind that when he counted to three I would read the time on the clock on the wall behind him," Reinbold said. "I looked up and said 'My, it's quarter to four.' Then I went back under and he told me when he counted to three everything would be back to normal. I opened my eyes and saw that there wasn't a clock on the wall." he was hooked.

Reinbold left the seminary and eventually went on to study with Dr. Milton Erickson, the foremost medical therapist of his time. Erickson imparted some words of wisdom that have stuck with him since. He told his young friend that "every human being has every resource in them they need, the problem is they don't know how to reach them."

Reinbold, who now is the toast of the talk show circuit — "I've been on Sally Jesse Raphael more than anyone else." — and traverses the United States doing seminars, uses Erickson's beliefs in his therapy.

"If I say to people picture this, I only reach 40 percent, so actually I ask them to imagine it in their own way," he said. "I don't have to know what they're thinking, however, I can deal with how they think."

Ruben's approach to therapy is slightly different. He teaches a four-step program for family recovery — how to beat anxiety, how to get rid of shame and guilt, how to cope with anger and how to talk to your family and the people around you and the stages of recovery.

Like Reinbold, he is well known across the country. He is the best-selling author of more than 30 self-help books on family and addiction. His titles include "Guilt No More: 10-Step Guide to a Shame-Free life," "Avoidance Syndrome: Doing Things Out of Fear" and "Bratbusters: Say Goodbye to Tantrums and Disobedience." He has just finished work on yet another book, "One Minute Secrets to Feeling Great."

In his family seminar, Ruben teaches people "exactly what to do, what to expect and how to survive their worst enemies — fear and failure." In his "Rate Your Date" seminar, he will focus on actually how to chose the right person for you.

Each seminar costs $45 and advance reservations are necessary. They can be made by calling (800) 442-2487.

Magazine

The magazine was in the works for 1½ years.

Initially, the magazine will be published bimonthly with plans for monthly publication aimed at sometime in 1994. Subscription rates for the first year will run $12.47, with the price to be adjusted as its readership increases.

"We think it's so good and so well put together that families will want to afford the $2.50 (per month)," said Lavyne. "We really hope it will be a success."

HOMELINE
953-2020

You can chase away the hunger pangs and help out Hospice Services of Western Wayne County Inc. as part of a fund-raiser at the Plymouth Landing Restaurant in Plymouth.

The restaurant, at 340 N. Main St., will give Hospice Services a donation of $5 for every patron who buys a dinner and presents a coupon at the restaurant.

Dining for Hospice kicked off last weekend, when Hospice Services volunteers and staffers gave away Dining for Hospice coupons to shoppers during Plymouth's Sidwalk Sales. Coupons are still available at the Hospice Services offices in Plymouth or Garden City.

"It's a great way to show how people and organizations that have a different focus can get together to help people," said Maureen Butrico, executive director for Hospice Services. "And what better way to show support than to help terminally ill people and their families."

The Dining for Hospice program is the brainchild of Tony Kellogg, the restaurant manager, and Jim Plakas, owner of the Plymouth Landing. Kellogg believes "it's a way for the customer to come in, enjoy a dinner, and feel good that their money is going to support a worth-while cause."

"We are delighted to be part of the program," added Plakas. "Hospice Services brings many people through rough times.

"There are so many wonderful charities around, but this need hits closer to home. People need people, and when a family is dealing with a terminal illness, it is very comforting to know that Hospice Services is there to help."

Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled home care to terminally ill individuals. The Hospice philosophy gives supportive care which neither hastens nor postpones death, but promotes quality of life and provides comfort and emotional help for the patient and family members.

With 20 full-time staff members and more than 100 volunteers, Hospice Services provides much needed service to patients with any terminal illness in western Wayne County, southern Oakland and eastern Washtenaw counties.

In addition to providing the service to patients, Hospice Services offers much needed support to the patient's family. Hospice Services maintains contact with family members for 13 months after a patient expires. Care is expressed to grieving family members through grief relief group meetings, mailings, telephone calls, visits and memorial services.

"Part of the funds we raise through the Dining for Hospice program will be used to help establish a children's bereavement program at Hospice Services," said Butrico. "Children are deeply affected by the loss of a loved one and it's time that we begin to help children to work through their grief.

"We all have lost someone who we love and were close to us. Through programs at Hospice we can help families through what is often one of the most difficult times in their life."

What can the cost be for our overabundance?

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. KATE THORESEN

The peach tree outside our kitchen window is teaching us some valuable lessons this summer about the difference between abundance and overabundance.

Last year the tree surprised us. We had not expected to ever be able to eat a peach off of the tree. We planted it because we liked its shape and its leaves. We had heard that edible peaches are often hard to grow here. So when the tree produced wonderful three-inch round peaches last year, we relished our home-baked, home-grown peach cobblers. It was a bonus, it seemed, from creation itself!

This spring the tree grew taller and wider and had produced numerous blossoms. It was a sight to behold. We didn't want to do anything to the tree. Just let it grow and maybe it would produce even more peaches than before.

It did. But this year there are too many. These small hard peaches cluster like grapes and have weighed the tree down so much that a couple of the branches are splitting in two. There are simply too many and they crowd each other out so that none will have the chance to get as big as the few did last year.

We did not select certain ones to keep and discard other buds in the spring. Nor did we prune the small branches, so now the smaller branches carry loads that exceed their capacity to hold them. The formerly tall, upright peach tree is weighed down by its super-abundance so much that it looks more like a weeping willow!

Ironically, it is no longer healthy because of its unchecked proliferation. Disease has sat in and the leaves are curled. Little bugs bore holes in the rock hard peaches. Its overabundance has its costs! It will take a lot of time and care to help this super-producing tree.

And sometimes I wonder if our current lifestyles might reflect similar signs of the costs of overabundance.

Are we so busy with our many activities that we simply don't take the time to simply enjoy the good gifts of creation and marvel at the wonder and majesty of pink tinted clouds at sunset or the profusion of purple pink flowers in the gardens?

Do we get so preoccupied with acquiring and taking care of the abundance of our possessions that we lose sight of the simple, meaningful moments that life pours out before us?

Do we ever got so caught up in the overabundance of scheduled plans and activities, that we hardly see and listen to the people that we are with?

What are we teaching our children when they feel pressure to become overly productive and need to be super-stars in every arena of their lives? When can they simply take time to enjoy the life and the people around them and attend to the things that call out their interests, gifts and enthusiasm?

Overabundance in material things and in activities can weigh people down just as too many peaches can bend down a tree.

Overnight offers 'A Great Escape'

Too often mothers tend to forget that within lies a person with needs just like everyone else. Their individuality is more than likely consumed by motherhood.

On Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 21-22, the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn and metroParent magazine will offer mothers the opportunity to focus on themselves as women and not just mothers and wives.

"The Great Escape — A Mother's Pampered Overnight" will provide moms with a weekend of relaxation and a taste of luxury. Women along with celebrity mothers will enjoy an informal fashion show over pastries and specially coffees.

Moms will get to chat with and discover what some of the area's most notable celebrity mothers, such as WKQI's Colleen Burcar, WJBK's Sherry Margolis and WDIV's Jennifer Moore, have to say about the demands of managing motherhood and life in the '90s.

Mini workshops ranging from beauty, fitness and health to time management will be conducted by local businesses and organizations that offer expertise in these fields — Tamara In-Town-Spa, Beverly Hills Racquet and Health Club, Margot's Euro Spa, Institute for Women's Medicine-Hutzel Hospital and Gail's Office Supply Company.

Sponsored by the Institute for Women's Medicine-Hutzel Hospital, Detroit Metro Area Saturn Retailers and WQRS, reservations for "The Great Escape" can be made by calling the Ritz-Carlton at 441-2000, Ext. 436, or metroParent magazine at 352-0990.

Can any person hear and understand gospel preaching? Yes! If they are like Lydia, "WHOSE HEART THE LORD OPENED, THAT she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul" (Acts 16:14). Note it was NOT said that the Lord opened Lydia's heart THROUGH Paul's preaching. SPIRITUAL LIFE must be given BY GOD BEFORE there is power to hear and believe. If you long to hear the gospel, come with us this Sunday!

Nancy Fowler: Her life, visions

By Diane Hanson
Special Writer

In a small town in Georgia, a soft-spoken woman claims she started having strange mystical experiences in 1983. By 1987, she says she was experiencing regular apparitions of Jesus and his mother, Mary. In 1990, she claims they asked her to reveal their words to the world.

Nancy Fowler has made Conyers, Ga., 20 miles southeast of Atlanta, a point of interest for an increasing number of people from throughout the United States and the world. They are the faithful, the doubtful, the miracle seekers, those hoping for cures or looking for signs, those seeking inner peace and those coming out of respect, expecting nothing in return.

They come by the thousands on the 13th of each month to hear Fowler reveal the message for the United States she claims Mary has given her. Now, Fowler talks about the visions she claims to have experienced, her personal beliefs and how it has affected her life.

Diane Hanson

At Conyers: Some 80,000 people crowded around Nancy Fowler's home on June 13. They were there to hear what Mary's message to the United States was as to to the self-proclaimed visionary. Fowler, below, center, claims to have visions.

What were your first visions?

"Actually, the first visions I had, or mystical experiences, were of the other kingdom. That was the kingdom I was denying. I denied the reality that Satan could manifest himself. I did not think that a demon really existed.

" Our Lord got my undivided attention in a big way by showing me the other kingdom first. There was nothing on this entire earth that could convince me otherwise, I can assure you. I was terrified. I didn't believe in that kingdom. My thoughts back then were that evil was a concept, not a reality."

Why do you think you saw that dark side first?

"I think our Lord was showing me where I was walking by doing that. First of all, I thought myself to be very intelligent. I was deceived that I had the answers; the world had the answers. The career was important. I was a bench-warmer Catholic.

"That's when I questioned the reality of Satan and I thought, maybe I'm not sure about the existence of God either. I even started to question that and that's when . . . I had the rug pulled out from underneath my feet."

Did you ever ask, "Why me?"

"You know, probably because I'm the most wretched, the most undeserving of the bunch. Our Lord said He wants to show the world His love and mercy and so He picked someone most in need of mercy.

"All your readers must understand that I'm not deserving of these heavenly favors, that I'm the least deserving. At the moment when our Lord appeared to me, I would have been deserving to see Satan but not Jesus.'

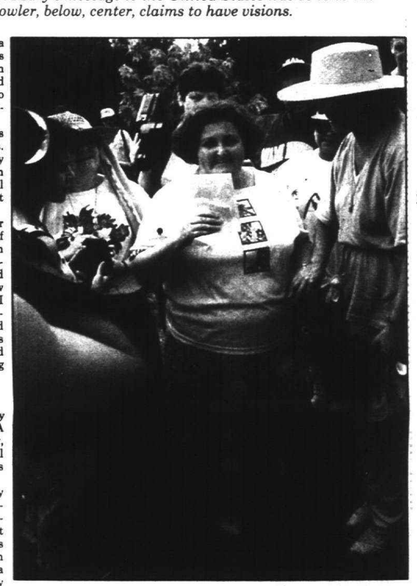
Fowler says she experienced her first vision of Jesus in February 1987. She claims her second vision didn't occur until November of that year.

What was it like to see Jesus?

"Beyond all words! He just walked through a door and stood in the room. He looked like His paintings that you see growing up. But I remember most his eyes. They were dark.

"I remember what I experienced first was the overwhelming love. I mean the embracing, all-encompassing, unconditional, perfect love. You're bathed in this love. It's such serenity and peace and joy and compassion and mercy and forgiveness all wrapped up in that moment. You know, our Lord wants us to know He's alive and living, that He lives within us, that He's everywhere, that we can go to Him any time, any moment. We have lost this reality."

During this same time period, Fowler says she began having visions of angels. She believes the angels were helping to prepare her for future apparitions. Her first encounter was in 1987 during a time of personal strife. She was praying and crying in her room when she said an angel appeared on her closet door. "I was so shocked to see an angel, I instantly stopped crying."



Fowler describes the angels as "beautiful, spiritual creatures. They have majestic wings. They are in immense light whiter than dazzling white." She cannot tell the gender and she says that most of the time they are silent.

Fowler said her first encounter with Mary, during the summer of 1987, was via an inner locution where distinct words are experienced by the heart while the mind is at rest — "I didn't even know that word; it was foreign to me. I just knew that this was happening to me." She was awakened from a sound sleep by a lady's voice saying, "Please get up and pray. My Son and I are calling you to holiness."

What does Mary look like?

"Our Lady is lovelier than any picture, any statue in the world. A lot of them look like Our Lady, but she's much more beautiful than any of our human creations of her.

"Everything she points the way to her Son. Everything she attributes to God. She is the most humble of all the creatures, the most loving. She is very beautiful. It's the love of God, her oneness with God. She's such a mother, a mother, truly a mother in every sense of the word."

You talk about your family responsibilities. Has this brought a lot of hardships?

"The world doesn't realize the heavy cross that's being asked. Back in 1990, when the public began to find out about it, and that's only at the request of heaven. Heaven opened the door; I didn't. Our Lady said to me, 'Your private life has ended. Your public ministry begins and you will suffer more.' You know, I didn't know what it was to be in the public eye. I didn't even have a clue.

"She appeared one time and said, 'Do you accept the cross with the gift?' I just thought it was understood, so I didn't answer. I just thought it was automatic. And then she very gently said, 'I'm waiting for your answer.' "

But you didn't understand all that would be involved?

"I was so naive. I always thought, 'Gee, if you tell the truth, everybody is going to believe you.' That's all there is to it. I was very naive in my thinking. But what you know, you know, and the gift is to be shared. And no matter what the people say or do or what they think, you keep your eyes on Jesus and you go forward because you know."

What changes have these vision caused in your life?

"You know what the visions have done to my life? When Our Lord would speak to me, my heart would just burn like fire and cause me to look at my own life. I would have to look at my own life and I would have to make the changes.

Fowler gave an example of how in the fall of 1987, she was praying before a tabernacle in the church when she said she heard Jesus say: 'Do not rejoice in the powers of darkness, rejoice in the Light of the Lord.' "

Fowler associated those words with the approaching Halloween holiday. "It was like a sword pierced my heart." Fowler and her husband made immediate changes which she admitted were not easy with a "temper-tantrum child." She instituted in her own family and church an All-Saints party where the children choose a favorite saint and decorated T-shirts with the likeness of that saint for a costume.

What do you think the biggest change in your life has been?

"I think the biggest change is the Mass and the Eucharist being alive and most important in my life. Nothing surpasses the graces of the Mass, nothing. No apparition surpasses the graces of the Mass.'"

Fowler has said that, on a few occasions during Mass, she has witnessed the form of Jesus "walk up and merge with the priest. As He walks to the back of the priest, the priest becomes an aura of light."

What is the Mother of God trying to tell us?

"This life is so temporary. You tell people life is so temporary but it doesn't always register. It didn't with me. We don't know the hour which we will be called back home. And Our Lady is saying, 'Be prepared, children, to meet my Son any time. Lead your life this way. Live the gospel.' She's telling us to do this. She's not giving us new revelations. She's telling us things that we've already heard that maybe we've pushed aside.

Enthusiasts derive thrills from identifying butterflies

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Butterfly-watching is a natural extension of bird-watching. Both activities deal with a colorful animal, many different areas can be involved, the subjects exhibit many of the same principles of biology, and there are a reasonable number of species to learn about. Attracting butterflies to a yard can also be done by planting the proper kinds of plants.

A similarity between bird-watching and butterfly-watching is the activity of counting and identifying. On July 17, 1993, the Farmington Area Naturalists conducted their third annual butterfly count at Heritage Park in Farmington Hills. Between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., participants walked the trails and counted butterflies.

As with any activity, when your attention if focused on a particular subject, you become much more aware of it. Over the past three years, 26 different species of butterflies have been counted by the group. Each year has yielded some new and different species, as well as variation in the total number of individuals.

In 1991, participants counted 349 butterflies; in 1992, 232; and in 1993, 190. Though all three counts were conducted at the same time of the year, prior weather conditions caused the differences in total number. Over time, it will be interesting to note any differences or similarities in the total number and diversity of butterflies in the park.

One of the most commonly counted butterflies is the large wood nymph. They are medium-sized butterflies that are very chocolate colored and can appear black in the shadows. Pearly crescent spots, common sulfurs and European cabbage butterflies are also commonly counted.

So when a new or seldom seen butterfly is identified, it sparks the interest of all those involved. During the 1993 count, a harvester butterfly was netted and later released. It was orange and black on the top and peach-colored with stripes on the underside of the hind wings. A nickel could cover it when its wings were folded.

Though not a very splashy butterfly, what makes this butterfly interesting is that its larvae eats aphids, not plants as most larvae do. It was discovered in the woods near a stream where woolly aphids could be found. This was one of two new species identified on the count this year.

Holding a captured butterfly, identifying it and then releasing it is a marvelous feeling.

Canton Project Arts to showcase fine art

Lots of things help make a community special: schools, libraries, parks, public services, public safety, merchants.

And the arts.

As Canton treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter, active in Canton Project Arts and a Plymouth Community Arts Council past president, put it: "The arts are something that haven't been a priority among Canton residents in terms of organization and funding. We want to show that we're interested in the cultural aspect of what makes a community unique."

Within this backdrop, Project Arts will host a juried gallery showing and sale of fine art Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 6-7, in the Canton Administration Building, 1150 Canton Center. Admission is free. Artists, patrons and dignitaries will kick off the festive weekend at an invitation-only opening Friday night, Nov. 5.

Just one facet of Project Arts' cultural push, the fine arts show has a dual purpose: to give Michigan artists a chance to showcase their work and to heighten public awareness of the arts.

To request an application to enter the show, call the Canton treasurer's office: 397-5371. The deadline to enter original artwork (no slides or photos) is Oct. 11. The cost is $15 per work for non-residents and $10 per work for residents.

Prizes will include a Jurors Choice Award, a Canton Project Arts Special Award and category merit awards. Businesses, groups and individuals who'd like to contribute prize money should call Kirchgatter.

Experience the arts

She's not an artist but Kirchgatter says she appreciates those who are. "I want to do what I can to encourage residents of all ages to be creative and to encourage the community to come out and experience the arts."

Project Arts member and show chairwoman Sharon Dillenbeck is a professional artist, art teacher and gallery owner. She does portraiture and creates realistic impressionism in pencil, watercolor and oil. She's co-juror of the Canton Liberty Fest summer fine art show at Heritage Park.

Dillenbeck sees the Project Arts fall show complementing Liberty Fest by "bringing artwork out of the street fair setting into a new environment."

The November show, just before the holiday gift-buying season, is especially good, she adds: "We gave a real splash of fine art this summer at Liberty Fest. Now, we'll come back and say, 'Here we are again. Come see us.' Project Arts is here to stay. We're going to take a stand in the Canton community and not quit."

About 60 Canton residents formed Project Arts last winter to promote the cultural arts: fine art, music, dance, stage, writing, poetry, storytelling, crafts and pottery. "That's what's good about Project Arts — it's spread out," Dillenbeck said. "And it has a strong nucleus of people who really care what happens with their community. They get right in there and work."

Art gallery planned

When the planned new Summit on the Park in Heritage Park opens in 1995, the multipurpose center will include a fine art gallery.

Project Arts will assist in fine-tuning Summit on the Park's cultural programming. It might, for example, consider whether the center should have an art rental gallery, non-stage entertainment or a poet, artist or philosopher in residence.

Meanwhile, the committee will work with the Canton Parks and Recreation Department to schedule cultural events at Heritage Park.

Supervisor Tom Yack sees township government stimulating volunteer initiatives like arts programming, then letting the folks involved advance the extras that help enrich a community.

As a signal of their commitment, township trustees budgeted $5,000 for Project Arts this year. That should be enough to jump-start the committee in its bid to spur cultural diversity and inspire the forming of a Canton Friends of the Arts.

Kirchgatter envisions commissioned sculpture, paintings and fabric art at Summit on the Park and purchased artwork in the treasurer's office.

This spring, the township purchased the Best of Show from a fine arts show of work by Canton's park and recreation seniors. The painting now hangs in the township hall.

Fine art's moving to the forefront in Canton's cultural firmament. Says Dillenbeck: "Culturally we're growing and we need to let residents know the cultural opportunities we have right here so they don't have to drive all over the place to enjoy or buy fine art. We've got to do a better job of marketing."

Polish native shows homeland treasures

Canton resident Krystyna Dryja shares a variety of pieces from her collection of Polish memorabilia in an exhibition running through August in the Livonia Civic Center Library second-floor showcases.

Old World meets New in the Livonia Civic Center Library as a Polish native and Canton resident displays items from her collection reflecting her love of nationality and homeland.

"The collection sort of brings me closer to my homeland," said Krystyna Dryja, a Canton resident for seven years. "It helps me remember where I came from. Those were the fun years, as a child with no responsibilities."

Livonia Arts Commission will present this exhibition of Polish memorabilia through Aug. 31 in the cylindrical display cases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Twenty-five years ago, Dryja came to this country as a teenager from Starachowice, a city then with 70,000 residents in Poland's Kielce region, about two hours south of Warsaw.

Much of her collection — including crystal, jewelry, porcelain, platters, wood carvings and figurines — came from trips to Poland, but was mainly started with wedding gifts from relatives and friends.

"Porcelain from my husband's family is 70 years old and has stamps and names," Dryja said.

Wooden figurines were purchased in Cepelia, an arts and crafts store specializing in selling crafts made by local artists. "They were handcarved in southern Poland," Dryja said.

"Over the years," she said, "I've been traveling back and forth. Every year, I've brought something back, either gifts or things I've bought. I like to collect things."

The items on display were chosen to depict various regions in Poland, Dryja said.

"I definitely want her to exhibit her costume," said arts commissioner Lee Alanskas, who handles the library display cases. "Krystyna and her family are members of a Polish dance troupe. She's very active in the Polish community. She has excellent taste, which reflects her personality."

Classes help seniors sharpen creative edge

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

If you'd like to learn about art, music, history, literature or computers, and meet new friends in the process, Livonia Public Schools' continuing education program for senior citizens offers the opportunity to brighten your future.

Academic and enrichment classes start the week of Sept. 7 at 15 Livonia locations. Registration begins Aug. 16 at Bentley Center, 15100 Hubbard, at Five Mile.

"All classes qualify for high school completion credit, if seniors have ever wanted to attain a high school diploma," said Janice Wilhelm, program supervisor.

"The classes help seniors to stay active, to keep up with the times, to talk with your children and grandchildren. There's a social value to meet new people."

Classes are free and specifically designed for seniors.

More than 40 classes meet once a week for three hours for a total of 20 weeks. Subjects include business, English, math, science and social studies.

"The classes are designed to be hands-on creative learning experiences for the seniors," Wilhelm said. "They move at the pace students are comfortable with. We try to make them students' classes."

A popular class last year was "Discovering Diaries," in which students ended the term by putting together a book of their writings. This year, students will delve into the private lives of public figures through reading, while studying the art of writing and keeping a personal journal.

Due to budget cuts, art offerings like the jewelry-making class have been canceled. But Wilhelm expects "Tints and Tones," a color theory class, to compensate for the loss by

■ STUDY UP

If your arts group, business or adult education program is offering fall classes in creativity, we want to know about it.

In September, Creative Living will spotlight art classes that range from painting and pottery to basket weaving, quilt making and interior design in a two-part series.

■ IN FOCUS

■ PHOTO TIME

A retrospective of color and black and white photographs by photographer Dick Arthur, a 35-year Livonia resident, continues on display to Aug. 31 in the Livonia City Hall lobby, Farmington Road and Five Mile. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

wealth of various regions, Dryja said.

Heavy wool dresses with much embroidery from the city of Lowicz, for example, are indicative of wealth. Ribbons on dresses and cotton dresses are found in regions with more moderate income. "I've learned more about the costumes by learning about the dancing," Dryja said.

Family members are Radomianie dancers. Dryja's husband and daughter plan a trip to Poland soon where they will perform ethnic dancing. Both children speak Polish.

While crystals are important pieces in Dryja's collection, vases, whiskey glasses, wine glasses and candy dishes also will be displayed.

Dryja hopes viewers of the display are moved enough to one day visit Poland. "It's a beautiful country with a long history," she said.

"Things are changing in Poland," Dryja said, referring to the fall of Communism within the last 10 years. "There's an abundance of everything as long as you have the money.

"Things are changing for the better," she added. "It'll take time for things to really change because people have to change their way of thinking. But with free enterprise encouraging private business, things are getting better. They're heading the right way."

Alanskas hopes to continue the nationality displays. Last year, Ukrainian Easter eggs were featured.

Remaining library displays this year are: pottery in September, contemporary dolls in October, student artwork in November and bookmarks in December. The exhibiter decides if items are for sale, Alanskas said.

Viewing hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Thursday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The exhibition, hosted by the city of Southfield and Business Consortium for the Arts, features large-scale sculpture, ranging from a whimsical wood cat to a sensual bronze figure practicing the art of dance.

Sponsored by Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs and Arts Foundation of Michigan, the exhibition continues through Oct. 15 at the plaza, 26000 Evergreen, between 10 Mile and 11 Mile, Southfield.

De Giusti, who earned bachelor and master of fine art degrees from Wayne State University, is best known for creating the 20-panel bas relief on permanent display in the rotunda of the State of Michigan Library, Museum and Archives Building in the Capitol complex in Lansing.

The Southfield exhibition, curated by sculpture professor Jay Holland at Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, was jurored by Robert Youngman. A sculpture professor at the University of Illinois, Youngman is best known in this area for the concrete bas reliefs on the facade of the Michael Berry International Terminal at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Youngman awarded three honorable mentions in addition to three monetary prizes. Other honorable mentions went to Tom Paul Fitzgerald for "Slant Grid Map," a steel puzzle of monumental scale, and Chung Bea Park for a bronze, "Waiting Period."

First prize of $1,000 from the Arts Foundation of Michigan was awarded to Tom Phardel, Ann Arbor artist and chairman of Center for Creative Studies ceramics department, for his stone and steel "Arc."

Second prize of $500 from Business Consortium for the Arts went to David Barr of Novi for "Avenue," steel.

Third prize of $300 from Redstone Architects in Southfield went to Birmingham sculptor Joseph Wesner for his expressionistic steel, "Birdwalker."

allowing seniors to study use of color in a variety of media.

New this fall are two instrumental music classes, one concentrating on playing keyboards, the other offering seniors the opportunity to play bells.

"We already have two octaves of bells. We're looking for a supporter to get the third octave," Wilhelm said.

Also new is "Rocks, Reefs and Ridges," which explores the mysteries of the Earth. "They'll be studying geology, the plates of the Earth. We'll try to relate it to what's happening with the flooding," Wilhelm said.

Other classes include studying "Lives and Wives of American Presidents," composers and composition in "Who Writes the Songs?," world history in "What in the World Happened?" and the "ABCs of IBM."

Classes are open to seniors, particularly non-graduates in surrounding communities. "We encourage the non-grads to also enroll in academic classes (besides fine arts), then we can receive funding (from the state)," Wilhelm said.

Seniors may also register for classes at sites in addition to Bentley Center on the day the classes begin.

For more information, call Wilhelm 9-11:30 a.m. Monday through Thursday at 523-9361.

Learn how to be streetwise

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

■ Whether it's the familiarity of your own town or the unexplored streets in a strange place, streetlife provides tremendous opportunity for you and your camera.

It's streetlife! Whether it's the familiarity of your own town or the unexplored streets in a strange place, streetlife provides tremendous opportunity for you and your camera.

If you look through a photography book or at a collection of old photographs, you'll find some of the most interesting pictures are invariably of streetlife. This is largely because it is this aspect of our lives that most readily reflects the fashions, trends and lifestyles of a particular period.

A street is dynamic. Cars, buses and bicycles are all subjects with strong pictorial potential.

And, of course, there are the people. People walking down the street, people engaging in animated conversation, people standing on the corner . . . all wonderful opportunities for streetlife photography. There is an almost irresistible appeal in people pictures and a subject preoccupied is easy prey to a photographer with a keen eye and a quick response.

A street market can be a treasure house of streetlife pictures. Market people are extroverts by nature and often have faces and mannerisms that can make great photos.

One of the problems that often occurs in streetlife photography is confusing and busy backgrounds. Try to avoid this by choosing a camera position that isolates your subject from the surroundings. Use a telephoto lens to frame your picture tightly and by using a wide aperture, distractions in the background will be kept out of focus.

To minimize problems with contrast, photograph subjects that are out of direct sunlight. Better still, an overcast day provides the best lighting for streetlife people pictures. Bright colors are more saturated and lighting on faces is more flattering.

Use a fast film in the 400 ASA range, either color or black and white depending on your preference. The faster films will enable you to hand hold exposures under most circumstances.

Now's the month to nurture a rosy outlook

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

August is usually the time to take it easy in the garden, but there are still things that can be done, along with the ever-necessary weeding.

A good time to plan for next year's garden often begins as the summer flowers start to fade and we take stock of what has or hasn't worked.

Once the blooms have completely faded, it's sometimes difficult to imagine how the plant will look in another garden spot. So as you remove spent blooms, make notes about transplanting and other chores that need to be taken care of this fall.

Now and later on this month the annuals will need to be pulled up and put in the compost. It might be fun to try your hand at late-season vegetables in these areas. Transplants of broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage and cauliflower can be put in the garden now for a late fall harvest. Or mulch the area to deter weeds.

As you walk around your property, look for bare spots in the lawn, or weedy patches that need to be reseeded. A light application of Roundup or Kleenup will kill the weeds, and then in about two weeks the soil will be ready to receive the new seeds. Be sure to keep the area mulched and moist so that there will be good germination.

Examine the trees and make note of pruning that is necessary. Perhaps just opening up the branches and shaping is all that will be necessary.

For small branches, Fiskars has developed a tool that will help tremendously with this project. It is the Wallace Tree Pruner, Model No. 9388. The fiberglas pole telescopes to 12 feet, and there is a special sliding hand grip in the pruner rope that helps provide a firm hold.

I used the tool this spring and especially like the fact that it's lightweight. The cutting head is made from a product that is lighter than steel — injection-molded glass-filled nylon.

Mid-August is the cutoff date for feeding roses. If you are planning to grow the latest and newest varieties, let your nurseryman know soon just what you want to avoid disappointment.

Three roses have been chosen as 1994 winners by All-America Rose Selections Inc.:

Secret, a hybrid tea that will reach a height of 4 to 4-½ feet, grows on upright branches. The semi-glossy foliage is medium green. The 4-½-inch blooms are a blended pink color and have a scent of spice and fruit. AARS suggests growing this winner along with lavender and baby's breath. The Conard-Pyle Co. is the producer.

Caribbean, a grandiflora, sports 4-inch blooms that are warm orange brushed with sunny yellow. It will grow to 4-½ feet tall, especially in warmer climates, in an upright form. The foliage also is semi-glossy and medium green. Bright yellow yarrow will set the scene in the garden with this one.

Midas Touch, another hybrid tea, will grow to 5 feet in some climates and stands tall, with semi-glossy, dark green foliage. The rich, clear yellow color of the 4-inch blooms emit the scent of musk. Grow this striking beauty with deep blue-purple delphiniums, or with other roses to set off the yellow.

These two winners were produced by Jackson & Perkins.

It's almost bulb time. If you like to order bulbs from mail-order houses, send your orders in soon so that you will be assured of getting exactly what you want. A mass planting of one color provides a great impact in the spring, while mixed colors create a more informal look.

Sharpen your ballet skills

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company will hold open auditions for dancers Sunday, Aug. 22 at Joanne's Dance Extension, 9282 General Drive, Suites 180-190, Plymouth.

The ballet company will present three performances of "The Nutcracker" Dec. 3-5 in the Novi High School Auditorium. These performances will be under company artistic director Dawn Greene, together with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, under conductor Russell Reed.

Two performances of "The Nutcracker" without the orchestra will take place Dec. 11 in the Grosse Ile High School Auditorium.

"I will be looking for dancers to fit in with the company dancers and who are technically trained well to complement each other," Greene said. "I will also be looking for younger members and corps members."

Two audition categories will be offered:

■ At noon, ages 9-12.

■ 1-2:30 p.m., ages 13 and older (bring pointe shoes).

All girls must wear black leotards and pink tights. Hair should be up (French braid or bun); no ponytails. All dancers are asked to bring a resume and photo. There is a $5 audition fee.

Male dancers are especially needed for the December performances of "The Nutcracker." They must wear appropriate attire.

Plymouth-Canton Ballet Company is a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing the art of dance in surrounding communities by featuring local dancers in performances rehearsed and conducted in a ballet company atmosphere.

For information, call Greene at 397-8828.

Madonna offers glassworking

All courses will be taught at Academy Neon in Taylor; class times are made by appointment. Each course has four sections, all beginning the first week of September, October, November and December.

Introduction to stained glass will introduce the basic skills of the craft. Proper cutting and grinding techniques, soldering procedures and basic pattern making will be taught in the class. Safe and proper use of all hand tools will be stressed. This eight-week course is $375 for 2.4 continuing education units.

Lampworking I is 12 weeks and includes the techniques of using an oxygen and natural gas mixture to melt and shape various forms of glass. Cost is $450 for 3.6 continuing education units.

"Introduction to Neon" will cover three basic topics: fusing of glass tubes, double backing and right angle bend. This 12-week course will stress theory and safety. It will emphasize the use of the ribbon burner and cross fires. Cost is $590 for 3.6 continuing education units and $35 for a lab fee.

Airbrushing, a six-week course, will instruct the student in the application and technique of using air to apply color to various media, such as cloth, glass, wood and plastic. Cost is $280 for 1.8 continuing education units.

Michigan artists to showcase their works

BY MARY KLEMIC
STAFF WRITER

It's a special time to celebrate at the Paint Creek Center for the Arts.

The center at 407 Pine, two blocks west of Main in downtown Rochester, will showcase its seventh annual Celebrate Michigan Artists exhibition in the second floor Main Gallery Aug. 13 through Sept. 24. The all-media show opens with a public reception and awards ceremony 7-9 p.m. Saturday.

"I'm very pleased with it," said Kathleen English, PCCA exhibition coordinator. "There's a lot of new artists we've never shown before, a nice cross section."

"I thought it was very talented work. Very good artists had submitted work," said George N'Namdi, owner of the G.R. N'Namdi Gallery in Birmingham, who was juror for the event.

"It really is a celebration of Michigan artists. It speaks to some of the quality of work produced here. The work is creative. It has a uniqueness about it . . . I was very pleased with it."

Three hundred artists from 57 communities in Michigan submitted entries to the competition. The show features 54 works by 28 artists.

For the first time in the event, a three-dimensional piece was awarded first place (a $1,000 prize). Carolyn Lautzenheiser of Royal Oak won the honor for her cast-iron architectural sculpture, "Apparition." The sculpture looks like a little building. Its different textures and gently shifting shades become apparent as it is viewed from different angles and sides.

The work will be reproduced on a limited edition fine art poster, to be sold at the PCCA and the Art 'n Apples Festival Sept. 11-12 in Rochester Municipal Park.

Second place ($500) went to J.H. Dozier of Detroit, and third place ($250) to Jeanne Bieri of Grosse Pointe. Both works were mixed media pieces.

Honorable mentions were awarded to Kyoung Ae Cho and Sally Kaplan of Birmingham, Christine Hagedorn of Troy and Sandra Cardew of Royal Oak. Each artist received $50.

Cho's spare but eloquent work is an arrangement of six wooden spheres of varying sizes that resemble planets. One features a partial coat of pine needles. Kaplan's bronze and steel "Sold Spirit" features a dog on a bed. The sculpture angles from the wall, offering a variety of perspectives for each view at the same time. "Transforming Storm" by Hagedorn, mixed media on canvas, is a passionate presentation of a tempestuous sky, filled with fire in animal shapes, stars and lightning.

Arts Foundation of Michigan contributed the $1,000 first-place prize. The Avon Printing Co., the Balian Eye Center, Dillman & Upton and First of America Bank's Rochester Community Group each made $1,000 contributions to help underwrite exhibition expenses. Michigan Bell provided printing costs of publications.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday. Call 651-4110.

View 20 designer room vignettes

The best of professional interior design will be on display to the public during "Design, Live! A Day With Designers," 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 21, and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 22, at the Michigan Design Center in Troy.

The center is at 1700 Stutz Drive, north off Maple and three blocks east of Coolidge.

Twenty outstanding 8-by-10-foot room vignettes are being readied by creative metro Detroit area designers.

Beautifully furnished and accessorized, each vignette lets the consumer view MDC's fine selection of quality and custom furnishings available through interior designers, as well as the newest color stories and finishes. Designers will be at their vignettes to answer questions.

In addition, consumers may register for 20-minute complimentary consultations with a designer to discuss their design projects.

Admission is $10. A portion of the proceeds will benefit the Rainbow Connection, a non-profit corporation that grants the wishes of children with life-threatening illnesses. Lunch will be available for purchase. Showrooms will be closed but lighted for window viewing.

A number of design-related seminars will be offered both days in selected showrooms.

"This is an exciting event for consumers at MDC," said MDC vice president and general manager Susan Zinger, "because it's very visual and educational.

VAAL slates art sessions

The Visual Arts Association of Livonia will offer a variety of arts classes this fall in Room 24 of Jefferson Center, 9501 Henry Ruff, Livonia.

Classes will be offered in watercolor, oil and abstracts.

Workshops will be offered in watercolor design, all media, making greeting cards, watercolor night scenes, all-media painting with a model, painting glass ornaments and the unfinished painting.

Sessions start Sept. 23 and will be held weekdays and Saturdays.

Faculty include Edee Joppich, Ann Dase Loveland, Audrey DiMarco, Donna Vogelheim, Marge Chellstorp, Else Pederson, V. Janus Benda and Marge Masek.

For session registration or VAAL membership details, call Marge Masek: 464-6772.

VAAL is dedicated to advancing the knowledge and appreciation of the creative arts by offering studio classes and twice-yearly exhibits, all open to the public. It's supported by the Livonia Arts Commission, the city of Livonia and the Livonia Cultural League.

Membership is encouraged when you register for classes so you can take advantage of reduced tuition fees, the VAAL newsletter and reduced exhibit entry fees.

Memberships run Sept. 1 to Aug. 31. Meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. the third Thursday of September, October, February and April in the VAAL classroom.

Grasp basic fund-raising moves

"Effective Fund-raising: The Basics" is a workshop to be conducted by the Accounting Aid Society of Detroit Saturday, Oct. 9, for interested arts and cultural groups in Livonia and surrounding communities.

The Livonia Arts Commission is sponsoring the workshop.

Accounting Aid Society has a record of assisting non-profit groups in improving administration and addressing financial concerns.

The workshop will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude by noon. It will take place in the Heritage Room in the Livonia Senior Center, Farmington Road and Five Mile. A fee of $10 per person for up to two people per organization is required.

Organizations interested in receiving an agenda and questionnaire may contact the Community Resources Office, Livonia City Hall, at 421-2000, Ext. 221, before Sept. 15.

Mother-daughter team soars to No. 1 at Real Estate One

By Mary Rodrique
Staff Writer

There's no stopping Shapiro and Shapiro.

The dynamic duo of real estate, mother Esther and daughter Carol cover the Oakland County market like few others.

Combining their efforts five months ago, the Shapiros are top producers for Michigan's largest real estate company, Real Estate One. Members of the Seven Million Dollar Round Table and Presidents Council of Excellence, they are in the top 5 percent of America's 1.7 million real estate agents.

Growing up in Southfield and West Bloomfield, Carol watched her mother close deals for more than 15 years before jumping into the fray herself in May 1992.

"I've been licensed seven years. I was in property management, managing apartments for years before I started selling," said Carol, 33, of Farmington Hills.

"We market our listings from two different offices," she said. "We go on all listing appointments together. We work separately with clients so there's no duplication of efforts. We balance each other real well.

"We have a similar sense of business. We grew up in a family of builders."

In fact, another team of Shapiros, Carol's father, Harry, and brother, Gary, work together in land development in Oakland County with the Ivanhoe Company.

Two sisters have other careers. Audrey teaches art in Dearborn. Barbara is with the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York.

"Carol is the baby," Esther said.

"There's really no down side to us working together. She has a good healthy respect for me," said Esther, an associate broker in the Bloomfield Hills office on Telegraph.

Carol is a sales associate in the Farmington Hills office on Orchard Lake Road.

"I think it helped that she got her feet wet in a separate office," said Esther. "A lot of her early experience was not with me. She won't tell you, but she was voted rising star for doing the most volume in her office.

"We approach negotiations in the same fashion. We know how to narrow down a search. It really helps to enjoy what you're doing. We're having a lot of fun."

"She has a good knack for putting deals together. She's a problem-solver."

Esther began her own career in the same Farmington Hills office.

"She reminds me of me early in my career," she said. "Now that the two of us have combined efforts, I'm learning new techniques from her to include in my portfolio."

How the ADA may affect your condo operation

We are members of a large out-of-state condominium. We have heard about the Americans with Disabilities Act and wonder if it applies to us. We have close to 27 employees and more than 700 units.

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Your inquiry is well-timed. As of July 26, 1992, employers with 25 or more employees were affected by the law. Employers with 15 or more employees have to comply with the law by July 26, 1994.

Simply put, the ADA requires employers not to discriminate against anyone with a disability in hiring or promotion. Employers can ask about an applicant's ability to perform a job but cannot inquire if someone has a disability or subject a person to tests that tend to screen people with disabilities.

Employers have to provide "reasonable accomodation" to people with disabilities. This includes steps such as job restructuring and modification of equipment.

However, accomodations are not required if they would impose "undue hardship" on business operations.

The ADA applies to people with disabilities defined as people who have a mental or physical impairment that substantially limits a major life activity such as seeing, hearing or walking.

The term "reasonable accomodation" is defined as any adjustment or modification of the work site that enables the disabled person to do their job. This could be anything from getting a telephone amplifier, a magnifier lamp or raising a desk. There are tax credits or deductions for employers who remover barriers and make accomodations.

Finally, an "undue hardship" is generally defined as an accomodation that poses significant difficulty or expense, adversely affects the work product or poses a direct threat to other employees.

Mortgage rates on 30-year fixed fall to 7.21 percent

AP — Interest rates on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages fell to 7.21 percent this week, according to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

This week's average was down from 7.25 percent a week earlier and followed two consecutive increases.

The rate had been falling for most of the year when it started edging up in mid-April as investors became worried about inflation. It hit 7.52 percent in mid-May, but resumed falling again with the release of government reports showing inflation quieted.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 4.55 percent, the same as last week.

BUILDING SCENE'S NAMES & PLACES

Mamat appointed

Frank T. Mamat, senior partner at the law firm of Honigman, Miller, Schwartz and Cohn, was appointed by Gov. John Engler to a seat on the Construction Code Commission. The commission, a 17-member board, is charged with improving the quality of of housing and reviewing building code regulations and interpreting the application of any administrative rules of the Michigan Bureau of Construction Code. Mamat will represent the general public.

Window dressing

Bloomfield Hills-based architectural firm Clifford N. Wright Associates has gained some national exposure thanks to Pella Windows. Pella selected Wright's window designs for its national advertising campaign. Wright's designs will be featured in both Pella's Designer Series Window Brochure and national television spots.

Col. Ohlinger to speak

Colonel Brian J. Ohlinger, the Detroit District Chief of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, is the featured speaker at the Greater Detroit Chapter of the The Associated General Contractors of America membership meeting at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 17, at the Engineering Society of Detroit.

Ohlinger will speak on "Partnering," a new approach to minimize litigation and adversarial relationships on the construction job site.

Don't move on, add on ■ Land prices are up. Construction costs are up. Uprooting the family can be traumatic. These are just a few reasons why more and more people are remodeling and adding on to their existing home rather than buying and building anew.

BY GERALD FRAWLEY
STAFF WRITER

Here's the scenario. It's a good house, a good neighborhood and good schools.

But it's too small.

Not necessarily.

"In the 1980s, people wanted new and bigger," Keith Logsdon, an architect with CBI Design Professionals in Bloomfield Hills, said. "In the 1990s, people still want bigger, but they also like what they have."

CBI Design Professionals, which five years ago designed primarily new homes, has shifted much of its attention to remodeling. A good percentage of work performed by the firm is in remodeling, Logsdon said.

Logsdon said his clients have expressed a number of reasons for adding on instead of moving out. Certainly, a large number of people are motivated by a desire to stay where they are because they like the community.

Another reason is the price of land, which has increased so dramatically that an addition is more economical than moving to a larger home.

BETH SINGER

Adding on: When architects or contractors sit down to design an addition, one of the most important aspects is making sure it matches the rest of the house. This award-winning addition was designed by Keith Logsdon of CPI Design Professionals in Bloomfield Hills

Another significant reason is that people have begun to reject the philosophy of the disposable home that had been so prevalent in the past, Logsdon said.

More than space

Space isn't the only factor involved.

The Palm packs a punch in a smart one-level plan

Landmark Design's Palm is a mid-sized home (2,192 square feet) that wraps around a lush entry courtyard. Tropical plants grow luxuriant blooms and abundant foliage in this protected environment.

Bright, airy and spacious, the C-shaped single-level floor plan is ideal for families that like to entertain.

Lofty vaulted ceilings and a generous use of glass embellish the sense of openness in the living room and family kitchen — two rooms that run together with a panoramic view to the rear. A fireplace with a tile or brick hearth defines the boundaries between the formal living room and the informal family room.

Amenities in the kitchen include a raised dishwasher, garden window, walk-in pantry, built-in oven and micro and a work island with range and grill. The nook is naturally lit by a wide window that faces in the landscaped courtyard. The utilities are tucked behind pocket doors.

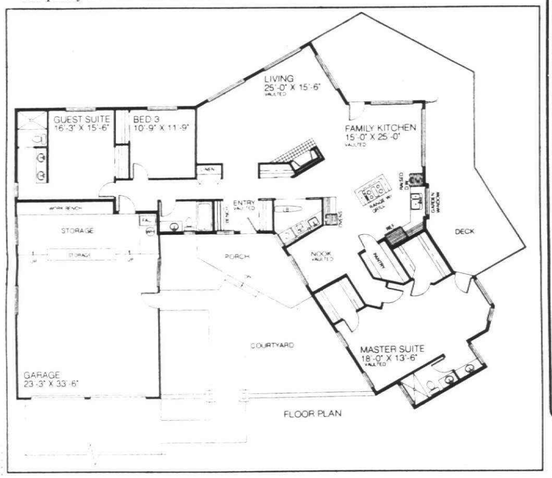
The pantry and two walk-in closets serve as a sound buffer between the kitchen and master suite, an adult retreat with vaulted ceiling, bayed sitting area and private bathroom. The closet labeled "hers" is about a third larger than the one labeled "his".

Storage closets line the hallway that leads to the secondary bedrooms at the opposite end of the house. The entry, too, is rich in storage space with a coat closet on one side and a bench on the other — handy for stashing muddy footwear.

The guest bedroom is large and has a private bathroom. The main bath serve the family living area and the third bedroom. Its location is also convenient to the garage and front entry. Storage space and a workbench are at the back of the garage, one step up from the parking area.

The overall dimensions are 79-feet by 63-feet, nine inches. The garage is 800 square feet.

To take a closer look at the Palm (Plan No. 333-100), send $9 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-OE48, Eugene, OR 97402.



FLOOR PLAN

Battling ground water in basement

AP — Wet basements can often be corrected easily and inexpensively. The main exception is when the culprit is ground water.

In that case, the only sure solution is to install drainage tile around the outside of the wall, and sump pumps inside.

Bear in mind that water, not basement walls, causes leaks, and the presence of water is almost always the result of poor drainage and poorly maintained gutters. Problems like these must be corrected first.

There are two kinds of basement waterproofing materials.

The first are masonry patch items. These products work well when the basement is not leaking at the time of repair. They range from mortar caulk to premixed mortar to hydraulic putty. Adding a latex bonding agent to a standard masonry mix will improve bonding. Hydraulic putty works well if you're repairing a continuously seeping hole. The product bonds extremely well and cures quickly, even when wet and under pressure.

The second category includes a variety of rubberized coatings, which usually contain portland cement. As these products are expensive (more than $20 per gallon), cover only 75 to 125 square feet per gallon and produce noxious fumes while they cure, they should only be used when drainage improvements and wall repair come up short.

Highlights of the operation begin with checking the perimeter of your foundation for depressions in the fill-soil. Especially check areas around window wells. Add soil to build up these depressions, and tamp the soil firmly into place. Then plant grass seed.

Remove any blistered paint from the interior of your foundation wall with a wire brush and coarse sandpaper. Scrub mildew with an abrasive pad and a mix of household bleach and water. Use muriatic acid on efflorescence — a white chalky substance that is actually crystallized mineral salts that have leached from the concrete or mortar.

Caulk small leaky cracks with a silicone-mortar caulk and smooth with a putty knife dipped in mineral spirits. If the cracks are larger, enlarge the crack with a tapered mason's chisel, clean the joint and wet with a mix of water and latex bonding agent.

Blend the premixed mortar with water and bonding agent until the mortar will stand up when you slice through it with a trowel. Then, stack a little mortar on the back of a small trowel, place the trowel against the crack and push the mortar into the joint with a pointing trowel.

Pack the entire joint, then scrape away the excess and smooth the joint with a joint-striking tool. Use the same methods to fill any gaps or cracks around utility pipe holes.

Before deciding to paint a wall with waterproofing, wait a few weeks. If it rains and your basement stays dry, chances are you won't need it. If you don't see any obvious leaks but the masonry surface is damp, then a sealant is a good idea.

Mildew problems? Try air exchange

Q. Our 16-year-old painted house has a terrible mildew problem, even during the periods of bright sunshine. The inside of the house seems to sweat and the inside surfaces of the window frames are peeling. We would eventually like to have aluminum siding, but first we must solve the mildew problem. What do you suggest?

A. You have probably checked the obvious sources of moisture such as a lack of kitchen and bath fans, and poor exterior landscaping that may allow rainwater to run into your basement and crawl space. Moisture rising from these areas is a common source of this problem.

If you do not know the source of excessive moisture in the house, you should introduce some dry air from the outside. There are a number of air exchangers on the market that are designed for do-it-yourself installation and are reasonably priced. These units usually have a fan that moves fresh air in, over or through ducts that are heated by heated air from the interior of the house moving out through the same unit.

This is not only a solution for excess interior moisture, but an answer to super tight homes that suffer a lack of fresh breathing air.

Q. Our house was built about 1925, with a cypress shingle roof installed on 1-by-4 inch wood strips, 8-inches on center. The attic has no ventilation or insulation. I would like to install a painted sheetmetal roof over the wood strips. My concern is condensation on the bottom of the sheetmetal. What is the best way to do this?

A. Providing ventilation and a vapor barrier in the attic will control the moisture buildup and resulting attic condensation. You should also insulate the attic. Even though your house is located in a warm climate, insulation is cost-effective and will help make the house more comfortable.

During the summer, it's possible for the attic temperature to reach as high as 150-degrees F. Attic insulation and ventilation helps reduce the heat load on the ceilings of the rooms below. It also helps reduce air-conditioning costs.

Check with your local utility company to determine the recommended amount of insulation for your attic. It is more practical to install insulation batts with an attached vapor barrier rather than use a separate vapor barrier. Place the batts on the attic floor between the joists with the vapor barrier facing toward the rooms below.

You should also use at least two vent openings to allow for air movement. Installing watertight vents in the sheetmetal roof may be difficult, so your best bet would probably be to use gable vents. A combination of gable and soffit vents would be even more effective.

Since there will be a vapor barrier in the attic, the size of the vent openings can be less than it would be without a vapor barrier. Remember, the vent's effective area is less than its actual opening. Screens or louvers can reduce airflow through a vent by as much as 50 percent. The effective area should be at least 1-300th of the attic floor area.

To submit a question, write to Popular Mechanics, Reader Service Bureau, 224 W. 57th Street, New York, NY 10019. The most interesting questions will be answered in a future column.

"Lifestyles are so different now," Carnovale said. Most homes that are candidates for additions are 25 years old, he said.

There have been a lot of changes in the way people live," Carnovale said. "People buy a starter home and then they have kids. They look around and see the lot they have has increased in value."

Unfortunately, so have all the other lots, he said. New construction costs have also risen dramatically.

"If you look at existing buildings and do a square foot comparison, you'll find a tremendous disparity," he said.

At the same time, older homes have limited function. "Today, people have more clothes, more cars, more electronics . . . more stuff."

Rooms that were once fairly small, like the kitchen, have become focal points for the house. Rooms that were once prominent, like the formal living room, have fallen into disuse, Carnovale said.

Some houses are so out of sync with current lifestyles, an addition necessitates a shift of the whole house, Carnovale said. The new kitchen goes into the addition, the kitchen becomes a dining room, the dining room and living room become a large family room — the possibilities are endless.

"A lot of people want multipurpose rooms," he said. "Someplace where they can eat, entertain and relax."

Primary concerns

When an architect sits down to develop a house addition, one of his primary concerns is that it not look like an addition, Logsdon said. "We want to make certain it looks like it was always part of the house."

Granted, some homes built years ago are fairly nondescript and one wouldn't think adding an addition would be difficult. But Logsdon said that those can be are the hardest.

When an architect is hired to design an addition on an existing home of some architectural note, he or she will pick out the key elements and incorporate them into the addition, thereby joining the house.

Even commonplace homes have some architectural elements on which a good architect can base the addition. "You learn how to compliment what's there — you look at materials, roof lines, elevations, shape."

Harder than it looks

Carnovale said it takes a little while to get the hang of designing additions because it does differ from designing new homes.

Carnovale said while it's true that some people prefer to add on rather than move into a new home to save money, additions aren't inexpensive.

"We generally budget for $100 per square foot; a kitchen is considerably more, a garage is considerably less," he said.

That price actually puts the cost about par with high-end new construction, he said, because there are certian savings that are gained from starting from scratch.

Other considerations that add to the cost of renovation are disposing of waste materials, working around a house that is still being lived in and making allowances for problems.

"Even after we've been doing this for a while, we still find surprises," Carnovale said.

A lot of things happen over a 25 year span, he said. Sometimes, people did work on their own, sometimes they hired out work that was done incorrectly and those things have to be fixed before the real work of adding an addition can be done.

An addition may necessitate a new furnace, new plumbing and new wiring or the contractors may find the existing systems are no longer adequate for even the existing home.

"The systems and technology we have available today far exceed what we had 25 years ago," Carnovale said.

Additions prove their value to sellers

An addition does more than make a house more livable or enjoyable for its present owner. It also makes it more valuable to its future owner.

According to the 1992 annual Remodeling Magazine cost vs. value analysis, the national average cost for a family room addition built by a professional remodeling contractor is $28,455. Homeowners can expect to recoup $24,069, or 85 percent of the cost, when they sell their home.

The cost does not take into account complex additions, further remodeling, cost overruns resulting from unforeseen problems or architectural services.

That cost includes a 16-by-25-foot, light-filled family room appropriate to the existing house in style and location built on a new crawl space with wood joist floor framing, matching wood siding on exterior walls and matching fiberglass roof shingles.

The addition has drywall interior with batt insulation, 120 square feet of glass doors and windows, hardwood tongue and groove floor and it ties into the existing heating and cooling systems.
