Budget cuts trim Travis House

■ The proposed 1994 Canton Township general budget doesn't include money for the restoration of the historic Travis House. Trustees want to talk more before they commit to the project in the future.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The planned restoration of the historic Travis House was one of many items sacrificed to balance the 1994 Canton Township general operations budget.

"Is the Travis House going to be cheap? I don't think so," said trustee Melissa McLaughlin, a member of the township's historic commission. "I do think it is a viable project."

But township officials don't want any money — including a $50,000 savings account — spent on the house that sits on 20 acres on Ridge Road, pending further discussions, perhaps at a future study session.

At a budget study session Sept. 21, however, trustees took a straw poll and agreed to transfer $25,000 to the Travis House. That was money budgeted for continuing compliance with the federal Americans with Disabilities Act that, for example, requires the township to install ramps and special facilities in bathrooms for people with disabilities.

Township officials believe those improvements can be completed with money from the federal Community Development Block Grant program.

"My only concern is it doesn't give a message to the people that it's a go because it's in the budget," said Township treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter.

Township clerk Loren Bennett agreed. "We're putting the world on notice that it's not the case. I don't want any money spent on it until we as a board make a decision on what to do out there (at Travis House)."

Sacrificed: Money to restore the historic Travis House has not been included in Canton's proposed 1994 general operations budget. The project is among items that were not included so the budget could be balanced.

Board members expressed concern about the cost of restoring the historic Sheldon School in Sheldon Corners at Michigan Avenue and Sheldon Road. John Spencer, township chief financial officer, estimates the cost of that project at $250,000-$300,000. Block grant money was used for that project, as well as township money.

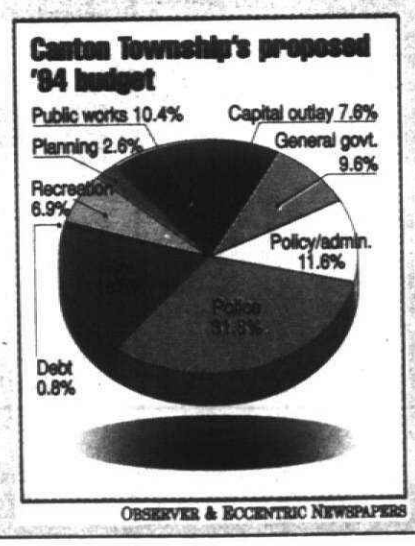

McLaughlin reminded board members that the historic commission will receive approximately $500 monthly rent on the Sheldon School, beginning Oct. 1 when Child and Family Services moves in with administrative-training offices and part-time adult day care. That money will be used to maintain the building.

McLaughlin told trustees that the historic commission has $10,000 in an account for the Travis House that will be used for exterior weatherizing. Commission members would like to hire a preservation contractor in the spring to work on the exterior. Overhead costs would be less.

"This guy works out of a room in his house and a truck," McLaughlin

Police and fire funds hold the line

OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC NEWSPAPERS

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Canton officials will work on a plan to maintain police and fire services in 1995 without raising taxes.

"Lansing may throw us a few curve balls," said John Spencer, township chief financial officer, referring to potential cuts in state shared revenues as well as a possible property tax freeze under the state's tax reform plan.

Add that to some other facts about the police and fire funds — which make up the public safety budget, the largest portion of the township's expenditures. For one, the police fund balance (savings) will reach zero after 1994. The fire fund balance is roughly $180,000.

"We've got no savings to dip into to balance the budget (in 1995)," Spencer said.

Savings affected

An assessment freeze in 1992 — where property increases didn't mean increased revenues for the township — nipped at the fund balances, Spencer said.

In addition, salary increases also left their mark. Firefighters received an arbitration settlement that gave increases of 6, 5 and 6 percent (in a three-year contract). "'Me, too' applied to the police," Spencer said. Other employee groups also got the firefighters' township increase to pension funds.

Residents pay taxes directly to support police and fire services. The proposed 1994 tax rate for police is 4.96 mills and for fire, 2.94 mills. Like the general fund tax rate of 1.11 mills, these rates are not expected to change in 1994. The general operations budget is proposed at $8.97 million.

Township officials will set the tax rates and adopt the general operations, police and fire budgets at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 28, in township hall.

Though the rates are not likely to change, taxpayers will pay slightly more because property values increased. In other words, taxpayers are paying what are expected to be the same levies but on higher assessments.

Township re-examines inspection plan

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton's proposed mandatory pre-sale house inspection program is not dead, despite many homeowners' opposition to it.

"I guess we have to do some backpedaling," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack.

The issue is expected to be discussed further at a study session, likely in October. "We've got some work to do. It will give me an opportunity to share some thoughts."

Yack expressed dismay that the ball got rolling before provisions of the proposed inspections were worked out. "I feel badly we've lost control of this issue. The concept we shared and attached meat to might not be accurate."

The proposal, which suggests a $150 fee for a mandated pre-sale inspection, "might not be accurate," Yack said.

As proposed, the mandatory inspections would involve internal and external components of the house, as well as ordinance violations. Apparently under study is whether the inspections would be conducted by township employees or outside contractors.

Yack said he wished the proposal had been firmed up before homeowners reacted to it. The Canton Homeowners Advisory Council — an umbrella group representing the township's more than 30 homeowners associations — has been trying to assess public opinion on the issue.

Yack lauded the council and its attempt to solicit opinions. "It gave the homeowners council something to run with. They needed to be empowered.

Canton winner

A Canton man celebrated his 62nd birthday Sept. 20 in a big way: he discovered he had won the $50,000 prize in the Bonus Lotto drawing Sept. 18.

The winner, who requested anonymity, said he discovered he was a big $50,000 winner by reading the winning numbers in the newspaper on Monday.

"I had to double- and triple-check the numbers because I couldn't believe it," the winner said. "I was surprised — What a great birthday gift!"

A regular lottery player for the past 21 years, the man bought his winning ticket at the Country Deli & Wine Shop on Lilley Road in Canton.

The winner works for Milford Fabricating and said he plans to retire next year. He said he will save his $50,000 Bonus Lotto prize for his retirement.

Grand opening

The Canton Chamber of Commerce announces the grand opening of The Vision Center, 43050 Ford Road, Suite 170.

The official ribbon-cutting ceremony will kick off the festivities at 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 7.

Drs. Thomas Cassidy and Brian Pierce will host the event, which will be attended by Canton Chamber of Commerce board members and township officials. The event is open to the public. For more information call the chamber at 453-4040.

Sex assault charged

A Westland man faces felony charges in connection with the reported abduction of his 19-year-old former girlfriend, a Canton resident, according to a police report.

Scott David Goleniak was arrested at his Westland home Sept. 22 on charges that he forced the woman out of her home in the 700 block of Burlington and took her to his home, according to a statement released by Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer. Goleniak is also accused of fondling the woman.

When the woman was returned to her home she contacted Canton police. With the assistance of the Westland police, Canton officers apprehended Goleniak at his home.

He was arraigned on felony charges of criminal sexual conduct, third degree, as well as larceny, before 35th District Court Magistrate Eric Colthurst. Goleniak is in the Wayne County Jail. A preliminary exam on the charges is scheduled for Oct. 1.

COP CALLS

Daytime B&E

The owner of a Michigan Avenue home that's almost 100 years old reported a daytime break-in last week.

The woman said the thieves used a large boulder to smash open a rear door. They ransacked the master bedroom, dumping a dresser onto the bed.

A video-cassette recorder and equipment, valued at $1,000, along with assorted costume jewelry were reported taken.

Drug possession

Canton police arrested a man and woman in Pilgrim Village Apartments on Ford Road on charges of possession of cocaine after responding to a disorderly persons report.

Officers went to the apartment complex after the managers requested entry into one of the units because water was leaking from the apartment to a residence below.

Whyman seeks education ideas

State Rep. Deborah Whyman, D-Canton, will sponsor a public forum in Canton to garner suggestions and opinions on how to revamp Michigan's educational system.

She will focus on ways to implement fair, equitable and cost-effective methods that emphasize quality in education and protect the integrity of our schools.

Whyman will meet with constituents at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 30, at Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

"This meeting is to generate ideas and lay a foundation on which we can build solid solutions, said Whyman vice-chair of the House Education Committee.

"This is strictly a brainstorming session. I want to get maximum input from area residents before the governor announces his plan on Oct. 5, and the Legislature begins to act on any proposals.

"Area residents know what they want from their schools and this is a great opportunity for them to voice their opinion. Every taxpayer, parent and child has a stake in what is finally decided."

The 21st District lawmaker stressed that we must first define Michigan's new schools before the Legislature can earmark precious tax dollars.

"Neither taxpayers nor lawmakers will support a funding plan without identifying what we are paying for," Whyman concluded. "Finding ways to fund schools is the easier part. Agreeing on how to restructure our education system will be the real test. In order to reach a viable solution, however, we need to hear from all citizens. It's important that they be included in the decision making process. I hope everyone will take time to come and share their ideas."

For information, contact Whyman at (313)453-5744 or (515)373-2575.

NOW IT DOESN'T HURT

If you suffer from arthritis, you likely have experienced the following: you woke with intense pain in a knee or hand. During the day the pain and accompanying impairment did not resolve, but grew worse.

You call your doctor and request the office see you immediately. With effort, the staff accommodates you. However as the time for the appointment approaches, you find your pain easing and joint function returning.

What should you do? If you cancel, you feel upset, putting doctor and staff through strain that was not necessary. If you come feeling improved, you are wasting both your own and the doctor's time.

Keep the appointment. Your doctor realizes the unpredictable nature of arthritic flares that they occur without identifiable cause, and resolve for no known reason. Pain sufficient to need an emergency appointment, deserves a medical evaluation, even if the pain is gone at the time of the visit.

Your physician should see you to confirm that your relief is not just a momentary let-up, and to evaluate if it is possible to prevent a re-occurance. There is no onus saying, "the pain was here, but it isn't here now."

Anyone who deals with arthritis, knows not to dismiss joint pain; we must evaluate its demands and counter its aggression.

Affiliated administrators receive reimbursement for mileage in the amount of $40 per month. For non-affiliated administrators, the amount varies from $40 to $120 monthly, depending upon individual contracts.

How much Plymouth-Canton spends on administration has been a topic of interest, particularly among the Class-size Action Partnership, a Plymouth-Canton parent group formed last summer to address large class sizes slated to grow even larger with the failure of the millage.

CAP's research shows that Plymouth-Canton ranks 450th among the state's 500-plus school districts in administrative cost per pupil, said Sue Feiten, the group's co-chair. Plymouth-Canton spent $383 in administrative costs per pupil in 1991-92, the most recent year for which figures are available from the Michgian Department of Education.

Plymouth-Canton's administrative costs are lower than those of the Farmington, Birmingham, Novi, West Bloomfield, Northville, Ann Arbor, Livonia, Walled Lake, Detroit, Rochester, and Wayne-Westland school districts, according to CAP.

Superintendent John Hoben's car allowance also has been the subject of interest among citizens concerned about the district's financial status.

Hoben in 1991-92 earned $109,128 and was given an additional $7,200 to lease a car. Because Hoben paid taxes on the $7,200, his car allotment actually was less than that amount.

He announced at the end of the 1991-92 school year he would accept a pay freeze.

Benefit tees up

The David H. Opple Memorial Scholarship Golf Outing will be held on Saturday, Oct. 9, at the Fox Hills Country Club in Salem Township. Tee times for the four-person scrambles are from 11:15 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

The memorial scholarship was established through the Educational Excellence Foundation in memory of David Opple, a Canton High School administrator from 1970 to 1991 who died after battling cancer.

Opple was an avid supporter of student activities, attended athletic events and theater productions, and was known for constantly providing encouragement to students. He served as chairman of the City of Plymouth Planning Commission for several years and initiated the establishment of the Plymouth Historical Study Commission.

The cost to participate in the golf outing is $80. The donation includes: 18 holes of golf with a cart, a steak dinner, hot dogs and chips, complimentary beverages on the course, cash bar at the clubhouse, and a contribution to the David H. Opple Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Trophies will be awarded for first-, second- and third-place teams. Golfers will have an opportunity to win a new Pontiac, donated by Bob Jeannotte Pontiac, by scoring a hole-in-one on a designated par-three hole. Additional prizes for other par-three hole-in-ones include a Bahama Islands cruise for two, airline tickets for two, and a golf weekend for two.

Those scoring a hole-in-one at this outing are eligible to compete in the Tournament of Aces International, sponsored by the National Hole-In-One Association.

Individuals and businesses wishing to sponsor a hole may do so with a $100 contribution. Signs featuring advertisements for hole sponsors will be displayed at one of the holes, and hole sponsors will be acknowledged in local newspapers. Hole sponsors may provide a sign to be posted at a hole or have one painted for them.

Dinner-only reservations may be made with a $40 donation. The steak dinner will be served at the end of the golf day, which is expected to conclude at approximately 4 p.m.

The deadline to place reservations is Oct. 8. Reservations and checks should be sent to: Opple Scholarship, 650 Pacific, Plymouth 48170 or to Opple Scholarship, Canton General Office, Attn: Jan Santamauro. Checks should be made payable to: EEF — Opple Scholarship. Contributions from non-participants also are welcome. All contributions are tax-deductible. Receipts and acknowledgment letters will be sent to all participants prior to the golf outing.

If you do not have enough golfers in your group to make a foursome, other golfers will be added.

Thus far, the David H. Opple Memorial Scholarship Fund has provided scholarships to four graduating seniors from the Plymouth-Canton Community School District.

Event seeks to snuff fires

The Canton Chamber of Commerce and Canton Fire Department are again sponsoring National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-10.

As in the last 15 years, the chamber and the fire department are sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school students, who are asked to illustrate this year's fire prevention theme, "Get Out! Stay Out!"

"If fire strikes your home or your business, don't go back in for anything. Firefighters are trained and equipped to rescue people who are trapped," said Frank McMurray, chairman of the chamber's fire prevention week committee.

Public and private school students are asked to submit their posters to their classroom teacher by Friday, Oct. 8. An awards ceremony is scheduled for Oct. 19, where winners and second-and-third-place finishers in two grade levels will receive $50 bonds.

Refreshments and services for the awards ceremony will be provided by McDonald's of Canton, Livonia Trophy and Screen Printing, and The Art Store. Bonds will be provided by McMurray State Farm Insurance agency, Draw Tite, First of America, dentist James Glinski, Kmart Distribution and Modern Insurance.

"Fire Safety should be planned ahead of time. So many times the children in a family know more about fire safety than their parents," said Canton Fire Marshall Art Winkel. "Your best fire safe response is — Get Out! Stay Out!"

Winkel is expected to be at the chamber's monthly membership luncheon Oct. 6. to discuss fire safety.

Residents should take the time with Fire Prevention Week to buy smoke detectors. They can be bought in Canton at Target, Meijer and Kmart, with prices ranging from $7.99 to $20.97.

Good for them. There will still be a role for them to play."

Though council officers asked homeowners for suggestions on the proposal, homeowners recently told them that they are opposed to the proposed measure. Some said they see it as another tax and others said they don't find mandatory inspections necessary, particularly when most buyers today have houses inspected.

Many homeowners also said they wished they had more information about the proposal. That included a resident who said she favors mandatory inspections. The council was expected to inform township officials by letter of homeowner opposition. The letter also will inform trustees that if the proposal is still alive, they want a public vote before it is established.

More discussion and study are needed, Yack maintains, particularly in light of Public Act 92, which will go into effect in January. The law, known as the seller disclosure act, requires home sellers to sign an affidavit attesting to the particular condition of the house.

Failure to provide a purchaser with a signed disclosure statement enables a purchaser to terminate an otherwise binding purchase agreement. But the law makes it clear that the affidavit is not a warranty and is for disclosure only, not intended to be part of a contract between the buyer and seller.

The disclosure asks if appliances and systems in the house, such as refrigerator, lawn sprinkler system, septic tank and field, are in working order. If that information is unknown, space is available for the buyer to indicate that.

The form also requests information about property conditions and improvements, as well as information about settling, flooding or structural problems, and major damage to the house.

The form also notes that all information is based "upon the best information available and known" to the seller.

The state law, Yack said, doesn't require problems to be fixed. But that's what he would like to see happen before a house is sold in Canton. The idea of mandatory house inspections is designed to maintain the township's housing stock, he said.

"What assurances do we have that those items will be fixed?" he asked. "The impact of the state law doesn't really change why an inspection should be considered."

Some homeowners questioned whether, under the township proposal, items in need of repair would have to be fixed before the house could be sold. "In most communities where they have these programs the seller has to fix items before the sign goes up," Yack said.

said, adding the project would be completed more in-house and more on a volunteer basis than was done with the Sheldon School.

She told trustees part of the reason for the cost liness of Sheldon School was the use of federal grants, which included more paperwork for the contractor, and higher costs for the historic commission. "I also think we ran into some surprises we didn't account for."

Bennett expressed concern about the condition of the Travis House. "I'm concerned that in its current state it's becoming an attractive nuisance," adding that it is deteriorating.

McLaughlin said that about $100,000 has been spent, including moving costs for the Travis House. Fixing the foundation will cost about $20,000. The house would be restored in phases. And plans for restoration were completed in 1989-90.

"There seems to be a lot of enthusiasm for it," McLaughlin said, adding that it's suggested the house become an extension of the Canton Historical Museum, featuring dishes and furniture. "It would be more of a living museum."

In the coming year, two new police officers will be hired, though according to John Santomauro, public safety director, not until the middle of the fiscal year. The department has not hired new officers since 1991.

"We've held the line on expenses," Santomauro told trustees, referring to the $5.8-million budget. "Our costs, as in any other department, are bodies."

Yet the number of sworn officers per 1,000 population is below the state average of 1 officer for every 1,000 people. Canton now has 47 police officers. The department also has two captains, four lieutenants and four sergeants.

In Canton the ratio works out to .97 officer/1,000 people, compared to Shelby Township with .92 and West Bloomfield with .93. Canton still has more serious crimes reported, with 42.95 for every 1,000 people, Santomauro said.

He told trustees that Canton's initiative in developing a regional law-enforcement consortium, which includes officers from other agencies, has stretched dollars. The consortium provides specialized services while allowing a greater number of officers for road patrol.

Santomauro also told trustees that area police chiefs recently formed a committee for joint purchasing, which will further reduce costs. Meanwhile, study continues on the possibility of a consolidation between the Canton, both Plymouths and Northville departments.

"We're getting a little bit smarter in terms of purchasing," he added.

Expanding fire prevention

In the fire department, plans for 1994 include transferring a person from the fire suppression side to fire prevention and inspection.

"It's our version of being proactive," said Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher. "With code enforcement and public education, there's less likelihood to have a fire. It's the economical thing to do."

The shift may cause an increase in overtime in the fire suppression side, but Rorabacher believes that increased building inspections can offset that.

With the fire department's fund balance dipping low, Rorabacher is concerned. "And we have some needs coming up in the future. In 1995 we have some big buys."

In the future, township officials will be reviewing what to do with the fire stations. "We're looking a couple things," Rorabacher said, adding there's some thought of a third station and remodeling or relocating station 1 at Cherry Hill and Canton Center road. "Station 1 is bursting at the seams."

Officials also are studying the possibility of charging for ambulance runs. "There's other ideas out there, too," Rorabacher said.

Area group attains goal: alcohol-free dorm rooms

By Charles D. McEwen
Special Writer

Thanks to a small, persistent group, western Wayne County students can now sign up for alcohol-free rooms in their dorms at all state-funded colleges and universities.

Ferris State and Central Michigan University have alcohol-free dorm rooms available for the first time this year. They join a dozen other state-funded universities already offering this option.

Michigan State University, which last year reported a ho-hum response, reports this year it has had requests for drug and alcohol-free housing from 30 percent of its dormitory applicants.

"I just say that's super," said state Sen. Dave Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who has been part of the move toward offering students such a choice. "This is just giving kids options. Now, I don't see why we shouldn't go after the privates (colleges)."

The impetus for substance-free housing goes back to 1987. That's when a West Bloomfield freshman entering the University of Michigan was unable to match up with a roommate who would not use alcohol or drugs in her room.

At that time, it was easy to find a roommate who didn't smoke simply by checking a box on the housing application.

In 1989, Honigman, then a state representative, proposed legislation that would force state-funded universities to offer students that same choice of an alcohol-free dorm room.

The legislation was proposed at the behest of a group of Birmingham and West Bloomfield residents and the West Bloomfield-based Maplegrove Center for Chemical Dependency Treatment.

Under the threat of this legislation, the universities - some more quickly than others — began offering alcohol-free rooms on their own. Last year, all the universities except for Ferris and CMU offered this option.

Judge puts pressure

That upset U.S. District Judge Bernard A. Friedman, a member of the citizens' group and a strong advocate of drug and alcohol-free dorm rooms. He wrote to the presidents of Ferris and CMU, saying:

"A substance-free environment option can only benefit students without detriment to the university. I would certainly appreciate knowing what the reason is for not offering such an option and hope you will respond at your earliest convenience."

The response at Ferris has been to create an alcohol-free dormitory, which houses about 420 students. This dorm also has a substance abuse counselor and written information, such as pamphlets and brochures.

"Students will not consume or store alcohol or drugs in their dorm rooms and they will not return visibly intoxicated," said Barb Spedowski, secretary for residential life. "Those that violate these rules can lose privileges. Repeated violations can result in the student being kicked out of the dorm."

Spedowski has seen initial reluctance from some students who believe that it's a dorm just for students with serious substance abuse problems. "Others just feel that it is uncool to live there," she added.

Central Michigan offers students the option of living with an alcohol-free roommate. "I feel great about what Ferris State is offering students," Friedman said, "and I think Central Michigan is headed in the right direction."

MSU response grows

At MSU last year, about 2 percent of undergraduates lived in rooms designated alcohol-free. This year so far, 2,256 of 7,631 applicants (30 percent) for dorm rooms have asked for an alcohol-free roommate.

The University of Michigan, one of the quickest to comply, currently houses 21 percent of its undergraduates in alcohol-free dorm rooms. "Voluntary compliance with rules has been extremely high in these particular rooms," reports Alan Levy, director of public affairs for U-M. "We've had less than a handful of cases where violations demanded discipline."

At Oakland University in Rochester, which is primarily a commuter school, students housed on campus can live at Anibal House, a substance-free dorm that houses 84 residents.

At most universities, students have shown an increasing interest in alcohol-free dorms. Western Michigan University, however, which once had an entire alcohol-free dorm, this year only had enough applicants to fill one floor for each gender.

At Eastern Michigan University, about 24 percent of new students in the dorms and 19 percent of returnees ask for an alcohol-free roommate. "I tried to have an entire alcohol-free dorm," said Colleen Tompkins, who handles housing for EMU. "But I could only fill seven of nine floors."

Parents not helpful

Tompkins said that at times parents fill out the requests for the alcohol-free roommates. "The parents think that if they put their children in an alcohol-free dorm, they won't ever drink," she said. "That isn't necessarily always the case."

"The big problem college students have is that they party," said Dr. Michael F. Boyle, medical director of Henry Ford Health System's Maplegrove Centers for Chemical Dependency Treatment. "They don't drink socially. They drink for the express purpose of getting totally and completely wasted.

"Although they don't suffer from the diseases that long-time alcoholics experience (like cirrhosis of the liver), college students do often have short term memory loss, which decreases learning capacity.

"To do well on an examination, a student needs good short term memory recall. Alcohol also affects coordination, which makes students more likely to get into automobile accidents. Lack of coordination also will affect a student athlete's ability to do well in sports."

Boyle said there are three types of students who request or should request a substance-free room:

■ Those who have very serious problems with substance abuse and desperately need this type of safe atmosphere.

New dance studio leaps into success

By Diane Gale
Staff Writer

Learning her job was going to be eliminated was the best thing that ever happened to Cindy Blazer.

She was teaching dance at the Plymouth-Canton Community Education last year when she was told if the millage request failed the class would be eliminated.

So, she picked up and started her own dance studio, Canton Dance and Performing Arts Center, 5900 N. Lilley. Classes began earlier this month.

With more than 300 students signed up at the new school, Blazer is already thinking about expanding the facility next year.

"We've outgrown this place even before we opened it," she said. "I have to turn kids away now and it's killing me."

Even though only a fraction of the students will become professional dancers, there's other benefits.

"Maybe one child out of this studio will end up a teacher or dancer," said Blazer, a Canton resident.

But, there are other benefits.

"Let's talk about the little fat, ugly kid," she said. "Do you know what it's like to get dressed up and put makeup on and perform? It gives them a lot of self-esteem."

Dancers get exercise through physical fitness and develop self-discipline. Some students also learn to overcome physical problems.

One student, for instance, has dyslexia. Another student has cerebral palsy. Blazer said the dancing strengthened her arm "and she turned into a beautiful dancer."

Another student is deaf and reads Blazer's lips during class.

"She must feel the vibrations through the floor, because she's a great dancer, too," Blazer said.

Class sizes range from 10-16 students per class. There's a boy's class, an adult class and don't forget the dancing dads. Blazer brings fathers in for quick lessons that allow them to take part in recitals with their daughters.

One assistant is available for every class and two assistants for classes with more than 12 students.

Theater instruction also is available with public performances in a theater setting, Blazer said. This year's performance will be "Beauty and the Beast."

Dance competitions will be frequent. Students also will appear in area parades.

"The whole point is to have these kids perform," Blazer said. "They love to perform."

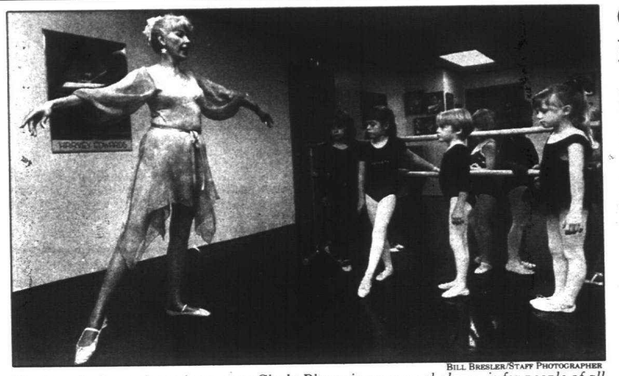

Private modeling, pageant and dance and/or talent training will be available at $20 an hour.

Blazer's teaching career spans 25 years. She started teaching in Minnesota at the national chain Linkletter-Totten. She went on to open a studio in her basement and teach in three different parks and recreation programs in Minnesota. After getting a degree in communications, she worked in the airlines and taught modeling.

She never stopped dancing and Blazer continues to stay fresh in her own dancing education.

"I constantly keep updating and updating," she said, adding that she takes lessons from Enid Ricardue, an 83-year-old nationally known ballet instructor.

"She's absolutely wonderful and she only teaches teachers," Blazer said. "She's really very concerned about dance injuries and starting kids off the right way. Anyone can be a dancer. They just need the proper training. I have little ones that I have started them out. Every year they get better and better and they're looking good."

All ages: As far as dance instructor Cindy Blazer is concerned, dance is for people of all ages. Blazer opened her own studio after her job with Plymouth-Canton schools was eliminated.

S'craft secretaries get new contract

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Schoolcraft College's secretaries union has something in its new three-year contract that no other union at the college has.

The 56 members of the Schoolcraft College Association of Office Personnel may now get free birth-control pills.

The secretaries union had been without a contract since June 30, 1992. The members ratified the new agreement Sept. 9. The board of trustees approved it Sept. 22.

Terms of the contract call for raises of 5, 4½ and 4 percent over the three-year period, which is what the last union to settle with Schoolcraft received. The new contract expires June 30, 1995. The raises are retroactive to June 30, 1992, so the secretaries get a bonus check for somewhere between $1,200 and $1,600, depending on their position on the pay scale.

Currently, the secretaries are already into the second raise because the contract was signed so late. The pay range goes from about $22,700 to about $30,000 now and will rise by 4 percent after June 30 next year.

Employees also receive longevity pay and a benefits package which includes medical, dental, optical, pension, disability, paid vacation and shift premium.

Board of trustees chairman Steve Ragan called the contract "very generous" on Schoolcraft's part, adding, "I think our secretaries are compensated extremely well."

The new contract also calls for free cancer screening, an increase in the life insurance and an increase in the disability income insurance.

Students win right to alcohol-free dorm rooms

JUDITH DONER BERNE

Dear Deb:

It's been six years since you unsuccessfully tried to get the University of Michigan to pair you with another freshman roommate who didn't use drugs or alcohol.

Guess what? You would no longer have that problem at the U-M, or at any of Michigan's public colleges and universities.

This fall the last holdouts — Central Michigan University and Ferris State - began offering students the choice of an alcohol-free dorm room.

Central Michigan now offers the option to sign up for a roommate who doesn't drink or use drugs, just as they have for a long time allowed students the option of a roommate who doesn't smoke.

Ferris has created a full alcohol-free dormitory, which about 420 students have selected. The dorm comes complete with a substance-abuse counselor and written pamphlets and brochures.

It has been a long struggle to arrive at this moment — but to the best of my knowledge Michigan is the first state in the nation to assure their public university students this right.

You helped make that happen.

It was both an exercise in standing up for individual rights and in showing that a small band of persistent people — who either have or know how to mobilize clout — can make a difference.

Remember that it took the threat of legislative action, proposed by then-state Rep. David Honigman, at the request of people like Judge Bernard Friedman and representatives of Maplegrove Youth Treatment Center in West Bloomfield.

Remember that it took actual testimony before the House Committee on Colleges and Universities — of young people like you and Eric Worley of West Bloomfield, community activists like Kitty Burch of Bloomfield Township, and the judge — to drive home the point.

And it took coverage and editorials by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers to keep the issue in front of the public.

You were in graduate school in another city last fall, when we reported that Central and Ferris State were still holdouts. That was when Judge Friedman — remember what a nice guy he is — got angry. He wrote to the heads of both universities, mincing no words and demanding accountability:

"A substance-free environment option can only benefit students without detriment to the university. I would certainly appreciate knowing what the reason is for not offering such an option and hope you will respond at your earliest convenience."

It's no coincidence that this year they complied.

Remember when Oakland University, Eastern Michigan University and the University of Michigan set up their programs? They were first.

Well, they've only gotten stronger. This year, 21 percent of U-M dorm students; 24 percent of new students and 19 percent of returnees at EMU; and 84 residents at the primarily commuter OU are in alcohol-free housing.

In 1991, Michigan State University — the state's largest university — joined the fold. The first year, 800 signed up for the option. Last year, MSU reported a decline to 2 percent. But this fall, 2,256 of 7,631 — about 30 percent — made the request.

What about Michigan's private colleges, you ask? Well, just as the public schools did at first, they either deny that the problem of drinking and drugs in dormitories exists at their schools or they refuse to get involved.

Now that I have the choice as a parent, I'd think twice before I'd send my child to a school that doesn't deal in reality — and won't offer a truly safe haven if he or she wants it.

Love, Mom.

Attention spans, funding shorter in education

JOHN TELFORD

■ Principal Margery Readhead made sure that academic standards were high and girls' skirts were low. Whenever a teacher sent a student wearing a short skirt to the principal's office, Miss Readhead would have the girl kneel.

More and more frequently I get invited to speak at various reunions where the reuniters grow increasingly long in the tooth. Recently I spoke at a reunion of Macomb College's highly successful but long-defunct division of basic education, which I directed in the early '70s.

It was nostalgia time to see so many of that liberal old guard who marched on the Warren Tank Arsenal during the Vietnam War, brought in Jane Fonda and the Black Panthers to speak at student seminars, organized a Black Student Union, set up an urban bus line to attract Detroit students, and did other deeds which didn't delight our board and president.

Our activities ultimately got the 3,000-student division disbanded and its director suspended for insubordination. (We had the last laugh, though. Ex-division members organized politically to elect a new board which fired the president.)

I've also been asked to speak at a growing number of high school reunions of increasingly ancient classes, including Detroit Pershing High's '66 class and Southeastern's '63 class. I was track coach at both schools and had state champion runners in both classes. The Southeastern gathering on Sept. 18 filled me with particular nostalgia, because over the time-weathered span of three decades, I had forgotten what a fine class that '63 bunch truly was.

Principal Margery Readhead made sure that academic standards were high and girls' skirts were low. Whenever a teacher sent a student wearing a short skirt to the principal's office, Miss Readhead would have the girl kneel. If the skirt didn't touch the floor the kid got shipped home to change.

It is against that sheltered backdrop that I contemplate some of the other kinds of educational change which have occurred during the past three decades. Not only are the skirts shorter, so are the funding levels for the public education to which most of us owe our professional success. So, too, are student attention spans — due to a junky, fast-fed, rappy diet of MTV soundbites. So are performance standards. The change is particularly devastating in hardcore urban areas stricken by poverty, drugs and gunplay.

And talk about deja vu! I've returned from retirement to develop a guidance program at Detroit's Adult High School, a stone's throw (or an Uzi's range) from where I used to teach, coach and administrate at Martin Luther King High and Butzel Junior High. Every day a thousand students — including kickouts from other schools, parolees, certified SEIs (severely emotionally impaired) and some strife-scarred 30-year-old comebackers — stream into the big, battered building to earn diplomas.

There are two counselors, one academic department head for all departments, and no metal detector. Random gunshots have been fired into my office. At night all phones and other hardware (what there is of it) are disconnected and locked in the vault in the hope they will still be there the next morning. Jim Solomon, my colleague from the King High days, is the beleaguered program's chief administrator. (Donations can be mailed to the Trombly Adult High School, 7630 Harper, Detroit 48213.)

Despite debilitatively short staffing and funding levels, Solomon and his intrepid troops strive valiantly on their students' behalf.

Miss Readhead would be proud.

John Telford, a Rochester Hills resident, formerly was assistant superintendent in the Rochester School District. He previously was executive director for secondary education in the Plymouth Canton district.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Packing lunch boxes isn't an easy chore

I've got a great idea for a support group that people like you and me would flock to join. It could be called "Parents Making Lunches," "PML" for short.

Yes, I too am a parent who struggles every school morning to pack nutritious, tasty, edible lunches that won't end up in the trash. I have a nine-year-old, and a seven-year-old who, if they had their choice, would love it if I packed nothing but chocolate chip cookies, fruit roll-ups, juice boxes and pretzels.

I know I'm opening up myself for fire and brimstones here, but after looking at my kid's mimeographed hot lunch choice sheet, their desires would probably be just as nutritious as those microwaved quasi-chicken nuggets and tater tots they would buy if they had their choice.

Packing lunches

I do make somewhat of a feeble attempt to pack nutritious lunch box items, but I will be the first to admit that it's so much easier to plop a few slices of deli turkey between Wonderbread, spread it with "I Can't Believe It's Butter" and pray it gets eaten before the shark bites, cookies and 10 percent juice box.

I've done everything "Woman's Day," "Family Circle" and "Parents" magazines suggest. I've tried to plan lunches in advance with the kids, and involve them in planning, cooking and packing it. As I can see first hand, packing a nutritious lunch in the morning while searching for leaves, seeds, permission slips, book orders and tennis shoes requires the patience of June Cleaver, the coolness of Fred MacMurray and the help of Alice the Maid.

My kids should consider themselves lucky that they even get a lunch, let alone something from every step of the newfangled food pyramid. You would think that kids growing up in the home of a chef and food writer would be exposed to nothing but the best in lunch box edibles. Last week, I had a few extra porcupine meatballs left over from dinner and stuffed them in a pita. I would have died for a lunch like that, especially since I was on deadline and opted instead for an apple quartered and dipped in Skippy.

My daughter came home and screamed "don't you ever give me your meatloaf suprise again!" even after I reminded her, like momma did me, of those poor starving children.

I went to one of momma's "Tupperware Parties" and wrote a check for those sandwich containers that at 8:27 a.m. you can never find the lid for. My kids reminded me that those are the things you use in first grade, not second and fourth.

On a more positive note, I do ask that the kids at least bring home their sandwich bags and yes, they do get reused. I figure they're good until I begin to notice little fuzzy black balls forming in the corners. I think I do a darned good job considering my wife's idea of packing a school lunch is to give the kids each $2.50 in a baggie.

School lunch programs

Which brings me to yet another pet peeve, that of school lunch programs. I'm looking at the Livonia Public Schools Elementary lunch menu, wondering just what the fat content is on the menu for Sept. 29 that includes a cheeseburger with chips, pizza with pepperoni and/or chicken nuggets with tater tots. The only item that looks somewhat nutritious is the Julienne Salad offered on Sept. 23 and again on Oct. 7.

In my wildest dreams I can't imagine what the "cook's choice" is on Oct. 4. I will admit to the argument that I'm sure, given a choice, my kids would definitely opt for tater tots over nuked and canned mixed vegetables. Furthermore, why are fresh salads and vegetable sticks available only twice weekly?

My kids might not always make the healthiest choices when it comes to selecting food, but I know deep in my heart, when it comes to making that choice that they at least think about it.

Nutrition and proper food choices should be an ongoing subject at home and school. Food is universal and you can learn about it whether you're studying geography, math or science. Teachers can't do it all, they need the support and the assistance of parents like you and me.

Lunch bunch: It's lunchtime at Hayes Elementary School and students are enjoying their homemade lunches. Felicia Cline, 7, a second grader, peeks inside her lunch box packed with a banana, sandwich and chocolate cupcake.

Pack kids' lunch with a PUNCH

Lunch and recess go together. Kids are often in a hurry to eat so they can go outside and play with their friends. They won't take the time to peel and eat an orange. Here are some ideas for packing a nutritious lunch they'll eat.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

It's lunchtime at Hayes Elementary School in Westland. Want to guess what kids are eating and throwing away?

Apples are tossed after a couple of bites, some oranges and bananas before they're even peeled, but small cans of applesauce, fruit cocktail and peaches are gobbled up.

At Hayes they sell more chocolate milk than white, but white bread not brown, is the favored choice.

A lot has changed in the lunchroom since you and I went to school, but many things are the same.

An informal survey at Hayes found that kids still love bologna, ham, salami and peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. Turkey sandwiches were growing in popularity. Chips, corn chips and chocolate cupcakes are favorite snacks, especially when they're in individual serving size packages.

Some moms are packing turkey sandwiches, pretzels, dried fruits, and tortilla chips into their children's lunch boxes. I spotted a few pita bread sandwiches, too.

Kids will tell you they hate vegetables, even if they're peeled and cut into bite-sized pieces.

Lunch boxes are high tech — insulated, with freezer blocks to keep things cold. Some kids even pack their lunches in small coolers.

"More kids are staying at school for lunch than going home," said Hayes principal Jerry Nehs, recently chosen Michigan's Principal of the Year. "About two-thirds of the kids bring their lunch to school, one-third buy."

What is true at Hayes, is also true across the country. Neiman Marcus recently conducted a random lunch box mail survey to 3,000 households with children ages 6-12 across the nation. They found that almost 62 percent of children take their lunch to

Fight temptation with healthy snacks

LAURA LETOBAR

How is the average, working woman supposed to cope with maintaining a low-fat diet in today's busy world? This is the question I asked Andrea Agge of Westland. With constant temptations in her pathway not only at work, but also at home, I was curious as to how she manages to eat a low-fat diet. Agge said that some of the reasons she needs to watch what she eats are high blood pressure, high cholesterol and a desire to lose a few pounds. Her husband, Max, is also plagued by some of these problems so they need to help each other stay on the right track.

Agge works at DMC Medical Offices in Livonia. It is here that she has to be really careful about her diet. Because there is no cafeteria in the building, going out for lunch is a common alternative to "brown bagging it."

Unfortunately, fast food is extremely high in fat. Here are some ways Agge limits the fats in her lunch when she goes to a restaurant. She usually orders salads that have no eggs or cheese. She requests her salad dressing "on the side" in a separate container so she can control how much she puts on her salad.

It is here that an otherwise healthy, low-fat, low calorie salad can suddenly become a high fat nightmare! For example, one tablespoon of ranch dressing can have up to 10 grams of fat! And, the little cup that holds the dressing can have up to three tablespoons of dressing in it. That can add 30 grams of fat to your healthy lunch.

Agge also grills most of her meats, uses skim milk instead of whole milk, and has a bagel in the morning instead of a doughnut. Some of her favorite low-fat snacks are pretzels and dried apple snacks to satisify her sweet tooth.

Agge does admit it is easier to eat low-fat at home now that her sons, Scott and Mark have school three or more days a week. Just over one-third, take their lunch five days a week.

More than half (53 percent) take their lunch, not because it's more economical, but because they prefer it. Fifty percent describe their lunch experience as "Homemade and Happy."

In more than 57 percent of households, the parent and child select lunch foods together — but only 21 percent actually prepare the lunch together. In 55 percent of the households, the parent makes the lunch.

The majority of parents (59 percent) suspect their children trade their lunch items — an even greater majority of kids (64 percent) confirm their suspicions. Almost half of the parents suspect their children throw out portions of the lunch — 40 percent of the kids admit to it.

So what's a parent to do?

Gail Posner of West Bloomfield, a nutritionist who packs two lunches a day for her sons ages 5 and 7, cuts fruit and vegetables into bite-size pieces. "Make it real easy for kids to eat," she said. "Cut fruits and vegetables into interesting shapes. Make green peppper rings, carrot swords. Kids like mini bagels and packages of string cheese. Give them a little container of peanut butter or no-fat Ranch dressing to dip fruit and vegetables into."

Change your ideas about what lunch food is. Poser said cereal and milk is a nutritious lunch. Buy individual boxes of cereal, the box doubles as a bowl. Instead of white bread, Poser suggests making roll-up sandwiches with whole wheat Lavash (flat bread), corn or flour tortillas. Make a peanut butter and jelly roll-up sandwich with cut up bananas.

"Go easy on the desserts," said Posner. "They fill kids up and they won't eat their sandwiches. No fat pudding is a good dessert."

Little touches make a big difference. Kids love to get notes from mom and other surprises in their lunch boxes.

"A little creativity can make an everyday lunch exciting," said Annie Gilbar, author of "The Penny Whistle Lunch Box Book," and a member of the Quaker Chewy Granola Bars Lunch Box Leaders Advisory Panel.

"Keep a drawer full of markers and stickers to decorate your child's lunch bag and food. Put a smiley face sticker on a banana. Have theme lunches such as America day. Draw a picture of the flag on the bag and pack peanut butter and jelly and apple sauce."

Gilbar recommends parents look for fun foods that kids will enjoy eating with enough variety to keep them interested. Instead of a regular tuna sandwich, cut the sandwich into fun shapes with a cookie cutter. Bagels and pita bread are good for sandwiches, too.

moved out. She said they always had high-fat snacks around the house that were sometimes too tempting to leave alone.

For her recipe makeover of Lemon Loaf, the greatest fat reduction came from replacing the oil with applesauce. But, because the applesauce does contain quite a large amount of water, we used only ¼ cup of applesauce as compared to ½ cup of butter.

Be sure to adjust your recipe whenever you make substitutions. If a cake doesn't cook completely or rise properly it can be due to too much liquid. You may notice that this Lemon Loaf does not rise more than two inches when cooked. That is due to the moisture in the recipe. But, you will also notice that the loaf is very moist. This is usually not the case with store-bought fat-free or low-fat cakes.

Capture the look of 'The Age of Innocence'

Capture the look of "The Age of Innocence" in your own home and win an elegant coffee table book (valued at $50) filled with photos and information about Martin Scorsese's film "The Age of Innocence."

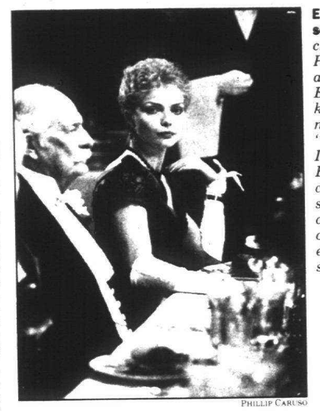

To enter, send a color photograph of your most elegant table setting by Monday, Oct. 11, 1993 to: Keely Wygonik, Taste/Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150.

The first 25 entries will receive a pass (admits 2) to see the film at selected theaters.

The winning entry will receive "The Age of Innocence" book and the winning photograph will be printed in the Oct. 18 edition of the Observer & Eccentric Taste section. For more information, call Keely Wygonik, 953-2105.

"The Age of Innocence," a Columbia Pictures' release, is based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Edith Wharton about a man caught between two women and two worlds. The drama is played out against the opulent backdrop of New York in the 1870s, a time of Morgans and Vanderbilts.

Rick Ellis, an expert in food presentation and food history, drew on his collection of over 4,000 American cookbooks to determine unique menus for each of the seven dinners served throughout the film. "The type of food and preparation they had then was not so much different than from today," said Ellis, "they just served more of it, a lot more." Indigestion was a chronic complaint. The food was overcooked with heavy sauces. The focus was on the look of the food and the presenation.

Pack a lunch your children will enjoy

See related story on Taste front.

My kids always eat their lunch when I:

- Use different breads like pita, lavosh, soft tortillas, sub buns and of course anything homemade.
- Make peanut butter sandwiches on a bagel or homemade soft pretzel.
- Pack vegetable sticks and include a container low-fat ranch dressing for dipping.
- Make banana, zucchini or pumpkin bread and spread it with cream cheese and sunflower seeds.
- Peel, slice, seed, cube, section, quarter their favorite fruit.
- Make sauceless burritos, soft taco's and wrap them ala Taco Bell style.
- Include homemade granola, not the fatty cereal-box kind.
- Use a cookie cutter to cut off the crust and make the sandwich fun to look at and eat!
- Pack chicken legs and include a Handi-wipe or a baggie with a damp napkin.
- Cut basic sandwiches into small triangles and skewer them on long toothpicks.
- When I have time, I slip a quarter or two in a baggie along with a note to choose something healthy and then remember to ask them about their choice when they get home.

Michigan chili champion undefeated

KEELY WYGONIK

There was some pretty hot stuff entered in the 15th Annual Michigan Championship Chili Cookoff held at the Lark Restaurant in West Bloomfield on Sept. 19.

As one of 18 judges, I got to taste the 40 chilis entered in the contest. Winners were chosen from 18 finalists which included eight District winners. For the second year in a row, John Janes, of Wyandotte won the cookoff. His chili, appropriately named, "Lightning Strikes Twice Chili."

Second place went to Ken Horgan, 1993 District Winner, who brewed a delicious batch of Livonia Firefighters Firehouse Chili.

Third place went to Anne Bowers of Belleville; fourth, Marilyn Fredericks of Farmington Hills, and fifth to Cookie Hewelt of Lakeland.

Best Booth was awarded to Ed Gallaudet of Birmingham whose booth was sponsored by Ducks Unlimited, and Showmanship was won by John Mikulak of Rockford.

It was fun to visit the cooks before the serious work of judging began. Everyone puts a lot of heart and effort into their chili. The cookoff at the Lark is special because event proceeds are used to award 10 scholarships of $1,000 to deserving culinary arts students from Michigan.

Paul Huyck of Farmington Hills, 1991 Michigan State winner, cooked up a batch of his Michigan Heat Chili. This year he added cilantro to his recipe. Earlier this year, Huyck won the Oxford District Chili Cookoff.

Chefs Curtis Rellinger and "Chili Joe" Wnuk, who recently published their first cookbook, "Excuse Me Waiter, There's A Fly In My Soup!" were brewing a batch of their famous "Chili Joe & Chef Curtis' Chili."

The two presented a cooking demonstration at Hudson's Fairlane on Saturday, and plan to do more in October. Their cookbook is now being sold at Hudson's Westland.

Other local cooks participating in the cookoff included — Jim Adamski, Redford; Ken Brundage, Livonia; Kathleen Cummins, Birmingham; A. Michael Ford, Farmington Hills; Vaughn Irish, Walled Lake; Mike Maiman, Birmingham; H.L. "Bud" Pickett, West Bloomfield; Gary Ray, Livonia; Charlie Robertson, Birmingham; and Nick Roncone, Birmingham.

Here's the recipe for the Livonia Firefighters Firehouse Chili.

During September — National Rice Month — Weight Watchers invites you to enjoy the variety and flavor offered by the world's number one grain.

Rice plays a major role in the healthy diets of many countries around the world. Today, with health experts advising us to eat more grain foods each day, it may be a good idea to imitate some international cuisines.

To prove the point, Weight Watchers has come up with a trio of rice dishes, as different as they are delicious. Tour the world's cuisines this month and try Betty's Fried Rice — a terrific Chinese side dish. Then move on to Garlic Parmesan Risotto, and find out that Italy has more to offer than pasta. Finally, have a Spanish fiesta and sample Julie's Spanish Paelia. All recipes are from Weight Watchers "Favorite Homestyle Recipes Cookbook."

Stir clams, tomato, and saffron into rice; cover and cook over medium-low heat, 10 minutes. Add shrimp and peas; cover and cook 3 minutes. CHEAP EATS

Lisa Rudy takes a gastronomical tour of restaurants offering dinner for two for under $25.

BY LISA RUDY
SPECIAL WRITER

I'm not exactly sure if it was the decorative men's room urinal-turned flower planter prominently displayed outside the Traffic Jam & Snug Restaurant or simply the unusual name itself that beckoned me inside, but the moment I decided to take the green light into this place I was glad I did.

The Traffic Jam & Snug (T.J.'s for short), located just minutes from Wayne State University's campus, has a lot to boast about, and its menu is just one of the unique things this place has to offer. OK, yes, so T.J.'s does have its very own pamphlet, citing historical and culinary facts and figures, and even a brewery tour that's conducted out back on a monthly basis. And there IS a sign inside the front door that states: "Please form a line to the left." But don't start feeling like a tourist just yet. Go inside.

T.J.'s many dining areas (I think I counted eight) are warm and inviting, featuring a huge fireplace in the front room, tapestry-topped booths and seats throughout, interesting paintings and prints, and a second level that gives patrons an overview of downstairs diners and that ever increasing line forming to the left.

Fresh flowers bedeck the tables and just about every other empty space not filled with some trinket or another — even old fruit crates placed here and there in odd places throughout the dining area look tastefully chic.

A bakery, a orewery and a dairy are all housed on site, and guests are encouraged to view what all is going on inside the kitchen here. With the help of Detroit & Mackinaw Brewery, T.J.'s is able to offer some very unique brews to its guests, making the restaurant Michigan's first "brewpub." Greenapple Ale seems to be the favorite.

T.J.'s "whatever's in the fridge" philosophy extends to both the bakery and the main kitchen, with daily surprises to keep you on your toes. This place is famous for their bread of the day — vegetable surprise, cheddar, sourdough, there's just no telling.

A homemade cheese platter, Pesto Pasta Pillows and Fire and Ice Armadillo eggs are just a few of the appetizers. T.J.'s, incidentally, has won awards over the past years for their housemade cheese.

Burgers and sandwiches range from spicy lentil burgers and the Ratatouille Cheddar Broil to the more traditional Jam-Burger (half pound of ground round) and the classic BLT.

Even meatloaf gets jazzed up with bits of carrots, apples, currents and leeks, and T.J.'s does a tremendous job of making a meal out of an acorn squash by stuffing it with wild rice, roasted corn and sweet peppers. Chicken and seafood are also offered in one form or another.

Desserts are all homemade and T.J.'s even takes the credit for making their own ice cream. They pile it high to look like Mt. Everest. Chaesecake, shortcake, muffins, cookies, everything's whipped up according to what's in season, keeping with the "no cans in the kitchen" motto. And if your feeling the least bit guilty about dessert, don't bother. T.J.'s also offers a treat called the "Itty Bitty."

A butcher, a baker, a pamphlet maker — T.J.'s seems to have it all. But hurry, the line is forming to the left.

Frank Allison — one Odd Sox

■ A producer with the code name "Yoda" and an independent record label out of Chicago have made Frank Allison one happy musician with the release of his "Pig Out" album.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Celebrate: Frank Allison and the Odd Sox certainly have something to celebrate. It's the release of "Pig Out," their first album for Chicago's Waterdog Records.

Frank Allison is every record producers' dream.

In speaking about the recording of his next album, Allison has nothing but respect for the producer, whom he'll only call "Yoda."

"He's a smart guy; he's Yoda. You don't tell Yoda what to do," said Allison with a cheshire cat grin. (That respect is something most record producers only fantasize about.)

With further probing, Allison leaks that this "Yoda" character is really a "famous Motown producer" but won't reveal his full name. He admits that the collaboration is a little bizarre but it should bring about some interesting results.

"Country soul. That's what we'll end up with," the Manchester resident said.

His simple professionalism has in turn inspired Allison.

"He does it really simply," Allison said. "He knows where the mic goes, instead of (some producers) taking like five hours to set up."

■ STREET BEATS

"I asked him how long it would take to record and he asked me how long it takes me to play," he added, distorting his face with a goofy smile.

The album will be his second for Waterdog Records — a new indpendent label based in Chicago. That release along with Frank Allison and the Odd Sox's back catalog will be distributed by Waterdog in early 1994.

His first album for them is the recently released live CD, "Pig Out." The album was recorded, appropriately enough, at the Blind Pig in Ann Arbor on Sept. 26, 1992. The gig was Allison's farewell store with original Odd Sox Dan Beckett and bassist John Boyle. Devout fan Jeff Taras, part owner of P.J.'s Records in Ann Arbor, wanted to capture the moment on tape so he rented $900 worth of equipment and hired producer Mike Clark to record the show. It wasn't intended for public purchase.

"He told me he had $800-900 worth of equipment and I told him, 'You're a crazy man,'" Allison said.

"I didn't think any more of it."

Allison — now teamed with guitarist Kevin Allison (no relation), drummer Rob Hejna and bassist Chris Noteboom — heard the tape and was impressed. He passed it along to the aforementioned "Yoda."

"When we got the tape back, it sounded better than anything else I've recorded," he said.

Waterdog then agreed to release it as his first for them. Having a live first release has its good and bad points.

"It's easy for Waterdog to book us dates — but it won't get any airplay."

Still, it fulfills his dream of making money with his humorous songs. He's developed a huge following — "Frankheads," he calls them — with his wide-eyed, goofy facial expressions and animated stage presence.

"I wanted to write comedy; that's how it started," he said. "You know how a comedy troup has one musical person? That's what I wanted to be. I would do music for it."

Instead he's doing country/rock music intertwined with comedy for himself. You don't need to go past some of the titles — "The Rodent of Love," "Workman's Goon" and "Rita Meets the Mighty Mouse" — to sample Allison's music.

"If the high school me looked into the future and saw what I'm doing, he would have died and I wouldn't be here."

Frank Allison and the Odd Sox will perform Friday, Oct. 8, at Lili's, 2930 Jacob, Hamtramck. For more information, call 875-6555. They will also perform, Saturday, Oct. 9, and Sunday, Oct. 31, at the Blind Pig, 206-208 S. First St., Ann Arbor (996-8555).

Frank Allison will perform solo on Wednesday, Oct. 6, at Gotham City, 22848 Woodward, Ferndale. For more information, call 398-7430.

Instruments aside, Stew follows a dream

Cookin': With a taste for success, but minus real musical talent, are Forehead Stew members Matt McGuire, Jeff Fowlkes, Al Sutton and Andy Sutton.

If you thought the band Forehead Stew was spacey, your hunches are correct.

The four-member band has one ultimate plan: to make enough money to start a multi-conglomerate corporation, build a space ship and fly into outer space.

Best of all, fans who collect 10 UPC symbols from their releases can enter to win 10 spots to travel with the band. Forehead Stew fans can begin collecting those UPC symbols late next month when it releases the 7-inch single, "House of Reason" and "Water." It's a joint venture between the band and Third Gear records.

However, frontman Al Sutton sees one hitch holding back astronomical project — namely the pricey corporation.

"As soon as we learn to play our instruments, we will be a damn good (money-making) band," Sutton said.

The members have no qualms about stating they have no true musical talent — except drummer Jeff Fowlkes. Nevertheless, that has never delayed the members from creating a wash of rock with angry, hard-edge music.

A restored 'El Cid' rides off into silver screen history

Colorful return: Charlton Heston (right) is back on the silver screen fighting the Champion of Aragon with the re-release of a restored "El Cid."

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

■ MOVIES

More vivid than anything on screen is the imagined picture of film buff Martin Scorsese in a New York movie palace circa 1961, drinking in the stunning compositions and fluid camera work of Anthony Mann's "El Cid."

Flash ahead 30 years. Scorsese, now a famous movie director, has put his name above the restoration of one of his favorite epics. The Detroit re-release coincides with the opening of his own "The Age of Innocence" and the films have a surprising amount in common.

Both directors play with the wide screen image like kids in a toy store. A character's face looms in the corner of the screen while blurred action goes on behind it. Even during the talkiest scenes, the camera remains in constant movement.

And then there's all that glorious color.

Along with the re-recorded soundtrack, color is the crucial element restored for the "El Cid" re-release. The deep reds dance again on the costumes, flags and blood-soaked swords. The skies and ocean, faded through time almost to brown, are again a deep, deep blue.

Charlton Heston stars as Rodrigo Diaz de Bivar, whose mercy on Moorish prisoners early in the film brands him El Cid. The name means "one who is both compassionate and a great warrior" and it's this blend that brings him fame.

Based on the real-life warrior-hero who drove the Moors from 11th-century Spain, the Hollywood El Cid has all the trappings of epics of the time. There's the ubiquitous balance of the love plot with the action plot, here with Sophia Loren as his betrothed Chimene, daughter of the king's champion.

A bizarre turn of events leads El Cid to kill his future father-in-law in a sword fight. The dying man's wish to his daughter is to exact revenge on his killer. "Now," he says, "you must act as a son would."

Chimene heeds his wishes for awhile, watching coldly as El Cid engages in a brutal match of jousting and sword-fighting to prove his innocence through God. Only long after they are formally married through the king's edict, does she succumb to his considerable charms.

With "Ben Hur" and "The Ten Commandments" under his shirt, Charlton Heston could play parts like this in his sleep. He's surprisingly lively here, thanks in part to the ever-exotic Loren, a great improvement over his usual romantic co-stars like Jean Simmons.

"El Cid" works best in the first half, with its elegantly executed fight scenes. Director Mann is still best known for a series of James Stewart westerns ("Winchester 73" remains the best), and he brings an Old West sensibility to the heroes and landscapes of medieval Spain.

By film's end, the epic battles with the black-cloaked Moors grow almost tiresome. The three-hour movie is more than redeemed when our hero gallops off into history in one of the strangest moments ever realized on film.

Is "El Cid" really worth all this adulation? Perhaps not, but it's always a treat to see epics (especially when lovingly restored) on the big screen. My only wish is that I was sitting not at the AMC Abbey Theatre, but at the Fox downtown, where a movie like this can really shine.

"El Cid" (USA — 1961). Charlton Heston drives the Moors from Spain and romances sexy Sophia Loren in this epic, restored and rereleased with the support of Martin Scorsese. Anthony Mann directed.

"Tito and Me" (Yugoslavia/France — 1992), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Oct. 1-2, 4 and 7 p.m. Oct. 3. In the nightmarish, repressive Belgrade of 1954, an overweight 10-year-old finds it tough to fit into his very conformist family and school.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATRE CAFE

"Dead-Alive" (USA — 1993), midnight Oct. 1-2. The story of a family that just won't stay dead includes a Kung Fu priest and a set of intestines set on strangulation. Not surprisingly, the movie has been dubbed "the goriest fright film of all time."

■ MAPLE THEATER
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. Call 855-9090 for show times. ($5.75; $2.95 twilight)

"The Lady from Shanghai" (USA — 1948), 7 p.m. Sept. 28-29. Orson Welles and real-life wife Rita Hayworth team for intrigue in this bizarre thriller. It all climaxes in a funhouse and hall of mirrors, where you're not sure if the person you're shooting at is the real thing.

■ STAR JOHN R

"Boxing Helena" (USA — 1993). The admittedly sick story — about a surgeon who amputates a woman's arms and legs in the hopes that she will become dependent on him — might have worked as a short story. The feature film, the first by David Lynch's 25-year-old daughter Jennifer, is so badly done it's almost funny.

■ STATE THEATER

"Singles" (USA — 1992), 9 p.m. Sept. 27. The modern rock soundtrack is the real star in the episodic tale of the Seattle romance and music scene. Matt Dillon and Bridget Fonda star.

'Europa, Europa' serves up strange, but true story

True story: The 1990 German film "Europa, Europa" weaves an odd but true tale of a young German Jew who dodges Nazi violence only to end up serving in the Germany army.

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

■ VIDEO

If it wasn't based on a true story, the interesting and often moving 1990 German film "Europa, Europa" would be too strange and ironic to be plausible. A young German Jew, uprooted by Nazi violence, ends up serving not only in the German army but being placed in elite school for Hitler Youth.

The film begins with a bris, the ceremonial circumcision of Jewish infants. The German narrator, who says he recalls his circumcision, notes he shared his birthday with an Austrian who would heavily impact his life — Adolf Hitler. Maybe the bris is ingrained in the man's mind because that circumcision could later reveal his true identity and cost him his life.

Solomon Perel is a young teenager when Hitler Youth and Brown Shirts attack his father's store and rampage in the family's home at the back. His elder sister is killed in the assault, which spurs the survivors to move to Poland where his father had been born.

Before long, the safe haven is eliminated as Germany invades Poland and Perel's strange journey begins. Fleeing the Germans, Perel and his brother run smack into the Russians who are invading from the east. After the two are separated during the chaos, Perel finds himself spending two years as an orphan being indoctrinated as a Communist Young Pioneer.

Things could be worse, so Perel settles into a routine at the Communist orphanage. Then the Germans invade and its every orphan for himself. Among a group of locals captured and on the verge of being summarily executed, Perel manages to lose his papers and claim to be a be a "good" German.

A nice looking, well-spoken youth, Perel is used as a translator and becomes the mascot of the soldiers. Living in fear of being discovered as a Jew, Perel is also tremendously confused by the brutal, anti-Semitic soldiers who are very kind to him. As time passes, things don't get simpler for the teenager.

After inadvertently becoming a war hero, Perel is adopted by a German officer and rewarded by enrollment in an elite Hitler Youth School. The lunacy of the Nazi doctrine is pointed out as Perel is used as an specimen of the noble Aryan during a class teaching "scientific"methods to recognize Jews.

Marco Hofschneider is very good as young Perel, whose thoughts of his family are never far from the surface, especially as he tries in vain to catch a glimpse of his parents through the covered windows of a trolley car that travels through the ghetto without stopping. It's a painful, impossible situation that through will, quick-wittedness, and very importantly, luck, Perel manages to survive.

There's no middle ground for that office relationship

BARBARA SCHIFF

Voice mail message:
Barbara:

I work in a small office with about 15 other people. Possibly because of the size, or maybe it is because of the informality of the owners, the mood of the office is chummy. I am uncomfortable with my co-workers' familiarity with one another, so I keep to myself. I don't talk about my personal life; I attempt to keep the teasing to a minimum.

My attitude, so different than the others, is an unpopular one. That's OK; I can live with that. What I can't live with is the behavior of one particularly physical co-worker. I don't know if it makes a difference, but she is a lesbian — very butch, very masculine. In the beginning she was one of the few people in the office that I felt close to. I am in therapy, and by some of the comments she made, I guessed she was, too. We had an easy banter going on.

Recently, she started hitting me for emphasis when she is talking to me. She doesn't want to hurt me, or anything like that; she is just a very physical person trying to make a point forcefully. Even though I realize this is true, I resent her punching me. I get really angry when it happens. I asked her a few times to please stop, but she says she can't, that I'll have to accept her as she is. I hate to lose the one comfortable relationship I have in this office. Do you have any suggestions?

Dear caller:

You cannot have your cake and eat it, too. If you don't want to be punched, forget the relationship.

Talk to your therapist about why you are uncomfortable with the familiarity you describe, which is common in the workplace. Is it possible you are thin-skinned and instead of accepting the office teasing and being as capable as the others of getting along, you are running away?

Do you have trouble having a sense of humor? In most situations, the more sensitive you are the more you will be bullied.

"I don't know what category of rock you would want to call us," said guitarist Matt McGuire. "Industrial is a misused word . . . so to call us industrial is not so."

The band formed when friends McGuire and Andy Sutton started recording themselves beating and hitting objects in their families' garages in Mount Clemens.

At that time, neighborhood friends, the group Tangent Image, stored its equipment in the Sutton's garage. They attempted to assembled the instruments and even spray-painted the equipment cases — all without prior consent.

Once the members of the band discovered this, the equipment was removed but the musical bug stayed behind.

The two decided to form a band; Andy Sutton on bass and McGuire on guitar because he had musical experience playing a saxophone. They both taught themselves chords, eventually bought a drum machine and suddenly they were a band.

Andy's older brother, White Room Studios record producer Al, who possesses no vocal background, later joined as lead singer and now the twosome became a trio with a programmed drum machine.

"It was hard," said Al Sutton, remembering the days with the drum machine, "because it was a live band playing with a drum machine and it didn't work.

"I always wanted a live drummer."McGuire added. "You have more of a live feel."

Eventually, the machine broke down and when they tried to fix it, the programming was erased so the members settled on a live drummer. After several drummers, Forehead Stew is happy with Fowlkes who they said gives the band its concise sound.

This unity, the members feel, landed them a spot at the South by Southwest Music Conference in Austin, Texas, last spring.

"That was the first time that we played and didn't screw up because it seems as though we always screw something up," Andy Sutton said.

"It's like we had this 'we don't care' attitude, but we played better than we ever had," Al Sutton said.

The band has acquired a select following in the Detroit area, which tagged along to Austin, unknown to Forehead Stew. Today, the members are more in tune with their followers, music and goals.

"People like honesty and if we are honest to our music, that will shine through," Andy Sutton said. "As soon as we learn to play our instruments we will be a damn good band."

Forehead Stew performs along with Walk on Water at the Impound, 17320 Harper, between Cadieux and Moross, Detroit, on Saturday, Oct. 2. For more information, call 884-9441.

Stationery stores pamper in paper

On Sept. 21, 1837, in the midst of a national financial panic, Charles Louis Tiffany and John P. Young opened a small "Stationery and Dry Goods" store at 259 Broadway in New York. The original cash book records the first day's receipts of $4.98.

Tiffany's future as an arbiter of style and quality was not assured in those early years, as New Yorkers harbored unruly, often gaudy tastes, reminiscent of the Victorian era. However, by 1883, Tiffany's took a strong stand for curbing exuberance in engraved cards and stationery in the interests of good taste:

"Some ladies' notepaper is brightly decorated. Among the designs are landscapes, birds, cats, dogs . . . But such fancy stationery is little used except for the western and out-of-town trade. The illuminated papers are rather shunned by ladies of fashion and quiet good taste . . . "

And on the subject of calling cards:

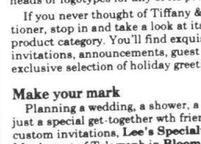

"A young lady does not have a separate card until after her first season in society. Her name previous to that time is always engraved beneath that of her mother's . . . "

Even today, though subtle decoration is certainly acceptable, the company adheres to a conviction that correspondence issued on Tiffany & Co. stock must be restrained and appropriate. Wedding invitations, for instance, should not go out under both the bride's parents names if they are divorced. The "yes" or "no" return card is firmly vetoed, and off-white or ecru paper engraved in black is strongly advised. And please, no tacky, gushy quotations or photographs. Customers are counseled on proper phrasing.

Simply, the best

Etiquette aside, Tiffany & Co. has remained a leader in graphic design and craftsmanship throughout its history. Tiffany redesigned the Great Seal of the United States and created the invitations marking the openings of the Brooklyn Bridge, the Statue of Liberty and the Ziegfield Follies.

Today its stationery products bear an exclusive Tiffany watermark and contemporary designs are offered alongside classic motifs drawn from extensive archives. Look for Tiffany-designed stationery in "The Age of Innocence," the movie adaptation of Edith Wharton's novel. Where else could you coordinate invitations and place cards with your china and silverware pattern? Pictured is the Audubon pattern bordering invitations ($45), place cards ($22) and a cup and saucer ($75). The Somerset Collection store in Troy offers exclusive typefaces for engraving or Tiffany's Design Department will custom design monograms, letterheads or logotypes for any of its products.

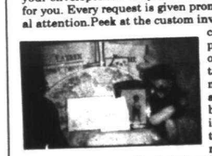

If you never thought of Tiffany & Co. as a stationer, stop in and take a look at its oldest ongoing product category. You'll find exquisite note cards, invitations, announcements, guest books and an exclusive selection of holiday greeting cards.

Make your mark

Planning a wedding, a shower, a Bar Mitzvah or just a special get-together with friends? If you need custom invitations, Lee's Specialty Ltd. on Maple east of Telegraph in Bloomfield Township is everything you've wished for. Lee's team of artists will help you design an appropriate invite, create the verbage and execute the art work.

Select the invitation, the typestyles, the borders and the colors, then customize napkins, place cards, response cards and thank you's to coordinate. "The sky's the limit," says owner Solange Messellan. The shop offers hand calligraphy for your envelopes and they'll even mail everything for you. Every request is given prompt and personal attention.Peek at the custom invitation wall for clever ideas. We picture a basket of goodies containing sample merchandise for a baby shower or birthday party including invitations, announcements, needlepoint personalized photo albums and Prudy, the velveteen snow bunny. Lee's Specialty opens a second location in the Somerset Collection in late October.

Old world village has retail charm

A new shopping center will open next week without escalators, a food court, big-name anchors or discount prices. Instead you'll see strolling musicians, Victorian towers and merchandise from the world market.

The Aldridge Family of Bloomfield Hills is about to take shoppers back in time and across the ocean with the opening of its Canterbury Village on Oct. 1.

Stan and Sue Aldridge and their grown children have combined entertainment, unique merchandise, and a Dickensinian setting on the former William Scripps farm near Lake Orion to create "someplace you can take your out-of-town guests."

The 21-acre project has been under construction for the past two years, and not all the buildings and restaurants will be open next week, according to Stan Aldridge, who also owns and manages the Indianwood Country Club, north of the new shopping village, and the Lakewood Shores Resort in Oscoda, which includes a 36-hole golf course.

"But the biggest attraction, the Always Christmas Castle, is ready to go and the grounds are prepared," he said. "We've attempted to recreate an Old English festival village. Some of the buildings have been restored; others are new. A few of the 16 shops will be ready, and next year the grand banquet hall will be open for parties and weddings. We will also have a mail-order catalog next year, and each month a different festival with clowns, musical entertainment and strolling characters."

When Canterbury Village is complete, there will be a fast-food restaurant, a more upscale banquet facility (a castle with eight towers,) a fudge shop, a tea room, a candle shop, a children's clothing boutique, a jewelry shop, a glass shop, a flower and basket shop, the Christmas store, a toy store, a candy store, and an "antiques row." Each shop has been meticulously designed in Tudor style with oak paneling, leaded- and stained-glass windows. There are fireplaces and carpeted staircases that create the backdrop for the collection of merchandise brought in from around the world.

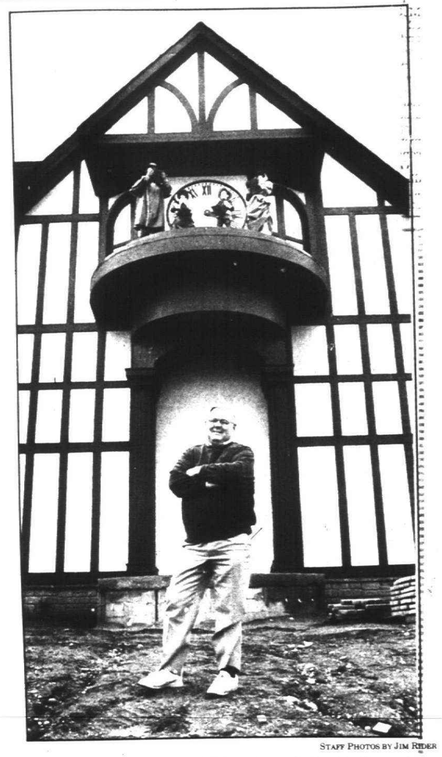

"Look at these Christmas tree ornaments," Aldridge said as he lifted an embroidered gold, six-inch sphere to the light. "We've got the most unique items from Poland, the Philippines, Germany, China, Austria, France and Italy. Most of them are handmade. My wife and I have shopped around the world to find these pieces. We've got them at competitive prices, too. There's something for everyone. I guarantee it."

In the 16-foot, animated Christmas Castle, garlands, holiday swags, lights, St. Nick figurines, and thousands of ornaments are grouped according to theme and color. Many of the newly hired sales staff admit they're on board to earn money and receive discounts on the lovely merchandise.

"And that's all right," Aldridge said with a wide grin. "I like a lot of this stuff myself." The ornaments are priced from $1.50 to $16, depending on the size and detail. The place is designed to give Frankenmuth, the state's top tourist attraction, a run for its money.

Refusing to compare the two retail operations, Aldridge said he hoped to attract the "four million people who live within 45 minutes of Canterbury Village."

Security issues draw retailers to seminar

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO

The way to keep gangs and terrorists away from malls is through a program of Zero Tolerance, local retailers learned from a panel of police and security experts last week.

And taking the plan to heart, a few malls hinted at the imminent opening of police "mini stations" right on their premises.

"Don't let the bad guys get a foothold in your establishments," instructed Michael St. James, director of Threat Management Systems of Birmingham. "You can't stop a preplanned, unanticipated incident because they happen too fast. You're up against a time factor of just seconds. But you can put your security dollars into prevention. You can foil incidents through interception. This works if you have an excellent communications system."

St. James warned the gathering of mall security and management officials of a "new kind of male." Quoting a recent criminologist's report, St. James said that a generation of "cut throat kids," currently 10, 11 and 12-years-old are beginning to commit crimes, including murder, without remorse. He blamed the influences of violent television and movie scenes on young minds growing up without parental guidance.

"Unbridled testosterone is the most dangerous chemical in the world today," he said. "You've got to brace yourselves for the storm that will hit your malls. The way to do this is through intelligence and communication."

St. James outlined the following precautions:

■ Round Robbins. Merchants notify security immediately by phone when anyone suspicious or threatening arrives on the scene. Merchants should note descriptions and directions of movement.

■ Retail Responsibility. No selling jackets in rival gang colors off racks near a store entrance. Creates an opportunity for gang members to "mix it up

Area residents will appreciate the fact that because we're close, they can make repeat trips," he pointed out. "This is going to be a fun place to be."

Aldridge also refused to disclose his investment in the operation, "because it scares me too much," but said it was "the second biggest cost underestimate of my life." The first? "My wife," he teased.

But it's safe to say the family has poured more than a couple of million dollars into the project, importing lampposts from Italy, paving the entire village in brick, constructing a clock tower complete with life-size Dickensinian carolers, and importing paneling from the original Lloyds of London headquarters.

Gardens and landscaping are on the way. So are jobs for 360 to 400 interested people. The Canterbury Village will be open beginning Oct. 1, on Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 7 p.m.

Canterbury Village is located three miles north of I-75 on Joslyn Road in Orion Township.

ble. Eliminate secluded corners as places to hide.

■ Limit ingress and egress to areas that can be monitored by using fences and landscaping around shopping centers.

■ Have a visible police presence at the mall to establish the turf on the side of the law.

■ Increase parking lot patrol.

Officers from the Livonia Police Department's Youth Bureau advised retailers to be aware of graffiti - the first sign a gang has arrived on the scene. Retailers should document the graffiti with photos, notify police of the incident, then remove it before it can be crossed out or countered by a rival gang.

Police also advised mall security officers to evict persons who commit assaults or vandalism at their centers. The ban should be followed up with a certified letter sent to the offender's residence confirming the ban. This will aid the prosecution in court.

Police said malls must follow through with court appearances and prosecution to give the message that there is zero tolerance.

■ 'Mall security has three official jobs; to observe, report and assist. We are not armed.'

Joe Ortiz
security director

Joe Ortiz, a security director for the Schostak shopping centers, discussed legal liability issues with retailers.

"We can't control the ills of society in a mall situation," he reminded the audience. "However, people expect us to. Mall security has three official jobs; to observe, report and assist. We are not armed."

Ortiz suggested that mall walkers be invited to become "Columbos," reporting suspicious activity observed during their "rounds."

The security seminar was sponsored by the International Council of Shopping Centers, metro Detroit branch.

Fans flock to see author Ivana

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

There's nothing like a famous scorned woman — who happens to be an aging sex symbol — to stimulate literary interests.

Just ask the folks at Bookpeople Inc. in the Orchard Lake Mall where Ivana Trump spent 90 minutes Monday publicizing her second novel, "Free to Love."

Although Ivana, as she's known to jet-setters in Europe and the United States, insists her books are not autobiographical, both novels focus on Katrinka Kovar, a beautiful Czech skier who marries a rich American, runs a hotel and goes through a drawn-out divorce.

"I read her first novel and I can hardly wait to read this one," said Hope Gomez, who said she made a special trip from Melvindale to West Bloomfield to see Ivana.

Her enthusiasm was tempered with practicality, however. Gomez said she would wait to buy the book. "It (the price, $23) is a little steep. I'll wait for the paperback, or until the price comes down."

While the book officially comes out next month, Ivana signed hundreds of copies Monday — some for adoring fans and others for the book shelves. "People like autographed copies," explained Rissa Winkelman, owner of Bookpeople who termed Ivana's appearance a rousing success.

"People loved her. She's very tall, thin and beautiful," said Winkelman. With a chuckle she added, "and I hated her for it."

Stacey Kellow of Southfield bought Ivana's book as a gift for a favorite aunt. She thought the author was something special. "She's so charming, so personable."

For Jana Stewart of Bloomfield Hills, seeing Ivana and getting an autographed book was a special treat. "I sat near her once on a ski lift in Aspen," she said. "She seemed so real then, just like she does today."

Stewart had a special interest in the former Mrs. Donald Trump. She and Ivana were both born in Czechoslovakia. Much of their conversation was in their native tongue.

Like others book-lovers, Angela York, also of Bloomfield Hills, seemed aware of Ivana's triumphs and trials — her life as a former model and member of the Czech woman's ski team whose storybook marriage to one of the richest men in America ended in a messy divorce.

Referring to Ivana's success as an entrepreneur of designer clothing, jewelry and cosmetics, York said, "I admire her for being her own woman."

Sara Green of West Bloomfield said she liked Ivana because "she seems so down-to earth."

After learning Green works for Weight Watchers, for example, Ivana acknowledged the importance of diet and exercise. "I do a lot of aerobics," said the 44-year-old mother of three, who has a master's degree in physical education. "It keeps the flab off the hips and tummy."

Freda McCammon of West Bloomfield liked Ivana's easy-going style and her statuesque beauty. "He (former husband Donald Trump) must have been a fool . . . and a pain."

Debra Steinberg of Bloomfield Hills thought so too. "I can't imagine him (Donald Trump) leaving her (Ivana) for a showgirl. Ivana is elegant, educated and charming. The showgirl is so empty."

The showgirl, of course, was Marla Maples. Not only did Donald Trump leave his wife — while publicly cavorting with Maples — he publicly humiliated Ivana with comments to the gossip-hungry tabloids.

Irish immigration examined

David Bird, chairman of Cobh Heritage Trust, Ltd., a group that has established a major heritage center focusing on the experience of 19th century immigrants from Ireland, will present an illustrated lecture at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the Dearborn Civic Center, 15801 Michigan Avenue in Dearborn.

It will be entitled "The Cove of Cork: Gateway to the New World." The civic center is on the southwest corner of Michigan Avenue and Greenfield.

The Centre also is symbolically linked with Ellis Island in the New York harbor through a life-sized bronze statue in the Cork Center, which shows a teenaged girl, Annie Moore, boarding a ship to leave Ireland a century ago.

On Jan. 1, 1892, Annie Moore would be the first of millions of immigrants to be received at Ellis Island.

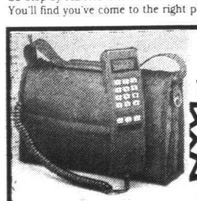

The lecture is presented by the Metro Detroit Chapter of the Irish American Cultural Institute. Admission is $5, and refreshments will be served.

College soccer stars

Seniors Nikki Johnson (Livonia Churchill) and Sara Hayes (Plymouth Salem) and junior Ayana Nash (Plymouth Canton) were instrumental in helping Siena Heights women's soccer team reach the final of the third annual Mello Classic Soccer Tournament. The Saints, ranked 19th in the NAIA, lost 1-0 to defending champion Missouri Valley in the final, but all three were named to the all-tournament team

. . . .

A pair of Redford Catholic Central grads were instrumental in Michigan State's 3-3 tie with University of Detroit-Mercy Wednesday at MSU. Senior midfielder Jon Petoskey collected a pair of assists, raising his team-high total of assists to five. He has seven points. Senior forward Steve McCaul (Livonia) had one assist, giving him five points for the season. The Spartans were 3-3-1 going into Saturday's match at Indiana.

Goff contributes to win

Michigan State freshman Kris Goff of Plymouth recorded her first point for the women's soccer team Sept. 19, assisting on Becky Ketola's goal in a 1-0 victory over Butler.

Goff's assist came with nine minutes left in the game and helped the Spartans snap a four-game losing streak. The Salem High School graduate has played in all six contests for MSU (2-4).

Spartans defeat Rocks

Livonia Stevenson (3-0) won most events and posted a 116-70 win over visiting Plymouth Salem in girls swimming Thursday.

The Spartans had state cuts from Tina Caranicolas in the 200-yard freestyle (1:56.5), Mandi Falk in the 200 freestyle (1:57.15), Ann Aristeo in the backstroke (1:00.53) and 50 freestyle (25.39) and Jill Knapp in the breaststroke (1:11.36).

Stevenson's Beth DeWolf won the individual medley (2:26.1), Jennifer Sabina the diving (256.4), Kelly Carlisle the butterfly (1:02.6) and Caranicolas the 500 freestyle (5:07.85).

The Spartans also won the medley relay (Julie Gallagher, Knapp, Carlisle and Lisa Morrison) in 1:58.63 and the 400 freestyle (Falk, Karin Carlisle, Morrison and Lynn Knapp) in 3:52.73.

Salem had firsts from Andrea Bien in the 100 freestyle (58.4) and the 200 freestyle relay team of Kellyann Williams, Mandi Ras, Sara Casillas and Melanie Bosse (1:47.97).

"The kids swam great again," Stevenson coach Greg Phill said. "We swam around and tried to get some state cuts.

"Salem swam well, too. With the times I had on them, they put together a good meet, and they dropped all over the place."

Canton gains swim tie

Plymouth Canton came back to earn a 93-93 tie in the face of a serious challenge from visiting Livonia Churchill in girls swimming Thursday.

"Churchill swam an outstanding meet," Canton coach Hooker Wellman said. "They had a much stronger team than I thought. I went on the times from the relay meet, and they showed up with an entirely different team.

"If anything, I underestimated them. I had to change my lineup in the middle of the meet to get back in it and escape with a tie."

Jill Mellis won the 50-yard freestyle (25.3) and butterfly (1:01.31), and she also helped the Chiefs (2-0-1) win the medley and 400 freestyle relays. Canton's Sara Larson won the diving with 207.85 points.

Beth Berger, Jill Barnes and Suzan Daoust were the other medley team members. The freestyle unit included Susan Pritchard, Katie McWhirter and Barnes. Canton had respective times of 2:02.68 and 3:52.72.

Churchill's Jaime Strauch was first in the 200 freestyle (2:03.2) and the 100 (56.01). Strauch along with Karen Coulter, Kim Gruska and Mary Corazza, won the 200 freestyle relay in 1:46.28.

Coulter won the individual medley (2:31.12), Corazza the 500 freestyle (5:32.61), Renee Tomlinson the backstroke (1:07.72) and Gruska the breaststroke (1:14.54). The Chargers are 1-0-1.

Magic wins soccer title

Canton Magic won the under-13 championship of the Marriott Soccer Classic played at Oakland University. The Magic defeated the Birmingham Blazers in the final 1-0 and the USL Force in the semifinals 2-1.

In the preliminary rounds, Canton had victories over the GSSC Blackhawks 5-0, the Rochester Raiders 3-0 and the N.M. Rangers 7-0.

The team is coached by Jerry Parent and Dave Andreolli.

Chiefs pass their way to 27-10 win

Plymouth Canton won its third straight football game Friday and moved to 2-0 in the Western Division with a 27-10 win over defending Western Lakes champion Walled Lake Western.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton had the passing game in full gear Friday as the Chiefs went airborne for a 27-10 football victory over visiting Walled Lake Western.

Senior wide receiver Ryan Ostach was the big-play man, catching three touchdown passes and five total for 126 yards.

Senior quarterback Kevin Shankie had another big game, connecting on 12 of 15 passes for 193 yards. Three went to Ostach covering 8, 18 and 45 yards for TDs.

"(Ostach) made some really good catches and he ran with the ball after he caught it," Canton coach Bob Khoenle said. "Like I've said all along about that kid, he has a lot of potential."

The Chiefs have won three straight games and stand 3-1 overall, 2-0 in the Western Division. The Warriors are 2-2 and 1-1.

After its first possession ended with a punt, Canton scored the last four times it had the ball in the first half and led 20-3 at halftime.

Stafford caused a fumble that Richard Crist recovered deep in Western territory, and that led to the first Ostach TD catch midway in the first quarter.

The Warriors came back with John Gibson's 26-yard field goal to make the score 7-3, but Canton went to work through the air after that.

Consecutive 15-yard penalties pushed the ball to the Western 8, and Ostach made a reaching grab in the end zone for his second TD.

Tim Moritz, who caught three passes for 41 yards, had a key 34-yard grab that led to one of two first-half field goals by Jeff Fliss, who finished the last two drives with kicks of 32 and 21 yards.

"We got our rear ends kicked," Western coach Chuck Apap said. "Canton had a good game plan. They came at us. They came off the football and wanted the game more than we did. They executed their offense and defense the way they wanted.

"We have to do something about pass coverage. We had better take care of that or we'll see the ball in the air a lot against Harrison with their quick guys."

Khoenle liked the first-half lead but not the way the Chiefs let up in the second half. Canton allowed the Warriors to keep the ball when they roughed the punter, and they went nowhere on their first two drives.

Western took advantage of Tim Parker interception to score their only TD. The Warriors got the ball at the Canton 14, and quarterback Aaron Garner passed 8 yards to Eddie Wood for the score early in the fourth quarter.

The Chiefs came back with Ostach's third TD catch. He caught the pass near the sideline, dipped outside to elude two defenders and sprinted the last 30 yards to the end zone.

"I just ran as fast as I could," said Ostach, who never had more than one TD catch in a game. "That's just how it worked out. We just pass as much as we can and then go back to the run."

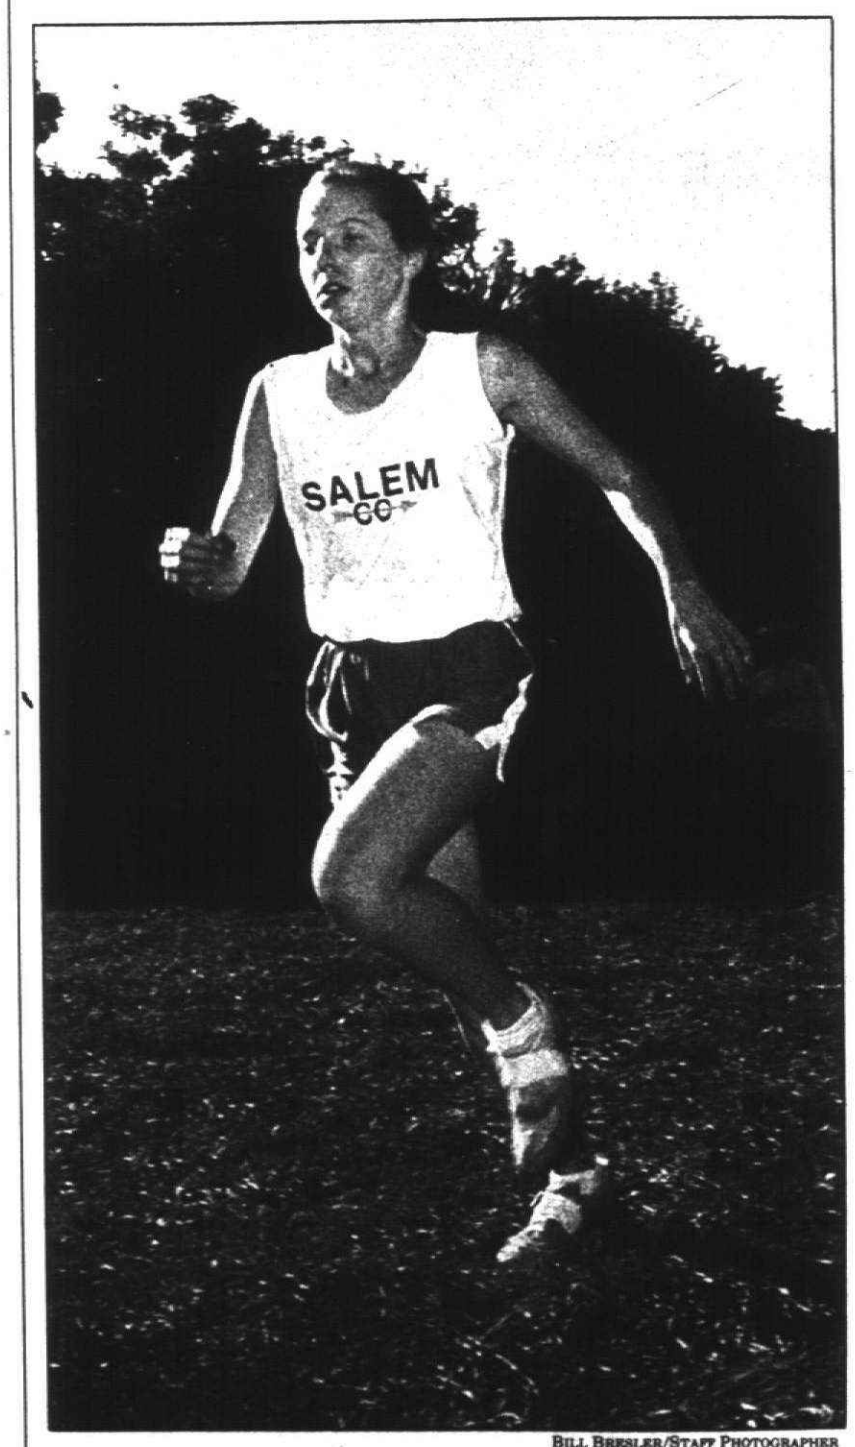

"He's there; why shouldn't we throw it to him," Khoenle said. "We have good receivers and quarterbacks who can throw the ball.

"The thing that bothers me is we have to balance the run in here. We do to a point but I'd like to be able to run it more effectively than we do."

The Chiefs had just 49 yards rushing, with Lenny Gardner having 44 on 14 carries. Alex Gillert rushed for 36 of Western's 63 yards before he was injured early in the second half. Garner was 6-of-15 passing for 78 yards, and Chris Kelbert caught four passes for 54 yards.

"We'll be back," Apap said. "My kids are already talking about what they have to do. We'll be ready to play football.

Canton boys roll in cross country

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth Canton's season record rose to 2-0 in boys cross country duals Thursday when it dominated Livonia Churchill 16-47 at Cass Benton Park.

Casey Moothart led the Chiefs with a first-place time of 17:01. Matt Demey was second (17:25), Todd Smith third (17:28), Jeff Keith fourth (17:45), Ian Bedford sixth (17:58) and Brian Crocket seventh (18:02).

"The guys ran real well," coach Mike Spitz said. "For where we're at right now, it was a good way to start the division battle."

Moothart also was the team's top runner at the Holly Invitational, leading the Chiefs to a second-place finish with 95 points in the Class A meet behind the host team (70).

"He's had a good stretch of runs," Spitz said. "He's stepping up at the bigger meets. He's working hard and performing well. My biggest concern now is to keep everyone healthy."

Keith was 18th (17:32) at Holly, Demey 20th (17:34), Bedford 23rd (17:39) and Crocket 29th (17:42).

Rocks look ahead

The Rocks started 0-2 in dual meets but hope to improve as the season progresses. Livonia Stevenson took a 21-34 victory Thursday from Salem at Cass Benton Park.

"We're coming along slowly," Baker said. "We didn't expect to be any giant-killer at the beginning of the season.

"The times are dropping and we haven't hit our plateau yet. We're still working toward the middle of the season. This was only our fourth meet (including invitationals) so we're not panicking yet."

In the dual with Stevenson, Salem was led by senior Andy McDonald, who was fourth at 17:40. He also was the team's No. 1 runner and 30th overall at the Holly Invitational.

Sophomore Jared Biniecki was fifth (17:51) in the dual, sophomore Scott Pengelly seventh (18:09), senior Josh Stickney eighth (18:15) and junior Ian Parker 10th (18:33).

The Rocks also return senior Russ Polcyn. Juniors Dan Hodges, Marcus Sarkesian and Dave Karmann are other runners who could help.

"If we get hot, we could be a sleeper come league and regional time," Baker said. "We'll run for our lives and, hopefully, be in the upper pack late in the season. We'll try to survive without getting injured."

Salem girls win dual

The Plymouth Salem girls cross country team proved Thursday that quantity produces quality in its 21-40 win over Livonia Stevenson at Cass Benton.

Despite Stevenson's Bridget MacKinnon running away with the race in a time of 19:35, the Rocks took the next four positions. After Stevenson's Laura Pilon took sixth (21:55), Salem runners took the next seven spots.

"We beat them on depth," Salem coach Mike Krafchak said.

Salem claimed the second through fifth spots led by Leah Retherford's runner-up time of 20:41. She was followed by Stacy Moore (21:09), Emily Farrell (21:25) and Kathy Jost (21:45).

Salem's Courtney Sheldon (22:05) and Lynn Sebestyen (22:09) were seventh and eighth.

Canton tops Churchill

Plymouth Canton swept the top four places Thursday and breezed past Livonia Churchill 17-43 in girls cross country at Cass Benton Park.

The Chiefs were led by junior Kathleen Landelius, who finished first with a 20:06 time. Laura McWilliams was second (20:24), Becky Wolfrom third (20:58) and Beth Knight fourth (21:13). Churchill's Tracey Parker was fifth (21:33).

The Chiefs are 2-0 in dual meets.

Salem defense rebounds in 14-0 victory

BY BILL PARKER
STAFF WRITER

It was only fitting that Plymouth Salem's defense scored the winning touchdown in Friday's Lakes Division battle at Walled Lake Central.

The same defense that was shocked when Livonia Stevenson marched 63 yards in 23 seconds to score the winning touchdown with :02 left a week ago, limited a good Walled Lake Central team to just 163 yards of total offense this week as Salem posted a 14-0 victory.

"It was a big, big win for us," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer, whose team improved to 2-2 on the year and 1-1 in the Lakes Division.

"After the way we lost last week, for those kids to come back and shut Walled Lake out was a credit. I'll tell you one thing, (Central's) a very tough football team. They're going to win some football games. They hit hard and are a very physical team."

After a scoreless first half, Salem senior linebacker Jay Perko came up with the big play to gain the advantage for the Rocks.

Perko stripped the ball from Central tailback Roger Wilson's hands and raced 28 yards to paydirt. Mike Kley was forced to kick the extra point from the 18-yard-line following a 15-yard penalty on the Rocks, but the senior place kicker was up to the task and split the uprights for a 7-0 lead.

FOOTBALL

'After the way we lost last week, for those kids to come back and shut Walled Lake out was a credit.'

Tom Moshimer

The turnover was one of five which spelled doom for the Vikings. Central fumbled the ball away at the Salem 9, 28 and 40 lines and was intercepted twice, once at the Rock's 10 and once at the 32 with just over a minute left in the game.

"You can't turn the ball over like that and expect to win," said Central assistant coach Dave Glowinski. "We had five turnovers and our defense was on the field all night. Defensively, I thought we played real well, but the turnovers killed us."

Salem's offense kept Central's offense sidelined for much of the game. Behind the power running of senior fullback Rob Shepley (25 carries for 74 yards), the Rocks burned 31:06 off the clock and gained 12 first downs compared to just 16:54 and seven first downs for the Vikings. Salem ran 63 plays for 239 yards including 212 yards on 57 running plays.

"That's our offense," Moshimer said. "We like to power the ball, but we couldn't power them like I thought we would. They were tough inside.

"We'd like to run the option more, but we're kind of inexperienced and green on the line. We're beat up a little right now, but we're coming along."

The Rocks scored their final touchdown on the opening play of the fourth quarter. Junior quarterback Brad Lear (12 carries for 46 yards) capped a six-play, 50-yard drive with a 15-yard TD scamper. Following a five-yard penalty, Kley booted the extra point for the final margin of victory.

Scott Evans intercepted a Ken Shiller pass at the Salem 10-yard-line on Central's next possession and Andy Coburn snuffed out any hopes of a late comeback for the Vikings when he picked off a pass with 1:20 left in the game.

Central rushed 25 times for 118 yards while Shiller hit four of 11 passes for 45 yards. Wilson led the running game with 50 yards on eight carries.

Chiefs rally in 2nd half to beat North

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

Despite the 53-37 final score, Plymouth Canton's victory over North Farmington in girls basketball Thursday wasn't quite that easy.

The visiting Raiders had the lead at halftime (23-20), and it was a big third quarter by Canton that turned things around.

The Chiefs made a 15-0 run in the third quarter, led 37-27 at the end and outscored North 33-14 in the second half.

"Our third quarters this year have been really solid," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "The key was we rebounded better, and our defense got a little better through the whole stretch.

"Our effort was a little sluggish the first half, but we came out and got after it in the second half. We flowed into our offense pretty good, and we got some good scoring opportunities."

Canton improved to 2-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association and 7-1 overall. The Raiders are 0-2 and 4-3.

Britta Anderson scored 17 points and had 11 rebounds to lead Canton. Alyson Noune, who was playing with a soft cast on her left hand because of a cracked little finger, hauled down 10.

Becky Vachow and Sarah Warnke added six points apiece. Erica Anderson was the top rebounder with 14.

Shannon McCoy had 15 points for the Raiders, Allison Stein and Alisha Gordon eight each. Gordon had eight points in the first half, Stein seven and McCoy six.

"In the first half, our legs were under us," North coach Lance Davis said. "It's been a week of tough opponents. We went all out against Waterford Kettering (Tuesday), and we were able to bounce back and play a great first half. In the second half, we ran out of gas.

"I think our girls came into the game thinking they could win, and that was a big difference from the Kettering game. We spotted (Kettering) nine points because we were in awe of their height. We have to get used to the fact we're going to be the small team against everyone we play."

Canton will be without senior center Lisa Nicastri for the remainder of the season. She had knee surgery last week after being injured Sept. 16 in the Plymouth Salem game.

"Lisa is a big loss because she's one of the best post players we've had," Blohm said. "She knew how to play the position. It hurts when you take four years of experience out of the lineup."

■ SALEM 48, CHURCHILL 19: Plymouth Salem enjoyed a 28-11 halftime lead and shut out host Livonia Churchill in the third quarter Thursday en route to a 48-19 WLAA victory.

The Rocks improved to 2-4 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA. Churchill is 2-4 and 0-2.

Lisa Craven led the Rocks with 20 points, including a pair of baskets from three-point range. Jenny Massey contributed nine points, and Shellye Sills added eight rebounds.

Patti Maldonado led Churchill with five points.

"They had Craven, which separated us," Churchill coach Dave Balog said. "I'm trying to figure out where to get offense. The kids have the ability but not the confidence right now."

■ PCA 45, HURON VALLEY 23: Plymouth Christian got back on the winning track Friday at Huron Valley.

The Eagles (2-5 overall and 1-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference) put the game away early with a 13-3 outburst in the first quarter and a 28-5 halftime lead.

The win gave PCA its first league win for coach Rod Windle, but, more important, ended a three-game losing streak.

"It feels great to finally get the monkey of our back," Windle said. "It was nice to get a win and nice not to be in a close game. We played good defense and look forward to our rematch against Southfield Christian Tuesday."

Senior guard Nancy Kobernick poured in 17 points for the Eagles. Junior guard Karin Reed added 10 points and 11 rebounds. Rachel Richmann's 12 points paced Huron Valley (0-2 in the MIAC).

SC women post soccer win

There were some shaky moments, but at least Schoolcraft College's women's soccer team put one on the right side of the ledger Wednesday by beating Eastern Michigan's club team 5-2 at SC.

It was the Lady Ocelots' first win since they captured the season-opening tournament at Monroe CC in New York, and it ended a three-game winless streak. SC is now 2-2-1.

The Eagles actually scored first, on an Ocelot defensive error in front of their own net. Dee Lorenz evened it a short-time later on a penalty kick, awarded after an EMU player was called for a hand ball in the box.

It was the first of three first-half goals for SC. Kelly Greaves put the Ocelots ahead, assisted by Jodi Grabowski, and Danielle Priebe made it 3-1, on an assist by Tara Shook.

Lorenz converted her second penalty kick in the second half after she was taken down in the penalty area by the EMU keeper. Shook rounded out SC's scoring, netting the fifth goal.

The Ocelots have their second true test coming this weekend when they visit St. Louis for games against Meramec Saturday and Florissant Valley Sunday.

Men's soccer

SC men's soccer coach Van Dimitriou did what he wanted and made it work in Wednesday's 5-1 victory over Delta CC. The win improved the Ocelots' overall record to 7-0-1; they are 5-0 in Region 12.

"Coming into the game, I wanted to start a few different kids, give some playing time to some of the guys who haven't gotten much," Dimitriou said. "Everybody got a chance to play, so everybody's happy."

A lot of different players may have accumulated field time, but the same familiar names accounted for the goals. Fadi Bazzi opened and closed the scoring for the Ocelots, getting a goal in the 14th minute on an assist from Vince Troiani, and netting his second in the 75th minute on an assist from Andy Cosenza.

Troiani cemented his starting role by scoring twice, to go with his assist. The Livonia Churchill grad got his first goal, and SC's second, in the 37th minute, Adam Carriere assisting. His second came on a feed from Ryan Piper in the 55th minute.

Joe Perron was responsible for the Ocelots' third goal, with Piper getting another assist, in the 48th minute.

A.J. Wise scored for Delta directly on a restart just outside the penalty area. Gordie Collins was in goal for SC.

Volleyball

Danielle Pfeffer, Kristin Barnes and Danielle Sheehy each turned in strong all-around performances to enable the Ocelots to post a 15-12, 15-10, 15-4 straight-set victory over Macomb CC Thursday at SC.

The win lifted SC's record to 8-2 overall and evened its Eastern Conference mark at 1-1.

Pfeffer accounted for 14 kills with a .333 kill percentage. She also had 17 assists to kills and 14 digs. Barnes, playing the entire rotation for SC, had 12 kills (.218) and a team-high 19 digs, and Sheehy contributed 11 kills (.318) and five blocks.

Tracia Clendenen finished with 22 assists.

A busy week awaits the Ocelots. They play at home against Delta Tuesday and Mott — one of its major rivals for the conference crown — Thursday, then host the Schoolcraft Volleyball Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Steelers win varsity game

Kevin Salla rushed for 121 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity football team to a 27-12 victory over the Garden City Chargers Sept. 19.

Salla scored on runs of 3, 7 and 51 yards and also kicked an extra point. Eric Saultana gained 59 yards, including a 9-yard scoring run. Chris Movinski added a conversion run. Joe Kanaan had 48 yards rushing and John Patrick 26.

Brandon Urban's fumble recovery on the opening kickoff led to Salla's first TD. Chuck Cole and Pat McQuillan also recovered fumbles. Saultana was the leading tackler with five.

The Steelers JV won 13-0. Kyle Entsminger scored from 1 yard out, and Shaun Nicoloff returned an interception 55 yards for another TD. Brian Applegate passed to Scott Venables for an extra point.

Jim Randazzo, Brad Wells and Mark Dasher recovered fumbles. Randazzo, Brian Beardsley and Andy Kocoloski made eight tackles apiece. Ian Winter had five stops and Todd Lawler four.

Kevin Entsminger caught a 50-yard halfback pass to score the only TD in the freshman Steelers' 13-6 loss.

CC overpowers DeLaSalle in division win

By Dan O'Meara
Staff Writer

The conventional wisdom says a good football team makes its own breaks, and Redford Catholic Central made plenty Saturday night in defeating Warren DeLaSalle 14-0.

The Shamrocks capitalized on one of four fumble recoveries to break a scoreless tie and get some hard-earned points at Livonia Clarenceville.

CC's Joe Pongracz fell on a DeLaSalle fumble at the DeLaSalle 29-yard line early in the third quarter, and that led to the first of two touchdowns by sophomore fullback John Spolsky.

"I told our back (Jeff LaChapelle) to make sure he came up real strong on the option," CC coach Tom Mach said. "The end did a good job and forced the pitch, and LaChapelle caused the fumble."

■ 'I told our back (Jeff LaChapelle) to make sure he came up real strong on the option.'
Tom Mach, CC coach

The Shamrocks start 1-0 in the Central Division of the Catholic League, the Pilots 0-1. Both teams are 3-1 overall.

The weather (rainy, wet and slippery) was a big factor and affected the play of both teams, but the Shamrocks were better suited to deal with it than the Pilots. CC lost one fumble and had a pass intercepted.

"The weather didn't help us any," DeLaSalle coach Ross MacDonald said, adding his team can't use its quickness on a wet, muddy field. "You get bogged down in this stuff and it hurts you."

CC was able to rush for 146 yards, with tailback Freddie Taylor getting 99 on 23 carries. Spolsky added another 45 on 10 attempts. Quarterback Barry Lingelbach was 3-of-7 passing for 53 yards.

The Pilots had 157 total yards — 83 rushing and 74 passing. Matt Mlynarek rushed for 47 yards on 11 carries, and quarterback Mark Julien was able to complete just four of his 13 passes.

"This kind of game doesn't hurt us too much," Mach said. "We're pretty much ground oriented and we have the type of backs who can run in almost any conditions.

"The way we run the game in tight, whether it's a good field or bad one, we're going to run pretty much the same plays."

At the start of the fourth quarter, Julien's pass on fourth down at the CC 38 was incomplete, giving the Shamrocks good field position.

That led to an 11-play, 62-yard drive that ended with an 8-yard run by Spolsky. Adam Borchert kicked the second of two extra points.

"You don't want to get caught in a short-field situation with them," MacDonald said, "but we came here to win. You can't run at them all the time. You're not going to beat them unless you take some chances."

"Field position is a real key in these kind of conditions," Mach said. "Even though we have backs who can break it, they're slipping and sliding in this weather."

DeLaSalle got as close as the CC 19 at the end of the first half, but Andy Short recovered Julien's fumble on the last play. CC's best shot was a 40-yard field goal attempt by Borchert.

"In the second half, we played our brand of football a little more than we did in the first half," Mach said. "I was happy with the way we played. We caused things to happen. When fumbles happen it's because of hard play."

Given the field conditions, the Shamrocks have an excellent short-yardage go-to man in the 5-foot-9, 215-pound Spolsky, who carried a few tacklers on his second scoring run.

"He's a young man with good potential," Mach said. "His size and stature give him the ability to run in the mud. I told him he was going to get the ball, and he responded to that."

Franklin bona fide soccer contender

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Livonia Franklin is slowly, but surely proving to the Western Lakes Activities Association soccer world that last season's co-championship run was not a fluke.

On Wednesday, the host Patriots put themselves right back into the Western Division race by ambushing highly-touted Plymouth Canton for the second straight year, 3-2.

Coach Mary Kay Hussey's squad, idle since Sept. 15 (0-0 tie with Livonia Stevenson), performed like they were on a mission.

"We had a week off and we were well rested," Hussey said. "We were eager to play and tired of practices. This was a big win for us and I think this game will boost our confidence."

Franklin is now 5-2-1 overall and 2-1 on the Western side.

Canton, meanwhile, dropped to 5-3 overall and 0-1.

"They kicked our fannies and we started backing off," Canton coach Don Smith. "We started ducking and they started coming.

"I could see it coming in practice. We had a bad practice Tuesday. They thought it be an easy one and I don't know why because they did the same thing to us last year."

Canton controlled the play for about the first 20 minutes and led 1-0 on Lance Pellow's goal.

"We were scrambling at the start, the first goal woke us up," Hussey said. "Canton had tremendous movement off the ball. They seemed to be everywhere and we weren't reacting."

What triggered the Patriots' sudden turnabout was unclear, but they had the Chiefs reeling the rest of the way.

Mick Schmidt narrowly missed a goal when Canton defender Joe Sisko back-kicked the ball covering up for keeper Shaun Conway.

It was a sign of things to come.

With senior striker and top goal scorer Victor Rodopoulos on the bench with a cracked nose, Franklin sophomore Rob Vega picked up the slack, knotting the score at 1-1 with 8:15 left in the half on an assist from Schmidt.

Rodopoulos returned for the second half and promptly scored off a corner kick from Eric Bowman to make it 2-1 with 23:25 to go.

The Patriots kept up the pressure and scored again when Vega kept the ball alive on the sideline. He punched it ahead to Rodopoulos, who fed Jason Buelow to make it 3-1 with 19:42 remaining in the game.

Franklin kept up its assault, nearly scoring on two other chances.

Canton finally got back on the board with just over four minutes to go when Jeff Fliss scored off a free kick. The shot came with Buelow on the sidelines with an injury.

But the Chiefs, desperate for more offense, were turned away down the stretch after Buelow, the senior, re-entered the lineup.

"We moved him (Buelow) from the middle to the front after the Stevenson game," said the first-year Franklin coach. "Jason's a force for us. Wherever he's at, he's bound to come up with the ball. He's just a tremendous worker."

Smith also came away impressed.

"Franklin did a good job," he said. "He (Buelow) played tough. He's a good ballplayer and so is that Rodopoulos."

Hussey was proud of the way her team defense held.

Shamrocks, Pilots battle to draw in soccer

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Redford Catholic Central won last year's Catholic League boys soccer championship. Less than a month later, Central-Division rival Warren DeLaSalle won the Class A state championship.

After Friday's 1-1 tie between the two teams at Bell Creek Park, it looks like CC might have a harder time repeating.

DeLaSalle's Jake Jeakie scored an unassisted goal with eight minutes remaining to salvage a 1-1 tie. The tie broke a five-game DeLaSalle winning streak and leaves the Pilots at 3-0-1 in the Central Division, 6-2-2 overall.

DeLaSalle coach Thaier Mukhtar, who lost eight seniors off the championship team, said the Pilots are at about the same stage as they were last year.

"The reason I'm not too concerned is this team reminds me of where we were last year at this time," said Mukhtar, whose Pilots also won the Class A title in 1990. "We're starting out real slow every game. We're defending champs, and we have to understand that everyone is trying to beat us 12-0. Right now, we're not matching the other team's intensity."

CC faces an up-hill battle in the Central Division after enduring its third tie to go with one win in four games. The Shamrocks are 3-1-3 overall.

"Unless we start winning, it will be hard to repeat," CC coach Phil Lajoy said. "We played well overall, but at times we lost it and let them back in the game. We had our opportunities in the first half, but we didn't finish."

CC's only goal was scored by Rich Walos. The senior midfielder got past a pair of DeLaSalle defenders and beat goalkeeper Arie Mechlowitz with a shot for a 1-0 lead in the first half.

CC's first-half offense was boosted by senior Adam Borchert, who was moved from sweeper to midfielder.

"I thought it would be a good move for Adam," LaJoy said. "He's a strong player, a skillful ballplayer."

The Pilots applied most of the pressure early in the second half and with about 20 minutes left, had their first good scoring opportunity. A crossing pass was headed toward the CC goal, but goalkeeper Matt McGivney deflected the ball over the cross bar to preserve the shutout.

But the Pilots kept up the pressure and scored minutes later after CC failed to clear the ball in its own end. The ball grazed off the head of one of the Shamrocks' players, and Jeakie kicked it on the ground past McGivney for the tie.

"We got too defensive-minded," CC defender Brian Collier said. "We start out strong but don't stay with it. On set plays, that's where we have trouble. We have to be more aggressive."

ACUVUE® Disposable Contacts Can Make the Difference...

LIVONIA - Patients have been curious about disposable contact lenses since their introduction four years ago. This interest has, through the free trial contact lens program offered by Acuvue and Surevue translated into a resurgence in contact lens wear. In fact, of all new contact lens patients and existing wearers being refit, 63% enter into disposable contact lens wear.

The doctors of Suburban Optometric – Dr. Lawrence E. Beecher, Dr. Ned B. Grover, Dr. David J. Beecher, and Dr. John P. Jacobi – have a few ideas as to why this is the trend in contact lens wear. They've innovatively applied the Acuvue and Surevue disposable contact lenses to suit their patients individual needs.

Dr. Ned B. Grover cites the increased comfort and clarity.

With the use of disposable contacts, he has transformed patients who have failed in conventional (one pair per year) soft contact lens wearers into success stories. He feels disposables make sense for those "clean pair" who demonstrate poor contact lens hygiene, dry eyes or allergic complications. Before the complications of deposited or soiled lenses, such as irritation and redness arise, you replace the lenses with a fresh, clean pair!

"From the time of its launch, when most others rigidly prescribed Acuvue disposables as extended wear lenses, we took it a step further and developed daily wear programs," notes Dr. David J. Beecher.

"We had many patients who either had no desire or were poor candidates for extended wear. We're glad that Surevue was added to the product line so that we had access to a lens that was easier to handle for daily wear."

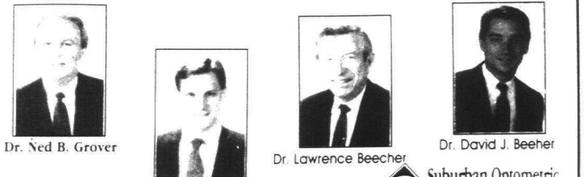

The premise for Acuvue being initially positioned as an extended wear lens was the belief that frequent contact lens replacement rid a patient of the common risks associated with extended wear.

The doctors of Suburban Optometric realized all along that a conservative approach toward extended wear was necessary. For this reason, the doctors approach extended wear in a very individual manner.

According to Dr. John P. Jacobi, "Extended wear, whether disposable or not, stresses the eye's immune system and therefore subjects the eye to a great risk for a sight-threatening infection. Some patients do well with the maximum wear schedule of six nights in a row, while others can only tolerate two or three successive nights of wear."

If you're interested in a hassle-free contact lens wear along with clarity and comfort, the doctors agree disposable contacts should be considered. Acuvue, Surevue, and Suburban Optometric have set up a risk-free trial of these lenses. Your trial pair of Surevue or Acuvue will be free to you.

Join the ranks of success by calling 525-8170.
You'll be protected and enhanced by a team of concerned and thorough doctors and staff.

Yet another decision that can affect your health.

A standard driver-side airbag may not seem like a big deal. Or a spacetrame with "crumple zones" that help dissipate the energy of a crash. Or even optional anti-lock brakes. Combined, however, they make your decision to buy a Saturn that much easier to live with.

'L.A. Law' gets back to basics for eighth season on NBC

By JOHN CROOK

This time last year, it looked as if "L.A. Law" didn't have a prayer—so it makes a kind of perverse sense that returning producer William M. Finkelstein is looking to a new character described as "a non-judgmental fundamentalist Christian" to shake things up this yar on the series. The much-Emmyed drama begins its eighth season Thursday, Oct. 7, on NBC.

Norman Lear's short-lived 1991 sitcom "Sunday Dinner" marked the last time TV attempted to deal with a person's religious faith as an ongoing topic. "Sunday" lasted barely a month, but Finkelstein sees young associate Jane Halliday (Alexandra Powers of "Rising Sun") as a source of many new story lines on a series that was being pronounced brain-dead before his return to the helm last spring.

"She's a fundamentalist Christian working in a secular environment," he emphasizes during a phone interview. "Her primary function there is to be an attorney, not a missionary. There will be many situations in which her religion will be an element in the drama, or the conflict, of the story—but not always."

Finkelstein readily acknowledges that so-called "watchdog groups," such as Donald Wildmon's American Family Association, are quick to jump on controversial targets without even experiencing them, but says he has received no adverse attention about the new character.

"I gather that, to the extent they're interested, they're taking a wait-and-see attitude," he says. "As much as I usually find myself in complete disagreement with what those groups stand for, I think one thing they are not incorrect about is that, when religion is portrayed on television, it has always been portrayed as a bizarre or comical condition. People are never shown as being religious who are, for all other purposes, normal."

One series regular in particular will benefit from the introduction of this new character, Finkenstein says: developmentally disabled Benny Stulwicz, played by back-to-back Emmy-winner Larry Drake. "(Suddenly) there's a woman of great religious faith," the producer points out. "What does Benny think of that? What is Benny's notion of God and Christ...? How does that figure in? That right there is something that we've never seen and we can organically develop within the body of the show, without straining to tell it. I mean, thje story is there to be told."

Finkelstein, who co-produced "Law" during its 1988-90 glory days, returned last spring after his highly regarded but low-rated ABC drama "Civil Wars" was not renewed. "Wars" cast members Alan Rosenberg (who plays Eli Rosenberg) and Debi Mazar (Denise Iannello) reprise their characters on "L.A. Law" this season. Eli, as it turns out, is a cousin of Stuart Markowitz (Michael Tucker), Finkenstein says, adding that the relationship between Stuart and Ann Kelsey (Jill Eikenberry) is a priority for him this season. He agrees that this once-vital couple became trapped in soap-operatics last season.

"I am making every effort to both normalize them as attorneys and to put them back on sound footing as a married couple," he says of the married-in-real-life pair who stole the anticipated sexual thunder from Harry Hamlin and Susan Dey, starting with the show's premiere in 1986. "Jill and Michael are very, very important elements of this show. What I like to see is (their characters) being supportive of one another. I think they were drawn as that kind of couple. There was a very real chemistry between them, right from the very first show.

"One of the real strengths the show had was the way they were with one another. I don't think that should be disrupted, quite frankly. There's a lot of turmoil on the show. Every week, it's someone else's tragedy, someone else's conflict. I think it's important to go to that which is not rent asunder."

D'Aquino enjoys 'silly' job as shipboard cutup

BY JOHN CROOK

For John D'Aquino, playing mischievous supply and morale officer Ben Krieg on Steven Spielberg's "seaQuest DSV" represents a welcome change of pace after years of heavy, poker-faced roles. The series airs Sundays on NBC.

"My character didn't appear in the (first cut of the) two-hour pilot, but after reviewing what they had, they felt like they needed more life, in terms of humor," explains the New York-born actor, who is in his mid-30s. "I really love this character. He's very three-dimensional. He's got a good heart, although you may not trust him entirely. I mean, you wouldn't give him the keys to Dad's car – or the ship."

SOAP WORLD

NBC presents new prime-time serial

BY CANDACE HAVENS

In two years as Emily Ann on "All My Children," both Liz Vassey and the character she portrayed stayed incredibly busy.

Her character was pregnant twice, had a miscarriage and tried to commit murder. Vassey left the soap when her character went into an insane asylum.

"I was 16 when I joined 'AMC,' and being on the soap helped me so much," says Vassey. "I had to learn 40 pages of dialogue a day, and I worked with five different directors. It was like taking a screen class every day."

The actress headed West to see what she could do on the prime-time television circuit. Unlike most of her peers who head to California with big dreams, Vassey's dreams came true. She landed a plethora of guest-starring roles on various shows. On one evening, she appeared on three different prime-time shows.

Her latest role is the lead in the NBC miniseries "The Secrets of Lake Success," which begins Friday, Oct. 1, and continues on Fridays through October. Vassey portrays a young woman, Suzy Atkins, who is estranged from her family. She learns her father is dying and returns to make amends.

"My father (on the show) sees that I have this worldly attitude and care about people," says Vassey. Impressed by Suzy's maturity, her father leaves his pharmaceutical business and half a town to her.

The development doesn't please her greedy half-siblings, who expected the inheritance to be theirs.

"My siblings are narrow-minded and focused on money," she says. "This show is very well written, and I think it will give people a look at the good and bad sides of being a rich family."

Vassey's co-stars include veteran actors as well as some newcomers.

"We have people like Valerie (Perrine) and Samantha (Eggar) who are established stars, and we have a group of young actors who could become very big stars with this show," says David Stenn, the show's executive producer and head writer.

If "Lake Success" does well in the ratings, it could be picked up as a regular prime-time serial.
