Closing possibility irks parents

As a cost-cutting measure, outgoing school Superintendent John Hoben recommended the closing of Gallimore and Lowell schools. Angry parents expressed their concerns about the closing during a board meeting on Monday.

BY M.B. DILLON

After listening to Superintendent John Hoben recommend money-saving cuts that include closing Gallimore Elementary and Lowell Middle schools, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education heard from a standing room-only crowd Monday night.

Many were homeowners from the Forest Trails subdivision whose children walk to Gallimore.

Gallimore principal Larry Cole said, "You must consider a time line for the mental health of students at Gallimore. Staff and parents can make this transition for students easier, but we need answers within four to six weeks" to prepare youngsters adequately, he said.

"I'm not here to criticize or praise the proposal. It's hard to argue with cost containment. But if you don't tell me soon so I can help students and parents in my community, I'll be back."

Betty Bloch, a parent from Plymouth Township, said of the large middle school enrollments that will be result if Lowell closes, "I have major concerns about the numbers of students we're talking about. We need our middle schools to become true middle schools and get away from the junior high concept. To do that, we need smaller numbers. That was one of the goals of the board of education."

No one injured in blaze

Canton firefighters could see the black smoke at least a mile away from a house in flames on Polo in the Sunflower subdivision near Hanford and Beck Monday morning. All occupants of the house escaped unharmed.

"This was a bad one," said Canton fire Chief Mike Rorabacher. "We could see smoke from township hall. There was a lot of flame damage. But we had property damage only."

Three people, including a 5-year-old girl, who were at home at the time of the fire escaped unharmed into the below-zero temperatures at about 10:40 a.m.

The fire — the first significant one so far this year in Canton — reportedly was started by the girl, who was playing with matches in the family room. A couch caught fire. "The little girl went upstairs without saying anything," Rorabacher said.

Grandparents were babysitting the girl at the time. Emergency personnel said they believed it was the girl's birthday. The grandfather was outside snowplowing the driveway while the grandmother was upstairs when the smoke alarm activated, Rorabacher said.

"When the alarm went off, they couldn't find the little girl," Rorabacher said. "She finally appeared at the front door."

Once the girl was located and safely out of the house, firefighters and police were called. "The call was delayed. They were trying to track down the little girl," Rorabacher said.

Firefighters from stations 1 and 2 responded, as well as police officers, and brought the fire under control. Those at the scene said they could feel the warmth of the flames shooting some 10 feet out of the two-story, newer house, which is valued in the $150,000 range.

Insurance agents will determine if the house is a total loss. Firefighters estimated damage at about $150,000. Fire got through to drywall and joists, Rorabacher said.

"The foundation is good, the basement is good, the garage foundation is good," Rorabacher said.

The fire chief said it is a good practice to call the 9-1-1 emergency response system immediately when a smoke alarm is activated.

"If a smoke detector goes off and you're not sure why it's going off, you should suspect a fire and by all means you can call 9-1-1 and get us started," Rorabacher said. "This goes even for home accidents. We would just as soon get there and find it to be nothing."

Joint project aimed at developing leaders

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton Chamber of Commerce, township and Cleary College officials are developing an embryo of sorts — for leadership, that is.

"We're just getting started," said Linda Shapona, chamber director. "We think we will be able to make this an excellent program."

The nine-month program, targeted to begin later this year, is called "Leadership Canton," and is designed to cultivate existing and new leaders in the community, acquaint or reacquaint them with the community and its needs, and get them involved in the community.

"It's designed to heighten the awareness and deepen the understanding of what makes Canton tick," said township trustee Phil LaJoy, a Canton chamber board member.

Cleary College will provide the expertise for the program that will cover politics, education, health issues, quality of life and criminal justice.

"We want to identify the emergent leaders in the community and help them refine their skills," said Tom Sullivan, Cleary College president.

The program is also for those in Canton who want to get involved but don't know how. "It's a commitment," Sullivan said. "You can gain both personally and professionally with your leadership skills."

Both Sullivan and LaJoy have participated in this type of leadership program. A steering committee to direct the program is being formed. A core group of about 20-25 people will begin the program.

"Everyone has to make an application to be a participant," Shapona said. Participants will sign a contract and cannot miss more than two sessions.

Still unsure just how much the program will cost, Shapona said the chamber is nonetheless seeking business sponsorships of the program so scholarships can be offered.

Participants can include residents who have not yet gotten involved in the community, elected officials, business representatives and employees in nonprofit organizations.

The program will begin with participants taking personality profiles and learning about management styles and leadership skills. They will then be taken through a number of issues, such as those related to politics and criminal justice.

In the end, participants should learn how the community works and what is needed, whether it's a Big Brother-Big Sister program or running as a candidate for the school board or township board, Sullivan said.

"Each person will go through all of the areas. This is an opportunity for people to get to know the community better and to develop contacts. This should be a fun experience for folks. It will help tie the business community in with the whole fabric of the community," Sullivan added.

Committee to weigh school chief standards

A cross section of the community will serve on the Superintendent Search Criteria Analysis committee, named by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night.

The committee, working with a consultant firm, will decide what the district should look for in Superintendent John Hoben's successor. Hoben will retire in June.

Named to the committee are K-12 parents Ron Edwards of Plymouth, Bea Cline of Plymouth, Carrie Blamer of Plymouth, Liz Givens of Canton, Mick Sullivan of Plymouth and Patti Wong of Plymouth.

Also serving will be Steve Ragan of Plymouth and Jim Dresbach of Canton, citizens who don't have children in school.

Former board members E.J. McClendon, Elaine Kirchgatter and Jeanette Wines are on the committee, as are administrators Jim Burt, Allen Elementary School principal, and David Rocker of the transportation department. Teachers Sharon Belobraidich of Hoben Elementary, Earl Harrington of Central Middle School and Bill Bartlett from the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park were selected. Others include paraprofessional Linda Walther, food service worker Cindy Bastion; custodial maintenance representative Chris Gearns; secretary Fran Ardanowski; transportation employee Alice Horstead; John Duthie, a sophomore at Canton High School, and Sarah Volaric, a junior at Salem; Fred Nell of the Canton Chamber of Commerce and Jeanne Knopf-DeRoche of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce; and Andrea Schmiedel of Canton.

"I think we have a good cross section of parents from a cross section of schools, Plymouth and Canton, male and female," said trustee David Artley. The committee was due to meet for the first time this evening.

Cold snap closes schools, chills noses and toes

This cold weather isn't all bad — especially if you're selling things to get folks through the cold snap.

"We're selling tons of batteries, windshield wipers and washer solvent," said Steve Hahn, assistant manager of Murray's Discount Auto Store on Ford Road in Canton.

Also selling well at the store were jumper cables, fuel additives, anti-freeze, thermostats and heated dipsticks — "We can't keep those in stock," Hahn said.

Among auto service dealers reporting an upsurge in business was Rick Fishaw, general manager of American Auto Repair on Main Street.

On calls to start cars, Fishaw said Tuesday, "We did 24 of them yesterday and we've got another 10 on the list this morning."

"There are dead batteries, frozen fuel lines, cars out of tune. With the computers on new cars they don't need to be tuned up as often but peo-

Land use plan gets a review

■ DEVELOPMENT

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The classification of agricultural land in Canton is one of many issues up for discussion as local officials hammer out a comprehensive plan for how the township should continue developing.

"We are evaluating where we are, based on the development we have had in the last five years," said Jeff Goulet, township planner. "The comprehensive plan will put our goals in writing."

The plan is not just a revisited master land-use map. It will also include policies for utilities, such as sewer and water; transportation; recreation; and land use.

The final plan should be a blueprint for protecting what the community has while balancing future growth with the community's desire to maintain its standards and quality of life, Goulet said.

"This is a method of evaluating where we are at. How do we want to direct development, and which direction do we want to encourage growth?" Goulet said. "Where is the logical place to extend utilities? How is transporation (roads) affected?"

Much of the plan is about strategies. It will give planning commissioners, for example, an understanding of what the intent of a particular zoning district is. That understanding will be put in the context of policies on utilities and transportation.

"How the need for public facilities affects where certain land uses (occur) should be are what we are talking about," Goulet said.

When planning commissioners render a decision on a developer's land-use request, all they have now is a master land-use plan and some policies, but no specific goals for the township.

"There weren't any written guidelines for decision-making," Goulet said. "The master plan should allow some flexibility in that decision-making."

Planning commissioners are working on the land-use plan and policies first. The utilities, transportation and recreation plans will follow, with completion for the comprehensive plan targeted for September. "We'll adopt this incrementally," Goulet said.

Planning commission discussions will continue at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 24, and again Feb. 1 when both the township board and the planning commission will meet. Public hearings are expected in the spring.

The proposed policies cover issues such as the density of residential land and the intensity of commercial developments, for example.

Definitions and the intent of zoning districts, such as agricultural/vacant and commercial/office, are also included.

"We will reconsider whether to establish the agricultural classification," Goulet said.

The classification of farmland came under fire in spring 1993 when many farmers received double- and triple-digit property tax assessment increases, due in large measure to the land's expected value according to its designations on the master plan.

"We have to evaluate the properties. We have to look at the development trends; what is the potential of the property to be developed?" Goulet said. "A written plan will help the assessor determine land values. We need more than just a classification. The policies will give the intent. We have to balance those who are actively speculating with those areas that will remain agricultural."

Carvers take top honors at competition

Winners included:

■ Two-man 20-hour professional team competition: Ted Wakar and Jim Bur, both of Michigan, first place; Naomi Hamamura and Mark Mastrangelo, both of Missouri, second place; Rene Odermatt and Bruno Friedli, both of Sweden, third place.

■ Professional individual competition: John Fitzer of Westland, first place; Rene Odermatt of Switzerland, second place; Jim Bur of East Pointe, third.

■ College individual competition: Brooke Tadena, first place; Wesley Jones, second; Marlin Dixon, third.

■ College team competition: J.R. Lorentz and Robert Susko, first place; Scott Jennings and Ryan Henkel, second; Brooke Tadena and Oneil McLean, third.

■ High school individual competition: Emanuel King, first place; Nicholas Watts, second; Tyana Jackson, third.

■ High school team competition: Chris Watts and Nick Watts, first place; Woody Thomas and Donna Burnhardt, second.

In a gingerbread house making contest at Westchester Mall, first place winners were Laurie and Carol Darrin of Wayne, in the general gingerbread house category; Michael MacFarlane of Flatrock, in the churches and castles category; and David Ryan of Washington, Mich., in the kids creations category.

Festival carves out niche

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Frigid weather kept some people away from the 12th Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular, but the show was successful, organizers say.

"It was incredible considering the conditions and stuff, there was a lot of people out here," said Mike Watts, ice festival director.

"There's nothing you can do about the weather," Watts said. "I hope people in the future will remember the ice doesn't always melt."

"I think it went very smooth," said Paul Sincock, assistant city manager.

"There were the usual number of little problems and the cold weather kept the crowds down, but the merchants did well," Sincock said.

The festival was again successful at putting Plymouth's name before the nation and the world. The Cable News Network ran a report with film footage from the festival, and the Associated Press covered it as well.

"There were people from Cleveland and Chicago calling for directions," Watts said.

On other attractions in this year's festival, Watts said the expanded two-man team competition "was excellent, there were some incredible pieces coming out of that."

"The decorated cake event was very well-received, and the high school and college carving competition was a new breakthrough for us. There were some good pieces out of that," he added.

Watts said the only drawback to the festival was the especially cold weather. "It could have been 30 degrees warmer," he said.

Reaction from the business community on the festival's effect on sales was mixed. The cold weather, Watts said, drove lots of people into stores.

"Quite frankly, crowds were down, the weatherman scared people away," said Fran Toney, executive director of the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

"Business was definitely down," she said, following a meeting Tuesday morning of the chamber's retail committee.

"It was so cold, especially in the evenings," Toney said. Still, she said, "Saturday was everybody's big day."

Among some stores reporting good business were the Box Bar, Country Charm and the Outback Cappuccino Bar on Main Street.

Still, Toney said business was far better than if there were no ice festival.

Following the end of the festival Monday night, city public works crews began removing ice sculptures and cleaning up the festival site. That activity will continue through the week.

Township computer needs prompt pleas for new staff

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton trustees will be asked to hire at least one more programmer analyst to help with burgeoning computerization efforts at township hall.

"I've got to have manpower," said Brad Thompson, municipal information services coordinator. "We have been currently handling that with consultants' help, which will cost $190,000-$200,000. If we are paying that much for consultants, should we be hiring full-time employees?"

Thompson and Susan Kopinski, township financial services manager, told the township board Tuesday night about the growing difficulties of completing computerization without enough staff.

The township has Thompson and a programmer analyst, as well as two consultants, to complete a heavy list of projects throughout 1994, particularly programming computer systems for the particular needs of the various township departments.

Thompson's work, however, has begun to lean more toward management and consulting for township efforts, such as the Western Townships Utilities Authority. The analyst will be taking over training of employees to use the system. The possibility of police consolidation also looms over Thompson's head, especially if Canton takes over the information systems.

"That leaves us effectively without a programming resource except for consultants," Thompson said.

Hiring a full-time employee, including salary and fringe benefits, would cost $50,000-$65,000. "I really hate like heck to hire people on a full-time basis, but . . . ," said trustee Melissa McLaughlin, comparing consulting fees to full-time salaries. A programmer could be hired and consultants phased out, she added.

Thompson told trustees that there is no packaged software for the personal computer system appropriate for township needs. "Almost none of the packages fit how we do business. Most of these packages are original. You have to do it their way. There is no canned package (for example) to do payroll our way," he said.

When Kopinski contacted software companies across the country, she discovered that costs for the township's accounting program, for example, could run $120,000-$125,000 with costs based on the township's fund balance. "I went nuts," Kopinski said.

In financial service, Kopinski said, the accountant is having to add items by hand, while other systems are facing breakdowns. "With the cost of what this is going to be, I almost fell to the floor. But we have to do something. We're just holding on," she said.

McLaughlin asked about selling programs created in-house by the township to other governmental units. "Yeah, I think there is a potential. What are the numbers, we haven't talked about that," said Dan Durack, township administrative services director. Apparently, Westland and Northville have expressed interest.

But Township Supervisor Tom Yack reminded trustees that when a software package is purchased, buyers expect support services, such as training.

Thompson told trustees that a private company could be sought to do the selling and support services, while the township could earn money on the licensing of the programs.

Teamwork leads to success on playground renovation

To celebrate the completion of the renovated playground at Smith Elementary School in Plymouth, a ribbon-cutting ceremony was held Friday, Jan. 14.

The playground renovation was a result of more than four years of planning and fund-raising by a committee of parents, school staffers and community members.

The playground features a baseball diamond and soccer field, three basketball courts, new climbing structures, four sand play areas, an asphalt walking path, as well as a large handicap-accessible play structure consisting of five slides, 11 climbing decks, sliding poles, ladders and chain climbers.

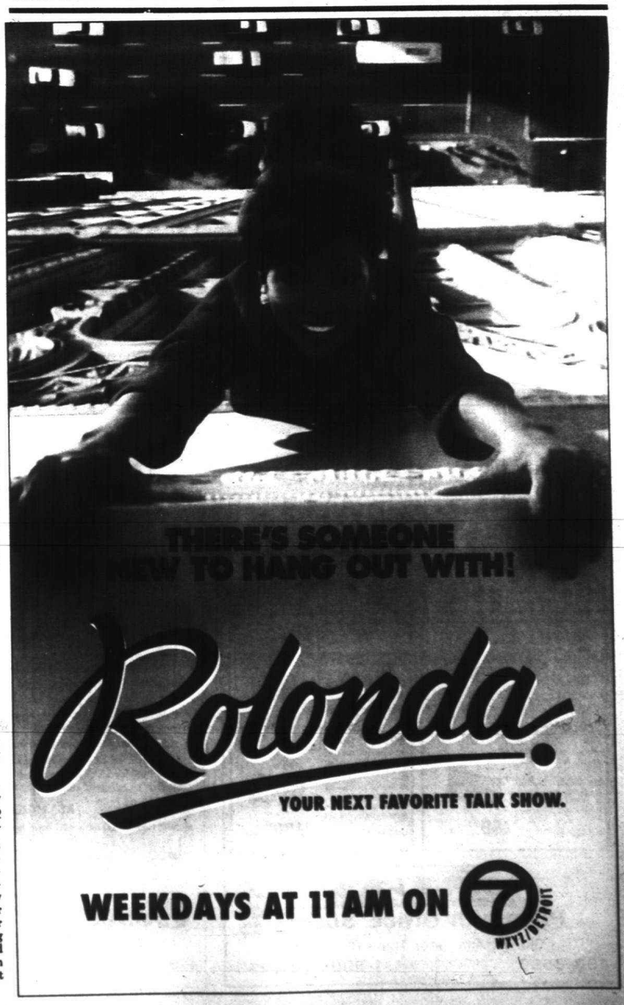
Funding for the $130,000 playground renovation project came from fund-raising efforts by parents, a $26,000 donation from the Plymouth Rotary Foundation and funds from the 1991 Bond Project.

Money raised by parents and the donation by the Plymouth Rotary Foundation was used to purchase the playground equipment. Funds from the 1991 Bond Project were used for preparation at the playground site, including demolition of existing playground equipment and installation of site drains and asphalt.

"This playground renovation project was a wonderful example of parents, staff and the community working together," said Cheryl Clason, Smith Elementary School principal. "This was a major effort that could not have been done without the efforts of every group which contributed."

More than 50 parents volunteered their time on a Saturday and Sunday in December to help install the playground equipment.

Smith parent David Sibbold served as chairman of the playground committee and Smith parent Joe Valenti led the fund-raising effort. Smith parent Nancy Darga, who designs parks for Wayne County, volunteered her time over the four-year planning period to design the playground and handle all of the construction documents, as well as the grant writing.



Financial picture not bright for schools

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Facing the prospect of a $2.3 million deficit and the inability to go to voters for a millage increase, Plymouth-Canton school Superintendent John Hoben is proposing cost-cutting measures that are proving unpopular among the vocal residents who packed Monday's school board meeting.

The financial picture looks bleak regardless of what happens with the statewide referendum in March to increase the sales tax to fund schools, said Hoben. Under the school finance plan passed last month by the Legislature, Plymouth-Canton can't levy additional millage.

To contain costs, create greater educational opportunities and increase efficiency, Hoben recommends that the board:

- close Lowell Middle School;
- open Tonda and Bentley, the two new Canton elementaries boarded up after the last millage request failed;
- close Tanger and Starkweather (former elementary schools now used for programs and services);
- reassign Gallimore Elementary in Canton as an education center to house the Tanger and Starkweather programs;
- and move the Talented and Gifted program to Miller Elementary from Allen Elementary.

The elementary school changes would save $308,000 and free up $1.3 million in bond monies that could be redistributed, said Hoben. The middle school shifting would save $700,000 in operational funds and $270,000 in bond funds.

Closing Starkweather and Tanger and eliminating custodian, utility, secretarial and waste management costs would save $173,800, Hoben said.

Hoben is reluctant to install at Lowell the high technology going into other schools because the building, on Hix near Joy, is leased from Livonia Public Schools.

"Making the adjustments could enhance the area of computer purchases we didn't get" (when the federal grant Plymouth-Canton applied for went elsewhere,) among other things, said Hoben.

While middle school enrollment is expected to rise slightly "it will remain reasonably constant, and in 1998-99, it will be back to 1993-94 levels," Hoben said.

Transferring Lowell students to existing middle schools would increase enrollment at Central from the current 777 to 927. At East, enrollment would go from 675 to 775; at Pioneer, from 733 to 899; and at West, from 637 to 864.

The board's finance sub-committee also brainstormed ways to save money, said trustee David Artley. Asked to participate was former Plymouth Mayor Bob Jones.

"Our concern was that revenues were going to be short by $1.3 million," said Jones. "We needed additional money as a cushion or holding fund, so we were looking at $2.3 to $2.5 million. The whole purpose was to determine possible changes that could be made. We were looking at every possible way to save."

Among the finance committee's suggestions were: closing Lowell, Tanger and Starkweather; not opening Tonda and Bentley; computerizing accounting and finance; early retirements; reducing the number of bus stops; privatization of maintenance, purchasing, building operations and other services; self-sustaining co-curricular activities; sharing services with local government; combining school elections with the city and townships; cuts in employee benefits; increasing community service fees; streamlining the high school curriculum; and program reductions.

The board plans to schedule public hearings to discuss the cost-cutting ideas in more detail.

Bloch added that she worked to pass the bond issue to build two new elementaries. "We didn't sell the concept that we'd close three schools to open two. The community is not going to be happy.

"If these moves are to take place, the board of education has an obligation to speak to people directly about their needs and concerns. You need to address them as honestly and thoroughly as possible."

Ask administrators

Dave Farquharson, president of the Plymouth-Canton Administrators, asked the board to consult the PCA "because the repercussions are so far-reaching. I hope you will consult administrators, as they are some of the best resources you have," he said.

Mark Stevens, president of the Forest Trails Homeowners Association, said many people moved to the sub because of its proximity to Gallimore. "We voted for a bond to expand Gallimore. I don't know the legalities involved with moving things around, but it doesn't seem right to pass a bond to enhance a building and then close it."

Board president Roland Thomas and trustee David Artley responded. "We are going to go through a process that looks at impact on children. It's not a done deal in my book," said Thomas. "We can't change the basic scope of the bond issue, but we can add other things within the law," he added. "We can spend money on technology in different places."

"There isn't a good way to answer you," said Artley. "It's a controversial decision. We will seek as much public input as possible."

Jeff Stolaruk is a Plymouth Township resident and vice president of membership for New Morning School on Haggerty Road. The private school is considering a satellite facility or an addition, and would be interested in perhaps buying Tanger or Starkweather, he said.

Class size

Bonnie Stang asked the board where it got the figure 29 as the district's average class size. "I have a child at Lowell and at Fiegel. No way is the average 29. Teachers have a tough time now," she said. "When you start moving kids willy-nilly, kids will be totally disrupted. MEAP scores will go down. I don't want to see everything this district has worked for go down the drain."

Two get promotions

Two members of the Canton Public Safety Department have been promoted. Sgt. Dave Champagne of the fire department has been promoted to fire inspector and Sgt. Pat Nemecek has been promoted to lieutenant in the police department.

Champagne, who was promoted to sergeant in 1992, was appointed fire inspector following a testing process. He joined the fire department in 1984 and is a trained emergency medical technician, as well a member of the employee assistance committee. Champagne is also a former firefighters union official, as well as Firefighter of the Year in 1991.

Nemecek was one of two department sergeants who applied for the lieutenant's position, left open when former Lt. Larry Stewart retired from the force in late 1992.

Following a testing process, Nemecek was promoted to lieutenant. His duties include platoon commander, as well as responsibilities for training, direction and supervision.

Nemecek joined the department in 1987 after working for the Wayne County Sheriff's department. He was promoted to sergeant in Canton in 1991. He graduated from Mercy College in 1981 and is working on a master's degree. Nemecek also is a graduate of the Northwestern School of Staff and Command.

The cold weather left its mark on other aspects of day-to-day life in Plymouth and Canton. Plymouth-Canton Community Schools were closed Wednesday, as were a number of other area schools.

City of Plymouth department of public works director Paul Sincock reported several water main breaks in the past two weeks, due to plunging temperatures.

Area legislators rap school tax plans

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Although they were part of the process that developed the state government's education reform legislation, area legislators are dissatisfied with the result. Some are downright mad.

"We didn't accomplish a darn thing except a big tax shift," said Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton Township. "My district was asking for less government spending, and we didn't get that."

What voters get is a choice between two education plans, each with tax shifts that reduce property taxes for most people, but raise other taxes to compensate. Voters will be asked Tuesday, March 15, to choose between the plans.

A yes vote produces a 6 percent sales tax, slightly lower income tax (4.4 percent from 4.6 percent), 75 cent per pack cigarette tax, 2 percent real estate transfer tax, 6-mill property tax on your primary home, 24 mills on your business and second home, and keno lottery games.

Vote no and the backup plan goes into effect: a 6-percent income tax (up from 4.6 percent), 12-mill property tax on your primary home, 24 mills on your business and second home, 40 cent per pack cigarette tax, 1 percent real estate transfer tax, 2.75 percent single business tax (up from 2.35 percent).

Some reform

Said Whyman: "One's a bad plan. One's a terrible plan. I don't endorse either one."

Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, who also represents Plymouth Township and the northwest portion of Livonia, said either plan will bring "some reform" to education funding, but "I just don't think they went far enough. There are still a lot of cowards out there. God hates a coward, and so do I."

Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, said he's "quite pleased" with the end product, but objects to changes the Republican-controlled Senate made to the bills.

"The Republicans have a tendency to watch out for General Motors and big business at the expense of individuals," he said.

Sen. William Faust, D-Westland, said he's disappointed because both alternatives rely in part on property taxes to fund schools. "It adds to the disrespect for legislators," he said. Still, the reality is that voters have two choices March 15, and Faust recommends the sales tax plan, which his constituents would be "marginally better off with." Faust believes a higher sales tax will "most dramatically affect" people who buy expensive items.

Rep. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township, who also represents most of Livonia, said she's undecided on the ballot proposal, but is "definitely leaning toward" the income tax plan.

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said he's undecided. Geake, who also represents Livonia, Redford Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township, prefers the sales tax plan because "it's better for economic development." Small business owners and homeowners would benefit most from the sales tax plan, Geake said, because their property taxes and the business tax would be lower.

Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn, who also represents Garden City, hasn't made up his mind yet, said aide Dave Wygonik, but "he is not a big fan of the sales tax."

Plan falls short

Former Livonia schools official Jack Kirksey, a Livonia resident and former state legislator, said he favors the sales tax plan, but legislators could have designed something far better.

"I admire them for being able to come up with some type of package, but I think it falls far short of what the citizens expected," he said.

Many of the people interviewed were sorry that the education legislation does little in regard to the quality of public education.

Saw missing from garage

■ CRIMEWATCH

A Plymouth resident who lives on Jener Street told police that sometime between Jan. 14-16, someone took an 8-inch table saw from his garage.

The Craftsman saw was valued at $350. The garage is usually locked, he said. No one had permission to use the saw.

Illegal dumping

The manager at Mr. B's restaurant on Ann Arbor Road reported that a woman dressed in a white coat, scarf and hat dumped a large number of trash bags into the grease Dumpster behind the building. The woman drove off in a white Escort. She didn't have permission. An officer went to the woman's house. The woman appears to be in the process of moving, but wasn't home, officers said.

Jan. 27 evening will feature storyteller

The Plymouth Community Chorus will present an evening of comedy with Norm Stulz, a major Midwest storyteller. The performance is Thursday, Jan. 27, at Fox Hills Country Club, 8768 N. Territorial Road in Plymouth. Hors d'oeuvres will be served at 7 p.m. and the show will begin at 7:45 p.m.

Tickets are limited and sell for $12 each. Proceeds from the fundraiser will benefit the group's scholarship program, to assist middle and high school students in pursuit of study in the field of vocal music.

For further information, call the Plymouth Community Chorus at 455-4080 or mail orders to Plymouth Community Chorus, P.O. Box 700217, Plymouth 48170. Include a check and phone number with the order.

Tickets may also be purchased at Sideways, on Forest Street in Plymouth.

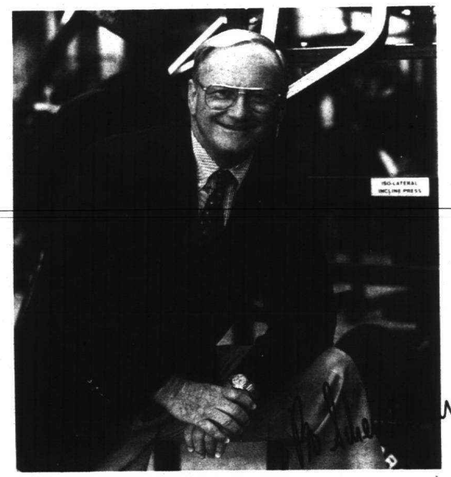
When It Comes to Your Heart... Use Your Head



The heart specialists at St. Joe's have saved my life a couple of times. Give them the chance to save yours.

Heart Disease: America's #1 Killer

I'm not going to talk to you about football, but about the number one killer in America: heart disease. I know something about it. I've had a heart attack and two bypass operations. But thanks to the doctors at St. Joe's, I'm still here, feeling great, and a lot smarter about myself and my heart. And now, you can be smarter about your heart, too.

When in Doubt...Check It Out!

Call 911 if you feel any of these most common heart attack symptoms:

- Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the chest that lasts more than a few minutes.
- Pain spreading to the shoulders, back, arms, neck or jaw.
- Chest discomfort with dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath.
- Feelings of indigestion or heartburn.

The first few hours are crucial to saving your life. Go immediately to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Emergency Department Chest Pain Center or the hospital emergency center nearest you. Never drive yourself.

Trust Your Heart to the St. Joe's Team

Now it's simple to check out your heart symptoms at the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Chest Pain Center. You and your family will receive prompt, individualized attention by board-certified emergency physicians, cardiologists and cardiac-trained nurses in a quiet, specialized unit separate from other emergency cases.

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

The most enduring lesson in Russ Gronevelt's career occurred when he was a 19-year-old toiling as a summer intern on a construction project at a General Motors plant.

The project manager gave Gronevelt a credit card, a crew and told him to build a temporary railroad loading platform.

"This thing wasn't even designed, other than what he drew on a napkin," Gronevelt said.

Nearly overwhelmed, Gronevelt wondered aloud if he possessed the wherewithal to do the job, and the manager blithely noted that there were a hundred other workers who would be happy to take the responsibility.

"I have told that story many, many times to people who work for me," said Gronevelt, now 47, a father of three and the director of Wayne County Public Services, a 1,900-person, $400-million operation. "It's the resourcefulness of the people who do the job that gets it done."

'Stand-up guy'

County Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, believes Gronevelt learned his lesson well. "He's not one of those persons who explains why he can't do something," Amann said. "He has an innovative mindset (and) has been a stand-up guy."

Growing up in Redford Township and Livonia, Gronevelt graduated from Bentley High School and worked his way through Michigan Technological University in Houghton. Color blindness and a student deferment kept him out of the military, and by extension, the Vietnam War.

Civil engineering degree in hand, Gronevelt was hired by the city of Livonia in 1969. The following year, the city council president, Edward McNamara, ran for mayor, and Gronevelt was worried. "(McNamara) thought there were way too many engineers on the payroll," Gronevelt said.

■ As director of public services for Wayne County, Russ Gronevelt directs public works, Metro Airport, the county park system, roads and four other divisions. He likes to say: 'It's the resourcefulness of the people who do the job that gets it done.'

Likes McNamara

However, the future county executive turned out to be "a terrific person to work for."

In 1974, at the age of 27, Gronevelt was promoted to the superintendent of operations, putting him in charge of road maintenance, buildings, water and sewer and 150 people. Later he advanced again, this time to director of public services.

By 1986, Gronevelt was one of McNamara's top people in Livonia government, and the mayor had won election as county executive. Seeing as how "McNamara was one of the main reasons I stayed with the city as long as I did," it wasn't a difficult decision for Gronevelt to accept McNamara's offer of employment with county government.

Gigantic job

And there he's been for seven years, high atop the Neudeck building in downtown Detroit, presiding over public works, Metro Airport, the county park system, roads and four other divisions.

Arguably, Gronevelt's empire is more complex than that of any other public works director in the state.

Because voters jettisoned the drain and road commissions in 1985, the responsibilities of those offices were added to public services, creating the second largest department in Wayne County.

Assimilation hasn't been easy. "Here we are seven years later and we're still massaging that organization," Gronevelt said. "We're still working out the wrinkles."

Indeed, Amann compares Gronevelt to Russian President Boris Yeltsin because both are trying to reform inefficient systems. "And I'm not sure who has the harder job, he or Yeltsin," Amann said.

"He always gives you a straightforward answer whether it's in his best interest or not," McCotter said.

"He knows the county inside out and he's always willing to share information with you," Plawecki said.

'Make the bullets'

If you've never heard of Gronevelt before, it may be because he deliberately keeps a low profile. McNamara, he said, is fond of saying, "Your job is to make the bullets. My job is to shoot the gun."

Although Gronevelt must necessarily spend much of his time working (and generally enjoying the process), his second passion is the great outdoors.

Tax plans

However, some of them expect Lansing to take up quality issues later this year. Bankes, for example, believes certain school districts should be merged. "I think that's going to happen to (the districts in) Redford Township," she said. "Consolidation is going to be the only way."

Faust and Geake believe that education reform discussions and legislation will continue in 1994. Others, like Sen. Dave Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, say it's unlikely that quality reforms will be addressed in the near future.

Whyman thinks it's likely that some judge will ultimately overturn what the state Legislature has done, declaring parts of the legislation unconstitutional. Faust agreed that what Whyman predicts is possible, but noted that Gov. John Engler is "generally rather thorough on the legal end" and would be careful not to do unconstitutional things.

Because cities deduct a 1-percent administration fee on all property taxes collected, any reduction in the millage rate reduces the cities' take. Westland will lose $300,000 to $500,000 a year, depending on the vote.

However, cities will benefit in that fewer residents would phone to complain about high property taxes, Gorman said, adding that Westland plans no opposition: "We're just going to live with it."

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ CHILD SUPPORT

Friend of the Court child support payment procedures are often criticized, but you'd never learn that from the official state court administrator.

"The money is disappearing. No one really seems to know where it is," a Charlotte man wrote to Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

Geake, chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee, was flooded with 115 speakers at last Saturday's hearing in Livonia, plus 100 letters and telephone calls in which people poured out stories of personal suffering, frustration at being put on "hold" and plain rudeness by Friend of the Court workers.

FOC handles court-ordered child support and alimony payments. The payer writes a check to FOC, whose staff deducts a small handling fee and sends the money to the ex-spouse with custody of the children.

That's what it says on paper. That's not the way it works, say the people — especially those who deal with Wayne County FOC.

In a report to the Legislature last month, Marilyn K. Hall, state court administrator, said 881 grievances were filed during the fiscal year and all but 34 (3.9 percent) were "resolved."

Some $1 billion in payments were ordered by the circuit courts, and about 80 percent was collected, Hall said. But her official report, with columns of statistics, gave no hint of the seething anger felt by people who deal with FOC.

A Dearborn woman was told by FOC that it had "no record" of $5,000 her ex-husband had paid. "One lady told me I obviously wasn't indigent and probably didn't need the money," she wrote.

A budget analyst for Ford Motor Co. told of being put on "hold" for 45 minutes when calling Wayne County FOC and spending $500 on a lawyer to "straighten the account out."

A Farwell attorney complained on behalf of his woman client that she was supposed to receive $350 checks every two weeks. "There are too many different amounts being paid on unscheduled dates" from Wayne County, he said. Result: His client was "often destitute."

The Senate subcommittee will hear more public testimony at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Oakland County Board of Commissioners auditorium, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac.

Wedding bells ring at benefit

"White Lace and Promises — A Bridal Extravaganza" will light up Laurel Manor in Livonia Sunday, Jan. 23, and at the same time benefit Madonna University, St. Mary Hospital's Project Smile and Angela Hospice Homecare.

Whether you are a bride, bridesmaid or guest, you can find an outfit and other services to make your personal plans turn out on that special day. Starting at 11 a.m. and again at 3 p.m., the program will be geared toward what's new, what's traditional and what's appropriate for every budget.

The activities include a fashion show, individual consultation with designers and retailers with special services and an actual wedding at 1:30 p.m. There will be designer gowns in popular styles, bouquets, decorations, photo trends, literature about honeymoon destinations, even representative to take orders for invitations.

Jon Bradley, who designs headpieces, and Homa, who uses porcelain to enhance a basic outfit, will be on hand as well as an representative of "Modern Bride" to answer wedding-related questions. Stylist Raphael also will display his "Fantasy Bridal Gown" made of human hair.

Admission $8 in advance, $9 at the door. Participants will receive a planning packet, the February/March issue of "Modern Bride" magazine and the chance to win one of four bridal gowns that will be raffled off during the show. A second benefit for threesome is planned for Feb. 20 and will feature prom dresses and a similar raffle.

For more information and for tickets, call Laurel Manor at 462-0770, Laurel Chapel at 462-1400, Lina's Bridal of Plymouth at 455-1100 or Bridal Couture at 645-0500.

Laurel Manor is 39000 Schoolcraft, west of I-275, Livonia.

Most local legislators laud Engler's state message

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Suburban legislators mostly liked Gov. John Engler's themes: tougher prison sentences, work for welfare recipients, lower taxes, a sales tax shift to support schools, rejuvenated state parks.

Democrats liked his bridge to Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer but called Engler a Johnny-come-lately on stiffer prison sentences.

Engler's call for an end to "welfare as we know it" and no school sports for teens who father children played well on both sides of the Hall of Representatives aisle Tuesday as Engler's fourth state of the state message opened the election year session of the Legislature.

Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, sits on the aisle next to the door and was the first person to shake Engler's hand when he was escorted into the hall. But the 20-year Democrat, whose son and possible successor sat with him, was cool to the prison and cost-cutting messages.

"The thought of building more prisons and doing away with good time — you know, I'm against crime. But at some point, we need to build on the strengths of each individual child in the school system," Keith said.

"The school board association is doing that now," Keith said of Engler's call for self insurance pools on a multi-district basis. "Any of these gimmicks that sound like you're saving money — you have to look at."

"It's all good for my district," said freshman Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, whose district includes Northville and part of Livonia. The former police officer hailed Engler's call for ending early parole. "The judge would have to pick 10 years or 20 years — not 10 to 20, and no 'good time.'

"Intensely supervised parole on the end of a term works better than giving longer sentences."

Vorva praised Engler's plan to cut state prison costs by paying counties to house short-term offenders in their jails. "It's cooperation between state and local. Jail costs half of what prison costs. It's a tougher crime policy that's cost-neutral," Vorva said.

Like Vorva, freshman Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, praised Engler's work on improving the business climate and creating jobs. The closing of GM's Willow Run plant in Ypsilanti, next door to her district, hit home hard. "Most people want to work," she said.

Whyman was critical of the direction state government is moving on education — "We mandate curriculum, we administer tests, we make too many mandates. Many of these 'reforms' won't result in quality education. We should get the state bureaucrats out and let education do its thing."

Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville, praised Engler's calls for greater local control, new charter schools and another effort to have schools of choice.

Geake was personally pleased when Engler praised his anti-stalking law as part of Michigan's effort to make life safer.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, said Engler was "totally wrong" that charter schools will improve educational quality.

"The most unrealistic thing he said was going after more than 28,000 outstanding felony warrants. That will require a major, major investment in prisons. We'd have to double our prison construction.

"He's pandering to people's fears," said Faxon.

Reps. Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, and Justine Barns, D-Westland, did not attend the session.

Yack, Kelly elected to CWW posts

The Conference of Western Wayne, an organization comprised of mayors and supervisors from 18 cities and townships, elected Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack as chairman for 1994.

The election took place Jan. 14. Other new officers include Redford Township Supervisor Jim Kelly, vice chairman, Inkster Mayor Ed Bivens Jr., secretary, and Belleville Mayor Glenn Silvenis, treasurer.

The former chairman was Northville Mayor Chris Johnson. Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett previously served as vice chairman while Yack and Kelly were formerly secretary and treasurer, respectively.

The CWW meets regularly to discuss issues affecting western Wayne County. The conference has no legal authority, but possesses a fair amount of clout nevertheless, given its composition of local government leaders.

Last year, the CWW was instrumental in making Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara back down on a plan to spend millage money intended for construction of a building on youth programs instead.

Bold cold

Bone-rattling chill inhibits nearly everything

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Record low temperatures this week have caused all sorts of problems.

School was canceled in most places. Cars wouldn't start. Appointments and meetings were canceled. U.S. Rep. William Ford, D-Taylor, and Secretary of Labor Robert Reich canceled a trip to the Wayne Ford plant. Even the Wayne-Ford Civic League's weekly bingo night was canceled Tuesday as the temperature fell to more than 20 degrees below zero.

Hardware stores are running out of heat tape and plumbing items. Morrie and Harry, managers of Chuck's Ace Hardware in Redford, report a run on blow torches, two-cycle oil, kerosene, rock salt, heat tape and pipes.

"We're all out of heat tape and a good amount of plumbing," Harry said. "It's been a tough winter for everyone." Said Morrie, "Last year no heat tape really sold, and this year you can't get enough of it."

Morrie asked that his and Harry's last names not be used lest folks call them at home with an emergency, asking that the store be opened.

"I think (the parking lots) look a little bit more empty than they usually look," said Schoolcraft spokeswoman Saundra "Sam" Florek.

Sister Rose Marie, the academic vice president of Madonna University, said many of the students seem to be staying home for the chilly days. "It looks like most of the classes are functioning," she said Wednesday morning. "But our parking lot tells the story."

AAA officials have a good idea where many of those missing cars are. The auto club reports that more than 7,700 trouble calls came in on Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 15-16, making it the busiest weekend in AAA history. Nearly 90 percent of the calls were from people whose cars wouldn't start. With arctic-like temperatures expected through Sunday, the Auto Club expects to record another 35,000 calls, or an average of 5,000 daily, for the busiest January in the record books.

Livonia Mall manager Jeanne Hildebrandt said business was a bit slow Tuesday. "Traffic is down, but we're open," she said. "We're going to stay open."

Consumers delivered more gas for the 24-hour period ending Sunday, Jan. 16, than it had over any 24-hour period in the previous 107 years (2.85 billion cubic feet).

On Tuesday, Edison broke its all-time record for selling electricity for the third time in January. The new record is 6,892,000 kilowatts sold in one hour.

Auction gives school a boost

■ New Morning School students will benefit from the school's annual auction. This year's fund-raising goal is $85,000 for the March 26 event.

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Saturday, March 26, will be a big day for New Morning School.

That's the date of the parent co-operative school's annual auction, set for 5 p.m. to midnight at Laurel Manor, 39000 Schoolcraft in Livonia. The Plymouth Township school, for preschoolers through eighth graders, relies on the event to support educational activities.

"Tuition only covers 70 percent of the school's operating cost," said Leslie Stolaruk of Plymouth Township, auction chairwoman. "This is our major fund-raiser. When you put together an event of this magnitude, it's quite a process."

This is the 18th year for the auction, which has grown through the years. Organizers have set a fund-raising goal of $85,000. Last year's event raised some $70,000.

The theme is "Today We Are the Future." The event will feature silent bidding and the live auction, with Dan Stall as auctioneer. Dinner will be included, along with hors d'oeuvres and a late-night snack. Ticket price is $45 per person. For ticket information, call 420-3331.

A preview

Those planning to attend will have the opportunity to see some auction items during the school's open house/student museum, 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6, at the school, 14501 Haggerty, north of Schoolcraft. The preview event is sponsored by First of America.

Work on the auction begins the previous summer, with organizers lining up donations. Parents begin to collect donations as soon as school starts in September, said Stolaruk, who has a 7-year-old son and 4-year-old daughter who attend New Morning.

"You plan for this so long," said Stolaruk, who compares the organizing to planning a wedding. "Now it's getting really exciting. That's the fun part and that's the exciting part.

"It's like putting together a giant puzzle. Everybody does their piece."

A 10-person auction committee gets help from parents and other school supporters. "A lot of it is a networking process," said Stolaruk, explaining that friends of friends help by donating items.

Alumni make contributions, as do merchants. The process begins well in advance, with organizers writing letters to potential contributors. Phone calls and follow-up letters, along with some in-person visits to merchants, help to get the job done.

"Persistence is a virtue, and that's what I tell our membership," Stolaruk said. She and Ellen Arble of Plymouth, acquisitions coordinator/family liaison, are pleased with this year's donations, which range from the small and relatively modest on up. A 27-foot sailboat, which will be appraised, is among the largest items.

"We usually have about 80 live items, between 70 and 80 live items," said Donna Williams of Plymouth Township, administrative assistant at the school. Silent auction items include things for the home, kids' items, arts and crafts contributions and others.

"We don't have all the items in quite yet," said Stolaruk, who anticipates having that done in about two weeks. Many items will be packaged together, including gift baskets with such themes as Mother's Day, college and "rainy day" things for children. A "Deck the Halls" Christmas package will come complete with an artificial tree and all the trimmings. Golf packages will be included.

A "Company's Coming" package will include catering, housekeeping and a wreath for the door. A variety of trips will be offered, along with "night on the town" theater and sports event packages. A hammer signed by "Home Improvement" star Tim Allen will be featured, along with a signed and framed jersey from Red Wings player Sergei Federov.

"We have a couple of hot-air balloon rides," Stolaruk said. Other contributions include a Sligh grandfather clock, from Walker & Buzenberg in Plymouth. The auction features an "Adopt a Gift" program, in which parents and other supporters buy items at reduced prices to be sold in the auction.

Another "Adopt a Gift" item will be a Victorian-style dollhouse from The Rainbow Shop in Plymouth Township.

Many sponsors

"Partners in Success" sponsors of the March 26 event include: Adistra Corp., which also sponsors summer and enrichment classes; Decision Consultants Inc.; Dairy-Go-Round; Parker-Amchem; Loomis Sayles and Co.; Friends of New Morning School; and Regency Insurance Co. One-half of "Partners in Success" contributions has been earmarked for building expansion.

"There's a lot of work involved," Williams said of the auction. "It's just a lot of follow-up and follow through."

Organizers are still accepting auction items; donors are recognized in various ways the evening of the auction, depending on their level of support. Buying an ad in the auction catalog is one option, as is contributing in-kind donations. More than 500 businesses and other donors are typically listed in the catalog, Stolaruk said.

Coloring contest has winners seeing green

A Plymouth and two Canton students are the big winners in a Christmas coloring contest, sponsored by state Rep. Deborah Whyman of Canton.

"The response was terrific and the pictures were wonderful," Whyman said. "I was impressed by the wealth of artistic talent many of students possess. Judges had a difficult time choosing the winners. The effort put into these drawings was apparent, and I thank everyone who took time to share their Christmas wishes."

ST. MARY HOSPITAL
WE'RE CHANGING MATERNITY AT ST. MARY HOSPITAL
The maternity program has changed at St. Mary Hospital. We asked you what you wanted in childbirth, and we listened.
You said you wanted privacy for yourself and your family. Now all our rooms are private.
Your needs come first
You said you wanted family and friends to visit at your convenience. So visiting hours are determined by you.
You asked if fathers could stay the night. Now they can.
You wanted more comfortable surroundings for labor and birth. Our new labor-delivery-recovery (LDR) rooms are fully equipped with the latest birthing beds and other equipment for birth. And the unit is decorated to help put you at ease and create a homelike atmosphere.
More changes
Your desire for the best possible care has resulted in advanced training for our nurses. And a new physician director and nurse director.
We even have a new name: Miracle of Life Maternity Center.
But one thing hasn't changed. The concern and personal care we've always provided at St. Mary Hospital.
To learn more about the changes in our Miracle of Life Maternity Center call 313-591-2882 for a free brochure, personal tour, or physician referral.

Secret search

Schools should open process

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is trying to hide behind a consulting firm in an effort to keep the public out of the selection of a new school superintendent.

The schools are operating in the classic style by running a good public relations game in an attempt to convince the public that the selection process will be open. But when it comes down to slicing the roast, the board is doing it in private.

Here's how it works. The board has appointed a search committee composed of the public, teachers and school officials. That committee is meeting to determine what type of superintendent the Plymouth-Canton schools should have. It's a good thing to do, but if that committee has no impact on either the process or decision, it's useless. And it will be unless the selection process is opened up.

But there's more. The school board last week selected a consulting firm to conduct the search. That firm, Bickert, Prophet and Associates Ltd. of Palos Heights, Ill., recommended that the names of superintendent candidates be kept secret. The firm contends that making the names public will keep the best-qualified candidates away.

The school board basically picked a consulting firm that told the board what it wanted to hear and that was secrecy. The school board and consulting firm would have us believe that good candidates won't apply for a job that pays more than $100,000 if their names are known. That contention flies in the face of common sense.

■ The schools are operating in the classic style by running a good public relations game in an attempt to convince the public that the selection process will be open. But when it comes down to slicing the roast, the board is doing it in private.

Also, the path chosen by the board doesn't take into consideration the state's Open Meetings Act, which has a provision that allows candidates to have their names kept confidential.

That provision would cover any situation in which a candidate would find it uncomfortable to have his or her name known.

There is also a major contradiction to selecting the finalists for a job out of the public eye. A school superintendent, like a city manager, should be accustomed to operating in the public arena.

The school board made a bad decision by opting to keep the selection of a school superintendent secret until the final candidates are picked. The public should be allowed to see the process and communicate to board members about it.

There is still time for the board to reverse that bad decision and open up the process. It's the least the board can do for kids, parents and taxpayers.

Keep school operation public

Our school finances are ailing, but privatization is a medicine best taken in small doses.

Contracting out in certain specific areas, such as busing, janitorial services or building and grounds maintenance, could provide savings for financially-strapped local public schools.

But contracting out management of an entire school district, as the Pinckney Schools in Livingston County is attempting, courts disaster.

A major issue is the public's right to know.

Our public schools are forced by law to conduct business in public.

That means the public gets to scrutinize every decision, as is its right.

It's true those same laws would apply to a privately managed school district. Yet we strongly doubt that managers trained in the private sector, where secrecy is the watchword, would be as forthcoming as even the most reticent local superintendent.

Think that doesn't pose a clear and present danger? Then consider this: Plymouth-Canton Schools is already under fire for hiring a private consulting firm to guide its search for a new superintendent.

The controversy is that the private consultants recommended school officials conduct their search in private by concealing the names of those who have applied and meeting in dubious private sessions to evaluate candidates.

It's an ominous trend.

The outlook isn't bright.

"When you are dealing with private businesses doing public business, you are losing access," said one local environmental reporter who attended the seminar.

■ One of Pinckney's major reasons for going private is the lack of expertise due to its small size. That's more of a reason for consolidating school districts than for privatizing management structure.

The problems involve more than just journalists. As the press loses access, so do parents, so do other taxpayers.

Still, privatization is a tempting option, especially as local schools grapple with the revenue loss they could face as a result of state property tax reform.

There are local school districts — Avondale, Clarenceville and Redford Union immediately spring to mind — just as small and financially pressed as Pinckney.

One of Pinckney's major reasons for going private is the lack of expertise due to its small size. That's more of a reason for consolidating school districts than for privatizing management structure.

Even our area's "giants" like Birmingham, Rochester Hills and Livonia are facing new financial pressures.

We encourage all local schools to do what they can to stretch taxpayer dollars as far as they can.

But turning district management over to a private firm would be a large, and very public, mistake.

COMMUNITY VOICE

QUESTION:
Do you think skater Tonya Harding should go to the Olympics?

We asked this question at the Plymouth Cultural Center, where East Middle School students were ice skating Tuesday morning.

'No, because she had no right to do that. I think she did it so she could win.'
Dottie Slagle
East Middle School

'I don't think she should go. I think she has a really bad attitude, thinking, 'I can whip your butt. . . .'
Andrew Leonard
East Middle School

'No charges have been brought against her. I don't think they can take her off for no reason.'
Debbie Foster
East Middle School teacher

'I think she should go. They haven't proved anything. I think she has a good chance of doing good.'

Classes questioned

I have just received my Plymouth-Canton community education pamphlet. I read with abhorrence the adult leisure time offerings by "Do Something Different," an independent company.

The editorial note states, "The subjects and topics presented are not endorsed by Plymouth-Canton Community Education." Why, then, are these being presented in Plymouth-Canton Schools? Is there any censorship?

One class being offered is "A Demonstration of Channeling." It states, "We can't begin to tell you what to expect when a channel relinquishes her body and mind to other entities. It depends entirely on 'who' comes through . . . your angel, guide or whomever wants to contact you. Come and experience this phenomena for yourself."

Interesting, isn't it? It is not stated the origin of these beings or by whose power they come. Let's just suppose "your angel, guide or whomever wants to contact you" tells you to kill someone — or yourself. Then what? Perhaps someone from Waco, Texas, could "come through" to tell you what a great time they're having.

"An Evening with a Psychic" is described as "A thought-provoking evening. A night to be remembered." Perhaps it could turn into a "nightmare" to be remembered.

"This Present Darkness" by Frank E. Peretti is easy reading for adolescents, teens and adults. It presents another picture of "who might come through and what might happen." It might inform you of, as Paul Harvey says, "the rest of the story."

Do we really want to "do something different" in our community or do we want to "do something noble"?

Susan Bennett, Canton

Thank you

We want to say a special thank-you to Kyle Fisher and Jimmy Franko, two eighth graders from our parish, St. Thomas a' Becket in Canton.

For their confirmation service project they shoveled our snow and did an excellent job.

It's so nice to see good Christians among our young people.

Their parents and the parish community should be proud.

Police complaint

Recently we lost our son and his friend. One day he was home and then he disappeared.

It's a nightmare that all parents fear. We are writing this letter for two reasons: one, to extend our appreciation to the community for its support during our ordeal; and to let the community know about our frustrating experience with the Canton Police Department.

Our ordeal with the police began when we reported our son missing. The sergeant did not seem sympathetic. He projected an attitude of just going through the motions of filling out a report. He gave us a release form to have our son's name placed in the computer system, but was not very encouraging.

We felt that having our son's name in the computer was very important. Our case was assigned to a detective. He explained that since our son was 17 the police could not put him in the national computer.

Our son left without a note. We begged the detective to conduct at least a minimal investigation, before stereotyping him as just another "teenage runaway."

Even the telephone company would not release our own long-distance records without the cooperation of the local police. We were promised this information. Weeks went by before the police informed us that we would get our bill before they would get this information.

After weeks of worry and no real help from our police, we contacted a lawyer. His research uncovered a federal statute which requires local police to place any minor under the age of 18 in the state law enforcement system and the National Crime Information Center computer network system.

My son and his friend are home now, and fortunately OK. However, they were stopped by the Daytona Beach police, in Florida, three days after leaving home.

They did not find them in the computer when they checked. If the Canton Police placed them immediately in the network, we could have been spared several long weeks of worry and suffering.

Beard offers facts

An article regarding Wayne County commissioners in your Jan. 3, 1994, edition had two serious errors.

■ The vice chair of the Wayne County Commission has always been elected by the other commissioners and has never been appointed by the chairman.

■ Under the Wayne County Charter, the county executive has 10 days in which an ordinance, or a resolution having the force of law, can be vetoed. The county executive does not, and has no authority to, sign any ordinance or resolution adopted by the Wayne County Commission.

When given approval by the commission, the county executive does sign contracts on behalf of Wayne County, however.

It is important that your reporters transmit accurate information to your readers.

GUEST COLUMN

Two stories were published locally in the last quarter of 1993 which are closely connected, but I don't believe a single commentator took notice of the relationship between them.

In early December, the FBI announced that reported crime during the first half of the year was down in four of Michigan's five largest cities, including Detroit. In this period in Detroit, 50 fewer murders were reported, down from the comparable 1992 period to 271. Overall, Detroit crime declined less than 0.7 percent. Many wondered, is this the beginning of a favorable trend?

No one factored in the other story, however, which appeared in early October and is a necessary backdrop for considering any year's crime statistics.

The October story was about U.S. Rep. Barbara-Rose Collins' campaign to re-establish the tradition of forming two-parent families before bringing children into the world.

According to Collins, growing numbers of women are having babies without marrying and with no hope of financial or emotional support from their children's fathers.

In Michigan, 72 percent of black babies are born to single mothers, and the number rises every year. That's compared with 15 percent of white babies born in Michigan. Nationwide, 67 percent of black babies and 17 percent of white babies are born to single women, the majority of whom are teenagers.

Recalling the 1972 death of her husband and the 1989 conviction of her son for robbery, Collins said, "I could teach a girl how to be a woman, but I could not teach a boy how to be a man. The breakup of the black family is something that you very seldom hear ministers preach about from the pulpit. It's something that's almost whispered. We have a responsibility to put it on the table and begin dealing with it, before it becomes too late."

The insight expressed by Collins is as old as civilization itself. She echoes, to take but one example, what Edmund Burke, the British statesman, said in 1791: "Society cannot exist unless a controlling power upon will and appetite be placed somewhere and the less of it there is within, the more there must be without. It is ordained in the eternal constitution of things, that men of intemperate minds cannot be free. Their passions forge their fetters."

Statistics bear this out. Despite the good-hearted folks who try to step into the void created by an absent father, before-the-fact families — of all racial and ethnic groups — are far more effective in rearing kids than after-the-fact residential arrangements.

So, it's refreshing to hear a political figure get beyond the multitude of half-measures (which are all that we in government can offer) to the real, the only, solution.

If the number of sexually active young citizens who reject the essential discipline of first-forming-a-family continues to grow, we will lose our freedoms.

We are seeing it now. In the context of a 72-percent illegitimate birth rate, every liberty we possess is a problem: The private ownership of property. The private ownership of firearms. Free speech. Privacy. The opportunity to learn.

And in present circumstances, it is no answer merely to say, it's the responsibility of parents to monitor what their kids hear, see and do. That is doubtless true. But today 50 percent of the parents in over 70 percent of the urban homes are AWOL, and many of the rest were too young and too unprepared to have children.

As Collins says, it will take "greater moral leadership." You know, like teaching: Honor your father and your mother. Thou shall not kill. Thou shall not steal. Thou shall not commit adultery.

Therefore, if you're looking for a favorable sign on how the fight against crime is going, don't just look for another 0.7-percent annual decline in crime rates. That tells you very little. Instead, look at leadership. Are more from its ranks stepping forward to stand with Barbara-Rose Collins and to say, plainly and squarely, to our young people: Stop the promiscuity; take responsibility for the children you beget.

Until leadership targets the illegitimate birth rate for reduction, until government programs that encourage this disastrous growth in illegitimacy end, and until we can begin to say "the number declines every year" — as ardently as we may wish it were otherwise, it's difficult to be hopeful about the prospects of making this a more peaceful, less violent society.

Senate candidate believes in humility, ethics

GUEST COLUMNIST

BILL BRODHEAD

■ In the 11 years since I left political office, I have accomplished what I had hoped to achieve.

The late Philip A. Hart served as U.S. senator from Michigan from 1958 to 1976. Just inside the entrance of the Hart Senate Office Building, which is named for him, there is an archway. On that archway is an inscription which reads:

"This building is dedicated by his colleagues to Philip A. Hart with affection, respect and esteem. A man of incorruptible integrity and personal courage, strengthened by inner grace and outer gentleness, he elevated politics to a level of purity that will forever be an example to every elected official.

"He advanced the cause of human justice, promoted the welfare of the common man and improved the quality of life.

"His humility and ethics earned him his place as the conscience of the Senate."

The attributes of Phil Hart which are set forth on that inscription express what I believe a senator ought to be.

Eleven years ago I retired from a safe congressional seat and a very promising political career. I did not leave because of any feeling that the work I was doing was not important, but because, after 12 years as an elected official, I felt the need to spend more time with my family.

Although my decision to leave politics was difficult, it was the right decision for me and for my family.

In the 11 years since I left political office, I have accomplished what I had hoped to achieve. Our children have been raised, I have had a successful law practice, and I have been able to be deeply involved in community activities.

In my campaign for the Senate, I will talk about several issues. We must improve the economy of our state and of our nation. We need an economy which will generate millions of new, solid, secure, well-paying jobs for our people. Our young people, our laid-off citizens and our welfare recipients must have a chance to work. That's what they need, that's what they want and that's what they deserve.

We must also improve our education system. This is primarily a state and local function, but the federal government must play an important role in developing and implementing the kind of education programs that will provide every child with an equal opportunity to develop his or her talents to the fullest.

The federal government must also do a lot more in the fight against crime and drug abuse. These twin evils are a plague on our state.

Full access to quality health care for every citizen is an idea whose time has come. We must develop a national health care program which is effective and efficient and which relies on the expertise of people at the state and local level and on financial incentives for doctors and hospitals to keep people healthy.

I have had 12 years of legislative experience — four in the Michigan Legislature and eight in the U.S. Congress. I believe my public record is one of hard work, devotion to public service and solid accomplishment on behalf of the people of Michigan.

Most recently, I have spent 11 years in the private sector. As one of the directors of a large law firm, an organization which employs 350 people in Michigan, I have learned what it means to try to earn a profit in a very competitive business environment and to provide good jobs with good benefits for our employees.

In my own law practice, I have provided counsel to individuals, corporations, labor unions and units of government. I have learned a lot about the problems of the people of the state and a lot about how the federal government can help solve our problems and a lot about how it can make our problems worse.

I've also been active in civic work: as a hospital trustee, as a board member of a large charitable foundation and as co-chair of a citizens group which addresses the problems of delinquent and neglected young people. I've served as a volunteer and fund-raiser for several local charities.

Most important of all, I have been married for nearly 29 years. Kathi and I have raised what we think are two great kids. Mike is now 25 and working as a computer programmer in California, and Paul, who is 19, is a sophomore at the University of Michigan.

At age 52, I believe that I have the knowledge, experience and record of accomplishment which are needed to become the kind of senator you deserve to have.

Bill Brodhead of Bingham Farms is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. The primary election is Aug. 2 and the general election is Nov. 4. This is the first in a series of columns by candidates for U.S. Senate.

MEAP test results needed to show education changes

PHILIP POWER

There's good news on the school front: MEAP scores are going up.

MEAP stands for Michigan Educational Assessment Program. It's the set of achievement tests covering math, science and reading now given periodically to kids in various grades in school.

MEAP results are important, especially given the fact that the "educational reform" plan passed late last year by the Legislature turned out to be concerned mostly with taxes and little with educational quality.

Although originally designed as a device to review school curricula, MEAP turns out to be the only serious education assessment device widely available to parents and taxpayers. This newspaper publishes regularly the MEAP scores for the entire school district, broken out building-by-building. Readers can see just how the schools attended by their children are doing compared to others.

What is striking about last year's improved test results is that they prove the common-sense approach to school quality improvement is correct: Define what kids are supposed to learn; teach them; assess what they have learned; make changes when things are going badly.

Joseph Payne, professor of mathematics instruction at the University of Michigan, puts it bluntly: "I think there are major efforts in the state to examine curricula, and changes are being made." Tests prior to MEAP were "really minimal. They did nothing about higher thinking skills. It did not represent the kind of situations that people really face."

School official after school official echoes Payne's evaluation.

James Faust, director of pupil personnel in the Huron Valley schools (around Milford), explained: "We used the MEAP scores from last year to analyze our strengths and weaknesses. We always do that, but last year, because there was some criticism, we did it more than normal."

In Birmingham, where MEAP scores also improved, "Last year we analyzed the scores and looked at where we needed to make improvements," according to Sandra Schwartz, the district's MEAP coordinator. "There is more hands-on experiential learning . . . trying to use the best instructional practices we have," she says.

Jane Kuckel, associate superintendent for instruction in the Wayne-Westland district, agrees: "We can't be satisfied with just computation skills, but we want problem-solving, analysis and critical thinking skills . . . We need a solid K-12 curriculum, and pupils must build on prior grades. Students must work toward the application of skills instead of just computation."

Of course, the news wasn't all good. Tenth-graders in Redford Union and Rochester are having trouble with math, and building-to-building variations are noticeable within given districts. But the remarkable thing about this round of MEAP results is how widespread the improvement was.

Why now, especially when school officials were dismayed at deteriorating scores for the past couple of years?

Simple. It takes time to go through the process. Scores must be evaluated to determine where kids are having trouble. Course content, textbooks and teaching methods need to be changed. And the changes need a little time to sink in.

Then there's the fact that 1994 is the first year for state-endorsed diplomas based on passing 50 percent of the MEAP objectives.

But that's life in the real world.

And despite all the huffing and puffing from Lansing about school reform, it's the old MEAP test and the common-sense approach to educational quality that are doing the job, day by day, year by year. Congratulations to the many, many teachers and school officials who are working so hard for our kids.

Arts council will offer awards

The Plymouth Community Arts Council will hold its 16th annual Damaris Student Fine Arts Awards for middle school students.

The competition was developed to encourage students to achieve excellence in their field of interest in fine arts, to reward them for their achievements, and to give them competition experience.

According to chairwoman Beth Lurtz, Plymouth-Canton area students in grades six through eight may enter in visual art, sculpture, photography, creative writing, instrumental and vocal music, drama, dance and piano.

Students in the performing arts categories will perform at the East Middle School cafetorium on Thursday, Feb. 24, and Friday, Feb. 25. Qualified jurors will determine the winners in each category who will share a total of $1,500 in cash awards.

Applications are available from Plymouth-Canton area middle school fine arts teachers, from private dance studios and piano teachers, from the PCAC office, and at both Canton and Plymouth's libraries.

The deadline for submitting applications is Friday, Jan. 28; they will be accepted at the arts council office at 332 S. Main, Plymouth, 9 a.m. to noon Jan. 24-28 and 3-5 p.m. Jan. 27-28.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend the Damaris performances Feb. 24-25 at the East Middle School cafetorium.

All visual art, photography and creative writing entries will be on display at the performances.

This year, the Damaris program is funded through a series of "adopt-a-scholarship" luncheons chaired by arts council board member Stella Greene and given by council members. For further information about the Damaris Student Fine Arts Awards, call the council office 9 a.m. to noon weekdays, 455-5260.

Hospital holds nutrition class

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will offer a nutrition clinic, "Make Your Cake and Eat It Too" from 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The clinic will be in the lower level conference room of the main hospital.

The clinic will feature area professional Mary Denning from the Cake Shoppe Inc., who will teach the art of successful cake decorating, including recipe substitutions for lowering fat and sugar as part of a heart-healthy diet.

Cost of the clinic is $8 per person, $12 per couple.

Pre-registration is encouraged as seating is limited. To register, call the food and nutrition services department at 591-2983.

Free throw champions

The opening round is history, with eight youths from Plymouth, Canton and Livonia earning trips to the district-level of competition in the Knights of Columbus International Free Throw Championships.

The opening round featured 40 boys and girls, between 10 and 14 years old. The Fr. Victor J. Renaud Council No. 3292, located in Plymouth, sponsored this round Sunday at Our Lady of Good Counsel, also in Plymouth.

Each contestant was allowed 15 free throws. Ties were decided by rounds of five more shots until a winner emerged.

In the 10-year-old division, top finishers were Lisa Niemiec (from Plymouth) and John Kijek (Canton). Christine McKay (Canton) and Roy Chapman (Plymouth), were winners in the 11-year-old bracket.

The 12-year-old winners were Laura Mathews (Plymouth) and Martin Kennedy (Livonia). For the 13-year-olds, Anne Kijek (Canton) and Robby Jones (Canton) were best, and for the 14-year-olds, it was Maria Kijek (Canton) and Christian Dueweke (Plymouth).

The K of C International Free Throw Championship is an annual, three-tier event. The district round will be at St. Raphael Feb. 3 in Garden City.

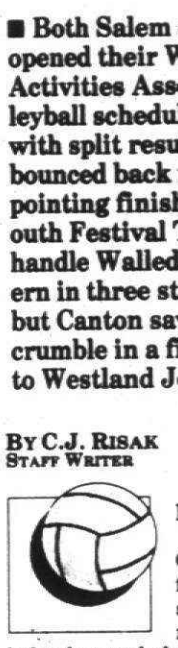
Chiefs fall in WLAA opener

■ Both Salem and Canton opened their Western Lakes Activities Association volleyball schedules Monday, with split results. Salem bounced back from a disappointing finish in the Plymouth Festival Tournament to handle Walled Lake Western in three straight games, but Canton saw a comeback crumble in a five-game loss to Westland John Glenn.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER



The flow favored Plymouth Canton.

Westland John Glenn had started fast, scoring the first six points of the match — which helped propel the Rockets to wins in the first two games, 15-9 and 15-11.

But Canton fought back, winning a tough third game 17-15. The Chiefs then evened the match behind Kristie Drinkhahn's strong serving, 15-7 in game No. 4.

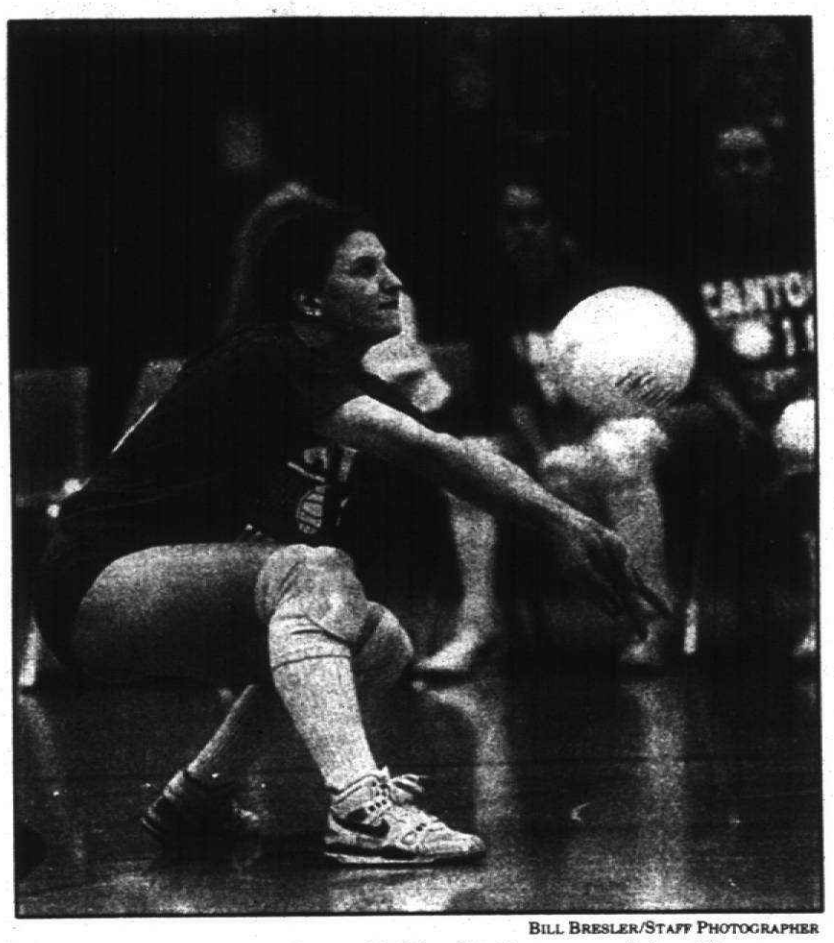
"The kids were real psyched up and ready to go," said Canton coach Melinda Cain. "They thought they had come back to win the last two games and that they deserved to win the match."

Whatever they felt they deserved, they didn't get. Game No. 5 belonged to Glenn, which routed the Chiefs 15-0. Canton is 1-1 overall in out-of-tournament matches, 0-1 in the WLAA; Glenn is 8-2 overall, 1-0 in the WLAA.

"I don't know (what happened)," Cain said of the final game. "That's a good question. I wish I had an answer for that.

"I think their inexperience took over. They went into the game thinking they couldn't make any mistakes. They were playing not to make a mistake instead of just playing.

"They weren't tired physically. They were mentally ready to play the game. Everyone was focused."



BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Setting up: Canton's Janet Zabivnik digs out a John Glenn hit and passes it to a teammate. The Chiefs battled the Rockets through four games, but got blanked in the decisive fifth.

But the Chiefs didn't get the needed lift like the one Drinkhahn provided in the fourth game, serving 10 of her team's 15 points — five of them aces. Middle hitter Ndo Okwumabua started somewhat slowly but "came on and played real well," according to Cain. Outside hitter Janet Zabivnik performed well throughout.

Experience certainly was a factor. Glenn's roster includes more than a half-dozen seniors; Canton starts two seniors and four sophomores.

"It was a learning experience," said Cain. "I don't think it will happen again. I think they'll get their composure back quickly."

Another key factor: the Rockets' Lynn Little, who had 22 kills and nine blocks. "We had a hard time shutting down their middle hitter," Cain said of Little.

Salem had little trouble with Western, winning 15-7, 15-10, 15-10 at Western Monday. It helped the Rocks forget their 15-13, 12-15, 15-11 loss to Dexter in Saturday's Plymouth Festival Final.

Salem had beaten Dexter in pool play earlier in the tournament, 15-1, 15-11. In fact, the Rocks had not lost a game in the tournament until the final.

In Monday's win over Western, Jamey Viau and Paula Dombrowski each had eight kills, and Karen Gundry had seven, with 25 digs and three aces. Shellye Sills contributed five kills and four blocks, and setter Erin Koch had 17 assists to kills in two games.

The lesson from the Festival Tournament apparently hit home. "Our kids hit the ball well, but they've got to learn to play points a little better," said Salem coach Brian Gilles of the Dexter match. "Our kids want to hit every ball down the opponents' throats.

"But you can't hit a home run on every pitch. You've got to learn to be patient."

In tournament pool play, other Salem wins came against Bloomfield Hills Lahser 15-6, 15-12; Ypsilanti Lincoln 15-6, 15-7; and Canton 15-13, 15-12. In the semifinals, the Rocks

Rocks romp in win; Gilles soars

■ GYMNASTICS

Plymouth Salem exhibited few flaws Monday, defeating North Farmington 134.9-126.05 in a Western Lakes Activities Association gymnastics meet at North.

The Rocks' Melissa Hopson and Sarah Makins dominated. Hopson collected a first-place finish in the uneven parallel bars (9.05) and tied Makins for first in the floor exercise (9.05).

That, combined with her seconds in the vault (8.55) — the only event not won by a Salem gymnast — and balance beam (8.4) earned Hopson the top all-around score (35.1).

Makins also won the beam (8.8), was second in bars (8.6) and third in vault (8.45). Her 34.9 was the second-best all-around total.

Kristen Kosik also turned in a solid performance for Salem, the defending Class A champion. Kosik was third on the beam (8.2) and fourth in both the floor (8.7) and beam (8.2). Zoe Yockey took third in floor (8.95).

Salem's point total was a team-best for this season. The Rocks travel to Brighton for a dual meet at 7 p.m. Friday.

Canton 2nd

Holland won with 140.2 points. Canton scored 132.5.

Chiefs' coach John Cunningham did not believe the wide gap between the two teams was an accurate indicator. "It looks like a huge difference between Holland and Canton," he said. "But it's actually not. They beat us soundly, but they had two events where their scores were kind of strange.

"They beat us by two at Athens (Invitational), and they didn't improve by another 6½ points in two weeks. But they deserved to win — this is not to take anything away from them. We had one bad event, which was bars. I'm hoping to get on a more even keel, with more consistent performances."

Gilles was consistent enough. She has been the top all-around gymnast in all her competitions thus far. She led the field again Saturday, setting a school all-around record by scoring 37.2 points (the former record of 37.1 belonged to Kim Rennolds, set last year).

Gilles also broke the school record she established earlier this season on the vault, winning with a 9.6. Her other first came on the bars (9.3). She was second in floor exercise (9.25) and third on beam (9.05).

Other scorers for the Chiefs included Kim Nowak, seventh in floor (8.9), and Michelle Cimeot, ninth in beam (8.5). Nowak and Brie Wall tied for 10th in the all-around, each scoring 32.5.

The Chiefs take on Western Lakes Activities Association rival Westland John Glenn Thursday at 7 p.m. at Canton.

Salem sinks dual rivals

■ SWIMMING

Preparing for Thursday's showdown against rival Plymouth Canton proved no real problem for Plymouth Salem's swim team.

The Rocks wrecked both Novi and Livonia Stevenson in dual meets on the road last week, beating the Wildcats 132-54 at Novi Thursday and the Spartans 128-66 at Livonia Bentley Tuesday.

In the win over Novi, depth was the decisive factor as Salem won 11 of 12 events. Only Fred Locke won two individual events: the 200-yard freestyle (1:58.07) and the 100 free (50.95).

Other individual winners were Dave Bracht in the 50 free (23.88); Woodie Thomas in diving (249.55 points); Aaron Berlin in the 100 butterfly (57.39); Joe Ervin in the 500 free (5:21.17); Brian McMullen in the 100 backstroke (1:01.66); and Eric Seidelman in the 100 breaststroke (1:12.34).

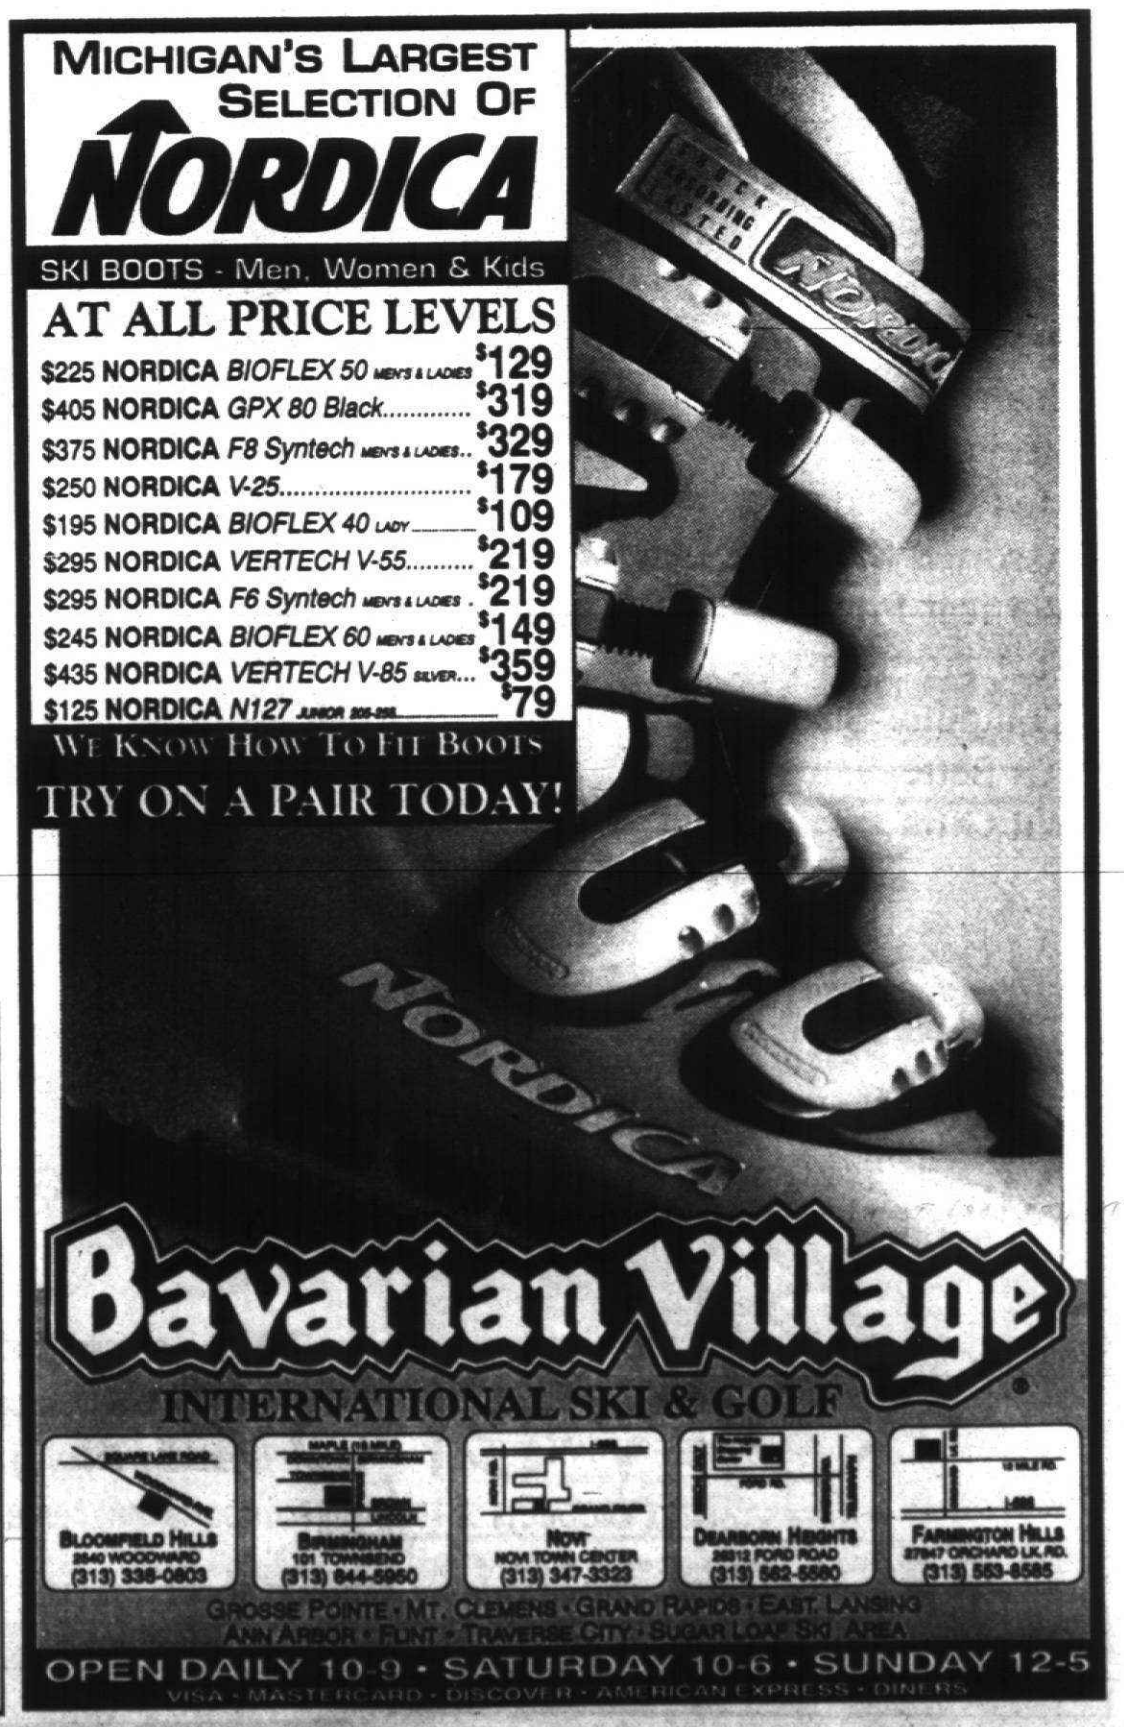
Relay winners were Ervin, Andy Dettling, Berlin and Bracht in the 200 medley (1:49.64); Locke, Pat Morgan, Marc Levitt and Berlin in the 200 free (1:36.35); and Bracht, Berlin, Ervin and Locke in the 400 free (3:31.82).

Against Stevenson, depth was again a telling factor. Salem won all 12 events — with no individual double-winners.

Winners were: John McLenaghan in the 200-yard free (2:02.03); Berlin in the 200 individual medley (2:11.17); Locke in the 50 free (23.23); Thomas in diving (239.25 points); McMullen in the 100 fly (1:02.32); Bracht in the 100 free (52.96); Seidelman in the 500 free (5:22.66); Ervin in the 100 back (59.68); and Falk Roeding in the 100 breast (1:04.35).

In the relays, winners were Ervin, Dettling, Berlin and Locke in the 200 medley (1:47.15); Bracht, Levitt, Morgan and Locke in the 200 free (1:35.00); and Locke, Berlin, Seidelman and Bracht in the 400 free (3:30.56).

The victories improved Salem's dual-meet mark to 2-1. The Rocks host Canton at 7 p.m. today.



Crusaders improve, but wins still elusive

There were promising aspects for Madonna University's men's basketball team in Saturday's home game against the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The Crusaders overcame a 16-point halftime deficit, battling back to knot the score with 10 minutes left. And, for only the second time this season, they limited the opposition to under 100 points.

Neither was enough, however, to deliver a second victory. The beleaguered Crusaders let up after their valiant comeback and lost for the 19th time in 20 games, 99-82.

Madonna coach Bill Sharpe was impressed with his team's performance — some of the time. But old problems continue to haunt. Like poor shooting. The Crusaders converted just 31-of-98 floor shots (35.2 percent), and were a dismal 32.6 percent in the first half when they fell behind 55-39.

Then there was defense. Although a strong defensive effort ignited the second-half comeback, Madonna could not sustain it. UM-D was 36-of-70 from the field (52.1 percent).

Madonna did get a strong performance from sophomore point guard Doug Soper, who scored 19 points and dished out seven assists. Mike Slone added 17 points and 11 rebounds, and J. Dimes had 14 points and nine boards.

The Wolves (5-15 overall) were led by Josh Griggs' 28 points. Ron Stempin had 19, Pat Hughes 16 and John Hoffmeyer 15.

MADONNA

■ MADONNA 71, UM-DEARBORN 59: A strong defensive effort supplied the Lady Crusaders with the impetus needed to win their second-straight game Saturday at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Madonna, which improved to 7-8, surrendered just five second-half field goals. The Lady Wolves converted 5-of-21 (23.8 percent) from the floor; Madonna was 13-of-29 (44.8 percent) over the last 20 minutes.

Their superior shooting and defense — UM-D committed 29 turnovers in the game to 13 for Madonna — allowed the Lady Crusaders to take command after the first half ended in a 35-35 tie.

Denise Williams came off the bench to spur Madonna, scoring a team-best 12 points. Rachel Emery added 11 and Vikki Koenig had 10. Shawn Bannon had a terrible shooting night (3-of-19 from the floor), scoring nine points, but she did have nine assists and three steals. Stephanie Crelley totaled seven points, seven rebounds, eight assists and three steals.

The Wolves, now 8-7, got 21 points from Kellie Taylor, 17 points and 11 boards from Gwen Kollmorgen, and 10 points, 13 rebounds and four assists from Heather Towery. But the rest of the team combined for just six points.

Ocelot losing streak over

One losing skid is history. Now — can Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team end another?

SC MEN

Monday's game wasn't as close as the final score indicated. Thanks to Todd McNeil's 31 points, SC was in control most of the way. The Ocelots' halftime lead was 47-32.

Surviving lost season not easy

C. J. RISAK

It was all so . . . contagious.

The optimism was flowing. Overflowing, really. Players looked at each other, assessing abilities, took a step back and said, "Man, we are good."

Didn't matter that almost none of them had played a single minute of college basketball. They had the attitude. They had the ability. They had the arrogance.

That was eight weeks ago. Before Madonna University's resurrected men's basketball team had played a single game. Before the losses started to mount.

I remember coach Bill Sharpe asking one of his players prior to the season-opener how many games the team was going to win. "All of them," was the candid reply.

Sharpe should have known better, but he allowed himself to get caught up in this misplaced optimism. He got sucked in by a bunch of freshmen who didn't know any better.

Only two of Madonna's players had any collegiate experience entering the season — and that was with junior college teams.

That alone should have set off a caution signal. But it didn't.

I remember a friend from way back, when asked why he was always so negative, recited this proverb: "A pessimist is never disappointed."

Does the opposite hold true? Are optimists doomed to disappointment?

The Fighting Crusaders might believe so. Now.

The confidence of eight weeks ago has long since eroded. It's been buried beneath an avalanche of losses, almost all of them lopsided. Madonna has one win in 20 games. Only twice this season have opponents been held to under 100 points. The second came Saturday, in a 99-82 loss to University of Michigan-Dearborn.

The Crusaders have been ridiculed by ESPN sports commentator Dick Vitale. They have been laughed at after giving up 189 points to Oakland University — and the Pioneers' two best players didn't even dress for the game. Almost all of their losses have been by more than 10 points — most by much, much more.

"It's rough. Real rough," said Mike Slone, a 6-foot-5 freshman from Plymouth Salem. "I was just so used to winning."

In his three varsity seasons at Salem, he didn't lose this many games. It's not an easy lesson to learn.

J. Dimes, a 6-4 freshman forward from East Catholic, wasn't used to losing, either. "When we started 0-and-7, I said I'll have to get used to it. Now, I just concentrate on each game."

Blame can be heaped almost everywhere: Sharpe's coaching (an inappropriate up-tempo offense that features poor shooters, with little rebounding and less defense, critics harp); a lack of team leadership (Slone: "That's the problem with this team — there's no leadership, no togetherness"); even bad luck (injuries in particular).

Things began to unravel when, just before the season-opener, 6-7 forward-center Ken Taylor (from Westland John Glenn) was lost because of academic problems. That certainly hurt the Crusaders' inside game.

But Taylor couldn't have saved them.

It got so bad that, after the 82-point loss to OU Dec. 20, Sharpe started talking about resigning. That hardly buoyed his young team's now-fragile confidence.

Things have changed since then. The situation has settled some. Players have adopted an attitude like Dimes' — one thing at a time. "I just have to focus on doing something else each game," Dimes said. "It might be defense one game, then shooting the next, until it all blends together."

Coming together . . . Sharpe realizes now that will take time. The Crusaders never seem to do one thing right for an entire game. In the loss Saturday to UM-Dearborn, Madonna battled back from a 16-point halftime deficit to tie the game with 10 minutes left.

But then the Crusaders let up — and lost by 17.

It can't be easy for Sharpe. Monday's practice provided some insight into the problems facing his team. The half-court drill seemed simple enough: drive down the lane, drive down the lane. Sharpe repeated it half-a-dozen times. Still, players pulled up for jumpers from the three-point arc.

But it's a learning process, and these freshmen are learning. Slowly, maybe, but they are learning. And they aren't ready to quit.

"As long as (Sharpe) stays, I'll stay," said Slone. "If we keep losing games the way we're losing them, it'll be hard for all these guys to stay here.

"Eventually, this could be a good team, if everyone stays. But right now, I don't think that'll happen."

Dimes has heard the discontent, too. But he is determined to turn this program around. "Yes, I am (staying)," he said without hesitation. Do his teammates share his determination? "Hopefully they do. I hope they feel they can come back next season and contribute."

Reality suggests not all of them will. But those that do will be a year older and a whole lot wiser.

Better, too — and better for it.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Ice anglers are having good success catching perch on Saginaw Bay. Later this winter, and throughout most of the summer, the bay serves up limit catches of tasty walleye. Unknown to many, Saginaw Bay also offers great largemouth and smallmouth bass action.

Art Ferguson III, one of Michigan's premire professional bass anglers, knows the bay well. "The bass fishery in Saginaw Bay is probably lower Michigan's best kept secret," said Ferguson, who hails from Rochester Hills. "There is such an abundance of bass out there it's incredible. . . Pound-for-pound I consider it the best bass lake in Michigan."

Ferguson and cable TV fishing show host Roland Martin spent two days on Saginaw Bay in September taping for the Roland Martin Fishing Show. The Saginaw Bay segment of the show will air locally Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 29 and 30, on TNN. The Saturday show will air at 11:30 a.m. and the Sunday show will air at 9:30 p.m.

"The show is generally on bass fishing for largemouth," explained Ferguson. "We also did a segment with Ron Spitler of the DNR doing a fish survey on the Detroit River."

Derek weathers storm

Fourty weeks ago Farmington Hills resident Joe Derek set forth on a journey, not knowing for sure where it would lead. For the first time in his life the outdoor educator/naturalist was taking his knowledge of nature to the air waves as the host of an outdoor radio program. He started with a 13-week contract and his show, "Naturally Michigan Afield," has been on the air ever since.

"I went into this thing cold-turkey," said Derek. "I didn't really know what to expect."

What Derek didn't plan on is the post-holiday cold shoulder from sponsors. He admits the last few weeks have been tough. As post-holiday buying slows to a snails pace, advertising dollars retailers had spent on a regular basis also dwindle down to trickle. And the upcoming barage of outdoor shows has taken its toll as well. "A lot of sponsors are putting their time and money into the (outdoor) shows right now," explained Derek. "The spring looks like it will be really good. I have people that want to come on in March, just nobody in January. The next four weeks will be tough, but then I'll be into mid-February and should be all right. I think I'll be able to pull it off."

In keeping with his promise of offering a broad-based program, Derek has already done shows covering topics ranging from composting to gun control; from butterfly collecting to turkey calling.

The show airs at 10 a.m. Wednesdays on WCAR, 1090 AM.

Having weathered the storm, Derek is already planning for the future. Some of the upcoming topics Derek plans to cover include ice fishing with tip-ups, Michigan turtles and Michigan endangered species, spring steelhead fishing, turkey hunting, and the clean-up efforts on the Rouge River.

"The response has been good," Derek said. "I think I'm one of the top shows (on WCAR) as far as listener response. Everyone seems to like it. For me it's been a blast. I plan on staying on now for a while."

Reminders, reminders

■ Personally, I'd wait until the temperature warms a little, but a special Canada goose season runs through Feb. 6. The area open to hunting includes all public and private lands south of a line from Port Huron to Grand Rapids (along highways I-69, M-21 and M-45).

The DNR counted over 130,000 Canada geese in the state during a mid-December count including 70,000 in the area open to the special hunt.

With all the sub-zero weather we've had recently many of these birds may have headed south. Any remaining birds will be roosting on open water — if you can find any.

■ February 1 is the applications deadline for the spring wild turkey season. The season runs from mid-April to mid-May in the northern Lower Peninsula and select portions of the Upper Peninsula and the southern Lower Peninsula. The bag limit is one bearded turkey.

Anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, Mi. 48009. Fax information to 644-1314 or call Bill Parker Monday evenings at 901-2578.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Items for the Sports Roundup must be submitted by noon Friday (for Monday edition) and noon Tuesday (for Thursday edition). Items run once only.

■ SOFTBALL FOR MEN

Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education Services will offer an eight-week class in men's competitive softball, 10 a.m. to noon, beginning Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The cost is $25.

For more information, call 462-4413.

■ SOCCER TRYOUTS

For tryout dates and times, call coach Joe Retzbach (347-0064) by Sunday, Jan. 23.

■ STEVE AVERY VISIT

A baseball clinic, sponsored by Concealed Security and featuring Atlanta Braves pitcher Steve Avery, will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at Taylor Truman High School.

Pre-registration cost is $12.50 per person or $15 per person at the door.

Call 532-4069.

■ BASEBALL CARD SHOW

The first-ever Concordia College sports card show is slated for 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6. at the college, located at 4090 Geddes in Ann Arbor.

Admission is $1, with children under 12 free. Autograph guests are Bill Stafford, a former New York Yankee (1960-68), and Ron Rightnowar, a star at Eastern Michigan University.

Dealers can reserve a table ($25, which includes lunch) by calling Jay Buelow at 995-4607 or Chandelle at 995-7344. The show is limited to 60 dealers. Table reservations must be paid by Feb. 4.

Proceeds benefit the Concordia College baseball team.

■ SOCCER SIGN-UP

Registration for the Canton Soccer Club's spring season is under way, and will continue through Feb. 1 at the Canton Parks and Recreation office.

Boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 18 are eligible. All new players must bring copies of their birth certificates and Social Security numbers when they register, with a check payable to the Canton Soccer Club.

The registration fees: for players born from Aug. 1, 1986, through April 2, 1989, $25; for players born Aug. 1, 1984, through July 31, 1986, $30; for players born prior to Aug. 1, 1984, $35. Players born prior to Aug. 1, 1984, who did not register for the fall 1993 season must pay an additional $15 uniform fee.

For more information, call Watson Zdrodowski at 459-0927.

■ FAMILY SKATE

The first family skate night is slated for Thursday, from 7-9 p.m. at the Heritage Parks ponds behind Township Hall. There is no charge; the ponds will be lit, and warm refreshments will be available.

The program is open to all, without residency requirements.

■ BASKETBALL

With no time left on the clock in overtime, Southfield Christian's Matt Taylor stepped to the free-throw line for a one-and-one. His team was trailing PCA by a point, but Taylor proved his mettle by sinking both shots to give Southfield Christian a 62-61 win.

PCA slipped to 5-4 overall, 2-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. Most of the bleachers are now in place and both a leaky roof and the floor it damaged have been repaired, allowing the school's new gym to be used for the first time.

PCA had a 32-25 halftime lead, but Southfield Christian stormed back with a 25-7 third-quarter onslaught to go into the fourth period up 50-39. It took a 17-6 fourth-quarter rally by PCA to force overtime.

Dan House's 18 points and 12 rebounds led PCA. Aaron Jones had 15 points and Jamie Neil 10. Southfield Christian got 14 points from Micah Duffy, 11 from Kurt Ruppenthal and 10 from Taylor.

Symphony concerts focus on youth

■ Livonia Symphony and Plymouth Symphony are presenting concerts with children in mind. There's no better time to introduce your children to the classics.

■ PREVIEW

If you're tired of this bitter winter weather, come in from the cold. Delightful, fun concerts by Observerland symphony orchestras spotlighting art and alp horns play to the child in all of us with special January programming centered around youth.

The Livonia Symphony Orchestra opens its Children's Concert Series aimed at building future audiences wile the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra, now in its 48th season, presents an aspiring young talent.

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra features its Young Artist Competition second-place winner Christian Hebel, a promising 18-year-old violinist from Plymouth, at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28 at Plymouth First Presbyterian Church, 701 W. Church, and Saturday, Jan. 29 at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 Ten Mile, east of Taft.

Tickets are $6 adults, $5 seniors and $3 students in grades kindergarten through 12. Advance tickets are available in Plymouth at Evola Music, 215 Ann Arbor Road, and Beitner's Jewelry, 904 W. Ann Arbor Trail; in Canton at Dearborn Music, 42670 Ford Road; in Northville at Gitfiddler Music, 302 E. Main and Bookstall on the Main, 101 N. Center; in Novi at the park and rec, 45175 Ten Mile, and community education office, 25345 Taft Road; or by calling the symphony office at 451-2112.

"Christian Hebel's a very fine and promising young violinist,said Russell Reed, PSO music director/conductor. "It takes a lot of technique to play Kabalevsky's concerto and Christian does a wonderful job.'

Held in December, the competition was judged by Reed, PSO bassoonist William Hulsker and PSO violinist Kiyo Morse. Hebel received a $100 cash prize along with the opportunity to appear with the orchestra. The multitalented honor student has performed with the Plymouth Youth Symphony, Livonia Youth Symphony and for the last five years with the Detroit Symphonic Civic Orchestra. He also sings, dances and acts.

In addition to Hebel's performance, the PSO goes to great measures to spotlight a 10-harp ensemble, four alp horns, a flute choir, a piano solo and ensembles featuring members of the orchestra on cello, clarinet, classical guitar, flute, harp, violin and viola.

"We have unusual things you don't hear very often. In fact, I don't think I've ever seen 10 harps on stage at the same time before," said Andy Vermiglio, publicity person.

Vermiglio, who plays double bass with the PSO, and his wife Elaine, PSO pianist, will perform a piano/acoustic guitar piece "Serenade Op. 76" by Leonard Von Call.

"You don't often get to hear a classical piano and acoustic guitar duet. It's quite unusual," said Andy Vermiglio.

Now in its 20th season, the LSO, under assistant conductor Karl Karoub, begins its chamber concert series at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 28, and children's concert series at 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 29, in the intimate setting of the 300-seat Livonia Civic Center Library Auditorium, Farmington Road and Five Mile. Mozart and Hayden are on tap as well as "A Little Night Music."

The opening children's concert will introduce the orchestral instruments and illustrate how it's possible to visualize the music. This was a popular series not only with children but also adults in its first season last year.

Tickets for the LSO's Series B and C are $12 adults, seniors 62 and up, $8; students 12 and up with valid I.D., $6 and children under age 12, $3. Advance tickets available at Madonna University, Schoolcraft and Levan; Hammell Music, 15630 Middlebelt; and the Livonia Civic Center Library.

The Jan. 29 "Paint a Picture" program promises to be an afternoon filled with fun. As children enter the auditorium, each will be given crayon and paper for a special selection when they will beasked to draw what they hear.

"We're going to have some interaction with the children in the audience, have the children draw as the music is playing to encourage them to see with their ears. After, a few of them will be invited on stage to tell why they drew what they drew," said Livonia Symphony Society president Ken Kelsey.

Principal chairs of the LSO will demonstrate their individual instrument, the range of its sounds plus tell a little bit about how they got their start in music. This is a terrific opportunity for youngsters with an interest in a particular instrument to find out more about it.

"We have to think of the children, especially with the cuts to music in the schools," said LSO music director Francesco DiBlasi. "The children are our future."

Linda Chomin of Canton Township is a free-lance writer who specializes in the arts and classical music.

Guest artists: Jeffrey Ash and Merrill Wilson are part of the Alphorn Ensemble, which will be featured at Plymouth Symphony Orchestra concerts Jan. 28 and 29.

Entertaining Cole Porter musical revue sparkles

BARBARA MICHALS

■ REVIEW

Fifty-two of Cole Porter's sparkling songs form the essence of "Cole," the musical revue presented with panache by St. Dunstan's Guild of Cranbrook.

Ranging from Porter's early songwriting years at Yale to his last Broadway shows, the numbers are grouped thematically. Interspersed with the songs are bits and pieces about Porter's life, usually delivered with generous dollops of humor and dramatic flair.

The 10-member cast are all excellent vocally and do a great job of instilling personality into the songs and brief dialogue. Margery Brooks, Kimbery Brown, Peggy Lee, Andrew McMechan, Jamie Richards, Pamela Richards, Tom Spriggs, Gary Lee Temple, Barbara Vorves, and Kendall White each get a chance to shine individually as well as in duets, combos, and ensemble work.

Among the stand-outs are Lee's saucy rendition of "Lost Liberty Blues," Temple's amusing tour conductor singing "Do You Want to See Paris?" Brown's languid "The Laziest Gal in Town," and Brooks' feisty "Mrs. Lowsborough — Goodby." Spriggs belts out powerful versions of "I Happen to Like New York," and "Night and Day." The versatile Jamie Richards goes from the plaintive "I'm a Gigolo" to the comic duets "Dizzy Baby" (with Vorves) and "Be a Clown" (with Pamela Richards). Temple, Spriggs, and Jamie Richards teem for the always hilarious "Brush Up Your Shakespeare."

Under director Barbara Anne Gowans, musical director Tom Peterson, and choreographer Laura Raisch, all flows smoothly, with enough stage movement to keep the show visually interesting.

The costuming colors of black, white, and red look sharp and should have been adhered to more strictly in the second half.

Having the four-piece combo on stage works well, but the backdrop of tinsel curtains seems unimaginative and too unsophisticated for the show.

Drama explores friendship between opposites

Walter (Robert Duvall) and Frank (Richard Harris) were never meant to be friends.

In philosophy, experience, instinct, even nationality, they are polar opposites. All they have in common is a certain age and the fact that fate has beached them in the same quiet Florida town in "Wrestling Ernest Hemmingway," opening Friday, Jan. 21 at the Star John R Theatre.

Walter, a circumspect retired Cuban barber, is a dignified and reserved observer of life. Frank, a salty Irish ex-sea captain, revels in, and fights with, life every step of the way. Frank has talked himself into and out of more trouble than he can remember. Walter has spent his life listening, trying to discern how the gentlemen want their hair cut.

The daredevil, oft-married Frank salves his loneliness with the balm of yesterday's conquests, including an often-told tale about the time in his youth that he wrestled Ernest Hemmingway.

The precise bachelor Walter drifts in a quiet routine that includes a shy flirtation with the pretty young waitress at the corner luncheonette. But when the two men's paths cross, the need for human contact presses them to overlook the incongruity of their differences.

An unexpectedly rich friendship blooms between them when they meet in the local park one afternoon. In the days that follow, each man breathes new life into the other.

Walter, who knows too little of the opposite sex, shows Frank new concepts, like old-world respect for women, refined dining habits, love for a losing Little League team, good grooming and responsibility.

Frank, who has experiences far too many women in his day, introduces Walter to a more carefree existence, to salacious conversation, a new form of transportation, to movies, a world filled with women, the delightful defiance of skinny dipping, the spell of the sea.

As they influence each other in small and powerful ways, their lives are touched by three very difference women. Helen (Shirely MacLaine) is an apartment building manager whose tough exterior masks compassion and loneliness.

Georgia (Piper Laurie) is a coquettish senior who copes with her own isolation the only way she knows how. And Elaine (Sandra Bullock) is the pretty young waitress who weaves a spell with kindness.

When all is said and done, Walter and Frank add immense measure to each other's time on Earth.

"Wrestling Ernest Hemingway"

PREVIEW

is an intimate insight into the profound meaning of friendship, embracing the need, the hurt, the discovery, the headaches, fun, sacrifice and nobility entwined in this difficult and fundamental bond.

Written by Steve Conrad and produced by Todd Black and Joe Wizan, "Wrestling Ernest Hemingway" is directed by Randa Haines, distributed by Warner Bros.

Walter, Frank and their lady friends sprang from the mind of Steve Conrad, who was a 21-year-old college senior, when he was compelled "to write a story about friendships — why we make them, how we lose them, what they mean to us."

After graduation he polished his script in motel rooms as he drove from Northwestern University in Illinois to Los Angeles, Calif.

"I was delightfully surprised when I met Steve Conrad," said director Randa Haines. "I'm still impressed with how he could write with such honesty, depth and sensitivity about things he won't experience for decades. He possesses amazing insight into the fragile human condition."

When discussing the story, Conrad, now 23, reveals, "I had no age group in mind. I just wanted to show how friends touch you, how you even become more like them if you love them. Friends fill each other's needs.

"In 'Wrestling Ernest Hemingway,' Frank develops a touch of gentleness and Walter's spine streathens. It may not sound like much in the scheme of things, but those are major transitions in their lives.

"At 75 they're not going to change each other in vastly noticeable ways.

Conrad concludes. "I grew up watching these people in South Florida. As a child, I was aware they had the natural urge for friends, to not sit along. But so many of their friends are gone. Possibly, for the first time since grade school, they must get back into the business of making new friends.

Gifted Education group kicks off program series

On Saturday, Jan. 22, the Western Wayne Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education will kick off its winter-spring program series with a session on sign language.

The free program will be taught by Greg Frohriep, a Bloomfield Hills Schools paraprofessional who is deaf, and Debbie Ripple, an interpreter for the Bloomfield Hills district.

The alliance's second major informational lesson, which will take place Tuesday, March 8, will feature a presentation on "Understanding Brain Dominance." Program speaker William Riffe will discuss the brain's two hemispheres — the left and the right — and tell how each has dominance over critical mental and physical functions.

The alliance is a non-profit support group for families of gifted children. It is affiliated with the Michigan Alliance for Gifted Education, a statewide organization for parents, educators and administrators.

Until March, the alliance also will hold parenting groups every Thursday morning and Thursday evening. The morning session runs 10-11:30 a.m. in Christ the King Lutheran Church, 9300 Farmington, Livonia. The evening session runs 7-8:30 p.m. in Allen Elementary School, 22200 Haggerty, Plymouth.

The charge is $15 per person for those who own the book "Guiding the Gifted Child" and $30 for those who need to buy the book. For more information, call Sue Perrish at 471-0933.

For "Deaf Awareness Day" on Jan. 22, Frohriep and Ripple will talk about "The Other Language." The free program will be 10:30 a.m. to noon in the Livonia Civic Center Library. For reservations, call Perrish at 471-0933.

Participants will learn what life is like for a deaf person and how communication is accomplished between the worlds of the hearing and the deaf.

The March 8 program on brain dominance will begin 7:30 p.m. at Livonia's Webster Elementary Instructional Materials Center, 37855 Lyndon.

Riffe, a professor at Flint's GMI Engineering and Management Institute, will explain how the concept of brain dominance relates to the ways children are taught and learn.

Participants can pay $15 to take the Herrmann Brain Dominance Instrument Evaluation to gain a better understanding of their own brain dominance. Evaluation participants must register by Feb. 5 by calling Kris Broderick at 464-3616.

The evaluation will be mailed to the participants to be filled out and returned to Riffe before the meeting. Riffe will bring the evaluations to the March 8 meeting.

The charge is $5 for those who attend the presentation only.

School trustee earns praise

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

A longtime school volunteer who said she's concerned about making schools safer for children has been appointed to fill a vacancy on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education.

Debra Fowlkes, a 37-year-old Westland mother of two, was chosen from nine candidates to serve out the remaining 5½ months of former board member Leonard Posey's term. Posey stepped down Dec. 31 because of an out-of-state job promotion.

"I want what's best for my children, and I want what's best for all of the children in the Wayne-Westland school district," Fowlkes told reporters after six board members selected her for the post during a one-hour special session Saturday morning.

Fowlkes, an 11-year Westland resident and Kentucky native, was hailed by board members and some of the 20 people in the audience as an independent, standout candidate who has a firm grasp on education issues.

"I think you have made a very wise decision," district resident Ginger Champagne told the board. She has known Fowlkes for 10 years.

Fowlkes is a longtime PTA activist and former PTA president at Titus Elementary, where her fifth-grade son, Darren, attends school. Her involvement began when her daughter Loreal, now a Marshall Junior High eighth-grader, was in first grade.

She has served on the district's Schools of Choice committee and the superintendent's advisory panel. She has a bachelor of science degree in English from Eastern Michigan University, and she works as a patient account representative for Pediatric Health Care Associates, which has offices in Canton Township and Ypsilanti. She belongs to the Wayne Business and Professional Women.

"I'm dedicated," she said Saturday, "and I'm definitely loyal to my district."

When asked why she sought the board seat, Fowlkes said is concerned about ensuring that children have a safe learning environment. Weapons incidents have increased in recent years.

She also said her son is an honor student, and she'd like to see more programs for gifted pupils.

Her appointment ensures that the board will continue to have African-American representation even though Posey — previously the board's only black member ever — has stepped down.

But board president Francis "Bud" Winter stressed that Fowlkes was chosen "not because of color, but because of her long years of work in the school system."

Kids with asthma can enjoy wintertime fun

For asthmatic children, cold winter air can take the fun out of playing outside, building snowmen, and tobogganing.

But parents and kids can take steps to minimize risks, according to the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan.

More than 100,000 asthmatic children live in Michigan — most of whom want to spend these long winter months just like every other kid, playing outdoors, said Dr. Gary Berg of the lung association.

"For many asthmatics," said Berg, "cold weather can act as a trigger, and extra precaution is needed before heading outside. Many children need to take asthma medications before going out, or, if they aren't on medications, a scarf wrapped around their nose and mouth is an absolute must."

Even though children can't be totally protected from the weather, parents can help by encouraging their child to breathe through the nose, as air takes longer to get to the lungs through the nose than through the mouth. Breathing through the nose allows time for the air to be warmed before it reaches the lungs.

"If your child still feels an asthma attack coming on, tell him to stop his activity and relax," said Berg. "Have him breathe slowly through the nose and exhale slowly through his mouth, as if he were blowing a whistle. This should give him the chance to catch his breath."

If these activities do not control the problem, it's time for the child to come in from the cold. A cup of hot chocolate or a cup of coffee with some hot chocolate in it is recommended for children who aren't medication-dependent. It's preferred to over-the-counter medications containing adrenalin, which can be stressful to the heart.

For more information on asthma and how to control it, call the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan at 559-5100 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The lung association provides information on asthma through donations from residents of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties to Christmas Seals.

Ways to enjoy nature when it's too cold to go outside

NATURE TRAILS

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Winter storms and extremely cold temperatures keep wise outdoor enthusiasts inside. Normal winter weather should not prevent people from enjoying the outdoors, but there are times when it is better to stay home.

While at home, those interested in fly fishing tie flies for the upcoming season and bird watchers can study bird songs.

Learning bird songs to help in field identification has become much easier in recent years. "Birding by Ear" is a package of three audio cassettes that really teaches people how to learn bird songs. Unlike previous bird song tapes or records, "Birding by Ear" puts similar sounding songs together. Most other products put songs in the same order as they are found in field guides.

By putting similar sounding songs together, the author can compare and contrast them easily. This allows the listener to identify and remember elements of each song used to distinguish one from the other. Bird songs are also grouped into general categories for easy reference — like the sing-songers and the name sayers.

About 80 different songs are carefully described with several examples of each song. At the end of the last cassette, there is a test. You are given the type of habitat and then a series of songs are played for you to identify.

Before the cassette, there were long-playing records of bird songs. Their songs too were often in the same order as the field guides. It was difficult to select just one song to listen to and it was practically impossible to take it in the field.

When cassettes became available, they allowed more mobility, faster location of individual songs and a longer-lasting product. But if you wanted to play a song at the end of the tape, you had to fast-forward through the entire tape.

Compact discs have been the answer to those who want everything in a bird song audio product. They have clear reproduction, they are compact, they are long-lasting and the user can recall songs in an instant.

Both the "Peterson Field Guide" series bird song collection and the "National Geographic Guide to Bird Songs" are now on CD. Each bird has its own band on the National Geographic product which allows immediate recall of any individual song. With the use of a portable CD player, birders can go into the field and easily verify a song they hear by playing it on their player.

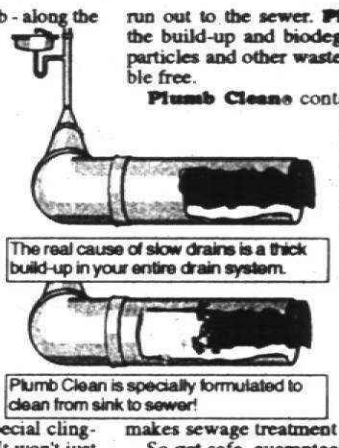
World's Most Powerful
Slow Drain Cleaner

Soap and dirt leave a "ring" around your bathtub - along the entire length of your tub. That same film builds up in your pipes - all the way out to the sewer. Imagine how thick the "ring" would be if your tub wasn't cleaned since your house was built. That is how thick the crud in your pipes is. No wonder you have slow drains!

If you have even a moderate sized home you have roughly 100 feet of pipe filled with grease and soap scum. Most of this pipe is horizontal. Imagine again a bathtub that hasn't been cleaned for years. If you pour a drain opener into the tub (which is horizontal) it just runs along the bottom. The thick scum ring on the sides is left behind. The same thing happens in your pipes! In the past the only way to remove this gook was to spend $60-$120 on sewer cleaning.

Now there is one product, Plumb Clean, specially formulated to remove build-up from sink to sewer. Plumb Clean is a highly concentrated powder. Its exclusive formula has a special clinging action that actually attaches to the build-up. It won't just run out to the sewer. Plumb Clean then penetrates into the build-up and biodegrades the soap scum, grease, food particles and other waste to leave your pipes clean and trouble free.



Plumb Clean contains Plurazyme™, the most powerful enzyme complex available. In fact, independent lab tests show Plumb Clean breaks down waste build-up more effectively than any leading brand - liquid or powder! So revolutionary it's money-back guaranteed!

Not only is amazing Plumb Clean the most effective product available, it is safe too! It won't burn skin or eyes and there are no harmful fumes. It's so safe a child can use it! It is good for the environment too, because it biodegrades household waste and makes sewage treatment plants' job easier.

So get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean today!

How to take the con out of conflicts

Conflicts are sure to happen no matter who you are, where you are, your age, gender or intellect. We try hard to avoid conflict, but it always has a way of meeting you head on.

Conflict is notorious for pushing all the right pressure buttons that release a number of feelings, most commonly anxiety. With conflict comes a flood of feelings to act out, unrehearsed, to the audience.

How can children be taught to deal with and resolve conflict? Children are candidates for encouraging conflict and blaming others, but are presumed to be better at making peace once the emotional blocks are removed. With the peer pressure children are faced with daily, they learn to sort out the good from the bad, right from wrong, while developing and maintaining self-awareness.

Children need assistance in carving out alternatives to handling problems that will occur and co-existing with their peers and others. Let's start by identifying conflict and how it takes place between folks.

Internal conflict takes place within a person. When conflict takes place internally children, adults can help by asking them to discuss how they feel. Help children focus on creating options wherever possible and also to evaluate options. Usually, internal conflict can be easily resolved, if children can express and work through feelings, since kids are more apt to be subjective thinkers.

Ask children to find out why they feel the way they do and what action, if any, should take place to resolve the conflict.

Conflict between children usually comes with an argument, yelling, sometimes pushing, shoving and, yes, name calling. An argument between two children can start out small, a little teasing here, a nasty look there, and later rolling on the grass or pavement. It can become progressively more violent without timely adult intervention. Among older children and teens who haven't learned to effectively demonstrate problem-solving skills and to focus on common ground or interests, a nonviolent outbreak can snowball into something very ugly and violent.

Children, even adults, should learn the art of negotiation and its significance in aiding in conflict resolution. Once children are old enough to make the connection between their feelings and the feelings of others, including recognizing the skills of others, then children can be better able to show empathy and mutual respect.

Negotiation becomes an option.

Young children's conflicts are often territorial - my toy, my space, my friend. Therefore, negotiation becomes harder with tots since they're egocentric anyway. Compensation is what works - a toy for a toy.

However, conflicts between two 11-year-olds can best be resolved if the children can identify a common interest. Rules to fair fighting are to identify the problem, focus on the problem and attack the problem, not the person. Listen to each other instead of attacking one another. Fess up for your actions - take responsibility. Conflict tug-of-war between adolescent children can result in each party suffering a "blistered hands" syndrome - pain from going through a stressful disagreement and frustration from not being able to win what they perceive as the war.

A tug-of-war is a pull of equal proportion because of each child's determination, or call it adolescent conviction, to individual rights. If the two kids lighten up long enough to actively listen to each other's concerns, breaking down the emotional barriers, conflict resolution can take its course.

It doesn't have to be a win/lose situation. It can be a win/win situation, if mutual goals and needs are identified and met. This will provide options - not losers. Help children to find solutions that make sense and can be followed. Let them know you understand that with conflict, even adults feel threatened at times.

In the real world where there are real people with real feelings, not just moving bodies with painted-on faces, children should know that problem-solving comes with the package of life. Where there are people, there are problems. And where there are people, there are solutions to problems.

Problem-solving begins with thinking and ends in recognizable results based on smart alternative choices. Once children can get over being upset, taking control of and/or getting a grip on feelings, then children as well as adults can begin to stop, think and resolve.

Light Work

'Tommy' taps her backstage talent

Hope Buchan says it was luck, but those who know her say it also was her good work and reliability that landed her the job of operating the Vari-Lites for the rock opera "Tommy."

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Being at the right place at the right time has illuminated Hope Buchan's career - literally.

Through her connections, the 1987 Plymouth Canton High School graduate was able to land a job operating Vari-Lites, automated lights which can control the color and shape of the beam. Since she was introduced to the lights 1½ years ago, she's worked for the Miss America Pageant in 1993 and the Hurricane Relief concert produced by Gloria Estefan in Miami.

This week she'll return to the metropolitan Detroit area as part of the technical cast of "Tommy," The Who rock opera which plays the Masonic Temple through Feb. 6.

"I've had it - compared to most people - fairly lucky. I've been meeting the right people and having the right connections," Buchan said via telephone from Boston where "Tommy" was playing.

More than luck

One of her mentors, however, said that Buchan possesses a lot more than luck.

"Being lucky is one thing but they (directors) wouldn't remember to use her if she wasn't good at her job," said Gloria Logan, theater arts director for Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem High Schools' Plymouth Park Players. "Someone being good at their job is one thing, but being reliable and easy to work with, not being a troublemaker, that's a little harder to find."

Taking her own advice, Logan hired Buchan fresh out of high school to be the technical director of the production of "The King and I." At the same time, Buchan, a former Schoolcraft College student, was working for the Birmingham Theater.

Soon afterward, she was hired by the Coconut Grove Playhouse, a regional theater in the Miami, Fla., area. While she was there, she was introduced to Vari-Lites by operators who were in town working on a show.

Because of the notoriety and exclusivity of Vari-Lites, used in concerts by Genesis, Madonna, The Rolling Stones and Janet Jackson, jobs are scarce.

"For one, you can not buy Vari-Lites, you can only rent them. When you rent them, you hire their technicians, their operators and their program person. It's a fairly tight-knit group that they have," said Buchan, who lives in Florida when not touring.

Her acquaintances referred her to the Vari-Lites company, based in Dallas, Texas. To learn about the lights, she completed a grueling training course in Orlando, Fla. Her first big job was filling in for a vacationing technician working for "Tommy Tune Tonight" in California. She was subsequently offered two permanent jobs - "42nd Street" and "Tommy Tune Tonight." She secretly hoped for another job offer.

"I was sitting in the bar with my brother and I told him, 'The ultimate would be 'Tommy' but I haven't even applied for it,' " she recalled.

'Tommy' or 'Tommy'

Her father called and confusion ensued.

"He said I better take 'Tommy' because the people from 'Tommy Tune' had called," Buchan said. "I called that number back and we started talking. His dates weren't corresponding for the dates I had for 'Tommy Tune.' Then he said, 'You're talking about 'Tommy Tune.' This is The Who's 'Tommy,' the national tour going out."

She quickly turned down the two other offers.

This tour comes 26 years after The Who's Pete Townshend originally outlined his plans for "Tommy"- a rock opera about a young "deaf, dumb and blind kid . . . who sure plays a mean pinball" - in an interview with "Rolling Stone" magazine. The official premiere followed a year later in May 1969.

Since then, performers such as Les Grands Ballet Canadienes, the London Symphony Orchestra, Eric Clapton, Elton John, Tina Turner, Jack Nicholson, Phil Collins and Billy Idol have participated in renditions of "Tommy."

The current tour, which stars former MTV VJ Steve Isaacs in the title role, is influential for Vari-Lites. The company is using the rock opera as a testing ground for new lights. That, Buchan said, among other things makes this project exciting.

The lights are "about 60 percent of the show. It's the one show I don't get bored of," she said. "It's the music . . . It's The Who. It's a very fast-moving show. The performers are great and the band is remarkable."

According to Logan, Buchan fits right in.

"All of those words they use to describe a Boy Scout that's what I would use to describe Hope," she said. "Hope has not only developed into a fine theater technician, she's a wonderful person, too."

"Tommy" will be at the Masonic Temple, 500 Temple, Detroit, through Sunday, Feb. 6. Tickets are $25, $47 and $50. For more information, call (810) 645-6666 or (313) 832-5900.

Footlights: When the national touring company of the rock opera "Tommy" takes to the stage, former Plymouth resident Hope Buchan is there. Her talent as a high-tech Vari-Lite operator landed a spot with the troupe, which will be performing at the Masonic Temple in Detroit through Feb. 6.

Exercise keeps the 'engine' running

AHF founder:Kathy Carzon

BY SUE MASON

Feeling like your gluteus has maximized because of too much ho-ho-ho? Has your external oblique developed a roll? In short, have you noticed a similarity between your body and a pear?

Time to take a stand. Time to get fit . . . and stay fit. Right? Well, if you're like a lot of people, the spirit is willing for a few days, a few weeks, even a few months, but the willpower is weak. A quick fix and it's back to square one and then some.

The reason has been expounded on for years: When you decrease caloric intake to lose weight, the body loses fat and muscle. When you reach your goal or give up on the dieting and the weight is regained, usually as fat, not muscle. The end result can be an even worse body composition.

So what's a person to do?

The answer is also something that's been talked about for years. Don't diet. Change your eating habits and exercise.

"Dieting plus exercise is much more effective if a person desires to lose weight and keep it off," says Kathy Carzon, founder and president of American Health and Fitness in Livonia. "Studies have shown that when exercise is combined with calorie reduction there is an increase in muscle weight and a decrease in fat weight. The increased muscle weight will help burn calories - muscle burns energy, fat stores energy - making it easier to keep lost weight from returning."

Shaping up

Sleek and fit, it's obvious Carzon practices what she preaches. AHF is providing a variety of fitness classes, "Time to Shape Up," through Livonia Public Schools' Community Education, beginning this week.

A follower of Covert Bailey's "Fit or Fat," Carzon's classes cover a wide expanse - pool-based aquacise, fat burning, low-impact workouts. Step-Up step exercises to shed unwanted pounds and Fit to be Firm, a total boy workout using weights.

But "Time to Shape Up" goes beyond aerobics. There are classes featuring dietitians talking about healthy eating habits and dietary changes to manage weight and an American Heart Association Heart Smart cooking class.

Maida: Hopes, plans for future

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

If you know anyone interested in the former St. John's Seminary in Plymouth Township, Detroit Archbishop Adam Maida wants to know.

"(If) anyone knows of anyone who would like to buy St. John's Seminary in Plymouth Township, it's for sale," said the archbishop. "We need to get the best value for this asset that we have. It's a jewel, and we can't just give it away."

The archbishop made his remarks on his cable television show "Dialogue," in which he fields questions from a panel of journalists and parishioners-at-large each month. The show airs on CTND, the Catholic Television Network of Detroit.

Two deals to develop the 175-acre seminary and golf course at Sheldon and Five Mile roads have fallen through.

"We keep looking at this, examining what is its best use," said Maida. "Can there be another answer to St. John's? Maybe the Lord has one. I have some ideas. Just stay tuned. There might be some surprises . . . I don't know."

A variety of questions were answered during the show, including the archbishop's views of what newly-elected Mayor Dennis Archer and his administration will mean for Detroit.

Maida, excited by the possibilities, has met with the mayor several times, and joined him for a standing-room-only ecumenical service inauguration day.

Talking: Archbishop Adam Maida airs views.

"I'm very anxious to join him in a partnership with other leaders to focus on our problems and make the city a safer place," Maida said. "I'm personally excited, because his primary focus is on people."

Maida added that he "as a religious leader, has promised him I would commit the resources I have as archbishop to do everything I can to bring churches together to help him."

"Not only our churches, but by embracing fellow religious leaders and addressing the issues of education, social problems and drugs, I think churches and Detroit can have a huge influence and impact, if we work together with government and business to make our city different," he said.

One of the most noteworthy successes Maida points to is the archdiocese's establishment of the city's Cornerstone schools, heavily populated by at-risk and poverty-stricken children.

"These (Cornerstone) children were literally picked up from a type of life which would have been just terrible," said Maida. "This is giving them hope and bringing them up to levels so that they can at least get into high school and take their place in society and the workforce. We took an ecumenical concept and broadened the base."

The children are with the Cornerstone staff 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. More than two-thirds of these children come from single parent homes and two-thirds are from below the poverty level. Yet their test scores have improved dramatically, according to the archbishop.

"They're scoring in the 90th percentile on national tests," he said. "These kids are performing in an outstanding way. That's going to continue to be my focus.

"That's what I'd like to see Archer do. If we can do the same kind of bridge building, focusing on our visions, we can make a difference. We can't wave a wand, but with leadership and applied vision, people will follow, and it will be a different place."

Maida was also questioned as to why the archdiocese doesn't immediately refer to police reported cases of sexual abuse involving clergy. According to the archbishop, situations must be examined in context.

"Obviously, the person we are most interested in is the victim, and also the accused. It's not an easy decision whereby you can use a computer, press a button and say, 'We are going to do this,' " he said. "If, in fact, we see there are serious grounds, we have no problems reporting this to the police and consulting with them. We don't have it as a matter of policy not to report it to police. It's a judgment on our part as to when we go to the police.

"Maybe the perception isn't that, maybe others would like it to be more open, but prudent judgments are made, and reasonable people could differ as to what the best approach would be."

Not all cable companies carry CTND. Tawnya Bender, assistant to the director of communications for the archdiocese, said people interested in seeing the program should call their cable company "if they're not currently able to get the Catholic Television Network of Detroit and let them know they're interested in receiving it."

"Also, they can call our office of television (237-5938) and let us know of their interest," said Bender. "We're always looking to hear from people and to receive feedback."

Film is a modern day morality play

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. KATE THORESEN

■ The ripple effects are tremendous when you consider not only the number of people fed, cared for, and educated at Focus:Hope, but also the way such significant work is multiplied throughout the families as well.

We saw the movie "Schlinder's List" recently. Sobering. Jews in Poland were forced into a ghetto at Krakow, Poland. Later they were forced into a work camp. At the same time we see Nazis consume life in all its luxuries at the expense of innocent people.

The movie portrayed what greed, unbridled power, prejudice, hatred and a system of government without any accountability can become. Six million Jewish lives were lost in the Holocaust during World War II. Yet today there are people who deny that such staggering events could ever have happened.

Steven Spielberg's "Schindler's List" gives us a good "reality check" that brutality and inhumane treatment are real. It did happen. Some people are imprisoned by circumstances over which they have no control.

In contrast to the somber portrayal of evil running rampant, "Schindler's List" also portrays the transformation of a human heart. Oskar Schindler, a Nazi businessman, ends up saving the lives of more than 1,000 Jews who worked in his factory. I can't reveal any more about the movie except to emphasize the moral of the story — atrocities happen, but one person can make a significant difference in the well-being of others.

During the next few days as I reflected on the impact of this movie, I came to realize that we have examples of people right here in the Detroit area who are making such a difference.

Eleanor Josaitis, one of the founders of Focus:Hope has been working right here in our midst for more than 20 years. A group of us met her about three years ago at Focus:Hope. She shared some of her story with us:

She was busy working as a mother of five children back in the '60s. She recalled watching the Nuremberg Trials. As she watched and rocked one of her children, the thought struck: "What would I do if I were living in Nazi Germany at the time of the Holocaust? Would I fight to protect the Jews? Would I be part of a resistance movement? What would I do?"

Suddenly, the television flashed pictures of the 1967 Detroit riots. Homes of families burned. Heads busted open. Businesses plundered. Lives and hard-earned livelihoods lost. Devastation. Ruin. Hopelessness. Helplessness. Pent up rage unleashed after years of racial and economic imprisonment.

And profoundly another thought came to Eleanor Josiatis: "Maybe I can't do anything about what happened in Germany. But I can do something to help prevent further riots in Detroit. At least, by the grace of God, I'll try."

And she did.

She teamed up with the Rev. William Cunningham and another Roman Catholic priest. She and her husband moved the family to Detroit — despite the protests of well-meaning family members. They worked hard.

That was 25 years ago.

Today Focus:Hope provides food for more than 80,000 people a month. That in itself is an impressive accomplishment. But Josiatis cautions us to see these numbers as a tragedy because there are still that many hungry people in our metropolitan community. There is a an excellent Montessori child care center and outstanding educational and job training programs, such as "Fast Track" and the Machinist Training Institute.

And then there is the newly opened Center for Advanced Technologies which has received a lot of area coverage already. These are a few of the examples of the incredible impact one or two people can have for the well-being of others.

The ripple effects are tremendous when you consider not only the number of people fed, cared for, and educated at Focus:Hope, but also the way such significant work is multiplied throughout the families as well.

However, vast numbers of lives helped should not be the sole criteria that measures whether a person has made a difference or not. One of the characters in "Schindler's List" said something like, "When you save the life of one other human being, you have begun to save all of humanity."

One person CAN make a difference. Oskar Schlinder. Eleanor Josiatis. Many of the unsung heroes and heroines who simply reach out and do something for the well-being of another.

There are hundreds of modern-day morality plays being lived out right here in our metropolitan Detroit area. May we keep our eyes and ears and hearts open to recognize and encourage those brave souls who are working to make this world a safer, more just and better place for all people.

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green,
When I read the newspaper on the 11th of this month, I was extremely interested in getting my handwriting analyzed.
I am 41 years old and I'm right-handed. I sure hope my writing ends up in the paper. Thank you sincerely.
D.A.
Plymouth

Control is the first thing I see as I look at this handwriting sample. Outwardly, she presents a picture of poise and control. I suspect this is a facade to cover an inner fear of losing control. Few people get to know the nice person behind the persona.

This handwriting is both attractive and very rigid. Capital letters are large and showy when contrasted to the small middle zone of handwriting. This speaks to us of a person who is seeking attention and love.

Her baseline of writing is straight and moves progressively across the page of writing. She has a built-in sense of order and is a self-disciplined young woman. She lives with an exaggerated sense of responsibility. She is hard-working and achievement oriented. Until everything is completed to her own high standards, she can neither relax nor rest. She is constantly striving for perfection.

Allan Mallinger, a San Diego psychiatrist and author of "Too Perfect: When Being in Control Gets Out of Control," has this to say about perfectionists. On the surface the too-perfect people have many wonderful personality characteristics. But underneath, they're so rigid that it causes problems in their lives.

Our writer formulates her plans. Then her routine must be maintained to keep life running smoothly. This is not a flexible person. Too many changes or reversals can cause her to become upset.

This is a highly sensitive young woman. Criticism is often expected and can be hurtful to her. A cautious nature takes time to consider each step along the path of life. She has a strong inner fear of stepping out of line and possible rejection.

Many signs in her handwriting point to a strict upbringing where compliance was expected. Early in life she learned to repress emotions to be more acceptable and she continues the pattern. This, however, does not happen without producing tension for her. Dealing with the unfamiliar can sometimes be a painful experience.

I sense she would like to be more outgoing than she inwardly feels and she does try. But it appears to be more of a facade than sincere and spontaneous. She tends to rely on logic rather than follow any intuitive flashes that may come to her.

Her need for security is also evident. This could include people relationships as well as creature comforts.

It does not appear that her emotional needs are being satisfied. Currently energy is being sublimated into high achievement. A lively imagination and enthusiasm come to the fore here.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, signature and handedness are all helpful and objective feedback is always welcomed.

'Choices' focuses on natural birth

A special preview of the acclaimed film, "Gentle Birth Choices," will be shown at 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 20, at Henry Ford Centennial Library in Dearborn.

The film includes footage of six actual births which illustrate the physical and psychological advantages to both mother and baby when birth is allowed to unfold naturally.

The introduction and closing remarks will be provided by Karen Beesley, a certified nurse midwife, and a panel of childbirth professionals will answer questions after the film.

A $3 donation is suggested and proceeds will benefit CARE (Caesarean Alternatives, Resources and Education), the southeastern Michigan chapter of the International Caesarean Awareness Network, a nonprofit group dedicated to reducing the number of caesarean sections through education and monthly women's support groups.

"I recommend this film to all pregnant women and women who are planning future pregnancies," said CARE board member Catherine Vera-Burgos of Redford. "We need to stop treating birth as an illness. The use of electronic fetal monitors, IVs, medications and other medical technology, when not medically necessary, can impede the birthing process and actually increase the need for a caesarean section.

"Twenty-five percent of all births in our country are caesarean sections when only approximately 5 percent of all births honestly require a caesarean section in order to improve the outcome for the mother and/or baby."

According to Vera-Burgos, "Gentle Birth Choices" shows that the experience of a natural birth can be extremely safe and both powerful and empowering and points to her own experiences when extolling the benefits of natural childbirth. Her first two labors, with different doctors at different hospitals, both ended in caesarean sections due to "failure to progress."

"I was told my babies were too large," she said. "Well, my third and largest baby (10 pounds, 1 ounce) was born naturally and vaginally with a midwife."

CARE provides monthly meetings on birthing topics, a resource library of birthing materials and, each month, gives women the opportunity to share their birthing stories.

CARE supports women who desire a vaginal birth after caesarean and anyone who wishes to prevent an unnecessary caesarean. The group also believes that positive birthing experiences are possible in hospitals, birthing centers and at home attended by either doctors or midwives, provided that the labor attendant and place of birth are receptive to natural birthing.

CARE meets on the first Monday of the month (second Monday when there's a holiday) at 7 p.m. at the Garden of Life, Woodbridge Professional Building, 5469 Schaefer, south of Ford Road, in Dearborn.

For more information, call Fran Baker, I CAN — CARE president, at 581-5933 or Catherine Vera-Burgos at 535-6942.

ANNIVERSARIES

Birdsall

They exchanged vows in January 1944. She is the former Mabel Babcock.

The dinner was given by their children — Judith Jones of Canton, Lawrence Birdsall of Florida, Linda Schneemann of Farmington Hills and Mary Reum and Cynthia Birdsall of Livonia. They also have 13 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

The Birdsalls moved to Livonia in the mid-1930s.

A retiree of the Wayne County Road Commission, he attended Elm Elementary and Plymouth High Schools. She went to Wilcox, the two-room schoolhouse on Six Mile Road, and Redford Union High School.

Exercise

things as how important water is and how to pace yourself. Students also are educated about the body's musculature and instructors use the proper names in referring to different muscles.

Current fitness classes run for 10 weeks and costs $22. Specialty classes cost more. Persons who sign up for two or more classes also get an AHF water bottle.

She also has something else to give away for those interested in sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to AHF — a pocket-sized Low Fat Food Finder that instantly calculates the percentage of fat in foods . . . And we all know what fat does.

"Most people get fat for 12 years before they gain weight," Carzon said. "At first first fat marbleizes the muscle. When there's no more room, it spills out and gathers under the skin. That's when it really starts showing up.

"The real problem of weight gain in adults is we have less muscle mass and a lower metabolic rate; as a result, fewer calories are burned and more are stored as fat."

Ideally, men should have no more than 15 percent body fat, 22 percent for women. But most men come in at 24 percent body fat and women 31-33 percent. Fit people, those who exercise and have a lot of lean body mass, can burn up to 15 percent more than a person who has more body fat, according to Carzon.

Start your engine

Simply put, achieving that lower body fat requires using more calories than your body consumes — a moderate reduction in calorie intake and an increase in exercise. But you need to keep in mind that muscles need oxygen to function and the need for oxygen goes up dramatically when they're worked.

According to Bailey, "it has been shown in many exercise physiology laboratories that steady, continuous exercise repeated every day reverses the syndrome of fat replacing muscle . . . As the muscle gets leaner, your metabolism changes automatically, and you burn more calories without even knowing it."

However, don't think you have to huff and puff to exercise. Far from it, according to Carzon. Huffing and puffing is an indication that the exercising is anaerobic, that instead of tapping fat stores to fuel the muscle, the body has switched over to its other fuel source, glucose.

"After 20 minutes of burning glucose, you start tapping into burning fat," Carzon said. "After 30 minutes, you're burning 90 percent of your body fat. If you see a person huffing and puffing, you know their going into anaerobic exercising; they've kicked into burning sugar and that tires them out."

The Farmington Hills Church highly regards the God of the Bible. "Hath not the POTTER POWER OVER THE CLAY, of the same lump to make one vessel unto honor and another unto dishonor?" (Rom. 9:22). This figure is used in the BIBLE to show that GOD IS SOVEREIGN IN DETERMINING THE DESTINY of every person. Isaiah 45:9-12 warns, "Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker!"

Come Sense The Freshness

Poetry contest seeks entries

Prizes include $100 for first place, $50 for second and $25 for third. There will also be three honorable mentions. All six winners will be published in the fall 1994 issue of The MacGuffin, Schoolcraft's literary magazine.

Individuals may submit up to five previously unpublished poems of 50 lines or less. Entries should be typewritten. Name, address and phone number cannot appear on the manuscripts, but should be placed on an index card.

There is a $1 entrance fee per poem, payable by check or money order to The MacGuffin. Entries must be received by Feb. 1.

Project Piano gets under way

Registration and orientation will be held noon Saturday, Jan. 22, in the Forum Building. For more information, call Linda Wotring at 261-0318, or 462-4448.

Students will get group lessons and private lessons. Topics include learning with peers, playing for others, class parties, ear training, transposing, reading, rhythm, technique and creative drills.

Learn to organize your house

A Madonna University class called "Organizing Your Home in a Day" will meet 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Feb. 12.

Fee is $25. For more information, call 591-5188.

Techniques for greater efficiency and grouping household items will be shared. Organizing, prioritizing and time management will be studied.

Awesome night sky

SKY WATCH

RAYMOND E. BULLOCK

We are now more than halfway through the month of January. This is the only full 31-day month in which we have winter; it only SEEMS like January lasts 60 days! (Only nine more weeks until spring!)

Like Mercury earlier this month, Venus will be located behind the sun and will not be visible. It will enter the evening sky in late February.

Mercury will be in the evening sky on the 20th. Look toward the west southwest horizon around 6 p.m. The planet will be only three degrees (six full moon diameters) above the horizon. Binoculars will help you spot Mercury. (The situation will improve as the month progresses.)

The moon will be located to the right of the Pleiades (PLEE a dees) star cluster on the evening of the 21st. Marking the "shoulder" of Taurus the bull, this cluster will look like a tiny "dipper" and will be a beautiful sight in binoculars or a telescope at low power. On the following evening, you will find the moon above the bright orange-red star Aldebaran, the "eye" of the bull.

Another bright orange-red star (11th brightest in the sky) will be seen below and to the right of the moon on the evening of the 24th. The star, named Betelgeuse ("Beetle juice"), is one of the largest known. It is about 920 times larger than the sun, but much cooler in temperature. Betelgeuse is estimated to be about 520 light-years away; the light we see tonight left the star in 1473. To put it another way, that light left Betelgeuse 19 years before Christopher Columbus began his journey across the Atlantic Ocean.

The moon will be within the constellation of Gemini on the evening of the 25th. To the left of the moon will be Pollux; above Pollux will be Castor. These twin stars each mark one of the heads of the Gemini twins. On the following evening, the moon will be located well below Pollux. The bright white star to the right of the moon will be Procyon.

Procyon (PRO see on) is the eighth brightest star in the sky and the fifth closest to us. It's a little more than 11 light-years away. Procyon is in the constellation of Canis Minor, the "Little Dog." The brilliant "Big Dog" star, Sirius (SEER ee us), will be found to the right of Procyon. Sirius is the brightest star in the night sky.

Full moon phase will occur at 8:23 a.m. on Jan. 27. The January full moon was referred to as the "Moon After Yule" or the "Old Moon" by some Native American Indians. The full moon, located opposite the sun as seen from the earth, will set in the northwest as the sun rises on the 27th. The moon will not be visible during the day, but will rise in the northeast after sunset and be visible all night.

Mercury will be better placed for locating on the evening of the 28th. Look toward the west southwest horizon around 6:30 p.m. Mercury will be five degrees (10 full moon diameters) above the horizon. Five degrees above and to the left of Mercury will be Saturn. The distance between the two planets will decrease by more than one degree per day.

Three hours after sunset on the 28th, you will see the moon rising in the east. To the left of the moon will be Regulus. The moon will be in the general vicinity of where it was located back on New Year's Day.

An excellent aid for learning constellations and keeping up to date with the sky is the monthly "Sky Calendar," available from Abrams Planetarium, Michigan State University, East Lansing 48824. A one-year subscription is $7.50.

LEARN TO READ THE BIBLE EFFECTIVELY

AN EXCITING 6 WEEK SEMINAR

Signature Inn / Plymouth
40455 E. Ann Arbor Road
Plymouth (W. of 275)
Across from Don Massey Cadillac
Feb. 1-Mar. 8

Attend this seminar and learn to read the Bible effectively!

If you find reading the Bible difficult or frustrating at times, then this seminar is for you. Six concise and informative sessions are delivered in a friendly, comfortable environment. They are aimed at equipping you with the skills and determination to understand scriptural doctines for yourself and benefit from a new appreciation of the Bible. Whether you are familiar with the Bible or not, you will walk away with loads of information and new energy to begin reading more effectively.

Here's what you will learn...
- Who wrote the Bible - where did it come from?
- How to use cross references and a center margin.
- How to learn more in less time with effective study tools.
- How to get past the sometimes difficult language used in the Bible.
- An overview of each book of the Bible in a concise easy-to-understand manner.
- History and chronology (the order of events) in the Bible.
- How to read carefully (e.g. Adam and Eve didn't eat an apple).
- Prove for yourself the Bible is not a work of fiction.
- How science is reconciled with the scriptures.
- Why quoting a single scripture is dangerous (how to keep passages in context).
- Who are the Jews? Why are they so important in the Bible?
- Why parts of the Bible are so difficult to understand and how they can be simplified.
- How did so many interpretations of the Bible develop?
- When and how to understand the book of Revelation.
- Why does God allow so much suffering and wickedness?
- What are the differences between Bible versions?
- Why is there an Old Testament and a New Testament?
- How to use a concordance and a lexicon.

O's & A's
Q. What if everyone there knows more than I do?
A. The classes are paced in such a way to make everyone feel comfortable. No one is ever put "on the spot."
Q. Why are you doing this?
A. The Bible is scarcely read in our fast-paced society. Our faith and belief in God propels us to expound His message and Truth. We believe the Bible and what it teaches is right and good in directing our lives and families.
Q. Who is paying for these seminars?
A. All expenses are being absorbed by the Christadelphians in the area. No financial expectations will be expressed to you now, or in the future.
Q. Will I be asked to be "saved" or "join" the Chirstadelphians at the end of the seminars?
A. No! Our hope is that the classes will encourage you to draw your own conclusions about God and His plan. Our goal is to equip you with the necessary tools to make your own decisions about what you have learned.
Q. Who are the Christadelphians?
A. The name implies "Brethren in Christ." Christadelphians are found in countries all over the world and are bound together by a common faith in God's plan of salvation as revealed throughout the Bible. We do not believe that any of our members have received any special revelations direct from God and our faith rests squarely and solely on the Bible as the inspired word of God.

The Internet

A worldwide web linking more than 14,000 computer networks, from giant mainframes to desktop PCs. Designed originally for research and technical uses, it's not very user-friendly. But that's changing as more casual users hop on board. Hook up through:

• WORK OR SCHOOL.
If your company computer network has access to the Internet, ask to share in the connection. College students often can get a free account through school.

•COMMERCIAL ON-LINE! SERVICES OR BULLETIN BOARDS.

•INTERNET ACCESS PROVIDERS.
A number of companies allow you to connect up for a fee, from a few dollars an hour to $50 a month or more. Several books, including The Internet Companion and Connecting to the Internet list these companies. Or call InterNIC, an Internet information service, at 800-444-4345, for a list of providers.

THE MAIN TOOLS FOR NAVIGATING THE NET.

•ELECTRONIC MAIL (E-MAIL):
Electronic messages transmitted - usually in a matter of seconds - from one user to another via the Internet.

•FILE TRANSFER PROTOCOL (FTP):
Allows you to copy a file from another computer to your own. Good for acquiring games, pictures, computer programs or documents.

•TELNET:
A means of tapping into a remote computer to gain access to its publically available files as if you were directly connected. Particularly useful for perusing library card catalogs or large databases.

•ARCHIE, GROPHER, WAIS, WWW, VERONICA:
Popular search tools for sifting through the vast amount of information on the Internet.

WHAT'S ON THE INTERNET?

Government documents, library catalogs, databases, computer software, games, bulletin boards, discussion groups and an electronic mail system that offers virtually instantaneous worldwide communication.

There's not a directory of everything available on the Internet. There's just too much. But here's a sampling:

- •Library of Congress card catalog.
- •Daily White House press releases.
- •Weather maps and weather forecasts.
- •Schedules of pro basketball, hockey, baseball and football teams.
- •Weekly Nielsen television ratings.
- •CIA World Map.
- •ZIP code guide.

Her return adds spark and vigor to arts board

She's back on the Livonia Arts Commission. And that's terrific because Dorothy Wilshaw was one of the hardest-working, most-dedicated commissioners during her earlier three-year stint.

A nagging health problem forced her from the commission in 1992. But once she learned her problem was tolerable and not life-threatening, she longed to return to her old job as curator of the fine art exhibitions in the Livonia City Hall lobby. "I missed it, I really did," said the 25-year Livonia resident.

"You bet I'm excited about being back, especially getting the art shows back under my wing. I think people were pleased with what I was doing," she added.

I know I was. Her tireless efforts were never fully appreciated because she isn't the type of person to seek out plaudits, preferring to work without fanfare.

Wilshaw loved mingling with visitors who stopped by during the workday while on business at city hall or who attended the by-invitation receptions for the artists. No matter what their arts persuasion was, she found a common thread to spur conversation. "I met a lot of people and formed a lot of friendships," she said.

A master at thinking up ways to bring artwork closer to the community, Wilshaw not only hosted artists and art clubs in the city hall shows but also spotlighted the best from the city's 20th-century art collection in the summer of 1991.

Wilshaw is an art lover, not an artist in her own right. She and husband Ron became hooked almost by fate while coming upon an art show in the Livonia Mall more than 20 years ago. The hook soon extended to art galleries and juried art shows.

Popular in the Wilshaw home are wildlife paintings and photographs as well as birds in china, glass and pewter. Florals and sculpture also are Wilshaw favorites.

"I appreciate art — it's as simple as that," Wilshaw said. "Some people don't understand why I enjoy it. They find it meaningless. But I can't get enough of it."

So it's no surprise Mayor Bob Bennett reappointed Wilshaw to the arts commission Dec. 14. The first meeting during her new three-year term is Jan. 25.

Outgoing commissioner Ed Ferguson scheduled the artists for the city hall this year but Wilshaw will oversee the shows. Next year, she'll resume scheduling the artists.

The show would be distinctly different from the huge and wildly successful Greenmead Arts and Crafts Festival, the commission's top moneymaker.

The show would complement the group and individual fine art exhibitions held throughout the year in the city hall lobby and the Livonia Civic Center Library Art Gallery. Those exhibitions are curated but not juried.

Observerland is rich with quality fine artists to draw from. Rather, funding to pay for a juror, a hall, a reception and awards would pose the biggest challenge for a fine art show.

"An invitational would involve a lot of planning and work," Wilshaw said, "but if everybody did just a little bit, we could pull it together. We have contacts to give us ideas on how to get started. It would help if some local artists and art clubs were willing to volunteer their time."

She envisions a show that artists would "really want to get into" and one so wonderful, "visitors would really want to come to."

"If people were to pick and choose which shows to enter or visit each year, I'd love for this show to be one of them," she said. "Sure it would be a lot of hard work in the beginning. But we could build on that base. It's been something I've wanted to do for years."

Despite her short tenure as an arts commissioner, Wilshaw still left a lasting imprint on Livonia's artistic landscape.

With three arts commissioners stepping down in the past five months, Dorothy Wilshaw's return will bring perspective, dimension and enthusiasm to a financially strapped board that more than ever cries out for creative planning, creative funding and creative spirit.

Mix Chinese brush painting, papermaking

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Two new art classes through Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education Services offer the opportunity to make your own paper, then produce paintings on it using traditional Chinese brush techniques.

Susan Carpenter's "Handmade Paper" and Edith Newbourne's "Chinese Brush Painting" are but two of the many arts and crafts classes starting on the Livonia campus.

"You can make the paper, then use Chinese brush strokes on it," said Carpenter, who earned a master of fine arts degree from Eastern Michigan University. "So much in our culture is not made by hand because so much is mass produced. When it's made by hand, that gives it a special spirit."

In class, Carpenter will cover two methods of papermaking: the traditional pulp method and a convenient alternative using a felting process as used in making pieces of felt. She will discuss functional and nonfunctional uses of the finished product as well.

"I'm an artist and make it into an artwork, but we'll also look at making it into wrapping paper to make note cards, wedding invitations, any number of things."

Carpenter will also discuss the history of papermaking on through to modern applications. "The Chinese used it in rituals. They would make an image of someone who died and use it in the funeral procession," said Carpenter. "There are ancient methods of papermaking that are still being used today. My method is a bit similar to the method used to make ancient papyrus paper."

As a watercolorist, Carpenter always had an appreciation for fine papers. So when a fellow artist in California offered to show her how to make it, she was only too happy to take the plunge into pulp. The art of papermaking, by the way, is enjoying a renaissance on the West Coast.

"Paper is something we use daily but don't think about it. When people ask me what I do, they ask why would I want to make my own paper when I can go to the store and buy it? This is

■ LIVONIA ROOTS

Barbara Wiltsie-Youngerman has come a long way from her days at Livonia Stevenson High School, where fellow students compared her to pop singer Karen Carpenter.

Today, the mezzo-soprano has a resume full of performance credits with the Michigan Opera Theater, Toledo Opera, DeMoines Metro Opera, Adrian Symphony, Birmingham-Bloomfield Symphony and choral groups in Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Ann Arbor and Lansing.

Wiltsie-Youngerman is one of six Michigan opera singers to appear on "Time Out for Opera," a half-hour show hosted by Jonathan Swift, head of Stevenson's school of global education. The Booth Communications program will air the week of Jan. 24 on Bloomfield Hills cable channel 11.

The opera singer, who dreamed of a pop singing career in high school, said she turned to classical music in her third year at Eastern Michigan University. She earned a master's degree in music and vocal performance at Manhattan School of Music in New York and landed her first professional role in 1983 with the Michigan Opera Theater in "The Marriage of Figaro."

"Friends from high school would be surprised to see me now. I was shy and inhibited even in college, but in opera you have to act as well as sing. Going to New York helped me grow," she said.

Wiltsie-Youngerman, now of Royal Oak, also teaches voice at Macomb Community College and regularly performs with Michigan Opera Theater's community projects department.

VICTORIA DIAZ

As we kick off 1994, let's take a peek at what's happening in the ever-changing world of books:

■ Paramount Publishing is acquiring Macmillan Publishing Co. for a cool $553 million. The acquisition will make Paramount one of the largest publishers of children's literature in the U.S. and will significantly strengthen its position as the country's leading publisher of college texts. As a result of the venture, revenues at Paramount are expected to rise to nearly $2 billion.

■ In early 1948, Houghton Mifflin published Ross Lockridge's romantic, American novel, "Raintree County." A Book-of-the-Month Club main selection right out of the gate, "Raintree County" received a notable (and lucrative) literary award, film rights quickly sold to MGM, and Life magazine excerpted the book, a sensational bestseller. Two months after the stunningly successful debut of his book, Lockridge, 33, ended his life.

Now, Lockridge's son, Larry, has written "Shade of the Raintree," a biography of the author. The book, according to Publishers Weekly, attempts 'to illuminate the complexities of a remarkable life that was in many ways a paradigm of the American writer's struggle." The book will be out in April from Viking, along with a paperback re-issue of "Raintree County" from Penguin.

■ The 1993 National Book Award For Fiction went to E. Annie Proulx for "The Shipping Years." Proulx also received the 1993 PEN/Faulkner Award for her first novel, "Postcards,"marking the first time the award has gone to a woman writer. Ann Arbor's Sylvia Watanabe was among only four other writers nominated for the prestigious prize for her novel, "Talking to the Dead."

■ Both The New York Times Book Review and Publishers Weekly named Charles Baxter's "Shadow Play" one of their top books of 1993. Baxter, a professor of English at the University of Michigan, lives in Ann Arbor.

■ The New York Times Book Review also named "The Virgin Suicides," a first novel by Jeffrey Eugenides, to its Notable Books list. Eugenides, now living in New York City, grew up in Grosse Pointe Park, where "Suicides" is set.

■ Reportedly, a Shakespearean drama, "Cardenio," missing for 300-plus years, has been unearthed by a New York City scholar and autograph dealer, Charles Hamilton. Discovered in the recesses of the British Museum as Hamilton was working on a book about Shakespeare's will, the play may have been intentionally cut from original Shakespearean collections because of its taboo subject: necrophilia. Word is that Glenbridge Ltd. of Colorado plans to publish the play first in the U.S.

■ What do you think? Did Laura Ingalls Wilder just pretend she wrote all the Little House books? Was her daughter, journalist Rose Wilder Lane, actually the real author? Why would they do such a thing? Read William Holtz's recently published "The Ghost in the Little House" for more on the now-contested subject.

■ A pair of Eugene O'Neill's boxer shorts can be had for $80 through the Much Ado Bookstore in Marblehead, Mass., if you're interested in that sort of thing. Contact Cate Olson or Nash Robbins at Much Ado.

■ Tennis star Navratilova has signed to write three mystery novels for Villard over the next three years. All will be played out against a professional tennis background. Does Navratilova know anything about the craft of writing a mystery novel? Is it important? Are we missing the point? Liz Nickles will co-author.

■ The next time you visit a hotel, you may find a volume of poetry alongside that ubiquitous Gideon Bible. If that makes you smile, thank the American Poetry and Literacy Project, the Poetry Society of America and Literacy Volunteers of America. Hotels participating in the project include the Doubletree Hotel Corp., Club Med, Guest Quarters Suite Hotels and the Ritz-Carlton chain. You can also look for a copy of "Six American Poets" — featuring the work of Emily Dickinson, Robert Frost, Langston Hughes, Wallace Stevens, Walt Whitman and William Carlos Williams — at some airport lounges. The collection, co-published by Random House and Book-of-the-Month Club, was selected by editor Andrew Carroll with the help of former U.S. poet laureate Joseph Brodsky, who initiated the idea in 1991 via an article in the Washington Post.

Victoria Diaz of Livonia, a longtime member of Detroit Women Writers, tracks the books and literary industry for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. She says she "has a lifelong interest in reading, everything from great novels to cereal boxes." You can leave a message for her on a touch-tone phone by dialing 953-2047, then her mailbox number, 1854.

Money Matters in Real Estate

By Carole Halmehangas

THE POPULARITY OF THE 15-YEAR LOAN

Thirty-year, fixed-rate mortgages are still the most popular form of home loan, accounting for a little more than half of the market. The 15-year, fixed-rate mortgage, however, is not too far behind, comprising more than a third of the overall home loan market. The popularity of the 15-year loan is primarily based on its ability to be paid off in half the time of a 30-year loan. In realization of this accelerated buildup of equity, more than just new homebuyers are choosing to go with 15-year mortgages. Many homeowners are selecting them when they refinance. Consider that a borrower with a 30-year mortgage at 10 percent could refinance with a 15-year at 6.5 percent and still have similar monthly payments.

If you have decided to buy your first home, you should keep in mind that statistics show that first time buyers remain in that home between 5-7 years. For that reason, it also makes sense to consider a "two-step" mortgage. Come in and speak with us at OMEGA MORTGAGE CORP. We are very knowledgeable and will be happy to give you some ideas on how home ownership can become a reality for you and your family. We're here at 34441 Eight Mile Road. "We'll Help You Stop Losing Interest." We are available 6 days a week. Please call me at 471-6000 or 1-800-290-LOAN.

HINT: Moving from a ten percent, 30-year mortgage to a 6.5 percent, 15-year loan on $100,000 saves $140,000 in interest payments over the life of the loan.

Originally used in religious ceremonies as offerings for wishes or thanks, origami is still practiced by the Japanese today.

"If you have a wish, it's written in calligraphy and left at the temple gate. The numbers 3, 5, 7, 9 were symbolic to Buddhism. Anything they make they tend to make them in groups of these numbers. Buddhist numerology sort of permeates life."

Glenn says besides learning about its history, part of the charm of folded paper (we all made gum wrapper chains and paper hats as youngsters) is that from the youngest to the oldest, anyone can do it. "It's enjoying the creativity. Everybody can do it. It's rewarding."

Ancient art: This dinosaur skeleton folded by Dr. Hisachi Ogata is not meant for amateurs.

For the last year, West Bloomfield folder Jorge Pezzat has taught origami classes at Green Elementary School. In his classes, Pezzat lays out instructional sheets for aspiring young folders to follow. He's found that children are able to learn the ancient art quicker than adults because they're not afraid to make mistakes.

"I tell kids, mistakes are new creations. I emphasize how to teach themselves, how to improve on what they make and how to teach others," said Pezzat, who's writing a book on origami.

The husband-and-wife folding team of Bob Brill and Laura Hayes of Ann Arbor agree that anyone can learn to fold.

"Just about anybody can fold as long as they're willing to go one step at a time. These step folds show a fold for each step in creating the finished product. This allows people to fold without reading. Even people of other languages, like Dutch or German, can learn," said Hayes as she installed the step fold display boards in the showcases.

"Origami has a very broad range, from simple designs I can fold in 15 minutes to ones like the dinosaur skeleton by Dr. Hisachi Ogata of Windsor that involved many hours over several days. There's also a broad range in the papers, from heavy wallpaper to foil, construction paper with surface decoration, and recycled papers."

"You don't have to buy fancy papers," she added. "I save my junk mail. We also like to recycle in a creative way: brown shopping bags, menus from a Chinese restaurant."

Brill and Hayes also design their own papers courtesy of modern technology. "We work with a computer program that Bob wrote," Hayes said.

Pezzat's modular boxes sport papers made by photocopying artworks by artist M.C. Escher.

Robin Wilt uses paper that mirrors money. The artist/elementary school art teacher has installed a hat shop as part of the origami exhibit. Multimedia hats with cranes, Chinese stars, peacock, fish, boat and duck provoke thought and humor.

"There's so little whimsy in life today. When you wear hats, it's role playing. I was thinking about all the roles people have today. I think everybody will look at it and think something different," Wilt said.

Another fun display by Wilt is a wood folding screen filled with birds folded by AASO members. The screens feature laser-cut trees and evergreens designed by Wilt and produced by Lauri Mendenhall of Prototype Design in Ann Arbor. "Screens are a way of playing with walls. I get so bored sometimes looking at walls."

Guns and planes made from folded paper money play on irony in another display by Wilt. "Money and guns and bodies, they just all sort of go together."

Other AASO exhibitors in the show are Debbie Jackson, Ken Kowamura, Don Shall, Sandy Toivonen, Betty Baird, Larry Beidermand, Gretchen Dieterle, Bill Pollar, Thomas Kehrer and Lee and Sharon Pettiford.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

my real love. I enjoy the layering of fibers. You can take it abstract or realistic."

Carpenter is an old hand when it comes to art. She has studied in Paris, France, and Florence, Italy. Her current work, on exhibit at Accessible Art Gallery in Ann Arbor, is handmade paper made from flax fibers pressed and felted together. The sheets are then painted, dyed and stitched to form the finished piece. Some sheets are shaped over wire armatures to form relief-like structures.

Carpenter says people should take the class "just for fun. It's going to be a wonderful way to explore your own sense of creativity. It will be creative exploration for beginners and more advanced artists too. You don't have to have five years of life drawing."

"Handmade Paper" begins Feb. 19. Classes run 10 a.m. to noon for eight Saturdays. The cost is $51 for adults and $19 for seniors.

Once you've made the paper, the creativity continues as Newbourne teaches you how to paint bamboo, birds and flowers using Chinese brush painting.

"It's an immediate satisfaction to see something spring to the paper as soon as you put it down, as soon as you learn the basic strokes to have a representation of a flower or bird," said Newbourne, who did graduate studies at Zhehiang Academy of Art in Hangchow, China.

"Chinese brush painting has been around for centuries. What I teach is very traditional. It's an art of the inner mind. It is not painting a rose exactly as it's seen then, but as you see it in your mind's eye. There's no previous art experience necessary because they're going to see in a completely new way."

The class, for beginners and intermediates, teaches all the basic techniques of loading the brush, using the rice paper, and basic strokes using Western tube watercolor, Sumi ink, Oriental brushes and rice paper.

"They'll be learning how to do the calligraphy of the strokes. At the ends of 12 weeks, students will know enough to paint three or four different kinds of flowers, two or three birds and bamboo."

Newbourne has studied at New York University and State University of New York at Stoneybrook. She has exhibited in onewoman shows at the Scarab Club in Detroit, the Southfield Civic Center and the Henry Ford Centennial Library. She teaches at the Creative Arts Center in Pontiac and at annual workshops in Traverse City.

"Chinese Brush Painting" begins Feb. 9. Classes are held noon to 2:40 p.m. for 12 Wednesdays. Cost is $82 for adults and $17 for seniors.

To register for either of the classes or for more information, call Schoolcraft College's CES department: 462-4400.

Home & Garden Show opens

Start thinking spring at the second annual Spring Home & Garden Show, which opens Feb. 3 at the Novi Expo Center.

"The show will inspire your creativity for springtime home and garden projects," said Robert R. Jones, president of the Farmington Hills-based Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) and Robert R. Jones Associates in West Bloomfield.

BASM is the event sponsor. "The show brings together a myriad of products for the home and garden all under one roof," Jones said.

The Spring Home & Garden Show features more than 200 exhibiters displaying the latest technology, products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, yards, gardens, remodeling, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, electronics, heating, cooling and appliances.

Special highlights at the show include NBC's Today Show gardening commentator Jeff Ball's "Yardening Academy" and lawn care information, demonstrations on decorating, home repair and remodeling, the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association gardens and a Treasure Chest contest with daily prizes.

The Spring Home & Garden Show will be open through Feb. 6. The Novi Expo Center is at I-96 and Novi Road.

Show hours are 2-10 p.m. Thursday and Friday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $5 for adults; $3 for seniors and children 6-12; children younger than 6 are admitted free.

Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack/A&P for $8. Ample parking is at the Novi Expo Center for a fee. For more information, call (810) 737-4478.

■ NEW BROKER

Cuffe

In 1992, the same year he received the Graduate, Realtors Institute designation, Cuffe logged more than $2 million in real estate sales. In 1991, he was awarded Top Listing Agent.

■ LOAN ORIGINATIONS
On Dec. 20, Troy-based Standard Federal Bank reached $4 billion in single-family home mortgate loan originations.

This level of mortgage loan activity is the highest ever in the bank's 100-year history. It surpasses last year's record volume of $3.6 billion.

"We are proud to say that we did everything possible to service the thousands of people who wanted to refinance their mortgage or purchase a new home during this year of record-low interest rates," said Thomas R. Ricketts, chairman and president.

Standard Federal Bank operates 168 banking centers, eight home lending centers and 216 automated teller machines throughout Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. Its total assets now approximate $10.9 billion.

■ VP-LEASING
The Southfield-based PREMISYS Real Estate Services has named William M. Pankhurst as vice president of leasing for PREMISYS Marketing Services, an affiliate of The Prudential Realty Group.

Pankhurst is a licensed real estate broker and associate broker. He is a member of the National Association of Corporate Real Estate Executives.

Agents must disclose whom they represent

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

It used to be that virtually all real estate agents legally represented the seller, whether all the parties to a transaction knew it or not.

Even those agents who would drive buyers around to open houses or search multilisting services on behalf of purchasers were, in the eyes of the law without a formal agreement to the contrary, agents for the seller.

Many buyers didn't know that. And because they didn't, confidential information divulged to "their" agent, especially during negotiations on price, would have to be relayed by "their" agent to the seller.

Things have changed.

A new state law that took effect this month requires all agents to put their cards on the table up front and disclose to buyers and sellers exactly whom they represent.

"I think it's a good way to go," said Noel Bittinger, an associate broker with Re/Max Crossroads Realty in Canton.

"Before you even take a purchaser out, even if you meet at a home, now you have to establish a relationship whether they employ you or you're working as a sub-agent for the seller," she said.

"In the long run, it absolutely will be easier," Bittinger said of the new law in relation to disclosures, past understandings and commission payments. "Now, it's difficult for everyone to understand."

"It clearly identifies who has what role," said Marsha Temirian, general manager for Century 21 West in Novi. "You either represent yourself as an agent transaction coordinator, you represent the seller or you represent the buyer."

Commissions probably will continue to be paid by the seller and divided as they currently are among agents involved in a sale whether they represent the buyer or seller, Bittinger speculated.

Buyers would formally write in a purchase offer that the commission would be split among all agents involved as is the current custom, Temirian projected.

Sellers reluctant to pay the commission of the buyer's agent gently need to be reminded of the primary goal of the transaction and that they probably won't pay a higher commission than they would under the old set-up, Bittinger said.

"I explain they're still getting their house sold. That's the point here," she explained.

It would be in the best interest of sellers to deal with buyers' agents, Temirian said, so as to broaden the scope of potential purchasers.

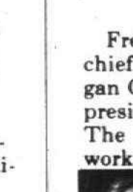
Cindy Jacobson-Boudreau, sales manager for Century 21 Town & Country in Rochester, said she's always been clear about agency, but concedes that buyers may not have been.

"I don't think it was ever explained to buyers," she said. "Unless there was a problem, they never really had to think about it. I told everyone I worked with the seller is paying my commission. You never really know what someone else is doing or saying.

"This is going to be a tough few months for everyone to get used to new forms and talking about the job we always do," Jacobson-Boudreau said. "After the first few months, I think it will be business as usual."

Area broker leading international group

Fred T. Madley, president and chief executive officer of The Michigan Group, Livonia, has assumed the presidency of Chicago-based RELO/ The International Relocation Network.



Madley

The Brighton resident will head RELO, the oldest and largest real estate referral network, for a one-year term.

As RELO's vice president and annual conference chair in 1993, Madley played a key role in shaping the group's policy and procedures at a time of change within RELO.

Under Madley's guidance, the 300-agent firm has obtained megabroker status in the real estate industry as noted by National Relocation and Real Estate Magazine.

Madley is active in local construction and land development of residential condominiums and commercial space. He owns Reliance Mortgage Co., a full-service mortgage company.

Locally, Madley is a member of the Ann Arbor, Birmingham and North Oakland associations of Realtors as well as the Western Wayne Oakland County Association of Realtors.

Appraisal company marks its 10th year

The Complete Appraisal Co., a Southfield residential appraisal company, has completed its 10th year of serving mortgage lenders in 41 southern Michigan counties.

Almost 40,000 appraisal reports have been delivered in 10 years to 300 local and national lenders, including many of this area's largest financial institutions, president Hugh Gedrich said.

The company has 28 licensed or certified appraisers and a team of 14 support staff.

It plans to double its current 6,500 reports per year within the next two years by introducing new computer technology and adding more aggressive marketing of its products to the new national lenders entering the southern Michigan market.

The Complete Appraisal Co. offers business valuation, expert witness, and commercial and residential appraisal services.

Detached condos fill Pinewoods West

A condominium subdivision with detached units in Farmington Hills is going up on the site of a former nursery. The developer, Sam Yaldo, envisions a community containing a mixture of families with children and retirees.

The number, size and variety of trees attract your attention as you enter the grounds of Pinewoods West Condominiums, under construction off Freedom Road, east of Drake, in Farmington Hills.

Pines, sweet gum, walnuts and others dot the 10½-acre parcel, where six models in the detached-site condominium subdivision also rise from the earth, the site of a former nursery.

Plans call for 46 units ranging from a 1,300-square-foot ranch with two bedrooms listed at $144,900 to a 1,900-square-foot, four-bedroom colonial at $165,900.

"It's a nice, little community," Yaldo said. "I deliberately designed it as a mix so that people have an option and there will be a sense of community, different ways of thinking."

That means catering to couples and singles whose children have left the nest, but still return periodically with the grandchildren to visit. It also means including a product for growing families.

"We have units with a first-floor master and additional bedrooms upstairs. We also have units with up to four bedrooms," Yaldo said.

"All houses are full basement, two-car garage with concrete driveways," he said. "They all have a G.E. range and dishwasher, R-30 insulation in the ceilings and at least one cathedral ceiling.

"We have brick at the front and maintenance-free, vinyl siding or

Build your own PC at Dominow

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Got a screwdriver and three free hours? You can build your own computer at Dominow Computer Electronic of Southfield, saving hundreds of dollars off the price of a new personal computer.

Dominow Computer Electronic, 26317 W. 12 Mile at Northwestern Highway, is the first store of its kind in the Midwest.

Conceived in 1986 and based in Fremont, Calif., the Dominow computer centers had grown to annual sales of $8 million by 1990. More than 60 employees help customers build their own computers in 30 different locations throughout California. (The Michigan wing of the company adds a "w" to the name to differentiate itself from the well-established Domino's Pizza.)

Arthur Shi of Southfield and Laura Wang of Troy opened Dominow Computer Electronic in Southfield last month and are eager to spread the news of their unusual business venture. If all goes well, they hope to open additional locations in Novi and Troy.

Shi explained that the move to the Midwest was a natural since the Big Three automakers are based here along with thousands of technical professionals. He answers questions about the Dominow concept in the following edited excerpts from an in-store interview:

Q: Why would anyone want to build their own computer?

Shi: There are actually four good reasons to build your own computer: to overcome the fear of a computer, for the pride of accomplishment, for the true budget conscious to save money, to gain the knowledge of how to fix a problem if something goes wrong with your computer.

Q: How does Dominow get you started with such a project?

Shi: Customers come in, preferably after making an appointment, and sit down at a work station in our store. A trained technician helps them begin building their personal computer from a competitvely priced a la carte menu of name-brand components. It's really not that hard. There are only eight to 10 parts to assemble. We provide the electric screwdriver; it's all the equipment that's needed.

A computer is not as complicated as some people think. At Dominow, we want to take the mystery, the fear, out of using computers for people of all ages. And we do not charge for the help, training and advice we provide. It is all part of the Dominow program. We build the trust of our customers and, hopefully, they will tell their family and friends about our services.

■ A computer is not as complicated as some people think. At Dominow, we want to take the mystery, the fear, out of using computers for people of all ages.'

Arthur Shi
Dominow Electronic

When you build your own computer or watch me build one for you, you see how it works, what goes into it, you understand your computer much better than if you buy it at a store, take it home, pull it out of the box and plug it in.

Q: Who are your customers?

Shi: We have whole families who come in to watch dad build the computer. We have had children as young as 11 years old and senior citizens. We are targeting small businesses that need to save money on computer networks. We can get them started. We can teach their employees how to use and upgrade their systems.

Q: What kind of computer components do you sell?

Shi: We have all the name brands at good prices because we buy in large quantities for our chain stores. Some manufacturers we sell include Conner, Western Digital, IBM, Intel, T.A.K, to name a few.

Q: What about software?

Shi: We have a good selection of software as well as DOS and Windows. We help with the installation to make sure the system is up and running before you take it with you.

Q: Discuss your price structure.

Shi: The computer business is very competitive right now. Our price margins are set at about 15 percent. You can build your own 486/66 computer with 250 megabyte hard drive, 14-inch SVGA monitor for $1,173. That's about $200 to $300 less than a new computer at an appliance store and we teach you how to use it for free. Similar savings can be found when adding a CD-ROM to a system or upgrading an old PC.

Q: What other services does Dominow Computer Electronic provide?

Shi: We service, sell and rent computers, TVs, VCRs, CD players, cameras, fax machines and office electronics. We can help you upgrade an old PC to an IBM 486/66 MHZ. We remanufacture copier and laser toner cartridges. We give free estimates on any electronic equipment repairs. We are open seven days a week and provide 24-hour telephone technical support. As I said before, as a new company, we want to build our customers'

He joined the university in 1989 and has been on the faculty of Oakland University and the University of Kentucky.

CLARIFICATION

As a followup to a Suburban Stars announcement Jan. 13, Lindhout Associates Architects of Livonia and Brighton is under contract to build a new church facility for Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Wayne County, according to a spokeswoman for William P. wood siding as an option at the same price," Yaldo said. "We have alternate elevations for windows outside and every roof line is different."

The Pine model, a ranch with a master suite and den or second bedroom, is getting a lot of attention from prospective buyers, Yaldo said. The unit also contains a dining room that runs into a family room, a kitchen with nook and two full baths.

"The Walnut is the Pine with a loft which can be a huge bedroom or two with a bath upstairs," Yaldo said.

Three other two-story models are available. Options on all models include air conditioning (starting at $1,950), a fireplace ($1,500) and skylights ($750).

Pinewoods West is Yaldo's second major residential subdivision. He built Pinewood Condominium, a 40-unit attached community, near downtown Farmington.

Pinewoods West also started out as attached condominiums, but Yaldo had a change of heart.

"We felt the market would be more responsive to site condos, individual houses. People feel better with boundaries, not connected. People feel they have more privacy," he said.

Amenities like pools and a clubhouse won't be included at Pinewoods West for liability reasons, he said, projecting monthly maintenance fees at $25.

"Farmington Hills is a good area," Yaldo said. "It has good schools. The location sells itself. It's close to all freeways and close to all shopping areas."

The current property tax rate for schools, municipal and county services in Farmington Hills is $50.70 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation (half of market value).

The owners of a house worth $145,000 at Pinewoods West would now pay $3,675 annually in property taxes, but that probably will change as state lawmakers deal with new school financing proposals.

"Everybody loves the location, access to major thoroughfares," said Jane Gonzales, sales director. "There's a lot of wooded lots. These are detached condos. Actually, they look like houses."

Residents also should appreciate the flexibility of cutting their own lawns or paying extra on their monthly maintenance fee for that service, Gonzales added.

"You're backed up to a school (Longacre Elementary), so you know there won't be any more activity behind you," said Joe Mott, construction superintendent at the site.

And the models, themselves?

"I think people like the openness effect rather than closed in feeling," Mott said.

The floor plan and high ceilings prompted Lou and Peggy Ramos to buy a three-bedroom colonial.

"I think it was a combination of location and value we feel we were getting here," Lou said. "Before my current career, I was in construction. The quality of construction going on (at Pinewoods West) was very good. That was a factor."

John and Dolores Hamilton intend to move from a colonial in Livonia to a unit with the master bedroom on the first floor and two bedrooms and bath upstairs.

"We had been looking around for a two-story house that had the master bedroom on the first floor," John said. "We're getting up in years and you have to look to the future. Upstairs will be like an apartment for our son, Bruce.

"Location was another big factor," John said. "We wanted to stay in this general area."

Allnet offers discounts to AAA clients

Bingham Farms-based Allnet Communication Services is offering AAA Michigan members greater savings with an exclusive membership benefits package.

The package includes residential long-distance telephone discounts up to 50 percent off competitors' rates, a "thank you" bonus up to $25 each year for joining and a monthly 5-percent rebate off all long-distance calls, paid directly to AAA members annually.

"A bonus of up to $25 will be applied directly to the member's phone bill," said James Zwick, AAA marketing director.

"Members who sign up with Allnet also will actually receive a check equal to 5 percent of their total annual domestic long distance and cellular bill. Members can use the money to pay their annual AAA membership dues, or simply cash the check," said Steve Canton, Allnet vice president.

Other member highlights of the AAA/Allnet "Show Your Card" long-distance program include:

- Free residential 800 number, a benefit for children living away from home.
- Free AAA Calling Card, with free voice mail, speed dialing, call delivery and more.
- Additional 10 percent discount for usage above $150 in any month.
- No charge to switch (Allnet pays the long-distance switching charge).
- One invoice for all services (home long distance, 800 number, calling card and cellular service).
- Convenient 24-hour customer service.

AAA Michigan members can call their AAA/Allnet "Show Your Card" representative at 1-800-309-4AAA to learn more about the program.

AAA Michigan is the nation's third-largest auto club affiliated with the American Automobile Association. The Auto Club is a non-profit corporation that provides safety, travel, recreational, insurance and financial services to its 1.5 million members statewide.

trust and confidence. We are user-friendly.

Q: What has been your path to your present position?

Shi: I grew up in Beijing, China, and survived Mao Tse Tung's regime. My sisters and I, like all Chinese children under Mao, had to stop going to school when he closed all the schools. My father was an engineer and my mother a professor. At this time, teachers were beaten to death or jailed and the intelligentsia was tortured. My father was put in a concentration camp by the Red Guard.

My sisters and I were sent to live in the countryside. But we kept learning, reading books, and when Mao died and education was re-established by new leader Deng Xiaoping, we passed the tests to enter college. My younger sister became a medical doctor. My older sister became an associate professor, and I have a masters degree in industrial engineering from Western Illinois University.

I like to use my hands and work on electronic projects, so I guess I am a natural for working with computers. I also like to share my expertise to benefit others.

Q: How do customers reach Dominow Computer Electronic?

Shi: Call 810-357-7710. Our hours of operation are Monday through Saturday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday 1-5 p.m. We are in the Mayfair Shops behind Kinko's Copy Center, a half-mile north of I-696 at 12 Mile and Northwestern Highway.

Chrysler, Palace team up in professional soccer

The Palace in Auburn Hills has teamed with Chrysler Corp. in naming the new indoor soccer team the Detroit Neon, after Chrysler's award-winning new car.

The franchise will compete in the Continental Indoor Soccer League, a summer league with home games played at The Palace from June to September.

"This is the first time a major league professional sports team has adopted the name of a major corporation or its product in the United States to our knowledge," said Tom Wilson, president of The Palace/Pine Knob Music Theatre/Detroit Pistons/Detroit Neon. "An agreement of this magnitude has unique marketing potential."

The Chrysler Neon was unveiled during the first week in January.

"Obviously, Chrysler is very excited with this sports marketing partnership," said Jim Julow, Chrysler's marketing director. "One of the most attractive aspects of our partnership was the commitment of the team to metro Detroit through youth programs and clinics, expanding the broad base of soccer fans in the area. Our working relationship with the Detroit Pistons and The Palace over the years only cemented the agreement in our eyes."

"I can't stress enough the importance of this marketing partnership to opening the doors for all the exposure it can bring the sport," added Wilson, "Because of this agreement, youth programs and clinics will send the stars of soccer into the community. Television and radio coverage will bring Neon games to millions. Every home game will be broadcast on either WKBD Fox TV-50 or PASS. This partnership will allow ticket prices to be kept low, making a Neon game an attractive choice for a family outing."

This sports marketing partnership provides Chrysler with radio and TV rights, signage, merchandising opportunities and dealer involvement. The franchise will reap the benefits of the exposure and success of its namesake automobile.

The Palace and Pine Knob are owned and operated by Arena Associates Inc. Since opening in 1988, The Palace has been voted "Arena of the Year" by Performance magazine five consecutive years and by Pollstar magazine twice.

■ OPEN NOVI OB/GYN

Katz

Sinai Hospital of Detroit has opened a new obstetrics and gynecology office at 24230 Karim, near 10 and Haggerty, in Novi. Dr. Lon Katz of Livonia and Dr. Andrea Jill Eisenberg of Royal Oak, both Sinai physicians, will practice at Novi OB/GYN.

Eisenberg

Both Katz and Eisenberg finished their residency and internship programs in obstetrics and gynecology at Sinai. They graduated from Wayne State University School of Medicine. They are Junior Fellows of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Sinai is based in northwest Detroit but has more than 30 satellite offices and facilities in Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Farmington Hills and Livonia.

■ INDOOR SHOWROOM

Stu Evans Lincoln-Mercury has opened a 60-car showroom at its Garden City dealership, 32000 Ford Road. The new showroom enables customers to shop in 70-degree comfort, free from the winter chill.

Evans used an area of the building immediately behind the main showroom to house the additional display vehicles.

■ HONOR PODIATRIST

Dr. Kenneth Lawrence, a podiatrist with offices in Redford, Livonia, Farmington Hills and Detroit, was honored for 25 years of service to The American Podiatric Medical Association at the 1993 Michigan Podiatric Medical Association (MPMA) annual congress.

Lawrence of West Bloomfield is MPMA's past president and former treasurer of the southeast division. He's also past president and a member of the Michigan division of the American College of Foot and Ankle Surgeons.

■ ON SECURITY COMMISSION

Gov. John Engler appointed Albert Calille of Plymouth to a four-year term on the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Calille is counsel for Ameritech with responsibility for general litigation, environmental, labor, personnel, benefits, real estate, contracts and general corporate matters. He's also chairman of the board of directors of the Employers Unemployment Compensation Council.

■ NEW INFO BROKER

Paula M. Storm, an information specialist, has opened a new business in Canton specializing in fact-finding for attorneys, consultants and engineers. The service conducts research, telephone interviews and on-line searches in the areas of medicine, business, engineering and the sciences.

Storm has more than seven years of professional experience and formerly was assistant director and head of fee-based services for the science and engineering library at Wayne State University in Detroit.

The business is at 42437 Majestic. The telephone and fax number is 313-981-4281.

■ SELL MARINER SHARES

J. Will Paull, chairman and president of Associated Mariner Financial Group, Livonia, has signed an agreement and plan of merger for the sale of outstanding shares of Mariner to InterSecurities, Largo, Fla.

Paull will continue as chairman of Mariner and will be named to InterSecurities board of directors. Mariner will expand the sales force at its Livonia headquarters.

■ RETAIN GOLDFARB

The Flint Credit Union Advertising Program has retained Directions for Decisions, a research division of Goldfarb & Co. in Southfield, to conduct a three-phase consumer research project that will take one-year.

The Flint program is an advertising cooperative of Flint area credit unions, which are members of the Joint Advertising Board of the Michigan Credit Union League, a Goldfarb client.

■ FIRST MICHIGAN BRANCH

HealthForce, a nationally franchised temporary employment agency headquartered in Woodbury, N.Y., has opened its first Michigan office at 2890 Carpenter, Ann Arbor. The branch will provide temporary health care personnel to hospitals, health care facilities, government agencies and individuals in Wayne, Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

Cheryl Nowak is director of operations and Lorie O'Connell is medical coordinator of the Ann Arbor office. The phone number is 313-677-5800.

■ JOINS RED BALL

Modern Moving Co., a full-service mover in Livonia, is now affiliated with Indianapolis, Ind.-based American Red Ball Worldwide Movers, announced Denis Rice, Modern Moving president.

Modern Moving opened 13 years ago, offering a palletized moving and storage operation.

■ JOIN TUNNEL PROJECT

The Wayne County division of public works has selected Downriver Connection, a team of engineering consultants headed by Wade-Trim of Taylor to negotiate a contract to design the Downriver Collection System Improvements.

The improvements include a tunnnel interceptor system to be constructed through five downriver communities to the Wyandotte wastewater treatment plant. The system will end discharges of raw sewage into the Ecorse Creek and the Detroit River. Construction will start in 1997 and be operational in 2000.

The nine-mile tunnel will start at Pelham Road near I-94 and go south through Taylor, Allen Park and Southgate and east through Riverdale and Wyandotte. The $132 million project also includes a dewatering pump station, a three-mile relief sewer along Eureka Road in Taylor and a detention basin in Romulus.

The Downriver Connection is a group of 11 consulting engineering firms, including NTH Consultants, Farmington Hills and Hubbell, Roth & Clark, Bloomfield Hills.

■ ANOTHER SPEEDY

The Plenda Companies, a general contractor in Farmington Hills, has started work on a new Speedy Muffler King at 29538 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills. Target completion is mid-February.

Surendra Gorrepati, the shop's owner/operator, runs another Speedy in Canton.

■ MAILER MOVES

Effective Mailers has moved its headquarters to 1151 Allen Road, Troy. The phone number is (810) 588-9880.

■ MARKETING HEIRLOOMS

Susan Francheschi of Livonia has opened a new business called Precious Heirlooms, specializing in handmade floor-length christening gowns, christening dolls and specialty items shown by appointment only. For information, write P.O. Box 2233, Livonia 48151.

■ SANDERS NEW LOOK

Sanders' newly decorated store at Six Mile and Newburgh, Livonia is the prototype for the confectioner's other Detroit-area retail locations, says David K. Chapoton, CEO of Sanders Systems, Inc., Utica.

The all-new interior, designed by J. Wolf Associates, Farmington Hills, features subtle shades of cream with burgundy and brass accents. The store's dining area includes a new wall and ceiling, plus new hanging fixtures and fans throughout. The store is also slated for a new tile floor and tables and chairs.

This is J. Wolf's first effort for Sanders Systems. He says the updates represent the chain's "future look." Sanders, who's been serving up ice cream, topping, candy and baked goods to metro Detroiters since 1875, believes the new atmosphere creates a warm, friendly feeling, "a feeling already strongly associated with Sanders because of its longevity in the Detroit market."

Sanders Systems acquired 11 Sanders outlets in April 1993 and since then has introduced a new line of fruit butters, preserves, toppings, chocolates and flavored popcorn. The company says a new mail order program, launched around Christmas, was a marketing success.

■ FBI DONATION

World Wide Financial Services, a full-service mortgage company in Birmingham, has donated $2,000 to the FBI Agent Association's Children's Education Trust Fund, a program benefitting children of special agents killed in the line of duty. The donation is a gesture of appreciation for transferred agents who use World Wide, the lender said.

"We hope to continue a strong partnership with the bureau agents and, because partners support each other, we are contributing to a cause they believe in," said Jack Wolfe, World Wide president.

World Wide has several local locations, including offices in Bloomfield Hills, Farmington Hills and Troy.

■ JOINS ECONOMIC TALK

Lynn M. Vance, a financial planner for Mutual Service Corp., Troy, participated in the Wood Logan Academy International Economics Conference in Rome.

The five-day conference included seminars on economic issues, financial planning, risk management, 401(k) plans and investment applications for variable annuities.

■ TOP BUSINESSWOMEN

Gov. John Engler will present awards to Michigan's top 25 women business owners at an event co-sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners (NAWBO) on March 17. The event will spotlight the contributions to the economic growth of Michigan.

Honorees will be selected from the 1994 Women Owned Business Survey sent to women's organizations and chapters of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, the Small Business Association of Michigan and the Michigan chapter of the National Federation of Independent Businesses. All women-owned businesses with more than $5 million in gross revenue are eligible.

For nomination forms, contact Chinyere Neale at NAWBO, 313-396-3576. Forms must be postmarked by Jan. 31.

■ MOVE HEADQUARTERS

The new address is 31700 Research Park, P.O. Box 9636, Madison Heights. The phone number will not change.

■ KELLY AWARD

Troy-based Kelly Services, Inc. has honored Graphic Enterprises, Inc. of Detroit as Supplier of the Year.

Phil Henderson, Kelly's director of purchasing, said the commercial printer has provided a high level of quality and service since Kelly started the recognition program in 1989.

■ EUROPEAN VENTURE

DuPont in Troy will acquire 50 percent of ICI's interest in IDAC, one of Europe's top four suppliers of automotive finishes.

According to the preliminary agreement, DuPont is solely responsibility for the venture, its employees and assets, including manufacturing, research and company headquarters in Bonn, Germany.

IDAC was formed in 1988 as a joint venture between DuPont and ICI.

■ HANDLE ADVERTISING

Stone & Simons Advertising, Southfield, will handle marketing and advertising for Citizens Banking Corp., the sixth largest bank holding company in Michigan.

Citizens is the parent company of National Bank of Royal Oak.

PRODUCT DEVELOPMENT

Prince is in the business of developing ideas...designing creative products that solve problems confronting the automotive industry. We have become a recognized leader in the field of automotive interiors, setting the industry standard for excellence and innovation.

Based in Holland, Michigan, Prince is a leading supplier of interior systems for the worldwide automotive industry. Our team designs, develops and manufactures a wide range of innovative products that set the standards for quality and value. From door panels and floor consoles to integrated overhead systems, Prince is continually testing the limits of automotive technology. Currently, we have several immediate opportunities in our development area:

Model Builders: Successful candidates will have at least 2 years experience building models and prototypes. This person will be responsible for machining, fabricating and finishing a variety of prototypes utilizing various materials. Skills must include: blueprint reading, excellent communication abilities, and operation of machine tools (including milling machines, lathes, woodworking machinery, etc.). Knowledge of plastic materials is desired.

CNC Operator: Candidates should have at least 2 years experience with Hurco CNC milling machines and ultimax software. The position will be responsible for running programs generated from engineering files as well as programming at the machine to support our model building function. Materials being cut are typically plastic and aluminum. Excellent communication skills are a must.

CNC Lead Programmer: We have an opportunity available for a CNC Lead Programmer who can help us create the next generation of automotive interiors. Candidates should enjoy working in a dynamic team environment that supports and expects technical excellence at every level. In this position, you will guide a technical, self-directed work group in all areas of CAD/NC rapid prototyping. We are looking for someone with a 2-4 year technical degree and a minimum of 5 years hands-on experience toolpathing and machining first and second surface engineering models. You should have a thorough knowledge of CATIA, CAD and NC packages as well as related rapid prototyping processes. An understanding of the automotive design process would be a plus.

The successful candidates will be innovative and enjoy solving problems encountered in building and/or supporting the build of models and prototypes. First shift positions are available. As an industry leader, we offer an excellent benefits program and an exceptional environment for growth. For immediate consideration, please send a resume and salary history to: Prince Corporation, One Prince Center, Holland, MI 49423, Attn: Jean Miller. Equal Opportunity Employer.
