Fire victim offers helping hand

Debbie Dell'Orco knows well the pain caused by a house fire. Her husband and six children died in one in 1990. Now she is helping a family that lost their home.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

It's not unfamiliar territory for Debbie Dell'Orco. That's why she and other Sunflower subdivision neighbors are accepting help for the family whose home burned Monday.

"I feel for the people. So if there is something we can do, I would like to help them," said Dell'Orco, who lost her husband, Marty, and six of nine children when their house on Proctor burned in December, 1990.

Sunflower residents are accepting donations — cash donations are preferred — for the Robert Johnson family whose house on Polo burned, sending two grandparents and their 5-year-old granddaughter out into subzero temperatures.

"We had all decided to do something and with what Debbie has been through she wanted to help them anyway we can," said Lynne Eckardt, editor of the monthly subdivision newsletter, in which the effort will be publicized.

Lee and Noel Bittinger of RE/MAX Crossroads real estate are also offering a rental house to the family if they need a place to stay. "We have the possibility of one coming up within a week," Lee Bittinger said. He asks the family to call him or Noel at 453-8700.

Sunflower neighbors who are collecting donations for the family request that clothing and food not be sent. "It's nice when people donate food and clothing, but it's easier when they (the family) can just go to the store and buy what they need," Dell'Orco said.

Eckhardt said she has been unable to locate the family but is putting a notice about the effort in their mailbox, hoping they are still picking up mail.

Anyone who is interested in helping should make checks out to the Robert Johnson family in care of the Hanford Clubhouse, 45800 Hanford Road, Canton. Drop-offs are also possible. The clubhouse is open noon to 3 p.m. Mondays; 2-6 p.m. Wednesdays; or by appointment by calling 453-2022.

Firefighters from stations 1 and 2, as well as Canton police officers, responded to the late morning fire. It's believed the girl was playing with matches and a couch caught fire. When the smoke alarm activated, the grandparents could not find the girl. When she appeared at the front door and the grandparents got her safely out, emergency personnel were called.

"Thank God it was only material items that were lost," Dell'Orco said.

Initial estimates of damage to the two-story house topped $150,000. Insurance agents will later determine if the house is a total loss.

Students hear King's message of justice

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Every year, East Middle School principal Tom Workman commemorates Martin Luther King Day with a special address for his students. This year was no exception.

Martin Luther King was true to his convictions, even though his house was bombed, he was chased by dogs and ultimately, his life was taken, Workman said. "He still stuck to what he believed in. We are celebrating a very important person and a very important day in recognizing Martin Luther King."

Knowing how much the slain civil rights leader means to him, East Middle School secretaries Denise Gerisch and Karen Massey presented Workman with a painting of King, which Workman hung in a place for all to see last Monday.

The following is what Workman read to his students: "Each January we set a day aside to recognize the life and contributions of Martin Luther King Jr., who was born January 15, 1929. He is the first Afro-American to be recognized by having a national holiday named in his recognition and the youngest to receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

"In the Declaration of Independence, it was written 'all men are created equal' with rights to 'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.' This idea has come to be known as the American Dream, the dream that all citizens of the United States have an equal chance to realize their potential. That means being able to be the best we can be.

"History has clearly demonstrated that in the United States, we have not allowed all citizens to reach their potential. Racial minorities, women and the poor have been among some of the people restrained from realizing their dream.

"In 1954, Martin Luther King emerged as a national leader of peace and justice in the effort to win equality for minority Americans. Dr. King helped to focus the nation's attention, and his courage and non-violent philosophy gave people faith and hope to work peacefully for a change in our country's laws.

"He was arrested for every trumped-up charge imaginable. He was denied his right to a seat on a public bus in Montgomery, Ala. His house was bombed, he was jailed for sitting at a department store lunch counter, he was sprayed by water hoses and attacked by dogs, all because he believed black children and adults should have equal access to schools, libraries, playgrounds and

Workers' transit problems meeting topic

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

If transportation is a problem for your employees, there's a meeting and a possible solution for you.

The business community is invited to a special meeting organized by the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation, the Canton Chamber of Commerce and the Canton Community Foundation.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 9, at the Bailey Recreation Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland.

"It's been 10 years since anyone has looked at the SMART routes," said Mike Duggan, SMART interim manager. "We want to restructure our routes to meet their needs. We need input from the business community. These routes were drawn up when there was virtually no development along the I-275 corridor."

SMART has received a $9 million federal grant designed to move people to jobs. SMART also has a continuing program, "Get a Job, Get a Ride," also designed to bolster employment by providing transportation. There's also talk of a merger with DOT.

Some route drivers tell Duggan that riders get off the nearest stop to their job and still have to walk another half-mile or more. "No one ever picks up the phone and calls me about these things," Duggan said.

SMART now has a route down Ford Road to Meijer at the corner of Canton Center, as well as along Michigan Ave.

"There's some definite needs in this community," said Linda Shapona, Canton Chamber of Commerce Executive director. "The busing system this far out isn't concentrated."

The meeting in Westland is one of a number of meetings throughout Macomb, Oakland and the suburbs of Wayne County. Shapona said SMART officials want to know how existing routes are working out and where more are needed and in what direction.

"Our unemployment rate is above the national average. We need access to the work force. When companies are hiring at entry levels, they find that a lot of people don't have cars," Duggan said. "We have a lot of young adults living with their families who don't have cars, as well as young couples who have only one car."

Duggan said there's talk about operating vans when there's more than just a few employees heading toward a certain location. "I need to know who the businesses are and what are their needs. If employees use the service or might want to use it, this is their chance to be heard."

■ SMART has received a $9 million federal grant designed to move people to jobs. SMART also has a continuing program, "Get a Job, Get a Ride," also designed to bolster employment by providing transportation.

For information, business leaders, chamber members, employees or residents may contact SMART planning director Dan Dirks at 223-2100.

Planning commission meets

The Canton Township Planning Commission will continue its discussion of land use goals, objectives and policies at 7 p.m. tonight in township hall, 1150 S. Canton Center. Anyone may attend.

Yack to speak

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack will present the state of the township address at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 2, at Fellows Creek Golf Club, 2936 Lotz.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce, which hosts the event, is still looking for sponsors for the breakfast. The Roman Forum and Promotional Planning and Development Group already have signed on.

CANTON CONNECTION

"We're looking for good attendance," said chamber director Linda Shapona.

To make reservations for the $12 breakfast, call the chamber at 453-4040. The address will replace the chamber's monthly membership meeting in February.

Taxes and licenses

Winter taxes are due by Feb. 14 at the treasurer's office, 1150 S. Canton Center. Taxpayers who pay Feb. 15-28 will be assessed a 3-percent fee.

Licenses for dogs are available in the clerk's office or by mail. The $5 license can be obtained with proof of rabies vaccination. Licenses can be purchased through March 31. For more information, call 397-5365.

Hall of fame

Time is winding down to nominate residents for the annual Canton Community Achievers and Hall of Fame awards.

Forms should be submitted to the township clerk's office by Jan. 28. They are available at township hall, Canton Public Library, Canton Chamber of Commerce office, Palermo's, Big Boy and the Canton Community Foundation office.

Award winners will be honored at a ceremony in March. For more information, call 397-5472.

Teacher remembered for caring

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

It's a scene that readily comes to mind: students bolting out the door into the June sunshine on the last day of school.

That didn't happen in David Thomann's classroom at Pioneer Middle School. "I watched last year on the last day of school. Kids lined up to say goodbye to him. You didn't see that with everyone else," said Chuck Portelli, president of the Plymouth-Canton teachers union.

Teacher dies: David Thomann died in Pioneer Middle School of a heart attack.

Plymouth resident Thomann, 48, who was diabetic, died Jan. 18 of a heart attack in a fellow teacher's classroom at Pioneer. He was born March 2, 1945, in Highland Park.

"I talked to him at 2:30, and by 3:30 he was dead," said Portelli. The two spoke about a memo from an administrator, "nothing of significance. We laughed and joked about a couple things."

Efforts to revive Thomann, who taught physical education and math, weren't successful. EMS workers arrived within minutes but couldn't establish a pulse and had difficulty creating an airway. He was taken to St. Mary Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Thomann, who was with the district for 17 years, was a tutor for the University of Michigan athletic study table and a member of the Livonia Masonic Lodge. He was an assistant football coach for Plymouth Canton High School, and for Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ypsilanti high schools. He worked as a defensive line coach and a defensive coordinator.

Plymouth-Canton Superintendent John Hoben said he knew Thomann as a high school ballplayer when Thomann and his brother, longtime Salem basketball coach Fred Thomann, played for Taylor Center High School. "They are a fine family. The dad and mom were staunch followers of athletics," Hoben said.

Pat Fitzpatrick and Jerry Ostoin, colleagues of Thomann's, said their friendship with Thomann dates to the late 1960s at Willow Run schools, where Fred won the state basketball championships. The Thomanns, Ostoin and Fitzpatrick taught together at Willow Run. "Dave was a good guy," said Ostoin, Salem High School principal. "He had built-in respect, kind of like Fred."

"He cared a lot about kids," said Fitzpatrick, an area coordinator at Salem.

Fred Thomann said of his brother, "He was well-respected and well-liked. He did a nice job, with his teaching and his outside interests. He was probably closer to his students than the staff members he worked with. He loved to make sure kids got what they needed."

Thomann was an outstanding football coach, and a skilled golfer and woodworker. "Those became his passion. He loved the game (golf)," his brother said.

Thomann graduated from Taylor Center High School and Eastern Michigan University. He attended Adrian College and Northern Michigan University. He also worked for Hostess Catering.

Thomann was direct and open. "Once he made a decision, that was the way it was," said Fred Thomann. "It was a very firm set of standards he adhered to. He didn't deviate much from the direction he was going in. He viewed his friendships very strongly, and often times there were disagreements and often times different directions were taken.

"Still, the friendships were there. He had a tremendous amount of respect for people," he said.

Thomann is survived by his wife, Kathryn of Plymouth, daughter, Tanya, sister, Gloria Shelton of Farmington Hills, and mother, Beatrice of Taylor. Thomann, who was cremated, was buried Friday from Vermeulen Funeral Home in Plymouth, less than half a mile from Pioneer Middle School.

Officiating was the Rev. Harvey Heneveld. Memorials may be made in Thomann's memory to the American Diabetes Association.

Carrier of Month

Honoree: Nicole Young, daughter of George and Sherry Young of Canton, was named Carrier of the Month by the Canton Observer. Nicole, 13, an Observer news carrier since February 1991, is an eighth grader at Central Middle School. Her favorite subjects are social studies and band. She has one brother, Andy, 11. Nicole's hobbies are music, playing keyboard, clarinet, and percussion. Her plans include working in the music industry after going to college. She likes the money she receives every month from her route and feels she has gained confidence in dealing with people. She has also learned responsibility.

Mothers to gather

Mothers in the Canton community are invited to participate in a Moms Therapy Group beginning Feb. 12 through April 9. Child care will be provided at the Saturday afternoon sessions.

Therapy issues to be discussed in the group include relationship problems with a significant other, past and present relationships with mothers, managing relationships at work, coping with divorce and loss, and understanding relationships with children. The sessions will run 2:30-4 p.m.

The fee will be based on a sliding scale of ability to pay. The program will be facilitated by Pat Younce in conjunction with Catholic Social Services and Canton Family Services.

Intake assessments for potential group members will be conducted Saturday, Feb. 5. Anyone interested in more information about the program should contact Lisa Shriver, intake worker for Canton Family Services at the Canton Community Foundation, 981-3002.

Diabetes group to meet

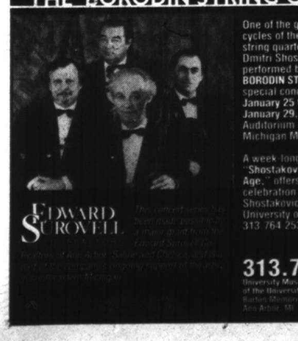

A diabetes support group will meet 7-8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 9, in the auditorium of St. Mary Hospital, southwest corner of Levan and Five Mile roads in Livonia.

Dentist Melvin Gilbert will speak on "Periodontal Disease and Preventive Dental Care for Diabetes." There is no charge to attend the meeting, and advance registration is not required.

EXERCISE & AGING
If you are age 70 and beyond, what exercise is best for you? Fatigue in the afternoon, or after 2-3 hours shopping, is part of the aging process. You should not expect stamina sufficient to allow you to keep up with children in their 40-50's and grandchildren in their teens to thirties.
Examine traditions you have set up for family and friends. You may need to change responsibility for large meals at Thanksgiving and Christmas, or for housing, feeding and entertaining the extended family to ensure reunions and renewal of kinship. You should consider slowing the tempo of travel and business.
As for personal exercise, biking is dangerous, and treadmilling boring. Swimming is excellent but incurs expense, requires transportation, can prove a hazard when you move over wet marble floors, and because of competing uses, offers only a limited schedule. In contrast, walking is sound medically and adapts to your circumstances readily.
If you walk 20 minutes a day at a pace vigorous for you but not pressing, you are acting appropriately to maintain the function of your heart, lungs, joints, bones and muscles. Go outdoors when weather permits, to malls when the hazards of winter prevail, or in the home if no other alternative is at hand.

New funeral home opens

Canton's second funeral home — McCabe Funeral Home Inc. — is now open.

"We're excited to be here," said Larry Sebold, director of community relations for the McCabe Funeral Home-Canton Chapel.

With the help of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, the McCabe family and associates hosted a ribbon-cutting ceremony and tours of the two-story facility at 851 Canton Center Road Thursday afternoon.

The 12,000-square-foot English Tudor funeral home includes a chapel, rooms for families, a casket showroom in which 27 caskets of varying prices are displayed, embalming room and offices.

"There's quite a bit of room for expansion," Sebold said. The funeral home owns additional property and the McCabes plan a second-phase, one-story expansion in several years.

In the 1800s, funeral home founder Francis McCabe was a postal employee in Detroit until he bought a funeral home from another mortician for $1, Sebold said.

Kevin McCabe, chief executive officer of the business, is the fourth generation of the McCabe family in the funeral business. His father, L. David McCabe, opened the Farmington Hills facility, which is the headquarters, in 1971. The Detroit branch was closed in 1989.

Both Kevin and L. David McCabe live in Farmington Hills with their families.

McCabe Family Services is offering special presentations by grief counselor Elaine Burton at the funeral home. The program, "Living with the loss of a loved one," is scheduled for 7:15 p.m. Tuesdays, Feb. 15, March 22, April 19, May 24 and June 21. For more information, contact the McCabe Funeral Home at 981-4530.

Man faces charges

A Westland tow truck driver appeared in Plymouth District Court on Thursday on a charge of stealing money from a car he towed to the Plymouth Township police back lot.

A not guilty plea was entered on behalf of Pat Wisenbaugh, 47, of Westland by 35th District Judge John MacDonald at Wisenbaugh's arraignment on the charge of larceny over $100.

Police allege that the tow truck driver took $210 in a wallet left between the front seats of the car on Dec. 23. A preliminary exam on the charge is scheduled for Friday in district court.

The maximum penalty on the felony charge is five years in prison and a $2,500 fine. Following his arraignment, the man was lodged in the Wayne County Jail on $500 bond.

Exposure

As temperatures hovered below zero early Friday, a woman spotted a man park his dark Ford Tempo outside her house on Newporte, get out of the car, stand in front of it, expose himself and masturbate, according to a report filed with Plymouth Township police.

The incident was reported at 12:52 a.m. The woman told police she went to her window when she heard the car pull up, then left the window to call police when the man exposed himself. She told police she did not see the man drive away.

She described the man as white, aged 20-40 and wearing a black plaid shirt or coat.

Soon after the incident, police stopped a man who appeared to fit the description, but the woman said she couldn't tell if he was the offender and he was released, the police report said.

Drive for third judgeship gains steam

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

To deal more effectively with a growing caseload at the 35th District Court in Plymouth, the court's advisory board is renewing efforts to win state funding for a third full-time judge.

In 1990, the state court administrator recommended adding a third judge at the court, and the state Legislature also approved it. The court handles cases from the Canton, Plymouth and Northville communities.

But the local governments who administer the court decided to postpone the creation of the position until a third courtroom was built.

The local units agreed to the new judgeship in 1992, but the Legislature balked due to a budget crisis.

In recent months, legislators have grappled with plans to change the property tax system. They have yet to set aside the money necessary to pay for new judgeships in the state.

"We haven't heard from the Legislature. They have to appropriate the money for a third judge," said 35th District Judge John MacDonald.

"It's certainly been recommended by the (state) supreme court, and the need is certainly there," he said.

In 1992, the caseload per judge at the 35th District Court was 20,140 compared with the statewide average of 11,138.

Now, "The caseload is basically the same, it dropped a little bit in the past year by 5 or 10 percent. That still more than justifies the position," MacDonald said.

State Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, said the Legislature will look at paying for the judgeships "in the whole context of the governor's budget."

"With the growth in Plymouth and Northville, there's clearly need for a third judge. It's a matter of whether it will be a budget-buster," he said.

Last year, the court completed a renovation creating a third courtroom, where part-time third Judge Charles Kaufman presides. "He's here two, two and a half days a week," MacDonald said.

Word on whether the appropriation will be approved should come "I think within the next month," MacDonald said.

Should the money be appropriated, candidates for the position with a $98,500 annual salary would be required to file petitions to run by May 10.

An August primary would be held, followed by a general election in November. The new judge would take his or her place on the bench in January 1995.

MacDonald said a four-year term would be created initially for the position, and would change to six years in succeeding terms so judicial elections would be staggered every two years in the district.

Columnist has praise for the new mayor of Detroit

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

Detroit News columnist Jon Pepper has some thoughts: Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer must restructure city government; the Tigers have to stay in Detroit; and it's near impossible to figure out what's going on with school financing.

"He I think has a perspective to put things in writing that I have bouncing in the back of my head," said Wayne County Commissioner Bryan Amann who introduced Pepper to the Canton Economic Club Wednesday.

Pepper praised Archer's urging of Detroiters to be self-reliant by taking care of their families and their city. "Here it is three weeks later (after inauguration) and I still support him."

Faced with an $88 million deficit, Archer must restructure the government — something former Mayor Coleman Young didn't do — to reduce the costly bureaucracy and get some type of concession from unions. For that, Pepper said, Archer made a smart move in hiring retired UAW leader Doug Fraser to work with unions.

"That's a pretty smart move," Pepper said, adding that Archer is wisely distancing himself from the effort.

■ 'They (business) have to take the gloves off . . . I think we have to have something to improve the business climate and education in the state.'

Jon Pepper columnist

Pepper also predicted that Archer will eventually privatize certain city services even though there may be some opposition. "But he has to figure out a euphemism for privatization."

A new Tiger Stadium has captured Pepper's interest. "If I were king of the world, I would remove all subsidies from professional sports." Nonetheless, Pepper supports helping the Tiger organization remain in Detroit. If not Detroit, then the western Wayne suburbs would be a possibility and there's word of St. Petersburg or Tampa. "I don't think they are going to go that way," Pepper said.

The columnist, a Dearborn resident, said maintaining the Tigers in a stadium in Detroit would be a symbol of confidence in the city. "The trend of letting Detroit decline will catch up with us in the suburbs," Pepper said.

Heads nodded in agreement as Pepper discussed the impossibility of understanding school finance tax proposals. "It seems pretty clear the Legislature didn't know what they were voting for," he said.

Pepper asked what happened to Gov. John Engler's plan to reform education. He assured the audience that no action would have been taken if the governor were not facing re-election.

He encouraged the business community to become as strong a lobbyist as the Michigan Education Association. "They (business) have to take the gloves off," Pepper said. "I think we have to have something to improve the business climate and education in the state."

When asked which proposal he would choose, Pepper picked the ballot proposal, which reduces the state income tax from 4.6 to 4.4 percent and increases the sales tax. The statutory plan proposes an income tax increase and no change in sales tax. "All you export out is taxpayers," Pepper said, referring to an income tax increase.

Man gets probation for beating

By Darrell Clem
Staff Writer

A Westland man charged in the rubber mallet beating of his longtime wife has been placed on probation for three years.

Walter Philip Vansant, a 54-year-old retired radiologist, was sentenced Thursday by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Dalton Roberson.

The judge's decision came seven months after Vansant was charged with felonious assault, amid allegations by Westland police that he struck his wife of 32 years in the head with a rubber mallet on the morning of June 24. He pleaded guilty Oct. 13.

Vansant struck four blows and then held his wife to the floor for about an hour as she bled, police have said. He then phoned Westland police for help, police said.

Judge Roberson also ordered Vansant to make restitution for his wife's medical expenses, to have no contact with her and to undergo psychiatric counseling. Roberson also warned that Vansant would be jailed if he violates his probation orders.

The Vansants were in the process of getting a divorce when the wife reported being attacked while watching television in the couple's family room. She told police the attack was unprovoked.

The wife was treated at Garden City Hospital for cuts to her head. She has since moved from the residence in the 2200 block of Harvey Street, near Wayne Road and Palmer, where the incident occurred, Westland Detective Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

Vansant had been headed for trial in Recorder's Court before he decided to plead guilty Oct. 13. He was ordered to stand trial after he voluntarily gave up his right to a preliminary examination Aug. 5 in Westland 18th District Court.

Vansant had been scheduled for sentencing on Tuesday, but his defense attorney had the action postponed until Thursday so that he could study the presentencing report.

Students earn kudos

Winners of the Observer & Eccentric Middle School Ice Spectacular contest were: Jeremy Borsos of East Middle School; Ashley Bowsman of Central Middle School; Tim Bruce of Lowell Middle School; Carrie Dzialo of West Middle School; and Matt O'Day of Pioneer Middle School.

"We started this a couple of years ago," said Mike Watts, organizer of the festival. "It's an artistic event, and we thought if we could get kids and the schools involved, they'd feel like they're part of it. They came up with great designs. It was almost impossible to pick one."

Professional carvers including Richard Teeple and a contingent from Henry Ford Community College sculpted winning designs from each of the Plymouth-Canton middle schools. "It was great to see their creativity and their involvement. They were really proud of themselves," he said.

Carrie Dzialo designed a carving using her dog Mocha and cat Dash as models. "I was happy and really excited," she said. Carolyn Dzialo, her mother, said, "We're very appreciative of the tremendous support students received from their teachers. It's nice to have that kind of support."

"I think it went really well," said Kelle Morse, another festival organizer. "The kids were really excited. They came out and really enjoyed themselves."

"The ice fest is a family event, and the more involvement we can get, the better. We tied this in with the high school and community colleges, which is a good thing, because that's the future of this thing. The O & E supported us, and that makes it a really good thing for everybody," Watts said.

eating places throughout the country.

"He was beaten, threatened, and stabbed in his pursuit of racial justice. In August 1963, he led a march to the national capital of Washington, D.C. There, he gave his 'I Have A Dream' speech, one of the most important speeches in American history.

"He dreamed that one day people would be judged by their character and not their color, that all children would be able to walk together hand-in-hand as brothers and sisters, that freedom and justice would prevail in all the states of our country, and that this nation would live out the true meaning of the Declaration of Independence creed, that all men are created equal and that every citizen has the opportunity to realize the American Dream.'

■ 'He still stuck to what he believed in. We are celebrating a very important person and a very important day in recognizing Martin Luther King.'

Tom Workman, principal

"Dr. King broadened his leadership to help poor people of all races and was engaged in supporting a poor people's march in Memphis, Tenn., when he was shot and killed in 1968.

"Martin Luther King talked the talk and walked the walk. He never retreated, apologized, or begged for mercy. He was true to his belief and because he was here, you and I are more able to realize our American Dream. Dr. King was among the greatest influences on American life in the 20th century. He is the greatest American of my lifetime.

"Today we recognize a great man on a great occasion, the birthday of Martin Luther King."

Students help Salvation Army

Close Up government students from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Westchester Square Mall merchants teamed up to help the Salvation Army and at the same time, serve up treats for visitors to the recent Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular.

The merchants furnished an old-fashioned popcorn machine and popcorn, while the students did the popping and selling, said Hilda Bokos of Unique Accessories. "We asked 25 cents or more per bag donation, and 100 percent of the proceeds went to the Salvation Army," she said. A total of $166 was raised.

Bokos praised the students, saying that not only were they great salesmen and women, but that they were terrific kids. "They really came out and worked," she said. "They were really hawking the popcorn. Unfortunately, they were very very cold standing outside, with steam coming out of their mouths.

"People today talk about how bad kids are these days. These were really great kids."

The high school students earned credit hours toward community service and their upcoming trip to Washington, D.C.

Mall visitors also viewed eye-popping entries in the Gingerbread House Contest and the delectable results of the Decorated Cake Demonstration sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

CLARIFICATION

The names of two winners in a coloring contest sponsored by state Rep. Deborah Whyman were inadvertently left out in Thursday's Observer. Second-place winner was Laura Williams, a second-grader at Hulsing Elementary School in Canton; third-place winner was Valerie Miller, a kindergartner at Eriksson Elementary School in Canton. First-place winner Jessica Dean, a fourth-grader at Isbister Elementary School in Plymouth, received a $100 savings bond. The other two winners each received $50 savings bonds.

In the 12th Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular, first place winners in the college team competition were Scott Jennings and Ryan Henkel.

Second place winners were J.R. Lorentz and Robert Susko. Information provided to the Observer by the festival promoter and run in the Jan. 20 edition incorrectly switched the first and second place winners.

200,000 saw park light show

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Wayne County officials report that the first annual "Festival of Lights" in Hines Park was an outstanding success.

The four-mile-long holiday light show attracted more than 63,000 cars between Nov. 22 and Jan. 9, generating more than $300,000 in revenue, said parks director Hurley Coleman.

Light show patrons were asked to voluntarily donate $5 per car, and Coleman said 94 percent of them did. Some gave more.

The show featured gigantic displays of animated snowmen, a north pole village, larger-than-life skiers and ice skaters, a Loch Ness monster and many other lighted displays purchased from Bronner's in Frankenmuth for $250,000. A five-year, no-interest loan was taken out to purchase the lights.

Any profit from the light show will go into the parks budget, but Coleman isn't sure yet how much profit there is. After expenses like electricity, promotion, parts and supplies are paid, he said, "We should come out with a little bit of a profit." A detailed report is being prepared for Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and the county commission.

Next year's show will have additional displays, Coleman said, but the plan is to get private sponsorships to pay for them.

Area businesses contributing to the event included Ameritech, AAA of Michigan and Detroit Edison. Others included Awrey Bakery of Livonia, Bruce and Chato Advertising, CPI Photo Finishing, Eastman Kodak, Little Caesars Pizza, Roosterail Catering, Soil & Materials Engineers, Tucker Anthony, Walbridge-Aldinger and WNIC.

McNamara praised the light show as "a great event for Wayne County."

"We created a fun-filled, family-oriented show and helped raise funds for the park system at the same time."

Besides the lights, other activities included performance by various school and church choirs sponsored by the Blue Care Network of Southeast Michigan. Community and civic groups including, Wayne-Westland YMCA and Wayne Memorial Marching Band staffed a small gift shop to raise funds for their organizations.

But there was some grumbling from some park area resident and others.

Westland residents living near Hines Park were angry about the light show traffic around their houses. Beatrice Scalise of Westland characterized the light show as McNamara's "pipe dream that has turned into a traffic nightmare." Coleman reports that traffic complaints ceased after the first week of operation.

Although the county commission approved the light show, a two local commissioners voted against it, including Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, and Bryan Amann, D-Wayne.

Madonna sets scholarship deadline

Madonna University is accepting scholarship applications through March 1 from current students for the 1994-95 academic year.

Applications are available in the financial aid office, or by calling 591-5036.

Most of the awards stipulate that the recipient be a current full-time student with a minimum grade point average of 3.2.

Available scholarships include the Kristen Hallerman Scholarship, awarded to a beginning nursing student from Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem or Garden City high schools; William Randolph Hearst Scholarship, awarded to students pursuing service-oriented degrees; Knight Foundation Scholarship, awarded to a hard-of-hearing student; Latinos de Livonia Scholarship, awarded to a Hispanic student; Joyce and Don Massey Scholarship; Nancy Tenger Scholarship, awarded to a prospective teacher; Viola and Thomas Bosco Scholarship, awarded to a black nursing student; Charles and Frances Kazul Scholarship, awarded to a needy student; Lions/Lioness Endowment Scholarship, awarded to a hard-of-hearing student; and Sister Mary Berarda Osinski Scholarship, awarded to a child development major.

Humane society has free straw for pets

The Michigan Humane Society will supply free straw to pet owners unable to afford bedding for outside animals.

The straw is available at the society's Detroit shelter, 7401 Chrysler Drive, open 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

With the onset of sub-zero temperatures, the MHS has been overrun with calls regarding animals left outside with little or no shelter. Pet owners are urged to bring all animals inside, allowing adequate time on a porch or other in-between area to allow their body temperature to adjust to the change.

If an animal must be outside during the day, or for short periods, be sure to provide dry, secure shelter and check drinking water frequently for freezing.

For more information, or to report an animal left outside in the cold without shelter, call 872-0026.

Coffee Bean Cafe new to Plymouth

If you have yet to indulge in the burgeoning new coffeehouse culture, now's the time to ease into contemporary cafe society.

You really don't have to be a coffee-lover to experience the ambience of the java cafes. Just consider them a great place to meet friends, linger over a newspaper or game of backgammon, study and people-watch. The latest addition to the coffeehouse scene is the Plymouth Coffee Bean Company, recently opened downtown at 884 Penniman. Tim and Pam Haase transformed a 120-year-old landmark home into a cozy, West Coast-style establishment.

Coffeehouses tend to exhibit distinct personalities. They are not gulp-and-run types of joints. Most feature artful decor, low lights and intimate seating. The atmosphere invites you to stay awhile and relax with that cuppa joe.

The Plymouth Coffee Bean Company is modeled after the early 20th century European coffeehouses found in France and Italy.

Living room-like spaces are filled with comfortable oversized vintage-look furniture, arranged to induce conversation. Antique accessories, original wood floors and contemporary art add to the decor. The walls and ceilings are bathed in fantasy-like faux finishes, the result of Pam's expertise with a paintbrush. It's hip enough to appeal to young adults, yet sophisticated enough to draw older couples. "I'm going to have to start paying rent," confesses Kerri Ayoub of Canton, a regular who enjoys her cappuccino in front of the corner fireplace. Her friend, Sean Adair of Taylor, often joins her for a game of chess. Sean assures it's worth the drive. "This is just a really cool place," says Ayoub. "And the homemade brownies and desserts are great."

The chess set joins dozens of books and games on built-in bookshelves. Just another reason to linger over the beverage of your choice.

The quality of those specialty drinks is just as important to Haase as the ambience of the surroundings. He imports beans from around the world, representing different growers. The beans are freshly roasted and ground. There is less emphasis on flavored coffee and more care taken to acquire high-grade top of the line beans, such as the Arabica.

In any given week, you might find Jamaican, Hawaiian, Sumatran or African beans. The selection changes periodically. In addition to quality coffees, Haase uses Ghiradelli chocolate in his mochas and Monin syrups from France in his Italian and French sodas.

Teas for two

Non-coffee drinkers choose from exclusive Royal Garden teas. The premium whole leaf teas are served in linen bags for proper diffusion. Tea connoisseur Jim Dinser of Plymouth recommends Goddess herb tea, a Chinese green tea made with sun-dried leaves. "It is subtle and delicate," he says. The package describes the flavor as earth-mint.

Haase hopes to expand the space in the spring to include a front veranda where he can offer live entertainment. But for now, folks are glad to have a quiet gathering place. A local book club met here recently for coffee before a cross-country ski outing. Once ensconced on the cushy sofas, they never made it to the trails. "This is a great place to settle in," said one bibliophile as the group reluctantly left the warmth of the Plymouth Coffee Bean Company.

If you've been reluctant to visit one of the trendy new java cafes, let this be your wake-up call. The popular hangout of the '90s is a great place to start your day and an alluring alternative to the neighborhood bar on the weekend.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Malls & Mainstreets next week:

- Design your own swimsuit. A unique shop shows you how.
- Cruise wear. Poolside fashions fill the sportswear racks.
- Bachrack browses for gifts with heart.

Brrrr — it's cold! Most ice sculpture visitors admired the ice art, then ducked inside the neighborhood shops to buy a cup of coffee, browse through clearance merchandise or buy a few Valentines.

Temps low, sales high

■ They came. They froze. They shopped. And all agreed the ice sculpture festival in Plymouth's Kellogg Park helped keep the town's cash registers ringing.

Frigid temperatures kept the crowds down but those who did bundle up to see the ice sculptures in downtown Plymouth bought hot chocolate, sandwiches and a neat thing or two from the shops around Main Street.

"I think the weatherman scared a lot of people away," said Fran Toney of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. "But the show must go on — so many merchants and customers look forward to it each year. Why, some retailers say it's like a second Christmas for business."

Mall greenery is good for your psyche

■ Planterra's interiorscapes are giving buildings a beautiful look and a healthier environment as greenery cleans out stale and potentially toxic air.

About 15 years ago, scientists from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration proved that plant leaves and roots removed trace levels of toxic vapors from inside tightly sealed chambers. Greenery merchants have been busy ever since.

In response to NASA's findings, office and retail centers battling the "Sick Building Syndrome" placed huge orders for philodendrons, spider plants, golden pothos, gerbera daisies and chrysanthemums — the most effective plants for removing formaldehyde and benzene from the air. These chemicals are given off from building materials and products with oil bases. Architects began adding atriums and lobbies with lots of natural light so plant-filtering systems would be a part of their buildings.

When James Ryan and Associates of Farmington Hills redesigned The Somerset Collection in Troy in 1992, it created beautiful spaces for greenery. Planterra Tropical Greenhouses of West Bloomfield was hired to fill them. Planterra has won an Associated Landscape Contractors of America Grand Award for its landscaping work at The Somerset Collection.

A month later, Planterra was honored with the Gold Award from the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association, also for its work at The Somerset Collection.

Clean air council

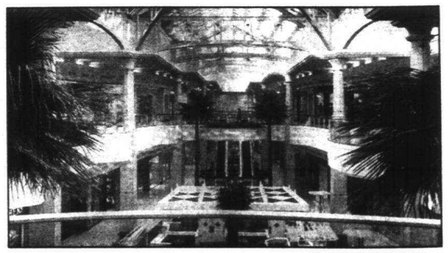

Planterra president Larry Pliska is proud of the interiorscape awards that hang in the greenhouse lobby. They represent more than 20 years in the plantscape business. He's eager to discuss the benefits of plants in the workplace, home, restaurant and shopping center as an active supporter of the Plants For Clean Air Council.

"This whole business started as a hobby with me in 1972," Pliska said. "I left my work as a draftsman to pursue my interest in plants. I watched as the government deregulated the standards for air quality in exchange for tighter, more energy-efficient buildings because of the oil embargos and the energy crisis.

I watched as the government deregulated the standards for air quality in exchange for tighter, more energy-efficient buildings because of the oil embargos and the energy crisis.

"Then I read with interest about the new sick building syndromes where office workers suffer unexplainable eye irritations, headaches and other problems while at work. Their symptoms were linked to fumes released from carpeting, plywood and other things like solvents and petroleum-based products. These fumes contained benzene and formaldehyde, which can surely cause health problems."

CLARIFICATION

In last week's story on the Better Business Bureau, it was incorrectly reported that Kmart stores require a receipt for returns. BBB spokeswoman Carmel Weems pointed out that returns without a receipt at Kmart are given in the form of a cash refund or charge credit.

Weems also wanted to clarify that the other stores mentioned in the story may require a receipt for cash refunds but not for exchanges.

"My reference to these retailers was to emphasize the fact that many consumers, accustomed to their liberal return policies, assume that all retailers must offer the same policy," Weems said.

Retail businesses in suburban malls and on suburban Main Streets are invited to submit announcements of upcoming special events and promotions for Added Attractions. The deadline to submit news is the Wednesday before publication on Monday. Send announcements to Malls & Mainstreets, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, 48150, or fax them to 313-591-7279.

Chris Burke of Creative Framing was singing "Joy to the World." She sold 1,200 Ice Sculpture Festival posters made from an original oil painting by artist Kathy Jakobsen.

"We had a sure-fire item to sell but the numbers we sold astounded us," she said. "At times during the ice festival, we had customers three-deep in the store in a line that went out the door. It was great."

Mike McCarty, manager of Georgia's Gift Gallery, agreed. "Each year, we try and find merchandise that complements the ice sculptures and we always do well with this," he said. "Business was good during the festival. It absolutely energizes the area."

At Sideways, owner Sharon Puge said the ice-art patrons enjoyed the sculptures and then stopped by to see the demonstrations her store scheduled.

"They bought a lot of coffees, non-alcoholic beverages, Valentines and cake decorating supplies," she said. "We plan special things in the store for this weekend and extend our hours. It was a fun weekend. The demonstrations brought shoppers in whether they were browsing or just getting out of the cold."

Donna, a cashier at The Cozy Cafe, said business was up during ice spectacular weekend but it was not as busy as last year.

Lots of goals

A sales boost for local business, Toney said, was just one goal of the Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular, now in its 12th year.

"The show brings in people from all over Michigan, Ohio and Canada who come to see the ice sculptures in Kellogg Park," she said. "But they also discover new shops when they are here. They may decide to buy a home here or move a business here. And everyone knows every dollar spent turns over four to seven times, whether it's for gasoline or lunch or a pair of boots. The ice show benefits the whole community in one way or another."

This year's ice spectacular chairman, Mike Watts, said the event cost about $125,000 to stage. It has its own board of directors.

"I estimate we had about 300,000 visitors to the ice show," he said, thawing out the day after. "Other years, we've had 500,000. You can't set a record every year. Considering the cold temperatures. We did just fine."

Just how fine, Toney said, will be apparent months from now when the chamber's phone rings with inquiries from ice festival visitors who want the name of a shop they saw in January or the phone number of a service agency that caught their eye.

Downtown Plymouth is looking forward to its next community events: May's Memorial Day parade, the June-July Music in the Park series, the Fourth of July parade, July's Art in the Park and Sidewalk Sales, September's Fall Festival and November's Santa Arrival. Then it's time for another ice spectacular.

One NASA report that Pliska distributes states that "it takes about 15 to 20 spider plants to clean and refresh the air in the average 1,800-square-foot home." That translates into a lot of spider plants in a 100,000-square-foot mall.

"At Somerset, we aimed to enhance the close relationship between architecture and landscape in our design," he said. "The display features an elegant ambience of architectural details as well as showing off the form, texture, and color of individual plants."

Jody Stevenson of Troy, a Somerset shopper, took a break from the clearance sales and bought a cup of coffee at Gloria Jean's. As she sipped the brew, she commented on the mall's award-winning horticulture: "The plants at Somerset are so elegant. Most of them are planted in cream-colored marble containers throughout the center. Purple chrysanthemums are everywhere. My favorite spot is here, above the rotunda, where those huge palm trees rise up to the skydome."

The 35-foot-tall palm trees are actually preserved palms from southern California, according to Pliska. "They look so real, I hate to give away the secret. However, all the other species of plant around the mall are very real and thriving."

"Ours is a labor of love," he said of his 45-member staff. "Part of our job is maintaining and changing the plants that we put into offices, homes and shopping centers. Plants are a lot of work. They take a long time to get the lush look we love. Some of my older figs and ficuses are valued between $1,500 and $2,500."

In addition to interiorscaping The Somerset Collection in Troy, Planterra has greened-up The Galleria in Southfield, the Renaissance Center in Detroit, the First Center Office Plaza in Southfield and the Embassy Suites and Marriott hotels.

Pliska is passionate about what he calls "getting the word out."

Historic area effort weighed

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Backers of a plan to have much of downtown Plymouth named a historic district say the move will preserve property values and the local economy.

The city's seven-member historic district review committee plans a presentation of a draft report on the plan and a public hearing at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 2, at the city commission chambers at city hall.

In the report, the committee tries to address the potential concerns of some downtown building owners over restrictions on improvements.

"The purpose of the historic district commission won't be to dictate the design specifications," said Mayor Doug Miller.

"The intent is to work with property owners to ensure that work that's done fits in with the historic character of the district, to benefit all property owners," Miller said.

A final report is scheduled to go before city commissioners March 7, when they are also scheduled to consider establishing a historic district ordinance.

Miller, also a member of the historic district study committee, said answering the concerns of property owners is a typical early step, when these districts have been proposed throughout the state.

He acknowledges that some property owners, on first hearing of such an ordinance, are worried about red tape that could hamper plans to develop their property.

"It's the same fear that's come up in every town that's done this, early on," Miller said. "As time goes on it's not an issue," he said, as property owners see the good side of establishing the districts.

Historic district design guidelines encourage a building owner to preserve the historic style of a building. "It's not really different from the current zoning ordinance," he said.

■ 'We have a beautiful downtown and it should be preserved, but people shouldn't be overburdened.'

Joe Van Esley
property owner

One downtown property owner who's expressing concern is Joe Van Esley, who owns a real estate office on Ann Arbor Trail off of Kellogg Park.

"For so many years they've been trying to get a new ordinance to dissolve parking credits, and that is supposed to be right around the corner," Van Esley said. "They've been working on it. I've been waiting so I can expand my building."

"If this passes, and when I go to expand, they can say now wait a minute, this doesn't fit into our ordinance," he said. "I would hope it doesn't turn into another roadblock for development, I would hope it doesn't turn into a taking of property rights from people.

"We have a beautiful downtown and it should be preserved, but people shouldn't be overburdened," Van Esley said. "I don't want to see the price of adding on getting beyond the means of what somebody can afford."

The proposed Plymouth Kellogg Park Historic District includes 55 properties, 75 percent of which are classified as contributing properties as they are 50 years old or more.

By the proposal, work that changes the appearance of a historic building's exterior must be reviewed by the historic district commission.

Review of such work could be coordinated with planning commission meetings "so as to not create additional hardship or delay," according to the draft proposal.

"The purpose of the review process will be to assist with the design — not to dictate changes to the property owner," the draft continued.

"There are no charges associated with historic district commission review," the proposal stated.

In the draft proposal, the committee sought to answer the question, "Will the ordinance prevent demolition of historic buildings?"

"The property owner retains the right to decide the ultimate fate of his or her property," the draft stated. "The ordinance does, however, require that options other than demolition be considered and that all attempts be made to move or otherwise salvage any historic structure as an alternative to demolition," the draft continued.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH
ORDINANCE NO. 94-1

AN ORDINANCE TO ESTABLISH STANDARDS FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF PROPERTY WITH THE CITY OF PLYMOUTH, TO PROVIDE FOR THE ENFORCEMENT THEREOF, AND PENALTIES FOR THE VIOLATION THEREOF.

The City of Plymouth ordains:

Section 1. PURPOSE. The purpose of this ordinance is to promote the public health, safety and welfare by prohibiting the deterioration and inadequate maintenance of buildings and premises, which contribute to fire, safety and health hazards, and adversely affect the property rights of adjacent owners and occupants, in the City of Plymouth.
The intent of this ordinance is to provide minimum standards for the construction and maintenance of buildings and premises. Nothing in this ordinance shall be deemed to supersede, modify or reduce the requirements of other City ordinances, codes and regulations. All other ordinances which are inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance shall be controlling to the extent of such inconsistencies.

Section 2. DEFINITIONS. The following words and phrases, as used in this ordinance, shall have the following meaning:
(a) BUILDING shall mean any structure occupied or intended for the purpose of supporting or sheltering any occupancy.
(b) CITY shall mean the City of Plymouth, Michigan.
(c) CITY COMMISSION shall mean the Plymouth City Commission.
(d) PREMISES shall mean a lot or parcel of land including the buildings and structures.
(e) STRUCTURE shall mean that which is built or constructed, or any portion thereof.
(f) WORKMANLIKE MANNER shall mean the manner of carrying out such activities as construction, maintenance and repair such as to secure the adequate maintenance of buildings and premises, to sustain the property rights of adjacent owners, and to eliminate conditions which contribute to fire, safety, and health hazards.
(g) YARD shall be an open space on the same lot with a building, which space is unoccupied and unobstructed from the ground upward, except as otherwise provided herein. The measurement of the yard is the minimum horizontal distance between the lot line and the building or structure. Front yard shall be a yard extending the full width of lot, the depth of which is the minimum horizontal distance between the front lot line and the nearest line to the principal building on the lot. Rear yard shall be a yard extending the full width of the lot, the depth of which is the horizontal distance between the rear lot line and the rear line or lines of the principal building on the lot.

Section 3. COMPLIANCE WITH STANDARDS REQUIRED. All premises, buildings and structures within the City of Plymouth shall be maintained in a workmanlike manner in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance. The enforcement officer shall apply the provisions of this ordinance so that minor variations which do not create any fire, safety or health hazard, and do not adversely affect the property rights of adjacent property owners and occupants, shall not be considered a violation of this ordinance.

Section 4. STANDARDS FOR MAINTENANCE OF PREMISES. All premises in the City of Plymouth shall be maintained in accordance with the following provisions:
(a) All premises shall be maintained in a clean, safe and sanitary condition free from any accumulation of rubbish or garbage, except on a temporary basis in accordance with City regulations.
(b) Trees and shrubberies shall be kept trimmed so as not to adversely affect structures or impede pedestrian or vehicular traffic. Grass shall not be permitted to grow higher than six (6) inches, except in cases where such grass is normal to a natural landscape.
(c) No machinery, equipment, vehicles, lumber piles, crates, boxes, building blocks, furniture, recreation equipment or other materials either discarded, unsightly or showing evidence of a need for repairs, with or without a current license, shall be stored, parked, abandoned or junked in any yard; and should such use of land occur, it shall be deemed a nuisance. This section shall not apply to construction material while such material is being actively used in the maintenance or construction of the premises.
(d) Firewood shall be stored behind the front building line and in such a manner as to not cause rodent or other pest infestations.
(e) Dog pens and dog runs shall not be placed in front of the front building line nor in the required side yards. They shall be located at least ten (10) feet from adjacent property lines unless an obscuring fence is provided. This restriction shall not apply to those premises containing a dog pen or dog run prior to the effective date of this ordinance until those premises either change ownership or no longer conform to the use in existence on the effective date of this act. All dog pens and runs shall be kept free of feces, garbage and other odor-causing conditions.

Section 5. STANDARDS FOR MAINTENANCE OF BUILDINGS AND STRUCTURES. All buildings and structures shall be maintained in accordance with the following provisions:
(a) The exterior of every building and structure shall be maintained in a workmanlike manner, and all surfaces thereof shall be kept painted or protected with other approved coatings or materials.
(b) Permanent repairs to a building or structure shall be made with the same or similar materials used in the original construction, and in such a manner as to permanently repair the damaged area.
(c) Exterior surfaces of every building and structure shall be maintained free of broken, loose, rotting, crumbling, missing or inadequately finished materials; and shall also be maintained free of any materials which are not intended to be on such surfaces, regardless of whether such conditions have been caused by normal wear and tear, neglect, vandalism or accidental causes.

Section 6. RESPONSIBILITY OF OCCUPANT. The occupant and the owner or his designated agent shall be responsible for the maintenance of his premises at all times. No person shall maintain or permit to be maintained any conditions prohibited by this ordinance upon any premises owned, leased, rented or occupied by such person.

Section 7. ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT. Whenever an enforcement officer of the City determines that there exists a violation of this ordinance, or has reasonable grounds to believe that such violation exists, he shall give notice by personal service, and/or by certified mail with return receipt requested, to the person responsible for the property, based on the tax roll records of the City, and to the premises at which the condition exists if such delivery is possible. The notice shall contain the following information:
(a) a description of the property sufficient for identification;
(b) a description of the violations which are to be corrected;
(c) a correction order indicating a specific deadline for completion of the repairs, actions, or other improvements required to bring the structure and premises into compliance with the provisions of this ordinance and other City ordinances, codes and regulations. The deadline for compliance shall allow a reasonable amount of time to accomplish the corrections in the order, taking into account the nature and extent of the work required, and the normal weather for the time of year involved.
(d) a statement about the right of appeal as provided in Section 8 of this ordinance, or appropriate building code appeal board if applicable, in the event that the owner feels that the correction order is unreasonable.

Section 8. APPEAL. A person who has received a compliance order pursuant to Section 7 of this ordinance may appeal such notice as follows:
(1) A person receiving a compliance order pursuant to this ordinance may request an administrative appeal, on the form provided by the City, for a hearing before the Building Official and the City Manager. The person filing such appeal shall agree to a hearing date and time, not more than fourteen (14) days after the date of filing; and shall specify the manner in which he requests to have the order revised. Upon the filing of such an appeal, the deadline provided in the compliance order shall be extended by the number of days from the filing date to the date of the administrative decision.
At the administrative hearing, the appellant shall be allowed to present pertinent information related to his request for modification of the order, and may be represented by an agent. The Building Official and the City Manager shall issue a decision within fourteen (14) days of the hearing, and shall deliver a copy in writing to the appellant. The decision shall indicate whether the order is sustained or modified, the manner if any in which it is modified, and the revised compliance deadline date.
(2) A person receiving an administrative appeal decision may request an appeal before the City Commission, on the form provided by the City, within fourteen (14) days of receiving such decision. The person filing such appeal shall agree to a hearing date at a regular City Commission meeting scheduled not more than twenty-one (21) days after the date of filing; and shall specify the manner in which he requests to have the order revised. Upon the filing of such an appeal, the deadline provided in the decision shall be extended by the number of days from the filing date to the date of the City Commission's decision.
At the City Commission hearing, the Administration and the appellant shall each be allowed to present pertinent information related to the case, and the appellant may be represented by an agent. The City Commission shall make a decision not later than the next regular meeting after the hearing. The decision shall indicate whether the administrative decision is sustained or modified, the manner if any in which it is modified, and the revised compliance deadline date.

Section 9. Rights and duties which have matured, penalties which have incurred, proceedings which have begun and prosecution for violations of law occurring before the effective date of this ordinance are not affected or abated by this ordinance.

Section 10. Should any section, clause or paragraph of this ordinance be declared by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, the same will not affect the validity of the ordinance as a whole or part thereof other than the part declared invalid.

Section 11. Violations of this ordinance shall be subject to the penalties as provided in Section 1.12 of the Plymouth City Code.

Section 12. This ordinance shall become effective ten (10) days after enactment hereof and after publication hereof.

Grumpy old men move out to change the world

JUDITH DONER BERNE

I haven't seen the film "Grumpy Old Men" but I've met them.

And they're so nicely grumpy.

They belong to a non-dues-paying, open-to-anyone fraternity they label A.D.C. — short for "Another Disgusted Citizen." Their raison d'etre is their concern for future generations. And their motto: "The pen is mightier than the sword."

At least that's how Tony Brehler, of Livonia, describes it.

Brehler, a retired office manager and World War II veteran, over the past year has gathered a small band of dissidents who are willing to do more than just talk about their concerns.

They take advantage of what Brehler calls "the powerful pen" and write letters to the editors of newspapers and to radio and TV stations and networks — as local as the Birmingham Eccentric and as national as The Wall Street Journal — when they have something to say on a pressing issue.

They come from Southfield, Franklin, Bloomfield Township, Farmington Hills, Livonia, gathering once a month at Bob Evans restaurant on Telegraph in Southfield to exchange information and ideas.

But they don't form a consensus: Their opinions are their own.

One way they add to their group is by writing to other letter writers whose opinions they respect and inviting them to join them.

That's how Ray Dubin happened to come to his first meeting.

Dubin, from Farmington Hills, wrote recent letters goading the MEA and warning taxpayers about the Clinton health care plan.

Brehler saw them and, as they say, the rest is history.

Caring citizens: Neil Fraser of Southfield (left), Bill Carruth, Tony Brehler, Paul Harding and R. Thomas Hunter (foreground) talk about how to "get citizens off their cans."

But Dubin breaks the "grumpy old men" mold as he is probably 30-something, the father of a 6-year-old and proprietor of a day care center.

The others are retired (except for R. Thomas Hunter, a financial advisor from Bloomfield Township) and readily acknowledge they have the time to spend trying to change the world. But still they are frustrated that more people don't seem to care or are afraid to speak up.

"How do we get the citizens off their cans?" asks Bill Carruth from Clawson at the group's January session.

"I don't know," Dubin responds. "Apathy is alive and well. Things that are important to me I make time to do. I might get up an hour earlier or stay up an hour later."

"This is a start," says Brehler. "If we can consolidate a group like this — and expand."

"I have friends in Bloomfield Hills who are worried the IRS will come after them (if they publish letters questioning the system)," says Carruth.

"I can't believe we're talking about this kind of thing," Hunter says. "It's about expressing your opinion."

"What we need," says Paul Harding, a Livonian, is "for this group to multiply a thousand fold."

"I don't know if the world can stand that," Hunter jokes.

I think it could. Here are people who, after a life time of work, could be indulging more selfish interests or turning inward.

Instead, they talk — and write — about educational reform, children's self-esteem, their hopes for Detroit under a new mayor. . . .

By the way, they are not all-male by choice. They have tendered invitations to female letter writers (as well as to their wives where appropriate), but so far have not had any takers.

You can reach Brehler at 477-3816. He'll tell you: "We have no officers (no offices either), no dues or fees and no religious or political affiliation. We are various religions (never asked) and all independent voters. We are united to express ourselves more fully, and hopefully, motivate others standing at the brink."

Think grassroots — at its finest.

President, lawyer and others share a '60s dream

JEFF COUNTS

■ Let's face it, many of us remember more about our first Mustang than our first, second or third loves. My love affair passes a milestone this month. It was 25 years ago that I plunked down about $2,500 in cash for my dream at a Ford dealership at Joy Road and the Southfield Freeway.

So he was a 1960s dream. She was easy to handle on the curves of Hines Drive. President Bill Clinton still has one tucked away in an Arkansas garage and a Canton attorney I know passed one on to his son.

No, we're not talking about Gennifer Flowers or a similar model. We're talking about something that even Clinton and my conservative attorney friend can agree on, Mustang love.

In the long run, most of us current or former Mustang owners probably got more joy out of an evening from our cars than from an entire used car lot full of Flowers-type ladies.

Just ask John Wayne Bobbitt what he would rather have been doing that fateful night, driving a Mustang or learning about relationships.

Let's face it, many of us remember more about our first Mustang than our first, second or third loves. My love affair passes a milestone this month. It was 25 years ago that I plunked down about $2,500 in cash for my dream at a Ford dealership at Joy Road and the Southfield Freeway.

She was red with black interior and came equipped with a 289 V-8 engine and three-speed stick shift. The black plastic interior was hot as a Madonna video in the summer and as cold as Lorena Bobbitt's heart in the winter. But none of that mattered while cruising Telegraph or parked in Hines.

Just about everybody of my generation had at least one Mustang cruising story. I even had one friend who, when with a group of friends, went to an anti-Vietnam war rally in a Mustang. And since every group of students in those days had to have a name, these guys used the moniker of Mustang Maoists. You've got to remember that in the late 1960s people had serious debates about the difference between a Leninist and a Maoist.

My Mustang Maoist friend said he didn't fit in the anti-war protest because they were in a Mustang and not in a then-politically correct VW of some sort.

As the 1970s rolled along, the Mustang fell victim to the times, the styling got as fat and as bloated as Elvis in a white jump suit.

Perhaps we can blame it on disco music and the fact that too many of them were purchased by suburban housewives. But whatever it was, the Mustangs just haven't been the same. During the 1970s and '80s, they even made four and six cylinder models. That was like putting actress Sharon Stone in a suit of armor for her scenes in "Basic Instinct."

But these days Ford is putting some spunk back in its Mustangs, giving them a leaner and meaner look and putting the 1960s back under the hood. The market is the aging baby boomer who may be feeling he isn't running on all eight cylinders any more.

I don't know about other former Mustang owners, but I'm certainly in the market.

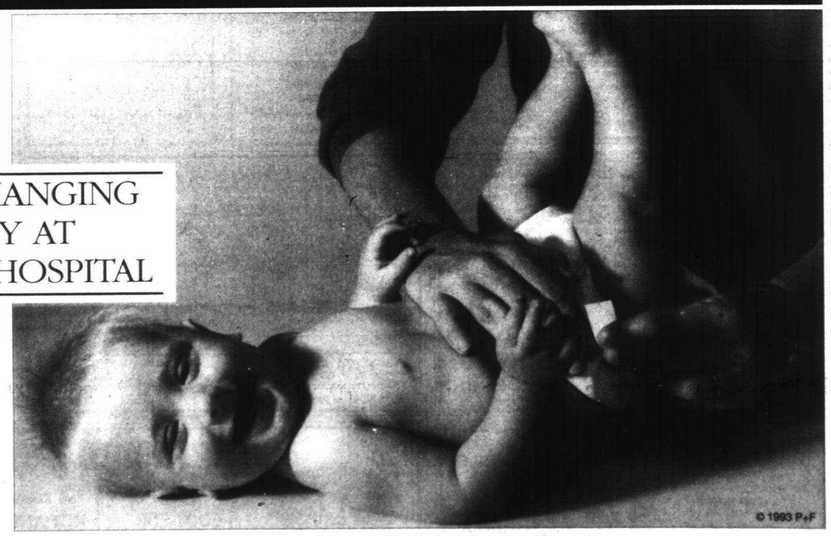

Jeff Counts is the editor of the Plymouth and Canton Observer Newspapers and is looking for a good deal on an eight cylinder Mustang. He can be reached at 459-2700.

WE'RE CHANGING MATERNITY AT ST. MARY HOSPITAL

The maternity program has changed at St. Mary Hospital. We asked you what you wanted in childbirth, and we listened.

You said you wanted privacy for yourself and your family. Now all our rooms are private.

Your needs come first

You said you wanted family and friends to visit at your convenience. So visiting hours are determined by you.

You asked if fathers could stay the night. Now they can.

You wanted more comfortable surroundings for labor and birth. Our new labor-delivery-recovery (LDR) rooms are fully equipped with the latest birthing beds and other equipment for birth. And the unit is decorated to help put you at ease and create a homelike atmosphere.

More changes

Your desire for the best possible care has resulted in advanced training for our nurses. And a new physician director and nurse director.

We even have a new name: Miracle of Life Maternity Center.

But one thing hasn't changed. The concern and personal care we've always provided at St. Mary Hospital.

To learn more about the changes in our Miracle of Life Maternity Center call 313-591-2882 for a free brochure, personal tour, or physician referral.

Schmidt Auditorium hosts 'Brooks and Ed'

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson will discuss the future of the Detroit area at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 26, at the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium in Livonia.

Admission is free. The auditorium is located on the east side of Middlebelt between Seven Mile and Eight Mile roads, adjacent to Clarenceville High School.

Patterson spokesman Bob Dustman said the event will resemble "The Ed and Brooks Show" (which airs on Channel 4 Sundays) and last 40 minutes.

The Clarenceville school district is trying to revive interest in the Schmidt Auditorium for meetings of community groups and such. Twenty years ago the Schmidt was a happening place and hosted concerts by the likes of Buddy Rich and Maynard Ferguson.

"The auditorium was always a source of pride for Clarenceville, and we want to bring that back," said Cheryl McDonald, the school district's cable TV manager.

To rent the auditorium for a business meeting or special event, call Rose Govig at 473-8933.

Car ordinance gets 30-day reprieve

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has agreed not to sue the McNamara administration over a new county car ordinance, pending 30 days of negotiation.

Enacted in October by unanimous vote of the commission, the ordinance forbids future county elected officials and most senior staffers from using county cars. It also eliminates the monthly stipends of as much as $350 that 84 county employees collect in lieu of being paid by the mile.

Because Executive Edward McNamara didn't veto the ordinance or challenge it in court, it has the force of law, and McNamara is supposed to obey it.

However, a county legal opinion declaring the car ordinance "void and unenforceable" — and a subsequent executive order regarding county cars — gave commissioners the idea that McNamara didn't intend to obey the ordinance.

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who wrote the ordinance with the input and help of McNamara staffers Dave Katz and Bob Biga, is confident a compromise can be reached within the 30-day time period the commission set Thursday.

"I think we'll get it done," he said Friday. "They don't want to go to court either. That's just a waste of time and money."

However, the commission is prepared to sue if necessary, asking that McNamara be ordered to obey the ordinance, McCotter said.

Although McNamara's people haven't said specifically what parts of the ordinance they object to, the legal opinion, signed by county attorney Patricia Irving-Cwiek, says the ordinance "represents an unlawful usurpation of executive authority by the legislative body of Wayne County."

Katz said the objections are "relatively minor stuff (and) I'm sure we can work the problem out. I don't see this as a major point of conflict at all. We've got an outstanding rapport with commissioner McCotter."

The ordinance also mandates meticulous record-keeping in regard to county cars and makes it more difficult to buy luxury cars when economy cars will do.

The commission decided that an ordinance regarding county cars was needed after an audit of county cars was completed in May.

Auditor General Ramona Henderson's report concluded that record-keeping in regard to county cars was sloppy and that sometimes departments bought fancy vehicles when more austere models would have done the same job.

Negotiating: Wayne County commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, is working on a compromise to get the new car ordinance going.

U-M keeps E mail messages from graduate

(AP) — Electronic mail messages are not subject to the state Freedom of Information Act, the University of Michigan has claimed in refusing to release copies of computer messages from its president.

The university's attorneys used the argument to deny the FOI request by a 1993 Michigan graduate. Chetley Zarko had asked for the E-mail of President James Duderstadt, Vice President Walter Harrison, Vice Provost Douglas Van Houweling, and his assistant Virginia Rezmierski.

"I just wanted to see if I could get it," said Zarko, an Ypsilanti resident, a computer buff and free-lance writer.

But it remains to be seen whether E-mail isn't a record, said state Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who has been talking about revising the state's FOI Act. He said he thinks the intent of the original FOIA would encompass government E-mail.

"How is (E-mail) different from a memo?" Honigman asked. "It is a permanent record. Like any record, it can be erased, but so can a piece of paper or a computer tape."

Lawyers for the university say the E-mail is protected by the federal Electronic Communications Privacy Act and several exemptions to the Michigan FOIA law. They outlined their stance in a letter to Zarko.

E-mail is exempt because: It isn't "prepared, owned, used, in the possession of or retained by a public body in the performance of an official function," and it isn't a "means of recording or retaining meaningful content, University General Counsel Elsa Cole and attorneys for a Detroit law firm said.

The university also said that it would be impractical to recover certain messages from among the more than one million sent.

Kirk Tabbey, a Jackson County assistant prosecutor who serves on the state's computer crime task force, said how E-mail is used should determine whether it is subject to disclosure.

"I think U-M has a good argument that it's replacing telephone calls," which aren't subject to FOIA disclosure, he said.

On the other hand, if E-mail is being used to pass around draft documents that otherwise would have been put on paper, "I would say that's something that the public has a right to view," Tabbey said.

The university has no policy against using E-mail for official business or against storing important messages on paper or magnetic media, but E-mail wouldn't fulfill the university's requirement that certain kinds of business be conducted in writing, said Harrison, vice president for university relations.

E-mail didn't exist when Michigan's Freedom of Information Act was written in 1976 and it's still very much a gray area in the law.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Here are answers to your questions

My voice mail box, and postman are taking a much needed breather now that the holidays are past. Your calls and requests were appreciated, and I hope your holidays were filled with delicious treats coupled with a bountiful helping of peace and love.

When you call the voice mail box, please remember to leave your name, phone number and city in which you live for a speedy response.

My daughter Jessie, resplendent in her Girl Scout sash, called the voice mail box twice requesting that you be reminded that this is Girl Scout cookie time. All of your favorites are back. This year marks the introduction of a cookie dubbed "Juliettes" which are a crunchy combination of caramel and pecans covered with a fudge coating.

Cookie proceeds help pay for local troop programs, council facilities and training. Everyone loves Girl Scout cookies, and yours truly has been known to polish off an entire box with a quart of milk while watching the Frugal Gourmet on Channel 50.

Girl Scout cookies freeze well, ship well through the mail and can be used in many recipes. A Janes Gang family favorite is a cheesecake crust made with Girl Scout Tagalong cookies crushed in the blender of a food processor. If you don't know a Girl Scout, call your local elementary school for the name and number of a troop cookie mom.

Diane Morrison of Westland called about the nut cake recipes that ran a few weeks back. Morrison questioned the amounts of nuts and wanted to know the equivalents of whole nuts to ground.

My sources indicate that different nuts give different equivalences, but as a general rule of thumb, 1 pound of ground nuts equals about 3 cups ground nuts; while 1 pound of whole nuts equate to about 6 cups ground nuts, depending on the nut.

Morrison also questioned the cooking time of the recipes. She said her nut cakes were dry around the edges. I re-tested the recipes and both cakes turned out moist and chewy as per the recipe directions.

Sometimes oven temperatures are off, and a few problems might arise in the type and quality of your bakeware. As a general rule of thumb, we suggest you always check cakes not by the exact time, but when a cake tester of toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean.

The Turciano family of Livonia called with a recipe request for French Crullers. This sounds too good to be true, but the Janes Gang took in "The Wizard of Oz" down at the Fox Theatre, and in the beginning of the movie when Dorothy falls into the pig sty and is helped out by Huck and the other two farm hands, Aunt Em comes on the scene with a plate of crullers proclaiming "here, have a cruller, you can't work on an empty stomach." My thoughts exactly.

Crullers are richer than doughnuts, so says "The Joy of Cooking." For best results, they should be made with all the ingredients at room temperature so that the dough can be mixed quickly, which in turn prevents the development of gluten in the flour which in turn makes for a heavy and tough dough.

FRENCH CRULLERS

4 eggs
⅜ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon grated lemon rind
⅛ cup milk
⅛ melted shortening
3½ cups all purpose flour
1½ teaspoons cream of tartar
½ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg or cardamom, optional

Beat eggs until light. Gradually stir in sugar, blend until creamy. Stir in lemon rind, shortening and milk. Mix well. Set aside. In a separate bowl, sift together the dry ingredients. Gently fold the dry ingredients into the egg mixture.

Gently stir until just incorporated. Cover and chill in freezer for 45 minutes. Roll or pat dough to a thickness of -inch. Cut into strips about by 2 inches and fry in a deep fat fryer heated to 365 degrees until lightly golden. Drain on paper towels and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Low-fat feast: Floreen Halpern of Amaryllis catering in Birmingham cuts ribbon to add color to a tabie filled with flowers and low-fat treats your guests will love.

Be a gracious host

ENTERTAIN YOUR LOW-FAT OPTIONS

Healthy Resolver

Entertain guests with festive fare that's low in fat. Floreen Halpern of Amaryllis Catering & Party Planning in Birmingham shares tips, and a delicious menu that will make guests forget the cold, and warm up to healthier eating.

The new year is four weeks old, and you've done a very good job of watching what you eat. Now, the tricky part. It's your turn to have friends over for dinner. Can you serve a festive, memorable dinner everyone will enjoy, and still stay on your low-fat eating plan?

Floreen Halpern, owner of Amaryllis Catering & Party Planning in Birmingham showed me you can.

"People love to come to other people's homes. It's the most gracious way to entertain," she said. "Start from a respectful position. Serve your guests special food that they can enjoy. Don't make them worry about overeating."

To prove her point Halpern put together a fuss-free, low-fat menu.

The main course, Shrimp Etouffe consists of shrimp tossed with a tomato based sauce and vegetables served over angel hair pasta or rice. Instead of shrimp, Halpern said the dish could also be served with grilled or broiled boneless, skinless chicken. For a marinade, she likes a mixture of soy sauce, honey and cayenne pepper.

Halpern jazzed up a salad of assorted greens with slices of colorful seedless orange, a strawberry, and rings of red onion. The dressing was a vinaigrette made with blueberry preserves, ginger marmalade and crushed pineapple.

Family works toward improving their diet

LAURA LETOBAR

Marnie Britcher of Canton and her husband, Bill, are trying to fulfill their New year's resolution to eat healthier meals. They have decided to reduce the amount of fat in their diets. To achieve this goal, they have started substituting low-fat and fat-free products in their cooking, and are reducing their intake of red meat.

Britcher has two sons - James, 21 and Matthew, a junior at Plymouth Salem High School, are typical young men. Marnie says they have no interest in eating healthy or low-fat foods. We all know this will change once they hit 30!

Britcher sent in a recipe for Beef Stroganoff that is very popular with her family.

"The recipe has been a longtime favorite of our family, but an extremely unhealthy one," wrote Marnie when she submitted the recipe for a make over. "The dish gets served frequently because of the tremendous flavor. The challenge would be to convert it to a heart healthy recipe without losing the flavor."

Because there are so many high fat products in this recipe there are a number of ways to reduce the fat. When I made the recipe I made changes on every high fat item. The ingredients can be replaced a few at a time to adjust for personal preference.

I also spoke with Debra DePriest, a meat clerk at the Food Emporium grocery store on Six Mile Road in Livonia. She told me that cube steak is one of the leanest red meats. It is cut from the sirloin tip roast and placed through a tenderizing machine. DePriest said eye of round roast can also be used. There are only 6.7 grams of fat per 4 ounces of meat. This is very lean.

The original recipe calls for Chinese chow mein noodles. At 13.4 grams of fat per 4 ounce serving, these had to be replaced. No Yolk brand wide egg

SHRIMP ETOUFFE

1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 green onions, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
½ cup celery, finely chopped
1 green pepper, finely chopped
1 tablespoon olive oil
3 tablespoons flour
1¾ cups water
1 (10½ ounces) can tomato puree
2 bay leaves
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
4 to 5 drops tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon crushed dried thyme
3 cups cleaned raw medium shrimp (or approximately 1 (12 ounce bag) frozen medium shrimp, thaw and drain)
Sauteed, sliced fresh mushrooms (optional)
3 to 4 cups hot cooked rice or angel hair pasta

In a large non-stick skillet or saucepan, saute onions, garlic, celery and green pepper in olive oil until tender. Do not brown. Add flour, stir to make a smooth paste; cook 1 or 2 minutes. Add water, tomato puree, bay leaves, Worcestershire, tobasco sauce and other seasonings.

Simmer uncovered over low heat, stirring until sauce thickens to desired consistency. May be made ahead to this point. Reheat before proceeding.

Add raw shrimp and cook 15 minutes over low heat, stirring occasionally.

Serve over hot cooked rice or pasta. Sprinkle with sauteed mushrooms if desired. Serves 6 to 8.

BLUEBERRY-GINGER VINAIGRETTE

1 cup blueberry preserves or non-sugar fruit spread
¼ cup ginger marmalade
½ cup crushed pineapple in its own juice
2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 to 2 tablespoons canola oil

Whisk ingredients together. Add oil, a teaspoon at a time, last. Whisk together.

LENTIL RICE SALAD

1 large carrot, shredded
3 scallions, chopped
½ cup parsley, chopped
¼ cup dried cherries
1 cup lentils
½ cup long grain rice
½ cup wild rice
Dressing
¼ cup balsamic vinegar
¼ cup red wine vinegar
⅛ cup dry sherry
¼ cup olive oil

Cook lentils, long grain rice and wild rice according to package directions. Drain well. Add carrots, scallions, parsley and dried cherries. Whisk together dressing ingredients to make dressing. Mix rice, vegetable, and cherry mixture with dressing. Chill. Serves 6 to 8.

PINEAPPLE TROPICALE

1 fresh pineapple peeled, cored and cut into bite-size chunks
1 ripe banana, sliced
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
Frozen vanilla yogurt
Fresh raspberries (optional)

Mix fruit with brown sugar and spices in a bowl. Spread in a casserole dish. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes or until fruit is carmelized. Refrigerate until fruit is cool. To make parfaits, layer fruit with frozen vanilla yogurt in parfait glass. Freeze 1 to 2 hours before serving. Remove from freezer 15 minutes before serving, and sprinkle with fresh raspberries if desired. Serves 4 to 6.

For dessert, she served an out of this world parfait of baked fresh pineapple and bananas layered with frozen vanilla yogurt, and sprinkled fresh raspberries of top.

Halpern decorated her table with fresh flowers and curls of pink and yellow ribbon. It's hard to believe something as simple as ribbon could add so much to a table, but it did.

"I've always loved to entertain and set the table," said Halpern who has worn many hats including English teacher, insurance agent, and stock broker before going into the catering business four years ago. She's been at her Birmingham location since June, and caters parties for 10 to over 400 with the help of her "fabulous staff."

"Do what reflects the season," she said. When you're entertaining in the winter make hot spiced wine, cider or soup. The fragrance will say welcome in a way words can't. Serve guests soup in mugs as a first course in the living room. Be sure to pass around a basket filled with slices of good bread.

Everyone still loves desserts. Turn your brownies into precious morsels by cutting out little hearts with a small cookie cutters. "It's like a reward for being good," said Halpern. "It's OK if you do it in small bites."

Guests who don't want dessert will appreciate specialty coffees and interesting teas. "Put a little whipped cream in a bowl and dust it with cocoa and cinnamon. It's beautiful, and low in calories because you don't use very much," said Halpern.

Other dessert ideas she shared were to sautee apple slices in a little hot fudge or caramel sauce and layer apples with frozen vanilla yogurt. Baked fresh pineapple and poached pears served with raspberries are also elegant. Simmer oranges with an orange flavored liqueur and serve in a crystal bowl, sprinkle pomegranate seeds on top for color.

"Whatever you do, try to do the best you can. Buy the best ingredients, fresh colorful produce — crisp, green lettuce, red onion. Serve foods that are beautiful to look at. Use fruits and vegetables of the season, each has its own bounty.

"Don't abandon your favorite recipes, but look for ways to reduce the fat," said Halpern. "The original recipe for Shrimp Etouffee had ½ cup of butter, we reduced it to one tablespoon."

Here are some tips from Lisa Gale Cox, Wellness Coordinator for Botsford Hospital in Farmington, shares these low-fat entertaining tips:

- Offer alcohol free drinks, which are also lower in calories.
- Use diet pop in punch, and frozen fruit for decoration.
- Try to serve fruit and vegetables for appetizers. Make fruit kebabs with grilled pineapple.
- For main courses stick to lean beef, boneless, skinless chicken breast, fish and pasta. Use fresh spices, it will add a lot of flavor. Now you can get fresh basil yearround at most grocery stores.

Martin, a registered dietitian at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia:

- Lighten up dairy-rich dishes with low-fat options. Look for part-skim cheeses and lower-fat versions of cheddar, Swiss and other cheeses.
- Use vegetable cooking sprays instead of frying in fats.

Chef Larry Janes answers reader recipe requests

See Larry Janes' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

Charlotte Michaels of Birmingham requested a recipe for a hearty soup the entire family would enjoy.

Well Charlotte, this is definitely soup weather, and when it comes to making soup, I usually turn to those group and church type cookbooks for tried and true recipes.

This recipe comes from "Ann Arbor's Cookin' II," which benefits the Ronald McDonald House and was submitted by Debbie Lown.

POTATO CHEESE SOUP

4 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 cups chopped onions
2 cups chopped carrots
6 parsley sprigs, chopped
1 cup chopped fresh dill
1½ pounds (about 4-5 cups) potatoes, peeled and cubed
5-6 cups chicken broth or stock (canned is OK)
½ to 1 cup heavy cream
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2-3 cups shredded cheddar cheese

Melt butter in a large pot; add onions and carrots. Cook over medium heat for 3-5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add parsley, ½ cup of the dill, potatoes and chicken stock. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat and simmer for 10-15 minutes or until potatoes are soft and tender. Place in a food processor or blender and blend in small batches.

Return to pan, simmer gradually and stir in cream, salt, pepper, cheese and remaining dill. Serve warm. Yield:6-8 servings.

Pauly Smorch of Redford, whose doctor just advised her to go on a fat-free, gluten-free diet, wanted help locating recipes and menu ideas.

First off Pauly, get that doctor on the phone and get the names and numbers of dietitians affiliated with a hospital in your area who can offer you a multitude of ideas and recipes. Also, visit your local library and check out the cookbooks in the health section. Many are devoted to folks with similar problems. While you're there, look for copies of old Weight Watchers cookbooks.

The old program cookbooks never used fat, and some of the recipes were very tasty. I pulled this one from "The Best of Weight Watchers Magazine," 1980.

PINEAPPLE COOKIES

½ cup non-fat dry milk powder
¼ cup canned crushed pineapple, no sugar added
1 teaspoon granulated sugar replacement or to taste
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine all the ingredients in a medium bowl. Drop mixture, 2 teaspoons at a time for each "cookie" onto a non-stick baking sheet that has been sprayed with a non-stick cooking spray.

Leave room for "cookies" to spread. Bake about 20 minutes or until "cookies" are firm and lightly colored.

They will be soft at first and become crisp as they cool. Makes 1 serving.

Chef's Secret: You shouldn't really cook with artificial sweetener as it has a tendency to break down and become bitter during the cooking process. I recommend increasing the vanilla extract to ½ teaspoon, not incorporating the sweetener into the cookie batter and baking it without the sweetener. When the cookies are removed from the oven, lightly sprinkle with sweetener for best taste.

noodles are a good substitute. There is no cholesterol and the fat is reduced to 2 grams per 4 ounces.

The sour cream can be substituted in a variety of ways. I used Land O'Lakes fat-free sour cream. You could also use 2 cups of "lite" sour cream and one cup of non-fat. This can be adjusted to your personal preference.

To reduce the sodium, use garlic powder instead of garlic salt and reduced sodium Worcestershire sauce. I suggest starting with 3 tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce and adding the extra if you wish. I found 6 tablespoons to be a little strong myself, but Britcher says that's what gives it a nice "kick." As always, a good non-stick pan will greatly reduce the amount of fat because you can brown and saute without butter.

Keep in mind that when you substitute ingredients in any recipe the flavor will always change. This applies to "high fat" or "low fat" products. Be sure to keep an open mind when trying new low-fat products or recipes. Your tastebuds might need time to adjust, but your heart will love it from the start!

Try white chili for change of pace

AP — Fans of Southwestern cuisine will enjoy white chili, flavored with chopped green chilies and onion, and simmered in a broth blended with garlic, oregano, cilantro and ground red pepper. The recipe, from McCormick & Co., also calls for cubed chicken breast, chopped onion and white cannellini beans.

For those who can't get enough chili: "Chilimania! The Chilihead's Handbook" by Herb and Chris Geltner (G.S.C. Books, Merritt Island, Fla.) contains over 900 recipes on chili, chili dips, pies, pizzas, soups, salsas, picantes, sauces, casseroles and appetizers.

SOUTHWEST WHITE CHILI

1 tablespoon olive oil
1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breast, cut into cubes
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup chicken broth
1 ounce can chopped green chilies
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon oregano leaves
½ teaspoon cilantro
⅛ to ¼ teaspoon ground red pepper
19-ounce can white kidney beans (cannellini), undrained
Shredded Monterey Jack cheese (for garnish)
Sliced green onions (for garnish)

Heat olive oil in a 3-quart saucepan over medium-high heat. Add chicken; cook 4 to 5 minutes, stirring often. Remove chicken with slotted spoon, cover and keep warm.

Add chopped onion to saucepan; cook 2 minutes.

Stir in chicken broth, green chilies, garlic powder, ground cumin, oregano leaves, cilantro and ground red pepper; simmer for 30 minutes.

Stir in cooked chicken and kidney beans; simmer for 10 minutes. Garnish with cheese and sliced green onions. Makes 4 servings.

FLUNKING SCHOOL LUNCHES

The Agriculture Department has issued a flunking grade to the lunches served in our nation's public schools. According to its report, our schools serve lunches that exceed the government's own dietary guidelines for fat by 25 percent (by 50 percent for saturated fat). The school lunches also exceed recommendations for sodium intake by nearly 100 percent. According to Dietary Guidelines for Americans, from the Departments of Agriculture and of Health and Human Services, no more than 30 percent of daily calories should come from fat (no more than ten percent from saturated fat). Daily sodium intake should not exceed 2,400 mg. A survey of 545 schools shows lunches derive 38 percent of their calories from fat (15 percent from saturated fat). Just one school lunch provides nearly two-thirds the daily limit for salt.

Given those statistics, isn't it time to take responsibility for your child's nutrition away from the school system. Why not start the new year with a new style of food preparation! Cake, gingerbread, chili contests showcase local cooks

KEELY WYGONIK

Sun didn't spoil the ice sculptures at the 12th annual Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular this year. It was cold! Quite a few people, including me, bundled up Saturday to look at the magnificent sculptures in Kellogg Park, and throughout picturesque downtown Plymouth. If you didn't have time to visit the festival this year, make sure you do next year. It's a wonderful family event.

The "Wild Wild West" festival theme was also carried out in a cake decorating contest at Westchester Square Mall on Wednesday. This is one time I was glad the judges didn't have to taste the cakes — they were beautiful.

Organized by Mary Denning of Mary Denning's Cake Shoppe in Westland, the contest was designed to encourage other culinary artists, besides ice carvers, to become involved in the festival. Denning is a pastry instructor at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn.

Besides myself, the judges were Sue Weaver, pastry instructor and chef at Joy Manor in Westland, and Rob Thomas, bakery supervisor at Farmer Jack, pastry instructor, and winner of numerous awards in cake design.

In the professional category first place was awarded to Elaine Shafer of Heritage Bakery in Livonia who made an adorable "Barney" Goes Country Cake. Second

In the culinary student division, Brenda Gill won the first place ribbon with a sculptured cacus cake that looked so real that people wanted to touch it to see if it was really a cake. Second place was awarded to Michelle Butler, and third to Lori Kristy. All are students at Henry Ford Community College.

There was also a gingerbread house contest. First place was awarded to Laurie and Carol Darrin; second place, Carol Whitingger of Farmington Hills; third place, Jennifer Quigley of Livonia.

In the churches and castles category, Michael MacFarlane placed first, and Michaela Wesolowski, second.

Children also participated. In the Kids Creations category: David Ryan placed first; Elizabeth Alexander of Plymouth, second, and Mike and Danny Ryan, third.

The gingerbread house contest was organized by Mary Kay Seibel of Days Gone By, a store in the Westchester Square Mall on Forest Avenue in downtown Plymouth.

Chili champ Marilyn Frederick of Farmington Hills invited me to be one of eight judges at the International Chili Society Winter Freeze District Cookoff at the Allen Park Elks Lodge. How could I refuse, I love chili!

Frederick, has earned a reputation in the area for her prize-winning "Time Bomb Chili." She's participated in cookoffs in 13 states, and did a fine job conducting the cookoff in Allen Park, with help from her brother Frank Klancnik, known for his "Smoke in the Hole Chili," and scorekeeper Ed Kulback.

There were 18 participants including Bill Thomas of Plymouth, Jim Weller of West Bloomfield, Ken Brundage of Livonia, A. Michael Ford of Farmington Hills, Gean Ziegler and Vaughn Irish of Walled Lake.

Third place was awarded to John Garcia of Wyandotte, second place, Leo Buk II of Trenton, and first place to Bob Hall of Taylorville, Illinois.

Hall might not have won if hadn't have been for the generosity of a good sport — Georgia Weller of Bloomfield Hills. Hall's chili box containing all of his supplies was lost at the airport. Weller let him use hers, and gave up her spot in the cookoff.

There's another happy ending to this story, Weller's chili box was found, and returned to him.

Jim Weller and his wife, Georgia often compete against each other at chili cookoffs, but as Marilyn Frederick says, "that's another story."

Detroit 1999: The Big Ugly — various artists

Whoever said Detroit musical talent is not worth listening to lied.

The compilation disc "Detroit 1999: The Big Ugly" proves that Detroit musicians are not only worth the time, but that talent has, does and will exist in the Motor City.

The 17-track release contains one cut each from local acts, some old, some new, some strong and some blue. All arranged on plastic from a local recording company which has been releasing material since 1977 and has six other compilations under its belt.

Each track is unique in its own right giving only a taste of each act's potential. Nevertheless, it's a good way to get exposed and possibly contaminated. Majority of the cuts have a rock feel to it, but what could you expect from a city of middle class, beef and potatoes, Bud Light drinkers.

The first thing that hits you are the hearty vocals on an interesting broken heart story entitled "Papa's Arms" from the now-defunct Strange Bedfellows. The release continues along with a bouncy-abstract Cinecycle's "Slave Wages" to a soulful country-feeling "When You're There" from the Volebeats.

The big release travels to a fun-filled look at hating school with the Happy Accidents' "All My Teachers," the outgoing sounds of The Opaque's "Political Machine," the trials and tribulations of loathing working with See Dick Run's "I Hate My Job," and to the abstract, orchestrated sounds of Jim Olenski's "High Noon at Mojave."

Each piece has its own feel, like all compilations, but considering this is Detroit based, it acts as a voice for the groups and performers which they might not otherwise get. If nothing else, "Detroit 1999: The Big Ugly" is the perfect way to taste a variety of home-based sounds.

The fictional idea behind this release is mass destruction after the Eight Mile Road War of 1995, one large auto company and the lack of music in the city except for one droning note leaving Tremor compilations the only music listened to by renegades. Luckily, it's only a dream.

Crossing Borders — Kukuruza

This may or may not be the finest bluegrass disc of the year (I think it's one of the five best, at least), but it is the most unusual.

The U.S. label debut for this brilliant Moscow-based octet, while steeped in a stock bluegrass framework, reminds me more of Fairport Convention than Alison Krauss most of the time.

Certainly, lead vocalist Irina Surina has absorbed every nuance of the Sandy Denny songbook and emerges as the best new vocalist of the year, hands down. That she is surrounded by madolinist/clarinetist Georgi Palmov, dobro/banjo player Andrei Shepelev and fiddler supreme Sergei Mosolov enhances the magic, and makes the fact that 13 of the 14 tunes here are sung in their native Russian that much less of a problem. It isn't that hard to imagine the lyric content of the songs. The delivery is a notch this side of heaven, and the song titles are given English translations, so how much more can you expect.

"Go With God My Lovely" sounds like Denny backed by David Grisman; "The Wanderer" sounds like it wanted to be the "Wings of a Snow White Dove." "The Secret" has the best fiddle break this side of "White Bird"; "Love Takes Work," the only English language piece, reminds me of "Tennessee Stud"; and "Enough" could have been a Peggy Lee song.

This is just about as amazing as acoustic music gets! Highly recommended.

"In The Name of the Father" (soundtrack) various artists

Daniel Day-Lewis has been called an early Oscar contender for his portrayal of Gerry Conlon, a petty thief wrongly convicted along with his family for an IRA bombing, in the film "In the Name of the Father." But what has been lost in the shadow of the movie's hype is the quiet return of Sinead O'Connor, who contributed the song "Thief of Your Heart" to the film.

The song is trademark O'Connor, who has vowed a few times never to record again. Her angelic voice is accompanied in most of the song by only drum beats, keyboards and strings — a sound as chilling as some of the lyrics of the song: "Winter's cold, but you're colder still." The song increases in tempo as it progresses and frantically fades.

'Tommy': Rock as an art form

■ Twenty-five years after the debut of "Tommy," fans of The Who are once again seeing, feeling and hearing the story of the "deaf, dumb and blind kid."

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Actor Roger Bart spent endless months being sickeningly nice to children as "Dickon" in the play "The Secret Garden."

Now he gets to torture them in his role as the conniving abusive "Cousin Kevin" in the rock opera "Tommy," which plays the Masonic Temple in Detroit through Sunday, Feb. 6.

"After 'The Secret Garden' and being so nice to the little girl, it's divine justice now that I'm able to torture a child," the boisterous Bart said with a laugh.

In "The Secret Garden," "Dickon" teaches the young Mary Lennox to make her garden flourish. His tenure in the role included a three-week stint at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit.

In "Tommy," "torture" aptly describes Cousin Kevin's treatment of Tommy, played by 1992 Detroit Music Awards host and ex-MTV veejay Steve Isaacs. One line in a song Cousin Kevin sings hints at his plans for his "deaf, dumb and blind" cousin: "There's a lot I can do with a freak."

"I get to stick him in a garbage can. . . . I was a little scared about what my parents would think when they saw me up there," he said.

But as Kevin and some local children are harassing the young boy, Tommy discovers his penchant for playing pinball.

Cousin Kevin's role in the play is much more pronounced in the stage production than the cameo he had in the 1975 movie, which starred Ann-Margret, Tina Turner, Roger Daltrey and Eric Clapton. Once Tommy's talent is discovered, Cousin Kevin takes advantage of his young relative's newfound fame.

That's one of the many differences between the film and the play. Without divulging too many secrets, Bart offers a blunt comparison of the two productions.

"It's extremely different from the movie," Bart said from Boston where "Tommy" was playing prior to the Detroit shows. "In the play version, the people actually sing well," he said. (The most surprising talent in the show is Isaacs who proves to be a phenomenal singer with exceptional range.)

"If you want to refresh your memory (about the play), the last thing I'd want you to do is rent the movie.

"Ann-Margret rolling in baked beans . . . Maybe the guy who directed it was turned on by that or something. This is much more sort of along the lines of what Pete (Townshend) was trying to do. The ending reflects a little more maturity. . . . I think he imagined it to be like this."

The most obvious change takes place in the beginning of the play when Tommy's father kills his mother's lover. In the film, it's the father who dies. Although it may irk those who respect the original movie, director Des McAnuff said it's the right of The Who's Pete Townshend to change his creation.

"There are people who really feel like they own this, that this has been part of them, and they don't want anything to change. They want nothing other than the original album and a concert version by The Who," said director Des McAnuff in the book "Tommy."

"But Pete certainly has the right to return to his own work and do what he pleases. It's a sacred right that a writer has. And what I think happens to those folks who are open to 'Tommy' is that they get completely caught up in the theater and the music — they're experiencing a true development and extension of the original album."

Part of the development of the 1990s version of "Tommy" is the result of the creative minds of the cast as well. Bart recalled one of his first meetings with Townshend: "He said, 'Have a great time, kids, and make it your own.' "

Tracey Langran, a dancer who has toured with the English pop band Pet Shop Boys, also didn't feel intimidated by performing material by Townshend in front of the rock legend.

"Pete Townshend is what made this very similar to doing a concert tour; he knew everyone's name," said Langran, who is the cast's dance captain and understudy for most of the women's parts. "He has this energy that's unbelievable."

Fans of the play must possess similar energy. Tickets are scarce for the Broadway performance, and the shows at the Masonic Temple are selling briskly. Bart said he believes this was the right time for "Tommy" because fans of the original album are now financially stable and able to spend $50-$100 on tickets for the show.

"I think you look at the target audience of Broadway: People who can afford it are over 50. The people who grew up on the album can come and enjoy it on Broadway."

He said it's also appealing for the "twenty-something crowd," many of whom were too young to remember the album.

Although he admits to not being a big Who fan prior to auditioning for "Tommy," the music is what makes Bart excited to sing "the hardest music I've ever sang" including the song "Pinball Wizard."

"Every night I hear the overture and I can't wait to jump in," he said. "It's really a terrific piece. Thanks to bands like Nirvana, rock 'n'roll is still around. They've saved it. They've proved that "it's a valid American art form as opposed to something that's just a fad."

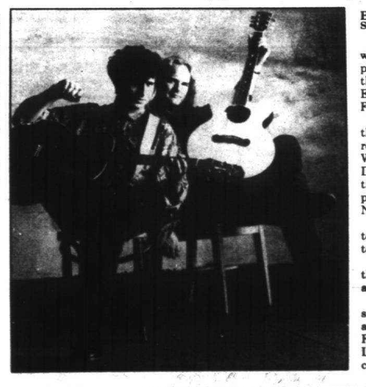

"Tommy" is at the Masonic Temple, 500 Temple, Detroit, through Sunday, Feb. 6. Tickets are priced at $25-$47.50. For more information, call (810) 645-6666 or (313) 832-5900.

Artists show off new-found success at Ark

Starting over: Dan Navarro and Eric Lowen have found the support they need to revive their musical career with Parachute Records.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Dan Navarro and Eric Lowen have written successful tunes for a host of performers including Pat Benatar, the Bangles, David Lee Roth, Dave Edmunds, the Temptations and the Four Tops.

Yet two years ago the duo found that they couldn't revive their own career after releasing "Walking on a Wire" on Chameleon Records in 1990. Despite unsuccessful attempts at getting another record deal, they kept plugging along, touring as "Lowen & Navarro."

"We continued to tour without any tour support," Navarro said from a tour stop in Ardmore, Pa.

They wanted to make sure that their fans "knew we didn't just go away," he added.

One of their supporters who didn't stray was Tom Vickers, director of artist and repertoire for Mercury Records. He had the perfect home for Lowen & Navarro's music — Parachute records, which he recently revived. A former rock label, Parachute is geared toward adults who grew up listening to rock music but aren't interested in modern rock, Vickers said.

". . . the adult progressive market is an up-and-coming format that encompasses a mixed bag of compatible musical styles, including singer/songwriter, acoustic and electric folk, country and some aspects of jazz and blues," Vickers said. "These consumers grew up with rock and still love many of the artists that have shifted into the acoustic arena, like Eric Clapton and Rod Stewart.

"In their search for new artists and good songwriting, a lot of people have gravitated toward country music, which is now more popular than ever. Parachute's goal is to have that kind of quality songwriting but geared more toward people who grew up with rock music."

Lowen & Navarro's album "Broken Moon," which includes guest appearances by Navarro's cousin Dave Na-

Help is called for to handle distress about weight loss

BARBARA SCHIFF

Voice mail message:
Barb,
I saw the "Company" show when you talked to some women, and a man, who lost huge amounts of weight. I have a problem . . . a big problem. I continue to feel fat despite having lost 150 pounds.
When I buy clothes I take things off the rack that are far too big for me. I am always surprised when the big sizes don't fit. Also, I am worried about gaining the weight back.
I am preoccupied with this thought. I just don't know what to do about this.

Dear Caller,

You are distressed and need psychological counseling. If you do not know how to contact an experienced counselor on your own, please send me your address. I will send you information that will help you to do so.

The following is some information that I hope will give you greater perspective on your problem.

Often, men and women who lose large amounts of weight report "still feeling fat." It is possible that there may be both psychological and neurological reasons for those feelings.

Nearly all amputees report feeling the presence of their absent limb or limbs. Despite the absence of physical flesh, they describe a full range of sensations, such as heat, cold, pain, movement and touch. Although I did not find similar research with people who lost a lot of weight, it is logical that the two phenomena are related.

Scientists trying to find the origin of these seemingly crazy sensations discovered complicated brain interactions leading to them. The cliche, "It is all in your mind" is true, not because the person is crazy but because the brain is organized to generate a bodily experience even when parts of the body are not present.

So far, scientists do not know how to help amputees retrain their brains so that they are not tortured by their phantom limbs. The answer to that question could help psychologists help people like you.

Right now you need counseling to help you with your insecurities. Most new behavior brings with it a feeling of instability, fears of backsliding. Not knowing "what to do" is an undesirable position, one that furthers your confusion.

12 or so reasons to see Six Degrees

By John Monaghan
Special Writer

MOVIES

A clean-cut young black man stumbles unannounced into a Fifth Avenue apartment clutching at his side. He tells Flan and Ouisa Kitteridge, a middle-aged art dealer and his wife, that he was mugged in Central Park. He came here because he's a friend of the couple's children at Harvard.

When he introduces himself as Paul Poitier, son of the famous actor, he really gets the couple's attention. He spends the evening and makes them dinner, helping Flan seal a $2 million art sale to an impressed foreign dealer.

That Paul is really a con-man should come as no surprise. If you didn't hear about John Guare's award-winning play "Six Degrees of Separation," you probably heard something about the much-publicized case on which it was based.

Part of the movie's fascination comes through the thought that anyone can be duped, especially when a famous person's name is dropped. But this just scrapes the surface of a story full of clever insights from Guare (who also wrote the screenplay) and director Fred Schepisi.

The director, who began his career in Australia with uncompromising films like "The Chant of Jimmy Blacksmith," understands the subtleties needed in a story like "Six Degrees." He gets big laughs at the foibles of his uppercrust characters, who at their most extreme, appear genuine and human.

Donald Sutherland and Stockard Channing have their best roles in years as the Kitteridges, both outraged and moved by the young con man. Despite his deception, Paul compares favorably to their own son and daughter, freshmen at Harvard, gagging on the silver spoon.

You can also make a connection between Paul and Flan, who are both cons in their own way. On more than one occasion, the art dealer manipulates customers by giving them the latest details in the continuing saga, which by now has hit "The New York Times."

The story is told by the couple at dinner parties, at art openings and auctions, and each time it goes a little bit further. Intentionally complex, it draws you into each new chapter and keeps you guessing at the outcome.

Those who think that rapper and TV star Will Smith can't handle a role this complex need only look at him play directly to the camera, reviewing the highlights of his false father's career. We can see that he's performing for someone, but for now this little twist stays secret.

Among the more interesting notions in "Six Degrees of Separation" comes through the title, which says that we can connect to anyone else in the world through only six people. You can link the President of the United States to a gondolier in Venice through a chain of friends and relatives.

In between intellectual revelations, there's some amazing use of the Manhattan landscape, which you may think has been filmed from every angle imaginable until you see Schepisi take a crack at it.

From the script and direction to the smallest speaking parts, "Six Degrees of Separation" joins "The Snapper" as the year's first must-see films.

If you have a comment for John Monaghan, call him at 953-2047, mailbox 1866, on a touch-tone phone, or write to him care of Street Scene, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

"The Accompanist" (France — 1993), 7 and 9:30 p.m. Jan. 28-29; 4 and 7 p.m. Jan. 30. In German-occupied France in 1942, an impoverished but quietly ambitious girl is swept into a world of privilege and comfort when she is hired as piano accompanist to a successful singer.

■ KINOTEK
Capitol Theatre and Arts Centre, 121 University, Windsor. Call (519) 971-5160 for information. ($4.50)

Sicko '60s double bill — "Mondo Topless" (USA — 1966) at 9 p.m. and "Manson" (USA — 1972) at 10:30 p.m. Jan. 28-30. In "Topless," smut master Russ Meyer provides a humorous document of the '60s topless craze, filmed atop oil rigs, Cadillacs and on the streets of San Francisco. "Manson," meanwhile, gives a very unusual portrait of the cult leader and killer, with interviews from Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme and yippie Jerry Rubin. The documentary was actually nominated for an Academy Award.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATER,
22918 Woodward, Ferndale. Call 544- 3030 for information. (Ticket prices vary)

"Third Annual Metropolitan Film Festival," 8 p.m. Jan. 27. The second in a three-night festival featuring short works from around the world, including "Suite Harry," "A $333 Film," "Doctor Alzheimer's Medicine Show" and "Bombing L.A." ($5)

"Maurice" (Britain — 1987), 1, 3:30, 6 and 8:30 p.m. Jan. 30. Another pretty Merchant-Ivory production, based on a novel by E.M. Forster. Here a young man comes of age (and out of the closet) in Britain in the 1910s. ($8)

■ MAIN ART THEATER
118 N. Main St., at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday. Call 542-0180 for information and show times. ($6.50; $4 students; $3 twilight/matinee)

"King of the Hill" (USA — 1994). Stephen Soderberg ("sex, lies and videotape" and "Kafka") directed this tale of a boy's coming-of-age during the Depression.

"Schindler's List" (USA — 1993). Stephen Spielberg may finally get his Academy Award for this story of Oskar Schindler (Liam Neeson), a war profiteer and Nazi crony who protected and saved the lives of more than 1,000 Jews during the Holocaust.

"Six Degrees of Separation" (USA — 1994). Based on John Guare's award-winning play, a savvy young man (Will Smith) poses as Sidney Poitier's son to cajole his way into the home of a Fifth Avenue couple (Donald Sutherland and Stockard Channing).

The two others are original songs, collaborations between Bono of U2 and labelmate Gavin Friday. Like the O'Connor song, "In the Name of the Father" begins heavily and swings upward into an almost industrial-sounding danceable song and collapses into Friday and Bono's moody mumbling.

Friday and Bono re-appear on the soundtrack with the disco song "Billy Boola," an upbeat departure from the other original songs.

The soundtrack, on Island Records, also includes classic rock songs, including "Voodoo Child (Slight Return)" by Jimi Hendrix, "Dedicated Follower of Fashion" by the Kinks, "Is This Love" by Bob Marley and The Wailers and "Whiskey in the Jar" by Thin Lizzy.

The song which accompanies the intense trailers, "Pride (in the Name of Love)" isn't on the soundtrack album.

With the exception of "Billy Boola," the album is equally as painful as the 2½-hour film — but in this case it's good.

varro of the Red Hot Chili Peppers and ex-Bangles singer Susanna Hoffs, is the label's first. The acoustic act Jump in the Water and New York-based singer/songwriter Jane Williams will release albums on the label this year.

Lowen & Navarro are now touring to support "Broken Moon." The tour, which brings them to The Ark in Ann Arbor on Wednesday, Jan. 26, will include a Spanish version of "We Belong," a song they wrote for Pat Benatar.

Opening the show is Billy Falcon, another adult progressive musician who will play material from his upcoming album "Letters from a Paper Ship." Like Lowen & Navarro, Falcon was rediscovered by a long-time fan, Jon Bon Jovi. After a few meetings with Falcon, Bon Jovi signed him to his now-defunct, Mercury-affiliated label Jambo.

The record deal along with recording his first album for Jambco, "Pretty Blue World," helped Falcon get back on his feet after the death of his wife.

"Most of my time (prior to the recording of "Pretty Blue World") was spent in a family situation. . . . My wife was ill and passed away," said Falcon, who is now signed with Mercury Records.

After his wife died, Falcon found himself the single father of their daughter Rosie and drifted away from writing songs. Bon Jovi's interest in his music, however, sparked his creativity.

"For the first time in five years I felt that I was breathing," he added.

"Pretty Blue World" included the hit "Power Windows," a song that convinced Bon Jovi to sign him. In the album "Letters from a Paper Ship," many of the songs point to Falcon's positive outlook even at the worst of times. For example, in "Cold Hard World" he sings: "It's a cold hard world. That's a cold hard fact. You break your heart while you break your back. Like a reckless train on a wild track it's a cold hard world. . . ."

Lowen & Navarro with special guest Billy Falcon perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 26, at The Ark, 637½ S. Main St., Ann Arbor. Tickets are $5. For more information, call (313) 761-1451, (313) 761-1800 or (810) 645-6666.

Amateur boxing show

Ten amateur bouts, featuring open division boxers from the Detroit and Lansing areas, will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 29 at the Livonia Boxing Club gym, located off Middlebelt just north Plymouth Road (back of the shopping center next to McDonald's).

Admission is $5 per person. All proceeds will go to the LBC. Refreshments are available.

Scheduled to appear for the LBC are brothers Randy and Jason Anderson, D.J. Niziol, Paul Jensen and Scott Mattson. Mattson represented a U.S. team on a 10-day trip last August to New Zealand.

Tickets are available by calling the LBC at 525-1387.

Let's talk baseball

Detroit Tigers scouting director Joe Klein will be the featured speaker at the Winter Hot Stove Clinic, 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday, at the Eastern Michigan University's Huron Golf Course Clubhouse (Radisson on the Lake).

The cost is $20 at the door (includes pizza, pop, prizes and learning videos).

Other featured speakers include Brad Andress, Tigers strength and conditioning coach; Jeff Jones, Toledo Mud Hens pitching coach; and Bruce Fields, Tigers minor league hitting instructor.

Enrollment is limited. To reserve a spot call 487-0095.

■ The Michigan Merchants, two-time defending champs Little Caesars Amateur Baseball League, are holding clinics for 10- to 14-year-olds interested in playing travel baseball.

For more information, call Ed Burke (10-year-olds) at 281-2575; Cris Hansen (12-year-olds) at 427-1948; and Al Fernandez (14-year-olds) at 287-4055.

College softball job

Madonna University is seeking an assistant coach for its women's softball program. Qualified applicants can call Madonna athletic director Ray Summers at 591-5135. (Deadline Feb. 1).

Soccer meeting

Plymouth Salem girls (grades 9-12) interested in playing varsity or junior varsity soccer should attend an organizational meeting at 6 p.m. Feb. 11 in Room 2703 of the high school.

For information call coach Ken Johnson (397-0668).

Softball for men

Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education Services will offer an eight-week class in men's competitive softball, 10 a.m. to noon, beginning Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The cost is $25.

For more information, call 462-4413.

Soccer tryouts

The Northville Sting will sponsor an under-15 boys premier league soccer team for the spring 1994 season.

For tryout dates and times, call coach Joe Retzbach (347-0064) by Sunday, Jan. 23.

Baseball card show

The first-ever Concordia College sports card show is slated for 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 6. at the college, located at 4090 Geddes in Ann Arbor.

Admission is $1, with children under 12 free. Autograph guests are Bill Stafford, a former New York Yankee (1960-68), and Ron Rightnowar, a star at Eastern Michigan University.

Dealers can reserve a table ($25, which includes lunch) by calling Jay Buelow at 995-4607 or Chandelle at 995-7344. The show is limited to 60 dealers. Table reservations must be paid by Feb. 4.

Proceeds benefit the Concordia College baseball team.

Soccer sign-up

Registration for the Canton Soccer Club's spring season is under way, and will continue through Feb. 1 at the Canton Parks and Recreation office.

Boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 18 are eligible. All new players must bring copies of their birth certificates and Social Security numbers when they register, with a check payable to the Canton Soccer Club.

The registration fees: for players born from Aug. 1, 1986, through April 2, 1989, $25; for players born Aug. 1, 1984, through July 31, 1986, $30; for players born prior to Aug. 1, 1984, $35. Players born prior to Aug. 1, 1984, who did not register for the fall 1993 season must pay an additional $15 uniform fee.

For more information, call Watson Zdrodowski at 459-0927.

Seth's 3s secure Salem victory

■ BASKETBALL

There was no reason to expect much of a challenge.

After all, the two teams were at opposite ends of the basketball spectrum. Going into Friday's game, Livonia Stevenson had just one win to its credit; Plymouth Salem had only one loss.

Plus, the game was at Salem. What could go wrong?

Don't ask. Yes, the Rocks won, 79-60 — but it wasn't easy.

"It was a battle to the end," said Salem coach Bob Brodie, whose team improved to 8-1 overall and to 3-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Stevenson is 1-6 overall, 1-2 in the WLAA.

"They hung around until late in the third quarter," Brodie said of the stubborn Spartans.

The much-needed spark that pushed Salem over the hump came from somewhat unexpected sources. Sure, James Head did his share of damage — he scored 17 points and grabbed 14 rebounds.

But the outcome was still anything but assured late in the third quarter when Sanjeev Seth and Jeff Lamb found the range from outside. Seth hit a pair of three-pointers and Lamb netted another, allowing the Rocks to pull away from a 40-33 halftime lead to a 65-50 advantage entering the final period.

Seth, a senior guard, had a career night: He scored 24 points, including six threes. Adam Hammons also reached double figures in scoring for Salem, with 12.

Stevenson got 14 points apiece from Steve Jacobs and Brett Ferris. Chris Chichilla added 13.

■ INTER-CITY 77, PCA 50: It wasn't difficult to find the difference separating Allen Park Inter-City Baptist and Plymouth Christian Academy Friday in Allen Park.

It was Lance Cosby.

Baptist put the pressure on PCA from the start, outscoring the Eagles 24-12 in the opening quarter. Cosby pumped in eight of Baptist's points.

The spread was still a dozen at the half (36-24), but Cosby changed that in the third quarter. He scored 15 of his team's 24 points — sinking three three-pointers — as Baptist pulled away to a 60-32 lead. Cosby finished with a game-high 23 points.

Eric Dumbeck chipped in with 15 and Ed Horn had 13 for Baptist (now 7-2). PCA was led by Aaron Jones with 16 points (and six rebounds) and Dan House with 10 (and seven boards). Ryan Thomason contributed 11 rebounds and six assists.

The loss evened the Eagles' record at 5-5.

No laughing matter

Canton holds off Harrison's final-quarter rally

Perhaps Plymouth Canton thought the game was over, that there was no fight left in Farmington Harrison Friday night. In any case, it took some clutch free throws by Ted Docks in the final 30 seconds to secure a victory for Canton.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

For two quarters at least, this game was a joke — and all the laughs belonged to Plymouth Canton.

But the tone turned serious in the stretch run. And as the clock ticked, ever so slowly for the Chiefs, the humor melted. Suddenly, it wasn't funny anymore.

It was a ball game.

Fortunately for Canton, time ran out on a furious Farmington Harrison rally that fell a point short. The Chiefs' 61-60 victory Friday at Harrison lifted them over .500 for the first time this season — they are 5-4 overall, 2-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Hawks slipped to 4-5 overall, 0-3 in the WLAA.

"That was quite a finish, eh?" said a relieved Canton coach Dave VanWagoner. "Well, we'll take the win on the road."

And run with it — which is exactly what put the Chiefs in command in the first half. After a lackluster first quarter by both teams (Harrison led 12-8), Canton came alive in the second. VanWagoner put his troops into a full-court press, and the Hawks came unglued.

"We're a slow team," admitted Harrison coach Mike Teachman. "Quickness bothers us."

It showed in that quarter. Canton scored 13-straight points and, after a Harrison basket by Kevin Bambenek, the Chiefs ran off nine more. By the time halftime mercifully arrived for the Hawks, they had been outscored 29-6.

And it might have been worse. They committed seven turnovers in the quarter, and Canton was horrible at the free throw line, making just 5-of-14.

Harrison started the second half with a 7-2 run, but the Chiefs still had a comfortable 49-30 lead when the fourth quarter rolled around. They increased their advantage to 20 with a Matt Paupore free throw in the first minute of the final period.

That's when the fun began. In a 3½ minute span, Harrison put together a 17-2 run that trimmed Canton's lead to 52-47. Calvin Pruitt and both Bambenek brothers, Kevin and Charles, each had five points in the comeback, with Charles' three-pointer with 3:32 left making it a five-point game.

It remained agonizingly tight the rest of the way, but Harrison never did catch up. Rick Smith's free throw with 45 seconds left pulled the Hawks to within 58-55; he missed the second, but Aaron Weiss rebounded and Kevin Bambenek pumped up a potential game-tying three. It missed, and Harrison was forced to foul.

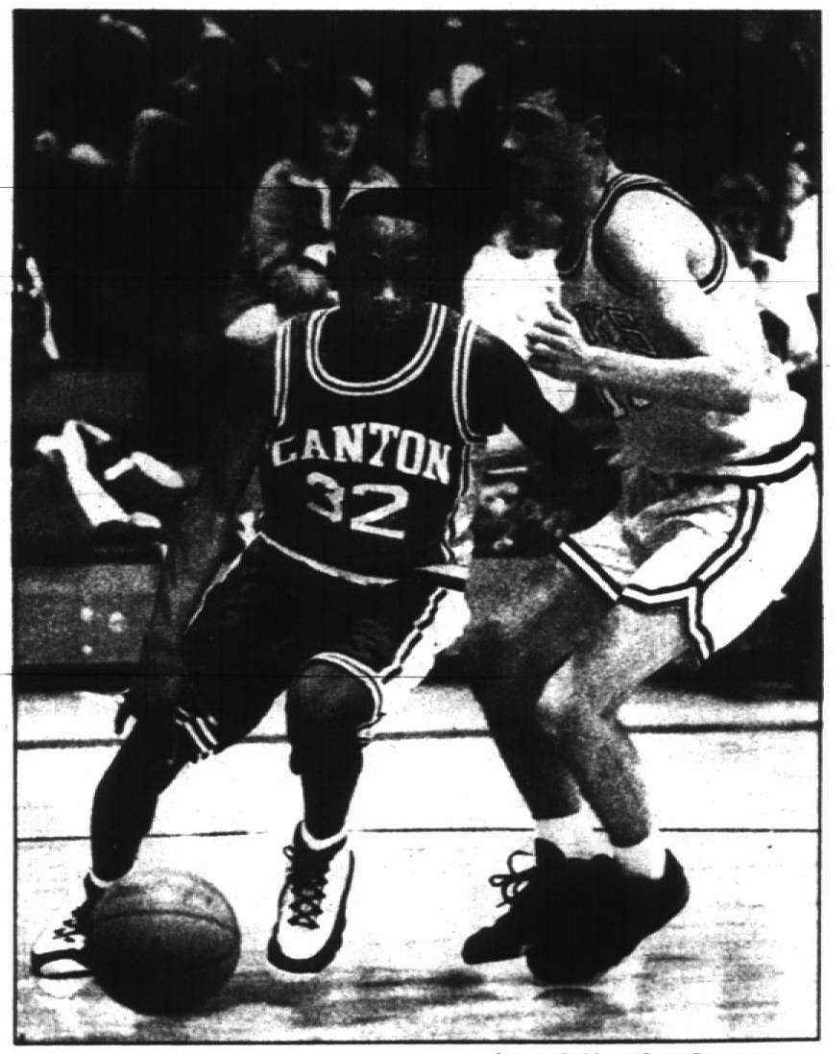

Ted Docks went to the line with 30 seconds left and made 1-of-2. Smith answered with a layup seven seconds later, and the Hawks again fouled Docks. This time he hit both with nine seconds to go, making it a four-point game.

Ball game, right? Well, not quite. A long-range Kevin Bambenek triple pulled the Hawks to within a point with a second left. But they never regained possession.

Paupore was the only Chief to reach double figures in scoring with 18. Docks had nine and Ron Hunter netted eight. Docks also had five assists.

Harrison got 15 points and 18 rebounds from Pruitt. Kevin Bambenek scored 14 and Charles Bambenek finished with 12.

"Yeah, it was a great comeback," Harrison's Teachman said. "There's a real positive feeling in our locker room right now. We proved we can play against quickness."

SHARON LEMIEUX/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Mr. Clutch: Canton's Ted Docks, dribbling past Harrison's Kevin Bambenek, made the shots when needed Friday. Docks hit 3-of-4 free throws in the final 30 seconds to secure the win.

Certainly the Hawks made a believer out of VanWagoner. His team's second-quarter surge pleased him, but the rest did not: "That's as good a quarter defensively as we've had," he said. "But as good as that quarter was, the second half was as bad defensively.

"I think the kids thought they had it won. In the fourth quarter they completely fell apart. Thank goodness we made our free throws at the end."

No kidding.

Slone's best boosts Crusaders to triumph

■ MADONNA

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

It was a night of firsts Wednesday for Madonna University's men's basketball team:

■ The Fighting Crusaders held two-consecutive opponents to under 100 points;

■ They found an inside game to complement their defense;

■ They actually had a lead at halftime.

All were first-time-this-season accomplishments for Madonna. Oh yes — there was something else.

The Crusaders won a home game, beating Concordia College 102-97.

Attitude, according to coach Bill Sharpe, was as big a factor as anything in Madonna's win. "They came out and made it known they were going to win," he said.

"They really tried to work the game play. A lot of them just decided their man wasn't going to score on them."

It showed, in the first half in particular when the Crusaders powered in front 61-52. Unlike earlier efforts this season, when they seemed to live or die (the latter ruled by a wide margin) by the three-point shot, they've cut back on perimeter shots and tried to work for better one in closer.

Against Concordia, Madonna attempted just 21 threes (making seven). The Cardinals were 9-of-21 on treys.

What turned the tide was the play of the Crusaders' big men, 6-foot-7 Brandon Slone and 6-8 Sam Kuehn. Both freshmen recorded career-highs in scoring, Slone pouring in 28 points and Kuehn 13. Kuehn also nabbed a collegiate-best 11 rebounds; Slone had nine.

Dan Dombrow netted 12 points and Doug Soper had 11. Soper, the sophomore point guard, also had 11 assists and five boards. Concordia got 26 points from Brent Pontillo and 23 from Joe Pechota.

There was another first for the Crusaders: They got a lead and held it. The previous Saturday, they had rallied to tie University of Michigan-Dearborn midway through the second half, only to let up and lose by 17.

This time, they withstood the pressure. With four minutes to play, Concordia was down by 12. With less than a minute left, the game was tied. But Slone knocked down a pair of free throws and Madonna's defense held. Soper iced the victory with 13 seconds to go, making 3-of-4 free throws after a foul and technical foul were called against the Cards.

"Two weeks ago, Concordia would have beat us," said Sharpe, whose team ended a 10-game losing streak with the win. Madonna is now 2-19. "They just made up their mind Concordia wasn't going to beat them. I think the freshmen are coming together now."

Concordia was hardly top-notch competition. The Cards are now 1-15. Their errant free throw shooting was their undoing: 12-of-27 (44 percent) to Madonna's 29-of-43 (67 percent).

■ MADONNA 73, CONCORDIA 58: It's been an uphill struggle for the Lady Crusaders, but they finally reached the break-even point with Thursday's win at Concordia.

That was the good news. Here's the bad: Starting point guard Shawn Bannon injured her right knee with two minutes left in the first half.

The extent of the injury was unknown. "We'll have to wait for the swelling to go down," said Madonna coach Bill Potter.

The injury occured when Bannon came to a jump stop as she went in for a layup.

"I feel it will hurt us without her leadership," said Potter. "But I also feel we have quality people that can take her spot — if she gets back.

"It's always bad when you lose your No. 1 guard."

Make that No. 1 player. Bannon, a junior, is a transfer from Central Michigan University, where she was a starter. She leads the Crusaders in scoring, assists and steals. She had scored six points before being hurt.

They hardly needed her against Concordia (5-13 overall). Jill Burt (21 points) and Stephanie Crelley (20 points, nine rebounds) picked up the scoring slack quite well; Meegan Marlatt (seven assists) and Tracy Prybylski (six assists), who took over for Bannon, distributed the ball.

Vikki Koenig contributed as well, with 13 points and eight boards. The win evened Madonna's record at 8-8.

CC's Holowicki gets his 600th

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

They threw a victory party Friday night at Redford Catholic Central, complete with a cake for legendary coach Bernie Holowicki.

All would agree there's nothing stale about the cake or the coach.

Holowicki, who works as hard today as he did in 1953, when his coaching career started at Detroit St. Hedwig, earned career win 600 with a 78-43 victory over visiting Harper Woods Notre Dame.

Holowicki, 600-213 overall, is the third high school basketball coach in Michigan to reach 600, joining a club that includes retired coaches Lofton Greene of River Rouge (739 wins) and Paul Cook of Lansing Eastern (635).

CC is 5-3 overall, 3-1 in the Catholic League Central Division.

"To have my sons and friends in here and CC to give me the party, that's real nice," Holowicki, 62, said. "I never expected this. I just thought the game's over, that's it. Life goes on, we have Warren DeLaSalle and that 6-foot-9 kid (Jim Miller) on Tuesday."

As for the cake, it was baked Monday night by the mother of CC senior guard Andy Kummer in anticipation of Holowicki winning No. 600 on Tuesday against New Boston Huron. That game was postponed due to the cold weather, but the cake stayed fresh sitting in the Kummers' garage the next three days.

All that was missing on Seniors Night was 600 candles.

"Coach Holowicki is a great guy and I love to be a part of this," Kummer said. "He's kind of like a dad to us. He'll cuss you out on the court and tell you what he thinks but then he's your best friend after the game."

The milestone came against ND coach Mike Maltese, who played for Holowicki at Warren DeLaSalle before graduating in 1971. Holowicki took over the next season at CC.

Maltese said he gave Holowicki a congratulatory card before the game. With ND's leading scorer and rebounder, 6-7 sophomore Tim Mott, out with bronchitis, Maltese figured the card would be open after the game.

The Irish fell to 2-6 overall, 0-4 in the Central Division.

"Those guys (CC's players) were hungry to get him it," Maltese said. "I think of coach Holowicki as someone special. If somebody had to be it, I'm glad he got 600 against me."

CC ended the first quarter with nine straight points for a 13-4 lead. The Shamrocks started the second quarter with an 11-2 run to go ahead 24-6 en route to a 40-16 halftime lead.

Three CC players scored in double figures, led by 6-foot junior guard Mike Ridley with 17 points on six-of-10 shooting, including two three-point shots. Kummer made all five of his field-goal attempts and finished with 13 points and sophomore guard Justin Hoener added 11 points.

Joe Daly, a 6-7 senior center, scored all eight of his points in the first half, and he had a team-high six rebounds before Holowicki emptied his bench in the second half. The Shamrocks enjoyed a 34-27 rebounding advantage with Hoener and Ridley adding five each.

Seldom-used sophomore forward Richard Turk had six points off the bench and reserve junior forward Jon Kandes put the finishing touches on the win with a three-pointer at the buzzer.

"I like the way the second group played; they were very unselfish and played great defense," Holowicki said.

There was concern after the game, however, for senior guard Andy Slankster, who injured his hip and elbow in a fall to the floor.

ND shot only 33 percent from the field (15-46). The Irish, who trailed 58-22 after three quarters, were led by senior guard Anthony Vitale.

Schoolcraft records its 1st conference win

The end of another streak for Schoolcraft College's men's basketball team.

Last Monday, the Ocelots ended a seven-game losing streak by beating Adrian College's junior varsity. On Wednesday, they won their first Eastern Conference game of the season, toppling Alpena 85-69 at SC.

All seven losses in their slide had been against conference foes. SC is now 1-7 in the league, 7-11 overall.

Coach Dave Bogataj attributed the win to team play — which became imperative when Steve Whitlow, the team's only returning starter from last season and its second-leading scorer, was sidelined with an illness prior to the game.

To make matters worse, Todd McNeil, the conference's leading scorer (25.7 points per game) and fourth-leading rebounder (9.1), got into foul trouble quickly. McNeil was whistled for three fouls in the first five minutes of the game and played just 20 minutes altogether, totaling 11 points and eight rebounds.

At that point, Bogataj said, "It was up to them. They had to do it — and they did."

Indeed. Biggest among the contributors was Dan Perttula, a 5-11 guard from Redford Thurston. Perttula didn't join the team until December, when it became evident several players would be lost due to academic problems. He made his addition noteworthy, pouring in 33 points against Alpena.

Included in that total were seven three-pointers; 24 of his points and six of his threes came in the second half. "He just got open and buried it," said Bogataj. "He got in a real nice rhythym."

Mark Cady added 12 points and Lamonte Fondren had nine and seven rebounds. Alpena (6-12 overall, 2-6 in the conference) got 16 points from Herman Jenkins, 15 from both Craig Covington and Dan Smith, and 10 from Scott Nicholson.

That game ended the first half of the conference's round-robin season, and no front-runner has emerged. Highland Park, Delta and Macomb are all 6-2; Henry Ford is 5-3, Mott is 4-4, Oakland CC and St. Clair are 3-5, Alpena is 2-6 and SC is 1-7.

■ SC 54, ALPENA 51: After a dismal start to their conference season, the Lady Ocelots have turned things around.

They collected their third win in four games Wednesday by defeating Alpena at SC. The Lady Ocelots, 7-6 overall, are now 3-4 in the conference after losing their first three.

The victory did not come easily. Alpena led 22-20 at the half. Angie Cerne helped SC bounce back by scoring 21 points, including three three-pointers. Tricia Kazyska, Alisa Lechter and Shelly Sockow added six points apiece.

Alpena got 27 points from Heidi Haskins and 12 from Renae Gates.

Top grid recruits are narrowing down their choices

BY STEVE KOWALSKI

Redford Catholic Central lineman Brett Magyar committed to Wayne State University after turning down a full scholarship offer to Central Michigan University.

The 6-foot-3, 240-pound Magyar joins Plymouth Salem lineman Steve Hurst in committing to WSU.

WSU's scholarship pays only for tuition and books.

Had Magyar accepted CMU's offer, he would have been the third CC player this year to commit to a Division I program. In December, lineman Doug Brzezinski committed to Boston College and lineman Nick Kallas committed to Iowa.

Magyar was unavailable Friday but his father, Alex Magyar, commented

"We're happy with the decision he made," the elder Magyar said. "Both schools offered a lot. Brett had to make a decision based on the facts he had and that's what he did."

High school seniors can sign national letters of intent Wednesday, Feb. 2.

Observerland's top kickers, North Farmington's Scot Lord and CC's Adam Borchert, remain uncommitted.

Lord, a punter and tight end who scored a 33 on his ACT, has been appointed to West Point but is still considering Miami (Ohio), Oklahoma and Arizona.

Lord would play both positions if he attends West Point but would only punt at Miami (Ohio), Oklahoma or Arizona. Because of scholarship reductions and reluctance to give punters scholarships at Division I schools, Lord might not know his fate with the latter three schools until the first week of February.

"I think I'm Division I material, but if push comes to shove, I could always go Division II," Lord said. "Division I schools have only so many scholarships and they don't want to waste any on punters, but punting is an important part of the game."

Borchert, who scored 35 out of a possible 36 on the ACT and has a 4.9 grade point average taking honors classes at CC, will decide between Ivy League schools Harvard, Yale and Pennsylvania.

Borchert attempted only three field goals because most of CC's drives ended in touchdowns and made two, with a long of 43. More than half of Borchert's kickoffs reached the end zone.

CC tailback Freddie Taylor has considered Grand Valley and Hillsdale and also visited Northwood. Linebacker-safety Joe Pongracz visited Northwood and cornerback Dave Morelli has drawn interest from Hillsdale and Northwood.

Livonia Stevenson wide receiver Brad Morgan will probably end up at North Carolina State or Virginia Tech, where he would study environmental engineering and possibly walk-on as a football player.

Westland John Glenn tight end Mike Bint has visited Grand Valley, Ferris State and CMU.

Glenn linebacker Jeromey Cosby is leaning toward Ferris State, lineman Jason Fuller visited WSU, and Grand Valley and defensive back Matt Howton has visited Ferris State and Grand Valley.

East nips West in Senior Classic series

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Final score: East Side 68,829, West Side 68,642.

These "boxcar" figures represent the total pin fall for each league in the second annual East-West Challenge. This was the second week of a home-and-home series for these two Senior Classic leagues.

That is exactly how the final result is decided in this format. The action took place at Friendly Sterling Lanes in Sterling Heights. It was one of the closest days of the winter. There were several bowlers who couldn't make it, due either to their own poor health or a "sick" car.

After the opening series a week earlier at Mayflower Lanes in Plymouth, the West Siders held a slight lead. Some of the outstanding performances at Friendly Sterling from the West Side seniors: Jim Shimetz, 277; Ed Babinski, 256; Tom Sanford, 247; Milo Quiton, 224; Bill Funke, 227; Hank Haberek, 258; Jim Pierce, 236; Mike Bellovich, 224; Hal Bartley, 242; Jim Engbretson, 235.

But the East Siders — Ron Byrd's Turbo Second Senior Classic — avenged their defeat from last year, and now reign as Champs. At least till next year!

■ The Wayne-Westland Bowling Association is the winner of the ABC 10 Year Service Award. The plaque will be presented at the ABC National Convention in March at Mobile, Alabama.

The WWBA was honored for establishing a Hall of Fame, conducting the annual 700 Tournament and presenting it on TV, sponsoring and supporting several charity programs, which include the MPVA (Paralyzed Veterans), Special Olympics, senior bowlers program, Youth Scholarship Tournament, an annual yearbook with complete averages, award presentations and services to bowlers and the annual awards banquet.

A fine job by the WWBA, which operates in Canton, Westland, Wayne, Romulus and Garden City.

■ A lady bowler at Mayflower Lanes showed me what happened to her bowling ball. She left it in the car overnight, and after five frames the ball split in half. She handled this minor disaster philosophically, saying it was time to get a new ball anyhow.

■ It's always a thrill when someone has a shot at 300. Last week it was Debbie VanMeter of the Greenfield Mixed League at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills who was on the brink. She rolled 11-straight strikes — but was foiled by a stubborn seven pin on her 12th ball. Still, 299's nothing to complain about, and she was excited about getting her first-ever 700 series — a 748.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)
You will need to take a closer look at your financial picture before making an informed decision about a major purchase.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)
While you may be contemplating a career change, it would be best to hold off for a while. Use this time to do some research on various opportunities.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
You would feel so much better if you could only get those domestic chores out of the way. Try to break things down into smaller time increments.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
It may seem like a friend is asking you for advice, but he or she really just wants you to listen. Bragging could get you in trouble.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
Maybe you should stop worrying so much about other people and concentrate on your own well-being. Try not to be so controlling of those you love.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
You are on the verge of ruining a wonderful relationship because of petty jealousies. Open your eyes and take a good hard look at yourself.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
You will feel the need to make some positive changes in your life. Do not waste your time procrastinating; it only harms you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
There is a good chance you will find an item you thought was gone forever. An acquaintance could prove to be quite entertaining.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
Get rid of the distractions that surround you and get to work. You will amaze yourself by what you are able to accomplish.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
You may have to put another person's needs ahead of your own for now. Don't worry; you will one day be rewarded for your good deeds.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Your thriftiness could pay off in a big way very soon. Travel plans are in your future soon. A friend from the past will call.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
Put your sarcasm aside and try to help those around you feel better. Even the smallest insult can bring down a happy mood.

If you had a choice, which would it be?

Health ☐
☐ Illness

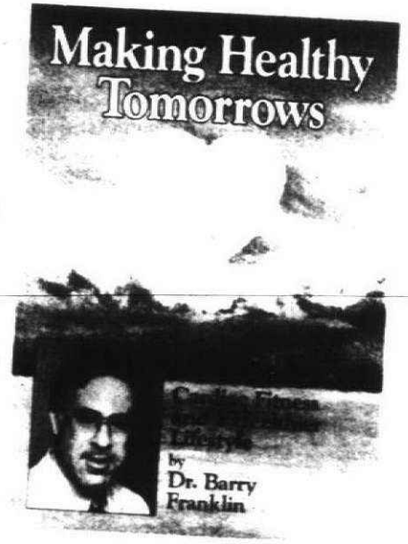

No one would intentionally choose illness, but in "Making Healthy Tomorrows" by Dr. Barry Franklin you will discover how to really choose health!

In his informative new book, Dr. Franklin tells readers in simple layman's language how to choose a healthy lifestyle that will improve appearance, health and well-being.

This well-illustrated book answers real questions, from real people, and tells real stories; some funny, others sad, but all true.

Written for those between 30 and 100, "Making Healthy Tomorrows" is easy to read with numerous charts and tables, and filled with great advice.

Just the gift you'll want to give yourself and those you care about.

I spy, you spy, we all spy for 'I Spy Returns'

By Ted Kusio

When asked what it was like to work with Bill Cosby again in "I Spy Returns," Robert Culp lets out the laugh of a mischievous little boy covered in mud.

Cosby and Culp reprise their roles as Secret Service agents in "I Spy Returns," Thursday, Feb. 3, on CBS.

"Everybody asks the same question, and it's very hard to answer, except to say that when we first worked together he taught me how to have fun. I taught him, and he taught me, but the thing he taught me, mostly, was how to have the most wonderful time imaginable. And it was like that all over again. It was like putting on an old suit, the best suit of clothes you ever had. And we had pure fun!"

And fun between two old friends is the strongest and most enjoyable part of this reunion. Although there may be too many "you're fat" and "you're old" jokes, Cosby and Culp have a great relationship that's a joy to watch. Unfortunately the plot seems fat and old.

In the film, Alexander "Scotty" Scott (Cosby) has retired from the sleuth business to teach. But when he discovers that his daughter (Salli Richardson) is recruited to follow in his footsteps by his old friend and ex-partner Kelly Robinson (Culp), Scott confronts him to get her out of the business.

Kelly tries to offer comfort by explaining that his son (George Newbern) is accompanying Scott's daughter on her first mission, but that just worries Scott even more. Soon the experienced agents follow their rookie offspring and the two pairs take turns rescuing each other from evil spies.

The original series, which aired from 1965-68, earned Cosby three Emmys for his performance while Culp was nominated for both writing and acting.

"Bill, I think, put it better than anybody," Culp says. "Someone asked him 'What was it like to work with Culp again?' and his response was 'When I hear his voice I know exactly where I am.' And the same thing goes for me. There isn't any other way to put it."

"I Spy Returns" almost didn't get made; Culp explains "It's a long and tortured story.

"When Bill hit it big with 'The Cosby Show,' he made a deal with Warner Brothers for features. Warner Brothers thought that the most logical thing for him to do was 'I Spy'; this was going to be a big $20 million picture!

"The deal was that I was to write and direct. Well, two years later, and four scripts later — two of theirs and two of ours — we couldn't agree on anything. They hated the scripts we came up with and we hated the ones they came up with because they didn't understand what 'I Spy' was all about. (Cosby and I) just sadly parted company, and (Warner Brothers) wasted a lot of money. This was '87.

"Well, then it fell into limbo, and Bill was busy and I was busy, and yet Jeff Sagansky, the guy who runs CBS, heard about (the project) and said, 'I want that one,' and he just kept after it and after it until it became a reality."

Culp explains that people often attribute Cosby and Culp with the reinvention of the so-called buddy film. But he thinks they may have actually created the genre.

"When anybody looks back on it," Culp says, "there never was a buddy movie before, outside of 'Gunga Din'; the father of the concept in film, the first time it was really successfully brought off. The only other example is Laurel and Hardy.

"And as a matter of fact, Bill and I both worshipped Laurel and Hardy, and there were some deliberate references to them in the stuff that we did (in the original series), as we made it up going along. ('I Spy Returns') was the same thing."

The smoothness and wittiness of Cosby and Culp's dialogue is one the foundations of "I Spy Returns," probably because it's real.

"It's very hard to write dialogue for Bill and me" he says. "Nobody's ever been able to do it except me. The scripts I wrote for 'I Spy' — we never changed a word. We did it the way it was because I had honed it and honed it and honed it until it was fun and also pithy.

"But the rest of the time, when we found scenes that we couldn't make work for us, we just threw them out, and said 'What is this scene about' and then we'd turn the camera on and wing it. So that's what we did this time.

SOAP WORLD

Penghlis returns to daytime role

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Thaao Penghlis portrays the sexy, debonair and mysterious Count Anthony DiMera on NBC's "Days of Our Lives." The description could be said to fit Penghlis.

The actor returned to "Days," after an eight-year absence, to accept an offer he says he really couldn't refuse.

"It was truly a generous offer, and it gave me the opportunity to portray a very interesting character," Penghlis says.

Worried about how viewers would accept his character coming between John Black (Drake Hogestyn) and Kristen Blake (Eileen Davidson), Penghlis has tried to make Tony mysterious but trustworthy, which isn't always easy to do. "I have tried to give the character some integrity, and I think he must also come through with the idea that he is a loving person."

Like his character on the show, Penghlis has a variety of interests and speaks knowledgeably about many subjects. He travels the world to pursue whatever appeals to him at the time and has been known to accept an acting job just so he could travel.

Penghlis is an avid art collector and amateur archaeologist and is also interested in producing films. He is a very spiritual man with an interests in metaphysics. "I have always been interested in psychic phenomena, and I don't mean those you call on the telephone," Penghlis says.

"To me, you want to make informed decisions, so I go out there and try to find people who will give me certain types of knowledge to put along with my own. I think there are many avenues to knowledge, and it is up to you to know which doors to open and where to go through."

Born in Australia, Penghlis is of Greek heritage and can trace his ancestors back over five centuries. He has a home in Greece that is just a short walk from the Acropolis. "I can look up the hill and see the Parthenon," Penghlis says. He also has a Hollywood hilltop home in Los Angeles.
