Ameritech seeks cable inroads

Residents in Canton and Plymouth could have a new option when it comes to buying cable television service. Ameritech wants to build a digital video dial tone network that would offer services similar to cable.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Omnicom general manager Lisa Boland says competition is fine so long as everyone is playing by the same rules.

No one seems quite sure what will be the playing rules for Ameritech, which has filed a request with the Federal Communications Commission to begin construction of a digital video dial tone network — which will allow programming services similar to cable television — in southeastern Michigan.

The Ameritech network would encompass Canton Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Livonia, Redford, Rochester Hills, Sterling Heights, Troy, Westland and Clawson.

"It will open all kinds of telecommunications and digital systems you can only dream of," said Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack. "That's good news for Canton."

Pending FCC approval of Ameritech's plan and the clearing of other regulatory hurdles, construction of the first Ameritech digital video networks in five Midwest states could begin in late 1994. The company plans to spend $4.4 billion to upgrade its network to provide video services, with up to $29 billion over the next 15 years.

Ameritech will use a mix of broadband switches, video servers, fiber optic and coaxial cables in its digital video network to deliver switched broadband and video dial tone services from multiple providers, including Ameritech.

"The Ameritech digital video network will provide a competitive alternative to the facilities operated by existing cable TV providers," according to an Ameritech press release.

Developer charged with cutting down trees

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The developer of New York Carpet World Center on Ford Road has been cited for violating township ordinances after two good-sized trees were illegally chopped down on the property.

"I am ticked. He is in hot water right now. There was no reason why those trees shouldn't have remained there," said Township Supervisor Tom Yack, who while driving down Ford Road recently noticed the trees had been removed. He reported the destruction to the township building department.

Carmen Naccarado, owner of Carmen Construction, Milford, has been notified that he is in violation of the site plan approved for the center by township officials, as well as the township's forest preservation ordinance. He faces maximum penalties under the ordinance of 90 days in jail and a $500 fine. He is scheduled for arraignment Feb. 10 in 35th District Court.

"I would like to see him do jail time," Yack said. "It is an option. I hope the judge uses it."

Naccarado also faces the possibility of having his site plan for the center on Ford Road, just east of Lilley, revoked by the township board Tuesday night. That action would further hit Naccarado in the pocketbook.

"If it is revoked, that will put a crimp in his ability to lease," said township planner Jeff Goulet. "I would no longer be able to issue certificates of compliance. If he is not in

Diversion of funds angers students' parents

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Some Plymouth-Canton residents question why the school district plans drastic cost-cutting moves when it has seen almost $3 million siphoned off by local development authorities during the past eight years.

Officials involved in projects funded by the money respond that it's already spoken for, and question whether in the future there will even be any money to argue about.

The Tax Increment Finance Authority Act, passed in 1981, allows the establishment of "downtown development authorities" to "prevent urban deterioration and encourage economic development and activity and to encourage neighborhood revitalization."

They do that by taking off the top a portion of property taxes in a designated area, thus reducing the revenue which would otherwise go to schools and other taxing units. Some school districts have successfully fought this diversion of money.

Since 1985, the Plymouth and Canton downtown development authorities "have clipped $2.8 million in tax

Group forms to fight school closing plan

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Parents of Gallimore Elementary School students have been told the building may be closed to help curb a $1.1 million deficit, but they're not rolling over dead.

Residents of Forest Trails subdivision, whose children walk to Gallimore in north Canton, have formed an organization called "Plymouth-Canton Concerned Citizens" to examine the schools' budget and whether the closing is warranted.

It's enlisting help from Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack and former State Rep. James Kosteva, a Canton resident now working for the House Democrats as research and policy director.

Superintendent John Hoben says it would be more cost-efficient to use the centrally located Gallimore to house district programs currently based at Starkweather and Tanger, former elementaries that could be sold.

PCCC contends that the administration's proposal shows "crisis management and poor long-range planning; and trivializes the notion of neighborhood schools. Closing any elementary at this time would suggest that we needlessly spent money on one new school," say the parents, many of whose children would be bused to other schools.

The group plans to present its case to the board at tonight's meeting, outlining ways in which the district could better budget for 1994-95.

PCCC member Lisa Donovan said the group is following Kosteva's suggestion, gathering financial and demographic data as well as information on busing costs, student population and building capacities.

"We don't want to recommend keeping Gallimore open at the expense of closing others. We want to look for an alternative as equitable as possible across the board," said Donovan.

"I'm concerned about any school being closed in Canton, because that's where most of the population is. I'm in real estate, and I'm aware of all the subdivisions under construction in the western part of the township. There are a lot of them."

Yack supports the residents.

"Personally, I'm really disappointed in even any discussion of closing Gallimore School," said the supervisor and former Plymouth-Canton school board member. "There are number of questions that come to mind. First and foremost is, where is the long-term planning? This looks like a knee-jerk reaction to a small deficit."

Yack, a former educator, said it's "difficult to understand why you would close a school in the center of the district's population. If they're prepared to close an elementary, why did they build two new ones? It really all goes back to planning.

"It's a real heart-wrenching thing when you close a school. The whole concept of a neighborhood school goes away for some groups of people. It's not just about housing students, but about educating students."

money from Plymouth-Canton schools," said Joel Thurtell of Plymouth, who has children at West Middle and Allen Elementary schools.

"The bulk of the schools' forced contribution to downtown rebuilding — $2.4 million — came in the last four years, at the same time the district's finances were going sour.

"Streetscapes and parking lots are very nice things for the storekeepers who benefit directly from them. But recently our school officials said they were strapped for some $450,000 to open each of the new, unused elementary schools. Now we're hearing the same school folk whining that they can save $308,000 by closing several schools." The DDAs took in $490,000 in tax money from the schools in 1993, enough to open one new school or keep the others open, said Thurtell.

Plymouth Township's Tom Kalis, a stockbroker with schoolaged children, also has researched the issue and found that districts including Woodhaven, Brownstown, Farmington, Dearborn and Allen Park "challenged their respective DDAs and successfully stopped the flow of school tax dollars away from the schools. Our Plymouth-Canton school board has never sent a letter of challenge to either DDA," said Kalis.

Ray Hoedel, Plymouth-Canton Schools associate superintendent for business, said the district used to be reimbursed for money lost to DDAs. The local district was "in-formula" — receiving state aid per pupil — through 1989-90. During that time, Hoedel said, the state repaid the schools' contribution to the DDAs.

"The DDAs were started up at no loss of revenue because the amount of state aid we got increased, so it was a break-even deal," he said.

At this point, said Hoedel, "it certainly is something to look into, whether the DDA in Canton Township has got plans already in place.

"I haven't heard what the latest is with Plymouth, but certainly I would never turn down any idea for a potential savings for the schools. It could be pursued." Hoedel cautioned that "it's not a quick solution to the current balancing of the budget for next year. It just takes time, working through municipalities and boards and so on."

Plymouth city commissioner Bob Jones said Plymouth's DDA money isn't accessible. "It's money that's really been spent," said Jones. "We have long-term bonding debt we will be paying off for a number of years.

"We are paying off the debt for a parking deck, which was where most of that money went. We were ready to go for a bond (sale) on our streetscape when the new taxing program (for state funding of schools) came through. We had to pull that (bond sale) back, because we had no method of financing that streetscape."

The 37 mills of property tax from which the Plymouth DDA formerly captured its budget could be cut way back, he said, leaving the DDA no source of stable funding. "There's a possibility we'll capture zero. We don't know because the legislation is kind of garbled up at the moment," Jones said.

In Canton, DDA money is being used to spruce up the Ford Road business district. Township Supervisor Tom Yack isn't enamored of the idea of DDA money being recaptured by the schools.

"They are a little late, aren't they? We like to think we engage in long-range planning. To make a change at this point to me would suggest some sort of crisis plan."

Kaufman faces no charges in traffic stop

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

The traffic stop last month of a local judge suspected of smoking marijuana was improper, the county prosecutor's office has ruled.

"It appeared to him (the officer) that the driver was smoking a marijuana cigarette. On this basis, he effectuated a stop of the vehicle," wrote Richard Padzieski, chief of operations of the Wayne County prosecutor's office.

"I do not believe the activity as viewed by the officer, even an experienced officer, can establish a justifiable basis for the stop," Padzieski said.

That means Wayne Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman of Plymouth Township faces no charges from the prosecutor related to the incident, in which Kaufman allegedly admitted to the officer who stopped him that he had been smoking marijuana.

Further, the officers who stopped Kaufman and let him go without issuing a ticket will face no charges.

The officers have discretion to not arrest or ticket an individual in such a case, said Padzieski.

The prosecutor's finding was made Wednesday.

Padzieski said that an officer can legally stop a driver if he spots him holding a roach clip — a small clip typically used to hold a marijuana cigarette.

But he said pinching a cigarette in a way that marijuana smokers sometimes do does not provide sufficient cause to suspect such a cigarette is being used.

Wayne County Prosecutor John O'Hair said Thursday there was insufficient evidence to support criminal charges against Kaufman for suspected marijuana use.

Padzieski said that while according to the officers' statements to prosecutors that Kaufman allegedly admitted to smoking marijuana while driving, none of Kaufman's statements are admissible because the stop was improper.

Although no warrant will be issued against the judge, O'Hair said he will refer the matter to the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission "for review and for appropriate action, if the commission finds that any violation of the standards of judicial conduct has occurred."

Five arrested at high school site Thursday

Canton Township police arrested five young people at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park at about 10 a.m. Thursday for creating a disturbance on school property. The protesters aren't believed to be graduates of Canton or Salem High School, said spokesman Richard Egli.

"They were distributing anti-Nazi literature and encouraging a walk-out for noon," said Canton police Officer Tammie Colling.

A flier they distributed urged students to "walk out and drive out the Fascists and fight racism."

Tax estimate for homeowners

(for full year of tax changes)

Proposal A has more than 900 words and affects six sections of the Michigan Constitution, but the words "higher sales tax" are what many voters are keying on as the March 15 election rolls around. The statutory plan outlines a long list of tax financing rules and regulations but a higher income tax is the major element of the plan. The bottom line is that homeowners want to know how the plans affect them. Grab a calculator and pencil along with your SEV (state equalized valuation) and personal income information. Then follow the chart below step by step to find out how you fare in the tax wars. Most tax changes, under both the statutory and ballot plans, take effect May 1. Exception: the real estate transfer tax would take effect next Jan. 1, 1995. Your principal residence will be taxed at 6 mills and assessments will be capped if Proposal A passes March 15, and at 12 mills if it doesn't. All nonhomestead property will be taxed at 24 mills. If you live in a condo you get the lower rate, too. The Treasury form says: "If you own and live in a unit in a multiple unit dwelling or in a multi-purpose building, give the percentage of the entire building that your unit (your principal residence) occupies." Both Proposal A (ballot plan) and the backup statutory plan, will raise $10.2 billion for public schools. Both will set a short-term goal of providing $5,000 per pupil in every district.

The net tax change does not reflect the impact on your federal income tax nor does it reflect the impact of your Michigan Homestead credit

Proposal A parade draws fans, critics

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

If we had laws against overloading bandwagons, the opponents and proponents of the March 15 education funding ballot proposal would have to be arrested.

As the bandwagons roll down the street heading for election day, politicians, companies, organizations and interest groups hop on board like metal shavings sticking to a magnet.

The choice voters face is between two different tax shifts, each designed to reduce government's dependence on property taxes to pay for public education.

A yes vote on Proposal A March 15 will produce a sales-tax increase from 4 to 6 percent. Vote no and your income tax will increase from 4.6 percent to 6 percent.

Ballot supporters

The sales-tax bandwagon, driven with zest by Gov. John Engler, contains the following passengers: The Michigan Chamber of Commerce; the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce; the Michigan Grocers Association; the Michigan Manufacturers Association; and the National Federation of Independent Businesses.

Also supporting the plan are the Police Officers Association of Michigan; the Detroit Board of Education; the Small Business Association of Michigan; Consumers Power Co.; Oakland County Executive Brooks Patterson; state Reps. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton Township, and Lyn Bankes, R-Redford Township; state Sens. William Faust, D-Westland, and Robert Geake, R-Northville; Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack; Canton treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter; Canton clerk Loren Bennett; and Plymouth Township Supervisor Kathleen Keen-McCarthy.

Back income tax

On board the income-tax bandwagon are: The United Auto Workers; the Michigan Education Association; the AFL-CIO; the League of Women Voters; Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara; Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett; and state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland.

State Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, also prefers the income-tax plan, personally, but encourages voters to chose the plan that best suits their self-interest. "I'm not pushing it or selling it," he said.

Sales-tax plan advocates like the idea that the additional sales tax would be constitutionally dedicated to education, meaning it couldn't be tampered with by a future Legislature. They point out that the sales tax is paid by tourists and members of the "underground economy" - such as criminals - but income tax is not. And they like the 5-percent cap on assessment increases, which the income-tax plan doesn't have.

Income-tax plan advocates say the sales tax hurts poor people more than anyone else. They like the fact that state income tax is deductible from federal taxes. Keith said school districts are slightly better off with the income-tax plan. McNamara argues that the cap on assessment increases in the sales tax plan is bad because it will ultimately reduce revenue for local governments.

Canton Township clerk Loren Bennett favors the sales-tax plan. "I have been a longtime advocate that taxation of consumption is more logical and better overall economically than taxation of production," he said.

Still deciding

The Livonia school board hasn't decided what to recommend. "We're reviewing both proposals," said Superintendent Joseph Marinelli. "Both have benefits and liabilities, and there is no clear winner. There are still unanswered questions."

Wayne-Westland schools Superintendent Larry Thomas said the district will receive the same amount of state money under either plan. However, the income-tax plan would be better than the sales-tax plan because school districts would have more freedom to seek bond issues to improve buildings, he said.

State Rep. Richard Young, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents part of Redford Township, said it's hard to decide which plan is best. "Every once in a while I think I've got it figured out and someone throws a klinker in there."

Others are just mad about having to chose between two imperfect plans. Canton's Whyman said voters have a choice between a "bad plan" and a "terrible plan," but she supports the sales tax as the better choice. "I think we'll have a stronger economy (with the sales tax)," she said.

Marilyn Massengill, the Plymouth Township clerk, is undecided. "One moment I'm all set to go on the 2-cent tax increase, then I think, 'Do I really want to do that?' " she said. "I suspect I will end up voting for the ballot plan, but I don't think it's going to be as big a tax break as people think."

"I'm not happy with either proposal," said Plymouth Mayor Doug Miller. "I have a particular concern with the ballot proposal because it would take a lot of revenue away from the city."

Redford Township Supervisor James Kelly is more blunt. "You vote to tax yourself either way with no opportunity to say no," he said. "People will pay more either way. It's like asking, 'How do you want to die, by a gun or hanging?' "

Taxing questions on ballot plan spark reader queries

Q. We're getting a rebate on our property taxes of up to $1,200 each year. What happens to the rebate if Proposal A passes?

A. You're referring to the "circuit breaker." When property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of income, the state rebates some of that excess when you file your state income tax return.

If you're a senior citizen, the state rebates 100 percent of the excess. If you're younger, 60 percent.

Obviously, if your homestead property taxes are going down, your rebate will go down, perhaps to the vanishing point. Statewide, Michigan homeowners pay 34.5 mills. Under Proposal A, they'll pay 6 mills. If that fails, they'll pay 12 mills.

Under Proposal A, $694 million in rebates will be wiped out. Under the statutory plan, $573 million. Rebates will shrink to something less than $200 million.

Look at the bright side: No longer will you be giving Lansing an interest-free loan.

Q. If I don't vote on Proposal A, is that the same as a 'no' vote? Or do I have to vote 'no'?

A. To have an effect, you must vote 'yes' or 'no.' Non-voters don't count.

You may be confusing a public ballot with legislative voting. For example, there are 38 senators. It takes 20 senators to pass a bill. It doesn't matter whether 18 or 10 or zero vote 'no,' as long as 20 vote 'yes.'

Q. We've been told the tax plans take effect July 1. You wrote they take effect May 1. Explain.

A. With one exception, the tax bills become law May 1. But your summer property tax bill isn't mailed until July 1.

The exception is the real-estate transfer tax, which doesn't take effect until Jan. 1, 1995, under either Proposal A or the statutory plan. Meanwhile, there's a legislative move on to rescind that tax increase. Refer to Senate Bill 999 when writing to your state legislator.

Q. If Proposal A passes and the sales tax goes up from 4 percent to 6 percent, will that affect groceries?

A. No. Michigan voters in 1974 exempted groceries and prescription drugs for human use.

Nor will the sales tax increase apply to utility bills - electricity, gas, telephone. That rate will stay at 4 percent.

Q. I have a northern Michigan summer home as well as one in town. Will the cut in property taxes affect both homes?

A. Not entirely, only "your principal legal residence," according to the state treasury department.

Your principal residence will be taxed at six mills if Proposal A passes March 15, and at 12 mills if it doesn't. All non-homestead property will be taxed at 24 mills under either plan - but that's still 10 mills lower than the current state average.

Q. How much paperwork is there to fill out to get my property tax cut?

A. Very little. Your name(s) and address, Social Security number(s), and the tax identification number of the property.

Q. I live in a condo. Can I get the lower rate, too?

A. Yes. The treasury form says: "If you own and live in a unit in a multiple-unit dwelling or in a multipurpose building, give the percentage of the entire building that your unit (your principal residence) occupies."

Another section of the form covers cooperative housing corporations.

Ballot wording details changes

Here is the official text you will see on the March 15 special election ballot:

PROPOSAL A

A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE STATE SALES TAX AND USE TAX RATES FROM 4 PERCENT TO 6 PERCENT, LIMIT ANNUAL INCREASES IN PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENTS, EXEMPT SCHOOL OPERATING MILLAGES FROM UNIFORM TAXATION REQUIREMENT AND REQUIRE THREE-FOURTHS VOTE OF LEGISLATURE TO EXCEED STATUTORILY ESTABLISHED SCHOOL OPERATING MILLAGLE RATES

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

1. Limit annual assessment increase for each property parcel to 5 percent or inflation rate, whichever is less. When property is sold or transferred, adjust assessment to current value.

2. Increase the sales/use tax. Dedicate additional revenue to schools.

3. Exempt school operating millages from uniform taxation requirement.

4. Require three-quarters vote of state Legislature to exceed school operating millage rates.

5. Activate laws raising additional school revenues through taxation including partial restoration of property tax.

6. Nullify alternative laws raising school revenues through taxation including an increase in income tax, personal tax exemption increase and partial restoration of property taxes.

compliance, permits for interior renovations cannot be issued by the building department."

Naccarado, who has not returned the Observer's inquiries, is being held responsible for the removal of two 10- and 13-inch diameter silver maples, one of which stood in front of New York Carpet World, the anchor for the strip mall. Bernard Gordon of American Commercial-Industrial Realty Co. of Southfield, which worked with Naccarado, apparently admitted to township officials that they removed the trees. Gordon was unavailable for comment.

"They said they did it because New York Carpet World wanted them down," said Paula Preston Bratto, township landscape architect. "Carmen Naccarado is responsible for the property."

Goulet, who met with Gordon and his attorney, said he gave them until Friday to submit a plan showing how they are going to replace the removed trees. The decision whether to remove the site plan revocation — following submission of another plan — from the township board agenda will be made by Yack, Goulet said.

"What the board giveth, the board can taketh away," Goulet said. "The developer would have to get approval for a revised plan."

Naccarado is considered to be in violation because the two trees were designated for preservation on the site plan. Because of the size of the two trees, Naccarado was given credit for trees he would have had to plant on the property. He is in violation of minimum landscaping requirements in that zoning district, Bratto said.

In addition to any other penalties levied against Naccarado, he will be required to plant trees in place of the ones removed. The forest preservation ordinance prohibits removal of trees on land of two acres or more without a permit from the township.

Naccarado will be required to plant three four-inch diameter trees for each tree removed, and three 2½-inch caliper trees for the ones he didn't have to plant earlier because of the two larger trees, Bratto said.

"We worked really hard to make sure they were part of the site plan," Yack said. "I want to make an example of them."

Supervisor sings township's praises

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Canton isn't what it used to be. And outsiders know that. The boost in Canton's housing market is the first clue.

"It's the prime indicator that people in the tri-county area are seeing this as a great place not only to buy a home, but to raise a family," Township Supervisor told a full house at the annual State of the Township address, sponsored by the Canton Chamber of Commerce at Fellows Creek Golf Club Wednesday morning.

This is a far cry from the way things used to be. "I remember the days when someone would ask where you are from and you would sort of hang your head low and say, 'I'm from Canton,'" Yack said. "We had an inferiority complex. For a whole lot of reasons . . . we just didn't feel good about ourselves."

In the past year, 450-500 new homes were started. It's less than the days when 2,000 homes were built in the same year. But today they don't all look alike. "Today we have a much greater range of housing available."

When Yack took office about five years ago, he and other board members had a goal: "To retain people here. If you want to, you can find a house in just about any price range today."

But Yack says there are plenty of other things for Canton officials and residents to feel good about: Roads are being improved, the uphill battle over Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport is over, work is continuing on police consolidation among neighboring departments and the Homeowners Advisory Council has been re-established.

That's not to forget completion of the Western Township Utilities Authority. Without it, warmer weather and melting snow would have made a mess of Canton. "We would have been gurgling. We didn't run a single pump in Canton (recently)."

Yack also pointed to the development of the Pheasant Run Golf Course and adjacent subdivisions as blurring the traditional Mason-Dixon or north-south division in Canton. "Pheasant Run was created to destroy that myth. It's certainly upscale," he said, referring to the development south of Cherry Hill Road.

Also underway is planning for the township's proposed community center, called the Summit on the Park. With 82,000 square feet, the facility will "be a little bit of something for everyone," Yack said.

The recent formation of a Ford Road task force also took center stage. Subcommittees will be formed to address aesthetics, retail mix, and vehicle and pedestrian traffic. "There will be a part to be played by anyone who wants to be involved," Yack said.

But he made no bones about what Ford Road is: "It is what it is — a typical suburban approach to commercial," Yack said.

Boland said competition is one thing. But she wants to know if the FCC will regulate Ameritech and require certain items, such as franchise fees, studios and other equipment, as is required of cable companies like Omnicom.

"If it's not, then it's not fair."

Friends elect new officers

The Friends of the Canton Public Library began 1994 with plans for another successful year and new slate of officers.

Elected at the annual meeting Jan. 13 were president Bud Stein; vice president David Reynolds; secretary Ilene Saunders; treasurer Peg Moore; and trustees Wally, Baker (book sales); Patricia Bunnell (hospitality); Linda Garrett (special projects); Marta McCabe (newsletter); Shirley Reynolds (past president); Shirley Worpell (store manager); Coy Sandrock (homebound book delivery and book discussion group).

During 1993, the friends raised more than $7,500 in used book sales and $1,263 in membership dues. These funds were used to sponsor the popular Musical Variety Series, as well as $4,325 to the library for books, the Michigan History Collection and special purchases, such as a laser disc player and monitor for the National Gallery of Art.

The friends also sponsored a scholarship program for the library pages in association with Royal Holiday Park Women's Club. The friends also started the Friendly Shoppe, a store of gifts, books and items for book lovers. The store is open 1-3 p.m. Monday and Fridays.

Voters get a chance to curtail appeals

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan voters will decide in November whether to stop automatic appeals by convicts who have pleaded guilty to crimes.

If voters say yes, it would cut the state Court of Appeals' work by about 25 percent.

"You still could ask leave (permission) to appeal," said Rep. Michael Nye, Republican co-chair of the House Judiciary Committee.

The House Tuesday gave 75 to 25 approval to the resolution, which last year had won Senate approval. A two-thirds vote of both chambers was necessary to place the issue on the ballot.

"I don't think we ought to mess with the Constitution," argued Rep. David Gubow, D-Huntington Woods, one of the dissenters. "All we're doing is shifting the caseload from the Court of Appeals to the circuit (trial) courts. It's a shell game. I don't think it will save any costs."

Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, also was opposed. "Those who plead guilty are doing so under advice of an attorney to plead to a lesser crime," she said.

But Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, favored passage, saying the Court of Appeals would be alerted to grant permission to appeal where the sentencing judge had departed from sentencing guidelines.

The Michigan Constitution (Art 1, Sec. 20) grants "an appeal as a matter of right." The ballot proposal would add the words: "except that an appeal by an accused who pleads guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) shall be by leave of the court" of appeals.

Spot checks by this newspaper revealed that on many days, the Court of Appeals issues 15 opinions; 14 are in cases where a prison inmate has pleaded guilty; 13 convictions are upheld; and the 14th is remanded (sent back) to the circuit court for resentencing because the judge has sentenced too harshly without adequate explanation. Very rarely has a convict pleading guilty had his case reversed.

Proponents say the sentencing guidelines provide an automatic red flag for the Court of Appeals to grant leave to appeal. They say an automatic right of appeal is unnecessary.

Prosecutors support the amendment because of the expense they incur in writing 35-page reply briefs to convicts' appeals.

Each appeal is heard by a panel of three judges paid about $110,000 a year apiece.

Michigan has 24 judges on the Court of Appeals. The court says it has work for more than twice that many judges, and that Michigan has the most overworked appellate court in the United States.

Backers of the amendment say it would eliminate 25 percent of the appellate caseload and the need for many new appeals judges.

The ballot proposal, known now as Senate Joint Resolution D, was sponsored by Senate Judiciary chair William Van Regenmorte, R-Jenison, and co-sponsored by Sens. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, and Robert Geake, R-Northville.

SJR D next goes to the state Elections Commission to draft ballot language.

Here is how area representatives voted Tuesday:

OBSERVER area:

Yes — Republicans Lyn Bankes of Redford, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Jerry Vorva of Plymouth, Deborah Whyman of Canton and Democrat Richard Young of Dearborn Heights.

No — Democrat Justine Barns of Westland.

Absent — Democrat William Keith of Garden City.

Lawmaker wants to bill convicts for tests

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Convicted felons would have to reimburse the state forensic laboratory $150 for helping convict them under a bill making its way through the Michigan Legislature.

"Let's place the burden of the criminal justice system on those who create the cost," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth.

"When there's a need for forensic science to come in — either the state police labor or a large city's — and when it's used in a conviction, the guilty person will pay a fee. It's important to send a message to the criminal element," Vorva told the Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday.

That panel voted 5-0 to send the House-passed bill to the Senate floor for action, though not without some eyebrow raising.

"Forensic test" means a drug analysis, toxicology analysis, examination of latent prints, microchemistry, serology, firearms, tool marks or questioned documents, according to a Senate staff analysis. It would not cover blood alcohol tests.

10 percent affected

"Do you have any idea what number of cases (indigents) are represented by assigned counsel?" asked Sen. Virgil Smith, D-Detroit.

Vorva, a former police officer, estimated 25 to 30 percent of convicts would be able to pay the forensic lab fee.

Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, who does defense work, estimated 90 percent would be unable to pay. "You might be able to afford $150 (lab fee) if not $5,000 (for an attorney)," DeGrow added.

Janet Welch of the Supreme Court Administrator's Office also estimated 90 percent of convicts are indigent and unable to pay.

Welch asked that the court system by allocated 15 percent of any fees collected.

That annoyed Smith. "We pay the court's budget. Why are you asking us to do this? We pay for every judge in the state."

If enacted, it would be Vorva's first bill to become law. It would take effect 90 days after the Legislature adjourns (about April 1, 1995) and would "sunset" two years later.

Vorva's bill would require a judge to charge the convict $150 in addition to any fine or prison term.

Lab overworked

Capt. Richard Lowthian, director of the State Police forensic science divisfon, said his lab performs forensic work on 50,000 criminal cases a year. It also investigated 472 crime scenes and made 1,375 court appearances.

Lowthian said a graduate student at Central Michigan University surveyed 415 criminal justice professionals (sheriffs, prosecutors and police chiefs in the 39 largest cities) and found that 62 percent wanted forensic manpower and funding increased; 55 percent think it's inadequate.

"Simply put, the need for Michigan's criminal justice system for forensic services has outdistanced my division's ability to deliver," Lowthian said in endorsing Vorva's bill.

"Backlogs are on the rise," Lowthian added. "One of our analysts had 20 subpenas for 17 different courts in a single day. The emotional strain on these analysts is tremendous.

"Our division budget for fiscal '93 provides $10.5 million for 163 full-time employees in laboratory operations. . . The division is in dire need of funding for equipment."

The Senate analysis said that if fees were collected in 25 percent of cases, $650,000 in revenue could be generated.

Lowthian said Vorva's bill "means augmenting or supplementing our current funding and will permit us to secure the personnel and equipment we so desperately need."

Sixteen states have laws dedicating fines to forensic labs.

Refer to House Bill 4245 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Rosie gift ideas help love bloom

Inspired by the romance of Valentine's Day, I bring you bouquets of roses. Nothing warms a cold winter day quite like a dozen yellow roses by your bedside, a potpourri of rose petals to scent your bath or crisp white sheets strewn with giant red cabbage roses.

Imagine a room filled with a collage of rose patterns. Though its name pays homage to another magnificent flower, the new Birmingham shop, Magnolias at 288 E. Maple, blossoms with an assemblage of all things rosie. Petunia and Aster, the resident golden retrievers, greet you at the door this week wearing roses round their necks.

Once inside, tucked among the fine porcelains grouped around the cascading waterfall, you will find the following medley of flowering favorites that will make a room as luxurious as a rose arbor.

Our room setting begins with an antique French armchair in which to languish by the fire. Its graceful curves are accented by clusters of gilded roses ($3,000). Accent the chair cushion with an assortment of handpainted rose motif pillows ($85-$242) or choose just one extraordinary antique pillow crafted of vintage brocades and centered with needlepoint roses.

On the chairside table, display a picture frame wreathed in dried sweetheart roses ($48), a Herend porcelain bowl accented with tiny roses and filled with rose potpourri and an elegant rose topiary ($150).

Your tea table might blossom with Highland Rose plaid napkins used as placemats upon which sit a Royal Copenhagen Flora Danica-patterned teapot ($2,575) and dessert plates rimmed in roses and centered with pastoral English horse scenes ($48).

Once you've graced your home with the regal rose, consider brightening your wardrobe with pretty petals. I snapped three-year-old Kelly Dwight of Livonia in a pastel cotton denim all-in-one from Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place Mall. Pink roses bloom on a sky blue background and coordinate with pink and white pindots across the back. ($51). Little rosebud buttons decorate the outfit that also features Kelly's favorite accessory — a polka-dot cap with a rose-patterned brim ($15). Kelly's mom, Arlene, disclosed Kelly's Christmas wish. "I want to model and wear a hat," she said. This is her debut!

Ring around the rosie

Share your love of the rose garden with your special Valentine by surprising her with these gift ideas. Warm her heart with a jacquard woven rose-patterned throw from The Giving Tree at Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield.($49.95). Show you care with a gold rose ring accented by a single diamond, one of a number of designs from Meyer's Jewelry at Fairlane, Northland, Oakland, Tel-Twelve, Twelve Oaks and Wonderland Malls ($155).

Pen a love letter on Tiffany's red and gold engraved "Hearts" notecards from the Somerset Collection, Troy. A lipstick red rose garland shapes the stylized hearts and the envelopes are lined in matching crimson ($35).

Finally, tuck a bouquet of medium-stemmed roses under your arm and grace a winter-weary corner of your home with a burst of color. Nature Nook Florists feature the shorter stems for $20 per dozen. No need to snip off that extra six inches. The blossoms are as lush and full as any of the pricier varieties. There are 10 Nature Nook locations in area malls and Hudson stores.

Darakjian's jewels sparkle in new store

John Darakjian realized a lifelong dream when he opened an 8,600-square-foot, state-of-the-art fine jewelry and fine gift showroom in Southfield. Selling the "jewelry dreams are made of," Darakjian invites you to stop in and turn a few dreams into reality.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Valentine's Day is a good excuse to add to your collection of gold, diamond and crystal. No collections to speak of? You may want to start one or two after browsing around the John Darakjian family's new store, Darakjian Jewelers.

In November, with wife Bergie and sons Armen and Ara working alongside, Darakjian combined the inventories and operations of his stores in the Franklin Center and the Advance Building at a new location on Northwestern Highway, between Franklin and Inkster roads. This Southfield store puts the entire operation under one very chic, contemporary roof — complete with wetbar, private "closing" rooms and customer lounge.

Armen manages the store and points with pride to the collection of fine watches, clocks, jewelry and crystal for sale to the shopper of discriminating taste. Among the lines carried are names like Bertolucci, Baccarat, Movado, Limoges, Swarovsky, Mont Blanc, Waterman, Jose Hess, Chris Correi and Audemars Piguet. They are the exclusive Michigan dealers of the Hour Lavigne museum-quality clocks.

Retailers will treat valentine shoppers to everything from gift wrapping to serenades this week in an attempt to say "We Love You"and thanks for shopping here!

Jacobson's at Great Oaks Mall in Rochester Hills invites you to a complimentary St. Valentine's Day concert by the Academy of Vocal Arts Singers at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb 12, in Center Court. After you've selected a gift for your valentine, a $2 donation to the Rochester Neighborhood House will wrap your gift specially wrapped. And if your gifts total $50 or more, you get a free chocolate rose.

Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place in Livonia invites kids to the Children's Department to make a valentine craft noon to 4 p.m. Saturday. Watch chocolatier Micheal Koch hand dip strawberries and demonstrate how to make chocolate flowers from 1 to 3 p.m. A complimentary caricature of your valentine will be made with every purchase of two Christian Dior cosmetic items.

At Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn, shoppers can have their valentine lingerie, truffles and watches wrapped free daily at Gals Hallmark, as long as the receipt shows the gift was purchased at a mall store.

MeadowBrook Village Mall merchants in Rochester Hills will set up a free gift-wrapping station Feb. 10-14 in Center Court. The merchants made a donation to the Rainbow Connection to have staff wrap shopper's gifts. Hours are noon to 8 p.m.

Westland Shopping Center is sponsoring a love letter contest Feb. 7-14. Entries can be dropped off at the Heart Express mailbox located at Customer Service in East Court. Three winners will be selected and presented with a shopping spree. Also, shoppers with receipts totaling $50 or more at the Customer Service Booth receive a gift-boxed stationery set to express words of love all year.

Oakland Mall in Troy will give shoppers a gold box filled with chocolates if they buy an item worth $100 or more from center stores. Just present the receipt at the lower-level information booth. Shoppers can also register for the valentine's gifts of their choice from a new Gift Registry Counter in Center Court.

Livonia Mall presents local legend Rennie Kaufmann singing "Songs of Love" 5:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 14, on stage near Crowley's. Kaufmann's concert is complimentary, a gift from the mall's merchants association.

These gifts with heart say, 'I Love You'

You know that love's the only goal.
It can bring a bit of peace to any soul.
— A. Fraser, 'Every Kinda People'

St. Valentine's Day is next Monday and there are plenty of ways to bring a bit of peace to the special souls in your life.

The mall and mainstreet shops have thousands of tokens of affection for your mom and dad, your children, classmates, co-workers, and, of course, your favorite valentine — all you add is the kiss.

First stop, the bookstores. Elaine Lepak of Coopersmith's at Laurel Park Place Mall in Livonia recommends several love-angled titles. There's "The Dating Handbook, or 2002 Things To Do On A Date," for $4.95 or "Love: A Celebration in Art and Literature," $45. The later explores the topic of love through a collection of pieces by Neil Simon, William Shakespeare, Cole Porter, Mark Twain, Picasso and Rubens, to name a few contributors.

Lepak suggests a good old-fashioned romance novel to fuel the flames like "Knights of Fire" by Shannon Drake, "Velvet Angel" by Jude Deveraux or "Seduced" by Virginia Henley.

There are also how-to's for the notsures, like "1001 More Ways to be Romantic" by Gregory Godek, "Fragrance and Aphrodisiacs for Lovers" by Maggie Tisserand and "Love Quotations" by Bartlett's.

For the young valentine, how about a copy of "Hugs" by Alice McLerran, "My Book of Funny Valentines" by Margo Lundell or "Somebody Loves You, Mr. Hatch" by Eileen Spinelli.

Also at Laurel Park Place, Theresa Jaramillo of Wentworth Gallery suggests a romantic piece of art for one's lover. "What could mean romance more than a framed, offset lithograph of lovers in a gondola in Venice, Italy?" she wondered.

At MeadowBrook Village Mall in Rochester Hills, Soft Impressions Portrait Studio suggests a glamour session where you can create a high-mini boutiques revealing the complete line of a designer's collections. It is also a wise way to uncomplicate matters for busy clients of the '90s.

Darakjian Jewelers created a "Karat Club" to offer loyal customers special advantages like bonus gifts, discounts and benefits to their favorite charities. Members earn "karats" for purchases, donations and customer referrals that can be accumulated and redeemed for discounts.

Special showcase lighting reveals the true look of colored gems in "natural light" so customers don't have to run to sunlit windows with jewelry items they may want to purchase. Gold pieces are grouped according to their weight in karats.

"Valentine shoppers should fancy anything red or heart-shaped," Armen advised. "Charm bracelets are back. We have over 300 charms to choose from. Limited-edition collector's pens make a great gift for a gentleman. I would also suggest cufflinks or a colored stone ring."

Armen brought out a collection of watch boxes that would make a great gift for a man who has several fine watches to protect. The boxes are lined with velvet or hand-woven silk and covered in leather or highly polished wood from $280 to $2,100.

Armen said men and women who "wish to make a statement" are putting apple green or powder blue leather straps on gold watches.

"Color is hot in everything these days," he assured. "Baccarat crystal comes in colors now, watch bands and faces from the finest clock makers now come in different colors, crystal stemware and vases come in colors. People want choices and the ability to express their individuality."

This year, Darakjian is celebrating 30 years in Michigan's jewelry business. The first store was opened in 1964 in Detroit after Darakjian's success as a jeweler in his native Syrian homeland.

Karen Gold, a Darakjian business associate said more than 700 people jammed opening night festivities in the new showroom.

"It was quite a night," she recalled. "The family has made so many loyal fans over the years."

In addition to selling fine jewelry and gift items, Darakjian's is an on-site full-service shop where repairs are made, jewelry is cleaned and designs are created by a staff of 14. Custom printing and engraving is also a customer service. Appraisals are given. Corporate gifts are available.

Diamond engagement rings are the store's largest selling item. Watches account for 30-percent of Darakjian's sales. Name-brand and custom jewelry make up 65-percent of sales. The final 5 percent comes from the sale of money clips, pens, clocks and crystal pieces.

A toll-free service line provides nationwide access to the store, 1-800-228-7140. Darakjian Jewelers is open Monday through Saturday.

fashion, very beguiling photo of yourself for your sweetheart, specially priced at $9.95 for St. Valentine's Day. Soft Impressions also has studios in downtown Farmington and the Livonia Mall.

Carolyn Krieger-Cohen, a fan of The Print Gallery on Northwestern Hwy. in Southfield said, "Ah, L'amour," and then compiled this list of heartfelt tokens from the gallery: Robert Doisneau's portfolio of six black and white, ready for framing photographs of couples in love, $12.95, Roy Lichtenstein fine art posters of couples in relationships with clever captions that capture their emotions, $20 and up, and James Rizzi's heart-shaped tins $25.

The Print Gallery also suggests chocolate Home Improvement hammers, saws and wrenches for him and candy necklaces, corsages and long-stemmed lollipops for her at $19.50 to $3.50.

Hudson's is selling Baccarat crystal puffed heart paperweights for $115 in red, blue, turquoise, yellow, amethyst, amber or light green. Joseph Schmidt's Chocolate Pandas are $5 and $24 also at Hudson's. Spokeswoman Chris Morrisroe said lingerie from a red lace teddy to an elegant white robe with pearls and sequins, or some red-hot silk boxer shorts, always makes a very personal gift around Feb. 14.

The Bath and Body Elements shops say "Rub The One You're With" and suggest gifts of body fragrance, bath bubbles and lotions for sweethearts. At Victoria's Secrets, a bottle of "Rapture" spray cologne ($35) comes with a seven-ounce bottle of complimentary body lotion for St. Valentine's Day.

At Record Town, a few "romantic" CDs usually $16.99 are specially priced for lovers at $13.99 this week. Joyce Giangrande at the Westland store predicted the soundtrack from "Sleepless in Seattle" will be a bestseller with classics like Jimmy Durante singing "As Time Goes By" and "Make Someone Happy," and Nat King Cole singing "Stardust."

So with apologies to Diana Ross . . . Shop! In the name of love, before you break someone's heart!

ROLL CALL REPORT

Senate supports end of Bosnian arms embargo

Here's how Observer & Eccentric-area members of the U.S. Senate were recorded on major roll call votes in the week ending Jan. 28.

SENATE

Arms for Bosnia: By a vote of 87 for and nine against, the Senate urged President Bill Clinton to lift the American embargo on arms can better defend themselves against Serbs and Serbian allies in the civil war in the former Yugoslavia. The non-binding sense-of-the-Senate resolution was added to a fiscal 1994-95 State Department authorization bill (S 1281) that remained in debate.

Sponsor Bob Dole, R-Kan., said: "Bosnia is not a colony. It is a member state of the United Nations with rights under the U.N. charter including the right to self-defense. . . . By providing arms to Bosnians, we not only improve their ability to protect themselves but enable them to protect and deliver critically needed humanitarian aid."

None of the nine senators who voted no spoke during debate on the resolution.

A yes vote was to send U.S. arms to Bosnia. Michigan Sens. Carl Levin, D, and Donald Riegle, D, voted yes.

National Endowment for Democracy: By a vote of 41 for and 59 against, the Senate refused to increase spending for the National Endowment for Democracy from $35 million in fiscal year 1994 to $50 million in FY '95. The vote occurred during debate on a State Department budget bill (S 1281). It killed a 43-percent increase proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee.

The NED was established during the first Reagan Administration. The majority of its budget goes to the AFL-CIO, U.S. Chamber of Commerce and Democratic and Republican parties, which act as government surrogates in promoting democratic reform in former police states. Supporters call it increasingly vital, while opponents say it wastes taxpayer money while improperly privatizing U.S. foreign policy.

Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., who supported the budget increase, said: "Now, at the very moment when we have the opportunity to reap the benefits of the end of the Cold War . . . to help move these societies to a permanent democratic status, is not the time to step back."

Amendment co-sponsor Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., said NED "takes money from the American taxpayers in order to duplicate work that is already being done elsewhere. It is a flat-out waste of money."

A yes vote was to increase funding for the National Endowment for Democracy by 43 percent. Michigan Sens. Carl Levin and Donald Riegle both voted yes.

Trade With Vietnam: By a vote of 68 for and 32 against, the Senate passed a non-binding resolution urging President Clinton to resume normal trade relations with Vietnam. America embargoed trade with North Vietnam in 1964 and the entire country in 1975. The vote occurred during debate on a fiscal 1994-95 authorization bill (S 1281) for the State Department and related agencies that remained in debate.

Sponsor John McCain, R-Ariz., said lifting the embargo "is in the best interests of the United States as well as the people of Vietnam. . . . It is in our interest to have an economically viable Vietnam able to resist the heavy-handed tactics of their colossus to the north (China)."

Opponent Russell Feingold, D-Wis., said: "There are a couple of minimal steps I think we should demand before we establish trade relations . . . the release of all non-violent political prisoners and access for international humanitarian organizations to the Vietnamese prisons."

A yes vote was to lift the U.S. trade embargo against Vietnam. Sen. Carl Levin voted yes; Sen. Donald Riegle voted no.

MIA-POW Issue: By a vote of 42 for and 58 against, the Senate rejected an amendment linking open trade with Vietnam to more information from Hanoi on U.S. servicemen listing as missing in action or as prisoners of war in the Vietnam War. President Clinton could lift the trade embargo only after certifying Hanoi has provided the fullest possible accounting of the 2,000-plus American troops whose fate in Vietnam, Laos or Cambodia remains in question, under the amendment. The vote occurred during debate on the 1994-95 State Department budget (S 1281).

Sponsor Robert Smith, R-N.H., said "the vote on this amendment will be seen across the country as the vote by which every senator's commitment to the families of our nation's veterans and POWs will be judged."

Opponent Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, said an increased American presence in Vietnam "would very likely lead to increased cooperation . . . The best way to get this issue behind us is through access."

A yes vote was to withhold trade with Vietnam until Hanoi has been more forthcoming about U.S. MIAs and POWs. Levin voted no; Riegle voted yes.

NATO Expansion: By a vote of 94 for and three against, the Senate endorsed President Clinton's "Partnership for Peace" strategy for eventually admitting some former Eastern European nations into NATO. The sense-of-the-Senate resolution was carefully worded so as to not antagonize Russia. It welcomes countries such as Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland into NATO after they have instituted democratic reforms and shown they can contribute to the mutual defense alliance, among other conditions.

Supporter Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said questions must be addressed before extending NATO eastward: "Like, who's going to provide the forward deployment of forces if those deployments are necessary? Are we extending the nuclear umbrella? If so, what are the conditions of that extension? A lot of questions need to be asked and a lot of preparation is needed, and I think this amendment reflects the appropriate approach."

None of the three senators who voted no spoke against the amendment.

A yes vote endorsed President Clinton's go-slow approach on expanding NATO. Levin and Riegle both voted yes.

POINTS OF VIEW

Schools don't translate benefits of language study

JAMES RADEBAUGH

While traveling in Asia in the summer, I happened one afternoon to be eating dinner in Hohhot, the capital of the Inner Mongolian Autonomous Region of China.

Among my companions was a Chinese college student.

"Jeem," she said, as we ate roasted peanuts with chopsticks, "how you call in America?"

We call them peanuts, I said.

"Ah," she said, "penis."

A Taiwanese woman who was eating with us — and whose English was much better — doubled over laughing while I explained the importance of the T sound in "peanuts."

Such are the hazards of learning a foreign language.

There are bigger humiliations. One is being overseas among people from several nations and being the only one who can't get by in a second language. This was my recurring frustration.

One steaming morning in Vietnam, I boarded a train, found my compartment and sat across from a man I thought might be French. Drawing on the little French that I know, I asked him, "Are you French?" To show off, I added, "I'm American."

"Oui," he answered, with a good-natured smile. He indulged my feeble efforts to speak his language and told me, in very good English, that it was unusual to meet an American who spoke French.

He was flattering me.

Later, two Germans joined us. The Frenchman spoke to them freely in their language; then, apparently for my benefit, they all began speaking English. After we'd bumped along the track for about an hour, one of the Germans told the Frenchman that although it had been years since he'd studied French, he'd like to give it a try.

Then he let loose a monologue that put my clumsy sentence fragments to shame.

On another train, this time in China, I sat among Korean and Japanese students who spoke to one another in Chinese and English. I couldn't judge their Chinese (my own amounted to the Mandarin word for thank you), but their English was surprisingly good.

After enough of this I started to feel ignorant, as if I were missing out on something other people took for granted. Somehow, 12 years of our public schools and four more of college had let me down.

I wouldn't say this if it were just me, if it were simply that I neglected opportunities my schools provided, but the truth is, my ignorance of foreign languages is typical of American college graduates. Our schools just don't emphasize them.

In the darkness of the 1970s, my own high school eliminated its foreign language requirement for college-bound students. What they were thinking is anybody's guess. But even now, few public school students have an opportunity to begin a language before junior high, or even high school, and fewer still ever get the instruction needed to become proficient.

This is a shame — and for more reasons than that we're dooming ourselves to feel stupid when we're around foreigners.

The Frenchman on the train told me he studied languages to increase his value in the job market. This may not be much of a consideration in a country as big as ours, but maybe it should be. The trade deals that, for better or worse, are being signed these days mean we'll be doing more and more business overseas. Candidates who can bridge the language gaps will have an edge on some choice jobs.

But, then, having a great job isn't the most important thing in the world.

No, there are better reasons for studying foreign languages: It's fun — and educational.

Kids who learn even a little of the grammar and vocabulary of another language learn a lot about their own language and how languages in general work. They're bound to learn something about history and geography. They can gain a deeper understanding of literature and philosophy. In short, they become educated.

As for the pleasures of fluency, of being able to converse freely in a second or third language . . . well, I'd love to be able to tell you about them.

So, though I'm skeptical of current efforts to reform education — the people dominating the debate seem incapable of imagining the benefits, much less the moods, of a really good system of public education — here's one change I would welcome:

Let's introduce all kids to at least one foreign language in grade school and expect at least some proficiency in at least one, preferably two, languages for all high school graduates who plan to go to college.

Outcome: Education?

Public Act 25 of 1990, the model "core curriculum," represents our state's turn at outcome-based education. Nine broad outcomes can be found in this document, and one of these nine goes by a familiar-sounding name — "mathematics and science."

Other outcomes, such as "life management," "cultural & aesthetic awareness," and "career and employability," reflect studies of more recent origin, which will require the purchases of new texts, as well as additional training for teachers, meaning, as the executive director of the MEA noted, "It will take some money."

Some of the specific outcomes to be achieved include: examining the health-related aspects of the teenage pregnancy "issue," and making children evaluate their own personal risk for "chemical dependency."

In a world where laid-off middle-aged executives are forced to pivot in their career paths, our state will expect sixth-grade graduates to begin analyzing labor market opportunities, and to develop a "career plan of action." By the completion of 10th grade, students will determine whether going to college is consistent with this plan, and then choose the next two years' worth of studies accordingly.

Under the guise of "quality reform," our governor seeks to enforce this core curriculum across local district lines. Behind the smoke screen of a move to get "back to the basics," Michigan parents will be subjected to the indignity of paying for programs they don't want, much less even know about.

But please — don't take my word for it that this "core curriculum" is an amoral experiment in statewide social engineering; call 1-800-292-1606, order a copy of PP-15, be prepared to spend $5.20 — and then decide for yourself.

GOP senators win important posts

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Area Republicans are moving up in the Michigan Senate hierarchy with the departure of Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, to the U.S. Congress.

Sen. Michael Bouchard, R-Birmingham, won Ehlers' old seat on the budget-writing Senate Appropriations Committee, "one of the most important functions in state government," in Bouchard's words.

To get that post, Bouchard had to give up the chair of the Education Committee, a policy panel, and a seat on the tax writing Finance Committee.

Bouchard's other committee posts will be (1) Energy and Technology and (2) Corporations and Economic Development.

Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, was named "temporary" chair by Senate majority leader Dick Posthumus, R-Alto. Honigman already chairs two committees — Labor and Local Government. In addition, Honigman was assigned to the Family Law, Mental Health and Corrections Committee.

Sen. Mat Dunaskiss, R-Lake Orion, will move to the Senate Natural Resources and Environmental Affairs. In this new committee assignment, Dunaskiss replaces Ehlers as vice chair.

"We've been fighting for a long time to ensure that the Waterford Hills landfill remains closed for good, and we've been waging a battle to prevent the construction of a solid waste incinerator in Auburn Hills," Dunaskiss said.

Dunaskiss gave up his seat on the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules (JCAR) but considered it a good swap. "Oakland County has a large population of outdoor lovers, and they are always keenly interested in environmental issues," he said. Dunaskiss will be on the panel looking at a package of bills to rejuvenate Michigan's 100 state parks.

Dunaskiss continues to chair the Senate Energy and Technolgoy Committee and to serve on the Health Policy Committee.

Bouchard's new post means the Observer & Eccentric area will have three seats on Appropriations. The others are held by Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.

More musical chairs may occur when voters in the Grand Rapids area fill Ehlers' Senate seat in a special election in April. Ehlers replaces U.S. Rep. Paul Henry, who died in mid 1993 at the age of 50.

How those jobs are affected will depend, in part, on the new senator's interests and experience in government.

Democratic committee assignments were unaffected by the Ehlers move.

McNamara seeks SC help for WC3

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara visited the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees recently wondering how Schoolcraft might help Wayne County Community College become a world-class school.

Schoolcraft officials, McNamara said, should be saying, "How can they help this fledgling college without taking it over?"

A few minutes later, McNamara mused, "Maybe ultimately there's a merger (of WC3 and Schoolcraft), or maybe Wayne State takes it on."

WC3 President Rafael Cortada, McNamara said, does a first-class job, but bears a tremendous burden in "one of the most diabolical school boards that he has to deal with." Cortada, McNamara said, has to fear for his job every time he "goes to the bathroom."

Schoolcraft President Richard McDowell said McNamara is right about Cortada's situation. "You hit the nail on the head," he said. "The politics makes it difficult to operate (at WC3)."

After the meeting, Schoolcraft board Chairman Steve Ragan theorized that McNamara wants one community college to encompass all of Wayne County.

Schoolcraft and the Wayne County government already cooperate in a number of ways. The college co-sponsors the Wayne County Procurement Fair, trains county employees, and helped McNamara lure a company called Optical Imaging Systems from Troy to Northville Township. The Wayne County Job Connection has referred 200 students to Schoolcraft.

But Dewey Henry, McNamara's economic development director, told the Schoolcraft trustees: "Even though we're doing a lot, it seems like we're not doing enough."

The trustees seemed cool to McNamara's idea to help WC3, but Ragan allowed that "much of this area is not well served by community colleges."

Trustee Mary Breen noted that Schoolcraft is "popping at the seams. We can't get our new (student services) building up fast enough."

Indeed, Schoolcraft's fall 1993 enrollment was 10,075, up from 9,568 the year before. In 1964, the year Schoolcraft opened, fall term enrollment was 2,018.

Schoolcraft is also popular with out-of-district students who must pay higher tuition than in-district students. In the current term about one-third of the 9,607 students do not live in the Schoolcraft district. Many of them come from the Redford Union, South Redford and Wayne-Westland school districts, which are in the WC3 district.

The Schoolcraft district includes the following public school districts: Plymouth-Canton, Livonia, Northville, Clarenceville and Garden City.

McNamara names 3 to key county posts

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara has announced appointments for three county positions.

Bernard Kilpatrick was named assistant county executive for legislative affairs. Cassandra Smith Gray was named assistant county executive for health and community services, replacing Kilpatrick. And Clintina Cooper Simms has been named director of the planning division in the department of jobs and economic development.

As head of legislative affairs, Kilpatrick will be responsible for the county's relationship with other government entitie.

As head of health and community services, Smith Gray oversees health care for the poor, the operation of eight health centers, as well as the county youth home, the medical examiner's office, the office on aging and other operations.

As head of the planning division, Simms will be responsible for directing all county planning functions.

CHEF LARRY JANES

Souper suppers warm winter weary families

Winter has taken it's toll on the spirit. I am ready for spring. The snowblower has been used too much this winter. Dad's hip has been bothering him far too much, and momma gets cranky when bingo is canceled due to bad weather.

The Janes Gang kitchen has been simmering for weeks with steaming pots of chili, bean soup, lentils, and a connoisseur's choice of prime winter vegetables. If it can be made with carrots, cabbage, onions, squash and potatoes, it has been made and devoured, not in a heat of passion, but for the need to be heated and warmed.

So it was with interest that a new cookbook by Arthur Schwartz crossed my path. The advanced promo that proceeds every text claimed this cookbook was "healthful, practical and economical as soup as a main course is a natural for the way people eat today."

What caught this writer's eye was that Arthur Schwartz was the author of a previous tome called "What To Cook When You Think There's Nothing in the House To Eat."

Simple dinner

Just like I feel right now, and short of a can of Hormel chili, there's nothing in our house to eat. The thought of going grocery shopping on a cold, blustery day had me examining all my options.

It was simply too good to pass up; the old recliner, a steaming hot cup of coffee, an old afghan and the furnace being turned up to a soul-warming 70 coupled with a copy of Schwartz' "Soup Suppers" (copyright 1994, Harper Perennial Publishers, paperback, $15).

Like Arthur Schwartz, I too hail "from a serious soup-making, soup-eating family." Soup was seldom served as nourishment for the soul and the mind, but simply as sustenance. Soup was a supper and often a hearty lunch when coupled with a Velvetta laced grilled cheese sandwich. But as age begins to set on this horizon, soup has begun to take on the cloak of something more than just food to eat.

On a cold winter's day, soup steams up the kitchen windows painting a Dickensonian effect on the window pane. Soup fills the air with a steamy warmth. The aroma of soup fills the lungs with pungent bursts of pepper, healing blasts of garlic, soothing whisps of cream, and nourishing spoons full of heartiness. The results are the same whether I simmer a stock all day long or simply empty a few cans of Progresso soup into the pot.

During the bleak winter days of February, nothing warms the cockles of your heart more than soup. Schwartz' "Soup Suppers" is by far one of the better soup cookbooks to cross my path.

Sampling recipes

Being a lover of Oriental soups, my first attempt at one of Schwartz' recipes was Norman Weinstein's Hot and Sour Chinese Soup. I am proud to say that I know of Norman Weinstein and have tasted his soup. (For the uninitiated, Norman is THE chinese cooking teacher in New York City). The recipe was as complete as the one in my files and also offered serving suggestions (what to pair with the soup) variations for the vegans amongst us and tips on preparation and storage.

Schwartz claims that this recipe "was and is an even better cold remedy than chicken soup. Pepper clears the sinuses. Vinegar provides a healthy dose of vitamin C." The book is peppered, by the way, with recipes garnered from other noted cooks.

Speaking of other cooks, folks like momma might be a tad overcome by recipes requiring saffron pistils, chopped coriander, cellophane noodles, and celery root. The recipes are for people who are comfortable in the kitchen, and have a basic source for foodstuffs not usually found at the corner IGA. If you know your way around a renovated Farmer Jack, finding some of those gourmet items won't be difficult. When I asked momma if she knew what Cotechino sausage was or where I could get it, she looked at me like someone was asking her to how to fly to the moon.

On a more positive note, the recipes that came into fruition on my stove were all easy, tasty and of the stick-to-your-ribs variety that not only offered sustenance for the body, but also for the soul and the mind. If you like to make soup you will enjoy the book and what it has to offer.

Delicious dessert: Stephanie Mellen puts finishing touches on her award-winning Sacher Torte Pie made with Sanders Bittersweet Fudge Topping.

Some say "SANDers," but most say "SAUNDers." It doesn't matter. However you pronounce the name of Detroit's oldest and most famous confectioner, the image evoked is the same: creamy, gloriously rich hot fudge sundaes and cream puffs.

Like many present-day suburbanites, I cut my first sweet tooth at the counter of a Sanders store. A shopping trip downtown with my mother was never complete without a stop a Sanders palatial shop on Woodward Avenue. It's no wonder my single sweet tooth soon developed into a full set of sweet choppers.

I'm not alone. Suburban hearts everywhere beat with love for a hot fudge cream puff or a thick wedge of - be still my heart! - Bumpy Cake. I'm sure if you tested a true Sanders lover's blood, it would come out hot fudge positive.

"I was always a strict hot fudge man, a hard-core hot fudge man," said Jay Emerson of Plymouth as he reminisced about his boyhood trips to his favorite Sanders store in Farmington. "Nothing's better than a plain hot fudge sundae with bananas on top."

Emerson, a technical graphics engineer and free-lance magazine writer, recently had his first fiction story published. However, coming up with the just right words to describe the taste of Sanders Milk Chocolate Fudge Topping proved difficult. "Mmmm, ooohh," he said a first, then settled for the simple statement, "there's just no other hot fudge like it, period."

Thirty years ago, Emerson's mother, Juanita, created a heart-stopping concoction that has since become a family legend. It consists of layers of sponge cake, hot marshmallow fluff, ice cream, assorted Sanders toppings, and a banana buried somewhere in the middle. That hidden banana makes eating the dessert an adventure, said Emerson. "Every time you take a hunk out, you might get a piece of banana, you might not."

When all the Emersons get together for a family dinner, "Hot and Cold Spongy Delight" is usually on the menu. "It was a whole family project between Christmas and New Year's," said Emerson. "We kept improving on mom's original recipe. We were all there, my mother, my sister, her boyfriend, her kids, my girlfriend, my daughter, and Hobbs, my 5,000 word African Grey parrot. He eats everything." Will Hobbs eat Spongy Delight on Valentine's Day? "Maybe," said Emerson.

If Jay Emerson is a real hot fudge man, then Stephanie Mellen of Troy is a real bittersweet chocolate woman desperately in love with Sanders Bumpy Cake. "I'm very particular in how I approach a slice of Bumpy Cake," said Mellen, an author, illustrator and motivational speaker. "First I eat the top, then the sides, then the cake. Of course, I eat it in a very ladylike way, with a fork, not my fingers."

Mellen is a creative woman whose recent book "The Crystal Rabbit," is being considered for the Newberry Medal Award. She also is a bit of a competitor, especially when it comes to baking. After winning third prize in a community festival baking competition one year, she was determined to do better the next.

Wines from southern France, tasty, affordable

Wine Selections of the Week

Sauvignon blanc makes the easiest food match with white meats and an endless variety of seafoods. Their price tags make them even more appealing. The best sauvignon blanc around is 1991 Beringer Vineyards Knights Valley Meritage ($10).

Others we have enjoyed are:

- 1992 Buena Vista Lake County Sauvignon Blanc ($9)
- 1992 Lakespring Sauvignon Blanc ($9.50)
- 1992 Markham Sauvignon Blanc ($9)
- 1992 Preston Cuvee de Fume ($10.50)

The best buy is 1992 Napa Ridge Sauvignon Blanc ($5).

Recent releases of chardonnay recommended are 1992 Fetzer Barrel Select Chardonnay ($12), 1992 Clos du Bois Chardonnay ($13), 1992 Markham Chardonnay ($15) and the 1990 Sterling Vineyards Winery Lake Chardonnay ($20).

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Southern France continues to increase in popularity. You know this if you travel, have seen "A Year in Provence" on the Arts & Entertainment cable channel, or have priced hotel rooms in Aix-en-Provence. If the dollar strengthens against the French franc, southern France will continue to escalate in popularity with Americans.

The wines of southern France are also becoming popular with Americans because French producers have done three important things - improved the quality, kept the price down, and given the wines varietal (grape) names that Americans recognize.

"There was no demand and no premium for extra effort until the 1960s," writes Hugh Johnson, British author of the "Modern Encyclopedia of Wine" (Simon & Schuster). "Then educated winemakers and merchants began to realize that it was only the grapes that were wrong, the soils and climates of hundreds of hill villages have enormous potential."

Since June 1992, the wines of Les Jamelles have been available in southeastern Michigan. They are flavorful wines from the Vin de Pays d'Oc which includes the southern Rhone, Midi, Provence and Languedoc-Roussillon (LON-gwuh-doc roo-see-YOHN). Negociant Melvyn Master knows this region well since he co-authored "The Wines of the Rhone" (Faber & Faber).

For size comparison, the Languedoc-Roussillon region alone contains 800,000 potential vineyard acres - one-third of the vineyard acreage in all of France. It extends along the French Mediterranean coast from the Spanish border to the Rhone River.

"Ten years ago, the French government was subsidizing many farmers and wine co-ops in southern France," Master explains, "but the quality was poor." The quality was less than standard because the farmers grew as many tons per acre as possible and were paid regardless of the quali-

Inspiration struck when she attended a wedding at which Sacher Tortes, glazed in her beloved bittersweet chocolate, were served as part of the dessert buffet. "To me it seemed like there were 10 of them, although it could have been only three or four. I just knew I was going to make a pie version of Sacher Torte," she said. She did, and her "Sacher Torte Pie" took first prize in a baking competition.

Mellen serves her dessert — made with Sanders Bittersweet Fudge Topping, of course — only on special occasions or when someone begs her to bring it to a party. When asked about people's reaction to her special pie, Mellen said, "You don't ever bring this kind of pie to a party — unless they're all diabetics — and expect to have anything left!"

Wonderful pies seem to result when Sanders ice creams and toppings get together in a creative crust. Linda Talbert, a Beverly Hills resident who is on the faculty at Schoolcraft College in Livonia, has produced some great "love at first bite" ice cream pies using Sanders toppings. When asked if she would consider using a substitute, she said, "not in our family!"

About once a month Talbert "sneaks into" the Sanders on Telegraph and Maple for two scoops of chocolate ice cream with a double dose of bittersweet chocolate topping. "No whipped cream, no cherry, no nuts. Nothing to adulterate the pure pleasure," she said.

For Barbara McKee of Livonia, the word pleasure begins with an "H," like in hot fudge cream puff. "I like the three distinct textures, the creamy smooth ice cream, the roughness of the cream puff, and how can I describe the hot fudge? Heavenly sounds good."

McKee, a full-time clerical worker for an automotive technology firm in Dearborn, likes her desserts simple, especially if she has to prepare them. Her Bittersweet Raspberry Ribbon Cake fits the bill. "It's easy to prepare and can be done ahead of time. I think a lot of people can appreciate that."

McKee said her family used to ship Sanders hot fudge to her grandfather in California. "It was the one thing he missed when he moved," she said. "When he came for a visit we'd have to go to Sanders for a hot fudge sundae."

Sanders has brought pleasure and a few extra pounds to millions since it opened its doors in 1875. Most of us know the story of the ice cream soda — how the cream spoiled one hot day in 1876 and Fred substituted ice cream in the popular soda drink. Later, the Sanders folk started Sweetest Day, and their candies have been popular ever since.

For the past few weeks, Sanders' shelves have been dotted with Valentine hearts of all sizes and filled with some of the best chocolates in town. But long after the last heart has been sold, people keep coming in.

"It's like a little family here," said Karen Poikey, manager of the Sanders store at Six Mile and Newburgh in Livonia. "The grandmothers bring their children and then the grandchildren start bringing their children."

When asked what is Sanders best-selling item, Poikey, who has worked for the company for 32 years, didn't hesitate a minute. "The cream puff is first," she said.

Ahh, I know about a million other suburban sweet tooths who will agree. But whether our sweet tooth aches for a cream puff, a slice of Bumpy Cake, or a ladle full of bittersweet topping on a scoop of chocolate ice cream, we know where to satisfy that ache — Sanders.

ty. Then, adventurous winemakers and producers came along looking for less expensive vineyard land where they planted premium wine varietals. They also encouraged their neighbors to plant premium wine varietals and taught them how to be good grape growers.

New technology, exported principally from California, allows the grower to make better wine. "Today, there's an abundance of quality grape juice in the market," Master said. With the help of a broker, Master locates, samples and buys wines, blends them to his own taste, and sells them in the United States. He is a negociant. This is what makes Les Jamelles wines different than the wine from a single cooperative. Master has at least 20 different sources for blending which allows him to produce wines with character — something that is frequently lost in the larger cooperatives.

"The art of blending is like the art of cooking," Master explains. "The trick is to balance the different components and flavors to make a wine which entices and excites the palate. That is precisely our aim with the Les Jamelles varietals."

Master is able to sell his wines at affordable prices for three important reasons — there's a sea of wine in France, the U.S. tax on imported wine is low, and he does not spend money on expensive barrels. The wines of Les Jamelles are meant to taste like fruit, not wood.

"In today's wine market," Master admits, "it is essential to have a quality product, which comes in an attractive package and is offered at a truly competitive price."

The wines of Les Jamelles are made from six varietals and are priced at $7.50 unless noted otherwise. Reds include merlot, syrah and mourvedre while the whites are viognier, chardonnay and marsanne. Les Jamelles Merlot is a satisfying wine with coffee and cherry aromas and flavors. Les Jamelles Syrah is spicy with hints of black pepper. It is a solid wine with a generous finish. Les Jamelles Mourvedre is a Rhone varietal that has gained popularity in southern France as well as California. It is soft and supple with a big fruit impression. Les Jamelles Viognier, a white Rhone varietal ($13.50) is worth the extra money. Its floral aromas are reminiscent of gardenias and Asian spice with flavors of fresh pears.

Les Jamelles Chardonnay is all fruit, unencumbered by oak. It has an attractive, fresh fruit aroma with good flavors and a crisp finish. Les Jamelles Marsanne, another white Rhone varietal, shows hints of apricots and peaches in a fresh fruity style.

PAYING LIP SERVICE TO VITAMIN B

Cleft lip is known to affect about one newborn in 750. This condition, in which the upper lip fails to grow together completely, often occurs in combination with cleft palate, which is characterized by an opening in the roof of the mouth where the two sides of the hard palate do not join together. Until a 1990 study was conducted at Martin Luther University in Halle-Wittenberg, Germany, experts did not think that there was a way to prevent cleft lip. The German study, however, indicated that prenatal vitamin B complex supplementation (augmented by two injections per week) during the first trimester reduced the chances that a baby would be born with a cleft lip. The study involved 49 women whose fetuses were at high risk due to hereditary factors.

Vitamin deficiencies account for a multitude of problems in our lives — especially in the lives of our children. That is why it is so important for pregnant women to consult their doctors concerning supplements and to introduce vitamins and vitamin-rich foods into the family meals. The GOOD FOOD CO., a natural food supermarket, is Michigan's largest discount natural food source. We offer greater variety and better prices on natural foods than you will find in any other supermarket. We are located at 42615 Ford Rd. If you have any questions, please call us at 981-8100. P.S. It is estimated that 25 percent of cleft-lip cases are caused by hereditary factors.

Enrich your diet with fiber

Many Americans get only 10 to 12 grams of dietary fiber per day when we really need 25 to 30 grams per day. Here are some tips from Karen Wilder, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal for getting closer to this dietary goal.

■ Add ½ cup of cut-up fresh fruit to plain yogurt.
■ Instead of drinking fruit juice, eat the whole fruit.
■ Instead of spreading butter or margarine on toast, use mashed bananas and a sprinkling of raisins or a delicious open-faced breakfast sandwich.
■ Substitute whole-grain bagels, pita bread and English muffins for those made with refined grains.
■ Try spaghetti or lasagna made with whole-grain pasta. Include vegetables in the lasagna for added fiber.
■ Include barley, dried beans, split peas or vegetables in stews and soups.
■ Add dry beans — garbanzo, kidney or other favorites — to salads and casseroles.
■ Use potatoes with skins when making mashed potatoes and potato salad.
■ Make snacks count by munching higher fiber foods, such as dried fruits. Or have a few almonds, filberts or peanuts. Popcorn is a good choice too.

Warm up with Chinese soup, clam chowder

See Larry Janes' column on Taste front.

NORMAN WEINSTEIN'S CHINESE HOT AND SOUR SOUP

3-4 dried black mushrooms
15 cloud ears (black fungus)
15 dried lily flowers
¼ pound boneless center cut pork loin chop
1 teaspoon plus ¼ cup thin soy sauce
1 tablespoon plus ¼ cup cornstarch
6 cups chicken broth
1 pad firm bean curd (2 by 2-inches)
6 tablespoons clear rice vinegar, or to taste
1 teaspoon (at least) fresh ground black pepper
1 egg, beaten
2 scallions, finely diced
2 tablespoons sesame oil

In separate bowls, soak the mushrooms, cloud ears and lily flowers in hot water 20-30 minutes. Trim the fat off the pork and discard.

Cut pork into ¼-inch slices across the grain, then into thin shreds along the grain. Place the pork in a bowl with 1 tablespoon of soy sauce. Mix well. Add 1 tablespoon cornstarch. Mix again. Set aside. Put all but 1 cup of the broth in a large pot over low heat. Squeeze the mushrooms dry. Discard stems and ends and shred caps.

Drain cloud ears. Select only the smoother parts, discarding the gnarled tips. Cut the flowers in half. Reserve along with the mushrooms and cloud ears. Cut the bean curd into ¼-inch strips.

Combine ¼ cup of the cornstarch with the reserved cup of broth. Mix well and set aside. Bring the heated broth to a lively simmer. Add the ¼ cup of soy sauce, then add the vinegar. Add the bean curd, mushrooms, cloud ears, lily flower. Simmer 3 minutes. Add copious amounts of black pepper. Stir to mix. Give the cornstarch-broth mixture a last minute stir to blend well, then stir it into the simmering broth.

When the soup has thickened to a syrupy consistency, add the pork shreds and stir to separate. Reduce the heat so that the soup is barely bubbling. Slowly pour in the beaten egg in a circle. Let set for 10 seconds. Stir the broth gently to bring the egg to the surface. Top the soup with scallions and sesame oil. Serve immediately in deep bowls. Serves 4-6.

Variation: to make a vegetarian soup, eliminate the pork and use a vegetable broth.

DOWN EAST CLAM CHOWDER

2 dozen large chowder clams, in their shells, scrubbed and soaked
½ cup water
4 ounces salt pork, cut into ¼-inch cubes
2 medium onions, finely chopped (about 2 cups)
3 medium potatoes, peeled and cut into ½-inch cubes (about 3 cups)
2 cups water
½ teaspoon fresh ground white pepper
1 (13 ounce) can evaporated milk
2 cups heavy cream
additional milk, if necessary

To steam and open the clams, in a large pot, combine the clams with ½ cup water. Place over high heat, cover and let steam until the clam shells open — no longer than 5 minutes.

Using tongs or a slotted spoon, remove the clams and shell them. Discard the shells. Strain the clam broth and measure. Add water, if needed to make 2 cups.

Grind or chop the clams, set aside. In a 6 quart pot, over medium heat, "fry out" the salt pork-let the fat render and the bits get brown. Add the onions and saute till limp. Add the potatoes, 2 cups of water, 2 cups clam broth and the pepper. Bring to a simmer over medium heat and cook gently, partially covered, until the potatoes are tender.

Stir in the evaporated milk, the cream and the chopped or ground clams. Heat throughout but do not allow the chowder to come to a boil. Let cool and refrigerate for at least 4 hours or overnight. Reheat over medium-low heat, never allowing the chowder to boil. Serve piping hot in deep bowls, thinning with a bit more milk, if needed. Serves 4 to 6.

There's a lot to celebrate, including Paczki Day, heart month

KEELY WYGONIK

You've had a whole month to change your evil, fatty ways, now we're going to tempt you with some desserts before the Lenten season of fasting begins. Next week I'll share some memories of Paczki Day (Fat Tuesday) as celebrated in Hamtramck, and introduce you to packzki experts in the suburbs.

The celebration begins, of course, in Hamtramck 11 a.m. Monday, Feb. 14, with a parade at Carpenter and Jos. Campau that ends at Holbrook and Jos. Campau.

Did you know February is American Heart Month? According to the American Heart Association of Michigan, cardiovascular disease is the country's number one cause of death. But few Americans know what puts them at risk for cardiovascular disease, and even fewer know that some of the factors associated with increased risk of heart disease such as smoking, lack of exercise and obesity, can be decreased with lifestyle changes.

This year's American Heart Month message — Kids Who Use Their Brains, Use Their Bodies, emphasizes the importance of reaching young people and educating them to take care of their hearts by exercising, eating right, and not smoking, said Dr. R. Clinton Webb, president of the American Heart Association of Michigan, and professor of physiology at the University of Michigan.

"Many people don't realize that kids can also develop high blood pressure and high cholesterol levels. Studies show that at least 62 percent of Michigan children and 77 percent of Michigan adults have one or more risk factors for heart disease.

The Seventh Annual Heartball, sponsored by the American Heart Association of Michigan, will be 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, at the Ritz Carlton-Dearborn. The ball is held to raise money for American Heart Association smoking, exercise and nutrition programs in Michigan schools, and to honor and individual who has significantly influenced Heart Association of Michigan's efforts in advancing heart health.

This year the Dodrill Award of Excellence, will be awarded to Dr. Seymour Gordon, medical director of Cardia Rehabilitation Programs and Exercise laboratories at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

Tickets are $150 per person, or $300 for per person for patron ticket. Call (313) 557-9500.

Here's a recipe from the American Heart Association's "Kids Cookbook."

SHAKE-IT-UP CHICKEN NUGGETS

- 1¾ cups herb-seasoned crumb stuffing mix
- ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 3 tablespoons margarine
- ¼ cup low-fat buttermilk
- ½ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 boneless, skinless chicken breasts (approximately 1 pound)

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Measure stuffing mix into resealable plastic bag. Seal bag and place on flat surface. Crush crumbs by rolling and pressing rolling pin over bag.

Open bag and add Parmesan cheese. Reseal bag and shake to mix thoroughly.

Melt margarine.

Place melted margarine, buttermilk, and pepper in medium shallow bowl. Stir well with spoon. Set aside.

Rinse chicken breasts and pat dry with paper towels.

Place chicken breasts on cutting board. Cut chicken with small, sharp knife into 16 chunks of the same size. (Each chicken breast should give you 8 chunks or pieces).

Place coated nuggets on an ungreased baking sheet. Repeat with remaining chicken chunks. Place baking sheet in oven. Bake nuggets 4 minutes. With oven mitts, remove pan from oven. Using tongs, turn over each nugget. Return to oven and bake 4 to 5 minutes, or until medium golden brown.

Remove pan from oven. Using tongs, remove nuggets to platter or plates. Serve nuggets immediately. Place a small bowl of your favorite dipping sauce nearby, if you like.

Serves 4; 4 nuggets per serving.

Gadgets make cooking healthy easier

LOIS THIELEKE

If you didn't get the kitchen gadgets you wanted for holiday gifts, buy your own. All of these gadgets are available year round at most store; some you can make yourself.

A yogurt strainer will help you turn yogurt into a low-fat sour cream or cream cheese product to use in your favorite cheesecake recipe or spread on bagels. Put this special strainer filled with yogurt over a bowl and allow to sit in the refrigerator overnight. The liquid will separate away, leaving the solid in the strainer. Of course you don't have to buy a specific gadget, you can just use cheesecloth for the yogurt and set in a regular strainer. The key is to make sure the strainer sits in something deep enough to separate the liquid from the solid.

A gravy or fat separator is a handy device for any health-conscious person. This gadget looks like a measuring cup with a spout. Pour the gravy into the separator and wait until the fat rises to the top. You then have a flavorful reduced-fat gravy ready to pour. If you have time, you can separate the fat from the meat drippings by freezing or refrigerating and then skim off the fat and make your gravy with the fat-reduced drippings.

Steamers

Every kitchen needs a steamer, a great way to prepare food with no fat and a minimal loss of vitamins. There are all-purpose steamers, microwave steamers, bamboo steamers and specialty steamers for asparagus. An all-purpose steamer is simply two or more stacked pots. The bottoms of the inside pots have holes to allow the steam to penetrate the food. The key to a good streamer is a tight-fitting lid so the steam doesn't escape.

You can make your own as along as you have a pot that a strainer will fit and sit above the water by an inch and have to tight-fitting lid. Or you can buy a folding steamer insert that will transform 'most any sauce pan into a steamer.

Plastic steamers are used in the microwave.

A bamboo steamer can be used to cook foods quickly depending on how many layers you are using. It can be used for fish, chicken strips, corn on the cob or regular vegetables. Do not use your bamboo steamer in the microwave.

An asparagus steamer is for those of you with lots of storage space. It is a specialty item that is a tall narrow pot that keeps the asparagus stalks upright.

A two-piece roasting pan is a must for low-fat roasting. This roaster has a perforated inner pan so the meat does not sit in the fat. If you have a wire cake-cooling rack, you can make your own roasting pan by putting it inside your roaster so the meat is away from the fat drippings.

Stir-frying is a easy way to reduce fat in cooking, since only a minimal amount of oil is used in a wok. If your wok is made with a non-stick surface, it will not brown foods as nicely as one made with a steel or iron surface. Stainless steel woks conduct heat poorly, so the best is one from spun steel that you have seasoned properly, or you can use your cast iron skillet as a wok.

A fish or chicken poacher is also a popular piece of equipment to have in your kitchen. This is a pan with a rack that sits on the bottom of the pan so the poaching liquid covers the meat. The rack is nice to have so the meat or fish can be gently lifted out of the liquid. This is especially nice if you are poaching a whole fish and you want to keep it from falling apart. Poaching of fish or poultry can also be done in a deep frying pan.

An egg separator is a plastic gadget that catches the yolk so you can just use the white, to eliminate cholesterol in recipes.

Having some very sharp knives or household shears to trim away skin or fat from meats or poultry are an absolute must for any kitchen. Many of these household shears come apart so can be washed in the dishwasher after cutting any raw meat or poultry.

Shopping tips

When choosing cookware or kitchen gadgets, choose equipment that has multiple purposes, is easy to use, not too heavy and easy to clean. If any of these have knobs or handles, make sure they stay relatively cool while you are cooking.

Choose cookware made from medium to heavy materials that hold heat evenly with no hot spots for scorching.

Enjoy and use your kitchen gadgets and equipment, if they stay in the box packed away, it wasn't a good buy.

Lois Thieleke of Birmingham is an extension home economist for the Cooperative Extension Service, Oakland County office.

Jason McCauley Berry and the All-Night Fish Market

The eponymous album marks the debut for this highly touted Detroit-bred guitarist and his oft-forgotten All-Night Fish Market — bassist Tim Carney and drummer Frank Corl.

With the release of this seven-song CD, first-time listeners will have the pleasure of listening to Berry in the privacy of their own home without making endless visual comparisons to Lenny Kravitz.

The CD is an adequate vehicle for Berry, a classically trained guitarist, to showcase his underrated bluesy jazz-inspired voice. Lyrically, the former Weeping Rachel guitarist has the unusual talent of being able to translate his internal turmoil into effective painful lyrics without being self-pitying.

At times the instrumentals are a bit long, the songs end somewhat abruptly, and it doesn't exactly grasp the energy of Berry's innocently electric stage presence but that will come in time. For his first project, however, it's a tasty introduction to Berry and the All-Night Fish Market.

Jason McCauley Berry and his All-Night Fish Market mark the release with an 8 p.m. listening party and 9 p.m. performance Thursday, Feb.10, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Call 810-344-1999.

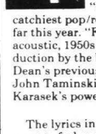
'Perpetual Love' with B-side 'Forever' — Sometimes Why



After an eight-month hiatus, Sometimes Why returns with the single "Perpetual Love" with the B-side "Forever." The songs show two opposite sides of the Rochester-based rock band, who recorded the single at The Disk in Eastpointe.

The wah-wah guitar and Dave Dean's raspy yet controlled vocals in "Perpetual Love" make it one of the catchiest pop/rock songs to be released locally so far this year. "Forever" is an attractive bare-bones acoustic, 1950s-style ditty. The crisp, clear production by the band and Steve Szajna bring out Dean's previously shadowed vocal talent as well as John Taminski's plucky bass and Kenneth Karasek's powerful drums.

The lyrics in both songs are simple, ("If you want to feel sunshine, I'm gonna put you in love. Close the door and lose your mind. Welcome to a perpetual love."). However, the aggressive guitars by Dean, Jeff Pelione and Chris Bennet in "Perpetual Love" and the strumming guitars "campfire version" of "Forever" make up for it. Welcome to a nice debut. The single is available at Record Time in Rochester and through Green World Management at (810) 651-8846.

Top acts bring sounds to town

■ This month brings a deluge of top national acts to Detroit. A few of the bands hope their shows go better than previous Detroit gigs.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

After two failed shows, the Mighty Mighty Bosstones swear their Thursday, Feb. 10, show at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit will go on as scheduled.

Their show in the fall at Harpo's in Detroit was cut short when lead singer Dicky Barret ordered his band to leave the stage after he allegedly saw bouncers beating non-compliant Bosstones fans. When the group tried to return to the stage, they found the power to their equipment had been cut. The show ended with Harpo's allegedly refusing to give refunds. (Repeated calls to Harpo's about the alleged incident went unanswered.)

Soon afterward, the ska/metal band scheduled another show in Detroit this time with the Butthole Surfers at the State Theatre. In a phone interview in November, Barret said he was looking forward to returning to Detroit because he felt he owed his fans a show. Three weeks before the co-headlining tour was set to hit Detroit, the Bosstones left the tour and subsequent dates were cancelled.

"We left the Butthole Surfers tour because we thought it would be (more) fun (touring with the Surfers), kind of like a mini-Lollapalooza there. But they were charging too much money for tickets . . . and acting like rock stars so we decided to leave the tour," Barret said via telephone from a tour stop in Hawaii.

Barret said Bosstones fans have a lot more to look forward to this time around.

"Maybe a lot more songs than six and I don't think they'll see a wet T-shirt contest either," Barret said about Harpo's traditional "Sexy Ladies Contest."

"I like women as much as the next guy but that's completely (ridiculous)."

Tickets for the 7:30 p.m. show, which also features The Exceptions, are $13.50 in advance. Call (313) 961-MELT for more information.

The Wonder Stuff

Miles Hunt, lead singer of The Wonder Stuff, doesn't have many fond memories of playing in Detroit either.

"I've tried to wipe it from my mind," Hunt said about his last show in Detroit. "Somebody threw a bottle at me and I ceased the concert."

Perhaps their show at St. Andrew's Hall on Saturday, Feb. 19, will go smoother than the last. The Wonder Stuff is touring in support of its latest album "Construction for the Modern Idiot."

Like his band's previous albums, Hunt's lyrics are biting. Take some of the song titles for example: "Your Big A . . . Mother," "Sing The Absurd" and "I Wish Them All Dead." Hunt said it's all in fun.

"I look at it more in a black humor sort of way. It's a lot of irony and sarcasm as opposed to taking it straight," said Hunt who added that he's working on a book called "Everybody Feels a Little Hate Sometimes."

"I always try to keep a smile fixed firmly on my mouth when I say the most nasty things."

STREET BEATS

The Wonder Stuff and Chapterhouse, who recently released their latest album "Blood Music" with the soon-to-be dance hit single "We Are the Beautiful," will perform at St. Andrew's Hall at 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19. Tickets are $8.50 in advance.

Lincoln Center Jazz

Former Allen Park Symphony Orchestra conductor Robert Sadin returns to Detroit this time with the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra. The orchestra boasts an all-star lineup including Marcus Roberts, Joshua Redman, Nicholas Payton, Marcus Printup and Milt Grayson.

Sadin — who also worked with the Art Center Music School in Detroit, and the Detroit and Saginaw symphonies — recently took over as the orchestra's conductor after his predecessor David Berger left due to personal reasons. He said the orchestra's show isn't a typical jazz concert.

"The unusual part that you don't normally see in these type of concerts are film clips of historical jazz figures like Duke Ellington and Thelonious Monk," Sadin said.

The orchestra makes two Detroit-area appearances — Feb. 15 at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor and Feb. 16 at Orchestra Hall in Detroit. For more information, call (810) 645-6666.

Johnny Bravo

This relatively new band boasts a lineup of various punk alumni. Johnny Bravo members, including drummer Matthew McCoy, Terry Bones, Karl and Murf — have gigged with bands like U.K. Subs, Ministry, Murphy's Law, The Exploited and Broken Bones.

"We're a punky influence with a raw edge, not like a punk edge. There's structure to it," Karl said. Bring the earplugs though. He warns that his band is "loud." They play Finney's Pub, 3965 Woodward Ave., Detroit, on Saturday, Feb. 12. Call (313) 831-8070 for more information.

Cracker and Counting Crows

"What the world needs now is another pop singer like I need a hole in my head," David Lowery sang in "Teen Angst," the first hit for his band Cracker. Ironically, since then the band has become alternative pop and now rock stars in their own right.

The release of their 1993 album "Kerosene Hat" has allowed Cracker to venture into previously uncharted territory — rock radio. Guitarist Johnny Hickman said that just further proves that Cracker doesn't fit in one musical style.

"All the parameters in various music genres, a lot of these lines (are blurred). We don't get behind any banner," Hickman said. Cracker will play the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward Ave., Detroit, on Saturday, Feb. 19, with Counting Crows. (Tickets are $10.50 in advance. Call (313) 961-5451.) Oh, and yes, the set will include a few songs from Lowery's former band Camper Van Beethoven.

"We pull a lot of songs out of the hat," Hickman said. Kerosene hat?

Nick Heyward

Speaking of former members of stellar New Wave bands, ex-Haircut 100 vocalist Nick Heyward comes to town on Sunday, Feb. 20, in support of his solo album "From Monday to Sunday." He will only perform a few Haircut 100 songs, if they're requested, he said. Most of the time when he plays them, however, he sings to a bunch of blank faces. Lately, he's become more well known for his solo material, including the song "Kite," which has taken off on college and alternative radio.

"To remember a Haircut 100 song, they would have to be 25, 26. (These kids) must have been about 3," he said with a laugh about his new-found fame. "They probably never even heard of me until they heard 'Kite.'"

That's OK he said adding that if young fans will like Haircut 100, too.

"It's not that dissimilar in that they're 3-minute pop songs."

Heyward, along with Flop and Moxy Fruvous, performs Sunday, Feb. 20, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Raging Slab

Raging Slab guitarist Elyse Steinman is convinced that her band is responsible for the awful cold front hitting the northern section of the United States.

"We've been following the cold front around. Everywhere we go, people say it (was warm) before we got here. I think we are the cold front," she said.

The tour, however, has allowed her band's popularity to heat up — thanks in part to the long line of Southern-influenced rockers like Raging Slab, who recently released "Dynamite Monster Boogie Concert." Steinman doesn't really see her band as Southern rock, however.

"We've always really tried to be pretty diverse in what we're doing . . . We try to use as many influences as possible. We're more along the lines of Captain Beefheart I'd say."

Raging Slab performs with Stick at 9 p.m. Friday, Feb. 11, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. are $5.

'Playboy' request spurs responses

STREET SENSE

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Readers,
The high number of responses to the mother of the 12-year-old boy who wants a subscription to "Playboy" magazine reveals the pervasiveness of this issue in our culture. Lots of young boys want to look at pictures of naked women and other sexually stimulating photographs. The replies are varied.

Last week's writer warned readers that pornography is responsible for sex crimes. This week, the mother responding reports her individual experience, which is about family dynamics, not pornography.

In the following weeks more comments will be printed. If you are like me, you will be impressed by the diversity in individual attitudes they show and by the thoughtfulness exhibited by many.

Barbara

Voice Mail Message:
Barbara,
I read the message from the mother whose son wants a subscription to "Playboy." Some years ago I had a similar experience but with a different twist.

One of my sons is now 16. When he was 11 or 12, he also wanted to keep "Playboy" in the house. Like the mother who called you, I tried logically to reason out the best decision. I know now that I wasn't thinking about the situation clearly.

In my case, the appropriateness of the material was only a diversion from the real issue, which was, and is, my son's manipulation of his father, his siblings, his friends and me. For my son, disagreements are important because they bring the opportunity for power. If he can make others do what he wants them to do then he wins, and, I want to add, then he thinks he is smarter than the rest of us.

My son is difficult to raise. The issue about "Playboy" was just another in a long list of overt and covert power struggles. My son argued about his bedtime, the food he ate, the time he left for the bus and most other responsibilities. I should have known at the time that sexy magazines were another battlefield in the same old fight of who's the boss. Unfortunately, it took until my son got older for me to see the light.

Maybe your caller's son is not like my son. But, because I struggle with this problem, I wanted to warn this mom to beware.

Dear Caller,
Thank you for taking the time and trouble to share your experience, which will be helpful to many. Without wanting to place any additional burden on your generous nature, I would like to ask you what happened that made it possible for you to see "the light." Many could profit from that experience as well.

I also wish, for myself, and for the readers of this column, that I knew how, once you saw the light, your behavior toward your son changed and whether or not you could stop his manipulation of you.

The problem you describe is not an uncommon one, even though it is often difficult for parents to recognize. It is natural to want to think the best of our children. You deserve credit for confronting this difficult problem rather than running away from it.

Day-Lewis is brilliant in 'Father'

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

MOVIES

Young couples laugh and tease as they enter the noisy pub in Guildford, just outside London. As the front door closes behind them, the pub explodes, the front windows flying out, blowing five people inside to smithereens and injuring several others.

In the real-life drama that followed, the British people required justice from the 1975 Irish Republican Army bombing and found it in Gerry Conlon, a Belfast native in London at the time. Pressured into a confession, he served 15 years in a maximum security prison for a crime he had nothing to do with.

He wasn't alone. Friends Paul Hill, Paddy Armstrong and Carole Richardson — collectively known as the "Guildford Four" — also received life sentences.

"In the Name of the Father," based on Conlon's autobiography "Proved Innocent," focuses on this dark chapter in London legal history. It's also a moving story about Conlon and his father Giuseppe, who shares a cell with Gerry after being named as an accomplice in the bombing.

Daniel Day-Lewis teams up again with Irish writer/director Jim Sheridan. The two worked together on "My Left Foot," copping Day-Lewis a best actor Oscar for his portrayal of palsy-stricken writer Christy Brown.

His performance here is no less stunning. Wearing bell-bottom jeans, wide-collared shirts and a mass of shaggy unkempt hair, this Conlon is no angel. Actually, he's a petty thief whose involvement with the IRA is no different than any other young man in Belfast at the time. He grew up with active members, but, as his father tries to say in defense, "he's not political."

Aside from quality acting, including Pete Postlethwaite as the physically weak but steadfast father, "In the Name of the Father" creates an amazing sense of place. Snaking through Belfast back alleys with Gerry, you really do feel part of the late '60s Irish uprisings that found locals lobbing rocks and trash cans at British tanks.

Likewise, when Gerry tries his luck in London, we get introduced to an authentic hippie commune where residents rip up the floorboards for firewood. The images of wildly dressed hippies frolicking in parks to the stares of typically uptight Londoners compares poignantly to the dark times that follow.

Emma Thompson, still on area screens in "Remains of the Day," plays the solicitor who represents the Conlons in court years after the original trial. Much of the story is told through Gerry's recollections on a tape recording which he hopes will persuade her to take the case.

A lesser director would have made this a straight courtroom drama, but Sheridan, an immensely talented filmmaker, keeps these sequences to a minimum, focusing instead on the personal relationships. Gerry's transformation from aimless young hooligan to a politically aware man fighting not just for himself but for his father is both believable and poignant.

Politically, the movie depicts the dark side of both the London police and the Irish terrorists. When a notorious IRA leader arrives in the same prison as the Conlons, Gerry respects his ability to get things done but then backs away when he discovers the intense and often mindless hatred involved.

Modern-rock lovers will find haunting new songs from Irish performers Bono and Sinead O'Connor during the opening and closing credits. Other music of the era, including Hendrix's "Voodoo Child (Slight Return)" and The Kinks' "Dedicated Follower of Fashion" are also creatively used.

Tightly scripted and surprisingly entertaining, "In the Name of the Father" could teach Hollywood a thing or two about making movies that deliver a message while rarely growing preachy or heavy-handed.

World beat musicians promote multicultural awareness

BY KYLE GREEN
SPECIAL WRITER

Being of Cherokee descent, Wayne Gerard felt good about donating a song to the "Dream Catchers Vol. 3" release. He knew it would help Blue Yonder Audio's goal of raising awareness of Native American causes.

He never realized how beneficial it would be for him, however.

Prior to donating the song "Blues for Bay Mills" to the project, Gerard had only superficial knowledge of his grandmother's Cherokee heritage.

"I always remember the tone of her skin was more dark and she had long dark hair and she made some Indian dishes I can't recall," said Gerard, a Birmingham resident.

After working on the track, he realized how important heritage becomes with age — "It's more important to understand my history before I head toward the future."

The Wayne Gerard Group is one of four instrumental bands who will perform at the "Dream Catchers"/Blue Yonder Audio benefit on Saturday, Feb. 12, at Alvin's in Detroit. The Repercussions, Surrogate Earth and Richard Cyr are also on the bill.

Blue Yonder Audio, the brainchild of local recording engineer Chris Staels, is a non-profit organization focused on assisting Native American causes through music by Michigan-based artists. Funds are generated by the release of "Dream Catchers" CDs and corresponding benefit concerts.

Staels created the project three years ago after driving through the Bay Mills Indian Reservation in the Upper Peninsula. At first the Royal Oak resident didn't think others would support his idea. Since then, his efforts have collected more than $12,500 in donations for Native Americans. The largest donation of $8,468 went to the Tribal College Endowment Fund which was added to a $25,404 grant from the federal government.

Staels, who is also of Cherokee descent, feels the live gigs are the key to his success.

"I'm not in a band and I know why I am doing it and I know that there are other politically correct things to do, but when we do a gig at Alvin's, there is so much energy and you can not qualify or quantify the power of music," he said.

The bands who are performing Feb. 12 all appear on "Dream Catchers Vol. 3," which includes 14 tracks in a spectrum of musical genres — acoustic jazz, folk, blues, soul and modern rock.

The five-member band Surrogate Earth, who contributed the song "Urban Reveille" wanted to become involved with Blue Yonder Audio not only to aid the cause but to practice what the band preaches, according to member Hideko Mills.

"This is one unit where diversity is actually working with different cultures and men and women," he said. "The whole idea behind the group is not only physical diversity, but to practice diversity."

Mills created her band to perform the song "Surrogate Earth" for the "Dream Catchers Vol. 2" CD. Not only has the band been able to raise funds for Blue Yonder, but they've also raised a few eyebrows. Surrogate Earth — which also includes Murray Stewart-Jones, Donnie Lewis, Ken Kozora and Ken Mills — was nominated for a 1993 Detroit Music Award for best band in the world beat category.

Mills, who is of Mexican, African-American, Japanese, Irish, Cherokee and Mohawk descent, feels that groups like Blue Yonder Audio are beneficial to Native Americans' freedom.

"To have the freedoms that we (Americans) do and have the luxuries that we have, we had to rape and steal from these people (Native Americans) and I don't think it is beneficial to the members of these people," she said.

Kim Hunter, host of WDET's "Radio Free Earth," will host the Dream Catchers Concert is at 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 12, at Alvin's, 5756 Cass, near Wayne State University, Detroit. For more information, call (313) 832-2355. Blue Yonder Audio can be reached care of Paradise Post Studios, 23953 Industrial Dr., Farmington Hills, MI 48335. 313-471-2090. "Dream Catchers" CDs are available at Harmony House in Berkley, Sam's Jams in Ferndale and Streetcorner Music in Birmingham.

Back on track

Two free throws by Tracy Prybylski (from Livonia Ladywood) with 13 seconds left provided Madonna University with the cushion it needed to better Siena Heights, 65-62 Thursday in a women's basketball game at Madonna.

The victory ended the Lady Crusaders' three-game losing streak and elevated their record to 9-11. Siena Heights is 7-15.

Jill Burt's 22 points paced Madonna. Stephanie Crelley added 16, and grabbed eight rebounds. The Saints were led by Lisa Polanski with 18 points and Lateefa Moore (Wayne Memorial) with 13.

Madonna had trailed 29-28 at the half. Superior shooting proved to be the difference for the Crusaders: They converted 21-of-47 from the floor (45 percent) to 28-of-74 for Siena Heights (38 percent). In addition, Madonna was 24-of-35 (69 percent) from the free-throw line; the Saints were 7-of-13 (54 percent).

Slow start

When the top team in the area goes up against the newest, results are predictable. Madonna University's men's basketball team aided its own demise against Siena Heights Wednesday by scoring just four points in the first eight minutes.

The Saints had 31 by that time and were well on their way to a 24-point halftime lead — and a 122-67 victory.

The victory improved Siena Heights' record to 15-8; Madonna is 2-24.

Brent Tucker led the Saints with 24 points. Joe Dettling contributed 14 and 19 rebounds. Madonna got 19 points from point guard Doug Soper.

Stealing a win

The defense supplied by Schoolcraft College's women's basketball team Wednesday was instrumental in the Lady Ocelots' 72-53 victory over Delta at SC.

The win ended a three-game SC losing streak and evened the Ocelots' record at 8-8 overall. They are 4-7 in the Eastern Conference. Delta is 2-11 in the conference.

SC led 31-29 at the half, but Delta moved the ball inside for four easy baskets to start the second half. However, the Ocelots adjusted, moving Julie Klos into the middle. Delta was 2-of-10 from the field after the switch.

For the game, SC forced 27 turnovers while committing just 12 — a plus-15 ratio.

Angie Cerne's 20 points led the Ocelots. She also had six steals. Shelley Sockow (Plymouth Salem) had 18 points and eight rebounds and Alisa Wechter scored 10 before fouling out five minutes into the second half. Point guard Cindy Muha was near-perfect running the show for SC: She had just one turnover and made 12 steals in 39 minutes.

Kris Illig had 21 points and Leslie Cameron netted 12 for Delta.

SC is no match

There were just too many weapons.

That's as good a way as any to describe Schoolcraft College's 105-78 loss to Delta Wednesday at SC. The Ocelots simply could not contain the Eastern Conference leaders, who improved to 15-5 overall and to 9-3 in the league. SC is 1-11 in the conference, 7-15 overall.

Six players reached double figures in scoring for Delta: Wes Wood (21), Antoine Brown (19), Dave Kubczak (18), Rob Brown and Sylvester Liggens (13 each), and J.J. Waterman (11). Delta hit 41-of-73 shots (56 percent) from the floor and had 12 three-pointers.

Todd McNeil's 21 points topped SC. Dan Perttula had 15 and Fadi Bazzi scored 10.

The Ocelots fell behind quickly in this game, trailing 55-33 by halftime.

Elan elite

Team Elan, a figure skating precision team out of the Detroit Skating Club, finished first at the Mid-American Championship, hosted by the Fraser Figure Skating Club Jan. 29.

Team Elan collected gold medals in both the junior technical and junior long programs. One of the team members is Erin Vaquera, a freshman at Plymouth Salem High School.

Fitting finish

Michigan State's men's swim team closed out its home dual-meet season with a 124-119 win over Indiana Jan. 28. The meet came down to the last race, the 400-yard freestyle relay, which the Spartans won in 3:05.93.

Anchoring the decisive relay was senior Ron Orris, a Plymouth Salem grad and a Canton native. Orris is a team captain.

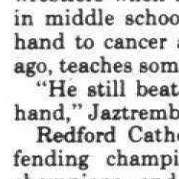
Scoring threat

Joe Sellers, a sophomore left wing for Ohio State's hockey team, was credited with two assists in a 7-4 loss to No. 10-ranked Michigan State Jan. 29. That brought his season total up to 17 points, on eight goals and nine assists in 22 games. He ranks second among the Buckeyes.

Rocks finish 3rd in Observerland

■ Livonia Stevenson finished its climb to the top of the Observerland Wrestling Invitational, winning for the first time Saturday at Garden City High School.

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER



Livonia Stevenson assistant coach Jim Carlin was given a big share of the credit for the Spartans' win Saturday in the third annual Observerland Wrestling Invitational at Garden City High School.

Stevenson wrestlers will go so far as to say that Carlin means everything to them.

"Without him, we're not half the team," said Chris Jaztrembski, a junior who won the 135-pound weight class. "He really is the team. He pulls something out of me I don't even think I have.

■ Although most expected Stevenson to win the team title, the surprise was that none of the No. 1 seeds won the first six weight classes.

"You've got to believe or it's not going to happen. My freshman year, no one gave us respect. Last year, we came close. This year we wanted to make sure we do our best and win."

The Spartans, who are dominated by their junior and sophomore classes, won their first Observerland, as expected, with 222½ points. Stevenson had three champions and three runners-up, all of whom are juniors.

Carlin met most of Stevenson's wrestlers when he started a program in middle school. Carlin, who lost a hand to cancer a couple of summers ago, teaches some moves on the mat.

"He still beats us up, without the hand," Jaztrembski said.

Redford Catholic Central, the defending champion, also had three champions and took second place with 213 points. Plymouth Salem took third with 139.

CC also has a young team with only two seniors, so next year's Observerland could be another two-team race.

Stevenson won two earlier tournaments to go with Saturday's conquest, but coach Don Berg, though pleased with the results, is looking a month ahead.

"People don't believe me, but I don't give a damn (about winning) because it's February and these are all preliminaries. The state meet in Battle Creek is what matters," Berg said. "But the boss (athletic director Roger Frayer) will be happy because I brought another piece of hardware home. We've spoiled him, bringing two home already."

Although most expected Stevenson to win the team title, the surprise was that none of the No. 1 seeds won the first six weight classes.

Heavyweight John Spolsky (CC), 103-pounder Matt Michalski (Farmington), 112-pounder Jason Milne (Garden City), 119-pounder Josh Banks (Livonia Churchill), 125-pounder Dave Gardner (CC) and 130-pounder Steve Horvath (Garden City) came from lower seeds to win championships.

"This is a hell of a tournament," Salem coach Ron Krueger said. "There's some awfully good wrestling in Observerland."

Stevenson's Craig Martin, the top-ranked 189-pound wrestler in the state, put the finishing touches on the Spartans' win with a pin over Farmington Hills Harrison's John Amayo in 1 minute, 40 seconds.

Martin, 25-0, pinned each of his four opponents, the longest pin taking 3:40 in a semifinal win over CC's Andy Short.

Martin and Milne, the 112-pounder who upset a No. 1 seed, CC's Bill Lamb, 8-5, were named Most Valuable Wrestlers of the day.

"I know a lot are gunning for me and it makes me work harder, take one match at a time and do my best," Martin said.

Junior Scott Goldman was the other Spartan to repeat as a champion, beating Plymouth Salem's Jeremy Breithaupt, 9-5, in the final to move to 23-4 overall.

The Spartans' other win came from Jaztrembski, who pinned Garden City's Tim Sayn in 1:45 in the final to improve to 22-7 overall.

Stevenson's Chris Mullett, the No. 1 seed at 152 and a defending champion, was pinned in the final by CC's Liam O'Donahue in 1:30. O'Donahue, seeded No. 2 and now 30-10 overall, employed the hand bone to pin Mullett, who is 22-5.

"I'm always hesitant to shoot it but I like the move and when it works it's pretty much a sure thing," O'Donahue said. "I've seen (Mullett) at a few tournaments and he looked good. I was surprised I could stick him."

CC's other win came from David Gardner, who won the 125-pound class with a pin in 3:08 over Harrison's Derek Jaeger.

Glenn, which was ninth with 86½ points, had a champion, Brian Kolb. The 160-pounder beat Salem's John Svec, 10-3, in the final.

Franklin, seventh in the team standings with 96½ points, had one champion as well. Senior Jesse Shakarian won the 171-pound class, beating Stevenson's Ben Lewis, the No. 1 seed, 3-2.

"He's beat me two or three times this year and I wanted to beat him this time," Shakarian said. "I've been running every morning, working hard."

Salem steams to its 12th straight victory

BY NEAL ZIPSER
STAFF WRITER

Good teams often win games they don't deserve to win. Plymouth Salem — possibly the best team in the area — had one of those games Friday.

The Rocks' lethargic performance was still good enough to beat visiting North Farmington 59-53 and give Salem its 12th straight win since a season-opening loss to Monroe.

The win improved Salem to 7-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, one game ahead of Walled Lake Central and Westland John Glenn. The Raiders fell to 3-3 in the league and 6-7 overall.

"We're playing with confidence right now, but we know we can be beaten," said Salem's Adam Hammons, who scored 10 of his 12 points in the fourth quarter. "If we step out on the court again like we did tonight, we'll have our lunch handed to us."

Salem coach Bob Brodie agreed Friday's game was not typical.

"We were out of sync all night," Brodie said. "We didn't play well, but there will be games when you falter. The important thing is that we were good enough to win, and we're happy being 12-1."

Playing without senior center Scot Lord, who had a role in the school play Friday, the Raiders remained close through three quarters and trailed 40-33 entering the fourth.

After a Jeff Lamb triple put Salem up 43-33, a layup by North's Tim Dolan was disallowed because of a technical foul, and the lead was 12 after Sanjeev Seth made both free throws.

The questionable call sparked North on a 12-1 run to narrow the margin to 46-45 behind two three-pointers by Jon Pennala. The senior guard finished with a game-high 19 points.

Hammons then came alive, scoring seven straight points. Still, North stayed within striking distance, trailing 55-49 entering the final minute.

"I felt I had to step up because we weren't playing that well as a team," Hammons said. "I don't think we took them for granted by letting them come back. It just wasn't our night."

With :57 left, James Head was fouled on an attempted layup by Doug Dolak. After both players bumped chests, each was given a technical. Dolak's second technical ejected him from the game and will prevent him from playing Tuesday against Farmington Hills Harrison.

North coach Tom Negoshian, who was frustrated with the officiating all game, was especially puzzled with the double technical.

"The referee said (Dolak) didn't say anything but he baited Head," he said. "In the four years I've coached him, he hasn't had two technicals called on him."

After the skirmish, Salem made four of nine free throws, which proved good enough to hold off North.

"You have to give Salem credit; they stepped up when they had to," Negoshian said.

Salem was able to win despite getting one field goal from Head. The senior forward did make 10 of 15 free throws to finish with 13 points and 11 rebounds.

"We had no special plan for Head, but he did do some nice things for them when he wasn't scoring," Negoshian said.

"We want him to score and do the other things," Brodie said. "He could have played better, but he had some mental lapses tonight."

The Raiders didn't have one of their better nights either as they committed 23 turnovers while shooting 36 percent from the field (16-of-45) and 58 percent from the foul line (15-of-26).

Ryan McGlinch, Evan Ellis and Tom May finished with eight points apiece for North. Salem received nine from Harold Shanks.

■ CANTON 78, CHURCHILL 51: Plymouth Canton controlled the pace of this game all the way, and the Chiefs did it with defense, limiting host Livonia Churchill to 14 first-half points Friday.

By that time they had a 30-14 lead and were well on their way to their seventh win in 12 games (4-2 in the Western Lakes). Churchill fell to 4-9 overall, 2-5 in the WLAA.

"The kids played great defense," said Canton coach Dave VanWagoner. "We got into our usual full-court press and forced some turnovers, and that gave us some easy baskets.

"I think we're improving. The key with our team this year is that they play with a lot of heart, they play great defense and they get along real well."

The Chiefs also have their fair share of shooters, starting with Matt Paupore, who burned the Chargers for 21 points — including three three-pointers. Paupore had 10 in the fourth quarter.

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

ABC-TV's Good Morning America came to Troy last Sunday. The program was aired from Bowl One Lanes and featured professional bowler Cheryl Daniels, who made an appearance with Motown star Martha Reeves.

Those of you who were still fast asleep missed the show. It was on at 8:30 a.m. We all know of Cheryl Daniels exploits as a top-notch pro bowler, just as we all know of Martha's singing.

Reeves is a famous vocalist from Detroit, notably with the Vandellas. Martha has taken up bowling, and Cheryl Daniels is coaching her in the finer points of the game.

It so happens that Cheryl's other pastime is her music. She sings and writes music, so this is Martha's time to return the favor and coach the bowler in her possible singing career.

The program was broadcast live and carried all over the United States. With the ABC worldwide telecast, it was seen by the rest of the world as well.

If you missed it, ESPN is getting ready to do another program with the same idea. Look for more details ahead. Bowl One will also have the U.S. Open Pro Bowlers Tour April 1-9.

■ Fourteen-year-old John Bolden, a student at Garden City High school bowls in the Wayne-Westland Youth Travel Classic League. Jan. 24 was a day to remember as Bolden came through with a 300 game.

It was the first in regular league play for the WWYTC, and Bolden is the youngest bowler to roll a perfect game at Westland Bowl.

■ The bowling community lost one of its finest. Rod Blakely passed away Tuesday. Rod was a genuine bowling enthusiast, an avid bowler, sponsor of the BBM Ladies team in the All-Star Bowlerettes and was recently involved in buying Bowlerama Lanes.

Rod was a local businessman, had traveled extensively with his wife, Deb, and was highly respected by all who knew him. Deb serves as president of the All-Star Bowlerettes, and we extend our condolences to her. Rod Blakely will be missed by all who knew him.

Salem dunks North

Superior depth has been the key for Plymouth Salem's swim team this season, and it was Thursday against visiting North Farmington.

The Rocks swept the top two spots in four events in dispatching the Raiders 99-87. The victory improved Salem's record to 4-2 overall and kept the Rocks unbeaten in two Western Lakes Activities Association meets.

North took top honors in the first three events, but the Rocks bounced back. Fred Locke won the 50-yard freestyle (22.51), with David Bracht finishing second (23.31); Woodie Thomas collected first in diving (248.10 points), with teammate Ryan Hawley second (175.60); and Rodolfo Palma won the 100 butterfly (58.75), with Tom Satwicz second (1:01.1).

"They got after us early and we had to fight our way back," said Salem coach Chuck Olson. "We started doing a little better, and I'm very pleased we beat a good team like that. We had to work hard to do it and we're happy."

The Rocks had just one other first-place swim: the 200 free relay team of Palma, Marc Levitt, Bracht and Locke (1:39.03). In that event, too, Salem took second with Patrick Morgan, Ryan Petroskey, Satwicz and Eric Seidelman (1:39.03).

Rocks reign over Vikings

A string of four-straight pins was enough to push Plymouth Salem to a 49-24 wrestling victory Thursday at Walled Lake Central.

The win boosted Salem to 5-1 in dual meets, 3-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

After the two teams split the first four matches — Scott Hughes beat Thad Chmielewski 15-1 at 119 pounds and Eric Coburn won on a void at 103 for Salem — the Rocks rattled off their pin streak. Aaron Lapinski started it at 130, pinning John Eichholtz in 4:00.

Phil Mitchell followed at 135, pinning Andy Krause in 1:07. Then Dave Craig toppled Mike Donahue in 3:47 at 140, and Jeremy Breithaupt capped it with a pin of Russ Harris in :28 at 145.

Salem got three other wins: Steve Hughes beat Derek Voss 8-3 at 160, John Svec pinned James Shaffer in :43 at 171, and Clayton Walker pinned Frank King in 4:52 at heavyweight.

It's easier (and more fun) to stay healthy than to get healthy.

You'd have to look a long time to find someone who doesn't care about their health.

We all do. It's just a matter of degree. It depends on how much time and energy we want to devote to our health profile. Do we want to get out for a regular brisk walk? Do we want to substitute a fresh apple for that piece of chocolate cake? How much do we really want to invest in our health and well-being? Like everything else in life, it's a matter of choice. We'll have a few ideas on the subject when we publish "Your health in the '90s" on Thursday, March 3.

Look for it.

MORE THAN 25 million Americans suffer from a disease called Osteoporosis which causes the weakening of bone tissue. Making bone fragile. Osteoporosis victims often suffer from small bone injuries, loss of height with a bent spine, or crippling hip fractures. The Bone & Mineral Division of Henry Ford Hospital is conducting a national study on an investigational drug for Osteoporosis prevention and treatment. African-American women who are between the ages of 45 to 80 years old, post menopausal for at least 3 years and currently not taking estrogen are asked to participate. Participants will receive a free exam for Osteoporosis. If bone density is low and other requirements are met, you'll be asked to join the study. If not you'll have had a free exam and will know your bone status. All study related exams and treatment are free of charge. For more information on this study call Betty Calhoun or Pat Ortega from the Bone and Mineral Division at Henry Ford Hospital at 876-7135

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)
There is nothing wrong with following your dreams, as long as you do not ignore life as it is happening. You should take your time making decisions.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)
You will have to be creative in dealing with a loved one's emotions. You will need to work off some steam in a positive and healthy way.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
It would probably be a good idea for you to examine why you have been so demanding. Keep your temper in check, or face the consequences.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
Work may seem a drudgery but things will begin to improve soon. You need another outlet for the time being, but do not over-extend yourself.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
Be more cautious with financial matters. Do not be so self-involved that you do not notice when something wonderful happens.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
A recent setback will set you on the road to depression if you are not careful. Everyone makes mistakes, but you have to forgive yourself and move on.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Exercise is what you need to clear your head. You had better make amends for your recent actions. Try to see things more objectively.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
It may seem like life is out of sync. Things will begin to slow down, and you will have more time to adjust to a new situation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
Don't wear yourself out trying to be all things to all people. Get out and do something you enjoy for a change, and do it alone.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
Get out of this dull funk and have some fun. Brighten your living and work environments with a potted plant or some artwork.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
If you really care about someone, you had better let that person know before it is too late. A sudden change in plans could prove interesting.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
You need to stop second-guessing those around you and get down to the business at hand. Remember that money isn't everything.

The new bird seed supplement, Squirrel Away, is made from Capsicum Chinense –a natural form of hot pepper. Birds do not have taste buds to distinguish "hot" so it does not bother them. Squirrels, chipmunks, and raccoons, on the other hand, are reluctant to eat anything that is this hot.

Brown, Howard star in new 'Moment of Truth' TV movie

BY JOHN CROOK

Blair Brown ("The Days and Nights of Molly Dodd") and Ken Howard ("The White Shadow") star as a couple fighting the system to help their son, a paralyzed Marine, in "Moment of Truth: To Walk Again." Newcomer Cameron Bancroft co-stars in the fact-based drama, premiering Wednesday, Feb. 16, on NBC.

Under pressure from his exasperated parents, Eddie Keating (Bancroft) joins the armed services to straighten out his chaotic life. The family's hopes are shattered, however, whenhe is shot in the head by "friendly fire" during a training exercise.

His parents, Carole (Brown) and Ed (Howard) rush to his side as he lies comatose in the hospital. Eventually Eddie regains consciousness, but he is left a paraplegic with brain damage. Written off by his doctors, the young man is transferred to a VA hospital, where he is warehoused without rehabilitation. With almost no encouragement, Carole and Ed begin a determined fight to get their son into a facility that will rehabilitate him as much as possible.

"To be frank, when I heard it was a true story, I thought, 'Oh, another disease of the week,'" Brown recalls. "I read it, initially, sort of despondently. The story I found incredible moving; that's what snagged me.

"But the thing I liked most about Carole was that (the movie was) less an indictment of the Veterans Administration or traditional Western medicine, but it was about how someone finds her way, against all odds, through a really rough situation - how your voice is heard. And that I always find very moving - and important."

The actress, who made one of her first major splashes as Jacqueline Kennedy in the 1983 miniseries "Kennedy," says she feels an added responsibility when she portrays a real person such as Carole Keating.

"I find when I do (most jobs), the person I want to please the most is the writer," she says. "Then, when you're doing a true story, the persons you want to please most are the people it happened to. Because it's their life—and they really get only one shot to tell it. You'll go on to another job, but this is the one time that it's their story, and their life gets this kind of attention, so you really have an obligation to get it as right as you can.

"You're just, you know, browsing in their life. That's the one they have - this go-round, anyway," she adds with a laugh.

That sense of keen responsibility made "Kennedy" an almost painful experience for her, Brown remembers.

"Every day I felt more and more uncomfortable," she says. "I couldn't wait for it to be over, because the more I knew about her, and the more people I talked to, the more protective I got of her. The more I sort of wished we weren't doing it at all, because, particularly in an instance like that, there was no way to know if you were getting it right.

"When Martin (Sheen, who played JFK) was doing Cabinet scens, at least they had transcripts of what was said. But we were doing their private life - and I just wanted to crawl into a hole."

For this current project, she has spoken by phone to the real Carole Keating several times, most recently after Keating saw a clip of an especially intense moment from the film.

"(There is a scene) where Carole freaks out in the car, this woman who has appeared really tough. You have doctors telling her that she is really deeply in denial, that what she believes is a fantasy, that she's interfering and that she's counterproductive to the recovery of her son. All the most disburbing things that can be said to you when your son is as seriously ill as he is," says Brown, who has an 11-year-old boy herself.

"We have a scene where she goes into her car just freaks out and screams and cries. And Carole said to me, "That's it. That's what it was.' And I said, 'Well, yeah, that's it for all of us, when you're trying. That's universal. It was really gratifying for her to feel that we got it right."

LET'S TALK

Cheryl Ladd's song and dance; reader alertly catches Captain Nemo snafu

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I really enjoyed "Broken Promises: Taking Emily Back." It was nice to see Cheryl Ladd back on television. I was a big fan of "Charlie's Angels." What else has she appeared in? Is she married? Does she have any children of her own? –S.K., Portland, N.Y.

A: Ladd was born in Huron, S.D. After years of acting classes, TV commercials and guest-starring roles in episodic television, she joined the hit series "Charlie's Angels" in 1977 and her name became a household word. This success led to a variety of television appearances in which she could showcase her singing and dancing talents. She headlined three of her own variety TV specials and released two albums.

Ladd's television work has included three miniseries: "Crossings," "Bluegrass" and "A Death in California." Her credits also include a Showtime special and an impressive list of TV movies, among them "The Girl Who Came Between Them," "When She Was Bad...," "Changes," "Grace Kelly," "Deadly Care" and "Jekyll & Hyde."

Her feature films include "Purple Hearts," "Now and Forever," "Millennium" and "Lisa."

In her personal life, Ladd has served since 1979 as Goodwill Ambassador for Childhelp USA; has been the spokeswoman for Retinitis Pigmentosa International and was the first person to receive the prestigious Hubert H. Humphrey Humanitarian Award presented by the Washington, D.C., Touchdown Club. She is married to Brian Russell and has a daughter and a stepdaughter.

Q: In a recent column, you answered a question regarding a movie about Captain Nemo. The reader described a shipwrecked crew forced to battle giant animals and Nemo going into the ocean with an oversized shell on his back. You incorrectly identified this movie as the Disney fantasy-adventure "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

The correct answer is "Mysterious Island," a 1961 film starring Michael Craig, Gary Merrill and Herbert Lom as Nemo. The person who wrote in the original question was in error when she stated James Mason played Nemo. He did star in the aforementioned Disney film. –Bonnie Calhoun, DeRidder, La.

A: Good catch, Ms. Calhoun. You are indeed the "avid 1960s movie buff" you claim to be. It must have been the Mason reference that threw me originally. Thanks for your help.

Q: I am a big fan of Dan Marino, the quarterback of the Miami Dolphins. Could you give me an address where I could write to him? –S.R., Lenoir, N.C.

A: You can write to Marino and the rest of the team C/O Miami Dolphins, Joe Robbie Stadium, 2269 Northwest 199th St., Miami, Fla. 33156.

Addresses for all major professional sports teams can be found in the sports section of the World Almanac.

Q: I have two things to ask you. First, what has Bill Cosby been doing since "The Cosby Show" left the air? Also, I was wondering who plays Cloud Dancing on "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" and where can I write to him? –Y. Payne, Columbus, Miss.

Cheryl Ladd

A: Cosby has been involved with at least two made-for-TV movies recently, "I Spy Returns" for CBS and a mystery movie for NBC.

You can write to Larry Sellers, who plays Cloud Dancing on "Dr. Quinn," or any of the program's other cast members C/O the show, 4024 Radford Ave., Building 1, Room 115, Studio City, Calif. 91604.

SOAP WORLD

Jensen Buchanan makes role her own

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I read your column about "Another World," and I have to say it is by far my favorite show. It drives me nuts if I have to miss it.

The absolute best character on the show is Victoria Hudson (Jensen Buchanan). Could you please tell me what you know about her and where I can write to her. –Barbara Lyani in Ohio.

Dear Reader: When she first signed with "AW," many people doubted this young actress could take on the hefty roles of twin sisters Vicky and Marley. Buchanan proved those doubters wrong and has become one of the hottest female stars in daytime television.

Buchanan said it was singing that lead her to acting. She has studied music with such greats as Seiji Ozawa, Aaron Copland and Leonard Bernstein. She studied opera at Boston University's School of Fine Arts, and theater was a part of her curriculum.

When Buchanan decided to move to New York she was quickly signed up as a member of the ABC Talent and Development Program.

The actress portrayed the popular and sacchann sweet Sarah Gordon on ABC's "One Life to Live." After several years, Buchanan decided it was time to move on and she eventually landed in the roles vacated by Anne Heche on "AW."

Buchanan, who joined "AW" in 1991, was born in Montgomery, Ala., and raised in Neehah, Wis. Her mother, Mary Poad, writes about animal issues for a local paper and her stepfather is a veterinarian. Her younger half-sister, Amy, attends the University of Wisconsin.

Buchanan is marrjed and lives in Brooklyn, N.Y., with her husband, Gary, whom she became reacquainted with at a high-school reunion.

Tennis is one of Buchanan's favorite sports to play and she enjoys a very active lifestyle. She also loves to discover new restaurants.

You can write to Buchanan C/O Another World, NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10112.
