Cop sought for housing complex

Canton Township is looking for state money to place a police officer at a low-income housing complex that has been the scene of some minor gang-related problems. The officer would work with the nearby school, along with residents in the complex.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

The Canton Public Safety Department is applying for a state grant to provide a liaison officer at the low-income Canton Commons Apartments.

"There is a real push for community-based policing," said Public Safety Director John Santomauro. "If the grant money isn't available, this is a concept we want to incorporate into our policing philosophy."

The community policing philosophy involves a liaison officer responsible for coordinating a variety of programs designed to reduce crime, the fear of crime and to improve quality of life for residents.

The proposed program would involve police, Canton Commons management, Field Elementary School staff, social service and job training agencies and area businesses, Santomauro said.

"Last year, we were having a repeated problem out at Canton Commons with gang-related activities and gang wannabees," Santomauro said. In 1993, police received 698 calls for service from the apartment complex on Haggerty Road.

The department responded to problems at the apartment complex with creation of a task force, which involves the school district, parks and recreation, apartment management and police. Another task force involves surrounding police departments and the schools, which share information about gang-related activities.

The request is for a grant through the Michigan Office of Drug Control Policy for what is called a community reclamation program. The request is

Canton sculptor gets hands on project

Sculpting: Canton sculptor Joe DeLauro works on a one-third scale statue of Giovanni Caboto, also known as John Cabot, credited with discovering Canada. DeLauro's latest commission, to be completed in bronze, is for a club in Windsor bearing the explorer's name.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

To sculptor Joe DeLauro, technique is one thing. But his work begins in the soul.

"What I am trying to say I express here with the form," said the Canton resident, as he showed his clay sketch of renowned dancer Martha Graham.

With armature and clay, DeLauro shows the athletic grace of the dancer, a sculpture he's doing just for himself.

But his latest commission is for the Italian Caboto Club in Windsor. The club is named after John Cabot, who is generally credited with being the first European to discover Canada.

While Cabot may have sailed under the British flag, club members will quickly inform you that Cabot's real name was Giovanni Caboto and he was Italian. DeLauro's work will honor Caboto on the 500th anniversary of his arrival. The commission is due in 1997 when the Italian government is getting together with various groups and governments across the world to honor the explorer.

When complete, DeLauro's Caboto will stand at 9 feet and will be placed in a park on the club's grounds on Tecumseh Road East in Windsor.

"All the sketching is done here in clay," said DeLauro, who retired as the dean and creator of the University of Windsor's fine arts department in 1973.

DeLauro works in bronze, concrete, wood and marble. Caboto will be completed in bronze. DeLauro's sculptures begin with clay. Once he decides how he wants to express the idea or in this case, Caboto, he creates the armature — wiring — to strengthen the sculpture. Clay is the next step.

Caboto does not begin at 9 feet tall. DeLauro began with an 18-inch sketch in clay. Now he's working on the one-third scale model in his home.

"This part here, no one can do it but me," DeLauro said, pointing to how he makes his vision for the sculpture come alive.

DeLauro sees Caboto as a bearded man standing tall, buffeted by winds as he greets the New World.

Resident questions township survey's purpose

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

An officer of the Brookside Village Homeowners Association wanted to know how her fellow residents felt about construction quality and building inspections — not about the quality of township services.

"They asked how do you rate township services," said Judy Linna, Brookside secretary-treasurer and officer of the Canton Homeowners Advisory Council. "The whole issue was home inspections, home inspectors and building."

Linna is taking issue with a survey conducted by the township of the more than 600 homeowners in the Brookside subdivision in mid-December. Linna said she was under the impression that the survey would ask residents about the quality of their homes, the type of problems they found, if problems were corrected and quality of township inspections.

"It's not the township's performance we're asking about, other than inspections," Linna added.

Issued by the township building department, the survey asked whether residents: are satisfied with their home and neighborhood, which departments they had contact with; the type of information they expect to receive from the township on a regular basis; whether they would attend an informational meeting about township services; and perception of the township government and services. Residents were also asked to explain their concerns and to offer suggestions.

Similar surveys will be conducted of new home buyers, based on certificate of occupancy lists, said Casey Hans, municipal services information coordinator.

The survey was prompted during a joint meeting of the advisory council and township board last fall when

School board sets pay for new superintendent

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

The person who replaces John Hoben as superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will earn a minimum salary of $106,000 plus benefits that may include a car, a tax sheltered annuity and insurance.

The figure was recommended by trustee Dave Artley, who heads the board's superintendent search subcommittee.

"Our consultant thinks we will be lucky to get someone for under $110,000," he said. In addition to salary, "most districts offer a car, deferred compensation, vacation days, paid holidays, sick days, long-term disability, vision insurance, health insurance and dental insurance."

Working with the board is the firm Bickert, Prophet and Associates Ltd. of Palos Heights, Ill., which is charging a consulting fee of $13,000 plus expenses.

The board reviewed superintendent salaries and benefits offered in 16 Michigan school districts at its Monday night workshop. Just three (Southfield, West Bloomfield and Farmington) pay more than Plymouth-Canton, the state's ninth-largest school district.

Taylor pays its superintendent $84,000 and provides mileage, but no car.

Waterford schools pay their superintendent $99,000 with a tax-sheltered annuity and a car included.

Livonia's school superintendent earns $109,000 and is given a car.

Hoben earns $116,328 and receives a $10,000 tax sheltered annuity and $500 per month for car expenses. His compensation would be about $122,000 annually — had Hoben not taken wage freezes the past two years — "commensurate with his longevity," said board president Roland Thomas.

Ducks and geese are free to feed

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

Lured by food from folks who flock to visit them, the geese and duck population has surged on the west end of Newburgh Lake in Hines Park.

Birds that normally migrate as far south as Tennessee have chosen to make this section of the lake near the limit of Plymouth Township their year-round home.

But the glut of birds isn't causing any particular problems, say authorities.

A county sheriff's department corporal, who declined to be named, said sheriff's deputies' only concern is that geese and other birds slow up traffic when they waddle across Hines Drive in search of food.

And of people who stop, "We don't mind them feeding birds as long as they don't litter up the joint," he said.

The corporal gestured toward plastic bags strewn about the area, containers that once held bread or other feed left for the birds.

While he was observing the scene from a blue and gold sheriff's department patrol pickup truck, a woman and her two young children pulled alongside the road in their van, carrying loaves of bread to feed the birds.

When the sheriff's department corporal asks to talk to her, Sally Aninos of Plymouth says, "I know you weren't supposed to feed them in Livonia."

"You can feed them there," the corporal responds, adding that this section of Newburgh Lake is in Plymouth Township — and you can feed them here too.

He asks her not to leave the plastic wrappers holding the bread. "We always take them," she said.

Aninos said she and daughter Nicole, 6, and son Paul, 2, started feeding the birds last fall. "We usually feed them five days a week before she goes to school," Aninos said.

Even before unwrapping the bread, dozens of geese and ducks begin approaching them in anticipation of food.

"Once in a while, the kids get their fingers nipped," Aninos said. On this morning, the birds don't get that close, as they wait a few feet away before spearing pieces of bread tossed on the muddy ground.

"See the one with the broken wing? We always have to make sure we get him something because she's always worried about him," Aninos said.

Tim Payne, district wildlife biologist for the state Department of Natural Resources, said, "We're very strongly against feeding Canada geese or ducks for that matter.

"We discourage that because usually they're not getting a good diet," he said.

Canada geese naturally graze on grass in the summer and eat corn and other grains in the winter — and wetland vegetation year-round. They're even known to eat apples, Payne said.

The DNR does relocate young birds when enough lakefront owners ask. But Payne said the county government has not asked the DNR to look into the rising geese and duck population in Hines Park.

Payne said geese and ducks have enough insulation to survive a severe cold snap like the one in January, adding they need open water and food.

He suggested that people who have in effect made pets out of the birds by feeding them in summer should continue to feed them in winter.

Man, 40, robbed at Canton bar

A 40-year-old man was robbed at gunpoint at Lucille's Lounge on Michigan Avenue Feb. 17, according to a Canton police report.

The man told police he was parking at the lounge when he saw a man in his 20s standing next to the building smoking a cigarette. When the man got out of his truck, the unidentified man approached him, pointed a sawed-off shotgun at him and demanded money.

After the gunman got the man's wallet and key, he left eastbound around the building. No tracks were found, according to the report.

Van Buren Township police also reported two armed robberies within three hours of each other at bars. The description of the gunman matched that given in the Canton incident.

Felonious assault

A 38-year-old woman was taken into custody after she apparently slashed her boyfriend with a steak knife in their apartment on Honey Tree, Feb. 6, according to a Canton police report.

When police arrived at the apartment, they were allowed in by the 51-year-old boyfriend who was bleeding from the forehead and arm. The man told police he went upstairs to the woman's bedroom to ask her something when she slashed him with a knife, cutting his forehead and arm. The knife was later found on a dresser in the bedroom.

The woman asked police to arrest her so she could get out of the house. "I had to stab him. He was beating me and I can't take it anymore," the woman reportedly told police. She said the man had tried pulling her off the bed. The woman had a black eye and marks on her forehead, according to the report.

The man was taken to Annapolis Hospital for treatment. The woman was taken into custody.

Engler plans visit to promote tax plan

Gov. John Engler will visit Canton Friday, March 4, as part of a series of citizens forums he has planned to promote passage of Proposal A.

The Canton forum will be 2:30-4 p.m. at Fellows Creek Golf Club on Lotz Road. The forum is open to the public, free of charge. Reservations are not required.

"I hope we have more people come than there are places to sit," said Township Supervisor Tom Yack, who supports Proposal A. "I think John does a great job of explaining the proposal. The guy knows taxation."

Engler will be introduced by state Rep. Robert Geake. He will give a brief presentation on Proposal A. Engler plans to complete the meeting with an hour-long question and answer session.

"Anytime he comes to Canton, it's good for the community. It's good for the residents," Yack said. "Canton has been identified as one of the top five communities where they (Republican Party and Proposal A) have to do well."

Driver arrested after high-speed chase

After leading area police on a high-speed chase, an Ypsilanti man crashed his car in Plymouth early Monday and was jailed pending charges, Plymouth Township police said.

At about 3:30 a.m., police were asked to join the pursuit of a Pontiac Grand Am driven by an Ypsilanti man, 23. Novi police patrol officers, chasing the man for speeding, pursued him south on I-275 and then west on M-14, police said.

Upon joining the chase, a township patrol officer pursued the car to Gotfredson Road, where the Grand Am exited and then headed back east on M-14, police said.

Now running without using headlights, the Grand Am exceeded speeds of 140 mph, police said.

After a Livonia police patrol car blocked off the south exit from M-14 to I-275, the driver veered across the roadway into a ditch and apparently tried to hit a Plymouth Township officer who left his car, telling the driver to get out.

As the car began to speed away, the officer shot out a rear tire of the Grand Am, which continued running on three tires, police said.

Still eluding police, the car proceeded onto Schoolcraft and then crashed after hitting a guard rail at Wilcox Drive.

Police said the man had borrowed the car from a friend.

On Tuesday morning, the driver of the car was in the Plymouth Township jail awaiting arraignment in district court.

School board schedules budget discussion

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Despite an administrative recommendation to delay its budget workshop, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will meet 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, Feb. 26, to discuss the 1994-95 budget, which could include up to $2 million in cuts.

Associate superintendent for business Ray Hoedel suggested that the board wait until after voters cast ballots next month. The March 15 special election will determine whether an increase in sales tax will fund schools.

Hoedel recommended that the workshop be delayed until March 26, when more in-district budgetary information will be available and Lansing will have passed more enabling legislation on school finance.

School board president Roland Thomas said that if the board wants to allow time for public input, the workshop shouldn't be delayed. The superintendent search is going to require a large time commitment for the board in the upcoming months.

"The only thing controlled by the people of Michigan will be the ballot proposal. The Legislature can continue to tinker with every part of that until October," Thomas said.

The board agreed to discuss criteria for cuts rather than prioritize cuts at Saturday's session.

Hoedel said indications are that funding methods for vocational education and at-risk students will change. "Voc ed is going to be removed from the revenue picture, and at-risk students will be another problem for us," he said.

No longer will the district be able to place the $33 in state revenue for each at-risk student in the general fund. "They will tell us how to spend that money," Hoedel said of the state.

Concerns were raised about prematurely alarming the public about proposed cuts.

Board member Susan Feiten said, "There's a very fine line between concern about creating anxiety and involving the public. I have concerns about doing this too early."

Trustee Les Walker said that while sometimes the board intends things as pure discussion, "unfortunately when we talk about them early in the process, it goes out as firm positions."

"This is a process; nothing will be set in cement," said Thomas. "We need to review the process earlier and involve the public more completely."

Superintendent John Hoben told the board "the straw dog you'll receive assumes we are opening two new elementary schools and maintaining the same staff ratios."

Hoben said he pursued a parent's suggestion to see whether Livonia Public Schools would consider leasing Lowell Middle School for a lesser amount.

The suggestion was raised after the board discussed the possibility of leaving Lowell, transferring students to the four existing middle schools, and closing Gallimore Elementary to save money.

Livonia responded that on an extended lease of five to seven years, Livonia would reduce the lease price by $25,000.

"We will have to address the funding issue for middle school over the next three to four years," said Hoben. A bond issue "seems to be the best option we have at this point."

A more pressing concern, said Hoben, is capacity at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. "Capacity is 4,200 and we have 4,400 students at the park" with enrollment projected to hit 4,800 in the next few years.

The budget workshop will be at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in downtown Plymouth.

April 11 deadline to file for school board

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

If you are interested in running for any of three seats on the Plymouth-Canton school board, you have until 4 p.m. Monday, April 11, to file nominating petitions.

Two four-year terms and a single one-year term will be open.

The two four-year seats are held by Carl Battishill and Lester Walker, both of whom are undecided about whether to seek another term.

The third seat is held by Susan Feiten, appointed in November to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Dean Swartzwelter. Feiten also is undecided about running again.

Nominating petitions are available for any resident of the school district who is registered to vote. They are available at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center at 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Battishill, an area teacher nearing the end of his first four-year term, said his plans "are kind of up in the air."

Walker, employed at Michigan Detroit Diesel-Allison, also is undecided.

Feiten plans to make her decision by early March. "I enjoy working on the board and I'm very grateful to have had this opportunity. But I really need to evaluate how this fits in with my family," said Feiten, who has a third-grader at Isbister and a preschooler. A registered nurse currently on leave, Feiten is educational coordinator for the University of Michigan Hospital's Home Peritoneal Dialysis Unit.

Feiten said her priorities, if she serves again, will involve working with the new superintendent, student housing, and class size.

Nominating petitions must contain a minimum of 45 valid signatures. The figure is based on the number of votes received by the highest vote-getter in the last election.

Candidates will have until 4 p.m. April 14 to withdraw from the race. Voting will take place 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, June 13, at school election precincts.

For more information, call the school district's election office at 451-3135.

Hoben, who's served as superintendent for 20 years, receives life insurance equal to twice his current salary. The first $50,000 is paid by the district, with Hoben paying the remainder at a group rate. He receives four weeks paid vacation, 10 paid holidays plus a Christmas vacation.

Trustees Les Walker, Susan Feiten and Barbara Graham favored advertising the position at a salary of $100,000 or more, commensurate with experience.

A citizen suggested advertising the job at $80,000 — $106,000, depending on experience.

"I'd have concerns about $80,000. That would infer we are looking for bargain basement, when we are not," said Feiten.

Said Walker, "A savvy individual will look at our minimum, conditions in the district and get impressions from peers. I don't think a minimum will set a posture by itself. I'd rather go lower than $106,000. I'd like to see the ad say pay will be in excess of $100,000."

Trustee Carl Battishill pointed out that the manager of the Ford Motor Sheldon Road plant earns considerably more than Hoben. "That's one of the harsh realities of spending taxpayer dollars," he said. Graham said, "$100,000 would be all right. We can always go up, but we can't go down. I don't want to go out and say you're going to get $115,000."

Thomas suggested getting the consultant's opinion, but recommended going with $106,000. "Good people won't apply if we pay less. That's our consultant's experience," he said.

Board members said provisions of a contract, including its length — three years maximum — will be determined in public at an open meeting.

The board has decided to keep secret the identities of applicants. Applicants will be known only to Bickert and Prophet until eight to 10 finalists are decided upon.

Walker said the board should take into consideration the salaries earned by administrators directly beneath the superintendent.

The administration was asked to provide compensation information involving the associate superintendent for business, assistant superintendent for curriculum, executive director for instruction, and assistant superintendent for employee relations and personnel.

Pig in apartment: A Canton woman wants to keep her Vietnamese pig in her apartment.

It's her pet project: Giving pig a home

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

A Canton woman wants to know why cats and dogs are allowed as pets in some apartments but pet pigs aren't.

"The first thing people think is — barnyard. A big, dirty barnyard. And that's not true. These pigs are easier to train than a dog or cat," said the woman, who asked not to be identified for fear of eviction.

The woman and her family have a new Vietnamese pot-bellied pig, weighing in at a little more than four pounds and sporting a pinkish body and black hair. She's checked around at apartments, including her own, and the answer is no, she is not allowed to have a pig.

But the woman wants to see that changed, especially when communities, such as Canton Township, view the non-farm pig as pets.

"Pot-bellied pigs have become fashionable lately," said Miles Davis, township inspector. "They are considered a domestic animal. I just don't see anything (in township ordinances) that would prohibit them."

That really doesn't matter to most apartment owners and managers. They don't want pigs in their apartments. "I don't have to let them in my building," said David Sparrow of Management Corp. of Michigan, as well as the vice president of the Apartment Association of Michigan.

By far, Sparrow said, cats are more prevalent and more accepted in apartments. While some apartments allow dogs, size restrictions apply. "Generally dogs are more difficult. They bark and there's no place for them to run," Sparrow said.

The Canton woman, however, sees her pet pig, named Curley QP Quincy, about 12 weeks old, as more similar to a cat than a dog. Consequently, she reasons, the pig should be acceptable in an apartment.

Like a cat, Curley uses kitty litter. Unlike many cats, she's affectionate and loves to be handled. "And she doesn't stink like a dog or cat. She doesn't chew," the woman said.

Curley eats food prepared specifically for pot-bellied pigs. She can eat fruits and vegetables, but no meat, salt or chocolate. "Depending on the mood she's in, she can give out some really good noises. She definitely has different moods," the woman said.

Like other domestic pets, pot-bellied pigs are given the necessary vaccinations, they have their hooves clipped and can be trained.

Pot-bellied pigs are generally short, reaching only about 15 inches at the shoulder, but they can weigh up to 50-60 pounds, said Elizabeth Duncan, a pot-bellied pig breeder in New Boston.

"I've sold these animals to a lot of people in apartments and condominiums," Duncan said. "They are very quiet. They are a lot easier to house train than a dog. And they don't jump up on a table like a dog."

Trip across Atlantic offered something to cheer about

By Julie Brown

Lauri Gaylord of Plymouth Township got to spend this past Christmas at home, but then it was off to London, England.

Gaylord, 17, is a senior at Plymouth Canton High School and co-captain of the varsity cheerleading squad. Her late December-early January trip to London was for a parade.

"I went to cheerleading camp this summer," said Gaylord, daughter of Joyce and Gary Gaylord. At the camp, held at the University of Michigan, she tried out for and made the all-star team.

"That meant I was to go to London, England, and represent the United States as a cheerleader in the Lord Mayor of Westminster's New Year's Day parade."

She left home Dec. 26 and returned on Jan. 2, traveling by herself. In addition to the 3½-hour parade Jan. 1, Gaylord and the other cheerleaders had time to do some sightseeing and see a show, "Buddy," about the life of the late musician Buddy Holly.

The parade, the highlight of the trip, included some 1,500 cheerleaders from throughout the U.S. Cheerleaders aren't customary at athletic events in the United Kingdom, and the American cheerleaders were a big hit with the many Britons who lined the parade route.

"It was a huge parade," said Gaylord. "It's like the biggest in all of Europe. We were on TV and in the paper. We were the hit of the parade.

"It was fun. We performed a dance; 22 times we had to do it. It was tiring." The parade route took the cheerleaders and others by Big Ben, Westminster Abbey and other London landmarks.

She didn't wear her Canton uniform, but instead one for the Universal Cheerleading Association. Gaylord has many photos from her trip, including one of her with a uniformed guard at the Tower of London.

A videotape of the dance routine was sent in advance to Gaylord's home, and she had no trouble learning the steps. The group was broken up, with five or six different groups doing different dances for the parade. Gaylord performed a routine with about 200 girls.

The cheerleaders, both male and female, had one practice session at a London-area gym. They stayed at the Tower Thistle Hotel, right across from the Tower of London.

Gaylord liked her roommate, an Ohio girl who was also traveling solo. Gaylord's parents didn't make the trip, although they were at the Universal Cheerleading Association camp when she made the team, and were excited about her trip.

Financial support for Gaylord's trip came from a number of sources, including the Canton Community Foundation; Dennis Shrewsbury, Plymouth city commissioner; Plymouth Kiwanis; Tom MacKenzie, principal at Canton High School; the Plymouth-Canton Cheerleading Boosters; O & D Bush Jewelers; and the Plymouth-Canton Football Boosters.

Lauri Gaylord

The trip to England was a first for Gaylord, and she's pleased she got to do some sightseeing.

Her tour included stops at Big Ben, the exterior of Parliament, and of Buckingham Palace. Trips to Oxford and Stratford-on-Avon were included, as was a stop at Harrods department store, where Gaylord bought two sweaters.

"I was just so amazed at the city, how beautiful it was. Windsor Castle is really pretty," said Gaylord, who has a sister, Julie, 13, an eighth-grader at West Middle School. "I liked Harrods."

Gaylord will attend Michigan State University, and plans to try out for the Michigan State Motion dance team.

Her career plans include becoming a physician.

Daughters of the American Revolution: The DAR has named its Good Citizen Contest of Michigan winners. Nominated by their schools and honored at a tea and award ceremony were (from left) Jennifer Barrett of Ladywood High School; Kristina Dassing of Canton High School; Sangita Baxi of Salem High School; and (sitting) Wendy Ann Forster of Northville High School. Honoring the winners was the Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution. One of the nominees will be selected to represent the district. The winner of that contest will compete for a $5,000 scholarship in national competition.

for $37,040. Canton Township would have to match that with $24,693, or 40 percent. The total would pay for salary and fringe benefits for a veteran police officer.

The Canton Police Department was allowed to hire two new officers this year. The liaison officer would be one of those positions. "We do not have money in the budget for a third position," Santomauro said.

Township Clerk Loren Bennett questioned whether the position, if funded by grant money, would require reapplication the following year. "I really can't answer about the duration," Santomauro responded, adding that the liaison program is what he would like incorporated in the department.

It is likely the officer would be stationed at nearby Field Elementary School rather than Canton Commons. The program also will include areas around Canton Commons, Santomauro said.

"There's an awful lot of coordination that has to occur," Santomauro said.

Last year, the public safety department unsuccessfully applied for a grant that would have provided extra help for Canton Commons.

Sculpture

"Bgonze will last longer than marble in this type of weather and pollution," DeLauro said. Marble is softer and will deteriorate with pollution and blustery weather.

When DeLauro completes the one-third scale, his work will go to a foundry where a mold will be made from the clay sculpture. Wax is then used in the mold.

"Where the wax used to be, bronze — a compound of copper, zinc and lead — is poured in. It's called the lost wax process," DeLauro said.

It's still not the end of the process. When DeLauro receives the 9-foot-tall sculpture, he finishes the detail.

"I have already done so much work in Canada," DeLauro said. In fact, there's a pretty good chance most people have seen the sculptor's work. At Hiram Walker & Sons distillery in Windsor, it is DeLauro's 11-foot-tall bronze sculpture — "Creation According to the Myth of the Iroquois and Wyandotte Indians" — that greets visitors.

Also in Windsor is a 4-foot-tall bronze work of the Holocaust at the Jewish Community Center, as well as a 37-foot-high concrete column called "Ascending Column," at the Collavino Construction Co.

Back home, his work can be seen at the Canton Public Library, as well as the Detroit Public Library and Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

"I liked three-dimensional form," DeLauro said, referring to his choice of sculpting as an art form. "I was intrigued more by form than by color."

DeLauro has always been a sculptor. But he began his career as a professor at Marygrove College and the University of Windsor, where he was asked to create a fine arts department.

"I started it from scratch," DeLauro said. "I was both sculptor and teacher. When a commission came along, I would do that."

concerns about quality construction and township inspections, as well as the then-proposed mandatory pre-sale house inspections, surfaced.

But the survey given to Brookside residents did not question them about the quality of their home construction or satisfaction with inspections.

"As long as we were spending the 29 cents, we might as well ask as many questions as we can," Supervisor Tom Yack said.

Hans called the questionnaire an interest survey. "I didn't see many concerns," she said.

But Linna says she also is concerned that residents who participated in the survey were not given the results. The results apparently were given to the homeowners advisory council. "It would have been nice for Brookside to see them," Linna said.

Directly mailing results to the residents is not a common practice, Hans said. "I was not directed to do that," she added. Any resident who wants a copy of the results may call Hans at 397-5483.

In the Brookside newsletter, scheduled to go out to residents within 10 days, Linna intends to thank residents for their participation in the survey. "I will also put in there that this was not the survey we thought we would receive."

Of the 616 households which were given the survey, only 39 responded to the eight questions. Among other responses, 59 percent of those responding rated township services and the perception of Canton as good, with 19 percent as excellent. Six residents gave Canton a fair rating and two gave it a poor rating, according to survey results.

Of the 39 residents who responded, only 26 said they knew who built their houses. Residency in Canton ranged from six months to 24 years. Thirty-three of the residents said they were generally satisfied with their home and neighborhood. Six residents said they were displeased.

"I think there was a good mix of people who responded. There were people with concerns and people who were satisfied," Hans said.

But Linna is still certain concern remains about housing quality, as well as quality township inspections to catch problems in new homes before residents move in.

"Not one of those type of questions was on the survey," Linna said.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NATURAL BEAUTY ROADS

Notice is hereby given that the Wayne County Department of Public Services will hold a public hearing at 7:00 P.M., on Wednesday, March 9, 1994, at the location described below for the purpose of hearing comments on, and objections to, the proposed designation of the County local roads described as Natural Beauty Roads as provided for in Act 150, P.A. 1970. This hearing is in response to qualified petitions which were received by the County of Wayne on December 9, 1993, and which request said designations as follows:

Gyde Road
All of that portion of Gyde Road, dedicated to the use of the public in Canton Township, Wayne County, Michigan, said portion extending 0.509 mi. east from Ridge Road.

Joy Road
All of that portion of Joy Road, dedicated to the use of the public in Canton Township and Plymouth Township, Wayne County, Michigan, said portion extending from Ridge Road west 0.813 mile to its intersection with Ann Arbor Road.
This portion of Joy Road is currently classified as County primary road and will be processed for redesignation as a County local road as part of administrative procedures to take place during the month of March, 1994. No final designation of Joy Road as a Natural Beauty Road under Act 150, P.A. 1970, will be made unless the aforementioned redesignation has been completed and approved under Act 51, P.A. 1951, as amended.

Napier Road
All of that portion of Napier Road, dedicated to the use of the public in Canton Township, Wayne County, Michigan, and in Superior Township, Washtenaw County, Michigan; said portion extending 1.008 mi. from Ann Arbor Road south to its intersection with Warren Road.

Ridge Road
All of that portion of Ridge Road, dedicated to the use of the public in Canton Township, Wayne County, Michigan, said portion extending 1.021 mi. from Warren Road north to its intersection with Joy Road.

A hearing examiner duly appointed by the Wayne County Executive will open said public hearing at 7:00 P.M. at:

County residency requirement sought

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

A Wayne County commissioner wants to force almost all the employees of the county government to live in Wayne County.

Currently, of 5,137 county employees (not including court employees), 439 live outside Wayne County.

Commissioner Bernard Parker, D-Detroit, has introduced an ordinance that says, "Each person who is hereafter hired to a position as an employee of the county of Wayne shall maintain their principal residency within Wayne County. The chief executive officer shall place the highest priority upon implementing this policy when bargaining with each (union) of Wayne County employees."

Furthermore, Parker's ordinance gives the commission and Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara an option to waive the residency requirement "in those cases where particular skills are required which are not possessed by a county resident."

The commission has scheduled a public hearing on the ordinance for its next meeting, 10 a.m. Thursday, March 3, at 600 Randolph in Detroit. Interested people may comment on the proposed ordinance at that time. Commissioners can adopt the ordinance after the public hearing.

Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, opposes the ordinance, but thinks it will be approved. "This is all just gut-level policy making at its worst," he said.

It would be nice if county employees all wanted to live in Wayne County, but they shouldn't be forced to do so, McCotter said.

Commissioner Bryan Amann, D-Wayne, who also represents Canton Township, opposes the ordinance, too. "We need to have the freedom to get the best and brightest (employees)," he said. "From the taxpayers' perspective, you want to get the best, most qualified people you can."

Commissioner Kay Beard, D-Westland, who also represents Garden City, voted for the ordinance in committee.

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and part of Livonia, opposes the ordinance. She fears that neighboring counties might also adopt residency requirements, making it more difficult for Wayne County residents to find work.

Howard Rubenstein, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 101, said the union's position is that a residency requirement, if implemented, should apply to all employees.

"One of the things unions want to be about is fairness," he said. Other than that, the union doesn't support or oppose Parker's ordinance, Rubenstein said.

Parker could not be reached for comment.

Homeowners object to SS number request

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Homeowners who object to giving the local assessor their Social Security numbers may have to prove by other means that they're eligible for the lower school property tax rate this year.

Citing fears of "Big Brother," some homeowners are refusing to give their Social Security numbers when they send city or township hall the affidavit entitling them to a six- or 12-mill tax rate on their domiciles.

Without some proof, they may have to pay 24 mills.

"The Michigan Department of Treasury has the legal authority to use Social Security numbers for tax purposes," according to the state treasurer's Feb. 10 advisory memo.

"Federal law prohibits the state or local governments from releasing a Social Security number to unauthorized persons. Local governments may not use Social Security numbers for any purpose other than to administer the homestead exemption."

Maximum penalty for improperly disclosing a Social Security number: five years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

Will you receive the homestead exemption if you fail or refuse to enter your Social Security number?

Treasury's answer: "The Department of Treasury may ask for further verification of your homestead exemption claim." It does not say what "further verification" might be.

All property will be taxed at 24 mills for school operations except your principal homestead. If Proposal A, a constitutional amendment, is approved March 15 by voters, the rate will be six mills; if it's rejected, 12 mills.

Deputy treasurer Madhu Anderson said the state requests the number to "preclude any person from having or claiming more than one principal residence at any time.

See SOCIAL SECURITY, 7A

Readers' questions on Prop A answered

Most of your dozens of questions on Proposal A continue to be about the homestead exemption affidavit — the simple form you must sign to make your home eligible for the 6- or 12-mill property tax instead of 24 mills.

Q. I own and occupy my own home. My daughter and son-in-law are on the deed as co-owners. Whose name and Social Security number are needed?

On my deed, there are myself and my wife. But my wife's name is on her mother's deed.

A. Only co-owners who occupy the home as their principal residence must sign the affidavit, the state Treasury Department says. Family members who are co-owners but don't live there should not sign.

Be careful if you own a house and are listed on a parent's house as co-owner. Sign an affidavit only for the house you occupy. You are entitled only to one homestead tax break.

Q. My children are owners of my home, but I hold a life estate. May I claim the exemption?

A. "Yes. Fill out the affidavit using your name, address, Social Security number and signature. Your children should not sign the affidavit," Treasury says.

Q. We live in a mobile home in a trailer park in South Lyon. Do we get any break?

A. You may claim an exemption on your garage and shed if they're taxable. But mobile homes in a licensed park are taxed under a different law, not the homestead property tax.

WHY A LOT OF BABIES SEEM LIKE DISTANT RELATIVES

Instead of asking you to conform to limited visiting times or placing barriers between family members, at St. Mary you decide who can visit and when.

All private rooms
We believe you know best when you want visitors and when you need time alone with your baby. That's why all the maternity rooms at St. Mary are private. So a family member can even stay overnight if that's what you want.

Real family care
Your baby can stay in your room even when family members are visiting. We accept your definition of family. Grandparents. Children. Aunts and uncles. Your best friend. If you call them family, so do we. It's that simple.

Our physicians even examine babies at your bedside so you and your family can watch and ask questions. So if you want real family-centered care, call St. Mary Hospital.

Museum's new exhibit tells story of putting world on wheels

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

When the open road beckoned, America responded.

The car and its influence on American life are the focus of a new exhibit, "The American Road," at the Plymouth Historical Museum. The exhibit, which will continue through June 5, is designed not only to showcase certain cars but also to reveal how the auto influenced life in 20th century America.

"Since this is Ford country, we ended up with a lot of Ford stuff," said Beth Stewart, director of the museum at 155 S. Main in downtown Plymouth. April 30 will be the 30th anniversary of the introduction of the Ford Mustang, and Mustangs from various years will be featured throughout the exhibit months.

Other cars go back much earlier. The downstairs of the museum, for example, includes a 1911 Cadillac and a 1925 Packard touring car. The latter, some 17½ feet in length, was difficult to fit in the museum elevator, Stewart said.

Most of the cars are on loan, although one, a 1916 Alter car manufactured in Plymouth, belongs to the museum. Car-related artifacts range from a Burma Shave sign to a collection of Howard Johnson's restaurant china.

Events planned

A variety of special events are planned in conjunction with the exhibit, including a luncheon program featuring speaker William Clay Ford Jr. on Friday, April 15. Ford, great-grandson of Henry Ford, is general manager of Ford's Climate Control Division. Reservations are required; for more information, call 455-8940.

"He's really interested in Plymouth and in Ford's connection to Plymouth," said Stewart, a Plymouth Township resident. She anticipates Ford will discuss the Mustang's anniversary.

Pictures of the 1962 Mustang prototype are included in the exhibit. That prototype was taken to college campuses, Stewart said, in an effort to see what young car buyers wanted. The car was first manufactured for sale in 1964, and the first models — called 64½s — are tough to find.

The 1965 Mustang was virtually identical to its predecessor, she said. Posters in the exhibit show the most recent model of Mustang, currently being advertised.

Lectures planned

A museum lecture series will feature:

- Lars Bjorn, a professor of sociology at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, discussing "The Auto Industry and the Development of Metropolitan Detroit," 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 10;
- Daniel Hershberger, associate professor of graphic design at the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, discussing "Gas, Food and Lodging: The Design of the American Roadside," 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 14;
- Automotive historian Lee Kollins discussing "Did Henry Ford Invent the Supermarket?" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 12.

Regular museum hours are 1-4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for students ages 5-17, with a family rate of $4. Group tours are available.

The local exhibit has some things in common with the well-known one at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, said Stewart, a former staffer at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. That permanent exhibit also describes the auto's influence on American life; the Plymouth exhibit focuses more on the local community, and its organizers tried to avoid duplication of the Dearborn exhibit.

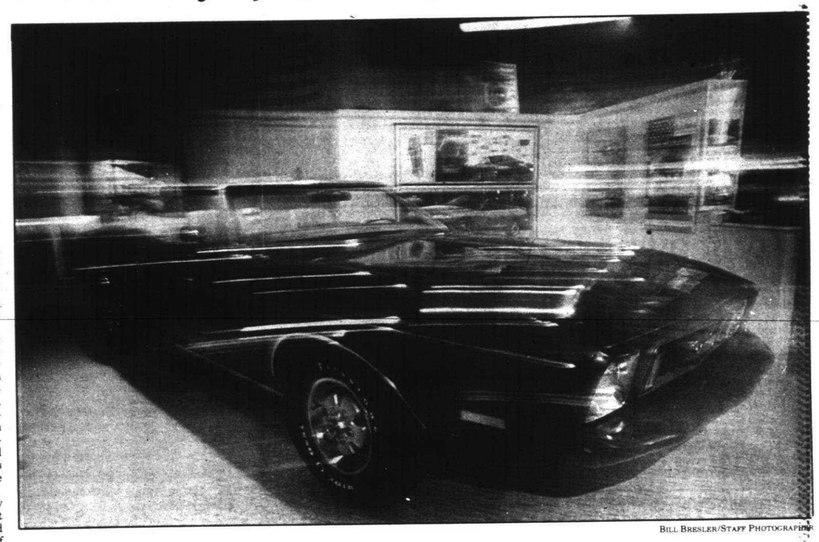
Plymouth-area ties to the early auto industry abound. The first Ford stock certificate was issued to Charles Bennett, president of the Daisy Air Rifle Co. in Plymouth, in 1903. Bennett made a profit, but sold his stock in 1906 and didn't realize the enormous profit that other early investors did.

"He made big bucks, even in that amount of time," she said.

One exhibit poster shows John Haggerty, Wayne County's first road commissioner and the man for whom Haggerty Road is named. Another artifact shows a patent from 1928 for an auto part. That was obtained by the Hudson Motor Car Co. from the grandfather of Dan LeBlond, a Ford executive and Plymouth Historical Society president.

"We're just always amazed at the things people collect and save," Stewart said, pointing to auto color sample charts and owner's manuals. "People are just buying up the stuff like crazy."

General Motors and Chrysler are featured in the exhibit, although foreign competitors aren't highlighted in a significant way. One older map shows the General Motors proving grounds in Milford:



Bill Bresler/Staff Photographer

Hot wheels: This 1973 Ford Mustang is featured in the exhibit on "The American Road," which will continue through June 5 at the Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main in downtown Plymouth.

Ford cars exhibited include a 1931 Model A Ford and a 1921 Model T in basic black with wooden trim.

Sticker shock may afflict car buyers when seeing prices of years gone by. A 1934 sales slip for a Ford Model 40 shows a total of $617.22, "paid in full," including sales tax and license fees. The 1916 Alter sold for $685, about $150 more than the Model T of that era, Stewart said.

"Loaded" with options probably isn't the right word to describe the cars of years gone by, she agreed. "It'd be interesting to know what the options were."

Items on loan

Much of the material in the exhibit comes from Dick Anderson, who owns Plymouth Glass. Kollins, who worked at the Ford Rotunda in Dearborn, provided such items as hood ornaments, photos and sheet music. Tunes include "Take Me Out in Your Buick," "Dodge Brothers March" and others.

The black and white photo of the Ford Rotunda, site of an annual Christmas celebration for families, will stir memories for many. The building burned down Nov. 9, 1962, when tar that workers were using on it caught fire.

Hershberger's items from Howard Johnson's are featured in the exhibit, as are many oil company collectibles. "Sinclair had a lot of things in this area. Plymouth used to have an abundance of gas stations," Stewart said.

One item downstairs is a gasoline cart from the late 1920s that can carry 50 gallons. During that era, motorists would wait as vendors went up and down the street, bringing gasoline with them.

Toys, ranging from those of the 1920s on up through the Matchbox cars and Hot Wheels of the 1970s, are included. The early days of the auto industry, in which cars shared the road with horses and buggies, are featured.

One now-humorous regulation from 1908 required a motorist to stop his car and cover it with a tarpaulin to match the scenery so horses could pass without being frightened. The regulation also stated that cars should be painted green in spring, gold in summer, red in fall, and white in winter, to blend into the background.

The regulation further required a nighttime driver to send up flares every mile and wait 10 minutes, to make sure no one was coming. Such regulations revealed the opposition of rural residents to the arrival of cars on the scene, Stewart said.

No auto exhibit would be complete without a mention of the fabled Route 66, and the Plymouth exhibit features a New Mexico road sign for the route, which could be traveled from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Cancer Society's lock-up fundraiser set

The American Cancer Society's ninth annual Great American Lock Up will occur Tuesday, March 1, to Friday, March 4, at 14 "jail" sites throughout the Detroit area.

Here's how it's done. For a fee of $25, anyone 18 years of age or older may have someone "arrested" by calling (800) 543-5245.

The "prisoners" will be told to telephone everyone they know and convince them to donate money to the society. In that way the "prisoners" may raise their "bail."

Q. I rent a room to a boarder. May I still claim an exemption?

A. Yes, but only the portion of your home you live in, not on the portion you rent out. On the affidavit, find section 3, and enter the percentage of your home that you occupy and explain with a note on the form.

Q. My home and an additional lot are on the same deed and mortgage. But the lot has a separate PIN (property identification number) on the tax bill. Can the vacant lot qualify for an exemption?

A. Yes, you may claim an exemption for the lot if it's adjacent and contiguous to your home, according to Treasury. If it's across the road, the lot is still contiguous.

Q. Is the state really going to change the March 1 deadline for filing for the lower homestead tax rate?

A. A Senate bill is being prepared to extend the deadline to May 1. A lawmaker tells us: "May 1 is the consensus date." Nothing's certain, but this Lansing watcher would bet yes.

Q. I am having a new home built in 1994 which I will be moving into later in 1994. May I file an affidavit on my new home?

A. That continues to bother readers. We get two answers:

Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford, co-chair of the House Taxation Committee, wants to pro-rate the exemption. If you're in the home a half-year, you'd get half the tax break.

Treasury's answer: "No. The property was not being occupied as a principal residence on tax day, Dec. 31, 1993. However, the 1994 assessment will not be based on the value of a completed home since a completed home did not exist on the tax day. You may claim an exemption for the home for 1995 taxes after you occupy the home as your principal residence."

Q. Your paper is offering a fax-mail service to homeowners who didn't get a homestead affidavit from their local assessor. People should know they can get these free from the assessor's office.

A. You're right. Our service is designed for those who can't get to city or township hall during office hours or who are elsewhere in the country. Our $4.95 price beats a plane trip home.

If you still need a homestead exemption form, call toll-free 1-800-967-5904 from anywhere in the U.S. Have your Visa or MasterCard charge card ready. Ask for item 0301. Specify whether you want delivery by fax (complete phone number, please), mail (complete address with ZIP code) or Federal Express (for an additional $20).

Q. I'm in the process of buying a house from a relocation firm. Who files for the exemption?

A. Only the owner-occupant may file for the exemption.

Q. My home in Bloomfield Township has been for sale for a year. I live in my second home. My CPA tells me not to change my voting address in order to qualify for a federal capital gains tax break.

A. This reporter is neither a CPA nor an attorney and isn't licensed to give such detailed advice. Treasury's answer is short and sweet: "You must claim the exemption for the home you occupy as your principal residence." Treasury does not check your affidavit against your voter registration. It checks only to make sure you're claiming only a single homestead.

This newspaper will try to answer in print all questions of general interest. By touchtone, call (313) 953-2047 ext. 1881. One question per call, please.

Social Security from page 5A

"Because some taxpayers may inadvertently make errors on their affidavits or improperly claim more than one homestead exemption, we ask for a Social Security number to verify that the property is properly claimed," she said, citing three sections of the Social Security Act.

Here's how it works: If a local unit raises a question about whether you are seeking more than one exemption, Treasury uses your Social Security number to run a computer check to see if you've filed more than once.

The exemption applies only to your principal homestead. A second home is ineligible for the lower rate.

"If the Department of Treasury denies your homestead exemption, you may file an appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal," the Treasury bulletin says.

County road officials expect nasty potholes this spring

Wayne County roads officials have seen the future of road conditions around here — and it isn't pretty.

Last week county road workers discovered that this winter's frost has penetrated four feet into the ground beneath paved roads, and three feet beneath unpaved roads — deeper than in recent years.

That means there's more water than usual trapped under the roads. The simple translation is this: Paved roads may be rougher this spring and gravel roads impassable.

So county road crews are already beginning preparations for the "big thaw," which may have already begun. "We are making sure that all of our yard locations are stocked to the ceiling with large-stone gravel for the unpaved roads and cold patch for the potholes," Wayne County director of roads Robert Mahoney reported in a press release.

The way it works is this: Thawing frost near the surface, unable to drain through the frozen ground below, mixes with soil to form a soft mud unable to support the weight of pavement and vehicles. This causes areas of the road to collapse and potholes to form.

On gravel roads the three feet of frost-bearing ground can become three feet of slick mud, as was experienced across much of the eastern United States last spring.

The only way motorists can avoid a bad spring is if the temperatures rise gradually, allowing moisture to be released slowly, and if there are no significant spring rains. But if the thaw is really fast, large-stone gravel will be dumped by the truckload on unpaved roads, which will later be graded, or scraped to smooth out ruts.

"If things get really bad," Mahoney said, "we may be closing unpaved roads."

MU spring registration begins soon

Homestead form
Engler attempts to extend deadline

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Homeowners are likely to see a May 1 deadline for filing a homestead exemption affidavit to get a major break on the school property taxes.

The state has taken two steps to push back the deadline from the original March 1:

■ Gov. John Engler issued an executive order extending the deadline two months effective if Proposal A is adopted by voters March 15. Engler said he lacked authority to push back the deadline under the statutory plan that takes effect if Proposal A is rejected.

■ The state Senate Tuesday approved a bill to extend the deadline under the backup plan and sent it to the House, where passage may come as early as today.

"The March 1 deadline has caused a great deal of confusion and anger — and I don't blame taxpayers for being upset," Engler said. "I've made it clear that I think our property owners should have more time to file, and I will sign a bill that extends the deadline."

Affidavit forms weren't mailed out until mid-February, giving vacationing homeowners too little time to file.

Meanwhile, freshman state Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, learned a major lesson of politics: There's no limit to what you can accomplish if you don't care who gets credit.

Whyman, a member of the House Taxation Committee, drafted the bill to extend the deadline, but it ran into problems in committee.

"I got a call from Posthumus (Sen. Dick Posthumus, GOP majority leader) asking if the Senate could use my blue back (original copy of the bill)," Whyman said. She consented. Senators then introduced her bill as their own and passed it.

Officially the sponsor will be Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Eastpointe. Among 23 co-sponsors are area Republicans Michael Bouchard of Birmingham, Robert Geake of Northville, Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville and Mat Dunaskiss of Lake Orion.

The bill also allows a homeowner to reapply for an exemption every two years instead of annually.

It requires the state treasurer to reimburse the taxpayer for overpayment if an affidavit is filed late.

The school finance reform package taxes principal homesteads at a lower rate, but homeowners must file an affidavit stating that a property is their principal residence. The affidavit must include the PIN (property identification number), co-owners' signatures and their Social Security numbers.

Refer to Senate Bill 1024 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48913.

County plans to take over DNR's regulation function

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

■ 'We have major problems with the DNR now, as I suspect everybody does. Ultimately, what we'd like to do is be free of the DNR bureaucracy.'

Michael Duggan
Deputy county executive

In an effort to speed the process of everything from road building to redevelopment of property, the Wayne County government is trying to take over many of the key oversight responsibilities of the state Department of Natural Resources.

"We have major problems with the DNR now, as I suspect everybody does," said deputy county executive Michael Duggan. "Ultimately, what we'd like to do is be free of the DNR bureaucracy."

Specifically, Duggan objects to the DNR's performance regarding permit applications, which must be submitted whenever building activity occurs near water or requires soil to be moved.

Some developers, Duggan said, have waited more than two years for the DNR to act on a permit application. Wayne County won't take as long, he said. "The answer may be no, but we promise them a prompt answer."

So far, thanks to a Clean Air Act bill passed in Lansing last year, Wayne County has the responsibility to administer air pollution laws that the DNR handles everywhere else in Michigan. All air pollution emission fees in Wayne County are now paid to the county instead of the DNR.

County officials hope to get authorization this year to add ground contamination and wetlands to its list of responsibilities.

The county commission voted last Thursday to establish "The Wayne County Department of the Environment," to be administered by Executive Edward McNamara. A commission committee to oversee the new department's activities was also created.

Commissioner Michelle Plawecki, D-Dearborn Heights, who also represents Redford Township and part of Livonia, is chairwoman of the committee. Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who also represents Plymouth and Plymouth Township, is the vice chairman.

Plawecki said last week that she will run an activist committee. "We're going to actively go after companies and industries we can trace who have contaminated the soil," she said.

The committee will hold public hearing throughout the county beginning in less than two months to hear complaints about pollution and pollution regulations, Plawecki said.

Duggan said the environment department will be built from portions of existing county departments, including health and public works. The new department will probably be headed by James Murray, who currently is the public works director. No new employees will be hired, Duggan said.

The environment department is almost universally supported on the county commission.

Commission Vice Chairwoman Kay Beard, D-Westland, is among the supporters, but she attempted Thursday to block the vote establishing the new department.

Because McNamara didn't submit an executive department reorganization plan to the commission after he was re-elected in 1990, as Beard believes the county charter requires him to do, commissioners would "make ourselves look foolish" by authorizing the new department, Beard said.

The commission would be amending a re-organization plan that doesn't exist, Beard said.

Several other commissioners argued that a ballot proposal approved by voters in 1992 requiring the county executive to submit a re-organization plan to the commission every four years makes Beard's point moot.

Feeding hungry program's goal

The Food To Share program, in which Kroger stores team up with volunteers to provide food for the needy, is already under way in Livonia. A group of area clergy plan to bring the program to the Plymouth-Canton community this spring.

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Good ideas tend not to stay in one place. That's certainly true of the Food To Share program, in which the Livonia Education Association teachers' union and Kroger have teamed up to help feed the hungry.

The Rev. Bryan Smith, pastor of Geneva Presbyterian Church in Canton, read about that program and thought it would be well-suited to the Canton-Plymouth community. He contacted Nancy Spinelle, LEA board of directors member and community relations representative.

"It allows people to purchase perishable items," said Smith, a Canton resident, in describing the local effort, being organized by more than 20 local churches.

Work on the Plymouth-Canton program began late last year. "Geneva sees it obviously as part of our mission," Smith said. "It really ties in well to our mission statement."

In Livonia, shoppers at Kroger are able to spend a certain amount over their grocery bill, keeping their receipts for tax purposes. Kroger handles the accounting and, based on what was contributed the previous month, makes so much available the following month for needy families and individuals.

"Our program got going almost a year ago," said Spinelle, a Westland resident and kindergarten teacher at Tyler Elementary in Livonia. To date, some $5,000 in donations has been made available to needy customers at the two Kroger locations in Livonia.

In Canton-Plymouth, the Kroger stores on Sheldon north of Ford in Canton and at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon in Plymouth Township will be included. Clergy organizers and Kroger representatives hope to get the program going by April, Smith said.

Shoppers will begin making donations in April, and vouchers for the needy will be made available one month or more after that. "We had a similar program going out in California," said Smith, a California native. The article he saw about the Livonia program served as a reminder of the churches' mission to help those in need.

Geneva operates a food bank, as do some other area churches, but most aren't able to provide such perishable items as fresh produce, meat and dairy products, which require refrigeration. "It also helps to give a little more dignity to people," Smith said of the grocery store program, which gives needy people the opportunity to make their own choices.

Local churches will contribute $1,000 to the Plymouth-Canton effort, to get it going. The local Salvation Army will serve as a clearinghouse in the Canton-Plymouth community, making sure help goes only to those who need it. Several Livonia churches - Holy Cross Lutheran, Ward Presbyterian and St. Edith's - provide such a service in that community, Spinelle said.

"People are very good about coming in on an as-needed basis," she added.

Such a program helps to avoid "double-dipping," in which dishonest recipients take advantage of generosity, said Bill Roberts, director of social services for the Plymouth-Canton Salvation Army. "This'll help out a lot of the churches that don't have the resources we have," added Roberts, a Detroit resident.

Participating churches will distribute certificates for contributions in worship bulletins. A letter on the program just went out to local clergy, Roberts said.

The Salvation Army also operates a food bank, and demands are considerable, which means donations of non-perishable food items are much-appreciated. Donations pour in for Thanksgiving and Christmas, he said, but help is needed throughout the year.

"Then we have to keep it going through the whole year. Usually the fall is when most of the need arises." The help of other churches with Food To Share will allow the Salvation Army to work within its budget, Roberts said.

"Right now, we're still working out all the bugs," Roberts said.

Smith, Lt. Jeffrey Beachum of the Salvation Army and other clergy representatives hope to be able to speak to local service clubs about the program, which benefits the working poor of the Plymouth-Canton community, "to better meet the needs of people who don't have enough food to feed themselves and their families adequately," Smith said. Cigarettes and alcohol can't be purchased with the vouchers at any of the area Kroger stores.

■ The Kroger stores on Sheldon north of Ford in Canton and at Ann Arbor Road and Sheldon in Plymouth Township will be included.

Participating churches/organizations in Canton and Plymouth include: Canton Calvary Assembly of God; Christ Community Church; First United Methodist Church of Plymouth; First Baptist Church of Plymouth; Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church; Cherry Hill United Methodist Church; St. Thomas A' Becket Catholic Church; St. Kenneth Catholic Church; St. Michael Lutheran Church; Campus Crusade for Christ; Canton Free Methodist Church; First Baptist Church of Canton; Geneva Presbyterian Church; St. John Neumann Catholic Church; St. John's Episcopal Church; Tri-City Christian Center; Canton Community Church; Christ the Good Shepherd Church; First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth; Main Street Baptist Church; Resurrection Catholic Church; Trinity Presbyterian Church; and West Plymouth Community Church.

AROUND CANTON

Election meeting

State Rep. Deborah Whyman is sponsoring an informational meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 28, to answer questions and clear up confusion about the March 15 school finance election. The meeting will be in Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. If you can't make it to the Canton meeting, Whyman will sponsor another meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 3, in the Belleville High School cafeteria, 501 W. Columbia.

Don't forget

Canton residents are reminded that their homestead exemption forms are due at the township treasurer's office, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, by May 1.

Homeowners must file an affidavit with the township declaring their primary residence. Otherwise, the property will be categorized as a second home or business and be assessed 24 mills. Without the form, assessors cannot distinguish between homestead and non-homestead property.

Kindergarten

Plymouth-Canton kindergarten registration for next year is set for March 7-11. To register, parents or guardians should bring their child's birth certificate, Social Security number, proof of residency and record of immunization to the elementary school in the child's attendance area.

Questions can be answered by pupil accountant Ginnie Murdoch at 416-4842. Other resources include the Wayne County Health Department, 467-3319, and (for birth certificates) the Office of State Registrar and Center for Health Statistics, Michigan Department of Public Health, (517) 335-8655.

A "Kindergarten Round-up and Information Night" is set for 6-7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 3, at the Discovery Learning Center, 45678 Helm in Plymouth. Open to the public, it will be an information night concerning 1994-95 kindergartners. For more information, call 455-5490.

So. How do I get my kid home from the doctor's office?

That's how kids feel about Oakwood Canton Health Center's new pediatric suite. Designed especially for kids, it sports bright, cheerful colors, Disney characters and kid-sized furniture. And there are lots of games, toys, and books to make the doctor's office feel more like home.

We took care to make sure moms felt better, too. With highly qualified pediatricians on staff. So your kids will not only receive the best of care, but will benefit from the state-of-the-art equipment and technology we have right on hand. And there's one final worry moms can say goodbye to.

Scheduling appointments for last minute emergencies. With Immediate Needs Hours, you can bring your kids in between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. for that fever or runny nose. All we need is a phone call to let us know you're coming in.

These are just some of the many comforts you'll discover waiting for you at Canton's pediatric center. Now, don't you feel better already?

For the name of an Oakwood Canton pediatrician, and to receive a free "A Visit to the Emergency Center" coloring book, call 454-8066.

Program planned for teens, parents

The Plymouth-Canton Educational Park counseling department will present "Preparing to Live and Work in the 21st Century," a program for high school juniors and their parents, at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 16, at Canton High School.

The program is sponsored by the PCEP counseling department in conjunction with Eastern Michigan University, Schoolcraft College, the University of Michigan and local employers.

"The junior year is when most students become motivated to start planning for post-secondary opportunities," said June Swartz, a counselor at Salem High School. "The workshop continues to grow each year. Last year, more than 500 students and parents participated and we expect even more this year."

The program will begin in the Canton High School cafeteria with introductions and an explanation of the timeline of events which take place for students now through their senior year. The program offers information to help students plan their senior year and to begin planning their futures, according to Salem High School counselor Jan Kavulich.

The program is free and open to all juniors and their parents. For more information, contact June Swartz or Jan Kavulich at 416-2800.

School committee to offer information

Unsure how to vote on the upcoming ballot proposal to increase the sales tax?

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools' I CARE Committee will present "Facts and Figures on the March 15 Ballot Proposal" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 10, in the Canton High School Little Theater.

Included will be an overview of Proposal A, as well as the statutory plan which will go into effect if the ballot plan is defeated. Information also will be presented on how each of the plans will affect the Plymouth-Canton district and local taxpayers.

A question-and-answer period will follow.

"The purpose of the public forum is to inform and educate the community on the upcoming ballot proposal," said Betty Bloch, co-chairperson of the I CARE Committee.

I CARE is a community/school involvement organization which supports the Plymouth-Canton schools. For more information, call Bloch at 451-1037 or Annette Kubeshesky in the district's community relations office at 416-2753.

Musical sounds to abound at show

The "Pirates of the Barbershop Coast" will invade the area March 4-5 when the Renaissance Chorus of the Wayne Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America (SPEBSQSA) puts on a show.

The chapter's annual show will begin 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 4-5, in Our Lady of Mercy High, on Middlebelt north of 11 Mile in Farmington Hills.

The 40-man chorus, directed by Captain Matt Coombs, will explore the vast seas during their voyages of adventure and piracy. Among the songs their crew will sing to entertain their "hostages" will be "Safe Harbor," "The Pirate's Life," and "Slippery Sal."

Two quartets will be featured at the show — "The Cascade Convention" and "The Patch Chords."

"The Cascade Convention" features a lead and a bass from Oregon and a tenor and a baritone from Wisconsin. The quartet has been district champion and has competed twice in international competitions.

"The Patch Chords" from Lansing entertain audiences of all ages with a fast-paced show package that includes rib-tickling antics mixed with show tunes, upbeat contemporary numbers, and nostalgic favorites.

Tickets are $10 for either performance. Persons 62 and older or full-time students may buy tickets for $7 each. Tickets may be ordered by calling John Lynn of Redford at 937-1322.

The Renaissance Chorus meets at 7:30 p.m. every Tuesday at Newburg United Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail just east of Newburgh in Livonia. For membership information, call Don Degen at (810) 437-2958.

Trees cut: Canton Township has charged a developer for cutting trees in front of a new store.

Tree cuttings

Developer gets the message

Let's hope the recent charging of a developer with illegally cutting down trees sends a message to those in Canton who think they can ignore local ordinances and then try to hide.

The developer, Carmen Naccaratto, is charged in 35th District Court with breaking Canton zoning ordinances by cutting down two large silver maples in front of New York Carpet World on Ford Road. He stands accused of violating the township's forest-preservation ordinance as well as a site plan that required preservation of the trees.

He pleaded not guilty at his arraignment and awaits court action.

Whatever the outcome, Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who spearheaded the drive to prosecute the developer, will have sent a message to developers and others that the township is serious about preserving what remains of the area's natural beauty.

The loss of two trees isn't a great tragedy. However, when it happens on Ford Road, it eats away at the little natural beauty that still remains there.

The developer isn't totally to blame. There's a possibility the tree cutting was done at the request of another business and carried out by a firm that manages the property.

Chances are the store's sign wasn't visible behind the trees. But it's time for companies to understand that being environmentally aware is good business. Just look at the Chrysler Corp., which is selling its new Neon with ads that point out that its plastic parts are marked so they can be recycled.

In this case, chances are it will be tough to prove that the developer is responsible for the tree cutting, with the blame possibly spread so thin. However, Yack and township officials should be lauded for taking a stand, even if the case is lost.

Message sent.

Marketing ploy a useful tool

When someone advises you to "call New York," it's usually a sarcastic inference that you're incapable of handling things yourself.

Well, some Oakland County folks did call New York — actually The Wall Street Journal — recently. But, in so doing, they lead us to believe that they're handling things just fine.

Oakland County will be the subject of a 12-page advertising supplement in the Journal. Stories and pictures will tell and show how good it is to live and do business in Oakland County.

The supplement makes Oakland County look good. A similar effort could do the same for Wayne County, we believe.

Oakland County is the fifth wealthiest in United States, according to one estimate, and is certainly "the epicenter of business in Michigan" in the words of Ken Rogers, the economic development director for county government who helped secure the deal with the Journal.

The Wall Street Journal wrote the stories, took the photographs and sold the advertisements that appear in the supplement.

And, if it works in Oakland County, why not try it in Wayne County, too? After all, western Wayne County is certainly no slouch when it comes to providing good places to work and do business.

When Ed McNamara was mayor of Livonia, we remember, the city administration engaged in a lot of one-on-one promotion, advertising and recruiting.

Such efforts haven't been very noticeable for a long while south of Eight Mile and west of Telegraph. It's time to revive them, and something like this Wall Street Journal supplement would be a good way to do it.

"We think it (the Journal supplement) is an opportunity for everyone to explore," said Oakland County's Rogers.

Rogers said he thinks the Oakland supplement will recur next year and the year after and so on.

"It's a demonstration of government not settling for the status quo," he said. "We need to find new ways to talk to the people we want to do business with. We're trying to do new things, out with the old and in with the new."

Mistake made

I found it disturbing that in a recent article and editorial (Feb. 3) a Farrand Elementary teacher is still being defended for making a false claim of child neglect; especially in light of the fact that "The Child Abuse Reporting Law" was quoted in each piece.

The law says anyone suspecting a case of abuse or neglect is required to make a cursory attempt to verify the facts before making such a report. There is no room for interpretation. What guidelines are needed to understand the law? It's very clear what is required. Either an attempt was made or it wasn't. It wasn't.

The principal later admitted to me that the incident had not been handled properly. So why do the administration and the township police chief defend their actions by claiming they did what the law required?

They did not follow the law as they claim. Yes, we do need to protect our children from abuse and neglect, but if someone has a suspicion, they must make an effort to verify that suspicion if at all possible. We must follow the law to help prevent innocent parents from needless accusations. The answers were in the school office. All they had to do was look.

I don't feel it's too much to ask for those involved to admit their mistake, take responsibility and apologize. I do, however, feel it will never happen.

Ask the host

They trudged thru snow yet no one fell.
Someone had spread NaCl.
All thanked their pastor, Eggebean. The nicest priest you've ever seen.
This small attempt to override that Lansing ban on suicide.
No pulpit used. No minaret. Livonia's church is ringing yet.
Jeff's oration shook the walls. A thousand souls had packed St. Paul's.
Dr. Death, then set the tone for all, except, Ruth Pettibone.
Who tried to give old Jack some strife with shouts, and screams of "Fight For Life."
She got escorted through the door outside of which she shouted more.
Jack had support from Janet Good. The hemlock group knew he would.
This was in church. You shouldn't laugh at clasping hand, and autograph.
Did Jeff, or Jack, impress the most? You'll have to ask the talk show host.

Taking stand

I am surprised that Canton has taken such a strong stand against the removal of two trees by New York Carpet World, on its own property. When the Sunflower Subdivision workers removed $10,000 worth of trees on my land, the police and township didn't care. It became a private matter for me to take care of. My lawyer, Tom Hibner, has been in court for over two years, trying to get some money so I can replant the trees that were destroyed. How does Canton decide who can remove trees and who can't?

Chris Lapinski, Canton

Bus troubles

The recent ice storm created a great deal of chaos throughout the school system.
Many school personnel experienced tremendous inconvenience, and stayed at school far longer than usual to make sure that our children got home safely. Those people deserve a pat on the back.

However, the incident in which a school bus driver abandoned two 8-year-old children in the dark to fend for themselves is frightening. The safety of the children in her care should be the paramount concern of a bus driver. Everything else is secondary. It is incredible that a driver would be so callous as to send the children off the bus on such a treacherous night, in the freezing rain, in the dark, two miles from home, when the children didn't know where they were or how to get home.

It is almost as unforgivable that the transportation department has not taken immediate action. First of all, they should have contacted the parents of the children immediately to apologize and explain the mistake. Secondly, the name of the driver should be disclosed and disciplinary action should be taken. Severe disciplinary action. Instead, the driver's name has been withheld and the department is "stonewalling." Apparently, the school system feels it is more important to protect the employees than the children. That attitude has got to change.

Every day, we entrust the safety of our children to the personnel of the school system, and those personnel take that responsibility very seriously. However, there is no room for even one employee who puts her own convenience above the safety of the children in her charge. And there is no room for a transportation director who tolerates such action. The taxpayers expect and deserve prompt action on this matter.

POINTS OF VIEW

Job talk becomes a political constant

Get a job" is more than just a popular song by the Silhouettes from the late 1950s. It's the politically correct thing to talk about.

"Jobs, jobs, jobs," Jim Blanchard would sing out back when he was governor.

His replacement, John Engler, crooned in his state of the state address this year that not only were good paying jobs important, but unemployment was lower than the national average for the first time in 23 years.

Wednesday, U.S. Rep. Bob Carr added his voice to the chorus by declaring himself a candidate for the U.S. Senate, saying the issue was to grow the economy in order to promote — you guessed it — jobs.

Making it a quartet is the Detroit job summit now in the planning stages.

But it seems that always has been a tune for the times. Those of us attending the University of Detroit back in the '60s studied medicine or marriage, as sometimes still happened at that time. But basically we were there to get jobs, and when the university president declared that we were an urban school with a mission to the community and to ourselves personally, we figured he was just tooting his horn.

■ Sometimes, when I have the moody blues, I remember those days and what I later learned from those in and out of my career. From a professor: Stay flexible. From Roger B. Smith, a Bloomfield Hills resident and former chairman of General Motors who spoke to our Observer & Eccentric editors group: If you don't like the job you're doing, switch.

Congress is taking a look at how today's youngsters will work tomorrow. The U.S. Senate earlier this month sent to conference committee a schools-to-work proposal for high-school age students.

Today, staff members Sandra Armbruster and Wayne Peal take serious and light-hearted looks at their own experiences in the world of work.

This is an arena in which everyone has had experience. To share yours, write to the Observer, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or to the Eccentric, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009. Or fax your comments to 644-1314 (Eccentric) or 591-7279 (Observer).

I switched to journalism while in college and found not only a way to earn a living but a way of living.

However, my college career hit a high note while on the job as an editor with the Varsity News at U-D. It's about this time each year that I remember when in 1968 Martin Luther King Jr. came to speak at the original Grosse Pointe High School.

My job that cold night, as we crossed the picket line of right-winger Donald Lobsinger, was to photograph King as he spoke before a packed auditorium. A writer by training, it would be the first time my photos would be published.

I did my job and got the pictures, but I often wonder how much richer I would have been had I been able to listen to his words.

Sometimes, when I have the moody blues, I remember those days and what I later learned from those in and out of my career. From a professor: Stay flexible. From Roger B. Smith, a Bloomfield Hills resident and former chairman of General Motors who spoke to our Observer & Eccentric editors group: If you don't like the job you're doing, switch.

Some years after college graduation, I met one of the editors I had worked with on the Varsity News during the great Detroit daily newspaper strike the year that King died. While daily reporters walked the streets that year, we published a special edition. I met that former editor at a suburban art show. He said that he now traveled the country — making jewelry.

That's why I'm concerned about a political refrain that is fast becoming public policy — whether we like it or not. There are spin doctors out there who tout training high school students for jobs.

While it's one thing to provide them with work skills, it's quite another thing to train them for one specific job. High school students may still be exploring their interests, and the job market is in a continual state of flux, now that high school grads are no longer guaranteed slots in the auto industry.

Which brings me to my final point. We certainly don't want our youth coasting through life without a job. But politicians talking about jobs are a lot like country music: They'll always go on whining.

Some get to live out chance for a 'dream team' job

Michael Jordan isn't my favorite basketball player. He certainly wouldn't bump Magic Johnson or Dr. J off my personal dream team.

But this spring, he is my favorite baseball player.

Jordan, the most celebrated athlete to ever arch a jump shot, is trying out for the Chicago White Sox. I say more power to him.

There's been a fair amount of grousing, from fans, sports commentators and some of his would-be teammates about the appropriateness of all this.

"He's not a real baseball player," they moan.

They're right, of course. Even though he can run faster and leap higher than almost all the other men in the White Sox training camp, even though his physical stamina and competitive instincts would leave them in the dust, Michael Jordan hasn't spent most of his adult life as a professional baseball player.

He's only dreamed of being one.

In that aspect, he, I and several generations of American men are brothers under the skin.

Baseball was the first sport I wanted to play — ballplayer the first job I wanted to hold — and there are at least a dozen 30-, 40- and 50-something guys in my workplace, and yours, who can make that same claim.

My own baseball dreams died early. Even as a 12-year-old, I realized that my beloved New York Mets had no room for a player who ran as if his legs were sinking in sand and who fielded batted balls warily as if they were hand grenades.

But my few heroic moments — those fly balls that cleared backyard fences, those curveballs that sent other batters down to defeat with a frustrated whoosh — still burn brightly.

Few kids today share such moments. Today, they play basketball, or soccer, or Nintendo.

Today, baseball is a troubled sport. Maybe even a dying one. If Jordan's presence on the ballfield ignites the interest of young American boys and girls, that would be great.

Wayne Peal

For me, it's providing a good, solid, vicarious thrill. It's better than any imagined trip down an Olympic luge run; much better than living out the rest of my life as Donald Trump. Or Bruce Springsteen.

Just think of this. Michael Jordan, a basketball megastar recognizable from Chicago to Calcutta, left it all behind for an infinitesimal chance to be the last man on the Chicago White Sox bench.

Or is it all a stunt? I don't know.

I do know that if the Mets, the Tigers or the Toledo Mud Hens called, and if they invited me down to spring training, and if they let me get even one time at bat, I'd dig right in, swinging with all the strength I could muster; simultaneously praying to dear God the ball wouldn't plunk me smack in the head.

If I struck out — when I struck out — and if they asked me right there to hand back my bat, my shiny batting helmet and my uniform with the big numbers of the back, I'd not only do it but I'd also walk over to shake the hand of the man who asked me down there in the first place. I'd go home a winner, as proud of my one strikeout as Babe Ruth was of any of his 714 home runs.

That's the appeal of this ancient, pastoral game.

Maybe you understand. Maybe you don't.

But I believe Michael Jordan understands.

State coffers are losing bet on funding through wagers

Gambling may be going the way of smoking: down.

Both horse race wagering and the State Lottery are losing customers and yielding shrinking revenue for state and local governments.

Why? You hear lots of reasons: the economy, competition from other states' lotteries, simulcasting of races in Windsor.

I would like to think people are getting smart. Economists say it's healthy when people try to achieve wealth by savings and investment; bad when they try to hit a jackpot with one wager.

Lawmakers look folks square in the eye and talk taxes instead of preying on gamblers.

Horse racing is regulated by the Michigan Department of Agriculture. In the old days, horses were considered a farm industry deserving of promotion, the way apples, cherries and beans are promoted today.

Clearly, horse racing's heyday is past. Ladbroke DRC in Livonia set its attendance record Memorial Day 1952; Northville Downs, May 15, 1950; Hazel Park, Memorial Day 1965.

From the tax standpoint, Michigan's record horse racing year was $28.9 million in 1975. Since then, state taxes have slipped more or less steadily to the $21 million mark, according to the racing commissioner's annual report.

Michigan has been trying desperately to raise the take by expanding the racing season from 590 days in 1975 to more than 900 days currently — even as wagering and attendance have slipped.

It was silly, in my opinion, to expand racing dates because the horse supply is down — 17,000 in 1991 compared to 19,000 in 1984, according to the Senate Fiscal Agency.

Fewer horses and more races mean poorer quality. A decade ago, I went to Northville Downs on a Wednesday night. The first five or six races were "maidens" — horses who never had won a race. Handicapping (rating) horses of such poor quality is impossible — like predicting the weather without satellite maps or looking out the window at the sky. Any bet is a sucker bet. I haven't been back. Obviously, other ex-fans agree.

The Michigan Lottery is having a similar experience. A decade ago, ticket sales were less than $600 million a year. They topped in 1988 and have been slipping since then.

Lottery Commissioner Jerry Crandall notes that Michigan pays out only 45 cents of each $1 bet. State taxes eat the lion's share. The retailer gets a fee.

Clearly, lottery players are making a wager with poor payoff odds.

Crandall thinks taxes should be cut. He thinks legislators blundered when they exempted lottery winners from the Freedom of Information Act. Newspapers used to give the lottery a lot of free publicity when they published feature stories on local winners. No more.

Crandall also thinks lottery fans become distrustful when Lansing doesn't (can't) tell them winners' names. Folks suspect bureaucrats are hiding the money.

Some lottery players believe fervently that certain numbers have "luck," as if luck were a measurable quality like radiation or calories. That's raw superstition, unscientific and anti-religious. The chances that any digit will come up are always one in 10. Ask your pastor. Ask your kid's math teacher.

If gambling casinos ever come to Michigan, I bet they go broke.

Canton man faces break-in charge

BY DARRELL CLEM
STAFF WRITER

Three young men wanted to steal weapons when they broke into a house in the 35200 block of June, near Wayne Road and Palmer, a prosecutor said.

The allegation — voiced by Wayne County assistant prosecutor Maria Petito — came last Thursday as defense attorneys tried to convince a judge to reduce bond for the defendants, including one Canton man.

"They were looking for guns," Petito told 18th District Judge C. Charles Bokos.

Bokos refused to reduce bonds ranging from $10,000 to $25,000 for defendants Aaron Michael Thomas, 18, of Livonia, Ryan Donald Morrison, 18, of Canton Township and Jeffrey Brian Parsons, 20, of Auburn Hills.

Bokos, noting that the defendants fled from police and had to be captured on foot, said he feared the men would also flee the area and try to avoid being tried on breaking and entering charges.

Moreover, Bokos said the allegation that the three men were trying to steal guns is "a great concern to the court." The incident was reported at 9:45 a.m. Feb. 7.

Three men broke into the June house while they knew the homeowner was in court on another matter, Westland police Sgt. Steve Ryskamp said.

But the homeowner returned home and caught them in the act, prompting the three suspects to flee the house and leave behind a Ford Bronco that they drove to the scene, Ryskamp said. The vehicle didn't belong to any of the suspects.

Police arrived quickly on the scene and caught one suspect just three blocks away. The other two were later apprehended separately during foot chases that ended in Wayne, police said.

Thomas, Morrison and Parsons appeared in 18th District Court on Thursday for a preliminary hearing to determine if they should stand trial. All three volunteered to waive the hearing, in a move that automatically sent their cases to Detroit Recorder's Court for trial.

All three could face up to 15 years in prison if convicted. Not guilty pleas had been entered for them in court, prior to Thursday's hearing.

Cancer Society plans Lock Up

The American Cancer Society's ninth Great American Lock Up will be Tuesday through Friday, March 1-4, at 14 sites throughout southeastern Michigan, including Laurel Park Place mall at Six Mile and Newburgh in Livonia.

This event, the largest of its kind in the nation, raised more than $700,000 last year. Organizers hope to raise $750,000 this year.

Funds raised during the Great American Lock Up are used to support the American Cancer Society's research, education, and service programs.

Last year, nearly 15,000 patients and their families in southeastern Michigan received services from the American Cancer Society. And Michigan is home to some of the finest cancer research facilities in the nation, with studies being conducted at University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan State University, and Henry Ford Hospital.

Honorary chairman of this year's Great American Lock Up is Tom Wilson, president and chief executive officer of the Detroit Pistons.

Now serving his fifth consecutive year in this role, Wilson and the Pistons organization continue to provide broad support for the event. Other co-sponsors include AT&T, joining the event in an official capacity this year, and Wendy's, which will promote the Lock Up at area locations for the third year in a row.

During the Lock Up, anyone can have fun and help arrest cancer by sending a friend to jail to raise pledges for the American Cancer Society. Participating in the event is as easy as picking up the phone and scheduling an arrest. Here's how it works:

1. For a tax-deductible arrest fee of $25, anyone 18 or older may schedule an arrest by calling 1-800-543-JAIL. Prisoners may include friends, family members, co-workers, bosses, or anyone deserving to be put behind bars. Arrests may be scheduled now to reserve prisoner jail space.

2. Officers will go to prisoners' work sites to make arrests in clear view of co-workers.

3. Prisoners will then be transported to the nearest jail site and go before a volunteer judge in a mock courtroom to be charged, convicted, and sentenced to raise bail.

4. Prisoners will raise their bail by phoning for pledges while in jail. Prisoners will don prison stripes and receive bread, water, or other refreshments while jailed.

Vital to the success of the Great American Lock Up is widespread community support. Hundreds of volunteers from around the metropolitan Detroit area are scheduled to participate this year along with several hundred area businesses that will contribute donated goods and services throughout the four days of the event.

An unusual part of the Great American Lock Up is the "Most Wanted" program. Included among the "Most Wanteds" are prominent business people and professionals from Oakland, Wayne, and Macomb counties who have pledged to raise an impressive $2,500 each.

Current statistics indicate that one out of every four families is affected by cancer. The "Most Wanteds" have made a personal commitment to seeing cancer eradicated in their lifetime.

Hospital plans lecture on cancer prevention

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia will sponsor a community lecture and discussion on "Women's Cancer Prevention for the '90s" 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 1, in the hospital auditorium.

Dr. H.A. Piraka, M.D., obstetrics/gynecology, will be lecturer/moderator. Other physicians to speak include: Dr. R. Mohindra, M.D., oncology/hematology; Dr. N. Sultani, M.D., gastroenterology; and Dr. M. Yousuf, M.D., pulmonary disease/critical care.

The lecture will focus on the most common types of cancer affecting women, providing the latest information on methods of prevention, detection and treatment.

The presentation is a Marian Women's Center Educational Program. Pre-registration is encouraged, and refreshments will be served. There is no charge for the lecture.

To register or for more information, call St. Mary Hospital at 591-2922.

Defendant's sentence reduced in appeal

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

A man who pleaded guilty in a robbery that left a Livonia motel manager paralyzed had his prison sentence cut in half Friday.

Roby Davis, 25, was resentenced by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Bruce Morrow to 14-30 years in prison for the December 1991 incident at the Comfort Inn, east of Middlebelt at I-96 in Livonia.

Davis' original sentence of 45-70 years was vacated by the Michigan Court of Appeals. The appeals court ruling called the sentence handed down by Judge A. George Best in July 1992 "too lengthy, too far outside sentencing guidelines."

A second defendant, James Arthur Hayes, is serving 35-70 years after being found guilty at trial on two of three charge stemming from the incident.

Thomas Hoatlin Jr., then of Redford Township, remains paralyzed from the chest down after being shot at point-blank range with a .44-caliber revolver during the robbery. No one was convicted of the shooting.

Hoatlin, 30, who attended the resentencing, couldn't be reached for comment this week.

Livonia Police detective Capt. Mike Murray said Hoatlin made an emotional plea for a tough sentence the second time around.

But Morrow, who inherited the case after Best failed to win reelection, said guidelines wouldn't allow that because "excessive brutality" wasn't involved.

"There was no additional bodily injury since the initial act" during the robbery, Morrow said.

The judge delayed a ruling on whether Davis would serve the new sentence consecutively or concurrently with time being served for two armed robberies in Macomb County.

If served consecutively, he could spend as much as 36½ years in prison. Concurrent sentences could mean parole in about 12 or 13 years.

District wrestling

Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton will send one wrestler apiece to the Class A regional wrestling tournament Saturday at South Lyon High School.

Canton's Dan Gruenwald and Salem's John Svec won consolation titles at 103 and 160 pounds, respectively, Saturday in the district at Walled Lake Western.

Gruenwald was seeded third and drew a first-round bye. He defeated Dan Christenson (Livonia Stevenson) 4-3, lost to Matt Michalski (Farmington) 3-1, and defeated Justin Deane (Brighton) 7-5.

Svec, suffering from an infection in his nose and wearing a face mask, was seeded fourth. He pinned Joe Parrelly (Harrison) at 1:59 and L.B. Beurmann (Brighton) at 1:57, lost to Bob McKeeney (Howell) 15-0, and beat Adam Lynch (Northville) 1-0.

"He didn't lose any bad matches," Salem coach Ron Krueger said. "He didn't lose to anybody he might not have when he's healthy. John did a nice job; he's the last of the Mohicans at Salem."

Hockey champs

The Plymouth Stars Bantam B hockey team claimed the District Four championship with a come-from-behind 2-1 win over Livonia in the final.

The Stars rallied with goals in each of the last two periods to advance to the state playoffs March 3-6.

Top marks

Brian Paluk, a freshman forward for Saginaw Valley State's basketball team from Plymouth (Redford Catholic Central HS), registered career bests in rebounds and steals in the Cardinals' 109-73 victory at Grand Valley State Saturday.

Canton shocks 'nervous' Salem

In the minds of both coaches, there was no real doubt which team was better when Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton met in the final gymnastics dual meet of the season for both. But, as both teams and both coaches discovered, the best team doesn't always win.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Some things in sports are relatively predictable, particularly when the season is winding toward its finish, a time when athletes are performing at a peak level.

Like Northwestern residing at the bottom of the Big Ten standings in nearly every sport — it's expected.

Picking a winner in Monday's gymnastics meet between Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton wasn't nearly as clear cut, but considering Salem is the defending Class A champion and has posted the best team score in the state this season, it seemed safe to make them the odds-on favorite.

Still, the outcome is always in the hands of the athletes. And Salem wasn't quite up to the challenge against Canton Monday, dropping a 136.4-135.6 decision.

The Chiefs concluded the dual-meet portion of their season with an 11-1 record — including 11 consecutive wins. They also beat Traverse City Saturday, 131.5-128.5, at Traverse City.

"They seemed nervous," said Canton coach John Cunningham of Salem. "I don't know why. Plymouth Salem has the better team, but what I've said all along is that the teams are very close. If they come in a girl short, we can beat them."

Which, basically, is what happened. Rocks' coach Johanna Anderson was willing to shoulder some of the blame for the loss.

"They were so nervous," she said of her team. "But we didn't have our whole lineup in, so I take responsibility for the loss. I underestimated Canton's strength."

The Chiefs' strength, of course, starts with freshman Katey Gilles. The premier gymnast in the state, Gilles turned in another spectacular — and solid — performance, bettering 9.0 in every event. She won the vault (9.3) and uneven parallel bars (9.35), and tied Salem's Melissa Hopson — another of the state's best — for first in the floor exercise (9.45).

Gilles' 37.4 total — she was second in the balance beam (9.3) — was good for first in the all-around, once again. She has yet to be beaten in the all-around this season, in either dual or invitational competition.

Hopson, a senior, will give her a battle. The two teams will meet in every remaining competition: at today's Western Lakes Activities Association championship at Westland John Glenn, at the state regional at Canton March 5, and probably at the state final at Glenn March 11-12.

Hopson beat Gilles in the beam, scoring 9.5 to finish first, and tied her in the floor exercise. She was second in the bars (9.1).

Sarah Makins, who has been outstanding for the Rocks this season, struggled in this meet. Makins was third in the vault (8.55) and beam (8.4), tied teammates Kristen Kosik and Zoe Yockey for third in the bars (8.4) and tied Canton's Brie Wall for seventh in the floor exercise (8.4). Her 33.75 all-around was second.

Salem's Kosik was also second in the vault (9.05) and third in the floor (9.0). Yockey tied Canton's Angie Lamerato for fourth in the floor (8.8).

Canton's Adrienne Brenner and Wall tied for fourth in both the vault (8.35) and beam (8.35), and Lamerato

Salem's set to defend its WLAA crown

SWIMMING

Call it a preview to the big event.

In truth, last Saturday's Michigan Swimming Coaches Association Invitational at Eastern Michigan University attracted tougher competition than what will appear over the next three days at Plymouth Salem in the Western Lakes Activities Association championship meet.

And that's not meant to belittle the WLAA — particularly considering this season's meet, which promises to produce one of the best and most talented fields in the league's 12-year history. But when the swimmers with the 40 best times in the state are invited to a meet, and quite a few attend, well . . .

What do you expect?

There were some outstanding performances turned in, none better than Jeff Clark's. The Plymouth Canton senior won two events: the 50-yard (21.58) and the 100-yard (47.95) freestyle. He has the fastest 50 time in the state this year, and his time in the 100 is among the top three.

Not to be overlooked was Plymouth Salem's Fred Locke, who was second to Clark in both the 50 (22.02) and 100 (48.87). Both swimmers bettered the MHSAA state qualifying standards in each event — which was the object for those competing.

Livonia Stevenson's Jeff Buckler showed that the WLAA will have solid representation in the 50 at the Class A state meet — the big event previously referred to — by finishing fourth with a state-qualifying 22.62.

Other state cuts were turned in by Canton's Mike Orris in the 200 (sixth in 1:46.98) and 500 (12th in 4:56.52) free; Livonia Franklin's Randy Cobb in the 100 breaststroke (third, 1:01.75); Stevenson's Falk Roading in the 100 breast (seventh, 1:02.48); and Livonia Churchill's Jon Carlson in the 200 free (seventh, 1:48.59).

Salem's 200 medley relay team of John McLenaghan, Andy Dettling, Aaron Berlin and Locke (eighth, 1:43.01) and its 400 free team of Joe Ervin, Eric Seidelman, Dave Bracht and Locke (second, 3:20.67) also qualified.

So did Canton's foursome of Clark, Jason Stirling, Jason McMann and Orris in both the 200 free relay (third, 1:31.66) and the 400 free relay (sixth, 3:22.86).

In diving, Farmington Harrison's Mark Strohmaier (third, 388.35 points) and John Hovey (seventh, 367.45) performed ably; so, too, did Canton's Jason Fowler (ninth, 365.10) and Daryl Ballios (11th, 355.55).

So now several of the WLAA's top swimmers can concentrate on the task at hand — the league meet. Salem, the defending champ — indeed, the Rocks have won seven of 11 titles — is favored to repeat.

The reason is the same that

See SWIMMING, 3B

Rocks unbeaten in WLAA

Perfect.

It must be nice to have that tag applied to your team. Something to relish, to savor for years to come.

Something Plymouth Salem's volleyball team will be able to use when it recalls its 1993-94 Western Lakes Activities Association season.

The Rocks completed their WLAA match play season Monday by toppling Livonia Churchill 15-10, 15-7, 10-15, 15-7 at Salem. They are 11-0 in the league, 36-6-4 overall going into Saturday's WLAA Tournament at Churchill.

"We're really starting to mature at a good time," said co-coach Allie Suffety. "Our goals at the beginning of the year, we're starting to fulfill them — division champs, the No. 1 seed in the (WLAA) tournament."

Salem was led by Paula Dombrowski with 10 kills and three blocks. Jamey Viau and Shellye Sills each added nine kills, with Sills getting three blocks. Karen Gundry, Erin Koch and Courtney Sheldon contributed five kills apiece, and Kelly Johnston had seven service aces.

VOLLEYBALL

Viau is the team's only senior. Dombrowski, Gundry, Koch, Sheldon and Johnston are all juniors, and Sills is a sophomore.

Which bodes well for the future. "We've only got the future to look forward to," said Suffety.

That promising future could arrive a lot sooner for the Rocks.

Plymouth Canton

Nothing comes easily for the Chiefs.

For the third-straight time, they carried a match to the five-game limit — but unlike the first two, which ended in losses, Canton came out on top, upending North Farmington 14-16, 15-4, 15-7, 6-15, 15-4 Monday at North.

The win pushed the Chiefs' record to 3-7 in the WLAA and 10-18-4 overall.

"Trust me, I was worried," Canton coach Melinda Cain said when she gathered her team prior to the fifth game. "I told them 'do not get lackadaisical.' Just because we won two games easily doesn't mean they aren't a good team.

"I think the hardest thing to do is to teach a kid the killer instinct. The fifth game wasn't their best game of the year, but they played as a team, not as six individuals."

Which resulted in a victory. Ndu Okwumabua triggered the Chiefs' attack, accounting for 20 kills. Laura Logsdon and Janet Zabivnik chipped in with five kills each, with Logsdon adding five blocks. Amber Wells had 23 assists to kills and four service aces, and Katie Ray collected 11 assists.

Shawn Champlin and Amy Price paced the defensive effort, and Lis Layman turned in another solid performance.

Daly double puts Shamrocks in final

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Redford Catholic Central senior center Joe Daly said he tries to avoid taking outside shots unless he's at the free throw line.

The 6-foot-6 Daly followed the game plan Wednesday, scoring a career-high 25 points to lead CC to a 61-40 win over Dearborn Divine Child in a Catholic League boys basketball semifinal playoff game at Schoolcraft College.

Daly made nine of 12 shots in the paint, 7 of 8 free throws and also led the Shamrocks with 11 rebounds.

With DC's tallest starter being a guard, 6-5 junior Dan Geoghegan, it figured there would be a Daly Double: double figures in points and rebounds for Daly.

"All of the guys told me before the game they'd look to me because of the mismatches," Daly said. "They didn't have a whole lot of height and we had to get the ball in the post."

CC, 13-4 overall, advances to the Catholic League title game for the first time since winning the championship in 1989. The winner of tonight's Redford Bishop Borgess and Detroit St. Martin DePorres game will meet CC for the championship at 4 p.m. Sunday at the University of Detroit-Mercy's Calihan Hall.

For CC coach Bernie Holowicki, these Daly performances have become the norm.

"Joey is a nondescript player but he can shoot and has good touch around the basket," Holowicki said. "We ran a couple things for Joey and luckily it panned out."

Another key to the victory was CC's defense against Geoghegan, one of the state's top juniors. Geoghegan led DC with 24 points but made only 7-22 shots from the floor.

The rest of the Falcons shot a combined 3-24.

Geoghegan had 11 points on 4-10 shooting in the first half but CC still managed a 31-17 halftime lead.

The Shamrocks led 43-30 after three quarters and scored the first 10 points of the fourth quarter to gain their biggest lead, 53-30.

CC guards Andy Kummer, Andy Slankster and Justin Hoener took turns guarding Geoghegan. The three finished with a combined 10 fouls, but the attention was worthwhile.

"He's one heck of a player," Holowicki said. "I told the team before the game we had to keep him in his limit and hold the rest of the team down."

"Every game, Dan is double teamed like that," DC coach Joe Charnley said. "They did a good job on him. Usually, the other guys look to score but today, they weren't."

CC made 23-53 shots from the floor (43 percent) and had a 39-32 rebounding advantage.

Junior forward Mike Ridley scored nine of his 10 before halftime and grabbed eight rebounds. Kummer had eight points and seven rebounds, Slankster had seven points and six rebounds and Anthony Hesano scored six.

Madonna can't keep pace, falls to Brescia

For the first half anyway, Madonna University's women's basketball team gave a more experienced (four seniors), more talented Brescia College a battle.

But the Lady Crusaders couldn't keep pace in the first round of their NAIA regional playoff contest in Owensboro, Ky., and ended up dropping an 84-67 decision Wednesday.

Madonna finishes its season at 12-13. Brescia improves to 20-9 and advances to play rival Georgetown (Ky.) College Saturday at Georgetown. The two teams split during the season.

The Crusaders kept pace with Brescia throughout the first half and trailed by just one, 32-31, at the intermission. But Brescia was able to open the game up in the second half behind 6-foot senior swing person Jennifer Marcum, who led the winners with 32 points, connecting on 10-of-11 from the floor, both three-point tries and 10-of-11 free throws. Joyce Hensley added 10 points.

Madonna countered Marcum's assault with Jill Burt, the team's only senior, who scored 18.

Lady Crusaders slip past Saints

■ MADONNA

The lead Madonna University's women's basketball team built in the first half wasn't much, but it proved to be enough.

The Lady Crusaders had a four-point halftime edge over Siena Heights Monday in Adrian and they maintained it throughout the second half to end their regular season with a record-evening 72-68 triumph.

Madonna took a 13-13 record into the regional playoffs at Brescia College in Owensboro, Ky., Wednesday. Siena Heights ends its season at 10-19.

"I thought we kept our poise very well," said Madonna coach Bill Potter, adding, "The refereeing was atrocious."

Three Crusaders reached double figures in scoring: Mary Bieniewicz (from Farmington Hills Mercy) and Stephanie Crelley with 14 points apiece, and Rachel Emery with 11. Crelley also had seven rebounds, four assists and three steals.

Tracy Prybylski added nine points and four assists and Vikki Koenig had eight rebounds, five assists and two steals.

The Saints got 14 points from Melissa Foster and 10 from both Christa Halfield and Lisa Polanski.

Victory escaped Madonna last Saturday, however, but not by much.

And the opponent was no slouch — Aquinas College, which edged the Crusaders 64-61 at Madonna, is ranked 20th in the NAIA. The win improved Aquinas' record to 19-8.

The Crusaders kept it close throughout, trailing 30-26 at the half. They had a shot at tying the game in the final seconds, too, but Prybylski's three-point attempt bounced out.

Jill Burt closed out her homecourt career for Madonna by scoring 23 points. Koenig turned in another strong performance, netting 15 points, grabbing 11 rebounds and making four steals. Prybylski dished out six assists.

Aquinas got 21 points from Nikki Tuttle, 12 points and nine assists from Kim Zydbel and 11 points and five assists from Ronna Russell.

■ AQUINAS 102, MADONNA 76 (MEN): The final game of a trying first season is Saturday for Madonna University's men's team. One thing this first season did accomplish: The weaknesses that need to be improved are apparent.

They are basic, too: First and foremost, the Crusaders must improve their defense. To do that, they have to rebound better.

Aquinas provided further proof that both are lacking for Madonna. Aquinas' field goal percentage wasn't outstanding (38-of-92, 46.3 percent), but the Saints got to the line enough (23-of-30, 76.7 percent) to offset it.

And the rebounding — a whopping 60-33 advantage for the Saints. Get outrebounded by that margin, you're not going to win.

Madonna coach Bill Sharpe wouldn't disagree — but he wouldn't stop at defense and rebounding, either. "Everything comes off the defense," he conceded. "But if you shoot 38 percent (Madonna: 31-of-80 from the floor) you're going to lose.

"We dig holes for ourselves, and when we dig holes we don't get out."

The hole the Crusaders dug against the Saints, who improved to 8-18, was 54-39 at the half. They never got closer than 12 in the second half.

Dan Dombrow's 15 points was best for Madonna. Mike Slone and Eric Furlotte each had 14. No one had more than five rebounds. Aquinas got 27 points and 16 rebounds from Steve Van Vliet, 25 points from Nate Niewiek and 14 points from Derek Donnelly.

Madonna fell to 2-28 for the season.

Season ends for Ocelot men, women

■ SCHOOLCRAFT

It was one game and out for the Schoolcraft College women's basketball team in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association tournament.

On Monday, host Henry Ford CC used a strong second half to subdue the Lady Ocelots, 69-49.

A 19-2 run to open the second half sent Schoolcraft (11-11 overall) reeling. The Lady Ocelots made six turnovers, missed three field goals and made just two free throws during their first 10 possessions after trailing by only three at intermission, 28-25.

"For the first time this season I went hard after my team at halftime," Henry Ford first-year coach Dan Henry said. "We've been playing hard all season long, but for some reason that was missing in the first half.

"We had a big win Saturday over Flint Mott and maybe they had come off that game 'high-fiving' themselves. The second half we came out and played. I knew eventually they'd play their tails off."

Bev Marquette, a 5-foot-9 sophomore, scored a game-high 26 points to pace a balanced attack for the victorious Hawks (20-6 overall).

Speedy guard Kathy Corchis added 12 points, seven assists and five steals. Leslie Swick and Melissa Toth each contributed 10 points, while Erica DeSentz added nine.

Shelly Sockow (Plymouth Salem) scored nine points for the Lady Ocelots, who finished their season at 11-11.

On Saturday at Alpena CC, the Lady Ocelots took the lead with 12 minutes to play and never again surrendered it in besting the Lady 'Jacks 73-69. The win allowed SC to finish its regular Eastern Conference season at 6-8; Alpena ended up 2-12.

Angie Cerne, named to the conference all-star team, paced the Ocelots with 16 points. She finished the regular season by reaching double figures in every SC conference game; she averaged 15.8 per game, shooting an incredible 91 percent from the free throw line.

"She's kind of our anchor," said SC coach Jack Grenan. "We always know we'll get 15 to 20 points from her."

Cerne will represent the Eastern Conference at the MCCAA all-star game Saturday at Kalamazoo Valley CC.

Cindy Muha added 13 points, 11 coming in the second half, and Sockow — who scored 86 points in the last five regular-season games — netted 10. Julie Klos and Tricia Kazyaka scored eight apiece, and Alisa Wechter had four points and 11 rebounds.

■ ALPENA 76, SC 72 (MEN): Any unhappiness Schoolcraft College men's basketball coach Dave Bogataj harbored after Saturday's result at Alpena CC had little to do with his team's performance.

"The kids were playing well — very well," he insisted. "It came down to them shooting free throws and us shooting none. I don't think it was a well-officiated game, but the kids played tough."

Certainly, free throws decided the game. SC was 10-of-16 (65 percent) from the line; Alpena was 21-of-31 (69 percent). In the second half, the Lumberjacks were 16-of-24 to SC's 3-of-6.

The Ocelots' inside game, centered around Todd McNeil, wasn't as effective. McNeil, who leads the Eastern Conference in scoring, managed just 15 points and eight rebounds. "We missed a lot of shots from the 7-to-10 foot range," said Bogataj.

Three-point shooting helped offset the inside misses: SC converted eight (a season-high) in 13 attempts. Mike Pichan led the Ocelots with 17 points. Dan Nunnery had nine and Dan Perttula eight.

Alpena got 18 points from Travis Smith, 14 from Omar Nicholson, 12 from both Andrew McClellan and Richard Jenkins, and 11 from Mono McDonald.

SC finishes its season at 8-18 overall, 2-14 in the conference. Alpena ends up at 7-19 overall, 3-13 in the conference.

Chiefs gain share of 4th title

■ BASKETBALL

WESTERN LAKES BOYS TOURNAMENT SEEDINGS

1. Westland John Glenn	10-1
2. Plymouth Salem	10-1
3. Plymouth Canton	8-3
4. Farmington	6-5
5. Walled Lake Central	6-5
6. Livonia Franklin	6-5
7. North Farmington	5-6
8. Northville	5-6
9. Farmington Harrison	4-7
9. Livonia Stevenson	4-7
11. Livonia Churchill	2-9
12. Walled Lake Western	0-11

After faltering down the stretch to a bigger Northville team last Friday, Plymouth Canton's basketball team rebounded Tuesday to bounce Livonia Franklin 68-59 in a make-up game Tuesday at Canton.

The victory finalized the seeding for the eight-team Western Lakes Activities Association tournament, which starts Friday. For Canton, the win clinched the No. 3 seed and a 7:30 p.m. home game against — Franklin.

It clinched something else for the Chiefs, too: a share of the Western Division title, with Northville. It's their fourth-straight crown.

Plymouth Salem, the No. 2 seed, will host North Farmington at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Westland John Glenn, which defeated Salem to earn the top seed, must travel to the Western Division team's gym to play Friday — No. 8 seed Northville.

Canton coach Dave VanWagoner credited his upperclassmen with the Western title. "Our seniors have done a great job," he said. "That's an accomplishment they can look back and say they continued the tradition."

Friday's rematch is not something VanWagoner relishes. "Franklin's a good basketball team. It'll be a tough game . . . it's hard to beat the same team twice in the same week.

"But our kids are focused. After they won the division, their goal was to play in the (WLAA) championship game. I think our guys are going to step in and go for goal No. 2. They weren't celebrating (after beating Franklin). They were rather subdued. They want to go on and make some noise in the (league) tournament."

A concerted effort helped Canton quiet Franklin Tuesday. Matt Paupore poured in 18 points, Ron Hunter had 17 and 11 rebounds, and Tadarius Rachal contributed 11 points. Tim Moritz snared 11 rebounds, and Ted Docks dished out seven assists.

Greg Maple and Mark Baluk had 14 points apiece for Franklin; Jason Maschke scored 12.

Canton concludes its regular season at 11-6 overall, 8-3 in the WLAA. Franklin, also 11-6 overall, ended up 6-5 in the WLAA.

■ PCA 63, FLAT ROCK 53: A strong third quarter carried Plymouth Christian Academy to a record-evening victory Tuesday at PCA.

The Eagles, now 9-9, outscored Flat Rock 20-6 in the third to overcome a 34-29 halftime deficit. Three players reached double figures in scoring for PCA: Aaron Jones, 17 points (and 10 rebounds); Ryan Thomason, 12 (and nine assists); and Dan House, 10 (and five steals). Mike Roose chipped in nine points and nine boards.

Flat Rock, which fell to 4-12, got 12 points from Eryck Stahr, 11 from Tim Boisvenue, and 10 from Aaron Page.

carried them to the championship last season: depth. "It's tough for teams to take advantage of us anywhere," said Salem coach Chuck Olson, who guided the Rocks to their first unbeaten WLAA dual-meet season since 1987. "We're just tough all the way through."

Those expected to challenge are North Farmington and Farmington. North is led by Jon Kershaw in the sprint free, Karl Kozicki in just about anything, and Drew Sopha in the butterfly, breast and individual medley. Farmington has Don Boyer in the sprint free, Jon Reed in the distance free, fly and IM, Dan Belanger in the breast and IM, and Scott Brown in the backstroke.

Throw in standouts like Canton's Clark, Orris, Fowler and Ballios; Franklin's Cobb; Stevenson's Roading and Buckler, Harrison's Strohmaier and Hovey; and Churchill's Carlson; and it's easy to understand Olson's prediction: "I think our league will have someone in the top six at state meet in every event."

With swimmers like Locke, Dettling, Ervin, Seidelman, Bracht, Berlin, McLenaghan, Rodolfo Palma and a half-dozen others, and a diver like Woodie Thomas, it will be difficult to upset Salem.

But as Olson said: "We can't afford any mistakes; that's for sure. We don't have any glaring holes in our lineup.

"It should be fun, but it won't be easy."

The swimming preliminaries start at 1 p.m. today. Diving prelims begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday. The finals will be at 2 p.m. Saturday.

CC grad big asset for UNC-Charlotte

■ COLLEGES

You've seen fans tear down goal posts after college football victories.

University of North Carolina-Charlotte fans don't have a football team to cheer for, or goal posts to climb, but they've gone nuts over their basketball team.

UNCC swingman Bobby Kummer, a 6-foot-6 sophomore from Livonia and Redford Catholic Central, played 28 minutes in Thursday night's monumental 64-62 upset victory over No. 5-ranked Louisville and then was caught in the middle of the post-game celebration at Independence Arena.

The rims weren't safe from the thousands of fans that rushed the floor.

"The horn went off and next thing I knew, fans were coming from everywhere," Kummer said. "Some dude tried to get on the top of the rim. He got on a guy's shoulders, got one foot on the rim but his other foot caught in the net. He almost fell flat on his head. People were going crazy."

UNCC followers are calling the victory the biggest since 1977 when the 49ers upset No. 1-ranked Michigan to reach the Final Four.

The victory gave UNCC sole possession of second place in the Metro Conference at 6-3. The 49ers are 13-8 overall and with five regular-season games and the Metro Conference Tournament remaining, have renewed hopes of earning a berth to the 64-team NCAA Tournament.

Kummer made all seven of his free throw attempts to finish with nine points and seven rebounds. He also played strong defense, holding Louisville's star forward Dwayne Morton to 14 points on 6-15 shooting from the floor.

The 49ers lost the earlier meeting at Louisville, 76-55. A possible third game between the two teams would take place at the Metro Conference Tournament held next month in Biloxi, Miss.

"Now we know we can beat them," said Kummer, who would settle for snipping the net off the rim instead of standing on it. "I want to get a Metro League ring."

Kummer has been in the UNCC playing group since arriving in the fall of 1992.

As a freshman, he averaged 5.0 points and 2.6 rebounds per game coming off the bench.

Kummer earned a starting role earlier this year and is averaging 6.3 points and 4.6 rebounds while shooting 40 percent from the field, including 35 percent from three-point range (21-60).

Kummer scored a career-high 17 points, including five triples, in a 60-58 win over Butler on Dec. 29 in the Cable Car Classic in Santa Clara, Calif. He had 14 points, five rebounds and three assists on Feb. 5 in a 76-71 win over Tulane.

Kummer's confidence has carried over to the free throw line, where he is shooting 78 percent (36-46).

"Last year I played, but it was a pretty simple role: scrap and get garbage baskets," Kummer said. "This year, I'm counted on for defense and to hit the open threes. If I have an open shot, I know I will make it. Whereas last year, if I made a shot it was like it kind of took a load off my shoulders, like 'Thank God, it went in.'"

Kummer has been a can't miss in the classroom, carrying a 3.65 grade point average overall as a history major concentrating in secondary education.

He had a 3.75 GPA last semester and in December was the first UNCC basketball player to ever be honored as the Metro Conference Student-Athlete of the Month.

He has been nominated for the GTE/Co-SIDA Academic All-America team, but in his own family has the distinction of being only the second smartest child behind brother Andy, a senior at CC who carries a 4.5 GPA.

"I'm catching up to him," Bobby joked. "My mom and dad get more excited about those (academic) awards. I go for the basketball awards. The academic ones keep my mom and dad at peace."

UNCC coach Jeff Mullins said Kummer has adjusted well to his roles for the 49ers. On defense, they ask Kummer to prevent open shots. On offense, they ask him to find open shots, for himself and others.

"He's had his hands full a lot of nights (defensively) but we feel very comfortable and he does a good job," said Mullins, who played 10 years in the NBA for the Golden State Warriors. "We've asked him to play defense, rebound and make the open shot. We play him like a 'point forward.'

"He is the spirit on the team. Everyone knows he gives it all he's got and he's also feisty enough, if a teammate isn't (giving 100 percent), he'll say something. He's also taken that intensity to the classroom, where he's great as well."

tied teammate Kari Jackson for sixth in the vault (8.15). Kim Nowak placed sixth for the Chiefs in both the floor (8.6) and bars (8.15), and Michelle Cimeot took sixth in the beam (8.15).

Come the WLAA meet, Salem coach Anderson promised a different team would be competing. Of course, Canton's Cunningham vowed some surprises were ahead in his team's routines, as well.

"They're a better team," he said of Salem. "But watch out for us at the regional."

In the win over Traverse City, three Chiefs competed in the all-around. Gilles' 37.00 was best (9.1 in the vault, 9.2 in the bars, 9.05 in the beam and 9.65 in the floor); Brenner had a 31.46 (8.35 vault, 6.9 bars, 8.1 beam, 8.1 floor); and Jackson scored 30.65 (8.55 vault, 6.55 bars, 7.3 beam, 8.25 floor).

Lamerato also posted an 8.9 in the floor and an 8.15 in the vault; Mindy Sofen had an 8.45 in the floor; and Cimeot had an 8.15 in the beam.

Lally seeks a turnaround

■ BOXING

Brett Lally says his next fight, scheduled for Tuesday, March 15, in Boston, Mass., is "sort of like a do or die situation."

Lally, a Westland native who turned 31 last month, will meet 22-year-old Dana Rosenblatt in a 10-round super middleweight bout that will be shown live on USA Cable.

Rosenblatt, ranked 12th by the North American Boxing Federation in the middleweight division, is 18-0 with 15 knockouts. Lally, once ranked as high as No. 2 in the junior middleweight division by the World Boxing Council, has lost three of his last five fights.

Lally, 31-9 overall and currently ranked 16th by the WBC, fought twice in 1993. He lost to Vinny Pazienza on a six-round TKO last March and lost on a fourth-round TKO to Otis Grant in an NABF title fight in August.

Lally suggested a name change for his opponent, Rosenblatt, who was 10-years old when Lally became a professional.

"As my dad would say, his name is Dana 'Rosensplat'," said Lally, making fun of his opponent's name.

Lally, nicknamed the "Irish Hawk," said he's a natural for a fight scheduled two days before St. Patrick's Day in Boston.

"Oh, yeah, my New Year's Eve," he said.

WESTWOOD COMMUNITY SCHOOL DISTRICT
ADVERTISEMENT TO BID
VACANT PROPERTY IN THE CITY OF INKSTER

Westwood Community School District is accepting sealed bids for the sale of six (6) vacant lots, located in the City of Inkster. Said lots are zoned residential, and described as follows:
Robert M. Grindley's Subdivision No. 8, Lots 119, 120, 123, 141, and 97.35 feet of lot 143. Subject lots have approximately 100 feet of frontage and are approximately 297.35 feet deep.

The property is located in the planned Brittany Place Development, endorsed by the City of Inkster. The property is bounded by Michigan Avenue to the north, Beech Daly to the east, Annapolis to the south, and John Daly to the west. Legal descriptions are on file with the City of Inkster, 2121 Inkster Road, Inkster, Michigan 48141.
The six parcels, available for sale, will be sold as a lot price, and will not be sold individually. The minimum bid, for all six lots, is $25,000. All bids must be in a sealed envelope, clearly marked, in the lower left corner; "Westwood Community School District Lot Sale". Bid proposals may be submitted at any time prior to 2:00 p.m. E.S.T., Thursday, March 10, 1994. Proposals should be addressed to:

Mr. William A. Routhier, Business Manager
Westwood Community School District
35913 Annapolis
Inkster, Michigan 48141

The Board of Education, Westwood Community School District, reserves the right to reject any or all bids, in whole or part, and to waive any informalities therein.

Audience cheers LSO with standing ovation

You missed a good concert Saturday at Churchill High School in Livonia. The Livonia Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of guest conductor Volodymyr Schesiuk, and pianist Leszek Bartkiewicz, presented a concert of Slavic classics.

Schesiuk who is Ukrainian, and Barkiewicz, who is Polish, put their hearts into the program which included Pyotr I. Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 1 in G minor "Winter Reveries," and Frederic Chopin's Piano Concerto No. 2 in F minor.

Mykola V. Lysenko's "Overture to Taras Bulba," which is based on Ukrainian folk themes, brought the audience to their feet for a standing ovation.

■ The Plymouth Community Arts Council is sponsoring a Mystery Dinner Theater Saturday, March 5 at Laurel Manor Banquet and Conference Center, 39000 Schoolcraft, Livonia. Cast does a good job in 'Guys and Dolls'

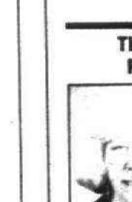
THEATER REVIEW



VICTORIA DIAZ

With its opening and closing numbers, the Plymouth Theatre Guild production of "Guys and Dolls" gets off to a flying start and finishes up with a big bang. In between, though, it's an odd mishmash of ingredients that is sometimes delightful, sometimes disappointing.

With music and lyrics by Frank Loesser, "Guys and Dolls" is, as you'll remember, a story about a zany group of Runyonesque card sharks, horse players, etc. who hang around the sidewalks of New York, and eventually meet up with a group (also zany) from a Salvation Army mission. Romance plays a large part, of course. After all, this is musical comedy.

Adam Carey is the suave Sky Masterson, who eventually wins the hand of the Salvation Army's Sister Sarah Brown (played here rather inconsistently by Lisa Brandow). Carey has a pleasant voice and a distinctly appealing way with a song. In the acting department, he does a good job, too (although one sometimes wishes his Sky were a bit more "shady" and a little less sweet).

The irrepressible Ivory Mckay plays Nicely-Nicely Johnson, one of the most lovable crooks you'll ever encounter. When McKay is onstage, his sense of fun is of epidemic proportions. His appearances seem to literally energize this cast and, consequently, the audience benefits, of course. His big number, "Sit Down, You're Rockin' The Boat," is a veritable showstopper.

ON STAGE

"Guys and Dolls"
★Theater: Plymouth Theatre Guild at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of Northville Regional Hospital, west of I-275 between Haggerty and Northville Roads.
★Curtain time: 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Feb. 25-26, March 4-5, March 11-12; 6 p.m. Sunday, March 6. Performance on March 11 will have a sign language interpreter.
★Tickets: Adults $10, seniors and youth $9. Call 349-7110.

Stephanie L. Hindmarsh as the frustrated songstress, Miss Adelaide, punches up this production too. A gifted comic who can really belt out a song, she's also cute as a button, even when she's wearing some pretty frowzy costumes.

Nathan Detroit, a character afflicted with probably the worst fear of matrimony in the history of musical theater, is played by John Jordan. Although Jordan is fun to watch, his portrayal of Nathan seems slightly off the mark. Isn't "good old reliable Nathan" in fact about as slick and slippery as a sewer rat? Here, he just seems flustered and overwrought most of the time, which is kind of funny in itself, but is it Nathan Detroit?

Jeannette Sowman, as Sister Arvine Abernathy, has an especially nice moment with Loesser's fine creation, "More I Cannot Wish You." And Wendy Sielaff, along with Brandon Gauvin, Amber Thrift, and Andrea Gauvin as Gen. Cartwright and her sidekicks, are always a riot.

Musical comedy: Nathan Detroit (John Jordan of Westland) and Miss Adelaide (Stephanie Hindmarsh of Canton) in a scene from "Guys and Dolls."

In general, the sizable supporting cast of "Guys and Dolls" does a good job.

Peripherals are a little spotty, although clever sets amount to some first-rate fun.

Much of the show's disappointment has simply to do with the exasperating acoustics at the Water Tower Theatre. The snappy dialogue — so much a part of the fun in "Guys and Dolls" — is often lost to the audience. Even more regrettable, many of Loesser's great lyrics are lost too.

Also, though musical director and conductor Cheryl A. Bubar appears to try hard, her musicians often fail to do right by Loesser's splendid tunes. It's not that they bungle the music or miss cues or overpower the singers onstage. It's just that spark and verve needed to really deliver this great score glimmer only now and then. Consequently, this musical comedy, directed and choreographed by Sally Dubats, is left frequently with a very real struggle.

Concert features outstanding local pianist

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Livonia Symphony audiences are well acquainted with Anthony Bonamici's talent. The secret is out, and word is spreading about this talented young musician, who will present a solo piano concert Tuesday in a new addition to the Cranbroook Music Guild Chamber Series called "Undiscovered American Artists" on March 1.

"I'm thrilled," said Bonamici, who presented a concert with the Livonia Symphony Orchestra in September, and has performed extensively in the Detroit area with several youth orchestras, Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble, and the Lyric Chamber Ensemble.

IN CONCERT

"Anthony Bonamici"
★Presented by: Cranbrook Music Guild in the library of Cranbrook House on Lone Pine Road, west of Cranbrook Road, Bloomfield Hills.
★Concert time: 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 1.
★Tickets: $15, available at the door, or call 751-2435. Reception to meet the artist follows concert.

"In choosing a program, I chose music from a wide variety of time periods from Baroque to post-romantic, including works of Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Cesar Franck."

Cranbrook Music Guild Chamber Series program director Elaine DeWolfe said Bonamici is "certainly one of the most gifted young musicians in Michigan, and his career will be watched with great local interest. His talent at composing is of special interest, something not seen often in young artists today."

Bonamici, a 1992 graduate of Stevenson High School in Livonia, has studied piano since he was 5. Prior to college, he studied several years with with professor Donald Morelock in Ann Arbor.

Now a freshman at Rice University's Shepherd School of Music in Houston, Texas, Bonamici studies piano performance with John Perry.

Bonamici has won numerous performance competitions locally and nationally including the 1991 Yamaha/Music Teachers National Association High School Piano Competition. He won the 1992 William Schuman Prize at the 40th International BMI Student Composer Competition for his piano quartet. Competing against 352 contestants up to age 26, Bonamici was awarded first prize for the score judged most outstanding.

$5 per person and includes hors d'oeuvres, cash bar and live music.

The symphony, under the direction of PSO conductor Russell Reed, will present "Russian Easter Overture" by Rimsky-Korsakoff, and "Pictures at An Exhibition" by Mussorgsky. Zonjic will join the orchestra to perform "Suite in A Minor" by Teleman.

Zonjic and his ensemble will be performing "Sentimentale," "Take Five," "Catilena," "Spain," "Belavia," and "Send in the Clowns."

Canadian-born flutist Alexander Zonjic picked up the flute for the first time at the age of 21. He has come to be recognized by artists such as Bob James, Earl Klugh and Detroit Symphony Orchestra principal flutist Ervin Monroe.

Advance tickets for the PSO concert are available at Novi Parks and Recreation, Novi Community Education office, Beitner's Jewelry, Evola Music, Gitfiddler Music, Bookstall/Main, and Dearborn Music in Canton.

'Of Mice and Men' splendid

BOB WEIBEL

With their current production, "Of Mice and Men," the Theatre Guild reminds us once again of the struggles to achieve the American Dream. For the most part, director David Fox, captures the naturalness of the story that won wide acclaim in the 1930s as a masterpiece for the author, John Steinbeck.

"Of Mice and Men" is a symphathetic look at lonely, unfortunate souls who are unlikely to achieve their impossible dreams; given their inadequacies and lack of opportunities offered by society.

Two characters dominate the story — George Milton and Lennie Small. George is a compassionate, street-smart sort of a man. Lennie is big, strong and simple-minded. There's not a mean bone in his body. But he has trouble remembering right from wrong.

The two drift and dream of a better life, moving from place to place as farm laborers in California during the Depression. At one stop, Lennie (who likes to pet soft things like rabbits) becomes too rough as he strokes the hair of a woman. She begins screaming. He attempts to quiet her. Not realizing his strength, Lennie breaks her neck.

A posse takes off after him, intent on making Lennie pay for his misdeed. His friend, George, must make a decision. Should he put poor Lennie out of his misery rather than leave him to the shot guns and rope of a lynch mob? We won't reveal the dramatic ending for those who may see the show. Suffice to say, it will leave you with second thoughts on what's right and wrong.

Mark Flanders gives a splendid performance as Lennie. His childlike speech and mannerisms are consistent from beginning to end. There's nothing artificial to evoke undue sympathy.

Phillip Matora scores as the conflicted George, one moment filled with compassion for Lennie, the next exasperated at his incompetence.

Remi Esordi is very good as Curly, the cocky son of the boss. You know right away that his meanness is going to cause trouble.

The big troublemaker is Curley's wife (a seductive little tart) played superbly by Wendy Shapero.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 25 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

Brothers pay price to fulfill their destinies in 'Sugar Hill'

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

A.R. Skuggs was a talented musician and dedicated father who planted seeds for morality in his two sons before losing everything to drugs in "Sugar Hill" opening Feb. 25 at metro Detroit movie theaters.

Abandoned by their father, the boys — Roemello (Wesley Snipes) and Raynathan (Michael Wright) battle their way to the top of their own crime empire. Roemello weary of the violence that surrounds him, and offered the promise of a better life with a new love, Melissa (Theresa Randle), has decided to walk away from this destructive world. The painful decision threatens to bring down not only the lucrative business he and his older brother Raynathan have built together, but the last vestiges of his family as well.

"Sugar Hill" is talen from the legendary neighborhood that represented the aspirations and hopes of all Harlem.

"Part of the film is in black and white to show the golden age of Harlem," said Clarence Williams III who portrays Roemello's father A.R. "Sugar Hill was where all the entertainers and professionals lived. The decline of Harlem is a metaphor for this intense family drama. It's about how things can go radically wrong."

When the film begins, Raynathan and Roemello are boys. Williams and Randle agree "Sugar Hill" is a reality-based story which illustrates both sides of street life. It shows that the strong-willed do survive and that the streets take a toll on young victims. "Sugar Hill" is about the quicksand effect of the drug business — of trying to climb out of a hole to rise up to a certain level, and getting pulled back down.

"At any given moment you can change your set of circumstances, love conquers all," said Randle. "Melissa is a strong, yet vulnerable woman. She's a woman who, in the midst of some tough circumstances, wants to strive for a better life."

Debut: Theresa Randle stars as Melissa Holly in "Sugar Hill."

■ PREVIEW

Musical star Leslie Uggams makes a dramatic appearance in "Sugar Hill" as Melissa's embittered, yet over-protective mother. "We have a love/hate relationship," said Randle. "I think it's a must-see movie."

The seeds of the story and screenplay of "Sugar Hill" were planted in the weeks following the opening of the film "New Jack City," also written by Barry Michael Cooper. Brought back to New York for the film's production and opening, Cooper, born and raised in Harlem, suddenly found himself besieged by other young black men he had grown up with who had since made their careers and fortunes in street life. Tense encounters developed between once-childhood friends whose lives had followed different paths.

Other childhood peers of Cooper's, however, had a different reaction to him and his film-writing career. They looked to him to help "save" them — help them get out of Harlem — to different lives.

Cooper began to observe these young men, haunted by violence, living on an edge of relentless fear, young men with big bank accounts and ulcers. He entered a new subculture of rich, young, African American men who had made fortunes in film, records, television, sports, business — and crime — centered in downtown New York underground clubs and restaurants. "The new lost generation," Cooper calls them, "similar to that of Hemingway and Dos Passos."

Plunged into this world of excess and brutality, Cooper decided to begin writing "Sugar Hill."

The musical score for the film is composed by acclaimed jazz trumpeter Terence Blanchard ("Do the Right Thing," "Malcolm X.") The soundtrack is outstanding and includes cutting edge pop and rhythm & blues as well as classic jazz tunes.

Rough and tumble life depicted in '8 Seconds'

From Academy Award-winning director John G. Avildsen comes an unforgettable portrait of a true American hero "8 Seconds," based on a real-life story, chronicles the turbulent world of championship bull-rider Lane Frost, played by Luke Perry, whose ambitious and meteoric rise to fame was cut short by his rough-and-tumble lifestyle.

The movie, opening Friday at local theaters, begins as Frost is just a boy living on a small ranch in Oklahoma. The son of Elsie (Carrie Snodgress) and Clyde Frost (James Rebhorn), a former bareback champion, Lane inherits his father's passion to ride professionally and become a recognized champion.

When Lane is old enough to hit the circuit, he goes on the road with his closest friends, Tuff Hedeman (Stephen Baldwin) and Cody Lambert (Red Mitchell). He quickly distinguishes himself as a young master of the sport and suddenly his career takes off. But not before he falls in love with and marries Kellie Kyle (Cynthia Geary), a champion horse rider.

The perseverence and sacrifice he dedicates to his craft tests the boundaries of their marriage as the young couple struggles with the pressure and hardships that come with Lane's burgeoning fame. "8 Seconds" provides a vivid glance at the roughest and most dangerous of all sports professional bull riding. It's a grueling competition that requires staying on top of a 2,000 pound bull for eight seconds while holding a mount with one hand. Equal parts skill, courage luck and determination are required from those willing to risk all for the ultimate thrill.

Perry, best known for his part in the hit series "Beverly Hills 90210", studied the art of bull riding for the movie and even did many of his own stunts.

While set against this unpredictably precarious world, "8 Seconds" emerges as a bittersweet love story about a maverick hero who elevated his sport to an 'art form in the manner of Michael Jordan and Wayne Gretzky.

The film was produced by Michael Shamberg, co-produced by Tony Mark and written by Monte Merrick. The film, MCA soundtrack features such popular country music stars as Vince Gill, Reba McEntire and Pam Tillis.

"Lane's story is not only that of a remarkable athlete who dreams about being a world champion and becomes one. It's about a man who grew up wanting to be a cowboy, who chose to live by a cowboy code and was willing to pay the price," Mark said.

Rough rider: Luke Perry stars as champion bull-rider Lane Frost in New Line Cinema's production of "8 Seconds" opening in theaters Friday.

'Body Snatchers' inspired by classic tale

Warner Bros.' "Body Snatchers," a science fiction thriller directed by Abel Ferrara and starring Gabrielle Anwar, Terry Kinney, Forest Whitaker and Meg Tilly, opens Friday at local theaters.

Inspired by the 1956 classic "Invasion of the Body Snatchers," this new version follows the fates of a group of people on an Army base who discover that something is taking possession of the minds, bodies and emotions of the people they once knew and loved.

British-born Gabrielle Anwar starred in "Wild Hearts Can't Be Broken" and appeared opposite Al Pacino in "Scent of a Woman."

Meg Tilly's film credits include "The Big Chill," "Agnes of God" and "Leaving Normal."

Terry Kinney is co-founder, with John Malkovich and Sinise, of Chicago's famed Steppenwolf Theatre Company and has appeared in their productions of "Tracers," "Loose Ends" and in the film "Last of the Mohicans."

Forest Whitaker made his film debut in "Fast Times at Ridgemont High" and since then has appeared in "The Color of Money" and "Vision Quest."

In "Body Snatchers," the Malone family is plunged into a nightmare — a world where people's lives are drained, only to be replaced by soulless, emotionless aliens emerging from their cocoon-like "pods" and taking possession of their human "hosts."

Once-normal people, with the full range of human emotions and behavior, have become silent, blank-eyed automatons. Those who have not changed are consumed with fear and paranoia, frantically denying the behavior of their loved ones. And, eventually, denying their own lives.

"Body Snatchers" is a Robert H. Solo production.

UPCOMING MOVIES

There's something for everyone at the movies. Here's a list of what's in the wings:

Opening Friday, Feb. 25:
■ "Body Snatchers" — A new telling of the classic science fiction tale of alien invasion. Stars Gabrielle Anwar, Meg Tilly, Terry Kinney and Forest Whitaker.
■ "You So Crazy" — A one man stand up comedy show starring Martin Lawrence, star of the hit Fox series "Martin."
■ "8 Seconds" — Based on the true story of Lane Frost, a champion rodeo bull-rider and his meteoric rise to fame.

Opening Friday, March 4:
■ "With Honors" — The true story of Harvard University students who befriend a homeless man.
■ "The Chase" — A romantic comedyd about a falsely convicted bank robber who takes a beautiful heiress hostage and makes a run for the Mexican border. Stars Charlie Sheen, Kristy Swanson, Henry Rollins, Josh Mostel and Ray Wise.
■ "What's Eating Gilbert Grape" — The story of a young boy's plight in Iowa and the effect on him by the arrival of a mysterious teenage girl.
■ "China Moon" — A steamy thriller about seduction, blinding love and bloody murder.
■ "Angie" — A comedy about a funny irreverent and vulnerable unwed mother who shuns advice and sets out to discover her own way in the world.
■ "Greedy" — Comedy about a shameless bunch of money-hungry cousins who battle one another for the fortune of their manipulative uncle who (they hope) will die soon.

Opening Friday, March 11:
■ "Guarding Tess" — Tess is the beloved former first lady who is running her secret service detail ragged. Tired of being at the mercy of her imperious will, one young agent squares off with her in a class of wits as unremitting as it is hilarious.

Here is what one reader had to say about "Philadelphia."

■ Kimberly who has two kids and not a lot of time to write, left these comments on voice mail.

"My husband won't go see 'Philadelphia' because he's uncomfortable with the idea of seeing two men together," she said. "I keep telling him that this is something may be a lot of men feel. It's not a movie where you're exposed to or forced to watch a lot of affection between two men. This is something that might hold a lot of people back from seeing it. I don't think it should. It really didn't make me feel uncomfortable, and I don't think it would make him feel uncomfortable either."

The next time you go to the movies, give us a call and let us know what you thought about the film. Be sure to include your hometown with your voice mail, faxed or written movie review.

Firm makes loans available to individuals with troubled credit

There are many reasons why millions of Americans fall victim to credit problems every year. From maxing out credit cards to more sobering causes including loss of employment, family growth, medical emergencies and poor training in personal and household financial management.

Fortunately, there is now a local company making consolidation and new purchase loans available to people in these situations. We asked Bill Cunnington, Vice President of Security Home Loan...

Who is eligible for one of these loans?

We will work with individuals who have equity in their homes and have had debt problems of one type or another.

How does the loan work?

We take people who are living from paycheck to paycheck and consolidate all of their obligations into one lower payment. In fact, the average person will save from 30 to 40 percent a month with a consolidation of this type.

How can someone apply for one of these loans?

At Security, we pre-approve people over the phone at no charge. At that time, we also give the person an idea of how much money we can save them.

Call Bill Cunnigton at Security Home Loan (810) 669-4334 if you are interested in having a payment anaylsis done.

False spring fools nature

Animals, plants get caught short of food

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Spring officially starts in just a few weeks but last week our weather was spring-like. In combination with longer daylight periods some thought spring was here.

Animals and plants are aware of these changes too. The lengthening daylight period begins to stimulate changes in the body that initiate changes in behavior. Migration and courtship begin. But animals must wait for the right condition before mating begins.

Warm periods, like the one we experienced last week, may cause birds and plants to act like it's spring. Redwinged blackbirds may come north and establish nesting territories. Buds on trees may begin to swell.

Spring may be recognized as a period of regrowth, but it can be one of the hardest times for plants and animals. Warm conditions at about the right time can cause behaviors that turn out to be premature. If a bird migrates north too early, it could encounter a severe storm that would put the animal in jeopardy.

Many migratory birds are insect eaters. Not many insects are available early in spring. They could get trapped here because of ice and snow and not be able to find food.

Trees may open their buds too early because of the warm weather and force flowering too early. If freezing temperatures occur during blooming, the flower dies and no fruit will form. Since fruits are what make more trees, the chance to replace dead or dying trees has been lost.

Food supply for winter residents also is at its lowest point. If there has been a hard winter and spring temperatures are late in arriving, there many not be enough food to last until new food supplies occur.

On the other hand, if a bird arrives early and can find food and a nesting territory, it may be able to raise more young than those birds who do not arrive early. If a tree blooms early and leaves come out early, because of the warm temperature, It will set seed early and have leaves to produce food for a longer period. Producing more food for storage will help the tree to survive during periods of stress.

Behavior of plants and animals is adapted for the average conditions of the area. They can tolerate some of the extremes, but sometimes they can get caught short. Getting caught short for some animals means death.

Decision time: Warm conditions can cause behaviors that turn out to be premature. If a bird migrates north too early, it could encounter a severe storm that would put it in jeopardy.

The Internet

A worldwide web linking more than 14,000 computer networks, from giant mainframes to desktop PCs. Designed originally for research and technical uses, it's not very user-friendly. But that's changing as more casual users hop on board. Hook up through:

• WORK OR SCHOOL. If your company computer network has access to the Internet, ask to share in the connection. College students often can get a free account through school.

•COMMERCIAL ON-LINE! SERVICES OR BULLETIN BOARDS. Some offer only electronic mail connections. Others, like Delphi and the WELL, offer full Internet connections.

•INTERNET ACCESS PROVIDERS. A number of companies allow you to connect up for a fee, from a few dollars an hour to $50 a month or more. Several books, including The Internet Companion and Connecting to the Internet list these companies. Or call InterNIC, an Internet information service, at 800-444-4345, for a list of providers.

THE MAIN TOOLS FOR NAVIGATING THE NET.

•ELECTRONIC MAIL (E-MAIL): Electronic messages transmitted - usually in a matter of seconds - from one user to another via the Internet.

•FILE TRANSFER PROTOCOL (FTP): Allows you to copy a file from another computer to your own. Good for acquiring games, pictures, computer programs or documents.

•TELNET: A means of tapping into a remote computer to gain access to its publically available files as if you were directly connected. Particularly useful for perusing library card catalogs or large databases.

•ARCHIE, GROPHER, WAIS, WWW, VERONICA: Popular search tools for sifting through the vast amount of information on the Internet.

WHAT'S ON THE INTERNET?

Government documents, library catalogs, databases, computer software, games, bulletin boards, discussion groups and an electronic mail system that offers virtually instantaneous worldwide communication.

There's not a directory of everything available on the Internet. There's just too much. But here's a sampling:

- •Library of Congress card catalog.
- •Daily White House press releases.
- •Weather maps and weather forecasts.
- •Schedules of pro basketball, hockey, baseball and football teams.
- •Weekly Nielsen television ratings.
- •CIA World Map.
- •ZIP code guide.
- •National Family Database
- •Project Guttenburg, offering complete texts of many works of literature.
- •Alcoholism Research Data Base.
- •Guitar chords and tablature.
- •U.S. Government addresses, phone and fax numbers.
- •The Simpsons archive.

Cancer Society endorses Prop A

The American Cancer Society, Michigan Division, has endorsed Proposal A, the March 15 ballot proposal on school finance reform.

The Society likes Proposal A's 50-cent-per-pack tax increase on the sale of cigarettes. The Michigan Department of Public Health claims that the tax increase would save more than 69,000 lives in Michigan by reducing the number of adult smokers by 143,000 and the number of teen smokers by 29,000.

Society President Marie Swanson said in a press release: "It is well documented that higher tobacco prices result in a reduction in use, especially among youth. And 6 percent of the money generated by the tobacco tax increase, or roughly $36 million, will be earmarked for health programs under Proposal A.

"These two factors make Proposal A a win-win situation for the people of Michigan by reducing tobacco consumption and raising new dollars for public health initiatives."

Proposal A, if approved by voters, would also raise the sales tax to 6 percent and drastically reduce property taxes.

New Morning auction set

The New Morning School will hold its 18th annual fund-raising auction beginning 5 p.m. Saturday, March 26, in the Laurel Manor banquet hall on the north side of Schoolcraft Road just east of Haggerty in Livonia.

Tickets cost $45 and include hors d'oeuvres, an open bar, seated dinner and late-night snack. Advance registration is required. Silent auction bidding begins at 5 p.m. The live auction, conducted by Dan Stall, Inc., begins at 9 p.m. To register, call 420-3331.

Some of the items that will be auctioned are an autographed Sergei Fedorov jersey, a 27-foot sail boat, a Sligh-Kingsley grandfather clock, round trip airfare on American Airlines, a paddle boat, a gold bracelet with sapphires, a watercolor painting, Michigan Opera Theater tickets, a gemstone tennis bracelet, a doll house, doll house furniture, mountain bikes and a golfing vacation. More than 500 items will be auctioned.

New Morning is a small private school in Plymouth Township for youngsters in preschool through the eighth grade. Students come from through western Wayne and parts of Oakland County. The school was established in 1973 by parents and teachers who believe that parental involvement is critical to a child's education. Parents who perform volunteer work at New Morning get a discount on their youngster's tuition.

First place winners now advance to the National Federation of Press Women contest.

World Cup USA seeks volunteers

The World Cup USA 1994 organizing committee will host a "Volunteer Rally" 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, at Detroit Edison's Southfield Center, 26801 Northwestern Highway, west of Lasher.

This will be the last opportunity for volunteers to get involved in the staging of four opening round matches of the quadrennial championship of international soccer at the Pontiac Silverdome June 18, 22, 24 and 28.

More than 2,000 World Cup volunteers will be needed for a myriad of tasks to include language services, protocol/hospitality, press operations, transportation, accreditation, office and clerical needs.

Michigan's piece of the World Cup pie will comprise four games in 11 days involving the national soccer teams from Brazil, Romania, Russia, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States.

Those interested in volunteering should attend the Volunteer Rally, or call (810) 456-1994, Ext. 207.

Tantrums: Some ways to stop them

A friend and associate of mine talked shop over a cup of coffee the other day. We were between meetings, so what did we talk about? Whining, teary eyes and temper tantrums, of course.

Although Helen is a child care consultant and teacher, she admitted her weakness in dealing with and handling her own daughter's temper tantrums. Helen's youngest child of three years apparently has been giving her the blues with her whining and wailing while stiffening her young body, making it hard to hold or move her.

By the time we reached our respective cars, I had given Helen some written information that I had in one of my many file folders in the back seat. It apt offered tips on how to stop temper tantrums.

Many young children show their angry feelings by screaming, kicking, throwing themselves on the floor or banging their arms. These temper tantrums are no fun for parents or children. Here's how to help curb them:

At home

(1) After making sure your child cannot hurt him- or herself, someone else or objects around him or or her, ignore the temper tantrum. Don't talk to your child during the tantrum.

(2) Walk away from your child, if you're having trouble ignoring the tantrum.

(3) If your child follows you, close yourself in a bedroom or bathroom until the tantrum ends.

(4) When the tantrum is over, tell your child, "I like being with you when you are smiling (or sitting quietly or playing with your sister, etc.)" Say nothing about the tantrum.

(5) Don't give in to a tantrum. That is, do not give your child what he or she wants to make he or she stop screaming.

(6) If the tantrum is over something your child does not want to do, wait until the tantrum is over, then calmly but firmly say, "Now it is time to do . . . " Again, say nothing about the tantrum.

With company

It is often difficult and embarrassing if your child has a temper tantrum when you have company or are visiting. At these times, it might seem easier to give in to your child. However, if you give in to tantrums only when company is present, you may teach your child that temper tantrums work when company is around. It is best to respond as consistently as possible to tantrums whenever they occur. When possible use the six steps listed earlier and alert your visitors to your plan. If you're unable to carry out this plan, you might try the following:

(1) If you or your guests are unable to ignore the tantrum, lead or carry your child to his or her room, saying, "Your behavior is not OK. You may come out when you're finished."

(2) If your child comes out of his or her room before the tantrum has stopped, lead him or her back to the room without saying anything. If your child leaves his or her room repeatedly and you are uncomfortable leaving your guests, try to ignore the tantrum as much as possible. When your company leaves, you can then lead your child back to his or her room.

(3) Once the tantrum is over, let your child leave his or her room, saying, "Would you like to join us?" or "I like the way you are behaving." Say nothing about the tantrum.

(4) In some cases, you may not be able to allow your child to "scream it out." If your child is starting to throw a tantrum in front of company, you might try distracting him or her. Another approach is to give your child a choice other than what he or she is demanding. For example, if your child is demanding a drink of soda, you might offer him milk or juice.

(5) Sometimes it is difficult for young children to share their parents' attention, particularly if they are used to being with them much of the day. You may be able to prevent tantrums for your attention if you spend a few minutes helping your child become acquainted with your company and by giving your child a little special attention during the visit.

In public

Some children seem to wait until they are in public places before they throw temper tantrums. Not only is this behavior highly embarrassing, but also many parents don't like to let their children scream in public because they are afraid of what people might think. Again, it is important that you not give in to tantrums in public unless you want your child to learn that tantrums sometimes work.

Finding food for thought

■ Classroom learning can have a few limitations, especially if the subject is culinary arts. That's why a group of Plymouth Salem High School students took to the road to see what goes on behind the scenes at two hotels in the metropolitan area.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

At one time, high school students dabbled in home economics. The student of the '90s, however, is into the culinary arts.

A name change for turning out scrambled eggs and buttermilk biscuits for the family? Nope. It's the first tentative step toward a possible career in the food service industry.

For culinary arts students at Plymouth Salem High School, the class gave them a chance to see what goes on behind the scenes at two of Wayne County's better known hotels - The Ritz-Carlton and Hyatt Regency, both in Dearborn.

"Most kids say 'I want to work in a hotel' . . . this gives you an idea of what you have to do," said senior Paul Montresor.

The students, most of whom work at their school's Salem Rock Cafe, learned that it takes an army of people to run a hotel. They toured the laundry facilities, the kitchens, VIP suites (which seemed to be a favorite), health clubs, restaurants and management offices.

At The Ritz-Carlton, the teens participated in the India portion of the hotel's International Cultural Festival, watching a demonstration by visiting chef Jeet Reen of Shalimar Restaurant in Farmington Hills. Afterward, the students tasted Reen's Tandoori Chicken spiced with ginger, pepper, allspice and paprika.

While waiting for the school bus ride to the Hyatt, aspiring hotel manager and high school junior Chris Weidman took the opportunity to inquire about future employment. Others quizzed The Ritz-Carlton's employees about their experiences and pay at the hotel.

At the Hyatt Regency, the teens got a bird's-eye view of the hotel through the glass walls of the elevator, visited with the hotel management team, and compared the hotel's facilities with those of The Ritz-Carlton.

The students also gazed at the view of the Detroit skyline from the revolving restaurant atop the hotel. They finished the day by having lunch at Kyoto Steakhouse in Dearborn.

In retrospect, Stephanie Fill, a senior, said she was impressed with the benefits that hotel employees receive like "how the staff gets to eat free, how they take care of them," she said.

The tours and meal were scheduled to prep the students for their participation in the Salem Rock Cafe, said teacher Carey Garey. The restaurant, open to the public, offers a variety of dishes, including Cajun catfish, Tex-Mex chicken and desserts.

"We have a set menu for entrees, salads and sandwiches and grill items and desserts to our specials that we have everyday," she said.

The restaurant, which opened in 1971, is open to the public and teachers. Plymouth Salem and Canton students - except those who work in the cafe - cannot eat in there.

"That's part of the perk for giving up their lunch period. The time we need to be open is during lunch so they have lunch after our doors close, but they eat in our dining room," Garey said.

The students have also toured the restaurants at Henry Ford Community College and Schoolcraft College. In March they will tour Oakland Community College and learn about its curriculum.

These field trips, Garey said, offer orientations to the different schools' programs.

Her students have gone on to become chefs on cruise ships, managers of restaurants in Hawaii and at Disney World in Florida. Another student was presented with the first bachelor's degree from Johnson and Wales College and has since become a teacher's assistant. That's the part of the job that makes Garey proud.

"That's one of the best things about this job, training these kids for actually doing something."

Students who choose to go onto other fields still learn valuable employability skills, she said.

"Even if a kid decides they are not going to be interested in culinary arts . . . all the employability skills are all the same no matter which job they go to," she said. "They have a time clock that they have to punch. We try and treat it as a regular job. They don't get paid but what they do get in terms of experience and experiences that they wouldn't have gotten otherwise."

Junior Heather Anderson wants to go into marketing but she agrees with Garey. Her experience and experiences have taught her valuable skills of dealing with people.

"The people . . . I like to work with people. I love serving people," Anderson said. "Except for the people that come through and yell at me because their food isn't ready or something. They don't understand that I don't cook."

That's part of maturing, however, Garey said. The students find "out a lot about themselves which is part of the learning process."

'Mattress' is musical at Rosedale

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

When the curtain goes up on Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church's annual musical next week, Martha Kuykendall will be there . . . just like she's been for the past 23 years.

The Livonia resident has been directing musicals at the church since 1971 and is putting the finishing touches on this year's production of "Once Upon a Mattress," a musical version of the fairy tale of "The Princess and the Pea."

Now is the time for people to build bridges, not walls

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

RABBI IRWIN GRONER

In this month dedicated to the ideals of brotherhood, I reflect upon bridges and walls. They are the most challenging and inspiring symbols of human speech and thought.

Walls have a definite value and purpose in human life, giving us shelter, security and privacy. They enclose us in a manageable world. They define for us beyond doubt and dispute what is ours and what is our neighbor's. They are part of the necessary elements of civilized life.

But there are other walls we erect which serve no such good purpose, but are harmful to the best interests of society.

Selfishness is such a wall. When a person barricades himself behind it, it becomes his prison. He fondly believes that this wall of self-centeredness will give him greater strength and security. Actually, it isolates him and shuts him off in loneliness from the great and exciting world around him.

Prejudice and intolerance, racial and group hatred are tragic walls which people build around themselves. Our age has unfortunately witnessed the erection of many such forbidding walls — walls that divide, separate and sunder the peoples of this earth. Robert Frost said it well: "Something there is that doesn't love a wall. Before I build a wall, I ask to know what I was walling in or walling out, and to whom I was to give offense."

Over the centuries, people have had enough religion to hate each other, but not enough to love each other. Minority groups have found themselves excluded from participation in the social and economic life of the societies in which they lived. The original meaning of the word "ghetto" is a walled-off section of a city, physically separating Jewish inhabitants from contact and commerce with others. Such walls, actual and symbolic, have become symbols of degradation and destruction for all groups that have been forced to be separated and thereby rejected.

The fomenters of group hostility are still active in the world today. Even in our own country, whenever there is unhappiness, discontent or unrest, racial and religious bigots creep over the land and sow the pernicious seeds of suspicion and hate.

There are nations that put their trust and security in strong walls, in iron curtains and man-made fortresses. But they all crumble sooner or later. The mighty walls of Jericho fell and the broad walls of Babylonia were utterly overthrown and, in our own age, we have seen the fall of the Soviet empire.

Our shared heritage of faith teaches us to be builders of bridges, rather than of walls. It is good to remember the word of the Prophet Malachai: "Have we not all one father? Hath not one God created us all? Why then do we deal treacherously with one another?" We need to build a bridge of tolerance as we affirm the truth that there are many highways to heaven and many rooms in God's mansion.

America is a pluralistic society in which diverse religions, races and nationalities are free to express different points of view. It is almost self-evident that we shall disagree on many things. But it is more important to note that we agree on even more. We collectively believe that American life is built on a common acceptance of the Judeo-Christian ethic as the foundation of American society and government.

We have vital concerns in American life where we should continue to build bridges. Our joint efforts can make a major contribution, and our common action can change the present and shape the future.

The condition of family life is of primary concern. We are faced with the disintegrating family. The high divorce rate, the decline of standards of sexual morality and the attenuation of parent-child relations have all assumed epidemic proportions. In the past, standards of ethics and responsibility have been communicated in the family from one generation to another. The challenge to us, all religions, races and creeds, is to restore the quality of family life.

There are many other areas where we have joint concerns. Among them, the problems of the aged, health care, drugs and the ever-rising rate of crime. While the executive and legislative branches of government seek solutions for these problems, we must recognize that such solutions require the collective strength and moral consensus and shared support of the American people.

We must be builders of bridges rather than of walls. Charity, compassion and magnanimity are such bridges. So are friendship, tolerance and brotherhood. "Love Thy Neighbor as Thyself" is the noblest and most enduring of all the bridges ever devised.

A free class showing how to present the uniqueness of Christ in visuals will be held 7-8:30 p.m. Monday, March 7, at Plymouth Baptist Church, 42021 Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. The Easter Kit, "The One Who Was Different," includes everything needed to share the gospel message at family gatherings, Easter parties for children and in nursing homes or church settings. For more information, call Lita at 453-2357 to reserve a kit. For more information on the program, call the church at 453-5534.

■ OPEN HOUSE
There will be an open house for families 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 8, at the Northville Christian School, 41355 Six Mile, west of I-275. For more information, call 348-9031 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

"It's coming along pretty good," said Kuykendall. "I think it'll turn out OK."

More than 50 members of the church have been rehearsing, making sets and costumes for the production, which will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, March 4-5, and 4 p.m. Sunday, March 6.

Kuykendall has been responsible for bring such renowned musicals as "The Sound of Music," "Oklahoma," "The Music Man," "Fiddler on the Roof" and "South Pacific" to life on the basement stage of the church. "The Sound of Music" was the church's first production, done when the choir director suggested a musical be staged with Kuykendall directing.

This year, Kuykendall has gotten help from Caroline Dunphey, who designed the sets, Marylou Valrance, who is coordinating costuming and, in fact, made many of the costumes, Catherine Stage, who not only is the show's choreographer but the lead character, and Dick Burgess, who is in charge of the technical aspects. And since a musical wouldn't be a musical without music, Landon Swanson is directing the orchestra.

Kuykendall selected the play last year and held auditions the first week in January. Unlike the whittling-down process used on Broadway, anyone who shows up for the Rosedale Gardens productions gets a part.

"If you show up, you're on stage," Kuykendall said with a chuckle. "No one goes away without a part. It's the only way we can do it with an in-house group like this."

Stage is appearing as Princess Winifred, with Andrew Mac as Prince Dauntless, Millie Everson as Queen Aggravaine and Merrill Thomas as King Sextimus. Other cast members are John Hirtzel as the Wizzard, Jerry Stage as the Jester, Becky Prost as Lady Larken and David Conrad as Sir Harry.

Kuykendall isn't certain how many hours go into producing the play. Over the course of the six-eight weeks before curtain time, the cast spends three nights and a Sunday afternoon rehearsing. Saturdays are devoted to doing the scenery.

"It's a fun hobby, but it takes a lot of concentration," Kuykendall said.

Kuykendall doesn't have any formal training in directing plays, just hands-on experience. She has done some work in community theater and did some musicals for three years at Schoolcraft College.

Tickets for the musical are priced at $5 for adults and $2.50 for students through the 12th grade. They are available at the church, 9601 W. Chicago, Livonia. For more information, call 422-0494.

HOMELINE 953-2020

The following suggestions should help you stop your child's public tantrums.

(1) In some cases, you may be able to end tantrums quickly by saying nothing and/or walking out of your child's line of sight, but staying where you can see your child. Although it is difficult for most parents to be comfortable with this technique, it is highly effective for many children.

(2) If you cannot ignore the tantrum or comfortably walk away, lead or carry your child to the car, saying, "Your behavior tells me you do not want to be in the store (or the mall, or McDonald's, etc.). You can try again tomorrow (or the next day)."

(3) If you have taken your child home because of a tantrum, be sure to give him or her another chance within a day or two.

(4) If your child throws a lot of tantrums in public, start out with very short (15-20 minutes) trips close to home. As the tantrums occur less and less, you can go out more often and for longer periods of time.

(5) It often helps to control their behavior, if you include something they enjoy as part of your outing. For example, when going to the mall, you can stop at the pet store or after shopping for shoes, you could go to the playground.

If you have a question or comment for Eartha DeYampert, call her at 953-2047, mailbox number 1883, on a touch-tone phone, or write her at The Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150.

'Evening of Hope' benefits hospital

More than 1,000 people are expected to fill Burton Manor in Livonia when Leukemia, Research, Life, Inc. (LRL) holds its 13th annual "Evening of Hope" dinner-dance Saturday, March 5.

The largest annual fund-raising event for the group, proceeds, expected to top $60,000, will benefit LRL, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the elimination of childhood cancers through research at Children's Hospital of Michigan in Detroit.

The dinner-dance will feature a dinner buffet, including a salad, fruit and dessert table, an after-dinner auction and dancing to the music of the Take Five Band. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Ray and Lucie Shepard of the Detroit Red Wings and Jim Fitzgerald, Detroit Free Press columnist, are honorary chairmen of the dinner-dance. Rich Mayk of WDIV-TV Channel 4 and Colleen Burcar of WKQI-FM are the master and mistress of ceremonies.

Tickets to the event are $50 per person. Benefactor tickets are priced at $75 per person. They are available by calling the development office at Children's Hospital at 745-5373.

Since its inception in 1981, LRL has raised more than $1.2 million for childhood cancer research at Children's Hospital, a private, nonprofit 260-bed pediatric hospital organized in 1886.

Children's Hospital is a member of the Detroit Medical Center, the academic health center of Wayne State University.

Applications accepted for BPW scholarships

Applications are being accepted for the Elizabeth J. Szilagyi Scholarship, offered through the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's organization.

As a member of the Plymouth BPW, Szilagyi was vital to the group's scholarship program. She realized the impact a scholarship could have in helping women who alone supported their families.

The scholarship program was founded in 1990 by the Robert J. Szilagyi family with memorial contributions from family and friends of Elizabeth Szilagyi to benefit women preparing to re-enter the business, financial, technical or educational fields. Since then, more than $2,000 has been given to recipients.

To apply for the EJS Scholarship, an applicant must be a single, female head of household, have a high school diploma or equivalent, be accepted to or attending an accredited college, business, or vocational school and identify financial need.

The deadline for applying is March 15. To receive an application, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to EJS Scholarship, Plymouth BPW, P.O. Box 5338, Plymouth 48170. For more information, call Marilyn Alimpich at 453-4845.

Handwriting represents creativity

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green,

I've always been interested in handwriting analysis. I'm amazed that you can pull out so much about an individual simply by looking at handwriting.

People often say my writing looks nice but is difficult to read. What do you think?

I am 36 years old and am right-handed. Eagerly awaiting your reply.

T.B., Livonia

I personally do not think this handwriting is difficult to read. To me, it represents creativity and independence.

While I realize I have said this before, I think it bears repeating here. First we learn to write as we are taught, then as we wish. People like T.B. who have a need to express their creativity will usually change from their copybook training.

Our writer was raised in a home with strong female influence. Very early in life, she wanted to be independent and may have been a little rebellious to gain the freedom she needed. And yet she sometimes feels a need to return emotionally to the mother figure when things are not going well.

She wants both variety and action in her daily life. At the time this letter was written, she had many irons in the fire and may not be entirely satisfied with things. Fulfillment seems to be eluding her.

Cultural leanings are here. She is much aware of the arts, literature and music. She is a creative and probably gifted person.

You will know when this woman is around. Her ego craves success and attention and she wants to do things in her own way. Her need for status and/or stroking serves to propel her on toward higher achievements.

I've always been interested in handwriting analysis. I'm amazed that you can pull out so much about an individual simply by looking at their handwriting.

She can make quick decisions and get right to the point. She is not rebuffed by sudden new demands.

Here is a woman of strong convictions and appreciation of hard work. She sticks to essentials and has the ability to keep things simple. She clearly recognizes the importance of getting down to fundamentals.

This is a risk taker. She knows who she is and has a need to remain aloof from the demands of conventional society.

In a position which offers stimulation and challenge, she will excel. If involved in routine chores with too much detail work, she will soon become restless for a change.

For relaxation, she would probably like sports or activities that require physical endurance and/or an opportunity to compete.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and full signature are all important and objective feedback is always welcomed.

Doctors to discuss prostate cancer

Dr. Philip Lafata, chief of general surgery, and lecturer Dr. Ali Rahmanian, senior urological surgeon of the Horizon Surgery Center and St. Mary Hospital, will be the speakers at a health education program on prostate cancer 7 p.m. Thursday, March 3.

Lafata will introduce Rahmanian. The lecture, at the Horizon Surgery Center, on Haggerty south of Eight Mile, will include a slide presentation as well as a question-and-answer session.

A packet of information will be available to members of the audience, courtesy of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and the National Cancer Institute. Light refreshments will be served.

In the United States, prostate cancer is the leading malignancy in men, and the number two cause of cancer deaths. Current estimates are that a 50-year-old American male has a 40 percent chance of developing microscopic prostate cancer during his lifetime, a 10 percent chance of being diagnosed with the disease and a 2-3 percent chance of dying of prostate cancer.

Data from the Center for Disease Control's National Center for Health Statistics shows an alarming increase in the incidence of the disease since 1980. The number of prostate cancers diagnosed increased 8-10 percent annually the past few years.

This trend may be due in part to aging of the population (prostate cancer occurs with a greater frequency in elderly men), to improved diagnostic procedures that discover tumors that may otherwise have been undetected in the past, or to increased awareness and health-seeking behavior of men.

Research is being done, with an emphasis on oncogenes and genetic predispositions as well as more efficient methods of diagnosis and treatment of prostate cancer.

The Horizon Surgery Center is at 19900 Haggerty, south of Eight Mile, Suite 100, Livonia. There is no charge for the seminar, but seating is limited, so call 462-1888 for reservations or more information.

'Hold fast the FORM of sound words' (2 Tim 1:13). Form means 'ARRANGEMENT OF PARTS.' Thus, Rule #5 of Bible study: STUDY THE GRAMATICAL STRUCTURE OF SCRIPTURE. By Jesus saying, 'Before Abraham was I AM' (John 8:58). He claimed to be the 'I AM' who appeared to Moses at the burning bush (Exodus 3:14). Here grammar establishes Jesus' identity as God.

Come Sense The Freshness

School events focus on better living

The Parent Connection of the Metropolitan Seventh-day Adventist School in Plymouth and Better Living Seminars will offer several events for the family in March.

Frequently heard on radio and television, Dr. Joseph Arends will kick off the series with his lecture on fitness and the whole family at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 1, at the school, 15585 Haggerty, Plymouth.

Arends, who received his training in preventive medicine from the U.S. Navy in Pensacola, Fla., will offer a program designed to motivate people to start and stay with a regular fitness program as well as provide the facts on all the fitness madness.

Arends has been seen on ABC's "20/20," NBC's "Today Show" and PBS's "Late Night America" and has been written up in Sports Illustrated, Time, Newsweek and The New York Times. He is a consultant to the University of Michigan, the U.S. Navy and U.S. Department of Defense.

Cost of the lecture is $2. Information and reservations are available by calling 420-3131.

The Gymnicks, an internationally known acrosports gymnastics team from Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich., will show off their talent in a acrobatic sports spectacular at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 5.

Children also will have a chance to work out with the team 9:30-11:30 a.m. Sunday, March 6. Youngsters will be divided according to age and skill level. The workout will provide them with new skills as well as sharpen old ones. No experience is necessary.

The Saturday performance costs $3 for adults, $2 for students and children and $10 for families. The gymnastics and acrosports clinic costs $5 per participant. For tickets and information or to register, call 261-1976.

For parents or those who would rather watch than work out, a pancake breakfast will be served 9 a.m. to noon Sunday, March 6. Cost is $3 for adults, $2 for students and children and $10 for families.

Even sitting can be a move toward better living for those who take advantage of a blood cholesterol screening 8:30 a.m. to noon Sunday. Cost is $25. For information or to register, call 531-2179.

Summer camp fair offers big selection

Are you looking for a camp to send your children to next summer?

If so, then consider attending the fifth annual "Camp and Activities Fair" 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 27, at Bloomfield Hills Middle School, 4200 Quarton Road.

Sponsored by The Merrill-Palmer Institute of Wayne State University, Metro Parent magazine and The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, the fair features representatives from 72 camps and activity programs from around the state and across the country.

Twenty-two of the 72 programs represented are new to the camp fair, so there's something new for those who attended last year's fair.

Merrill-Palmer spokeswoman Sandy Schwartz reports that there is a camp specializing in virtually any activity a kid could conceivably be interested in.

Those activities include skiing, sailing, windsurfing, kayaking, biking, canoe paddling, rock climbing, dancing, photography, horse riding, rifle shooting, archery, scuba diving, snorkeling and rocketry.

Other camps emphasize computers, ecology skills, leadership, marine biology, music, art and drama. There is even a camp for speech- and hearing-impaired kids and a camp for kids from abusive families.

Also, representatives from Nacel Cultural Exchanges will be on hand to answer questions about sending your children to foreign countries or hosting a foreign student in your house.

Admission is free and camp operators are asked not to take any money.

Among organizations scheduled to attend the fair are the Howe Military Summer Camp, the Tall Timbers Sports Camp, the Upland Hills Farm Day Camp, the Beverly Hills Racquet/Health Club, the Jewish Community Center, Detroit Country Day Camp, the Farmington Gymnastics Center and the Catholic Youth Organization.

For additional data, call Schwartz at 872-1790.

LACTOSE DEFICIENCY

Lactose intolerance is a common digestive problem. It has been estimated that 30 million americans are lactose intolerant. 50 or 60% of these people will experience abdominal bloating, flatulence 2-6 hours after ingesting 1 or 2 glasses of milk, or a large amount of ice cream especially on an empty stomach.

Lactose intolerance occurs as a result of lactose deficiency in the intestine. Symptoms of distention, bloating, abdominal pain, flatulence, or even diarrhea occur frequently but the severity of these symptoms varies widely between people who have this condition. Reducing the exposure to milk or milk products will help to alleviate the symptoms, lactose enzymes supplements are also available in capsules and tablets form. Which will also hoep to digest the lactose containing product or products and help to avoid symptoms of lactose intolerance.

Connections Members Earn Greater Rewards On Car Loans.

As Low As 6.25% APR
CURRENT STANDARD RATE — 6.90% APR
CONNECTIONS MEMBER DISCOUNT AS HIGH AS 0.65%

Connections from First of America is the only bank program that actually rewards you for your business. Making your banking relationships mean more than just putting money in and taking it out.

You get higher interest rates on deposits. Lower rates on loans. And reduced or even waived service charges. Essentially, the more business you give us, the more rewards we'll give you.

You qualify for all these benefits every time you or a member of your household opens a new deposit account, receives a new credit card or takes out a new loan at First of America.

On a 48-month, $15,000, new car loan, for example, the application fee of $50 is waived for Connections members. In addition, members could receive up to .65% interest rate reduction. A total savings of $270.

And it's easy to get into. There's no membership fee or sign-up hassle. Just stop by a participating First of America branch, and ask about Connections. You'll start getting back a lot more from your banking relationships.

It Pays To Be Well-Connected.

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

Savor flavor, aroma of homegrown herbs

Have you always wanted to have an herb garden, but thought you didn't have enough sun?

A surprising number of herbs do grow well in a partially shady location. Some of them are perennials, meaning they grow from year to year without having to be replaced, while others are annuals, those that need to be replanted each year.

Herbs generally don't require much effort and don't need a lot of fertilization because flavor is sacrificed when there is lots of growth. And fresh herb flavor can't be beat! Herbs also are fragrant and pretty and reward the gardener in many ways.

Herbs do like a rich soil. Compost or spaghnum peat worked into the existing bed will accomplish this. Good drainage is necessary. Herbs don't like wet feet any more than we do.

Most people begin growing herbs for the part they play in our culinary world, so that is the type of garden I have planned. Start small — the garden can always be enlarged and I don't want you to be discouraged with too much work. But as I said, what little is required is well worth the effort.

Garden planning

I've designed a small rectangular garden about 20 feet by 5 feet. It doesn't have to be "squared off" — it could be oval in shape or some other configuration. Use this plan as a guide (see related story).

A raised bed will allow the soil to warm up earlier in the season, but isn't necessary. It will be easy to reach all the plants from all sides, but if the garden abuts a building or hedge, a path of stepping stones, gravel or wood chips will make it easier to care for the plants. A layer of newspaper or landscape fabric under the latter two will reduce weeding chores.

Some perennials will form the bones of the garden and will do fine in the semi-shady location. They can be bought as plants in May, while the annuals can be started from seed indoors in early March or sown directly into the garden when the soil warms up.

Savory characters

Perennial plants include Lavender, which blooms a beautiful deep blue-purple and will provide a fragrance as you brush the foliage — Munstead and Lavender Lady are good choices. Common Thyme is a relatively short upright plant with deep green foliage, while the foliage of Lemon Thyme is tinged with yellow. Sage plants are lovely with gray-green, purple or variegated foliage. Taste the leaf of the French Terragon plant before you buy it to be sure the flavor is strongly anise-like. Space them 18 inches apart.

Livonia shows African art objects

■ In honor of Black History Month, the city of Livonia exhibits its African art collection thought to be objects of the Ovimbundu tribe of Portugese Angola.

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

In celebration of Black History Month, the Livonia Arts Commission presents an exhibition of the city's African artifacts through Feb. 25.

The turn-of the century art, thought to be tribal objects of the Ovimbundu people from Portugese Angola, is on display in the circular showcases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

"This is the appropriate time to display our African artifacts, in honor of Black History Month," said arts commissioner Lee Alanskas.

"It is an expensive exhibition that belongs to the residents of Livonia and they should be able to enjoy it."

Donated to the city 30 years ago by The Rev. and Mrs. Paul Haskell Clark of the Pilgrim Congregational Church in Livonia, the art objects were collected by the missionary supported by the congregational church.

The collection was originally assembled by Brewster Pilgrim Congregational Church of Detroit, which became Pilgrim Congregational Church when it moved to Livonia in 1957. It was the wish of the church that the artifacts be shared with the community as a whole.

Handcarved figures and drums, baskets, war clubs and corn cob dolls reveal a culture where art was a part of daily life.

Appraised in 1985 by David Ackley on the recommendation of Evan Maurer, director of the University of Michigan Museum of Art, the value of the collection was placed at $32,545.

Most of the objects were readily identified and appraised, being comparable to known objects in the literature and on the art market, stated Ackley.

However two of the objects, a handcarved mask and a female figure with child, posed problems of evaluation, leading Ackley to believe they could be priceless due to the fact the existence of such a mask, if it is a tribal work of the Ovimbundu, until that time had been unknown.

When arts commissioner Dorothy Wilshaw found the collection tossed haphazardly into a library closet in 1992, she took it upon herself to see that the objects were stored properly in acid free paper.

"I think since we have this valuable collection, it should be looked after," said Wilshaw.

City librarian Michael Deller says that when he first came to Livonia, he was impressed by the quality of the African art collection. He considers the residents of Livonia very lucky to have these artifacts.

■ 'The items themselves are important because they represent a culture that's rapidly disappearing as we know it in Africa.'

Michael Deller
city librarian

In his travels, he has seen comparable pieces only at museums in New York and California.

Of course, that's not to slight the fine collection of the Detroit Institute of Arts, whose collection former Gov. G. Mennen Williams was instrumental in assembling during the time he served as ambassador to Africa.

"The items themselves are important because they represent a culture that's rapidly disappearing as we know it in Africa," Deller said.

Over the years, the collection was loaned to local schools and colleges as well as the University of Michigan Art Museum.

Hollowed from a tree stump, a tribal drum with pyro-engraved incised patterns sports a four-legged animal crawling up the side. The animal and drum were carved from a single piece of wood. In 1985, the drum was appraised at $375.

Another of the art objects, a female figure holding a child has the word fetish carved into the back. It is more than likely a fertility image.

The figure of woman with child according to Ackley is a rare object that he roughly valued at $2,500.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Very Special Arts seeking performers

SPECIAL WRITER

Very Special Arts of Southeast Michigan is searching for performing artists with disabilities to participate in its fourth annual festival, "A Celebration of Arts-Ability" May 6-7 at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

Performing artists with varying disabilites are invited to apply, including adults and children with sight, hearing, mobility, emotional and development impairments.

The festival celebrates the power of the arts to triumph over physical and mental challenges. It serves to expose and educate the community to the artistic talents of individuals with disabilites.

"We want to showcase the talents of artists with disabilities. We're focusing on ability, not disabilities," said Connie Lott, chairwoman of Very Special Arts Southeast Michigan headquartered at FAR Conservatory in Birmingham.

"We want to share with the community the impact that the arts can have on disabled people."

The festival spotlights art skills honed in Very Special Arts programs throughout the year. Performances will include, but are not limited to, instrumental and vocal music, dance, drama, comedy, mime, puppetry, baton and pompon.

"For the first time this year, we're going to have drama. We will have hands-on activities for the participants not only with disabilities but for the people from the communities who attend the festival," Lott said. "We will also have the touring art exhibit showcasing artists with disabilities from around the state."

■ ARTS ACHIEVER

Roy E. Ernst, a music education professor at the Eastman School Music at the University of Rochester and a former instrumental music teacher in Livonia, is one of seven alumni who will receive an arts achievement award at Wayne State University during the Celebration of the Arts March 4.

He will be honored in the music category. At 11:45 a.m. Friday, March 4, Ernst will offer a free music master class in 101 Schaver Music Building.

The 1961 master's degree graduate of WSU earned a doctorate at the University of Michigan. He has taught in Eastpointe and Livonia public schools and at WSU and Georgia State University. In 1984, he was a visiting professor in Sydney, Australia.

He founded the Aesthetic Education Institute that annually provides art education for teachers and K-12 students in Rochester, N.Y.

■ CRAFTY MOMENTS

Craft Gallery will host a country folk art and Victorian craft show from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 27, at Hawthorne Valley country club, 7300 Merriman, north of Warren, Westland.

The fare will feature 65 dispays of Michigan talent. Admission is $2 (children younger than 12, free, but strollers are not allowed).

Exhibiters include Bev Jovan of Livonia, wearable art; Val Davis of Plymouth, country wood; and Joyce Paavola, seasonal and country ceramics, and Hazel Owens, fine art of paper feathering and layering (Vue 'd' optique), of Garden City.

■ CRAFT FARE

Schoolcraft College will present its spring craft show featuring 150 exhibiters from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, March 12 in the Physical Education Building, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

All proceeds will go toward student scholarships. The $1.50 admission will include parking and drawings. Food and refreshments will be available.

Area artist earns painting accolades

Northville artist Linda Banks Ord has won three national painting awards.

This brings to 27 the number of honors she has received over the past six years.

Ord

Ord is a professor in the University of Michigan School of Art and a U. of M. alumni board member.

She's past chair of the Michigan Water Color Society.

The Philadelphia Water Color Club, in an international exhibition at The American College in Bryn Mawr, Pa., in January, selected her painting "Confirmation Series No. 6 for an Award of Excellence.

The painting uses imagery from Ord's western ancestry and is quite realistic with strong abstract qualities. It has appeared on the cover of the Michigan Bar Journal.

Other awards came from the North East Watercolor Society's National Exhibition held at the Trotting Horse Museum in Goshen, N.Y., and "The Medicine Show," a national exhibition at Buckham Gallery in Flint.

were the vocal choir from the Burger Center for the Autistic in Garden City; Schoolcraft Players, a chime choir from Redford Township; tap dancer Kelly Miles of West Bloomfield; vocalist Katie Weidig of Royal Oak; and pianist Craig Dankanics of Livonia.

For the last three years, the festival has been held at Laurel Park Place Mall in Livonia but due to its increasing popularity more space was needed this year.

"This is a little larger mall. We'll be in the center court there at Wonderland where the foot traffic is greater."

Application/permission/release forms for performers must be submitted by March 7.

Very Special Arts was founded for children and adults who because of their disabilites cannot participate in the sports of Special Olympics. It gives individuals with impairments a sense of dignity and self-esteem.

The festival serves as a model for ways the arts can be used to integrate the disabled and nondisabled in cultural and educational disabilities.

Very Special Arts, an educational affiliate of the Kennedy Center for Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., has been designated by Congress as the nation's coordinating agency for arts programs forpeople with disabilities.

Lott says the group is in dire need of help in producing the festival. She is asking that anyone who is able to do so to please volunteer their time. "We're looking for people who might want to help at the festival either day."

To request an application or for more information about the festival, call Connie Lott at the Far Conservatory in Birmingham, 646-3347.

Learn how to market arts

"Effective Marketing for the '90s," a workshop on marketing and promoting arts and cultural organizations, will take place 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday, March 11, in the Liberal Arts Building, Room 200, at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

The college is at 18600 Haggerty, between Six Mile and Seven Mile. For information or to register, call the Accounting Aid Society at 313-961-1840.

The workshop is designed for staffs, board members and volunteers of non-profit organizations. The fee of $35 includes lunch and materials.

Linda Delene, professor of marketing and director of the Service Quality Institute at Western Michigan University, will lead the workshop. The workshop is cosponsored by the Michigan Association of Community Arts Agencies and the Accounting Aid Society.

Interior design seminar planned

A free interior decorating seminar will take place 7:30-8:30 p.m. Thursday, March 10 in the Holiday Inn of Livonia, I-275 and Six Mile.

The seminar, "Home Decorating: Pickle or Panache?", is hosted by Linda Kittredge and Nadine Henderson, both sales associates with Quality Real Estate/ Better Homes and Gardens of Plymouth and Livonia; and interior designers Patricia Newman and Kathleen Tomassi. Purpose of the seminar is to identify decorating pickles and gain practical solutions for achieving personal panache.

For reservations, call 462-3000 by Saturday, March 5.

The seminar is a result of Kittredge's "realization that many homeowners have refinanced their homes and will not be moving in the near future."

Because she wanted to continue providing services to her clients and friends, Kittredge thought a free home decorating seminar would be a great idea. "I wanted the seminar to provide practical, yet fun decorating ideas that could be put into operation immediately when the attendee got home," she said.

Newman owns Patricia Newman Interiors. Residential homes, condominiums and apartments are a few of the specialties she has developed over the past 20 years. She was an award winner at the 1991 HOMERAMA, was involved in the 1993 Parade of Homes and has been featured in the Creative Living section of the Observer & Eccentric.

"Good taste and good design do not necessarily have to be expensive," Newman said. "Color, form and scale can deliver a lot of panache without being made of pricy materials."

Tomassi started M.K.T. Interiors of Grosse Pointe in 1986. An interior designer for more than 17 years, she started out making drapery and soft furnishings for residential homes. She also worked for a company that custom-designed aircrafts for the likes of a Saudi Arabian princess. She has done residential and contract work throughout the United States as well as serving as a consultant to other interior designers.

"I feel I provide a very valuable service and my background in interior design, construction and factory experience have given me what is required to do my job with reasonable ease, accuracy and enthusiasm," Tomassi said.

Henderson has been a sales associate for 17 years. Because of experiencing firsthand eight moves in 20 years, both domestically and internationally (Brazil, Mexico and Venezuela), she says she understands how helpful the Realtor can be in locating services, interior decorating, painting, carpeting, etc. "My primary goal is to create customer and client satisfaction," Henderson said.

Before beginning her career in real estate, Kittredge was an admissions assistant at Henry For Community College. "In my previous position, I worked to market the college to the community. Now, as a sales associate, I can apply my experience to marketing homes," she said.

"I recognize that people need to make wise choices where their lifestyle and pocketbook are concerned. I work hard so they can make decisions they won't regret."

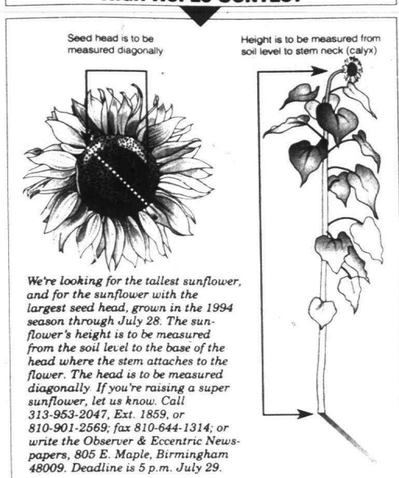
HIGH HOPES CONTEST



We're looking for the tallest sunflower, and for the sunflower with the largest seed head, grown in the 1994 season through July 28. The sunflower's height is to be measured from the soil level to the base of the head where the stem attaches to the flower. The head is to be measured diagonally. If you're raising a super sunflower, let us know. Call 313-953-2047, Ext. 1859, or 810-901-2569; fax 810-644-1314; or write the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009. Deadline is 5 p.m. July 29.

The annuals include Basil, which comes in several "flavors" — large or small leaves. Choose your favorite and include one with purple foliage. Flat-leaved (Italian) and curly-leaved parsley will both be used. Summer Savory is low-growing with light green foliage. Coriander grows two to three feet tall — the seeds are coriander and the foliage is known as cilantro. It, as well as the parsley, may self-sow.

The seeds of the basils and savory can be started indoors in March, although they can be sown directly into the garden as can parsley and coriander. Follow the directions carefully that are printed on the seed packets — they contain a wealth of information.

It's always fun to have some special adornment in an herb garden, perhaps a bee skep, or a pedestal topped with a gazing ball (the latest "new" rage), or a potted plant. Bay, aloe, rosemary-scented geranium or a mint of your choice all will grow well in this area, as they can tolerate some shade. Set this "pretty" in the center of the garden and surround it with the Lemon Thyme.

Let me know how your herb garden is doing.

Marty Figley is an advanced master gardener based in Birmingham. You can leave her a message by dialing 313-953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then her mailbox number, 1859. Her fax number is 810-644-1314.

Here is suggested guide

This is a guide for your semi-shady herb garden. It gives the number of plants and packages of seeds needed. The plants needn't be placed in such rigid rows — as they grow, they will spread.

ROW I: Lavender (Lavendula angustifolia), one plant; Parsley (Petroselinum crispum), one package; Coriander (Coriandrum sativum), one package; Summer Savory (Satureja hortensis), one package; Lavender, one plant.

ROW II: Basil (Ocimum basilicum), one package; Sage (Salvia officinalis), one plant; Lemon Thyme (TX Citriodorus), 12 plants; Sage, one plant; Basil, one package.

ROW III: Lavender, one plant; French Tarragon (Artemisia Dracunculus), four plants; Common Thyme (Thymus vulgaris), eight plants; Parsley, one package; Lavender, one plant.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Most of us rely on a single picture to record an event or happening. And, done well, this shot would "tell" a lot about that particular circumstance.

But a picture series or photo essay can add much more information and convey an entire story. A sequence of pictures for your photo album can be as few as four or five shots.

For example, imagine the children going for a walk in the woods on a blustery day.

You could start with a shot of them putting on their boots and windbreakers. The next picture could be of them entering the woods along a leaf-strewn path. Halfway could be a shot at the top of the hill showing the children excited but windblown. Your series can be completed with a photo of the youngsters emerging from the woods with smiles on their faces.

Do you see the impact a series of photographs like this can have rather than just a single shot?

There are numerous other possibilities: a family member's birthday party, going to the zoo, heading out to the beach or a Sunday barbecue. Linking together pictures with a common theme will "tell a story" about a meaningful event in your life.

Travel offers excellent opportunity for photo essays. In most cases when we are looking for a way of photographing a particular place, we tend to look for the definitive picture that sums up our impression in one shot. Yet it can often be more interesting and sometimes more effective to produce a series of pictures that combine to create a record of a particular occurrence.

Traveling through Austria, I chanced on a mother and son working in their field. I thought this is a terrific possibility to produce a photo essay of these folks as they went about their daily chores.

Essay subjects: This mother and son were charming and willing subjects for Monte Nagler's photo essay made near Pflach, Austria.

A picture series or photo essay provides a more complete and intimate view of experiences in our lives.

The Photo Guild announces the 31st annual Photographic Seminar Friday-Sunday, March 18-20, at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn. For information, call Andrew Wims at 861-6152.

Seminar tickets are $40 a day or $55 for both days, prepaid; and $45 a day or $60 for both days, at the door. Student prices are $40 for both days or $25 per day, prepaid only.

The programs will include more than 20 presentations in a wide variety of photographic disciplines for all levels of photographers from beginning to advanced. Several hands-on workshops will be featured, including glassware and blacklight photography.

Among the speakers will be many locally and nationally renowned photographers, such as Howard Bond, who will present a program on an aspect of black and white photography; T.Y. Wu, color printing; Fred Kuehl, slide critique; Bryce Dennison, portrait lighting; and Ray Coleman, nature photography.

Other programs will be on camera maintenance, basic photography, wedding photography and a variety of other darkroom and photographic disciplines.

A special multimedia slide presentation will be included at the Adray Auditorium at the college March 18, with two programs by William Buchanan, "The Many Faces of Arizona" and "Colorful Colorado." Tickets for the slide program at the door are $5 and $3 for students with ID.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing 313-953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is 810-644-1314.

■ LIVONIA CITY CENTER LIBRARY ART GALLERY
Opening — The artistry of West Bloomfield painter Audrey Di-Marco, a Visual Arts Association of Livonia faculty member, fills the Livonia Civic Center Library Art Gallery to March 6. Artists can get grants

Michigan artists may apply for up to $7,000 in the creative artists grant program provided by the Arts Foundation of Michigan and the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs.

This program is intended to fund projects by professional artists in all disciplines. Projects must be significant, original new work. Funded projects must include provision for public access to the work through a sponsoring nonprofit group.

Artists must apply through a Letter of Intent process. The deadline for receipt of Letters of Intent is 5 p.m., March 16 in the Arts Foundation of Michigan offices. Artists successful in the intent review process will be invited to return a full application.

For a copy of grant guidelines or more information about the Foundation and its programs, call 313-964-2244 weekdays or write: Arts Foundation of Michigan, 645 Griswold, Suite 2164, Detroit 48226.

Realty show markets homes via cable

The Real Estate Show, a method of "showing" houses on cable TV, is going great guns as it approaches its first anniversary.

That's the word from Sam Cherrin of Farmington Hills, the local founder, organizer and producer of the program, and a couple of Realtors who use that marketing strategy.

Sam and his wife, Bonnie, buy one-hour blocks of time from Metrovision franchises, then go out and sell 15-second bites to real estate agents to tout individual houses they have for sale. A couple hundred houses can be shown in a fast-paced hour.

"We take still shots of different houses supplied by Realtors, the facade of the house," Sam Cherrin said. "We do a 15-second voice over for each.

> ■ 'We've had homes as low as $20,000. The most expensive property to date, I think, was $1.8 million. Typically, they range from $70,000 to $250,000.'
> Sam Cherrin
> The Real Estate Show

"On the screen, we show a picture of the home, a picture of the Realtor, two phone numbers and the price of the home during the voice over," Cherrin said.

The tape is updated weekly.

"Currently, I'm running 20 different companies," he said. "We've had homes as low as $20,000. The most expensive property to date, I think, was $1.8 million. Typically, they range from $70,000 to $250,000."

Realtors are charged $25 weekly per house for a minimum of 67 exposures and up to 127 in Redford and Livonia (Channel 51) and Farmington Hills, Farmington and Novi (Channel 22). Discounts are offered for more extended buys.

Cherrin, a former Realtor, was introduced to the concept while vacationing in Florida.

"I actually sat there and wouldn't turn the TV off," he said. "The concept is very simple and very effective. It's a good way to comparison shop for a new home and determine the value of your own home.

"Recently, we've done a survey to see how effective it's been," Cherrin said. "One thing that kept coming up was Realtors were happy about the exposure it gives them. They're excited when people come up to them in a store and say, 'I know you from television. I recognize you.' "

Cherrin said he has no figures on how many people tune in. "There are approximately 72,000 households with Metrovision in the viewing area," he said.

Cherrin said he looks at his service as complementing rather than competing with print advertising.

"Our program and your advertising really work in tandem," he said. "In real estate, it's very important the public believes there's a lot of advertising out there on houses. We're reinforcing what's in your newspaper and your newspaper reinforces what's on our show."

Cherrin also distinguished his show that airs continuously from similar productions with much more limited air time. "We're bulk. We have as many as 127 hours per week."

Connie Isbell, a Realtor with Red Carpet Keim in Farmington, said she's enjoyed much success with The Real Estate Show.

"By far, it's our best source of advertising," she said. "Yesterday, I had four calls from The Real Estate Show. To get four calls in one day from any source of advertising is unheard of.

"The other thing we're impressed with is a lot of buyers calling who watch the show are just starting to look," Isbell said. "We meet them early in the process, start on the right foot. That makes for a much easier transaction. They don't always buy the house advertised . . . but the contact was made as a result of the show."

Isbell continues to advertise in newspapers and magazines, but says her best results come from cable TV. "I think it's because this is the age of the clicker," she said.

Sue Heglin, a Realtor with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in Livonia, also has enjoyed her 2½-month experience with the show.

"It works well for me," she said. "It gives me exposure, gets my name out there. When I call on people to list their houses . . . they recognize me.

"I definitely get calls on them," Heglin said of listings. "Whether I get direct sales or not, I'm not sure. This is very new for me."

Jack Padley, classified advertising manager for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, said he's familiar with shows like Cherrin's.

"It's a neat, new twist on an old concept that could complement traditional advertising," Padley said. "But on a cost or response basis, real estate ads in newspapers have always and will continue to be the most effective advertising."

Cherrin's next expansion will be to cable systems serving other communities.

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. We're sick of our management company, which was hired by the developer, and we want to get rid of it at the time of turnover. The contract runs for about six months after the turnover. Can we do anything?

A. Under the condominium act of 1978, to the extent any management contract extends beyond one year after the transitional control date, the excess period under the contract may be voided by the board of directors of the association by notice to the management company at least 30 days before the expiration of the one-year period.

To the extent the contract does not extend beyond one year, you may be limited to the express terms and conditions of the management agreement, although you should check your condominium documents to determine whether the condominium bylaws authorize the board of directors to enter into the type and nature of contract that was signed, i.e., by way of example, did the contract last for a period longer than that authorized by the condominium bylaws.

Also, confirm that the management company is not in any way affiliated with the developer which would, under the condominium documents, give you the right to void the contract on the transitional control date, or within 90 days thereafter, or 30 days notice at any time thereafter for cause.

. . .until you've called our new

BUILDERS HOT LINE DIRECTORY

It's worth a little mud to find the right new home, but why not check out what's happening in the new home construction business before you trek out into the building fields?

All you have to do is call our new Builders Hot Line Directory number from your touch-tone telephone and take a "talking" tour of what's being offered. A lot of builders plan to include their Hot Line numbers right in their ads, so if you should see an interesting advertisment in the Real Estate section of our classifieds look for the builder's Hot Line number there, too.

Remember, before you travel into unknown territory, check our new BUILDERS HOT LINE DIRECTORY by calling

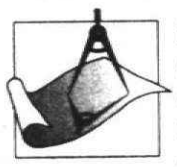
White Oak boasts north Michigan feel



Builders and developers who work together on several projects tend to build good rapport and quality subdivisions. Three with Rochester connections are combinig efforts on a 35-acre parcel a few miles north of The Palace of Auburn Hills.

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

A residential subdivision that attracts buyers with no models on the site must be something special.

That's how Rochester builders James Rutkowski, president of James Joseph Builders, and Mario Cerqua, president of Stella Homes, view White Oak in Orion Township.

"You've got a wooded, beautiful subdivision, you're right by Bald Mountain State Recreation Area," Rutkowski said. "I was out here Sunday and people were riding horses through here."

"You feel like you're in northern Michigan, but a quarter mile away you're in town," Cerqua said.

Rutkowski controls 36 lots, Cerqua 12, each at least 100 feet wide, in the subdivision off Clarkston Road just east of Lapeer Road.

Mike Foley of Rochester developed the parcel and figures that the natural beauty and seclusion will be big draws.

"It's somewhat wooded off a gravel road," Foley said. "The site is surrounded by wooded, wetland areas.

"Our intent and the builders' intent was to keep homes with a base price in the $190s, which is considered affordable here today in northeast Oakland County," Foley said.

"Both of these builders have been with me through several subs - Paint Creek Ridge in Orion, Oakland Farm in Oakland Township," he added.

The models should be up by June, Cerqua and Rutkowski said.

Prices range across the spectrum from $179,000 for a three-bedroom, 1,800-square-foot ranch to $209,000 for a four-bedroom, 2,425-square-foot two-story to $255,000 for a colonial of 3,000 square feet.

Standard features include side-entry, two-car garage; first-floor utility room; basement; and range, dishwasher and garbage disposal in the kitchen.

The site is serviced by city water and sewers.

"Foley bought the land at the right price," Rutkowski said. "The land is inexpensive now for the area and it got passed along to us."

"These houses probably will be second time (new) buyers," Cerqua said. " That's what I'm dealing with at Silver Bell. Most have kids less than 10 years old."

"I'm getting a lot of interest from the Chrysler Tech Center," Rutkowski said. "What are we - eight minutes away?

"I talked to one customer and she said she preferred the (Lake Orion) schools in this part of town, the wooded area," he continued. "It's wooded sites, schools and upgraded homes."

Home banking: David J. Morin, product manager with Michigan National Bank, demonstrates how to write a check on a personal computer using Microsoft's Money program.

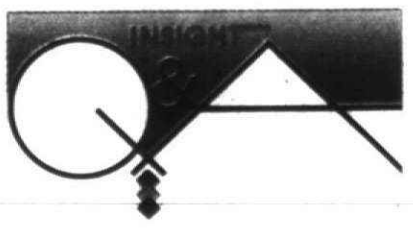
Bank at home through your PC

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER



Michigan National Bank, founded in 1941 and now headquartered in Farmington Hills, impacts the community in many ways.

With 191 branches statewide, it touches virtually every corner of the Observer & Eccentric coverage area.

The bank reported:

- Some 900 employees at headquarters and about 3,500 overall in the tri-county metro area.
- A mortgage service portfolio of $13.6 billion, which includes $4 billion of its own originations.
- Consumer loans outstanding of some $596.6 million.
- About 8,000 individual and institutional investor/owners.

Michigan National, working with two out-of-state banks and a computer software manufacturer, has developed a home banking service where its customers can write checks and manage their financial accounts from a personal computer at home.

The service became available here earlier this month exclusively for its customers, Michigan National officials said.

What's home banking all about?

Ostroff: We've given our customers the ability to bank with us from home with a personal computer. They can do just about everything except receive cash.

It tracks loan accounts, investments. You don't even have to make (check register) entries with this. It reconciles automatically.

Morin: What we have in addition is the ability to categorize. You know where you spend your money and know your net worth at any given time.

What's needed to get the service?

Ostroff: A personal computer with 386 or better processor, which is the speed of the machine. It needs Microsoft Windows 3.1. That comes with most computers now. You would need a modem and you would need a bank account with us. And, of course, Microsoft Money (software) version 3.0.

What does this cost the individual consumer?

Ostroff: We can order the software for $29.95. In addition, we provide a $20 rebate when they sign up for the service.

The Bank On-Line allows automatic reconciliation of up to 10 accounts, balance inquiries and electronic mail to the bank for $7.95 per month. Pay On-Line, where we make 20 payments per month is $9.95. The two together, which we would expect most people to get, is $14.95.

What did you have to do at your end from a technical standpoint to make this service possible?

Morin: There was programming done on our main frame. We make files available . . . customers' data. The customer dials in, the personal computer takes it and brings the data down.

Who is your prime target group? Who is most likely to use something like this?

Ostroff: There's a large segment of people who want to keep all their finances well organized.

Morin: A lot of people write the checks for the same amount every month. They have an ability to press a button and we'll send the checks for them.

Ostroff: There are people who don't like to reconcile a checkbook, but want to know how much money they have all the time.

To do a good job, we have to provide a delivery system that satisfies all kinds of customers.

How long will it be before your competitors offer a similar service?

Ostroff: Exclusivity (with Microsoft) is a provision of our contract. The agreement is long enough to give us an advantage.

Morin: The software business always has been innovative. I think they will start testing, but it will be a full year before they put a system in place.

Mr. Ebert, you joined Michigan National in December. How do you think the bank is perceived in the community?

Ebert: The most important constituent, of course, is our shareholders. That's why we're here. Shareholders fall into two categories.

People who bought our stock, will never sell and look at it for income. Over time, this group has done well with us and will continue to do so.

Another group who buys for capital appreciation is happy when the price goes up, unhappy when it goes down.

Then there's the customer group. Our market share of deposits has grown faster than all but one major bank in the state. We're 8 percent market share. In a market that's mostly stable, we're growing.

On the commercial side, business borrowers and government institutions, we probably have one of the strongest and loyal customer base of any financial institution.

Our third constituent is our employees. We have a quality of team members. I don't know how our turnover compares to other banks, but it's quite low. We want to keep it that way.

What do you see as your biggest challenge?

Ebert: How do we expand beyond our brick and mortar to allow people to transact business with us regardless of where they are . . . at the lowest cost?

Jim LeGray and his fiance, Roxanne Lee, plan to build a story and a half model on a back lot.

"We prefer the great room and master bedroom on the main floor and two bedrooms upstairs," LeGray said.

"I work for Chrysler and expect to be at the CTC in the near future," he said. "My girlfriend works in Flint. We were interested in Orion Township for that reason, plus she grew up there.

"The development is quite heavily wooded off Lapeer Road which moves pretty good," LeGray added. "We were looking for a walkout lot that backed up to Bald Mountain Recreation Area. We were looking for privacy."

David and Lynette Ormsby, with two children, will build a ranch in White Oak.

"We've looked around," David said. "We looked at what he (Rutkowski) built. He does pretty good work. That's what a lot of people do — look through plans then find a builder.

"We're moving up a little bit from the first new house we built. I'm in the country, but near the city, too," he said.

Kevin and Sabrina Morelli, also with two children, ordered a story-and-a-half from Cerqua with the master suite on the main floor and three bedrooms upstairs.

"It's our first new house," Sabrina said. "It's so wooded, a real country atmosphere. Yet, we have access to the highway to get where we have to get fairly quick. We fell in love with the lots in general."

The current property tax rate to provide school, township and county services in the subdivision is $54.54 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owner of a $179,000 house in White Oak would pay about $4,881 annually now in taxes.

However, that will change when voters decide a new school financing plan.

Rutkowski's sales trailer at White Oak (call 810-814-0375) is open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursday. Cerqua's sales trailer (810-693-4004) is open 2-7 p.m. weekdays, noon to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, closed Thursday.

International builders show tickets now on sale

The second annual Spring Home and Garden Show proved to be the perfect warmup for the upcoming 76th annual International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show, March 19-27 at Detroit's Cobo Conference-Exhibition Center.

"The huge crowds at the spring show indicate the popularity of this type of event," said Robert Jones, president of the non-profit Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and Robert Jones Associates in West Bloomfield.

"The spring show ran Feb. 3-6 at the Novi Expo Center, with rave reviews from show-goers who are looking forward to the 'granddaddy' of all home and garden shows: the Cobo Builders show."

The Cobo show is the largest show of its kind in the Midwest.

BASM is the event sponsor.

Builders show hours will be 2-10 p.m. Monday-Friday, noon to 10 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays. Admission is $5.75 for adults, $5.50 for children age 6-12 and seniors, and free for children under 6. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack/A&P for $8.

Discount admission coupons were mailed to homeowners in their Detroit Edison bills. Free admission coupons for Monday, March 21, are available at all Builders Square stores. For more information, call 810-737-4478.

More than 400 exhibitors will span 500,000 square feet of display space showing the latest technology, products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, yards and gardens, remodeling, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, appliances, heating and cooling.

Special highlights at the show will include the Riverwalk Gardens created by the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association, PBS-TV's "Victory Garden" guest host Gary Koller March 19-20, Discovery Channel's Ms. Fix-It Beverly DeJulio March 24-27, Parade of Homes featuring new homes and a free plan book, expert demonstrations on gardening, decorating and remodeling, entertainment such as dancers, musical groups and singers, House of Nails and Treasure Chest contests and a Chevy truck giveaway.

BASM is also sponsor of the second annual Fall Remodeling Show at the Novi Expo Center.

Videoconferencing offered

The Kinko's stores in Southfield and Ann Arbor now offer videoconferencing services.

The system offers customers high-quality, face-to-face communications technology. Business people can use it to open a video link with other Kinko's stores or with videoconferencing facilities worldwide.

The system will make it possible for executives to communicate with colleagues on the road or at home and for families to reunite for the holidays.

Kinko's and Sprint announced an agreement in September to offer the largest public retail videoconferencing network ever in the U.S.

It plans to have the network, featuring PicturTel videoconferencing equipment, installed in 100 stores by April. Many of the company's 650 stores eventually will be linked. Sprint will provide the phone lines for the videoconferencing and data network.

Videoconferencing rates, including use of conference rooms and other amenities, are $150 per hour at each end. But once the system becomes operational, Kinko's will feature a special introductory price of $20 per half hour at all 100 locations for the first 30 days.

In addition to videoconferencing links between participating Kinko's stores, Sprint's video network will allow Kinko's customers to communicate with 3,000 other public and private rooms in 38 countries through Sprint's Meeting Manager 800-number reservations system.

The new electronic capabilities will complement Kinko's desktop publishing, photocopying, finishing and computer rental services.
