School chief search draws flak

The interviews with six candidates seeking to be school superintendent came to a close Saturday. However, members of a committee involved in the search are critical of the easy questions asked the candidates.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

While folks on the superintendent search committee generally are pleased with the quality of applicants for the job of retiring Dr. John Hoben, a few have offered constructive criticism of the way in which the search is being conducted.

Former U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, a member of the search committee, said as superintendent of one of the top 10 districts in Michigan, the Plymouth-Canton superintendent carries considerable clout and should be a person prepared to assume a strong leadership role.

It concerns Pursell that a consultant narrowed the field from 67 to seven, with no input from the district.

"I was critical of the fact they've hired a contractor to eliminate everyone but seven applicants. There are other people we don't have a chance to look at, and I have a little problem with that."

Pursell said he also questioned why no females were chosen to be interviewed, when nine applied. "I'm depending on an outside contractor from Illinois to say they're not qualified. There was no one from inside, either.

"Someone on the board or the selection committee should look at all applicants," Pursell said.

Chamber awards recognize contributions

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

For the first time, the Canton Chamber of Commerce will combine the annual Small Business Person of the Year and the Athena Award at a special awards dinner in May.

Nominations for both awards may be made until April 18. The awards dinner and EXPO is scheduled for May 12 at Fellows Creek Golf Club. The EXPO and cash bar will begin at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Reservations must be made by May 5 by calling the chamber at 453-4040.

The Small Business Person of the Year award is given to someone who owns or manages a business in Canton or who does business in the township. The nominee must be involved in community service, economic development, general interest of the community, and must have a history of staying power, innovation and response to adversity, said Linda Shapona, chamber executive director.

In 1993, Hazen Hiller of Master Lighting received the award. Bob Carrigan of Alphagraphics is coordinating the awards event.

The Athena Award is given to a business owner/professional — male or female — who demonstrates support and assistance to professional women. Recipients must demonstrate excellence in business or a profession; provide a valuable service to the community; and exhibit initiative and creativity, which enhances the efficiency of their business or profession and contributes to the stability and improvement of the community.

Pilots air concerns about airport manager

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Pilots at Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport have a lot of questions about the new manager.

"I kind of resent the fact that you have a guy coming in here that doesn't have airplanes," a pilot told the airport's advisory board Thursday.

Pilots reacted to the state Aeronautics Commission's recent decision to contract with Douglas Kitzie of Kitzie Aviation to serve as airport manager and fixed base operator, which allows him to provide services, such as fuel sales.

The decision means that Dan Malone of Emerald Aviation, who is the current FBO, is out. Malone was among the eight who submitted proposals for the position.

It appears Kitzie won't begin May 1 as originally expected. State officials are working on a four-year agreement with four-year renewable options over 20 years.

Pilots demanded to know how much state staff investigated Kitzie, who was not at Thursday's meeting. They also wanted to know what will happen to flight students who are now taking lessons from Malone's Emerald Aviation.

Composting begins

Canton's annual composting program begins today. But residents may no longer use plastic bags for grass clippings, brush, pruning and wood debris.

Residents can designate a container with two handles, no larger than 65 pounds, for composting. Or they may buy Kraft Yard Waste Bags. The bags are available at: ACO Hardware, 43335 Joy Road; Arbor Drugs, 43301 Joy Road; Builders Square, 42000 Ford Road; Farmer Jack, 43403 Joy Road; Kmart, 44444 Ford Road; Mans Do-It Center, 41900 Ford Road; Meijer, 45001 Ford Road; Richardson's Super Drugs, 42433 Ford Road.

Residents who don't want Canton Waste Recycling to pick up compostables may fill their usual plastic bags, drive to the center on Van Born Road and empty their bags into designated trucks on Clean Up weekends — the second and fourth Saturdays of each month.

The compostables will be taken to a BFI site. Later in the summer when the material becomes compost, residents may pick it up free of charge.

Residents who have questions about composting may call CWR, 397-5801.

Women's forum

The Canton Women's Forum will host "When it comes to your heart, use your head," at 7 p.m. Wednesday, April 20, in Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

The program about warning signs on heart attack is presented in conjunction with the Michigan Heart & Vascular Institute and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. The public is invited.

Task force targets gang activity

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Yes. Gang activity is occurring in Canton Township.

"What we are seeing now is not the violence the big urban city would see. We are seeing intimidation," said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer. "We're not seeing shootings yet."

Colling and Brenda Plecha, family life education manager for Family Service Detroit-Wayne County, presented the ins and outs of gang activity in Canton for Canton Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday.

Businesses have been the target of gang graffiti symbols sprayed on buildings and other property. Subdivisions and their parks also have been targeted.

"Gangs advertise like businesses," Plecha said, adding they need to create the perception of power and influence. "How much would a billboard cost you for six weeks? They are getting it for free. Your goal as a business is to be fired as a billboard company by the gangs."

Colling urged business leaders to call police when they find gang graffiti on their property and then remove it immediately. "When you leave those messages up you send a message that you don't care," said Plecha, a member of the Canton-Plymouth Gang Task Force.

Gang activity in Canton involves children, boys and girls, as young as 12. "We are seeing it here in our middle schools," said Colling, also a member of the Canton-Plymouth Gang Task Force.

■ Officer Tammie Colling and Brenda Plecha, family life education manager for Family Service Detroit-Wayne County, presented the ins and outs of gang activity in Canton for Canton Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday. Businesses have been the target of gang graffiti symbols sprayed on buildings and other property. Subdivisions and their parks also have been targeted.

The gangs, which provide acceptance, rules and protection, are actively recruiting in the area. "They recruit them with these big print promises and fine print conditions," Plecha said. The fine print includes consequences, usually violence, for breaking gang rules.

Gangs are business organizations, which trade in guns and drugs. The graffiti is used to establish a turf and to intimidate. That's a reason why Canton recently prohibited the use of spray paint and beepers by minors. Graffiti is also illegal.

"To be in a gang is not criminal. To intimidate; to destroy your property is criminal," Colling said.

The police department has developed a form which is used when businesses are plagued with graffiti, vandalism or trespassing. Police will give culprits a warning. The next time they will be arrested. "We can then take action when you are not there," Colling said.

About 1½ years ago, Canton police were introduced to gang activity. "We immediately assumed it was a devil-worship type thing," Colling said. "We realized right away we didn't know how to read it."

In need of education, Canton police immediately contacted other communities, including Detroit, as well as the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, all of which have gang task forces.

"We recognized we needed to involve more than the Canton Police Department," Colling said. The task force includes area police, Plymouth-Canton schools and social service agencies.

A number of symbols — for example, a tepee or pitchfork — are used by gangs in their graffiti showing their particular gang family. "Gang members dress in a certain fashion. Gang members talk and walk in a certain fashion," Colling said. "We encourage you to call us so we can identify these kids."

Finalists to get OK

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Three finalists for the job of Plymouth-Canton school superintendent will be identified at tonight's Board of Education meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

The finalists will be interviewed at dinner meetings set for Monday, April 18, Wednesday, April 20, and tentatively, Monday, April 25. Preceding each of the meetings will be public receptions from 4-5:30 p.m. at the board office. Refreshments will be served.

The new superintendent will be chosen by May 16.

Dr. John Hoben, 71, is retiring June 30 after serving as superintendent for 23 years.

Interviewed last week for the job — which now pays $116,000 — were superintendents Gene Denisar of North Kansas City; Louis Giannunzio of Marshall; Gary Hughes of Durand, Mich.; Ronald Jandura of St. Cloud, Minn.; Charles Little of Hamburg, N.Y.; and Robert Monson of Westwood, Mass.

Reginald Nolin of Duluth, Minn., withdrew from consideration, citing family and personal reasons. "He said he felt it was going to be very difficult for him to leave that district," said trustee David Artley. "If we can find someone with that kind of dedication, I will feel very good about it."

Artley noted that the district will have "its first new superintendent in 23 years, and its first superintendent from outside the district in 27 years.

"It's going to be a major change for everyone involved. We have to make sure we pick the best possible candidate to facilitate that change with teachers, administrators, parents, kids and the community. We will have to live with the result for good or bad," he said.

Trustee Jack Farrow said the board is taking care to recognize that "some people are better at interviewing than others. It may not have anything to do with their ability to do the job."

Superintendent candidates have variety of skills

S. Gene Denisar

S. Gene Denisar

S. Gene Denisar is superintendent of North Kansas City schools, Missouri's sixth-largest district with 16,000 students. Denisar earned a doctorate in education from Indiana University and has served as a superintendent in three states. He earns $96,938.

Denisar told the board and superintendent search committee that his enthusiasm is sky high since his district passed a millage by a big margin last week. "I m on a roll," he said.

■ On communication: "I always try to communicate with my board as much as possible" verbally and in writing. "I'm a take-charge person, and always consult with my board president and board members. I meet monthly with our education association president.

"I also communicate with the press and the public, and utilize bulletin boards and a 24-hour information line. Communication is the name of the game."

Denisar's "Education Exclusive" newspaper is sent to 50,000 households. Employees also receive a newsletter from the superintendent, and everyone is involved in the budget process, he said.

■ On planning: Denisar said that after a 1990 audit, the district reviewed its approach to strategic planning. "We focused on three important questions: What do we want young people to know? What do we want them to be able to do? What do we want them to become in the future?"

The district added a seventh hour to the high school day to give "kids the opportunity to take additional courses. We also increased graduation requirements from 22 to 25." A community service/outreach class added to the curriculum received national attention.

■ Denisar said his district's theme is "It takes the whole community to educate a child."

■ On bargaining: "We've never had a strike, but we have had adversarial relationships," said Denisar, adding that the district now engages in collaborative negotiating with its employees. "Negative feelings affect our ability to pass levies at a time of limited resources. We have to focus on needs and problems and work them out, rather than fight."

Gary Hughes

Gary Hughes

Dr. Gary Hughes serves as superintendent of Durand Area Schools, a district between Flint and Lansing with 2,600 students and declining enrollment. He's worked as an educational consultant in New York and has taught counseling at Columbia University.

Hughes says school funding is just one component of reform soon to face Michigan school boards.

"There are 50-70 changes (accompanying Proposal A funding changes) that will keep their hands full," he said.

Hughes said he sees the "position of superintendent really changing; it's going much more toward PR and visibility than it ever has." He said Durand enjoys "an excellent relationship with its legislators," with whom he meets monthly.

■ On communication: "I take time to communicate one-on-one with my board and our working relationship is strong, which is one reason I hesitate to seek positions.

"Communication is trust; not just telling people what's going on. You have to take time to answer questions. Communication comes with visibility. It's crucial that the superintendent is visible."

■ On planning and decision-making: "We believe the best decisions are made at the lowest level. Our best feedback is from kids.

"When we made budget cuts, we didn't pare across the board. We went through each program and prioritized." Freshman sports and band were cut to free up funds for an elementary reading program. A pilot for the county, "Reading Recovery" tries to bring the lowest 20 percent of students up to satisfactory levels. "Our lowest level is now up to average or superior," said Hughes. "In education, we've been guilty of earmarking kids for failure.

"Leadership is a very important component of long-term planning. And leadership is different than management. Leadership doesn't have to be dictatorial. It can be collaborative."

■ On bargaining: "It's like marriage. You have your setbacks, but if you work together, you can find solutions. We've used contract maintenance, a formal tool that's worked for us. In hiring, we've included representation from all unions. We've built an effective communication tool."

Charles Little

Charles Little

Dr. Charles Little heads up Frontier Central Schools, a district in suburban Buffalo, N.Y., with 5,050 students. He has a doctorate in education from Indiana University and earns $92,500.

Many private schools service Buffalo, "so there's lots of competition," said Little. "We have one of the worst staff-pupil ratios at 16-1.

"We've always had tax rate increases since I've been superintendent," he added.

■ On communication: "Strong relationships are essential. If you're superintendent, you're always at work; that's communication. Every Friday, I send out a bulletin to board members. It's delivered by courier to their homes. It's important that a sense of trust be developed."

Little regularly attends PTA council meetings and meets with parochial school parents. "The public is a group of consumers. If we don't treat them as customers, we're going to go out of business."

"Sometimes I think I'm the Reggie Jackson of Frontier. I'm the stick," he said."I've become more of a marketer and a listener. I used to be more nuts and bolts."

■ On bargaining: "I thought there can't be any place more unionized than Erie County, but I think Michigan is. You need to be issue-oriented and jointly solve problems. You can't be confrontational. I've learned that the hard way. One has only to look at the closed Bethlehem steel plant, which employed 23,000, "to see an example of poor labor/management relations," he said.

■ On planning: "The best decisions are made if all stake-holders are involved. Slow and steady wins the race. Schools have been undone by plans that were never finished."

■ On instruction: "I want to see people doing things cooperatively and kids working together to solve problems with technology applied in class."

■ On staff development: "If you want student outcomes, you have to be sure teachers are trained in that direction." For it to be done properly, you have to spend money."

■ On Plymouth-Canton: "I didn't notice any women among the people in the superintendent's cabinet" and very few in leadership positions. "In a district this size, that's a glaring imbalance."

Louis Giannunzio

Louis Giannunzio

Dr. Louis Giannunzio is superintendent of the 2,500-student Marshall school district in Michigan. He is paid $79,240 and received his Ph.D. in education from Michigan State University.

Here is a sampling of Giannunzio's answers:

■ On ensuring relevance of education into the next century: "You have to anticipate. To a great degree you're guessing." He said schools should work on teaching "skills that apply to many fields," and added that teaching students how to relate to other people is an important skill.

■ On his best accomplishment: He said that in the mid-1980s when a report came out that was critical of education he formed a committee in the Marshall schools to look at making improvements. The committee came up with a list and the public approved a 2.5-mill tax increase to make those improvements.

■ On communication skills: "Some people are better talkers than listeners," he said, adding that he made a point of listening to people in the community. He also said the public only wants to be informed when it's expected to make a decision. "You have to reach out." He said he has written columns for the local newspaper as a way to do that.

■ Resolving issues with bargaining units: "I try to resolve things on an informal level." He said he has been involved in contract negotiations and added that "things do get worked out at that level."

■ Educational priorities: "I'd rather put things in the budget for kids than buy buses. Our job is to always put instruction first."

■ Reason for applying: "Plymouth-Canton has a good reputation. It's a bigger challenge than Marshall. My children are out of high school and I'm ready to move anywhere."

■ Dealing with the school board: "I meet with my board once a month and communicate with them and keep them informed." He said it's "critical to keep board members informed and stay in phone contact with them."

Ronald Jandura

Ronald Jandura

Ronald Jandura is superintendent of the 13,500 student St. Cloud, Minn., school system. He holds a Ph.D. from the University of Alabama and earns $91,000.

During questioning by the school board, he gave the following answers:

■ On dealing with a school board: "Right now it's a stormy relationship. Their object is a new superintendent. However, things are still professional." He said he deals with the board by making himself available and holds a meeting to develop an agenda for school board meetings. "It's an open meeting. And I'm comfortable with it. Minnesota has an open meeting act that says if there are more than one school board member present, it's an open meeting."

■ On staff development: "We have programs to help good teachers become better." He said the district sets goals for professional development, but added that district school councils are also involved.

■ On communication: "I don't have a magic answer. What a school staff member says over the back fence about the district is probably more effective than what the superintendent says." He said the St. Cloud district is decentralized, with each school "creating its own informational zone." He added that he returns the telephone calls from parents before those of others. Also, he said he would try to use cable television to air school board meetings.

■ On keeping education relevant: "We have to teach that learning is a life-long process," but added that he checks with local business people to determine what job skills are needed. "We have a program with the chamber of commerce for that. It's our link to the business community."

■ On his accomplishments: He said the St. Cloud district has the lowest administration costs in Minnesota. "We accomplished that by having each school have an advocate for each program. That way they don't have somebody from downtown telling them what to do. It gives the school ownership." He said each school has it's own budget and that principals are involved in the budget process.

Robert Monson

Robert Monson

Robert Monson is the superintendent of the 2,000 student Westwood, Mass., school district. He received a Ph.D. from St. Louis University and earns $95,600.

■ On interacting with a school board: "We hold retreats where we try to establish good, solid relationships." He said board members should have access to the school.

■ Short- and long-term planning: "Each situation is different. Each school system has a history and a culture. What works in one doesn't work in another." He said the Westwood school district decided it needed to change and he did it by visiting classrooms and listening to what people had to say. He said he changed the district by involving parents and school staff members in making decisions. "We had told parents to drop the kids off at the school door and that was it. We've changed that."

■ Keeping track of goals: "You have to monitor and set targets for ourselves. Also, you need to get reaction from the community."

■ On challenges facing schools: "It's been a question of reordering our priorities." He said the most important mission of schools is "to help kids learn how to solve problems and act morally."

■ Educational goals: "If we've taught them to solve problems and help mankind, and we've assured that the kids are doing that, we've done a good job."

■ Making education relevant: "Ask the kids. They are the consumers. There should be a place in education for the kids. They have opinions that should be tapped." He also said that high expectations should be set. "Too often we've set the ceiling too low." He said the faculty should be involved in determining what a high school diploma should mean. "We also need to ask the community to see what's relevant."

■ On communication: "You have to listen to people, but not just what the loudest shouters are saying." He said the school district doesn't have a public relations department. "It's not politically correct." He said there are newsletters' edited by parents. Also, he said it's important to communicate with the 78 percent of the people in the school district who don't have children in the schools.

"Consultants can make mistakes. A lot of candidates may be outstanding, and we will never see or hear from them. Maybe these are the best seven, but someone on the board should at least take a look."

Pursell said he took the time to get involved because of the job's importance. The new superintendent will have the opportunity to interact with legislators, college administrators and state leaders. If the right person is hired "we ought to have a voice in the future of education in this state," Pursell said.

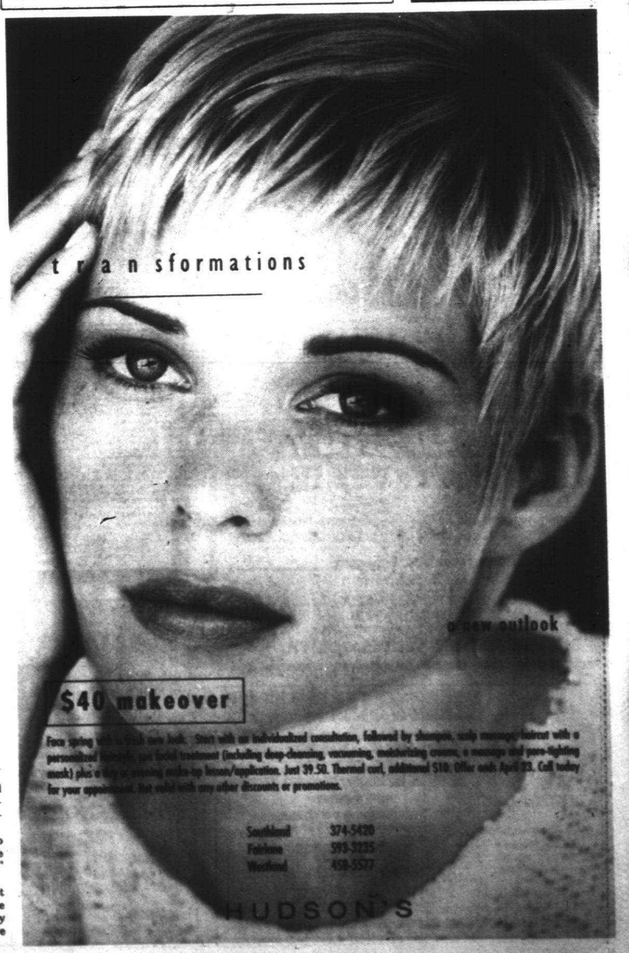
Others on the committee suggested that the board ask tougher questions and seek more detailed answers.

"These questions don't go to the heart of issues the superintendent is going to address," said one committee member. "They didn't draw them out."

School board president Roland Thomas said more detailed questions will be asked of the three finalists.

The final interviews will be up to three hours long and may be "very grueling and demanding," said trustee Dave Artley.

Teachers union president Chuck Portelli said he'd like the board to ask candidates how they maintain relationships and solve problems with staff.



Man arrested on rape charge

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

After watching a news broadcast, an employee at Canton's Ramada Inn tipped off police Thursday evening that a man accused of raping his ex-girlfriend was at the motel with the woman.

The Western Wayne Special Operations Team — which includes Canton, Plymouth and Plymouth Township police — prepared for possible scenarios and took positions at the motel, on Michigan Avenue at I-275.

"He — she was with him — left the room voluntarily. SOT (special operations team) was in position at either end of the balcony," said Canton Capt. Laura Golles. "From what I understand, he totally froze."

Police took David James Wilkie, 25, of Dearborn Heights, into custody without a struggle. The Canton Fire Department transported Nicole Michelle Beaudrie, 22, also of Dearborn Heights, to St. Joseph Hospital, Ypsilanti. She told police she had been raped. She also had facial bruises, according to police.

Police found a .38-caliber revolver on Wilkie when he was taken into custody. After he arrived at the Canton Police Department, Wilkie asked for medical help for chest pains, which he claimed he had since April 6. He was transported to Oakwood Hospital and later released back to police.

The apprehension ended a more than daylong ordeal for Beaudrie, who was abducted Wednesday, April 6, after Wilkie's preliminary court examination on charges of breaking and entering, armed robbery and two counts of sexual assault in connection with an earlier incident.

After Wilkie posted a $50,000 bond, he reportedly took a 1994 gray Aerostar and handgun from his mother's house and then abducted Beaudrie. Wilkie was seen at his mother's cabin in Milford at about noon Thursday. Beaudrie was not seen with Wilkie at that time, said Canton police community relations officer Tammie Colling.

Wilkie and Beaudrie reportedly checked into the Canton motel at 1:30 p.m. Police moved in when the pair left the room for an unknown reason at 9:45 p.m, Colling said.

"We aren't doing any of the prosecution," Golles said. Dearborn Heights police were expected to pick up Wilkie from Canton Friday morning. Wilkie is expected to be arraigned Saturday in 20th District Court, Dearborn, on new charges filed by Dearborn Heights police.

"We are considering this an assist to another department," Golles said. "We had evidence technicians and detectives there searching and gathering evidence."

Fund-raiser helps woman

By Sue Buck
Staff Writer

Employees at the Meijer store in Canton will serve up fun with a charitable effort to help pay medical bills for a young woman stricken with cancer.

A fund-raiser is scheduled for 6-10 p.m. Wednesday, April 13, at Hoben Elementary in Canton. The public is invited. A $1 donation is requested.

Gale Peters, 20, an Inkster resident, was in her first year of nursing school last year at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., when she was stricken with severe stomach pains.

After many tests, doctors finally diagnosed Peters' illness as choriocarcinoma, a rare cancer that strikes 1 in 40,000 women. The cancer affects the liver, lungs and kidneys. Part of the earlier problems in diagnosis stem from the fact that its conditions mimic pregnancy.

Peters has now moved back to Canton and is being treated at Hutzel Hospital in Detroit.

Sherray Peters, Gale's mother, has taken a leave from her Meijer job to care for her daughter.

"Gale had a complete physical before she went to college," Sherray said in frustration. "There's just no reason."

Now Gale is fighting the ravages of chemotherapy and has suffered severe chills that brought on convulsions.

Event organizers include Patty Sowels of Canton, an in-store trainer, and Wayne residents Rose Kaifish and Dan Gauley. Store director Jeff Ham is also involved, along with Union 951 and store employees from the Westland and Belleville Meijer stores.

Some 22 store managers will be "auctioned" off at 8:30 p.m. Willing store managers will go to the highest-bidding employee. That manager will then work side by side with that employee for a day, sharing the employee's workload, Ham said.

"This has created a lot of excitement in the store," Ham said.

Volleyball games, a bake sale and craft games will also be featured.

"We're looking for people to assist this family," said Barbara Graham, a Plymouth-Canton school board member. "We have to take care of our own people."

Not everyone has medical insurance, Graham said.

Roadway gets natural beauty designation

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

At long last, northwest Canton homeowners can breathe a sigh of relief for a job well done.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara signed an executive order Friday designating 3.25 miles in western Canton as natural beauty roads — a first in Wayne County.

"I'm pleased," said Mike Olin, Northwest Canton Homeowners Association president. "I don't know what else to say. I could go on for hours about it."

As Wayne County officials put it: "Canton Township residents had the vision. Wayne County made it a reality."

Homeowners, including some in Plymouth Township, have worked for more than a year gathering evidence to make a case for the special designation, available under state law.

The homeowners may place their notebooks of evidence and the process they followed in area libraries for other residents to use, Olin said.

The designation, which is common in Oakland County, recognizes the area's outstanding natural features, including native vegetation, topography and wildlife. The designation cannot prevent further development in the area, but can prevent widening and other infrastructure work.

Designated as natural beauty roads are: Napier Road, from Ann Arbor Road south to Warren; Joy from Ann Arbor Road to Ridge; Ridge from Joy toward Warren; and Gyde going east from Ridge.

Olin admitted he wasn't totally surprised with McNamara's executive order. Homeowners presented their case, including hundreds of petition signatures, to a supportive McNamara late last year.

"This might never have happened if it were not for the commitment of these local residents," McNamara said. "They were very persistent, but also very cooperative and patient as we studied the possibilities."

At a March public hearing, the only opposition was from Detroit Edison, which expressed concern about line maintenance.

County staffers are expected to post 25 mph speed limits on the gravel roads, which now have a 55 mph limit. Signs showing the special designation will be erected.

A portion of Joy Road would lose its primary road status, which means the county would receive less money from the state for its maintenance. Under a local road status, the road would receive less maintenance that would a primary road.

Olin said homeowners are considering a block party when designation signs are erected to celebrate their success. "A lot of hard work went into this," he said.

In 1993, Janet Volante of First of America Bank received the award.

In addition to the awards ceremony, the chamber is also sponsoring a Small Business EXPO that night beginning at 5:30 p.m. Dinner will follow at 7 p.m.

When the airport board asked Malone about his students, he responded: "Well, I'd rather not get into that. That's an ongoing business." He said he is uncertain whether classes will continue. "Otherwise, there's only one answer: It's over."

Malone tried to question Randy Coller, state Bureau of Aeronautics licensing and enforcement manager, and advisory board member John Vergonna, who served on the FBO selection panel, about the selection process. "It's come to using the FBO, sacrificing a private business for the state to get management for nothing," Malone said.

He told pilots at the meeting that bids for managing the airport ranged from $82,000 up to $145,000, plus Kitzie's for $1. "Kitzie bid $1 for management and $1 for the premises," Malone said.

"You had a viable, active business here that survived during the recession and difficult political times," Malone continued, faulting the state for putting him out of business. "It doesn't take much to take that (state) boot and step on me."

Pilots questioned the type of business Kitzie now has at Oakland-Pontiac Airport. He operates a maintenance business and is former FBO of National Airport in Canton, which no longer exists.

"Down the line, we've got to start supporting the FBO," said pilot Bill Brown. "It's up to us to support him if he's a legitimate businessman and knows what he's doing."

Pilots were surprised to learn that a plan has yet to be worked out for fuel sales between the time Malone's business is finished and Kitzie comes in with a new contract.

"I don't think anyone was in a position to know that we would be without fuel for 30 days," said pilot Doug Schumard, past president of an experimental aircraft group.

Coller said he's not sure that pilots will be without fuel. But he defended the state's decision. "We didn't pick him (Kitzie) if we didn't think he would succeed."

S'craft plans sewing seminar

Schoolcraft College's 13th annual Sewing Seminar will take place 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 30, in the Liberal Arts Building on the Livonia campus.

Fee is $57. Call 462-4448.

The keynote speaker will be Peg Treacy, an award-winning corporate image consultant and president of Churchill Associates. She will discuss why perception is more influential than reality, i.e. the way others see you is the way they believe you are. Participants will see how clothing styles and colors ultimately influence the "personal package" they present. Treacy's corporate clients include General Motors, McDonald's, Ameritech and First Federal of Michigan.

The seminar comprises 44 workshops, including making bridal gowns, beading, working with luxury fabric, heirloom sewing, serger techniques, couture trims, leather and suede, flat pattern design and duplicate stitch embellishment.

In addition, participants will learn about new fabric enhancements, how color is imperative to the final product, tips on the right style for your body shape, new time-saving techniques, home accessories and what it takes to start your own sewing business.

Sewing books recommended by the seminar's teachers will be available for purchase, and creative displays featuring the latest in sewing technology will be presented.

Beard visits White House

Wayne County Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and Father William Cunningham of Focus:HOPE were at the White House last month when President Bill Clinton unveiled his proposed Reemployment Act.

As the chair of the National Association of Counties' Employment Steering Committee, Beard has met with Clinton and Labor Secretary Robert Reich several times to talk about employment issues.

The Reemployment Act would provide dislocated workers up to two years of training and income payments on a first-come, first-served basis.

Assistance would be available to workers who leave jobs for whatever reason. The legislation regarding the act is currently awaiting action in committee.

The National Association of Counties has some problems with the Reemployment Act legislation, but Beard said in a press release that she thinks the problems can be worked out.

As a Wayne County commissioner, Beard also represents Garden City and Inkster. She has been a member of the commission since 1978.

Introduces: Wayne County Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, had the opportunity recently to introduce Secretary of Labor Robert Reich at a National Association of Counties luncheon in Washington, D.C.

Students sponsor bone marrow drive

For many individuals with fatal blood diseases, such as leukemia and aplastic anemia, receiving a bone marrow transplant can make a difference between life and death.

So Wayne County Community College nursing students are sponsoring a bone marrow drive through the American Red Cross 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, April 14, at the WCCC Northwest Campus, 8551 Greenfield in Detroit.

Volunteers must be 18-55 years of age, be willing to donate two tablespoons of blood and consent to be entered on a national registry, where donors' lab results are stored. For more information, call 782-9347.

Ex commerce secretary backs Schall

Barbara Franklin, former Secretary of Commerce under President George Bush, has endorsed Republican John Schall, who is running for the 13th Congressional District seat currently held by Democrat William Ford, who is retiring.

Franklin will be the featured speaker at a luncheon at the Detroit Athletic Club at noon Tuesday, April 12.

Franklin was the Secretary of Commerce for almost a year in 1992 and a small part of 1993. She currently sits on the boards directors for Aetna Life & Casualty and Dow Chemical.

Schall of Ann Arbor was a White House domestic policy adviser from 1989 to 1991 and chief of staff of the Department of Labor from 1991 to 1993.

The 13th district includes the following Observer communities: Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia.

The other announced candidates for the seat are Democrats David Geiss of Wayne, Fulton Eaglin of Ann Arbor and Libertarian Craig Seymour of Westland.

Fashion show features prom dresses

Madonna University merchandising management students present "Prom '94 Extravaganza," a fashion show 1-5 p.m. Saturday, April 16, at Laurel Park Place in Livonia.

Models will walk through the mall dressed in this year's prom fashions. Refreshments and prizes will be offered. For additional data, call Carla Cardellio at 773-3225.

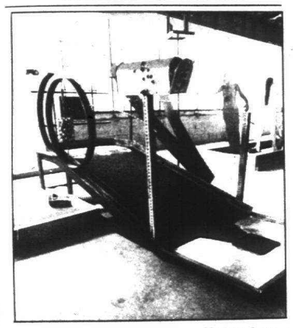
ART ON THE EDGE



MICHELLE STAMOS

Lofty aspirations: Sculptor Matthew Hanna of Redford Township swings at "A Few Pieces of Sky" in an uphill shot at the Detroit Artists Market's golfing classic.

Artists shoot for golf fans

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Golf or art, which is it? Both.

Whether you're looking for art or just a little fun, the Detroit Artists Market has the game for you. "Fore Art," an art installation/indoor miniature golf course, is the wildest set of holes ever played by amateurs or pros.

Imagine yourself putting through Detroit artist Toby Upton's Dodge van; beyond the satin pillows inside a harem tent between the stick-like legs of flamingos by Laurie Wade of Alpena; under the bridges of Royal Oak artists Catherine and Charles Peet's industrialized Lilliputian city complete with polluted skyscrapers and miniature bags of garbage, or into the Mad Hatter's oversized tea cups crafted by Cranbrook graduate student, Kiersten Armstrong.

Welcome to DAM's 18-hole art installation located a few doors down from the gallery at 300 Stroh River Place in Detroit. Art director Gerry Craig came up with the idea for the course designed by 22 Michigan artists after hearing about "GolfArt" an indoor miniature golf course/art installation in Chicago originated by Michael O'Brien, and a similar course in New York.

"It's the most fun way to experience culture in a long time," Craig said.

"Non-golfers and pros alike can compete on a level playing field. How many pros have putted through a van, or through a flock of flamingos, or around high-heel shoes speared with pencils?"

Try putting up the hill constructed by sculptor Matthew Hanna of Redford Township. If you make it up this steep incline you're sure to sink the ball in one of the three holes, right? Maybe not, Hanna said. At least he doesn't know of anyone who's sunk a ball — yet.

"Looking at it, it looks like an old piece of machinery. The conceptual drawing was a lot different," Hanna said.

As far as the rest of the holes of art, Hanna agrees, the Detroit area has never seen anything like it before.

"It's totally off the wall. With all the artists involved there's great interaction, and it's great for Detroit."

One of the guidelines artists had to follow when submitting proposals for individual holes was that the hole must challenge experienced players, but not frustrate novices and children. The designs enhance the concept of the hole and engage players as active participants in the game.

"There's nothing like this in miniature golf courses," said DAM board member Sergio De Giusti of Redford Township.

De Giusti, an Italian-born sculptor, created a medallion to commemorate the history-making artworks. It's for sale along with an array of other golf goodies in the Pro Shop at the back of the course. Leslie Stolaruk of Plymouth gives duffers a chance to display their passion with golf-theme puzzle pins to be worn on shirts, hats or whatever.

A puzzle on the course is Susan Logan and Gary Zych's 12th hole where a superhighway dividing the suburbs and slums provides a wry commentary.

"If the ball goes in the suburbs you can't get out," De Giusti said.

Artists were allocated $500 for materials to construct holes that would be playable with putters and ball. The ball starts from a tee mat on a level surface and ends up in a sunken regulation cup. Golfers play a traditional round of golf; elements of chance were to be kept to a minimum. Most importantly, the course is wheelchair accessible. Artists designed the holes so that a player is able to putt from a wheelchair.

The cost to play 18 holes is $5 for adults, $4 for students/seniors, and $3 for children younger than age 12. Proceeds benefit the Detroit Artists Market operating budget.

Founded in 1932 to promote contemporary art and provide a venue for Michigan artists to sell their work during the Great Depression, the Detroit Artists Market was originally named the

Bugs Beddow gets his Brigade

■ Playing in bands since the mid-1970s, Bugs Beddow hasn't had time to slow down. His shows prove that he and his band haven't lost any of their spunk either.

BY MARK GALLO
SPECIAL WRITER

Award-winning trombonist/flautist Bugs Beddow has been around the local music scene for a long time. That fact hit me recently when I recalled that I last wrote about him for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers in 1979, when he was in a pop dance band called Air Condo. The 1970 Groves High School graduate was sporting something akin to an afro back then, had just given up his job as a music teacher in the Leland Public School system near Traverse City, and had just completed recording with Mitch Ryder. He has even considered slowing down since.

He's a member of the Metro Times Monthly Detroit Jazz Hall of Fame ("If you're voted the best three years in a row, you're automatically in. All that means is a spot of notoriety or achievement,") had a credited cameo playing the trombone in the film "Hoffa," and he just released his fourth album "Goin' Blind."

He's worked with, or opened for everyone from B.B. King to Johnny Rivers, with stops along the way for Earl Klugh, Etta James, the Temptations, Urbie Green, Rahsaan Roland Kirk, Phyllis Hyman, Johnny worked with Sly & The Family Stone, Wild Cherry ("Play That Funky Music") and a slew of other R&B and funk bands; drummer Skeeto, who is also a member of Big Sugar, has worked extensively with Aretha Franklin; bassist Tony Suhy is a veteran of the Mitch Ryder band; and guitarist Bill Lymperis has worked with local legends Ortheia Barnes and Norma Jean Bell.

Asked to completed his list of inspirations, Beddow offers, a surprisingly wide assortment, from Joe Cocker, who he turns to for vocal inspiration, to trombonists Wayne Henderson (of the Crusaders), Raul DeSouza and Steve Turre. Flute heroes include jazz legends James Moody and Eric Dolphy, and Bonnie Raitt and Frank Zappa make the list, too. The man is as much of a music fan as he is a music player.

As the above lists make clear, Beddow is comfortable playing most kinds of music. Jazz was his first love, of course, but the paying dates got too few and far between to keep him happy. The R&B band was an instant hit. It's danceable, the songs are recognizable to most and the lines grow increasingly longer. The night I caught them, at Corradi's in Troy, they played everything from ZZ Top ("Cheap Sunglasses" with the band decked out in their Raybans) to Z.Z. Hill (guest drummer Terry Thunders' superb take on "Someone Else is Steppin' In") to the Average White Band (a perfect take on "Pick Up the Pieces") to the Electric Flag's "Killing Floor," for which Beddow introduced Thunders as Buddy Miles. He's got a playful sense of humor that never rests. His take on Cocker's "You Can Leave Your Hat On" was one of the hits of the evening, as was an obscurity called "Barkin' Up The Wrong Tree." At this point, the book is 90 percent covers, though Bugs sees that dropping down to 40 percent in the relatively near future.

Though "Goin' Blind" is only available in tape form, dubbed the bootleg and described by Beddow as "not a Triple A recording," in regard to the sound quality, (but "the music is good. We play well.") the CD release is imminent. Where past efforts, particularly the wonderful "Yuda Man," relied on his jazz licks, "Goin' Blind" is almost like the Beddow version of a Motown review in terms of sheer power and obvious enjoyment. From the "Peter Gunn" intro to "Take Me To The River" (sort of like the Al Green and Talking Heads versions combined) to their take on the Beatles' "Slow Down," it's a blast. Their versions of "Talk To Your Daughter" and "Pick Up the Pieces" are first rate. Although I'm not crazy about their rendition of ZZ Top's "Cheap Sunglasses," their slow and bluesy version of "Fool For Your Stockings" is impressive.

Bugs Beddow calls the Brigade the "Most working band in the city," and there's every reason to believe that's true after looking at their upcoming schedule: April 15-16 at Moby Dick's, 5452 Schaefer, Dearborn, (313) 581-3650; April 17 at Max & Erma's, 31205 Orchard Lake Road, Farmington Hills, (810) 855-0990; April 20-23 Stoyan's below Joey's Comedy Club, 36071 Plymouth Road, Livonia, (313) 261-0555; April 29-30 at Speakeasy Lounge, 31410 Ford Road, Garden City, (313) 425-7373. Beddow also performs every Tuesday at the Wagon Wheel, 2950 Rochester Road, Troy, (810) 689-8194; and pops in on Wednesdays at the Old Woodward Grill, 555 S. Woodward Ave., Birmingham, (810) 642-9400, to jam with his friends Johnny Evans and Martin Gross of the Howling Diablos.

■ STREET BEATS

Taylor, Albert Collins . . . the list goes on and on. In the mid-70s he worked with Woody Herman, Stan Kenton and Maynard Ferguson big bands and opened for Buddy Rich at P'Jazz. Last Halloween, his current band, dubbed the Brigade (they dropped the "Blues" prefix awhile ago), opened for Robert Cray with all five members dressed at Zorro.

The Brigade is the band that Beddow has been after all his life. When asked to name influences, the first name out of his mouth is the Tower of Power horns, and the Brigade have that funkified groove down cold, and for good reasons.

BILL HANSEN

Music-driven: Pantera fan Randall Fay gets an autograph on his cast from lead singer Philip Anselmo at an appearance at Harmony House in Sterling Heights.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

There was no doubt in the mind of Pantera drummer Vinnie Paul that his fans were driven to help the band succeed. If the hype surrounding the release of Pantera's third album "Far Beyond Driven" is any indication, he's right.

Nearly 3,000 manic fans showed up at Harmony House in Sterling Heights on March 24 for Pantera's in-store appearance in conjunction with the album's release. (Harmony House spokeswoman Sandy Bean said the turnout ranks up there with local appearances by Richard Marx, Ozzy Osbourne, and Barry Manilow.)

Lead singer Philip Anselmo, who is known for his aggressive pacing and animalistic growling on stage, seemed somewhat taken aback when a fan approached the band's table mimicing his stage persona. Others flashed tattoos in honor of Pantera, plopped their heavy metal-loving toddlers next to the band for photos, or asked band members to autograph a variety of body parts.

■ 'Everything's got to have a groove. Even people that don't really like this kind of music can groove and feel the music.'

Vinnie Paul
Pantera drummer

One fan was so nervous that he said "man" nine times within a 30-second period.

The 2½-hour autograph session was part of a week-long tour the self-proclaimed "Cowboys from Hell" made of about 20 record stores throughout the United States. As a result, "Far Beyond Driven" debuted at No. 1.

'Sirens' slowly sinks in its own silliness

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

Sirens, according to legend, perch upon craggy cliffs and beckon sailors toward them. As their ships sink after crashing upon the rocks, the seamen are lulled to a watery grave by the hypnotic women's song.

John Duigan, writer/director of the new movie "Sirens," hopes to cast a similar spell. Unfortunately, despite the best efforts of a willing cast and crew, his movie isn't clever or sly enough to draw us into the trap completely.

Hugh Grant and Tara Fitzgerald play an English reverend and his wife who visit the country home of a controversial Australian artist in the 1930s. His "Crucified Venus," depicting a voluptuous naked woman nailed to the cross, has London in an uproar, and it's up to the Rev. Tony Campion to talk him into withdrawing it from international exhibition.

They find in Norman Lindsay (Sam Neill) a playfully mocking and dedicated artist who intends to do nothing of the kind. He cites the various evils carried out in the name of organized religion — from witch burnings to the Spanish Inquisition — and doesn't see how his pictures are going to unravel the country's moral fabric.

During these philosophical arguments, the reverend's wife Estella finds herself first repulsed and then strangely attracted to Lindsay's trio of artist models. When they aren't posing or swimming naked, they're dressed in flamboyant costumes, eating suggestively and talking about little else but sex.

While Tony considers himself broad-minded and worldly, it's the prim Estella who is drawn to the rocks. The days are hot and sunny and the constant talk about the muscular, half-blind handy man (usually shown stripped to the waist, Harlequin-romance style) has her thinking. Her dreams grow so vivid that she's not sure at one point whether she's been unfaithful to Tony or not.

At it's best, "Sirens" is a playful summer romp for its talented cast. Likable Hugh Grant, still visible on area screens in "Remains of the Day" and "Four Weddings and a Funeral," may finally take his place as a bankable leading man. Likewise Sam Neill, practically a household name when you add up all the people who saw him in "The Piano" and "Jurassic Park."

Norman Lindsay, as it turns out, really was an Australian artist. He died in 1969 at the age of 90 after seven decades of infuriating the public with his satirical paintings, sketches, sculptures, and novels. The filmmakers actually shot at his 40-acre estate outside Sydney, another plus.

At its worst, "Sirens" is an inherently sexist romp filmed with the subtlety of a dirty slide show. Writer/director Duigan ("Flirting") keeps his tongue firmly in cheek, especially when it comes to overt use of sexual symbols. We can practically see him in a fit of adolescent snickering as another snake winds suggestively through the scenery.

"Sirens," nearing the end of a successful run at the Maple and elsewhere, proves once again that sex — or the promise of it — still sells. It's hard not to think of worthier movies that have fallen through the cracks.

■ DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, Detroit. Call 833-2323 for information. ($5)

"Raining Stones" (Britain - 1993). 7, 9:30 p.m. April 15- 16; 4, 7 p.m. April 17. From Ken Loach, the director of "Riff-Raff," comes this winning new comedy about an out-of-work plumber obsessed with buying an expensive first communion dress for his daughter.

■ MAGIC BAG THEATRE
22918 Woodward, Ferndale. Call 544- 3030 for information. ($4)

"Romeo is Bleeding" (USA - 1994). 8 p.m. Apr. 14. Gary Oldman is a hitman assigned to kill the beautiful Lena Olin, but she has other plans. This visceral, violent, and funny new film has been called this year's answer to "Reservoir Dogs."

■ MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main St. (at 11 Mile), Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday. Call 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students; $3 twilight matinee)

"Four Weddings and a Funeral" (Britain - 1994). From Mike Newell, the director of "Enchanted April," an engaging story about a confirmed bachelor who runs across the same woman at the numerous weddings he attends. Hugh Grant and Andie MacDowell star.

"The Hudsucker Proxy" (USA - 1994). The camera is the real star in this wacky account of a business graduate's rise from mail room to president's office in 1958. His invention, the hula hoop, becomes a Baby Boom phenomenon. Capra meets surrealism in this latest from Joel and Ethan Coen ("Raising Arizona" and "Barton Fink"), co-scripted by former Detroiter Sam Raimi.

"Schindler's List" (USA - 1993). Steven Spielberg swept the Oscars with this story of Oskar Schindler (Liam Neeson), a war profiteer and Nazi crony who saved the lives of over 1,000 Jews during the Holocaust.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple Road, Bloomfield. Films play through at least Thursday. Call 855-9090 for information. ($5.75; $3.95 matinee; $2.95 twilight)

"Belle Epoque" (Spain - 1992). In this year's Oscar winner for best foreign film, a young army deserter tests the limits of his friend's liberal philosophy by pursuing each of the old man's beautiful daughters.

"Sirens" (Britain - 1994). John Duigan ("Flirting") directs this story of a young Englishwoman's sexual awakening when she visits the eccentric and bohemian household of a controversial painter. Sam Neill, Tara Fitzgerald, and Hugh Grant star.

"Four Weddings and a Funeral." See Main Art Theatre listing above.

"One Nation Under God" (USA - 1993). 7 p.m. Apr. 17. A funny and also horrifying documentary account of the religious right's quest to "cure" homosexuality. Sponsored by the Ladies Film Society. (Admission $8 this film only).

■ RABBLES COFFEEHOUSE
22010 Harper Avenue, St. Clair Shores. Call 779-0707 for information. (Free)

"Hangover Square" (USA - 1945). 9 p.m. Apr. 11. Llaird Cregar in his greatest role as a crazed composer who goes on a killing spree whenever he hears a loud noise. This atmospheric thriller, part of Rabble's Obscure Film Series; also boasts a stirring Bernard Herrmann score.

■ REDFORD THEATRE
17360 Lahser, Detroit. Call 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"The Music Man" (USA - 1962). 8 p.m. Apr. 15; 2, 8 p.m. Apr. 16 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtime). Robert Preston reprises his Broadway performance as Professor Henry Hill, a con-man who persuades a small town to start a boys' band. Shirley Jones and Ronny Howard co-star.

■ STATE THEATRE
2115 Woodward, Detroit. Call 961-5450. ($1)

"Jurassic Park" (USA - 1993). 9 p.m. April 11. T-Rex roams the big screen in this encore performance of Spielberg's blockbuster dino-saga.

Young Artists Market. Exhibitors had to be Detroit artists younger than age 30. Many of the Cass Corridor artists, who became internationally recognized, exhibited at the Market in the 1970s. Today the progressive non-profit gallery spotlights emerging and established Michigan artists of all ages.

The art installation/golf course is available for rental by private parties, non-profit organizations and corporations.

"Everyone can see the exhibition for free," Craig said. "There's a fee to play but they'll be contributing to the arts while they're having fun."

Hours are 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday with the last tee off at 5 p.m. "Fore Art" continues until May 1, however, Craig said that an extended run is possible due to the positive response from the community. For more information, call (313) 393-1770.

Being at the top is nothing new for Pantera.

Their debut album, "Cowboys from Hell," went gold, while their sophomore effort, "Vulgar Display of Power," was awarded a platinum record.

The single "Mouth for War," from "Vulgar Display of Power," was the first metal single to ever debut at No. 1 on the genre's singles chart; the album topped the metal charts for weeks.

That sort of success is unheard of for a band whose popularity is based mainly on word-of-mouth referrals.

"They're not going to hear us on regular (rock) stations. It's mostly word of mouth. . . . (But) our audience just keeps getting bigger and bigger," Paul said.

■ 'They're not going to hear us on regular (rock) stations. It's mostly word of mouth. . . . (But) our audience just keeps getting bigger and bigger.'

Vinnie Paul
Pantera

Because Pantera's music doesn't fit many radio playlists, they've become known for their savage live shows.

"It's 100 percent pure energy release from both the band and the audience," Paul said.

Even longtime metal fans are stunned by Pantera's ear-crushing volume.

Aside from live shows, Paul attributes his band's success to its accessible metal sound.

"Everything's got to have a groove. Even people that don't really like this kind of music can groove and feel the music."

He admits, though, that Pantera's status among metal fans surprises him.

"We never thought we'd get this far. Now I have five gold records on the wall."

The band returns to the area Saturday and Sunday with Crowbar for two all-ages shows at the State Theatre, 2115 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

The shows are expected to be sold out by the 7 p.m. showtime. Tickets are $19.50.

Family Fun Fair set for April 22

To celebrate the Month of the Young Child, the Extended Day school-age child care program offered by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is hosting a Family Fun Fair 6:30-8:30 p.m. Friday, April 22, in the Canton High School cafeteria.

All community children and their families are invited to participate. Games and activities for children of all ages will take place.

Participants will have an opportunity to win gifts donated by area merchants. A handmade quilt will be included in the prizes offered.

Refreshments will be available and there will be prizes for all participants. Proceeds will go to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, a non-profit organization which grants the wishes of terminally ill children.

Local families also are invited to the Plymouth Township Park 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 23, to make and fly kites. The event is sponsored by the Western Wayne County division of the Association for the Education of Young Children.

The event will include crafts, music, games and visits from storybook characters. The event is free and open to the public. Plymouth Township Park is located on Ann Arbor Trail and McClumpha.

For more information on these family fun days, contact the Extended Day office at 420-7040 or 420-7041.

Students win awards

Students from Plymouth Canton High School received several awards at the Great Lakes Invitational Model United Nations Conference. The conference, a simulation of the United Nations, took place March 15-19 at the Grand Traverse Resort.

Recipients of individual awards were: Mike Walsh, honorable mention in the Special Political Committee; Marcus Zevalkink, best delegate in the Global Resources Committee; and Leo Addimando, honorable mention in the Security Council.

GLIMUN is a gathering of over 300 high school students from throughout the Great Lakes region working together to solve the pressing political, social, economic and environmental problems facing the global community. Students represented countries of the United Nations while debating in committees, the Security Council, the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the International Court of Justice.

Musicians lauded

The Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Chamber Orchestra earned a first division rating at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival on March 26 at Eastern Michigan University.

The PCEP Chamber Orchestra advanced to the state competition after earning a first division rating at the District No. 12 Solo and Ensemble Festival held last month at Franklin High School in Livonia.

Under the direction of H. Michael Endres, ninth- through 12th-graders from Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools perform in the 12-member PCEP Chamber Orchestra.

Three students earned first division rating for solo performances. Earning a first division ratings for violin solos were Salem senior Christian Hebel and Canton senior Piyush Bharti. Salem sophomore Leslie De Shazor won a first division rating for a viola solo.

The festival is sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Orchestra earns honors

The PCEP Symphony Orchestra earned a first division rating in the District No. 12 Orchestra Festival held at Ypsilanti High School in March.

The 40-member orchestra earned first division ratings from four professional judges in the concert and sight-reading categories. The group was one of three orchestras from District No. 12 to receive an overall first division rating. District No. 12 consists of schools from western Wayne, Washtenaw and Monroe counties.

"The judges were impressed with the rather large sound we produced with a moderate-sized orchestra," said H. Michael Endres, orchestra director for the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park. "The judges made positive comments about the leaders of all sections of our orchestra. Participating in a competition like this is one of the best ways to get a professional critique of our performances."

Under the direction of Endres, ninth- through 12th-graders from Plymouth Canton and Plymouth Salem high schools make up the 40-member PCEP Symphony Orchestra. This is the fifth consecutive year the orchestra has received a first division rating at the district orchestra festival. The annual festival is sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

Police investigate teen's complaint on stalking

Canton police are investigating a stalking complaint from a 16-year-old Canton girl, according to a police report.

The girl's mother told police a note was found in their mailbox asking the girl to call a youth she used to know. The note was signed with gang symbols. The youth, a member of the Cobra gang, had apparently threatened to kill the girl when she lived in another community.

Tires slashed

Canton police continue to receive reports about slashed and flattened tires from residents and some township officials who have parked at the Canton Public Library in the past couple weeks. Four residents reported damage to tires April 5, according to reports.

Armed robbery

A 19-year-old man told police he was robbed by two brothers at the Super 8 Motel, 3933 Lotz, April 4, according to a police report.

The man told police that one of the brothers came to his motel room asking to speak with him outside about speakers that he bought from the man. When the man stepped outside he was knocked to the ground by one of the brothers. He told police that one of the brothers had a handgun. As the man fell to the ground, his money fell out of his pockets.

The man said he was hit 14-15 times and finally got up and ran to the motel. He turned around and saw the brothers picking up his money.

Memorial contributions may be given to the Church in the form of Mass offerings.

MARIE M. KNAPP
Services for Marie M. Knapp, 76, of Northville were Saturday, April 9, at First United Methodist Church. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery.

She was born Aug. 5, 1917, in Detroit and died Wednesday, April 6, in Southfield. She spent most of her life in Northville and Plymouth. She was a retired food service manager for Northville Public Schools. She was a member of First United Methodist Church — Northville.

She is survived by one foster son, Robert Larson; two foster grandchildren, Janet Larson and Gregory Larson; and one sister, Catherine Fornwald of Cheboygan.

Memorial contributions may be given to the American Heart Foundation or a charity of choice. Arrangements were made by the Casterline Funeral Home.

POINTS OF VIEW

Educators must understand religious viewpoints

Question: I was watching a Christian TV show the other night which had nothing good to say about public education. They attacked Outcome Based Education, the whole language versus synthetic phonics, multicultural education, site based management, AIDS education and any course that dealt with opinion as opposed to absolutes. As a school administrator, how did you deal with fundamentalist Christians who want to dictate curriculum?

Answer: Dr. Arnold Burron, Professor of Education at the University of Northern Colorado and a fundamentalist Christian, says, "Any attempt to speak for all Christians on any point of controversy may just lend credence to the adage, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." Dr. Burron conducts seminars across the United States for local chapters of Citizens for Excellence in Education (CEE) — possibly the number one watchdog of public education for "fundamentalist Christians."

As an administrator, I always believed fundamentalist Christians have a right to their beliefs and opinions as well as any group, religious or otherwise. But I also knew that Christians speak with many voices. There are Catholic Christians, Protestant Christians . . . just as there are different voices heard among the Jewish, Muslim . . . or any other identifiable religious group.

As a school administrator, I believe one has to understand where any religious group is coming from to be able to work with them. Dr. Burron says, "Many public educators appear to be woefully ignorant of the traditional Christian belief in supersessionism. Supersessionism is the belief in the exclusivity of Christianity that states that only through faith in Jesus Christ can salvation be attained." It's a point that always bothered me as a Christian Catholic. I mean, I believe in a hereafter, but who gets to heaven first . . . little Anne Frank and the six million Jews who died in the Holocaust or the Christians (mostly Catholics, as I am) who tended the camps?

Fundamental Christians, according to Dr. Burron, believe that all people have a right to practice any religion they wish . . . while at the same time being opposed to the teaching that all religions are the same. Nothing wrong with that belief.

I believe the curriculum problem many traditional Christians have is when an Outcome Based Objectives pop up in a course that says something like, "All students will be able to listen, share opinions, negotiate, compromise and help the group reach consensus."

Fundamental Christians would tend to believe this leads to Relativism . . . the belief that truth depends upon the individuals or groups holding them . . . that knowledge is relative to the limited nature of the mind. In this case, fundamentalist Christian belief in a Higher Power than the human mind is really no different from the beliefs of most religious groups.

DOC DOYLE

■ As an administrator, I always believed fundamentalist Christians have a right to their beliefs and opinions as well as any group, religious or otherwise. But I also knew that Christians speak with many voices.

Educators get in trouble in such situations as that of the Ohio teacher who taught a consensus module. All students in the group had to agree before closing on an issue. One student, a fundamentalist Christian, didn't agree with the group. He was the only one in the group who didn't agree and the teacher, in his infinite wisdom, gave him an E . . . for not agreeing! That type of situation bothered his fundamentalist Christian parents and his church leaders, as it would any reasonable parent or group.

As Gordon Allport, the great social psychologist says, "We tend to group people because it takes less effort than to deal with individuals within a group (i.e. all fundamentalist Christians are this or that).

Dr. Alex Molnar, a professor in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction at the University of Wisconsin, in Educational Leadership (Dec. '93) says, "Fundamental Christians are a diverse group, and only a minority advocate extreme right-wing political causes. Consider abortion. Only 22 percent of self-identified born again, evangelical Christians listed abortion as a major issue in the last presidential election."

Indeed, when right-wing Christian political activists viciously went after Professor James Sears of the University of South Carolina for developing a course called "Christian Fundamentalism and Public Education . . . his staunchest defenders were the fundamentalist Christians who were taking the class.

As to your question regarding how educators should deal with fundamentalist Christians: Just as with any other human beings, educators should clearly explain the rationale for school curriculum, explain the goals and objectives in course description booklets and in school newsletters — the obvious!

At a higher level would be forming a Council of Church Leaders and Educators. Set up a monthly lunch during the school year. The superintendent, assistant superintendent and guest would attend. Sit at a large round table so everyone is facing each other. Anyone who has an issue, education or otherwise, speaks to it.

When I was in the West Bloomfield School District, this Council of Churches luncheon model was followed. It created dialogue that stopped rumors and misunderstandings of what was going on in the school system. It was well received. And Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, Muslim and fundamentalist Christians, to me, all seemed to be brothers and sisters in the flesh. Indeed, part of one master plan.

Opposes Plawecki

I was amused but hardly surprised to read Ralph Echtinaw's March 28 article on the latest doings down at the Wayne County Commission.

I was impressed to learn about the proposal of commissioners Amann, Solomon and McCotter to rid all county signs of the names of elected officials. However, I was sadly bemused by commissioner Michelle Plawecki's proposal to add the names of county commissioners to county signs. Her proposal makes Plawecki sound like a catty, publicity-starved politician.

It is not altogether surprising that commissioner Plawecki should pursue this publicity stunt in the name of public policy. You see my neighbor told me a while back that Plawecki actually purchased her name in probate court a few years back (her name used to be Vejcik). I suppose if I had to pay for my name, I would want the taxpayers to help me make up the cost by financing its circulation. But frankly, as a county taxpayer who didn't change my name for political or any other reasons, I'd just as soon see commissioner Plawecki and every other county officeholder pay for their own publicity.

Andy Draheim, Redford Township

To be religiously correct

Skywatch columnist Raymond Bullock states that "coincidentally, Easter Sunday will be on April 3 this year . . . Determining the date of this very erratic holiday is not as difficult as you may think. All you need to know is the phase of the moon and a few rules."

Then he refers to the First Nicene Ecumenical Council (325 A.D.) but by omission he leaves out the most-important requirement which the Holy Fathers felt strongly enough to put in Canon form: "Canon VII - If any Bishop, or Presbyter, or Deacon celebrate the holy day of Pascha (Easter) before the vernal equinox with the Jews, let him be deposed."

Bullock also ignores by "omission" the Orthodox Catholic Christians, of which there are many in the Detroit area, and who will celebrate Pascha this year, not on April 3, but on May 1, in keeping with the original, correct — therefore "orthodox" — determination as stipulated by the One Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church.

Briefly stated, the Roman Catholic Church, after separating from the Catholic Church, dropped the Jewish Passover consideration and the Protestants, who subsequently broke away from the Roman Church, continued with this regrettable Roman change for celebrating this most Holy of Holy Days of Christianity.

Please note that next year, First Day of Passover will be April 15, non-Orthodox Easter on April 16 and Orthodox Pascha on April 23; in 1996 they will be on April 4, April 7 and April 14, respectively.

LINDA BACHRACK

Take the plunge in new swimwear

"I hate shopping for swimwear," moaned Carolyn Marks from behind the dressing-room door at Roslyn's Intimate Apparel, 29831 Northwestern Highway in Applegate Square, Southfield. How many times have we all uttered the same lament?

I've never met anyone who enjoys trying on swimsuits, especially this time of year — too much pale skin, made pastier by fluorescent lights; the shock of seeing all that which has been deftly covered up during the winter months; and the horror of having to emerge from the confines of the cubicle to fetch the next size or the more flattering style.

Shop owner Roslyn Rock loves the swimsuit shopper's cry of despair because she is sure that her selection and her personal service can result in a smiling, more confident customer. Such was the case with Marks.

Suited to you

After Rock listened to her concerns, Rock showed her suits that would flatter her body type. Never did she have to leave the dressing room or scramble into her clothes, because an attentive salesperson was there to answer questions and exchange sizes.

In less than 20 painless minutes, Marks found the perfect suit. "They (Roslyn's) have the best selection and give so much personal attention," said Marks, of Farmington Hills.

Her sophisticated parrot green draped-front suit by Gottex is stunning in its styling and classic in its attitude. What's new in swimwear for summer?

Look for glamourous retro styles with sculptured bras, plunging sweetheart necklines and wider straps.

Think Esther Williams in an underwire halter top and '50s-style shorts, made to accent every curve. Pictured is a high-waisted, two-piece black retro suit by Baja Blue. It's given a contemporary edge with matching sheer black pants available at Jacobson's.

Or take to the sand in a sexy tribal print. With names such as African Dream, Tonga and Iguana, Gottex combines browns and golds with leopard spots, batiks and wooden beads for a hot native look.

Details, details!

Textured fabrics and unusual embellishments are new for '94. Look for iridescent jacquards, mesh papels, crochet, denim and trapunto detailing. These fabrications are accented with fringe, floral trims, ruffles, lace and beading.

You can't miss with a more traditional nautical suit. Gold braiding and studs decorate La Blanea designs, while Gottex shows a navy and white asymetrically striped tank with a bright gold sun beaming from the midsection. And nothing quite says summer in paradise like a vibrant tropical print. Check out Gideon Oberon's bamboo-patterned tank with out-out sides, Gottex's blue and green palm frond designs and DeWeese's "Neptune," a V-wire, side-shirred tank in hot pink, purple, teal and gold at Jacobson's.

Don't forget to complete your swimwear choices with go-anywhere cover-ups. Roslyn's has a line of On-The-Go-Wear that looks great for a stroll along the beach, a trip to the grocery, a casual lunch or after-school errands. More traditional cover-ups are lightweight and easy to pack, like a long crochet knit vest or a three-button black cotton knit eyelet jacket. For glamour, tie on a gauzy, fringed sarong skirt or a sexy pareo.

Just for fun, and to induce a little beach blanket conversation, throw on an oversized "Cathy" cartoon tee from Leotards Et Ceteras in the Bloomfield Plaza Mall, Maple at Telegraph, Bloomfield Hills. Cathy always finds the humor in our worst apprehensions, like squeezing into this summer's swimsuit.

Mole Hole team sees profits rise

You're never too old to try something new, according to the staff at Birmingham's The Mole Hole, an upper-end gift shop. They threw out their old titles and took up the team approach to running the operation. Business has never been better.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

After taking a team management course in Traverse City, Ellen Shirmer, owner of The Mole Hole on Woodward in downtown Birmingham, knew her gift shop business could never be the same.

"I came back to my 11-year-old store and staff of 12, inspired," said Shirmer, a resident of Drayton Plains. "The team approach to business is really the way of the '90s. I am convinced of it."

Her staff bubbled over with words of praise for the new Mole Hole, explaining that they're "not just sales people anymore."

"We instantly got new challenges and new responsibilities," said Michalene Barkume of Royal Oak. "All of us are doing the buying now. We're making group decisions about policy and promotions. We can come up with new ideas and even out-vote the boss. We will get a share of the profits, when there are profits. We're finding out that we have talents inside us and we are really working for ourselves."

Shirmer credits employee Rand Moorhead of Beverly Hills for the transformation. "He came to us from the West Coast, " she said, laughing. "He brought all that California thinking and feeling here. He showed me a tape about team management and how successful the approach was to four very different organizations. I was hooked."

But it wasn't easy for Shirmer to give up her power and authority as boss and owner.

"I took a big risk," she said. "It took a new level of trust. Suddenly my salespeople were in my books, in the backroom, ordering merchandise, telling me what they thought. Boy, it took some getting used to!"

Moorhead picked up the story: "But she's really done a great job of it. Admittedly, going through the committee process takes more time and more effort to reach a decision about anything, but then it leads to a blossoming of new ideas."

One such idea came from longtime employees Dee Moorhead and Brenda Zebold. The Mole Hole will soon debut a private room in the rear of the store for handling special customer orders.

Cowboy Trader lassos the west for collectors

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

If the lone prairie and sagebrush is your style, you'll be back in the saddle again at Robert Ray's new wild west gallery, The Cowboy Trader, in downtown Birmingham.

Ray, a resident of Birmingham, has filled his shop in the Adams Square south of Maple, with Navaho rugs, antique firearms, chaps of all styles, turquoise and silver jewelry, books, rare photos, prints, paintings and rodeo posters — a place Buffalo Bill would be proud to call his own.

"The western art and antique business is growing fast these days," said Ray who is also a devotee of western memorabilia. "I have customers from all over the U.S.

"As people travel to ski in Aspen, Colorado, or Jackson Hole, Wyoming, they fall in love with the western feeling. They come home and want to do a room in western or Indian arts. It's a very warm decorating style. These customers need to come see me."

Ray retired from his airline marketing job to pursue his hobby as a full-time business. For the past several years, he has traded at the giant wild west shows in Cody, Wyoming, making many contacts and friends while acquiring pieces for his gallery. His customers include everyone from the 10-year-old cowboy to local corporation execs to designer Ralph Lauren.

"If someone wanted just one thing to set a western tone to a family room or office, they should buy a Navaho rug," he said. "The rugs add instant color and mood."

The Cowboy Trader also suggests adding a totem pole, steer horns, Indian pottery and a book or two on the Southwest to the room.

Ray recently sold a 1910 saddle made in Pueblo, Colorado, of hand-carved leather to a collector in New York for $3,000.

"You love this stuff," he said thoughtfully, "because you appreciate the history and adventure behind it. The wild west is a uniquely American heritage and people want to celebrate it."

Ray welcomes inquiries at (810) 647-8833.

Downtown Rochester offers shoppers something different

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Have you shopped downtown Rochester lately?

Under the direction of Robert Donohue and Barbara Khalil of the Downtown Development Authority, the town is quietly becoming a place to go to enjoy a superb lunch or dinner, coffeehouse jazz, and shopping for something artfully adorable for the home, and friendly customer service.

"And this is just the beginning," said Donohue, showing off blueprints for the Western Knitting Mill/ITT Higbee Building on Water Street.

Working with the Oakland County Planning Department, Donohue has won planning commission and city council approval to renovate the historic building as the apex of a mixed-use community made up of artist lofts, swank condominiums, restaurants and galleries.

"Right now, the environmental testing is going on and we are looking at various developers," he said. "Phase One of the project should begin within a year and the entire project should be completein five to 10 years."

Donohue and Khalil, who heads up business recruitment, see downtown Rochester as a "destination, a mecca for what's unique and service oriented." They expect shoppers and diners from as far away as Canada and Ohio and close as Troy and Oakland Township.

To assure that the destination reaches retail maps, several trendy business ventures opened in town recently and more are on the way. American Pizza Cafe is under construction in the old D & C (dimestore) building at the corner of Main and Fourth.

"The new owners are putting $2 million into the new restaurant," Khalil said. "We are very excited about the project. American Pizza Cafe will hopefully bring us lots of new customers."

A new tea room is also under construction on Third Street, between Main and Walnut. The Rosewood Tea House will offer tea and crumpets in a Victorian setting by late spring.

Khalil is also pleased to announce the grand openings of Antiques by Pamela, 313 Main; Penn & Paige, (fine stationery) also at 313 Main; The Forward Tee (everything for the female golfer) 255 Main; Brass & Iron Beds of Rochester (the second location for the downtown Plymouth owners) and Archives A.D. (landscape and design pieces), 114 W. Third.

Still more changes occurred recently when The Ski Company moved from their Fourth Street location to triple the space in the old Hepplewhite's space on Main. The Fitting Room added several new bridal services to the space they renovated in the former Generations shop next door.

Ballen Supply on Fourth Street has become an architectural must for shoppers seeking unusual doors, mouldings and mirrors.

Paint Creek Outfitters, a fully stocked Orvis store, features specialty fly fishing equipment and artwork on University. Ivy and Evergreen creates custom floral designs in permanent and fresh materials at 206 Walnut. Nagy's Lebanese American Cuisine replaced the former Alia's on University.

The DDA has begun publishing a quarterly newsletter, "The Connection," to unify communications with its members. The number of special downtown events has been changed this year to make them "bigger and better," according to Khalil.

Rand Moorhead pointed out that as buyers, the sales staff realizes the risk the owner makes putting up money for merchandise and even staying in business.

"I bought a lot of the spring line," Moorhead said. "So you can bet I'll work extra hard to see that it sells and is a success. And because we're part of a team, that success or failure impacts all of us."

Shirmer said she's working with her accountant to come up with a way to give the employee who brings in a new corporate gift account, 50-percent of the profit from that sale.

Ever the self-proclaimed radical thinker, Moorhead said he will propose to the group that those profits also be shared with the group.

"I don't know what will become of my suggestion," he said. "But I know it will be debated and considered by my associates."

Shirmer said that she must be doing something right because she left for store in the hands of her team for a three-week vacation and business boomed.

"My store ran smoothly and sales were up," she said, beaming. "Even the customers have noticed a difference here. They've been asking if we are under new management. I'm delighted that I've been able to use all of the talents of the people who work here and provide a family-type atmosphere. I don't know why I never did it before."

Moorhead said other area merchants have heard about The Mole Hole's methods and are stopping in to ask questions.

"I just tell them we are celebrating and elevating pure human experience," he said. "All people are created equal."

CHEF LARRY JANES

Pesto! Chilled soup among reader requests

Spring must be in the air! Everyone it seems is dusting off fry pans, cleaning up grills and searching for exotic ingredients to cook up a spring shower of tastes.

John Mattlethorn of Birmingham called and told me about a friend in LA who sent him a tiny jar of red pesto sauce for Christmas. He's looked everywhere for a recipe.

Fresh basil is the fundamental ingredient in true pesto, but sun-dried tomatoes gives this pesto an untraditional color and rich flavor. Toss it over some hot pasta!

RED PESTO SAUCE

½ cup (1 ounce) chopped, drained, oil packed sun dried tomatoes
3 cups fresh basil leaves
3 cloves garlic
½ cup fresh grated Parmesan cheese
½ cup pine nuts
½ cup olive oil
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon fresh ground pepper

In a food processor or blender, chop the tomatoes with the basil, garlic, Parmesan cheese, pine nuts and ¼ cup olive oil for 10 seconds. With the motor running, add the remaining oil, salt and pepper. Stop and scrape down the bowl. Process until smooth. Makes 1½ cups.

Bob and Sophia Ryman of Garden City requested a recipe for chilled plum soup from Three Village Inn in Stony Brook, which they visited last summer on a journey through upstate New York. When yours truly gets requests like these,

I drop the restaurant a personal note and sometimes the request is honored. Well Bob and Sophia, running a recipe for chilled plum soup in the middle of January didn't sound quite right so now that spring has poked its head through the door, you'll be enjoying this soup all summer long!

PLUM SOUP

Two (16 ounce) cans red plums in syrup, pitted and cut into small pieces
½ cup sugar
A 2-inch cinnamon stick
½ teaspoon white pepper
Dash salt
½ cup heavy cream
½ cup dry red wine
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon zest
1½ cups sour cream
3 tablespoons brandy
Fresh ground cinnamon for garnish

In a large saucepan, combine the plums with their syrup, the sugar, cinnamon stick, pepper, salt and 1 cup water. Bring to a boil, stirring.

Reduce heat, cool to room temperature and stir in heavy cream. Meanwhile, in a small bowl, combine the wine with the cornstarch and set aside. Stir into the plum mixture and gently bring to a simmer.

Add the lemon juice and the lemon zest and remove from the heat. In another small bowl, whisk together 1 cup of the sour cream and the brandy. Whisk ½ cup of the plum mixture into the sour cream mixture, then return it all to the plum mixture. Allow the soup to cool and chill, covered for at least 4 hours. Ladle the soup into small serving bowls. Top each serving with a small dollop of sour cream and a sprinkling of fresh ground cinnamon. Makes 6 cups.

Dave Kettles of Farmington who enjoys fishing and frequently returns home with pails of panfish like bass, bluegill, smelt and small perch was looking for a basic coating mix that will taste cook on all the fish he pan fries and bakes.

Well I immediately called Momma who suggests that you first rinse the small fillets under cold water, shake off the excess water and roll lightly in flour. (Momma says this keeps the coating on better during cooking). Then dip the fillets in a beaten egg wash and roll in coating mix. Cook in an equal amount of butter and oil (about 1 tablespoon each) over medium heat for 3 minutes on each side.

LUNCHTIME RUSH

These days the best table and biggest dining bargain in town can be found in high school and vocational school culinary arts restaurants. From waiting on tables to preparing lunch these students are eager to please.

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
SPECIAL WRITER

"Good afternoon. Would you like a booth or a table today?"

These words greet scores of discriminating diners on a daily basis at the Salem Rock Cafe, the Alpha Room, and Cafe Marquette, three of the area's best kept restaurant secrets.

But don't look for these great little eateries on your local Main Street. Instead, you'll find them tucked into corners of Plymouth Salem High School in Canton, Oakland Technical Center Southwest Campus in Wixom, and the William D. Ford Voc/Tech Center in Westland. They are the showcases for the schools' culinary arts programs.

Culinary arts programs offer rigorous and inclusive training for students planning to enter the food industry in any capacity, from waiting on tables to preparing five-star pastry presentations. Students are rotated through a series of disciplines within the two- to four-semester programs: bakery, hot foods, cold foods, pastry, dish room and dining room. Combine this training with a generous amount of communications skills and you have graduates in demand by the finest restaurants.

But as any prospective chef worth his or her salt soon learns, a great dining experience begins with the basics.

"Water is the enemy of greens," Carrie Gary, culinary arts instructor at Plymouth Salem High School, warns her students on the morning I drop by her busy kitchen. Blemish-free hearts of Romaine lettuce lie in front of her on a spotless chrome counter. She points to the tender leaves and says, "They'll rust, they'll get limp, they'll turn brown."

Things just don't turn color in Gary's kitchen unless they're meant to. Scrupulous attention is paid to preparation. Gary, an

Teen coaxes parents to eat their veggies

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Some parents get a little concerned when their children come home from school and announce that they've "become vegetarians." When Whitney Cure, an eighth grader at Covington Middle School in Birmingham decided to switch to a vegetarian menu about six months ago, her parents Michael and Joanne supported it.

"I've practically turned them into vegetarians," said Whitney.

"Her being a vegetarian has made us all more health conscious," said Michael Cure. "We usually eat the same things. It's more economical and better for you."

His day begins at 7:10 a.m. when he takes Whitney to school. Then he drives to his office in Southfield and works until it's time to pick Whitney up. On the way home they'll stop at Merchant of Vino, Strawberry Hill or Vic's for produce or fresh pasta.

"We use things of the day," said Cure. "We're spontaneous. Salad is a daily thing for us. If Whitney has an event we'll have leftovers."

"I'm always interested in what my dad's going to make, and in how I can help him," said Whitney.

The stuffed shell recipe they created together is quick and delicious. "The only hard part was making the cheese," said Whitney. "If you cook it too long it will clump together."

For color and flavor, the Cures like to toss a few grapes into their salads with mixed greens, carrots, tomatoes and other fresh vegetables.

Joanne is a flight attendant for United Airlines and alternates monthly between domestic and international flights.

The Cures also enjoy traveling together and seeking out recipes in the many places they visit. This past Christmas they traveled to Korea.

We met after he responded to my request for "his specialty" recipes as part of the "Mrs. Doubtfire" movie promotion in December.

"I started to develop my appreciation for cooking while I worked for meals as a cook at the Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority House on the campus of Michigan State University," said Michael Cure. "I also cooked in the Army Reserves, but Joanne did the cooking after we got married. She's a very good cook. I started cooking again when it became necessary."

Like many families where both parents work, the Cures are constantly juggling schedules. It isn't easy, but for the Cures, the rewards are great.

"Enjoy your children," said Michael Cure. "Cooking together is a way to share the day's

ORANGE ROUGHY ROULADE

4 orange roughy filets
1 salmon filet, cut into 1-inch cubes
2 teaspoons coriander, grounded
½ teaspoon fresh minced garlic
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons good whiskey (Jim Beam, Cutty Sark, Jack Daniels)
4 medium shrimp, peeled, veined and coarsely chopped (save shells)
¼ cup hazelnuts, roasted, skinned and finely chopped
cheesecloth and twine

Set aside 2 orange roughy filets.

Toss remaining 2 orange roughy filets, salmon, coriander, garlic, pepper and whiskey in a bowl. Cover and let stand in refrigerator one hour. Remove salmon and orange roughy and lightly puree (separately) in a food processor. Fold pureed fish back into marinated mixture and add chopped shrimp and hazelnuts. Blend carefully to maintain a marbling effect in the roulade. Set aside.

Between two sheets of plastic wrap lightly tap reserved orange roughy filets with meat mallet. Pat dry with paper towels. Wet a section of cheesecloth (about 16-by-16 inches) with cold water and place filets on cloth, making sure insides of filets are facing upward. Place half of orange roughy mixture on each filet and spread evenly.

Roll the filets lengthwise away from you, making sure the seams of the filets are facing down. Roll cheesecloth around filets as tightly as possible. Tie each end with twine.

Poach roulade in fish fumet (see below) for 35 minutes or until internal temperature reaches 145 degrees. Remove. To serve, slice roulade in ¾-inch slices. Yields 3 to 4 slices per serving (serves four). Serve with Sauce Marinkovich (see recipe below).

Fish fumet: Two quarts of cold water, juice of half of lemon, 2 whole peppercorns, 4 shrimp shells, 1 clove garlic, 1 bay leaf, 2 stems of fresh dill, 1 carrot, 1 celery stalk, 1 small onion, ¼ cup white wine and ½ teaspoon tarragon vinegar. Bring all ingredients to a boil and let simmer one hour prior to poaching the roulade.

Recipe compliments of Brad Al, with the blessing of Chef Herrara of The Cafe Marquette.

SAUCE MARINKOVICH

⅓ cup (3 ounces) skim milk
⅓ cup (3 ounces) fish fumet
½ teaspoon Dijon mustard
salt and white pepper to taste
Tabasco sauce to taste (not too much)
Roux of 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and 2 tablespoons flour

Heat skim milk to 120 degrees.

In separate pot melt butter or margarine over low heat and add flour. Mix together with a wire whip, making sure to beat out all the lumps. Remove from heat.

Combine skim milk and fish fumet and add to roux mixture. Cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Add remaining ingredients. Blend and remove from heat. Spoon over arranged slices of Orange Roughy Roulade.

Recipe compliments of Brad Alt, Chef Herrara and Chef Marinkovich of The Cafe Marquette.

RANGER COOKIES

2 sticks butter or margarine
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups oatmeal
2 cups Rice Krispies cereal
2 cups coconut

Cream together margarine or butter, granulated sugar and brown sugar. Add eggs and vanilla and beat until smooth.

In another bowl, mix together flour, baking soda, baking powder and salt. Add dry ingredients to butter mixture and mix thoroughly. Lightly mix in oatmeal, Rice Krispies and coconut.

Drop by rounded tablespoons onto a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 325 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes, or until light brown. Makes 4 dozen.

Recipe compliments of culinary arts instructor Carrie Gary, Marissa Wolf and her boyfriend, and the rest of the Salem Rock Cafe kitchen crew.

CHEF KERR'S REALLY GOOD REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

2 cups milk, scalded
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup shortening
1 tablespoon dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar (for "Proofing" yeast)
2 eggs
3¾ cup flour (bread flour preferable)

While milk is cooling, measure sugar, salt and shortening into a mixer bowl. Add milk. Set aside.

Place lukewarm water in small bowl. Sprinkle yeast and 1 teaspoon sugar over the top. Let it dissolve, stirring once or twice.

Break eggs into small bowl. Beat slightly with wire whip. Add to mixer the ingredients and continue to blend.

Change beaters to bread hook attachment. Add the flour gradually to mixer ingredients, using a very low speed. After flour is mixed in, turn mixer to medium speed and continue mixing until dough climbs the beater. Scrape down the sides of the bowl frequently while mixing.

Place dough in a 9-by-13-inch pan that has been lightly oiled. Cover and refrigerate. Next day: Scale dough into 1½ ounce portions. Place on greased baking sheet and proof (allow to rise) until double in size (about 45 minutes). Bake at 350 degrees until golden brown, about 15 to 20 minutes.

Recipe compliments of Chef Kerr and the Alpha Room kitchen crew.

instructor at Plymouth Salem since 1972, enforces one golden rule: "If you're not going to eat it, then you're not going to serve it."

The Salem Rock Cafe, recently remodeled with bright, clean Euro-styling, serves 80 to 100 guests a day. Their menu includes soups, salads, sandwiches and special-of-the-day entrees, such as stuffed baked shrimp and Caesar salad. And everything is homemade by the students, from rolls to salad dressings.

In a back corner of the kitchen, a student is mixing croissant dough in a bowl large enough to bathe in.

Gary's students unanimously chose Ranger Cookies as their favorite kitchen goody. Marissa Wolfe, 17, of Canton made them for her boyfriend on Valentine's Day. "He really liked them," she said. "They always melt into these big round things when I make them, but they're really good."

When asked what's the best thing to come out of the Alpha Room's kitchen, Chef Bob Kerr, who founded the culinary arts program at Oakland Technical Center 23 years ago, readily produces two of his competition-winning students: Joseph Gordon, 18, and Andrew Benear, 17, both of White Lake. Gordon recently won first place in an Oakland County food show for his crown roast of pork. "I arranged it on a 30- by 30-inch mirror with baby carrots and asparagus and baby corn on various places on the mirror," he said. Not surprisingly, Gordon intends to make his living as a chef.

Benear, who plans to go to Johnson & Wales University in Rhode Island, the Harvard of culinary arts schools, said desserts are his specialty. He makes a no-bake lemon cheesecake shaped like a bride, complete with hoop skirt and sweeping train. Kerr knows the importance appearance plays in creating a culinary experience. "It's all in the presentation," he tells his students. "If something doesn't look right I have them take it apart."

Cafe Marquette, in the William D. Ford Voc/Tech Center, has an airy, contemporary look — a blend of soft green and blue, a wall of windows overlooking an inside courtyard and splashes of colorful neon lighting everywhere. But in addition to good looks, the Cafe Marquette has great food and dedicated instructors.

Culinary arts instructor Kathy Windiate and Chefs Kris Jablonski and Ramon Herrara teach their students 70 different culinary skills. They also act as mentors to students like Brad Alt, 17, of Westland; Dominick O'Donnell, 17, of Inkster; and Sarah Peterson, 18, of Westland. Peterson, a budding pastry chef, says with conviction, "Pastries are my life."

Alt, with a bit of guidance from Herrara, created a dish named Orange Roughy Roulade, which he recently entered in the Johnson & Wales Recipe Writing Contest. When asked what makes his creation so special, Alt says, "It's really elegant and it's really good." He plans to try it out soon on a brand new girlfriend. Lucky girl.

O'Donnell, whose crowning moment came when he was chosen for a vocational industry culinary arts competition, likes his culinary creations on the fiery side — literally. He makes a "terrific" filet mignon over which he pours heated cherry liqueor. A flick of a match and voila, a half pound of beef tenderloin is transformed into food for the gods and goddesses. "Just don't pour too much liqueor on," O'Donnell cautions. "I flamed my roof once before."

Orange Roughy Roulade, flaming filet mignon, butter-rich cookies — do hard-working chefs go home after a 10-hour day and really make all these wonderful dishes? Not. "The last thing I want to do when I get home is cook," Windiate said.

PASTA SHELLS WITH BELL PEPPER SAUCE

1 pound of pasta shells
2 cups low-fat cottage cheese
1 tablespoon non-fat milk
1 tablespoon onion powder
2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
¾ cup chopped fresh parsley
¼ teaspoon ground pepper
1 teaspoon garlic powder

Heat water for pasta in a large pot and cook for about 16 minutes on high. When tender, rinse and drain well in cold water and set aside.

Prepare cheese sauce by heating the remaining ingredients in a large frying pan, just until the cheese begins to melt.

Remove from heat until pasta is ready. Over low heat, stir shells in cheese sauce until all shells are covered and hot. Spoon Bell Pepper Tomato sauce over each serving. This should serve six people.

BELL PEPPER TOMATO SAUCE

1 medium onion
5 cloves garlic
1 large bell pepper (green)
1 tablespoon Italian seasoning
3 cups tomato puree (we use a can of Hunts whole tomatoes and puree them in the food processor)
¼ cup water

Chop vegetables and add Italian seasonings. Saute mixture until vegetables are slightly browned.

Stir in tomato puree and water and simmer for 20 to 30 minutes. This will yield approximately one quart of sauce.

A fresh green salad will complete this healthy well-balanced meal.

"Homespun culinary favorites from Texas usually end-up as classics," said Michael Cure. "This one has some added assistance from the Far East. Years ago, you see, when we lived in Texas, down the street from us was an Oriental family. Put the two cultures together and you have a Texas specialty with the flavor of the Orient. Here's how it comes together."

CHILI PRAWNS

3 tablespoons pean oil
1 teaspoon ginger (finely chopped)
¼ cup green onion
16 large fresh prawns or shrimp, peeled, deveined, halved crosswise
3 tablespoons sherry
2 tablespoons tomato sauce
1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1½ tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons water
2 small red chili peppers, chopped
¼ cup chopped green onion

In a large skillet, heat oil over high heat. Saute ginger and ¼ cup green onion for about 30 seconds — no more. Add prawns or shrimp and saute for 2-3 minutes. Stir in sherry, tomato sauce, and Worcestershire sauce, soy sauce, water and chili peppers.

Reduce heat to medium high and cook, stirring constantly until you see the sauce thicken. This takes about two minutes. Sprinkle the green onion on top and serve immediately. Will serve four people, big appetites, 2.

SEASONED COATING MIX

½ cup all purpose flour
¼ cup cornmeal
¾ teaspoon salt (optional)
½ teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
Dash cayenne pepper

Combine ingredients, and mix well.

Sandy Walker of Livonia called to say she has about ½ an acre of backyard that will soon be blossoming with dandelions. She was looking for recipes. We hope Sandy doesn't use chemical fertilizers, and that her dandelions and natural.

Here's a traditional Pennsylvania Dutch recipe.

WILTED DANDELION SALAD

6 thick-slices lean bacon
1 egg
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup half and half
3 tablespoons vinegar
8 cups tender dandelion greens
Fresh ground pepper

Cut the bacon slices into small pieces. Fry them in a large skillet over low heat until cooked but not crispy brown, about 3-5 minutes.

Meanwhile, in a small bowl, mix together the egg, sugar, cream, and vinegar until well blended. Take the bacon out of the fat and set it aside. Reduce the heat under the fat to very low. Pour in the egg mixture and stir it around briskly so the eggs don't scramble. As soon as it begins to thicken, dump in the bacon and dandelion greens. Immediately remove the skillet from the heat and toss until the greens wilt. Season to taste with pepper. Makes 8 cups.

Phyllis Messerling of Livonia called to ask about using phyllo dough any other way than brushing each layer with calorie clogging butter or margarine. Yes Phyllis, you can spray phyllo with non-stick coating sprays (i.e. Pam, Mazzola) and use as desired. The sheets brown and crisp and the calorie count is almost nonexistent.

Doug and Gordon from Plymouth called to say their friends are going bananas over their mashed potatoes. What's their secret? Try a light sprinkling of dry ranch type dressing mix when mashing. I tried it and I loved it!

Donna Gordon of Troy was unpacking her groceries when the entire carton of eggs slipped from her fingers and ended up well scrambled on the floor. Anyone who has ever dropped an egg on the floor knows that it's almost impossible to "pick-up" but Donna said she sprinkled plain old table salt generously over the eggs and within 5 minutes, simply swept up the mess with a broom. Great thinking Donna!

Patricia O'Connel of Canton called to protest the high prices for bottled barbecue sauces in the grocery stores. Well Patricia, my guess is that you probably have all these goodies in your pantry so why not make up a quart and keep it in the fridge for steaks, ribs, chicken and even burgers!

TANGY BARBECUE SAUCE

1 medium onion, chopped
1½ tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 teaspoons ground cumin
⅔ cup vinegar
½ cup beer
¼ cup bottled ketchup
2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard (or 3 tablespoons prepared)
2 cloves garlic, chopped very fine
½ teaspoon Tobasco Sauce (more if you like it hotter)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon fresh ground pepper.

Cook the onion in the olive oil in a heavy saucepan for 3 minutes.

Add the chili powder and cumin and cook for 1 minute. Stir in remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low and simmer for 15 minutes or until slightly thickened. Pour into jars, date and refrigerate.

Makes about 1½ cups so double the recipe for a jar full.

Chef's Secret: Don't use an aluminum pan to make this because the vinegar and ketchup will cause the sauce to discolor.

WAIST MANAGEMENT

A new study says that a comparison of waist circumference to that of the hips are often a better index of health than the standard height-weight ratio (body mass index). The new research showed that the bigger the waist in comparison with the hips, the higher the risk of death. This conclusion is based on a study of 41,837 Iowa women, aged 50 to 69 years. Regardless of whether their weights were ten percent below normal or 40 percent above normal, higher waist-to-hip ratios meant higher death rates. In fact, the thinnest people who had higher waist-hip ratios also had the highest risk of death. This is not to say that being overweight does not present a health risk by itself. What matters is where the weight is carried.

The first step toward improving your health and stabilizing your weight is to eat healthy foods that are produced naturally without additives, pesticides, etc. The GOOD FOOD CO. is a natural food supermarket. We offer greater variety and better prices on natural foods than you will find in any other supermarket. We are conveniently located at 42615 Ford Rd. If you have any questions, please call us at 981-8100. We are open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00, and Sundays from 10:00 to 6:00. We are committed to offering the lowest prices possible for the highest quality food.

P.S. Obesity is defined as being 20 percent or more overweight.

Satisfying sandwiches require innovative engineering

For people on the go, sandwiches can be a quick and compact answer to the need for a nutritious meal. Two slices of bread provide two of the six servings of grains that health authorities recommend as a daily minimum. Add three ounces of low-fat meat and as many vegetables as you can pile on, and you will build a truly healthful and satisfying sandwich.

Bread, the foundation of any good sandwich, can be a valuable source of complex carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals. It can also provide lots of dietary fiber: two slices of oat bran or whole wheat bread can provide more than six grams of fiber. Two slices of pumpernickel, multi-grain, light rye, cracked wheat, oatmeal or oatmeal bran provide two to three grams; and French or Italian, white or raisin bread one to two grams. A regular English muffin or bagel provides one to two grams of fiber; and hamburger and hot dog buns and pita bread provide less than one gram of fiber. Croissants, however, provide minimal fiber and are loaded with fat.

Very often the spread on a sandwich contains as much fat as the filling. Mayonnaise is particularly high in fat, so spread your bread with a low-fat variety or a bit of non-fat yogurt, mustard or low-fat salad dressing instead. These condiments are also useful in making chicken, tuna or egg salad fillings. Other low-fat condiments include pickle relish, ketchup, taco sauce and salsa.

Thin-cut meats from your supermarket deli are usually sliced from whole cuts of meat that have less fat than processed meats like salami and bologna. Shaved turkey or ham can make low-fat sanwiches, as long as you don't pile the meat on too thick. Be careful selecting cold cuts labeled 80 to 90 percent fat free — the grams of fat per slice may be higher than you think. Choose tuna packed in water instead of oil. Make high-fat peanut butter or egg salad occasional treats, unless the rest of your diet is very low in fat.

Cheese often contains more fat than many meats. A one-ounce slice of Swiss or provolone adds about eight grams of fat: American cheese has about seven grams of fat per ounce. Instead, use reduced fat cheese, use smaller amounts of a strong-flavored cheese, or grate your favorite cheese and sprinkle a small amount evenly over the bread.

The best part of upgrading the nutrition of your sandwich comes with all the good things you can add: shredded carrots, watercress, fresh spinach leaves, scallions, lettuce, pepper, tomato, chopped celery, alfalfa sprouts, cucumber, bamboo shoots or sliced onions, to name a few. Vegetables help fill you up without all the fat. They add flavor and texture to your sandwich in addition to healthful vitamins, minerals and fiber.

This delicious Curried Chicken Salad has a low-fat content because it uses white-meat chicken (which has less fat than dark meat), and is mixed with reduced-fat mayonnaise or non-fat yogurt. It is perfect served with whole-grain rolls, bread or crackers for lunch, a light supper or a weekend brunch.

CURRIED CHICKEN SALAD

- 1½ cup cooked chicken breast, coarsely chopped
- ¾ cup celery, chopped
- ¼ cup green grapes, sliced
- ⅛ cup minced onion
- 3 tablespoons reduced-fat mayonnaise, or non-fat plain yogurt
- ¾ teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ teaspoon pepper

Mix the chicken, celery, grapes and onion. Separately mix the mayonnaise or yogurt with the curry powder and pepper. Stir the dressing into the chicken mixture and serve.

Each of the four servings contains 100 to 135 calories and 2 to 6 grams of fat.

Sandwich stuffer: This Curried Chicken Salad is low in fat and has a zesty zip.

Technology brings us a few of the 'King's' favorites

KEELY WYGONIK

Technology makes me nervous. In school I hated math, especially algebra which still doesn't make sense to me. When our newspaper introduced a new On-Line System on Feb. 4 that allows readers to interact with one another and read articles from all of our newspapers, I broke out in a cold sweat. Technology has already changed the way I do my job, and this was one more change.

I started out the old-fashioned way, writing stories on a portable typewriter at Fordson High School in Dearborn. At Henry Ford Community College I graduated to electric typewriters and learned all about photo typesetting at Michigan State University in Dearborn.

Then along came personal computers and desktop publishing. Now I do all of my writing on a computer and break out in a cold sweat at the thought of going back to a portable typewriter.

We now have the ability to interact with each other by computer. If you have a personal computer with a modem and communications software, you can plug into our On-Line service.

For subscription information, call (313) 953-2266. If you don't have a personal computer or the foggiest idea of what a modem is, don't leave.

I logged onto On-Line this week and found some recipes for Elvis Presley's favorites. It was just a coincidence because one of the most popular fruit markets in the area, Westborn Fruit and Flower Market, 2254 Woodward, is hosting a benefit for the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society, Saturday, April 16, and Sunday, April 17. All money received for refreshments — hound dogs and pop — will be donated to the society. Elvis' favorite fruits and vegetables will be featured in a jailhouse set.

Doug Jacobs and his Red Garter Band will entertain 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, mixing Elvis favorites with family favorites.

Here's a recipe I picked up from On-Line from David Adler's "The Life and Cuisine of Elvis Presley" (Crown Trade Paperbacks, $15). Stay tuned to Taste for more On-Line recipes and updates.

FRIED DILL PICKLES

8 dill pickles
½ cup flour
¼ cup beer
1¼ tablespoons paprika
1¼ tablespoons cayenne pepper
1¼ tablespoons black pepper
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons garlic salt
3 dashes hot pepper sauce

Cut dill pickles in slices as thick as a silver dollar. Mix together the remaining ingredients to form a batter. Dip the pickle slices in the batter and quickly fry in grease at 375 degrees F until pickles float to the top, in about 4 minutes. Serves 8.

Cook book gives flare to nutritious recipes

Eating vegetarian has become a common occurrence in most families today. Whether for health or economy, more and more people are eliminating or reducing the amount of meat in their diet.

If you're looking for more alternatives to meat, pick up a copy of the new "365 Ways to Cook Vegetarian," (HarperCollins Publishers, $17.95). Look for it in your bookstore after April 27.

Like other books in the series, this one contains recipes that are short with easily found ingredients.

Written by Kitty Morse, author of "The California Farm Cookbook," "365 Ways to Cook Vegetarian" has recipes featuring pasta, rice, grains, eggs, and cheese with vegetables being the stars.

MACARONI MOUSSAKA

1 (5 ounce) package Cheddar macaroni and cheese
2 medium eggplants, peeled
⅓ cup olive oil
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
2 (14½ ounce) cans Italian-style stewed tomatoes
½ cup dry red wine
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese

Preheat broiler. In a large saucepan filled with lightly salted boiling water, cook macaroni according to package directions, about 9 minutes. Mix with sauce and seasonings and set aside.

Meanwhile, peel eggplants and cut in ¼-inch slices horizontally. Pat dry. Set slices on a single layer on a baking sheet. With a pastry brush, paint each slice with olive oil. Broil as close to heat as possible until lightly browned, 2 to 3 minutes. Turn slices over, paint with oil, and broil until browned on second side, about 2 minutes. Set aside. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degrees F.

In a large frying pan, heat 1 tablespoon olive oil over medium-high heat. Add mushrooms and cook until barely tender, 2 to 3 minutes. Mix mushrooms with cooked macaroni.

In a small bowl, mix 1 cup stewed tomatoes with red wine; set aside. Spoon ⅔ cup stewed tomatoes over bottom of a 10-inch square baking dish. Mix remaining tomatoes with cooked macaroni and mushrooms.

Place one-third of eggplant slices on bottom of baking dish. Cover with half of cooked macaroni mixture. Layer on half of remaining eggplant. Top with remaining macaroni. Cover with last layer of eggplant. Spoon reserved stewed tomatoes and wine on top. Sprinkle with grated Cheddar cheese. Cover tightly with foil.

Bake 50 minutes to 1 hour, until moussaka is bubbly. Serves 4.

ASPARAGUS AND OLIVE LINGUINE

1 pound asparagus, trimmed and cut into 2-inch pieces
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 large Bermuda onion, very thinly sliced
¼ pound Mediterranean-style black olives, pitted and coarsely chopped
12 ounces linguine
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In a large saucepan filled with boilng water, cook asparagus until just tender, about 3 minutes. Rinse under cold running water; drain well.

In a medium frying pan, heat 2 tablespoons olive oil over medium heat. Add onion and cook, stirring occasionally, until lightly browned, 8 to 10 minutes. Add olives and asparagus bits. Cook, stirring to heat through, 1 to 2 minutes.

Meanwhile, in a large pot filled with lightly salted boiling water, cook pasta until tender but still firm, 8 to 10 minutes; drain. Transfer to a serving bowl and toss with 1 tablespoon olive oil. Keep warm.

To serve, place pasta on a large serving platter. Top with asparagus and olive mixture. Serve with grated cheese on the side. Serves 4.

CC basketball loses its luster; Baker leaving

The BOX Score:

A coach with a Catholic-League background, who wanted to remain anonymous, had this to say about the basketball coaching vacancy at Redford Catholic Central:

"Who would want that job after the way they bum-rushed a guy with a track record like that out of town?"

I Wonder if other qualified coaches feel the same way.

The quote was in reaction to coach Bernie Holowicki's resignation after 23 years at CC. It's obvious Holowicki wasn't wanted back despite being named the Class A coach of the year by one major newspaper after winning his seventh Catholic League championship and 15th district title.

The 62-year-old Holowicki, who still wants to remain in coaching, is the winningest active coach in the state with 612 victories.

Greg Esler, who led St. Clair Shores Lakeshore to the Class B title and an undefeated season this year, was rumored to be a possible candidate but he's likely to end up at Warren DeLaSalle if coach Tim Turner gets an unfair ax.

My hunch is Joe Charnley, the successful coach at Dearborn Divine Child and a former Holowicki assistant coach, would be CC's first choice.

But does he need the headache?

Charnley, a Plymouth resident, said before Easter vacation that he has not applied. Why should he? He's treated well at DC.

One more thing.

If CC fans are hoping Charnley's best player, junior guard Dan Geoghegan, would make the move with him, think again.

Charnley would have none of that, and CC has a policy of not allowing seniors to transfer and play sports at its school.

I wonder about the administration at CC and the communication between principal the Rev. Joseph Moffatt and the coaching staff.

Moffatt hasn't returned calls from the Observer and it looks like the only way I could speak to him is if I stepped into his confessional.

Ironically, a couple weeks ago Moffatt was pictured in the Observer news section, standing next to a CC student who sold $15,000 worth of raffle tickets.

So we know Moffatt can say "Cheese" for a photographer but not pick up a telephone and talk to a reporter.

His athletic director, Bob Santello, does a fine job and works endless hours, but he's limited under Moffatt's leadership.

Much of Santello's communication is done by passing notes to coaches.

Maybe he can patent these notes and call them "Santellograms."

■ Say it's an April Fool's joke, A.J.

A.J. Baker, the Redford resident who coached the Michigan Nationals Junior hockey team out of Dearborn and also runs the Metro Summer Hockey League in Plymouth, said Friday he's heading south.

The 34-year-old Redford Union graduate has accepted an assistant coach's job at Alabama-Huntsville, a Division II college program. Baker, who leaves May 1, said he will be assistant manager of an ice rink in Huntsville, too.

Since he ran a summer league for about a decade, Baker won't feel strange going to an ice rink in the Alabama heat.

Baker believes his best way to eventually be a college head coach is to make a drastic move. Hockey is in his blood.

"If it wasn't for a sheet of ice, I'd be a counter clerk at 7-Eleven," Baker joked.

Baker said he has approached local colleges about assistant coaching jobs but hasn't gotten anywhere. The head coach at Alabama-Huntsville is Dearborn native and 1972 U.S. Olympic hockey player Doug Ross.

"It's kind of funny how it takes someone from out of state who can appreciate what you can do," said Baker, who also will be leaving his job as manager of Canfield Ice Arena in Dearborn. "You can't tell me Michigan State, Michigan, Western Michigan, Michigan Tech and Northern Michigan don't have a position for an assistant that would make it worthwhile to move there."

Baker said Plymouth resident Tom Yockey might buy the MHSL and continue running the league this summer out of the Plymouth Cultural Center.

If not, maybe Baker's mother, Edna, who served as the league secretary, can continue to run the league.

Distance troops lift Canton hopes

The final race of the Western Lakes Activities Association track meet certified Plymouth Canton's season as a success. The Chiefs had already tied Walled Lake Western for the Western Division crown, but winning that final relay put them atop the conference.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Really, not all that much has changed for Plymouth Canton's boys track team.

■ Not the team's greatest strength, which again figures to be in the distance events.

■ Not the dominant relays, which produced two first-place finishes at last year's Western Lakes Activities Association meet.

■ Not the overall depth, which is still in evidence.

And hopefully the results will be much the same — another WLAA championship and a Western Division title.

"We have a solid crew back from last year's group," said coach Bob Richardson, noting 25 returnees among the 50 on the team. "Whether we can duplicate that feat, we'll find out later."

Richardson's reference to "that feat" was the Chiefs come-from-behind victory at the WLAA meet. Entering the final event, the 1,600-meter relay, they trailed both Northville and Farmington Harrison. To be league champs, they would not only have to win the relay but finish at least a couple places ahead of both.

They did. Canton's Matt Demey, Marques Nelson, John Martin and Kevin Gudeth took first; Northville was sixth, Harrison ended up eighth. The Chiefs claimed the WLAA crown with 111½ points, six more than runner-up Northville.

The distance runners will be depended upon for Canton to succeed again. Last year, the Chiefs finished one-two-three at the WLAA meet in the 800 and had three in the top eight in both the 1,600 and 3,200.

Two of the three senior co-captains are distance runners: Demey (seventh in the 400 at the WLAA) and Jeff Keith, who won the 800 at the league meet and placed second in the 1,600.

Other distance troops include senior Todd Smith (sixth in the 1,600); sophomore Ian Bedford (seventh in the 3,200); junior Casey Moothart (eighth in the 3,200); junior Brian Crocket; and junior Colin Astley.

"We're heavily relying on our distance crew to pull us through some tough spots, as they did last year," said Richardson.

There are plenty of sprinters, too, led by senior co-captain Mike Erickson. Both Mike Gurchak, a junior, and Rob Lemasters, a senior, scored in the 200 at the WLAA meet (placing seventh and eighth, respectively).

They are joined by Martin, a senior who took third at the WLAA in the 300 hurdles ("He's our go-to guy in so many areas"), juniors Ben Greanya, Dave Gay and Taka Shirai, and freshmen Dave Koshizawa and Bill Iler.

The field events are not so formidable. Simeon, junior Jon Gallinger, sophomore Brandt Blair, sophomore Chris Benskey and senior John Mogelnicki, a football team veteran in his first year of track, will anchor the weight events.

Mogelnicki may also be in the high jump, with Lemasters, Nelson and Page. The long jump will feature Semion, Greanya, Gurchak, Lemasters, Koshizawa and Shirai.

Although there is depth, Richardson said, "We're not as deep as last year. I don't think it will take people long to figure that out. It just depends on how we shift our people into events. We've got a half-dozen guys we can switch around."

There are some notable losses: Gudeth (2nd, 800), Justin McClain (third, 800), Nelson (sprints), Damon Collier (sprints), Dave Yack (fourth, 3,200), Eric Tomei (eighth, 110 hurdles), Tom Raven (third, discus) and Mark Koziol (seventh, high jump).

Running events are a plus for the Rocks

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Feast and famine.

OK, it's not quite that good — or bad — for Plymouth Salem's boys track team. It just seems that way.

The Rocks have a lot on the track, including three of the four members of last year's league champion 400-meter relay team. One look at the depth and talent of the runners and you'd be willing to grant them league-contender status.

But then there are the field events to consider. And it's there that Salem is lacking.

"Our strengths will be on the track," said coach Geoff Baker. "It's our field events where we'll have problems."

Last season, the Rocks were co-champions of the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division, sharing the title with Westland John Glenn and Farmington at 4-1. At the conference meet they finished fifth.

The biggest loss from last year is sprinter/hurdler Don Johnson, who qualified for the state meet in the 110-meter hurdles and placed second in the WLAA in both that and the long jump. Also gone is Derek Cudini, who was third in the WLAA in the 1,600 and 3,200; Jeff Schumacher, seventh in the shot put at the WLAA meet; and sprinter/high jumper Todd Forbes.

The returnees are impressive, however. There's senior Brian Herc, who was second last year in the 300 hurdles at the WLAA meet. And senior sprinters Adam Bakowski, Jay Casey and Marcus Zevalkink, who combined with Johnson to win the 400 relay at the WLAA last season, are all back.

Also returning on the track: seniors Dan Miller (hurdles), Josh Stickney (800 and 1,600), Russ Polcyn (400, 800) and Andy Coburn (sprints).

But in field events, there are holes to fill. "We're a bit short on people," said Baker. "We're looking for people."

Rocky Johnson, a junior, leads the shot put and discus crew. Sophomore Dirk Schmiedel is best among the high jumpers, and senior Ryan Edwards tops the long jumpers.

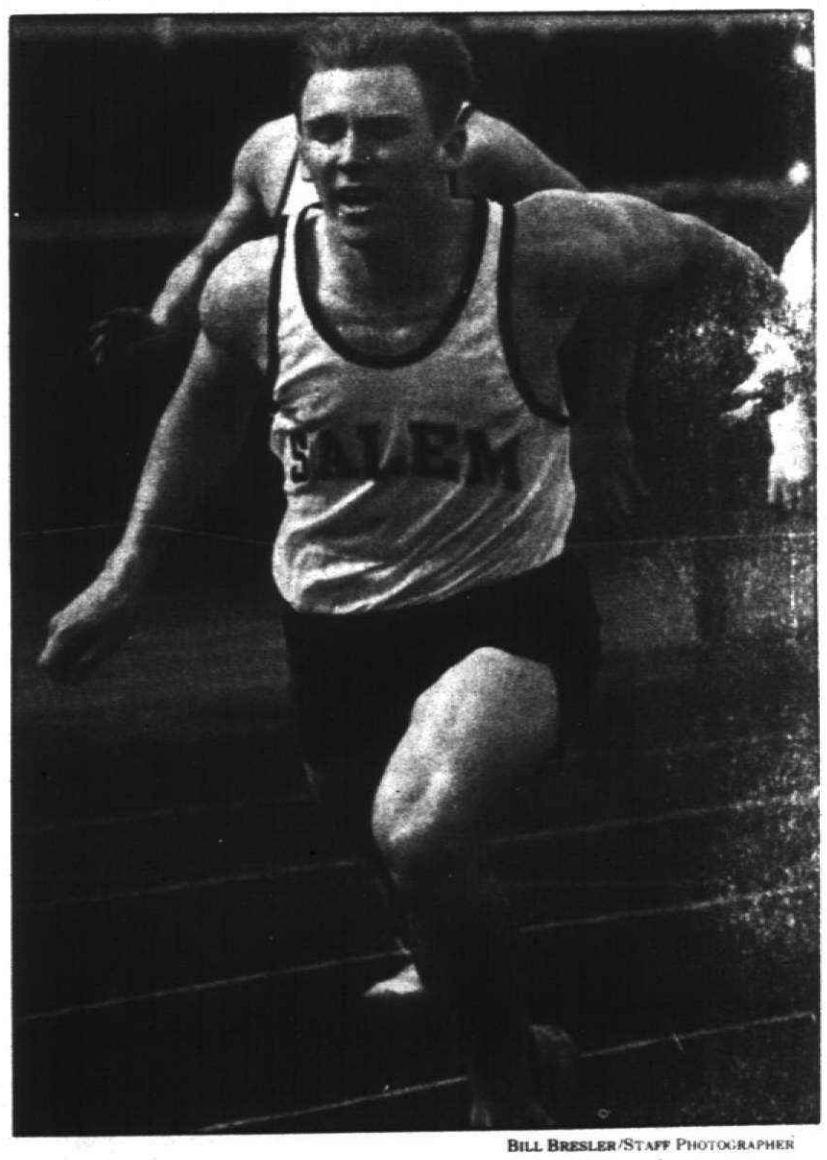
Underclassmen whom Baker expects to contribute are sophomore Scott Pengelly, who placed sixth in the 3,200 at the Spartan Relays April 2 (he'll also run the 800 and 1,600), and in the middle distance events junior Andy McDonald and sophomore Jared Biniecki.

The key to success for Salem is simple: "If we can get some points out of Rocky and Dirk and Ryan in the field events, our other guys on the track will make up for the shortages."

And if the Rocks do get something in field events, Baker said, "I think we can challenge for the division title."

Chief division rivals are familiar ones — Farmington and John Glenn. In the conference race, there are defending champion Plymouth Canton, Northville and Farmington Harrison.

"We're going to be good," Baker said. "If we lose, we're going to work that much harder. If we win, it will give us some promise for the rest of the season."



BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Solid on the track: With returnees like Marcus Zevelkink, a top sprinter for Salem last season, the Rocks look good when running. The field events could be a problem, however.

Schoolcraft searching for new coach, AD

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Is it worth it?

Every year, coaches and athletic administrators wrestle with that question. Does the money offered justify the time spent?

Nowak

While the question is familiar to all those involved in sports management, the route to the answer is a singular one. Each man and woman must weigh the circumstances surrounding his or her individual situation and come to their own conclusion.

For a pair of Schoolcraft College administrators, the answer arrived at was the same: Time for a change.

Jack Grenan, women's basketball coach for 11 years — the head coach for the last eight — gave notice that he would not return at the end of last season. Marty Nowak, the school's athletic director for the past five years, resigned March 24.

According to Midge Carleton, assistant dean for physical science, Nowak left for reasons "both professional and personal. There was nothing specific.

"I know his job at Holmes (Middle School) was demanding. And he said he wanted to play golf."

Nowak is an administrator at Holmes. He was unavailable for comment last week.

Grenan resigned, he said, because there simply wasn't enough time. He is currently working toward his second Master's Degree, this one in counseling (his first was in education). Also, his wife, Nancy, is pregnant, with the baby due in July.

Grenan has three other children — 9, 11 and 14 years old. His son is playing basketball at St. Michael's in Livonia; Grenan will serve as an assistant coach.

JIM JAGIELO/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Looking ahead: Jack Grenan, who guided Schoolcraft's women's basketball for nine years, won't miss coaching much.

"It's time to do something different," said Grenan. "I've been (at SC) 11 years. And it's really time to devote more time to (my family).

"Something had to give between my full-time job, the baby and basketball."

When the situation is viewed like that, the answer is all too apparent. Still, Grenan's departure leaves another question. At the end of last season, he faced a near mutiny by his team. Did that prompt his resignation?

"No," he answered. "It just confirmed my decision to move on. It was time for a change. It's not a case of being burned out. It's just a case of doing something different."

Grenan's first four years as head coach at SC were very successful. His team twice won the Eastern Conference (in '86 and '88) and twice finished second (in '87 and '89). In 1988, the Lady Ocelots posted a 28-4 record.

But the team has struggled since. Last season's 12-12 mark was its best finish since '89.

The reason, Grenan said, was the additional attention other Eastern Conference schools started to give women's basketball, while SC stayed pretty much the same.

Grenan said he had a talk with SC administrators following the 1990 season, during which he told them it would be increasingly difficult to compete with the same resources while others kept upgrading their programs.

The answer he received: Play competitive basketball and make sure his players got their education so they could go on to a four-year school.

"Education was always first at Schoolcraft," Grenan said.

Lady Crusaders sign 4 spikers

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Never one to sit still, Madonna University volleyball coach Jerry Abraham is determined to top last year's 46-8 overall record and fifth-place in the NAIA national tournament.

Abraham has added four new recruits to the program, while awaiting word on a fifth player.

The Lady Crusaders must replace a pair of key performers. Among those lost to graduation are first-team NAIA All-America Kari Van Duesen, a strong middle hitter, along with four-year setter and team MVP Mazie Pilut.

Joining the ranks next fall for Madonna and Abraham:

■ Vicki Toth, a 5-foot-10 senior from Redford Union, who committed in early March. She joins another RU product, Kelly McCausland, who stood out last fall as freshman for the Lady Crusaders.

■ MADONNA

■ Erin Gregoire, a 5-7 defensive specialist from Monroe St. Mary's Catholic Central. She was a Class B All-State honorable mention pick after leading the Kestrels to the state quarterfinals;

■ Emily Marlow, a 5-11 setter/middle hitter from Carlton-Airport where she was voted all-Huron League and Class B honorable mention All-State;

■ Nicole Scharrer, a 5-11 outside-hitter from Davison where she was voted team MVP and All-Big 9 Conference.

Abraham said he is close to signing 5-10 Heather Steinhelper, who played last season at Ferris State. Steinhelper, who already has been given a release from the Big Rapids school, played high school volleyball at Clarkston.

The addition of Toth, who led RU to the Mega Conference White Division co-championship, may have been Abraham's biggest recruiting coup.

Toth drew lukewarm interest after sitting out her junior year following major knee surgery.

"Vicki has a lot of good skills and potential," the Madonna coach said. "She works hard and fits into our style of play. She has good hands and can attack."

Gregorie, meanwhile, impressed the coaches with her play earlier this year in the Madonna Tournament despite playing in only four games (suffering from the flu).

"She comes from an excellent high school program and was well coached by John Jewell," Abraham said. "She's an all-around player, but we look at her as a defensive specialist. She's a primary passer and we look for her to compete as a starting setter."

Gregoire, who plans to major in elementary education, carries a 3.6 grade-point average.

Marlow, who carries a 3.7 GPA, is a another top-notch student-athlete.

"We hope to train her as a setter and she could compete for the starting setter position," Abraham said. "She has a lot of potential and has the tools to make the adjustment to college volleyball because she's a versatile player."

Scharrer becomes the third player from Davison to play at Madonna. She joins junior Marci Laurencelle and sophomore Kate Dunning.

"I like her, she's a big, strong kid and a powerful hitter," said the Madonna coach. "She's a big-time blocker and has the frame of a volleyball player that could dominate in the front row. I'm confident she can step in soon and become an impact player."

And not to be outdone, Scharrer also does well in the classroom, sporting a 3.7 GPA.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

■ TOP BATSMAN

Stacey Thompson is making a major statement in her final year of softball at the University of Pennsylvania.

The senior from Plymouth (Plymouth Canton HS) was leading the Ivy League in hitting with a .452 average through 19 games. She also is tops on the Quakers in triples with three and is second on the team in runs batted in with eight.

Penn started the season slowly, going 2-7 on their spring trip to Florida. But since returning to the north, the Quakers have gone 7-3 with five-straight wins. They took a 9-10 record into last Saturday's Ivy League opener against Princeton.

■ ALL-AMERICAN

Ron Orris completed his collegiate swimming career at Michigan State by earning honorable mention All-American honors as part of MSU's 400-yard medley and 800-yard freestyle relay teams at the NCAA Championships March 24-26 in Minneapolis.

Orris, a senior from Canton (Plymouth Salem), combined with Chris-Carol Bremer, Lars Kalenka and Uwe Volk to finish 13th in the 800 free relay (6:33.30). The same foursome took 15th in the 400 medley relay (3:23.54).

The Spartans finished tied for 20th with 38 points. They had a 7-4 dual-meet record, including a 3-3 mark in the Big Ten.

■ TEAM LEADER

Scott Niemiec, a junior catcher for the University of Michigan who missed a half-dozen games due to injury, made his return with fanfare. The Plymouth Canton graduate had five hits in seven at-bats against Michigan State, increasing his batting average to a team-leading .396.

Niemiec also hit his first home run of the season. He has four doubles and six runs batted in, and has four stolen bases in five attempts.

The Wolverines were 10-13 overall and 5-3 in the Big Ten entering last week.

■ BREAKING EVEN

Her first season isn't a runaway success, but freshman Kelly Holmes is holding her own for the University of Michigan softball team.

Holmes, from Plymouth Canton, has split mound duties with junior Kelly Kovach. Holmes' record it 6-8 in 17 appearances, 14 of them starts. She has two shutouts, with 44 strikeouts in 88 innings and a 3.18 earned run average.

U-M took a 14-16 mark into last week's action. The Wolverines were 2-2 in the Big Ten.

■ REC NEWS

Tennis lessons are being offered by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services for ages seven and over, for players of all ability levels. Classes will be held once a week beginning April 25 for six weeks. Cost is $29 for Canton residents and $35 for non-residents. Call 397-5110 for more information.

A women's Friday morning golf league gets underway at Fellows Creek in Canton on May 6. The league will last 16 weeks.

He did not disagree with that listing of priorities. Indeed, one of his proudest memories has nothing to do with the game: "I lost just two players to grades in my nine years."

Last season, almost all of his team posted a better-than-3.0 grade-point average.

"Regrets — no, I haven't any," Grenan said. "Twenty of my players went on to play at four-year schools. Last year, we had our best team grade-point average ever.

"I accomplished what I was hired to do."

Carleton said both jobs had been posted internally. She said she would begin reviewing applications today.

Simple, honest, straightforward. How else would you expect to lease a Saturn?

By now, you've probably heard about the Saturn buying experience. No hassles, no pressure, no fuss, just common courtesy, along with a pretty great car.

Well, the way we see it, your experience shouldn't be any different if you want to lease a Saturn. After all, what could we possibly gain by making things any less straightforward than they have to be?

($168/Month $1000/Down 36/Months)

SmartLease payments based on 1994 Saturn SL Sedan, 5 speed, AC, MSRP $11,210 excluding taxes, title, license fee and insurance. First month's lease payment of $168 plus $200 refundable security deposit and down payment of $1,000 for a total of $1,368 due at lease signing. Option to purchase at lease end for $6614. Payments total $6048.

Mon., Thurs. 7:30-9:00
Tues., Wed., Fri. 7:30-6:00
Saturday 10:00-4:00

GMAC must approve lease. Mileage charge of $0.15 per mile over 36,000 miles. Your payments may be higher or lower. Lessee pays for excessive wear and use.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)
You may be dealing with a very controlling and intellectual person. It is important for you to stand up for what you believe.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)
There is a promise of growth and fertility in all things. You may look forward to a happy conclusion to a difficult situation.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
You could receive some news that will surprise you. If a domineering person is upsetting you, it is time you told him or her exactly what you think.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
You may have put someone close to you on the defensive. Try to be tactful. There is a good chance plans will be delayed.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
It is important that you be realistic and narrow down your choices. An unexpected event will cheer your heart and make you feel better about the world.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
A wish will come true, and just in time. Your worries will disappear, and you will have new plans and goals. Health matters will also improve.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
Stop worrying so much. A positive change is on the way for you. It will take time to see the results of your hard work, but you are doing very well.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
You are bored and ready for a change. Get up and make some positive changes in your life, then watch as your actions take a snowball effect.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
There will be a release of all your tensions and fears about the future. As the pressures ease off, you will begin to enjoy the world around you.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
This is no time to feel sorry for yourself. You have a job to do and it is imperative that you do it. Keep your temper in check.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
You need to stop what you are doing and take some time to plan ahead. Once you change your attitude about a situation, things will look better.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
It is difficult right now for you to keep up with the many demands of life. You are a very strong person and in the end you will triumph.

Menendez miasma goes prime time in Fox's 'Honor'

BY JEFF PLASS

What kind of commentary on American society is it when the best thing that can be said about a scandal-ridden, fact-based, made-for-television movie about sexual abuse, greed and premeditated murder is that it was entertaining?

Is society so jaded it must look incessantly to real-life misery for cheap thrills?

All things said and done, "Honor Thy Father and Mother: The True Story of the Menendez Murders," airing on Fox Monday, april 18, does no more to provide insight into the whys and wherefores of the Menendez murder case than three months of jury deliberations did in the real-life trial.

But at least it's entertaining.

Billy Warlock ("Baywatch") and newcomer David Beron star as the now-infamous siblings, Lyle and Erik Menendez, who murdered their parents, Jose and Kitty Menendez, on August 20, 1989.

"All I want is that this thing is entertaining," Warlock says. "Because I'll tell you, that's all we set out to do. You're not going to learn anything (from this movie) that you didn't already know."

Indeed.

Taken from trial transcripts, public records and the book "Blood Brothers" by John Johnson and Ronald L. Soble, "Honor Thy Father and Mother" begins on the night of the murders and dramatizes the events that led up to the arrests of Erick and Lyle.

Warlock and Beron do a fine job of delivering the personalities viewers of Court TV have come to expect from the Menendez brothers. Warlock especially locks on to a particular side of the angrier, more manipulative brother, Lyle.

"What I hope comes across," Warlock states, "and it was something that I don't think the script had in it, but it suggested, was that he very much admired and respected his father and wanted to follow in his father's footsteps. It just wasn't the strongest part of him."

The central question in the case, and by extension, the movie, was motive.

Did the Menendez brothers shoot their wealthy parents out of self-defense? They had threatened to go public with the sordid details of the years of sexual abuse their father made them endure, and they allegedly feared for their own safety.

Or did they just want the millions of dollars they stood to inherit without having to wait?

The movie does make one decision clear for the viewer. James Farentino's portrayal of Jose Menendez is so horrific, so monstrous, that one feels little sympathy for the character when he gets offed.

Whether or not Farentino gives a fair or accurate representation of the Menendez patriarch is now a moot point at best, as Jose will never have a chance to defend himself.

"James made a choice," Warlock states, "and who am I to say. I don't know how Jose Menendez was. Some of the testimony I saw from his co-workers said that was exactly how he was. Then there were a few others that said, 'No, hey, he was a nice guy.'

"We'll never know."

"I will say that James playing Jose scared the living bejeebies out of me," Warlock adds. "I mean, he's intense, man. Oh, is he intense."

LET'S TALK

Van Dyke has a car for mom then, plays second banana on 'Coach'

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Could you please tell me something about Jerry Van Dyke who plays Luther on "Coach"? How long has he been in show business? Where did he get his start? What shows, other than "Coach," has he appeared in? Also can you please give me an address where I can write to him? –A. Wilson, San Angelo, Texas.

A: Van Dyke was born and raised in Danville, Ill., and began his career in high school, performing anywhere he could.

He joined the Air Force in 1952, and performed throughout the world in Special Services. Van Dyke won the All-Air Force Talent Show two years in a row and appeared twice on "The Ed Sullivan Show."

While working in Las Vegas showrooms in 1962, Van Dyke was offered his first acting role on his brother's show, "The Dick Van Dyke Show." He received overnight acclaim and was signed to a contract by CBS.

Soon Van Dyke was in high demand. He appeared on "The Judy Garland Show" as comic relief, and later did a game show called "Picture This."

In 1964, Grant Tinker convinced Van Dyke that "My Mother the Car" was the perfect vehicle for his comedic skills. The show lasted only one season, but in the annals of comedy television, it has never been forgotten.

Other shows in which he starred include "Accidental Family," "Headmaster," "13 Queens Boulevard," and the miniseries "Fresno," alongside Carol Burnett and Dabney Coleman.

Van Dyke's feature film credits include "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," "Palm Springs Weekend," and "Run If You Can."

Currently, Van Dyke is a headliner in major showrooms in Atlantic City, N.J., and Lake Tahoe, Reno and Las Vegas, Nev.

He has received three Emmy nominations in the category of outstanding supporting actor for his role as Luther Van Dam on "Coach."

You can write to Van Dyke C/O "Coach," at ABC Public Relations, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067.

Q: Could you please answer the following questions for me?

1. What was the name of Sheriff Roscoe P. Coltrane's dog on "The Dukes of Hazzard"?

2. What is the name of the planet Jabba the Hut died on in "Return of the Jedi"?

3. Who played the Trickster in TV's "The Flash"?

4. Has Suzanne Somers ever used a Thighmaster? –Name and address withheld.

A: OK, Here goes:

1. Flash was the name of Roscoe's bassett hound on "Dukes."

2. Jabba was killed on Luke Skywalker's home planet of Tatooine.

3. The part of the Trickster was played by Mark Hamill.

4. Somers served as spokeswoman for Thighmaster and at least used it for the commercials.

Q: What was the name of the little girl who played Carrie on "Little House on the Prairie"? –L.W., Kent, Ohio.

Jerry Van Dyke

A: The role of Carrie was played by twins Lindsay and Sydney Greenbush.

Q: I am probably the most dedicated fan of the television show "The Commish." I watch it every time it is on and I record it to watch throughout the week. I have an idea that will improve the show, but I don't know where to send it. Can you help me? –Jennifer Bilbrey, Cookeville, Tenn.

A: For writer's guidelines, try writing to Stephen J. Cannell Productions, Inc., 7083 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, Calif. 90028. For legal reasons, be sure to read their guidelines before sending story ideas.

Send questions to Let's Talk, Features Dept. TV Data Technologies, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804. Because of the volume of mail received, personal replies cannot be sent.

HIGHLIGHTS

John Amos returns to series television in the premiere of "704 Hauser" on CBS, Monday, April 11.

Amos stars as Ernest Cumberbatch, a working-class father with liberal political views. Ernest is frequently at odds with his conservative-minded son, Thurgood Marshall "Goodie" Cumberbatch (T.E. Russell).

The family occupies an address that may be familiar to TV viewers – "704 Hauser" was previously the residence of the Bunkers from "All in the Family."

SOAP WORLD

Claire Bloom joins cast of 'ATWT'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I would like to know the name of the actress who portrays Damian's mother on "As The World Turns."

I am an old woman, but I swear I have seen her somewhere before. Can you please tell me who she is? – Maude in New Jersey.

Dear Reader: Many readers have inquired about the familiar face of the actress who plays Orlena Grimaldi, Damian's mother, on "ATWT."

The actress is Claire Bloom and she has had a distinguished career in television, films and the theater. It is no wonder that you think you have seen her before, because she has been in so many things.

A few of her film credits include roles in "Crimes and Misdemeanors," "Limelight" and "Richard III," which were directed by Woody Allen, Charlie Chaplin and Laurence Olivier, respectively.

Dear Candace: I have been trying to find out what happened to the prime-time soap called "Second Chances." It had Connie Selleca and Megan Fellows and it was a very interesting story line. I really enjoyed watching it and I am hoping it has not been canceled. –L.B., New Ross, Ind.

Dear Reader: At press time, "Second Chances" had not been officially canceled, but there is little chance it will return. According to a spokesman for the show, many of the actors from the program have gone on to work on other shows. The set also suffered extensive damage from the Los Angeles earthquake that would be costly to repair.

Prime-time soaps are not having a great year. "Angel Falls," "Secrets of Lake Success" and "Tradewinds" are just a few of last season's prime-time soaps that did not make it.

It is interesting, because there is certainly an audience for prime-time soap programming. All of those people who watched "Knots Landing," "Falcon Crest" and "Dallas" did not fall off the side of the earth, so why can't the soaps find a new home in prime time?

Send your comments to Candace Havens, Soap World, Features Dept., TV Data Technologies, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804.
