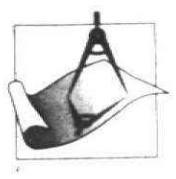
Board lowers tax assessments



The Canton Township Tax Board of Review lowered the property tax assessments on 217 pieces of property. Most reductions were for hardship reasons. However, the reductions are significant this year because they will set values under Proposal A.

The two Canton Township Tax Boards of Review reduced property tax assessments on 217 pieces of property this year, but they had four times that in the number of appeals.

"The biggest reason people were appealing this year and last year was they refinanced their homes and had a bank appraisal," said Marcia Barker, chairwoman of one of the two boards. "But the bank doesn't give you 100 percent value for your home."

In the end, approximately $3 million in reductions were made this year. Of the 217 reductions, 65 were financial hardship cases totaling approximately $1 million, Barker said.

Of the $3 million adjustments, residential appeals accounted for $827,595 and assessor's changes at $1.1 million (changes made directly by the assessor to correct errors).

While hardship appeals remained steady compared to 1993, the boards were not faced with as many agricultural appeals as they were last year when farmers and owners of agricultural land faced triple-digit increases.

"Certainly we hope we are a help to them," Barker said, of those who appealed based on hardship.

This year, the boards heard appeals from a handful of new home buyers who complained that the quality of their homes didn't match the assessed value.

Most residential homeowners had an average 3-3.5 percent property assessment increase. Some neighborhoods even had decreased assessments, while others such as Glengarry on Canton Center Road were faced with 9 percent and higher increases.

Symphony tunes up for '94 pops concert

About the time golfers are sauntering out of the 19th hole, music-lovers from Canton will be flocking to Fox Hills Country Club for the Plymouth Symphony League's auction and benefit pops concert at 6 p.m. Friday, April 29.

Preceded by cocktails at 6 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m., the 8 p.m. concert will feature the music of Andrew Lloyd Weber and a performance by the Detroit Handbells Ensemble at the Plymouth Township club.

Symphony League president Linda Alvarado said tickets for the benefit pops concert, which last year attracted an audience of 240, are sold out. Nearly 400 tickets have been bought, she said.

WQRS radio announcer Paul Russell will host the silent and live auction.

The pops concert will kick off the symphony's individual donor campaign. Esther Hulsing, former Plymouth Township clerk and longtime community activist, will serve as honorary chairman of the individual donor campaign.

Liz Scheatzle is serving as chairman of the individual donor campaign, and Jill Scypta is heading up the auction for the Symphony League.

The Symphony League is christening new quarters in the PMC Building on Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth Township. Building owner Jim Kassab is helping to underwrite costs for the symphony.

"We're grateful to Drs. Roger Bookwalter, Robert Millard, Nils Korsnes and Philip Warren, who gave us office space for the past six years," said Alvarado.

Expanded Liberty Fest offers fun for all ages

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

New and expanded activities are in store for visitors to the third annual Canton Liberty Fest.

"Just about everything we had in the last two years we are keeping or expanding," said Bob Dates, of the Canton Township Parks and Recreation Services.

The three-day family fest is set for June 24, 25, 26 throughout Heritage Park behind Canton Township Hall along Canton Center Road at Proctor.

The only activity dropped for 1994 is miniature golf. What's new in store for the fest is a fife and drum muster competition, a Civil War encampment, a Taste of Canton food festival, and fun inflatables for kids to play and romp on available through a Canadian company.

"Right off the bat it sounded like a good idea," said Dates about the fife and drum competition suggested by the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corp. One of the corps is from Greenfield Village, another from Ohio.

Restaurants, including McDonald's, Mountain Jack's, TC Gators, Rose's, Papa Romano's and Buck Jones Deli, have signed up for the new Taste of Canton, which will run all day Saturday, June 25.

Also new is a Canton Chamber Business EXPO under a huge tent in the park, as well as an antiques and collectibles show, expanded fireworks, increased beverage stations, and entertainers who perform at the amphitheater and gazebo will stroll around the park with their talents.

New this year is a shuttle service that will take visitors, particularly senior adults and residents with handicaps, throughout the festival grounds, Dates said.

The festival will officially begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 24, at the amphitheater with a free performance by Steve King and the Dittlies playing oldies.

"We would like to see a big crowd come out for it," said Dates, chairman of the liberty fest committee.

Saturday, June 25, is the big festival day that concludes with a fireworks show that drew about 25,000 visitors last year. The fireworks will be preceded with a performance by the 70th Division Army Band.

Also on tap this year is the Classic Car Show, but this year it will be hosted by a new Canton car club, America's Most Wanted Car Club. The club has 26-28 members. But they are interested in anyone who might want to display their classic cars at the festival. For more information call Brian Lawrence, 454-8938, or Gordon Jackson, 981-9258.

The Liberty Fest committee also is looking for volunteers to help during the festival. Each volunteer will receive a T-shirt for the event. To volunteer, call parks and recreation, 397-5110.

Dates is also working on another official Liberty Fest shirt that will be available for purchase by visitors.

The committee also plans to randomly survey visitors this year on a variety of issues, such as food, parking and festival events. "This is our third year with the festival and we're looking for good feedback," said Dates, who added volunteers are also needed for the surveys.

School candidate to visit community

The last of the semifinalists for the job of Plymouth-Canton school superintendent, Dr. Gary Hughes, will visit the district Monday and Tuesday, May 2-3.

Hughes is superintendent of Durand public schools, a district between Flint and Lansing.

The public is invited to an open reception for Hughes from 8-9:30 p.m. Monday, May 2, at the McClendon Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

He will be interviewed for a final time by the board of education from 4-7 p.m. Tuesday, May 3, at the McClendon Center. The interview is open to the public.

The board subcommittee heading up the search will visit the hometown of the candidate selected as the finalist before making a decision, expected May 16.

Superintendent John Hoben is retiring after 23 years on the job in Plymouth-Canton.

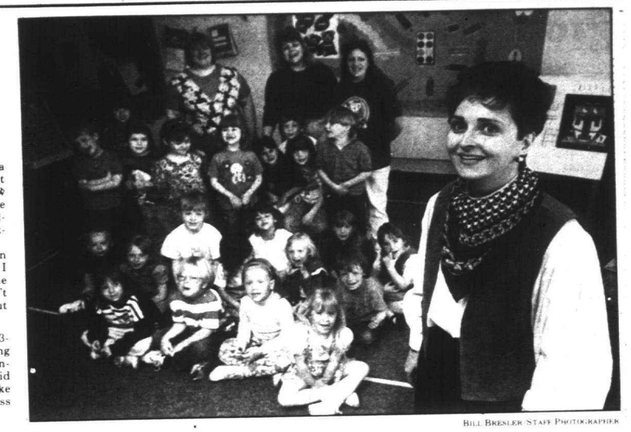
Is the doctor in?

Graduation's a proud moment



BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Dr. Joanelle Long: At Lincoln Elementary in Wayne, students are getting used to addressing their teacher in a new way. Long, who just earned a doctorate, says she received lots of help from her mentors, Dave Rodwell of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Dr. Martha Tack of Farmington Hills.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Joanelle Long made history at Eastern Michigan University Sunday. The teacher and Canton resident became the first individual to earn a doctor of education degree at the Ypsilanti institution.

The educational leadership program is EMU's first and thus far, only program offering a doctorate.

"I knew it was a historical event for EMU, and they made the occasion very special. I'm still getting back to reality," said Long Monday during a break at Lincoln Elementary, a school built during World War II in Wayne when the area was home to Willow Run bomber plant workers.

"EMU has graduated more than 80,000 students and was one of the biggest universities in the U.S. that didn't have a doctorate program," said Long.

Long, married and the mother of two, is the first in her class of 10 students to complete the required 65 hours of post-master's classwork and her dissertation, entitled "Leadership Practices of Elementary Principals and Parental Involvement in Their Schools."

Long's research showed "how very important principals' leadership is in the parental involvement movement. I learned how important it is that they enable and encourage parents' involvement in schools. It makes a world of difference, and I see it as a classroom teacher. Parents are very important in the educational success story."

An Ohio native who earned her bachelor's degree at Ohio State University, Long joined the Wayne-Westland school district in 1974. She left in 1987 to work for the Michigan Department of Education, where she served as career and technical education program development and operations consultant. She returned to Lincoln in 1991.

Long is receiving praise from folks ranging from EMU's president to her kindergartners.

"I congratulate Joanelle Long for her hard work and I believe she is truly representative of the exceptional scholars our doctoral program will continue to produce," said EMU president William Shelton.

Lincoln principal Marian Greer said, "How Joanelle has been able to teach two sessions of kindergarten, run a volunteer program and get her doctorate is beyond me, but that's the kind of person she is."

Rachel Rodman, parent of a first-grade daughter, volunteers at Lincoln. "I wouldn't be here now if it weren't for her. She's the one who got me involved," said Rodman, adding that her daughter excelled while a student of Long's.

Tamra Furlong enrolled her son David in Long's class "after I heard through the grapevine about how fantastic she is. I can't say enough good things about her."

Tammie Petrowski said her 3-year-old already is requesting Long for a teacher. "She encourages all the children," said Petrowski. "She doesn't make anyone feel like they know less than the next person."

On Monday, Long asked students to give her the "vowels password" before they left her classroom for the day. One by one, students recited "a,e,i,o,u" as they got a personal goodbye at Long's door and headed for the sunshine.

Kindergartner Kimber Grudenich is a big fan of her teacher. "When we're being bad, she never yells. She just says, 'Kimber, don't do that,'" said the dark-haired 5-year-old.

Alyssas Lasley likes her teacher even though "we can't eat licorices because they're not nutritious. She lets us eat bananas, oranges, apples and grapes."

Long says she'd love to become a national consultant in parental involvement and early childhood education someday. Meanwhile, she's still fascinated by kindergartners. "Many of these children come from backgrounds that ask for more. They come with a slate that doesn't have a lot on it," she said. "Many of them come without knowing the alphabet or numbers. They go out reading. Miracles happen in here."

School finalist favors shared decision-making

Dr. Robert Monson

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

"He's personable; seems very interested in the district and has done his homework."

"He has high standards for academic excellence."

"He came here with his family two days early, and Monday, on his own, he visited 10 elementaries and three middle schools. He took time to talk to people. That shows enterprise."

"He's a good communicator."

Dr. Robert Monson, superintendent of schools in Westwood, Mass., drew these comments from folks attending his reception and final interview with the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Tuesday.

Chuck Portelli, president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association, praised both Monson and Dr. Charles Little of Frontier schools in suburban Buffalo, N.Y., the other semi-finalist interviewed thus far.

"Both offer something Plymouth-Canton employees, particularly PCEA staff, have been looking for for a long time. We are in the forest with no way out. We need someone who sees what we are doing and appreciates it," he said.

School board members grilled Monson in a three-hour, wide-ranging interview. The Minnesota native is a proponent of site-based management and shared decision-making. While collaborative decision-making can be cumbersome, better decisions result, he said.

Here's a sampling of what Monson had to say.

■ On assessment: "Assessment and instruction go hand in glove. They're ongoing. We need to accumulate the information teachers are getting about kids' learning, then stand back and ask, 'Are our kids progressing at a rate we are comfortable with?' "

■ On negotiations: "We've moved dramatically away from confrontation and work toward common goals. People were skeptical about my motives, but over a period of time they've come to understand and have signaled they want to be more collaborative."

■ On building trust: "You do it by assuming most of your employees want to do well. You structure all decisions toward success."

■ On finance: Westwood has had to make cuts almost yearly. "In that kind of budget environment, we prioritize everything we do. Priorities are linked to where we are going as a district, our values and purpose. We put class size as our No. 1 priority. Our philosophy is to put people ahead of things, always." Industrial arts, home economics, German, and K-5 computer education have been cut. Transportation services are contracted.

Morton Taylor Road project could endanger large trees

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

If Morton Taylor Road is built as a boulevard from Warren to Ford, an expert said it would likely kill the large trees the boulevard would aim to save.

"In my opinion — even with an aggressive program of pruning, watering and fertilization — ultimately all of the large trees will be lost if the proposed Wayne County standard boulevard is constructed," said Canton Township landscape architect Paula Preston Bratto.

Her conclusions are the result of an inspection of more than 30 large trees in the right-of-way where Morton Taylor would be extended. A boulevard would destroy more than 30 percent of the large trees' root zones even if the trees are nurtured with thinning, water and fertilizer, Preston Bratto said.

A boulevard would increase exposure to weather and pollutants for the fewer remaining trees in the right-of-way. A boulevard also would require 12 inches or more of fill, which would be placed over remaining roots.

"It is highly doubtful that even the healthiest tree could survive the loss of over 30 percent of their root zone and 12 inches of fill over the root zone that remains, and a major change to the microclimate," Preston Bratto concluded.

In other words, township officials don't want to spend the additional money a boulevard would cost only to kill the large trees homeowners expected to save with a boulevard, said Tom Casari, township engineer.

Homeowners in the Carriage Hills and Willow Homes subdivisions have a mixed bag of feelings about the proposed extension. Some are adamantly opposed. Others want a boulevard — if the road has to be extended — for safety and aesthetics, and to save the large trees in the area.

Meanwhile, Wayne County staff is proceeding with the design of a two-lane road that could widen at the Warren and Ford road intersections, as well as halfway down the stretch. Construction is scheduled for 1995, said Alan Richardson, Wayne County Public Service transportation planner.

The extension is a state-aided project with the state picking up 80 percent of the costs and Wayne County 20 percent, Richardson said.

Despite Preston Bratto's report, Michelle Hall of the Carriage Hills Homeowners Association, who has been working with township officials, isn't ready to give up the boulevard concept.

Hall plans to bring in another landscape engineer and architect. "He will confirm what their (township) landscape architect said or he will come up with ideas to find a way around (damaging the trees)," Hall said. "The information provided by the township doesn't look promising."

Township officials plan to continue working with homeowners.

became more of a permanent nature," Barker said. "So we were much more cautious about the decisions we made."

Assessor John McLenaghan of Wayne County Appraisal Co. said that this year's assessment becomes a base from which assessments will be based under Proposal A provisions.

Under Proposal A, property tax assessments for residential property are capped at 5 percent or the cost of inflation, whichever is less.

An assessment is to be set at 50 percent of market value, which is considered the usual selling price of a house. The 1994 assessments were based on a 24-month sales study covering the period of April 1, 1991, to March 31, 1993.

Property owners who are unhappy with the local boards of review decisions may appeal to the state Tax Tribunal. The deadline for filing is June 30. Property owners must have appealed first to the local boards.

Schools move TAG program to Miller School

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Despite parents' impassioned pleas, the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education voted 6-1 to move the Talented and Gifted program from Allen Elementary in Plymouth Township to Miller Elementary in Canton.

Dissenting was trustee Jack Farrow, whose son is being tested to enter the TAG program.

"I will vote no on this resolution, not because I disagree, but as a matter of protest. A poor job of communication was done with parents," he said. "I'd been told we've done all we can, but I submit the real test of communication is not what is said, but what is heard."

Several parents who addressed the board Monday night and serve on the TAG Advisory Council said they weren't consulted about the move.

The board concurred with administration's recommendation to move the program based on several reasons.

Superintendent John Hoben said Miller is in an area of potential declining enrollment, while the TAG program is growing beyond Allen's capacity. Miller Principal Sam Barresi has TAG experience, Hoben said.

Transportation Director Dale Goby said Miller is close to the district's geographic center and close to the student population center. "It offers good traffic flow and an improved level of safety, as it's on a residential street. Allen is located on Haggerty, a main artery.

Goby estimated cost savings of up to $10,000, and an extra five minutes of instructional time, because less time will be needed to shuttle students.

Susan Baughn was among the parents objecting to the move, and the loss of two of three TAG teachers and the principal. "I've been unable to determine why the move is necessary. The amount of money that's going to be saved isn't going to solve the district's budget problems," she said.

Charles Afori-Mensa of the TAG Advisory Council said the reasons given for the move "aren't good enough. If you think about children and the emotional stress they will go through, the reasons pale."

Tom Merenda said, "When you change something that works that well, it's kind of scary. Keep the program at Allen School."

Robert Keith said his fourth-grader has a great relationship with Allen Principal Jim Burt. "You're realizing relatively minor savings while disrupting something many students are very comfortable with," he said.

Mary Ann Murray questioned why the district buses students past Fiegel school to Allen. "It doesn't make sense to make kids go further from their homes to accommodate other kids. I still think there's not enough information supporting your decision. If you're even considering it, you don't understand these kids. I will stand on a street corner and beg if that's what it takes."

School board president Roland Thomas said the district will set up a transition program to assist students. "I'd hope people sitting here would have the commitment to make this a long-term move for kids," he said.

Ted Bohlen of Plymouth Township called the board's action "righteous indignation. The board spills more than that ($10,000 in savings) buying buses. Their committees will spend hours and hours looking at ways to save a dime and they blow thousands upon thousands buying buses from a lone bidder. It's too bad."

Tradeport proposed for Willow Run

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

■ 'A 6,700-acre Willow Run International Tradeport could conceivably create 25,000 new local jobs and another 75,000 related jobs across Michigan.'

Joseph D. Joachim consultant

Willow Run could return to its World War II industrial glory days — if a local-state-federal dream comes true.

The dream is an international tradeport surrounding Wayne County's Willow Run Airport and the closed General Motors plant in Washtenaw County.

"A 6,700-acre Willow Run International Tradeport could conceivably create 25,000 new local jobs and another 75,000 related jobs across Michigan," Joseph D. Joachim told the House Economic Development Committee Tuesday in Lansing.

Joachim is the former economic development guru of Oakland County who was instrumental in creating the Oakland Tech Park in Auburn Hills. Now he's a part-time consultant for Wayne County and co-chairman of a joint Wayne-Washtenaw Willow Run Airport Area Economic Opportunity Center — the group that hatched the dream.

"The Oakland Tech Park could fit into one corner of Willow Run International Tradeport," Joachim said of the new project. The Legislature would have to pass a law setting up the tradeport's structure and financing.

By way of comparison:

■ The GM plant, closed last summer, cost 4,000 jobs and 14,000 "ripple effect" jobs.

■ At the peak of World War II, 42,000 workers built bombers there.

■ The site is a bit more than 10 square miles. It surrounds Willow Run Airport, a freight port, and includes the GM plant. It also includes much vacant, developable land. The Conrail train line crosses it — hence its attractiveness for intermodal transportation.

Boundaries are I-94 on the south, Michigan Avenue and the Canton Township boundary on the north, Belleville Road on the east and Wiard Road on the west.

It would be the first of its kind in Michigan. There are tradeports in New Hampshire, Texas and North Carolina.

Sponsor of the legislative bills is Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti. "No one looks at this as a Washtenaw-Wayne or even a southeastern Michigan project," Profit said. "If approved, it will be the largest economic development project for Michigan. I know this sounds self-serving," said Profit, "but it's a jobs project."

"You've got companies all over Michigan that fly over Detroit to Chicago and truck (products and materials) back," said Rep. Greg Pitoniak, D-Taylor, committee chairman.

Pitoniak hopes to have the bill through the House in May and into the Senate in June. Although Gov. John Engler's Commerce Department wrote the legislation, Engler himself has endorsed only the concept, Pitoniak said.

One bill sets up a governing structure that can acquire land and make infrastructure improvements — such as lengthening a runway to 10,000 feet.

The other bills create the 10-square-mile zone in which all new personal income taxes and single business taxes would be "captured" from the state treasury and used by the tradeport authority.

Rep. Greg Kaza, R-Rochester Hills, likes the concept but admitted "I have a few questions about the state dollars." He noted each county government is putting up $250,000 for the tradeport.

Joachim and his Washtenaw co-chairman, Thomas Fegan, visualize public developments costing $126 million. These would be offset by governmental road and airport grants of $34.5 million. The captured income and single business taxes would provide $91.5 million.

A business consultant identified users of the tradeport as manufacturers and assemblers of low-weight, high-value products in international trade; parts-bank operations; freight airlines and maintenance operations; scientific and research activities.

Preston Murray, owner and a pilot in Murray Aviation, said the project would be "synergistic" — stimulating other businesses.

Refer to House Bills 5464 (tradeport), 5465 (income tax amendment) and 5466 (single business tax amendment) when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48913.

SEMCOG voting change to benefit Wayne County

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

SEMCOG is going to a "one person, one vote" system for critical planning issues. Big gainers will be major population blocs like Oakland County, Detroit and Wayne County.

"But we continue to be fundamentally a consensus organization," said E.A. Jackson Morris, a township supervisor from Washtenaw County who chairs SEMCOG's bylaws committee.

For 26 years, SEMCOG has "used a modified 'one government, one vote' system. Suburban Wayne County has eight votes; Oakland and Macomb counties six; Livingston, Washtenaw and St. Clair counties four, and Detroit three. Every governmental unit got at least one vote, regardless of population.

The new "two tier" plan allows SEMCOG to use the old system unless two communities demanded a proportional population vote. Then a second vote would be taken. The rule would apply to both the executive committee and general assembly.

For its first 25 years, complaints were rare because the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments has been a planning agency of voluntary members, lacking governmental authority.

But the 1992 federal transportation act gave SEMCOG power to disburse road money — a governmental power. It raised the specter of the U.S. Supreme Court's 1964 ruling that governing boards must be apportioned on a "one person, one vote" basis.

When L. Brooks Patterson became Oakland executive last year, he and Detroit officials rattled SEMCOG's cage for a change. Last week the executive committee adopted the two-tier plan and forwarded it without opposition to the general assembly, which includes all 150 or so member governments. Final approval is expected June 9.

Under the proportional system, SEMCOG's general assembly would have a total of 2,970 votes.

Counties would have 1,450; cities, villages and townships, 1,450; the education bloc, 20; and the governor 50.

Member units would have approximately one vote for every 3,000 of population. Here is how various units would fare:

- Out-Wayne County — 667.
- Wayne County communities — Canton Township 18, Detroit 325, Garden City 10, Livonia 32, City of Northville 2, Northville Township 5, City of Plymouth 3, Plymouth Township 7, Redford Township 17, Westland 27. (Unlisted communities are non-members of SEMCOG.)

MADD ceremony honors local officers

The Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving held its annual Lifesavers Awards ceremony earlier this month at Bonnie Brook Golf Club in Detroit.

The group honored 28 law enforcement officers from all over Wayne County for their efforts in preventing drunken-driving accidents and fatalities.

This year's recipients included Michael Wells of the Canton Township Police Department, Rodney Remer of the Garden City Police Department, Kraig Brueck of the Redford Township Police Department and Gregg Angelosanto of the Westland Police Department.

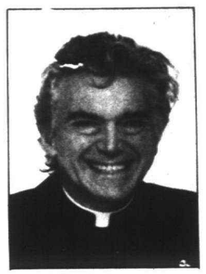
Focus:HOPE director to address Madonna grads



William Cunningham

David Hanson

Elizabeth Stevens

■ Madonna will conduct a baccalaureate Mass for graduates beginning 7 p.m. Thursday, May 5, in the Presentation Chapel of the Felician Sisters' Motherhouse. Bishop Walter J. Schoenherr will be the celebrant.

Nearly 800 students will graduate at Madonna University's 47th commencement exercises beginning 10:30 a.m. Saturday, May 7, in Calihan Hall at the University of Detroit Mercy.

Madonna will also conduct a baccalaureate Mass for graduates beginning 7 p.m. Thursday, May 5, in the Presentation Chapel of the Felician Sisters' Motherhouse. Bishop Walter J. Schoenherr will be the celebrant.

A reception hosted by Madonna University president Sister Mary Francilene will be held following the Mass for graduates and their guests.

The graduation commencement address will be given by the Rev. William Cunningham, executive director of Focus:HOPE, who will also get an honorary doctoral degree in humanities.

Cunningham also is pastor of the Catholic Church of the Madonna. He is nationally recognized for his lifelong commitment to racial justice and integration.

Two additional honorary degrees will be given to David Hanson, a higher education consultant with the Michigan Department of Education, and Elizabeth Stevens, chairman of the board of Cold Heading Co. Hanson's honorary degree will be in education.

Stevens' degree will be in business administration.

Hanson, who assists Michigan private colleges in meeting state requirements when adding degree programs, is credited by Madonna with being instrumental in getting approval for Madonna's first master of science in administration.

Stevens is the daughter of the late Rene DeSeranno, who served on the Madonna board from 1982 to 1984. Through the DeSeranno Educational Foundation, which was established by the family in 1986, numerous scholarships have been awarded to Madonna students.

Stevens currently serves as Consul of Belgium for the state of Michigan and treasurer of the Consular Corps of Detroit.

Presiding over the ceremonies will be Madonna board of trustees chairman William Phillips, who is also chairman of Phillips Services Industries of Livonia.

The invocation will be given by Sister Jacqueline Anderson, associate professor of English. Stanley Ngeyi, a chemistry teacher, will serve as mace bearer.

Among the Observer-area graduates are Timothy Kasper and Ann Marie Fowler of Livonia and Deborah Washburn Ronayne of Farmington Hills.

Fowler, a music performance/management major, teaches piano and works as a vocal soloist for weddings and other church functions. She has immediate plans to work as a private vocal instructor and is already involved in children's theater. In 1993, she received the St. Catherine Undergraduate Achievement Award, administered by the Detroit chapter of the Catholic honor society Kappa Gamma Pi. Her long-range plans include earning a doctorate degree in vocal performance.

Kasper will earn a bachelor of science degree with a major in marketing. Using his education and experience as an intern for Action Distributing in Livonia and Ford Motor Co. in Dearborn, Kasper plans to get a job in sales and marketing and eventually earn a master's degree in business administration.

Ronayne, a professional and technical writing major and business minor, will receive a bachelor of arts degree. She carries a 3.8 grade point average and has plans to use her knowledge writing and implementing what is known as ISO 9000, a new quality system for businesses interested in focusing on worldwide markets.

She was selected to present her senior seminar paper, "The Technical Writer in the Global Marketplace," at a conference in April.

Ronayne is credited with founding the Society for Women in Plastics in 1979.

Madonna University is located on the northwest corner of Schoolcraft and Levan in Livonia. Madonna offers more than 50 career-oriented majors and enrolls about 4,400 students. Tuition is $157 per credit hour for most courses, $199 per credit hour for nursing students and $208 per credit hour for graduate students.

WSU looks for osteoporosis sufferers

Women living in Wayne County who have osteoporosis (brittle bone disease), suspect they may have it, or care for someone who has been diagnosed with it are urged to participate in a two-hour small group discussion to share their experiences living with this disease.

Wayne State University researchers are interested in finding out what life is like for women with osteoporosis, including the limitations they may have and how they have learned to cope.

Interested women are urged to call 993-7670 during the week of May 2 to sign up for the group discussion which will be held something in May.

Transportation will be provided, if needed. Participants will also receive a monetary incentive and light refreshment.

Marijuana seizures rise in western Wayne County

By LeAnne Rogers
Staff Writer

Marijuana continues to be a popular illegal drug in western Wayne County where the regional narcotics unit seized more than 360 pounds of the drug last year.

"The majority of problems still seem to be marijuana," said Michigan State Police Lt. Sandra Miller, who heads the Western Wayne Narcotics Enforcement Team.

The pounds of marijuana seized by the unit are only cleaned and bundled drugs but don't include plants confiscated from grow operations.

"We took 291 plants from a Garden City home. The value of that is staggering," said Miller. "Most grow operations can get three growing seasons a year. The Drug Enforcement Administration considers a significant marijuana hydroponics dealer to have more than 100 plants."

The level of cocaine seized by the unit decreased while the amount of marijuana confiscated increased. One possible reason for drug dealers to change products, Miller said, is the limited penalties under state law for marijuana distribution.

"We have one of the stiffest narcotics laws in the state but no matter how much marijuana you have it's a maximum four years," she said. "It's no different whether it's a baggy or 30 pounds."

Western Wayne reported a substantial increase in arrests on marijuana cases — 103 in 1993 compared to 45 arrests the previous year. The biggest jump was in arrests for selling marijuana, which more than doubled from 25 in 1992 up to 67.

Arrests for cocaine violations were up slightly from 52 in 1992 to 58 in 1993. In part that was due to officers working on complicated marijuana case investigations, according to Miller.

"There is less cocaine activity. I can't fully explain the drop without that," she said. "There is also so much violence with cocaine."

During 1993, the total number of arrests made by the unit jumped 90 percent up to 219. In part, that increase was due to a joint operation Western Wayne conducted with the Downriver Narcotics unit known as DRANO and Inkster police.

"We did a three-week stint. It's not so much Inkster people coming out but people from our communities going into Inkster to buy drugs," Miller said. "We cracked down on street sales and made a significant number of arrests."

New Tiger Stadium debate

SEMCOG split on support for House bill

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

A regional planning agency gave a 2-1 endorsement to state legislation that would help build a new downtown Detroit Tiger Stadium.

The executive committee of the Southeast Michigan Council endorsed House Bill 5235 to create Michigan Sports and Entertainment Economic Development Authority (SPEEDA). The vote was 21 to 9.

"First Poletown. Then Willow Run. Now it's a move to subsidize an entertainment business," objected Novi Councilman Tim Pope. "What's the role of government in this?"

"I agree with Mr. Pope," added Birmingham Councilman Dante Lanzetta Jr. "This is a done deal. I don't think this is proper."

The split vote was a rarity for SEMCOG, where most planning projects are approved unanimously.

Sponsored by Rep. Morris Hood, D-Detroit, the SPEEDA bill would create a seven-member board appointed by the governor within the state Commerce Department.

SPEEDA would administer the authority, review and approve projects, create sports and entertainment zones, hold public hearings and issue bonds to support projects.

Tigers owner Mike Ilitch says he will use private funds to build a new $225 million, 47,000-seat stadium but wants state help for related land acquisition, demolition and road work.

Elizabeth Slinde, Macomb County commissioner who chairs SEMCOG's Community and Economic Development Advisory Council, said the bill aims to help "downtown areas that contain under-utilized property or low relative property values" and isn't confined to helping Detroit.

"It is based on the premise that sports, entertainment and related facilities can be a major source of economic development and job growth, and attract other businesses."

Funding would come from the Michigan Strategic Fund. SPEEDA's business backers in Detroit Renaissance say "absolutely no tax dollars will be used to fund SPEEDA projects." Nor could they be used for casino gambling.

The SPEEDA bill is stuck in a House committee and faces a difficult battle at this point.

SEMCOG is a voluntary regional planning association covering seven counties.

Water study earns teacher trip south

■ Ron Myers, a teacher at Fiegel Elementary School, will travel south to do tests of water quality.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth teacher Ron Myers' water quality tests at Fellows Creek in Canton - captured on video tape - have helped earn him a trip to perform similar tests in San Salvador.

The fifth-grade teacher at Fiegel Elementary School in Plymouth - the school has students from both Plymouth and Canton - was winner of a grand prize offered by public broadcasting station WGBH of Boston.

Water testing: Ron Myers tests the water in Plymouth's Tonquish Creek.

The station produces a series on environmental activism titled "Earthkeeping," shown on public TV in Detroit and around the country.

The grand prize was a trip to San Salvador, The Bahamas, where Myers, 45, will study water quality.

"There's a bleaching of the coral in this reef off of San Salvador," Myers said, adding he'll use water testing techniques performed by his students over the past five years.

In studying Fellows Creek at Cherry Hill and Lotz roads, Myers has students test water acidity levels and small invertebrate animals to determine water quality.

After five years of doing such studies, they've determined "The water quality is not up to par," Myers said.

Myers had submitted a video of his students performing water sampling two years ago, in applying for an Earthkeeping scholarship.

While he wasn't among the five finalists whose videos will be featured on an Earthkeeping broadcast, Myers name was added to the grand prize drawing.

Trip winner: Plymouth teacher Ron Myers won an environmental trip because of his work on water testing.

STAFF PHOTOS BY BILL BRESLER

Upon learning he'd won, "I was real excited, I told people I'm going to run out and buy some lottery tickets," Myers said.

He leaves for San Salvador on July 4. "It's supposedly where Christopher Columbus landed. I'll do a lot off still photography and video taping as well, I want to talk to native people, get their impressions about what's happening with the reef," Myers said.

Myers, who has taught 24 years, said activities like water sampling at Fellows Creek "expands my interest and knowledge and keeps me fresh on some of the things that are happening in research."

"It takes theory and facts from the classroom and you see how that applies to a field experience."

At East Middle School, science teacher Renee Nowaske organized a sale of T-shirts with environmental messages. The shirts were produced by a firm which contributes 25 percent of its profits to environmental groups.

About 400 of the shirts had been sold to students and staff by Friday. "There was such a good response we're going to do it for another week," she said.

Narcotics squad gains officers

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

Four local police departments are assigning officers to work with troopers on the Western Wayne Narcotics Enforcement Team headed by the Michigan State police.

During 1993 the unit was made up of officers from Canton Township, Garden City, Livonia and Van Buren Township along with officers from the state police. Belleville, Northville and Sumpter Township provide financial support to the multi-jurisdictional unit.

"This is quite a commitment from the departments to bear the costs of the salaries," said state police Lt. Sandra Miller, who heads the unit. "They are sharing the cost for the investigative burden. There has been a loss of manpower to all the state police concept teams."

One thing Miller would like to see is an increase in the amount of forfeitures the unit is able to complete so those funds could be used to reimburse local departments for salaries.

Locally based officers provide valuable information to the units through sources they have developed in their communities and via other officers in their departments, according to Miller.

Often the cases investigated by the unit have a local impact but may go beyond the area or even out-of-state where suppliers to local drug dealers may be based.

"...me of the noteworthy local ...reported by the unit in 1993 ...le:

■ Western Wayne officers, acting on information provided by the Flat Rock state police post, executed a search warrant at a Westland home. Seized from the home were 46 marijuana plants, over half a pound of packaged marijuana and hydroponic growing equipment.

While at that home, officers found information about a second grow house in Garden City operated by an associate of the Westland suspect. The second suspect, Michael Bennett, permitted a search of his Krauter Street home where officers found 291 marijuana plants ranging from seedlings to mature six foot stalks.

Officers also confiscated over 40 pounds of loose marijuana, hydroponic grow lights, timers and other equipment. Western Wayne seized Bennett's five vehicles, a small amount of cash, a handgun and a cellular phone.

Western Wayne requested assistance from the Drug Enforcement Administration in filing federal charges against Bennett for his drug activities across the street from St. Raphael Catholic School. After posting bond, the suspect fled but subsequently was returned to Michigan to face federal indictments.

Bennett was also fined $10,000 by Detroit Edison after officers found the suspect had bypassed the electric meter at the home to avoid the bills resulting from a 24-hour a day year-round growing operation.

The potential street value of the marijuana seized at both homes was estimated at $500,000.

■ In Canton Township, officers received information about a suspect dealing in bricks of marijuana. Officers obtained a search warrant for the home of Gregory Vartanian where they seized over 22 pounds of marijuana and an ounce of cocaine. An AK-47 assault rifle, $2,400 in cash and the suspect's vehicle were also seized.

Officers later executed a search warrant at the Classic Gold Jewelry store owned by Vartanian. The unit was assisted by Canton's K-9 handler and dog "Bas" who alerted officers to the presence of narcotics on $17,000 in cash found in a paper bag at the store.

Officers also found drug ledgers which indicated the suspect was a major narcotics distributor in western Wayne with an illegal income totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars. The estimated street valued from what Western Wayne seized was more than $100,000.

Forfeiture proceedings have also been initiated through the federal government.

■ Also in Canton Township, a well-known trafficker purchased 30 pounds of marijuana from officers who were assisted by a confidential informant. Confiscated in raids were guns, jewelry, a Downriver home and $7,500 in cash. Officers noted the suspect had two children whose bedroom walls contained several Drug Abuse Resistance Education posters proclaiming "Just Say No To Drugs."

Other increases were in the street value of the drugs seized and property forfeited, the latter jumping nearly 300 percent to $170,233.

"We arrested some rather significant players this year. We were involved with the federal government (on some investigations) and got some significant forfeitures," Miller said.

A concern mentioned by Miller is what seems to be a greater tolerance for marijuana use and sales. She mentions some of the public comments which seemed to minimize marijuana use after a circuit court judge from Plymouth Township was found to have a marijuana cigarette during a traffic stop.

"We do a good job when we make an arrest on marijuana. It's a mind-altering substance and it's illegal," Miller said. "People forget what a marijuana house does to a neighborhood. I find it significant that if you ask neighbors how they feel when we take a marijuana house out they will be happy."

Homeless pets make out with computer matching

The "information highway" is turning out to be the road to a new home for many abandoned dogs and cats in the Detroit area, thanks to the efforts of a recently formed non-profit group.

The Michigan Animal Adoption Network has come up with a first-of-its-kind program that uses computer technology to "match" homeless dogs and cats with people seeking to adopt a pet. The service also is used for those seeking specific breeds of pets.

"People can call our toll-free number and tell us what kind of dog or cat they want, in terms of its breed or breed-type, age, sex, and size, and we'll draw on our software database to find them an adoptable animal that fits their description," said M.A.A.N. president and founder Marie Skladd.

Popular program

So popular has the program become, that the network has had to hire a full-time person to answer the 50 or so phone received each day, said Skladd, a Richmond resident. About 80 percent of the calls are from those who want to adopt, and the remaining 20 percent from those who need to give up their pets.

A volunteer working with three others to locate homes for animals, Skladd came up with the idea for the computer system after meeting so many rescue clubs in the area who have no facilities for housing animals.

The dogs and cats included in M.A.A.N.'s database come from the animal rescue clubs that belong to the organization, as well as from the "foster homes" of volunteers.

All animals put up for adoption through M.A.A.N. have been examined by a veterinarian, and have received the recommended vaccinations for their age. Those animals who are old enough have also been spayed or neutered. To cover the expense of these procedures, M.A.A.N. charges a fee for adoptions ranging from $30 to $70, depending on what services the animal has received.

Affording care

Skladd noted that if the fee seems to steep to some, they may want to consider whether they can afford to care for a pet.

By utilizing the computer and toll-free telephone to make it more convenient for people to adopt dogs and cats, M.A.A.N. is hoping to alleviate a problem that has long been a concern for animal lovers. Last year more than 20 million animals were destroyed in U.S. shelters. Many of these animals could have been saved if they had been exposed to a larger number of pet owners, which is what M.A.A.N. hopes to accomplish through its computerized adoption network.

As part of its ongoing effort to find homes for displaced animals, M.A.A.N. will be running Adopt-A-Pet Programs with Pet Supplies "Plus" at the chain's 19 Detroit area stores. Representatives from M.A.A.N. will be at different Pet Supplies "Plus" location on most Saturdays, between April 1994 and January 1995 with a large selection of dogs and cats available for adoption.

Southfield-based PVH Veterinary Hospitals has donated free veterinary exams and discounted spaying and neutering services for all animals adopted through M.A.A.N.

Lost and found

M.A.A.N. has also started a computerized lost-and-found network for pet owners who have been separated from their dogs and cats.

"Pet owners then receive a collar tag imprinted with their dog or cat's identification number and our toll-free phone number. When anyone finds a lost pet wearing the tag and calls us, we'll be able to contact the animal's family," Skladd said.

Started earlier this year, M.A.A.N. is based in office space donated by Pet Supplies "Plus" at the pet store chain's headquarters complex at 37720 Amrhein Road in Livonia.

Anyone seeking to adopt a dog or cat, or register a pet in the M.A.A.N. lost-and-found network, can call the group toll free at 1-800-990-4343.

Liberty Fest

Taste of Canton new top event

The Canton Liberty Fest in our township is evolving. And it's a good thing. The addition of a food event and a Civil War re-enactment are an attempt to reach more people in the community.

Liberty Fest is important because it's a way to capture and celebrate the community spirit that is alive and well in Canton.

The food event — a Taste of Canton — will happen during a banner year for restaurant openings in our township. Many of those restaurants are family businesses, which to us means that families are making a commitment to the community.

Right now festival organizers are trying to sign up restaurants to participate in the event. At such events, restaurants set up food booths and the public can try various items.

Such taste events give restaurants exposure to prospective patrons, but they also promote our township. In the past year a diverse group of restaurants have opened. They include The Himalaya Resturant, which features South African/East Indian food; and the Thai Bistro, which has Asian food.

Those two establishments aren't on the list of participants yet. Let's hope they show up.

Those which have volunteered to have booths are McDonald's, Mountain Jack's, T.C. Gators, Rose's Restaurant, Papa Romano's and Buck Jones Deli.

The owners and managers of those establishments have made a fine contribution to the quality of life in our township, not only by believing in the community, but also by participating in the Taste of Canton.

Other events are being added to the Liberty Fest, which is slated for June 24-26. A Civil War re-enactment is scheduled, along with a fife and drum corps competition. Also, the fireworks display will be larger.

But the improvements don't come without a cost. It means more work, and Canton Township is looking for more volunteers to help out at the event. We'll be there, and we're hoping to see others eager to improve the quality of life in our township.

To volunteer, call the Canton Township Recreation Department at 397-5110.

The improvements being made to the Liberty Fest are a symbol that Canton is coming into its own. It's a place where local businesses can show the commitment they've made to the community.

It's a celebration of which we should all be proud and in which we should all plan to participate.

Teen party hosts face liability

Prom season is just around the corner and then a few weeks later, graduation.

Gowns and tuxes have been ordered. Limousines have been rented and arrangements made to attend parties after the dance, either at home or a friend's basement or at a nearby hotel.

Some hotels refuse to rent to high schoolers on prom night because of destruction of property in the past or because they do not want to be responsible if alcohol or drugs are consumed.

And because the innkeeper has turned the kids away, some parents open up their homes for post-prom parties and make beer, wine, champagne or liquor available.

Irresponsible adults who might be thinking about doing that need to be warned that a new state law, effective June 1, provides that any adult who hosts a party or rents a room or a limousine to high schoolers for prom night or graduation faces a $1,000 fine or 30 days in jail (90 days and/or $1,000 fine for second offense) if teens drink alcohol in the home, room or limo.

Anyone who thinks the law is too stiff needs to think again. What would be worse for a parent, spending 30 days in jail or instead spending time in a funeral home standing at the coffin of a daughter or son?

Most parents would choose jail. A jail term ends; the death of a child is forever. So why would you ever choose to furnish or allow your young person to have a drink?

While some readers feel this overdramatizes the issue, the facts say otherwise.

Too often this newspaper has reported on the traffic deaths of high school seniors on prom night or graduation night.

Anyone who thinks you can "down a few beers" to "celebrate" without risk is a fool. Law enforcement officials know this as well as journalists.

Commenting on the new state law mentioned here, Wayne County prosecutor John O'Hair said: "The goal of our legislators is a noble one: to stop the perennial springtime story of bright and hopeful young graduates who die in car crashes."

■ We continue to be hypocritical about alcohol in our society. Those who are willing to kill themselves, slowly over time or tragically in an instant, are just a few rationalizations away from contributing to the death of their own children.

A lot of positive action is being taken to protect graduating seniors from drunkenness and death. Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Students Against Driving Drunk, and our police departments have gone on the offensive with proactive programs to discourage drinking and driving.

Many highs schools sponsor all-night parties on graduation night to keep grads safe. But despite these efforts, some of our bright young kids are killed each spring because of their own foolishness and because of the assistance of some pretty stupid adults (parents included) who want to "be a friend."

The reason we sacrifice our kids to booze is because as adults we have not learned ourselves to be responsible about alcohol consumption. We continue to be hypocritical about alcohol in our society. Those who are willing to kill themselves, slowly over time or tragically in an instant, are just a few rationalizations away from contributing to the death of their own children.

When will this nonsense end? When all adults can agree that it's not OK for teens to drink - anywhere.

Too many adults now believe it is OK, and so the Observer will once again be reporting on needless deaths in the weeks ahead. And that is not OK with us.

Superintendent search

Although I was not on the Superintendent's Search Committee, I did have the opportunity to see all of the interviews. We have three very qualified candidates. Hopefully, many residents will meet the candidates at the public receptions.

The additional three-hour interview with each candidate will give the board significantly more information to use in reaching their decision.

All six of the candidates invited to the first interview have the skills and qualifications that the Search Committee determined are necessary for our schools. The three current finalists have been thoroughly screened, interviewed and investigated.

The next step in the process to determine who will preside as the next superintendent of Plymouth Canton Schools will be a visit by some school board members to each candidate's school district. I find it difficult to justify the expense of two or three board members traveling to verify information we already have. Especially when we don't send our school board members to the National Association of School Board's annual conference, which may have helped them with this monumental task.

Since Mr. Artley has been the contact person with all three gentlemen, I am sure he has developed a personal rapport with each candidate that will put undue pressure upon him to be unbiased, even though I am sure he will disagree with me.

If it is indeed necessary to visit the employers of each candidate, I am sure that one board member could handle the task, preferably one who will not be directly involved with the new superintendent.

Airport reaction

As regards your April 21 editorial on Mettetal, it's clear that you just don't get it. Even your redoubtable heroes, Larry, Moe and Curly would probably catch on to the fact that the state purchase of the airport would removed it, with agreed constraints, from local control. It now belongs to the state, not Canton, where it is located, nor Plymouth, which seemingly wants to claim it.

When the Mettetal people suggested moving the landing area southward to provide more usable runway for larger aircraft, you somehow invested the advisory board with the authority to "put a full court press" on the Canton Board to force concessions under the agreement.

Now, suddenly, in true stooge-like fashion you are worried about empire building, and you want guidelines.

Well, when a state agency managing state property has an advisory board, can you guess who will set its guidelines? You can bet it will not be the local townships.

The property, which might once have been an asset to local communities, is now an asset of the state. Unless you consider the ear-splitting noise of a low-flying aircraft a community advantage the local residents have lost much and gained nothing.

Perhaps Engler's people will start bringing in subsidized motorcycle gangs to really fulfill Canton's transportation potential.

When considering a meeting place for the advisory board, one of the cheapest approaches would be to undertake condemnation proceedings against some office property (the Observer offices come to mind) and take it over.

It makes as much sense as having an airport in the middle of our community.

S. Barnes, Canton

A success

The Plymouth-Canton Jaycees would like to take this opportunity to extend a warm thanks to the community of Plymouth and Canton, which has graciously supported us.

On April 2 we had our annual Easter Egg hunt for young children. It was especially great because of our great supporters who make donations for our hunt.

Needless to say, the children were very excited and happy with all the eggs and prizes they gathered.

As chairwoman, I would like to thank all my fellow Jaycees for their hard work to make this successful.

I would like to thank all the adults and children who made it a success.

I would especially like to thank all our great sponsors who made this possible. We received donations from: The Print Shop, Jerry's Bicycle & Fitness, McDonald's, Hardee's, AAA Insurance, Meijer's, Toys R Us, Helen Whited, Sandy Daniels, Brian Wagner, Plymouth Dental Associates, and Rebecca Tisch, M.D., Pediatric Ophthalmology. Their donations were very welcomed, both to us and to the young children. I thank you very kindly.

Doggone duty

Taking care of friend's canine companion no easy task

GUEST COLUMNIST

DOROTHY MATSU

■ Convincing Beowulf to take a breather, I hysterically considered paging the guys at the museum.

Let me tell you a story about Duty and the Beast — truly a tale of whoa.

A good friend and his canine companion Balto had driven from Chicago to spend the weekend. A cross between a timberwolf and a clydesdale, Balto is a beast of stupefying stature commanding both serious attention and respect.

He is, without a doubt, more of a gentleman than many of us are likely to meet on two or four feet. However, he is getting on in years physically and temperamentally.

Like many city dwellers, he has suffered injuries that have affected getting about. When our wiry friend hoisted this furry behemoth to carry him up the stairs I thought he was either impatient or showing off his strength. After all, being a strange house to him, I thought his reticence endearing.

Sunday afternoon the boys went to the Ford Museum to ogle the autos. They took the dog out before leaving and, much to my disappointment, discouraged me from taking him for a walk.

Within half an hour he was pacing the floor like Nixon and whining like Andy Rooney at the door. I was on floodwatch after the previous night's episode of good-natured incontinence, so snatching his leash, we lurched out the door gleefully wagging our tails.

Out back I struggled to maintain a semblance of control as he dragged me through the pathless and prickly overgrowth. The marks of indentation we left from rolling in the snow looked as if flying saucers had landed.

Alas, in spite of his magnificent coat, he was anxious to get his old bones back in the warm. I clutched his collar firmly as we started up the stairs to nowhere. Halfway he froze. I sat.

We casually achieved one more stair and played statues again. I looped his very short leash around the railing and quickly ran into the house for some edible bribes. After placing little chunks of cheese on the edge of the five remaining stairs we had gained only one more step while creating a drooling tension between us.

I ran to get a blanket, intending to make him comfortable in the sun back down in the yard. When I unhooked his collar, holding on tight, he snapped me back to earth before I could untie his leash.

Cursing as he pulled me like a sled around the ground below, I incredibly grabbed a nearby broom. Stretching up with all my might I caught the knot with the broomstick and managed to yank down the leash.

Convincing Beowulf to take a breather, I hysterically considered paging the guys at the museum. My gentle giant had turned into a huge, neurotic oaf.

He was growling what I was thinking and seemed determined that if he were to be banished so would I. He blocked the stairs with convincing ferocity. I drew a small pentagram in the snow, closed my eyes and leaped over him like a horrible hurdle.

I turned to see an empty collar with "Trashback" the local tomcat glaring at it. My heart plummeted. I banged on the door of the good Samaritan next door, yelping incoherently about losing our friend's dog. "The one behind you?" asked he. Collaring and calming the frisky fool, the fellows pulled into the drive, and I had learned a very hard lesson.

Shareholders' meeting reflects bank's troubles

There was a siege mentality at Michigan National Corp. when the financial services company held its annual shareholders' meeting last week. We in the press corps were issued tickets that said on the back:

"THERE ARE NO CAMERAS OF ANY TYPE ALLOWED IN THE MEETING. ANYONE WITH A CAMERA WILL BE ASKED TO LEAVE THE PREMISES."

Note that second sentence. If you take a camera into an art museum, you're asked to check it at the door. At Michigan National, you're asked to leave.

I signed in at the press desk. "No cameras or tape recorders," said the woman at the desk. Hmmph! An extremely odd thing to say to the press at a meeting of a publicly traded corporation. No tape recorders when the top brass are reading complex, statistics-laden statements?

Chairman Robert Mylod's job is at stake, though not his money. One-third of the shares were voted against his slate of directors. Mylod has enough stock and a "golden parachute" of three years' salary plus pension if, at 54, he were fired tomorrow; he could retire in luxury; if he dies, his widow collects the pension for the rest of her life.

But a lot of shareholders think the bank is underperforming so badly that it should be sold.

Someone asked Mylod, "Does the significant no vote tell you anything?" Mylod's non-answer: "We will take that into consideration."

One shareholder inquired whether the meeting was being videotaped. "We have not done it in the past, and we don't intend to do it in the future," Mylod replied.

A representative of Heine Securities, the New Jersey holder of 5.5 percent of MNC's stock, said he would love to know how the employees voted their shares. "Confidential," said Mylod. "Morale would be better if we could stop reading about ourselves in the newspapers."

TIM RICHARD

Stanford C. Stoddard, Mylod's predecessor, said he settled his suit against the MNC board for $4 million and asked how much MNC spent on that litigation. Mylod wouldn't answer. He would only say that "we did it with the advice of legal scholars. It was a right and ethical approach. It is settled. It is behind us. That is all I will say."

To Stoddard's suggestion of a special shareholders' meeting to consider sale of the company, Mylod replied, "I will not recommend that." No reason given.

Fred Erb, a board dissenter who was replaced as a director, said he voted against issuing stock options, but the issue was tabled. Mylod's response: "We are not going to get into a discussion here of how the board did its analysis. The answer is I'm not going to answer the question."

If MNC performed so poorly during prosperity, asked another shareholder whose name I couldn't catch, what will happen when times get tough? "We've been over that," said Mylod.

The stockholder recalled that a year ago he asked Mylod three questions but used up too much time. "Mr. Mylod threatened to have me thrown out. I was so frustrated that I didn't remember the answers," he said. Four requests for the minutes of the meeting produced four refusals, he said. Lawrence Gladchun, corporate secretary and general counsel, replied, "We ultimately did provide him a copy." Yes, said the stockholder — on Dec. 2.

Bill McMaster, area publicist and thorn in the side of MNC as well as Gov. John Engler, peppered Mylod with a lot of questions, including: "Is there going to be a record of this meeting?" Mylod: "Thank you very much. We've already answered that."

To paraphrase Shakespeare's Henry IV, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown — even if it's diamond-encrusted and holding a golden parachute."

Athletes who leave college early need a 'what if' plan

PHILIP POWER

News briefs from the sporting world:

This weekend the National Football League drafted college football standouts. Signing bonuses will run into the millions.

Last week University of Michigan basketball stars Juwan Howard and Jalen Rose announced they would get the big bucks and turn professional. Both are juniors. Howard says he'll be back to finish his degree. Rose almost certainly won't.

A few weeks ago, some U-M athletes pleaded no contest to a charge of shoplifting beer. Turns out a pliant cashier had been letting them take it without paying. The case drew a lot of media attention.

I'm a newspaper publisher, a former sports editor (with the paper in Fairbanks, Alaska, many years ago) and a regent of the U-M. Below are some reflections on the state of college athletics.

First, the fact of the matter is that big-time college sports have become little more than fodder for the entertainment industry.

CBS paid $1 billion to televise this year's NCAA basketball championship. Bo Schembechler used to say that God intended football to be played at 1 p.m. on Saturday afternoons, on grass and out-of-doors, but TV schedules now determine when and where games shall be played. Graduation rates for athletes at most universities are far lower than for the rest of the student body. The pressure to win is great enough that some coaches cheat in recruiting, and a few are caught.

Second, so what?

A lot of people like to watch college sports, especially now that the professional ones seem so pre-packaged, marketed and devoid of any real emotion. What's wrong with that, especially when the colleges, at least those with successful athletic programs, get a lot of TV exposure? And the athletes, even if they don't turn pro, get scholarship rides worth something in excess of $100,000 and a shot at a better life for them and their families.

Third, even if you don't like it, what are you going to do about it?

Not much. There's entirely too much publicity and reputation, not to mention bragging rights, that accompany athletic success. Television exposure, even to university presidents, is habit-forming.

There are costs. Most athletic programs around the country, even big time, lose money. At the University of Michigan, the athletic department has trouble breaking even on a budget of $24 million (including around $2 million in TV money).

But I know of no university planning to eliminate intercollegiate sports.

Fourth, it's still sad to see so many good kids turn pro, when I know full well very few will make it, and many will wind up with no degree, no job and no prospects. College should be something more than an unpaid player development system for the owners of professional sports franchises.

Here's a modest proposal: Whenever a professional team signs kids before they get their degrees, require the team to place in escrow with the university an amount sufficient to fund the eventual completion of the students' degrees whenever they return to school.

This would be an insurance policy as well as an incentive for kids to return to school to get their degrees. And it would, if only symbolically, indicate that even those who own professional teams recognize that at least one purpose of going to college is to get a degree.

Youths apprehended in tire slashing at library

Listed below are some of the Canton police incidents, fire calls and court cases reported during the past week:

■ YOUTHS APPREHENDED

Two Canton juveniles were apprehended by police and petitioned to Wayne County Probate Court in connection with slashing the tires on at least 10 cars parked at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road, March 29 and April 5, said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

Detective Dave Shriner responded to a tip that led to the two juveniles. Damage to most of the cars was estimated at more than $100 each, which is a felony malicious destruction of property charge, Colling said.

■ GANG GRAFFITI

Canton residents have reported a variety of damage from gang-related graffiti in the past week.

In the Sherwood Mobile Home Park, a homeowner reported that someone drew three-pronged forks in front of her mobile home, April 20. Graffiti is a continuing problem at the park, according to a police report.

Damage was estimated at $25 when someone drew gang graffiti on a rear wall of a shipping dock at The Good Food Company, 42615 Ford Road, April 20.

In the Greenbrook subdivision park, a Michigan Bell box was found damaged with spray-painted graffiti, April 23. Damage was estimated at $50.

Police were called to the LoPiccolo Homes on Dundee, April 16, when a contractor found gang symbols in black paint on the front of a house under construction, as well as on interior walls. Damage was estimated at more than $100.

A homeowner on Hampshire reported gang graffiti spray-painted on his garage, April 22. Damage was estimated at $50.

A homeowner on Post Mill Court reported graffiti on his garage door, April 23. Damage was estimated at $50.

A No Parking sign on Ardmore was damaged with gang graffiti in green paint, April 22.

■ B&E ARRESTS

Two juveniles were taken into custody at Canton Commons Apartments after they were caught in an attempted breaking and entering at one of the apartments, April 22.

A resident who was sitting in her apartment heard her a screen door open. She saw one of 2-3 youths with some type of tool trying to open the doorwall. She ran to a neighbor and called Canton police.

When police arrived they saw the youths peeking around the side of a building. The woman saw one or two of the youths and gave chase. The officers joined in. Two of the boys were apprehended. A third got away.

While police were putting both youths into the patrol car, one of 15-year-olds became violent and kicked out a rear passenger window in the car and bent the door frame. Damage was estimated at $200.

The youths were later released to their parents.

■ LARCENIES

Golf clubs and a golf bag valued at $430 were reported stolen from a golf rack at Fellows Creek Golf Club, 2936 Lotz Road, April 22.

Fishing equipment and a tackle box valued at $800 and speakers valued at $800 were reported stolen from a 1988 Ford parked on Eaton, April 22.

A Hungry Howie's delivery man reported that someone stole cash, pizzas valued at $30 and a radar detector valued at $130 from his car as he made a delivery on Brookpark, April 21.

When he came out of the building after making his delivery, a woman in another building shouted to the delivery man that there was a white, four-door car by his car while he was in the building.

A leather jacket and skates valued at $900 were reported stolen from a car parked on Orchard, April 20. Damage to the car was estimated at $100.

Two other cars parked on Orchard were broken into, April 20. Cash and keys were reported stolen from one and cash only from another.

A camera valued at $200 and $30 coins were reported stolen from a car parked on Lilley Point, April 20. A wallet that was stolen from the car was returned.

■ DAMAGE

A homeowner on Bartlett reported that someone spilled a gallon of used motor oil on his driveway, causing about $25 damage, April 20. The homeowner also found a dryer vent on the side of his house broken and beer cans at the site.

A homeowner on Candlewood Court reported that someone tried scratching what appeared to be initials into his car window, causing $100 damage, April 22.

Schoolcraft applicants

Some familiar names have put their names into the hat for a pair of vacancies in the Schoolcraft College sports staff.

At the end of the winter sports season, both athletic director Marty Nowak and women's basketball coach Jack Grenan resigned. Assistant dean for physical science Midge Carleton posted the vacancies internally before opening the jobs up to applicants outside the school.

According to sources, three names have applied for the athletic director's position: current men's basketball coach Dave Bogataj; physical education teacher Cecil Woodruff; and Ed Kavanaugh, a mathematics teacher.

Bogataj has confirmed he has indeed applied for the AD's position.

Kavanaugh's name is the most intriguing. Sources say he is also interested in the women's basketball position.

Kavanaugh served for two years as Schoolcraft's AD before turning the position over to Nowak and returning to coaching girls basketball at Livonia Ladywood in 1991. In three seasons, he turned a program that had been languishing (17-22 the previous two seasons) into a winner, going 44-19.

In two combined stints at Ladywood, Kavanaugh was 289-61 with two state titles to his credit. However, despite his success, his contract was not renewed following the '93 season, when the Blazers were 14-4.

He was also SC's women's coach before Grenan.

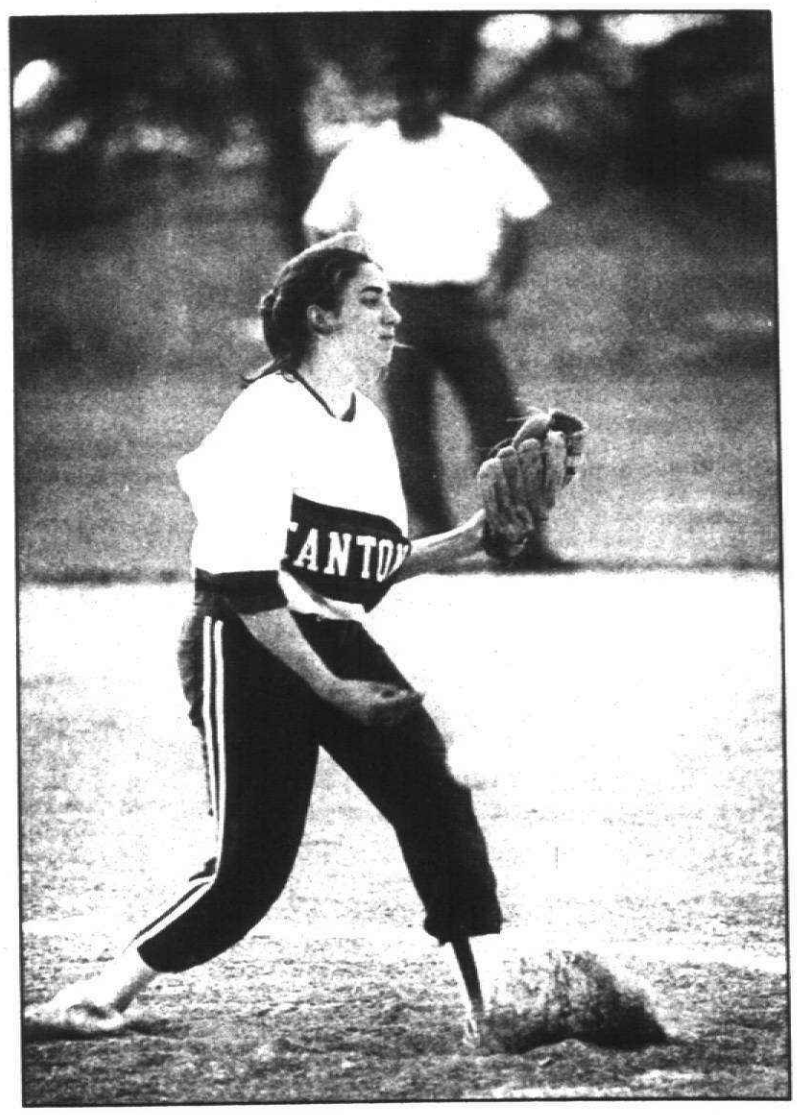
Madonna rules — again

Madonna University collected NAIA District 23 accolades for player of the week in both baseball and softball for the seven-day span that ended Sunday.

It was certainly no surprise that Craig Overaitis, the senior outfielder from Livonia (Franklin HS), was chosen. After all, he blasted seven home runs and knocked in 18 runs while going 16-for-39 (.410) at the plate — a season's worth of stats for a lot of players. Overaitis did it in 10 games.

For the women, freshman outfielder Jennifer Czach was selected as the district's softball player of the week. Czach was 13-of-20 at the plate (.650) with six runs batted in.

Canton gets clipped by Hawks



BILL BRESLER/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Hitting stride: Canton's pitchers, including Jackie Nicastri, have been pretty solid, according to coach Jim Arnold. More consistency is needed elsewhere, however.

A positive performance at the Monroe Invitational Saturday lost some of its luster Monday when Plymouth Canton's softball team lost to Western Division rival Farmington Hills Harrison.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

There were reasons for Plymouth Canton's 9-4 softball loss to Farmington Hills Harrison Monday at Canton: errors (the Chiefs had six of them); a lack of hits (only three); erratic pitching (six walks issued).

But Chiefs coach Jim Arnold would accept no excuses for his team — even though they did play a Western Lakes Activities Association game Friday, then followed that with the three-game Monroe Tournament (at Canton) Saturday.

"We've got a young team," Arnold did allow. "We've just got to iron out some of these mistakes.

"They did indicate to me they were tired (Monday). They've got to get physically and mentally tougher for the upcoming tournament."

The loss left Canton at 5-4 overall, 0-2 in the WLAA's Western Division.

Last Saturday, the Chiefs lost their tournament opener to Monroe 9-1 with a dismal performance (one hit, nine errors), but rebounded to beat Livonia Franklin 3-2 and Plymouth Salem 9-1 in two solid games.

Problem was, they couldn't sustain any momentum gained from Saturday's wins against Harrison. "We kicked the ball around a little bit," Arnold said of Monday's loss. "We came out flat the first two-three innings and had to play catch-up."

Also, the Canton coach noted: "We just didn't come out hitting."

The Hawks took a 6-0 lead into the bottom of the third inning, which was more than enough for winning pitcher Erin Lacosse, who surrendered just three hits and five walks to the Chiefs. She struck out six.

Jackie Nicastri took the loss. She gave up only five hits, but walked six, striking out three. Offensively, Canton's only hits were singles by Nicastri, Kelly Nelson and Heather Schafer.

Jenny Myslinski had a triple and a single to lead Harrison.

On Saturday, Canton's only hit in its opener against Monroe was a single by Schafer in the seventh. The Chiefs scored in the sixth on a walk, a fielder's choice and a ground out — which was far from enough. Monroe struck for four runs in the first and was in command throughout. Jamie Sikora took the loss for Canton, giving up five hits but no walks, fanning six.

The Chiefs managed just three hits against Franklin, but bunched two of them into the game-winning rally in the seventh inning. Trailing 2-1, Nicastri opened the rally with a single. A sacrifice and a walk put two runners aboard for Amy Price, who drilled a double — her second of the game — to score the tying and go-ahead run.

Nicastri was imposing in posting the win, allowing three hits and three walks while striking out 10. Becky Jansen was the hard-luck loser; she walked five and fanned two.

The slumbering Canton offense finally came alive in the win over Salem, collecting 10 hits — a season high, said Arnold. Sikora was the beneficiary, getting the pitching win with a four-hitter. She did not walk a batter and struck out six. Denise Krolczyk was the loser for Salem, walking six and fanning six.

SOCCER

It was a match pitting championship-caliber teams, with definite championship consequences — and it was played with a championship-level of intensity, by both sides.

In the end, controversy provided a decisive element. With key players from both Livonia Churchill and Plymouth Canton down, injured and out of their lineups, the Chiefs' depth ruled. The scoreboard clock had expired — indeed, more than a minute before — when Melissa Tomei pushed a pass from Mandy Salin past Churchill keeper Kristen Kammerer for the game's only goal and a 1-0 Canton soccer win.

What happened next was both predictable and understandable. Both benches and teams erupted, for different reasons. Churchill coach Nick O'Shea, who had received a yellow card with 6:14 left for berating referee Franco D'Anna when one of his players was hauled down and injured her left knee, screamed his protests at D'Anna.

That clock is official unless you turn it off," O'Shea yelled, pointing at the scoreboard. "Those are the rules. Are you changing the rules now?"

D'Anna pointed at his own wristwatch, an indication that he was keeping the official clock. He then let the two teams play another minute before ending the game.

It was a sour finish to an otherwise hard-fought match between two of the state's premier teams. "That was a big game," said Canton coach Don Smith, breathing a sigh of relief. "We finally came up and played in a big game the whole 80 minutes."

Both teams were shorthanded. Canton started that way; midfielder Alyson Noune injured her arm in Monday's match against Livonia Franklin. "She'll be out about a week," he said.

Churchill started strongly, at least partly due to a strong wind at their backs. With 22:22 left, a Margaret Wirth corner kick reached Aimee Cousino 10 yards in front of the Canton goal. But Cousino's header hit the crossbar.

Worse things were to come for the Chargers, who missed all sorts of first-half opportunities. Cousino injured a hamstring a few minutes later and left the game, not to return. With their midfield quarterback gone, Churchill could not quite get started.

"We're not the same without her," said O'Shea.

The two teams continued to battle, however. None of the anticipated intensity was missing. Each understood the winner would be one step closer to representing the Western Division in the Western Lakes Activities Association's championship game.

Even though he was without both Noune and forward Britta Anderson, Smith stuck to his style: "We subbed like mad and everyone came to play. That's what we do at Canton. That's why it was a team win."

The game was far more even in the second half, when Canton got the wind at its back. Twice Kammerer kept the Chiefs off the board with diving saves.

With 3:38 to play, Churchill's Marie Spaccarotella got loose near midfield on a possible breakaway. Beth Ostach moved to cut her off; her deliberate takedown got Ostach a yellow card, and worse, she reinjured the knee she had had reconstructive surgery on.

But in the end, the difference was Canton's determination against a too-loose Churchill defense — and an official's clock that wouldn't stop.

Saginaw Valley State University baseball coach Walt Head retreated to the dugout as rain pelted the Oakland University field Sunday afternoon, delaying the start of a doubleheader against the Pioneers.

Head, who was seeking shelter, got bombarded by questions about his brother tandem of Jeff and Brian Paluk.

"It looks like I might have all day to talk," Head said, looking into a steady rain.

When it comes to the Paluks, coaches need time to talk — whether they're referring to their attributes in athletics, the classroom or the kitchen.

Crusaders get split with Saints, Tartars

■ BASEBALL

Madonna University's awesome offense, evident in nearly every game for the past two weeks, was shackled by Siena Heights Sunday in an NAIA District 23 baseball clash at Madonna Park. But the Fighting Crusaders took advantage of some Saint errors to escape with a split in the doubleheader.

Madonna won the opener 7-6 with a seven-hit attack, aided by four Siena Heights errors. The most critical came in the fifth inning, with the Saints seemingly in command with a 6-2 lead.

Starting pitcher Todd Boike retired the first two Crusaders and got Scott Anderson to hit a fly ball to center fielder Jerry Koester (from Westland John Glenn). But Koester dropped the ball, and the floodgates were opening.

Jeff Pendell (Livonia Churchill) followed with a ground ball to shortstop Bill Scheerer; he booted it. Jim Solak (Redford/Dearborn Divine Child) slapped a run-scoring single, trimming the lead to 6-3 and bringing up red-hot Craig Overaitis (Livonia Franklin).

Overaitis, the district's player of the week, had already hit seven homers in the previous week. He drilled a Boike pitch over the fence to make it eight, bringing in three runs and tying the game at 6-6.

The four-run rally set the stage for more drama in the seventh. With two down and the score still tied, Pendell slugged a solo home run off Boike to right-center field to score the game-winner.

Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton) improved his record to 6-0 with three innings of no-run, one-hit relief pitching. He came in for Louie McKaig, who started but was hammered for six runs on 12 hits and a walk in four innings.

Solak had two hits to lead Madonna. Koester had two for Siena Heights.

The second game wasn't nearly as close. Siena's Bill Sower throttled the Crusaders with a two-hitter, blanking them 6-0. Sower walked five and struck out two. Ryan Grabetz (4-2) took the loss, giving up two runs on six hits and three walks, striking out two.

Mike Giacomantonio led the Saints' attack with two hits, including a grand slam home run in the seventh off Madonna reliever Sean Henkel. Madonna's only hits were singles by Chris Gajewski (in the fifth) and Dan Taylor (in the seventh).

The split left the Crusaders at 15-3 and Siena Heights at 15-7 in the district.

■ MADONNA 3-13, WAYNE STATE 7-1: Wayne State's three-run seventh inning sealed Madonna's fate in the first game, but the Crusaders bounced back to pound the Tartars in the second in a non-district double-header Tuesday at Madonna Park.

Joe Jentzer (4-2) took the loss in the opener, lasting 2⅓ innings and allowing three runs (two earned) on two hits and three walks before leaving after taking a ground ball off his pitching hand. Jeff Belisle was the winner, going 5⅓ innings and giving up three runs on five hits and no walks, with one strikeout.

Madonna trailed 4-0 when Dan Taylor slammed a two-run homer in the fifth. The Crusaders got another run in the sixth to trim the lead to one, but the Tartars scored three in the seventh to insure the win.

In the second game Madonna erupted, getting two solo home runs from catcher Steve Zann — one an inside-the-park number — and a two-run shot from Aaron Jones in posting a 10-run mercy win in five innings.

Zann's inside-the-park homer and Jones' two-run blast, together with a three-run double by Overaitis, came in a six-run second that put Madonna on top, 8-1. Taylor's two-run double highlighted a four-run third, pushing the Crusaders' lead to 12-1; Zann's second homer, in the fourth, accounted for Madonna's final run.

Jones finished with two hits and three RBI. Solak had two hits and an RBI and Craig Peterson had two hits.

Eric Butler, a redshirt freshman making his first start, went all five innings and got the win.

Madonna makes run at title

■ SOFTBALL

Eight games. Seven victories. And an unhappy coach.

Well, not that unhappy. But Madonna University softball coach Jerry Abraham couldn't quite understand how his team could outhit Aquinas College 15-6 and still lose 6-4 Sunday in Grand Rapids.

The key hits were missing. Also, Aquinas pushed across four first-inning runs and took full advantage of three Madonna errors.

"We kept hitting the ball really well, just right at people," he lamented.

That changed, somewhat, in the second game. The Lady Crusaders' potent offense again produced 10 hits — and just enough runs for a 3-2 triumph.

The loss in Sunday's opener was their first in NAIA District 23 play after six consecutive wins. They enter the final week of the regular season with a 26-6 overall mark, 7-1 in the district. Aquinas is 23-19 overall.

Dawn Terrasi ran her pitching record to 20-5 with Sunday's split. She has a 2.45 earned run average. Terrasi walked three and struck out five in her first-game five-hitter; she allowed six hits and two walks, striking out four, in winning the second game.

Six Crusaders had two hits apiece for Madonna in the opener: Lynda Weichel, Mandi Armstrong, Michelle Birchmeier, Holly Jondro, Jenny Czach and Jill Burt. Aquinas pitcher Cheryl Barber, who walked just one in earning the win, was also 4-for-4 at the plate.

Freshman outfielder Jenny Czach provided the Crusaders with the game-winner in the nightcap. Czach's fifth-inning single plated Ronnie Ronco to break a 2-2 tie. Ronco and Armstrong each had two hits in the game for Madonna. Barber took the loss this time.

A busy weekend awaits Madonna. The Crusaders have road games scheduled at St. Francis (Fort Wayne, Ind.) Friday and St. Xavier (Chicago, Ill.) Saturday, and then are scheduled to play Siena Heights in a district make-up double-header Sunday at Plymouth's Massey Field. The rescheduled games are a necessity; the district schedule must be completed by Sunday.

■ MADONNA 10-9, KALAMAZOO 0-1: The hits continued to pour forth for the Crusaders Saturday in Kalamazoo. They totaled 32 in a pair of lopsided victories while surrendering just nine and playing errorless ball.

Terrasi got the win in the first game with a four-hitter, walking none and striking out six. Armstrong and Czach led the 16-hit barrage with three apiece, with Czach scoring three runs. Mo Paulin (Livonia/Farmington Hills Mercy) and Ronco each chipped in with two hits, Ronco driving in two runs.

Weichel was the winning pitcher in the second game, boosting her record to 6-1 with a 1.54 ERA. She gave up one run on five hits and three walks, striking out four.

Paulin collected four RBI with three hits. Birchmeier also had three hits, with two RBI, while Weichel, Burt and Czach added two hits each, Czach scoring three times.

■ MADONNA 15-11, OLIVET 0-1: Both games ended in a five-inning, 10-run mercy favoring the Crusaders Friday at Olivet College. Terrasi's two-hit, one-walk, five-strikeout performance in the opener throttled the Comets; so did Weichel's four-hit, five-strikeout, walkless outing in the second game.

In the first game, Jennifer Pinter was 4-for-4 with three RBI to pace Madonna's 19-hit attack. Birchmeier had three hits and three runs scored, and Jondro, Czach and Paulin contributed two hits apiece, Czach scoring three.

Game No. 2 highlights included Jondro's solo homer, one of her two hits, and Paulin's two hits.

■ MADONNA 8-3, SPRING ARBOR 0-2; Paulin provided the Crusaders with the winning margin in the second game last Wednesday, singling in Burt in the top of the seventh.

Madonna was limited to six hits, but the seventh-inning singles by Burt and Paulin, sandwiched around Weichel's sacrifice bunt, were enough — thanks to Terrasi's four-hit pitching. She walked four and struck out two. Cathy McDavid took the loss.

In the first game, Pinter and Paulin each drove in three runs for the winners. Jondro and Burt collected two hits apiece.

CC gets back on track

■ LACROSSE

The Redford Catholic Central lacrosse team rebounded from a 6-2 loss on Thursday, April 21, with a pair of wins over the weekend.

The Shamrocks on Saturday defeated host Troy, 8-3, after posting a 4-0 halftime lead. CC won again Sunday, getting a goal from senior attacker Matt Griffin in the second minute of overtime to beat Worthington (Ohio), 6-5.

The Shamrocks are 7-2 overall.

Senior Jeff Lachapelle scored two goals and one assist and Griffin and Jason Hubenschmidt contributed two goals each against Troy. Matt McGivney and Mike Avey added one goal each.

Senior Matt Sokolowski was the goalkeeper for 2½ quarters, allowing no goals. Alex Alviar played the rest of the way in net, allowing the three Troy goals.

Griffin scored a goal at 1:48 of sudden death OT to defeat Worthington in a non-league game. The Shamrocks lost the opening face-off of the extra session. Alviar made a save on a Worthington shot and sent an outlet pass to Hubenschmidt, who passed the ball ahead to Griffin.

Griffin made the winning shot from the left slot.

"It was just like we draw it up," CC coach Jim Ryan joked.

Chris Gonzalez scored two goals. Hubenschmidt, Avey and Chris Tellner scored one goal each.

The victories helped erase the memories of the loss to Cranbrook days earlier.

Cranbrook jumped ahead early on CC and held on with a conservative game plan.

"We had quite a substantial letdown (after wins against University of Detroit-Jesuit and Detroit Country Day)," Ryan said. "We got down and Cranbrook's the type of team that they'll get a lead and hold the ball all day."

Rocks rule pitchers' duel

■ BASEBALL

Plymouth Salem's Nirav Kher dueled Farmington's Mike Williams down to the final out and emerged victorious as the Rocks rallied for single runs in the sixth and seventh innings to clip the Falcons 4-3 in a Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division game Monday at Salem.

With one out in the Salem seventh and the score tied at 3-3, Sam LaGrow slapped a wind-blown triple off of Williams. Matt Abbott then delivered the game-winning sacrifice fly.

Williams finished with a three-hit, four-walk, nine-strikeout loss for Farmington. Kher was equally effective, firing a five-hitter and walking just one — intentionally. Kher fanned eight.

The Rocks scored twice in the first inning on bounce outs, and coach John Gravlin thought it should have been more. "In the first we had them on the ropes," he said. "But we took two looking third strikes. This is becoming a pattern for us. We're not ready to play.

"But," he added, "we did show a lot of heart by coming back."

Farmington got one run in the first and took a 3-2 lead in the third on Ron Salomonson's two-run homer. Salem tied it in the sixth when pinch runner Kaz Kurisa scored on an error.

Dave Knight upped his average to .481 by getting two of Salem's three hits.

The win left the Rocks unbeaten in two division games; they are 7-4 overall.

At the Monroe Tournament Saturday, Salem managed just one hard-fought win in three games. The Rocks edged host Monroe 1-0 on Justin Marcis' one-hit gem. Marcis walked two and struck out 10 in his first start of the season.

Knight again provided the offense for Salem by getting two of the Rocks' four hits, including a double that scored Abbott with the game's only run in the fifth. Dave Smith was the losing pitcher for Monroe, walking three and striking out three.

Salem suffered a 16-6 10-run mercy loss in six innings to Livonia Franklin in its tournament opener. Damian Payton absorbed the loss; Mike Aubuchon was the winner for Franklin.

Eric Kida had two singles and three runs batted in for Salem, while Knight and Abbott contributed two hits apiece. Jason Schiers had two doubles and a triple, driving in two runs, and Rich Longsdorf added three hits and three runs scored for Franklin.

In their final game Saturday, the Rocks took the lead over Plymouth Canton with a five-run sixth, but let it get away and lost 7-6 in eight innings.

Kida started and lasted five innings for Salem before giving way to John Patete, who pitched two innings. Kher took over in the eighth and was the loser.

Chris Cortellini started and went 6⅔ innings for Canton. Anthony Pastor came on in the seventh and tossed a scoreless eighth to get the win.

Knight and Abbott each had two hits for Salem, with Knight knocking in a run. The key hit, however, was a bases-loaded triple by Mike Brannan in Salem's five-run seventh.

Eric Marcotte had four hits and Brian Kovach collected three for Canton. Marcotte scored three times.

■ CANTON 6, HARRISON 2: On Monday, Canton pushed five runs across the plate in the first three innings to subdue Farmington Hills Harrison in Farmington Hills. Scott Valimont tossed a three-hitter, walking just two batters. Dave Hensel started and took the loss for Harrison (3-2 overall, 0-2 in the Western Division).

Marcotte led the Chiefs' attack with a double and a single, scoring once. Two Hawk errors led to a run in each of the first two innings for Canton, helping the Chiefs build a 4-0 lead.

The win, combined with Saturday's 2-1 record at the Monroe Tournament, pushed Canton's overall record to 8-3. The Chiefs are 2-0 in the Western Division.

On Saturday against Livonia Franklin at Monroe, Canton pulled to within two runs with a four-run sixth but could forge no closer in losing 9-7.

CC football coach will guide cagers

■ BASKETBALL

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

The new Redford Catholic Central boys basketball coach should be easy to recognize, even without the headset.

Rick Coratti, who has worn the headset as defensive coordinator for the CC football team the past 20 years, was named the Shamrocks' new basketball coach.

Coratti said he plans to remain as defensive coordinator for CC football coach Tom Mach despite his new duties in basketball. Coratti has been part of three state football championships in 20 years as a coach.

Coratti takes over for Bernie Holowicki, who resigned in March after 23 years as CC's basketball coach. Holowicki guided CC to seven Catholic League championships, 16 district titles and a Class A state championship in 1976.

Holowicki finished with 612 wins and 216 losses.

Coratti, a 1969 CC graduate, coached basketball under Holowicki in the late '70s and '80s at CC. He was the freshman coach for two years, a varsity assistant for two years, and the junior varsity head coach until he resigned because of work commitments in 1987.

"I feel honored to follow someone like that (Holowicki)," Coratti said. "His record speaks for itself."

Coratti, 43, said he knows some might question why he is staying on as the defensive coordinator while assuming his new responsibilities with basketball.

"I'm not going to run from that," Coratti said. "Everyone is going to say, 'How can you do that?' It's no problem. My dad coached three sports. It's something I wanted to do.

"I wouldn't give up football. I gave it a lot of thought (coaching both sports). It's a challenge I look forward to."

Coratti, who is self-employed, plans to have the Shamrocks stay in the summer league Holowicki helped run for the past several years.

Coratti is the mind behind CC's "brick wall" defense and said he plans to emphasize defense with the basketball team as well. Of course, he'll have to get used to putting only five players on the court at once.

"Can we play 11 guys?" he joked. "Seriously, I've always enjoyed defense. You win championships with defense in almost every sport. You can become a good defensive player."

Salem reigns at Showers Relays

■ GIRLS TRACK

Five first-place finishes propelled Plymouth Salem girls track team to victory in the April Showers Relays Tuesday at Ypsilanti High School.

The Rocks scored 95 points to finish ahead of runner-up Brighton (80). Ypsilanti was third in the eight-team meet with 67.

Melissa Hopson and Nicole Van Hees totaled 10 feet in the high jump relay for a first. Kim Sheldon, Van Hees, Jolene Brown and Sarah Makins captured top honors in the shuttle hurdle relays (1:08.5).

The mixed medley relay of Courtney Sheldon, Alysia Sofios, Kristie Giddings, Lynda Sebestyen and Nicole Bolton were winners (4:20.3). So was the 1,600-meter relay of Courtney Sheldon, Jessica Moyer, Marcia Parker and Sarah Hamilton (4:06.6).

And Makins, Kim Sheldon and Van Hees combined for a victory in the 3x300 hurdles (combined time: 1:29.27).

The Rocks' depth was equally instrumental. They finished second in four races and third in another.

Sebestyen, Kelley Stankov, Courtney Sheldon and Hamilton were second in the 3,200 (10:10.1); Stacey Moore, Giddings, Bolton and Kathy Jost were the same in the 3,200 medley (10:50.13).

Other seconds went to Tonya Zgraggen, Brooke Kilby, Parker and Hamilton in the sprint medley (1:54.7) and Stankov, Moyer, Moore and Karen Boudreau in the distance medley (13:49.6).

Zgraggen, Kilby, Parker and Hopson finished third in the 400 relay (52.5).

Victory puts an end to Salem's skid

■ SOCCER

Plymouth Salem ended a two-game losing streak and evened its overall record at 3-3 with a 3-0 shutout of Farmington Harrison in a girls soccer match between Western Lakes Activities Association rivals Monday at Salem.

Alexis Marinos collected two goals and assisted on the third to spark the Rocks. Jodie Coyle accounted for the third goal. Suzanne Parrish also had two assists.

Salem is 2-3 against WLAA competition, but is 0-2 in the Lakes Division.

■ CANTON 3, FRANKLIN 0: Plymouth Canton woke up in the second half and, after a scoreless first 40 minutes, put away Livonia Franklin Monday at Franklin.

Becky Vachow netted the Chiefs' first two goals. Melissa Tomei assisted on the first, Jenny Parviainen on the second.

Parviainen knocked in the third goal, with Lynn Haines assisting.

Sarah Warnke was in goal for Canton, which outshot Franklin 15-6.

They are a winning combination, both on the pitching mound and as roommates on the SVSU campus.

Jeff, a 6-foot-4, 210-pound senior right-hander from Plymouth Salem, is the older Paluk and one of Head's most counted-on veterans.

Jeff won the "Coaches Award" as a junior, going 5-5 with four complete games in 11 starts and 53 strikeouts in 59.7 innings pitched.

Brian, 6-6 and 215 pounds, is a freshman from Redford Catholic Central who turned down a baseball scholarship to Western Michigan University to play basketball and baseball at Saginaw Valley.

Brian came out of high school with higher credentials than his older brother and was drafted in the 51st round of the 1993 Major League baseball draft by the Kansas City Royals.

As for being roommates, each points to the other when asked who is the sloppiest.

"Brian never cleans the bathroom," Jeff said.

"Jeff leaves all his stuff in the family room," Brian said.

But as different as their bios and cleaning habits are, the pair share one similarity: huge appetites. Brian does most of the cooking at home and both do an equal amount of eating.

"They are champion eaters," Head said. "If they pitched like they eat, they'd go right to the big leagues, without college."

But Head isn't complaining about their contributions.

Jeff is 2-2 with 30 strikeouts in 35.7 innings pitched. Brian is 2-1 as both a starter and reliever with a 2.63 earned run average.

They have helped the Cardinals to one of their best starts in Head's 12 years as coach. SVSU is 27-10 overall including Sunday's washout and 11-5 in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference.

The Paluks' parents, Mike and Laura, attended each of Brian's home basketball games and try to make it each time one is pitching. Of course, they stop at the grocery store first.

"We have this big chest freezer that one of my old roommates sold to me last year," Jeff said. "We couldn't do without it, especially when mom and dad bring up eight or nine loaves of bread."

Brian turned 18 last October and still doesn't have to worry about his weight, but the eating got Jeff into some trouble this year as his weight ballooned to 228.

"I had to cut down around Christmas and eat a couple of salads," said Jeff, who will graduate next year with a degree in management.

Brian had a 3.3 grade point average his first semester despite having to balance basketball and baseball in his free time.

Brian had a strong freshman basketball campaign, shooting 61.4 percent from the field with a 4.8 scoring average and 4.0 rebounds per game. He was nominated for freshman of the year in the GLIAC.

This despite sometimes having to work on his pitching with the baseball team after finishing basketball practice.

"Brian is a coach's dream," SVSU basketball coach Robert Pratt said.

Brian said basketball is the tougher of the two sports to play because of the physical demands.

"You have the little nagging injuries that never go away," he said.

The pair have made their parents proud.

"Both are mentally tough, tougher than their mother," Laura said. "I'd walk to the end of the earth for them, but sometimes I wished they'd play other positions. It seems like everything depends on the pitcher. Sometimes I'll be sitting in the bleachers saying novenas, with my head in my lap. Tap me on the shoulder when it's over."

The Chiefs bunched eight runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to put the game away. Heather LaGrow was 3-for-4 with an RBI, Nicole Kovachevich had two hits and an RBI, Schafer had a hit and two RBI, and Price had a hit and an RBI.

Arnold is satisfied with certain segments of his team's play. "Both my pitchers are pitching fine," he said. But: "We've just got to get our sticks going and play better defense."

Improving those phases of the game might push Canton closer toward division contention.

Rize has right call to attract a turkey

BILL PARKER

Ted Rize has experienced bad luck recently in his attempt to draw a spring wild turkey permit in Michigan. He's 0-for-3 since 1991, having missed out on a permit again this year. But if the Livonia hunter ever gets his hands on a permit, he'll have a secret weapon on his side when he finally lands in Michigan's turkey woods — a state champion caller.

Ted's 10-year-old son, Tim, was recently crowned state champion in the youth division (under 16) of the 1994 Baldwin Michigan Turkey Festival.

"He was pretty happy," explained Ted. "He was one of the younger guys there and a lot of the other guys were using diaphragm calls. He uses a friction call and he was a little intimidated, but he did really well. He didn't mess up on any of his calls."

Using a slate call and a sand box call, Tim provided the judges with his best rendition of a cluck, a purr, a yelp and the cutting of a hen.

Although young Tim impressed the judges, the championship wasn't his most impressive accomplishment.

Tim Rize

"He's won a couple junior division contests and placed fourth in the adult division at the 1994 Outdoorama," said Ted. "That (Outdoorama) was probably his most impressive finish. He was up against guys 25 to 50 years old and he placed fourth. I think he was more excited about that one than anything."

Ted has been hunting turkey for the past nine years and calling for the past seven. "I do a lot of out-of-state hunting," he explained. "Unfortunately, I haven't drawn a permit in Michigan so I haven't been able to get him out yet, but I'm looking forward to it."

The elder Rize is proud of his son's success but not necessarily surprised.

""Calling is something that really isn't that difficult to do if you sit down and practice a little," said Ted. "He started practicing, had some success at it, and it took off for him."

Salmon Stakes set

With the warm weather finally anchoring ship in southeastern Michigan, the salmon fishing is beginning to pick up at the south end of Lake Huron.

Once the water temperature at the southern end of the lake reaches into the 40s, baitfish move in toward shore and the salmon are not far behind. Anglers have been experiencing pretty good success recently trolling body plugs in 12-25 feet of water.

"It was spotty last weekend. You had to be in the right spot at the right time, but there were fish out there" explained Captain Ron Cutler of Model T Charters in Lexington. "Tuesday morning I went out and we had a bunch of rain and they were popping pretty good. Now through the 15th of May we'll get our best fishing around here. After that they'll move out and you'll have to go out pretty far to find them. By June you'll have to start moving north."

The increased fishing action is good news for organizers of the 16th annual River Crab Salmon Stakes. The tournament, based in St. Clair, raises money annually to battle child abuse and neglect, victims of family violence and substance abuse. To date the tournament has raised better than $500,000.

Money is raised through the sale of $10 raffle/entry tickets that enter the holder in both the fishing tournament and a raffle. The grand prize is a trip for two aboard the Delta Queen Steam Boat to cruise the Mississippi River. Other raffle prizes include a trip for two to Toronto, $750 in gift certificates redeemable at any of the 19 Chuck Muer restaurants nationwide, a charter fishing trip for four, and $300 in gift certificates redeemable at any Chuck Muer restaurant.

There are no losing tickets because all tickets are redeemable for $10 off dinner for two at any Chuck Muer restaurant.

Tickets are available locally at Charley's Crab in Troy, Pals in West Bloomfield, Meriwethers in Southfield, Big Fish in Dearborn, and the Gandy Dancer in Ann Arbor; or by calling the Blue Water Inn at 1-800-468-3727.

Two new seafood restaurants open

Where do you go when you have a taste for seafood? Here are two new places to check out — Big Fish Too and Water Club Grill.

"Big Fish Too, just west of I-75 and Oakland Mall at 1111 West 14 Mile, opened for dinner on Tuesday. It will begin serving lunch on May 2.

"Formerly, Uptown Charleys, the restaurant closed in February for a half-million dollar facelift. Designer Don Rea of Peterhansrea was contracted to assist in creating the new look. There are three 300-gallon salt and fresh water aquariums brimming with fish. The restaurant features an open bar, a Bill Olendorf mural of life under the sea, and colorful dining areas.

The menu, developed by C.A. Muer Corporate Chef Steve Johnston, includes Rocky Mountain Golden Trout and King Salmon, lobster, fish and chicken dishes. House specialties are Buccatini Cioppino (hollow tube pasta with seafood, garlic and wine baked in parchment paper), and Cedar-Planked Salmon (Salmon roasted on cedar planks).

Lunch hours are 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday; and noon to 3 p.m. Sunday. Dinner is served 4-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 4-11 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and 3:30-9:30 p.m. Sunday. The lounge will be open until 11 p.m., Monday through Thursday; midnight on Friday and Saturday; and until 10 p.m. Sunday. Call (810) 589-9533.

If you go there, give me a call and let me know what you think.

Water Club Grill, 39500 Ann Arbor Road, ¼ mile east of I-275 in Plymouth is also on my list of new restaurants to check out this summer.

Proprietor John Cleveland, who spent 14 years with the C.A. Muer Corp. serves only the highest quality seafood at his eatery. His seafood suppliers are Northwest Food Company Inc. of Detroit and Steve Connolly Seafoods Inc. of Boston. Northwest is the largest seafood supplier in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana. Connolly is one of the oldest and most reputable suppliers in the country.

"When you come to the Water Club Grill, we want you to relax and savor your dining experience," said Cleveland.

'Broadway Bound' nostalgic, bittersweet

HUGH GALLAGHER

Neil Simon, the master of American comedy, has turned inward in recent years. He has reached back in time to write about his own life in a series of plays that are as serious as they are funny.

"Broadway Bound" is perhaps the most wrenching of these plays as it deals with the breakup of Simon's parents and his own first taste of success as a writer. Simon still amuses with well-timed comic interplay and a few outright jokes, but the tone here is nostalgic and bittersweet.

The Meadowbrook Theater production is uneven, a bit tentative, but in its finest moments it reaches deep and takes us back to that remembered winter of 1949 in Brighton Beach when a great playwright found his voice and lost his family.

The Jeromes of Brighton Beach, Brooklyn, are showing the strains of life as the play opens. Grandfather Ben is having health problems and he is living away from Grandma. Daughter Kate and her husband Jack are having marital problems. Kate's sons, Stanley and Eugene, are writing comedy sketches, hoping to break into the new medium of television. Around these simple things, Simon probes deeply into the tensions of family life with an all forgiving love that doesn't gloss over the hurt.

Kraig Swartz was born to play Eugene, Simon's self portrait. In addition to fitting the part physically and vocally, Swartz brings a real warmth and a bright eyed interest in everything around him. Eugene is a young man in love with life who wants to find the bright side of even the worst disaster. Swartz handles the asides with skill and moves easily from clowning around to tender affection.

REVIEW

The play's finest moment is something we have all experienced when we've taken the time to get a parent or grandparent to talk about the past. Swartz prods his unhappy mother to recall a magic moment. Jayne Houdyshell as Kate brings that moment to rich life, gliding across the stage and visibly shedding years of disappointment and age.

Eric Tavares as the socialist grandfather is exactly as young Eugene describes him, a master of comic timing and characterization. Tavares also understands that grandpa Ben is nobody's fool. Tavares slow walk, grumpy face and subtle accent give detail to his fine characterization.

Andrew Newell gets a fair share of the comedy here as Eugene's neurotic brother Stanley. It is Stanley who burns to be a writer but seems to suffer from permanent writer's block. His fits of despair are almost closer to Woody Allen than Neil Simon.

David Regal is the play's heavy, the unfaithful father who isn't quite sure what he wants. Regal gives the part the dignity and complexity that Simon intended, never allowing us to dislike this man who causes such unhappiness.

Becky Holahan is cast in the role of Kate's whining sister Blanche. It's a thankless role that she overplays.

Peter Hicks set is a detailed recreation of Brooklyn in the 1940s and gives some extra clues to the family.

Director John Ulmer is careful in balancing the comedy with the poignant drama. He allows the scene with Blanche to get out of hand and lets some of the interplay between the brothers drag too long. But he handles some scenes superbly, especially the mother-son dance and a confrontation between father and sons. As they were meant to be, the best moments in this Neil Simon "comedy" aren't funny.

Hugh Gallagher is production editor of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc. He has reviewed films and plays for the past 20 years.

MOT's 'Turandot' is splendid

MARY JANE DOERR

Lush, extravagant, exotic — all the terms that could be used to describe Michigan Opera Theatre's production of "Turandot" — are trite. The powerful music from the orchestra solidly lead by conductor and Hungarian born maestro Imre Pallo, the dominating chorus trained by Oakland University staff member Suzanne Acton, the ornate Chinese designs well suited for the wide Masonic Temple stage, and the traditional yet subtly creative staging of Roman Terleckyj forms a splendor of impressions anything but trite.

REVIEW

Terleckyj started out years ago with MOT. He has gone on the direct all over the world and now is bringing his bigger things home. He portrayed the story of how the cold princess avenges her relative's death with punishments worse than those in Singapore, placing his enormous cast of 137 priests, mandarins, and officials up and down the Imperial Palace staircase, center staging his singers — singers like the lovely young lyric soprano Cristina Gallardo-Domas.

Gallardo-Domas, the find of MOT's Mitchell Krieger, distinguished herself as Liu with exquisitely shaded tones in her "Tu che di gel sei cinta." Ping, Pang, Pong, the Emperor's ministers, (Ron Baker, Peter Blanchet, and Craig Estep), distinguished the acting as the three commedia dell'arte characters, lightening the severity of the story.

With no severity, the Russian born tenor Vladimir Popov sang the Pavarotti encore "Nessun dorma" from a reclining position rising to the audience for the climactic finish, a voice equal to powerful Ealynn Voss who was the unlikable, haunty Princess Turandot.

With her six-inch long finger nails and glittering white 15-foot "riddle cape," Princess Turandot would never have scrubbed floors, but Ealynn Voss did while she was making her way up the Chinese staircase of success to make this operatic part her signature role.

Oratorio society presents concert

Plymouth Oratorio Society, under the direction of conductor Robert Pratt, will present Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms," and Haydn's "Mass in D Minor" with the Michigan Sinfonietta, 7:30 p.m. Sunday, May 1, at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, 44800 Warren, between Canton Center and Sheldon roads in Canton.

There will be a free-will offering.

Profound and austere, yet open and lyrical, Stravinsky's "Symphony of Psalms" for mixed chorus and orchestra, expresses deep-seated religious feelings and is one of Stravinsky's most magnificent achievements.

"It is a symphony only in the loose sense of having three movements," said Pratt. "For his text Stravinsky chose three psalms: Psalm 39, 'Hear my prayer, O Lord;' Psalm 40, 'I waited patiently for the Lord;' and Psalm 150, 'Praise Ye the Lord.' These describe a sequence of repentance, thanksgiving and prise.

"The instrumental forces are unusual. There are no violins, violas or clarinets, but rather, expanded sections of woodwins and brass, supported by cellos, double basses, keyboards and percussion.

Haydn's "Mass in D Minor" (Nelson Mass) for soloists, mixed chorus and orchestra, composed, supposedly in memory of Admiral Horatio Nelson, is known in England as the "Coronation" or "Imperial" Mass, because of its ceremonial character.

It is the third of the six masses that Haydn composed during the years 1796-1802.

Concert soloists include Karin Chapin, soprano who teaches guitar and voice, and is choir director at First Presbyterian Church in Plymouth.

Brenda Krachenberg, soprano, is the soloist at the First Church of Christ Scientist in Plymouth.

Carol Hymes Briner, mezzo soprano, graduated from Franklin High School in Livonia where she was a member of the Bel Canto Choir and Franklin singers. She is a member of the choir at First Presbyterian Church of Ypsilanti.

Gayle Rosey, mezzo soprano, has been a member of the Novi Choralaires and the Schoolcraft College Choir.

Oratorio Society: The Plymouth Oratorio Society will present a concert on May 1 at St. John Neumann Catholic Church.

Trinity House performs local work

Trinity House Theatre will present "Caldwell Calling," a light-hearted melodrama scripted by Gary Brda of Plymouth and directed by Tom Bryne of Northville, 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, April 29 to May 14 and 3 p.m. Sundays, May 1 and May 8.

Trinity House Theatre is at 38840 W. Six Mile in Livonia, at the intersection of I-275 and Six Mile. Tickets are $7 at the door. For reservations, call (313) 464-6302.

The plot of "Caldwell Calling" revolves around an aspiring author, Shaw Odet (Guy Snyder of Livonia), and the antagonist from his first Gothic novel, Kenton Caldwell (Joe Guest of Garden City).

This character, from another place and time, comes to press his will on his creator, Odet.

"This ensemble work includes a bevy of delightful characters," said Brda. "It will give you an opportunity to laugh at them, as well as occasionally at yourself."

The cast of characters includes:

Students learn life lessons in 'PCU' and 'With Honors'

"PCU" and "With Honors" movies with college themes, open Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters.

PREVIEW

Tom Lawrence is about to get his first lesson in politically correct behavior as a freshman at Port Chester University in "PCU." Lawrence moves into a renegade dorm that sets out to defy the rigid and "correct" behavior of its fellow students.

"With Honors" is the true story of Harvard University students who befriend a homeless man.

The curriculum at Port Chester is political correctness; the penalty for learning to fail your lesson. Instant protest. Twentieth Century Fox presents the Paul Schiff production starring Jeremy Piven, Chris Young, David Spade, Megan Ward, Sarah Trigger and Jessica Walter. The film is directed by Hart Bochner from a screenplay written by Adam Leff and Zak Penn. Paul Schiff is the producer.

"The cup that holds your coffee is a threat to the environment, the hamburger in your bun comes courtesy of a murdered animal, and the girl you've asked out is a woman, you clod. You've just had your first lesson in political correctness from Port Chester University or "PCU."

"The only way for an 18-year-old to survive the baffling complexities of college life in the 1990s is to maintain a sense of humor," observes producer Paul Schiff. "'PCU' is about the war between humorless and humor. We hope humor wins out."

Central to the story is the Pit, the residence hall which serves as a bunker for the frontline soldiers in the war against political correctness. Droz (Jeremy Piven) is the Pit's leader, a good-naturedly anarchistic veteran of PCU who is the ideal guide for Tom Lawrence (Chris Young), an incoming freshman completely unprepared for modern campus life — and the war he is about to be cast into.

"PCU" is rated PG-13 — Parents are strongly cautioned, some material may be inappropriate for young children.

Joe Pesci, Brendan Fraser, Moira Kelly, Patrick Dempsey and Josh Hamilton star in "With Honors," a Spring Creek Production for Warner Bros. release. "With Honors" is based on the true story of four ambitious Harvard students who encounter and eventually befriend a homeless man, which causes them to re-examine their values and beliefs.

Gore Vidal makes a special appearance as the feared and revered Professor Philip Hayes Pitkannan. A Nobel laureate, he has the authority to recommend or deny a students cum laude — "with honors" status at graduation.

Monty Kessler (Fraser) is a Harvard scholarship student well on his way to graduating summa cum laude. Driven to succeed, he panics when a severe winter storm causes his computer drive to crash and takes with it his senior honors thesis. As he rushes to the library to copy the existing pages of his draft, Monty begins a learning experience that's different from anything he's experienced at Harvard.

Simon Wilder (Pesci) had a cozy home in a highly desirable neighborhood. Centrally located in Cambridge, Mass., in the midst of Harvard University's historic Quadrangle, the only thing missing, perhaps, was a view. Though technically homeless, Wilder had created a safe harbor against the frigid winter outside — in the basement of Harvard's Widener Library.

PETER JOUNG

College drama: Monty (Brendan Fraser) listens as Simon Wilder (Joe Pesci) uses the Constitution to make a point at Harvard in Warner Bros.' poignant drama "With Honors."

Monty unexpectedly meets Simon after dropping the only copy of his senior thesis through a sidewalk grate — into the lap of Wilder in the basement below.

Kessler's discovery of Wilder's quarters results in the older man's eviction from his "home" by campus security. However, desperate to get his thesis back, Kessler makes a deal with Wilder: for every accommodation Kessler grants Wilder, he will receive one page of the thesis from the now truly homeless man.

What begins as a trading-off for necessities becomes a discovery that life's most important lessons are necessarily learned by the book.

Like "PCU," "With Honors" is rated PG-13.

Marine captain faces ultimate challenge in 'No Escape'

In the year 2022, a ruthless prison warden (Michael Lerner) has created the ultimate solution for his most troublesome and violent inmates: Absolom, a secret jungle island where prisoners are abandoned and left to die.

For Marine Captain John Robbins (Ray Liotta), convicted of murdering a commanding offer, Absolom means no escape, no hope and almost no chance of survival in "No Escape," a Savoy Pictures Release opening Friday at metro Detroit movie theaters..

PREVIEW

Yet for Robbins, the ultimate prison is the ultimate challenge, and he is determined to survive and escape in order to reveal the truth about his murderous actions and clear his name. On Absolom, he discovers a primitive civilization divided into two camps: the Outsiders, anarchistic savages led by the ruthless Marek (Stuart Wilson); and the Insiders, a smaller group of peaceful colonists led by a compassionate former surgeon known as Father (Lance Henriksen).

The Father has established his camp with the aid of other like-minded inmates: Hawkins (Ernie Hudson), the quiet but strict security chief; Dysart (Jack Shepherd) an ingenious inventor; Casey (Kevin Dillon), a youthful prisoner who is awed by Robbins' powerful presence; and King (Ian McNeice), the fastidious host of the community who assures the well-being of the Insiders.

With the sadistic warden monitoring the fierce battles between the two enemy camps, Robbins reluctantly takes the refuge offered by the Insiders while he plots his seemingly impossible escape. As he continues his daily struggle for survival, Robbins finds he must confront not only his fellow prisoners, but the physical and mental demons from his past that continue to haunt him.

Enter our 'Bad Girls' contest

Four women of the old west become gunfighters to win back their money, their rights, and their dignity in Twentieth Century Fox's "Bad Girls," now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters.

These trailblazers were forced by circumstances beyond their control to stand up for themselves.

Tell us about the "Bad Girls" in your life — women who because of divorce, illness, the death of a spouse, an accident, or just bad luck, were forced to overcome their weaknesses to survive. The women you nominate can be married, divorced, widowed or single.

It could be a single mom juggling work and family responsibilities, a woman who is battling a serious illness like cancer, or a woman laid off from her job who goes back to school to improve her skills so she can get a better job, or struggles to find a job that pays as much as the one she lost. Tell us about these unsung heroes.

Include the "Bad Girl's" name, address, phone number, and describe in 200 words or less why they are deserving of this award. The first 15 entries will receive a "Bad Girl" T-shirt. There will be three top grand-prize winners who will receive passes to see "Bad Girls," a T-shirt and movie poster. We'll tell you why these three women are so "Bad" on the movie page on May 12. Deadline for entry is Friday, May 6.

Send contest entries to: Keely Wygonik, Taste/Entertainment editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150. Call (313) 953-2105 if you have any questions.

REVIEW

"I saw a preview last week. It was 32 short films about Glenn Gould. Each one has a story and a title. Some seem almost like a documentary," said Tiernan. "It was very interesting. I had never heard of Glenn Gould. He was very eccentric and died in 1982 at the age of 50. I recommend it."

Tickets are $6 students and seniors, $8 general admission. Tickets available at the door or in advance by calling (313) 462-3888.

"I'll be singing songs from 'West Side Story,' 'Miss Saigon,' 'Pippin,' and other popular shows," said Hopkins. "I try to do things that the public will be comfortable with. Everyone in the audience might not be music lovers. I try to get them to appreciate music as much as I do."

Hopkins will also be performing two duets with Michael Parr and will sing the popular tune "Now and Forever," accompanied by his brother James on guitar.

Restaurant stages kid's classic

"The Velveteen Rabbit," a heartwarming tale about a little boy who loves his toy rabbit so much that it becomes real is delighting children of all ages at Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall Restaurant in Northville.

Under the direction of Off The Wall Productions, the show opens Saturday, April 30 and will run through May 21 on Saturdays. Lunch is served at noon, curtain time is 1 p.m. Tickets are $9.99 for children and $11.99 for adults which includes the Great Lunch Buffet featuring mostaccioli, salads, chicken and dessert. Tickets will be available at the door. Call (313) 349-0522 for reservations.

Based on the beloved story by Margery Williams, this musical adaptation was co-written by Mark Barrera of Birmingham and Theresa Weiss.

Laura Gumina of Redford portrays Nana, a household servant who gives the little boy the stuffed "Velveteen Rabbit" for a Christmas present.

"He becomes very close to the rabbit," she said. The boy gets Scarlet Fever, and after he recovers his doctor demands that all of the boy's bedding and the stuffed rabbit which comforted him, be destroyed.

"Because the boy became so attached to the rabbit it becomes real. The theme is when you're loved very much you become real," said Gumina who teaches theater at Franklin Road Christian School in Southfield and has over 20 years experience acting and directing shows in the metro area. "This is a kid show with a heart."

"This production stays close to the original story," said Gumina. Barrera and Weiss added some fun with dancing toys, silly rabbits and a magical fairy. Wonderful costumes, charming music, sound effects and a lovely set round out the production.

Preschoolers through adults will enjoy the show which lasts 40 to 45 minutes wiht no intermission. After the performance children can meet the actors and parents can take photos.

All of the actors in the production are adult professionals from the metro Detroit area.

Local students cast in musical

Nicole Lowery of Birmingham will appear as Kanga and David Eugene Baca of Westland will appear as Animal No. 1 in the Bonstelle Theatre's musical adaptation of the chilren's classic "Winnie the Pooh."

It will play at the Bonstelle Theatre on Woodward at Eliot in Detroit, 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturdays, April 30 and May 7. Tickets are $3 per person, $2 per person for groups of 10 or more. Call (313) 577-2960.

Lowery is a 1992 graduate of Birmingham Seaholm High School and a sophomore theater major at Wayne State University. Baca, a 1993 graduate of Divine Child High School in Dearborn, is a freshman theater major at WSU.

A.A. Milne has entertained children for many years with his delighful stories of a bear named Pooh and his friends Piglet, Eeyore, Owl, Rabbit, Kanga and baby Roo.

Kristen Sergel has adapted Milne's stories for stage, and Allan Jay Friedman has added music to some of Milne's original lyrics to create a wonderful adventure.

In this tale Pooh, in his search for honey and marmalade, uses a balloon to fly up a tree and gets stuck in Rabbit's hole. Meanwhile, Kanga causes an uproar in the forest as her impending arrival strikes fear in the hearts of all residents, because news of her bathtub, soap and medicine precedes her.

Kanga begins to wash Piglet daily and feed him healthy food and medicine, much to his dismay. Roo can only think of escaping from his mother and eating candy and getting dirty.

EARTHA DEYAMPERT

Along the way, you are there

They're the adult children from the age of "Leave It to Beaver," Ed Sullivan, freedom marches, sit-ins, mini skirts, big collared shirts and wide-legged pants, platform shoes who preached peace . . . and love. They're now in their late 30s and 40s, look at the hip-hopping teenaged children and think of themselves some 20 years ago.

Who are they? The baby boomers of the '50s who at one time in their young lives really believed they could change the world - make a difference. They believed in a better and different way of doing things. Some might say baby boomers had a "savior of the world" attitude and spirit. And now, these strong troopers realize they weren't exactly saviors, nor the "chosen children."

Baby boomers now face some of the same problems and have similar concerns as did their parents. But when faced with caring for an elderly parent, it's a reversal of roles. Where there once was an active youthful person who changed your diapers, got you off to school and watched proudly as you posed for prom pictures, there now is a small, frail person looking at you for loving care.

Because medical technology has become so advanced, people are living longer, but not necessarily healthier. It becomes a critical and stressful task to make sure elderly parents are cared for properly. The need for extended health care, legal assistance and companionship are

Prevention is the best medicine

■ One physician believes that the Clinton health-care reform plan ignores an important idea - prevention. And that's the goal behind his work at the Institute for Preventative Sports Medicine.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

If President Bill Clinton wishes to make health care more affordable, "prevention" is the best cure, according to a Plymouth physician.

"Health care needs to be made more affordable. The way to do that is by preventing need," said Dr. David Janda, who heads the Institute of Preventative Sports Medicine in Ann Arbor. "If you look on the TV, radio, newspapers, when the public elite is speaking (about health care), they never mention the concept of prevention.

"It doesn't take a rocket scientist to see that they're not really trying to solve the problem."

Prevention is Janda's bag. His institute is the only independent research organization in the country dedicated to preventing sports-related injuries and to health-care cost containment. Aside from proving that the Clinton administration is going in the wrong direction, Janda said, he has found through his studies that most athletic equipment doesn't protect its wearers.

Janda believes that Clinton's program will be costly because it will create and expand the role of federal agencies. Instead, he is urging leaders to support research focusing on the prevention of health care. This, he said, will inevitably save money.

According to Janda, injuries caused by sports, motor vehicle accidents and the unintentional discharge of firearms are claiming the lives of more individuals age 1-44 than any other cause. More than $133 billion is spent on short-term care of those injuries - that excludes an employer's cost of replacing an injured employee.

BILL BRESLER STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Best cure: It's a tough life for child-sized test dummies at Dr. David Janda's Institute for Preventative Sports Medicine in Ann Arbor.

"Injury is the most under-recognized health problem in the United States," said Janda, who also is an orthopedic surgeon at Catherine McAuley Health System's Orthopedic Surgery Associates in Ann Arbor. "The public must be made aware that this is a problem with many potential solutions that would eliminate many injuries and save a tremendous amount of health-care dollars.

"If you listen to ABC, NBC, CBS, CNN you never hear about this. If you read the Wall Street Journal or the New York Times you don't hear about this either. It's frustrating. We want to do what's best for our patients."

Common sense

Preventative medicine is common sense to Janda, but he said the government isn't taking prevention seriously. Hillary Clinton does not welcome the opinion of health-care providers as part of her study because they are a special interest, he added.

"They're not listening to the grunts on the front line of the health care war," he said patting his chest. "If you look at the Vietnam experience, the lesson we learned is if the policy makers and decision makers don't listen to the folks on the front line, you're not going to win the war. If we lose the war, we can't get into planes and helicopters and say, 'Oh well, we lost.'"

On the front line of Janda's institute is a 43-member board that reads like a "who's who" of professional sports. Mel Blount, Jim "Mudcat" Grant, Willie McCovey,

Show scores for First Step

First Step kicked off spring on the right foot thanks to a successful benefit organized by Zonta Northwest and Jacobson's in Laurel Park Place.

The professional women's organization and Jacobson's of Laurel Park Place in Livonia recently staged the "First Step Into Spring," an evening of food and fashions.

"It more than met our expectations. We were very, very pleased with our results," said Pamela Gomoll of Zonta Northwest. Hoping to net $10,000, the benefit collected more than $15,000 for First Step.

More than 700 people milled around Jacobson's shopping, learning fashion tips and getting a sneak peek on spring clothing. Samplings of food from the area's top restaurants were sprinkled throughout the store, which was closed to the public for the benefit.

MORAL PERSPECTIVES

REV. ROBERT SCHADEN

Except for columns such as this one, it is hardly politically correct in today's arena to speak or write of beliefs when such beliefs have a religious base. In many instances, it is downright illegal. In others, it is looked upon as at least insensitive. Many who do attempt to cross into such dangerous territory do so on an apologetic note and from a kind of paranoia — "I hope they don't think I am a fanatic."

Certainly, the fanatics are out there. Unfortunately, they do little more than provide a sick kind of entertaining fodder for the media cameras which tend to lump them together with anyone who dares to offer a religious-based comment.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is presently discussing the appropriateness of religious expressions in the work place. If your religious values lead you to treat employees and customers with dignity, then go ahead and treat them as such, but keep it a secret as to the basis of your behavior. Otherwise, you may be sued for religious harassment.

No one can deny that religion has been used in more than one society to beat people on the head, to intimidate them, to abuse them and to harass them. Such behavior is reprehensible; it is indefensible, and it has nothing to do with the God in whose name it is wielded. However, in this world of our imperfection, people have a tendency to misuse any number of things.

Automobiles are misused and people die. Power is misused and lives are twisted and devastated. Tools are misused and people get hurt. Religion is misused and people are insulted.

The question is a rather old one, but it may well be asked here: Does the abuse of something with a track record or even a potential for good warrant our banning that something from our lives?

Although the track record of religious belief has left its human disasters along the road of history, it has also provided the inspirational building blocks for more than one celebrational note. The very existence of our nation, the documents of which obtained from the philosophy of John Locke and his belief in God-given rights, would have a decidedly different flavor had those convictions been denied or even left unexpressed.

Granted, signing God's name to something does not make it good. In fact, one might well wonder if we are not a bit presumptuous attaching the name of God to whatever we choose. At the same time, to deny the source of our values when they are forever challenged around us may indeed cause us to lose touch with them.

Beliefs that are kept in the closet or which are left unexpressed do have a way of disappearing. In fact, such disappearance is decried in more than one corner of our society. We seem to have a forked tongue approach steering us into the 21st century.

As one student put it to me, "I don't understand the adult world of which I am supposed to be a part. They tell me to develop values and beliefs and even to bring them along and make a difference, but they also tell me that I'm not supposed to talk about it."

Perhaps this student has been infected with the illusion that being an adult is synonymous with making sense. So put the illusion aside, kid, and be careful that you don't express your beliefs in the wrong place. After all, being legal is the only value that might still stand up in court.

Jammers score with musical

Baseball was the theme, but the old ballpark wasn't the scene of the action when the children's choir of Memorial Church of Christ in Livonia presented the spring musical, "Shortstops."

The choir, better known as The Jesus Jammers, staged the baseball musical Sunday, April 17. The musical was designed to teach kids about God's willingness to guide people in their everyday decision-making.

According to directors Sue Ford and Judy Anderson, the children learned how much God cares for every individual, while they had a fun time with the music. Helping Ford and Anderson are Diane Costlow and Cheryl Green.

The boys enjoyed singing a song entitled "Would The Babe Understand?" and the girls sang "Hot Dogs," a song which included a three-foot inflatable hot dog, donated by the Oscar Mayer Company. There also was an upbeat song about the importance of the Bible, "I Love That Rulebook."

There was a cast of 12 main characters on the baseball team, and more than 20 children who sang solos in the program. In all, 43 children in the first through sixth grades had parts in the production.

The Jesus Jammers had been working on the musical since November with the children involved in many aspects of the production — painting backdrops, making posters, sending out invitations, assisting with choreography and helping with props.

Memorial Church of Christ also has a Cherub Choir for children ages 3-5, a Teen Choir, a bell choir and an adult choir as part of its music program.

LORENE GREEN

Dear Ms. Green,
My cousin lives in Livonia and she has sent me some of your articles from the Observer. I just thought I would write to see if you would answer my letter. I would like to have you analyze my handwriting. I write some times this way and also another way.
I am 56 years old and married. I have seven children and 11 grandchildren. I am a white American Indian. I am also right-handed.
C.S.,
Mystic, Conn.

The initial observation one makes about today's handwriting is that the first part is written with a definite right slant, showing that her emotions come into play quickly. The next part is written with a vertical slant. Vertical writers usually exercise control over their emotions.

When the two diverse slants are considered, we see there is a struggle within the writer which often results in vacillating moods for her.

Many similarities appear in the two writing styles. Both have a wide margin on the right side of the page. This speaks to us of caution or apprehension with regard to something in the future.

Both samples reveal the sense of pride she takes in what she does. She is quite versatile. Her work is done efficiently.

Although often a self-starter, her initial enthusiasm sometimes wanes. When this happens, she becomes cautious and a little unsure of herself. To her credit, she will usually persist until the task is finished.

Irritation is observed in both samples. Most of it, however, seems to be directed toward herself or what she is currently doing.

Our writer is careful with regard to the information she is willing to share about herself, so there are only a few people who get to know her on an intimate basis. Some disappointment with the male authority figure is suggested here. I doubt that she is inclined to talk about it with others.

Usually, she can be counted on to conform to the standards of her social group and/or family. She feels uneasy when she violates those standards or behaviors. She may also become annoyed with people who disregard established rules. And at times, she may upset others with her insistence they conform to standards or rules they consider outmoded.

Careful and methodical would describe her thinking. She is ever aware of details and has a good memory. She can retain what she learned for a long time.

If you would like to have your handwriting analyzed in this newspaper, write to Lorene C. Green, a certified graphologist, at 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150. Please use a full sheet of white, unlined paper, writing in the first person singular. Age, handedness and signature are helpful. Objective feedback is always welcomed. Lorene Green regrets that time does not allow her to send out personal replies.

'Every Day' golf outing to benefit Hospice Services

The Western Wayne Hospice Foundation, in its effort to support the work of Hospice Services of Western Wayne County Inc., will stage its first "Living Every Day" Golf Outing Tuesday, May 3, at Bay Point Country Club in West Bloomfield.

The day will start with a buffet luncheon, followed by a shotgun start of the four-person scrambles event. Each of the par three holes will have a designated prize for a hole in one, such as a 1994 Mercury Cougar, two business class tickets on Lufthansa Airlines to any German destination and two Oki portable cellular telephones, according to Christopher Ziomek, foundation president.

Refreshments will be available throughout the event, with a New York sirloin dinner highlighting the awards presentation at 7:30 p.m.

Special sponsorships are available for any individual or company wishing to support the event. Cost is $1,000 for corporate, $500 for putting green, $400 for hole in one, longest drive or closest to the pin and $300 for an individual hole and/or driving range. Sponsorships include golfing, advertising in the official program and recognition on the course.

Individual golf tickets are $150, and dinner-only tickets are $65. Tickets are available at the Hospice Services offices at 6701 Harrison St., Garden City (522-4244) and 127 S. Main St., Plymouth (459-0548).

Hospice Services of Western Wayne County Inc. also has a few volunteer positions available, focusing on marketing and public relations. The positions require a four-hour commitment per month during standard business hours. Volunteer applications will be accepted through April; orientation and training will be provided free.

For more information call Vicki Martin or Maureen Karby at 522-4244.

Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled home care to those individuals who face an incurable illness. Hospice offers supportive care, promotes quality of life, and provides comfort and emotional healing for the patient and family members.

Racers take over Maybury Park for the Eagle Run

Lace up your sneakers; it's time for the 10th annual Eagle Run, sponsored by Ward Presbyterian Church's Single Point Ministries.

The run will be Saturday, May 7, at the Maybury State Park in Northville. There will be 10K, 5K and one-mile run/walk events open to people of all ages and abilities, singles and marrieds alike.

The Eagle Run is geared to be a great day for the whole family and a way of introducing participants to Ward Church and its programs as well as enjoying a day in the park. Last year more than 600 runners signed up for the races.

This year, race day will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a pre-event warm-up. Race times start at 10 a.m. with the 5K run/walk, followed at 10:45 a.m. by the 10K run/walk and the one-mile fun run/walk at 11:45 a.m.

A box lunch will be served at 12:15 p.m. There will be music and special entertainment throughout the day and interested people need not participate in the run/walk event to join in on the program.

Fees are $8 for the 5K (certified 3.1 miles) and 10K (certified 6.2 miles) runs, $6 each for adult fun run/walk and $4 for the children's (under age 12) fun run/walk. Box lunches for non-race participants will cost $4. There also will be a late registration charge of $2 after May 1.

All net proceeds from Eagle Run will be donated to The Detroit Rescue Mission. The mission provides more than 285,000 meals yearly to the area homeless. It also furnishes shelter and the Gospel to more than 400 people daily, and counseling and guidance also are given to nearly 300 men from the Department of Corrections.

Separate donations for the Detroit Rescue Mission also will be accepted at the Eagle Run.

In addition to participants, volunteers also are needed to assist in organizing the race as well as working on race day.

"Much effort is given to assure this is a quality event," an organizer said. "This event is open to the general public, and one of our goals is to spread the Word of the Lord to the unsaved."

For more information, call Debra Mills at the Single Point office at (313) 422-1854.

CLARIFICATION

A seminar and public forum on headaches will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, May 3-4, at the Novi Hilton. It will feature Dr. Seymour Diamond and is sponsored by Dr. Edward Lichten's Headache Institute for Women, Providence Hospital, the OHEP Center for Medical Education and the Diamond Headache Clinic.

tertained as guests tasted dishes from Country Epicure, Genitti's Hole in the Wall, Golden Mushroom and Villa de Roma, among others.

The recently-opened restaurant Macaroni Grill brought with it its immense popularity. Curious visitors waited in line for up to 15 minutes to try the eatery's dishes.

Food wasn't the only event on the benefit's menu. Dorothy Petroff of Lansing displayed her talent of decorating carved goose eggs with paint, yarn and gold trim. Varda Wasser demonstrated the correct way to tie scarves while models showed the latest styles of spring hats.

The highlights of the evening were two major fashion shows and two women's sportswear shows. Mona Shane, wife of WXYZ-TV sportscaster Don Shane, was a guest model. During the men's fashion show, enthusiastic women in the front row used Olympics-style scoring to rate the male models.

The evening ended with a raffle that featured a $500 Jacobson's gift certificate, a trip to Mission Point Resort on Mackinac Island, a hand-knitted afghan by Donna Johnson, and tickets to Detroit Lions and Tigers games.

■ 'Zonta's done fashion shows every year, but nothing of this magnitude.'
Pam Gomoll

The event was a departure from Zonta's previous fashion shows held at banquet halls. The group decided to offer meals and shopping in Jacobson's to get a larger audience.

"This was our first event of this type for Zonta, not for Jacobson's. Zonta's done fashion shows every year, but nothing of this magnitude," Gomoll said.

First Step is western Wayne County's project on domestic violence and sexual assault. The Canton-based organization provides shelter, clothing, counseling and legal services.

Zonta, a worldwide service organization of executives in business and the professions working together to advance the status of women, has taken on First Step as its project.

Walter Payton, Mike Singletary, John Unitas and Dave Dravecky are among the sports figures who sit on the board. Radio personality Dick Purtan and Valassis Communications CEO David Brandon are also involved.

In his laboratory, Janda and assistant Cindy Bir, a nurse who has an advanced degree in biomechanical engineering, are researching the prevention of a number of sports-related injuries using test dummies and equipment primarily donated by GM.

The shelves circling Janda's laboratory are filled with protective gear that has been the focus of his studies — chest and shin protectors, helmets, and goal post covers.

Trinkets like pencils engraved with the names of professional football teams are obvious testaments to his and his assistant's love for sports. The office is adorned with autographed helmets and pennants.

His research is the center of this room, however. Immediately inside the door is a mechanism that pitches baseballs at a child-size test dummy. Each year more than a dozen pre-teens suffer fatal arrhythmia as a result of being struck in the chest by pitched balls, he said.

Board member Brandon, a former University of Michigan football player, is particularly interested in the research.

"Because I have two young sons, I was particularly fascinated with the work he did with injuries caused by baseballs," said Brandon. "I remember playing catch with them and thinking that I don't really have to back off as much (because softer baseballs were being used)."

While equipment manufacturers have claimed that they were safer than traditional hardballs, Janda's research has proved otherwise, he said.

"I had fallen prey to the same marketing techniques that everyone else did," Brandon said.

A hard hit

Against the back wall of the lab is a "horizontal impact machine," which helps them study the impact of a person running into a goal post. Collisions with heavy soccer goal cages cause more than a dozen fatal injuries among youth players each year, and scores of lesser injuries, Janda said. They are analyzing the injuries and examining possible preventative measures, including the design of impact-absorbing goal cages.

They are conducting another soccer-related study. To follow up a study in New Zealand, Janda's institute is studying improper soccer "heading" techniques, which have been shown to result in an irreversible loss of memory and information processes in youth and young adult soccer players. The institute is examining the safe techniques for this element of soccer, rule changes and the use of protective headgear for training purposes, as well as following the development of young soccer players.

The project for which Janda is best known is his study of "break-away bases," created by Roger Hall of Pennsylvania. The bases pop off when players slide into them with a certain amount of force. Janda's research involved equipping half of the U-M baseball fields with break-away bases, the other half with anchored bases.

Forty-five sliding injuries occurred on the fields equipped with stationary bases, while only two sliding injuries occurred in break-away base fields. Treatment for the 45 injured players cost $55,050 compared to $700 for the two injuries.

"We spent 800 bucks on our breakway base (study) and found they would save $2 billion a year. It's a sonic boom for the buck, yet it's ignored," said Janda, who also serves on Gov. John Engler's Council on Physical Fitness, Health and Sports.

Most organizations will not use the bases, saying they will take too long to replace, are too expensive, and take away the "element of danger in the game."

However, the bases only take a few minutes to replace and they last twice as long, according to Janda. He was unable to explain the "danger."

The Centers for Disease Control analyzed Janda's data and concluded that if break-away bases were used throughout the United States, it would prevent more than 1.7 million injuries, he said.

The Westland Youth Athletic Association has been using break-away bases at Jaycee Park in Westland for at least six years. Don Begarowicz, a WYAA president, said the number of injuries at that field isn't any different from those that use traditional bases.

"No, not really, because it really depends on the situation. The break-away bases — sometimes they come up and sometimes they don't," he said.

Poor weather and maintenance may contribute to the problem, he added.

"There has to be optimum playing conditions; the fields aren't maintained well enough," he said.

Ironically, equipment manufacturers do not support Janda's work, he said. A few companies have tried to block him from making his research public.

"They should have been grateful that we found this stuff and gave them the word to go back to the drawing board and look at this more critically," he said "I'm trying to do this for the health and welfare of the public.

"It's a sad state of affairs when a multi-million-dollar organization can threaten a non-profit organization with a suit."

That kind of action will only make health care more expensive, he added.

"The bottom line is this: If you truly want to cut health care costs, then prevent and eliminate medical care need. The way to do that is to promote preventive efforts that have been shown to be effective and to develop additional preventive strategies through research. The cornerstone of any comprehensive medical care containment plan must be prevention — especially the prevention of injuries."

just a few of the concerns of adult children. Professional caregiving and direct in-home services are equally important.

Marietta Walton, a hospital insurance billing and accounts representative, "feels like a marionette" since she and her sisters suddenly had to share the care for their mother who suffered a stroke.

"I'm pulled between continuing to make sure family responsibilities are met — children and husband, regular routines — while seeing to Mama," she said. "It's especially hard to deal with the disappointment."

In Walton's case, her mother had to stop driving, working, things she loved doing. Having her children take care of her, whereas before she was so independent, was another hard blow. Her finances, what to do about the house she lived in for 40 years and raised her five daughters in are issues, but there is another one — the family issue.

"Every sibling now must carry the ball for Mama," Walton said. "We'll have to pass it from time to time between us." There are questions like what to do about getting Mama to church, the doctor, clubs, but who will care for her while they're at work was a great concern, according to Walton.

"We had to put our heads together; this was the major focus," she said.

Kelly is a familiar name in corporate America, where administrative, clerical and general office support services are contracted out to an array of companies. But there's also Kelly Assisted Living. According to Mary O'Kray, branch manager of Kelly's Assisted Living office in Southfield, the company provides services that best fit the personal needs of clients.

Homemaker companions will cook, do the laundry, take clients to the doctor, social events and church. The home health nurse aide will also do some of the chores for clients in addition to making sure medication is taken properly and on time.

The caregiver staff at Kelly Assisted Living includes certified nurses, aides and individuals who have hospital and home nursing backgrounds. Expertise in diet, nutrition are also among several of their qualifications.

Kelly Assisted Living covers the metropolitan-area, with caregivers to be found Downriver, in Grosse Ile, Livonia and other western Wayne County communities. The cost of such in-home care is affordable and competitively priced.

For families who might find the cost of in-home care a big strain, some clients may be eligible for help from the Department of Social Services, O'Kray said. Another good resource for possible financial help is the Area Agency on Aging. In Wayne County, the agency can be reached at (313) 722-2830.

Senior citizens are America's treasures. Elderly parents of baby boomers deserve a big return on their investment in their children. Whereas eyes that once looked up for a kind, reassuring look from Mom and Dad, now look directly into those eyes that look for reassurance.

CF's Great Strides on tap for May 14

The Metropolitan Detroit Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation will hold its sixth annual Great Strides Walk to Cure Cystic Fibrosis Saturday, May 14, at the Nankin Mills area of Hines Park in Westland and Sunday, May 15, at Bloomer Park in Rochester Hills.

Great Strides is a 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) walk in which walkers collect prepaid sponsorships. Volunteers are needed to help set up on event day, work registration tables and serve as spotters along the walk courses.

People interested in participating or volunteering can call the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at (810) 524-2873. Proceeds from the walk will benefit Cystic Fibrosis research and programs.

GARDEN SPOT

MARTY FIGLEY

It's almost a snap to raise snapdragons

During the 194Os when I was a child, we often pressed the special spot on a snapdragon to make the "dragon's jaws" open and then snap shut. Time has a way of repeating itself, and since the National Garden Bureau has designated 1994 as the Year of the Snapdragon, perhaps many gardeners will once again grow these tall annuals and share the secret with little children.

The snapdragon (antirrhinum majus), a native of the Mediterranean and Southern Europe, belongs to the botanic family Scrophulariaceae, or Figwort. Penstemon, nemesia and torenia are some relatives.

The tall spires of blooms come in many colors: white, yellow, red, scarlet, lavender, pink, rose and bronze - some bi-colored. There are two other forms of the flower as well as the "dragon jaws." One is the "butterfly" flower form; the other is "double azalea flowered." The blooms, which open from the bottom of the stem to the top, are longlasting in the garden.

It's too late to start seed indoors in this area, but the plants can be found in the nurseries. When you set the plants out in a sunny area, stake the varieties that will need this support, fertilize (5-10-5) when they begin to flower and water before they wilt, although overwatering will cause the roots to rot. A few inches of mulch will help retain the moisture as well as suppress weeds.

These flowers are undemanding, and relatively disease and pest free. They will add a tall dimension to the garden - and provide some old-fashioned fun at the same time.

Mighty melon

Also, The National Garden Bureau celebrates the watermelon for 1994. This fruit now comes in three shapes - round, oval and cylindrical - with light to deep red, and yellow or orange flesh.

Watermelons (Citrullus lanatus) are in the Cucurbitaceae family, which contains 700 species - pumpkins and cucumbers are some.

There are many varieties - small bush types or those with vines up to 12 feet of this easy to grow fruit. They require a sunny spot and warmth both day and night. Good draining is essential. Coarse sand to help in this regard can be added to heavy soil. Till the soil six to eight inches deep and add some good rich compost when you plant them. For this area, I would suggest a variety that requires a short growing season. They will be available as bedding plants soon.

Water the plants regularly; fertilize with a balanced granular one as the package directs

Snapshot wins national award

■ Amateur photography paid off for a Livonia woman, whose photo of her young daughter in a private moment of discovery won first place and $1,000 in a nationwide contest.

BY JANICE TIGAR-KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

A picture's worth a thousand words or, for a Livonia girl, a thousand bucks.

Last August's trip to Georgian Bay turned into more than a romp at the beach for 3-year-old Erin Gannon.

Her snapshot, taken by her mother at Fathom Five National Marine Park near Tobermory, Ontario, won first place and a $1,000 cash award in a nationwide search for photos of children, age 2 to 3, caught in a moment of wonder.

Zolan Child Photo Search for amateur shutterbugs was sponsored by Things Graphics & Fine Art, the Washington, D.C.-based distributor of posters and plates by artist Donald Zolan, who paints children in private moments of discovery.

The artist will consider using Erin's photo as inspiration for an oil painting.

Erin's mother learned about the photo search last July in an Art Beat story that appeared in the Livonia Observer's Creative Living section. So happened, she was planning a weekend outing to the national park and knew the beach would offer good photo possibilities.

"My husband was pretty skeptical about winning because it was a national contest, but I wanted to try. It was Erin's first trip to the beach and we'd be taking pictures anyway," remembered Debbie Gannon, an insatiable photo buff, who used a 35mm Minolta with automatic focus, telephoto lens and 100 speed color film.

The snapshot shows Erin sitting on the rocky shore, dipping bare feet into the foamy surf. Her expression is gleeful and her arms are waving in excitement as the water teases her toes.

"The minute I clicked the shutter, I thought, 'Wouldn't this be perfect if it came out?' It wasn't posed and the composition was just right. When I saw the developed picture, I said, 'That's it!' " said Debbie Gannon, who invested the prize money in Erin's college fund.

"The photo captures a moment of discovery in a child's life that people can relate to - it triggers memories," said Marian Groff, a contest judge and market researcher for Pemberton & Oakes, Zolan's home gallery in Santa Barbara, Calif. "(Zolan's) theme is the wonder and joy of childhood. This photo shows a child in wonder, discovering the world around her."

The winning snapshot, and the third place photo, were submitted through The Poster Gallery in Detroit, the local contest promoter and distributor of Zolan's art. More than 100 contest photos were submitted nationwide.

"The photographers were so proud of their entries, and they were all wonderful," said Edith Kaufman, The Poster Gallery owner. "The winning photo was especially good because it made you feel what the child was feeling. The personality really came through in the photo."

Debbie Gannon is an account coordinator for J. Walter Thompson Advertising, Detroit. She and her husband also operate Geo-Techniques Inc.

Getting to the park last summer was almost as remarkable as winning the contest, Debbie said:

"I never thought we'd make it. Half way there, the car's water pump conked out in 95-degree weather and we were delayed for hours in a strange town. We almost turned around and went home."

Colored pencil artists to share ideas

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

The Colored Pencil Society of America's Michigan District Chapter No. 104 will hold a "get acquainted" meeting 1-5 p.m. Saturday, May 14, in the Community Room on the north end of Livonia Mall, Seven Mile and Middlebelt.

Your caliber as an artist is not important. Whether you are a professional colored pencil artist, a novice or someone simply interested in the medium, you are welcome to join the get together.

There will be a slide presentation of different artists' work. Some of the actual works themselves will be on hand for viewing. Colored pencil artists are welcome to bring a few slides as well as one or two of their works.

The future of District Chapter No. 104 will be discussed, including workshops, working sessions, meetings, newsletters and exhibits. Two exhibitions are coming this year.

A relatively young organization, the National Colored Pencil Society of America was founded in 1991 by Vera Curnow. There are more than 1,000 members in the United States and 10 other countries and 57 members in Michigan. District Chapter No. 104 was formed last year.

Colored pencil artist Sherry Eid of Livonia is a CPSA member. She has three works in the Artifacts Art Club annual exhibition and sale continuing through April 29 at Livonia City Hall.

Her working knowledge of colored pencil up until now has been slow in coming, limited to trial and error, and contacting the company making the paper and pencils for information. The lack of literature on the medium frustrated her into joining the CPSA in search of practical knowledge.

"There hasn't been that much devoted to colored pencil. I've been working eight years in colored pencil and there's been a collection of maybe eight articles on the medium. Where do you go for information?" Eid asked.

"I like to work on Crescent board, but not all of it is 100 percent rag. How do you find out if you work in oil-based colored pencil, if it will bleed into paper and destroy it? We hope to be able to get together and exchange information at the meeting, to share the love of the colored pencil."

Eid fell in love with the medium after taking classes at Art Store and More with David Messing in Livonia. She has tried watercolor, but remains a staunch supporter of the colored pencil medium.

"It's the ease of using them, the beautiful effects you can achieve. Colored pencil can be very detailed and delicate, or you can go wild with them," Eid said.

The National Colored Pencil Society held the first worldwide juried show dedicated solely to the colored pencil medium at the Birmingahm Bloomfield Art Association last year. The juror was Ellen Sharp, curator of graphic arts for the Detroit Institute of Arts.

CPSA will hold its second annual exhibit in Oregon in June. May 1 is the deadline for entering slides. While it isn't necessary to be a member of CPSA to enter, your work must be done exclusively in colored pencil. Mixed media will not be accepted.

crafty handicrafts

Livonia planning commissioner Brenda Lee Fandrei will exhibit personal handicrafts, featuring embroidery, May 2-27 in the showcases on the second floor of the Livonia Civic Center Library, Farmington Road and Five Mile.

Her love for embroidery began at age 5 when her Scottish grandmother introduced her to this special needlework as well as knitting and crocheting. For many years, cross stitching was her favorite style of needlework.

Today, the Embroiders Guild of America member favors quilting, especially the crazy quilts style combining quilting and embroidery.

This fascination with "crazy quilt" embroidery led to a 1992 class that featured embroidered flowers to embellish the quilt design.

In 1993, she studied silk ribbon embroidery, which combined her love for antiques and aged textiles and fueled her "crazy quilting" craftsmanship.

artists' reception

Reminder: Visual Arts Association of Livonia will host its spring art exhibit of member artwork May 1-27 in the Livonia City Hall lobby, Farmington Road and Five Mile. There's no admission charge.

A reception to meet the artists takes place 2-4 p.m. Sunday, May 1. Juror Nancy Thayer of Lathrup Village judged the works.

Best of Show went to Dearborn Heights artist Olga Pawlowski for her oil/acrylic, "Red Box." Livonia artist Eileen Bibby, VAAL president, took the Livonia Arts Commission Award for her watercolor, "Lacy Kale."

The Livonia Cultural League, the city of Livonia and the Livonia Arts Commission are co-sponsoring the show.

VAAL is dedicated to advancing the knowledge and appreciation of the creative arts by offering studio classes and twice-yearly exhibits. Artists at all levels take part in VAAL classes in Room 24 at Jefferson Center. The classroom phone number is (313) 422-6630.

Get ready, get set . . . for gardening month

By Marty Figley
Staff Writer

Just as we know the sun will rise and set, it will rain or not, the wind will blow or it will be calm — SPRING WILL ARRIVE!

April is National Gardening Month, so it's time to make a schedule of things to do as the season begins.

If you started seedlings, keep the soil moist and transplant them to larger pots if necessary. They must be hardened off before they are planted in the garden. Put them outside for a few hours (in a shady, protected area) for several days so they can adjust to the higher light. After they are set in the garden, be ready with a covering if frost is forecast. The last frost date in this area is generally the middle of May.

Trim ground covers (vinca, ivy, etc.) around walkways and stepping stones. Rake the leftover debris of winter from beds and put it on the compost. This will make the areas look neat and tidy before more involved chores need to be done.

Check your perennials, and if the thawing and freezing has loosened them from their anchor in the ground, reset them firmly in place. Many perennials can be divided now, and it is easier to do when they reach four inches in height rather than when they grow taller.

Trees and shrubs can be pruned now; it will encourage new growth. If you have spring flowering shrubs, wait until after they bloom or you will sacrifice some of the flowers.

Making beds

Garden soil doesn't have to be bone dry to be worked, but if you dig it too early, when the soil is quite wet, more harm can be done to the soil structure than if you had waited for it to dry out sufficiently. As Ralph Emerson said, "Adopt the pace of Nature; Her secret is patience."

■ April is National Gardening Month, so it's time to make a schedule of things to do as the season begins.

There are several ways to prepare a new garden bed. A non-chemical way is to take a spade and shallowly dig the turf up, turn it over in place and let it decompose. This takes some time and all the grass has to be "tucked under" or it will grow.

You can also turn the turf soil side up, let it dry out and then knock the soil from the grass (a good way is to hit it on the tines of a rake), then put the grass in the compost.

In July or August, when the weather is hot, a layer of black plastic or several layers of newspaper (not colored) over the grass will kill it. This takes a few weeks.

A chemical such as Round-Up can be sprayed on the grass to kill it. Round-Up works through the growing parts of the plant and doesn't remain in the soil. FOLLOW LABEL DIRECTIONS. This method is the quickest.

If you choose plants for your garden that are native to this zone, you will be rewarded with beauty for many years. Most of our area is zone 5, and there are pockets of zone 6, especially around buildings. Your garden could well have mini-zones in it.

Have the soil tested for the pH levels and grow plants that are suited to it. By choosing the correct plants for your location, those that require sun or shade, and placing them in the proper "spot" (open or protected) you will find that they will require less care. Native plants usually require less water after they are established, so they should be kept away from ornamentals that require regular watering.

Winter effects

You may be wondering if this past very cold and snowy winter had any effect on our lawns, trees and shrubs. I spoke with Greg Patchen, Oakland County Extension agent, about our lawns.

"The cold temperatures really don't affect grasses, especially those that are the most desirable for this area, Kentucky blue, rye and fescues," he said.

"In fact, the snow served as a good insulating blanket. There may be snow mold, especially in shady areas of the lawn. This looks like the grass is webbed with gray slime. It is a fungal disease. Snow mold will kill bent grass, but not the others. Although it looks strange, just rake the areas and it will recover."

Patchen also advised to restrict traffic on the grass until the soil thaws and dries out and the grass greens up.

Bob Bricault, Wayne County Extension agent, answered my questions about tree and shrub damage.

"I'm most worried about those plants from other zones of the country — those that don't grow naturally in this climate, such as Sweet Gum, Azaleas and Rhododendrons," he said.

"If there has been winter damage the buds won't be swollen, but will be drying out. You can look now to get a good idea, although nothing can be done about it now."

An anti-dessicant spray applied next year will help hold the moisture in the leaves.

"Winter damage to evergreens is caused by moisture loss due to the wind," Bricault said. "These plants can stand a lot of cold, so they should be OK."

Both men agreed that small animals may have eaten the bark from apple trees and junipers especially, and girdled the trunk. This prevents the tree from getting the moisture and nutrients up through the trunk.

Small limbs on the junipers that are close to the ground can be cut away, but professional help may be necessary for the trees and if damage is severe.

Many counties have the master gardener program, an excellent way to learn about gardening and to give service back to the county. Hot lines are staffed by volunteers who have completed this program. They will answer any gardening question you may have. I urge you to use this resource.

The Oakland County hot line number is 858-0902; the Wayne County number is 494-3011.

Gardening seminar is scheduled

"Growing with Master Gardeners," a seminar presented by master gardeners of Wayne County, will take place 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 30, at Wayne County Extension Education, 5454 Venoy in Wayne.

For more information, call Claire Kropog at (313) 336-7392. Registration deadline is Wednesday, April 27.

A children's session on "The Wonders of Gardening" will take place 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. for ages 6-10. Youngsters must be accompanied by an adult. Cost is $5 per child.

Sessions for adults include a hands-on tree and shrub pruning workshop (dress for work, bringing your own pruning tools, work gloves and goggles) and a question-and-answer period. An open greenhouse, with annuals, perennials, herbs and vegetables grown by master gardeners, will be available.

Other topics are ornamental shrubs, planning and planting a flower bed, container planting, rose garden, shade gardening, how to grow prize-winning vegetables and creating a compost pile. Cost per adult is $17 for a full day (including a box lunch) and $12 for a half day. You may select only one class in each time slot.

The exhibit is the only advertising art show of its kind in the metro Detroit area and is a showcase for local artists and designers. It is a rich resource for art directors and production manager in the Detroit marketing area. It is also an excellent opportunity for artists to have their work judged by their peers as well as by the business community at large.

This year's exhibit will open 6-10 p.m. May 6 and run through June 4.

Art show entries sought

The Scarab Club, 217 Farnsworth in Detroit, will be accepting entries for its 49th annual Advertising Art and Design Exhibition between noon and 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, April 29 and 30.

Published and unpublished work by Michigan or Windsor artists between January 1993 and May 1994 will be accepted. Call for entries are needed to enter the exhibit and are available by calling executive director Marty West at (313) 831-1250.

Learn how to make arts fun for the family

The Detroit Institute of Arts Speakers Bureau presents a series of free programs focusing on art.

"20th Century Art: Fun For the Family" with guest speaker Gordon Hunt takes places in the Liberal Arts Building Theatre at 1 p.m. Thursday, April 28 at Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

This slide presentation shows how 20th century art can be fun for the entire family, not just children.

Hunt, a graduate of Columbia University, is a volunteer docent at the DIA. Since retiring from Chrysler Corp. as a marketing executive, Hunt has been active in the arts community in Grosse Pointe and in statewide organizations.

The following programs will take place at the Jewish Community Center, Janice Charach Epstein Gallery, in West Bloomfield:

■ "The Rise of a Great Museum," 1 p.m. Tuesday, May 3. Judy Knowles will give a brief history of the DIA from the art loan exhibition of 1883 to the present.

■ At 1 p.m. Thursday, May 12, "The Detroit Institute of Arts: So Much to See" will present the variety and scope of the DIA's collection.

■ From the intimacy of ink paintings, delicate laquerwares and ceramics to the majesty of temple sculptures, the "Lure of the Far East" with speaker Vic Tahill explores the rich variety of the arts of China, Japan, India and Korea at 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 18. Hunt repeats "20th Century Art: Fun For the Family" at 1 p.m. Thursday, May 26.

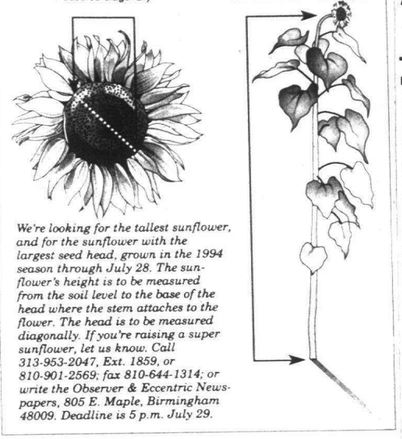
HIGH HOPES CONTEST



We're looking for the tallest sunflower, and for the sunflower with the largest seed head, grown in the 1994 season through July 28. The sunflower's height is to be measured from the soil level to the base of the head where the stem attaches to the flower. The head is to be measured diagonally. If you're raising a super sunflower, let us know. Call 313-953-2047, Ext. 1859, or 810-901-2569; fax 810-644-1314; or write the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009. Deadline is 5 p.m. July 29.

when the flowers form and the fruit sets, then at three- to four-week intervals.

Black plastic can be put on the ground early in the season to protect the fruit, or a mulch of straw or hay can be used.

Watermelons are ripe when the white spot nearest the ground turns a creamy color. At harvest time, invite the neighbors to a watermelon party!

Sprite spirit

If you're looking for a shade-tolerant perennial, Astilbe simplicifolia "Sprite" may be just what your garden needs. This Astilbe blooms with small, light-pink florets on graceful arching branches from July to August. Its 15- to 18-inch height makes it suitable for use as an accent plant, in mass plantings or with ferns and hostas as I am growing my astilbes. It compliments pulmonaria, ligularia and other plants with large foliage, especially since the foliage of astilbes is fine-textured and deep green.

The key to success with these plants is moisture and a well-drained location, with fertile soil, slightly acidic. Because they are heavy feeders, fertilize in the spring before growth starts (10-6-4 or 10-10-10) and again lightly in the fall. Follow package directions.

Now that I've interested you in this new Perennial Plant of the Year for 1994, so named by the Perennial Plant Association, I must tell you that the association's quarterly bulletin reports that you may not find it this year.

These plants are imported mostly from Holland, which experienced a wet growing season, delaying harvest and causing a decrease in production. If you can't find "Sprite," put on your must-have list for next year.

TIMELY GARDEN TIPS

■ Now's the time to give your grass a boost with a slow-release fertilizer. Apply a product to prevent crabgrass until May 10.

■ Re-seed bare spots on the lawn. Fast & Fine Easy Lawn Repair by NK Lawn & Garden Products contains a mixture of seeds and fertilizer. Roll-Lawn is a biodegradable wood mulch mat by Conwed Fibers that contours to the soil surface when wet and keeps seeds in place.

■ Plant and transplant trees and shrubs. Choose shrubs while they're in bloom to get the color you want.

■ Leave a bare space around trees when they are planted — don't let the grass grow right up against the trunk. Damage from weed whippers can result when the string hits the tree.

■ If you use wood chips, pine needles, etc. to mulch around trees, apply it no more than three to four inches deep and keep it 10 inches away from the trunk. If it is up against the trunk it will eventually rot the bark and kill the tree.

Filters

They add special touch to pictures

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Recently, I wrote about the filters that were important with color photography. For lovers of black and white, there are important filters, too.

Similar to color photography, the right filter with black and white film can turn an ordinary picture into something quite special.

Today, I'm going to discuss the filters essential for black and white photography:

Red-Orange-Yellow Family — These filters are the most important when shooting in black and white. Beginning with yellow and ending with red, this family of filters progressively darkens the blue of the sky to add all-important impact to your pictures.

With no filter, separation between blue sky and clouds will be lost in a black and white print and the sky will appear washed out. But by using one of this family of filters, here's what happens. A yellow filter darkens the sky to a light gray. The orange filter darkens it further and the red makes the sky almost black. The clouds always remain white.

So can you visualize the drama these filters will add to your shot? The way they work is that yellow-orange-red filters progressively block the blue light from the sky from reaching the film during exposure — yellow the least, red the most. The resulting prints therefore show progressive darkness in the sky.

Green — This filter lightens its own color, making foliage such as grass and leaves lighter in the finished print. Greater contrast is achieved and a more pleasing picture results.

Common Filters with Color Film — Three of the filters I recently discussed in my column on color filters are also very useful when shooting in black and white.

The skylight serves as protection or "insurance" for an expensive lens. The diffusion filter softens harsh facial lines in a black and white portrait just as it does with color. And a set of close-up filters moves you in close for those in-tight shots of springtime flowers.

Filters are an inexpensive investment that will produce a high rate of return for your photography!

Short shot

Monte Nagler's popular photography classes begin Tuesday, May 3, at the Farmington/Farmington Hills Community Center. Don't miss this special opportunity to sharpen up your photography skills. Call 477-8404 for registration information.

Degree of separation: Monte Nagler used a red filter to dramatically darken the blue sky in this picture of a lone tree in Window Rock, Ariz. Note the separation between the sky and the clouds produced by the filter.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Brokers boost promotion of their service

By Doug Funke
Staff Writer

A group of real estate agents that specializes in business brokerage here has embarked on a campaign to increase its ranks and broaden markets for current and prospective clients.

James Panaretos, vice president and commercial manager with Century 21 Premiere Business Brokers in West Bloomfield, helped found the Metro Chapter of the Michigan Business Brokers Association six years ago.

"Commercial is a world apart from business," he said. "It (business brokerage) is the bar that leases property, the store in a strip shopping center, the real estate office in a large office complex."

In short — real estate is only a piece of the overall puzzle of evaluating a business for sale.

"We sell business opportunities — that's our primary function," said Patricia Stahl, president of her Birmingham company and secretary of the association.

"I only do property in conjunction with the sale of a business, say an auto repair facility, a motel perhaps, a freestanding restaurant, those types of things," she said.

Panaretos and Stahl each were drawn to business brokerage through the enjoyment of evaluating businesses, not necessarily a love of real estate. He was in the restaurant business for 20 years. She trained through a franchise operation.

"Your most successful business brokers aren't residential real estate people who have changed," Stahl said. "It's people who have been involved with business operations."

All Michigan Business Brokers Association members have at least a basic real estate sales license, Panaretos said. Some are lawyers by training, others accountants, others entrepreneurs.

Specialized knowledge about evaluating businesses comes from computer programs, courses conducted by certified public accountants and other professional associations, achieving certifications such as Certified Commercial Investment Member and experience.

Networking and creating markets in this highly specialized field are the main reasons for joining the association.

"Most business owners want it to remain confidential that they want to sell their business by using a network of other professionals," Stahl said.

"With residential real estate, you have a multi-list, a myriad of houses, compiled in a network," Panaretos said. "Agents can refer to a multi-list. With business brokerage, buyers don't have that luxury."

So personal contacts become even more important.

Panaretos speculated that hundreds of agents who practice business brokerage could belong to the local association but don't. The metro chapter numbers about 40.

"Most of the world isn't aware there's an animal out there doing this," Stahl added.

The business brokers association hosts a continuing education seminar May 24, which fulfills annual state real estate licensing requirements, and a marketing class May 25 at the Radisson Hotel in Ypsilanti.

Cost is $50 and $25, respectively. To register, call Panaretos at 626-8800.

The metro chapter meets 8:30 a.m. the first Thursday of the month in the Parks and Recreation Building of the Southfield Civic Center. For information, contact Stahl at 540-4499.

Other officers for the Metro Chapter of the Michigan Business Brokers are:

■ Vice president — Richard Francis, Richard Francis & Co., Southfield.
■ Treasurer — David Whitmore, Singer Whitmore Associates, Bingham Farms.
■ Director — Robert Sheehy, All America Financial, Southfield.
■ Director — Roger Frank, Century 21 Curran & Johnson, Dearborn.

Speak up to protest bad management; spread access-land tax payment equally

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I moved into a condominium complex and pay an association fee. In spite of numerous written and phone requests, the management company has not taken care of my service requests, which are six months old.

Can you please refer me to a higher authority, if there is one, or another source of action, whereby they pay attention. I have even written the manager of the management company, but to no avail.

A. Write the board of directors and express your concerns about the failure of the management company to act responsibly.

If the board and management company refuse to take care of the needed service requests, consult an attorney and engage his or her services to write the parties in your behalf, advising them of their legal responsibilities and the recourse that you have. That should do the trick.

Q. I live in a subdivision that contains in the plat a parcel designated as river access property. Apparently all of the people that are benefitted by the property in question are not obligated to pay a portion of the taxes on that property.

They have made various efforts over the years to find a means by which the taxes can be paid from the members benefitted but have been unsuccessful.

We have now formed a nonprofit corporation and find that the property in question is deeded in a corporation, which has now since been dissolved. We have talked to a lawyer, but it may be expensive to proceed as we don't have any money. Do you have any shortcut suggestions?

A. You have a very complex set of facts, but it appears that the corporate entity that owned the real estate has now been dissolved and should be reinstated.

Then, a set of bylaws should be drafted that are agreed to by all of the members of the plat, obligating themselves to contribute towards common area assessments, including the parcel in question, giving the corporation the right, among other things, to enforce a lien for nonpayment of assessments due and owing to be used by the homeowners association, among other things, to pay the taxes on the property in question.

It is unclear from your question who has been paying the taxes over the years, but it appears that they have not been equally distributed. It may be beneficial to preserve the integrity of the lake property access and to expend the monies necessary in order to obtain counsel to complete these tasks.

Frankel: 'best mid-volume builder'

Building companies come and go. But the real successful ones, those that endure for decades, combine creativity with quality and integrity. They win national recognition, too.

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Herman Frankel, a West Bloomfield builder and resident, seems equally at ease talking about computers, photography or construction.

No news there. Nowadays, many successful residential builders use computers to track their businesses and have an artistic eye for product development.

But Frankel is no ordinary builder.

His company, the Frankel Organization, was selected the best mid-volume builder in the country for 1993 during an annual competition co-sponsored by Builder Magazine, the National Association of Home Builders and Marvin Windows and Doors.

"You're very fortunate, lucky, if you have a career you like," Frankel said. "Doing something you can really be proud of is really a wonderful privilege."

Frankel, 67, has put his construction stamp on the metro area since the early 1950s, building houses on scattered lots in Allen Park, Detroit and Oak Park. His first major development, a joint effort with brother, Ivan, was Franklin Woods in Bloomfield Township in 1954.

Most recently, Herman's concentrated efforts in West Bloomfield. There's Simsbury, gatehouse condominiums; Woodcliff on the Lake, houses and detached condos; and Village Square, houses.

He's also dabbled on the commercial side with Simsbury Plaza, Windemere Convalescent Center and one of the best-looking Amoco gas stations in the country at Fourteen Mile and Farmington.

"We are not typically a builder of entry-level houses," Frankel said. "There are too many compromises you make. We can't do it. I don't mean that critically. It's a whole different mentality."

Building plans: Thomas H. Landry, president of A.J. Etkin Construction, forecasts that work opportunities will increase as the year progresses.

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

The 61 regular members of the Detroit Chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America accounted for some $1.5 billion worth of work last year.

That's the word from Thomas H. Landry, president of the association and president of A.J. Etkin Construction, both headquartered in Farmington Hills.

Members, which specialize in commercial rather than residential construction, include such giants as Barton-Malow in Southfield, Perini Building in Southfield, Walbridge Aldinger, formerly of Livonia now Detroit, and Etkin.

The roster also shows Freeman-Darling Construction of Livonia, Pulte Construction of Rochester Hills and DeMaria Building of Novi.

Affiliate and associate members includes carpenters, masons, system suppliers, lawyers, accountants and insurers.

Landry, 47, has business degrees from the University of Dayton and Wayne State University. He defines the association's mission as "trying to look out for members' interests on a collective basis."

Following are edited excerpts from a recent interview:

Why should the average person not directly involved in construction care about the industry one way or another?

Landry: Like any industry, there are benefits to the community.

Construction is one that makes dreams of others come true - facilities to be used by business, practice of religious beliefs. Construction companies build the parks we use, recreation facilities.

The infrastructure we have brings water to the house and sewage away. It serves our needs and contributes to quality of life. Schools we have are built by constructors.

Then there's the typical economy thing. The construction industry is one of the biggest suppliers of jobs in the U.S.

What does the association do for its members?

Landry: The association is taking people with common interests and forming a body where their voice can be heard . . . in terms of trying to mold a position in the marketplace that's fair to members.

We, too, are active in knowing what the legislature is doing and how it affects members. We work with other associations on benefit programs. We have group medical, group insurance programs. Labor relations is another; negotiating contracts.

It's primarily a means of educating our members.

There are 12 different committees, operating committees, that function on a year-around basis. We get into safety training . . . supervisors training program.

Frankel's housing product now starts at $215,000 and goes up to $500,000. He generally builds 25 to 30 units annually, but expects to double that this year with the opening of Village Square.

The Frankel Organization employs 14 on a permanent basis. Two other key players are Mark Frick, who heads up construction operations, and Laurie Frankel, Herman's daughter who's in charge of sales and marketing.

"The reality is they're being trained to take over the entire operation," Herman said. "I'm not involved in the routine of day to day operations. I'm involved in product development. I do all (contract) acceptances."

What makes the organization tick?

"Honesty and integrity are the first two words that come to mind," said Laurie Frankel. "Our homeowners really trust us and we give them reason to."

"It's visibility, accessibility and responsibility," Frick said. "That describes our philosophy of serving the customer."

"We all have published numbers," Laurie said. "I live in a Frankel community. We're very visible. Our office is here."

"We consider ourselves to be in the service business," Herman said. "I don't think most builders think that way. We may provide a product, but ultimately, it's a service, to meet the need of a homeowner."

The Spotlight Business Excellence Award was established to recognize overall achievement for design, marketing, customer service and business success.

Among Frankel's guiding business principles — finance from your own resources and don't grow too big.

"I've always been interested in security," he said. "We don't do more than we can afford. This is a dangerous business if you leverage. I've never had a drive for bigness. You give up too much.You give up control and usually quality."

Robert R. Jones, a West Bloomfield residential builder, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and a former National Spotlight Business Excellence Award winner himself, worked for Frankel for 18 years.

"He never once failed to share with me, teach me and help me learn the industry," Jones said. "He conducts his business with complete integrity and is a superb businessman."

Alan Strickstein, vice president of National Lumber Co. in Warren, nominated Frankel's organization for the award. Strickstein is both a supplier to Frankel and a buyer of a Frankel house.

"Their developments are really second to none as far as total development, from the architectural aspect to layout of the property," Strickstein said. "They don't leave any loose ends. They're honest with people they deal with."

Patrick M. Carmichael, a judge in the competition, complimented Frankel through a letter after the selection process.

"Your Spotlight Award entry was nothing short of a text book on how to run a successful building operation," Carmichael wrote.

Frankel, a former BASM president, was the local association's builder of the year in 1987. He enjoys sailing with wife, Barbara, and piloting an airplane. And computers.

Frankel isn't fussy about references.

"Ring any doorbell on any house we've ever built," he said. "I don't know how many builders can say they've been in the business over 40 years and never been in court with one of their customers."

Another committee we have is workforce development . . . to increase the size, diversity and quality of the skilled labor pool. We sponsor a student chapter at Lawrence Tech, EMU, U-M to kind of promote the industry to students.

What do you see as the role of government in construction activity?

Landry: Economic development commissions are in states, in capitals, to bring business and maintaining existing business. They provide opportunities for us and others.

At times, government has to get involved in the infrastructure to allow business to enter an area. You can see highway bypasses developed to help business. Fees are paid back to the state by economic activity that occurs.

At times, you have to spend money to make money.

It depends on how you look at it. There's roles everyone has to play. By working together, you can better shape the future.

What are key issues facing your industry?

Landry: Construction has always been a high-volume, low-margin industry. One percent is considered a good profit for a year.

The push has been to manage business effectiveness and not assume unnecessary risk. A lot of it is common sense, getting back to the basics.

Total quality management makes sense. People don't go to work and say, 'I'll do a mediocre job today.' But management sometimes accepts that. A lot is to get focus back so everyone is motivated to give quality . . . to talk with instead of at each other.

What is your outlook for the rest of the year?

Landry: We've been in a depressed market where the opportunity for building is not like it once was. But the economy seems to be expanding. The second half of the year, we think there will be more work out there.

U-M is in the midst of a $210 million (building) program. Wayne State has a half dozen or so projects they've identified. Somerset North is talking about a $100 million new facility.

Our own firm has identified over $1 billion of projects in the planning stages in the metro area. Buildings can be planned, but if they're not funded, they won't be built.

If the economy stays the way it is and financing is available and there's no catastrophes we're aware of, then . . . I think we're going to have a good market at the end of the year. I guess contractors are eternal optimists. On a scale of one to 10, I see us at six now moving to eight later this year.

What about your company, specifically?

Landry: The type of building we do is really diverse. Each year it's different, it changes. Now, about 40 percent of the work we do is renovations.

What we find in the '90s is we're doing a lot of educational facilities, K-12 and universities, and health-care facilities. In the late '80s, we did a lot of office before it became saturated.

We do about $125 million of business in a year. We have about 100 people on salary.

Livonian officer of trades board

Mike Diamond of Livonia will assume the secretary-treasurership for the Greater Detroit Building Trades Council Executive Board effective May 1.

Diamond

A Livonia resident for 20 years, Diamond has served the building trades council for the last two years as business representative. He will replace Norm Wood, who is retiring.

Diamond, 47, has been a member of Electrical Workers Local 58 since 1965. He served as business agent in that local union from 1979 to 1992. He sits on the Metro Detroit AFL-CIO Executive Board and is a member of the City of Detroit Mayor's Task Force on licensing and Permitting and the Bureau of Business Attraction Council of Michigan.

"As secretary-treasurer of the council, I will be looking to enhance the lives of our union members into the 21st century," Diamond said. "Our ultimate goal will be to continue to improve working conditions and carry on the fight to make sure our affiliated members receive fair wages and benefits."

A major goal, he said, will be to do "all we can to enhance the image of the construction worker. Our union crafts workers are the most talented in the business and the public has to hear that."

The Greater Detroit Building and Construction Trades Council serves about 40,000 unionized workers in 15 construction crafts. The council has jurisdiction over six southeast Michigan counties, including Wayne and Oakland.

The council serves as a unifying, central body for the building trades unions to seek common ground, create and maintain alliances with construction contractors and lawmakers, and make political endorsements.

Jobs Fair will cater to workers 45 and older

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Older job seekers sometimes need a helping hand getting back into the workforce.

That's why Operation ABLE and the Southeast Michigan Older Worker Coordinating Committee have teamed to co-sponsor the eighth annual Ability is Ageless Jobs Fair Wednesday, May 4 at the Plaza Hotel in Southfield.

"It's absolutely, 100 percent geared for people 45 or older," said Kate Birnbryer White, corporate services manager for Operation Able, a non-profit employment/training organization in Southfield.

"Our main goal is to help the unemployed, but we don't want to restrain people who want to upgrade in any way, shape or form," White said.

There is no charge. Job seekers should come appropriately dressed with at least 20 resumes. Upwards of 70 employers are expected to attend.

No advance appointments are accepted. Job seekers may visit with whomever they desire.

"As a ballpark figure, I would say 20 percent of the people will get an interview or inquiry call after the fair," White said. "Probably half of those people will be made some kind of offer. Whether they accept is another whole ball of wax."

More than 2,000 job seekers are expected to visit the fair between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Pay ranges from minimum wage to executive level, White said. Jobs are available across the board, full time, part time, permanent and temporary.

"We have computer programmer/analyst (jobs), lots of clerical from very basic to administrative assistant work . . . lots of sales and customer service and in health care from medical biller to occupational therapist," White said.

One major benefit in providing a job fair for older workers only is to help them relax in what can be a stressful situation.

"I think they're very comfortable among their peers," White said. "There's no competition from younger workers. They don't feel like they're stealing jobs from their kids or grandkids. It's a special day just for them.

"The fair is only for those at least 45 years of age. Clearly, if employers didn't want them, they wouldn't be there. By their presence, they clearly value older workers," White said.

Manpower, a temporary service agency in Southfield, is a corporate sponsor of the fair.

"We talk to people, collect resumes and call people in later," said Alicia Tetzlaff,-a Manpower recruiting specialist. "We're recruiting for everything . . . clerical, technical, skilled trades.

"They (older workers) tend to have a lot of knowledge, a lot of skill," she said. "They tend to be a lot more reliable."

Radio Shack, an electronics retailer with regional offices in Livonia, will be looking for sales people, said Mark Clarke, regional sales manager.

"One thing about the older workers — they're very disciplined and have a high level of integrity," he said. "They're probably as good or better than anyone at human relations.

"McDonald's has done a good job of hiring older workers," Clarke continued. "We want to do the same."

Compuware, based in Farmington Hills, has openings for programmers, program analysts and technical data processors, said Camille Elliott, recruiting manager for professional services.

"We do many different job fairs," she said. "I don't think we choose for age requirements. We look at it as a means of getting qualified people in. We're looking for someone with good skills. Age is not a barrier."

April: National New Homes Month

New home buyers are finding the widest-ever variety of styles and options. While those choices may bewilder some, a quick look at current trends in homebuilding should help the buyer make a decision.

"Home buyers look for the latest in style and technology," says Robert R. Jones, president of the Farmington Hills-based Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan and Robert R. Jones Associates in West Bloomfield. "Those buyers are naturally going to gravitate to builders who offer up-to-date products."

Many of the trends in new homes relate to recent advances in technology. Built-in appliances, including microwaves and hot-water dispensers, are the rule rather than the exception in the '90s. Phone jacks in every room, built-in entertainment centers and even built-in whirlpool baths are among the things buyers are looking for in their homes. Many buyers consider these amenities virtual necessities.

Other popular items fit into the category of luxuries. Master bedroom galleys, spacious bathrooms with dual vanities, high ceilings and home fitness centers are among the extras that buyers are looking for that tailor the home to a particular personality.

"There is also a move back to classic styling," Jones said. "We get many requests for skylights, radius corners and tone-on-tone floor surfaces, which help increase visual space. Overall, many new homes would be considered neoclassic in their design theme."

Perhaps the one item that's getting more attention than any other from most home buyers in the '90s is the overall quality of the home. Buyers are looking for workmanship that will last and that will ensure their new home will be a showplace well into the next century.

High-gloss cabinets, an array of built-in storage spaces, plentiful shelving in closets and even pop-out ironing boards are all features that today's buyer will find attractive and useful while adding to the "finished" appearance of the home. Combining those features with careful detail work will give the home a desired high-quality effect.

"More and more, buyers are realizing that spending a few more dollars up front pays off in improved appearance, reduced maintenance and increased resale value," Jones said.

'Cutting corners is a thing of the past. Buyers today want the highest-possible quality of workmanship."

Simple, honest, straightforward. How else would you expect to lease a Saturn?

By now, you've probably heard about the Saturn buying experience. No hassles, no pressure, no fuss, just common courtesy, along with a pretty great car.

Well, the way we see it, your experience shouldn't be any different if you want to lease a Saturn. After all, what could we possibly gain by making things any less straightforward than they have to be?
