Trash pickup poses problems

Canton residents are confused about how to handle their trash and yard waste. This has trash officials wondering how they can better communicate the requirements to the public.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

No one thought it wouldn't be rough. But some residents aren't standing up to the responsibilities for putting out their trash properly and for composting yard materials.

"We don't have enough information to individual residents," said Paul Denski, Canton Waste Recycling owner.

That was Denski's conclusion even after a number of stories in local newspapers, information on Omnicom cable television and fliers with recycling and trash rules mailed to residents' homes.

But still there's plenty of residents out there who aren't following the rules. While riding his own trash trucks Tuesday in two subdivisions on Beck, Denski found that in 44 instances residents used cardboard boxes as containers. Thirty-four of those boxes weighed more than 100 pounds. Four residents had compost in plastic bags.

"I'm kind of stuck between a rock and a hard place," Denski told Canton trustees, referring to complaints from residents who aren't following rules but nonetheless want their trash picked up. "I'm not here asking for relief. I'm asking for support. I'm enforcing the rules as much as I can."

Among the main rules are that beginning this year — April 11 to be exact — compost in plastic bags will no longer be accepted at the composting site. Plastic bags do not decompose and according to federal law will no longer be accepted in landfills.

Residents may use a 30-gallon container for compostables — grass clippings, branches, small shrubs and pruning wood debris — or they may buy Kraft Yard Waste Bags. Branches and debris must be bundled and cannot be any longer than three feet.

Roadside stand season opens in Canton

Mary Hauk Churilla's hope is to keep farming in her family.

"There aren't enough of us around anymore," said Hauk Churilla, referring to Canton's longtime farming families. "I would like to keep farming in Canton."

One sign of her efforts is the roadside stand — Andy and Mary's Farm Market — she and husband, Andy Churilla, opened in August 1993 on the southwest corner of Beck and Ford roads.

"We want to do the whole farming theme," Hauk Churilla said. This year, bedding plants, perennials, spring gardening needs, such as topsoil, peat and manure, decorative cedar woodworks — window pots, clothes wringers, wheelbarrows and cars — for gardens and yards also are featured.

The stand opened Mother's Day weekend and in its first full season will feature the gamut of fruits and vegetables. Strawberries will be available in about two weeks, sweet corn in July. But there's more: peppers, tomatoes, melons, yellow squash, cucumbers, zucchini, beans, and pumpkins as they come into season.

Hauk Churilla, daughter of longtime Canton farmer Ross Hauk, is one of the few full-time female farmers in the area. Andy and Mary operated a stand at Ford and Napier roads for about three years and decided to open a permanent stand at Beck and Ford where they own 10 acres behind the stand and another eight across the street.

Hauk Churilla spends a lot of time in the fields, sometimes showing her three children, Andrew, 5½, Mary, 7, and Rachel 4½, the ropes. But always with a pager and portable telephone.

"We are hoping to have greenhouses next year," Hauk Churilla said. Plans include raising poinsettias and Easter lilies for holidays.

Township looks to hire rec center manager

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton Township officials will hire someone to manage the planned Summit on the Park community center before it opens in September 1995.

"This job will likely have a significant evolution in the first three years (of the Summit)," said Aaron Machnik, township municipal services director.

The township board Tuesday overrode Machnik's recommendation to hire someone initially on a contract basis. Township Supervisor Tom Yack and trustee Bob Shefferly agreed with Machnik's recommendation.

"I guess I have a problem taking a person in a core position and making them a contractor," said trustee Phil LaJoy, who said the job should be put under the township Merit Commission's jurisdiction as are other employee positions.

Machnik suggested a contractural hiring, which would be converted to a full-time position paying in the $40,000 range. "The focus of this is not so much time. But the ability to hire somebody who can do all the tasks," he said, adding that some of those tasks won't be fully evident until the third year of the employee's service. Consequently, it's difficult to evaluate performance until the second or third year.

"I'm just interested in the possible opportunity to litigate that," Machnik said, referring to the possibility of terminating someone who doesn't meet expectations.

Officer promoted

Canton police Officer Robert Kerr received his sergeant's badge Tuesday evening before the Canton Township Board of Trustees. Kerr was promoted following written and oral testing.

State Rep. Deborah Whyman pinned the sergeant's badge on Kerr, who will serve as shift commander and be responsible for training and motivation of officers under his command.

He is a 1984 University of Michigan graduate and is a field training officer and instructor for the Wayne County Regional Police Facility. He also has completed a stint in Canton's detective bureau.

School chief signs contract

Little

Charles Little, superintendent of Frontier Central Schools near Buffalo, N.Y., has signed a contract and will become Plymouth-Canton superintendent July 11.

Little succeeds Supt. John Hoben, retiring after 39 years.

"It was signed and sealed Monday," said Plymouth-Canton school board president Roland Thomas. "He's excited; I'm excited; I think the whole board and community are excited."

Little and his wife were here last weekend to house hunt and to show their two sons, 12 and 10, and daughter, 7, around.

"They had a great time; his kids really loved it. One of his boys told his dad, 'We have to live somewhere where I can ride my bike in downtown Plymouth,'" said Thomas.

Little, in the process of selling the district's budget to his community, plans to return in June to get acquainted with staff. "He plans to be here right after the election," said Thomas. "He's taking some vacation time, and then he's coming."

Little wants to buy a house in the district. "He said being superintendent is a 24-hour job, and you can't do a 24-hour job unless you live in the district," said Thomas. "He intends to enroll his kids in our schools in August."

Fears of Frontier matching Plymouth-Canton's offer were short-lived.

"Frontier board members were open and honest with us in their assessment of Chuck. They're sorry to see him go, but understood why he would want to go," Thomas said. "He's built a good team. Frontier has a dynamic team of people. Chuck has pulled the community and staff together. They're focused."

■ 'It was signed and sealed Monday. He's excited; I'm excited; I think the whole board and community are excited.'

School board president

Little's three-year contract, effective July 11, calls for a $107,000 salary with merit increases; a monthly car allowance of $500; and a tax-sheltered annuity valued at 4 percent of his salary. Currently he earns $92,500.

He will receive 20 vacation days the first year and 25 thereafter; 20 sick and personal days; term life insurance not to exceed $250,000; plus expenses and time off for conferences. He also will receive $150 monthly for in-district travel; and reimbursement for out-of-district travel and relocation expenses.

He will be supplied with temporary housing for up to 90 days, plus meal expenses should he have difficulty finding a house.

Little's $117,273 package places him in the middle of the pack among area superintendents, trustees say. Hoben's compensation totals $128,000.

The board spent $40,000 on the superintendent search. About $13,000, plus expenses, went to the Chicago consultant that conducted the search.

Seniors plan bash

All 1994 graduates of both Canton and Salem High Schools can attend a senior class party from 9 p.m. Sunday, June 12, to 4 a.m. Monday, June 13, at Plymouth Salem High School. No one will be admitted after 11 p.m.

A new world: Judy Teachworth, head of the Canton Public Library's youth department, demonstrates Internet, part of the information super highway, which will be available to patrons beginning June 1. Patrons can tap into information from around the country and the world.

Information, please

Canton library to put Internet on-line

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

With a few keystrokes, you can tap into computerized information around the world.

"This is part of the information superhighway," said Jean Tabor, Canton Public Library director. "It allows you to have access to information from around the country and all around the world."

It is called the Internet. Beginning June 1, Canton library patrons will have six computer terminals in the library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road, to tap into a wealth of information with the touch of a few computer keys.

The Internet is provided through the MetroNet system, which includes libraries in Canton, Farmington-Farmington Hills, Southfield, Independence Township, Rochester, Birmingham and Bloomfield Township. MetroNet is a consortium of libraries within the larger Wayne-Oakland Library Federation.

"We pooled our money to pay for the telecommunication linkage," said Beverly Papai, director of the Farmington Public Library, which serves as the hub of the Internet system for the participating libraries.

When you log onto one of the six Canton library computer terminals, you'll get a menu that will allow you to tap into any of the MetroNet library materials, or you can get onto what is called the Internet Navigator.

When you use the terminals, you have to think computer language. You will use a gopher, which is a gateway to the information in Internet. "It's a tool to get around in Internet," Tabor said. "We are stressing this as a browsing tool right now."

Internet will allow you to tap into, for example, the National Library of Medicine, National Technological Information Service, Cancer Network, AIDS/HIV data, Commerce-Business Daily, U.S. Census data, the Federal Register, and even daily speeches made by officials in the Clinton administration.

You can also tap into Michigan State University, the University of Michigan and even the Cleveland Public Library, where Tabor found a full text of Shakespeare. "These are just the starting points. You can go deeper," Tabor said. "I think students will find it useful when they learn how to navigate in Internet."

Internet provides layers of information - and it's easy to get lost. That's why you can enter Internet, find some information you want to look at, and bookmark it. That allows you to take a peek at it later.

With libraries hooked into Internet, residents are assured of access. "We are looking at the importance of the haves and have-nots. Our role as librarians will change. We will be training people for lifelong learning," Papai said.

When you use Internet, you have to be patient. There are plenty of users on the system - 15 million, to be exact, with an expected 10-percent increase monthly, Papai said.

■ When you log onto one of the six Canton library computer terminals, you'll get a menu that will allow you to tap into any of the MetroNet library materials.

Unlike a book, Internet is constantly changing, with new information being added, sometimes on a daily basis. Internet is also ungoverned. That means no one is really in charge, and already computer users can dial in and communicate with others around the world.

"They won't be able to talk back and forth on our terminals," said Judy Teachworth, Canton library youth department director. Two of the six Internet terminals will be in the youth department.

Top students earn kudos at scholarship event

In 1983 The Woman's Club of Plymouth held its first Scholarship Awards function in honor of the club's 90th birthday. Seventeen students were honored that evening and gave five scholarship awards.

This year, its 101st anniversary, with the support of the local professional, political and business communities, 53 seniors in the Plymouth-Canton Community School District were honored with merit and scholarship awards, based on academic achievement and service to their schools, places of worship and communities.

June 9 seminar to cover permit application process

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

If you're a developer, a contractor or just plain interested in what the state Department of Natural Resources requires for permits for wetlands, floodplains or inland streams and lakes, there's a seminar for you.

"We set a bunch of goals to try to improve public education and the streams themselves," said Sue Folsom, Canton Township engineer, who with Supervisor Tom Yack serves on the Rouge River Remedial Action Plan Advisory Council Headwaters subcommittee.

The seminar, "Permits, Doing it Right the First Time," is scheduled for 8 a.m. to noon Thursday, June 9, at the Fellows Creek Golf Course on Lotz. It is co-sponsored by the Rouge River Watershed Council and the headwaters subcommittee.

DNR representatives will provide an overview of the permits that are required of developers, including the public acts that are administered by the agency. Participants will learn how the DNR processes applications for wetlands, inland streams and lakes and floodplains.

"Then they will go through the application and show people how to do it properly," Folsom said.

Also on tap is an explanation of new storm water permit requirements for construction sites of five acres and larger. "As of October 1994, a developer has to have an on-site storm water operator," Folsom said. DNR representatives will explain how a person can be licensed for the work.

"We want these developers to be aware," Folsom said. "The developer is responsible for getting the permit. There are no requirements for the township to administer it."

Anyone who is interested in attending the $20 seminar - seating is limited to the first 100 - is asked to contact Gerry Fabian with SEMCOG, 961-4266.

Fire department will have its own radio frequency

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

The Canton Fire Department will get its own radio frequency.

"There was a little bit of luck in getting our own frequency," Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher said, adding the department has been denied three times previously.

Having its own frequency means the department has to modify its radio equipment, which township officials approved for $7,320. "To the best of my knowledge, this estimate is on the high side. I do not expect any other costs," Rorabacher said.

The costs to modify radio equipment will be taken from the fire department's fund balance (savings) because it was not budgeted in the 1994 budget. The fund balance in 1993, according to Plante & Moran CPAs, was down to $72,000 from $462,000 in 1992 and $441,000 in 1991. Much of the decrease was due to an arbitration for salary and pension increases.

The department's current radio frequency is shared with 20 other Wayne County Fire Departments. Excessive radio traffic on the frequency prompted a request to the Federal Communications Commission for the new frequency, which approved the license for it in November 1993.

"Trying to get on the air to accomplish anything is very difficult," Rorabacher said. "It's going to be fun not having to wait for someone to finish talking."

During storms, for example, fire personnel found it difficult to get air time on the frequency to conduct operations. The radio traffic often added confusion to routine incidents, Rorabacher said.

Existing radio equipment in the Canton Public Safety Department dispatch center will be modified to accept the new frequency and to maintain the ability to use the current frequency for mutual-aid purposes. Radios in fire vehicles are new enough that they can be reprogrammed for the new frequency, Rorabacher said.

■ The department's current radio frequency is shared with 20 other Wayne County Fire Departments. Excessive radio traffic on the frequency prompted a request to the Federal Communications Commission for the new frequency, which approved the license for it in November 1993.

He told trustees that other communities also have gone to their own frequencies for the same reasons. The department had been using the same frequency for 30 years.

Line time

Registration draws a crowd

More than 700 people filled the Canton High School cafeteria last Wednesday for one of the local annual rites of spring: registration for summer community education programs.

Although official sign-up didn't begin until 7 p.m., parents began lining up outside the doors as early as 2:30 p.m. to sign up for swimming lessons and Safety Town, said Larry Masteller, director of Adult and Community Education for the Plymouth Canton schools.

"The programs are very popular. They geared toward parents and youth looking for something to do over the summer," said Masteller.

The large crowds this year were no different from other years. Due to the limited number of spaces in the classes, parents often line up early to ensure a place in line for their child. The lines may be long but "once it (registration) begins, it moves quickly. We went through 650-700 people in less than two hours," he said.

Paula Busboom of Canton heard horror stories about the long line and arrived just after 3 p.m., taking 40th place in line.

"I was surprised to see so many people in line already. I had heard that there would be a crowd, but I didn't expect this," she said.

Busboom was able to successfully sign her daughter up for swimming lessons. A newcomer to Canton, she expressed concern about others who may not have been aware of the sign-up procedure.

"If you are new to the community, you just have no idea. And if you go when you are told to go, you may end up disappointed," she said.

The registration program is frequently evaluated to provide the best service to residents, Masteller said.

This year, only swimming lessons and Safety Town were open to walk-in registrants. Registration for other offerings such as gymnastics, golf and ballet are through the mail. Masteller said he will consider the prospects of mail-in registration for all of the programs next year.

"We will evaluate the process, and we may go to all mail-in registration. But it is a case of trying to please everybody — there are some people who would rather stand in line just to know they have a place in class," he said.

LaJoy disagreed. "My take is let's go find the best possible person we can."

Machnik, who recommends that someone be in place by the third quarter of this year, told trustees that the position was not budgeted in the 1994 budget. Efforts will be made to find the money within the existing municipal services budget, he said.

"I would be reluctant to take it from fund balance (savings)," said Clerk Loren Bennett, adding that a salary for the position should have been anticipated. "I would encourage trying to find it other than in fund balance."

Machnik said there are no plans to hire the center manager a secretary. "We've just begun assessing what the clerical needs are," he said.

In a report to trustees, Machnik said that the manager's primary responsibilities will include marketing, supervision of employees, facility operations and maintenance.

Tasks expected before the center opens in late summer-early fall 1995 include developing a policy and procedure manual, establish fees, select a security system, order fitness, athletic and aquatic equipment, develop job descriptions for employees, establish a budget and market the center.

Ground was broken for the $13 million community center May 3.

Stickers to designate containers with yard waste may be picked up at the receptionist's desk in township hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. Residents who wish to continue putting grass clippings in plastic bags may hold onto them and empty them into a compost bin at CWR on Van Born. The center is also open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Friday and Saturday on the second and fourth weekends of each month — except holidays — for recycling.

Residents who have continued to place composting in plastic bags at the curbside have no doubt received orange stickers explaining why the bags were left behind. Denski ordered 3,700 stickers at the beginning of the program and another 2,000 since.

Residents again are asked not to used cardboard boxes as trash containers. Residents who want to get rid of cardboard boxes are asked to break them down and bundle them. "The problem is that on these past windy days, they are everywhere," Denski said. "We get blamed for every mess."

Though Denski said he welcomes residents' calls, he is asking that residents leave their name, phone number and address, if applicable so he can reach them and check out the problem.

"We know this is going to be a rough period," he added.

Residents are reminded to recycle plastics, paper, cardboard, twine, glass, oil, household paint, antifreeze and batteries.

Other rules cover the pickup of appliances such as refrigerators, washers, dryers and dishwashers. CWR asks that you leave out only one large appliance per week.

CWR will not pick up construction materials such as sand, bricks, concrete blocks, cement stones, drywall or the like. But you can call CWR for special pickups or dropoffs.

If you have questions about trash pickup, composting or recycling, or would like a copy of the rules that are now being enforced, contact CWR at 397-5801.

Fall and winter don't mean the Churillas are resting. Fall means pumpkins and hayrides. Winter — Thanksgiving on — brings Christmas trees. "We cut them down ourselves and haul them back here the day before Thanksgiving," Hauk Churilla said.

Sweet corn is a biggie for a lot of Canton farmers. "Canton was known as the sweet corn capital," she said. "We're trying to carry farming on through the family. We would like to leave a legacy for our kids."

SMART chief says transit agency needs tax subsidy

BY PAT MURPHY
STAFF WRITER

■ 'SMART on the verge of bankruptcy isn't new. SMART is surviving now on a special grant from the state.'
Matthew M. Wirgau
SMART chairman

Reality — at least a slice of it — came quickly to a group of future leaders from the metropolitan area.

It came when Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer and Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara said SMART — the transit system for southeastern Michigan — is on the verge of bankruptcy.

Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson didn't dispute that assessment. But a confidant of his — who is also the chairman of SMART (Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation) — confirms the system may indeed go bankrupt without some kind of local tax, such as a polluter's tax levied on automobiles.

"SMART on the verge of bankruptcy isn't new," said SMART chairman Matthew M. Wirgau, a Troy resident. "SMART is surviving now on a special grant from the state."

What would be new, Wirgau said, is the desperately needed tax subsidy without which SMART could die.

SMART's financial problems weren't on the agenda Thursday, when two groups of future leaders - Leadership Detroit and Leadership Oakland - came together over breakfast at the Plaza Hotel in Southfield to commemorate the completion of their year-long programs.

Leadership training

Participants in Leadership Oakland and Leadership Detroit finished their respective programs designed to identify community problems and assets. Substantial tuition is needed to enroll in either leadership program, and the participants commit at least one day a month.

"I think Leadership Oakland is very valuable," said participant Gregory W. Brown, a human resources and employee development manager at Rockwell International Corp. in Troy.

It's helped him learn more about the community, Brown said, and begin developing the background and contacts needed to address problems.

Futurist Edward Barlow Jr. was the main speaker. As president of Creating the Future Inc., he crisscrosses the United States talking to companies and organizations about the structure-shaking problems facing America — and those willing to bear the yoke of leadership necessary to deal with them. He dealt with mass transportation in the abstract.

But Archer, McNamara and Mark A. Steenbergh, chairman of the Macomb County Board of Commissioners, talked about SMART as a particular.

Renewed trust

Those three and Patterson talked about a new spirit of trust and cooperation between Detroit and the suburbs — an attitude that is crucial, they agreed, if southeast Michigan is to thrive.

Their upbeat presentations included good-natured ribbing — much like the "Ed and Brooks" television show.

Patterson, for example, jokingly referred to Livonia as "the place elephants go to die."

McNamara countered with a quip, that Oakland residents think of culture as "chardonnay on a pontoon boat."

Each speaker had a serious side. But it was Archer who immediately focused on mass transit. Detroit has its own bus system, the mayor said, but SMART is facing bankruptcy in part because communities haven't been able to agree and cooperate adequately to form an efficient regional mass transit system.

"It's not only the poor who depend on mass transit," Archer said, "but business itself. Companies (including some in Oakland County) depend on mass transportation to get their people to work."

Leadership Oakland participant Michael A. Valant, a senior vice president with the Lintas Campbell-Ewald advertising agency, said he saw the issue of mass transit as a metaphor for the larger problem of isolation — for individuals as well as neighborhoods.

"So many of our communities are in isolation," said Valant, a resident of Bloomfield Township. "Too often, we don't even talk to each other."

SC plans test-taking workshops

Schoolcraft College offers workshops on the ASSET and CLEP tests in June.

Both workshops will take place 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, June 4.

The ASSET fee is $20 for people up to 59 years of age, or $12 for people 60 and older. The CLEP fee is $55. Call 462-4448.

ASSET workshop topics include test-taking strategies, refresher math, and a review of reading and writing skills. Concepts covered include fractions, decimals, formulas and scientific notation.

The CLEP workshop includes sample exam questions and a review of study materials for the specific test areas.

SMART officials eye route changes to improve service

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Officials of the SMART and Detroit bus lines are poised to consolidate four major routes and offer more service to Wayne, Oakland and Macomb county residents.

Pending approval of the SMART board of directors and the Detroit City Council, SMART will provide 100 percent of the bus service on Michigan Avenue from downtown Detroit to the Ford truck plant in Wayne, and on Jefferson Avenue from Mt. Clemens to Flat Rock.

Detroit Department of Transportation buses will handle the Woodward/John R route, which runs from downtown Detroit to the Oakland Park Towers near Oakland Mall in Troy. DDOT buses would also take over a downriver route on Fort Street.

The consolidation will begin June 20 if approval is given, said Michael Duggan, interim director of the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation.

SMART and DDOT will hold a joint public hearing at 11:30 a.m. Friday, June 3, at the Wayne County Building, 600 Randolph in downtown Detroit. Public comment will be sought on the consolidation plan.

Currently, the targeted routes are served by both bus lines, which Duggan said is inefficient. "It's just a gross waste of money. These buses are riding bumper to bumper along the same streets."

■ The consolidation will begin June 20 if approval is given, said Michael Duggan, interim director of the Suburban Mobility Authority for Regional Transportation.

Consolidation is expected to save SMART $500,000, most of which would be spent elsewhere to expand service.

Plans call for the extension of weekday service by three hours, until 10 p.m.; adding more weekend service; and extending new service to job centers such as Westland Mall, Fairlane Town Center, Oakwood Hospital, Ford Engineering, Greenfield Village and Oakland Mall.

Duggan lamented there is still no service to Laurel Park Place, a Livonia mall with hundreds of jobs.

A single fare structure would also be adopted by SMART and DDOT if the plan is approved. The standard fare would be $1.25, but an additional 25 cents would be charged to passengers who get on or off the bus in the suburbs.

Senior citizens would benefit because the new fare for them would be no more than 50 cents. Currently seniors pay 75 cents or $1.50 depending on when they ride.

Disabled passengers would pay less, too. The only fare increase would be the price of transfers, from 10 to 25 cents.

SMART has a $50 million budget, which it gets from three sources: The federal government, the state gas tax and fares. SMART is currently in debt by $6 million and pays 5-6 percent interest on the debt.

Duggan said a tax to support SMART and DDOT is needed, but it won't be asked for until SMART proves it can operate efficiently. "The public will trust you with a buck if you can show them it's going to be spent wisely," he said.

SC offers computer courses

Schoolcraft College has scheduled four computer courses in June.

"Personal Computer Basics" will take place 5:30-7:30 p.m. Wednesdays, June 1-29, at the Radcliff Center in Garden City.

The fee is $169 for people up to 59 years of age, or $129 for people 60 and older. Call 462-4448.

Learn the basic functions and uses of the microcomputer, including types of software, Windows, word processing, spreadsheets and graphics.

"Introduction to Pagemaker" will take place 5:10-7:10 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, June 6-27, at the Radcliff Center in Garden City.

The fee is $152 for people up to 59 years of age, or $120 for people 60 and older. Call 462-4448.

Learn how to produce attractive publications, newsletters, and brochures; and to manage text and picture files on the Macintosh. Layout techniques will also be discussed.

"Introduction to WordPerfect" will take place 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, June 11 to July 2.

The fee is $148 for people up to 59 years of age, or $116 for people 60 and older. Call 462-4448.

Learn how the WordPerfect word-processing program can be used for everything from basic text entry to the preparation of complex documents. Topics include document preparation, formatting, printing and saving, and retrieving documents from the disk.

"Introduction to Microsoft Word" will take place 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, June 18 to July 9.

The fee is $148 for people up to 59 years of age, or $116 for people 60 and older.

Learn to use Microsoft Word in the easy-to-use Windows environment. Creating documents, editing text, formatting documents and using spell check will be practiced.

Herons adapting to an urban environment

■ Somewhat more rare are egrets, which have long legs and beaks but are white and a bit smaller than great blue herons. Egrets feed on bugs as well as fish.

Along the shores of Wilcox Lake and the Rouge River in Hines Park, one can occasionally spot great blue herons, distinguished by their long legs and long beaks.

Tim Payne of the Department of Natural Resources said herons "are adapting more and more to an urban environment," adding the birds are even spotted around backyard ponds in the area.

"They'll readily fish where there's food available," he said, adding their diet consists mainly of fish, frogs, and other amphibians.

"Right now they're actively feeding, to feed their young," Payne said. Herons make their nests in the tops of large trees, in groups known as rookeries. The nests are 5 or 6 feet wide and made of sticks.

Somewhat more rare are egrets, which have long legs and beaks but are white and a bit smaller than great blue herons. Egrets feed on bugs as well as fish.

In the fall, herons typically migrate to the southern United States, but some are known to remain in southeast Michigan if there is open water, Payne said.

Conservation club 'adopts' area park

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

An Oakland County group, the Multi-Lakes Conservation Club, has become first in the state to "adopt a park" under a new state law.

Multi-Lakes, an affiliate of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, adopted the Proud Lake State Recreation Area, which surrounds the headwaters of the Huron River in Commerce and Milford townships.

Gov. John Engler singled out Multi-Lakes and president Marty Johnson during a tree-planting ceremony on the State Capitol lawn. Engler signed a bill freeing the state from liability for volunteers' efforts.

"This will allow volunteer groups to assist state park staff in spring cleanups, accessibility projects, public information and other efforts," Engler said.

The adopt-a-park program is similar to the Michigan Department of Transportation's adopt-a-highway, in which companies, civic and church groups clean up highway rights of way.

Proud Lake features camping, swimming, boating, canoeing and nature study areas. It is one of 96 state parks up for adoption.

The hoopla over tree-planting and park-adopting is part of the bipartisan effort to raise more operating money for Michigan state parks as they observe their 75th anniversary this year.

Voters on Nov. 8 will decide on a constitutional amendment to end so-called "diversions" from the Natural Resources Trust Fund and set up the Genevieve Gillette Endowment Fund. Purpose is to raise and dedicate $40 million in revenues from oil and gas leases to support the state parks operating budget.

Since 1980 the state parks budget has gone from 62 percent general fund money to 21 percent. But despite higher user fees, parks operations have been scaled back. State park user fees, per vehicle, have been raised from 50 cents a day in 1950 to $2 in 1966 to $4 currently. Annual passes cost $18.

Here is the status of other bills in the "State Parks Initiative" package:

SB 970 — Makes technical amendments to the state park commission act — signed by governor.

SB 951 — Uses state income tax form to promote sale of annual state park stickers — signed by governor.

SB 952 — Creates a state parks foundation — passed Senate.

SB 370 — Honors the 75th anniversary of the state park system — passed Senate.

HB 5245 — Provides volunteer liability protection for adopt-a-park program — passed both chambers and ordered enrolled.

HB 5246 — Amends Natural Resources Trust Fund act — ready for House approval.

HB 5247 — Amends tourism policy to make specific references to state parks and natural resources.

HB 5248 — Provides $40 million from sale of the Accident Fund for the endowment fund — passed both chambers.

HB 5249 — Provides $20 million from the sale of the Accident Fund for Civilian Conservation Corps — passed both chambers, returned to House for concurrence in amendment.

Senate Resolution 218 — Urges car rental companies to place state park stickers in windows of rental cars — passed both chambers.

State parks offer new UP tour program

Upper Michigan has great waterfall, lighthouse and historical tours — if you know how to find them.

And you can get tour guidance from a new state park tour program, says George Rob, of the state Department of Natural Resources. His office will even make your state park camping reservations for the price of one 906 area code call.

"Each tour is individualized and tailored to the interests and schedule of the guest," Rob said.

"I'm really excited about this new park tour program because it provides an opportunity for people to enjoy our parks and experience our unique environment," said Rob, who is DNR's region I supervisor for parks and recreation.

Here are the kinds of attractions on the tours:

■ Waterfalls — The UP has 199, including the photogenic Tahquamenon Falls. Many aren't well marked, however, and you need good directions to find them. "The quiet walk along the forest trails leading to most fall is an added bonus for the visitor — a real 'getting back to nature' experience," Rob said.

■ Lighthouses — The Lake Superior shoreline is emphasized. Many sites have been restored and offer interpretive programs, including museums. Fort Wilkins, an historic landmark itself, is home of the Eagle Harbor Museum Complex.

■ History — Iron ore mines, copper mines, shipping, logging, trading, trapping, hunting and fishing are part of the UP's heritage.

For information and to make reservations for your UP state park tour, call the DNR at 906-289-4400. Make park camping reservations at least three weeks prior to your visit.

Russell Kirk: A giant of 20th Century thought

With the passing of Russell Kirk, one of the giants of 20th century thought has left us. Having turned 75 just last October, this Plymouth native had accomplished much by the time of his death, not the least being his work as an articulate and influential conservator of the true and enduring in Western culture. As a defender of what his friend T.S. Eliot called "the permanent things," Kirk may have taken his famous friend's phrase "Redeem the time, redeem the dream" as his own watchword.

His position as one of the major rejuvenators of 20th century American conservative thought was established primarily by his study "The Conservative Mind: From Burke to Santayana (1953). Subtitled "From Burke to Eliot" in later editions, "The Conservative Mind" remains one of the most widely discussed works of political theory written in this century. It is a work which traces the origin and flow of British and American conservative thought from Edmund Burke through such figures as John Adams, Sir Walter Scott, Nathaniel Hawthorne, and Eliot.

Kirk also published biographies of the eccentric genius John Randolph of Roanoke, Robert Taft, and Burke; several volumes of literary, social, and political essays; five volumes of supernatural fiction (of which the novel "Old House of Fear" is said to have revitalized the genre of Gothic fiction after its publication in 1961); and an ambitious historical survey of ideas and institutions, "The Roots of American Order (1974); among many other works.

For many years he contributed a regular column, "To the Point," to "The Detroit News"; and for 25 years his column on American education, "From the Academy," appeared in "National Review." He also founded and edited two influential literary periodicals, "Modern Age" and "The University Bookman." Kirk also wrote extensively on education, becoming recognized as a champion of academic excellence.

Despite these accomplishments, as a conservative writer and public figure Kirk was not nearly as well known to the general public as, say, William F. Buckley or George F. Will. Truth be known, this lack of fame probably pleased him. For despite his fondness for walking tours across the European continent and Scotland (the land of his ancestry), he enjoyed being "happy at home" in the phrase of one of his heroes, Samuel Johnson, spending much time at his ancestral home in Mecosta. Writing from that setting, amid the cultural war America has undergone during the past few decades, he was one of the few quietly influential voices that reminded and reassured many persons that the permanent things are to be remembered, cultivated, passed on to one's children and to society. "The permanent things": a shorthand way of referring to the enduring norms of honor, courage, character, virtue, constancy, humility, godly wisdom, order, and prudence — as well as faith, hope, and charity. His was a voice of reassurance which spoke eloquently through both the well-stated essay and the well-told tale in an adept melding of the intellect and the imagination.

■ His was a voice of reassurance which spoke eloquently through both the well-stated essay and the well-told tale in an adept melding of the intellect and the imagination.

Although called by admirers the American Cicero and the Sage of Mecosta, Kirk retained throughout his life the stamp of his upbringing in Plymouth, where he was born, raised, and schooled (Plymouth High School, Class of 1936); and Mecosta, where he lived most of his life. After leaving Plymouth to pursue higher education, he eventually took his doctorate at the University of St. Andrews — becoming the first and, to this day, only American to achieve that distinction. During a career as a nationally respected man of letters, which began with the publication of "The Conservative Mind," he was on friendly terms with the likes of Wyndham Lewis, Whittaker Chambers, Flannery O'Connor, Ray Bradbury, Madeleine L'Engle, Malcolm Muggeridge, and Eliot.

At Piety Hill, his home in Mecosta, he and his wife, Annette, established a home which became a refuge for homeless immigrants in need of job and language skills, half-reformed burglars in need of shelter and work, unwed mothers in need of acceptance and help, and college students seeking answers to the essential questions of life. At the time of his death, he had just completed his autobiography of a full life, "The Sword of Imagination" (which will be published within a year by Eerdmans), a work which recounts all this and much else besides.

He was one of the wisest and noblest souls this Republic has produced. But where other men sought fame, he sought quiet and to live happily at home in a forested land described by another Midwestern writer as "that vast obscurity beyond the city, where the dark fields of the republic roll on under the night." Now he sleeps under those fields, but the Republic has been invigorated by his life, words, and example. Rest in peace, Russell Amos Kirk; husband, father, Christian, conservative, master storyteller, great mind, great heart; in your distinctive way you redeemed the time, redeemed the dream.

James E. Person Jr., a resident of Canton, is the editor of "The Unbought Grace of Life: Essays in Honor of Russell Kirk," which was published last month by Sherwood Sugden and Company.

Health care debate 'a war'

This is war. This health care debate is a war. This is a fight for freedom. This is a fight for freedom of choice. This is something you need to speak out about. If you remain silent, your elected officials will interpret that you want the Clinton Health Care Plan.

If you want the Clinton Health Care Plan, then you haven't read it yet. It is readable, most large libraries have a copy of the plan in their reference department, please stop by one day and just browse through it.

Just to wet your appetite for reading this plan, here are a few lines from the act just as they are written. This is under the caption "Individual Responsibility" Sec. 1002(a) "In accordance with this Act, each individual (a)(1) must enroll in an applicable health plan for the individual, act (a)(2) must pay any premium required, consistent with this Act, with respect to such enrollment. (b) Limitations on Disenrollment — No eligible individual shall be disenrolled from an applicable health plan until the individual (b)(1) is enrolled under another applicable health plan, or (2) becomes a Medicare-eligible individual."

As the line from the old Eagle's song goes "you can check out anytime, but you can never leave." The above section outlines how the government will force you to join a health plan and force you to pay the premiums. Americans will lose the freedom of choice as to whether or not they want to enroll in a health care plan.

What about the individual who can afford health insurance, but chooses not to buy it, and pays for their medical bills as they occur. They are part of the "X millions" of uninsured, but they choose to be uninsured. Yes, the uninsured, not by choice, do need to be covered, but there are other ways to solve this issue without forcing the rest of us into a government-run HMO.

Well armed

Regarding Tim Richard's "Ghost" story of May 12, may I share a chortle? Although it hardly seems honorable to drag the Founding Fathers into arguments about assault weapons of today, Bill Maher, host of "Politically Incorrect" proposed that in keeping with the true spirit of the Constitution: "Every person has a right to keep and bear arms — as long as it is a musket."

Ameritech consolidates, 2 area offices affected

Ameritech has announced plans to reduce the number of customer sales and service centers, redesign work processes and re-engineer computer support systems.

In the Observer readership area, centers targeted for closing and/or changes are 31100 Plymouth Road in Livonia and 24251 Acacia in Redford Township.

The number of Ameritech consumer services and small business service sales and service centers in Michigan will be reduced from 22 to 6.

The new centers will be located at 105 E. Bethune in Detroit; 133 W. Lovell, Kalamazoo and 221 N. Washington, Lansing. Three locations have yet to be determined, however, according to Amertech two are slated for Saginaw and one for the west/northwest suburbs in the Detroit metro area.

Ameritech spokeswoman Marcia Sayles said the Plymouth Road location in Livonia is being transformed into a technology center and the workforce will remain at the current level. She said that while 100 employees working in consumer sales and service are being relocated, 100 employees in the technology area will move into the renovated facility. There are approximately 750 employees at the Livonia location.

There are 360 employees at the Redford location and 160 will be relocated to other sales and service centers, said Sayles.

The consolidation is expected to begin in the fourth quarter of 1994 and should be completed by the end of 1995.

The move is part of Ameritech plans announced in March to reduce its non-management work force by 6,000 positions by the end of 1995.

"This consolidation, which is the first step in our transformation, will be transparent to our customers," said Mitch Wienick, Ameritech small business services president.

"Customers should continue to call us at the Ameritech phone numbers they're using now."

Voter registration

Officials fight for local control of lists

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

A year later, Michigan is feeling the fallout from Congress' 1993 National Voter Registration Act — a law that will change forever how local clerks list voters.

"We have concerns. We'd like to see a feasibility study first. We haven't seen any cost numbers," Terri Land, Kent County clerk, told the House Local Government Committee Tuesday as it studied implementation of NVRA.

NVRA's purpose is to increase the proportion of Americans — particularly low-income people leaning Democratic — who are registered to vote from 75 or 80 percent to more than 90 percent.

Michigan is likely to see these two major changes:

■ Voter registration soon must be done at social services, public health, mental health, public assistance, unemployment compensation and other human services offices designated by the governor. Historically, city and township clerks — and beginning about 10 years ago, the Secretary of State driver's license offices — have registered voters.

■ Clerks won't weed out "deadwood" — voters who have been inactive for several years. "Under NVRA, clerks can't cancel because you don't vote. It's a forever file," said Rep. Robert Brackenridge, R-St. Joseph, a former county clerk who co-chairs the House Local Government Committee.

"We did not support the federal 'motor voter' bill when it passed, but that's a done deal," said Gene Thornton, lobbyist for the Micigan Townships Association. "We've not heard any concern about local control." Thornton said MTA supports a bipartisan package of bills to implement NVRA.

Kent County's Land said county and local clerks should have final maintenance authority over voter lists. "Death certificates are filed with county clerks. We can eliminate dead people immediately — within 48 hours," she said.

Brackenridge liked that idea.

Christopher Thomas, state elections director, said the Secretary of State will not take over control of the voter lists. "We want to support local control, not eliminate it. In our view, local jurisdictions will continue to conduct elections. We (state) are setting ourselves up as a data center," Thomas said.

As the system gets under way, many state agencies will offer people voter registration forms when they apply for some type of benefit, a driver's license or a change of address on their licenses. State computers will forward that data to local clerks.

"The technology is faster than the Postal Service," said Thomas. "There will be substantial savings to local government." No longer will local clerks have to handle volumes of paper by sending cancellation notices to voters who have been inactive for several years.

NVRA was a bitterly partisan issue in Congress. In 1992 President George Bush vetoed the first version as "a partisan sham." With Bill Clinton in the White House, Congress repassed it in 1993.

A Republican minority in the Congress charged Democrats made it partisan by refusing to require states to designate "public libraries, public schools, clerks' offices, marriage license bureaus, revenue offices and post offices" as voter registration places. The GOP said Democrats' designation of welfare offices "is designed to encourage fraud-prone election-day registration."

CHEF LARRY JANES

Cooking brisket and other reader requests

Maybe it was a good idea that the two gentlemen who left messages on my voice mail didn't leave a name or a city.

The first caller told me he adored his wife of 25 years, and their 10 children. He went on to say his dear wife was perplexed because even with a cookbook, her recipes left much to de desired. Could I help?

Well, she can't be that bad of a cook if you've shared more than 25 years together and 10 kids. But might I suggest good starter cookbooks like "The Better Homes and Gardens Cookbook," now in it's 10th printing, and "The Good Housekeeping Illustrated Cookbook" also a perennial that offers basic, solid recipes. Both books should be on every beginner's shelf.

Personally, I would be lost without my "Joy of Cooking" and "Fanny Farmer Cookbook," two additional favorites that explain everything from soup to jelly making. But then again, if I gave my wife a cookbook for our anniversary it would be the last thing I saw before my lights were knocked out. Gentelman caller two couldn't believe the article a few weeks back where the I mentioned the Janes Gang women preferring their hamburgers very well "done." He prefers his meat rare. Momma said his voice mail message sounded like "one of those hormone filled hunters who likes blood dripping down their chin while they eat." She said it, I didn't.

Beef brisket

I also received a call from a gentleman in Redford who is looking for a good recipe for beef brisket. He said when he cooks beef brisket it comes out tough and dried out.

Lucky for him, last week I received a note from Tonya Parravano, Consumer Information Home Economist from the National Meat and Livestock Board in Chicago. She said that since beef briskets are classified as a less tender cut, they always require moist heat cooking methods such as cooking in a liquid or braising.

To cook in a liquid, place the brisket in a tight fitting Dutch oven and cover with a liquid of your choice. Cover tightly and simmer 2½ to 3½ hours for an 3 to 4 pound roast.

Vegetables, including potatoes, carrots, onions and cabbage, can be added during the last 30 minutes of cooking time.

To braise, heat a small amount of cooking oil in a Dutch oven over medium high heat. Add the brisket and brown on all sides. Turn brisket fat side up and season with salt and pepper. Pour about 1 cup of liquid around the meat. Cover tightly and simmer 2 to 3 hours.

Great Lakes fish

A reader in Rochester wanted to know the truth about health risks of eating fish caught in the Great Lakes.

I immediately called Sylvia Treitman, a home economist for the Cooperative Extension Services Food and Nutrition Hotline, (810)-858-0904 in Oakland County and (313) 494-3013 in Wayne County, for the latest update.

You'll be pleased to know that fish caught in healthy lakes and waterways throughout Michigan are safe to eat providing the people eating them are not considered at risk - pregnant or suffering from immune deficiencies.

Guidelines so indicate that in older, larger fish, fatty deposits along the edges of the fillet should be removed because it is here that most halogenated hydrocarbons (the bad stuff) accumulates in fresh fish.

It is also recommended that the fish be baked, broiled or grilled so that should any additional fat remain in the fish, most of it can be cooked off using these techniques.

You can get a free copy of the Michigan Fishing Guide, that has a consumption advisory and methods of preparation, by calling the Michigan Department of Health Hotline toll free at 1-(8000-648-6942 or you can get a free guide wherever fishing licenses are sold simply by asking.

Margaret from Redford is looking for a recipe for Hawaiian bread. I haven't given up yet, but I have run into a hurdle. Can anyone out there help with a Hawaiian bread recipe? If you have one, send it to me at the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

Toddling around kitchen helps kids learn

■ There is no magic formula for learning. We start by taking baby steps and expand our base of knowledge. Learn how to turn your kitchen into a learning lab to introduce your preschooler to math, science and healthy foods.

BY BARBARA WILSON
SPECIAL WRITER

It's an unlikely classroom, but it can provide instruction in math, science, language arts, fine motor skills and health.

Teachers, dietitians, and even moms, are turning their kitchens into learning laboratories for their children.

Bringing a toddler or preschooler into the kitchen to help is not an adventure for the weak-stomached parent. A mess is most certainly one of the outcomes of the experience.

For most families, the kitchen is the nerve center of the house, and so it seems appropriate that children spend some time learning in this room. With some guidance they can measure out the ingredients and count them as they are added to the final product.

Carol Learned of Plymouth has been letting her son, Kevin, help out in the kitchen since he was 2 years old. Now, nearly 6, Kevin is whipping up some of his own recipes.

"We've just always worked together in the kitchen." Learned said. "He counts out the number of raisins we might need for a recipe and helps add each ingredient."

Simple pizzas will even offer plenty of opportunities for counting. Using a store-bought pizza crust, the youngster could measure out a cup of sauce, count how many pepperonis he might use and much cheese, etc.

In addition, children can develop a sense for sizes. The difference between a cup and a half cup can easily be seen when measuring out ingredients.

Working in the kitchen will also teach a young child how to follow directions. Bonnie Graham teaches a cooking class for youngster ages 5 to 8 at the Plymouth YMCA. She comes to each class prepared with a new recipe and the ingredients required.

"I like to give each child a task and see that they follow through with it." Graham said. "They each have their own job to do in preparing the recipe."

Graham said the YMCA used to offer a cooking class for even younger children, but found it was too difficult to keep the group focused. She likes working with the 5- to 8-year-olds, but said children can start helping out in the kitchen when they're much younger if there is more one-on-one attention and all safety precautions are taken.

Amanda Haddad, a 9-year-old returnee to Graham's cooking class, just thinks it's fun to fix foods for family.

"I like fixing a lot of things," Haddad said. "My favorites are pudding, scrambled eggs and hamburgers."

Bringing youngsters into the kitchen may do much more than prepare them with a good background for school. Some dietitians believe that by letting children help in the kitchen parents may be raising people who will eat a more balanced and nutritious diet for the rest of their lives.

Learned said she always explains to her son some of the basic principles of preparing food like washing his hands, not licking the batter if it contains raw eggs and cooking foods thoroughly.

"I also like to teach him the importance of eating fresh fruits and vegetables." Learned said. "I want

Here are some tips for cooking with kids

- Before inviting children into the kitchen make sure all the ingredients, bowls and measuring devices are out on the counter. A frantic hunt for needed items could divert attention from the task at hand.
- If you are too worried about getting your kitchen dirty, don't attempt to have little helpers at your side. There is going to be a mess and if that upsets you the experience will not be a good one.
- Use an extra large mixing bowl so ingredients won't spill out when stirred.
- Use this time to promote good hygiene with proper hand washing and food handling
- Never let small children use electric mixers, sharp utensils or ovens. Safety is very important in the kitchen.
- Teach good manners along with cooking. Have your child help set the table and clear dishes afterward.
- Always let them sample the final product.

Local chefs offer a 'Taste of History' at restaurant

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Greenfield Village in Dearborn is offering a new way to explore history - by tasting it at their Taste of History restaurant which opened on March 31.

A Taste of History is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Lunch is served 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekends. Greenfield Village is at 20900 Oakwood Boulevard in Dearborn. Call for information (313) 271-1620. The menu features items developed from regional favorites such as sweet potato chips, which northerns have never heard of, and adaptations of historic dishes to illustrate the many ways in which Americans have used natural resources and ingenuity to put food on the table.

Three Westland residents, Tom Preniczky pastry chef and chefs Scott Sundermeyr and Bill Dembiec had a hand in "inventing" some of the dishes.

Prenickzy's "Innovative Apple-Cherry Pie" is made with a combination of fresh apples and dried cherries. It was made with the Sarah Jordan Boarding House in mind. Jordan, whose restored house is on village grounds, was a distant relative of Thomas Edison. At Edison's request, she moved to a home near young Edison's Menlo Park Laboratory and opened a boarding house, providing rooms and meals for many of Edison's workers.

After the development of the light bulb in 1879, Edison electrified Jordan's house and invited the public to see it. The additional traffic might have become a burden, but Jordan was an "innovator" too. She started selling lunches and pies to Menlo Park visitors. Her pies be

NUTTY PINEAPPLE NIBBLES

6 10-inch celery stalks
¼ cup crushed pineapple
½ cup soft "light" cream cheese
2 tablespoons creamy peanut butter
1 tablespoon honey
¼ cup raisins or dried fruit bits
3 tablespoons dry-roasted, finely chopped nuts

Rinse celery stalks and dry with a paper towel. With a small, sharp knife, trim leafy parts off the celery stalks. Drain pineapple in a strainer. In medium bowl, combine pineapple, cream cheese, peanut butter and honey. Stir with rubber spatula until well mixed. Stir in raisins or fruit bits. With table knife (or popsicle stick for younger children), fill groove of each celery stalk with cheese mixture. Sprinkle crushed nuts over stalks. Refrigerate 30 minutes.

him to know that the foods that grow most directly from the earth are the best for us."

Roberta Zarea of Northville, a licensed day care provider and student of early childhood development, says she only plans cooking time with her students the day before cleaning day.

"If you get upset because they are making a mess then you aren't making the most of the activity."

Zarea, who works with children as young as 12 months in her kitchen, has students take turns stirring and they all count out the number of stirs in unison.

"They all learn from each other so even the youngest child gains something from the experience," she said.

Zarea said that when children are involved in preparing the food, they are more inclined to eat it.

Even with simple snacks, she likes to involve the children. She hands out popsicle sticks (which can be bought in craft stores) and gives each a small cup of peanut butter. They then are given crackers and apples to spread the peanut butter onto with the sticks.

Once you decide to venture into the kitchen with your toddler, the most important thing to remember is don't have unrealistic expectations. A little egg shell in the banana bread won't hurt anyone, and Zarea even considers it good luck.

Your final product may be a little lopsided or lumpy or runny, but remember it was made with love as a family and should be enjoyed as a family.

BROILED ITALIAN MEATBALLS

1 large onion
1 pound ground round
⅓ cup plain dry bread crumbs
⅓ cup grated Parmesan cheese
⅓ cup evaporated skim milk
1 egg
1½ teaspoon dried Italian herb seasoning
1 teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
vegetable oil spray

Peel and chop onion. In medium bowl combine chopped onion, ground round, bread crumbs, Parmeson cheese, milk, egg, Italian seasoning, garlic powder, salt and pepper. With clean, dry hands, thoroughly mix together all the ingredients. Rinse your hands with water, but do not dry them. With wet hands, form mixture into 15 meatballs by rolling the meat mixture between the palms of your hands. Each meatball should be about 1¼ inches in diameter. When you're finished rolling the meatballs, wash and dry your hands.

Place oven rack 7 inches from broiler. If using broiler pan, remove it from the broiler during preheating process. Spray broiler or baking pan with vegetable oil spray (make sure you are far away from the broiler when spra¸ing). Arrange meatballs in sprayed pan in 3 rows, 5 meatballs per row. Place pan on oven rack and broil for 5 minutes. Using oven mitts, remove pan from broiler. With tongs, turn meatballs over and broil 5 minutes longer. Serve plain or with tomato sauce.

SHOE BOX CAKE

1½ cup egg substitute
1½ cup sugar
2 cups low-fat milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup raisins
1 cup pecans
1 pound crushed graham crackers
¾ cup melted margarine
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained

Mix sugar and baking powder. Add egg substitute and milk. Mix well until sugar doesn't feel grainy. Add nuts, raisins, graham crackers, cooled melted margarine and crushed pineapple. Pour into waxed-paper lined shoebox and cook at 250 degrees for 3 hours, 20 minutes.

GRANOLA

2½ cups rolled oats
½ cup slivered almonds
½ cup toasted wheat germ
¼ cup honey
⅓ cup frozen apple juice concentrate vegetable oil cooking spray
¼ cup raisins
½ cup dried chopped apples, apricots or any other fruit

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. In a large bowl, combine the oats, almonds and wheat germ; set aside. Stir together honey and apple juice concentrate. Pour over oat mixture, stirring until coated. Spray a 9-by-13-inch baking pan with the vegetable oil spray. Spread mixture evenly in baking dish. Bake uncovered for 45 to 50 minutes or until brown, stirring every 15 minutes and several times during the last 15 minutes. Remove from oven. Stir in raisins and dried fruits. Transfer to another pan and let cool. Store in an air-tight container. Makes 10 ½ cup servings.

BRIGHT PINK FRUIT DIP

1 10-ounce package sweetened raspberries, defrosted
½ cup (4 ounces) softened cream cheese
1 cup firm yogurt
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Arrange spears of cantaloupe or honeydew melon, fresh firm bananas and apple or pear slices on a small plate. Place the raspberries (including all their liquid) and cream cheese in a blender or food processor and puree until uniform. Transfer to a bowl. Add yogurt and lemon juice and whisk until it is all one color. Pour the dip into a bowl (or small individual bowls). Dip the fruit spears into the pink stuff, put your face over the bowl and pop the fruit right in your mouth.

If using fresh raspberries, add 2 or 3 tablespoons of sugar or honey.

Recipe from Pretend Soup and Other Real Recipes by Mollie Katzen and Ann Henderson.

APPLESAUCERS

1 cup butter
¾ cup honey
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup applesauce
1 cup whole wheat flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
4 cups rolled oats
1 cup chopped walnuts
2 cups chocolate chips

Blend butter, honey, eggs, vanilla and applesauce. Mix together flour, baking powder, soda and rolled oats. Add to applesauce mixture and mix well. Add walnuts and chocolate chips. Drop from teaspoon onto greased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for about 8 minutes.

came well-known, and the sales helped augment her limited income.

Scott Sundermeyer put his "down south" experience to work developing a Georgia-style barbecue sandwich. Unlike contemporary northern barbecue sauce made with a ketchup base, George-style barbecue gets its zest from mustard.

At Mattox House in Greenfield Village, visitors discover how rural southern African-Americans used ingenuity and resourcefulness to survive the Great Depression of the 1930s.

Families like the Mattoxes raised hogs because they produced a lot of meat for a little feed. Frequently, the whole community would gather for a "whole hog" roast, using a large spit and an open fire. When most of the meat was gone, the tenderest chunks clinging to the bone would be saved for barbecue.

Homemakers like Grace Mattox would blend those flavorful morsels with a tangy sauce to make it "stretch" for another meal.

"I had been a chef at a Hilton Head resort not far from the area where Mattox House was originally situated," said Sundermeyer. "It was nice to use my four years of experience down south to create dishes that can help express one aspect of the American experience to our international audience."

Bill Dembiec found a way to turn every gardener's enemy — dandelions — into a "Dandy Weed Salad."

At A Taste of History, visitors learn how "pest" plants that are usually tossed from the garden can become a delicious tossed salad.

George Washington Carver was born in 1864 to an enslaved African-American couple in Missouri. Working against enormous odds, Carver became the first African-American man to earn a master's degree from Iowa State University in 1896.

In addition to his renowned experiments wtih the peanut, Carver advocated the use of "choice wild vegetables that make find foods."

Henry Ford, who founded Greenfield Village, admired Carver's work and shared his enthusiasm for nutritious natural foods.

DANDY WEED SALAD

2 cups finely shredded dandelion leaves
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 small radishes, finely chopped
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon sugar (optional)
salt and pepper to taste vinegar
garnishes

Moisten dandelion leaves thoroughly with weak vinegar and toss in other ingredients. Garnish with slices of hard-boiled eggs, pickled beets or edible flowers.

George Washington Carver also suggested turnip, collard or mustard greens as a substitute for dandelions. Greenfield Village chefs recommend leaf spinach as a produce-department alternative.

GEORGIA-STYLE BARBECUE SANDWICH

1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 pinch cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon white pepper
½ teaspoon black pepper
1 teaspoon ground mustard
1 cup prepared mustard
1 teaspoon fresh minced garlic
¼ cup apple cider vinegar
3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
3 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons sweet butter, cold
1 tablespoon soy sauce
2 drops Tabasco sauce
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon liquid smoke

Combine all ingredients, except butter, soy sauce, Tabasco and liquid smoke. Bring mixture to a boil, simmer 5 to 10 minutes. Whisk in butter by the spoonful until melted. Add remaining ingredients, remove from flame and allow to cool. Makes 2 cups. Mix 1 cup barbecue sauce with 1 pound shredded cooked pork or chicken. Heat and serve on warm hamburger buns. Makes 6 sandwiches.

INNOVATIVE APPLE CHERRY PIE

7½ cups Granny Smith apples
1 cup dried cherries
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup sugar
1½ tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Prepare dough for a 10-inch pie shell and top crust. Peel, core and slice apples. Combine apples, dried cherries and lemon juice in a large bowl; toss. In a separate bowl, combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and spices in a bowl; toss. Add dry ingredients to fruit mixture and toss thoroughly. Spoon filling into pie shell and cover with top crust. Bake one hour.

your HEALTH

by Sandra John

EAT YOUR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

According to the Health and Human Services Secretary, including five or more servings of fruits and vegetables in one's diet can have a "significant impact" on reducing the risk of cancer. A National Cancer Institute nationwide survey of 2,800 adults, however, shows that Americans eat only about three daily servings of fruit and vegetables. A serving is defined as one medium fruit, three-quarters of a cup of 100 percent fruit juice, a half-cup of fruit or vegetables, one cup of raw leafy vegetables, or one-quarter cup of dried fruits. Not surprisingly, the survey suggests that healthy dietary advocacy begins with youngsters. Nearly half the adults who claimed to eat more than five servings of fruits and vegetables daily had been in the habit of doing so since childhood.

Eating organic foods makes good sense. Why ingest foods that you know are contaminated with pesticides and other toxins? At the GOOD FOOD CO., we offer a superb selection of quality natural foods, organic fruits and vegetables, free range chicken and beef, and an array of vitamins and supplements. We are dedicated to promoting healthy eating in our future generations! Feel free to call us with any questions that you may have at 981-8100. Our store is conveniently located at 42615 Ford Rd. We are open Monday through Saturday from 9:00 to 9:00, and Sundays from 10:00 to 6:00. Come by and give us a try!

P.S. Adults of 65 years and over eat nearly four servings of fruits and vegetables daily, while the 18-34 age group eats only three servings daily.

Savory beef brisket recipe answers readers' dreams

See related Larry Janes column on Taste front.

Here's a beef brisket recipe from Tonya Parravano, Consumer Information Home Economist from the National Meat and Livestock Board in Chicago.

BEEF BRISKET WITH SAVORY ONION SAUCE

3 to 3½ pound beef brisket
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
2 large cloves garlic, minced
½ to ¾ teaspoon coarse grind pepper
1 cup beer
½ cup chili sauce
2 pounds (about 10) small red potatoes

Trim excess fat from the beef brisket. Layer half the onion slices evenly in a 15 by 10 inch roasting pan. Place beef brisket over onions. Sprinkle garlic and pepper over brisket. Place remaining onions over the brisket. Combine beer and chili sauce; pour evenly over the brisket. Cover pan tightly and cook at 325 degrees for 2 hours and 45 minutes. Stir sauce, spoon over brisket.

Place potatoes around the brisket, cover and continue cooking until potatoes are tender, about 45 minutes. Carve brisket diagonally across the grain into thin slices. Serve with potatoes and onion sauce from pan. Serves 6-8.

Beth Sovistano and friends from Our Lady of Good Council Parent Group (who have a great church cookbook for sale) wanted to hear about my secret for making homemade chicken fingers.

HOMEMADE CHICKEN FINGERS

4 skinned and boneless breasts of chicken, cut into 1 inch strips
2 eggs, beaten with 4 tablespoons milk
½ cup flour
¼ cup cornmeal
½ teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon paprika

Place chicken strips in egg wash and mix well to coat. Set aside. Combine flour, cornmeal and spices and mix well. Drain chicken from egg, roll in seasonings to coat chicken. Fry or broil immediately or cook, then freeze on waxed paper until firm and wrap tightly Serves 3-4'

I couldn't find a Hawaiian bread for Margaret in Redford, but I did find a tasty recipe for Hawaiian muffins in one of momma's old, outdated cookbooks.

HAWAIIAN MUFFIN

One (14 ounce) package muffin mix
½ cup flaked coconut
1 cup canned crushed pineapple (liquid reserved)
1 egg, beaten
⅔ cup milk
½ cup orange juice

Combine muffin mix with flaked coconut and orange juice. Add remaining ingredients and beat only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill greased muffin pans or ungreased papers ⅔ full with mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until done.

Chef's secret: combine 3 ounces cream cheese (about ⅓ cup) with reserved pineapple syrup and beat well. Serve this with the warm muffins.

Bob Bickman from Plymouth called and requested a recipe for Tapenade, a black olive spread that tastes like caviar. This recipe comes from the Williams-Sonoma Kitchen Library book on Hors d'oeuvres and appetizers.

TAPENADE

1 small clove garlic)
2 ounces anchovy fillets, drained (about 3)
fresh ground pepper to taste
2 tablespoons good quality olive oil
1½ tablespoons capers, rinsed and drained
8 ounces large black olives, pitted

Pass the garlic clove through a garlic press held over a blender container or the work bowl of a food processor. Add the anchovies, pepper, and the oil and process to a fine puree.

Add the capers and process again. Add the olives and process quickly once more to form a thick puree. Makes about 1 cup.

Chef's Secret try making this with Kalamata olives or traditional Nicoise olives for 2 different tastes.

Grilled lamb adds zing to dinner

Nothing is hotter than foods from south of the border and most of us love planning our menus around the current love affair with chilies. Nothing is easier than picking up a few simple ingredients at the supermarket, blending and brushing over a lamb chop as it grills.

Quite often the lamb shoulder chop can be found specially priced during the summer months and it is easy to tuck a few extra away in the freezer. Remember to double wrap before freezing to prevent drying.

The shoulder chop is tender and will melt in the mouth without tenderizing or marinating. Marinating can impart a subtle complement to the mild flavor of lamb. Consider marinating lean strips of lamp shoulder in a blend of fajita seasonings, stir fry with peppers and onions and serve in tortillas with salsa.

Here's a spicy grilling alternative that's great for guests.

LAMB CHOPS JALAPENO

- 4 lamb shoulder chops, 1 inch thick, round bone or blade (leg or sirloin steaks can be substituted for chops)
- ½ teaspoon seasoned salt
- ½ teaspoon ground pepper
- 1 can (8 ounces) crushed pineapple, in its own juice
- ½ cup jalapeno jelly
- ¼ cup fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard

Sprinkle lamb chops with seasoned salt and pepper. Grill lamb chops over moderate heat or broil 4 inches from heat source, 8 to 10 minutes on each side. While lamb is cooking, combine remaining ingredients in a small saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring until jelly is melted.

Sizzling lamb: Lamb chops make a great option for outdoor grilling.

Remove from heat. Spoon jalapeno sauce over lamb chops or steaks for the last 5 minutes of cooking. Watch carefully to prevent burning. Makes 4 servings

Aristocratic vegetable debuts for summer

LOIS THIELEKE

Asparagus has been a prized vegetable since the days of the ancient Greeks and Romans. They thought asparagus possessed medicinal properties to prevent bee stings or cure tooth aches. While this is myth, asparagus is considered by many to be a delicacy, because of the short season and price.

Asparagus is a member of the lily family and related to onions, leeks and garlic. Asparagus is a good source of vitamins A and C, all the B vitamins and iron. When asparagus is kept at room temperature it loses almost half of its vitamin C within two days. Keep cold to preserve tenderness, much of its natural sweetness and vitamin C. Wrap the stalk bottoms in a damp paper towel and refrigerate or refrigerate spears upright with trimmed ends in water.

There are two basic types of asparagus, white and green. White asparagus is planted under heaps of soil so it does not see the light of day. White asparagus is harvested just as the tips break the ground so they stay pale. This process does make a more fibrous spear, with a stronger and slightly bitter flavor than the green ones. In February the asparagus generally comes from California, from May to July it is grown in this part of the country. Fall and winter you can find fresh asparagus coming from South America.

Asparagus deteriorates very quickly if not kept cold after harvesting. Look for store displays that are under refrigeration or the stalks are in cold water. Choose bright green or white spears that are straight with unwrinkled stems. The tips should be deep green or purplish that are closed and compact. Flat or twisted stalks are often tough and stringy. Choose stalks that are uniform in size so they cook evenly.

Asparagus loses about half its total weight once its been trimmed and cooked. Buy at least one pound for two people for a main dish or a pound for three to four servings as a side dish. When ready to prepare, wash in cool running water, cut or break off the tough or woody ends. Peeling the thicker stalks will shorten the cooking time. Cook asparagus quickly, and just to the firm-tender point. A good test for doneness for asparagus is to pick up a spear with kitchen tongs, if it bends slightly, it's done. Overdone asparagus is limp, discolored and has a bitter taste. If you're going to be serving it cold, plunge immediately into cold water and then refrigerate.

To maintain the nice long spear, cook lying flat in a deep skillet of boiling water. A frying pan with about an inch of water works just fine. Bring the water to a rapid boil and add the thickest stalks first and then add the rest. Quickly bring to a second boil, cook uncovered, three to five minutes.

Steaming is one of the best ways to cook asparagus to stop nutritional loss. Use a tall pot with a lid or a special asparagus steamer so the stalks are standing upright. Tie the stalks together in a bundle and put in about two inches of water, bring to a rapid boil and cover to steam. With this method, the more fragile tips are gently steamed while only the bottoms are boiled. For something a little special, add a clove of garlic or a slice of onion or wedge of lemon to the water before steaming.

Asparagus can also be roasted in a 500-degree oven for three to five minutes. Trim the stalks, place in a baking dish, drizzle lightly with olive oil and roast uncovered. For the microwave you'll need a large plate or platter so the tips are pointing toward the center. Add a small amount of water, cover and microwave five to seven minutes. Rotate the dish half way through the cooking time. Watch them very carefully in the microwave as they can overcook easily.

Asparagus is delicate and highly nutritious so forget the heavy cream or butter sauce. Instead, drizzle plain warm or chilled asparagus with a light seasoning of lemon juice or mustard sauce and herbs such as dill or savory, or simply sprinkle lightly with toasted bread crumbs or Parmesan cheese. Try eating the asparagus tips raw but use a very fresh product, or use leftovers for cream of asparagus soup or add to your next pasta or tossed salad.

Asparagus has a delicate flavor and like most spring vegetables, are naturally tender and nutritious. They are truly an aristocratic vegetable that everyone can enjoy.

Classic salad soars with Oriental additions

AP — This Oriental rendition takes classic chicken salad to delicious new heights. It stars broiled chicken breasts, Oriental greens and a stellar soy-tahini dressing. Tahini (tuh-HEE-nee) is a thick paste made of ground sesame seed. Look for it in the foreign foods section of your grocery store or in Asian markets.

CHICKEN SALAD WITH TAHINI SAUCE

- 12 ounces boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
- 6 to 10 green onions
- 2 small carrots
- ¼ cup tahini (sesame paste)
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 3 tablespoons red-wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- ½ to 1 teaspoon chili oil or 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 to 2 tablespoons brewed tea, cooled, or water (optional)
- 4 to 6 cups shredded bok choy, romaine or Chinese cabbage
- 2 to 3 tablespoons peanuts

Place the chicken on the unheated rack of a broiler pan. Broil 4 to 5 inches from the heat for 12 to 15 minutes or until tender and no longer pink, turning once.

Cut chicken into thin, bite-size strips. Cut green onions and carrots into julienne strips. In a large mixing bowl combine the cooked chicken, green onions and carrots. Cover and chill until servingtime.

For dressing, stir together tahini, soy sauce, vinegar, salad oil, sugar, chili oil or red pepper, and garlic. If necessary, thin to drizzling consistency with brewed tea or water.

To serve, divide greens among four plates or place on a serving platter. Place chicken mixture atop greens. Top with dressing; sprinkle with peanuts. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

The time is ripe for rhubarb cooking

AP — Hurry — before spring ends — and pick some rhubarb from your backyard or the supermarket to fix a delicious dessert. Also known as pieplant because it is so popular in pie, rhubarb is too tart to eat unsweetened. But when cooked with sugar, rhubarb takes on a winning sweet-tart flavor that rhubarb lovers and newcomers alike welcome.

Cook this old-fashioned dessert in a new-fashioned way — in your microwave oven. Remember to remove and discard the rhubarb leaves, since only the stalks are edible. And be sure the filling is hot when you add the dumplings. If it has cooled too much by the time you've made the dumpling dough, pop the filling back into the microwave oven to heat again for a couple of minutes.

CARAMEL RHUBARB 'N' DUMPLINGS

- 1¼ cups water
- ¾ cup packed brown sugar
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 3 cups sliced rhubarb
- 1¼ cups all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup margarine or butter
- ½ cup milk

MICROWAVE

2 teaspoons granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon

In a 2-quart microwave-safe casserole, combine water, brown sugar, the first ¼ cup granulated sugar, cornstarch and the 3 tablespoons margarine or butter. Add the sliced rhubarb. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) for 7 to 9 minutes or until the mixture is thickened and bubbly, stirring after every minute. Cover to keep warm.

In a medium mixing bowl, combine flour, the remaining ¼ cup granulated sugar, baking powder and salt. In a custard cup, cook the remaining margarine about 45 seconds or until melted; add to dry ingredients along with milk. Mix just until blended.

Drop the batter by rounded tablespoons onto hot rhubarb mixture. Cover with waxed paper; cook for 5 to 6 minutes or until dumplings are done, giving the dish a half-turn once. (To see if the dumplings are done, scrape the wet surface with a toothpick. The dough should have a breadlike texture underneath.) Stir together the 2 teaspoons sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over dumplings. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

Summer provides chance for vegetable adventure

Eating the recommended five servings of fruits and vegetables each day should be a cinch these days as crops begin to come in and quality produce abounds. Things can get a bit boring, however, when we fail to step outside the realm of lettuce salads, apples, bananas and oranges.

This is the time to explore your produce section and sample those items not easily found every day of the year.

It's not unusual now to find three or more varieties of peppers, a half dozen types of squash and an astounding array of highly nutritious greens, tubers and tropical fruits like mangoes, papayas and guavas at the market. Ethnic markets expand options even more.

An unusual way to perk up salads is with arugula, a tender mustard flavored green that is standard in salads from Italy, southern France and Greece. It is sold in small bunches with roots attached and should be bright green with no sign of yellow or limpness. Arugula adds verve to lettuce salads and is particularly good when served with citrus fruits. Use it in pasta dishes and stir fries too, it's an excellent source of vitamins A and C and iron.

Chayote is pear-shaped with furrows running its length. It varies in color from alabaster to dark green, but it is usually a pale to apple green. The flesh is crisp with a taste and consistency comparable to cucumber and zucchini. Look for chayote that is firm and unblemished and use it like any summer squash. It blends well with seafood or ham for a casserole. It is a good source of potassium and fiber.

Plaintain, the cooking banana, is a staple starch food in Central and Latin America. It can be eaten in every stage of ripeness. When the peel is green to yellow, the flavor is bland and its uses are similar to that of a potato. When the peel is yellow-brown through black, plaintain plays the role of both fruit and vegetable, having sweetness but keeping a firm shap when cooked. Plaintain is rich in potassium and a good source of vitamin C and beta-carotene.

Kiwi fruit, the size and shape of a large egg, has a unique tart-sweet taste that contains an element of citrus, strawberry and melon. Beneath its fuzzy brown skin is a bright green fruit that is delicious — either unpeeled, cut in half and scooped out with a spoon, or peeled and sliced into canapes, added to fresh fruit salads and green salads, or combined with seafood, chicken or ham. Kiwis are a great source of potassium and vitamin C.

Kiwi Sorbet is a nutritious and cooling refresher after any meal, or just for a summer snack.

KIWI SORBET

- ½ cup sugar
- ½ cup water
- 1¼ cup peeled, sliced kiwi fruit (4 to 5 kiwis)

In a 1-quart saucepan, combine the sugar and water, and bring to a boil over high heat. Boil until the mixture is reduced to a half cup (about 5 minutes); remove from heat and let cool.

Whirl the kiwi fruit in a food processor or a blender until you have a cup of puree; mix with the sugar syrup and pour into a 9 inch square pan. Freeze until almost firm (about 1 hour), then break the fruit mixture into small pieces. With an electric mixer or food processor, mix just until the sorbet is soft and slushy (do not over process). Wrap air-tight and freeze until ready to serve. Makes four servings.

While these treats are great, there are plenty of other more common items in your produce section that haven't been tried. All of these are low in fat or have no fat and make super summer meals or side dishes.

Zucchini has become a favorite for many home gardeners. It's a good source of vitamin C and can be used in baking and served alone. Make sure the zucchini is firm-fleshed and glossy. It should have a small stem and no wrinkles at the ends. Best flavor will be found in zucchinis up to 7 inches in length and do not remove seeds as they are the most flavorful part of this squash.

Acorn, buttercup and butternut squash are also plentiful in the summer season and are great meal-makers. Squash with a tan, cream or orange skin should have no hint of green and once it is cut it should be wrapped tightly in plastic wrap and stored in the refrigerator.

Squash can easily be prepared in the microwave by splitting in half, scooping out the seeds and lightly sprinkling with brown sugar. Place plastic wrap over the top of the squash and microwave 5 to 8 minutes on high for 1 pound of squash. Let set for 5 minutes before eating.

Here are some more vegetable recipes from Laura's Fat Free Kitchen, based in Livonia.

RICE-STUFFED PEPPERS

- 1 cup rice
- 2 ⅔ cups vegetable broth
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 3 medium carrots, shredded
- 1 cup frozen peas
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1½ cups shredded fat free cheddar cheese
- 30 ounces low sodium stewed tomatoes
- 2 medium red peppers
- 2 medium green peppers
- 2 medium yellow peppers

Combine rice and broth in a medium saucepan. Heat to boiling, reduce heat and let simmer for 1 hour. Saute onion and carrots until soft in a non-stick skillet with ¼ cup water. Stir onion mixture, peas, parsley and cheese into rice. Puree tomatoes until smooth in a food processor. Pour stewed tomatoes into a shallow 2½-quart non-stick baking dish. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cut tops of peppers and remove seeds. Fill peppers with rice mixture. Stand peppers in tomato sauce. Bake 1 hour or until peppers are tender when pierced with a knife. Loosely cover peppers with foil to prevent over browning during last 30 minutes of cooking. Makes 6 peppers with 0 grams of fat.

MICROWAVE VEGETABLE MEDLEY

- ½ small bunch of broccoli
- ½ small head cauliflower
- 2 carrots, sliced
- 4 ounces Chinese pea pods
- ⅛ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 red pepper, cut into strips

Cut broccoli up into bite-size pieces. Discard tough ends of stems. Peel remaining stems and cut into half-inch thick pieces. Cut cauliflower into bite-size pieces. In a 2½-quart covered casserole, cook carrots and 2 tablespoons of water on high in the microwave. Add broccoli, cauliflower, pea pods and pepper. Cook covered for 4 minutes, stirring halfway through. Add red peppers; cook, covered, 4 to 8 minutes until tender crisp.

ST. MARY HOSPITAL

When you have a baby it should be a wonderfully close time for you and your family. That's why the Miracle of Life Maternity Center at St. Mary Hospital has you at the center of its visiting policy.

WHY A LOT OF BABIES SEEM LIKE DISTANT RELATIVES

Instead of asking you to conform to limited visiting times or placing barriers between family members, at St. Mary you decide who can visit and when.

All private rooms
We believe you know best when you want visitors and when you need time alone with your baby. That's why all the maternity rooms at St. Mary are private. So a family member can even stay overnight if that's what you want.

Real family care
Your baby can stay in your room even when family members are visiting. We accept your definition of family. Grandparents. Children. Aunts and uncles. Your best friend. If you call them family, so do we. It's that simple.

Our physicians even examine babies at your bedside so you and your family can watch and ask questions. So if you want real family-centered care, call St. Mary Hospital.

Call 313-591-2882 for a free brochure, personal tour, or a physician referral.

Who's Who In Michigan Cuisine™

GOOD FOOD CO.

natural food supermarket

Good Food Is In The Bag...

Naturally!

In today's world of health conscious consumers, it has become a top priority in healthy living to be aware and selective of natural ingredients when purchasing food, supplements, produce, and even cosmetics and beauty products.

The Good Food Company - West, Michigan's largest natural food supermarket, offers the finest quality and largest selection of all natural organic produce, grains, vegetarian foods, healthy snacks and beverages, baby foods, as well as juices and frozen foods.

Located on Ford Road in Canton in a brand new store, Good Food Company - West provides its shoppers with a spacious, modern motif that lends its shoppers a comfortable and relaxed atmosphere with more than ample room in its wide, well lit aisles to browse through a variety of departments, each of which contain an abundance of items that are clearly labeled with their natural ingredients to assure the consumer of exactly what they are buying.

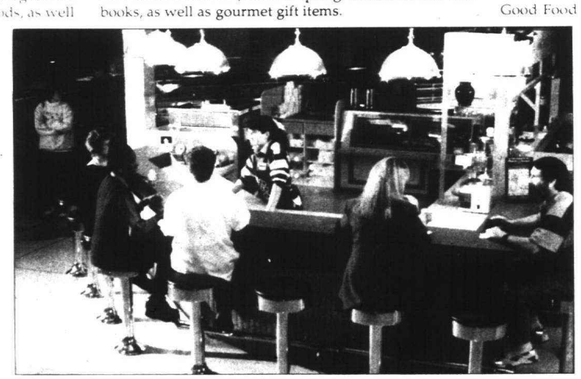
Customers curious about natural food products are encouraged to visit the Deli at Good Food Company - West. Here you can taste a large variety of foods that are prepared fresh daily - all, of course, using 100% natural ingredients.

"What we are trying to do", stated Sandra John, General Manager, "is show people that natural foods are not only good for you, but they taste great too!". Sandra added, "We have no artificial colors, preservatives, or sugar in any of our Deli items. We read the labels for you and offer a wide selection of healthy alternatives in all of the products we carry."

Good Food Company - West also is the type of store that chooses to educate its clientele on the differences between organically grown products and those products that are most commonly found in other stores. Sandra explains, "Organic produce, for example, has a higher content of minerals than commercial produce because most farmers deplete the soil of natural nutrients by overuse of petrochemical products. So when it comes to organically grown vs. commerically grown, the healthiest selection can only be organic." A variety of free booklets are also available to the shopper that further explains the vast differences.

You might expect all natural products to be more expensive than commerical products. "Not so!", says Mrs. John, "Our prices are very competitive, and as a matter of fact, we discount 75% of our prices across the board to offer an unbeatable combination of selection and value".

Good Food Company - West also has a lot more than organic food and produce. They offer a complete line of all natural cosmetics, natural spring waters, herbal teas, books, as well as gourmet gift items.



One of the most refreshing (and we mean that literally) points of interest in this brand new store is the Juice Bar. Here you can relax and enjoy a delicious, all natural Organic Carrot Juice, with or without other goodies like Apple, Cucumber, Wheatgrass, Lemon, Pineapple or other all natural ingredients. But our favorite is a blended frozen fruit drink called a Smoothie. A Smoothie resembles an ice cream drink, but without the ice cream. Only the finest all natural ingredients are used to make this great summer refresher. There are many varieties to choose from... Peachy Pina Colada, Cherry Banana Blossom, Blueberry Hill and Orange Fruit Grove are some of our favorites. Another very popular item at the Juice Bar is the Gise (pronounced Jih-zay). This fat free, cholesterol free, sugar free and lactose free dessert contains only 9 calories per ounce, but the frozen yogurt consistency would have you believe it to be sinful to any diet plan. It is delicious! So, from a refreshing dessert or snack to a complete and nutritious lunch featuring homemade, all natural entrees, the Juice Bar at Good Food Company - West is the place to go!

A full service restaurant is expected to open within the next month inside Good Food Company - West. Named appropriately the Good Day Cafe, this bright and airy eatery will feature everything from vegetarian entrees to free-range chicken, expertly prepared by chefs dedicated to providing you only the finest in all natural foods. Based on the preparations we have seen, the Good Day Cafe is sure to be a hit.

Good Food Company - West is, in a word, impressive. That statement is not limited solely to the beauty of the store and the fine products that they feature, but we were equally impressed by the people that work there and the philosophy each of them share. As you enter the store, that philosophy is proudly displayed upon a large wall. It reads, "Our philosophy at Good Food Company is dedicated to providing alternatives to traditional food stores and ways of thinking. We advocate no one particular way of eating or thinking, but rather present choices for individuals to choose for themselves." Spend just a few minutes talking to any of the people that work at Good Food Company and you will soon learn that these people truly care about you, your family, and what they eat. They are proud to represent a store that carries only products that are good for you and your family...products that can only be referred to as "Good Food."

For those customers interested in learning how to cook natural foods or learn more about natural products and their ingredients, classes are offered every Monday at 7:00 p.m. at Good Food Company - West. To learn more about these classes, or to request their newsletter, Sandra John invites you to call the store at 981-8100.

Good Food Company caters to their customers from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Staffed by over 50 knowledgable and very personable employees, Good Food Company - West invites you to stop in and get to know more about all natural foods and products. One thing is very clear, with every purchase at Michigan's largest natural food supermarket, you can be certain that Good Food Is In The Bag...

'Black Holes, Baby Universes' explore role of science in life

REVIEW

By George Ward
Special Writer

Those curious about life's ultimate meaning will find "Black Holes and Baby Universes" fascinating in two respects.

First, there's the matter of the author's personal health. For 30 years, Stephen Hawking, the Lucasian Professor of Mathematics (Isaac Newton's old chair) at Cambridge University, has suffered from what the Brits call motor neuron disease, and we Yanks know as Lou Gehrig's disease.

The effects are so serious that not only has he been wheelchair-bound since 1974, he hasn't been able to utter a word since 1985.

In 1985, a bout of pneumonia, suffered while Hawking was at a big particle accelerator in Geneva, required that he submit to a tracheostomy, costing him the use of his larnyx. Geneva doctors had recommended that Hawking not be treated and allowed to die. But his wife would have none of it. He was flown back to Cambridge for the operation which, though it took his voice, saved both his life and career.

And he cheerfully labors on. With the help of a speech synthesizer, he composes what he wants to say by selecting words from menus on a computer screen, then sends it to a device that converts it to speech.

His own self-view is especially relevant to us in Michigan as we struggle with the issue of doctor-assisted suicide. It wasn't until Hawking lost all the physical capabilities which the rest of us associate with quality of life that life for him had any real quality. "My attitude at the time (was) of complete boredom . . . that nothing was worth making an effort for," he said.

He was diagnosed in 1963 when he was 21. The change in him since has been profound. "When you are faced with the possibility of an early death," he says, "it makes you realize that life is worth living . . . that one need not lose hope."

Next, there are his achievements in theoretical physics. Hawking's early work, deriving singularity theorems from relativity theory, helped establish that the universe had a beginning in time at the Big Bang. If the implication in this, that science cannot predict how the universe began, "for that, one would have to appeal to God" (91), was comforting to some, the non-role for science was not acceptable to Hawking.

Now, 300 years after Galileo proclaimed that mathematics are the language of nature, Hawking searches with a sense of imminence for a complete equation, uniting relativity theory and the uncertainty principle of quantum mechanics, that can predict and explain everything in the universe, including how it began.

Hawking's description of the reasoning process involved will be unintelligible to all but a few. The seemingly self-evident principle of formal logic that a thing cannot both exist and not exist at the same time and place is rejected, "The whole point of quantum mechanics," says Hawking, "is that it has a different view of reality. In this view, an object has not just a single history, but all possible histories" (45).

To illustrate, he recalls "a famous thought experiment called Schrodinger's cat." A gun is pointing at a cat in a sealed box. There is a 50 percent probability that the gun will go off. Before the box is opened, says Hawking, 'the quantum state of the cat will be . . . half shot and half not-shot . . . ' A mixture of dead and alive.

To philosophers who scoff, asserting that this proves Hawking is not a realist, he retorts, "We do not know what reality is independent of a theory" (44). The idea that the universe "has every possible path, or history, in space-time" sent Hawking back to the drawing board to probe general relativity for new theorems. In this effort, he has posited the existence of another time-dimension "at right angles to real time," which he calls imaginary time. He has also assumed that histories of the universe existing along this axis consist of "curved spaces without singularities," which is the basis for his no-boundary proposal.

"If the universe is in the no-boundary state," Hawking foresees two consequences. First, "black holes," caused by the collapse of stars, from which, it was once thought, nothing could escape, would have to be conceptualized as conduits through which objects could pass into imaginary time and become baby universes. And, second, he would have his complete theory. "In principle," he says, "we could determine completely how the universe should behave up to the limits of the uncertainty principle."

Still, if this book is any indicator, Hawking's attempt to establish the no-boundary proposal is not going well. In some ways, it's reminiscent of Einstein's attempt to similarly avoid implications of the Universe's having a beginning in time by using a "cosmological term" in his equations.

As Hawking notes, "Einstein later called the cosmological term 'the greatest mistake of my life.' "

In chapter seven an essay written in 1980 entitled "Is the End in Sight for Theoretical Physics?" Hawking expressed optimism that the complete theory would be found soon. Much, he believed, would depend on the quest for a greater knowledge of elementary 'point' particles, which he then anticipated from solutions of the 'N8 extended supergravity' equation. His 1980 essay called it "the only candidate in sight."

In a footnote prepared last year, however, we are told that the supergravity theories have been swept aside by "a great wave of interest in what are called superstring theories. In these, the basic objects are not point particles but extended objects like little loops of string . . . " We are also told that "So far there has been little success in obtaining experimentally testable predictions from superstring theory."

Even if a complete equation were found, few of the great mysteries of human experience would be solved. The concept of God, for example, seems as inscrutable as ever.

This is reflected in several places.

■ Sweena Aulakh received the John E. Seidleman Scholarship. Aulakh is a Canton senior.

Recipients of WSDP scholarships were honored Tuesday, May 17, at the annual WSDP banquet.

Sweena Aulakh received the John E. Seidleman Scholarship. Aulakh is a Canton senior and will attend the University of Michigan. The scholarship, named after Canton High School counselor John Seidleman, is awarded based on commitment to WSDP and on academic achievement. Aulakh is a 4.0 student and is the program and music director at WSDP, the local student radio station.

"Sweena has been involved at the station for four years and will be missed greatly," said Bill Keith, station manager.

Kara Fiegenschuh received the WSDP Scholarship. Fiegenschuh is a Canton senior and will attend Macalester College in Minnesota. The WSDP Scholarship is awarded based on commitment to the station and an interest in pursuing a career in broadcasting.

Fiegenschuh is the producer/host of WSDP's movie review show "Silver Screening" as well as "Kara's Classical Show." "Kara is respected by her fellow students and has left a mark at the station," said Keith.

Directors selected

WSDP, 88.1 FM, announced the names of students to fill directorship positions for the 1994-95 school year at the annual WSDP banquet on Tuesday, May 17, at Plymouth Salem High School.

Students are: Steve Simpson, program director; Justin Carinci, music director; Will Kuchera, assistant music director; Carrie Maylone, news director; John Tims, sports director; Josh Dumas, production director; and Mike Piontek, promotions director.

Salem seniors Brian Stackpoole and Karyn Behnke were named runners-up for the scholarships. The WSDP Scholarship program was started in 1985 by Andy Melin, who was then station manager. WSDP is owned and operated by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and has been serving the community since Feb. 14, 1972.

Volunteers sought for cable TV work

Omnicom Cable requests volunteer assistance from the community to cover major community events including convocations, graduations, speakers, festivals, various ceremonies and parades.

Listed below are dates of events. Crew call times are usually one and a half to two hours prior to the listed start time.

■ Graduations on Sunday, June 12: 1:30 p.m., Plymouth Canton; 5 p.m., Plymouth Salem (in Ann Arbor). Graduations in Northville, Hamtramck and Belleville also need to be covered.

■ Belleville Strawberry Festival, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, June 18; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 19.

■ Canton Liberty Festival, 5-10 p.m. Friday, June 24; 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, June 25; noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, June 26.

■ Fourth of July parades, 10 a.m. Monday, July 4, Northville; 1 p.m. Monday, July 4, Plymouth.

■ Northville Folk and Bluegrass, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays, July 24 or 31 (to be confirmed).

In addition to these special programs, summer series will include: Plymouth Music in the Park, noon every Wednesday; Plymouth Community Band concerts, generally on Thursday evenings; Northville Clock concerts, generally on Friday evenings; Canton Park concerts, evenings to be confirmed.

chapter 14 that many people construe his belief that the physical laws may have controlled at the universe's beginning as "effectively dispensing with God," Hawking replies that his work "says nothing about whether or not God exists — just that He is not arbitrary."

In this, we hear an echo of what Hawking earlier said would be required of any complete theory that "models physical reality." It cannot be arbitrary, with "adjustable parameters that could be given any values one liked (51).

"In fact," said Hawking, "it seems that neither the initial conditions nor the values of the parameters in the theory (for the evolving universe) are arbitrary, but that they are somehow chosen or picked out very carefully" (52).

It seems that Hawking was first attracted to physics by a sense of a Cosmic Intelligence which he has since found to be beyond science. "Chemistry was much more fun because unexpected things, like explosion kept happening. But physics and astronomy offered the hope of understanding where we came from and why we were here."

Now he says, "Although science may solve the problem of how the universe began, it cannot answer the question: Why does the universe bother to exist? What is it that breathes fire into the equations and makes a universe for them to govern? I don't know the answer to that."

He concludes: "If you like, you can define God to be the answer to that question."

There is also a sense of the divine in his discussion about why a complete theory, even if it were discovered, could not predict human behavior. Says Hawking, "It is just too hard to solve the equations when there are more than a few particles involved . . . The human brain contains about . . . a hundred million billion billion particles. This is far too many for us ever to be able to solve the equations and predict how the brain would behave, given its initial state and the nerve data coming into it."

So, he asks, is everything determined? "The answer is yes, it is. But it might as well not be, because we can never know what is determined."

Why this book now? It doubtless has more to do with the commercial success of the author's two prior books than with any recent advance in physics or astronomy. Still, as a status report for the nonspecialist on where the Grand Quest of physics stands and where it is currently headed, Baby Universes is challenging and helpful, if not altogether convincing.

And on questions of ultimate meaning, Hawking does not exaggerate the importance of science.

MHS sponsors holiday card design contest

Artists are invited to enter the Michigan Humane Society 1994 Holiday Greeting Card Contest by submitting designs in one of three categories.

The categories are: Traditional, Humorous and Religious.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third-place winners in each category. The winning designs will be used on the MHS line of 1994 Holiday Greeting Cards.

Artists' names will appear on the cards and will be featured in the MHS holiday newsletter and catalog. Original artwork must incorporate an animal theme and be no smaller than 5 inches by 7 inches, or larger than 14 inches by 17 inches. No previously published work is allowed. Selected artwork will become the property of the Michigan Humane Society.

For a complete list of contest rules, call (810) 852-7420. Deadline for entries is July 1. Entries should be labeled "Holiday Greeting Card Contest" and may be mailed to the Michigan Humane Society at 7401 Chrysler Drive, Detroit 48211.

Exchange program seeks local host families

Colleen Christensen is bringing the world to the Wayne County area, one international teen-ager at a time.

Christensen is a volunteer area representative for ASSE International Student Exchange, a non-profit public benefit organization.

The primary goal of ASSE is to contribute to international understanding by enabling foreign students to learn about the United States through active participation in family, school and community life.

She will be interviewing families in the Wayne County area to host exceptional high school students from Scandinavia, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Great Britain, Holland, Spain, France, Japan, Portugal, Gzech and Slovak republics, Poland, Mexico, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Again this year, ASSE is including students from the republics of the former Soviet Union to its international roster. The students stay with volunteer host families for an academic year.

Call Christensen at 981-2446.

Registration draws a crowd

More than 700 people filled the Canton High School cafeteria last Wednesday for one of the local annual rites of spring: registration for summer community education programs.

Although official sign-up didn't begin until 7 p.m., parents began lining up outside the doors as early as 2:30 p.m. to sign up for swimming lessons and Safety Town, said Larry Masteller, director of Adult and Community Education for the Plymouth Canton schools.

"The programs are very popular. They geared toward parents and youth looking for something to do over the summer," said Masteller.

The large crowds this year were no different from other years. Due to the limited number of spaces in the classes, parents often line up early to ensure a place in line for their child. The lines may be long but "once it (registration) begins, it moves quickly. We went through 650-700 people in less than two hours," he said.

Paula Busboom of Canton heard horror stories about the long line and arrived just after 3 p.m., taking 40th place in line.

"I was surprised to see so many people in line already. I had heard that there would be a crowd, but I didn't expect this," she said.

Busboom was able to successfully sign her daughter up for swimming lessons. A newcomer to Canton, she expressed concern about others who may not have been aware of the sign-up procedure.

"If you are new to the community, you just have no idea. And if you go when you are told to go, you may end up disappointed," she said.

The registration program is frequently evaluated to provide the best service to residents, Masteller said.

This year, only swimming lessons and Safety Town were open to walk-in registrants. Registration for other offerings such as gymnastics, golf and ballet are through the mail. Masteller said he will consider the prospects of mail-in registration for all of the programs next year.

NATURE TRAILS

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Man is a very adaptable animal. Just think of how many products and materials we use today that were not available 200 years ago. We use plastic, new metal alloys, video tapes, computers, and on and on.

Though we have adapted our behaviors to use these new materials and products, we still don't know what to do with them! Nuclear waste is a good example, but take something many of us have access to and use commonly — fishing line.

Monofilament fishing line has made fishing easy and it has helped keep the cost of fishing down. In fact, fishing line, to some, is so inexpensive that when it is not needed it is discarded anywhere. Sometimes in large quantities.

It doesn't matter how the fishing line that ended up in a robins nest was discarded, it was not disposed of in a proper receptacle. If it had been disposed of properly, the robin building her nest would not have had access to it. To one robin, the fishing line looked like a suitable material for her nest.

She picked up the lengthy piece of fishing line and flew to her nest with it. Deftly she incorporated a portion of it into the grassy section, but probably because of its length, could not weave it all into the walls.

Some of the line formed loops above the cup of the nest. On her last flight to leave the nest, her head moved through one of the loops, and when she flew from the nest it tightened around her neck. Unable to release the pressure of the noose around her neck she hanged to death.

Many of our man-made products are very durable and long lasting. If not disposes of properly they can remain in the environment for decades. We all need to be responsible for picking up after ourselves and others. It's not crime to pick up fishing line, or anything you see that may be potentially dangerous to other people or wildlife and dispose of it properly.

Animals are adapting in some ways to man's environment. But man's environment is changing so fast that animals cannot keep up with it, and sometimes man cannot either.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks County Park in Oakland County. He lives in Livonia. You may leave him a message using a Touch-Tone phone at 953-2047, mailbox 1874.

Hazard: Fishing line discarded improperly ended up in this robin's nest. On her last flight to leave the nest, her head moved through one of the loops and she was hanged.

State tourism rolls along at peak level

■ 'During the first quarter, there was a healthy, seasonally-adjusted improvement in Mackinac Bridge crossings and occupancy rates at Michigan lodgings.'

David L. Littmann

Tourism in Michigan remained at strong levels during the first quarter of 1994, according to the Michigan Tourism Index compiled by Detroit-based Comerica Bank.

From January through March, the Michigan Tourism Index remained at 170.0, the peak level it reached at the close of 1993. Compared with the first quarter of 1993, the index was up 1.5 percent.

"During the first quarter, there was a healthy, seasonally-adjusted improvement in Mackinac Bridge crossings and occupancy rates at Michigan lodgings," said David L. Littmann, senior economist with Comerica Bank.

"However, these gains were offset by aggregate slippage in vehicular traffic at the tunnel and bridges and in air passenger traffic volume."

A decline in vehicular traffic may partly reflect the record overtime weekly hours that workers were accumulating at Michigan manufacturing jobs during the economically robust first quarter, Littmann said. Weakness in the Canadian dollar might also be contributing to lower cross-border traffic at this stage, he said.

Littmann said that lower airfares, less overtime for the balance of 1994, and the onset of casino gambling in Windsor ought to lead to a upward spurt in second quarter tourism.

The Michigan Tourism Index is a quarterly summary of four seasonally adjusted travel and lodging data series which serve as a non-inflationary proxy for statewide tourism activity. Base year is 1980.

Playoff formulas: A classroom tool

Newsflash: A new class will be offered to all high school seniors, beginning this fall. The subject of study: league playoff formats.

The class objective: deciphering said formats.

OK, the idea is mine alone. But it's a good one. Such a class would teach kids that, first and foremost, nothing is written in stone.

Everything can change, and it likely will.

If you believe this clas would be a cake of a course designed to boost athletes' grade-point averages, think again. Einstein would have been hard-put trying to explain the Western Lakes Activities Association's baseball playoff format (that is, if he could have understood it himself).

As I approached Plymouth Salem coach John Gravlin prior to the start of Wednesday's WLAA championship, he could only nod and say, "Well, three different newspapers had three different pairings for today's game."

Some — all right already, it was us — had Salem playing Canton. Others had the Rocks meeting Livonia Franklin. And some even had it right: Salem vs. Northville.

That's what happens when more than one team shares the same record. Coaches go looking for ways to break the ties amicably, with little loss of blood.

The harder they look, the more they search, the higher the confusion level.

Put it this way: Although Salem lost just one game in the WLAA all season, there was some dispute whether the Rocks should be in the championship game. Indeed, Westland John Glenn coach Norm Hoenes thought his team would be playing for the title after the Rockets ripped Salem.

Why? Because the two teams had the same Lakes Division record, and Hoenes thought the tiebreaker still in use was the second-game-winner-goes (when two teams finish with the same division record, the team that won the second meeting places higher).

But that was voted out at the last league coaches' meeting. It was replaced by the team-with-the-better-conference-record-goes formula. Glenn lost three times in the WLAA; Salem lost just once.

Got that? If you do, call me and explain it.

Better yet, I know, quite a few coaches who would appreciate an explanation. From everything I heard, all last weekend the Canton players were under the mistaken impression that they would be going against Salem for the WLAA title.

And none of the Northville players thought they would be there.

Now here's fair warning: If you thought the Salem-Glenn tiebreaking format was a bit difficult to comprehend, stop now.

Go back.

Read no further.

Because in the Western Division, it wasn't two teams tied for first — it was three. Northville, Canton, Franklin. They split in head-to-head competition, the first tiebreaker.

After that . . . well, suffice to say Canton and Franklin lost out to Northville because the Mustangs did better against the better teams in the league.

Or something like that.

Now, I could be hauling out my soapbox to scream for some sort of comprehensive policy governing all league playoffs. I could be demanding a formula that — well, asking for something any college graduate (not just those with master's degrees) could understand would be too much — the coaches, at the very least, can figure out.

After all, the WLAA softball coaches never knew their races were being determined by the same new tie-breaking formula adopted by the baseball teams. More than a few were upset with the various WLAA athletic directors who made those alterations without consulting any softball coaches.

But no soapbox. No table-thumping.

I told myself I'd look for something positive. Which is why I'm where I am — proposing a puzzle of a class for high school kids (I suggest it be limited to seniors only, by the way; maturity is necessary to handle such frustration, and besides, there's no reason to corrupt our youth).

Studying playoff formats would help students understand the complexities of the world, where rules are plentiful and understanding isn't. Figuring out the formats would only be part of the class, of course; making them understandable to others would be an advanced goal.

And any student who could do both of the above, and then make it acceptable to the majority of WLAA coaches, would certainly get an A.

As one last argument in favor of such a class, I offer this: Did you realize that in the WLAA, division results mean everything in baseball and softball and soccer and football, but nothing in basketball or swimming or golf?

And tennis is kind of a combination deal.

See what I mean? Rampant confusion — which, our kids should understand, is how the world operates. Like I said: Such subject matter provides a perfect teaching tool.

Canton clips Huron for title

The battle for Ann Arbor is over; Plymouth Canton is the winner, at least in the world of girls soccer, thanks to back-to-back district victories over Pioneer and Huron high schools.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Something had to give.

Plymouth Canton's style necessitates it. The Chiefs like to force things. When they do it well, do it right, something gives — usually the opposing defense.

In Friday's district final against Ann Arbor Huron at Ann Arbor Pioneer, Canton had a 1-0 lead in the second half and was in control. But protecting the lead? Hardly.

The Chiefs were pressuring. And something did indeed happen.

Defender Sara Nichols tried to clear the ball deep in Huron's end of the field. Robyn Vachow and Jenny Parviainen combined to block it. Parviainen got possession, broke in alone and beat River Rats' keeper Shannon Brooks to the far side. With 25:16 left, the Chiefs' advantage was doubled.

And victory was assured. With 8:34 to play, Parviainen passed to Amicie Crayton and she converted to give Canton a 3-0 victory, earning the Chiefs (16-2-2) their third-consecutive district crown and sixth in the last seven years.

It also lines up a re-match against a familiar rival: Livonia Churchill. The two Western Lakes Activities Association foes will meet in the first round of the regional, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at Walled Lake Central.

"They played well," said Canton coach Don Smith of his team's effort. "They went to the ball hard, they came to play. Everyone we put in played hard. You could hardly tell them apart, in fact . . . which is the way we like it."

Clearly, Huron was not as effective against Canton as it had been two nights earlier in upsetting Plymouth Salem in overtime. Four players had been injured against Salem and were out of action, which shortened the River Rats' bench. And against a team as deep as Canton, that's trouble.

The Chiefs' first goal came on a tremendous individual effort by Mandy Salin. Her centering pass from the right corner was cleared right back to her by a Huron defender, so Salin carried the ball in a few steps and shot. Brooks got a piece of it, but the ball got past her and into the net with 27:08 left in the first half.

Canton controlled play the entire first half and most of the second. The River Rats never had a serious scoring threat until late in the match — and by then, it was too late.

"I knew (Canton) worked really hard," said Huron coach Doug Landefeld, whose team finishes at 10-7-4. "That's not our forte. We don't always work as hard as we should. We seemed a step slow.

"We had young players in back trying to do the right thing, then they make a mistake. That's what happened with that second goal. It kind of took us out of it."

The play of Alyson Noune was also a factor of some importance. "Their No. 10 (Noune) in the midfield had a field day with us," said Landefeld. "She controlled the pace throughout the first half."

And now Canton will seek to control its fate, by beating Churchill.

Salem's Collins sisters lead league meet

GOLF

The Collins sisters, from Plymouth Salem, turned out to be a formidable duo, but they couldn't keep Northville from obtaining the girls golf championship of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

The Mustangs won the title with a 418 total Thursday at Brae Burn Golf Course in Plymouth. Livonia Stevenson placed second with 429, followed by Salem (437), Livonia Churchill (472), Walled Lake Central (492), Walled Lake Western (495), Plymouth Canton (524) and Livonia Franklin (525).

Kelly Collins, a junior at Salem, earned overall medalist honors with her 96. Her freshman sister, Katie, was second overall with a 101. Their performances earned both all-WLAA status.

The top five scorers at the conference meet were named all-WLAA. Joining the Collins' on the all-conference team, and tying Katie's score of 101, were Stevenson's Kelly Kristy and Northville's Linsey Casterline. The fifth selection was another Mustang: Monica Prasad, who shot 102.

Named all-division were Stevenson's Andrea Khouri (106), Mo Drabicki (107) and Kristin Bartholomew (115); Northville's Brittany Ahern (104), Heather Nix (111) and Katie Kernchan (115); Churchill's Becky Gajda (113); Western's Becky Vollmer (112); Salem's Katie Murinas (115); and Central's Kathryn

Canton collects WLAA crown; Salem takes 2nd

GIRLS TRACK

It was a re-run of the Class A regional girls track meet, but with a little more drama.

Once again Plymouth Canton brought home a title with neighbor Plymouth Salem right behind during Wednesday's Western Lakes Activities Association meet held at Livonia Churchill.

Canton unseated Salem as two-time defending WLAA champ with a team-high 129 points. Salem, runner-up behind Canton at the regional May 20 at Redford Union, 118-73, inched closer this time with 103 points. See statistical summary.

North Farmington and Livonia Stevenson finished third and fourth with 93 and 73 points, respectively.

Canton coach George Przygodski was elated with the results. It was Canton's first league title since 1991.

The Chiefs also met all four of their goals this season, winning the Western Division dual meet crown, the Mangan Trophy (in a dual vs. Salem), the regional and the WLAA.

"When somebody is down there was always somebody else to pick us up," Przygodski said. "We knew Salem would be coming after us and they didn't hold anything back because they're a fine, fine team."

Przygodski calls this 1994 team "the best in school history," and who could argue?

Canton racked up 22 points in the 300-meter hurdles, as Mary Anderson (46.98) and Nancy Hoffman (48.04) finished one-two. Shawn Champlin added a fifth (49.37).

The Chiefs scored 21 more in the 3,200 run as senior Lana Boroditsch out-dueled season-long nemesis Bridget MacKinnon of Stevenson for first place (11:30.48). Canton's Laura McWilliams (12:07.99) and Becky Wolfrom (12:13.19) were third and fourth.

Boroditsch also won the 1,600 run in 5:20.83 to MacKinnon's 5:21.93.

"Lana wanted to go out with a bang and she did," Przygodski said. "She's just a fierce competitor."

Canton's Ndu Okwumabua won the 100 in 12.63, but had to bow out with a pulled hamstring on the anchor leg of the 400 relay.

"It's a strain and hopefully she pulled up before sustaining anything more serious," Przygodski said of his sprint star, who could the rest before Saturday's state Class A finals in Midland.

Canton's other first was recorded in the 1,600 relay as Hoffman, Anderson, Becky Bockstanz and Tracey Cavin crossed the line in 4:09.13.

Cavin, meanwhile, was one of Canton's unsung heroes, going back-to-back races with a second in the 400 and a third in the 800.

"She did the impossible double and that epitomizes putting the team first," Przygodski said. "And one of our seniors, Becky Baigrie, came through with a surprise fourth in the discus."

Salem edged Canton to win two of four relay events.

High jump champion Melissa Hopson teamed up with Courtney Sheldon, Marcia Parker and Sarah Hamilton to capture the 800 relay (1:47.56). The Rocks also took the 3,200 relay, as Kristie Giddings, Lynda Sebestyen, Kelly Stankov and Meran Miles were clocked in 9:53.2.

"We did our best to make it a meet," said Salem coach Mark Gregor, whose team held a 15-point lead midway through the running events. "We went to the whip this time. Nobody out there had any regrets. We adjusted our lineup to be more competitive.

"Hopson and Stankov were outstanding, and Sarah Makins scored for us in four events."

North Farmington, third in the team standings, was led by junior Alisha Gordon, who swept the shot put (35 feet, 2 inches) and discus (116-4). Gordon also took a sixth in the 100 hurdles.

Another North standout was Heather Burcar, league champion in the 400 (58.8); second in the long jump (15-10); and third in the 200 (26.69).

The 200 produced the meet's only new record.

Farmington Hills Harrison freshman Devron Kennedy went 25.74, leaning in front of Northville's Alana Bradley (25.9) at the tape to break the

Shamrocks prove too much for Thurston

"It was a bad day for this late in May," Redford Thurston baseball coach Emil Majeski said Thursday after watching Redford Catholic Central mercy the Eagles 14-4 in six innings at CC.

Majeski was talking about the weather, which went from balmy earlier in the week to temperatures hovering in the 50s with wind gusts reaching 20 miles per hour.

But he might as well have been talking about the way the Eagles performed, committing five errors and walking eight CC batters. CC's senior right-hander Andy Kummer allowed two home runs over the fence but scattered only six hits with 10 strikeouts and two walks. He is 7-2 overall.

CC, 19-5 overall, is in the midst of a busy week. The Shamrocks, who played two games in the Madonna Tournament on Sunday, host Dearborn today in the Class A district and meet Dearborn Divine Child for the Catholic League championship at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday at Tiger Stadium. Senior left-hander Dave Susalla will pitch Wednesday's game.

"Kummer pitched well today and Susalla has pitched good all year," CC coach John Salter said. "If you've got two guys who are pretty good, you've got a chance. It also helps to have (second baseman) Mike Brusseau back (from a dislocated shoulder) and (third baseman) Greg Rogers starting to hit better and work his way into the lineup."

Lance had some control problems and also allowed a bloop single down the right field line and a high-hopper up the middle by Dave Susalla that went for a two-run single to give CC an 8-3 lead after four innings. CC added three runs in the fifth and three more in the sixth.

The Eagles, who play Livonia Franklin in a non-league game Tuesday at Livonia's Ford Field, fell to 17-5 overall.

"We just didn't make the defensive plays again and when you play a good ballclub and don't make the plays, you lose," Majeski said. "They're a quality ballclub."

Kummer had command most of the way but allowed a two-run home run in the second inning to Thurston catcher Joe Niestroy and a solo homer to Lance in the fifth. Dave Head and Niestroy had two hits each to lead Thurston.

Lance struck out and flied out to right field in his first two at-bats and CC coach John Salter knew Lance would be a tough out his third trip to the plate. Lance's homer sailed way over the fence in left-center at CC's new field.

"We got him out the first two times and I told my assistant coach (Bill Lis), 'He's going to hit it hard this time,' " Salter said. "That's the hardest ball I've seen hit this year. It went into the woods behind the fence about 400 feet away."

The Shamrocks were led by sophomore shortstop Chris Misiak, who was 3-for-4 with a triple and three RBI. Rogers went 3-3 with a run scored and two RBI and catcher Juan Sanchez had a double and scored twice.

Falcons frustrate Canton; errors ruin Rocks

■ BASEBALL

An unearned run in the first inning was all Farmington's Wes Cornwell needed.

The sophomore handcuffed Plymouth Canton on six hits and two walks, outdueling Scott Valimont in the Falcons' 1-0 victory in a Western Lakes Activities Association baseball crossover Wednesday at Farmington.

Cornwell, now 1-1, struck out one and frustrated the Chiefs throughout. Valimont certainly deserved better: He fired a two-hitter (both by Brian Murray), walking two and striking out four.

With two out in the Farmington first, Dan McLaughlin reached base on an error. Valimont balked him to second and, after a walk to Chuck Archambeau, Murray — a freshman — singled to score the game's only run.

Joe Niemenski had two hits, including a double, to lead the Chiefs, who slipped to 14-10.

■ SOUTHGATE 9, SALEM 2: Sloppy play doomed Plymouth Salem Thursday at Southgate Anderson.

The Rocks managed just one hit, by Brad Lear, in falling to 20-8. Southgate is 22-7.

Nirav Kher was the losing pitcher, but seven of the runs scored against him were unearned.

■ LUTH. WESTLAND 18, PCA 0: Plymouth Christian Academy lasted just five innings against Lutheran Westland's onslaught Thursday at Westland.

The winless Eagles (0-15) managed just one hit and committed six errors. John Reardon did not walk a batter and struck out five in earning the win for Lutheran Westland.

Rich Kidd led the Warriors' 15-hit attack with two triples and a double, with one run batted in. Jeff Morris had two hits, one a triple, and two RBI, and Mat Baltz added two hits and an RBI.

Lutheran Westland improved to 11-8.

■ SOFTBALL

Nothing went well for Plymouth Canton's Western Lakes Activities Association playoff softball game Wednesday.

Poor fielding. Poor pitching. Poor hitting.

Which all added up to a 10-2 loss to Westland John Glenn at Canton, in a game matching the WLAA's second-place finishers in divisional play.

The Chiefs' Jamie Sikora and Jackie Nicastri, who have pitched well most of the season, were ineffective against the Rockets. They combined to surrender 11 hits and four walks, striking out a total of six.

Their fielders didn't help. Canton committed four errors.

And at the plate, the Chiefs managed just five hits. Amy Price was responsible for three of those.

A five-run third inning, sparked by Katy Duncan's two-run double, pushed Glenn's advantage to 6-0. The Rockets had a 9-0 lead heading into the bottom of the fifth, when Canton scored both its runs. Kelly Klene led their attack with three hits, two of them doubles, and three runs batted in.

Lynn Little walked four and struck out two for Glenn, which improved to 23-10 overall and finished 12-5 in the WLAA. Canton is 16-15.

■ LUTH. WESTLAND 7, PCA 6: The Warriors got a triple from Erin Cicero leading off their seventh inning, and a wild pitch scored her with the game-winning run Thursday at Lutheran Westland.

The victory gave the Warriors a school-record 17-6 mark. Plymouth Christian Academy is 8-4.

Amy Gentz started and was the winner for Westland; she allowed just three hits and five walks, striking out four. Christina Tilley started and went six innings for PCA.

The Eagles had a 6-4 lead after three innings, but Lutheran Westland got single runs in the fourth and fifth to knot it. Cicero led the Warriors with three extra-base hits: two triples and a double. Gentz had two bunt singles.

Carlisle (115).

The 1-2 finish caps a solid season for the Collins sisters. They were the Rocks' top two scorers in every dual this season. At the Class A regional meet last week at Oak Pointe, Katie shot a 97 to finish 12th — best among all Observerland golfers.

The following are the team-by-team results from the WLAA championships:

1. Northville, 418 (Linsey Casterline, 101; Monica Prasad, 102; Brittany Ahern, 104; Heather Nix, 111).

2. Livonia Stevenson, 429 (Kelly Kristy, 101; Andrea Khouri, 106; Mo Drabicki, 107; Kristin Bartholomew, 115).

3. Plymouth Salem, 437 (Kelly Collins, 96; Katie Collins, 101; Katie Murinas, 115; Jenny Massey, 125).

4. Livonia Churchill, 472 (Becky Gajda, 113; Erin Murfey, 116; Christine Maher, 119; Jenny McLaughlin, 124).

5. Walled Lake Central, 492 (Kathryn Carlisle, 115; Kristie Bonner, 121; Allison Moore, 125; Jennie Hochthanner, 131).

6. Walled Lake Western, 495 (Becky Vollmer, 112; Tami McDonald, 118; Carolyn Hurst, 132; Alycia Mathews, 133).

7. Plymouth Canton, 524 (Anne Alioto, 121; Jen Wilson, 133; Allyson Meisner, 134; Kim Stafford, 136).

8. Livonia Franklin, 528 (Linsey Roberts, 125; Amy Lemont, 129; Kristen Koleczko, 131; Sarah Belcher, 140).

mark of 25.9 held since 1984 by Cindy Panowicz (also of Northville).

"Devron still has a lot to learn, but she's very talented," Harrison coach Mark Babcock said. "She's been very consistent all year and she's substantially improved over the last 1½ weeks as the weather has warmed up."

Kennedy was almost bashful about her record-setting performance.

"I was very surprised," she said. "I thought it was a tie."

Other WLAA individual champions included Livonia Stevenson's Jill Eupizi, who clicked off a 15:48 to win the 100 hurdles; and Walled Lake Western's Stacy Duff, who went 2:26.87 to win the 800.

Bradley, a senior at Northville, also won the long jump (17-2) and anchored the Mustangs' first-place 400 relay.

HOW TO USE THE BATHROOM.
You're probably saying to yourself, any four-year-old knows how to use the bathroom. But you may not know that you use more water in the bathroom than anyplace else in your home. In fact, between the toilet, the shower and the sink you can use up to 55 gallons a day. Multiply that by the number of homes in the world, and that's a lot of natural resources going down the drain.
Now, we're not saying you should stop taking showers or brushing your teeth. We're just suggesting some simple bathroom training. For instance, when you're brushing your teeth, turn off the water. Do the same when you're shaving. And just because your shower sounds like an opera hall, don't feel the need to sing one. Shorter songs make for shorter showers. And for the biggest culprit of them all, the toilet, try putting a weighted jug in the tank. It will help save water every time you flush. Plus, don't forget to turn out the lights when you leave. You'll be helping to conserve electricity.
You could end up using 30 to 60% less water by using a low-flow shower head.
Save up to 15% more water by installing a weighted jug in your toilet tank.
And oh yeah, if you don't think you'll remember these things, take this newspaper with you the next time you go.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

■ ALL-ACADEMIC NETTER

Canton Township's Bob Bhatia (Redford Catholic Central), a sophomore at Wayne State University, was recently named to the All-Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference All-Academic team for men's tennis.

Bhatia, a biology major, carried a 3.537 grade-point average during the past year.

■ WESTLAND WINS OPENER

Tom Wakefield pitched seven strong innings Wednesday, lifting Westland Federation to a season-opening 4-2 win over defending Livonia Collegiate Baseball League champion Hines Park Lincoln-Mercury in a game played at Ford Field.

Wakefield, a right-hander from Spring Arbor College, struck out seven, walked one and allowed just five hits. He was 10-3 this spring for Spring Arbor and led NAIA District 23 in earned run average.

Hines Park starter Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton), a freshman from Madonna University, suffered the loss.

James Gillespie (Albion) keyed a three-run second inning for Westland with a two-run single. Catcher Mark Messier (Central Michigan) added two hits.

Hines Park's Scott Niemiec (Plymouth Salem), a catcher from the University of Michigan, had two hits for Hines Park.

■ In other LCBL action, winning pitcher Mike Pesci went 3-for-4, including a two-run homer, with four RBI, leading Delwal to an 8-2 victory Wednesday over host Garden City.

Jeff Carron and Andy Duncan each added three hits for the winners. Mick Kalahar added two.

Garden City's Mark Rutherford was the losing pitcher.

■ In the second game Wednesday at Ford Field, Wendy's of Ann Arbor downed Little Caesars, 2-1 (eight innings).

Ben Hurst, who collected two hits, knocked in Todd Sweet with the game-winning single in the eighth. Brandon Herrin also had two hits for Wendy's.

Caesars right-hander Josh Vagi (Macomb Community College) went the distance in a losing cause. He struck out four and walked three.

Wendy's starter Shane McFadden (Hillsdale) allowed just two hits over seven innings.

■ PATRIOT COACH RESIGNS

Jim Karoub, Livonia Franklin's sixth varsity head football coach in 32 years, is stepping down after only one season.

Karoub said he wants to spend more time with his family and concentrate on his other responsibilities at Franklin.

He also serves as a counselor, head baseball coach and advisor to the student newspaper and yearbook staffs.

"It's time to step down and let the younger guys take over," said Karoub. "There were a few reasons, but I felt it was time to get out of football and devote more time to one sport."

"With all the different hats I wear it became more difficult. Come August and September I was going in 25 different directions."

Karoub replaced Armand Vigna prior to the 1993 season. Vigna retired as head coach after 17 seasons. Karoub was Vigna's long-time assistant.

Franklin finished 1-8 last season.

"We had a decent club last year and we lost couple of close games that we could have won," Karoub said. "Actually I thought about getting out when Armand left. When you're younger, coaching two sports is not as difficult. But after spending time with winter weightlifting and summer camp, along with my the other commitments, I felt I needed to put more time into baseball.

"And my daughter (Carla) is going away to college next year and I want to make some trips and visit her on the weekends."

Franklin athletic director Dan Freeman said the job has been posted by the Livonia Public Schools.

"My recommendation will be based on what's best for the athletes and students at Franklin High School," Freeman said. "Jim, being the perfectionist that he is, feels he can't give it (football) the 100 percent attention that he feels the job requires. Jim was not willing to cut corners.

"They're are all mammoth jobs he has at our schools, and he he told me he was spread too thin at that point."

Brad Emons

LINDA BACHRACK

Grads award 'A' to special gifts

Does your mind absolutely go blank when trying to come up with a useful, innovative idea for a graduation present? Graduates typically receive a bevy of boring knickknacks that end up in the deep reaches of a closet at home, not to be seen until spring cleaning.

My son, now a junior at Michigan State, received some much appreciated goodies (by the way, he was grateful for anything that warmed up a dull, drab dorm room). His favorites were electronic gadgets — a telephone answering machine and a self-programming universal remote control ($25 at Brookstone in the Somerset Collection, Troy).

Allison Carlson, a senior at Henry Ford II High School in Sterling Heights, puts toasters and can openers last on her graduation gift wish list. She wants Rollerblades to get her across campus at Western Michigan next fall.

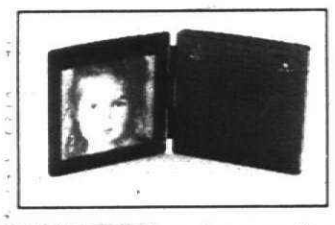
Though not quite as coveted as fat checks and Caribbean cruises, the following ideas received high marks from the graduates I consulted. Hudson's has unique ideas for every kid on your list. The brand new recordable picture frame ($18.95) allows the sweetheart back home to send her photo and a romantic message to her honey at school. What a fun way to say, "I love you."



Your favorite coed can carry an ice cold drink to all of his or her classes in a tri-color 16-ounce Cool Mug ($6.99). Just freeze overnight and enjoy an icy thirst quencher throughout the day and during long study halls.

Don't be late

Does Jane need a wake-up call in the morning or a reminder to study in the afternoon? The Swatch Musicall is the first Swatch to feature an integrated alarm function. Hardly an annoying beep, this captivating watch plays a 12-second melody by French musician Jean Michel Jarre. Choose Fandango, Tambour or Tone In Blue ($50). Speaking of time, although alarm clocks were cited as boring gifts, the sleek Keith Haring travel clock is far from ordinary. Haring's pop art designs are hot, and his bright hues will enliven any coed's desk ($40). An array of Keith Haring posters and other art-related gifts can be found at The Print Gallery, 29203 Northwestern Highway, Southfield.

The computer mouse in the dorm room can now reside in a "cool pad." Gallery MousePads turn an ordinary computer accessory into a mouseterpiece with such famous paintings as the Mona Lisa and Symmetry of Man. This creative gift idea really injects the work station with a little personality ($18.95).

Also from The Print Gallery, an avant-garde constructivist-look Russian mobile ($28), vintage Detroit baseball posters, the Peter Max World Cup poster ($35) and, to relieve stress and promote creativity, Claymation Clay, the stuff that made the California Raisins ($5.50 includes instructions, $12 for sculpting tools).

Right on

Stephen Pardonnet, an Oakland Community College student from Troy, recommends the following great gadgets from Brookstone in the Somerset Collection: A compact box fan ($24.99) cools a steamy dorm room, a unique water pillow ($45) allows you to adjust for firmness, compact disc portfolios ($20-$30) cleverly encase your favorite tunes. The Light Writer is a pen with a lighted tip that allows you to take notes in a darkened lecture hall ($20).

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column ideas at (313) 953-2047, mailbox 1889, or fax them to her at (810) 644-1314.

New resale shop gives retail tips

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Teens in the fashion class at the Livonia Career Center have discovered the glamourous world of retail merchandising isn't all dashing and dapper.

Working with Nicole Hill, owner of Nicole's Revival, a new resale shop on Newburgh, north of Cherry Hill in Westland, the girls have seen that hard work, long hours and lots of personal initiative are the only ways to succeed in a fashion career.

"Our teacher, Connie Restivo, set up a work-study connection for us at Nicole's Revival after reading about Nicole's unique approach to resale in a news artiele," said Danielle Sant, a junior at Livonia Franklin High School and a fashion class student. "A few of the students from the class come here once a week to study how the store operates, and Nicole lets us design her big front window displays."

Rachelle Gucwa, a Livonia Churchill High School junior, explained further:

"Nicole has a lot of ideas and then so do we. We sketch them out and then discuss where to get the props and materials for our displays. We're working on a summer golf display now. We'll use golf clubs, sand, grass and some of the clothing from the shop."

The teens said they enjoy the experience.

Trial and error

"We get to see just how the principles we learned about in the display chapter really work," said Kim Morris, a Churchill High junior. "Good window displays need to be interesting, colorful, eye-catching and creative."

Hill said the teens are "great" to work with — "they arrive on time, get down to business and have a lot of nice ideas."

Fashion class teacher Connie Restivo said Hill was an entrepreneurial role model for her students because she's young, she's learning by doing, she has positive plans for the future and she has a "solid retail philosophy about customer care, store cleanliness and value."

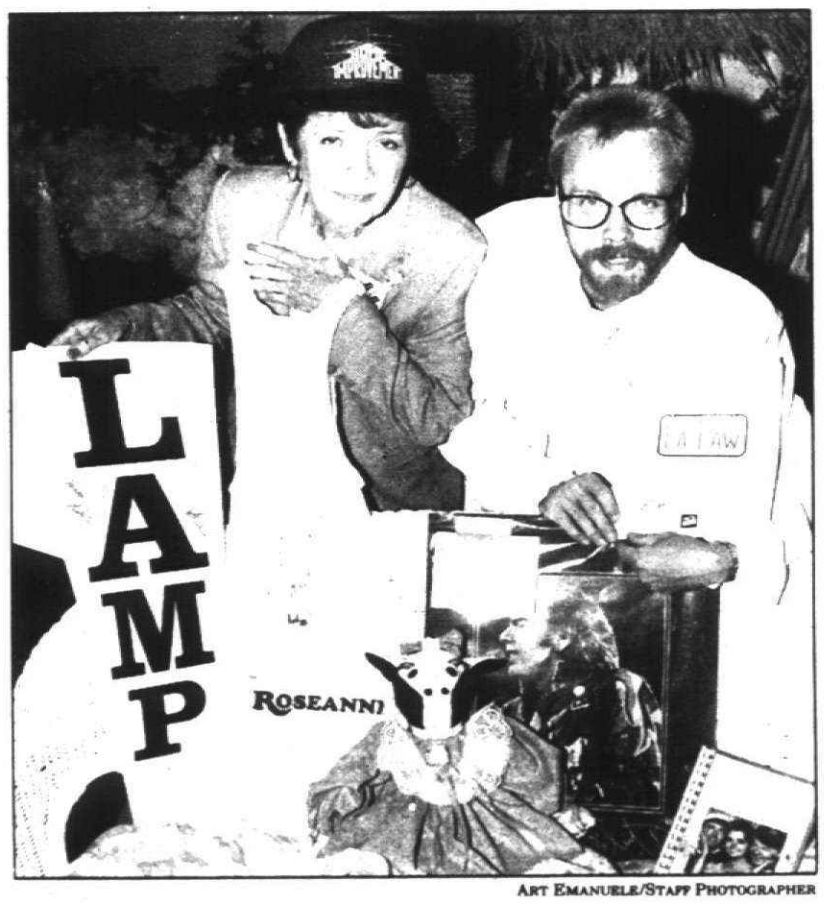
Mall staff prepares for celebrity auction



ART EMANUELE/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Bounty for bidding: Janis Morrow (left) and Kenn Sanford, Livonia Mall auction committee members, pose with some celebrity items to be sold to benefit the MDA.

Where can you go to get a "Gilligan's Island" cookbook autographed by Dawn Wells? Or a script from an episode of "LA Law" signed by the whole cast?

Regulars to the annual Livonia Mall Celebrity Auction to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association know where to go. The darndest items pop up year after year — last year producing over $28,000 for MDA.

"This year, we're pushing for more items sent in and autographed by local celebrities," said Bill Checks, mall marketing director and chief auction organizer.

"We've got over 460 celeb items so far from entertainers and sports stars, but we need merchandise and services from local businesses and stores. We'll take anything — dinners for two, $25-off dry cleaning, free movie rentals. 100-percent of the profit from the auction goes to MDA. We hold nothing back for expenses."

Some of the items this year include a shirt from Billy Idol, Geena Davis' autographed Academy Award ceremony pass, a baseball cap from the "Home Improvement" sitcom, an autographed color photo of Neil Diamond, a "Rosanne" script signed by Roseanne Arnold, a prize section from "Wheel of Fortune" signed by Vanna White and Pat Sajak, and a tee shirt signed by Rudolf Martin from "All My Children." There are also lots of autographed baseballs, bats and hockey sticks.

Checks said the auction is set for 10 a.m. through midnight Saturday, Aug. 20, with celebrity auctioneers dividing Master of Ceremonies duty according to merchandise category. This is the fifth year the mall has hosted an auction for MDA.

A week before the auction, all merchandise for sale is displayed behind glass throughout the mall. On the day of the auction, clowns, entertainment and refreshments are available to add a carnival atmosphere enjoyable to the whole family. Local singers, dancers, musicians and magicians are invited to contact Checks and volunteer their talents at the event.

If you can help through a donation of time or merchandise, please contact Checks at (810) 476-1166. The Livonia Mall is on Middlebelt at Seven Mile.

Retail businesses in suburban malls and on suburban Main Streets are invited to submit announcements of upcoming special events and promotions for Added Attractions. The deadline to submit news is the Wednesday before publication on Monday. Send announcements to Malls & Mainstreets, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150 or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

The fashion class has been offered to high school students as part of the Livonia Public Schools' vocational program for the past three years. It runs 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily for the entire school year.

Next year, due to demand, two sessions are scheduled. Some of the topics covered in the class include: the history of fashion, principles of business, basic math, selling techniques and problem solving.

"I signed up for the class because I want to have a career in fashion," Gucwa explained. "I've had my eyes opened. I learned that in the retail world, you have to work with others as a team, be able to take control of a situation, and be dedicated enough to work lots of hours."

The teens listened intently as Hill explained how she managed to turn an old auto transmission shop into an upscale resale store able to drop merchandise names like Bob Mackie gowns, Liz Claiborne sportswear, and Osh Kosh, by Gosh!:

■ 'We get to see just how the principles we learned about in the display chapter really work. Good window displays need to be interesting, colorful, eye-catching and creative.'

Kim Morris
Churchill High junior

"Lots of white paint, new carpeting and the display ideas I picked up on my recent honeymoon in England and France went into this shop. I've always been a tight wad, stretching my dollars as far as they would go by buying things from garage sales and resale shops.

"Take these clothing display racks for example. They're about $200 new. I got them for $60 from the Crowley's store at Westborn that closed last year. I look for opportunities, and I take them."

Hill told the students about buying merchandise on consignment and not insulting shoppers with resale clothing that is stained, missing buttons or not cleaned. "That's gotta be the worst," she said. "And many shops are like that. They smell, for heaven's sake! First rules of the resale business are: clean store, brightly lit store, friendly store."

Nicole's Revival's long-range business plan is to open three additional resale shops on the east, north and south sides of metro Detroit, with steady customers listed in a Request Register used to call special customers when their design colors and preferences show up.

"Study what other stores do right," she advised the students. "Don't be afraid to copy their displays and their sales techniques. I saw some wonderful display ideas at Jacobson's in downtown Birmingham. I can't wait to try them out."

Hill plans to continue her work with future fashion class students, maybe producing some resale fashion shows next year.

The shop is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. She welcomes inquiries at (313) 729-1234.

■ PREEMIE CLOTHES

Early Arrivals, a new line of premature, low-birthweight infant clothing created by Cindi Leslie of Rochester Hills, is now available. The garments are made of cotton-blend fabrics with front snap closures.

Five styles include a sleeper, one and two-piece outfits, rompers for boys and dresses for girls. The clothing is sized to fit the 4-6-pound infant and prices start at $8.50. All ensembles have a coordinating warmer cap. Contact Leslie at (810) 375-1844 for more information.

■ NEW IN FARMINGTON

Three new businesses opened recently in downtown Farmington on Grand River.

Sandy McClelland of West Bloomfield sells children's wear — new and used — at Carousel Kids, (810) 473-0230.

Small World Daycare Center at Farmington Road and Grand River is operated by Jane Andrews of Detroit, (810) 477-1900.

■ SIGNING SUCCESS

The Farmington Book Center at Halsted and Grand River in Farmington, (owned by retired librarians Skip Rosenthal and Alice McCoy of Southfield), hosted a successful book signing for Farmington Hills mystery writer Shirely Schenkel recently.

Schenkel greeted about 40 fans interested in "In Blacker Moments," her first novel, and set in Michigan. McCoy served cookies and Friendship Tea to the delight of shoppers.

■ TAOS STORE OPENS

The Sipapu Co. opened a Santa Fe/Taos store at 298 S. Main St. in downtown Plymouth.

The store features items made in America from Santa Fe, Taos, Albuquerque and the seven pueblos in the surrounding area. This includes furniture, pottery, woven items, paintings and sculpture.

The company also welcomes inquiries from interior designers, (313) 455-8900.

Genuine Houserockin' Music V — various artists Blind Pig — various artists

Samplers serve labels and listeners equally. The label hopes to sell you on the quality of their talent pool, and in the process of doing so offers these jam-packed dillies every once in a while to keep you abreast of the latest goings-on around the office.

Alligator's an old hand at the sampler game. In addition to five "Genuine Houserockin' " sets, there is a double 20th anniversary collection, a live disc and four volumes of "Living Chicago Blues." Still, as much as it may resemble overkill, each collection from the most successful blues label in the country is a major treat.

The disc at hand offers the usual suspects: Koko Taylor, Elvin Bishop, Katie Webster, Little Charlie & The Nightcats, Lonnie Brooks and Kenny Neal. Among the label vets, though, are some pretty tasty treats, chief among which is the Charlie Musselwhite cut, "Hear Me Talkin' " from the "In My Time" disc — the tip of the iceberg of a set that's going to slay hard-core fans.

Give points to Tinsley Ellis, too, who, in spite of generally boring me to tears, comes up with some killer tracks here and there — and "Highwayman" ranks as one of his best.

Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown's instrumental, "Stop Time," qualifies as one of those worth-the-price-of-admission-alone pieces, too. It's another Alligator sampler. It smokes out of the gate. What's new?

Blind Pig is new at this sampler thing. They've only been in business for about 16 or 17 years, and this marks their second collection. Like the first of a couple years back, it's a monster. Debbie Davies and Joanna Connor offer diverse tastes of axe-wielding women who stand in no man's shadow. Jimmy Thackery, Roy Rogers and Chris Cain offer guitar work that stands in the shadow of no woman.

Harmonica virtuosity is tendered by Carey Bell and Big Walter, not to mention Norton Buffalo; Mitch Woods turns in the best tune he's ever recorded in the form of that "Solid Gold Cadillac." And there's a dab of the legendary, with the Johnny Shines and Snooky Pryor duo on "Cool Driver," and gospel from hard soul singer Otis Clay and the great Gospel Hummingbirds.

The wonderful Eddy Clearwater is here, as are Little Mike & the Tornadoes, Roosevelt Sykes, John Mooney, Deanna Bogart and Magic Slim. Hey, it's 19 cuts, well over an hour and less than 10 bucks. Can't beat it.

The Other Two & You — The Other Two

Fans of the band New Order will be pleased by the first release from The Other Two, "The Other Two & You," on Qwest Records. The Other Two are the two lesser known members of New Order, Gillian Gilbert and Stephen Morris (she plays keyboards, and he plays drums).

Gilbert and Morris have taken their experience in New Order and built upon it to create something both familiar and new. Some of their ideas are wonderfully experimental, while some do not seem fully developed.

Their excitement of setting out on a new musical adventure can be seen in the first half of the album. Beginning with "Tasty Fish" and "The Greatest Thing," The Other Two capture the pop sound which made New Order so popular — the only noticeable difference being Gillian's more ethereal, feminine vocals.

From there, they journey into undiscovered territory, getting further away from their dance-pop roots. As they progress into the second half of the record, the songs begin to sound like they had too much time in the studio to play with their computers.

Only a few of the songs surpass their previous work in New Order, but no journey is complete without a few wrong turns. "The Other Two & You" shows that Gilbert and Morris are capable of growing out of their dance-pop background to create something distinctly their own.

"X Marks the Spot" — various artists

South Africans changed the face of modern history through the actions of a simple mark on a piece of paper when all citizens were allowed to vote after decades of racial bias.

Equally, "X Marks the Spot" (Caroline, 1994) itself does not force change in the evolving country, but the 15-song compilation captures the emotions and the turmoil which was trapped in the nation.

The focus of the release is to raise funds for voter education and citizenship training for the

Moyet thrives on imagination

■ Alison Moyet leads a simple life and finds it quite strange to be in the limelight. But the limelight is what the English singer has gotten with her solo career and with the pop-synth duet, Yaz.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Pop chanteuse: Alison Moyet performs at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit Sunday, June 12.

■ STREET BEATS

It would seem that singer Alison Moyet would have a number of memorable experiences from her successful career as a soloist and with the pop-synth duet, Yaz.

She insists, however, that there aren't any shows that really stick out in her mind. Her most joyful moments have nothing to do with music. She gets the biggest kick out of watching soap operas at home in England.

"I have the ability to watch inordinate amounts of bad TV — just as long as it lasts an hour and a half," a jovial Moyet said.

Her three soap operas keep her busy Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. She's had to free up her schedule recently to embark on a tour in support of her latest album "Essex," produced by the Lightning Seeds' Ian Broudie. (Moyet comes to St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit on Sunday, June 12.) Missing her soaps is hard, but she feels uncomfortable with touring for other reasons.

"I live a very, very simple life; I find it quite strange when I'm in the limelight," Moyet said.

Consequently, her tours usually last 2-3 weeks to allow her time to rest her boisterous voice. Besides that, she feels long tours shortchange her and her fans.

"I don't really do massively extensive tours," she said. "The set I do is quite demanding. I have done a (long) tour but toward the end I don't find it enjoyable."

The grueling tours were with Yaz, the short-lived but tremendously popular duo she formed with with Depeche Mode founder Vince Clarke. Their first single "Only You" sold more than a million copies worldwide, while the two succeeding albums "Upstairs at Eric's" and "You & Me Both" expanded the group's following into both modern rock and dance scenes. In 1983, two years after the duo formed, Moyet and Clarke split.

"We were fed up," Moyet said. "Our relationship had broken down to such a degree that we were working on opposite shifts in the studio."

Moyet went on to pursue a solo career while Clarke started Erasure.

Although reports imply that she and Clarke still have a strained relationship, she sings two Yaz songs at her shows — "Situation" and "Only You." Also, her latest album "Essex" includes an acoustic version of "Ode to Boy," a song she wrote with Clarke more than 10 years ago.

"It's about Vince," said Moyet who was nominated for a Grammy in 1991. "I'd been playing in bands since I was 15 and he was the first person I'd met who wasn't all talk. He was a strange creature. It wasn't a sexual thing, but I was infatuated with him for about 10 minutes."

Vocally, Moyet has hung on to her trademark brassy, emotive manner since the breakup of Yaz. Lyrically, she feels she has matured.

"They were good lyrics in lots of ways. They just didn't have a great depth of meaning," said Moyet who began writing songs in her early teens.

She still abides by the same basic theories, however — one that she has in common with her soap operas.

"I write from imagination as opposed to real life."

Alison Moyet performs along with special guests The Mothers of Good Intention at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit, on Sunday, June 12. Doors open at 8 p.m. for the 18 and older show. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT or (810) 645-6666.

Eleven: Capturing punk rock's energy

STAFF WRITER

Long gone are the days when Eleven played to sparse crowds in pubs with little-known rock bands.

"Sometimes it's felt like we've ended up in a weird universe where there's no audience," lead singer Alain Johannes joked.

Although they're opening for Soundgarden on one of the summer's hottest bills, Eleven will be able to hold their own. Eight months after the rock band's self-titled album was released by Hollywood Records, they've scored a hit with the heavy-handed single "Reach Out."

Live, they'll be pretty stiff competition for Soundgarden and Tad as well. Since the band was formed in 1990, the band has strived to capture "the energy that punk rock brought to music," Johannes said.

"You could lose yourself in it," he said. "It's not too much violent, just aggressive. You could celebrate existence without harming anyone else.

"We're very passionate when we play. We're really into it."

Besides that, Eleven isn't another anonymous rock trio. It's the result of a longtime collaboration that began to develop when Johannes met drummer Jack Irons and formed Anthym, a band that included the late Red Hot Chili Pepper guitarist Hillel Slovak. Anthym segued into What Is This which included Johannes, Irons and current Chili Pepper bassist Flea. Irons then went on to play with the Chili Peppers during the "Uplift Mofo Party Plan" era, while Johannes met bassist Natasha Shneider and formed Walk the Moon.

In 1990, they reunited to form Eleven and a year later released "Awake in a Dream" on Morgan Creek records. The album was critically acclaimed, but was only a mild hit on the charts. Hitting clubs incessantly around the United States with the

'The Crow' continues Lee legacy

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

■ MOVIES

"The Crow" may be the best feature-length film to capture the mood and look of a comic book. Broadly drawn and emotionally simplistic, it nevertheless offers wildly stylish visuals, over-the-top action and a bold new hero in the late Brandon Lee.

The son of martial arts deity Bruce Lee plays Eric Draven, a guitar player who rises from the grave to avenge the death of his beloved wife Shelly. His crow companion seeks out the killers from the air and Draven follows, his face painted like a ghastly mime.

Bullets can't stop him. They heal right on the spot. The only chink in his armor is the crow, whose own demise could break Draven's powerful link to the other world.

Sound kind of stupid? Well, it is. Fortunately, Australian music video director Alex Proyas has an eye for fluid action. His constantly moving camera takes us with Draven as he runs across rooftops and cruises the rain-soaked city streets of the near future.

Although it is never directly stated, the urban nightmare of "The Crow" is obviously Detroit. Comic book artist James O'Barr, creator of "The Crow," lives and works here. With its abandoned warehouses and factories, flanked by Gothic mansions, this is no Los Angeles or even New York.

The action takes place on Devil's Night and its traditional torching of the inner city. The evil gang leader in "The Crow" says the fires are passe. "They even have Devil's Night greeting cards," he laments. This year, he wants the whole city destroyed; the sky to glow red with flames.

And in a way, you can't blame him. Visually, this has to be among the darkest movies ever made. All of the scenes take place at night, mostly on rain-soaked, trash-filled streets. Even indoors, characters exist in shadows.

The modern rock soundtrack fits perfectly the MTV pace of the film, from familiar cuts like The Cure's "Burn" to new works by Stone Temple Pilots, Nine Inch Nails and Jesus and Mary Chain. The gloomy, hard-edged sound makes the appearance of Jane Siberry on "It Can't Rain all the Time" all the more jarring.

The press has focused on Brandon Lee's fatal shooting by what was supposed to be a blank-filled gun during filming. Fortunately, Lee leaves behind a haunting movie that ensures him his own place among the immortal.

If you have a comment for John Monaghan, call him at 953-2047, mailbox 1866, on a Touch-Tone phone, or write to him care of Street Scene, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150.

"32 Short Films About Glenn Gould" (Canada — 1993). Stratford actor Colm Feore creates a believable Gould, the real-life concert pianist. The short vignettes by director Francois Girard present him as eccentric, inspired and thoroughly unpredictable.
"Four Weddings and a Funeral" (Britain — 1994). From Mike Newell, the director of "Enchanted April," an engaging story about a confirmed bachelor who runs across the same woman at the numerous weddings he attends. Hugh Grant and Andie MacDowell star.
"Even Cowgirls Get the Blues" (USA — 1994). Catch it quick, if at all, this much-discussed adaptation of Tom Robbins' modern western novel. Uma Thurman sets out on a journey to find a place in the world. Gus Van Sant, who directed "Drugstore Cowboy" and "My Own Private Idaho," may have a tougher time finding an audience.
"Little Buddha" (USA — 1994). Bernardo Bertolucci ("The Last Emporer") directed this story of an American family en route to an exotic world where the past and present meet. Keanu Reeves, Bridget Fonda and Chris Isaak star.

"Widow's Peak" (USA — 1994). Mia Farrow stars in this comedy/mystery set in 1920s Ireland about a gossiping group of well-to-do widows and one young, glamorous widow who comes to town and stirs up trouble.
"Kika" (Spain — 1993). Word isn't good on the latest from wildman director Pedro Almodovar ("Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown"). This one features an ever-optomistic makeup artist and her lover Ramon who is obsessed with the death of his mother. Victoria Abril and Peter Coyote star.
"Four Weddings and a Funeral." (See Main Art Theatre listing above.)

"The Adventures of Baron Munchausen" (USA — 1989), 9 p.m. May 30. A wild and unpredictable fantasy about a teller of tall tales and the various scrapes he gets out of. Directed by Monty Python alumnus Terry Gilliam and featuring a stellar cast in small parts, including Eric Idle, Robin Williams and Uma Thurman. Great fun.

likes of Pearl Jam and Soundgarden helped establish Eleven's name among rock fans. Eleven then jumped to Hollywood Records to release their latest album. Although promotion of the record was held up due to massive personnel changes at the label, the band didn't lose faith.

"It's all about timing and luck. It's not my first time," Johannes said during a stop on the way to meet Soundgarden in Vancouver.

Those experiences may sound inspiring enough, but Eleven's dark, unrelenting yet melodic sound only partially comes from those experiences, Johannes said. The ethnicity of he and Shneider, who performed on Soundgarden's latest album "Superunknown," attributed to it as well. They are both immigrated to the United States; Johannes from Mexico City and Shneider from Russia.

"It's just from the personalities of each person in the band," he said about Eleven's talent, "what we've been through. Natasha and I weren't born in the United States. It's given us a really weird slant on things.

■ 'It's not too much violent, just aggressive. You could celebrate existence without harming anyone else.'
Alain Johannes

"I remember looking at the United States and thinking it was the most amazing place and how I wanted to live there."

He fulfilled his dream in 1974 when he moved in with relatives in the United States at age 11 — specifically to become a musician. It may sound a little pretentious, but Johannes said he knew what he wanted to do.

"I wanted to make music here. I wanted to make music since I was 5. I knew where I wanted to go."

Eleven performs with Soundgarden and Tad at Pine Knob Music Theatre, I-75 and Sashabaw Road, Clarkston, at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 12. Tickets are $20 for lawn and pavilion seats. For more information, call (810) 377-8200 or (810) 645-6666.

Your hatred is hurting you more than your therapist

STREET SENSE

BARBARA SCHIFF

Dear Barbara,

My message is a long one, but I need to tell it. Until two years ago I never hated anyone, then this therapist I saw for 6½ years refused to continue my appointments. I began hating him then.

After seeing this therapist (let's call him Paul) for 4 years, I started working and attending classes at a health club close to my home. Of course, my therapist knew about this, just as he knew everything else about me. Two years later Paul began taking classes at the club I go to. By this time I thought I was in love with him.

At first, before he knew anyone else, he asked me to go to the same classes he attended, but I was uncomfortable in his classes. Sometimes, we did end up at the same class, and this was tolerable for as long as he didn't know many people, but when he began getting friendly with the other women at the club, often touching them and rubbing their backs, I felt like he was intentionally trying to hurt me. I was very jealous.

Finally, I told him he must stop going to this club. He replied, "I'll do as I please; no patient will tell me what to do." A few weeks later I was so enraged after watching his antics in yet another class, I called to cancel our appointment. I told him I was too angry to see him. That was when he told me my therapy with him was over.

I was his patient two times a week every week for more than 6 years, but he dropped me, on the phone, just like that. Although it has been 2 years since it ended, I remain angry.

I reported all of this to the Michigan Psychologists Ethics Board. They took no action. I do not know a way to get over this tormenting experience.

Betrayed

Dear Betrayed,

I am publishing your letter for two reasons. One is to give you the opportunity to express your strong feelings to other people, and the other is to inform readers of the difficulties that can occur in patient-therapist relationships.

I understand how frustrating it is to you to have reported your experience to the ethics board and to have no action taken. Since it is not possible to change the action of the ethics board, I offer the following advice, which could also be helpful to other readers.

As you describe him, your therapist did not seem to be sensitive to your feelings. If he is the kind of person that you describe, why did you think you were in love with him? He didn't change, he is the same person for whom you first felt love. If you can learn from this experience to be a more careful observer of other people, it would be of great benefit to you, and would allow you to give up your hatred for him, which is hurting you more than it is hurting him.

You are responsible to have a strong instinct of self-preservation, and what you are doing is not preserving, but destroying yourself.

My effort is not only to console you for having put your foot in a trap, or just to feel empathy for your plight, but also to prevent you from doing this again.

Barbara

more than 20 million South Africans. Endorsed through a letter in the inside cover from freedom-fighter and now President Nelson Mandela, the release is sponsored by a fund-raising organization called Voter Education South Africa-Canada (VESAC). The organization was able to recruit support from worldwide performers such as Peter Gabriel, Paul Simon, the Neville Bros., UB40, Canadian performer Siyakha, Uganda's Geoffrey Oryema and Johnny Clegg and Mzwakhe Mbuli from South Africa.

"X" begins with the title song from Canadian rapper Devon which sets the mood and the power of the freedom movement: " . . . A chance for a vote but still the people must be shown that apartheid will come to an end but we first gotta learn to roll with the pen." From there, the songs reflect a sense of independence and endurance which were written prior to mass world attention and the end of apartheid.

Best described as colorful and diverse, "X" embraces several different musical styles and unites the artists under an unrecognized flag of freedom. "X Marks the Spot" tries to expose the musical attempts which tried to change the naive system, including "Sathuma," a modern jazz piece performed by Ghorwane, a Mozambique native who pleads for the African community not to turn on itself; "Hard Labour," a cool acoustic guitar work from Oryema, who proclaims unequal employment issues; and "Sing Our Own Song" from British reggae band UB40 which captures the spirit and endurance of the freedom movement.

Musically absorbent Paul Simon, who gained popularity in the 1980s by recording and touring with South African artists, is represented with "Proof" from his "The Rhythm of the Saints" release and British rocker and political activist Peter Gabriel has two songs on the release ("Fourteen Black Paintings" and "Shaking the Tree"), but is missed by the modern music anti-apartheid anthem "Biko."

"X Marks the Spot" is not only a politically correct reaction to a barbaric political system, it exposes the plight of the people of the small African nation which only history can explain.

Waiting for the Meltdown — Zug Island Quartet

Ann Arbor-based and angry, Zug Island Quartet's virgin release, a four-song cassette, makes fly fishing next to Monroe's leaky Fermi II ever so appealing. Their "in-your-face" attitude, hard and unfiltered, captures the urban plight of ominous smokestacks piercing Detroit's Zug Island's soot-filled skyline.

They say their sound is "an industrial rock kind of thing." Heavy industry is more like it. Beth Dulko's bass is the clankety-clank of a slapping press gone awry. It's the thump machine that inhales John Westerman and his set of bleached, oil-soaked skins, while the screams and ear plug dispenser are vocalist Mike O'Dell's division. Finally, it's the torrid guitar-wielding Steve Toth that keeps everything a solid symbol that Dr. Seuss so vehemently warned us about in his classic book "The Lorax." Pollution!

It's airport loud! Just try to decipher the lyrics of their song "Gacy the Clown." The people hours needed to accomplish this task would be statistically impossible in one X generation.

Teen angst aside, there's definitely a crowd for them. So, if this blurb sounds like your cup of PCB, ooze down to Ann Arbor and catch ZUG ISLAND at a meltdown. If you miss them don't worry, like bubblegum stuck under a coney island table, they're sure to be around the area for quite some time.

Parents see what happens when music lessons are axed from the family budget.

Strange Things Happening — Sleepy LaBeef

As rockabilly legends go, Sleepy LaBeef ranks near the top of the short list. Dave Alvin of the Blasters produced an album of his a couple of years back that got a lot of ears re-tuned to the big man's rowdy country/blues/rockabilly hybrid, and the momentum has grown more sure footed, since. This is more fun than a barrel full of Brian Setzers!

Opening with "Sittin' on Top of the World," our hero assays a 14-song set that ends 52 minutes later with a spirited rendition of "Stagger Lee." Along the way, we're treated to Muddy Waters' "Young Fashioned Ways," Ernest Tubb's "Waltz Across Texas," Johnny Cash's "You're My Baby" and the Sister Rosetta Tharpe gospel classic title piece. If that doesn't define diversity, give me a better clue.

With a sound that falls in the Johnny Cash/Waylon Jennings/Jerry Lee Lewis mold, LaBeef may just be hitting his prime as he approaches his 60s.

Fans of upstart rockabilly bands may not think of LaBeef when the subject is high octane, but I'll bet you that the Forbidden Pigs keep this rocket fueled set on their tour bus playlist.

The Sleepy LaBeef tour bus parks outside the Majestic Theater, 4140 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Sunday, June 6.

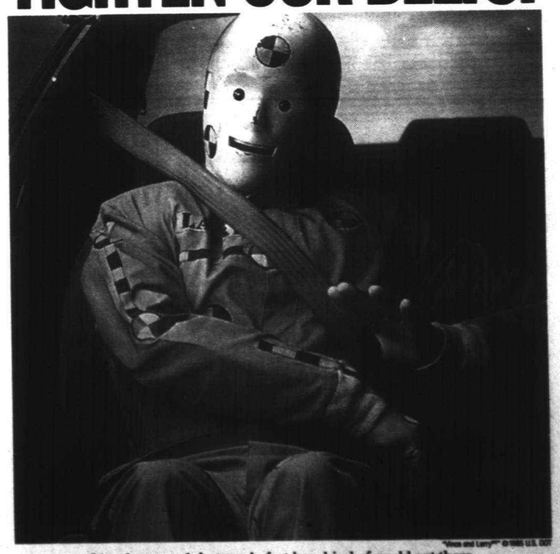
IN TIMES LIKE THESE, WE SHOULD ALL TIGHTEN OUR BELTS.



It's a fast-paced, fast-track, fast-lane kind of world out there. Which is why everyone should buckle their safety belts and buckle them firmly. Because you never know when you might need a little extra security.
YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY. BUCKLE YOUR SAFETY BELT.

Priest confident truth will clear him in lawsuit

BY SUSAN STEINMUELLER
STAFF WRITER

The Rev. Timothy Babcock talked openly Wednesday as he denied charges that he sexually abused an Ohio man 25 years ago.

"I don't have anything to hide," said the pastor of St. Andrew Catholic Church in Rochester, in an interview in his office in which he talked about the lawsuit filed May 19 by Donald Davies.

"To me the concern here is truth. I am confident that the legal process is trying to be fair and ultimately the truth will come out. I will say very directly I never abused Donald Davies or anyone else."

Babcock also wrote a letter to the 3,600 households in his congregation informing them of the charges and denying any wrongdoing. He found out about the lawsuit late last week.

"The fact that something is charged does not mean that it actually happened," he wrote.

"I am praying every day for the troubled person who has made this charge, and I ask you to do the same," he also wrote. "I also ask for your support and prayers for me, and for all of us involved in this matter."

The Wayne County Circuit Court civil lawsuit alleges that Babcock, and the Revs. Gary Berthiume, Leonard Foisy and Ronald Modras sexually assaulted Davies when he was between 14 and 18 years old. Some of the incidents occurred at St. John's Seminary in Plymouth Township, either on the grounds or in the rooms, and at other locations, according to Robert Greenstein, Davies' attorney in Canton.

At the time, Foisy was an administrator at the seminary. He now lives in Massachussetts.

Berthiume, now living in Illinois, Babcock and Modras, whose current residence Greenstein did not know, were in training for the priesthood at St. John's.

Greenstein said a family event last year triggered his client's memories of the assaults. He declined to discuss what that event was.

"His memories came back prior to his counseling. He never had hypnosis or anything of that nature," he said.

Greenstein said Davies, 39, is a specialty dentist who is married with two children.

"We're not talking about some young punk looking for trouble," he said.

He said Davies thought hard before filing the suit because of the nature of the allegations.

"This is terrible for him, but part of what we're hoping is that if there is publicity that others may come forward," he added.

Babcock said he remembers Davies well, and has been a friend of the family for many years.

Babcock said he was questioned by the Archdiocese of Detroit six months ago about one allegation by Davies.

The lawsuit "is very non-specific," he said. "It does not really state what any specific one (priest) is charged with."

"I can't say whether Donald Davies was abused," he said. "I can only say he was not abused by me.

"My hope, if I were asking anything of people, would be that they not judge either him or me. I would just ask people to withhold judgment and let the legal process bring a resolution."

Babcock said "complete shock" was his reaction when the Archdiocese first questioned him. He went through stages of anger, frustration and discouragement but he said is now ready to deal with the charges calmly.

Babcock said he is not angry at Davies, noting "he's a troubled person."

"I am angry at the charge and whoever helped him decide that these things happened."

He added he's grateful for the support his parishioners have shown him.

"I am touched by the credibility I have with my parishioners," he said. "Everyone has been very helpful."

That support and his own faith are helping him as he faces the charges, he said.

Babcock was ordained in 1968. He came to Rochester five years ago from St. Mary's Pariah in Royal Oak and last year celebrated 25 years as a priest.

No court date has yet been set in the case.

Vorva co-sponsors bill

Insurance companies will be required to include coverage for college students in their parents' health insurance policies under legislation passed by the House recently, said state Rep. Jerry Vorva, co-sponsor of the measure.

"The 264,000 students at public universities and 305,000 at community and private colleges represent a major portion of Michigan residents without health insurance," the Plymouth Republican said. "This bill would help ensure they have adequate health coverage at a time when they have major educational expenses and frequently limited income."

House Bill 4218, part of a three-bill package, allows a parent's policy to cover a full-time student who is unmarried and younger than 25 regardless of financial dependency. Many students are now ineligible for coverage because they are classified as independent for financial aid and tax purposes.

"Adequate insurance coverage reduces expensive emergency room visits by allowing students to get appropriate and timely care by a physician," Vorva said. "Preventive medicine is prudent and practical."

Workshops tell how to combat drug abuse, workplace violence

Madonna University has several seminars planned, ranging from courses on chemical dependency to addressing violence in the workplace.

By evaluating case illustrations of chemically dependent persons, students in "Chemical Dependency: Planning and Treatment" will learn to develop effective treatment plans.

The class will meet 6-10 p.m. Friday, June 10, and continue 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, June 11. The cost is $95 for 1.2 continuing education units or $157 for one academic credit.

Meeting 6-10 p.m. Friday, June 24, and continuing Saturday, June 25, "Substance Abuse and Disabled Populations" is an introduction to substance abuse issues and the relationship to the disabled population. The cost is $95.

"Chemical Dependency: Focus on Adolescence" provides an opportunity to learn about issues of adolescent chemical dependency.

The course meets 6:30-10 p.m. Wednesdays, June 29 through July 27. Cost is $95 for 1.5 continuing education units or $157 for one academic credit.

A series of classes designed to teach kindergarten through sixth-grade educators how to use concrete materials, modeling techniques and problem-solving strategies to enhance students' conceptual understanding of math is scheduled in June.

Madonna's "Summer Math '94" workshops will provide activities that are appropriate to various classrooms. Each workshop will be divided into two sessions and held simultaneously: one for kindergarten through second-grade educators and one for third- through sixth-grade educators.

The cost of each course is $30 and includes refreshments and an activity binder. Local school district Eisenhower funds may be used toward workshop fees. If taken for undergraduate or graduate credit, the cost will be $79 or $104, respectively.

Participants in "Math through Literature: Making the Connection" will become acquainted with the various connections between math and literature. Activities will be designed around selections from children's literature that lend themselves to a problem-solving approach to learning math. Classes will be held 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, June 21-23.

"Problem-Solving with Mathematical Models and Manipulatives" will be held 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday, June 27, through Friday, July 1.

Teachers of kindergarten through second grade will learn to promote the conceptual development of math relationships and use a problem-solving approach for understanding numeration, geometry, graphing, probability, patterns, place value and addition and subtraction.

Educators of grades three through six will learn a problem-solving approach that fosters comprehension of numeration, multiplication, division, fractions, decimals, patterns, geometry, probability and statistics.

Those who enroll in "Calculators in the Elementary Mathematics Classroom" will take part in various hands-on calculator activities. Educators will learn to use the calculator in the classroom to promote problem-solving and higher-level thinking among their students. The seminar will be held 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, July 6-8.

The class will be held 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and the cost is $95. For more information on any of these seminars, call the continuing education department at 591-5188.

Madonna University recently recognized four area students for writing talent in the third annual Student Writing Competition.

Westland resident Denise Dillworth took first place in the Creative Writing category for her poems "Growing Up Woman," "Aeneas" and "Grendel." Dillworth is studying English, speech and sign language at Madonna.

Farmington resident Laurie Palazzolo won second place with her poems "Goodbye, Uncle Tom," "Chipping Ice" and "Milestone." Palazzolo is a legal assistant major at Madonna.

Walled Lake resident Tracie Gardner won first place in the Expository/ Scholarly Essay category. Novi resident Ann Cleary won second place.

The only thing as pleasant as buying a Saturn is leasing one.

We hope you've heard how unstressful we try to make it for you when you visit a Saturn showroom. (Because who needs more stress, right?) Anyway, we take the same approach to leasing as we do to everything else. So if leasing a Saturn is better for you than buying one (and we can help you figure that out), then great. The only important thing is to find out how pleasant driving a Saturn can be.

$9,995. Because there's no such thing as disposable income.

The Saturn SL

No matter what income bracket they're in, it's hard to believe that anyone would consider any of their money disposable. Which may explain why we all want to buy things that are actually worth what they cost. Like the Saturn SL. It has the kind of technology you'd find on a more expensive car, like a steel spaceframe with crumple zones, flexible paint and panels that resist chipping, and even a stainless steel exhaust system. Because if there's one thing that's not disposable, it's money.

M.S.R.P. of the 1994 SL is $9995 including dealer preparation. Tax, license, transportation and options additional.

"We also have a fine selection of previously pampered Saturns!"

Buying a Used Car Can Be Risky.

Blackwell Ford can help minimize the risk you take when purchasing a used vehicle. Every used vehicle sold by Blackwell Ford undergoes extensive reconditioning and safety inspection before it is offered for sale. If the vehicle does not meet our high standards, it will never be displayed on our lot. In the unlikely event that something does go wrong with your vehicle during the first 30 days or 2,000 miles, whichever occurs first, we will stand behind it 100% and repair it free of charge. It's that simple. We offer new car peace of mind with your used vehicle purchase. Stop in today to see our large selection of quality used vehicles, all priced to sell. And please remember...

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)
Indecision is a weakness, and it will cause great instability in your life. You know what is best for all concerned; now get out there and do it.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)
Someone's unpredictable behavior is driving you crazy, and you do not know what to do. It may help if you try looking at the situation as an outsider.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)
Someone has taken advantage of you, and you may not be able to do anything about it. Try to redirect your energies into more positive outlets.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)
There is a good chance you have been given the wrong impression of a person and you need to take a second look. Do not depend so much on others.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)
A goal will be in reach, but you may have changed your mind about attaining it. There is an indication of travel, possibly related to business.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)
It is important that you choose your friends carefully. There could be a problem with unfaithfulness in a relationship.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)
You would like to be in charge of a situation, but it may not be possible at this time. Hard work is necessary to get what you really want in life.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)
There will be a need to rely on your own intellect and instincts. Your versatility will come in handy for you in the future.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)
A careless approach to an important situation could ruin everything. Check into new ventures carefully. There is no shame in changing your mind.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)
There could be some intrigue or deception going on in a personal relationship. Emotional problems will come to the forefront.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
You are not applying yourself in the right way and could be on the path to destruction. Stop looking for the easy way out and deal with your problems.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)
A pessimistic attitude could get you in big trouble. Put past mistakes behind you and get on with life. All is not lost; it is just beginning.

YOU COULD LEARN A LOT FROM A DUMMY. BUCKLE YOUR SAFETY BELT.

Horsing around with Conan the non- barbarian on NBC

BY JEFF PLASS

Why is is the host of "Late Night With Conan O'Brien," which airs weeknights on NBC, beginning to look more and more comfortable in front of the camera?

"I'm on this horse steroid," O'Brien says, "that just makes you feel really good about everything. I get about three shots right in the butt just before we go out.

"No, ah," O'Brien begins in his best "but seriously" tone, "well, everything just becomes kind of second nature.

"It's also just that the more I do it, the more I like to do it. Now it's the fun hour of my day. Sometimes the rest of the day can be kind of hard, but I love that hour. The hour is a lot of fun."

With Conan O'Brien, the operative word is always fun. If something isn't fun, then there's absolutely no reason in the world to do it.

That "fun hour" of the day O'Brien refers to can be broken down into any number of smaller "fun" segments that, depending on the day, reach varying levels on the O'Brien fun-o-meter.

Take the monologue, for instance: "It's fun to do it and I enjoy it," O'Brien states. "I like to do deadpan. And then, it's fun if something doesn't work, like if a joke gets nothing...that's fun too now, you know? I'll do push-ups or something and I'll enjoy that sometimes more than if the joke goes well."

And then there's "the desk piece, the piece I do when I get back to the desk, it's usually fun. Some nights it's a piece that I like more than others."

And then, of course, there is the reason talk shows were invented: guests.

"Some nights the fun thing will be the guest. Every night the highlight is a different moment. And that's a lot of fun. Do you know what I mean? I couldn't say, 'Well, it's always the comedy piece,' or "It's always the guest,' or 'It's always the monologue,' it just does seem to change. Different nights it's a different thing that I like the most."

Since graduating from Harvard University (where he was twice elected president of the Harvard Lampoon) in 1986, O'Brien found work as a writer on such programs as HBO's "Not Necessarily the News," Fox's "The Simpsons" and NBC's "Saturday Night Live," which garnered O'Brien an Emmy Award for outstanding writer in a variety series.

More importantly, O'Brien's stint with "SNL" familiarized the budding young star with the show's creator, NBC heavyweight Lorne Michaels.

A year ago, when Michaels and NBC President Warren Littlefield were looking for a replacement for David Letterman as host of "Late Night," O'Brien's name was the one that inevitably kept coming up, leading Michaels to comment:

"I couldn't be more pleased with the choice of Conan as host of our 'Late Night' show. He has the three things I was looking for: vitality, wit and intelligence."

Since that announcement, O'Brien and his show have courageously triumphed over jitters (the host's pronounced initial uncomfortableness in front of the camera) and critical jeers to win a solid spot on the network's late-night lineup.

And does O'Brien still see room for improvement?

"Always, always, always," O'Brien emphasizes. "I think the show is several times better now than when it premiered and I think it can keep getting better. I can always continue to grow.

"I mean, if I've grown this much in eight months, what will I be like in a year? What will I be like in a year and a half? I can always grow, we can always keep pushing it.

"I'm hoping that if I'm doing this in five years, that I'm making it better," he concludes. "Look at Dave. He did it for 11 years, and he got better and better and better. Then he went to CBS and he's better there than he was a year ago. I'm really comfortable in the interviews now, but can I get better? You bet!"

Maybe there's something to those horse steroids.

LET'S TALK

How Grasshopper's son got his start; Montalban murder mystery sleuthed

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I am a huge fan of "Kung Fu: The Legend Continues" and was wondering if you could tell me as much as possible about Chris Potter who plays Peter on the show.

Also, could you please provide me with an address where I can write to him and could you tell me where the show is taped? –J.K., Sydney, Nova Scotia.

A: Potter was born in Toronto and raised in London, Ont., Canada. His appearances in community theater productions drew the attention of one of Canada's leading actresses, Martha Henry, who cast him in her production of "Biloxi Blues" at the Grand Theatre in Toronto.

Potter later landed a role in the popular Canadian TV series "Material World." During his three-year tenure with the series his career took off, landing him guest-starring roles in such American television series as "Counterstrike," "The Hidden Room" and "Top Cops."

"Kung Fu: The Legend Continues" is filmed in Toronto. You can write to Potter C/O the show at Warner Bros. Domestic Television Dist., 4000 Warner Blvd., Burbank, Calif. 91522.

Q: My husband and I truly enjoy the series "Renegade." Could you please tell us what other movies Lorenzo Lamas has played in besides "Bounty Tracker"?

Also, who performs the title song for the show? It sounds like Waylon Jennings. –Deborah M. Fox, Union Lake, Mich.

A: Lamas' feature film credits include appearances in "Grease," "Take Down," "Body Rock," "Final Impact" and the three "SnakeEater" films.

Lamas starred in and co-produced "Night of the Warrior" and "Human Target."

The title song for "Renegade" was written and recorded by Mike Post Productions.

Q: I am a very big fan of the show "Big Brother Jake," and I really enjoy watching Gabrielle Carmouche, who plays Kateri on the show.

Can you please give me some information on her? Where is she from? How old is she? What shows or movies has she appeared in other than "Big Brother Jake"? Also, can you give me an address where I can write to her? –K.R., Vallejo, Calif.

A: Carmouche, of Woodbridge, Va., is 15 years old, and other than a guest appearance on "The Cosby Show," her role on "Big Brother Jake" has been her only acting experience.

Even though the show has been taken out of production, you could try writing to her C/O "Big Brother Jake" at The Family Channel, Public Relations Dept., 1000 Centerville Turnpike, Virginia Beach, Va. 23463.

Q: I have been infatuated with Christian Bale since I was 13 and saw him in "The Land of Faraway."

I am now 19 and still as entranced with him as I was then. Can you please give me an address where I can write to him? I would be eternally grateful! –J.L., Fallon, N.Y.

A: Try writing to Bale C/O Creative Artists Agency, Inc., 9830 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

•Robert S. Parkin of Lincoln Park, N.J., has come up with the title of a movie which escaped me in a recent column.

Frances C. Wallace of Oroville, Calif., was looking for the title of a 1950s murder mystery starring Ricardo Montalban. Mr. Parkin deduced that the title she was seeking was "Mystery Street," from 1950.

33 drivers vie for taste of Indy-flavored milk

BY SARA BENNETT

"It could be a radio-controlled car for all we know," says Paul Page, who serves as host of ABC's coverage of the 78th running of the Indianapolis 500.

Many viewers see Indy vehicles as just that – lightning fast minicars zooming around a loop. Page, who anchored ESPN's Indy 500 time trials coverage, wants to share his enthusiasm for auto racing with viewers by bringing them closer to the drivers.

Tops in this year's "neat" field of 33, according to Page, are defending champion Emerson Fittipaldi and his teammates, Paul Tracy and Al Unser Jr.

They are "all driving for (Roger) Penske, all with a brand new motor that they just unveiled, the Mercedes Benz motor, which is just going to develop awesome power," Page says. "Their Achilles' heel is that the engine has never raced in any race, and that an engine of this design (push rod) has only once in the past 25 years finished 500 miles at Indianapolis."

Another driver contending for the traditional taste of milk in the winner's circle is Nigel Mansell, last year's PPG Cup winner. And Mario Andretti, who announced this is his last year racing in the IndyCar series, might have some extra incentive to drink his milk.

SOAP WORLD

Alfonso returns to 'Days of Our Lives'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me if the actress who plays the role of Stefano's mysterious houseguest on "Days of Our Lives" is the same one who played Hope in the past? She looks different, and I thought maybe it was a different actress. –M. J. in New York.

Dear Reader: It is the same actress. Kristian Alfonso is the only one ever to play Hope. She has returned to the role after four years, and her character will most likely cause trouble for Billie (Lisa Rinna) and Bo (Robert Kelker-Kelly). There is a good chance that Billie will be paired with Mike Horton (Roark Critchlow).

Dear Candace: I recently saw an old episode of "The Rat Patrol." An actor named Hans portrays a German officer, but he looks just like Eric Braeden, who plays Victor Newman on "The Young and the Restless." Am I crazy or what? –Linda, Orangeburg, S.C.

Dear Reader: Braeden did star on "The Rat Patrol," but at the time he was using his real name, Hans Gudegast. After he starred in the film "Colossus: The Forbin Project," the brass at Universal Studios asked him to change his name. It was not an easy task for the proud German-born actor. "I needed something I could identify with, " says Braeden. "I took Braeden from the name of my village in Germany, and Eric was a family name."

Dear Candace: I watch "Days," and I would like to know what happened to Lark Voorhies, who played Wendy. I have nothing against the actress who plays the role now, but I am a fan of Voorhies and wonder what happened. –Brenda Newman, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Dear Reader: Voorhies told producers she wanted to pursue other interests, so she was replaced by Tammy Townsend.

Dear Candace: I would like to know what happened to Mackenzie Cory on "Another World." The character was Rachel Cory's husband. – L.W., N.H.

Dear Reader: Douglass Watson, who portrayed Mac, died suddenly of a heart attack in 1989. His character's death was subsequently written into the show.
