Voters head to polls Tuesday

Canton voters will go to the polls Tuesday for the primary election. Polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., and local voters will have nine races in which to vote.

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

Canton voters will have nine races facing them when they go to the polls in the primary election Tuesday.

But a large turnout is not expected. "You just never know," said clerk Loren Bennett. He expects a comparable turnout to the 1990 gubernatorial primary when 3,024 Canton voters — 1,263 absentee — cast ballots.

As of July 26 — one week before the primary — the clerk's office had sent out 3,487 absentee ballots and 1,751 were returned, said Connie Roesler, Canton deputy clerk.

"There is a moderate awareness of this election. But it doesn't permeate the evening news," Bennett said. Voters are reminded that in the primary they cannot split their ticket between Democratic and Republican candidates. If you do, your ballot will be void. But you do not have to be a registered member of either party to vote, Roesler said.

All registered voters in Canton should have received a new green voter registration card that lists their voting precinct and location. The new cards were necessary because of a new state Senate district and a new number on an existing district, Bennett said. Though 36,000 cards were mailed out, that doesn't mean there are that many registered voters. Many cards were returned because people have moved, Bennett said.

Polls will be open 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Absentee ballot voters are asked to turn in their ballots at the clerk's office as early as possible. They are due by 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Absentee ballots will be issued until 5 p.m. Monday, Aug. 1. "We will

Leaders undergo training

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI

The Canton Chamber of Commerce is still seeking applications for its first-ever leadership program.

"Leadership Canton" is a nine-month program sponsored by the chamber with the help of Cleary College. It is designed to cultivate new and existing community leaders, acquaint or reacquaint them with the community and its needs and get them involved in the community.

"This is for the community-minded residents, community-minded employees or community-minded companies," said Tom Adamusik, chamber president.

Applications may be obtained at the chamber of commerce, 5820 Canton Center Road, Suite 105, north of Ford Road. Applications are due by Aug. 14. A steering committee, which includes Adamusik, will select participants based on their applications.

Participants — there's room for 20-25 — must agree to attend all sessions September through May, including the beginning overnight retreat in mid-September. Tuition is $700. Sponsorships are still available. Businesses may contribute cash or pay for an employee or resident to participate, Adamusik said.

"This program will give you skills of leadership that you can use," Adamusik said. "It won't enhance anyone who doesn't want to be involved in the community. We would like people who are either involved in the community or anticipate being involved in the community."

The program is expected to cultivate participation and involvement in the Canton community. When township officials make appointments to boards and commissions, the program's graduates might be a good starting list, Adamusik said.

Throughout the program, participants will be divided into groups and asked to work on certain community projects, such as scouting or beautification, for example. "They don't know who the interested people are. As this program grows, we will be able to do more with the community and the residents," Adamusik said.

In the future, program graduates may sit on the steering committee. "This is going to be a constant rolling program," Adamusik said. "The Canton chamber is the leader in western Wayne County with a leadership program. Communities larger than ours don't have one."

The monthly sessions include the retreat where participants learn about each other and the program and learn about the nature of leadership. Other sessions include how growth in the township is managed, a working defi-

Making a home: Christine Rollins of Canton recently received certification from the National Wildlife Federation for transforming a portion of her property into a wildlife habitat. With plants and birdfeeders she transformed a portion of her yard into a refuge particularly for birds.

Anybody can do it. "All that is required is that you provide water, food, shelter and a place to raise their young," said Christine Rollins, a Canton resident and master gardener.

Rollins' property on Denton Road was recently certified as a Backyard Wildlife Habitat by the National Wildlife Federation. The federation encourages the creation of habitats in local communities to provide small refuges for wildlife. "Someone could even do this on the balcony of their apartment," said Rollins, a member of the Canton Beautification Committee.

The habitat on Rollins' property is right next to Fowler Creek that runs along one side of her yard. She began working on the habitat in earnest this year. It now boasts birdfeeders with five different types of food. "Different food attracts different birds," Rollins said.

The suet, for example, attracts woodpeckers. Thistle seed attracts finches and other smaller birds. A feeder with wildbird mix attracts a host of birds. But you have to be careful. "A lot of wildbird mix has a lot of filler so you have to watch what you're getting." Rollins also has a feeder for hummingbirds. "It takes hummingbirds quite awhile to come to it."

An honest-to-goodness habitat is more than birdfeeders. Fowler

Two women plead not guilty

Canton police are continuing their investigation following a raid on a tanning-massage parlor on Michigan Avenue July 26.

Two women, whom police identified as Korean, pleaded not guilty to prostitution charges at their arraignment before 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald July 27.

Kiyon Martin, 48, of Novi was charged with running a prostitution house and accepting proceeds from a prostitution house, both felonies. She was also charged with soliciting and solicited, which is a misdemeanor. Martin is free on a $20,000 bond/10 percent for each count.

Martin is the owner and operator of the Ocean Brite Tanning Salon in the 4300 block of Michigan Avenue, said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

Chae Sim O'Keefe, 43, of Chicago, Ill., was charged with one misdemeanor count of soliciting and solicited. She was released on $100 personal bond.

A preliminary examination on the charges is scheduled for Aug. 5 in 35th District Court.

"We will be checking our immigration status," Colling said, referring to the women.

The salon was not closed following the raid. "Our goal is to get the operation shut down," Colling said.

During the raid, police confiscated U.S. currency and other evidence. Police plan to institute state forfeiture proceedings against the business.

Police raided the salon at about 7 p.m. July 26, following a 49-month investigation. "We received a complaint of possible solicitation there," Colling said.

The new store officially opens for business at 10 a.m. today.

Donald Hess, president and CEO of Parisian, and Elliot Marcus, manager of the new Laurel Park Place store, presented the "You're Somebody Special" check to Crossroads of Michigan, a Detroit-based ecumenical social service ministry.

Crossroads operates a soup kitchen and two counseling centers. The non-profit organization offers emergency aid to families in addition to learning centers and job training.

Four metro-area organizations were honored as runners-up, each receiving $500. They are Coalition on Temporary Shelter, First Step, Lighthouse of Oakland County and Poverty and Social Reform Institute.

More than 120 nonprofit organizations submitted nominations for the award.

The judging panel included Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell and Duane

Canton is growing by leaps and bounds

BY JILL HALPIN
STAFF WRITER

The population of Wayne County may be decreasing, but the population counts for Canton Township are a whole different story.

According to a recently released report from the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), Canton Township recorded the largest population growth of 43 communities in Wayne County over the past three years. The growth was recorded for the time period of April 1990 through July 1993.

In 1990, the U.S. Census Bureau reported Canton's population as 57,040 and 60,969 in 1993, adding 3,656 new residents to the community. The figures represent 6.4 percent growth during the period.

Of all the Wayne County communities, only Westland showed an increased growth rate near Canton's, with 1,965 new residents.

"The count reflects our projections. They are right on target with the building permits that we issued," said Jeff Goulet, Canton Township planner. Goulet said that 700 permits for condominiums and single-family dwellings were issued during 1993.

There are currently 50 developments under way in Canton, representing 3,000 dwelling units, Goulet said. The developments don't come cheap, however. Prices range from $130,000 for condominiums to more than $300,000 for single-family homes. "This is a very active building community," he said.

Despite these figures, there is still more land to be developed. Goulet estimates that the community is still only 50 percent "built-out." Large tracts of land on the west side of the township still exist and this is a market that is still untapped, he said.

Township Supervisor Tom Yack has his own explanation for Canton's expansion over other Wayne County communities. "There aren't very many communities that have undeveloped territory like Canton. People come here for quality of life issues: good schools, good recreation facilities and public safety. In new communities, such as Canton, there are more opportunities."

The growth is expected to continue. The population projection for 1995 is 63,000, Goulet said.

CLARIFICATION

School officials estimated that the money that may be recouped from an alleged price-fixing scheme by Michigan dairies and school bus distributors may be as much as $98,000, not $9 million as reported in the July 28 issue of the Plymouth and Canton Observers.

Chevy stolen

A Chevy Blazer was stolen late Thursday or early Friday from the west lot at Aline Plastics, 40500 Plymouth Road, according to a report filed with Plymouth Township police.

The owner, a Plymouth resident, told police the windows of the truck may have been left open due to hot weather. The theft happened sometime between 4 p.m. Thursday and 1:15 a.m. Friday, the report continued. Police have no suspects.

'Somebody Special' award caps Parisian preview

After months of anticipation, hundreds of specially-invited guests were treated to a night on the town Sunday with the area's newest retailer, Parisian, which introduced itself to the community with a $10,000 donation to a local charity.

The new store officially opens for business at 10 a.m. today.

Donald Hess, president and CEO of Parisian, and Elliot Marcus, manager of the new Laurel Park Place store, presented the "You're Somebody Special" check to Crossroads of Michigan, a Detroit-based ecumenical social service ministry.

Crossroads operates a soup kitchen and two counseling centers. The non-profit organization offers emergency aid to families in addition to learning centers and job training.

Four metro-area organizations were honored as runners-up, each receiving $500. They are Coalition on Temporary Shelter, First Step, Lighthouse of Oakland County and Poverty and Social Reform Institute.

More than 120 nonprofit organizations submitted nominations for the award.

The judging panel included Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell and Duane Marsh, executive director of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce. Other judges included Molly Luempert, supervisor of education and community service, Detroit Edison; Elaine Driker of Wayne State University, Ruth Benedict of Citicorp's Detroit Business and Virgil Carr, president of United Way, Southeastern Michigan.

The award presentation capped the special two-hour preview of the 150,000-square-foot store. Guests were treated to desserts, coffee, music and Angela Beasley's Puppet People and Puppet Monsters, colorful, larger-than-life creatures with a penchant for singing and dancing.

Parisian offers a week-long series of events to celebrate its grand opening in Livonia. The puppet people and monsters will be on hand to entertain shoppers. In the children's department, larger-than-life teddy bears will entertain young shoppers with stories and refreshments. In addition, designer appearances, trunk shows and special fashion shows will be held daily.

The Birmingham, Alabama-based retailer offers a mix of clothing, shoes accessories and cosmetics for women, men and children.

Award winner: Donald Hess, president and CEO of Parisian, congratulates Martha Bartlett, executive director of Crossroads of Michigan. Crossroads was nominated by Ron Griffith (back), a dean at Schoolcraft College and Plymouth Township resident and Mary Reeber of Livonia. # 'Technology Today' class offers insight into future

BY JILL HALPIN
STAFF WRITER

One day when industrial arts meant making moveable paperweights in shop class. Teachers at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park have taken the concept high tech and turned out a class for both college-bound and vocational education kids alike.

"Technology Today" is a half-year class for ninth- and 10th-graders that will debut at the park this fall. Designed through the cooperative efforts of 10 math and science teachers from both Canton and Salem high schools, the course will offer students an overview of current technology in six areas: drafting and computer aided-design, electronics, transportation, communication, applied physics and careers in technology.

"This is a survey class designed to show students how technology is used in our world today," said Barb Church, area coordinator.

"The emphasis of the class runs the gamut. We want students to experience all of the career opportunities... from those for which you need a graduate degree to those you don't," said Church.

Throughout the semester, course teacher Frank Pavia will use hands-on activities to help students gain an understanding of new technology. The course was also designed to give students practical experience to use in tandem with the theoretical information they gain in other classes, Church said.

For instance, when students build a model bridge, they will apply physical principles they may have already been exposed to.

Students will also be exposed to some new innovations. In the drafting portion of the course, students will have a chance to work with Auto CAD 12, a design program used by automotive companies to design cars. Pavia will use the program on a new IBM-compatible computer networked to classroom monitors to take students step-by-step through the design process.

"Although the students can't always necessarily get onto the system themselves, they will have exposure to it this way and see how it applies to drafting," Pavia said.

To emphasize the concept of technology in communications, students will make business cards using lithography, as well as explore photography through the use of the pinhole camera. Pavia said that many of the projects will emphasize math and science concepts. Students will use applied physics in an automation and robotics projects using LEGO's pneumatic trainers.

"The areas covered really are quite different. The student who enjoys photography may feel quite differently about drafting. The exposure is quite broad," said Church.

Church said the decision to add such a class to the curriculum came about last year, when teachers noticed a gap in the class offerings. While students had the option to elect full classes in certain areas, there weren't any broader offerings that touched on the topics overall.

"We didn't have a structure for kids to learn about all of these areas. It should help them make some career decisions," said Pavia. He is also hopeful that the class will be universal and will help students with and toward the future make some scheduling decisions.

"We are not just cutting them out for college prep. When we enter into the applied physics portion, we don't say, 'This is college prep,' because the ideas could be used equally well in the building trade," Pavia said.

Teachers are eager to see the class take off and students seem to share the sentiment. So far, 80 freshman and sophomores have registered for the three sections of the course that will be offered in the fall.

Canton resident will serve on board of health agency

Michael Ayre, a resident of Canton Township, has been named to the board of directors for the Combined Health Appeal of Michigan (CHAM), a nonprofit health agency based in East Lansing.

Ayre is the regional human resources director for ADVO Inc. of Livonia. CHAM's board of directors is comprised of 12 individuals from throughout the state of Michigan.

"I am pleased to add Michael to our board of directors," said CHAM Executive Director Ed Gillespie. "His professional skills and his personal commitment to CHAM's mission make him an excellent addition to our board. I know he will serve with distinction."

Registered voters who have a medical emergency and can't get to the polls may call the clerk's office on election day for a ballot. The clerk must deliver the ballot, Bennett said.

Voters going to the polls are asked to be patient because the schools — many where precincts are located — are in the midst of renovations.

Canton voters will be faced with the following nine races: governor, U.S. Senate, U.S. House-13th District, Michigan Senate 8th or 9th Districts (depends where in the township you live), Michigan House 18th or 21st Districts, Wayne County Executive, Wayne County Commission-11th District, 35th District Court, Wayne County Circuit Court-3rd Judicial District.

17 attorneys compete for 11 circuit court judgeships

There are 17 candidates for 11 Wayne County Circuit Court judgeships, including 10 incumbents and seven challengers.

Four of the challengers, Isidore Torres of Detroit, John Callahan of Grosse Pointe Park and David Szymanski of Grosse Pointe Park, are running for a seat being vacated by Judge Michael Stacey, who will retire at the end of the year.

These four candidates will face one another in a primary election on Tuesday, Aug. 2. The top two vote-getters will be on the ballot in November.

Torres, 47, has been a Detroit Recorder's Court judge since 1988. From 1983 to 1988 he was a 36th District Court judge. Before that he was a trial lawyer with the Detroit government's law department. Torres got his law degree from Wayne State University.

Hathaway has been an attorney with the Wayne County Corporation Counsel since February 1992. Before that she worked for Dykema Gossett as a paralegal (1985-86), summer associate (May to August 1986) and associate (1987-92). Hathaway got her law degree from the University of Detroit in 1987.

Szymanski, 41, has been a partner with the law firm Pavlock & Szymanski since June 1993. Before that he was an attorney for Materna, Custer & Associates (1990-93). His prior experience includes a vice presidency at the Anthony M. Franco public relations agency (1988-90) and manager of creative services at Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. (1985-87). Szymanski got his law degree from U-D in 1987.

Callahan, 47, heads the bankruptcy section of the law firm Plunkett & Cooney, where he has worked since 1987. Before that he was in private practice by himself (1981-87) and with mid-sized law firms (1976-81). Callahan got his law degree from the Detroit College of Law in 1974.

The Public Advisory Committee of the Detroit Bar Association has rated each of the preceding candidates with one of the following adjectives: Outstanding, Well Qualified, Qualified, Not Qualified.

Callahan was rated as well qualified, Hathaway qualified, Szymanski qualified and Torres outstanding.

The other 13 candidates do not have a primary election, but will face voters in the November election. The top 10 vote-getters will be the winners.

The incumbents are William Leo Cahalan of Grosse Ile, Robert J. Colombo Jr. of Grosse Pointe, Andrea J. Ferraris of Grosse Pointe, John H. Hauser of Detroit, Arthur J. Lombard of Grosse Pointe Farms, Cynthia D. Stephens of Detroit, Michael J. Talbot of Grosse Pointe Farms, Paul S. Teranes of Grosse Pointe, Kaye Tertag of Allen Park and Sharon Tevis Finch of Detroit.

The challengers are Richard L. Cunningham of Detroit, Deborah A. Thomas of Detroit and Carol F. Youngblood of Grosse Pointe.

Our Choices

The numerous candidates for state and county offices from this area have been carefully evaluated by a non-partisan committee of local residents. If an effort to aid in your selection at the voting booth Aug. 2, we have reprinted, in part, the committee's findings and comments regarding the four most qualified and highly recommended candidates for office.

Our choice for

Charles 'Trav' Griffin

8th District State Senate Democrat

Our choice for 8th District State Senator is Charles 'Trav' Griffin, a candidate with an unparalleled understanding of the issues and the crises which face our state today. Griffin's proven record of conservative fiscal management would appear to be invaluable to the state at this time of confusion and panic regarding educational finance. He has the unique experience of facing this problem from every aspect, and that experience, along with his unblemished record of public service and successful leadership will serve this entire area well. We strongly endorse and recommend Charles 'Trav' Griffin for the office of State Senator.

Our choice for

Tom Kelly

17th District House of Representatives Democrat

Our recommendation for the important 17th District State Representative Seat goes to Tom Kelly of Wayne. Kelly has proven during his years as a Wayne City Council member and during his work with Wayne County that he understands the issues from both the local and state perspective and that he has the political acumen and experience to implement new programs and ideas, much needed at this time. We are impressed with Kelly's strong family values and his understanding of people on a personal basis. His addition to the state legislature would serve this area well and provide residents with a public servant who sincerely cares about their needs and will do what is in the best interests of all. Tom Kelly would be a fine state representative and we urge his election to office.

Our choice for

Eileen DeHart

18th District House of Representatives Democrat

Eileen DeHart has the promise of a fresh outlook and the benefit of experience and tenure having served as retiring State Representative Justine Barns aide for several years. She understands the system at the state level and knows the issues, having dealt with them on a daily basis. This candidate has the best chance of continuing the programs and influence used to benefit this area by both Barns and retiring State Senator William Faust. His endorsement speaks volumes to her ability and credibility as a candidate. We have chosen Eileen DeHart to fill this important and influential position and feel she will serve the residents of our communities well when elected.

Our choice for

Kay Beard

12th District Wayne County Commissioner Democrat

As the present Wayne County Commission Vice Chairman, Kay Beard has done an excellent job for those she serves. Her continued and increasing influence have proven invaluable to the citizens of this area who have benefited from programs, funding and attention which were sorely lacking at the County level. Kay Beard has won her reputation as a fighter for her area and as a tenacious representative of her community with her continued insistence on fair and equitable treatment for her area and her constituents. She has proven herself to county, state and national leaders as a forceful and influential representative and we urge her return to office so that she might continue the programs she has begun.

Sponge soaks in a potential hit

The Detroit-based band Sponge will release their major label debut CD on Tuesday. Beginning next week, fans outside of Michigan will get to see what the buzz is all about.

On the road: Detroit-based alternative rock band Sponge — Jimmy Paluzzi (from right), Joey Mazzola, Vinnie, Mike Cross and Tim Cross — will tour in support of its Columbia/Chaos Records debut album "Rotting Pinata."

Since last winter, rumors have been flying around Detroit about Sponge's record deal with Columbia/Chaos Records. One popular story was that the much sought-after Detroit band decided to sign with Columbia only after they were promised an opening spot on the next Soul Asylum tour.

of the band learned the in and out of the music industry as a part of the hard alternative rock band Loudhouse who was signed and subsequently dropped by Virgin Records. Putting that rocky relationship behind them, he and the rest of the group — guitarists Mike Cross and Joey Mazzola, bassist Tim Cross and drummer Jimmy Paluzzi — are ready to trust Columbia.

STREET SOUNDS

Picture This — Debbie Davies

No, there aren't a lot of well-known women blues players, so what. Debbie Davies doesn't think that should be an issue. She deserves your ears because she's one of the finest contemporary blues guitarists and singers out there. Period.

Having just released a criminally overdue debut "Blind Pig," "Picture This," some of the guitar goddess status that's held her in good stead in Southern California for the past decade should be seeping into the groundwater of the blues and rock mainstream, if there's any justice.

Three years with Albert Collins certainly brought her some of that attention, but she was scoring all the competition back when she was lead burner for Maggie Mayall and the Cadillac, and blew Mick Taylor off the stage and down the block back around 1965 or so.

The new CD, which will doubtlessly be featured for much of her shows, is a scorching mix of hearty originals of which "24 Hour Fool" is the stand-out, classic cuts from Freddie King and Don Nix, one of the year's best in the form of her version of Delbert McCClinton's "Better Off With the Blues" and a smattering of obscure gems — a more representative sampler plate of Debbie Davies you won't find.

Tour turns into 'Paid Vacation' for Marx

Making his Marx: Singer-songwriter Richard Marx will play Pine Knob Music Theatre Aug. 6 in support of his latest release, "Paid Vacation."

Singer Richard Marx has learned during his summer tour that whatever you dread the most, turns out to be the most fun.

Before stepping out to promote his latest album "Paid Vacation," he rejected the idea of touring "about 10 times." He wasn't up to the grueling, marathon world tour that accompanied the release of his previous albums. Eventually, however, he gave in, feeling he had to do it out of necessity.

"I don't trust my record company to promote my record," said the Chicago resident. "I don't think that any record company is really going to put weight behind the project like I could."

Now that he's performing live, he has found it to be revitalizing. "It's really fun; I don't know (if) it's because I didn't want to do this tour, but I've never had this much fun playing live," Marx said. "It's possible that it's because I know it's such a short tour and I can already see the light at the end of the tunnel."

At the end of this tunnel, Marx will return to where he feels the most comfortable — in the studio. For his follow-up to "Paid Vacation," he may bring his father, Dick, along with him again. Their recent collaboration was a number one for them. The single "Now and Forever," the theme from the film "The Getaway," features a string arrangement by the elder Marx. Dick Marx and a 60-piece orchestra joined Richard Marx on three dates this summer as well.

The million-selling artist is also planning on producing albums by other musicians — preferably up-and-coming singers.

"It's all unknown people. I like producing them because they don't carry any baggage with them. They're more willing to try things."

Richard Marx performs at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 6, at Pine Knob Music Theatre, 1-75 and Sashabaw Road, Independence Township. Tickets are $24.50 pavilion, $12.50 lawn. For more information, call (810) 377-0100.

'Present Danger' mirrors history

By JOHN MONAGHAN STAFF WRITER

"Clear and Present Danger" plays off the frustration America experienced during the Iran-Contra Affair. Many of us suspected that then President Ronald Reagan knew more than he was letting on about arms sales to the Contras, but it was impossible to make that accusation stick.

A similar scenario fuels Tom Clancy's cleverly plotted thriller, which deals with American covert military action against a Colombian drug cartel. It's payback time for the President who has lost a close friend in what first appears to be a senseless murder at sea.

"What I'd like to propose I can't propose," says the President, well played by Donald Moffat. His thinly veiled suggestion leads an elite group of American soldiers south to secretly blow up the cartel's drug shipments and factories.

Harrison Ford returns as Jack Ryan, the CIA agent he played in the powerful "Patriot Games." This movie doesn't quite stack up, but it does have some of the same elements — Ford's likable performance, a complex plot and bravura action scenes by Australian director Phillip Noyce ("Dead Calm").

There's plenty of talk before our hearts get pounding on the narrow Colombian streets where an American minivan caravan is ambushed. Machine guns and rocket launchers make mincemeat of the vans, leaving Ryan and a few others running like rats in a maze.

It's the best part of a movie, especially in face of the climax, where Ryan routinely dukes it out in a coffee factory. The main villain here is set up as our hero's South American counterpart, but the connection could be stronger and their final showdown more inventive.

More interesting is the way the two sides in the war against drugs are portrayed. The cartel leaders discuss business while howling and hitting baseballs. They throw gala birthday parties on luxurious estates with loads of family, friends, food and music.

Ryan barely gets to talk to his young wife and daughter, except to counsel them on the proper use of a submarine water toy. His wife, a pillar of strength played rather boringly by Anne Archer, is wrapped up in her own work as a doctor who, by her own admission, makes more money than the President.

Could the screenwriters, including macho man John Milius, be making a statement about America's tireless, tireless role as world policeman or are they saying that Americans are just plain dull and materialistic? On Ryan's first tragic trip to Bogota, all he and his colleagues can talk about is the water.

Ryan, after all, is far from a dynamic hero. Ford sleepwalks through the first half of the film, appropriate but not especially exciting to watch. After that climactic speed boat chase in "Patriot Games," and now bearing the responsibilities of the dying CIA director (James Earl Jones), you can hardly blame him.

MOVIES

The always wretched William Dafoe plays the kind of guy we hoped Oliver North really was, but probably wasn't. He's a paramilitary expert who leads a group of soldiers into covert battle. When Washington pulls the plug on the mission, he knows it's up to him to get his boys out of the jungle.

Political scandal buffs will enjoy picking out the similarities to Iran-Contra, especially in the chain of command. It's no coincidence that the President hopes to heap much of the blame for the operation on James Earl Jones a la William Casey in the history books.

But don't mistake all the intelligence in "Clear and Present Danger" for a really great movie. As with the books of Clancy and his counterparts, it's still the kind of thriller best enjoyed on summer vacation.

Because of the remodeling, Hudson's is moving its annual holiday storybook show's location from the Northland store's exhibit hall to Summit Place Mall in Hudson's at Summit Place is just about done with its own renovation, making this store similar in appearance to the Oakland Mall Store remodeled two years ago.

Carol Dirwa of Warren has shopped at Northland since it opened. She had nothing but praise for the mall's plans.
"I'm just so glad Hudson's is staying and modernizing its store

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Give meat a rub down for best barbecue flavor

Ask my momma what she likes to make on a hot sultry summer evening for dinner, and her response would probably be like many who read this column - "reservations."

But leaving the kitchen to swelter on the deck in the backyard, especially with a tall cold one in one hand and a pair of long handled tongs in the other near the grill, is my way of coping with the dog days of summer.

When the Janes Gang gets the urge to cook on the grill, chicken, fish, beef and freshly picked vegetables seems to be just what the doctor ordered. Since our summer budget always seems to be stretched a few days before payday, the chicken, fish and lesser cuts of beef usually end up marinating for a few hours in a delightful mixture of citrus juices, oil and fresh herbs.

Tonight was a little different. After a searing softball game in 90 degree heat and equal humidity, we ventured in to find the lowly chicken sitting unadorned and cold in the refrigerator. Thinking that reservations were in order, and realizing that tomorrow night and the two following would find us away from home, we decided to cook the chicken.

We just couldn't toss the chicken on the grill plain, yet nobody wanted to wait until the chicken finished it's bath in marinade at 9 p.m. Instead, I followed the advice of Chris Schlesinger and John Willoughby, authors of the newly published "Big Flavors of the Hot Sun" (William Morrow & Co. copyright 1994, $27.50) and used a spice rub for a different taste treat.

Dry Rubs

Rubbing food with spice mixtures prior to cooking is a key technique in creating highly flavored foods. Schlesinger and Willoughby claim "when food that has been rubbed with a spice mixture is cooked, the dry rub creates a super-flavorful, slightly crunchy crust on the outside, while the interior retains its own distinct flavor."

Dry rubs have been around for decades and are very popular in the barbecue pits of the South. Before a beef brisket or a pork shoulder undergoes the long, slow roasting of the barbecue process, it is rubbed with a blend of spices that each pit master refers to as "mah special secret rub."

The authors claim that dry rubbing is a kind of marinating. Not only is dry rubbing faster but the tastes derived from using a dry rub are far more intense than a wet marinade which usually ends up muddled.

Wet marinating has a tendency to tenderize more than accentuate the flavor, especially when vinegars and high acid citric juices are used.

Dry rubbing, on the other hand, especially over the higher temperatures of a grill provides a spicy crust and a great flavor. "Big Flavors of the Hot Sun" is packed with hot recipes and cool tips from the spice zone.

Schlesinger and Willoughby suggest that when using a dry rub, begin with small handfuls (yes, your hands as no other tools works as well) and coat the entire surface of the food that you choose to cook. Using a bit of pressure to rub in the spices (that why they call it a rub!) mix the spices into the flesh so they adhere. When cooking, don't be concerned when the spice rub begins to darken; this is what usually happens when spices cook. As long as the rub is not burning over direct flames, everything should be fine.

Cooking Tips

Schlesinger and Willoughby offer five ways to work smarter, not harder, when cooking. Their first suggestion is to "salt and pepper just about everything." Use kosher salt and fresh ground pepper, the two tastes most widely appreciated by just about everyone who eats.

Second, they recommend that the cook "purchase good ingredients." Your dry rub is going to be only as good tasting as the spices you rub on. If that jar of garlic powder has seen the light of the winter equinox, reinvest in fresher spices. Most importantly, the authors suggest that everyone who cooks "learn how to check for doneness."

"How long should I cook?" is one of the toughest questions in cooking. The answer, of course, is "till its done." Schlesinger and Willoughby also suggest that when you choose to cook, be prepared, organized and clean. The French call it "mise en place," and everyone, for health and safety sake, should oblige. Lastly, the cooks claim that their number one, numero uno, the biggy principle to cook by is: Relax and have fun. My sentiments exactly, boys. Buy the book, you'll love it.

Good Harbor Vineyard

MICHIGAN Wineries FULL OF PROMISE

BY RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

After the coldest growing season in 1992, and the second coldest growing season in 1993, followed by the severest winter in nearly two decades, we can still say with pride, the Michigan wine industry has not only survived the vagaries of mother nature, it has made strides.

We talked with some of those vinters, who despite the weather, are full of hope.

Bruce Simpson of Good Harbor Vineyards in Lake Leelanau explained the last growing season by saying that the vintage of 1993 presented many of the same weather-related obstacles as did 1992. May and June were cool and damp. This caused a reduced fruit set in vineyards throughout Michigan. Yields were 30-40 percent lower than normal.

Just how cold did it get? The coldest temperature Simpson recorded in the Leelanau area vineyards was 10 degrees below zero. "Good Harbor is at the northern grape boundary, however many times it is more moderate in northern Michigan than inland areas of southern Michigan. We had about 200 inches of snow and my pruning crews, on snowshoes, bent over to reach the top two wires of a six-foot trellis."

Bruce Zabadal, an associate professor in the Department of Horticulture at Michigan State University, and Director of the Southwest Michigan Research Extension Center, said that around Jan. 19 temperatures ranged from 17 degrees below zero to 29 degrees below zero in southwest Michigan.

"There will be no vinifera crop in 1994 from southwest Michigan," he said. "In late spring, there were less than 5 percent live buds and at some sites only 1 percent. In northwest Michigan, about 25 percent of the buds survived. Wineries there will have a very small crop."

Is it worth battling mother nature in Michigan? "I'd say yes," said Larry Mawby of L. Mawby Vineyard in Suttons Bay. "If severe winters occur only once in every 15 years, it's an acceptable risk."

Mawby's been saying for several years that Michigan should focus on sparkling wine production from the classic Champagne grapes, chardonnay and pinot noir. These grape vari-

Harvesting grapes: Pinot gris (top) is one of the state's most promising varieties. A worker at Good Harbor Vineyards, south of Leelanau, carries a load of freshly harvested grapes in from the field.

Winemakers look toward the future

A non-vintage Brut sparkling wine made by a Solera process from L. Mawby is on the horizon. Our research doesn't indicate that anyone else in the world has tried this. If you know of one, call our voice mail, please.

"I think it's a neat idea," Larry Mawby said. "The sparkler will always be made from grapes originating in the same vineyard. This is a long-term project, and I'll probably release the first bottles in 1997."

Mawby's also thinking about the new millennium. For the year 2000, he'll release about 100 cases of a Prestige Sparkling Wine Cuvee. "I wanted a wine of the millennium; somewhere in between, I'll release the Solera Champagne," he said.

Pinot noir, planted four years ago at Chateau Chantal, is beginning to show promise.

Bruce Simpson, master of proprietary names at Good Harbor, will release a riesling, vignoles, chardonnay blend from the 1993 vintage, but at this writing, he had not decided on a name. Simpson is also planting pinot noir for a sparkling wine program.

Vis-a-Vis White and Red will carry lot numbers. Up to now and for the foreseeable future, the wine does not bear a vintage date, so the lot numbers will allow you to track the freshest wine.

Leelanau Cellars will not be for wine lovers only. Beer is on tap at the new Leelanau Brewing Co. The first brew will be named Aurora Beerealis, complete with a hologram label.

"In the first year, availability will be by-the-glass through the winery tasting room only," Skolnick said. "Later, we'll expand to sales in Traverse City restaurants."

Newsy wines from our state

- 1991 Reserve Vignoles, L. Mawby ($18) - The last time this wine was made was in 1987 and before that 1983. Only 165 cases were produced and it was released July 1.
- 1993 American Bistro Chardonnay, L. Mawby ($7.80) - The juice originated in Oregon's Willamette Valley, but it's made in the Mawby style with pineapple character and crisp finish.
- 1993 Pinot Gris, L. Mawby ($10.20/500ml) - Very competitive with many domestic bottlings from California and Oregon.
- Dionysus Brut, L. Mawby ($15) - Slightly toasty and delicately stylish.
- 1992 Chateau Chantal Brut ($20) - has attractive aromas and gentle toastiness with a light and elegant finish.
- 1993 Chardonnay, Leelanau Cellars ($10) - is 25 percent barrel fermented and sports buttery oak and fruit. The creamy finish is delicious, generous and fulfilling.
- Tall Ship Chardonnay ($13) - Was 100 percent barrel fermented and received most of the bell and whistle cellar techniques of a California chardonnay. The fruit was picked in the third week of October in a cold vintage, but generous fruit is well integrated with oak in the wine.
- Great White, St. Julian Wine Company ($4.95) - Together with the whole line of Village Wines at the same price, make an unbeatable portfolio for the money.

etals are picked earlier for sparkling wine; they don't need as much ripeness. Lower sugar levels with higher acidities are needed for sparkling wine. It's cool in Champagne. In the years when it's cool in Michigan during the summer, the state can make world-competitive sparkling wine.

This has been done. Masby's Bien de Village Brut ($30) is a knockout and not only holds a high position when tasted against domestic counterparts, it competes well in head-to-head competition with champagne.

"Grapes came in at reduced ripeness levels in both 1992 and 1993," said Simpson. "But tasted now, there is an abundance of fruit flavors. I truly believe that letting Michigan's grapes hang on the vine as long as possible results in extra flavors even at reduced ripeness levels."

A recent tasting of these wines makes me concur with Simpson on the flavor side of the issue. However, there's another question at hand with respect to riesling and its survival in a winter like 1993-94.

When grapes hang on the vine late into fall, vines have little time to "harden" and store carbohydrates to survive the winter. A quick cold snap with freezing temperatures within two to three weeks of harvest may not only cause bud mortality, but without snow cover may kill the vine. Such an event occurred mid-October 1993, ten days earlier than normal. Because it was a cold growing season, there were entire crops still hanging.

Riesling took a big hit this past winter. Bud mortality was significant throughout Michigan. Creative pruning of the vines in spring are yielding a small crop overall. The vines don't look manicured this year, but it was a way to save a crop.

"Riesling needs a better site than chardonnay," said Chateaux Chantal's winemaker Mark Johnson. "It needs a warmer location, higher on the hill to prevent frost and cold injury. Riesling did suffer more in summer 1993 than chardonnay."

Is the jury still out on vinifera in Michigan? "I think so," Masby says. "However, pinot gris is still the one varietal for which I'd plant more. It's one of the few vinifera we can pick sufficiently early and make as a balanced dry wine every year."

Johnson balances this comment. "It's only a matter of time until it's recognized that Michigan can grow riesling better than California," he said. "If Michigan's wine industry is going to be recognized outside this state, it's with vinifera. If we're going to bang heads with California on chardonnay, we won't make it, but they can't take us lightly with riesling."

A tasting with Bill Skolnick, Leelanau Cellars winemaker indicated that cold-growing-season chardonnay on good sites makes good wine. We also tasted some wines from 1992 and found them to be better after a year in the bottle. Vis-a-Vis White ($9) which is 50 percent chardonnay and 50 percent vinifera is showing some exciting tropical fruit with a balanced, generous finish.

Chef Larry will show you how to give a really good rubdown

See Larry Jones' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

This variation is on the zaster spice and nut mixture that is used in the Middle East for a variety of culinary purposes. Chris Schlesinger and John Willoughby, authors of "Big Flavors of the Hot Sun," (Copyright 1994, William Morrow, $27.50) have left out the sumac, a woody, earthy spicy spice that is quite difficult to find in the United States and have substituted fresh herbs. The way herbs interact with the nuts is simply amazing. The authors suggest you try it on chicken thighs. I had delightful results with cut up chicken and cauliflower.

PERSIAN STYLED NUT RUB
 1/4 cup sesame seeds
 1/4 cup ground pistachios
 2 tablespoons ground almonds
 1/4 cup finely chopped oregano
 1 tablespoon ground allspice
 Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

In a medium size saute pan, roast the sesame seeds, pistachios and almonds separately over medium heat, shaking the pan frequently to prevent burning, 4 to 5 minutes each. When all the nuts are roasted, combine them with the remaining ingredients and using a coffee grinder, blender or food processor, process until fine, about the consistency of cornmeal. Makes about 1 cup of dry rub.

The authors suggest the following spice rub be grilled on duck legs, but the sesame oil, curry and basil was just screaming for a turkey breast I picked up on sale at the grocery store.

DUCK SPICE RUB
 1 tablespoon sesame oil
 1 teaspoon minced garlic
 1 tablespoon minced ginger
 1 tablespoon curry powder
 1 tablespoon minced fresh red or green chile pepper of your choice
 2 tablespoons green pepper combs
 1/4 cup coconut milk
 1/4 cup fresh basil
 Salt to taste

Heat the sesame oil in a saute pan over medium heat until hot but not smoking. Add the garlic, ginger and curry powder and cook, stirring constantly for 1 minute. Add the chiles, peppercorns and coconut milk and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to low and simmer for 30 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in basil. Spoon over cooked duck or turkey breast. Makes a little more than 1 1/2 cups.

Known at the East Coast Grill as their own special masala, this mixture is the base seasoning for many of the dishes the authors cook. It's particularly good on anything that flies or swims.

EAST COAST GRILL MASALA
 1/4 cup ground cumin
 1/2 cup curry powder
 1/2 cup chili powder
 2 tablespoons ground allspice
 2 tablespoons cayenne pepper
 2 tablespoons salt
 2 tablespoons fresh ground black pepper
 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon

Mix all ingredients together and use as desired. Covered and stored in a dark place, this rub will keep for 6 weeks. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

For beer and coffee lovers, Skolnick has plans for a Coffee Stout. French Roast coffee beans will be added to the barley mash imparting a strong coffee flavor to the brew.

For a modest price, visitors will be able to enjoy light fare, such as homemade pizza from the on-site bakery, with wine from the new wine bar equipped with a 12-bottle Cruvenet to keep opened bottles fresh.

St. Julian Winery in Paw Paw will have a new addition to its visitor center, 716 S. Kalamazoo St., Paw Paw, that will be opening in September.

Some growers in southwest Michigan are now considering hilling vinifera vines to ensure winter survival. This is a labor intensive and time-consuming effort. "It's expensive," Braganini said, "but losing an entire crop is even more costly. Some growers may take chances and not bury their vines. Such serious winter kill of vinifera varieties was never a serious threat before the past winter."

Bruce Zahrad reported that new equipment is being developed to make the task of hilling vines somewhat easier. He also said that none of the 3,200 vinifera vines planted in spring 1993 were lost. "These were principally merlot and cabernet franc," he said. "Newer plantings by Michigan State Horticulture Department of pinot noir, muscat oton-

2 tablespoons fresh basil, chopped
 Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper and dust with flour. Rub flour well into skin. Heat the oil in a heavy skillet and saute the onions until tender. Add chicken and brown well all over. Add the St. Julian Village White wine and cook 5 minutes over high heat.

Dissolve the tomato paste in the broth and add to pan. Simmer for 45 minutes or until chicken is tender.

In a small pot, bring St. Julian Red Wine Vinifera to a boil. Add olives, garlic, anchovies, parsley and basil and simmer for 3-4 minutes. Pour sauce over chicken to serve.

BAKED TROUT WITH CREAM SAUCE
 1 large (6 pound) trout, cut in half, and fileted
 Butter
 6 tablespoons finely chopped shallots
 1 1/2 cups Boskydel Vignoles, a dry white wine
 Juice of 2 lemons
 6 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Salt and pepper to taste
 1/2 cups heavy cream
 6 tablespoons finely grated bread crumbs

Generously butter a large, shallow baking dish. Arrange filets in the dish, side by side. In a sauce pan, combine shallots, wine and strained lemon juice and bring to a boil. Add parsley, salt and pepper; stir, then pour over filets.

Place them in the oven at 375 degrees for approximately 40 minutes or until fish is done.

Bring cream just to boiling point, then pour over filets. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, and return to oven only long enough for bread crumbs to brown slightly. Serve immediately along with Boskydel Vignoles. Serves 6.

VAN BUREN BROCCOLI SOUP

 1 pint half & half
 2 quarts fresh broccoli, chopped into 1-inch pieces

4 pound butter
 1/4 cup flour
 1/4 cup St. Julian Cream Sherry

Add first seven ingredients and cook on low heat, stirring occasionally. Clean and cut broccoli. Boil for 15 minutes until tender. Add immediately to the mixture.

Hilling vines helps ensure their survival over winter

BY ELEANOR AND RAY HEALD
 SPECIAL WRITER

Always a willing spokesman for winemaking in Michigan is Dave Braganini, president of St. Julian Wine Co., Michigan's largest winery. "On the vines, all buds below the snowline survived," he reported.

"When the 20 below zero temperature hit, there was on average 18 inches to two-feet of snow cover. Every vine on the 15 acres planted last year is fine. These new vines were all under the snow."

These plantings indicate that for the future St. Julian is hitching its success wagon to riesling, merlot, cabernet franc and chardonnay.

U-pick update Peach crop thin, but keep trying

Michigan's peach crop is forecast at 15 million pounds, 69 percent less than last year, according to the Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. Last winter's freeze devastated the crop and damaged many trees. Approximately two-thirds of Michigan's growers will not have peaches this season. Berrien and Van Buren counties were hit the hardest. Here's a U-pick update.

For freshly picked or U-pick cucumbers for pickling, call 459-4414 in Canton.

They're still picking blueberries at Hazen's Blueberry Farm on the north side of Wise Road between Carroll Lake and Bogie Lake roads, Commerce Township, (810) 363-4072.

Northville's Farm Market moved to Highland Lakes Shopping Center on W. Seven Mile.

It's open Thursdays 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

I've started receiving calls about pickles. If you have a good recipe to share, send it to me, and I'll print it in this column.

B'S FOR OLDER ADULTS

A recent study reveals that as many as three people in ten over the age of 65 are not getting enough folate or other B vitamins to prevent heart disease. This conclusion was made on the basis of an examination of 1,200 Nutrition Research Center on Aging at Tufts University. Researchers involved in the study found that those who consumed relatively little folate, B6, and/or B12 tended to have high blood levels of a chemical (homocysteine) that is increasingly being linked to evidence leads experts to believe that B vitamins help older Americans stave off heart disease. They recommend that daily intake of folate be increased to 400 micrograms and B6 to 1.9 milligrams.

Why buy natural foods? An important factor is the increase in nutrition and health available through natural foods. Foods such as fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, and whole grains are naturally occurring sugars. At the GOOD FOOD CO., we offer a superior selection of quality natural foods, organic fruits and vegetables, free range chicken and beef, and a huge assortment of vitamins and supplements. ## Use a variety of greens to create healthy salads

LOIS THIELEKE

A, B, C, E and F are all good reasons to eat salads. Salads have qualities attributed to A — anti-cancer, B — beta-carotene, C — calcium, vitamin E and F for lots of fiber. Salads are low in calories, easy and quick to prepare. They add interesting colors and textures to a meal. Today, a salad can consist of many different ingredients, it's up to the cook to be creative.

When making a salad, use more than one type of greens to create a medley of flavors and healthy nutrients. If iceberg lettuce is the only type of lettuce you use, you're shortchanging yourself. Romaine and looseleaf lettuce have nearly six times as much vitamin C, and five to 10 times as much beta carotene as iceberg. A general rule is that the darker green the leaves the more nutritious the salad greens.

Basic salad greens are bibb lettuce, Boston lettuce, Chicory, Romaine, escarole and watercress. Romaine and iceberg lettuce provide crispness, curly endive adds another texture and a little bitterness, and Belgian endive will add a sharp bite. There are other dark green salad choices such as dandelion, beet tops, kale, radish tops, spinach, turnip and mustard greens.

When buying greens look for fresh and crisp products, once the greens have passed their prime, there is no way to restore them. Greens must be kept cold to stay fresh. Make sure leaves aren't wilted or discolored, and the stems should be crisp. Iceberg lettuce should keep up to two weeks refrigerated while others such as leaf lettuce only keep about four days.

Don't store greens near apples or bananas, the greens will develop brown spots from the ethylene gas they give off. If you purchase a head of lettuce in a wrapper, leave it until your ready to use.

Remove soil that clings to the leafy greens by immersing the leaves in lukewarm water and swishing them around. Then put the greens in a colander to drain. If you notice a lot of dirt in the bottom of the water, repeat the procedure. Don't soak greens when washing, you'll lose the vitamin C. Dry salad greens before adding any kind of dressing.

Leafy greens
Butthead lettuce also refers to Boston and Bibb lettuce. They both have a sweet, mild flavor. A general rule is that the darker green the leaves the more nutritious the salad greens.

Romaine looks like a leaf shaped head. It has a crisp texture with a nutty flavor.

Belgian endive is not a nutritional powerhouse. It has a slightly bitter taste but the texture is velvety and crisp. These plants are kept in darkness so the chlorophyll does not develop and they stay creamy yellow or white. Chicory is also called curly endive and looks like a bunch of ragged edges leaves. The outer leaves are slightly bitter but the leaves in the center are yellow and mild.

Radichio is another chicory family member but it resembles a small head of cabbage. Escarole is another chicory family member that has smooth edged leaves rather than curly or ragged. It is also a little milder than chicory. Radichio, endive and chicory are sharp tasting with a slightly bitter taste so top them with a mildly sweet dressing.

Arugula and watercress are both members of the cruciferous vegetable family and may protect against cancer. Arugula consists of small flat leaves on long stems, usually with the roots attached. It has a very distinct peppery taste and aroma. Sometimes arugula develops a very sharp flavor so you may not want to use lots of this. Watercress has a mustard like flavor that makes it popular for sandwich or salads or as a garnish.

Dressing a salad
Do not dress a salad until the last minute or serve the dressing on the side. To prevent soggy salads, invert a sauce in the bottom of the salad bowl. Any excess water will drain off and the salad will stay fresh and crisp.

Many of the pungent greens are perfect for a wilted salad or pair them with grapefruit or orange slices. Potato salad can be made more interesting by adding watercress or arugula. Radichio can be sauteed with garlic and added to a hot fettuccini. There are lots of ways to use these alphabet greens, just become a little creative.

Want to reduce fat? Here's how

Here are a few suggestions for reducing fat in your diet from Brenda L. Thomas, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal.

- Eat roast turkey or chicken instead of beef. Remove the skin and you'll avoid even more fat.
- Try cereal with skim milk for a low-fat snack instead of chips.
- Whenever possible, substitute lower fat alternatives for their full-fat equivalents, such as low-fat salad dressing instead of regular salad dressing.

Broncos just manage to finish unbeaten

There was a lesson to be learned for the Broncos Thursday night.

Sure, they had cruised through the Metro Summer Hockey League's regular season without suffering a defeat, the only team to do so. And in their season finale against the Redskins at Plymouth Ice Arena, they seemed to have matters under control: A four-goal spurt had given them a 4-1 lead over the last-place Redskins with 7:34 remaining in the second period.

But this is get-ready-for-playoffs time. What's happened before doesn't matter now, something the Broncos almost discovered the hard way. It took the Redskins less than 3 1/2 minutes to knot it up, thanks to Jack McCoy — who then nearly won it for them.

HOCKEY

After scoring twice and assisting on another, McCoy scored his third goal with 7:13 left in the game to put the Redskins up 5-4. It stayed that way until just seven seconds remained; that's when Ron Pietila slipped the tying goal past Redskin goalie Stephen Tratechoud.

The 5-5 tie was the Broncos' second of the season, allowing them to finish with a 9-0-2 record. The Redskins "improved" to 1-8-1.

After Richard Rathman put the Redskins ahead 1-0 with the only goal of the first period, the Broncos took command — briefly — by scoring four times in less than seven minutes of the second. Eric Laho, Mark Pietila, Ron Pietila and Jim Pietila did the damage, giving them that seemingly safe lead.

Until McCoy took over. He and Chris Regner assisted on Paul Mazaris' goal with 3:24 left, then McCoy scored 10 seconds later to make it a one-goal game, Regner assisting again.

McCoy tied it with his second goal (unassisted) with 1:52 left in the second period.

Singles tennis champs

Champions were crowned in seven divisions at the Canton Parks and Recreation Services Singles Tennis Tournament, held July 16-17 at Plymouth Canton HS.

Dave Verderbar won twice, collecting titles in the men's 20-29 division and in the men's 30-39 division. Verderbar defeated Bob Breach 6-1, 4-6, 6-1 in 20-29; in 30-39, he beat Randy Whately 6-2, 6-4.

Whately rebounded from that loss to upend Theo Ulinfun 6-2, 6-4 in the final of the men's 40-49 division.

Other winners included Olive Ikeh in the girls 16-19 division, with a 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Aubri Sheremet in the final; U.K. Ikeh in the women's 20 and over division, with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Christine Donaldson in the final; Dan Gabrys in boys' 13-15, with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-2 win over Ben Gabrys; and Harry Lee in boy's 16-19, 6-1, 6-4 over Tad Patterson.

Award-winners

The awards were announced following at the Saginaw Valley State baseball season by coach Walt Head, and the Paluk brothers, from Plymouth, were among those reaping honors.

Brian Paluk, a Redford Catholic Central graduate, earned the freshman of the year award. A right-handed pitcher, Paluk led the Cardinals in earned run average at 1.26. He pitched 43 innings in nine appearances, posting a 4-2 record and striking out 27.

Older brother Jeff, a senior right-hander, collected his fourth varsity letter. Jeff had a 4-3 record with a 3.90 ERA, striking out 52 in 57 1/2 innings. He finishes seventh on the Cardinals' career ERA list at 4.90; he's also eighth in strikeouts (121), ninth in victories (12) and complete games (nine), and 10th in starts (25).

Jeff was drafted in the 29th round by the Los Angeles Dodgers; he's currently pitching with the Class A Yakima (Wash.) Bears.

Runner-up

Dolly Vettese came back strongly over the last nine holes, but couldn't quite catch second flight winner Shari Morningstar in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association weekly tournament Wednesday at Highland Hills in Highland.

Morningstar, from Royal Oak, jockeyed a 45 over the opening nine holes into a 96. Vettese, from Plymouth, opened with a 50 over the first nine holes, then closed with a 48 — totaling 98.

LCBL All-Star game

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League will host an all-star game at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Livonia's Ford Field.

The game will feature the first-team all-stars against the second-team all-stars. This is a change in format from previous years when an LCBL all-star team met an all-star team from another league.

The LCBL all-stars have played the Lansing all-stars the last two years.

The LCBL coaches selected the first two teams by secret ballot.

A name noticeably absent from the game will be Delwal third baseman Kelly Dransfeldt, a University of Michigan player, who joined the team midway through the season. Dransfeldt made an immediate impact, batting .396 (19-for-48) with a league-high six home runs and 22 RBI.

There will be a home run derby prior to the start of the all-star game and Dransfeldt is expected to participate.

Here are the members of the first team: Jeff Schaffer (Livonia Franklin), catcher, Walter's; Andrew Reynolds, pitcher/first base, Westland Federation; Mike Davis, second base, Westland; Robin Roberts, third base, Hines Park Lincoln Mercury; Dave Roman (Livonia Franklin), shortstop, Little Caesars; Jason McLaughlin, outfielder, Hines Park; Brian Burns, outfielder, Hines Park; Ben Hurst, outfielder, Wendy's; Ed Gundry Jr. (Plymouth Salem), designated hitter, Hines Park.

The first-team and second-team pitchers will be divided among the two teams.

The pitchers named to the first team are Tom Wakefield, Westland; Terry Hayden, Delwal; Brian Paluk (Redford CC) and Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton), Hines Park; and Eric Butler, Walter's. Additional pitchers include Gary Mroz, Delwal; Mark Rutherford (Livonia Churchill), Garden City; Jesse Gerwatowski (Franklin), Little Caesars; Josh Vagi, Caesars; Brandon Herrin, Wendy's.

The Garden City Collegiate saga ended Wednesday as the Parks & Recreation Commission upheld the LCBL's decision to ban the first-year team from the four-team playoffs, co-director Gary Gray said.

Garden City finished in second place with an 13-11-1 record but was ruled ineligible because of roster violations.

Cobras collect their 2nd crown in 3 years

The Canton Cobras gained their second championship in three years in the Incredible Girls Fastpitch Softball League, this time by defeating the Northville Niners in Thursday's championship game.

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

For the first time Thursday evening, Jim Arnold was caught unprepared.

Fortunately for his team — the Canton Cobras — it came after the game, and the championship in the Incredible Girls Fastpitch Softball League, had been decided.

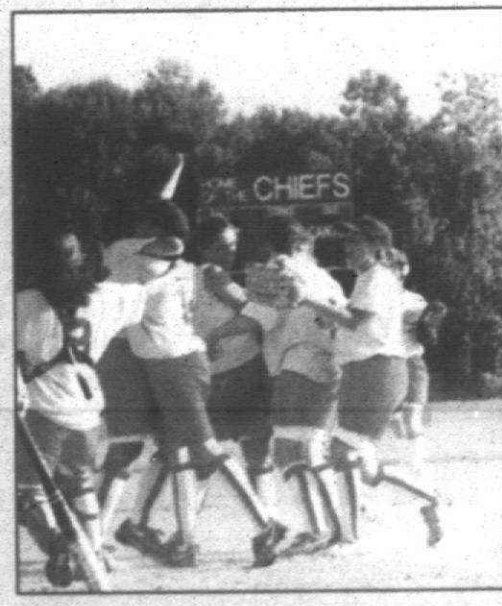

Arnold fell for the most overused sports trick of the past decade: He got dunked, drenched by his jubilant players who goaded him into posing with them for a team photo after they had stopped the Northville Niners 3-0 in the title game, played at Canton HS.

"I didn't think you'd fall for that," one of the Canton players' parents said to Arnold after the soaking.

It was about the only thing that didn't go according to Arnold's plan. Cobra pitcher Jackie Nicastrì was nearly untouchable, tossing a two-hitter and striking out 10. She walked the first batter of the game, Melissa Petrosky, and she reached second base — which was as far as any Niner baserunner advanced.

And no others got a free pass, either; it was the only walk issued by Nicastrì.

Hard to handle: That's what Jackie Nicastrì (above), of the Canton Cobras, was in Thursday's championship game. Her two-hit pitching — combined with the Cobras' near-flawless defense — led to the celebration that followed (left).

Benedict sparkles in Hines Park win

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League's regular season and defending champion Hines Park Lincoln Mercury lived up to their top billing Friday at Ford Field.

Manager Dave Carroll's team opened the 1994 playoffs with a 6-3 victory over Little Caesars, as right-hander Craig Benedict threw a complete game.

Benedict, who prepped at Plymouth Canton High and was Madonna University's ace as a freshman this spring, withstood a shaky start to earn his fourth-straight LCBL victory.

Benedict gave up two runs in the first inning and one in the third, but settled down and held Caesars scoreless the rest of the way.

He threw 121 pitches, while scattering eight hits and three walks. Benedict fanned five.

"I didn't want to take Craig out early, the only way he was coming out was if he had given up a couple of more runs," Carroll said. "Once he got into a rhythm, there were a lot of groundouts and fly balls."

"He did a nice job," Caesars, which out-hit Hines Park 8-5, couldn't capitalize with runners on base.

They scored twice in the opening inning on a double by Dave Roman, an RBI single by Chris Champanois and an RBI single by Brian Theobald.

Hines Park got a run back in the second on a homer by Heath Fowler.

Caesars put another run on the board in the third to go ahead 3-1, but couldn't score off Benedict in the fourth with runners on second and third and no outs.

Trailing 3-1, Hines Park rallied for four runs in the fifth.

Jason McLenaghan, a smooth-fielding shortstop, clubbed a two-run triple. Matt Horvath added an RBI single to put Hines Park on top, 4-3.

Fowler and Horvath then pulled off a double steal to give Hines Park a two-run cushion.

McLanaghan's fielder's choice scored Charlie Winstel in the sixth to give Hines Park a three-run cushion.

Caesars reliever Jason Carter held Hines Park scoreless over the final three innings. But the damage had been done as starter Josh Vagi was charged with the loss.

To make matters worse, Caesars lost Theobald, the starting left fielder, to a broken hand for the remainder of the double-elimination tournament.

Theobald was injured sliding into second base in the fifth inning.

Earlier in the week, center fielder Jason Sizemore broke his finger sliding into the third base bag.

Despite the injuries, Caesars veteran manager John Moraitis refused to alibi.

"It was a good ball game," Moraitis said. "We had our chances, but Hines Park played decent defense, especially McLanaghan. He took some hits away from us." Roman, a Livonia Franklin High product who plays for the University of Detroit Mercy, doubled twice in a losing cause. Theobald also collected two hits.

Westland wins

Westland Federation broke a four-game losing streak against Delwal on Friday, winning the first-round playoff game between the two teams 10-2 at Ford Field.

Westland, the second-seeded team, scored seven runs in the last two innings to break away from a 3-2 lead and win handily.

Westland ace Tom Wakefield ran his record to 8-3 with a complete game effort, striking out 10 and walking only two in nine innings.

Delwal scored its first run on an RBI single by Terry Hayden, scoring Mike Pesci (Farmington Hills Harrison). Delwal's other run came after singles by Dave Tykoaki and Jeff

The end of summer means bargain days aren't too far away

Happy days are here again. As the month of August arrives, we will soon see the return of the "Good Old Days," the annual BCA promotion in most of the local bowling centers offering bargain prices on bowling lineage and food.

All BCA members participate but each can use their own ideas for the "Good Old Days" promotion as long as it occurs in August.

The theme says it all, as the prices are rolled back to yesterday's and those who want to come in and try bowling for the first time have good incentive to do so.

For the regulars, it is a great time to bring the ball out of the closet, dust it off, and get ready for the coming season. Check with your local bowling center, as the dates of the promotion will vary from house to house.

Time is running out on the "Early Bird Special" for the Pro-Am event of the upcoming Greater Detroit Open pro bowlers tour at Taylor Lanes in October.

Early Bird entry forms are on the counter at the bowling centers, enter now and save money. Be assured of your preferred squad times. The $99 entry fee includes getting a new Brunswick Gold Rhino Pro Bowling ball, one of the reactive resin types which are the hot item on the market today.

If no forms are available call 946-9092 and they will send it to you. The Pro-Am is always a lot of fun, a chance to bowl with three different pro bowlers as partners to compete for cash prizes of $1,000 for each squad.

Early bird deadline is Aug. 13.

The NSBA (National Senior Bowling Association) has sent out its first newsletter along with a folder which specifies the membership and tournament rules.

This is among their age group. It is well organized and has had a successful first season of operation. The next tournament will be held on Sept. 10 at Drakeshire Lanes in Farmington Hills.

For information on the NSBA, call (810) 358-3740.

The July tournament was held at Merri Bowl Lanes.

The Michigan Masters Wheelchair Tournament will take place at Merri-Bowl in Livonia starting Friday, Aug. 19. Livonia's Bob Calderon is one of the favorites to bring home the winner's trophy. It is well worth the trip to come on down and watch these bowlers perform.

The final play of the game summed up Northville's fortune. Jenny Frisbie singled with two out, the second hit of the game for the American Division champions (they finished 12-6) — and then she was caught off base as she rounded first.

"We've been playing good ball,"

What Arnold was looking for in the Cobras was something that would help his Canton high school players improve. He found it.

"The kids came together as a team," he said. "They built some character."

How the Cobras scored their runs proved that. The first was a gift, courtesy of the Niners. Jenny Sikora singled with one out in the second, Canton's first hit of the game.

The ball got past Northville rightfielder Courtney Bartel and Sikora raced around second, heading for third. When the relay throw got past Northville third baseman Mandy Sabo, Sikora trotted home with the game's initial run.

More sloppy defense resulted in a second Cobra score in the inning. Amanda Walton reached base when centerfielder Frisbie dropped her fly ball, allowing Welton to reach second. A wild pitch by Andrea Moretti — who pitched an otherwise strong game — moved Welton to third, and Amy LaGrow's groundout scored her.

Cislo and a Wakefield ball.

Delwal was without third baseman Kelly Dransfeldt, the league's home-run leader with six in only 49 at-bats. Dransfeldt missed the game because he was attending his sister's wedding.

Wakefield was helped defensively by third baseman Joe Vondracek, who made a fine play on a bunt to throw a man out and an over-the-shoulder catch in short right field by second baseman Mike Davis on a pop fly by Pesci in the eighth.

Delwal starter Gary Mroz suffered the loss, leaving with two outs in the eighth and a 5-2 deficit. Pesci, the reliever, got the first batter he faced on strikes to end the eighth but Westland erupted again in the ninth.

Westland loaded the bases on a single, double and a walk and Lee Gardner drove in all three runs

Joe Vondracek
Westland coach

Ryan Peavey and Mark D'Antonio each finished 3-for-5 for Westland and Davis was 2-5.

"It was a hell of a game until we broke it open," Westland coach Joe Vondracek said. "Wakefield is the best pitcher in the league. This was a big win."

On Tuesday, the Broncos won for the ninth time in 10 games and clinched first place in the Eagle Conference by stopping the Huskies 12-6 at Plymouth.

Leading the winners was Tom Larson with four goals and an assist, Mark Pietila with three goals and four assists, Peter Bourke with a goal and four assists, and Keith Pietila with two goals and two assists. Robert Krohl had a goal and two assists; Bob Kangas scored once, and Brad Cook and Jim Pietila each had two assists.

The Huskies got two goals and two assists from Chris Smith, a goal and two assists from both Joe Sellers (Plymouth/Ohio State) and James Wheaton, and single goals from Jason Schneider and Darren Catanzarite (Livonia Franklin).

Dave Roach and Jim Szaszsmith split time in goal for the Broncos; Kris Kubalak was in the net for the Huskies.

Wolverines 4, Redskins 2: Scott Lock set up one third-period goal, then scored the clincher with 25 seconds left Thursday at Plymouth.

The Wolverines, now 7-3-1 and assured of second place in the Eagle Conference, led 1-0 after two periods. They were paced by Krikor Arman's two goals; Tony Gus-so also scored once. The Redskins got goals from Dwight Parrish and Eddie Switkowski.

Both Derek Billis and Thomas Best were outstanding in goal for the Wolverines; so was the Redskins' Stephen Tratechoud.

BULLDOGS 16, LAKERS 8: The second period of Tuesday's game at Plymouth was just over seven minutes old, but the outcome was pretty well decided — the Bulldogs already had a 7-1 lead, thanks to two goals and two assists from Dustin Sventy.

Sventy finished with four goals and two assists, as the Dogs improved to 6-3-1. He had plenty of help: Jody Kaufman had three goals and four assists, Matt Greene had three goals and an assist, Edward Kruschka (Livonia Franklin) had two goals and four assists, Cory Almas had two goals and an assist, and Bobby Jones scored two goals.

The Lakers (3-5-2) got two goals and two assists from David Lambeth, two goals and an assist, Carl Schumacher, a goal and two assists from Phil Saunders, two assists from Andrew Perry, and a goal from Chuck Vockler.

'Mike & Maty' prove to be a dynamic daytime duo

BY JOHN CROOK

"We're kind of like the 'Sleepless in Seattle' of talk show hosts," says Maty Monfort of her teaming with stand-up comic Michael Burger.

That's not entirely a flip comparison. TV critics around the country are hailing "Mike & Maty," airing daily on ABC, as one of the freshest and most appealing hours to hit daytime television in a long time.

"I think the show is different," Monfort says. "It's hip and younger and happier than most of the shows that are out there right now."

TV Guide recently wrote that we were one of the three wholesomest hours left. I like that - wholesomeness, in the sense that we come on and we really just want people to have a good time with us, not to feel that we're the only ones having a good time."

The only downside: Her husband, Atlanta radio station operations manager Tony Novia, has to commute to Los Angeles on weekends to see her.

Born in Pinar del Rio, Cuba, Maria Matilde Monfort (her grandmother nicknamed her Maty) was only 13 months old when she and her parents fled the Communist country in 1967 and eventually settled in Miami. Years later, she took a job as host of a local music video show to help pay for her studies at the University of Miami.

Thus began an eight-year association with Univision, a Miami-based Spanish-language cable service that made her face familiar in 18 countries. She became co-host of the variety show "Sabado Gigante" ("a really big Sabado," partner Burger translates helpfully), then served as host of "HOLA America," a live daytime talk show.

Burger, a native of Long Beach, Calif., says he knew from the age of 12 that he wanted to be a talk show host and invested a lot of his school-time toward that goal.

"Kids used to say to me in class, once they got to know me, 'How far can you get the teacher off the subject?' If I thought history was going a little slow..." he laughs. "It's so sad, I used to think of school as really a loose framework for what I did. I was really playing this kind of subliminal talk show host, working on my craft. You know, try to do a nice, tight 10 (minutes) before recess. I guess it's just something I've always wanted to do. I knew it in junior high school."

Burger managed to earn a communications degree from California State University between gags and embarked on a successful unconventional career as a cruise ship comic and a warm-up act for TV sitcom tapings.

As the Undercover Comic, Burger attended corporate board seminars and retreats, where he was introduced as a newly hired CEO. He then would outline, poker-faced, radical business changes that would take the company in question into inevitable bankruptcy, to the thinly veiled panic and nervous laughter of his corporate "peers" who swallowed it all whole.

"This thing airs five days a week. There lies the rub," he acknowledges. "I loved my life prior to this. It used to be that my biggest decision when I got up in the morning was whether to watch 'Bewitched' or 'Donahue.' Now I really have somewhere to go and somebody to report to."

Burger, who was signed for the show first, helped audition 85 female co-host applicants.

"I sat down and tried to discover, in 15 minutes or less, whether I could spend every morning with this woman. I mean, I haven't been able to do that in my personal life," says the 37-year-old bachelor. "I didn't know how I was going to do it for TV. We were looking for that little spark."

The "M&M" executives later told Monfort that when she walked in, they said to themselves, "Oh, God, please let her be able to speak!" Exactly 47 minutes later, she had the job.

Despite the accolades, "M&M" has faced an uphill battle for ratings, since the show inherited a less than prime timeslot in many markets.

"And we're proud of that," says Burger drily. "The show actually is part of a government relocation program. Until we prove our innocence, we cannot air. (In Miami we're) on at 1:30 a.m. People are going, 'Should we watch "Mike & Maty" or get ready to knock off a liquor store? Whaddya wanna do?' What kind of demographic is that? People watch this who are their own fathers. You need someone who's a little higher up the food chain dialing you in."

NFL's best QBs head south for charity

BY JEFF PLASS

The "NFL Quarterback Challenge" is no Mickey Mouse event.

Set at Walt Disney World Resort's Palm Golf Course in Orlando, Fla., the charity fund-raiser attracts some of football's best signal callers.

NBC airs Part 2 of the taped competition on Sunday, July 31, with football commentators Tom Hammond, Joe Gibbs and Paul Maguire calling the action.

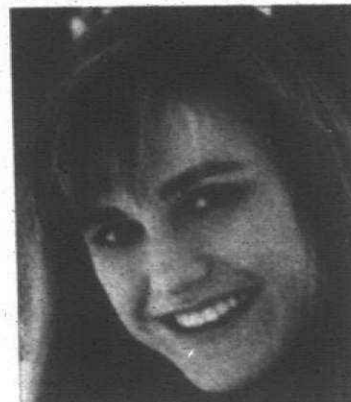

Competitors include Drew Bledsoe (New England Patriots), Randall Cunningham (Philadelphia Eagles), John Elway (Denver Broncos), Boomer Esiason (New York Jets), Warren Moon (Minnesota Vikings), Brett Favre (Green Bay Packers), Rick Mirer (Seattle Seahawks), Neil O'Donnell (Pittsburgh Steelers) and Steve Young (San Francisco 49ers).

The players compete in four events designed to measure the various skills needed to be a top NFL quarterback:

accuracy, speed and mobility, distance and recognition.

"The event that was probably the easiest, I did the worst in," O'Donnell says, referring to the accuracy portion, in which players throw at a variety of moving and stationary targets. "Hitting the stationary targets is harder than you'd think."

"People adjust to the football," he adds. "When you have stationary targets, there's no such thing."

Cynthia Geary portrays Shelly Tambo on "Northern Exposure," Mondays on CBS.

HIGHLIGHTS

Shannon Tweed stars in the premiere of "Cold Sweat" on the USA Network, Thursday, Aug. 4.

A professional hit man (Ben Cross) mistakenly kills an innocent young woman and becomes involved in a maze of double-dealing and deceit.

The movie features a bizarre array of characters (including Lenore Zann as a ghost) drawn together by an odd twist of fate.

Tweed portrays a cold-hearted wife. Adam Baldwin and Henry Czerny co-star as her lovers.

Catching up with 'Guiding Light'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I watch "As the World Turns" and I was wondering who is the actress who plays Lily. She is my favorite character, and I would like to know how to write to her.

I also watch "Guiding Light," but I have recently missed a lot of it. On one of the episodes they said that Alan-Michael's father was put in jail. Was that a way of writing him off the show? -Katie Kelton, San Angelo, Texas.

Dear Reader: The talented Martha Byrne portrays Lily on "ATWT." You can write to her in care of As the World Turns, CBS, 51 West 52nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10019.

On another note concerning Lily: Many fans have written in to say how happy they are with the pairing of Lily and Damian (Paolo Seganti). One reader wrote, "I am so glad Lily is dumping wimpy Holden. I was so tired of him whining about a woman he could barely remember. Damian is so exciting, and I think he is a perfect match for Lily."

The role of Alan Spaulding on "GL" has been taken on by actor Ron Raines. The character was last played by Daniel Pilon (Max Dubujak, "Ryan's Hope"). Alan was sent to jail because he accidentally shot his son Phillip at Blake and Phillip's wedding. At the time, the character's departure was dictated by the story line.

Dear Candace: I can see why "The Young and the Restless" didn't win very many Emmys this year. The show has become totally disgusting. Jill (Jess Walton) can't control her libido, and now John (Jerry Douglas) is acting like some kind of sex maniac. All Victoria (Heather Tom) wanted to do was get Cole (J. Eddie Peck) into bed. Now her brother, Nick (Joshua Morrow), is trying to do the same thing with someone else's girlfriend.

"Y&R" used to be my favorite show. It is time for the writers to get the show back on track. I'm tired of nothing but sex, sex, sex! -Losing Interest, Louisville, Ky.

Dear Reader: "Y&R" is definitely having one hot summer. But to its credit, except for Nick, all this lovemaking is happening between married couples.

Thiessen's number comes up '90210'; Rea to star in HBO's 'Citizen X'

Tiffani-Amber Thiessen has been picked from about 200 hopeful actresses who auditioned recently for a role on Fox's "Beverly Hills, 90210."

According to a press release, Thiessen will play Valerie Malone, "the daughter of Jim and Cindy Walsh's best friends from Minnesota. On the surface, Valerie is beautiful, smart and complex - an innocent sweet athletic all-American girl."

Thiessen's acting credits include "Saved By the Bell: The College Years" and the film "Son in Law."

The former Soviet republics are yielding another harvest for HBO Pictures, makers of "Sakharov" and "Stalin." In September, another true-life drama, "Citizen X," begins production in European locations. Based on the book "The Killer Department" by Robert Cullen, the film will depict the story of the 1982 manhunt

Stephen Rea ("The Crying Game") will star as Russian police detective Viktor Burakov, whose job it was to crack the case.

The National Association of Broadcasters reports an 81 percent increase in the amount of children's programming on TV stations nationwide since the institution of the Children's Television Act in 1991.

The average amount of weekly programming has increased from 2 hours for a serial killer who may have taken the lives of as many as 52 victims.

The NAB is hoping to pre-empt any additional regulation by the Federal Communications Commission, which licenses stations and enforces programming standards.
