Short cable contract sought

A firm hired by Canton and Plymouth to handle an agreement that allows Omnicom to sell cable television service to residents has recommended that a short-term contract be offered. Opposition is expected from the cable firm.

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

The Cable Consortium — representing Canton and Plymouth townships and cities of Northville and Plymouth — is recommending a short-term 3½-year cable franchise with Omnicom Cable.

"We told Omnicom from the start, we can do this the hard way or we can do this the easy way. A short-term franchise is their worst nightmare," said Larry Monroe of the Municon consulting firm, hired by the communities for negotiations with the cable company.

Franchise agreements between the individual communities and Omnicom expire either later this year or early 1995.

"Because of negotiations still being open, it would be inappropriate for us to comment at this time," said Lisa Boland, Omnicom general manager, about the consortium's recommendation.

The recommendation, which will go to each of the communities for approval, does not require Omnicom to make any capital improvements, such as wiring for cable in outlying areas. But the communities are requiring the full 5-percent gross revenue franchise fee allowed under the 1992 Cable Act.

By not requiring capital improvements, the consortium is trying to prevent the costs of improvements from being passed to cable subscribers, which is allowed under the cable act.

"We strongly disagree with this," Monroe said of passing costs to subscribers. "The subscribers will pay for Omnicom's right to do business."

Monroe offered plenty of reasons why the consortium is recommending the short-term franchise instead of Don Rochefort was the logical one.

"It was a community service performed by the VFW. I just happened to be the member who made them," Rochefort said, of a Canton VFW project to provide nesting boxes for birds along the Rouge River as part of the annual Rouge River Rescue.

Rochefort, a retired cabinet maker, built five nesting boxes: two for bluebirds, and one each for house wrens, wood ducks and bats.

"It's to provide a habitat for them," said John Spencer, quartermaster for Canton VFW Post 6967. A plus is that the birds and bats eat bugs and mosquitoes.

The spruce for the birdhouses and bat house was donated by Doug Mans of Mans Do It Center, 41900 Ford Road.

Joe Teramino of Canton Public Works and crew members Andy Nipper and Scott Wilson spent a morning putting up the boxes along the Rouge. And it was no easy feat. Boxes for each type of wildlife have to be put in particular spots not too far or too close — depending on the type of wildlife — to the river.

Boxes for wood ducks, for example, should be placed up to a half-mile from the river and above 20 feet on a tree and must face the water. Bat boxes have to be close to the water, while house wren boxes should be above the ground and free-hanging from a tree.

4-H participants learning how to raise animals

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

The old-fashioned way is how members of area 4-H clubs raise their animals for auction at the Wayne County Fair Aug. 9-13.

"You're getting a better animal," said Joni Stachowski of Canton, a 4-H leader for the Country Pals club and secretary of the Wayne County Fair. "When you buy the animal, you've got a little walking encyclopedia in the kid that raised the animal to tell you what that animal has eaten."

Canton-area residents are encouraged not only to attend the fair — at I-94 and Belleville Road (exit 190) — but to buy an animal from the 4-H kids who spend the year working hard to raise the animal.

"The community should support kids who achieve," Stachowski said. "I think this is an extremely important program for kids to be in. Kids just don't have anything to do. We are losing a generation."

Children and youths ages 7-20 raise animals, including rabbits, chickens, ducks, geese, lambs and goats, pigs and cattle.

"Everytime these kids bring their animal to the fair and it's alive, they all deserve a blue ribbon. They work hard," Stachowski said.

True, animals raised by the 4-H kids and sold at auction — scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 10 — are a little more expensive than in the grocery store. But the meat is considered better because the kids feed the animals with natural grains. "People

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Editor's note: Listed below are some construction projects, including residential and commercial developments, as well as road and sewer projects, that may interest Canton residents.

- Resurfacing: Preparation work for the resurfacing of Sheldon Road, north of Ford Road, is scheduled to begin the week of Aug. 8. It is expected to take two weeks. Resurfacing of the road will begin in early September, according to Wayne County.
- Public hearings: Planning commissioners are scheduled for a public hearing on proposed variances to landscape requirements for the 55-lot Pinewood subdivision at Palmer and Beck. Hearings also are scheduled for a special land use for Park Place Storage: a vehicle storage business, south of Warren, between Lotz and Hix roads; a request to rezone a parcel on the southwest corner of Michigan Avenue and Haggerty, from light industrial to regional commercial to accommodate a planned Wendy's restaurant: and a request to rezone property east of Lotz, between Ford and Warren roads, from multiple residential to regional commercial.
- Site plan: An industrial site plan for 13,875-square-foot building, north of Koppernick and east of Ronda, is under staff consideration for Mama Mucci's Pizza, a pasta provider to a number of Canton-area restaurants.
- Township projects: Work is progressing on two major township projects, Summit on the Park and Pheasant Run Golf Course, including its accompanying clubhouse and driving range. Both projects are being constructed southwest of Canton Township offices, off Canton Center Road. Walls are going up on the 83,000-square-foot Summit building on the new Summit Parkway, which is also under construction as an extension of Palmer Road. The building can be viewed at an observatory area in the south parking lot of Heritage Park.

The $13 million project will include an aquatics area with lap pool, 120-foot slide, lazy river and zero-depth pool for kids, as well as gymnasium and walk/jog track, fitness room, full-service banquet facilities, meeting rooms and senior citizen center. It is scheduled to open in the late summer-early fall 1995.

Fairways, tee boxes and greens are being formed for the new championship 18-hole Pheasant Run Golf Course, which will be owned and operated by Canton Township. It is being built to the south and west of township hall. The Arthur Hills-designed course will wind through three developments: Fairway Pines, The Fairways and Pheasant View. Seeding for the new course will begin this summer with the course scheduled to open mid-summer 1995, depending on the grow-in period.

Coffee shop owners are coming on strong

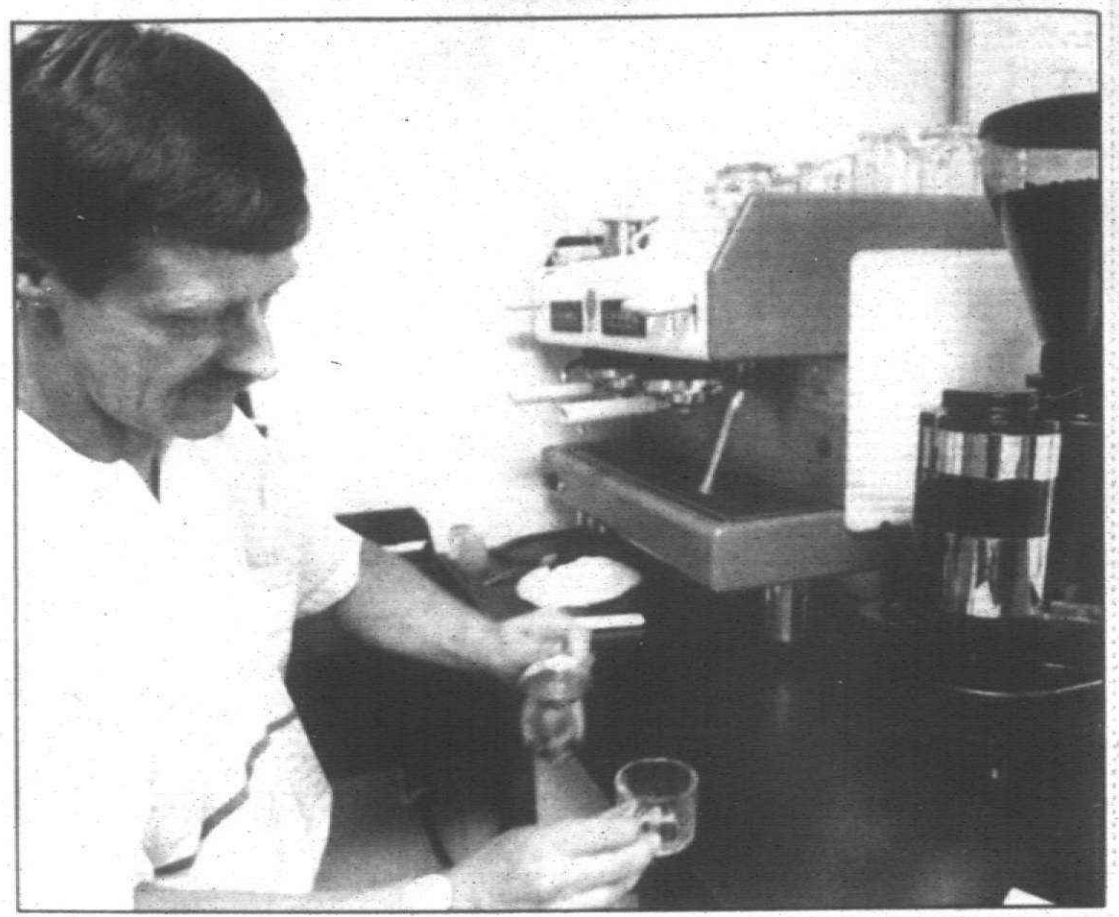
By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer



Guy Warren/Staff Photographer

Coffee takes on a whole new meaning at Caffe E Gelato in Canton.

Think about an iced black forest cappuccino float. Or how about a choco-razz or cheri-cordial?

"They are something like a milk shake with a coffee taste," said Dennis Strong, who with his wife, Carol, opened the cappuccino/espresso bar and ice cream parlor in the Coventry Commons shopping center at Joy and Morton Taylor a little more than a month ago.

Learning and experimentation is the challenge Dennis Strong loves. "We experiment on each other and with the employees," said Strong, who has eight employees. His wife spends three days a week at the shop. Nearby bank employees also get to taste-test the latest cappuccino mixtures.

Caffe E Gelato — which means coffee and ice cream in Italian — offers 35 flavors of coffee and 32 flavors of ice cream. You can have plain old coffee or go for the cappuccino with foam-steamed milk or espresso. Bulk coffee beans also are sold.

"You go through as many coffee grounds in two ounces of espresso as you do with a full pot of coffee at home," said Strong, who owned a number of convenience stores — offering hand-dipped ice cream — in Midland before moving to Canton.

Ice cream is clearly another love. Offering Stroh's ice cream and Columbo frozen yogurt, Strong plans to experiment with ice cream cakes and pies. The waffle cones are going over big. He uses a dozen eggs and a pound of butter for them.

In addition to flurries and floats, Strong plans to bake cookies and muffins at the shop. He also wants to make his own cookie sandwiches.

When you walk into Caffe E Gelato, you'll know you're not in your ordinary ice cream store. Strong likes to call it a parlor — an old-fashioned one where treats are served in glass dishes and glasses with real spoons. Coffee isn't served in Styrofoam cups either.

The Italian-style parlor boasts cafe tables and chairs. Strong is planning to further decorate with coffee bean bags on the walls. "We want an atmosphere where people can come in, read a book. Relax," Strong said. "I don't want to push anyone out."

He also invites local artists to display their works in his store. "They can sell them out of here if they would like," Strong said, adding that the art works will add to the relaxed atmosphere.

Strong can already gauge what his customers are about. Mocha cappuccino seems to be the most popular. "Everyone likes chocolate," he said. And the busiest time of the day is evening. He's amazed how people can drink a cup of strong espresso not long before bedtime.

"I have found the younger crowd really likes to experiment with different types of coffee," said Strong, who offers four coffees of the day.

Though modeled after an Italian cafe, Strong uses French-roasted Colombian coffees, not the Italian offerings. "Italian coffees are so much stronger, almost too strong."

Strong's cappuccino and espresso are what is called Seattle-style. "Actually that's where cappuccinos and espressos started out." The store also features an espresso/cappuccino machine from France. "Each cup is fresh ground," said Strong, who willingly gives away the tip that 2 percent milk foams much better for cappuccino.

When you go to the store, keep in mind that Italian floats are iced cappuccino floats and Italian sodas are coffee syrup and soda water. "The espresso is what we use for cappuccino."

Company involved in spill tracked down

Through the help of a passerby, Canton police have contacted the contracting company from whose truck a drum fell and spilled its contents by Ford and Lilley roads, Aug. 2.

"He's cooperating. He indicated he is taking care of the driver," said Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher about the owner of Six-S Contracting Inc., Waterford. The company owns the truck from which the drum fell and whose driver either knowingly or unknowingly left the scene.

By contacting the company fire officials were able to determine that the substance spilled onto the road and into the storm sewer was Safe Cure 1000, a curing agent for cement, Rorabacher said.

Traffic was hampered by partially closed lanes on Ford Road after the 55-gallon drum fell off the truck and spilled its contents. The curing agent was contained in the catch basin, Rorabacher said.

The fire chief said efforts are under way to recover the costs of emergency response and clean up of the spill, as allowed under township ordinance. The effort would recover costs of the fire and police departments, Western Wayne County HAZMAT (hazardous materials response team) and Wayne County Public Services, which cleaned up the spill.

It's unknown whether charges will be filed against the truck driver who drove away from the scene. Detectives still have to interview the driver to determine if he knowingly fled the scene or didn't know a drum had fallen off his truck, said Tammie Colling, Canton police community relations officer.

Emergency personnel, including a Tactical Assistance Group, part of HAZMAT, responded to the scene just before 6:30 p.m. The spill was cleaned up by 10:30 p.m., Rorabacher said.

Judge adjourns hearing on prostitution charges

Bill Bresler/Staff Photographer

Adjourned: Ki Yon Martin, 48, of Novi, stands with her attorney, Ellis Freatman, before 35th District Court Judge James Garber Friday. A preliminary exam on three charges against her for prostitution was adjourned for two weeks.

By Joanne Maliszewski
Staff Writer

The preliminary examination for a woman charged with operating a prostitution house in Canton has been adjourned while court officials attempt to resolve the matter.

"We're going to talk about the padlocking and the criminal matter without going into court. It would be a lengthy exam," said Larry Roberts, Wayne County assistant prosecutor.

Judge James Garber of the 35th District Court adjourned the preliminary exam Friday for Ki Yon Martin, 48, of Novi, until 11 a.m. Aug. 19.

Martin is charged with running a prostitution house and accepting proceeds from a prostitution house, both felonies. She is also charged with accosting and soliciting, which is a misdemeanor.

Chae Sim O'Keefe, 43, of Chicago, Ill., faces one count of accosting and soliciting. Following a Friday morning pretrial hearing on the charge, a bench trial was scheduled for Sept. 2. She is free on personal bond.

At the request of defense attorney Ellis Freatman, Martin's bond was reduced from $20,000/10 percent for each count to $10,000/10 percent for each count. Martin is free on bond.

Roberts said he planned to file a request Friday to close the Ocean Brite Tanning Salon in the 43000 block of Michigan Avenue, which Canton police raided July 26. Martin and O'Keefe were arrested in the raid.

Roberts is filing a request under the state's nuisance abatement law to close the tanning business. "The problem is whether the owner of the building had knowledge of what was going on there," he said, adding the owner would be asked to prevent Martin from operating the business, which remains open. "I think it would be in her best interest not to continue operating."

Police raided the salon at about 7 p.m. July 26 following a 4½-month investigation. Police had received a solicitation complaint about the business.

During the raid, police confiscated U.S. currency and other evidence. Police plan to institute state forfeiture proceedings against the business.

Path brings minister from Scotland to Plymouth

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

The path that brought the Rev. Dr. James Skimins to Plymouth didn't originate on this side of the Atlantic.

Skimins is the new senior minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth. For 11 years, he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Carlisle, Pa., in south central Pennsylvania. That church was founded in 1734; while there, he participated in a building program and raised the roof.

"Before that, I was in Glasgow, Scotland." He arrived in the U.S. in 1982, after serving at a church just south of Glasgow. The church in that country, known as the Church of Scotland, is quite similar to the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.)

He received his seminary training at the University of Glasgow and studied economics and government at the University of London.

In 1980, Skimins came over to the U.S. on an exchange program at another Pennsylvania church. "We just felt that's where God was leading us. We love Scotland, but we also love the States."

When he came back a couple of years later, he thought at first it would be as part of another exchange program of relatively short duration. Instead, he stayed and worked with that church. "So we stayed, made the permanent choice."

He and his wife, Irene, have two grown daughters, Gillian, who works for Coca-Cola, and Lesley, a college student. The Skiminses are living in Plymouth Township.

He started work Aug. 1, and appreciates the warm welcome he's received. "The people have been very gracious, very open." He gets a sense that it's a warm, caring congregation.

"It's a very pleasant community as I get to see it," he said of Plymouth. He's been impressed with the growth in the area.

"Yet the community has kept its identity and is proud of its identity. In a crazy world, these things are important, I think."

He follows in the footsteps of the Rev. Philip Rodgers Magee, and is only the fourth senior minister to serve at the church since 1926. "That's kind of unusual today. It suggests people build up a good relationship with the pastor."

His main goal at the church is to try to get to know people. He wants to make the church a place where people want to come and experience the faith.

In his free time, Skimins feels a certain kinship with the star of "Home Improvement," Tim Allen. "I'm that guy's soulmate. I do a lot of that stuff," he said of home improvement projects.

He also enjoys photography and antique cars, although he doesn't have any such cars. He's partial to cars from the 1950s, "old British sports cars, Mustangs, you name it."

Dropping of pay-to-play tops school chief's agenda

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

Decison-Maker: School superintendent Charles Little wants to scrap the pay-for-play program in the school district.

Charles Little has been superintendent of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools for less than a month, but you'd never know it given all he's grappled with so far.

Little, who just purchased a home in Plymouth Township, is still trying to sell his home near Buffalo, New York, where he was superintendent of Frontier Central Schools. Until he moves in and his family joins him in Michigan, the Red Roof Inn is home. "On my tombstone, they should write, 'He survived the Red Roof Inn, CNN, and bad movies,'" he joked.

Little took a few moments during a hectic day last week to share some thoughts on a wide range of topics.

State Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, stopped by Little's office recently. "That's the first time a legislator has been in my office. It's never happened before," Little said. "I'm continually impressed with the people in Michigan. They not only act like they know people in the House and Senate, they know them."

Little said he's been well-received in the community and hopes his wife and children, Jon, 13, Craig, 11, and Jennifer, 7, experience the same.

"They'll get used to it when they get here. It's difficult to make moves, but I hope they get the same warm welcome I've gotten," he said. His children will attend West Middle and Bird Elementary schools. Little's wife, Diane, also will be in school finishing up an accounting degree.

Pay-to-play is an item on the top of Little's agenda. Charging students to participate in co-curricular activities is an issue he plans to raise at tonight's board meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. at 454 S. Harvey.

"We're going to try to end pay-to-play. The board I hope will accept some ideas."

Little is excited about a group of more than three dozen people, representing "stakeholders" throughout the district, joining together to identify goals and objectives for the board of education.

"We'll have senior citizens, students, staff, people with kids in school, without kids in schools, parents from private schools and one or no board members.

"They'll write the goals for this year" by the end of October, he said. "We expect some honest to goodness hard work. They'll have some disagreements when they start out, but will have some goals they'll agree on.

"It's a good way to expand governance and build up support for the direction of schools. It represents empowerment. That's what this is all about."

The board itself wants to work on better communications, added Little.

Little says he plans to be accessible. "My number will be in the phone book once I move. Call me at the office or home. Anyone who calls me will get a response. People can have confidence that the superintendent is a real person," said Little.

"The heaviest investment I have in this district is my own three children. That's a pretty strong statement about the community."

On his goals: "I want young people in this school district to be the most successful for miles around. I expect them to own McDonald's franchises; not to be waiters. We will be at the top of the heap once we get a focus on teaching and learning."

To get there, "We have to work though a lot of mechanical issues and settle these contracts that are open."

Being negotiated are the teachers' wage re-opener and the unsettled contracts of maintenance and transportation staff, the secretarial and paraprofessional unions, and licensed technicians.

Another "must" involves attitude. "Everyone in Plymouth-Canton needs to focus on our positive achievements. We need to be aware of them and spread the word," said Little, adding he's never seen anything to top the instructional technology Plymouth-Canton is installing.

Inevitable, said Little, is that the district will need more money in the form of enhanced millage or a bond issue. "But I don't foresee asking the public until we have our goals clearly in focus."

Little said he decided to make the move because "There's a real challenge here. This is a top district in an attractive part of the country. I feel comfortable here now."

say it tastes totally different," Stachowski said.

And you don't have to buy an entire animal by yourself. You can make partners with someone else. You can also arrange to have the animal slaughtered and packaged.

The slaughter bill is an additional charge. "But it's cheaper to buy through the auction. Bob Boyer (of Boyer's Meat Processing in Canton) gives a break for people who buy through the auction," Stachowski said. Many well-known stores also buy through the auction.

And because 4-H is a nonprofit organization, purchases through the auction are tax-deductible over the market price. Kids in 4-H also put up signs at their spots in the fair advertising who or which company bought their animal.

In addition to the auction, the country fair — open 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. — offers horse shows, merchant exhibits, a carnival, pony rides, live bands and fire safety house. Senior Citizen Day is scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 9. Children's Day is Thursday, Aug. 11. Rodeo Days is scheduled 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 13, and 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 14. Admission is $3 for adults until 5 p.m. and $5 after 5 p.m. Admission for children 6-14 years is $1 all day. Admission for children younger than 6 years is free.

Stachowski encourages residents to attend the fair and to participate in the auction as a symbol of support for 4-H kids, many of whom live in Canton's subdivisions.

"It teaches them to be kinder people. They learn how to take care of something. But they realize they are raising animals that are going to be slaughtered," Stachowski said.

The 4-H program also teaches kids how to be responsible — other living creatures are depending on them. And they soon learn how to set goals. The 4-H program also keeps kids involved even if they don't raise their own animal.

Stachowski has many of the 4-H kids stop by her acreage on Cherry Hill to help or to just be with the animals. "They are good kids," she said. "All the kids are required to help at the fair."

Changes in store for festival

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

There are a few changes for this year's Plymouth Fall Festival, Sept. 9-11, but traditional activities will return.

A part of Main Street between Penniman and Fralick, usually blocked off during the three-day festival, will only be blocked off on Sunday.

And this year, some festival activities will happen on Ann Arbor Trail between Union and Forest, causing that section of street to be closed to traffic.

"We have some new rides and entertainment for kids," said festival manager John Bida.

"There's going to be art in a bottle, an Orbitron gyroscope you get into, a Velcro wall, kiddie rides, and some new musical entertainment this year," Bida said.

The festival traditionally provides a range of activities in the area around Kellogg Park. Food booths and food events provide area service clubs a chance to raise money to pay for activities that benefit the community.

Festival opening ceremonies are scheduled for 6-6:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9, at the festival stage off of Kellogg Park.

The ceremonies are followed by bingo sponsored by the Plymouth Business and Professional Women at The Gathering.

From 6:30-7:30 p.m. at the stage the Canton Senior Citizens Kitchen Band performs. The Plymouth Community Band follows, from 7:30-8:30 p.m.

Saturday morning activities open with the Kiwanis pancake breakfast; cost is $5. The day-long arts and crafts show happens Saturday at Central Middle School.

At the festival stage Saturday, the Plymouth Optimist Club Pet Show is scheduled for 9-11:30 a.m. Prize ribbons are available in separate contests for dogs, cats and most unusual pets.

The Friends of the Dunning-Hough Library feature stories from 11:30-11:45 a.m. and the Polish Centennial Dancers perform from 12:30-1:30 p.m.

The Plymouth Theater Guild performs from 6-7 p.m., and Karaoke — a top festival attraction the last two years — returns from 7-9:30 p.m.

Sunday activities are headed by the Rotary Chicken Barbeque from noon to 6 p.m. Advance tickets are $6, and tickets sold on Sunday cost $7.

Also Sunday, an antique car show featuring 100 classic cars happens on Ann Arbor Trail just south of the park.

On the festival stage, the Plymouth Canton high schools marching band performs at noon, followed by the Rockettes and Chiefettes at 12:30 p.m.

The Plymouth Community Chorus performs at 2 p.m., followed by the 2-20 Band at 2:30 p.m.

There will be free kids rides all three days, and the fire safety house will also be open through the festival.

Temple Baptist Church decision expected

By Kevin Brown
Staff Writer

A decision on whether to allow Temple Baptist Church to move to Plymouth Township could happen at the Wednesday Aug. 17 township planning commission meeting, at township hall.

Neighbors of the proposed 4,000-seat church on 56 acres at the southwest corner of Ridge and North Territorial have turned out for public meetings on the request in recent months, to voice disapproval.

Nearly 100 neighbors turned out for a planning commission work session Wednesday. Temple Baptist Church appeared at the work session to refute some claims made by the township's planning consultants, McKenna and Associates, regarding traffic problems that would be caused by the church development.

Dennis Cebulski, planning commission chairman, said that after receiving a recommendation from McKenna last month that the project did not fit in with township plans for the area, planning commissioners were ready in July to rule on whether to accept the project.

Opponents of the project also wanted the planning commission to rule on the request to rezone the land now zoned for agricultural use. But planning commissioners delayed the vote. "We received a letter from Temple Baptist's attorney requesting us to table (delay) any vote until they had the opportunity to respond to concerns raised in planning consultant's report," Cebulski said.

Mark DeMoss, director of operations for the church, said a traffic study prepared by a consulting firm for the church found that roads could handle the increased traffic, with some addition of extra trafic lanes the church would pay for.

"We're trying to be a benefit to the community," he said last month.

Cebulski said that at the work session Wednesday, "What they (Temple) did was just rehash their original proposal, there was no real discussion of mitigating concerns raised in the McKenna report."

But while the planning commission could finally rule on the request Aug. 17, Cebulski said, "There are a few items that need to be clarified," including conflicting traffic figures provided by the township consultant and church consultant.

In ruling on the church request, Cebulski said the planning commission's role is to determine if the development fits in with the overall land use plan — and the township's planning consultant says it doesn't.

McKenna Associates in a report presented to the planning commission last month found the proposal "is out of scale for a primarily low density single family residential area and because of its size will not be in harmony with the orderly and appropriate development."

the traditional 15-year agreement, which Omnicom requested and has operated under in the past.

The consortium wants to hold Omnicom to its historic argument that it prefers competition to regulation. Ameritech's plans to provide video and other services loom on the horizon, Monroe said.

"Omnicom knows Ameritech is coming in to compete with them," Monroe said, adding that Omnicom wants to rebuild and improve its system. "They need fiber optics. If Omnicom doesn't do this, Ameritech will take over. Let the the laws of economic competition take over. No other business in the country operates with the right to do business."

Consortium members also don't want to enter into a long-term agreement because the 1992 Cable Act is still undergoing changes as are Federal Communication Commission regulations. "You don't want to enter into a long-term relationship when you don't know what the rules will be," Monroe said.

While a franchise agreement is not required, the communities may operate under a local multi-channel service provider ordinance, which assures increased accountability. The ordinance doesn't take effect until a franchise agreement is signed or the existing one expires, Monroe said.

"This is the key to protecting the communities and the residents," Monroe added.

Omnicom has a right to a formal administrative hearing. At that time Omnicom can submit its proposal for a 15-year agreement to each of the consortium's member governing boards. The process gives the consortium communities 120 days to make a preliminary decision on the request. The process also allows Omnicom an administrative hearing before the communities during which both sides may call witnesses.

"We're going to say we are not going to accept that proposal," Monroe said.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT
DISTRICT NO. 1

Notice is hereby given that the Plymouth City Commission will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, September 6, 1994, at 7:00 P.M. in the Commission Chambers at City Hall, 201 S. Main Street, to consider the following:

Amendment of Industrial Development District No. 1, to exclude all industrial properties currently in said District, except for the following:

1. Industrial Strainer, 695 Amelia (Tax No. 005-06-0001-000)
2. Classic Container, 350 S. Mill (Tax No. 006-09-0632-003)
3. Adistra Corporation, 171 Hamilton (Tax No. 006-07-0662-002)
4. Skyway Precision, 41225 Plymouth Road (Tax No. 007-99-0001-001)

In 1983, the City established Industrial Development District No. 1 to include all properties zoned I-1 Light Industrial and I-2 Heavy Industrial. The purpose of the proposed action is to amend the District so that it contains only those properties which have active Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificates, or which are actively being reviewed for such certificates. This would allow the City to consider future requests for industrial tax abatement on an individual basis, and to establish Industrial Development Districts or Plant Rehabilitation Districts where appropriate in accordance with the current statutory provisions.

Comments concerning the proposed amendment to Industrial Development District No. 1 may be submitted in writing or in person at the public hearing, or in writing to the City Clerk prior to the hearing.

Suburban women survive primary challenges

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Suburban Republican women in the State House of Representatives survived a host of primary challenges Aug. 2.

Reasons for the challenges were many. For one thing, women are rising in the GOP hierarchy and incurring the wrath of anti-tax voters. Many faced boilerplate charges of being "out of touch" with their districts as they rose in the House ranks.

Another reason was the abortion issue: About 70 percent of women lawmakers tend to be pro-choice while 70 percent of men are pro-life, regardless of party.

A suburban sampling of House races:

■ Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, landed on the Appropriations Committee in her fifth term and was challenged by two men in the primary. Thomas Augustyn Sr., endorsed by Right to Life, ran second. Bankes' vote total topped 60 percent.

■ Jan Dolan, R-Farmington Hills, had the toughest challenge, turning back Andrew Raczkowski by 50.6 to 49.4 percent. Dolan, as associate speaker pro tem, ranks No. 3 in the GOP hierarchy. She took heat on school tax Proposal A, which did little to help her affluent district. Dolan also absented herself from half of the Christmas Eve marathon session which adopted Proposal A.

Raczkowski was endorsed by Right to Life, though abortion wasn't openly an issue. RTL typically works through contributions and phone banks.

■ Barbara Dobb, R-Union Lake, won 68 percent of the vote in a three-way primary in a tax-sensitive, lakes-area district. Though not high in the hierarchy, Dobb has shown a propensity to kick over the traces in the House Taxation Committee. Right to Life made no endorsement.

■ Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak, got 63 percent of the vote against two men in her four-way primary, in a district which includes part of Troy. Right to Life made no endorsement. The pro-choice Johnson is No. 2 Republican on the House Appropriations Committee.

■ Susan Munsell, R-Howell, outdistanced three male rivals in her eastern Livingston County district. Munsell has been in the House's inner circle of school finance reformers and has launched a battle to rewrite the unpopular single business tax. Right to Life endorsed challenger Dave Stewart, who openly campaigned against Munsell's pension vote and finished second.

First-term Reps. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton, and Penny Crissman, R-Rochester, had no primary challenges.

On the Democratic side, Eileen DeHart of Westland won a three-way primary to succeed her boss, Rep. Justine Barns. Right to Life will back Republican nominee Michael Novak. Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, had no primary challenge.

Women's county

Washtenaw County, home of the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University, favored women heavily in the Aug. 2 Democratic primaries for Congress and the Legislature.

In the U.S. Senate race, hometowner Lana Pollack got more than double the vote of her five male rivals combined. Statewide, Pollack finished second.

In the 13th Congressional District Democratic race, Washtenaw voters plunked 4-1 for Lynn Rivers of Ann Arbor, swamping the slight margin Dave Geiss won in the Wayne County portion of the district.

Washtenaw Democrats favored Alma Smith 3-1 over a man in the 18th State Senate primary and backed Liz Brater by nearly 2-1 over a man in the 53rd House District primary to succeed Rivers. Rep. Mary Schroer, R-Ann Arbor, had no primary opposition.

Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, was one of the few lawmakers in Michigan to get a totally free ride — no primary opponent Aug. 2, no Republican opposition Nov. 8 in his 54th House District.

Republicans in Washtenaw County split their tickets: men in the U.S. Senate race, state Senate and 52nd House District races; women in the 13th Congressional District (in the Democratic primary) and 53rd House District.

The awards are meant to recognize teachers who use cable TV in instruction. The winners are media production services director Patricia Derry, video communications instructor Charles Derry, producer/editor Suzanne Boyd, and TV systems engineer Daniel Boyd.

Of the 5,000 instructors enrolled in MTV's database, just 15 instructors or groups in the U.S. received the award.

The award was given in recognition of two videos produced during the Music Video Production segment of the 1993 summer institute at Madonna.

As part of the instruction for this course, special emphasis was placed on the evolution of MTV and its programs, particularly MTV's "Cable in the Classroom."

Fash Bash at 25 still wows fans

Hudson's and the DIA's Founders Junior Council marked the silver anniversary of Fash Bash Aug. 3 with the glitz and dazzling theatrics that always make this evening event a much anticipated extravaganza.

As a result of their efforts, $300,000 was raised to fund Detroit Institute of Arts programs and aquisitions.

The sell-out audience of 5,000 was wowed by the dramatic sets, the Broadway-like choreography, the dance-theater production numbers and, especially, the "rockapella" performance of The House Jacks, a high-energy vocal group from California.

But what about fashion? In an event of such magnitude we often lose sight of the actual presentation of fall fashion trends.

"The choreography was so fabulous and the sets so fascinating, I don't really remember too many of the clothes," said Donna Anderson of Bloomfield Hills. Her thoughts were echoed by others who were totally captivated by the swinging '40s nightclub, the pastoral forest scene, the provacative salute to James Bond, and the flashy neon in a futuristic setting. Many did, however, come away with some favorite fall fashion trends.

Sharon Hatchett of West Bloomfield eyed a romantic long black dress in the show's finale. It stood out in the collection of mostly short, simple slip dresses and flirty prom looks.

Sherry McCormick of Bloomfield Hills and Anne Schodowski and Beverly Sokol of Birmingham all agreed that the fashions had a youthful appeal. "Grunge and plaid stood out," said McCormick. Their favorite looks were the heathered knits, shearlings and warm layers in the outdoor forest set. They also liked the subdued colors for fall and the sweeping fur-trimmed coats.

The school yard sprang to life in one segment, highlighting a return to school girl charm—plaid jumpers, kilts, over-the-knee socks and pleated skirts. This was N'Diva Arhm of Hamtramck's least favorite trend. "I really don't like the little girl look," she said adding that she otherwise enjoyed the fashions and the spectacle.

Street beats

The following trends are the ones that impressed me as being most important for Fall '94 as presented by Hudson's at Fash Bash '94.

Look for a return to glamour in coats trimmed in fake fur, sophisticated Amelia Earhart aviator-inspired suits with sexy fitted jackets and skirts of all lengths, silky slip dresses, feather boas, pearls and kid gloves.

The fun and flirty school girl look requires a plaid kilt or jumper, over-the-knee socks, Mary Janes, neon vests, and a bright yellow slicker.

Activerwear is best in futuristic colors of cycling shorts, unitards and shimmering sweats.

Heathered neutrals come to knitwear in cozy layers with fringed shawls, stocking caps boots, shearling and mohair sweaters.

Plan to make most of fall shopping

■ Back to school shopping? Remember these three little words and you won't go wrong this season: Plaid, denim, baggy.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Paula Conner of Waterford brought three teenagers to Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi last week to begin the first in a series of back to school shopping trips.

"The girls will pick up a few classic items like jeans and plaid T-shirts," she said. "But the real shopping is done a week after school begins, when they see what the other kids are wearing."

Richard Fair, manager of Tel-Twelve Mall in Southfield confirmed the trend.

"Yes, and it's quite a Michigan thing," he said. "I've come from the Washington-Virginia area where peak school shopping times are the weeks before school starts. Here, the back to school shopping figures go higher after school gets under way."

Kathy O'Malley, manager of Northland Mall seconded the notion.

"Oh definitely. The heavy back to school buying comes in September," she said. "After the kids see what their classmates are wearing."

Tips to ease school shopping trips

Before shopping:

- Go through the clothes you've already got to create a list of what you need.
- Eliminate worn, outgrown, and ill-fitting items.
- Decide what separates or accessories can spruce-up existing outfits.
- Jot down family member's sizes and color preferences in a notebook.
- Staple fabric swatches from clothing items to be matched in the notebook.
- When shopping for a specific item, wear the shoes and undergarments to be worn with that garment.
- Before buying an item of clothing, note content labels for durability and care.

After shopping:

- Reinforce buttons, snaps, seams of each item purchased.
- Secure or remove loose threads and strings.
- Remove the crocheted, stringy belt loops added by manufacturer.
- To reinforce pockets, sew triangular stitches at each pocket corner.
- Write family name on inside labels of clothing that might get lost at school.
- Iron patches on the inside of jacket elbows and pant knees to strengthen stress points.

Parisian draws crowds of curious shoppers

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Midweek through Parisian Department Store's grand opening, more than 5,000 shoppers had visited the store and 4,000 charge cards were opened.

Parisian's Michigan debut by all accounts appears to be a tremendous success.

"It's a beautiful store," said Kay Taylor of Livonia. "It's a lot more elaborate than I envisioned."

Taylor pointed to the store's elegant display cases, well-furnished fitting rooms and numerous sitting areas.

"I'm also very impressed with the quality of Parisian's merchandise and the store's friendly atmosphere."

Parisian, a Birmingham, Ala.-based fashion retailer, opened it's 31st store on Aug.1 at the Laurel Park Place in Livonia. Donald Hess, Parisian's president and third generation member of the store's founding family, hosted a pre-opening event joined by other members of his family and Livonia city officials. The highlight of the evening was Parisian's gift of $10,000 to Crossroads of Michigan which was nominated for the award along with 120 other non-profit family aid agencies.

Parisian from page 6A

Parisian's 150,000 square foot store offers men's wear, junior's, shoes and accessories on the lower level, and women's fashions and a children's shop on the second floor. A central escalator unites both shopping areas while a barrier-free floor plan allows customers to see all departments in one sweeping glance.

Parisian's pride is its customer service as new sales associate Fern Adelstein explained, "We can stay with a customer as long as he or she needs us."

"There are no fences between departments either," Adelstein said. "If I'm helping a woman select a suit and she says she needs a tie for her husband, I can get her a cup of coffee and then select a few ties for her to choose from. I'm very excited to be working in a store where such service is possible."

In the alterations department, Alicia Norton pressed the fall fashions used in the store's grand opening design shows. She offered her impressions of her new employer.

"At Parisian I have state of the art equipment to make my job easier," she said. "The pressing machine has separate parts for sleeves and collars and that means less hand motions for me. They've given me great tools to work with here and that makes a big difference."

A Farmington Hills woman who did not want to be identified "because I called in sick at work today," marveled at the floor to ceiling mirrors in the fitting rooms.

"Look there are also three-way mirrors in the dressing rooms so you don't have to walk back out in the store to see your rear view. There are coffee bars next to the rooms, too. Very sophisticated. Reminds me a little of Neiman Narcus but without the Neiman Marcus price tags," she said.

Shoppers will appreciate restrooms conveniently located on both floors of the store. Moms and dads will appreciate the spacious unisex diaper changing area in the children's department complete with a sink and place to watch cartoons nearby.

Parisian focuses on "value pricing in all departments of the store," according to Elliot Marcus, store manager. "If any item we carry is found for less somewhere else, we will gladly meet that price."

Marcus said Parisian holds two storewide sales each year, one after Easter and the other the first week in October. The baby sale starts Aug. 11. "The Golden Opportunity Sale," a career wear sale for men and women, begins Aug. 18. Another is held in February.

Merchandise lines carried by Parisian include Jones New York, Ellen Tracy, Liz Claiborne, Karen Kane and Raefaella for women; Polo Ralph Lauren, Tommy Hilfiger, Timberland, J.J. Farmer and Alexander Julian for men, Cole-Haan, Nina, Enzo and 9-West shoes; Coach, Dooney & Bourke and LJ Simone accessories; Buster Brown, Gant, Hartstrings, Tommy Hilfiger, and Eagle Eye for children; Clinique, Estee Lauder, Elizabeth Arden and Lancome cosmetics.

The other major retailer at Laurel Park Place is Jacobson's, which is treating itself to a new look right now. The store will be remodeled by the end of August with many special events planned.

Robert Shostak, an owner of Laurel Park Place, said the search for a second major retailer at the five-year-old center happened over time.

"We looked at a half-dozen department stores around the country," he said. "Parisian was chosen for its uniqueness, level of service and quality of merchandise. Jacobson's set the tone for this center."

Other retailers at Laurel Park Place include Gantos, The Limited, Jos. A. Banks, Ann Taylor, Eddie Bauer, Talbots, Williams-Sonoma, Victoria's Secret, Gap Kids, Petite Sophisticate and several fashion boutiques. There is a Marriott Hotel Convention Center on the property, a United Health Spa, and an AMC Theater.

Shopping from page 6A

Stephanie Conner, 13, an 8th grader at Mason Elementary, predicted that this year's school fashions will echo last year's with the must-haves including plaid, flannel shirts, baggy-fit Levi's, No Fear T-shirts, baby-doll dresses and sweatshirts from The Gap.

For the younger set, Gap Kids manager Jennifer Moilanen said sweats, overalls, and denim separates dominate fall collections with appliques adding interest to the traditional styles.

Co-eds Kim Lenz, a freshman at Miami of Ohio, and Sarah Courneya a freshman at Michigan State, each bought a plaid kilt for fall from The Gap at Twelve Oaks.

"The rest of my wardrobe will consist of sweaters, jeans and T-shirts," Lenz said. "But I just had to have something plaid. It's everywhere." Courneya nodded in agreement.

Virginia Schnittman of West Bloomfield said she and her twin sons, Billy and Bobby, 6, make a day of back to school shopping at Summit Place Mall in Waterford. On their list this year are "shoes that light up, lunch boxes, and Levi jeans from Sears."

"Here's a tip," Schnittman said. "Buy your children's Levi's from Sears because under the store's Kids Vantage Warranty, Sears replaces worn out jeans with a new pair in the same size if you have a receipt and it's within a year of purchase."

A Sears spokesman confirmed the deal and added, "That applies to all items of children's clothing from Sears."

High school students Tom and Ted Warner of Garden City were shopping for plaid, flannel shirts at the American Eagle Outlet store at the Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

"No matter what anyone says, the Grunge-look still rules," Tom said. "It's cheap. It's comfortable. And it's cool."

The "cheap" conclusion came as a shock to Tom's mom Alice Warner who said she expects to spend about $500 on each son's school wardrobe.

"And that won't include a winter coat," she sighed.

Ten out of the 10 families interviewed while shopping for school clothes, estimated they would spend between $300-$500 outfitting one child for school.

ART ON THE EDGE

Bill Hansen

His glass art fosters success

By Linda Ann Chomin
Special Writer

Stan Megdall knew from the age of 15 that he was hooked on the time-honored craft of glass blowing but didn't want to end up a starving artist.

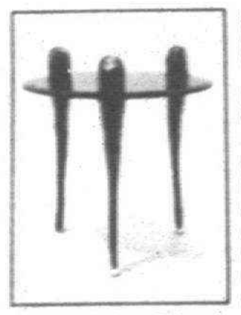
In a few weeks, Megdall will fire up the furnace in his new West Bloomfield glass studio after closing the first one built in Birmingham in 1990. Hardly, the mark of a struggling artist.

Success has not been a snap, however, for the 29-year-old graduate of Center for Creative Studies' College of Art and Design. It meant throwing out the rules after learning the basics. He has spent thousands of hours honing his skills and individual style before the blasting heat of a 2,000-degree furnace.

"I came to a fork in the road. I had to ask myself, do I want to do sculptural glass that tells a story? Instead, I chose to make saleable art, but very slowly even the perfume bottles are moving toward more sculptural elements," said Megdall who taught glass blowing for several years at the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association.

"My body of work is very organic. I don't have one particular style. I come up with new ideas every day. I sketch three dimensional pieces first. Everything is very different."

Several key elements have led to his financial success so far. They include the creation of large lyrical bowls, perfume bottles with painterly persuasions and paperweights that give the impression of movement by incorporating the fluid lines of dichroic glass, not an inexpensive element with one 14-inch square sheet costing $400.



Over the years, Megdall has produced everything from tiles for a Huntington Woods home to a contemporary three-legged end table, his latest design.

"I've always done the tripod stand; it evolved into tables. Glass is very confining in size, and I wanted something more substantial to incoroporate the legs with, so I came up with the tripod legs and the disc of glass. Next will be a two-tiered table by the end of the year."

Megdall has no qualms about creating a specific type or color of table for a client, another key element to his success as a glass artist.

"I've also done them in different sizes. People say they want a corner filled. I have no problem with being able to adapt my work, larger or smaller in different colors. That doesn't bother me."

Working in glass does present problems of which Megdall is well aware and allows for during the 40-hour weeks he spends in the studio.

"Glass is very unforgiving. It's such an immediate medium. You can't work one hour and come back to it and pick up where you left off. You're confined to a certain time space," said the glass artist whose ornament was displayed on the official White House tree last Christmas.

"It's a difficult medium. Glass is not a tactile medium. The human aspect of it is gone because you can never get your fingertips on it."

Megall first became interested in crafts while taking a clay class with Barbara Friedman at Birmingham Groves High School. He credits her for giving him the encouragement needed to continue in the arts.

Before blowing glass under the tutelage of Albert Young and Herb Babcock and learning about nonfunctional furniture with Maxwell Davis at CCS, he studied clay with Marvin Zender at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. Megdall has work in the permanent collection of the Corning Museum of Glass in New York.

"Switching to glass from clay was a very natural step. A lot of glass artists begin in clay. With glass you don't have to deal with shrinkage," Megdall said. "A lot of artists say you get addicted to glass. Glass has this mystique about it. If you've ever stared into a camp fire, you know how the fire mesmerizes you.

"I spend hundreds of hours in front of the fire working. Glass as a glowing, molten mass requires all of your attention. You become addicted to it."

Beyond that, Megdall sees in glass the same attractive qualities the average person finds pleasurable.

Nothing fishy about Claypool

■ The Rollins Band and Helmet play Pontiac with a relatively unknown group Sausage. The band's show will be a nice surprise for Primus fans when they see bassist Les Claypool hit the stage.

By Christina Fuoco
Staff Writer

Linked to Primus: A side project of Primus's eccentric bassist Les Claypool (center), Sausage — with Todd Huth (left) and Jay Lane — performs with Helmet and the Rollins Band Aug. 12.

Despite contrary belief, fishing does not rule bassist Les Claypool's life.

"It's not like I'm obsessed with fishing," said Claypool who is linked with fishing as much as he is with his band Primus. "I think that's something that the press has locked on to. It doesn't dominate my life."

Well, there's always worse things he could be accused of.

"I could be a tabloid heroin addict," he said before breaking into his nasal, lecherous laugh.

He admits that he did do a little fly fishing before he started a summer tour with his side project, Sausage which opens for the Rollins Band and Helmet on Friday, Aug. 12, at the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre in Pontiac.

Sausage is a new old group featuring the three original members of Primus — Claypool, guitarist Todd Huth and drummer Jay Lane. Some of the songs on their debut album "Riddles Are Abound Tonight" are revamped versions of previously unreleased Primus material.

Huth, who shared co-writing credits on Primus's first two releases "Suck on This" and "Frizzle Fry," and Lane left Primus just as the band was gaining nationwide notoriety. Huth decided to raise a family instead of touring the United States. Lane committed to the band, The Freaky Executives, who were signed to Warner Bros. Records.

"We always knew we were going to work together someday. It was a good opportune time," Claypool said.

It took five years for the band to reunite because the trio's hectic schedules. Aside from Primus, Claypool keeps himself busy with his record label Prawn Song, which co-released Sausage's album with Interscope Records. Two of Lane's bands — the Charlie Hunter Trio and Alphabet Soup — are releasing records on Prawn Song.

"I put this label together to help out a lot of talented musicians who I know can put out something creative without it being tampered with," Claypool said.

STREET BEATS

Another band on his roster is Eskimo which Claypool calls a combination of Frank Zappa and Captain Beefheart.

"It's all pretty eclectic."

Huth is a member of Porch who released a single on the Alternative Tentacles label.

"My playing is much more melodic," Huth said. "When I'm playing with Porch, it's a lot more thrashy and heavy. When I'm jamming with Sausage, my attitude toward playing changes into a completely different focus. I'm playing with old friends, but there's always something new happening."

Working with Sausage is just as relaxing for Claypool. "It's a lot looser, a lot more casual," he said.

Incidentally, Primus hasn't broken up or put on indefinite hold. Claypool will join guitarist Larry Lalonde and Tim (Herb) Alexander to record their follow-up to "Pork Soda" after Claypool finishes his tour with Sausage. He added that Sausage will "probably do another record in a year or two."

While Claypool's bass slappin' is still the star of the band, Huth's bluesy, melodic guitar is the primary difference between Sausage and Primus. Claypool describes Sausage as being "definitely more groove-oriented" than Primus.

Unlike Primus, Sausage hasn't gotten a tremendous amount of press and publicity. So when the anonymous band hits the stage, audience members are surprised to see the eccentric bass player center stage.

"I think there's a large hunk that don't realize that, a pretty good size. It's either a good surprise or a bad surprise," he laughed.

Sausage plays an all-ages show with the Rollins Band and Helmet at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 12, at the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre, 10 Water St., Pontiac. For more information, call (810) 334-1999 or (810) 645-6666.

Veteran musicians come back as Spank

By Christina Fuoco
Staff Writer

Last December, Red C musicians Tim Diaz and Joe Lambert had the urge to start a side project. The roots rock band had collected numerous awards over the years, and the catchy tune the quartet sings in a McDonald's radio commercial was still getting airplay. But still they yearned for something different.

"We were just looking for something else; we wanted something that maybe was a little harder edged than Red C," Lambert said.

They jammed a few times with vocalist Dion Roddy and drummer Todd Kulman, whose band Missionary Stew had ended its reign in 1992 as one of the city's most popular groups. Then, in December 1993, the group agreed to play a gig at St. Andrew's Hall to "test the waters," Lambert said.

"We got together just for fun and then we had an opportunity to play that first show with The Hannibals and we basically did it on a lark," Lambert said.

But in the back of their minds, they were seriously considering a future with Spank, Roddy said.

"We scheduled the show because we wanted to see how it would do, what it would sound like," Roddy said. "We had ideas of forming a band. We just didn't think it would become as serious and focused as we are now."

It was the positive feedback from the show that persuaded the quartet to take Spank a little more seriously. Lambert was so confident in the band that he left Red C. (Red C's drummer Brian Ferriby left as well. He's now a member of the Tearjerks.)

As fate would have it, Red C folded a few months later and Diaz committed his musical talents to Spank. Kulman bowed out of the project and was replaced by former Ash Can Van Gogh drummer Nino Dmytryszyn.

Roddy calls Spank a "hybrid of early Missionary Stew and late Red C." The songs aren't mirror images of the two bands' material, but aspects of the duo can be found sprinkled throughout. For example, the song "Two-Part Harmony" features the rootsy personality of Diaz's and Roddy's guitars. Roddy shares his vocal versatility in the Missionary Stew-esque "Hammerhead," while bassist Lambert explores a funky groove that was restrained in Red C.

Lambert and Diaz brought along something else that they felt was out of place in Red C.

"We brought our enthusiasm," said Lambert, also a former member of Radio Caroline.

Still, Spank has allowed the four musicians to explore musical territory that had once been marked "hands off" by ex-bandmates.

"We were playing some songs that weren't quite suited for Red C," Lambert said about Spank's first few practices. "I was able to bring in some songs because I was never able to bring them into Red C, and Dion had some new songs, too."

The collaboration has led to the lush harmonies that have become the trademark of Spank, which is currently working on their debut album at the Tempermill in Ferndale and the White Room studios in Detroit. It's due to be out in the fall.

Roddy agreed that three-part harmonies are one of Spank's strong points, but he feels there are other aspects that need to be equally considered.

"The songwriting . . . We have a lot of depth; that's the biggest drawing point for me," Roddy said. "At the same time, we have a deep well of talent. I've never worked with better people."

Veterans of the Detroit music scene, the members of Spank are quite aware of how egos, personality conflicts and creative differences can sometimes interfere with success. Although it seems like four friends getting together to start a band would be a nightmare, it's worked out well for Spank.

"We all knew each other; we always got along really well with each other when we played shows. We thought it would be fun to get together and jam a bit," Lambert said.

"It's nice to work with decent people you can deal with," added drummer Dmytryszyn, a former Birmingham resident who spent the last few years gigging through Europe with another band.

Spank isn't perfect. Every relationship has its problems, but the foursome believes that the rocky relationships of the past won't be repeated this time around.

"I've been in bands for eight years, and this is the first band (where) after three months, I don't dislike one of them," Lambert said.

"Glass has a jewel quality to it like diamonds, or it can go matlike with pate de verre or be very earthy. Glass, there's nothing like it. It's shiny, almost Hollywoody."

Megdall and wife, Debbie will do 20 shows this year. Most recently they exhibited his work at the State Street Art Fair, one of the three Ann Arbor Art Fairs. Megdall's glass is also on display at the Chet Street Gallery in Walled Lake, Atrium Gallery in Northville, Private Collection Gallery in West Bloomfield and in his own studio by appointment.

"If it weren't for Debbie, if she didn't market the work I'd be nowhere," said Megdall.

DFT experiments with Monday series

By John Monaghan
Special Writer

With Royal Oak's Main Art Theatre now showing alternative films on at least two of its three screens, you'd think that the Detroit Film Theatre would be struggling to fill its seasonal schedule. Quite the contrary, as witnessed by a new series the DFT launches next week.

Simply called Detroit Film Theatre Monday Series, the new program will hold 7 p.m. screenings of films that, according to film curator Elliot Wilhelm, "appeal to a more skewed view of the world."

Documentaries and low-budget independents are key to the series, which begins with "Freedom on My Mind" on Aug. 15. The powerful new film, full of priceless archival footage and recently-shot interviews, chronicles the civil rights struggles of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party in the early 1960s.

The schedule continues with "High Lonesome: The Story of Bluegrass Music" on Aug. 22.

"The theater has changed a lot over the last few years," noted Wilhelm. "We started by showing different films every night we were open. We began to spread those films out to two nights and then entire weekends to accommodate our audiences. A lot of the pictures we wanted to present had to wait until the following schedule."

Vintage films, once a DFT staple on Saturday and Sunday nights, will also have a showcase on Mondays. "The Conformist," a restored version of Bernardo Bertolucci's 1971 masterwork, appears Sept. 19. "The Queen," a 1968 underground oddity about the drag "Miss All-American Camp Beauty Pageant," teams with "Split," an updated portrait of the earlier film's drag queen star. Catch both Sept. 12.

MOVIES

While most of the films will be shown only once, three will enjoy regular release. The most anticipated of these is "Pulp Fiction," the latest from "Reservoir Dogs" director Quentin Tarantino. John Travolta, Uma Thurman and Harvey Keitel star in the violent, highly stylized film which won the top prize at Cannes this year.

Although Wilhelm prides himself on pre-screening all films before they land on a schedule, he felt confident enough to book "Pulp Fiction" sight unseen. Count on a quick sellout for the Oct. 10 screening.

Distributors of "Clerks," the ultra-low budget chronicle of convenience store employees, anticipate a cult hit. It screens Oct. 24. "Fresh," the Aug. 29 offering about a streetwise New York youngster, will also do time at the local multiplex.

And while "Freedom on my Mind," next week's opening film, will probably make its way to Public Television, its message may be trivialized on the small screen. The documentary begins in 1961, when African-American Herbert Lee was shot by a white segregationist shortly after registering to vote.

It climaxes at the 1964 Democratic convention, when Mississippi sharecroppers and organizers (many white students from the North) tried to wrestle delegate power from the white Dixiecrats. President Lyndon Johnson used every trick in the book to squelch the new movement in what organizer Robert Moses recalls as "pure manipulation and cynicism."

A dozen or so activists, both black and white, recall those heady times. Most amazing is the amount of documentary footage that shows these same people at work, singing at rallies and knocking on doors.

Much of the footage came from a surprising source. Richard Beymer, shortly after starring in the movie version of "West Side Story," joined the volunteers and made his own documentary of the struggle. His crystal clear black-and-white images, along with the hope that came from the campaign, make this a fitting start for the ambitious Monday series.

POINTS OF VIEW

Berman book benefits from double standard

TIM RICHARD

The first page of state Rep. Maxine Berman's book, "The Only Boobs in the House Are Men," contains an error:

"In Anglo-Saxon times, a nobleman formed a group of warriors around him in an exclusive relationship known as a comitatus . . . a special relationship of absolute, to-the-death fealty and archetypal camaraderie. (They) shared the highest rank in feudal society . . . They controlled everything. They were men."

Comitatus is Latin, not Anglo-Saxon. Its origin is ancient times, not medieval. It comes from republican Rome, not feudal society.

Berman, D-Southfield, endeavors to show that men in the Michigan Legislature still shut out women from the inner circles of power.

My point is that Berman benefits from a double standard. If Dan Quayle had committed that error, he would be ridiculed. Berman's book has been reviewed extensively by political writers, and she gets away with it.

Her polemic against Christian fundamentalists as "Paste Pearls of Piety" and unnamed conservatives as carbuncles "oozing pus, sexist sores on the body politic" never will draw the wrath Rush Limbaugh got for his "feminazi" term.

Berman went to the University of Michigan in the '60s, a decade after my tenure. In U-M Liberal demonology of that era, no conservative can be an intellectual because conservatives are either (a) stupid or (b) crazy. So in dealing with Sen. Joanne Emmons' bill to curb Emily's Fund money for pro-choice female candidates, Berman coins the term "Phyllis Schlafly Syndrome," as if her opponent were mentally ill.

I've criticized Berman, but on balance she is one of the better members of the Legislature. I like the way she emphasizes policy over personality, clearly expressing her facts and logic.

If I were teaching civics, I wouldn't assign her book as a whole, but would pick out three short gems for an anthology:

- Chapter 2 — how legislators don't discuss an issue but barter one unrelated bill against another. Berman learned that having an excellent "informed consent" breast cancer bill wasn't enough. She had to hold up a tax credit bill wanted by the Michigan Cancer Foundation to neutralize that interest group. That's not in political science texts.
- Chapters 6 and 7 — how legislators play games in committee. Many introduce bills, with (publicly-funded) publicity, to satisfy every group, then let the bills die in committee. Leaders play games with assigning bills to committee, keeping key ones away from women chairs.
- Chapter 6 — why women legislators often are better prepared than men. Here Berman may have understated her case. In my longer experience with more levels of government, I find a good woman will do 1.6 times as much preparatory work as a good man, asking better questions, digging harder for facts. Given a choice between relatively equal male and female candidates, this voter will opt for the woman.

Berman bemoans the slow progress women are making in Lansing. She overlooks the State Board of Education, growing in power, dominated 6-2 by women, spearheaded by two or three women. She also misses the growing influence of younger women Republicans in the House — Sue Munsell of Howell and Barbara Dobb of Union Lake come to mind.

Berman, as I said, benefits from a double standard. She can write that the only boobs in the House are men. If someone wrote a companion volume entitled "The Only Pricks in the House Are Women" — well, no one would dare.

Help your local schools: Teach respect at home

DOC DOYLE

Question: Several of my teacher friends and I have been in education for over 25 years. We believe too many students have a total lack of respect for authority today; that it is totally different than it was in the past. Some children's attitudes are terrible. Do you agree? How do they get that way?

Answer: When a child enters a school building in the morning, he/she projects a clear picture of what goes on in the home. Fred Gosman, in his book, "Spoiled Rotten: American Children & How to Change Them," says, "Children used to swear by their parents; now they swear at them." Indeed young children belong on bike pedals, not pedestals.

Yes, I saw the "in your face" student attitudes near the end of my career in education. I now see behavior in supermarkets and in the mall where the child is in total control. It's pitiful! A parent "requesting," over and over again, that a 7-year-old behave in a restaurant. That's disgusting! Who's running the show, a 7-year-old? Even worse is the parent who continually negotiates what is the appropriate behavior with an 8-year-old. Sad!

This is the start of disrespect for teachers, principals and later on, the police. Teachers and police live with this breakdown of home authority daily. It is the beginning of truancy, drugs and delinquency. You ask, "How do they get that way?"

Having once taught child psychology, I recall some factors that lead to arrogant and unacceptable behavior in school and on to delinquency:

- Start at infancy and give them everything they want. This way the child will grow up believing the world owes he/she a living.
- Make sure the silverware and drinking glasses are clean and sterile but let them read, listen to or watch all the filth our entertainment moguls are putting out. It will help them bypass the simple joys of childhood.
- Take the child's part against teachers and neighbors. The teacher is probably incompetent and the neighbor probably has something in for your little child.
- Have frequent quarrels in front of your children. It adds instability to the home.
- Strike your wife. That's a great role model for future fathers.
- Never give the child any spiritual training. This is old-fashioned. Wait until the children are 21 so they can decide for themselves if there is a God.
- Pick up everything they leave lying around . . . clothes, books, shoes. Do everything for the child so that you don't lose their "love." Be a home slave.
- Give them all their spending money. You don't want them to work as hard as you did to get ahead. This would mean a personal sacrifice of time and energy on their part.
- Rationalize your own behavior when your child gets into real trouble, i.e., "I never could do anything with that child."

Follow the above suggestions and prepare yourself for a life of grief.

From my view, a home is not a total democracy — at least not in the early years. A few simple rules need to be set and then followed through. Any competent classroom teacher, some who deal with 150 bodies a day, understands this basic concept.

Conversely, I've seen teachers who "are afraid of hurting the students' feelings" lose control and are literally chased out of the classroom into another profession.

Yet the home shouldn't be a brutal totalitarian setting. Here we're talking of child abuse, an unconscionable act of a coward.

Other thoughts competent teachers understand and parents should infuse into their thinking include:

- Popularity is for teens, not parents. Be a responsible father or mother first and always. Respect far exceeds popularity.
- Don't reward mediocrity, cutting the grass should mean cutting all the grass, weed-whipping and edging.
- Don't be compulsively preoccupied with your child's happiness. The world can be cruel and he or she will soon be part of that real word.

Historians point out that the great cultures of the past, i.e. Greece and Rome, experienced a breakdown of the family, then the drugs, the orgies, then crime before dissolving into a couple chapters in our world history books. Great countries peak for about 300 years. We're closing in on that number.

Pet visits scheduled

The Pet-A-Pet animal visitation program has become an independent organization.

The organization, which has been active in the Detroit area for eight years, is no longer affiliated with the Animal Welfare Society of Southeastern Michigan.

The new non-profit, independent organization will be know as Pet-A-Pet Club Inc.

Pet-A-Pet brings 260 volunteers and their family pets on therapeutic visits to area nursing homes, hospitals, schools, hospices, and day care facilities.

The group is preparing for its new season beginning in September and already has added new facilities to its schedule.

The Pet-A-Pet Club is fully insured and sponsored by these board members: Ruth Curry, Robin Newton, Ruth Klosterhaus, Estelle Biesiadecki, Ellen Frank, Sandra Smith, Barbara Rouston, Jill Tybinka, Celeste Wojtczak, Roz Granitz, James Milke and veterinarians Peter Lederer, Kathy Morris and Grace Ghang.

"Being independent means we can grow faster and bring our program to even more adults and children," said Curry, president of the group. "But it also means we'll need more financial support from the community."

The group has been supported initially by a donation from Vi and George Baughman of Redford to cover the cost of insurance premiums.

Anyone who can make a donation or would like to volunteer for a visitation program may call Curry at 535-0410 or Joann Gresens at 464-8944.

Youth, 19, arrested for reckless driving, fleeing

Plymouth police arrested a 19-year-old Plymouth youth for fleeing and eluding, reckless driving and driving without a license about 8:30 p.m. Aug. 2.

An officer on patrol noticed a 1976 Chevy speeding eastbound on Plymouth Road. The motorist was clocked at 58 mph in a 35 mph zone.

The officer followed the driver with his flashers on, but his squad car wasn't accelerating properly and was unable to keep up with the driver.

The speeder went through a red light at Haggerty and continued to outdistance the officer, who radioed for assistance.

The driver drove through another red light at Eckles and made several turns before the officer was joined by two squad cars.

Anticipating a turn, police blocked the intersection of Spring and Mill, and the driver pulled into an apartment driveway on Spring. Two officers covered him with weapons drawn, while a third officer took the driver from his car and put him on the ground. He was restrained with double-locked handcuffs.

Officers said the driver sustained a minor cut to the leg. He was transported to the station, where he was booked and jailed.

The driver had no driver's license. He never applied for one, police said.

MUCC president praises court ruling on deposit law

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Suppose you buy a bottle of pop, pay 10 cents deposit but never return the bottle. Who gets the 10 cents?

The state treasury gets 75 percent and retailers 25 percent, said a state Court of Appeals panel, upholding a 1989 state law. The Michigan Soft Drink Association lost their court effort to keep the money.

"A great victory for the citizens," said Art Dittmar Jr., president of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the group that started the ban on throwaways in 1976.

"The state's 75 percent goes into a trust fund for cleanup of landfills. We have tremendous amount of landfills that are leaking," said Dittmar, a Farmington Hills resident, retired Garden City teacher and longtime salmon fisherman.

The bottlers never revealed the amount at stake. But a footnote in the court opinion said one study estimated unclaimed deposits at $26 million to $121 million a year. Dittmar said MUCC thinks it's about $32 million.

MUCC, a hunting-fishing-environmental group, filed briefs supporting the state's position on behalf of itself and 17 other groups, including the Michigan Recreation & Parks Association, League of Women Voters, National Wildlife Federation and several legislators.

MUCC attorney M. Carl Bambery said the Court of Appeals' 3-0 decision requires Ingham Circuit Judge Thomas Brown to lift his injunction against the state's collecting the unclaimed deposits.

The decision by Judges Maura Corrigan, David Sawyer and Harold Hood left unanswered two major questions:

1. Is the decision retroactive to 1989 when the unclaimed deposit law took effect?

"We hope treasury will argue that it's retroactive," said MUCC's Bambery. The unclaimed deposit money wasn't held in an escrow account during the litigation, she added.

"Our executive director, Tom Washington, thinks this should be retroactive," added Dittmar. "The DNR doesn't have enough for landfill cleanups as it is."

2. Is there likely to be an appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court?

Such an appeal would be weak, Bambery replied, because Michigan's second highest court relied on rulings in highly similar cases by the Massachusetts and Maine supreme courts.

Said the Michigan Court of Appeals:

"Because of public sentiment against windfall profits to distributors and manufacturers from the unredeemed deposits, the Legislature explicitly amended 1989 Public Act 148 to provide that unclaimed deposits on returnable containers are considered the property of the purchaser, not the manufacturer or distributor. . . . (T)he excess must be remitted to the Department of Treasury for deposit in a revolving fund."

Wholesalers and bottlers argued the laws amounted to an unconstitutional "taking" without compensation. The Michigan court disagreed:

"(T)he supreme courts of Massachusetts and Maine upheld the constitutionality of similar amendments to their states' bottle laws. . . . (The Massachusetts) court rejected this argument, holding that the amendment did not effect a taking because the plaintiffs (wholesalers) possessed no right to the deposits. . . ."

The Court of Appeals said the Maine Supreme Court ruled that a law "requiring sellers to remit 50 percent of unclaimed deposits to the state amounted to a valid environmental regulation falling squarely within the state's police powers. . . . The court opined that the Maine legislature intended that the cost of unreturned containers must be borne by the industry that profits from their sale. The court rejected the bottlers' claim of a per se taking."

Fresh corn on the cob melts in your mouth

Rowing up in Wyandotte, we had one of those "gourmet before its time" fruit and vegetable markets that everyone seemed to flock to. My two oldest brothers worked there, and my big sister was a cashier. It was called Jačk Cinnamon's, and was on the Southgate side of Fort Street, just off Oak, which is now home to a New York Carpet World.

It was just about this time of year that a daily load of fresh picked corn on the cob would arrive via a flatbed pulled by a 1930 John Deere and driven by Jimmy Block of the fabled Block's market on the corner of Middlebelt and Eureka, just south of the noise of Metro Airport.

Back in those days Mr. Cinnamon never seemed to mind when folks like us came by and ripped open a few ears to make sure the kernels were large, sweet and plump. There was something very aromatic about fresh picked sweet corn. I liken it to the smell of a ripe muskmelon, the freshness of walking outside just after a rainstorm and the whiff you get from biting into a just picked tomato.

Don't get me wrong, I appreciate the convenience and selection afforded me at local grocery store chains, but there's something special about roadside markets that sell corn from neighboring fields. I search for freshly picked sweet corn these places, as well as, small city run weekend farmer's markets.

Fresh corn on the cob gets very finicky, especially after 48 to 72 hours of being picked. The sugars and starches inside every bursting kernel begin to commingle, and before you know it, the taste becomes saturated, watery, tough and less sweet. Because of this, corn is one of the few vegetables that becomes tougher, not softer, when over it's cooked.Cooking corn

Folks have different ideas on the proper technique for cooking corn on the cob. In "The Joy of Cooking," authors Rombauer and Becker tell us it's best to drop the fresh husked ears into boiling water so as not to disturb the boil, with enough to cover and "boil rapidly until tender, from 3-5 minutes."

In her book "American Home Cooking," Nika Hazelton suggests that you "start with 3-6 quarts of boiling water and you place shucked corn in a deep pot. Pour the boiling water over the corn, return to the stove and bring to a boil. When the water boils, remove from heat, cover and allow to stand for 10 minutes, drain and serve immediately." You can decide what works best for you, I tried them both and both proved very satisfactory.

Depending on who you read, the choice to salt and sugar the water during cooking are up for grabs. Rombaure and Becker say never; Sharon Tyler Herbst in "The Food Lover's Tiptionary" says sugar is OK, salt is a no-no, and Craig Claiborn in "The New York Times Cookbook" says that salt is OK and sugar is an option."Grilling

Personally, I can't think of anything more sweltering than standing over a pot of boiling water watching the corn cook on a hot summer's day. If you want my opinion, boiled corn is for neophytes; to get the true taste of the freshest corn on the cob, it must be grilled with the husks intact.

I just knew that one of those pickle buckets I picked up for a few bucks at White Castle hamburgers would pay off some day. I place the whole unshucked ears in the bucket and top it off with cold water straight from the garden hose. No, I don't pre-shuck, stem or de-silk.

On the rare occasion when I find the time, I have wrapped one of those twisty ties around the tops of corn where someone before me managed to strip away some husk just to hold it into place while cooking. I soak the corn for at least one hour, sometimes as much as four or five, drain and then place on a preheated grill. I cover the grill, watch for flare-ups and cook large ears for about 10 minutes on each of their four sides.

I then sacrifice a willing ear (of corn, that is) to gently strip away some husk to test for doneness. A good, hot fire will cook the corn in 20 minutes, a medium fire will cook it in 30-35 and a slow fire will take 45-50 minutes. The secret is to rotate often to ensure even doneness. Surprisingly, you can accomplish this even in a regular oven at 375 degrees. Seldom do I have a problem with the silk as it usually pulls right off with the tendered husks.

We roll our corn in some melted butter, forgo the salt, and sprinkle a little fresh ground pepper on it instead. It's healthier and much more tasty.

FRAGRANT HERB WORTH A MINT TO COOKS

English colonists brought mint to Massachusetts for medicinal purposes. Now this fragrant herb grows profusely in many backyard gardens. Chopped, fresh mint enhances the flavor of salads and desserts.

By Geri Rinschler
Special Writer

Although you may not be thrilled about the heavy rains which have been falling, the mint growing in my backyard in Birmingham just loves it! It's lush, fragrant and growing profusely, which mint generally does. And I couldn't be happier since over the past 20 years this mint, which originated in my grandfather's garden on Long Island, just survived another move.

Chilled vegetable salads were a summertime treat while I was growing up. Most of the time they were made with vegetables and mint my grandmother picked in the kitchen garden. The only time I remember seeing chopped fresh mint was in the summer mixed with cooked green beans which were tossed with a vinaigrette or with sliced tomatoes, tossed in an oil, vinegar dressing flavored with basil, salt and pepper, and garnished with small pieces of fresh mozzarella cheese.

Today, my mint recipe repertoire has expanded beyond Italian vegetable salads to include French, Asian, Middle Eastern, and American cuisine.

Fresh, finely chopped mint blends well with freshly pureed strawberries and creamed butter. Use the butter to accompany toast and pancakes. Add a few tablespoons to a favorite yellow cake batter or pound cake recipe. Toss a bit in with chopped, sauteed vegetables for a vegetarian omelet filling. Experimenting with mint can be lots of fun.

Having grown up with mint as a staple on my grandmother's summer menu, it's difficult to imagine a summer without it. I've discovered that I'm not alone.

Anita Farah, co-owner of Anita's Kitchen in Troy and Farmington relies on her mint garden to season many of the Lebanese specialities served daily at the restaurants. Although there are hundreds of varieties of mint, most Lebanese cooks like Farah, prefer spearmint.

Spearmint, the most common of the culinary mints, is native to the Mediterranean region. "It grows at every house in Lebanon," Anita's brother-in-law and partner George Farah added.

According to the Farahs, mint, lemon, garlic and olive oil are the staple flavoring agents of Lebanese cooking. Besides flavoring salads such as fattoush and tabbouleh, mint is added to a yogurt-cucumber salad to temper the garlic.

At Anita's, mint is also used with other herbs to marinate chicken, it's roasted with beef and lamb, and added to the filling for stuffed grape leaves. "Mint is a part of our culture," said Anita. So much so that when she and her husband Pierre moved from Ferndale to Bloomfield Hills they moved their entire bed of mint with them. Pierre is also a partner is the restaurant business.

As Anita and her mother developed recipes for their family restaurant, they always used fresh mint. When the season is over they rely on produce markets to keep them supplied with fresh mint until next year's crop is ready for harvesting.

"Don't forget to use fresh sprigs of mint as a garnish for entrees as well as dessert plates and platters," said Anita. Remove the blossoms, and select only the freshest sprigs from the top of each plant. You can store mint sprigs in water for a few days in the refrigerator.

Minty festival

The mint crop in St. Johns, Mich. is doing very well according to mint farmer, Thomas Irrer. He's been growing mint commercially for about 25 years. Most of the mint farms in St. Johns, which is about 20 miles north of Lansing, grow mint for oil to supply manufacturers of toothpaste and chewing gum.

Irrer said the area is especially suited to the production of mint, which is grown in drained organic soil. Situated in Clinton County, which ranks first in the production of mint in Michigan, St. Johns celebrates each year with a two-day Mint Festival.

Linda Curtis of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce, said the event will begin 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 13 with a mint parade, and ends Sunday, Aug. 14. There will be baking contests, tastings of mint ice cream and fudge, an arts and crafts show, sporting events, antique cars and more. You're encouraged to bring questions about growing mint at home as the experts will all be there. The festival is also a salute to the pioneer farmers who brought the mint industry to the area. For information, call (517) 224-7248.

Although it may seem as if Mediterranean cultures were responsible for bringing mint to America, it was actually English colonists who first brought the herb to Massachusetts for medicinal purposes according to Martha Little of Livonia, an interpreter at Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

"Most of the mint leaves in the 18th century were used for teas to settle upset stomachs," said Little, who spends most of her days working at the Daggat Farm on village grounds. Little first began growing herbs about 15 years ago.

"Herbs are a joy and very easy to grow," she said. "There are about 600 varieties of mint and most of them are used for aromatic oils."

Mint is a perennial and very adaptable. Little suggests that home cooks grow either spearmint or peppermint. You can buy plants in the spring at most gardening centers.

To harvest, she recommends picking mint either early in the morning or after the dew has dried, or in the early evening. To dry fresh mint for use after the season has passed, Little recommends hanging it in small bunches, tied with string, upside down in a cool, dry place.

Also, make sure that you harvest mint before it begins to blossom.

Little's most important message to lovers of herbs, especially mint, is that its culinary uses are only limited by the cook's imagination.

"Classic" recipe cookbook contains easy recipes made with ingredients most of us have in our pantries.

JoAnn Cacciarelli of Bloomfield Hills shared her broccoli salad recipe. Marilyn Robbins of Troy brought Rosemary Chicken, and Eleanor Feeley, Toll House Pie.

We met at Cacciarelli's house to discuss the cookbook, and how these busy working women get dinner on the table in a hurry after work. All of them are married and work crazy, unpredictible hours. Their kids are grown, but they still enjoy cooking.

Cacciarelli's colorful broccoli salad can be made ahead of time. "The recipe was told to me by a friend many years ago," she said. "It's great to take along on picnics."

"Rosemary chicken is elegant enough to serve company. It can be prepared in 30 minutes" said Robbins.

Feeley's Toll House Pie goes together in 15 minutes. "My family loves it," she said.

Over the years, these women have become experts at saving time, and cutting corners in the kitchen.

All three stock their pantries with staples including pasta, canned beans, tomatoes, rice, tuna fish, chicken and beef broth. During the week they stop at a market on the way home for fresh produce and meat. Freezer staples include salad shrimp, boneless, skinless chicken breasts, tortellini and other kinds of pasta which can be cooked in a hurry.

> ■ 'I wouldn't consider making my own pie crust when good frozen ones are available. It saves time.'
> Eleanor Feeley

Feeley's Toll House Pie is made with a frozen pie crust. "I wouldn't consider making my own pie crust when good frozen ones are available," she said. "It saves time."

Other time savers the women suggested were buying packaged salad blends, and baby peeled carrots. You can also buy salad fixings at a salad bar in the grocery store. While it's a little more expensive than buying a head of lettuce and vegetables you have to wash and cut up, it cuts corners they said.

Use the food processor for chopping vegetables. If you're cutting an onion, chop an extra one and freeze it to use later.

Cook in double batches on weekends and freeze foods for later. Spaghetti sauce, chili, soup and meatballs freeze well.

Use your microwave to start foods and finish them off in the oven or grill.

Plan ahead when you shop, but if something looks good or is on special, buy it and incorporate it into your plan.

"With everyone coming and going at different hours, you have to be flexible," said Feeley, with the other women nodding in agreement. "You have to get the cooperation of your family, and everyone has to pull their own weight. My husband grocery shops and cooks."

Recipes are from "Classic" Recipe Book published by The Prudential Great Lakes Realty. The cookbook costs $5. Copies are available for sale, in limited supply at these Prudential Great Lakes Realty offices — Birmingham/Bloomfield, 1520 N. Woodward Ave., Bloomfield Hills; 31000 Northwestern Highway, Farmington Hills; and 1460 Walton Boulevard, Rochester Hills. Call Jennifer Zardus, (810) 540-7200 for more information about the cookbook

Here are some recipes to try.

ROSEMARY CHICKEN

1 pound boneless, skinless chicken breasts
2 tablespoons butter
¼ pound sliced fresh mushrooms
1 large clove garlic, minced
½ cup dry white wine
¾ teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed or 1 tablespoon fresh, minced
2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
1 cup sour cream
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
8 ounces fettucini, cooked

Cut chicken on diagonal in ¼-inch strips. Saute in butter until slightly brown. Remove chicken from skillet. Add mushrooms and garlic. Cook about 3 minutes until mushrooms are soft. Add wine and cook briskly over high heat until wine is reduced to about half.

Reduce heat and add remaining ingredients including chicken. Heat until very hot, but do not boil as sauce will curdle. Serve over pasta. Makes four generous servings.

Recipe from Marilyn Robbins

MARINATED SALAD

1 large bunch of broccoli
1 cup chopped celery
1 can sliced water chestnuts, drained
3 tomatoes cut in chunks
1 packet Good Seasons Italian Dressing
1 bottle (8-ounces) Wish Bone Italian Dressing

Mix all vegetable ingredients together in large bowl. Sprinkle with 1 packet of Good Season's dressing. Pour Wish Bone dressing over all. Marinate at least overnight. Goes well with beef, ham and pork. Travels well for picnics.

Recipe from JoAnn Cacciarelli

TOLL HOUSE PIE

2 eggs
½ cup unsifted flour
½ cup sugar
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup butter, melted and cooled to room temperature
1 (6 ounce) package chocolate chips
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 (9-inch) unbaked pie shell or (Pillsbury refrigerator shell)
Whipped cream or ice cream

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. In a large bowl, beat eggs until foamy; beat in flour, sugar and brown sugar until well-blended. Blend in melted butter.

Stir in chocolate chips and walnuts. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour. Remove from oven. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream.

CORN MEDLEY

4 slices lean bacon, chopped
1 onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 green pepper, seeded and chopped
3 medium tomatoes, peeled and chopped
2-3 cups fresh corn kernels (about 5 ears)
Salt and fresh ground pepper to taste
¼ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon dried thyme

Fry the bacon until crisp in a large casserole that will hold all the ingredients. Remove the bacon bits with a slotted spoon and reserve. Pour off all but three tablespoons of the bacon grease.

Add the onion, garlic and green pepper, cook stirring constantly, for 4-5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add the tomatoes, corn, salt, pepper and thyme and mix well.

Cover and cook 4-5 minutes over medium heat. Sprinkle with bacon bits before serving. Serves 4.

Chef's secret: Make this a great vegetarian side dish by omitting the bacon bits and using olive oil instead of the bacon fat. Sprinkle with a bit of cayenne pepper and stir in some grated Fontinella or good cheddar cheese.

CORN FRITTERS WITH FRESH CORN

2½ cups fresh corn
1 egg yolk, well beaten
2 teaspoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg white, beaten until stiff

Combine the fresh corn with the egg yolk, flour and salt. Mix well. Beat egg white till stiff and gently fold into corn mixture. Heat a small amount of oil or butter in a skillet and cook mixture by dropping it by spoonfuls into the heated pan and cooking as you would pancakes. Makes 4 servings.

SCALLOPED CORN

2 cups uncooked corn
2 eggs, beaten
½ teaspoon salt
1 green pepper, chopped
10 green olives, chopped
¾ cup cream
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
½ teaspoon sweet Hungarian paprika
4 tablespoons butter or margarine

Combine corn, eggs, salt, green pepper and olives in a bowl and mix well. Stir in cream and mix well. Pour into a lightly greased casserole dish. Combine bread crumbs with paprika and sprinkle over the top of the casserole. Top with bits of butter or margarine. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes, uncovered. Serves 4-6

YOUR HEALTH

REACHING THE BOILING POINT

If cooks want to wring the most potential out of vegetables with regard to their ability to provide water-soluble vitamins (C and B vitamins), they are advised to cook them with steam or place them in the microwave. Boiling vegetables in water only encourages water-soluble vitamins to leach out of the vegetables into the boiling water. Water-soluble vitamins and vitamin C in particular, are also sensitive to heat. To minimize losses due to cooking, it is best to utilize the short-term application of heat that steaming and microwaving offer. Steaming minimizes contact with water and involves less exposure to heat than boiling. As for the microwave, it requires only an absolute minimum of water and involves less exposure to heat than cooktop cooking.

It is time for us to break old habits. We must learn that sometimes taking a bit of extra time and effort in preparing our foods is worth the additional benefits. The GOOD FOOD CO., a natural food supermarket, offers the best prices on natural foods. # Tips help seafood consumer

Summer is a great time to serve seafood. Its light texture and flavor make a wonderful meal for hot summer days.

Here are a few tips to follow when buying seafood.

- Buy your seafood from reputable, commercial sources. Be cautious about buying from the back of a truck and do not buy poorly iced or unrefrigerated seafood products.
- After purchase, get the seafood home as quickly as possible and keep it refrigerated until use. Fresh seafood should be used within several days after purchase.
- If you buy live shellfish (lobsters, crabs, oysters, clams and mussels), discard any that die during storage.
- Thaw frozen seafood in the refrigerator or under cold running water, not at room temperature. Marinate seafood in the refrigerator.
- As with any animal protein, keep cooked product from contact with raw, or the cutting board or utensils used to prepare the raw product.
- People with weakened or compromised immune systems or liver ailments should enjoy seafood only in cooked form. They should avoid raw or undercooked fin fish or shellfish.

Punch will quench thirst

With the soaring temperatures of August, it's critical to drink lots of liquids — at least six to eight cups a day, health authorities advise us. Your body needs an adequate amount of fluids to function properly, and summe's heat can cause dehydration if you don't replenish those fluids regularly.

Drinking water is the simplest way to rehydrate, and it's the best way during and after exercise. But for refreshment with meals and during the course of the day, drinking fruit or vegetable juice can give you nutrition and satisfy your thirst. Although juices don't provide dietary fiber the way fruits and vegetables do, they can give you necessary vitamins and minerals.

Not all packaged fruit beverages are equal in nutrition, so it's important to check the label to make sure that the one you choose contains a high percentage of real fruit juice. The FDA's new food labeling regulations make this task much easier by requiring all companies to indicate the percentage of juice.

Fruit and vegetable juices are frequently high in vitamins C and beta- carotene, two vitamins that are among the most likely to lower cancer risk, according to studies from the American Institute for Cancer Research. They can also serve as good sources of potassium and other nutrients, especially if you blend them with fresh fruits like strawberries, raspberries, peaches and other summertime favorites.

A cantaloupe shake is a refreshing breakfast — just blend together ½ cup unsweetened pineapple juice and two cups cubed ripe cantaloupe chunks.

For a thicker drink, blend one cup plain low-fat yogurt, two tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate and a cup of fresh fruit.

Pairing different juices makes for intriguing new tastes and terrific refreshment. Orange juice is delicious with pineapple, cranberry or white grape juice. Or, mix cranberry juice with pineapple juice, grapefruit juice or apple juice. Grape juice goes well with grapefruit juice or lemonade. Just combine the juices in equal parts and add ice!

Carbonated beverages can be real thirst quenchers, but why waste your thirst on the empty calories of soft drinks when you can have Sunshine Punch.

SUNSHINE PUNCH

½ cup grapefruit juice
1 cup apple juice
¼ cup orange juice
⅛ teaspoon ground ginger
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
1 ¼ cup soda water
Dash ground cloves

Blend juices, soda water and spices. Serve over ice.

Proposed merger is bad idea for WLAA

Where's Barbara Stanwyck when you need her?

Things are out of control in the Big Valley.

Yes, these boys who are talking about merging the seven-school Kensington Valley Conference with the 12-team Western Lakes Activities Association, need a good whipping.

With super/mega leagues hatching all over the metropolitan area, the posse has now stormed into Observerland.

The pressure is almost unbearable. Rumors have been flying for several months. Some say tomorrow's vote in the WLAA is "a done deal," while others have indicated "it's dead in the water."

WLAA president Rod Hosman, principal at Livonia Churchill, may have his hands full trying to maintain order. Emotions could be running high.

Northville likes plan

It takes a unanimous vote by the WLAA to push the merger through, and from what I've been able to ascertain, Northville principal Tom Johnson doesn't have enough support . . . just yet.

It's not going to be unanimous because new Livonia Public Schools superintendent Dr. Ken Watson has taken a stand. He has many concerns about the plan. First and foremost his concerns include increased costs and added transportation.

Driving all the way from Livonia Franklin to Howell, in a snowstorm, during rush hour on I-96, on a Tuesday afternoon, is not an ideal way for the fans and students to follow high school sports.

Give Watson credit for being concerned and doing research on the issue. He's had his principals make a report to the school board, outlining the pluses and minuses of a merger.

WLAA athletic directors appear to be warm to the idea, but don't dare say anything publicly or anything on the record. A.D.'s like the plan because it supposedly solves all their scheduling problems.

A.D.'s think differently

"All the athletic directors, except one abstention, along with the majority of activities people, have supported this," said Johnson, who makes no bones about being in favor of a merger.

I guess that's what bothers me the most.

We know where Johnson and Watson stand, but I've been getting a lot of double talk when I confront the other A.D.'s, principals and administrators about this issue.

Are we doing this for convenience or "what's best for kids?" (which incidentally is the favorite line I get from school administrators).

Leveling the playing field by grouping teams into divisions (by record and enrollment) appears to be another attractive argument.

But in reality, all it's doing is lowering the standards.

Who wants to have the stigma of playing in the third division?

Defections possible?

The big concern, if the Big Valley vote goes down, is whether some districts may bolt for other leagues.

"It won't happen this year, but it's a possibility in the future we'll continue to explore other options," Johnson said.

As another A.D. confided to me: "Northville said it won't be the first to go, but won't be far behind."

But Watson says, "From all indications I've had, I believe our league (the WLAA) will stay together. That rumor is coming from the athletic directors."

Before coming to the Farmington Public Schools, superintendent Robert Maxfield reportedly was a big booster of the Oakland County mega setup.

But it's ironic that there is some disagreement, even amongst his high school principals. The same exists at Plymouth Canton and Salem. Meanwhile, the Walled Lake Schools may be ready to jump ship, too.

Going with flow

That leaves Wayne-Westland, where superintendent Larry Thomas says simply, "We'll go along with whatever the league desires."

No doubt about it, Mr. Thomas.

Stop and think of this: How will fans from Howell react when they're subjected to a metal detector search before entering a Glenn basketball game? Talk about bridging a cultural gap.

The whole issue has been a giant poker game with each individual school district calling each other's bluff.

"I'd say that's an accurate assessment," Johnson said.

The last hand, however, is far from being dealt.

It's a gamble many schools believe they should take.

Wait a minute. Victoria Barkley doesn't allow gambling by her boys in the Big Valley.

THE BIG VALLEY

Could Western Lakes Activities Association schools become part of a super league in the near future? A merger with the Kensington Valley Conference has been proposed, and WLAA officials meet this week to take a serious look at the idea.

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Is bigger better?

That's what principals in the 12-school Western Lakes Activities Association will be wrestling with Tuesday at a special meeting called at Livonia's Dickinson Center.

The 12 principals, along with Northville's Dennis Colligan (representing the WLAA's athletic directors) and Livonia Franklin's Ron Pode (student activities), will discuss and possibly vote on a merger with the seven-school Kensington Valley Conference (see map).

Under the WLAA constitution, a unanimous vote is needed to approve a merger.

The issue has been a hot topic for several months. And the proposal has left some WLAA member school districts split within their own ranks.

Mega leagues have sprouted up almost instantaneously within the past two years around the metropolitan Detroit area.

It snowballed last fall when 22 schools, located primarily in the downriver area, banded together. Redford Thurston, Garden City, Redford Union and Wayne Memorial are Observerland schools which belong to the Mega Conference.

Since the formation of the Mega, several predominantly black suburban schools, not part of the original plan, have threatened legal action by filing a civil rights complaint with the U.S. Department of Education.

Super leagues have also been formed in Macomb and Oakland counties.

The merger of the WLAA and KVC would bring the total to 19 schools. Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron, members of the four-school South Central Conference (which also includes Adrian and Ypsilanti), have also expressed interest, by letter, in joining the WLAA.

Twenty-one schools, including Pioneer and Huron, would most likely divide the Big Valley into three divisions of seven. Divisional alignments could be based on the Mega formula — school enrollment and five-year winning percentage (by sport). Each sport would employ different alignments.

Easier scheduling?

Proponents of the merger cite scheduling as the No. 1 advantage.

An odd number of schools, whether it be 19 or 21, would also cause scheduling problems.

With other mega leagues being created, leagues such as the KVC and WLAA might have trouble finding non-league opponents.

Athletic directors particularly like this idea because under the Mega format open dates could be conveniently filled within each super conference.

"As leagues form around us, there could be a tendency for us to be shut out, and we will end up with more costs by having to travel farther out," said Northville principal Dr. Thomas Johnson, who strongly favors a KVC-WLAA merger. "We have a good, strong (WLAA) league now as it stands, but my concern is what does the future hold?"

South Lyon athletic director Bob Schloeske said the "athletic directors in our league (KVC) are all on the same page."

Mega league faces suit, provides parity

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

"Mega Mania" has taken over.

It's on the airwaves where Ike Griffin, self-proclaimed "Mega Sports Man" on the new all-sports radio station WDFN, has a loyal following called "Mega Maniacs."

Now it's reached the high school sports scene as the Mega Conference has received similar attention from outsiders.

The "Mega Sports Man" is eager to welcome newcomers.

But the Mega Conference, a merger of the Tri-River, Wolverine A and Northwest Suburban leagues and one school from the Huron League, wants more "controlled growth," according to one of the Mega Conference attorneys Lorie Steinhauer.

The Suburban Athletic Conference, made up of seven schools of predominantly black enrollment, is seeking to join the 22-team Mega, which was formed in 1992 and put into play during the 1993-94 season.

The U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights is saying that Mega officials must invite the seven SAC members to join the league by Sept. 1 or face legal action, which could include a cutoff of funds to Mega members.

Schools in the SAC have charged the Mega with race discrimination.

Romulus High, an independent school with 33 percent black enrollment, will become the 23rd school to join the Mega Conference. Romulus will participate in activities this school year and be a member of the Mega League in athletics starting with the 1995-96 school year.

Steinhauer said the Mega Conference plans to admit one more school this fall. Schools up for admission are SAC schools Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Inkster, Ypsilanti, Willow Run, River Rouge and independent Detroit Country Day.

See MEGA, 2C

"One-fifth of the population is east of us, and with this merger, we no longer have to travel longer distances; plus we'll have a lot of contests filled within our league," Schloeske said. "Unless we go east or south, we have to travel large distances to find games outside our league. This is a natural for us because we already play Northville, Livonia Franklin, the Farmington schools and John Glenn."

Milford principal Bruce Gilbert, who is spearheading the merger effort from the KVC said, "the original plan was to allow flexibility in scheduling games.

"We first looked at it as sister scheduling and it has evolved from there," he said. "If this doesn't go through, there is no animosity. There is no urgency. We're happy with the leagues we're in. There will be no frustration. Both leagues are comfortable."

Livonia's new superintendent of schools, Dr. Ken Watson, appears to be a key player in tomorrow's vote. He oversees the three Livonia schools who are members of the WLAA (Churchill, Franklin and Stevenson).

"We don't want to be left out by change and we don't want to be locked in the past when there are new circumstances and developments," he said. "We want to be viewed as team players. We see ourselves as team players trying to resolve areawide problems.

"But we do not support any merger at this time. As a district we'll take the position that we'll do whatever is in the best interest of our kids and our communities. However, I don't want our high schools left out of any affiliations. We'll try to cooperate, but we're not in the position to dictate to other districts."

Plymouth-Canton schools athletic director Paul Cummings is also watching what other districts might do.

"All of us are willing to listen," he said. "With what's happening up in Oakland County (MSAA and SMA merger) and with the Mega Conference, we might be forced into a situation down the road. If the Oakland County teams (Walled Lake and Farmington) go north, we might be faced with playing each other and that's all."

Farmington Public Schools was said to be in favor of the merger, but it has established no official position, according to Don Cowan, director of building and student services.

"We have some concerns as to the timing of it, whether or not we have researched it enough to take a yes or no position," he said. "We have to look at the situation and maybe play KVC schools in non-conference games to see how it affects travel. As a district, we're not ready to make a big move right now."

Farmington superintendent Robert Maxfield and athletic director Ron Holland were on vacation last week and unavailable for comment, but Cowan said there has been no talk of Farmington schools leaving the WLAA if the merger is not approved.

"I wouldn't want to mislead you and say we're definitely against it either," Cowan said. "We think it might have merit, but there are a lot of questions that need to be answered.

"We think (the WLAA has) been a very workable program. We've had an excellent working relationship and all are interested in the total program and not just athletics."

Travel a concern

Opponents of the proposed merger view it as a transportation nightmare.

For example, it's nearly 85 miles roundtrip from Westland John Glenn to Howell. (Most schools within the WLAA are within a half-hour drive.)

Also, traveling through inclement weather, particularly in the winter months, is another factor. Many coaches and parents also point to the problems traveling during rush hour along what would be the league's main artery, I-96.

"We're concerned about the potential merger of the two leagues because of transportation difficulties, the distance between the schools and enabling the spectators to get to games," Watson said. "The question arises, do we need to pull kids out of classes for longer distances and will they be getting home later at night? And we don't want to excuse athletes early for games."

Wayne-Westland superintendent Larry Thomas said: "We're not shutting the door, we'll have to wait and see. My concerns right now are distance, class time and cost."

Dan Slee, assistant superintendent for employee services and personnel, was invited, along with other WLAA representatives from each district, to a meeting last month called by Watson to talk about the possible merger.

"I think our stance is to leave it as is," Slee said. "Travel would be a concern for us because we're the southern-most team. I'm also concerned about the lateness in returning from the farthest-most reaches. I think we're pretty happy with the league (WLAA) as it is."

Northville's Johnson does not share Watson's views on cost and transportation.

"We'll have a tough time being an island for the other mega leagues that have been formed around us," he said. "As other mega leagues shut us out of more non-league contests, we will have more costs."

Level playing field

Besides scheduling, supporters of the Big Valley believe it equals competition by grouping schools according to enrollment, strength of program and success rate.

Over the past two years, Plymouth Canton (2,197) and Livonia Stevenson (1,845) lead the WLAA with 15 and 13 divisional titles, respectively.

For example, Farmington Harrison's perennially strong football program, despite having the smallest school enrollment (1,020) in the WLAA, might find itself playing in the Big Valley's top division against such heavyweights as Westland John Glenn, Plymouth Salem, Canton, Brighton, Howell and Livonia Stevenson.

On the other side, Livonia Churchill (enrollment 1,623), loser of 35 of its last 36 football games, would play in the third division. But Churchill's travel would also increase with opponents such as Hartland, Milford, Milford Lakeland and Walled Lake Central.

"Expanding will be far more positive for kid., because it levels the playing field and gives kids diversification," Johnson said. "When you have two or even three divisions, you're able to celebrate more kids."

Adds Schloeske, who also doubles as South Lyon's head football coach: "It allows schools who haven't had success to be in lower divisions."

Gilbert also sees the benefits of aligning schools in divisions based on enrollment and program strength.

"Our league (the KVC) goes all the way from 1,900 students to 1,000," he said. "This plan would accommodate schools of all sizes. We're looking to adjust as schools grow."

Next year, Walled Lake Western's incoming freshman class of more than 500 will increase the school's total enrollment from 1,344 to more than 1,800.

Other disadvantages

Opponents of the KVC-WLAA merger believe new divisional assignments, under a mega formula, could diminish traditional rivalries.

"We hope to keep the Milford and Lakeland rivalry going, but if we can't, we'll have to learn to change," Gilbert said. "Our communities are not the same as they were 20 years ago anyway."

Watson, meanwhile, said from his school district's perspective, "it would not be healthy to have all three of our schools in the same division."

Activities is another facet of bringing the two leagues together.

Presently, the KVC remains a sports-only league. It doesn't include leaguewide activities such as debate, choir, cheerleading and student government days.

"I'm concerned about league philosophies," Watson said. "Our league (WLAA) includes activities, but the KVC doesn't seem to have the same needs as far as student activities."

Philosophy differs

Another stumbling block may be the way each league conducts its business and sets up its ground rules for determining what is agreeable for 19 or 21 schools.

"We're in favor of a merger, but we won't be a stepchild," Schloeske said. "We'll come in as equals. We're not begging to come in."

But are all these schools equal?

Some have elaborate and well-endowed athletic facilities, while others are forced to keep programs afloat with pay-to-participate measures (due to failed millages).

Some schools have extensive middle school sports programs, while others try an intramural approach, and yet others do not have a competitive junior high program at all.

Johnson, who said he has done "extensive and exhaustive research," is hopeful he can sway fellow WLAA members into his mode of thinking, but realizes tomorrow's vote is a long shot.

"We have a good strong league now as it stands," he said. "My question is: What does the future hold?

"It won't be up to me. The decision will be firm however the vote goes. I'm comfortable we gave it the best shot we could."

Mega from page 1C

"We have agreed to expand to 24 teams at this time. What we need is more controlled growth," Steinhauer said. "Their facts (from the Civil Rights Office) are erroneous. Race was never an issue when the Mega was formed. People don't realize the problem with scheduling. We have to have schedules for some sports done two years in advance."

Redford Union and Garden City (from the NSL), Redford Thurston (Tri-River) and Wayne Memorial (Wolverine A) are Observerland schools included in the Mega.

What's the big attraction to leagues like the Mega?

Scheduling and parity of programs, says RU athletic director Jim Gibbons.

The NSL is a perfect example. The former five-team league made up of RU, Garden City, Woodhaven, Dearborn and Dearborn Edsel Ford had scheduling and parity problems in a number of sports.

NSL football teams had to find five non-league opponents. That left teams like RU having to start the season with non-league games against Jackson Parkside and Waterford, sometimes on the road. With the Mega divided in at least three seven-team divisions, there's only the need to schedule two non-league football games per year, Gibbons said.

"Most of our (football) games were long distance and out of our league," Gibbons said. "When you have five non-league games that's a problem. We reduced our long trips to one instead of two or three."

The former NSL has other good examples for sports like tennis and swimming, where Dearborn schools excelled because of their club tennis influence, and schools like RU struggled. Under the Mega setup, RU plays in the weakest tennis division — the Blue — with former Tri-River member Redford Thurston and five other comparable teams.

Dearborn is in the strongest division — the Red. Teams in the Mega are placed in one of three divisions based on the school's enrollment and success in each sport.

"For Dearborn to swim against Redford Union wasn't good for either team," Gibbons said. "We now have a better situation. We won more league championships this year than last because of the parity in programs. If you go out on the field and know you have a chance, it keeps them going even more in the off-season."

Gibbons said last school year was the first one RU was able to fill out a full schedule for the Panthers' wrestling, swimming, soccer, cross country, track, tennis, golf and volleyball teams.

The Thurston soccer program is another example of the Mega doing it a favor. Prior to the Mega, the Thurston soccer teams were without a league, since few Tri-River League schools had soccer programs.

Every two years, schools will be evaluated to see if any teams should move up or down in divisions based on their success in the sport.

The Garden City boys basketball team is in the Red Division with traditional powers Wayne Memorial and Belleville, among others, but will move down to the White after this school year.

Broncos, Lakers advance to final in summer hockey

A heavy favorite and a big underdog were semifinals winners Thursday in the Metro Summer Hockey League playoffs.

The Broncos, who finished first in the Eagle Conference during the regular season, won the tournament title 10-4 over the No. 2-seeded Wolverines.

The Bakes Conference had a surprise winner as the last-place Lakers claimed post-season honors with an 18-5 rout of the Spartans.

The Broncos (11-0-2) and Lakers (5-6-2) played for the overall league championship Sunday night.

Mark Pietila scored two goals and assisted on four others to place the Broncos in the Eagle Conference final.

The Broncos, who rallied from a 2-1 deficit with a five-goal second period, had balanced scoring as Brad Cook was the only other player with more than one goal (two). Kurt Pietila added three assists.

Several players had a season worth of points in one game for the Lakers, who led 3-1 after one period and turned the game into a rout with eight second-period goals.

Chuck Vockler scored six goals and had two assists, Jason Weber four goals and seven assists, Dave Smith three goals and seven assists.

Dave Scott added one goal and five assists for the Lakers. Phil Saunders had two goals and two assists, Matt Allen and David Lambeth three assists each.

■ WOLVERINES 12, REDSKINS 3: Scott Lock and Eric Bilyeu scored three goals apiece Wednesday to help put the Wolverines in the Eagle Conference final.

The Wolverines scored the first five goals and led 5-1 after one period.

Mike Kneiding tallied a pair of goals and had three assists, and Tony Guzzo scored once and assisted on four goals. Mike Lanspeary added one of each.

■ BRONCOS 15, HUSKIES 4: Jim Pietila, Kurt Pietila and Peter Bourke scored three goals each to pace the Broncos in their playoff opener Tuesday.

Mark Pietila scored a pair of goals and recorded five assists. Ron Pietila also chipped two goals and one assist. Bourke had three assists and Jim Pietila, Keith Pietila and Tom Larson two apiece.

Josh Wiegand led the Huskies with two goals and two assists. Chris Smith added one of each.

■ SPARTANS 12, WILDCATS 10: The Spartans scored nine of the last 11 goals Tuesday to rally from an 8-3 deficit and advance to the Bakes Conference final.

The Wildcats scored the first three goals, but the Spartans pulled even at three apiece. However, the Wildcats got three more before the first period was over and the first two of the second to lead 8-3.

Jim Nesich and Tim McConnell led the Spartans' comeback with three goals apiece and four and three assists, respectively.

All-stars swing for the fence in HR contest

■ COLLEGIATE

Some of the activity on All-Star Game night in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League defied logic Wednesday at Ford Field in Livonia.

Consider:

■ Delwal's right-handed hitting Mike Pesci hit only one ball over the fence in 10 swings during the Home Run Derby against the aging arm of Hines Park Lincoln Mercury coach Dave Carroll. But Pesci, a 1992 Farmington Hills Harrison graduate, stepped up and hit an opposite-field shot over the right-center field fence against all-star pitching.

■ Pesci's team, the second team all-stars, held on to beat the first-team all-stars 6-5 in a game called after seven innings because of a shortage of rested arms.

The first and second team all-stars were selected by coaches in a secret ballot. First and second team pitchers also were selected and then divided up on both teams.

But the second team fell short in the pitching department for a number of reasons. Hines Park's Brian Paluk (Redford Catholic Central) was unable to throw because of a back problem, Westland Federation's ace Tom Wakefield was excused because he threw 18 innings over playoff weekend and someone forgot to tell Garden City's Dan Pydyn to show up for the game.

Hines Park's Craig Benedict (Plymouth Canton/Madonna) started for the first team and got help from Brandon Herrin and Little Caesars' Josh Vagi. The second team used Delwal's Terry Hayden and Garden City's Mark Rutherford (Livonia Churchill/Eastern Michigan) for two innings apiece, Jessie Gerwatowski (Livonia Franklin) for 1⅔ innings, Eric Butler for one inning and Chris Kirkey (Westland John Glenn) for 1⅓ inning.

The second team also could have used Pesci or Walter's Mike Zielinski, who were playing in the outfield.

Benedict had an RBI single for the second team and Mike Davis of Westland contributed a double. Other hitting stars for the second team included Garden City's Brian Hicks (Redford CC) and Hines Park catcher Heath Fowler.

Home run derby

Delwal's Matt Green (Birmingham Brother Rice) defeated Caesars' Dave Roman (Livonia Franklin) in the Home Run Derby, winning with a home run in the third overtime.

Green, Roman and Pesci were the only players to hit homers in the first round. Pesci hit one out, and Green and Roman hit two apiece, to set up an overtime.

Green and Roman remained tied after two overtime sessions. They both hit one homer in five swings in each session, forcing a third OT which was decided in sudden death.

The first player to hit a homer won. Green stepped up and hit a liner over the right-field fence and Roman came up and hit a grounder down the third-base line.

Green won a $50 charity prize, which he donated to Brother Rice.

Some all-star catching during the Home Run Derby was done by Kevin Niemiec, the younger brother of former Hines Park player Scott Niemiec of Plymouth Canton and the University of Michigan.

Filmmaker Moore relishes his new 'TV Nation'

By JOHN CROOK

That's a question that puzzles even Moore (the mischievous director of "Roger & Me") himself, whose bitingly funny "TV Nation" is currently airing Tuesdays on NBC.

"I always am running into people who have seen 'Roger & Me' and who know what I am up to," he muses. "And they still will do the interview. I've asked myself (why that is), and I say, 'Well, '60 Minutes' has been on the air for 25 years. Why, at this point, would anyone talk to Mike Wallace? I mean, if you saw him coming down the hall, what would you do? You know what I mean?

"But people still talk to him. People go on 'Geraldo' and 'Sally Jessy (Raphael)' to expose the most embarrassing things about their lives. Why?"

While a seven-episode summer series may seem as if it would be pretty small potatoes to the man behind the most commercially successful non-musical documentary of all time, Moore considers "Nation" to be a new breed of TV show.

"I'm really proud of it," he says. "It's something that's never been done before on TV, combining humor and nonfiction like this. It has a definite point of view and an edge to it."

Host Moore and a team of "correspondents," which includes humorist Merrill Markoe, present weekly reports on what he calls "stories about the other side of America." Some of them are more twisted than others, but all of them are true, he vows.

In the course of the series to date, Moore has traveded to the former Soviet Union to find the nuclear missile he "knows" is still pointed at his beloved hometown of Flint, Mich. ("No Nukeski Flintski" read the placard he carried with him).

Other stories thus far: Moore visits companies that have moved plants (and jobs) to Mexico; reporter Rusty Condiess recruits acclaimed black actor Yaphet Kotto and a convicted white felon to see whether some New York cabbies routinely pass up black passengers; Markoe visits a state-of-the-art Minnesota prison that has everything except inmates; and Jane Morris and Jeff Michalski visit Niagara Falls and Love Canal, where a real estate agent shows them "homes they could have for up to 20 percent less than comparable houses farther from a treanchful of dioxin-laced sludge," the off-camera narrator explains.

One of the diciest assignments for the show has been the filmmaker's trip to troubled Kuwait.

"I took a tour of that democratic state that we 'liberated' three years ago, to see how the democracy was coming," he says drily. "Not very well. It's run by a feudal monarchy. It has an illusion of some sense of democracy, you know, where 15 percent of all residents can vote."

Despite unrest in that region, Moore says he never felt he was in any danger.

"I was an American, so I was a liberator," he recalls. "The red carpet was rolled out. But I'd ask questions like 'Well, why can't women vote here?' " he asks in a mock-innocent voice.

"TV Nation" may well wind up joining the NBC lineup later next season, but for now Moore says he is concentrating on finishing up "Canadian Bacon," his first foray into feature film fiction. Starring John Candy, Alan Alda, Rip Town, Rhea Perlman, Kevin Pollack and comic Steven Wright, the comedy about improbable warfare between the United States and Canada is scheduled to premiere this fall.

"I started thinking about ('Bacon') around the time of the Gulf War...when I saw how easy it was to get Americans to just go against any enemy that the government tells them they should hate," he recalls. "Iraq was a country that was an ally for the previous decade. We had given them four billion dollars in aid. And then, one day, they were the next Hitler.

"And I thought, boy, it doesn't take much, does it? All of a sudden, everbody's tying yellow ribbons and (getting) behind Desert Storm."

"TV Nation," the summer comedy series airing Tuesdays on NBC, offers filmmaker Michael Moore ("Roger & Me") a chance to present what he calls "stories from the other side of America."

Bradshaw, Johnson add spark to Fox football

BY PETE BUCCI

While Fox brass is hailing a "new attitude" in NFL coverage, the pregame crew is showing a little attitude of its own.

During a recent press conference, "Fox NFL Pregame" co-host Terry Bradshaw gave a preview of what could be ongoing fireworks between him and analyst Jimmy Johnson. He criticized Johnson for not attending the week-long session of preseason meetings in Anaheim, Calif.

"Where's Jimmy?" Bradshaw asked analyst Howie Long, repeating the joke that had been going around all week.

"He's in the witness protection program," Long responded. Fox Sports President David Hill said Johnson was excused for prior commitments.

"We're not mad at Jimmy," Bradshaw said. "But it signals that maybe this isn't as important to him.

"I'm not going to ride Jimmy all year long, because I don't think he's going to be on the set all year long."

Bradshaw also said the back-to-back Super Bowl winner was someone who could stir controversy with his comments, adding that he will expect no less of the ex-Dallas Cowboys coach.

"I'll say this: If he won't say anything on our show, I swear to you, I am going to hammer away at him and I will know very quickly whether or not he's just here for one year."

HIGHLIGHTS

Shanna Reed and Keegan Macintosh star in the premiere suspense thriller "Don't Talk to Strangers" on USA Network, Thursday, Aug. 11.

Reed plays Jane Bonner, a mother who flees from her volatile ex-husband after winning custody of her son.

Jane soon learns, however, that both her ex-husband and new lover are hiding terrible secrets that could threaten her son's life.

LET'S TALK

'Magnum' not a Yankees fan; a link between 'Lassie' and 'CHiPS'

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Would you please settle a family dispute for me? In "Magnum P.I.," Tom Selleck wears a baseball cap. My dad insists it was a Detroit Tigers cap while the rest of my family insists it was a New York Yankees cap. Your help on this issue would be greatly appreciated. –Christy Vaught, Science Hill, Ky.

A: Father knows best, Christy. Magnum sported a Tigers cap in the series.

Q: In at least some episodes of the old show "Timmy and Lassie," Timmy was played by a boy named Frank Wilson.

Some years later, on "CHiPs," a tall, burly blond actor named Frank Wilson played one of the officers. Is this the same actor? –Scott Tenney, South Gardiner, Maine.

A: Well, you're on the right track, but it seems you may have your signals crossed. Larry Wilcox, who played by-the-book "CHiPs" officer Jon Baker, also played the character of Dale Mitchell on "Lassie" from 1972 to 1974.

Q: Could you please tell me where I can write to Pavel Bure? He is my favorite hockey player. –Andrea Hammond, Portugal Cove, Nfld., Canada.

A: Write to Bure C/O the Vancouver Canucks at 100 N. Renfrew St., Vancouver, B.C. V5K 3N7.

Q: Could you please give me an address where I could write to "Star Search"? Also, could you tell me if they are making new episodes, or if they're just airing reruns? –R.L. in upstate New York.

A: "Star Search" is currently in production, but will be airing repeats through the summer. You can write to the show at Rysher TPE, 3400 Riverside Drive, Suite 600, Burbank, Calif. 91505.

Q: I would like to know where I can write to Michael Dudikoff, who plays "Scandal" Jackson on "Cobra," and please tell me if the show will be back next season? –S.L. Storm, Longview, Md.

A: While "Cobra" will not be back for a new season this fall, you can reach Dudikoff by writing to him C/O the Sid Craig Agency, 8485 Melrose Place, Suite E, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Q: Would you please give me the address to the "Mike & Maty Show"? –Shirlean Square, Chicago Heights, Ill.

A: You can write to the show C/O ABC Media Relations, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Los Angeles, Calif. 90067.

Tom Selleck

Q: I was wondering if the heavy man who played in "Uncle Buck," "The Great Outdoors" and many other movies is the same person who played Norm on "Cheers." –K.R., Beaumont, Texas.

A: No. You have confused the late John Candy with the very-much-alive George (Norm) Wendt.

Q: I have heard rumors that Mark-Paul Gosselaar and Tiffani-Amber Thiessen are married and that's the reason why "Saved By the Bell: The College Years" went off the air. They say Gosselaar is sick and Thiessen is having a baby. Is this true? –Katherine Harper, Natchitoches, La.

A: Well, now there's a new one.

Once and for all, "Saved By the Bell: The College Years" went off the air due to poor ratings.

Gosselaar is not ill and (as far as I know) Thiessen is not pregnant. In fact, she will be joining the cast of "Beverly Hills, 90210" this fall as a transplanted friend of the Walsh family from Minnesota. Her real-life beau, at the moment at least, is Brian Austin Green, also of "90210."

Fan upset about Simpson case

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: Thank goodness you have this column because I need to vent. I am a soap watcher and proud of it! And I am sick of my favorite shows being pre-empted by the O.J. Simpson hearings. Isn't this the reason we have stations like CNN and various news programs on the networks at noon, 6 and 10, so that when we want to know what is going on we can tune in?

Why does every network have to air this case all day everyday? It is so boring! I understood when we were involved in the Gulf War and shows had to be pre-empted. I don't even mind when Bill Clinton interrupts to announce something important once in a while, but enough with this Simpson business.

People say that this case has all the makings of a great soap: murder, intrigue, abuse and lost love. I say phooey! This is real-life people, and I think it is kind of sick that most of America, and the world for that matter, wants to know every detail of this gruesome case. Are people so bored with life that they have to watch someone else's life be ruined?

I have nothing against this guy, and I have no idea if he did the crime or not. I don't care. That is for the courts to decide.

I just want my soaps back, and I want them back now! Some people may think because I watch the soaps I need to get a life. But the fact is, I have a life. The soaps just provide a daily dose of escapism for me.

If people want to know what is going on with Simpson, then let them tune in to the news. –Fed up in Oklahoma

Dear Reader: Soap opera viewers across the nation share your sentiments. Enough is enough. Unfortunately the networks had no idea how long the preliminary hearing would take. Most of the network executives thought it would run two days at the most.

You can be assured that when Simpson does go to trial the event will receive the same type of coverage. But take heart. The soap opera episodes you missed will be aired at a later date, so there is no chance of missing anything.
