Trustees weigh tax rate hike

The Canton Township Board on Tuesday will decide on a proposed tax hike to pay for increased costs of police and fire protection. The process is part of Canton's new budget.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton trustees have a choice to make Tuesday about increasing police and fire tax rates.

"It really is a bare bones budget. It is as bare as I've ever seen it presented," said Township Clerk Loren Bennett about the proposed 1995 police budget.

But the choice is to make further cuts in the budget's line items or increase the tax rate to balance the budget. Fund balances or savings are in jeopardy for both the police and fire budgets.

The township board will set the tax rates for 1995 at their 7 p.m. meeting Tuesday. The budgets are likely to be adopted at the first meeting in October.

In August, township trustees set the maximum tax rates to support the proposed 1995 budgets. Charter mills that support the general fund — that has been balanced for 1995 — will not be increased.

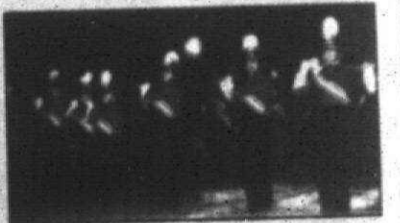

A maximum tax rate for the police fund is proposed at 5.06 mills compared to the current 4.96 mills. The proposed 1995 police fund has a $214,034 shortfall.

A maximum tax rate for the fire fund is proposed at 3.05 mills compared to the current 2.94 mills. The proposed 1995 fire fund has a $188,632 shortfall.

The police and fire funds are supported almost entirely by the special assessment millages voters approved in the 1970s. The rates were reduced 1988-1990 and have remained the same since 1990.

Performers: The Plymouth-Canton Marching Band took to the field Friday at the Plymouth Salem High School football game.

Strike up the Band!

BY JILL HALPIN

Autumn is here, and once again the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band is helping usher in the season with rollicking musical performances.

On Sept. 17, the band took first place at its season-opener, the Clinton Invitational band competition, competing against 10 bands from across the state for top honors. The group wowed judges with its performance of music based on "The Kiss of the Spider Woman," a hit Broadway musical.

For Marching Band director David Tippet, it's just a hint of the good things to come.

"I'm very pleased with the band's performance. The music is based on a play that deals with prisoners of conscience and their strife in the world. We've been practicing the music all summer," Tippet said.

Indeed they have. The group began working on the music, which will be their main performance piece

High school students irked by $60 parking fee

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Parking at several area high schools is free or relatively inexpensive, a fact that irks Plymouth, Canton and Salem students and parents who say the district's $60 annual parking fee is excessive.

If you're a student who drives to Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer or Belleville high schools, you can park for free.

Ypsilanti High School students who maintain a 3.7 grade point average park at no charge in the lot closest to school. Others park half a block away in the student lot, for free.

At Novi High School, space is at a premium because of construction, but anyone may purchase a $3 yearly parking permit.

Space at Northville High is tight. There, it costs seniors $30 per year to park, and juniors aren't permitted to park.

Livonia high schools attack their space problem with a lottery, and charge drivers $20 per year.

New inspector named

Russ Heatwole, a three-year Canton Township employee, has been selected to fill an inspector's post in the Building and Inspection Services Division.

Heatwole was appointed last week to fill a vacancy in ordinance enforcement. He will join ordinance inspector Gil Kohls in the two-person division. Canton's ordinance inspectors work to ensure that township ordinances are followed and they also work with residents and businesses to educate them about the laws.

The new inspector previously worked in the special services and water divisions of Public Works. He coordinated work on water pressure and worked with residents on the township's sump pump program.

Heatwole served seven years in the U.S. Air Force as a petroleum specialist. He grew up on a Pennsylvania farm. He has an associate's degree in management from Northern Michigan University and attends Cleary College where he is studying for a bachelor's degree.

The Wayne resident is married and the father of a 17-month-old son.

Report time

Ford Road task force to meet Thursday

The Ford Road task force will reconvene at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 29, with the release of a report about the thoroughfare's future. The meeting in the Canton Township Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, is open to the public.

The 35-page report outlines recommendations developed by a number of groups. It also includes an implementation chart.

The group of about 60 residents, business leaders and township officials and staff met throughout the spring and summer to prepare the recommendations for maintaining Ford Road as a vital part of Canton. The groups focused on aesthetics, traffic circulation, retail/office mix and financial resources.

The groups' suggestions will be reviewed by the overall task force at Thursday's meeting before being presented to the township board of trustees in October. The task force's goal was to provide a document that outlines the strengths and weaknesses of Ford Road and provides direction to address those issues.

"Ford Road may not fit many residents' ideal for a commercial center, but it really is Canton's main street and we need to maintain its vitality for the long haul," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. The thoroughfare, he said, is important to the community's overall image and ability to attract new residents and businesses.

"We want this to be a community document, something all of the residents and members of our business community have an interest in," Yack said. "Taking a real hard look at Ford Road is something we have wanted to do for more than a year. Now that the project is nearly complete we have to devise ways to make the recommendations work, be it over the next year or next decade."

Board of Education to meet Monday

The Plymouth-Canton Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 26, at the E.J. McClelland Educational Center, 454 S. Harvey in Plymouth.

First on the agenda are "Extra Miles" and "VIPS" awards. Under the superintendent's report are bills for payment, approval of leaves and new hires; appointment of a faculty athletic coordinator and endorsement of Michigan Career Development Month.

Action items include considering adoption of textbooks for seventh grade social studies; approval to award furniture bid for Plymouth-Canton Educational Park; and approval of payment plan for County Special Education Center charge-backs.

Also on the agenda is approval of designation of a delegate to the Michigan Association of School Boards; expulsion of a student; and approval of a Canton, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Plymouth-Canton Community Schools joint project at PCEP.

Discussion items include Miller Woods.

In closed session, the board will discuss employee negotiations and litigation.

way overboard. It's terrible. It's pathetic," said Julie Pappas, a Canton senior. "For some kids, that's hard. It seems like the money is going toward trucks and stupid stuff."

"Sixty dollars for each kid, that's a lot," said Stephanie Jardine, a Canton junior. "I don't see what they are using the money for."

Salem sophomore Chris Bonga agreed. "It's overpriced. It's outrageous."

"If you park in the teachers' lot, you'll get a ticket and they'll call police," said Tony Nicholas, Canton sophomore.

A Canton senior who declined to give his name because he's "in enough trouble already" said, "I think it's a rip-off. They use the money to help fix lots and pave. If they tow your car, you have to pay $75 to get it back."

Thomas George, Plymouth-Canton's chief security officer, said parking fees at the high schools — expected to total close to $49,000 this year — are used to help pay for his employees and vehicles, necessary to maintain a closed campus.

The revenue "is split half and half between us and the board office," he said. George says he's received calls from disgruntled parents who stop grumbling about the fee once they're told about the logistics involved in keeping "insiders in and outsiders out."

A lot of other schools don't have closed campuses, he said. "Here, you're not allowed to leave

Canton Public Safety Director John Santomaro has proposed the hiring of three new police officers, based on a formula that determines the number of officers needed to maintain a certain level of service.

Santomaro told trustees that Canton has the largest percentage of officers assigned to street patrol and among the lowest ratio of police officers to population.

"Capital (expenses) were reduced," said Finance Director John Spencer.

The proposal is to hire the new officers in mid-year. If they weren't hired the police budget could be trimmed by about $60,000.

"That still isn't enough to balance the budget," Bennett said. No additional sworn firefighters are proposed for 1995 though a part-time clerk's job has been requested.

Efforts have been made to fine-tune projected expenses for the budgets, which have been plagued by a past property tax assessment freeze and an arbitration settlement that bit into the fire and police fund balances or savings accounts.

Also tugging at the equation is the current labor negotiations gan working on the music, which will be their main performance piece this season, at a week-long band camp in northern Michigan earlier this August. The group continued to practice the musical number throughout the summer, meeting for at least two hours each day, sometimes practicing six or seven days a week.

For Tippet, a Toledo resident who commutes to the Plymouth-Canton area, the practice sessions are a labor of love.

"This is a really talented group of kids, with a fantastic record," said Tippet, referring to the group's long list of accomplishments. Bands of American Class AAA National Champions in 1992, the group also was named Grand National Champions in 1990 and 1991. In addition to the honor, the group has received the Governor's Trophy every year since 1986.

Although Tippet said that he has seen a change in respect for the arts, he feels encouraged by the involvement of both students and parents in the Plymouth-Canton area.

"Music can offer kids so much. A lot more kids would be involved in band if they didn't have so many other distractions," he said.

In addition to practicing, the band is working toward another goal this season. The group is trying to raise money for new uniforms. The uniform replacement program is sponsored by the Plymouth-Canton Music Boosters, and is aimed at both individuals and businesses in the community.

Plans to have students renovate the interior of the historic Bartlett-Travis House this fall — expected to save the Canton Historic District Commission some $60,000 — have been postponed.

"All of our indications are that they still want to do it," said Canton trustee Melissa McLaughlin, a historic district commissioner, referring to adult construction students with Wayne-Westland Schools' Bill Ford Vocational Technical Center. A number of factors caused the delay, including uncertainty as late as early September whether the construction class would continue because of less than expected enrollment.

But our part of the puzzle was to contact with the contractor for them to do it," McLaughlin said.

Working: John Morgan is working on the front porch of the historic Bartlett-Travis house. The porch will wrap around the front and side of the house.

Pastor sitting on field of dreams

By JILL HALPIN STAFF WRITER

Out alongside a dusty stretch of Warren Road on the western side of Canton Township sits Steve Rottgers' field of dreams.

The seven-acre parcel of land between Beck and Ridge roads, now owned by the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan, is the future home of a church and worship center, which Rottgers, an Episcopal priest, intends to build from the ground up.

"Build it and they will come," they said in the movie, and that is exactly what Rottgers plan to do.

"Seven acres is a lot of land to fill. We are looking for people who have a creative interest in building a new church. The sky is the limit," said Rottgers, adding that both he and the diocese are hoping for a positive response from the community.

A native of Cincinnati, Rottgers, a graduate of the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Kentucky, was sent to the area to head up the "Canton Township Mission," in July.

He has spent the past couple of months exploring the area and is anxious to have his family — wife, Mary, and children ages 13, 9 and 3 — join him. They are currently living in Williamsburg, Va., attempting to sit the house where the family lived while Rottgers guided the development of the Christ The King Episcopal church on 10 acres of land.

Of all of the areas, Canton really looked good. The rapid development and the exceptional planning of the development by local officials were some of the reasons that this area was selected as a site," said Rottgers.

Specific building plans for the site have not yet been set. But the possibilities are endless, said the self-described "eternal optimist," and there is a chance that a school may be built on the site.

"In architecture, form follows function and that is how I hope to help build this church. Although there aren't plans for a school at this time, if we find that there is a need, we can respond to that. We need to get people focused on the function of the church before we plan on the form," he said.

Building a strong church takes time and Rottgers hopes to utilize a two-step plan for development. The first step is the "Sunday Celebration," a worship time and fellowship time for the whole family.

The second part of the plan revolves around the creation of a group of support networks, groups of 10-12 people who meet for prayer and Bible study. Each group would adopt their own personal ministry and work with outreach organizations such as "Meals on Wheels" or senior citizens groups, Rottgers said. He is hoping to center the church on the strengthening of faith and the development of spirituality rather than focusing in political agendas.

"I want the church to be user-friendly and work on faith formation rather than fragmenting and clouding the issue," he said.

The Canton Township

Field of dreams: Steve Rottgers is looking to start a new Episcopal church in what is now a Canton Township field.

Mission will begin meeting for worship services at 9 a.m. on Oct. 2 at the Tonda Elementary School on Warren. In the meantime, Rottgers has set up an office near the Canton Township Chamber of Commerce building at 5820 N. Canton Center Road. Rottgers said that he welcomes calls from interested residents and is available at the office or by calling 207-1617.

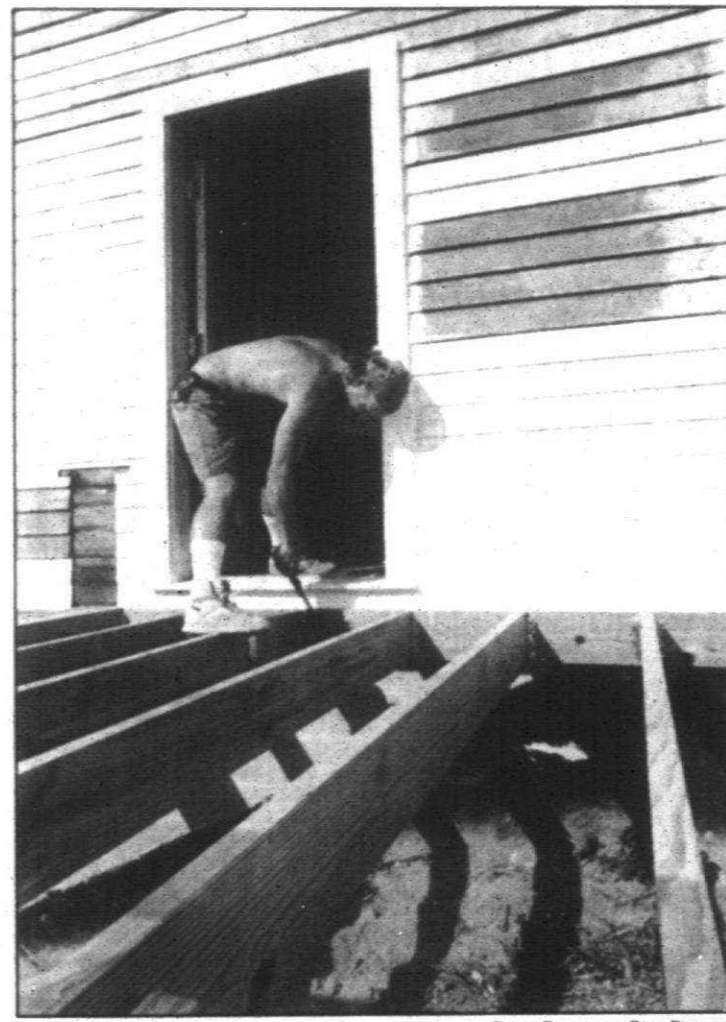

Young musicians have a busy year

More than 200 area high school students are participating in this year's Plymouth-Canton Marching Band under the direction of band leader David Tippet.

The band's 10-week season got off to a successful start on Sept. 17 at the Clinton Invitational. The award-winning band will continue to participate in competitions in and around Michigan for the remaining season. Fans may also catch the band's performances during half-time at home football games held at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

The schedule for competitions is as follows:

- Sept. 24 — Trenton Invitational Oct. 1 — Bands of America Midwest Regionals in Toledo, Ohio
- Oct. 8 — Bands of America Eastern Regionals in Morgantown, Ohio
- Oct. 15 — Great Lakes Invitational at Plymouth
- Oct. 22 — Huron Valley Invitational
- Oct. 29 — State Championship
- Nov. 5 — Bands of America Grand Nationals in Indianapolis, Ind.

Work delayed on historic house

By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

Same time next year?

Plans to have students renovate the interior of the historic Bartlett-Travis House this fall — expected to save the Canton Historic District Commission some $60,000 — have been postponed.

Historic commissioners were in limbo — they're fund-raising and soliciting donations for materials — while waiting for a list of needed supplies from the construction class. Commissioners also requested $25,000 in the proposed 1995 budget to help purchase materials that would not likely be donated.

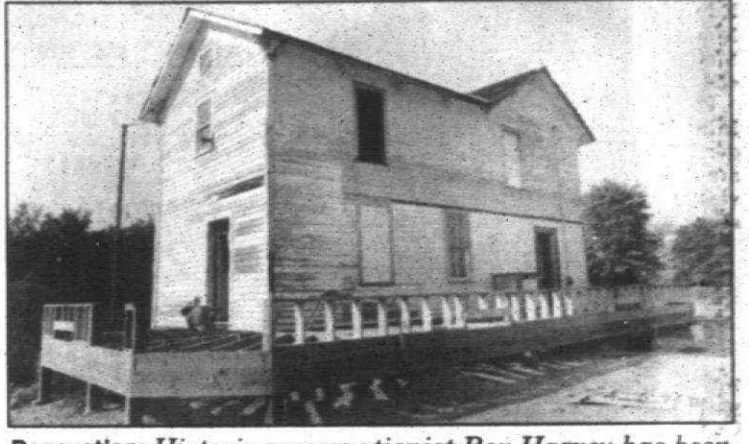

"There is no problem delaying it," McLaughlin said. "They want to do the building and probably will do it next fall."

Meanwhile, historic preservationist Rex Harvey of Plymouth was hired to renovate the exterior of the house on Ridge Road, just north of Cherry Hill.

"It was going to be a bit of a puzzle with Rex there," McLaughlin said, referring to providing enough room for the students and Harvey to work. Depending on weather, Harvey is expected to be finished by December.

Canton trustee Bob Shefferly questioned whether commissioners have a plan yet for how the house will be used when completed. "If we were going to vote line by line, I'd vote against it," referring to the $25,000 budget request.

But McLaughlin said historic district commissioners are working with the Canton Historical Society to develop a plan for the house, as well as potential programs. "We didn't want to develop a finite plan and say to the historical society, 'you get run this.'"

McLaughlin said she would like to see the historic Cherry Hill district as a center for folk art, including quilting and weaving. School programs also are likely. Using the house and its 20 acres as a working farm remains a possibility. But commissioners want to provide activities that will draw visitors back.

The new township recreation master plan also could include some of the Travis acreage for recreation, McLaughlin added.

"We are all open to ideas. If someone has a stroke of genius call somebody," McLaughlin said.

Commissioner Virginia Parker has developed information packets on the restoration project that will be available to builders, vendors, merchants and others who will be asked to donate materials to the project.

The house was moved in the late 1980s from its original site at Holmes and Canton Center to 20 acres on Ridge Road where a basement was built for it. The house originally was part of the Bartlett family farm and was later purchased by the Travis family. The house also has been used as a two-family flat.

Art contest being offered for elementary school kids

The talents of students will be showcased in an art contest sponsored by state Rep. Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

Winners will receive $800 worth of U.S. savings bonds.

Whyman said this is the third competition in a series of four drawing contests started late last year. Children in kindergarten through fourth grades are asked to draw and color pictures characterizing the contest theme of "What I Did on My Summer Vacation."

"These pictures don't have to be of some exotic or historical place visited during a family vacation. They simply can capture the excitement of a day at the park or playing with friends in the backyard," Whyman said.

"I am looking for imagination and emotion in the artwork."

"Summertime has special meaning to all of us, and I want those feelings to leap off the page."

Three winners will be selected. First place will earn a $500 savings bond, with second and third receiving a $200 and $100 bond, respectively. Whyman also will award certificates to all contestants for their participation. The drawings will be judged on creativity and originality by a selected panel.

Entries should be on 8½-inch-by-11-inch paper or cardboard. Pictures can be done in pen, pencil, marker, crayon, or paint. Each entry must include the student's name, age, grade, home address and phone number.

Committee to issue report on privatization of fuel services

An internal Canton committee formed one year ago to review and evaluate the potential privatization of government services will present a series of recommendations to the Canton Board of Trustees in a report prepared for Tuesday's board meeting.

The Government Services Evaluation Committee, which includes Clerk Loren Bennett, Administrative Services Director Dan Durack, Public Safety Director John Santomaro, Canton CFO John Spencer and Trustee Bob Shefferly, concluded a study of fuel privatization earlier this year.

The report explores options available to Canton for purchasing and distributing motor fuel for its fleet of vehicles. During the study four options were considered: 1. Maintain and upgrade the current underground storage tank (UST) system; 2. Maintain a UST system at the DPW and purchase fuel from a private vendor; 3. Put aboveground storage tanks at DPW for the entire township fleet; and 4. Put aboveground tanks at DPW with a contingency fuel supply, using a private vendor for fleet fueling.

The report concludes that the current USTs owned by the township need to be removed and that aboveground storage tanks should be maintained at the DPW for emergency needs, while the bulk of the motor fuel is purchased from private vendors.

The report notes that funds will be needed to remove existing underground tanks and that using a private vendor will cost slightly more in the short run than staying with the existing system. The report adds, however, that the township will be relieved of considerable liability for cleaning up underground fuel leaks. The report describes two minor cleanups costing more than $80,000. When existing tanks are removed soil contamination is a real consideration, said the report, which noted that removal of all township tanks could add up to considerable expense.

Artists who do not include that information on their drawing cannot be identified and unfortunately, will be disqualified.

All submissions must be received in Whyman's Lansing office no later than Wednesday, Oct. 13. Winners will be announced Oct. 17. Students must live in Canton Township, Summit Township, Van Buren Township or the city of Belleville to participate.

"I am looking forward to enjoying the talents of our young artists," Whyman concluded. "Picking a winner will no doubt be difficult."

Entries should be mailed to Whyman's office, the state Capitol, P.O. Box 30014, Lansing, 48909.

Tradeport plan aims to lure manufacturing here

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Michigan may see its first international tradeport in 1995 at Willow Run Airport once the state Senate completes work on an authorization law. Chairman David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, and Sen. George Hart, D-Dearborn, were among supporters when the Senate Local Government Committee approved a House-passed bill sought by Wayne and Washtenaw counties' economic development officials. "Willow Run Airport is neglected and under-used," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti. Profit became a champion of the cause when General Motors Corp. moved out of its plant next door to the commercial airport. "A group of 15 or 20 has grown to 100. This bill sets up an authority that can capture local revenue, accumulate land and finance the infrastructure," he said.

"A tradeport is a new concept in Michigan," said Joseph Joachim, consultant to Wayne County and retired Oakland County economic development chief. The goal is to attract manufacturers — many with scientific products — whose shipping could benefit from next-door access to a 10,300-foot-long runway. Wayne owns the 2,300-acre Willow Run Airport, which straddles the county line. The two counties envision a 6,700-acre tradeport. A Conrail railroad line passes by. The tradeport area is bounded on the south by the I-94 freeway, on the north by Michigan Avenue, on the west by Wierd Road, and on the east by Belleville Road. Each county would contribute to the operating authority. The authority would be allowed to "capture" half of the incremental property tax revenues from the counties and half of the incremental income tax revenue from the state. The authority's governing board would be Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara, the chair of the Washtenaw County board, state Commerce Director Arthur Ellis, and three citizens — a gubernatorial appointee and appointees of each county. Five other Michigan areas would be eligible to form tradeport authorities: Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Saginaw-Midland-Bay City, Oshtemo (the former Wurtsmith Air Force Base), and the area around Sawyer Air Force Base. Refer to House Bill 5464 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Clean water group likes Lynn Rivers

Clean Water Action today announced its endorsement of 13th Congressional district U.S. Representative candidate Lynn Rivers, an Ann Arbor Democrat.

The national environmental organization has 80,000 members in Michigan, including 8,000 in the 13th district which includes Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Canton Township, Garden City, Westland and part of Livonia.

"Lynn Rivers has emerged as one of the brightest shining environmental stars in the Michigan legislature. We can count on her to carry that commitment to Washington," said Dave Dempsey, Michigan director for Clean Water Action.

Rivers earned a perfect 100 percent rating from Clean Water Action in her first term in the Michigan state house, voting the pro-environment position on issues from stronger protections of groundwater to protecting the public health and safety from pesticide applications. Rivers also co-sponsored bills to expand recycling programs for state agencies and to require safe disposal of hazardous waste.

"Every voter in the 13th district who cares about the environment should pull the lever for Lynn Rivers on election day," said Dave Dempsey, Michigan director for CWA. "She is the most pro-environment candidate in this race."

According to a recent EPA report, all of Michigan's Great Lakes shoreline is too polluted for fishing, swimming or supporting aquatic life at some point during the year. People cannot safely eat fish caught in 35 stretches of river, 19 lakes and along the entire Great Lakes shoreline because the fish are contaminated with PCBs, mercury, dioxin and chlordane. In 1992, 750,000 pounds of toxic chemicals were dumped directly into Michigan waters.

S'craft board off to Canton

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees will conduct its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the Canton Township Administration Building.

"We realize we're part of the community we serve," said board Chairman Steve Ragan in a press release. "By moving some of our meetings to locations in our district, we hope to encourage our taxpayers to interact with the board."

The agenda includes college President Richard McDowell, who will provide a campus update. The board will consider replacement of the mainframe computer, too.

MADD offers open house

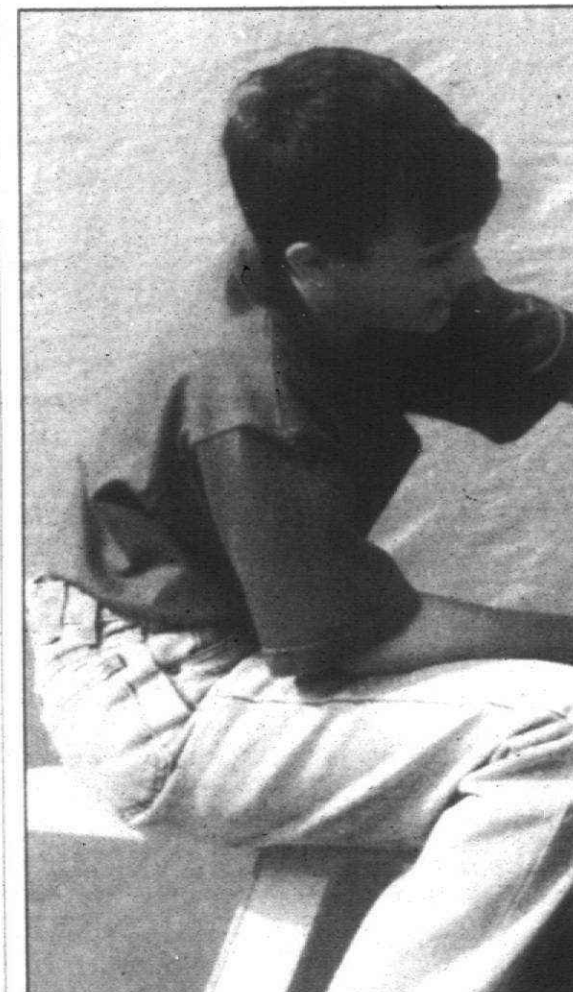

The Wayne County Chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving has a new office. The new place is located at 515 N. Wayne Road between Cherry Hill and Ford Road in Westland. The public is invited to an open house 5-8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 29. There will be clowns and food available. For more information, call 721-8181.

Harvest inspires tabletop designs

When the farm stands and country store fronts beckon with the rich harvest of chrysanthemums, the spicy orange pumpkins, and the rusty reds of berries and oak leaves, our imaginations are kindled with visions of autumn centerpiece from nature's bounty. Your own backyard might supply the fittings for fall tabletop. Gather leaves, acorns and pepper berries, hark back to amaranth and wildflowers. Or raid the produce bins for cranberries, pears, nuts and pomegranates, and the space cabinet for aromatic bay, sage and oregano. The trick is in allowing yourself the creative license to combine all of your gleanings into a work of art.

That outdoor feeling

If you have neither the time nor the inclination to do it yourself, Jan Busse of Busses Nature Preserve in Farmington Hills, will design a centerpiece for you. I pictured one of her freeze-dried arrangements in a May column and explained the way in which she creates unexpected, enchanting garden sculptures from woodland finds. The process of freeze-drying ensures that the fruits, flowers and vegetables retain their natural shape, feel and scent. For fall, Busse fills freeze-dried baskets and cornucopia with eggplant and brussels sprouts, broccoli, marigolds, dried sunflowers, pomegranates and pine cones. She then ties up nature's treasures with twining jeweled ribbons. See her creations at Nature Nook Florists, Carrie Ann's Hallmark, in Bloomfield Hills and M.T. Hunter in Birmingham ($10-$160).

There are plenty of folks around town who can help you to make your own centerpiece. They can provide advice and expertise as well as harvest decorations to enhance your original design. The Silk Worm, 400 Main St. in Rochester, combines bunches of silk chrysanthemums, yellow, ruby, mauve and fuchsia — in wicker baskets ($9.99-$39.99). The basket of mums makes a simple permanent centerpiece. Or snip the pom-poms from their stems and combine with your naturals, such as berries, pine cones and acorns to cover a straw wreath. Place a glowing pumpkin candle in their center ($16.50-$19.99).

Goosey gourds

At the English Gardens, 6370 Orchard Lake Rd., West Bloomfield, huge pots of chrysanthemums are mixed with mini-pumpkins (two/11) and unusual gooseneck gourds ($5.98). Hand-painted black flower pots are brightened with pumpkins and jack-o'-lanterns. Fill with dried flowers or shafts of wheat ($8.98-$19.98). Accent your floral centerpiece with fruit and vine wrapped candlesticks ($34.98-$49.98) for a complete tablecape.

English Gardens presents a free fall seminar on October 26 at 7 p.m. "Decorating Your Home for the Holidays" by Pam. This year's theme: "North Pole Fantasy." To see autumn in a jug of sweet apple cider and bag of warm, crispy doughnuts. Imagine these two delicacies in a picture postcard setting and you've envisioned the Franklin Cider Mill. Once you've enjoyed your treat, take a walk up the hill to The Village Barn, 32760 Franklin Rd. Reminiscent of an old-fashioned Vermont country store, The Village Barn welcomes visitors with giant pumpkins, pots of bright yellow mums and bales of hay. The charm continues as you walk through the door and into a seasonal wonderland. My favorite harvest accessories include popper machines with life-like vines and leaves attached baskets to fill with your backyard bounty ($23); mini-bales of hay for your tabletop ($4.50); bunches of oak leaves and vines of bitterroot, Indian corn and candles ($15); and a terrific cornucopia centerpiece ($21). Let your imagination soar. Linda Bachrach is a Birmingham resident. You can leave her column address at (313) 953-2047, mail box 1889 or fax them to her at (810) 644-1314.

Retailers join hands for cancer benefit

Some shopping centers really have heart. Recently, Livonia Mall merchants united to raise $23,300 for the MDA. Wednesday night, Birmingham merchants came together for the kid's cancer unit at Beaumont.

It's hip. It's hot. It's happening. And you can be a part of all the fun. It's the 5th annual downtown Birmingham benefit for the Children's Cancer Center at William Beaumont Hospital. It all gets under way at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 5, at the Birmingham Theater and the food tent next door. Tickets, just $25 per person.

In addition to entertainment, there will be a silent auction in the theater lobby of a very Birmingham service and merchandise packages, put together by the area's merchants, retailers and service providers. Hors d'oeuvres and beverages (cash bar) will be provided, courtesy of all Birmingham's eateries under the food tent.

The highlight of the evening is an hour-long fashion extravaganza showcasing looks from 23 of the town's leading clothing stores "the creative seers who create the pulse of fashion in southeast Michigan," according to Dorie Shwedel who's handling the publicity for the benefit.

"This isn't mall fashion," she points out. "It's about community spirit, food, fun, being a part of something bigger than yourself," said Richard Astreim, who's working on the event with partners Nancy Pali of Edward Dorian and Tracey Toopp of It's The Ritz. "We've got nearly 100-percent participation from all Birmingham businesses including the banks, restaurants, hotels and retailers. Everybody is participating to some degree. It's really a happening. We can all come together over something like this!"

Mitzelfeld's hopes to be best, not big

This is the first in a series of stories about independent retailers who have managed to stay in business and become part of the communities they serve.

By SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Monty and Brad Mitzelfeld, of Mitzelfeld's Department Store in downtown Rochester, were anxious to discuss the ins and outs of running a family business in the age of the giant retailer — as long as "the nostalgia bit" could be avoided.

"So often in stories about mom and pop stores, the image of a quaint, little business run by kindly old folks on Main Street U.S.A. comes across," Monty said, "but that's just not the case at Mitzelfeld's. We couldn't survive on nostalgia. That image is behind the times."

"We're equally as cosmopolitan as the biggest department stores. We have to be to serve the community that shops here. Our customers travel. They are well educated. They are friends and neighbors. They tell us what we should carry."

Back then, Rochester, Lake Orion and Orford families shopped at the store for clothes, sheets, blankets, china and table linens.

Mitzelfeld's was originally known as Eggleston's Dry Goods Store when their grandparents moved to Rochester in 1939 and opened a small store on Main Street. It became Eggleston's — Mitzelfeld's 10 years later. Mitzelfeld's is run by the brothers who took over the company from their parents William and Diana Mitzelfeld. Diana serves as president of the company and still does some of the buying for the home fashions and children's department. Brad oversees the women's wear departments. Monty oversees the men's wear and accessories.

"We owned the buildings," Monty said. "So when the land boom occurred in the 1980s, my father was approached by investors to sell the property. He got to name his price. In 1982 the Utica store was sold, and in 1985 the Birmingham store was sold."

It was a smart business move. We made a lot of money and we could concentrate on the Rochester store at a time when the Rochester community was taking off.

The brothers never thought they'd end up in retail. Monty got a law degree from Wayne State University. Brad earned a psychology degree from the University of Michigan. They grew up in Rochester and attended high school at Cranbrook. They worked in the store to help out one summer and just fell into it.

Both are active in the community. Brad served on the Rochester Downtown Development Authority for eight years, the past three as president. He's also helped promote the Meadow Brook Music Festival. Monty serves on the DDA's Promotions Committee, has been president of the Greater Rochester Chamber of Commerce, and a longtime supporter of Crittenton Hospital.

Monty and his wife, Julie, have a teenage daughter. Brad and his wife Pamela, have a son and daughter in elementary school. "We enjoy what we do," Brad said. "We see our friends from childhood shopping in the store with their kids. We see their kids working here during the holidays and summers. Our customers enjoy seeing the owners in the store. They like being greeted by us. At Mitzelfeld's, there's not a lot of management layers. Most of the time it's, 'Hey, Brad, got any more of these in a large in back?' It's great."

Monty was more philosophic about his job. "Hey, there are many ways people part with their money, and most of them are unpleasant — like taxes, the price of a root canal, car repairs..." At Mitzelfeld's, people part with their money, but they're happy about it! They get nice stuff and enjoy the shopping experience."

The secret to Mitzelfeld's success, according to Monty, is carrying name brands, priced competitively and sold with a lot of personal service. "Oh, I know lots of retailers make claims to giving service, but at Mitzelfeld's it's the way we do business," Monty said. "The other day a woman came in looking for a sweater for her husband and we didn't have the one she wanted in stock. One of our associates was on the phone on the spot, calling New York to order it for her. No request for a deposit. No hassles. Just, 'we'll call you when it comes in.'"

Monty pointed out that many of his staff of 85 have been working at the store for 15 and 20 years. This makes them very knowledgeable about the merchandise.

"What's in store for Mitzelfeld's through the next decade?" "We'd rather be the best, nicest store to shop in, than the largest chain," Monty said. "We hope to continue playing an up note in the lives of our customers."

As downtown Rochester acquires more and more destination stores, all the Main Street businesses will profit, according to the Mitzelfelds. Joyce Renfrew of Waterford agreed.

"I visit Mitzelfeld's every three or four months when I come into Rochester to eat at the Chop House," she said. "The town is getting some of the nicest stores. I always stop in The Dandy Lion and Golden Unicorn to browse. Penn and Paige is also wonderful. I love the Silk Worm and Peggy's. Deliquant has always a lot of new things to discover."

Mitzelfeld's is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday noon to 6 p.m.

There are seats for 1,000 guests at the fashion show and promoters are hoping for a sell-out crowd, though tickets are still available. Last year, the event raised $13,500 for Beaumont's work with children diagnosed with cancer. Organizers hope to top that figure this year.

Linda Jackson of Birmingham was buying a ticket for herself and her daughter. (Tickets are being sold at Jacobson's and most every other store in town.) She said it will be her first time, but she was impressed with the event's offerings and the good cause. "I never heard of any downtown coming together like this for a fund-raiser that everyone can relate to," she explained. "We all know of someone who fights the cancer battle. I'd like to help them, especially the children."

Guests to the 5th Annual Birmingham Fashion Show will be treated to food samples from 220 Merrill Street, Ocean Grille, Alban's, the Townsend Hotel, Midtown Cafe, Max & Erma's, City Grill, Old Woodward Grill, Machus and Peabody's to mention a few.

Afterward, they can peruse the auction packages that include weekends at the Townsend Hotel, jewelry, gift baskets, antiques, salon services, season symphony tickets, dinners, floral arrangements and "neat stuff" from the gift shops in town. The fashion show emcee is Jim Harper of WNIC radio (who has been known to bid on a few of the items himself in years past.) The looks will be sublime to serendipitous as they begin coming down the runway at 8 p.m.

The grand finale is a dessert afterglow to tempt patrons to linger and mingle until the party officially ends at 11 p.m.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for the retailers of Birmingham to show case our talents and uniqueness as a community," Astreim said. "Every cent we raise goes directly to the Children's Cancer Center at Beaumont. Every day is a miracle for these kids, and we want to help make miracles."

For a real value, take advantage of reserved seating and complimentary bar with patron tickets priced at $100. Tickets will be available at the door.

For more information, or to volunteer auction items or help, call Astreim at 810-644-1651.

UM-Dearborn responds to employers, chief says

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

With one ear to the ground, James Renick promised, "You'll hear more about this institution. We're ready to take off. It has been an incredible one and a half years."

Renick is chancellor of the University of Michigan Dearborn campus, which in October will break ground for $14 million in state-funded buildings for the engineering and management schools.

His ear is to the ground because UM-D listens to employers. It was founded 35 years ago at the prompting of, and with a 200-acre land gift from, Ford Motor Co. Ford foresaw a shortage of engineers and junior managers. Now, days, UM-D listens to the entire Big Three and other companies, besides. It does sponsored research for Perceptra, a Farmington Hills supplier of 3-D image processing equipment to the auto industry.

"We respond to the people — the needs of the community. For instance, we found, in talking with supporters and employers, there was a need to supply technical skills for managers and managerial skills for engineers. We ended up designing a master's degree program, engineering management. It's been a runaway success."

Terry Gallagher, UM-D's information officer, added that the state won't pay to equip the forthcoming new buildings. Industry will do that.

"Partnership," a term UM-D officials often repeat, has been a buzzword in academia for several years. UM-D has been using it for 35. "We don't believe in town and country. We're in the same community," Renick said.

In 1984 when UM-D turned age 25, its enrollment appeared to be leveling off at 6,000. Now it's up to 8,000. Renick doesn't project a cap. "We'll grow incrementally, in response to the people," he said.

Renick knows colleges. He was raised in Rockford, Ill., the son of a college professor father and a mother who was assistant superintendent of the public schools. His father died young. Renick used scholarships and fellowships to get degrees at Central (Ohio) State, Kansas University and Florida State. He was vice provost for academic initiatives and external affairs at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va., when the University of Michigan hired him in January of 1993 to lead the Dearborn campus.

UM-D is no party school. Its history contains no tales of student pranks or demonstrations. "They're smart. They work hard. They're competitive. This is the most selective division in the commuter school in the country. The top students are heavily recruited," the chancellor said.

Unlike its residential big brother in Ann Arbor, where 30 percent of all undergraduates hail from other states, UM-D is 73 percent suburban, and 99 percent Michigan residents. The breakdown:

- 50 percent liberal arts (though many will switch to engineering in their junior years)
- 26 percent engineering
- 10 percent education

UM officials constantly say the Dearborn campus is comparable in quality to the Ann Arbor

McMaster refuses to let McNamara go back on TV

BY MARY RODRIGUE
AND RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITERS

Wayne County Executive Edward McMaster will have to wait a few more weeks before he can go back on his TV show with Oakland County Executive Brooks Patterson and Detroit Mayor Dennis Archer.

Redford Township resident Paul McMaster, McNamara's Republican challenger for Wayne County executive, has refused to waive his rights to equal time so that McNamara might swap Sunday afternoon jokes with Patterson once again.

"It's not in the best interest of the Wayne County Republican Party to have Ed McMaster on that show and bash Republicans," McMaster said. "If he wants to go on TV, let him buy commercial time."

The request to sign the waiver came to McMaster from Patterson's public relations man, Bob Dustman. Dustman said that Rob Zeiger, who works for McNamara, relayed the request to him.

Patterson said he approved the move to ask a fellow Republican to yield to a Democratic opponent, but "it's not a big deal. Either way, I can live with the outcome."

The show, Patterson said, isn't as good with McNamara. "Archer and I are putting more people to sleep than Dr. Kevoorkian. McNamara is probably a little more lively."

McMaster, 26, who is first vice chairman of the Redford Zoning Board of Appeals, works as general manager of Redford Villa Condominiums.

The lifetime Redford resident ran unsuccessfully for Redford Township trustee two years ago. "I've been active with Redford politics for years," he said. "I'm bothered by the continual shift in responsibility from county to local municipalities, for instance on the maintenance of unpaved roads. Redford has 50 miles of them and is increasingly responsible for their upkeep while the county gets the gas tax money for maintenance."

Focus:HOPE plans event

Detroit and suburban groups will pair up for this year's Focus:HOPE WALK for Justice on Sunday, Oct. 9.

Thousands have participated in past WALKS, but organizations usually stayed with their own members. This year Focus:HOPE is encouraging groups to pair up with groups from other parts of the metro Detroit area, to mingle with them and chat as they walk through Detroit and Highland Park. The WALK for Justice will convene at Focus:HOPE's complex at 1355 Oakman Blvd. in Detroit.

Representing Detroit's culturally diverse community, the WALK emphasizes our connection with and interdependence on one another, with a goal of "building together a metropolitan community where all people may live in freedom, harmony, trust and affection." Community groups of all kinds are invited to call Focus:HOPE at 494-5000 to be matched with a sister organization.

In conjunction with this year's walk, Focus:HOPE also presents Countdown to Eternity, a photographic exhibition that depicts the last days of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as seen through the photographs of Benedict Fernandez. Focus:HOPE is one of just 13 organizations nationally to host the exhibition, which is open through Oct. 23, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

Call 313-494-5500 for more information.

With both chancellor Renick and President James Duderstadt in this inner circle, UM is the only university with two members. "It says something about this campus that we're involved in national discussions," said Renick. "We're in touch with our region and our society."

House library privacy bill fuels parents' rights rift

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

A minor bill-collecting amendment is turning into a semi-religious battle over "parents' rights" in the state House of Representatives.

The issue: Should the library privacy law be amended to force librarians to reveal to parents what materials their youngsters are checking out?

"I believe in privacy of adults, but I believe parents should know what their children are doing," said Rep. Harold Voorhees, R-Wyoming.

In the House Local Government Committee Tuesday, Voorhees ran into a brick wall of opposition from committee members, library professionals and Sen. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, sponsor of a minor bill to help libraries track down overdue books.

Voorhees, a religious conservative, withdrew his amendment but vowed a floor fight when the full House takes up Honigman's Senate Bill 1067.

Under privacy laws, librarians may not reveal a patron's reading habits. Honigman is seeking House approval of his Senatepassed bill to allow librarians to reveal the title of a book someone has borrowed under limited circumstances.

"The libraries found an unintended problem: A child has an overdue book; the library tries to track it down; the parent says 'which book?' The librarian can't tell them which book," Honigman said.

"Under my bill, a librarian may disclose the title for the limited purpose of recovering the book or collecting a fine."

Supporting the Honigman bill, Mary Ann Hartsell of the Michigan Library Association said librarians tracking down books that are many weeks overdue may need to talk to parents, college roommates or landlords of the borrower.

"We have been leery of opening up this act (to amendment)," she said — and Voorhees made her fears come true.

If parents distrust their child's reading choices, Hartsell said, they can refuse to let the child have a card and make him or her check out books under the parent's card.

Honigman opposed Voorhees' amendment. "Who knows what the ACLU (American Civil Liberties Union) will do (if it were adopted)? You should introduce a separate bill next session, as a matter of good procedure, not introduce controversy into my bill," Honigman said.

"You cannot hold minors to a different standard of privacy," freshman Rep. Lynn Martinez, D-Lansing, told Voorhees. "In my area, parents can place restrictions on the (child's) card — certain kinds of material can't be taken out," she added.

"You're missing the point," Rep. Vincent Porreca, D-Trenton, told Voorhees. "You're saying parents have no control. I don't see what you're saying to be true."

Allowing a parent to see a child's reading list can put the child in an awkward position, said Rep. Howard Wetters, D-Kawakwin. Example: a confrontational divorce suit where a child checks out a book on divorce to prepare himself for the battle.

Voorhees stuck to his parental authority guns. He said he would continue to pursue his amendment "so parents can feel good about knowing their child is in the library."

Westland police back Schall

John Schall, an Ann Arbor resident and Republican candidate for the U.S. House in the 13th District, has been endorsed by the Westland Police Officers Association.

"I'm proud to have the support of the police officers in my district," said Schall in a press release. "Before, people were just concerned about crime in the streets, but now people are afraid even to go home to a dark house at night. Let's help the Westland police return the security that my parents had when they grew up in Westland in the 1940s."

Schall has also been endorsed by the Washtenaw County Deputy Sheriff's Association and the Police Officers Association of Michigan.

Schall's opponent is state Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor. The election is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 8.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Enjoy your holiday party, hire a caterer

With the holidays fast approaching, now is the time to consider hiring a caterer. As a matter of fact, seven of the 10 caterers I called last week were already booked. Stop making excuses for not having friends over for a holiday dinner. Caterers are the answer for people who too busy, don't have the time, or talent to cook a special meal. Not all caterers are expensive. There are many affordable options. While you'd be surprised at how affordable dinner can be, why not consider serving just desserts or appetizers.

The last time momma hired a caterer, she was appalled that the cook came and set up a tossed salad that was already drenched and wilted with Italian salad dressing, and then proceeded to unwrap bags of cheap dinner rolls purchased from the local grocery.

Times have changed. The best approach to take when looking for a caterer is to ask your friends and co-workers. The majority of caterers today rely on up to 75 percent of their business from repeat and referred customers.

The thought of hiring a caterer could send shivers down the spine of any frantic host or hostess.

There are a few suggestions to follow that can make the process relatively easy, and can make the host or hostess a guest at their own party. So say the pros, which in this case are Chef Paul Tootikian of Dad's Cafe and Catering in Livonia, and Chefs Kelli Lewton and Vera Ambrose-Shiels of 2 Unique Catering in Bloomfield Hills.

Communication is key

Tootikian, who recently left a successful career at one of metro Detroit's finest Italian restaurants to open his cafe and catering operation at 28430 Joy Road in Livonia, said the secret to catering the best parties begins with communication between himself and the client.

"The customer should know about the reliability and the quality of the food the caterer offers before the logistics of the party are even discussed," he said.

"Beware of folks who operate out of their basements and are not licensed operators. Also check the caterer's liability insurance," said Tootikian as he confirmed a date with a customer during the interview.

The what, the when and the wheres are the first topic of business as Tootikian tries to get as many details of the party as possible before making menu suggestions.

He claims that what sets his company above the rest is that he "is willing to work with the customer rather than the customer working around the caterer."

Dad's Catering offers their customers a pre-selected menu, but is always willing to honor special requests, especially for health and religious reasons. Tootikian's per plate prices start at $5 per person with a medium range of $7.50 per person, and a high end of $10 per person.

For the record, he still has a few select dates available for the holidays, but cautions, "they're filling up fast!" Call (313) 425-4220.

Know what you want

The owners of 2 Unique Catering suggest that the customer know whether they want to work or be a guest at their own party before they call the caterer. A full service caterer, 2 Unique offers a package that includes table decorations, linens, skirting, and all rentals.

Lewton and Ambrose-Shiels pride themselves on their company's quality food preparation, and before any contract is signed, they insist their clients know exactly what they are getting, all of which is accomplished by extensive communication.

After the logistics are settled 2 Unique makes it a point to contact their clients a week or so before the event to go over the party step-by-step.

"We've never had a problem because our customers know up-front just what to expect," said Ambrose-Shiels. Their prices start at $25 per person for an all inclusive package.

If you are interested in learning more about 2 Unique Catering, call (810) 642-5240.

The earlier you contact a caterer, the better. What's the best thing that we as clients can do for a caterer? If they did an outstanding job, and delivered everything you requested, at the agreed upon price, pass along the praise to others.

See Larry Janes' family-tested recipes inside. To leave a message for Chef Larry, dial (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then mailbox number 1886.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:

■ Pumpkin pie, muffins and information about a festival too. Get ready for Halloween.

■ Visit southern France with wine columnists Ray and Eleanor Heald, and discover tasty sips for $8.

■ Chef Larry Janes offers pointers for hiring a caterer for the holidays.

Dueling chefs: Ray Frederick and his wife, Marilyn, of Farmington Hills, compete against each other in the cook-off. Marilyn guards the secret of her Time Bomb Chili, and Ray's chili has a "Tiger's Bite."

Cooks from Observer & Eccentric communities made a good showing at the 16th annual Michigan Championship Chili Cook-off held Sunday, Sept. 11, under two big tents on the ground of Acadia Restaurant in Auburn Hills. Of the 47 competing, 14 were from our home towns.

This year, the event was moved from The Lark Restaurant to Acadia to allow room for more cooks and guests. Five $1,000 culinary arts scholarships were awarded from event proceeds.

There were a lot of familiar faces at the cook-off. Paul Huyck of Farmington Hills, winner of the 1991 Michigan Championship Cook-off, was competing again this year with his Michigan Heat Chili.

Husband and wife Marilyn and Ray Frederick of Farmington Hills competed side by side. Marilyn, 1991 North Central Regional champ, stirred her pot of Time Bomb Chili, while her husband tended to his Tiger's Bite Chili.

Mary Ellen Janes of Wyandotte got her "Spouse's Revenge," by winning the cook-off, and chance to compete in the World Cook-off in Reno, Nev., on Oct. 2. Her husband, John, last year's winner, and a distant cousin to our own Chef Larry Janes, came in third with his Lightning Strikes Twice Chili.

Ken Horn of Plymouth placed second with Fireworks Chili. Jim Weller of Bloomfield Hills placed fifth with Mactown Chili. Fourth place was awarded to Ronald Cubberly of Chelsea.

Stirred up: Mario Borbolla of Garden City stirs a pot of "Original Sin Chili," and waits for chief cook Diane Adamski of Redford.

With mouths aflame judges seek a winner

Judging: Taste editor Keely Wygonik.

With medals draped around our necks, identifying us as judges, we began our work by visiting each of the booths, and talking with the contestants. Besides judging chili, we judged best booth and showmanship.

Ed Gallaudet of Birmingham and his team made a good effort with their Ducks Unlimited Chili, as did Nick Roncone of Beverly Hills with his Chili of the Stars. Leo Buk II of Trenton and his team dressed in black and white striped prisoner uniforms won Best Booth.

The best showmanship award went to booth 83, Troll's Breth Chili, manned by John Mikulak of Rockford.

Then came the hard part - picking the best chili. This year, for the first time, there were three chefs on the judging panel - Ed Janos, Corporate Executive Chef - Machus Enterprise, Marcus Haight - Chef de Cuisine at The Lark in West Bloomfield, and Brian Polcyn - Chef de Cuisine at Acadia in Auburn Hills.

Having three experts join our celebrity panel didn't make the job any easier. There were 17 judges.

Some of us were old pros, having judged the contest before. This was my fourth time.

Before dipping our plastic spoons into cartons of chili, Jim Lark gave us instructions.

"We're looking for someone who has a chance of winning the 1994 World Championship Cook-off,

Judging guidelines

1. Good flavoring and chili pepper taste (not too hot or not too mild).
 2. The texture of the meat (not too tough or not too mushy).
 3. Consistency (not too thick or not too thin).
 4. The blend of the spices and how well they have permeated the meat.
 5. Aroma - usually a personal preference.
 6. Color - however, it should not be a material factor in determining the winners.
- The best way to determine your choice is to say - If I am only to have one type of chili for the rest of my life - which container on this table would I choose?

Oct. 2, in Reno, Nevada," he said. "There should be no visible vegetable in the chili. If it's red, rather than maroon, that would indicate a tomato base. The Midwest tends to be a tomato chili, but maroon is preferred. They just want to know about the meat. Cook off. The chili shouldn't be too sweet or too hot. It should appeal to a wide variety of tastes."

After reviewing the list of judging guidelines, provided by the International Chili Society, we divided up into two teams.

There were 24 containers of chili on one table, 23 on the other for a total of 47. We had no idea whose chili we were tasting.

No matter how tempted we were, we couldn't make comments or gestures about any of the containers of chili that might influence the decision of another judge in any way.

and began tasting. Judges stirred, poked and smelled the chili before tasting it, noting texture, color, consistency, and of course, flavor. After each taste, they tossed the spoon, and reached for another.

As I worked my way around the table, making comments like too salty, too soupy, too meaty, too sweet, I sought the answer to Jim Lark's question — "If I am only to have one type of chili for the rest of my life — which container on this table would I choose?"

Volunteers graciously offered us crackers, grapes, water and beer to cool our flaming tongues. Crackers seemed to work the best for me.

After going around the table once, we went back to our favorites, and turned in our choices for first, second and third place by secret ballot.

The best five containers of chili from each table, along with district winners from regional cook-offs held throughout the state, were placed on a table for the judges to taste again. Some of the district winners were among the best 10 selected, some were not, but they were placed on the table for judging, again, according to International Chili Society rules.

After the first round of judging, we reached for our spoons and dug into the remaining 19 containers — 10 finalists, and 9 district winners. The process repeated itself, as judges concentrated on the task at hand, making notes, going back to taste their favorites for a second time.

The ballots were turned in, and we and the curious crowd outside waited for chief judge Bob Talbert to name the winners.

Drying herbs is easy if you use paper bags

Hang them anywhere there is a warm, even temperature and good air circulation.

Herb leaves or seeds will crumble easily when dry. Store in glass jars, metal containers or plastic freezer bags. Cover tightly to preserve the odor and flavor. Keep glass jars in a dark place to prevent bleaching of the green leaves.

the chili recipes entered in cook-offs sanctioned by the International Chili Society, contain no beans.

According to information from the "Great Chili Cookbook," published by the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan in 1992, some people think chili was invented in Mexico, then handed down to culinary Texans.

Many attribute the Mexican washwomen, who cooked at the border forts. It was said that the most available to cook was so tough and stringy that the women used wild spices growing in the area, including red chile and marjoram, to make the meal palatable.

Chili may have been created as a trail ration in the mid-1800s. Some believe settlers ground meat, lard and pepper, then added the mixture to boiling water and a little flour or corn meal. Cowboys have also been credited with its creation.

In 1984, Manuel J. Lujan Jr., a congressman from New Mexico, introduced "House Joint Resolution 465" to have chili declared the Official Food of the United States of America.

Called the "Bowl of Blessedness," by Will Rogers, chili is the answer to what to serve a crowd on chilly days.

Sauce, salads for treat

See Larry Jones' Taste Buds column on Taste front.

Piquant Plum Sauce
2 tablespoons sesame oil
1 1/2 tablespoons minced fresh ginger
2 medium cloves garlic, mashed
1 pound plums, pitted and halved
1/4 cup rice wine vinegar
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon hot red pepper flakes
Salt to taste

Heat oil in a medium saucepan over medium high heat; add ginger and garlic; and saute for about 1 minute — do not allow to brown.

Add remaining ingredients and simmer, stirring frequently until plums begin to break down, about 10-12 minutes. Cool for 10 minutes, then puree in a food processor or blend until smooth. Adjust seasonings. Makes about 2 cups.

Great for dipping cooked chicken and shrimps.

Cold Tortellini Salad
1 pint cherry tomatoes
1 bunch green onions, chopped
1/2 cup (4 ounces) sun dried tomatoes soaked in oil, chopped
1 (6 ounce) jar marinated artichoke hearts, quartered
1 (4 ounce) jar roasted peppers, drained and chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup fresh basil, chopped
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1/4 cup olive oil
1 pound fresh tortellini
1/4 pound prosciutto, cut into pieces
1/2 pound mozzarella, shredded
Salt and pepper to taste

Cut the cherry tomatoes in half. Place the tomatoes, green onions, sun dried tomatoes, artichokes, roasted peppers, garlic, basil, oregano in a medium bowl. Add the olive oil and toss gently to coat. Refrigerate. Bring a large pot of water to a boil and cook tortellini for 4 minutes.

Drain. Rinse under cold water and drain well. Transfer to a large bowl. Sprinkle tortellini with chopped prosciutto. Add marinated vegetable mixture and toss gently to coat. Sprinkle with mozzarella and adjust seasonings with salt and pepper. Serves 6.

Cutting out the fat makes for a better way of life

LOIS THIELEKE

Practice makes perfect as we try to lower the fat in our diets. The link between health is extremely important. Maybe we need to rethink what foods we buy, what foods we fix, and how we fix it and how much of it we eat.

Here are some good reasons for eating less fat. Less excess weight, keep it off more easily, and spend less money on food. Many fatty foods are costly extras. These include baked goods, ice cream, salad dressings and mayonnaise. Try to eat more food with healthy starch and fiber such as bread, rice, noodles, cereals, vegetables, fruit, dried beans and peas. Eating food with less fat would improve chances of avoiding certain forms of cancer and heart disease.

Calories are not equal when in your body. Fat calories store more easily than other calories. Carbohydrates calories are not stored as efficiently, so a larger percentage is metabolized or burned as energy. Carbohydrates are not fattening; fat is fattening.

Fat and cholesterol are hard on the heart. The bulk of the fat, 44 percent in a typical diet are from vegetable oils, shortening, butter and margarine; 34 percent fat comes from meat, poultry and fish; and 15 percent from dairy products. It is usually recommended that no more than 25 to 30 percent of your daily calories come from fat. Remember, every gram of fat has nine calories. If you are eating 1,200 calories, eat no more than 40 grams of fat; 1,500 calories, no more than 50 grams of fat; 1,800 calories, no more than 60 grams of fat; 2,000 calories no more than 66 grams of fat or 2,500 calories no more than 83 grams. The new nutrition facts label will help keep track of grams of fat in foods.

Be cautious of hidden fats, they can add up. Even a small piece of pie with double crust has eighteen grams of fat, more if fat has been added to the filling. A regular serving of french fries has 12 grams of fat, where a baked potato has zero. Some of those breakfast muffins can have 12 grams of fat, a bagel has two. One cup of fried rice has 15 grams of fat, white rice has one. One tablespoon peanut butter has eight grams of fat, jelly or jam has zero, so light with the peanut butter on the next sandwich.

Leave lots of room on your plate for starch, carbohydrates. One gram of carbohydrate has four calories and will make you feel full. Pasta, potatoes, bread, rice and other grains are low in calories unless loaded with heavy rich sauces or spreads. Eat lots of vegetables and fruits all kinds, they are mostly fat free. Fish, shellfish, skinless chicken, pork tenderloin and low-fat dairy products are all delicious and low in fat.

Use a light hand when adding fats to food. A tablespoon of butter or regular margarine has 12 grams, a tablespoon of regular mayonnaise has 11 grams.

Any kind of oil contains 14 grams of fat, so use a vegetable oil spray to cook with less fat. Broil, grill, steam, bake, roast, poach and microwave are all ways to cook using less fat. For good taste with less fat, season food with onions, garlic, spices, herbs, hot sauce, salsa, lemon juice, vinegar or other lowfat or nonfat seasonings.

It may be easier to think of some of your favorite foods as having teaspoons of fat. When you think of consuming two all-beef hot dogs, set out five teaspoons, that's how much fat you will be consuming. A chicken breast without skin has one teaspoon, but if you leave the skin on, it's 2 1/2 teaspoons of fat.

Fast foods
A fast food fried chicken fillet has five teaspoons or a broiled or grilled chicken fillet has four teaspoons of fat. A commercially made turkey pot pie (12 ounces) has six teaspoons. Ten potato chips contain two teaspoons, a brownie has five teaspoons of fat, ten Ritz crackers have two teaspoons. They all add up to lots of fat.

Remember, how we fix foods is as important as what we fix. Reduce fat by one-fourth to one-third in baked products such as quick breads, muffins and cookies. For example, if a recipe calls for one cup shortening use two-thirds. Decrease the proportion of oil in salad dressings. Try one-third oil to two-thirds vinegar. Remove the fat that cooks out of meat, set meat on a rack so the fat can drain away. Brown meat and drain off the fat before adding other ingredients.

Reducing overall fat is no guarantee of protection against heart disease or cancer, but it certainly increases your odds. Practice eating mindfully and pay attention to what you eat for better health.

ABSORBING INFORMATION

Many people, especially women, rely on calcium supplements to help prevent occurrence of the bone-thinning disease known as osteoporosis. The most popular form of calcium supplement is calcium carbonate, which is also the least well-absorbed form. It is estimated that 86 percent of calcium carbonate is flushed away after ingestion in the body. A researcher from Miami University, however, has discovered that calcium carbonate's absorption rate can be increased by simply accompanying the supplement with a glass of orange juice. It is also a good idea to choose a calcium supplement that includes vitamin D, which also assists in calcium's absorption. By taking a glass of orange juice with the supplement, calcium's absorption rate can be doubled or tripled.

Adequate weight-bearing exercises, started young and continued throughout life can also help inhibit the development of osteoporosis. If you haven't already, the GOOD FOOD CO. urges you to start eating healthy; stop by our bulletin board and pick up some great low fat and low cholesterol recipes. We can also point out the foods which are naturally high in calcium such as dairy products and leafy greens, and conveniently located at 42615 Ford Rd. Please call us with your questions at 981-8100. We are open Monday through Saturday from 9-5 and Sundays from 10-6.

P.S. Orange juice encourages higher calcium retention than even calcium-fortified milk.

First win: Salem, searching for its first dual-meet victory over Canton since 1990, got started right by winning the 200 medley relay Thursday — with Carrie Hyatt swimming the 50 butterfly.

Salem stops Canton's streak

The seniors on Plymouth Salem's girls swim team were toting a terrible burden.

They had never beaten Plymouth Canton in their annual dual meet. Starting in 1991, the Chiefs had been on the winning side.

No more incentive was needed. The Rocks are still far from end-of-season form physically — for that matter, so is Canton. But that psychological edge was enough to propel Salem to a 103-83 dual-meet triumph over Canton Thursday at Salem. "We always swam pretty well," explained Salem coach Chuck Olson, whose team improved to 2-0. "It's just that they had a better team. They were very, very good."

lem.

"But I was real pleased with our times tonight."

Ron Krueger, Canton's first-year coach, was happy with his team's performance, too. "We swam some good times," he said, singling out freshman Angie Frost's win in 2:06.23 in the 200-yard freestyle. "In the first half of the meet, we were real fired up. But after the diving, we kind of lost it.

"But they've got a bunch of good girls."

Depth certainly aided the Salem effort. Not only did they win all three relays, but in four events they managed a first-second finish — outscoring Canton 44-20 in those events.

Kellyann Williams won a pair of events for the Rocks, finishing first in the 50-yard (26.41) and 100-yard (58.46) freestyles. Salem got seconds in both events from Carrie Dzialo (26.59 in the 50, 59.44 in the 100).

Salem's other one-two sweeps came in the 100 butterfly, with Sarah Casillas finishing first (1:06.25) and Melanie Bosse second (1:07.95), and in the 100 backstroke, with Yvonne Lynn first (1:06.30) and Sarah Vanderlian second (1:09.68).

The Rocks also won the diving with Zoe Yockey (230.25 points).

For Canton, Frost was a double-winner, also taking the 500 free (5:45.85). So was Katie McWhirter, collecting firsts in the 200 individual medley (2:26.78) and the 100 breaststroke (1:16.36).

The Salem team of Lynn, Carey Hyatt, Casillas and Dzialo were winners in the 200 medley relay (1:59.67); Williams, Dzialo, Casillas and Bosse took the 200 free relay (1:42.24); and Williams, Casillas, Jenny Werthman and Bosse captured top honors in the 400 free relay (3:59.97).

The win lifted the Rocks to 2-0 in dual meets. Canton is 0-2. Salem hosts Livonia Stevenson at 7 p.m. Thursday; Canton swims at Livonia Churchill at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Turnaround

Salem avenges earlier loss to Canton

BY C.J. RISAK

A few days, a few free throws, a few points.

So what happens? Everything turns around. Plymouth Canton girls basketball coach Bob Blohm said it best: "They were patient. We were impatient. They made the adjustments they had to make."

The "They" is Plymouth Salem, which avenged its 12-point loss to Blohm's Canton team suffered four days earlier by beating the Chiefs 49-46 Thursday at Salem.

Although Rocks' coach Fred Thomann wasn't ready to admit it, it was clearly a game he very much wanted his team to win. "I thought last weekend (at the Mercy Tournament) we played fairly well, but we had nothing to show for it," he said.

Then there was last Tuesday's game, at home against Walled Lake Western. The Rocks were big favorites — which ended up no favor at all. They were upset in their Western Lakes Activities Association opener, 42-39.

BASKETBALL

"On Tuesday, our expectations were we were going to win, and it didn't happen," said Thomann.

Suddenly a team that had been unbeaten five days earlier was in the midst of a three-game losing streak. And one of the losses was in league play.

It was time the Rocks started making progress. Immediately.

They did. Although their start was a bit rough — five misses and no points in the game's first 3/4 minutes — they remained intense. And if this is any measuring stick, they finished three of four quarters stronger than Canton; they outscored the Chiefs over the last three minutes three of four times.

In fact, Salem never trailed after Kelly Lukasik nailed a three-pointer with 1:24 left in the opening quarter. After one quarter, it was 11-8; a 12-5 run in the last 4:15 of the second pushed the Rocks' lead to 27-19 at the half.

The third quarter was their best, however. Canton made an early run, closing to within five (31-26) with one Sarah Warnke free throw still to be taken, which would trim it to four. But she missed; Salem answered with an 8-2 run for a 39-28 lead, limiting the Chiefs to a single basket in the quarter's final 4:51.

By the time Canton did find its offense, it was too late. Salem had a 44-34 lead with 4:15 to play; the Chiefs scored seven straight over the next two minutes, putting the pressure on.

Salem managed to make enough free throws (5-of-8) and forced two turnovers down the stretch to increase its lead to six, but a Jackie Nicastrì three-pointer with 22 seconds remaining pulled Canton within striking distance.

After Lukasik missed a one-and-one free throw, the Chiefs managed one shot to tie — a Becky Vachow triple-try that banged off the iron at the buzzer.

"They played a great game tonight," Canton's Blohm said.

Stevenson shuts out Salem

BY C.J. RISAK

The breaks all went against Plymouth Salem Friday night — including one off the field of play.

The Rocks defense fended off a few, but Livonia Stevenson used its power brand of football to take advantage of enough of them, resulting in a 21-0 victory in a Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division game played at Salem.

The win kept Stevenson unbeaten at 4-0 (2-0 in the division). Salem fell to 1-3 overall, 0-2 in the Lakes.

Four times the Rocks fumbled, and they tossed an interception, too — all in the first half. But the four resulting turnovers (they recovered one fumble) were transformed into just one touchdown by Stevenson.

"Football's a game of breaks," said Stevenson coach Jack Reardon. "But you know what: You don't run the football on (Salem) at will. You've got to be patient."

No wonder Salem coach Tom Moshimer was happy to let the clock run out in the half without attempting a final play. Trailing just 7-0 at the intermission must've seemed like a blessing.

But his good fortune (if you want to call it that) abandoned him early in the second half. On Salem's first possession, on a third-down-and-six play, Mike Brannan tried a halfback option pass. Rolling to his right, he was pressured heavily and tossed up a floater near the Salem sideline.

Dan McKian tried to make the catch, but fell out of bounds. So did a few Stevenson defenders chasing him. One of them rolled over Moshimer, injuring his knee severely. Early prognosis was cartilage and ligament damage, with surgery a distinct possibility.

Moshimer refused to leave the game. His leg wrapped in a brace, propped up on crutches, the Salem coach watched in agony as the Spartans showed why they're the powerhouse of the Lakes Divi-

Canton edges Falcons; Salem stomps Raiders

The showdown was very nearly a no-show. Plymouth Canton flurried with disaster Wednesday, but with a second-half goal combined with some tough defense — they managed to survive a Farmington challenge, posting a 1-0 soccer win Wednesday at Farmington.

The victory left the Chiefs unbeaten in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division, with a pivotal match at Livonia Churchill Wednesday. The winner will be favored to meet the WLA's Lakes Division champion — probably top-ranked Livonia Stevenson — for the WLA title.

The Falcons' small field favored the home team, said Canton coach Don Smith. Still, they managed little offense against the Chiefs, keeper Shawn Conway had to make just three saves.

The win upped Canton's record to 5-1-1.

Salem 13, North Farmington 2: Poor Raiders. They had to try and handle Plymouth Salem after the Rocks were badly beaten by Livonia Stevenson.

The Rocks bounced back from last Monday's loss by wallowing North Wednesday at Salem. Doug Herriman accounted for five Salem goals, and assisted on three others. Mark MacInnis also scored Others to get on the board for the Rocks were Ronny Mashni, with two goals and an assist; Kevin Little, a goal and two assists; Drew Drummond, a goal and an assist; Scott Buczek, one goal, and Chris Curry and Andy Makins, one assist apiece.

Paul Dood started in goal for Salem, playing the first half. Brian Bacynski played the second half.

Dan House and Shaun Walker scored two goals each for PCA, which improved to 5-2-1 overall and 4-1-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

Chris DeRenzo and John Pugno had one goal each. House, Pugno and Ryan Thomason picked up one assist apiece.

The shutout was earned by goalkeeper Jamie Neil, who made 19 saves.

The Eagles have games this week Tuesday at Bloomfield Hills Roesper and Friday at Oakland Christian. Each game starts at 4:30 p.m.

Scoring run: Canton's Len Gardner got his team started with a 15-yard touchdown run. The Chiefs were never stopped after that.

Chiefs roll to win over Churchill

Quarterback Brett Elledge scored on runs of 47, 5 and 10 yards Friday night, leading Plymouth Canton's football team to a 35-0 victory over host Livonia Churchill in a Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division game.

The Chiefs won for the second consecutive week to improve to 2-2 overall, 2-0 in the Western Division.

Churchill, which hasn't won in four games, was limited to 112 total yards and six first downs.

The Chiefs took a 21-0 halftime lead after scoring twice in the first quarter and once in the second quarter.

Canton scored in the first quarter on a 15-yard run by tailback Len Gardner and Elledge's 47-yard run.

Elledge added a 5-yard run before halftime and Jeff Fliss' third extra point made the score 21-0.

Elledge scored on a 10-yard run in the third quarter and the Chiefs finished the scoring on a 13-yard pass from backup quarterback Rob Johnson to Nick Belyk.

The Chargers' only chance to get on the scoreboard came when Jaime Williston missed a 46-yard field goal attempt.

Churchill quarterback Nathan Jerome was intercepted twice and completed one-of-three passes for seven yards. He rushed 20 yards on eight carries.

Senior Allen Warren led Churchill with 33 yards rushing on 10 carries. Senior Jeff Sheehan had 26 yards on nine carries.

Salem girls get win over Farmington

In the first major girls cross country dual meet this season in the Western Lakes Activities Association, Plymouth Salem emerged with the victory, edging Farmington 26-29 Thursday at Oakland Community College.

The Falcons collected two of the top three spots, but Salem countered by putting all five of its runners in the top eight. Stacey Moore was second (21:06), with Leah Retherford fourth (21:19), Meredith Davis fifth (21:22), Kristie Giddings seventh (21:35) and Meran Miles eighth (21:45).

Salem is 1-0. Farmington fell to 1-1.

Canton girls
Taking eight of the first nine spots, Plymouth Canton opened its dual-meet portion of the season with a 17-46 victory over WLA's rival Livonia Franklin Thursday at Cass Benton.

Becky Wolfrom led the Chiefs, finishing first in 20:43. Next were Beth Knight, second (21:49); Mike Vergari, third (22:37); Jenna McWilliams, fifth (23:02); and Casey Swanson, sixth (23:12).

The loss was Franklin's second of the season.

Farmington, which is 2-1 overall (1-0 in the WLA), was led by the trio of Tripp Adams, Tom May and Mike Langdon, who all crossed the line in 18:54.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

ROCKS ROLL
Plymouth Salem's golfers continued to sparkle, collecting three wins last week.

The last was probably the best, considering the opponent: Plymouth Canton. The Rocks won, 203-228, at Hilltop.

"I'm real pleased with that scoring," said Salem coach Rick Wilson. "Any time we're around 700, I'm pleased. We've been around eraging around 40 a man and we had three real solid scores this week, so I think we're getting better."

Brian Covington was medalist, firing a 38 for the Rocks. Other scorers: Mark Wenser, 39; Mike Hjelmsland, 41; Jeff Lear, 42; and Alan Bain, 43.

The Chiefs were led by Albert Hamood's 43. Brian Carlson was next at 44, followed by Chris Wilson, 45; Chuck Newsome, 47; and Kevin Carlson, 49.

The Falcons collected two of the top three spots, but Salem countered by putting all five of its runners in the top eight. Stacey Moore was second (21:06), with Leah Retherford fourth (21:19), Meredith Davis fifth (21:22), Kristie Giddings seventh (21:35) and Meran Miles eighth (21:45).

Salem is 1-0. Farmington fell to 1-1.

Canton girls
Taking eight of the first nine spots, Plymouth Canton opened its dual-meet portion of the season with a 17-46 victory over WLA's rival Livonia Franklin Thursday at Cass Benton.

Becky Wolfrom led the Chiefs, finishing first in 20:43. Next were Beth Knight, second (21:49); Mike Vergari, third (22:37); Jenna McWilliams, fifth (23:02); and Casey Swanson, sixth (23:12).

The loss was Franklin's second of the season.

Farmington, which is 2-1 overall (1-0 in the WLA), was led by the trio of Tripp Adams, Tom May and Mike Langdon, who all crossed the line in 18:54.

tion. In the second half, Stevenson ran a total of 38 plays, gaining 196 yards. Salem had just 16 plays, good for 55 yards and two first downs.

On their first second-half possession, the Spartans marched 65 yards in 12 plays (and 5:17 off the clock). Craig Martin went the final yard for the touchdown and, with Steve Vezina's second of three placements, the score went to 14-0.

Salem held the ball for less than two minutes before punting it back to Stevenson. The Rocks forced a punt, but then roughed the kicker, reviving the Spartan drive. It ended up traveling 92 yards in 14 plays, capped by Dean Bacheller's second touchdown toss of the night, this one 9 yards to Martin.

The rest of the half was a lesson in ball control, courtesy of the Spartans. "Our kids blocked well and were physical out there," said Reardon. "They're big, but they don't tire. They're in good shape."

"They're getting better and better — they're improving every week. You can't ask any more than that."

Not at Stevenson. At Salem — it's a different matter.

Moshimer knew who deserved the credit. "Our defense kept us in the ball game," he said. "Our defense played really well. But our offense has to get better."

With the game scoreless late in the first quarter, Terrance Reese fumbled a Stevenson punt that the Spartans recovered at the Salem 11. On third down from the 9, Bacheller tossed a swing pass to Chris Mullett, and he powered in for the score.

Reese followed that with a strong return on the ensuing kickoff, all the way to midfield — then he fumbled again. Stevenson recovered, but couldn't take advantage — not then, or on the next two Salem possessions, which both ended in turnovers.

"We turn it over four times to them — like, shoot, here it is," said a disgusted Moshimer.

The only offensive standout for the Rocks was Brannan: 11 carries, 63 yards, which is more than the rest of the team combined to gain.

Stevenson got 108 yards on 16 carries from Martin, 61 yards on 14 attempts for Gade Clark, and 55 yards in 11 tries for Scott Goldman. Bacheller completed 5-of-10 passes for 39 yards and two TDs.

It was a painful loss for Salem, any way you examine it.

Cancer victim just cannot be slowed down

AL HARRISON

Once in a while there comes a story that reaffirms the human spirit where determination and courage can overcome adversity.

This is about a young man who came back from cancer and bowled at North Hill Lanes in Rochester at the Budweiser Classic Invitational league.

His name is Jay Roberts, a 26-year-old who battled a malignant tumor in his right ankle which resulted in the loss of his leg below the knee. Most people would give up on a sport like bowling where so much depends on body coordination and control.

But for Roberts, the game meant too much for him to surrender.

As a rising young star, he had gotten his average up to 211 to 215 in five leagues. With the help and inspiration of Bob Maniere of Ultra Light Prosthetics in Redford, Jay was able to deal with his situation both physically and emotionally.

He even had many adjustments to his game, besides having to learn to walk again. His first steps with his new leg were on the lanes.

He also changed from a four-step to a five-step approach which helped gain some momentum. The Budweiser Classic Summer League was his first attempt at a comeback and all he did was average around 200 and had registered a high game of 280 since amputation.

His schedule for this season takes in four leagues including the Monday Men's League at Classic Lanes in Rochester Lanes. He changed the design of the original prosthesis to firm up his approach and expects to average well over 200.

Was Pye of Faball Industries was also helpful to Roberts as he provided him with some all new Hammer equipment.

Roberts' ambition is to go back to college and enter the field of prosthetics, to be able to help others with properly fitting products, and to give encouragement to others who may fall into the same situation.

His outlook on life and living has changed for the better, and he takes his bowling much more seriously now, being appreciative of what he is still able to do on the lanes.

■ The YABA (Young American Bowling Alliance) has announced the Top 10 in America for each category. K & S Bowling and Trophy ranked fourth in Senior boys team with 1,211 and eighth in team series with 3,390. Bowling Doctor of Farmington Hills took first place in senior mixed team series with 3,562 and first in team game at 1,240.

Melissa Goyette of Livonia was the second highest in the nation for junior girls individual game with 289.

■ Bill Strike of Bowl One Lanes in Troy has announced the dates for the next U.S. Open: March 31 and April 8.

■ Joe Fitzsimmons, age 60, came from 11th place after the seven games of qualifying to capture the national senior bowling association Drakeshire Open.

It was not an easy task as he had to beat hall of famer Fred Vitali of Farmington, John Staricha of Livonia, as well as Ron LeChevalier and Sal Baffio. The title was worth $50 for Fitzsimmons, thanks in part to Red Robin Restaurants, sponsor of the event.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

There is too much disorder and confusion in your life. Try to sort your thoughts before speaking or you might say the wrong thing at the wrong time.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

This is one of those times when you feel like throwing in the towel. But no matter what else is going on, you must not neglect your health.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Good things are happening in many areas of your life. An important letter or document is on the way. Hard work will bring great results.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

Feeling sorry for yourself will not help anything. By letting go of your fear of failure, you will see how enriched your life can be.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

If you lack motivation in completing a task, ask for help. Being moody could get you into trouble with those nearest and dearest.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

If you have been taking the easy way out, you will not be able to do it any longer. There is a need for a deep spiritual cleansing.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

At this juncture it is probably best to keep your intentions and ideas to yourself. Use your intuition when trying to solve problems.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

It seems that everything that could go wrong has. Sheer bad luck happens sometimes, but it will soon pass. Happy times are ahead.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

The right person could go a long way in helping you to achieve goals. An idea for a new business venture could be a good one.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

You will receive some terrific news that will affect those close to you. Try not to rush things. Learning to trust others is difficult but necessary.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You may have no choice in certain decisions that involve your future plans. There is an indication of an important loss of some sort.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

This is no time to lose yourself in the past; things are finally beginning to look up. You must be prepared to adapt to different circumstances.

NBC's Friends offers zippy ensemble comedy

By JOHN CROOK

Maybe there's no such animal as a sure thing.

But by Hollywood standards, at least, Friends, airing Thursdays on NBC, will do until a sure thing comes along.

This breezy new sitcom about a group of six young New Yorkers boasts an experienced writing and production team (Kevin Bright, David Crane and Marta Kauffman from HBO's Dream On), direction by veteran James Burrows (Tar) and a likeable and talented ensemble that includes Courtney Cox (Family Ties), Lisa Kudrow (Ursula the ditzy waitress from Mad About You), Matt LeBlanc (Top of the Heap), Jennifer Aniston (Muddling Through and Fox's The Edge), Matthew Perry (Growing Pains) and David Schwimmer (NYPD Blue).

It also has a time slot to die for, snugly hammocked between Thursday megahits Mad About You and Seinfeld.

"I've done a few other series, but I've never been a part of any other show that seems to be getting so much attention," says LeBlanc, who plays Joey, an aspiring actor. "Partly because of the Dream On connection. Partly because James Burrows is our director. Partly because we have a really good cast. And partly because we're going to be on at 8:30 Thursday nights right before Seinfeld."

"There's a lot of really good factors. So we have a lot of high hopes, although that's usually the case. This one seems to be really good, though."

While Cox's character, a professional chef named Monica, is nominally the focal point of the ensemble, LeBlanc and the producers confirm that the show will be an ensemble effort. "Instead of having an A story and a B story, they're gonna have three B stories, sort of like Seinfeld," LeBlanc says.

"We're getting to do something we never got to do before," Kauffman says. "Because usually, you know, there is one central character, or two central characters and you follow them. And in this case, we've got just this glorious well to pull from. It's great fun. We get to write three stories at once about three of our characters. And yeah, we want to make sure everybody has stuff to do in every episode."

For LeBlanc, who recently earned raves for his starring performance in Lookin' Italian at a prestigious California film festival, the role of Joey, a cynical but articulate actor, is a welcome departure from Vinnie Verducci, the dumber-than-rocks character he played in the 1991 Fox sitcom Top of the Heap.

"Which I'm really glad about," he says, firmly. "Of course! When Top of the Heap was changed to Vinnie and Bobby - I don't know if you followed it that far - it became another show that was REALLY lacking. It got worse!

"Playing a dumb guy is really difficult, by the way, because the things that you (as a real person) understand and take for granted you have to 'unlearn.'"

"This character, Joey, has his stuff together. He's got high hopes for a career. He gets by. He's intelligent and serious about acting."

Kudrow, who plays New age buff Phoebe on Friends, will continue her guest work as Ursula on Mad, and there is even talk by the producers of linking the characters somehow. The actress says Ursula has become so well known that she notices people in real life treating her as if she isn't playing with a full deck.

"Yeah, I do notice people speak to me kind of slowly," she laughs, "and they're watching really carefully, you know, to see if everything's sinking in."

"And yes - it is."

Silver anniversary for Monday Night Football

BY JEFF PLASS

ABC's Monday Night Football presents a Sept. 26 matchup of two NFL teams sharing a somewhat dubious distinction.

Between them, the Buffalo Bills and the Denver Broncos have been on the losing end in seven of the last eight Super Bowls.

On a more encouraging note, this season marks the 25th anniversary of Monday Night Football, a show that has become as much a part of American culture as hot dogs, apple pie and mom.

For the past four years, MNF has been ranked in the top 10 among all prime-time programs.

The current trio in the booth, Frank Gifford, Dan Dierdorf and Al Michaels, are in their eighth year together - the longest continuous cohesive lineup in the show's history.

Michaels offers his own theories as to the long-standing popularity of Mondays on ABC, Julie Campbell stars as business partner Ellie Baskin in Blue Skies.

Monday Night Football.

"There's something about playing a game under the lights when most are played during the day," he says. "You can feel it in every city we travel to on a given Monday."

"I think the level of football on a Monday night, because of that, is maybe a little bit better than it is on Sunday afternoon. It's an electric atmosphere every week and I think that's what makes it so different."

ENTERTAINMENT NEWS

Football, Baseball, a recipe for world peace (serves 5 billion)

The new Monday Night Football video may look like fun, but ABC should have called a huddle - for warmth.

Announcers Frank Gifford, Al Michaels and Dan Dierdorf rode in the back of a convertible for their shots. But the spring taping, near California's Edwards Air Force Base, was no piece of cake.

"For the first time in 25 years, it snowed," Gifford says. "Winds were up to 60 or 70 miles an hour. We just had little windows of time in unbelievable weather. We were sitting by the side of the road in that convertible with the top up because it was raining, and then we'd have to put the top down and take off (with) rain bouncing off our foreheads like BBs. We brought it in under budget, though." Now that's a professional.

While viewers are still in the middle of Baseball, producer Ken Burns is looking ahead to his next project, American Lives, scheduled to air in the spring of 1996. The series consists of five individual documentaries about Americans who changed the face of the Republic: Thomas Jefferson, Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony and Mark Twain.

"As we gradually become a society that reads and writes and keeps diaries less and less," Burns says, "it will be critical that we use television to tell the stories of these heroic lives."

Merle Ellis, host of The Nashville Network's Cookin' USA, thinks he has the formula for world peace.

"I believe that our problems would diminish if people sat down with each other and ate a meal which included foods from other regions," Ellis says. "Food is a common denominator that serves as a catalyst to appreciate other cultures."

Ellis' goals for Cookin' USA, which begins its fourth season Monday, Sept. 26, are no less grand. He hopes his shows will not only help put food on the table, but that people "from the beaches of the French Riviera to the rocky coastline of San Francisco (can) appreciate one another through the art of cooking."

SOAP WORLD

Some soap duos not made in heaven

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I was visiting with family when I saw your article about Viki (Erika Slezak), Clint (Clint Ritchie) and Sloan (Roy Thinnes) on One Life to Live. There were two letters from readers who wanted to see Viki and Clint get back together.

Slezak made it quite clear in her recent newsletter which actor she wished to be paired with. She made comments about having to set boundaries in doing love scenes with Ritchie. She had to endure Ritchie for many years before being paired with the marvelous Roy Thinnes.

She has talked about what a joy and a pleasure it is to work with the very professional Thinnes. The character of Viki had been stifled for years in a dreary, unromantic and passionless relationship that had grown old and stale, mainly, I think, because of the way Slezak had to relate to Ritchie. He was always taking advantage of her.

When Slezak made an appearance on Regis and Kathie Lee, she commented on how much she would like to see Viki marry Sloan.

It is wonderful to see a woman over 40 in a sexy and fulfilling relationship, such as Viki has with Sloan. Why would anyone deny Viki a life full of passion and romance with a man who adores and respects her? I love Sloan and Viki and the wonderful work of Thinnes and Slezak. -Helen Winter, Arroyo Grande, Canada.

Dear Reader: Most viewers are not aware of the discord between Ritchie and Slezak. They only know what they see on the television screen. Who knows what might happen with Sloan's illness.

In his defense, Ritchie has often commented on how much he admires Slezak's work. Actors usually are not the ones who choose whom their characters are paired with. Many actors on several different soaps do not get along, even though their characters are involved.

The writers and producers of OLTL obviously thought that there was something workable between Slezak and Ritchie, or they would not have been together for so many years.
