Police, fire tax rates increase

Special assessments for police and fire protection were increased Tuesday evening by the Canton Board of Trustees. Setting the tax rates to be levied in December 1994 is one step in the budget process.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Canton taxpayers will dig a bit deeper into their pockets in 1995 to pay increased fire and police taxes.

The decision to increase the special assessments for police and fire protection was not unanimous Tuesday night. "I'm going to be voting against this this evening. I believe we are close enough to balance the budget," said township Clerk Loren Bennett.

Setting the tax rates that will be levied in December 1994 is one step in the budget process. The proposed 1995 budgets are expected to be adopted in the first week of October.

Last week Bennett said he was struggling with the proposed increase that will balance the two budgets, cover the addition of three new police officers and begin replenishing the now negligible police and fire fund balances or savings accounts, which are used to cover unexpected expenses.

The township board increased the police tax from 4.96 mills to 5.15 mills. The fire tax was increased from 2.94 mills to 3.09 mills. The general fund tax rate of 1.1 mills remains the same as in 1994. Without the increase the police budget had an estimated shortfall of $214,034 and the fire budget, $188,632.

Taxpayers face a total township tax increase in 1995 of .34-mill. For the owner of a $120,000 home the tax increase would amount to $21.27 a year. For the owner of a $160,000 house, the increase would be $28.36. Taxes would increase by $35.45 for a home valued at $200,000.

No one has come up with a name for how Steven Dell throws a bocci ball. Nonetheless, that throw is taking him to London this fall.

"Steve can grab the ball and underarm throw it across his body and sideways," said Steve Jarvis, who is Dell's job coach through Buckingham Community Services.

Dell, 26, has cerebral palsy, which is a weakness and lack of muscle coordination resulting from damage to the brain usually at or before birth. He uses an electric wheelchair to get around.

But that hasn't stopped him from achieving his goals and dreams. One of those goals is the 1994 Bocci Championships in England in November.

Competition is nothing new for the Canton resident who qualified for the international games in London in July when he attended the United Cerebral Palsy Athletic Association's National Victory

Students facing MEAP tests

What is the perimeter of a rectangle measuring 10 meters wide and 15 meters long? a) 10 meters b) 15 meters c) 50 meters d) 150 meters. (The answer is at the end of this story.)

Beginning this week and continuing through Oct. 14, Plymouth-Canton students will be answering questions like this on a standardized state test called the Michigan Educational Assessment Program. About 6,000 students in Plymouth-Canton will take the MEAP. Fourth-, seventh-, and 10th-graders will be tested in math and reading. The science test will be given to fifth-, eighth-, and 11th-graders.

"Notices will be sent home from school notifying parents when the tests will be given," said Kathryn Harenda, the district's math and science curriculum coordinator.

"It's up to each individual principal to decide when they want to schedule testing time."

Students may take as long as they need to complete the MEAP, which is totally untimed. The science test takes most students 80-90 minutes to complete. Fourth-, eighth-, and 11th-graders can expect to spend roughly four-and-a-half to five hours to take the math and reading tests.

Tests are broken into segments and given over a period of days, "in order to avoid the fatigue factor," said an elementary teacher.

Over the summer, MEAP "camps" helped students prepare for the test.

Teachers have worked with students since school began to get ready for the MEAP. At some elementaries, teachers are meeting with children "in small groups to review our curriculum. We involve our support staff and classroom teachers to review test-taking strategies as well as multiple-choice or long-answer questions," said Harenda. "The best way for us to prepare is to make sure instruction is directly related to the curriculum," she added.

Parents are encouraged to talk to their children about the test, "supporting them in what they know and what they don't know," said Harenda. "Reassure them they're not supposed to know the answers to all the questions."

Not all teachers agree with the way students are readied for the MEAP.

Chinese auction

The Canton Business and Professional Women present their fifth annual Chinese Auction Saturday, Oct. 1, in the Canton Public Library.

The public is invited. Buy and place bids 12:30-2 p.m. The drawing begins at 2 p.m.; and you must be present to win.

Tickets are available from Canton BPW members or at the door for $3 per card. There are 25 chances per card. All proceeds from the auction will go to the BPW Scholarship Fund. For more information call Tillie Schultz, 453-6084.

Seniors party

Canton Seniors Singles invite all residents ages 55 and older to join members who will celebrate Halloween at a party at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 1, in the Canton Recreation Center, on the southeast corner of Michigan Avenue and Sheldon.

The party will feature a live band, the Mello-Aires, who will perform music from the 1920s, '30s, '40s, and '50s, including the big-band favorites. A $2.50 donation will be asked for the entertainment.

The party also will include refreshments and games. Costumes are optional. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. You are not required to be a club member to participate.

For more information, call Flo Lorimer, 981-2969, or Betty Sears, 981-8412.

Mettetal party

The public is invited to a Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport re-opening party at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, in the main hangar at the airport, on the southeast corner of Lilley and Joy roads.

Visitors are urged to wear casual clothing — warm clothing depending on the weather. The evening will be filled with the big-band music provided by the 14-piece Skyline band. A master of ceremonies and comedian also are expected for the evening.

Pop, chips and coffee will be provided, but visitors are asked to bring their own bottle if they choose. Donations of food will be accepted. Restroom facilities will be available. RSVPs aren't necessary. For more information contact the airport at 459-6627.

Fat Bob to perform in library benefit on Oct. 7

Taylor

Fat Bob Taylor, the singing plumber, will kick off the Friends of the Canton Public Library 1994-95 Musical Variety Series at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7.

Fat Bob is a multitalented entertainer who performs musical comedy, opera, country western and pop. He is known for the comedic manner in which he delivers his musical talents.

Fat Bob has performed on the Mike Douglas show and with Arthur Godfrey, Woody Woodberry, Margaret Whiting, Johnny Desmond, Duke Ellington, Milton Berle, Pete Fountain, Jimmy Durante, and Myron Cohen to name a few.

Fat Bob — his real name is Robert Edward Taylor — got his name when he heard J.P. McCarthy claim he was singing an opera playing on the radio. Fat Bob called McCarthy and told him on the air that he was singing flat. McCarthy challenged Fat Bob to sing the aria over the phone. He did. WJR went off the air for five seconds.

When McCarthy returned he said, "What's your name, pal?" Taylor responded: "I'm Fat Bob the Plumber from Ann Arbor." McCarthy responded: "You're now Fat Bob the Singing Plumber from Ann Arbor."

Within 45 days, Fat Bob became a household word in Detroit.

The Ontario native moved to East Lansing to complete high school. He then joined the U.S. Air Force and was assigned to Special Services, where he put on shows, performed on television, and was a staff vocalist for a Texas television station.

After the service he went into the plumbing business and then decided to study music seriously. After two years in the drama and music departments at Eastern Michigan University, he transferred to the University of Michigan and began his opera career.

Fat Bob also has a career with Detroit advertising agencies for which he uses his many dialects and voices. He has been heard nationally on commercials. For the past 15 years, Fat Bob has served as part of the WJR weekend team.

The public is invited to Fat Bob's performance. Tickets are $5 each or a series of three for $12. Tickets are now on sale at the Canton Public Library reception desk. All performances are in the library's meeting room. Call the Friends of the Canton Public Library at 397-0999 for more information.

Fat Bob is one of three performers who will participate in the Friends' musical variety series. Crosstown Exchange, a barbershop quartet, will entertain Feb. 24, followed by ragtime pianist Robert Milne on May 5.

Club begins its 6th season Friday

The Canton Economic Club will soon begin its sixth season with a debate between 13th District House candidates Democrat Lyn Rivers and Republican John Schall.

The noon debate and lunch on is set for Friday, Sept. 30, at St. John Neumann Catholic church, 44800 Warren Road.

The season will feature nine luncheons with a promise of interesting speakers. "We're looking forward to a great season," said Joan Noricks, Canton Community Foundation executive director. The foundation sponsors the economic club.

Each month individuals, organizations or businesses sponsor groups such as the high school Close Up students and Canton Place senior citizens. In September, foundation member Bruce Patterson will sponsor Canton Place residents.

Beginning in October, the luncheons will again be on the third Wednesday of each month. September's was changed to Friday to accommodate the speakers' schedules, Noricks said.

Season tickets for $100 are available, or participants can pay the $12 luncheon fee at the door.

For more information call Noricks at the foundation, 981-3002.

Police investigate man's death

Listed below are some of the Canton police incidents, fire calls and court cases reported during the past week.

■ DEATH INVESTIGATION

Canton police are investigating the death of a 43-year-old man who was found dead in a residence on Old Michigan, Sept. 23.

When police arrived they talked to a 42-year-old friend of the man's who showed police the body, which was on the floor. Canton fire personnel also responded. The man had no vital signs.

The friend told police he last saw the man at 9 p.m., when he fell asleep in a chair. The friend told police the man used heroin that day. Both men had recently been released from rehabilitation programs, according to the report.

■ SUSPICIOUS SITUATION

A 14-year-old girl told Canton police that a man in a blue van had been following her and at one point yelled "hey" to her Sept. 20. The police were told the van was seen at a bus stop at Gordon and Elmhurst.

On Sept. 22, the mother of the girl called police and told them the girl was approached by who was believed to be the same man in the van. Kids at the bus stop ran when the man approached.

■ TREE FIRE

Canton police and fire responded to a report of a fire in a wooded area behind a house on Lilley Road, Sept. 23.

The homeowner told police juveniles often hang out in the area and had been asked to leave in the past.

Firefighters found a large tree on fire in the area. Nearby a piece of wood was found with a painted gang symbol on it.

School district negotiating with staff groups

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

While Plymouth-Canton school employee groups were gratified to hear newly arrived Superintendent Charles Little identify unsettled contracts as one of his top concerns, many employees are disappointed things aren't moving faster.

Working under agreements extended for more than a year are workers in transportation, maintenance, and food service; licensed technicians; and paraprofessionals.

Contract talks for transportation and cafeteria workers haven't begun.

Plymouth-Canton teachers, whose contract extends through June 1996, are negotiating a wage reopener. This year, teachers are receiving a 3-percent increase, deferred last year.

Administrators are receiving a 3-percent increase this year, the amount deferred last year. In 1993-94, administrators received a 2-percent increase, the amount deferred from 1992-93.

The board earlier this month voted not to approve a raise for Walter Bartnick, administrative assistant for labor relations. In June, Bartnick's pay was increased to $63,017. In action taken Sept. 12, the board reduced his salary to $60,717. He won't have to repay the increase received in the interim.

"It's kind of unusual in that it was happening at a time when there was a changing of leadership," said Richard Egli, administrative assistant for community relations. "So it was a matter of the board not having been asked to approve it."

Trustee Barbara Graham voted not to approve the schools' $85 million budget in June because of the Bartnick raise.

"I received a number of phone calls from people concerned about the fact we hadn't settled with our unions yet, but yet we were able to come up with money for raises," she said. "I didn't feel it was justified at this point in time. No one explained to me where the money was coming from, and they didn't bring it to the board. In my estimation, that changed the budget itself. Even though it wasn't that large an amount of money, I didn't feel I could support that portion."

Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for personnel, explained Bartnick's raise, saying two pay levels were added to the top of the scale and two removed from the bottom of the scale.

Graham also objected to the promotion of a secretary in Goldman's department.

Egli said the executive secretary's position was created "because of the kinds of things they're doing in the personnel department. It's awkward to have someone in the union working during negotiations when you're typing up materials."

Kay McAllister, president of the cafeteria employees union and a member of the negotiating team, initially was encouraged after hearing of Little's desire to settle. She's less optimistic after a recent conversation with Goldman.

"He treats us like we're not there, and it doesn't matter which group it is," she said. "Outside a board meeting during a break I asked him, 'When will you give us a contract?' He said, 'When pigs fly.' So we're looking for flying pigs," she said.

Office personnel recently reached agreement on a four-year contract. The pact provides for no increase for 1993-94 (groups were working under a contract extension); 3 percent this year and wage reopeners for 1995-96 and 1996-97. Prescription co-pay has been increased from $2 to $5.

Egli said the fact that contracts are unsettled doesn't mean the district wants to privatize. "Obviously, that's something being done in other districts. Because of that, there is discussion in the school community throughout the state," he said. "Certainly every district is looking to see what happens. Here we have valued employees and we're trying to find the best way to compensate them to the satisfaction of the school district and the public."

Task force to discuss changes

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

An additional interchange off I-275, forming a Ford Road business association, and encouraging business and store facade improvements are among the recommendations offered by a task force charged with studying the thoroughfare that serves as Canton's main street.

"There is no question the goals for Ford Road will take us years to accomplish," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack. "It behooves us to look at the strategies they have identified."

The Ford Road task force will present its 35-page report — developed by about 60 residents, business leaders, township officials and staff — at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, in the Canton Township Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. The public is invited.

The task force first met in May and divided into four subgroups to study aesthetics; traffic circulation, roadways and parking; retail/office mix; and financial resources.

A staff steering committee worked throughout the summer with the subgroups. The report is based on the goals, objectives and strategies mapped out by the subgroups.

"I like the process and the product," Yack said of the task force. "The process demonstrates it has applications in other areas. And I like the response from the community. This provides a road map for short-term and long-term planning."

Suggestions in the report will be reviewed by the overall task force Thursday. It will then be presented to the township Board of Trustees in October.

Among other suggestions offered is a continuation of the Downtown Development Authority streetscape project now under construction on Ford Road, between Sheldon and Morton Taylor. Also suggested is the realignment of drive entrances to provide improved access to shopping centers, while creating additional internal drives and parking lots to improve traffic patterns.

"Fortunately, there are programs out there like the enrichment program offered by the Michigan Department of Transportation that would ideally suit the area. It would require matching dollars (from the township)," Yack said.

Additional lanes on Ford Road are not possible because of the lack of right-of-way. But Yack said if the township had money available, the best route would be to improve roads that intersect the thoroughfare.

Beautification committee undergoing transformation

The Canton Beautification Committee is here to stay. But some of its responsibilities may change, including the popular annual seedling giveaway.

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack confirmed that the committee will stay in business, despite rumors and concerns to the contrary. "The beautification will continue to receive funding whenever possible," he said.

In the proposed 1995 township general fund budget, township beautification will receive $5,000 and the committee $7,500 if the budget is approved in early October. The committee is a member of the Southeastern Michigan Beautification Council and Keep Michigan Beautiful.

A proposed reorganization in the township municipal services division may bring some changes to the approximately 14-year-old committee. Under proposed changes, the position of the landscape architect, who was newly hired about 1½ years ago, will be eliminated.

"That means they will have a different liaison," Yack said. "Over the years the beautification committee has redefined its mission. I think they were flower planters at one point. Now I think they are more sponsors of programs."

Aaron Machnik, municipal services director, said beautification — or how the effort is accomplished — will be revisited. "They may do business differently in the future. The evolution of the community would prompt changes."

Some members of the committee, which now includes six master gardeners, are wondering what's in store for them and beautification in Canton, especially without a landscape architect on board.

"I think it's a wait-and-see situation," said Geri Wojcik, committee chair. "I think it's terrible they (township officials) haven't contacted us."

The future of the annual seedling giveaway is in limbo. Committee members say they have heard the program may not continue. Yack said he has heard some township board members talk about it. "I haven't had time to dig into it (the issue)," he said.

Machnik said the seedling program may be changing directions. "We've had a hard time getting interest in the program."

Earlier this year, the committee gave away about 8,000 seedlings, which were bought from Wayne County Conservation through the township for about $1,890. "That's a small amount of money to spend," Wojcik said.

Committee members maintain that the seedling giveaway is popular and point to this spring's program when residents were lined up for quite some time around township hall waiting to pick up seedlings — the type chosen with the help of landscape architect Paula Preston Bratto.

"We pretty much exhausted the supply," said Pam Swiderek, committee secretary and historian, adding that in past years some seedlings were left. "When that happens, we give to Scout troops and schools."

The committee, Swiderek said, is considering a perennial plant exchange in place or in addition to the seedling giveaway. Machnik said the builder-sponsored tree planting program is eliminated. The resident-sponsored program in which residents may buy trees for rights-of-way for 50 percent will continue.

Committee members said they can roll with the punches if change is coming their way. But they want to remain a vehicle for bolstering community awareness of beautification and environmental consciousness. "There are two good days to plant a tree: 20 years ago and today," Wojcik said.

The committee also produces community awareness booklets for elementary schools. The booklets teach about beautification, the environment and Canton history.

"When you involve families and children, they think of their community differently. They learn to respect property," Wojcik said.

Man killed at construction site

A Howell man, 35, was killed Friday in an accident at a Plymouth Township construction site.

Robert E. Dzikowski — a partner-owner of J.A. Stearns Excavating of Howell, which was excavating a site on Sandalwood — was crushed to death between a backhoe and a tractor at about 4:30 p.m., just as he had been preparing to leave the site, Plymouth Township police said.

"He had just gotten out of the tractor and walked around to the back when a box fell on the controls," said Sgt. Robert Antal. "It caused the backhoe to swing around and crush him."

The box had been resting next to Dzikowski's side, according to the police report.

"With a lot of belt-tightening, I believe we could live within our means," Bennett told his colleagues, maintaining that the 35 mill increase translated into a small enough shortfall that further attempts should be made to trim expenses and balance the budgets.

Bennett suggested taking money from the general fund savings account to cover the police and fire budgets. "I believe we have the ability in the general fund where we have a larger surplus to cover the unknowns we face in the other budgets."

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack reminded Bennett that a quarter mill was transferred from the general fund to the police fund this year. "I think most of us are uncomfortable with no fund balance in police and fire."

Township Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter countered Bennett's comments by saying that while she doesn't like to increase taxes fiscal responsibility should be followed in providing fund balances for the police and fire departments. Surveys also show that residents support police and fire services in Canton.

"I don't feel we should jeopardize the levels of service," Kirchgatter said. She added that the police and fire rates were reduced 1988-90 and have remained the same since 1990. The police and fire funds are supported entirely by the special assessment millages voters approved in the 1970s.

Township officials say efforts have been made to fine-tune projected expenses for the budgets, which have been plagued by a past property tax assessment freeze and an arbitration settlement that bit into the fire and police savings.

Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro proposed hiring three new officers based on a formula that determines the number of officers needed to maintain a certain level of service.

Santomauro said Canton has the largest percentage of officers assigned to street patrol and among the lowest ratio of police officers to population.

"They're dividing them up into 'ability' groups and coaching them on how to take the test," an elementary teacher said. "They're using facsimile, mock-up tests and administering the test to kids by ability." To do that requires the help of support staff, "so you can't get aide time you need in the classroom."

Results are due back in the district by the end of November. Parents can expect results to be sent home "in early to mid-December," said Sheila Alles, language arts and social studies curriculum coordinator.

Alles said she's often asked why students are tested so early in the school year. "The company the state uses to score the test is used by states across the nation. Michigan is assigned a specific window of time, which happens to be in November," she said.

Increasingly, the MEAP is becoming a high-stakes test.

In 1995-96, the state will determine base-line achievement levels. "The expectation is that each year, schools' scores should improve above the base line," Alles said. "Each school has to surpass that to receive accreditation. Schools that don't show improvement over three years could lose state funding in an amount equal to 5 percent of their operating budget."

Pamphlets with more information on the MEAP are available in individual school buildings.

The answer is: 50 meters.

Games. He was chosen as Michigan Athlete of Year in 1991 and served as athlete representative for Michigan Cerebral Palsy/Les Autres Athletic Association. Dell also holds a 1993 swimming first-place championship for the back stroke and freestyle.

Bocci is what's taking him to London but that's not his only sport. He holds national records in events such as the soft discus, soft shot and high toss where he threw a soft discus 14 feet, 6 inches. "I threw it backward over a bar," Dell said.

He has received a wallfull of medals for his athletic achievements during his 14 year-involvement with the athletic association. Last year was his first shot at the international games. The rules are different than in the national and regional games. This year he's more hopeful about his chances in London where he will again participate as an individual and on his team, Tri-City Seals.

But Dell needs help to get to London. The trip will cost $2,150. He mailed out 378 fliers to area businesses. He's already received donations but still has a ways to go.

Anyone who would like to donate to Dell's efforts should address a check to his team, Tri-City Seals, in care of Steven Dell, 42687 Barchester Drive, Canton 48187.

"I would like to thank all the people who have already given me money for the trip," Dell said. "It motivates me."

Dell has been keeping a computer record of the donations that are tax-deductible. When he returns from England he plans to send personal letters to all who helped him, including the results of his efforts at the games.

"I will personally write down the names of all the people who helped me," said Dell, who is majoring in business at Schoolcraft College.

"I'm trying to find a job. I'm looking for a job I can do," Dell said. "I like computers."

Independence is what Dell is all about. While the house where he and his roommate live has a house manager who keeps track of things, Dell is his own man. "They can look after themselves," Jarvis said.

Back off on demands, state pols tell feds

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Michigan has joined a national movement to crack down on the federal government.

"We want to get the states to speak up in the future about these unfunded mandates," said Rep. John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, as the House Tuesday unanimously passed his "state sovereignty" resolution.

The Michigan House is fighting the federal tendency to order states to do things without providing them the money.

Under the 1978 Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution, state government must pick up the bill when it orders local units to perform a function or service. Long-term goal of the new movement is to make the federal government pick up the bill when the U.S. Congress mandates state functions.

"What I heard in my Bloomfield Hills public hearing was, 'Maybe we need to have a Headlee amendment on a national scale'," Jamian said.

Added supporter Jerry Vorva, R-Plymouth: "We always hear (in debate over appropriations bills), 'We will get (federal) money for this, but we've gotta put our own money in'."

Vorva pointed to Jamian's list of $400 million a year in state spending that is mandated by the U.S.: $187 million in court actions, $121 million for Medicaid, $41 million under the federal Obra Nursing Home Reform Act, $17.5 million for the "motor-voter" registration act, $5.6 million under the Safe Drinking Water Act, $2.3 million under the Clean Air Act, $245,000 under the Insecticide, Fungicide & Rodenticide Act. . .and so on.

Jamian calls it the "state sovereignty" resolution because it begins by citing the 10th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution: Powers not delegated to the federal government by the Constitution are reserved to the states or to the people.

"Today, in 1994, the staes are demonstrably treated as agents of the federal government. . .in violation of the 10th Amendment," his resolution goes on.

It closes by asking Congress to "cease and desist" from making mandates beyond its powers.

The House passed two identical resolutions: HR 923, speaking for itself, and HCR 945, which seeks state Senate concurrence. Refer to HCR 945 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

More taxes sought for bus service

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Michael Duggan put a price tag of $60 million on the kind of bus service for which the tri-county suburbs will seek state help next year.

"It's not going to be an easy sell in Lansing," said Duggan, acting general manager of SMART, the suburban bus service. The key will be revised plans and an emphasis on getting workers to jobs.

"There are 1.2 million jobs in the suburbs. SMART services 700,000 jobs. There is no service to 500,000. Those 500,000 jobs might as well be on the moon," Duggan told the general assembly of SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, last week.

"There is no service to Laurel Park (in Livonia). There is no service to the Chrysler Tech Park (in eastern Oakland County)," said Duggan, a Livonia lawyer who is handling the SMART work on leave from his regular job as deputy Wayne County executive.

"The D-DOT (Detroit) bus stops at Middlebelt and Plymouth. I drove down Plymouth Road and saw 25 signs for jobs in the three miles west of Middlebelt. A restaurant manager drives to the bus stop to pick up his second-shift workers. Many workers ride a line-haul (big bus) service and walk a mile to a job," Duggan said.

■ 'The three suburban officials agree on a targeted tax package of $60 million. We're looking at a whole range of taxes.'

Michael Duggan SMART director

The SMART plan:
- More line-haul service.
- Van service from major stops to workplaces in malls and offices, probably with a reservation system, possibly with private companies.
- A merger between SMART and D-DOT —"you'll see a full agreement in the next few months with the three counties (Wayne, Oakland and Macomb) and Detroit.

"Mike, what source of subsidy are you thinking of?" asked Detroit Councilman Clyde Cleveland. "We in Detroit spend $30 million to $40 million a year."

"The three suburban officials agree on a targeted tax package of $60 million," Duggan replied. "We're looking at a whole range of taxes."

One is on pollution (fuel consumption). Another is a .sales tax on car repairs. Others are forms of fuel taxes and property taxes. "My guess is it will be some combination of these," he said.

Plymouth Township trustee K.C. Mueller suggested the Ford Motor Sheldon Road plant as a major stop within reach of many jobs.

Metropolitan Affairs Corp., the regional think tank supported by business, labor and universities, called for a "re-shaping" of transit service to emphasize a variety of vehicles with less emphasis on regional, line-haul buses.

First priorities should be "the elderly, poor, jobless, young and disabled," said MAC's text, distributed to SEMCOG delegates. Private businesses, hotels, churches and social service agencies also should be brought into the public transit picture, MAC said.

'Elderly Mobility'

All layers of government plus business will spend two days next month in a conference on mobility for the elderly. It is set for Oct. 6 and 7 in the Novi Hilton Hotel, 21111 Haggerty, north of Eight Mile.

Called a "mini-White House conference on aging," it is hosted by SEMCOG and co-sponsored by seven state departments, the Traffic Improvement Association of Oakland County, AAA Michigan, and other private groups. Sessions start at 9 a.m. on Oct. 7 and run all day both days.

Highway design for older drivers, housing, land use, health and insurance issues as well as public transit are among the topics. The conference is designed for persons who work with mobility issues, land use decision makers, the automotive industry, local officials and state legislators. Registration fee is $65.

Questions on the conference and registration materials are being handled by Sheryl Siddall at SEMCOG, (313) 961-4266.

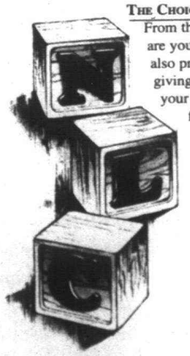
The New Life Center at Providence Park
Where families are born...close to home
A Comfortable Atmosphere
Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.
A Unique Approach
It's a new beginning. A new way of thinking. And an alternative to traditional hospital births*. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.


The Choices are Many
From the moment you choose to have your baby with us, many decisions are yours. You may choose to go natural or to have an epidural. You may also prefer to share the event with your loved ones. But the best part is giving birth in a relaxed, home-like atmosphere and having your baby by your side. What's more, a nurse will come to your home for private, follow-up visits. Because that's the kind of extra care, attention and education people expect from Providence.
Come See for Yourself
But don't take our word for it. Call 1-800-806-BABY for an appointment to see what the New Life Center at Providence Park has to offer expectant families.
*Only pregnant women who have been pre-screened and assessed as low risk by a Providence physician are eligible to deliver at the Providence Park New Life Center.

Krezminski will graduate from Plymouth Salem High School in the spring, and will report for Basic Training at Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Ill., in June.

Student radio station to air blues

WSDP, 88.1 FM, cooks up the rhythm and blues from 3:30-5:30 every Wednesday on the Blues Kitchen.

The Blues Kitchen was added to WSDP's program schedule this past summer. The show was the idea of Monica Synowiec, a Canton High School junior. Synowiec became interested in the blues through the influence of her father. "My dad always listened to the blues and he turned me on to it and got me to listen to it," said Synowiec.

"I like the music and where the whole concept came from because I know that much of today's music is inspired by it," she said. Response to the show has been good. Synowiec is especially pleased because new people have been exposed to the blues. "First they start out saying 'I don't like the blues,' but once they listen they say 'Wow, that's pretty cool.' "

Synowiec feels strongly that people should tune into the show. "It's another mix of music you should get acquainted with."

"Monica works really hard and produces an excellent show. Many people in the community would really enjoy the wide variety you hear on the Blues Kitchen," said Bill Keith, station manager.

WSDP is owned and operated by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. A copy of WSDP's program guide can be obtained by calling the station at 416-7732.

Auditions slated for yuletide production

Auditions have been scheduled for actors interested in performing in the Family Theater Program sponsored by the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

Auditions for the Christmas production of "A Winnie the Pooh Christmas Tail" are 6:30-8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 5-6, at the arts council headquarters, 774 N. Sheldon Road.

Actors of all ages are invited to audition. Experience is not necessary. Roles being cast are Christopher Robin, Eeyore, Piglet, Winnie the Pooh, Rabbit, Tigger, Kanga and Owl.

Performances are scheduled for Dec. 2-4, and the cast will be available in mid-December to tour elementary schools.

For more information, call 416-4ART or theater director Jennifer Tobin at 453-5212.

Death penalty

Victim's mother opposes reinstatement

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

"No" to the death penalty, said relatives of murder victims, clergymen, defense lawyers and peace activists.

Nineteen said no and four said yes when the Senate Judiciary Committee last week heard public testimony at Oakland Community College's Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills.

"It's out of your realm and my realm to say this shouldn't be on the ballot," Sen. Gil DiNello, R-Eastpointe, sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment to bring back the death penalty, told a hostile audience.

The room fell silent when Marietta Jaegar, former Farmington Hills resident, told of her feelings 20 years ago. "My 7-year-old daughter was kidnapped and killed when we were on a Montana camping trip. (The murderer) also confessed to killing a woman and two young boys. He confessed to those deaths only when he was in a county where there was no death penalty.

"I'd have been happy to kill the man with my bare hands," Jaeger said as she described her "gamut of emotions."

Now she believes in forgiveness and reconciliation. "Michigan has adequate protection: life in prison without parole. It (death penalty) degrades and dehumanizes us ... and reduces the value of my daughter's life," said Jaeger, now a southwest Detroit resident.

Opponents argued the death penalty is too savage, the appeals process too costly, the chances of error too great, the impact too heavy on the poor and blacks.

'Established by God'

"I endorse putting it on the ballot," said Roland Crosby of Farmington Hills. "The death penalty was established by Almighty God. It's divinely instituted. Society didn't give it to government."

John Truitt, West Bloomfield resident and 13-year police veteran, favored the death penalty. "The state pays for the upkeep, recreation and education of the inmate. What does the state do for the victim's survivors?" Truitt said, quoting the Bible's capital punishment rules.

"Our constitution is out of step with the majority of states and the U.S. Constitution," said supporter Larry Bunting, chief assistant to Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson. "Some crimes are so vicious, so heinous, that capital punishment is the only appropriate response."

Bunting said the $2 million cost attributed to prosecuting and appeals in a murder case was inflated. He quoted a study that concluded the death penalty really does deter future killings.

Study 'a joke'

"The Oakland County prosecutors are the only people who pretend it's a deterrent," countered Howard Simon, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union in Michigan. He said the study Bunting cited had been refuted, its author had acknowledged errors — "it's a joke."

"Society is becoming so violent that we've got to do something," said supporter Leonard Weems of Farmington Hills. He advocated performing executions within two years of sentence.

"I hope the proud tradition of Michigan will be maintained," said opponent Rabbi Ernst Conrad of West Bloomfield. While Scriptures called for the death penalty for murder, adultery and idolatry, he said the Jewish Sanhedrin imposed it only once in seven years, on average. The modern state of Israel used it only on Nazi Adolph Eichmann, he said.

"My mother was brutally murdered at the age of 82," said Sally O'Connor Peck of Livonia. "She taught love and forgiveness. How can you put the family (of the defendant) through eight to 10 years of agony before the execution? How can you put us through this suffering in her (mother's) name?"

"We can't trust our people to vote on this issue. By and large, the white population is too racist to vote on this issue," said Maggie Tyson, Bloomfield Hills resident and long-time chair of the Oakland County Welfare Rights Organization and board member of the NAACP.

"Working people should oppose the death penalty," said opponent Virginia O'Riley of Detroit. "The ruling rich use it against poor people."

"For every gory story you can tell, I can tell you one of redemption," said Felix Lorenz, chaplain with the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and former prison chaplain. After reinstituting the death penalty, Georgia, Illinois and Florida saw murders rise, he said. "In Michigan, of 44 persons who had their life sentences commuted, not one committed another murder."

Maida opposed

A spokesman for Catholic Archbishop Adam Maida equated the death penalty to abortion, euthanasia and nuclear war and said it would lead to "erosion of respect for life and Christ's message of healing love."

"After you are done killing in the name of Jesus Christ, what have you left for the devil to do?" said opponent Gabriel DesHarnais, an Episcopal priest from Lake Orion, quoting author Gregory Bateson.

"In 25 percent of first-degree murder cases, there's a reversal," said Royal Oak attorney Sheldon Stark, representing the National Lawyers Guild. "The system is not infallible. They make mistakes. There are corrupt sheriffs, corrupt crime labs, phony scientific tests. We have a system of appeals that allows us to correct mistakes. You can't correct a death penalty mistake."

"Growing up in Germany in the '30s, my grandmother would call it (the guillotine) 'making someone a head shorter,' " said Warren resident Sigrid Dale. She said West Germany abolished the death penalty in 1949, France in 1981, the former East Germany in 1987, "but here in the U.S. we're moving in the opposite direction," said the naturalized American, calling the death penalty an international embarrassment to the U.S.

Resolution would ask voters to reinstate death penalty

Senate Joint Resolution F, if placed on the ballot and approved by voters in 1996, would amend the Michigan Constitution's nearly 150-year ban on the death penalty. It would allow execution for first-degree murder after:

- The trial court conducts a separate sentencing hearing before the jury, which recommends a penalty.
- Attorneys present evidence on aggravating or mitigating circumstances. They may argue for or against death.
- The judge passes sentence, with reasons in writing.
- A state Supreme Court panel reviews the sentence within 60 days. The panel will include an appellate judge and a circuit judge (chosen at random) and the trial judge. The panel must be unanimous to affirm the death sentence.
- The state Supreme Court reviews the sentence.

Hines Park suggested for color tour

The Wayne County Department of Public Services parks division, is touting the Middle Rouge Parkway as a great place to sample the fall colors.

The 17-mile parkway preserves the natural wooded areas and provides open spaces along both banks of the Middle Rouge River.

Traversed by Edward Hines Drive from Dearborn to Northville, the parkway is dotted with waterfalls, dams, bike trails, rest stations and more than 300 species of trees.

Once the leaves have fallen, the parks staff will get ready for another set of colors as preparations begin for the second annual Festival of Lights, set for Nov. 14 to Jan. 1.

Youngsters to benefit from efforts to help wildlife

NATURE TRAILS

TIMOTHY NOWICKI

Earth Force, a national nonprofit environmental organization, recently polled young people to determine what they wanted to do to help the earth. Results from the poll indicated that helping wildlife was their first choice. A hundred and forty-six thousand ballots were cast indicating their willingness to help.

In fact, starting Oct. 1 2 young people from around the country will be pledging their time to help wildlife for the next year. On that weekend a nationally televised telethon called "The Big Help" will be aired on the Nickelodeon Channel.

Saturday, Oct. 15, will be the first time that students will be able to participate in organized efforts to help wildlife. Organizations and facilities around the country have been asked to develop wildlife programs and projects which will utilize volunteers from this campaign. Local affiliates of Nickelodeon should be announcing volunteer opportunities in the local viewing area.

If you are a group leader, or you have some ideas of how young volunteers could help wildlife, the Nature Company stores will have informational packets available to help you develop actions plans. You can also contact Earth Force at (703) 351-9411 or fax (703) 351-9412.

Helping wildlife can take many different forms, and with a little imagination, new ideas can lead to tremendous benefits. Bird houses are always a good standby project. But volunteers need a place to put them and they must learn what species they are being built for so they can be placed in the proper location. Bird houses need to be monitored so they can be repaired or cleaned out when necessary.

If students built the houses and committed time to monitor the houses, maybe golf courses, businesses, rest homes, utilities, government or private parks could allow students to erect their houses on these properties. There is a lot of open land that could be potential nesting sites for species like the eastern bluebird. But both landowners and volunteers must come together. Hopefully, this will be a project to unite the two.

Cleaning up trash may not seem like a glamorous way to help wildlife, but some kinds of trash can be harmful to wildlife. If it is disposed of properly the chances of it affecting wildlife is reduced.

Not all wildlife adapts to man-made structures like bird houses, so for those species a brush pile can be made. When bushes or tree tops are cut down, they can be piled in fields, along fence rows, or even in your backyard. Rabbits and birds can use brush piles for protection from predators and harsh weather.

People young and old from all walks of life genuinely want to help wildlife. More than 230 projects were listed in the 1992 issue of the Directory of Volunteer Opportunities for Birders published by the American Birding Association. Projects were outlined from practically every state in the union.

An entire organization known as Earthwatch is dedicated to providing people with opportunities to help researchers with their projects. Many people travel to exotic areas to help researchers tag, observe behavior, enter data, identify species or count scat. It's a great way to help and really learn about the region and its wildlife.

Maybe you will find the time to pledge some time to help wildlife, either by developing a project, or by volunteering to help with a project. Both of these are excellent ways to help wildlife, but the best way to help is to develop, or maintain an attitude/personal philosophy that includes conservation/preservation of wildlife and all living things in your decision-making.

Aide honored as Extra Miler by local Board of Education

Norma Janis, special education aide at Canton High School, was named an Extra Miler by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday.

Janis began her career with the district in 1978 as a substitute secretary and was hired as an educational aide at Geer School.

She became associated with the work study program at Canton and has worked at the high school in the special education program since 1978.

"Norma is always positive toward students and staff. Her friendly demeanor and ready smile help make our learning environment an inviting one to both students and staff," said Sharon Strean, Canton High School area coordinator.

"She consistently goes the extra mile by volunteering for difficult assignments, including working with our most severely-impaired students."

Board member Roland Thomas lauded Janis for her special efforts in working with handicapped students. He presented her with a cloisonne pin of the Flag of Learning and Liberty and dining certificates for two donated by the Roman Forum Restaurant on Ford Road in Canton.

"I thank everyone who nominated me. It's real easy when you have a lot of special people you work with," said Janis.

Little Professor manager lauded

The development manager for Little Professor Book Centers Inc., which has a store in Plymouth, has won the company's Jon Wisotzkey Award.

George Hales was presented the award last month at the company's national convention. The award is based on the candidate's contribution to promoting the strength of the Little Professor organization as a unified family of booksellers. Hales has been with the company seven years.

Based in Ann Arbor, the company has more than 110 stores nationwide.

Pickup trucks and guy things

My husband recently bought a pickup truck. Ever since I've known him he has wanted a pickup truck. He'd see an especially nice one pass by on the road and launch into a litany of its cool features: the bed size, the weight (some ton measurement. I was never really sure if he was talking about how much the truck actually weighed, and in that case, who really cares, or how much it could carry without breaking, and in that case who would be so dumb to put that much stuff in it? Isn't that what you get a U-Haul for?) He'd exclaim over its color and cylinders and my oldest son would nod and laugh and ooh and aah right back. I was always definitely out of the loop on this subject.

And so, with the recent debut of his own home improvement business came not just the old desire to have a pickup truck, but an actual need for one. All those two-by-fours and squares of shingles and 12-foot ladders and vinyl siding and sinks and doors and other large and manly items necessitated the purchase of a pickup truck. So he bought one.

It's a black truck. That's said with an emphasis on the K sound at the end of both words black truck. You have to bite the words off, like a wad of chewing tobacco. When he drove up the driveway that night with his new black pickup truck, he was a man among men. He was king of cool. He was Ron "the Tool Man" Meier. Arrr, arrr, arrr, arrr. More power.

And that was mighty fine. Other husbands in the neighborhood have stopped by to admire the truck. It's in the driveway, I believe for the same

Fiesta to aid GCH

You can make a run for the border, so to speak, and help out Garden City Hospital at the same time.

The hospital's annual ethnic night fund-raiser, a Mexican Fiesta complete with a mariachi band, is scheduled for 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8, in the Waterman Campus Center of Schoolcraft College, Haggerty Road south of Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

Mariachi American will provide the entertainment during the cocktail hour and dinner, and the folkloric ballet group, Rayas de Mexico, also will perform.

After dinner, there will be dancing to the music of Panchito and Orchestra. During the evening, there will be a Mexican marketplace with gift items for sale.

There also will be a raffle with the drawing to be held during the Mexican Fiesta. Prizes include a trip for two to Mexico, the use of a condominium on Amelia Island, Fla., for a week and a gold, sapphire and diamond ring. The raffle tickets are $1 each, and ticket holders need not be present to win.

Dinner, prepared by the Schoolcraft Culinary Arts staff, will be a buffet, featuring Mexican cuisine. Among the selections will be breast of chicken in mole sauce, sea bass Veracruz, beef and cheese enchiladas and a caramel flan for dessert.

Review benefits hospice

The stars will shine when the Community Hospice Foundation presents its "Friday Nite Live - Puttin' on the Hits" Broadway Review Friday, Oct. 7.

A benefit for Community Hospice Services, the review will be at 7 p.m. at the Msgr. Alex J. Brunett Activity Center of St. Aidan's Catholic Church, 17500 Farmington Road, Livonia.

The evening will begin with a cocktail reception at 7 p.m., followed by a family-style dinner. After dinner, comedian Bruce Gerish will serve as master of ceremonies of a fun-filled Broadway show, featuring talented local performers, directed by Jim Compton.

Slated to appear in the show are Patricia Willington, Steven Kosinski and Steve King.

Willington has performed many major roles with the Michigan Opera Theatre. She recently returned from an appearance at the Dartington Music Festival in England. A faculty member at Macomb County Community College, she also has performed in many European countries as well as extensively throughout the Michigan.

Kosinski is the director of Creative and Performing Arts, a magnet high school program for gifted students in the Livonia Public Schools. He also is active in commercials, voice-overs and industrial films in the Detroit market and has appeared on Broadway, with national touring companies and with the Michigan Opera Theatre.

Soap opera devotees also may remember him as a regular on "Loving" and "Texas."

According to Community Hospice Foundation board president Christopher Ziomek, the review pro-

'Lunch break' peel lets you put your best face forward

(AP) — Who doesn't want to put her best face forward? Debby Ziegler, just turned 40, says she does. Janice Billadeau, 36, wants to. And Rosalyn Lewin, 66, always has.

These three women did so by having a series of fruit acid facial peels, also known as the lunch break" peel for its short application time and minimal side effects.

When fruit acid or glycolic acid burst on the scene almost two years ago, skeptics deemed it the latest fad.

Yet, almost two years later, consumers can buy products that contain the basic ingredients (also known as alpha hydroxy acid) in almost every cosmetics line.

Today, some experts and their patients say the beneficial effects of glycolic acid have stood the test of time even though they may have delayed hopping on the bandwagon.

I've only been doing the fruit acid peel for the past nine months to a year," said Dr. Shan Baker, the director of the University of Michigan's Center for Facial Cosmetic Surgery in Ann Arbor. Yet 90 percent of his patients opting for peels choose this peel.

Baker, a board-certified otolaryngologist and plastic surgeon, said the fruit acid facial peel is most beneficial for individuals ages 25-55.

Glycolic acid peels are most effective when there is not a lot of weathered skin," he said.

However, most individuals don't arrive at the center clamoring for the fruit acid peel.

Some come to get the peel, but most come because they want some improvement in their skin," Baker said. They may want smoother skin or want their sun spots improved."

Debby Ziegler was turning 40 the week she had her first treatment. Although she was a little apprehensive before her first peel, and said her skin felt like it was burning during one part of the procedure, she felt fine moments later. The hot" feeling lingered for a day or so, but several days later, she was recommending it to others.

A younger friend's enhanced appearance convinced Rosalyn Lewin to have the fruit peel done.

I was never interested in surgical procedures," said the Bloomfield Hills resident. But anyone who gets to their 60th year is looking to enhance their appearance."

After the standard series of three facial peels, with a 50-percent concentration of glycolic acid, and routine care with a 10-percent maintenance formula, Lewin said, I don't look dramatically different, but it gives my skin a glow and I feel very good."

After nine peels, Royal Oak resident Janice Billadeau is quite pleased with the improvement in her acne-scarred cheeks.

It's really evened out my complexion,"she said.

All three women were good candidates for the procedure, but others may not be, Baker said.

The glycolic acid peel requires long-term chronic management," he explained. "Just about anyone will have some improvement in their skin, but it's an expense (about $37 per six-month supply of maintenance lotion and $75 per peel) and some people might consider it a hassle."

Glycolic acid creates no sun sensitivity, which is what has brought many Retin-A users into the glycolic acid fold. But Baker notes that Retin-A is often more effective on fine facial lines. The two products can also be used in tandem.

Among peels, Baker said, the fruit acid peels are considered a superficial peel.

It affects only the top layer, or epidermis, of your skin," Baker explained. Beneath lies the dermis and then a layer of fat.

However, after age 55, age-related changes may make other peels more appropriate.

The trichloroacetic acid peel, considered an intermediate peel, penetrates to the upper dermis.

It's more appropriate for the removal of fine lines, and is of a more permanent nature. It can last for months or years," Baker said. And a TCA peel requires no daily maintenance.

Another, and the deepest, peel is the phenol peel. Candidates for this type of peel typically have severely weathered skin and deep wrinkles.

However, both the TCA and phenol peels increase sun sensitivity and actually bleach the skin. There is also the possibility of scarring.

But while other peels are available, all three women feel the glycolic acid peel delivered what was right for them.

I went to my hairdresser,"said Ziegler. She didn't know I'd just had it done, but she told me I looked refreshed. I couldn't believe it."

I was happy with it,"said Billadeau. I didn't expect it to get rid of my problem, but it did improve it."

Admitted Lewin: I'm as fortunate as most when it comes to my skin, but . . . you reach a time when something extra is needed."

Italian American Club ready to 'Light Up a Life'

My child is dying. Only now can I bring myself to tell you. I've known for a while, but I've kept hoping.
Even now, conflicting feelings charm in me.

Have the doctors done everything possible?
Will I let my child endure yet another treatment?
Can I let go and allow my child to find deserved peace?

I don't think clearly these days. I go through the motions of living.
Family and friends reach out to comfort and assist, but I turn them aside.
As I watch life slowly drain from this one so young,
I cling to every precious moment, closing out all distractions.
Good days mingle with the bad, but they are giving way to my constant bedside vigil.
How long must the suffering go on?
I'm not ready to sever earthly bonds with the one to whom I gave life.
Can I set my child free from a body ravaged by disease and pain?
If your hand is still extended, I will take it now.
I can't do this alone.
— M. Sharon Smith

Angela Hospice wants to make sure families with dying children don't have to do it alone. A new hospice pediatric program, "My Nest Is Best," is set to begin in 1995 — the same year Angela Hospice celebrates its 10th anniversary.

Helping to make the program a reality are the Italian American Club of Livonia and Jacobson's of Laurel Park Place which are focusing on children at its seventh annual "Light Up a Life" benefit set for 6:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 15, at Jacobson's, Six Mile and Newburgh roads, Livonia.

Tickets for the fund-raiser are $35 per person and include a "strolling supper" of gourmet appetizers and refreshments from area restaurants and a celebrity fashion show, featuring men's, women's and children's clothes.

Tickets are available from Angela Hospice at (313) 464-7810 or Loretta Bruni at (810) 473-9464.

More than 20 area restaurants will prepare food and refreshments for an expected crowd of more than 1,000 people. Restaurants featured will include DePalma's of Livonia, Livonia Italian Bakery, Joe's Produce of Livonia, Country Epicure of Novi, Villa DeRoma, Rocky's of Northville, Olive Garden of Livonia, Mountain Jack's of Livonia, Chimento's Italian Market, Macaroni Grill of Livonia, D. Dennison's of Livonia, Lorrie's Confectionately Yours, Fonte d' Amore Ristorante-Laurel Manor, U Take The Cake of Livonia, DeRos Delicacies of Redford Township, Edward's Catering of Northville and Allie's American Grill at the Livonia Marriott.

The event will also feature a chocolatier preparing specialty desserts.

Carolyn DiComo, event chairwoman from Northville Township, said the group hopes to raise $40,000 for the pediatric program at the Livonia-based hospice which serves western Wayne County and Oakland County.

DiComo, who has chaired all seven fund-raisers, urges area residents to "get your ticket early."

"This is always a fun event," said DiComo, adding, "I get more excited every year."

The fund-raiser is special to DiComo because "I really believe in the hospice program and what it has to offer people."

Joining this year's fund-raising effort are metro area celebrities who will model fashions. The celebrity list includes WXYZ-TV reporter Cheryl Chodun, Jimmy Launce of WJR radio, Dan Springer of WXYZ-TV Channel 7, Paul Gross of WDIV-TV Channel 4, Amyre Makupson of WKBD-TV Channel 50, "Captain" Rick Jagger of WHYT-FM 96.3, Bob Rathbun and Rick Rizzs, Detroit Tigers announcers, and former Detroit Tigers pitcher Milt Wilcox.

Italian American Club members come from Livonia, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Westland, Northville, Novi, West Bloomfield, Rochester, Howell, Brighton, Canton Township and Plymouth.

Raffle prizes include two tickets to anywhere in the continental U.S. on Northwest Airlines, a $1,000 shopping spree at Chris Furniture of Livonia, $500 Jacobson's gift certificate, dinner for two with WDIV anchorman Mort Crim, and a weekend getaway at Grand Traverse Resort.

Angela Hospice was founded in 1985 by Sister Mary Giovanni under the sponsorship of the Felician Sisters of the Presentation Province. Since then, the hospice has provided care for more than 1,000 people suffering from incurable illness.

In 1993, the hospice opened the Angela Hospice Care Center on Newburgh Road. The center provides room with a home-like environment for 16 patients, family rooms, volunteer training rooms, family lounge, chapel, children's room, physician office, nurses' station and administrative offices.

Also serving on the fund-raiser planning committee are Sister Mary Giovanni, hospice president, Rose Albert of Plymouth, Gerry Besh of Northville Township, Loretta Bruni of Farmington Hills, Toni Bufe of Livonia, Rose Duggane of Livonia, Gwen Fedrigo of Livonia, Linda Gundersen of Jacobson's at Laurel Park Place, Kathleen Jones of Livonia, Kaye Kowlske of Plymouth, Barbara Ledda of Livonia, Donna Navetta of Novi, Mary Panackia of Livonia, Shirely Pivetta of Bloomfield Township, Dave Ripple of Plymouth, Georgia Scappaticci of Northville Township, Tracy Schroen of Farmington Hills, Carolyn Tata of Livonia and Dorothy York of Northville.

reason one chops the head and horns off a multi-horned animal and glues that head on a board and then sticks it up on the wall. A guy showing off a guy thing.

For a period of time after he bought the black pickup truck, we had one too many vehicles. So he placed an ad in the paper.

The very same night the ad appeared was the very same one that the annual Sleep-Under-the-Stars-in-the-Backyard-Fort Extravaganza had been scheduled by Ron. That evening, armed with pillows, sleeping bags, snacks and a flashlight, Tony, Carmen, Joe and Ron became like cowboys in the Old West. Stars sparkled above them, dogs howled, twigs snapped, and frogs croaked. I, however, was not a cowboy that night. First of all, there wasn't enough room in the fort for me and, second, baby Jack would have been in the house all by himself.

Once the cowboys were all settled outside and Jack was quieted down for the night inside and I was reading in bed, I heard through the window upstairs: "Daddy, what's that horrible noise?"

"It's the horrible night monster," I believe was his response. A Mom never would say such a thing. You know what I mean?

Anyway, things calmed back down outside and they fell asleep. I did, too. But at 4:03 a.m. the phone rang. My voice shook when I said "Hello." There was a man on the other end of the line.

"Do you still have that Sunbird for sale?"

What's a Sunbird? Why is this man asking me this stupid question? "Uh, yah," I replied.

"Oh, good. What color is it?"

I searched desperately for an answer. Then he asked me about the mileage, if it had been in any accidents and then how many cylinders it had. Oh, for heaven sakes. Cylinders, of all things. It's got however many it needs, no more, no less. I don't know.

He said he'd call back when he got to work later. And then he hung up. I stood there in the dark for the longest time with the phone still in my hand. I didn't have a single thought in my head.

I finally stumbled back to bed and slept another couple of hours.

The sun came up and the birds were making a racket in the trees, and it woke the cowboys in the fort. They came inside for some grub. Afterwards, Ron hopped in his black pickup truck and drove away. He had work to do.

Mr. 4:03 did call back that day. "Is your husband home? I have a few more questions."

"No, he's not here right now. But I'll answer your questions."

Mr. 4:03, can you believe this, is not the new owner of our Sunbird.

-vides an evening of great entertainment and serves to increase the public's understanding of hospice in general and the work of CHS specifically.

Community Hospice Services was established in 1981 to offer compassionate, skilled home care to individuals who face an incurable illness. Hospice offers supportive care, promotes quality of life, and provides comfort and emotional healing for the patient and family members.

"We provide services to patients and their families regardless of their ability to pay," said Maureen Butrico, CHS executive director. "While some costs for medication, nursing and doctor visits are covered by the patient's medical insurance, some costs must be supplemented in other ways. The Community Hospice Foundation was created by concerned citizens in 1993 to fill the ongoing need for funds to meet patient and family services which are not reimbursable."

Tickets for "Friday Nite Live" are $40 each and include the cocktail reception, dinner, entertainment, open bar and door prizes. They are available at the CHS offices in Westland — 32932 Warren Road, Suite 100 — and Plymouth — 127 S. Main St. Tickets are also available from foundation board members.

For more information, call the Westland office at (313) 522-4244 or the Plymouth office at (313) 459-0478.

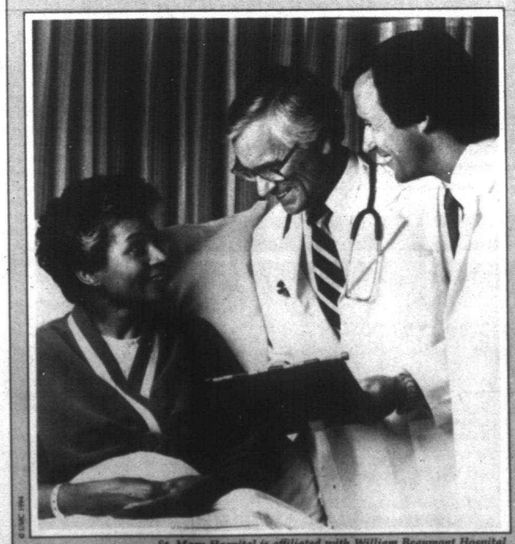
Family Talk.



The doctors at St. Mary Hospital believe that the things that go into making a good family — sharing, cooperation, and close involvement — are the very things that are needed for good medical care. So, we listen to our patients . . . their thoughts, their concerns, their viewpoints and those of their family. And when we talk to our patients we avoid confusing medical terms and try to be understanding as well as understood.

Besides talking with our patients, we also talk to each other. We share professional experiences and pass on information about new technologies and techniques. We also discuss our patients' care. This exchange of ideas is essential to good medical care, for you, and for your family.

The simple act of talking to each other is an important part of good families. And, at St. Mary Hospital, we think it's an important part of good doctoring.

If you want a doctor who practices medicine as if family matters, call (313) 464-WELL. We'll help you find a physician who fits into your family.

Upcoming tests

Parents' MEAP role is crucial

Plymouth-Canton school district students will be taking the annual Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests in the next several weeks in reading, math and science. The test results will be announced by the Michigan Department of Education in early December.

Since the MEAP tests were first required about 25 years ago, parents have been concerned - for good reason - about the quality of their local schools and if their children are learning what they should at that age.

In more recent years, the MEAP scores have created a furor in many districts when parents, as well as school board members and administrators, are upset about relatively low scores and a lack of improvement from prior years.

In Canton, curriculum leaders have revised what's taught and how the subjects are taught in a major effort to improve test scores.

But it's not just a matter for students and teachers who are directly involved in the testing.

Parents have a major role not only in preparing their sons and daughters for the upcoming tests but to provide strategies on effective study habits.

Plymouth-Canton school curriculum directors have said for years that the MEAP test results reflect not only what's happening in local schools but also the environment in students' homes. The Plymouth-Canton school administration is providing written information for local parents to help them and their youngsters to prepare for the upcoming tests.

If parents are serious about improving their children's academic performance, they must take a more active role in supervising their students' after-school time.

Parents must monitor school homework, curb excessive TV viewing and focus on the skills to be covered in the upcoming tests.

High school students are urged to avoid taking the attitude of the "let's blow off this test because it doesn't affect our grade point averages."

The MEAP tests are vital because they determine if a student will receive a state-endorsed diploma. Without that endorsement in math, reading and science, there will be less chance of getting the job they want.

Parents will soon get materials from the curriculum department and building principals on how to prepare for the tests.

They should read the materials and follow the advice.

If they do and students do better on this fall's MEAP tests, everyone will benefit.

Say 'no' to Proposal A on Nov. 8

It's good that Michigan voters have an automatic duty, every 16 years, to decide whether to rewrite the state constitution. When big changes are necessary, people don't have to conduct a tiring, expensive petition drive.

That's why Proposal A is on the Nov. 8 ballot - the present constitution puts it there.

We recommend a "no" vote. There is no need to call a Constitutional Convention (Con-Con) in 1995 to do a wholesale revision of the 1963 document.

In 1908 it was different. We were in the bipartisan Progressive Era of Teddy Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. That Con-Con gave us municipal home rule and a State Board of Education.

In 1961 it was different. We were gratified at the bipartisan, moderate leadership of George Romney's Citizens for Michigan, joined by the state Jaycees and League of Women Voters. Some folks wanted more reform, some none at all.

But that Con-Con gave us: the balanced budget requirement, the elimination of dozens of free-standing commissions, authority for a flat-rate income tax, county home rule, an expanded State Board of Education, better governance for the 11 regional universities, elimination of the justice of the peace courts, professionalized district courts, a new Court of Appeals and more.

Last March voters approved the biggest change in school funding in 50 years - wholesale cutting of school operating property taxes, firm state responsibility for school funding through a sales tax hike, a cap on soaring property assessments, and a host of education reforms that are now being implemented. Voters said yes, emphatically, by a 69-31 margin.

We would put those long-sought and hard-fought gains at risk if we considered any plea to rewrite the state constitution from scratch.

Moreover, no Progressive or moderate reform movement is on the horizon suggesting we need such a revision. Quite the opposite. So the prudent answer - for Republicans, Democrats, Libertarians and the uncommitted - is to reject a new Con-Con.

Is this constitution perfect? No one ever said that, even in 1963.

Can there be improvements? Yes. And we'll have a chance to say yes or no - one at a time - to excessive court appeals, parks funding, trial court reform, one-house Legislature, death penalty and other constitutional issues as amendments are crafted by lawmakers or petitioned for by the populace.

We would issue one warning. The 1960s reformers worked publicly for five years before winning. So beware of any last-minute, fly-by-night campaigns advocating a yes vote.

Michigan doesn't need a new constitution. We urge a "no" vote on Proposal A Nov. 8.

Religious freedom

I could not disagree with you more on Temple Baptist religious freedom being at stake.

Worship is a chosen behavior. A personal behavior which shows religious reverence. It does not rely on the building in which it takes place. The township objection had absolutely nothing to do with anyone's constitutional right to worship.

That allegation made by the pastor of Temple Baptist Church (headline Sept. 12) and yourself is truly unfounded. I personally as a township resident resent being lumped into the category as someone who would deny anyone their constitutional rights.

Each and every one within a square mile of my residence we have, at least to my knowledge, a half dozen churches of many denominations. Our community went to the planning commission to discuss the place of a structure in a community. A structure was rejected, and a structure alone. Not worship.

To take an opinion that we as a community therefore are trying to dictate religious behavior is ridiculous.

I as one taxpayer and my family am quite interested to see exactly what one township's stand is on this issue, and how it will handle the suit. As this can and will decide to our family who really runs our town.

M. Ann Marie Brooks, Plymouth

Church opposed

I read with interest your editorial of Sept. 15 pertaining to the Temple Baptist Church relocating in Plymouth Township. Two statements in that article caught my eye.

The first was indicating that the decision of the planning commission appears to be a ploy to keep a certain religion out of the community. Are you not aware that the Baptist denomination, of which this church is a part, has many established churches in this area? People wanting to affiliate with the Baptist denomination have many opportunities to do so.

The other statement was about the commission being concerned about the traffic this church would generate. You claimed that this argument didn't hold water because there wouldn't be that much of an increase except on Sunday mornings.

In your enthusiasm to put down the planning commission and residents of Plymouth Township for vetoing this project, you neglected to mention one important fact. It is not the church the people are objecting to, it's the entertainment complex that will be a vital part of Temple Baptist. What about the two baseball diamonds, the park activities, the concerts, the Christmas mornings or every night of the week?

As an editor, it is your responsibility to present all the facts to your readers.

For the record, I live on the opposite end of the township, so the decision of the planning commission doesn't affect me on a personal level. Except for the tax dollars you say I will contribute in helping the township fight this case. That is all right with me, as I fully agree with their decision.

RICHARD MCKINNEY

Where flowers bloom and children run and play, chasing the squirrels.
And where the birds fly all day.
Where trees grow strong and tall and lift their leafy arms to pray.
Where the birds build nests safe from man to raise their young.
Yes, poems are made by fools like me, but only God can make a tree.
Where the sky is blue with a cloud or two in view Where every raindrop is a penny from heaven, making everything fresh and new.
Oh yes, let's not forget the welcome morning dew.
Yes all this and a lot more too.
Where times, crafts, arts and talent are on display.
Where artists come and paint and musicians play.
Where the old and young gather around the fountain and feel the water spray, when a gust of wind blows their way.
Where little tots let the water tickle their little toes, and the splash of water hits their nose.
Where the walkways are made of brick and the memories of yesterday still stick.
Where mankind can walk and talk and reminisce of when they were small.
Where the sun still shines and gives forth its heat.
Where the grass is green and a haven for tender feet.
Well, just where is this place, you might ask?
Where mothers push baby strollers with their young aboard and in board, and father now and then carries on his shoulders with little feet around his neck?
Where seats around the fountain and park abound.
Yes and I have the best seat in town.
Where little children's smiles I have found their smiles are worth a million dollars for they have found the Candyman.
No, I'm not a stranger as some would say.
It's where you'll find me most everyday.
Taking time to write, read, study and to pray and thank God for the blessings he has give me this day, and for the friends I've found here along life's way.
Yes, my steps are quite unsteady, my hearing is impaired.
And my eyes are growing dim and I have all the blessings from God for my heart is warm within.
My infirmities are my blessings and God Bless them all.
And where Grandpas and Grandmas come and pass the time of day and take the time to say "Hello there, how are you today?"
And where you feel the warmth and love as it comes your way.
my cup of blessings runneth over.
I need nothing and I ask for nothing, for God giveth and God taketh away.
Oh yes, where is all this?
And where am I?
To me, it's a little spot of heaven here on earth.
It's called and known by many.
Known as Kellogg Park, in the downtown city square.
Yes, right here in Plymouth, Mich.

Fault can't be overlooked when assessing liability

TIM RICHARD

Taxpayers won one in the Michigan Supreme Court last month, but it was too close for comfort. The fact that this case got as far as it did should make us all worry about the lawsuit-happy mentality alive in this state.

Anthony Mason, 10, and his friend were running a race on June 10, 1987, at the intersection of Outer Drive and Mendota in Detroit. Anthony ran into the street. A driver ran a red light. Anthony smashed into the side of the car and suffered a closed-head injury.

I did some heavy thinking about this case. I drove past my old grade school on Bentler, a residential street in northwest Detroit, and recollected the way we were taught traffic safety. In kindergarten or first grade, we memorized a song whose theme was: Never run into the street. We had regular visits from a ventriloquist cop with a wooden friend called Jerry McSafety.

It was hard to conceive of a 10-year-old running into a street, particularly on Outer Drive.

Tajuana Mason, the mother, got a settlement from the driver, but she wanted more. She tried suing the City of Detroit, but Judge John H. Gillis Jr. dismissed it because city streets weren't involved.

So Mason sued the crossing guard and Wayne County, which has jurisdiction over the street. A sympathetic circuit court jury let the crossing guard off the hook but awarded Mason a $2 million judgment against Wayne County, even though the county pleaded governmental immunity.

A Court of Appeals panel upheld the verdict, reasoning that county responsibility to keep the roads safe for travel "includes the duty to post adequate traffic signage, including school signs ..."

Wayne County appealed to the highest court, joined by the Michigan Department of Transportation and the County Road Association.

Michigan's Supreme Court is fractured, not just divided, these days, issuing a majority opinion (four justices), a concurring opinion (one) and a dissent (two). That's bad practice and makes me nervous.

Justice Patricia Boyle's majority opinion reversed the lower courts and favored Wayne County. "By statute, governmental agencies are immune from tort liability while engaging in a governmental function" with certain narrow exceptions. The failure to install school warning signs wasn't one of those exceptions, she wrote. The county's duty extended only to the improved portion of the highway and didn't include sidewalks or crosswalks.

Justices Robert Griffin, Dorothy Comstock Riley and James Brickley agreed. Chief Justice Michael Cavanagh concurred in part, dissented in part.

Dissenting was Charles Levin, regarded as the most liberal justice, joined by Conrad Mallett Jr.

Levin said keeping the road "safe and fit for travel" extends to pedestrians. As an authority, he quotes part of an earlier case — his own dissent.

Levin and Mallett totally lost sight of the facts that the kid raced into the road and the driver ran a red light.

It's a case to keep in mind when supporters of Proposal C decry the sharks of the trial lawyers association, who oppose all tort reform.

Train questions

Plymouth is know for many things. However, being surrounded by railroad tracks is probably Plymouth's most popular feature. The sound of train whistles can be very appealing until you've been held hostage in or out of town because of the trains.

No one minds an occasional five-minute stop. However, that hasn't been the case lately. For several weeks CSX railroad has ignored what I have been told by the city police to be guidelines for crossing times. As I understand it, a seven-minute maximum is allowed. CSX has violated this repeatedly and by much more than a couple of extra minutes. Try six to 40 minutes more.

Sept. 22 I waited at the Ann Arbor Trail crossing for nine minutes only to have the guard rails go up for about 30 seconds, enough to allow a few cars to pass, before they came down to announce another train that then lasted six minutes. A 15-minute holdup is quite a dent in many people's schedules, especially during early morning rush hour. On Sept. 27, as with many other times, I experienced a train that stopped. On this day I witnessed the train there for 45 minutes.

Living in Plymouth, I've learned the train schedules, but when a 7:45 a.m. train sits there until 8:30 a.m. it sort of throws the rest of the schedule off, making it a little hard to plan.

Due to the length of the train, it not only holds up one railroad crossing but can tie up four or five throughout town. When these tie-ups occur, there are police witnessing it but I never see anything done. In calling the police later to complain I was told the train has to be on the tracks during the time I'm complaining and I need a car number. So basically using your car phone is the best plan, to call the city dispatch who then will call the police car sitting at the railroad crossing with you to tell them to write CSX up for a ticket.

I decided to call the state Department of Transportation in Lansing to see what else could be done. I talked to a manager of the railroad crossing section and he resounded the same information the police told me. The railroad has to be caught by police. They will not take a citizen complaint after the fact.

If our police department is fining these delays, then what happens next? Is just paying the fines considered more worthwhile to the railroad than staying within the guidelines of railroad crossing to avoid being ticketed? Of course, as with the public, when we receive several tickets our licenses are revoked. Is CSX's revoked?

GOP survey's out of touch

PHILIP POWER

To hear the folks on the right wing of the Republican Party tell it, they're just a bunch of average, middle-of-the-road, God-fearing Americans who support traditional family values.

Probe a little deeper, though, and you get something quite different.

Take as a case in point the questionnaire put out by an outfit called Citizens for Traditional Values at the Republican State Convention last month.

Administered to all candidates for contested offices, the results were supposed to give delegates some ideological signposts before casting their votes. Candidates were asked to indicate whether they agreed or disagreed with various statements, and the results were distributed on the convention floor.

Here are some questions asked of candidates for the Michigan State University Board of Trustees (with the position preferred by Citizens for Traditional Values in parentheses):

- The theories of creation and evolution should be given equal time in government schools. (Support)
- Private, Christian and home-school teachers should be required by law to be certified in the subjects they teach. (Oppose)
- An abstinence-only sex education curriculum should be taught in government schools. (Support)
- Doctor-assisted suicides should be legalized. (Oppose)
- Current gun laws should be expanded to regulate the sale of guns or make certain types of guns illegal to purchase. (Oppose)

The questionnaire for the candidates for the University of Michigan Board of Regents included a few different questions:

- Legislation should be passed allowing for voluntary prayer in government schools. (Support)
- Legislation should be passed making it illegal to possess child pornography. (Support)

Alert readers will wonder: What has any of this to do with running a university?

I'm a regent at U-M. The things we try to deal with are tuition restraint, adequate financial aid, deteriorating state support, maintaining an aging physical plant and minority enrollment. Our views on school prayer or gun control or doctor-assisted suicide might be of interest to those trying to determine ideological stance, but they have nothing whatsoever to do with policy-making at a university.

In fact, that's exactly what the Citizens for Traditional Values questionnaire was all about: It was a litmus test of the relative conservatism of the candidates. Republican Party officials said frankly that anyone scoring 50 percent on the quiz wouldn't have stood a chance at the nomination. None of the candidates who replied scored less than 94 percent, which indicates how powerful the right wing was in defining the ideological requirements for nomination at the GOP convention.

And all of this is taking place while Republican Gov. John Engler is working his hardest to broaden the party's appeal through tax cuts for property owners and paint Democrat Howard Wolpe as a raging liberal.

Average, middle-of-the-road, God-fearing American voters in Michigan might do well to ask candidates nominated at the Republican State Convention just how they scored on the Citizens for Traditional Values questionnaire.

Reading council to meet

The Wayne County Reading Council has scheduled its first meeting of the 1994-95 academic year for 2-9 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11, at the Hellenic Cultural Center in Westland.

Mary Bigler, a motivational speaker, consultant and professor of teacher education at Eastern Michigan University, will be the featured speaker.

Bigler has been the keynote speaker for several conferences, programs and in-service meetings throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Bigler has conducted hundreds of workshops on reading and writing for teachers, administrators and parents. She has also served as an adviser to governmental and educational institutions, as well as business and industry.

The 30-year-old Wayne County Reading Council was organized to improve reading programs and teaching procedures. All teachers, librarians, educators and administrators are invited to the council's seminars.

For more information, call Ken Krueger at (313) 467-1577.

Holocaust Center expands hours

The Holocaust Memorial Center of West Bloomfield Township has resumed its extended hours of operation for the school year.

The center is now open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday.

Admission is free. The museum is wheelchair accessible. Call 661-0840.

The museum is located at 6602 West Maple Road.

Walk promotes racial harmony

Detroit and suburban groups will pair up for this year's Focus:Hope Walk for Justice on Sunday, Oct. 9.

Thousands have participated in past walks, but organizations usually stayed with their own members. This year, Focus:Hope is encouraging groups to pair up with groups from other parts of the metro Detroit area, to mingle with them and chat as they walk through Detroit and Highland Park. The Walk for Justice will convene at Focus:Hope's complex at 1355 Oakman Blvd. in Detroit.

Representing Detroit's culturally diverse community, the walk emphasizes our connection with and interdependence on one another, with a goal of "building together a metropolitan community where all people may live in freedom, harmony, trust and affection." Community groups of all kinds are invited to call Focus:Hope at 494-5000 to be matched with a sister organization.

In conjunction with this year's walk, Focus:Hope also presents Countdown to Eternity, a photographic exhibition that depicts the last days of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as seen through the photographs of Benedict Fernandez. Focus:Hope is one of just 13 organizations nationally to host the exhibition, which is open through Oct. 23, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

Barns cited for service

Retiring state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, was honored for an "outstanding career of service" by the Southeast Michigan Council of Government.

SEMCOG chair Gail Kaess, a Grosse Pointe Farms council member, presented the plaque last week at the general assembly meeting of the seven-county planning agency.

Barns was a homemaker and mother when she ran successfully for the Westland Charter Commission in 1964. As a Westland council member, she was active in SEMCOG's committees on housing and community development and was named a "regional ambassador" in 1980.

As a state representative in the last dozen years, Barns has been the House Democratic liaison to SEMCOG.

"When there's a hole to fill, fill it," said Barns in response. "I've always been concerned about issues, not what something meant to Justine Barns."

Honored: SEMCOG paid tribute to retiring state Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland.

THE ROLE OF NUTRITION IN COLO RECTAL CANCER
Colo-rectal cancer is second only to lung and breast cancer in incidence. Environmental factors especially diet especially in high risk areas plays an important role in its occurance. High fat in the western diet is a risk for development of colo-rectal canter and most of the fat is derived from meat and composes 40-45% of total calorie intake. Increased risk is also found in people with high cholesterollevels. High fiber derived from fruit and vegetables has consistently been related to a lower risk of colo-rectal cancer. Protection has been greater for raw than cooked vegetables. For protection against this disease the world health organization and national cancer institute recommend reduction of the fat intake to 25% of the calories or less and the total fiber intake should be 20 to 30 grams per day and should include various vegetables and fruit. The final message should probably be not "eat more fibers" but specifically be "eat more vegetables".

'Noises Off' features three local performers

As Dan Cooney of Westland, now appearing as Perchik in "Fiddler on the Roof" at the Fisher Theatre in Detroit will testify, there's nothing more exciting than performing on stage in your hometown.

Three talented performers, with roots in our hometowns, are part of the cast of "Noises Off," Michael Frayn's zany Broadway hit opening Meadow Brook's 29th season 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 29.

The show, which plays until Oct. 23, features Shirleyann Kaladjian, a Wayne State University grad who grew up in Birmingham and Bloomfield; Suzi Regan of Beverly Hills; and Richard Schrot, who has family living in Birmingham.

For ticket information, call (810) 377-3300 or Ticketmaster, (810) 645-6666.

Described as "side-splitting, gut-shaking, gut-breaking, and one-hundred percent fun," "Noises Off" involves the shenanigans of a second-rate traveling theatrical troupe performing a trite English sex farce entitled "Nothing On."

Everything that can go wrong does as the first act of this "play-within-a-play" is repeated three times at three different locations.

■ Livonia Symphony Orchestra's annual benefit — Sunday, Songs & Symphony — is 6-9 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2 at Laurel Park Place, 37700 W. Six Mile and Newburgh in Livonia (enter at the West Six Mile entrance near restaurants). The evening will feature a Livonia Symphony performance with special guest vocalists Jamie Coe and Joan Stevenson, a cooking demonstration by "Fat" Bob Taylor, silent auction, and taste of Livonia with area restaurants, hotels and food service companies. Tickets are $20 in advance, $25 at the door. Call (313) 522-1100 or (313) 416-5008.

Audiences warm up to cool jazz

BY STEWART FRANCKE
SPECIAL WRITER

Detroit's jazz history is romantic and enduring. Famed innovator Yusef Lateef grew up in the city's Black Bottom section; Elvin, Thad and Hank Jones are from Pontiac; and exciting young stars like James Carter and Geri Allen are again focusing the international spotlight on the area.

That's less than a thumbnail sketch of Detroit's past masters; there are too many to mention here.

Jazz is an elegant and accurate art form, and it is usually performed by elegant and accurate artists. The musicians carrying forward this genre in the Detroit area, particularly those performers who have played it their entire lives, often without acclaim, have made the beauty and ingenuity of Detroit jazz quite clear.

They are a widely divergent group, making music in a widely divergent array of venues. Some, like Charles and Gwen Scales, are nearly pop artists. Other players, like Bugs Beddow or vocalist Sheila Landis of Rochester, are informed by the blues. Even time-honored forms such as big band and bebop are well represented.

Ancillary activity pertinent to the jazz community is everywhere. This year's Montreaux Detroit

Kirchenbauer finds life after this TV sit-com

BY BOB SADLER
SPECIAL WRITER

As comics go, Bill Kirchenbauer has shown a hard-working, blue-collar brand of versatility over the years. He's done the comedy club circuit, coming up just prior to the club boom in the '80s. He's starred in a television sit-com that ran for three seasons.

And now, he's earning his living as a comic by doing a mix of conventional club dates along with more lucrative (but less publicized) corporate gigs.

"I just did a thing for Marathon Oil last night," Kirchenbauer said from a hotel room in Maryland last week. "Business people in suits at dinner. I follow dessert, it's very lucrative, though. Some guys can make $20,000 a night doing this stuff. I'm not one of them.

"They like comedy because it's really easy to put together. All you need is a microphone and a spotlight."

Oh yes, did we mention that Kirchenbauer also has plied his craft on cruise ships? Based on Krchenbauer's experience, it's not the most glamorous way to earn a paycheck — not quite up to the stuff Kathy Lee talks about in those television ads.

"It's really weird," Kirchenbauer said. "They live and breathe by comment cards. I prefer not to be reviewed by people who work at Sears Automotive. It's the same food every Tuesday. After a few weeks, you want to jump over the side and swim to the nearest Wendy's."

But seriously folks, Kirchenbauer admits that being a comic "beats working at IBM." He's been doing it since the late '70s, when he started at a little club in California outside of Los Angeles. It would be nice to tell you that Kirchenbauer had gone out to California to pursue his dreams of stardom but that wasn't quite the way it happened.

"I had followed a girlfriend of mine out to California," Kirchenbauer admitted. "She had gotten a scholarship to a school out there. Within two weeks, she had found another boyfriend, and I was stuck out there."

Kirchenbauer took some mime and improv lessons and started doing comedy.

"There was a place called the Showbiz that was owned by Murray Langston, the 'Unknown Comic,' and I use to play there," Kirchenbauer added. "David Letterman used to show up for sets in his pick-up truck. He had a beard then. Michael Keaton used to perform there. A lot of people may not realize that he used to do stand-up.

"And Debra Winger was a waitress."

Kirchenbauer did standup on the club circuit before the television opportunity knocked. A recurring role on a hit show turned into a starring role on a show called "Just the Ten of Us." It brought out a mixed bag of memories for its star.

"It was an infamous spinoff of 'Growing Pains.' It ran for three seasons on ABC," Kirchenbauer said. "And then it went to cable. The original title of the show was 'Yo, Coach.' But then, ABC told us they had another show called 'Coach' coming up, so they changed it to 'Just the Ten of Us.' I was like 'Oh God, don't name it that.'

Kirchenbauer brings his stand-up act to Miss Kitty's in Oxford this weekend. Normally, that means the audience will be going to see a topnotch performer, but Kirchenbauer has plans to turn the tables a bit for another project he's working on.

"I'm directing a country music video right now; I am searching the country, looking for comic look-alikes," he said. "I can't say the name of artist. I've got a great Tim Allen one. I've got a Roseanne you wouldn't believe. I've also got a Sam Kinison.

"So, if you look like a famous stand-up, show up at the show and introduce yourself."

Festival evidenced the varied and informed nature of the Detroit area jazz audience. The performances were inspired and the attendance was up.

Promoting jazz

Other local groups exist in support of the music. Dedicated to advancing and promoting all that is jazz, The Michigan Jazz Record Collector's Association is comprised of close to 65 Detroit area jazz lovers. They convene every fourth Wednesday — usually at a Livonia Ram's Horn, call (810) 288-3870 for information.

While there, they conduct a joyous, informed session that includes swapping records, CDs and tapes, both rare and common, presenting literature and related memorabilia and defining jazz, their passion.

MJRC is a chapter of the International Association of Jazz Record Collectors, with a working objective of maintaining a non profit organization that is available to jazz enthusiasts and collectors.

Annual dues are $12. For information, write: Paul Demers, 2731 Crooks Road, Royal Oak, MI 48073.

Another group is the New Music Society, a consortium committed to bringing avant garde jazz and fringe music to the Detroit area. Founded by Robert Setlick, owner of Car City Records in St. Clair Shores, NMS involves other record store owners, Roman Kotrys (Repeat the Beat in Plymouth) and Warren Westfall (Record Collector in Livonia).

Yet one of the ironies about the local jazz community is that despite wealth of talent and fan interest, there is a shortage of jazz clubs in which to play or hear jazz. Only a few exist and only a handful feature jazz in its purest state.

Clubs

"Jazz has evolved into a variety of styles," said Gwen Scales, who, with her husband, Charles, is performing at the Club Penta in Detroit. The Scales are one of the city's most popular attractions.

"It should incorporate other forms — when people think of jazz, it now depends on what type of music they like."

Club Penta is a large, sophisticated night club favored by urban professionals. Housed in the basement of the Fisher Building, Club Penta, (313) 972-3760, features bands that blend R&B and pop into a flashy brand of jazz.

A club similar to Club Penta is Flood's Bar & Grille, a big bright room on St. Antoine on the southern fringe of Greektown, (313) 963-1090. High profile acts like Alexander Zonjic play to a slightly distracted audience. Flood's is more a place to mingle than it is a serious listening room.

Alvin's Twilight Bar & Deli, on Cass Avenue near the Wayne State University campus, (313) 832-2355, is a venerable jazz room, although its reputation was founded on its diverse presentation of R&B, rock and jazz. The fact that Alvin's survived the nightclub business for 25 years is overshadowed only by what it has meant to the community. Sometimes carrying the gentility of a coffeehouse, often a sweaty, stomping juke joint (and that's during a poetry reading), Alvin's holds, if not something of our civic history, surely much of our musical history, in its pitted mortar and brick.

At times it seems traveled by ghosts, informed by myths, linking the hippies of one era with the jazz artists of this one. The pictures on the wall certainly tell a story. We see Mitch Ryder, Nolan Strong and The Diablos, Jerry Lee Lewis, Hendrix, Bela Fleck, Steve Lacy, Jarub Shahid, Doc Watson, Paul Butterfield, The Neville Brothers, and Scott Morgan. Some have played there, some, of course, have not. Yet all are somehow part of the continuing Alvin's story.

Bert's Marketplace is the most quaint stop on our survey of area jazz clubs. Set on Russell in a shabby corner in the Eastern Market, (313) 567-2030, Bert's is everything a jazz club should be. It's cozy, with small tables that call for elbow rubbing, and an ambience that never lets the music wash around the room. Bert's features straight post-bop jazz acts.

Alban's, a restaurant and wine store in Birmingham is using jazz as a new night-time attraction. Currently appearing is Sheila Landis, a vocalist of rare wit and range.

"Looking at the scene as a whole, jazz is in a good state of affairs right now," said Landis, a bluesy singer who fronts her own quintet. "The exposure in Birmingham is tremendous — you're brand new to a much wider audience."

Landis will be performing at the Brazil Coffee House in Royal Oak on Oct. 2 and 16; and at Max & Erma's in Farmington Hills, 8:30-11 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9.

Alban's manager, Dwayne Bradley, sees jazz as perfect for his suburban eatery.

"Jazz appeals to all ages," he said. "It's the right type of music for this area."

In Livonia at DePalma's on Plymouth Road, (313) 261-2430, Larry Nozero and friends perform live jazz every Monday, 8 p.m. to midnight. Johnny Trudell will be performing with the group on Oct. 10. A jazz pianist performs at the restaurant 7-11 p.m. on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

The Bird of Paradise at 207 S. Ashley in Ann Arbor, (313) 662-8310, owned by veteran jazz artist Ron Brooks, is the quintessential musician hangout. By keeping his business aspirations distinct from his artistic intentions, Brooks has lasted a remarkable 10 years. The Bird of Paradise showcases the best in innovative local jazz, with live music performed seven nights a week.

"I would say there's a pent-up demand for jazz in this area," Brooks said. "There's not enough venues for the number of musicians. People respond well, as recently witnessed by the Montreaux festival. But it does still appeal to a very specific audience. The popularity of jazz will increase as it's exposed.

"There's a wealth of talent in this area," said Vornhagen, a saxophonist with several recordings out. "Whereas there's no place really left to play in the Detroit city limits, there are a bunch of new cafes and festivals in the suburbs that have really improved the face of jazz. I think listening to jazz is a very hip thing. The image matches the music."

On Gratiot near Grand Circus Park in Detroit, Bo-Macs, (313) 961-5152 is a throwback to bebop's halcyon days. The club regularly features Detroit's young lions of jazz in a decidedly moody setting. Seeing an act at Bomacs conjures up Baker's Keyboard Lounge in the early 1960's, when owner Clarence Baker was able to hook acts like Miles Davis or Charles Mingus on a regular basis. Some of the performers at Bomacs include the Jumpin' Jive Jazz Band and Teddy Harris Jr.

Bomacs' co-owner James McMurray is excited about the combination of young and old — performers and fans — he sees supporting jazz in Detroit.

"I think the scene is getting well," McMurray said. "People are warming up to straight mixed audiences — black, white, men, women — everything. Everybody seems to love jazz these days."

lending her distinctive voice to wide variety of musical settings.

Her voice is sweet and pure, without artifice or gimmick, and her delivery is honest and direct. She is clearly a jazz singer. A jazz feel permeates all of her work, and her singing is very hip in a way we identify with the great jazz singers. However, the range of material she chooses to interpret defies easy classification. It includes not only the standard jazz repertory, but much material drawn from pop music, R&B, blues and adult contemporary music. Expect not only the great George Gershwin and Cole Porter classics, but also a reading of Jimi Hendrix or Van Morrison, Willie Nelson or Elton John. Expect the unexpected.

In addition, Landis writes much of her own music. She is clearly a serious person who thinks and feels deeply, which lends authority to her music.

Hepler and her partner Michele Ramo who have been performing together at Phoenicia, 588 S. Woodward, in Birmingham, are taking a short break to get married.

They will be returning to the Phoenicia 6:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Oct. 13-14. Call (810) 644-3122 for information.

Like star-crossed lovers, Hepler left Livonia to perform in Italy at about the same time Ramo left his home in Italy to explore the music scene in Detroit. Fortunately for us, they eventually connected, because the music they make together is exceptional.

The result of their musical collaboration is an intriguing mix of classical, Flamenco, Brazilian and salsa music, much of it improvised in a jazz framework.

In addition to performing as a duo, Hepler and Ramo are often joined by a rhythm section and featured soloists under the banner of Ramo Group. Members of the group, including a jazz keyboardist, will be performing 6:30 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays at the Phoenicia until the newlyweds return on Oct. 13.

Hepler, a former Miss Michigan, is a classically-trained vocalist with many years of private study in addition to college training at the Livonia-based Schoolcraft College, Wayne State University, and the University of Michigan Opera Theatre.

Ramo, born in Italy, is a classically-trained violinist, and has performed extensively in Europe. He is self-taught on the classical guitar, and after hearing American jazz for the first time, began to find classical music too restrictive for his creative impulse.

Hepler had independently come to the same conclusion that classical music did not allow her to explore the full range of her creativity. She had learned Italian as part of her opera training and traveled to Italy to explore jazz singing in clubs and concerts the same time Ramo left Italy to the U.S. to study jazz guitar.

Ramo was in Detroit performing a concert at the SereNegeti Ball room when Hepler, visiting home happened to hear him. They met, found they had a musical language in common, in addition to the Italian language, and began to explore together the creative possibilities that jazz offered.

In his improvisations, Ramo uses every part of the guitar, from strumming rhythmic chords in the low register to picking high-pitched, almost electronic sounds in the high register, to drumming percussively on the hollow body with his fingers, or drumming on the strings with a metal spoon while sliding a glass over the strings to achieve a delicate, surreal sound.

Together Ramo and Hepler achieve a unique mix of musical sounds — sometimes earthy and sometimes ethereal.

Always haunting and beautiful.

■ News flash — I just learned, moments before deadline, that Leo Daignault, who like Dan Cooney is a Westland John Glenn High School graduate, will be appearing in "Miss Saigon," opening Oct. 11 at the Masonic Temple Theatre in Detroit. The show, which plays through Dec. 18, is the newest musical by Alain Boublil and Claude-Michel Schonberg, the creators of "Les Miserables."

Tickets are on sale now at the Masonic Temple Theatre box office and all Ticketmaster outlets. To charge tickets, call (810) 645-6666. For information, call (313) 832-2232.

I'll be interviewing Daignault this week. Be sure to pick up the Oct. 6 issue of "Let's Go!" for a behind-the-scenes peek at the show and more information about Daignault.

■ Sweet Lorraine's Cafe, with locations in Southfield, Madison Heights and Ann Arbor, is delighted to announce that their wine list is included under the Michigan Award of Excellence listing in the Sept. 30 issue of "Wine Spectator." Congratulations!

■ St. Bede Players will begin rehearsing G.F. Handel's "Messiah, Part 1," on Sundays beginning 2 p.m. Oct. 2 in St. Bede's Social Hall at 12 Mile and Southfield. If you are interested, call (810) 557-7245 for information. All voices are needed, and no auditions are necessary.

LET'S GO! DINING

Friendly Mitch Housey's offers good food, service

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
SPECIAL WRITER

Mitch Housey's is the kind of place where everybody knows your name. It's a warm, roomy establishment that looks like the neighborhood bar gone fancy. It just plain feels comfortable.

The restaurant, across the street from Ladbroke DRC in Livonia, on Schoolcraft between Inkster and Middlebelt, recently celebrated its 30th anniversary. Owners Mitch Housey and Beverly Feuer agree that the secret to their restaurant's longevity is simple: Maintain quality and service, and keep the prices moderate.

"We have second-generation customers," said Housey.

A solidly American menu has contributed to a loyal clientele. What's considered American eating fare these days? Certainly prime rib, and Mitch Housey's does it to perfection.

"Prime rib is our featured item. We sell more prime rib than any other independent (restaurant) in the tri-county area," said Housey. The $10.95 price tag leaves room in your wallet for desert.

But Mitch Housey's kitchen dishes up more-than dependable chicken, fish and beef entrees. Thanks to head chef Richard Posh, it produces some of the best soups around town, according to Feuer. "The soups are just excellent, unreal," she said.

"Richard makes BLT soup, cheese burger soup, minestrone, old-fashioned bean, split pea . . . I walk into the kitchen and ask 'what's the soup for the day,' and he said, 'Wait until you taste this.' "

Housey and Feuer describe their restaurant as being "supper club casual." The definition fits. The sweet, mellow sounds of the "Showcasemen" make everything go down nice and easy. The musician/vocalist group performs hits from the 1940s to the 1990s on Wednesday through Saturdays. And for those who want to burn off a few calories, there's dancing.

Housey and Feuer are very visible hosts. "We are not absentee owners," said Housey. "No question about it, we're here at least 80 hours a week."

Holidays are no exception. On Thanksgiving, for parties of six or more, they serve and carve a whole turkey, with all the trimmings, at the table.

House specialty: Mitch Housey checks out a slab of the house specialty, prime rib, that's ready to be carved and cooked.

"Between the two of us, we carve all the turkeys, and you take home what you don't eat," says Feuer.

Lawrence ("Mike") Severin, of Westland, dines at least three times a week at Mitch Housey's. The retired nurse and current hospice worker introduced himself by saying: "From coast to coast, I have a dramatic past."

But he doesn't visit Mitch Housey's for drama (unless you consider couples dipping and swaying on the dance floor dramatic). "I like the friendliness, and they have good food. If I want to eat light, I eat light. If I want to eat heavy, I eat heavy."

Severin endorsed the tuna and swordfish steaks, but added, "I always have steak on Friday." It's obvious that so do a lot of other people.

Note: You may remember Mitch's Housey's had belly dancing back in the 1970s and 1980s, unique entertainment for the time. It was a gimmick that saved them when the Jeffries Freeway was nothing more than a big ditch in front of their door. Ask them about it when you visit.

Concert features pianist

The Farmington Area Philharmonic opens its new season with "Rhapsody in Red, White and Blue,"a star-spangled salute to American music at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 30, at the North Farmington High School Auditorium, 32900 13 Mile Road, east of Farmington Road.

Tickets are $20, $12 and $8 and available at all Metrobanks, the philharmonic office at 23290 Farmington Road and at the door. For more information, call (810) 478-2075.

The concert on Friday, Sept. 30, will include Aaron Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man," Leonard Bernstein's "On the Town," George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," Samuel Barber's "Adagio for Strings," Morton Gould's "American Ballads" and James P. Johnson's "Yamekraw."

Also featured is guest soloist William Albright, a ragtime pianist and award-winning composer whom jazz-piano great Eubie Blake hailed as "one of the finest musicians I've ever known, and I've known many."

Albright is a composer and organist who teaches at the University of Michigan School of Music. He has won Fulbright and Guggenheim fellowships, two grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, and an award from the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters, among other honors.

"Rhapsody in Blue" introduced jazz to the classical music concert halls of America. Band leader Paul Whiteman's promotion of Gershwin's work made it a great hit. In fact, it overshadowed the works of other composers who wanted to follow Gershwin's lead. They included James P. Johnson, the so-called "father of stride piano," who wrote "Yamekraw," a "Rhapsody" spin-off.

Thomas "Fats" Waller performed "Yamekraw" as a soloist at Carnegie Hall in 1928.

Concertgoers will hear Albright, who helped rediscover this rarely-heard work, perform it with the Farmington Area Philharmonic.

The orchestra, conducted by Karen Nixon Lane, is the only community symphony comprised entirely of professionals and the only one conducted by a woman.

Orchestra leader: Karen Nixon Lane will lead the Farmington aREA Philharmonic Friday evening in a program of classic American compositions. It's the season opener for the orchestra.

Broadway review first-rate

BOB WEIBEL

The 68th season of the Plymouth Theatre Guild is off to a lively start with a musical revue, "The Spirit of Broadway."

The show hardly misses a beat, from the engaging opening number, "Wilkommen" (Cabaret), to the hand-clapping, curtain-call finale, "Over There," from a George M. Cohan medley.

In between there are some 25 songs that indeed capture the spirit of the Broadway musical and the performers who breathe life into the words and music.

Writer/director Francine Hachem and musical director Linda Piccoli wisely have chosen numbers that tend not to lose impact when performed out of context of the original show.

Hachem, looking vaguely like Harpo Marx, is the thread that holds the show together. As a lovable Broadway bum, she strings together jokes and tidbits about actors and various shows.

The most amazing characteristic of the show, however, is the number of uniformly good voices. No wonder Plymouth is doing two musicals this year.

"The Spirit of Broadway" Theatre: Plymouth Theatre Guild at the Water Tower Theatre on the campus of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, 41001 W. Seven Mile Road, Northville, one mile west of I-275

Curtain time: 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through Oct. 8; 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2.

Tickets: At the door, adults $10; senior citizens, students, $9. In advance, $9 adults; $8 senior citizens, students. Call (810) 349-7110.

■ REVIEW

Some of the more memorable performances include Cindy Cooper's "Somewhere" (from "West Side Story"), Sue Coulter's theatrical rendition of the title tune from "Cabaret" and Amy Law's beautiful interpretation of "Aquarius" from "Hair."

Law and Coulter also combined again with a fully textured and moving performance of the "The Movie in My Mind" from "Miss Saigon."

Eight-year-old Jodie Westerman, already an experienced performer in commercials and industrial films, sparkles in a dance-pantomime of "Broadway Baby" from "Follies."

Karen Groves is gorgeous in voice and costume with "Don't Cry for Me Argentina" ("Evita") and "What I Did for Love" ("A Chorus Line.")

The whole company gives an earthy, dazzling performance in "Master of the House" ("Les Miserables.") And Lisa Brandee, Linda Piccoli and Cindy Cooper have great fun with the stripper number, "You Gotta Have A Gimmick" from "Gypsy."

Lights, costumes and scenery all work — as do the musicians. Margaret Racer (piano), Sam Ferguson (keyboards) and Dean Aronoff (percussion) are first rate.

Bob Weibel of Westland is a freelance writer, who has spent more than 20 years in community theater as a director, designer and performer.

Great ballplayer answers the 'Scout's' prayers

The scout was praying for a miracle.

What he got was Nebraska.

Al Percolo is the scout who'd do anything to sign a prospect. Unfortunately, things weren't going his way. Al found his career heading south — all the way to Mexico.

But after discovering Steve Nebraska — who could be the greatest ballplayer who ever lived — Al thinks he's back on top in the story of two guys who needed each other.

"The Scout," opening Thursday at metro Detroit movie theaters, stars Albert Brooks, Brendan Fraser and Dianne Wiest.

The film is directed by Michael Ritchie. Ritchie's directorial credits include "Downhill Racer," "The Candidate," "THe Bad News Bears," and "Semi-Tough."

■ PREVIEW

"I've directed a number of films that involved sports, and with each one it was suggested that I say that they were no sports films. Well, I can tell you now, they were sports films.

"But "The Scout" really isn't. It's a wonderful relationship story, like "The Odd Couple."

The film was filmed in Zempoala, Mexico, near Veracruz.

Of co-star Brooks, Ritchie says: "I think he's the funniest person in America."

Producer Albert s. Ruddy noted the remarkable chemistry between Brooks and Fraser, his young co-star.

"Everyone commented on how fearless Brendan was with his performance," Ritchie said.

Rounding out the film is Academy Award winner Dianne Wiest, who plays a psychologist curious to determine the roots of Nebraska's unorthodox behavior.

The movie used Yankee Stadium as a World Series backdrop and includes a number of surprising guest appearances, from Yankees boss George Steinbrenner to singer Tony Bennett. There's a host of baseball personalities as well: Steve Garvey, Reggie Smith and Bobby Murcer.

Brooks made his acting debut in "Taxi Driver." Other roles were in the movies, "Broadcast News," and "Private Benjamin," among others, and writing directing and starring in "Real Life," followed by "Real Life" and "Lost in America."

Brendan Fraser's credits include "Air Heads," "With Honors," and "School Ties."

Weist won an Oscar for Best Supporting Actress for "Hannah and Her Sisters," and also appeared in Allen's "The Purple Rose of Cairo," "Radio Days," and the upcoming "Bullets Over Broadway." Her other credits include "Little Man Tate," "Parenthood," and "Edward Scissorhands."

Screenwriter Andrew Bergman's credits include "Fletch," "Honeymoon in Vegas," and "Blazing Saddles."

"Scout" is rated PG-13, some material may not be suitable for pre-teenagers.

'Only You' can enter contests to win movie tickets, dinner for 2

"Only You," a romantic comedy about a girl who is given the name of her spouse to be by a fortune teller with an Ouija board opens at metro Detroit movie theaters on Friday. But you can see a sneak preview 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 5, at the GCC Novi Town Center by being one of the first 40 readers to call (313) 953-2015. Listen carefully to the message — leave your name, address, including street, city and zip code. I'll mail passes to the first 40 readers who call me!

There's a second part to our contest. Write and tell us how fate brought you and your special someone together. The winner will receive a certificate for dinner for two at Too Chez Restaurant in Novi. The runner up will win his and hers "Only You" T-shirts.

How did fate bring you and your true love together? Were you introduced by a friend who thought correctly that you'd be perfect for one another?

Send entries to Keely Wygonik, editor, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150 by Friday, Oct. 7. You can fax your entry by calling (313) 591-7279. Winners will be notified by phone.

Faith Corvatch (Marisa Tomei) has always been what you might call a hopeful romantic. When she was only 11, Faith asked her Ouija board to spell out the name of the one man in the world who was meant for her.

The answer — D-A-M-O-N B-R-A-D-L-E-Y — someone she had never heard of. Again, at age 14, she posed the same question to a carnival fortuneteller. Mystically, magically, the fortuneteller repeated the Ouija board's answer.

■ CONTEST

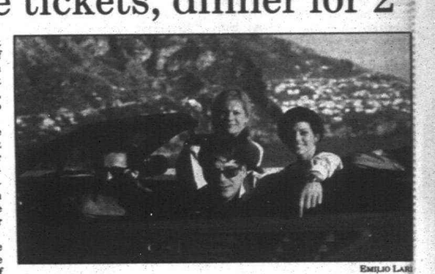
For years, that mysterious name would constitute the full extent of what Faith knew about her supposed soul mate.

Now, just days before her safe, practical marriage to a podiatrist, Faith receives a call from her fiance's old school friend, who phones with best wishes while changing planes on his way to Venice, Italy. The gentleman caller's name? Damon Bradley.

He actually exists! Having finally discovered that there really is a Damon Bradley, Faith is determined to get at least one glimpse of the man who owns that fateful name before the gates of matrimony close in on her. With Kate (Bonnie Hunt) her best friend and sister-in-law, in tow, Faith leaps onto the next plane to pursue him to Italy.

There, she bumps into someone who appears to be Mr. Right, but who turns out to be Mr. Peter Wright (Robert Downey, Jr.) instead. An American shoe salesman who is instantly smitten with Faith, Peter becomes the missing link in her search for her other half.

From the Venetian pearl of the Adriatic to the rocky cliffs of the Amalfi coast, Faith's pursuit of the man of her dreams becomes a romantic adventure in the most uncharted territory of all — true love!



EMILIO LARI

Quiz Show' entertains, moralizes

JOHN MONAGHAN

"Quiz Show" poses an intriguing age-old question: how much fortune and fame would it take for an essentially honest man to go against everything he believes in? Robert Redford has the answer.

Redford has the added film as director, a dazzling example of how a Hollywood movie can entertain and teach valuable lessons at the same time.

The film is based on the actual scandal surrounding "Twenty One," a wildly popular 1950s TV quiz show that pitted contestants against each other in sound proof booths. Though the show made a huge production out of keeping the questions secret, answers were routinely fed to contestants before the show.

Herbert Stempel (John Turturro), a longtime winner whose ratings are slipping, is shocked when asked to take a dive on an embarrassingly easy question. Charles Van Doren (Ralph Fiennes), handsome member of a prominent literary family, now takes the top spot.

■ REVIEW

Stempel, who has lost most of his winnings to fly-by-night investments, won't play the good loser. He threatens to blow the whistle on the "Twenty One" producers unless they give him his own panel show.

Some have suggested that Redford lets Van Doren off too easily, that the WASPy assistant professor was far more calculating than shown here. Redford paints him as an honest and insecure man in the shadow of his acclaimed poet father (Paul Scofield).

When he needs to justify his actions, he considers the interest in education that has resulted from his fame.

He certainly comes off better than Stempel, shown here as jealous not only of Van Doren's winnings, but also his WASPy charm. Even the federal investigator (Rob Morrow) gets sidetracked by Van Doren, who invites him to his family's idyllic Connecticut summer house, successfully sidestepping questions about the case.

Fiennes (he played the main Nazi in "Schindler's List") and Turturro both log Oscar-caliber performances. Yet it's Morrow, best known as the neurotic Fleischman on "Northern Exposure," who is the film's biggest surprise, despite his sometimes marble-mouthed Kennedy-style accent.

"Quiz Show" actually names names, quite amazing since most of the major players in the scandal are still alive. Turturro reportedly spent countless hours with Stempel to capture his whiny nasal voice. He's especially good in front of the grand jury, when he demonstrates the ways "Twenty One" producers coached him how to build suspense before answering a question.

Though hard to fathom by today's cynical standards, the quiz show scandal, like the Black Sox and Watergate, shattered people's faith in an American institution. Redford's "Quiz Show" brilliantly captures that atmosphere of trust and betrayal.

LET'S GO! TRAVEL

Frankenmuth puts a lot of 'oompah-pah' into Ocktoberfest

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

While it probably isn't likely, you could argue that Disneyland was inspired by Frankenmuth, Mich. Each was built in the middle of nowhere and has become a favorite destination for families and bus tours.

The city of Frankenmuth, in fact, is the top tourist destination in Michigan, and Zehnder's, is the eighth largest independent restaurant in the United States. Each attraction is scrupulously clean.

The important difference is that Frankenmuth, located off I-75 midway between Flint and Saginaw, is a "real place."

Frankenmuth's image as a Little Bavaria began with 15 German-Lutheran missionaries who came to the site from the province of Franken, in Bavaria.

Muth means "courage" in German, and so the name Frankenmuth means "Courage of the Franconians." The 4,400 residents of Frankenmuth take great pride in preserving their German heritage, and the German language was maintained almost exclusively in homes and businesses well into the 1900's.

And what could be more typically German than Oktoberfest? Frankenmuth celebrated its first Octoberfest in 1989, dedicated to the reunification of Germany. The 1994 Oktoberfest will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 7-9. For more information, call 1-800-Fun-Town or (517) 652-6106.

The burgermeister (mayor) of Frankenmuth and a representative from Gunzenhausen, Germany, Frankenmuth's sister city, are among those who preside over the ribbon-cutting ceremony. This event is immediately followed by the tapping of the first keg of Oktoberfest beer.

Dancing and German food are found in the festival tent, accompanied by the beat of toe-tapping oom-pah-pah music. Have a bratwurst, a soft German pretzel fresh from the oven, and an ice-cold Frankenmuth beer. Then take a stroll downtown.

Frankenmuth's Main Street, a delight of authentic Bavarian architecture, is gaily dressed in fall blooms, and the town offers a variety of diversions. Let your budget dictate your activities: many attractions are free.

Take a 45-minute cruise on the "Riverboat Queen," a paddlewheeler that takes visitors on a tour past Heritage Park and the longest covered bridge in the United States, through picturesque farmlands.

The Frankenmuth Candlyland and Cheese Factory gives away samples of cheese and sausage. Outside is a big cow statue, where you can get your picture taken.

Outside the Bavarian Inn, you can see an animated show on a great big German clock with wooden figures, called a glockenspiel. Seven times a day, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., the figures act out "The Pied Piper of Hamlin."

If you just go nuts at the sight of Christmas ornaments, don't miss Bonner's Christmas Wonderland — the world's largest Christmas store — over 6,000 styles of ornaments.

The Zellinger Wool Company is one of only about 10 U.S. mills that still processes raw fleece into a finished product. Tours show workers who wash, spin, stitch and weave wool into quilts, wall hangings and other goods.

Start with a clear conscience: You can easily walk off the beer and the brat as you visit over 100 shops and galleries that Frankenmuth offers. No wonder it attracts over 3 million visitors a year.

Among the repeat visitors are West Bloomfield residents Penny and Tom Hogan.

"We enjoy a weekend away from home that combines the fun of Frankenmuth with the hectic shopping experience at Birch Run," Penny Hogan said.

"Frankenmuth is a wonderful place to relax; it's like a trip to another country, without the jet lag," she added. "Tom and I stay at the Bavarian Inn, a lovely place, where we can sit by the indoor pool and relax. We don't do a lot. We walk across the covered bridge and then we stroll around and look in the shops."

The Hogans collect Christmas tree ornaments, and this summer they bought ornaments featuring Central Michigan and Michigan State, where their daughter and son are students.

"After breakfast on a Sunday morning, we stop at Birch Run on the way home," Penny Hogan said. "It's just about a 20-minute drive from Frankenmuth, and you can find almost anything you want at discount prices. It's so large that there are shuttle buses to take you from one end to the other."

Parent's volunteer work earns recognition from school board

Former Field Elementary parent and current East Middle School parent Linda Morgan was honored at the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting Monday for her volunteer services at Field.

The "I Care" committee and the board of education established the Extra Miler Volunteers in Public Schools Award in 1991 to recognize outstanding volunteers in the Plymouth-Canton district.

"Linda is always bright and cheerful and willing to help in any way she can; she is a person you can call at the last minute and she'll be there," said LeeAnne Young, former Field PTO president. "Linda has the welfare of all students at heart."

Linda's many volunteer activities include serving as PTO vice-president in 1992-93 and PTO treasurer in 1993-94; library book fair coordinator; working on the French Back-to-Back program; and helping in the classroom.

She also has worked on the playground committee and on the sign for the front of the school. Morgan has helped in the classroom and has worked on popcorn sales.

"Several times a week, Linda was in our building helping in numerous ways," said Marion Heath, Field media specialist.

Linda says it's important to be part of her children's school activities. "I feel if I'm involved at school that it shows my children that education is very important," she said.

Morgan was presented with a framed resolution, a volunteer pin, a gift certificate donated by the Canton Mountain Jack's restaurant and tickets to a production of the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Players.

Bassist Dirnt doing just fine

Green Day bassist Mike Dirnt flipped up his lip and showed off his damaged teeth backstage at Blossom Music Center in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, on Saturday, Sept. 10, and said he's feeling much better. Dirnt sustained arm injuries and damaged three teeth in mid-August after Woodstock security men mistook him for a crazed fan and tackled him during Green Day's set.

Wrapped in a boxing fraternity jacket that he received as a gift, the jovial and talkative Dirnt said maybe he should have told the fraternity to keep the jacket and give him a few lessons instead.

Sebadoh's Lou Barlow will journey into the world of films once the current leg of his band's tour ends. Next month he's going to work on a soundtrack for a Martin Scorcese-backed, but "fairly small budget" art film, he said.

"The kid who wrote the script really likes Sebadoh a lot. He called me and said they really wanted me," said Barlow, a former member of Dinosaur Jr. about the collaboration.

He's not sure how wide the film will be distributed, but it should be out early next year.

Lemonheads' drummer David Ryan also has a new project — the fuzzy-guitared pop band aptly named Fuzzy. The band is Boston-based and lead by a female leaving the band wide open to Juliana Hatfield comparisons.

"The ladies seem to bum out about that," said Fuzzy member Winston Braman.

A British music magazine oddly called them "Boston's cutest female Dinosaur Jr. tribute band" which is a coincidence in itself since Braman grew up with lead singer J. Mascis.

"We would skate together a lot and ski," he said.

The band recently played St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit, but look for them to return later this year.

Michigan will be well-represented at the second annual Independent Label Festival in Chicago Friday and Saturday, Sept. 30 to Oct. 1. Static Network and Records acts Forge and Skinhorse will share a bill at Chicago's Dome Room on Friday, with a new project by ex-Ministry members called "Drag."

Big Block, Forehead Stew, Crossed Wire and Bent Lucy, all signed to Detroit's Rustbelt Records, will perform a Rustbelt showcase during the festival. Botfly and the DT's, both of East Lansing, are also slated to play.

- Jeff Hunt: drums, percussion, background vocals
- Paul Smith: bass, background vocals

B&W art slugged The Have Nots goes here

Release:
10-song CD "The Have Nots"

The Dearborn-based power pop trio, which includes Farmington Hills native Paul Smith, was one of six bands chosen to participate in this year's Ticketmaster/Musician Magazine Soundcheck contest, the competition that tossed The Verve Pipe into a virtual bidding war among record companies. Veterans of The Gear and the Love Kings, The Have Nots take their Beatles and Tom Waits influences and blend it into an almost ethereal-voiced version of the Replacements. When writing music for The Have Nots and himself, lead singer Dean Olkowski said he likes to stray from the typical verse-chorus-verse pop format: "I like to take the typical pop song format and just kind of break it in half like some sort of train wreck or something where it's not so predictable. Even in doing that, I still come up with something that's a little off kilter."

Catch the band Thursday, Oct. 6, at 3-D, 1815 N. Main St., Royal Oak, (810) 589-3344; Friday, Oct. 21, with Moisture at Finney's Pub, 3965 Woodward Ave., Detroit, (313) 831-8070; Saturday, Oct. 22, at Impound, 17320 Harper, Detroit, (313) 884-9441; and Saturday, Nov. 5, at Lili's, 2930 Jacob, Hamtramck, (313) 875-6555. For more information about the band, write to The Have Nots, 6501 Steadman, Dearborn, MI 48126, or call (313) 945-0498.

Standing Up: Consolidated doesn't hide its political beliefs, rather it literally wears them on its collective sleeve when it performs.

Consolidated: A graphic game

Using graphic videotapes and lyrics, Consolidated is trying to change the face of rock music. But standing up for what they believe isn't boding well for the band with some fans and bands.

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

A Consolidated show is no fun night out at a club.

TV screens broadcast "graphic videos of subjects that are important" to Consolidated. Political statements are interspersed with songs.

They chew up and spit out mainstream viewpoints. To them, eating meat is disgusting. Violence against and the exploitation of women is inexcusable. Animal testing is despicable.

To Consolidated moshing is some kind of stupid, violent male ritual that the band doesn't condone.

"It's just plain stupid to look at," said drummer Philip Steir.

To prove their point, the band mocks the martyrs by showing a videotape of a bunch of naked guys dancing on a beach before breaking into the song "Typical Male." If the shirtless, sweaty, dirty men still mosh, the band stops the music, stands back, and watches the freak show.

Lead by composer/keyboard player Mark Pistel, Consolidated's antimoshing, anti-gun, anti-violence viewpoints don't bode well with some fans and bands. Courtney Love's band Hole had reservations about going on after Consolidated's multi-media barrage.

It was a hard pill for Irish-American rappers House of Pain to swallow as well. The trio had enough of the band after member Adam Sherburne made disparaging remarks about the United States on July 4 and kicked them off the tour. This happened even after House of Pain was made aware of the band's politics, Steir said.

"We're against fascism," Steir said in response to House of Pain's actions and contradicting a popular rumor about the band. "They (House of Pain) were confused and didn't understand. They didn't even have the nerve to face us. They sent the promoters over while they hid in their hotel room." (House of Pain was unavailable for comment.)

Standing up for what they believe is right hasn't paid off for Consolidated. Sales of their latest release "Business of Punishment" on London Records as well as previous albums on Nettwerk have suffered. If they hadn't signed with the Polygram-backed London Records, the band would have broken up.

"We couldn't afford to make records anymore," Steir explained. "If it wasn't for London, we would not be a band."

Now, even if "Business of Punishment" doesn't sell, they can still pay their rent, he said.

He's quick to add that Consolidated has by no means "sold out" by signing to a major label. He said he realizes that Polygram is backed by the same "gangster" money that supports many other labels.

On "Business of Punishment," the band has replaced its techno/dance sound with funk-laden grooves and pummeling drums which provide the backdrop for their self-proclaimed preachy lyrics. It graphically delves into issues like pornography and prostitution ("No Answer for a Dancer"), abortion rights ("Born of a Woman" and "Butyric Acid"), AIDS ("Today Is My Birthday") and capital punishment (title track).

The whole Consolidated schtick isn't something that's been contrived to generate press. The die-hard vegetarians live the part. Steir produced the In Defense of Animals benefit album and speaks to children's groups about animal rights. Sherburne volunteers for Women's Crisis Line in his new hometown of Portland, Ore. All of this is melded into their show.

"When you see our show, be prepared to be pounded on the head with our opinions . . . It will change the way you perceive a rock show."

Consolidated performs along with MC 900 Foot Jesus and Spoonman at 7 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2, at Industry, 15 S. Saginaw, Pontiac. Tickets are $10 in advance; $12 at the door. Must be 18 to enter. For more information, call (810) 334-1999.

And the winners are . . .

Quick with the telephone, the first five callers on the Consolidated contest line were Lance Pellow and Bryan Sturdy, both of Canton, Suzanne Freedman of Hazel Park, Jeff Craig of Livonia and Tony Voletti of Westland.

They've won copies of "Hear and Now," a CD sampler of Consolidated's previously released material, and songs from their latest album "Business of Punishment."

'Yeah,' they packed the place

Obviously inundating the airwaves wasn't sufficient enough publicity for Collective Soul. So while they were in town to open for Aerosmith at The Palace of Auburn Hills, they decided to collect a little more by playing an acoustic show at Harmony House in Farmington Hills Sept. 24.

More than 200 people packed the Orchard Lake Road store to hear lead singer Ed Roland's trademark "yeah" up close and personal. The crowd didn't hear the song "Shine," which catapulted the band into an overnight success. (Maybe Collective Soul is tired of hearing it, too.) Afterward, the band greeted fans and signed autographs.

Later in the afternoon, Collective Soul — which also includes guitarist Dean Roland, lead guitarist Ross Childress, bassist Will Turpin and drummer Shane Evans — traveled to The Palace where they played an acoustic set in the parking lot before heading to the stage.

Collective Soul, natives of Stockbridge, Ga., was only signed to Atlantic Records in mid-February. Atlantic released Collective Soul's album "Hints, Allegations and Things Left Unsaid" in March, and the first video/single "Shine" was immediately grabbed by MTV and thrown into heavy rotation. Since then the album has sold more than a million copies.

If you're yearning for more Collective Soul trivia, the band got its name from Ayn Rand's book "The Fountainhead."

Lions defense roars

The Canton Lions varsity football team got a second-quarter touchdown and a two-point placement kick from Bill Wanniger, and then used a tough defense to defeat the Westland Comets 8-7 Sunday at Eastern Michigan University.

A Comet drive late in the game was thwarted when the Lions' Brandon Evans intercepted a pass with 2:30 remaining, allowing the Lions to run out the clock. Mike Klimek also recovered a fumble to stop another Comet drive and the defense stopped the Comets in the opening quarter at the 5-yard line.

The Lions' junior varsity continued its winning ways, blanking the Comets 20-0. Dean Shirkman, Archie Kinney and Chris Trott each scored TDs, Trott's coming on a 30-yard interception return — one of four Lion pick-offs. Russell Scott, Lance Dethloff and Sean Mahoney had the others.

Despite several strong efforts, the Lion freshmen fell to the Comets 20-0.

Steelers stopped

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity managed just a touchdown run by Richard Stankov in losing to the Farmington Rockets 26-6 Sunday.

The Steelers' junior varsity was more successful, posting its third-straight win, this time by an 18-7 margin over the Rockets. The Rockets scored on their first possession, but the Steelers answered immediately with a 12-yard run by Andy Kocoloski and a 1-yard plunge by Ian Winter. Kocoloski, who finished with 142 yards rushing, capped the scoring with a 62-yard TD run, and the Steeler defense limited the Rockets to just 12 yards after their opening drive.

The Steelers' freshmen also posted a win, 12-7 over the Rockets Sunday. The Steeler touchdowns came on the final series of the first half, on a 16-yard scramble by quarterback Brad LaVallee, and on the first series of the second half, on a 20-yard interception return by Justin Carson. The Steeler freshmen are also 3-0.

Canton claims division crown

■ The match was the first this season for either side that carried with it something significant. The winner of the Canton-Churchill soccer meeting would advance to the conference championship. That honor belongs to Canton.

By C.J. Risak
Staff Writer

Livonia Churchill needed to use its speed and aggressive, attacking style to neutralize Plymouth Canton. The Chargers failed to do so.

Canton needed to use its speed and aggressiveness to keep constant pressure on Churchill. The Chiefs did.

The result: three goals for Canton, none for Churchill in Wednesday's showdown at Churchill. And a Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division championship for the Chiefs, who are now assured of advancing to meet Livonia Stevenson in the WLAA title match Oct. 19.

The Chiefs dominated play in the first half, but had nothing to show for it — until the last half-minute.

That's when Graham Wilk flicked a pass from midfield down the right side. Chad Dale chased it down and angled a shot toward the net, where keeper Bryan Stramecki was waiting. But the ball went through his hands, and with 25 seconds left Canton led 1-0.

That changed the tempo of the game, and that aided the Chiefs. "We had been playing well, but just playing a step over them in the first half," said Canton coach Don Smith. "But when they stepped it up in the second half, we did, too."

Which was trouble for Churchill because, whatever Churchill tried, Canton responded to. With 24:24 remaining, Robert Gumber's throw-in was knocked out to Wilk, who one-timed it into the net for a 2-0 advantage.

Any lingering Charger hopes were extinguished three minutes later. Stramecki was caught at midfield, trying to clear a ball. He failed, and Canton's Evan Sabourin chipped it over the backpedaling Churchill keeper, increasing Canton's cushion to three goals.

The shutout was the fifth straight for Canton. George Tomasso was in the net for the shutout.

2 major victories have Canton surging

By Brad Emons

Not that the wheels had ever fallen off, but the Plymouth Canton girls basketball team definitely appears to be back on track.

The Lady Chiefs rebounded in a big way after falling last Thursday to rival Plymouth Salem, gaining a 39-28 Western Lakes Activities Association win Tuesday at Livonia Stevenson.

■ BASKETBALL

That came on the heels of an upset 56-41 triumph Saturday at home over previously unbeaten Flint Powers, one of the state's top-ranked teams in Class B.

Holding the host Spartans to one field goal in 18 attempts during the second half, Canton went on to outscore Stevenson 22-7 after trailing 21-17 at intermission.

Both teams are now 4-3 overall and 1-1 in the WLAA.

"I'm really pleased with this group," Canton coach Bob Blohm said. "Even though we lost some games, I have to remind myself this is a young team and we've played a good schedule."

Salem hands Huron 1st loss

A strong first half earned Plymouth Salem a big lead, but the Rocks had to withstand an Ann Arbor Huron second-half rally to post a 48-43 girls basketball victory Tuesday at Salem.

The win was the third in a row for the Rocks after suffering three straight setbacks. They are now 5-3 overall. The loss was the first of the season after six wins for Huron.

"It was a very nice victory," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "They hit three threes in the fourth quarter and one in the third, so on the three-point shot we broke down a little bit, and we didn't do a good job taking care of the ball.

"But when it got down to the last three minutes, we did a great job."

Salem led 12-7 after one quarter and 32-17 at the half. But the River Rats slowly closed the gap, to 40-27 after three quarters and to within three in the fourth quarter.

Kelly Lukasik and Karen Gundry paced the Rocks with 10 points apiece. Nicole Van Hees, Shellye Sills and Amanda Abraham each scored six, with Abraham grabbing seven rebounds and Sills six.

Kristie Bilbie's 15 points was best for Huron. Tasha Franklin had 14.

Last Saturday, Salem again utilized a balanced attack to again defeat a team that had been

Pitcher gets Team USA tryout

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Brian Paluk, a sophomore pitcher on the Saginaw Valley State University baseball team, will have an extended fall season.

And he won't mind a bit.

Brian Paluk

Paluk, currently participating in fall practice with the Cardinals, has been chosen to try out for Team USA the first week of November. The tryout will be held at the Cleveland Indians' training camp in Homestead, Fla.

Paluk, who lettered for both the baseball and basketball teams at SVSU last season, is the only NCAA Division II player in the nation to be selected for Team USA's tryout.

The Plymouth resident and Redford Catholic Central graduate is one of 72 freshmen and sophomores invited to try out for the team that will play in the World Championships next summer. Paluk is hoping the tryout will help his chances of making the 1996 Olympic team.

"I didn't expect it at all," said Paluk, recalling his phone conversation with SVSU coach Walt Head who told him the good news. "He said, 'Hold on to your seat.' I was totally shocked."

SVSU has sent some players to the major leagues, including former Tiger pitcher Roger Mason. The Cardinals also were proud of a former football player, linebacker Eugene Marve, who played 12 years in the National Football League, but this is the biggest honor bestowed on an athlete while attending SVSU.

The school held a press conference last Wednesday to announce the invitation and Paluk also has been interviewed on local television shows and was featured on radio at

Ocelots' 2nd-half rally keeps them undefeated

■ SC SOCCER

Good defense doesn't always win.

That's what Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team proved in one of its tougher Region 12 matches thus far this season, when it traveled to Cuyahoga Metro CC and came away with a 4-0 triumph Saturday.

Cuyahoga, which has been the Ocelots' toughest challenger within the region the past couple of seasons, was content to rely on its defense. That strategy worked — for a while.

The game was scoreless at the half, but, according to SC coach Van Dimitriou, "We made some adjustments at the half. We put an extra forward up because they were playing defensively way back."

The shots-on-goal totals were an indicator of the kind of game it was: 24 for the Ocelots, zero for Cuyahoga.

SC broke the scoreless deadlock with a goal from Fadi Bazzi, on a pass from Emo Chiaburu. Mo Hijazi got the next two (both from Bazzi); Bazzi finished the scoring, assisted by Hijazi.

The win pushed SC's record to 4-0 in the region, 7-0 overall.

SC women

The Schoolcraft College women's soccer team journeyed to the Carolinas for a pair of games last weekend, and returned with nothing to show for it.

The Lady Ocelots were pounded twice, losing 5-0 to Anderson College (Anderson, S.C.) Friday and 5-1 to Brevard College (Brevard, N.C.) Sunday. The defeats evened their record at 4-4-1.

The only Ocelot goal of the trip was scored by Erin Stacherski (from Livonia Churchill), from Colleen Connell (Plymouth Canton). It trimmed the Brevard lead to 4-1.

Brevard got two goals from Sarah Milona and one each from Tyann Blissett, Jennifer Hill and Jennifer Williams.

The play of keeper Jenny Mansfield (Redford Union) was erratic. Although she made several sparkling saves — including stopping two breakaways against Anderson — 10 of the 28 shots she faced during the weekend ended up in the net.

Last Wednesday, the Lady Ocelots traveled to Ypsilanti for a match with Eastern Michigan. SC got the victory, 3-0.

All three goals came in the last 25 minutes of the match. Amy Marcoe (Livonia Stevenson), Andrea Zawislak (Churchill) and Connell each scored goals; Holly Kimble (Stevenson) had two assists and Stacherski got another. Mansfield posted the shutout.

Madonna earns its 1st wins

The school's longest winning streak in soccer was ended by an official's call Monday at Siena Heights.

OK, the streak was a modest two games. But it was an important two games — they were the first ever soccer wins for Madonna.

It came to an abrupt halt Monday when, with eight minutes left in what had been a scoreless match, an official awarded Siena Heights (4-6 overall) a penalty kick after a Saint was taken down in the penalty area. Rich Frew converted, accounting for the only goal of the game.

Four minutes later, Madonna keeper Dan McEvilly (from Livonia Churchill) was issued a red card for rough play and ejected. Shortly after that, midfielder Jason Hazinski (Redford Thurston) got his second yellow card, which put him out of the game, too. Both also had to sit out Wednesday's match at Adrian.

That meant the Crusaders had to finish the Siena Heights game with nine players — making a comeback nearly impossible.

Still, they did come close, pounding one shot off the crossbar. Earlier in the game, they hit the post and dribbled another shot from point-blank range right at the Saints' keeper.

Madonna was already playing short two starters and without their head coach, Pete Alexander. Alexander and midfielder Christian Emert (Walled Lake Central), the team's leading scorer, were both ejected in Saturday's 4-0 victory at Lawrence Institute of Technology. Alexander was red-carded for disputing a call and Emert received two yellow cards.

Also missing against Siena was midfielder Joe Kinnear, who injured his lower leg against LIT. It's uncertain how long Kinnear will be out of action.

The loss to the Saints left Madonna at 2-4.

The Crusaders struck quickly in their win at LIT Saturday, scoring three times in the first half. Nick Matovski (Livonia Stevenson), assisted by Nate Stovall (Schoolcraft College), opened the scoring; Stovall made it 2-0. Chris Gajewski, who was a catcher for Madonna's baseball team, netted the third goal (Chris Gossett assisting).

Emert capped the scoring, assisted by Stovall. McEvilly was in goal to record the school's first-ever shutout.

The win was Madonna's second in a row using a new formation — five defenders, four midfielders and one striker. It worked well in its debut, a 2-1 triumph at Tri-State University (Angola, Ind.) Sept. 19.

"We pulled a lot of things together," said Alexander. "It's more like using a defensive lineup in an offensive pattern. I think it really confused them. They didn't know who they should mark."

That's because different midfielders would make runs up the wings. The new setup resulted in two first-half goals against Tri-State — Emert getting the first, from Stovall, and Stovall getting the second, from Emert. Tri-State closed to within a goal on a penalty kick with 15 minutes left.

McEvilly was in goal for the win, making seven saves.

"We had other opportunities, we just didn't take advantage," said Alexander. "Which has been our problem."

But there was no doubting the Madonna coach's optimism.

"We've got some talent here," he said. "We could easily be 4-2 instead of 2-4."

Crusaders shift coaches

There has been a shuffling in the ranks of command in Madonna University's fledgling soccer program.

Robert Mazur, a Polish emigre who was hired last December to coach the first-year Fighting Crusaders, has stepped aside — somewhat. Citing personal reasons, Mazur will remain with the program as an assistant.

Taking his position will be Pete Alexander, formerly one of Mazur's assistant coaches. A graduate of Livonia Churchill and Central Michigan, Alexander had been handling many of the head coach's responsibilities anyway.

Among those was talking with the media. Mazur's limited grasp of the English language prompted Alexander to handle that chore.

Now he'll do even more.

Dave Hebestreit, also a Churchill grad, and Mazur will now be Alexander's assistants.

The change met with the approval of Madonna athletic director Ray Sommers. According to Sommers, both Mazur and Alexander worked out the details of the switch before bringing it to Sommers.

"I find it a very workable arrangement," said Sommers.

For how long? "It's permanent for the remainder of this season," Sommers answered. "After that we'll have to reevaluate, in regards to Robert's situation.

"I don't think Robert will return as the head coach, but I would like to retain him as an assistant. And Pete is very capable."

Prior to his job at Madonna, Alexander's coaching experience included several successful club teams and last fall as an assistant for University of Michigan's women's club team, which finished fourth in the nation.

Through Monday's match at Siena Heights, Madonna was 2-4.

— C.J. Risak

Note: Madonna now has two home games on its schedule, and there's a possibility of a third. Because the field the Crusaders planned to use for home matches, at Livonia Ladywood, is still under construction, all this season's games were originally scheduled to be on the road.

But a makeshift field has been laid out near the dormitory; Madonna plays there against LIT Oct. 6 and Tri-State Oct. 17. Both are at 4 p.m.

Crusaders split pair, but fall in rankings

■ VOLLEYBALL

It was sort of an up-and-down week for Madonna University's volleyball team. The Lady Crusaders won two of their three matches, losing only to NCAA Division II Saginaw Valley State in five games, at SVSU.

So, considering they also defeated Concordia 15-10, 15-1, 15-10 last Thursday at Madonna and Indiana University-Purdue University-Indianapolis 15-13, 15-7, 10-15, 15-11 Saturday at SVSU, the week was successful.

Except in the NAIA national rankings. The Crusaders, 9-3 overall, dropped from fourth in the nation to 17th, and had teams with worse records move ahead of them.

For the second consecutive week, a Madonna player was named NAIA player of the week for the Great Lakes Region's independent schools. The honor went to sophomore outside hitter Kelly McCausland (from Redford Union) for last week; the week before, senior outside hitter Mo Paulin (Livonia/Farmington Hills Mercy) earned the award.

In Saturday's win over IUPUI, Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) led the attack with 12 kills. McCausland had eight, Paulin seven and Erin Comment and Marci Laurencelle contributed five apiece. Laura Fisher (Wayne Memorial) had 36 assists-to-kills.

The defense was paced by Paulin with 19 digs, Julie Wood (Schoolcraft College) with 13 and Erin Gregoire with 10.

Paulin's 16 kills topped Madonna in its 15-13, 15-7, 11-15, 13-15, 15-10 loss to SVSU Friday. She also had 18 digs. McCausland collected 12 kills, 13 digs and seven assists; Martin had 11 kills, five assists and two solo blocks; Wood had nine kills and 15 digs; Fisher had 42 assists; Erin Comment had eight kills; and Gregoire had 12 digs.

The victory over Concordia was led by Wood, with 12 kills; Paulin, with 11; Martin, with nine; McCausland, with seven; and Comment, with six. Fisher had 35 assists.

Canton boys, girls gain top honors at Invitational

■ RUNNING

What a confidence builder.

There's no way Plymouth Canton's boys cross country team would miss the Monroe Jefferson Invitational, held at Sterling State Park. Last Saturday, the Chiefs edged Wyandotte Roosevelt to collect their third-straight Jefferson title.

Canton scored 45 points to lead the 12-team field. Roosevelt was next with 47, followed by Belleville with 62.

"I saw Wyandotte at the West Bloomfield Invitational, so I knew they'd be good," said Canton coach Mike Spitz. "I knew it would be close, but I'm happy with the outcome. I'm pleased they rose to the challenge."

Brian Crocket led the Chiefs, finishing third overall in 16:57. All five Canton runners placed in the top 14. Next was Casey Moothart, fifth (17:07), followed by Ian Bedford, 10th (17:28); Sanja Sharwa, 13th (17:42); and Ryan Portrey, 14th (17:52).

Last Thursday, the Chiefs opened their Western Lake Activities Association dual-meet season by outrunning Livonia Franklin, 15-48 at Cass Benton. Canton took the top five places, with Crocket finishing first (17:22), Bedford second (17:24), Moothart third (18:02), Sharwa fourth (18:08) and Portrey fifth (18:12).

The Canton girls were even more dominant at Saturday's Monroe Jefferson Invitational, winning the eight-team meet easily with 44 points. In second was Woodhaven with 88, followed by Belleville (91), Lincoln Park (102), Livonia Churchill (138), Jefferson (140), Dearborn (146) and Roosevelt (151).

Becky Wolfrom paced the Chiefs by finishing first overall in 20:12. Beth Knight was third (21:12) and Meghan Barresi was seventh (21:31). Canton's other scorers were Jamie Vergari, 17th (22:15) and Tracey Cavin, 18th (22:16).

"It was our first win at a meet of that size," said Canton coach George Przygodski. "I thought they ran very competitively. Lincoln Park was third at the Schoolcraft Invitational, so I thought they'd have a pretty fair team. Our goal was to win the meet."

That goal was met.

Rocks make quick work of Harrison

■ SOCCER

Over the last few games, there's been a definite trend in Plymouth Salem soccer.

The Rocks play well against a Troy-area team, but end up tying. They take out their frustrations a few days later against a Farmington team.

Twelve days ago, Salem tied Troy Athens 2-2 — with Athens scoring on a penalty kick in the final minute. Two days after that, the Rocks were embarrassed by Livonia Stevenson, 4-0.

That was enough. Next on their schedule was North Farmington; Salem showed no mercy, romping to a 13-2 victory.

That was eight days ago. Last Saturday, Salem visited Troy, ranked sixth in the state. The outcome was a replay — Doug Herriman gave the Rocks a 1-0 lead with a first-half goal, Scot Buczek assisting. But with four seconds left in the match, the Colts knocked in a rebound to earn a tie.

Next on the Salem agenda — Farmington Harrison Monday, at Harrison. The result: Another replay, with the Rocks romping this time by a 10-0 margin. The game was stopped 10 minutes into the second half by the 10-goal mercy rule; it was 9-0 at the half.

"They were very disappointed on Saturday," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "Today, they came back and played well."

Then he added (with a hint of sarcasm), "They seemed to overcome their disappointment."

Buczek led Salem with three goals and an assist. Ronny Mashni, Andy Makins and Mark MacInnis each added two goals and an assist, and Herriman had one goal and two assists. Drew Drummond contributed two assists, with Kevin Little and Taras Sinuich getting one assist apiece.

Brian Bacyinski was in goal for his first varsity shutout.

The victory improved Salem's overall record to 5-2-2; the Rocks were 4-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division.

■ Canton 4, Franklin 0: Plymouth Canton remained perfect against WLAA teams with Monday's win against visiting Livonia Franklin.

The Chiefs got two goals in each half, with Jeff Fliss and Graham Wilk getting a goal and an assist apiece. Jeff Knusz and Jacob Rea also netted goals, with Robert Gumber getting two assists.

George Tomasso and Shawn Conway shared the goalkeeper duties. Canton had a 21-5 shot advantage.

The loss dropped the Patriots to 4-4-1 overall, 2-2 in the division.

Last Saturday, Canton upended Brighton — which a week earlier had been ranked No. 1 in the state — 2-0 at Brighton. Fliss and Chad Dale scored goals for the Chiefs, with Simeon Alleyne assisting on both.

"We played a real good ball game," said Canton coach Don Smith. "We capitalized on a couple of scoring opportunities. They're a good team and this is a good confidence-builder. They didn't give up anything easy but we rose to the occasion."

Tomasso was in goal the entire game for the shutout. For Brighton, the loss was its third-straight.

■ PCA 2, Roeper 2: Sometimes you have to be lucky.

Plymouth Christian Academy was also good Monday, but luck played a role in its tie with Bloomfield Hills Roeper.

Ryan Thomason netted a goal to tie it at 1-1 at halftime, but the Roughriders forged back ahead with just three minutes remaining in the match. The Eagles kept pressuring, however, and it paid off when the Roeper sweeper attempted to clear the ball and kicked it over his keeper and into his own goal with 1½ minutes left.

Thomason was credited with the goal.

"I was really proud of the way (PCA) fought back," said coach Gregg Gustafson. "Even though we didn't score the goal, we created enough pressure that they were able to make a mistake."

The win lifted PCA's overall record to 5-2-1; the Eagles are 4-1-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference.

■ Agape 2, West Highland 1: Plymouth Agape Christian withstood a second half rally by Milford West Highland to even its record at 3-3 Monday at Bicentennial Park in Canton.

Cory Mullen and Matt Major scored goals for Agape, which led 1-0 at the half. Josh Thompson was in goal.

Canton season turns around

BY DAN O'MEARA

Redford football teams are front and center this week in Observer-land action.

All four schools are involved in big games, and it all happens Saturday.

Two take place in the Catholic League. Redford St. Agatha faces another unbeaten team in Royal Oak Shrine and Catholic Central hopes to rebound at top-ranked Warren De La Salle.

In Mega Conference games that afternoon, Redford Thurston tries for its first win ever over Allen Park, and the Dearborn-Redford Union contest looks like a good matchup.

The big game outside Redford has unbeaten Farmington playing host to perennial power Westland John Glenn — another Saturday event.

On the prediction scene, yours truly was 12-3 last week, gaining a game over Brad Emons (11-4). O'Mears holds a slim lead overall, 45-15 to 43-17.

FRIDAY GAMES (all times 7:30 p.m.)

Liv. Churchill at Northville: Churchill (0-2/0-4) got the Western Division heavyweights out of the way, playing Harrison and Canton the last two weeks. Hopefully, they can mix it up with the rest and be about the business of getting that first win. The Mustangs (1-1/1-3) were ahead of Harrison 17-14 in the second half last week before the Hawks rallied to win 31-17. PICKS: The Chargers have to wait a big longer for that W.

N. Farmington at Liv. Stevenson: The Spartans (2-0/4-0) look like clear favorites since North has lost its last two games; however, the Raiders can be tough. Stevenson will put stress on a small North defense with its powerful run-and-pass attack. Farmington just seven points each and lost by a total of five. PICKS: The Spartans keep rolling.

Ply. Canton at W.L. Western: The season has taken a turn for the better after a bad beginning for the Chiefs (2-0/2-2). That loss to Monroe doesn't look so bad now that the Trojans are 4-0. Canton should win this one before getting a test from Northville. The Warriors (1-1/1-3) snapped a three-game losing streak by beating Livonia Franklin 13-0. PICKS: This is one western in which the Chiefs win.

W.L. Central at Ply. Salem: Both teams have lost two straight, so somebody's luck is about to change. Salem (0-2/1-3) seems to be a good team that came up short against good teams. Three of those teams — Belleville, Farmington and Stevenson — have their best teams in years. The Vikings (0-2/2-2) are reeling after a 41-0 loss to John Glenn. PICKS: The Rocks rebound with a victory.

Belleville at Garden City: The Cougars go from the proverbial frying pan into the fire this week when state-ranked Belleville comes calling. Garden City (1-2/1-3) played Mega White leaders Southgate and Dearborn the last two weeks, and they face the Mega Red co-leader this week. The Tigers (3-0/4-0) are No. 2 in Class AA. PICKS: Belleville wins the battle of the cats.

Wayne Memorial at Woodhaven: The Zebras (1-1/3-1) catch a break after having their winning streak snapped by Monroe. Woodhaven (0-2/2-2) has beaten Mega Blue teams Carlson and Trumbull but is winless against Mega Red opponents Monroe (0-4B) and Wyandotte (0-20). PICKS: Wayne gets well quick.

Luth. Westland at Lutheran East: This looks like a toss-up game. Both teams are .500, though the Eagles (2-1/2-2) are a game ahead of Lutheran Westland (1-2/2-2) in the Metro Conference. Lutheran North is the only common opponing game, but the Raiders allowed Glenn and Farmington just seven points each and lost by a total of five. PICKS: The Spartans keep rolling.

SATURDAY GAMES (all times 1 p.m. unless noted)

F.H. Harrison at Liv. Franklin: Will senior quarterback Jake Lawson be able to play for the Hawks? He suffered what was believed to be a badly sprained ankle late in last week's game with Northville. Sophomore Kevin Bambenek might get the starting call. Harrison (2-0/3-1) is headed for a showdown with Plymouth Canton in two weeks. It doesn't get any easier for the Patriots (0-2/0-4) who have played ranked teams in three of five games. PICKS: Harrison puts the game away early.

Westland Glenn at Farmington: This promises to be the most interesting game ever between these teams. It will be Homecoming at Farmington where the Falcons (2-0/4-0) hope to beat Glenn for the first time and extend their win streak for another week. Just when everyone thought the Rockets (2-0/2-2) had slipped, they looked like the old Glenn last week in racing past Walled Lake Central 41-0. PICKS: The Falcons have a victory to celebrate, O'Mears says, but Emons soars with the Rockets.

Clarenceville at Harper Woods: The game goes well for the Trojans (2-1/2-2), who own a two-game winning streak and have won both by shutout. Clarenceville is in the early chase for the Metro Conference title and should strengthen its position this week. Harper Woods (0-4/0-4) has lost its last three by a total of 14 points. But the Trojans beat Liggett 36-0; the Pioneers lost to Liggett 16-13. PICKS: Clarenceville keeps winning.

Allen Park at Red. Thurston: The Eagles also have won two in a row, but Allen Park's win streak is four. Thurston (2-2) proved the prognosticators wrong last week by knocking off Crestwood in overtime. That made the Eagles 2-1 in the Mega Blue, but they have never beaten the Jaguars (3-0/4-0), who are unranked but preseason favorites in the division. PICKS: Allen Park wins a close one.

Redford Union at Dearborn, 1:30: RU (2-1/2-2) had its two-game win streak snapped by Taylor Kennedy, but the Panthers were close in that one, too. A late drive ended along with the game clock as Kennedy held on 23-15. RU and the Pioneers (2-1/3-1) are tied for second in the Mega White; however, Dearborn's only loss was to first-place Southgate. PICKS: The Pioneers pull out a win.

Bishop Borgess vs. Riv. Richard, 1:30 p.m. at Garden City Junior High: The struggling Spartans face a Riverview Gabriel Richard team that has won its last three in this Catholic Tri-Sectional game. The Pioneers (1-0/3-1) have allowed only eight points this year, losing their first game to Riverview 2-0. Borgess (0-1/0-4) was the closest its been to winning last week but fell short against East Catholic, 12-7. PICKS: It's another tough week for the Spartans.

St. Agatha at R.O. Shrine, 7:30 p.m. at Kimball: The season starts to get interesting for the unbeaten Aggies (1-0/4-0), who are No. 7 in Class D. This is the first of three straight games against other ranked teams in the Catholic C-Section. This week they face former coach John Goddard and teammate Kevin Kutch. The Knights (1-0/4-0) have allowed just six points in their four games and outscored their last three opponents 74-0. The Aggies counter with an offense averaging 34 points. PICKS: Emons says it'll be the Knights' night, but O'Meara plows ahead with the Aggies.

Redford CC vs. Warren De La Salle, 7:30 p.m. at Roseville Memorial Field: CC's loss to Double A newcomer Orchard Lake St. Mary's took away some of the appeal of this Central Division opener, but these Catholic League powers are guaranteed to put on a good game. De La Salle (4-0) have won its last two by shutout and is the No. 1 team in the state this week. The Shamrocks (3-1) are no longer ranked, but a win here would put them back in. PICKS: The Pilots take a rare win from CC.

Chiefs are surviving a trying season

BY C.J. RISAK

Really — how hard can it be to coach high school golf?

Ask Plymouth Canton's Tom Alles, who's in his first season.

The Chiefs have performed pretty well over the last 10 days, raising their record to 3-6 Tuesday with a 222-224 victory over Walled Lake Western at Brae Burn. The win also pushed Canton's Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division mark to 2-3.

Brian Carlson earned medalist honors with a 38. Kevin Carlson shot 44, followed by Albert Hamood at 45, Chuck Newsome at 46 and Dave Dismondy at 49.

"I was just real happy to win a division match today, in this weather," said Alles, noting the on-again, off-again rain.

He was also happy to still have a team.

It's been an emotional first month of coaching for Alles. After Canton's match against North Farmington Sept. 9 at Brae Burn, three team members were driving together when they were involved in a car-train collision on Five Mile.

Scott Belisle suffered a broken collerbone and several abrasions. He remained hospitalized for two days. Teammates Brian Carlson and Newsome escaped injury, which was fortunate. The reason for the accident, according to Alles, was a railroad crossing without a guardrail and bright sunshine which made it difficult to see the warning flashers.

"It was kind of a shaky start to my season," said Alles, noting that "It was my first home dual match. I won't ever forget it.

"They were a bit emotionally shaken, but they've overcome it. I think they've grown up a lot since then."

The Chiefs' final dual match of the season is Friday against Livonia Stevenson at Brae Burn.

Plymouth Salem

Plymouth Salem solidified its position as one of the favorites for the WLAA championship with a 203-218 victory over Walled Lake Central Tuesday.

Brian Covington led the Rocks, who improved to 10-2 overall and 7-2 in the WLAA, with a 38. Jeff Lear shot 39, followed by Alex Bain at 40 and Ryan Andrzejewski and Mike Hjelmstad, both at 43.

Central's Matt Testa was medalist with a one-over par 36.

quarter and went into the locker room with a four-point halftime advantage when Katie Groulx converted a three-point play as the buzzer sounded.

Stacey Nichols then bagged a pair of free throws to open the second half to give the Spartans a six-point lead, but that cushion was soon flattened.

Canton, stepping up its defense, took a 28-24 advantage after three quarters.

Junior guard Becky Vachow then hit a consecutive three-pointers to open the fourth period. Amicie Crayton added a three point play with six minutes to go, putting the Lady Chiefs in front by 13, 37-24.

Stevenson finally got its first second half field goal from senior forward Jill VanTiem, but it came with only 1:10 left in the game. The damage had been done.

"They took us out of our offense big time," Stevenson coach Wayne Henry said. "Whenever we tried to take a shot, they took it away. They also took away our secondary options."

"And when that happened, we had to re-start our offense all over again."

Canton also began to find cracks in Stevenson's matchup zone defense.

Although the Spartans smothered Canton junior center Sarah Warnke, limiting her to four points, it also opened scoring chances for teammates Kristi Fiorenzi (nine points); Crayton (nine), Jackie Nicastri (seven) and Vachow (six).

"Sarah moved up higher in the post and it gave us good lanes to the basket," Blohm said. "Their defense bothered us. Their zone was collapsing, but we had to do a better job of recognizing our scoring opportunities. We were a little more patient on offense in the second half. We shot too quickly in the first half."

VanTiem led Stevenson with nine points, while Stacey Nichols added six points and 12 rebounds.

"I thought we came out a bit lethargic early, but give Stevenson credit, they put a lot of energy into the game early and they played with a lot of enthusiasm," Blohm said.

Canton, however, was anything but lethargic against Powers, roaring out to an 11-0 lead to start the game.

The Lady Chiefs led 25-12 at halftime and outscored Powers 17-12 in the third quarter before coasting home.

Warnke led Canton with 20 points, while Crayton contributed 12.

halftime of Saturday's football game.

"I've had a lot of good things happen to me as a coach and scout but this kind of thing you don't expect," Head said. "For a kid to be in that kind of position says a lot for the kid but also the family. The first time I saw Brian throw in high school as a junior I was interested. We were fortunate enough to get him. I knew he was going to be a player."

The 6-foot-6, 215-pound right-hander posted a 4-2 record and a 1.26 earned run average in 43 innings last spring for the Cardinals. He would have led all Division II pitchers in lowest ERA, but he pitched two innings less than the minimum required to be ranked.

Paluk also was named Most Improved Player of the Cardinals' basketball team after averaging 5.5 points, 4.0 rebounds and shooting 61.4 percent from the floor.

Paluk was drafted in the 50th round of the 1993 Major League draft by the Kansas City Royals. Paluk turned down an offer to sign with Kansas City.

SVSU sports information director Tom Waske said the honor couldn't happen to a nicer person.

"He's not one to blow his own horn, he's such a humble, shy guy who's not going to strut around and tell people he's a star," Waske said.

quarter and went into the locker room on a roll, outpointing Adrian 59-35 at Adrian.

The loss was just the second of the season for the Maples, who had won five of their first six.

Abraham, the promising freshman forward, led the Rocks with 12 points and nine rebounds. Liz Erickson and Lukasik added 10 points each.

■ PCA 50, Huron Valley 18: Karin Reed was within one assist of collecting a triple-double for Plymouth Christian Academy Tuesday against visiting Westland Huron Valley Lutheran.

Reed collected 23 points, 13 rebounds and nine assists — a week after cutting her chin on a drive to the basket, a gash that required seven stitches.

Lisa Erickson added 10 points for the Eagles, who led 27-11 at the half and 44-14 after three quarters.

Huron Valley, which had just seven players, was paced by Rachel Wichman and Michelle Ruth, each with seven points.

The win lifted PCA's record to 5-3 overall, 2-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. Huron Valley is 3-5 overall, 0-2 in the MIAC.

■ Agape 62, West Highland 46: By halftime, Plymouth Agape Christian had doubled up on Milford West Highland Monday at Agape.

Gretchen Baisch led the Agape attack with 24 points, 10 coming in the fourth quarter. Jaci Ther had 18. Agape led 32-16 at the half and 46-26 after three quarters.

The victory improved Agape's record to 3-2.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The crunching of dry, fallen leaves grew louder and louder as the approaching deer drew nearer. The familiar, exciting sound began deep in the midst of the nearby hardwood stand and got closer and closer as the deer approached the corner of the overgrown corn field. As I strained my eyes for any movement in the areas the crunching abruptly stopped.

Silence prevailed.

I had been hunkered down in a ground blind in the middle of a thicket on the edge of the field in question for the better part of the afternoon. The sun had now slipped below the distant horizon and the end of legal hunting hours was rapidly approaching.

As I knelt quietly and motionless, arrow knocked and bow in hand, time stood still. My mind began to ramble.

"Is it 'The' buck I had been waiting for or just another doe passing by. Did it see through my cover and camouflage? Can it smell me? Is it moving now, but I just can't hear it? Will it enter the field? Will it pass within my shooting range or circle around behind me?" The questions and uncertainty raced through my mind.

I knew there were several bucks in the area including a couple in the "really nice" category and one that was surely headed for the Pope and Young record book if he came within 20-yards of my blind. After months of scouting and hunting in the area I thought I had this particular buck pegged. He bedded in the adjoining hardwoods during the day, then crossed this overgrown corn field in the early evening on his way to "the other side of the road" and some flourishing corn, clover and alfalfa fields.

Six or seven long, grueling minutes elapsed as the deer surveyed the field. I decided to try to encourage the deer and offered two low, short grunts.

Suddenly, the silence was shattered as the deer once again began to move.

As I scanned the brush I caught a flash of brown, then the shiny white tines of a buck with his nose to the ground. And he was headed right toward my shooting lane.

I tried to steady my shaking hands as I drew my compound and waited for the deer.

As he stepped into my line of sight my mind began rambling again.

"Don't stare at the rack. Wait for the best shot. Pick a spot. Smooth release. Follow through. DON'T BLOW IT."

My arrow hit its target and did its job with quickness and efficiency. As daylight faded on the horizon my hunt came to an end.

The 9-point dressed out at 168-pounds and sported a rack with a 21-inch spread. I know they don't come that big very often so I'll continue to savor the moment for years to come.

The 1994 archery season opens Saturday and some 350,000 archers are expected to participate in Michigan's 77-day season.

If you're participating in the 1994 archery hunt I wish you good luck and I hope that you will hunt safely and ethically.

Let me hear about your success!

Hunters and anglers are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker at 901-2573.

Plymouth-Canton Cruisers gain swim championship

The Plymouth-Canton Cruisers swim team collected its first ever championship of the Downriver Summer Swim League last month, outdueling 11 other teams.

Five Cruisers were individual double winners. Fred Locke in the open boys 50-yard and 100-yard freestyle, Tim Buchanan in the 14-and-under boys 50 butterfly and 50 free; Don Leclair in the 12-and-under boys 50 backstroke and 50 free; Adam Sonnanstine in the 10-and-under boys 50 breaststroke and 50 free; and Ben Dzialo in the eight-and-under boys 25 fly and 25 free.

Here are the other Cruiser point scorers:

Six-and-under girls: Kelsey Lincoln, first in the 25 back, third in the 25 free.

Eight-and-under girls: Elizabeth Umney, first in the 25 free, third in the 25 fly; Amy Mertens, seventh in the 25 fly and ninth in the 25 back; Rachel Broniak, eighth in the 25 fly and 11th in the 25 free; Stephanie Lamar, first in the 25 back and third in the 25 breast, and Lamar Mertens, Broniak and Umney, first in the 100 free relay.

Eight-and-under boys: Ryan Keesey, third in the 25 fly, fourth in the 25 back; Nick Dixon, eighth in the 25 back and 10th in the 25 free; Lorenzo Carlson, first in the 25 breast and third in the 25 back, Carlson, Dixon, Keesey and Dzialo, first in the 100 free relay.

10-and-under girls: Kari Foust, first in the 50 fly and third in the 50 back; Sarah Broniak, second in the 50 fly and third in the 50 breast; Leslie Ziegler, third in the 50 free and fourth in the 50 fly; Charlene Dallos, second in the 50 back and eighth in the 50 free; Miranda Carlson, first in the 50 breast; Shelby Lincoln, eighth in the 50 breast and ninth in the 50 free; Dallos, Carlson, Broniak and Ziegler, first in the 200 medley relay.

Let's cut to the core, Lenore.

The Detroit dailies' "apples-to-apples" pitch just doesn't cut it.

Here's why.

72% of metro Detroiters live in the suburbs, where SPRING has twice the circulation of the Free Press—and nearly three times the circulation of The News.

And all of SPRING's circulation is audited.

All of which means, any way you care to slice it...

SPRING should be your first choice for reaching the right metro Detroit market.

Flint Mott finishes off Schoolcraft in 4 games

■ VOLLEYBALL

The Schoolcraft College women's volleyball team suffered its first loss in Eastern Conference play Tuesday at Flint Mott, 15-4, 15-13, 12-15, 15-9.

Schoolcraft is now 9-9 overall and 2-1 in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Division. Mott is unbeaten in division play.

Offensively, SC's Julie Campau (Livonia Churchill) and Shannon Gottschalk (Clinton) recorded 13 and 12 kills, respectively.

Jannel Hemme (Livonia Ladywood) led the defense with 22 digs. Anne Faba (Harper Woods Regina) added 13.

The team's top server was Vicki Rohraff (Wayne Memorial), who had six aces in 12 attempts.

Michelle Hale (Livonia Stevenson) added two solo blocks and three assist-blocks.

"We got served off the court and did not receive well," Ladywood coach Tom Teeters said. "We tried a lot of different rotations and they worked well, but we need to pass better.

"We were inconsistent, but I saw some good things."

The Lady Ocelots return to action, 7 tonight at home against Oakland CC.

This weekend, the Schoolcraft Invitational pits the Lady Ocelots against four teams from Illinois — defending champ and national contender Belleville, McHenry, Parkland and Elgin.

Action begins at 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Friday (two matches going at once). Play continues at 9 a.m., 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Admission for adults is $2.

RELIGION CALENDAR

Items for the religion calendar should be submitted no later than noon Friday for the next Thursday's issue.

■ COUNTRY FAIR
Church of God of Prophecy invites everyone to attend their Country Fair noon to 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 1, at the church, 28563 Pardo St., Garden City. There will be clowns, a chili cook-off, dunk tank, cookie bake-off, balloons and prizes.

■ DAUGHTERS' BANQUET
All females are invited to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, 26701 Joy Road, Dearborn Heights, at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 1, for a catered Daughters' Banquet. There will also be a fashion show. Advance registration and donation information is available by calling (313) 274-3820 9 a.m. to noon weekdays.

■ GARAGE SALE
Women of St. Kenneth's are having a "Super Garage Sale" 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 1, at the church hall, 14951 Haggerty, between Five Mile and Schoolcraft roads, Plymouth Township. For more information, call (313) 420-0288.

■ MASTER YOUR MONEY
Merl L. Terry will lead a workshop at Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia, entitled "Master Your Money" 6:30-9 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2. The video-based three-session workshop covers practical advice in developing a home budget, credit card usage, and managing cash flow. Everything is presented from the biblical perspective of stewardship. The only cost is $12 for a workbook. To register, call Bob D'Ambrosio at (313) 522-6830.

■ RADIO SHOWS
WAAM 1600 AM's radio show "What Is This Christian Science and Who Are These Christian Scientists?" continues at 9 a.m. Sundays. Upcoming shows will be: "Is Christian Science just a health therapy, or does it also deal with relationships, business and other problems?" on Oct. 2; "Do Christian Scientists ignore sickness?" on Oct. 9; "Sisters and mothers in Christian Science" on Oct. 16; "Bible healings today, part 2" on Oct. 23; and "Christian Science healing: fraud or fact?" on Oct. 30.

In November, the programs include: "Christian Science and the entertainment industry" on Nov. 6; "Does Christian Science heal serious illness?" on Nov. 13; "What makes Christian Science Christian?" on Nov. 20; and "What proof do you have that Christian Science heals?" on Nov. 27.

The program continues in December with: "How do Christian Scientists feel about modern medicine?" on Dec. 4; "Is care in Christian Science as reliable as medicine?" on Dec. 11; "How do Christian Scientists feel about Jesus?" on Dec. 18; and "What kind of faith in God heals?" on Dec. 25.

■ FREEDOM CELEBRATION
Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church of Livonia will present a musical celebration of the "Freedom of a Christian" at 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2. The theme of the Pre-Reformation concert is taken from Luther's letter on Christian liberty. Recitalist George Osius will play works of Bach, Beethoven and Brahms written or transcribed for the left hand. He will be assisted by Christ Our Savior Choir, Brass and Woodwind Choirs and Handbell Choir. A reception will follow the concert. The church is at 14175 Farmington Road, north of I-96, Livonia. For more information, call (313) 522-6830.

■ LECTURE SERIES
Dr. John F. MacArthur Jr., host of the syndicated radio show "Grace to You," will answer questions from the audience at Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy, Canton, 7:30-9 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 4. The program is free but preregistration is required by calling (313) 971-4406. His visit is part of the Michigan Theological Seminary's Edersheim Lecture Series.

■ SINGLE PLACE MINISTRIES
Single Place Adult Ministries of First Presbyterian Church of Northville is sponsoring a number of events for singles throughout October. The group will meet for its Sunday Morning Gathering from 10-10:45 a.m. at the library of First Presbyterian Church.

Members of Toastmasters International will host a Speechcraft Workshop at 7:30 p.m. for eight consecutive Wednesdays, beginning Oct. 5, in Room 202. The cost is $40.

Robert D. Handelsman, Ph.D., will discuss "Getting It Right the Next Time" during a five-week seminar at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 3, 10, 17 and Dec. 1 and 8, in the Forum Room. The cost is $40.

"Friendship, Intimacy, Love & Sexuality" is the topic of a three-week discussion by Pam Jacobs on Oct. 13, 20, and 27, at the church. The cost is $24.

Laurel A. Sills will talk about "Relearning Singlehood: Post-Divorce Dating and Sexuality" at 7 p.m. Oct. 9, 16 and 23, at the church. The cost is $24.*

A number of recreational activities have also been scheduled. "Casey" will teach a Country Western dance class 7-9 p.m. for six consecutive Sundays beginning Oct. 16, at the Northville Parks and Recreation Center, 303 W. Main St., Northville. The cost is $42. Singles can learn to play tennis at 7 p.m. Oct. 16 and 23, as well as Nov. 6 and 13, at the Farmington Tennis Club, 22777 Farmington Road, Farmington. The cost is $50.

The church is at 200 E. Main St., Northville. For more information, call (810) 349-0911.

■ NEW WORSHIP
St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia, is beginning an informal worship experience from 7-8 p.m. Wednesday evenings, beginning Oct. 5. Scool Jazz, a jazz ensemble from Schoolcraft College, directed by Steve Segraves, will provide the music for the premiere. The program, led by the Rev. Wendy Bailey, is geared toward people of all ages who are unable to attend on Sunday morning due to work schedules or other commitments. It is designed to attract those who desire a more contemporary approach to worship. Child care will be available. For more information, call (313) 422-1470.

■ MAKING MORAL DECISIONS
The Rev. Anthony Kosnik, moral theologian, will host "Making Moral Decisions From Cradle to Grave" from 7:30-9 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 5, at the St. Hilary Education Center, 23901 Elmira, Redford.

During the informal program, Deacon Joe Iakra will discuss "Common Ground," an effort that was started by an attorney who won a decision for the pro-life position in the Supreme Court. The attorney hoped to find common ground for the people who are pro-life and pro-choice.

Melanie Marion, staff person for a suicide prevention group, will talk about her experiences with survivors of suicides as well as the Catholic Church's stance on assisted suicide. For more information, call (313) 533-1560.

■ STRESS CONTROL
The Rev. Royal Satterlee, D.Div., will talk about "Raising Consciousness and Controlling Stress" at 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16, at Unity of Livonia, 28660 Five Mile, Livonia. The suggested donation is $15. For more information, call (313) 421-1760.

Notice of Public Hearing on Increasing Property Taxes

The Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Plymouth will hold a public hearing on a proposed increase of 0.0796 mills in the operating tax millage rate to be levied in 1994.

The hearing will be held on Tuesday, October 11, 1994 at 7:30 P.M. at Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, Michigan.

The date and location of the meeting to take action on the proposed additional millage will be announced at this public meeting.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 2.5% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing. If the proposed additional millage rate is not approved the operating revenue will increase by 1.1% over the preceding year's operating revenue.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

If your home doesn't measure up. . .

Sometimes when we take a hard look around we decide that some things have gotten a little. . .well, not exactly shabby, but they could use a little help.

Perhaps a coat of paint, maybe a new flower bed where those weeds love to grow. Or maybe a bit of new wallpaper here or a spot of carpet there. Little things that will spruce up the place and lift your spirits as well. Or maybe you have a full-scale renovation in mind.

Whatever you decide, we can help:

Turn to our Classified section's business directory and find dozens of people who will be glad to help you with whatever it is you want to do.

And remember to support your local merchants when you buy your home improvement supplies—there are a lot of specials in today's paper. Check them out!

Local art teachers strut their stuff

The exhibit continuing through Oct. 22 in the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery is a golden opportunity to see the quality of art faculty teaching in Livonia Public Schools. For the first time in a decade, 14 teachers and two associate teachers from elementary, middle and high school display a quantity of well-honed skills and creativity demonstrating once and for all that those who can, do teach.

But this show is about a lot more than just pretty pictures. From large scale painting to weaving, jewelry, screen print and ceramic, the more than 50-piece exhibition reveals many of the benefits art delivers to a society, not the least of which is teaching creative problem solving techniques to our children for use later in life. After a recent last hour jewelry class at Stevenson High School, a handful of the teachers talked about more than just the show.

"It's a good opportunity for the community to see the art teachers are professional artists. The kids don't get a chance to see the kind of work we do," said John Wagner, who also serves as golf coach at Stevenson.

Constructions in the exhibit by Wagner, an art teacher for 28 years, prod the viewer with puzzling objects such as a pair of child's eyeglasses.

"Art is a reflection of our culture. It looks for the uncommon in the common. Unlike a lot of subjects where there is a right answer, art generates diverse solutions where many possibilities are explored. Art skills generate ideas so students have the confidence to go into new areas, and it gets them to communicate."

Art education

Stevenson art department chairwoman, Connie Cronenwett agrees with Wagner about the many merits of art education.

"Art gets them to observe. It teaches observational skills, perception skills so that they're looking with new eyes. It's like rediscovering the world. There's an enjoyment in that that keeps us going," said Cronenwett, who's taught in Livonia Public Schools since 1966.

"When they first start drawing, the kids never think they can do it, but then they found out they can."

Minutes earlier Cronenwett worked with students in the jewelry class to inspire creativity within guidelines. Using shapes of the same color cut from the pages of old magazines, students juggled the pieces testing different designs.

"I don't think they understand how important it is to go through these exercises," said associate teacher Nancy Jardine, a 1993 graduate of Madonna University who put herself through school by working at the Royal Oak Post Office. Jardine's "Autumn" watercolor delights the senses with its delicate drifting leaves.

HIT NEW HEIGHTS

Many gardeners, in a wide range of ages, from around Oakland and Wayne counties participated in our High Hopes Sunflower Contest. Some super sunflowers, along with interesting suggestions for raising them, were submitted.

by Marty Figley, special writer

What a wonderful response to our first High Hopes Sunflower Contest! Seventy families participated and, although we wish we could award first prize to you all, in our minds you are ALL winners.

We hope you had as much fun growing your sunflowers as we have had with the contest. It was a pleasure meeting you and it was fun.

So, now to the winners. Drum roll, please!

First prize, a $50 gift certificate from Bordine's Better Blooms of Rochester, goes to Sophia Lina Leopardi of Canton Township. Her sunflower towered a whopping 12 feet 5-½ inches.

■ LAST CALL FOR ARTISTS

The deadline for entries in the Oct. 22-23 second annual all-media gallery showing of fine arts presented by Canton Project Arts has been extended to Oct. 6.

Pi Benio, art department chair at Adrian College, will juror the exhibit awarding $1,000 cash prizes. You need not be a resident of Canton to enter your artwork. For more information call co-chairs, Tim Haber (313) 455-5045, or Marsha Wright (313) 453-8021.

■ ART CLASSES

The Art Gallery in Garden City is offering classes in watercolor, oil and pastel beginning Oct. 6.

For six weeks students will study watercolor 1-3 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Thursdays with Canton artist Sharon Dillenbeck; oil painting 11 a.m to 1 p.m Fridays with wildlife artist Ilene Tarkington of Canton, and pastel portraiture 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. Fridays with Westland artist Laurel Raisanen.

Classes in oil and watercolor run $10 each and pastel, $8. For more information or to register call Norma McQueen (313) 261-0379.

■ GALLERY WALK

The time has finally arrived for the first annual Plymouth is Artrageous gallery walk and weekend art extravaganza Sept. 30 to Oct. 2. Twelve galleries and/or arts related shops will offer not only art, but collectibles, personal and decorative accessories, demonstrations, music, street performers, a silent auction, art exhibits by Plymouth Canton Community Schools, students, a silent auction with a portion of the proceeds to benefit the Plymouth Community Arts Council, and hors d'ouevres from Observerland food establishments 7-10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Fun for the whole family kicks off the artrageous event sponsored by the art community with a performance courtesy of the arts council by Guy Louis Sferlazza from Chautauqua Express 6:30-7:30 p.m. Friday Sept. 30 in Kellogg Park. For more information call Annette Horn at Native West Gallery (313) 455-8838.

the seeds and marked the spot with a Popsicle stick that she painted yellow.

"The whole family really enjoyed this sunflower contest along with the neighborhood who all cheered us on when they got so big," her parents, Lisa and Ermino, wrote. "It taught her that all things planted also need to be nurtured.

"She loved to water every night and feed them with their vitamins (that is what we called the Miracle Gro), and say her prayers at night, 'Dear God, please watch over my sunflowers and make them big and sweet. Thank you, goodbye.' "

Second prize, a $25 gift certificate from Plymouth Nursery of Plymouth, goes to Margaret and Louis Cartier of Redford Township. Their sunflower was 12 feet 2¾ inches tall.

The Cartiers planted one side of their fence with several different varieties of varying heights — some as small as four to six inches, others about five feet. One head measured 17 inches. This couple, married 51 years, raised sunflowers in Missouri. They appreciated the advice in a Garden Spot column about preserving seeds.

"We water them regularly and they have been fertilized twice with Stern's Miracle Gro," they wrote about the sunflowers.

Honorable mention, a $25 gift certificate from Plymouth Nursery, for the largest seed head — a large platter 18¾ inches wide — goes to Guy and Deanne Houseman and neighbor Lisa Folster and children of Redford Township.

"As we finished measuring the last sunflower, we stepped back and had to just admire the beautiful backdrop that the sunflowers gave to our yards," they wrote.

"We worked as a team in growing our sunflowers."

Guy Houseman applied Miracle Gro in the beginning and once they got started, applied Rapid Grow. He also sprayed for bugs. Folster was responsible for the watering. The families grew the flowers on both sides of their fences — 25 in all.

Super sunflowers

Two entrants grew sunflowers at 12 feet 1 inch (the Willard family of Plymouth and Betty Bemis of Farmington Hills) and the second largest seed head was 18 inches across (grown by Beverly Keledjian of Garden City).

Many thanks for the prizes from Bordine's Better Blooms and Plymouth Nursery.

We beat the largest sunflower shown at the Alaska State Fair in Anchorage, which was 9 feet 7 inches tall. Congratulations to you all!

Many contestants decorated their letters and envelopes with drawings of sunflowers. Gardeners from 3 years of age to retired people entered, and the notes accompanying the entries revealed that there are some serious gardeners in Oakland and Wayne counties.

This was your contest so I'll let you tell the story with a random sampling of letters:

Comments from contestants

Joan Christensen's grandson, Nick Devitis, 6, of Canton, gave his nine sunflowers "plenty of water, a little Miracle Gro and a lot of TLC."

From Regina Loria of Birmingham: "I think (the height) is because of the brick wall that it grew so rapidly (protected and on the south side of the house)."

From Jack and Marilyn Baldner of Westland: "They are supporting the vines from bean plants."

From Cate Spurr, 6, of Canton: "Maybe the compost and horse manure helped them grow?"

Rich and Kay Rowe of Canton "fertilized with llama dung . . . from pet llamas."

From Barbara Hewelt of Rochester Hills: "I used a little Rapid Gro and some sea kelp."

Barbara Spereman of Livonia "used the variety 'Mammoth' and have attracted mammoth bees and cut worms!"

The Keller family of Birmingham (Jackie, 8, Bobby, 7, and Ronnie, 3) started their sunflower seeds in Yoplait yogurt cups, half soil and half seed, started in early March and transplanted outdoors when 12 inches tall in May. The soil five to six inches around the plants formed a pool. Deanna Keller wrote that they choose a particular seed to plant each year, to keep gardening alive in the family.

From Mary Rich of Westland: "I've lost about half my plants to squirrels . . . I only hope my biggest sunflower stays 'safe' until the winner is announced."

Kelly Kwasniuk, 9, of Livonia told us she had so much fun growing her sunflowers "I will keep on growing them every summer . . . and I can't wait to start eating the seeds."

Mike Higgs, 7, and Jessica and Johnny Mead, 5 and 3 respectively, of Canton "helped dig a trench around the garden and planted lots of seeds, after mixing cow manure into the soil."

From Earle Rice of Redford: "Seeds were planted April 21 under lights, transferred outside May 25."

Ann Audette of Farmington Hills grew her sunflower "in an old compost heap along with many other plants."

Pamela Wayne of New Boston grew a tall flower and was advised by her boyfriend to "put a red light on it so the planes don't hit it."

Logan Hoffman, 6, of Redford, Rachel Koelzer, 5, of Canton and Jenny Jenkins, 6, of Detroit (who planted her sunflower at her grandmother's in Livonia) all started their seeds at school.

From Paula Kaberline of Farmington Hills: "Some of our seeds fell prey to our pesky chipmunk friend and sprouted out of my geranium planters . . . Others grew as planned with lots of water, Miracle Gro and half of a tree fertilizer spike."

Jennifer Billand of Westland, along with many other contestants, mentioned the benefits of sunflower seeds to squirrels and birds.

From the Rev. Edward Zell of Redford Township: "Our grandsons planted seeds and excitedly checked their 'project' each time they visited."

Nicole and Amanda Aaron, 6 and 4 respectively, of West Bloomfield entered, as did Ronald Chick of Troy.

Dan and Lee Bonner of Garden City "planted seeds, watered often."

From Ann and Jim Miller of Redford Township: "We have received lots of comments on our 24 sunflowers."

Rosemary Music of Canton Township "used Burpee's Giant variety . . . Other than three or four shots of Peters Fertilizer, these girls have just been watered a lot."

Composting with grass and leaves and grass, returning them to the soil, is a step in the right direction, as many of you reported doing. Watering seemed essential.

We wish we could have printed remarks from ALL the letters. Many people thanked us for such a fun contest and WE THANK YOU for participating! As Elizabeth Sobush of Farmington Hills said, "I have had a blast watching this sunflower grow!", we had a blast with this contest. Shall we do it again next year?

MARTY FIGLEY

Crowning glory: Beverly Keledjian of Garden City displays the 18-inch sunflower head of her entry in the High Hopes Sunflower Contest. The sunflower was a volunteer from last year. It was transplanted in the middle of May to the corner of the fence, surrounded by rose climbers, and got fertilized and watered with the roses. Keledjian kept it covered so squirrels wouldn't cut it down.

Design day benefit set

The Michigan Design Center in Troy and Style magazine present an important day of design Tuesday, Oct. 18, with proceeds to benefit Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall.

Carla Schwarz, editor of Style, will discuss design and decorating trends with a slide presentation featuring new metro area design projects as featured in her magazine, as well as new-season products from the MDC showrooms. The lecture will be followed by a luncheon with a fashion show presented by Roz & Sherm. Guided tours of MDC showrooms will complete the program.

Tickets for the event are $60 donor and $100 patron. Seating is limited, and those wishing to attend should reply to the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Hall Volunteer Council by Friday, Oct. 7. The address is DSOH Volunteer Council, 400 Buhl Building, 535 Griswold, Detroit 48226. Include your name, address and phone number. All reservations will be held at the door for pickup the day of the event.

For more information, call Chris Olechiw at (810) 649-4772.

30-Year 4Max ARM

5.95% rate

8.498% APR

Most adjustable rate mortgages can jump 6% over the life of the loan. Ouch. Not the case with our 4Max ARM, which can jump no more than 4%. And as a homeowner, you'll save money with lower monthly payments the first year. Ahhh, much better.

Typical APR (annual percentage rate) includes interest on loan and other fees, and is based on a $100,000 loan with an 80% loan-to-value ratio. The APR may increase after closing. Interest rates and terms are subject to change at any time without notice.

Teachers

"They're solving problems. They're doing it creatively."

Art history itself teaches so much more. Ancient cultures come to life in the hands of artists. Wayne Johnson believes this so deeply he quit his job at General Motors after more than 20 years to become an art teacher. Currently an associate teacher at Stevenson High School, Johnson has been an artist for over 25 years. His acrylic self portrait uses a wash technique to relay emotion.

"I believe in advocating arts in education. Art history is the only way for us to learn a portion of, who we are emotionally. Art history tells us what they're hearts were made of. If we don't stress the arts there'll be a bleak picture painted of us in history," said Johnson of Southfield.

Using art to communicate

Anita Lamour, who is a teacher in the CAPA (Creative and Performing Arts) program for Livonia high school students at Churchill concurs, one of the greatest benefits of learning art history is it's ability to communicate information about civilizations past. However there are others as well.

"Art history makes the time come alive. It teaches children how to look critically, analytically, ask what formally do I see, were they trying to say something to me. Then they start looking attheir own work, why they put something in," said Lamour, a Farmington Hills resident.

Besides the positives brought about by art history, it eliminates negative forces in students' lives, said Cronenwett of Ann Arbor.

"Teenagers are inundated with images from their peers, M-TV. They need to be confronted with what others experienced before us. They want to be exposed to the great artists. It takes them out of Livonia and into the world. They see the artist not as a lonely, segregated person but an artist creating out of their culture. It lets them see the influence of a whole time period on us."

According to Cronenwett, art education at Stevenson High School hasn't suffered in light of all the budget cutting in the last few years.

"Our art department is very strong. The down side is that when the state came up with beefed up graduation requirements. Livonia followed suit. The students have fewer electives. The colleges recommend they take one or two semesters of fine art to learn problem solving skills you need to communicate."

Two impressionistic pastels of water scenes by Cronenwett do just that. Their peacefulness communicates a need sought after by man through the ages. A large scale oil painting of azaleas by Lamour reflects yet another timeless longing common to all humankind, the need for beauty.

The Civic Center Library is at Farmington Road and Five Mile in Livonia- Gallery hours for the exhibition by Livonia Public Schools' art faculty are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday to Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, and 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

Linda Chomin, a Canton Township resident, is a freelance writer who specializes in reporting and writing on art.

■ FRIDAY, SEPT. 30
Native West Gallery presents a special three-day exhibition of alabaster sculptures by Brian Begay of Shiprock, New Mexico during the Plymouth is Artrageous gallery walk Sept. 30-Oct. 2. Begay will make a special guest appearance demonstrating his talents 7-10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m to 6 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. His carvings are very detailed. Like other young American Indian sculptors experimenting with this art form, he only began working in it within the last decade. Using alabaster from Utah, Begay sculpts people and eagles, which the Navajo believe portray knowledge and strength. The medium signifies great importance to the American Indian culture. They have never viewed rock as anything but alive. In sweat lodges, in curing ceremonies, in hero stories and tribal origin myths, the power of the rock surfaces over and over again. Experience the mysterious process by which a chunk of alabaster becomes a graceful maiden or powerful eagle in the hands of Begay at the gallery, 863 W. Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth, (313) 455-8838.

■ THROUGH SEPT. 30
Atrium Gallery will feature the work of award winning watercolorist, Jeanne Ozment of Farmington Hills. She will exhibit her latest florals and still lifes. In addition, view contemporary glazed pottery by Paula Rosensweet of Farmington Hills, Fimo beaded jewelry by nationally recognized artists David and Kami Turner of Royal Oak, and wall dolls and masks by raku artist, Sandra Happel of Farmington Hills. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Saturday, till 7 p.m. Friday and noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, 109 N. Center, Northville, (810) 349-4131.

■ THROUGH OCT. 14
Michigan Guild Gallery presents "Transformations" by Helen Deckert. The exhibit includes personal pieces completed over the last six years by the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans member. Both two and three dimensional works will be shown as well as several unconventional works combining painting and sculpture. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday, 118 North Fourth Avenue, Ann Arbor, (313) 662-3382.

■ JANICE CHARACH EPSTEIN MUSEUM/GALLERY
Thursday, Sept. 29 — "Incredibly Mixed Media: Three Jewish Women Artists, Three Voices" continues through Oct. 27, showing installations by Lidia Sacharny, constructions by Carol Hamoy and paintings by Reija Remes. Opening reception, with an artists' presentation, 6-8:30 p.m. Thursday. Hamoy will give a presentation called "A Woman's Voice" 10 a.m. Friday, Sept. 30; tickets are $18 and include brunch; call (810) 661-7641 for tickets and reservations. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday, in the Jewish Community Center at 6600 W. Maple in West Bloomfield, (810) 661-7641.

■ SOUTHFIELD CIVIC CENTER PAVILION
Friday to Tuesday, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4 — The Michigan Association of Artists Group Exhibition and Sale will take place 8:15-10 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday-Monday and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday at 26000 Evergreen. Original works, including paintings, pottery, jewelry and photography, will be offered for sale by 200 area artists. Demonstration workshops will be offered for artists as well as the general public; each session runs about 45 minutes and costs $1. Call the Cultural Arts Division at (810) 354-4717 for more information.

■ BUNTING GALLERY
Friday, Sept. 30 — An exhibit by local artists who created work for the Art for AIN Gallery Exhibition/Sale will run Sept. 30 through Oct. 10. Opening reception 6-9 p.m. Friday. The show will select the art work to grace the 1994 AIDS Interfaith Network of Michigan holiday card collection. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, 514 S. Washington, Royal Oak, (810) 545-0464.

■ CARY GALLERY

Competition focuses on 'wearable art'

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

■ The competition will allow participants to enter garments that showcase their sewing and needle art talents.

A wearable art competition open to individuals with talents in fashion design, sewing and the needle arts begins 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 27 as a preview to the American Stitches: Fiesta of Fashion Sewing & Needle Arts show taking place at the Novi Expo Center Oct. 28-30. An entry fee of $10 is due by Oct. 5.

Grand prize is a computerized Elna Lock Pro 5DC serger with a retail value of nearly $1,600.

The competition will allow participants to enter garments that showcase their sewing and needle art talents. Entries must be created within the last two years and may include any garment using any technique such as sewing, quilting, dyeing, weaving, painting, texturing, smocking, applique and beadwork. The competition begins as a preview Oct. 27 to the Fiesta of Fashion ethnic fashion show presented by Josefa, a designer from Mexico. Entrants must be prepared to model their garment or provide a model Thursday evening. Semi-finalists will be announced that evening, winners in a special ceremony 3:45 p.m. Sunday at the exhibition hall fashion stage.

More than $15,000 worth of grand prizes will be awarded during the three day consumer sewing show, including computerized sewing machines, sergers, and many other sewing and needle art products. The competition fee also includes a ticket to the Thursday show. To receive a brochure with details call American Stitches 1-800-594-9029.

■ NEW ERA AGENT

Michael Jaffe of West Bloomfield joined the sales staff of ERA Rymal Symes Realtors, with offices in West Bloomfield, Northville and Novi.

JAFFE

Jaffe said he was impressed with Rymal Symes' high customer service rating, which recently earned an ERA First in Service Award.

"Rymal Symes was ranked number one in customer service among the hundreds of ERA brokers throughout the Midwest. It was important to me to be associated with true professionals who share a commitment of providing excellence in attention to detail and genuine concern for the needs of their customers and clients," said Jaffe.

■ CONTINUING ED

The Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan will sponsor a continuing education seminar for licensed real-estate agents and brokers from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3, at BASM Headquarters, 30375 Northwestern Highway, Suite 100, Farmington Hills.

Jack Waller of NCI Associates will be the instructor. Registration fees, including lunch, are $48.50 for BASM members and $63.50 for nonmembers. Call (810) 737-4477.

Attendance fulfills the annual continuing education requirement for real-estate license renewals.

■ INTERIM PAS CHIEF

Judy Waugh is interim president and chief operating officer of Professional Association Services (PAS), the management firm for Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors, South Oakland County Board of Realtors and Rochester Area Association of Realtors. She replaces John Barry, who cited personal reasons for his resignation.

Waugh, a former Rochester Area Association of Realtors executive vice president, also is interim executive officer of the three Realtor boards.

Waugh has chaired committees for the Michigan Association of Realtors and National Association of Realtors. She has a masters in business administration from Columbia Pacific University and has earned several Realtor designations.

Auto companies spur relocations

BY JANICE TIGAR KRAMER
SPECIAL WRITER

Some Observer & Eccentric communities saw increased transferee activity last year, while the state overall enjoyed a healthy increase, reports RELO/The International Relocation Network.

"The Michigan Group saw a significant increase in communities that are employment and housing centers, such as Canton, Farmington Hills and Troy. Much of last year's (relocation) activity was in the automobile manufacturing and supplier related industries," said Fred T. Madley, 1994 RELO president and president of Livonia based The Michigan Group.

The Michigan Group has eight offices, including branches in Plymouth, West Bloomfield and Livonia. It sold $535 million in real estate in 1993.

The study examines movement into states during 1993 by transferees who worked with 33-year-old RELO, the oldest and largest real estate referral network of independent brokers specializing in employee relocation.

The 850-member RELO network serves 23 countries. Its members sold $60.5 billion in residential real estate last year.

Suburban Detroit can expect greater transferee activity in 1995, said Steve Leibhan, senior vice president and sales manager for The Michigan Group in West Bloomfield. He predicts a 25 to 30 percent rise in relocation business next year in the Farmington Hills-West Bloomfield area.

"The automotive industry has a ripple effect on all industries. The Detroit area in general has rebounded because the automotive industry and their suppliers have had a robust comeback. The economy has improved and interest rates are stable, so we're in a growth mode," said Leibhan, whose office was expanded this year to accommodate more sales agents.

Leibhan said corporations generally make relocation decisions in the fall, and transferees begin house-hunting in January after the holidays.

Looking at 1993 activity, Madley said the nation's Southeast region enjoyed the most corporate transferee business. Thirty-five percent of transferees went to Southeastern states, up from 33 percent in 1992 and 32 percent in 1991.

Western states saw the greatest decrease in relocation activity compared to two previous years. Nationally, 17 percent of transferees served by RELO members went to the Western region, which includes California. That region received 21 percent of relocation activity in 1992 and 22 percent in 1991.

Last year, the Northeast received 20 percent of all relocations, a number that's been fairly consistent for four years. The Midwest, including Michigan, received 14 percent.

The Southwest received 11 percent of corporate transferees and North-central states only 3 percent of the national transferee activity, according to the report.

RELO says Southeastern states that attracted the greatest number of transferees last year include Georgia, Alabama, District of Columbia, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Northeastern states received one of every five relocations: Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Midwest states receiving 14 percent of all relocations were Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Eleven percent of transferee activity last year went to the Southwest states of Arizona, Arkansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

Western states attracting 17 percent of relocations were Alaska, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

The North Central region, including Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Missouri, attracted only 3 percent of all relocations.

Ask board to intervene; bylaws should rule access land

CONDO QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I moved into a condominium complex and pay an association fee. In spite of numerous written and phone requests, the management company has not taken care of my service requests, which are six months old.

Can you please refer me to a higher authority, if there is one, or another source of action, whereby the company pays attention. I have even written the manager of the company, to no avail.

A. Write the board of directors and express your concerns about the failure of the management company to act responsibly.

If the board and management company refuse to take care of the needed service requests, consult an attorney and engage his or her services to write the parties in your behalf, advising them of their legal responsibilities and the recourse that you have. That should do the trick.

Q. I live in a subdivision that contains in the plat a parcel designated as river access property. Apparently, all of the people that are benefitted by the property in question are not obligated to pay a portion of the taxes on that property.

They have made various efforts over the years to find a means by which the taxes can be paid from the members benefitted but have been unsuccessful.

We have now formed a nonprofit corporation and find that the property in question is deeded in a corporation, which has now since been dissolved. We have talked to a lawyer, but it may be expensive to proceed as we don't have any money. Do you have any shortcut suggestions?

A. You have a very complex set of facts, but it appears that the corporate entity that owned the real estate has now been dissolved and should be reinstated.

Then, a set of bylaws should be drafted that are agreed to by all of the members of the plat, obligating themselves to contribute towards common area assessments, including the parcel in question, giving the corporation the right, among other things, to enforce a lien for nonpayment of assessments due and owing to be used by the homeowners association, among other things, to pay the taxes on the property in question.

It is unclear from your question who has been paying the taxes over the years, but it appears that they have not been equally distributed. It may be beneficial to preserve the integrity of the lake property access and to expend the monies necessary in order to obtain counsel to complete these tasks.

'Pretty' isn't enough for designer

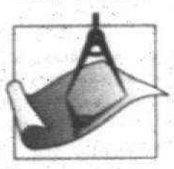
BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER



If you think that major concerns of interior designers are fabric patterns and colors, you don't know the half of it.

Just ask Shirley J. Maddalena, a designer with 25 years experience and a practice in Bloomfield Hills.

A recent project - relocating the offices of the Oakland County Bar Association from the Oakland County Courthouse to a 6,500-square-foot suite at Square Lake Park in Bloomfield Hills - tripled available space.

"We do space planning, address technical issues and needs," Maddalena said. "These people have computers, telephones, faxes. They have lighting requirements. To select finishes is a piece of cake."

Maddalena, who counts among her work CBS Fox Video in Livonia and McDonald & Co. Securities in Birmingham, had done earlier remodeling/relocation projects for the bar association.

"We had a dream list," said Kathryn Gilbert Sirovey, OCBA executive director. "The major consideration was to stay near the courthouse."

And to be financially prudent.

To that end, the architectural firm of Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates, Maddalena, Sirovey and the association's facilities committee led by William D. Booth settled on a dual strategy.

Smart businessess start out with sound corporate image

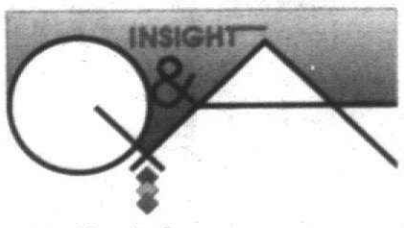
STAFF WRITER



A company's logo is one of its most important assets.

Golden arches, a blue pentastar and a black eye immediately conjure images of McDonald's, Chrysler and CBS.

Bill White, founder and president of Alden Design in Troy, and his son, David, vice president for operations, develop logos as part of a full-service advertising agency.

They said it accounts for about 15 percent of their million-dollar-a-year business.

"Everything starts with a sound corporate image," Bill said. "If a company could only choose one thing as an advertising investment, it should be a professionally-designed corporate identity."

Clients have included Staff Resources, Renaissance Court Reporters, Adair Chaldecott Construction and Rockwell Dealer Advisory Council.

Following are edited excerpts from a recent interview.

Why is a logo so important?

Bill: That's the way they present themselves to the public.

The reason we wear suits is not that we want to, but we want to appear professional. We professionalize a company. We can tell from a business card what people are.

Why can't smaller businesses develop their own logos?

Bill: You need that unbiased perspective. It certainly requires an open mind. Some are too close. They don't have experience. I've been doing this 30 years.

David: There are a lot of companies, family businesses, that have a lot of pride in their logo. They may have had a daughter, niece, nephew or brother design a logo based on what they like rather than what a company does or results they're trying to get across.

What's the process pulling together a logo?

Bill: We generally research that particular industry to see how other companies present themselves. Then we ask, 'How can we make this one (client) the best in the industry so it can have a competitive advantage just by the way it looks'

If it's an existing company, generally we'll try to upgrade what's already established. Medium companies are becoming aware. They like their logo, they paid someone to do it years ago, but it's not quite there.

By the time a large company comes to us, they have a pretty good idea what they want.

Is there more to it?

Bill: Logo literally means name in Greek. That becomes a trademark and servicemark. What comes first is the name. That's more important than design.

We'll get materials from a company, spread it all out here (on a conference table), look at it, take out what's bad, see what's good, what we can build on. We start off using black. If it looks good in black, it will look good in anything. It's the cheapest and easiest.

And other colors?

Bill: Blue has a calming effect. Red has an exciting effect.

What about computers?

David: Just about everything is done on the computer. We'll start with tissue pad and pencil to get the creative process started. From there, it goes to the computer to get cleaned up.

If you have graphics in mind, you can get started that way.

Bill: Now, we go right into the computer. You can try different type faces, explore options.

What does it cost to develop or modernize a logo?

Bill: We start at $5,000. When I started (in the business), I did corporate identity work for free to make my work look good.

And companies will pay that?

Bill: How can we do a good job if they're not going to allow time, effort and enthusiasm?

From my experience, every person counts before spending money. They have to know what they're getting.

That entrepreneur has to be convinced in his mind that it's a good way to spend five to 10 thousand dollars, better than maybe a new drill press.

I sympathize with them. I tell them, 'If you want to become the company you fantasize, what you want to be, this is what you have to do.'

David: If we're going to get involved with a large company with a standards manual, it can go up to $100,000.

How do you drum up business?

Bill: Most today is referrals.

David: We send out things like the corporate identity poster of logos we've done. I'll go out with a sample case and give some idea of price.

Bill: The very first meeting is to establish confidence and trust. Their first reaction is to defend what they have. You have to walk around and be very careful.

David: It's personal.

Bill: You're dealing with people. The chemistry must be right. We're brutally honest with them. Most people are serious. They're making an investment and come around to your way of thinking.

"We kept build-outs (moving walls, utility lines) limited as much as possible," Sirovey said. "The more we could save for our landlord, the more he could drop our lease (payments)."

The other component was to use as much of their current inventory of equipment, cabinetry and furnishings as possible.

"I do a department plan, black out space for any individual here and proposed individuals," Maddalena said. "Then we do electrical and telephone equipment locations."

"The things I didn't think about is where are the phone outlets going to be, computer outlets," Sirovey said. "That's what a designer understands."

"What the most strenuous thing, though, in the whole process is monitoring build-outs," Maddalena said. "I was here to make sure that very important elements were executed."

"Telephone and mechanical rooms had to be much larger," she added. "Then they encroached on a major walkway. We redesigned. You have to make sure heating, ventilating and air condition switches are in the right places."

Maddalena put her most noticeable stamp on the entrance/reception area.

Glass doors open to a black marble floor partially covered by an Oriental rug, a charcoal gray background, desk with black marble countertop and the Association's logo — OCBA — in nine-inch-high brass letters on the wall, all illuminated by fluorescent lighting that glows like incandescent.

"The logo is quite unique," Maddalena said. "I felt it was important that it be up front.

"I think it looks classy without appearing ostentatious," Sirovey said.

A storage room was transformed to a conference room, the largest individual office of the previous tenant into the board room. Smaller existing offices were utilized for mediation rooms, storage and administrative functions.

"We wanted members to use the facility for diverse things," Booth said. "Since continuing legal education is coming, we wanted a facility that could provide programs the bar would be involved in.

"We did have assistance of some design professionals," Booth added. "Obviously, they responded very well. The layout is very functional."

Different shades of grays and black predominate.

Movable partitions and existing furnishings were brought in from the former OCBA digs. Employees were observed at task and questioned as to lighting requirements.

Democracy prevailed when new chairs were selected for the board room. About a half dozen were displayed, members sat in them, then voted, Maddalena said.

To show the lengths that the facilities team went to avoid moving utilities, a small sink was left in the office of the part-time foundation director.

And when the team wound up with a lemon of a kitchen/lunchroom, including a red sink and black-and-white tiles from the previous tenant, it made lemonade by buying a couple red tables and a huge piece of art featuring a red flower.

"My main objective was to get the client operating . . . to get space to work for them," Maddalena said. "Making it pretty is second.

"It was a wonderful opportunity to offer space to allow more services and make members proud to be part of the organization," Sirovey said. "We have 3,500 members, quite a bit bigger than some state associations.

"We came in looking better than expected, less expensive than expected," she said of the $170,000 expenditure to date.

Try this exercise to go through Internet

O&E ONLINE

EMORY DANIELS

One of our online users, and readers of this column, made a good suggestion that I will follow in today's column.

Ken K. suggests we use an exercise format and go step-by-step, beginning to end, from accessing information from a data base to saving or printing it out. Gopher, FTP and Telnet tools will be covered later, but a quick exercise might help users who are anxious to go beyond e-mail and chat.

Let's say you want information about MEAP test scores of your local school, or average teacher salaries for your local school district. Our exercise can't find the information for all users, of course, but you can easily substitute the name of your district and school and print it out.

Our source of information is the Michigan School Report, a public document put on-line for folks like us by the governor and Michigan Department of Education. To find it, we will use Gopher. Sign in, go to the first menu, type P for Programs, I for Internet, and then G for Gopher.

You are given 21 choices or you may select 22 to get to the master Gopher server. Today we don't need the master Gopher server because system operator Greg Day was thoughtful enough to offer the choice of "Government" among the streamlined options. Select numeral 13 (Government), then numeral 9 (Government Information) and then numeral 2 for State and Local Government Information.

You will see a list of states. Choose numeral 12 (Michigan) and then numeral 4 for Michigan Department of Education. Among the choices the department offers is the Michigan School Report (numeral 9). Then choose Michigan School Report again by choosing numeral 2.

PC users then are given the choice of scanning all school districts beginning with a particular letter. We will choose numeral 18 for "Michigan School Districts Beginning With Letter L." You may want to choose the letter your district begins with. I scrolled down to numeral 34 to select Livonia Public Schools. Now you can either choose numeral 1 for district-wide MEAP scores, teacher salaries, etc., or scroll down to any individual school building for individual MEAP scores.

You will end up with a screen and a half of information about your local school district or your local school building. With the data on the screen, type M for Mail. Fill in your own e-mail address and hit RETURN. By the time you leave the Gopher site and return to the main menu, go to Pine and the data will be there. Type Y to print. Or type S to save, answer "yes" to create directory, and the data is saved to your file manager area on-line. (The best thing to do is print and delete the message and not bother saving, unless you have a need).

Another option at the department of education site, when the data is still on the screen, is to use the save command. Type S and a default file name is given which you can accept by hitting RETURN. The department site says you can print by typing P. Try it. My printer did not respond; yours might. If you save, the file ends up in the on-line file manager area to be downloaded later.

Most information I retrieve from an Internet data base I merely print out and don't save. If you lose the hard copy your printer produces, you can always return to the data base and mail it to yourself again. But if you saved it, let's go get it.

From the main menu, type P for Programs, I for Internet, and then M for Manage. Choose numeral 1 for "manage your own files" option. The list of files you have saved will scroll by. Look for the name of the district or building you saved when at the education department's Gopher site. Select numeral 1 to download (save to your hard drive) the file. Choose numeral 1 and hit RETURN to select the Zmodem protocol. (Reminder: If you dialed in on a Merit number rather than the main number at Livonia or Birmingham, select the Kermit protocol).

You will be asked for a file name. First press Page Down Key and choose Zmodem (or Kermit) again. At file name prompt, hit ESCAPE key to go back to the original file name prompt. Fill in file name at prompt and hit RETURN. The file will begin to download to your hard drive. A status screen will appear to keep your eyes occupied while the process occurs.

When off-line you can go to a text editor and upload the file. Or load into your word processor by converting the ASCII text. You can now print off-line or do whatever pleases your whimsy.

The downloading process does not always work, or so it seems. The reason is because uploading and downloading is a little more complicated than other processes you will use on-line. Often I forget a small step, and it invariably trips me up. Write down the steps on an index card or in a notebook and follow religiously each time. While our Internet service is user-friendly as a menu-driven system, there are times when UNIX commands require us to be exact. This, my friends, is one of them times.

A FREE TIP: Here's an easy way to answer e-mail message without typing in address. Call message unto screen, type R to Reply. Answer no when asked to forward message. A blank message screen appears with the address of the sender already filled in alongside the "To:" line. To find out how quickly e-mail gets to a distant destination, send a message to someone and at the 'CC:" prompt fill in your own e-mail address. MAKE THE MOVE NOW!!

THERE'S NO BETTER TIME TO BUY

If you've been thinking about moving from your current residence to the house of your dreams or from an apartment to a starter home, this is the time to do it.

- The selection is excellent.
- Low interest rates are available.
- There are many financing options available.

NOW is the right time to Buy a Home!

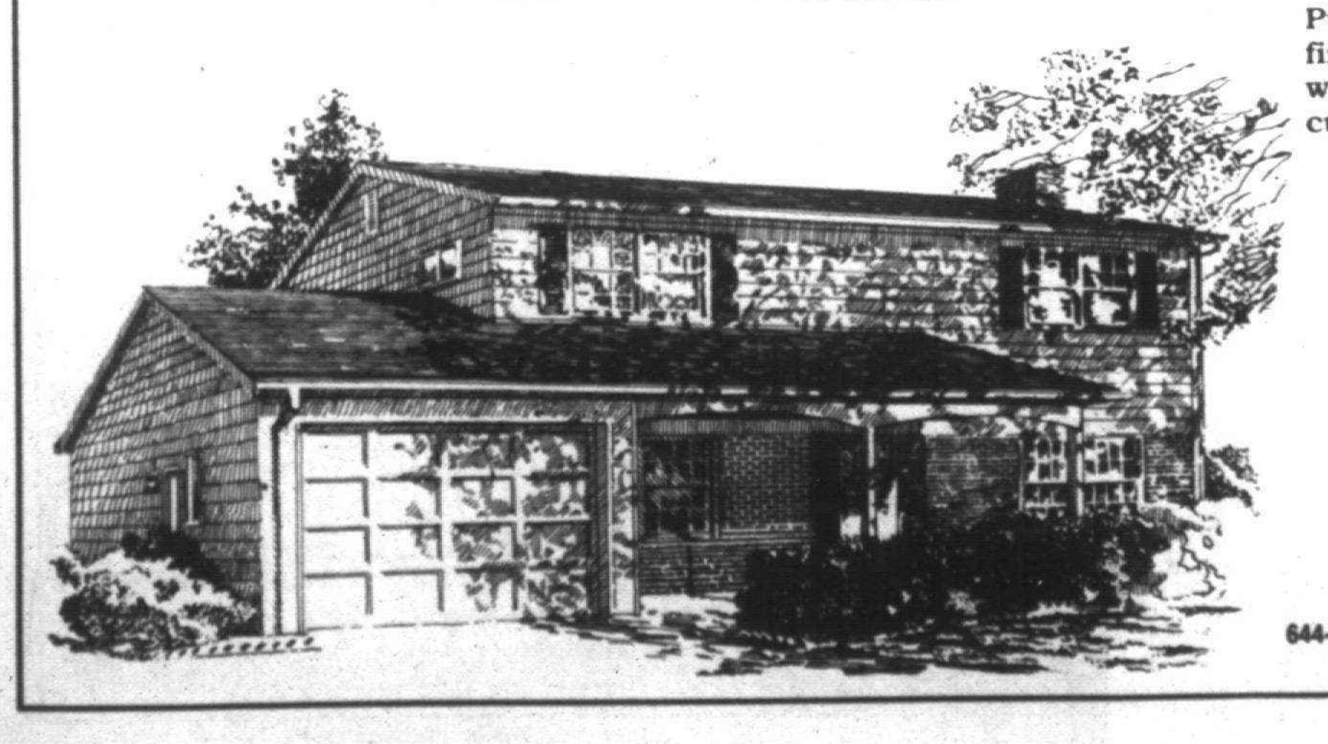
Purchasing a home has always been a wise decision, but current market conditions are making it even more attractive to buy now.

EXCELLENT FINANCING IS AVAILABLE NOW

Interest rates are lower, and mortgage lenders are offering a wide variety of financing options. Low interest rates mean you can get more for your money.

- 30-year fixed mortgages are still available as well as many other financing alternatives.
- First time buyers are encouraged to purchase now through financing packages offering small down payments.

YOUR HOME IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT



Purchasing a home is the best way to build a solid financial foundation. A home not only provides you with warmth and comfort, it also serves as a secure investment.
- Today, homes in the area continue to be a wise investment.
- Equity in your home can be used as collateral, thus providing you with additional financial security.
- Home ownership provides you with a sizable tax advantage because interest paid on mortgages is fully deductible. Property taxes can also be deducted.

PREPARE FOR WINTER

Take care of the house this fall, inside and out

by Sharon Williams
Special Writer

Autumn leaves, a brisk breeze and shorter days are just a few of the many signals that send ambitious homeowners on their annual hunt for storm windows and snow shovels.

And for good reason. A few seasonal changes around the house really can make a difference in fuel, utility and maintenance expenses, and in the overall comfort level of a home during fall and winter. Here's a few ideas to get your home and yard ready for the season ahead.

DO LAST-MINUTE YARD WORK

The cool-weather season usually means downtime in the yard and garden. But there are ways to give both a boost before winter takes over.

In the garden, for example, you can protect plants from light frosts with row covers. Rake or blow leaves, then spread mulch on beds to help limit soil compaction from heavy rains, stop erosion and create a habitat for many beneficial soil organisms.

Additional fall chores might include planting bulbs for next spring, trimming perennial shrubs, trees and flowers of their dead or diseased stems. Clean and store garden hoses, plant containers and tools for the season, and give metal implements such as rakes and shovels a light coat of oil for rust protection.

Prepare the lawn mower for the winter by emptying the gas tank, then parking it in the garage.

GET SET FOR WET WEATHER

Don't wait for the first snowfall to get moving. Decks, cedar roof shingles, wood siding and fences, for example, usually fare the weather better when protected by waterproofing products. Fall also is the prime time to check the snow blower to be sure it's ready for the winter and to locate or buy a snow shovel.

And since your roof could take a beating during the next few months, take time to winterize it now by removing leaves from the valleys, and clearing leaves, twigs and dirt from gutters and downspouts.

TURN UP TEMPS WITH TREATMENTS

Prepare for fall and winter by trading breezy curtains and bare floors for treatments that will warm up your interior environment.

Ward off winter's chill, for example, by tossing an Oriental or hooked area rug over your vinyl, hardwood or even carpeted floors, and by removing slip covers to reveal heavier upholstery.

Or bolster the warming power of your window treatments by adding an additional layer — wooden mini-blinds, shutters or fabric shades.

DECORATE FOR COMFORT

It's easy to add some psychological warmth to your abode at the onset of the cold-weather season through a variety of decorating techniques.

Ideas include hanging an antique quilt or dried wreath, filling a decorative bowl or cornucopia with nuts, Indian corn, pomegranates, gourds and squashes.

Paint a bench, end table or chair, or stencil a border, in a hue of the season: deep gold, rich brown or burnt orange.

Rearrange the furniture in a cozier configuration by pulling everything together for a conversational group-ing, or simply position your most comfortable chair near the fireplace.

Mounted pegs in a hall or entry-way can turn the colorful scarfs, shawls and hats of winter into an artful wall arrangement, while lamp shades that are wider at the bottom toss extra amounts of warming light on the surface below.

Don't forget folk art and antiques, which can make an environment more welcoming in an instant. Decoys, scented candles, pillows, decorative frames, antique books and fall-inspired table appointments and dinnerware are among the heartwarming extras.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

As fall approaches, our thoughts turn inwards — to ourselves and our homes — as temperatures cool off and we spend more time inside. Facing the cooler months ahead, a little change can go along way to making the winter more tolerable.

In this issue of Fall Home Improvement, which appears today, Thursday, September 29, 1994 in all Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, you'll find helpful, money-saving hints to prepare for cooler temps. You'll also find some do-it-yourself decor ideas to add some warmth your home.

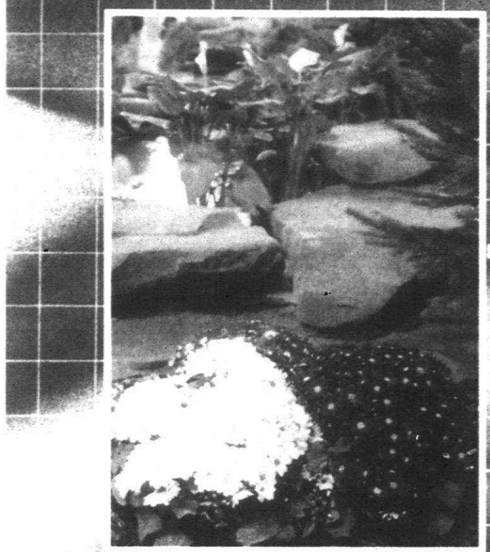
I-96 AND NOVI ROAD
September 29—October 2, 1994



Fall Remodeling Show

A Public Service Activity of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan

Fall Remodeling— Hottest Ticket In Town!

Homes make a statement to the community about the owners and their sense of style and taste. To help express yourself more fully through your home, visit the second annual Fall Remodeling Show. The show offers a bevy of beautiful ideas for home and garden when it opens September 29 at the Novi Expo Center.

The following are just some of the highlights to be found while browsing through the 200,000 square feet of exhibit space:

The Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association presents a variety of gardens to stimulate the senses. Stone and brick paver pathways, nightscaping, indoor and outdoor ponds for water gardening, retaining walls, putting greens and traditional backyards are displayed throughout the gardens. Gardens will be created by Northwind Farms of Utica, LMC of Livonia, National Landscape of Farmington Hills, Werner Landscaping of Northville, Artistic Landscaping of Farmington Hills, D&B Landscaping, Inc. of Detroit, Alexander Nursery of Clinton Township, Eaton Nursery of West Bloomfield, and Garden Path Nursery of West Bloomfield.

Floral arrangements for fall and holiday entertaining will be provided compliments of local Professional Allied Florist Association shops.

Demonstrations and how to workshops on decorating, home repair and remodeling will be held continuously throughout the show. Some of the demonstrations include how to install a bathtub liner by Bath Tech, Bathtub Liners, a designer from The Closet Factory will discuss individual storage needs, D.A.Y.M.S. will have demonstrations on how to use security devices and home automation equipment contained in a Honeywell Home, Window & Door Company will install windows and doors, Saxtons Garden Centers will demonstrate how to use snow equipment and Ryobi's shredders and The Sawmill will offer fencing demonstrations on solid wood, functional fencing and wainscots. Exhibitors will be available to answer questions, explain product benefits and encourage show visitors to try out various equipment.

A Treasure Chest contest with daily prizes will be held in addition to the following prizes offered by exhibitors. The Closet Factory offers two $500 prizes toward the purchase of its storage systems. Complete Protection Alarms will give away a security system. Custom Design Security offers an alarm system. Consumers Power Company will give away a natural gas grill. Dalton Environmental Commercial Cleaning presents a free ventilation system cleaning. JEM Custom Interiors will give away store gift certificates. Specialty Satellite & Antenna Services gives away an 18-inch satellite dish system. Tension Tamer Spas offers the home use of a portable hot tub for one week. Window Works will give away $1,000 worth of custom window treatments, and the Woodland Kitchen and Bath Gallery will hold a drawing for a night at the Ritz Carlton for two.

All in all, over 200 exhibitors will showcase their most interesting and up-to-date products and services for kitchens, baths, doors, windows, yard gardens, remodeling, furniture, arts and crafts, decorative accessories, pets, electronics, heating, cooling and appliances.

BASM also sponsors the International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at the Cobo Conference/Exhibition Center and the Spring Home & Garden Show at the Novi Expo Center.

The show is open through October 2. The Novi Expo Center is located at I-96 and Novi Road. Show hours are from 2pm - 10pm Thursday and Friday; 10am - 10pm Saturday; and 10am - 8pm Sunday. Admission is $5 for adults; $3 for seniors and children 6-12; children under 6 are admitted free. Family tickets for two adults and accompanying children are available at Farmer Jack/A&P for $8. Ample parking is located at the Novi Expo Center for a fee. For more information call (810) 737-4478.

Novi Remodeling Show Features Products & Services

Fall Remodeling Show
NOVI EXPO CENTER
I-96 and Novi Road
Sept 29 - Oct 2, 1994

Over 200 exhibitors will showcase their most interesting and up-to-date products for the home and garden at the second annual Fall Remodeling Show, which opens September 29 and runs through October 2 at the Novi Expo Center.

Those following are just some of things to be discovered while browsing through the 200,000 square feet of exhibit space.

Dozens of ideas will be available for those considering home improvement projects including Coy Construction Inc. of Walled Lake which will feature its ideas for wood decks and finished basements. Lee Wholesale Combo Vent Company of Taylor will have roofing material, shingles and ventilation products. Weiss Prestaining of Ann Arbor will display its prestained exterior wood siding. And if you're looking for a yard barn, see Heartland Industries of Waterford's display.

Pella Window & Door Company of West Bloomfield will feature its windows, doors and skylights. To dress up your windows, Window Works of Bloomfield Hills will feature draperies, interior shutters, blinds and shades. Patio Enclosures Inc. of Novi will also display window treatments as well as patio enclosures, solariums and greenhouses. Glass blocks for windows and walls will be on display by Glass Block Sales of Warren. JEM Custom Interiors of Novi features custom window treatments, bedding and pillows.

J & R Industries The Carpet Specialists of Livonia will bring its carpet and flooring to the show. Paynter Floors Inc. of Novi shows another alternative with its hard wood floors.

With another Michigan winter just around the corner, Carefree Lawn Center of Trenton and Saxtons Garden Center of Plymouth brings their snow and leaf blowers to the show. Lincoln Brick & Supply of Dearborn will display fireplaces and stoves.

A lot of attention goes to kitchens and baths, including Specialties Showroom of Farmington Hills and Radio Distributing Company of Taylor displaying appliances. Fairway Construction Company of Southfield features remodeling ideas and kitchen displays. Kitchen Solvers of West Bloomfield shares its ideas in kitchen cabinet refacing. Kitchens by Lenore & Richards of Birmingham features custom cabinets, while Newmyer Inc. of Walled Lake features kitchen cabinets and countertops. Mans Building Centers of Trenton will show kitchen cabinets and provide information on construction financing.

Kitchen and bath cabinetry will be shown by Kurtis Kitchen & Bath Centers of Livonia, Pioneer Cabinetry, Inc. of Davison and Salem Lumber Kitchen and Bath of Livonia. Bath Crest of Metro Detroit in Redford features porcelain resurfacing of tubs, tiles, sinks and appliances. T.J. Ceramic Tile Sales of Southfield will bring its ceramic, marble and granite tile and slabs.

The patriotic in the crowd will enjoy The Ladder Works/Flag Works of Lombard, IL, and its telescoping flag poles, flags and banners.

If you're interested in creating a home gym, visit the exhibit by American Exercise and Gym Equipment of Farmington Hills which will have fitness equipment and a portable steam room on display.

Finally you can fulfill that resolution and organize your closets with the help of California Closet Company of West Bloomfield.

Once again, Alice's Promotions of Detroit has brought together over 100 exhibitors who will feature Hickory Hill antiques, antique jewelry, minerals and fossils, Colasanti plants, floral design and custom made trees, stained glass lamps, hand carved fireplace mantels, leaded glass, oak and iron furniture and Christmas santas and holiday decorations.

COZY COCOON

Home heating ideas that don't burn up the budget

by Sharon Williams
Special Writer

When fall rolls around many homeowners bid farewell to their gardens and decks, and turn their thoughts to ways to stay warm and still save money. Here are some options you can use to create a warming trend in your home.

BEFRIEND YOUR FURNACE

To receive maximum output at minimum cost, your furnace needs to be in good working order.

Take on simple jobs yourself, such as cleaning and replacing air filters or removing dust from baseboard heaters and vents.

You might even consider updating an older system for increased energy savings and comfort. Get an estimate, for example, of what it would cost to convert from oil to natural gas, or to replace an old heat pump with one of the new variable-speed models. Compare installation costs with the projected savings to see if an update would be worthwhile.

CRACK DOWN ON AIR LEAKS

Home heating experts estimate that about 15 percent of the energy used to heat a home is lost through cracks and air leaks.

Seal leaks around wall switches, electrical outlets and baseboard moldings, for instance. Install door sweeps and weather-stripping around windows and doors. Add summer/winter film to windows to boost their insulating abilities.

GET READY, GET SET

An electronic programmable thermostat can change the temperature of a home several times a day. With these smart thermostats, you simply pick the temperature settings you want, and the thermostat takes over the job of keeping you comfortable.

In terms of energy savings, the Trane Home Comfort Institute estimates you'll save about 3 percent of your heating consumption for every degree you lower your heat during winter.

SMALL CHANGES

Some other ways to stay warm without breaking your budget: running ceiling fans in reverse to move warm air trapped in the ceiling area down to the living area; use a humidifier to ward off winter's chill indoors; or try one of the new compact, low-cost space heaters in small areas.

FINE FINISH

Paint offers affordable impact

by Alison Ashton
Special Writer

You love the look of granite floors, but the real thing is out of your budget. Your living room needs something to wake it up.

Get a bucket of paint, invest in a few supplies and set aside a weekend.

Paint is a budget decorator's best friend. And supplies, tools and helpful manuals are now readily available.

What used to be the domain of professionals has been put in the hands of homeowners who want to spruce up a room or a piece of furniture.

Choosing Colors

There's a whole psychology involved in color. So think carefully before you buy paint. Some colors are better suited to some rooms than others.

For example, red is an energizing color thought to stimulate appetite. Use it it in a dining room rather than in a child's room. For a child's room, consider calming shades of blue, which also gives a sense of security.

Color also can change your perception of a room's proportions. Darker colors can make a cavernous room feel more intimate, while lighter shades open up a small room.

Creative Techniques

You can simply apply paint with a brush or a roller. But once you see some of the textures that can be achieved, you'll want to try something more ambitious.

Sponging is the perfect paint effect for beginners because it's easy, quick and random and imperfections are not a problem. Basically, it involves applying two colors (with a brush and sponge) over a coat of base paint. Ragging is a similar technique, but uses a rag (preferably cotton, linen or cheesecloth) to create the texture. You can even use paint to mimic wood grain and marble.

Simple Stenciling

Stenciling is a favorite of beginners because it's easy to learn you can stencil as much or as little as you want.

Try stenciling a silhouette in the shape of a bunch of grapes around the kitchen, or use a teddy-bear motif to enliven a child's toy chest.

WOOD FLOORS

You have choices when it comes to refinishing

by Meredith Grenier
Special Writer

You think your house is in pretty good shape until you glance down to see your once shiny hardwood floor is now a dull, scratched, gray mass.

The good news is you have only two options, not counting throwing a rug over the mess.

You can call a professional refinisher and in two to four days have shiny floors again, or you can rent the equipment and, within the same time, do the job yourself. There are pros and cons to both.

Hiring a contractor

Most contractors charge between $1.75 to $2 per square foot of floor. A typical job, about 600 square feet, takes a minimum of three days to complete.

Hire refinishers who are licensed and bonded. Also, look for companies that employ regular floor refinishers, as opposed to those using subcontractors.

Do-It-Yourself Floor Refinishing

Day One

- If a carpet is being pulled up, remove all the staples and put wood putty in the holes.
- Remove all moldings, marking where it belongs on the wall.
- Sand the floor first with 36-grit sandpapers. This will remove varnish and start to strip the wood.
- Sand again with 60- to 80-grit to take out scrape marks.
- Finally, sand with 100-grit to smooth the floor.
- Vacuum the dust and remove fine dust by using sticky tack cloth.
- Apply first coat of stain or polyurethane, using a brush for more control.

Day Two

- After allowing floor to dry 10 hours, use the sanding machine, but this time with a "Perma-grip dry block" and acrylic pad, to smooth out the bubbles and knock down the wood's raised grain.
- Use tack cloth again and clean floor extremely well.
- Put on first coat of polyurethane if using stain or final coat of polyurethane for natural floors. Let dry 10 hours.

Day Three

- Put on a second and final coat of polyurethane if using stain and then buff with acrylic pad or lamb's wool.
- If not using a stain, you only need to buff.

Long-lasting investment

A typical refinishing job should look good for about five to 10 years, depending on how well-cared for it is. Floors that get a beating may need to be touched up every few years.

While dark floor stains were popular in the 70s, people today are opting for natural-looking floors using no stain, only two coats of polyurethane.

Do-It-Yourself

Do-it-yourselfers should rent a 16-inch floor sanding machine, which cannot ruin your floor, specialists say. With this machine, there shouldn't be worry about destroying your floors by putting dips, spirals or waves in it.

The 8-inch-wide drum sander is much heavier and can destroy the floor if not used properly. It is a more efficient machine, but it is not recommended for do-it-yourselfers.

Foolproof Machine

The 16-inch sander, many professionals say, is foolproof. It comes with a sanding block attachment that sands up to the edge of the wall. There will be about 4 inches machine can't reach in the corners. This must be sanded with a hand-held electric sander.
