Patterson, Warfield face off

Bruce Patterson of Canton and Ken Warfield of Wayne are seeking the 11th District county commission seat. Patterson is the director of Planned Giving at Eastern Michigan University.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

As political loyalties in Wayne County ebb and flow, one of the more evenly divided areas is the 11th District of the county commission.

Represented by Democrat Bryan Amann since May 1991, the district encompasses three cities and four townships on the western frontier of Wayne County, including Wayne, Belleville, Romulus and Canton Township.

It is the largest county commission district in Wayne County, and with the rapid growth of Canton Township, it's becoming more and more Republican.

Amann, who draws praise from Republicans and Democrats alike, has chosen not to seek re-election, thereby setting up an interesting contest.

The challengers are Republican Bruce Patterson of Canton Township and Ken Warfield of Wayne.

Patterson, 46, is the director of Planned Giving at Eastern Michigan University. Before that he practiced law for more than 20 years. Patterson is also past president of the Canton Economic Club and a member of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board. He and his wife Phyllis have three children.

Warfield, 54, has been the mayor of Wayne since 1991. He worked for the

Flags fly high at home

BY JILL HALPIN
STAFF WRITER

Outside the Mollner home in south Canton fly two American flags. Tattered and worn, the flags have flown steadily for the past two years, one for each of Joe and Linda Mollner's sons in the military.

The world political events of the past month have hit their home with a resounding effect: son Jason, 23, is a member of the United States Army, and son Jonathan, 21, is a Marine stationed in Camp Pendleton, Calif. On Sept. 21, Jason and his troop landed in Haiti, and Jonathan is on four-hour notice to leave for Kuwait and Iraq.

"I talked to Jonathan's wife last week. He's on four-hour notice and his bags are packed. He could get the message to leave anytime. So each morning when he leaves, she isn't sure that he'll be coming home that night. It's tough for her," Mollner said. Mollner said that her daughter-in-law, the former Jessica King of Westland, will take part in a support group for wives of Marines if her husband is called overseas.

For Linda and Joe Mollner, all of this adds up to a lot of watching and waiting. When the first Army troops landed in Haiti, the family, including sons Joe, 25, and Jeff, 14, stayed glued to the television, trying unsuccessfully to catch a glimpse of Jason.

"There's been a lot of sleepless nights. I'm worried about them — they are so far from home," said Linda. For the past month, the family has relied on television news reports and occasional phone calls from her sons for information on their whereabouts.

"I talked to Jason last week, and all he can say is, 'Rumor is . . .'" he can't really tell us what is going on, even if he knows," Mollner said. Since two of her four sons joined the military, Jason in 1989 and Jonathan in 1991, monthly phone bills in the Mollner home have been in the three digits. That doesn't

Hough School won't be moved to airport

BY MELISSA PREDDY
SPECIAL WRITER

Canton's historic Hough School will not be moving to Canton-Plymouth Mettetal Airport after all.

Faced with opposition from local pilots and the possibility of another buyer for the abandoned one-room schoolhouse, the Mettetal Airport Advisory Board voted last week to withdraw from the project.

Board member Barbara Bergenty of Canton announced Thursday night that she received a call that afternoon from a man interested in purchasing the building, which dates back to the 1890s. The man, who declined to be identified, said that he would move the schoolroom to another part of the state.

Bergenty said that the man was taken aback when she told him that the building was designated historic, because of the additional preservation expenses involved.

"Now I don't know if he'll take it," she said. Meanwhile, the board discussed the general lack of community support for the project, which they have been working on since January, and carried a motion to dissolve it. "When the advisory board was put together, we needed something that would start the healing process," Bergenty explained later, referring to controversy surrounding the state purchase of the airport.

"We found out that the school was just sitting there. Since we had some land available we thought we could move it to the airport, to use for our meetings and any other clubs that wanted to meet there."

The State Bureau of Aeronautics eventually allocated $15,000 of state revenue from the airport to be used for moving and renovating the building.

However, Bergenty said, "The pilots didn't want state funds to be

Cooperative learning doesn't enthuse parents

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Not everyone in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is convinced "cooperative learning," an instructional strategy whereby students do their work in groups, is a good idea.

Some elementary school parents say group learning is fine for classes such as art and music, but that early elementary students trying to learn letters and sounds in groups find it stressful and frustrating.

Don and Sharon Holton of Plymouth Township say students are being used in a grand cooperative learning experiment.

"I feel we need to get back to the basics. If something works, quit touting this experimental stuff. A lot of our kids are losing something," said Sharon Holton, whose son Wesley, a junior at Salem High School, recently transferred out of a cooperative learning algebra class.

Wesley's father, Don, addressed the Plymouth-Canton school board on the issue last week.

"We seem to be interested in trying to assist the less motivated student, and not challenge the more motivated student," said Holton. After his son received a 93 percent on his first algebra test, Wesley was asked to be a "coach and encourager" for other kids who got 80's and 80's.

"How do we challenge the student who is trying to achieve? The system doesn't seem to promote accountability in the student. We ask them to be tutors, or to watch others retake the test. That takes accountability away from the teacher."

Wesley Holton is now in an OBE, or outcome-based education, algebra class in which students can retake tests until they achieve a passing grade.

Wesley says it's an improvement over the cooperative learning class.

"If you don't get it the first time and blow it on a test, you get a chance to relearn the information," he said. "If you didn't get the grade you wanted, you can get that grade by going to math lab and taking a retake."

Store offers flu shots

The Canton Kmart store will offer flu vaccinations administered by nurses on Tuesday, Oct. 18, and Plymouth's Kmart on Thursday, Oct. 27. Customers will be charged a fee of $10 for the vaccination. For every flu shot administered, a portion of the proceeds will be donated to the American Lung Association to support lung disease research and clean air incentives.

Symptoms of the flu are sore throat, dry cough, fever, chills, weakness, loss of appetite, fatigue and aching of the head, back, arms and legs. A new display at Kmart features a symptom analyzer with recommendations for both brand name and private label sinus, cough and cold products. In addition the Kmart "Health Central" corner located by the pharmacy offers the latest tips on how to keep families healthy throughout the cold and flu season.

Woman treated after crash

A 38-year-old Canton woman was rushed to Annapolis Hospital after her 1985 gray Oldsmobile collided with a semi-tractor trailer early Tuesday morning. The woman was east-bound on Michigan Avenue at 6:30 a.m. when her car struck the semi, which was pulling out of a private driveway. No tickets have been issued yet, according to Canton Township Public Safety officer Tammie Colling. The cause of the accident is still under investigation.

Since Lori Sasena addressed the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education a couple of weeks ago, overcrowding in her child's kindergarten classroom has been alleviated. Her child's class at Hoben Elementary went from 30 to 27 after a child moved and two students transferred to the afternoon class. "Things are going wonderfully now," she said of Bonnie Goodrich's class. "She's the best teacher you could ask for."

Spirited pregame events have CC Boys Bowled over

Electricity charged the air at last Friday's pregame activities to kick off the game of the year, otherwise known as the Boys Bowl, between rivals Catholic Central and Birmingham Brother Rice.

The Boys Bowl tradition began in 1944 when Father Flanagan of Boys Town brought his football team from Nebraska to play Detroit Catholic Central in Briggs Stadium at the corner of Trumbull and Michigan Avenue. The prelude to the 50th Boys Bowl began with the Shamrock Shuffle Charity Run, with 250 runners and half as many in-line skaters fighting for a first place finish.

Proceeds from the 2-mile run, produced under the direction of cross country coach Tony Magni, went to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan for a 6-year-old Detroit boy diagnosed with cancer. The money will help pay for a trip to Disney World in Florida.

The Rev. Joseph Moffat, CC principal, led the singing of the alma mater after talking about keeping the rivalry alive and continuing the tradition started with Father Flanagan of Boys Town.

Head football coach Thomas Mach geared up the crowd by telling the story of an old Chinese legend followed by a cheer in Chinese. The CC starting lineup was announced, and the homecoming court presented. The unveiling of a large-scale mural, painted by art students over the last three weeks, and a skit rounded out the morning events.

Game results in Sports

In the past six years, $16,000 from the charity runs went to such worthy causes as Muscular Dystrophy Association medical research, scholarships, a CC building program, and new gymnasium for Notre Dame High School. Finishing at the head of the pack was CC senior Mike Krivick of Plymouth. Canton Township brothers Jamie Bauer, a junior, and Jeremy, a freshman, took second and third places, respectively. "It was for a good cause. That's why I did it," said Krivick. Next up was a pep rally with close to 1,000 students, faculty, staff and alumni crowding into the gymnasium to cheer on the Shamrocks in Sunday's game at Wisner Stadium in Pontiac.

Ceramics store opens in town

The closest thing around was at least 10 minutes away. We knew there was a need here in the community," said Lee. "I kept telling Shirley that she had a talent and should be working for herself."

Canton Ceramics and Gifts Inc. was started over two years ago by brother and sister Jerry Lee and Shirley Henning. The store, located at 6720 Canton Center Road in the West Gate shopping center, offers a full line of custom-made kitchen and dining ware as well as gifts and home decoration pieces. Customers may order their pieces finished or complete the pieces themselves, according to business owner Henning.

"Some people change their home decor frequently, and this way they are able to coordinate their look by bringing their pieces in and modifying the color," said Henning. Canisters, sets, casseroles and everyday dish sets are popular among local residents, Henning said. A complete customized set costs around $80, she said.

A ceramist for 26 years, Henning was working for a ceramics store in a neighboring community when she noticed that close to half the incoming business was from the Plymouth-Canton area, said her brother about it.

Wayne Fire Department 1962-89, the last 15 years as chief. Warfield and his wife, Goldie, own a small suite of offices in apartment Wayne and live in an apartment above the offices.

Warfield said he's running for commissioner because "public service is part of my being. As long as I'm around, that's what I'm going to try to do in one way or another." Warfield said Patterson is interested in the job only insofar as it is "a stepping stone to a judgeship." Patterson once referred to Warfield as a "clown," and said "the city of Wayne isn't the shining example of progressivism that it once was."

"The cooperative class I didn't like too much. You ended up teaching the other kids because they wouldn't do their homework a lot of times. You lose time because of their mistakes." "OBE is better," he added, "because the teacher explains it to you, and you don't have to re-explain it to other kids."

Tom Tattan, assistant superintendent for instruction, said students learn at higher levels when they teach others. "Ford Motor says this is the work mode they want new employees to work with. They want them to be able to teach within that concept."

Don Holton, an engineer at the Sheldon Road Ford plant, says Ford does work in teams, but that the schools have taken a good idea too far. "At Ford, what you have is a group of engineers on the same educational skill level, but with diverse experiences. You bring those diverse experiences together and solve problems to the benefit of a large work group."

The Holtons' oldest son attends the University of Michigan "where they really don't care about cooperative learning or OBE. They care about good grades, being competitive, and getting good jobs," he said. "I just don't think these programs promote competition."

Flags

matter to the family, Mollner said. "As long as they can get to a phone, they can call anytime."

Linda Mollner is a clerk in the Canton Township building department and has lived with her family in the community for the past 26 years. Her three eldest sons graduated from John Glenn High School in the Wayne-Westland school district and her youngest is still in school.

At times like these, Mollner sometimes wonders what prompted her sons to join the military. She remembers in vivid detail the day that Jonathan, now a Marine lance corporal, brought the recruiter home to dinner.

It was a February afternoon when her son showed up for dinner with a visitor — the recruitment officer. Because Jonathan was only 17 at the time, Linda had to sign papers for him to enlist. Although it was very hard for her and her husband, he "knew what he wanted to do. We felt it wasn't our place to deny him the chance," she said.

Although Mollner would much rather have her sons at home, she is very proud of them. "I don't like any of it, but we support the troops 100 percent. We are just thankful that there hasn't been any conflict," Mollner said.

Linda Mollner and her husband long for the day when the family will be together again. In the meantime, the family is "listening, watching, and praying for a safe return for the troops — all of them."

Germany, where he had spent a month as a student. "He said, 'I want to travel. I think I'm going to join the Army.' He said he had enough of school and needed a break," Mollner said. That was four years ago, and the 23-year-old, a ground surveillance radar operator with the 18th Mountain Division stationed at Fort Drum, N.Y., just signed on for another two years.

Older son Jason's enlistment in the Army caught the family even more off-guard. Jason had just finished his first year at Eastern Michigan University when he approached his parents. Unsure of what career he wanted to pursue, he knew one thing for sure: he wanted to travel, especially to used for this old building. They weren't against preservation, they just didn't feel they wanted it on the property. They would rather use the money for a new building."

Bergenty said she feels sympathy for developer Mel Belovick, who currently owns the schoolhouse. "Now that it's designated, he's sort of stuck with it," she said, adding that the building is very much in disrepair and there is a possibility that the Canton Township board would move to revoke the historic designation.

Mighty Morphin Ranger Jason to visit Livonia Mall Oct. 23

Austin St. John, who appears as Jason the Red Ranger on the Mighty Morphin Power Rangers TV show seen on Channel 50, has rescheduled his appearance in Livonia. Austin will appear 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23 near Crowley's in the Livonia Mall.

St. John will also attend a luncheon 12-12:45 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23, to benefit the Livonia Police DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program. Tickets are $20 per person and must be purchased in advance. Call Bill Checks at (810) 476-1166 to make reservations.

The DARE program offers preventive strategies to enhance those protective factors — especially bonding to the family, school and community — which experts say appear to foster the development of resiliency in young people who may be at risk for substance abuse or other problem behaviors.

Choices & Challenges

International Credit Union Day

October 20, 1994

In the 1990s, people face many choices and challenges when it comes to their finances—and credit unions are there to help guide people through them.

Whether you need financing for a new home, a loan to further your education, a low interest credit card or an individual retirement account, credit unions are committed to meeting your needs.

With this in mind, why not join more than 95 million other credit union members around the world when they celebrate the benefits of credit union membership on International Credit Union Day, Thursday, October 20.

Unlike other financial institutions, credit unions are owned and operated by their members and are not for profit. Earnings are returned to members in the form of higher rates on savings, lower rates on loans or are invested back into the credit union to develop more products and services members need.

Thanks to this cooperative spirit and people-helping-people philosophy, credit unions are able to help members face the financial challenges of the 90s and make financial choices that allow their families and communities to prosper.

Stop by a credit union today and see how staff can help you with the choices and challenges of your financial future.

Questions and answers about Michigan's credit unions

Isn't a Credit Union the same as a bank?

No. A bank is a commercial business established in order to make money from its customers to produce profits for its stockholders. A credit union is a not-for-profit cooperative established to meet the financial needs of its members. All members have one vote each in the cooperative, regardless of how much or how little money they have in their accounts. Because of this, credit unions are often able to provide financial services in a very cost effective manner.

What are some of the advantages of using a credit union?

Credit unions exist to serve their members. Financial industry surveys have consistently shown credit union members to be more satisfied with the service they receive than bank and S&L customers. Members have the power to direct credit union policy and even replace the board of directors if they choose. Since they are not seeking to earn a profit from their consumer members, credit unions usually charge lower rates for loans, credit cards, checking (share draft) and other services and often offer higher interest on savings.

Can anyone join a credit union?

One must be a part of a "common bond" that makes up the field of membership to be able to join a particular credit union. Not everyone can qualify to join every credit union. However, most people may qualify for credit union membership through their work, church, association or community. 3.75 million people in Michigan belong to credit unions, which means more than one out of every three citizens are members. The largest Michigan credit union has more than 100,000 members while the smallest has fewer than 100.

Are Michigan credit unions federally insured?

Yes. Every single Michigan credit union, whether state chartered or federally chartered, is insured by the federal government through the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA).

Doesn't a financial institution have to be insured by the FDIC to be safe?

No. The FDIC was established to insure banks. When the S&L crisis bankrupted the S&L fund (FSLIC), FSLIC was merged into the FDIC. Credit unions are insured through the NCUA's fund (NCUSIF) which is the fiscally healthiest of all federal insurance programs for financial institutions.

Are Michigan credit unions safe?

Yes. Michigan credit unions are among the most secure financial institutions in the nation. Less than one half of one percent of credit union loans are for commercial purposes.

With health care costs skyrocketing, new federal mandates piling on and taxes on the rise, the prospect of a small business being able to offer employees a valuable benefit with no cost or liability to the employer may seem too good to be true. But there is at least one out there.

It can be said in just two words: Credit union.

A credit union is not a trade union. It is a member-owned, not-for-profit financial cooperative which provides financial services to its members with lower costs and higher levels of service than most banks.

At one time, it was thought that only large companies had enough clout to offer their employees a credit union. Ford Motor employees, for instance, formed the original base for Dearborn Federal Credit Union, which has grown to be the state's largest credit union with over a half billion dollars in assets and over 120,000 members. Yet small businesses can also apply to be included in a credit union's field of membership and thereby extend credit union services to their employees as well.

Dearborn Sausage has only 55 employees and when its employees approached management with a request to establish a credit union, there didn't appear to be enough people to form a strong financial base. So Dearborn Sausage contacted Dearborn Federal Credit Union about expanding the credit union's field of membership to include its employees.

When the request was approved, the credit union staff went to Dearborn Sausage's location and held an informational meeting with employees, providing each with an informational packet.

Employees are very pleased with the new benefit. "It's very convenient," "it helps save money," and "offers a lot of options like checking, credit cards, ATM cards, direct deposit of paychecks," "everyone likes it a lot"...are some of the comments from the new credit union members.

Gone are the days when credit unions were limited to simple savings and small loans. Today's credit unions tend to be full service financial institutions offering saving, checking, ATM cards, VISA or MasterCard, travelers checks, auto loans, student loans and often even home mortgages. Michigan credit unions now hold more than $13 billion in assets and serve 3.75 million members (almost 40% of the state's population).

BENEFITS FOR THE EMPLOYEE

For more than a decade, the annual survey on consumer satisfaction by The American Banker has shown credit union members to be far more satisfied than bank or S&L customers. "It's a natural result of the credit unions' service orientation," says Al McMorris, Michigan Credit Union League Chairman of the Board. "Credit unions don't exist to make a profit from their customers and give it to stockholders. At a credit union, every member is an equal owner and the profits go back to the members."

BENEFITS TO THE EMPLOYER

Membership in a credit union will give you and your employees the opportunity to obtain quality financial services and personal attention by a staff who really cares. By expanding your employee benefit package to include credit union services, you will see increased employee morale and respect in the workplace. Competitive benefits will also help you to attract top-notch, dependable employees; motivate current employees; and decrease employee absenteeism and turnover.

Nonetheless, the small business doesn't have to pay for offering the credit union to its employees and the business has no liabilities as the credit union is owned by its members, not by their employers. If interested, a small business should contact those credit unions near its facility or call the Michigan Credit Union League in Southfield at 1-800-262-6285.

Choosing a financial institution

Most of us pay lots of attention to earning our money. We work long hours, study our business, research the competition, monitor our boss's reaction, cater to the client's whims and seek diligently for opportunities to make more money. Once we have the money, however, we are sometimes thoughtless of how we handle it.

Take choosing a financial institution, for example. How did you select where you deposit your money? Was the location convenient? Did your parents save there? Were they offering a free toaster the week you needed a checking account?

Banks, savings and loans (S&Ls), and credit unions are the three most common types of financial institutions for basic services such as saving, checking and personal loans. Every bank, S&L and credit union is at least a little different from every other and consumers need to choose their financial institutions carefully.

There should be three basic concerns when choosing a financial institution: security, services and cost. Given the turmoil of the financial world in recent years, security is not to be overlooked. In Michigan, banks, S&Ls and credit unions all carry the same federal deposit insurance coverage: $100,000 per account. Although the national credit union insurance program is better funded than the one for banks and S&Ls due to recent problems in those industries, each fund is backed by the "full faith and credit of the federal government."

Services, however, can vary widely between institutions. Begin by making a list of what your needs are from a financial institution. If you're looking to finance an oil exploration project in Siberia costing two billion dollars, you're going to need a major commercial bank. If you want a savings account with a good interest rate, a checking account without too many services charges and low rates on car and home loans, the credit union down the block might be perfect.

Once you've determined your needs, it is time to check costs. There are often significant differences between institutions when it comes to charges, rates and fees. Banks and S&Ls are businesses that make profits from their customers for their stockholders. Credit unions are not-for-profit financial cooperatives, owned by their members.

So take your personal list of what services you want from a financial institution and start calling those in your area. Ask for a complete explanation of fees and note such things as minimum balances, charges for writing checks or using the automatic teller machine (ATM) and monthly service charges. Be realistic about your needs. How many checks do you write each month? How much will you actually keep on hand in a saving account? Do you use an ATM frequently? Does your company offer direct deposit of your paycheck? Be aware that banks and S&Ls are commercial institutions open to anyone with enough money to afford their services. Credit unions, on the other hand, are member-owned cooperatives and you must be a member to use their services. Call your area credit unions to inquire as to whether you may qualify for membership.

What is important is that your needs are met effectively without costing you more than it should. You work hard for your money. Make certain that it works hard for you by choosing the right place to keep it.

None of us wants to place a preventable burden on our family if something should happen to us. When you take out a loan, credit insurance provides specific protection in case you die or become disabled before paying off that loan. It reduces or pays off the outstanding balance if you die before you repay the entire loan.

But is credit insurance necessary? Is it a good consumer value? Some critics charge that lenders and car dealers price the insurance unreasonably high at the time they grant a loan. The Consumer Federation of America has once again confirmed that credit unions offer some of the best deals in the country on credit life insurance.

However, the price for credit insurance varies widely. Despite rate cuts in recent years, "in most states, credit life insurance is still overpriced," says Steve Brobeck, executive director of the Consumer Federation of America (CFA). "Consumers should be receiving at least 60 cents in benefits for each dollar in premium paid, yet they actually get only 44 cents on the dollar."

The exception: Credit life insurance offered by credit unions. Credit unions providing credit life insurance "typically return more than 60 cents of every premium dollar in benefits."

Just as credit life insurance repays a loan if the borrower dies, easing a family's responsibility for repaying the loan, it is also possible to get credit disability insurance. Credit Disability Insurance makes your loan payments for you while you are disabled.

Your individual circumstances will determine whether credit life or disability insurance is a good buy. Do you have adequate term or whole life insurance to cover the loan? The National Insurance Consumers Organization suggests that a family of four needs seven times annual earnings in life insurance, including whatever comes with your job. You may need more or less depending on the family wage earners and obligations. Credit unions generally offer the lowest-cost loan payment protection and some offer this protection at no direct charge as a benefit for their members.

Five ways to find a credit union

If you already belong to a credit union, you know about the exceptional financial services and treatment you find there. If you don't belong, or know friends or family members who don't belong to a credit union, but would like to, here's how to find a credit union to join:

1. Ask the boss or personnel manager. Often you'll find out when you're hired that the company sponsors its own credit union, or is a Select Employee Group (SEG) that provides access to an existing credit union. Employers consider the credit union an employee benefit that helps workers avoid financial problems and build savings, while being able to borrow money at fair rates.

Many employers offer direct deposit of payroll to your credit union. This service helps you save regularly, make efficient deposits to your share draft (checking) account and even make loan payments.

2. Poll your family members. If your employer doesn't sponsor a credit union, perhaps your spouse's employer does. Or a parent, brother or sister, or child might work at a company sponsoring a credit union. Most credit unions allow credit union members' families to join the credit union also.

Full-family membership makes it possible to introduce your children to prudent money management using credit union services at an early age. And, sharing a credit union account with your spouse makes household money management practical and convenient.

3. Quiz your friends and neighbors. Some credit unions have a "community" field of membership, serving a region defined by geography rather than by employment or some other association. Ask friends in the community if they know of a credit union you may join.

4. Look under "Credit Unions" in the yellow pages. Some credit unions never or rarely advertise, so you might not know about them unless you look them up in the phone book. (Although word of mouth is a powerful messenger for credit unions, too.)

And, sometimes a credit union that originally served only employees of a meat-packing plant, for example, expands its field of membership to other companies over the years.

But don't assume that the credit union that served, say, air force base employees before, still only serves base employees. A yellow pages display ad may state a credit union's field of membership. If not, at least you'll know what number to call to ask about membership eligibility.

5. Call us. The Michigan Credit Union League offers a service to help you find a credit union by calling (800) 474-JOIN. You'll hear an electronic message that asks for some information that will enable us to help you find a credit union you are eligible to join.

Credit unions are for everyone, but the law places some limit on the people they may serve. The federal or state government grants a credit union's charter, which defines its "field of membership." That may be an employer, a church, a school, or a community. Anyone working for an employer that sponsors a credit union, for example, is eligible to join that credit union.

The point is, many folks in the United States are eligible to join a credit union but don't realize it. To them we say, "Welcome to the world of credit unions!"

You Have Friends In All The Right Places.

Everyone knows there's an advantage to having friends in the right places. So wouldn't it be great to have a friend you could count on to help save you money on loans, credit cards, mortgages, auto leasing and a lot of other financial services.

Well, you do if you belong to a credit union. At a credit union you're not just another customer, you're a member. And because credit unions are cooperative organizations actually owned by their members, you'll usually get much better rates on loans and other important services.

If you already belong to a credit union, use it.

If not, just call 1-800-474-JOIN to learn how you can become a credit union member.

Candidate lays out his plan

John Schall, an Ann Arbor resident and Republican candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, has joined nearly 400 fellow congressional candidates in signing a "contract with America."

The 13th District includes Canton and Plymouth townships, Plymouth, Westland, Garden City and the southeast quadrant of Livonia. Schall's opponent is state Rep.

Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor. The election is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 8. The "contract" is not legally binding, but by signing it, the candidates have publicly committed themselves to a specific package of legislation.

Schall and his Republican brethren pledge to push 10 major bills through Congress during the first 100 days of the next term. "Elect us in November and we will move this agenda through Congress," Schall said in a press release. "If we don't, kick us out."

The proposed legislation includes a balanced budget amendment and line item veto, the death penalty, welfare reform, tax cuts, increased defense spending, raise in the amount of money Social Security recipients can earn, legal and medical malpractice reform and term limits.

State chamber of commerce makes education board picks

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce has endorsed Clark Durant and Sharon Wise for election to the State Board of Education Nov. 8.

"The election of Clark Durant and Sharon Wise will break the 4-4 deadlock that currently exists on the State Board of Education," said James Barrett, president of the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, in a press release.

The State Board of Education next year will be responsible for implementation of several recent legislative initiatives to improve public schools.

The board is charged with developing a core academic curriculum, approving charter schools and implementing legislation imposing penalties for illegal teacher strikes or school lockouts. "If Michigan voters elect Democrat Carol Thomas, executive vice president of the Detroit Federation of Teachers, to the board, the two most powerful teacher unions in the state will have their own employees sitting on the board," Barrett said.

Barbara Roberts Mason, who is employed by the Michigan Education Association, already serves on the board.

"Sharon Wise and Clark Durant both have private sector backgrounds and understand the need for quality improvements in the K-12 educational system," Barrett said. "Their business experience will be a strong asset on the board."

State court must make decision on assisted suicide this term

Area lawyers found themselves in a national spotlight last week as they argued one of society's thorniest questions: Do the terminally ill have a right to die with a doctor's help?

The scene was the Michigan Supreme Court chamber in Lansing, where the lawyers debated four assisted-suicide cases for nearly three hours. The court has until Aug. 31, the end of this term, to decide the cases.

Three of the cases involve criminal charges against Dr. Jack Kevorkian, the retired pathologist now living in West Bloomfield Township. Kevorkian, nationally known as "Dr. Death," has been present at 20 deaths since 1990.

The fourth is a challenge to the ban filed by the Michigan chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of two Lansing-area cancer patients and a number of medical professionals.

Many of the questions focused on the claim by Kevorkian's attorney Geoffrey Fieger of Southfield that "the right not to suffer" already exists in the U.S. Constitution's privacy guarantees. "It's really already been decided," Fieger said. He added that the issue was just surfacing because of scientific and medical advances that prolong life, but at the cost of dignity and quality of life.

Fieger said no state makes committing suicide a felony, so it's absurd to make assisting a legal act a felony.

Fieger said society already allows assisted suicide when it permits patients to refuse treatment or to have lifesaving machines disconnected. Fieger asked the high court to:

- Recognize the right to assisted suicide.
- Wipe out the state's 1993 law criminalizing assisted suicide.
- Order dismissal of two murder charges against Kevorkian. The murder charges were dismissed by Oakland Circuit Judge David Breck, but reinstated May 10 by a Court of Appeals panel.

The appeals court found the assisted-suicide ban unconstitutional on technical grounds, but in its 2-1 decision said it saw no constitutional right to assisted suicide.

Robert Sedler, an ACLU attorney and Wayne State University faculty member, said the Legislature violated several constitutional provisions in passing the ban. The House started with a bill creating a study commission and tacked on the language of a Senate bill making assisted suicide a four-year felony.

Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Timothy Baughman told the court that all laws are presumed to pass constitutional muster.

"This court may not substitute its judgment for that of the Legislature," Assistant Oakland County Prosecutor Errol Shifman said as he urged the court to let the Legislature grapple with the moral, philosophical, and ethical questions about assisted suicide.

"We believe the Constitution is simply silent on the issue and the democratic process of the Legislature is the appropriate forum to resolve this," said state Solicitor General Thomas Casey.

The three pointed out that Fieger could cite no law or constitutional language to support his stand.

Halloween festival set for Hines Park

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Hearty fall recipes are your requests

It's very interesting. As the weather turns cool, your thoughts and desires to cook a little heartier seem to blossom. The calls on my voice mail are definitely switching from a cooler, lighter note to a warmer, more nurturing tone. Is it me or have I noticed the squirrels digging up my flower beds a little earlier than usual this year?

Momma and Aunt Ange seem to agree that we're in for a "hard winter" this year. What do you think?

■ Cindy Gross of Plymouth requested a recipe for tomato sauce, and apple sauce that I referred to in my October 3 column on preserving. Well Cindy, as far as the tomato sauce is concerned, I prefer to use only Roma tomatoes (they're less acidic and far less watery than the others). To make sauce, simply slice off the tops of the tomatoes about 1/4-inch, quarter and cook them down in their own juices in an uncovered saucepan for about 30 minutes.

I then run them through a food mill (you can't beat the classic Foley Food Mill) to remove the skins and the seeds. A pinch of salt and a good twist of fresh ground black pepper, and they go right into freezer bags. It's best to remove as many of the seeds as possible (the food mill does a great job) because the seeds of the tomato make the sauce somewhat bitter. With regards to applesauce, canning is far better than freezing and produces a better product.

I prefer to use New Zealand Gala Apples and our own Michigan Spy's and Jonathan's and after coring and cooking down in their own juices, again I use the food mill and follow basic canning directions. The New Zealand Gala apples are so sweet that in my opinion, additional sugar isn't really needed.

Carrot bread

An anonymous caller from Birmingham and asked for a raised soft bread with carrots recipe that she remembered from her high school home economics class. This recipe from Daniel Leader's "Bread Alone Cookbook" is made usually with onions and garlic, but I made it with carrots and fresh dill and got raves from the Janes Gang.

Country Style Hearth Carrot Bread

Starter:

- 1/2 cup lukewarm spring water
- 1/2 teaspoon dry yeast
- 1/4 cup bran wheat flour (all purpose white flour can be substituted)

Dough:

- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 cup shredded carrot
- 2 1/2 cups lukewarm spring water
- 1/2 teaspoon active dry yeast
- 6-7 cups bran wheat flour
- 1 tablespoon fine sea salt
- 1/2 cup fresh dill, chopped.

To make starter: Combine yeast and water and stir till dissolved, about 1 minute. Stir in flour and stir until a batter is made. Cover with a clean damp towel and allow to sit in a draft free location for 6-8 hours or overnight until bubbly.

Place starter in a large bowl. Add remaining water and yeast and stir till yeast is dissolved. Stir in flour, 1 cup at a time alternating with a little sea salt. When you can't stir it any more, turn the bread onto a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes.

Gradually knead in carrots and dill. Since the addition of the carrots might change the consistency of the bread, you might need to add a bit more flour. Shape the dough into a ball and place in a large bowl covered with olive oil. Turn to coat the top of the dough with the oil. Cover with a clean damp towel and allow to rise until doubled in bulk, about 2 hours. Punch down, divide the dough into 2 loaves, shape and place in prepared bread pans, or for a crustier bread, on a bread stone. Proof the bread dough in a draft free location, covered for 2 hours or until double in bulk. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Bake until loaves begin to color, for 30 minutes. Then watch the dough until the crusts are firm for another 5-10 minutes and a rich caramel color. Cool on a wire rack.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:

- Halloween goodies little goblins will love.
- Heart disease is scary. Reduce your risk by cutting back on fat.

SCHOOL LUNCHESES

Kids rate healthy menus

BY SANDRA DALKA-PRYSBY
SPECIAL WRITER

It used to be called "mystery loaf" in some schools and most students didn't want to eat it. In Livonia Public Schools, it's called "meat loaf" and it's making a comeback, said Mike Howard, food service supervisor.

"The students' tastes are changing. The demand for such favorites as pizza and hot dogs is decreasing. Spaghetti, lasagna, macaroni and cheese and meat loaf are now popular. And, while the kids demand tasty food, we (school and government officials and parents) require that it is also nutritious," he said.

Howard, who oversees the feeding of approximately 36 percent of the 25,000 students in the Livonia and Garden City school districts, has turned to turkey-based and low-salt and low-fat products to help achieve healthier dishes. In addition, more fruits and vegetables have been added to the menu.

"While we want our kids to eat well, we want to give them things that they want to eat. So we have gone to the source - the students - to see what they want," Howard said. "We have also sought input from parents."

We asked readers to tell us if their school districts were providing nutritious, tasty lunches. Today, we highlight three of those districts.

He added that food services employees at the schools keep tabs on what the kids are throwing away. "The students may say they want something, but if it isn't tasty they won't eat it."

"There are a number of healthy changes we have made in the menu that have met with student approval," according to Howard. "Our chicken nuggets are now baked, instead of fried in fat, and we use a blend of low-fat, skim milk cheese in a number of our dishes."

Preparing and serving healthy food that is popular with students is also a concern for Deb Larson, a registered dietitian and Nutrition Services Supervisor for the Farmington Public Schools. But that's not her only concern for the district's 11,000 students.

"One of our important goals is to educate the students on good nutrition," Larson said. "To do this we (she and Ruth Weber, assistant supervisor) developed games and activities that complement classroom subjects, such as math and science, but at the same time takes the 'need for good nutrition' message to our elementary students." In addition, they have created "fat" displays for the middle and high schools.

The fine work done by Larson, Weber and other nutrition services employees recently won national recognition. The program received the Midwest Region USDA (United States Department of Agriculture) Best Practices Award for Nutrition Education in the Dietary Guidelines.

According to Larson, one of the most popular parts of the program is having the students - by classroom - submit a complete and healthy lunch idea. Each month, a selected lunch plan is put into the district's menu with the classroom receiving special recognition. Our photo features a menu prepared by Nancy Dillon's second graders at Gill Elementary School.

"Our educational efforts, as well as menu improvements, are permanent goals of our program," said

Atlas, Geyser near 'peak' of perfection

FOCUS ON WINE

ELEANOR & RAY HEALD

Atlas Peak Winery is about 10 miles north, and slightly east, of the city of Napa at the southern end of California's Napa Valley near a geological landmark with the same name. Vineyards are planted at elevations ranging between 1,450 and 1,800 feet, with Atlas Peak rising to 2,665 feet above them. A drive to the winery, home of California's largest planting of sangiovese grapes, takes one through a web of narrow canyons bordered by rough rock pillars heaved from the earth by volcanic eruptions some two to 11 million years ago.

While the location of Atlas Peak may be new to even the most avid wine consumer, grapegrowing there can be traced to the Civil War. However, the first vineyards did not survive the Prohibition era early this century. For the most part, the area was unimportant until the early 1980s when a group of wine industry principals spearheaded by Tuscany's Piero Antinori considered the location ideal for planting sangiovese and cabernet sauvignon to make wines in the model of Italy's chianti and its "Super Tuscan" blends.

Two California wineries are nearing the peak, not only in their corporate name, but in the quality of their wines. Atlas Peak and Geyser Peak are wineries on the move up the proverbial wine peak.

To allow slow aging of wines and cool temperatures, 35,000 square feet of caves were excavated from an estate hillside. A new winery building was completed for this fall's harvest.

Since the first release of the 1989 Sangiovese by Atlas Peak, succeeding vintages have improved. Consenso, a proprietary blend of about 80 percent cabernet sauvignon, cabernet franc and petit verdot with 20 percent sangiovese rivals Super Tuscan blends. As the Atlas Peak vineyards become older, depth, concentration and richness will only improve. The 1992 Atlas Peak Sangiovese sells for $15 and the 1990 Consenso is $25.

Sangiovese is expensive to grow, probably the most expensive of any red grape. "All the thinning and canopy management required is labor intensive," said Glen Salva, Atlas Peak's general manager. "We don't have to do this with cabernet sauvignon. When you're only harvesting three tons/acre and dropping 23 of the crop to insure ripeness and flavor development, that's expensive."

Geyser Peak Winery is a pioneer in the industry, dating its founding to 1880. Located in the town of Geyserville in Sonoma County's Alexander Valley, the winery had a marginal brand image for many years, but has quickly spiraled to a pinnacle of fine winemaking. Over the years, a series of corporate owners and partners with the current proprietors, the Trione family, have Australia's Penfolds listed among them. Penfolds is no longer a partner, but its former chief red winemaker Daryl Groom is at Geyser Peak's helm. Since his tenure began in 1989, he has added energy and creativity to turn around the brand image.

Quite by chance in 1989, we met Groom on one of his first days in the U.S. when he first met himself among a group of wine writers and publishers at a Sonoma County function. He spoke about his plan for Geyser Peak. At the time, we believed (and today we know it was true) that Groom had no clue about the major task cut out for him. When he spoke about his plans for Geyser Peak, the wine pros in his company were thinking Geyser Peak, an uncompromising name often used to reference the brand.

Five years later, that's more than past history. Groom began making a breakthrough with a classic Australian wine blend of semillon and chardonnay, trademarked Semchard. At $7, this is a handsome rendition, fruitier and livelier than most Australian counterparts. Groom's next project was to make wine waves by making a breakthrough with a classic Australian wine blend of semillon and chardonnay, trademarked Semchard. Groom was instrumental in directing the start up of a second brand, Canyon Road. These wines have only recently appeared in our market and are best buy values in the $6 to $8.50 range for sauvignon blanc, chardonnay, cabernet sauvignon and merlot.

While the location of Atlas Peak may be new to even the most avid wine consumer, grape-growing there can be traced to the Civil War. However, the first vineyards did not survive the Prohibition era early this century.

We hope this market will get a few cases when it's released.

Today, all Geyser Peak wines sport new, smart and distinctive packaging. We don't ever remember such a quick turn around for a winery that decided it was going to compete with the high profile big brands. Geyser Peak has done it. Among its other smartly-styled wines are Chardonnay ($10), Merlot ($13), Cabernet Sauvignon ($10) and Reserve Alexandre ($27) a stunning blend of five Bordeaux varieties.

Groom is now on the path of the world's best Shiraz and is buying some of the finest sources of syrah in California. A barrel tasting of the unreleased 1993 revealed a stylish wine with expressive fruit. Only 3,000 cases were produced.

Turkey burgers
Dorothy Gross of Redford requested a good recipe for ground turkey burgers. Did you know that frozen ground turkey is made with the light and dark meat and the skin is ground in? It might be a little less in fat but not much more than lean ground beef. Your best bet is to purchase fresh ground turkey from the meat department of your favorite grocery store. Ground turkey has about as much flavor as a show box so you need to spice it up somewhat and to help keep it moist, use a spicy tomato juice blend (I like Mr. & Mrs. T's Bloody Mary Mix).

TEXAS TURKEY BURGERS
1 pound fresh ground turkey
1 teaspoon chili powder or chili seasoning mix
1 egg white
¼ cup tomato juice or spicy tomato juice mix
Combine all ingredients and mix well. Shape into 4 equal sized patties and broil or pan fry until desired doneness is reached. Season with salt and fresh ground black pepper during cooking.
Carol Longmate of Westland stopped by with a few giant zucchini from her garden to share. Still reaping the benefits of fresh zucchini, she requested a recipe for "something different."

Well Carol, here's a recipe for zucchini coffee cake culled from the Pillsbury "Complete Book of Baking." It's easy and tastes great!

ZUCCHINI SPICE COFFEE CAKE
Coffee cake:
1½ cups all purpose flour
¼ cup quick cooking rolled oats
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups shredded unpeeled zucchini
½ cup butter or margarine, soft-tened
¼ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla 2 eggs
Topping:
¼ cup sugar
½ cup all purpose flour
½ cup quick rolled oats
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup butter or margarine, soft-tened
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease an 8x8 inch pan or a 9x9 inch cake pan or a tube cake pan. In a large bowl, combine dry ingredients for coffee cake. Mix well. In a separate bowl, combine wet ingredients and mix well. Pour wet ingredients into dry and stir just to incorporate.

Pour into prepared pan. In another bowl, combine topping ingredients and pour over coffee cake batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Serve warm or cool. Serves 12.
John York of Rochester couldn't believe the beautiful raspberries available at the Eastern Market on a recent Saturday morning expedition. He's hoping to locate a recipe for raspberry vinegar.

HOMEMADE RASPBERRY VINEGAR
4 cups plain white vinegar (at least 5 percent strength)
2 cups fresh raspberries, as dry as possible
In a tightly covered container, add enough boiling water to sterilize. Drain and add raspberries, a few at a time so as not to pack or crush. Bring the vinegar to a simmer. Remove from heat and place in a dark cabinet for 1 month.
Great for making salad dressings or a light vinaigrette to splash on grilled or roasted vegetables.

October is School Lunch Month. Celebrate by encouraging your children to eat healthy foods.

Congratulations to Nancy Dillon's class for developing a healthy menu featuring pizza bagels. It's easy to make them at home. Just cut a bagel in half, spread pizza sauce on the top, sprinkle with non-fat mozzarella cheese, and top with one pepperoni. Place in a 350 degree oven until the cheese melts. Serve. Kids love them.

For quick snack, try Italian nachos

AP - Italian nachos make a delicious snack for kids. And since they're cooked in a microwave oven, older kids can assemble them safely on their own. The nachos are made with tortilla chips, shredded mozzarella cheese and sliced pepperoni. Instead of traditional salsa, dip the nachos in pizza sauce.
ITALIAN NACHOS
12 tortilla chips
½ cup shredded mozzarella cheese
5 thin slices pepperoni
1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
2 sliced green or ripe olives (optional)
¼ cup prepared pizza sauce
Place tortilla chips in a single layer on a paper plate. Top with mozzarella cheese, pepperoni, grated Parmesan cheese and sliced olives, if using. Place pizza sauce in a custard cup or small microwave-safe bowl; cover. Place custard cup and paper plate in a microwave oven. Cook on high (100 percent power) until cheese melts and sauce is hot, about 45 to 60 seconds. Carefully remove cover; serve pizza sauce as a dip for nachos. Makes 1 serving.

Lapson. "For instance, each year we make subtle changes in our food preparation that result in lower amounts of fat, salt and sugar." A recent major change that has been accepted by the students is that everything is now oven-baked.
"We have to nutritionally improve our menus slowly and subtly so the students will accept the changes. Sometimes it's difficult providing a good balance between students' desires and healthy foods."

Bob Brady, Food Service Manager, Southfield Public Schools, agrees that getting kids to eat a nutritious variety of foods is an on-going challenge.
"However, no matter how difficult the challenge, we must work toward instilling a healthier lifestyle, in terms of food, in our kids," he said.

One way Brady gets the students to eat what is good for them is by inviting them to provide menu ideas. This solicitation has resulted in the popular "Burger of the Month" feature at Southfield-Lathrup High School. "And the meat we use for the burgers is lower in fat. It's 90 percent lean," he said.
"Also, we're combining low-fat ground turkey in our tacos, sloppy joes and other items. Our cold cuts, hot dogs and breakfast sausage are all made from low-fat turkey."

Salad dressings in Southfield Schools, which has 9,100 students, are made with low cholesterol soy bean oil. More whole grains breads are being offered. All cooked vegetables are prepared by steam cooking, rather than boiling, to aid in vitamin retention.
"We also provide more high fiber fresh fruits and vegetables," said Brady. "In addition, all canned fruits are packed in natural juices, or in light syrup."
He added that although many school districts are doing a good job in educating students on good nutrition and providing them with healthy food choices, it all comes down to the eating habits in the home.
"No matter what we do," said Brady, "we can't change the students' eating habits unless healthy eating is reinforced at home."

IRON-CLAD THEORY?

Not too long ago, a Finnish study raised levels of concern by saying that too much iron could increase a person's risk for a heart attack. Since then, a cardiologist and a pathologist have researched over 48,000 autopsies to find that iron mismanagement about taking iron pills may be overblown. The physicians' review centered on 85 people with a condition called hemochromatosis, which causes iron to accumulate in the blood and tissues. They reasoned that if iron were linked to heart disease, these people would be the most susceptible. Yet, only three people in the hemochromatosis group showed any significant arterial blockages, versus 11 in a control group. The three with both high iron levels and heart disease also were the only ones with high cholesterol levels.

Particularly for women, getting enough iron is essential. Did you know that iron is found naturally in blackstrap molasses? Try adding a tablespoon daily to your diet. When it comes to vitamins, minerals, and supplements, you won't find an assortment any larger or better priced than our stocks at the GOOD FOOD CO. We are Michigan's largest discount natural food supermarket. Please call us at 981-0100 or just come on in. We are located at 42615 Ford Rd. and we are open Monday through Saturday from 9-6 and Sunday from 10-6. Remember, food can be good for you and also taste great!

P.S. According to the latest thinking on heart disease, LDL cholesterol does not clog arteries unless it is first packaged by oxidized and iron is an efficient oxidizer.

Prize-winning recipes are hot!

Taco Twist Soup, an easy and appealing meal in a bowl, was a winner in the 1994 Pace Picante Sauce "Pick Up The Pace" Recipe Contest.

This prize-winning soup combines favorite taco ingredients with a twist — rotini pasta — for a family pleasing lunch or supper. Gladys Fulton, of Summerville, S.C., is the soup's proud creator.

PACE-SETTING TWO-SAUUSAGE CHILI

1/2 pound mild Italian sausage
1 pound lean ground beef
3 cups chopped onion
4 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 pound smoked sausage
2 cans (15 ounces each) kidney beans (do not drain)
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) diced tomatoes in juice
1 1/2 cups Pace Picante Sauce
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
2 tablespoons chili powder
4 teaspoons ground cumin
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 large green peppers, chopped
Optional toppings: Shredded cheddar cheese, sour cream, ripe olive slices, chopped onions.
Remove casing from Italian sausage; cut into 1/4-inch slices. In large saucepan or Dutch oven, brown ground beef with Italian sausage, onion and garlic. Drain. Half smoked sausage lengthwise; cut into 1/4-inch slices. Add to saucepan with remaining ingredients except green peppers and optional toppings; mix well. Bring to a boil, stirring frequently.

PACE PICANTE SAUCE TEST KITCHENS

Crowd-pleaser: You'll get rave reviews at lunch or dinner with Taco Twist Soup, a first prize winner in the 1994 Pace Picante Sauce "Pick Up The Pace" Recipe Contest.

Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Stir in green peppers. Cover and continue simmering 10 minutes or until green peppers are tender. Ladle into bowls. Top as desired and serve with additional picante sauce. Makes about 12 one-cup servings.

MACARONI PIE

1/4 pound capellini, or angel hair pasta
6 eggs

1/4 pound prosciutti, diced
1/4 pound mozzarella, diced
Freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

(optional)
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons butter
Cook noodles according to package directions. Do not over-cook. Rinse with cold water and drain. Beat eggs, adding prosciutti and mozzarella. Season

Cocoa cake is fine fini for tailgate party meal

AP — When hosting a tailgate party, the best strategy is to keep the menu simple. Choose foods that are easy to make, transport and serve. For a sweet ending, serve cocoa crunch cake.

TOUCHDOWN COCOA CRUNCH CAKE

1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 tablespoon white vinegar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Broiled topping (recipe below)
Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease and flour an 8-inch square baking pan. In large bowl, stir together flour, sugar, cocoa, baking soda and salt. Add water, oil, vinegar and vanilla; beat with a spoon or whisk just until batter is smooth and ingredients are well blended. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake in a 350-degree F oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Meanwhile, prepare broiled topping; spread on warm cake. Set oven to broil; place cake about 4 inches from the heat. Broil 3 minutes or until top is bubbly and golden brown. Remove from oven. Cool completely in pan on wire rack. Makes 9 servings.

BROILED TOPPING

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup packed light brown sugar
1/2 cup coarsely chopped nuts
1/2 cup sweetened coconut flakes
3 tablespoons light cream or evaporated milk

12 alternatives to lashing out at your child.

The next time everyday pressures build up to the point where you feel like lashing out — STOP! And try any of these simple alternatives.

You'll feel better . . . and so will your child.

1. Take a deep breath. And another. Then remember you are the adult . . .
2. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child is about to hear.
3. Press your lips together and count to 10. Or better yet, to 20.
4. Put your child in a time-out chair. (Remember the rule: one time-out minute for each year of age.)
5. Put yourself in a time-out chair. Think about why you are angry: is it your child, or is your child simply a convenient target for your anger?
6. Phone a friend.
7. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a walk.
8. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
9. Hug a pillow.
10. Turn on some music. Maybe even sing along.
11. Pick up a pencil and write down as many helpful words as you can think of. Save the list.
12. Write for parenting information: Parenting, Box 2866, Chicago, IL 60690.

Stop using words that hurt. Start using words that help. National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse

SHOPPING CENTERED

LINDA BACHRACK

Personal shopper eases the choices

If you're managing a household and a career while carpooling and attending PTA meetings, you are likely to have little time for a hot bath, much less a shopping spree. But all of those hats you wear require wardrobes to match, and your closet needs an overhaul at least once a season.

Valerie Grimske to the rescue! Valerie is the fashion counselor at the new Parisian department store in Laurel Park Place, Livonia. If you've ever felt intimidated by the idea of a personal shopper, bannish the thought. Parisian's motto is "you're somebody special" and Valerie is part of the team that ensures that you leave the store feeling pampered and satisfied.

"My clients need professional, coordinated, put-together wardrobes," says Valerie. "They seek out my services because they fall into one of three categories: 1. They hate to shop. 2. They have no time to shop. 3. They're not sure how to put it all together." Basically, they need a game plan.

Picking favorites

If you were to call Valerie for an appointment, this is what you could expect. During the initial phone conversation, Valerie "picks your brain." She inquires about your life and clothing styles, your favorite colors and preferred vendors. Then she takes a couple of days to coordinate outfits just for you. When you arrive for your appointment, Valerie has complete ensembles ready for your inspection. "I can gauge a client's response within five seconds, she says."

Next comes a stroll through the departments. "The store is my playground," says Valerie. "But some women think the floor is too confusing, offers too many choices. If that's the case, Valerie will do all of the legwork while you noah jellybeans in her office suite."

Booked for life

Once a customer, Valerie keeps all of your purchases in a book and calls when new things come in that can update your wardrobe. The book also makes it simple for someone to buy you a special birthday surprise. Remarkably, this amazing convenience does not lead to over-ordering. According to Valerie, her clients tend to make fewer mistakes or impulsive purchases. And she always works within your budget. She doesn't push or hard-sell, it's more important to her that she build a relationship. She wants you to call her for something as simple as hosiery or makeup, which she'll be glad to send to your home.

"If you only shop twice a year, you can coordinate everything in your closet," assures Valerie. She believes that nine months pieces can take you through an entire winter. I asked Valerie to make suggestions for a typical holiday gift list (who has time to shop for all those presents?) and here were her picks: A colorful Coogi or Bernini cardigan sweater for Aunt Mary (she's always cold and doesn't want to pull anything over her head); a soft-sided business case for Dad ($225); vintage cufflinks for dapper Uncle Joe ($100); gilded cherub candlesticks for your favorite hostess ($14 and $18); a tapestry cosmetic bag for Grandma ($52); a slim leather business organizer for your favorite executive ($114); a leopard print purse or belt for your fashion-forward Mom and a red plaid kilt, a must-have for the teen on your list.

As she personally escorted me to the mail entrance, Valerie reminded me of what makes this store so special. "At Parisian, we never put, we lead."

Hudson's holiday exhibit is all set to go

Hudson's annual holiday display moves to Summit Place mall in Waterford this year because the auditorium at Northland is under renovation. Beauty and the Beast (or, Never Judge A Book By Its Cover) opens next month. Don't miss it!

By SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

The 17th century fairy tale, "Beauty and the Beast" comes to life for imaginations of all ages at Hudson's annual holiday exhibit opening Sunday, Nov. 6, in the southwest corridor of Summit Place mall.

A team of theatrical artisans from Minneapolis came to town recently to set up the exhibit. To tell the story of true love, they pieced together 17 vignettes with more than 120 figures—most of them animated. The display has a number of magical features that allow visitors to witness Beauty's dreams as she sleeps, and see the Beast turn into a handsome prince before their eyes. Storyboards along a path, tell the tale and invite guests through the castle. Best of all, the exhibit is a hands-on experience. Visitors can be heard before shoes. Kenneth Cole, will sell shoes and accessories for men and women. The Cole grand opening will take place the week of Nov. 16.

"This is not Disney's version of the Beauty and the Beast as some children who have seen the recent film expect," said Chris Morrisroe, Hudson's spokeswoman. "Theatrical designers Jack Barkla and Jack Edwards took the original story and created various sets to tell the tale." This exhibit marks the fifth year that Hudson's has presented the elaborate holiday displays as "gifts to the community." Morrisroe said more than 500,000 people are expected to tour the complimentary exhibit through Saturday, Dec. 31. Previously, shoppers have enjoyed "Cinderella," "Peter Pan" and "Pinochio."

RETAIL DETAILS

NEW MANAGER
Jeffrey Kositzek joined Maxwell's clothing store in downtown Birmingham as manager of operations, according to owner Chris Cosola. Kositzek attended New York University's School of Retailing. He worked in retail for almost 30 years, including 10 as a buyer. Prior to joining Maxwell's, (formerly the landmark Campus Shop) Kositzek was a fourth-generation owner of Kositzek's men's store in Lansing. He is single and a resident of Birmingham.

PLACE FOR PIERCING
The Piercing Pagoda is open at Westland Shopping Center and to celebrate regular-priced merchandise is 20-percent off through Oct. 31. The kiosk in the center of the mall has more than 1,000 jewelry styles and 1,500 free ear piercing with an earring purchase.

JEWELRY STORES RELOCATE
The Birmingham Bead store formerly of the Ocean Grille Building, has moved to 154 W. Maple next door to Madsen Pastry Shoppe. BB sells supplies, necklace designs, and offers custom stringing.

SALES HELP WANTED
Hudson's, Sear's, Crowley's, Jacobson's and almost all the smaller mall retailers have begun hiring for the holiday season. Livonia mall manager Jeanne Hildebrand predicted that the malls may find themselves short of help this year because the auto companies are working overtime and the unemployment rate in the state is down. People interested in making extra cash for the holidays should check out the Village Mall in downtown Farmington. According to Becky Thomas, the shop will sell licensed apparel from the NBA, NHL and NFL, plus posters, hats, trading cards, and other goodies for sports fans. Additionally, alumni from Western, Eastern and Central will find their school's sweats and T-shirts at The Basketball Court. The family designed the store's interior with a court, scoreboard and video screen to add interest and excitement. For more information call (810) 478-4775.

FLU SHOTS
Local Farmer Jack grocery stores are offering flu shots courtesy of the Visiting Nurses Association for $10 through October. Locations include FJ's in Westland, Livonia, Canton, Dearborn, Bloomfield, Birmingham, Rochester Hills Southfield and Farmington Hills.

LADIES GOLF ATTIRE
The Forward Tee at 255 Main Street in downtown Rochester is celebrating its first year anniversary with new lines of apparel and accessories. "Hot Off the Tour" are generously cut clothing is available in sizes to 24. "Jean Michael USA" is designed for the sophisticated female golfer, shirts are double mercerized cotton and shorts are poly/rayon gartarde. Owner Barb Thorpe welcomes inquiries at (810) 651-9696.

LA PRAIRIE DEBUT
Saks Fifth Avenue at the Somerset Collection in Troy and the Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn now carry the next generation in alpha hydroxy acid skin care, La Prairie's Next Management Intensive. The product claims to "visibly de-age a woman's skin in just 30 days." The combination of ingredients in AMI creates a skincare system that delivers up to three times the AHA intensity while buffering the skin and protecting it in a safe, non-irritating manner.

SPORTS STUFF FOR SALE
The Thomas family of Farmington Hills will open The Basketball Court store at the end of October in the Village Mall in

Designers Vass and Ludacer bring love of art to fashions

By SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

Mention the name Joan Vass and two points immediately come to mind. Joan Vass is a major knitwear designer who didn't enter the world of fashion until she was in her mid-50s.

Vass and her fashion accessories partner, Hal Ludacer, flew into metro Detroit recently from their New York headquarters to promote the fall line at the Joan Vass store in the Somerset Collection in Troy.

Over coffee at the Somerset Inn, Vass, 69, talked about her unusual career path, the growth of her apparel company through the "staff" creations to Bendel's Department Store. In 1977, when the orders exceeded her small troop's abilities, she threw herself into a new business career and incorporated.

"Today the company includes four divisions: Joan Vass New York; Joan Vass USA (a less expensive collection of cotton knit and rayon knit clothing); Joan Vass Cashmere; and Joan Vass Shoes. Under the name Vass-Ludacer, Vass has an accessories line.

In 1978, the Smithsonian Institute named Vass an Extraordinary Woman of Fashion. In 1979, she received the Prix de Cachet and Coty Awards.

Customers love Vass designs for their classic and clever style. The designer assures that her clothing "never goes out of style." "I build the next collection it upon the one that preceded it. My clothes have no applied decorations. No shoulder pads. I hate the that leads into Hudson's. Hudson's said "Beauty and the Beast" cassette tapes will be sold with original music from the exhibit on one side and the tale retold on the flip-side. Additionally, books and video tapes will be available.

After "Beauty and the Beast" leaves the Detroit market, it goes on to Dayton-Marshall Field's in Chicago where pieces of the exhibit are used in the store's front windows because of the lack of whole exhibition space. In 1995, Detroit holiday shoppers will be treated to another wonderful classic fairy tale exhibit by Hudson's. "It's in Minneapolis this year," Morrisroe explained. "I don't know if I should let the cat out of the bag yet."

Here's a clue, to enjoy next year's exhibit, visitors will have to follow the Yellow Brick Road.

Lady Ocelots roll

Schoolcraft College's volleyball team kept on the rise with Thursday's easy win over visiting Delta College, 15-3, 15-3, 15-7. The triumph improved the Lady Ocelots' overall record to 18-12-3 and their Eastern Conference mark to 5-2. They have now won seven of their last nine matches.

Top offensive performers for SC against Delta were Vicki Rohraff (Wayne Memorial) with seven service aces and Shannon Gottschalk with six kills. Sarah McDowell and Jamey Viau (Plymouth Salem) contributed five kills apiece, and Julie Campau (Livonia Churchill) had four.

Jannel Hemme (Livonia Ladywood) turned in a solid all-around performance with two solo blocks, two aces and eight digs. Setter Janet Zabivnik (Plymouth Canton) totaled 22 assists-to-kills.

Canton stopped

The Plymouth Canton swim team is still searching for that elusive first dual-meet victory.

The Chiefs couldn't keep pace with visiting Northville Thursday, losing 128-58. Canton continues to train for, and focus on, a strong end-of-the-season finish at the Western Lakes Activities Association championship meet.

Northville won all but one event. The Chiefs' placed one-two in diving, with Lisa Sabina winning (216.40 points) and Karl Jackson taking second (215.90).

There were some strong second-place swims by Angela Frost in the 500-yard freestyle (5:48.16); Frost, Kathy Jackson, Sue Fanning and Amy Sonnanstine in the 200 free relay (1:54.08); and Sonnanstine, Kelly Larsen, Frost and Kathy Jackson in the 400 free relay (4:14.05).

Canton is 0-7 in duals this season. The Chiefs swim Farmington Harrison at North Farmington's pool at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Crusaders club Canadians

Madonna University's volleyball team proved it can win matches on foreign soil, crossing the Canadian border last week for a 15-3, 15-3, 15-3 triumph (Oct. 11) over the University of Windsor.

Setter Laura Fisher (Wayne Memorial) was the Lady Crusaders' top passer with 26 assists. Vicki Toth (Redford Union) and Mo Paulin (Farmington Hills Mercy) added eight and six, respectively. Defensively, Paulin led with 12 digs, while Erin Gregoire and Toth contributed 11 and one, respectively.

Top hitters included Kelly McCausland (RU) with 11 kills; Paulin, nine; Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson), eight; and Heather Steinhelper, six. Paulin was the team's top server with five aces. On Oct. 9, Madonna gained a 15-7, 15-9, 15-5 victory over NAIA foe Tri-State (Ind.).

The previous day, Madonna fell to host Spring Arbor, 8-15, 15-3, 15-11.

"We played very poorly in that match," Madonna coach Jerry Abraham said. "We've been inconsistent this season, but since the Spring Arbor loss, we've played well. We're still molding as a team."

Madonna, which fell out of the NAIA top 20 last week, took a 12-6 record into weekend action at the St. Edward's University (Texas) Invitational.

Two teams in the 10-team field were ranked nationally including St. Mary's University (Texas), No. 10, and host St. Edward's, No. 14.

Sunday health club

Schoolcraft College is offering its Sunday Health Club, featuring a variety of unstructured exercise activity, throughout the fall and winter semesters.

The 26-week health club operates from 1-5 p.m. each Sunday (13 weeks in the fall and 13 in the winter).

Individual memberships are $28 per semester. Family memberships are $65 (checks, Visa, MasterCard and Discover are accepted).

The fully-equipped physical education facility features three gyms for basketball, badminton, volleyball, jogging, handball (six courts), paddleball, racquetball, wallyball, weight machines, pool and sauna use.

Children under 16 must be accompanied by an adult. Non-swimmers must be 45 inches tall at the shoulder to use the pool.

For more information, call Continuing Education Services at (313) 462-4413.

Halloween fun run

The March of Dimes Halloween 5-kilometer and Monster Mile fun run, sponsored by Midas, will be at 9 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 30 at Kellogg Park in Plymouth.

Adult registration is $12 (on or before Oct. 21) and $15 (race day). Children, 12 and under, can register for a $7 fee (on or before Oct. 21) or $10 (race day).

The event includes refreshments, trophies and ribbons to age-group winners, along with a costume contest.

For more information, call the March of Dimes at (810) 423-9104 or the Motor City Striders at (810) 544-9099.

Anyone wishing to submit items for the Sports Scene should send them to sports editor C.J. Risak, 30851 Schoolcraft, Livonia, Mich. 48150, or fax them to (313) 991-7279.

Hawks run past Chiefs

Plymouth Canton finished third in Western Division football after losing Saturday to division champion Farmington Harrison, 34-13.

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

A quick glance at the stats would lead one to believe Nick Williams did it all for the Farmington Hills Harrison football team Saturday.

In a way, that wasn't far from the truth, as the Hawks defeated visiting Plymouth Canton, 34-13, and finished 5-0 in the Western Division.

The Hawks will play host to Livonia Stevenson for the Western Lakes Activities Association championship Saturday. Both teams are 6-1.

Williams got the Harrison offense going with his hard running early, finished with 162 yards on 29 carries and scored four touchdowns on runs of 15, 5, 1 and 3 yards.

"It's not about who scores," said the 245-pound Williams. "We all wear one jersey, and it says Hawks on all of them. It doesn't matter who does it as long as Harrison does it."

Williams gets a large share of the glory, but there were others who helped put the Hawks in position to score.

Kevin Bryant caught four passes for 114 yards and a touchdown, Jason Granger added 102 rushing yards on 14 attempts and Kevin Bambenek completed six of nine passes for 89 yards.

"It's hard for me to pound the ball in from the 1, so Nick is the guy we go to," Granger said. "We stick together and look out for each other."

"If we all just work together as a team, it doesn't matter how we do it," Bryant said.

Then there was the unheralded offensive line that helped Harrison pile up 273 yards on the ground and outgain Canton (3-2 and 3-4) 410-281.

Rocks come up flat against John Glenn

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

Chuck Gordon said it best: "We're into game seven. We can't talk about rebuilding anymore. We've got to get things done."

Get things done. That's something Plymouth Salem's football team should think long and hard about.

No telling what was on their collective minds Friday when Gordon's Westland John Glenn team came a-calling. Didn't much resemble football, though. The Rocks were outplayed in every facet of the game and lost, 18-7.

That score isn't indicative of how the Rockets dominated, either. The way they bowled over Salem, one would think this was just another of those Glenn championship-caliber teams. But it wasn't — both teams came into the game with 3-3 records.

"I can't explain it," said Salem coach Tom Moshimer. "They owned the line of scrimmage. But we were still in the game — you just can't turn the ball over down there."

"Down there" was Salem's 8-yard line, which is where the Rocks' Mike Brannan muffed a punt. Glenn's Eric Davey gladly pounced on the loose ball; on the Rockets' first play afterward, Brent Washington scooted through the line for a touchdown, doubling their lead to 12-0 with 1:33 left in the third quarter.

Washington was a constant problem for Salem. A 6-foot, 170-pound senior, the Rocks simply could not contain him — which is why Gordon kept calling his number. Washington lugged the ball an incredible 37 times, gaining 202 yards.

"He's getting better and better," said Gordon. "He's gaining more confidence."

And he was getting a great push from his offensive line. "I thought our offensive line played real well," said Gordon. "That was a concern of ours coming into the game because Salem's defensive line had been playing so well."

The Rock defense was no match this day. "I'll tell ya, I love to run that kind of football," said Salem's Moshimer, counting just four different running plays used by Glenn in the first half. "It may be boring to the fans, but it's great for the coaches." Glenn's first-half attack may have been simple, but it was effective. Washington carried 22 times and gained 104 yards, scoring the first of his three TDs on a 4-yard run in the final minute of the opening quarter. The run capped a nine-play, 60-yard drive that included a 21-yard James Hagelthorn-to-Jerry Farrar pass play which netted a first down at Salem's 20.

The only criticism was the Rockets' inability to put points on the board. Washington's touchdown was the only score of the half; Brian Kolb missed a 32-yard field goal, and another drive ended at the Salem 30 when Dan McKian intercepted

Wrong turn

With top runners DQ'ed, Salem falls to Rockets

The three runners who have missed much of the Plymouth Salem boys cross country season due to injuries were back in action Thursday.

Or were they? Scott Pengelly, Andy McDonald and Jared Binniecki — three of Salem's top runners — led the Rocks in their dual meet against Westland John Glenn. Unfortunately, both Pengelly and McDonald, who had finished first and second, took a wrong turn and ended up getting disqualified.

That cost Salem a shot at victory. Glenn ended up with a 25-32 triumph.

The loss left the Rocks at 1-4 overall, 1-3 in the Western Lakes Activities Association. Glenn is 2-2 in the WLAA, 3-4 overall.

The disqualification of Pengelly and McDonald elevated Glenn's Joe Wojtowicz into first (17:15). Binniecki took second (17:26), followed by three Rockets.

After that came four Salem runners: Greg Mitchell, sixth (18:36); Dan Hodges, seventh (18:49); Ian Packer, eighth (18:59); and Marcus Sarkesian, ninth (19:06).

Canton boys

A one-two-three finish helped propel Plymouth Canton to a 23-32 dual-meet triumph over Farmington Harrison Thursday at Oakland Community College.

The win kept Canton unbeaten at 4-0. The Chiefs go against Northville today; a win and they'll win the division title.

"This is the closest dual meet we've had this year," said Canton coach Mike Spitz. "The guys were pumped up. They know Harrison's been running well, and I'm pleased with the way they responded."

"I'm real happy with our top three runners, and our other guys are getting better." Brian Crockett led the Chiefs, finishing first in 16:59. He was followed by a pair of teammates: Casey Moothart (17:03) and Ian Bedford (17:05). Canton's other scorers were Sanjay Sharma, seventh (17:47), and Colin Astley, 10th (18:04). "Harrison's a good squad," said Spitz. "They're going to be right in the thick of it at the league and regional meets."

Salem girls

Westland John Glenn's girls proved no match for Plymouth Salem's, who ended up capturing the top 10 spots to improve to 3-1 in duals, both overall and in the WLAA.

Leah Retherford led the way, placing first in 21:13. In second was Kathy Jost (21:28), followed by Stacey Moore (21:52), Meran Miles (22:12) and Nicole Bolton (22:25).

Glenn's top runner came in 12th. The Rockets are winless in four duals.

Canton girls

Plymouth Canton's depth proved decisive in a showdown between the top two teams in the WLAA's Western Division Thursday at OCC.

The Chiefs collected five of the top seven spots to hand Farmington Harrison its first dual-meet loss, 23-38. Canton is 5-0 overall, 4-0 in the WLAA; the Hawks slipped to 4-1 overall, 3-1 in the WLAA.

Harrison's Allison Noe recorded her best time at OCC, finishing first in 19:45. Canton's Becky Wolfrom was second 20:14 and Beth Knight was third (20:22). The Chiefs' Tracy Cavin was fifth (21:47), with Meghan Barresi sixth (22:01) and Jamie Vergari seventh (22:04).

Dimitriou also praised the defensive work of sweater Tom Kuzak and stopper Eric Stocklein (Canton).

Which is what he Rocks did Thursday against visiting Farmington — at least for one quarter.

It wasn't the best offensive showing of the season for Plymouth Salem's girls basketball team, but it's hard to fault that defense.

Salem proves stingy in surrendering points

BASKETBALL

Salem's offense was hardly noteworthy. Shellye Sills and Amanda Abraham led the Rocks with six points each.

It didn't turn out that way, however. The Chiefs struggled, trailing 29-27 at the half and clinging to a 39-36 lead entering the final quarter.

When Plymouth Canton traveled to Livonia Franklin Thursday, it didn't figure to be much of a game.

After taking a 9-6 lead after the first quarter, Salem blanked the Falcons in the second, opening up a 16-6 advantage at the half.

Actually, the Blazers (4-7) played eight good minutes of basketball — the fourth quarter.

After a jumper by Mercy's Julie Angeli (10 points), Becky Billicki scored on a driving layup to make it 38-34.

That was fantastic defense," said veteran Stevenson coach Jack Reardon, whose team is 6-1 overall and 4-1 in the Lakes (tied with Westland John Glenn).

"They're the ones we look for big plays," said Harrison coach John Herrington of Williams, Bryant and Granger.

Spartans tip Falcons for title

By BRAD EMONS STAFF WRITER

There isn't a World Series this month, but Livonia Stevenson and Farmington decided to stage a Fall Classic of its own Friday night.

The host Spartans, playing before an overflow homecoming crowd of nearly 4,000, largest in school history, wrapped up the top seed in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association with a hard-fought 7-0 football win over Farmington High.

Senior Chris Mullett, who is becoming Mr. October for the Spartans, took a lead block from Ben Lewis to score the game-winning touchdown.

But it was defense, which limited Farmington to a net of just 23 yards on the ground, that delivered the Reggie Jackson-like hit.

That was fantastic defense," said veteran Stevenson coach Jack Reardon, whose team is 6-1 overall and 4-1 in the Lakes (tied with Westland John Glenn).

There isn't a World Series this month, but Livonia Stevenson and Farmington decided to stage a Fall Classic of its own Friday night.

The host Spartans, playing before an overflow homecoming crowd of nearly 4,000, largest in school history, wrapped up the top seed in the Lakes Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association with a hard-fought 7-0 football win over Farmington High.

Senior Chris Mullett, who is becoming Mr. October for the Spartans, took a lead block from Ben Lewis to score the game-winning touchdown.

But it was defense, which limited Farmington to a net of just 23 yards on the ground, that delivered the Reggie Jackson-like hit.

Jackets blank CC

By NEAL ZIPSER

It was Redford Catholic Central's turn Friday night to try to turn Detroit Country Day's unbeaten streak in boys soccer.

And like 75 previous opponents, the Shamrocks went home disappointed after a 3-0 loss to the Yellow Jackets.

DCD took a 2-0 halftime lead as senior forward Brandon Moggi scored two goals in the first half to raise his season total to 18.

DCD is 15-0-1 this season with the only blemish being a 2-2 tie against Livonia Stevenson, the No. 1 team in Class A.

The Shamrocks, who were outshot 8-2, fell to 9-3-3 overall. "We had a few good opportunities but couldn't get our shots off," CC coach Phil Lajoie said.

The DCD goalkeeper was Alex Garn, who recorded his ninth shutout of the season.

On Thursday, CC broke away from a 1-1 halftime deadlock to beat host Ann Arbor Huron, 5-2.

Huron's Maxwell Fry opened the scoring at 1:07 of the first half, but the Shamrocks' Jeff Buckley answered at 37 minutes on an assist from Tom Derhake.

CC then scored four unanswered goals within a nine-minute span of the second half — Derhake, on a penalty kick (51st minute); Dan Kogut, penalty kick (52nd); and Andy Gignac, who was taken down in the box (52:45); Mike

Martin from Dan Mulvihill (58:30); and Mulvihill from Martin (60:00).

Huron's Ryan Roberts closed out the scoring in the 67th minute. "Actually, I think we played the best soccer we've played all year," said Lajoie, whose team improved to 9-2-3 overall.

"We made a defensive mistake early, but it didn't matter. We did a lot of things right tonight. We're playing well right now."

CHURCHILL S. HARRISON 6: On Wednesday, host Livonia Churchill won its third straight by beating Western Farmington Hills Harrison in a Western Division game in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Sophomore forwards Corey Berzac and Peter Foveotti each scored goals as well as junior midfielders Jason Blint and Dave Sterling. Senior midfielder Mike Minghine also had a goal.

Senior midfielder Chad Uhlinger contributed two assists. Goalkeeper Bryan Stramecki recorded the shutout.

Churchill is 10-5 overall and 4-1 in the Western Division. Harrison is 0-10-2 and 0-8-2.

LIBERTY 3: LUTHERAN WESTLAND 6: Frank Tyrnak scored twice, including a penalty kick Thursday, leading host Groose Pointe University-Liberty past Lutheran High Westland in a Metro Conference encounter.

Bere Backhurst also scored for the winners. Lutheran Westland falls to 8-8 overall and 3-6 in the Metro.

THE WEEK AHEAD

PREP FOOTBALL, SOCCER, GOLF BASKETBALL, BOYS SOCCER, MEN'S COLLEGE SOCCER. Schedule of games for Oct 17-23.

HOROSCOPE

By C. C. Clark

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

The opportunity to travel lies in your future. There could be many changes coming about, and you should be ready to move quickly.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You will soon find a way to surmount limitations or obstacles, as well as a way to realize your dreams. The contents of a package may surprise you.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

You will have a more positive outlook on life in general. You may not always get what you want but can make do with what you have.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

Some battles will be won, but others will be lost. Avoid dwelling on the negative side of everything. You will need to be more self-reliant.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

Things will work out much better than you expected. Try not to repeat your mistakes. You could receive a generous offer or gift.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

A troubled time is coming to an end, and problems will be solved one by one. Luck will be with you in reversing a negative financial trend.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

It is important to wait in a situation until a clear direction is revealed. Success will come through your own ingenuity. You will learn a valuable lesson.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

You will have a chance to go on a pleasure trip or shopping spree with someone special. Things will take an upward swing where business is concerned.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

It will be impossible for you to miss the results of an important event. A new start will work out in your behalf. A negative situation will end.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

Challenging situations and conflicts will arise, and you will have a difficult time. It is imperative that you get others to understand your way of thinking.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You will be detached and guarded where romance is concerned. A nagging health condition needs immediate medical attention.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You will be deeply moved by someone who shows you great kindness. It will be necessary to take care of any long-standing debts.

Alien Nation to invade TVs to tie up series' loose ends

BY JEFF PLASS

James Caan and Mandy Patinkin starred as a pair of police officers - one human (Caan) and one an alien Newcomer (Patinkin) in 1988's Alien Nation. They learn to put aside their physical and philosophical differences in the interests of justice, fair play and racial equality.

The feature film's success prompted a TV series of the same name on Fox. Gary Graham and Eric Pierpoint starred as Detectives Matthew Sikes and George Francisco (in the Caan and Patinkin roles, respectively). The series looked to expand on the movie's theme of racial teamwork and harmony as the only path to a healthy, lasting peace.

But it was not to be. After two years of playing the ratings game, the network canceled the series in July 1991, leaving many of the show's loose ends untied in the process.

On Tuesday, Oct. 25, Fox presents Alien Nation: Dark Horizon, an all-new story, reuniting the original cast and creative team of the series.

"We're delighted to be here," the film's executive producer, Kenneth Johnson, says. "You have no idea how delighted we are to be here.

"This was a show that all of us felt we had no closure on. We had expected it to go on for three or four years, originally, at least. We had stories - a lot of them are available in pocketbook editions at your local bookstore - editions of scripts of ours which have never been novelized because they did not expect that they would ever get made as movies or as television series, and we just finished making the first one."

The film's plot surrounds a racist human organization, known as Purists, who launch a genocide campaign against the Newcomers, creating a deadly virus initially targeted for George. Instead, George's wife, Susan (Michelle Scabarbelli), and daughter, Emily (Lauren Woodland), become infected.

In addition to that, the Newcomers face another threat in Ahposno (Scott Patterson), an elite commander sent from their native planet to locate and reclaim the errant slaves. (The Newcomers originally landed on Earth as refugees, fleeing their totalitarian government).

With fairly opulent special effects (for a made-for-TV movie), believable performances and witty dialogue (Newcomers have a habit of mixing and mangling colorful metaphors), Alien Nation: Dark Horizon successfully presents a thoughtful, entertaining conclusion to the series, while not entirely shutting any doors to the possibility of its revival.

Johnson says that the entire cast was ecstatic at the idea of working together again and getting a chance to tie up some of the show's loose ends.

"The great thing about coming back was twofold," Johnson begins. "One, we'd all joked for years about how we were going to be sitting on our rocking chairs in the Motion Picture Country Home, saying 'They never should have canceled that show. That was the best darn show.'"

"And, as you recall, a lot of threads of character and story in our last episode ended in cliffhangers because we thought we were going to be back. And it was very frustrating not to be able to bring those stories to fruition, or, personally, for ourselves, to have a sense of closure on the project."

The most satisfying things about both the series and the new movie, for Johnson, are the positive messages behind it, and, on a personal level, the unique friendships the cast and crew have cultivated over the past six years.

"It's rare to have the opportunity," Johnson says, "to do a show that both entertains and, at the same time, is about something and has some substance underneath it, and to do it with people that you genuinely love."

"And it sounds really almost corny, but everybody on this show really cares about everybody else. And everybody managed to carve time out of their schedule, or whatever other commitments they had, to be able to - to be reunited."

TV SPORTS

Some viewers take their ESPN very seriously

BY JEFF PLASS

In the 15 years ESPN has been on the air, the network has dramatically altered the lives of America's sports-viewing masses. And over that period, the network has received some pretty interesting letters that reflect just how seriously some Americans take their ESPN.

An anonymous man of the cloth wrote in 1987: "Please show the Nebraska-UCLA game at 6 p.m. as I have a 5 p.m. Mass and would have to find a priest to replace me if you show it earlier."

Karen Whitworth, a viewer and Texas Rangers baseball fan from Corpus Christi, Texas, wrote in last year, saying:

"Here is my SportsCenter highlight: My husband is lounging in his recliner in front of the TV. He needs another beer, so he wonders where I am. Meanwhile at Arlington Stadium, the bases are loaded and Juan Gonzalez is up to bat. It's a low fastball and he smashes it for the grand slam. I've got my glove and I make a great catch. Juan blows me a kiss as he rounds the bases.

"Back in Corpus Christi, my husband sits up and realizes he better start paying more attention to me! What a game, what a catch! It makes SportsCenter, it makes Baseball Tonight, AND Chris Berman gives me a stupid nickname for making that catch."

Michigan's 127th Fighter Wing featured on Discovery Channel

SELFTRIDGE AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE, MICH.—On the 23rd of October, 1994, the Discovery Channel's "Discovery Sunday" program will air a 30-minute documentary on the Michigan Air National Guard's 127th Fighter Wing.

This action-packed show will highlight Selfridge-based F-16 Fighting Falcons with many flying scenes. It also features the many men and women of the Michigan Air Guard who keep these high performance aircraft in the air.

The 127th Fighter Wing, commanded by Brigadier General Allan

W. "Elliott" Ness, is made up of over 1,000 Air Guard members from the Detroit area as well as all over Michigan. It's a good bet you may see one of your neighbors in action doing the work of your nation's defense.

Once again, this show will air on cables' Discovery Channel on the "Discovery Sunday" program, October 23, at 10:30 p.m EDT.

For further information, call Alice Errington at the Selfridge Base Public Affairs Office, (810) 307-5576 or Maj Al Smith, (810) 626-3020.

Two ex-Dallas stars join All My Children

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Some familiar faces are popping up on All My Children. Former Dallas stars Kimberly Foster and Steve Kanaly have joined the show as Liz Sloane and Seabone Hunkle.

Foster's character, Liz, is a waitress at McKays. She will be responsible for shaking up the lives of several Pine Valley residents. She also will be a volunteer for Edmund's (John Callahan) campaign for Congress.

Seabone is Del and Dixie's father. When Jenny told Tad that he was going to have to help Dixie through some tough times soon, she wasn't joking - Dixie will be confronted by the father who deserted her to go live with his other family.

On Dallas, Kanaly portrayed Ray Krebs, one of the Ewing brothers. Foster played Michelle Stevens, the woman responsible for the death of Sheila Foley (Susan Lucci, who plays Erica on AMC).

Dear Candace: I can't believe how great Loving is getting. I've always loved the show and never understood why it was so low in the ratings. But now it is even more exciting.

This whole twin brother thing with Jeremy and Gilbert has been fun. I think Jean LeClerc (Jeremy/Gilbert) is very talented.

The only complaint I have is that I would like to see Dante (Tom Christopher) return to the show. He was so good at being evil. Tell your readers to tune into Loving. It is great! -Theresa in New York.

Dear Reader: Christopher is back on Loving for a short time appearing in a series of flashbacks. He said he would like to return to his role on One Life to Live as Carlo Hesser.

Dear Candace: I watch Days of Our Lives every day. I am a big fan of Carrie (Christie Clark), Billie (Lisa Rinna) and Austin (Patrick Muldoon). Could you please tell me where I can write to them? -Karie Seilberger, Amsterdam, N.Y.

Dear Reader: You may write to your favorite stars at Days of Our Lives, NBC-TV, 3000 West Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif. 91523.

LET'S TALK

Cole to be a big-screen Brady; Sagal, Seagal not related at all

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: I am a big fan of Gary Cole, who starred in Midnight Caller and co-starred with Clint Eastwood in In the Line of Fire. Where can I write to him and is he planning any projects in the future? —Cindy McKay, Fallon, Nev.

A: Cole is set to star as Mike Brady (the role formerly played by the late Robert Reed) in the big-screen adaptation of The Brady Bunch. Try writing to the actor C/O The William Morris Agency, 151 El Camino Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Q: A frozen yogurt is riding on this. Is the actress who plays Peg Bundy on Married... With Children the sister of actor Steven Seagal? —Bob Kujala, Hiram, Ohio.

A: Katey Sagal (note spelling) is unrelated to the actor, but is the sister of twins Jean and Liz Sagal (Double Trouble) and the daughter of the late filmmaker Boris Sagal.

Q: I love The X-Files. Could you tell me where I can write to stars David Duchovny and Gillian Anderson? —Lisa H., Vidor, Texas.

A: I keep repeating this address and almost every day someone asks for it. Write to them C/O their series at Fox Broadcasting Co., 10201 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90035.

Q: I was a big fan of the soap opera Santa Barbara until they took it off the air last year. You get kind of depressed when you've watched your favorite soap since it began and then, all of a sudden, they take it off the air. Are they ever going to bring it back? —Miranda Smith, no address.

A: No way, Miranda. Daytime TV critics hailed the sometimes flaky soap for its offbeat style, especially when Lane Davies and Nancy Lee Grahn were a team as Mason and Julia, but ratings, which were never good, steadily declined. All the cast and other creative forces are scattered to the winds at this point and would be unlikely to return to a project that already failed once.

Q: I see what looks like an unbelievable resemblance between actor Val Kilmer and actress Nancy McKeon. Are they related? —Carla Jones, Zavalla, Texas.

A: You're right, Carla, they do look a lot alike. But they're not related. Nancy, however, is the sister of actor Philip McKeon (Alice), who seems to have dropped out of sight.
