Arraignments go high-tech

By using a computer-based video-conferencing system, Canton police officers are now arraigning prisoners without taking them to distrct court. on a computer screen.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton police are now saving time, money and wear and tear on the paddy wagon by arraigning prisoners via a video-conferencing computer connection with 35th District Court judges.

The video-arraignment system went on line Wednesday, March 20, and has so far prevented the physical appearance in district court of 12-15 people charged with minor crimes.

Because the distance between Canton police headquarters and the district court in Plymouth is about nine miles, transporting 20-25 prisoners back and forth each week was taking a lot of time.

Capt. Laura Golles estimated that officers were engaged in transporting prisoners to district court for 854 hours in 1994. That's 854 hours that an officer wasn't out on patrol, she said.

The computer and Intel ProShare teleconferencing software cost Canton about $4,400. A strong cabinet to prevent prisoners from damaging the equipment cost $1,200. Soundproofing a small room where the system is used cost $700. And a new phone line for the modem is $40 per month.

At the district court end of the connection, there are three terminals, one in each courtroom. Tiny cameras permit the judge and the prisoner to see one another during the arraignment. Each video image in presented on the computer monitor.

Golles said arraigning prisoners this way is safer, because they never leave the police department lock-up.

Macomb County Sheriff Bill Hackel, who installed a video arraignment system in 1988, agreed.

"Anytime you can buy hardware, save personnel costs and improve safety, what's the problem?" he said. "Everybody should have it hooked up. Let's get going."

Marion Belding, administrator of the 35th District Court, said video arraignment will likely be used by Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Northville police departments, eventually, but Canton is the only one so far.

Outlying Macomb County police departments far from the courthouse benefit greatly, Hackel said, because officers need not spend hours on the road chauffeuring prisoners.

"They have the most to gain," Belding said. "Probably 50 percent of our case-load comes from (Canton)."

Consensus: state test wasn't that bad

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton high school juniors, teachers and administrators are critiquing the new state proficiency test, taken last month for the first time by Michigan 11th-graders.

The consensus seems to be that the 12-hour test wasn't all that bad.

Salem High School area coordinator (assistant principal) Joan Claeys said she spoke with many of the 900 juniors who took the math, reading, writing and science test." Many of them thought the test wasn't nearly as difficult they thought it would be," she said.

"Everyone was saying it was hard, but it actually wasn't hard at all," said Lenny Thomas of Salem. Agreed classmate Steve Sawchuk, "It was easier than what we thought; it was similar to the MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program replaced by the proficiency test.)"

For the first time, writing was included in a standardized high school test. "I didn't see the purpose of all the writing," said Thomas. "You were supposed to think of an important experience in your life and tell about it, basically from your own past. I don't see how they can grade that.

"I don't know if it was all worth it," he added. "They say you will get a stamp on your diploma, but I don't think anyone knows what that means."

Students who pass the proficiency test will receive a state-endorsed diploma. But it's unclear how many Michigan colleges and universities are requiring the endorsement.

"I'm not sure our test results mean a lot to our universities, and I don't know that they'd mean anything to out-of-state universities," said Claeys.

Salem junior Jessica Mason said she heard the reason we had to take this test is because John Engler wants more charter schools, and he wants the school system to look bad."

Salem math teacher Curt Perry said "That's typical of what we've heard." Claeys said the issue will be moot next year, because the new school code requires charter school students to take the proficiency test also.

Perry and fellow math teacher Ted Balaj were pleased with how things went with the test, administered to students over a two-week period.

"I thought the kids really handled it well. They were focused and took it seriously," said Perry.

Perry said the test was easier than it was in its initial form. "Throughout the editing process, they became realistic. You can't ask all kids in a high school to do the same upper-level math questions. Not all kids are going to have the upper level math. They ended up with questions much more appropriate for what the average kid needs to know."

"I wouldn't say it was a breeze," said Balaj. "The kids might be prepared better. We've adapted to the new curriculum. It's the same old story; if I give you good directions to get to your destination, it's easy to get there."

Some parents refused to allow their children to take the test, citing the "values questions" it contained. Others said it was so easy it was meaningless.

Perry said, "I think it would have been a mistake for kids to opt out. If a college looks at that, they might wonder if the student has something to hide, or if the student is fearful of their abilities."

Paving moves closer

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

Canton officials are getting close, for the second time, to a smooth ride on Haggerty Road from Palmer to Michigan Avenue.

"Who would want to go down Haggerty Road past Palmer?" asked Trustee Melissa McLaughlin. "It's such a rocky, muddy, bumpy road."

But maybe not for long.

Armed with an arguably more sturdy consensus among major property owners abutting Haggerty than they had in 1994, officials hope a tentative agreement to fund the estimated $1.8-million paving project will hold together and construction can begin this year.

Should all proceed according to plan, a newly paved Haggerty Road would open a new route to ease congestion on township roads and satisfy a major prerequisite for industrial development in that area.

Two years ago a deal to pave Haggerty fell through when the Singh Development Co., which owns a large parcel of land along the road, withdrew its support of the project.

Retired Canton farmer valued as land steward

Editor's note: Canton resident Virgina Bailey Parker, an historian and author, will p provide the Observer with a series of stories from interviews of longtime residents and their memories of rural Canton.

BY VIRGINIA BAILEY PARKER
SPECIAL WRITER

"Anything you say about me has to go back to my folks," Robert Simmons began. His mother, Anna, was born in a sod house in Nebraska. She married George Simmons, who worked as a hired man for her cousin in Ohio. The couple soon moved to a rented farm on Denton Road.

"They came on the railroad in box cars in the early spring. The mud was clear up to the horses' stomachs," his parents told him.

In 1913, Simmons' father and another man took the interurban to Detroit to buy cattle. "They drove them home along Ford Road. By the time they got home, I guess my dad was pretty tired."

As a small child, Simmons accompanied his mother on the interurban to Western Market. She sold chickens, homemade butter, eggs, and in the summertime, flowers and lima beans.

"We'd catch the interurban at 4 o'clock in the morning. If it was foggy, we lit a piece of newspaper and threw it on the tracks, so the motorman would see it and stop for us."

The scene of Canton folks traveling to Detroit along a dirt Michigan Avenue looked vastly different from what modern eyes see. "About half the traffic was horses, and the trucks had hard rubber tires. Quite a few women rode the interurban to that market there. Later my sister drove the truck to market."

Simmons made a point of talking about one of his mother's better friends, Mrs. Carter. Rural Canton was a community of both white and black families.

"Her father was an escaped slave that went to Chatham, Canada and married an Irish-Indian woman. Her and her children were always part of our family, and they were really important people in this community, even though some people might not have thought so."

She cared for Simmons' mother for two weeks when his sister was born. Simmons' father, who never missed a meal during that time, said the $10 she asked for wasn't enough and paid her $15. "After that she charged $15, and nobody complained."

"She did a lot of the practical nursing for Dr. Arnold in Denton. He often said if he could get Ms. Carter, he could pull them through."

Simmons first remembers working with neighbors at butchering bees. "Two or three neighbors would get together and butcher hogs, and hang them on a pole. My job was to carry the insides into the house, so the women could pick the lard and try it out. I remember some of those women, when I hit the door knob, everything got quiet. You could hear them laughing. I presume there were some stories going around that table, too."

Simmons learned a lot about responsibility in the Citizenship Club at Cherry Hill School. They met every Friday afternoon and elected officers. The children took charge of cooking hot lunches, cleaning blackboards, and so on. "Later years, we tried to institute it at Palmer (but) people said, 'My kid ain't gonna do janitor work for nothing,' and that ended that."

Simmons rode his pony to school. The third year, he got a cart, so the pony could pull both Simmons and his sister. That lasted until Mr. Proctor moved in next door. He liked kids and would time his milk haul to give them a ride to school.

One of the games Simmons played as a child was horseshoes with real horse shoes from home. "Pa probably wondered where they went to!"

After marrying, Simmons continued to farm. "Mother and Ruth always had chickens. I always gave the women a lot of credit for that chicken money because it bought our groceries and practically ran the house. Sometimes my dad had a hard time seeing it. Every fall, mother would take us into the department store and outfit us with clothes. And that was egg money."

He talked about a significant change in farming after World War II. "We got into artificial insemination, and we were among the first."

Until that time, the Simmonses usually got a registered bull calf and raised it, though some men bought stockyard bulls.

This new method produced heavier framed cows that yielded greater quantities of milk. It also proved much safer for the farmers than working with bulls.

Simmons recalled that his father sat on Canton's first zoning board when it was formed during World War II. Migrant workers had arrived to work at the Willow Run bomber plant. They lived in makeshift trailer parks without proper sanitation.

Simmons teased his father about these farmers placing restrictions on other people's homes when their own had never been regulated. In his parents' home, after all, the hired man had to walk through the master bedroom to get to his own!

Looking back, Simmons said, "The thing that I really enjoyed most was (working) together. And the fact that, as a farmer, if you're thinking right, you're steward of the land. You're going to take care of it. My father felt that way, and I did, too. Try to leave it better than you found it."

Preliminary budget set for school year

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools have set a preliminary budget for 1996-97.

Expenditures are pegged at $95.3 million, up from $93.2 million in 1995-96.

Student enrollment is expected to be 15,650, up from 15,435 this year. There will be an estimated total of 1,378 teachers and support staff. Salaries are projected at $60.8 million.

Targeted for instruction is $7.2 million. Music, athletics, staff development, security, the attendance and curriculum centers, drivers' education and the career center will require $2 million. Just under half a million dollars will be spent on support services.

Available for the capital improvement fund is $1.2 million, including $300,000 to replace the Canton Phase III gym floor; door replacement at schools including Eriksson, Field, Farrand, Smith, East Central, Hulsing and Fiegel; concrete repair throughout the district; and window replacement at Central and Pioneer middle schools. Projected at $232,230 is spending for technology and data processing.

Claeys attended a meeting at the Oakland County intermediate district where the test was reviewed last week.

A gentleman at the meeting questioned why juniors aren't taking a national test such as the ACT, in order to measure their progress against their counterparts nationwide. "His point was valid," said Claeys.

Other criticisms of the test: the results won't be available until Aug. 30. The reading tests will take considerable time to correct, said Claeys. "If a student didn't pass, the re-test is the first two weeks of October. That barely gives us time to notify students, let alone help them," she said.

"That to us is educationally unsound, if you want improvement. That's like getting a paper back six months after it was assigned."

Another widely-shared criticism was the timing of the test, and its length. "For many areas, this came immediately after winter break, heard at the meeting that the state is looking at making it earlier in second semester."

Township Supervisor Tom Yack is hopeful, but skeptical, that the deal will hold together this time. "I'll believe it when everybody signs on the bottom line," he said Friday.

Last year, when Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara talked about creating jobs with a "Tradeport" status for Willow Run Airport, Yack said that if McNamara was serious about creating jobs, he would pave Haggerty Road, a Wayne County-owned road.

Yack expects the pace of industrial development in Canton to quicken this year, and paving Haggerty south of Palmer could trigger significant industrial activity.

With "Class A" roads to support semi-trucks, easy access to I-275 and a soon-to-be improved Michigan Avenue, the south Haggerty location would be a good one for a new factory.

Although some of the property abutting Haggerty south of Palmer is occupied by houses, vast stretches of it are vacant.

Nearly half of the property is owned by developer Stuart Frankel through the Haggerty II Limited Partnership. Other property owners include: the C.A. Kime Co., the Archdiocese of Detroit, Singh Development, Wayne County, Robert Keep of Livonia and Taddeus Markowski.

The township owns two large parcels worth an estimated $720,000, which could be sold to pay the township's share of the paving cost.

The large property owners would pay about $100 per foot of frontage on Haggerty, said township associate engineer Sue Folsom. The exact cost won't be known until bids are taken and a contract is awarded.

Folsom mailed petitions to the major property owners Thursday, including a self-addressed, stamped envelope because she said the township is anxious to start work this year.

The property owners are less likely to balk this time, Folsom said, because "they're already aware of the share they're going to have to pay. These fellows have had a chance to get over the shock."

the Scott Correctional Facility in Northville Township buy the video arraignment equipment. Canton police Det. Richard Pomorski said the video conferencing system is likewise helpful when detectives or witnesses must talk to assistant prosecutor Ray Walsh, who runs a satellite office in Westland for Prosecutor John O'Hair. Sometimes a document, or a bit of evidence must be shown to Walsh. Instead of driving to Westland, detectives may now call Walsh on the video system and show the paper or the evidence to him on the computer monitor. "We're figuring we're going to find all kinds of uses for it," Golles said.

Observer entering new publishing era

BY BOB NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

'What we really hope to do with this system is to produce more timely news for the readers.'
Randy Borst
graphics coordinator

Johann Gutenberg wouldn't know what hit him.

If the inventor of modern type wandered into the Observer newsroom these days, he'd probably be struck speechless by the advances in the technology he pioneered. "Hot type" and "cold type" have long since reached the status of nostalgia, with computers taking over many functions once performed by hand.

Beginning with today's issue, your hometown Observer takes the transition a step further, starting to create entire newspaper pages — including text, photographs, and graphics — on a computer screen. Combine this with a much more advanced word processor and library system than the papers had been using, and it all adds up to a package that would take Gutenberg's breath away.

"What we really hope to do with this system is to produce more timely news for the readers," said Randy Borst, the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers' graphics coordinator, who has been working on the transition. "It gives editors a great deal of flexibility in determining how the page looks ... The basic design of the newspaper is not changing, but the way stories and photos are placed on a page may appear different."

The outgoing system involved a mixture of "dumb" terminals — a computer keyboard and display terminal with no computer brains — and IBM-compatible personal computers tied to a mainframe, a large, powerful computer serving the entire newspaper chain.

The new system is a wide-area network of Apple Macintosh computers bought through Baseview Systems of Ann Arbor. The word processing software is a Baseview creation called NewsEditPro, while editors will build pages using QuarkXPress, an industry standard program.

"They (NewsEditPro and the Macintosh) are both extremely easy to use. Some electronic page assembly systems are horribly complicated, and the Baseview system, we determined, provides the best ease of use," Borst said. "So far, what I've heard from the editorial staff, it's gotten rave reviews."

Gary Moultrup — a technician/trainer for SCC, the O&E's parent company — has helped install the Baseview system at several SCC subsidiaries. He explained that O&E will have three different data base servers — the part of the network where everything is stored — located in Livonia, Birmingham and Rochester.

Each server is a large-capacity (3-gigabyte) hard drive with special software, and a backup drive attached to it. The three servers are linked together and to the central library server, which has a 12-gigabyte capacity.

Moving into the future: Brad Emons, sports editor for the Livonia and Westland Observers, practices laying out a newspaper page on a computer.

Skip Wood, vice president of manufacturing for SCC, listed several reasons for changing systems:

"First, the old ... system we have is no longer sold in market. Secondly, support for that system ... becomes more tenuous. Third, it's a proprietary system (using its own, nonstandard software).

"The last issue is, (the new system) provides us the flexibility we need for dealing with the marketplace."

That flexibility comes in large part from creating pages on computers. Wood explained that this way, it will be easier to get late news into the paper, moving deadlines closer to the time the paper gets printed. Rather than requiring someone to physically re-make a front page in the event of late-breaking news, for example, the same page can be redone on the computer screen.

Eventually, advertisers may benefit, too: "As the system matures ... we will hopefully be able to have ad deadlines that move closer to press time," Wood said.

More flexibility comes from keeping data — in this case, the content of the newspaper — in computer form rather than just on paper. The new system will provide nearly instant access to past issues, and has the ability to conduct advanced searches for particular items.

The company's O&E On-Line computer information service might make good use of the digital nature of the papers' content, and all sorts of possibilities open up for allowing the public access to back copies, Wood said: "It's hard to do those things unless you're in a digital data base environment."

Technological issues aside, Moultrup said most people learn to love the system.

"I think most everybody likes it quite a bit," he said. "You've got a lot more control over the end product than you've ever had before."

Youngster turned over to Protective Services staff

Canton police turned over a 7-year-old Canton girl to Michigan Protective Services after her mother called township emergency services March 22 because the girl had her third seizure in a week.

The child and mother lived in a trailer park on Old Michigan Avenue. The heat was off because the bills hadn't been paid, according to the police report.

An electric heater in the bedroom was the only source of heat in the mobile home.

Police "found only old food in the refrigerator, no milk, juice, or other basics," according to the police report. "The kitchen was very unkempt and there were fish scales all over the counter tops and floor. It is unknown how long ago the girl had a square meal."

The girl was taken to Annapolis Hospital, then turned over to Protective Services personnel, who will now handle the investigation.

Aspirin heist foiled

An employee of Arbor Drugs in Kentry Commons on Joy at Morton Taylor told police that he prevented the theft of $538 in pain relievers March 25.

The employee said a man and a woman came into the store at 2:35 p.m. The woman talked to the clerk while the man filled a red duffel bag with various brands of pain reliever.

The employee confronted the man when he tried to leave, according to the police report. The man dropped the bag and fled with the woman in a large Oldsmobile.

The police report said the man "appears to be mentally challenged."

Snowmobiles stolen

A 47-year-old resident of the Village Green Apartments on Haggerty told police that a trailer worth $900, two snowmobiles worth $10,400 and two snowmobile covers worth $600 were taken from the parking lot between 1:30 a.m. and noon March 24.

The trailer is a 1994 Cox model. The snowmobiles are both Ski-Doos. One is a red Formula SL-2 worth $4,400. The other is a 1992 black Mach 1 worth $6,000.

Missing truck

An employee of Tire Maxx Inc. on Ronda Drive south of Joy told police March 26 that someone stole a 1993 Ford F350 truck worth $15,000 and several tools and tires from the business between 11:15 a.m. March 23 and 7:30 a.m. March 25.

The employee said he arrived at work March 25 and found the front gate open with no sign of forced entry. The truck, tires and tools were missing.

The employee said the keys were left in the truck.

Shoplifting

Canton police arrested a woman March 24 after a Meijer security officer caught her trying to steal four brassieres worth $51.96.

The police report said the security officer saw the woman stuff the bras in her coat and leave the store.

Police found that the woman was also wanted for retail fraud in Pittsfield Township.

Students sought for new school

Student registrations are now being accepted for a proposed new Catholic grade school. If enough interest is shown, the school will be built at Resurrection parish in Canton on Warren Road west of Beck Road.

Interested parents can register and/or pick up information packets from one of the sponsoring parishes – Resurrection, St. John Neumann, St. Thomas A'Becket and St. Kenneth, or they can contact parent coordinators Mike Mitchell at 420-2784 or Dan Bihn at 459-9704.

Registration is open through May 1.

"At that time, we will assess how many students we have, and whether there is enough to make a viable school. We're hoping for 400, but we wouldn't limit it if we got 600 or 700," said parent coordinator Kathryn Kristoff.

The target date opening date is the fall of 1997. Initial response to the plan has been strong. More than 110 children have already been registered.

Plans for the new school grew out of a resurgence of interest in Catholic education, long waiting lists at all Catholic schools in adjacent areas, and the commitment of the Archdiocese of Detroit.

Judge sides with taxpayers in real estate suit

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

It wasn't big money, said taxpayer David Pochmara. "There's a principle. Government thinks it can do what it wants. If they can implement a small tax, there's no reason to believe they wouldn't be more brazen in the future," said the winner of a class action lawsuit against Wayne County.

Circuit Judge John R. Kirwan ruled March 29 that county government violated the Headlee amendment to the Michigan Constitution when it levied a real estate transfer surcharge tax without approval of voters.

Kirwan read his brief opinion from the bench and said he would approve an order settling the lawsuit some time this week. Carl VonEnde, a Miller Canfield attorney working for Wayne County, said he will wait to see terms of the order before deciding whether to ask the Court of Appeals to hear the case.

"He buried 'em," said Peter Macuga II, Pochmara's lawyer, of Kirwan's succinct opinion.

The four-year old case may mean a refund for people in Wayne County who sold real estate since 1991, when Pochmara started his suit. For the seller of a $100,000 house, it amounts to $40 _ less than the cost of filing a suit, let alone lawyers' fees.

Pochmara, a former Harper Woods city councilmember, is unsure if he'll recover his legal costs. But he was happy he had won not only a personal victory but a class-action suit against government.

The recovery could total as much as $10 million for all sellers. But first the county has 21 days after Kirwan's order is signed to decide whether to appeal. If the taxpayers win, the county will have to set up a schedule of settlement payments.

Pochmara organized a group of 10-15 taxpayers after he was nicked for the surtax when he sold a house in Detroit. Last year the Michigan Supreme Court ruled the taxpayers might recover from the time the suit was filed in 1991, but not from the time the tax was levied in 1981. The high court sent the suit back to Kirwan's court to decide the merits.

Kirwan ruled the "plain and unambiguous" intent of the 1978 Headlee amendment was "to prohibit the county from raising a tax without a vote" of the people.

Michigan charges a real estate transfer tax of $1.10 per $1,000 of value statewide. But in 1980, two years after passage of the Headlee amendment, the Legislature authorized counties with more than two million population to levy a 40 cents per $1,000 surcharge. The law applied only to Wayne County. In February of 1981 the Wayne County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution establishing and levying the surcharge.

Although the county argued the tax was state-imposed, Kirwan ruled otherwise. "Surely the tax is a Wayne County tax and not a state tax," the judge said.

The 14th floor courtroom in the City-County Building was packed with other tax foes who applauded Kirwan's decision and Macuga's "dogged persistence," in Pochmara's words.

"A benchmark decision," said Bill McMaster, Southfield public relations man and chair of Taxpayers United, predicting other anti-tax suits.

Also applauding was Rose Bogaert, Dearborn Heights resident who is fighting Wayne County's fee for 9-1-1 emergency service.

In still another case, the Supreme Court is scheduled to hear oral arguments April 11 in Airlines Parking Inc. vs. Wayne County, a challenge to the county's 30 percent tax on private parking lots located near Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Sex issues cloud Senate's high ed budget debate

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

State senators never mentioned the big money _ $1.5 billion _ as they passed a state aid budget bill for Michigan's 15 public universities.

They argued over same-sex marriages. After four hours of debate on March 27, the Senate approved a section cutting universities' state aid if they provide health benefits to same-sex domestic partners of employees.

"Ridiculous!" said Sen. Joe Young Jr., D-Detroit, an opponent. "You've got bad breath, and it speaks to a poisoned mind," he said to Republican sponsor Bill Schuette of Midland.

"Dow Chemical offers this benefit to unmarried couples," said Young, taunting Schuette with the name of the company that not only is the largest employer in Schuette's district but the source of his personal fortune. "The University of Michigan, Cornell, Howard, Minnesota, Chicago, Apple, HBO, Time-Warner, Showtime, Schwab _ all national universities and corporations offer this kind of program.

"But you say oh, no, no, no, no _ let's not interfere with private corporations."

Schuette replied, "It's consistent with our laws on opposite-sex marriages. It doesn't tell private institutions _ Hope or University of Detroit _ or private persons how they should spend their money. That's their business.

"It just says we reduce your appropriation" of universities who pay benefits to same-sex couples. The constitution (Art. VIII sec. 4) gives the Legislature power to appropriate," Schuette said.

Added Sen. Doug Carl, R-Macomb County: "The taxpayers are sick and tired of special privileges for gay and lesbian couples." Carl said the impact of paying benefits to gays and lesbians would be felt by other students when the university raises its tuition as state aid is cut.

"At U-M you can pick up anybody for a few days, shack up and get special privileges," said Carl, a Michigan State alumnus. U-M reported 97 registered domestic partners among its 32,000 employees and pays $160,000 a year for their insurance.

The provision is unlikely to become part of the final budget, however. It must still go through the House and survive a conference committee. Then the bill must get two-thirds approval from each chamber for it to take effect this year _ a necessity since the fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

Young's effort to strip out the Schuette section failed on a 9-23 vote, supported by area Democrats John Cherry of Clio, Alma Wheeler Smith of Salem and Gary Peters of Bloomfield Township.

The full budget bill won approval on a 25-12 vote. Voting

SC to get big boost under Senate budget proposal

Area community colleges will receive 5.4 percent more state aid this year, but their good luck is unlikely to hold up in future years.

For Oakland Community College, the hike will be 3.77 percent to $19.2 million.

For Schoolcraft College, the hike will be 6.7 percent to more than $10 million.

The state Senate last week approved the $259 million in state aid by a 23-12 vote. Voting yes were all area Republicans joined by three Democrats, including George Z. Hart of Dearborn. Voting no were 11 Democrats joined by Doug Carl, R-Macomb.

Reason for the larger-than-normal boost is that Highland Park Community College no longer is in existence. Gov. John

School reps discuss bargaining issues

No whining and don't change without planning were among the ideas educators from local school districts heard at a recent gathering.

At a conference held in Romulus, sponsored by the Southeast Michigan Labor-Management Committee and the Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency, educators heard from representatives of the Mount Pleasant School District and the Michigan State University School of Labor and Industrial Relations Project on Innovative Employment Relations Systems. Local school districts including Plymouth-Canton, Wayne-Westland, Redford Union, South Redford, Livonia and Garden City sent representatives.

"No whining," that was the basic ground rule in the new target specific contract negotiating program presented by Robert Janson, superintendent of Mount Pleasant Public Schools and Al Tucker of the Mount Pleasant Education Association.

One area in which educators hurt each other more than others is in collective bargaining, Janson said.

Four years ago, the Mount Pleasant School District faced bargaining and "both side knew going in that we were going to have a strike," he said.

A federal mediator started the district on a plan called target specific bargaining. That method was so successful the district plans to use it again this summer, Janson said.

Tucker, speaking from the teachers union's point of view, said the union at first looked at the federal program with suspicion.

But the program had some interesting elements. No issues are dropped in the heat of bargaining and the bargaining table is circular with every other person a management or union representative, rather than the traditional setup of each side on opposite sides of the table.

Bargaining is set for a 10-day period from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. with no negotiating on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays.

The result was a labor contract and a non-contractual document.

To start the process all 267 teachers in the district were asked what the district could do to make their jobs better. Each teacher could list as many problems as he or she wanted, but could not state a solution.

That brought a list of 352 problems. Data was gathered on each problem. The major issues of salary, benefits, staffing, school calendar and professional development were dealt with along with individual problems at the school level. But not all issues made it into the contract, some were dealt with in the non-contractual document.

Also the information discussed and agreed to was entered on a word processor so at the end of negotiations a completed document was available, Janson said.

Salaries, often a stumbling block in negotiations, took less than one hour, Janson said.

That was possible because both sides sat down and went through the budget. Items were costed out. If class size is considered a problem, the cost to add more teachers is spelled out, Tucker said.

"We agreed upon the bottom line," Tucker said.

"We're sold on this. I would never go back to the traditional form of bargaining," Janson said.

John Beck, assistant professor at Michigan State University School of Labor and Industrial Relations, presented the steps in the process for implementing change successfully.

Don't change without proper planning, Beck said. The layers of flavors of the month programs leave people with a bad taste in their mouths, he said.

He recommended taking several steps in planning change. People often read about an idea in the Wall Street Journal and then spend time "jamming it into the organization," he said.

Also, crisis is a major motivator for change, he said.

Many people also institute changes as if nothing existed before, and that insults longtime employees, Beck said.

A key question a company should ask is "How do we know when things are good?," Beck said.

Engler spread Highland Park's funds around to all the other 28 colleges to boost the average over the 5 percent mark. Without that money, the other 28 would have averaged only a 3.3 percent boost.

A second but smaller boost occurred when Engler and lawmakers decided to end a personal income tax break of $250 per student for tuition paid to a college that keeps its tuition hike below the rate of inflation.

The Senate bill drops the requirement that each college submit a plan to address minority student recruitment, but it continues the requirement that colleges report North American Indian student enrollments.

The bill goes to the House for approval during April.

yes were 20 Republicans joined by five Democrats, including Alma Smith. Voting no were 12 Democrats, including Peters of Bloomfield Township and George Hart of Dearborn, joined by Republican Carl.

There were two minor skirmishes during the budget debate.

Sen. Alma Smith lost on a party-line vote with her amendment to reinstate a tuition tax credit into the budget bill. This year the state is giving an income tax of up to $250 for tuition paid to a public university or community college that holds its tuition hike below the rate of inflation. Gov. John Engler wants to eliminate that tax break and spread the $12 million around all colleges. He's likely to win.

Sen. Jackie Vaughn III, D-Detroit, lost his amendment to hike Wayne State University's aid from 4.2 percent to 4.6 percent, the minimum increase given to other universities. Republicans pointed out that WSU gets $9,275 per student, more than double the $4,277 going to Oakland University and the $4,161 going to UM-Dearborn.

S'craft center to hold kindergarten roundup

The Children's Center at Schoolcraft College will hold its annual kindergarten roundup from 7-8 p.m. Tuesday, April 16.

Parents may register their child for the program during this time for the 1996-97 school year.

The Schoolcraft kindergarten features instruction from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Students will be instructed using a language-based curriculum.

Parents may take advantage of daycare services from 7-9 a.m. and after school from 3 to 6 p.m. The before-and-after-care programs are included in the basic fee, along with lunch and two snacks.

Tuition for the program is $125 a week. To register at the roundup, a $50, nonrefundable deposit check is required. The Children's Center is on the south side of the south parking lot on the Livonia campus, at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile roads.

AT A LOSS FOR FLUORIDE
There is general agreement that fluoride in much of our drinking water is responsible for the significant reduction of tooth decay in this country's population in recent decades. Unfortunately, some people unknowingly circumvent fluoride's beneficial effect by drinking bottled water, which may not contain fluoride. As a matter of fact, when researchers at the University of Texas Dental Branch in Houston tested 39 brands of bottled water for fluoride content, they found that only five contained the recommended level. Moreover, the study also turned up the fact that home water filters utilizing the reverse osmosis process significantly decrease the fluoride content of tap water in the home.
At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES we stress preventive dentistry. If you would like more information on fluoride or to schedule an appointment, please call 478-2110 to schedule a convenient appointment. We offer a wide range of dental services. Remember, preventative dentistry is the least expensive and most convenient way to retain your smile. Savvy salon treats problem skin, hair

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

The services of a special salon in Farmington Hills may not be for everyone, but they're certainly a godsend to some.

Visage Anti-Aging, International (The Malibu Group) offers hair enhancements for people with thin hair, and chemical facial peels for clients who want to "turn back the clock."

"People are surprised to find that the first thing I set out to do is rid them of their reliance on foundation," said Donna Jagger, esthetician-owner. "By combining the sciences of dermatology, nutrition and cosmetology into a fully integrated personalized system, I work with clients to create a radiant, blemish-free face."

Jagger said she's had an interest in beautiful skin since receiving her first facial at the age of 9 from the her grandmother, a Hungarian esthetician. She's practiced the craft for 18 years, the last four, specializing in alpha hydroxy acid facials (aka chemical peels).

"There seems to be two magic ages when women consider their skin — 35 and 50," Jagger said, unsmiling. "They reach these birthdays, hear about us, and come in for a consultation. They say, 'I think it's time I start taking care of my face.' European women know better."

Before opening her own salon, Jagger studied in Toronto under Elena DuBuay, a renown skincare technician. Next stop was New York under the direction of dermatologist/cosmetic surgeon Dr. Steven Victor, whose clients include Ivana Trump, Nancy Kissinger and Christie Brinkley. Both teachers espoused the European ideals that Jagger practices.

Jagger now treats local celebrities, counting among her clients media and professional women who must look their best for their living.

Alice Antoinetti of Farmington Hills had a chemical peel last year and is considering a second. "As a natural redhead, I damaged my face from years of sunbathing," she said. "I had spots that I detested. Donna suggested the peel. She informed me of the process and explained what to expect."

"Well, for one week after the treatment I couldn't go out of the house while the top layer of my skin peeled off under hearing balms. I looked like I had a really bad sunburn. But after seven days, my spots were gone and my skin was radiant."

Among the pharmaceutical-grade products Jagger handles are Ella Bache of Hungary, Gunnilla of Sweden, Nelly DuVuyst of Belgium, Nutricell of Switzerland, Bio Jouvance of Paris and Shu Eumera of Japan.

Her staff also offers hair enhancements for clients with thin or problem hair. Auto show model Suzi Arnoni works in the salon. She said she relies on hair enhancements every three to four months to deal with her thin hair.

"The custom colored strands are woven right into and under your own hair," she explained. "It takes about six hours, but then you've got a beautiful head of hair that requires little care for the next few months. The hair can be blown dry and set just like your real hair. It grows along with your real hair."

Both services run between $150-$600. The Malibu Group is on Orchard Lake, north of 13 Mile. Inquiries are welcome at (810) 932-4064.

Hudson's unveils its shining star

Reporters and civic leaders got first peek at Hudson's Somerset store last week when the designer shared each department's inspiration through story boards at a press breakfast on the almost-finished second level.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Likening the store to an English manor home with you the welcomed guest, Hudson's chief of Visual Merchandising and Design Andrew Markopoulos, presented his vision of Hudson's 315,000-square foot flagship store in the Somerset Collection, five months away from the Aug. 16 grand opening.

And it's verrry European.

The carpeting comes from a woolen mill in England. The light marble floor tiles are Greek. The marketplace wall mural captures the spirit of an old world town square in Northern Italy.

The paneling and cabinetry mimicks well-appointed rooms in a country inn. A great hall at the center of the store rises three levels in glass with a giant clock at the top designed to serve as a meeting place for shoppers who part ways.

"Everything we did in this store came from customer demands at focus groups," Markopoulos said. "We're giving you larger fitting rooms with lots more hooks and mirrors, more seating throughout the store, better lighting, 18-foot wide center aisles for families with strollers, rest-rooms on each level with baby-changing stations in each, deck covered parking on all floors with vaulted green marble ceilings over the entrances, centrally located vertical transportation, and a drive-through package pickup service."

The store's biggest claim to fame will be a 3,000-square foot full-service Estee Lauder spa on the main floor for both men and women. The spa will be one of eight in the U.S. with four skin treatment rooms, two body treatment rooms, sound-proofed walls, indirect lighting, tension-relieving music, light lunches, showers and eight service stations for massages, manicures and pedicures. (The cost of a six-hour day at the spa is about $185.)

There will not be a restaurant in the store, but on the third level the Marketplace will have kitchens that prepare food to go, or eat in a corner of the 75-seat cafe. Dishes will be served from six food categories: Cucino Gio pizzas and pastas, Asian Accent stir fry, Sub District custom-made sandwiches, Marketplace salads and soups, Yogurt Express dessert and fresh fruit, and Caffe Gio Coffee Bar.

Store manager Judith McCabe said the merchandise selection will complement the elegant surroundings. The store will be stocked with clothing from American and European designers, bridge manufacturers, and upscale accessory houses. Leading crystal and china manufactures will be featured in tabletop. The personal shopping department will be state-of-the-art.

"I've hosted our buyers on limosine, bus and van tours of Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Royal Oak and Troy," said McCabe. "We wanted to get into the community, check up on our competition. And no matter where these people came from in the U.S., they were impressed with this area. I wanted to inspire their buying patterns."

McCabe said customer service at the Somerset store is an even higher priority than better merchandise. She said to date, she's opened 1,800 employment applications.

"I'm laying the foundations for a service culture," she said. "We will train the staff, practice "selling" on each other, and we'll be the best we can be before we ever open the doors."

Hudson president Dennis Toffolo said the cost of the new store, which he declined to disclose, will be supported by "sales from this store."

"We have a business formula which takes into account the sales that we expect to transfer over from other Hudson stores, but even with those sales figured in, we believe this store will support itself."

Toffolo pointed out that since 1990, Hudson's has remodeled its Northland, Eastland, Southland, Westland, Lakeside and Summit Place stores, and built stores in Traverse City, the Somerset Collection and Port Huron (set to open Aug. 1997 at the Birchwood Mall).

The retail award-winning Markopoulos, 65, also announced his retirement. The Hudson's Somerset store, the largest anchor at the center, will be his last for Hudson's.

"We tried to put together a building that has a soul," he said. "We hope to exceed your expectations."

The Somerset store is Hudson's 10th in metro Detroit. The opening will be a gala benefit for Variety Children's Charity on Saturday, Aug. 10 from 6 p.m. to midnight. Reservations may be made (after May 1) by calling 810-258-5511.

Welcome home to Hudson's: The three-story atrium at Hudson's new Somerset store features two glass elevators, ascending and descending escalators and a glass clock tower — all designed to make you feel like you're visiting an old friend's country home.

Hudson's vs Nordstrom in battle of the shoes

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

When Nordstrom and Hudson's open in August, there will be no excuse for wearing old shoes that pinch or lack style.

Both retailers are taking great strides to promote extensive footwear departments headed by buyers with years of experience.

While Nordstrom, originally a shoe store, has a long history of providing family shoe selection and service, Hudson's appears ready to give The Big N a run for the money.

"I bought for Nordstrom for 10 years before coming to work at Hudson's last year," said Kathleen Fannon, senior buyer of designer shoes for Dayton-Hudson's-Marshall Field's. "I spend about $5 million on shoes each season. My selections are based on computer sales analysis and my gut instinct. You've either got an eye for shoes that will sell, or you don't."

Fannon travels to New York four times a year to make the high-end shoe purchases for Hudson's. She relies on a core group of quality consistent manufacturers like Cole-Haan, Calvin Klein, Stuart Weitzman and Ralph Lauren, but then browses the collections of hundreds of others to find special looks.

"I'm shopping for shoes from $150 a pair up," she explained. "For the Somerset Collection store, I've bought shoes at $800 a pair with the best components, the best style. The key is understanding what's going on that season in ready-to-wear. After a customer buys a dress, the shoes are typically the second purchase."

Hudson's spokeswoman Chris Morrisroe said the shoe departments have been expanded 35 to 50-percent in every store that's been remodeled since 1990.

"We can get shoes in any size that a manufacturer makes through special order for our customers," she said. "Our most extensive odd-size shoe departments are at the Northland and Oakland mall stores."

The best-selling shoe at Hudson's is a black pump with a medium heel, according to Fannon. "Most women wear size 8 or 8½. Sizes 6-10 are considered standard run, anything smaller or larger is specialty."

Fannon said there are five buyers for women's shoes in the company, two buyers for men's shoes and one for children's shoes. She suggested this basic shoe wardrobe to be footed for any occasion: a black pump, a loafer with a rubber bottom, a casual slip-on or tie shoe, a social shoe for black tie affairs, a canvas shoe, a sandal, an athletic shoe and warm boots.

Nordstrom will stock 150,000 pairs of shoes through six shoe departments in sizes 3AAAA to 14EE for women, and 5AAA to 18EEEE for men. Pairs are broken up and sold individually if a customer's feet differ in length by a size and a half.

Eric Gaskins brings designs to Jacobson's

Seventh Avenue couture designer Eric Gaskins brought his spring collection to Jacobson's in Birmingham last week, delighting guests at a fashion breakfast at the Townsend Hotel.

"He showed a lot of dresses with jackets which I love to wear instead of a suit because you don't have to worry about finding a blouse," said Annette Kolon of Birmingham. "The evening gowns were sophisticated and timeless."

Joy Bihler of Bloomfield Hills called the collection "seductive" with lots of body-hugging silhouettes in rich fabrics. Daytime dresses were short, short, some evening gowns trailed the floor.

Gaskins kissed each model on the cheek after the show while the audience applauded with wide smiles. "Thank you," he told the crowd. "Thank you very much."

In his eighth year of creating simple, straightforward garments with clean style in top-of-the-line fabrics, Gaskins said he's working hard to further his reputation.

"Eric really has an eye for femininity," said Jacobson's Rebecca Powers. "Not many designers can create such fashions that make a woman feel glamorous."

Gaskins' spring palette incorporates shocking pinks and greens both in 4-ply silk and dupioni, stripes in shantung and ottoman, and spirited daisies on organza as well as white vinyl.

The designer Gaskins almost scored a fashion touchdown; he heard that actress Goldie Hawn bought one of his gowns for the Academy Awards.

"But, that doesn't mean she'll wear it," he cautioned. "Most stars buy a few couture gowns, deciding on one just hours before the event."

(Hawn didn't wear Gaskins' white strapless with the dark scarf down the side that she purchased earlier in the week.)

■ FURNITURE STORE OPENS
Ethan Allen opened its sixth Detroit-area store in downtown Birmingham in the former Jacobson's Children's Store, 275 N. Woodward at Willets.

Ethan Allen converted 8,000-square feet of space under bold blue awnings to a showroom filled with four styles of home furnishings: Casual Contemporary, American Country, Classic Elegance and Formal. Eight interior designers staff the store for quick advice on updates or reworking the entire look of a home. Consultations in-store or at-home are complimentary.

The showroom features Ethan Allen's Interiors Plus! a computer system that allows shoppers to see how the fabric choices they select look on a finished piece. Manager Gary Iannucci said the store is open Monday, Thursday and Friday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday until 5:30 p.m. Sunday noon to 5 p.m. Inquiries are welcome at 810-540-8558.

■ RESALE DIRECTORY
Jacqueline Greene of Garden City, publisher of Resale Hotline Directory said the book is now in its 10th edition with 104 pages listing resale shops statewide, not just locally. The directory is available for $5.95 at Borders or Little Professors book stores, or by sending &7.95 ($2 is for postage and handling) to Resale Hotline, P.O. Box 314 Garden City, 48136-0314. Greene reported that she updates the book every six months.

■ NINE NEW ROCHESTER BUSINESSES
The Rochester Downtown Development Authority announced nine new leases in the city: Ameritech on S. Main, Country Grains Bread Co. on N. Main (south of Pier 1) Hermitage Gallery on Main, Jo-Lyn Fashions on Walnut, Ken Venturi Golf Academy on Main, Modern Art Jewelers on E. University, Purse Strings & Things on Main, Tally Ho Antiques on Main and Wired Cybercafe on Main St.

■ MALL SCHOLARSHIPS
Both Wonderland and Laurel Park Place malls in Livonia recently awarded college scholarships to local high school seniors.

By writing essays in response to the question "How will my college education benefit my community?" three winners were chosen from 20 schools (public and private) by each shopping center. At Wonderland Mall: 1st Place $1,500 scholarship to Karyl Stead of Divine Child; 2nd Place $500 scholarship to Jonathan Richards of Southfield Christian High School; 3rd Place $500 to Danielle Azzopardi of Lutheran High, Westland.

Laurel Park Place awarded their 1st place scholarship to Matthew Minard of Northville High, 2ns Place to Kristen Raye Ladd of Adlai Stevenson High and 3rd place to Heh Shin Kwak of Plymouth-Salem High.

Both malls are owned and managed by Schostak & Company.

■ TEEN MODELS WANTED
Oakland Mall in Troy invites persons 16 and older who are interested in modeling to sign up for an audition by Monday, April 8 at the Information Booth. The auditions begin at noon on April 13 for the Mallstar Program. Mallstars will meet with fashion consultants and participate in events throughout the year. Call Heather Rogers, (810) 788-4356, for more details.

■ EMPLOYEES RECOGNIZED
Jacobson's Midwest Division presented its "Best of the Best" award to the visual merchandising department in the Birmingham store. Members of the department include Sam Mullen, Tina Darlington, Katherin Griffin, Lawrence Croletto and Janice Cecil. The winners received a certificate, cash bonus and special name badge.

■ LAKESIDE MARKS 20 YEARS
Lakeside in Sterling Heights will celebrate its 20th anniversary by awarding a total of $100,000 to 20 civic and community organizations in Macomb County.

Non-profit groups that serve county residents are invited to apply for one of the $5,000 grants. Application deadline is April 30, 1996. The grants will be awarded at a June luncheon.

Michael Fenley, Lakeside general manager, said the grants are "a salute to the community that has supported us so warmly for 20 years." He welcomed the chance to support the organizations that "keep the county thriving."

A panel of 10 community leaders will review the grant applications, choosing 20 winners. Application forms are available at the Lakeside Information Desk or by calling (810) 247-1744.

■ BUYS THE STORE
Kite lovers rejoice! Jerry Honeman new owner of Royal Oak's premier kite shop, The Unique Place, assures customers he will uphold the 17-year tradition of offering the area's most expansive collection of paper flying things. The Unique Place also sells windsocks, gifts and flags at 525 S. Washington. Call for more information, (810) 398-5900.

Old timer: Canton resident Phil Petix's days of supervising the county Public Services Department's South Yard are over after Friday, March 29. Petix is retiring after 28 years on the job.

Road watcher set to call it a day

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton resident Philip E. Petix is like the undercover agent of the Wayne County road crews in Canton and other western Wayne communities.

"I'm always out there watching," he said. "They never know where I am. Not even my assistant knows where I take a lunch. He knows I take a lunch, but he's never caught me taking a lunch."

Petix retired last Friday, but for the last 12 years he surreptitiously supervised about 50 men at the Wayne County Public Services Department's South Yard, where the plows and salt trucks serving Canton, Westland, Garden City, Romulus, Wayne, Van Buren Township, Taylor and parts of Dearborn, Allen Park and Detroit are kept.

"I don't have any sleepers," Petix said, indicating that his men invariably kept on truckin' because they never knew when he might be watching.

Petix drove 200-250 miles per day at least five days a week to assess the condition of the county roads.

"Today I've got nine crews out hot patching," he said Monday, March 25, referring to the spring ritual of filling in potholes. "These roads are going to pot fast."

Petix left county employ at 4 p.m. Friday, March 29, for the retirement his wife Carol never thought he would begin.

"I've been talking about retirement for five years," said the 55-year-old Glengarry resident. "You finally say enough is enough.

"This job I've got, you're on call seven days a week, 24 hours a day," he said. "They're always calling you in. You're always working," adding that he typically gets two undisturbed weekends out of 10.

Petix aims to "get my life back to where it was before I started with the county," he said. "Maybe I'll get my golf game back."

"He'll be a hard man to replace," said Public Services Department Director Russ Gronevelt. "Phil has a great ability to deal with people. Local elected officials have all developed trusting relationships with Phil."

Petix said "everybody thought I'd die on the job," and his wife went with him to sign up for retirement because she didn't believe he'd do it.

"When does this go into a hard lock that he can't back out?" he said she asked the clerk, who answered, "As soon as he walks out that door."

So Petix said he walked out the door and returned to prove to his wife that he would really retire.

Although Petix liked his job, he won't miss the winters. "It's terrible when it snows. You're out with 28 salt routes." And he won't miss the disgruntled citizens who "come out with guns."

"They threaten us," he said. "They want to beat us up, all because of a little snow being pushed in the driveway. We can't clear out five million driveways."

Recently in Detroit, Petix said, a motorist armed with a tire iron came at the foreman of a crew that was patching a ramp on I-94. The state police had to be called.

"There's no easy time," Petix said.

Carol and Phil Petix might stay in Canton once he retires, but they're thinking about moving to Nevada about 20 miles southwest of Las Vegas.

"The arthritis will feel better out in Nevada," said Petix, and he can "try to get my piece of mind back."

Being reunited sweet for siblings

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

JoAnna Hannum remembers her sister as a toddler - long before they were split up by adoption.

"I retained more memories because I knew we were all broken-up. I feel I am a walking computer on genealogy," said Hannum, who was raised by Judy and Alan Prince of Canton.

At long last, Hannum was able to put a grown up face to her memories when her youngest sister, Starr, arrived in Detroit Saturday, March 22.

That flight from New York reunited Starr, 18, with some of her long-lost siblings, JoAnna, 29, brother Thomas, 25, Rebecca, 21, and John, 21.

"I remember her being a little kid. I remember diapering her. Now she's a big girl and doesn't need taking care of," Hannum said of Starr.

The family of seven children were split up 16 years ago when their parents decided to give them up for adoption. The Prince family of Canton, who opened up their hearts and home to a number of adoptive children, took JoAnna, Tom, Rebecca, Kathleen and John. Even though all seven children were expected to be adopted by one family, the two youngest children, Starr and Calvin, were adopted by families in South Carolina, where their birth family by the last name of Alewine originally lived.

"We didn't know where she was," JoAnna said, referring to Starr. But that didn't stop her siblings from searching. JoAnna even drove around a community in South Carolina asking people if they had ever heard of her sister.

Meanwhile, Starr was on her own mission of discovery. Her adopted mom helped her. "I found Kathleen. She told me where the rest of them were," said Starr, who received her reunion trip to Detroit from her adopted parents as a high school graduation gift.

The siblings haven't given up yet though. They are still looking for Calvin, 17, who apparently doesn't know he was adopted. "We still haven't found him. South Carolina is what we are thinking," JoAnna said.

Kathleen lives in South Carolina. JoAnna lives in Georgia, John in Westland with his brother, Tom, and Becky lives in Plymouth.

"It's strange," said Tom, about reuniting with Starr. He admits that as a teenager he had some bad feelings about his birth parents giving him up for adoption and splitting the family. As an adult, he says he can handle it now.

As the oldest and the one who remembers living with her birth parents, JoAnna said she understands her parents' turmoil. "They came from bad environments. My dad wants to spend time with his kids but only if his kids want to. He just wants to make up. In my life, he is my dad."

JoAnna and Starr left Wednesday, March 27, for South Carolina to see their birth parents and sister Kathleen. "I want to meet them," Starr said of her parents. "My brothers and sisters have answered a lot of questions for me. When I see my parents I won't hassle them. I just want to see them."

JoAnna's good friend, Michelle Calkins, who grew up in Canton and met her when she was adopted by the Prince family, was just excited as the siblings with the reunion.

"It is so neat. I am so happy for her," Calkins said. "I remember her talking about Starr and Calvin and always wanting to meet them."

The Princes are not out of the picture even though their adopted kids are grown up and searching out each other, as well as their birth parents. Judy Prince was not surprised that Starr was found. "Especially JoAnna, it haunted her. She wanted all the kids to stay together," Prince said. "We tried to keep South Carolina Social Services up on them."

Finding Calvin will be another matter. "It's going to be a much more difficult task," Prince said.

Cheerleaders enter brave new world

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

Once upon a time, cheerleaders knew their place on the sidelines of the basketball court or football field. While they still know how to enliven audience enthusiasm, they have come a long way since the "rah-rah" days.

The difference in cheerleading even ten years ago is "night and day," said Jodee Dillon, coach of the Plymouth Salem Cheerleaders. "I wish cheerleading had been more like this when I was back in high school."

Dillon, a 1979 Plymouth Salem graduate and cheerleader all four of her high school years, has coached the Salem team for the last six years. Husband, Paul, has co-coached with her for the past three years.

The high school cheerleaders today are invplved in various types of stunting (mounts, formations, gymnastics) and some very demanding competitions and exhibitions.

Plymouth Canton coach, Katy Lloyd, a cheerleader at Northville High School from 1988 to 1991, has noticed a significant change in the past five years.

"The level of competition and the level of cheerleading from when I participated in the WLLA (Western League Lakes Activities)...the level of cheerleading has only increased," noted Lloyd. "It's not just another social activity, but it's definitely a sport."

Practice and performance times during the season are strenuous.

"During competition time we have four to six-hour practices," said Kelly Corp., captain of the Canton varsity squad. During the basketball season both the Salem and Canton teams practice three days a week with games two days a week.

Eighteen teams competed in various categories in this year's WLLA competition held at Walled Lake Central in February. The Salem squad took third overall. The Canton junior varsity team captured two third place awards and the freshman team from Canton, competing for the first time, took second overall.

"They surpassed, all of my expectations," admitted Lloyd.

This season marked the first time the Canton varsity and junior varsity squads participated in the UCA (Universal Cheerleading Association) regionals held in Slippery Rock, Pennsylvania on Dec. 3. While the teams didn't make the finals cut, Lloyd felt they learned a lot and plans are in the works for competing again next year.

"They got out there and performed their best and I was very proud of them. They did a very nice job."

All five of Canton's senior cheerleaders made the All-Star team this year. Tammy Bush, Kelly Corp (captain), Lesley Herald (captain), Kelly Smith, and Tanya Weaver were selected based on try-outs at a summer camp sponsored by the Universal Cheerleading Association. There were 1500 cheerleaders from the United States that combined forces with over 10,000 participants from all over the world to perform at the Lord Mayor's Westminister New Year's Day Parade in London, England.

Plymouth Salem's two All-Star seniors, Jake Nelson and Tim Street, were not able to participate in the parade due to preparations for the National High School Cheerleading Championships. The Salem varsity squad, with captains, Melissa Gillespe, Jake Nelson and Becca Sander, took first place at regionals held at the University of Toledo in November.

While the Salem team has competed on a national level for the past three years, this was the first year they qualified for the finals competion by placing in the top 15 of 40 co-ed competing teams. On Feb. 10, the Salem squad placed 11th in the nation at the national championships held in Florida.

"It was fantastic," said Nelson, who plans to continue with cheerleading next year at the University of Michigan. "It as just like winning the whole thing."

The Dillon coaches cheered for their squad while watching them on ESPN because Jodee had just given birth to twin boys the day before the competition.

"It was pretty exciting for them," she said. "They worked really hard and it was definitely well-deserved. This year has been a wonderful outstanding year. We're very proud of them."

Paper seeking details on Dornan voters

Why Dornan? Eight Canton Township voters cast ballots for California Rep. Bob Dornan in the Republican presidential preference primary March 19 and we want to know who they are.

Dornan gathered fewer votes in Canton than any of the other eight candidates on the ballot.

We want to know what it is about Dornan that is so compelling that eight people out of the 4,694 who voted in Canton cast their lot with him knowing full well that his chances of winning made "slim and none" seem like good odds. Just one Dornan voter, Jim Waldecker, has phoned so far.

If you voted for Bob Dornan, please call 459-2700 and ask for reporter Ralph Echtinaw. We want to write a story about why you think Dornan deserves the Republican nomination for president.

Schoolcraft College to award honorary degrees to 'friends'

Some good friends of Schoolcraft College will be awarded honorary degrees at the college's May commencement ceremony.

The Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees Wednesday approved resolutions honoring Charles McIlhargey, Eleanor Breitmeyer Gebert and Armand Gebert and Mort Crim.

McIlhargey, a Plymouth resident, and the Geberts, Farmington residents, are being honored for giving time and resources to the Schoolcraft College Foundation.

Crim will serve as commencement speaker at the May 4 ceremony.

McIlhargey founded and managed a wholesale equipment business and was self-employed until his retirement in 1984. He came out of retirement to serve as director of the Department of Building for Plymouth Township. He was also appointed to the township Economic Development Commission and Building Authority.

He served as a Nankin Township trustee and treasurer and was elected a Westland Charter commissioner in 1964 and council person in 1966. He served as vice chair and president of the city council.

He graduated from Wayne St. Mary's, attended Eastern Michigan University and served as a parastrooper in the 101st Airborne Division under Gen. William Westmorland.

Eleanor Breitmeyer Gebert and Armand Gebert both worked as reporters at the Detroit News. Breitmeyer Gebert covered community events and Detroit society for the News for 35 years. She received the woman of the year award from the Detroit Federation of Women's Club and a writing award from the Michigan Women Press Association.

Armand Gebert wrote for the Detroit News for 42 years as a general assignment reporter, music and drama critic and ethnic writer and columnist and had stories in the New York Times, Washington Post and Opera News.

He earned awards from Gannett, the Detroit Press Club, the Mozarteum of Salzburg, Wayne State University and the Detroit Latino and Hispanic communities.

The couple graduated from the University of Michigan, Breitmeyer Gebert with a degree in journalism and Armand Gebert with a degree in history.

Crim is senior editor and anchor of the evening news at WDIV-TV in Detroit since 1978.

Crim, McIlhargey and the Geberts will receive honorary associate in arts and sciences degrees.

Scholarship applications due May 3

More than $100,000 in scholarship funds are available to current students or new students who have been admitted to Schoolcraft College for the 1996-97 academic year.

The Schoolcraft College Foundation is accepting scholarship applications now through May 3. In general, applicants must submit college transcripts and a 150-word statement detailing educational plans and career goals.

Most scholarships require a minimum 3.0 grade-point average, but there are exceptions and additional requirements.

Schoolcraft College scholarships available for the 1996-97 year include: Larry E. and Anita J. Bennett Endowment; Betty and Yale Conroy Scholarship; Edwynna Dansby Memorial Scholarship; Carl and Dolores Fricke Scholarship; Friends of the College Scholarship; Audrey and Harry Greenleaf Scholarship; Richard and Ann McDowell Endowment; Eileen F. Moore Scholarship; Cindy Lee Polley Memorial Scholarship; Carl D. and Peggy Pursell Scholarship; the Art and Diane Rockall Scholarship; Santeiu Family Scholarship; Asher and Sarah Smith Scholarship; Stephenson Foundation Scholarship; Sheila Marie Tripp Scholarship.

School wins $500 grant

St. Michael Christian School in Canton has been awarded a $500 grant from Aid Association for Lutherans.

The grant is designed to help the staff of local early childhood centers pursue professional teacher development opportunities and strengthen administrative aspects of their program.

The grant was provided through the association's Early Childhood Education Grant Program.

5 Senate-passed bills target young escapees

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Youngsters who run away from juvenile homes will be treated more like adult prison escapees under five state Senate-passed bills now in a House committee.

"They call them 'walkaways.' I call them 'escapees,'" said Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Brighton, whose Livingston County district includes the W.J. Maxey Training Facility in Green Oak Township.

"We've had two escape who were second-degree murderers. One is still missing. Some of them are robbers, murderers, rapists. They're wreaking havoc in my district."

"The prosecutor says in frustration, 'I can't do anything to 'em.' The DSS (Department of Social Services, now the Family Independence Agency, which runs Maxey) doesn't report them to local authorities."

Rogers' package passed the Senate by 33-3 and 34-3 votes and allows prison sentences of up to four years. Opposed were Democrats Alma Wheeler Smith of Salem, Joe Conroy of Flint and Jackie Vaughn III of Detroit.

Smith objected that the Rogers bills were written too broadly. She cited the hypothetical case of a girl placed in a detention facility who doesn't want to return to a home where she was abused.

"Suddenly we find this young woman charged with a felony for escaping because she was a runaway," said Smith, who lives five miles from the Maxey facility but calls the Rogers bill is too harsh.

Conroy said his Flint district has a juvenile facility, but most "escapes" are "less than five minutes to half an hour late. I guess I just don't wat to see them go to Jackson Prison because they were five minutes late coming back."

Rogers' bills apply to residents of high-security and medium-security juvenile homes. He contends the escapees are too violent and the punishments too light - "they take away their mall privileges."

Countered Smith: "In some facilities, it includes a stint in solitary confinement."

While the pressure to tighten the law came from Livingston County, the bills affect a long list of public detention homes run by FIA and private contractors housing 1,866 youngsters.

Altogether, public homes house 316 high-security and 526 medium-security residents, including Maxey, Green Oak Center, Adrian Training School and Huron Center. Private contractors - including Boysville, Vista Maria and Starr Commonwealth - house 184 medium-security and 840 high-security residents.

Rogers asked for a single bill but found it will take amendments to five separate statutes to achieve his goals:

- SB 866, creating new felony for escaping from a juvenile facility. The prosecutor could charge the escapee as an adult.

IF YOU HAVE OSTEOPOROSIS, NOW THERE'S NEW HOPE.

NOW THERE'S FOSAMAX.

INTRODUCING THE FIRST HORMONE-FREE TREATMENT FOR OSTEOPOROSIS PROVEN TO REBUILD BONE IN WOMEN PAST MENOPAUSE.

It's true. New FOSAMAX has been proven to restore lost bone in many women past menopause. This is good news for the millions who have this bone-thinning disease.

Is FOSAMAX right for you? Ask your doctor. It should be used with caution if you have certain stomach or digestive problems, and should not be used if you have certain disorders of the esophagus (the tube that connects your mouth with your stomach), are unable to stand or sit upright for at least 30 minutes or have severe kidney disease, low levels of calcium in your blood, or are pregnant or nursing. And like any prescription drug, FOSAMAX may cause side effects, most commonly stomach and muscle/bone pain. Generally, the side effects are mild and usually have not stopped people from taking it. However, some patients may develop serious reactions in the esophagus.

New, hormone-free FOSAMAX. If you're like most women with osteopotosis, it could be an exciting new option for you. And a way to go from just hoping for stronger bones to actually having them.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR. OR CALL 1 800 363-9189 FOR MORE INFORMATION.

FOSAMAX®
(alendronate sodium tablets)

Please read the Patient Information below and discuss it with your doctor.

FOSAMAX® (alendronate sodium tablets)
Patient Information about
FOSAMAX® (FOSS-ah-max) for Osteoporosis
Generic name: alendronate sodium (a-LEN-dro-nate)

Please read this information before you start taking FOSAMAX. Also, read the Patient Information leaflet each time you renew your prescription, just in case anything has changed. Remember, the leaflet does not take the place of careful discussions with your doctor. You and your doctor should discuss FOSAMAX when you start taking your medication and at regular checkups.

How should I take FOSAMAX?

These are the important things you must do to help make sure you will benefit from FOSAMAX:

1. After getting up for the day, swallow your FOSAMAX tablet with a full glass (6-8 oz.) of plain water only.
   Not mineral water
   Not coffee or tea
   Not juice
2. After swallowing your FOSAMAX tablet do not lie down — stay fully upright (sitting or standing) for at least 30 minutes and until after your first food of the day. Do not chew or suck on a tablet of FOSAMAX.
3. Do not take FOSAMAX at bedtime or before getting up for the day.
   The above actions will help the FOSAMAX tablet reach your stomach quickly and help avoid irritation of your esophagus (the tube that connects your mouth with your stomach).
4. After swallowing your FOSAMAX tablet, wait at least 30 minutes before taking your first food, beverage, or other medication of the day, including antacids, calcium supplements and vitamins.
   FOSAMAX is effective only if taken when your stomach is empty.
5. If you develop difficulty or pain upon swallowing, chest pain, or new or worsening heartburn, stop taking FOSAMAX and call your doctor.
6. Take FOSAMAX once a day, every day.
7. It is important that you continue taking FOSAMAX for as long as your doctor prescribes it.
   FOSAMAX can treat your osteoporosis only if you continue to take it.
8. If you miss a dose do not take it later in the day. Continue your usual schedule of 1 tablet once a day the next morning.

What is FOSAMAX?

FOSAMAX is for the treatment of osteoporosis (thinning of bone) in women after menopause. You will find more information about osteoporosis at the end of the leaflet.

How does FOSAMAX work?

FOSAMAX works by:

- Reducing the activity of the cells that cause bone loss
- Decreasing the faster rate of bone loss that occurs after menopause
- Increasing the amount of bone in most patients

These effects are seen as soon as three months after therapy with FOSAMAX has begun. These effects continue as long as you keep taking FOSAMAX. The density of bone increases and the bone is less likely to fracture. Thus, FOSAMAX reverses the progression of osteoporosis.

Who should not take FOSAMAX?

Patients with:

- Certain disorders of the esophagus (the tube that connects your mouth with your stomach)
- Inability to stand or sit upright for at least 30 minutes
- Low levels of calcium in their blood
- Severe kidney disease
- Allergy to FOSAMAX

Patients who are:

- Pregnant or Nursing

FOSAMAX is for use by women after menopause. If you are pregnant or nursing, you should not be taking FOSAMAX. Talk to your doctor.

What other medical problems should I discuss with my doctor?

Talk to your doctor about any:

- Problems with swallowing
- Stomach or digestive problems
- Other medical problems you have or have had in the past

What are the possible side effects of FOSAMAX?

Like all prescription drugs, FOSAMAX may cause side effects. Side effects usually have been mild. They generally have not caused patients to stop taking FOSAMAX. However, some patients may develop chest pain or severe difficulty or pain upon swallowing due to serious reactions such as irritation or ulceration of the esophagus (the tube that connects your mouth with your stomach). This may occur especially if patients do not drink a full glass of water with FOSAMAX and/or if they lie down in less than 30 minutes and before their first food of the day. It may also occur if patients continue to take FOSAMAX after developing symptoms suggesting irritation of the esophagus.

Some patients treated with FOSAMAX experienced abdominal (stomach) pain, which was the most commonly reported side effect. Less frequently reported were other digestive disturbances such as:

Nausea, heartburn, irritation or pain of the esophagus (the tube that connects your mouth with your stomach), vomiting, difficulty swallowing, a full or bloated feeling in the stomach, constipation, diarrhea and gas.

Muscle/bone pain, headache, or an altered sense of taste were also experienced by some patients. Rarely, a rash has occurred.

Anytime you have a medical problem you think may be related to FOSAMAX, talk to your doctor.

What should I know about osteoporosis?

Normally your bones are being rebuilt all the time. First, old bone is removed (resorbed). Then new bone is formed. This balanced process of resorbing and forming bone keeps your skeleton healthy and strong.

Osteoporosis is a thinning and weakening of the bones. It is common in women after menopause. Menopause happens when the ovaries stop producing the female hormone, estrogen, or are removed (which may occur, for example, at the time of a hysterectomy). After menopause, bone is removed faster than it is formed, so bone loss occurs and bones become weaker.

At the start osteoporosis usually has no symptoms, but it can result in fractures (broken bones). Fractures usually cause pain. Fractures of the bones of the spine may not be painful, but over time they cause height loss. Eventually the spine becomes curved and the body becomes bent over. Fractures may happen during normal, everyday activity, such as lifting, or from minor injury that would normally not cause bone to break. Fractures most often occur at the hip, spine, or wrist. This can lead to pain, severe disability, or loss of mobility.

How can osteoporosis in postmenopausal women be treated?

- Medication. Your doctor may prescribe FOSAMAX.
- Lifestyle changes. In addition to FOSAMAX, your doctor may recommend one or more of the following lifestyle changes:
  - Stop smoking. Smoking appears to increase the risk of osteoporosis.
  - Reduce the use of alcohol. Too much alcohol appears to increase the risk of osteoporosis and injuries that may cause fractures.
  - Exercise regularly. Like muscles, bones need exercise to stay strong and healthy. Exercise must be safe to prevent injuries including fractures. You should consult your doctor before you begin any exercise program.
  - Eat a balanced diet. Adequate dietary calcium is important to patients with osteoporosis. Your doctor can advise you whether you need to change your diet or take any dietary supplements such as calcium or vitamin D.

This medication is prescribed for a particular condition. Do not use it for another condition or give the drug to others. Keep FOSAMAX and all medicines out of the reach of children. If you suspect that more than the prescribed dose of this medicine has been taken, drink a full glass of milk and contact your local poison control center or emergency room immediately. Do not induce vomiting. Do not lie down.

The Patient Information leaflet provides a summary of information about FOSAMAX. If you have any questions or concerns about either FOSAMAX or osteoporosis, talk to your doctor. In addition, talk to your pharmacist or other health care provider.

Candy recipes

B

CHEF LARRY JANES

Hop to it, make your own candy

I don't know if you're like me, but I really enjoy making and giving gifts from my kitchen — candy in particular, and especially for Easter.

Pick up any candy-making book, worth its weight in chocolate, and you'll find yourself tempering, dipping, heating to exact degrees, molding, chilling and certainly exhausting yourself in the kitchen. Then you need to worry about taste, appearance, scorching, storing, and packaging, not to mention shopping at specialty stores for just that "right" paper cup, dipping stick, or heavy bottomed saucepan to insure the proper outcome.

But there are great candy recipes that don't require a lot of time, specialty ingredients or expensive culinary equipment. As a matter of fact, you might be so pleased with the outcome that you'll put away those old stoic chocolate books, and start looking for easier recipes. These easy-to-make candies taste and look as good as their old-time cousins.

First off, let's get one thing straight: Candy making is basically just a mixing together of varying amounts of sugar, cream, butter, corn syrup, chocolate, nuts, and dried fruits, and cooking them. Cook them very slow and you get great fudges and butter creams; go a few degrees higher and faster and you get chewy caramels. Further heat intensity produces brittles and toffee.

Proper equipment

There are suggested guidelines that can practically guarantee success when making candy at home. Any kitchen that deserves to be called a kitchen should have at least one piece of heavyweight cookware. The most optimum, of course, would be a two or three-quart saucepan. The least desirable, but still acceptable, would be a 12-inch deep sided fry pan.

The reason a good heavyweight pan is needed is that the heavier the pan the more evenly heat is conducted through it. Cookware that doesn't have a thick bottom overheats, and must be watched constantly. It will produce hot spots, which are not good to have when making candy. Borrow or buy a good heavyweight pan if you plan to make homemade candy. It's a good investment.

Even momma owns a heavyweight aluminum saucepan that must be as old as me, and I wouldn't dare imply that she get a new own. Cleanup is a breeze with heavyweight cookware. If I make candy in it and something hardens beyond recognition, I simply fill the vessel with water, place it on the stove, bring the pot to a boil, and presto! it's cleaned (and just about sanitized, I might add).

Cooks married to engineers and accountants might feel a little more in control and accurate with a candy thermometer, look for one that reads in one or two degree increments. But I graduated from momma's cooking school, and she could tell when the candy was done by dipping in a spoon, dropping a few drops into cold water and gauging its viscosity. Candy thermometers, especially for the inexperienced, are worth their weight in gold. Read your thermometer at eye level.

Wrapping it up

Paper and candy cups are available at cake and candy supply stores, but I generally rely on what's available at my neighborhood market. You can shell out big bucks for boxes, specialty wrappers, imported chocolate, ribbons, bows, and all the whistles and bells in town, but there's something a bit more personal about homemade candy packed in a nicely wrapped shoe box, with some crumpled, colorful tissue, held together with a ribbon.

If you plan on making more than five pounds of candy, it will behoove you to purchase high quality, imported chocolate in bulk rather than relying on individual bars from the local grocery store. It might actually be less expensive.

Finally, and probably most important, when attempting to make candy, read and follow all of the directions to a "T". Make sure all of the sugar is dissolved, avoid splashing. Never make candy on humid (excessively rainy) days, and probably most important of all, have fun doing it. Invite a friend, relative or child over and get creative.

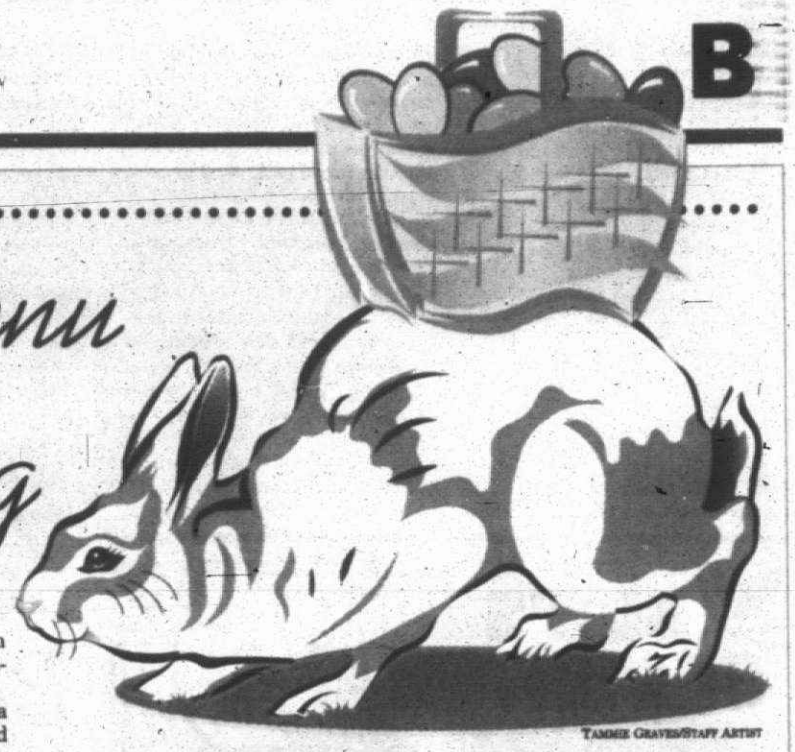
Light Easter menu celebrates spring



TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Holiday traditions change with every generation, and there's nothing wrong with combining the best of the new and old.

In our family, Easter Sunday without ham and kielbasa would be like Christmas without a Christmas tree. We enjoy these special foods, but prefer something lighter for the main entree.

A couple of years ago, my sister-in-law proposed a good solution — a ceremonial plate containing a sampling of these special foods, which are blessed at our church on Holy Saturday. The plate is beautifully garnished, and passed around as an appetizer. Everyone enjoys a slice of ham, some kielbasa with horseradish, hard-cooked eggs, and a slice of bread. Our tradition is saved, and there's less of a temptation to over-indulge.

Choosing a menu is always a challenge. Many of us work, and getting ready for the holidays only adds to our already busy schedules.

Our Easter Afternoon Celebration of Spring for six was designed by Kelli Lewton, chef/owner of Two Unique Caterers and Event Planners of Bloomfield Hills for families searching for easy, light, festive dishes. Some of the items can be prepared ahead of time.

"This Celebration of Spring begins with tongue dazzling Heartland Field Greens tossed in Raspberry Vinaigrette," said Lewton, who grew up in Birmingham and graduated from the culinary arts program at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. "The festivities continue with Roasted Herb Chicken Breasts, accompanied by a light Spring Risotto and Balsamic Asparagus."

"Be sure to serve hearty rolls and breads, and leave room for dessert — Very Berry Spring Tart with a Linzer Crust.

Lewton and the staff of Two Unique Caterers and Event Planners are celebrating their fifth anniversary this spring. A culinary arts instructor at Schoolcraft College, Lewton was a member of the 1992 Michigan Culinary Olympic team and won several gold medals in domestic and international competitions.

Menu

Young Mixed Heartland Greens with Raspberry Vinaigrette
Roasted Herb Chicken Breasts
Spring Risotto
Balsamic Asparagus
Very Berry Spring Tart with a Linzer Crust

YOUNG MIXED HEARTLAND GREENS

6 cups Assorted Field Greens
(Most produce stores sell a "gourmet" mix of greens, clean and ready to go. You could use that for a base and mix with leaf lettuce or Romaine).
1 English Cucumber; diced
½ cup Alfalfa Sprouts
½ cup Michigan dried cherries or cranberries
½ cup Walnuts, chopped and toasted
Combine all ingredients together. When ready to serve, toss with Raspberry Vinaigrette. To toast nuts, spread on cookie sheet and bake in 350 degree F oven for 4 to 5 minutes.

Raspberry Vinaigrette

¼ cup frozen raspberries
3 tablespoons frozen orange juice concentrate
⅓ cup white vinegar
¼ cup peanut oil
¼ cup vegetable oil
White pepper to taste
Cayenne pepper to taste
½ teaspoon salt
In a large bowl, combine all ingredients except peanut oil with a large wire whisk. While continuing to whisk, add peanut oil in a slow steady stream to incorporate well.

ROASTED HERB CHICKEN BREAST

6 six-ounce boneless, skinless, chicken breasts
Dijon Mustard Rub
¼ cup Dijon Mustard
2 tablespoon white wine (of your choice)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon olive oil
Pinch cracked black pepper
1½ tablespoons fresh herbs, assortment, chopped fine (your choice parsley, sage, thyme and rosemary)
Combine all ingredients, except chicken breasts, in a large bowl. Coat chicken with Dijon mustard rub. Allow chicken to sit overnight, and marinate, with mustard rub, covered in the refrigerator. Remove chicken from marinade. Bake chicken in a 350 degree F. oven for 30 to 35 minutes. Or grill on the barbecue or broil chicken in the oven.

SPRING RISOTTO

1 cup Aborrio rice
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 cup assorted sliced mushrooms (wild or exotic if available)
½ cup onion, diced
½ teaspoon garlic, chopped
½ cup white wine (of your choice)
1 tablespoon shallots, chopped
¼ cup Parmesan cheese, freshly grated
2½ cups stock (chicken or vegetable)
2 teaspoons fresh pepper
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup savory chopped herbs (your choice of fresh rosemary, thyme, parsley, or basil)
Heat olive oil in large saute pan. Saute onions, garlic, and shallots until clear. Add rice and continue to saute for 1 minute. Deglaze with white wine; gradually start adding hot stock a few ounces at a time. Continue to stir until liquid is absorbed by rice, about 10 minutes. Add mushrooms and spices. Continue cooking and adding stock for another 10 minutes. When rice is plump and liquid is absorbed remove from heat. Stir in herbs and adjust seasoning to taste. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

BALSAMIC ASPARAGUS

2 bunches fresh asparagus
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons Balsamic vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon fresh basil, chopped
Trim bottoms of asparagus by about 2 inches. Lay asparagus on cookie sheet, and brush with olive oil. Broil asparagus on all sides in the oven, until golden. Chill in refrigerator. Arrange on platter, and drizzle with Balsamic vinegar. Salt and pepper to taste, and sprinkle with chopped basil.

Suggestions for busy cooks

- Raspberry Vinaigrette can be prepared up to 5 days ahead of time.
- Clean and prep mixed greens the night before and wrap in a damp towel.
- Dice and prepare vegetables for risotto the day before dinner.
- Prepare stock for risotto a few days before, or substitute canned or prepared base
- Tart shell can be prepared 3 days in advance. Cool and wrap in plastic.
- Pastry cream can be made 2 days in advance. Cool and wrap in plastic.

Readers request more details

BY ELEANOR AND RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

A mid-February column brought inquiries and requests for more details. It seems the world doesn't have enough details.

The triple distillation process for producing Ketel One Vodka brought several inquiries. Here's the skinny:

A copper potstill known as Ketel #1 is located in the Nolet Distillery in the Netherlands, where Ketel #1 vodka is made. Following an ancient tradition of maintaining a perfect distillation temperature, a coal fire below the still is hand-fed. A master distiller monitors both temperature and contents of the potstill.

The vodka is distilled three times, but in the third distillation, the first and last 100 gallons are drawn off and not used for Ketel One because they are considered either too harsh or too weak. The "mid-portion" of the vodka batch is kept in underground tile tanks for six weeks, filtered over charcoal for enhanced clarity and tasted for smoothness before bottling.

A once-distilled vodka may contain fusel oils, a distillation byproduct that yields a harsh taste and strong "alcoholic" smell. The triple distillation eliminates fusel oils and gives Ketel One a fresh, delicate, icy taste. You can sample Ketel One at the following fine restaurant bars: Larco's in Troy, Morton's of Chicago, Excalibur and The Golden Mushroom in Southfield, and The Townsend Hotel in Birmingham.

Paul van den Muysenberg, consul of the Netherlands and a West Bloomfield resident, is proud of the product from his native country and said, "The Netherlands is the third largest foreign investor in the U.S. We've been good trading partners for 200 years, but Ketel One history is even longer — 300 years."

The "TomOlives" we recommended to replace the traditional olive in a Ketel One martini are not available locally. They can be ordered from Old South TomOlives, (800) 634-2413, or sampled at Larco's, where owners Mark and Sue Larco insure they are available upon request. If you want more information on Ketel One Vodka, Hank Baccoli of Great Lakes Marketing Co. says you can get a free video by phoning (800) 243-3618.

Peanut Butter Dreams

3/4 cup powdered sugar (plus extra to roll in)
1/3 cup chunky peanut butter
2 ounces cream cheese
2 ounces white chocolate, melted and cooled
2 tablespoons (1/4 stick) butter, room temperature
3/4 pound milk chocolate, finely chopped
2 cups peanut brittle, chopped fine
About 18 paper candy cups

Blend the powdered sugar, peanut butter, cream cheese, white chocolate and butter together in a medium bowl. Freeze until firm enough to shape, about 20 minutes. Line 2 baking sheets with waxed paper. Roll 1 tablespoon of mixture into a ball using hands dusted with powdered sugar. Set on prepared sheet. Repeat with remaining mixture. Freeze until very firm, about 3 hours.

Melt the milk chocolate in the top of a double boiler or gently in a microwave until smooth. Working quickly, submerge 1 peanut butter ball into chocolate. Scoop out the peanut butter ball using a fork. Using a small knife, slide candy off fork and onto a second waxed paper sheet. Repeat with remaining balls. Freeze candies until chocolate is set. Chop peanut brittle. Gently reheat milk chocolate, and stir until smooth. Place crushed brittle into bowl. Dip half of candy balls into chocolate and roll in palms of hands to barely coat candy completely. Roll in crushed brittle. Repeat with remaining candies. Set candies in paper cups. Can be prepared 1 week ahead. Refrigerate in an airtight container. Best when brought to room temperature. Makes about 18 peanut butter dreams.

Chocolate Truffle Cups

11 ounces bittersweet or semisweet chocolate (not unsweetened) finely chopped
12 gold foil candy cups (about 1-inch diameter)
2 tablespoons whipping cream
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon Cognac or liqueur

Line a baking pan with foil. Set rack atop the pan. Line a baking sheet with waxed paper. Melt 8 ounces of chocolate on the top of a double boiler or in a microwave gently until smooth, stirring frequently. For optimum results, melted chocolate should be at least 115 degrees F. Spoon melted chocolate into cup, filling completely and being careful not to drip onto the sides. Immediately invert cups onto rack. Gently tap cups onto rack, allowing excess chocolate to drip onto foil in pan. After about 5 minutes, set cups upside down onto waxed paper lined baking sheet. Freeze cups until firm, about 15 minutes. (Refrigerate excess chocolate dripped on foil until firm. Chop and reuse). Bring cream and butter to a boil in a heavy saucepan. Reduce heat to low. Add remaining 3 ounces of chocolate and stir until smooth. Blend in cognac. Refrigerate until mixture mounds on a spoon, stirring occasionally, about 5-10 minutes. Turn cups right side up. Spoon chocolate filling into a pastry bag fitted with a small star tip. Pipe in filling (if no pastry bag or star tip is available, place mixture into a heavy duty freezer bag and cut a small hole and squeeze chocolate mixture out into cups). Pipe filling into cups mounding 1/2-inch above. Can be prepared 1 week ahead. Refrigerate in an airtight container. Best when served at room temperature. Makes about 12 cups.

Spicy Glazed Pecans

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 stick butter
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon water
1 1/2 cups pecans or other nuts
1 1/2 teaspoons salt

Spread parchment paper over baking pan. Brush lightly with vegetable oil. In a heavy pan, combine the sugar, butter, pepper and water over medium heat. When butter has melted, stir in pecans. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally for 5 minutes or until sugar mixture begins to brown. Pour onto prepared baking sheet and sprinkle with salt. When cool, break into pieces and place in candy cups or wrap individually. Makes about 3/4 pound.

Berry tart adds festive touch

See related story on Taste front. Recipe from Kelli Lewton, Chef/Owner Two Unique Caterers and Event Planners, Bloomfield Hills. For more information, call (810) 642-5240.

Very Berry Spring Tart with a Linzer Crust

Crust:
1 cup all-purpose flour
1/3 cup Hazelnuts, walnuts or almonds (toasted 4-5 minutes in 350 degree F. oven)
1/3 cup Confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon lemon zest
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons unsalted butter, chilled
8 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, melted

Pastry cream:
1 six-ounce box instant vanilla pudding, prepared according to package directions, can be substituted for pastry cream)
1 1/2 cups milk
1/3 cup sugar
2 whole eggs
2 egg yolks
4 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Fruit:
3 cups assorted berries including raspberries, blackberries, blueberries, strawberries cleaned. Quarter strawberries.

To prepare crust: Blend together the first five ingredients in a food processor until nuts are in small pieces. Add butter 1 tablespoon at a time, until just blended. Add enough cold water by teaspoons until mixture begins to form a ball. Do not over mix.

Flatten dough and press into a 9-inch tart pan with removable bottom. Chill crust for 1 hour. Bake at 350 degrees F. for approximately 25 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Cool completely before filling. Take baked pastry shell and brush the bottom and sides with melted chocolate. Allow to dry and harden.

To prepare pastry cream: Bring milk and sugar to a scald. Whisk eggs, egg yolks, cornstarch, and sugar in a mixing bowl. Add half of hot milk to egg mixture, to temper. Pour egg mixture slowly in back into saucepan. Over low heat, for 1-2 minutes continue to whisk until thickened. Remove from heat, add butter and vanilla. Cool completely.

To assemble tart: Take chocolate lined tart and spread evenly with pastry cream or (prepared instant vanilla pudding). Arrange berries as desired on top of the pastry cream. Drizzle top with melted chocolate.

Canned goods won't last forever

"If canned foods are stored properly they can last a good long time," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Michigan State University Extension Service of Oakland County Food and Nutrition Hotline.

"However, canned goods don't keep forever," she added.

"Canned goods need to follow the first in first out rule. It is a good idea to write the date of purchase on each canned good then use up the old ones first, of course. The hotline has been receiving many questions about storage of canned goods lately. High temperatures more than 100 degrees are harmful to canned goods. Also canned foods that have been frozen by accident can also be risky. Never use canned goods from containers that are bulging, leaky, dented or cracked.

Some tips:

•Store canned goods in a cool, clean, dry place.

•Keep canned foods away from furnaces, stoves or very hot areas.

If you have other food safety or food and nutrition questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, (810) 858-0904. Accurate storage times and information are available by calling the hotline.

Lamb and fruit make festival holiday meal

Leg of lamb is probably the most popular choice of meats for spring holiday meals due to its place in the history of the spring religious holidays. The recipes for this delicious meat quite often indicate the region of the world where they originated. Middle Eastern influence often is found in the use of honey, dried fruits and spices such as coriander, saffron, cinnamon and cloves.

The Persians taught us the delicious flavors achieved with the combination of acid ingredients with the mild taste of lamb. Fruit and nuts often typified the sauces and ingredients of this region.

As you know, we have continued to combine these flavors with raisin sauces, clove-studded meats and currently are now utilizing simple thickened sauces with fresh fruits. The sauces are quite simple to prepare and take very little time. Often today's cooks are unsure of fixing a leg of lamb and think it is beyond their range of cooking skills. Nothing could be further from the truth and roasting meats, unattended, are gaining in popularity once again.

The American Lamb Council recommends the most delicious holiday meal that you have ever fixed for your guests. Select American lamb, since USDA inspection guarantees that the product you are buying is "lamb." To make sure that you have enough for all your guests, buy 1/3 to 1/2 pounds of boneless lamb roast per person or 1/2 pound of bond-in lamb per person.

The leg of lamb, boneless or bone-in, is an ideal choice for your spring holiday meal. Purists will choose the bone-in leg of lamb, since they enjoy the flavors which they feel are enhanced by the roasting of the bond but many people choose the boneless because there is less waste and is easy to carve.

Remember these basics: cook at 325 degrees in a preheated oven for 20-30 minutes per pound depending on the size and cut. Remove the roast the lightly cover, let stand 15-20 minutes and then slice. Final temperature should be 145-155 degrees for medium-rare and medium is 160 degrees.

Remember that glazes or marinades with sweet ingredients will brown quickly so follow the directions for cooking them closely. Also, discard any marinade or glaze that has been used with the meat unless you bring it to a complete boil.

It is better to set aside part of the glaze to use as extra sauce to avoid contact with the raw meat. Here is a recipe from the American Lamb Council.

Honey Citrus Leg of Lamb

1 leg of American Lamb, bone-in (5-7 pounds)
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup water
1 small orange, sliced and seeded
1 lemon, sliced and seeded
1/4 cup raisins or dry cherries
1/4 cup chopped walnuts

For glaze, combine cornstarch, cinnamon and nutmeg in 2-quart saucepan. Stir in honey and water until cornstarch dissolves. Add orange and lemon slices and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer 5-10 minutes or until thickened; stir occasionally. Remove and discard orange and lemon slices; remove 3/4 cup glaze and stir in raisins and walnuts. Set aside.

Place leg of lamb, meaty side down, on rack in roasting pan. Roast at 325 degrees F. 20-25 minutes per pound, or to internal temperature of 140 degrees F. for medium-rare, 25-30 minutes per pound, or to internal temperature of 160 degrees F. for medium.

Brush leg with remaining 1/2 cup glaze during the final 30 minutes of cooking. Remove from oven, cover and let stand 15-20 minutes. Internal temperature will rise approximately 10 degrees. Slice and serve with glaze you have set aside. Serves 10-12.

Nutritional information per serving: Calories 295, Total fat 10 g., Cholesterol 95 mg., Sodium 74 mg.

Lamb is special: Lamb can be glazed with a variety of items, including citrus and honey. Lamb can be a traditional feast for the spring holidays.

Fetzer Vineyards offers heirloom tomato seeds

See related story on Taste front.

• Tomatoes have been maligned as wine unfriendly. But it really depends on how they are prepared, and California's Fetzer Vineyards is geared up to set you on the right track.

Fetzer is offering packets of prized heirloom tomato seeds, including a Stupice from Czechoslovakia, Black Krim from Russia and Georgia Steak from Georgia in the U.S. These varieties have been selected for their beautiful colors, shapes and flavors.

To order a Fetzer heirloom tomato seed kit (each kit contains three packets of seed and wine-friendly recipes), phone (800) 959-4035. The cost is $5.30 per kit, which includes tax and postage.

Fanciful mix of sausages, potatoes 'One-Pot Sunday Supper'

AP — If markets once knew little more of sausage than Italian and Polish, that has improved rather dramatically, writes Pat Dailey in her new cookbook, "One-Pot Sunday Suppers" (HarperCollins, $17.50).

Now it's as likely that the likes of smoked duck sausage with brandy, Thai chicken, andouille and Santa Fe turkey sausage will keep company with the more familiar types.

Use a fanciful mix of several kinds in the recipe below. This hearty melange takes about 30 minutes to prepare and cook. Serve with lots of bread.

Sausages With Potatoes and Peppers

1 tablespoon olive oil
1¼ pounds sausage in casing, preferably a mix of several types, cut into 2-inch pieces
1 large onion, cut into thin wedges
1 small red bell pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
1 small green bell pepper, cut into 1-inch strips
4 small red potatoes, quartered lengthwise
½ cup dry red wine
½ cup marinara or tomato sauce
½ teaspoon dried basil
Pinch of crushed hot red pepper

In a large skillet, heat the olive oil over medium-high heat. Add the sausage and cook, turning, until nicely browned, 5 to 7 minutes. Pour off all but 1 tablespoon of the fat. Add the onion, bell peppers and potatoes; mix well. Pour in the wine, then the marinara sauce, basil and crushed red pepper.

Cover and simmer over medium-low heat until the potatoes are tender, about 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Recipe from "One-Pot Sunday Suppers" by Pat Dailey. HarperCollins, $17.50.

Brunch can make a festive change of pace

Step out of the ordinary breakfast routine with brunch — that delightful change of pace that combines some of the best foods from breakfast and lunch in a festive, slow-paced meal meant to be enjoyed on a Sunday, a holiday, or any special day that allows for leisurely dining. Like any other meal, however, a good brunch should emphasize wholesome fruits, vegetables and grains, and downplay fats and sugars.

Brunch would not be complete without some delicious bread — oat bran or rye bagels, sweet potato quick bread or low fat cornmeal muffins are just a few ideas.

Try a savory vegetable spread made with low fat cream cheese and a vegetable combination of finely grated carrots, red pepper, radishes and onion that have been cooked briefly over low heat to evaporate most of their moisture. Season with a bit of salt, finely chopped garlic cloves, and fresh chopped thyme, and refrigerate before serving.

If pancakes or waffles strike your fancy, try whole wheat yogurt waffles with fruit salsa (quartered strawberries, diced papaya, or peach, melon and pineapple, mixed with honey).

Make apple French toast — slices of thick French bread dipped in a lower-fat mixture of egg whites, skim milk, apple cider and a bit of sugar; cooked in a non-stick pan with spray-on vegetable oil; and topped with apple sauce or an apple compote.

For low-fat omelets, substitute one egg with two or three egg whites for whole eggs. Fill the omelets with ingredients like shrimp, green beans, scallions, and sprouts. Or try sauteed sliced zucchini, mushrooms, chopped onion and tomato wedges. Garnish with fresh basil and a touch of Parmesan cheese.

When your brunch tends toward a luncheon, serve a chilled berry soup or a cold tomato and orange soup. Or start off with a vitamin-rich fruit cooler made by blending your favorite juices and fruits. Enjoy cantaloupe with pineapple juice and orange juice, or strawberries and watermelon with lemon juice.

Fresh fruit and vegetable salads are never out of place on a brunch menu. Try a colorful pea salad made with thawed frozen peas, diced sweet red peppers, chopped scallions, shredded non-fat mozzarella cheese and minced fresh basil.

Dress with a mixture of 1/2 cup nonfat mayonnaise and 1/2 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard, and serve on a bed of Romaine lettuce. Or sample the season's nutritious produce with Spring Spinach Salad, a recipe from the American Institute for Cancer Research.

Spring Spinach Salad

- 10 ounces fresh spinach, washed thoroughly, stemmed and torn in pieces
- 2 cups strawberries, halved or sliced
- 2 kiwi fruit, peeled and sliced
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 5 tablespoons part skim ricotta cheese
- 1 tablespoon plain low fat or nonfat yogurt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried herbs of your choice (basil, tarragon, or use 2 teaspoons fresh herbs)
- Dash pepper

Prepare the spinach, strawberries and kiwi fruit in a large salad bowl or individual salad bowls. Combine the remaining ingredients in a blender or food processor; puree until smooth without a trace of graininess, and serve with the salad.

Each of the 4 servings contains 2 grams of fat and 86 calories.

Spring salad: Toss together a flavorful salad with fresh spinach, strawberries and kiwifruit. The dressing is a combination of ricotta cheese, nonfat yogurt and herbs.

Here's some safety tips for handling Easter eggs

Beautifully decorated eggs are a popular custom associated with the Easter Holiday. Here's some information from Lois Thieleke and Sylvia Treitman, home economists who answer the Michigan State University Extension Food and Nutrition Hotline in Oakland County.

For safety's sake it is essential to follow some simple rules when handling eggs if they are to be consumed.

Use decorated eggs for show only, and dispose of them. Here are some safety tips:

•Put raw eggs in a pot of cold water heated over medium heat until water boils. Immediately reduce heat and simmer eggs for 20 minutes.

•Air cool eggs in shells in an open container in refrigerator.

•Decorated hard-cooked eggs should be stored in the refrigerator before decorating and after the Easter Egg Hunt. Decorated eggs should be eaten within two to three days and only if they were out of the refrigerator for a total of two hours or less for the hunting, coloring and displaying.

•Discard any decorated cracked hard-cooked eggs.

•Use only food grade dyes if you are planning on using eggs for consumption.

•If you're hosting an Easter Egg Hunt, make yourself a map of where eggs are hidden. It is easy to forget where they are until it's too late to use them safely.

Decorating eggs

Decorate eggs the old-fashioned way, experiment with some of nature's own colors. Simmer eggs in water for 20 minutes with a teaspoon of vinegar and one of these:

- •Blue — red cabbage leaves
- •Lavender — yellow delicious apple peel
- •Orange — onion skins
- •Greenish-yellow —carrot tops
- •Greyish gold/pink —spinach
- •Brown — strong coffee
- •Buff — walnut shells

To ensure safe Easter eggs, do not leave hard-cooked dyed eggs at room temperature for more than two hours.

Money saving egg tips

Get the most for your money by buying small size eggs to dye, especially if you are planning to just dye and decorate and throw them away later. If you plan to color the eggs and eat them later, then choose the larger sizes.

Egg Trivia

- •Fresh eggs will sink in water, while stale eggs float.
- •If you plan to separate yolks and whites, do so as soon as your remove eggs from the refrigerator. Cold yolks are less likely to break.
- •Try to roll a hard-cooked egg in a straight line, it tends to roll in a circle.
- •Spin an egg on its side to find out if it's cooked or not. If the egg wobbles, it's raw, if it spins smoothly, it is cooked.

Answers to commonly asked questions

- •Fresh eggs that have been cooked may be difficult to peel. Those stored for a week to 10 days before cooking peel easier. Also cooling eggs thoroughly and immediately after cooking makes them easier to peel.
- •Eggs cannot be frozen in their shells. Hard-cooked egg whites become tough if frozen. Hard-cooked yolks and raw whole eggs, whites and yolks can be frozen for use later. The thawed product may be somewhat thicker than a fresh eggs. Thaw in refrigerator.
- •Unless a recipe states otherwise, use medium or large eggs in recipes.
- •The egg shell color is determined by the breed of the hen and is not related to quality, nutrients, flavor or cooking performance.
- •It is OK to remove raw eggs from the refrigerator 30 minutes before using in a recipe. Some recipes do call for room temperature eggs and that's OK. Cold eggs can harden the fat in a recipe and the batter will be curdled and can effect the texture of the product.
- •Fresh eggs in the shell will keep in the refrigerator for 3 weeks.
- •Raw egg yolks and whites can be stored in the refrigerator 2-4 days.
- •Hard-cooked eggs can be stored in the refrigerator 1 week.

Carrot cake gets new twist with macadamia nuts

AP — Carrot cakes have been an American favorite since the 1960s, when home cooks and restaurant chefs started combining carrots, walnuts, raisins and spices to bake a fruit-and-nut cake, smothered with a cream cheese frosting.

"Taste of the Islands" carrot cake is the creation of Mark Hetzel, pastry chef at the Four Seasons Resort in Maui, Hawaii. The recipe won the grand prize in a carrot cake contest sponsored by the California Fresh Carrot Advisory Board.

Taste Of The Islands Carrot Cake

For the cake:

- 1¾ cups plus 4 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups vegetable oil
- 1 and 2-3rds cups granulated sugar
- 3 large eggs
- 4 cups shredded carrots (1 pound fresh carrots, peeled and trimmed)
- 1 cup chopped unsalted macadamia nuts or pecans (about 4 ounces)
- ½ cup raisins or currants

For the pineapple filling:

- 2 cups diced fresh pineapple
- ½ cup granulated sugar
- ¼ cup pineapple juice
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

For the cream cheese icing:

- Two 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup butter, softened
- ½ cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup finely chopped toasted, unsalted macadamia nuts or pecans (about 4 ounces), for garnish

For the cake: Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease a 10- by 13-inch round cake pan. Line bottom with circle of parchment or waxed paper. Grease paper and lightly flour pan.

Sift together 1¾ cups plus 2 tablespoons flour, baking soda, cinnamon and salt.

In large mixing bowl, combine oil, sugar and eggs. With electric mixer, beat at medium speed until light in color, about 3 to 4 minutes. At low speed, gradually add flour mixture, beating just until smooth.

Combine carrots, nuts, raisins and remaining 2 tablespoons flour. Gently fold into batter. Pour into prepared cake pan. Bake for 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees F and bake for 50 to 55 minutes longer or until toothpick inserted near center comes out clean and surface springs back when gently pressed with finger. Cool in pan on wire rack for 15 minutes. Run knife around sides of cake to loosen. Turn cake out by re-inverting onto another rack, and cool completely, paper side down.

For the filling: In medium saucepan, combine pineapple and sugar. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until pineapple is tender, about 15 to 20 minutes. Combine pineapple juice and cornstarch, and stir into cooked pineapple; boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in vanilla. Cool. (Can be made a day ahead and chilled, covered in refrigerator.)

For the icing: In medium bowl, with electric mixer, combine cream cheese and butter. Add sugar and vanilla; beat until smooth.

To assemble cake: Peel paper off cake. Using a long serrated knife, slice cake horizontally into three layers. Remove top two layers. It helps to use a cardboard cake circle or flat cookie sheet to slide under the cut layers and lift off.

Place bottom cake layer on 10-inch cardboard cake circle or serving plate. Spread pineapple filling over cake layer. Place middle layer of cake on top of filling and spread with a thin layer of icing. Place top layer of cake, top side down, on icing. Spread remaining icing evenly over sides and top of cake. Press chopped toasted nuts onto sides of cake. If cake is on cardboard circle, press nuts onto cake over wax paper. Makes 16 servings.

Use breakfast to 'tune up' your eating habits

As time goes on, eating and exercise patterns may require some fine-tuning. Baby boomers can see it coming. Beginning this year, a boomer will turn 50 every seven second.

Health, nutrition and simple pleasures are top-of-mind issues for those 50 and better. Many now know that simple changes in nutrition and exercise habits make the most sense because they're more likely to become permanent. In fact, the search to simplify life, overall, is a fast-growing trend. Time is the most prized commodity regardless of one's life stage.

Recent studies show that many 50-and-overs use breakfast time to seize those extra few minutes, to reflect and to organize the day. Over half declare breakfast as their favorite time of the day.

The breakfast meal itself has many benefits - it's easy to prepare, and it improves concentration. Breakfast also helps with weight control because breakfast eaters tend to have lower fat intakes overall and are less inclined to snack between meals and overeat at other meals.

Breakfast also can be a great starting point for "turning up" eating habits. Here are few tips.

• Focus. Use one to two minutes of your breakfast time to focus on your smart eating plan for the day. Be realistic about the changes you want to make.

• Simplify. Pledge to make small changes. A simple change like eliminating one teaspoon of margarine every day from your morning toast will save the calorie equivalent of five pounds in a year.

• Be creative: use your imagination when it comes to food choices. Make eating enjoyable rather than a chore.

An easy way to add creativity to breakfast is to dress up a basic bowl of cereal. To get you started, the Quaker Kitchens have created two fun and easy "dress up" ideas.

Mochaccino Breakfast-In-A-Glass is a easy take-off on the trendy coffee bar beverage, cafe mocha. It weighs in at only 210 calories and a lean 2.5 grams of fat, and it's almost as quick to fix as pouring cereal and milk into a bowl. Puffed wheat or puffed rice cereal is layered with cool and creamy nonfat cappuccino and chocolate-flavored yogurts. The toasted almonds are option.

Go Bananas Breakfast also starts with a generous serving of puffed wheat or rice cereal. The cereal is topped with nonfat banana yogurt, sliced bananas sprinkled with cinnamon and low fat granola for added crunch.

A natural choice for smart eating, the Quaker puffed cereals are fat-free, sugar-free, sodium-free and preservative free... and they contain only 50 calories per serving. Other quick breakfast and snak recipes, as well as more smart eating tips are available in the new, free brochure Smart Eating for Busy People. For a copy, send you name and address to: Smart Eating Brochure, P.O. Box 487, Dept. N, Chicago, Ill. 60690-0487. Offer good while supplies last. Please allow 4-6 weeks for delivery.

Mochaccino Breakfast-In-A-Glass

1 container (8 oz.) nonfat cappuccino or coffee yogurt
1 container (67-oz.) nonfat chocolate yogurt
2 cups Quaker Puffed Wheat or Rice cereal
1 1/2 tablespoons sliced almonds, light toasted (optional)

Combine yogurts in small bowl; lightly swirl together with spoon. In two 12-ounce on-the-rocks glasses, alternate layers of cereal and yogurt mixture, dividing evenly. Sprinkle with almonds, if desired.

Makes 2 servings.

Nutrition Information: 1 serving: Calories 210, Calories from fat 25, total fat 2.5 grams, saturated fat 0g, cholesterol less than 5mg, sodium 190 mg, carbohydrate 39g, dietary fiber 3g, protein 10g.

Go Bananas Breakfast

1 cup Quaker Puffed Wheat or Rice cereal
1 container (6oz. or 8 oz) nonfat banana yogurt
1 small banana, peeled and sliced 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons low-fat granola

Pour cereal into bowl. Top with yogurt and sliced banana. Sprinkle banana with cinnamon; top with granola.

Makes one serving.

Nutrition Information: 1 serving: calories 350, calories from fat 20, total fat 2.5 g, saturated fat 0g, cholesterol less than 5mg, sodium 110 mg, carbohydrate 76 g, dietary fiber 4g, protein 12g.

Deliciously different: To start the day, spoon into Mochaccino breakfast-In-Glass. This great-tasting morning eye-opener that also happens to be low in fat pairs cool and creamy nonfat cappuccino and chocolate-flavored yogurts with good-for-you puffed wheat cereal.

GUIDE TO THE MOVIES

Richard Gere stars in courtroom drama

Arrogant, brilliant and successful criminal defense attorney Martin Vail loves a good fight and the media spotlight, both of which he knowingly invites when he volunteers to represent a penniless, bewildered man accused of murder in Paramount Pictures' "Primal Fear" opening Wednesday at metro Detroit movie theaters.

The victim is one of Chicago's most prominent dignitaries, and the defendant's guilt seems as evident as the blood found splattered on his clothes. But Vail doesn't concern himself with questions of guilt or innocence. All he cares about is creating and selling his version of the truth. All he cares about is winning.

As his involvement with his client deepens Vail's consuming need to win, his antagonism toward his former boss in the prosecutor's office; his complicated relationship with his former lover who is the prosecutor in this case, and his unexpected feelings for his client, combine to bind him to the trap awaiting him.

Starring Richard Gere, "Primal Fear" is directed by Gregory Hoblit from a screenplay by Steve Shagan and Ann Biederman based on the best-selling novel by William Diehl. The film also stars Laura Linney, John Mahoney, Alfre Woodward, Frances McDormand, Andre Braugher and Edward Norton.

A compelling blend of courtroom drama, suspense thriller and psychological study, "Primal Fear" follows high-powered attorney Martin Vail (Richard Gere) as he defends a likable, naive alter boy named Aaron Stampler (Edward Norton) in a case that rocks Chicago.

Vail is opposed by prosecuting attorney Janet Venable (Laura Linney), who feels she has much to prove in this legal contest with her former lover and mentor. Closely watching both of them are the media, State's Attorney John Shaughnessy (John Mahoney) and other powerful figures who have a large stake in the trial's outcome.

"It's not Vail's job to decide if someone is guilty or not guilty," said Gere. "His job is to defend. With Aaron, however, he starts to care on an emotional level. He bonds with this kid. It's no longer just a flashy case that will advance his own career. He wants to get this kid off, so he's really tested to his limits."

Thriller: Once romantically linked, lawyers Janet Venable (Laura Linney) and Martin Vail (Richard Gere), are headed for a courtroom showroom in a high-profile murder trial in "Primal Fear."

Top bagels with savory spreads for quick-to-fix breakfast

AP — A quick-to-fix breakfast is sure to please when bagels are spread with raspberry swirl cream cheese or garden vegetable ricotta spread. The spreads are prepared the night before.

RASPBERRY SWIRL CREAM CHEESE

Two 3-ounce packages cream cheese
¼ cup vanilla yogurt
1½ teaspoons sugar (optional)
3 tablespoons raspberry preserves

Using food processor or electric mixer, combine cream cheese, yogurt and sugar. Mix until smooth.

Alternately spoon cream cheese mixture and raspberry preserves into small serving bowl. Gently stir in circular motion to form swirls; do not mix completely. Serve immediately, or store, covered, inrefrigerator, up to 5 days. Serve as a spread for bagels, English muffins, scones, toast or waffles. Makes 1 cup.

Note: If mixture separates during storage, stir to blend.

GARDEN VEGETABLE RICOTTA SPREAD

2-3rds cup ricotta cheese
½ cup chopped, raw vegetables, such as carrots, celery, bell peppers, radishes
1 tablespoon sliced green onion (optional)
⅛ teaspoon ground red pepper (cayenne)

Stir together all ingredients in a small bowl; refrigerate to blend flavors. Store covered, in refrigerator, up to 5 days. Serve as a spread for bagels, English muffins or toast. Makes 1 cup.

Some other quick breakfast ideas:

- Waffle-wiches: Spread cream cheese or cottage cheese and jam or honey between toasted waffles.
- Pancake rolls: Spread warm microwave pancakes with cream cheese or ricotta cheese and wrap around a banana.
- Fruit n ricotta or cottage cheese: Stir favorite cut-up fruits into ricotta cheese or cottage cheese and refrigerate, covered, overnight. Eat right out of the container or spread on a bagel.

PLYMOUTH—CANTON SPORTS SCENE

Onward and upward

The Ludwig and Karas Real Estate men's basketball team, champions of the City of Plymouth Open A Recreation League with a 12-2 record, advanced to the round of 16 in the Michigan Parks and Recreation Association's state tournament by beating Northville, 65-62, in the tourney's opening round March 21 at Central Middle School.

Teammates for 21 years, it marked the first time the Ludwig and Karas team had advanced this far in the playoffs. Five of them are Plymouth Salem graduates, including leading scorer Brian Wolcott, who netted 23 in the win over Northville. Marty Peck scored 17 and Steve Robb had 14.

Wolcott, the current athletic director at Salem and Canton, graduated from Salem in 1976. Peck is a '75 grad of Canton and Robb is a '73 grad of Salem.

Other team members from the Salem/Canton area are Rob Willette ('73 Salem); Tom Willette ('75 Salem); Dan Moore ('75 Salem); Mike McBride ('81 Salem); Dave Miller ('81 Salem); Steve Karas ('67 Harper Woods Notre Dame); and Scott Combs ('79 Battle Creek Harper Creek).

The Ludwig and Karas Team met Redford last Friday in Grand Rapids.

Tournament run

It didn't last out the first weekend of the NCAA Tournament, but Eastern Michigan's men's basketball team was impressive nonetheless.

The Eagles defeated Duke (75-60) in the first round before falling to Connecticutt in the second (95-81).

James Head, EMU's season-long rebounding leader (6.4 per game) from Plymouth Salem, averaged 6.6 points and 5.7 rebounds per game in his sophomore season. The Eagles finished as Mid-American Conference champions, posting a 25-6 overall record.

Repeat selection

On March 16-17, University of Michigan hurler Kelly Holmes, from Plymouth Canton, earned her first-ever berth on a collegiate all-tournament team at the Lady Seminole Invitational, hosted by Florida State. A week later she got her second, this time leading the Wolverines to the championship of the Tennessee Tournament of Champions.

U-M was 5-1 in the Tennessee tourney, beating Austin Peay in the final 7-0. Holmes improved to 10-4 on the season with a team-best 1.27 earned run average, allowing 67 hits in 93.7 innings with 57 strikeouts and only 17 walks.

Mustang openings

The Mid-American Mavericks, the girls under-14 slow-pitch travel team associated with the Mid-American Mustangs, has a few openings remaining. The season starts in late April at the Canton Softball Center.

There are no residency requirements. For more information, call Bob Jastrzebsky at (313) 844-3931.

Recreation news

- The Canton Softball Center starts the 1996 softball season Sunday, April 14 with league play. A 14-game season costs $495 per team (plus refundable forfeit fee and cost for umpires). Men's, women's and co-ed leagues are offered. Call (313) 483-5600, ext. 103 for details.

The CSC Tournament season begins Friday, April 12 with the Early Bird Tournament. There's a four-game guarantee in the round-robin tournament, for men's, women's and co-ed teams. Entry fee is $125 (umpires additional). Call (313) 483-5600 ext. 103 or 104 for more information.

- Cheerleading and baton twirling classes for girls will begin Tuesday, April 9, and continue for eight weeks. There will be two age divisions: 5-6 year olds, from 7-7:30 p.m.; 7-11 year olds, from 7:30-8 p.m.; and a baton twirling class for 7-11 year olds from 8-8:30 p.m.

Cost is $20 per person for residents and $24 for non-residents. The classes will be held at the Summit on the Park Community Center's Maple Room. Registration ends April 5.

The classes are sponsored by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services. Call 397-5110 for details.

- The Canton Parks and Recreation Services still has openings for its adult softball leagues. Cost is $275 per team in the men's league, $360 per team in the women's league, and $320 per team in the co-ed league. The women's and co-ed leagues are limited to six non-residents per team.

For further information, call 397-5110.

Salem aims to replace Canton

For Salem, two years is too long. The Rocks know all too well who's finished ahead of them in the WLAA in that time span. It's something they plan on changing this season.

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Nothing quite matches the feeling of being No. 1.

Track team members for Plymouth Canton's girls squad know this. So do those at Plymouth Salem. And it makes for a somewhat tense atmosphere.

After all, before the Chiefs ruled the Western Lakes Activities Association, winning the last two championships, it was Salem that was on top, winning WLAA titles in '92 and '93. Now the question arises, who will rule this season?

Is it Salem's turn to regain the crown? Or does Canton have the talent to continue its dominance?

Salem coach Mark Gregor, quite understandably, believes it's time for a change. "It's hard to win (the league) a third year in a row," he said. "The kids are tired of playing second fiddle."

There aren't many teams that the Rocks will be second to. They have few (if any) weaknesses. And their greatest strength?

It may be in numbers. Salem has 87 roster members, only eight of which are seniors. "(Depth) won't be a problem," Gregor said.

Their other strengths - well, pick one. A year ago, one might have picked the sprints as a glaring weakness. Gregor believes that former problem area is now a strongpoint.

Here are a couple of good reasons: Kim Sheldon, now a senior co-captain, who in the past has proven a very capable sprinter, hurdler and long jumper. And Katie Bonner, a sophomore who ran a leg on Salem's 4x400-meter relay that placed fourth at state, and also ran the open 200, 400 and 800.

But that's only part of the good news for Salem. The rest was based on good fortune. Three newcomers to the team - senior exchange student Anett Juraszik, from Hungary, and sisters Joan (a junior) and Aleshka (a freshman) Marquez, transfers from Puerto Rico, are all sprinters.

"(Juraszik) is an extremely hard worker," said Gregor, adding she would run anything from 100 to 400 meters, and also long jump. As for the Marquez sisters: "Both will contribute right away."

While that area has improved, other strengths remain. Nicole Van Hees, a senior co-captain, is atop the list. She's qualified for the state meet in the high jump in each of the past three seasons, finishing fourth last year, and she's also a strong hurdler.

In the weight events, there's senior Leslie DeShazor, who was second in the WLAA in the shot put in '95, and senior Kelly Simpson.

Those to watch in the junior class include Nicole Bolton, who will run the 800-3,200; Kristie Giddings, who was third in the WLAA in the 800 last year and was also a member of

Chiefs to battle for title

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Nothing quite matches the feeling of being No. 1.

It's something the girls who run track for Plymouth Canton have become accustomed to. They've been the Western Lakes Activities Association champions the last two years, and for the past 11 they've ruled over the WLAA's Western Division.

Both of those titles are in jeopardy this season. But, then again, when aren't they?

Canton is used to being challenged. And just as in the past, they'll be ready for it.

In other words, the Chiefs will be plenty tough again this season. Their league title won't be relinquished without a struggle - count on it.

"I'd be lying to you if I said I didn't think we'd be one of the teams competing for the WLAA championship," coach George Przygodski said. He refused to say Canton was the favorite, however, instead putting that monkey on the back of Farmington Harrison ("They have probably the best athlete in the WLAA in Devron Kennedy"). Plymouth Salem, Przygodski added, was the No. 2 choice, with Canton "a distant third."

Few will believe that, even before examining the Chiefs' roster. Afterwards, few will doubt Canton deserves its rating as league favorite.

"I think we are going to be very strong in sprints and hurdles - we have a lot of depth in those events," Przygodski said, adding that sprints to him are through the 800-meter run. He added that "we lost a lot of athletes. We lost some key individuals, and we'll have a hard time replacing them."

Maybe. True, Olive Ikeh (200-400), Tracy Cavin (400-800), Megan Barassi (400-800) and Becky Bockstanz (relays) were all big contributors. But as Przygodski admitted: "We have some strong individuals coming back. It's just a matter of plugging the holes."

The returnees include juniors Mary Anderson, who won the 100 hurdles as a sophomore and the 300 hurdles as a freshman at the WLAA meet, and Becky Wolfrom, who was third at the WLAA meet and fifth in the state regional in the 3,200; and sophomore Nkechi Okwumabua, regional and WLAA champ in the long jump who was also fourth in the WLAA and sixth in the region in the 100.

"They are probably our upper echelon, our biggest names back from last year," said Przygodski. There are plenty of others, however; indeed, there are 70 roster members.

EMU's Tinnion adds 8 to his roster

SOCCER

Eastern Michigan University coach Brian Tinnion is hoping the success of the Eagles' basketball team will rub off on the men's soccer program.

Tinnion, the former Detroit Express player and Detroit Rockers coach, has stockpiled his latest EMU recruiting class with Observerland talent.

"We were 8-12 (overall record) and at the bottom of the MAC, but we did get better as the season went along," said Tinnion of EMU's inaugural season. "With these players were bringing in, we not only have numbers, but the biggest thing is we're going to have is competition for spots."

Tinnion has signed three first-team All-Observer prep players:

- Goalkeeper George Tomasso, who helped lead Plymouth Canton to the 1994 state Class A title. He had 11 shutouts and an 0.60 goals-against average;
- Forward Drew Drummond, who led Plymouth Salem to the 1995 state championship, while leading the Rocks in scoring with 22 goals and 10 assists;
- Midfielder Brian Zawislak, a first-team All-Stater who led the Chargers with 10 goals and nine assists.

"I thought Tomasso was the best senior keeper in the state this year," Tinnion said. "He'll compete for the starting spot with Zachary Makris (Troy Athens), who will be a senior.

"Drummond will be an offensive midfielder, a guy who can play beyond the front two target men and drift occasionally out to the wing. He's a good passer with good vision.

"And Zawislak is a bread-and-butter kind of player, who has a great work ethic. He'll always give 100 percent."

Two Schoolcraft College players are in the fold _ striker Mo Hijazi, an NJCAA All-Region 12 pick who set a school record with 31 goals; and defender Dave Binkiewicz, who played as a prep at Livonia Franklin.

Tinnion also has a verbal commitment from another former Franklin

ABC dues are increasing, but not all that much

BY AL HARRISON
SPECIAL WRITER

First, here is the bad news. The American Bowling Congress is raising the membership dues fee next season.

The last raise was in 1991 and they promised no more increases for five years. Well, they were true to their word, and the main reason for the increase is because of declining membership figures. Doesn't that sound like the "Law of diminishing returns"? Now for the good news, the raise will be slight, and bowling is still the biggest bargain in sports.

The raise, which will be either $12 or $12 per year is only a few pennies per game and the benefits far outweigh the few dollars involved.

League bowlers sometimes spend more money on jackpots than the league and sanction fees put together. Half of the sanction fee goes to the ABC - $6 next year - and the rest goes to the local associations, Greater Detroit Bowling Association or Wayne-Westland in the O & E areas.

The local associations work hard to keep the leagues running smoothly, most are unpaid volunteers, people who want to give something back to this sport. They publish a yearbook annually with everybodys averages in all leagues.

They also run tournaments, issue awards, check the lanes where you bowl to make sure the conditions are fair and conform to ABC standards, they present awards for "Honor scores", resolve disputes and offer other services. The ABC provides the awards, rings, wristwatches, patches and pins for those who have earned them.

More good news: ABC, in it's 100th year is still the largest sports organization in the world, and the GDBA is the biggest by far of any local branch.

Last year alone, the GDBA gave out 877 ABC 300 rings and 2,231 wrist watches. The watches are awarded for a game of 300 pins over average. The Annual GDBA Tournament is currently underway at Cloverlanes in Livonia, with 365 teams bowling in the regular team event and 230 teams contending for the Mixed Team championship.

"The ladies are at it again with more great scores.

Now about Joanne Warner of Westland, who rolled her first 700 series last week with a 753 which included a 268 in the Friday afternoon Van Born Auto Wrecking Ladies Trio league at Oak Lanes in Westland.

In the Cloverlanes All-Star Bowlerettes, Cheryl Daniels fired a 300 in Game No. 1, then saw her teammate, Aleta Sill hit another "perfecto" in Game No. 2.

Both of these ladies have had so many 300 games, that I think they stopped counting them.

the 400 and 800 relays; Kristin Kosik, a high jumper and hurdler; Angela Smith, who was regional champ in the shot put and a state qualifier in both the shot and discus; and Sara Vida, Jessica Ashland Lisa Smith, all shot and discus competitors.

"It's going to be a good event for us again," Gregor said of the weight events. "(Assistant coach) Jay Blaylock has been doing an outstanding job developing those kids."

There are plenty of others who figure to contribute; however. Among the sophomores: Bonner; Jennifer Burke (400); Evelyn Rahhal (800-1,600); Hannah Watts (hurdles); Ellen Stemmer (distance). And with 40 freshmen out for the team, Gregor believes some will break into the lineup somewhere. Among the most promising are Tiffany Reider in the hurdles, long jump and high jump; and Angela Sillmon, in the sprints and high jump.

"We tried to solidify all our events that were weak points last year," Gregor said. "We tried to find each girls strengths and work hard on them."

From the looks of it, that's a lot to work on. Gregor knows his team has an abundance of promise: "We have some high expectations this year," he said. One is replacing Canton atop the WLAA. "I think that's a realistic goal for us," he said.

The parts may be in place, but the task won't be easily accomplished.

Canton

The other seniors who figure to contribute most are Sarah Israel in the shot put and discus (fifth at regional); Kelly Smith, who tied for sixth in the high jump at the WLAA meet and also competed in the high jump and 200-400; and Brooke Larson, in the 400-800.

The rest of the junior class is led by Becky Uryga (200-800); Marisa Kovach (fifth at WLAA in the high jump); Nancy Hoffman (fifth in the WLAA in the 300 hurdles, also 400-800); Emily Moran (shot put, seventh in discus at WLAA); Arikana Roy (sixth at WLAA in the 800); and Amanda Grube (shot put, discus).

Top sophomores include sprinter Alina Boyden; Jamie Vergari (eighth in the WLAA in the 1,600 and 3,200); Amy Klim (seventh in WLAA in the 800); sprinter Kim Robertson; Jessa Scott (400-800); and distance runner Christiana Bradford.

Asked to name his team's weakness, any weakness, Przygodski hesitated - for a long time, an indicator (or warning) to the rest of the WLAA. Then he said, "We need to find our relay combinations, and we need to see how well our kids can compete."

He has an entire season to find answers to such puzzling questions. Chances are darn good it won't take nearly that long, much to the chagrin of the other WLAA teams.

Patriot, 1993 first-team All-Observer forward Victor Rodopoulos, who is expected to arrive in Ypsilanti after completing junior college credit requirements. Rodopoulos started his collegiate career at Central Michigan University, but transferred to Schoolcraft after the CMU program was dropped.

"Once you get Mo the ball and he faces the goal, he's tough to stop," the EMU coach said. "Both he and Rodopoulos are good finishers, and they've both played together for a year, which is a plus.

"Binkiewicz will be a junior. He's a leader and should be a big influence."

The Eagles have also signed Matt Simons, a versatile player from the state-champion Rocks, and defender Garrett Stuedle of Birmingham Brother Rice.

"Simons is a multi-purpose player who can fit in anywhere," Tinnion said. "He can go in the midfield, up front, or be a central defender, too.

"Steudle is great in the air as a central defense, or he can play forward like Simons. Both are 6-feet tall and that should help us. We had the fewest set-play goals of any team I've had. And because we had nothing in the air, we gave up a lot of set-play goals as well."

Now if only Tinnion can ride the momentum of the MAC champion EMU basketball team.

"They created a lot of excitement," Tinnion said. "We're going to be better, but that doesn't mean we're going to win the MAC. You've got some pretty good teams like Bowling Green and Akron, plus we add three more (Northern Illinois, Marshall and Buffalo). But we're headed in the right direction."

Powerful net players lead 1996 edition of all-Observer team

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Shortly after being told over the telephone that she was Observerland's Coach of the Year in girls volleyball this season, Cindy Riley started thanking the people at Redford Thurston who helped make it happen.

Riley began citing her players and coaching staff when her husband, Jim Riley, quipped in the background, "How about an understanding husband?"

They laughed, knowing her husband of seven months sacrificed like everyone else affiliated with the Eagles' program.

"That's really, really true," said Riley, the first-year varsity coach. "I think I cooked dinner twice this season."

As Thurston's junior varsity coach she last eight years, Riley felt most rewarded when watching some of her former players become standouts on the varsity.

This year she witnessed it first-hand.

The Eagles won their first-ever Class B regional before bowing out of the state tournament with a 4-15, 6-15 loss to Marysville in the quarterfinal at Mattawan High School near Kalamazoo.

The Eagles, who have won the last four district titles, were Mega Conference White Division champions and finished 39-10-4 overall.

Riley's JV teams at Thurston always had winning records. Before that, she coached successful teams at Pierce Junior High School while attending classes and playing volleyball at U-M Dearborn.

Riley credited team unity and the cooperation of assistant coaches Laura Kress and Lynda Ellul for the Eagles' success this year.

"The girls were focused all year on this being a team effort, not individual," Riley said. "It was three coaches working together for the best of the program. (Coaching varsity) is definitely more exciting because the level of competition is so much higher. I loved coaching JV, too, but you don't have to teach skills as much on the varsity. Varsity is faster paced, and a lot more responsibility."

The Thurston players are standouts in the classroom as well, boasting an accumulative grade point average of 3.4. Five of Riley's seniors are graduating with honors.

Livonia Ladywood joined Thurston as Observerland's other quarterfinal qualifier, reaching that far in the Class A tournament before losing to eventual runner-up Temperance Bedford.

Ladywood recorded one of the more memorable comebacks of the year, recovering from a 3-12 deficit in the regional final against Plymouth Salem before winning 15-12.

The Blazers and Rocks lead the way with three players on the All-Observer first team. Thurston has two, while the remaining four spots are shared by four schools.

Ladywood's Erin LeSage, Farmington Hills Mercy's Jamesea Emerson and Salem's Shellye Sills are repeat first-team selections.

Following is a profile of each player selected to the first team.

FIRST TEAM

Shellye Sills, senior middle hitter, Plymouth Salem: The four-year letterwinner leaves Salem with records for kills in a career (1,312) and season (507 in 1995-96) and blocks for a career (821) and season (217 in 94-95). She is a repeat selection on the first team after gaining third team honors as a sophomore.

The University of Toledo-bound Sills also contributed 200 blocks, 233 digs and a 92 serving percentage with 92 aces. Her serve reception was 85.2 percent.

"Shellye is one of the hardest working athletes I have ever worked with," Suffety said. "Her hard work and dedication have been an example for all of her teammates and indicative of all her accolades, including a college scholarship. She will be greatly missed."

Kim Sheldon, senior outside hitter, Plymouth Salem: Sheldon helped the Rocks to another Class A district championship and regional final, leading the way with 291 digs. She had 97 aces, including a serve percentage of 94, and finished with 148 kills.

She carries a 3.75 GPA.

"As one of the captains, Kim worked hard keeping this team together and focused," Salem coach Allie Suffety said. "She commited herself to Salem volleyball to be an example of what we are all about. She is a team player. Kim has been one of my favorite young people to know and work with."

Karissa Socia, senior outside hitter, Plymouth Salem: Socia became a force at the net for the Rocks, recording 352 kills. She had 171 digs and a serve percentage of 94.1 with 47 aces.

The 3.95 GPA student is a three-year letterwinner whose patience paid off before getting a chance to shine as a senior.

"Karissa is a true-program player, she waited four years to be a contributor," Suffety said. "She got her chance, took advantage of it by being a starter and an offensive threat as an outside hitter who could go down line as well as cross-court."

Amber Wells, senior setter, Plymouth Canton: Wells kept busy, recording 318 assists in 1,356 attempts. She also led the Chiefs with 299 digs and found time to contributed 129 kills with 73 aces.

"Amber is the 'prototype' of setters," Canton coach Steve Anderson said. "She not only has all the skills with the offensive part of the game, but she also has defense and serving down to a science. She will be a very strong player as a freshman in college."

Stacey Judd, senior outside hitter, Livonia Ladywood: The four-year varsity team member who carries a 4.0 grade point average was named the Blazers' Most Valuable Player. She had the Blazers' most kills (374) and highest kill percentage (.274). She finished with 67 total blocks, 223 digs and 223 serve receive passes with 66 serving aces.

"Stacey impressed me the most by how she made a big contribution to the regional championship in her weakest area — serving, and during a match where the team was not serving well," coach Tom Teeters said. "Stacey's trademarks were the hard-line shots from the right or left side and her effortless passing style."

Nicole Vondracek, junior setter, Livonia Ladywood: A varsity starter since her freshman year, Vondracek made a smooth adjustment from hitter to setter this season. She finished with 695 assists in 1,953 attempts for an average of 6.0 per game.

Vondracek had 187 digs and only 12 errors with 115 good serve receptions. She collected 61 aces, while also accounting for 48 kills in 145 attempts (a hitting percentage of .414).

"Nicole put in a lot of hard work and extra time," Teeters said. "With Nicole's versatility she has been able to take primary pass position, middle back on defense or the outside hitting positions. Nicole's strength comes comes from her work ethic in practice and the example she sets."

Erin LeSage, senior outside hitter, Livonia Ladywood: LeSage will be remembered mostly for her superb spin-curve serve, but that's just a small part of what she has contributed to the Ladywood program the last four years on the varsity.

She recorded more than 300 aces the last two years, including 160 this season, but she also had 252 kills, 239 assists, 86 total blocks, 229 receiving passes and 102 digs as a senior.

She had a hitting percentage of .210 while becoming a repeat selection on the All-Obseerver first team.

"Erin's serving added stress to our opponents' serve receive patterns and gave our offense some easy scoring opportunities," Teeters said. "Erin has also added to many areas of our offense by stepping into a setting role as well as attacking from all three front-row positions and sometimes back row spiking. Her contributions will be missed."

Kristi DiBasio, senior outside hitter, Livonia Stevenson: The team captain was voted the Spartans' best offensive player by her teammates after recording 268 kills in 762 attempts and a serve percentage of 95, completing 340 of 358 deliveries.

She also was effective on defense, establishing a school-record mark of 90 percent in serve reception (338 out of 374).

"We relied heavily on her as far as her abilities," Stevenson coach Kelly Graham said. "She was a very smart player who knows where to put the ball. That's what made her effective."

Theresa Arciero, senior outside hitter, Livonia Churchill: The two-year scholar athlete led the Chargers with a serve percentage of 96.6 and 68 aces. She had a passing percentage of 92.4, which was second on the team, and only 24 errors in 36 attempts. She finished with 106 kills, with 456 good attacks out of 504 attempts, and 306 digs.

"Theresa was both the catalyst and the glue which helped Churchill to its 28-12 season," Churchill coach Mike Hughes said. "She was our best all-around player and unquestioned leader. Theresa's work ethic and competitive nature epitomized Churchill volleyball."

Jamesea Emerson, senior, Farmington Hills Mercy: A three-year varsity starter, Emerson averaged 6.7 kills per match as a senior, recording 402 out of 1,089 attempts.

She had 65 aces, converting 84 percent of her serves, and also had 306 total serve receptions.

Emerson, who had 53 solo stuff blocks and passed at 80 percent efficiency, will attend Middle Tennessee State on a full-ride scholarship. She is a repeat selection on the first team.

"Jamesea is an outstanding hitter and all-around player," Mercy coach Peggy Spengler said. "Her focus sets the pace for the team. She has been our No. 1 hitter for two consecutive seasons and a driving force on Mercy varsity volleyball for three years. We will miss her power and fun, but pray that success and good health will stay with her in the future."

Heather Wohlfeil, senior hitter, Redford Thurston: Wohlfeil, who didn't start playing volleyball until her sophomore year, certainly made up for lost time. Wohlfeil, a second-team All Observer choice in basketball, was the Eagles' co-Most Valuable Player after finishing with a team-high 271 kills, 34 in the state tournament, and 216 target-area digs (at 46 percent).

Of Wohlfeil's kills, 84 came on blocks. The Youngstown State University-bound Wohlfeil also had 51 aces.

"Heather's commitment and her natural athletic ability has led her to be one of the most intimidating hitters in our area," coach Cindy Riley said. "She is also an effective defensive player. Youngstown State is very lucky."

Brandy Malewski, junior middle hitter, Redford Thurston: Malewski was the Eagles' top all-around player who became especially efficient in the post-season.

She was second on the Eagles with 268 kills, including a team-high 43 in five state playoff matches. She finished with 203 target-area digs and added 76 service aces, which also were a team high, while contributing 35 assists.

Malewski serve received at 44 percent in the target area.

"Brandy is one of the most well-rounded volleyball players that Thurston has ever had," Riley said. "She is an excellent server, setter and attacker and her defense is top-notch. Best of all, she'll be back next season."

Buick Regal comes equipped for fun

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

The 1996 Buick Regal is a true traditional vehicle in the Buick lineup. It's constantly updated to reflect its contemporary look, but Regal, essentially, remains the same -- a tried and true mid-size car.

Driven was the Regal Custom sedan, but it's available in lots of choices, including the Custom coupe, Gran Sport coupe and sedan and Limited sedan. Buick calls the Regal its "premium mid-size car." And with all the bells and whistles, it certainly is.

Last year, the Regal captured first prize when it came to the J.D. Power and Associates initial quality study that showed it had the fewest customer-reported problems. Anything that shows up on the Power reports deserves mentioning.

The standard engine on the Regal is a 16-horsepower 3100 V6 that provides a smooth, quiet and efficient ride. Its EPA rating is 20 mpg in the city, 29 on the highway. The V6 is joined with an electronically controlled 4-speed automatic transmission that's standard. Also standard are a 4-wheel independent suspension, 4-wheel anti-lock brakes and dual air bags.

But the list doesn't end there: Cruise control, power windows, power mirrors, automatic power door locks and an AM/FM cassette stereo were added this year to the standard equipment list.

The Regal's optional engine (although it's standard on the Limited and Gran Sport) is the 3.8-liter V6 that's rated at 205 horsepower. This is a 35-horsepower improvement over last year's 170-horsepower 3.8-liter. This is Buick's newest generation of 3800 engines and boasts an all-new cast-iron block that's been reduced in size and weight and is still as quiet as a kitten.

As with a lot of GM cars this year, the Regal is equipped with an advanced on-board diagnostic system that alerts you to any problems in the power train or any other systems that affect emissions.

Also under the hood you'll find you won't have to change your coolant until your Regal is 5 years old or reaches 100,000 miles. There are also platinum-tipped spark plugs that don't have to be changed until you reach 100,000 miles as well as filled-for-life transmission fluid.

You wouldn't believe the room in this car -- and the trunk doesn't suffer, either. There's ample cargo space back there for anyone who needs to stuff three or four bags of clubs in there.

There's a 55/45 split seat up front. Bucket seats are an option in either cloth or leather. The buckets are more comfortable, holding you in place a little better.

On the instrument panel you'll find analog gauges, including a tachometer and temperature readings. Knobs for the stereo and climate controls are larger than last year and are backlit for easier identification in the dark.

Also standard this year is the PASSkey theft-deterrent system. Nothing is more convenient than having a small key fob that controls the locking and unlocking system of a vehicle. It can be operated from about 10 feet away and provides a sense of security that is unmatched when it comes to fumbling for keys to get in your car or trunk at night.

Another plus with the PASSkey system is that there's a tiny coded pellet imbedded in the key. When inserted in the ignition, the Regal reads that pellet's code. If it isn't the right code, the car won't start. It's an added security measure that's worth its weight in steel.

And Regal has a features like delayed lighting, which you would normally only find in the more expensive luxury models. The interior lights stay on for about 25 seconds after the door is closed. The lights turn off -- gradually fading -- as soon as the key is inserted into the ignition.

The standard equipment list is long and includes power steering, a tilt steering wheel, Dynaride suspension, air conditioning, cruise control, a rear window defogger, automatic power door locks, tinted solar ray glass all around, power outside mirrors, an AM/FM cassette stereo, front-seat recliners, a remote trunk release and power windows with express down.

The Regal tested had about $3,000 in extras, which pumped up the $19,740 base price.

The Regal has a lot of Buick tradition built in it and can be a real plus when talking about comfort and convenience. It's worth a look if you need a no-nonsense car with a lot of spunk.

Car Theft Rate Declines As Security Gets Tighter

(NU) - The theft of automobiles in the United States has declined for three consecutive years. Police say that a significant part of the decline in thefts can be directly attributed to a steady increase in car owner awareness about how thieves work and the security systems that may foil them. There is an indication, however, that the trend may be shifting back toward more thefts. Audiovox Corporation is marketing the latest in security devices which use intelligence technology and satellite communications to make properly protected vehicles harder to steal in the first place, and more easy to find if they are stolen. (News USA)

Facing Carjacking Threat, Best Advice: 'Walk Away'

(NU) - Carjacking is a terrifying crime that may provoke dangerous behavior from the intended victim in order to protect their vehicle. The best response for the victim of a carjacking is to say, by word and deed: "Take it, I won't try to stop you." Then, get away from the vehicle as far and as fast as you can. A new security device called The Posse, by Audiovox Corporation, uses satellite tracking gear to pinpoint your vehicle after it has been high jacked. The Posse will give you the courage to walk away. For information about The Posse and about carjacking and other vehicle security problems, call 1-800-645-7750. (News USA)
