Development delayed - again

Canton planning commissioners sent the developer of a shopping center - expected to house a new Kroger - back to the drawing board, demanding a more modern design.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton Township planning commissioners sent developer Stuart Frankel back to the drawing board with instructions to improve the appearance of a proposed 184,000-square-foot shopping center at Ford and Canton Center.

Commissioners postponed site plan approval of Frankel's project, which is expected to include a 65,000-square-foot Kroger supermarket, and told Frankel to make it look nicer.

They criticized Frankel's proposed design as unimaginative and stale. "To me it looks like a strip mall 101 kind of thing," said Commissioner Melissa McLaughlin. "This screams 1970s strip mall."

"I have to be honest with you," Commission Chairman Vic Gustafson told Frankel. "We're not taking a step forward (with what you propose). It's bland and redundant."

Although the design calls for three separate buildings, commissioners confined their criticism to the one that would house the supermarket and several smaller stores.

The project was tabled once before, on March 4, because township planners had found problems with the overall design.

Many of these have been fixed, but commissioners found plenty to dislike about the main build-

A 31-year-old man was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon when a car and a truck both tried to get through the Joy and Lilley intersection on an amber light. One of the drivers tried making a left turn while the other was making his way through the intersection, said Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher. "Two cars went through the yellow light," said truck driver Troy Smith, "and here he comes flying through at me. I had no place to go. Smith was delivering supplies in an 18,000-pound International truck and on his way to Farmer Jack when the accident occurred. The 31-year-old man was transported to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia with facial injuries and multiple fractures to his left leg. "We don't believe his injuries to be life threatening," Rorabacher said. The driver of the truck was not injured.

Health center wins approval

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW

Canton Township planning commissioners gave unanimous approval Monday to the site plan for construction of a medical center at the corner of Canton Center and Summit Parkway.

Mission Health _ a joint operating agreement of McAuley Health Centers (St. Joseph Mercy) and Providence Hospital _ plans to build a 78,000-square-foot, three-story building on a 14-acre site near the Summit community center.

Project Manager Kathleen Kittle said the medical center will include urgent care services for adults and children, primary care doctors' offices, some specialist physicians' offices, community health education programs and equipment for occupational therapy, physical therapy, radiology, ultrasound and mammography.

Planning Commission Chairman Vic Gustafson complimented the Mission Health crew. "That's a very good looking building," he said. "A very nice design."

Commissioners were concerned about the frequency of landings on the planned helicopter pad, but Kittle said there will only be about two landings a year.

Mission Health has tentative plans to expand the medical center, but will wait to see how much demand there is.

"We don't even know if phase II is going be part of the project," said Sally Bailey, Mission Health's Can-

Principal criticizes students' behavior

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Lynn Gregg of Plymouth, an assistant principal in a neighboring school district, is pleading with the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to do something about what he terms an "out of control" situation at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park.

Gregg said he and his wife have observed at Canton and Salem high school students gathering in groups of up to 75 and 100.

"These students are sometimes quite a distance from any building, clearly not doing what they should be doing. In fact, most are breaking the state of Michigan's law that prohibits smoking by minors.

"Should hundreds of students be lying on the floor with food debris around them? Should students be

Art donations

The Public Art Donor program, sponsored by Canton Project Arts and the Canton Community Foundation, has received nearly $52,000 in donations, along with a sculpture, "The Shell Kids" from the Meijer Foundation.

The donor program is intended to provided community members and art benefactors a chance to assist Project Arts in placing art both inside and outside the Summit on the Park community center.

Individuals or groups interested in helping the campaign should call Joan Noricks at the Canton Community Foundation, 981-3002 or Canton Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter, 397-5371.

Contributions may be made to the art program through the Canton Community Foundation, which is a 501(3)c, tax-exempt charitable organization. Gifts can range from the donor level of $100 to the champion level of $10,000.

A winner

Dorothy West, 72, of Canton, won $800 in the "Megabucks Giveaway," the Michigan Lottery's weekly television game show March 22.

West was one of six contestants in the game. She told Lottery officials she plans to save her winnings to buy a new Mercury Sable. Her favorite pastimes are babysitting her nine grandchildren, playing bingo and working in her garden.

Reaching Whyman

Canton residents may now reach state Rep. Deborah Whyman of Canton through the information superhighway.

Computer users can contact the Republican lawmaker on the Internet. The address is dwhyman@house.state.mi.us

"This is an exciting way for me to keep in touch with those I represent," Whyman said.

But you can also reach her by more traditional methods such as the mail, P.O. Box 30014, Lansing, MI 48909. Her phone number is (517) 373-2575.

Planners reject rezoning

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Canton Township planning commissioners unanimously rejected a rezoning request Monday that would have cleared the way for a proposed oil change station on Canton Center between Saltz and Cherry Hill.

Steve Boak, a Plymouth attorney representing the property owner, asked the commission to recommend rezoning 2.3 acres of the 4.6-acre parcel from residential to Community Shopping District.

Boak told the commission that the oil change station would complement the adjacent office building. "The building we plan to put up would fit into the office-type mode," he said.

The business would attract about 35 cars per day, Boak said, employ four individuals and close at 6 p.m.

"This project would blend into this area quite nicely," he said.

Area homeowners objected, arguing that office zoning, suggested as a viable alternative by Community Planner Jeff Goulet, was preferable.

The board of trustees is expected to approve the site plan at its April 23 meeting.

Mission Health hopes to break ground July 1 and finish construction in October 1997, Kittle said. The building will look something like a similar medical center Mission Health is building at Newburgh and Seven Mile in Livonia.

Mission Health bought the property for the medical center from the township for $770,000 and agreed to pay for extra landscaping and road work.

ing. Frankel defended his design, saying, "What we try to do is keep it architecturally compatible so the pieces all fit together."

"It looks like you're creating a billboard for the signage," said Commissioner Catherine Johnson.

Commissioner Thomas Sullivan told Frankel, "The commission is saying, 'Hey, this doesn't feel right. Can you do something about it? And you're saying, 'No.' It seems to me like we're being ignored."

McLaughlin said that Frankel should change the design, but she doesn't know exactly how. "Something needs to be done, whatever it is," she said. "There are professionals who know how to do that."

McLaughlin said the Kroger store in Westland at Ford and Newburgh is an example of a good design, but she won't ask Frankel to copy it. "I just want to see something better," she said. "You guys make a decision on what it is."

"I guess what we're asking for is something more creative," said Gustafson. "Something more in tune to the times."

Clearly disappointed, Frankel and his designers waited outside the meeting room for more than 30 minutes for a chance to speak to commissioners in a less formal setting.

McLaughlin stayed and discussed the design, again noting that the Westland Kroger is a good example.

Frankel said the Westland Kroger uses too much brick. "We think brick is way overbearing," he said. "It looks like a fortress or something."

unsupervised in stairwells involved in intimate, hands-on activity with each other?

"Since these high schools have a closed campus, you won't see students at the fast food restaurants on Ann Arbor Road, right? Guess again. You'll see dozens."

Gregg is asking for public dialogue on the subject.

"We as adults should be in charge. It should be the adults who make rules and then enforce them for the benefit of everybody. These are kids we are dealing with, the kids of this community. They don't intimidate me, and they shouldn't intimidate anyone in this room."

Gregg said that if his own children, currently in elementary and middle school, had to enroll at a Plymouth-Canton community high school tomorrow, "we would turn and look elsewhere. We could not in good conscience send our kids to a school that is unwilling to put in place measures to change some areas that are so obviously wrong."

Gregg said Superintendent Charles Little responded to his concern by saying that if the issue surfaces in an upcoming survey of the community, it will be addressed.

Gregg said Little misses the point. Not everyone in the community is aware of conditions at PCEP.

"If the postal service surveyed me about mail being thrown away and I didn't know about it, how could I respond?" he asked.

A citizen at the first meeting at which Gregg addressed the board "told me everything you said was right, but no one is going to do anything about it," Gregg told trustees. "this is the way it has been, and nothing is going to change."

Gregg said he's spoken with "lots of people, and students themselves, and not one has said they are happy with the situation." But people are afraid to speak up, he added.

"Please don't let your silence be your message," Gregg told trustees.

Board president David Artley told Gregg that the "request has gone to the superintendent in a laundry list, in part related to this issue. We have all visited the campus and are aware of things that are going on there. We'll pick a time when it fits and then discuss it."

Trustee Barbara Graham said Gregg raises an issue "I was concerned about when I first took office." She said her concerns "seemed to fall on deaf ears."

Board vice president Mark Horvath said he favors "public conversation amongst ourselves, but I would like to do it from a position of knowledge; not opinion. But I don't want to let this drop."

Trustee Jack Farrow said, "As one who has a son heading to Canton High School next year, this is of interest to me."

Trustee Sue Davis said this is a "community problem. We need to have parents who will support new rules. It's rough when parents believe adolescents over adults. We do need our community behind us."

Trustee Carrie Blamer suggested involving students as the issue is studied. "They might have some input that would make a transition period easier," she said.

Former Plymouth mayor and audience member Bob Jones said he hopes the board follows through with whatever policy might be set. "A goal without a plan is a waste. That's important," he said. Jones said he wishes things "were a little more open" so that Gregg wouldn't have had to rely on local newspapers for information about this

Polish Easter ritual egg-cites area kids

By M.B. Dillon
Staff Writer

For more than 1,000 years, Easter among the Polish has been made all the more festive with the presence of colorfully and intricately designed Pascal eggs. And you needn't travel to Poland to learn the famous folk art of "Pisanki."

Just ask Canton's Paul and Marcia Dobbs, who with their 10-year-old daughter Emily are decorating their own Pascal eggs.

They learned the craft in a course given last week by John Sidor under auspices of the Mala Wisla Polish Folk Dance ensemble of Plymouth.

Sidor's wife Mariola Sidor, who hails from Warsaw, Poland, is well-schooled in the art form as well. "The egg itself is considered to be a symbol of life," she said. "It's connected to resurrection and the spring season, because it is linked with rebirth and the awakening of spring from winter sleep. Also, we believe Christ was resurrected, so there is a life after death."

For 15 years, John Sidor was director of the Galicja Polish-American song and dance ensemble in Detroit. When the family moved to Plymouth several years ago,they established the Mala Wisla dance group for children. Sidor continues to teach folk dance at a Detroit parish.

Sidor's classes embrace more than dance.

"We tease John, and tell him he is teaching us how to be more Polish. He tells stories about Poland all the time. That's why we like it so much. He is so knowledgeable about it," said Marcia Dobbs with a laugh. Paul Dobbs is 100 percent Polish, and Marcia is Polish as well. "This is the second year we've taken this, and we just love it! John organizes the crafts, and wants to do cooking too."

The Polish use varying techniques to decorate eggs. The Pisanki tradition uses beeswax, and an etching instrument Sidor makes himself called a kistka.

"You apply the beeswax on the egg by dipping (the heated kistka) into the dyes," said Mariola. "You start with the lightest colors, and apply designs, going from color to color, from light to dark."

Sidor has made his own Pisanki kits for more than 20 years.

Learning Pisanki has been gratifying for the Dobbs. "My husband was raised in a Polish household, but his mom never did this particular form of dying Easter eggs," said Marcia Dobbs.

The Dobbs chose traditional symbols for their eggs, both Polish and American. They've drawn connecting lines to symbolize eternity; chickens to represent the fulfillment of wishes; and trees for eternal youth and health.

The flower expresses love and charity; the deer wealth and prosperity; the sun good fortune; the cross Christianity; and the triangle the Holy Trinity. "The last one is an eight-pointed star, to symbolize an ancient pagan sun god," said Dobbs. Emily's egg is decorated with a bunny. "She calls it her American-Polish Easter egg," her mother said. "She just loves doing this. She's really glad she learned it."

The eggs are dyed at medium temperatures while raw. "You can't cook them or hollow the egg because the shell gets too fragile. In six months or a year, the insides dry out and just disappear. Then it feels like a porcelain egg. It's a natural process," said Dobbs. "John was showing us eggs that are 10 and 15 years old, and they are just so delicate, but just wonderful."

Marcia Dobbs says Pisanki is a craft everyone can enjoy. "Whether you are Polish or not, it's a nice thing to do," she said. "We just appreciate John getting the group going. We enjoy his weekly meetings."

The Mala Wisla group meets from 7 p.m. — 9 p.m. p.m. Wednesdays at the Oddfellows Hall, 344 Elizabeth and Ann Arbor Trail next door to Laurel Furniture.

Man acquitted of rape charge

By Ralph R. Echtinaw
Staff Writer

Canton Township resident Raymond McQueen was found not-guilty of rape charges Friday, March 22, in Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Cynthia Hathaway's courtroom.

McQueen, now 31, had been charged with first-degree criminal sexual conduct after an incident involving a topless dancer in November 1993, said Canton Police Detective Gerry Hardesty.

McQueen met the dancer at Henry VIII, a Garden City topless bar where the dancer worked, Hardesty said.

Defense attorney Paul Dillon said McQueen paid $60 to get the dancer out of the bar. They went to another bar, then to McQueen's home in Canton.

Dillon said the dancer went willingly with McQueen into a dilapidated camper attached to the back of a pick-up truck at his place.

An argument ensued over the dancer's fee, Dillon said, and she left and called police.

"I think the jury realized what was going on," Dillon said. McQueen did not return the Observer's phone calls.

Canton man charged in beating

Dean Wheatcraft, 36, of Canton was charged with assault with intent to commit murder Sunday, March 31, in connection with the severe beating of another man in a Sherwood mobile home park trailer.

Wheatcraft was charged by 24th District Court Judge Michael Russell at the Third Circuit Court Annex in Wayne. A $50,000, 10 percent bond was set, but not posted, said Detective Dave Schreiner.

Wheatcraft is accused of beating a 27-year-old man on the head and arms with a baseball bat at about 12:45 a.m. Sunday in the trailer he shared with a 35-year-old woman.

The woman said Wheatcraft had been drinking vodka before going after the victim with a bat inside the mobile home.

Both victim and assailant left the mobile home on foot after the assault, according to the police report.

The victim was found in the street and taken by Canton firefighters to Annapolis Hospital, then airlifted to the University of Michigan Hospital with a fractured arm and serious head injuries.

The police report said that the woman and victim were intoxicated.

Suspected suicide

Canton police found a dead man from Wayne in a field near the railroad tracks west of Hannan in the southeast corner of the township Sunday morning March 31.

The man was slumped against the outer compound fence of Woodland Meadows on the north side of the railroad tracks. A 12-gauge, Fox Savage double-barrel shotgun was found on the ground between the man's legs. "I saw blood on his overhauls, chest area and blood dripping from his nose," the officer wrote.

One shell of No. 4 shot had been discharged from the shotgun, and the man had a large exit wound in the back of his head.

Shoplifting

The manager of Sagebrush, a clothing store on Ford Road, told police that an employee deliberately turned her back and ignored a friend, who stole $320 worth of clothing March 25.

Two pair of pants, 10 shirts, one pair of shorts and one hat were taken, according to the police report. Police are looking for the suspect.

In a separate incident, a 17-year-old Belleville youth was stopped by Meijer security agents March 29 for trying to steal a halogen bulb worth $17 and a package of lug nuts worth $42, according to the police report.

Dumping

Canton police cited two men for dumping after they got a rented truck stuck in a field west of Lotz Road on the east side of the township March 31.

Police discovered the 1979 Ford F350 U-Haul truck stuck on an overgrown two-track road 50-70 feet from Lotz.

"The location of the truck is often used for dumping trash," according to the police report.

Police found a load of old shingles in the back of the truck.

As they were preparing to remove the truck, police were approached by two men who said they had rented the truck and got stuck looking for the entrance to "the dump."

Court to hear 9-1-1 fee lawsuit

A hearing on the lawsuit brought by the Wayne County Taxpayers Association over a charge for emergency 9-1-1 service on phone bills is set for 11 a.m. May 3 in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Members of the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of elected officials from 18 western Wayne communities, voted in February to enter the suit on side of the defendant, Wayne County.

Circuit Court Judge Andrea Ferrara granted the CWW 's motion to intervene in the case on March 15.

The Wayne County Taxpayers Association filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court in 1995 against Michigan Bell, which operates as Ameritech, and Wayne County, saying that the collection of 9-1-1 fees on the monthly phone bill violates the state constitution because it is a new or expanded tax without voters' approval. The original suit did not name the Conference of Western Wayne, but the conference is a coordinator of the fees raised.

"Our fear in the case is that our interests are not protected," Dan Gilmartin, executive director of the CWW, said when the conference voted to enter the case.

Ferrara dismissed Ameritech Jan. 19, at the company's request, from being a party to the suit. Ameritech collects the fee on phone bills, but was directed to do so after the Wayne County Commission voted to impose the charge in late 1994.

The CWW coordinates distribution of the money collected. The money is spent on 9-1-1 systems, which answer emergency police, fire and medical calls in Wayne County. Local departments administer the money.

It brings in about $170,000 a month in western Wayne County, Gilmartin said.

The fee is being collected in a number of counties, not just Wayne County, Gilmartin said.

The basic fee is 48 cents, but can be a lot higher in some out-county areas, he said. It is listed under local and state additional charges as the 9-1-1 emergency system billed for western Wayne on Ameritech phone bills.

In December, Ferrara denied a motion by the taxpayers' association to stop the collection of the fee until the case is heard.

Teachers get a hands-on look at business

By M.R. Dillon
Staff Writer

Nine Plymouth-Canton teachers left Clean Air Technology armed with interesting facts about "clean rooms" designed in Canton and built in electronics, aerospace and pharmaceutical companies the world over.

Their tour guide was Frank X. Austin, a Plymouth resident who started the multi-million dollar company in his basement in 1980.

Last week's after-school visit came part of the second annual Business Education Connection Day.

"I teach computer applications, and learning what types of applications are used in business helps me prepare kids for the real world," said Barbara Macek, business teacher at Salem High School.

The Business-Education Partnership is a cooperative effort of the Canton and Plymouth chambers of commerce and the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. The program nurtures the link between local businesses and schools in order to prepare students for the world of work, said Betty Block, who coordinates the partnership.

Other teachers who learned plenty about clean rooms included Bill Kelp, health teacher at Salem; Don Chamberlain, Salem history teacher; Sharon Lang, Salem English teacher; Sharon Caldwell, Salem science teacher; Jacqueline Young, Central Middle School math teacher; Jane Bedouin, East Middle School English, careers and creative skills teacher; Jan Cagney, Salem English teacher, and Ellie Schaumberg, resource room teacher at East Middle School.

Clean Air Technology builds clean rooms according to federal standards. A "class one" clean room, suitable for the making of state-of-the-art pentium computer chips, is so clean it contains no more than one particle per cubic foot of air. And that particle is no larger than .3 microns in size.

Austin advised teachers to tell students that "what they do in school will affect them the rest of their lives. If they don't apply themselves, they will be passed over. Tell them even if they don't want to, do it anyway. Send them over here and I'll tell them. They have to learn computers and math."

Clean Air Technology's clean rooms — which carry price tags of $17,000 up to $10 million — are in use throughout the U.S., and in countries including China, Singapore, Taiwan, Malaysia, and Hong Kong.

A New York native and University of Detroit engineering graduate, Austin has built clean rooms for NASA in the Kennedy Space Center and in Huntsville, Ala. His technology assists the Chinese ministry of health in testing for AIDS.

Austin — who designed his first clean room during the Vietnam War in Da Nang, and received the Air Force's highest non-combat award, a commendation medal, for doing so — said he was "glad for the opportunity to help teachers.

"They need to get students to learn how to think," he said. "Kids need to realize what they

School boundaries hearing scheduled

Proposed changes in school attendance boundaries will be considered by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education at 7 p.m., Monday, April 22 at Bentley Elementary, 1100 Sheldon in Canton.

The changes, which would affect an estimated 326 students, are being suggested to help accommodate residential growth in Canton and Plymouth townships.

The new boundaries are the recommendations of the school district's housing committee. They were discussed at public hearings attended by more than 200 people in recent weeks.

"About 60 speakers presented many proposals for solutions," Superintendent Charles Little told the board Monday night.

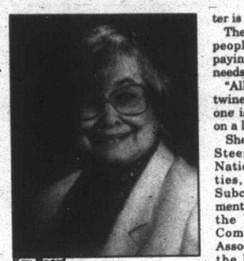
Beard to seek 10th term on county board



Kay Beard

Wayne County Commission Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, has filed for re-election.

She represents District 12, which also includes Garden City and Inkster. A four-year resident of Westland, she lived for 38 years in Inkster.

"With so many employers downsizing but at the same time seeking higher skilled employees, strategies like the School-to-Work program are critical to Wayne County residents. I have made job creation, job retention and job re-training activities among my most important projects this term," Beard said.

Beard has worked at the local, state and federal level on School-to-Work programs.

Job training to keep workers competitive in the global market is also an issue, she said. Schools need to train students to compete and workers need to understand that there is a need for constant re-training, she said.

Another issue facing the county commission includes development, Beard said. She cited the recently approved Inkster Valley Golf Course planned for Inkster and Westland and the work being done to find a plan for the county-owned Northville Township property.

Health care is another issue Beard sees as important. She fought to keep Wayne County General Hospital open years ago, and still sees the lack of a trauma center in western Wayne County as a major issue.

With the airport and major freeways the potential for disaster is always nearby, she said.

The crime rate and its link to people's inability to get good-paying jobs is also an issue that needs attention, she said.

"All these issues are so intertwined, when you're working on one issue you're really working on a lot of them," she said.

She serves on the Employment Steering Committee of the National Association of Counties, chairs the Job Training Subcommittee of the Employment Steering Committee, chairs the Labor and Management Committee for the Michigan Association of Counties and on the board of the Out-Wayne County School-to-Work Partnership.

Last fall, Beard was appointed by Secretary of labor Robert B. Reich and Secretary of Education Richard W. Riley to the National Advisory Council for School-to-Work Opportunities.

The 40-member council was established to advise the Departments of Labor and Education on the School-to-Work Opportunities Act of 1994. The goal of the School-to-Work Act is to create learning systems throughout the country to help all students master the academic and technical skills they need.

A widow with five children and five grandchildren, Beard is also active in community groups. She is on the board of directors of United Way Community Services, is immediate past chair of the Blue Cross Blue Shield advisory council, is immediate past chair of Metro Matrix which serves seven or eight agencies; is an officer in the Westland Business and Professional Women Club and is also active in the Democratic Party serving as president of the Michigan Democratic County Officials organization and is a member of all three Democratic clubs of the cities she serves and of the 13th District.

"I think that the kinds of things I have been involved in impact people at all levels," she said.

Dems to honor Justice Boyle

Justice Patricia J. Boyle of the Michigan Supreme Court will be the special tribute honoree at the Roosevelt Dinner sponsored by the 11th Congressional District Democratic Committee on Sunday, April 21.

The 11th Congressional District includes Redford Township and part of Livonia.

The Roosevelt Dinner will be held at the Botsford Inn, 28000 Grand River, Farmington Hills, with cocktails and music beginning at 5 p.m. followed by dinner and the program at 6 p.m.

Tickets are $50 and may be obtained by calling (810) 615-9119 or (313) 591-3737, or by writing to the 11th Congressional District Democratic Committee, 32707 Cloverdale, Farmington 48336.

State Sen. Gary Peters, D-Pontiac, will be the keynote speaker.

"Justice Boyle has served the people of Michigan as a member of the Supreme Court since 1983 with distinction. Her fair-minded approach to the law and insightful opinions deserve our recognition and appreciation," 11th District Chair Vicki Barnett said.

Boyle graduated first in her class from Wayne State University Law School in 1963. She is a former Wayne County prosecuting attorney and served as a judge on the Detroit Recorder's Court and Federal District Court before her appointment to the Michigan Supreme Court by Gov. James Blanchard.

Boyle was rated the second-most respected jurist among Michigan's federal and state judges in the April 1990 Michigan Lawyers Weekly poll of more than 1,500 attorneys.

Peters was elected to the Michigan Senate in 1994 from the 14th District, which is made up of Southfield, Pontiac and Bloomfield Township.

A graduate of Wayne State University Law School, Peters also holds an MBA in finance from the University of Detroit.

The co-chairs of the Roosevelt Dinner are Deborah Goldberg of Farmington and Alan C. Helmkamp of Livonia.

SC students eligible for scholarships

Schoolcraft College students transferring to Michigan State University are eligible to win a $500 scholarship, awarded by the Michigan State University-Western Wayne County Alumni Association.

Applicants must be current Schoolcraft College students or graduates, with a minimum of 50 credits, and transferring to MSU in the fall 1996 semester. They must submit a statement of no more than 200 words explaining career goals and how an MSU degree will help meet those goals. Applicants also must include a copy of all college transcripts with the application.

Awards will be based on academic achievement and contributions to the community and college.

Applications are available at Schoolcraft's Marketing and Development or counseling offices and must be submitted to Marketing and Development, in the Administration Building, by Friday, May 3.

Central Park

Design needs improvement

At 680 acres, the proposed Central Park planned development district will be one of the township's largest projects, especially for western Canton.

There is no wonder then that the Canton Planning Commission sent developers back to the drawing board to tweak the design of the development trgeted between Cherry Hill and Geddes roads, extending west from Beck Road to just west of Denton Road.

The concept of the design calls for attached and detached condominiums, single-family houses on a variety of lot sizes, two clubhouses and about 250 acres of open space. Seventy-one acres of that open space would be devoted to another township-operated golf course, a 41-acre public park to be developed into soccer fields or other active recreation, as well as wetlands and uplands that would be connected by pathways.

With all that to consider, the planning commission was right in delaying approval of the preliminary plan for the project. The design for the housing appeared compressed to make room for the open space, particularly the golf course.

As Canton Supervisor Tom Yack so aptly stated, "It's got to be a good design. We can't let the possibility of a golf course or open space drive the design."

He's right. While a golf course is always a bonus feature, it shouldn't reign above the design of the subdivisions that families will eventually call home. Care should also be taken with the 41 acres that are expected to be designated as a public park for active recreation and how that affects nearby residents within the development and along Denton Road.

Central Park would not be your ordinary subdivision. It is a planned development district, which results in a negotiated agreement between developers and township officials. A PDD allows flexibility in design and encourages preservation of natural amenities, such as wetlands and woodlands. The agreement spells out the details of the plan.

With upwards of 930 housing units in the proposed development, extra care should be taken in the design to give future homeowners the best there is while preserving the best of the area's natural features. No one wants to deny developers a tidy profit, but it shouldn't be at the expense of homeowners' comfort. Special care should be given to density. On a quick look, the single-family lots looked like a grid for a metropolis.

Developers still appear uncertain about a plan for storm water management, particularly with the golf course. One of the proposed subdivisions is also sliced in half between the Plymouth-Canton and Van Buren schools districts. That may not be a problem on paper, but it's a problem for the families who will live there and whose children will make friends in the neighborhood.

Canton has many well-designed neighborhoods. But one this size deserves special attention. Canton deserves it.

State: Rethink lifer policy

The Corrections budget is eating into money that would be better spent on education and natural resources. ...The Legislature needs to re-think its hard-nosed "throw away the key" policy.

The overly-heavy fist of Michigan's drug laws came smashing down again as the state Supreme Court, by one vote, decided Thomas J. Ryan must spend the rest of his life in prison without hope of parole.

Without question, Ryan deserved some time locked away from society. But between the machinations of law enforcement and the narrowness of the Supreme Court's 4-3 decision, he got the worst possible break a human could get.

On March 22, 1987, Ryan was arrested with a kilogram (2.2 pounds) of cocaine in a Livonia motel by federal agents backed up by local police. Said the Supreme Court: "Federal agent Hubert Coleman questioned defendant at the scene and told him that if he cooperated with the federal investigation, agent Coleman would pursue federal rather than state charges."

To Ryan it was a good deal. A state court conviction would mean mandatory life in prison; a federal conviction, two to three years behind bars. That is an immense difference. It's too big a difference. We have suggested before, and suggest again, that Michigan's law is reminiscent not so much of firmness as an enraged bull.

At this point, the story becomes murky. Ryan attempted to contact attorney Kenneth Cockrel, who was unavailable. Attorney James Feinberg responded to Ryan's call. Feinberg said he wouldn't represent Ryan if Ryan cooperated with federal authorities. Cockrel arrived next day to represent Ryan but found that the "deal" with the federal agent was off.

So Ryan was convicted in the state court.

The state Court of Appeals found Ryan had made a prima facie case of "governmental vindictiveness" and sent the case back to Detroit Recorder's Court. The trial judge found: "DEA agents, particularly supervising agent Hubert Coleman, indulged in a forbidden form of forum shopping in this instance." And so the trial judge found Ryan's 14th amendment due process rights were violated.

The Court of Appeals upheld the trial judge. Prosecutor John O'Hair appealed to the Supreme Court.

Justice Elizabeth Weaver wrote the opinion in favor of the prosecutor, saying O'Hair "had an independent authority to pursue charges against this defendant regardless of any 'deal' suggested by the federal agent." Weaver said the "vindictiveness of one sovereign is not normally chargeable" to another. In other words, the county prosecutor did nothing improper.

Weaver was joined by Chief Justice James Brickley and Justices Dorothy Comstock Riley and Patricia Boyle. Thus, a single vote meant the difference between three years and life in prison.

Dissenting were Justices Charles Levin, Michael Cavanagh and Conrad Mallett Jr. "It was the United States government, not the Wayne County prosecutor, who violated Ryan's rights," they said.

Michigan is struggling with overcrowded prisons. The Corrections budget is eating into money that would be better spent on education and natural resources. It's tragic that so thin a set of events would doom a man to life in prison. The Legislature needs to re-think its hard-nosed "throw away the key" policy.

Beautiful, not practical"

A beautiful building – yes. A great senior facility room – yes. But here the compliments stop. It is not that the planners of this building were not made aware of the needs for parking facilities for the seniors and handicapped persons – they were, constantly. But the need for outward, spectacular beauty was put ahead of practicality.

Now we have a great senior facility, but a lot of our seniors are unable to get into the building because of the long walk from the parking lot. One suggestion made was to have a shuttle service from the parking lot. Apparently the people coming up with this idea are not aware that it is as difficult for some of our seniors to get in and out of a vehicle as it is to walk a great distance.

We have a beautiful building, so letsput aside a little of the unnessary trimmings and make it possible for our seniors to enjoy their federally funded facility.

Wait to make your choice

We have received many calls from local residents who are hearing a lot of inaccurate information about our cable plans. We are submitting the following for your letters to the editor column, to clarify the status of our cable TV service plans.

Don't sign away your cable TV choice.

Ameritech is just weeks away from offering local residents their first ever choice of cable TV. We expect to begin offering our new Americast home entertainment services in some parts of town later this spring. You can look forward 80 to 90 channels, including more than 10 premium entertainment channels.

After paying little attention to your needs for many years, the local cable monopoly suddenly is trying to buy your loyalty by discounting its prices. Their goal is to hook you into a long-term contract. Sure, the deal is better than what you had before – but where were they before Ameritech expressed an interest in offering you a better cable value.

Don't be in a hurry to sign away your chance for cable TV choice. Wait until you can make an informed decision. I promise you Ameritech will offer you an exciting alternative that will give you the best value for your cable dollar. We look forward to earning your business with compelling programming and the high-quality service that you deserve.

What a surprise

What a surprise to realize that someone else remembers there being a vote on a recreational center — a vote that resulted in an emphatic no with regard to our tax dollars. Then they went ahead with their plans anyway, explaining that "tax" dollars would not be used, rather "revenues" from the landfill and golf course.

I thought it rather odd that, in the end, all monies weren't considered our "tax dollars." I also wondered what expenses the landfill and golf course revenues had previously covered and what would happen to those. I finally gave up and stopped harping on this because it was going to happen regardless; I was sounding like sour grapes.

We don't have a membership, but I certainly hope at this point that the Summit is successful and self-supporting so that Canton funds aren't diverted from other projects.

Terri Harleton,

We need change

How I wish I could express myself as Michael Olin did in the Observer. His column was a masterpiece. It reflected the opinion I, and many other people, have had of this administration. When we voted down the spending of township money for this community center, we expected the integrity of our elected officials to honor this mandate. Instead we were regarded as too stupid to know what we wanted, by Yack, his henchmen, and Mr. Bennett, and the empire building monument, to themselves, went on.

Most of the citizens will never use this facility, or any of the other facilities and many of us could not afford to use them, if given the opportunity.

It's time for the voters to wake up and express themselves. We need change.

Thanks again for people like Michael Olin.

GUEST COLUMNIST

SCOTT HEINZMAN

Odds are eight in 10 that a person will acquire a disability at some point in their life. Even if one doesn't become disabled oneself, someone you know and love will.

For many of us who have disabilities, it is imperative to bring forth the issues facing the disability community. Our issues are really everybody's issues. But it is difficult to make headway in a society whose policy makers are, in general, not disabled — yet.

One major issue is "institutional bias." Institutional bias refers to a mandate by the federal government that each state's Medicaid program provide institutional long-term care for people with disabilities. Home-based, consumer-directed care is optional. In other words, states are required to pay for nursing home care for those who qualify for Medicaid. States are not required to pay for care that one has in their home. Consequently, many people are economically forced to move into a nursing home due to characteristics of their disability(s).

Recently, a guest columnist wrote to say nursing homes are largely good places to live. The writer worked for the industry and was attempting to do some damage control. In a relatively short span of time, three nursing home residents at separate facilities had wandered outside and died of exposure.

What this writer was trying to say, was that these were isolated incidents and that these bad apples weren't representative of the industry. I strongly disagree. Resident abuse is a common occurrence in most nursing homes.

The current environment stacks the deck in favor of nursing homes. Families increasingly require two incomes to survive. As people acquire disabilities due to aging, disease or accident, their family members are unavailable to assist them because they can't afford to stay home and provide care.

In Michigan, there is a program called Home Help Service (HHS). HHS provides dollars for qualified Medicaid recipients to hire their own help in their own home. This allows some people to avoid institutionalization and reduces stress on the family.

Michigan spends about $93 million on per year on HHS and over $650 million for nursing home care. This 7.1 ratio is partly attributable to institutional bias.

One group working to end institutional bias is ADAPT (American Disabled for Attendant Programs Today). ADAPT's national goal is to redirect 25 percent of Medicaid dollars away from institutions and into consumer directed, home-based long term care.

Major opposition at diverting Medicaid dollars away from nursing homes comes from the professional association for nursing homes, the American Health Care Association.

AHCA speaks for a $60 billion-plus industry with 16 full-time lobbyists in Washington. Two thirds of nursing homes revenues, over $40 billion, come from tax dollars via Medicaid (60 percent) and Medicare (8 percent).

AHCA agrees there needs to be more money available for home care, but not at their expense. While ADAPT and ACHA lock horns, one wonders where the public stands on this important issue. Where do other disability organizations stand on this? What about the medical profession?

Personally, I'm surprised there isn't more clamor to maximize personal independence and minimize the restraint of institutionalization.

The contrast between the two in terms of effect on the individual are startling. The person who lives in the community and has control over their affairs tends to be complacent.

To me, institutions promote existence, not living. But I share ADAPT'S opinion: Let the individual decide with a dollar for dollar option. Other disability issues include assisted suicide, unfunded mandates and the Americans with Disabilities Act, health care and welfare reform, and mass transit, to name a few.

These issues affect our whole society, not just people with disabilities. I am gathering people from western Wayne County interested in disability issues together to dialogue with future intent of community organizing and advocacy. If interested, please call me after noon at (313) 462-2423.

College assessment consists of more than grades

GUEST COLUMNIST

PAUL STEMMER

As high school seniors think about college they are probably wondering what they are going to get out of it. With the increasingly chancing job markets, more non-traditional students (the parents, homemakers, assembly-line workers) are also going to college. Most college students are very aware that a college degree increases (but does not guarantee) their earning power. They sometimes forget that to increase their earning power they must increase their learning power, that's the real bottom line in today's world. As our society begins to rapidly change, students who can learn quickly and adapt will be most successful. An emphasis on understanding what and how students have learned and is more important than ever.

People have the right to ask what they are getting for their money. From research, we know that quality management methods improve the quality of programs and help lower costs. Most colleges such as Madonna University are committed to improving quality, keeping tuition costs down.

Colleges offer more sophisticated levels of learning and therefore require a more sophisticated approach to assessing the outcomes of college graduates. Madonna University's College of Continuing and Professional studies recently hosted its fifth annual conference on assessment with more than 100 participants from public and private universities from as far as Chicago. Two major initiatives were discussed, quality management programs for continuous improvement and anew innovative assessment requirement by the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges (NCA) which accredits all colleges and universities in the Midwest. NCA now requires all colleges to measure and report on achievement of educational goals a part of accreditation.

Universities in the United States are among the best in the world. People from all over the world come to study here. Its international reputation is beyond reproach. Our strength is in our diversity of programs.

The NCA has been recommending a sophisticated approach that lets colleges identify what they think are the most important programs, assess and create reports.

Madonna University has taken this one step further by adding a continuous improvement process. For example, between 97-100 percent of the Madonna's nursing graduates pass the national licensing exam on their first try. We continue to work towards a consistent 100 percent passing, but we will not stop there. We set our standards higher than the test.

The reputation of our graduates on job performance aids more in their success than passing the exam. Both measures are necessary.

The purpose of a college degree is not only to provide a highly skilled work force but to educate people to understand the history, the powerful ideas, and the culture of people in the United States and throughout the world.

We know from the lessons of history that a well-rounded education prepares students for a dramatically changing world.

The fundamental question universities must anticipate and address is: "Are we preparing students to meet the challenges of the 21st century?" These challenges will be both technical and ethical.

Universities will still maintain traditions of knowledge in history, religion, social understanding, sciences and arts, while they must also link more closely to the immediate needs of employers. This will be a difficult and intricate tasks.

Universities cannot rest on their laurels, they cannot escape the quality assessment movement and they will have a much harder task defining and measuring progress. Just like the assessment movement that has been ongoing in our K-12 programs, there seems to be no turning back.

College and universities will be taking a more in depth look at themselves which will help keep high higher education on top by offering increasingly better environments in which to learn. This renewed emphasis on assessment should also help our students become more flexibility and adaptable learners that are prepared to enter the 21st Century.

Paul Stemmer, Ph.D., is the current president of the Michigan Educational Research Association and is director of the Center for Research at Madonna University in Livonia.

State budget politics won't amount to a thing

TIM RICHARD

First, our lawmakers have used budget bills to try for non-budget results — more liberal gun rules and fiscal disapproval of unnatural partnerships. Other, cleaner bills that would achieve the same results are stuck in committees. In effect, the lawmakers have bypassed the public hearing and committee procedures by making quick-and-dirty amendments to spending bills.

The best way to understand the Michigan Legislature's $30 billion budget game is to think of Junior's allowance.

Suppose Junior gets $10 a week. That's his, for whatever he needs, be it lunches or school supplies or kite repairs.

But then you decide you don't entirely trust Junior's discretion, so you attach some conditions: He can't go to a certain kind of movie; he can't buy a candy bar for a certain girl of which you disapprove. Got the picture?

It's a messy picture. Do you trust him or not? If not, why give him the money in the first place?

Our heroes and heroines in Lansing twice last week played that kind of game:

- In the State Police budget, the House inserted part of Rep. Alan Cropsey's handgun liberalization bill. The amendment tells the State Police representative on three-member county gun boards to vote yes on all handgun permits except where the applicant is a convicted felon or certifiable loony.
- In the university and community college budgets, the Senate added Sen. Bill Schuette's amendment that cuts their state aid if they pay health benefits to the homosexual or lesbian partners of employees.

We have some messy bills.

First, our lawmakers have used budget bills to try for non-budget results — more liberal gun rules and fiscal disapproval of unnatural partnerships. Other, cleaner bills that would achieve the same results are stuck in committees. In effect, the lawmakers have bypassed the public hearing and committee procedures by making quick-and-dirty amendments to spending bills.

Second, they are amending acts that have only a one-year life — the fiscal year from Oct. 1, 1996, to Sept. 30, 1997. In short, they have accomplished no permanent change in society's laws.

We in the media eat up such shenanigans. The debates provide colorful quotes about gun nuts and perverts, God's law and social norms.

The great unwashed public gets the impression that Cropsey, R-DeWitt, and Schuette, R-Midland, are in there fighting for America and the Bible.

Personally, I wouldn't mind seeing both proposals become law. Many county gun boards are a farce, controlled by police state zealots who want to disarm everybody but their own kind. And this "same-sex" marriage stuff is a fad that will go away and embarrass us when we see it in the history books 20 years from now.

But conscience compels me to reveal the truth: Neither amendment will make it into law. Each must go through a second chamber of the Legislature. Each must go through a conference committee when the two chambers pass different versions of the budget acts.

Then there's the most important hurdle of all. To take effect this year, a budget bill must get a two-thirds vote — 26 in the Senate, 74 in the House. Since the fiscal year begins Oct. 1, a two-thirds vote is necessary. No way will the pro-gun and anti-homosexual amendments survive.

Meanwhile, the gullible voters get misled, liberals and conservatives can get all revved up, politicians can get headlines and sound bites, and journalists can earn a living.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Sears seeks advice from local firm

A large corporation recently turned to a small Livonia company for information.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. employees paid a visit to Spring Engineering and Manufacturing Corp. of Livonia last month to see the Scanlon Plan of employee involvement in action.

Sears is interested in increasing employee involvement, according to Tim Tindall, owner of Spring Engineering.

Spring engineering has been using the Scanlon Plan for employee involvement for more than four years now, Tindall said.

Some 33 Sears people attended the one-day seminar, including executives from Chicago and store managers from across the eastern United States.

The Scanlon Plan dates back to the 1950s, and it gives employees a stake in the decision-making process, Tindall said.

Spring Engineering, with 85 employees, is an automated manufacturer of springs, stamping; wire forming and assemblies for the automotive industry.

The system is a culture change for a company, Tindall said. It's a different kind of working environment for the employee, he said.

A number of teams are set up, and there are a number of opportunities for employees to be involved. "We make a lot of decisions at the team level," Tindall said.

With the Scanlon system everybody has to participate in the business, Tindall said.

Employees are asked to be knowledgeable about the business and at monthly meetings are given all the financial information about the company, he said.

The movement has been around for a while, but it's not a huge movement because it's not an easy way to run a company, Tindall said.

"We think it's a better way to run a company," Tindall said. "We have a company where we've got everyone contributing to its success, not just five or six people."

Spring Engineering is a family-owned company, which has been in business since 1952 and in Livonia since 1979.

Even though Sears is a large corporation and Spring is a small one the ideas can cross over into any business, Tindall said.

"There was a lot of pride for all our people," he said.

An explanation: A Spring Engineering shipping department clerk explains the employee participation system to Sears executives and store managers.

Livonia arena will host MHS mutt derby April 28

If your dog loves to run, the Michigan Humane Society invites you to enter him in the 13th Annual Rosey's Grand Mutt Derby to be held at Eddie Edgar Sports Arena in Livonia.

Dogs of all shapes and sizes can compete in the 60-yard races to their owners. Competitors are divided into five categories based on size. The five class winners then compete for the Grand Mutt Championship.

Derby day is Sunday, April 28, and begins with check-in at noon. The races being at 1:30 p.m. All dogs must have a commercially accepted collar and leash and a state, county or city license. Proof of rabies, distemper and parvo virus vaccination is required at check-in.

Officials entry forms are available at any humane society location in Detroit, Westland or Rochester Hills. Entry fee is $7 a dog, and non-racers are invited to come watch for a general admission fee of $3. For more information, call (313) 872-3400.

All proceeds from the Mutt Derby will benefit the Michigan Humane Society, a non-profit organization.

Lesson in life to be learned

Pen and paper are what I'm using to write with today.

And as I write, this pen of mine is making gentle, smooth sounds as it moves across these white spaces, gradually filling them up. There's no staccato here, no tick like the keys on my computer. No evenly spaced words, all in a row, marching across the screen, predictable, and normal. Instead, with my pen and paper, I'm getting more "human" results. Results that are sometimes messy, sometimes indecipherable. But that's OK. The words are finding their way to paper.

I'm using a pen and tablet of paper today because they're portable and my computer is not. And today, portable is good. And so is catch-as-catch-can-able. And on-the-flyable. You see, unfragrant diapers, unread books, unfilled stomachs, unlaced shoes, unsolvable math problems, uncomplimented solos need changing, reading, filling, lacing, solving and complimenting. And that requires mobility.

And with the addition of our fifth child, baby Steven, I find myself doing just about everything on the fly, catch as catch can, packing in several activities all at once.

And so today it's pen and paper way. While stirring the ingredients for meatloaf with one hand, I can write with the other. While waiting at a traffic light, I can put a word or two in my notebook. And while nursing I can write, baby in one arm, pen in the other. It's certainly slower,

Book offers help for impaired

■ Twenty years ago, Gary Gaynor was told he had retinitis pigmentosa, that he would be totally blind in three years time. Today, he still retains some vision which he is putting to good use working with Kathleen Fleissner to publish a directory for the visually impaired.

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Gary Gaynor heads across the room, a prototype of a new resource manual in hand, but stops short of his mark. The recipient of the book has moved and he spends a few seconds scanning the area.

"Oh, there you are," he says, handing over the book. "You moved and I couldn't find you for a second."

It is an indication of the narrow view of the world that Gaynor has, caused by retinitis pigmentosa. While most people enjoy a field of vision that spans 180 degrees, his range is just 3 degrees.

In 1976, the Livonia resident was diagnosed with the chronic progressive eye disease. His doctor told him he would be blind in three years.

He was 22 and his first reaction was denial. He could still play sports and drive a car, but eventually the idea sunk in that he was losing his eyesight. Luckily, his doctor was wrong. Twenty years later, he is legally blind but still has some vision.

And during those two decades, he has found that there are many things available to improve the lives of the visually impaired, things he has most times discovered "by accident."

Command Central: Kathleen Fleissner joins Gary Gaynor in a bedroom turned command central for his work on their soon-to-be published Directory of Visually Impaired Services. The book will contain some 600 sources of services for people who are legally blind.

"I started finding things available to the visually impaired over the years; I have a friend who has a wife with reverse retinitis pigmentosa who had a friend who knew about closed circuit TV," said Gaynor. "When I did some therapy in 1991 I asked what was available and they gave an 8 1/2-by-11 sheet of paper, so since then, I've been collecting information."

"The experience that Gary had was that the things he found out about were by accident," added Kathleen Fleissner of Livonia. "All these sources, organizations, resources and activities have been created to help the visually impaired and they don't know they exist."

That is why Gaynor and Fleissner have teamed up to form The Visually Impaired Information Center, Inc., to publish a "Directory of Visually Impaired Services" they hope to have available to the public later this year. He serves as president, while she is vice president and publisher of the directory.

Goaliseducation

Their goal is to educate the estimated 147,000 severely visually impaired people in Michigan about the options and opportunities available to them.

"We don't claim to cover everything, but we hope once we get it out, people will call with more information," Fleissner said. "There's a Catch-22 for the visually impaired. You can't ask what's out there because you don't know who to ask. But once you get into the loop, it's incredible. That's why we want other people to get in the loop."

"This is not just to make sure that they get the services, but to let them know they're not the only one," said Gaynor. "Among my friends I was the only one."

With the help of the Livonia Highnooners Lions Club, which Gaynor joined in 1994, the duo began translating an idea into a first draft in last September. At the time, the list include 100 names, addresses and phone numbers. Within a month's time that number had jumped to 300, much of it the result of "making the right phone call." Now working on the third draft, they have a book containing some 600 sources.

"Had they (the Lions Club) not jumped on this last spring, we would still be bouncing around this idea," Gaynor said. "They've been wonderful."

Using large print DOS on his computer and a closed circuit monitor, Gaynor has created the database for the directory. They estimate they have put in a "phenomenal amount of time, thousands of hours easily" since starting the project, and are focusing on confirming directory information that, in some instances, is two to three years old.

'It can take four-five hours to confirm addresses because we're not only confirming that we want information on who we're talking to for a Visually Impaired Information Center. We want people to be able to call us.'

Gary Gaynor

"It can take four-five hours to confirm addresses because we're not only confirming that we want information on who we're talking to for a Visually Impaired Information Center," Gaynor said. "We want people to be able to call us once we have a business line, so we can give out information, but not recommendations."

Fleissner works as an account manager for TV Guide in Southfield and was in training for the biathlon when she met Gary through his best friend who also works for the magazine. They started talking and have been close ever since.

Gaynor doesn't let his poor vision deter his athletic pursuits. He does use a white cane to get around and relies on a guide – Fleissner – when he downhill skis as a member of the Optical Illusions Ski Club. He also water skis, rides a tandem bike, bowls, and plays beeper ball.

Varietyoftopics

With his interest in recreation, it's no wonder that the directory includes plenty of recreation, sports and camp listings. Other categories include books, magazines and libraries, education and rehabilitation; low vision aids, low vision doctors – optometrists, pediatricians and clinics – organizations, support groups and helpful hints. There's even information on gift catalogs for the visually impaired.

"It's tough on the families of visually impaired people," Fleissner said. "If I want to get Gary a gift, there's an area in the directory with catalogs where I can get him something."

"In putting the information together, we've come up with a lot of national numbers, a lot of out-of-state business and organizations," Gaynor added. "But this is geared for Michigan residents, so we hope that once we get the Michigan book up and running, we can expand."

Gaynor and Fleissner have been paying the bills for the directory, but are hoping to get donations to help defray expenses. They hope to print 10,000 copies and estimate a first mailing to 1,500.

With the help of the Highnooners, Gaynor has been visiting other Lions Club to talk about the directory and drum up support. They hope that with the help of the clubs and donations like the one they recently received from Joan Mackie of Redford they will be able to get the directory in circulation. Mackie's husband had advised her that if she ever could help Gaynor and Fleissner to do so.

"Everything we've done so far, we've financed," said Fleissner. "We don't even want to know how much we've spent. We've tried to keep it within reason, but we're at a point where we're getting bigger. We need postage and a phone line."

"In-kind contributions would also be greatly appreciated, especially printing and distribution," Gaynor said. "If you have 10 shoe boxes of envelopes sitting in the closet, we could sure use them."

The duo hopes to have the final draft done by August, in time to distribute at an upcoming convention for handicappers in Detroit. They also hope to enlist the aid of Lions Clubs, optometrists and schools in distributing it to visually impaired persons.

People interested in helping get the directory in print can write The Visually Impaired Information Center, Inc., at P.O. Box 51207, Livonia 48151-5207.

"This has become my second life," said Fleissner. "I wish this was my first life, I'd like to devote my life to this, but it doesn't pay the bills."

like I said, at times unpredictable and indecipherable. But that's fine. The words are finding their way. It's sort of like our baby Steven, I guess you could say.

Anyway, it's how the experts say. They say he won't be as fast at things, but he'll get there. And I know this. We'll help him and teach him and be there with him and be there with him just like we were, and are, for our other four children. That goes without saying. But you know, I read in the mountain of information given to me in the hospital after Steven's birth how as recently as the early 1900s babies born with Down syndrome were cast out and institutionalized. They were considered misfits. And these children lived, on average to the age of 9. I read that. And I cried. I cried for all those lost, gentle children who were never given a chance and who never enriched the lives and deepened the love of their families as Steven has already done for us in his six weeks.

This little baby has taught me more about life and philosophy and theology than all the undergrad and graduate courses I've ever taken, or could've taken, or would ever consider taking in the next million years.

Steven has taught me to view the world differently, I'm celebrating the take-for-granted of life. Like the steady beating of my child's heart that's to be celebrated. Experts say that from a third to one half of Down babies have serious heart defects. And here Steven received a clean bill of cardiology health when he was just one week old. The negative test results made me positively thankful. I'm positively thankful for dirty diapers. Imagine that – to be elated about that. But I am. Gastrointestinal abnormalities – blockages and such – affect 8-10 percent of Down babies. Steven, so far, is in the 90-92 percent group. Dirty diapers! Hurrah!

And beyond those things, there have been other take-for-granted types of things, physical trait things that are characteristic of babies with Down's, that had it not been for the doctors and other experts, we wouldn't have even noticed. For instance, nostril size. Babies with Down's frequently have smaller nostrils. And smaller ears. Which, indeed, look pretty cute. But there is a problem that goes hand-in-hand with his small ears (hand-in-hand with small ears? Sounds like a Picasso.) anyway, not only is the exterior of the ear smaller, but so are the internal structures of the ear which can lead to frequent ear infections. And then there are Steven's eyes with their gentle upward slant. And the doctors pointed out to me how the bridge of his nose is flatter, he has an extra crease in the palm of his hand, and extra skin covering the back of his neck. Speaking of extra, that's what they say Down syndrome is all about, an extra chromosome found in every cell of the body from the time of conception forward.

Scientists are still busying themselves trying to figure this extra chromosome, how it got there and all. Well, I already know. God was the one who put it there and He put it there to allow angels, so gentle and mild, to be on this earth of ours.

Magic Ride in need of volunteers

If you can ride a bike or walk a path, then you can collect pledges and help prevent child abuse in the community. So say the organizers of the 1996 Southeast Michigan Warm-Up Magic Ride/Walk for Kids.

Warm-Up Magic Ride/Walk is a bicycle fund raising tour that will be held 7 a.m. to noon on Saturday, May 4, at the Canton Township Recreational Complex on Canton Center Road south of Cherry Hill.

The Magic Ride/Walk is sponsored by the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County in cooperation with Magic Ride founder Debbie Stabenow and the Magic Ride Michigan Bicycle Tour.

New to this year's event is an .8 mile path for walkers, parents with strollers, children on tricycles or bicycles with training wheels. There also will be bike routes of 4, 14, 25 and 50 miles following scenic, paved roads in Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

The preregistration cost is $25 and includes a continental breakfast served at 9 a.m. the day of the Magic Ride/Walk. The on-site registration fee is $35. The preregistration deadline is April 25. Checks, payable to CAPCo, can be sent to the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County, 30000 Hiveley, Inkster 48141.

All registration fees and pledges collected directly benefit CAPCo and its educational programs.

Prime sponsor of the Magic Ride/Walk is the Charter Township of Canton.

People who wish to make a pledge without riding or walking contact the CAPCo which will have a designated rider to collect "wandering" pledges.

For further information, call the Child Abuse Prevention Council of Out-Wayne County at (313) 721-5901.

Writer has appreciation of culture

Dear Ms. Green,

On a recent episode of "Unsolved Mysteries," I watched the graphologist study the handwriting of Vince Foster. The study created an interest in my own handwriting. My age is 68 and I am right handed.

Hopefully, you will have an opportunity to analyze my handwriting. Thank you.

M.L.K.,
Rochester

On a recent episode of "Unsolved Mysteries" I watched the graphologist study the handwriting of Vince Foster. The study created an interest in my own handwriting. My age is 68 and I am right handed.

One of the first things to attract my attention is the beautiful placement of the handwriting on the page. Wide margins frame the handwriting like a picture. This tells us the writer has a strong sense of aesthetics. Seemingly, she has an appreciation of cultural expression taking an interest in music, art, literature and/or dance. Perhaps she may be expressing herself in these fields.

A well-rounded, mature person comes into focus as we study this handwriting sample. This is a woman whose feet are firmly planted on terra firma.

She is sentimental as a Victorian valentine. She probably wears her heart on her sleeve much of the time. Sad movies can bring a tear to her eyes and she can easily relate to the underdog.

She has learned that discipline is necessary for success in any endeavor in life. Her self-discipline is evident here. She sets challenging goals and can stay on target to achieve them. Augmenting this is the ability to work energetically. Hers is a strong sense of duty. And she is optimistic about her goals.

She has a penchant for organizing her daily routine and also the capacity to maintain her essential integrity. Efficiency is her hallmark, and she uses her time effectively.

The writer is intellectually oriented. Innate curiosity has her exploring and analyzing many areas. Her keen, active mind doesn't miss a trick. She can strip away the extraneous and get right down to the basics. She can also penetrate problems as they occur.

This is a talented woman who can do many things well, but is never too busy to be helpful to others.

She has an aversion to clutter. Her home would be tastefully done. Everything has a place and she is neat and clean. Her home would probably be open for inspection at all times.

Criticism of her personal self can be hurtful to her. Perhaps that is why she pays such careful attention to proper appearances.

The writer sincerely enjoys people and her interaction with them. She is a busy, active person with initiative and leadership talents. At this particular time, she may even be a tad overextended. However, I think this is unusual and not the norm.

Those around her know how conscientious and dependable she is. When she accepts a task she honors the commitment. Often she goes beyond the expected.

There are two additional positive traits that should be mentioned here. The first is her intuition which can furnish answers when logic does not. The second is her sense of humor. While she may not be the funny person herself, she appreciates the humor of others.

Her signature tells us she is the nice person in her private life as she is in public. Also she looks up to her husband with respect and admiration.

Scott is Young Careerist

Kimberly Scott strongly supports pay equity, equal treatment and economic equality in all areas for women.

The Livonia resident also believes that bias treatment in those areas would only do "a disservice to the country as a whole."

"Working women are continually contributing to the economic development of our country," she said. We should reward this with a positive, not hold women back with a negative. As a united work force, we have all to gain and nothing to lose."

Those are the thoughts Scott presented to judges en route to being selected as the Garden City Business and Professional Women's Club's Young Careerist.

At age 27, Scott is a detective sergeant on the Garden City Police Department, achieving the rank in the minimum number of years (five) to be promoted. She currently is the department's D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) officer, providing "a structured education program to the sixth grade student body" in the Garden City Public Schools.

"I set up the program for the department and in doing this, I have tried to develop a solid community base," said Scott, a Livonia resident. "D.A.R.E. has brought together the various community groups to help teach out young people about the dangers of drug use."

Scott is a graduate of St. Alphonsus High School in Dearborn. She will receive her bachelor's degree in police administration this spring from Madonna University , where she has been on the honors list for grade point and semester grades. She finished second in her class at the police academy and first on the police department's promotional examination.

She has received letters of merit for police service and has been nominated for Police Officer of the Year in Garden City, since joining the department in 1990.

Prior to becoming the police officer, she was employed by the Dayton Hudson Department Store Company as a loss prevention investigator.

Goals Scott has set for herself included first getting comfortable with her new position before pursuing graduate studies. She also would like to seek advancement within the police department and during the next 10 years foresees an opportunity for advancement.

The Young Careerist Program is sponsored by BPW/USA to highlight the achievement of men and women ages 25-35 who have been employed in business or the professions with at least one year of experience in the career area.

Kimberly Scott

A nominee must live, work or train in the area served by the state federation conducting the program and support the goals and objectives and legislative platform of the BPW/USA.

Bishop Brunett gets Dove Award

The former pastor of St. Aidan Church in Livonia will join the Michigan director of the Anti-Defamation League in receiving the 1996 Dove Award from the Ecumenical Institute for Jewish-Christian Studies.
The Most Rev. Alex J. Brunett and Richard H. Lobenthal have been selected as the 1996 recipients of the award, presented annually to individuals who have worked to foster understanding and acceptance among people of all faiths.
As founding trustees of the Ecumenical Institute, both honorees were instrumental in its establishment, actively guiding its work in its formative years and committing themselves to the ideals of interfaith work.
Born and educated in Detroit, Bishop Brunett served as pastor at St. Aidan's and Shrine of the Little Flower in Royal Oak. In 1994, he was appointed Bishop of Helena, Mont.
Bishop Brunett was director of the Division of Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs of the Archdiocese of Detroit as well as president of the National Association of Diocesan Ecumenical Officers.
Lobenthal is the Michigan director of the Anti-Defamation League. He has served on the faculties of Wayne State University, the University of Michigan and the University of Detroit.
A founding board member of the Michigan Coalition for Human Rights, Lobenthal also has been a member of numerous boards and consultant to police departments, schools and government agencies.
The two men will be honored at the third Dove Award Dinner Tuesday, April 26, at the Fairlanes Club in Dearborn. There will be a reception at 6 p.m., followed by the dinner program at 7 p.m.
A major fund raiser for the Ecumenical Institute, Dove Award Dinner tickets are priced at $150 each.
For more information or for tickets, call Barbara Yuhas, program director of the Ecumenical Institute, at (810) 353-2434.

ANNIVERSARIES

Sellards

A cruise to Alaska this summer is on tap for William and Charlotte Sellards of Redford, who are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple exchanged vows on Feb. 14, 1946, in Pikeville, Ky. She is the former Charlotte Pinion.

Thirty-two-year residents of Redford, the Sellardses also traveled to Florida in February as part of their celebration.

They have a married son, David, and wife Nancy of Redford.

Both have been retired for eight years. He worked as a carpenter, while she was employed by the Bendix Corp.

He enjoys woodworking and travel. She likes to sew and dress dolls for the Goodfellows and being with family and friends.

Megown

George and Arlene Megown of Livonia celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on March 6.

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, the former Arlene May Gray married George Joseph Megown of Painsville, Pa., on March 6, 1966, in Columbus, Ohio.

Ten-year residents of Livonia, they have five children and 10 grandchildren.

He has been employed by WDIV-TV for 27 years.

Rowland

Robert and Ardith Rowland will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on April 14 at a dinner with family and friends.

The couple was married in Seattle, Wash., on April 14, 1946, following his discharge from military service after World War II.

He is retired from NBD, Plymouth Branch, and she from Michigan Bell, Plymouth office. They both enjoy bowling and gardening.

Greenlee

Robert and Viola Greenlee of Livonia were joined by family and friends at a party to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

The Greenlees exchanged vows on March 23, 1946, in Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Detroit. She is the former Viola Gumas.

The couple has one daughter, Gail Zhmendak of Northville and two grandchildren, Bill, 19, and Christi, 15.

He is a 17-year retiree of the Department of Public Service.

VNA nurse earns honor

Mary Nakamura of Livonia has been awarded the Sidney E. Chapin Award in recognition of her continued clinical excellence home health care and her many contributions to the Visiting Nurse Association of Southeast Michigan.

Nakamura, who joined VNA 16 years ago as a staff registered nurse, advanced from field teacher to her current position as a rehabilitation and cardiac rehabilitation nurse.

Nakamura, who holds a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Eastern Michigan University, plans on using her award money to attend the 1996 National Rehabilitation Conference in November.

The award is named in honor of the late Dr. Sidney Chapin, VNA's past medical director and honorary trustee for almost 40 years. The award is given annually to a VNA nurse who has demonstrated outstanding commitment to excellence to pursue advance clinical training.

Dr. Chapin's 50-year career included serving as a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy during World War II and practicing medicine in New York City and Dearborn. After his death in 1993, his daughter and son-in-law, Mimi and Peter Gregory, initiated funding for the award.

VNA offers a wide range of nursing, therapeutic and personal care services in the home.

Newest technology and advanced performance footwear now available.

Flutterby enjoys clowning around

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Toni Patterson went through a lot of pain to achieve her goal of performing as "Flutterby" the clown during the Coca-Cola Royal Hanneford Circus at The Palace of Auburn Hills.

"The first year I was supposed to do it was three years ago. But three days before it opened, I had a bad accident and I crushed both of my ankles. I was in the hospital while they were doing circus," the Livonia resident said.

She was scheduled again for the following year, but her ankle, once again, got in the way. Patterson had to get her ankle fused and was in a cast during the performance. Finally, last year she accomplished her dream and Thursday, April 4-Sunday, April 7, she returns to The Palace to perform in The Royal Hanneford Circus.

"That was a dream of mine. Actually, I've fulfilled two of them. I performed at the White House in '92. Right now I'm working on getting into the schools with an anti-drug program and fire prevention," she explained.

Patterson said because it "is too serious of a matter to be clowning with," she'll appear as a magician.

"Through a magic show you can reach the kids and leave an impression that I feel is pretty neat. They hear their mom, dad, pastor, counselor and teachers (tell them about drugs and fire prevention) but if it's made entertaining, I think it makes a difference. It gets their attention,"

Clowning around has always been in Patterson's blood. She became a clown 11 years ago after reading the book "The Clown Ministry," attending classes in Redford and a clown camp at the University of Wisconsin.

Her name "Flutterby" comes from the original word for "Butterfly."

"A butterfly was originally called a flutterby. ... It also is the symbol of the ascension of Christ. That's how I came about my name."

Within her first year of being a clown, she won three awards. Besides the Hanneford Circus, Patterson performs at seminars, birthday parties, and occasionally Don Pedro's Mexican restaurant near Grand River and Telegraph. It's now her full-time job.

"I guess it's always been a dream of mine to be an entertainer. I can't sing and I can't dance, but I've always loved to dress up for Halloween parties. I'd always take first place for the most outlandish costume," Patterson said.

She hopes to make the audience at The Palace smile with a number of her skits including the "there's a fire in the kitchen,"

"It's a real cute skit. They (kids) love fast action. For some reason, they love fire and smoke, the sirens and the flashing lights."

Patterson said the Hanneford Circus provides a more hands-on approach for the children. There's face painting before and after and in between in the concourse. Kids can also go down and pet the elephants.

"It's my favorite circus. It's small and people can get more involved. You can get painted up in the concourse and all."

The Coca-Cola Royal Hanneford Circus, jointly owned and produced by Tommy and Struppi Hanneford, is the second largest circus in the United States. With its three performing units, the circus tours the country each year for 40 weeks.

Prior to forming their own shows, the Hannefords were circus superstars. Struppi was a multi-talented, award-winning performer – first, as an accomplished aerialist, and then as a high wire artist and tiger trainer. Tommy was known as "The Funniest Man on Horseback."

The Royal Hanneford Circus was created in 1768 in London, England. It was originally based on equestrianism and among other things introduced the clown. Tommy's act blended these elements.

On two occasions, Tommy's ancestors were invited to perform for royalty, once for George III and once for Victoria. Later, when the Hannefords came to America, the Prince of Wales attended one of their performances.

This year's show features "Splendors of the Orient" with a Chinese production starring the magic of Rai. Other acts include The Riding Fool, The Rodagils Flying Trapeze act, The Royal Hanneford Circus Elephants, The Marinof Duo, The Fabulous Winn Family and their Globe of Death, Olate's Dogs, and daredevil Rebecca Smith, the human cannonball.

Patterson said that although her injury, which incidentally happened while rehearing an act, holds her back somewhat, she still enjoys being a part of the circus.

"It's like Toni got hurt and Flutterby didn't as much. Once I put on the costume, the shoes and get dressed, I do what I got to do and have a good time doing it after I come home I fall apart. When you get home and you wash that make up off, the energy goes right down the drain with it," Patterson said.

But by no means is she complaining.

"'What a life.' That's our favorite saying because it is. I know I can take care of myself financially if I had to and yet doing it is fun. Confucius say if you enjoy your job you never work a day in your life. I do enjoy what I do."

Maverick captures Americana in paintings

LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

At age 25, Howard Dombrowski quit a well-paying job in engine design at Ford Motor Company to follow his dream. Armed with nothing more than a degree in drafting from Henry Ford Community College, he seriously began to paint traditional landscapes.

Unlike post- Impressionist artist Vincent Van Gogh who depended on his brother Theo for support, and of who Dombrowski often speaks, the Redford Township resident works midnights as a janitor.

An award-winning artist, he recently won an Honorable Mention in the annual Silver Medal Exhibition at the Scarab Club in Detroit.

If determination and dedication to one's art is enough to ensure success this maverick among modern painters will do whatever it takes even if that means struggling from paycheck to paycheck to buy canvas and paints.

Livonia Artists Club 35th annual Art Exhibit

What: A fine art show and sale by members of the Livonia Artists Club

When: 1-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 13-14.

Where: Livonia Civic Center Library Atrium, 32777 Five Mile, Livonia.

"I quit Ford because it wasn't what I wanted to do. My work was mentally tiring. At the end of the day, it's hard to be creative," said the 43-year old Dombrowski.

"I wanted a job that would allow me to have the freedom and time to do my art." Inspiration comes from the 80 acres of land his family owns in Clare, Mich. Dombrowski's oil landscapes speak pure Americana, focusing on rural roads, ponds and pastures. Favorite subjects such as cows grazing in a countryside pasture and rural routes complete with road signs repeat in his paintings.

"I love nature. I don't have a political message. My work strikes a common chord. People see my paintings and know a place like that," said Dombrowski.

Art museums are his classrooms. Basically a self-taught artist, Dombrowski studies the masterpieces at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Toledo Museum of Art. Burning the images in his brain, Dombrowski learned Flemish master Peter Paul Rubens painted the toes on his "Prometheus Bound" first instead of the background. He wanted to know how Rubens painted the feathers of the eagle, which feasted daily on the liver of the figure from Greek mythology. It took three trips to Toledo.

The "Treasures of Venice," an exhibit of 16th, 17th and 18th century artworks at the DIA through May 12, taught Dombrowski the secrets locked in the magnificent works of art relaying stories from the golden age of painting. Venetian painters were among the first to use oils, which allowed artists to produce a depth of color. "Those are the people I want to learn from."

Dark palettes pervade Dombrowski's paintings whether the theme is ducks gathering in a winter water scene or an ancient castle in the country. Although a financially-struggling artist, he avoids painting portraits and nudes because of their lack of sale-ability.

"I didn't quit Ford to be a janitor. In the practical sense people are not going to buy nudes or portraits unless it's of someone they know," Dombrowski said. "I could do florals with frames to match people's sofas, but I am not trying to do commercial works, but fine art."

Dombrowski chooses not to exhibit in galleries. Instead, he shows with non profits like the Michigan Gallery and Detroit Focus. Local groups like the Livonia Artists Club and Three Cities Art Club also serve as a venue to showcase his work. His paintings are not cheap, running into the hundreds of dollars.

Dombrowski is one of the exhibiting members in the annual Livonia Artists Club show April 13-14 in the Civic Center Library Atrium. Farmington Hills watercolorist Donna Vogelheim will judge the exhibit awarding cash prizes for Best of Show, First, Second and Third Place.

FINE ARTS

Glass sparkles during April celebration

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Sixteen years ago, then Gov. William Milliken, proclaimed the first glass month in Michigan to promote glass as an art medium thus making the rest of the world aware of what Michigan has to offer in the realm of contemporary studio glass.

Up until the turn of the century, glass making was done by committee. Houses like Tiffany and Steuben (now owned by Corning) employed teams of glass blowers who primarily created vessels. Due to the expensive equipment and high level of skills required to create glass works, artists never took glass seriously as a material. In a 1962 series of hot-glass workshops behind the Toledo Museum of Art Harvey Littleton, considered the father of the contemporary studio glass movement; Dominick Labino and Harvey Leafgreen, a retired glass blower changed glass forever sending the material on a progressive journey of growth from craft to fine art. Their pipe dream of creating glass outside of a factory became reality.

Now, it's your turn to get fired up about glass as an art medium. In honor of Michigan Glass Month local artists, galleries and museums exhibit a variety of works. Here's a guide to what's going on:

• Swirls of color encased in glass paperweights, vases and bowls by Joseph Wisniewski and Christine Fleischer of Livonia will be on display through the end of April at Book Beat, 26010 Greenfield (between 10 and 11 Mile Road) in Oak Park.

Both have studied glass blowing since 1990 with Swedish-trained John Fitzpatrick at Touch of Light Studio and Galerie in Ferndale. Blown glass is created when a molten gather (heated in a 2,000 degree furnace) is placed on the end of a pipe then literally blown into shape. In addition to blowing glass, artists use a variety of techniques such as slumping, casting, sandblasting, laminating and lampworking.

Wisniewski originally learned to fuse glass at Riley Junior High in Livonia. He and Fleischer are presently searching for financing to build a hot-glass studio next to their home. According to Wisniewski, "the 2-3,000 pounds of fire bricks, it takes to construct a furnace, costs a lot of money. Right now, we're working at Touch of Light to build up an inventory to display in fairs and art shows in Plymouth and Royal Oak this summer."

• Chameleon Galleries LTD, 370 South Main in Plymouth, opens an exhibition of vessels by Mark Sudduth and sculptural glass by John Nickerson titled "Glass Act" April 21. Future Arts & Entertainment sections will reveal details as they become available.

• Atrium Gallery, 109 North Center in Northville, displays "Products of the Glory Hole" through April 30. Ornaments, sculptural dance figures, vases, perfume bottles, goblets, clocks and paperweights by John Carney, John Fitzpatrick and others to numerous to mention.

"We have almost everything they could make out of glass from floats to hang in windows for $16 to a glass table by Stan Medgall for $1100," said gallery owner Pat Janis. "From contemporary stained glass windows by Ann Whittenkiller to vases by Greg and Jean Smith that almost look like a sand painting in glass, this is the most exciting grouping we've ever had."

Megdall, formerly of Birmingham, blows glass in a studio built alongside his West Bloomfield home. Dichroic glass, not an inexpensive element with one 14-inch square sheet costing $400, swirls vertically through the three-legs of a contemporary table at the Atrium. Megdall studied glass blowing with Albert Young and Herb Babcock and nonfunctional furniture with Maxwell Davis at Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design in Detroit. His work is in the permanent collection of the Corning Museum of Glass in New York. A free brochure listing the 25 galleries participating in Michigan Glass Month is available at Atrium Gallery.

• Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward, presents "Glassed-In: Studio Glass from the Permanent Collection" through April 30. Included are works by Herb Babcock, Frederick Birkhill, Michael Glancy, Dale Chihuly and Dan Dailey, (313) 833-7900.

• University of Michigan-Dearborn, 4901 Evergreen, exhibits a retrospective of works by Herb Babcock, chairperson of Center for Creative Studies crafts department, through April 29. A glass workshop with Fred Birkhill and Shane Fero takes place April 13-14 at UM-Dearborn. On June 15-20 a workshop titled ""Glass for Teens" is scheduled at UM-Dearborn and Greenfield Village. To register, call (313) 271-0909.

• Center for Creative Studies, 201 East Kirby in Detroit, offers glass blowing demonstrations noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, April 21. Faculty members, alumni and students will spend the afternoon creating magnificent and zany goblets. All will be available for purchase with donations going to benefit the CCS Glass Studio. A special exhibit will feature CCS glass majors. An added feature, master glass blower Harold Eberhart of the University of Michigan will demonstrate at the torch. (313) 872-3118.

ARTIFACTS SHOW

Members of Artifacts Art Club will present a mixed media show April 1 through May 3 at Livonia City Hall, 33000 Civic Center Drive east of Farmington Road. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

CALL FOR COMMERCIAL ART

The Scarab Club, a fellowship of the arts in the Detroit's Cultural Center, presents its 51st annual Advertising Art and Design Exhibition April 17 to May 13. The exhibition is open to residents of Michigan and Ontario. Entries will be accepted noon to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9-10.

The goal of this annual juried exhibition is to provide a showcase for commercial artists and designers, and to recognize their achievements. The public is invited to view the best of southeast Michigan advertising art at an opening reception 6-10 p.m. Friday, April 17. The Scarab Club is at 217 Farnsworth, across the street from the Detroit Institute of Arts. For additional information call (313) 831-1250

SCREEN SCENE

Local musician provides 'refreshing' change

STAFF WRITER

Tempe, Ariz., has made a name for itself spawning the rock bands Meat Puppets and Gin Blossoms. The Refreshments are the latest to jump out of Arizona and onto a major label – thanks in part to Ticketmaster and the Gin Blossoms.

The Refreshments won the 1994 National Ticketmaster Music Showcase and received a weeklong recording studio package. (Dishwalla who plays St. Andrew's Hall on Saturday, April 13, with The Refreshments, participated in the 1993 contest.) The contest, guitarist Brian Blush said, helped get the band's name in the media.

"We met a few people and probably most importantly it got our name into a few trade mags," said Blush, a graduate of Rochester Adams High School who moved to Arizona in 1986 to attend Arizona State University.

"It was really cool, though. We learned how to play showcases and do those kind of things. As a result of winning it, we got to recording in a really nice studio. All of those things were certainly helpful."

The Refreshments' debut disc "Wheelie," released on an independent label based in Tempe, piqued the attention of ASCAP and Mercury in winter 1995. By the summer, The Refreshment secured a deal with the label. Throughout the process, Blush said, the Gin Blossoms gave The Refreshments advice.

"They're old dear friends of ours. We just spent about a month on the road with those guys. I can't really explain how much they helped us – everything from advice when we were going through the motions of the record deal to just being good friends."

The Refreshments' debut for Mercury "Fizzy Fuzzy Big & Buzzy" is a fun, straight-ahead pop-rock album. "Mexico" pays homage to the band members' visits to the neighboring country; while "Down Together" pokes fun at the band Dead Hot Workshop, with whom they once shared a bill. The Refreshments recently wrapped up the video for its first single, "Bandito."

Blush, who writes most of the songs, also takes credit for the goofy album title.

"I keep a notepad next to my bed at night. I wake up a lot (in the middle of the night) and think 'that's the most brilliant thing I ever thought of.' Nine times out of 10, though, I'll wake up in the morning and it'll say 'Cows go moo' or the dumbest thing in the world," Blush said.

"One morning I woke up and that was laying next to my bed. I pretty much wrote it off. I thought it would make a good album name but I didn't think it would make the cut. They really seemed to like it. It's kind of a fun and lighthearted thing to say. It's not a very dark record. It's pretty upbeat and happy, like the album."

For more information about the show, call (313) 961-MELT.

• Jawbreaker's guitarist/vocalist Blake Schwarzenbach started April 1 out by doing the same thing he does the beginning of each month. He says "Rabbit, Rabbit."

"See, you're supposed to say, 'Rabbit, Rabbit' on the first of the month before you say anything else," he told BAM magazine. "So, I make a poster every month because I'll forget if I don't. Otherwise, I'll get up and say something else and blow it – I'll blow my luck for the month."

Rest assured, bassist Chris Bauermeister said during an April 1 interview, that Schwarzenbach had done the deed that morning.

"That's his personal thing. I think he cursed slightly before saying it, but he didn't finish, so it's OK," Bauermeister said with a laugh.

Bauermeister called while his band was on a break from making its way through the United States to Minneapolis where the band was scheduled to open its tour. The band comes to St. Andrew's Hall on Thursday, April 4.

The pop punk band Jawbreaker has been hearing a lot of peculiar comments of late. Sure, the band hears that it's a sell-out for releasing its album "Dear You" on a major label (Geffen). But Bauermeister has also been told about his new fan base.

"I've been hearing that a lot lately, 'My now-ex-boyfriend got me into you guys.' It's kind of funny. The good thing about that though is that the boyfriend is an ex and we're still liked," Bauermeister said.

Duvall, Jones make best out of 'A Family Thing'

BY JOHN MONAGHAN
SPECIAL WRITER

In "A Family Thing" Robert Duvall discovers that the woman he's been calling "mom" for the past 60 years isn't related to him at all. A detailed letter, delivered after her death, describes how she raised him as her own after her philandering husband made a black servant girl pregnant.

His real mother died in child birth, the letter goes on to say, but she left behind another boy, Ray. Intent on following the woman's last wishes, he sets out for Chicago to make amends with the half-brother he didn't know he had.

That the movie doesn't really know what to do with this clever premise isn't half as important as the mood it creates. Like the Paul Newman movie "Nobody's Fool" from a few years back, it has a vivid sense of place filled with some powerful actors.

Much of the pleasure of "A Family Thing" comes in the first half hour where Duvall introduces us to Earl, his baseball-cap wearing good old boy, proprietor of an Arkansas rent-it shop. When someone complains because he's withheld a deposit, Earl simply locks him in the shop and heads home.

After a painful deathbed scene with his mother and a confrontation with the father that got him into this mess, Earl heads for the Windy City. A fish out of water, he tangles with carjackers and loses his truck, forced to call upon the brother who wants nothing to do with him.

Then the movie begins to tread water and you're left with nothing more than a dramatic version of "The Odd Couple." Arguments cause one or the other to storm away before they soon find a common ground: both served in Korea, it turns out, and even met during childhood.

Though director Richard Pearce practically stamps "IRONY" in bold letters across certain scenes, the movie resorts only occasionally to cheap sentimentality. This usually comes in the form of the men's Aunt T. (Irma P. Hall), a crusty but loveable old blind woman who lives with Ray and keeps his bitterness in check.

Ray's son Virgil (Michael Beach) is another story. Correctly pegged by Earl as a boy with a chip on his shoulder, Virgil had a shot at pro football before irrevocably injuring his knee early in his career. Now he's the bitter father of two who sleeps on the couch and won't give Earl the time of day.

Though the movie paints a picture of Chicago's older neighborhoods and abandoned buildings, it works best in those early scenes back in Earl's Arkansas. Garage doors open, with dad hosing down the muddy bulldozer tires, it's the kind of place you don't usually see in movies, the wide screen revealing every detail.

Ultimately you go to "A Family Thing" to witness two of Hollywood's greatest character actors given the time and breathing space to bring substantial characters to life. Sometimes that's enough.

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan

■ DETROIT FILM THEATRE
Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit. Call (313) 833-2323 for information. ($5; $4 students)

"Ma Saison Preferee" (France - 1993). 7, 9:30 p.m. April 5-6; 4, 7 p.m. April 7. A lifetime of tensions erupts between an apparently successful sister and brother (Catherine Deneuve and Daniel Auteuil) when their elderly mother can no longer care for herself. An intimate family drama from "Wild Reeds" director Andre Techine.

"Augustin" (France - 1995). 7 p.m. April 8. A part-time file clerk for an insurance agency dreams of movie stardom then finally gets his big break. The hour-long comedy screens with the Oscar-winning short "Omnibus."

■ KINOTEK
Windsor Film Theatre, 2135 Wyandotte St. West, Windsor. Call (519) 254-FILM for information. ($4.50 Canadian; $4 U.S.)

Kenneth Anger's Magick Lantern Cycle. 9 p.m. April 8-9. Anger, the experimental filmmaker and author of the notorious book "Hollywood Babylon," is showcased with virtually all of his short films to date. The two-week tribute kicks off with early works: "Fireworks" (1947), "Puce Moment" (1949), and "Inauguration of the Pleasure Dome" (1954).

■ MAIN ART THEATRE
118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students and matinee; $3 twilight)

"Anne Frank Remembered" (England - 1995). Made in cooperation with Amsterdam's Anne Frank House, this documentary combines vintage photos, new interviews with Frank's contemporaries, documentary film clips, and strangely beautiful footage of the rooms in which the girl and others hid from Nazis during World War II. Narrated by Kenneth Branagh and Glenn Close.

"The Birdcage" (USA - 1995). Robin Williams and Nathan Lane are a gay couple who must play it straight when Williams' son wants to entertain his fiance and her conservative family. Mike Nichols' remake of the 1978 French farce "La Cage aux Folles" delivers big laughs.

"The Postman" (Italy - 1996). The Oscar-nominated romance centers around the relationship between an exiled poet and postman who visits him daily.

■ MAPLE THEATRE
4135 W. Maple, Bloomfield. All titles play through at least next Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 855-9090 for information. ($6; $2.95 twilight)

"Flirting with Disaster" (USA - 1996). A comedy about a slightful uptight and discontented young man who, having been adopted at birth, sets off on a quest for his birth parents. The all-star casting includes Ben Stiller, Patricia Arquette, Alan Alda, Mary Tyler Moore, George Segal, and Lily Tomlin.

"The Bird Cage" (USA - 1995). See Main Art Theatre listing above.

■ REDFORD THEATRE
13671 Lahser (at Grand River), Detroit. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

"Easter Parade" (USA - 1948). 8 p.m. April 5; 2, 8 p.m. April 6 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtimes). When Fred Astaire is dumped by his long-time dancing partner, he sets out to prove that he can make a star out of anyone. He picks Judy Garland and the rest is musical history. Irving Berlin tunes include "Stepping Out With My Baby," "A Couple of Swells," and the timely title song.

■ STAR JOHN R

"Fargo" (USA - 1995). See Maple Theatre listing above.

PLYMOUTH—CANTON SPORTS SCENE

Sharks hammer

The Plymouth Canton Killer Shark Mite B hockey team compiled a 24-10-3 mark through a championship season.

The Sharks went 12-2-1 from mid-January including a 6-5 overtime victory Sunday over the Warren Leafs to win the Fraser Tournament .

They followed that win Tuesday with a 5-2 victory over the Westland Renegades at Joe Louis Arena to capture the Tier I Little Caesar's League championship.

Team members included Kris Brandt, Sean Breen, John Feiten, Johnny Groat, Cory Hames, Derek Leathers, Michael Manner,. Cameron McMartin, Phillip Meck, Jeff Mydlowski, Matt Northgrave, Jason O'Guinn, Nick Reickoff, Robby Reilly, Brad Smith and Greg Wolfe.

The team was coached by Bill Breen, assisted by Ken Brandt, Mike Reilly and Marie Smith.

Bedford takes fifth

Plymouth Canton's Ian Bedford ran fifth Saturday at 3,200 meters in the Huron River Relays at Eastern Michigan University.

Bedford, timed in 9:56.04, was the only Chiefs' runner to score.

OLGC hoop champs

The Varsity A basketball team from Our Lady of Good Counsel won the West Suburban #1 Division for the CYO with an 8-2 record.

The team was coached by Jay Coury and Dennis Wolf.

Clark All-Academic

Jeff Clark (Plymouth Canton) of Southern Illinois has been named to the Missouri Valley Conference's All-Academic team.

The sophomore, carrying a 4.0 Grade Point in accounting and finance, took first with conference records in the MVC championships in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle and helped on winning 200 freestyle relay and 400 medley relay teams. The Salukis won the league crown.

Clark took second in the 50-yard freestyle in the National Independents Championships in Little Rock, Ark., last Feb. He also finished second in the 100 freestyle and participated on the winning 200-yard freestyle relay team for SIU.

Holmes sparkling

Michigan pitcher Kelly Holmes (Canton) had a 10-5 record through the Wolverines' first 32 games with an excellent 1.60 ERA.

Holmes had 16 starts and 13 complete games. She had allowed 76 hits in 100 innings, striking out 60 and walking only 19.

GCA Tazmen advance

The GCA Novi Tazmen Hockey Club, an over-40 senior no-check team, recently won the Labatt's Ontario Western regional semifinals, March 15-17 in Windsor, after beating the Mildewed Maple Leafs, Tilbury Silver Wings and Jake's Old-Timers.

Members of the Tazmen, who advance to the Ontario Finals, April 12-14, at the Kitchener Memorial Auditorium Complex, include defensemen Kevin Ahern (Trenton), Gary Cipriani (Novi), Dennis Lapensee (Westland), Mark Perry (Boyne City), Buddy Williams (Walled Lake); wingers Barry Anderson (Plymouth), Nelson Debenedet (Northville), Mike Eves (Lake Orion), Mike McClain (Livonia), Ken Morrison (Dearborn Heights), Dennis Roegner (Wixom), Craig Roehl (Plymouth Township); and centers John Asadoorian (Canton), Bill Delyon (Petoskey), Dave Frankling (Westland), John LaCroix (Farmington); and goaltender Dan Chematti (Northville). The team manager is Jim Chuhran (Farmington Hills).

Hope's women's swim team captured the MIAA championship.

Hawks fly high

The Livonia Y Michigan Hawks, an under-14 girls soccer team, recently won the North American Indoor National Championship title in Dublin, Ohio.

Rocks beat Churchill in opener

Plymouth Salem baseball coach Dale Rumberger says he'll focus on improved hitting as the Rocks move into the heart of the new season.

It's hard to imagine a Plymouth Salem baseball team having to work on its hitting, but that's what coach Dale Rumberger says the Rocks need to do after their first game of the season.

Rumberger's Rocks played patient ball for five innings Tuesday before "exploding" for five runs in the sixth on two hits, a walk, two errors and a pair of wild pitches to pin a 6-1 defeat on Livonia Churchill in the season and Western Lakes Activities Association opener for both teams.

"I was disappointed in the way we swung the bat," said Rumberger, whose teams have traditionally hit well and often. "We hit well in spots, but not early in the game.

"But for our first game, I thought we played really well. We only made one error -- and that was on a catcher's interference. So defensively, we played fairly well.

Kevin Niemiec, our new shortstop, made some nice plays. Remember, this was only the seventh or eighth time we've been outdoors. And we pitched well. Any time you can pitch and play defense, you're going to be in the game."

Ryan Andrezjewski started for Salem, and while he didn't get the win, he did pitch five strong innings and left with the score tied, 1-1. Rumberger took him out because he'd reached a 65-pitch limit.

Tom Demetsenare came in and scarfed up the victory with one inning of scoreless relief. Keith Boughner finished off with an inning of shutout ball to get the save.

Niemiec stroked a single to left in the second for his first varsity hit and first varsity RBI. Kirk Craggs had singled and reached third on a passed ball plus an infield out.

Two hits plus the interference call on catcher Ryan Rumberger, a sacrifice and a medium-speed groundout to first enabled Churchill to tie the Trio leads Salem track team to win

Jason Barylski, Dave Hester and Scott Pengelly each won a pair of individual events Tuesday night to lead Plymouth Salem's track team to an 89.5-43.5 victory over Livonia Churchill.

"Not all the times were great," said Salem coach Geoff Baker, "but who wants to be great in the first meet of the season?"

Barylski captured the 200- and 400-meter dashes in 24.0 and 51.6 seconds, respectively.

Hester won the shot put at a distance of 39-feet, then took the discus with a toss of 122-feet, 9-inches.

Pengelly copped the 1,600-meter run in 4:40.5, topped off his tank and ripped through the 3,200 in 9:58 as the Rocks took the season opener for both Western Lakes Activities Association schools.

"I thought we all competed very well," Baker said. "I was really impressed. We had 60 kids out and we got everybody at least two races who wanted them.

"I was really happy with all the young guys that are out. And I was really happy with all the upper classmen that are out."

Junior Lawrence Nunn of Salem sped through the 100-meter dash in 12.1 winning seconds, then led off the 800-meter relay team's winning effort of 1:38.6. Nunn was followed by sophomore Kevin Conte, freshman Chris Mason and sophomore Scott Kingslien.

Johnson won the 110-meter high hurdles in 17.1while Jared Biniecki took the 800 in 2:02. Junior Andres Lopez won the long jump at 18-feet, 10-inches.

"Something I was really pleased to see," Baker said, "was that Churchill has a lot of guys on their team as well. So we were able to run a real good meet.

"It was nice to watch all the kids run against somebody else from another team. I think he was happy seeing some of his kids run. And I know I was happy to see all of my kids run."

Impressive run: Scott Pengelly copped the 1,600-meter run in 4:40.5, topped off his tank and ripped through the 3,200 in 9:58 as the Rocks took the season opener for both Western Lakes Activities Association schools.

In the Huron River Relays on Saturday, Biniecki took fifth in the 1,600 meters in 4:29.6 to help Salem finish 11th with 17 points.

The Rocks took third in the distance medley relay with a time of 11:02. Barylski, Kingslien, junior Scott Loewe and Biniecki ran the legs. Barylski, Pengelly, Loewe and Biniecki teamed to finish sixth in the 3,200 relay in 8:27.

Salem in hunt for championship

STAFF WRITER

Success, for Plymouth Salem's baseball team, is a relative thing.

The Rocks have built a tradition of success in recent years. It includes a state championship in this decade along with so many conference, district and regional titles the school may have to float bonds to build a new facility just for trophies.

That leads to a higher definition of success. But it's okay, Salem can handle it.

"To be in the hunt for the conference championship, to be competitive for the districts, that's our goal," second-year coach Dale Rumberger said. "We don't rebuild at Salem, we reload. That's what we're doing., we're reloading."

Rumberger plays each season with one eye on this year and the other on next.

That's why he's able to point to three pitchers returning from a team which reached the state quarterfinals a season ago. There went a combined 11-1.

"The number one of those is Ryan Andrezjewski," Rumberger said. "He was 7-0 and was the winning pitcher in our district and regional championships. He had an ERA of1.11."

Andrezjewski lettered in basketball during the winter and in golf last fall. In addition to pitching, Rumberger said he'll also see a little action in center field from time to time.

Boughner will also play center on occasion and will DH once in a while.

Rounding out the returning threesome is Jay Wasalaski, who will finish more games than he starts for the Rocks. He's slated for third base and DH, too.

Junior Tom Demetsenare, 1-1 with a 2.31 ERA last year, saw action primarily in long relief a year ago but will be start in Wednesday and crossover Western Lakes Activities Association games.

The theory of relativity also contributes to Salem's success. (We told you it was all relative.)

Rumberger's junior son, Ryan, is expected play a leading role on this year's team. As befits a coach whose specialties are hitting and catching, Ryan will be his team's starting catcher and was the second leading hitter on last year's team with a .355 average, 25 RBI and 15 doubles.

"I'm looking for big things from him," the father said. "Looking at him from a coach's standpoint, not from a dad's standpoint, he's one of the top three catchers in the history of Salem baseball. But he still has to prove that."

The cleanup hitter will be Kirk Craggs, a left fielder who batted .301 and drove in 20 runs a year ago.

"I thought shortstop was going to be the toughest place to replace on our team," Rumberger said, noting steady Bill Stiles who had been his starter the last two seasons.

"We had Kevin Niemiec, who was the catcher on our junior varsity team last year. Kevin is such a good athlete, we decided to utilize him in some way. So we switched him to shortstop.

"He's just really going to be outstanding, I think. He's got an outstanding arm. And of course he's a Niemiec. He's got that swagger about him.

"I've had Cragg's brother since I've been here, Niemiec's brother, Ryan's brother -- I just kind of feel comfortable having a Cragg, a Rumberger and a Niemiec in the lineup at the same time."

Moving into second base is Justin Hulett, Dan Heitzman takes over in right and the speedy Alex Ras inherits center field.

"This is one of the fastest teams we've had," Rumberger said. "We'll be able to bang on people, but we'll be able to steal some bases, which will be nice.

"Tim Sisler will start at first and will see some time at third and on the mound. He's got one of the top two or three swings in our program."

Key backups include junior Dave

Plymouth Christian eyes improved baseball season

By Neal Zipser
Staff Writer

It was two years ago and things couldn't get any worse for the Plymouth Christian Academy baseball program.

Buried in mediocrity and mired by a lack of commitment and instability with coaches, PCA considered dropping its baseball program.

But along came Dave Robillard who helped convince the PCA administration to keep the program. That season, the Eagles finished 0-18 and were blown out in virtually every game.

"We weren't competitive at all," Robillard recalled. "We knew we'd take our lumps but the games weren't even close."

Last season, the Eagles took their share of lumps again to finish with a 2-17 record. The season was much different, however, as PCA was competitive in most of its games.

And now, only two seasons after PCA came within an eyelash of dropping its program, the Eagles have taken the next step. PCA swept Warren Immaculate Conception on Monday, 11-1 and 13-4, before dropping a 12-0 contest against Southfield Christian on Tuesday.

"We've already matched our win total from last year," Robillard exclaimed. "It's very encouraging seeing where we are now. We had only 10 players on the team two years ago and now have 18."

The Eagles also hope that their schedule will help develop the program. PCA has scheduled 33 games with the thought of more playing time will result into improved skills.

"I saw other teams playing a lot of games and we figured that we can only get better with more games and more at bats," Robillard said. "We just weren't getting enough at bats to develop a good eye. We may lose our share of games, but will get better at the same time."

PCA will also benefit from a reorganized Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. The MIAC divided itself into Red and Blue divisions. This will result in more games for the Eagles against teams of similar ability.

The Eagles will be led by several players who survived the past couple of rough seasons. John Pugno, the only senior on the squad, will bat clean-up and play shortstop. Pugno will also pitch (he was credited with PCA's second victory on Monday).

The ace pitcher is junior Jim Speier, who struck out six of 10 batters he faced Monday and gained the victory in the season opener. The right-hander has good velocity and has developed a curve ball.

Junior Doug Robillard will play third base and be PCA's lead-off batter. Robillard has led the Eagles the past two seasons in on-base percentage. Sophomore Jon Isensee, who led the team in batting average last year (.285), will bat behind Robillard and play first base.

The Eagles got a big boost when junior Chris DeRenzo opted to join the team. DeRenzo, who will bat third and play second base, already showed his value, by going 4-for-4 with three runs scored Monday. DeRenzo can also pitch with his right or left hand.

Batting fifth will be sophomore James Jones. Isensee, Jones and Robillard will also battle to be the team's stopper out of the bullpen.

Sophomore Zach Parton will be a mainstay in the PCA outfield and may see time as a middle reliever. Parton knocked in three runs in Monday's victories.

A future star may be freshman John Warrick, who will back-up Jones at catcher. Warrick showed his promise Monday by belting a homer.

"The key this year will be to generate some offense and to develop a pitching staff behind Speier," Robillard said. "I also want to continue developing the skills and fundamentals of the team. I probably will only coach one more year and then hand the team over to (assistant coach) Sam Gaines."

With baseball having a bright future, what's next for Robillard and the Eagles?

"I actually want to start up a golf team at the school," he said.

score in the third.

The Rocks started their winning rally with a walk to Dan Heitzman in the sixth. He stole second and Jay Wasalaski bunted -- with the Chargers' pitcher throwing the ball into center field to plate the tie-breaking run and leave a man at second. Things degenerated from there and before the inning was over it was 6-1.

Canton suffers loss

Plymouth Canton has started its baseball season. So far, it's not a hit.

Canton journeyed to Walled Lake Central on Tuesday and was defeated, 4-2, on a five-hitter by Jake Matheson.

"It was not too bad for our first day," second-year coach Scott Dickey said, "but we've got a lot of work to do, especially offensively."

Marc Hazzard went six innings for the Chiefs and allowed seven hits, striking out five and walking one. Matheson countered with an eight-strikeout, three-walk performance in the opener for both teams.

John Wright went 2-for-3 for the Chiefs, scoring a run, while Jason Bricker went 2-for-3 with an RBI double and Pat Noonan collected the other hit, a double.

Central scored all its runs in the third on four hits, two of them doubles, plus a walk. Canton picked up single runs in the fifth and sixth.

Then there's Kyle Dilsizian, who reports to coach Geoff Baker for track practice at 2:30 p.m. to work on his long jump, then moves over to the baseball diamond for the start of practice at 3:30.

"Geoff Baker and I want him for the same thing -- he's got good speed. We call him Deion," Rumberger said.

Speaking of relatives, Salem has twins Jim and Jeff Degenhardt. "Jim's the outfielder and Jeff's the infielder/catcher. Our No. 3 catcher/1b/dh is Scott Alexander."

He also has two players who spend their week on the junior varsity and weekend on the varsity Rob Malchow and sophomore pitcher Kurt Berlin.

"I expect them to eventually play just as well as our team did at the end of last season," Rumberger said. "Realistically, it's going to take our juniors some time to acclimate themselves to the level of intensity it takes to play baseball at Salem.

"You can see that in practice. We'll get the first out from a rundown, but we're not thinking about the second. But after about 5-6 games they're going to have a really good idea of what's expected of them.

"I enjoy this period, it's one of the gratifying things about coaching. You get young kids and see them grow in the game. It's not just swinging a bat and picking them up. In baseball, the action is the possibilities between the action.

"When they start to learn that stuff, it's fun to watch it happen."

Madonna loses triple-header

Madonna banged out nine hits in the game against Wayne State but the Tartars put up seven runs in the third to overcome a 3-0 deficit against Shanna Streng.

It was one of those days for Madonna University's softball team.

It had trouble scoring runs. And when it didn't, the runs the Lady Crusaders scored weren't enough.

The result was three losses for Madonna University in a triple-header at Wayne State University -- 6-0 to Hillsdale, 1-0 to Ashland, and 10-6 to host Wayne State. The Lady Crusaders are now 11-6 overall.

Madonna scratched out just one hit, a single by first baseman Jennifer Pinter, in the opener and got just one in the second, a single by first baseman Courtney Senger. Angie Vandoorn gave up only four hits for the Lady Crusaders but was touched for a run in the opening inning.

Madonna banged out nine hits in the game against Wayne State but the Tartars put up seven runs in the third to overcome a 3-0 deficit against Shanna Streng. Vandoorn and Streng shared the pitching in the three games.

Center fielder Melissa McGue, DH Pinter and left fielder Jamie Cook had two hits apiece. Pinter and Cook drove in two runs each and Streng also drove in a run.

Young Plymouth Canton team optimistic for upcoming season

Optimism is when you lose just two key seniors from a pretty good team -- and have just two returning.

"We're fairly young," coach Jim Arnold of Plymouth Canton's softball team said. "We have 12 juniors, two seniors and one freshman. Last year we were district champions.

"Hopefully we'll surpass that. We'll have a good solid defensive team, three real good pitchers and most all the girls are back from last year. We lost, I believe, two seniors from last year. My assistant coach and I are very optimistic about this year's team."

Next year, he might be positively ecstatic. The year after that, well, we'll cross that softball diamond when we come to it.

His seniors serve as Arnold's co-captains, third baseman Shana Bidwell and outfielder Shelly Butske.

The identical LaGrow twins ("I still can't tell them apart," Arnold said.) juniors Amy, who catches, and Amber, an outfielder will play key roles as will pitcher/outfielder Jenny Sikora.

Other key juniors for the Chiefs include second baseman Angela Litwin, shortstop Nicole Kovachevich, outfielder Tara Biro, catcher Jillian Gross, first baseman Kristin Witt, pitcher Sarah Carson, outfielders Lindsey Roberts and Karen Dougher plus first baseman Mandy Selkins. The freshman is pitcher Gretchen Hudson.

"Defensively, we're real solid," Arnold said. "Kovachevich is an all-around good athlete who hit .357 last year. Bidwell is a solid third baseman and a good all-around athlete.

Litwin pitched last season but will play second almost exclusively this year while Arnold regards Amy LaGrow as one of the best catchers in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"I'm very pleased with our pitching," said Arnold, in his sixth year as varsity coach. "Sikora was 4-3 last year. She has an outstanding fastball with real good control. Carson played on the JV team last year and has really improved.

"Hudson is going to be one of our better pitchers we've had in some time. We'll try to break her in a little slowly. She did well in a scrimmage game. She's very mature for a ninth-grader. As a freshman, she's taken a lot of kidding, but she's handled it real well."

Canton again looks to be one of the contenders for the WLAA championship.

"We have good leadership with our co-captains," Arnold said. "They're keeping the team together. We have real good continuity on this team. It looks very promising for this year."

Hayes plays pivotal role for Wolves

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Bobby Hayes may be the smallest member of the Michigan's hockey team, but the 5-foot-11, 165-pound freshman center certainly made a big impact.

On Saturday, Hayes and his Wolverine teammates celebrated the title after a thrilling 3-2 overtime win over Colorado College before 13,330 mostly Maize and Blue fans at Riverfront Coliseum in Cincinnati. It was Michigan's first NCAA title since 1964 and it was also coach Red Berenson's 300th career win.

"Right now I'm just trying to wind down," said Hayes, a 1993 graduate of Westland John Glenn High School. "It was a nerve-wracking time for the freshmen who had never been through this before.

"The seniors had been to the Final Four three of the four times, so it was nice to see everybody share in this. For the seniors, it was a burden off their back."

Hayes came to Michigan as a non-scholarship player, a preferred walk-on who turned down an opportunity to play at St. Cloud State (Minn.) after spending two-and-a-half seasons with Waterloo (Iowa) Black Hawks of the U.S. Hockey League and a half-season with Compuware of the North American Junior Hockey League.

"Some of the people who recruited me thought I was making a mistake, but a shot at U-M was something I couldn't pass by," Hayes said. "There was no scholarship open, but they had a spot on the team for me and my family was OK with me as far as the money (tuition) situation."

Eventually, Hayes got some financial help when Robbie Gordon left Michigan for the Western Hockey League. Gordon's full-ride scholarship was divided among the freshmen.

Hayes played a major part of this season centering Michigan's fourth line, but eventually he moved up to the third line.

"When you're on the fourth line, you're just out there playing hard and earning respect from the other team," he said. "You do not want to get scored on, so you have to work a little harder defensively, and get the puck in the net when you have the chance.

"I pretty much played the same throughout the whole year. It just gets a little more intense and pace gets quicker in the playoffs."

Playing in all 43 games, Hayes proved he was offensive-minded, scoring a respectable eight goals along with 13 assists.

His game-winner early in the third period gave Michigan 4-3 win over rival Lake Superior State in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association final March 16 at Joe Louis Arena.

"My role is to work hard and play with a big heart," Hayes said. "I'll hit people when I have to, but I'm not going out there looking for it. I'm not a great offensive player, but I'd say I have decent offensive kills. I just do what I can."

One of Hayes's responsibilities was penalty-killing. He had a pair of short-handed goals this year.

With all the recent hoopla, the 21-year-old Kinesiology major has had a hard time concentrating on his studies.

"The past two weeks have been tough," Hayes said. "All you think of is winning and playing hockey. You start to read a book, but then all you see is the puck going into the net."

The bus ride back to Ann Arbor to Cincinnati will be a memorable one. The Wolverines felt like the beloved Johnstown Chiefs in the movie "Slapshot."

"Every couple of miles a car would drive by and beep the horn," Hayes said. "When we got back home (Saturday night) home, the band was there playing the "Victors," and it was great to see the fans celebrate."

On Monday, Hayes and his teammates were saluted during a pep rally at Keen Arena. On Tuesday, coach Red Berenson invited the entire team to take part in his weekly radio show.

"I got to say a few words, not bad for a freshman," said Hayes, who also played shortstop on Glenn's Final Four baseball team in 1993. "Red's the kind of coach who is straight-forward. He knows his hockey and he does a great job of preparing the team each and every game."

As for the future, Hayes is optimistic.

"We lose only four seniors and I think we'll have another great team," said the ultimate team player. "I'm looking for us to winning it again."

TRACK

But two outstanding individuals return.

Senior John Spolsky, who led CC to the state Class AA football title and went 55-0 in winning the Division I heavyweight wrestling championship, is back in the shot put. He was first-team All-Observer last year with a toss of 51-8.

Also returning is Class A cross country individual team champion Joe Leo, who was fifth in the prestigious Foot Locker National Championships last December.

Leo led the area last year in the 1,600 (4:24) and 3,200 (9:24.5) runs. He was fifth in the regional and state in the latter.

"Joe hasn't run in two weeks," CC coach Tony Magni said. "His knee has been bothering him; he's never had an injury. As for John, he should be improved."

Another standout thrower is senior Jeff Monnette (46-11.75) in the shot.

Other key returnees for the Shamrocks include senior long jumper and sprinter Kevin Quay, junior Brian Teefey (52.9 in the 400), junior Chris Laney (2:03.1 in the 800) and junior John Griffin (9:49.5 in the 3,200).

Magni is also counting on senior David Venning (hurdles), senior Roy Sample (sprints), senior Rich Stachura (middle distance), junior Brian Douglas (shot put), junior Dan Dominguez (shot put), junior Greg Alcala (sprints), sophomore Dave Popiel (high jump) and senior Erin Kosmowski (discus).

"We're strong again in the shot put and discus," said Magni, whose team won the Catholic League and Operation Friendship crowns a year ago.

"We lost three of our top four in the 1,600 and 3,200 relays. We don't have depth like we used to, even though we have the numbers (about 100) as far as needing kids to step up and fill the gaps. I suspect we'll have some."

Rocks are hot in soccer

Plymouth Salem's soccer team is hotter than the weather.

That may not mean much now, but come back in June and we'll talk.

The Rocks upped their record to two wins in two tries Monday night, conquering Farmington, 5-1.

Mia Sarkesian scored a pair of goals for Salem while Missy Simons, Patty Wong and Mari Hoff contributed one apiece.

"We played in their end quite a bit," coach Doug Landefeld said. "They had a couple of good scoring opportunities early but in the second half they didn't have many.

"The score of 5-1 was pretty indicative of the game. They had chances, but we had that many more."

Emily Villemonte scored an unassisted goal for the Falcons in the first half. The score at halftime was 2-1.

Canton drops opener

Northville (2-0) handed Plymouth Canton a 2-0 loss in the Chiefs' opener.

"They played a pretty good game," coach Don Smith said of his team's Western Lakes Activities Association opener. "I was very proud of our team. We never quit.

"We played tough, we just have to score. We had some good shots, some good opportunities. But they scored just before the half and then again in the first minute of the second half."

we'll run indoors again this Saturday," Baker said. "I really didn't want to run the guys who will run indoors that much.

"Pengelly is still rounding into shape, so he only ran two races. Binisecki ran hard Saturday so he only ran two races. And Barylski only ran two races.

"I wanted to give a lot of the underclassmen a chance to run. We have our seniors, but we're also finding some quality underclassmen who are helping out as well."

Freshman Jon Little finished third in the mile and two-mile, sophomore Japbir Gill had a pair of seconds in the mile and two-mile while Kingslien placed second in both the 200 and 400. Mason was second in the 100.

EMORY DANIELS

A few years ago my wife and I took up cross-country skiing and about that same time my son was smitten by downhill skiing. As a result, at least once each winter we take a weekend trip up north with our skis.

One of our favorite spots is near Grayling//Gaylord because it doesn't take too long to drive to and because the Hartwick Pines are right there. What a great place for cross country skiing!

But skiing is like fishing, you always are checking out new courses, new hills, or new holes. So I was intrigued upon learning that the Petoskey-Harbor Springs-Boyne County Visitors Bureau had a Website on the Internet. You can check it out as easily as I by pointing to http://www.boynecounty.com

The home page allows you to check out activities for spring, summer, fall and winter and to get information on accommodations by type and by area. There's a calendar of events, an online press kit, and some information about the home where Ernest Hemingway spent 22 summers.

The Winter Activities link gives you the information you want to know about Nubs Nob and Boyne Mountain, and Boyne Highlands.

Boyne Highlands Resort, which has its own Website at http://www.boyne.com, has 40 runs, a snowboard halfpipe, nine lifts, uphill capacity of 17,050 skiers per hour, longest run of over one mile, skiable terrain of 280 acres, and a vertical drop of 550 feet, and some 28 cross country trails.

The page also gives information on cross country ski areas in Boyne County which has a total of 350 kilometers of trails through forests, meadows, bordering scenic lakes and streams. There's also sites for ice skating, sledding and sleigh rides, and a list of businesses that rent snow mobiles.

Travel in Michigan

Speaking of traveling in the state, AAA of Michigan now has a Website called AAA Access complete with information, products and services.

The home page with a colorful Triptik design offers a number of links, including: online traffic information (real time, updated regularly) from the Michigan Emergency Patrol; member discount listings; a coloring book for kids; Michigan Living articles; safety, security and travel information; online Tourbook or Triptik ordering capability; and travel information.

Personally, I was rather excited by the site. But check it out for yourself by pointing to http://www.aaamich.com/. To help plan my summer vacation, I checked it out on a Wednesday and requested a Triptik and Tourbook and map. The next morning I received an E-mail message confirming my request, and the following Monday everything I requested arrived in the mail. Nifty, huh?

The TripTik/Tourbook service is available only to AAA members, so have your membership card handy so you can type in your club membership number on the electronic form.

Just for Kids

One other quick bit of information to share with you that has nothing to do with travel in Michigan. On March 23 I received an announcement that Yahoo is starting a new search service for kids called Yahooligans.

Yahooligans is a searchable and browsable index of the Internet specifically designed for ages 8-14. At present the main categories are: Around the World, Art Soup, Candidates and Games, Entertainment, School Bell, Science and Oddities, Sports and Recreation and "The Scoop."

The site works much like the main Yahoo index. Kids and parents will want to check out Yahooligans at http://www.yahooligans.com/. Lynx users can check it out at http://www.yahooligans.com/text/. This has significant impact for those of us (hopefully, all of us) who want the Internet to be a wholesome experience for our young people.

BUSINESS PEOPLE

This column highlights promotions, transfers, hirings and other key personnel moves within the suburban business community.

Send a brief biographical summary – including the towns of residence and employment and a black-and-white photo, if desired, to: Business People, Observer Business Page, Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, Attn: Business Editor. Our fax number is (313) 591-7279.

Monika Beuerle has been promoted to the position of CADD services manager at Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment of Livonia.

Beuerle, who has been with the firm for 9 years, has responsibility to delegate, track and oversee the production of all CADD staff assignments.

She has a drafting degree from the Technical Drafting Institute in Berlin, Germany, and continued her education at the Delehanty Institute School of Drafting in Jamaica, N.Y. Since entering the drafting field 35 years ago, Beuerle has worked for various civil engineering and surveying firms in New York and New Jersey. During her tenure with OHM, she has completed courses in computer aided drafting and design from Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

OHM is a Livonia-based consulting engineering firm specializing in providing municipal engineering services since 1962.

Terri A Kinney has been named manager of business development at Orchard, Hiltz & McCliment, a Livonia-based consulting engineering firm.

As manager of business development, her primary responsibilities include working with the firm's principals to develop and execute the corporate marketing program, managing proposal efforts and corporate communications.

Kinney has a bachelor's degree in journalism from Michigan State University. She is an active member of the Society of Marketing Professional Services-Michigan Chapter and serves on the organization's public relations committee.

Dean-Bajdo

The local operation of Manpower Inc. has promoted Linda Dean-Bajdo to the position of vice president-area manager.

Previously, Dean-Bajdo was the area manager of Manpower's Detroit, Warren and technical-professional branch offices.

In her new position, Dean-Bajdo will oversee operations, customer sales and service, and marketing functions for Manpower of Detroit's full-service branch offices, as well as for Manpower of Detroit's Technical and Professional Division in Southfield. She is also responsible for the direction of recruitment of clerical, technical and light industrial contract employees for the area.

Prior to her employment with Manpower, which began in 1989, Dean-Bajdo was an account representative for Business Products Inc. in Southfield.

A native of Harrison Township, Dean-Bajdo attended Stevenson High School in Livonia and received a bachelor's degree in marketing from Michigan State University in East Lansing. In May, she will receive her MBA from the executive MBA program at Northwood University in Troy.

Dean-Bajdo is a member of the Human Resources Committee of the Women's Economic Club and a member of the Economic Club of Detroit.

Alberici , headquartered in St. Louis, has an office in Livonia.

McCoole is the fifth president in the company's 78-year history.

"Our focus for the immediate future is to reaffirm the role of our people, our employees, in serving our clients," McCoole said. "By improving the way we work together, we enhance employee fulfillment and our standard of performance at the same time."

Rochelle Katz, community development director of Redford Township, was chosen as secretary-treasurer of the Eight Mile Boulevard Association.

Members of the Eight Mile Boulevard Association are the 13 communities and three counties along Eight Mile Road from I-275 on the west to I-94 on the east, plus the Michigan Department of Transportation.

The organization's mission is to revitalize and promote Eight Mile road by linking the effort s of the public and private sectors.

Gerald M. Belian has been named engineer of the year by the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers Detroit Metro Chapter. He has been an engineer for 32 years and a member of the society for 18 years.

Belian serves as vice president and principal at Soil and Materials Engineers Inc. He is responsible for senior project management. He holds a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the University of Notre Dame and is a registered professional engineer in several states.

He is serving as the society's state vice president, state director representing the Detroit Metro Chapter, treasurer of the society's political action committee, vice chairman of a partnering committee and is chairman of the society's 50th anniversary planning committee. He is serving as president for the Society of Marketing Professional Services, Michigan Chapter, and is president for the Society for American Military Engineers, Detroit Post.

Diabetes Self Care, a subsidiary of Universal Self Care Inc. of Livonia, has named Tod Robinson as national vice president of sales.

Diabetes Self Care is a provider of diabetes equipment, supplies and services. Before joining Diabetes Self Care, Robinson worked with Fort Lauderdale-based Home Diagnostics Inc.

During his six years with Home Diagnostics Inc., Robinson served as director of new business development, national accounts manager and sales manager.

Garske

Marlene Garske of Plymouth was honored during the 1996 president's council awards banquet March 2 at the Ritz-Carlton in Dearborn. Garske was one of 14 AAA Michigan agents named to the council, which is made up of the company's top performing sales agents. The president's council meets periodically with corporate executives to exchange ideas.

Darrell Hively of Redford has been named account executive of the BT Office Products Detroit Division. Hively joins BT Office Products after 17 years in the industry as a vendor representative for Frey, Gaede & Company.

Hively will service customers in the Metropolitan Detroit area. The BT Office Products Detroit Division is on Mound Road, north of I-696 in Warren.

Ambler

The Board of Directors of Spectrum Communications Inc. has elected Mitchell A. Ambler as president and chief executive officer. Ambler is a 1978 graduate of Livonia Franklin High School, a 1982 graduate of Western Michigan University and a 1983 graduate of The Specs Howard School of Broadcast Arts. He and his wife Donna and their sons Parker live in the Kalamazoo area.

Ed Gniewek has been named president and general manager of Intertec Systems _ a new joint venture company of Johnson Controls Inc. and Inoac. He will report to the executive committee of the board of directors of Intertec Systems and be based at the company's business offices in Troy.

Gniewek has served as vice president and general manager of TechnoTrim in Livonia, since 1986. The company is a joint venture between Johnson Controls and Techni-S, a manufacturer of vehicle seat trim covers.

Gniewek

Prior to working at TechnoTrim, Gniewek was director of engineering at Allen Industries. He served as instrument panel engineering unit supervisor at Ford Motor Co. in Saline, and helped develop the first fully padded instrument panel for Ford Escort cars. Also at Ford, he was an injection molding foreman. Gniewek earned a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering at the University of Detroit.

Elliott

Paul Elliott has been named vice president and general manager of TechnoTrim, replacing Gniewek. He will report to the executive committee of the board of directors of TechnoTrim and to Jerry Beaubien, Johnson Controls' vice president of operations. Elliott will be based at TechnoTrim's Livonia headquarters.

Since June 1995, Elliott served as general manager of Just-In-Time operations for Johnson Controls in Plymouth.

He joined the company in 1985, and previously served as director of operations, and general plants manager for the firm's Toyota Business Unit in Georgetown, Ky., and as plant manager for its Orangeville, Ontario, Canada facility.

Prior to joining Johnson Controls, Elliott worked for General Motors-Canada in various engineering management positions. He holds a bachelor of applied science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Toronto.

Livonia resident Bob Greening has been appointed as human resources manager of J. Walter Thompson, Detroit.

Greening

Greening joints the agency from First State Bank in Eastpointe, where he was human resources manager. He has experience in employee benefit plans, salary and payroll administration, equal opportunity efforts, recruitment and career counseling.

Greening works at the agency's office at 500 Woodward Ave., Detroit.

The Greater Detroit Chapter of the National Association of Women Business Owners honored Michigan's top 25 women business owners at a luncheon March 15 in Detroit.

Cast-off helps cleanup

BY RUTH MOSSOCK JOHNSTON
SPECIAL WRITER

I love to cook, but I sure don't love to clean. I especially dislike spring cleaning — dealing with clothes that are too small; clothes that have been pushed to the back of the closet; clothes that I know I will fit into soon; clothes that are too big (but I'll keep them just in case I waver off my diet), and woolens that are moth-eaten beyond recognition. There are a multitude of dust bunnies hidden in places the human eye has never seen, an an array of junk my husband and son (co-pack rats) have stored. To say I need all the incentive I can muster is a gross understatement.

I'm sure I'm not the only one who needs great motivation to get their spring cleaning done. So why not make an event out of it? Get together with a group of friends and agree to do your spring cleaning on the same weekend.

On Sunday night ask everyone to bring a cast-off they have earmarked for their garage sale, or the circular file — books that pile up, a bundle of magazines you never got to read, that whimsical knickknack Aunt Tillie brought you from her trip to the Grand Canyon, or those free-bees you got when you opened your new checking account. As the saying goes — one man's junk is another man's treasure. The attendance at garage sales, flea markets, and antique malls gives us a strong indication that this old saying may be trite, but true.

There was a fun swapping gift game we used to play years ago at work-related Christmas parties. All of the guests brought a wrapped gift. In this case, you will wrap your cast-offs — everyone gets a number and then number one picks their choice of any package. Number two has their choice of taking that opened gift away from number one, or they may pick a different one. Number three has their choice of either one or two's gift, or picking a new one — and so on, until the last person has their choice made. As silly as this little game sounds, it's really a riot. You will be surprised at who takes what and from who!

Make the party attire casual, after all, you've worked all-day. Ask each guest to wear something they can't part with, or the one item of clothing their spouse hates the most.

This idea would have eliminated years of my hiding David's velvet tie-dyed necktie he had from the 1960s — believe me, this tie wouldn't have looked good even then. My son Jordan and I always tease him about his pronunciation of the world psychedelic, in this case, the tie said it all!

Dinner could be all carry-ins from your local restaurants — do something multi-ethnic (Italian, Mexican, Middle Eastern, Indian, Thai, Chinese, or deli), do sliders from one of the infamous white buildings that specialize in them, or plan a very quick and simple menu. Cover the tables with old wrapping paper, use paper goods and disposable flatware — all to be thrown in your circular file when the meal is completed.

I believe the following recipe came with a blender I bought years ago, probably around the time David bought his velvet tie.

FOOL-PROOF CHEESE SOUFFLE

6 eggs
½ cup whipping cream
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
4 ounces cheddar cheese (about ¼ cup)
11 ounces cream cheese
Butter, margarine or non-stick spray

Place the eggs, whipping cream, Parmesan cheese, mustard, salt and pepper into a blender or food processor fitted with the steel blade — process until well-blended. Add the cheddar cheese — process — then add the cream cheese and blend.

Place the liquid ingredients into a well greased oven-proof souffle dish and bake at 375 degrees F. for 40-45 minutes or until top is slightly golden and springs back when gently tapped. Remove from oven and serve immediately. Serves 6.

Tea time

TASTEFUL: Spice up your decor with this classic brass-accented clock mounted in a decorative antique style tea tin. The gold-hinged top flips open to reveal a plastic-lined storage area to keep your favorite tea blends fresh. Makes a charming but practical accent piece for the bookshelf or spice rack. Available for $45 at Rand McNally in the Somerset Collection, Big Beaver Road and Coolidge in Troy. Call (810) 643-7470.

In bloom

SITTING IN SPLENDOR: Brand-new and just in time for spring! A melange of brightly colored flowers ready for picking, or better yet, sitting in. This Hancock and Moore chair is upholstered with floral cord-woven cotton accented on the back and side with taupe suede. This piece, priced at $2,199, will help brighten up a den, bedroom or living room. Available at Scott Shuptrine.

Herbal essence

PLANTING IDEAS: Michigan Made herbal stationery / herb garden kits were developed by a designer based in Dexter. Each special kit includes recycled stationery with herb-inspired designs, a seed package of herbs, sterilized peat for seed starting and a wood planter for growing herbs indoors. Each kit also includes lore about medicinal and mythical properties associated with the packaged herb, as well as creative uses for cooking and gardening. Chives, for example, make an excellent low border in the garden and act as a natural repellent to such garden pests as aphids and Japanese beetles. Kits are also available in lemon balm, peppermint and lavender. Available for $12 at the Michigan Made store in downtown Plymouth. Call (313) 207-8794.

Tips on getting that garage organized

By DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

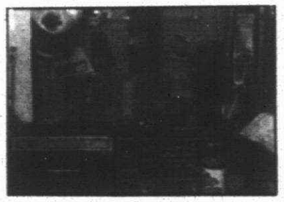
Use all dimensions _ length, width and height _ when organizing or reorganizing your garage.

That's what the experts, or at least people who have neat garages, advise.

"In my neighborhood," said John Wisz, a Livonia resident, "people keep one car in the garage, one car out and the rest is filled with kids' stuff and other things they accumulate for years and years."

First things first.

"Throw out stuff you don't need," Wisz said. "There's always something there."



TOM HAWLEY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

No mess: A place for everything, and everything in its place results in a clutter-free garage.

It could be broken down appliances, bicycle parts, scrap pieces of wood, cardboard boxes, chipped patio blocks or paint cans. (Be sure to check with your local public services department on proper disposal methods.)

You have to be serious about throwing out. If you haven't used things for years, chances are you aren't going to need them tomorrow. Or ever. Disposing will open up all kinds of vistas to reorganizing.

Steve Sproul, a Redford resident, has an older one-car garage in which he stores a working refrigerator, a Volkswagen Beetle, a workbench, several bicycles, wagon, sleds, tools and all kinds of other things.

"The key here is an aisle way," he said. "When kids are involved, you keep their stuff closer to the door. It heightens the chance they will get them back inside and keeps them away from your stuff.

"My experience in the service taught me to utilize all space," Sproul said. "Go up. Don't be afraid to use the wall. Hanging stuff is big with me. Obviously, it has to be light or moderate weight."

Sproul uses peg board and hooks to store garden tools and hand tools.

He also uses the rafters in his smallish garage to store camping gear and lumber.

Wisz, who admits to being a detail person, stores two cars, three bikes, a snow blower, workbench, tools and other goodies in his garage.

TOM HAWLEY/STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

Organized garage: John Wisz uses shelving and wall hooks to maintain a neat, orderly garage.

He's also a booster of shelving, store bought or hand-made, and hooks.

"I have a daughter, Christina, and her toys I keep on shelves so I can pull both cars in," Wisz said.

"I have some hooks for lawn tools, brooms and other utensils. Even the snowblower is on hooks out of the way. Make sure you keep dangerous implements out of the reach of children.

"I have a crawl space in the garage. I can store stuff up there that's hardly used _ an ax. I put tomato cages up there," he said.

Wisz said he moves bikes into the basement during the winter to give himself more room to maneuver the cars.

That's a big, big advantage to an organized garage _ moving the vehicles inside, keeping them out of the weather and getting off to a quick start in the morning.

COVER STORY

SAVING ENERGY IS YEAR-ROUND TASK

STORY BY MARY KLEMIC · AT HOME EDITOR

Spring cleaning is a special time to get things around the house in shape, but energy saving knows every season.

It's a daily thing, says home energy-efficiency expert Tom Tynan, co-host of "Our House" 7 a.m. Sundays on WDIV-TV.

"It's like your diet, it's your lifestyle," Tynan said recently when he was in the area on his way to the International Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show at the Cobo Convention Center.

"Nowadays the majority of our customers are new homeowners where they're looking to improve (energy efficiency)," said John Finley, president of Diversified Energy Control Ltd. in Canton. "They've got a lot bigger homes now, looking to improve energy efficiency."

On "Our House," Tynan and co-host Paula Engel focus on ways to save energy and help the environment. The tips can help homeowners save money as well.

The program scheduled to air April 21 features a visit to the White House. It will show ways the White House can become more energy efficient.

Saving energy in the home doesn't have to mean a massive renovation project.

Education can help.

"You see things all over the house," said Tynan, who with a smile calls himself "the real Tim Taylor" after the Tim Allen character on TV's "Home Improvement."

For example, compact fluorescent light bulbs are meant to last about 10 times longer than bulbs now being used. But these new bulbs should be put in fixtures kept on for at least four hours at a time, not where they will be turned on and off regularly.

Using ceiling fans properly can save money on your electric bill. In the summer, set the ceiling fan on medium speed and for blowing down. In the winter, put the fan on low speed and reverse it. This circulates the air, mixing cool air with the hot air that rises.

Most fireplaces pull the heat out of the room, as heat rises and goes right up the chimney. New fireplaces are designed to absorb the heat from the fireplace and run it through air ducts from the flue in the chimney.

Programmable thermostats can be set to go off when you leave for work and come on shortly before you return home.

Your refrigerator should be set around 42 degrees, and your freezer between 0 and 5 degrees. A $2 thermometer attached to the inside back wall of your refrigerator monitors the temperature. It costs around $35 to weatherstrip your door; a towel under the door helps keep out the cold.

Making your windows energy efficient can lead to other benefits, Finley said.

Window films provide protection against ultraviolet rays and cut out glare on TV screens and computer windows.

"The main benefit is energy saving and comfort," Finley said.

COMMUNITIES OFFER HEAP OF HELP

OK, you've done your spring cleaning, and you have assembled an assortment of items you no longer need or want.

What to do with them? Disposing is one option, a garage sale is another. A sampling of area communities shows that some have certain requirements concerning waste disposal and garage sales.

According to John Weyer, township building official, garage sales are allowed in Canton without a permit. But the sales cannot be as constant as to constitute a home occupation.

The only regulation guiding garage sales is through the township's sign ordinance. It prohibits signs for garage sales that are more than five feet in area. Signs also cannot be posted in excess of three days. All garage sale signs must be posted on private property.

Canton has curbside recycling and garbage collection that is pretty inclusive. There are regulations on how branches, for example, should be bundled for disposal.

But Canton Waste Recycling, which is the trash collector, also offers cleanup days on Fridays and Saturdays, during which a resident can take stuff that is not normally collected at curbside.

For cleanup day, you must be a Canton resident. This is not for commercial use. Residents may take anything as long as the materials are non-hazardous. The amount you can dump is limited to less than three yards, which equals one level pickup load per weekend. Most insecticides and household chemicals are not accepted because they are hazardous. Latex paint is acceptable for dumping but must in a maximum one gallon container. Total amount limited to five one-gallon containers.

Clean up days are on Fridays and Saturdays. Hours on Friday are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturdays, 8 a.m. to noon.

Cleanup days are April 12, 13, 26 and 27; May 10, 11 and 24; and June 7, 8 , 21 and 22.

Canton Waste Recycling is at 42020 Van Born Road. For more information, call CWR at 397-5801.

In the city of Plymouth, residents can place extra items in their trash on certain days, depending on the trash pickup day. There is an eight bag limit. Also, there are items that won't be picked up. They include concrete, dirt and large items like snowmobiles.

Here is the schedule for putting out extra trash: For people with a Monday trash day, the date for special pickup is May 6; for Tuesday pickup, the date is May 14, for Wednesday pickup, the date is May 8 and for Thursday pickup, the date is May 16. There is no Friday pickup.

The city won't pick up gas pesticides, large items, boats, car engines etc.

Empty paint cans are OK.

Plymouth Township doesn't have a special spring cleanup day, the township collects such items all year round.

In Livonia household furnishings and appliances will be picked up routinely by a separate truck on the regular collection day. These items should be set out the evening before (after 6 p.m.) or prior to 6 a.m. of the collection day. Doors must be removed from refrigerators or freezers before placed at the curb.

To hold a garage sale in Livonia a permit is required for $1. Sales are allowed once every six months, two signs are allowed.

In Westland, household furniture and appliances are to be removed at the residential site by the city's waste disposal contractor. Call 728-1770 prior to the regular pickup day to schedule a removal of household items from the curb.

Westland residents don't have to obtain a permit for a garage sale. Signs may be put up, but only on the day of the garage sale. If the sale lasts more than one day, the sign has to be taken down at the end of the day and put up again the next day, only during the hours that the sale is in progress.

Westland's compost season began Monday, April 1. Compost will be picked up the same day as regular trash, but the two must be separated by at least 10 feet. Compost must be in cans or plastic trash bags.

Brushes or limbs must be tied in bundles of 3-foot lengths and can't be more than 40 pounds. Cardboard boxes containing compost won't be picked up.

Residents wishing to schedule chipping of tree branches may begin doing so April 8. Call 728-1770. Branches will be disposed of the day following trash pickup. Branches must be at least 6 feet in length and no larger than 3 inches in diameter. They must be neatly stacked. The city picks up branches only, not stumps, roots, shrubs or tree trunks.

Spring is the time to take inventory and make repairs.

Karen Egren, president of Tri-County Building Inspectors Inc. in Waterford, provides a handy checklist of things to look for during your spring inventory.

- Check foundation walls, retaining walls, walks, patios and driveways for cracks, heaving and crumbling.
- Check chimneys for deteriorated caps, missing caps, missing bricks and mortar.
- Check roof and gutters, check for missing, damaged or blistered shingles. Check gutters for leaking, damaged downspouts or leaders and broken hangers or straps.
- Check flashing around roof stacks, vents, skylights and chimneys.
- Check vents, chimneys and louvers for birds' nests, squirrels or insects.
- Check fascia for paint flaking, leakage or decay.
- Check exterior walls, check painted surfaces for paint failure.
- Check exterior masonry walls for cracks and broken mortar.
- Cut back and trim shrubs against sidewalks.
- Be sure to open vents.

Doing these simple checks will allow you to spot a problem early and avoid a bigger problem in the future.

LET'S REMODEL

Siding has many color choices

Q: My wife saw a home in Traverse City that was done in vinyl siding but had several colors on the exterior. We have an older home and would like to do the same. Can you tell us a little about how this was done?

A: Due to the technological advances in how vinyl siding is made, vinyl compounds now hold color and perform better than ever, giving homeowners an unprecedented number of choices _ and more flexibility_ when residing their homes or selecting siding for a new one. Increased color choices allow homeowners to be more creative with decorating details such as wide corners, window and door surrounds and decorative shapes to enhance the home's current look or give it a total makeover.

For instance, homeowners can now select darker colors such as pewter or wicker for siding and trim to add depth to certain areas of their home's exterior, lighter colors such as ivory or white to make other areas stand out or make the overall home look larger, or contrasting color combinations such as wicker and snow to accentuate architectural details.

Because the color goes through the vinyl, small nicks and scratches don't show (unlike aluminum) so the color combination you choose will remain beautiful for many years.

When selecting siding colors that will give your home the look you want, it is important to keep the following factors under consideration:

- Unless you're planning to re-roof, the best place to start is with the color of existing roof shingles. The color of your vinyl siding panel should complement your roof color. For example, a dark gray roof will work well with most any siding color available, including slate blue and mauve, but if your existing roof is light brown your should stick to more neutral colors like white, cream or clay.
- After you've selected a siding color, consider trim options. You can use trim colors to create one of two effects, monochromatic or contrasting. To create a monochromatic color scheme for a harmonious, cohesive look, select identical or nearly identical trim colors. For a contrasting color scheme which accentuates outlines for a more dramatic effect, choose trim in a different, but related color.
- Don't forget the soffit areas, some of the most highly visible _ and frequently neglected _ areas of the home. Soffit areas near a home's entrance are noticeable and can leave a lasting impression. If your home has an entrance with an overhand, you can select light-colored vinyl soffit panels to reflect more light in this area for a cheerful, welcoming effect. Or if your home has a full front porch, you can select ceiling soffit in a darker color to create a cozy, cocoon-like appearance.

The more important thing to remember about working with color is not to go overboard. The rule of thumb is to stick with one basic siding color and one or two trim colors. Too many different colors can give your home a choppy appearance.

The beautifying effects a well-planned color scheme can have on a home are quite evident in a recent project by contractor Peter Maneyski in Chicago. The 592-unit housing complex was recently resided with vinyl siding and accessories. Complementary siding colors _ wicker and clay _ were selected for this large scale project by the architect, as well as a number of accessories and trim in white, including cover molding, corner posts, crown molding, window surrounds and soffit. The new color scheme completely transformed Quincy Park, Maneyski told me.

"Homeowner pride has increased dramatically, not to mention the home's value. What was once a run-of-the-mill housing complex is now a beautiful neighborhood.

GARDEN SPOT

Mum's the word for Easter

By Marty Figley
Special Writer

Why not surprise a hostess with a perennial garden Chrysanthemum (C. indicum) this Easter rather than the traditional lily? The bright yellow blossoms of any of three Prophet series mums by Yoder will bring a breath of spring indoors and can be enjoyed again outdoors later in the season.

Jessica and Lisa are currently the number one and two selling yellow garden mums, but look for another yellow 1996 introduction, Janice, which according to Ed Higgins, Yoder's chrysanthemum product manager, "very significantly improves upon existing varieties _ other colors in the series include Felicia, a lavender daisy, and Helen, with a dark red flower."

Yoder is constantly striving to produce garden mums that can be enjoyed by gardeners in the spring as well as the fall. The flowering spring garden mums are becoming a more popular choice and are available now at your garden centers and nurseries. These plants bloom twice in their first year.

Keep your new plant in a sunny room and water it regularly. After the blooms fade, plant it outdoors in a sunny spot and it will give another show in the fall. Also, it will have all summer to grow sturdy roots to assure its survival through the winter to another year.

Small plants can be found now as bedding plant flats or cellular packs at some garden centers, or cuttings of the Prophet series can be bought from leading mail order nurseries such as Park Seed Company, according to Yoder personnel; suitable for containers.

A new Alive and Well Nurturing Planter, which would work well with mums, uses capillary action to water plants and provides only as much water as they really need. Designed by Bemis Manufacturing Company, these "controlled watering" planters are made for indoor or outdoor use and are available in a wide range of sizes, shapes and colors. There are many advantages to this system; for more information call (800) 558-7651. Look for them in their special section at Target and Frank's Nursery and Crafts stores.

to a sunny space in the garden, allow at least 18 inches of space between each one; "each plant should produce a minimum of 150 blossoms." Water the new plants at this time and when it is needed during the growing season. Each month, until August, apply a fertilizer (5-10-5) into the soil at the rate of 1/2 to one pound per 100 square feet.

When new growth is four to six inches tall, pinch them back with your thumbnail and index finger and during the summer when new shoots are three to five inches tall. This will encourage the plants to become compact and bushy. Stop pinching around July 10 to 15 to allow the flower buds to develop.

Mums are also popular gifts for Mother's Day, or any time a nice plant is needed.

Timely Garden Tips

- This is the ideal time to apply crabgrass preventer to the lawns, when forsythia starts to bloom and before apple blossoms show pink.
- Increase rhododendron flowering by pinching back the tips of new growth.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

Keep eyes open for 'aah'-inspiring photographs

By MONTE NAGLER
Special Writer

All photographers like to have their egos stroked with the "oohs" and "aahs" of appreciation of those viewing their pictures. This not only means that the photographs were well received, but positive feedback serves as an incentive to make you want to go out and shoot more shots.

How can you improve your photographs and get positive acclaim? One good way is to be on the lookout for the unusual, which, most often, is right there in front of you. What needs to be done is to develop your skills in seeing the unusual and then producing the image on film. Listed below are some things to look for that will help you capture that something different on film.

As you look through the viewfinder of your camera, really begin to "see."

For example, a backlit shot can transform your subject into an unusual, dramatic silhouette. Or a shadow cast by an early morning or late afternoon sun can add that extra touch to your shot. How about an unusual cloud formation or perhaps an approaching thunderstorm?

A keen photographer's eye can isolate a small detail or a striking pattern that will produce a photograph of unusual quality. Even using backgrounds effectively can add important impact to your shot. And keeping your eyes open for an exciting splash of color may be that final ingredient for that special shot.

Don't overlook reflections either and pay close attention to careful framing and composition, all of which will generate those "oohs" and "aahs."

Using your camera's controls creatively can add the unusual to your pictures, too. Slow shutter speeds can blur the action and give a misty, dreamlike appearance to subjects such as flowing water. Fast shutter speeds will, of course, freeze the action at its peak. Remember that your aperture controls depth-of-field that in turn can be used to get an unusual look in your picture.

Even candid shots will capture that unusual, fleeting expression that is so elusive in posed portraits.

For you vacationers, put your traveler's vision in gear and be on the lookout for the unusual. An obscure street scene or other out-of-the-way image will add impact and interest to your travel photographs.

In summary, it's OK to deviate from the "normal" in your photography.

Spring HOME IMPROVEMENT

SUPPLEMENT TO THE OBSERVER & ECCENTRIC NEWSPAPERS THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1996

Good vents protect from moisture

A hidden problem may be causing slow but certain damage to a part of your house that probably accounts for up to 40 percent of its visible exterior – your roof.

"When shingles crack, roof deck wood rots or gutters leak, your first impulse may be to blame the individual components. In fact, they have been fine when installed but couldn't stand the silent but steady pressure of the real culprit – attic heat and moisture caused by improper roof ventilation.

"Attic heat and moisture-rot wood reduce the effectiveness of attic insulation, damage underlayment and paint and cause cracked, buckled or leaking asphalt shingles," says Dick Lantz, Owens-Corning vice president. "The conditions also creates ice dams, which can destroy gutters, damage shingles and cause leaks in walls."

How can you spot attic heat and moisture buildup before damage occurs? "Winter offers telltale signs," Lantz advises. "Toward the ridge or the roof, there will be no snow because attic heat has melted it, but snow still will be present near the eaves, with big icicles hanging from them."

You can prevent these problems, Lantz says, by asking your roofing contractor to include soffit (undereave) vents and ridge vents in any new roof installation or even a partial shingle-replacement job. Lantz offers a simple three-point checklist to review with your contractor to ensure effective vent installation.

"Attic heat and moisture-rot wood reduce the effectiveness of attic insulation."

Dick Lantz
Owens-Corning vice president

•Point 1 – Strike a balanced, 50-50 ratio in soffit and ridge vents to ensure continuous airflow along the underside of the roof ridge, thereby removing excess heat and moisture.

"When you do this, you allow a free flow of fresh air in winter and summer," Lantz said. "Air enters the attic through a low continuous intake – the soffit vent – and then moves up and out through a high continuous exhaust – the ridge vent. The continuous airflow also helps balance inside and outside temperatures for greater home comfort."

He adds, "With a balanced ventilation system, even when there's no wind, the natural convection action of rising warm air maintains a continuous airflow along the underside of the roof."

•Point 2 – "Pay close attention to the quality of ridge vents. Some do a better job than others. Owens-Corning is confident enough about the quality of its new line of VentSure Ridge Vents to give each a limited 20-year warranty," Lantz said. The vents are specially designed with no moving parts and no need for energy, in both embossed aluminum and injection-molded high-impact polypropylene shingle-over versions.

VENTING HELPS: Proper ventilation increases the comfort and energy efficency of your house and it preserves the look and performance of your roof.

•Point 3 – "Check your shingle warranty to make sure your ventilation meets the shingle manufacturer's specification," Lantz advises. "Otherwise, the warranty may be void. Getting shingles and vents from the same manufacturer can help avoid this problem."

Just how much ventilation is enough. "The Federal Housing Administration Minimum Property Standards call for 1 square foot of net free ventilation for each 150 to 300 square feet of attic space, depending on certain circumstances. Your roofing contractor should be able to advise you on what's required."

New book shows pool house plans

Today's pool houses now offer much more than just a place to change clothes. This is clearly illustrated by the world's first catalog featuring a unique collection of designs and floor plans of pool houses and cabanas. This new catalog is now available to swimming pool owners from Coventry Pool & Garden Houses Inc. of Feasterville, Pa.

This one-of-a-kind collection of architectural renderings and floor plans embraces the newest and most innovative design ideas presented in a large 11-inch by 17-inch format.

According to Ed Kahn, president of Coventry Pool & Garden Houses Inc., "The catalog has been designed to present pool house designs to meet the requirements of almost every property and budget. As far as I know, there's nothing like it."

"In addition," Kahn said, "for each pool house design and floor plan, the company is offering a complete set of architectural plans, ranging in price from $75 to $325. They include detailed plans and elevations so that all of the pool houses can be built exactly the way they are shown in the catalog."

"Whether you plan to work with a professional architect and contractor or you're a skilled do-it-yourselfer, this catalog is a place to start," said Kahn. "It contains the best of all ideas for entertaining, serving, recreation and storage."

"Also, by owning this catalog, pool owners can save hundreds, even thousands, in design costs because our architects have already done the hard work."

Of the 55 professionally presented plans, 47 relate directly to pool houses and cabanas and eight are specifically designed for those who are primarily interested in garden houses. "Many of the pool house designs," Kahn said, "can easily be converted to garden houses, thereby increasing the variety of choices."

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of the new coventry Pool & Garden House catalog may order it directly from the company for $19.95 plus $3.95 shipping and handling. The company is located at 860 Pennsylvania Bld., Feasterville, Pa. 19053. The toll free number is 1-800-887-2011.

According to the National Spa and Pool Institute of Alexandria, Va., there are currently 6.1 million swimming pool owners in the continental United States. Of that number, 3.3 million are in-ground and 2.8 million are above ground.

Proper equipment makes job easier

Before the birds begin to sing in the trees, homeowners already have their spring home improvement projects planned. Whether it's replacing windows, reshingling the roof or installing new flooring, they're ready to take action as soon as the weather gets warm. Whether people are doing the work themselves or hiring professionals, proper planning is an important part of any home improvement project. When hiring a contractor, people need to know exactly what they want done, so they can meet with professionals, explain the work and get realistic estimates. Do-it-yourselfers need to plan ahead to ensure they have set aside enough time for the project, have the right equipment and materials and understand the work that needs to be done.

Having the proper equipment means not only having the tools specifically designed for the task at hand but also having tools that are in good condition. It is a good idea for do-it-yourselfers to check that tools are in working order before beginning a project. All handles should be fixed firmly into the tool's working end, and jaw teeth, cutters and blades should be sharp. Any tools that are damaged should be thrown away.

If, when planning a project, do-it-yourselfers find that they don't have a tool they need, they can buy, rent or borrow it. Renting or borrowing allows them to see if they like a particular model or brand, making the decision easier when they finally decide to buy the tool. If people want to buy the tool many home improvement professionals recommend going to a knowledgeable local dealer. While prices may not be as expensive as those in a catalog, do-it-yourselfers will be able to get a feel for the tool before buying.

After getting the proper equipment, people should follow the manufacturer's instructions when using each tool. Tools should be kept clean, dry and away from excessive heat. Before using a tool near electricity, people should shut off the current. They also should use steady pressure on jaws or cutters, instead of rocking the tool. If they are doing continuous work, it is a good idea to wear gloves or use comfort grips to help avoid getting blisters or calluses.

New air conditioning uses natural gas fuel

Natural gas is a well respected, cost effective heating fuel. And now people throughout Michigan are being cooled with it.

Jan Wagner, a Shelby Township resident said, "When I had electric air conditioning in my old house I used to look for the surprise in the bill each month. But now with gas air conditioning, my bill is lower and much more consistent."

Today, clean-burning gas air conditioning is the most environmentally sensitive cooling technology available. It offers a two-to-one price advantage over electricity. In fact, according to Consumers Power, the average savings for 650 cooling hours per year with a four ton gas cooling system over an electric cooling system can result in an operating savings of over $200 annually. Plus, it uses no chlorofluorocarbons, hydrochlorofluorocarbons, or other chemicals that are harmful to the Earth's ozone layer.

How does it work? Natural gas cools your home using a time-tested, proven process of absorption. This process utilizes an ammonia/water solution instead of ozone damaging freon used in electric air conditioners. The ammonia and the natural gas stay in the central unit outside your home.

In the outdoor unit, the solution is boiled to separate the ammonia from the water. This ammonia gas is then condensed and turned into a liquid as it passes through the condenser section.

Next, the condensed liquid ammonia passes through a restrictor and into an evaporator while it chills the mixture and is circulated into a heat exchanger unit inside the furnace similar to antifreeze in automobiles. From there, cool air is sent on its way throughout the house.

Besides being environmentally friendly and economical, cooling your home with natural gas central air conditioner has a number of advantages.

The system is reliable, quiet and easy to maintain. Other than a small pump and fan, there are only three moving parts to contend with – two check valves and a diaphragm.

A natural gas air conditioner is built to last. A natural gas system can operate up to two times as long as a comparable electric unit.

Another important reason to consider equipping your home with a natural gas air conditioner is that it has been approved and tested by the American Gas Association.

Gas air conditioning – it really is low-cost, environmentally friendly way to stay cool this summer.

Toro offers users help on lawn care

MINNEAPOLIS, PRNewswire – When's the best time to apply fertilizer? What's the most effective way to eliminate germinating crabgrass? Is it better to apply herbicides in the spring or fall? Homeowners and weekend mowers now can find answers to the usual and unusual at The Toro Company's yard care home page on the Internet.

The website (www.yardcare.com) offers virtually instantaneous professional guidance and tips at a time when most Americans are readying their lawns for spring. In the "What's Your Yard Care Problem?" website, users can "Ask Earl, the Yard Care Guy," about specific information on handling grasses, weeds, leaves and pests. The user may either choose a particular category or search the website's database with select keywords.

The yard care website also is interactive, allowing visitors to ask their own questions via online e-mail. Toro, the leader in lawn and yard care products, is the first in its category to employ a searchable website. Its yard care home page, written in familiar, consumer language, is considered to be the most extensive database on lawn care available on the Internet, and may be accessed by the 24 million people in the United States and Canada who today search hundreds of thousands of websites.

"We're addressing lawn care questions most often asked by consumers," says Jim Wallace, marketing manager for The Toro Company. "And we tackle very specific and technical issues. This allows anyone on the Internet to quickly solve a lawn problem, whether it's weed control or disease management – a real convenience for those who enjoy spending time in their yards and gardens. The site also offers information on selecting lawn and yard equipment and suggestions for its general care."

Additionally, Toro has launched a company site (www.toro.com) with visuals of, and information about, its range of consumer products, including lawn mowers and tractors, snow throwers, trimmers, blowers/vacs and outdoor lighting. The site provides shoppers with model specifications, product feature comparisons, and a glossary of yard care equipment terms. Consumers can learn the locations of the nearest Toro dealers simply by entering their home ZIP code.

In addition, the site's Hot Stuff section contains new product information and current promotions. Both sites offer audio-on-demand, designed to enhance the user's experience. The soundtracks, based on recently introduced technology, are already incorporated into the site's design providing instantaneous audio. The Toro Co. (NYSE: TTC), based in Minneapolis, Minn., is the world's leading manufacturer and marketer of lawn and garden products.

April designated as lawn care month

As winter's chill and drab colors recede, among the first plants to reflect the hues of spring are lawn grasses. To celebrate the arrival of spring and the nation's focus on outdoor activities, the Professional Lawn Care Association of America has designated April as National Lawn Care Month.

According to the association, the North American lawn care season officially starts in April when more than 25 million acres of lawns are turning green just about everywhere. It's estimated that North Americans spend about 1 billion hours tending to lawns every year.

"A recent Gallup survey noted that consumers spent $25.9 billion on do-it-yourself lawn and garden activities in 1994, and an additional $13.4 billion on professional lawn and landscape services," said Ann E. McClure, the association's executive vice president. "National Lawn Care Month honors Americans' pride in beautifying their homes and community landscapes."

There are many reasons why Americans value their lawns. Gallup survey respondents said well-maintained lawns and landscapes:

The environmental benefits of a healthy lawn – helping to purify and cool the air and filtering water that drains into the ground – were recognized by 23 percent of U.S. households. While still nothigh on the list, recognition of the environment benefits of a healthy lawn did increase by 11 percent over 1993. In fact, healthy turf helps lock nitrogen and phosphorous in the root zone and prevents them from reaching the groundwater, explained McClure. A Cornell University study shows that a healthy, properly maintained lawn is an effective filter for protecting groundwater quality.

With the economic, aesthetic and environmental benefits a healthy lawn brings, it's no wonder we consider lawncare a priority, said McClure. "It's fitting that we celebrate our lawns in April when we begin to spend more time outdoors," McClure said.

Sunroom style adds creativity and flare

MACEDONIA, Ohio,PRNewswire — Be imaginative when it comes to decorating your sunroom. This unique living space is different from any other in your house, and it deserves special treatment. Go beyondfurnishings that give a part-time look. A sunroom's ambiance changes with the time of day and the season — homeowners can use that to their decorating advantage with these special tips from Patio Enclosures, Inc. the nation's largest sunroom manufacturer.

Create Moods With Vertical Blinds and Pleated Shades. At night time pulled shades and a softly lit lamp create a cozy candlelight effect. On a hot, sunny day blinds turn your room into a cool oasis while still providing the feeling of being outdoors. With window treatments, you can block out the neighbor's picnic on one side and still enjoy the view on the other. Vertical blinds and shades come in hundreds of colors, patterns, textures and styles. Consider new easy- care vinyl options which contain textures for the look of linen or heavy cotton. Consider leaving high windows bare for an open-airy feeling.

Select Indoor-Outdoor Materials. Wrought iron, wicker and rattan are extremely popular among sunroom owners. These materials are perfect for the transition between indoor and outdoor. You can find beautiful furniture and accessories made of these materials in traditional to contemporary styles. Also consider wooden Adirondak chairs with different cushions to match the seasons. Today's indoor-outdoor fabrics look like indoor upholstery but are stain fast, water resistant, fade-proof, and will last a lifetime in a sunroom.

Add Cheer With Hanging and Potted Plants and Flowers. Plant lovers can create a tropical oasis in their sunrooms for a mid- afternoon escape to their very own "rain forest." Hanging flowers and potted plants can create a winter garden in dreary months when we're craving springtime. Try flower boxes on the floor around the perimeter of the room. Or use multi-level plant stands. Plants are a great way to fill a room before you can furnish it completely.

Don't Overlook The Floors. Today we have many practical floor covering options for a beautiful indoor-outdoor look. Plastic green outdoor carpeting is out. Slate, ceramic tiles with patterned borders, natural weave mattes and sturdy Berber carpeting are practical and attractive options. A word of advice, stay away from light colored grout on tiled floors - it is difficult to keep clean in high traffic rooms. Patterned flooring with slight speckles will hide dirt better than solids.

Create Atmosphere! Hang framed stained glass to add color and beauty. It's also a great way to hide less attractive outdoor views while still letting in light. Light candles at night. The reflection off the glass is mesmerizing! Use white Christmas lights around the ceiling for a romantic look.

Decorate The Yard, Too. Lanterns dangling around your sunroom will make the yard glow. Bamboo citronella torches create mood. Bird baths and flower gardens, designed for sunroom viewing, also add to enjoyment. Sunroom owners are invited to submit photos of their sunroom ideas to Patio Enclosures, Inc., P.O. Box186, Macedonia, Ohio 44056. For a free booklet on sunroom types and how to select a sunroom contractor, write to the address above or call 800-480-1966.

Hardwoodology: These terms will have you talking like a pro

PITTSBURGH, _ Bird's-eye. French dovetail. Rabbets. Ah, the signs of spring ... spring home improvement. As the blizzards of '96 melt into memory, homeowners already are springing into action on home improvement projects, the Hardwood Manufacturers Association said today. To help jumpstart projects involving hardwood flooring, cabinetry or millwork, here's a handy primer from the Hardwood Manufacturers Association guaranteed to impress your contractor (and your spouse).

All-wood _ A term applied to a wide range of construction materials, including veneer bonded to plywood, oriented strand board or particleboard.

Burl _ A curly, irregular, decorative woodgrain figure. Also a natural swelling on a tree trunk that produces such a figure.

Character mark _ A distinctive feature in a hardwood surface, produced by minerals and other elements absorbed as the tree grows. Dado _ The lower portion of thewall of a room, often decorated differently from the upper portion. Also, a rectangular groove cut into a board so another piece may be fitted into it.

French dovetail _ A joint with single, long, dovetail-shaped tenon slipped into corresponding mortise, often used to connect drawer fronts and sides.

Grade, grading _ A designation the quality of logs or sawn lumber based on the amount of usable lumber in the piece, or on features that affect strength, durability, utility or appearance. Standards are established by manufacturing associations.

Hardwoods _ The botanical group of trees that bear broad leaves, in contrast to conifers or softwoods, which bear needles. The actual hardness of the wood varies among the species.

Inlay _ A surface decoration composed of small pieces of contrasting woods or other materials set flush with a wooden surface.

Moisture content _ The amount of water in wood, usually expressed as a percentage of weight. In manufacturing, controlled drying stabilizes wood dimensionally, increases its strength and improves its capacity to hold finishes. All solid hardwood products vary slightly in moisture content in response to their surroundings.

Moulding _ A decorative strip of hardwood or other material, usually having a curved or projected surface.

Some common moulding terms:

Chair rail - A moulding applied along a wall for protection against chair backs, or as a design element between wall treatments such as paneling, wallpaper or paint.

Newel - The post that supports the handrail at the bottom of a staircase; the central vertical support of a spiral staircase.

Rabbet _ A rectangular cut or groove in the edge of a piece of wood that interlocks with another grooved piece.

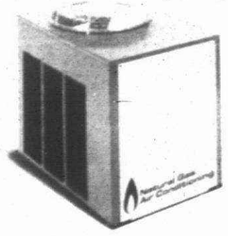
IT'S TIME TO FIRE UP THE AC.



Burning natural gas hardly seems like a way to keep cool in the summer heat. But it is. In fact, it may be the best way. Natural gas air conditioning has many benefits over traditional cooling systems. To begin with, natural gas central air conditioners have lower operating and maintenance costs. Natural gas systems have fewer moving parts so they're quieter and more reliable, often lasting up to twice as long as conventional air conditioning systems. And they're chlorofluorocarbon (CFC) free, so they're environmentally friendly. And if all of that wasn't enough incentive, they now come with a rebate. This summer, get fired up about natural gas air conditioning. To find out more, give us a call at 1-800-989-4GAS.

It's checkup time for healthy home

By JoAnne Liebler
Special Writer

(NAPS) An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure when it comes to keeping your home healthy. Your doctor would probably tell you it is a good idea to get a quick check up before engaging in strennuous summer activities and the same common sense applies to your home. Here is a checklist that can help.

•Clean out your gutters and downspouts. Seal any leaky joints and make sure that rain water is directed well away from the foundation.

•Storms can be tough on roofs. Check the flashing around your chimineys and roof vents and look for broken or missing shingles.

•Leaky windows and door seals can waste a lot of the money you spend on air conditioning. Replace missing or damaged caulk and weatherstripping.

•Have any cracks in your home's foundation and exterior facing repaired as soon as possible.

•Decks and porches need special attention. Clean out debris between the boards and above the joists. Replace warped or splitting wood and reseal, restain or repaint the deck before humid summer weather does more damage.

•Rake leaves away from the side of the house and clean out basement window wells, clear away debris on or around your air conditioner.

•Trim shrubs and trees so they don't touch the house. This also helps eliminate hiding places for any would-be burglars.

•Patch or replace any window and door screens that have holes.

•Too many people forget about cleaning or replacing furnace filters during air conditioning season. Whether you have central air or a room air conditioner, keep those filters clean.

High tech bird feeder offers sights and sounds of spring

WARRENSVILLE HEIGHTS,Ohio, PRNewswire — Birdwatching for gardeners. It's nosurprise that gardening is America's most popular pastime. Butdid you know that bird watching and feeding is the nation's number two leisure time activity? Forthe 65 million Americans who actively watch and feed birds, County Line Limited offers a new concept in bird feeders that utilizeswireless technology to bring thesounds of nature directly into thehome.

The company's WingSong birdfeeder system consists of twoparts: a patented wireless microphone and transmitter that is located under the feeder's roof anda portable receiver//speaker.

The WingSong bird feeder, incolonial-style, has a seed capacityof 1 1/2 gallons and is available atretail outlets nationwide foraround $100. For local retailers,contact County Line at 800-692-2656.

Making the summer house attractive to vactioners

(MPS) While some of us are still wondering why last summer's renters left the wok in the backyard shower, homeowners with rental property in vacation communities should be planning for the "next season." Whether you occupy your property in the summer and rent it out in the winter or vice versa, it's never too soon to plan the renovation projects that attract tenants and enhance your own enjoyment of the property. The myriad ways to update a rental property easily and inexpensively to charm prospective tenants and command a higher fee.

•Fresh paint _ The easiest redecorating job comes in a gallon can of paint. Experiment! While some people swear by white walls, others recommend very pale pastels, especially when light is limited. Rooms with dark, ordinary paneling. Be sure to prime the surface first so that the paint adheres to it. You'll see how cheerful the room becomes!

•Mint-condition floors _ Floors are critical to a sense of spaciousness and ease of care. For this purpose, the best floors are resilient (vinyl) flooring, which is available in a wide range of styles and prices. Resilient flooring can replicate hardwood, marble, ceramic and saltillo tile. According to Leonard Ludovico, vice president of styling and design for Congoleum Corp., "A great floor that helps unify space instantly improves any property and resilient flooring eliminates time-consuming upkeep."

Matthaei Gardens has perennial sale

The most appealing gardens are those that complement your home. They have color, texture, shape and perennials which play a big part of the overall picture. Fine Gardening magazine advises would-be gardeners to think of garden plants as part of a big picture. Include a pleasing background of lawn and flowering plants, create a sense of enclosure by bordering the garden with a hedge or carefully placed trees, and use paths and views to link the garden to other parts of the grounds and the house.

Choosing perennials to complement your home or landscape can be a daunting proposition. The varieties to choose from are many and site selection is critical. The Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens can offer relief to the novice or experienced gardener searching for that perennial gem. For a one-stop shopping perennial experience, loads of advice from knowledgable plant experts and more than 30,000 perennials ranging from rock garden plants to wildflowers, visit the Botanical Gardens' Spring Perennial Sale , 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. May 4 and 5. Some quantities are limited. A special Friends sale will take place 7-9 p.m. Friday, May 3 which offers a first selection and a 10 percent discount. Memberships will be available at the door. The following are some of the choice plants available at the sale.

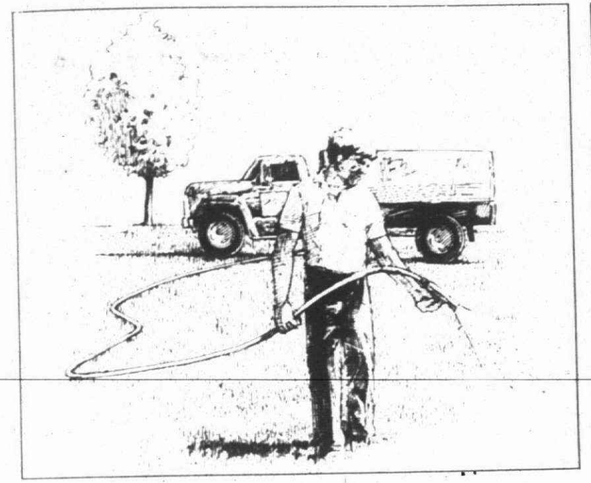
Crocosmia X Curtonis 'Lucifer' (Crocosmia 'Lucifer'). This unusual hardy cormus plant has coarse, sword-like foliage 2-5 feet tall that is similar to the gladiolus. The long arching flower stalk has bright red flowers which are arranged in a similar way to the freesia. It prefers a moist well-drained soil and sun to partial shade. Winter hardiness is a bit controversial. Some information suggests lifting the corms in zones 5 and 6 and storing them in a dry frost-free place. Others suggest planting in the proper location and mulching well to ensure success.

There are over 32,000 named varieties of daylily. Among the more unique cultivars chosen for sale are the Hemerocallis 'Prairie Blue Eyes.' This lavender daylily was developed in 1970 and is still sought after for its bluish halo or eye. It is considered to be the best blue daylily and its heavy bud count make it very desirable. Sun to light shade and well-drained soil are recommended.

Hemerocallis 'Prairie Moonlight.' Also on the top 100 list is this extra large (8 inches) fragrant yellow daylily that stays open into the evening.

This year's presale will also offer Pre-Sale Savvy Sessions Sunday April 21 at 1 p.m. and Saturday, April 27, at noon. What is new and unique will be highlighted.

The Spring Perennial Sale and Pre-Sale Savvy Sessions will be held at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens. Take US-23 to the Geddes Road exit, head east to Dixboro Road. The address is 1800 N. Dixboro Road. For information, call the gardens 313-998-7061.



When creating lawn environment is issue

Environmental impacts and benefits are important points to consider when determining whether to establish a new lawn with sod or seed, according to the Turf Resource Center, a not-for-profit educational group in suburban Chicago. Pesticide usage and erosion control are just two environmental factors the organization says can make a major difference in the decision making process.

In years past, before the age of environmental awareness and concern, cost versus value was most often the basis for deciding between sod or seed to establish or renew a lawn. Proponents of each method would argue long and loud. One group would point to the low cost of seed versus the cost of mature sod, while another group would point out the amount of continual labor and lack of use the seeded lawn would require compared to the sodded yard. Higher management and maintenance costs of seeded lawns were acceptable to some homeowners, while others insisted that the cost of sodding was more than returned when visual appeal, uniformity and other factors were considered.

Today, lawn-establishment decisions are being made with a greater concern for the environment. While some people may still make their decision based on a seed-only price compared to installed sod, more and more homeowners and landscape professionals are very concerned about the following environmental factors.

While turfgrass can be successful whenever sod is available (practically year-round, even when the soil is frozen), recommendations for seeding are usually restricted to the fall or perhaps the spring in some areas and it's to be avoided during the winter or summer. Seasonal delays in establishing a lawn with seed will prolong and perhaps even worsen outside environmental factors while certainly creating indoor environmental havoc with tracked-in mud.

Although seeding and sodding both require deep tilling, proper soil amendments and adequate drainage, sodding immediately over properly prepared soil will ensure that the effort is not wasted or damaged by untimely rains, wash-outs or other disruptive factors. Delay between seeding and adequate establishment usually require multiple repairs, reseeding and still further delays.

Seeded or even hydroseeded lawn will require considerably more water than a sodded lawn, regardless of the time of year it is planted. Sod, as a mature plant with an intact root structure, will shade the soil, reduce evaporation and subsequent drying out, as its roots probe deeper and deeper into the soil for the water it needs. The water conserved by using sod will of course reduce water bills, but it will also permit that unused amount of water to be available for other purposes.

Turfgrass sod is delivered as a weed-free thick and mature piece of grass that is able to choke out weed seedlings that may be present in the yard. Thus weed control is seldom an issue for many years with a sodded lawn.

For additional information on the environmental and cost/value factors homeowners should consider when creating a new lawn, a complimentary copy of the brochure "Self Scoring Method ... How to Establish A Lawn," can be obtained by writing to Turf Resources Center, Dept. HI-2, 1855-A Hicks Road, Rolling Meadows, IL 60008.

Agent creates goodwill with plants

An area Realtor has found a way to use nature to liven up the office where he works. Clients and colleagues like what he does with plants.

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Spike, Jade, Gloria and Frank are in good hands with Howard Stine, a Realtor with Century 21 Suburban in Northville.

Charlie, Diana, a slew of Harrys and Sweetheart also draw regular attention from Stine in the office.

What he is is a self-taught plant expert who's nurtured and named more than two dozen plants on display in the office.

"They do a lot for decoration," Stine said. "They're a natural filter. They take in nasty stuff and give you moisture. They're cheap, too.

"A lot of people who come in here are amazed," Stine said of the collection. "People walking by , the lobby attracts them and they come in and inquire about the plants.

"Other agents in this office like the plants. They think it makes for a nice working environment."

The plants generate a lot of goodwill.

"Morale in that office is one of the highest I've seen," said Timothy J. Reilly, manager. "I think the plants being as vibrant as they are have something to do with it.

"We get a lot of compliments and observations from our customers when they come in," Reilly said. "Customers come in and talk to or stroke the plants."

"We've had people walk in looking at the plants not even looking for a house," said Jan Nickerson, receptionist. "One day, when we had problems with the heat, we moved all the plants to one area. The office was bare. It looked like there was no life in it. It was blah."

Stine, who turns 70 today, took on the responsibility shortly after joining Century 21 Suburban about five years ago.

"There was a certain amount of plants on board and a handful weren't doing very well," he said.

"When we moved to this office, a lot of well-wishers gave us plants. We have an office in Plymouth and they sent some over. Agents would bring them in and give them to me to nurse them back to health. Not all of the plants I take care of stay here. Some go back home.

"I grew up on a farm," Stine said. "When you're a farmer, you're in close communion with animals and plants. When I was living in California, I acquired a great interest in plants because they do so well out there."

While Stine said he's never promoted himself as your real estate/plant professional, he never really knows when his hobby results in business for himself or others in the office.

"Obviously, real estate is a process where you start out as a stranger. You become intimate and part of the team," Stine said. "Everyone I meet here, I show them the plants. Maybe it gives them an idea what kind of guy I am."

Stine said he generally waters plants weekly, fertilizes every two or three weeks and rubs vegetable oil on the exposed side of leaves on corn stalks, rubber tree plants and jade _ "it not only makes them look decorative but keeps them clean" _ monthly.

"I think plants respond to care," Stine said. "I don't want to get off into a strange guy thing, but if you do things to plants on a regular basis, they respond.

"You have to like them. You've got to touch them, prune them. When you prune, don't just yank leaves off. That hurts. Gently pull.

"Find where a plant wants to live," he said. "Set it in a spot and watch it. If it's not thriving, don't be afraid to move it. Not every plant has to be near a window.

"You want to water a plant only if it needs it. I use a dissolvable fertilizer (Miracle-Gro) and water.

"Touch your plants _ they respond to that," Stine said. Let them know they're part of the family. Plants respond to music. I think it's just the general atmosphere."

Stine said he doesn't always know the formal names of plants he takes care of and doesn't really care. "They're all my favorites," he said.

There's no science to coming up with monikers.

"It's just a fit," Stine said. "After I look at a plant for awhile, a name just pops into my head.

"I get great satisfaction seeing plants grow," he said. "Some people go fishing. Some ski. I work with plants."

Warranties determine builder's responsibility

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. Can you tell me how long a builder is held responsible for a new home that he built? Our home was built and completed in November of 1991. The last rain storm we had, we saw water stains on the drywall of the ceiling. There was also water in the attic.

A. First, you should review your purchase agreement to determine whether any express warranty was provided to you by the builder. Generally, most builders provide, at the least, a one-year warranty on labor and materials from the date of closing.

On the other hand, there may be additional warranties that are provided, both by the builder and the manufacturer of some of the component parts which go with the home.

In addition, the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Occupational and Professional Regulation, normally entertains complaints by purchasers of homes for a period of at least 18 months from the date of closing.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, there is an implied warranty of habitability in a home which is not necessarily limited to one year.

The implied warranty of habitability would include a right given to the purchaser to pursue defects which impinge upon the habitability of a unit, including water in the attic and/or ceilings.

You are best advised, however, to consult with a real estate attorney of your choosing.

Q. I own a trailer and am renting a lot in a trailer park. Most of us are senior citizens who have lived there for a number of years.

Last year, the owner hired a new park manager who is making new rules as he sees fit. He is making it hard on all of us.

I put grass seed down every year, mow my lawn, rake it and pick up leaves. I plant flowers and tomatoes and am wondering what rights the new park manager has with respect to my trailer.

He made the person across the path put a porch and an awning over his front door.

A. Generally, the terms and conditions of the rights of the park manager are set forth in the lease arrangement which presumably has been signed between you and the trailer park.

The lease may reserve the right, on the part of the park manager and/or landlord-owner, to promulgate rules and regulations.

However, the rules and regulations must be reasonable and cannot be in violation of any rights that the tenants may have under the lease arrangement or common law.

It would be necessary to review the lease which you have entered into, together with the rules and regulations, which have been promulgated by the park manager, before one could answer your question with specificity.

To the extent that the park manager is attempting to exceed rules and regulations which have been promulgated, that is beyond his authority.

You should have your lease arrangement and these other rules and regulations reviewed by competent legal counsel to assist you in determining your rights and the rights of other trailer park tenants.

Consider financing with FHA mortgage

By Dave Mully
Special Writer

The process of obtaining an FHA loan is much easier today for both the buyer and the seller. No longer is the seller required to pay points and closing costs when selling their home to buyers needing FHA financing. FHA inspection of the home has also become less stringent.

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of columns focusing on the advantages of FHA financing and how it can help you obtain "The American Dream."

This week's home mortgage shopping tip: Consider FHA financing and all its advantages when purchasing a home.

The Detroit HUD office recently raised the FHA maximum mortgage limits in its eight county jurisdiction. FHA loans of up to $126,350 are available for purchase of single family home or condominium in Lenawee, Livingston and Washtenaw counties. In Macomb, Monroe, St. Clair and Wayne counties, the maximum is $116,850. In Oakland county, the limit is $124,000.

With these new increases, FHA loans are becoming more attractive to consumers buying homes in the price range of $20,000 to $135,000. In addition, the process of obtaining an FHA loan is much easier today for both the buyer and the seller. No longer is the seller required to pay points and closing costs when selling their home to buyers needing FHA financing. FHA inspection of the home has also become less stringent. Until recently, it could take months to obtain an FHA mortgage. Now, however, when using a mortgage lender approved by the HUD office for FHA mortgages, approval is usually a smooth process that should only take 3 to 4 weeks.

Depending on who you talk to FHA financing is either a great tool to home ownership or a last resort. I believe you need to have an open mind about FHA loans and not make judgments on what you may have heard or read or even experienced yourself in the past. Times have changed. You're only costing yourself money if you don't give this type of financing a fair evaluation. A good loan officer experienced in FHA financing can tell you during an initial interview whether or not you fit the profile of a desirable FHA mortgagee. As always, be careful when listening to advice on which type of financing is best for you. If the person advising you does not favor FHA financing, they may try to steer you away from that program even though it may be a good option for you.

I am always careful when referring loan officers or lenders to my FHA mortgage clients because, after years of doing these loans myself, I know it takes skill to do them effectively. Be careful and shop around. There are so many variables affecting why one type of financing may be better for you than another. You should rely heavily on a mortgage professional who will be honest and objective in giving advice. It is so important to find a source you can rely on because it could end up saving you hundreds or even thousands of dollars.

In the next few weeks, we will look more closely at the advantages of FHA financing and learn more about how it can help you qualify for a higher priced home with less money out of pocket. We will also look at the various programs offered under FHA. For readers that have paid off an FHA mortgage in the last five years, you can learn how you may be eligible for a valuable refund. Stay tuned!

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION:
Q: I am going to have a home built this summer and would like your opinion on construction financing programs. I have not had much success in finding a bank that does this. Do you have a list of lenders offering construction financing?

A: Yes, I do. Lenders that get involved with new construction financing are usually specialized in this area. Typically, the program works like this. You first get your sales agreement executed with the builder and obtain plans and specs on the home you are having built. (If you're building the home yourself, you need to be a licensed builder.) Then you select a lender and apply for a mortgage. The lender will want some information on the builder if the builder is not already on that lender's approved list. After a few weeks, you have an approval on your mortgage with a locked-in rate and the closing is completed before the home is even built. The lender will give the builder "draws" or payments based on the percentage of the home that is completed. When the home is complete, the final disbursement is given to the builder.

"For a sales associate to be a success or a top producer, they understand the real estate industry as their own business," said Paul Schweitzer, president of the company headquartered in Sterling Heights.

"They have to have organization and provide exceptional service to customers and clients. It's an honor to have these sales associates as part of our organization," Schweitzer said.

Here are the honorees:

Birmingham office _ Rosalee Hill was honored as the top sales associate in Birmingham for listings sold, buyer-controlled (not the listing agent) sales and gross commission income.

Hill was named a member of the President's Top 30 Club and was fifth in sales of 500 sales associates company-wide.

Del Moore and Jean Colby were recognized as members of the President's Top 30 Club. John Comenos was named Coldwell Banker Schweitzer's Rookie of the Year.

Other top producers in the Birmingham office were Phil Davis, Margo Kory and Dorothy Harrington.

Bloomfield Hills office _ Helga Nisonger, the gross commission income leader in the office and a member of the President's Top 30 Club, was honored with a lifetime achievement award.

West Bloomfield office _ John Delaney, who led the office in gross commission incomeand buyer-controlled sales, was recognized as a member of the President's Top 30 Club.

Jacqueline Steuer was top sales agent for listing sold in West Bloomfield.

Troy office _ Patrick Carolan was recognized as the office's number one sales associate for listings sold and gross commission income. A member of the President's Top 30 Club, Carolan was sixth in the entire company of 500 sales associates.

Dan Murphy, a President's Top 30 Club member and ranked eighth overall, was the office leader in buyer-controlled sales.

Other top producers included Paul Louchart, Dannette Hansen, Karen Phillips and Patricia Morris.

Plymouth office _ Chris Knight, a President's Top 30 Club member, led Plymouth in gross commission income, buyer-controlled sales and listings sold. His sales volume was the third highest in the entire company.

Frank Julian, who finished seventh overall, also gained membership in the President's Top 30 Club.

Other top producers were Michael Schneider, Donna Meyka, Sandra Pattock and David Cassin.

Livonia office _ The sales team of Rick Borowiec and Neil McCloskey were named tops in lisitngs sold, buyer-controlled sales and gross commission income. They are also members of the President's Top 30 Club.

Harry Brandt received the President's Service Award.

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer has 17 offices throughout the metro Detroit area.

Meisner holds seminar

Robert M. Meisner, a lawyer and columnist for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, will speak at two outstate condominium management seminars this month sponsored by Central Michigan University.

The seminars will focus on legal responsibilities of condominium association officers and directors.

The first is scheduled 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 20, at the CMU Saginaw Center, 3037 Davenport, Saginaw. The second is 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, April 27 at the Eberhard Center, 301 W. Fulton, Grand Rapids.

Cost is $85, $55 for additional attendees from the same association. Add $10 for registrations after April12. To register, contact CMU at (517) 774-7129.

Topics include preventative measures in the face of potential liability and the duties directors/officers inherently accept when elected or appointed to a board.

Also, on the docket is how to take advantage of amendments to condo documents and the board's responsibility to review the legal, physical and financial health of the condominium complex while analyzing the needs of the association.

The seminar also will address day-to-day affairs faced by directors and officers and how to improve the efficiency in board and membership meetings.

Steps in obtaining mortgage financing and suggestions on what to look for when shopping for a house also will be discussed.

For reservations, call (810) 968-1800.

Pool and spa show

The Michigan Pool & Spa Association presents a backyard pool and spa show April 12-14 at the Novi Expo Center, I-96 at Novi Road.

Exhibitors will showcase decks and gazebos, playscapes and sports courts, outdoor furniture, lighting, landscape design and storage buildings in addition to spas and pools.

Show hours are 3-10 p.m. Friday, April 12, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, April 13, and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, April 14.

Admission is $6, $3 for children 6-14 years of age. Discount coupons are available at area Amoco stations.

Fair housing compliance

The Apartment Association of Michigan and its Property Management Council hosts a workshop on fair housing compliance 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday, April 16, at the Northfield Hilton, 5500 Crooks Troy.

Presenter: Thomas Harris, Fair Housing Compliance Services, Dallas, Texas.

Cost, which includes continental breakfast and lunch, is $25 for AAM, PMC and Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan members, $50 for non-members.

To register, call (810) 737-4477.

Energy efficiency seminar

The Building Industry Association hosts an energy efficiency seminar 9 a.m. to noon Tuesday, April 16, at its headquarters, 30375 Northwestern, Suite 100, Farmington Hills.

Michael Foerster of NCI Associates in Madison Heights will suggest ways for builders and remodelers to incorporate energy efficiency in both existing and state-of-the-art homes.

Cost is $20 for BIA members, $35 for non-members. To register, call (810) 737-4477.

Technology conference

The Greater Detroit Chapter of the Associated General Contractors hosts a construction technology conference 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday, May 23, at Lawrence Technological University in Southfield.

Topics include Megatrends Impacting the Construction Industry, Computer Integrated Construction and Controlling Your Computer Development.

The conference is geared to owners, architects, engineers, general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers and related professionals.

Cost is $15 in advance, $20 at the door and $5 for students. To register, call Joe Nuessendorfer at (810) 948-7000.

Meals for deals

Harry Wolfe, Realtor at Century 21 Hartford South in Livonia, recently created a marketing program, Meals for Deals, in which any seller who lists with him receives a dozen $50 restaurant gift certificates, a $600 value, at the closing of the sale.

"It's been a real good promotion," said Wolfe said, who refers to listings as his bread and butter.

Participating restaurants include Red Lobster, the Olive Garden, Bill Knapps, Country Epicure, McDonald's and Wing Yee's.

REAL ESTATE BRIEFS

Easter egg hunt

Century 21 Suburban hosts a free Easter Egg hunt with candy and prizes for children 3-12 years of age at its two offices this Saturday, April 6.

The festivities run 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Northville office, 130 Main Centre, (810) 349-1212, and 2-4 p.m. at its Plymouth office, 188 N. Main, (313) 455-5880.

Home financing workshop

Ross Mortgage presents a free financing workshop for home buyers 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 10, at the Southfield Civic Center, Evergreen south of I-696.

By the end of the seminar, people should have a good idea whether they can qualify for a mortgage and, if so, for how much.

The Winning Edge by Roger Hempel

Success - It Doesn't Hang In Your Closet!

The new catch phrase for the Nineties -- Corporate Casual - the relaxed look of Corporate America. It started out in many offices as Casual Day on Fridays. In some places, it spread to Mondays. There is always that little caveat: Proper business attire is required, if you are meeting with outside customers, vendors or senior management. That was simple to resolve. To avoid this condition, employees simply stop scheduling meetings on Mondays and Fridays with customers, vendors or corporate management. In many offices, Casual Day has spread to five days a week, for the entire corporation, and at all levels of management.

Most casual policies appear to be working, for the most part. There is always the people who take it to the extreme. You know the style -- torn, faded blue jeans, T-shirts with strange messages, sweat pants and tops, sandals, shorts, tank tips and cutoffs. Standards had to be established and enforced. Simple things, like clean, neat active wear, with collars on all shirts and tops. Dress slacks, sweaters, skirts and skorts, all to be worn with regular-type shoes. Some places have even set aside days, like Friday, where jeans and athletic shoes may be worn.

These changes in the corporate offices have also had a direct impact on the retail segment. Many men's and women's clothing stores now have a wider selection of upscale, casual separates and accessories. At the same time, stores have often reduced the size of areas devoted to both men's and women's suits. Some stores will even identify merchandise that they consider ideal for "office casual". Other stores have trained their sales associates to direct the customers through the myriad of suitable office attire. But "grunge" has no place, whatsoever, in the business office.

The American business office, and even many sales offices, often appear to have that country club look about them. Maybe this was intentional, so that people could slip out during the afternoon for a quick nine holes and not look like they had planned it that way.

But wait a minute! Who is that person over there in the corner office? The one with the Brooks Brothers suit, silk tie and wing tips. Why is he dressed that way?

Oh, him, that's just the director of the department. He's always dressed that way and will probably never change.

Well, what about that person over there?

Oh, the comptroller? You know her, the head bean counter. That type is always the last to change.

No, I was looking at that young man who just started last year. You know, the one with those wild ideas and that fancy MBA hanging on his wall. Why is he wearing that dress suit and tie? Does he think that will help get him ahead?

No, his ideas, talent, long hours and hard work have gotten him those two major promotions and very hefty pay increases in the past 15 months. His professional appearance only got him noticed.

What about that person over there? He started at about the same time and has been dressing in a suit and tie every day. I don't see him getting those raises and promotions.

The business suit will only get you noticed. Likewise, dressing very poorly will also get you noticed. The latter usually shows a lack of self-esteem. Sometimes, being noticed is for the good, and sometimes for the not-so-good. To stand out in a sea of lookalikes and wannabes, you may have to set yourself apart from the crowd. But, to truly succeed, you need to have the commitment, drive, resourcefulness and talent to keep you ahead of the pack. In the competitive, corporate arena, there are a large number of accomplished people vying for the same raises and promotions. If you are in this realm, and you want to be noticed, adhere to the unwritten dress code that the upper management uses in their own day-to day operation. You have to "Walk and dress the management line!"

You don't have to dress the part every day. Pick and choose those opportunities that will benefit the most from the upscale image. A professional, be it a man or a woman, only needs a couple of "power pieces" in their wardrobe. They don't have to be expensive, designer labels. Neatly pressed, dark colored, conservative business suits with attractive accessories are preferred. Visit your better men's or women's clothing stores and ask for assistance in selecting appropriate authority styles and colors. Now, take those ideas to your favorite discount chain and make your final purchases. I have known college students who will ask for clothing gift certificates as graduation gifts from their family. If your current budget is very limited, think about visiting one of the many upscale, resale shops in the better neighborhoods, for super buys on great clothing. These are the power pieces that have been worn by the movers and shakers and have now been donated for a tax credit. There is no shame in shopping wisely.

Remember, success doesn't hang in you closet, only opportunity is there. It is a means to highlight a person with your great talents, giving you the edge. Your success will depend on how you use that opportunity to showcase your talents and abilities!

Until next time - this is Roger. Go out and make it a great day! Send your questions to me via this newspaper; via Prodigy at JPTW91B; via the InterNet at JPTW91B@Prodigy.Com; Or call 1-800-650-6363 and talk to me directly.

NEW HOMES

Parade of homes features value, quality

Ten houses and a condominium are grand winners this year in various price categories in the Parade of Notable Homes sponsored by the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan.

A panel of architects including Robert Bryce, David Lubin, George Erdstein, Karl Greiml and Michael Gordon scrutinized floor plans, photographs and renderings before awarding the blue ribbons.

"They were looking for best value for price, best use of space, innovative design and aesthetic appeal," said Susan Adler, BIA publications director.

Sixty-six models were entered. The winners:

•The Rosewood, Sterling Building.

This Cape Cod, 1,740 square feet, contains four bedrooms, three baths, formal dining room, great room, first floor laundry , two-car garage and basement. Price as entered is $141,500.

The model, (810) 757-5311, is in the Wildwood Subdivision _ enter dn Warner off the I-696 Service Drive between Dequindre and Ryan _ in Warren.

•The Winwood, Cohen & Associates.

This two-story of 1,900 square feet contains three bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths. The house features cathedral ceilings in the great room and master suite and a two-story foyer. Price is $188,400.

Plans may be viewed in the Hillsborough sales office, (810) 960-0770, on Maple west of Wixom Road in Wixom.

•The Glenhurst, S.R. Jacobson Development.

This colonial of 2,199 square feet in Adams Ridge showcases four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths. Both the living room and formal dining room feature bay windows. The master suite has two walk-in closets. Price is $206,500.

•The Stratford, Silverman Homes.

This colonial in Lake Waldon Village of Clarkston, contains four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths among its 2,300 square feet of living space.

RDS creates a radio revolution

All of a sudden, it's like zap! Radio's reborn! One day, people are studiously constructing radio kits piece by piece on the kitchen table, and seemingly in the next breath, they're hitting a button and getting station call letters, program information, song titles and artist names, navigation information, business news, up-to-the-minute traffic reports, and plenty more need-to-know nuggets on the display area on the front of their radios.

OK, maybe it took a little longer than a single breath, but radio undoubtedly has been reborn. Of course, radio is on the fast track to a string of rebirths, what with digital audio radio _ CD-quality radio _ and the promise of satellite radio just around the corner.

Yet, here and now, the Radio Data System (RDS) is changing the way we listen to our favorite stations on RDS radios. (Upwards of 300 stations are currently on the air with RDS, and the number is growing every day!)

Do you ever squirm in your seat when a disc jockey plays five or six songs in a row and doesn't tell you who sang them? RDS can bring you that pivotal information, along with artist biographies and the name of the album the song comes from.

Have you ever found yourself stuck in a mountain of traffic on the way to a family reunion or an important business meeting without the benefit of a cellular telephone so you can call to say you're going to be late? RDS can bring you automatic traffic alerts by muting your cassette or compact disc player, thereby allowing you to avoid a bottleneck and get to your destination that much faster.

Have you ever wished you could search for stations by format? You can with RDS.

RDS can bring a wealth of information and features to RDS-equipped home, car and portable radios, thanks to the transmission of text information and the use of RDS encoders installed at radio stations.

Radio is with you everywhere you go. What other product can give you the latest news, sports, your favorite songs and disc jockeys, in the car, at home, and on the go? "Of all consumer products, radio is the most prolific," says John Casey, marketing manager, Denon Electronics.

"Radio is with us everywhere _ in the home, the car, on our person."

Delco Electronics feels that RDS technology provides a wealth of new features and functions for consumers, as well as the ability to receive greater amounts of information in their vehicles.

Delco and Denon Electronics, both members of the Electronic Industries Association's Consumer Electronics Group, which is in the midst of an aggressive RDS promotional campaign (the goal of which is to get more stations on the air with RDS), have RDS radios on the market.

Screened porch: This outdoor living room provides cool summer living without the distraction of bugs.

Screened patios are easy to build

How can homeowners beat the summer's heat without burning up oover air-conditioning bills? Many solve the problem by turning a patio, carport or breezeway into a cool summer living room with the simple additon of screening.

Common hand tools and inexpensive materials make the job easy and affordable for do-it-yourselfers. Here are some tips from the Insect Screening Weavers Association on how it can be done.

You will need: wood beams (2 inch by 4 inch and 4 inch by 4 inch) a saw, hammer and nails, metal framing angles, utility knife, staple gun and screening.

Corrosion resistant aluminum and fiberglass are the two most popular and inexpensive types. Both come in many widths to accommodate various porch panel sizes and can be cut with tin snips or a sharp utility knife.

Building on masonry, you will also need an electric drill with a masonry bit and non-rusting screws in lead sleeves to secure the wood frame.

To build three screen walls around a roofed patio, the following steps are recommended.

Each screen wall can be prefabricated as a unit, then secured. Begin by mounting 2 inch by 4 inch wood base strips alorig the patio floor and main wall of the house _ drilling through masonry if necessary _ and measure the space within the rectangles formed. You'll build a screen wall for each of these rectangles, then attach screening to the frames. Apply wood stains or other finishes before the screening is installed.

Build the frames separately to fit the three spaces, using vertical beams spaced evenly on 24-inch, 36-inch or 48-inch centers _ all three are typical screen widths. A horizontal "rub rail" at chair back height, about 30 inches above the floor, will add stability. Use the metal framing angles on corners where the vertical and horizontal beams are joined.

To provide an outside exit from the porch, use two 4 inch by 4 inch studs to frame a door opening in one wall. You can then install a pre-made door.

An eight-page booklet entitled "Design for Harmony" is available free of charge by mailing a post card to the Insect Screening Weavers Association, P.O. Box 2636, Pittsburgh, PA 15230.

Timer saves money

Returning home from a stressful day at work, the last thing you want to find is a light or fan that has been left on all day. The result is not only wasted electricity but the unnecessary increase in your electric bill.

While just about everyone forgets to turn off a switch or appliance occasionally, there's an easy way to make sure that it doesn't cost you any extra money. The solution is called a shut-off timer.

If you've traveled lately, you're probably familiar with the shut off timers used in hotels and motels across the country.

The managers of these facilities have learned that forgetful guests leave lights, fans and heat lamps on occasionally after they leave the room. Installing shut-off timers in areas that are not occupied continually saves money by automatically turning off electricity after a preset time period.

As a homeowner, you can apply this cost-saving measure to your residence.

Designed to replace standard wall switches, shut-off timers are easy to install and operate. Users just turn the timer knob, which activates the light, fan or other power-consuming load. The timer then turns off electrical current after the time period set by the user elapses.

"Shut-off timers are also spring wound, so they do not use additional electricity," says Bruce Oellerich of Intermatic Inc. a manufacturer of energy control products.

Although shut-off timers can be used to control just about any appliance, most are used in the home to manage kitchen and bathroom fans, lights, heaters and air conditioners. They're also ideal for less frequented areas such as halls, closets, attics, storage rooms and garages.

"Because it's used only on demand, a shut-off timer assures that family members don't inadvertently leave lights and appliances on," says Oellerich. "The device gives you peace of mind 24 hours a day."

For additional information about shut-off timers, contact Intermatic Inc., Intermatic Plaza, Spring Grove IL 60081-9698. Request form FD/FFI.

Building a duplex may offer economic advantages for some

There are definitely some economic advantages to building and owning a duplex. You not only get more for your building dollar, you develop an investment property with an excellent earning potential. You can make the entire property a rental or claim one for your own residence and rent one. Either way, it is an attractive situation and not to be overlooked by someone contemplating retirement or anyone wanting to invest in the future.

A comely wood exterior and covered porches add a quiet charm to the Horne. The placement of the garages creates a private entrance for each unit. Unit one, positioned to the left, is slightly smaller than the second unit. The 269-square-foot garage has room for a washer and dryer and provides a convenient entrance to the house. Groceries can be unloaded with a minimum effort in a safe atmosphere.

The floor design of unit one has the kitchen to the front and it features a full rahge of built-in appliances. The dining room and generous living room are open to each other, with sliding glass doors leading to the back patio. The two bedrooms, separated by a full bathroom, each contain liberal closet space and a large window. Linen storage is available in the hall.

Although unit two has only 908 square feet of living space, it seems much larger. The two good-sized bedrooms are located in the rear of this floor design. They are separated by a full bathroom and each features a handy built-in desk and a big closet. The walk-in kitchen, complete with built-ins, is roomy and has an attached utility closet.

The dining area and extended living room is open, providing ample room for entertaining. The nice-sized patio is a great place to soak up the sun or break out the barbecue. The garage is accessible from the inside unit.

For a study kit of the Horne (403-48), send $10 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-0E48, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number. For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.
