District opts out of K-12 choice

The state's new schools-of-choice program won't be offered in the Plymouth-Canton school district. But the district will allow choice in the alternative adult education program.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Students from other school districts wishing to attend Plymouth-Canton Community Schools under the state's new schools-of-choice program are going to be disappointed.

The Plymouth-Canton school board opted not to offer the program at the recommendation of Superintendent Charles Little.

A resolution the board passed June 24 allows choice, but only for students enrolling in the district's alternative adult education program.

"The schools-of-choice program for 1996-97 will apply to the Alternative Education program through Adult Education only," the resolution says.

Headquartered at Starkweather Center in Plymouth, the Alternative Education program is open to 16-20-year-olds and offers a variety of courses, including English as a Second Language.

"There's a short turnaround time with this (K-12 program)," said Little. "This may be more than the district is ready to handle. Gifted students, athletes and special needs students all require special programs" which can be expensive.

"And we have greater tardiness with outside students than within our regular attendance zones."

Plymouth-Canton students may attend schools outside the district if that district has space for them, Little added.

That aspect carries financial repercussions, he said.

The loss of every child means the loss of a $5,800 foundation grant. "If 10,000 students left, it would be the impact of $58,000. That's a teacher and a third."

Addressing the board Monday night were several parents upset that Little denied waivers that would enable their children to attend a pre-kindergarten program in Livonia. The children all have birthdays in late fall. No such pro-

Although Debra Lake hears as well as anyone, she couldn't find the sense of belonging to something until she entered the silent world of the deaf.

People nowadays, she said, "live (where) we have a community, but we don't know who our neighbor is. You'd like to donate your time. But where do you go? I didn't find that in the hearing community. You're in an apartment, and you close your door, and that's it."

Being a Northwest Airlines flight attendant, Lake spends three days a week out of the country on international flights. When she's home in her Bedford Villa apartment in Canton, Monday through Thursday, most everyone else is working. And when she's working, most everyone else is off.

Annual golf outing draws record crowd

The gods and goddesses of golf smiled on the Educational Excellence Foundation Wednesday, sending ideal weather to Canton's Fellows Creek Golf Club for the foundation's annual golf outing.

A record crowd of school staffers, business people and others – more than 80 golfers – helped the foundation raise an as-yet-untallied amount well over last year's $5,500 total, said Carole Levine, executive director of the Educational Excellence Foundation.

New finance director replaces Spencer

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton officials have hired a new finance director and spared the job of former chief financial officer John Spencer.

Canton government announced Thursday that Anthony J. Minghine, the deputy director of the Land Resource Management Division of Wayne County's Department of Environment, will begin his new job July 15 as the township's Finance and Budget Department director.

Minghine (rhymes with linguine), was chosen from more than 80 applicants for the position. He will be paid $67,000 a year.

The Finance and Budget Department was created Jan. 9 by a 6-1 vote of the board of trustees in an effort to streamline the financial aspects of the township operation. Previously the financial administration was split between a chief financial officer and a director of financial services.

Spencer, who has been the township's chief financial officer since 1989 and in township employ since 1985, had initially feared he would be out of work once the finance director was hired because township trustees also agreed to eliminate the chief financial director job when it created the new job.

One board member, trustee Bob Shefferly, fought publicly on Spencer's behalf and the board agreed to make the 51-year-old Canton resident an automatic finalist for the new position.

Spencer contacted an attorney and

Contractors clean up toxic waste material

BY JEFF COUNTS
STAFF WRITER

Contractors have completed the clean up of three barrels of toxic waste material dumped near Johnson Creek, a high-quality tributary of the Rouge River in Salem Township.

However, Washtenaw and Wayne county environmental workers are testing soil and water in and around the creek and in the Rouge River system to determine if the contamination spread, according to Donna Southwell, of the Washtenaw County Office of Emergency Management.

The midnight-style dumping at Currie and Five Mile roads discovered on Thursday, June 13, prompted the formation of a task force to investigate such incidents.

Officials from Wayne, Washtenaw and Oakland counties will be meeting again over the next several weeks to push for public awareness of the issue.

"We've only got a certain amount of water in the world, we have to take care of it," said Southwell.

Clean up costs will hit more than $100,000 between contractors and emergency services needed to deal with the dumping.

A $1,500 reward is being offered for information on the case. To report those responsible and claim the reward, officials are asking members of the public to call (313) 973-7711.

"We've had a few tips, but there have been no arrests," said Southwell.

Apart from the threat to the Rouge River, the chemical dumping

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Editor's note: The Observer publishes this column to inform residents about building and development in Canton. For more information about project development, call Canton planning services, 397-5390; new subdivision and infrastructure projects, call engineering services and public works, 397-5405; building and ordinance issues, building and inspection services, 397-5400.

■ I-275 is completely open now. The Michigan Department of Transportation is working on bridge abutments so it's possible that the westbound lane of Ford Road may be closed at times to accommodate the work, which is expected to continue for another four to six weeks.

■ Planning services has two projects ready for final plat approval: Pheasant Woods subdivision, east of Lilley, north of Palmer; and North Woods Place subdivision, north of Newton, east of Beck, which is part of the Lower River Rouge Planned Development District. Both projects are already under construction.

■ Planning services is reviewing an industrial site plan for Haggerty Spec II, a project by Dembs Roth Gyselinck Construction Company. The plan calls for a 216,000-square-foot multitenant building of office and warehouse space, south of Michigan Avenue and west of Haggerty Road.

■ Developers of the proposed Canton Glades Condominiums project met with neighboring residents recently to discuss adjustments to the site plan that will satisfy both parties. The project calls for a 56-unit attached condominium development on 13.5 acres west of Haggerty, south of Ford. Because of the wetlands and woodlands on the site, neighbors expressed concern about preservation and road locations. A revised site plan is expected to return to the planning commission later this summer, according to Judy Bocklage, Canton senior planner.

■ Building and inspection services is updating their Subdivision Guide. It outlines some basic deed restrictions and lists the homeowner association president or other contact person for every subdivision in Canton. Much of the information can be difficult to track down with newer developments. If you belong to or know of a newly formed homeowner association and can provide information, please contact the municipal services communications specialist, 397-5406.

Mettetal to close for a month

Mettetal Airport in Canton is scheduled to close for 30 days starting Aug. 12 for runway construction.

According to an announcement from the airport, the project includes six parts:

- Reconstruction of the runway, with no change in length or configuration.
- Widening of the runway from 45 to 75 feet.
- Installation of connector taxiways.
- Installation of medium-intensity runway lights.
- Installation of small electrical vault for airfield lighting equipment.
- Replacement of rotating beacon.

The parallel taxiway will not be used as a runway during construction, due to safety concerns. Anyone needing to use an aircraft during the airport closure will need to house it elsewhere, the announcement said.

For more information, call airport manager Doug Kitze at (517) 459-0012 or state liaison Randy Coller at (517) 335-8521.

gram is offered in Plymouth-Canton.

"I find it disturbing that the only legitimate argument is that kids could spend two years in kindergarten," said parent Martin Peck of Canton. "It's important for kids to get started on the right foot."

Parent Vickie Vukcevich of Plymouth said Farmington, Wayne-Westland and South Redford have all signed waivers for their students to attend the program.

"Our children have been accepted. There is a spot. All we need is a waiver," she said. "The issue has come down to money. Superintendent Little doesn't want money that could come to Plymouth-Canton to go to another district.

"We are not going to set up our son to fail," she added. "If we don't have the waiver, we will hold our son back. You won't get the money for him this year. So there's no reason to deny our waiver."

Parents suggested reinstituting the Begindergarten program if money is such an issue.

Parent Michele Swing said, "It's like (Trustee) Barbara Graham said: it's not kids' problem; it's adults' problem."

Little said "We have a program (kindergarten) for these students and parents. It may not be what they want, but it is a program. To start allowing releases would mean we would have a tough time with other kids who'd leave for other reasons.

"It's not a matter of heartlessness or insensitivity," Little said. "It's all around money. I checked, and you can go from this program directly into first grade. It happens frequently."

Trustee Sue Davis was applauded when she asked, "If the child is not going to start in Plymouth-Canton anyway, why does it matter?" Trustee Carrie Blamer said, "I really think we should look at trying to meet their needs. If we used to have a program, we used to think it was important."

Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for personnel, said "If you allow one group to do this, you will open the door for others who have good reasons." A modified waiver perhaps could be drafted, he said.

Graham suggested surveying the community to assess need. Board members agreed to take up the matter July 8.

Resident Jeff Phillips criticized Little's decision, saying the unhappy parents were among the paltry number of people who voted in the last election. "You can satisfy those people," he said. "To have a policy of just saying no is cowardly and unimaginative. This decision wasn't for the good of kids. If it comes down to money, that's not what schools are about."

One of the district's exit outcomes is building a positive self image for children. Suggesting that children repeat kindergarten is a disservice, he said. "A student who flunks kindergarten is stigmatized for life," Phillips said.

to make life more interesting and increase her utility to the airline.

So she tried an American Sign Language class at Madonna University. "It was fascinating to me," she said. "Once I entered that world I never left."

Her first teacher was Dennis Berrigan, who is deaf. "From the time I walked into class you had to sign," Lake said. "It was a total immersion program."

Certainly it was immersion for Lake. She began volunteering at the Community Services for the Hearing Impaired (now Deaf Community Advocacy Network), with the Oakland Society for Deaf Children, at a Catholic deaf summer camp called "Camp Mark 7," and attending St. John Deaf Center, a Catholic church in Warren.

"You have to become part of the community" to be an effective interpreter, she said. "You have to really want to be friends with people who are deaf. You have to really enjoy their culture and ideas. They welcome people who have a genuine concern and interest to support deaf people in their daily lives. Once a (deaf) person commits a friendship to you, they're your friend for life."

Lake and fellow interpreter Jennifer Bogden told a story to illustrate deaf culture.

Their old sign language teacher, Dennis Berrigan, was astounded to learn that knock-knock jokes are ubiquitous and universal in the hearing world. Deaf people know nothing of knock-knock jokes because "knock-knock jokes are a play on sound, and they don't have sound," Bogden said.

The teacher found it difficult to believe that all hearing people know knock-knock jokes.

Said Lake: "All day long everybody who came in the office, he'd go, 'Knock knock,' and the hearing person would go, 'Who's there?' And he'd go, 'It works!'

"That shocked him."

Lake got a degree in sign language from Madonna in 1991 and currently interprets for deaf students at Madonna every Thursday. She is likewise on call to interpret at job clubs, job training, doctors' offices, counseling sessions and the like.

In the fall Lake begins work on a doctorate in cognitive psychology at Wayne State University.

Northwest doesn't assign Lake to flights specifically for her signing skills, but she occasionally gets a deaf passenger who is usually delighted to discover someone to talk to.

Lake shocked her flight attendant brethren one day when she signed at length with a deaf Singapore man on his way to college in Washington, D.C.

"Wow, that's really neat! you can do that!" Lake said her colleagues said. "What we're you talking about?"

And she answered, "We were talking about the European economy."

was considering suing the township if he were demoted or let go.

Township Supervisor Tom Yack declined to comment on whether the possibility of litigation had any bearing on the decision to retain Spencer.

Yack said Spencer will work under Minghine in a new job, but at his current pay of $64,000 a year. "I'm assuming he'll do many of the things he does now," Yack said. "He's got to complete the budget process, which is underway," Yack said.

"I appreciate the township offering to continue my employment, and I hope everything will work out for the best," Spencer said.

Shefferly said he is "very happy for John. I think he does a good job, and he does an awful lot for the community."

Minghine, 33, of Allen Park, has been deputy director of the county's Land Resource Management Division in the Department of the Environment since September.

Before that he was manager of finance and accounting for the environment department for more than three years.

Minghine worked as controller for the city of Melvindale from 1986 to 1992. While there he prepared a $6.5 million budget, negotiated city labor contracts, established a downtown development authority and ran the health and liability insurance programs for the city.

Businessman to dish up nostalgia, ice cream

Getting ready: Owner Joe Van Esley (left), Canton area Realtor and board member of the Canton Community Foundation, and manager John Lis are set to open the American Pie ice cream shop near Kellogg Park in Plymouth.

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The "American Pie" ice cream shop is slated to open off of Kellogg Park in time for the Fourth of July.

Shop owner and Plymouth-Canton Realtor Joe Van Esley - board member of the Canton Community Foundation - has turned his former real estate office into an ice cream shop-restaurant just east of the Box Bar. He plans to open sometime next week.

Van Esley named the restaurant after the early-'70s Don MacLean hit "American Pie," as the restaurant theme celebrates American nostalgia.

The walls of the restaurant will be plastered with autographs Van Esley has collected, along with antique Coca-Cola signs, historic newspaper headlines and more. Many of the items will be for sale.

"All the stuff I have will look better on people's walls than in my basement and in my closet," he said.

What would he not sell? "I've got a old Coca-Cola sign that was in a speakeasy, it's a Coca-Cola sign on one side and has baseball scores on the other," Van Esley said.

Another that's not for sale is the Purple Gang's fingerprints. "My dad worked at the police department and he gave me that one," Van Esley said.

He's also collected plenty of autographs. "I just picked up Babe Ruth's, Joe Louis, Susan B. Anthony, Ulysses Grant," Van Esley said.

The featured ice cream will be Guernseys soft swirl and there will be ice cream cakes and pies, hamburgers, hot dogs, French fries, onion rings, pop and Coke slushes for sale.

"I've got a lot of old Coca-Cola signs for sale, an old Vernor's dispenser, political buttons - all American stuff," he said. Among framed and matted newspaper pages on the restaurant's walls will be items on Thomas Edison's death, Amelia Earhart's fateful flight, Lou Gehrig and Knute Rockney.

"I've got the Indians version of Custer's last stand, the Omaha Republican had a headline 'Seven Sioux Savages Tell the Tale,'" he said.

Van Esley got the idea to open the Plymouth shop one afternoon in the Detroit Antique Mall where he has a booth. "It was just to kind of learn the antique business. I was looking out my window watching people sifting by the fountain eating ice cream, I thought, "I know where I can do that."

Van Esley had planned to open the restaurant last fall. "It just took a lot of time getting the approvals, putting on the new roof, the electrical, plumbing, then I had to move the (real estate) office," he said.

"American Pie" will be managed by John Lis and will employ five.

"What I learned at the Detroit Antique Mall is you've got to give the people what they want," Van Esley said.

Cable viewers want to see planning meetings

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Currently, the township shows little more than board of trustee meetings, a community calendar and an interview program called "Canton Contact."

A recently completed survey regarding Canton government's cable channel found that respondents' chief desires for additional programming are in local news, home improvement, Summit events, police and fire updates and local elections.

The survey, conducted by Leadership Canton members Mike Ager, Marcia Barker, Paul Denski Jr. and Deborah Nesbit, was mailed to every household in the township. A total of 138 people completed the survey.

Ager, who is Canton's resource development director, will use the results to plan future cable offerings. "We've got sort of a planning base now," he said.

Currently, the township shows little more than board of trustee meetings, a community calendar and an interview program called "Canton Contact."

Once the township gets a cable studio built in the Summit this fall and assumes full operational control of its programming, additional shows will be added.

Only 10 percent of respondents answered that they watch board of trustee meetings "very often." Twenty-five percent answered "sometimes," 24 percent said "seldom" and 41 percent said "never."

"Canton Contact" fared worse. Two percent watch the show very often, 21 percent sometimes, 21 percent seldom and 56 percent never.

Respondents rated their level of interest in a variety of topics via three categories: "High," "medium" and "some."

Under the public meetings heading, planning commission meetings were most popular. Some 79 respondents gave them high or medium status.

Coming in second and third, respectively; were township board meetings and zoning board of appeals meetings.

Under a separate heading, respondents rated various subjects using the same system.

No. 1 was local news, which garnered 69 votes for high and 34 votes for medium.

No. 2 was home improvement with 56 votes for high and 34 votes for medium.

No. 3 was Summit events and activities with 49 votes for high and 35 votes for medium.

No. 4 was police and fire updates with 43 votes for high and 38 votes for medium.

No. 5 was local election coverage with 43 votes for high and 33 votes for medium.

The five categories bringing up the rear of the popularity contest are (from the bottom up) senior citizen information show, local sports, travelogue show, board of trustees and a homework help show.

Ager said future programming will probably include a monthly program of township news, including police and fire reports. Another show might enlist the help of building trade unions and representatives of stores like Home Depot and Builders Square to cover home improvement topics.

About 63 percent of respondents (86 people) indicated that their age is between 36 and 62. Some 27 percent (37 people) were age 18-35.

Thirty-five percent of respondents indicated their income is $50,000 to $79,999. Thirty-seven percent said their income is at least $80,000.

Fifty-four percent of respondents said they have bachelor's degrees, while 21 percent laid claim to master's degrees.

Ninety percent said they watch TV between 6 and 11 p.m.

Animal cruelty

Responding to an anonymous tip on Embassy Drive (north of Warren between Canton Center and Beck), police discovered an abused dog with his leash tangled in a swingset.

The officer reported that the dog had open cuts on his ears and paws and his hind legs appeared to be broken.

A Critter Control employee told the officer that the dog should be taken immediately to the Michigan Humane Society.

No one was home at the house where the dog was found.

Sporting lad

Canton police confiscated the Crossman 760 Pumpmaster BB gun used by a 15-year-old English boy to shoot birds at about 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 25.

The boy said he is visiting the U.S. for a week from London, England, and staying with a family on Whitney Court north of Warren and west of Beck.

He admitted killing three birds and putting them in the storm drain, according to the police report.

However, "he states he had no idea he was doing anything wrong," the police officer wrote.

Child abuse

Police have taken action against a 33-year-old Holiday Estates trailer park woman for allegedly striking her 7-year-old son hard enough to cause "large deep purple bruises on the left side of (his) face and neck," according to the incident report.

Police were alerted by the boy's father, 32, who said his son told him that the woman assaulted him in their mobile home the night of June 24.

The boy also said his mother "grabbed a belt and was hitting him on the back and legs," the report said. Police notified Protective Services, which began an investigation.

Beating up dad

Police arrested a man June 24 after his father reported that the son beat him up in the heat of an argument.

The father, 45, phoned police from his sister's trailer in Holiday Estates, where he fled after the assault, according to the incident report.

He said a discussion about the son's marital problems became an argument, and his son punched him five times in the head.

Police found the son "lying on a mattress in a back bedroom," the report said. "He was found to be very intoxicated and extremely difficult to communicate with."

Stolen car

A 33-year-old resident of Stoney Brook Apartments told police that his 1984 Chevrolet Monte Carlo was stolen from the parking lot the night of June 25-26.

CLARIFICATION

Canton Township Police Division Capt. Laura Gollea wishes to clarify her position regarding Liberty Fest traffic that was reported in a June 27 Observer story.

"There are some things we have to do differently next year," she said, "but I'm not dissatisfied with the way it was done."

endangers the well water in Salem Township. Nearly all township residents use wells as their water source.

"We will be testing them," said Southwell.

"Such spills threaten the ground water quality of residents in Plymouth, Canton and Northville who depend on well water," said James E. Murray, director of the Wayne County Department of Environment.

"Portions of Plymouth and Canton still use well water and such spills can get into the ground water supply," he said.

The incident resulted in 13 people being treated at Washtenaw County hospitals for skin and lung irritation. There were no serious injuries resulting from the incident.

John O'Hair, Wayne County prosecutor, said that such offenses should be taken seriously, and that under state law jail time can be given the offenders.

"We've spent millions of dollars cleaning up the Rouge River and that can be wiped out in a matter of minutes," he said.

There have been 10 such midnight-style dumpings in recent years and law enforcement officials said it could be the work of "serial spillers."

The material dumped was a toxic mixture of phenol and napthalene. Both are often used in degreasing agents that could have come from a small factory.

Task force members said the chemicals are commonly used and could have come from any number of area factories or shops.

Police didn't know if the barrels were dumped by someone from the source or by midnight-style waste disposal firms which charge low fees for disposing of such material, but don't take it to reputable facilities.

The incident is under investigation and police patrols of the area have been beefed up.

The foundation sponsors numerous enrichment programs in Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"The weather was perfect, and while I'm not a golfer myself, I know everyone had a good time," said Levine.

A silent auction featured some popular items. They included an autographed, framed 18 x 24 lithograph of Tiger baseball great Al Kaline donated by TVW Publishing; a trip for two to Mackinac Island on a private airplane donated by Plymouth dentist Robert Evans; a framed golf poster from Wild Wings Gallery; and a golf package donated by Garland Resorts of Lewiston, Mich.

Blackwell Ford was prepared to give a 1996 red Mustang to the golfer lucky enough to score a hole in one. A Seiko watch, a Bahama cruise, and airfare for two anywhere in the continental U.S. awaited anyone who scored a hole in one on specific holes. Unfortunately, no one aced a hole.

Every golfer headed home with a prize, donated by merchants from Plymouth-Canton.

Levine was delighted with the turnout, up more than 30 golfers from last year, and credited a number of volunteers and contributors.

John Birchler, Plymouth-Canton's assistant superintendent for business, "was instrumental. He did a lot of work getting the school vendords to participate," said Levine.

Birchler's predecessor, the retired Ray Hoedel, school booster Hugh Harsha, Educational Excellence Foundation trustees Cindy Merrifield and Judy Morgan; and school board president David Artley all helped out, added Levine.

Districts scramble to keep adult ed intact

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

This fall school districts will more than likely have programs in place for adults over 20 years of age to obtain their high school diplomas by taking equivalency and general education development (GED) tests. However, it is uncertain what will happen to job training courses.

Chances are classes will be smaller and possibly spread out among approximately 23 districts in western Wayne County, including Wayne-Westland, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth-Canton, Redford Union and South Redford.

Area districts were scrambling last week to put together a consortium that they believe would salvage their adult education programs. The state has cut adult education funding by one third. This is also the first year districts will have to compete for $20 million in grants, which will make up the remainder of its budget.

"Our chances are almost nil (of getting any grant money) without a consortium," said Karen Moran, director of Redford Union Adult Education and ShareTime program.

Schools were required to send a letter to Lansing saying they intended to apply for the grants to meet today's (July 1) deadline. They had 11 days to do so after the state Board of Education approved new rules and strict deadlines, which left school officials confused and angered.

Several districts, such as Redford Union, already sent a letter to apply individually for the grants when they learned their chances would be improved if they were part of a consortium.

Lansing endorsed a concept in which districts form consortia with each other, private industry, community colleges and workforce development boards. School officials are calling it "corporate warfare" as they compete for state aid.

At 9 a.m. last Wednesday representatives from 10 area districts making up Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation (MAISL) met and agreed to form a consortium. Wayne-Westland, Garden City, Livonia and Redford Union would have been a part of the group.

"It's come to the point we can't do this separately. You do it alone, you hang," William Pfeiffer, Taylor's adult education director, told those in attendance at the MAISL meeting.

But by 1 p.m. Wednesday the MAISL consortium was becoming part of a larger group composed of the Wayne-Monroe Adult Education Association, which includes 34 districts in Wayne County and five districts in Monroe County. Informal discussion was had after an informational meeting by the state association in Williamston, near Lansing.

However, the group became smaller on Friday, representing approximately 23 districts in western Wayne County. Plans are to have Wayne County's Intermediate School District (ISD) write the grant proposal, which would combine all the districts' goals into one mission statement. Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency (WCRESA) would act as the consortium's fiscal agent.

Although the grant consultants from ISD were not available to personally commit to the plan, a back-up plan will pool the best grant writers from the 23 districts if it doesn't work out.

"I think the odds are against us, period," said Chris Babler, director of Adult and Community Education for Garden City Schools. "(Gov. John) Engler wants to give the money to business and industry. It would be almost impossible for us to get that money."

Information provided by the state was so confusing one MAISL district, Dearborn Public Schools, thought today's deadline was for the formal grant proposal and spent the last week composing what they hoped would win the district a bigger share of the grant. The grants are expected to range in amounts between $49,500 and $2 million based on $2,750 per participant FTE (full-time equated student).

The deadline for the formal grant proposal is July 19, which gives the 23 districts of the western Wayne County consortium two weeks to organize their proposal. The state will notify districts of acceptance by Aug. 1.

Carol Saunders, adult education coordinator for Plymouth-Canton Schools, called the process "kind of like walking a tightrope blindfolded."

"We have not pink slipped any teachers, but we're working on the premise that the ax is going to be a little larger this year. There are going to be classes not running," she said.

Jay Young, director of Community Services at Livonia Public Schools said the district is anticipating some lay offs, possibly half of the 60 adult education teachers. Livonia's school board will consider whether to close the Bentley Center, which houses many adult education programs and costs over $3 million to operate, Young said.

"Adult education as we know it is not going to be offered anymore. It will come in many different packages," said Jerry Dunn, executive director of MAISL.

He's unsure what to do with winnings

Mike Morton has his mother to thank for winning $6,000 in the Canton Chamber of Commerce Liberty Fest raffle.

Casey Morton, who owns Harvard Square Travel Services, bought 10 raffle tickets from chamber activist Bob Boyer, putting her name on five of them and her son's name on five.

Mike Morton, who works at Harvard Square Travel, said he didn't know he "bought" anything until his mother told him.

"My mother had to explain to me that I bought a raffle ticket," he said.

In fairness to his mother, Morton said he will turn over half the winnings to her.

He hasn't decided what to do with his half yet. "Maybe take a brief vacation," he said.

Boyer, owner of Boyers Meat Processing, said Morton will also be given a "mystery gift" at the Chamber luncheon at noon Wednesday, July 3, at the Summit.

What sort of gift might that be? "Might be a goat," Boyer joked. "You never know."

Since that last local call cost you a whole nickel, it's fair to ask what you got for your money.

1. You get a price that hasn't risen since 1990.

You can't get much for a nickel these days. Maybe a gumball. Yet, for about a nickel you can make a local phone call from home and talk all day. On top of that, you get a lot of products and services you probably hadn't thought of.

1. Ameritech's local rates remain at the same low rate as in 1990. In fact, some of our states have the same low rates they did in 1984.

2. You get 4,900 Ameritech operators. Extremely efficient people who answer 2.3 million calls per day.

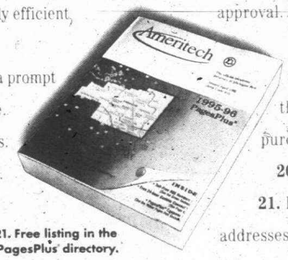
3. You get a better than 99.9% reliability rate—a prompt dial tone 99.9% of the time you pick up the phone.

4. You get nearly 60,000 Ameritech employees. And they're all right here in this five-state region.

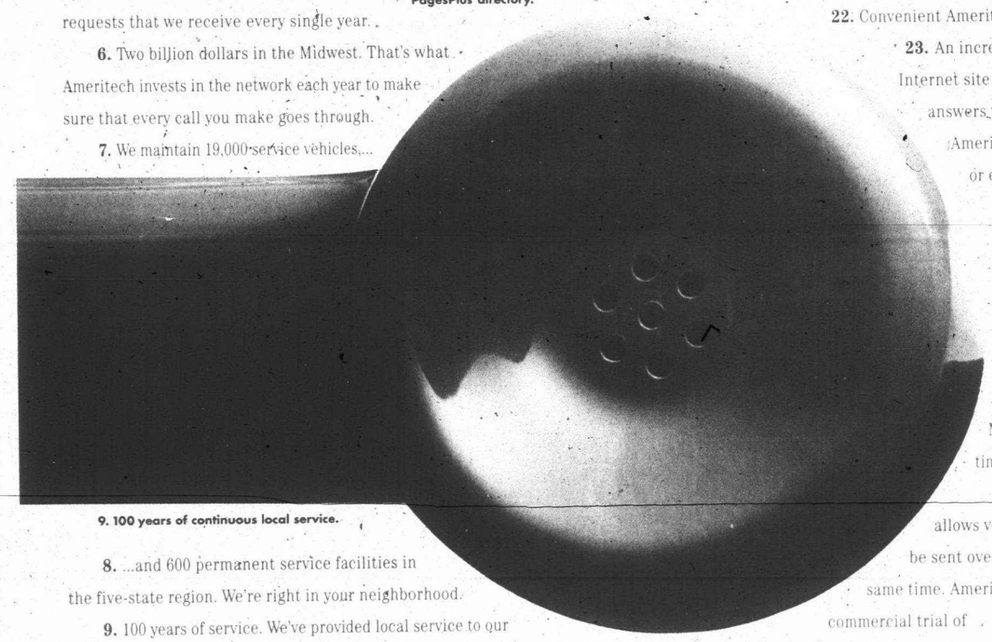
5. 7,300 of them are technicians trained to answer every one of the 3.9 million requests that we receive every single year.

6. Two billion dollars in the Midwest. That's what Ameritech invests in the network each year to make sure that every call you make goes through.

7. We maintain 19,000 service vehicles,...



21. Free listing in the PagesPlus directory.



9. 100 years of continuous local service.

8. ...and 600 permanent service facilities in the five-state region. We're right in your neighborhood.

9. 100 years of service. We've provided local service to our region for over a century. We've put through virtually every call you've ever made to or from Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

10. The experience that comes only with providing 18 million access lines to homes and businesses.

4. One of the 60,000 Ameritech employees in your area.

11. We've installed over a million miles of fiber optic cable in the Midwest.

12. We put in some 242,000 pay telephones in the five-state area, so you can be assured there's always one nearby.

13. Easy-to-use services like Call Waiting (so you never miss a call when you're on a call).

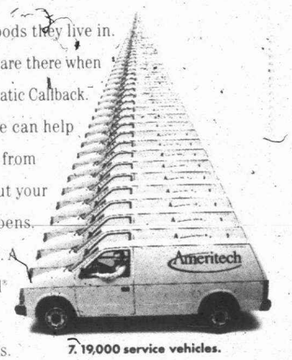
14. Established distance learning networks that serve nearly 400 local schools, colleges, and universities.

15. Given free cellular phones, pagers, and airtime for eligible neighborhood watch groups. Through our Cellular Patrol™ program, we're helping people take back control of the neighborhoods they live in.

16-17. Provide pay-per-use services that are there when you need them. Like Repeat Dialing and Automatic Callback.

18. Provide "Slamming" protection. We can help prevent over-eager long distance providers from switching your long distance service without your approval. No kidding, this stuff really happens.

19. Ameritech Complete Card. A no-annual-fee VISA® or MasterCard® that offers a cash return on your purchases as well as your phone calls.



7. 19,000 service vehicles.

20. Braille and large-type billing. For our visually impaired customers.

22. Convenient Ameritech calling cards.

23. An incredibly easy-to-navigate Internet site that can give you quick answers to questions about Ameritech's products, services, or emerging technology.

24. Networks that help hospitals share information at incredible speed. Thanks to Ameritech, a specialist in Milwaukee can watch your MRI being done in Madison. It not only saves time, it saves lives.

25. ISDN expertise. ISDN allows voice and data signals to be sent over the same line at the same time. Ameritech carried out the first commercial trial of ISDN service in 1986 and it is quickly becoming the wave of the future.

23. An incredibly easy-to-navigate Internet site.

26. And last but not least, peace of mind. People seldom give a second thought to their Ameritech service. It's always there whenever they need it, rain or shine. Do we enjoy being taken for granted like this? Well, with a reliability rate of 99.9%, this sort of thing comes with the turf.

Stick with the one that works.

Legislature returns Tuesday to consider trial court reform

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Tuesday is the showdown vote in Lansing on trial court reform.

Republicans may have to use the entire party's strength to win adoption of a conference report that calls for the most massive change in Michigan trial courts since the 1961-2 Constitutional Convention.

"It makes the courts more user-friendly, cost-effective, accountable and equitably funded," said Sen. William VanRegenmorter, R-Hudsonville, chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee. The big changes:

• The bulk of probate court's duties are transferred to the circuit court. Probate court can't be abolished, as many reform advocates would like, without a constitutional amendment approved by voters.

• A new "family court" division of circuit court is created. The Supreme Court, in a statement last week, endorsed the idea, saying the current system divides family cases between two judges and courts.

• Detroit Recorder's Court, the only citywide court in Michigan handling criminal cases, is effectively eliminated. Its 29 judges would be "grandfathered" as circuit judges and would have to run for reelection in the countywide circuit.

• A court-funding formula is put in place. VanRegenmorter said it eliminates "a subsidy currently totaling almost $29 million per year to three of the large Wayne County courts."

• A proposed constitutional amendment, HJR "S," will combine circuit and probate courts outstate; in Wayne County, it will combine circuit, probate and Detroit Recorder's Court. It will require a two-thirds vote in both chambers to put it on the November ballot. Democrats will be inclined to oppose it, so the Republicans have put out some bait: Detroit would have its own election district.

The plan came from what has been called the "third house" of the Legislature – a conference committee composed of three senators and three representatives. Their goal: to reach a compromise on their different versions of House Bill 5158.

To no one's surprise, Republicans signed the report – Sens. VanRegenmorter and Mike Rogers of Brighton; Reps. James Ryan of Redford and Michael Nye of Litchfield.

Withholding their signatures, and indicating that Tuesday's vote may be partisan, were Democratic Sen. Chris Dingell of Trenton and Rep. Ted Wallace of Detroit.

A Ryan aide said the panel met three times last week, finishing its work Thursday afternoon.

If past votes on the original HB 5158 are any guide, the Senate will pass the conference report 20-18 with two outstate Republicans joining 16 Democrats in opposition. The Senate will be back to full strength with the election of Willis Bullard Jr., R-Milford, to fill a vacancy, giving the GOP a 22-16 majority.

In the House, the GOP margin has shrunk to 55-54 with Bullard's move to the upper chamber – no breathing space, but enough votes for passage.

Tuesday's session will last a single day. It's to clean up unfinished business before adjourning for the summer and House reelection campaigns.

No amendments will be allowed in Tuesday's voting. Lawmakers may vote only yes or no.

If either chamber rejects the conference report, then leaders will appoint a second conference committee, which may be unable to report back before fall.

"We never said it would be easy to achieve, let alone in a year's time," said the seven Supreme Court justices in a joint statement.

The state's highest court, under the last two chief justices, James Brickley and Michael Cavanagh, has prodded lawmakers to simplify the trial court system. They want to see circuit and probate courts combined, but also to see Recorder's Court preserved.

Michigan has 181 judges in 57 circuits. In southern Michigan, most circuits are a single county, like Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw. In northern areas, a circuit may have four counties. Of 237,000 new cases, domestic relations (mainly divorce) were 45 percent; civil suits, 25 percent; criminal cases, 25 percent.

There are 107 probate judges in 78 courts, mostly one court to a county.

County parks to sponsor Mud Day

It's time to dig up some dirt, but not of the election variety.

On Tuesday, July 9, Wayne County Parks will hold its annual Mud Day Celebration.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., kids from across Wayne County can tumble in the mud while their parents watch. The event will be held at the Nankin Mills Picnic Area, at the corner of Ann Arbor Trail and Hines Drive in Westland.

Children will be placed into games and activities according to their age groups. Parents are asked to be sure that their kids are wearing old clothes and shoes. Parents will also want to bring along a clean change of clothes for the kids. An on-site changing area will be provided for cleanup after the event.

Since showers are not available on site, bringing a supply of towels is also recommended.

There will also be a special appearance by the Wayne County Fire Department. Parking is limited; car pooling is recommended.

Detroit Sports & Rec, a co-sponsor of the event, will be on hand to provide prizes. Kerri's Cleaners will also be on hand to provide plastic garbage bags for soiled clothes and coupons to get them clean.

Perfect picnic takes planning, pretty baskets

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Why not go all out this year to make picnic get-togethers four-star events?

Hudson's staffers Betty Louney, Sharon DiPaola and Ruby Dennison were full of ideas to help during recent demonstrations at Marketplace in the Northland Center, Southfield.

They advise picnic preparers to start with a large, pretty basket made of willow and packed with 25 pieces including dinner plates, utensils, and salt and pepper shakers ($60). For cold items like wines, try the insulated (soft-sided cooler) picnic tote, ($60) with a freezer pack on top.

Make picnics fun by choosing a theme. Carry your theme through with sunflower, nautical and fish placemats matched with acrylic glasses with bright blue sea horse stems ($3.50). Or get creative with frosty mugs sporting classic cars ($9.99). A linen tablecloth available in an array of bright colors ($25) adds a touch of elegance to the occasion.

For a Southwest theme, Hudson's carries glassware and pate knives with green cactus stems and handles. Stack several of the knives ($2.49) in a rattan napkin basket ($14) for a festive look.

Garden parties call for swizzle sticks with flower pots on top ($9), miniature clay flower pots made into napkin holders ($2.99), and watermelon ceramic plates and servers ($5.99-29.99).

To break the ice and make your picnic a success, Louney suggested taking wines not in need of refrigeration. "Pack your basket with dry wines like chablis or chenin blanc because they don't need refrigeration," she advised.

One of the newest products, Crown Corning's Pyrex Portables ($49.95), make toting foods convenient with a carrying case, glass baking dish, and utensils plus hot and cold packs to keep everything from pasta salads to baked beans, barbeque ribs, and hot hors d'oeuvres at appropriate temperatures.

"These are wonderful products for all-year-round family gatherings," she said.

DiPaola suggested making a summer buffet salad in a Pyrex Portable to keep the fixings chilled. "We eat a lot of salads at our house because they're good for you and especially refreshing in summertime," she said.

If you don't want to cook, Hudson's deli offers ready-to-go salads from their lite line of reduced fat, sandwiches; peach cobbler and pound cake; raspberry croissants, and cookies ranging from decadent macadamia with white chocolate to health conscious oatmeal, raisin and walnut as well as an array of sparkling waters and juices.

Dennison designed the following menu for the ultimate picnic: Baked pate, instead of mousse, (it does not require refrigeration)pasta salad with seafood or pesto, sliced tenderloin with a delicious mellow, slightly sweet mustard like Sweet & Spicy with chardonnay from Private Harvest ($6.25), or the robust Sweet & Rough from The Silver Palate ($3.39). Picnickers can mix this bold New York mustard with mayonnaise or sour cream to create a dip for colorful summer vegetables fresh from a roadside stand.

Bread dippers flavored with rosemary, garlic and basil go well with French bread, $15.50.

"If you're going to have pate try something light like chardonnay, white zinfandel or German Piesporter. A red wine like beaujolais would be good especially with French bread," said Dennison, former manager of a West Bloomfield wine and cheese shop.

Louney added a few final ideas, "Red Raspberry Razzle by Golden Wish makes a superb sauce for marinating meats," she advised. "Or be adventurous with a cactus salsa spiked with diced prickly pear cactus by Hudson's own Lone Star Grill ($5.50), or the new pineapple or strawberry salsas ($3.95 each) dipped in blue corn tortilla chips."

For after dark, Hudson's sells candles shaped like a bright green watering can or yellow tulip ($4.99) to light up the night.

Sideways in Plymouth stocks the ultimate picnic basket ($139.95) with dinnerware, insulated wine sleeve, four wine glasses, corkscrew, and wooden cutting board for serving cheeses, breads or pates. Citronella candles poured into clay pottery ($5.95-10.95) create an artsy atmosphere and will help keep bugs away from your gathering.

At Williams-Sonoma at Laurel Park, Livonia and Somerset Collection, Troy a large "Excursion" basket is $44. Crate & Barrel, Somerset, has big, bright orange, yellow, blue or green totes for $18.95. You can also buy coordinating plates and cups from $2.

Economist gives retailers a thumbs up

BY JUDITH DONER BERNE
STAFF WRITER

Good news. It's an election year. So, don't worry too much about a recession, Comerica Bank vice president and senior economist David Littmann assured shopkeepers attending the 1996 Michigan Retailers Association annual meeting at The Marriott Dearborn Inn last week.

Littmann, a Bloomfield Hills resident, reported: "The typical recession hits the year after the year after the election."

David Littmann

"The economy slowed down, then found new strength," he said of the past few months. "And even when the next downturn comes, it won't be as severe as in the past," he predicted.

That's primarily because inflation is below 3 percent, Littmann said.

But other contributing factors are:

- Businesses have more liquidity because they carry more cash and securities.
- Employment has had slow growth because investment has been in capital and technology.
- Inventory to sales ratios are the best ever.
- Exports have risen to 13 percent, providing a buffer when the national economy is weak.
- Downsizing of businesses has kept economy and employment growing on a more even keel.

And more good news. He confirmed reports that Michigan's economy is stronger than the national average and shows good resistance to recession.

Housing starts are on pace with last year's 1.3 million units. Car sales are strong. And Littmann is optimistic that the Big Three automakers and the United Auto Workers will reach contract agreements without a strike.

"They know very well that their lunches will be eaten (by Japanese car makers) if they go on strike." The economy would even be stronger, according to Littmann, if government would "clean up its act the same way the private sector has done." He believes: "The real economic problem is government spending."

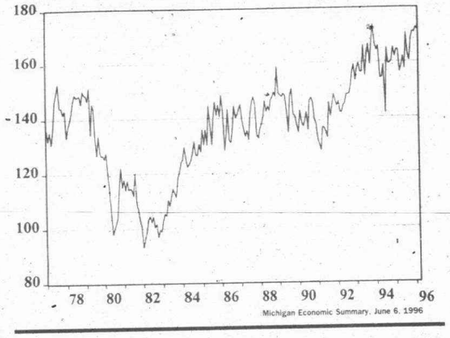
Littmann's predictions of slow, steady economic growth buoyed area retailers and others in attendance.

"I was delighted to hear that housing starts continue to be good," said Dale Tucker, vice president of Englanders Other Place, with furniture stores in Royal Oak and Ann Arbor.

"It just reinforces what we were doing - going ahead positively," said Ann Gail, president of Gail's Office Supply. Two of her four stores are in Bloomfield Township and Birmingham.

Tracy White, director of the Walled Lake Downtown Development Authority, said the optimistic forecast "lets us go forward in our plans to expand and recruit."

And Jennifer Dismuke of Sideways in Plymouth said: "We're expecting a very good fall season."



But Littmann's statistics didn't stave off worries over increased competition including the coming of Somerset North, the continued proliferation of big box stores and, now, the Taubman discount mall just announced for Auburn Hills. To Englander's Tucker and others: "The big question is what will happen when Nordstrom opens.

His prediction: "The weak die and the strong become creative."

Gail, who heads the largest independent office supply company in Michigan, has heard that an office superstore may be moving into Birmingham.

But, "We're confident that people will tire of the big box stores and become more supportive of small business," he said.

'Value Mall' planned for Auburn Hills site

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Plans for a multi-faceted "value mall" off I-75 at the Baldwin exit in Auburn Hills, will take the Taubman Company known for its upscale regional malls, in a new direction.

According to spokesman Christopher Tennyson, the Bloomfield Hills-based company hopes to develop a 1.7-million square foot enclosed shopping center over 117-acres at the intersection, with 200 stores, several themed restaurants, entertainment venues, and a hotel offering shoppers "a compliment to our core upper-end business."

"Though no leases are spoken for, we hope to see retailers like Sak's Fifth Avenue, Hudson's, Nordstrom, Spiegel and Guess? use the mall to liquidate their off-season items. This way, they can still be involved with their clearance, still get their profits."

Christopher Tennyson
Taubman Company

Locally, the Taubman Company owns and operates Lakeside in Sterling Heights, Twelve Oaks in Novi, Briarwood in Ann Arbor, and Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn. "A new thinking" has the company developing mark-down malls in key regions of the country "where the population density can support them," according to Tennyson.

"Shopping centers used to want the discounters further out from them, but a new thinking says they can co-exist if the discounters are put under one roof and made convenient and fun for bargain hunters."

Tennyson said the mall's price tag is "$100-million-plus" with a grand opening planned for 1998. The Taubman Realty Group is general partner in the project with the Union Bank of Switzerland a limited partner. The Taubman "value center" is smaller than a similar shopping mall proposed (and approved) for this same site in 1990 by Western Development, a Washington D.C.-based company, currently known as The Mills Corp. Financing for the Western project never came together and the company lost its options.

Auburn Hills city manager Dennis McGee said the recent Taubman announcement to go ahead with the value center at this time "came as a real surprise."

"We knew they had plans to built a shopping center out here, but we thought the concept was still a few years away," he said. "Most of the city's concerns about the project – sewers, traffic, wetland protection – were addressed when the Western center was approved in 1990. It will be a matter of bringing out those old files when Taubman finally submits a site plan. All we have now is artist renderings, but if this center is like the other mill centers we visited, it will be upper-end, a quality project. However, I have doubts that it can be completed by 1998."

Tennyson said the value mall will primarily serve the market in a 40 –mile radius of the site, with routine visits from shoppers in Flint, Lansing, Toledo and Windsor. It will be styled after a sister center, Arizona Mills in Tempe, Arizona.

Perry Grueber, vice–president of investor relations for Horizon Group, developers of the Birch Run Manufacturer's Outlet center about 30 minutes north of the proposed value center, said Birch Run expects its business to be impacted by the Taubman value mall, but only at the out set.

"We've been through this before when a mill center opened 10 miles south of our Kenosha Park outlet center in Guerney, Illinois," he said. "You take steps to protect your center. You make sure the tenants are happy, and after the first few months, the new center raises the awareness of value outlet shopping with all its advertising dollars, and the first center is actually better off."

Grueber pointed out that value shopping may be to the '90s what "conspicuous consumption" was to the '80s. He said in 1995, six million visitors came to Birch Run spending an average of three hours per visit. A recent survey by the International Council of Shopping Centers revealed that at traditional malls, shoppers stay less than an hour.

Patty Webster and Jean Jolliat of Farmington Hills chatted about the proposed value mall over lunch at the Somerset Collection.

"We're in our 60s and we've pretty much seen everything when it comes to shopping," Webster said. "We don't shop 'til we drop anymore, besides, smart shoppers know you can get better deals when department stores have sales."

The new mall hopes to offer shoppers merchandise priced 30 to 70 percent off regular prices. Stores will include "department store and manufacturer's outlets, specialty retail outlets, big box anchors, restaurants and entertainment activities for families."

Schoolcraft trustees OK salary increases

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

Schoolcraft College's Board of Trustees approved pay raises for members of three unions and for the college's president, Richard McDowell, Wednesday night.

"McDowell continues to be an outstanding leader," the board said in a statement about McDowell's 1995-96 evaluation.

He will receive a 2.5 percent pay increase to $104,000 and an extension of his contract to 1999. McDowell has been president of the college for about 15 years.

"McDowell believes in meeting the needs of students, staff and the community, and he understands that physical facilities continually need to be updated and improved," the statement said.

In the other salary increases, a contract with the Schoolcraft College Association of Administrative and Professional Personnel, a union of 27 midlevel managers was ratified for July 1,1996 through June 30, 1998. Members of that union will receive 2.5 percent pay increases for each year of the contract. Salary ranges for the union range from $36,314 to $75,300 with the raise.

The SCAAP contract also includes a change in health insurance coverage. The college will pay the increase in health insurance premiums in the first year of the contract, but in the second year a cost containment measure will go into effect. Schoolcraft will pay the increase in health coverage up to 6 percent. If the increase is more than 6 percent SCAAP members will pay 100 percent of the increase up to 10 percent. If the cost increase is above 10 percent, the college and SCAAP will share the increase equally, according to Saundra Florek, dean of marketing and development.

As of July 1, the executive administrators union will receive a 2.5 percent pay increase and the merit portion of their pay will be increased by .5 percent. The 12-member union is made up of the top administrators at the college including the vice presidents. Salaries in that union range from $60,853 to $100,807 with the raise. Executive administrators also receive a performance bonus.

The board also approved 2.5 percent pay increases for the Classified Employees union. The merit portion of the union's compensation will be increased to $800 or $1,200 depending on evaluations.

Salaries range from $10.55 to $26.99 hourly.

Metro saluted for safety by FAA

Wayne County's Detroit Metro Airport recently received recognition from the Federal Aviation Administration.

"Not only was Metro Airport found in 100 percent compliance during the last FAA inspection," Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara said.

"It was recognized as a leader in innovating airfield safety."

FAA Great Lakes Region Airports Division Manager Larry Ladendorf presented the award to McNamara in a ceremony at the airport's maintenance complex.

Among the achievements noted by the FAA were:

- Construction of a new taxiway which decreases potential runway incursions on the airport's center runway.
- Appointment of an airport manager to track and correct possible safety problems.
- A university-accredited training program for operations personnel.
- Pavement markings with beaded, reflective paint on a background for better visibility.
- Airport initiated, bimonthly airfield coordination and safety meetings which include the county, FAA, airlines, Airline Pilots Association and others, to discuss safety-related construction issues.
- Excellence in snow removal.
- Blue reflectors installed on taxiway lights, which keep them visible in the event of a power outage.
- A numbered schematic of all airfield lights and signs for quicker identification and repair.
- Quarterly inspection of fuel trucks.
- Nighttime maintenance program for airfield safety and efficiency.

"Not only was Metro Airport found in 100 percent compliance during the last FAA inspection it was recognized as a leader in innovating airfield safety. It was recognized as a leader in innovating airfield safety.'

Edward H. McNamara

ELECTRONIC ANESTHESIA

Needless electronic anesthesia is already used by some dentists for work on small, shallow fillings. This pain-numbing technique makes use of transcutaneous electrical stimulation (TENS). A TENS unit has a lead wire with two connectors attached to pads that are placed on different areas of the face. Then, when the unit is turned on, the area between the two attachment points goes numb with a pins-and-needles sensation. Recently, the FDA approved electronic anesthesia's use for three additional procedures. This means that TMD (Temporomandibular Disorder) patients who have difficulty opening their mouths due to spasms of the muscles associated with the lower jaw may make use of electronic anesthesia to help relax their muscles. Others that can benefit from the device include patients undergoing periodontal scaling and root planing, as well as those requiring TENS to mask the prick of an injection.

Harvest yield crop of reader requests

Not a day goes by that I don't walk out to the garden and notice a new bud, shoot or flower developing. All this rain and temperate evenings have produced tiny buds on my tomatoes, and I've already snipped a few large fresh basil leaves for spaghetti sauce. And if your phone calls and voice mail messages are any indication, you, too, are beginning to enjoy the harvest.

■ Jack Welch of Farmington called and wanted to know if blackberries and Gooseberries were the same. Well Jack, information I received from "Uncommon Fruits and Vegetables, A Common Sense Guide" by Elizabeth Schneider (copyright 1986, Harper & Row) says that they are distinctively different; however they can be used interchangeably in any recipe. The most common gooseberry found in American produce markets in the summer is a celery green summer berry. They are notoriously sour and are best well cooked in a simple syrup. Schneider offered this recipe from her book:

GOOSEBERRIES IN SIMPLE SYRUP

1 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1 pint gooseberries

Boil water and sugar in a non aluminum saucepan. Add berries and cook over very low heat (the syrup should not bubble) until they are tender, about 4 minutes. Cool, then chill until serving time. Makes 1 pint.

■ We all have a little rebellious spirit in us, eh? If you happen to be looking for an eye-opening, no-holds-barred newsletter, you might be interested in subscribing to the "Nutrition Action Health Letter." Folks interested in learning about radical foods like Proctor and Gamble's Olestra (brand name Olean) will find a shocking report in the March, 1996 letter. Even more frightening is an article in the June, 1996 letter that claims Congress has introduced a bill that will dissolve all state laws on food safety and labeling in addition to repealing the Delaney Amendment which bans the use of cancer causing food additives, just to mention a few. Tell your representatives in Washington or here at home to oppose H.R. 3200. It's madness to pass laws that would lead to dirtier food, more dangerous additives and misleading labels. The Nutrition Action Newsletter can be ordered by calling (202) 332-9110 or by writing to 1875 Connecticut Ave., Suite 300, Washington, D.C. 20009-5728.

■ George Mendenson of Rochester Hills recently discovered a low fat treat called biscotti. He wondered if I had a recipe he could make because packaged biscotti at the Italian deli is a tad expensive. Well George, not only do I have a recipe, I have a master recipe from the January-February 1994 issue of "Cook's Illustrated."

CLASSIC LEMON ANISE BISCOTTI

2 cups unbleached all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 large eggs
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 tablespoon minced zest from 1 fresh lemon
1 tablespoon anise seed

Sift the first three ingredients together in a small bowl. Whisk sugar and eggs in a large bowl until they turn a light lemon color; stir in extract, zest and anise seeds. Sift dry ingredients over the egg mixture, then fold in until dough is just combined. Adjust an oven rack to the middle position and preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Halve dough and turn each portion onto an oiled cookie sheet covered with parchment paper. Using floured hands, quickly stretch each portion of dough into a rough-13 X 2 inch log, placing them about 3 inches apart on the cookie sheet. Pat each dough shape to smooth it lightly. Bake, turning pan once, until loaves are golden and just beginning to crack on top, about 35 minutes. Remove loaves from oven and cool for 10 minutes; lower oven temperature to 325 degrees. Cut each loaf diagonally into a 1/2 inch slice with a serrated knife. Lay the slices about 1/2 inch apart on the cookie sheet, cut side up, and return them to the oven. Bake, turning over each cookie halfway through baking, until crisp and golden, about 15 minutes. Transfer biscotti to wire rack and cool completely. Biscotti can be stored in an airtight container for up to one month. Makes 3-4 dozen.

LOOKING AHEAD

What to watch for in Taste next week:

■ Summertime treats.

Get fired up, have fun on the 4th

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Fourth of July is on a Thursday this year, and some of us will have to work the next day. Don't let thoughts of what awaits at the office rain on your parade. Lead the charge – do something Revolutionary – plan a casual get-together with close family and friends. Declare war, order everyone to help with preparations, from cleaning off lawn furniture to cutting up fruit and vegetables. Keep your menu simple, remember this is supposed to be a day of rest and celebration.

Pack sandwiches for a picnic lunch, and escape to a nearby park. Of course, everyone loves a backyard barbecue.

Melanie Barnard, grilling expert and cookbook author, believes that even though what is considered "the all-American meal" on the grill has evolved, it should come as no surprise that almost everyone's favorites are still hot dogs and hamburgers. Whether served plain or heaped high with tomatoes, pickles, onions and other fixin's, they are the most frequently grilled foods in America!

The most popular summertime food to accompany those burgers and dogs is potato salad. In some parts of the country, potato salad is dressed with mayonnaise, while in other regions cooks toss warm potatoes in a little wine, then dress them with vinegar and oil.

There are many possibilities for dessert. "Firecracker" brownies, a recipe from Hershey's Cocoa, are filled with semisweet chocolate chips and nuts. The brownies are easy to pack and carry. Create a star spangled dessert with pound cake you buy at the store. Add a layer of canned blueberry or strawberry pie filling, a layer of whipped topping, and place strawberry halves and fresh blueberries on the whipped topping to create a flag design.

"With great weather and holidays, picnics are in season," said Lois Thieleke of Birmingham, a home economist for the Michigan State University Extension, Oakland County. "However, it's also the season when more people become ill from food borne bacteria. Why? Bacteria grow and multiply rapidly in the danger zone between 40 degrees F. and 140 degrees (out of the refrigerator or before food begins to cook). So, food transported without an ice source or left out in the sun at a picnic won't stay safe for long. Family and friends who eat mishandled food may get what's known as the 'Summer Bug,' the flu-like symptoms caused by food-borne illness."

Here are Thieleke's safe picnic tips :

■ Freeze individual cans of fruit or vegetable juice, freeze milk cartons of water (not quite full). Pack them frozen and they will help keep perishable foods cold.

■ Foods to be cooked ahead should be cooked in plenty of time to thoroughly chill them in the refrigerator. Use an insulated cooler with sufficient ice or ice packs to keep the food at 40 degrees F. Pack food from the refrigerator right into the cooler.

■ If you're planning on take-out foods such as fried chicken or barbecued beef, eat them within two hours of pick-up or buy ahead of time and chill before packing foods into the cooler.

■ Don't put the cooler in the trunk; carry it inside the air-conditioned car.

■ Use a separate cooler for drinks so the one containing perishable food won't be constantly opened and closed.

■ To be sure bacteria are destroyed, cook hamburgers and ribs to 160 degrees F. (medium)

■ Be sure salads are well chilled (especially those with mayonnaise or creamy dressing).

Delas is a winery in renaissance

Founded 160 years ago in the heart of France's northern Cotes du Rhone, Delas Freres is a winery with a long tradition. A quarter century ago, there was an energy infusion when the Lallier-Deutz family, owners of the smallest grands marques champagne house, Champagne Deutz, became owners. In 1988, Dominique Lallier took the reins and the renaissance ensuing is being showcased in his wines of the 1990s.

Lallier trained at his father's side and had expert guidance from some of the most talented enologists in France. His winemaking techniques give the Delas wines a Bordeaux flare. They don't taste like a Bordeaux, but one senses in each wine the creative blending, a technique that is the heritage of Bordeaux.

Delas is one of the largest landholders in the northern Rhone, with 22 acres in the Hermitage appellation where the syrah grape makes some of the world's best red wines. Other Delas wines are made from grapes grown in Croze Hermitage, Chateauneuf-du-Pape, Cote Rotie, Condrieu, Cotes du Rhone and Cotes du Ventoux.

Among some Delas wines tasted recently, we found the 1993 Delas Chateauneuf-du-Pape, Les Calcerniers, $19, rich with ripe, red plum fruit. In the Chateauneuf-du-Pape tradition, the principal grape variety is grenache, at 70 percent in this wine, with 10 percent mourvedre, 10 percent syrah and 10 percent carignan. It was aged 13 months in two to three year old French oak and shows firmness and rich concentration. The finish, though somewhat light, is generous and solid. It's well priced when compared to the big names from Chateauneuf commanding $30 and more.

The 1990 Delas Hermitage, Cuvee Marquise de la Tourette $35 may be the benchmark Delas wine. The Hermitage appellation is one of the most renowned in the northern Rhone because its wines age well for 10 to 30 years. Only 320 acres of vines covering the region's prime south-west exposed steep slopes make up the entire appellation. Therefore, Delas' 22 acres is a major parcel. Yields are exceptionally low at 1.5 to two tons per acre. Summer sun warms these hills from dawn to dusk. During the night, granite soils radiate the day's heat back to the vines ensuring sound ripening.

The Delas Hermitage vineyard is divided into four blocks, each harvested separately at optimum maturity. Then each block is vinified separately and aged in different cooperage. The average time in one-year-old oak is 18 months. The 1990 is one of the most splendid examples of Hermitage with deep, rich, plummy fruit and anise notes. It makes a strong statement with a lengthy, chocolatey-textured finish.

From what's been represented so far, you may think that all Delas wines are pricey. Not so. The 1994 Delas-Cotes du Rhone St. Esprit $9 is a great summer red. Serve it slightly chilled with cold, poached salmon with basil or thyme mayonnaise and the wine's red fruit assortment comes alive on your palate with a perky balanced acid finish. It's made from 80 percent grenache, with the remainder mourvedre, syrah and carignan — the same grape varietals as the Chateauneuf-du-Pape discussed earlier. So, what's the difference? Where the grapes were grown and how the wine was made.

For a greater bevy of economy drinking, Delas has dipped its fingers into southern France, principally, the Pays d'Oc (Languedoc-Roussillon), the Ardeche and the Gard regions to bring consumers some very good drinking in the value-priced $10 range. With the price of California wines escalating, these are regions that have garnered greater attention. You can find many French wines labeled Vin de Pays and may be wondering what these are. By French wine law, Vin de Pays classification is governed by specific legislation strictly regulating the area, regional grape varieties, yields and winemaking practices.

Delas 1994 Viognier, Vin de Pays $10 sports stylish fruit in a straightforward, unoaked style that finishes with hints of mandarin orange. Actually in most cases, we're preferring viognier unoaked. For those seeking a wine to accompany meatless preparations, the Delas Viognier is perfect with salads or any dish with eggplant.

Delas 1994 Merlot, Vin de Pays d'Oc $7 should delight all lovers of merlot with its bright cherry fruit, plump middle and approachable finish. This wine is a tremendous value. If the day's very warm, serve it after 20 minutes chilling in the refrigerator.

Steakhouse menu inspires salad

As a grilling expert and cookbook author, Melanie Barnard spends a lot of time cooking. Because it is so lean, flank steak could be tough and stringy. But there are two secrets to successfully grilling great flank steak.

The first is to take a look at the raw steak and note the grain in the meat. Then, when the meat is cooked, be sure to slice thinly across the grain. A trick that results in really tender meat.

The second, and equally important, is the marinade. A good marinade contains lots of flavor and some acidic ingredients such as vinegar or citrus juice, which acts as a natural tenderizer to break down tough fibers in meat.

Always tempted to embellish a bit, Barnard has expanded upon a good think in this Grilled Steakhouse Salad.

GRILLED STEAKHOUSE SALAD

- 1 1/2 teaspoons cracked or coarsely ground black pepper
- 1 1/4 pound beef flank steak, cut about 3/4-inch thick
- 3/4 cup bottled Italian dressing
- 1/4 pound portobello mushrooms (about 2 large mushrooms) wiped clean
- 4 large cloves garlic, peeled
- 1 teaspoon olive or vegetable oil
- 6 slices French bread, each about 3/4-inch thick
- 6 cups torn spinach leaves
- 12 cherry tomatoes, halved
- 1/2 cup shaved or coarsely grated Parmesan cheese (about 2 ounces)

Use your hands to pat the pepper into both sides of the steak. Place steak in a shallow dish and smear with half (about 6 tablespoons) of the Italian dressing. Marinate steak in refrigerator 3 to 24 hours.

About 15 minutes before cooking, add mushrooms, turning to coat with marinade. Set garlic in double thickness of aluminum foil. Drizzle with oil and fold up foil to enclose garlic completely.

Set foil wrapped in garlic at edge of coals and grill until garlic is very soft, about 20 minutes (or bake the garlic in a preheated 400 degree F. oven for about 40 minutes).

Grill steak over medium-hot coals (or broil 3 inches from heat) for 12 to 14 minutes for medium doneness, turning once.

Grill mushrooms, turning once until tender, about 10 minutes. About 3 minutes before meat is done, set bread at edge of coals, turning once to toast lightly on both sides.

To serve, brush toasted bread with 1 tablespoons of the remaining Italian dressing. Unwrap garlic and stead on one side of the toast.

Toss spinach with remaining Italian d ressing and divide among 6 plates. Thinly slice mushrooms and meat across the grain. Arrange over spinach.

Garnish salad with cherry tomato halves, grated Parmesan and garlic croutons. Serves 6.

Drain well, cut potatoes in half, then toss them warm with 1/4 cup of the Italian dressing. (Potatoes can be cooked ahead and set aside for up to 4 hours at room temperature, or can be grilled immediately.)

Just before grilling, whisk together in a mixing bowl the remaining 1/4 cup of Italian dressing, mayonnaise, mustard, and thyme. Thread the potatoes onto 4 long metal skewers. Grill over medium coals, turning once or twice, until tender and tinged with brown, about 5 minutes.

Place potatoes in bowl with dressing, add the scallions and parsley and toss gently to mix well. Serve warm or at room temperature. Serves 4.

■ Folks in the Plymouth-Canton area are hiding a well kept secret. Located on Joy Road between Lilley and Main street sits a farm market that has been there for more than 25 years. It's called Schmidt's. I recently stopped in and was surprised to see such an excellent array of fresh produce and local dairy products. I picked up some fresh spinach and peppers that were very reasonably priced — the quality was outstanding.

■ Dolores Redmond of Birmingham wanted to know where she might be able to find some "exotic" meats for grilling this summer. Check out Butcher Boy Food Products and Game Meats, 13869 Herbert in Warren, (810) 779-0600. Claiming to offer the best wild game in town, they are a great source for buffalo roasts and steaks, farm-raised white tail deer, rabbit, alligator, rattlesnake, emu, kangaroo, wild boar, antelope and pheasant, just to name a few.

■ Amy Gent of Wayne wanted to know about where she can go to pick fresh berries and other fruits and veggies of the season. Michigan is loaded with "U-Pick" farms and the Michigan Department of Agriculture has a publication available. You can call and request one by calling them at (517) 373-1058.

■ Monica of Plymouth called regarding an article I did last summer on grilling the best ribs. She remembered my secret about doing something with a brown paper bag. You're on the right track Monica; after cooking your ribs and slathering on the sauce (optional), I always place my ribs in a large brown shopping bag. I fold over the open end to seal in the heat and "steam" my ribs for about 10-15 minutes before serving. It's a trick I learned from the rib experts. You certainly won't be disappointed!

■ Mark Byron of Redford called after finding a recipe that called for Chipolte chiles. He wants to know what they are, how to use them and where can they be found.

Chipolte chiles are smoked jalapeno peppers and are often sold canned in a mixture of tomato sauce, vinegar and spices called adobo.

A small amount of the distinctive smoky flavor and heat of these dark brown chiles with the adobo can add richness and depth to soups, stews, salsas and paella.

Place any unused chipoltes and adobo sauce in a glass container and store, covered, in the refrigerator where they should last for several months. You can purchase them at La Colamena Honey Bee Market, 2443 Bagley (at 17th) in Detroit.

■ Marge Blakley of Troy called requesting a healthy recipe that satiates, is fast, low in fat and goes great with chicken or fish. Tall order there Marge, but I just stumbled across this treat that tastes as good as it sounds and it's incredibly low in fat to boot!

CREAMY SESAME NOODLES WITH MUSHROOMS AND SPINACH

- 12 ounces wide no-yolk noodles
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 cup vegetable broth
- 1 1/2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 teaspoons sesame oil
- 1 pound mushrooms, sliced thin
- 2 tablespoon white wine vinegar
- 1 cup thawed, frozen chopped spinach, squeezed dry

In a large pot of boiling water, cook noodles according to package directions. While noodles are cooking, heat oil in a large wok or fry pan. Add onion and cook 1 minute. Add mushrooms and cook for 3 minutes. In a small bowl, whisk together broth, vinegar, mustard and cornstarch. Stir into wok and bring to a boil. Cook 1 minute or until sauce thickens. Add spinach and drained pasta and toss to coat. Serves 4 at 375 calories each. Percentage of calories from fat: 9.

■ Donald Davies of Wayne called a few weeks ago just heartbroken over the fact that he misplaced an incredibly easy, ridiculously fat laden recipe that I printed a few years ago for my momma's Creamy Au Gratin Potatoes.

This was an easy one to find Donald, I just leafed through her recipe box till I came across it. Watch out, it's a real artery hardener! (It makes for an easy recipe for a backyar d barbecue and travels well too!)

CREAMY AU GRATIN POTATOES

- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of celery soup
- 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, cut into small cubes
- 4 cups frozen hash brown potatoes
- 1/3 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. In a large skillet, saute onions in butter or margarine until golden and very fragrant.

Stir in condensed soup and cream cheese cubes and cook over low heat until hot and cheese melts. Set aside. Grease a 1 quart low casserole.

In the prepared casserole, alternately layer frozen potatoes and hot cream sauce ending with a layer of sauce.

Cover and bake for 45 minutes. Sprinkle with shredded cheddar cheese. Return to oven, uncovered, until cheese melts. Serves 4-5.

Lots of thrills in 'Eraser'

BY TED ANTHONY
AP NATIONAL WRITER

BRUCE MCBROOM

Action-thriller: Arnold Schwarzenegger and Vanessa Williams star in Warner Bros.' "Eraser" now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters.

High-tech weapons are tearing people apart, gun battles are erupting aboard planes, a damsel with a pivotal CD-ROM is fleeing evil and our hero is getting skewered with so many objects that he should consider buying stock in a tetanus-shot company.

What's afoot? The obvious, of course: A new Schwarzenegger movie.

"Eraser" is a cinematic stew _ a cup of "Terminator 2," a heaping tablespoon of "The Net," a teaspoon of "Lethal Weapon" and a pinch each of "Speed," "The Pelican Brief" and "Three Days of the Condor."

Cerebral it's not, which is vaguely disappointing, because its trailers implied such an approach. Then again, the words "cerebral" and "Schwarzenegger" are rarely seen together in sentences other than this one.

That said, "Eraser" definitely works as what it is _ an exciting conspiracy adventure with cool gadgets, absolutely superior action sequences, a luminous Vanessa Williams and even a requisite Ah-nold catchphrase.

"Eraser," which might well be subtitled "Arnold and VanessaRun from Everyone," casts Schwarzenegger as John Kruger, a crack U.S. marshal with the Witness Protection program. His colleague, Robert Deguerin (James Caan), is also his mentor, making for some good buddy banter early on.

Kruger's job is to "erase" government witnesses to protect them until they testify. This involves elaborately staging their deaths with sundry props that include exploding houses.

His latest case: Lee Cullen (Williams), who turns in her arms-merchant colleagues at CYREZ Corp. by copying a crucial CD-ROM and giving it to the government. Rogue elements destroy it, but Cullen has made herself a copy as well, marking her for death.

And we're off on the Schwarzenegger roller coaster.

Together, Kruger and Cullen uncover a conspiracy that leads to the government's highest levels and Russia's post-Soviet mafia. The pair flit between New York and Washington and ultimately move to the Baltimore docks for a fiery climax.

The action sequences are all superbly choreographed, but by far the best _ maybe in years _ is one in which Schwarzenegger, having jumped from a plane, must fly Superman-style to snag his plummeting chute pack. If that isn't enough, he then has to cope with the plane trying to ram him in flight.

Arnold, of course, manages to. But getting there is all the fun.

Schwarzenegger is, well, Schwarzenegger _ quipping dryly, playing the loner, always seeming vaguely haunted but grounded in the steely moral certitude that has served him so well whether he personifies good or evil.

Williams, though her delivery is sometimes wooden, is redeemed by an exceptionally strong on-screen presence. She is believable as the life-turned-upside-down female lead. Schwarzenegger's wife, Maria Shriver, recommended her for the part.

Caan, as always, is multi-faceted; you can't help but wonder what's going on under that close-cropped hair. In some ways, he functions as the film's conscience _ one of the directions Kruger's life could ultimately take.

Perhaps the film's most pleasant surprise is Robert Pastorelli _ Eldin the housepainter from "Murphy Brown" _ in a wonderful supporting role that showcases his on-target comic timing.

Also a delight is James Coburn, who plays Beller, Kruger's unflappable, crisply dressed superior. Coburn's resonant voice and craggy, expressive face are sorely missed on 1990s movie screens.

The film has a troubling aspect that almost can go ignored: It uses slapstick violence as comic relief for the relentless serious violence. While this may seem academic in a film that's about violence, it's something that shouldn't pass unnoticed.

And finally the catchphrase: When Schwarzenegger, during a battle with bad guys in the reptile-amphibian hall of the New York City Zoo, is fleeing on hands and knees from a gnashing, growling alligator, he turns and fires a gun into the beast's throat, sending alligator juice squirting across the proscenium.

"You're luggage," he says.

Sure, this is mind candy, in ultraviolent 1990s style. Sure, you can call it an insubstantial, derivative hodgepodge.

But "Eraser" is engaging and thrilling. All the viewer-tension hot buttons are pushed innovatively. And _ it'll certainly be a summer crowd-pleaser.

New game in town

In a hurry: Workers laboring on the new Compuware ice arena in Plymouth haven't wasted any time. Through last week, they were actually ahead of schedule, which means the new home of the Detroit Whalers - and so many other ice attractions - should open on schedule, which is by the beginning of October.

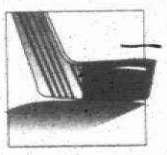
Whalers will bring excitement with them



It's viewed as small-town hockey, kids trying to get to the big show in the big city. But by building their own premium ice arena in Plymouth, the Whalers are striving to alter that image.

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

It's the kind of endeavor that's skyrocketed in small, isolated towns where live entertainment is a seldom occurrence.

Now the Detroit Whalers are taking that kind of small-town idean and embarking on a new journey, one they are certain will reap major dividends.

The Whalers have already been associated with Detroit, it's true, for five years. Before that, they were the Detroit Ambassadors.

They've done pretty well in their tenure. But they've done it without a true home, changing in-town ice surfaces season by season, and sometimes throughout a single season.

That fostered a feeling of impermanence. "Why believe in a team that won't last?"

Well, fans of the best junior-level hockey on this continent, start believing. Because the Whalers are here to stay.

The definition of both here and stay is now under construction in Plymouth Township.

The Whalers have dedicated themselves to this area by opting to build their own home. Owned by Farmington-based Compuware Corp., there has been no pleading for local pledges of mega-dollars or begging for state funding.

Compuware is footing the entire tab - in the neighborhood of $20 million, according to some estimates.

Doubters are prevalent, for sure.

Big deal, they say. There's an ice arena in Livonia, and new ones in Farmington and Ann Arbor, and Redford has a pretty good one, too. So what does this new place have that the others lack?

How about seating for 4,300 spectators? And that's just surrounding the main hockey arena (200 feet-by-85 feet). There will be another ice surface, Olympic-sized (200-by-100), in the same building with seating for an additional, 1,000.

As Whalers' assistant general manager Kerry Kerch described it: "This will be a major (hockey) venue on a smaller scale."

Certainly, it seems a gamble to some. After all, there is suddenly a glut of hockey teams, both big-time (the Red Wings) and not-quite-so (the Whalers and Vipers) in the area, and the Windsor Spitfires are right across the bridge.

How can anyone hope to make a financial success of an Ontario Hockey League franchise in such a flooded market? This is a league that boosts junior players, those 16-to-20 years old.

Answer: The OHL does a great job, and the Whalers do the best in the OHL, with a season ticket base of 2,500, best in the league. Gretzky, Yzerman, Coffey, Lindros, Kirk Muller, Sean Burke, Gary Roberts - a total of 164 graduates dot National Hockey League rosters, with another 227 on minor league teams.

In fact, the OHL - which is one of three major junior leagues that make up the Canandian Hockey League - is the greatest producer of NHL talent among leagues in the world, with 30 percent of its graduates playing pro.

Still, this is Red Wing country. Teams with stars of tomorrow usually crop up in places like Kitchener or Guelph or Peterborough - not in big cities like Detroit.

That's the conception the Whalers want to trash.

"There's a strong community in Plymouth and surrounding areas,

Family plan: Players to board in local households

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

If one of your high school-aged offspring comes home from the first day of school next fall with tales of a bunch of new kids, all foreign, just showing up, DON'T:

- Furrow your brow, call your neighbors and spread rumors of invasion;
- Go wailing to the PTA about some indignity or another, insisting an answer to "where our tax dollars are going";
- Call the Department of Immigration;
- Send your kid in to have his/her eyes/ears checked.

They really aren't making it up. Nor are they halucinating. If you have students in the Plymouth-Canton, Northville or Livonia area, chances are you may end up with a newcomer.

An exchange student, if you will. But not the normal kind of high school ambassador.

This one will come equipped with a hockey stick.

Who are they? Normal, everyday type of kids. The difference is, they have a special athletic talent.

Haeger lands top coaching spot

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

In his eight seasons as Madonna University's baseball coach, Mike George was able to mold something out of nothing - quite literally.

George was the first coach of the Madonna intercollegiate program. In eight years, he transformed the Fighting Crusaders into a contender for an NAIA Tournament berth.

But George is gone (he resigned last month), a victim of his own growing financial concerns. In his time at Madonna, he made a winning program out of nothing.

Now it's time to move on, hopefully to the next level. Which is what the university hopes elevating Greg Haeger, George's pitching coach the past two years, to the head position will do.

This will be Haeger's first time as a head coach. Heck, it wasn't that long ago that he was starring for University of Michigan (he's just completing his Bachelor's degree in General Studies from U-M), both as a pitcher and first baseman.

Before that, the Livonia native was a standout at Redford Detroit Catholic Central, where he was named the state's prep player of the year in 1987. He spent three years in the Detroit Tigers organization, too, but arm problems stopped him.

Now he's turned to coaching - a trying adjustment at times for someone who's just 27 and could still be playing. "It's hard not to compete," Haeger said. "But you just find other ways to do it."

His work as Madonna's pitching coach the past two years is a prime example. "I took a lot of pride in our pitching staff," Haeger admitted. "In the past two years, they've dropped their ERA (earned run average) two full points."

Haeger's success was no real surprise. After all, he's been successful at every level, first as a player and now coaching. Indeed, had the head position at Madonna not opened, Haeger said he wasn't sure he would have returned as an assistant coach.

"I was really kind of thinking this would be my last year (at Madonna as an assistant) anyway," he said. "I figured I would either have been looking at a D-1(NCAA Division I) school as an assistant or as a head coach at a D-2 or D-3, or NAIA school.

"I thought I showed I have possibilities as a head coach. I think I'm good enough to be a head coach."

Sound overconfident and perhaps even foolish? Maybe . . . but however it may sound, Haeger knows the route there.

"We're going to stress pitching and defense," he said. "I'm going to look for very aggressive players, players who can come in and play right away."

Hard work has always been the key to success where Haeger's been, and that figures to be the main platform in his program.

"At both CC and U of M there was a lot of discipline," he said. "That was the common bond everywhere I've been.

"I'm not too worried (about handling the players). Actually, I think the position players are more worried about me."

The reason, Haeger said, is that they witnessed how he worked the pitching staff as its coach the past two years.

Among the things Haeger will have going for him is that almost the entire team returns, a team he

All-star

Ron Hunter's athletic future may be on the football field, but for another month at least the Plymouth Canton HS graduate can still enjoy the benefits of an impressive prep career.

Hunter, the 6-foot-3 off-guard who helped take the Chiefs into the state regional tournament the past two years, played well enough in the state all-star game to earn a berth on the 10-player team making the trip to Columbus, Ohio, for a four-team tournament.

An all-star squad from each of four states - Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky - will meet in the tournament, with each team playing two games. The event is scheduled for July 13-14.

After that, Hunter can keep his bags packed: He's scheduled to play in the Michigan High School Football Coaches Association All-Star Classic Aug. 3 in East Lansing. After that, he'll be back at MSU trying to land a berth on the team's football roster as a walk-on.

Sounds like a pretty busy summer.

Cougars rule

The Canton Cougars, an under-nine year-old boys soccer team, won both their division title in the Great Lakes Soccer League and the Canton Memorial Day Tournament.

The Cougars were 9-0-1 in league play and 2-0-1 in the tournament. Team members are Bryan Baker, Nick Battista, Michael Burns, Adam Catallo, Tommy Cooper, Christopher Early, Dominic Fracassa, Michael Geiseman, "Duke' Kapelanski, Colin Miranda, Erik Petersen, Andy Psilis, Jerry Reid, Neil Richter, Ty Sasena, Christopher Wilson and Steven Zelmanski. The team is coached by Bill Kapelanski, Mark Sasena and Mark Richter.

Play will be divided into seven divisions: 18 and under, 14 and under, 10 and under, men's open, women's open, men's 50 and over, women's 50 and over.

Entry deadline is 4 p.m. July 14. Call 397-5110 for further details.

The Canton Softball Center is accepting registration for its second summer season, which begins in early July.

Men's, women's and co-ed leagues are available for play Monday through Friday evenings and Sunday.

Whalers make selections

The Detroit Whalers made their choices in the Canadian Hockey League Import Draft, picking Sergei Fedotov of Moscow and Stevie Lyle of Cardiff, Wales.

Fedotov is a 6-foot-2, 190-pound defenseman who has already been drafted by the Hartford Whalers. Their drafting completes the selection process for the Whalers for this season; next on their agenda is the opening of training camp in late August, at their new home arena in Plymouth.

Mainstreet Mitral Mile

Michigan's post Olympic party dash, the Mainstreet Mitral Mile, a series of races for all age groups, will start at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 11 at corner of Main Street and Stadium Boulevard in Ann Arbor.

Registration fees (by July 31) are $10 (one race) or $12 (two races). Late registration (before Aug. 9) is $12 and $14, while race day is $15 and $17.

Going, going - gone? LCBL shrinking

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

BASEBALL

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League appears to be literally coming apart at the seams.

The 20-and-under summer LCBL circuit, a longtime staple for sandlot fans at Ford Field, has dwindled to four teams this season (from as many as 10 in the mid-1970s). And it appears the league is down to a mere three after reports that last-place Michigan Honig's has all but dropped out due to a lack of players, according to manager Ed Hood.

Honig's, 0-15, forfeitted three games in a row including a June 23 double-header with first-place Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury and Wednesday's single game with Little Caesars. Friday's scheduled game with Hines Park was also in doubt.

"We're not going to be able to field a team and obviously it's disappointing to the kids who committed to play with us this summer," Hood said. "I've talked with Gary Gray (LCBL director) and I've told him we're up against the wall and it's highly improbably that we'll likely continue.

"I've heard there is a Canadian team, somebody out of Windsor, that may fill our dates, but I'm not sure what else there is."

Hood, who is based in Ann Arbor, said there were several factors for not coming up with enough players.

"We had some guys lined up from out-of-state that fell through," Hood said. "A lot of the good players have gone elsewhere, but there's got to be a reason to stay home. When you get to this age the attrition grows greater.

"Unless you have a college career that is thriving, you're not as likely to play in the summer. And then there are work responsibilities kids have in the summer."

Hood said his original roster would have been competitive.

"When we had those Toledo guys we could play with the other teams," he said. "That wasn't the problem because we had a good team in spite of our record.

"But then we had the three drop out, the problem was compounded. And there were some transportation problems."

Hood, however, said there was an underlying current on why the LCBL is in dire straits.

"When people found out it was a four-team league they weren't as enthused," he said. "It's nobody's fault. Everybody tried. Gary Gray tried."

There was a proposal on the table, however, that would have merged the LCBL with the four-team Metro Adray Baseball Association and four other Class A teams from Wyandotte.

A preliminary schedule had been drawn up, but an agreement could not be reached after talks fell through over proposal of additional dates and the charging of rental fees by the Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation at Ford Field.

"When my players were originally contacted it looked like we'd have 12 teams whereas last year it was a five-team league," Hood said. "Twelve teams obviously make it more attractive. I was told second-hand that the (new proposed) league had political problems that I never fully understood. It's really unfortunate for teams like Hines Park and DCI (Decision Consultants, Inc.) who might have looked elsewhere to play had they known this was going to happen."

Gray could not be reached for comment late Thursday.

DCI blanks Hines Park

First-place Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury bit the dust for the first time in the LCBL as pitcher Mitch Jabczynski, a lefty from Madonna University, tossed a four-hit shutout in a 5-0 victory for second-place Decision Consultants, Inc. Wednesday at Ford Field.

Jabczynski struck out three and walked four, while wiggling out of a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the top of the seventh inning. He got out of trouble by getting Jeff Lance to Eric Marcotte (Plymouth Canton/Madonna) led the winners with three hits, while Darrell Rocho added two for DCI, now 10-4-1.

DCI tallied three runs in the third inning, keyed by Greg Ryan's two-run triple, before adding two more in the fifth.

Dave Kapla (Redford Catholic Central/Michigan State) and Jim Chwalek each had two hits for Hines Park, now 15-1-1.

Steve Hornsberger, the Hines Park starter, lasted 4 1/3 innings before Brian Reynolds finished up.

"We came up pretty flat, but you can't take away anything from their kid (Jabczynski)," Hines Park coach Gary Pierce said. "He had us off-balance most of the night."

Uzarski saluted

Kevin Uzarski of Little Caesars was named LCBL Player of the Week after going seven for 12 at the plate (.583 average) with one homer, two RBI, four runs scored and four stolen bases.

The Taylor Center product, now at Central Michigan University, also made eight putouts and had three assists. He pitched in one game, going six innings (taking the loss), giving up just one earned run. He struck out six and walked five. Uzarski also picked off two runners.

Start planning now for annual Bowling Expo

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Observerland bowlers will not want to miss the fourth annual Bowling Expo, Aug. 9-11 at the Gibraltar Trade Center (North) in Mount Clemens.

The three-day event features new products, discounts, closeouts, tourney and league information, software, contest giveaways and celebrity autograph guest.

For those who purchase new balls at the Expo, professional drillers will be on hand to fit equipment.

The Expo, a success from the start, has proven to be well worth the drive for those who have attended this show from the start. Even with non-bowlers in the family, the Trade Center also offers some good browsing and an assortment of wares.

To reach the Expo, take I-696 (east) to I-94 (north) to Exit 237. The address is 237 N. River Road.

Admission is only $1.50 per vehicle.

•Do you like to bowl for money? How about a lot of money?

Then the Hamtramck Singles Classic is for you.

The tourney, which runs through July 28, offers a $200,000 prize fund with $35,000 as the top prize (based on 7,500 entries).

No, it does not require a passport to get into Hamtramck, simply because the tourney is being staged at the the Hazel Park Bowl.

Tom McKay, former executive secretary of the Greater Detroit Bowling Association and past president of the American Bowling Congress, is now involved with this event. And with his input, look for bigger and better things to happen.

For entry information, call (810) 546-0070.

•Summer League scores are heating up, especially in the Thursday Trio League at Westland Bowl where Carol Ferguson is Redford Township blistered the lanes with scores of 257-255-255 for a 767 series.

Ferguson is on the Pro-Am Bowling & Trophy squad.

If you remember the story, it was Moses who led his people from Egypt.

Well, it was another Moses in this case, Tony, who led the same trio league a week earlier with a 300 game anad a 781 series.

At Country Lanes in Farmington, the pins were flying and the scores were scorching led by Kairi Jeffries' 279. Other hot rounds were turned in by Al Stroud, Bob Duman, Jr., Ted Goldberg and Steve Fortney, all of 278s, followed by Vern Flowers with a 265.

The Seniors were also going strong as Dave Arnott shot 205 and 202 for a 590 set, while Shirley Johnson was good for a 198.

In Farmington Hills at the Drakeshire Lanes Summer Youth Classic, a singles league, the brother and sister act of Michelle and Dave Ewald rolled 300 games on the same night. How about that for keeping it all in the family?

Needless to say, Michelle and David are top-notch youth bowlers in this area. Dave also had another 300 game in the Thursday Night Singles at Bowl One Lanes in Troy.

At Bel Aire Lanes in Farmington, some of the top scorers in the Unmixed Mixers summer league included Rob Allen, 225/642; Fred Abbott, 234; Mary Kovari, 208/534; Diane Kempe, 235; Dennis Yaros, 212/615.

There were several noteworthy performances in the Friday Summer Classic at Plum Hollow Lanes in Southfield: Jay Jackson, 267; Jamal Hughes, 268; Yolanda King, 224; Kerrie Lloyd, 221.

They play hockey, and they play it well.

That's what the Canadian Hockey League is, really: young, high school-aged players with impressive skills. The league is for "major junior players," those aged 16 to 20 years old.

They train and play for eight months a year (sometimes longer, depending on the playoffs), from September through April.

A 66-game, regular-season schedule.

Problem is, well, if you've ever been to Canada, you know commuting to and from games for most kids would be impossible. So the CHL - of which the Ontario Hockey League is one of three major components - puts the players up.

Places to board players in the teams' home towns are found. The families are renumerated, and the kids live with them.

Sound good? Well, there's more to it than that.

To be honest, the money isn't that great. Families who sponsor kids don't get that much - about $60 a week per kid, according to the Wesleys, a Northville family who's housed 10 OHL players for the Detroit Whalers over the past five years.

"You don't do it for the money," said Linda Wesley. "You do it because you like the sport."

The Wesleys have always been sports-minded, both their 21-year-old daughter, Jodi, who captains the Eastern Michigan women's swim team, and their 24-year-old son, Jeff.

"We were going to do an exchange student," said Linda. Then she heard from a friend about hosting a junior hockey player.

The Wesleys were hooked. And they have been ever since.

"It's been a real positive experience," said Doug. "We make some good friends . . . and you stay in touch with all of them."

The Wesleys have never had any kind of trouble with them. "We find hockey players are very down-to-earth types of people," said Doug.

Added Linda, "You give them some food and a place to stay, and they're happy."

The Wesleys said they treat their borders as one of the family, setting down ground rules at the start. "We haven't had any problems," Doug said.

The Whalers must find housing for 22-to-23 players every season, not always an easy task. They'll be moving their operations to Plymouth this fall, and the hope is the players will be close by.

"Now that we're moving into Plymouth, we want the kids to live in the area," said Whalers' assistant general manager Kerry Kerch.

A full schedule, between school (some players are out of high school and attend Schoolcraft College) and hockey, keeps the players busy.

It's not nearly as much trouble as it is fun, according to the Wesleys.

"It's a fun opportunity," summarized Linda. "Like taking part in an exchange program, only it's in hockey."

like Livonia and Northville," said Kerch. "These are great communities, and great hockey communities."

That's exactly where the Whalers want to appeal. Their 160,000-square foot facility will be host to more than just the Whalers: "The top amateur programs, national tournaments - all out of here," said Kerch.

He added: "This will be the top hockey facility of its size in the midwest."

Already preps from Birmingham Brother Rice and the newly-formed South Lyon team are planning to play out of Plymouth. Kerch said a state regional hockey tournament host site has been landed for next season, too, with plans in the works to bring the state finals to town in '98.

So what's the down side? There must be one, right?

It won't be money. It seems the Whalers will be affordable to most, with season-ticket prices ranging from $149 to $249 for 33 games (if purchased before July 31). Single-game ticket prices will be $5-$12.

And the new facility will offer more than cold seats around an even colder ice rink. A 200-seat, full-service restaurant will be included in the building.

There will be four private boxes, too, each at a cost of $10,000 for the season. They will accomodate 14-15 people each. Plus, the arena can be arranged for concerts, with a capacity of 6,000.

All this is now under construction on Beck Road, just north of M-14. But the immensity of the project - the first game at the new arena is scheduled for Oct. 5. They can't possibly meet that deadline.

Okay, it's true. When pressed, Kerch admitted the timetable was off a bit. "This has gone up in a hurry," he said. "They're about five days ahead of schedule."

As another Whalers' administrator nearby mentioned, "This is a driven project."

Broncos withstand Wolverines' comeback

HOCKEY

For the first 10 minutes of the final period Wednesday night, it looked so beautiful.

For the Wolverines, that is. They had allowed the Broncos to pull away to a 5-2 lead with a goal with just two seconds left in the second period.

But the Wolverines regrouped and came back, scoring four unanswered goals in the first 10:32 of that last period to take a 6-5 lead.

An astounding comeback? Not quite. The Wolverines' lead lasted 13 seconds. The Broncos rallied themselves, scoring four times in the last 4:15 to win easily, 9-6, at Plymouth Ice Arena.

Brent Bessey's goal in the closing seconds of the second period had staked the Broncos to a 5-2 lead. But the Wolverines roared back, getting goals from James Wisti, Scott Lock, Jason Wesley and Paul Goleniak in an eight-minute span to go up, 6-5.

Eric Evans tied it, however, 13 seconds later and Bill Trainor scored the game-winner with 2:55 to go, his third goal of the game (he also had an assist). Brian Consolino (two goals) and Darren Hands got markers down the stretch for the Broncos.

Evans finished with a goal and three assists, with Bessey getting a goal and two assists and both Jeramie Murray and Hands contributing a goal and an assist.

For the Wolves, Lock had two goals and two assists, Goleniak had a goal and two assists, and both Wisti and Wesley had a goal and an assist. Brian Halas added a goal and Andrew Perry had two assists.

Wildcats 8, Huskies 3: Grant Judd made his presense felt, popping in the game's first three goals to stake the Wildcats to a lead they never relinquished Wednesday.

Judd finished with four goals and an assist. Bobby Davis had a goal and four assists, Anotoli Buliga had three assists and Brian Alent netted a goal and two assists for the Wildcats.

Kirk Gurney had a goal and Chris Allman had a goal and an assist.

Todd Kesler and Kent Lafond each had a goal and an assist for the Huskies. Ben Blackwood also scored a goal.

is well acquainted with. So, too, does assistant coach Sean Maloney, to serve as Haeger's assistant.

Currently, Maloney and Haeger are forming the Double Diamond Baseball School.

Haeger, who remains a good friend of former Madonna coach George, does want to do something differently - recruit more local players.

"We've just got to spend the time getting local people," Haeger said. "Myself and any assistants I have are going to spend a lot of time recruiting. There's a lot of good ball players in this area."

He won't have to worry too much about that right away. Madonna went 29-26 last season, and did not have a single senior on its roster.

"I'm falling into a good position, really," Haeger said. "I'm not walking blind into a brand new program."

And the current Crusaders know what they're getting in Haeger, or they should know. At any rate, if the past holds any key to the future, Haeger's tenure as coach will feature hard work and success.

Saab 9000 CSE appeals to the individual in you

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

This is a car for someone who stands out in a crowd.

Someone who takes chances and always wins, no matter what.

Someone who really appreciates a finely engineered, well-thought-out, comfortable, convenient and versatile vehicle.

Oh! That's you?

Then the 1996 Saab 9000 CSE is your car.

The Saab 9000, first introduced to the U.S. in 1986, continues to carry on the unique design cues that are Saab's trademark. It's surprising that in the past six years Saab has been half-owned by General Motors, the trademark styling has remained.

It's got a real individualistic style, and I like it.

There aren't many changes from last year's model, and that's good, too. Saab has added two more cupholders to the fold-down armrest in the rear seat, bringing the total number to four. There are a couple more storage pockets — including one right under the passenger air bag and one under each of the front seats. Also new for 1996 is a sky blue metallic exterior paint option.

If you crave power, you'll get it on the 9000 CSE — no matter which powerplant you choose. There's a 2.3-liter turbocharged 4 cylinder with 200 horses if you need your power quickly and a 210-horse 3.0-liter V6 if you need power on a consistent basis.

The turbocharged engine provides high performance, low exhaust emissions and great fuel economy. The fuel economy's so good it's rated below California's standards. And it's got the best mileage numbers in the EPA's large car classification.

You can also choose between a 5-speed manual and optional 4-speed automatic transmission on the 2.3-liter engine.

The stronger 3.0-liter V6 (which is only available with the 4-speed automatic) has four overhead cams, 24 valves and an intake manifold that provides high air intake volume at all engine speeds — which translates into better acceleration and passing ability.

Standard on the 9000 CSE outfitted with the 3.0-liter engine is electronic traction control. It's got a dashboard-mounted on/off switch that lets you deactivate the traction control in unique situations — like driving through deep snow, where you need the wheelspin.

All-season high-performance Michelin tires mounted on smart-looking three-spoke alloy wheels are also standard.

The turbo package has a fashionable rear spoiler and functional turbo boost gauge in the instrument panel.

One thing that's catching on with other car companies is the long list of standard equipment that makes the option list almost non-existent.

Take a look: Leather upholstery, heated front seats, three-position adjustable memory on the driver's seat, electrostatic cabin air filter, automatic climate control, power tilt/sliding glass sunroof, polished walnut interior trim, remote control door locks and a remote-control alarm system.

Enough? Nope. How about air conditioning, power windows with the one-touch feature, electronic speed control, adjustable and heated rearview mirrors, interval windshield wiper/washer, head restraints for all occupants, illuminated vanity mirrors, interior light delay, a luggage compartment light and built-in tool kit, electric rear window demister, tinted glass, electric antenna, analog instrumentation, outside temperature display, quartz analog clock, overhead console with swiveling map light and dual rear seat reading lamps.

Anything else? Well, yes.

This should be music to your ears: A Harman/Kardon 15-watt AM/FM/cassette/CD player stereo system with no less than 10 speakers placed strategically around your delicate hearing system. The system also has a Weather Band channel and removable key pad. You can even enter your own security code for theft prevention.

There's plenty of room in the 9000 CSE as well. When the 9000 was first introduced so many years ago, Saab took a bunch of us auto scribes to the deep south to simulate a typical Saturday morning of errands. At one stop during the simulation in Fairhope, Ala., we were asked to put a kid with a tuba and a very tall grandfather clock in the back. And it fit.

You wouldn't really be stretching it if you called this 5-door hatchback sedan a minivan that's really low to the ground. Fold down the rear seat and the cargo room is a whopping 56.4 cubic feet. Even with it folds up, the trunk space is a respectable 23.5 cubic feet. Enough for several weeks of groceries, I'd say.

Safety has always been an issue important to Saab, and with the 9000 CSE, that's no exception.

There are dual air bags, of course. But part of the package are anti-lock brakes, front safety-belt pretensioners (that can be a hassle at times), 5-mile-per-hour bumpers that snap back into shape if hit, side-impact protection, front and rear energy-absorbing crumple zones, collapsible steering column, daytime running lights, child-proof rear locks, headlamp wipers and washers, a rear window wiper and washer, front and rear foglights, a well-isolated fuel-tank location and a safety-cage construction.

The 9000 CSE has been named Sweden's "safest car" for six years running by that country's largest insurance company. Even the U.S.'s own Highway Loss Data Institute has rated the 9000 "substantially better than average" for injury loss when compared to other cars in its class.

Saab also stands behind its product with a comprehensive warranty — four-year/50,000-mile bumper-to-bumper coverage that includes 24-hour roadside assistance and free 5,000-mile first maintenance.

In this month's issue of Saab Soundings, the magazine mailed to owners of Saab automobiles, there are no less than five letters from owners who have taken their individual Saabs past limits they thought they would never see — the 300,000-mile mark on the odometer. That's how strong some of these Saabs are.

Hey, this is a good car. It's a performance-based sedan that measures up in the safety arena. And as wonderfully engineered as the 9000 CSE is, it's a good value as well.

1996 Saab 9000 CSE
Vehicle class: Large sedan.
Power: 2.3-liter water-cooled turbo engine.
Mileage: 17 city / 27 highway.
Where built: Sweden.
Base price: $37,695.
