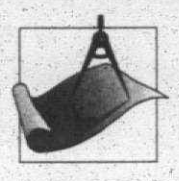
Roadwork tops DDA wish list



Improvements to Ford Road top the list of things to do for township Supervisor Tom Yack if an expansion of the Downtown Development Authority goes through as planned.

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack indicated Tuesday that revenue from a proposed expansion of the Downtown Development Authority would be used primarily for improvements to Ford Road.

"The primary reason for the capture of property taxes would be to improve the infrastructure within the DDA area," Yack wrote in a report. "It continues to be my belief that we must look to our own resources for road and intersection improvement."

Township trustees voted unanimously Tuesday to give notice of their intent to expand the boundaries of Canton's DDA west along Ford Road to Canton Center and east to the Westland border near Lotz Road, adding 308 buildable commercial acres.

They set an Oct. 8 public hearing to hear public comment on the plan.

At present the DDA, created in 1984, encompasses both sides of Ford between Sheldon and Morton Taylor, plus the Harvard Square shopping center on Sheldon.

The green streetlights, decorative walls, shrubberies and brick pavers in that 80-acre area between Sheldon and Morton Taylor are a result of the DDA. They were purchased and installed with a portion of the property taxes collected from businesses within the DDA.

Here's how a DDA works: The property tax that the township collects via its millages for general fund (1.11), police (5.1508) and fire (3.0915) is calculated using the property value at the time the DDA is established. Property taxes collected as a result of future property value increases are "captured" by the DDA fund.

Trustees could decide to capture,

BY RALPH R. ECHTINAW
STAFF WRITER

A local group dedicated to setting standards of behavior for kids and adults has, through a surrogate, hired its first staff member.

Livonia resident Mary Parson, a consultant with the Plymouth-Canton school district, was signed to a contract expiring Dec. 1 to pull together plans for a November kick-off event when Community Youth Initiative members hope to get everyone else interested in their cause.

The group obtained, through Growth Works, a $5,000 grant from the Canton Community Foundation to pay Parson's contract.

Parson is "responsible for developing, organizing and implementing 'Project Save,' a federal grant aimed and teaching conflict resolution" with the P-C schools, according to her resume.

Character Counts

It's time to say it's right or wrong

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

Remember when you were afraid to go home after a bad day at school?

"What happened when you got into trouble in school and got home and it would be 10 times worse?" asked Pat Maliszewski of the Character Counts Coalition of Battle Creek.

Or what about our non-judgmental ways today? "We've gone from saying things are right and wrong to saying 'it might be wrong for me, but it could be right for you," Maliszewski said. "Or we say, 'it's not for me to judge you.' We've got to come to the point where it's not okay. There are some clear moral truths."

Canton initiative

Maliszewski spoke to members of the Canton Community Youth Initiative Tuesday morning at Canton Township Hall. The Canton youth initiative recently released a list of behavioral standards they want young people, parents, schools and churches to work on.

"We started out talking about the challenges facing young people," said Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, a member of the local coalition.

Maliszewski was brought in to discuss the Character Counts Coalition because it espouses similar principles that the local youth initiative is working on.

Benefit tickets on sale

Tickets are now on sale for the benefit softball game between Canton firefighters and police officers, and the Red Wings Alumni, scheduled for 7 p.m. Aug. 3 at Canton Softball Center.

The game is the first charity event sponsored by the firefighters' newly created charitable foundation, known as Canton Firefighters # 2289 Charity Foundation.

The firefighters have established a tradition of hosting benefit hockey games to raise money for charities and charitable causes.

Proceeds from the softball game will benefit the Special Olympics and the new foundation.

Tickets for the softball game are $5 each and may be purchased at Canton's two fire stations, No. 1 at Cherry Hill and Canton Center roads, No. 2 on Warren, east of Lilley Road, as well as Johnson's Restaurant on Ford Road and Summit on the Park community center, Trader Jack's in Plymouth and Canton Softball Center. Parking, charged by Canton Softball Center, is $3.

As with the hockey games, firefighters will have a raffle for approximately 20-30 gifts donated by area businesses. Raffle tickets are $1 each and may be purchased in advance at the same businesses where game tickets are sold.

Among the gifts are a weekend trip to Toronto, including rail and two nights, as well as a similar trip to Chicago, both donated by Elliot Travel in Westland Mall.

Other gifts include a golf bag donated by Detroit Sports & Rec, a $100 gift certificate from Trader Jack's sports memorabilia store in Plymouth, two hockey sticks and a jersey signed by the Red Wings, as well as gift certificates from area restaurants.

Following the game for 45 minutes, Red Wing players will be available to autograph one item per guest. Anyone who is interested in getting an autograph must have a game ticket.

Youth initiative sets standards

The Community Youth Initiative group's list of standards and goals contains the following:

- "Youth places a high value on helping people as evidenced by contributing time and energy."
- "Youth develops and shows sensitivity toward others' feelings."
- "Youth will postpone sexual activity."
- "Youth refrains from the use of tobacco, alcohol and illegal drugs."
- "Youth seek peers who model responsible behavior."
- "Youth develop friendship-making skills for lasting relationships that cross the boundaries of age, sex, race and religion."
- "Youth demonstrate an ability to plan ahead."
- "Youth has respect for self and others."
- "Youth has an informed opinion and can speak intelligently about their future goals."
- "Youth complies with school, community and family rules."
- "Youth commits to their responsibility to developing family relationships."
- "Youth accept responsibility for and consequences of their behavior."
- "Parents provide an environment of love and support."
- "Parents conduct themselves in such a way as to support the premise that they are accessible resources for advice and support."
- "Parents engage in frequent conversations with their youth."
- "Parents allow for and encourage frequent conversations with non-parent adults and seek out this fellowship for themselves."
- "Parents involve themselves in developing the educational goals of their youth."
- "Parents set and maintain appropriate behavioral standards that comply with community and school rules."
- "Parents acquire and develop effective disciplining techniques."
- "Parents remain informed of their youth's relationships and whereabouts."

The following standards apply to schools:

- "Provide a caring, encouraging environment."
- "Set and maintain consistent grade level appropriate educational goals."
- "Develop forums to promote teacher consciousness of community goals."
- "Develop ways to seal the cracks that youth slip through by utilizing community volunteers."
- "Coordinate community calendar to leave room for non-school sponsored pursuits."

- "Commit available resources to engender a life-giving faith in youth."
- "Provide spiritual and practical reasons for following community and school rules."
- "Provide direction through relationship with God that surpasses human understanding."

- "Youth demonstrates motivation to work to potential in school."
- "Youth aspires to pursue post-high school education and/or career development."
- "Youth demonstrates educational competencies appropriate to grade level."

ate, she has worked with the Center for Forensic Psychiatry of Ann Arbor, the Scott Correctional Facility of Plymouth Township, the 35th District Court and Growth Works.

The Community Youth Initiative group recently released a list of behavioral standards they want young people, parents, schools and churches to follow.

Canton Township Public Safety Director John Santomauro, who is a member of the committee that created the list, said the idea is to lay down a set of basic "community standards" of behavior that virtually everyone can agree on.

"I don't see this as an issue of morality," he said. "I see this as an issue of common-sense community standards."

For example, he said, "People are responsible for their actions. There's no political correctness in that statement. It's a fact. Parents are responsible for parenting. It's not the responsibility of government. It's not the responsibility of the schools to raise your children."

Growth Works Director Dale Yagiela is another member of the youth initiative. He said the list of standards and goals should ideally create "a dialogue in the community as to what the standards are."

People should ask themselves, he said, "What are we doing in terms of setting an example for kids?

"We have an obligation of stewardship over young people, and we don't always exercise that. We're going to be after getting groups that work with young people to get this issue of character development to bear on their organizations."

Said Santomauro: "I think you'll have a more meaningful impact on crime when parents start parenting."

The committee is comprised of 24 people, including representatives from schools, churches, social service agencies and at least one business person.

Yagiela said committee members will try to involve service groups, church organizations and youth-oriented groups in the crusade this summer.

Kids learn the ins and outs of emergencies

Fire trucks pulled into the Plymouth Canton High School parking lot Monday morning, but there was no cause for alarm.

The occasion was a special feature of "Safety Town," a nine-day program aimed at teaching youngsters to deal with emergencies.

Students are given "a complete overview of what to do and what not to do if they are ever in a home that catches fire," said Natalie Goebel, director of the Safety Town program.

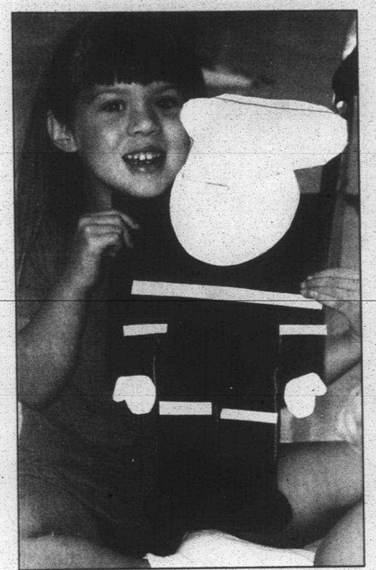
Among the skills youngsters learn is to "stop, drop and roll" in case of fire.

Part of Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Community Education summer program series, Safety Town has four morning and afternoon sessions, with 40 students per session and a staff of nine.

Safety Town features a Big Wheel course in the Canton High School cafeteria, where children learn to look both ways until traffic is clear; obey stop signs and railroad crossing signals; as well as general safety measures required to ride a bike, Goebel said.

The program is sponsored by AAA, Detroit Edison, Consumers Power, the Plymouth Community Fire Department and the Canton Department of Public Safety. Teachers will cover other topics, ranging from what to do when encountering strangers, to poisons, seatbelts, and safety in the home.

Students take field trips to the Canton Fire Department and Oakwood Hospital.



Students are given 'a complete overview of what to do and what not to do if they are ever in a home that catches fire.'

Guns and drugs

Police investigating a simple shoplifting case July 20 found more than they bargained for when they turned up heavy-duty drug paraphernalia, a loaded handgun and two people with warrants out for their arrest.

The story began when three people in a Pontiac 6000 were involved in the theft of $517 worth of clothing from Sage-brush on Ford Road.

Store employees phoned police and gave a description of the vehicle and the license plate number.

A patrolling officer stopped the car on Ford at I-275.

He found that the male driver had five warrants for his arrest for driving without insurance, driving with a suspended license and not having a diesel fuel permit. The female passenger had two warrants for her arrest for soliciting prostitution and not wearing a seat belt.

Police found a "crack pipe" and a small bag with apparent crack residue in the woman's purse along with some blue pills she said were Valium.

Another crack pipe and some bullets were discovered in the glove compartment. A bag containing three syringes was found in the center console.

A search of the trunk turned up a duffel bag containing a loaded Smith & Wesson .357 Magnum Model 686. Also in the bag were two full speed loaders, duct tape, rubber gloves and pliers, according to the police report.

The car belonged to an Algonac man, who told police the gun was also his. The license plate on the car was stolen.

The three occupants of the car were arrested for retail fraud.

Retail fraud

Police found three small packets of heroin on a man arrested July 19 for trying to steal a Coleman generator worth $387 from Home Depot on Ford Road.

The man was detained by four Home Depot employees after one of them confronted him in the parking lot, according to the police report.

The man was arraigned July 20. Bond was set at $25,000, 10 percent. He is scheduled to appear in 35th District Court Aug. 2.

Car thief caught

Officers spotted the 16-year-old boy afoot on Canton Center Road. He matched the description of someone who had led another officer on a chase and lost him.

The officers pursued the boy, who ran off but ultimately turned himself in to them.

He told police that he stole a 1983 Buick Century from the Dairy Mart in Wayne and a Ford Escort from Auto Master on Canton Center Road.

The boy was turned over to his parents. The case was turned over to Wayne Police.

Knife threats

A 25-year-old trailer park resident told police that "some crazy, one-armed guy with an artificial hand had pulled a knife on her and her friend" about 10 p.m. Saturday, July 20, according to the police report.

The woman said the one-armed man was knocking on her neighbor's door when she asked him what he wanted.

"You. How much?" she said he replied.

She said he couldn't afford her. He pulled out a $100 bill, which she took. He pulled a switchblade knife and she returned his money. Then he followed her into her yard, she told police.

The one-armed man spoke to the woman's friend in her yard while she phoned police inside. The friend said the man pulled the knife on him, too.

Police found the one-armed man in his trailer "extremely belligerent and intoxicated," according to the police report. "He was very hard to understand and couldn't hold a train of thought."

The man's wife showed police where the switchblade knife was. The man was arrested for felonious assault.

Break-in

The part owner of Plymouth Construction, a Ford road business, told police that two Stihl saws worth $2,000 were missing after a break-in July 21.

Police found the front door to the business had been "smashed out," according to the report.

Indecent exposure

A 23-year-old woman told police that a man exposed himself to her at 7:45 p.m. July 17 as she jogged north on Lotz south of Palmer.

She said she heard someone say, "Hey," turned around and saw the man, whose pants were around his ankles.

"Come on baby. You want it," she said he said.

She said she turned away and kept running and the exposer disappeared into the woods.

The woman described the man as 25 years old, 5-foot, 10-inches, medium build, brown, clean-cut hair, glasses, clean shaven, stone-washed jeans and a white T-shirt with red lettering.

Ping sting

A 37-year-old Dearborn man told police that his Ping golf clubs and bag worth $1,825 were stolen from Fellows Creek Golf Course between 1:30 and 6 p.m. Sunday, July 21.

Forum set for prosecutor's race

The Plymouth-Canton Jaycees are hosting a Candidate Forum for the Wayne County Prosecutor's office race 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 29, at the Plymouth City Hall.

The Forum will consist of questions from a live audience to the candidates, as well as opening and closing remarks. Both prosecutor John O'Hair and Sen. Virgil Smith have confirmed their attendance at this Forum.

Ameritech bureau tells how to handle unwanted calls

Three harassing phone calls are made every second in the United States.

"Receiving unwanted calls, whether it's a teenager making a prank hang-up call, an obscene call or an unwanted sales pitch, it can be frustrating and sometimes frightening to our customers," Brenda Elinburg, manager of Ameritech's Annoyance Call Bureau, said. "In most cases, these calls can be stopped by using some simple, but effective techniques."

The Ameritech Annoyance Call Bureau receives about 2,500 calls daily from consumers who have been victims of annoying calls. "We hear from customers complaining about having received calls ranging from abusive to obscene, from debt collection to sales solicitation and from survey calls to more serious, threatening calls, such as rapes, kidnappings and even homicides," Elinburg said.

Because of the large volume of customer calls, the Ameritech Annoyance Call Bureau is now offering a free brochure for consumers with tips on what to do about annoying telephone calls. Consumers can receive a copy of the brochure by calling the Annoyance Call Bureau at (800) 769-4099.

It's a criminal offense for anyone to make obscene or harassing phone calls. For abusive, harassing or obscene calls:

• Hang up after the first obscene word or if silence lasts past your second hello.

• Do not give any information such as your name or address.

• Advise your children not to give out any information to strangers.

Although many customers find sales solicitation and survey calls informative and helpful, when handling these calls keep the following in mind:

• It's your phone service and your time. If the caller is rude or won't let you end the conversation, hang up.

• Always find out who is calling. Ask for the name of the person calling and the company he or she represents.

• If the caller is selling something that you're not interested in, say so. Ask the caller to send you all the information in a letter so you can consider it at your leisure.

• If you do not recognize the name of the company conducting the survey, call back or ask the caller to call again after you've had time to check the firm with the Better Business Bureau.

• To reduce unwanted sales calls, remove your name from the calling list by writing to: Telephone Preference Service Association, P.O. Box 9014, Farmingdale NY 11735-9014.

• If unwanted solicitation calls from the same company continue, call your local law enforcement agency to file a complaint or contact the Michigan Consumer Complaints Department (517) 373-1140.

Threats involve endangerment of life, bodily harm, kidnapping, robbery or damage to property and should be taken seriously. Consumers should:

• Hang up

• Note the date and time

Residents can call the Ameritech Annoyance Call Bureau at (800) 769-4099, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. There is a taped 24-hour message providing callers with information at (800) 762-9311.

Ameritech Annoyance Call Bureau process:

• Once a person receives an annoying or harassing call, they should first contact the local police department to file a formal complaint.

• They should then contact the Ameritech Annoyance Call Bureau to request an investigation to determine who the unwanted caller is.

• They need to record the dates and times of annoying calls.

• They should report annoying calls to the Ameritech Annoyance Call Bureau within 24 hours after receiving the call.

• Ameritech will work with the customer and police department for 21 days to determine who the unwanted caller is.

• At the end of three weeks, Ameritech will notify the customer by letter letting them know if the investigation was successful and that the evidence has been sent to the law enforcement agency they filed the complaint with.

Deadline is Nov. 1 to apply for U.S. service academies

Nov. 1 is the deadline to apply through U.S. Rep. Lynn Rivers' office to one of the U.S. service academies.

Nominations will be available for the class entering in June 1997 to the Military (West Point), Naval, Air Force and Merchant Marine academies. Applicants must be at least 17 years old, but no older than 22 years old by July 1996. They must be U.S. citizens, unmarried, and legal residents of the 13th District.

"In addition to these basic requirements, my nominations are based upon a strong academic record, SAT and/or ACT scores, extracurricular activities, and the recommendations of principals, counselors, high school teachers and coaches," Rivers said.

Once nominated, all nominees must pass examinations given by the various academies. Those selected for admission will be notified early in 1997 and will report to the academy in June 1997.

Suburban officers aid task force effort to halt prostitution

Police officers from five suburban communities and deputies from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department are riding together on Eight Mile Road this summer to stop prostitution in a concerted effort coordinated by the Eight Mile Boulevard Association. The task force was organized by the Sheriff's Department.

"This is the most aggressive effort by far," said Heather Tiffany, project coordinator for the Eight Mile Boulevard Association. "We're using the prostitution sweeps to show business owners and residents that something is being down on Eight Mile."

At regular intervals since June 28, Sheriff Department deputies and officers from the Oak Park, Warren, Eastpointe, Hazel Park and Ferndale police departments have worked eight-hour shifts together. They recently completed their third "sweep." Their conjoined efforts have made a difference.

"To date we have seized 150 cars and arrested close to 100 people," said Sheriff Robert Ficano. Officers ticket men who solicit decoy officers and impound their cars. "Johns" pay a hefty $650 fine to release their vehicles.

Blurring the police boundaries along one of metro Detroit's main arteries provides officers with the latitude of going after prostitutes in mutual territory. "A lot of people who engage in this activity don't care about political borders," said Ficano.

The task force resulted from a survey sent out to area businesses and residents by the Eight Mile Boulevard Association. Responses indicated that prostitution and drugs were the main concerns of the community. The association contacted the Sheriff's Department and the project became energized.

"This action demonstrates the kind of cooperation that is the hallmark of the Eight Mile Boulevard Association," said Sharlan Douglas, executive director of the 8MBA. "Officers from several communities and counties are riding together, working to stop prostitution on both sides of Eight Mile."

Officers and deputies also are cooperating in "stings" against narcotics activity. They follow the flow of drug transactions across Eight Mile and identify and raid target houses.

Sheriff Ficano expressed law enforcement's mission in future of Eight Mile Road. "We share the communities' vision for a better Eight Mile. This task force is a symbol of how cooperative and unified action can create a better place to live, work and play."

MHS fall Mutt March to benefit homeless pets

On Saturday, Sept. 21, the Michigan Humane Society will host its Fall Mutt March at Hines Park in Westland.

The five-mile walk will start at Nankin Mills station at Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail. Walkers can begin anytime between 8 a.m. and 12:30 p.m.

Participating walkers collect pledges for each mile walked, with proceeds to benefit the more than 53,000 homeless animals cared for by the Michigan Humane Society each year.

Walkers collecting $100 or more in pledges receive an official collectible Michigan Humane Society Mutt March T-shirt. Additional prizes will be awarded for those bringing in pledges of $200, $300, $400 or more. A grand prize will be awarded to the marcher who collects the highest amount.

Walk with or without a canine companion. Cat-owners who wish to show their support for felines by participating will receive an MHS "I'm a Cat Purrson" sticker. All participating dogs will be given a special Mutt March "I'm Steppin' Out For The Michigan Humane Society" bandanna.

Those walkers who bring a dog, must bring proof of rabies, distemper and parvo virus vaccination. Dogs will be required to remain on a leash.

Registration forms are available at any Michigan Humane Society location: Detroit Shelter, 7401 Chrysler Drive (313) 872-3400; Rochester Hills shelter, 3600 Auburn Road (810) 852-7420; Westland shelter, 37255 Marquette (313) 721-7300. For more information call (313) 872-3400.

The Michigan Humane Society is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to serving animals since 1877. MHS operates three shelters and charitable animal hospitals in the metro Detroit area.

"Why reinvent the wheel?" Yack said.

Members of the local initiative include social service representatives, church leaders, Canton Public Safety Director John Santomauro and Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry, as well as Plymouth Canton Superintendent Chuck Little.

Character building

The Character Counts Coalition is designed to strengthen the character of young people. The coalition is a bi-partisan and non-sectarian effort. Well-known spokespeople for the effort are actor Tom Selleck and Congresswoman Barbara Jordan who died earlier this year.

The Character Counts Coalition was founded by a former Loyola University law professor, Michael Josephson. The coalition and its parent organization, also founded by Josephson, is based on six principles of simple good conduct. They are: trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring and citizenship.

In Battle Creek, Maliszewski and community leaders brought in Michael Josephson to speak. Approximately 250 people showed up. "It was incredible."

Adults aren't exempt

While children and young adults are the focus, Maliszewski doesn't let adults off the hook. She gave an example of how after a long frazzeled day of work, she would tell family members to tell telephone callers she wasn't home.

When Maliszewski thought about it, she realized she caused a conflict because she always told her children to tell the truth.

"What's important is that we don't get out there and be moralists," she said. "It's the little subtleties that need to be changed."

There are certain issues, such as murder is wrong, that don't call for dispute. "It's wrong. We need to get together and say it's wrong," Maliszewski said.

While the six pillars of character are simple enough to understand, Maliszewski said they must be advocated, modeled and enforced - especially by adults.

"It does take a whole community to raise a child," Maliszewski said.

She recalled a survey of college students. Sixty-three percent of them admitted that in the past year they have lied, cheated or stolen. "Those are the ones who admitted it." And the statistics are higher for younger children.

"We've gotten into a negative slump," said said, adding that if people object to the six standards and their advocacy, "...what are they objecting to a better society?"

Standing up

The Character Counts standards are being used in the Los Angeles School District, as well as in Dade County, Florida. They are also used in working with gangs. Maliszewski spoke at the recent AARP convention in Washington D.C. It seems residents of senior housing complexes were body-slamming each other with their wheelchairs.

"We have to be strong enough to say what is right and what is wrong," Maliszewski said.

Role of government

Canton Public Safety Director questioned her about the role of government in such an initiative. He referred to local newspaper criticism that government should stay out of the local youth initiative and its development of standards for youth.

"We are not apologetic about government taking a role," Santomauro said.

But he said he was surprised that the media and some in the public viewed the Canton Youth Initiative as an effort to moralize.

"What I have found is our people in the community said 'we don't want this to look political.' You can't legislate morality," Maliszewski said. "They can legislate laws and these laws can say what is right and what is wrong. It's the enforcement."

Maliszewski said that the Battle Creek government has been supportive of the Character Counts effort. But she said she told leaders that if they, for example, advocate trustworthiness - one of the six tenets - "rest assured I will hold you accountable."

Yack inquired about bringing in Character Counts trainers for the Canton initiative. Maliszewski said Josephson charges $10,000 a day. Other trainers could be brought in though she didn't know at what cost.

"This is not about making money. It's about investing in our kids. We have devalued our kids for too long," Maliszewski said.

for example, 75 percent of future revenues, 50 percent, or any other percent.

Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter said that the paperwork involved in capturing anything less than 100 percent "is a nightmare."

Yack noted that police and fire funds would be hurt the most by a 100 percent capture rate and that, perhaps Kirchgatter's inconvenience "takes a back seat to a higher, more noble position."

Assuming an expanded DDA would capture tax revenue from the planned construction of Super Kmart, AAA office, Max & Erma's and a car dealer, a 100 percent capture rate would siphon $55,000 from the police fund and $36,000 from the fire fund.

As more businesses move into the DDA, the need for police and fire service rises, but the taxes the DDA generates for police and fire remain constant. The result is that property owners outside the DDA subsidize police and fire protection to DDA properties to a greater degree every year.

Trustee Melissa McLaughlin seemed to favor a 100 percent rate. "There are conditions on Ford Road that are increasingly intolerable," she said. "We are falsely scared by these (projected) numbers because these numbers aren't real in the present world."

"It's the kind of issue you've got to hear from the public on," Yack said, although "most of the public won't understand."

At first trustees thought they had to pick a capture percentage Tuesday, but Finance Director Tony Minghine told them it's okay to wait until after the public hearing.

Complicating matters is that township officials cannot capture tax revenue from any other taxing agency without that agency's permission.

Yack is most interested in getting Wayne County's permission because the county's millage is the biggest of those available.

Wayne County taxes property at a rate of 6.73 mills followed by the intermediate school district (2 mills), Schoolcraft College (1.88 mills), the Canton library (1.64 mills), the Hamtramck Jail (0.96 mill) and the Huron Clinton Metropark Authority (0.23 mill).

Jeff Schroder, a candidate for Wayne County Commission, says he won't debate his opponent, incumbent Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter in a forum scheduled for today.

The Plymouth Republican Club had invited both candidates to debate at 6:30 today. The primary is Aug. 6, and voters will select a Republican candidate for the 10th County Commission district, which includes Livonia, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. The winner of the primary will face Democratic challenger R. Karl Burnett in November.

Schroder said he would not debate for organizations that have already endorsed McCotter. He also refused to attend the Northville Republican Club's forum on Tuesday evening.

"I will not waste my time in a one-sided debate in front of the McCotter fan club – this makes no sense at all," Schroder, a Northville Township resident, said in a written statement.

McCotter, R-Livonia, said the Plymouth Republican Club has not endorsed him as it doesn't make endorsements in the primary. But, Schroder said Tom Hickey, Plymouth Republican Club chair invited him and he is listed as a McCotter supporter.

"I'm disappointed that we haven't had the opportunity to address the issues . . . in public," McCotter said.

Schroder said in his statement that he is "more than willing to debate McCotter in a neutral setting."

McCotter responded that he is always willing to debate the issues, but questioned Schroder's reasoning in avoiding the Plymouth Republican Club forum. Cablevision employees would have been on hand to tape the forum, he said.

Donald Morelock, music professor at Schoolcraft College, recently returned from a three-week, music-enhanced trip to St. Petersburg, Russia. The trip was part of Schoolcraft's special music program. Eighteen young pianists, 12 of whom are present or former students, accompanied him.

This was not Morelock's first trip to Russia. In 1994, he took a group of pianists to Moscow. Comparatively, Morelock found St. Petersburg beautiful and the people warm-natured. However, he said the greatest standout was the piano teaching offered at the St. Petersburg Conservatory.

"They were fantastic in every way, technically and musically. They had a tremendous sense of imagery and imagination, and they were very giving teachers. They were very interested in our students," Morelock said of the Russian teachers at the conservatory.

The students received three one-hour lessons each week in addition to nine master classes and many recitals. This is a contrast to the American instructional system of one hour once a week. Russian music students address their teachers by their first name. "They say 'Leonid' or 'Tatiana' or 'Elena.' Even a 10-year-old will call his or her teacher 'Elena,'" said Morelock.

Morelock said his young pianists were well-received. "The Russian teachers were impressed with out students. We are producing a fresher kind of student in America, rather than a factory mind set."

While in St. Petersburg, Morelock's students had an opportunity to live a classical pianist's dream: They performed at Shermetiev Palace, where Liszt and Tchaichovsky plied the ivory keys for royalty. "Oh, yes, it was a very special event to play in this palace," said Morelock.

Besides playing the piano alongside the ghosts of great composers, the students witnessed a bit of Russian history in-the-making: Boris Yeltsin was reelected President of Russia while they were there.

Of Schoolcraft College's piano program, Morelock said it's "like the Olympics" for piano students. The program, with its culminating trips to Russia, resulted from the cooperative efforts of the Ministry of Culture of Russia, the International Fine Arts Association, Northwestern University and Schoolcraft College.

Program targets professionals in private practice

Managing spreadsheets as well as medical charts has become part of the daily routine of physicians and dentists in private practice. As a result, many of these professionals are obtaining master's degrees in practice administration.

Madonna University initiated a graduate program in medical and dental practice administration in 1992. Herb Gardner, a Livonia dentist, was among the first to enroll.

"The cost of the program was paid back in the first year by applying the techniques I learned. The single most important course for me was management accounting.," Gardner said. He also stressed that "shortcut courses just won't do the job. They need to be well-planned like Madonna's courses, which are progressive and take you from point 'a' to 'b.'"

The entrepreneurial aspect of private practice dominates the program's curriculum, and seminars have been developed to include accounting, taxation, marketing, legal issues, and risk- and staff-management. Participants earn 30 semester hours in credits and receive a master of science in business administration degree.

"Our program was designed from scratch based on a survey of more than 600 practitioners and is the only one of its kind in the United States to focus on private practice leadership," Charlotte Neuhauser, professor of management and marketing at Madonna University, said.

Beginning in early September, under the Executive Fellows Programs, students will have an opportunity to attend classes on campus or to participate primarily through distance-learning. Campus-based classes will be held once a week between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m., with some weekend sessions. Distant-learning students will be mailed video tapes of campus sessions. These students must attend campus sessions on five weekends.

"The Executive Fellows Program encourages networking with Fellow professionals even after graduation," Neuhauser said. "Our alums have access to an E-Mail bulletin board and are able to continue to share ideas, helping each other to work more effectively."

For further information about the program, contact Neuhauser, Madonna University School of Business, (313) 432-5354.

Madonna wins grant to examine faculty roles

Madonna University was one of 22 chosen to receive a grant of $30,000 to review and revise its system for supporting faculty members in their roles on campus and in their careers.

The program is underwritten by a lead grant of $1 million from the Pew Charitable Trusts.

Madonna was one of more than 500 private colleges and universities nationwide invited by the Consortium for the Advancement of Private Higher Education to compete for grants as part of a new national program, "Faculty Roles, Faculty Rewards, and Institutional Priorities."

The consortium's action team, which was established at Madonna to develop the grant proposal and to execute the project, includes Sister Francilene Van de Vyver, president; Kenneth Rust, chair, sign language department and consortium project director; Ernest Nolan, associate academic vice president; Gerald Charbonneau, assistant professor, social work/sociology; and Miriam Fabien, chair, English and communication arts.

The grantees will undertake projects to examine their current policies and perceptions of faculty roles and rewards; restructure their reward systems; focus faculty rewards on student learning outcomes; study the nature of faculty work at their institutions; provide faculty development opportunities in teaching and instructional technologies; identify ways for institutions to help faculty improve their teaching and scholarship and to work more effectively.

Foundation

Firefighters should be lauded

The foundation is an official seal on charitable work the firefighters have been doing for quite some time. Helping others is not new to the Canton firefighters.

We've got to give credit where credit is due. It couldn't be more true than with the Canton firefighters who recently formed their own foundation to help charities and individuals in need.

Firefighters formed the Canton Firefighters #2289 Charity Foundation to raise money and distribute it to causes and organizations, such as Special Olympics, muscular dystrophy and the March of Dimes.

Despite the official name that includes the firefighters' union, the foundation is strictly charitable for the community — not the firefighters or their union.

The foundation is an official seal on charitable work the firefighters have been doing for quite some time. Helping others is not new to the Canton firefighters.

In particular, residents will remember the plight of Canton teen Greg Unger who suffers with cystic fibrosis and underwent a double-lung transplant in 1995.

No one asked the firefighters to help Greg and his family raise money for the expensive operation in St. Louis. They read about Greg and his love of hockey and the Red Wings in the Canton Observer in December, 1994.

That got them started. They arranged an incredibly successful benefit hockey game between firefighters and Canton police officers, and the Red Wings Alumni. They solicited help from businesses and the Red Wings. And the game for Greg was such a success that firefighters organized a second game.

In all, firefighters and police officers raised more than $21,000 for Greg's transplant. Today, Greg is doing just fine.

Canton and its residents should be proud of its firefighters and the initiative they have taken to help others in need. Let's face it, it's not easy to arrange hockey games for 2,000 and more guests, raffle prizes, tickets and Red Wings Alumni. But they've done it.

And they will continue to do it. The next big event is a benefit softball game between firefighters and Red Wings Alumni and some television sportscasters Aug. 3 at the Canton Softball Center on Michigan Avenue. Proceeds from this event will go to the Special Olympics and the new foundation.

Tickets at $5 each are now on sale at both fire stations in Canton, as well as a number of other locations. Raffle tickets also are on sale. By participating, you will help the firefighters continue to help others.

Firefighters are to be praised for their efforts. The foundation only serves to solidify the charitable tradition they have begun. If the foundation had existed when Canton teen Judy Rosin was killed by a drunken driver in November, 1995, you can bet firefighters would have stepped up and helped pay funeral costs.

That's just who the firefighters are. They see a need and are on the frontline ready to help.

O'Hair is best primary choice

His major concern has been to set policy and administer the prosecutor's office. He has not used the office to launch any personal or political crusades. He is more interested in seeing that justice is done than seeking out the glare of television cameras.

On Tuesday, Aug. 6, voters from throughout Wayne County will select a Democratic candidate for county prosecutor.

Incumbent John D. O'Hair is being challenged in the primary by state Sen. Virgil C. Smith.

On the Republican side, Thomas D. Esordi is the logical choice since his opponent Donald L Knapp Jr. is not campaigning. The winners of each primary will face off in the November general election.

O'Hair has been county prosecutor since 1983. Before that he was Wayne County Corporation Counsel, a Wayne County Circuit Court judge, a Wayne County Common Pleas judge. His career also includes service in the U.S. Army, private law practice and college professor.

O'Hair has broad experience and has demonstrated throughout his career a commitment to the highest standard of public service. He maintains a strong commitment to the development of a diverse, well-qualified staff and has a proven track record of effective and responsible law enforcement.

He has been a tough but intelligent prosecutor. His major concern has been to set policy and administer the prosecutor's office. He has not used the office to launch any personal or political crusades. He is more interested in seeing that justice is done than seeking out the glare of television cameras.

O'Hair exhibits a civility in public office that is lacking in many elected officials today. And although he is a civil gentleman, his office continues to hold criminals accountable for their crimes in a swift, but fair manner.

This is the second time Smith has challenged O'Hair in the primary race. Smith nearly defeated O'Hair in the primary four years ago.

Smith represents the 2nd Senate District which includes Highland Park, Hamtramck and the eastern portion of Detroit. He has served as Senate Democratic floor leader since Dec. 1, 1995.

We believe Sen. Smith is a hardworking, dedicated public servant with a deep interest in making Wayne County a better place for all citizens. He is articulate and personable and has proven to be a competent challenger for the incumbent. However, he presents no substantive evidence that O'Hair is not doing a good job.

John D. O'Hair's experience, integrity, intelligence and administrative qualities make him a solid choice for re-election in the Democratic primary on Tuesday, Aug. 6.

Competition benefits customers

As many people will recall, Ameritech filed a complaint against Continental Cablevision with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) in February. At a press conference to which local government officials were invited, the phone company alleged that Continental's exclusive programming agreement with HBO violated the Commission's programming access rules and was therefore meant to hamper competition. Ameritech, seemingly eager to create public opinion, failed to provide the whole story.

At that time, Continental said the phone company's claims had "no legal merit" because the 1992 Cable Act protected exclusive contracts such as Continental's, which existed prior to June 1, 1990. In fact, exclusive programming contracts have been considered legitimate in the broadcasting industry for many years.

In an order released June 5, 1996, the FCC decided in Continental's favor and said that it found the Cable Act provision cited by Ameritech to be "clear and unambiguous." The FCC has thereby upheld Continental's right to be HBO's exclusive cable television distributor in its franchise areas until the exclusivity provisions of the agreement with HBO expire on Dec. 31, 1997.

In finding the programming access provisions of the Cable Act to be straightforward, the FCC could not have spoken more loudly about the baselessness of Ameritech's claim against Continental and HBO. Congress and the Commission considered this issue during the development of the provisions, obviously believing that they would not restrict competition.

People understand the traditional exclusivity in the areas of movies, entertainment and sports, and that choice is the driving force behind competition. It would be as meaningless for all cable providers to supply the exact, same services as it would be for all car dealers to sell a single make of automobile.

In fact, Ameritech has formed partnerships of their own with companies such as motion picture and television giant Walt Disney Corporation in order to provide programming, and they are touting other services also not carried by Continental at this time. They have also chosen not to match Continental's commitment to important local programming such as high school sports, chamber of commerce programs and other important local events. Rather than complain about the options that customers will have, Continental is encouraged by this activity. It is exactly what competition is all about, and customers will benefit from the exciting new choices in the marketplace.

It is not surprising that Ameritech has chosen to stage battles with Continental at media and governmental levels. They are very familiar with the FCC complaint process, having been fined $200,000 last August for violating Section 214 of the communications Act by initiating construction of a cable system without FCC permission. They also entered into a consent decree with the FCC in 1995 stemming from an audit which disclosed inaccurate allocation of costs between regulated and non-regulated accounts, and they paid $675,000 in penalties as a result.

As much as the FCC's affirmation of our HBO contract is welcomed, we find it unfortunate that the Commission, HBO, Continental and some local government authorities have had to spend time and resources answering another of the phone company's frivolous charges. But since the most important part of our business is and always will be our customers, it's a relief for us to have this issue resolved so that we can devote our efforts toward continuing to provide them with the best and most complete service possible.

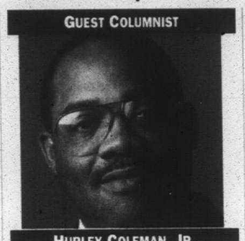
POINTS OF VIEW

Parks millage all about kids, quality of life

Guest Columnist



Hurley Coleman, Jr.

At core of the discussion of funding parks and recreation in Wayne County is the basic question of whether or not recreation and leisure is a mandated service. The debate does not center on this reality, however, it becomes politicized as so many other valuable services are. I have spent the last 20 years working in public parks and recreation agencies of various sizes and structures. In each experience, the catalyst for my personal commitment has been the impact that parks and recreation programs have made on the individuals that we touch.

The teenager who finds out that their leadership abilities can be used just as easily as the captain of the basketball team as they are as the leader of a gang is enough to make me work the extra hours without asking for pay. There are some that would relegate this experience to some inner city recreation center, but this happened in a well-to-do suburban community. All around the country the story is finally being told about the successes of local recreation programs in the development of character and the building of hope. If there is any criticism of public recreation and parks, it is that we don't market ourselves as well as law enforcement leaders. We don't tell our own story.

Last year, Wayne County spent an average of $25,000 per year on every youth that was housed in the detention facility for misconduct. Last year, Wayne County spent an average of $8 per year on the thousands of youngsters that went to school everyday, that participated in sports and other positive extracurricular activities, and that went to church and work, and generally stayed out of trouble. It seems that we concentrate on rewarding the bad youth with attention and investment and take for granted the others. This, however does not come up in the political discussions. As a general fund allocation, parks and recreational programs always compete with law enforcement, health care, and the judicial system. Wayne County CEO Edward H. McNamara proposed to the Wayne County Commission that we let the voters decide if a priority should be placed on youth and quality of life. The majority of the commissioners agreed to let the voters decide. We developed a plan of action that would detail how the funds would be spent and proposed it as a measuring rod for those who support the millage to hold us to. Again, a majority of the Commission supported the proposal. We only ask that the voters have the chance to tell us what they feel.

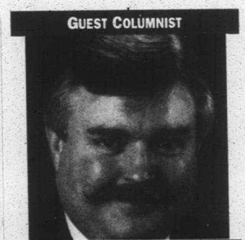
Most of us have some fond memory of a picnic in a park, of a recreation program that we participated in, be it little league, swimming, dance, golf, arts and crafts, the playground, and on and on. Wayne County Parks is the oldest county park system in Michigan, one of the oldest in the country. It exists purely out of the largesse of visionaries like Henry Ford and the Slocum family that donated land for parks in perpetuity. They did not make these sacrifices for their own benefit, but for people they would never see or know. It has now become our turn to give to the future.

The plans for the parks millage include not only capital development and renovation projects for existing parks, but also some projects that will break new barriers in inter-governmental cooperation. It also includes the valuable element of improved and increased maintenance and operational support. Grants for bricks and mortar are available, but the opportunities to increase funding for operations are scarce. It is this element that becomes critical for Wayne County parks at this juncture in our history. The demand for parks and recreation is high on every level, including the county. The individuals that need our support may not even be born yet. Let the voters decide.

Hurley Coleman, Jr. is director of the Wayne County Parks System.

Proposed tax hike has to do with 'pork,' not parks

Guest Columnist



Bruce Patterson

On August 6 the voters of Wayne County will have the opportunity to go to the polls and vote in a primary election. But the votes that will be cast in this primary election won't decide just who is elected to office, or even advance to November's general election. Oh no, much more will be decided.

Specifically, whether or not each and every taxpayer's wallet is picked again by the "tax-and-spenders" who already hold office. Why you ask? Because of Proposition P, a ballot proposal for the "good kids," the supporters say. A vote to improve our parks for the benefit of everyone, the promoters contend.

Hogwash!

This is just another big government grab to control more of our money — yours and mine — and "harvest" pork for the politicians' pork barrel. When this proposition is passed the revenues generated will empower 'Big Ed' McNamara (the Head Hog of Michigan Democrat politics) and his junk yard puppy Michael Duggan to ladle out favors to their friends and cronies, and punish the few elected officials, like Canton Supervisor Tom Yack, who try and stand up to them and make a case for taxpayers and workers of Wayne County.

The really sad news is that the whole issue is NOT EVEN about parks or kids. It is really about a political payoff for a Detroit Commissioner (Bernard Parker) from the east side of Wayne County who is always complaining that there aren't enough county parks in his district. So, he votes against the McNamara agenda at times to get Big Ed's attention and now Ed is about to slip one by the residents of western Wayne County to appease this east-side Commissioner. (The total take over the five years of tax from the seven western Wayne County communities I represent as a Commissioner is over $3.5 million dollars, Canton's share alone is well over $1.5 million based on 1994 State Equalized Value (SEV).

Wayne County is an urban county. There are 43 municipalities in Wayne County. Each and every one of these municipalities already has a parks and recreation department in operation paid for by their local residents totaling millions of dollars.

In addition, there is an entire parks system in place under the separate jurisdiction of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority. It collects over $6.9 million dollars from Wayne County taxpayers in order to run that system.

Add to that the over $2.9 million dollars that is appropriated from the general fund of Wayne County to operate Wayne County Parks Department and we are talking about a duplication of services and more than enough money to subsidize a non-essential governmental activity. (Especially since money is administered by the same crowd of 'managers' that can't even operate a county golf course - Warren Valley - in "the black" during strong economic times; and...they go so far as to lose money on each round played. See Auditor General report, page 11).

When is enough, enough? In my opinion we are already there. I hope the voters agree with my assessment. After all, we only just got some measure of tax relief with Proposal A and now it is all being sucked away incrementally. My constituents already have to work overtime to make ends meet so they don't get much of a chance to travel to the east-side to enjoy these proposed "improvements" to parks, which are not even owned by the county.

One final thought — the most recent spending plan on how the $40 million dollars to be collected over the next five years from the taxpayers will be used, only accounts for roughly $26.5 million dollars in expenditures. Why? Where is 'Big Ed' planning to spend the rest? Is it possible he is out buying community support, one municipal project at a time. Only time will tell. But remember — "Money is the mother's milk of politics" — so he'll be back to get more.

And, also remember that Mr. McNamara secured a "favorable" legal opinion before he began misappropriating the 1/10 mill money for Juvenile Justice programming and Wayne County voters now face an additional term debt of over $27 million dollars because of that fiasco. (Hmm, isn't that tax about ready to expire? You don't suppose that's the next tax issue we voters will be given an opportunity to vote on do you?)

Does anyone else think it's time to privatize non-essential governmental services? Please let me hear from you.

FAMILY ROOM

KAREN MEIER

That hurricane named Bertha

"Vacation" – derived from the verb vacate. "Vacate" – to cease to occupy or hold; give up; leave. Turns out, the dictionary was right, more right than I could've ever imagined. Even after a million years.

Vacation '96 – we'd waited for this. A long time: Not a million years, granted, more like two. Last year, we didn't take a summer vacation. But each year before that we had. Sometimes it'd be a camping trip or a visit to family in another state or something fun like that, for a week or so. And every year we'd reserve and plan – months ahead. Vacating a house and normal routines takes tremendous advance planning.

And this year was just like that, just like old times. We held our family planning session way back when snow was on the ground and we decided on our vacation destination – Buxton, N.C.

It's on the Outer Banks, a small island village where a mere sand dune separates village from ocean, big, vast, beautiful and grand. And only one road leads in and only one road leads out, Route 12. And the famous Cape Hatteras lighthouse stands guard with its diagonal black and white stripes, lighting the bit of sky over tiny Buxton and its waters...

Buxton's not a resort town; it's a quiet village with a magnificent ocean just out there, right there, close enough to touch and smell and taste and hear and see all the time. Clocks are useless.

Celebration is well-versed affair

■ When it comes to poetry, Plymouth's Poet-in-Residence Rod Reinhart wants to show people the importance of writing, reading and listening to it. One way he does that is through the "Summer Celebration of Poetry."

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

As Plymouth's Poet-in-Residence, Rod Reinhart strives to show the community the importance of writing, reading and listening to poetry.

One way he has chosen to accomplish this mission is with the "Summer Celebration of Poetry," a popular Thursday evening event at the Plymouth Coffee Bean Company, 844 Penniman. The free event runs 7:30-10:30 p.m. every Thursday through Aug. 8.

Now in its fourth year, the festival features a "variety of very effective, well-known poets who are from the Southeastern Michigan area. We really want to concentrate on our writers – writers from this part of Michigan," said Reinhart, who was appointed to his position by The Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

"I like to tell people about why it is we really have to work on our writing, become more effective communicators, and why we need to read poetry, listen to poetry and understand it," he said. "That enables us to be more effective, more self-confident, and more creative as writers."

Tonight's program will feature members of the Detroit and Ann Arbor Poetry Slam Teams, groups of poets who read their works competitively. Reinhart pays tribute to those who organize poetry events at coffeehouse on Thursday, Aug. 1, by hosting readers Michael Tichnor of The Guild House in Ann Arbor, Leslie Boughton of Borders Books and Music in Novi, Janet Lawless of the Shadowbox Caffee in Hamtramck, James Clay of Gotham City Cafe in Ferndale, and Ron Allen of Cass Cafe in Detroit.

"These are people doing very much the same sort of project in their coffeehouses," Reinhart explained. "Michael Tichnor does a wonderful program at the Guild House in Ann Arbor; the same with Leslie Boughton ton of Borders Books and Music in Novi, Janet Lawless of the Shadowbox Caffee in Hamtramck, James Clay of Gotham City Cafe in Ferndale, and Ron Allen of Cass Cafe in Detroit.

"These are people doing very much the same sort of project in their coffeehouses," Reinhart explained. "Michael Tichnor does a wonderful program at the Guild House in Ann Arbor; the same with Leslie Boughton of Borders. Janet Lawless, James Clay and Ron Allen ... they have coffeehouse projects in Ferndale, Hamtramck and Detroit.

"It's not a lot of money, but they have gained enormous respect around the state for maintaining a regular night when people from all over Michigan can come to read poetry and listen to poetry."

The season closes on Thursday, Aug. 8, when Van Baldwin, James Jorah and Jason Chapman are the featured readers at "Open Microphone Night For Younger Poets."

An open mic session is included in the activities of each night, Reinhart said.

"After (the main readers) have read their poetry, then we have a chance for other people from the audience to read poetry," he explained. "We're having a good deal of open mic time every night."

Reinhart credits the Coffee Bean Company for its support of "Summer Celebration of Poetry and "what we're doing."

"They give us the large room; it's a beautiful space, we're able to read in that for three hours on a Thursday night," he said. "They've been our main place to go for the last three years.

"Pam Haas, the owner, has been extremely supportive of poets, creative writers and artists of all sorts. She makes a wonderful contribution to our community."

Besides the "Summer Celebration of Poetry," Reinhart is hosting the second annual Michigan Mystical Poetry Festival from 4-9 p.m. Sunday, July 28, at St. John's Episcopal Church, 574 S. Sheldon Road, Plymouth.

The event will feature an open mic session and readings by Rishikavi Raghudas, Robert Thibodeau, Margo Lagattuta, Van Baldwin and Howard Weingarden, to name a few.

A poetry veteran, Reinhart has been involved with it for more than 20 years. He was one of the main supporters for the Community Concert Series in Detroit, which he hosted at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church on the Wayne State University campus. He worked with well-known artists like the one-time popular rock group The Vertical Pillows and neighborhood poets.

Reinhart also organized Horizons in Poetry in the Cass Corridor, peace and anti-violence protests, and a 24-hour poetry reading in the early 1980s.

But the "Summer Celebration of Poetry" is closest to his heart.

"When I had the opportunity to pull this together, I felt we had the chance to really positively impact young people and older people by encouraging them to listen to good writers, important writers, and then to share their own writing."

Family Room

So are phones. As a matter fact, there are no phones, at least the place where we were.

There are weathered, wooden rocking chairs on the weathered, wooden balconies overlooking the ocean. And there are clotheslines strung along the balconies for wet towels and bathing suits. And there are ceiling fans whose paddles stir the warm sea breezes about on the inside of the village's stilted buildings.

That's the place we chose. Back in the dead of a Michigan winter.

So on July 7, a Sunday, we departed. July 8 we arrived. It was everything we'd dreamed of ... more. It was just this side of heaven. Or maybe it was heaven. It was hard to tell. Looking out from the wooden balcony we couldn't see where the ocean ended and heaven began. Everything to the horizon was so blue and beautiful it almost hurt.

The seven of us, actually eight (the newest family pet, the turtle, came along in the van in his sloshy turtle tank aquarium the 850 miles to the Outer Banks – that's another story). We all played in the ocean and the sand and lost track of time and read books and went for beach walks at night to watch the tiny crabs scuttle about, always sideways, and we prepared meals in our little kitchen and watched the sunrise over the ocean and the sunset into Pamlico Sound behind us. For two whole days it was like that.

Then Wednesday morning, as I was doing breakfast dishes and looking out the opened kitchen window onto Route 12, the only road into the village, a fire truck crawled by, lights flashing, but no siren. The man inside was speaking through a loud speaker and said to all who could hear, "A mandatory evacuation of Hatteras Island has been issued and will be in effect at 10 a.m. Hurricane Bertha is on its way. Repeat. This is a mandatory evacuation."

I dropped baby Steven's bottle into the soapy water in the sink and spun around to see the stunned looks on my children's and husband's faces.

"No way," one of them shouted. "No way," I screamed. We'd only been there 39 hours. It was Wednesday morning. We were on vacation, not due back in Michigan until the following Tuesday. We had six more days in heaven, on the Outer Banks, beside the ocean, with its waves and warm sea breezes.

We planned and paid months ago, just after the Christmas bills were paid. And besides, hurricane season didn't begin in North Carolina until late August, early September. Right? We'd researched that. We'd made sure of that.

And our year had already had enough adventures and wildness in it. That's what we were vacating, the outlandish adventures that seemed to crop up in our normal routines: Hurricanes, evacuations, storm surges, high tides, roads washing out and plywood nailed to windows, and bathtubs filled with fresh water, flashlights and battery-operated radios, and extra bread and peanut butter and rip tides and 115-mile-an-hour winds and beach towels and bathing suits and weathered wooden rocking chairs flying through the air, and stilted buildings washing into the vast ocean – these adventures were not what we had in mind. Wednesday, July 10, we, the Meier family of seven, eight with Cecil the turtle, heeded the evacuation order. Our vacation, some might say, ended there. But if you check the dictionary, it'd just begun. We vacated. We ceased to occupy. We left.

But that part about giving up, well, we didn't. And that's a story for next time.

New help in smoking cessation
By Paul B. Lattin, D.O., F.A.C.R.
Research on tobacco and nicotine addiction is providing new products to help people stop smoking.
Later this month, a prescription nicotine nasal spray will join nicotine gum and skin patches in smoking cessation programs.
The U.S. Surgeon General has previously concluded that nicotine is an addictive drug. It causes elevation of dopamine, a neurotransmitter, which increases feelings of pleasure. Dopamine is also found in other addictive substances such as cocaine, amphetamines, heroin, and alcohol.
Tobacco products are high in nicotine. They also contain 3,800 other chemicals and some are known to cause cancer. Nicotine delivered by non-tobacco routes, such as gum, patches and now, nasal spray, is safer to both the user and others and can be an effective way to break the smoking habit.
Nicotine gum and skin patches have been successful in smoke-ing reduction programs. The FDA has already released nicotine gum for over-the-counter use. The skin patches are also available without a doctor's prescription. Some patients complain that these routes do not satisfy their nicotine needs since the rate of absorption is slower compared to smoking.
The new nasal spray offers nicotine levels comparable to smoking. This spray can be used five times per hour, but not more than 40 times per day. It is recommended the nasal spray be used for three to six months. Side effects include running nose, throat irritation, watery eyes, sneezing, and cough.
Individuals interested in breaking the nicotine addiction should consult their physicians for advice on which smoking cessation product is best for them.
Paul B. Lattin, D.O., F.A.C.R., is an Oakwood Healthcare System Radiation Oncologist. He has a specific interest in lung cancer and tobacco related illnesses.

In concert: Talented soprano Kevin Corley will perform during the 8, 9:15 and 10:45 a.m. and 12:05 p.m. worship services and present a mini concert at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 28, at Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia. For more information, call (313) 422-1899.

GUEST LECTURER
Dr. Andrew Walker of London, England, will be lecturing at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile Road, Livonia, Saturday, July 27, through Monday, July 29. A leading scholar in the area of the gospel and our culture, Dr. Walker will address many topics which relate to both spirituality and the great cultural issues confronting the church in the western world.

On Saturday, July 27, a potluck dinner will be held at 6 p.m., followed at 7 p.m. by Dr. Walker's lecture, "Speaking the Truth in Love: Healing the Culture Wars." On Sunday, July 28, Dr. Walker will give the message at the 8:30 and 10 a.m. worship services.

On Monday, July 29, area clergy is invited to a special luncheon with Dr. Walker at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills. Reservations are required for the luncheon. A final lecture, "Recovering the Gospel: Mission in the Modern World," will be given by Dr. Walker at 7 p.m. that evening at the church.

For more information, call the church office at (313) 422-1470.

OUTDOOR SERVICE
The congregation of Trinity Lutheran Church will close its doors on Sunday, July 28, to hold its worship service on the lawn of the church at 27350 West Chicago, Redford. Worshipers are asked to bring lawn chairs or blankets to the 10:30 a.m. service which will be a reminder of what others have to do when their buildings are burned.

The entire service is aimed at giving worshipers the experience of what it is like to be without a house of worship and to draw attention to the racism that is still prevalent in our society. A special offering will be taken up for the National Council of Churches of Christ's "Burned Churches Fund."

The public is invited to attend the service of solidarity with those who have suffered. For more information, call the church at (313) 937-1199.

CHRISTMAS IN JULY
Unity of Livonia has designated Sunday, July 28, as Christmas in July Sunday. The choir will sing Danny Holley's original "Angels Don't Sing Just at Christmas," during services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. at the church, 28660 Five Mile Road. The public is invited to join in singing Christmas carols and share inspiration about practicing the Christmas spirit all year long. As part of the giving spirit, the congregation and Children's Church are creating boxes of summer fun for Stratford House.

Compassionate care
At the Providence Center for Breast Care, we know that a diagnosis of breast cancer can turn your world upside down. We provide timely information, support, diagnosis and treatment in a compassionate, caring environment.

Coordinated care

With one call to the Center, you eliminate the delay between diagnosis and treatment—that means treatment is underway in days rather than weeks or months. A clinical nurse specialist will answer your initial questions and schedule diagnostic tests, providing results to the Breast Care group. During your initial visit, the oncology specialists—surgeons, medical and radiation oncologists, plastic surgeons, oncology nurses and social workers—together with you, develop treatment plan options.

Comprehensive care
Our oncology physicians are nationally known in cancer treatment and research. Providence is affiliated with leading oncology research and treatment programs and with the Radiation Oncology program at the University of Michigan Medical Center. You will receive the most advanced and sophisticated cancer-fighting technologies available.

Convenient care
Best of all, you can receive care close to home with locations in Southfield and Novi. Our goal is helping you to regain control of your world with compassionate and quality care—a Providence tradition for more than 150 years.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON BOARD PROCEEDINGS JULY 16, 1996

A regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Charter Township of Canton was held on Tuesday, July 16, 1996 at 1150 South Canton Center Road. Supervisor Yack called the meeting to order at 7:08 P.M.

ROLL CALL:
Members Present: Bennett, Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly and Yack
Members Absent: None
STAFF PRESENT: Durack, Minghine, Santomauro, Ager, Voyles, and Zevalkink
Supervisor Yack introduced and welcomed Anthony Minghine, Director of Finance and Budget to the Canton Team.

ITEM 1 CANTON WASTE RECYCLING CONTRACT
Mike Ager announced that the option to renew the Contract for Canton Waste and Recycling (CWR) is to be on the agenda for the July 23, 1996 Board Meeting.

Paul Denski Jr., Canton Waste and Recycling, 42000 Van Born Road, reviewed the successes of CWR over the last three years servicing the Canton Community. He spoke on the Canton Clean Up Weekends, Clean Up for Charities, Recycling, Composting, and Customer Service. Mr. Denski summarized the future goals for CWR in the Canton Community. He wished to continue making improvements in collections, facilities, and maintaining a four-day collection week by increasing services. Mr. Denski said he hoped to build a new facility to handle all of Canton's recycling and trash well into the future. Mr. Denski suggested that it would make good business sense to use recyclable material recovered in the community, such as plastic building supplies for school playground equipment. He noted the success of paper recycling used in the Township offices. He pointed out the possibility of having a facility to remove the aluminum from tin because it would be cost effective for the community.

Mr. Ager concurred that CWR has an outstanding job of customer satisfaction. History shows that they will go out of their way to provide customer service and satisfaction. Mr. Ager stated that CWR has a vision for the future, may consider building a new M.R.F. thereby staying on top of any waste disposal foreseeable problems.

ITEM 2 PUBLIC SAFETY RADIO COMMUNICATIONS
Director Santomauro reviewed with the Board that in the 1996 budget proposal and in previous correspondence it was identified that the communications system was in critical need of repair/upgrade. Mr. Santomauro said that the system was purchased approximately 11 years ago and is a VHS system. The volume of building occurring in Canton has caused inadequate radio communications with officers in the field. Mr. Santomauro said that it has become hazardous for public safety personnel and the problems have become progressively worse very quickly. He cited three incidences in the last three months where officers radioed in for assistance and were not heard. Director Santomauro said that it was the recommendation of the consulting firm that the Township repair and upgrade the existing system rather than purchase new technology presently available.

Director Santomauro presented a three-phase proposal outlining what it would take to fix the system, and the cost of upgrading the system. The projected cost to repair and upgrade would be approximately $124,000. Director Santomauro urged the Board to be expedient due to concerns he had over the safety of personnel. Mr. Santomauro added that he would like to be allowed to proceed with phase I because it would provide some immediate relief in terms of system performance.

OTHER:
General discussion took place regarding Movie Night at Heritage Park followed by a camp out sponsored by Canton Parks and Recreation and Continental Cable. Clerk Bennett updated the Board on proposed Mid-Decade Census. Supervisor Yack adjourned the meeting at 8:45 p.m.

The above is a synopsis of actions taken at the Regular Board meeting held on July 16, 1996. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on July 23, 1996.

ELECTION 96 WAYNE COUNTY SHERIFF

On Aug. 6, voters will select a Republican candidate to face incumbent Sheriff Robert Ficano.	What is the primary responsibility of the sheriff and what qualifications do you bring to the job?	What cost-saving ideas can you offer taxpayers? Be specific.	Are you satisfied with the current level of service delivered by the sheriff's department? What programs, plans or innovations would you suggest?

Timothy Adams, 47, of Dearborn Heights, is a police lieutenant in Dearborn Heights. He attended Wayne County Community College and Madonna College. He is a member of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Carl Stitt American Legion, Olive Branch Masonic Lodge, Fordson Chapter Order of the Eastern Star. He is a member of the Dearborn Heights Police Supervisors Association.

The current primary responsibility of the sheriff of Wayne County is to provide a safe, secure environment to house and transport accused people awaiting trial on felony charges. The sheriff also has to provide security for the Wayne County Circuit Courts. Also, the sheriff has law enforcement responsibility for the airport, the park system, county roads and contract services to other cities. In my 24 plus years in law enforcement I've worked the streets, supervised street cops and have been in charge of administrative services. I have worked both ends of the law enforcement equation from planning to execution.

Increased privatization of jail facilities; elimination of unnecessary administrative positions such as chief of staff, press secretary, etc.; implementation of unique enforcement techniques.

No, I am not satisfied with the current level of services provided. With cost-saving (listed at left), funds could be used for better equipment or in some cases providing equipment where none existed (such as bullet-proof vests, portable radios and transport vehicles). I would provide regional police facilities where none existed. I would like to continue aggressive O.U.I.L. enforcement, expand and improve the marine division, expand and improve the park and airport units and attempt to enter into an agreement with the cities in the county to provide funds for an air division which among other things would help limit high speed chases.

Kenneth Kline Jr., 47, of Canton Township, is an engine builder for Kinetic Racing Engines. He is a former Los Angeles County sheriff's deputy. He attended Henry Ford Community College, Wayne State University, East Los Angeles College, Rio Hondo College. He is a member of the Michigan Police Combat Police Association and the National Rifle Association.

The primary responsibilities of the sheriff's department include the day-to-day operation of the jail and inmates placed there, the courts as bailiffs and in the lock-up areas, and patrol of county areas. I was a deputy sheriff in Los Angeles County in California. During that time I worked in the jails and later in the jail as a supervisor. I worked in the juvenile and adult courts, both as a bailiff and a lock-up deputy. I worked at two patrol stations and have extensive experience working with gangs and drug abusers. I have also been involved with special operations including drug stings, SWAT team operations and security of dignitaries and entertainers.

I would stop spending taxpayer money checking on federal firearm license holders. This is the responsibility of the ATF, and the sheriff has said on TV news that the deputies working this detail rarely find the license holders home since they are only part-time dealers. State and FBI statistics show that most guns used in crimes are stolen. The gun buy-back program did not stop crime either. I will institute a report card system for judges. This will allow voters to make a more intelligent decision at election time. I would have seen that the contract with the deputies was settled earlier than it was, to keep deputies from leaving the department.

Yes, although many deputies have told me that the morale within the department is very low. The service from the deputies remains at this level because of the personal pride they take in the performance of their duties. More training for the deputies, not just what's required by the state. Encourage the county to spend some of its money on the department to update equipment and facilities, not spending all the money on the airport. Stop the traffic ticket quota system. Officers feel they are hampered in their ability to deal with crime when they have to be worried about writing a certain number of tickets in their shift, or be disciplined.

Edwin V. Nassar, 48, of Dearborn, served in the U.S. Army, and has worked in shipping at Chrysler Corp., as a tutor at Macomb Community College, as a United Auto Workers union representative, as a private investigator and in security services. He attended Central Michigan University and Wayne State University. He is a member of Geneva counsel, United International.

The sheriff is a peace officer of the county, and it is his duty to see that the peace and order of the community is maintained, and to execute laws generally against vagrants and disorderly persons and to protect the lives, property, health and morals of the people. The sheriff has a duty to make custody of prisoners after the arrest or before trial and make execution of sentence. I have been involved in the law enforcement in security, process papers (process server), private investigation, security monitor surveillance, and during Army Reserve annual training I have assisted military police.

Cost-saving plans I have in mind is to invoke the state constitution Article I, Sec 6, via deputation of citizens. Constitution states that every person has a right to keep and bear arms for the defense of himself and the state. It will enable me to increase police (citizens) in the communities within Wayne County to patrol the streets, combat gangs, criminals, pederasty and/or one who seeks out children in general for sexual deviant conduct. Citizens patrol and apprehension of felonies will save taxes spent where otherwise will cost more for time spent on research and investigation, unnecessary man hours worked, etc.

No. If elected as a sheriff of Wayne County, I would like to build additional institutions to accommodate increasing numbers of juveniles in the holding area as opposed to sending them out of state, and pay the other states tax monies to detain them, where tax monies can be saved. Make it easier for their families to visit them. Establish better quality of work life for the deputies, less work-related stress, increase of pay in effort to discourage high turn-over rate, educate deputies to relate better to the citizens as opposed to gestapo attitude. Hire more deputies and increase union memberships. Take better control of Metro airport.

Daniel Glenn Tackett, 34, of Taylor owns and operates D&B Office Cleaning and Downriver Detective Agency. He also has worked at TRI County Security, Rampart Security and Pinkerton Security. He attended Taylor Center High School, Jackson Community College, NRA Firearms Academy. He has taught courses at Henry Ford Community College, and is a member of the Police Hall of Fame.

The primary responsibility is the Wayne County jail system and transportation of prisoners. Also to provide deputies at the court in Detroit and to provide police protection for those communities that have little or no police protection. My qualifications include 15 years experience in managing large security and police forces up to 500 people at city, state and federal levels in the armored car industry, downtown social events in commanding uniformed, plain clothes and special operation units for the past 10 years, body guard services, and in 1987 was inducted into the Police Hall of Fame for training over 2,500 security and police officers.

A central records division and crime lab which deputies could charge, and the county could charge, services to local and private agencies for background checks and crime lab results. This is the same service that the state police provide now. Also, people do not realize how many fingerprint cards have to be done and checked as well as purchase permits that the county could charge for five days a week and also benefit in making money. And most important, tripling the size of the drug task force and forfeiture unit. Fifty percent of all drug money can go back into county funds and at the same time, we make the drug problem go away.

Bring back the helicopter division. Start a new metro drug task force with local and state police. Take back control of Metro Airport. Upgrade and make improvements at all Wayne County jails. Open a central records and identification department with state-of-the-art crime lab. Double the size of our marine division. Sheriff park patrols in townships, parks and freeways. Advanced training for deputies, jails and downtown courts. A sheriff's SWAT team. Newer equipment, updated bullet-proof vests, semi-automatic hand guns instead of revolvers. Bring back better transportation of prisoners from Wayne County cities to Wayne County jails.

Republican candidates Timothy John Olszewski, Mike Roberts and Robert J. Nozicka are also on the ballot but did not respond to our questionnaire.

ELECTION 96 WAYNE COUNTY REGISTER OF DEEDS

Voters will choose one Democrat in the Aug. 6 primary to run in November.	Would you support a charter amendment to abolish the elected office of register of deeds?	What special qualifications do you have for this job?	The courts have held the real estate transfer tax was unconstitutional. Would you favor putting it on the ballot?	Do you support the parks millage? Why or why not?

Paul G. Citkowski, 42, Canton Township resident, founder-president of Dog House Coney Island restaurant in Detroit. Attended University of Detroit, Central Michigan University. Board member of Franklin-Palmer Homeowners Association. Member Warren Avenue Business Association. Served as Wayne County commissioner representing southwest Detroit, 1976-1983.

Absolutely. That's precisely why I'm seeking this office. The gross savings of this elimination/merger would be some $4.5 million of our tax monies yearly. The net savings must then be earmarked for a specific purpose rather than absorbed into the county general fund where it would just be piddled away. I would earmark it for parks maintenance.

I possess the experience, desire, integrity and independence to just do the right thing. With your help, if elected, within 3-6 months of taking office I anticipate seeing the position of register of deeds eliminated and the responsibilities placed within the recordkeeping office of county clerk. I would then leave the county employ and return to my present business interests.

This was wrong. It's regrettable that it happened originally. No, I would not support placing the issue on the ballot. I would caution everyone that when the argument is made that the office of register of deeds is a revenue producing department (various fees and taxes) and therefore shouldn't be merged, it's simply a business as usual smoke screen.

No. Our rate is already 8.2 mills which is 70 percent higher than Macomb's at 4.76 mills and almost 60 percent higher than Oakland County's rate at 5.2 mills. Unfortunately, the political reality is that often times voters aren't taxpayers (property tax millages) and taxpayers aren't allowed the opportunity to be voters (non-resident income taxes). The issue shouldn't have been placed on the ballot.

Reginald Fluker, 42, Detroit resident, management consultant/Realtor, and broker/owner of Fluker Financial Group. B.A., M.B.A., Wayne State University. Member Michigan Democratic Party, 15th Congressional District Democratic Organization, Trade Union Leadership Council, Metropolitan United Methodist Church, NAACP, Alpha Phi Alpha fraterbity, Detroit Urban League, Wayne State University Business School Alumni Association, Associated Realty Managers of Michigan, National Association of Realtors.

Yes, but only after first conducting a thorough study and research into the feasibility of such a merger, and that the outcome clearly indicates that it would result in a reduction in net costs of operation, that under the merger register of deeds services can be enhanced and improved; and that in all probability there would not be a decline in quality of service currently provided.

Fifteen years as a Michigan real estate licensee; extensive work as a freelance paralegal; bachelor's degree in finance, master's degree in accounting/taxation (MBA); experience in supervision, management, etc. of a multi-million dollar budget with in excess of 30 employees, agents, contractors.

Yes, the Headlee Amendment requires it. In addition, it is my general opinion that all citizens affected by a potential increase in taxation should first have the opportunity to approve or reject such increase; given that they are provided concise information as to the alternatives, citizens are intelligent enough to make such decisions.

This millage question conforms with my answer in number 3. As an individual citizen, I feel that the arts and recreation facilities must be maintained as they encourage positive socialization, recreation and cultural experience in our community. The majority of the voters will decide to accept or reject the millage. Therefore, yes, I do support the parks millage.

Forest E. Youngblood, 70, Dearborn Heights resident, incumbent Wayne County register of deeds. Attended St. Rita and the University of Detroit, Michigan State, University of Wisconsin and University of Detroit. Member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, Goodfellows, Catholic Social Services Board of Directors, SEMCOG, foster grandparent program, Most Holy Trinity Church. Serves as chairman of the Plat Board.

No, although the Michigan constitution allows the offices of register of deeds and clerk to be combined into one elected office, the functions, governing laws and procedures of each office are separate and unique. While a combined office may be possible in smaller, rural counties, a county the size of Wayne needs staff and management with a sufficient expertise to quickly and accurately record and index more than 1 million documents a year. In counties with a combined office, the clerk/register is usually unable to devote sufficient time and energy to manage separate and distinct offices and staffs.

Having served more than 20 years as the register of deeds, I have not only gained a thorough understanding of all the functions, issues and processes of the office and the plat board, but county government generally. This experience has enabled me to obtain the political and financial support necessary to streamline processes, automate recording and search functions, and lower recording and user fees. My tenure as register has also provided me the opportunity to identify and select highly qualified individuals to serve as my management team and office staff.

Every county in Michigan collects real estate transfer tax. In 1981, the state legislature amended the transfer tax law to permit counties with a population more than 2 million to increase the rate of the county portion of the transfer tax. The Wayne County Commission exercised that authority in 1981. It was that portion of real estate which was recently invalidated. The register of deeds office has no role in imposing or spending the transfer tax revenues – it merely serves as a collection agent for the county treasurer. Whether or not the increased rate should be submitted to a vote, is a decision more appropriately made by the financial managers of the county.

As a general matter, I support the idea of maintaining and enhancing public parks not only for the use and enjoyment by the people, but to protect and enhance the environment. If more funds are needed to properly protect this great resource, I support a millage to raise necessary funds.

Democratic candidates Ron Cleveland and John A. Bernard did not respond to our questionnaire

Community Hospice offers Camp Phoenix for children

Community Hospice Services is again offering Camp Phoenix, a weekend bereavement camp for children ages 5 1/2 -17 who have suffered a significant loss of a loved one.

The camp takes place Friday through Sunday, Aug. 23-25, at the Tamarack Outdoor Education Center in Ortonville. As a result of a grant from the Women's Committee for Hospice Care, Community Hospice Services is able to offer Camp Phoenix at no charge to campers; however, donations are still welcomed.

"Camp Phoenix is an opportunity for children to understand that they are not alone in their grief," said Yvonne Strand, director of social services for CHS. "The program will assist children in learning to identify and express their thoughts and feelings in a constructive way.

"Children will then be able to develop and implement coping skills that will enable them to foster increased self-esteem and the ability to deal with the inevitable losses which will occur throughout their lives."

According to Strand, children grieve differently than adults because they cannot tolerate long periods of intense feelings. One minute they may be crying and upset about the loss, and the next minute they want to play with their friends. Often children will harbor secret thoughts and fears about death which frighten them.

And it can be difficult to recognize that a child is grieving. To an adult, it may seem as if the child is not grieving at all or it may seem as if the child has bounced back from the loss.

"Where grief and loss are concerned, children are often the forgotten ones," Strand said. "The importance of assisting children to identify, acknowledge and express their grief cannot be understated. If we validate and acknowledge the importance of children's feelings, give them safe and secure ways in which to deal with their grief, as well as express themselves, we give children the gift of empowerment."

The selected camp activities (swimming, canoeing, nature trails, arts and crafts, campfires and a challenging ropes course) are designed to promote expression of feelings with the goal of teaching children what grief is like and providing helpful strategies for coping with and growing through grief.

At the end of the weekend, the children will have an opportunity to participate in a memorial service. The service will allow them to remember their loved one in a positive way and to validate the importance of that relationship in their lives.

The camp session begins at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 23, and concludes at noon on Sunday, Aug. 25. Children will be divided into groups that are based upon their age and developmental ability.

"We have a high ratio of adults to children," Strand said. "All children stay in comfortable, secure cabins, and well-balanced meals are provided by the camp's food service."

A limited number of opportunities are available on a first come-first served basis. Call Strand at (313) 522-4244 for more information.

Jack was afraid he'd lose his manhood. So I lost my best friend.

Jack refused prostate surgery because he was afraid he "wouldn't be able to perform."

Well, his pride cost him his life. And it cost me my best friend.

If you're afraid of losing your manhood, consider this: You could lose your life.

Regular screenings can detect prostate cancer early ... while it's still curable. And with today's improved treatment procedures, most men have little if any loss of function.

Don't lose more than you bargained for. Get regular prostate screenings. It's one of the most important things you can do ... for yourself, and for those who care about you.

Touch a computer screen to learn about penguins and porcupines, go nose-to-nose with a bright blue fish in a coral reef aquarium or walk among hundreds of butterflies and hummingbirds. Sound like a fantasy? Not since the Detroit Zoological Institute opened its new interactive exhibit in mid-December.

The Detroit Zoo leads the way into the 21st century with the $8.2 million Wildlife Interpretive Gallery, the only facility of its kind in the world. The dream of director Ron Kagan, the 10,000-square-foot gallery is an educational vehicle designed to heighten awareness about wildlife's fragility and our bond with nature. To accomplish this, the zoo's 1926 Bird House underwent restoration to house the sensory stimulating, multi-media museum featuring a fine art gallery, changing exhibit space, interactive CD-ROMS, 100-seat theater focusing on interpretive films, coral reef aquarium with neon-colored fish and underwater cameras controlled by viewers, and a lush garden where visitors walk among hummingbirds and hundreds of butterflies. It's a great place to spend a rainy morning waiting for the sun to come out so you can visit the baby camel born barely six weeks ago in the 125 acre park.

"We needed to create an experiment more magical than the average zoo experience. The Wildlife Interpretive Gallery is Detroit's Garden of Eden. It's a contemporary cathedral that celebrates animals in a powerful way to get people to think. If people will fall in love with this then they will protect it," said Detroit Zoological Institute director Ron Kagan during a tour of the gallery. "Not everything put here was for our amusement or to be at the end of a gun. The goal is to affect people's attitudes and values."

Planning began in 1990 with a goal to revamp the Bird House. Closed nearly 10 years after water-leakage and humidity damaged the structure, the project expanded when Kagan arrived in late 1992 from the Dallas Zoo.

The gallery's main floor provides hands-on video monitors and the zoo's own CD-ROM to encourage children as well as adults in learning about animals and the environment. Touch a computer monitor to tour the Detroit Zoo or explore the habitats of polar bears. Kagan thought it important for the visitors to have up-close experiences with animals struggling to survive in endangered environments such as tropical forests and coral reefs so the project continued to evolve.

The climate-controlled butterfly/hummingbird garden and coral reef aquarium allow visitors to watch in awe, the beauty of these delicately-balanced worlds. Three to four hundred rainbow-hued butterflies float through the air around visitors at any one time in the 3,800-square-foot garden. Kagan proudly states, The Detroit Zoo participates in conservation projects by purchasing butterfly chrysalis from Costa Rica farms in an effort to save butterflies in South America.

One wing of the lower level devoted to a changing exhibit space currently hosts "The Good, the Bad and the Cuddly," a touring exhibit developed by the Smithsonian Institution and donated to the Detroit Zoo. Graphics, video and a hands-on drawing program document the attitudes and relationships humans encountered with animals through the centuries. Don't miss the opportunity to learn about animals and yourself by drawing a mean or nice animal on a video monitor. "The Good, the Bad and the Cuddly" continues through September. Future plans for this area include natural history exhibits, an annual children's wildlife art competition and wildlife photography expositions.

The other wing of the Wildlife Interpretive Gallery houses a theater showing a series of films created by the zoo and Academy Award-winning producer Sue Marx with narration by Michigan natives

Writer finds soul of jazz in Russia

BY HUGH GALLAGHER
STAFF WRITER

Bill Minor begins his book on jazz in the Soviet Union, "Unzipped Souls" (Temple University Press) with an apprehensive question posed by his wife, Betty, "Why Russia?"

Most Americans have never heard of Igor Butman, Petra Vyzniaukas, Yuri Kuznetsov and Sergei Kuryokhin, all jazz performers who have embraced America's music and made it their own.

Telling their story seemed to be a natural culmination of Bill Minor's interests and training. He's a musician, a jazz critic, a reader and teacher of Russian literature who speaks the language. He lives, teaches and writes in Monterey, Calif., home of America's oldest jazz festival.

"I heard the first recordings of Russian jazz recordings from East Wind about 1985. American critics tended to dismiss Russian jazz as unoriginal, a clone of American jazz. But I heard music from Azerbaijan with its use of ethnic music with jazz that was very original, not a clone," Minor said. "I felt I had to meet them. It was not whimsical, but it was also not planned."

That's how the Minors 9,000-kilometer 1990 odyssey through the collapsing Soviet Union began. Minor's travels took him to a jazz festival in Moscow, a jazz school in Petrozavodsk, Odessa, Tiblisi, Leningrad (now St. Petersburg) and another jazz festival in Riga.

His interest in music started as a student in Birmingham schools. Minor attended Quarton Elementary School, and his wife, Betty, attended Pierce. They met in junior high school and graduated from Birmingham High School in the mid 1950s. Minor went on to the University of Michigan.

"I had an orchestra, Bill Minor and his Orchestra, with a singer, Sharon Stanton. I played drums and we played the standards, dance band music, bunny hop, Cole Porter. It was very popular then, this was the pre rock and roll period," Minor said.

A teacher, J.P. Wolf, introduced the high school freshman Minor to the trad jazz sounds of Eddie Condon, and that led to an exploration of other kinds of jazz from Dave Brubeck to Thelonious Monk to the new sounds coming from the Soviet Union, where jazz has been around from its beginnings.

"When the Original Dixieland Jass Band music came out it was very popular in the Soviet Union, they loved dance music," Minor said. "It was on the surface at first and then underground. During Stalin's time it was awful; he made people turn in tenor saxophones because it was decadent."

But government edicts couldn't keep people from hearing the music they loved. Smuggled

Zoo from page1B

Tim Allen, James Earl Jones, Jeff Daniels, Robert Wagner, Julie Harris and Harry Blackstone Jr. along with background music by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

A dynamic piece of film footage, "Images of the Wild" presents a history of art and animals culled from permanent collections of the Detroit Institute of Arts and the zoo. Images include a range of works from Egyptian mosaics to paintings by Henri Rousseau and Henry Ossawa Tanner, sculpture by Marshall Fredericks, and a blown glass vessel crowned with the head of an antelope by William Morris.

Upstairs, visitors will find a fine art gallery. While Kagan concedes art is very unusual for a zoo, he felt it necessary to include this powerful communicator of the centuries. From a 4,000 year old Persian fallow deer used as a talisman by hunters, to an elephant sculpted from bullets by Mary Engel, the upper level balcony spotlights the zoo's permanent collection of art interpreting man's relationship with animals. Artists have celebrated animals in their works through the ages. Little as well as big boys will love the giant bug made from old Buick parts, an African antelope mask from the Burkina Faso region, and a medical staff from Nigeria.

"The fine art gallery is one of the risks we took. To a certain extent we're providing a bridge to an audience who never considered art might be of interest before," said Kagan. "Art is a very powerful insight into what people feel about anything. It's interesting to see how different cultures thought about both art and animals. Art really bridges different cultures, religions and languages."

In order to acquire appropriate works, Kagan formed a commission of experts from the Detroit Institute of Arts, local gallery owners, and Wildlife Interpretive Gallery fine art gallery curator Gerry Craig, former director of the Detroit Artists Market. Kagan served as the average visitor since he had no extensive knowledge of art. He wanted to include Michigan artists so he mailed 8,000 prospectuses in search of interpretive art. Catherine Peet's enamel on wood and Ed Musante's painting of a bison, reminiscent of the Lascaux cave drawings in France, are among the works.

"Over one million people a year visit the zoo. We hope they will evaluate how they look at animals, the necessity of providing a place where they're protected and reconsider the way they look at art," said Gerry Craig.

To insure an authentic restoration of the Bird House designed by architect William H. Creaser, Kagan hired John Hilberry & Associates of Detroit, known for their work with museums and cultural institutions. Funded by the City of Detroit through the sale of $6.6 million in bonds, additional private support of $1.6 million was contributed by the Detroit Zoological Society founded by Henry Ford, Henry Busch and Abner Larned back in 1911.

Two large Pewabic tile peacocks lurk above the exit and entrance. Since the gallery was created to heighten awareness of nature, the building bears symbols of earth's basic elements. The 25 foot high glass dome represents air and sky; the nautilus terrazzo on the rotunda floor denotes water, and rotunda walls sheathed in fossil embedded limestone from Texas signifies earth. Although the gallery opened to the public in mid-December, the aquarium was completed only three months ago. By mid-June, the gallery was winning awards. The prestigious Engineering Society Construction and Design Award, bestowed recently during a ceremony at the Cranbrook Institute of Science in Bloomfield Hills, recognized the Wildlife Interpretive Gallery's quality of overall design, innovative construction techniques, environmental considerations, land use and impact on Michigan.

Jazz from page1B

records and the Voice of America kept jazz alive in the Soviet Union. The late Willis Conover of the VOA was a hero to many Soviet citizens who tuned in to listen to his American jazz program.

Though many performers in the former Soviet Union play the American jazz styles they have long revered, they, also, add elements of their own music.

"The stuff that interested me was the music of Vagif Mustafa-Zadeh and his daughter, Aziza, who take the traditional music of Azerbaijan, mugam, and fuse it with jazz, an amalgamation that is wonderful. They say that their music from Azerbaijan is closer in spirit to black American music than any other. But then others say the same thing about their music," Minor said.

The use of folk elements makes for a distinctive sound, Minor said, but it is in the tradition of American jazz, which also draws from Creole, African, Irish and other folk elements.

Minor's book is an often-amusing account of traveling through a country in transition. When he and his wife were invited to attend the First International Moscow Jazz Festival, the Soviet Union was on the verge of yet another dramatic change.

"It was really extraordinary timing, before the economic crunch, a real sense of freedom, not just the music but also the visual arts," Minor said. "But they knew it wouldn't last, they were aware of what was going to happen."

The economic deprivation caused by moving from a state-controlled economy to a market economy has fed a traditionally cynical and dour Russian point of view.

"There is a lot of cynicism and uncertainty. They felt Gorbachev was only words but Yeltsin was a politician who could get things done," Minor said. "It would be dreadful if they went back. But really it's a third-world nation. They often regard the old days with favor."

The coup against Gorbachev that was successfully put down by Yeltsin kept Minor glued to his television. He said he was working on his book at the time and if the hard liners had succeeded he would have had to scrap what he was writing or risk the lives of many outspoken musicians.

Though many of the musicians Minor talked to try to create a successful life recording and performing in Russia, others have felt it necessary to emigrate to the United States. They've found it difficult to compete with American jazz musicians and often end up playing the traditional ethnic music they came to the United States to avoid. Minor said emigres and musicians who have remained in the former Soviet Union have had a difficult time dealing with the free market style of self promotion needed to succeed.

"They have an idealized vision of jazz musicians that jazz musicians are honored in this country," Minor said. "They are often disappointed to find out how most jazz musicians actually live."

Minor has been commissioned to write a history of the Monterey Jazz Festival on its 40th anniversary. But his John Gunther-style travels in search of jazz will continue with a planned trip to Japan. Minor, who is a poet and visual artist among his other accomplishments, has had a longtime interest in Japanese culture, including Japanese-style jazz. Several Japanese big bands have received airplay in the United States, and Minor said the Japanese love American performers. "Aeiji Kitamura, for example, is called the Benny Goodman of Japan, but his style is his own," Minor said.

Minor was in the Detroit area recently to attend a nephew's wedding and reunite with his family, including his 87-year-old mother, Dorothy, who still lives in Birmingham.

ART BEAT

Artbeat features various happenings in the suburban arts world. Send news leads to Linda Ann Chomin in care of Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

ART OPENING

Cartoonist Glen Barr, a graduate of Franklin High School in Livonia, opens "Fiction Burn," a one man show of his artwork with a preview Friday, July 26 and an opening reception Saturday, July 27 at C Pop Gallery, 515 S. Lafayette in Royal Oak. Both events run 7-11 p.m.

Barr helped illustrate the animated "Ren and Stimpy" series for Nickelodeon. He worked two years as an illustrator for Skidmore-Seration in Troy after graduating from Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design in Detroit in 1986. Barr is a frequent contributor to Mad Magazine, Orbit and Detroit Metro Times. He has designed covers for albums, CDs and singles for MCA and Epic records. He also helped create the animated intro for the 1994-95 season of Tim Allen's "Home Improvement" series. Barr will exhibit cartoons from these endeavors and paintings.

For more information about Barr's show call the gallery, (810) 398-9999.

CALL FOR FINE ARTISTS

Canton Project Arts is now accepting applications for its fourth annual fine arts exhibition Nov. 16-24 at Summit on the Park community center in Canton Township. Cash prizes of $1500 will be awarded for Best of Show, Second, Third Place and Honorable Mentions. Deadline for entry is Sept. 26.

Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association instructor Leslie Masters will serve as juror.

"We're looking for quality fine art including clay, drawing, jewelry, sculpture, mixed media, painting, photography and textiles," said Cheryl Staat.

Last year's show featured 55 artworks by southeast Michigan artists. Fees for this year's show are $10 per entry for Canton residents, $15 per entry for non-residents.

Applications are available at the Canton Township Hall, 1150 S. Canton Center Road south of Cherry Hill, or by calling Kathleen Salla, (313) 397-6450.

DEADLINE NEARING

The Plymouth Community Arts Council is still in need of cash donations to meet the Sept. 30 deadline for receiving a grant from the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs. A Capital Campaign Drive was begun recently to locate funding for the $80,000 total. To date, $20,000 has been raised from corporate and individual contributions and $6,800 from a raffle for a Jet Ski held during Art in the Park two weeks ago. Meeting the goal and obtaining the $42,000 grant will mean phase two of renovations to the arts council building can begin in mid-August thus completing the creation of a multi-purpose arts facility. The Music in the Park series is one of the programs the arts council produces every summer in Kellogg Park. From noon to 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 31 the PCAC showcases Dance Ensemble West. To contribute call, (313) 416-4ART.

Couple leaves city to run historic inn

Tom and Denise Erhart, along with their 17-month-old son Brian embarked on a new adventure as they recently became the new owners/innkeepers of the Terrace Inn, a historic bed & breakfast inn build in 1910.

It is in the heart of Bayview, a fairy-tale Victorian village adjacent to Petoskey's Little Traverse Bay.

The inn has 44 individually decorated guest rooms (each with a private bath) and a bright, charming dining room which seats 125 for dinner or special events. All guests at the Inn receive a delicious complimentary breakfast each morning.

Denise and Tom relocated to Bay View from Southeastern Michigan, leaving behind their Waterford Township, Cass Lake front home and professional careers to realize their longtime dream of owning the Terrace Inn.

Denise was a registered nurse at the University of Michigan Hospital for the past 18 years. Tom developed and has been the president of the Livingston Technical Academy, an innovative charter school which focuses on manufacturing technology.

"It has always been a passion of ours to become innkeepers, and we fell in love with the Terrace Inn over seven years ago," said Tom. "The ambience, charm and rich history of our inn is awe-inspiring. This is a dream come true!"

A spacious hemlock paneled lobby with brick fireplace welcomes guests and takes them back to the relaxed time of the 1900s. Each guest room is decorated with the inn's original furnishings, beautiful wallpaper and late Victorian decor.

"Many guests enjoy the fun of being able to hand-pick their room, and no two are alike," said Denise.

Terrace Inn guests are only steps away from a private Lake Michigan beach, hiking, biking, and cross country ski trails, and private tennis courts. Being able to walk, bicycle or ski through the quaint streets and view the over 400-plus beautiful Victorian cottages is a treat. It's no wonder Terrace Inn and Bay View are on the National Historic Register.

"The uniqueness of Bay View's rich history, architectural wonder, natural beauty and musical activities are what makes the community so intriguing," said Tom.

Bay View was founded by a group of Methodists in 1875 as a summer retreat. The community still offers a summer Chautauqua program to residents and guests. Many of the Bay View cottages have been passed down from generation to generation.

Innkeepers: Denise and Tom Erhart, along with their son, Brian, recently became the new owners/innkeepers of the Terrace Inn in Bayview, adjacent to Petoskey's Little Traverse Bay.

The Erharts bring a great deal of enthusiasm and energy to the Terrace Inn. Hospitality interns will be added to the current staff, and care will be given to ensure professional, courteous service. An emphasis will be placed on providing a pleasant and quiet atmosphere for dining. The new Terrace Inn menu has a "Classic country Inn Cuisine" theme featuring Northern Michigan specialties and home cooked favorites. Dinner and lunch guests may dine out on the porch, or indoors in the dining room.

Many specialty packages are offered according to the season, some of these include:

Golf packages $129 to $149 per person; murder mystery weekends, Oct. 11-13; Jan. 24-26; Feb. 7-9, Feb. 28-March 2; Halloween weekend Oct. 25-27, $99 per person; weddings and receptions, cross country and downhill ski packages including sleigh rides, and Romantic Getaway Package, Oct. 18-20, $99 per person.

FAA struggling to find bomb detection system

BY FRED BAYLES
AP NATIONAL WRITER

Despite a Congressional mandate and years of research, U.S. airports remain without a foolproof system to spot elusive plastic explosives capable of blowing a jumbo jet out of the sky.

Other nations, from Great Britain to Korea, use a variety of chemical sniffers and sophisticated X-rays to do the job. But such systems never met the Federal Aviation Administration's exacting criteria for speed and accuracy.

Only recently has a $900,000 system been approved for further testing _ too late to catch what might have been a bomb aboard TWA Flight 800.

"We would all like to have a magic box that would detect explosives, and work effectively and efficiently, but no such device has so far been proven," said Tim Neal, a spokesman for the Air Transport Association, an industry trade group.

Three fatal explosions on international airliners have been attributed to terrorist bombs. Even with heightened security following the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland, with its loss of 270 lives, experts admit there are holes in the system.

Government and industry officials are reluctant to discuss the specifics of cargo security, including the development of bomb-spotting devices.

"Research and development testing of certain equipment has been under way since 1994," said Bob Hawk, a spokesman for the FAA. "We have been looking at it very carefully."

Currently, when your suitcase trundles down the conveyor belt and into the bowels of the airport, its route passes an X-ray machine.

As the technology has gone from black and white to color images, the ability to spot dangerous objects has improved.

"There has been tremendous enhancements with color X-rays," said Susan Rork, managing director for security at the Air Transport Association. "Dangerous substances show up better."

But human and technological failings have made the system far from flawless. X-ray systems rely on human interpretation to spot easily-concealed plastic or sheet explosives.

A British inquest into the Pan Am crash criticized reliance on X-ray screening that failed to spot an estimated 14 ounces of plastic explosive concealed in a radio-cassette player that was packed in a suitcase.

Following the Lockerbie disaster, Congress directed the FAA to speed development of a more effective system. But it was only last year that a system won FAA certification.

'A Time to Kill' intelligent, explosive courtroom drama

TICKETS PLEASE

JOHN MONAGHAN

Beer-drinking rednecks have raped and brutalized your 10-year-old daughter, leaving her for dead. In similar cases, boys like this have gotten off or at the worst only served 10 years. So you grab an assault rifle and wait at the county courthouse, intent on blowing them away before they even reach trial.

What would you have done? It's the burning question at the heart of "A Time to Kill," an explosive new courtroom drama based on an early John Grisham novel. And while most of us are poised to acquit Carl Lee Hailey after the first ten minutes, the moral questions raised make for one of the more intelligent and gripping movies of the summer.

Matthew McConaughey, a soon-to-be-hot young actor previously seen in small roles in "Dazed and Confused," "Boys on the Side," and the new "Lone Star," plays the crusading defense attorney Jake Brigance. Part of the movie's integrity is that the producers didn't give the role to someone like Keanu Reeves, Tom Cruise, or Woody Harrelson (who was originally slated for the role but yetoed by Grisham).

Jake was approached by Haley the night before the murders, asking if he'd represent him if needed. Though he dismissed it at the time as just talk, Jake admits that he wanted Haley to kill those boys, making him — in his mind at least — an accessory to the crime.

As far as the trial is concerned, the cards are stacked against him. His request that the case be tried outside of the county in which it happened is flatly denied. The district attorney is practically guaranteed an all-white jury if the case stays put.

CHRISTINE LOSS

Courtroom drama: Kevin Spacey is district attorney Rufus Buckley in Warner Bros.' and Regency Enterprises' searing dramatic thriller, "A Time To Kill."

The lawyer gets some help from a surprising source: a self-described brilliant young law student played by Sandra Bullock. The fact that Jake's wife and daughter have been sent away brings up another moral dilemma: to cheat or not to cheat.

Courtroom dramas — even the classic "To Kill a Mockingbird" — often comfort us by looking back at how bad things were in the past. "A Time to Kill" takes place in the modern South, depicting the Ku Klux Klan like a sleeping lion ready to pounce when needed.

If the Klan sequences are among the film's more chilling, they also provide its major flaws. For a supposedly smart lawyer, Jake sure acts stupid. The Klan has attempted to blow up his house, terrorized his family and secretary, even took a shot at him on the courthouse steps. So what does he do? He sends his legal assistant off at 3 a.m. to her roadside hotel.

The familiar supporting actors seem more than happy to deliver the often snappy dialogue, reminiscent at times of Hollywood's glory days. Donald and Keifer Sutherland play a drunken lawyer and KKK initiate respectively; Oliver Platt is the jaded divorce attorney who agrees to assist Jake with the case. As the smug D.A. Kevin Spacey sees this high-profile case as a political gift from heaven.

Somebody established the precedent that all courtroom dramas must be at least two-and-a-half hours long and this one's no exception.

It doesn't bother you much until the end, when the Hollywood manipulation techniques start to kick in and Grisham and director Joel Schumacher spend a good twenty minutes practically bully you into crying.

So while it often overstates its case, "A Time to Kill" is an intelligent antidote to the tornadoes, aliens, and government coverups that have dominated the movies this summer.

John Monaghan welcomes your calls and comments. To leave him a voice mail message, dial (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, mailbox 1866.

■ "Titanica." An Omnimax screening that takes you inside the portholes and across sunken decks of the world's most famous shipwreck. Also showing: "Destiny in Space," which shows how humans will live in space in the not-too-distant future.

MAGIC BAG THEATRE

■ "The Bird Cage" (USA - 1996). 9 p.m. July 31. Robin Williams and Nathan Lane play a gay couple trying to throw a straight dinner party in this American remake of the 1978 French farce "La Cage Aux Folles." Gene Hackman and Dianne Weist co-star.

MAIN ART THEATRE

■ "Stealing Beauty" (Italy - 1996). The story of a 19-year-old American girl whose trip to visit relatives in Italy turns into an eye-opening experience when she meets a variety of odd characters. Directed by Bernardo Bertolucci ("The Last Emperor").

■ "Lone Star" (USA - 1996). John Sayles wrote and directed this subtle, moving drama about a sheriff who must dig deep to solve a 40-year-old murder. What he doesn't count on is that the prime suspect is his late father, a legend in his tiny Texas border town.

■ "Maybe, Maybe Not" (German - 1995). A young man fresh out of a relationship finds himself sought after by a gay friend in this German comedy.

■ "Trainspotting" (Britain - 1995). It was a runaway hit in Britain: the story of five liars, losers, junkies, and thieves on the road to self-destruction in modern-day Edinburgh. This one's directed by Danny Boyle, who made the clever "Shallow Grave." Starts Friday.

MICHIGAN THEATRE
606 Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397 for information. ($5; $4 students/seniors)

■ "The Horseman on the Roof" (France - 1995). Through July 28 (call for showtimes). A romantic adventure set in 1832, based on the classic French novel by Jean Giono, about an officer and a woman who together face an unrelenting epidemic. Juliette Binoche ("Red") and Olivier Martinez star.

■ "Antonia's Line" (Denmark - 1995). July 26 - 31 (call for showtimes). On the day she suspects will be her last, a 90-year-old woman gathers three generations of women in a celebration of life and memory. Director Marleen Gorris depicts the way a lifetime of seemingly ordinary events can have a profound impact.

■ "The World's Best Commercials." July 26 - 30 (call for showtimes). Every year the Cannes Film Festival gathers up the year's most creative commercials spots. This 1995 collection includes familiar American entries like the Budweiser frogs to surreal Smirnoff ads and a public service announcement about sexual harassment.

■ "The Wizard of Oz" (USA - 1939). 3 p.m. July 27; 2:30 p.m. July 28. Judy Garland is off to see the Wizard again in a screening of the MGM family classic.

REDFORD THEATRE
17360 Lahser at Grand River, Detroit. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

■ "Moon Over Miami" (USA - 1941). 8 p.m. July 26; 2 p.m. & 8 p.m. July 27 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtime). When Betty Grable and friends go fortune-hunting in Miami, they came up with more than they bargained for in this musical romance. Robert Cummings and Don Ameche co-star.

STATE THEATRE
2115 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 961-5450 for information. ($1)

■ "Natural Born Killers" (USA - 1994). 9 p.m. July 29. Quentin Tarantino wrote the script but disowned it after director Stone botched it with his own over-the-top style. Woody Harrelson and Juliette Lewis play a modern Bonnie-and-Clyde in this blood-soaked examination of violence and the media.

'Multiplicity' is the solution for busy O&E readers

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

We could all use a little help finishing our "To Do" list. With his work, family and personal needs all screaming for his attention, Doug Kinney, portrayed by Michael Keaton, becomes the ultimate split personality by having himself cloned in "Multiplicity" now playing at metro Detroit movie theaters.

Readers told us why they need a clone in exchange for a "Multiplicity" T-shirt. The first 25 readers to respond received shirts. Here are some of their responses:

• "Boy, if I could only clone myself. I would need so many different ones," wrote Diane Scott of Farmington Hills. "Well, for starters, I would need one to come to work and do my job, then I would want one to stay in my house to keep it neat and clean for when I came home to rest. I would also like to have another clone to pass for the real me on weekends so I can go up north with my hubby of 36 years and get away from all my kids and grandkids. Then they would think I was being very attentive to them."

• Janet Rechkemmer of Farmington wrote, "I don't need a clone of myself now, but I'm sure one would help out in approximately six weeks. I am expecting my first child in mid-August and will be quitting my job to raise the baby. I really like my job, and if the clone could keep working, I could keep in contact with my work friends and stay current at work. The paycheck would help too! The clone could help me out with cooking and cleaning when she got home from work also.

• "I work full time and like many other people have a very hectic schedule," wrote Cathi Russell of Redford. "I am a divorced single parent with one child, but between work and our other activities, I never have any time to do the much needed work around my house. We run every night after work with Cub Scouts, softball, meetings, doctors, school activities, etc. There are so many things that need to be done around my house that I just keep putting them off because I never have the time. If I had a clone life would be much easier and all those things I never have time to do would get done."

• "With three kids, a full-time job outside the home, a kitty and a hubby, I probably need several clones just to get more than 15 minutes for myself," wrote Mrs. J. Rayford of Livonia, who added, "this story would be longer, but I don't have the time!"

• "I would like to have two clones," wrote Bernice Del of Livonia. "One to do volunteer work, one to do all the never-ending household chores, and then I could do all the fun things like reading, visiting, lounging, playing games, and much more. That would be my daydream, if I had the time."

• "It would be a dream come true to have a clone," wrote Betty Taylor of Geneva, New York. "My schedule is so busy, I need more than 24 hours in a day. My home is in New York, but I go back and forth to Livonia for work. Sometimes the traveling gets to be hectic, and I'm needed in two places at the same time. My clone could be the one who goes back and forth, and I could slow down."

Dearborn Theatre Guild shines in musical revue

Dearborn Theatre Guild presents "Let Freedom Sing (And Dance!), a 1940s musical revue, 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday & Sunday, July 26-28, 21730 Madison, (near the southeast corner of Monroe and Outer Drive) Dearborn. Tickets $10, call (313) 561-TKTS.

BY TAMI TARACCHI
SPECIAL WRITER

When the Dearborn Players Guild said they were going to sing and dance this summer, they sure meant it! "Let Freedom Sing (And Dance!) is an original 1940s-style musical revue created and co-directed by the talented team of Valerie Mangrum and Brian Townsend. Loaded with familiar 1940s musical hits, toe-tapping dance routines, and lots of comedy, the show is a classic!

The year is 1943, and troops on Babelthuap Island are anxious for some entertainment. There is only one problem — the show's performers have lost their band, their music, and most of their costumes in their disastrous voyage to the island. Yet, the show must go on! Using what few resources they can find, the radio regulars and guest entertainers find some uproarious ways to "Let Freedom Sing (And Dance!)

Be prepared for interactive theater as you are seated amongst the troops in the audience while the show takes place on stage. As you will soon find out, the troops have lots of energy! They holler cat-calls on stage, wrestle to make their way on stage when volunteers are needed, and are continually scolded by their commanding sergeant, played by the very funny Phil Paonessa.

Valerie Mangrum and Brian Townsend not only created and co-directed "Let Freedom Sing (And Dance!), they are also the show's stars, Doris and Max. As Doris and Max, they act as emcees, introducing each act, performing their own musical numbers, and in between it all, falling in love with one another.

Expect to hear some powerful singing from Annette Hissong who plays Mabel. "Hoofa," played by Paul Bond, is charming as the light-footed dancer, and Doris' ex-vaudeville partner during U.S.O. The all-smiles performances by the pin-up girls, played by Cindy Yantis, Marcen Mitchell and Emily Mooney, is purely authentic, and Brooke Andres is hysterical as the spoiled Shirley Temple-like child star, Susie Blinks.

Don't be surprised if you find yourself singing along as you recognize the many classic 1940s hits including "Heat Wave," "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," "Friendship," and "Ac-cen-tchu-ate The Positive." You'll love the strong vocals of Tony Lawry, who plays Wing Nut, singing, "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up In The Morning."

Act 1 ends with a version of "God Bless America" that may even send a chill down your spine!

"Let Freedom Sing (And Dance!) has it all: comedy, romance, drama, and even some action. it will take you back to the days of World War II, even if you weren't around then. With a cast of 32 talented performers, "Let Freedom Sing (And Dance!) is an evening you won't soon forget.

'The Diviners' excellent drama

Kelly Boczek turns in a splendid performance as Buddy's sister, Jennie Mae, who also has eyes for the preacher man.

Call it Lady Luck or fate, it seems that some people have an intuitiveness to make good choices. Others might think it's divine enlightenment. But how would they explain tragic events in the lives of godly people?

These are the imponderables examined in The Theatre Guild's excellent drama, "The Diviners." The play is directed by Christopher Bremer. Set in rural Indiana during the Depression, the show focuses on the relationship that develops between an emotionally disturbed young man with a unique "gift" and a stranger who comes to town looking for work.

David Baca gives a fully textured performance as, Buddy, a child-like young man terrified of water because his mother drowned in a lake. He bellows tortured screams when anyone attempts to wash him. Yet he has an uncanny intuitiveness to foretell thunderstorms and point out the best locations to drill for water.

John Paulina is likewise very good as the conflicted, C.C. Showers, a preacher from Kentucky who has decided to give up the ministry. He takes a job with Buddy's father, and although no longer a preacher, he attempts to minister to Buddy's needs by treating him as an equal — not as a mentally impaired child.

Trouble is, the townspeople want him to be a preacher again and cure the boy. Goldie, a waitress, played with flair by Karen Foran, proclaims, "You don't pray, you don't eat." Philomena Conti gives a convincing performance as Norma who believes God sent him here because "he's got the spirit." Her pubescent niece, Darlene, played engagingly by Carey Johnson, likewise agrees the preacher man has got what it takes. Only she's thinking in terms of the nearest bed.

Kelly Boczek turns in a splendid performance as Buddy's sister, Jennie Mae, who also has eyes for the preacher man. And Dale Van Dorp is compelling as Buddy's pragmatic father, Ferris. At times rough-hewn, sometimes stern and always very natural, Van Dorp gives a most sympathetic performance of a man coping with family misfortune.

Also turning in a most natural performance is Bill Mackenzie, as the wise, old philosophical farmer, Basil. He hardly seems to be acting with lines like, "The banks cannot hurt you, they're closed."

Lisa Andres scores as Luella, who believes there is nothing to Buddy's predicting abilities. While Marc Rosati and William Tebo contribute comedy relief as they practice how to romance the girls.

In the end though, the dark cloud of tragedy empties more pain and suffering the compassion and good intentions of the preacher to overcome Buddy's fear are not rewarded. It seems that the child-like mind of Buddy somehow had good reason to fear the water — the same water he could predict with uncanny accuracy. No amount of wisdom it seems can ever explain the vagaries of life.

STREET SCENE

Diablos edge into national music scene

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

From the outside, the Bear's Den looks inconspicuous with its yellow awning and brown brick, nestled within "downtown" Berkley. On Sundays, however, it's anything but inconspicuous.

Inside, fans are dancing on chairs and the floor, or standing on their toes to get a glimpse of one of the Detroit-area's hot up and coming bands, the funk/blues outfit the Howling Diablos.

Within the past few years, the Howling Diablos have built up a following by playing around town relentlessly. Now it's starting to pay off.

The Howling Diablos captured the attention of Nick Butsicaris, a vice president at the powerhouse William Morris Agency in New York, after his former DMA booking agency partner and current Diablos manager Dave Leone took him to see the band. Butsicaris, a former Allen Park resident who goes by the name Nick Caris professionally, set up two showcases for the band in New York. He was so impressed that he booked the Diablos to open for the Scorpions and Alice Cooper on their Midwest leg of their summer tour. Butsicaris also works with the Eagles, Lollapalooza, Collective Soul, Neil Young, Sheryl Crow, Pearl Jam, Soundgarden, Rage Against the Machine, the Gin Blossoms and the Goo Goo Dolls, among others.

"They kicked (butt)," Butsicaris said about the New York shows, one of which included fellow Michigandere The Verve Pipe. "Everyone went crazy for them. We needed opening acts (for the tour) so I gave the Midwestern dates to the Howling Diablos."

By the time the Diablos, Alice Cooper and Scorpions show hits Pine Knob tonight, they will have played for crowds in Indianapolis, Chicago, Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati. Tickets for tonight's show, which starts at 7:30 p.m., are $25 pavilion and $12.50 lawn. For more information, call (810) 377-0100.

"It's like a cool bill at the drive-in," said Howling Diablos singer Martin "Tino" Gross of Royal Oak. "You see the first movie's 'Easy Rider' and then the second movie's "Frankenstein,' and the third one is 'Das Boot.' "

"It's rare to be on something like that without a record deal. They're treating us as good as we could possibly hope. A lot of times, if you're third on the bill you're just kind of left to flounder. But they're treating us great."

After five years together, the Howling Diablos have finally found their niche. Their blend of funk, hip-hop and blues, as well as Gross's laid-back yet charismatic stage presence, have attracted guest players like rapper Kid Rock, the Black Crowes' Eddie Harsch, and bluesman Robert Bradley to the Bears Den. Former members include Sponge lead singer Vinnie Dombroski and Jeff Fowlkes of Bradley's Blackwater Surprise, both on drums.

"That's turned into a great thing for us. It's been a place where we can experiment a lot, find out what works and what doesn't work. It's a place where people can see us all the time. We've pretty much built a core following out of that bar. It's been really off the hook up there for over a year now. It's just total musical excitement. There's great vibes in there too," Gross explained.

The collaboration between the Diablos and Kid Rock (whose real name is Bob Ritchie) has paid off personally and professionally for Gross.

"He's become one of my best friends. Basically, we're a rock 'n' roll band but we've got a lot of funk. When you have a funk thing goin' on , you're dealing with rhythm. A rapper, for example, can fall right in with that. It was just kind of a natural hook-up."

Although record labels are watching the Howling Diablos, the band is planning on releasing a live album on Kid Rock's Top Dog Records in the fall.

"We want to come out with a real street-level underground thing. That's all we concentrate on. Let me just say this, I'm sure we'll get signed one day. It's gonna happen in the right way for us. We'll have our own vibe and fan base happening. A record label will step in and help us do what we're already doing. ... All I concentrate on are the fans in front of me. The live thing. Those are the people we care about."

Besides the Bears Den on Sundays, the Howling Diablos will also perform at 7:45 p.m. Friday, July 26, as part of Rochester's Dancin' in the Streets series, at Walnut and West Fourth streets; From 2-3 p.m. Saturday, July 27, at the WRIF/Budweiser Rock 'n' Blues Festival at Greenmead Park in Livonia. For more information about the Howling Diablos, visit their web site at http://www.user.aol.com/HowlingDs or write them via e-mail at HowlingDs@aol.com.

Making their mark: The Howling Diablos play the WRIF/Budweiser Rock 'n' Blues Festival at Greemead Park (Newburgh at 8 Mile Road) in Livonia on Saturday, July 27, with Black Market, InDrama, Mimi Harris and the Snakes, Mudpuppy, Robert Noll, Corey Stevens and Texas Flood, Humble Pie and Edgar Winter. The show, which runs from noon-11 p.m., is free.

Orange 9mm gets great vibes

CHRISTINA FUOCO

"Great vibe" are two words that frequently come up during a conversation with Orange 9 mm drummer and former Detroiter Matthew Cross.

There was a "great vibe" during the recording of the band's latest album "Tragic," with its label Atlantic Records, and with its tour with labelmates Clutch. Orange 9 mm's latest album even has, dare we say, a happy pop element.

Has Orange 9 mm gotten over the hellfire murder rock of its debut "Driver Not Included" (East West)?

"We wanted to be able to experiment more with dynamics," Cross said via telephone from his manager's office in New York. "The songs ended up having (variety). I'm not (mad) 24 hours a day. You're angry, you're depressed, you're sad, maybe even happy at some points. There's all sorts of different emotions on 'Tragic.' "

"If the record is one big blasting wall of noisy guitar, you're not communicating any emotion other than that. ... We want to be a great rock band. In order to do that you have to be able to move forward with different styles and expressions. Music is all about emotion. If you're only expressing one it's boring."

"Tragic" certainly isn't boring. From the opening track "Fire in the Hole," singer Chaka Malik grabs listeners by the throat and throws them around like an angry pit bull straight through to appropriately titled closing song "Kiss It Goodbye."

Besides Orange 9mm's trademark sultry guitars and tribal drums, hip-hop, acoustic guitars, and dobro blues-style guitars are thrown into the hard alternative rock mix that made "Driver Not Included" one of the albums to buy in 1995. Orange 9mm performs as part of the "Big Phat Tour" with Clutch, the Misfits, Anthrax, Cannibal Corpse, Life of Agony, Fu Manchu and Core, t 2 p.m. Sunday, July 28, at Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre, 10 Water St., Pontiac. Tickets $15 in advance. Call (810) 335-8100 or (810) 645-6666.

DINING

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Woody's Diner

Where: 208 W. Fifth St., in downtown Royal Oak.

Hours: 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. Mondays through Saturdays, and noon to 1 a.m. Sundays.

More: Woody's accepts all major credit cards (Visa, American Express, Mastercard) except for Discover. For more information, call (810) 543-6911.

Larry Payne had a hunch 12 years ago that if he opened a restaurant in Royal Oak it would be successful.

He was right about the city that is now a bustling center of nightclubs, art galleries, restaurants and pool halls. A Royal Oak native, Payne transformed Duggan's Irish Pub on Woodward Avenue from a 90-seat bar to a 250-seat restaurant that specializes in Big Chief hamburgers. In July 1995, he opened Payne's Woodward Inn down the street from Duggan's. His third restaurant Woody's Diner, which opened May 1, has become the hot spot for twentysomethings at night and a popular family restaurant during the day.

"Royal Oak is so busy down here. We've been on Woodward for quite a long time. We wanted to get involved in the different areas of Royal Oak. We're trying to get more of an upscale type of crowd," Payne explained about his move into downtown Royal Oak from the Woodward corridor.

So far, he said, he's "real happy" with his clientele. Musicians and celebrities who visit the Detroit area, as well as Detroit Red Wings like Darren McCarty make Woody's one of their regular stops.

The three-floor restaurant, on the site formerly occupied by Chin's jewelry store, with chef Jeff LaPointe (Charley's Crab) serves up the famous Big Chief burger as well as a full menu of rotisserie chicken and turkey, big salads that rival Elaine's favorites on "Seinfeld," sandwiches, pizzas and nachos. If customers don't like Woody's pizzas, well then they can make it themselves.

"We have a make-your-own-pizza bar and make-your-own nachos. We'll give you the crust, you can put everything you want on it. Put it back in the (kitchen) window and go back to your table. Ten minutes later you have your pizza," Payne explained.

Payne describes Woody's as "quite a different place" built similarly to Duggan's. The three floors, each of which has 24 beer taps, have different themes to it. The wood-paneled main floor is what Payne calls "the train floor."

"We'll have a train going all the way around (the main floor) since we're right next to the railroad tracks. We'll have crossing lights that Grand Trunk donated that will be turned on when the trains go by. We're also going to offer drink or food specials," Payne said.

From the main floor, customers can hire rickshaws to drive them around the city. The second floor is similar to Duggan's with pool tables and floor-to-ceiling windows, while the third floor is a roof-top bar that offers a nice view of downtown Royal Oak. The first and second floors have juke boxes and big-screen televisions.

Payne has made his 16-year restaurant career a family affair. He and his wife, Carol, built and opened the Long Branch Saloon in Oxford in 1980. He sold in 1984, soon after Carol died, to tap into Royal Oak's burgeoning market with Duggan's. His son, Larry Payne Jr., 29, is the bookkeeper for all three restaurants.

"He bought into this with his hard-earned money. No free ride for him. He paid his way," Payne Sr. said with a smile while his son washed the roof. "He hits every place every day. He works seven days a week. Just like his dad, he's learned to work hard."

Payne Sr.'s sisters Dottie and Gail are his partners in Payne's Woodward Inn, formerly Pub 1881, and his other sister, Patty, is a manager. Payne's sells Susie Q fish and chips from the former restaurant of the same name, and the restaurant is working on acquiring the rights to the pizza recipe from Mario's Pizza, another place on Woodward Avenue that closed years ago.

"We have about 176 employees for three places. We're not quite a Mr. B's yet, but we're working on it," Payne said.

The 53-year-old Oxford resident, who also has two daughters, Donna, 34, and Susie, 30, is looking at a new restaurant in north Oakland County.

"In the old days I had a friend that owned a restaurant and I thought it would be a great life. Then I found out it would be a lot of work. It took me awhile after going from Long Branch to finally figuring out how to run a restaurant. There's no magic just long hours and hard work."

Softball World Series

When the World Series comes to town, expect a crowd.

OK, the Tigers are light years away from such contention. But a World Series is still on its way - the U.S. Slow-pitch Softball Association's version for girls 14-years-old and under.

This is no minor deal. A total of 54 teams from across the nation (16 states will be represented) will vie for the championship. Close to 4,000 people are expected to invade the region for the four-day affair.

It starts today and will conclude Sunday, with the Canton Softball Center (located on Michigan) serving as host.

The best teams in the nation will be on hand. Michigan will boast the biggest contingent, with 11 teams - including the Orioles and Indians, both from Canton, and Finesse.

Season champs

The Braves emerged as the regular-season champions in the Plymouth-Canton Junior Baseball League's Girls Senior League. They won 10 of 12 games, completing their title run July 2.

Top camper

Nick Cabauatan of Canton proved to be one of the best campers last week at the McCracken Basketball Camp, hosted by Olivet College.

Cabauatan collected six ribbons, including those for one-on-one competition in the eighth and ninth grades. He was also camp champ in pressure free-throw shooting, and was named the most valuable player in the eighth grade. He was also chosen to the all-star team.

Chiefs turn to playoffs

A refusal to recruit out-of-district players has hurt Canton's Connie Mack team in the past. Not this year. The Chiefs are playoff-bound.

It's been nearly 15 years since a Plymouth Canton Connie Mack baseball team has emerged near the top of its regular-season standings.

But this summer's version of the Chiefs did just that. After beginning the campaign with a 2-3 mark, Canton rebounded to win 12 of the next 15 and finish second to Howell.

On Monday, Howell chose to compete in the National Amateur Baseball Federation regional tournament in Toledo this weekend. That left Canton with the next choice, and the Chiefs opted for Grand Rapids and the American Amateur Baseball Congress regional.

Canton will play the team representing the Mid-Michigan Connie Mack League in its first game at 3:30 p.m. Friday. The final in the double-elimination tournament is scheduled for Sunday.

Teams from northern Ohio, northern Indiana and part of Illinois will join those from Michigan to make up the six-team field.

Finding the right chemistry was as big a reason as any for Canton's success. Jason Mortiere, who will be a senior at Canton this fall, led the list. The righthander led the team with a 6-2 won-loss record and a 1.73 earned run average.

He got plenty of assistance on the mound. Marc Hazzard posted a 4-1 record and collected three saves, with a 2.84 ERA, and Pat Nelson went 3-2 with a 3.43 ERA.

At the plate, first baseman John Wright was a team leader in batting average among starters (.531) and runs batted in (31). Catcher Jason Bricker was up there, too, hitting .480 with a team-best four homers and 28 RBI. Both will attend Grand Valley State this fall.

A big surprise for the Chiefs was David Kwiatkowski, who just completed his sophomore year at Canton. Normally a catcher, Kwiatkowski switched to third base and designated hitter and hit .410.

HOCKEY

For the first 38 games of the Metro Summer Hockey League season, there were precious few surprises. Once the pecking order was in place - which teams were best - not much altered it.

In other words, no upsets.

But that was pre-playoffs. Now the end-of-the-season tournament is upon us, which means it's time to make a few waves.

That's exactly what the Huskies did Tuesday night on the Plymouth Cultural Center ice. Facing the Bakes Conference-leading Falcons, the last-place Huskies had seemingly little chance.

But they didn't play that way. Five third-period goals pulled them from behind to a 9-5 triumph.

The loss was only the second of the season for the Falcons. The win was just the second of the season for the Huskies.

Ryan Skaleski's two goals led the Huskie upset. Kevin Swider, Jason Schoenberg and Jeremy Klosowski each added a goal and two assists, and Dominic Catanzarite had a goal and one assist.

Ryan LaChance, Brent LaFond and Walt Bartels each added goals, with Dave West picking up three assists and Brian Hannigan and Kyle Kosior getting two apiece.

For the Falcons, Jesse Hubenschmidt (from Redford-Detroit Catholic Central), the league-leader in goals scored, collected three more and added one assist. David Scott and Mike Klinger got one goal and one assist each.

The Falcons led 3-2 after one period and 5-4 after two. Skaleski's goal early in the third period tied it for the Huskies, and Klosowski's marker with 10:41 remaining put them ahead to stay. Three more goals in the final 6:47 clinched it.

Bulldogs 9, Wolverines 6: Dustin Sventy scored twice and assisted on four more for the BulldogsTuesday as the night proved to be one for the underdogs at Plymouth.

Both last place teams won

COLLEGIATE BASEBALL

Hines Park clinches crown with triumph

By Brad Emons
Staff Writer

Opportunity knocks for newly crowned champion Hines Park Lincoln/Mercury, which earned a first-ever trip to Johnstown, Pa. in the 16-team All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament.

Third baseman Stacy McCollum, a third baseman from St. Andrew's Presbyterian (N.C.), broke out of a mild slump in a big way, going 3-for-4 with a pair of homers and four RBI as Hines Park clinched the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League crown with an 11-0 (mercy rule) victory over Decision Consultants, Inc. in the second game of a double-header Sunday at Ford Field.

Hines Park is now 22-4-2 with two meaningless LCBL games left. DCI, which is headed to a National Amateur Baseball Federation tourney in Oshkosh, Wis., is 21-6-1.

McCollum, who had been struggling somewhat at the plate, nearly had a third homer, but settled for a double when the ball hit the top of the fence and richoted back into the playing field.

"His mom gave him a call the night before and told him to get his concentration back," said Hines Park manager Gary Pierce, who is housing McCollum for the summer. "He hit about .295 for us this year, which could have been better. But he can hit the long ball. And he hits it hard."

Jim Chwalek also added two hits and two RBI for the winners.

Pitcher Mark Fleming, who is transferring from Wayne State to St. Andrew's, threw six streng innings, allowing just four hits and two walks while striking out six. The lefty threw an assortment of off-speed pitches while mixing in an 82 MPH fastball.

"Mark's not going to blow the ball by you, but he had them off-balance," Pierce said. "He hit his spots. His curveball was working and he had great location."

Mitch Jabczynski (Madonna University), beaten for the second consecutive time by Hines Park, suffered the loss.

DCI opened a 3-0 lead in the first on a two-run homer by Greg Ryan (Eastern Michigan) and an RBI double by Chris DeShetler (EMU).

Hines Park closed the gap to 3-2 with a pair of runs in the third. Singles by Jeff Lance (Henry Ford CC), Dave Kapla (MSU) and Brian Kalczynski (Michigan) led to one run. Steve Hornsberger followed with an RBI sacrifice fly.

In the sixth, Hines Park knotted the count at 3-all on a walk to Chris Kirian, a single by McCollum, a walk to Chance Beam and a sacrifice fly by Scott Barrett.

Brian Reynolds, in relief of Chris Hesse, took the loss.

"We hit the ball in the first game, but couldn't get any timely hits," Pierce said. We had the bases loaded in the sixth and only scored one run. But nobody panicked and we were confident going into to the second game with Fleming."

Hillebrand, a hard-throwing right-hander from Madonna, will likely be added to the Hines Park roster for the AAABA, which starts Aug. 9.

"We've got to go with Joel because he's beaten us three games and is a quality pitcher," said Pierce, who has an impressive resume when it comes to sending teams to national tourneys (Connie Mack, Mickey Mantle, Sandy Koufax and Willie Mays divisions).

"I've taken a team to a world series ever since they were 10-year-olds," the Hines Park manager said. "For myself, this is a great experience and it's the first year ever Hines Park has gone. This will be a nice trip for me. But the kids really came through for me."

All-Star derby

Two attractions highlight Sunday's card at Ford Field.

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball League All-Stars will take on Adray DeSana of the Wyandotte Class A League beginning at 7 p.m.

Hines Park third baseman Stacy McCollum, who had five homers this season, will be the favorite to win the home run derby contest, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Rams-Hines Park game could be a merger preview

By Steve Kowalski
Staff Writer

Hines Park shortstop Brian Kalczynski hurried off the Westland John Glenn baseball diamond Monday night to catch his 76-year-old grandfather Leo Kalczynski, who was headed to the parking lot.

Brian thanked him for watching Hines Park's 4-1 win over the Michigan Lake Area Rams and promised he'll play better next time.

Leo complimented Brian on the double play he turned with second baseman Jeff Lance (Redford Thurston/Henry Ford Community College), but didn't bring up his throwing error or baserunning mistake that led to an out at third base.

There is nothing wrong with his memory, it's just more selective because this was the third generation he was watching.

Their bond grew stronger when Brian was a student at Henry Ford Community College two years ago. Brian would often visit his grandfather, who lived nearby in Detroit, between classes.

Kalczynski, a Farmington resident who graduated from Birmingham Brother Rice, now plays at the University of Michigan.

"There's a love there that's not based on catching or throwing a ball," said Ron Kalczynski, Brian's father who also was in attendance. "They really became close when Brian attended Henry Ford."

So this non-league game that had no bearing on the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League standings, which Hines Park wrapped up the day before, had some meaning after all.

The Rams, a first-year member of the Adray Metro Baseball Association, used a make-shift lineup with three starters out of the lineup.

Tom Hartley was unavailable due to a work commitment. Hartley had the option of getting overtime pay or playing in this non-league game and that's a no-brainer since he is a college student.

The Rams also played without starting second baseman Rickey Miller, who was resting a sore wrist, and starting first baseman Jason Mitchell (Redford Union/Eastern Michigan).

Mitchell is out the rest of the season because of a commitment with the Marines, where he will do a short stint of training before returning to EMU.

Mitchell was leading the Rams with six home runs.

"It was a tough one to lose, but he'll go back to Eastern with tons of confidence," Rams coach Rick Berryman said.

The coaches for both teams hope this is a rivalry that will continue next year when as many as 12 teams may merge from the LCBL and AMBA.

The Rams are currently fighting for a post-season playoff berth with two other collegiate teams in the AMBA, which also includes five Class A teams with no age requirements.

"At this point, the window is open and we'll do the best we can to put this thing together again," Hines Park coach Dave Carroll said. "Rick (Berryman) wants to come in, Jer Box, Lynch and the other Class A teams have said they enjoyed their relationship with the collegiate teams."

"My plan is to have one league of two divisions," Berryman said.

Hines Park starter Darric Terry threw a three-hitter and struck out 10 in six innings to earn the win.

Terry pitched out of serious trouble in the sixth after the Rams loaded the bases with no outs on consecutive walks to Dan Gillay and Mark Lantzy and a single by Brian Berryman, who had not batted in a month.

Terry put out the threat, however, striking out Jamie Deane and getting Dave Susalla (Redford CC/University of Detroit-Mercy) and Jake Lawson (Farmington Hills Harrison/Oakland University) on ground-outs.

It also had been a long time between swings for Susalla and Lawson, both starting pitchers.

Kalczynski, Lance and Scott Barrett led Hines Park with two hits each. Barrett scored Hines Park's first run in the second and drove in a run in the third.

After leading off the second with a single, Barrett stole second, went to third on a ground out by Chance Beam and scored on a wild pitch.

Hines Park scored two more runs off Rams' starting and losing pitcher Mike Hribinik in the third. Chris Kirian's double drove in Steve Hornsberger, who had singled. Barrett's single brought Kirian home.

Hines Park added an insurance run in the sixth when Lance, who reached base on a single, came home on Mark Flemming's bloop single to right.

The only Rams run scored without the benefit of a hit in the third. Terry hit Rams' leadoff batter Schuyler Doakes in the hip with a pitch.

MEETING RESISTANCE
If a battery fails regularly, a simple test of the car's electrical wiring may point out the problem. In order for the battery to stay charged, current from the alternator must flow to the battery. If there is a bad connection between the alternator's positive terminal and the battery's positive terminal, the battery can eventually go dead. To see if a bad connection exists, the auto technician will connect a voltmeter a voltage drop, which is a difference in the voltage provided by the alternator and the remaining charge when it reaches the battery. The negative side must be tested, as well. If high resistance is indicated in either test, the connections must either be cleaned or repaired. Otherwise, the battery may continue to go dead, the car may continue to experience hard starting, or there may be other electrical system problems.
If you are experiencing electrical problems, bring you car in for an accurate diagnosis and quick repair. At HOLIDAY CHEVROLET INC., we solve car problems fast. We believe developing a long-term relationship with your car care facility can make you feel more confident that your car is in good hands. Call 474-0500, or visit us at 30250 Grand River. with upsets. The 'Dogs overcame a 4-2 first-period Wolverine lead, narrowing the gap to 4-3 entering the second and then storming back with four unanswered goals in that period.

Kyle McNeilance and Ben Blackwood each contributed two goals and an assist to the Bulldog effort, and John Brodhun had a goal and three assists. Jack McCoy also had a goal and an assist.

The Wolverines, who could have moved into second place in the Eagle Conference with a win, got three goals and an assist from Scott Lock, one goal and three assists from both Paul Goleniak and Scott Goleniak, and a goal from Mike Mattila.

Spartans 9, Broncos 6: For the second time in a week, the Spartans relegated the Broncos to a second-best position in the MSHL's Eagle Conference with a win Monday at Plymouth.

Scoring from Pat Dakhi, who collected three goals, and Brady Priest and Larry Leo, who contributed two apiece, paced the Spartan attack. Dakhi also had one assist; Jacob Heikkinen had two.

Other Spartan goals were scored by Josh Wiegand and Jake Wiegand.

The Broncos were led by Darren Hands' two goals. Daryl Schimmelpfenneg, Mike Forbis, Scott Hands and Jeramie Murray had one goal each. Brian Consolino had three assists, Brent Bessey had two, and both Forbis and Murray added one apiece.

David Scott added four goals and three assists, Dan Hunt had two goals and two assists, Troy Taylor had a goal and three assists, Mike Chaka and Brian Calka got a goal and two assists apiece, Eric Laho had a goal and an assist, and both Mike Klinger and Michael Lanspeary totaled two assists.

For the Wolverines, Scott Lock picked up three goals and an assist, getting all three scores in the first period. Scott Goleniak had two goals and three assists, and Andrew Perry and Paul Goleniak collected three assists apiece.

Bulldogs 12, Huskies 7: Early in the second period, the Huskies had a 4-3 lead - but they couldn't maintain it Sunday against the Bulldogs at Plymouth.

Ben Blackwood wrecked the Huskies with a goal and four assists. Dustin Sventy added two goals and two assists, Brent Thomas contributed two goals and an assist, Jack McCoy had a goal and two assists, and John Brodhun had two goals. Brian Tarsin chipped in three assists, with Tim Blackwood getting two, and Kyle McNeilance adding a goal and an assist.

Brian Hannigan had three goals, Jeremy Klosowski had two and two assists, and Kevin Swider scored a goal and assisted on three more for the Huskies. Kent LaFond, Walt Bartels, Dominic Catanzarite and Jason Schoenberg added singles goals.

Jordan McCormack and J.J. Weaks both played in goal for the 'Dogs.

Spartans 11, Wildcats 1: The Spartans surrendered one first-period goal, then swallowed up every other Wildcat threat Sunday at Plymouth.

Josh Wiegand headed the Spartan effort with a goal and five assists. Tony Tuzzolino finished with two goals and two assists, Jake Wiegand and Dane Esterline each had two goals and an assist, and Brady Priest scored two goals. J.P. Grondin netted a goal and an assist, Larry Leo scored once, and Pat Dakhi and John Fontana drew two assists apiece.

Ever since Don Smith became the varsity soccer coach of Plymouth Canton's boys and girls teams, he knew one thing for certain: Who his junior varsity coach would be.

For seven years, Smith has coached both Canton teams. And for seven years, Jeff Neschich - a player at both Plymouth Salem and Schoolcraft College - was Smith's junior varsity coach.

That will change this year. Neschich has resigned.

"I guess he decided he just didn't want to do it anymore," said Smith. "I kept telling him I won't be around forever, but I don't think he believed me."

Smith wants to fill the vacancy before the beginning of the school year. Anyone interested in applying may call athletic director Brian Wolcott at 416-7774.

Austin chosen as new Churchill cage coach

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

The hat trick was completed Tuesday when newly appointed Livonia Churchill High athletic director Marc Hage named Rick Austin as the new varsity boys basketball coach.

Austin, 35, replaces Tom Lang, who resigned in May after going 35-72 in five seasons. Churchill is coming off a 9-12 campaign in 1995-96.

All three Livonia boys basketball teams will be under new leadership for the 1996-97 season. Dan Robinson takes over for Larry Jackson, who resigned this spring at Franklin; and Tim Newman, who was named last month to replace the retiring Jim McIntyre at Stevenson.

"I was very impressed with the job Rick did this spring with our track program which had a number of accomplishments, not so much in terms of wins and losses, but what he brings to the table as far as instilling pride, his dedication and the way he is organized," Hage said. "He's a players kind of coach. He likes to get to know each and every one as individuals and work with them on a one-on-one basis."

A 1978 Churchill grad, Austin leaves the Dearborn School District after seven years. He will join the Churchill faculty as a business instructor.

At Dearborn High, Austin coached both football and basketball.

He was the defensive coordinator for the Pioneers' football team that posted a state record 10 consecutive shutouts. Austin's JV basketball team went 14-6 last year. He also spent four seasons as freshman cage coach.

Austin also spent four years during the mid-'80s as a basketball assistant coach under Fred Price. He also coached two seasons of football with the Chargers.

"It's going to be hard to walk away from Dearborn," Austin said. "But in the back of my mind I always wanted to come back to this community and help the kids from Livonia."

"I've had some great influences from people like Fred Price and Herb Osterland in Livonia, along with guys like Gene Snell, Guy Del Guidice, Don McCaffney and Dave Mifsud from Dearborn," said Austin, who spent the past spring coaching the Churchill boys track team.

Chuck Uhlinger, Lang's JV coach the past four seasons, will remain in the same capacity on Austin's staff. Uhlinger, who ran Churchill's summer cage program during the interim, was also a strong candidate for the varsity job.

"It was a very difficult decision," Hage said. "But we're happy he (Uhlinger) will stay in the program because he's a very valuable asset that will be able to work with Rick."

Austin is a Central Michigan University graduate and former hurdler for the Chippewas. He was also a state qualifier in hurdles at Churchill.

Expect to see Churchill's basketball team on the move.

DNR plants fish in local ponds

Imagine catching a five-pound walleye in Lake Orion. Not a five-pound bass or a five-pound pike, mind you, but a tasty, feisty freshwater walleye. That's not such a farfetched idea anymore since the Michigan Department of Natural Resources recently planted 99,000 spring fingerlings in the 470-acre lake.

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

The fish were planted for a dual-purpose: to help control a growing population of alewives; and to create an additional opportunity for anglers.

"We've had alewives in Lake Orion for a number of years and we really don't want them there. They're not necessarily good for the lake," explained DNR District 10 fisheries biologist Gary Towns. "Maybe we can turn a not-so-good situation into something better. I don't think we will eliminate the alewives, but maybe we can control them and in the process create another opportunity for anglers."

A five-pound walleye in Lake Orion is still years away, but Towns feels anglers may be able to catch legal walleye in three years. The planted fish measured between 1.6-inches and 1.7-inches at the time of release and should reach be up to 7-inches in length later this year. By next year they should be in 10 to 11-inch range and should grow to 15 inches, the legal minimum size on inland lakes in the state, by the end of their third year.

The DNR will continue similar plants in Lake Orion for the next two years, then analyze the impact the fish are having. If the results are favorable, the DNR could incorporate Lake Orion into its walleye stocking program and continue to stock the lake on a bi-annual basis.

With its deep holes, abundant shelf area and a bountiful forage base of alewives and blue gill, Lake Orion will provide a good home for the planted fish. But don't expect much natural reproduction to occur.

"That would be an added bonus," said Towns. "We certainly don't expect enough reproduction to create a sustained population."

Walleye spawn in gravel and sandy areas and sometimes over reefs in deeper water. With a predominately mud and weed bottom in Lake Orion, the areas of sand and gravel are few and far between.

The only successful natural reproduction of walleye on inland waters of southern Michigan has occurred in large impoundments with rivers coming into them. It is felt the walleye move into the river at spawning time to find the needed gravel and sand bottoms.

Lake Orion isn't the only lake to benefit from the DNR's stocking program. With the help of some fishing and conservation groups the DNR has planted nearly 900,000 fish in southeastern Michigan waters this year alone. Plants of brown trout (78,299), channel catfish (13,000), pike (53,525), rainbow trout (13,376), red ear sunfish (104,200), splake (15,000), lake trout (5,000), steelhead (99,827) and walleye (517,000) have been made.

Oakland County has been the recipient of 598,251 fish including 100,000 walleye in Kent Lake and 64,000 red ear sunfish in Cass Lake. Wayne County has received 190,000 fish including 127,000 walleye in Belleville Lake. St. Clair County has been the recipient of 95,976 fish including 46,607 brown trout in the St. Clair River while Macomb County has received 15,000 fish including 14,500 steelhead in the Clinton River.

Operation Bass update

Livonia's Ed Dietrick placed fifth in a recent Red Man Operation Bass Michigan Division qualifier on the Detroit River. Dietrick, who last year qualifier for the $100,000 Red Man All-American, caught a limit of five bass, which tipped the scale at 16-pounds, 11-ounces. He fished crankbaits in the river on 10-pound-test Stren SuperTough fishing line.

At the conclusion of six Michigan Division qualifiers, the top 30 anglers, based on pounds and points accumulated, will advance to the regional competition. At the regional, Michigan Division qualifiers will compete against the top 30 finishers from three other regionals for a spot at the prestigious $100,000 Red Man All-American in Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

Million dollar purse

While the popularity of tournament bass fishing has exploded in the past decade, the million-dollar purse has been nothing more than a pipe dream in someone's active imagination. That is until a recent announcement by Operation Bass Inc., Genmar Holdings Inc., and J.M. Associates. The FLW Tour will hold the Forest Woods Open next year on Lake Minnetonka in Minnesota and the tournament will feature competitive angling's first $1 million purse. The tournament will also feature the largest first-place purse of $200,000.

The seven-event 1997 FLW Tour boasts over $3.1 million in cash prizes, national TV coverage on ESPN 2, and over 200-percent payback of entry fees for the top 50-percent of the field in each event.

"With $3.1 million in prize money available and national visibility, the 1997 FLW Tour firmly places tournament bass fishing on comparable levels with professional golf and tennis, said Irwin Jacobs, chairman of Genmar Holdings Inc. "We are committed to elevating competitive angling and the participants to the plane of notoriety enjoyed by other sports."

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to Outdoors, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644 -1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

CITY OF PLYMOUTH

On Saturday, July 20, 1996, the Plymouth Beautification Committee adopted the Amoco Station on the corner of Main Street and Ann Arbor Trail as it's garden. Hopefully, everyone who passes it will enjoy our improvements.

The Beautification Committee would like to express our deepest thanks and appreciation to all those who volunteered their time and effort. Without their assistance, this major undertaking could not have been accomplished.

First and foremost, we would like to thank Joe Borg, Landscape Architect, who not only designed our garden, but offered his expertise, time, energy, support and smile. Thanks Joe!

The Downtown Development Authority was also instrumental in ensuring the success of our gardening efforts. Their preparation of the site made our job easier.

Thanks too, to those who demonstrated their pride and community support by volunteering their Saturday to our project including: Ann & Jerry Leland, Cheryl & Patrick Conway, Winnifred Wolfe, Joan Moore, Jim Offer, Shon Dwyer and Carol Stone.

Thanks to everyone for their hard work!

DAN DWYER, Chairperson
Plymouth Beautification Committee

BY TIM SMITH
STAFF WRITER

Pat Hulett coached a Canton recreational soccer team that lost all 10 of its games this season. But that didn't upset him nearly as much as getting nabbed — along with many others, it seems — for making an illegal right-hand turn in Keego Harbor.

And he probably isn't alone with his anxiety.

"My soccer team was 0 and 10 this year," Hulett said. "But that was less frustrating for me than this thing."

This "thing" was the ticket Keego Harbor policeman Dan Reynolds issued him about 5:35 p.m. May 2 for turning right from Orchard Lake Road onto Summers Street. That's where a no-right-turn sign was erected in April, to eliminate traffic that cuts through a residential area to circumvent the usual long wait at Orchard Lake-Cass Lake roads.

Motorists who do not live in the neighborhood are prohibited from turning right onto Summers between 4-6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. Residents' complaints about speeding traffic prompted a survey by the Oakland County Road Commission, resulting in the sign being put up, said Keego Harbor Police Chief Jack Beach.

"I'm letting you know that whole courtroom was packed with people facing the same thing," Hulett said. "To me, that's utterly ridiculous."

After talking with Reynolds at the court, Hulett took the ticket under advisement. If he is not cited for any driving infractions over the next six months, the charge will be wiped from his record.

"I paid the $85," Hulett said. "Everybody I saw did the same thing ... They don't want the points and they don't want insurance rates to go up."

According to Hulett, a Canton resident who said he has had a clean driving record for 15 years, Reynolds was stationed in a parking lot at Orchard Lake and Summers, armed with "a huge pad of tickets."

NEW HOMES

Variety is spice of life at Southwyck

Richter-Rosin, Benivegna Building, National Homes and Korchak Quality Homes all have lots and several floor plans available in the platted subdivision off Maple between Haggerty and Halsted.

"We're a smaller (72 lots in phase one), more-quaint community, family environment," said Jim Rosin. "We offer sidewalks throughout, and that's a selling feature for families with young kids."

"We're right in the middle of a demand area that's very accessible," said Darryl S. Rogers, national president. "M-5 (Haggerty Connector) is only 2-1/2 miles away."

"A lot of small parks and commons areas in the sub makes for a lot of open space," said Marty Korchak.

"We're offering many different styles of homes. That's a plus, too," said Ronald P. Benivegna.

"It's a close-knit community," Rosin added. "We've actually had people move in here who were referred by someone who bought."

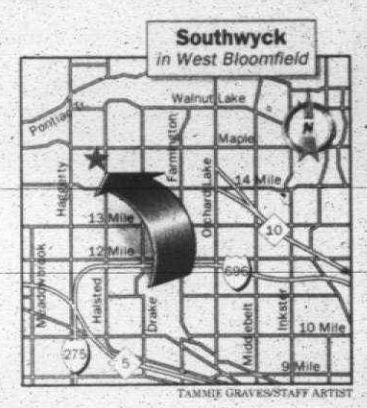
"Actually, we get along very well," Rogers said. "The builders are very accommodating to each other."

Prices start at about $300,000.

National offers six plans ranging from $289,000 for 2,800 square feet with four bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths and two-car garage to $349,000 for 3,500 square feet with four bedrooms, 2-1/2 baths and a three-car garage.

Both plans are colonials with living room, dining room, kitchen/nook, great room and library on the main floor

"All available specs are being sold," said Rogers, who doesn't have an on-site model. "We can't build fast enough."



TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

Richter-Rosin offers seven plans ranging from $302,900 for a 3,050-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths to $342,900 for a 3,549-square-foot colonial with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

The model, also a four-bedroom, 2-1/2-bath colonial of 3,000 square feet, features a study, 15-by-26-foot great room, kitchen/nook with island, double oven and cooktop, and family room with fireplace.

Upstairs, the master with pan ceiling, has two walk-in closets, dual-sink vanity and separate tub and shower.

Rosin, like most of his counterparts in Southwyck, includes a fireplace, two-car garage, basement, range and dishwasher, and first-floor laundry at standard price in all plans.

Benivegna presents five plans ranging from $299,900 for a colonial of 3,227 square feet with four bedrooms and 3-1/2 baths to $379,500 for a colonial of 3,467 square feet with four bedrooms and 3-1/2 baths.

The model, a two story of 3,261 square feet, places the master with cathedral ceiling, dual-sink vanity with sitting area, separate tub and shower and four closets on the main floor.

Southwyck offering: This four-bedroom, 2-1/2 bath colonial with a study and large great room built by Richter-Rosin is representative of what's available at Southwyck.

The main floor also features a study, dining area and great room divided by a floating round staircase and kitchen/nook with island.

Two half baths are on the main floor – a more formal one off the foyer, less formal off the laundry.

Base price, with three-car garage, is $367,900.

"This one kind of has the Frank Lloyd Wright look," Benivegna said. "It's a real stately looking contemporary."

Korchak offers four plans ranging from $313,900 for 3,000 square feet to $332,900 for nearly 3,300 square feet. Both are colonials with four bedrooms and 2-1/2 baths.

The model, a colonial, is fairly compartmentalized.

The main floor showcases a family room off one side of the foyer, the living room off the other and the dining room straight ahead. A den is tucked next to the living room, the kitchen/nook off the back of the house.

The master with cathedral ceiling, a pair of walk-in closets, double-sink vanity and separate tub and shower is upstairs along with three other bedrooms and a full bath.

The base price with two-car garage is $332,900.

"It's got real rooms real people can live in," Korchak said. "You can have some privacy and some conversation without people being on top of each other."

Southwyck is serviced by city water and sewers. It's within Walled Lake school district boundaries.

All exteriors must be brick, stone or wood siding. Vinyl and aluminum siding isn't allowed.

The property tax rate is $28.14 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $325,000 house there would pay about $4,570 the first year.

The annual association fee to maintain entrances and common areas is $150 per house.

Sales models at Southwyck are open 1-6 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays. Benivegna can be reached at (810) 960-6100, Richter-Rosin at (810) 960-3020, Korchak at (810) 960-8778, and National at (810) 647-1100.

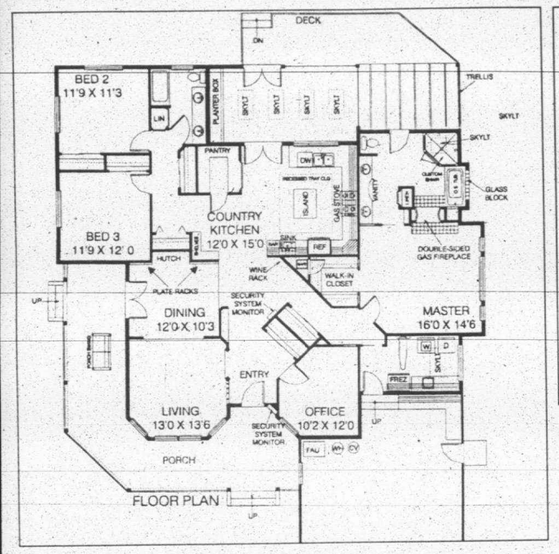
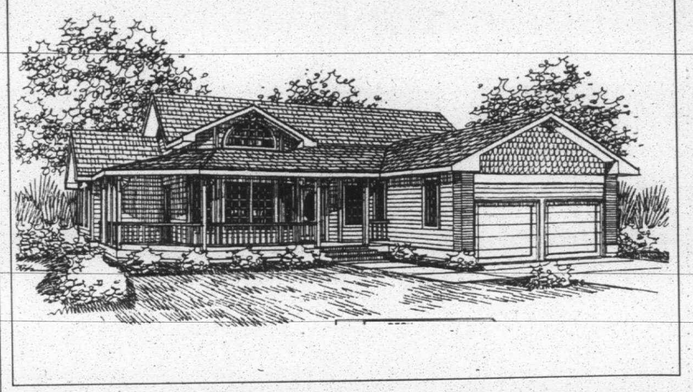
AMERICAN INVSCO





Country kitchen at the heart of 2,100-square-foot house

A large country kitchen is at the heart of the handsome 2,125-square-foot Sensational. The abundance of features here will assure your success when entertaining guests or preparing savory meals for the family.

Other kitchen bonuses include a five-shelf walk-in pantry and a built-in bar with sink and wine rack.

French doors open from the kitchen onto a skylit screened porch and a built-in bar with sink and wine rack. A built-in planter box and adjacent trellis will put your green thumb to good use.

The back deck offers a great spot to put the barbecue and soak up some sunshine.

The tiled entry, monitored for your safety by a home security system, has a roomy guest closet and opens to the vaulted living room on the left.

A big bay window looks beyond the railing of the wrap-around front porch to the surrounding landscape. The adjoining dining room boasts a hardwood floor, built-in hutch and plate racks for displaying your fine china. What an elegant atmosphere in which to dine.

To the right of the entry is a modest office. Whether you run a small business from home or just maintain the household accounts, this room will serve you well. The two secondary bedrooms are located at the left rear of the Sensational. Nearly equal in size, they share a full bathroom equipped with twin basins.

On the opposite side of the house, the isolated master suite has all the amenities you would expect in a much larger design. The private bathroom features a twin vanity, skylit shower, oversized tub, linen storage and a double-sided gas fireplace. A generous walk-in closet has a secret panel that conceals a repository for your valuables.

A sizable utility room, brightened by a skylight and complete with sink, built-in ironing board and freezer, is located by the access to the two-car garage. An L-shaped workbench provides an excellent spot for tackling those weekend fix-it projects.

For a study kit of the Sensational (335-042), send $10 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-OE48, Eugene OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number.) For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular house plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Underground homes hidden across country

By Michelle Dearmond
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS (AP) – Avon founder Gerry Henderson was like many Americans in the 1960s who went underground.

But unlike those who built cramped nuclear fallout shelters in their back yards, the multimillionaire moved 30 feet down, into a 16,500-square-foot luxury space designed to withstand virtually any disaster and protect almost any intruder.

Henderson and his wife Mary, who are both dead now, lacked no amenity.

The home remains in impeccable condition just a few miles east of the Las Vegas Strip on the edge of a residential neighborhood. Because it was built beneath a caretaker's house on gated property, few people know where it is.

Retired businessman Tex Edmundson, who owns the home now and was related to Mrs. Henderson, put it on the market for $8 million. It was recently profiled in the Robb Report, a magazine for the affluent.

The biggest advantage of the home now is not protection from nuclear fallout, but protection, period, said Chris Henderson, a friend of Edmudnson's who is helping market the home.

"(Microsoft Chairman) Bill Gates for instance – just think of the security that he has to have. If he had this, once he was downstairs he could send everybody home," said Henderson, no relation to the original owners.

A handful of ornate underground homes were built around the country, although the location of many of them remains a secret.

The Las Vegas home has its own underground generator and fuel tank and is designed to sustain life for about a year – assuming the pantry is fully stocked.

The home remains as it looked when the Hendersons built it. Mrs. Henderson had an all-pink bedroom and there are crystal and gold fixtures in the bathrooms. There is a swimming pool, a hot tub and hand-painted murals of outdoor scenery on the perimeter of the home.

The main two-bedroom structure spreads over 5,200 square feet and is surrounded by an AstroTurf lawn, fake trees and and "outdoor" grill designed to send smoke and fumes up a fake tree trunk. A guest cabana is located next to the pool.

There once was a tunnel connecting Henderson's bedroom with his office across the street, but it has been filled in.

Because the interior has not been exposed to sunlight or outside air, there is no dust or sun damage on the furniture and wallpaper.

A computerized lighting system simulates night and day, and a protective shell – the ship-in-a-bottle concept – encases the entire structure keeping it dry and at a constant 74 degrees.

All of the utilities work and look just like they do in traditional homes. The street address for mail delivery is the same as the caretaker's home.

Gene Kilroy, boxer Muhammed Ali's ex-trainer, lives in the three-bedroom, two-story caretaker's home above ground. That home is nothing like the underground house – its layout or its modern Southwest decor.

Kilroy looks after the property for Edmundson and occasionally gives tours. An elevator in the caretaker's home leads to the underground house.

The house was modeled after others built by the late Jay Swayze, a Plainview, Texas, building contractor who developed the ship-in-a-bottle concept after being commissioned by Plainview officials to build a demonstration fallout shelter.

Henderson, who had long wanted an underground home, contacted Swayze when he read about the Plainview home, Kenneth Swayze said recently from his home in Wylie, Texas, where he lives in an above-ground house.

Kenneth Swayze and his brother Jay built an underground home in Colorado for Henderson and went into business with the wealthy businessman.

Swayze was convinced the surface of the earth would one day be inhabitable and proposed everything from underground homes to underground schools and shopping malls.

"Despite President Kennedy's assurance that the threat of war was only temporary, one thing was clear," Swayze wrote in his book "Underground Gardens and Homes," published in 1980. "The nuclear age was upon us, and long-range planning was necessary to protect humanity from possible ill effects."

The Swayze brothers formed a company called Underground World Homes and designed several full-sized underground homes, including the one Jay Swayze lived in with his wife and two daughters. People from around the world visited that Plainview, Texas, home and it remains there today with new owners.

Kenneth Swayze built an underground house for Henderson in Colorado, and Henderson bought a 51-percent share of Underground World Homes. Henderson's hefty pocketbook financed an underground house built for an exhibit at the 1964 World's Fair in New York, attracting the interest of innumerable fairgoers. After the fair, the company disbanded and Henderson built his Las Vegas home, Kenneth Swayze said.

"We split up, and there wasn't enough market for the thing," he said. "It would be one here and one somewhere else across the country. It was not a thing that we cared to pursue."

Kenneth Swayze returned to construction and lumber work, and his brother went on to form another underground building company called Geobuilding Systems, Inc., that died when he did in 1980. Kenneth Swayze said he has never lived in an underground home, which he believes are too expensive.

No one lives in Henderson's old home now, but it occasionally is used for parties by a Las Vegas company, Activity Planners Inc. Chris Henderson said he's received inquiries about the house from lots of people, including prison inmates and children.

Johnathan Majid, an architect in Oklahoma, designed several underground homes for clients in the 1980s, but will not disclose their location at his clients' request. During the Cold War, many Oklahomans feared the Soviets would attack Tinker Air Force Base because of its central location, he said.

"I got so many calls I started to get scared," he said. "The common thread that I would sense ... was a fear, a mistrust."

Solar hot water heating can work well

By Popular Mechanics
For AP Special Features

Q: I live in a warm climate. I would like to install two hot water heating solar panels on my roof and connect them to my electric hot water tank so that hot water from the roof enters the tank through the cold water inlet. Will you please discuss this in your column?

A: Over the years, a number of different designs have evolved for heating water with solar panels. One common system uses an antifreeze solution circulating through the solar panel. The system also uses a storage tank that functions as a heat exchanger. It transfers heat from the antifreeze solution to the domestic water. By using two sets of coils, the system prevents the potable water supply from being contaminated if antifreeze should leak out.

Collectors are usually installed facing south and tilted on an angle. Since the angle of the sun changes with the seasons, the collector's angle becomes a compromise. A rule of thumb is that the collector panels have a tilt equal to latitude plus 5, measured from horizontal.

If the collector panels are mounted on the roof, make sure to mount them on brackets that provide adequate strength. Solar panels are subjected to uplifting force by wind striking the undersides, and they should be built to withstand gusts of 100 mph.

For more information, contact The Real Goods Trading Corp., 966 Mazzoni St., Ukiah, Calif. 954482; (800) 762-7325. The company sells solar heating products and provides design and installation information.

Q: Our home is higher than the houses in the surrounding area. The municipal water system that we are connected to does not seem to deliver adequate pressure for our elevation. Is there a device that can boost our water pressure?

A: You need a booster pump, a pressure tank and a pressure switch. There are various size pumps, but since water pressure for residences is usually between 30 and 50 psi, you can get a pump that boosts the pressure 25 psi above street pressure.

The pump should be connected to the inlet water pipe and discharge into the pressure tank. The tank's outlet should be connected to the house water distribution pipe. The pressure tank can be quite small and will function only to maintain the pressure. Depending on your requirements, you could get a larger tank with more storage capacity. The water will be stored under pressure until it is needed. As water is drawn from the system, the pressure in the tank will decrease. Upon reaching a preset minimum pressure, the switch will activate the pump.

Has your Mom had a mammogram?

The risk of breast cancer increases with age. It is one of the leading causes of death among women 65 and older. Early detection through regular mammograms could prevent many of these deaths. Yet as women get older, they are less likely to get mammograms. Has your Mom had a mammogram? If not, encourage her to get one. It might be your chance to give her good advice.

Steps you can take for a successful move

(NAPS) – If you're planning to move, you're not alone. It's estimated that 45 million Americans move each year. Ameritech, for example, expects approximately 3 million people to move in its Midwestern region which includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin. Prime moving time began in earnest Memorial Day and culminates Labor Day weekend.

How smooth that move goes depends on how well you plan. A good plan should start about a month before moving day and can help you avoid any unpleasant surprises, and save you time and money. "Three out of four movers are moving locally and their needs for telephone, fax and extra lines will change with their new location," says Joan Lipman, Ameritech's Relocation Manager. Here's a checklist that will help:

At four weeks:

• Notify the post office of your new address and send change of address cards to friends, family, periodicals and credit card companies.

• If the mover does the packing, arrange for it to be done one or two weeks before loading. If you are doing the packing yourself, get started now.

• Contact the IRS for forms and regulations concerning tax-deductible moving expenses.

• Plan for future communications needs. Do you plan to start your own business? Do you have a home computer or fax machine? Do you have a portable phone? Do you have teenagers? How many lines do you need? Do you want to add Call Waiting or Caller ID? Planning means one service call, which will save you time and money in unnecessary return visits.

At three weeks:

• Decide on travel plans and make hotel/motel reservations.

• Take care of bills, stocks and investments.

• Arrange to transfer bank accounts.

At two weeks:

• Make arrangements to disconnect your current phone service and place an order to start your new service. Include your home office telephone service, too.

• Arrange to have appliances and utilities, like gas and electric service disconnected in your old residence. Arrange hookups in your new home.

At one week:

• Pack everything except essential items.

• Empty your safety deposit box.

Moving day:

• Be there when the driver arrives and stay until the moving crew leaves.

• Carefully read the inventory and bill of lading before you sign it.

• Before the moving van leaves, walk through the house to make sure nothing has been left behind.

• Make sure to pack a box with your phones and phone books and personally take it with you to your new address.

• On scheduled installation date for phone service, make sure your telephones are plugged in so the lines can be tested.

For more information about your communications needs, contact the Ameritech Mover's Hotline at 1-800-521-MOVE (1-800-521-6683).

How to make regrouting and recaulking easier

By Popular Mechanics
For AP Special Features

Regrouting and recaulking ceramic tile above bathtubs and inside showers is relatively easy and inexpensive, requiring only basic household tools. Here are some tips to make the job go smoothly.

Grout comes in a variety of forms, from small, premixed tubes that handle patching jobs, to dry powder grout for bigger projects.

While the small premixed packages have the appeal of simplicity, they are not always the best choice. Often they're difficult to match perfectly with an existing grout color, even when that color is white.

Dry grouts are easy to mix in volume and can be used with an additive that retards drying. They can also be colored fairly precisely to match existing colors or to create new ones.

If you choose a dry mix, buy 1 to 3 pounds and make sure to get the drying-retarder additive as well. This is not the place to skimp on materials and the additive will help assure a stronger grout. Begin by pouring about 2 cups of grout into a small bucket.

Follow by pouring a small amount of additive into the grout and mixing with a paint-stirring stick. You'll need to experiment, but the end product should have the consistency of toothpaste.

Use a rubber float to spread the grout over the tiles. Sweep the float in several directions to make sure the grout is forced deep into the joints. Finally, use the float as a squeegee to skim as much of the excess from the tile as possible.

Follow by wiping the remaining grout from the tile with a damp cloth, regularly rinsing the cloth with water until the surface is relatively clean. Finally, wrap the cloth over a finger and smooth the joints individually. With this much done, let the grout set for 15 minutes, or until the residue on the tiles turns a powdery white. Then buff the entire surface with a soft, dry cloth until it's completely clean.

With the use of the drying-retarder additive in the grout, the drying time will be substantially extended, so a wet cure is not absolutely necessary. Even so, the longer the drying time, the stronger the cure. If you choose to wet cure the grout, tape a sheet of plastic to the walls so it hangs over the tiles in a way that allows you to easily reach inside. Then, use a spray bottle filled with water to mist the tiles several times a day for a day or two to slow down the drying process and achieve a stronger grout.

When selecting caulk you'll find two types to choose from – either silicone caulk or latex tub-and-tile caulk. While the latex variety is much easier to use, it has far less elasticity than silicone. And as caulk needs to absorb the natural flexing of the floor and walls without breaking, silicone is the better choice.

Here are some basic guidelines when using silicone caulk: Don't apply more than is absolutely needed to fill the joint, and don't apply more than you can smooth out before it gets tacky (usually no more than a 2- to 3-feet bead).

Cut the smallest opening in the applicator tip and run the tube tip along the seam in an even, angled path while applying uniform pressure to the gun handle.

To smooth the caulk, draw a finger lightly along the bead so that the caulk is arched against the opposing angles of the walls at roughly 45 degrees. A light touch is important here – don't press so hard that some of the caulk is forced to the sides of your finger.

You're ready to have your kitchen or bathroom remodeled and you hope that the contractor you selected will do a good job and back up the work. You aren't alone.

According to the Council of Better Business Bureaus, people call the BBB to check on home improvement contractors more than any other type of business.

And while calling the BBB can help you find out if there are any complaints on the company and its response record, homeowners can follow some simple rules to avoid the pain of being burned.

Keith Paul, president of Home Advantage Referral Service, specializes in matching honest contractors with consumers. His advice:

■ Ask for references. By doing this, you receive valuable information about workmanship. Ask questions like, "How was the quality of work?" and "Would you use the contractor again?"

■ Check for insurance. If the contractor doesn't have valid insurance and one of the workers is injured on your property, you could be on the hook paying medical bills.

■ Ask for a written guarantee. This step is very important in case there's a discrepancy regarding workmanship or cost overruns. get a written, detailed cost analysis before the project begins to prevent problems between you and the contractor.

■ Request a project completion schedule. Asking the contractor for a schedule that explains the tasks and time frames for the project should help minimize construction delays.

■ Don't pay everything in advance. The only time contractors need money in advance is when they order a custom, non-refundable item for the project.

Never pay more than 20 percent up front. Paying for work as it's completed helps ensure it will be done to your specifications.

■ Don't pick up the permit. Having the contractor pick up the building permit from your city or township serves two purposes.

First, when the contractor obtains the permit, it's proof that his or her building license is valid. Second, if there's a problem with workmanship, you can track the company by its license.

■ Make your final payment after you receive a waiver of lien. This document from supply companies indicates that all of your materials have been paid. If your contractor doesn't pay for the materials, you could be liable for the debt.

Paul's company, (800) 733-3778, has developed a network of local contractors. He screens and checks references, licenses and insurance. There's no charge to consumers for referrals.

Man nets money on Web

O&E ONLINE
EMORY DANIELS

One of the controversies about commercial sites on the World Wide Web is whether they can be money-making ventures or are best used for "institutional advertising."

But for Brad Wardell of Stardock Systems, Inc., in Canton it's not a controversy. Wardell began to make money from the Web the first day he launched and continues to draw in significant sums monthly.

Wardell, 24, is chief executive of Stardock which produces software — business applications and games — for OS/2 primarily but recently for Windows 95 as well.

About a year ago, Wardell launched his Web site at http://Stardock.com through O&E Online. The site, as one might expect, offers Internet users the opportunity to place an order for Stardock software products while online. The order is automatically faxed by O&E Online to Wardell's office.

"I am getting 1,000 visits a day in orders to our Web site with O&E Online," said Wardell who to illustrate walked by his fax machine and picked up an order that had just come in from someone in Finland. "Surprisingly, to me, about half our orders from our Web site come from Europe."

Wardell started his business at age 20 while an electrical engineering student at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo as a means of "making college money until I graduated and got a real job." Soon wife Deborah joined the company. Now he has nine employees in Canton and Virginia.

Stardock's Web site has received 350,743 visits since it went live on Aug. 1, 1995. O&E Online designed the original site, added the fax service, and talked with Wardell about how that could be useful. Since then, Wardell has learned hypertext markup language (html) and has learned to produce home pages. He now launches his Web site from UUNET in Virginia for the home page and points to the other pages to O&E Online.

Wardell says there's no question that a business can make money on the Internet. "But you need to have a product to sell. And it helps if your product is one that people feel comfortable with mail order buying. So selling computer software, for instance, is easier to do on the Web.

"Personally, I would not order shoes, clothes or food through the Web. I want to try on my clothes first. But when ordering software, I don't need to hold the box in my hands so it's easy to purchase online. Anybody who can sell through mail order can do well on the Web."

Stardock does a lot of advertising in mainline computer magazines, such as PC World. "When we advertise, we include the Universal Resource Locator (URL) to our Web site in the advertisement," said Wardell. "That generates some traffic.

"We also are listed in all of the Internet search engines like Yahoo and Infoseek. And our site address finds its way into computer discussions in Usenet. So we promote it in a number of ways but I'm still not sure why our site gets as heavy use as it does."

There are two important goals for any business on the Internet, stressed Wardell, and that is to generate traffic and to produce return traffic.

"In comparison to other methods, a Web site is so cheap that it costs us practically nothing to initiate and to continue. And that's great for something that is generating between $50,000 to $70,000 monthly in sales."

Stardock just finished its 1995 fiscal year and so the numbers were fresh in Wardell's mind when I talked with him. "We get about 15 percent of our total business directly from the Web and probably 20 percent when you add in the indirect sales. That's pretty good, considering we've been online for less than a year."

The annual cost of the Web site is about $600, said Wardell, compared to $55,000 for one full-page full-color advertisement in PC World. Stardock spends about $200,000 a year advertising in magazines. "We got a total of 612 responses from the magazine ad and we get 1,000 responses a day from the Web.

"For discussion only, if a bad recession hit and my business took a dive and I had to layoff all my employees, I could stay in business with the volume of the Web site alone."

Among Stardock's staff of nine is Kurt Westerfeld, project manager of Object Desktop who heads the company's business unit, and Alexander Antoniades, former assistant editor of OS/2 Magazine who recently came aboard to head Starkdock's marketing efforts.

Founded in 1992 as a custom solutions provider, Stardock entered the OS/2 market in 1993 with a game called "Galactic Civilizations" which now represents 14 percent of the OS/2 market and has a game of the year title as part of its credits. Other major software products are "OS/2 Essentials" and "Object Desktop."

■ AWARD RECIPIENTS

Two Livonia companies were among those honored at the Engineering Society's combined 22nd Annual Awards and Construction and Design Awards ceremonies at the Cranbrook Institute of Science in June. ESD honors architects, engineers, contractors and business owners for outstanding achievements in engineering projects in Michigan and elsewhere in the country. The awards recognize exemplary work in at least five of the following categories: land use/environmental consideration; appropriateness of materials; innovative construction materials; quality of overall design; unique engineering systems features; degree of energy consciousness and use (social and economic impact on their state). The 1996 construction and design awards included honors for RYCO Alberici of Livonia, general contractor, for work at the Chrysler NS Minivan Assembly Plant in Windsor. Also honored was Peter A. Basile Sons Inc. of Livonia, general contractor, for work at the Chrysler Chelsea Proving Grounds Automated Durability Road Facility, Chelsea. Also, Donnell W. Connors, senior buyer of product materials at Detroit Diesel Corp., was honored with a distinguished service award, recognizing current or previous ESD members who have distinguished themselves in their professions.

■ SAE SITE

Launched with more than 6,600 pages of information, the Society of Automotive Engineers' web site offers details on SAE products, services and activities. The site is at http://www.sae.org. Visitors can find general information about SAE; information about products; a calendar of events; membership information; the SAE Congress; what's new around SAE; ways to get involved and a network of SAE people.

■ DIESEL SELECTED

Detroit Diesel Corp. has been selected by General Dynamics Land Systems at the primary engine contractor to demonstrate and validate the propulsion engine for the new U.S. Marine Corps Advanced Amphibious Assault Vehicle. General Dynamics Land Systems announced earlier this year that it had won the competition to build the Marine Corps' new vehicle. The Marine Corps plans to buy more than 1,000 production vehicles after completion of the vehicle's validation testing. The value of the production contract to Detroit Diesel would represent more than $500 million over the production run, beginning in 2005.

■ WOLVERINE DONATION

Wolverine Vinyl Siding of Livonia recently donated products in support of Habitat for Humanity's "Celebration Build '96," a blitz build in the Peoplestown neighborhood in Atlanta near the new Olympic Stadium. The construction of 20 houses in 14 days in May was the culmination of Habitat-Atlanta's "100 Homes: Building an Atlanta Legacy" project, the organization's initiative to build 100 homes in Atlanta prior to the commencement of the 1996 Centennial Olympic Games. "We're honored to have been able to share in this worthwhile project to help revitalize the Peoplestown neighborhood in Atlanta and to aid a family in need of quality, affordable housing," Walter A. Hoyt, director of marketing, said. Wolverine donated Benchmark reinforced vinyl siding and accessories for the 1,100 square foot, single family home that Habitat-Atlanta built for a single mother and her three children.

■ COMPUTER AGREEMENTS

Marcomm Enterprises, a computer network out-sourcing and consulting organization, has entered into computer service agreements with the American Board of Dermatology Inc., a medical specialty certifying board in Detroit; Cerner Corp., a Southfield software developer of health-care information systems; Framatome Connectors International, a Livonia-based engineering firm; Mark Segel & Associates, a Farmington Hills insurance agency and Henry Ford Wyandotte Hospital in Wyandotte.

■ STORE OPENS

Plymouth Wayne Welding Supplies Inc. opened its fourth welding supply and industrial gas branch store earlier this month in Ann Arbor. The new store offers over-the-counter sales and direct delivery of welding supplies, welding machines and equipment and industrial and specialty gases. Plymouth Wayne is a 35-year-old company based in Garden City, with other branch stores in Howell and Warren.

■ ANALYSTS REPORTS

The majority of participants in a month-long, on-line survey of investor opinions, conducted by Plymouth-based investor relations firm Rein Nomm & Associates Inc., favor security analysts' reports as the most important factor in their selection of a company's stock. This month's survey consisted of five questions designed to determine prevailing attitudes about investor topics such as: factors affecting stock purchase decision, acceptable annual rates of return on common stocks, length of time investors are willing to hold a stock to achieve an acceptable ROI, preference for on-line vs. printed annual reports and the perceived importance of annual reports today as sources of investment information. This month's survey had 491 respondents.

■ SKILLS UPGRADE

Valassis Communications Inc. in Livonia will soon upgrade the skills of 246 workers with grant assistance from the Michigan Jobs Commission totaling $249,897. The workers will receive training in computer operations, pneumatics and hydraulics. The training will be provided through the Bendle Public Schools. "Workers in Wayne County are fortunate to benefit from these types of grants," Sen. R. Robert Geake said, "but not only does the training upgrade the value of the employee, it assists the company in remaining competitive. Businesses that do well are more likely to expand, hire additional employees and contribute more significantly to Michigan's economy and tax base. The Jobs Commission is doing a fine job of helping to provide jobs and keep people working." The competitive grants come from Michigan's $35 million Economic Development Job Training program.

Free antiques appraisals offered at 'Roadshow'

And what do you use to cut your watermelon? Could it be a Civil War sword worth $35,000?

That's what a fellow found out when he attended the "Antiques Roadshow" in Seattle, said Nancy Boos of the Frank Boos Gallery appraisal and auction firm in Bloomfield Hills.

When the man was a child, the sword was found in the chimney of his family's home. He played with it, used it for Halloween costumes and then as an adult used it to cut watermelons. He was going to give it away or put it in a tag sale. Fortunately, he first went to the Antiques Roadshow for a free appraisal and was told that it was a Civil War sword worth at least $35,000.

Appraisers from the Boos Gallery have been invited to join the Antiques Roadshow, a group of nationally recognized experts from other auction houses such as Christie's, Sotheby's and William Doyle Galleries of New York, Skinner's of Massachusetts and Butterfield's of California, which will be open to the public for free appraisals of art, antiques, decorative arts and artifacts 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 3, at the Southfield Pavilion, 26000 Evergreen.

Don't miss this opportunity to learn if you have a treasure in your attic — or chimney. For more information, call the Frank Boos Gallery at (810) 332-1500.

Based on the format of a successful 19-year British TV program, the Roadshow started in Concord, Mass., in June and will continue its 13-city coast-to-coast tour through October.

The Roadshow is sponsored by the Chubb Group of Insurance Companies and WGBH public TV of Boston. If agreed to by the owners, appraisals of extremely unusual, rare or interesting items will be taped by WGBH (maintaining owner confidentiality if desired) and included in a nationally broadcasted public TV program at a later date.

Arrangements can be made for previewing items at the owner's home prior to Aug. 3 if they are too large to be conveniently brought to the Roadshow. If any such items are deemed appropriate for the TV program, Kim Blomquist of WGBH, production supervisor of the Roadshow, can make arrangements.

MARKET PLACE

Dancing in the daisies

POSES IN THE POSIES: Relax and enjoy a delightful dance recital outside your window. This talented trio of prima metal dancers strikes swinging poses whenever the wind blows. Each weather-resistant sculpture stands four feet tall and has a post at the bottom. Place them directly into the ground or insert the posts into accompanying stone stands and set them up indoors. These marvelous, movable art pieces were designed by metal artist Claudine Buell, who has a background in ballet. The set of three dancers is available for $550 at The Print Gallery, 29203 Northwestern Highway, Southfield. Call (810) 356-5454.

Drive-thru feeder

BRASS TACKS: Set these beautiful, handcast garden bells in your yard and let Mother Nature "ring your chimes." When the wind blows, the brass bells gently touch one another as the decorative outdoor sculpture daubles as a musical instrument, creating glorious harmonies and melodious sounds. And talk about singing in the rain – your backyard concert never gets rained out because when the bells fill with water, they create more unusual tones. The garden bells are completely weather resistant and can also be enjoyed indoors, where the lightest touch causes soft, soothing carillon sounds. When you are in the mood to spend some quieter moments, the bells can be easily adjusted so that they make beautiful music together intermittently. Available for $88.50 at The Print Gallery, 29203 Northwestern Highway, Southfield. Call (810) 356-5454.

APPLIANCE DOCTOR

JOE GAGNON

I am now going through my 17th year of owning a retail business in the appliance sales, service and parts category. It's been interesting to say the least and also very rewarding in many ways except for making money. You don't think Fretters and Highland stores would have gone broke if there were big bucks to be made in the appliance business, do you? There are many other ways the industry has been good to me this past 30 years and I don't have a complaint, or should I even dare?

I do have a complaint – it's the fact that not enough consumers do complain. I look at a person who has a legitimate voice of concern regarding a purchase or a service with a great deal of respect.

First of all, for some people it takes a lot of nerve to say what they want to and do so with a control of emotions. It is a known fact that someone who cares enough to speak out will almost certainly use the business again rather than leave and not return again. I want that person to come back, my business needs that person to survive. What better way for me to see something that might not be perfect and to make it perfect. A customer's satisfaction should always be at the top end of the scale in any business dealing. You have the right to complain and you should any time there is a reason.

Now there is the complaint within reason and the way to complain that we should focus on for a minute.

I do a lot of dining out in my life and I'd like to give you an example of complaint. The first is a restaurant which I've been going to for the past three years at least once every month. In sitting down I notice that the owner and his wife are not working this evening, so I proceed to mispronounce their last name. The young lady corrects me in a very stern fashion and I quickly concede my stupidity. I order my standard drink, which is called a Joey's because I invented it, a mixture of Drambuie and Southern Comfort.

This kind of drink let's one sip for a couple of hours while everybody else it going to bye bye land. The drink has one potion of what I requested but the other is different. I inform the young lady who is serving us and she begs to differ. It's exactly what I ordered, she claims, so I drink is and shut up.

Some two hours later, after dinner, I watch the bartender and make sure he's putting in the glass the good stuff. She suddenly is standing behind me with a comment about not trusting her to do her job correctly. Again I shut up and head back to my table to carry on a little more conversation before leaving the establishment.

I haven't been back to this fine restaurant since, because I couldn't do so without voicing my opinion. As a result, the owner would fire the young lady and I would feel like two cents. Drop me a little note in the mail and give me your advice on what you think I should do. Lord knows that I need all the help I can get, because I find it do very hard to complain.

That's why I respect those who do know how. Keep complaining folks. It's one way to change things for the better.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor."

GARDEN SPOT

Books, CD-ROMs share history, advice

MARTY FIGLEY

"A CD-ROM Garden Problem Solver" (Sunset, $39.95) is available for Macintosh or Windows, including Windows 95.

This well-organized video contains more than 400 well-illustrated descriptions of pests, diseases, weeds and cultural problems and tells how to eliminate them or "live with them." Many garden techniques to a successful and healthy garden are included. In addition, instructions are given for you to program in a personalized garden calendar for your own property so you will know what to do when.

To order, call (800) 829-0113. (Note: This is a fulfillment house; tell the order person immediately that you just want to order this one product and don't want to be put on a mailing list.)

"The American Horticultural Society Encyclopedia of Gardening," edited by Christopher Brickell and Elvin McDonald (Dorling Kindersley, $59.95), contains two sections.

The first, "Creating the Garden," deals with design and planning, soils, pruning, routine care, etc., major plant groups such as trees, shrubs, perennials and some of the most popular perennials. It also includes information about indoor gardens and specific plants such as climbers. The second section gives specific advice about different zonal regions and siting and covers such subjects as tools and structures. Pests and diseases are illustrated in color for quick identification and control. The books contains much good gardening information. Take a look at this next time you're in a bookstore.

"All My Edens: A Gardener's Memoir," Pat Welsh (Chronicle Books, $24.95), relates personal experiences of the author and introduces us to her family, people she has met and places, near and far, she has visited through the years.

Welsh shares her successes as well as her failures in a humorous way and gives good sound gardening advice along the way, from ornamentals and vegetables to beneficial insects. Written in a narrative style, with personal photographs included, it's a book you won't want to put down.

Perennials

"Hardy Perennials," Graham Rice (Timber Press, $27.95), is about not only classic plants, but some of the more unusual ones or those that are being revisited by gardeners.

"I seek to emphasize ... the extraordinary diversity (of plants)," he writes.

Rice highlights many of his favorite perennials, and it is comforting to note that he has included some American native plants as well as varieties of American origin. The book is divided seasonally with emphasis on what the plant is doing and what we should be doing for it. His detailed descriptions are interspersed with personal advice. He writes as though you were taking a stroll through his gardens. Wonderful photos.

Historic look

"The Muses of Gwinn," Robin Karson (Sagapress/Abrams, $39.95), is for those interested in design and history. Gwinn, originally the home of Cleveland industrialist and philanthropist William Gwinn Mather, on the shores of Lake Erie, contains formal gardens, lawns, fountains and garden pavilions.

Gwinn was designed by Warren Manning, Charles Platt and Ellen Biddle Shipman. It took more than 20 years to develop all the intricacies of this large estate garden. The three had different approaches to design, and, in the end, it all worked. Karson, through correspondence, plant lists and photographs, has brought to life the design principles of 1895-1939, both formal and informal, that these three landscape architects used.

It would be worth a trip to Cleveland to see this estate, reportedly one of the best preserved of the Country Place Era in America. It is available to nonprofit organizations as a small conference center. The book launches Abrams' series on American landscape history.

Guides

Four books in the American Garden Guides series (Pantheon-Random House, $25 each) have just been published.

Written by experts in their fields at particular gardens, societies and arboretums, they are: "Water Gardening," Denver Botanic Garden; "Trees," Chicago Botanic Garden and the Holden Arboretum; "Oriental Gardening," the Japanese Garden Society of Oregon; and "Tropical Gardening," Fairchild Tropical Garden.

A consultant in each major region contributed information. Each follows a similar format, with an introduction and overview of the subject, a large encyclopedic section and true-to-life photographs. All material about each plant is in the same place in the books. The practical sections about care, propagation, specific growing conditions and the like make these books a must-have for your garden library.

Marty Figley is an advanced master gardener based in Birmingham. You can leave her a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then her mailbox number, 1859. Her fax number is (810) 644-1314.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Understand how septic system works

Septic systems are a "dirty" topic, but one that should at least be understood by homeowners. Here's an overview of how your septic system operates as well as preventative maintenance steps you can implement.

How a typical residential system works:

1. The waste from the house goes into the septic tank. There, the anaerobiotic bacteria breaks down about 65 to 70 percent of the solid waste. Note: Anaerobiotic bacteria develop when air isn't present (most common type system). Aerobic bacteria develop in the presence of air and would break down 90 to 95 percent of the solid waste. This can be done with a small air compressor.

2. The liquid waste is called effluent and normally goes into the leaching fields at the same rate that you use the system. Example: If five gallons of waste go into the tank (liquids and solids), five gallons of effluent go into the leaching fields.

3. The effluent goes into a distribution box, which is installed level so that each leaching bed receives the same amount of effluent.

4. When the effluent goes into the leaching fields, it is absorbed by the soil.

The parts of a septic system

■ Concrete or steel tank (1,000-gallon is typical)

With maintenance, a concrete tank will typically last 40 to 50 years.

Steel tanks typically last 20 to 30 years (Note: These were last installed in the middle 1960s).

The tank has inlet and outlet pipes and baffles to separate scum/grease from the effluent that goes into the leaching fields.

■ Leaching fields

Sand mounds are only needed if the soil doesn't "perk" (see "perk" explanation below).

Maintenance suggestions

A cleanout should be installed if there is none.

Other information

Don't use a garbage disposal when you have a septic system or cesspool because it will dilute the biological farm (deplete bacteria activity). Note: Photographic chemicals that are disposed into the system will tend to shorten the life of the septic system.

"Perkability" is the rate at which the soil will absorb water. Check with the local authorities for the acceptable rate. You should test about eight times or until the readings become stable. Note: Perkability tests are performed before a system can be installed.

The tighter the soil is, the shorter the life of the leaching fields and the less the soil will "perk."

Cost for a new septic system can range from $5,000 to $20,000, depending on the conditions. An elevated sand mound could be an additional $3,000 to $5,000.

Adding yeast to a septic tank to help the bacteria activity is a myth. Human waste will produce ample amounts of anaerobiotic bacteria.

New gardening school plans fall schedule

The Michigan School of Gardening, a pilot program, offers comprehensive training for professional gardeners and serious amateurs.

The program, sponsored by McFarland's and Perennial Favorites, was founded by Janet Macunovich, author and freelance gardening columnist for the Detroit News.

Receive more than 400 hours of training: lectures, demonstrations, discussion, projects, hands-on work in test gardens and supervised apprenticeship. Graduates will earn Michigan School of Gardening recognition as "certified gardener, GFA (gardening fine arts)."

Applications are now being accepted for classes to begin in September. Call McFarland's at (810) 442-7336 for an application and complete prospectus. McFarland's is at 28915 Grand River, Farmington Hills.

Gateway shows world of plants

By Marty Figley
Special Writer

Hummingbirds visit the tall bright red salvias, moths flutter among the white nicotiana, bees buzz throughout the beds of yellow coreopsis, and delicate butterflies flutter among the purple petunias.

All this, and much more, is happening in the Gateway Garden of New World Plants at the University of Michigan's Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 N. Dixboro Road, Ann Arbor.

The dedication of this most special garden will be celebrated Saturday, July 27. Everyone is invited, and admission is free. (See accompanying schedule.) Karen Meske is this events coordinator and can be reached at (313) 998-7061.

"No formal proposal has been made concerning the future of Matthaei Gardens, it's still just a dream," said Jim Terri, director of the UM Biological Station in Pellston and director of Matthaei Botanical Gardens at UM-Ann Arbor. "Almost two years have been directed toward that end – where the gardens should be in the future.

"Humans are altering the environment, and there are many factors that the public is not aware of. The garden will point out what we know and don't know. We need to learn how humans can better manage the Earth and how the Earth's environment will change in the future. The gardens will continue to have the three-part mission of research, education and public outreach. The garden will provide an excellent opportunity to educate citizens about how human activities are affecting natural ecosystems. It is likely that this type of outreach activity will grow in the future."

Many people have been involved in developing a plan and the process of designing the dream.

Matthaei is a world-class college in teaching research activities. This type of forward thinking will allow the university to bring attention to the environment as visitors stroll the grounds and attend conferences and other related activities.

Marty Figley

"The purpose of the garden is to show the rich variety of plants native to the New World (North, Central and South America), native to Michigan, related to prairie and woodland wildflowers, that are important in human culture or understanding natural history," he said. "These plants are an important part of our cultural and natural heritage."

Some of the plants in the garden are in cultivated forms. There are 56 different kinds of plants in the garden consisting of 5,290 annuals, 1,367 perennials and 148 trees and shrubs, making a total 6,805 plants.

The Gateway Garden leads from the existing visitors center and conservatory and was designed by Hansen Kreueger Page Landscape Architects of Dexter, Mich. The firm has done a masterful job of joining the two.

The focal point of the garden is a large center circular garden that is 40 feet across. The plants are arranged in a spiral to lead visitors around the circle and draw the eye to its form. Here you will find the salvia, nicotiana, coreopsis and petunias awaiting their winged visitors.

Surrounding this large center bed are two reflecting pools and four half-circles that contain bright annual flowers, which can be changed each year in the event a new theme is desired. The gardens demonstrate the rich diversity of these native plants throughout the year. Cleome, cosmos, dahlias, marigolds, nasturtiums, petunias, several different tobaccos and verbenas are arranged to demonstrate the closeness of the form, foliage and color of the plants.

Upper beds, 18 to 20 inches higher, that surround these center gardens are planted with perennials and some annuals. As the seasons progress, the perennials will provide a pattern of colors and textures. These beds contain boltonias, coreopsis, echinaceas, eupatoriums, filipendulas, helianthus, heleniums, monardas, phlox and physostegias.

On either side of the entrance to the garden a hedge of Viburnum trilobum, a dwarf form of Highbush Cranberry, and Juniperus form a natural barrier between the formal garden and the lawn. The far view into the forest area, which contains a valley with a creek running through it, has been deliberately left open for contrast.

Interpretative panels will be installed to explain the plants' past in the ecological system.

"We want to think of this garden as a museum and use the plants for teaching," Michener said.

The gardens will be staffed with expert gardeners and horticulturists throughout the day, so bring your questions.

An area for future sculpture placement and another, designated for a pavilion to provide shade for seating, music and serving, have been incorporated into the design. This would be an ideal place for weddings and other social functions.

The six teak benches in the garden were designed by Paul Little, staff designer and flower show designer. The benches reflect the design of the building and the benches in the Alexandra Hicks Herb Knot Garden. A visit to this garden will be another remembrance of the day.

The Gateway Garden and the Jean Cobb Gateway are the result of the University of Michigan Alumnae Council Birthday Greetings Fund, 1989-90, Clan Crawford Jr., Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens, the Benard L. Mass Foundation (in memory of Benard L. Mass), and gifts in memory of Lenore Earhart and John Hunter Jr. Also, Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes, Dr. and Mrs. Erich Steiner, the Ann Arbor Branch of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, and others.

The schedule of events is as follows for Saturday's dedication of the Gateway Garden of New World Plants at the University of Michigan's Matthaei Botanical Gardens:

- Dedication of the garden - 10 a.m.
- Public tours of gardens and trails - Noon, 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.
- Lecture on New World plants, "More American Than Apple Pie," David Michener - 1 p.m.
- Storytelling for children - 3 p.m.
- Ongoing Kids Botanical Discovery Room - Noon to 5 p.m.
- Celebration ends - 5 p.m.

The address of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens is 1800 N. Dixboro Road, 1/2-mile south of Plymouth Road and 1/2-mile east of US-23 in Ann Arbor.

LET'S REMODEL

Testing needed to check lead problems

Q: In planning a major remodel of our pre-1978 constructed home, what needs to be considered regarding lead (Pb) in existing painted surfaces?

A: Your inquiry is certainly timely and of growing interest to homeowners, due to the new federal regulations related to disclosure of lead (Pb) in pre 1978 housing, which are scheduled to go into effect this year. The U.S. E.P.A. has recently issued final rules (published 3-6-96 in the Federal Register) regarding the disclosure of lead based paint in residential housing. E.P.A. and Consumer Protection studies suggest that exposure to deteriorating lead-based paint, lead in soils and dust are several of the major sources of human exposure to lead. Consequently, the provisions of the E.P.A.'s final rules for Lead Paint Hazards in Housing are intended to provide the consuming public specific information regarding the potential for a lead hazard exposure in their home environment.

Prior to a specific limitation on the quantity of lead used in the composition of paint being instituted in 1978, lead was a very common component of both interior and exterior paints. Flaking paints and dust from wear on high contact areas (door and window frames) are the two common areas of high potential for lead exposure. However, in your specific case, where major remodeling activitiy is anticipated, there does exist the probability that various remodeling tasks may create a lead hazard. Those remodeling activities usually include demolition, scraping, grinding or sanding of existing painted surfaces (both interior and exterior).

The only way to ascertain whether your project may be impacted by the existing lead paint regulations is by a definitive testing program for lead on the suspect materials. Once the testing has confirmed the presence (or absence) of lead, then both you and your selected contractor can prepare a reasonable, cost effective solution to dealing with any paints known to contain lead.

In addition, older homes should have the plumbing (especially the potable water piping) reviewed for potential sources of lead exposure.

INTERIOR MOTIVES

Soundproofing media room is sound advice

NAOMI STONE LEVY

Creating your own theater is the dernier cri (last word) for the approaching 21st century. With the wondrous new technology now at hand we must first be certain that we soundproof the room to be used.

When you visit a nearby theater you will note their walls are covered with a pile cloth, most likely velvet. For residential use this wouldn't be my recommendation. I visualize a porous fabric in a muted color. If the fabric is mounted on a padded board it will muffle all extraneous noise, a tremendous bonus. This can be handsomely accomplished in panels, almost like upholstery, giving the media room its own personality.

Wall-to-wall carpeting is essential. I would never suggest hardwood flooring with an area rug, because that wouldn't muffle sound. However, a patterned or colorful carpeting makes for a spectrum of great interest.

Windows in this room can be covered in several ways. Traverse lined draperies of the same fabric as the wall upholstery will create uninterrupted sound control. Shutters painted the same muted color as the wall fabric also will give a continuous look, and have the added advantage of allowing adjusted light when desired.

A large screen television set is the first essential to this media room. It would be expedient to arrange comfortable seating closely related to rows of chairs, but not rigid, if possible. Folding chairs can always be added as needed.

Video equipment is the next purchase. One configuration of an installation is shown in the illustration. It provides storage for CD's and discs, and other paraphernalia. Your own personal variation will be dictated by your equipment. A consultation with a capable technician is recommended.

The cost of the multiple parts obviously is varied, adjusted by the quality of the components. A devotee of symphonic music will be amenable to buying the best he or she can afford. "Surround sound" speakers will be vital to exceptional reception.

Have a wonderful time with your media room. It is going to afford you hours and hours of pleasure. Try not to overlook details that will plague you at a later date.

Once cheap carnival glass now prized by many

Dear Nancy and Frank:
Marion,
Redford.

Dear Marion:

Carnival glass is pressed glass coated with sodium solutions and fired. This gives the glass a lustrous, iridescent riotous variety of colors in hues of green, white, lavender, smoke, ice blue, ice green and opalescent shades of peach and aqua. It was mass produced at low cost and was the poor man's Tiffany glass.

It was made in huge quantities around 1907 to 1925 and given as prizes at carnivals and fairs at the beginning of this century. The brilliant, showy colors are reminiscent of a carnival atmosphere.

Carnival glass has been considered collectible since the '50s and '60s and is even being reproduced now.

We feel that the early pieces are representative of a part of the American pop culture and therefore deserve a place in Americana collecting.

There are more than 1,000 patterns of carnival glass. Your piece is "Peacock at the Fountain" pattern made by Northwood Glass Co.

If in good condition, it is our opinion that your piece might be found in a retail shop at a price range of $1,500 to $2,500.

Nancy and Frank Boos are with the Frank H. Boos Gallery, an appraisal firm and auction house at 420 Enterprise Court in Bloomfield Hills.

INVITING IDEAS

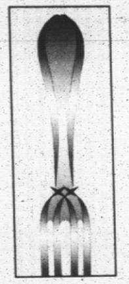
RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Nothing offends me more than ordering a salad at a restaurant and being served a plate full of iceberg lettuce – void of nutrients, and as interesting and tasty as a genuine iceberg. When I was growing up, and under the supervision of concerned parents, they would say; "eat your greens" – they intuitively knew that if it was dark green, it was healthy. My parents didn't have a clue to what arugula was – my mother would have assumed it was an Island that had a resort! Today's public is food educated, iceberg is out – healthy, leafy, organic greens, we can't pronounce, are in!

Along with trendy greens like perilla, mâche, purslane, mizuna, and frisée (to name a few) – deep green leafy vegetables considered part of the cruciferous family are often found in our salads and cooked, or served, with our entrees. Cruciferous vegetables, commonly known as the cabbage family, are known to stimulate specific enzymes and block carcinogens. In addition to their healthy properties, cabbage, broccoli, bok choy, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, kohlrabi, turnips, rutabaga, collards, kale, mustards, and turnip greens, are truly delicious!



Have a luncheon or dinner loaded with different summer salads – add sliced tenderloin, grilled fish, or poached chicken to some, add fruit (fresh or dried) and nuts to others. If you want a burst of color, add some lollo rossa (an Italian looseleaf lettuce), or some red radicchio (a red chicory). For something real crunchy add some homemade croutons dusted with grated cheese, jicama or sweet fennel. If you want to add cooked greens to your menu, boil, saute, or grill them!

■ Arugula (rocket, roquette & rucola) – considered an herbal green, this ancient Mediterranean native is a member of the mustard family. The characteristic nutty-peppery taste becomes quite muted when cooked. Delicious in fresh salads when young and tender, rocket becomes stronger and almost mustardy when picked as a more mature leaf. The white-purple veined flowers of arugula are edible and make a lovely garnish to a big beautiful fresh green salad.

■ Cilantro (Chinese Parsley) – are the leaves of the coriander plant. A pungent herb resembling parsley, it is commonly used in Mexican and Asian cuisine. Terrific in fresh green salads, salsas, soups, and stews.

■ Collards – this sturdy leafy green like many other pot herbs can be eaten raw when young and tender. If purchased in a store, they are usually beyond use in the raw stage and need to be cooked. This deep-green kale look-alike (without the crinkle) is a member of the cabbage family and is delicious in soups, stews or boiled and seasoned. It's not just for Southerners!

■ Dandelion – considered an herbal green – when young, this deep green, thin-sculptured leaf is delicate and delicious in salads. Older leaves must be blanched or cooked to reduce their bitterness. Like collard greens, they are great in soups, stews or boiled and seasoned.

■ Frisée – part of the chicory family, these light green leaves frilly in appearance, are the least bitter relative. Delicious tossed among a mixture of field greens, make it a part of your mesclun salad.

■ Mâche (Corn salad) – a mild, nutty-flavored herbal green that remains delicate no matter when it is picked, making it perfect for salads throughout the entire season.

■ Mustard – this bright green, slightly fuzzy, pungent green, is another in the cabbage family – a pot herb that finds its way into many a Southern garden! Only very young hand-picked tender leaves can be eaten raw in salads. Mustard greens are generally boiled and seasoned or added to soups and stews eliminating some of their strong bitter flavor.

■ Perilla – this popular Asian pot herb is a member of the mint family and is often used in sushi. Tender young leaves are uniquely flavored and add a perfume-type flavor to a fresh green salad.

■ Purslane – A choice salad ingredient all over western Europe, it has come to America. This oval, delicately flavored leaf is a tart-lemony flavor addition to salads, rated high in Omega-3 fatty acids and rich in vitamin E.

■ Radicchio – is a red chicory that is a relative to endive. This red-purple hued, peppery flavored salad green adds flavor and color to any salad – also tastes great grilled in halves on the grill and splashed with balsamic vinegar.

■ Sorrel – this hardy salad herb has a sharp flavor, delicious when young in salads. Cook it like spinach and make into a "green" or use as a tasty zip in omelets and soups.

■ Mizuna – (Japanese mustard) – on the light side of the mustards, this leafy green will give your salad a nice light zip. When using for salads, make sure it is young – like all mustards, when mature, they are best cooked or steamed.

TAMMIE GRAVES/STAFF ARTIST

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Developers explain

STORY BY DOUG FUNKE • STAFF WRITER

When residential construction took off in the suburbs during the late 1940s and early 1950s, developers took the easy route and named their subdivisions after themselves.

James S. Bonadeo, a developer/builder for 50 years now based in Plymouth, recalled that the Frischkorn brothers in Redford had a whole string of Frischkorn Subdivisions up to about number 20.

Bonadeo admits to naming his first development, 21 lots, the James S. Bonadeo Subdivision.

"I suppose it was ego," he said. "Now, I think the trend is to coming up with something appealing ... more glamour or pizazz."

"I've always thought names were important," said Richard Lewiston, a longtime developer based in Oakland County. "I guess that's why people look for attractive names for children.

"I think subdivision names have a local derivation, speak to a geographic feature and, sometimes, it's just a name a land developer finds attractive.

"Pheasant Run in Canton was a name chosen by the township," Lewiston said. "Decades ago, when hunting was permitted in the township, that was a favorite hunting ground."

"I wish I could tell you there's a science to it, but there's not," said Deen Hyde, marketing manager for Pulte Homes. "A lot of times, we're just sitting around, people come up with a name and we go with it.

"Marina Pointe up in Lake Orion was platted as Golf Lake Estates," Hyde continued. "It backed up to a golf course, but wasn't part of the golf course community. We felt the name was misleading.

"We felt Marina Pointe was a more marketable name, more descriptive. It's on a canal system that feeds Lake Orion. It was a point of land.

"Hidden Creek, a new community in South Lyon, came platted as Andover Creek North," Hyde said. "We felt it was too long of a name and wasn't as pretty as Hidden Creek. There's a creek that edges that property and it's heavily wooded. Hidden Creek has a little mystery to it."

Herman Frankel, a West Bloomfield developer/builder, named his first subdivision Franklin Woods because it was off Franklin Road and had a lot of trees, said daughter, Laurie, director of sales and marketing.

He followed up with Franklin Valley – "there actually was a valley with a stream through it," Laurie Frankel said – and Franklin Corners.

"The disadvantage to tieing in by name is you can confuse people if it's not a continuation of the same community," she said.

Her goal?

"You really want to be truthful," Laurie Frankel added. "If we were to call something the Garden, we'd plant a ton of gardens."

"When you say Simsbury, you can almost see the charm, when you say Woodcliff, it's rustic and heavily treed," she said of existing Frankel subs in West Bloomfield.

"Heritage Village in Farmington backs up to Heritage Park," he said. "It's like a little village, 100 sites altogether. Savannah Pointe in Canton, we wanted a Southern-home feeling for the sub.

"You want to create an atmosphere for the buyer," Rosin said. "There's a reason for all the names we do pick. It needs to be in keeping with the environment or what's on the parcel."

But there always seems to be the exception to the rule.

"Weathervane (Novi), we happened to be staying up north at a place called Weathervane so we said, 'Why not Weathervane?'" Rosin recalled.

Larry Cohen, a West Bloomfield developer/builder, knows all about exceptions to the general rule.

"The most profound name we've had is Hillsborough," he said. "Doug Warner from our ad company said to me, 'I went out there and Hillsborough is the flattest piece of land you've ever built on. Where did you come up with a name like that?'

"I said I couldn't think of anything else," Cohen said. "How's that for honesty?"

Then there's the more obvious.

"Stonebridge was named for a bridge that went over a stream," Cohen said. "Meadowlark – it was nothing except a farm field that had turned into a meadow."

"We have one we developed in Livonia some years ago," Bonadeo recalled. "I was with the city engineer, and we were looking around and he said, 'This goes over hill and dale.' So I said, 'Bonnydale.'

They're on the lookout for duplication, which could cause headaches for title companies, and full proper names, which present bookkeeping concerns.

"We had one in Westland where the school district wanted to name it the William D. Ford Technical Subdivision," said Norm Dupuie, senior plat examiner for Wayne County.

"We had to shoot it down. It comes down to where you code it in the computer? Do we list it under W or under F?

"Ford Technical Subdivision was O.K."

"I think perceptual identity is real important," said Michael Bernacchi, marketing professor at University of Detroit Mercy. "You're selling a house that's unbuilt or partially built, neighbors aren't there yet. Why not perceptual mysticism? It's almost a statement of the future and hopes. We all have hopes.

"The right words mean a lot, the right conveyance means a lot," Bernacchi said. "The clascic clash is the vision of what you hope will come about and reality."

Court said seller couldn't hide nearby landfill

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. Is there any case law that requires the developer-Realtor to disclose the proximity of the subdivision to a land fill?

A. In an out-of-state case, it was held that facts known to the broker, agent or seller respecting off-site conditions that are unknown to the buyer that materially affect the value or the desirability of the property listed for sale must be disclosed.

The case involved a developer/broker using the environment beyond the development to sell the houses. The brochures and advertisements made the environment of an office property relevant to each sale.

The courts seemed to say that since they elected to use the environment to market the property, they were obligated to disclose the existence of the land fill.

It further stated that the determination of whether the duty to disclose was breached and whether the breach materially affected the value of the houses were issues that the jury must resolve.

Q. I am somewhat confused about the application of the Americans with Disabilities Act to condominiums. Is there any authority with respect to the application of this federal act to condominiums and cooperatives in the residential context?

A. It is reasonably clear that condominiums and apartments are not public accommodations. Residential portions of apartments and condominiums do not constitute public accommodations within the meaning of the Americans with Disabilities Act. Any property open to nonresidents may be subject to the act.

For example, meeting rooms rented to other organizations, recreational facilities available to nonresidents for a fee, clubhouses or golf clubs with nonresident memberships or a restaurant or bar that is open to the public will fall within the dictates of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Therefore, community associations should be careful that they do not unknowingly subject themselves to potential liability by renting to nonresidents. In essence, if facilities are only available to owners and guests of owners, it is probably not subject to the Americans with Disabilities Act, although this is a new and unchartered area of the law.

Help for people denied mortgage loan

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

Many potential new homeowners have their mortgage application denied for reasons that could be corrected in a short period of time.

In the past, applicants has nowhere to turn when their mortgage application was denied. The lender did not have the time or resources to develop a plan of action for each denied applicant.

D.T. & Associates (DTA), a non-profit housing counseling organization, offers counseling programs for the denied mortgage applicant, creating an action plan addressing the lenders concerns. Upon successful completion of the plan the applicant reapplies for the mortgage.

"Many low- and moderate-income individuals just miss qualifying for a mortgage," states Deborah Thill, director of DTA. "Our objective is to work with that individual with the goal being home ownership."

Mortgage lenders are becoming diversified in the mortgage products they offer. Many have developed a portfolio of low- and moderate-income mortgage products for the first-time homebuyer. A number of these mortgage products require homeownership counseling.

"That's where we come in," states Thill. "Mortgage lenders typically use videos, workbooks and a 1-800 number to fulfill the counseling requirement with little value to the new homeowner.

"Our organization fulfills this requirement by providing a two-hour one-on-one counseling session addressing the realities of homeownership with the focus primarily on budget development."

Mortgage lenders are beginning to see the value of a one-on-one counseling session, not only for the first-time homeowner but for the lending institution as well.

"Together they make out 97 Plus mortgage counseling program a success," said Jack Schwab, community relations manager of NBD.

Potential first-time homeowners can finally realize the dream of homeownership with the multitude of special mortgage products (designed to fit nearly every need) and counseling programs currently available. Lenders can put a greater number of first-time homeowners in homes utilizing effective housing counseling.

"Lenders are realizing the added value to the customer created by effective housing counseling," said Thill. "These individuals are developing personal relationships with their lender and are apt to be lifelong customers, promoting the benefits of personalized, one-on-one housing and budget counseling to friends and family."

If you are applying for the first-time for a mortgage or would like to learn how you could successfully qualify for a mortgage, you might consider applying for your mortgage at an organization where mortgage counseling is available.

Some organizations currently utilizing DTA's housing counseling programs and services are: NBD, First Federal of Michigan, Citizens Bank, Comerica, Amerihome Mortgage, Old Kent Mortgage Co., MSHDA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Here are some recent interest rates that may be helpful to you in tracking the direction of rates. These are just a guide. Be sure to call a lender to get current rate quotes.

In Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey, the 30-year fixed rate for the North Central area for the week ended July 12 rose to 8.47 percent (U.S. average 8.42 percent).

A week ago, the average for the U.S. was 8.14 percent and one year ago it was 7.41 percent. Adjustable-rate mortgages have also risen slightly again to an average 6.22 percent for our area of the country.

■ Construction association moves

The Construction Association of Michigan has moved to 1625 S. Woodward in Bloomfield Hills from Troy. The new telephone number is (810) 972-1000, the main fax (810) 972-1001.

The association recently completed renovations to the 22,000-square-foot building originally designed and occupied by the architectural firm of Smith & Schurman Associates.

The work added a number of features including a training center, spacious plan room with atrium lighting, two conference rooms and European-styled administrative offices.

"Located about a quarter mile north of Square Lake Road, the area is easily accessible from I-75, as well as other major arteries like Woodward Avenue and Telegraph Road," said Thomas Wickersham, CAM chairman and treasurer for Roncelli of Sterling Heights.

■ Real Estate One

Real Estate One, headquartered in Farmington Hills, has again been included among the nation's 350 largest residential brokerage firms by newsletter Real Trends.

Real Estate One ranked 28th among mega-brokers with 9,498 residential closings in 1995.

Real Estate One has 30 company-owned offices in Michigan including Plymouth, Livonia, Westland, Lathrup Village, Clarkston, Birmingham, West Bloomfield, Troy, Rochester and Bloomfield. The company has about 800 agents.

■ Avoiding liability

The Real Estate Investors Association of Oakland presents a dinner meeting focusing on implications of forfeiture cases for landlords when tenants use property for illegal purposes 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 9, at the American Legion Hall in Royal Oak, 1815 Rochester Road.

Speaker: Steve Kaplan, assistant prosecutor, Macomb County.

Cost is $13 for members, $23 for non-members. For reservations, call (800) 747-6742 by Aug. 6.

■ Licensing classes

The Birmingham Bloomfield Rochester South Oakland Association of Realtors offers a series of six-hour continuing education seminars, one of which must be completed by Oct. 31 to fulfill state real estate licensing requirements.

Each session goes 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Upcoming seminars are slated for Tuesday, Aug. 20, Walsh College, 3838 Livernois, Troy; Wednesday, Sept. 11 and Saturday, Sept., 21, Columbia Center, 201 W. Big Beaver, Troy; and Wednesday, Sept. 25, Standard Federal Bank, 2600 W. Big Beaver, Troy.

Cost is $35 per session. To register, call Carole Kowalik at (810) 879-9560.

■ Apartment management

Lawrence Technological University sponsors a series of workshops on apartment management and review of the registered apartment management certification 2:30-5:30 p.m. Thursdays Sept. 5-Dec. 12 on campus in Southfield.

Topics include risk management, marketing rental housing, planning for development management, financial management and maintenance.

Realizing profits from remodeling

(NAPS)—One of the real joys of being a homeowner is knowing that eye-pleasing home improvements are also an investment in the resale value of your house.

Remodeling jobs can be as simple as replacing countertops, adding a coat of paint and one or two new updated appliances.

For more information on smoothtop ranges and cooktops, write for a copy of Your pocket guide to Ceran glass-ceramic rangetops, c/o Schott Corporation, Technical Glass Division, 3 Odell Plaza, Yonkers, N.Y. 10701.

MANAGEMENT TRAINEES
Training to be a manager at Champs Sports isn't just about getting boxes of shoes. It's about creative problem solving—learning to think on your feet and making judgement calls as a professional. Train to excel in our environment, you will 'shadow' your manager as he or she solves hands-on challenges in the store—from handling customers and employees to ordering merchandise and controlling inventory. Once you successfully complete this training, you may be promoted to Assistant Store Manager and be ready to work the next challenge: being promoted to Store Manager.

We offer a competitive salary and solid benefits package including medical, dental and life insurance, a retirement and a stock purchase plan, paid vacation, 401K and discounts at our stores. For consideration, send your resume to:
