Court takes tougher stance on domestic violence cases

Domestic violence in Canton and Plymouth has yet another foe - the 35th District Court, which has taken a tougher stance on batterers and even victims if they fail to appear and testify.

BY VALERIE OLANDER

The 36th District Court is fighting back when it comes to domestic violence cases in Canton and Plymouth.

The court has taken a tough stance, revoking batterers' bond for failing to attend an intervention program. Bench warrants also have been issued against victims, who fail to appear under supeona to testify against their batterer.

Court officials led by Chief Judge John E. MacDonald decided to set in motion an intervention program in May of 1995 that would take into account the seriousness of domestic violence crimes.

The Legislature passed a law on July 1, 1994 making arrests mandatory, even if a police officer did not see the crime take place, which had been the past practice. The state also became the one who pressed charges against the suspected batterer, not the victim.

Instead of using the new law to process the suspected batterer through the court system, the district court initiated its own program to accent the new law. The goal was to educate and ensure the safety of both parties in domestic violence cases.

In May of 1995 the court began utilizing two local counseling services in domestic violence cases.

First Step is used to assist the victims. A counselor meets with the victim to make their experience through the court system less intimidating, helps them to develop a safety plan, and provides information on how to obtain a personal protection order.

Drivers to get relief

BY VALERIE OLANDER

Relief is on its way for motorists on Canton Center Road, who won't have to make the jog at Michigan Avenue to get to Belleville Road from Geddes. The long-awaited road project finally got the green light.

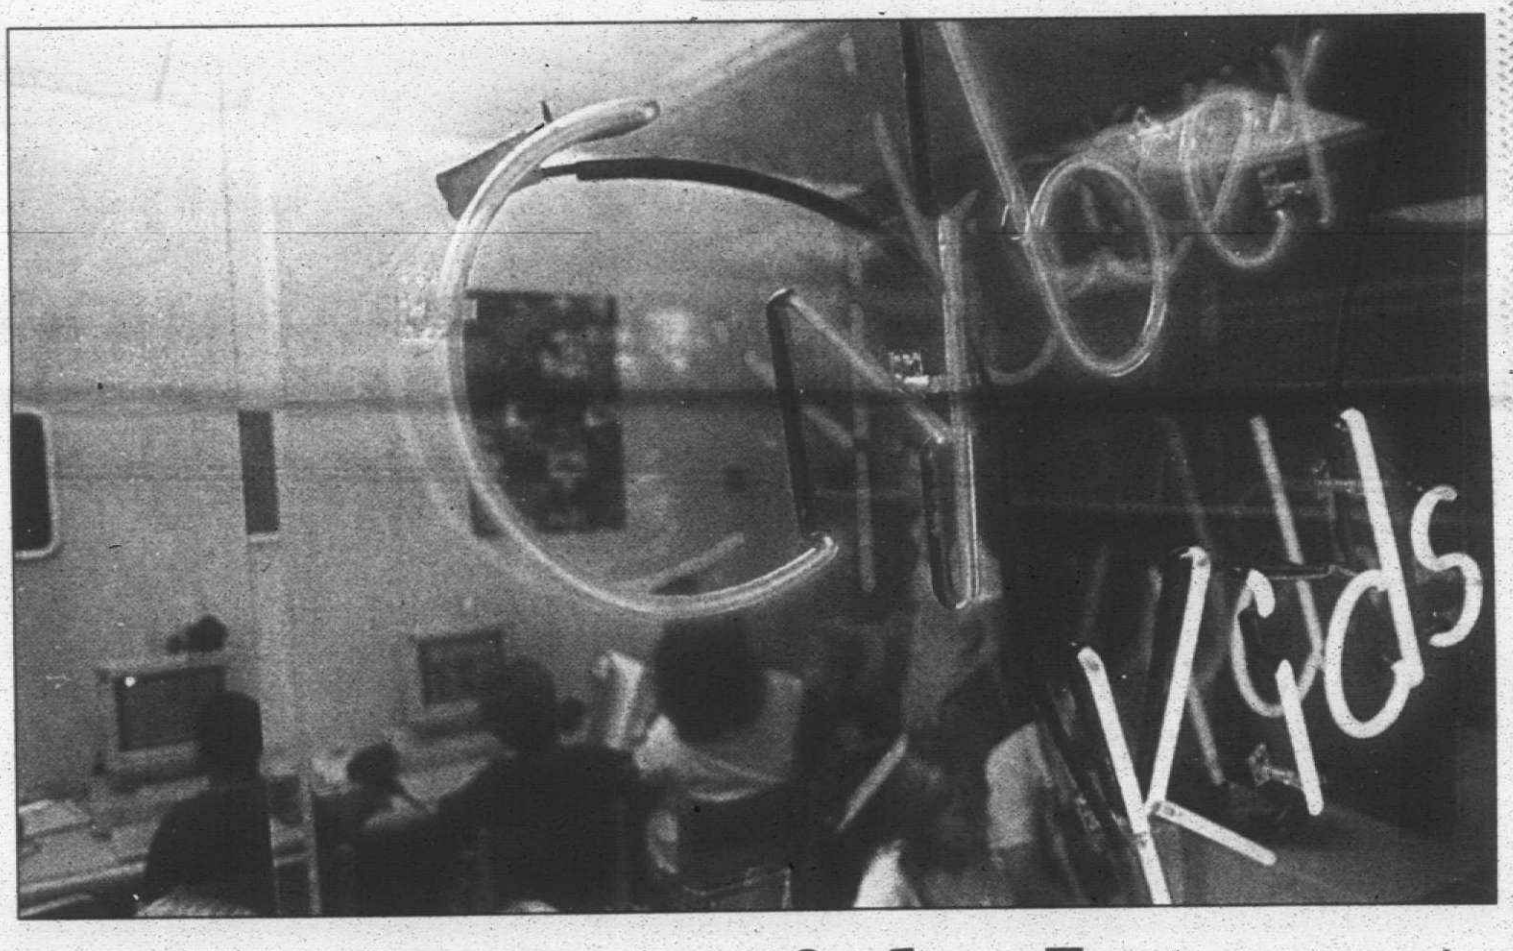

Construction on the $1.2 million two-lane road should begin by the end of this year or next spring, said Thomas Casari, Canton's director of Engineering Services. The township will pay about 20 percent of the cost, not to exceed $262,000. The remaining cost is being funded by the state.

The planned route cuts through 80 acres of vacant land owned by Robert Ram of Ram International. Ram deeded over the right-of-way to Wayne County for $1, said Susan Folsom of Engineering Services.

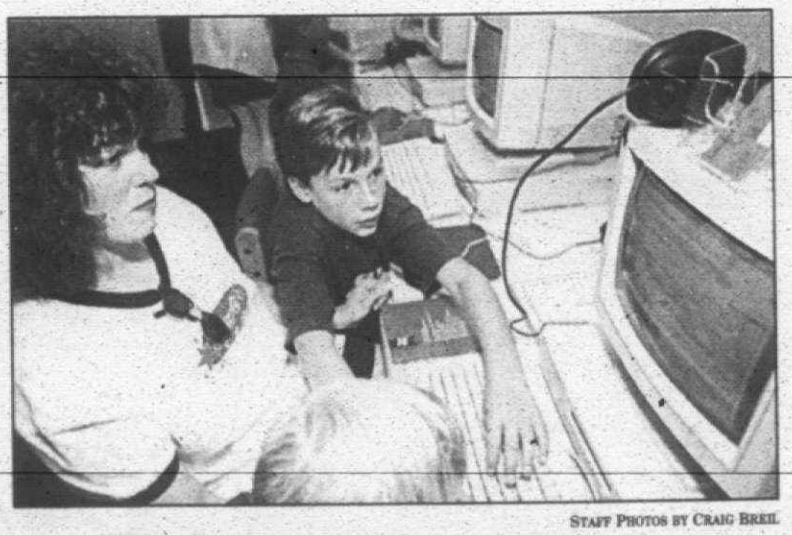

The deal was made since the

If you've run into any Cyber Kids lately, they'll tell your surfs up at the Canton Public Library.

In less than one month since a new children's program went online, 180 youngsters, ages 7 to 12, have been given Cyber Kids status to surf the 'Net. Cyber Kids have been awarded such designation after completing a one-hour orientation class on the Internet and World Wide Web.

The youngsters are presented with a Cyber Kids sticker to attach to their library card upon completion of the class. It gives them exclusive access to a computer room in the library's youth department, where one of seven Macintoshes are hooked up to the Internet and popular sites on the World Wide Web.

The kids learn basic computer skills and how to access web [illegible] http://www.nasa.gov, which will connect them to NASA's home page.

Katie Reed, 8, happened to like the web's "disney stuff" the best.

Although she has a computer at home, her mother Tammy said it isn't hooked up to the Internet because of the cost and concerns of obtaining inappropriate material.

"We wanted to see just what we can do with this," the mother said.

The mother, recently learned about the Internet herself in another program offered to adults at the library.

Mother Jacqueline Celum, a self-proclaimed computer illiterate, said she was also interested in learning about the 'Net. However, the decision to take the Summit to close for weeklong spiff-up

The Summit on the Park community center will close for a week Aug. 26-Sept. 2 to clean and spiff up.

"This is very typical for community centers," said Debbie Bilbrey-Honsowetz. "You get a high volume of traffic here. You can't effectively clean around people. This is the best time to do it. It's the first week that kids are back at school."

The closing will herald the facility's first annual maintenance check. Some of the work includes resurfacing the wood floors, cleaning carpets and some painting.

brey-Honsowetz said.

In November 1995 while the building was still under construction, fire broke out in the glass tower. "The glass had to be special-ordered," Bilbrey-Honsowetz said.

The Summit will reopen Tuesday, Sept. 3 with hours 6 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday-Friday; 8 a.m.-10 p.m. Saturday; and 8 a.m-9 p.m. Sunday.

While the building is closed, the parks and recreation offices in the Summit will not be open to the public for routine business. Parks and recreation employees will answer phone calls to respond to residents.

The new schedule of programs has been mailed. Registration for programs at the Summit is set for Sept. 5 and Sept. 7 for Canton residents. Specifically on Sept. 5 will be registration for general programs and adult aquatics. On Sept. 7 will be registration for youth aquatics.

"That's what we got bottlenecked with the long lines last time," Bilbrey-Honsowetz said, referring to the lengthy lines for registration. "They should not experience the long lines we had in April."

On Sept. 9, registration is open to everyone, including nonresidents for all programs that are still available. After 5 p.m. anyone interested in registering for a program may fill out a form and put it in a drop box in the Summit, Bilbrey-Honsowetz said.

Golf outing scores for scholarships

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

For a first try, the organizers of the Damon's restaurant golf outing Aug. 13 at Hickory Creek Golf Course are smiling big.

"We've got a lot of corporate sponsors who want to come in with us," said Keith Saley, head bartender at the Ford Road restaurant.

The outing drew 85 golfers and raised approximately $4,200-$4,500. "Everyone walked away very happy. Everyone walked away with a prize," Saley said.

Designed for fun, the outing also had a more serious purpose: to raise money to help Canton area students who want to enter any number of medical fields.

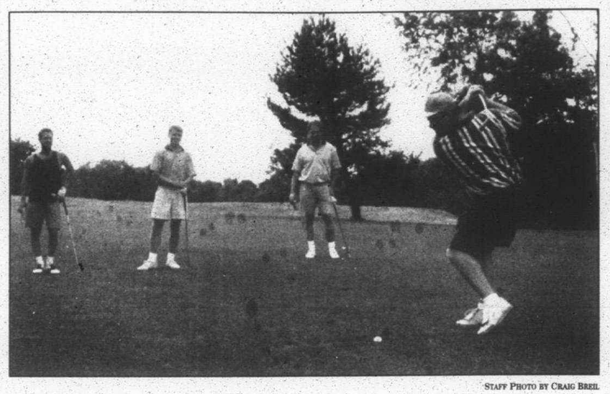

"Dave just wanted to give something back to the community. We tried to come up with something unique," Saley said of Damon's owner David Khoury. "He's a community sport."

Medicine has always interested Khoury. "Medicine is certainly an honorable profession," he said. "It's a profession where it's a definite aid to the community. It was always something I wanted to do. After pre-med, medical school is very expensive."

Khoury is working with Joan Noricks, executive director of the Canton Community Foundation, to work out the details of the scholarship program. But minimum eligibility for a scholarship includes a 3.5 high school average, financial need and you must be a Canton-Plymouth resident.

Scholarships won't be limited to students who want to be physicians. It will include students interested in nursing, medical technology and x-ray technology, for example.

Golf outing organizers are raring to go again next year with the hope that even more golfers will join in the fun. "We are going to move it to June," Saley said. "We want to thank Hickory Creek. They worked very hard with us."

Flea market draws buyers, sellers and a record turnout

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

If you wanted to buy a used bike, toys, golf clubs, a bird cage or two, figurines, old record albums or crafts, there was only one place to be last Saturday.

And it looked like everybody was there at the Canton Historical Society's Annual Flea Market at Cherry Hill School.

"Where didn't we go? asked a shopper as she scoped out the 44 spaces available for sellers on the grounds of the historic school at Cherry Hill and Ridge roads.

Even kids got in on the act. "Mama, there's a TV over there," demanded one child. His exasperated mom responded: "No. We don't need anymore TVs!"

But they were there for the asking, as were Christmas ornaments, old magazines, Ken dolls, comic books, marbles, spices and dolls.

"I've never been here before," said Northville resident Elaine Miller, who with her husband, Charles, set up shop under the shade of a tree outside the school. "Someone told us we got the best spot."

The couple was selling collectibles, antiques and crafts that had accumulated in their home over the years. "We are trying to get rid of stuff," Charles said, adding that they had taken in belongings of both Charles' mom and brother.

Sue Suetterline and her husband, Richard, set up shop selling handmade doll clothes and doll beds. Sue made the clothes, Richard made the beds.

"This was all I could make in two weeks," Sue said, about a tableful of dresses of every design imaginable. In July she had taken 400 of her dresses to the Farmington Founders Festival.

"I cut them out, then I press them. I put white thread in the sewing machine and do everything that has white thread," Sue said, describing her production line.

Richard Suetterlin also admitted he too developed a production line of his own for his handmade doll beds.

"My father owned a factory and had a saying: Give the hardest job to the laziest person and they'll find the easiest way to do it," Sue said, about her own way of making hundreds of doll dresses.

Old magazines drew attention from shoppers, who leafed through them recalling advertisements for cars - now considered old-fashioned by 1990s standards.

"Do you remember when "Life" was this size?" a shopper asked her mother as she held up an old magazine. "Do you remember if dad still has the one with John Kennedy on it?"

The crowds made the organizers of the flea market happy. The weather cooperated beautifully and Joan Palmer, society president, was contacted that day by sellers who asked to be put on a mailing list for next year.

"It was wonderful. It was better than the first one," Palmer said. "It was such a happy day."

Proceeds from the flea market - renting spaces to sellers, selling refreshments, and donations to the society that were sold at the flea market - will go directly to continue paying off the mortgage on a barn built behind the historic Bartlett-Travis House on Ridge Road: The barn was built to house society equipment.

"We have been doing that all year," Palmer said of paying off the mortgage.

Besides the refreshments sold inside the school, the society had its own tables of items donated to be sold specifically at the flea market.

Answers sought in Ford plant murder-suicide

BY JEFF COUNTS
STAFF WRITER

High emotions over personal relations triggered gunfire for the second time in less than two years at the Ford Motor Co. Sheldon Road Plant.

This time Stephen Cox, 58, of Ypsilanti, a 30-year employee, walked into the plant on Sunday morning carrying a 9 millimeter Sig handgun and 60 rounds of ammunition.

Seven of those rounds were pumped into the body of unarmed plant security chief Donald Jagod, 57, of Dearborn.

Cox then turned the gun on himself. Both were dead at the scene.

The 5:30 a.m. incident that took only a few moments has police, plant officials and workers looking for answers that may never be found.

"We will never have a complete answer to the cause because it deals with a person's mind who isn't here any more," said Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry.

"Both had good backgrounds, both were not evil people," said Berry.

The only possible motive lies in an Aug. 3 incident in a stairwell at the plant between Cox, who was married and a father, with the victim's daughter, Donna Jagod, who is a Pinkerton security guard at the plant, said Berry.

That incident sparked a sexual harassment complaint against Cox. He was disciplined, but was contesting the action. Family members said he was fearful of a civil suit stemming from the incident.

The murder-suicide was reminiscent of a January 1995 incident during which a love triangle turned bloody. On a cold, snowy Saturday morning, an estranged husband walked quietly into the plant, shot and injured his wife, killed her boyfriend and then himself.

Since that time, Ford officials have held violence in the workplace seminars and counseling sessions for workers. Such sessions were held again this week after the latest shootings, said Berry.

He said that increased security and metal detectors wouldn't have prevented the latest killings.

"It's a human problem. We can't read people's minds," he said.

During a press conference on Monday, Berry played taped recordings of calls made by two security officers who described the bloody scene.

Guard Jeff Kenny is heard telling 911 operators that Cox "came into the plant and didn't say anything. He had a pistol, fired four or five shots and then said 'Let's go.'"

Cox then held Kenny captive for a few minutes. "Like a normal human being, I pleaded for my life."

The guard managed to get to a telephone at a nearby store, the Office Depot, on Sheldon Road and called Plymouth Township police.

The killing scene was further described by a distraught female guard who found Cox's bloody body with a handgun next to it.

The woman called police and said: "Oh, God. I don't see my other guard ... he's on the floor. It's a killing. I see something on the floor. I don't see nobody."

The 911 operator asked her to see who it was, and she looked.

"I don't know who it is. He's in work pants."

tion class for batterers to avoid further occurences, which is also a condition of bond.

In the past batterers and their victims were handed a pamphlet from police with information on domestic violence and a hotline number for First Step, said Susan Ewing, director of probation at 36th District Court.

Victim intervention has increased in the two years the program has been in operation. In 1995 approximately 67 percent of the victims attended the program offered by First Step. In 1996 the number has increased to 73 percent. In both years 85 percent of the batterers attended the intervention program by ETRS.

"It was not unusual for a batterer to leave jail or the courtroom and re-assault the victim, or threaten, harass or badger the victim, " said Brian Smoly, executive director of ETRS.

Smoly said only four of the 126 batterers ordered into the the ETRS intervention course have re-assaulted. The program is 12-20 weeks in duration.

"I can't point to a specific incident, but I'm sure we've saved lives," said Judge Ronald Lowe.

Lowe was commissioned by MacDonald to lead the action team comprised of court administrative personel, treatment providers and other indivduals with a vested interest.

In Canton there were 272 incidences of domestic violence reported in 1995. From January to June of 1996 there have been 84 cases reported.

County proposal seeks to hold parents accountable

Parents would be responsible for their children who break the law under a proposed ordinance being worked on by the Wayne County Commission.

Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, introduced the ordinance in July, and it was sent to committee.

"Hopefully, this will catch the attention of some parents who simply are failing to exercise control over their family members. And, that is a significant responsibility of parenting," Patterson said in written statement.

Under the proposed ordinance, it is the responsibility of a parent to:

- Keep illegal drugs out of the home and out of the possession of a minor;
- Keep firearms and dangerous weapons out of the possession of a minor, except in connection with hunting or lawful recreational purpose;
- Require a minor to observe curfew laws;
- Require the minor to regularly attend school and prevent the minor from unexcused absences until age 17;
- Prevent the minor from maliciously or willfully damaging, defacing or destroying real or personal property;
- Prevent a minor from engaging in theft or from keeping in his or her possession property which is known to the parent to be stolen or beyond the financial means of the minor.

Parents will be notified whenever a minor is arrested or detained for committing a delinquent act and a permanent record to the notification will be kept, under the proposed ordinance.

Parents will be responsible is it is proven that the parent encouraged or caused the delinquent act, or knew the minor was likely to commit a delinquent act but failed to take action or it is proven by agency records that the parent was properly notified and failed to collect the minor from the detaining agency for eight hours or more after receiving the notice.

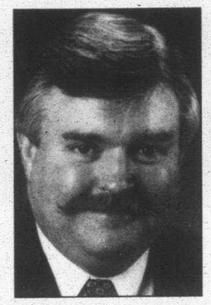

Violators of the ordinance would face a fine of up to $500 and court costs as determined by the court. Court costs may include reimbursement to the county and to the detaining municipality for the full costs of prosecution and police witnesses.

Community service may be assigned in lieu of a fine, under the ordinance.

Violators of the ordinance could also face costs of detention of $5 an hour for each hour past eight hours the minor is in detention, and up to $10,000 in fines for maliciously or willfully destroying personal or mixed property.

The proposal was sent to the Committee on Public Safety and Judiciary and the Committee on Health and Human Services.

Patterson expects it to come before the full commission by the end of the legislative term.

'Hopefully, this will catch the attention of some parents who simply are failing to exercise control over their family members. And, that is a significant responsibility of parenting.'

Bruce Patterson, –county commissioner

UM-D wins grant to improve teaching in science

The University of Michigan-Dearborn has received a $200,000 grant from the National Science Foundation to improve teaching in science, mathematics, engineering and technology.

UM-Dearborn is one of 23 institutions nationwide to receive awards under the program developed by the foundation to stimulate comprehensive, innovative reforms that promote learning, prepare students for careers and enhance awareness of science, mathematics, engineering and technology issues, according to a statement from the foundation.

More than 130 institutions submitted applications for the awards, which were made to "colleges and universities that have demonstrated success in revitalizing undergraduate education on a relatively modest scale and now wish to infuse their entire institution with similar gains," according to the foundation.

"Our goal will be to institutionalize a process that will encourage faculty members to develop alternatives to traditional lectures as a means of instruction; to establish an educational community where faculty members act as guides and students participate in an active collaboration; and to identify and develop new applications of instructional technology," Robert L. Simpson, provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs at UM-Dearborn, said. "Our intent is to reform the introductory courses and then move on to upper level classes."

Many faculty members at UM-Dearborn have been involved in efforts to improve undergraduate instruction in science, math and engineering for the past decade, Simpson said.

"The most notable effort to date has occurred in mathematics and statistics where faculty have employed innovative teaching methods in developing and adopting the use of software and computers to further student learning and understanding," Simpson said.

Some of the changes introduced by math and statistics faculty at UM-Dearborn include computer-based laboratory exercises in the three-semester calculus sequence, the use of cooperative or group learning, and the adoption of a hands-on approach in all math courses required of students preparing for careers as elementary teachers.

Numbers, Facts, and the Prostate Cancer Game
By Jorge Torriglia, M.D.

Our society is being inundated every day with information and data. We love statistics and numbers even though they may cloud the facts.

The field of prostate cancer, for instance, seems flooded with new information. Even in medical journals, the "information carousel" does not stop.

Let's look at some numbers:

- In 1996, 317,000 men will fall victim to prostate cancer, an annual rise of 25 percent since 1992.
- There were 32,378 prostate cancer deaths in 1990. In 1996, that number may rise to 44,400.

The above data is scary, but very recent new evidence suggests the incidence of prostate cancer is beginning to decline. There are three reasons for the increase in prostate cancer cases over the past few years.

1) Increased public awareness of prostate cancer.
2) Increased emphasis on the screening using Digital Rectal Examination (DRE), Prostate Specific Antigen (PSA) and Transrectal Ultrasound (TRUS)
3) Renewed accuracy in obtaining biopsies with TRUS.

The widespread use of PSA testing initially resulted in a significant increase in the number of newly-diagnosed patients. However, the pool of remaining patients is becoming smaller.

Statistics concerning PSA values further confuse the issue. There is a 65 percent false positive rate in patients with PSA value elevations between five and 10. More worrisome still is a 15 to 20 percent false negative PSA rate in patients with proven prostate cancer.

Interested in some more facts? Try these.

- PSA blood tests coupled with DREs are still the best screening mechanisms at this time.
- Ultrasound alone should not be used for screening since it is only 35 percent specific.
- Men with a family history of prostate cancer should be screened beginning at age 40.
- All men should have periodic screenings beginning at age 50.
- Elderly men with normal digital rectal examinations and no other significant symptoms or family history should not receive a PSA. They should be reassured.

These numbers may change, but one thing remains constant — the best defense against prostate cancer is regular screenings conducted by a physician.

Dr. Torriglia is Chief of Urology and Medical Director of Lithotripsy at Oakwood Hospital and Medical Center - Dearborn. This year, he was recognized by his peers as one of the "Best Doctors in America: Midwest Region".

Cyber Kids promise to use care with what they see while surfing the Net

STAFF WRITER

The Canton Public Library considered finding a software program that would block out inappropriate material from turning up on the Information Highway while the Cyber Kids were at the controls.

But they decided against it.

Several programs are available, such as Net Nanny, Cyber Patrol, and Surf Watch.

"We weren't satisfied with any of the programs because it blocks out too much of the new stuff available. We'd rather that (the program) not do the selecting," said Wendy Woltjer, child services librarian.

For example, the programs would block out words such as "breast," which would eliminate anyone from finding recipes for chicken breast. The beauty of the Internet is the wide variety of information at your fingertips and the programs would eliminate that availability, she said.

"Kids know how to get around it anyway. We don't want to offer parents a false sense of security. They'll find another word anyway," Woltjer added.

The Cyber Kids had to sign a contract saying they would be careful of what they look at while using the library's computers.

■ 'Kids know how to get around it anyway. We don't want to offer parents a false sense of security. They'll find another word anyway.'

Wendy Woltjer
—Child services librarian

Jacqueline Celum, mother of seven-year-old Reilly, said she is aware that her son will have access to everything on the Internet, but it doesn't worry her.

"If he sees anything inappropriate he knows to tell the librarian. He had to sign a form saying he would," she said.

Librarians won't be patrolling the room either, although they will be attentive to the happenings in the Cyber Kids' computer room — not far from the librarian's desk. The Cyber Kids will be on their honor and could risk losing their privileges to the computer room.

class was initiated by her enthusiastic son, Reilly, 7, who saw a sign announcing the program during a recent trip to the library.

"He came running up, saying, 'I want to do this," she said.

In fact, others have been so elated about the program, the library's youth department has been offering the Cyber Kidwannabes 10 sessions per week since it began on July 22.

The library encourages the parents to go into the orientation class with the kids. And the parents seem to enjoy it just as much, said Judy Teachworth, head of the library's youth department.

"Adults approach computers with fear and reservation. They think they'll hit one wrong key and break it," she said.

Said Wendy Woltjer, child services librarian and orientation instructor, "We've had a really good turnout of parents because they want to learn too. A lot of the kids know more than they do."

Cyber Kids have found that educational games, such as Midnight Rescue and Thinking Things, are easily accessible. They've also discovered web sites, such as include Kidscom, Disney, Warner Brothers, the Pistons and the White House.

So what's better sitting down to read a good book or taking a trip through cyberspace?

Teachworth wouldn't pick one over the other, but she said computers are "a different way to learn. They definitely expand their knowledge by allowing them to visit places like Paris and the White House."

County in for $100 million for downtown stadiums

BY BETH SUNDRLA JACHMAN
STAFF WRITER

It's a $505 million proposal to build two stadiums in Detroit, and Wayne County's planning to put up $100 million.

The county is playing a key role in an agreement reached this week, which would bring the Detroit Lions football team back to Detroit in a joint project with the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

"I think it's a once in a generation chance to rebuild the city," said Mike Duggan, deputy Wayne County executive.

Wayne County will hold the lease to the two stadiums, which would be built across Woodward from the Fox Theater in Detroit. The county would then sublease the stadiums to the Detroit Downtown Development Authority, which has concession and management agreements with the Detroit Lions and the Detroit Tigers.

In addition to the plan which was previously announced for a $245 million stadium plan for the Tigers, a $225 million plan for a Lions stadium has been added.

A $20 million plan for a parking structure and other parking and another $20 million for a Lions headquarters and practice facilities in Allen Park are also part of the proposal.

In the Lions proposal, the funding plan includes $80 million from the proposed county tourist tax and $20 million from the county surplus land fund as well as $85 million from the Detroit DDA, $50 million in corporate contributions and $70 million in Lions contributions. The Lions have a lease at the Silverdome in Pontiac until 2004. The Lions left Detroit in the early '70s to go to the Silverdome.

■'I think it's a once in a generation chance to rebuild the city.'

Mike Duggan,
–deputy county exec

The 1-million-square foot stadium that would house the Lions is being called a sports and entertainment dome that would seat 65,000-75,000 people and include 100-120 private suites with an estimated yearly attendance of 650,000 for Lions games, plus 850,000 for other events. The Super Bowl, NCAA Final Four and Democratic and Republican national political conventions were mentioned as possible events. The opening date is undetermined.

Commission to consider ballot issues today

An assortment of ballot proposals was sent to committee Thursday by the Wayne County Commission.

A special meeting has been called for Aug. 22 and public hearings will be held on proposals ranging from the excise tax on rental cars and hotel/motel rooms to renewing the public safety millage early to changing the county charter to allow the commission to hire independent legal counsel. The deadline to put items on the ballot is Aug. 27. The general election is Nov. 5.

■ A proposal to put the 1-mill public safety tax on the ballot early was sent to committee on Thursday.

"Am I to assume this was the 1-mill approved in 1988?" Commissioner Bruce Patterson, R-Canton Township, asked of a sketchy item on Thursday's agenda.

Several commissioners said they didn't have the ballot language with them, but that it would be exactly the same as the 1988 language with the word renewal added.

The 1988 proposal authorized levying 1 mill for 10 years from 1988 to 1997 to acquire, construct and/or operate jail, misdemeanors or juvenile incarceration or detention facilities and adult penalty options such as work release, home detention and community restitution; with at least one-tenth of a mill to acquire, build and operate a juvenile work/training institution.

That last phrase sparked much debate as the money was used to fund juvenile programs rather than to build a new youth home.

Last year a bond issue was approved to build the new youth home in Detroit. A ground breaking was held this summer.

One mill is $1 per $1,000 state equalized valuation or on a $100,000 house, which is assessed at half its value, the tax would cost $50 a year.

COUNTY NEWS

■ Vice Chair Kay Beard, D-Westland, introduced a proposal to change the county charter to allow the commission to appoint independent legal counsel "to assert and defend the legal rights, powers and duties of the county commission."

Many legal issues have arisen in which the commission and the chief executive officer have differing interests and in which the corporation counsel is placed in conflict with the Michigan Rules of Professional Conduct for Attorneys, according to the resolution attached to the proposal.

Corporation Counsel serves "totally at the pleasure of the CEO," the resolution says.

One issue the commission has sought outside counsel on recently concerns a Downriver waste water authority and concerns about the county's continued operation of it.

■ Another proposal the commission will take up would repeal part of the county charter to give the auditor general rather than the chief executive officer power to hire an independent external auditor to prepare a comprehensive annual financial report, power to audit the operations and administration of all county agencies, power to subpoena witnesses and evidence and to authorize penalties for one who conceals or falsifies records or refuses to answer a reasonable inquiry.

■ Defining veto powers is the subject of another ballot proposal to be considered. It calls for amending the county charter to define those powers that are and are not subject to veto. For example, a veto override would not be subject to veto under the proposal.

Maybury offers hiking, harvest, family day

Maybury State Park is planning its fall programs.

It is located on Eight Mile Road one mile west of Beck Road in Northville Township is open daily from 8 a.m. to dusk. Farm hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

A state park motor vehicle permit is required for entry to the park. Additional information about programs or facilities may be obtained by calling the park office at (810) 349-8390.

Fall programs include:

■ So long to summer, 7-9 p.m. Aug. 31. The program will include a walk to investigate how Maybury changes from day to night as well as from summer to fall and will conclude with stargazing and stories. Meet at the concession building in the main parking lot.

■ Farm stories at 11 a.m. Sept. 7 and 3 p.m. Sept. 8. "Seasons on the farm" stories will be featured in the farm demonstration building, followed by an activity.

■ September bird hike 8 a.m. Sept. 14. Many species of northern birds have begun heading south for the winter. Walk around the fishing pond area to spot some of the fall migrants. Meet at the riding stable parking area on Beck Road, a quarter mile south of Eight Mile.

■ Honey harvest 1-4 p.m. Sept. 14 and 15. Demonstrations of honey extraction will be ongoing. Displays and information on beekeeping and equipment will also be available.

■ Family fishing day 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 28. In celebration of National Hunting and Fishing Day, the park will host the family fishing program. Meet at the pond for fishing. A limited amount of equipment will be available to use. Participants can bring their own. The fishing pond is south of the riding stable parking area. A valid fishing license is required for participants who are 17 years or older.

Misty Duck opens its doors

On the job: Cheri Happner of Canton, a hostess, writes a message to patrons welcoming them to the new Misty Duck restaurant on Ford Road, just east of Canton Center Road. The restaurant offers a variety of entrees, including venison, crab, beef, pasta, seafood, buffalo burgers and pheasant.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI
STAFF WRITER

When you walk into the new Misty Duck restaurant - open as of Monday - you'll be treated to what owner David Khoury calls "casual elegance."

"Our plate presentation is our signature," said Khoury who also owns Damon's The Place for Ribs on Ford Road.

The restaurant is in the former Big Boy on Ford Road, just east of Canton Center. But the building has been transformed both inside and out.

The restaurant opened officially Monday following a grand opening celebration by the Canton Chamber of Commerce and community leaders.

"It is not a game food restaurant," Khoury said. "But game food will enhance our theme."

Among the choices are beef, including steaks and burgers, fresh fish, pastas, lamb and veal. The menu also will feature crab, duck, pheasant, venison and buffalo burgers.

"I wanted to be sure the menu and ambiance complimented each other," Khoury said, adding the restaurant also features a fireplace to further add to the elegant atmosphere.

Hours for the new restaurant are: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Monday-Thursday; 11 a.m.- midnight Friday and Saturday; noon-10 p.m. Sunday.

Auditions set for Aug. 25

OBITUARIES

ROY ROBERT SCHULTZ

Services for Roy Robert Schultz, 80, of Canton were Saturday at Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. in Northville with the Rev. Peter Berg officiating. Burial was in Riverside Cemetery in Plymouth.

He was born Dec. 15, 1915, in Dearborn and died Aug. 13 in Canton. He was a veteran of World War II and was a retired farmer. Mr. Schultz was past president of the Wayne County Farm Bureau and a board member for nine years; a charter member of the Canton Rotary Club; a member of the chamber of commerce and a member of the historical society.

He is survived by his wife, Matilda (Tillie); daughters, Ileen Davis of Belleville, Amy Woodring of Florida, Sue Gates of West Bloomfield and Lou Ann Eldred of Dexter; brother, Melvin of Aliso Viejo, Calif.; sister Estella Heidt of St. Joseph, Mich.; 12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Canton Rotary Club and Canton Historical Society.

MARTHA E. DANA

Services for Martha E. Dana, 85, of Rochester Hills were Thursday at the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home with the Rev. David D. Owen officiating.

She was born March 22, 1911 in Shelby, Ohio and died Aug. 11 in Livonia.

Mrs. Dana was a medical editor for Hoffman-LaRoche for 10 years. She came from New York in 1990 to Plymouth.

Mrs. Dana graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor of arts degree and received her masters degree from Western Michigan University. She attended the Presbyterian Church in New York.

She is survived by nieces, Sheila Osann and Marribel Dana; nephews, Staten Lorenz, Randy Lorenz, Scott Lorenz, Rick Lorenz, Kirk Lorenz and Joe Dana.

MARION I. BERNASH

Services for Marion I. Bernash, 84, of Plymouth were Saturday at Schrader-Howell Funeral Home with the Rev. Jim Livingston officiating.

She was born Aug. 9, 1912 in Onaway, Mich. and died Aug. 14 in Ann Arbor. She was a homemaker and she also worked for the Plymouth Community School System. A member of Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic Church, Mrs. Bernash was also a member of the Daughters of the American Republic, Plymouth branch.

She is survived by daughters, Katherine Nyhus of Plymouth and Martha Witte of Rochester; brother, Ralph Severance of Sutton Bay; eight grandchildren and eight great-great grandchildren.

Memorials may be made to the American Heart Association.

GERARD J. THOMAS

A prayer service for Gerard J. Thomas, 76, of Redford was held Sunday at the Harry J. Will Trust 100 Funeral Home with a funeral service Monday.

Mr. Thomas was a bookkeeper and tax preparer. He was also a member of the Daniel Lord Knights of Columbus and the Dearborn Heights Moose Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Phyllis; sons, David R. of Virginia, Paul G. of Jackson, Mich. and Patrick J. of Canton; daughter, Sue Bellaire of Plmouth; step-children, Denise LaRose, Janice Krupp, Kenneth LaRose and Laurie Root; 13 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; brother, Cecile Simmons and niece Jeanne Gasparotto.

Memorials may be made to the American Heart Association.

LENA A. BARON

Services for Lena A. Baron of Canton Township were Aug. 16 at St. Thomas A'Becket Catholic Church with the Rev. C. Richard Kelly, Jr. officiating. Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. Funeral arrangements were handled by McCabe Funeral Home Canton Chapel.

She was born Sept. 25, 1937 in Malta and died Aug. 12 in Canton.

She worked as a production worker for General Motors.

She is survived by son, Frank of Pennsylvania; daughters Lillian Schick of Romulus and Tracey Baron of Romulus; mother, Theresa Genovese of Canton; brothers, Joe of Tennessee, Charles of Brighton and Victor of Canton; and three grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Karmanos Cancer Institute.

realignment also comes at a benefit to the developer, who now has two frontages on Canton Center Road. In addition, the new road splits off a 6.6 acre parcel located between the existing Canton Center Road and the new re-aligned Canton Center Road.

Ram said he has plans for a commercial retail center on the property to the south of the Kimberly Meadows subdivision, another one of his projects. Several individuals have shown interest in the retail center, but he's not naming names just yet.

"This is good for Wayne County and good for Canton. And it's also good for me," Ram said. "It will be a much safer road and improvements will be made to Michigan Avenue too. It will benefit a lot of people in the area."

The township is still ironing out other details, such as property purchases of easements located at the corners of the planned route, Casari said. The easements are located at Belleville and Michigan Avenue and Geddes at Canton Center.

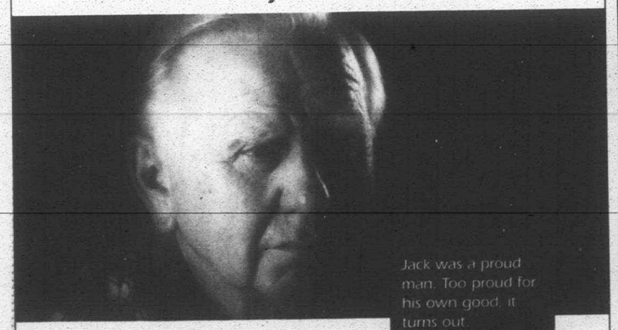

The township board gave the go-ahead for the Canton Center Road re-alignment Aug. 13. Designs will be forwarded to Wayne County for review. After it is approved, construction work will be bid out at the state level.

"We're still hopeful this project will go forward, but its always a mystery with Wayne County... they take a long time to get road projects reviewed and approved," said Supervisor Tom Yack.

The project also ends a several year, multi-phased road effort in to straighten Canton roads. "There were several locations in the township where the roads didn't line up. This is the last project," said Casari.

Other similar projects completed several years ago were Haggerty at Joy Road and Lilley at Joy Road.

Jack was afraid he'd lose his manhood. So I lost my best friend.

Jack was a proud man. Too proud for his own good, it turns out.

Jack refused prostate surgery because he was afraid he wouldn't be able to perform.

Well, his pride cost him his life. And it cost me my best friend.

If you're afraid of losing your manhood, consider this: You could lose your life.

Regular screenings can detect prostate cancer early – while it's still curable. And with today's improved treatment procedures, most men have little if any loss of function.

Don't lose more than you bargained for. Get regular prostate screenings. It's one of the most important things you can do – for yourself, and for those who care about you.

Sheriff needs floor officers in county jail

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department is looking for about 45 people to fill police positions.

A primary challenge for law enforcement is the recruitment of qualified personnel, according to the Sheriff's Department.

The department is recruiting floor security officers for the county jails.

Recruits can potentially move on to other jobs in the department including road patrol, park patrol, auto theft, marine division, court security and a number of specialized units such as narcotics enforcement, morality and special response teams.

The starting pay is $23,500.

To apply for a police officer position, applicants must meet the following criteria:

- Be 18 years of age or older;
- Be a high school graduate or have passed the equivalency exam (GED);
- Be a U.S. citizen;
- Qualify for appointment as a deputy sheriff (this requires on year of continuous residence in the state of Michigan immediately preceding appointment.)
- Qualify for a permit to carry fire arms;
- Have a valid Michigan driver's license and a good driving record;
- Have passed the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council's police tests for reading, writing and physical skills.

(Applicants must submit proof of satisfactory completions of the MLEOTC police pre-employment test battery with their applications or the applications will be rejected); or

- Be certified or certifiable as a law enforcement officer by the state of Michigan.

In addition, appointees must establish and maintain Wayne County residency during the period of their employment. A felony conviction will immediately disqualify the applicant.

For more information, call the Wayne County Personnel/Human Resources Department at (313) 224-5901 or pick up an application at the Wayne County Building, 600 Randolph in Detroit.

COUNTY NEWS

School agency outlines free milk, meal policies

Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency has announced the policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk for the coming school year.

The policy will be followed by all schools (public and non-public), preschools, child-care centers, Head Start Programs and residential child care institutions in Wayne County that participate in federally reimbursed child nutrition programs during the 1996-97 school year.

These programs include the national school lunch program, school breakfast program, special milk program, commodity program and the child and adult care food program.

All public school districts, non-public schools, child-care agencies, Head Start programs and residential child-care institutions must use household size and income criteria for determining eligibility.

For households of two people the income scale for free meals or free milk is an annual income of $13,468; for three, $16,874; for four, $20,280; for five, $23,686; for six, $27,092; for seven, $30,498; and for eight, $33,904. For each additional family member add $3,406.

For households of two people the income scale for reduced price meals is an annual income of $19,166; for three, $24,013; for four, $28,860; for five, $33,707; for six, $38,554; for seven, $43,401; and for eight, $48,248. For each additional family member add $4,847.

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or free milk.

Organizations participating in the child and adult care food program may make meals available at no separate charge.

Application forms will be sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-price meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school.

For non food stamp households, an application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: 1) monthly source of income received by each household member (such as wages and child support); 2) the names of all household members; 3) Social Security number of the adult household member who signs the application; and 4) the signature of an adult household member.

For food stamp and Aid to Families with Dependent Children households, participants only have to list the child's name and food stamp or AFDC case number and sign the application.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Applications may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced-price meals or free milk benefits, the household must report to the school increases in household income over $50 a month ($600 a year) and decreases in household size.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

RESOLUTION NO. 3
TONQUISH CREEK STORM SEWER
SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT
SAD NO. 1996-2

Minutes of a Regular Board meeting of the Township Board of the Charter Township of Canton, County of Wayne, State of Michigan (the "Township"), held on the 13th day of August, 1996, in the Township at 7 o'clock p.m. Eastern Daylight Savings Time.
PRESENT: Members Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly, and Yack
ABSENT: Member Bennett
The following preamble and resolution were offered by Member Kirchgatter and supported by Member McLaughlin:
WHEREAS, the Township Board, pursuant to Act 188, Public Acts of Michigan, 1954, as amended, and after notice to all of the record owners of land in the proposed special assessment district, has tentatively declared its intention to undertake certain public improvements in the Township, as more particularly described in Exhibit A hereto, and
WHEREAS, the Township Board has caused to be prepared by a registered engineer preliminary plans showing the public improvements and the location thereof and an estimate of the cost thereof, and
WHEREAS, after due and legal notice, the Township Board has met on August 13, 1996 at 7 o'clock p.m. Eastern Daylight Savings Time, and heard all persons interest therein at said first hearing with respect to the proposed public improvements and the special assessment district.
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT:
1. The Township Board hereby determines that the public improvements described in Exhibit A hereto and made a part hereof are necessary for the health, safety and welfare of the Township and the said public improvements shall be made and completed pursuant to aforesaid Act 188.
2. The Township Board hereby approves the plans and estimate of cost for the public improvements in the total sum of $1,457,701.00 as prepared and presented by the Township engineer. Of the aforesaid total cost of the project, the sum of $1,457,701.00 will be spread against the hereinafter named special assessment district pursuant to the aforesaid Act 188.
3. The Township Board finally determines that said special assessment district shall consist of all the lots and parcels of land described in Exhibit B (attached) hereto and that the existence of said special assessment district shall be maintained until all special assessments payable on the roll hereinafter described, and any bonds issued in anticipation of such special assessments, have been paid.
4. The Supervisor is hereby directed to make a special assessment roll in which shall be described all the parcels of land to be assessed as above set forth, with the names of the owners thereof, if known, and the total amount to be assessed against each parcel of land, which amount shall be such relative portion of the whole sum to be levied against all parcels of land in the assessment district as the benefit to such parcel of land bears to the total benefit of all parcels of land in the special assessment district.
5. When the Supervisor shall have completed the special assessment roll, the Supervisor shall affix thereto a certificate stating that said roll was made pursuant to a resolution of the Township Board of the Township adopted on the date of adoption of this resolution, and that in making the assessment roll the Supervisor has, according to the Supervisor's best judgement, conformed in all respects to the directions contained in said resolution and the statutes of the State of Michigan, and the Supervisor shall then report the special assessment roll, with the certificate attached thereto, to the Township Board.
6. All resolutions and parts of resolutions insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this resolution be and they hereby are rescinded.
AYES: Members Burdziak, Kirchgatter, LaJoy, McLaughlin, Shefferly and Yack
ABSENT: Member Bennett
RESOLUTION DECLARED ADOPTED.

Township Clerk

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete copy of a resolution adopted by the Township Board of the Charter Township of Canton, County of Wayne, State of Michigan, at a Regular meeting held on August 13, 1996 and that the said meeting was conducted and public notice of said meeting was given pursuant to and in full compliance with the Open Meetings Act, being Act 267, Public Acts of Michigan, 1976, and that the minutes of said meeting were kept and will be or have been made available as required by said meeting were kept and will be or have been made available as required by said Act.

Funding for the Tigers plan, which was announced earlier and upheld by a recent state Supreme Court decision, is $25 million in state funds for land, $30 million in state funds for infrastructure, $40 million in Detroit DDA funds and $145 million in Tiger contributions. The Tigers' part of the plan remains basically the same, except the stadium would be built on the east side of Woodward rather than the west, Duggan said.

The 1-million-square foot Tigers stadium would seat 42,000 and have 65 private suites with an estimate 2.95 million yearly attendance.

The Tigers Stadium would sit on 25 acres, while the Lions stadium would be on 12-15 acres. About 5,500 total parking spaces for both stadiums are planned. Parking at surrounding businesses would be encouraged, Duggan said.

The Wayne County Commissioners are expected to vote today on whether to put Proposition S, a proposal to put a 1 percent tax on hotels and a 2 percent tax on rental cars on the Nov. 5 general election ballot for voters to decide.

The proposed tourist tax would run the life of the bonds, about 30 years, Duggan said. If approved the tax would begin Jan. 1, 1997. Of the $80 million expected to be raised the breakdown would be 40 percent from hotel rentals and 60 percent from rental cars, Duggan said.

A group representing area hotels gathered Wednesday morning to speak in favor of the tourist tax.

The stadium project would not only help Detroit hotels, but hotels throughout the county as well, Mark Karmo, part owner of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, said. He is also chairman of the board of the Association of Food Dealers which also supports the plan, he said.

Other local hotels listed as supporters include: the Country Hearth Inn-Canton, the Courtyard by Marriott Livonia and the Quality Inn in Plymouth.

Michael O'Callaghan, chairman of the board of the Hotel Motel and Resort Association of Michigan and president of the Hotel Association of Greater Detroit, said the association recognizes the importance of the tax, but discourages more taxes in the future.

"I don't think 1 percent is going to hurt anyone coming to Detroit," he said.

The other $20 million from the county would come from county land sales through the 21st Century Fund, set up earlier this year.

"The county is in this for $100 million. This is a huge political risk for my boss (County Executive Edward McNamara)," Duggan said.

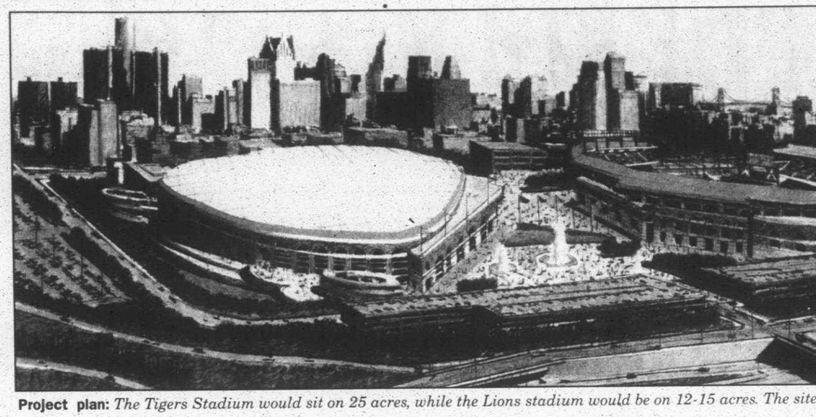

This plan would do for Detroit in three years, what it took Cleveland 10 years to do, Duggan said.

Both stadiums would be owned by a Detroit/Wayne County Stadium Authority run by three members selected by the mayor of Detroit and three by the Wayne County executive.

The teams will manage their own facilities and are bound by 35-year leases.

The Lions have agreed to take the lead in raising $50 million in private corporate contributions, Duggan said.

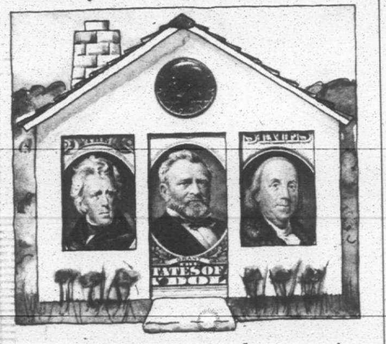

Commitments to buy the land east of Woodward within budgeted amounts will also be sought. To move east of Woodward will be more expensive than west, he said.

Project plan: The Tigers Stadium would sit on 25 acres, while the Lions stadium would be on 12-15 acres. The site is east of Woodward.

Leadership

Board chief fosters openness

■ Board members took the remarks and criticism without any sign of hostility, hurt feelings or retaliatory remarks. Parents' concerns were not belittled.

It doesn't matter who you are, it's tough to be on the receiving end of someone's anger.

At the Aug. 13 Plymouth-Canton Board of Education meeting, board members were in the hot seat as at least a dozen Bentley Elementary School parents expressed their anger about their kindergartners who will be bused to Hulsing Elementary, while their older siblings will continue at Bentley.

That's not to ignore the fact that on that same evening teachers picketed outside the administration office.

But something refreshing happened that night – a change that wasn't lost on the audience. Credit goes to new board president Mark Horvath who has set a different tone for the meetings.

Parents were allowed to speak their minds, even when they were fighting mad and even if it took some time for them to get their points across.

Board members took the remarks and criticism without any sign of hostility, hurt feelings or retaliatory remarks. Parents' concerns were not belittled.

These changes have been too long in coming. And that's not to say that angry people need dominate a meeting. But under Horvath's leadership it is clear that what parents and the district's taxpayers have to say is important and heard – and with courtesy.

Central Middle School teacher Earl Harrington, an audience member, told the board, "I congratulate you for keeping things open. Even when negative things came out, I didn't feel any negative reaction."

Horvath and some of the new board members deserve credit for making residents more welcome than they have felt in the past. It appears that this board is listening – an important effort when parents bring their concerns to the board.

The school board must also be commended for only recently making available a "citizens packet" that is passed among audience members. For too long residents sat in the audience wondering about the agenda items and trying to follow along blindly.

Now the paperwork that goes along and backs up board discussion – long available to board members and the media – is available to anyone in the room.

It doesn't take much effort for a public body to improve its credibility. Giving residents the floor – especially when they are upset – goes a long way in fostering relationships between taxpayers and the representatives they have elected.

We hope this is a good start for the board of education and the taxpayers of the district.

Care urged in ethics process

Two things need to be made clear about the teaching values" proposal before the State Board of Education.

First, there is no serious proposal that any version of the Judeo-Christian Bible be used. That notion popped out when board president Clark Durant, R-Grosse Pointe, was out of the board room and was questioned by a broadcast reporter who never even attended the July meeting of the board.

Durant never discussed the Bible idea before the board. The idea of using a sectarian text wasn't in the draft resolution that was tabled. It wasn't expected to be in the revised version before the state's highest school policy-making board Wednesday.

Second, there is little disagreement that values and ethics need to be taught. People of all political persuasions and religious faiths tend to agree. It is more than obeying the law. Ethics is how you behave when a cop isn't watching. It's politeness, respect for other persons, respect for others' property, respect for public property, respect for viewpoints that we may disagree with. It's behaving honorably and charitably.

Anyone who has heard a commencement speaker booed or had his car's finish "keyed" appreciates the concept of ethics.

Benjamin Franklin understood the concept when he made amendments to Thomas Jefferson's first draft of the Declaration of Independence. "We hold these truths to be sacred and undeniable," wrote Jefferson. "We hold these truths to be self-evident," corrected Franklin.

Franklin's point that all men are created equal isn't dependent on belief in a religion or a deity. There are, however, some real dangers in the values and ethics resolution as first presented to the State Board of Education.

One is that it calls for setting up advisory committees within school districts that would include clergy, parents and business people. As drafted, there is nothing to prevent one church from stacking the committee with its adherents.

There is further danger in the allocation of "parents" on such committees. In Tennessee and Louisiana, our federal courts have handled cases in which tiny groups of evangelical parents have sought veto power over educators in the selection of textbooks.

Michigan has a particular disadvantage in this respect with 562 school districts, many of them tiny. That, along with pathetically small voter turnouts, makes it all the easier for a sectarian group to get its heavy hands on public education.

Durant, in his running of the State Board of Education, has employed a technique of bringing in a single group to make a presentation and then trying to ram through a change. On the values and ethics question, however, Superintendent of Public Instruction Art Ellis pulled back the original resolution, and other board members expressed dissatisfaction with the draft.

Kids need clear instruction in values and ethics, no question about it. The State Board of Education should guide the way. But it should draw tight guidelines about how the process is handled so that one group doesn't get control of the tools of government to force its sectarian views down everyone else's throats.

Support Deborah Nesbit

Now that the negative campaign of Jeff Schroder, campaign manager for Deborah Whyman, is behind us we can turn our attention to a campaign based on issues.

I would like to personally congratulate Commissioner Thaddeus McCotter for standing up to the negative politics of Schroder/Whyman. I also would like to commend Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry for standing up to the candidates in the Republican Party for their negative campaign tactics.

Both McCotter and Berry enhanced the image of their party by fighting against the divisive, negative campaign tactics of Schroder, who was actively supported by Deborah Whyman.

I call on all Republicans in western Wayne County to continue this fight against negative campaign tactics by speaking up and speaking out against Deborah Whyman. We must make sure that the tactics she supported for Jeff Schroder do not continue to be a part of her campaign against long- time Canton resident Deborah Nesbit.

I encourage all residents in state Representative District 21 to support Deborah Nesbit for state Representative. The voters resoundingly said enough is enough in turning back Schroder. Now is the time to take a good look at Deborah Nesbit.

Say thanks to Art

This letter is about and dedicated to my father, Fire Marshal Art Winkel. He will retire in four months after 25 years of service to the Canton community.

Art Winkel has worked tirelessly for a better fire department, fire prevention, and a better community. He started "fire prevention," (as we know it), in this area, as well as the fire safety house. He taught anyone who would listen, from senior citizens to babysitter classes.

On his days off, he worked for the Lions Club, the senior education, and any other charity that would benefit the people of Canton.

My father has lived his life and job by the book. Issues were either right or wrong, black or white. There are no gray issues in my father's life. This has not always been a popular position in a job that can sometimes be touched by politics. He always stuck to his convictions on any position he believed in.

As his service for Canton comes to a close, one would ask if it has been worth it? Many would say no, but not my father. He has handled his success and his losses with quiet dignity with no bitterness.

He is a happy family man, who has served his community for many years. He may have regrets, but even those who are closest to him would never know.

In the next four months, before he retires, for those of you whom he has helped, worked with or for, please say good-bye or maybe even thanks, he deserves it. For those of you who don't know him, he's the fire marshal in the blue uniform, with socks that are probably the wrong color. Say "hi" anyway and ask him about his grandchildren.

Thanks, dad.

Tactics questioned

Thank you voters of Plymouth and Plymouth Township for turning your back on the incredulous campaign tactics of Jeff Schroder. It is one thing to discuss issues in a civilized manner and another to bring up issues in a divisive, racially motivated manner. Thaddeus McCotter spoke out on the issues critical to his community in a manner of high quality.

Jeff Schroder, the campaign manager for Deborah Whyman in 1994, was supported by Whyman this year. Oddly enough the same disparaging attacks which Whyman has used on her past opponents were inflicted into the Republican primary for Wayne County Board of Commissioners. I feel that the voters of Canton should respond the same way to Representative Whyman as the voters of Plymouth and Northville responded to Schroder...by voting her out of office.

Unfortunately, if history is any indicator, the residents of the 21st legislative district will have to endure the same type of smear campaign from Deborah Whyman that Schroder used on McCotter. Instead of discussing the needs for a superior public education system for our children, or the safety of our streets, this campaign will be belittled to discussing the color of a peoples' skin and their sexual preferences. The citizens of this community deserve a debate dealing with issues relevant to the betterment of our community.

I will be telling all of my friends in Canton to vote for Deborah Nesbit. A mother of extremely high moral quality, a woman who, like McCotter, will also debate issues critical to the improvement of her community and not allow for confrontational and politically motivated divisive issues to be discussed.

Points of View

Schools of choice: a 'bug' threatening education

Guest Columnist

Martha Trafford

Local bug experts have predicted that we will be annoyed by a bumper crop of pesky mosquitoes this year - destined to make 1996 the itchiest of years over the past two decades.

While the skeeters are definitely a nuisance, another "bug" with a voracious appetite buzzes in our ears, threatening our communities - feasting off the public's desire to improve its public schools. The larval stage of cross district schools of choice has hatched across Michigan.

While the heavy rains are to blame for the influx of mosquitoes, a heavy handed governor and a highly partisan (but not principled) legislature are responsible for foisting the school choice issue on the public, under the guise of school aid. Given the circumstances, it is not surprising that most school boards have chosen the most effective repellent at hand - to simply keep the doors to their districts closed.

State Board of Education Vice President Marilyn Lundy's June 27 guest column, "Families offered a choice," read like an "American as apple pie" endorsement of public school choice. But lurking behind the Rockwellian picture painted in the article are the hidden agendas of many, and the questionable methods our elected officials.

Other than offering "parental opportunity," as stated by Lundy, are there any real merits to this cross district school choice legislation? Our legislators have given us great cause to think about this. Last fall, after heated debate and considerable negative feedback, they could not muster sufficient votes to pass a school choice bill. So the issue lay dormant over the winter months until, as the saying goes - "where there's a will, there's a way." Some legislators resurrected it from the chambers of death, and gave it new life by hiding it in the school aid bill, which was virtually assured of passage.

If public school choice cannot pass on its own merits, we should be skeptical of its value in improving public school education.

Secondly, where is all the proof of the effectiveness of public school choice. Both Harvard and Columbia universities have raised red flags in recently published studies of choice programs underway. Their research concluded that "there is no evidence that choice has improved learning for individual students or schools in general."

In Montgomery County, Maryland, this research also showed that parents chose schools were families had similar incomes, racial, and ethnic backgrounds as their own. Likewise, in Milwaukee, low income parents given vouchers, chose private non-sectarian, but highly segregated schools. And after nearly five years in that program, the children performed no better academically (and in one study, did worse) than low income children in regular public schools.

In Michigan, some school districts acknowledge that their only interest in cross district choice is filling empty classroom seats to garner foundation grants. Many citizens could see their neighborhood schools close. Smaller school districts could be weakened by revenue losses, to the point where consolidation with a neighboring district will be necessary.

Sadly, while all this time and expense is spent on a contrived concept to make educational funding portable, first to any public school, then eventually to the parochial or private school of one's choice, the real issues which impact educational opportunities for all our children, go unaddressed.

Class size, curriculum improvements, computer technology access, and qualified and supported teachers should be our concerns, for they make the difference in our classrooms and in the quality of learning afforded to each child.

If we value our communities and our neighborhood schools, we must not sit by and allow the metamorphosis of cross district choice into full fledged vouchers for private and parochial education.

GOP wants lock on meddling in state, local education

Tim Richard

Start with this background: The American family is disintegrating. The out-of-wedlock birth rate is around 25 percent and rising; in some quarters, it's 70 percent. The divorce rate is 50 percent. Child physical and sexual abuse is such a problem that we have a law requiring teachers to report suspected cases.

Keep that in mind as we take up the Republican national platform's plank on education.

It starts with a statement of irrefutable fact: "The federal government has no constitutional authority to be involved in school curricula or to control jobs in the work place." The GOP's logical conclusion: "We will abolish the (U.S.) Department of Education, end federal meddling in our schools. . ."

Amen.

Then the party gets off track. The words "parent" and "families" are used at least 10 times in a bit more than three pages. For example: "Our goal is nothing less than a renaissance in American education, begun by returning its control to parents, teachers, local school boards and, through them, to communities and local taxpayers."

Recalling that American families are in dreadful shape, note the GOP wants to place control of education in the hands of parents ahead of teachers, local school boards and so on.

Parental involvement is, of course, a necessity. Parental control, however, is something else.

The national GOP platform intrudes on the Michigan Constitution, whose education article emphatically puts "leadership and general supervision over all public education" in the State Board of Education. The entire article never mentions local school boards or parents.

It is understandable: The purpose of education is to advance students beyond the accomplishments of previous generations, not to have the previous generation drag schools back to their level.

Glance to my third paragraph and note the quotation "end federal meddling." It's too bad the Republican national platform didn't stick to it, because this national viewpoint proposes the following meddling in state and local school matters:

- "Phonics instead of look-say reading."
- "Educational initiatives to promote chastity until marriage."
- "We oppose school-based clinics."
- "School rebates, charter schools, and vouchers." The last item, incidentally, is specifically prohibited by Michigan's Constitution.
- "The return of voluntary prayer to our schools. . . equal access to school facilities by student religious groups."
- "Study the classics of western civilization."

The effrontery! national, partisan micromanagement of Michigan's public schools.

The Republican platform trips over its own feet in advocating indirect aid to nonpublic schools and then demanding that people "know that their tax dollars are reaching the classroom, not being siphoned off into overhead and bureaucracy."

The public can't possibly know how its tax dollars are being spent unless schools are required to hold budget hearings, make copies of the budget available for inspection, and be subject to audits. If private and religious schools are to get tax dollars, directly or indirectly, they should be subject to the same reporting and inspection rules.

But the Republican platform is opposed to such bureaucratic red tape. So which side of the mouth is the Republican platform talking from?

Republicans complain that college "tuition has escalated far in excess of inflation. . ." But what will they do about it? "We call for a national reassessment of the economics of higher education. . ."

We're supposed to be eliminating federal rules, and here is the GOP advocating a national probe of college finances.

Without doubt, the national Republican Party wants to meddle in the details of state and local education. It just doesn't want anyone else doing it.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Antique radios still play on

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

Dan Gutowski, a self-proclaimed nostalgia buff, hates to see antiques get destroyed or go to waste.

His Livonia home is a testament to that. A shelf behind his kitchen table is sprinkled with replicas of old-fashioned tins. Antique furniture proudly sits in his living room.

Upstairs, though, are his babies – antique radios.

To say he's an avid collector is almost an understatement. Fellow collector Mark Oppat of Plymouth recalled the first time that Gutowski attended the Michigan Antique Radio Club's "Extravaganza" swap meet.

"He had only been collecting for about four months. You should have seen him. He was walking around like a zombie. He was walking up and down the aisles going nuts. His eyes were spinning. He was in a trance," Oppat said with a laugh.

The upstairs of Gutowski's home is filled with refurbished antique radios in working condition. He dashes from one console radio to another turning them on and off to show that they're in working condition. Gutowski, a former member of the local rock band Psycho Cafe, even has a collection of old records to play on his radios.

While some collect radios according to brand name, Gutowski collects by style. His forte is collecting console radios although he's also partial to tombstone and cathedral radios.

Fixing radios: An avid antique radio collector, Mark Oppat of Plymouth also repairs radios like the Sears Silvertone, shown above, at his Old Village shop, Antique Audio.

"When you collect consoles, there tends to be a logistics problem. The reason I like console radios is the ones I collect were the more high-end sets that had a higher tube count. That meant they were more deluxe and they had more features. They were just a better radio versus the average radio that utilizes seven or eight tubes."

An avid collector, Oppat also sells and repairs antique radios through Antique Audio, a business he runs out of his home in Plymouth's Old Village.

Oppat began collecting at age 16.

"I was always interested in old stuff when I was a kid," said Oppat. "I had an old pedal car that had been my cousin's. I was very interested in old cars as a kid. When I got into high school I got into electronics. As soon as I got into electronics, I was interested in old radios."

Oppat bought seven or eight radios for $50 after answering an advertisement.

"That just started it right there. From that point on I was buying them everywhere."

A year later, he became the one of the youngest members of the Antique Wireless Association.

"I went to my first national conference when it was here at Greenfield Village in 1978. It was like all guys who were in their 60s and 70s."

In the last 20 years, Oppat has seen antique radio collecting trends come and go.

scholarship funds for students aided by the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College.

Registration begins at 8 a.m., shotgun start at 9:30 a.m. The cost is $65 and includes 18 holes of golf, hot dog lunch, and a buffet dinner. Golf-related prizes including clothing and a mirror by woodcrafter Jim Sylvester will be awarded. Deadline for reservations is Sept. 3. For more information or to reserve a space, call the Women's Resource Center at (313) 462-4443.

"It's a fun way to support the scholarship program at the Women's Resource Center. We tried to keep the price as low as possible because we want to encourage people to learn about us," said Swanborg, WRC's director.

The Tee Time Golf Classic began after a suggestion by Frank Hickey, a Cattails Golf Club employee. Morning showers failed to deter 128 hearty golfers last year and by the shotgun start at 1 p.m., the sun came out. According to Swanborg, the decision to change the starting time to 9:30 a.m. was made so that golfers will finish earlier.

"We're very excited about the positive response last year. We had a great turnout. In the interim, golfers have asked when are we doing it again. We loved it," said Swanborg, an avid golfer.

Last year, more than $6,000 was raised for WRC scholarships that benefit single parents, displaced homemakers, and widowed and divorced women.

Hole sponsors ($100) and donations of prizes are still needed for this year's event. Advertisers are also being sought. For $25, camera-ready business cards will be printed in the dinner program. The deadline for advertising is Aug. 26.

Founded in the late 1960s, WRC provides support for women and men interested in exploring and implementing educational, financial and personal plans. Two major fund-raisers held each year, a spaghetti dinner and the golf outing, helped 139 students in their pursuits of degrees in business, culinary arts, child care and development, biomedical engineering, and nursing as well as certification in word processing, to name a few.

"We help the people who can't get help anywhere else," said Swanborg. "While most 18-year-old kids have plenty of opportunities for scholarships, older people do not. Right now, we're helping a widow with four teenagers. She needs to use all of her resources to keep her family together."

Along with scholarships, the center offers a variety of community programs for people in transition. Grief seminars, divorce support groups, an annual Women's Health Conference, a fall and winter luncheon series, and an Older Women's League seminar on women and economics are among the activities sponsored by WRC.

"The hobby's exploded into a lot of different areas. Right now, the real hot thing is transistor pocket radios from, for instance, the early '60s and the late '50s. They first came out in Christmas of 1954."

In 1984, the hobby branched out into collecting 1930s Catalin radios, some of which are worth up to $25,000.

"The Catalin was a big innovation in style. They were really artsy. It was the beginning of style. Radio at that time started exploding into styles. No longer were you limited to a wood box with some knobs on it. You have something that was a creative piece of art in your home."

According to Oppat, radio collecting is an inexpensive hobby, aside from the Catalins. The MARC, of which Gutowski and Oppat are members, holds four annual swap meets where table radios go for as little as $30. The next scheduled swap meets are Oct. 6 in Grand Rapids, and one in Dearborn in early February. For more information, call Oppat at (313) 455-4169. Locally, Oppat and a handful of antique stores sell radios.

Like Oppat, Gutowski also repairs radios, which is how he was introduced to the hobby.

"When I was 10 or 12 years old, I got an interest in electronics from my brother having a shortwave radio when I was a kid."

A few years later, he found out that his brother had gotten rid of the radio so he bought a shortwave radio at a swap meet.

He set aside his hobby in high school to play music but an interest in cigar smoking brought him full circle.

"I wanted to pick up a cigar box to go in a curio cabinet. I went to an antique store to go and find a cigar box, I turned the corner and saw (an antique radio). It rejuvenated something that probably was always there. I saw that and I was just mesmerized by it. I'm a very nostalgic person, everyone said I should have been born in the '20s."

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES
(TRUTH IN TAXATION NOTICE)

Pursuant to the provisions of Act 5 of the Public Acts of 1982, State of Michigan, the township Board of the Charter Township of Canton will hod a public hearing on a proposed increase of .0217 mills in the operating tax millage rate permitted to be levied on December 1, 1996.

The hearing will be held on Tuesday, September 10, 1996 at 7:00 P.M. in the Township Board meeting room on the first floor at 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, Michigan 48188.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 1.99% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing. If the proposed additional millage is not approved, the operating revenue will increase by 9.35% over the preceding year's operating revenue.

Proposed millage rate December 1, 1994	1.1100 mills
Limit imposed by Act 5, P.A. 1982	1.0883 mills
Act 5, P.A. 1982 Increase	.0217 mills

The proposed millage rate is the same as the millage levied December 1, 1995.

The taxing unit publishing this notice, and identified below, has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

CHARTER TWP. OF CANTON
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON OBJECTIONS TO FIRE AND POLICE PROTECTION SPECIAL ASSESSMENT LEVY

Notice is hereby given that the Charter Township of Canton Board of Trustees will hold a Public Hearing pursuant to Public Acts 33 and 181 of 1951, as amended, for the purpose of hearing objections to defraying the expenses the Fire and Police Protection Districts by a Special Assessment levy to be spread on the tax rolls effective December 1, 1996.

DATE: Tuesday, September 10, 1996
TIME: 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M.
PLACE: Canton Township Administration Building
Board Meeting Room
1150 S. Canton Center Road

On May 18, 1976, a Fire Protection Special Assessment Levy was approved by the voters, and at the June 22, 1976 Public Hearing, the Board of Trustees for the Charter Township of Canton unanimously approved the creation of a Fire Protection Special Assessment District for the entire Township.

On August 27, 1977, a Police Protection Special Assessment Levy was approved by the voters, and at the September 13, 1977 Public Hearing, the Board of Trustees for the Charter Township of Canton approved the creation of a Police Protection Special Assessment District for the entire Township.

The 1997 estimated Fire and Police budgets submitted by the Public Safety Director and the Administration are as follows:

FIRE DEPARTMENT		POLICE DEPARTMENT
Salaries & O/T	$2,307,846	Salaries & O/T	$4,049,213
Fringe Benefits	952,400	Fringe Benefits	1,473,200
Capital Outlay	505,400	Capital Outlay	309,800
Operations	413,149	Operations	1,241,394
Bond Debt Service	189,453	Bond Debt Service	63,151
Total	$4,368,248	Total	$7,136,758

The proposed millage rates are as follows:

	1995	P.A.5 Limit	1996	Increase (Decrease) over 1995
Fire Millage	3.0915	N/A	3.0915	0.0000
Police Millage	5.1508	N/A	5.1508	0.0000
Charter Millage	1.1100	1.0883	1.1100	0.0000
Total	9.3523		9.3523	0.0000

The Charter Millage is more than what the Township could levy under P.A. 5, 1982 (Truth in Taxation). The property tax Charter rate proposed to be levied to support the proposed 1997 General Fund budget will be a subject of this hearing.

Writer has learned not everyone is trustworthy

GRAPHOLOGY PROFILES

LORENE GREEN

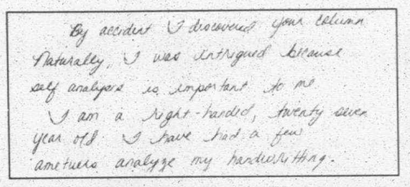

Dear Ms. Green,
By accident I discovered your column. Naturally I was intrigued because self analysis is important to me.

I am a right-handed, 27-year-old. I have had a few amateurs analyze my handwriting. This has led me to notice particular patterns in my handwriting.

The most concerning trait is that I tend to be inconsistent. Sometimes I will change from cursive to printing. Sometimes I use more than one way to write the same letter. This seems odd to me! I am a recent college graduate and I am seeking a new career. Any traits you can reveal would be helpful.

Thanks.

N.O.
– No city

The cerebral nature of today's writer cannot be missed. She is an objective and discerning thinker with a bias for unembellished facts. She quickly grabs fundamentals and eliminates the superfluous. She is able to simplify complicated information to render it more effective.

The many disconnections in this interesting handwriting reveal the quickness with which she can go from one thought to another by intuitive or associative processes.

The writer wants to make a place for herself in the sun. She has a strong need to shine.

She sets realistic and practical goals for herself. Confidence that she can accomplish them can also be seen. Her memory is like a steel trap. Assiduous attention is given to all details. She wants to be certain everything meets her own high standards.

Pervasive in this handwriting is a spirit of orderliness. Her organizational skills are an asset in planning the efficient use of her days. She lives by the old adage "A place for everything and everything in its place." In all areas she is clean and neat.

It appears that she was raised in a strict home atmosphere. Some difficulty with authority figures can be seen and probably started early in life.

She has learned, through past experiences, that not everyone can be trusted. There is an element of caution in her interpersonal relationships. She tends to be a private person who plays her cards close to her chest.

She needs space between herself and others. She is not a person who intrudes on another's privacy and appreciates the same consideration from them. She often chooses to circumvent emotional responses and intellectualize her feelings.

This young woman wants to be independent but also has a need for nurturing. This probably sounds paradoxical, but both needs exist within her and may cause ambivalent feelings at times.

She mentions being inconsistent. I tend to think she may be more versatile than inconsistent.

The seven-week program will be held in the church's A.V. room, rear church entrance No. 2. For more information, call (313) 432-9905 or (313) 464-1896.

FALL PICNIC
St. Martin Episcopal Church is hosting a "Meet Your Neighbor Fall Picnic" from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 14, at the church which is on the corner of Seven Mile Road and Grand River. The picnic includes entertainment, games and food.

INFORMATION CLASS
Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, Livonia, is hosting a 10-week Adult Information Class that will "help clarify God's word and beliefs of the Lutheran Church," 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the church, 14175 Farmington Road (just north I-96), Livonia. To register for this free class, or for more information, call Bob D'Ambrosio at (313) 522-6830.

WOMEN'S RETREAT
Newburg United Methodist Church is holding its second Women's Retreat Friday, Sept. 27-Saturday, Sept. 28, at the Quality Inn, at I-275 and Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth. "Seasons of the Spirit" is a spiritual enrichment retreat in which the church will use the seasons of the Christian year as a mirror to explore spiritual lives. The fee is $35. To register, call Judy Mayo at the church before Sept. 15, (313) 422-0149.

CARMAN IN CONCERT
Christian artist Carman will perform at The Palace of Auburn Hills at 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20. Tickets are $4 and available at all Ticketmaster outlets. Dubbed the "R.I.O.T. (Righteous Invasion of Truth) Tour," the show features state-of-the-art staging, lighting, sound and video. The modular stage has multiple levels, the tallest one reaching seven feet high allowing for dressing rooms and walkways underneath the stage for Carman's six dancers to make numerous costume changes. A four-camera live show will interact with video playback throughout the show and be projected onto 13x17 foot screens mounted above the stage. For more information about the show, call (810) 377-0100 or (810) 645-6666.

MOPS PROGRAM
Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church is sponsoring MOPS (Mothers of Preschoolers), beginning Sept. 22, and will meet the second and fourth Sundays from 2-4:15 p.m. at the church on Farmington and Schoolcraft. Fun, friendship and education are the focus of this program. Pre-school children (ages 6 and younger) are also welcomed. Registrations are being accepted through Sept. 8. For more information, call (313) 522-6830.

LIFE CHAIN
Registrations are now being accepted from churches that wish to participate in the seventh annual National Life Chain Sunday, 2-3 p.m. Oct. 6. The chain lines the sidewalks of Woodward Avenue from Seven Mile Road in Detroit to 12 Mile Road in Berkley. Last year, 7,500 people from more than 150 churches participated in the event. For registration information, call (313) 533-9090.

SPECIAL SUNDAY SCHOOL
In September, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will be creating a special education Sunday School class for teens. Any interested teens or volunteers should call Karen Rouhan at (313) 522-2095 or (313) 972-6081. St. Paul's is at 27475 Five Mile Road, Livonia.

LITURGY ON TAPE
The Divine Liturgy of St. John Chrysostom is available on videotape for a cost of $15, plus $3 postage, from Holy Transfiguration Orthodox Church, 36075 W. Seven Mile, Livonia 48152. The tapes make a great gift for a shut-in or those unable to attend the liturgy. The tapes also can be given to those people who are either seeking or expressing an interest in the Orthodox faith.

Champs ready to defend

The odds are against it, but Salem is set to defend its state Class A soccer championship. Canton hopes to make a championship run of its own if it can find some offense to go with its good defense.

Nice car Ed McCarthy's driving these days. Needs a new engine, though.

But McCarthy came to the right place for engines -- the Plymouth Salem soccer factory -- so he figures to at least have something in that car he's taking for a test drive this season.

McCarthy is taking over at Salem "for legendary coach Ken Johnson, who's retiring conveniently in Florida."

McCarthy prepped for the job by being the Rocks' junior varsity coach for the last five years.

Salem can't be expected to duplicate Johnson's last team, which sent him out into the cold cruel world of Florida winters with a 22-3 record capped by a state Class A championship.

But the Plymouth area's junior programs keep a steady stream of talent flowing to the area's two Class A powers for yearly replenishment.

"We definitely got hammered by graduation," McCarthy said of his inaugural Salem soccer team. "We've only three starters off that state championship team.

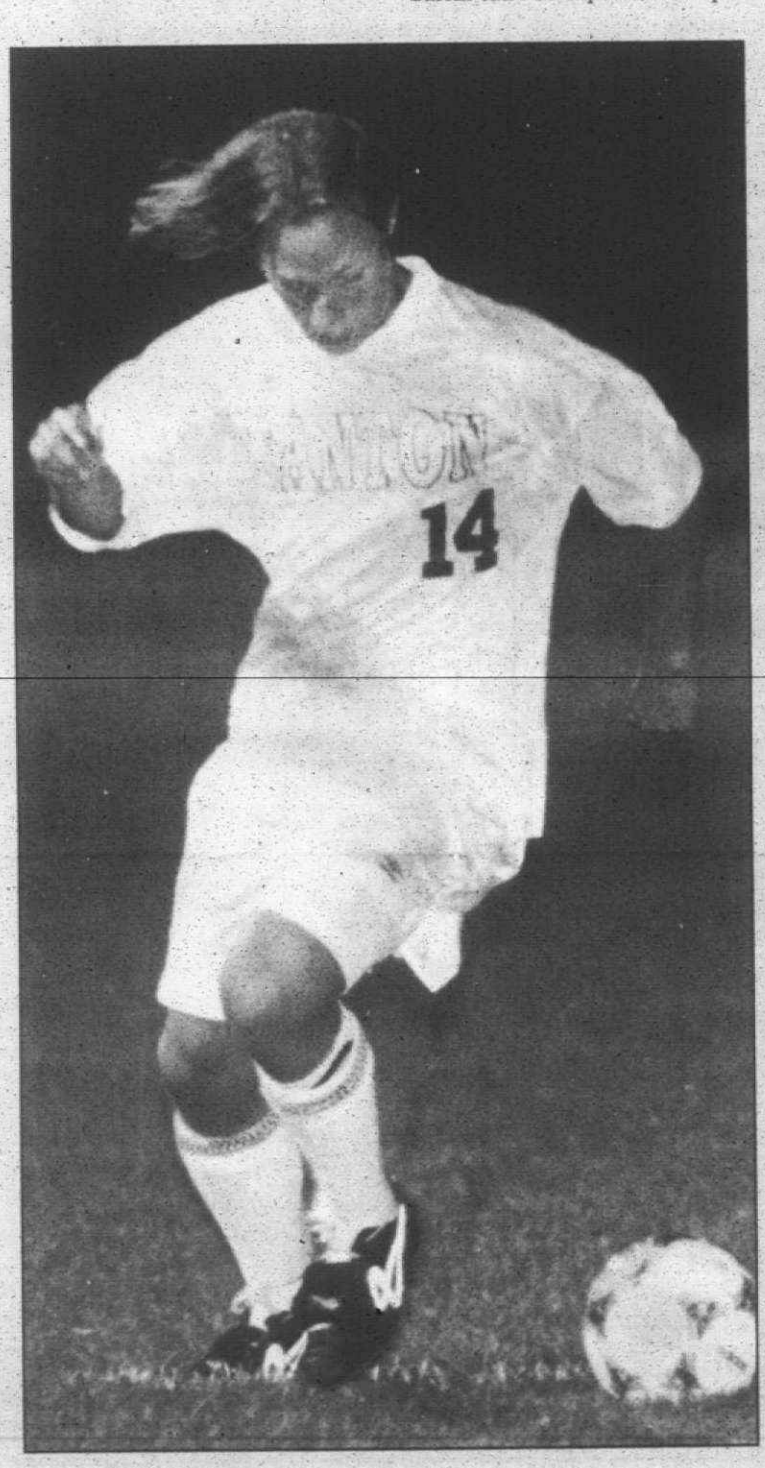

"I'm optimistic about our year. But it's important that we get things settled defensively in order for us to be successful."

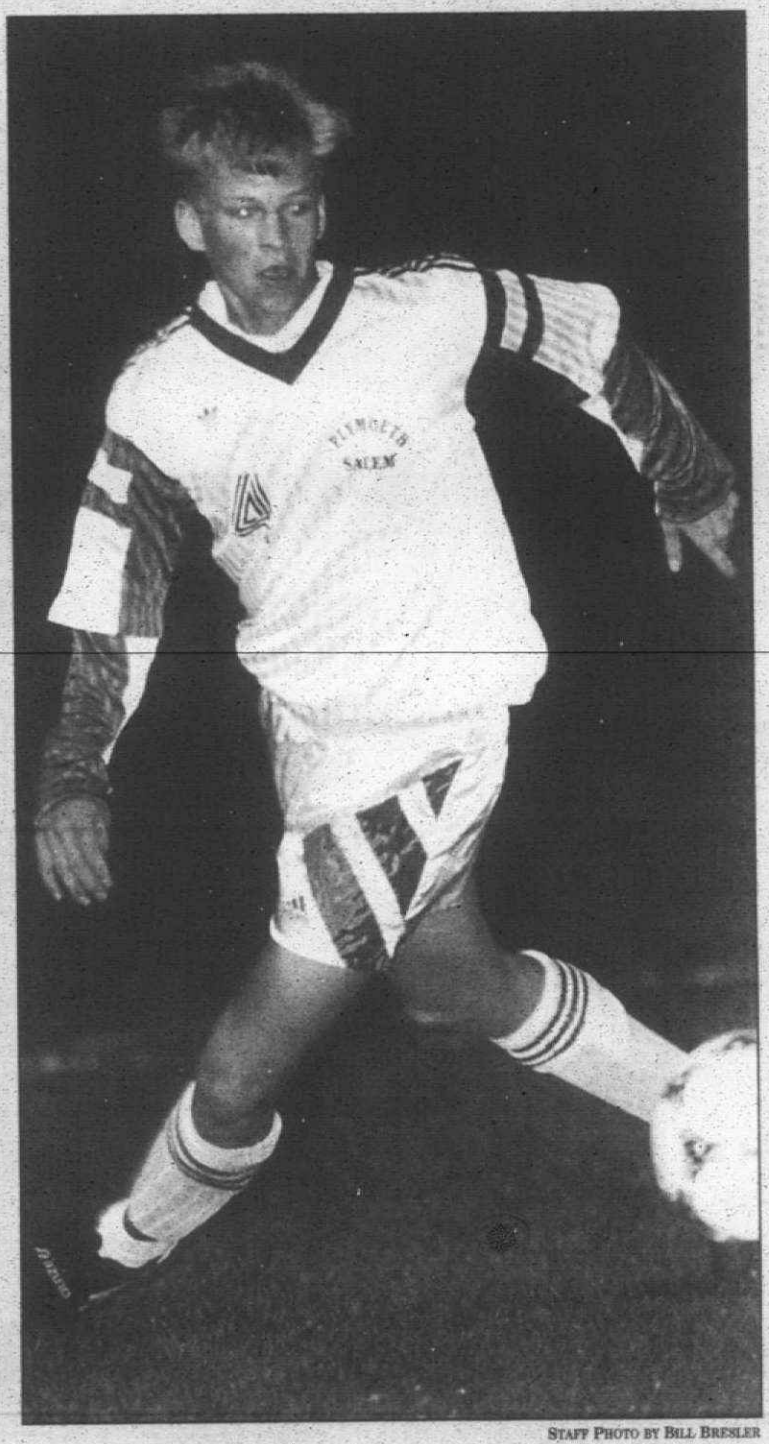

Salem must replace some pretty strong talent. Drew Drummond, a midfielder with 22 goals, is now playing at Eastern Michigan.

Forward Ronny Mashni took his 13 goals to Oakland University while Andy Makins is now playing for Madonna University. Other key losses included Chris Jaskolski and Matt Hucal.

But while those players were excellent, the returnees got the Kevin and Matt: Key players for Plymouth Canton and Salem soccer teams this fall are Kevin Gniewek and Matt Sarkesian, respectively. Coach Don Smith is looking to returning forward Gniewek to help his Chiefs generate some offense. Coach Ed McCarthy feels Sarkesian, one of three returning starters from last year's state champions, will be one of the keys for Salem to hold its own until the new regulars can give the squad its own identity.

Chiefs' defenders ready

To score or be unable to score, that is the question for Plymouth Canton's soccer team this fall.

"We've got 11 players coming back from last year, Chiefs' coach Don Smith said. "I expect to be pretty strong defensively.

"We'll be pretty sound defensively. It should be difficult to score on us. We'll be hard to beat.

"Whether we can beat other people, I don't know. But we'll be hard to beat."

He snickered. "We'll probably end up with a lot of ties."

Smith returns defensive midfielder Jason Bennett and Matt Ammons at stopper and has Dan Steinert, a transfer from Redford Catholic Central, starting at a sweeper spot.

The marking backs for the Chiefs are Sean Malone and Mike Bennett, brother of Jason.

"We're expecting good sound defense out of that group right there," said Smith, who noted Canton has a deep bench on its squad of 23 players plus three goalies.

Chief among the Chief defensive alternates will be Jared Page, Jeffrey Parent and Mike Elsner . The basketball playing Elsner will also see action at attacking midfielder.

Canton returns two starters at outside half, Tom O'Rourke on the right side and Jim Parent on the left. Jim and Jeffrey Parent are brothers.

Bench help will come from sophomores Steve Epley, Johnny Demergis and Justin Fishaw, with Mike Riemma also helping out at midfield.

Nick Wright and Ryan Dyer will open at attacking midfield with Trevor Anulewicz playing at inside defensive midfield.

Smith lost all his forwards from last year -- the reason for his concern over Canton's scoring ability -- so he's shifted a couple of midfield-

Senior Softball Series

The Canton Softball Center will host the National Association for Senior Citizen Softball World Series Sept. 13-22.

A total of 120 teams will compete in the tournament, use some 12,000 area hotel room nights and put more than $3.8 million into the area economy.

"The unique thing about our tournament," NASCA president Ken Maas said, "is that we encompass all of our six age brackets and women's division finals into one event.

Finals for the men's and women's 65+, 70+ and 75+ age groups will take place Sept. 17. Finals for the 50+, 55+ and 60+ age groups are set for Sept. 22.

"We've got a lot of former major and minor league players," Maas said, "including former major league stars like Bert Campaneris and Al Moran. The level of competition is no joke because these guys know how to play."

Fun run

Flat Rock Riverfest '96 will host a 4-mile fun run plus a mile run/walk Saturday, Sept. 7. The latter begins at 5 p.m. with the former starting 30 minutes later.

Entry fee is $12 before Aug. 31 and $15 on race day. It includes T-shirt, raffle, award, post-race food and refreshments.

Proceeds benefit S.T.O.P., a substance abuse prevention children's program in the Flat Rock community.

Applications are available at the Flat Rock Recreation Dept., 25500 Gibraltar Rd., Flat Rock, 48134, or by calling (313) 782-3488 or (313) 379-5727.

Whalers away

The Detroit Whalers of the Ontario Hockey League start training camp Aug. 28 at the Wallace Ice Arena on the campus of Cranbrook Academy in Bloomfield Hills.

The Ontario Hockey League team will practice three days, then play an exhibition game Sept. 1 at 2 p.m. against the Spitfires in Windsor, Ont.

Training camp sessions begin at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. each day with scrimmages following each practice at 10:15 a.m. and 3:15 p.m. Training camp is open to the public at no charge.

Since the Whalers' arena is still under construction, all six exhibition games will be played in Ontario.

The Whalers play their other five games Sept. 4 at Windsor (7 p.m.); Sept. 7 at Sarnia (7:30 p.m.); Sept 13 at London (7:30 p.m.); Sept. 14 at Sarnia (7:30 p.m.) and Sept. 15 at London (1 p.m.).

Jazzy Horse Race

Ladbroke Detroit Race Course offers a combination of jazz and horse racing when trumpeter Rayse Biggs and jazz combo Beyond Blue perform at the races Sunday, Aug. 25.

Biggs, a native Detroiter in town for the Ford Montreaux Detroit Jazz Festival which DRC is helping sponsor, will perform the Call to Post 10 minutes before each live race from 6-8 p.m.

Beyond Blue, named the best jazz band in the Virginian National Band Competition, consists of Southfield Lathrup High School students. It will play from 6-9 p.m.

For more information, call the track at (313) 525-7300.

Beaton beats 'em

Livonian Patricia Murray carded a low gross 77 to win the first flight at the Women's Suburban Golf Association stop Aug. 16 at Giant Oaks Golf Club.

Judy Figa of West Bloomfield took first flight low net honors with a 70.

In the second flight, Sue Beaton of Canton won low gross with an 89, while June Wright of Livonia was low net with a 64.

Goalies wanted

The Plymouth Rockets (ages 20-39) and Silver Sticks (over 40) hockey leagues are accepting team and individual registrations (goalies wanted) for their Sunday night leagues at the new Compuware Arena in Plymouth Township.

Goalies are also wanted for the Over-40 Saturday morning hockey league at Inkster Arena.

For more information, call John Wilson at (810) 471-0658.

Youth soccer champs

The Michigan Hawks, an under-11 girls soccer team, outscored their opponents 13-1 with three straight victories to finish first recently in the Waterford Cup 1996.

Members of coach John Buchanan's division championship team include: Colene Brockman, Nicole Cauzillo, Erin Closser, Melissa Dobbyn, Katie Hendrickson, Nikki Hermann, Jill Kehler, Tegan Lanning, Kelly McMann, Jenny Murray, Sophia Naum, Michelle Phillips, Jamie Poole, Marissa Sarkesian, Jennifer Szymanski and Laine Williams.

Rocks, Chiefs add assistant coaches to soccer teams

Plymouth Canton and Salem both stayed in the family to get assistant coaches for their respective soccer programs.

Salem hired Don Sarkesian, a steeped-in-soccer man with both a son and a daughter starring for Rocks' varsity teams.

Coach Don Smith's new assistant/junior varsity coach at Canton is Pat Arella, who played at Canton on the Chiefs' first soccer team.

Sarkesian "contacted me, applied through school," Salem coach Ed McCarthy said. "He has an excellent reputation.

"Based on all the applicants that we had, he was clearly the most qualified."

Sarkesian, who works as an international representative for the United Auto Workers, has worked extensively with the Vardar program and has a Michigan D license to coach.

Daughter Mia is a star for the Salem girls team who will be a junior this year. Senior son Matt will be one of the players McCarthy relies upon during his rookie season.

Sarkesian will coach the Salem junior varsity, which includes freshmen, and help McCarthy during varsity games.

Smith will be assisting JV coach Arella at his games while Arella will do likewise at the big guys' contests. Freshmen play on Canton's JV team.

Arella graduated in 1985 and is now working for Coca-Cola while working on his degree in education. Arella will be doing his student teaching this fall.

"He's been coaching club teams in the area for a number of years,"

SPORTS ROUNDUP

TWISTERS FALL 14-9

The Motor City Cougars scored a pair of touchdowns in the first seven minutes of action to hold off the Wayne County Twisters, 14-9, in Lakeshore League semi-professional football league action Saturday at old Inkster Cherry Hill High School.

The Cougars capitalized on a Wayne County fumble at the Twister 6-yard line for their first TD. The Cougars drove 47 yards on their next drive to make it 14-0.

Penalties, 21 for a total of 195 yards, killed the Twisters' offensive attack. Six plays, totalling 174 yards, were called back.

"We let frustration set in and distract our concentration," Twisters coach Kevin Bradford said. "This frustration was primarily in the form of the officials.

"We have had the same set of officials for our first four home games. Next week we play in Toledo (Ohio), after that game we will have a better feel for whether or not we are truly deserving of the penalties we have suffered so far this season."

Pat Bowie (Wayne) led the Twisters rushing attack with 45 yards in 12 carries and one touchdown. Jeff Platt (Redford added 34 yards in seven attempts.

Scott Harris (Dearborn), pressed into duty when starting quarterback Kris Collins (Woodhaven) was not available for duty, hit four of 19 passes for 31 yards.

"I commend Scott for his willingness to take on the pressure of quarterback," Bradford said. "Scott did the best he could in an emergency. As a team, we need to learn that when someone goes down and is replaced, the rest of the unit needs to set up."

Defensively, the Twisters, led by John Platt (Brighton), Chris Wall (Detroit) and Chuck Lauber (Westland), gave up only 17 yards after the first quarter.

Lauber had one of three pick-offs, including a 42-yard return to set up the lone Twister TD. The other two points were tallied on a safety in the final quarter.

The Twisters return to action against the host Toledo Tornadoes, 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Northwood High School.

TOMMY TITAN 5K

The University of Detroit Mercy will host its seventh annual Tommy Titan five-kilometer cross country race, beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 7 at Cass Benton Park in Northville.

The race is open to all entrants at a cost of $5.

Winners in each age group will receive two UDM men's basketball tickets. Participants can register in advance or at the race.

Following the open race, there will be men's and women's intercollegiate races featuring UDM, Eastern Michigan, Wayne State and St. Francis (Pa.).

For more information, call (313) 993-1724.

FATHER/SON GOLF

Fox Creek Golf Course in Livonia will stage its annual Father and Son Tournament Sunday Aug. 25.

The cost of $75 per team includes 18 holes, lunch, trophies, grab bags, closest to the pin, longest drive and hit the boat.

The format is alternate shot. Age divisions (fathers, uncles, grandfathers eligible) will be 10-14, 14-17, 18-and-over.

Registration forms are available at Fox Creek, 3600 Seven Mile Road Livonia.

For more information, call (810) 471-3400.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY

Teams are invited to play in the 21st annual Labor Day Softball Tournament, Aug. 31-Sept. 2 at Champaign Park in Allen Park.

The entry fee is $65 per team and $12 per game for umpires. Team and individual awards will be given.

For more information, call Rich Sparks at (313) 675-3219.

Senior Olympian medalist doesn't let age slow her down

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

Joan Fitzpatrick of Farmington plays the game to win, but what she really enjoys is just playing the game.

The game of choice is usually softball, a sport the 66-year-old senior citizen has played since she was 13.

"During the summertime, I want to be outside, doing something," she said. "You meet such nice people in sports."

Fitzpatrick plays two days a week in the over-30 league at Our Lady of Sorrows and a seniors coed league in Waterford.

On top of that, she also plays volleyball three mornings a week if it doesn't interfere with softball, and she has managed to work tennis into her schedule more frequently.

"You should see my calendar," Fitzpatrick said. "It's just starting to slow down; it's kinda nice not to have to be somewhere all the time."

Fitzpatrick earned two gold medals in the Michigan Senior Olympics last month while playing for the women's 65-and-over softball and volleyball teams.

The competition was not too plentiful, admits Fitzpatrick, who would like to see greater participation for exactly that reason.

"We still manage to get a few girls together, so we can get qualified (for the U.S. National Seniors Sports Classic next May)," she said. "We pull them in from all over -- Grand Rapids, Flint. They're in the same situation as we are; they can get enough women to play."

"If could get one team, one woman, to come out, it would be worth it. "We need more women to get out and play these games; I don't know where they're hiding. It's good exercise and good, clean fun."

Fitzpatrick's forte is pitching, but she has played nearly every position but shortstop. She was a catcher/outfielder when she played fast-pitch as a younger player.

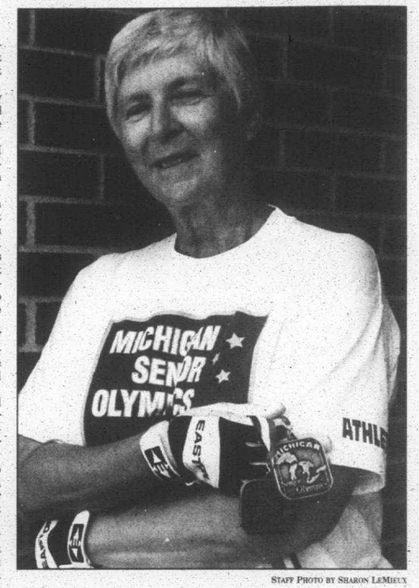

"I love pitching," she said. "I just try to get it over the plate, throw strikes. When I throw it high, they pop it up

"It's fun to strike somebody out who's a good hitter. When you slip it over as a strike and they either swing and miss or let it go by, it's fun when you do. That's how I get my kicks."

If playing in back-to-back games, Fitzpatrick has to adjust to pitching from a distance of 46 feet in the over-30 league as opposed to 50 in the senior game.

The reason for the difference?

"So the line drives don't hurt as much," she said, recalling a game when she had the misfortune of getting in the way of one.

STAFF PHOTO BY SHARON LEMIEUX

Fitzpatrick's late husband, John, once volunteered her to pitch for a slow-pitch coed team comprised of players in their early 20s.

"They said they needed a pitcher, and he said 'Oh, my wife pitches.' I could have been their grandmother," Fitzpatrick said.

She suffered a bad bruise from her hip down the side of her leg after being hit by a line drive line in a coed game six years ago.

"I did it for one year," she said. "Then I said, 'Thanks, but no thanks.'"

Fitzpatrick considers herself a decent hitter in softball but not a standout with the bat.

"In the over-30 league, I have to hit a home run to get first base, because I'm so slow," she said. "But, yeah, I can keep up. I can hit the ball as well as most of them."

It was her teammates on the women's senior circuit who convinced Fitzpatrick to try volleyball two years ago. They play pick-up games three times a week at the Salvation Army gym in Plymouth.

"I have to be the worst volleyball player there is," she said. "I don't quite understand it. As long as we get the ball over the net, that's what I care about. I'm still trying to learn it.

"It's not as cutthroat as when you're playing an organized sport. I do like to win, but I don't go home and cry when we don't. I never go out with the thought of losing. I go to bat with the intent of getting to first base."

Fitzpatrick got her start in softball as a young teen when her family moved from a Utica farm to Detroit's East Side and she played CYO fast-pitch for Holy Name.

She continued playing in adult women's leagues and later, after moving to Farmington, responded to a notice in the Sorrows church paper regarding the start of the over-30 league.

While raising four children and working as a Farmington Public Schools bus driver, Fitzpatrick found time to play in the evenings.

"It was always at night, so the work and meals were done," she said. "That was my free time if you want to look at it that way."

THE RACE IS ON!

MILAN DRAGWAY
Milan Dragway By DON NICHOLSON

The Night of Fire comes to town with a loud bang and a big splash to usher the fourth of July back a quarter. With Jet Funny Car action supplied by the, two car teams of Roger Gloden and Al Hanna along with the "Jazz" racing team and Prospeed all being car to be announced later. These cars are capable of doing the quarter mile in five 5 sec runs as well as over 200 mph. The starting line for show is as exciting as the race itself. These cars are powered by jet engines that are producing over 6,000 horsepower at over 6,000 lbs of thrust. These cars have the starting line, the starting line crew must lean forward in order to stay standing up. It takes approx. 25 gallons of fuel to do the five show and make the quarter run.

Another fire show entertainers are Ray and Rita Wilkowski who their world's fastest wheelstanding Chevy S-10 pick up, and can set several runs on the track two wheels. They steer the truck with the rear brake handle. Ray steers the truck from the rear tire well of the truck and Rita steers from the front bumper. The engine is mounted behind the drivers, connected to weight transfer and to give Ray a clear view of the track. Ray and Rita are a Police Officer team, Ray being with both young and old with Rita, as she is with Ray.

Another fire show, Shaggi finished the evening off with a couple more runs the finish line in a ball of fire when he does a burnout. Shaggi is the only driver that does a burnout and then another one after he has crossed the finish line. Shaggi has been doing this for over 15 years and never missed a show. Shaggi is also the only driver that has been in a ball of fire when he does a burnout

CAPSULE SUMMARIES OF LIVONIA-WESTLAND GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAMS

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

Head coach: Dave Balog, fourth season.
League affiliation: Western Lakes (Western Division).
Season opener: 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 at home vs. Southfield-Lathrup.
Last year's overall record: 1-20.
Notable losses to graduation: Alicia December, Kathy Stein.
Leading returnees: Jessie Jenkins, 5-foot-10 senior forward (leading scorer); Dawn Pertula, 5-1 senior point guard; Renee Sheehan, 5-7 senior guard; Amanda Estes, 5-10 senior forward-center.
Promising newcomers: Kersten Conklin, 5-6 sophomore guard; Andrea Galindo, 5-8 junior guard-forward; Terri Owens, 5-7 junior forward; Lauren Rupprecht, 6-0 sophomore center; Luba Steca, 5-6 sophomore guard; Stacey Supanich, 5-9 sophomore forward; Kerry LaPorte, 5-10 sophomore forward.
Balog's season outlook: "We're very quick and aggressive. It's the most team speed since I've been here. We'll press and try to push the ball up the floor. They all have a good attitude and want to play.

"This year we can bring people off the bench and not lose a lot. But we have a lot of sophomores and juniors without varsity experience. As they go, we'll go.

"The kids have worked hard, both in the summer league and at camps. It's been fun and I'm anxious to see what they can do.

"With Renee (Sheehan), Supanich and Conklin, we have a few more people that can score other than Jessie, which is nice.

"We have more competition. We have some promising freshman playing JV that will be more than happy to step in."

LIVONIA FRANKLIN

Head coach: Gary Warner, second season.
League affiliation: Western Lakes (Western Division).
Season opener: 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 vs. Redford Thurston at Redford Union Tournament.
Last year's overall record: 9-12.
Notable losses to graduation: Tracy Rynkiewicz (first-team All-Observer who averaged 22 points per game); Kellie Main (leading rebounder), Aimee Parenti.
Leading returnees: Randi Wolfe, 5-6 senior forward; Julie Warner, 5-4 junior guard; Lori Rynkiewicz, 5-5 junior guard; Julie Cencer, 5-6 junior guard; Regina Ebbitt, 5-7 senior forward; Kelly Huetteman, 5-10 senior center.
Promising newcomers: Shannon Kusiak, 5-9 senior forward; Angie McMillan, 5-10 junior center; Lori Jendrusik, 5-6 junior forward; Aisha Phillips, 5-4 sophomore guard (transfer).
Warner's season outlook: "We'll go with an aggressive game. We'll use our speed in the transition game. Defensively, we'll pressure the ball because of our size and quickness. We'll try and give teams a hard time.

"Our backcourt is our strongest part with Warner, Wolfe and Rynkiewicz. All three can fill in any role. They can all handle the ball. We can sub and not worry so others can slide in.

"We've been working on our rebounding technique.

"We have to go back to the basics. That's the key to every game."

LIVONIA STEVENSON

Head coach: Wayne Henry, fifth season (second stint).
League affiliation: Western Lakes (Lakes Division).
Season opener: 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 at home vs. Dearborn Fordson.
Last year's overall record: 9-12.
Notable losses to graduation: Stacey Nichols, Katie Downarowicz, Jenny Dulz, Marie Wilson.
Leading returnees: Carolyn Courtright, 5-8 junior point-guard; Gina Palmeri, 6-0 senior center; Jackie McClowry, 6-0 senior center-forward; Lindsay Wilhelm, 5-10 senior guard; Melissa Backus, 5-6 junior guard.
Promising newcomers: Teri Fox, 5-4 junior point-guard; Stephanie Davis, 5-10 sophomore forward; Erica Simon, 5-6 sophomore guard; Colleen Brenneman, 5-5 junior guard; Becky Smith, 5-7 sophomore forward; Jenny Boyer, 5-10 junior center; Anne Bodnar, 5-7 sophomore guard.
Henry's season outlook: "I look somewhere to be in the .500 range, that's our first goal. But if we get off to a good start, then I'll reassess our goals.

"I think this will be a harder working defensive group.

"Our scoring will be balanced. We have to be patient with the ball until the defense makes a mistake.

"Courtright has looked good with the ball in her hands, and she makes some nice moves to the basket. She's been in a support role, but now she's a leader and the others have to be starters.

"I've seen big improvement in our post people (Palmeri and McClowry). They're both confident they can score inside.

"They've all improved over the summer, but now we have to see during the season who steps it up the most."

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN

Head coach: Andy Denison, second season.
League affiliation: Western Lakes (Lakes Division).
Season opener: 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 vs. South Lyon in South Lyon Tournament.
Last year's overall record: 4-15.
Notable losses to graduation: Rochelle Harris, Katy Duncan, Jami Grigal, Nykiya Lee, Anja Protz.
Leading returnees: Kathie Suda, 5-8 senior guard; Angie Gorecki, 5-8 senior guard-forward; Nicole Graca, 5-6 senior forward.
Promising newcomers: Samantha Crews, 5-10 freshman forward-center; Adrian Ellis, 5-9 sophomore center (transfer from Eagle River, Wis.); Bridget Hensley, 5-4 sophomore point guard; Brandi Maddox, 5-6 junior point-guard; Michelle Sanders, 5-7 junior forward.
Denison's season outlook: "Crews is exceptional, the best all-around talent we've had in four years. She can shoot, pass and run the floor. And she's a nice person, just a good attitude with a good work ethic. She's played on some very competitive AAU teams.

"I'm going to be patient with them. I'm not going to pressure them. I'm just going to let them experience the toughness of the league because right now they don't know how to push themselves.

"We're not going to full-court press a whole lot. But we'll use a transition offense. We're going to push the ball up the floor, but we're going to be more of a ball control team than we've had in the past. We'll try to keep the score down.

"Defensively we'll help out in a man-to-man, and throw some zone in."

WAYNE MEMORIAL

Head coach: Chuck Henry, sixth season.
League affiliation: Mega (Red Division).
Season opener: 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 5 at Romulus.
Last year's overall record: 16-7.
Notable losses to graduation: Sandy Jackson, Dawn Sekovich.
Leading returnees: Yolanda Holt, 5-11 senior guard forward (first-team All-Observer pick averaged 18 points, 8 rebounds per game); Rica Barge, 5-7 senior guard (third-team All-Observer pick averaged 14 points per game); Tonya Crawford, 5-10 sophomore guard-forward; Natalie Garrison, 5-11 junior center; Michelle Henn, 5-10 senior forward; Latasha Clark, 5-5 senior guard.
Promising newcomers: Wendy Sentz, 5-10 senior center-forward; Bethany Molitor, 6-0 sophomore center; Jessica Timmer, 5-5 sophomore guard; Laneetra Austin, 5-7 sophomore guard.
Henry's season outlook: "We can go with Yolanda and Rica, but they're really not true point guard. We're experimenting a little bit.

"This is a nice group of kids, very positive, all honor students. It's going to be a fun year no matter what happens. They're very coachable.

"Dearborn Fordson has everybody back and they won the division, but I think we can be a contender. It depends on how the young kids come around."

LIVONIA LADYWOOD

Head coach: Andrea McAllister-Gorski, first season.
League affiliation: Catholic (Central Division).
Season opener: 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29 vs. Detroit Renaissance at Detroit Cass Tech.
Last year's overall record: 5-14.
Notable losses to graduation: Erin LeSage (third-team All-Observer), Kathy Dankert, Katie Law.
Leading returnees: Stephanie Mussat, 5-9 senior guard; Colleen Root, 6-0 senior center; Kara McDonald, 5-9 senior guard-forward; Mary Dankert, 5-10 senior forward; Melissa Poma, 6-0 senior forward; Sarah Poglits, 6-2 junior center.
Promising newcomers: Erin Hayden, 5-6 sophomore point-guard; Kelly O'Reilly, 5-5 junior point-guard; Jenna Bak, 6-3 senior center; Jenny LaChapelle, 5-9 junior guard-forward; Sheryl Wrobleski, 5-7 junior forward-guard; Mary Lu Hemme, 5-10 junior forward; Kelly Jeffery, 5-7 junior guard.
McAllister-Gorski's season outlook: "We'll have an up-tempo, fast-break attack. We'll look to get a quick score off the secondary break. We've worked on it and we've improved. We're looking to push the ball.

"I think we have enough quickness to match up with teams in our division and play man-to-man defense. Physically I think we can stay up with those teams. We're going to be hard-nosed and aggressive and I think we've responded but I don't think we'll be able to full-court press the whole game.

"The key is that we have to be one of the better defensive (in the division) and hopefully somebody has to step-up and shoot the ball.

"To win we have to be intense and do the little things like boxing out and getting every loose ball. We also have to take care of the ball, and we'll be OK."

LIVONIA CLARENCEVILLE

Head coach: Bob Wolf, fifth season.
League affiliation: Metro Conference.
Season opener: 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29 at home vs. Detroit Urban.
Last year's overall record: 1-19.
Notable losses to graduation: Nora Kohlruss, Melissa Respondek, Melissa Cairns, Melissa Berry (attending school in Sweden on foreign exchange program).
Leading returnees: Nicole Riedl, 5-9 senior guard; Danielle Siedz, 5-6 sophomore guard; Joanna Skreia, 5-6 junior guard-forward.
Promising newcomers: Rachel Sundberg, 5-4 freshman guard; Tanya Sines, 5-7 freshman forward; Rachel Koernke, 5-4 freshman guard; Michelle Berry, 6-1 junior center.
Wolf's season outlook: "I think we have better ball-handlers than last year, but we'll be hurting under the boards with the loss of Melissa (Berry). We also have better shooters, and it will depend if we're hot.

"We're certainly optimistic we'll do better than last year.

"I knew I was going to miss Melissa (Berry) in the program, and I'm happy for her, but we're really going to miss her. We'll have to wait and see who shows up to play once school starts, and reevaluate if we're going to have a team.

"But right now the season is on."

LUTHERAN HIGH WESTLAND

Head coach: Ron Gentz, fifth season.
League affiliation: Metro Conference.
Season opener: 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 vs. Detroit Benedictine at Royal Oak Shrine Tournament.
Last year's overall record: 19-4.
Notable losses to graduation: Katie Ollinger, Heather Locke, Jill Kopper (transferred).
Leading returnees: Jenny Twietmeyer, 5-6 senior guard (All-Metro and Class C honorable mention All-State); Janell Twietmeyer, 5-10 sophomore forward-center (top rebounder); Jenny Blaine, 5-8 senior forward; Joy Tiernan, 5-8 senior forward (second leading scorer and rebounder); Jackie Kemp, 5-6 senior forward; Stephanie Davis, 5-7 senior guard; Kristy Guilfoyle, 5-5 senior guard.
Promising newcomers: Anna Schwecke, 5-10 sophomore forward; Jenny Schulz, 5-6 sophomore guard; Kierra Decker, 5-6 junior guard; Cheryl Polkinghorne, 5-7 junior guard; Sarah Hoffmeier, 5-5 junior guard.
Gentz's season outlook: "Having four of five starters back is a plus. We have experience with seven returning who have played. They were good role players.

"If we have a weakness, it's that we haven't replaced our point-guard (Ollinger). She gave us quickness, speed and enthusiasm. I foresee us going with two guards instead of three, but by mid-season we could go with three guards. Davis is the key. She has to step up.

"Depth is a plus, but maybe not the team speed. We're still slow afoot."

HURON VALLEY LUTHERAN

Head coach: Tod Bartholomew, third season.
League affiliation: Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (Red Division).
Season opener: 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29 at Michigan School of the Deaf (Flint).
Last year's overall record: 15-7.
Notable losses to graduation: Michelle Ruth, Nikki Kightlinger.
Leading returnees: Sara Tacia, 5-10 junior center; Amy Mohacsi, 5-8 senior guard; Lori Corliger, 5-7 senior point-guard; Melissa Gumbis, 5-9 senior forward; Angela Pellignino, 5-7 senior guard; Liz Ash, 5-9 senior forward; Meagan Johnson, 5-8 senior center.
Promising newcomers: Heather LaPrairie, 5-3 junior guard.
Bartholomew's season outlook: "I'm excited. We have some high expectations. Our main goals are to win our division, district and compete at the regional level.

"We're going to play seven girls in the rotation who have a lot of experience. With the first five we have a lot of talent there. Now we need to regain the chemistry we had at the end of last year.

"Last year we walked the ball up and didn't extend the court because we didn't have a lot of team speed or ball-handling. To our benefit we'll try to push the ball and extend the defense. But we'll also play half-court. We have the ability to do that."

Cager dribbles to Mile title

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

College basketball coaches might consider recruiting Dave Thurston.

All Thurston did was dribble a basketball for a 5,280 feet in 5:32 in the inaugural MainStreet Mitral Mile held Aug. 11 in Ann Arbor.

On Thurston's heels in the basketball dribble was Jim Zander (5:33) and Wally Poupore (6:09).

The event, staged by well-known, highly-ranked runners Ann Boyd and Karen McKeachie, drew a field of 280. Runners competed in an age-graded and gender-graded mile, starting near the University of Michigan Stadium. Separate heats were held for 13 age groups, and all went off on time.

Overall winners in the prize-money race were Chris Lett of East Lansing for the men in 4:05, and Jasmin Kelly of Knoxville, Tenn. in 4:36.

Billed as a "Post-Olympic Party Dash," the event drew several Olympians; basketball players from U-M and MSU; and a big number of youngsters. That was the whole idea, said Boyd and McKeachie.

"We wanted to introduce kids to elite runners and to the sport of roadracing," said Boyd. "Half our field was 14-and-under. We had a 3-year-old who ran a 10-minute mile, and a 91-year-old who finished in 17:30.

While Olympians including UM runner Kevin Sullivan of Canada and track's Keith Smith from the Virgin Islands participated and signed autographs, "It wasn't a race geared toward elite runners," said McKeachie. "The idea was to try to keep the everyday runner from being intimidated about running a mile. We wanted to make it a big, festive event, and it was."

Second in the Male Marquee Mile was Michael Michno of Ohio in 4:06. Third was Guy Murray, University of Detroit-Mercy cross country coach, in 4:08 followed by Kalamazoo's Brad Kirk in 4:09 and Ian Forsyth of Ann Arbor in 4:11.

Runner up in the Female Marquee was Karen Harvey of Ontario in 4:51, followed by Jenny Goodpaster of Holland, Mich. in 4:55; Laurel Park of Ann Arbor in 4:55; Serena Fraser of Ann Arbor in 5:03; Mireille Smith of Warren in 5:08, and Martha Piper of Jackson in 5:09. All won prize money.

In the age-gender handicap race, 51-year-old Wally Herrala was the champ in 4:07. Runner up was Kenneth Rowe, 49, in 4:19, followed by Andrew Godward, 20, in third in 4:29.

Sue Parks, 40, was fourth in 4:35, followed by Patrick Benedict, 30, in 4:37; Doug Andrews, 23, in 4:42; Harlan VanBlaricum, 56, in 4:42; James Bryant, 20, in 4:43; Manny Sanchez, 38, in 4:43, and Robbie Linkner, 19, in 4:43.

Bass anglers impressive at tournament

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Rochester's Dave Fairchild and Canton's Mary Ashteneau have each experienced recent success in bass fishing tournaments.

Fairchild teamed up with Lapeer resident Bill Higgins to win the Tri-State Bass Anglers tournament last month on Lake St. Clair. The duo returned to the dock with a limit of seven smallmouth bass which tipped the scale at 24.53 pounds. Dave Funk and Randy Roepke placed second with seven fish which totaled 23.73 pounds.

There were 150 boats in the tournament and the dominant smallmouth patterns were grubs, jigs, and spinnerbaits. The big bass award went to Greg Manus and Terry Smith for a 5.71-pound smallmouth.

Ashteneau placed 16th in the opening round of the National Bass'n Gals final qualifying event of the 1996 season last week on the Coosa River's Lake Neely Henry in Rainbow City, Alabama. Ashteneau had a total weight of 7.41 pounds. There were 158 women representing 26 states entered in the event.

More bass fishing

Tim Weber of Lake Orion and Jessie Nutt of Rochester Hills combined efforts to place second last month in the Oakland Bass Masters' Pontiac Lake Open. The duo teamed up to catch 22.97-pounds of bass and won $614.25 and a $20 gift certificate to Big Boy Restaurants. Jerry Doucette and Eric Dysarczyk of Waterford won the tournament with a 32.43-pound stringer. They split $1,082.25 and a $20 gift certificate to Big Boy Restaurants.

Mike McQueen of Auburn Hills and Bob Pollock of White Lake placed fourth (13.93 pounds), John Pearce of Bloomfield Hills and Mike Grant of Royal Oak placed sixth (12.20-pounds), Paul Wright of Redford and John Gore of White Lake finished ninth (10.45-pounds) and Dan Wright of Lake Orion and Mike Strange of Auburn Hills placed 10th (9.39-pounds).

Fifty two-man teams were entered in the tournament and a total of 100 bass were weighed in for a total of 236.66 pounds.

In other bass angling news, Michigan's Kevin VanDam finished sixth in the 1996 BASS Masters Classic, Aug. 8-9 on Lay Lake near Birmingham, Alabama. VanDam, who hails from Kalamazoo, had 10 fish for a total eight of 22-pounds, 8-ounces. He won $6,000.

George Cochran, of Hot Springs, Arkansas won his second BASS Masters Classic championship with a three-day total of 15 fish which tipped the scale at 31-pounds, 14-ounces. Cochran, who also won the Classic in 1987, earned $100,000 for winning the 1996 championship.

The 1996-1997 BASSMASTER season begins this weekend on Lake Minnetonka in Minnesota. Lake Orion's Chuck Economou is slated to compete in the tournament along with VanDam and Howell's Kim Stricker.

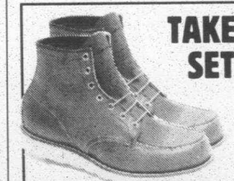

Fly casting demo

Bueter's Outdoors fly fishing shop in Northville will hold a casting demonstration, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday.

Dave Halblom, of Ross Reels and Trout Traps, as well as Bueter's Pro Staff will demonstrate casting form, accuracy, presentation mending and more. There will also be time for one-on-one conversations with the pros to improve skills or overcome casting sticking points.

Bueter's is located at 120 E. Main Street in downtown Northville. Call (810) 349-3677 for more information.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI. 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker evenings at (810) 901-2573.

CORROSIVE EFFECTS
Automobile exhaust systems wear out due to corrosion. To the casual observer, the primary culprits in this rusting process are rain, snow, and/or humidity, as well as road salt used on the icy rolads of northern states. While all these elements may play roles in the creation of external rusting, the greatest amount of corrosion occurs internally, mostly in the muffler. This rusting inside the exhaust system largely owes itself to the fact that water and acid are byproducts of the combustion process. They combine to quickly rust the system from the inside out. Until the exhaust system reaches operating temperatures, moisture condenses on the cool surfaces of the exhaust. Then, as the surfaces become hot, the moisture evaporates. This is why short trips that are not long enough in duration to get the exhaust systems hot are more likely than long drives to create corrosion problems for the exhaust system.
If your exhaust system is sounding a bit loud, perhaps it's time to check it out for corrosive wear and tear which can reduce its effectiveness-as well as provide a noisy announcement of your arrival. At HOLIDAY CHEVROLET INC., meeting your needs is what we do best. Our reputation for reliability is one of the keys to our success. Call 474-0500 or visit us at 30250 Grand River. Sales Hours: Mon. Courts follow local lead in sentencings

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER

Redford has followed the lead of courts such as Plymouth's 35th District Court in offering same-day sentencing for defendants. The system has been used in the local Plymouth-based court for 11 years.

Since May, same-day sentencing has been a fact of life for defendants in Redford Township's 17th District Court. Judge Karen Khalil and Judge Daniel Ryan have closed the gap between the time a defendant pleads or is found guilty and the time the defendant is sentenced.

"Once there's an admission of guilt or a finding of guilt, there's a sentence that same day," said Khalil. Citing a drunk driving charge, Khalil estimates a 30-day period from arraignment to sentencing, nearly half of what it used to be.

What do attorneys think about same-day sentencing? According to Ryan, they like it. "They appreciate that their case is resolved and they can move on to other matters."

Ken Harris, a private defense attorney with the firm of Freedman, Krochmal & Goldin in Southfield who practices throughout the state, disagrees with the concept.

According to Harris, while the judge thinks in terms of a one-day package, the private defense attorney thinks in terms of hours. Same-day sentencing can be inconvenient to the attorney and costly to his client.

The attorney and his client may arrive at 8:30 a.m. For a variety of reasons, sentencing may not occur until 2:30 p.m. The attorney misses other appointments, and the client pays an hourly rate.

"The judge, the prosecutor, and the probation department are right there. Except the defendant and his attorney are not," said Harris.

Harris favors a separate sentencing date. Given a month, he has the opportunity to establish a profile for his client. "I have a package to present to the judge about my client. He's doing rehabilitation. He's needed at work. Don't interrupt the rehabilitation program."

With same-day sentencing, Harris said, "You cannot represent your client to the judge in the best light."

Certainly, an adequate presentation of a client is proper in both misdemeanor and felony cases. However, at the felony level, it is essential. Judges must have accurate background information, whether it is favorable for the prosecution or the defense. Time is required to defense attorneys handling felonies to prepare a presentence report.

Judge John E. MacDonald of the 35th District Court in Plymouth — which covers Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Northville, Northville Township and Canton Township — disagrees with Harris that attorneys can get short-changed.

"I thinks once they (attorneys) know our system, they would be able to prepare for this. There's just so much you can say on a drunk driving charge. The record speaks for itself."

Even though the 35th District Court handles over 40,000 cases yearly, extreme delays in same-day processing with the same-day policy are rare.

"Just about everybody is out by noon," said MacDonald. "We'll screen clients without the attorney."

MacDonald also believes same-day sentencing is more time- and cost-effective for both defense attorney and client. "If he (attorney) gets everything done in one day, he spends less time here."

When asked if same-day sentencing has been effective for his court, MacDonald said without hesitation, "There's no question about it."

Khalil and Ryan are confident about the positive effect of same-day sentencing in their court. "I believe that same-day sentencing is allowing the 17th Court to streamline its docket management to ensure the efficient administration of justice," said Khalil.

In 1995, Redford's 17th District Court handled 1,399 criminal cases.

Drunk driving, domestic violence, drug violations and weapons offenses made up the majority of the misdemeanor offenses. For the past three months, those offense have gotten the same-day sentencing treatment.

According to Khalil, both defendant and victim benefit from same-day sentencing.

A defendant with a drug or alcohol problem is assigned a rehabilitation program sooner and the victim of domestic abuse is protected.

Ryan, who proposed the idea of initiating a pilot program of same-day sentencing at the 17th District Court, operates under the premise "Justice delayed is justice denied."

"When I first came here, there was a six-week lag between the time the defendant was found guilty or pled guilty and sentencing," he said.

Ryan also said same-day sentencing deters crime.

"From a deterrent prospective, the person is found guilty and they are referred to probation. There's no going home. They may be going to jail immediately. It does have a deterrent effect."

Welfare targeted

Michigan is ready to hit the ground running with a welfare reform plan, once President Clinton signs federal block grant money over to the states, said State Sen. Robert Geake, R-Northville.

"States can administer their own programs with much greater financial efficiency than the federal government, and that is essential when we're talking about keeping families fed and helping parents find jobs," said Geake, Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittees for the Family Independence Agency and the Department of Community Health.

Geake said Clinton's announcement comes as no surprise to him. "Michigan has been leading the way in this area for a long time."

Passage of the GOP welfare reform in Washington will allow the implementation of Michigan's plan, which was dependent upon the federal action. Reforms already adopted in Michigan include the following:

- Minor parents are required to live in an adult-supervised setting and attend school.
- Job-ready aid recipients must cooperate with agency efforts to find employment or training in 60 days or their cases will be closed.
- Aid recipients who initially comply with job requirements but fail to continue working, will experience reduced benefits for up to four months. After four months of not participating, they will become ineligible for aid.
- Air recipients may receive cash instead of food stamps when they have earnings of $350 per month for three consecutive months.
- Professional licenses may be denied or revoked for nonpayment of child support.

Dog owner worried that lake algae killed pet

By Marie Chestney
Staff Writer

Fearful that toxic algae from Lake Erie killed his dog, a Livonia resident has sent water samples to an Ohio-based expert in blue-green algae.

Wade McCann believes the toxic algae now seen in parts of Lake Erie may have caused the death Sunday of his five-year-old German short hair pointer, "Gator."

The dog died at a Southfield veterinary clinic after being stricken Saturday with a sudden illness while on the family boat near Bolles Harbor State Park in Monroe.

McCann has sent two water samples to Dr. Wayne Carmichael, a professor at Wright State University in Dayton.

He also wants to alert dog owners to the toxic blue-green algae which has reappeared in Lake Erie. Experts say the algae, which blooms in late August or early September, can be harmful to fish, birds, livestock and even humans who drink it.

McCann fears the algae may also be deadly to dogs who eat or drink it.

"I want to make sure that word gets out of this possibility," said McCann, who lives on Ronnie Lane. "It is my hope that we will be able to determine if there was microcystis in the water he ingested."

The toxic blue-green algae is also called microcystis. It has not been seen in Lake Erie for more than 10 years. Some experts blame the resurgence of blue-green algae on zebra mussels.

At 6 p.m. Saturday McCann, wife Jessica and their hunting dog were in a boat fishing for perch three miles offshore near Monroe.

At 7 p.m. McCann said Gator drank water from a minnow bucket. About 7:30 p.m. Gator jumped off the boat to go for a swim.

"He was going in circles, nipping at things," McCann said. "He's done this many times. He bit a small amount of seaweed."

The McCanns pulled him back into the boat. At 8 p.m. Gator lost control of his bowels, urinating in the boat twice. "He then vomited "white frothy stuff" and a piece of vegetation. The McCanns thought Gator was seasick.

By the time the McCanns returned to the boat ramp, Gator could no longer stand. He lay on the dock, still and moaning, McCann said.

By 9:30 p.m. Gator had one eye open and one closed. By 10:30 p.m. he appeared to be unconscious. At 11 p.m. the McCanns had taken Gator to Michigan Veterinary Specialists in Southfield, where Dr. Heather Robertson was on duty.

Robertson said she got a call that Gator was coming, and began researching Gator's symptoms. At the clinic, Gator began bleeding internally, losing considerable blood from his mouth.

"The doctor kept him alive with an artificial breather until approximately 6 a.m. Sunday, when the dog's heart failed," McCann said. "The vet called other doctors and they talked to each other, trying to find the cause. They were going through medical books and found blue-green algae. It fit symptoms to a tee."

Robertson said she discussed possible causes via phone with other clinic doctors.

Robertson said she believes a neurotoxin such as blue-green algae killed Gator. But an autopsy was not performed on the dog, so the cause may not ever be known. She has sent samples of Gator's blood to a lab for analysis.

"The science fits," Robertson said. "Dogs are hypersensitive to this and it affects them rapidly. By the time we saw Gator, it was four hours later. Gator was comatose and beyond the point of traditional treatment such as vomiting and charcoal in the stomach to bind the toxin."

Robertson said she has discussed Gator's sickness with professionals across the country and with doctors at the National Poison Control Center at the University of Illinois (1-800-548-2423; $30 per call).

"Blue-green algea is our suspicion, but we can't definitely say," she said.

Items for Medical Briefs are welcome from all hospitals, physicians, companies and residents active in the Observer-area medical community. Items should be typed or legibly written and sent to: Medical Briefs, c/o The Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia 48150 or faxed to (313) 591-7279.

■ Alzheimer's Support – The Thursday, Sept. 5, meeting of the Alzheimer's Support Group is entitled "Conversation." The group meets 10 a.m. to noon monthly at the Livonia Civic Park Senior Center, 32000 Civic Center, located at Five Mile and Farmington roads. Free. For more information, call (810) 557-8277.

■ Pain Management – A symposium for patients and caregivers dealing with pain will be held 12:30-4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8, at Madonna University at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia. The program sponsored by the nursing departments of Madonna and Oakland Community College, will increase awareness on the multi-dimensional nature of pain and will educate patients and caregivers about pain management and self-care. "Taking Charge of Your Pain" includes workshops on adaptive exercise, communicating/explaining pain, depression, humor, pain medication, meditation and patients rights. Neal Shine, retired publisher of the Detroit Free Press and a cancer survivor, will deliver the keynote address. Registration is $5 in advance (by Aug. 30) or $6 at the door. For more information, call Nancy Kriegler at (810) 471-3133.

■ Participants needed for cancer study – Researchers at Detroit's Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute are looking for area women to participate in a study for breast cancer prevention. The Breast Cancer Prevention Trial, established in 1992, is an international effort to determine whether the drug tamoxifen can prevent breast cancer. Tamoxifen has already proven effective treatment of breast cancer, to prevent recurrence in women already diagnosed with the disease. To be eligible, women must be 35 years or older, with a family history of breast cancer or a personal history of benign breast biopsies. Participants will receive either the drug or a placebo. For more information, call Erica Anderson at (313) 745-9600 or Ann Marie Ferris at (313) 993-0097.

■ Pain forum – A public forum, "Pain: It Hurts, It Costs, It Kills," will be held 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27, at the Novi Hilton in Novi and Thursday, Aug. 29, at the Northfield Hilton in Troy to raise awareness of new treatments for sufferers of severe and chronic pain as well as obstacles to effective pain care. Both forums are free of charge. To register, call 1-800-612-5733.

■ NICU survivor picnic – Oakwood Healthcare System is hosting its 13th annual NICU Reunion Picnic for former Neonatal Intensive Care Unit patients of the Oakwood Hospital or Medical Center-Dearborn and Oakwood Hospital Annapolis Center-Wayne NICU departments. The picnic will be held 4-7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn, 4901 Evergreen Road. For more information, call (313) 593-8750.

■ Open Heart Open – Oakwood Healthcare System is sponsoring a golf outing to benefit its Cardiology Center of Excellence to reduce heart disease. The 18-hole outing is set for Monday, Sept. 9, at Dearborn Country Club. Cost is $150 per person for Open Hearter status and $200 for Friend of Open Hearter designation. Each includes 18 holes of golf, cart, lunch and dinner. For more information, call (313) 791-1234.

■ Living with Cancer group – Community Hospice Services and Comprehensive Hematology Oncology Physicians are co-sponsoring a free six-week group for people coping with cancer, their family and friends. The group meets for two hours on Thursdays beginning at 6 p.m. Sept. 12 at the Mercury-Hubbard Building, 4900 Mercury Drive, in Dearborn. The group is offered free of charge. For more information and registration, call Maureen Karby at (313) 522-4244.

■ New program at UDM – The University of Detroit Mercy will begin its first class in the new graduate-level Family Nurse Practitioner program in January 1997 – the first of its kind in the Detroit area. Approximately 15 students will be enrolled in the first class of the new program, which will offer full- and part-time study options. Prerequisites for the program include a bachelor's of science in nursing or a master's of science in nursing.

■ Rational Recovery – Rational Recovery meets at 12:30 p.m. every Thursday and 7 p.m. every Friday at Harrison School in Garden City. The support group is an international, non-profit, self-help organization for men and women who are experiencing problems as a result of alcohol and/or substance abuse or other self-defeating behaviors. Hospitals online

Botsford, St. Mary lead the way, others set to follow

BY RENEE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER

For most commercial organizations today, going online means staying on top of the latest communication and marketing tools. Hospitals are no exception.

Several area hospitals already use the Internet; others are in the process of getting on board.

Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills joined the global Internet Aug. 1 with an "O&E Online" web site. Botsford has more than 20 web site pages showcasing its medical services, community health programs and classes, support groups, and physician referral service.

"The Internet offers us the opportunity to reach our community in a whole new communication venue," said Bridget Gosine, Botsford's community relations manager. "There's so much opportunity with the Internet to keep things current. We plan to keep the home page going. This is the first phase of it."

The hospital's second phase in expanding its web site pages will focus on physicians and will include information on graduate and continuing education medical courses and lectures. Gosine also said the hospital intends to provide links to other related home pages, such as Michigan State University's College of Osteopathic Medicine, through its web site.

Botsford's web page is no one-way street. "Online browsers will also have the opportunity to communicate directly to the organization via e-mail to voice their needs and concerns," said Margo Gorchow, Botsford Hospital and community relations administrator.

Marketing through the Internet saves money, added Gosine. "I think It's cost-effective by the fact we can easily update. A print piece is final. If you want to change a ZIP code, it's costly. Also, we can quickly add a new class instead of waiting for a quarterly newsletter."

Botsford's Internet address is http://www.botsfordsystem.org and info@botsfordsystem.org is the hospital's e-mail address

St. Mary Hospital in Livonia currently is going for a test drive along the Internet with nine pages on an O & E Online web site. St. Mary Hospital offers information about medical services, health programs and physician referral service.

"It's a very cost-effective way to let people know about services. People can sit right at home and find out about us," said Julie Sproul, director of community relations at St. Mary.

It is also a way for St. Mary to keep the community updated on its new west addition under construction.

The addition will house a state-of-the art, single-room maternity wing, along with a new Women's Center and a host of surgical suites.

"The Internet is a natural fit for the people we are trying to reach," said Sproul.

Oakwood Healthcare System is on the Internet with a library targeted to physicians. The hospital plans to expand its external market in the near future.

"The Internet provides another way to let our existing and potential customers know about Oakwood Healthcare System's continuum of care – from prenatal to geriatrics – via their home computer," said Jamie Racklyeft, multi-media communications representative at Oakwood.

"Oakwood's web page will be a valuable tool for educating the community on wellness, prevention and other health-related issued. We're very excited about utilizing this high-tech marketing opportunity."

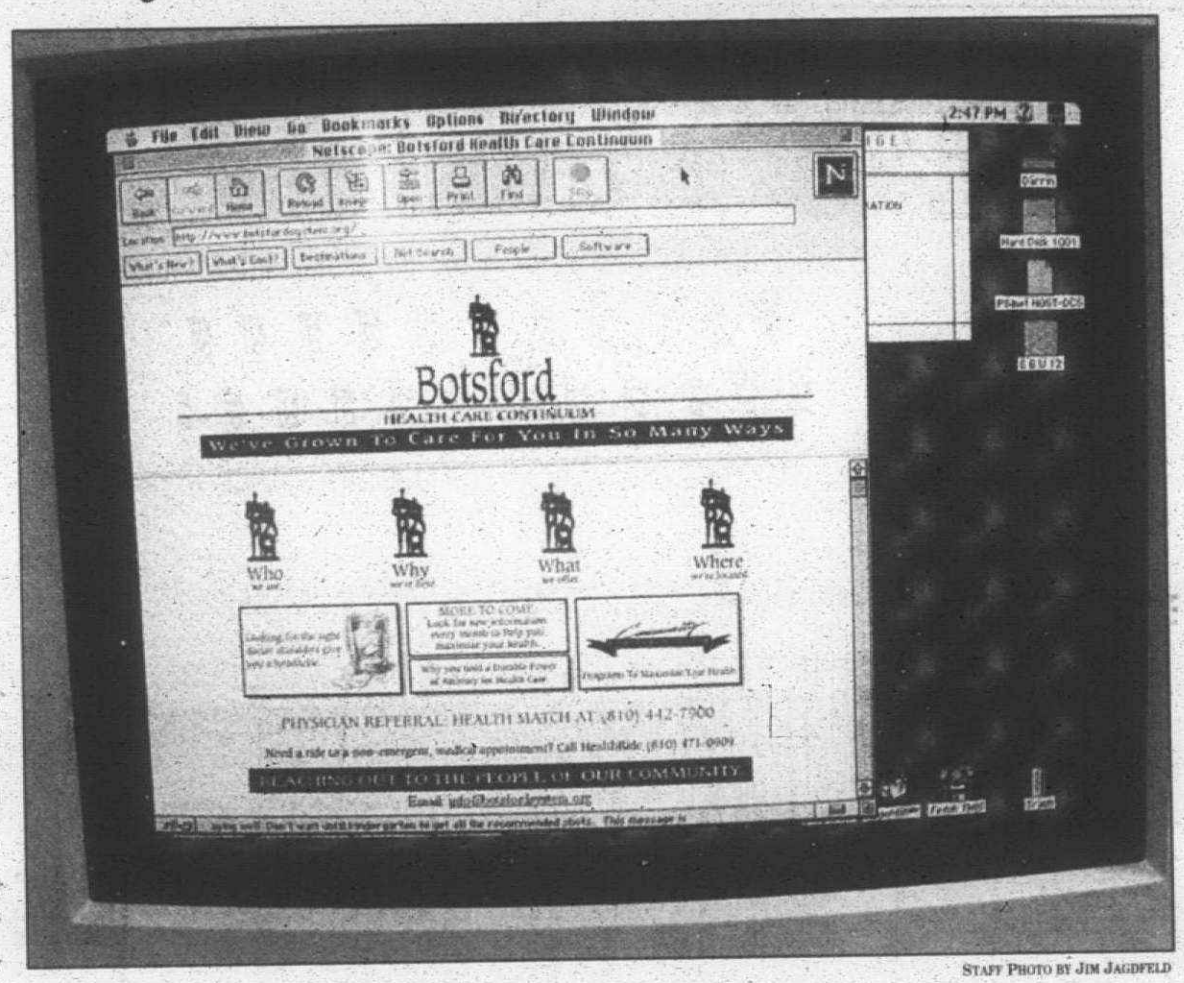

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor will begin a pilot program on the Internet this fall.

Staffers will work through Mercy Health Services, the sponsoring web site organization for St. Joseph, Providence Hospital in Southfield, McPherson Hospital in Howell, and Saline Community Hospital.

"We look at the Internet as being another tool in sharing information with people who are looking for health-care information or who are interested in using the four hospitals. Also, we provide the community with messages on how to stay healthy," said Margo Burrage, media relations coordinator.

By linking with Mercy Health Services, St. Joseph can provide community access to a broader scope of information on major health programs, as well as health-plan information.

For a list of all hospitals currently on the World Wide Web, http://www.yahoo.com/Health/Medicine/Hospitals/ is the address to use.

DCB offers new health care degree

Speaker: Carole Gdula, DCB chair for the Health Services Administration Department will explain the new program at area open houses.

STAFF WRITER

Anyone who has dealt with the health care industry in the past few years knows one thing: it's complicated.

And from this mountain of paperwork, bureaucracy and general confusion has arisen a new definition of an established professional: the medical case manager.

Although the profession has been around for about 20 years in different forms, today's medical case manager juggles the needs of patients with insurance companies, attorneys, employers, hospitals and other agencies which deal with medical conditions.

Detroit College of Business recently received North Central accreditation for this program. It is the first college in Michigan and one of a few in the country to offer a four-year degree program in medical case management. The program starts this fall.

"Because of the complexity of the medical care system, there are breakdowns at times," explained Pamela Feinberg, president of the state chapter of the Case Management Society of America, who also sits on the advisory board for the DCB program. A medical case manager "is an advocate for the patient, for them to become as functional as possible," she said.

Twenty years ago, the complexity of the health care system wasn't the same as it is today, Feinberg said. "I think there is a more complex role of a case manager – there are a lot of different roles for us to play."

■ State ranks last – The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recently released a report ranking Michigan last in the proportion of 2-year-olds who are fully immunized in the U.S. Only 64 percent of Michigan's 2-year-olds have received a basic series of recommended vaccines. As a result, many of these vaccine-preventable diseases which were once believed to have been eliminated are now returning to our area. Cases of measles, mumps, rubella and pertussis (whooping cough) have exceeded U.S. Surgeon General's projections in 1990. The Wayne County Health Department has recommended parents review their children's immunization records and ask their physician if he or she is enrolled in the Health Department's Vaccines For Children and Deputization Programs, which offers free vaccines.

The new program was established at Detroit College of Business because of its high enrollment in the Health Administration program. Program organizers said that they have some 150 interested people signed up to attend program open houses scheduled for next week.

Some of the classes include: medical terminology, community services, physical/mental assessment, risk management, legal/ethical aspects, and involve issues such as aging, substance abuse and special needs and social services.

Carole Gdula, chair of the college's Health Services Administration department, said most of the interest in the program has been from nurses and other health professionals who want to expand their careers, but also from insurance and social work professionals.

"I think what we are seeing is that patients are becoming more aware of their health care treatments and want to have a say in their choices," Gdula said. "I think it will make for better service for the patients and the clients. And a lot of help for families."

She also sees the medical case manager's role as one of educating patients.

Medical case managers have to be resourceful, according to those involved in the profession. They must be aware of community resources, be familiar with health and medical jargon and be able to coordinate with medical, insurance and physical therapy professionals as well as deal with the emotional needs of patients and their families.

These professionals don't have a desk job – they spend much of their time in the community meeting with patients doing legwork on the cases.

"There's a whole lot of decision-making. You have to do a lot of interaction with physicians and know medical jargon," Gdula said.

Karen Schulz, a professional medical case manager, will teach in the program at DCB this fall. She said that case managers are coordinators who pull everything together, from insurance to medical and social needs.

"We basically go in there and we make the wheels turn," she said.

"We want the person to concentrate on getting better," she said, and with the complications of the health care industry "sometimes it can be frustrating" for the patient. "We're there to make things happen," she added.

"The sooner they can be out doing something, especially earning money, the better they feel about themselves."

Schulz said she is excited about the new program, which will offer a bachelor of science degree to graduates. "I think we're going to be a pioneer, a forerunner in it," she added.

For more information about the medical case management program and upcoming open houses at Detroit College of Business, call (313) 581-4400.

Prevent carpal tunnel syndrome

If you use computers daily or enjoy Web surfing with your computer, experts say that you are at risk for repetitive strain injuries (RSI) such as carpal tunnel syndrome.

The symptoms often will appear suddenly and begin with sensations like numbness in the hands, cramping and tingling in muscles and tendons, says Steven Rudnik, SVP at Magnitude, LLC (800-728-4368).

"It is now estimated to afflict almost 2 million Americans and cost business more than $20 billion each year," Rudnik said. "Research indicates that while RSI is irreversible, it can be made livable and actually be prevented."

Here's a do-and-don't list:

■ Don't work in pain. Proper exercise and rest breaks can alleviate soreness and other symptoms. A well equipped safe workplace will include inexpensive therapeutic exercise gear. One very effective product, the Wristiciser, by GripStrength, helps prevent and treat hand/wrist injuries.

■ Do keep good posture. This means both feet on the floor or against a foot rest 2 to 4 inches high. Lean against the back of your chair. Keep your arms at desktop height and parallel to the floor.

■ Don't repetitively keyboard or mouse for periods of time without taking brief rest breaks. Physical therapists, ergonomic experts and orthopedists agree that taking frequent brief breaks from the computer is critical in avoiding RSI.

■ Do exercise your wrists and hands on a routine daily basis. Consult with your doctor first.

■ Don't cross your legs or lean over on armrests.

■ Do check with your doctor as soon as possible when symptoms appear.

■ Don't lean on stair-climber hand rails when your legs become exhausted, or continue activities that put a destructive strain on your hands.

■ Do relax your hands and arms and keep your wrists neutral, not cramped or tense.

■ Don't smoke. It restricts blood flow and circulation.

■ Do enlist the help of your computer and find computer software that warns you when patterns of keyboard or mouse activity are possibly injurious. There's one excellent and inexpensive software package, called ErgoSentry, by Magnitude, LLC., which monitors your risk exposure and alerts you only at the proper times to take brief rest breaks, stretch and exercise.

Hotel offers direct Internet access

EMORY DANIELS

A rather novel Internet service is being offered by a Best Western facility in Sterling Heights.

Hotel guests who reserve rooms in the Sterling Banquet & Conference Center, 34911 Van Dyke at 15 Mile in Sterling Heights, can request computers with direct Internet access.

The 160-room hotel is believed to be the first hotel in the world to offer direct network access to the Internet from guest rooms. The hotel also may be the first in the world to have its own server on premises and direct connect to the Internet.

There are a few hotels that offer modem connections to the Internet. But direct connections is a much faster, cleaner connection that does not tie up phone lines or make guests wait for modem lines to dial.

The Internet rooms allow guests to "surf the Web," send or receive E-mail, and browse news groups while staying at the Sterling Banquet & Conference Center. "We'll gradually increase the number of rooms with computers to meet the demand," said Victor Martin, general manager.

For travelers who arrive with their own computer, every room in the hotel is equipped with a data port on the phone for computer hook-up.

Martin, who loves computers and has been involved with computers for 22 years, recently launched a Web site for the center. Point your Web browser to http://www.sterlinginn.com and you can check on room availability, see pictures of the hotel, or read recipes of dishes served at the hotel's restaurant, the Loon River Cafe.

"When I check our Web site reports," said Martin, "I can see that our site has been be looked at from countries as far away as Russia, Israel, Austria, Brazil and Germany." The most popular feature on the site, he added, is the recipes by Chef Ray Hollingsworth.

Requests for information can be sent via E-mail to sls@sterlinginn.com or via phone at 1-810-979-1400.

CALLIGRAPHY

Practice makes penmanship perfect

BY MARY KLEMIC • STAFF WRITER

Many people see the graceful curves of calligraphy as delicate icons of antiquity. William Bostick sees the swooping strokes as vital, strong instruments for the present and future.

Bostick, an artist who was administrator and secretary of the Detroit Institute of Arts for 30 years, has published books and manuals teaching calligraphy for children and adults. His La Stampa Calligrafica is a calligraphic publisher and supplier. He teaches calligraphy, as well as French and art history, in Birmingham and West Bloomfield community education.

"If it weren't for writing, knowledge would never have been passed from one generation to another," said Bostick, who views calligraphy as the art of beautiful and legible handwriting.

"(Handwriting is) the last universally practiced human handicraft."

The state of penmanship these days is reportedly in decline as the keyboard is emphasized over the cursive in schools and businesses. Undecipherable handwriting costs U.S. businesses about $200 million each year, said Zaner-Bloser, an Ohio-based publisher of handwriting texts for students in kindergarten through eighth grade. Poor penmanship is cited as the root of a variety of problems, including preventing mail delivery, confusion about notes and a NASA project failure in 1965.

Calligraphy can resolve the crisis, said Bostick, who believes fine handwriting can be an art as well as a craft. He founded the American Society for the Diminution of Ugly and Illegible Handwriting.

"Our struggle is not to go back to the Palmer method.

"(We're trying) to get (people) interested in changing handwriting."

Bostick's calligraphy teaching is aimed at adults and children who aren't happy about their handwriting. The calligraphy must be legible as well as beautiful. It still can have the individual style of the writer.

Bostick writes and teaches the Italian Renaissance style – "the most beautiful ever" – used by Michelangelo, daVinci, Raphael and Elizabeth I. The Italian Renaissance script doesn't have the slanted loops and curlicues of the Palmer method (like the Zaner-Bloser method, named for a 19th century master penman who taught handwriting).

"The beauty, the legibility of it" is what is special about the script.

Bostick practices what he preaches. The mailbox outside his Bingham Farms home bears calligraphic lettering. He officially changed his signature to calligraphic, even on bank accounts and voting registration. (The move has caused some humorous situations, such as the time a person to whom Bostick wrote a check said the writing was so beautiful he almost wanted to frame it instead of cash it.)

Supporters in the cause include Kate Gladstone of New York, a member of a calligraphy education and advocacy group called ESTEEM.

Bostick isn't anti-computer. He wrote a column in a recent issue of the Letter Arts Review quarterly publication, "The Computer and the Calligrapher ... Friend or Foe?", pointing out that the computer can expose more people to the beauty of calligraphic typefaces and may contribute to the improvement of handwriting.

Bostick will have a show of handcolored lithographs at the Preston Burke Gallery in Farmington Hills in September. He has made stationery featuring his scenes of Detroit. The artist, who designed maps for the invasion of Normandy in World War II, got interested in calligraphy about 50 years ago after he read an article about it in his wife's Woman's Day magazine.

"I looked at my handwriting and said, 'This is awful.'"

Bostick taught himself calligraphy and wrote a guide published by La Stampa Calligrafica in 1977. Since then, his three calligraphy manuals have taught thousands of students. Two of the manuals, "Calligraphy for Kids" and "Back to the Second Basic R – 'Ritin,'" are available for $9.95 and $14.95 respectively (shipping and tax included) from La Stampa Calligrafica, Box 209, Franklin 48025.

Bostick uses a fountain pen in his writing. The manuals describe how to hold the pen and form the letters, and feature lined pages for practicing. A helpful exercise is to make creatures out of the letters.

"Practice, practice. It's like learning a foreign language.

"It's not something you learn overnight."

CRAFT SHOW

Crafters barnstorm historical Greenmead Village

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Sue Daniel is looking forward to showing off the newly restored barn at Greenmead Historical Village when the Livonia Historical Commission presents its Americana Craft Show featuring nearly 70 exhibitors Aug. 24-25.

For the first time, the show spotlighting country, folk, wood craft, and floral will take place on the Joshua Simmons Farm Complex instead of in the village. Free tours of the barn as well as the main house will be given during the craft show.

According to Daniel, the reason the farmstead is on the national registry of historic places is because of its outbuildings. Not many farm houses are saved and restored with their dependent buildings.

"We think it's the oldest surviving barn in Michigan. All of the buildings on the farm complex are original," said historical commission chairwoman Sue Daniel. "Built in 1829, the bark is on the logs that are used. An addition in 1877 was built from cut lumber."

Restoration of the entire barn and the exteriors of the chicken coop, greenhouse and garage cost about $150,000. The historical commission provided matching funds for a $70,000 Michigan Equity Grant.

Inside the barn one of the highlights is a 1915 buggy that belonged to Volney Gunning who lived in Livonia and ran a store in 1830 in the Clarenceville area. Gunning was also a square dance caller for Henry Ford at the Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills. The buggy was donated a few years ago to Greenmead by his family, the Whipples of Plymouth. Other small equipment on display include mid-19th century plows, scythes, and a fanning mill used for separating wheat grain from the shaft.

"Joshua Simmons was the third land buyer in Livonia. Four generations lived on the property," said Daniel.

Greenmead sits on 104 of the 160 acres originally deeded to Joshua Simmons by President John Quincy Adams for $225. In 1826, when Simmons and his wife Hannah left their New York home to begin life in the Township of Livonia, the couple had few neighbors. From records it's known "wild beasts were abundant and the only roads were Indian trails and new paths laid out by the settlers with blazed trees."

In 1920, wealthy attorney Sherwin S. Hill and his wife Jean bought the Simmons property. The floor of the house was rotted and the roof sagged. The Hills restored the home built in 1841 by Simmons. It was then referred to as the finest house in the county. The Hills named their farm Greenmead, short for Green Meadows.

Until shortly before Hill's death in 1961, Greenmead was a working farm. Jean was a patron of Leader Dogs for the Blind School in Rochester, and gave some of the school's rejects a home there.

The next restoration project on the list at Greenmead is the farmhand's house thought to be the oldest building on the farm complex because of the five sided or pentagon ridge beams used up at the top where the roof fits.

The Americana Craft Show began nine years ago with hopes of raising money to restore Judge Blue's House. Today, that project steadily continues to proceed thanks to the craft show benefit which annually raises $8,000 to $10,000 for Greenmead.

"I think it will be a nice change of pace this year having the show in the farm complex. It's something new that people haven't seen. Part of the charm of the Americana Craft Show is the historical setting itself with the lovely flower gardens," said Marian Renaud, Greenmead program supervisor.

Doris Brailean of Livonia is one of the crafters showing in the Americana this year who Daniel is excited about. Brailean designs doll cloths after those worn in the American Girl series of books based on life in eras ranging from colonial to the 1940s.

"I'm an elementary librarian at Cass in Livonia and the second through fourth graders just love these books," said Daniel.

Two other exhibitors to take note of if you're into garden ornaments is Rob and Veronica Wooten of Waterford. The husband and wife team own the Concrete Garden in Farmington, a shop specializing in unpainted cement statuary including bunnies and other animals, bird baths, urns, planters and gargoyles. The couple does about 60 arts and crafts shows a year including the Farmington Founders Festival.

"We have a complete line of cement statuary, everything from bunnies to angels, garden benches and building size gargoyles," Rob Wooten said.

Prices for decorative concrete objects by the Wootens ranges from $2 for a small frog to $2,000 for a life-size dolphin.

Americana Craft Show

What: Nearly 70 exhibitors display a variety of crafts on the grounds of Greenmead Historical Village; plenty of food and refreshments from hot dogs to nachos. Sponsored by the Livonia Historical Commission, the show benefits the restoration at Greenmead. Free tours of the Hill House Museum and recently restored barn, thought to be the oldest in Michigan, with admission to the craft show.
When: 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 24-25.
Where: 20501 Newburgh at Eight Mile.
Admission: $2 per car, walk-ins $1 per person.

FINE ARTS

Family and religious values stir painter

LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Victor Vicini extracts memories about his family and religious upbringing, laying them down carefully and methodically in egg tempera paintings. A graduate of Birmingham Brother Rice High School, Vicini grew up in Farmington.

His mother and father, both immigrants from San Marino, Italy, held and practiced deeply-held religious convictions. After leaving home, Vicini turned his back on the church. Now, at the age of 38 with two children, Angela, 6 and Matthew, 9, Vicini is searching for answers on what to teach them about religion and the strong moral values usually accompanying these beliefs. A one-man exhibition of the Livonia artist's work, dealing with his early Catholic upbringing and this struggle, continues through Aug. 30 in the Livonia Civic Center Library Fine Arts Gallery.

Relatives who signed the guest register wrote the show brought back memories. For Vicini, his paintings mirror the contradictions and personal conflicts he experienced with religious icons and traditions of his past. Gold leaf, in addition to the egg tempera, recalls religious paintings of centuries past. "The paintings are not meant to downplay the importance of religion. In contrary, religion is what holds the fiber of our morality in check" writes Vicini in an artist's statement.

"However, the paintings are meant to bring to one's focus the shortness of retention to the basic fundamentals of religion and the purity of the human spirit. We seem to forget and turn our backs to what was once pure, simple and true."

In the "House of Giants" Vicini appears in an upper window, his back turned on the religious figures of a priest and altar boy portrayed in a window below. The regimentation of bricks have begun to crack in the building enveloping them all. Vicini uses bricks quite frequently in his latest paintings. The first, entitled "Bricks," was juried into the Celebrating Michigan Artists exhibition at Paint Creek Center for the Arts in Rochester in 1995. It features his wife, Diana, and daughter, Angela, peering from a small window surrounded by highly-textured red bricks.

"The bricks are kind of a barrier separating the outside world from the inside," said Vicini, who majored in painting and printmaking at Wayne State University.

By day, Vicini works for Electronic Data Systems as a technical writer and multi-media developer, designing and creating computer based training for Window platforms. His work involves high-technology, but like the egg tempera painting, it is an exacting art.

In the dark of night, Vicini employs an art as ancient as the Roman civilization. Egg tempera, which originated in medieval Europe, was the primary process used for easel painting until the development of oil painting in the 15th century. Botticelli, Giotto, Fra Angelico and Jan van Eyck were among its practitioners. Contemporary aritsts using the medium include Andrew Wyeth, remembered locally for "The Helga Pictures" an exhibition of egg tempera paintings at the Detroit Institute of Arts in 1988-89.

Egg tempera is a long involved process as dry pigments must first be mixed with an egg binder.

Sometimes Vicini exactingly places as many as 10 to 12 layers of color on the surface of a gessoed board. Using the point of a brush for cross-hatching, he must gradually build up color in layers because the egg tempera medium does not blend.

Splattering and stippling paint are two of Vicini's favorite techniques. It gives him a rich surface as seen in "Portrait of a Young Girl," a portrait of his wife created in Pointillism. Up close the surface appears to be nothing more than a series of dots but step backward and the image comes together.

In "Chalks," a little girl dressed in blue is lost in her own world.

A pail of chalk on the sidewalk denotes her passion. Surrounded by a jump rope, baseball glove, basketball and hockey stick, she draws away, content to create stick figures. The shadow of a man looms in the background. Could this be Vicini's influence over her as an artist or is this a sinister character? Just like all the other paintings in the show, it's up to the viewer to decide.

Artbeat features various happenings in the suburban arts world. Send news leads to Linda Ann Chomin in care of Keely Wygonik, Arts & Entertainment Editor, Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Inc., 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150, or fax them to (313) 591-7279.

ROEPER INVITATIONAL

Walt Cole of Redford is one of the exhibitors who will display their work in an outdoor festival of fine arts sponsored by The Roeper School's Booster Club 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 24-25. The fun event takes place on the Bloomfield Hills campus of The Roeper School at 2190 North Woodward, north of Long Lake. Admission is free.

For the last three years, Cole has displayed his lathe-turned vases made from exotic woods in Ann Arbor's State Street Art Fair, Birmingham's Art in the Park, and Franklin's Art on the Green.

A juried show and sale of original fine arts and crafts, the Roeper Invitational Artfest offers a variety of mediums including jewelry, sculpting, painting, weaving, photography, and basketry. There will also be a free art raffle. For more information call the school at (810) 642-1500.

THREE CITIES MEET

The first Three Cities Club meeting of the year will be held 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 27 at the Plymouth Township Hall on the northeast corner of Ann Arbor Road and Lilley. Artists as well as art patrons are welcome. Plans will be discussed for displaying members work Sept. 7-8 in Kellogg Park during the Plymouth Fall Festival. All succeeding meetings will be on the first Monday of the month.

Jackie Daniels of Plymouth is the new president.

For more information call Susan Argiroff at (313) 422-8106.

SURREAL PAINTING

Carl Angevine, a painting teacher at the Redford Senior Center, has a one-man show of his paintings continuing through Sept. 1 at the Swann Gallery, 1250 Library Street in Detroit.

An award-winning artist, Angevine paints Surrealist scenes dealing with issues related to life in modern-day America. His reflective, and sometimes introspective, works leads the viewer through a series of symbols and thoughts.

Angevine, who began painting at age 15, was influenced early by Surrealists Paul Delvaux, Salvador Dali, Rene Magritte and Max Ernst. During the mid-1950s, he studied at Center for Creative Studies College of Art and Design in Detroit under Sarkisian, Palazzola, Kozlow and Midener. His own students, taught over a period of more than 20 years, include Tyree Guyton, nationally known for creating the Heidelberg Project in Detroit; and Mose McCann, a renowned folk artist.

After 44 years of painting his acrylics on canvas Angevine conjures up imagery, juxtaposing unrelated objects in incongruous dreams, as if it were as easy as breathing.

Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 6-9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, or by appointment. For more information call the gallery at (313) 965-4826.

STREET SCENE

The Verve Pipe gets ready to rock

CHRISTINA FUOCO

East Lansing's The Verve Pipe is getting ready to rock 'n' roll all night and party everyday.

The pop rock band, who plays Pine Knob Music Theatre on Saturday, Aug. 24, as part of "Planetfest," will head out with Kiss on the southeastern leg of its tour Sept. 17-Oct. 2.

"That'll be sweet," said keyboardist Doug Corella during a phone conversation from Morgantown, W.V. "It seems like it's going to be a good time."

Corella, a Walled Lake Western High School graduate, said he's not nervous yet but he expects to be as the anticipation grows.

The Kiss tour comes on the heels of a string of other successes for the band. The Verve Pipe scored a hit single, "Photograph," from its RCA debut album "Villains." The second single "Cup of Tea" was just released to radio and the accompanying video debuted on MTV's "120 Minutes" on Sunday, Aug. 18.

A photograph of the band – which also includes singer/guitarist Brian Vander Ark, bassist Brad Vander Ark, drummer Don Brown, and guitarist A.J. Dunning – taken by noted photographer Robert Maxwell appears in Rolling Stone magazine's "Hot Issue."

The Verve Pipe, who recently finished a tour with 7 Mary 3, also dabbled in the soundtrack business. "Reverend Girl" from "Villains" appears in the made-for-HBO movie "Don't Look Back" starring Eric Stoltz.

Corella is looking forward to performing on home turf.

"It's definitely going to be cool to play with all those bands."

The following bands are slated to join The Verve Pipe, who play from 8:35-9:15 p.m., at radio station WHYT-FM 96.3's "Planetfest." Tickets are $19.96 for the show that starts at 2 p.m.

• Barenaked Ladies (9:30-10:45 p.m.) were forced to slim down its line-up to a four piece after keyboardist Andy Creeggan left the band prior to the November 1995 release of "Born on a Pirate Ship" (Reprise). The result is a more rock-oriented sound for the Canadian pop band shown on the band's latest single "The Old Apartment."

• Former Chicago resident Peter Stuart made frequent visits to Detroit prior forming his band Dog's Eye View (7:35-8:15 p.m.)

The New York singer/songwriter/guitarist bared his soul as a solo performer opening for Tori Amos and Cracker but it's Dog's Eye View that has pushed him into the spotlight. "Everything Falls Apart," the first single from the band's debut album "Happy Nowhere" (Columbia), cracked the Billboard pop and radio charts.

• Solution A.D. (6:35-7:15 p.m.) recorded its TAG/Atlantic debut "Happily Ever After" with knob-turner Chad Taylor, whose other job is playing guitar for the rock band Live. The band's aggressive sound fills the album which includes the relentlessly hook-laden single "Fearless."

• The Why Store's first single, "Lack of Water," is making waves at modern rock and adult alternative radio stations nationwide. Forming at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., the band (5:40-6:15 p.m.) combines electric and acoustic textures on its Way Cool/MCA self-titled debut. Singer/guitarist Chris Shaffer said the key to the band's sound is just being themselves.

"We just try to be real. I come from the old school – Zeppelin, Doors, Bob Dylan, Jim Croce, Harry Chapin. I believe in the melodies of the old school."

• The songs on "Regretfully Yours," the debut album for Superdrag (4:45-5:20 p.m.), takes on a '60s pop style like on the song "Sucked Out," in which singer John Davis wails "Who sucked out the feeling?" Drummer Don Coffey Jr. said the sound reflects Davis's influences.

"John's favorite band is the Beatles," said drummer Don Coffey Jr. "He's a Beatles fanatic. He also likes the Stones a lot, the Zombies. He also likes guitar bands like Yo La Tengo and My Bloody Valentine."

• Nada Surf (3:50-4:25 p.m.) found that former Cars singer Ric Ocasek was just what it needed during its fledgling years. Singer Matthew Caws slipped a demo copy of its album to Ocasek and was surprised when the slender singer wanted to work with them on its Elektra debut "High/Low."

"He's fantastic," Caws said of Ocasek. "He's the nicest guy. He's a very comforting producer. He just help you go for a good take. He didn't try to shape us in any way. The result is a newfound popularity for Nada Surf. The debut single "Popular" is infiltrating radio airwaves and the video for the song, a tribute to angst-ridden teen years directed by Jesse Peretz ("Big Me" by the Foo Fighters), has landed in the "Buzz Bin" with labelmates Superdrag.

• Dan Wilson and John Munson, formerly of Trip Shakespeare, formed Semisonic (2:55-3:30 p.m.) after its former band "was kind of fading away."

Joining forces with drummer/keyboardist (yes, he is rumored to play them at the same time) Jacob Slichter, the trio started playing covers of folky '70s songs and realized that they were "rocking in a good way." One thing led to another and the band released "Great Divide" (MCA), which singer/guitarist Wilson describes as "real melodious. There's a harmony and a melody to it that we just can't seem to escape."

• Pittsburgh indie band The Clarks (2-2:35 p.m.) is celebrating its 10-year anniversary at "Planetfest." A self-described American guitar rock band, The Clarks released the single "Courtney," a story of what would happen if Hole frontwoman Courtney Love fell in love with "a regular guy."

"Scott (Blasey, vocals, guitars) scribbled in the dust on the back of the van 'Courtney loves me now.' A lot of people don't get (that it's about Courtney Love). They think it's about Courtney Cox (of 'Friends')," bassist/mandolin player/vocalist Greg Joseph said.

Anne Rice bus tour stops in Southfield Monday

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Anne Rice fans, mark your calendars. On Monday, Aug. 26, from 5-10 p.m. the bestselling author of "Interview with the Vampire," and many other noted novels will make an appearance at the Millennium Theatre, 15600 J.L. Hudson Drive, Southfield to meet fans and sign copies of her newest title, "Servant of the Bones." The exclusive area appearance will be hosted by Book Beat, 26010 Greenfield in Oak Park. for more information, call (810) 968-1190.

Just as Anne Rice is no ordinary writer, this will not be your ordinary, everyday book signing.

To gain admittance to the event, in the lobby of the theater, you must purchase your copy of "Servant of the Bones" (or other Rice novel) either at Book Beat or at the door. Further, while your receipt will get you through the door, it will not guarantee you a place in what is expected to be a lengthy autograph line. So, try to arrive as early as possible, and with books and receipt already in hand.

While Rice will sign an unlimited number of books, she will personalize only one per fan. She'll also pose for photos with readers, and Book Beat will provide a photographer if you'd like to have your picture taken with the author whose books have sold over 100 million copies worldwide. Rice has said a definite "no" to video cameras.

Other special treats for those in attendance include a free screening of the BBC's biographic/documentary film, "Anne Rice: Birth of the Vampire," which focuses on Rice's earlier life and the influences that life has had on her work. Live music will be provided by area musicians, and there'll be other "surprises," according to Book Beat publicist, Cary Loren.

The Anne Rice "Servant of the Bones" Interstate Bus Tour was launched Aug. 1 with an eight-hour book signing at New Orleans' historic St. Alphonsus Church — the same church where Rice's parents were married, and where she was baptized in 1941. On Aug. 5, the tour bus made a curbside stop in mid-town Manhattan, while Rice was interviewed on NBC's "Today" show.

The 40-city, 55-day nationwide trek will conclude on Halloween night — in a Miami cemetery.

If you're a web-walker, you may want to check out Salon magazine (http://www.salon1999.com) in the coming weeks. The magazine will be posting updates from Rice and entries from her journal as the tour makes its way across the U.S.

"Servant of the Bones" was brought out by Knopf on Aug. 1 with a first printing of one million copes. Representing a slight departure for Rice (although not a first departure), it is not a novel in which vampires take center stage. At its heart is a powerful and witty ghost/genie called Azriel.

"The book is deeply rooted in Jewish and Christian mysticism," said the author. "Its theme is redemption."

The creator of the most widely-read vampire story since Bram Stoker's "Dracula" grew up in a home at the edge of New Orleans' historic Garden District, in a community steeped in the influences of voodoo, Roman Catholic beliefs, and mystical folklore.

"We grew up with the other world right beside us," said Rice's older sister, Alice, reminiscing in the film about their childhood on St. Charles St., where almost every large home was reputed to have its own resident ghost or ghosts. "Everyone believed in ghosts."

Sometimes referred to as "America's Queen of Terror," Rice began her illustrious writing career with the mega-seller, "Interview with the Vampire," 20 years ago. Since then, she's written 17 bestsellers.

A small number of her novels have been penned under the pseudonyms Anne Rampling and A.N. Roquelare, a fact familiar to most Rice fans. Maybe a fact less familiar.

The author was actually named Howard at birth, but changed her name to Anne while in kindergarten.

Moving museum: Artrain, America's Museum in Motion, returns to its home base, Ann Arbor, Aug. 23-25, for the Michigan opening of Art in Celebration. An opening reception will be held tonight.

Artrain rolls into Ann Arbor

Artrain, America's Museum in Motion, returns to Ann Arbor, Aug. 23-25. A reception, celebrating Artrain, and its new exhibition, will be held 6:30-9:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 22 at New Center, 1100 N. Main Street, Ann Arbor. Tickets are $25 adults, $50 family, (four tickets, at least one adult, and two children age 16 and under, $5 for each additional child), or $50 benefactor, call (313) 747-8300 for benefit and Artrain information. Event proceeds benefit Artrain's educational programs.

"Art in Celebration!" features 34 contemporary artworks commissioned by The Smithsonian Associates. This collection of mixed media and original prints by 27 world-renowned artists celebrates events of national significance since 1972 including the opening of the National Air and Space Museum, and the end of the Persian Gulf War.

Featured artists include: Luis Cruz Azaceta, Alexander Calder, Dale Chihuly, and Georgia O'Keeffe. Artrain is the first museum to feature these artworks outside of Washington D.C.

Artrain is a museum in four rail cars. The train will be at New Center, 1100 N. Main Street, Ann Arbor, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 23-24; and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25. Admission is $4 adults, $2 seniors and students, free for children 6 and under.

The 1996-98 national tour, sponsored by Chrysler Corporation, will include a stop at Greenfield Village, 20900 Oakwood, Dearborn 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 31 to Sept. 2.

Featured work: Children with Flowers, a litograph by Elizabeth Catlett, is one of the works featured in Artrain's new exhibit, Art in Celebration!

Jumpstart presents 'Evita'

Jumpstart the Arts brings Broadway to the suburbs with its presentation of Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Evita" 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 22-24; and 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25 in the Louis E. Schmidt Auditorium, Clarenceville High School, 20155 Middlebelt Road, (between 7 Mile and 8 Mile Roads) Livonia. tickets are $16 adults, $14 senior citizens and children, available in advance by calling (313) 425-5782 or Ticketmaster (810) 645-6666. Tickets will also be available at the door.

"Evita" follows the rise to power of Eva Peron once the leader of Argentina whose death on July 26, 1952 shocked her people. Broadway actor Daniel C. Cooney, a 1985 graduate of Westland's John Glenn High School, will star as Che, a role he performed in the National Touring Company of "Evita." Professional actress Stephanie Myre, formerly of Farmington Hills, stars as Eva Peron.

Co-starring, as Juan Peron, is John Sartor, a professional actor who began his acting/singing career at Michigan Opera Theatre. The role of Magaldi will be played by Matthew Karrel of Garden City, and Brooke Andres, 13 of Livonia, is cast as the Mistress. David Roberts, who lives in New York, is co-director and choreographer.

The ensemble will include local community theater actors, high school students, and students who participated in the Jumpstart the Arts summer workshop.

Jumpstart the Arts began in early 1995 to bring Broadway and other professional artists together with young aspiring actors to experience musical theater at the professional level. The program is funded through ticket sales. Last year's presentation was "Jesus Christ Superstar."

"We're grateful to have the opportunity to do it again," said Cooney who started the program with Michael J. Sawaya of Garden City. "I hope people support the program by coming to the show. If they come to the show, we'll do it again next year."

JOHN MONAGHAN

For me, last year's "The Brothers McMullen" was something of a revelation. Sincere and unaffected it proved a breath of fresh air in an independent film scene dominated by the acid cynicism of "Clerks" and the violence of Quentin Tarantino.

For writer, director, and star Ed Burns it was nothing short of a modern-day Cinderella story. Filmed at his parents Long Island house on weekends for $23,000, the movie proved a surprise hit that gave him the green light to develop more films for Twentieth Century Fox.

Blame it on the sophomore jinx, but Burns' follow-up feature, "She's the One," is a major disappointment. A variation on the themes of romance and family that worked so well in "McMullen," it has little of that earlier film's spunk, wit, or freshness.

The McMullens are now the Fitzpatricks, Francis and Mick, a slice of Irish Americana who meet at the local pub or on their father's boat, where they embark on weekly fishing trips. Since no fish, or even bait, make an appearance in the film, it's obvious that the purpose of these weekly excursions is to get away from the gals and talk about their problems.

And talk they do, on subjects ranging from ambition and marriage to sex. Burns' new movie has sex on the brain, only it's not half as clever as last year's "Flirting With Disaster," or even TV's "Friends," whose audience it would love to capture.

The movie even enlists Jennifer Aniston, who can't understand why stockbroker husband Francis (Michael McGlone) won't sleep with her. She cajoles, pleads, even makes a trip to Victoria's Secret for sexy lingerie before resorting to the vibrator, an embarrassing joke used way too many times in the film.

Burns plays Mick, a regular working stiff (by some accounts the only white, English-speaking cab driver in New York City) who meets a woman one day and marries her the next. Though he won't admit it, he's still hung up on his old fiancee (Cameron Diaz), who just happens to be seeing Francis on the sly.

Much of the "McMullen" stock company returns in "She's the One," a noble gesture on Burns' part except for the fact that very few can act. McGlone is way beyond his range as Francis, never convincing us for a second that he is a Wall Street player.

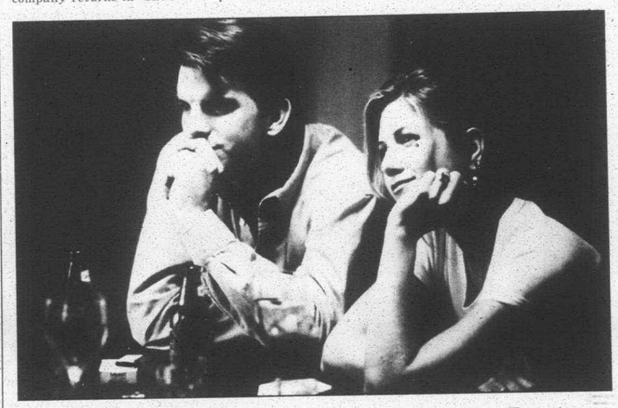

Maxine Bahns, who plays Mick's new wife, is pleasant enough, but has absolutely no screen presence. Burns fares a bit better, though even his "I'm one of the good guys" schtick wears a little thin after while. While his script is derivative, he has one nice visual touch where the camera pans and fades across a series of conversations.

Veteran John Mahoney, best known as the father on TV's "Frasier," tries his hardest, but has little to work with. Even the previews, adroit at picking out quotable lines, can only come up with this one about Francis: "he's about as romantic as a nun."

The movie coyly refers to a Fitzpatrick mother but never shows her. Dad keeps complaining about how she's at church, praying for her screwy family to straighten itself out. Symbolic of the woman's limited role in the male-dominated family, it's also a gimmick which never delivers an appropriate payoff.

Tom Petty goes into the folk mode on the soundtrack and his familiar riffs fit "She's the One" well. You soon conclude that he's the one, the only one, that got it right.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Scheduled to open Friday, Aug. 23

"CARPOOL"

When a harried businessman and a hapless crook collide on the biggest day of both their careers, the only road seems to lead straight to comic disaster. Stars Tom Arnold and Rhea Perlman.

"SHE'S THE ONE"

The story of two brothers who have always tried to live by their father's axiom "You got to do what makes you happy first." Unfortunately, that guidance leads to an old sibling rivalry to turn into a boxing match and the two begin to realize that they've been cast adrift in a sea of love. With that realization they begin to come to terms with the women in their lives, each other and themselves. Stars Ed Burns, who also wrote and directed.

"SOLO"

Solo is a warrior who can carry but the government's most dangerous and top secret operations and be repaired onsite. He's the prototype simulation of man, wired not only with extraordinary fighting skills but also with the ability to think and learn. He's the ultimate weapon. . . until he learns what it means to be human. Stars Mario Van Peebles, William Sadler.

"THE SPITFIRE GRILL"

The story of a young woman's search for new direction in her life and the effect she has on a small Maine community. A story of humanity, compassion, intolerance and fear and how one woman's life can invigorate a town with a new sense of purpose. Stars Ellen Burstyn.

"FOXFIRE"

Based on the Joyce Carol Oates novel about high school girls in the 1950s who are dedicated to pride, power and vengeance on the world. Stars Hedy Burress, Angelina Jolie.

"A VERY BRADY SEQUEL"

This time out in the Brady household harmony is undermined by the appearance of Carol Brady's supposedly dead husband. Stars Shelley Long, Gary Cole, Tim Matheson, Christopher Barnes.

"THE ISLAND OF DR. MOREAU"

Sci-fi thriller remake based on H.G. Wells' classic story about a mad scientist who, isolated on a remote island, transforms jungle beasts into half-human abominations. Stars Marlon Brando, Val Kilmer.

Scheduled to open Friday, Aug. 30

"FIRST KID"

Disney comedy about an unconventional good-hearted Secret Service agent assigned to protect the president's son. Stars Sinbad, Robert Guillaume, Brock Pierce, Timothy Busfield.

"THE TRIGGER EFFECT"

Urban thriller about a man, his family and his best friend who have all channels of communication severed and are forced to reexamine their relationships. Stars Kyle Maclachlan, Elisabeth Shue, Dermot Mulroney.

"THE STUPIDS"

Film based on a series of children's books about the dumbest family in America. Stars Tom Arnold, Jessica Lundy, Bug Hall.

SCREEN SCENE

A sampling of what's playing at alternative movie theaters across metro Detroit as reviewed by John Monaghan.

Detroit Film Theatre5200 Woodward, Detroit. Call (313) 832-2730 for information. ($5.50; $4.50 students/seniors)

■ "Nelly and Monsieur Arnaud" (France - 1995). Aug. 23 - 25 (call for showtimes). When a woman takes on the job of editing the memoirs of an aging, bitter ex-judge, their lives change in unexpected ways. Emmanuelle Beart and Michael Serrault star.

■ "California Split" (USA - 1974). 7 p.m. Aug. 26. Robert Altman directed this shaggy-dog story about two self-deluding, compulsive gamblers (George Segal and Elliott Gould), a treat in wide screen.

Detroit Science Center5020 John R at Warren, Detroit. Call (313) 577-8400 for information and showtimes. (Free with museum admission. $6.50; $4.50 seniors)

■ "Titanica." An Omnimax screening that takes you inside the portholes and across sunken decks of the world's most famous shipwreck.

Also showing:

■ "Destiny in Space," which shows how humans will live in space in the not-too-distant future. Through August.

Magic Bag Theatre22920 Woodward, Ferndale. Call (810) 544-3030 for information. ($2)

■ "Saturday Night Fever" (USA - 1977). 9 p.m. Aug. 28. John Travolta stars in the trash classic about a young paint store employee who lives for the weekends when he's king of the disco dance floor.

Main Art Theatre118 N. Main Street at 11 Mile, Royal Oak. Films play through at least Thursday, unless noted otherwise. Call (810) 542-0180 for information and showtimes. ($6.50; $4 students, seniors and matinee; $3 twilight)

■ "Lone Star" (USA - 1996). John Sayles wrote and directed this subtle, moving drama about a sheriff who must dig deep to solve a 40-year-old murder. What he doesn't count on is that the prime suspect is his late father, a legend in his tiny Texas border town.

■ "Trainspotting" (Britain - 1995). A runaway hit in Britain: the story of five liars, losers, junkies, and thieves on the road to self-destruction in modern-day Edinburgh. This one's directed by Danny Boyle, who made the clever "Shallow Grave."

■ "Emma" (USA - 1996). It showed up as the modern story "Clueless" last year. Now Hollywood has brought Jane Austen's novel to the screen as the real thing, a beautifully filmed and exceptionally acted tale of a woman who fancies herself a matchmaker but falls short when it comes to her own romance. Gwyneth Paltrow stars.

■ "The Spitfire Grill" (USA - 1996). A runaway woman with a rocky past tries to adapt to life in a small, gossipy Maine community. Ellen Burstyn and Marica Gay Harden star. Starts Friday.

Michigan Theatre606 Liberty, Ann Arbor. Call (313) 668-8397 for information. ($5,$4 students/seniors)

■ "Emma" (USA - 1996) and "Nelly and Monsieur Arnaud" (France - 1995) play in repertory through Aug. 29. See Main Art Theatre listing above for descriptions.

Redford Theatre17360 Lahser, Detroit. Call (313) 537-2560 for information. ($2.50)

■ "The Bridge on the River Kwai" (Britain - 1957). 8 p.m. Aug. 23; 2, 8 p.m. Aug. 24 (organ overture begins a half hour before showtime).

British soldiers in a Japanese prison camp build a bridge while one worker spends his time trying to figure out how to blow it up.

David Lean's World War II epic is still a treat in wide screen, boasting stirring performances from William Holden and the proud Alec Guinness, who believes that any job is worth doing right.

'Prohibition-era gangster film by Cohen Brothers, dark, almost dour

BY LEANNE ROGERS
STAFF WRITER

Like most films from the Cohen brothers, "Millers Crossing" from 1990 has its own unique verbal and visual style. This unusual Prohibition-era gangster film is no exception. It's a familiar movie landscape filtered through the eccentric perspectives of Joel Cohen, who directed the film and co-wrote it with his brother Ethan.

Characters greet usually greet each by saying "What's the rumpus?" Gabriel Byrne plays Tom the loyal second in-command to the Irish organized crime outfit headed by Leo (Albert Finney). Byrne's character is smart and tough – his only weak spots are for a grifter named Velma (Marcia Gay Hardin) and excessive loyalty to Leo. Saying that, he's still a pretty hard customer.

The film opens with a lower level gangster complaining about being cheated over bets he has been placing with a bookie – one who happens to Velma's brother. Jon Polito is hilarious as he complains with righteous indignation about fixed sporting events not being honored properly. "If you can't count on a fix, we're back to anarchy."

Ignoring Tommy's advice, Leo refuses to give up the bookie – Leo is infatuated with Velma and won't act against her brother – and moves against his weaker crime competitor. After a falling out with Leon, Tom ends up working for the competition setting into motion a serpentine plot with people changing allegiances.

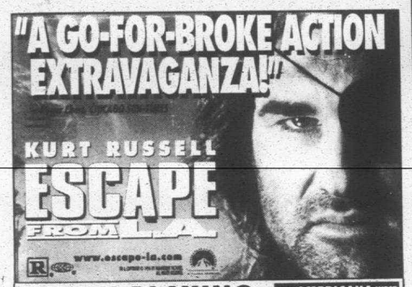

"Millers Crossing," which takes it name from a wooded area favored by gangsters who are taking someone for the proverbial ride, is a dark almost dour film. People get shot, things happen but no one seems to take any pleasure from it.

As the center of the story, Byrne's Tom is guarded and closed off. It's hard to know what he is thinking many times and to guess what he is after. He gets so many people mad at him, it's almost like running joke through the move that so many people punch him. One character refers to him as "Little Miss Punching Bag."

All of the acting is terrific including John Tuturro as the weasly loan shark who causes everyone a lot of problems and really doesn't seem to have any redeeming qualities.

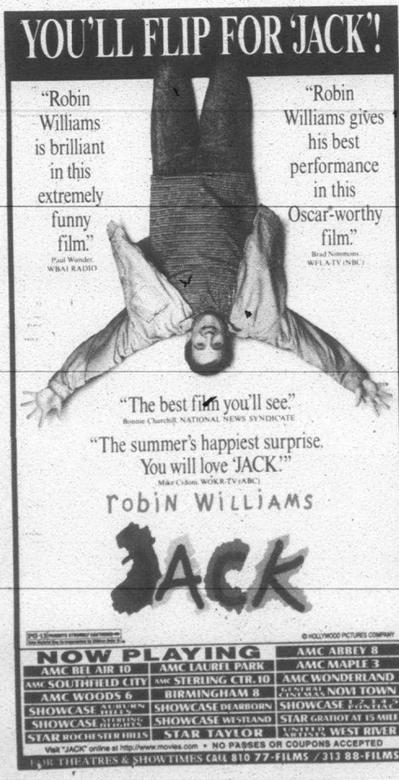

Beyond looking at the specific characters and relationships, the film also looks at the society in which the gangsters operated. The Irish mobsters were on top and had been here longer than some other ethnic groups.

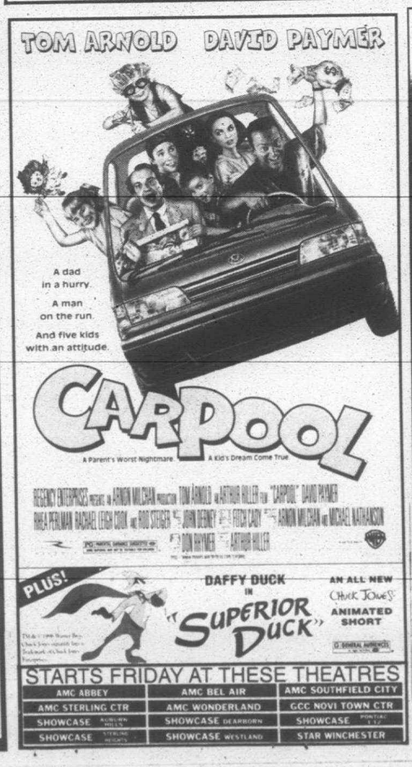

The Italian gangster bristle at the dominance of the Irish but clearly feel they should take precedence over Jewish criminals.

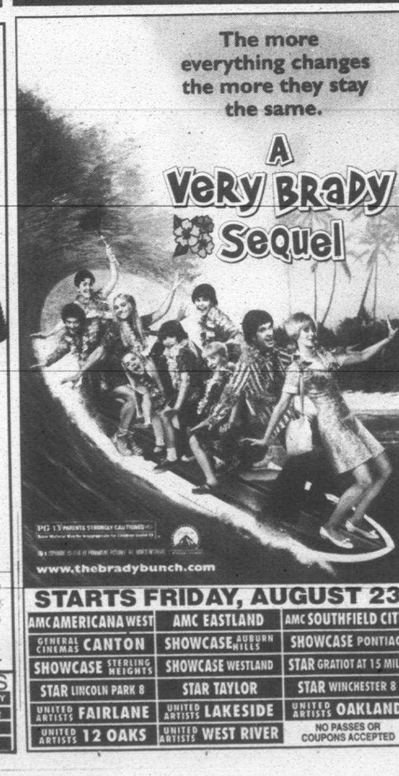

DINING

FoleyGuide offers detailed, dining out information

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Reservations, solves the what are we having for dinner dilemma for lots of people. But deciding where to eat out is just as hard.

The FoleyGuide can help. Edited and published by Greg Foley, the guide is based on a survey of Michigan restaurantgoers, and contains information for over 300 restaurants in metro Detroit, Ann Arbor, Windsor, selected restaurants statewide, and chain restaurants.

Foley, who lives in New York City, and received his master's degree from the University of Michigan, said the second edition will be available in November or December, and contain information on about 600 Michigan restaurants.

"I think it's wonderful to use the opinions of people to rate restaurants," said Foley. "This guide is created with consumers in mind."

The first edition is $9.95, and available in bookstores, or by calling toll-free 1-888-FOLEY-GD (345-3943). If you would like to participate in the next survey, write to: FoleyGuide, 60 East 42nd Street, Suite 1514, New York, NY 10164-2812. Survey participants receive a free copy of the next guide.

Restaurants are rated on a five-star scale — Among the best in the state, Outstanding, Good, Fair, and poor. Recommended dishes are listed with most often recommended dishes first, with dishes recommended by the same number of people in alphabetical order. There's an overall rating, and ratings for food, setting, service and value.

Twenty-two detailed maps in the guide will help you find your way. There are maps for downtown Detroit, including the riverfront, downtown Windsor, the northern suburbs — Rochester Hills, Lake Orion, Auburn Hills, Pontiac and Troy, Royal Oak, West Bloomfield, Birmingham, Farmington Hills, Plymouth, Livonia, and Ann Arbor.

Each entry is full of valuable information, and easy-to-understand symbols tell you at a glance if the restaurant accepts credit cards, serves alcohol, or is wheelchair accessible.

Overall ratings precedes restaurant name, followed by phone number, address, hours, parking information, type of food served, whether or not reservations are needed, cost, suggested dress, and recommended dishes.

People headed up north for a weekend, or vacation, will appreciate the information about Tapawingo in Ellsworth, Hattie's in Suttons Bay, and La Becasse in Maple City.

Chain restaurants are also rated including Applebee's Neighborhood Bar and Grill, Bill Knapp's, Bob Evans, and Denny's.

In the index, you'll find "Best of Listings" — The Lark in West Bloomfield topped the list of Best Restaurants (by overall rating) in metro Detroit, and Cafe Bon Homme in Plymouth, was tops for Best Food in metro Detroit.

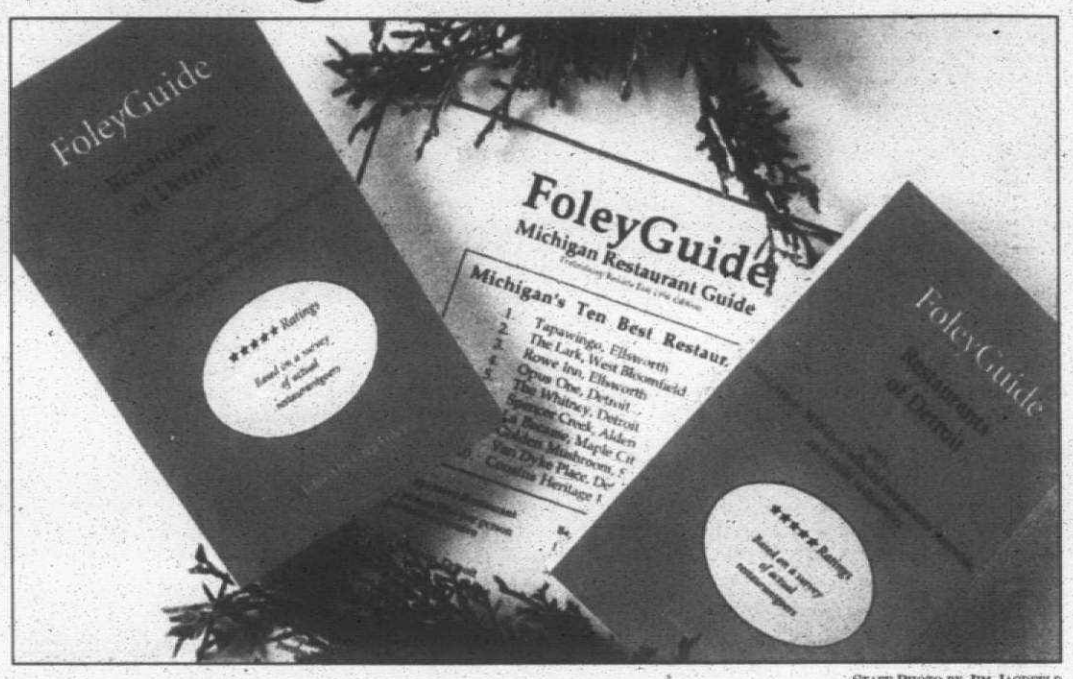

To learn who serves "Detroit's Best Hamburger," check the index — Miller's in Dearborn. Mountain Jacks is Best Restaurant (by overall rating) in the Chain category.

The index also lists restaurants by type of food — including French, Italian, Korean, German, Greek and Vegetarian. If you want to find a good Chinese restaurant or deli in your neighborhood, go to the back of the book and check the index.

By checking the index you can quickly find out what restaurants in metro Detroit, Ann Arbor and Windsor serve brunch, if they offer delivery service, outdoor dining, entertainment, serve afternoon tea, are open holidays, or have sporting events on television.

I found the guide easy, and fun to read.

There are lots of ways to look up restaurants. You can leaf through the guide, or go to the index to look up something in a hurry, which came in handy when a reader called and wanted to know if there were any French restaurants nearby.

Novi address, freeway access lure buyers

Robert Binder saw potential when he acquired a majority of the 32 lots in Greenwich Green, a platted subdivision off Eight Mile between Meadowbrook and Novi roads, about a year and a half ago.

"I thought Novi was a nice area. Novi has a nice school system, and school systems are the singular determiner of value in the metro area in my mind," the Farmington Hills builder said.

"Location is another thing," Binder said. "It's extremely accessible to the entire Detroit metro area and Ann Arbor. It's small. It can and will be a neighborhood. With one entry in and one out, it provides security."

"Price point, we're a little treasure in the middle of all these jewels," added Suzanne Lucas, Binder's administrative assistant.

"We back up to Chase Farms starting at $300,000. John Richards down the road is going up starting at $500,000," she said.

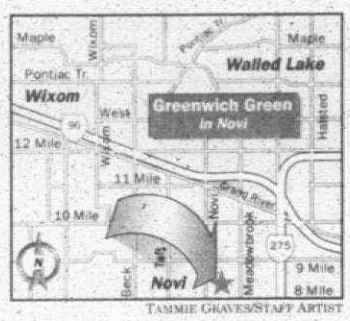

Buyers have a selection at Greenwich Green for less than $275,000.

Two basic plans are offered – a four-bedroom colonial of 2,800 square feet and a three-bedroom, two-story of 2,500 square feet with the master on the main floor.

A fireplace, two-car garage, dishwasher and basement are included at base price in both. Standard exterior materials are brick and vinyl siding with wood accents.

The finished model, the Lakeside, is a colonial priced at $254,900 to $284,000 depending on the lot selected.

Three features make this plan stand out – rounded walls in the den and half bath, curved drywall corners throughout and a laundry on the second floor where all the bedrooms are situated.

The main floor has a two-story foyer, den, living room, dining room with pan ceiling, kitchen/nook with island and built-in desk, and step-down family room.

A buffet/breakfast bar is between the nook and family room.

The master has a double-door entry, cathedral ceiling, two walk-in closets, dressing table, dual-sink vanity and separate tub and shower.

Three bedrooms and a second full bath also are upstairs.

"It's a very livable plan," Binder said. "People like spaces where they can separate and use spaces individually."

The two-story, Cranbrook II, includes a great room, study, dining room and laundry on the first floor. The master also is on the main living area.

Two bedrooms and a bath are upstairs.

Prices for the two-story range from $262,900 to $287,000 depending on lot location.

"Bob is accommodating," Lucas said. "He'll change anything around for the customer."

"I'm pretty accessible," Binder said. "I'm here every day. I know the people very well. I'm available."

Greenwich Green currently is served by city sewers and individual water wells, but Binder projects that city water will come on line within a year. At that time, he estimated that individual owners will be charged tap fees of $1,200.

The sub also has sidewalks.

The property tax rate for a house in Novi in the Novi School District is $36.32 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of market value. That means the owners of a $270,000 house in Greenwich Green would pay about $4,900 the first year.

Tim and Alice Woods, along with children Colin and Hannah, have moved into the colonial.

"We were looking for something in the area, convenient to the freeway," Tim said. "We looked at a ton of places. That was really the best value we found.

"The Lakeside has a very dramatic, open staircase," Woods said. "What we liked was the living space in back of the house, all the windows. We added windows, too. The master bedroom is huge."

Fawn and James Lin also purchased a colonial from Binder for themselves and daughter Tiffany.

"We like Novi. It's very convenient," Fawn said. "This house fit our price range and the type of home we like. I was looking for a nice-size family room and a kitchen that can overlook the family room.

"For house in this price range, I think this is the best arrangement," Fawn said.

The sales model at Greenwich Green, (810) 344-4663 is open 1-5 p.m. daily, closed Thursdays.

6 tips to get your downpayment together

If there is one primary stumbling block for a young couple looking to buy a house, it's getting together enough money for a downpayment and closing costs. The amount of money you have available can greatly increase or limit your purchasing power.

If you are thinking about entering the home market, this must be one of your first concerns. However, rather than saving all the money yourself, there are options that may help. Here are six ways that are acceptable to most mortgage lenders to accumulate the necessary money.

1. Have your parents give you the money as a gift.

Any taxpayer is permitted to give up to $10,000 per year to another person without having to pay a gift tax. Technically, your mother could give you $10,000 and give your spouse another $10,000. Your father could do the same.

This would give you $40,000 towards the downpayment and closing costs. Don't forget, no matter what the amount, documentation will be required to prove the money is actually a gift and not a loan.

2. Borrow against your 401(k) or insurance policy.

You may already have enough money saved through these accounts to put toward the downpayment. Remember, if you borrow against the 401(k) or insurance policy, it will be counted as debt and may affect the maximum amount of the mortgage you can acquire.

You can also cash out your 401(k) entirely, but this will also subject you to withdrawal penalties and payment of taxes. Be sure to consult a financial expert before making a move in this area.

3. Sell or borrow against an asset.

How important is buying a house? If you can live without a new car for a while, this is a way to accumulate some money quickly. You simply need to discipline yourself to save the money you would have otherwise put toward a monthly payment. Selling an asset such as a car or a boat can increase your available money. Borrowing against an asset is also acceptable, as long as you qualify for the mortgage with the additional debt.

4. Obtain a low-point or zero-point loan.

Although it may mean paying a slightly higher interest rate, a low-point or zero-point mortgage will reduce the amount of your closing costs substantially. In some instances, the mortgage lender can pay some of your non-recurring closing costs.

5. Ask the seller to pay for all or part of your non-recurring closing costs.

This item can be an important part of the negotiation between you and the seller. Ask your real estate or mortgage lending professional to assist you with this when you are ready to make an offer on a house.

6. Consider different loan programs.

Your loan officer can help you to determine the best loan program that suits your needs. There are a wide variety of these programs that require lower downpayments, and some programs will even assist you with closing costs.

There are also city and county downpayment assistance programs available. The most important thing when you are ready for a house purchase is to talk to the real estate and mortgage experts. They'll be glad to help you every step of the way.

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

This week's question:

Q. How much money do I really need to save in preparation for buying a house?

A. The old standard recommending 20 percent of the house's price for a downpayment is still a good goal to work toward. However, it is much more common these days to get a mortgage with as little as 5 percent to 10 percent down.

While using some of the sources listed above to help acquire the downpayment amount, you should consult a mortgage specialist for guidance.

For instance, 5 percent of the money you put down must be your own money (not a gift or a loan) for conventional loans if your downpayment is less than 20 percent.

In addition to saving for the downpayment, you will also need to have money available to cover closing costs.

Interest rate review:

Here are some recent interest rates that may be helpful to you in tracking the direction of rates for home mortgages. These are just a guide. Be sure to call a lender to get current rate quotes.

In Freddie Mac's Primary Mortgage Market Survey, the 30 year fixed rate for the North Central area for the week ended Aug. 16, 1996, moved slightly upward to 7.97 percent (U.S. average 7.88 percent). A week ago, the average for the U.S. was also 7.88 percent, and one year ago it was 7.94 percent. Current 15-year fixed-rate mortgages have edged up slightly to an average 7.47 percent. Adjustable-rate mortgages were recorded at 6.25 percent, up only sightly from last week's average of 6.24 percent for our area of the country.

David Mully is a Novi/Northville area mortgage loan officer with nine years mortgage financing experience. He is knowledgeable in all areas of financing with special interest in financing FHA-approved condominiums. Rooting out those root-eating grubs

If you have noticed irregular patches of yellow or brown grass, white grubs may be the culprit. These root-eating bandits lurk beneath the soil where they feed on turfgrass root systems.

To make matters worse, this destructive activity is only practice for when the tiny grubs "grow up" or pupate into adult Japanese beetles and emerge to attack nearby plants. Additional damage is caused as birds, moles and other insect-eating animals dig up your yard in search of grubs.

To determine if white grubs are present in your lawn, cut and pull up a section of grass in the affected area. Then look closely for the cream-colored, C-shaped offenders and any visible root damage they may have left behind.

Beetles prefer to lay eggs in moist soil. Infrequent waterings will allow your soil to dry out periodically, making it difficult for eggs to survive. Also, beetles like to lay eggs in closely cropped lawns, so in the summer raise your mowing height to between 2-1/2 and 3 inches.

Smaller house groups bedgrooms together

Ideal for a retired couple or a family who lives to be together, the Firwood groups bedrooms at one end and formal rooms at the other.

Protruding outwards from this family circle juts the hub of the family activity, the country kitchen, with eating bar and full pantry. Hot biscuits and fresh brewed coffee go down easily sitting in the breakfast nook, enveloped in sunshine from the front yard windows.

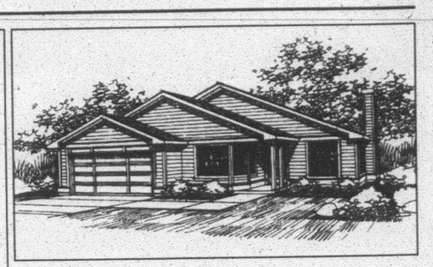

A glowing fireplace and an elegant vaulted ceiling lure guests from the foyer into the formal area. After a sit-down dinner, leave wining and dining behind, stand on the patio under the evening starts and take a deep breath.

Come bedtime, parents can breathe easy, knowing the children's rooms are next to the master suite, just in case a nightmare awakens the little ones and soothing is in order.

The master suite amenities include a private bathroom, linen closet, and a walk-in closet that provides plenty of room for any fashion lover. When that pricey fashion becomes just plain dirty launder, it's a sort trip to the full utility room, right off the garage.

This medium-sized house is prefect for a city lot. Designed for living, the Firwood makes the family the cornerstone of this design.

For a study kit of the Firwood (403-11), send $10 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-OE48, Eugene OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number.) For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular house plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Horse owners have their own way with life and real estate

BY STEVE WILLIAMS

Equestrians definitely go their own way.

How else do you explain these often very wealthy people driving down the road in mud-splattered, four-wheel drives and sitting in local coffee shops at six in the morning wearing faded jeans and rubber boots?

As a home builder who specializes in building for equestrians, I've found that their differences extend to the homes they live in.

Equestrians don't really care what others think of them.

They don't build as large, or as ostentatious, a home as others in their income group prefer. Their homes tend to be more practical, simpler, warmer with less design detail.

The equestrian homes that we've built in recent years have averaged about $115 per square foot, while homes for other clients have approached $150 per square foot.

And while the individual rooms are often rather large, the homes themselves don't tend to be. We've often built equestrian homes that were 4,500 square feet.

With four out of five equestrians keeping their horses on their property, it's not surprising that much of their focus is on the back of their homes.

They want large, utilitarian service areas such as mud rooms, boot storage areas and large laundry facilities. They prefer durable, attractive and easily cleanable floor surfaces such as tumbled marble.

And almost all the homes feature a large, furnished, screened-in back porch.

The rest of the home tends to lean toward informality as well.

Equestrians don't tend to entertain in their homes on a grand scale. When they stage riding events at their residence, they're held outside and are often tented gatherings for a few hundred.

When they do entertain in their homes, equestrians prefer smaller, more intimate parties, so the most important space in the home is often an open country kitchen/great room combination.

When it comes to their horses, equestrians tend to spare little expense. According to Equidaire magazine, the average equestrian spends 20 percent of his income on his horses.

When we build the stall barn, tack barn and training arena for our equestrian clients, they often account for more than 25 percent of the cost of the entire project.

■ Equestrians don't really care what others think of them.

Steve Williams
custom home builder

And because they tend to keep their horses at their residence, equestrians have larger properties. The minimum size property for keeping a horse may be quite small – about 10 acres – and the average size is closer to 30 acres.

In most cases, they're caring for between two and five horses at a time.

Finally, I've found that equestrians want to be comfortable with the workmen who are building their home. They tend to spend a lot of time at the site.

They will often sit and talk with the workmen, even take them to lunch. As a home builder with more than 20 years experience, I can say that truly does set them apart.

Steve Williams is president of Chapel Hill Homes in Clarkston and builds high-end custom homes in northern Oakland and southern Lapeer counties.

Nation needs healthy housing

The building industry accounts for millions of jobs, about five percent of the gross domestic product and billions of dollars worth of goods, services, wages and taxes each year, according to the National Association of Home Builders.

"In fact, housing accounted for as much as 33 percent of the growth in gross domestic product during the early quarters of the current economic rebound," said Gilbert "Buzz" Silverman, president of the Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan.

According to a recent NAHB survey, a family spends an average of $6,500 to furnish, decorate and improve its new home during the first year of ownership.

"That means buyers of the 1.1 million new homes forecast to be built in 1996 will pour an estimated $7.15 billion into their local economies when they furnish and equip those homes," said Silverman, a Farmington Hills-based residential builder.

Construction of 1,000 new single-family houses generates $60.5 million in wages and $33.2 million in federal, state and local taxes and fees while creating 2,097 worker-years of employment, the NAHB reported.

Construction of 1,000 multi-family units generates 800 worker-years of employment, $23.3 million in wages and $15.8 million in federal, state and local taxes and fees.

In 1994, the nation's home builders constructed a total of 1.45 million new housing units, providing jobs for 2.7 million people and generating $78.3 billion in wages and $43.8 billion in tax revenues.

New home construction and remodeling typically account for between four and five percent of the total domestic economy – or about $250 billion a year.

■ 'In fact, housing accounted for as much as 33 percent of the growth in gross domestic product during the early quarters of the current economic rebound.'

Gilbert Silverman
Building Industry Association of Southeastern Michigan

In 1994, home building and remodeling accounted for 4.3 percent of the U.S. gross domestic product.

"Because of the demand for new homes during the remainder of the decade, the housing industry will continue to play a crucial role in the nation's economy," Silverman said.

Between 1.3 and 1.5 million new houses, including multi-family units, will be needed annually to meet demand created by the formation of new households and the demand for trade-up homes.

Other growth sectors in the industry include senior housing and remodeling.

The demand for housing for the senior population is projected to increase by 10 percent over the next decade with the double impact of the aging of the baby boom generation and people generally living longer, healthier lives.

Similarly, the remodeling sector will continue its strong growth with expenditures estimated at $116 billion in 1996 and $200 billion by the turn of the century.

This trend is driven by a growing tendency to age in place and the aging of housing stock from a median age of 27 years in 1990 to 32 years by the end of the decade.

In addition, by that same time, the sheer number of homes in the country will rise from more than 100 million to 110 million.

Factories are making more homes

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) – A home builder says more people are warming to the idea of prefabricated houses as alternatives to traditional housing.

"We're just as busy as we can be," said Chuck Reynolds, who heads up Reynolds Construction Co.

"The houses are good quality and you can build them and have people in the house in three months instead of seven."

Reynolds puts the finishing touches on modular homes, which are made almost entirely in a factory. They come off the assembly line in finished sections that are shipped to the building site.

The sections are set in place over standard foundations and then finished by a builder like Reynolds, who adds a garage, a porch and even a second story.

According to statistics compiled by the Manufactured Housing Institute, shipments increased 12 percent last year after a 20 percent increase the year before.

"A manufactured house is about 15 to 20 percent less than a site-built home in terms of construction costs," said Kami Wilson of the Arlington, Va.-based housing institute.

Industry experts say the growing popularity of these nontraditional housing units can be attributed to the cost, quality and the number of options offered, including skylights, vaulted ceilings and sunken tubs.

Dick Mahnken, president of Heckaman Homes in Nappanee, Ind., said there's no question the quality of his firm's product has increased since 1969.

"Back in the '70s, modular housing was still using panel for the inside walls rather than drywall, for example," he said.

Prefabricated housing is gaining such acceptance that most insurance companies no longer make a distinction when issuing home owners' policies, said Mitch Wilson of Ohio Insurance Institute.

Get warmed up about your furnaces

I asked myself before writing this column, "Is it too early to write about furnaces?"

The obvious answer is that in just a few weeks, the evenings will have temperatures into the 50s and homeowners will turn up the thermostats. Those who are faced with a no-heat situation will call for service and it just might be a few days before anyone shows up.

I would ask you to keep in mind that the heating and cooling industry has been very busy these past two years, much more so than years past. They have had months of installations booked in advance and this fall and winter season may find homeowners waiting a bit longer than normal. For the majority of people who will wait until they can't take the cold temperature of inside living, beware.

It is a known fact that the first few weeks of cold weather are the hardest days to get prompt service from a heating company. Their phones are ringing off the hook and everybody wants service now. If you haven't had the furnace checked in the past two years, especially if it's 10 years or older, now is the time for you to call and set up an appointment before the panic season sets in.

Now, this isn't inexpensive, folks; it could cost anywhere from $49 to $99.99. The technician will check your heat exchanger to see if it's leaking carbon monoxide, lubricate and clean your blower and do other maintenance checks that should give you a year of heating comfort.

Caution: Now listen closely, I will be blunt and very candid and if it hurts somebody's feelings who is reading this, so be it. If I could use language thrown at me during my hockey days, I would do it. It caught my attention, which is what I'm trying to do here with this column – catch yours.

Are you so cheap that you wouldn't spend the dollars I quoted above, yet when the nice little voice calls you at home and says they are having a furnace nine-point check and cleaning for $19.95, you would commit to such a low price? If so, you have just become the fool and the joke's on you. This may sound cruel for me to say, but it's true and many consumers who have come to me after they were ripped off have admitted without any prompting, "I feel like a fool."

JOE GAGNON

Greed

Let's just say I'm writing a book and the book is fiction and I have a chapter on the heating industry. Here it goes, and remember, it's fiction.

"I started a business selling heating and air conditioning to homeowners and I had to find a way to make some quick money to support myself in the lifestyle I was accustomed to. I decided to use the word that was so incorporated into my soul to my advantage when dealing with the homeowner. I would use the word greed to take advantage of the person who wanted something done for a cheap price.

"I hired a dozen service technicians, some of which hardly had any knowledge of how a furnace works. I rented a separate office away from my warehouse full of air conditioners and furnaces. I enrolled 12 high school seniors to work the telephones five days a week and gave them a script to read to every homeowner they called.

"It was simple. Call the consumer and tell them we have a special going on this week for furnace cleaning. Send out the technician and have him scare the hell out of the consumer in regards to his or her unsafe furnace. Put a furnace in his truck or have one available quick. Sell the furnace at two or three times more than any other company sells it for, and at the rate of fools out there, I'm rich.

"Now it doesn't bother me that the Department of Labor and the attorney general are investigating my methods of business. I just close shop, have my business started again tomorrow under my girlfriend's name and nobody will be the wiser. It never bothered me that the person I took advantage of was a widow, 74 years old and living on a small fixed income. Tough; she should have been smarter."

End of chapter, folks, but not the end of the story. It's the beginning of the heating season, and one that will bring the area consumer to my door seeking help.

I know this when I meet them: They didn't read this column.

Joe Gagnon, the Appliance Doctor, will answer your questions about maintaining and repairing large appliances. Gagnon is president of Carmack Appliances in Garden City and does a weekly radio program on WJR-AM. He is author of "First Aid from the Appliance Doctor," available at area bookstores.

HIGH HOPES CONTEST

Submit your entries as follows:
PLEASE DO NOT CALL THE NEWSPAPER. Use the entry form below (or a facsimile) printed in this newspaper. Entries must be postmarked by Saturday, Aug. 31, 1996. Fill in all the blanks. Clearly print or type the information. Include area code with your telephone number and the best time of day to call if we wish to take photographs. Children should include their ages. Your comments about how you care for the plants can also be sent along with the entry. This information may be passed on to our readers when we announce the winners.
There are two categories of winners in this High Hopes Sunflower Contest. The tallest sunflower and the one with the largest seed head (not including the rays of the flower), grown in the 1996 season through Aug. 31.

1. Sunflower measurement must be taken from soil level to the base of the head where the stem attaches to the flower.
2. Seed head measurement must be taken diagonally across the seed head (not including the rays of the flower).
3. Participants must send the official entry form (or a facsimile) to: High Hopes Sunflower Contest, The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009. Judges will notify contest finalists to verify height and size.
4. Winners will be announced in the newspaper in September.
5. Employees and families of the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers aren't eligible.
6. Decisions of the judges are final.
7. Entrants must live in Oakland or Wayne County to be eligible.

Column covers a lot of ground

MARTY FIGLEY

This is an "odds and ends" column in which I will answer questions, talk about some new products and ask a favor of you.

Carolyn of Canton called some time ago about wisteria vines. I have had no luck in reaching her by phone, so, Carolyn, I hope you read this.

Yes, wisteria vines can be grown in Michigan. They do need full sun and a strong structure on which to grow if you want to train them, although some make handsome shrubs. Do a little research before making a purchase; there are several varieties.

It takes three to five years (or longer) for wisterias to bloom, so patience is necessary. After planting, keep them watered until they become established and fertilize in spring and summer; otherwise watch the growth and apply fertilizer when necessary, but beware – too much food and water will cause more foliage growth than flowers.

Pruning is an important part of growing wisterias and the book "Wisterias," Peter Valder (Timber Press), is full of good advice.

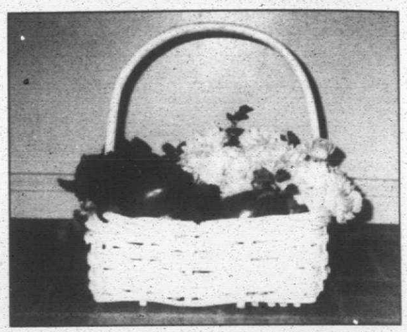

Nancy called and asked about Greenscreen, a product that is said to repel rabbits. To this date I haven't been able to find any information about this product. I called Uncle Luke's General Store in Troy and they recommend dried blood. Readers, help?

I have been told that Bounce dryer sheets affixed to clothing repel mosquitoes. Along this same line, dryer sheets repel rabbits. (Maybe blue for boy bunnies and pink for the girls?) Haven't tried them yet, but Joyce assured me they do.

Another caller wanted to know what caused brown spots on the bottom of her tomatoes. This condition is called blossom end rot and happens during dry periods; lack of water creates a deficiency in calcium uptake. Consistent watering beneath a mulch can help avoid this problem.

A person new at growing roses wondered why the tips of the roses were deep red. All new rose growth is deep red and assures you that the rose is growing and thriving. It will soon turn green.

And finally, a question about cucumbers with mottling or shriveling leaves. This is a serious disease called mosaic virus. No cure is known for this problem, so destroy the plants. Next year plant disease-resistant varieties in another garden area.

Last May I drove to Traverse City where I attended the 1996 Convention of the National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc., hosted by the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan Inc. What a great undertaking! More than 11,000 eager gardeners from all 50 states and as far away as Peru were in attendance.

Much important business was conducted, but there was time for learning and fun. Several regional tours were offered. Programs were designed with the future in mind; workshops were well attended. Educational exhibits whetted appetites and the speakers were informative and interesting. I urge all Federated Garden Club members to consider attending the next convention. It will be time well spent.

Mower project

Now my question to you. Are any of you or a neighbor using push mowers? I would like to visit to find out why and share your comments in a future column. Perhaps a small yard or concern with the environment is the reason you choose to use this type of mower.

If you wish to be a part of this "project," please send a postcard to me; include your area code and the best time to call. Address the postcard to The Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham 48009.

LET'S REMODEL

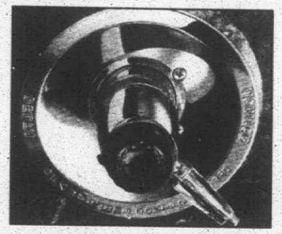

New valves prevent hot shower shock

Q: When I take a shower and someone else uses the dishwasher or flushes the toilet, my shower temperature fluctuates from cold to hot. What can I do to resolve this?

A: Your problem is not uncommon. These are known as "temperature shocks" and are caused by sudden changes in the water system (such as someone flushing a toilet).

More than 5,000 children are scalded by hot water in the tub each year, according to the National Safe Kids Campaign. In addition, hot water scalds account for 20 percent of all burns. These facts have prompted manufacturers to respond with several engineering breakthroughs.

First are "anti-scald" valves with built in thermostat. This is the most advanced way to safely and precisely protect yourself from scalding. This valve simply allows you to dial the desired temperature just as you would the air conditioning or heating in your home – it's that simple, that worry-free, the ultimate in safety, comfort, luxury and quality. Accurate to within 1 degree fahrenheit regardless of temperature or pressure fluctuations. These are the most sophisticated shower systems available today.

Delta Monitor: This is a "pressure balance" anti-scald valve.

The second style anti-scald valves are called "pressure balance" valves. These valves also protect you from sudden temperature changes due to anything from flushing the toilet to running the washing machine. However, unlike the previous anti-scald valve, these valves do not allow you to accurately set your desired temperature prior to turning on the water.

The third way to prevent scalding is with the use of "hot water sensors." These devices are designated to be installed on existing showers, faucets and tubs. Unlike the previous anti-scald valves that also maintain water temperature, hot water sensors are designed to automatically shut off the water before scalding occurs. These sensors use a patented actuator that automatically shut off the water flow when the water temperature reaches 114 degrees, well below the 120 degrees where scalding injuries begin to occur. These devices can be installed easily by the do-it-yourselfer and are available at most plumbing supply stores.

Finally, anti-scald valves have become mandatory in new construction in many areas of North America. Due to the fact that thousands of people are scalded annually due to sudden surges of scalding water, every home should be equipped with one of these devices, especially ones with children, the elderly and handicapped.

Take care of camera to take good shots

MONTE NAGLER

In the past, I've touched on the importance of taking care of your camera and lenses. Today, I would like to cover this subject in more detail. After all, if there's a problem with your camera equipment, you just may not get the shot.

It's obvious that cameras and lenses are delicate and expensive instruments that need to be treated with care.

Water, dust and dirt are the worst enemies. If your camera is taken to the beach, keep it wrapped in a plastic bag when not in use. Even on the calmest days sand seems to get in every crack so extra care needs to be taken.

Be careful around water, too. A camera accidentally dropped in water can be ruined. If you enjoy shooting in or around the water, underwater disposable cameras are available as well as waterproof housings for more sophisticated cameras.

When a camera isn't in use, it should be kept in its case. And if it isn't going to be used for some time the batteries should be removed. If left in the camera, they may corrode the contacts and cause irreparable damage.

Always keep a skylight or UV (ultraviolet) filter on each of your lenses. They serve as good protection for each lens. Think of them as an "insurance" policy. After all, a scratched or broken filter is cheaper to replace than a damaged lens.

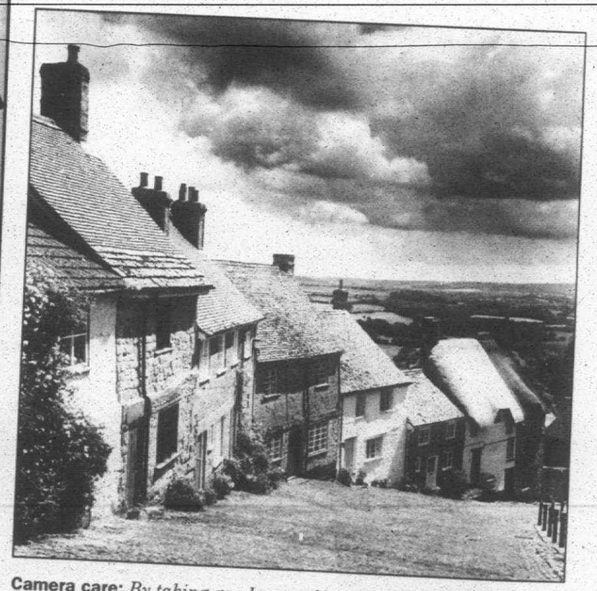

Best way to clean your camera? Use a soft cleaning cloth, blower brush or can of pressurized air. All of these are available at your camera shop. Q-Tips are also very handy for getting into those hard-to-reach places.

For lenses and filters, use lens cleaning tissues. Facial tissues can put minute scratches in the glass so they should be avoided.

If something jams in or on your camera and the fault isn't apparent, take it to your camera store or send it to a reputable repair shop. If it is still under warranty, return it to your dealer or send it directly to the manufacturer.

Taking proper care of your equipment will assure that you'll continue to bring home the winning shots.

Monte Nagler is a fine art photographer based in Farmington Hills. You can leave him a message by dialing (313) 953-2047 on a touch-tone phone, then his mailbox number, 1873. His fax number is (810) 644-1314.

COVER STORY

House has charm you can live with

BY MARY KLEMIC
AT HOME EDITOR

Harmonious setting: Elements such as art pieces, carpeting and furniture work together in the Bloomfield Hills home arrangement by interior designer Eve Garvin. Staff photos by Steve Cantrell.

For me a house is charming if it's comfortable," said interior designer Eve Garvin of West Bloomfield.

Garvin, formerly of Southfield, stuck to this practice on a recent project at a Bloomfield Hills house. Much of the character of the house – the childhood home of actress Christine Lahti – was hidden under white walls and linoleum floors.

"The house has a lot of character," a resident said. "It's a great house."

Garvin isn't one to throw everything out and start over.

"If I have something I can work with, I'm happy to do it," she said.

In the harmonious result of the project, furnishings and architectural touches complement one another, causing a ribbon of recognition to run among the rooms. For example, curves in accessories in the powder room with part of the pattern in the wallpaper; large tassels on cabinets with tiny tassels on throw pillows; the form caused by gathered material in off-white lamp shades with shapes in furnishings and drapes. It's charm you can live with – as warming to the heart as it is pleasing to the eye.

Instead of white, walls were given a rich green color or antiqued look, and molding was added around perimeters. The linoleum was replaced with area rugs, allowing some of the tile floor to show. Creative treatments were placed around windows, such as the broad fabric frame in the library.

In the living room, different themes are carried out to gracious and graceful effect. A design in the oak fireplace features a shape echoed in the andirons. A floral freshness is conveyed in the dried topiaries on the mantel (a design of which curves like a vine), a small floral painting by Richard Jerzy over the fireplace and a flowery pattern in the carpet. An Oriental air is carried through low, square, black-lacquered chairs, a small screen and a larger work displayed on opposite walls, and a big vase holding greenery.

Other elegant elements include windows featuring gracefully draped valances and gathered white lace over the bottom half of panes, a square red table that adds a bold dash of color, and upholstery on sofas bearing muted silver-and-gold wide bands.

The living room flows into the great room, and they have similar elements: a fireplace, black-lacquer chairs, a large vase, a square table (the red piece in the living room, a low coffee table in the great room). From a position between the two rooms, you see the fireplaces are directly across from each other, and the large vases are diagonally opposite. White sliding doors can be pulled out to separate the rooms.

In the great room, another Jerzy painting adorns one wall. The work shows a room in the artist's own house and features lamp shades that softly light up in the dark.

An abstract painting over the fireplace here bears colorful forms that resemble flames. The square coffee table and squares in the pattern of a sofa and chair set complement one another. Another sofa is chenille.

"Chenille is wonderful. It's indestructible.

"Everything here is childproof really."

Also in the room are small stacked triangular tables, wingback chairs by the fireplace and special hardware on doors.

In the dining room, the windows also have gathered white lace on the bottom half, but their top half features fabric shaped to form an arch, hiding the actual straight line of the window. This touch, which Garvin said softens the room, is subtly echoed by the curved backs of chairs, loops in the chandelier and trim of the border on the mirror.

The designer credited Hickory Chair with furniture, Scalamandre, Nobilis and Robert Allen with fabrics, Michael Fellwood with flowers, Brunschwig & Fils with fabrics and wall coverings and Azar's with area rugs.

Harvesting A Cure is helping solve the puzzle of cancer by building the world's largest corn maze.

In a 247,975-square foot cornfield, the metropolitan Detroit-based nonprofit organization has created the Lincoln-Mercury Amazing Maize Maze, a three-dimensional labyrinth featuring more than three miles of paths. Amazingly, this feat of farming science was constructed for the first time ever in an urban setting.

With the support of title sponsor Lincoln-Mercury Division and the use of land owned and donated by Ford Motor Land Development Corp., 100 percent of the net proceeds from the event, which is expected to cultivate $1 million, will be directed to charitable institutions committed to cancer research and patient care programs.

Now through late September, the Amazing Maize Maze is open to the public 9 a.m. to dusk Friday-Sunday. On weekdays, the maze is available to corporations and organizations for private use, such as team-building exercises, company picnics and motivational and morale-boosting retreats.

The event features a crop of family-oriented activities designed to entertain as well as educate attendees. Sited on 30 acres, the gigantic puzzle is embellished with a myriad of theatrical devices, including symphonic music, two-way communication and lookout towers. Navigational clues incorporating information on cancer prevention and interesting facts surrounding the automotive industry's 100-year history are strategically placed throughout the complicated paths to guide "corn-fused" participants on their journey.

A petting zoo, a children's maze and a cornucopia of food complete the "bringing the country to the city" atmosphere of the event.

The 5-1/2-acre maze is on Mercury Drive at Ford Road in Dearborn. Tickets are $8.50 for age 12 and up and $5.50 for children between ages 5 and 11. Children under age 5 are admitted free.

For information, call (800) 449-CORN. Tickets are available at all TicketMaster Ticket Centers including Hudson's, Harmony House and Blockbuster Music locations. To charge tickets by phone, call (810) 645-6666.

It will take most people about 70 to 90 minutes to complete the maze, event organizers said. They advise people to come with comfortable shoes, a sense of humor and a desire for a challenge.

"I can't think of too many families that haven't been personally touched by cancer, including my own," said Jim O'Connor, Lincoln-Mercury Division general manager.

"We at Lincoln-Mercury believe very deeply in supporting efforts to help find a cure, particularly ones such as the Amazing Maize Maze, which will raise research money and educate people of all ages about cancer prevention."

"In this 100th anniversary year of the automobile, it gives us a great sense of satisfaction to give back to the community by generating substantial funds for a very worthwhile cause," said Edward Wizner, Harvesting A Cure co-founder and co-producer of the maze.

"Not only will this unique event provide fun for the whole family, it is certain to be a real learning experience."

In honor the automotive industry's 100th anniversary, the maze, planned by world-renowned maze designer Adrian Fisher and production manager Don Frantz, will portray an 1896 quadricycle, Henry Ford's first working car. The team of Fisher and Frantz is responsible for a three-acre maze in Shippensburg, Pa., constructed last summer that set the current world's record.

"One in every three Americans will be diagnosed with cancer during his or her lifetime," said Molly Moons, co-founder of Harvesting A Cure and co-producer of the maze, explaining the inspiration to stage this world class wonder.

"This insidious disease not only affects patients, but their family members and friends as well. Ed and I, along with Tom Spillane, founded Harvesting A Cure based on the principle that everyone can participate in the quest to cure cancer."

Visit history on house tour in Marshall

Thirteen structures built between 1848 and 1939, including eight private homes and an antique post office, will be featured on the 33rd annual Marshall Historic Home Tour, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8.

Also featured will be juried arts and crafts shows, antique shows, snack booths, lunches, bake sales, a Civil War encampment, musical entertainment and a parade. The tour is sponsored by the Marshall Historical Society.

Tickets, good both days, are $10 before Aug. 31 and $12 after. Children under 12 are admitted free. Free parking and shuttle bus service will be provided. To order advance tickets by mail, send a check or money order (to be received by Aug. 31), to the Marshall Historical Society, P.O. Box 68, Marshall 49068.

For more information, call the Marshall Chamber of Commerce at (800) 877-5163. Marshall is in lower central Michigan near the intersection of I-94 and I-69.

Among the architectural styles seen on the tour will be Italianate, Modified Colonial Revival, Queen Anne, Italian Villa, Tudor, Gothic and Greek Revival. A featured museum, the 1860 Honolulu House, has beautifully restored wall and ceiling murals.

The tour attracts thousands of visitors to Marshall. Come early in the day and stay overnight; call for hotel information.

Farmer Jack card brings new savings

Knoppow's Wallpaper and Blinds is the latest company to join the list of businesses participating in the Farmer Jack Bonus Savings Club.

By presenting their Bonus Savings Club card, members will receive exclusive discounts on blinds, wallpaper and more.

Knoppow's is famous for free shop at home blind service and custom blinds. Bonus Savings Club members will receive sale prices plus $5 off per blind on Hunter Douglas window fashions, and sale prices plus $1 off per single roll on special order wallpaper by Warner. The offer is good on selected items through Nov. 30, 1996. Knoppow's shop at home service can be reached at (800) 566-7769.

Farmer Jack customers can join the club by filling out a free application at their local Farmer Jack supermarket. Members receive a personalized Bonus Savings Club card with a bar code on the back. The card can then be used for automatic discounts on selected Farmer Jack items each week. The card is also used for special promotions and events sponsored by Farmer Jack.

Instead of clipping out Farmer Jack in-store coupons and presenting them to the cashier at check-out, Bonus Savings Club members simply present their cards to the cashier at check-out. Coupon savings are automatically deducted from the total on the register tape on those items bought that required the coupon. The card is also used for check cashing purposes on approval.

The Bonus Savings Club card is valid at businesses throughout southeastern Michigan. By presenting their card, members will receive exclusive discounts on many items from Knoppow's and the following:

Midas, Art Van, Dunham's Discount Sports, Ryder Truck Rental, D.O.C., Harmony House, Carnival Cruises, Crowley's, Hertz, Valvoline Instant Oil Change and the Soap Opera Fun Fair (coming Sept. 21-22).

Late summer courses offer something for naturalist

Late summer can be one of the most exciting times to search for late-season insects or follow the fall migration of millions of birds.

See the majestic sights of Sugar Island or brush up on your mushrooms skills.

Regardless of your level of interest, the University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens' adult education courses will help get you started.

For more information, call (313) 998-7061.

• Search for late-season dragonflies, such as gliders, darners and meadow flies, 7-8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 28, and 8 a.m. to noon Sundays, Sept. 1 and 8. Cost is $55.

Discover hybrid sulphur butterflies and species that have wandered north, as well as the praying mantis.

• A fall migration course will take place 7-8:30 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 29, and 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays, Aug. 31 and Sept. 7. Cost is $60.

Perhaps the most exciting time of year for bird watchers is the fall migration. Millions of birds are heading to their wintering grounds. This is the time of year when populations are at their peak and many species can be found in the hundreds and thousands.

Learn about the relationship between birds, butterflies and dragonflies that are migrating simultaneously through the Ann Arbor area.

Go wild over Michigan's mushrooms

RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON

Chanterelle, Stumper, and Shaggy Manes. These aren't new haute coiffed couture, they are three of the many edible fall mushrooms soon to be found across Michigan – especially Up North, where forest floors will soon be exploding with fungi.

Be sure to bring an expert, or clear, concise mushroom identification books (with terrific photos), if you plan to pick your own wild mushrooms. Don't simply rely on the silver coin test! There is no room for making mistakes – poisonous mushrooms are deadly!

Edible wild mushrooms are absolutely delicious, but it is imperative that you know which ones are safe to eat. If you have identified mushrooms that are safe, but haven't previously tried them, eat only a small amount of the "new" cooked ones to see if your metabolism can tolerate them. Everyone's metabolism is different. Some people may have an adverse reaction to certain edible wild mushrooms, but not to others. Make sure you don't eat wild mushrooms raw – cook them!

Springbrook Hills Resort in Walloon Lake (near Boyne City), is offering three fall weekend mushroom outings, Hunting, Food and Fun(gi), Aug. 23-25, Sept. 6-8 and Sept. 27-29.

Mushroom guides Royal Olsen and Larry Hildreth bring 50 years of experience between them, and will help you hunt for, and identify, wild mushrooms, as well as provide an education for the novice with videos and books galore. If you'd like to join this Mushroom Mania, call Joe Breidenstein, (616) 535-2227.

If you're too nervous to go out picking, you can always buy edible dried wild mushrooms prepackaged at upscale groceries and specialty food shops. I find the adventure of the "hunt" as much fun as the eating!

Many wild mushrooms are also being cultivated and can be grown at home as a science project for children, or for whipping up an exotic gourmet meal. Oyster mushrooms and Shiitakes can be grown on a commercially produced log that arrives in the mail, inoculated with its pure culture of Oyster or Shiitake spawn and ready to fruit. The mushroom log comes with instructions and recipes. To order, write Aux Delices Des Bois, 4 Leonard Street, New York, N.Y. 10013, or call (800) 666-1232.

■ To clean wild mushrooms: It is best to wipe fresh wild mushrooms with a wet paper towel or damp cloth. If necessary, brush clean with a soft mushroom brush, or a clean, old, soft, toothbrush. Never soak mushrooms; they drink up the water and their flavor is lost. Don't peel mushrooms. Handle mushrooms with care as most mushrooms are rather delicate. Separate the stems from the cap to check for insects; the stems get maggots first. In the case of Stumpers (honey mushrooms), eat only the caps!

■ To store wild mushrooms: Mushrooms don't keep well and should be used as soon as possible . Use within a couple of days. Store fresh mushrooms in brown paper or waxed paper bags and place in the crisper section of your refrigerator. Never store in plastic bags – the mushrooms break down, and become slimy.

■ Preserving wild mushrooms: To dry: if the weather is warm, mushrooms can be sun dried on a piece of clean screen or placed in a hanging mesh bag (the kind for delicate laundry will do) or dry on a wire rack in the oven — make sure the temperature is kept very low with the door slightly ajar. If the temperature exceeds 140 degrees F., the mushrooms will begin to cook, blacken and loose their flavor.

Another option for drying mushrooms is to thread them on thin string and hang them in a dry place. This method works best for morels. When your mushrooms are dried to a brittle stage, place in an airtight jar for storage.

Mushrooms can also be preserved by pickling them in vinegar or by freezing. I personally don't freeze fresh mushrooms, as they only last about a month, and freezing diminishes their flavor. If freezing, you may want to saute your mushrooms in butter or oil along with some onion and garlic — then freeze.

■ Mushrooms are virtually calorie free.

■ Wild mushrooms have a higher moisture content — you need more, they shrink!

■ Chanterelles and Shaggy Manes contain a lot of water, be careful when sauteing in butter or oil, they spatter. Drain off the liquid and reserve for stock.

■ A squeeze of lemon on mushrooms will bring out their flavor and prevent them from discoloration.

■ Mushrooms are great marinated in olive oil and herbs, then grilled.

■ Mushrooms pair well with nutmeg, a variety of herbs, butter and cream.

■ Batter-coated Oyster mushrooms make great tempura.

■ To reconstitute dried mushrooms — soak in warm water for 20-30 minutes, or overnight in cold water. Use the mushroom water in stocks or recipes, strain first.

■ Grind your completely dried mushrooms into a powder, and use as a seasoning.

■ Wild mushrooms are delicious when cooked by themselves, or added to meat, poultry, eggs, pasta, potatoes, pizza; or used in fillings for tarts, crepes, dumplings, wontons, kreplach or ravioli. Super as an ingredient in stuffings, and delicious added to stews, soups and stir-frys.

Magazine features house by area builder

You may have a sense of deja vu looking at this month's Better Homes and Gardens magazine.

That's because the magazine presents a feature on its Home of the Year, which was the cover story in At Home Jan. 25.

John Shekerjian of John Richards Homes of Birmingham was builder of the house, which was open for public tours in the Autumn Park Subdivision in Novi. The interior design was by Joseph Boehm, Better Homes and Gardens senior interior designer. Randy Grange of TRG Associates was the architect.

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

In the past, I've touched on the importance of taking care of your camera and lenses. Today, I would like to cover this subject in more detail. After all, if there's a problem with your camera equipment, you just may not get the shot.

It's obvious that cameras and lenses are delicate and expensive instruments that need to be treated with care.

Water, dust and dirt are the worst enemies. If your camera is taken to the beach, keep it wrapped in a plastic bag when not in use. Even on the calmest days sand seems to get in every crack so extra care needs to be taken.

Be careful around water, too. A camera accidentally dropped in water can be ruined. If you enjoy shooting in or around the water, underwater disposable cameras are available as well as waterproof housings for more sophisticated cameras.

When a camera isn't in use, it should be kept in its case. And if it isn't going to be used for some time the batteries should be removed. If left in the camera, they may corrode the contacts and cause irreparable damage.

Always keep a skylight or UV (ultraviolet) filter on each of your lenses. They serve as good protection for each lens. Think of them as an "insurance" policy. After all, a scratched or broken filter is cheaper to replace than a damaged lens.

Best way to clean your camera? Use a soft cleaning cloth, blower brush or can of pressurized air. All of these are available at your camera shop. Q-Tips are

Antique show bottles up information

The Metropolitan Detroit Antique Bottle Club presents its 23rd annual show and sale 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25, at the United Food and Commercial Workers Hall, 876 Horace Brown Drive, between 12 and 13 Mile and just east of I-75 in Madison Heights.

More than 70 sale tables will feature nationally prominent antique dealers from six states. Admission is $3. With paid admission, knowledgeable collectors will be available to offer free appraisal of an Early American bottle, jug or jar that is brought to the event. Call (810) 546-9015 or (810) 548-8770 for more information. The phone number of the hall is (810) 585-9671.

Old bottles? Old fruit jars with cast-iron closures? Pickle jars manufactured before Heinz had even one variety? Old whiskey decanters that can sell up to $40,000 empty? Sure, all this and much more.

Want something cheaper? For $5, try an item from the panacea patent medicine era with its wild claims for curing "what ails you" or a "Drunkness Cure" bottle (its original contents were 80 proof).

The Metropolitan Detroit Antique Bottle Club has promoted the glass collecting hobby locally. Its membership includes museum curators and affiliated consultants, in addition to everyday people from all walks of life.

The club's focus is on old bottles, jars and other glass-related antiques that can range from hand-held items to coin-operated machines.

Auction, preview scheduled

The Frank H. Boos Gallery, 420 Enterprise Court in Bloomfield Hills, will conduct an auction 6 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday, Aug. 27-29.

A three-day preview will take place noon to 8 p.m. Thursday-Friday, Aug. 22-23, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Aug. 26. For more information, call the gallery at (810) 332-1500.

The auction will feature property belonging to two prominent East Coast antique dealers, numerous estates and private collectors. It will include paintings, furniture, Navajo rugs and blankets, Oriental rugs, contemporary graphics, jewelry, Royal Doulton, European and American porcelains, decorative arts, art glass, sterling silver and American sculpture and collectibles.

also very handy for getting into those hard-to-reach places.

For lenses and filters, use lens cleaning tissues. Facial tissues can put minute scratches in the glass so they should be avoided.

If something jams in or on your camera and the fault isn't apparent, take it to your camera store or send it to a reputable repair shop. If it is still under warranty, return it to your dealer or send it directly to the manufacturer.

Taking proper care of your equipment will assure that you'll continue to bring home the winning shots.

HOME ELECTRONICS

Tiny TVs can have big uses

BARRY JENSEN

Tiny television sets are available that allow you to go places and do things without losing touch with electronic civilization. The littlest TVs have a screen size of from 2" diagonal measure up. What sets them apart from the bigger TVs is that they draw very little current and can be carried in a purse or pocket.

These tiny TVs are available at most appliance stores and range in price from $100 to more than $300, depending on the screen size and what other features you want.

Such a tiny television set has many uses. If it runs on batteries, it has exactly the same function as a battery-powered radio: your source of information during a power failure or natural disaster.

However, if your spouse is watching the big TV, you can go out in the garden (or even for a walk) and watch your favorite program.

Or if you like to camp, you watch TV for an hour or two anywhere there is a signal, whether broadcast or even on cable.

If your children are old enough to respect a small electronic device, they can wander into the other room to watch their very own TV. These solid-state TVs are relatively hardy, but they ARE electronic devices and can be abused.

Accessories include a head set that plugs into the set for private viewing. Tiny TVs also hide wonderfully under the blanket in bed at night. This is the '90 version of reading comic books under the covers with a flashlight.

If you travel and frequently stay in rooms without TVs (yes, there are such), a tiny TV with an AC adapter will keep you in touch with the world.

It is ideal for traveling. All you need is access to an electrical outlet in an area that receives normal-strength TV signals and you're set for the duration. If you are without electrical power, you can still watch TV for a couple hours.

If you have access to an outdoor television antenna, most of these TVs can be connected to an outside antenna for a better picture. If you have cable, the newer one can be connected to cable to see a movie while the rest of the family is watching the Lions game on broadcast TV.

The first tiny TVs were black and white, but now they are available in color as well as black and white. Some sets have a liquid crystal diode screen while others use an active matrix. Active matrix gives a better color picture.

All these TVs are battery powered. Battery-power usually means AA batteries, which are available most everywhere.

But because most tiny TVs operate just a couple hours on batteries, you can either buy rechargeable batteries and a battery charger or an AC adapter. You just plug the AC adapter into the wall outlet and into the TV.

The AC adapter changes the electrical current available in your home into the low voltage the TV can use. Adapters are used on electric razors, book lights or any similar battery-powered appliance. Adapters are easily available and cost about $20.

Having a tiny TV repaired can be a nuisance, although the solid-state TVs are hardy. Radio Shack offers a line of tiny TVs that can be returned to Radio Shack for repairs. A sick TV is sent out for repairs for you.

Building blocks: The seller's disclosure statement and disclosure of agency relationship have worked well toward forging a new era in real estate practices.

BY NORMAN PRADY
SPECIAL WRITER

Are you in favor of honesty?

If so, you'll likely be pleased to hear that two 1994 Michigan laws, intended to enhance the ethics of real estate transactions, appear to be doing their jobs.

One of the laws requires the seller of a house to disclose its condition. Previously, houses were sold in the age-old "buyer beware" manner. The other law permits real estate agents to represent buyers. Previously, agents only worked for sellers.

"I think it is good that everything is out in the open," said Carol Clark, associate Realtor at Century 21 Associates, Novi, speaking about the seller's disclosure requirement.

"It's good for the buyers to understand as much as they can," Clark said. As for the sellers' attitude about answering the disclosure questions, she said, "I tell them, 'You have to answer honestly.' "

The disclosure form, which lists aspects of the house's condition and asks "Yes," "No," "Unknown," or "Not Applicable," is "a really vague statement," said Ken Gentile, salesman at Re/Max 100 Inc., Novi, "but it's eliminated some of the lawsuits." With the law, Gentile said, "it's safer to buy a house."

Gentile sees little likelihood, or usefulness, in lying about defects – water in the basement, for example. "If you're a knowledgeable agent and you're walking through a home and there's a musty smell or other indications of water, such as marks on the walls or floor, you'll know" there is a problem.

"I think the seller's disclosure cuts down on any misunderstandings," said Edwina Luckett, associate Realtor at Chamberlain Royal Oak, who agrees that there is no point in not being forthright.

If a seller were to say there has never been a water problem, "but the basement has just been painted," Luckett said, "The inspector will alert the buyer." Her experience is that "99 percent of the buyers" she works with have the houses inspected by a professional.

"Useful," said Carol Volante, Realtor at ERA Country Ridge Realty, Farmington Hills, of the disclosure form. It "protects buyer and seller." And then the buyers have a choice: "Do they want this house with this problem or not."

It was time, said Linda Rock, president of Michigan Association of Realtors, to "have someone take the responsibility to tell the property buyers what they expect if they bought used homes."

In effect, Rock said, the form is a type of homeowner's diary: "We've lived in this house and this is what we've experienced." A summertime buyer, Rock said, wants to know that the furnace will start up in the winter, that an old furnace is still working fine, that the roof is OK, that no one has seen termites.

"We can't make a perfect world," Rock said. "But I've found the disclosure form makes the transaction much smoother.

"And the seller starts to think about things. Get things fixed." It all "adds a level of comfort," and even relieves the seller of responsibility which could result from concealment of a problem.

Agency disclosure – acting as a buyer's agent – "sets some rules," Rock said, so that buyers and sellers "understand why you can and cannot tell them certain things."

Theoretically, the buyer's agent will focus directly on the buyer's needs and will gather as much information as possible, and will recommend procedures for making offers and purchases.

"Buyers had the impression," Clark said, "that we worked for them. Now they feel comfortable that we're trying to do as much as we can," for them, when they request a buyer agent.

But are there any special hazards for the agent, if the buyer is expecting to learn everything there is to learn about the housing market? For example, could the buyer sue the agent for not providing complete information, such as details of area homes for sale by owner?

Liability, Luckett said, is limited by the details spelled out in the agent buyer contract which is drawn and signed by both parties.

A contract, for example, could state that the agent will provide information only available through the local multi-listing system, and specifically exclude homeowner offerings.

"Agency disclosure is a good thing," Luckett said. "It clarifies the relationship and offers a "level of comfort."

Also in Luckett's comments is a suggestion that home-buying has possibly outgrown the ask-high/offer-low secretive patterns of the past and that this evolutionary step is coincidental with the two new laws.

"If you price competitively," she tells sellers, "you'll probably get your price.

"Buyers today are very sophisticated. And agents today know that they won't last long without integrity."

Gambling hasn't help New Orleans, but it should

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I understand that there is gambling proposed in the Detroit area. I am wondering what effect it would have on adjacent real estate, based upon experiences in other cities.

A. Your question is directed at an opportune time since I have just had an opportunity to evaluate the New Orleans experience as it relates to gambling.

New Orleans has instituted riverboat gambling and was in the process of constructing what would appear to be an extravagant gambling palace, but, unfortunately, the developer got into legal problems and abandoned the project. What is left is an eyesore in the middle of downtown New Orleans, although it is certain that the rippling effect of the gambling casino would have inspired additional activity in the downtown area.

My evaluation of the New Orleans situation is that the facility will be completed at some future point in time and will serve as a stimulus to real estate development in the area, and I would expect that the same would be the case in Detroit if for no other reason than it is attracting people who require ancillary services while in the casinos, including parking restraint and the like.

Q. We are in a resort condominium, and we are concerned about the management of the condominium project being not independent from that of the developer. We are concerned also that the association managing agent, while on premises, chooses to pick persons to assist in the management of the association who do not necessarily look out for the best interests of the association.

What can we do?

A. The managing agent of your association owes a fiduciary duty to your association and not to anyone else. If the management company is affiliated with the developer in some fashion, there is a potential for a conflict of interest that should be carefully examined.

The managing agent should be looking out for the best interests of the association, which means that those persons who are retained by the association have a fiduciary duty to operate in the best interests of the association and not the developer.

To the extend that the management company is not discharging its responsibilities, it should be removed immediately. To the extent that the managing agent is taking direction from the developer when the association is controlled by the members, the management company and the developer, in effect, may be conspiring to undermine the best interests of the association.

You are best advised to consult with independent legal counsel who does not have an affiliation with the management company or the developer to assist you.

■RE/MAX charity

The fourth annual RE/MAX Miracle Classic golf outing at Moravian Hills Country Club last month raised more than $15,000 for the RE/MAX Communication Station Preschool at Children's Miracle Network affiliate William Beaumont Hospital.

More than 150 RE/MAX Realtors and guests contributed through sponsorships and sales of golf tickets and Children's Miracle Network merchandise.

A live auction featuring autographed sports memorabilia raised more than $6,500 of the day's total.

The funds constitute a scholarship program for the only hospital-based, fully-licensed preschool program in the country exclusively for speech and language impaired children.

The RE/MAX Detroit Metro region comprises 490 full time professionals in 33 offices.

■Real estate investors

The Real Estate Investors Association of Oakland hosts a dinner seminar, "High Tech Collections on the Internet," 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 13, at the Royal Oak American Legion, 1815 Rochester Road.

Cost is $13 for members, $23 for non-members, $10 for non-members who want to attend the seminar only.

Heat, cool and save energy with heat pump

Is there a heat pump in your future? If your house isn't already equipped with a heat pump, you may want to consider one of these versatile devices that not only heat your home in winter and cool your home in summer but can save you money on your monthly energy bills.

A heat pump is neither miraculous nor new. The first factory-made units rolled off production lines more than three decades ago. Millions of heat pumps are in operation in every section of the country – schools, offices, hotels, stores, and industrial plants, as well as homes.

Why the continued, and even increasing, popularity of heat pumps? It's because design improvements have created a new generation of heat pumps that offer reliability, as well as efficiency and energy savings.

A heat pump can often replace both furnace and central air-conditioning equipment with a single heating-cooling system, thereby "pumping" heat into the home in winter and into the outdoors in summer. In summer, an air-to-air pump operates as a standard air conditioner, collecting heat from the air in your home and expelling it outside. In winter, the process is reversed so that the heat pump collects heat from outdoor air to warm the air inside your home.

If you would like to learn more about how a heat pump can fit into your life – warming, cooling, conserving energy and saving money – then write to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, 4301 North Fairfax Drive (No. 425), Dept. HT96, Arlington Va., 22293 for a free brochure, "Heat, Cool, Save Energy With a Heat Pump." And, you can find out more information about air-conditioning and refrigeration issues on the Internet at ARI's home page: http://www.ari.org

Invisible protection makes light work of cleaning

Who hasn't marveled at the ease of washing nonstick cookware? And, who hasn't wished that sinks, tubs, showers, tile, windows, mirrors and counters were easy to care for?

Now, there is a unique surface treatment that can end all that scraping and scrubbing in the kitchen and bathroom – and prevent dirt buildup. Invisible Shield, by Unelko Corp., imparts absolutely invisible, but amazingly durable, nonstick finish to glass, porcelain, ceramic and other hard surfaces. It lasts from months to years and changes ordinary hard-to-clean materials into water-, soil- and stain-repelling "easy-clean" surfaces.

In one step, using ordinary wiping and polishing techniques, this polymer coating fills the microscopic pores of these materials and creates an smooth surface barrier against soil, stains, soap scum, rust and mineral deposits.

Just like with nonstick pots and pans, the dirt and grime on surfaces treated with Invisible Shield can be wiped or rinsed away easily. However, unlike the original nonstick finishes that are gray, brown or black, Invisible Shield is perfectly clear. It will keep precious surfaces, including glass tables, television screens, porcelain and china, polished and sparkling.

Best of all, applying this surface treatment is a do-it-yourself project. People don't have to buy all new fixtures; they can bring them back to life just by applying this protective coating. Better than traditional nonstick finished, homemakers can rejuvenate this finish as often as they like without fear of buildup – and without having to throw the fixture away or send it back to the factory for refinishing.

In order for the protective finish to penetrate and adhere, surfaces must be clean and dry. To help preclean surfaces once and for all, Unelko offers a special Linescale, Rust & Buildup Remover.

Then, after treating surfaces with Invisible Shield, all you will ever need will be water and soap, or mild detergents; people can throw away all those harsh solvents, abrasives and cleansers that can be damaging to surfaces, harmful to users and bad for the environment.

Invisible Shield is available at supermarkets, hardware stores, home centers, mass merchants and department stores. For additional information, write Invisible Shield, Unelko Corp., 7428 E. Karen Drive, Scottsdale AZ 85260.

Building blocks: The seller's disclosure statement and disclosure of agency relationship have worked well toward forging a new era in real estate practices.

BY NORMAN PRADY
SPECIAL WRITER

Are you in favor of honesty?

If so, you'll likely be pleased to hear that two 1994 Michigan laws, intended to enhance the ethics of real estate transactions, appear to be doing their jobs.

One of the laws requires the seller of a house to disclose its condition. Previously, houses were sold in the age-old "buyer beware" manner. The other law permits real estate agents to represent buyers. Previously, agents only worked for sellers.

"I think it is good that everything is out in the open," said Carol Clark, associate Realtor at Century 21 Associates, Novi, speaking about the seller's disclosure requirement.

"It's good for the buyers to understand as much as they can," Clark said. As for the sellers' attitude about answering the disclosure questions, she said, "I tell them, 'You have to answer honestly.' "

The disclosure form, which lists aspects of the house's condition and asks "Yes," "No," "Unknown," or "Not Applicable," is "a really vague statement," said Ken Gentile, salesman at Re/Max 100 Inc., Novi, "but it's eliminated some of the lawsuits." With the law, Gentile said, "it's safer to buy a house."

Gentile sees little likelihood, or usefulness, in lying about defects – water in the basement, for example. "If you're a knowledgeable agent and you're walking through a home and there's a musty smell or other indications of water, such as marks on the walls or floor, you'll know" there is a problem.

"I think the seller's disclosure cuts down on any misunderstandings," said Edwina Luckett, associate Realtor at Chamberlain Royal Oak, who agrees that there is no point in not being forthright.

If a seller were to say there has never been a water problem, "but the basement has just been painted," Luckett said, "The inspector will alert the buyer." Her experience is that "99 percent of the buyers" she works with have the houses inspected by a professional.

"Useful," said Carol Volante, Realtor at ERA Country Ridge Realty, Farmington Hills, of the disclosure form. It "protects buyer and seller." And then the buyers have a choice: "Do they want this house with this problem or not."

It was time, said Linda Rock, president of Michigan Association of Realtors, to "have someone take the responsibility to tell the property buyers what they expect if they bought used homes."

In effect, Rock said, the form is a type of homeowner's diary: "We've lived in this house and this is what we've experienced." A summertime buyer, Rock said, wants to know that the furnace will start up in the winter, that an old furnace is still working fine, that the roof is OK, that no one has seen termites.

"We can't make a perfect world," Rock said. "But I've found the disclosure form makes the transaction much smoother.

"And the seller starts to think about things. Get things fixed." It all "adds a level of comfort," and even relieves the seller of responsibility which could result from concealment of a problem.

Agency disclosure – acting as a buyer's agent – "sets some rules," Rock said, so that buyers and sellers "understand why you can and cannot tell them certain things."

Theoretically, the buyer's agent will focus directly on the buyer's needs and will gather as much information as possible, and will recommend procedures for making offers and purchases.

"Buyers had the impression," Clark said, "that we worked for them. Now they feel comfortable that we're trying to do as much as we can," for them, when they request a buyer agent.

But are there any special hazards for the agent, if the buyer is expecting to learn everything there is to learn about the housing market? For example, could the buyer sue the agent for not providing complete information, such as details of area homes for sale by owner?

Liability, Luckett said, is limited by the details spelled out in the agent buyer contract which is drawn and signed by both parties.

A contract, for example, could state that the agent will provide information only available through the local multi-listing system, and specifically exclude homeowner offerings.

"Agency disclosure is a good thing," Luckett said. "It clarifies the relationship and offers a "level of comfort."

Also in Luckett's comments is a suggestion that home-buying has possibly outgrown the ask-high/offer-low secretive patterns of the past and that this evolutionary-step is coincidental with the two new laws.

"If you price competitively," she tells sellers, "you'll probably get your price.

"Buyers today are very sophisticated. And agents today know that they won't last long without integrity."

Gambling hasn't help New Orleans, but it should

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I understand that there is gambling proposed in the Detroit area. I am wondering what effect it would have on adjacent real estate, based upon experiences in other cities.

A. Your question is directed at an opportune time since I have just had an opportunity to evaluate the New Orleans experience as it relates to gambling.

New Orleans has instituted riverboat gambling and was in the process of constructing what would appear to be an extravagant gambling palace, but, unfortunately, the developer got into legal problems and abandoned the project. What is left is an eyesore in the middle of downtown New Orleans, although it is certain that the rippling effect of the gambling casino would have inspired additional activity in the downtown area.

My evaluation of the New Orleans situation is that the facility will be completed at some future point in time and will serve as a stimulus to real estate development in the area, and I would expect that the same would be the case in Detroit if for no other reason than it is attracting people who require ancillary services while in the casinos, including parking restraint and the like.

Q. We are in a resort condominium, and we are concerned about the management of the condominium project being not independent from that of the developer. We are concerned also that the association managing agent, while on premises, chooses to pick persons to assist in the management of the association who do not necessarily look out for the best interests of the association.

What can we do?

A. The managing agent of your association owes a fiduciary duty to your association and not to anyone else. If the management company is affiliated with the developer in some fashion, there is a potential for a conflict of interest that should be carefully examined.

The managing agent should be looking out for the best interests of the association, which means that those persons who are retained by the association have a fiduciary duty to operate in the best interests of the association and not the developer.

To the extend that the management company is not discharging its responsibilities, it should be removed immediately. To the extent that the managing agent is taking direction from the developer when the association is controlled by the members, the management company and the developer, in effect, may be conspiring to undermine the best interests of the association.

You are best advised to consult with independent legal counsel who does not have an affiliation with the management company or the developer to assist you.

■RE/MAX charity

The fourth annual RE/MAX Miracle Classic golf outing at Moravian Hills Country Club last month raised more than $15,000 for the RE/MAX Communication Station Preschool at Children's Miracle Network affiliate William Beaumont Hospital.

More than 150 RE/MAX Realtors and guests contributed through sponsorships and sales of golf tickets and Children's Miracle Network merchandise.

A live auction featuring autographed sports memorabilia raised more than $6,500 of the day's total.

The funds constitute a scholarship program for the only hospital-based, fully-licensed preschool program in the country exclusively for speech and language impaired children.

The RE/MAX Detroit Metro region comprises 490 full time professionals in 33 offices.

■Real estate investors

The Real Estate Investors Association of Oakland hosts a dinner seminar, "High Tech Collections on the Internet," 7 p.m. Friday, Sept. 13, at the Royal Oak American Legion, 1815 Rochester Road.

Cost is $13 for members, $23 for non-members, $10 for non-members who want to attend the seminar only.

Heat, cool and save energy with heat pump

Is there a heat pump in your future? If your house isn't already equipped with a heat pump, you may want to consider one of these versatile devices that not only heat your home in winter and cool your home in summer but can save you money on your monthly energy bills.

A heat pump is neither miraculous nor new. The first factory-made units rolled off production lines more than three decades ago. Millions of heat pumps are in operation in every section of the country – schools, offices, hotels, stores, and industrial plants, as well as homes.

Why the continued, and even increasing, popularity of heat pumps? It's because design improvements have created a new generation of heat pumps that offer reliability, as well as efficiency and energy savings.

A heat pump can often replace both furnace and central air-conditioning equipment with a single heating-cooling system, thereby "pumping" heat into the home in winter and into the outdoors in summer. In summer, an air-to-air pump operates as a standard air conditioner, collecting heat from the air in your home and expelling it outside. In winter, the process is reversed so that the heat pump collects heat from outdoor air to warm the air inside your home.

If you would like to learn more about how a heat pump can fit into your life – warming, cooling, conserving energy and saving money – then write to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute, 4301 North Fairfax Drive (No. 425), Dept. HT96, Arlington Va., 22293 for a free brochure, "Heat, Cool, Save Energy With a Heat Pump." And, you can find out more information about air-conditioning and refrigeration issues on the Internet at ARI's home page: http://www.ari.org

Who hasn't marveled at the ease of washing nonstick cookware? And, who hasn't wished that sinks, tubs, showers, tile, windows, mirrors and counters were easy to care for?

Now, there is a unique surface treatment that can end all that scraping and scrubbing in the kitchen and bathroom – and prevent dirt buildup. Invisible Shield, by Unelko Corp., imparts absolutely invisible, but amazingly durable, nonstick finish to glass, porcelain, ceramic and other hard surfaces. It lasts from months to years and changes ordinary hard-to-clean materials into water-, soil- and stain-repelling "easy-clean" surfaces.

In one step, using ordinary wiping and polishing techniques, this polymer coating fills the microscopic pores of these materials and creates an smooth surface barrier against soil, stains, soap scum, rust and mineral deposits.

Just like with nonstick pots and pans, the dirt and grime on surfaces treated with Invisible Shield can be wiped or rinsed away easily. However, unlike the original nonstick finishes that are gray, brown or black, Invisible Shield is perfectly clear. It will keep precious surfaces, including glass tables, television screens, porcelain and china, polished and sparkling.

Best of all, applying this surface treatment is a do-it-yourself project. People don't have to buy all new fixtures; they can bring them back to life just by applying this protective coating. Better than traditional nonstick finished, homemakers can rejuvenate this finish as often as they like without fear of buildup – and without having to throw the fixture away or send it back to the factory for refinishing.

In order for the protective finish to penetrate and adhere, surfaces must be clean and dry. To help preclean surfaces once and for all, Unelko offers a special Linescale, Rust & Buildup Remover.

Then, after treating surfaces with Invisible Shield, all you will ever need will be water and soap, or mild detergents; people can throw away all those harsh solvents, abrasives and cleansers that can be damaging to surfaces, harmful to users and bad for the environment.

Invisible Shield is available at supermarkets, hardware stores, home centers, mass merchants and department stores. For additional information, write Invisible Shield, Unelko Corp., 7428 E. Karen Drive, Scottsdale AZ 85260.
