Road closes for repair

From Monday through Friday this week, Hannan Road will be closed to through traffic in the Southeast corner of Canton Township.

According to information from the township, Conrail is reconstructing the railroad crossing between Michigan Avenue and Van Born Road. Traffic will be detoured to Michigan Avenue, Haggerty Road and Van Born.

Hannan will be open to the railroad crossing from both directions, and local traffic will be allowed throughout the construction period.

Man arrested in cocaine sting

Detroit Police Department's Narcotic Division confiscated more than 650 grams of suspected cocaine last week from a 25-year-old Canton man's apartment and rented storage unit.

Detroit Police executed a search warrant last Tuesday at Stoney Brooke Apartments on Joy Road, east of Haggerty and at American Budget Storage, located behind the apartment complex on Joy Road. The warrant was executed in cooperation with Canton Police.

■ Police found more than 650 grams of suspected cocaine in the suspect's Canton apartment and storage unit.

Jon Paul Drahos is being held in Wayne County Jail in lieu of a $1 million cash bond. He was arraigned Tuesday before 35th District Court Judge John McDonald. Drahos faces a life sentence on the federal charge of possessing more than 650 grams of cocaine.

An exam is scheduled before McDonald at 9 a.m. Oct. 18.

Lt. Maurice Cochran of the Detroit Police Narcotic Division said the majority of the 650 grams of suspected cocaine was found in the rented storage unit.

The drug bust was an "independent investigation," according to Cochran. Drahos has two other drug-related convictions on his criminal record, Cochran said.

Way paved for local road funds

State Sen. Loren Bennett believes he has a better idea: give road money to local townships so they will have control over new construction, maintenance, snow removal and street sweeping.

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

State Senator Loren Bennett (R-Canton) thinks he has found the coal patch that will fix what Canton officials perceive as a pot hole in funding with the Wayne County Road Department.

Bennett added an amendment to the Senate transportation package approved Oct. 2 that would allow townships the choice of taking their road dollars directly from the state rather than receiving it through the county as they do now.

Money from the state's gas and weight tax is distributed to the county for repairs on township roads.

If Bennett's proposal becomes law, the county road department would have to bid with other private companies for work it currently does, such as new construction, maintenance, snow removal and street sweeping.

"Once a township has the money they can either turn it over to the county for services if they are satisfied with the services the county has been providing or they can take the funds themselves and privatize the service," he said.

The House of Representatives will vote on the package sometime after the Nov. 5 election, Bennett said.

Canton officials, particularly Supervisor Tom Yack, have been at odds with the county over services the county has been providing the township. Canton claims it hasn't been getting its fair share of the transportation funds.

But Wayne County Legislative Director Bob Moore said the "amendment looks good and reasonable from the outside," but there are too many questions surrounding the proposal, specifically those that address jurisdiction and liability. Will the county still be liable for primary and local roads, even if they aren't the agency making the repairs, he asked.

Moore added, "If they want to be responsible for their road system the question is, is what they get from the state enough to do everything they want... They'll have to find their own revenue sources because they'd be on their own."

Yack said the benefit would be controlling its own road money. Competition typically yields good prices, he added.

"If the county is doing the work they have a lot of overhead," he said. "We would have to bare some of the cost of administrating,"

Tentative teacher pact is reached

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Labor peace is at hand for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

After more than nine months at the bargaining table, negotiators for the district and its 850 teachers have reached a tentative agreement on a two-year contract.

Tom Cotner, chief negotiator for the teachers, and Errol Goldman — assistant superintendent for employee relations and the district's chief negotiator — signed the agreement late Thursday.

Neither side would disclose specific details of the settlement. However union negotiators agreed to a change in health benefits, as proposed by the district.

"Teachers will have the option of keeping their current (Blue Cross-Blue Shield) coverage if they pay a pre-tax premium covering the difference between what Blue Cross costs and the PPO (Preferred Choices Preferred Provider Organization) costs," said John Birchler, assistant superintendent for business.

In exchange, teachers were given "some increase in salary," he said. Details will be given at a 3 p.m. press conference today at the board of education office, 454 S. Harvey.

"We are pleased we got a two-year agreement," he said. "Both sides worked hard to get an agreement that was beneficial to each party."

Teachers are being offered the same health plan package recently accepted by administrators and the custodial-maintenance union. Premiums for Blue Cross-Blue Shield will amount to roughly $300 per individual and $600 per family. Office visits will cost $15 for PPO members using in-network medical services.

Cotner refrained from discussing details, saying Friday that the union wished to first get terms of the multi-page agreement to its members. The thick documents were to be copied and distributed to teachers for their review by today or tomorrow.

Asked how he thought teachers would react, Cotner said: "We ar e recommending that teachers

Committee considers bonds

BY M.B. DILLON

■ SCHOOL NEWS

The Plymouth-Canton school district is forming a steering committee to determine whether a bond issue for new schools should be placed on the ballot.

Superintendent Charles Little, who will serve as an ex-officio committee member, has invited participation from a cross-section of the community.

Steering committee member and school board President Mark Horvath said his expectations for the committee are twofold.

"First of all, I'd like to see us use that group to help us – and help the architects and our pre-planning people – decide what is necessary to build, if anything. I still use 'if anything' because we need to continue to look at enrollment numbers and study what kinds of buildings exist today," said Horvath.

"Dovetailed with that, we want to examine what education should look like over the next 10 years. If there are inconsistencies between buildings we have now and what we want to have, we need to look at what should be done to accommodate those kinds of things, as well."

Residents are being asked to assist the 17-member steering committee at a series of three forums at Pioneer Middle School.

"We really want members of the public to participate in all the forums. We want the community's input," said Judy Evola, the district's community relations director.

The steering committee will assess this information and do a final report to the board, she said.

The first forum was Saturday. Representatives from Roy G. French Associates and Perkins and Will Inc., the district's architectural consultants, gave a presentation on trends in education, demographics, the economy, society, and technology.

Store manager puts the brakes on hobbyist

■ POLICE

A hobby apparently turned into an obsession for a Beverly Hills man, who was as busy as a locomotive Tuesday, allegedly stealing miniature train components from five different hobby shops in Canton, Westland, Livonia and Farmington.

The alleged train robber, John Jerome Macgillis, 30, was derailed by Canton police at Rider's Hobby Shop on Ford Road in Canton.

Rider's manager Scott Walter said he watched as Macgillis concealed a $71.99 HO scale train and detailing accessories in his coat pockets. Then, he attempted to walk out the door, Walter said.

"The alarm went off and he walked out as if he didn't even hear it," said Walter. "He started to come back when I yelled to him, but as soon he got near the door he bolted."

Walter caught up to him and detained him until Canton police arrived. Macgillis attempted to flee again while in police custody.

"He ran on us, but we stopped him in his tracks," quipped Detective Rick Pomorski.

After arresting Macgillis, officers found a paper grocery bag inside his car that was full of train accessories he allegedly stole from The Hobby House in Westland, Joe's Hobby Center Shop in Farmington, Merri-Seven Trains in Livonia and Nankin Hardware and Hobby Do-It Center in Westland.

Altogether, the stolen merchandise added up to $267.63, police said.

"He admitted to stealing all of it that day from four different places. Rider's was the fifth," Pomorski said.

Macgillis was released on $100 bond and is scheduled to appear in 35th District Court Nov. 7 to face a charge of retail fraud.

But that wasn't the last officers saw of Macgillis. He returned to the police station two days later and turned over a box full of other stolen miniature railroad accessories taken from the same stores, said Pomorski. The merchandise was valued at about $300.

"He said he just started collecting the miniature train sets not too long ago," Pomorski said.

Wayne County from the gas and weight tax for road improvements in its 10 townships, Bennett said. A formula using the township's population and the number of primary and local roads is used to divvy up the funds.

It is unknown how much money Canton would receive directly from the Act 51 transportation funds. Two weeks ago Bennett requested a performance audit from the state's auditor general to determine how the road money is divvied up by the county.

Canton has attempted to find out how much it gets through various requests under the state's Freedom of Information Act. The county road department hasn't responded, Yack said.

The Michigan Association of Townships has supported the concept of the amendment, according to its Director of Legislative Affairs Gene Thorton.

Band 'eases on down the road' for win

BY DIANE HANSON
SPECIAL WRITER

For the first time since the competition season started in September, the sun sparkled on the brass and silver of the Plymouth-Canton Marching Band.

But, for the fourth time in as many competitive performances, the 200 musicians and color guard "eased on down the road" collecting all the Flight I first place awards for their portrayal of "The Road to Oz" at the Michigan Invitational held at Atwood Stadium in Flint Oct. 6.

Assistant director, Pat Ruddy, wasn't a bit surprised by the band's stellar performance. He knows how hard they work all week. "They were great starting on Monday and they were great all the way through," he said. "So it wasn't a surprise at all today that they were as good as they were."

Band director David McGrath thanked the kids "for the best week I've had since I've been teaching." And this is his 10th year.

"That sums it up," he said. "It was a week where they got down to business, they worked really hard, and it showed tonight. I mean, they were just outstanding."

Indeed it did show in Plymouth-Canton's 88.22 score that secured first place for Flight I competition along with Flight I caption awards for Best Percussion, Best Winds, Best Marching & Maneuvering and Best Color Guard. They also captured the Governor's Trophy for highest overall score of the 20 competing bands.

The traveling trophy didn't have far to go since Plymouth-Canton was also last year's winner.

Closest competitors for Plymouth-Canton came from Flight II bands. Mona Shores took first place in Flight II with a score of 87.27 and Lakeland captured second in that flight with a score of 85.27. Farmington Hills Harrison High held the next highest score with 77.95 and first place for Flight III.

The top awards put smiles on Plymouth-Canton faces. "We were all really happy with how we did," said junior trombonist, Jesse Williams. "I don't think we could have done any better at this point in the season. We've all worked really hard all year and we just had a lot of fun performing tonight."

Tina Hein, senior clarinetist, couldn't agree more. "I thought it rocked," she admitted. "We worked really hard this week and we came here and tried our hardest. It was a lot of fun, especially marching on turf and with the sun out."

Apparently the judges thought the show rocked too. McGrath said scores for music effect, 19.1 out of 20, and visual effect, 14 out of 15, "tells you that the show really works." And the show isn't even complete yet. He said the kids will learn about another 25 to 30 drill charts this week and about two more minutes of music.

"To learn that in a week and not let the rest of the show take a step back is our goal," McGrath admitted. "Then the beauty of this is, we have four weeks before Nationals (November 7, 8, 9) to do nothing but get better."

approve it. I think they will be pretty positive if they are realistic, given the climate for bargaining. I would not recommend the settlement to the teachers if it didn't at least keep us in a reasonably competitive position with other districts."

"I don't know the specifics, but the total package is a victory for the entire district," said Judy Evola, community relations director. Superintendent Charles Little and Goldman were unavailable for comment.

Both sides made concessions, Cotner said. The district was proposing no salary increase, and the switch from Blue Cross to Preferred Choices, a PPO affiliated with Mercy Health Plans.

Plymouth-Canton administrators and the custodial-maintenance agreed to the health insurance change in recently-negotiated agreements with the board at considerable cost savings to the district. The teachers' union proposed a 3-percent pay increase and no change in health insurance.

The bargaining session that clinched the settlement began at 3 p.m. Oct. 6 and didn't end until 6:30 a.m. the next day.

Teachers will be given a few days to look over the tentative agreement. A general membership meeting is expected to take place Thursday afternoon to discuss its provisions, said Cotner. Teachers will vote on the tentative agreement Oct. 21. "At that point, assuming it's ratified, the board will vote on the 22nd," said Cotner.

The recently-passed Public Act 112 limits teachers' collective bargaining rights, and would fine them for striking.

Participants then brainstormed in small groups.

"The idea is to give people a frame of reference as to how education is moving in society; the directions it's taking as a community and as a school district," said Evola.

"It went very well. There were quite a few people there. We had representation from various areas in the community. We had a lot of opportunity to share information, ideas and opinions."

Other forums are set for 5-9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 4, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 23.

The second forum will "seek to build on the first by addressing the responses to questions on facility needs. This will include looking at implications of these responses including costs," said Evola.

"The third forum will consist of discussing a limited number of options and priorities, focusing on previously defined priorities determined in the second forum."

It's anticipated that voters will be asked in the spring to approve a multi-million dollar bond issue to fund the construction of new schools to accommodate residential growth.

The steering committee will consist of representatives from the board of education; administration; the Plymouth-Canton Education Association; the district's support services; finance committee; long-range planning committee; housing committee; homeowners' associations; the School Community Council; chambers of commerce; media; I CARE Committee; and the senior citizen community.

Besides Horvath, members who've come aboard thus far include Assistant Superintendent for Business John Birchler, West Middle School principal Judy Stone, and Evola.

Local walk through village offers taste of the past

History came to life in Cherry Hill Village on a recent Sunday, as local historians replayed a piece of Canton's past.

The Detroit Historical Society's Sunday tours had pinpointed Canton's west side village as the place to be onOct. 6.

About 35 people enjoyed a walking tour of the area narrated by two local residents dressed in period costume and representing now-deceased former resjdents.

Ronni and David Curtis played Almira Lewis Cody, David's great-great-great grandmother, while he portrayed John McDougal. Both were residents of Canton who are now buried in the village cemetery.

"What they did was to portray these people just after the Civil War," said local historian Virginia Bailey Parker.

The group strolled from the church and church cemetery to the Bartlett-Travis House, currently being renovated, then to the Cherry Hill School.

Parker said that through research for the event, David Curtis discovered that some 30 local residents fought in the Civil War, although not all are buried here.

COP CALLS

Drunken driving

A 45-year-old Washtenaw County man was arrested for drunken driving at Cherry Hill and Ridge about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Police said the driver nearly hit a patrol car with his 1990 Buick during the traffic stop.

During field sobriety tests, the driver was told to recite the alphabet, but asked the officer "which one, I know German, French and Indian." The officer said he preferred the English version. He also refused the Breathalizer test, police said.

Malicious destruction

Two neighbors on North Spring reported their car tires slashed sometime Tuesday evening or early Wednesday Damages to a 1979 Chevy Cougar were estimated at $150 and 1986 Mercury, $95.

Stolen car attempts

Owners of three cars reported damage to their steering columns after someone attempted to steal the vehicles.

The first incident occurred at the Canton Crossings apartments between midnight Monday and noon Tuesday. The owner of the 1989 Chevrolet Camaro reported $1,250 worth of damage to the steering column.

Two other attempted thefts occurred Wednesday at the Sherwood Trailer Park on Old Michigan Avenue. A 34-year-old man reported damage to a 1987 Oldsmobile Cutlass and a 68-year-old resident reported damage to his 1989 Chevy Astro van.

Arson

Two juveniles were detained by police after they ignited a book in flames on the front porch of a home on North Spring about 1:30 a.m. Wednesday. The book was entitled, "Encyclopedia of Witchcraft and Demonology."

A 19-year-old resident called police after witnessing the incident. An officer stopped two juveniles matching the description at a nearby party store. The 19-year-old resident said the book belonged to a friend and was inside his car, which was parked in front of the house. He told police he was not a Satan worshiper or believed in witchcraft. Instead, he told police, he was a non violent skin head and racist.

3 injured

Two 16-year-old Canton girls and a 36-year-old Westland man were injured in a car accident about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of Hanford and Lilley roads.

The injured were taken by ambulance to Annapolis Hospital and St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia. Police said one of the girl's condition was downgraded to serious condition Friday after being listed as critical.

The accident occurred when the 16-year-old driver of a 1988 Dodge failed to yield while turning left onto Hanford from southbound Lilley, police said. The car collided with a 1984 Jeep driven by a 31-year-old Belleville man.

No further details were immediately available.

Stolen car

A 1994 Jeep was stolen from a home on Honeycomb in Canton Crossings apartment complex sometime between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Break-in

A thief cut the screen on a bedroom window and pried open a window to gain access to a home on Michigan Avenue. The only thing taken during the Oct. 2 break-in was a bag of "Chips Ahoy" cookies, police said.

The AAA building at 41804 Ford Road was burglarized and ransacked over the weekend. A safe, television, copier and cash were stolen. Police are investigating a suspect.

Car fire

A canton woman called firefighters when she saw an abandoned car smoldering on Denton, west of Proctor, about 5 a.m. Tuesday. The car had burned itself out. The woman told police she didn't see anyone around the vehicle, which was parked in the northbound lane facing southbound. Two members of the arson division are investigating.

Canton offers information via Web

Canton's municipal government has expanded its current Internet testing with the addition of a second home page.

This time the government is working in conjunction with the Canton Public Library. The new Internet home page was activated on the World Wide Web in September.

The test program consists of non-interactive web pages with detailed information about the Canton community and the Canton police department.

The Canton library uses the MetroNet service to provide a link to the Web. Residents and other Internet users will be able to find Canton's second home page at:

http://www.metronet.lib.mi.us/CANT/TWP/home.html

The test site will remain in place this fall with periodic information updates. The original site is located at: http//www.cantontwp.org.

The main focus of the pilot program, according to Canton officials, is to find out how many people visit the site and whether or not there is interest by the general population.

If the pilot program is successful, the township will establish a permanent municipal-wide home page with information about all of the township departments, as well as a phone directory, a calendar of events, community statistics, Summit on the Park and general recreation updates.

Over the long term, Canton may establish its own web site. If so, the municipality will be able to offer truly interactive Internet services.

OBITUARIES

EARL ROBERT OLSON

Services for Earl Robert Olson, 73, of Plymouth were Saturday, Oct. 5, at the Schrader-Howell Funeral Home with Rev. Roy G. Forsyth officiating. Burial was in Acacia Park Cemetery, in Birmingham.

High court to decide local police pension case

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

The Michigan Supreme Court will decide whether Plymouth Township police officer Shawn Corbett can collect both worker's compensation and his lump-sum pension.

The issue is major: Stroh Brewery and McLouth Steel are appealing similar cases involving "coordination of benefits" – or, as employers prefer to call it, "double dipping."

Six lawyers lined up Oct. 8 for oral arguments before the seven justices. The high court may decide to rule by Dec. 31 because the terms of one (or two) justices will be ending.

"In a nutshell," said Corbett's attorney, Robert F. James of Southfield, "(Corbett) was rewarded for having been seriously injured while protecting the public in the line of duty by having his pension fund misappropriated by the (township) to cover its workers comp liabilities."

James added: "This could encourage pressure on employees to take pensions in a lump. . . Companies could raid pension funds to leave Michigan. This is not some esoteric argument. It has happened."

Replied Livonia attorney William Buie for the township: "(Corbett's) method frustrated the intention of the act because it allows double-dipping."

The injury

Corbett joined the township police department in June of 1985. In February of 1987 he suffered a badly fractured leg and gashed chin when his police car crashed as he was answering a call to an armed robbery at a bank, James' brief said.

Five months later, Corbett returned to work but left a year later, in July 1988, because of what doctors termed psychiatric "panic attacks." In March of 1991, Corbett cashed out his pension and got a check for $14,800, including $11,000 contributed by the township and $3,800 of his own contribution. He paid tax on the $11,000 and had about $8,400 left. At stake in this case is the township's contribution.

A worker's comp magistrate ordered that Corbett's weekly benefit be reduced by 43 percent, from $282 to $161, for a full year so that his after-tax pension sum of $8,400 could be recouped. A worker's comp appeals commission upheld the magistrate, 2-1, and the Court of Appeals declined to take the case.

So Corbett went to the Supreme Court, where James argued the agency used an "improper ad hoc" procedure that amounted to "a different procedure for different persons similarly situated. That is wasteful of judicial resources."

James suggested another method of calculation: The high court should consider the lump-sum pension amount "as income only in the week it was receiving," costing Corbett only one week's compenefit.

Another case

James' brief revealed another step in the Corbett vs. Plymouth Township story.

Corbett's octors said he could return to wok if he were phased in in a "deensitization program," but te township refused. So Corbett fied a complaint with the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission alleging violatio of the Americans with Disabilities Act. EEOC agreed.

The township "finally acquiesced in (Crbett's) return to work" on late summer of 1994, but without his vested pension, James said.

In the Stroh Brewery case, attorney Daniel O'Leary offered his suggestion on how a worker could avoid correlation of benefits: "All he had to do to receive full worker's compensation was to leave his pension fund in there."

An attorney in the McLouth case said it was fairly simple to coordinate benefits when all are paid weekly or monthly. "But when there's a lump sum (pension), how do you coordinate benefits?" asked Murray Gorchow.

That question also puzzled Justice Conrad Mallet Jr., who wondered if Corbett's attorney wasn't asking the court to "graft on" a new result to the worker's comp law.

The court

The justices' questions provided no hint of how they might decide the case.

Yet labor issues have deeply divided – even polarized – the Michigan Supreme Court over

County roadwork winding down

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

Motorists inconvenienced by road closures throughout Wayne County can expect relief soon.

That's because contractors expect to end their work for the construction season by Nov. 30 on several projects. Much of the roadwork has been completed, according to John Roach, public information manager with Wayne County's department of public services.

Here are some of the projects and anticipated completion dates:

■ Merriman Road between Plymouth and Schoolcraft. The first phase of this $6 million project in Livonia calls for the addition of a left turn lane and the resurfacing four lanes and will be completed in late November, according to John Roach, public information manager with Wayne County's department of public services.

"Some of the restoration work will be done in the spring, but the resurfacing will be done this year," Roach said.

Roach said contractors were

Madonna hosts peace symposium

As part of Madonna University's Peace and Justice Week - Oct. 13-19, a peace symposium will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday beginning in Kresge Hall. The public is invited.

Bishop Thomas Gumbleton will talk about working for peace, hunger and poverty, and Dave Bydlowski, a science teacher, will present a "Science Explosion Show." Each of these speakers, along with Sister Angela from the St. Christine's Soup Kitchen, will receive the San Damiano Cross for their work promoting peace and justice in the world.

Members of the St. Mary's Antiochan Orthodox Church Choir will perform, and other special guests will include representatives from the Franciscans International and Habitat for Humanity.

Following the symposium will be a candlelight procession to the Gazebo where an interfaith prayer service will be held. Refreshments will then be served.

For more information, contact the campus ministry office at (313) 432-5419. Madonna University is located in Livonia at I-96 and Levan Road.

State panel hears concerns about pain management

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Patients and doctors accuse insurers and employers of being short-sighted about paying for pain management.

And they had sympathetic ears in members of a legislative panel that met Oct. 10 in Livonia.

"I understand Michigan is one of the worst states to get treatment for chronic pain," said Charise Copeland, a Plymouth resident who 15 years ago suffered a severe neck injury and broken facial bones, has undergone 14 neck operations and has been to every doctor at several hospitals.

"The majority of my life I spend crying in bed. You want help. You don't want to fight with insurance companies," she told Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, and members of a House Health Policy subcommittee.

But fighting with insurance companies is precisely what many patients say they do. Insurers and employers, represented by the Michigan Chamber of Commerce, don't want to pay to send them to regional centers that specialize in pain management, such as Dr. Joel Saper's in Ann Arbor or St. Mary Hospital's in Livonia.

Lobbyist Nancy McKeague, writing in the Michigan Chamber's magazine, argued that a Law bill "has the potential to be the most costly of the myriad of mandated benefit bills." McKeague also dislikes including pain management reimbursement as a worker's comp medical benefit.

Law, usually a friend of business, replied that the chamber is looking at it wrong. "Business doesn't take in to account the lost time and lost productivity (of ailing workers). Nancy glosses over this. Are people supposed to just take Tylenol and try to work?" Law said in an interview.

No insurers or businesses testified in the 75-minute session.

Law and committee chair John Jamian, R-Bloomfield Township, see pain management as an alternative to the kind of relief given by Dr. Jack Kevorkian, the assisted suicide specialist.

Witnesses gave Law plenty of ammunition. They supported his arguments that insurers' failure to cover specialized pain management results in 1) squandering money on pills that don't work and doctors who can't help and 2) losing time from the job. Samples:

■ Witnesses gave Law plenty of ammunition. They supported his arguments that insurers' failure to cover specialized pain management results in 1) squandering money on pills that don't work and doctors who can't help and 2) losing time from the job.

■ LeeAnn Stotts, Interlochen nurse with a painful bladder disease: "Insurance companies do not want to pay for measures to alleviate pain. They cost money. Yet one hears or reads in the news too often that someone has ended his or her life to escape pain.

"Insurers and employers should realize that if a physician recommends an intrathecal (Morphine) pump or a spinal cord nerve stimulator for a patient, the patient's pain may decrease or cease. He or she may be able to return to the work force, pay taxes and purchase consumer goods. . . That's just the practical advantage. Think of the emotional burden that is lifted!"

■ Gar Schumacher, Ann Arbor resident and former mental health worker who was hit in the head by a baseball bat five years ago: "I used all my sick time and annual time. I lost my job. I lost my fiancee. I've been on 40 different medications. I spent $1,500 out of my own pocket. I don't have anything.

"Care Choices has refused to let me see someone in a clinic like Dr. Saper. Care Choices spent more money on doctors than if they had let me go to a clinic."

■ Timothy Kinder, Whittaker, suffering from head pains and high blood pressure: "I went seven days to the emergency room for pains in the head. . . They gave me a bagful of drugs. They won't prescribe the Denadrol because it's addictive – a narcotic.

"I'm part of a HMO (health maintenance organization) so I couldn't go to Dr. Saper's clinic. Finally, after 90 days I was demoted. I was no longer a supervisor. I make $10,000 less. They wasted gobs of money on these bags of drugs that didn't help me."

■ Dr. Joel Saper, Ann Arbor, member of the Michigan Council on Pain and head of a regional pain management clinic: "Not every doctor can deal with trauma or pain. Advanced care centers are in the public good. Critics say the costs are exorbitant. We need to look at how much mismanagement of pain is costing government and business."

Saper quoted a national expert the years. They are one reason the Michigan Chamber of Commerce has targeted that election in 1996.

Justice Charles Levin, 70, an independent who tends to side with labor, must retire because of age. Chief Justice James Brickley, 67, a Republican appointee, is seeking reelection. His GOP-nominated running mate is Oakland Circuit Judge Hilda Gage. Business groups are heavily supporting the Brickley-Gage ticket, at the chamber's urging.

Democrats have nominated two Court of Appeals judges, William Murphy of Grand Rapids and Marilyn Kelly of Bloomfield Hills. They are supported by labor and the trial lawyers' association.

Supreme Court practice is to decide a case within one calendar year of hearing oral arguments.

If the Corbett and related cases are decided before Dec. 31, all seven current justices, including Levin and Brickley, will participate.

If Brickley is reelected and the case drags into 1997, six justices will take part in a court divided 3-3 between the parties. The newly-elected justice, regardless of party, won't take part because he or she hadn't taken part in hearing oral arguments or the following discussions.

FREE "LIVING TRUST" SEMINAR
"What You Ought to Know About Living Trusts"
(What you don't know could cost your family thousands of dollars!)

If you own a home...or you have assets worth at least $100,000...you owe it to yourself—and your family—to get the facts on living trusts. If you think you're protected with a simple Will...think again... A Will guarantees that your estate will go through probate, which means that your family may not be able to take possession of your estate for many months, or even years!

Plus, if your estate is over $600,000, your family may owe estate taxes which could amount to 37-55% of the value of your estate. This means that your family may have to sell some assets just to pay the estate taxes!

A living trust avoids all this by avoiding probate and minimizing estate taxes. Plus, a living trust will protect your estate if you become incapacitated during your lifetime by avoiding a conservatorship. This means your estate will be managed as you see fit, not as a court-appointed guardian sees fit.

To find out more about the benefits of living trusts, attend one of these free seminars...

who said that 90 percent of 23 million back surgeries performed each year are unnecessary. "This bill will channel high-cost patients to the most advanced centers of care. This bill will save money."

■Dr. Timothy A. Wright, medical director of the pain management center at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia: "I'm in favor of the bills overall. They are long overdue. The spirit of the bills is to open up services for pain patients.

The bill package

The subcommittee plans hearings Oct. .29 in Grand Rapids and another in Lansing on these bills:

■ House Bill 5944 (sponsored by Law) defines "intractable pain" as severe, persistent recurring pain that is disabling. Defines "center for advanced care" as an accredited facility with a medical director certified in pain medicine. (This is the central bill to which the others are attached, or "tie-barred.")

■ HB 5939 (sponsored by Rep. Penny Crissman, R-Rochester) would amend the public health code to recognize that treatment of intractable pain requires coverage under health care contracts and insurance policies; it say controlled substances may need to be used to control intractable pain.

■HB 5940 (Rep. Michael Griffin, D-Jackson) requires a physician to advise a patient to consider being referred to a center for advanced care when diagnosed with intractable pain.

■ HB 5941-43 (Crissman, Kirk Profit, D-Ypsilanti, and Beverly Hammerstrom, R-Temperance) requires insurers to provide coverage of intractable pain at specialized centers of pain management. Multiple bills are needed to cover commercial insurers, HMOs and the Blues.

Refer to HB 5939-44 when writing to your state representative, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Blanket days

Red Cross seeks donations for homeless

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross along with World Medical Relief are hoping to keep the homeless a little warmer this winter through their annual Blanket Days for the Homeless campaign.

The organizations hope to collect more than 7,500 blankets, 1,000 crib blankets and 5,000 towel/washcloth sets and distribute them to more than 100 shelters in the tri-county area.

"Last year more than 6,000 blankets were distributed and this winter it appears similar assistance will be needed," says Dick Kelly, volunteer chairman of the Blankets for the Homeless Committee.

Recipients include the homeless, victims of domestic abuse, runaways at shelters in Detroit and the suburbs.

The eighth annual campaign again this year received a grant of $500 from the Detroit Industrial School which specifically targets its gift be used to benefit homeless children.

Blanket Days was started in 1988. The first year, more than 300 blankets were distributed to more than 20 shelters.

"This campaign gives everyone a chance to do something for their community and the homeless," says Barbara O'Neill of the Red Cross.

Cash donations of any amount are preferred, however donations of new, washable blankets are also appreciated. Blankets may be dropped off at any Red Cross Service Center. Call 1-800-552-5466 for the nearest center in your area.

Checks should be made payable to: American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter, and sent to P.O. Box 33351, c/o Barbara O'Neill, Detroit, Mich. 48232-5351.

Candidate forum

The Canton Economic Club will feature 13th District Congressional candidates Lynn Rivers and Joe Fitzsimmons at noon on Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Tim Richard of the Observer Newspapers will moderate questions from panelists Dale Yagelia, executive director of Growth Works in Plymouth Township; Carleigh Flaharty, executive director of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Kathleen Kittle of Mission Health and Tom Yack, Canton Supervisor.

The forum is in the Summit on the Park. Cost is $15 for lunch and program. Call Joan Noricks at 981-3002 for reservations.

still excavating two lanes and still needed to pave them. "Traffic is restricted to one lane in each direction," Roach said.

■ Seven Mile between I-275 and Newburgh. This $750,000 project will widen 7 Mile from four to five lanes and resurface it.

Motorists can expect continued backups over the next several weeks as the road is reduced to one lane in each direction so crews can work on the westbound lanes, Roach said.

Seven Mile will be closed, possibly on Oct. 20, to install a drain culvert. That date depends on how soon contractors finish road construction. "That (work) can't be done while traffic is going over the road," Roach said.

Roach suggests motorists use Six Mile or Eight Mile as alternate routes.

■ Ridge Road and Powell in Plymouth Township: This $1.3 million project was expected to be finished Oct. 12, then reopened to traffic.

Ridge was a gravel road. It now will be paved. The construction will be financed by a special assessment district for 75 percent and the remaining 25 percent through Wayne County funds.

■ Beck Road from Cherry Hill to Geddes in Canton Township. This road is expected to reopen by the end of October, Roach said. The surfacing of the gravel road has been completed and the contractor is working on ditches.

This project was expected to cost $1.6 million financed through a special assessment district on nearby residents.

■ Bridge on Beech Daly between Joy Road and Warren, just south of Redford Township. Contractors expect to complete the bridge within three weeks for this $650,000 project.

Pavement will be poured over the next two weeks on each side of the bridge. Reinforcements also were installed, Roach said.

■ Motorists inconvenienced by road closures throughout Wayne County can expect relief soon.

Deer-vehicle crashes rise, caution urged

Catching up on Michigan's world of natural resources:

Deer-related auto accidents in Michigan were up 10.4 percent in 1995, says the Michigan Association of Insurance Agents – more than 62,500.

And since 1986, vehicle-deer crashes have leaped 182 percent.

Eight people were killed and 2,153 injured last year. Average collision claim cost: $1,700. Highest county totals: Kent (Grand Rapids), 1,976; Jackson, 1,699; Calhoun (Battle Creek), 1,615.

Advice from the insurance people:

■ Be cautious and slower when deer are on the move, such as October through December.

■ Brake hard but stay in your traffic lane. It's safer to hit the deer rather than swerve off the road or risk hitting another vehicle.

■ Worst times: dawn and sunset. Dim your instrument panel lights to make it easier to spot deer.

Michigan has 1.8 million deer.

Chelsea open house

One of southern Michigan's least-known attractions is the Gerald E. Eddy Geological Center in the Waterloo Recreation Area. Take I-94 west of Chelsea in Washtenaw County to exit 157 and follow the signs.

The Department of Natural Resources will hold a public listening and open house from 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 22, at the Eddy center, named for the geologist who once headed DNR.

People can discuss resource issues with staff fisheries biologists, foresters, conservation officers and park staffs.

The center has exhibits on how glaciers shaped the Michigan landscape and affected everything from giant animals to bugs. Books and gift stones are on sale. This is the 11th in DNR's series of open houses.

Appeals court reverses county judges

STAFF WRITER

■ Judge Richard Allen Griffin's panel told Chylinski to look at the issue of 'prosecutorial overreaching' by having the prosecutor show its action arose from concern for the public interest 'rather than a concern for the private interests of government officials.'

A state Court of Appeals panel praised Southfield attorney Alexander Kelin for "well-pleaded allegations" in his effort to try a police brutality case against the city of Taylor and two officers.

The state's second highest court reversed, 3-0, Wayne Circuit Judge James R. Chylinski's dismissal of a civil suit by Kelin's client, Clarence Stamps Jr., whose knee was fractured during an arrest.

Chylinski was told to analyze further a deal in which the city agreed not to prosecute Stamps for trespassing at his girlfriend's home in exchange for his agreement not to sue the city for civil damages. Stamps signed the deal but sued anyway. Chylinski granted the city's motion for summary judgment in the city's favor.

"(R)elease-dismissal agreements should be analyzed on a case by case basis," said Judge Richard Allen Griffin, writing for the appellate panel that included Judges Harold Hood and John Foley.

Summoned in 1993 by Stamps' girlfriend, Taylor officers Timothy Curlp and Rory Johnson talked Stamps into leaving her home and then arrested him "after a loud and profane protest. Plaintiff (Stamps) alleges that as he was being forced into a police vehicle, one of the officers struck (his) lower thigh, causing plaintiff's knee to fracture," Griffin wrote.

The appeals court cited a Michigan precedent from 1976 that was changed by a 1987 U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

The Michigan ruling against the city of Galesburg invalidated release-dismissal deals. Among the reasons was "a desire on the part of the prosecuting authority to extract police officers from possible liability offers an undeniable temptation to concoct or exaggerate the charges against the defendant to exaggerate his (prosecutor and police) bargaining position."

The U.S. Supreme Court, however, called for case-by-case analysis. Before enforcing a release-dismissal deal, a trial court should determine "(1) the agreement was voluntary; (2) there was no evidence of prosecutorial misconduct; and (3) enforcement of the agreement will not adversely affect relevant public interests," said Griffin, quoting other cases.

The trial court, in assessing the voluntariness of the deal, should consider "(1) the sophistication of the criminal defendant; (2) whether the signer of the release was in custody at the time of signing; (3) whether the signer was represented by counsel; (4) whether the signer had ample time to consider the agreement before signing it; (5) whether the signer expressed any unwillingness; and (6) whether the release is clear on its face."

Griffin's panel told Chylinski to look at the issue of "prosecutorial overreaching" by having the prosecutor show its action arose from concern for the public interest "rather than a concern for the private interests of government officials."

Attorney Kelin could not be reached by press time for an update on the status of the case in circuit court.

Detroit sued

In another case, a different Court of Appeals panel reversed Wayne Circuit Judge Edward M. Thomas' decision against two minors who sued Detroit in a police pursuit case. Thomas dismissed the suit.

Marlon Cooper and Martell Morris "were passengers in a stolen Jeep Cherokee driven by Damian Collins, 14. A police pursuit of the vehicle ended when it crashed into the porch of a house. Collins was killed, and Cooper and Morris were injured," the opinion said.

Cooper and Morris sued, alleging the officers were grossly negligent and reckless in their pursuit. The city filed a third-party complaint against driver Collins' estate.

The Court of Appeals said Judge Thomas erred in ruling for the city "on the basis that they owed no duty to plaintiffs." The panel said Thomas erred in ruling the city was protected by the doctrine of governmental immunity; "reasonable minds" should have concluded the officers should have recognized Collins wouldn't stop when he drove at high speeds, the wrong way down a one-way street, ignored traffic signals and sideswiped two other cars.

The opinion was signed by Judges Maureen P. Reilly, Michael J. Kelly and Calvin L. Bosman. The case goes back to circuit court.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Vibe®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Vibe® relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Vibe® is an odorless, greaseless, nonstaining cream, and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work.

Use only as directed.

Wood cutting cut

Permits to gather firewood from state forests are discontinued from Oct. 1 through next March 31, DNR announced.

When they're available, they're valid for 90 days, cost $20 and entitle you to five standard cords of wood. Wood may be collected only for personal use (no resale) from downed or designated trees.

Think summer

Campgrounds in Michigan State Parks are so popular that it's a good idea to reserve a spot by telephone and credit card. It's far cheaper than searching in frustration through crowded campground the first evening of your vacation. You may reserve 11 months in advance.

"By planning now, campers can make sure they get their first choice of parks, especially for holiday weekends," said O.J. Scherschligt, DNR chief of parks and recreation.

Know what park you want to use, and have alternative dates and places in mind if your first choice isn't available.

Be ready to provide your name, address, camping equipment size and type, Visa or Mastercard number, and telephone number of a contact person. Or you may ask for a mail-in reservation form from any state park or the toll-free number.

The toll-free number is 1-800-5432-YES between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. weekdays and 8 to 5 on weekends.

County hosts Halloween fest in Hines

Youngsters are invited to come out and enjoy the Wayne County Parks Halloween Festival 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 26 in Hines Park's Nankin Mills Picnic Area.

Youngsters ages 4-12 will be treated to a costume contest, games, candy hunt, hay rides and puppet show.

"The Boo Brothers Puppet Show of Funny Frights," presented by Pippin Puppets is planned 1:30-2 p.m. From 2-2:30 p.m. "The Red Rug Puppet Theater" will entertain.

Festival admission is free, however, a nominal fee will be charged for the hay ride. Food concession will be available.

For more information, or to reserve a spot, call Wayne County Parks at (313) 261-1990.

Nankin Mills is on Hines Drive, just east of Ann Arbor Trail.

Homemade bread sticks, that's Italian

My introduction to making Italian-style bread sticks occurred a few years ago when Nick Malgieri, the man who wrote the book on "How To Bake," (copyright 1996, Harper-Collins Publishers, $37.50) appeared at a national food conference that I attended.

Nick told the assembled group of foodies about watching a baker in the Piedmont region of Italy make bread sticks The Grissini were so good that Nick solicited a rudimentary recipe on the spot. He then shared the recipe with the group. I recently found the recipe while purging my desk of mounds of recipes, publications and press releases that have gathered dust through the years. You get the idea. It's all those clippings of things that you say to yourself "gee, this sounds too good to pass up, I must make it," and seldom do, or find the time, or make the effort, or whatever. Until now.

The best reason to make homemade bread sticks is the assumption that bread stick recipes are rather easy to follow, somewhat forgiving, and that bread sticks are many things to many people. Everyone who loves bread sticks thinks of his or her favorite version — thick or thin, tender or crisp, seasoned, salty or plain — as their own personal favorite.

Lack of recipes

When I began my search for information to write this article, I was surprised by the lack of recipes available in cookbooks. Malgieri's book doesn't even contain one, and most of the recipes I did stumble across in other publications were nothing more than a basic white bread cut down to thin strips. After searching through about 20 different bread and baking books, here's what I discovered:

Some of the most basic differences among bread sticks stem from the type of fat that is used in the recipe. Olive oil, butter and lard all impart a different and distinctive flavor and texture. Olive oil will contribute a deep, fruity flavor and is an excellent choice when making herb bread sticks

Butter is rich and delicate, and helps make the perfect plain, yet sweet bread stick, the kind that lends itself to a veil thin slice of Prosciutto wrapped around its exterior.

Lard, perhaps the best fat for crisp bread sticks, offers an assertive, rustic taste.

As with any good bread recipe, it is always best to use an unbleached all purpose flour or better yet, a standard bread flour. Standard all purpose bleached flour has been chemically bleached and is sold mainly because it also contains bromates which have a tendency to bake light and airy breads.

Whole grains, especially those that are naturally stone ground will produce a more robust, textured bread stick with a chewier texture. Bread flour is made from hard winter wheat with a higher protein level. Bread flour should not be used for quick breads, cakes and pastry crusts because it will make for a heavier dough.

Yeast

It was once said by an old philosopher that "yeast, like man, luxuriates in warmer temperatures."

When it comes to making bread sticks, you're only as good as the yeast. Whereas, many moons ago when I was young and naive, I thought that packets of quick active dry yeast available in tripacks in the cool dairy section was the only way to go. Any baker knows that the yeast you use is critical, and it is the yeast that is the spark that ignites the fire that fuels the engine of fermentation. Pros suggest purchasing dry bakers yeast that is sold in 4 ounce jars, or airtight bags. It is free of preservatives and rapid rise agents.

Bread sticks, like good bread, should never be rushed. Fermentation with fast rising, double powered yeast robs bread and bread sticks of good texture and flavor. Don't confuse bakers yeast with nutritional or brewers yeast.

Last, but certainly not least, use the best ingredients money can buy. Garlic powder will never replace fresh garlic and newly purchased caraway seeds will fare much better than those that have been sitting in your spice rack for the past 11 years.

KOSHER FOODS ARE 'SOUPER'

BY PEGGY MARTINELLI-EVERTS
REGISTERED DIETITIAN

Too many, kosher foods and kosher cooking mean good, pure, healthy food. The word "kosher" is a derivation of the Hebrew word "kasher" meaning "proper" or "pure."

In recent years, kosher food has enjoyed a surge in popularity as we all — regardless of our religious or ethnic background — look for healthful, wholesome food products.

Matzo ball soup is a wonderful comfort food, bagels are so mainstream now that bagel factories pop up almost as fast as coffee shops and it's difficult to resist some of those fabulous pastries that come fresh from local Jewish bakeries.

A food is deemed kosher if it conforms to strict Jewish biblical laws pertaining not only to the type of food that may be eaten, but to the kinds of food that can be combined at one meal. But there are misconceptions associated with kosher products.

So what exactly is kosher food and what separates these food items from other non-kosher foods? Within the Jewish dietary law, kosher usually refers to food that is fit to be eaten, as opposed to food that is "tref," or forbidden.

Forbidden foods include pork, horse flesh, shrimp, crabs and oysters. Kosher fish are those that have scales and fins.

Kosher dietary laws require that the slaughtering of animals and fowl be done in a manner that prevents unnecessary suffering. Meat must be soaked and salted to remove all blood. Milk and dairy products must not be eaten with meat. This means at some meals Jews that keep kosher are lacto/ovo/pesco (dairy/egg/fish) vegetarians.

Some foods are labeled "pareve" or "parve" which means that they are neutral foods. The term describes food made without animal or dairy ingredients. According to kosher dietary laws, animal food cannot be consumed at the same meal as dairy food, but a pareve food may be combined or eaten with either. In order to be pareve, breads or cakes must be made with vegetable oils and not with butter or other animal fat.

According to Franklin Claire, vice president of sales for B. Manischewitz Co., a kosher food manufacturer, in order for packaged goods to receive the kosher certification, they must be produced under the strict supervision of a rabbi. He adds that a rabbi must be present at the production facility to supervise and certify that all ingredients, equipment and the manufacturing process are within the strict requirements of Jewish dietary law. This involves insuring that pure ingredients are used in a clean environment with strictly enforced quality controls in place.

Because kosher products must pass these strictly monitored standards, many people believe that kosher foods are healthier than non-kosher fare. Please remember that whether a food is kosher or not, you must still read the nutritional content label to be sure it fits into your daily dietary requirements. As with most any eating pattern, if you make good choices, you can be assured a healthful diet.

Here are some guidelines to follow if you choose kosher foods:

- Foods prepared with added fat, whether it's butter (for a dairy meal) or margarine/oil (for a meat meal) should be eaten in limited amounts.
- Fatty cuts of meat such as beef ribs, fish packed in oil or sour cream, whole fat dairy products, egg yolks and organ meats will contain significant amounts of saturated fat and cholesterol and should be eaten in limited amounts.
- Meat-based soups should have the fat skimmed off. Cream soups should be prepared with the lowest fat dairy product available. Soups made with barley, peas, lentils and vegetables such as cabbage or beets can be a fully satisfying meal if served with fresh, crusty bread.
- Individuals monitoring their salt intake may want to limit pickled or smoked meats or fish such as salmon or haddock, or pickled vegetables such as cucumbers and cabbage.
- Traditional cooking techniques of meat, poultry, fish or eggs such as boiling, baking, grilling or steaming, are lower fat alternatives to frying or preparation in a cream sauce.
- Enjoy desserts and pastries in limited amounts and look for those made with the lowest fat ingredients such as meringues, fruit tarts, skim milk puddings, plain cakes and baked fruits.
- Baked products such as bread, rolls and bagels fresh from one of the many local kosher bakeries are wonderful. However, they can be high in calories so enjoy them in limited amounts.
- Eggs are a basic ingredient in many kosher food products. An egg is an excellent source of high-quality protein, but also contains more than 200 milligrams of cholesterol and up to 7 grams of fat. Watch for eggs in the ingredients list and adjust your diet accordingly.

So go ahead and enjoy the wonderful variety of wholesome kosher foods, but just remember to use good judgment.

Learn more about kosher foods at fair

If you're interested in learning what kosher food is all about, and you enjoy trying new foods, visit The Neighborhood Project and Jewish Community Center's fifth Kosher Food Fair 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 20, at the Jewish Community Center's Jimmy Prentis Morris Building, 15110 W. 10 Mile Road, Oak Park.

Admission is one kosher food item or a cash donation to Yad Ezra Kosher Food Pantry, an organization that feeds the hungry. For more information, call (810) 967-1112.

Fair coordinator Marion Freedman said the fair offers something for everyone whether you're Jewish or not.

Kosher cooking demonstrations by chef and cooking instructor, Annabel Cohen and Matt Prentice of Unique Restaurant Corp., and a display of holiday and Sabbath table settings provide glimpses into Jewish traditions and food preparation. The fair also features storytelling and activities for children, and healthful eating tips provided by the Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute and Weight Watchers.

A soup contest will be the highlight of the "souper" fair. All soup cook-off entries must be made with kosher ingredients, and recipes must adhere to kosher dietary laws. Judging will take place at 2 p.m. There's no charge to enter the contest, and first, second and third place prizes will be awarded. For contest information, call the Neighborhood Project Office (810) 967-1112.

According to Freedman, the biggest draw of the Kosher Food Fair is the food sampling area. She expects 2,000 to 3,000 people will sample the kosher cuisine from 23 different booths There will be kosher candy, nuts, pizza, stir-fry chicken, herring, kugels, brownies, rolls, and a host of other specialties.

The fair is sponsored by The Neighborhood Project, the Jewish Community Center, Franklin Bank, and B. Manischewitz Co.

There's a trick to making pumpkin bread a treat

BY LAURA L. SYKES
SPECIAL WRITER

October always makes me think of all the different smells of fall. There are delicious odors of wet leaves after a rain, smoke from a fireplace, straw from a hayride and a home filled with the scent of cinnamon and spices coming from the oven.

This month's recipe is for a low fat pumpkin bread. It is a terrific recipe to make a large batch of and freeze for future gift giving. Or, you can package all the dry ingredients together, put a nice holiday bow on it, attach the recipe, and present it as a gift. Either way, family and friends will love this unique present.

The major changes I made involve the one cup of oil and four eggs. One cup of cooking oil has 1,928 calories and 218 grams of fat. Because this is a vegetable oil it contains no cholesterol. If it had come from animal fat, such as lard, it would have been packed with cholesterol. The benefit of using a vegetable oil over an animal oil is that it contains no cholesterol. But, it still has the same amount of fat and calories!

I replaced the eight ounces of oil with 6 ounces of non-fat vanilla yogurt. The amount of yogurt is decreased slightly because it contains water and the oil doesn't. If I had used an equal amount of yogurt the recipe would have contained too much liquid and would not have risen correctly. By simply replacing

CHICKEN SOUP

5-6 pounds Kosher stewing chicken, quartered
1 large leek, washed well
1 parsnip
4-5 carrots, peeled and cut into serving-size pieces
3 stalks celery
1 tablespoon salt
4-5 peppercorns
Fresh dill, optional

Cover chicken, vegetables, and seasonings with water in an 8-quart soup pot bringing water level 3-4 inches above the chicken. Cook 3-4 hours until chicken falls apart.

Strain into a large bowl using a linen dish towel as a strainer. Return carrots to soup and serve.

Recipe from Wendy Wagenheim, "Still Fiddling in the Kitchen," published in 1992 by the National Council of Jewish Women, Greater Detroit Section.

MATZO BALLS

3 eggs
5 tablespoons club soda
3 tablespoons oil or parve margarine
3/4 cup matzo meal
3/4 teaspoon dehydrated parsley
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
3/4 teaspoon salt

Beat eggs. Add club soda, oil, matzo meal, salt, parsley and pepper. Stir until well blended.

Let mixture stand in refrigerator several hours or overnight.

In a large pot, bring water to a boil and add a little chicken bouillon.

With wet hands, form matzo ball mixture into balls (about the size of golf balls).

Drop into boiling water and boil uncovered for 30 minutes. Can be added to warm chicken soup or can be frozen. Serves 8.

TOMATO BASIL SOUP

3 tablespoons oil or parve margarine
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1 small carrot, shredded
2 stalks celery, sliced
5 large ripe tomatoes, peeled, seeded and coarsely chopped
1/2 cup fresh basil leaves, lightly packed
3/4 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
Dash cayenne pepper
1/2 cup chicken broth
Dash salt
Fresh basil leaves for garnish

Heat oil or melt margarine, in a 3 quart pot. Add onions, celery and cook, stirring frequently, until they are soft.

Stir in tomatoes, basil, sugar and pepper. Bring to a boil, stirring often.

Cover the pot, reduce heat and simmer until very soft (10-15) minutes. Puree mixture in blender or food processor until smooth.

Return to pan, add broth and salt. Heat until steaming. Serve garnished with fresh basil leaves. Serves 8.

CABBAGE SOUP

3 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 medium onions, halved and sliced crosswise
1/2 cup golden raisins
1/3 cup lemon juice, freshly squeezed
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon honey
1 medium cabbage, cored, quartered and sliced into 1/4-inch strips (about 8 cups)
1 1/2 teaspoons minced garlic
1 teaspoon kosher salt
1 teaspoon paprika
1 (2 pound 3 ounce) can tomatoes with juice
3-4 short ribs or flanken
3 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup ginger snaps, crumbled
Fresh ground pepper to taste
Fresh lemon juice to taste
Chopped parsley to garnish

Heat oil in heavy saucepan and cook onions 10-15 minutes until tender. Stir together raisins, lemon juice, brown sugar, and honey and reserve.

Add cabbage to pan and toss to coat with oil. Steam cabbage covered over medium heat until wilted, about 6 minutes. Add garlic, salt, paprika and tomatoes. Tuck in meat, add water to just cover ingredients. Heat to boiling and skim off foam.

Reduce heat and simmer, partially covered for 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Remove meat and bones. Shred meat and return to pot. Stir in ginger snaps and simmer 5-10 minutes. Add pepper and extra lemon juice to taste. Garnish with chopped parsley, if desired. Serves 4-6.

Recipe from Arlene Redfield, "Still Fiddling in the Kitchen," published in 1992 by the National Council of Jewish Women, Greater Detroit Section.

the oil with yogurt I have eliminated 1,864 calories and 218 grams of fat! I also reduced the 2/3 cup of water to 1/3 cup to account for the liquid in the yogurt.

Eggs contain 75 calories and 5 grams of fat. Two egg whites equals one whole egg. Therefore, I replaced the original four eggs with the egg whites of eight eggs. This substitution completely eliminates the fat from the eggs and reduces the calories from them from 300 to 136.

Amazingly, only 1.3 percent of the calories in the low fat version come from fat! The recipe makes two loaves of bread with 10 servings per loaf. The American Heart Association and The American Cancer Society suggest only eating foods that have under 30 percent of their calories coming from fat. The Pumpkin Bread recipe definitely fits that criteria!

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

4 medium boneless, skinless chicken breasts
2 1/4 cups fat free chicken broth
1/2 cup cooking sherry
15 ounces no-salt added stewed tomatoes
6 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
1/4 package Good Seasons Italian dressing mix
1/4 cup green peppers, finely chopped
1 tsp. Italian seasoning
1 clove garlic, minced
1 whole bay leaf
Brown rice or No-Yolk brand egg noodles

Boil chicken until done. Remove chicken from water and cut into bite-size pieces; discard water. Place chicken, chicken broth and sherry in a large non-stick skillet. Add tomatoes, mushrooms, Italian dressing mix, green peppers and other seasonings. Bring to a boil and simmer for one hour until sauce thickens. Serve chicken over rice or noodles. Serves 4.

Cook out on Columbus Day

You say your grill is now covered with leaves? You think it's too cold to cook outside anymore? You just know the neighbors will think you are crazy? Well, that's the same sort of thing they said about Christopher Columbus, and look what happened when he looked beyond the traditional boundaries.

Cookbook author and lifelong grilling aficionado Melanie Barnard, speaks from her own Italian heritage and suggests that you follow Columbus's lead — look beyond summer for your grilling pleasure. In fact, autumn can be the best grilling season of all, maintains Barnard.

The weather has changed from blistering heat to a welcome coolness that restores summer's flagging appetites. You may have had your fill of burgers and barbecued chicken until next spring, but autumn is the time to approach grilling in a new and heartier way.

Try grilling Cornish game hens for a tailgate party, or pork tenderloin fragrant with herbs to reenergize the family after a day of raking leaves. Grilled turkey breast is a perfect warm up for the Thanksgiving feast to come, and a grilled marinated steak is a welcome surprise any time of year.

One of the best ways to celebrate the season is to grill those wonderfully sweet, last-of-the-harvest vegetables. Team them up with spicy Italian sausages for a tantalizing Grilled Sausage and Vegetable Pizza.

Pizza baked or grilled in woodfired stoves are an Italian classic, and they are certainly the last word in avant-garde casual dining in America these days. With your backyard grill, you can have a piping hot, contemporary-style grilled pizza in about as much time as the local pizzeria delivery service will take one to your door. And better yet, you can personalize the pizza for everyone.

There are endless variations for this pizza. Make a trendy "white" pizza with fresh or canned clams sprinkled on grilled bread that has been flavored with bottled Italian dressing.

Our pizza uses green bell peppers and onions, both of which grill to a sweet woodsy flavor. Equally delicious toppings would be grilled sliced eggplant, zucchini, portobello mushrooms, broccoli, or even potato slices.

Or, make a classic Italian pizza Margharita with thinly sliced fresh tomatoes, fresh basil leaves and a drizzling of bottled Italian dressing. Evoke images of the Rivera with a Nicoise pizza of roasted peppers and sliced black olives. Even the traditional cheese and pepperoni is made more interesting when grilled.

GRILLED SAUSAGE AND PEPPER PIZZAS

3/4 pound lean hot or sweet Italian sausage links or turkey Italian sausage links
1/2 cup bottled Italian dressing
2 teaspoons chopped fresh rosemary or 1 teaspoon crumbled dried rosemary
2 medium green bell peppers, seeded and quartered
1 large sweet onion, such as Vidalia, cut crosswise into 1/2-inch slices
2 packages (8 ounces each) individual Italian Bread Shells, or 4 sandwich size English muffins, split
1 cup prepared marinara or pizza sauce
1 cup (about 4 ounces) shredded Mozzarella cheese

Prick the sausages with a fork, then place in a skillet. Add about 3/4 cup of water, cover the skillet and steam over medium heat, turning once, until the sauces are no longer pink, about 10 minutes. (The sausages can be steamed a few hours ahead and refrigerated. Return to room temperature before continuing).

In a small bowl, combine the Italian dressing and rosemary. Split the sausages lengthwise. Brush the sausages, peppers, and onions with about half of the Italian dressing. Grill the sausages and vegetables over medium coals, turning once until the sausages rare browned, and the vegetables are tender, 7 to 10 minutes. About 2 minutes before the vegetables and meat are done, grill the tops of the bread shells or cut sides of the English muffins until lightly toasted.

Remove bread, sausages, and vegetables from the grill. Quickly slice the sausages and peppers into large chunks, and separate the onions into rings. Turn bread, toasted side up, spread with marinara sauce, top with the sausages and vegetables, drizzle with remaining Italian dressing, and sprinkle with cheese.

Return the pizzas to the grill. Cover and grill until cheese melts and underside of bread is toasted, about 1 minute. (If you don't have a covered grill, it will just take a bit longer to melt the cheese, or you can finish melting the cheese under the broiler). Garnish with sprigs of rosemary, if desired. Serves 4.

Homemade bread sticks worth the effort

See related Taste Buds column on Taste front.

TENDER SALTY BREAD STICKS

3 cups unbleached all purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons salt
1 cup warm water (95-105 degrees F.)
2 1/2 teaspoons bakers yeast
2 tablespoons unsalted butter or olive oil
Egg wash made by beating1 large egg with 1 tablespoon water
2 tablespoons Kosher salt for sprinkling

In a bowl, mix together the flour, sugar and salt. In a small bowl, whisk together the water, yeast, and butter or oil. Add yeast mixture to flour mixture and work into a dough.

Place dough on a lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place dough in a lightly greased bowl, turning to coat, and let rise, covered tightly with plastic wrap, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Line two jelly roll pans or large baking sheets with parchment paper or foil. Turn dough onto a lightly floured surface and punch down. Shape dough into a 12 by 3-inch rectangle and cut crosswise into twelve 3 by 1-inch strips. Roll each strip with palms of hands until six inches long and in the pans arrange 2 inches apart. Cover pans loosely with plastic wrap or a kitchen towel and let sticks rise until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Brush sticks with egg wash and sprinkle with Kosher salt. Bake sticks in upper and lower thirds of the oven, switching positions of pans halfway through baking., until well risen and golden, about 20-25 minutes. Cool sticks in pans on racks. Makes 12 somewhat large bread sticks.

CLASSIC ITALIAN GRISSINI

2 scant tablespoons dry bakers yeast
2 1/2 cups warm water (about 105 degrees F.)
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons honey
2 teaspoons salt
5 1/2 to 6 1/2 cups unbleached flour

Sesame seeds, poppy seeds, caraway seeds, coarse salt or a combination, if desired, for a topping.

In a large bowl, soften the yeast by dissolving it in the water. Add the oil, honey, salt and 2 cups of the flour. Beat vigorously with a dough whisk or a heavy handled spoon for 2 minutes. Gradually add more of the remaining flour, 1/4 cup at a time, until the dough forms a mass and begins to pull away from the side of the bowl. Turn the dough out onto a floured surface. Knead the dough, adding more flour, a little at a time, for 8-10 minutes or until you have a smooth, elastic dough and blisters begin to develop on the surface.

Place the dough in an oiled bowl. Cover with kitchen towels and allow to rise for 1 hour or until doubled in size. Turn the dough onto a lightly oiled surface. Divide into 48 pieces for thick bread sticks or 72 pieces in you prefer the more classic, thin Italian Grissini. Roll each piece into a 10 inch rope.

If desired, scatter one or more of the toppings over the work surface. Place the bread sticks one inch apart on a baking sheet covered with parchment paper. Cover with a towel and allow to rise for 30 minutes. About 15 minutes before the end of the second rise, preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Bake thicker bread sticks for 20 minutes, thinner bread sticks for 10-12 minutes. Immediately remove bread sticks from the baking sheets to a rack.

For extra crisp bread sticks, cool the oven to 200 degrees F. and place the bread sticks in the oven for 20 minutes more. Makes 48 or 72 bread sticks, depending on their size.

BUTTERY CHEESE BREAD STICKS

1/2 pound (2 sticks) unsalted butter, at room temperature
3-4 cups unbleached flour
1 tablespoon dry bakers yeast
1/4 cup warm water (about 105 degrees F.)
1 large egg, beaten
1 cup warm milk, about 105 degrees F.
1/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons Kosher salt
8 ounces Parmesan cheese, grated, (about 2 cups)

Combine the butter with 1/2 cup of flour. Make a heavy paste and roll it out thin on waxed paper or parchment paper. Place it in the refrigerator while the dough is prepared.

In a large bowl, soften the yeast in the warm water and mix until dissolved. Add the egg, milk, sugar, salt, 2 cups of flour and 1 cup (1/2) of the cheese to the yeast mixture. Beat vigorously for 2 minutes. Gradually add more flour, about 1/2 cup at a time until the dough begins to pull away from the sides of the bowl.

Flour your hands and roll a small marble sized ball of dough. If it rolls into a ball but then disintegrates into a sticky glob, it is the right consistency. Too much flour at this point makes it hard to roll the bread sticks later. Cover the bowl with plastic wrap. Refrigerate for 30 minutes.

On a lightly floured surface, roll the dough into a 9 by 24-inch rectangle. Remove the butter mixture from the refrigerator and carefully position it over the dough. Peel off the paper and fold the dough into thirds. Roll the dough again into a 9 by 24-inch rectangle and fold it into thirds.

Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate for 30 minutes. On a lightly floured board, roll the dough into a 9 by 24-inch rectangle and fold into thirds again. Wrap and refrigerate for 30 minutes. Divide the dough in half. Roll each piece into a 9 by 12-inch rectangle and cut into 24 strips. Roll each strip in the remaining Parmesan cheese and place the strips on parchment lined baking sheets about 1 inch apart. Cover with a towel and allow to rise for 45 minutes. About 15 minutes before the end of the rise, preheat oven to 400 degrees F.

Carefully twist the ends of the bread sticks in opposite directions. Bake bread sticks for 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from baking sheets and cool on a wire rack. Makes 48 bread sticks.

Chef's Secret: Now that you think this recipe is far too complicated, try making it with puff pastry sheets that can be purchased from the grocer. Simply defrost the sheets and roll into 9 by 12-inch rectangles.

Cut into 24 half inch strips, dip in melted butter, then roll in fresh grated Parmesan. Bake as directed in recipe above.

'The Phantom' returns to Redford Theatre

Film classic: Lon Chaney and Mary Philbin star in "The Phantom of the Opera" to be presented Friday at the Redford Theatre.

Redford Theatre is presenting the 1925 silent film classic, "The Phantom of the Opera," starring Lon Chaney, 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 18. The film, including the original two-color Technicolor masked ball sequence, will be accompanied live by Tony O'Brien performing his original musical score at the Barton theatre pipe organ with soprano Deborah Frontczak at the Redford Theatre, 17360 Lahser Road, (north of Grand River) in Detroit.

Tickets are $8, and available at Hammell Music in Livonia; Evola Music Centers in Bloomfield Hills and Plymouth; the Poster Gallery in the Fisher Building, Detroit; Royal Oak Music Center, Little Professor Book Center, Dearborn; and Township Hardware in Redford. Call (810) 258-5806 or (313) 537-2560 for more information. There is no charge for lighted, guarded parking.

In this landmark film, Chaney plays the deranged musician, Erik, who haunts the subterranean caverns beneath the Paris Opera House. Mary Philbin is the opera's beautiful young singer, Christine, whom he plots to abduct as his bride.

The son of deaf-mute parents, Chaney became skilled in the art of pantomime early in life. He was considered a genius in the application of make-up, and the unmasking scene, accompanied by the throbbing pipe organ, has not been equaled.

The 35mm print used in this presentation was made from the master archive print by the International Museum of Photography at George Eastman House. It contains the last surviving footage of the original two-color Technicolor sequences, that of Chaney, disguised as Red Death, making a nightmarish entrance to the masked ball, preserved by the UCLA Film and Television Archives.

So costly and so well built was the five-story set of the Paris Opera House constructed at Universal Pictures for this film that it was never struck. It stands today on Stage 28 and is seen every year by thousands of sightseers.

Tony O'Brien of Livonia has accompanied "The Phantom of the Opera" in both solo performance and with symphony orchestras, most recently with the Lawton (Oklahoma) Philharmonic and at the Chautauqua Institution in New York State.

Deborah Frontczak, who will sing "The Jewel Song" from "Faust" as the story unfolds on the screen, is a graduate student at Wayne State University in voice performance. An active member of Grosse Pointe Theatre, she has been seen in "Nunsense," "Evita," and "Into the Woods," and just performed the role of Susanna in "Le Nozze di Figaro," at WSU.

The program is being presented by two non-profit groups, the Detroit Theatre Organ Society and the Motor City Theatre Organ Society, which share the common goal of preserving the theater pipe organ, an instrument installed in movie houses across the country in the 1920s to accompany silent films.

The Detroit Theatre Organ Society, founded in 1961, owns the Wurlitzer pipe organ installed in the Fisher Theatre in 1928, which is now in the Senate Theatre, 6424 Michigan Ave., Detroit.

The Motor City Theatre Organ Society, organized in 1964, purchased the Redford Theatre in 1978 to preserve the 1928 Barton pipe organ in its original home.

Is a bank or a credit union the best deal for you?

By MICHAEL KELLY

In the last year consumer advocates and business analysts have been warning consumers about rising fees and other consumer costs at banks. Often, they advice joining a credit union instead of doing business at a bank. Why? Isn't a credit union just like a bank?

In short, the answer is no. For most people, most of the time, credit unions are a much better deal than banks. A recent study by the Public Interest Research Group (PIRG) on fees starkly demonstrates some of the differences between credit unions and banks. Need to stop payment on a check? The average bank fee is $14.43, while the average credit union charges $5.52. "No fee" checking? The bank average is $2.94 monthly charge with 9 free checks then 20¢ per check. The credit union average is a 27¢ monthly charge with 19 free checks and then 1¢ per check. Some difference.

An explanation may be that the banking industry has been reporting record profits in recent years and, according to a recent survey by the Conference Board, top banking industry executives are now the highest paid executives in the nation (with a median salary of $953,000 a year!).

"The bankers still have their hands buried deep in our wallets," stated Ed Mierzwinski, Director of the PIRG Consumer Program, "Consumer bank fee increases once again defied gravity, rising at twice the inflation rate from 1993 to 1995." Mierzwinski cited the rising cost of an interest-bearing NOW checking account. In 1990, a consumer had to leave a $135 balance in his interest-earning NOW checking account to cover fees. By 1993 that had risen to $725. By 1995, the required balance had reached $1,123.

Then there are loan and savings rates. According to 1995 figures, banks charged 9.56% for new car loans while credit unions charged 8.49%. Banks charged 18.21% for credit card loans and credit unions charged 13.14%. For savings, banks paid 4.92% on a one year certificate and credit unions paid 5.97%.

The key reason for this contrast is the different purposes of banks and credit unions. Banks are businesses created to make money from their customers and give it to their stockholders. Credit unions are member-owned financial cooperative

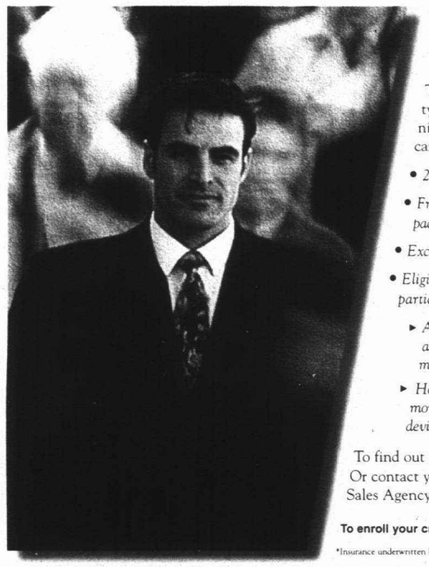
Five ways to join a credit union

If you already belong to a credit union, you know about the exceptional financial service and value you find there. If you or your friends and family don't belong to a credit union, but would like to, here's how to find a credit union to join:

1. Ask the boss. Often you'll find that the company where you work offers access to a credit union. Many employers offer direct deposit of part or all of your paycheck to the credit union. This service helps you save regularly, make efficient deposits to your checking account and even make loan payments.
2. Poll your family members. If your employer doesn't sponsor a credit union perhaps your spouse's employer does. Or a parent brother, sister or child might work at a company offering a credit union. Most credit unions allow credit union members' families to join the credit union also. Different credit unions may define "family." differently though. At some, members of your immediate family — spouse, parents, and children—are eligible. At other credit unions, family may include extended family members like cousins, uncles and aunts.
3. Quiz the neighbors. Many credit unions have a "community" field of membership serving a region defined by geography rather than by employment or some other association. Ask friends in the community if they know of a credit union you may join.
4. Read the yellow pages. Look in the Yellow Pages under "Credit Unions." You may be surprised to find some credit unions near where you live or work. Call to see of you are eligible to join. Sometimes a credit union that originally served only employees of one company has since extended its field of membership to other companies.
5. Call 800-474-JOIN. The Michigan Credit Union League offers a service to help you find a credit union by calling (800) 474-JOIN. You'll hear an electronic message that asks for some information that will help find a convenient credit union you are eligible to join. You'll then receive additional information in the mail.

Credit unions are for everyone, but the law places some limits on the people each particular credit union may serve. While most Americans are eligible to join a credit union many don't realize it.



Group Rates. Individual Service.

Credit unions serve those who need it most

By SONJA TERBUSH

The honeymoon was over and my husband and I sat down for our first budget discussion. We had charged the majority of our trip, the wedding had taken most of our savings and our lease was expiring soon. Like most naive newlyweds, we had visions of purchasing our first home, maybe even a new car or some things for the house. And, like most newlyweds, we quickly discovered that between our credit card debt and student loans, those goals were far out of reach.

But, with youth comes confidence. We approached our bank and asked if they would consider us for a mortgage. Very politely, they explained that at this time we would not be eligible and that we should come back in say 10 or 15 years. Well, that was not an option. Our next step was asking for enough money for the down payment from our parents. More bad news, neither could afford to help nor did they seem all too thrilled by the request.

My parents suggested we talk to someone at their credit union. Credit union? We already went to the bank, what could a credit union do? Feeling hopeless, we went and met with one of their loan officers.

Our fears were confirmed that we were not eligible for a mortgage, but with the proper financial planning we could be in just a couple of years. The credit union helped us consolidate our current credit cards at a lower rate, set up a savings plan and a budget which allowed us to pay the bills, save money and still have a little left over. Two years later, we've financed a used car, paid off our debt and are ready to hit the housing market.

My story is not uncommon and since joining a credit union, I know much more about how they work and why we have them. Rather than customers at a bank, credit unions have members who share a common bond, called their "field of membership." Credit union members pool their savings, lend them to one another, and cooperatively own the organization. And, unlike banks, the members, not stockholders, establish the policies and procedures of their credit union.

They provide traditional financial services such as checking and savings accounts, credit cards, certificates of deposit, mortgages and various other types of loans. However, unlike traditional financial institutions, they don't concentrate on profits. Therefore, they are willing to work with people from all income levels and backgrounds. In fact, the Federal Reserve Board recently reported that credit unions approved mortgage applications for minority groups at a rate of 83.3% last year, while banks approved only 72.4% of minority applications, S&Ls approved 72.5% and mortgage companies approved 72.4%. The approval rate for credit unions were much higher in every minority category, including African-Americans, Hispanics, Asian-Americans and Native Americans.

Member education is one of the reasons that credit unions will reach out to individuals who are so often turned away from banks and it is another key benefit in joining a credit union. Credit unions recognize that when their members do well, so does the credit union. In turn, when the credit union does well, its members benefit in the form of lower interest rates and higher dividends paid. Therefore, they strive to teach good financial habits.

Credit unions have always been there to help their members. It's not a new marketing technique. In fact, credit unions came to be in the 19th century as a means of economic survival for those struggling during the European revolutions.

There are over 500 credit unions in Michigan that serve nearly 40% of the state's population, including a generous portion of the 14.5% of low-income residents. Credit unions in Michigan are proud to continue with the founding principle of People Helping People.

Because credit union members cross all ethnic, racial, sexual, age and economic borders, you'll find them located everywhere: cities, affluent and low-income neighborhoods, churches, work places and even in high schools—serving students and faculty. Credit unions are there serving those who need it most.

Which picture reminds you of talking to your financial institution?

If you chose the picture on the right, you probably belong to a credit union. You've been exposed to a whole different picture of honest, personal attention - from the people who set the standards for service.

As not-for-profit financial cooperatives, credit unions are dedicated to treating every member like they own the place - because they do! Credit union members get the kind of advice and assistance that "customers" never receive anywhere else. In addition, members enjoy the benefits of the most competitive financial services you'll find - with the reassurance of knowing that their money is safe and secure.

If you feel stonewalled by your financial institution, talk face-to-face with someone at a credit union. You'll see a whole different picture of what service can mean!

Twelve Oaks mall completes a $7 million renovation task

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

Twelve Oaks in Novi celebrates its 20th anniversary next year with a three-phase project designed to update the regional center for state-of-the-art customer service.

The initial phase was completed in August, after seven months of work. The $7 million remodeling project included a padded toddler playground, unisex family restroom, barrier-free entrances and elevators, an expanded customer service center, canopied valet station, and new lighting and mall signage.

Remaining phases will be geared to giving the 1977 mall a 1997 appearance.

McFee said the center is completely leased and room for even holiday gift wrap stations will be hard to come by this year. Twelve Oaks has enjoyed tremendous sales records for many of its stores, including anchors Hudson's and Sears. Until the Somerset Collection North opened in August, Twelve Oaks held many exclusive-to-Michigan leases.

"We noticed a drop in our business in August when Somerset opened," McFee admitted. "But now our traffic is back up. It's right where we expect it to be."

McFee said a Warner Bros. Studio Store is coming to the center in time for the holidays, and the mall's award-winning Crystal Forest exhibit will again delight holiday shoppers.

"Twelve Oaks is well recognized within the community as a place where families gather to shop, eat and enjoy special activities and entertainment throughout the year," said manager Miles McFee. "So when we began planning renovations, it seemed natural to maintain our family focus by adding family-centered conveniences and attractions."

McFee said Twelve Oaks is the third of the three local Taubman shopping malls to install a giant toddler play area. Lakeside and Fairlane malls have enjoyed the gleeful giggles of children and the appreciative notes from parents for building the fanciful playscapes.

Twelve Oaks also updated its wood-and-bar banisters throughout the center with contemporary glass-and-steel handrails. The upper level columns have been wrapped in stainless steel.

Northland manager moves to Novi mall

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
STAFF WRITER

After nine eventful years as general manager of the Northland Center in Southfield, Catherine O'Malley is leaving the mall to manage operations at the Twelve Oaks mall in Novi.

O'Malley said she was recruited for the job by the mall's owner, The Taubman Co. "They certainly offered me an opportunity to continue to grow with the project," she said. "And it was time to leave Northland for a new challenge."

For the past few months, Twelve Oaks has been under the direction of manager Miles McFee who has been reassigned to the corporate leasing department at Taubman headquarters in Bloomfield Hills. McFee came to Twelve Oaks in June from the Fairlane Town Center when longtime Twelve Oaks manager Phil Morosco was transferred to a Taubman mall in Virginia.

As manager of Fairlane, McFee saw the mall through the controversial Saturday night closings plan in May, which drew criticism from some merchants and community members, but which the mall has retained. Prior to his stint as manager of Fairlane, McFee was general manager at the Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights.

O'Malley's successor at Northland is yet to be determined.

She has been lauded for leading Northland mall through a rough time – winning back the support of Detroit shoppers, improving safety issues, providing opportunities for independent retailers, and last year, taking the 30-year-old shopping center through a multi-million dollar remodeling which culminated in a spectacular family holiday program.

O'Malley sits on the board of a dozen community and civic organizations including Goodwill Industries, Providence Hospital, and the Boys and Girls Clubs which she said she will continue to serve.

"It's a good time to leave Northland," she said. "We've made some successful turnovers. It's in good hands. It's enjoying a high position."

Catherine O'Malley

The Northland Center is owned by Equitable Real Estate Investment Management and managed by Compass Retail Inc.

Looking back on her Northland career, O'Malley said she's most proud of "my relationships with the tenants, the community and the staff."

20 years in the biz

She pointed out that said she is celebrating her 20th anniversary in the retail business, and was part of the Dayton Hudson team that opened Twelve Oaks "out in the fields" 20 years ago, before the Taubman Company bought into the center.

"I'm sure my new responsibilities will unfold once I get to Twelve Oaks," she said. "The mall has just gone through some renovating and it's a new company for me, so I've got to learn all the policies and procedures. I'm anxious to meet all the tenants."

A native Detroiter, O'Malley attended Cass Tech High School and Wayne State University. She is a resident of Grosse Pointe. Her two adult daughters have also chosen careers in retailing.

When she can get away from her "new challenges" at Twelve Oaks, she enjoys golfing, reading and music.

Parade floats sought

Livonia Mall hosts the 14th annual holiday parade, Saturday, Nov. 23, at 9 a.m. at Six Mile and Middebelt. This year's parade is "Santa's Spectacular Reindeer" and features floats, inflatables, marching units, school bands and lots of costumed walkers. Corporations, businesses and groups who enter floats are automatically entered into the float contest. First place receives $1,500; second place $1,000; and third place $500.

To enter a float, call the Mall office at (810) 476-1166.

A costly lesson to be learned

Here's a phrase most human beings put to use at least once in their lifetime:

If only I had . . .

Regret is a part of life. It's a part of the learning process. It's a part of growing up.

It's been told to me that the older you get, the more you learn, and consequently the fewer mistakes you make. My experience hasn't quite followed that pattern; with me, the older I get the better I become at finding new ways to make the same mistake.

But this isn't about me. This is about growing up, about how painful the lessons along the way can be, and how it can hurt to waste those few moments allowed in the spotlight.

There are six young women on the Plymouth Canton basketball team who know exactly what I mean.

How many chances will they get to play for the league championship? That was the opportunity afforded them Thursday, when they had a game scheduled at Northville. The winner would most certainly roll through the Western Lakes Activities Association to the regular-season championship.

Unfortunately, that chance really never really materialized. It was discovered that those six players violated a team rule.

A penalty to pay

When the infraction was discovered last Wednesday morning, less than 12 hours after one of Canton's biggest wins of the season -- over Plymouth Salem -- action had to be taken.

It was. Canton coach Bob Blohm talked to all of his team members. He talked to their parents. Then, instead of practicing Wednesday, the team gathered and talked it through.

Blohm's decision was one he had never, in a coaching career spanning nearly two decades at Salem and Canton, had to make before.

He suspended all of them for what he called "THE biggest game" of the regular season.

"Our job is to be educating these kids," Blohm said. "I think they'll learn a lesson from this."

That is certain.

They sat there, during Thursday's game, at the end of the bench, dressed in street clothes -- not game uniforms. They stood in the back of the team huddle during timeouts instead of sitting in their normal spots, on the bench in front of Blohm listening to his game plans.

They had to endure that most painful of lessons. They had to watch their team lose, knowing they could have made a difference.

They watched, realizing a chance like this -- to play for a possible championship -- may never come again.

Teammates lose, too

But worst of all, the hardest thing to live with, was watching teammates they'd played and practiced and rejoiced and struggled with all season long try their best against a far-superior group of Northville players, knowing the situation was almost impossible.

Their mistake had cost their teammates, too.

So what now? Where do they go from here? Canton had won 10-straight games until Thursday's 21-point debacle.

But the season's not over. All six return for next week's games against North Farmington and Farmington Harrison. The final four regular-season games shouldn't provide any major obstacles.

So what do you do? This was a serious mistake, sure, but there's still a lot that could be accomplished.

There's a possibility of redemption -- in fact, Canton could meet Northville in both the WLAA playoffs and the state district tournament.

A lesson learned

What is there to gain from this? The mistake has been made. It's over. History.

Don't dwell on it. Learn from it.

A team can fold after such a traumatic affair, or it can begin anew, rejuvenated -- and determined.

There's an awful lot of character on this Canton team, which -- in my mind -- is its greatest asset. Now that character has been tested.

I believe they'll make something positive out of this. I believe they'll take this team -- which does

Shorthanded Chiefs can't match N'ville

Sure, the win over rival Plymouth Salem Tuesday was a big one for Canton. But Thursday's game was against Northville, the WLAA's only other unbeaten team. The Chiefs, however, were crippled.

It might have been worse.

In fact, Plymouth Canton girls basketball assistant coach Dan Young predicted a blowout -- in favor of Northville -- five minutes prior to the game's start.

The reason for such pessimism was apparent: sitting there at the end of the Chiefs' bench, watching in silence while their teammates warmed up.

Canton coach Bob Blohm had been forced to suspend six players -- four of them starters -- prior to the start of the game for violating a team rule.

This was not just any game they would miss. This was, as Blohm said prior to the tip-off, "THE biggest game" of the regular season.

Northville had already beaten the only other team in the Western Lakes Activities Association -- Plymouth Salem -- capable of challenging for the regular-season championship. The winner of the Canton-Northville contest would walk away with the title.

And now Canton was handing that crown to the Mustangs.

Which is what happened. With only three players with varsity experience on the court, the Chiefs were no match for Northville, losing 55-34 at Northville.

The loss dropped Canton to 6-1 in the WLAA, 11-2 overall. Northville is 7-0 in conference games.

If the first few minutes of the game were any indication, it was indeed fortunate it wasn't uglier for Canton. The Chiefs missed their first six floor shots, committing five turnovers in that span as Northville built an 11-0 lead.

The deficit grew to 15-3 by the end of the opening quarter. But when Canton was able to find some sort of rhythym, the game became more competitive.

Indeed, consecutive baskets by Turning points -- sometimes they turn up in the strangest places.

Talk to either Livonia Stevenson coach Tim Gabel or Plymouth Salem coach Tom Moshimer, and you wouldn't get an argument over what the turning point was in Friday's Western Lakes Activities Association football game.

It came with 6:51 remaining in the third quarter; the play was a pitch to Salem's Tony Bernhardt. He raced around left end, outrunning his Spartan pursuers and racing untouched 77 yards to the end zone.

The touchdown boosted the Rocks' lead to 21-7.

Devastating to Stevenson, right? The Spartans had already experience a bunch of bad breaks to that point. This could have, should have, capped it.

And it should have launched Salem into the stratosphere.

But that's not the way it went. From then on, Stevenson dominated. The Spartans put three touchdowns on the board, all scored by Gade Clark, in a span of 6:08 to take a 26-21 lead.

Kurt Bearer's 30-yard run on a counter play off the left side with 1:59 left capped Stevenson's comeback in its 33-21 triumph at Salem.

The win boosted Stevenson's record to 4-2 overall, 3-1 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. Salem is 4-2 as well, 2-2 in the division.

"We had 'em down and we shouldn't have let 'em up," said Moshimer. "We got that one touchdown in the second half and then let up.

"We had 'em on the ropes, we should have turned it up. I can't explain it, I don't think the kids can. Maybe it just came too easy -- sometimes plays like that can work against you."

Moshimer wasn't about to take anything away from Stevenson, however, noting "that's a good football team." But except for that one play, the Rocks did very little offensively -- or defensively -- in the second half.

It could easily have been different. The breaks went against Stevenson in the first half, with field position favoring Salem -- in great part due to the Spartans' poor kicking game.

On the run: Salem's Tony Bernhardt (19) shook loose from his Stevenson pursuers -- in this case, Ken Kulisz -- often enough to gain 106 yards on the ground, 77 of them coming on one touchdown-scoring play.

They did march 64 yards on 12 plays in the game's opening possession, with quarterback Chris Colley tossing a 3-yard scoring pass to Mike Allison. But Salem answered with a 59-yard, 11-play drive for a TD, Teono Wilson darting 6 yards for the score.

The Rocks upped their advantage to 14-7 with another 11-play, 59-yard drive, Wilson again getting the score on a 2-yard fight to the end zone.

Stevenson had a chance to go into the intermission tied, but wasted a long drive at the end of the half. Starting at their own 15, the Spartans ate up more than six minutes with a 12-play march, overcoming a holding penalty and getting a juggling, 31-yard catch by Clark on a ball deflected by

Fast start carries Canton to victory

Plymouth Canton scored the first three touchdowns Friday and rolled to a 40-19 football victory over host Livonia Churchill.

Quarterback Rob Johnson scored one touchdown and passed for another, and halfback Nick Allen rushed for two first-half touchdowns.

The Chiefs started the game with a pair of long scoring drives, covering 86 yards in 11 plays and 82 yards in 12 plays.

Byron Miller ran 4 yards for the first TD and Allen 1 yard for the second. Matt Marcos kicked four extra points for Canton, which led 13-0 early in the second quarter.

Johnson's 65-yard punt return made it 20-0, but Churchill quarterback Nathan Jerome countered with a 90-yard scoring run on first down. Matt Valentino added the extra point.

Allen capped an eight-play, 59-yard drive with a 3-yard run that put the Chiefs in front 27-7 at halftime.

Johnson passed 7 yards to Eric Sarrault for a third-quarter touchdown, ending a 90-yard drive in nine plays.

The Chargers sandwiched a pair of fourth-quarter scores around one final touchdown by the Chiefs -- a 12-yard run by Kwaku Dankwa that gave Canton a 40-13 lead.

Churchill drove 47 yards in nine plays and later 81 yards in eight plays. Branden Henderson scored on a 2-yard run and Jerome on a 5-yarder. The Chargers missed a PAT and two-point attempt after the TDs.

Canton had 397 total yards, Churchill 282.

Johnson had 102 of his team's 287 rushing yards on nine carries, and he completed six of 16 passes for 110 yards. Dankwa added 57 yards on the ground in 11 attempts.

Jerome rushed 16 times for 144 yards and was 5-of-15 passing for 78 yards. Henderson, a linebacker on defense, had 16 tackles.

The Chiefs improved to 3-3 overall and 2-2 in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association. The Chargers are 0-6 and 0-4.

Chiefs roll to easy win

Maybe it's a good sign.

Plymouth Canton's soccer team scored twice in the first half Wednesday against visiting Walled Lake Western, then added two more goals in the second half to post a 4-0 triumph.

That made Canton the sole winner of the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division title. The Chiefs finished 5-0 in the division and improved to 10-2-4 overall.

They play Livonia Stevenson for the WLAA championship Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Canton.

That match will supply the Chiefs a chance at revenge. They were 9-1-1 against WLAA opposition, tying Plymouth Salem and losing, 3-2, to Stevenson.

Salem misses state tourney cut

Plymouth Salem coach Rick Wilson knew who would be tough at the MHSAA's Region No. 3 Golf Regional, hosted by Brighton HS Friday at Oak Pointe Golf Course.

Problem was, he didn't realize just how tough they would be.

"The KVC (Kensington Valley Conference) rules," Wilson said flatly. "They just ran away with everything.

"This has to be the most competitive region in the state."

It may be, but no member of the Western Lakes Activities Association was able to survive it. The top three teams at the regional tournament advance to the Class A state tournament, held at Forest Akers West in East Lansing Friday and Saturday.

The Region 3 teams that will advance are Howell (308), Brighton (314) and Hartland (316). All are from the KVC.

In fact, so are South Lyon (318) and Novi (326), and they finished fourth and fifth. The best a WLAA team could do was sixth, where Walled Lake Western placed (327).

CLASS A BOYS GOLF
REGIONAL TOURNAMENT
Oct. 11 at Oak Pointe Country Club

TEAM STANDINGS

1. Howell, 308; 2. Brighton, 314; 3. Hartland, 316; 4. South Lyon, 318; 5. Novi, 326; 6. Walled Lake Western, 327; 7. Plymouth Salem, 329; 8. Livonia Churchill, 331; 9. Livonia Stevenson and Westland John Glenn, 333; 11. Swartz Creek, 335; 12. Pinckney and Northville, 337; 14. Plymouth Canton, 351; 15. Milford, 354; 16. Farmington, 357; 17. Livonia Franklin, 373; 18. Garden City, 384.

AREA TEAM RESULTS

Livonia Churchill (333): Gary Kraus, 76; Matt Van Buren, 83; Chris Lavaque, 85; John Grech, 87.

Plymouth Canton (351): Eric Arlen, 83; Adam Allen 86; Ben Tucker, 89; Derek Lineberry, 93.

Livonia Franklin (373): Tony Fotiu, 91; Mark Priebe, 91; Scott Warra, 94; Caesar Obando, 87.

Garden City (384): Brett Pichla, 84; Brian Harnos, 97; Brad Morris, 98; David Revere, 105.

STATE QUALIFIERS

The top three teams and top five individuals qualify for the Class A tournament Oct. 18-19 at Forest Akers Golf Course in East Lansing.

The top five golfers: 1. Larry Hess (Howell) and Geoff Vincent (Howell), even-par 71; 3. Eric Wahlfield (Brighton), 73; 4. Adam Krukowski (Hartland), 74; 5. Chris King (Walled Lake Western), 75.

Howell had two of its golfers, Larry Hess and Geoff Vincent, lead the field by shooting even-par 71s. The five top golfers in the tournament are also guaranteed a spot at the state tournament, but the only qualifier from a non-qualifying team was Western's Chris King, who took fifth overall (75).

Salem was paced by Ryan Deschaw, with a 78. Brian Fox shot 79, Jeff Lear carded an 84, and Adam Wilson and Mark Runchey each had an 88. For Deschaw, Fox and Lear, it was their last tournament in a four-year varsity career.

Eric Arlen led Canton with an 83. Adam Allen shot 86, Ben Tucker an 89 and Derek Lineberry finished with a 93.

The start of the tournament was delayed for two hours due to frost. But nothing was capable of cooling off Howell, or the other KVC teams.

Salem was next, taking seventh (329). Plymouth Canton finished 14th (351) in the 18-team field.

Canton teams close in on division titles

They're on the verge.

Both Plymouth Canton's girls and boys cross country teams are on the verge of a Western Division title.

Both improved to 4-0 in divisional dual meets Thursday with victories over their Livonia Churchill foes. The Canton girls won, 23-36; the boys were 15-47 victors. Both races were at Cass Benton.

The Lady Chiefs will be pursuing their ninth division championship in the last 11 years and their fourth-consecutive when they race at Walled Lake Western Tuesday. In the win over Churchill, they collected five of the top seven spots.

Canton put Becky Wolfrom second (19:52), Beth Knight third (20:14), Angkana Roy fifth (20:49), Lori Schmidt sixth (20:59) and Christiana Bradford seventh (21:17).

Canton's boys were more successful against the winless Chargers (0-4 in the division, 0-5 overall), taking the top five spots.

Sanjay Sharma was first (17:41.6), Shaun Moore was second (17:44.9), Adam DeGiorgio was third (17:56.2), Jason Vergari was fourth (17:59.5) and Jason Diamond was fifth (18:16.8).

Canton is 5-0 overall, 4-0 in the division.

Stevenson stops Salem

Both Plymouth Salem's boys and girls cross country teams fell short of victory against their Livonia Stevenson counterparts Thursday at Cass Benton.

The Salem girls lost to the state's top-ranked team, 18-43. The Rocks' boys team fell, 26-31.

For the girls, only two managed to place in the top 10. Nicole Bolton was fourth (20:41), and Kristie Giddings was sixth (20:53).

The boys meet was much more tightly contested. The Spartans captured the top two spots, but Salem got the next two, with Jon Little third (17:09) and Jeff Chrzanowski fourth (17:13). The next three Salem runners were Jake Gray, seventh (17:58); Dave Rowe, eighth (18:08) and Adam Barbara, ninth (18:27).

The loss dropped Salem's boys team to 3-1 in Lakes Division duals,. The Rocks' girls team is also 3-1 in the division.

Chiefs dunk Churchill; Spartans drop Rocks

SWIMMING

Plymouth Canton collected its third dual-meet victory of the swim season Thursday with a 111-75 triumph at Livonia Churchill, but Plymouth Salem suffered its first loss, falling 110-76 to Livonia Stevenson at Salem.

Canton won eight events, getting two individual wins from Teri Hanson and sweeping all three relays.

The relay winners were Meagan Dowd, Kate Jackson, Jaclyn Bernard and Amy Sonnanstine in the 200-yard medley relay (2:03.63); Dowd, Hanson, Sue Fanning and Angie Frost in the 200 freestyle relay (1:49.52); and Hanson, Fanning, Bernard and Frost in the 400 free relay (4:01.51).

Hanson's two individual wins came in the 200 individual medley (2:19.03) and in the 100 butterfly (1:01.75).

Other individual winners for Canton were Bernard in the 100 free (1:00.67) and Dowd in the 100 backstroke (1:08.99).

Canton is 3-5 this season in duals.

Salem did manage to win two events against the talent-rich Spartans, who are now 6-0 in duals. Jess Hala won the 200-yard freestyle (2:03.59), and Kellyann Williams was first in the 100 breaststroke (1:13.05).

Canton swims at Walled Lake Thursday, then both Canton and Salem take part in the MISCA meet Saturday at East-

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Madonna wins

After suffering a four-set loss to Oakland University last Tuesday, Madonna University's volleyball team bounced back -- and staged a comeback -- to beat the University of Windsor 15-12, 16-18, 4-15, 15-8, 15-11 Thursday at Madonna.

The win boosted the Lady Crusaders' record to 22-3.

Kelly McCausland (from Redford Union), who suffered through a below-average -- by her All-American standards -- performance at OU was red-hot against Windsor. She finished with 26 kills and a .408 attack percentage, with two service aces, 16 digs and four blocks.

Karin Sisung was also on target, collecting 16 kills, three service aces, 15 digs and three blocks, while Julie Martin (Livonia Stevenson) had 13 kills, nine digs and six blocks. Meg Paris totaled 47 assists to kills and three blocks, and Erin Comment had a team-high 24 digs.

SC stumbles

Schoolcraft College's men's soccer team let a lead slip away in the second half and lost, 3-2 at Macomb CC Wednesday.

The defeat dropped the Ocelots to 4-2 in Region 12 play, 6-6-3 overall. Macomb is 4-1-1 in the region.

Bill Krips put SC on the board first, getting a goal at the 30-minute mark, with an assist going to Chris Jaskolski (Plymouth Salem). That was the only marker of the opening half, but the Monarchs quickly evened it in the second half, scoring after three minutes.

They made it 3-1 with goals at the 20 and 25 minute mark of the second half before SC got a score from Mike Dean with seven minutes left. Mike Minicilli (Livonia Stevenson) assisted.

College bests

•Julie Buczek (Plymouth Salem) got her first start in goal for the Michigan State women's soccer team against San Francisco, suffering a 1-0 loss. Buczek turned away six shots in the loss; MSU was 3-8 entering last weekend's games.

•Shellye Sills (Plymouth Salem) enjoyed her finest performance thus far for the University of Toledo's volleyball team in a 15-5, 14-16, 15-7, 15-6 victory over Bowling Green Oct. 4 at Toledo.

Sills, a freshman middle blocker, had 12 kills and a .545 attack average, with six blocks. She leads the Rockets in blocks with 43 (.72 per game). Toledo was 10-9 overall, 3-3 in the Mid-American Conference.

Proposal G rally

Ted Nugent, Kirk Gibson, Dave Rozema, Dave Bergman, Rick Leach, Alan Trammel and Jim Northrup will be some of the celebrities on hand at a rally to support the passage of Proposal G, and the defeat of Proposal D.

THE SMOKING GUM

As if smokers needed another reason to quit their unhealthy habits, research reveals that smokers are more likely to develop gum disease. If the excessive plaque is not removed, the gums become infected and pull away from the teeth. Researchers believe that nicotine and other substances in tobacco may weaken the body's immune response to harmful bacteria and reduce blood flow to the gums. As the bacteria in plaque attack the tissues and bone that support the teeth, the stage is set for loosened teeth and tooth loss, also more common among smokers than nonsmokers. To add insult to injury, the tooth implants that may be used to replace lost teeth are also more problematic in smokers. Call it a smoking chain reaction.

If you have not stopped smoking, maybe this week's column can offer some additional incentive. If you do not have a dentist at this time and are looking for a family dentist who understands your concerns, we hope you will consider us. At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we think you will be delighted with the treatment and counsel you receive. Make the most of your smile! We're located at 19171 Merriman Road. Salem's Doug Kinney to the Salem 25.

They reached the Salem 6, but on fourth down the Spartans were penalized for delay of game. On fourth-down-and-7, Seth Carriere's field goal attempt was wide left, and Salem's 14-7 lead was preserved.

Could have been deflating. But Gabel kept it optimistic. "The kids were very determined at halftime," he said. "We didn't talk about adjustments, we talked more about mental attitude.

"I told them to make sure you have fun out there. But they turned it up a notch and played even harder."

After Bernhardt's third-quarter scoring run, Stevenson went to work. First drive: seven plays, 68 yards, Clark darting the last 10 for the score with 3:50 left in the third; the point after failed, leaving it 21-13.

Salem followed with a three-downs-and-out, and Stevenson got excellent field position thanks to Allison's 37-yard punt return to the Salem 32. Three plays later, Clark countered through the line on a 6-yard TD run, making it 21-19 (the two-point try failed).

Allison made another big play on Salem's ensuing possession, this time tipping a Nate Gray pass and intercepting it, then returning it 8 yards to the Salem 27. Five plays and Clark was diving into the left corner of the end zone for the go-ahead score.

"It all fell apart at once," said Moshimer. He was right: On the following kickoff, Salem's Charlie Schmidt couldn't pick up the ball and was swarmed under at the Salem 4.

The Rocks got two first downs but ended up having to punt, and Stevenson drove again, getting the clinching TD on Bearer's 30-yard run -- on a fourth-down-and-5 play.

Bearer finished with 127 yards rushing on 19 tries, while Clark had 98 on 24 attempts and caught two passes for 43. Colley had an outstanding passing day, hitting 12-of-15 passes for 132 yards with one TD; Jason Borregard caught four for 36 yards.

Salem was led by Bernhardt, who gained 106 yards on four carries. Next best was Matt Johnson, with 27 yards on eight tries. Stevenson's defenders clamped down on Gray, limiting him to 16 rushing yards on eight attempts and 4-of-11 passing for 34 yards.

Stevenson outgained Salem, 363-203.

not possess great height, does not possess great quickness, does not possess great speed, but does possess some great athletes -- to another level.

And that's something other teams around the state should take note of, and be wary of.

But the Chiefs have to take that initial step first. They have to rid themselves of any excess negative baggage still lingering from their suspensions.

It does no good lugging it along, whether it's in the form of regret or some misplaced conviction that you can -- and will -- carry the team to the state title game, even if you must do it by yourself.

As one of those who sat out Thursday's game said afterwards, "It's time for us to move on."

Enough said.

"They scored two quick goals against us," Canton coach Don Smith recalled of the Stevenson loss. So what does he have planned for this match?

"We're going to try not to let them do that this time," he replied.

Canton has been noted recently for its comebacks. The Chiefs trailed Livonia Churchill 1-0 with 10 minutes left, then scored twice to win.

Against Salem, they were down 2-0 with 13 minutes to play, then scored a pair to get a tie.

Smith would rather avoid such dramatics. "Those kinds of games are hard on the nerves," he said. "It's nice for the spectators, but hard on coaches."

The win over Western showed something a bit different, in that respect: two early goals. It also marked a second-straight strong offensive performance by Kevin Gniewek, who assisted on Canton's first goal against Salem, then scored the second.

In the win over the Warriors, Gniewek popped in two goals in the first half, with Jon Page assisting on the first (the second was unassisted). Nick Wright got a goal in the second half, Scott Wright assisting, and Scott Wright netted the fourth goal, with Gniewek getting the assist.

All three keepers -- Ben Davis, Joe Gasiewicz and Aaron Nephew -- played.

Salem 3, W.L. Central 0: Brett Konley scored two goals to lead Plymouth Salem past Walled Lake Central Wednesday at Central.

The win pushed the Rocks' record to 11-3-2 overall and made them 4-1 in the WLAA's Lakes Division.

Josh Fair also had a goal for Salem, and Andres Lopez, Rishi Finha and Joe Ianni all earned assists. Brian Wozniak was in goal to earn his fourth shutout, making eight saves.

Salem will play either at Livonia Churchill or at Livonia Franklin in a WLAA crossover match today.

Wheatley Coleman narrowed the Mustangs' lead to 18-13 with 3:14 remaining until halftime.

Unfortunately for the Chiefs, Northville snapped its own 0-for-7 shooting streak from the floor in the final two minutes, nailing three baskets in that stretch to build its lead back up to 26-13 at the break.

It never got closer than that the rest of the way, despite strong efforts from Nkechi Okwumabua (14 points, all in the second half) and Kristin Lukasik (eight). Coleman finished with six.

The Chiefs hit 14-of-39 floor shots (36 percent) and, after making eight turnovers in the first quarter, made just 13 the rest of the game. Northville was 22-of-53 from the field (41 percent), and made just eight turnovers.

"We made a little run at them in the second quarter," said Blohm. "We cut it to five.

"I thought the kids played real hard. They did the best they could, under the circumstances."

Most of the damage by the Mustangs was done by Lauren Metaj, who scored 20 points -- 15 in the second half. Gina Chiasson added 10 before leaving the game with a leg injury. Julie Flis netted eight.

There's a very good chance these teams could meet again -- maybe even twice, in the WLAA Tournament and in the state districts. When they do, the sides will be much more even.

Salem 81, John Glenn 21: Five players scored in double figures Thursday as state-ranked Plymouth Salem (10-3, 5-2) cruised to the Western Lakes win over visiting Westland John Glenn (0-12, 0-6).

Andrea Pruett led the assault with 22 points, seven rebounds and five assists.

Angie Sillmon and Amanda Abraham each contributed 16 points. Sillmon also had six assists, while Abraham grabbed 10 rebounds.

Laurel Weinman had 10 points, five rebounds and five assists. Merritt Walker also scored 10 points, while Janelle Sterling chipped in with six assists.

Freshman Samantha Crews led Glenn, which trailed 41-8 at intermission, with 12 points, including three 3-pointers.

S'field. Christ. 52, PCA 33: A good start by Southfield Christian was more than Plymouth Christian Academy could overcome Friday at PCA.

Southfield Christian led 13-3 after one quarter and 26-13 at the half. Angela Shea and Emily Beard each scored 12 points for the visitors.

PCA (7-4 overall, 1-3 in the MIAC) was led by Sara Harris and Sarah Sumner, each getting seven points.

Agape 53, W. Highland 35: Plymouth Agape Christian turned it on after a slow start, outscoring host West Highland Christian 48-31 in the last three quarters after a 5-4 first quarter Thursday.

Kim Ther's 20 points, 11 rebounds and nine steals paced Agape. Caley Mullen also scored 20 points, and she grabbed 10 boards and had seven steals, while Jaci Ther finished with nine points, seven steals and five rebounds.

Agape improved to 9-1 overall, 5-0 in the Metro Christian Conference. West Highland is 2-3 in the MCC.

★★ USED CARS & TRUCKS MONDAY MARKET PLACE ★★

Buying a Used Car Can Be Risky.
Blackwell Ford can help minimize the risk you take when purchasing a used vehicle. Every used vehicle sold by Blackwell Ford undergoes extensive reconditioning and safety inspection before it is offered for sale. If the vehicle does not meet our high standards, it will never be displayed on our lot. In the unlikely event that something does go wrong with your vehicle during the first 30 days or 2,000 miles, whichever occurs first, we will stand behind it 100% and repair it free of charge. It's that simple. We offer new car peace of mind with your used vehicle purchase. Stop in today to see our large selection of quality used vehicles, all priced to sell. And please remember...

1997 Toyota RAV4 a real head-turner

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures

The 1997 Toyota RAV4 is really, really cute. It's been out about a year now, and heads still turned when I drove it around town.

Although the RAV4 is billed as a new concept on sport utility vehicles — the mini SUV — it has comfy seating for four, has a surprising amount of rear cargo area and a pretty nice ride.

The RAV4 comes in both 2-door and 4-door models. Driven was the 4-door model, which suits a more than two-person family just right. Even with the two-door model, Toyota has a walk-in mechanism for the front passenger seat that allows the seat to slide forward to ease entry and exit from the rear seating area.

The RAV4 blends the convenience, accessibility and comfort of a passenger car and the handling, off-road ability and interior space of a light-duty off-road vehicle.

It's high enough off the ground to take just about anywhere. It's available in a 2-wheel-drive and 4-wheel-drive model and with either a manual or automatic transmission. It's got unibody construction and 4-wheel independent suspension — the first and only mass-produced SUV to offer it.

It shares the floorpan design with previous generation Celicas and Camrys. And even though it is high off the ground, you don't feel it's not stable. It's quite the opposite and feels very solid. Roll around a corner and you don't have the fear you'll tip or two-wheel the puppy.

Outfitted with a steel block and aluminum head 2.0-liter 16-valve twin-cam 4-cylinder engine that outputs a respectable 120 horses. That's really adequate for this vehicle because of its size. Any more than that would be too much.

The air-cooled 5-speed manual transmission is standard on all models, but available is a water-cooled 4-speed electronically controlled automatic. The exception is the 2-door models. You can only get the 5-speed on that one.

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

All-wheel-drive has a standard locking center differential. What that means is that on the automatic models, the center differential locks automatically when it feels excessive slip between the front and rear wheels. On the manual transmission models, there's a switch that allows you to manual lock or unlock the center differential. Bottom line: More control of your vehicle.

Other stuff you'll find on the RAV4 include gas-filled MacPherson struts, anti-roll bar, power-assisted rack-and-pinion steering, double wishbone suspension, all-season radials on 16-inch steel wheels (alloy wheels are an option) and front disc brakes. Four-wheel anti-lock brakes are also available.

I talked about it having a lot of room. Try this on for size: Front seat passengers have a whopping 39.5 inches of legroom, while anyone in the rear seats will enjoy 33.9 inches of legroom. The rear seats are 50/50 splits and can be reclined or pushed forward.

With the rear seats upright, you'll get 9.3 cubic feet of storage space in the 2-door and 26.8 in the 4-door. Take off the front headrest and reclining both the front and rear seat backs, you can convert it into a bed.

There's safety all around with standard dual airbags, 3-point seatbelts in all outboard seating positions (in the rear seat, the middle passenger has a lapbelt), height-adjustable front seatbelts on 4-door models, side-door impact beams, impact-absorbing chassis reinforcements, an integrated center high mount stop light in the rear and an energy-absorbing steering wheel.

The automatic shifter is located on the floor and seemed a little — I don't know how to describe it. Shifting from park to reverse always landed me in neutral and shifting from rear to drive always landed me in D2.

The standard features list was respectable and included flush-mounted halogen headlamps, dual outside mirrors, fabric seating, carpeting throughout, front-door pockets, cupholders, full instrumentation (which included speedometer, tachometer, resettable trip meter and fuel level and temperature gauges), intermittent front and rear wipers, rear window defogger and digital clock.

There's a lot of stuff you can outfit your RAV4 with like a sunroof, 4-wheel ABS, air conditioning, cruise control, 16-inch aluminum wheels and two sound systems. You can customize the RAV4 with 4 different packages with interior and exterior amenities.

For example, the upgrade package includes power windows, door locks and mirrors and tilt steering column. The style package gives you cladding graphics and hard spare tire cover. The active package adds a roof rack and projector fog lamps to the style package. The rugged package adds graphics, fender flares and side tubes. Finally the convenience package includes a removable rear door speaker, center console and floor mats.

By the way, this mini-SUV can tow up to 1,500 pounds.

I did have a heck of a time with the front seatbelts, however. It seemed they would stop just short of where it would lock. I'd have to return it to its retracted position three or four times before I could get it out all the way to buckle the belt. Just an annoyance.

Truly, this is a really neat little number. The styling is so different, so radical and such a departure from generally conservative Toyota. Good job done here.

Things You Auto KNOW!

True or False?

When the brake warning light on the instrument panel lights up the brakes should be checked within 50 miles.

False! When you see that light, pull off the road at once. Failure may be imminent. Ask for qualified assistance to determine whether or not it is safe to drive. If there's any discrepancy in the braking system the vehicle should be towed to a service shop for repairs.

Brake failure, the leading mechanical cause of highway accidents, nearly always can be averted with regular inspection and maintenance of the braking system.

Women in Business

NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK OCTOBER 21 - 25, 1996

"It has long come to my attention that people of accomplishment rarely sat back and let things happen to them. They went out and happened to things."

ELINOR SMITH, AMERICAN AVIATOR AND WRITER, in "THE QUOTABLE WOMAN"

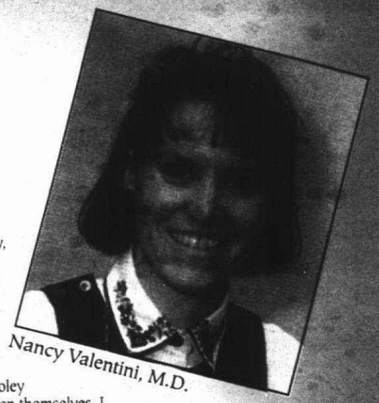
Donna Hrozencik, M.D.

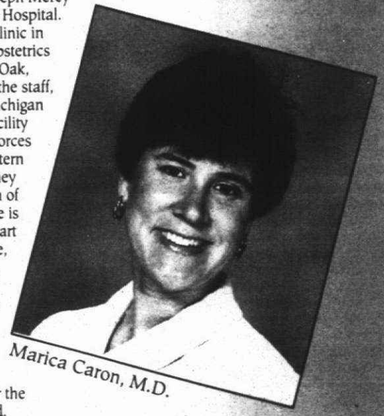


Nancy Valentini, M.D.

Drs. Manber, Valentini, Hrozencik and most recently, Dr., Caron, are only a small representation of the growing numbers of women we have in the United States today who are amongst the working women in America.

Located right in the heart of Canton along the Ford Road corridor, just east of Lilley Rd., these four women doctors specialize in the field of Obstetrics and Gynecology. "Treating and caring for our patients, although soley women", describes Dr. Caron, "is as diverse as the ages and issues of the women themselves. I may counsel a teen on sexually transmitted diseases, or follow a couple through a pregnancy or sit down to discuss the issues of menopause with a woman approaching that time in her life." Dr. Caron describes her job as a privilege; the privilege of being a partner with her patients in taking care of their health. Dr. Caron is the newest addition to the team of Drs. Manber, Valentini and Hrozencik who enjoy hospital privileges at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, the University of Michigan and Chelsea Community Hospital.

Yvonne M. Manber, M.D.



Marica Caron, M.D.

She received four years of medical schooling at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, MN and performed her four year residencey in Obstetrics and Gynecology at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Michigan. Dr. Yvonne Manber is the senior chief member of the staff, receiving her postgraduate degree from the University of Michigan in 1989. She began her practice at the Mission Health facility located at 42180 Ford. Rd., Suite 305, where she joined forces with Dr.. Donna Hrozencik to service the women of Eastern Washtenaw and Western Wayne Counties. Together they have been providing preventative health care to women of all ages. Dr. Hrozencik says her main focus in the office is their patients but that their associates are an integral part to the success of an efficiently run office, so, therefore, they too are important. Born and raised in Chicago, Illinois, Dr. Hrozencik also graduated in Obstetrics and Gynecology from the University of Michigan in 1990. She has been married for 2½ years and recently spent time in France for 2 weeks. She admires highly the nature of her parents, claiming they are totally devoted to their children. It is no wonder that she should choose a profession which enables her the opportunity to become a part of bringing babies into the world.

Dr.. Nancy Valentini has been a staff physician at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital since July of 1993. She completed her residency training at the University of Cincinnati in Ohio after four years of undergraduate work at the University of Michigan in Dearborn and medical school at Wayne State. She cares for patients in the office for wellness visits and for gynecologic abnormalities. She provides prenatal care for healthy and high risk obstetrical patients, performing surgery and delivering babies. She finds the field, in itself, particularly fulfilling and rewarding.

All four doctors are supported by a staff of women eager to make women feel comfortable in their care. The office continues to accept new patients accepting a wide variety of insurances. To check for coverage or to make an appointment, please contact the office at (313) 981-6556.

Entrepreneurs

Women mind their own businesses

BY MARY QUINLEY
SPECIAL WRITER

Cheers for the skyrocketing numbers of women business owners in the United States today. Ditto for the entrepreneurs who are responsible for Michigan's eighth in the nation ranking of women-owned businesses.

In 1992, there were 194,000 women-owned businesses in the Great Lakes state, up from 134,000 in 1987.

"In Michigan there are a lot of displaced workers; not necessarily in the auto industry but in all industries. When someone is looking for a new job they look at starting a new business. Men (usually) choose to work for someone; a woman starts her own business," said Barry Cargill, vice president for Government Relations, Small Business Association of Michigan.

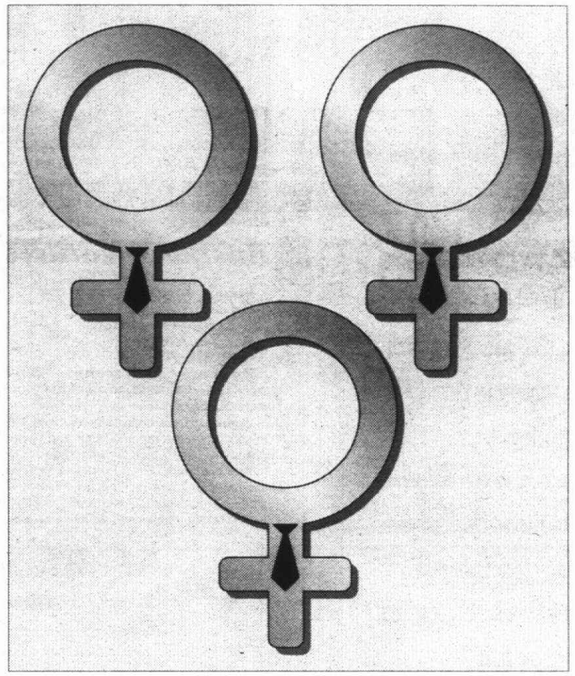
"Women, more so than men," added Cargill, "have the commitment to take care of children. Many choose to start a business."

Women entrepreneurs tend to concentrate on the service sector part of the economy, owning 35 percent of all businesses in Michigan.

They are expected to own 50 percent by the year 2000.

Elizabeth Homer, educational director, Michigan Women's Studies Association, said: "The number of increases (in women-owned businesses) is phenomenal. Women are dissatisfied with the opportunities in mainstream corporations, so they are leaving and starting their own businesses. More women can have control over their time and they can balance their family life with work life."

"Women are moving into the service sector in a wide variety of jobs," said Homer. "They are making advances in the manufacturing and industry (fields). There are a large number (of women) who are becoming attorneys. They are not moving into the larger firms for two reasons: large firms aren't accepting (women attorneys) and, women don't like the culture; that is, women can't balance their family (with the job)."



One of the big stumbling blocks, said Homer, "... is getting the capital necessary" to start a business.

Cargill said, "I think ... women still don't have the opportunity that men do; (however), women are proving themselves in small businesses. It's something that the corporate world ought to take a look at."

There are 6.4 million women-owned businesses in the U.S., employing more than 13 million people and generating $1.6 trillion in business revenues.

Almost three-quarters of these women operate apparel and accessory stores; automobile dealerships; gasoline service stations; and miscellaneous retail stores.

They also provide business, health and personal services.

In Michigan, during the 1987-96 period, it is estimated that the number of women-owned businesses has increased 80 percent; employment in these businesses has increased 173 percent; and sales have risen 226 percent.

What effect is there on a woman's mental health when she works full time, either at her own business or elsewhere?

Dr. Robert Cohen, associate professor of psychology at Madonna University and a clinical psychologist in private practice, said, "Because women work full time doesn't mean they are more happy. Based on my experience, when women are comfortable with what they are doing, regardless of what it is, they are more likely to feel content and happy. (If) they are coerced, it will be more difficult for themselves and their family."

Cohen believes "Working full time and having a family is always going to be stressful; it can be more stressful for a woman who has talents and who wants to put them to use, but who has to stay home or is unable to work. (Each situation) depends on the individual person."

He adds: "It's a myth working full time and taking care of kids will lead to disaster. How things turn out in families where women are working or not working seems to depend on their attitude, needs and desires. In spite of some changes, women are mostly responsible in our society for taking care of children. As a result of this imbalance, whether working or not, things are likely to stressful or challenging."

What's ahead for women business owners? Homer sees a positive future for these entrepreneurs: "I think women will find more ways to answer concerns (and discover) better solutions through their own small business opportunities."

Women in Business

Their numbers are legion.

They are our mothers and daughters, our grandmothers and granddaughters. They are our sisters. Many bring to their careers a wonderful combination of wisdom, time-management and communication skills that can only be acquired by raising a family and keeping a household together.

Day after day they solve problems of conflict, meet a budget and do what it takes to keep things running smoothly... and then go off to work and do the same for their businesses.

Single women also bring to business a resilient energy and enthusiasm for their chosen field.

And then there are the women who play invaluable support roles. They may not sit in a corporate office, they may not have an office at all, but their dedication to their work makes those management chairs much more comfortable.

We recognize all of you next week during National Business Women's Week

we appreciate you all year long.

In Blooms: Carolynn Russo manages Flowers From Joe's in Livonia, a business she owns with her parents.

Family, love inspire her work

Carolynn Russo
Vice president
Flowers from Joe's by Carolynn Inc.
33018 W. Seven Mile Road
Livonia
(810) 477-8616
Business philosophy: "Hard work and an honest work ethic is my philosophy."

Family ties, loyalty and love are a big part of Carolynn Russo's business life. She owns Flowers from Joe's with her parents, Joseph and Mary Ann Maiorana, who also own Joe's Produce, Inc.

"They have always stood by me and instilled a good work ethic and a tremendous amount of love to make me the hard working person I am today," she said. "I've always wanted to follow in my parents' footsteps and have my own business."

Carolynn has two brothers, Joe Maiorana Jr., who also runs Joe's Produce, and Vincent Charles Maiorana. She is also married to Frank Russo, a certified public accountant and controller. "He's a very wonderful husband and very supportive even when the holidays approach and I put out very long hours," she said.

Carolynn worked with flowers and plants at Joe's Produce and always enjoyed gardening, fresh flowers and tending to plants.

Her job managing Flowers from Joe's includes designing fresh and silk flower arrangements and planning weddings.

"I hand-pick all the fresh flowers, plants, silk flowers and gift items that we sell," she said. "I have built-up a great relationship with all my wholesalers to ensure the best quality product at the most reasonable prices."

Carolynn also supervises the staff, which includes her cousin Colleen McDonald, who has worked with her for five years.

"She's my right hand at the shop and also my best friend," Carolynn said adding that all her employees are "wonderful" workers who have their own special talents.

Carolynn studied horticulture for two years at Michigan State University; attended many hands on seminars and classes from FTD and the Michigan Floral Association; and had "lots of good old fashioned hard work at the shop."

She described the business as a roller coaster ride.

"There are highs and lows all year, every year," she said. "They keep me on my toes and make me a better person."

In the next five years, Carolynn said, she will continue to strive to make Flowers from Joe's a better place.

"There is always room for improvement in every business- I try to listen to my customer's needs and meet them," Carolynn said.

Carolynn said she works hard along with her staff to make sure their customers get the very best quality and service available.

"I have very loyal customers and I wouldn't ever want to let them down," said Carolynn.

Her biggest challenge is finding caring and hard working people to join her staff.

"This business is very labor intensive and it's difficult to find talented people to work along with my fine staff."

Carolynn would like to thank all of her customers for all of their support and loyalty to her store and will continue to provide the best floral services and quality products she can.

Business philosophy: "I've found in a small business such as mine, you're better off running it yourself. In the past, I have had other employees work for me and things just did not go so well. Since I've been working it myself with family, it's been great."

Alice Yanalunas said she pursued "the American Dream" when she opened her business. It was a brave pursuit. She said "the only training I had was from the former owners, who had the original recipe from the Upper Peninsula. They taught it to us."

Alice takes pride in her product. "We supply the public with a great 'fast meal' that is healthy, tasty and quick. We don't try to make anything else in order to keep our expertise in the pasty. We have a great return clientele, and we know our customers. It is actually a fun job and business."

Time is Alice Yanalunas's biggest challenge. She would like more of it.

Business philosophy: "Meeting my customer's needs by offering quality products, prompt service, detailed product explanations and superior kitchen designs."

Terry Dietrich's goal is to make her customer's kitchen, the most important place in the home.

"I design all types of kitchens, always making sure to maximize space efficiency when integrating cabinets and appliances," says Terry who earned her degree at the college of Fine Arts and Interior Design.

"I listen to the wants and needs of my customers, analyze their personal lifestyle and create a kitchen that not only fits their needs but also their finances," Terry says. "The kitchen is quite possibly the most important and widely used room in the house, and should be inviting to the people who use it."

Terry is working feverishly at expanding the store's kitchen and bath design center. Currently she is working on a new window display and renovating the current showroom.

Business philosophy: "Our philosophy is centered around caring for each resident with dignity and compassion through having the knowledge and expertise necessary to understand their special needs."

Amy Wittle chose her career based on her love, compassion and respect for senior citizens suffering from Alzheimer's disease, dementia and memory loss.

She works as administrator of Fairfax Manor, a newly licensed "family-focused" community that cares for people with Alzheimer's disease and related memory loss. Programs have been developed for each individual's needs and to encourage the involvement of family members.

"My goals are to provide high quality, personalized care in a private, comfortable setting," she said. "These goals are being met by selecting and training staff members who are devoted, caring and understanding."

Vision Associates: Their approach to vision care is to provide the best primary eye care possible, keeping patient needs as a first priority.

Vision Associates focus on patient needs

Vision Associates of Westand
38979 Cherry Hill Road,
Westland, Michigan 48185
(313) 326-2160

Vision Associates of Westland was founded more than 25 years ago by Dennis W. Kennedy, O.D.

Randy G. Houdek, O.D., joined the practice in 1985 and together they have provided the community with more than just vision services.

Their approach to vision care is to provide the best primary eye care possible, keeping patient needs as a first priority.

"In order for us to accomplish this goal our staff is comprised of only the finest and most knowledgeable people in their fields," said Dr. Kennedy.

"They must not only have the expertise to provide quality services, but they must also possess a truly caring attitude toward their patients."

The office is made up of various teams, beginning with the front office, which is the entry point for patients. This team must possess not only a friendly attitude but the ability to understand patients' needs, as well as the various insurance programs that patients have. The front office team includes Wanda Kaiser, Lisa Bialke and Linda Farkas.

The opticians and technicians are highly skilled personnel who serve patients at the clinical level. The optical staff includes Glen Paputa and Cathy Threadingham, who are both certified with the American Board of Opticians.

Glen and Cathy are extremely knowledgeable of the different lens types available which range from progressive lenses (invisible bifocals) to sport lenses for golf, hunting, fishing, etc. as well as various frames from Bolle and Oakley, to the new flexible frames (flexon).

The opticians will call their patients after dispensing their new glasses to ensure the patient has adjusted to the present correction, and will bring them back to the office to correct any problem should one exist. This is just one of the ways Vision Associates of Westland show they care.

The para-optometric support staff provide the doctors with assistance during the actual examination. Cheryl Filecchia, who has worked in this field more than 20 years, and Charmayne Walker are highly trained personnel who perform various tests that are requested by the doctors to assist in the diagnosis for each patient.

These tests will include the use of a "corneal topographer," which analyzes the front surface of the eye called the cornea. The topographer is the only instrument that can precisely analyze the cornea to diagnose early disease.

Vision Associates of Westland was the first optometric office in Michigan to utilize this technology. Other services that the technicians perform are retinal photography. This photographs the blood vessel network that supplies the eye as well as the nerve network that sends the image to the brain. This procedure enables the doctors to detect early diabetes, hypertension, glaucoma and cataracts. The technicians are also trained to perform computerized visual fields and to test for glaucoma.

Both the practice coordinator, Dawn Flint, and assistant practice coordinator, Sue Lumley, have additional responsibilities, such as consultants for laser vision correction for nearsightedness and astigmatism and vision therapy. These are two areas in the optometric field in which Dr. Kennedy and Dr. Houdek specialize.

Dawn, who has completed the American Academy of Ophthalmology course for assistants, and Sue, who has worked in this field for 18 years, are highly knowledgeable and are available daily to answer questions which patients may have regarding these topics.

The vision therapy staff consists of Jodi Houdek, Pat Neal and Melissa Meaham.

If you were to ask any staff member what their biggest challenge is in the work place they would probably answer: "How can we better serve our patients?"

Business philosophy: "Our logo is our working philosophy: 'The name to trust.' "

Margaret Harlow, of Harlow Tire and Service, said it's important to establish a relationship with customers that will keep them coming back.

"We believe in honesty, fairness and quality," she said. "If a customer asks for four tires we look at their car and often they only need two. We like to establish a relationship with a customer that will keep them coming back, because we are trustworthy."

The work ethic seems to be working, because now the company is serving the third generation of many families.

Margaret's husband started the business in 1965 and she worked there until they began a family. She returned to work when her three children, Jeff, Michelle and Brian, were in school.

Currently, she does bookkeeping, accounting work and tracks business trends.

"In my opinion," he says, "women tend to relate better to other women when making decisions regarding home furnishing – that's why seven of my nine designers are women."

Kevin went on to say that 90 percent of all home furnishing decisions are made by women, which makes these seven designers valuable to his store.

During its 59 successful business years, Classic Interiors has not only developed a reputation as being the ultimate shopping place for beautiful hand crafted furniture, but also for their full service design center.

lished Michael's Angel Attic."

Reed commented that her Angel Attic is a really fun place to visit.

"I carry very unique items. I'm always on a hunt for the most unusual angels I can find. I have an eclectic blend that the customers seem to enjoy."

With some customers, Reed's relationship transcends business.

"Michael's Angel Attic is also a place where people come to connect. Many of my customers are people who have also lost a child They come to share. I'm right there with them. We talk, I listen. It helps," says Reed.

"If I can bring even a little bit of comfort to someone, then I'm happy."

Reed said her future plans include expanding locally and perhaps one day even to northern Michigan. The daily challenge of balancing her business, home and very active family with her husband Phillip and their two earth angels Matthew, 12, and Jillian Rose, 4, leave her never a dull moment.

Like most businesswomen, Reed's career has been marked by highs and lows.

"My corporate days with Eastern Airlines at headquarters in Miami were the highest point of my career. I held a wonderful management position in an elaborate department run mostly by women. A low point was when Eastern shuttered in 1991."

"Another high point, says Reed, " most definitely Michael's Angel Attic!"

The store will celebrate its first anniversary on Saturday, Nov. 30. "Again, I want to thank my customers for their ongoing support and for spreading the word...good news does travel fast, thanks!"

A portion of the proceeds from Michael's Angel Attic goes to the University of Michigan Mott's Children's Hospital.

their wares," she said adding that the shows are planned for easy-access locations in Livonia, Dearborn, Canton and Plymouth.

"The growing numbers of come-back customers are proof of the continuing professional quality and wide selection of artistic creations available from Homespun Traditions," said Bonnie, who has worked as development and special events coordinator at Livonia Family YMCA and as past coordinator of Frost and Churchill schools craft shows.

Bonnie said she has contact with 1,500 exhibitors and a mailing list of more than 12,000 people.

The high point in her career was getting an exclusive contract for two years at the Summit.

"There is so much competition among promoters that it helps to have your own niche," she said.

always needs to keep her own attitude positive and uplifting. "That's the toughest job," she said.

Inge admires women who successfully manage work and family. She and her husband, Steven, trade off "child care duty" for their two sons, John, 11, and James, 9, who are active in sports, scouts and school. As a family, the Sovinskys go camping. "It's just us and nature. We learn about each other every time we go," Inge said.

Career high points for Inge Sovinsky are ongoing. "It's when our salon is humming, people are happy and things are running smoothly." Low points are less frequent. "A low point is when you lose a member of your team, which happens in this business," she said.

"It's like losing a family member."

Inge's main business goal is making Mafalda's Salon "a secure and fun place to work. I would like to have it service our clients on every need we can provide."

Thank goodness Inge's 13 fish, two birds and her cat are low-maintenance pets. They have to be. Inge Sovinsky's on a fast track with little time to spare. In fact, "living for the day" is her biggest challenge.

"I have to keep my expectations of people in check because I try to help too fast, work too fast and live too fast. Life is wonderful and so are people. There are not enough hours in the day to enjoy all of it."

ing time to do all the things you want to do and keeping things in order at the shop. However, my son does a great job for me and my husband is very understanding."

Alice and her husband Greg have been married for 24 years. They have two boys, Jeff, a 22-year-old business student at Eastern Michigan University, and Justin, a hockey-loving,16-year-old junior at Walled Lake Central High School.

Alice said she admires "all women who work who have young children. I was fortunate and didn't have to work when my children were little. I see what women are going through now, and I really have to give them a lot of credit."

Although Alice would like to believe that other people can live on her pasties alone, she likes to eat out once in awhile. When asked what is her favorite restaurant, she said, "I love eating out, but it's hard to pick one. The Olive Garden and the Outback Steakhouse come to mind."

Possible future goals includes opening other stores. "But only time will tell if we do that," she said.

When Terry is not designing people's dream kitchens, she is at home spending time with her husband who is a real estate investor. Terry also has two sons, a junior at the University of Michigan, and the other a senior in high school.

She devotes much of her personal time to reading about art history and the chemistry of ceramic pottery.

Traveling to the mountains of Colorado, the great Canadian forests and the Brazilian tropical coast regions helps to satisfy Terry's passion of nature and the great outdoors.

hen given dinner options, Terry would much rather stay in her kitchen than go out to eat.

"I love my job and have a real passion for designing, that is why I do this," she says.

Dawn. "To operate our business we had to learn bookkeeping and store management. For this we took a small-business course.

"We try to run our store like the stores we return to and enjoy shopping at, with a friendly and knowledgeable approach to our customers. We read books so we know our stock."

As in most small businesses, the high points follow the low points. "The first lean months we would ask ourselves what have we done," said Dawn. "Now the high point is believing in ourselves and seeing it pay off."

"The low point was the early period of our business, when every day was a struggle to meet our expenses. The high point is seeing the repeat patronage of our customers," said JoAnn.

Dawn and JoAnn share a common goal: To open another outlet and enlarge their customer base. Implementing more computer technology is also on their "to do" list.

The clinical nurse specialist, in-house laboratory, X-ray services and pharmacy insure that routine medical needs are met, she said. Professional consultants in nutrition, podiatry, social work, music therapy and pastoral services are also available.

"One thing which enables us to respond by providing high quality, individualized care is the small size of our community; we are limited to 20 residents allowing us to know them and their families immediately," Amy said. "The most rewarding aspect of my job is to be able to make a difference in the lives of elderly people with dementia, as well as their families. There is no reason to suffer alone with this disease and to be able to provide support and enhance the quality of peoples' lives through that support is very rewarding."

The hard part of her job is the process that occurs as residents and families feel their losses through the progression of the disease and subsequently when a resident dies, said Amy, who has conducted research at the Alzheimer's Education and Demonstration Program, which focused on cognitive changes occurring in dementia and supportive measure used for people with varied limitations.

"Dealing with this aspect of the job is extremely difficult, so my focus is to be thankful for each individual's gifts and enjoy them," said Amy who received her bachelors degree in psychology from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University; as well as her masters degree in clinical psychology from Eastern Michigan University. She also completed a graduate specialization in gerontology from EMU and worked as an intern at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Rehabilitation program.

Her goal is to be recognized as the number one provider of care for people with Alzheimer's disease, dementia and memory loss in Southeastern Michigan "and to be envied by all," said Amy adding that since Fairfax opened June 6 her biggest challenge is not having enough hours in the day to accomplish everything.

What makes us different?

We really care. Who wants to hear about losing weight from someone who never had a weight problem?

We at the Fat Terminator Center understand what it's like to have a weight problem and now we want to help others since we found the answer. The problem is there are so many different weight loss scams out there that people are very hesitant.

"I feel for them," says Sue Cobb, owner of the Fat Terminator Center. "I was there at one time. I tried every diet, weight loss gimmick and trick to only find myself getting bigger and bigger." What people need to understand is that their weight problem is probably not their fault. Everyone is overweight for a different reason. We specialize in metabolic balancing. Unlike other programs we don't put our clients on any calorie restricted diets or make them buy special prepackaged foods that cost a fortune. Those programs actually slow the metabolic rate encouraging fat storage

Business philosophy: "Teamwork is important to my staff _ the common goal among my staff is to give the client what they want __ offer all services a client may not be aware that is available that may be of interest to them."

Making people happy when they're down about themselves is Denny Idrizi's goal.

When a customer sits down in a stylist's chair there's a chance to make a grim day bright with just the right cut, style, color or perm and it can make all the difference in a customer's attitude.

"I also ask my employees to always do your best and take pride in making their clients look the very best they can," she said.

Saranda's offers a combination of barber and beautician stylists.

"We give the customer a good cut and the right style, Idrizi said adding that they do any type of perm on any Business philosophy: "I treat my employees and customers the way I want to be treated, with concern for their families."

Mary Denning has sampled teaching styles from England, South Africa, Denmark, Australia and Germany to prepare her for her own business.

Those teachers stirred a deep devotion to baking.

"I always loved to cook and make creative desserts," she said. "Most bakeries make the same old things. I wanted to work in a place where I could offer extra special desserts that are also beautiful.

"Our number one rule in the bakery is never sell or make anything you wouldn't give to your own family. Cleanliness and fresh quality is our number one priority."

Mary said she has fun creating desserts for wonderful people who are more like family and friends than customers. She also teaches college students how to be valuable employees

Kathleen Gallagher Lewis and her father, Myles Gallagher, who owned Trueman Services, one of the nation's original temporary help firms, formed Corporate Personnel Services in 1984. Lewis joined the company as president in 1985.

Lewis credits "hard work, persistence and luck" with her company's success. Corporate Personnel Services now has six branch offices in the metropolitan Detroit area, including Livonia, Brownstown, Pontiac, Troy and Mt. Clemens. It is a certified Women's Business Enterprise and has been recognized as one of the top 25 women-owned business enterprises in Michigan since 1989.

Kathleen Lewis's professional background includes degrees in both economics and law. Prior to joining Corporate Personnel Services in 1985,

"Our attention to detail and customer care has created a wonderful market and made the broker the lender of choice for many homebuyers," said Carole.

Carole faces many of the same challenges as other working women business owners today – finding time to balance all areas of life.

"As a small business owner, time is one of my most valuable commodities.

"Creating space for spiritual, educational and musical pursuits is a high priority for me," said Carole.

"I find it difficult sometimes to keep the business from overtaking my life," she said.

Carole has had many "career highs" – most notably the refinancing boom in 1993 "during which time we established a wonderful client based which has become an invaluable source of referrals."

Another source of gratification for Carole is her daughter Nanci's decision to join her business and work as a partner.

"As a current employee of Omega Mortgage Corp., my daughter, Nanci, has proved to be an invaluable asset to the organization.

"She not only takes terrific care of my clients, but she has developed a substantial client base of her own. She's an outgoing, warm, friendly, caring young woman who has innate skills and talent for the business,:" said Carole.

When she finds time away from the office, Carole and her husband, of 27 years, Richard, enjoy relaxing with family (which includes three adult children Nanci, Rick and Steve) and friends, swimming, water skiing, taking long walks and curling up with a good book.

Last Christmas, the couple spent a "wonderful" week in Laguna Beach, California at Laguna Hotel.

"It was warm and very beautiful with the mountains in the background and the ocean 50 feet from the hotel," said Carole.

Every summer the family spends a week at Lake Pleasant in the Adirondack Mountains in up-state New York.

All the Halmekangas children have worked in the family business at one time or another.

While Nanci is currently an employee, Carole's son, Rick lent his business skills to the organization before accepting a job offer out of state. Carole's other son, Steve is currently a licensed Realtor for OneWay Realty.

When asked who she admires most, Carole said: Margaret Thatcher, the former British prime minister.

"She's brilliant, risk taking, decisive, imaginative, bold and persuasive. She accepted the challenge of world leadership while raising her family -- a great example of muti-tasking."

ence, can help you make the right decision on your purchase based on your needs. They feel their job is to help people go with their instincts and what they are comfortable with.

The training these women have in interior design range from on the job to designing out of their own homes to college degrees in architecture and design. Each one of these highly qualified women can help customers turn their house into the home they've always dreamed of.

In addition to these well-trained women interior designers, there are the five women in the business office who offer sales and service support and handle everything from customer relations to bookkeeping.

Located at 20292 Middlebelt in Livonia, Classic Interiors carries many fine furniture lines such as Thomasville, Harden, and Pennsylvania House, and is open Monday, Thursday, and Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1-5 p.m. aspects."Besides being the office manager, my responsibilities include sales, advertising, purchasing, internal office staffing, bookkeeping, recruiting, and perhaps most importantly, problem-solving," she said.

Her goal for the next three to five years is "to become financially successful to the point where it allows me to purchase a second franchise territory and open additional offices."

Barbara said her biggest challenge is "finding enough qualified workers to meet the needs of our customers in this tight recruiting market."

Barbara shares the high and low points with other career women. Owning a business is a high; juggling career and family responsibilities is an ongoing low.

For their 25th anniversary last May, Barbara and husband Paul celebrated in Hawaii.

In addition to Samantha the cat and Andy the dog, the Cummings have four children: Angela, who will graduate with a master's in social work from the University of Michigan; Donald, who will graduate with an industrial engineering degree from U-M; Amanda, a senior at Huron High in Ann Arbor; and Kassandra, a sophomore at Huron High.

When asked to name a public figure she admires, Barbara chose Bo Schembechler. "He demanded a great deal from himself and others while building a tremendously successful football program at the University of Michigan. Most importantly, he accomplished this without compromising his high moral and ethical standards."

length of hair.

"We can color any color and correct any color. We have a licensed massage therapist on staff and Hex tanning booths."

The facility also offers wax hair removal; hair highlighting, braiding and fancy styles for special occasions.

Denny got into the business because it offered a chance to express ones's creatively. With one year of formal instruction, two years as an apprentice, several advanced classes and "a lot of determination," a career has spanned three decades.

The highlight of business life was moving from a small barber shop into a unisex salon at the current location on Wayne Road across the street from the Westland Shopping Mall. The goal for the next three to five years is to work toward her retirement.

On a personal level, Idrizi said, Mother Theresa is the person admired the most, because of her compassion.

"She helps people around the world who are less fortunate putting the needs of others before her own," Denny said. "She has a beautiful soul."

The high point of the business, she said, was the many friends she and her husband have made.

"Another real high is the fact that we have been here 31 years," she said. "Have they been all good years? Absolutely not. We have had lots of trying times, but we seem to adjust and keep going forward."

Her biggest challenge is overcoming the lack of commitment of young employees.

"Young people that we hire just don't seem to take pride in a job well done," she said. "They don't care if they are on time or show up at all. Most don't even have a valid license so we can't use them for some jobs. An entry-level job can lead to success with hard work. My husband started as a tire buster and look now where he is."

On a personal level, Margaret said, she admires anyone who follows a dream.

"I have always been a John F. Kennedy fan, because of his strong leadership ability," she said. "I admire anyone who follows a dream and succeeds in spite of adversity and the pitfalls along the way."

For the future, Margaret Harlow said she would like to increase the efficiency of the business.

"We are looking at remodeling or maybe relocating," she said. "I look forward to laying some groundwork towards retirement."

service technicians, visits job sites, provides estimates, reads blue prints, orders equipment and fabricates metal. It's no wonder the week long Cancun vacation she was awarded by York equipment suppliers last January was so enjoyable.

Sharon began her business working out of her home, and considers relocating to the Wayne Road address as a highlight in her career. Her immediate goals are to provide a showroom for her customers, and to educate herself as well as her staff on the ever changing electronic business world.

Sharon is thankful for the advice, mentoring, and support that she has received through the years. Now, she too mentors installers who come to her for advice. When asked who in the world today do you admire most, Sharon replied: "No particular person comes to mind. However, I admire people who do things for themselves (self-starters), who strive to do the best they can, and those that acknowledge mistakes when they make them."

game is her biggest challenge.

She prepared for her business career by attending Belmont College in Nashville, Tenn., working for Craft Malls in Dallas for two years and becoming district manager for the Craft Malls chain.

In fact, Linda said, the work experience gave birth to her own business.

"I knew this was a brand new concept and that it was a great idea and that Michigan had nothing like it," said Linda, a Michigan native. "Being only 24 years old at the time I knew I was young enough to go for it."

She currently oversees daily operations of the stores, selects new locations, negotiates building leases, keeps the computer operations up-to-date and hires key personnel.

Her business partners are her two brothers, Tom and Jim Powers who work with her and help manage all the locations.

"We work well together," said Linda, adding that she also has two sisters, Cindy Symons and Tina Black, with whom she plays golf.

"I met my husband, Matt Macchiarolo, at college in Nashville and it was his idea to move to Texas so he could go to graduate school," she said. "We had our son, Alan, in May of 1995 and Matt stays at home with him while I go to work, 'Mr. Mom.'"

The first week Nicole Christ opened her shop only five people came in and four of them were browsers.

"But I still wasn't discouraged," she said.

Newburgh Road in front of her shop was closed down to one lane. Initially she thought it would reopen after one month, but it stayed that way for four months. Later, city officials told her to remove her pink fluorescent signs from the streets.

"Perseverance kept me going" Christ said. "I wasn't going to fail... and I didn't."

On the other hand, there have been good times, too, like meeting Hollywood producers, television and radio celebrities and having their clothes in her shop.

After only one year of being in business, she doubled her merchandise, store size and income. Another benefit

Business started: 1986
Business philosophy: "I pay you a fair wage and make your environment as pleasant as possible and you give me a day's work."

Pattie Perushak's father was her greatest inspiration when she decided to start her own business.

"My father was in business for himself all my life," she said. "I guess it was lucky for me that I had him."

And now that she's well on her way, she credits a "wonderful staff" for making her job easier.

"Gloria Zarb has been with me for five years and does an incredible job managing along with Michelle Roberts, Michelle Haywood and Linda Tice," she said. "With all the proper people in line I oversee everybody to insure our clients are getting the best possible service."

Marking 10 years in business, Pattie said, this has been a memorable year for Sweeping Beauties, because her company recently won the name game with Independent Business Magazine.

For the future, Pattie said, she would like to see Sweeping Beauties continue to grow and provide long-time employees a chance to advance. She said she would also love to have an in-house day care center for moms who work at Sweeping Beauties.

Currently, her biggest challenge is making sure the business is adequately staffed.

On a personal level, Pattie credits her parents with influencing her the most.

"They've been married 35 years, had four kids and are self-employed," she said. "I have two sisters, a brother, a beautiful niece and a great nephew, Natalee and Drew. I'm looking forward to the day that I can start a family of my own."

For now she has three cats, Lacy, Davey and Gizmo, and her 20-year-old dog, Andy who comes to the office with her daily.

Her favorite restaurant meal is the filet at Fonte D'Amore; she recently read "The World's Greatest Man" and a recent trip to Aruba was so enjoyable she hopes to go back some time soon to see the sunsets.

She provides customers with most of their diabetic supplies such as blood glucose monitors, strips, batteries, carrying cases, books, free brochures, foot care items, some food and candy items and cough and cold items.

"Most of all I can answer their questions," she said. "Also I work with local hospitals referring patients to their diabetic classes and with physician referrals."

Barbara said she intends to do all she can to help her customers.

She spent 20 years working in a hospital pharmacy and during the last five years she believed there was something more she could do.

"When my mother-in-law was diagnosed with Type II diabetes I found that something else," Barbara said. "Since then I have actively pursued that area, learning all I could about diabetes and thus opening Diabetic Specialties."

Her biggest challenge is getting diabetics to take control of their disease state.

"So many are overwhelmed by their disease they either deny it or let it ruin their lives," Barbara said. "By education and tools, meaning blood glucose monitors, they can take control and live healthy, normal lives and minimize long term effects like, retinopathy, kidney failure and neuropathy."

On a personal level, Barbara has been married to her husband, Joe, also a pharmacist, for 22 years. They own Professional Village Pharmacy, an independent pharmacy. They live on their boat, a 44-foot Sea Ray, in the summer at Keans Marina on the Detroit River.

in the community."

Mrs. Angles hopes to establish record earnings for the company and to continue to manage a competent staff. The one main disappointment in her career was realizing that she wouldn't remain with the same company until her retirement.

Mrs. Angles said her biggest challenge is managing a career and raising children. She has two sons: Zachery, 4 and Joshua, 1. She's quick to add though that while it can be difficult at times, it also comes with incredible rewards.

Having a supportive husband makes juggling career and raising a family manageable. In fact, she lists Michael, a psychologist to who she has been married for seven years, as the person she admires most.

"He not only manages raising a family and having a career, but also assist me in doing the same," she said.

When not working toward record earning for Green Tree, Mrs. Angles enjoys going to the Lone Star Steak House and spending time in northern Michigan to enjoy some quite time.

You might also find her reading books like "The Customer Driven Company" by Richard Whiteley with the family cat Augustus curled up at her feet when she has time to spare at home.

Clearly, Mrs. Angles demonstrates that it is possible to juggle a successful career and have a happy home life.

of the business is seeing her customers radiate when they model for her fashion shows and expositions.

Her biggest challenge is keeping her store stocked with current high quality clothing for men, women and children.

"They always come in and say: 'What do you have exciting now?' So I always have to be ready. I've had bus tours to other area resale shops, fashion shows, dinners, seminars, a national jazz band entertain and a massage therapist.

"I always have to stay ready for the next challenging customer for my shop," she said adding that it's hard for her not to tell customers what celebrity a particular piece of clothing came from.

She opened the business, because she had a love for people and fashion, "but I liked saving money so I thought people were like me." Christ went to business school, attended fashion shows and worked for free at another resale shop to better understand the business.

"I believe everyone is given a dream to pursue," she said. "I was taught early in life to disregard the negative thoughts that come in your mind and ponder on the good ones so I ignored friends and my thoughts of it being too hard, too much responsibility and the lack of large capital and the statistic of businesses failing and just followed my dream of owning my own shop."

When asked what person, in the world today, she admired most, Christ said: "God is more real to me than any real person."

and prepares them for the business world.

"I love to teach others to love baking as much as I do," she added.

The highlight of her career, Mary said, was having her students win major awards during competitions. One student, now a manager for her, has won five competitions, graduated with honors from Henry Ford Community College and has two children and a husband.

"Another high point was that last October I was hospitalized for two weeks and my employees all pitched in and worked extra hours," she said. "Everyone ran the bakery and did a wonderful job. I was so proud, but sad, too, because they didn't need me."

The downside to her career was having to be away from her family while she was working.

"The upside in my career is allowing my employees more creativity and freedom in their jobs while in my absence," she said.

Mary has been married 26 years. She has a daughter, Jennifer; son, Jerry; and granddaughter, Madison. Jerry graduated from Central Michigan University and is a mechanical engineer.

"What a wonderful experience to see your baby graduate from college," she said.

Mary said her daughter is the person she most admires.

"She's going to college and on the dean's list," Mary said. "She's a wonderful mother to my beautiful granddaughter and she still has time to care for and help other people. She is my pride and joy."

Owning a restaurant in today's competitive restaurant market has its drawbacks. Pauline had to work many hours when her children were small. She also dislikes "watching these big companies come in to town and closing down the small independents."

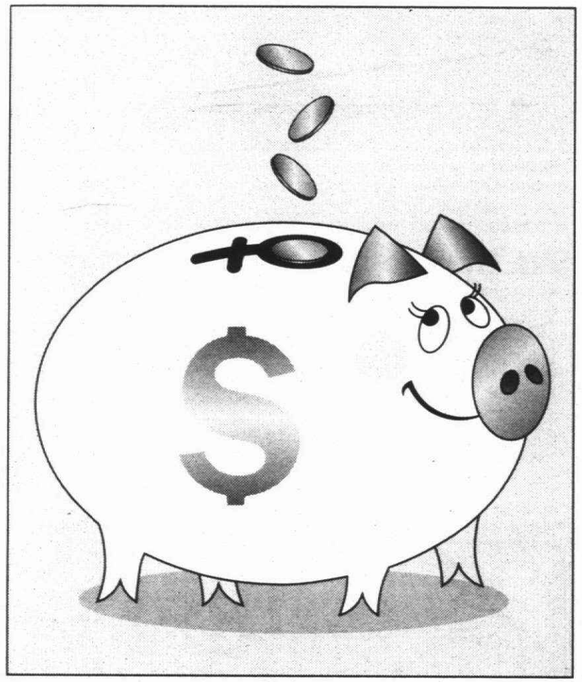
Women urged to narrow pension gap



WASHINGTON– PRNewswire – Women must take a greater role in planning their own retirement savings, said TIAA-CREF Vice President Diane Oakley, speaking recently before members of the Women's Research and Education Institute (WREI) on Capitol Hill.

Citing the notion that "most women leave their economic future to an internally programmed fantasy that a man will come to their rescue," Ms. Oakley urged all women "to plan and save as if their future depends on them as an independent unit."

The good news is that women are starting to save for retirement at younger ages. Nearly three-fourths of the women between 25 and 34 surveyed by the Profit Sharing/401(K) Council of America started saving before age 30, while just 46 percent of baby boomer women started before age 30. "Women are making progress and the challenge is how to keep narrowing the pension gap," Ms. Oakley stated.

• Today the coverage rate for full-time female workers is 48 percent, compared to 51 percent for males. The difference was far greater in 1972, when 38 percent of females and 54 percent of males were covered.

• Many women are covered through their spouse. The pension coverage rate for married households was 73% in 1993.

• Pension coverage among younger workers is slightly higher for women. Among full-time private wage and salary workers younger than age 35, 40 percent of women and 39 percent of men are covered.

Ms. Oakley urged creation of a provision in the tax code that would allow workers to contribute more when they can afford it, usually in their later years if they have not saved enough when they were young. She said that 403(b) plans can provide a model for this effort.

Commenting on the experience of TIAA-CREF, the world's largest pension fund, Ms. Oakley said, "It has acted as financial education guru for a number of years and our experience offers proof that investor education works, especially for women."

"Today almost 80 percent of TIAA-CREF's women participants invest a portion of their retirement pensions in equities, and 51 percent of their total assets are invested in equities. These figures are fast approaching those for males of 84 percent and 57 percent respectively. As TIAA-CREF expanded its education efforts through multimedia – PC disks, WWW, seminars, video, teleconferencing – women have increased their retirement investing in equities by more than 10 percent since 1993. A closer look at TIAA-CREF's experience suggests that risk-averse patterns attributed to women most likely result from size of accumulation and job tenure and can be overcome with a solid financial education program," she concluded.

TIAA-CREF is the world's largest pension system, with $172 billion in assets.

Tax pledge top election issue

WASHINGTON –PRNewswire – Taxes will remain the number one issue for small businesses in the 1996 elections, and individuals seeking public office who pledge not to raise taxes while advocating fundamental tax reform will fare better with this large and growing constituency according to a national small business advocacy organization.

"With high taxes and a burdensome tax system impeding the growth and survival of small businesses at every stage of their development, you can bet that this issue will be a priority for each and every small business person who votes on November 5," said Small Business Survival Committee (SBSC) President Karen Kerrigan.

Kerrigan made her remarks on Capitol Hill today at a press conference with a coalition of groups supporting the Taxpayer Protection Pledge – an effort sponsored by Americans for Tax Reform. When signed by a Member of Congress or candidate for public office, the Pledge commits the signer to oppose and vote against any effort to raise the federal income tax on individuals or corporations.

"In 1992 Bill Clinton promised a middle-class tax cut, instead middle-class small business owners got hit with the biggest tax increase in history. President Clinton made a campaign promise to cut taxes, instead he raised them. Taking the Pledge separates the true friend of the taxpayer from the big tax and spenders," said Kerrigan.

According to SBSC, small business owners are drawn towards elected officials and candidates who support tax system reform – changes that would encourage risk-taking, investment and job creation rather than the attributes of the current system which punish entrepreneurial activities.

"Taxes are still a hot issue despite what the political pundits say.

Pledge signers, and those who make tax reform a key issue of their campaign have a tremendous advantage over their political challengers," added Kerrigan.

SBSC is a nationwide, nonpartisan small business advocacy organization.

Business info offered

Have you been dreaming of running your own business?

The thought of doing something you really enjoy, setting your own hours and being your own boss can be pretty attractive.

But getting started is a big step, requiring a lot of work and financial preparation.

Two publications from MetLife and the U.S. Small Business Administration can help get you ready to take that step. "Starting a Business" will equip you with the basics of entrepreneurship. And "Running a Business" helps you make decisions that can strengthen your business, and make it grow.

For a free copy of both publications, send your name and address to Business Basics, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Take the quiz in "Starting a Business" to see if you have the skills and personality traits you'll need to be a business success. You'll also learn how to choose the type of business you want to run, select a location and evaluate your competition. Find out how to get the money you'll need to start your business, and what you must consider legally before setting up shop.

Once you've gotten started, "Running a Business" helps you decide how to market your product or service, find solid business advisers, and hire and manage loyal employees. You'll also learn basic information about patents and trademarks, and find out what special things you'll need to consider if you work from your home, or if your business will be owned and run by family members.

When you write for the Business Basics publications, you'll also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog, listing publications on consumer topics.

Business philosophy: "We treat our customers the way we want to be treated. Nobody is turned away if they need help on a project, even if they didn't purchase their supplies from us. Our aim is to promote the art of knitting through our knowledge."

Lesley Weller, who comes from a family of knitters, has been knitting since she was three years old. She comes from New Zealand a country that taught young children to knit in school.

Lesley and her husband Bob always wanted to own their own business. When the opportunity came to purchase a small yarn shop, Weller decided "to take the plunge."

Owning a knitting store allows Lesley to use all of her talents and skills. "Because I love being around all the colors and fibers, I work a lot with the customers. There is nothing more satisfying than pulling together a lot of textures and colors to make their pattern unique. I also help with the teaching, do the ordering, which is a Business philosophy: "My working philosophy is to listen to what the customer wants...so they leave me looking and feeling better about themselves."

When Jacqui Burkowski, a fair-skinned blonde, first heard about permanent makeup, she said, "Wow, no more looking like a ghost. I could look great 24 hours a day. I also thought if I'm this excited, there are many, many women who would want their makeup done too."

Jacqui, already a licensed cosmetologist and makeup artist since 1973, set out to learn all about permanent makeup. She took training in basic application and advanced to master's training. "I've taken many, many extra classes over the almost seven years I've been applying permanent makeup," she said.

To perfect her application of eyebrows, eyeliner and lips, Jacqui has

(313) 451-0550
Business started: 1994
Business Philosophy: "Our mission at Salon Trio is to continually strive to serve the client with quality customer service and advance education and to create a professional, personal and team-oriented staff."

Salon Trio opened two years ago with three women sharing ideas, visions and having a common goal. Melissa Montagano and Jacinda Reed are business partners, and Tammy Thomas is a stylist and educator.

"We wanted a departmentalized salon with both colour and styling departments with employees specializing in one area," said Jacinda and Melissa.

That initial three grew to 12 employees in a full service salon offering a styling and colour room, facials, glycolic acid peel, body waxing, full skin care and cosmetic line, manicures, pedicures and acrylic nails.

"We carry TIGI hair care line, a brilliant product line. TIGI supports us with a local training center that gives education on a consistent basis that teaches us the latest techniques, hands on training and fashions in hair today. Education is what we feel sets us apart from other salons.

"We teach educational programs for stylists and colorists.," said Jacinda and Melissa.

The stylists are taught by Jacinda and Tammy on mannequin heads, the latest haircuts in collections, men's clipper cuts and updos.

"Our program is very extensive covering shampooing, client consultations and product knowledge. This program can take six months to a year to complete".

Jacinda has been a hairstylist for eight years. She is on the TIGI Art team and travels to conduct seminars on latest techniques and hair collections. She plans on traveling to London in October to attend an international hair show and to spend time at the Toni and Guy hair academy.

When she's not working, you can find her relaxing at her favorite restaurant Too Chez in Novi or engaged in photography, her latest hobby.

Melissa dreamed of owning her own salon since she was a young girl. She specializes in hair color and was trained under a nationally-known colorist for one year. She's been in the business for 11 years. Today she's involved in educating for colour in our training center. The colour program in salon consists of working with a foil method when highlighting the hair and working with all types of corrective colour.

She also teaches base applications for blondes, brunettes and redheads. This program takes six months to a year to complete.

Melissa recently got married in Hawaii, her favorite restaurant is Common Grill in Chelsea. She has a shitzu named Herby who is a very loyal and loving dog. She is looking forward to starting her own family.

"As members of the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce, we've given hair shows for the community and given to many charity events," the partners said.

Our mission at Salon Trio is to continually strive to serve the client with quality customer service and advance education and to create a professional, personal and team-oriented staff.

today is competing with the big chains. "We are a family type place, run in a family way. We don't have the big company people the chains have to help them with money, advertising and problem-solving."

Pauline would like to increase sales and open another location. More people should have the opportunity to try Alexander the Great's "specially trimmed, seasoned, old-fashioned, cooked-on-an-open-fire " barbecued ribs." "We consider ourselves the great place for ribs. Every place has ribs but not the way we prepare them – the old-fashioned way – rotisserie, open fire, that's real barbecue. We also offer Italian entrees, steaks, broasted seafood, and chops. We do a $3.95 luncheon special Monday through Saturday 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. And we have great dinner and movie package, great for a night out or in gift certificate form.

Pauline and her husband have two children, a daughter studying political science at the University of Michigan Dearborn and a son who is president of the national Honor Society at Northville High School. Both children help out at the restaurant on the weekends.

"I shop in different markets throughout the country to bring unique, distinctive gift items and home decor accessories to our customers at reasonable prices. As the sign on our door states, 'We only look expensive!'" said Jennifer.

"The shop offers the full line of design services, including drapes, wallpaper, furniture, both large and small pieces, custom florals, tromp l'oeill and much more. We're always working to personalize environments for our clients.

"A common and favorite request is for a client to invite us into their home and ask us to give their house 'a new look.' This is accomplished by rearranging furniture, pulling accessories from different rooms around the house and adding a few new 'choice' decorative accents. The cost remains minimal, but the effect can be an amazing transformation!"

"Our gift line offers something for everyone. Not only do we cater to home design – lamps, framed art, handpainted porcelain and furniture – we also carry an array of hostess gifts, holiday items, children's gifts and even clothing and fashion accessories."

Owning a business is a tradition in Jennifer Imamura's family, from grocery stores to boutiques to aerospace corporations.

Jennifer looks forward to a bright future for her business. "Hopefully our customers will enjoy our services and the friendship we offer."

Jennifer and husband Nich have two daughters, Tatiana, 7, and Sabrina, 5.

had training in color analysis, which enables her to choose pigment colors matched to individual skin tones. "The results are very soft and natural looking. It's unbelievable. You have to see it to believe it's not natural," she said.

Jacqui also is skilled in camouflaging scars and doing aerola recolorations for women who have had breast reconstruction after a mastectomy. And, by popular demand, she recently added "feminine" tattoos to her permanent makeup repertoire.

Jacqui and her husband have their home on 2½ acres and over the years they've had many animals, with horses, ducks, chickens, a pony, two "wonderful" dogs and a litter of cats. "But now we're down to just one spoiled cat, Samster the Tuna Junkie," she said.

These days, they have the house to themselves. Heather, their daughter is a geology student at Western Michigan in Kalamazoo, and their son James is an engineering student at the University of Michigan in Dearborn. Jacqui likes to boast that she is the proud grandmother of "the most beautiful four-month-old baby boy, Lucas James."

Jacqui has an upbeat view of her future: "My goals are to continue striving to be the best at what I do, stay healthy and take more time to enjoy the family."

Jacqui said her grandmother always knew her granddaughter would be her own boss one day. "When I was very young, I can remember her always calling me the 'Boss Lady.'" daily need, not to mention the office work."

Although Lesley has seldom dropped a stitch, she has had a few "lows" in her career. "The low point has to be not enough time to knit my own projects. Because we are a full service business, there are always customers' items to do, and then there are the store samples, all hand-knitted."

One of her "highs" is yet to come. "The high point is taking a group of knitters to New Zealand to sightsee, buy yarn, and have workshops with designers there. We are doing this in May of 1997."

Lesley's goal for the future is "to continue to provide the very best product and service to our customers. Our store is a fiber addicts emporium. We have everything from basics to exotic fibers, and we want to continue to provide anything and everything. There are very few shops that have the supply and range of products that we do."

She keeps up with fashion trends and new ideas by taking classes. She also brings in designers and teachers for her students in her knitting classes.

The Lesley family includes two adult children, two large dogs, two cats and two ferrets. The family enjoys traveling, movies and their own home.

Payless customers don't seem to mind the transient stock, an occasional dented box, felt-tip pen price labels or the limited hours (10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 3:30 p.m. Saturday). "They're looking for value, not glitz," said Janet. "Everyone is looking to stretch a dollar these days. We help you do that."

room to put them." As for future plans, Nancy said she wants to "expand certain lines and weed out others."

Nancy is the youngest of seven children. "My father worked 44 years for Chrysler, and my mother was a housewife. I've had one brother and a sister die, and the rest live in the metropolitan Detroit area."

Nancy's pet Scottish terrier, Angus McTavish V, comes to work with her every day. "He's 2 years old, and I think the customers come to see him more than me."

business at Vintage is building rapidly and it's great to see your efforts pay off.

"It is always exciting to complete the catering of a special occasion knowing everyone was pleased with the job you've done – especially when they notice the efforts made in making sure every detail is taken care of.

"It's also a wonderful compliment when you know your next booking was referred to you by a previous client.

"The low point in my career is when I discovered that the catering business is mostly a part-time job, like weekends and special occasions. You also need a Monday through Friday job in order to support your family."

Her goals include having her own catering business as well as raising her two beautiful daughters, Shannon, 6 and Megan, 2.

Meanwhile, when asked whom she most admired, Bridget answered: "My mother, Patricia Street, for having strength to raise three children as a working, single mother.

"Now as a working grandmother she still has time to help out with the grandchildren."
