Township considers law to halt feeding of fowl

■ Canton officials are considering an ordinance which would prohibit feeding geese and ducks in township parks — but one regular park visitor says she will continue her fowl-feeding routine.

If it walks like a duck and quacks like a duck, chances are it also makes a mess like a duck.

Canton officials are considering a ban on the feeding of waterfowl in public places because of the flocks that have gathered, particularly at ponds at Heritage Park and nearby Summit on the Park community center.

Meanwhile, a resident who feeds the birds said if Canton adopts the ordinance, she'll duck the law.

According to a proposed ordinance, a written warning would first be given by Canton police. Any subsequent violations would be punishable by a fine not to exceed $500.

Summit to allow Goodfellows drive

BY VALERIE OLANDER
STAFF WRITER

The season of giving must have rubbed off on Canton Township officials, who had an apparent change of heart last week over banning Goodfellows newspaper sales at Summit on the Park.

Goodfellows President Nancy Spencer opened her mailbox Friday to find a letter from the township, saying that after "thinking about it" it was decided to allow the Goodfellows to sell newspapers at the community center, which is on public property. The letter, dated Nov. 25, was signed by Administrative and Community Services Director Dan Durack, she said.

The annual fund-raising event is 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. this Saturday at various community sites.

Three weeks ago officials decided to prohibit the Goodfellows Newspaper Sale and the soliciting of any kind at the Summit. Durack was charged with formulating a written policy.

Spencer believes the change of heart was spurred by a letter from Michael Witten, a law clerk who ran an unsuccessful write-in campaign against Supervisor Tom Yack in the November general election. In his letter to Yack and three local newspapers, Witten quoted three U.S. Supreme Court rulings supporting the First Amendment rights of exercising free speech on public property.

Neither Durack or Yack were unavailable for comment Friday, with township hall closed.

The Goodfellows Newspaper Sale is a fund-raiser to ensure that "no Canton child goes without a Christmas." Volunteers will be on numerous street corners, including the following sites:

- Canton Public Library
- Canton Historical Museum
- Community Credit Federal Union
- Murray's Auto Parts
- Kroger's
- Kmart
- McDonald's on Ford Road
- Arbor Drugs, Coventry Commons Center
- Bob's of Canton
- Richardson's Drugs
- Builders Square
- Picadilly Petal'er
- Johnson's Restaurant
- Allstate Insurance on Sheldon Road
- Good Food Company West
- Burger King on Ford Road
- Old Country Buffet
- Alphagraphics, Coventry Commons Center

The Tiger Cub Scouts of Pack 854 from Miller School will sell papers from 9 a.m-1 p.m. at the McDonald's on Ford Road. They are: Spencer and Harrison Hall, Jordan Raiford, Michael Wells, Jack Distel and Brandon Patterson.

Matt Adams and his wife, Carol, will collect new toys, clothes and food on behalf of the Goodfellows at their moving van in the Kmart parking lot everyweekend from noon to 5 p.m.through Dec. 14.

Other collection sites include Applebee's Restaurant and Community Federal Credit Union.

Tax bills will be mailed this week; expect an increase

STAFF WRITER

Canton residents will see a slight increase on their winter tax bills sent out Dec. 1.

The hike is due to the Wayne County parks proposal that passed with 52 percent of the overall vote in the Aug. 6 primary. Proposition P won only three communities in the county: Highland Park, Trenton and Detroit; Canton voters turned it down by a nearly three-to-one margin.

■ FINANCE

Despite the rejection locally, taxes will increase by a quarter mill, which to the owner of $100,000 house means $12.50 a year.

The county's proposal included $26.3 million in projects. Of that, approximately $500,000 is designated for county parks located in Canton.

About $200,000 will go for improvements at the William P. Holliday Forest Nature Preserve,

BY VIRGINIA BAILEY PARKER
SPECIAL WRITER

Most people drive past a particular house on Michigan Avenue and never realize it's one of Canton's oldest landmarks.

The two-story residence was once the Sheldon Inn, built in 1825 by Timothy and Rachel Sheldon. The one-story east wing served for a time as its tavern. The Mortons, of Morton Taylor Road fame, later owned the domicile.

It is this part of the house's history which comes down to us through Helen Morton Crichton Parks' stories.

Parks' grandfather, Charles Morton, moved his family of nine children into the former inn in 1886. Thirty-two years later, his youngest child, Alfred, moved his family into the home, which then sat at the end of Geddes Road. The old Detroit Urban Railway (DUR) street car line ran directly in front of the house. When Michigan Avenue expanded into a double road, Geddes was cut short to end, as it does now, at Sheldon Road.

In those earlier days, Michigan Avenue, Geddes and Sheldon bordered a large green. "This green in the summertime was filled with chicory," Parks said. "We liked the smell of it. We used to get down in it as children. We had our own little paths ... In the late evening, especially, we liked to be out there roaming around. We thought it was a lot of fun."

The walk to school

Childhood memories also included walking to school with Gertrude Sitlington, who was a little bit older. "When I started school, I was afraid to walk to school alone, and my mother made arrangements with Gertrude for me to walk with her to and from school."

Parks noted that a stretch of present-day Morton Taylor, north of Michigan Avenue, was then known as Sitlington Lane.

Describing her girlhood home, Parks recalled it was heated with coal stoves and the kitchen had a small sink and pitcher pump. "After priming, you could pump water from the cistern located in the wood shed," she said. "The kitchen also had very few cupboards, and large table substituted for modern countertop work areas. "The aroma of fresh baked bread often filled the air."

Preserving food involved a lot of canning. "To this day, I don't care much for pork because that was our mainstay in the winter. We'd butcher and then the pork was canned. I don't care what you do with it; it all tasted the same."

She said that along with canned pork, they stored all their fruit and vegetables in the basement. "Some of the later things, like carrots, could be kept in sand in the basement," Parks explained. Asked if any other vegetables were stored in sand, she recalled that beets were too, although they were more perishable. "Mother always tried to keep those things as long as she could because when it came to winter, we just didn't have greens of any kind."

CANTON MEMORIES

A different method proved effective for another food. "I can remember we used to pick tomatoes – the green ones – wrap them in paper individually and put them in the basement. Lots of times, you'd have tomatoes ripening up as far as Christmas."

People in Sheldon Corners shopped at Frank Winsor's general store for their staples and a few foods. "They used to have pickles in the barrels," she said. "The flour, of course, was sold in 25-pound sacks. You didn't think about buying a five-pound sack, because every farm woman baked her own bread."

Modern lighting

In 1928, the Morton home was wired for electricity. This was such an exciting event that Parks' uncle returned from California just to see the house illuminated for the first time. "One night, as soon as it was Scouts explore culture of Native American life

Seventy Canton girl scouts and their leaders hosted a special event at Eriksson Elementary School in November, designed to teach the scouts about Native American culture.

So successful was the event that Debi Comstock, the troop service and Daisy director who organized the event, hopes to expand it for more troops and schools next year.

"The purpose . . . was to have all the girls come together, and have an awareness program," said Comstock of Canton

April Houghton, a Cherokee Indian and a member of the Native American Society, visited from Ypsilanti. Houghton is an education major at Eastern Michigan University.

Houghton explained the significance of several Indian customs to the eight scout troops, aged 5-11. She showed the Daisies, Brownies and Girl Scouts how to make corn dolls, and told them about dream catchers.

Dream catchers are ornamental hoops decorated with leather, beads and feathers. Inside the hoops are a web-like patterns made of a cat's innards, the scouts learned.

"Everything they do has so much meaning. April actually told us how it all started," said Comstock. "A dream catcher was put out above a new baby's bed to catch the good dreams and filter out the bad, because the baby can't do that, because it's so innocent.

"As we get older, we still have dream catchers. The dream catcher still catches the good dreams, but the bad dreams stay in it longer; long enough so that you can learn from the bad dream what you are supposed to learn."

Houghton said the colorful beads symbolize the different races of people, and Native Americans' acceptance of all people.

Participating Scouts also learned about the significance to Native Americans of the circle.

"They stood that way not just so that they could stand in a circle. The circle represents the chain of life," said Comstock. "They always started a celebration with a circle. The circle would have an opening to the east. That's because the of the sun, and the Creator. Native Americans belief that things started to happen with the Creator.

"As scouts, we always do a 'Girl Scout' circle. But I don't think anyone realized how much it signifies," she said.

The Canton scouts have invited Houghton to return next year. "We hope to do a flag ceremony next time with tribal dancers and a drummer," said Comstock.

Plymouth Community Chorus begins holiday concert schedule

The 120-voice Plymouth Community Chorus, directed by Michael Gross and accompanied by piano and orchestra, is geared up for its 23rd Annual Christmas concert, entitled "Christmas Celebration 1996."

Performances are set for 8 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 5; 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 6; 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 7; and 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8.

Among the 22 selections to be presented will be special arrangements of "Christmas Wonderland, "Go Tell It On The Mountain," "Have You Heard, "Jingle Bells," "O Holy Night," "Silent Night," "The Christmas Song," "Scarborough Carol," and "White Christmas," as well as a new novelty song "Leroy the Redneck Reindeer," and a Spanish carol, "A La Nanita Nana."

The concert will be held in the sanctuary of the First United Methodist Church, 45201 N. Territorial Road, west of Sheldon, in Plymouth Township. The sanctuary's ambience and acoustics make it a perfect setting for the performance of Christmas music.

The concert is sponsored in part by the City of Detroit Cultural Affairs Department and the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

Tickets at $8 each are available from Sideways Gift Shop, 505 Forest (313)453-8312; and Evola Music, 215 W. Ann Arbor Road (313) 455-4677 in Plymouth; and the Northville Record, 104 W. Main in Northville (810)349-1700.

They're also available at the door.

COP CALLS

Breaking and entering

A wallet with an undisclosed amount of cash was stolen from a home on the 42000 block of Saltz sometime between 3:30- 8 p.m. Nov. 24.

The homeowner reported the break-in Wednesday after discovering a screen to a bedroom window had been cut. Cedar chips were found on the carpet below the window, apparently from a landscaped area outside of the house, police said.

The homeowner told police his wife had thought she misplaced the wallet, which had been inside a purse left nearby. The woman also noticed a jewelry box had been moved. She thought her children had moved it. Nothing was taken from the jewelry box, the report said.

In another incident, a tenant at the Canton Crossings apartment complex reported his door kicked in when he returned to the dwelling about 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. Nothing was taken, although $300 in damage was reported to the door.

Bomb threat

Employees were evacuated from American Yazaki, 6700 N. Haggerty Road, after a bomb threat at 8:45 a.m. Wednesday.

The caller said a bomb would go off in one hour, police said. The woman who answered the phone also told police the caller "sounded intense and disconnected immediately."

The employees were evacuated prior to Canton Police arriving on the scene.

CANTON CONNECTION

Two in performance

Two Canton youngsters are part of a holiday production of "Pinocchio" at Henry Ford Community College. Sisters Julia Anderson and Nicole Anderson star in the production, which continues Dec. 6-8.

According to their mother, Brenda Plecha, 13-year-old Julie is earning college credit, and her sister who is the fifth grade is just doing it for fun. "Pinocchio" is the beloved story of a lonely toymaker who dreams of having a boy of his own, and offers a timely message of growing up and self-esteem filled with music, dance and magic tricks to delight both children and adults. For information call (313) 845-9900.

New criteria approved

Canton now has new guidelines for approving tax abatements for businesses, making it more difficult to achieve a full 12-year abatement, while still assisting small businesses with startup costs.

Effective Jan. 1, the township will: eliminate the wage-rate criteria, amend criteria for headquarters, add additional criteria dealing with space allocation for manufacturing, eliminate from eligibility packaging/processing distribution facilities, and amend the criteria dealing with construction costs and cost per acre.

The abatements are given under state Public Act 198 to create a stimulus for new businesses and jobs.

Reunion celebration plans for Kiddie Kampus under way

Plans are underway for a special 25th anniversary reunion celebration for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Kiddie Kampus.

The preschool program for four-year-olds will celebrate it's anniversary in 1997.

Since it started in 1972, the program has had more than 4,000 students.

The reunion will be Wednesday, June 4, 1997 at the Canton High School cafeteria from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. All former staff members and students are invited.

To make a reservation, call (313) 416-4927.

Tradition a bust

Shoppers are sparse on Friday

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Folks who shied away from stores in Canton and Plymouth on what's billed as the year's busiest shopping day needn't have feared long lines or scarce parking places.

"I chuckle every year," said Plymouth's Sharon Pugh, owner of sideways, Inc., a store on Forest that sells cards, gift wrap and eclectic items for home entertaining. "According to radio and TV, this is the biggest day of the year. Not for us. It's a great day, but our people start Christmas shopping in September. We have our boxed Christmas cards out by Fall Festival every year."

The parking lot at New Town Plaza at Ford and Sheldon roads in Canton was just one third full at 11 a.m. Most shoppers were coming to or from K mart.

Pushing a loaded cart to their car in the K mart lot, Nancy Crocket of Canton and Debbie Hunt were enjoying their own 10-year-old tradition.

"This is an annual event for us," said Crocket. "We hit K mart and then the malls. If we get Christmas shopping done, we do. If not, we buy things we need; people watch; and enjoy a day without kids. Dad takes care of the kids. We'll be at it til 9 p.m."

Crocket and Hunt dress for the occasion. And they're good at what they do.

Both were attired in jeans, light jackets, and walking shoes. The deals they found on their first stop included sweatshirts for $3.99, and CD-ROM games at a bargain.

Canton's Lindsay Cluckey left K mart with a small bag, but it contained no holiday gifts.

"I had to get vacuum cleaner bags," he said. "I could gift wrap them, I suppose."

What about Christmas shopping? "It's not the 24th yet," he said.

Canton Police Officer Jerry Hardesty, on bike patrol in the shopping center parking lot, is a man after Cluckey's heart. "I reserve my shopping for the 24th," said Hardesty. "I'm on duty today. I wouldn't dare shop."

Lillian Hauk of Canton shopped on the day after Thanksgiving for the first time, and was pleasantly surprised. "I came to get this reindeer with chasing lights on sale," she said. "The lines weren't bad. It was very nice. You could get right through."

Jim Watson and daughter Stephanie Watson came to pick up a gift, "and because we needed some things to finish our Christmas decorations."

Canton's Muzaffar Uddin and his family came to Kmart after seeing "the ad in the paper. We came for washing soap and gifts, too," he said.

Luella Hoffman, walking through Plymouth's Westchester Mall, said she "hasn't shopped on this day, because we usually go up north. It was a little hard to get a parking place, but I came to start my Christmas shopping," she said.

Diane Vidovic of Canton and her mother, Theresa Gregel, also were shopping in Plymouth, and headed to a sale at Maggie & Me Boutique.

"We don't usually shop on this day; we stay away," said Vidovic. "We're just here because this offers some place nice to go."

Resting on a bench, Gergel agreed. "At the mall, I couldn't sit. The benches would be all filled."

Ann Herrington of Dearborn and Joe Voss of Plymouth both brought their out-of-state guests downtown to shop.

"We're just wandering about," said Harrington, browsing with her parents, natives of Plymouth who now live in Indiana.

"My son and grandson are here from Rockford, Ill.," said Voss. "They like the town so well we came down."

Locals William and Mike Consiglio were a little less enthused.

Sitting patiently and peering from a bench into the store where their mother was shopping, not much was visible besides doilies and teddy bears.

"I'd rather be having lunch," said William, 9.

"I'd rather be playing outside," said Mike, 11.

The trip wasn't a total loss, though. "They have free samples of soup, salsa, bread and gingermen in there," said the brothers. "It's pretty good."

State wants to audit county road funds

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

The state auditor general wants to audit the Wayne County Road Commission and examine the county's use of state and federal transportation funds for roads.

The audit came at the request of state Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton. Bennett and Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack wonder how much in state road funds are earmarked for Wayne County, and how much Canton should receive each year.

Wayne County has spent $368 million in roads between 1994-96 and has budgeted $119 million for 1997, much of which is funded by the state. State officials estimate that about $50 million goes to the county for roads annually.

County officials told the state auditor general's office on Monday that they will allow auditors access to information wanted by Auditor General Thomas McTavish in a Freedom of Information Act request.

But the audit request was criticized by one county official who called it "political maneuvering" and a "waste" of tax dollars.

FOIA requests filed

Canton Township first filed an FOIA with Wayne County in August requesting information on county revenue received from federal, state and local sources from 1992-95 based on Canton's road mileage, and expenditures for road maintenance, new road construction, street sweeping and marking for those same years.

The township also requested the number of miles of primary and secondary roads used in the use of transportation funds earmarked for Canton. Canton also requested the same information from the county for the cities of Westland and Livonia.

Yack said he and other township officials wanted information on how much the county spent in Canton Township from the revenue collected from the gas and weight tax and how much money collected for primary and local roads.

"The perception was that money is collected here, but not a lot is spent here," Yack said.

Yack said Canton needs work on its north-south county roads, namely Lilley and Sheldon roads. And while Canton Center and Morton Taylor have been promised improvements, those have yet to be completed, Yack said.

"For a community our size — 67,000 people — we have no five-lane roads in Canton except for Ford Road," Yack said.

Bennett, who also is the Senate's vice chairman of financial services committee and member of local, urban and state affairs committee, asked Canton not to file a lawsuit when he heard from Yack that Canton did not receive any information. Instead he asked McTavish to audit the Wayne County Road Commission for the years of 1993-96.

"With the extreme passion that is out there with discussions of a gas tax, and that it is needed for the roads, we should check the numbers (of state road money) to be sure before we really start talking about that," Bennett said.

State law permits the office of the Auditor General to audit the disposition of revenue received by county road commissions or county boards of commissioners, cities and villages for transportation purposes to determine compliance with terms and conditions.

But county officials believe that state law is unconstitutional.

Attorney general opinion

Jennifer Granholm, Wayne County's corporation counsel, cited a 1984 opinion by state Attorney General Frank Kelley in which Kelley stated that the auditor general had no power to audit the city of Detroit and its distribution of funds for the Detroit Institute of Arts. Kelley also stated the auditor general's duties are limited to audits of "financial transactions and accounts of the state and of all branches, departments, offices, boards, commissions, agencies, authorities and institutions of the state" established by the Michigan constitution.

Granholm called the audit a "waste" because the state Department of Transportation already audits the road funds, along with the county's auditor general's office.

"That's a political maneuver done by the Legislature, trying to attack a Democratic county executive," Granholm said. "It's an incredible waste to duplicate and triplicate audits already completed.

"I'm sure the people who pay tax money for public roads and services would find it wasteful and political."

But those audits only provide the state with summary reports with only general information, Bennett said, adding that the county should not have "a problem" opening up the books.

In the FOIA request, McTavish sent a letter to County Executive Edward McNamara requesting access to detailed files and payroll records.

McTavish wants access to 38 separate categories, including work order cost reports, labor and material cost reports, overhead costs from maintenance,

Conference to address mentoring

When hiring new teachers in Michigan, administrators of K-12 public schools must develop mentoring programs which are meaningful and work.

"Mentoring New Teachers," a half-day conference targeted to assist these administrators, will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 4 at Madonna University in Livonia.

Registration begins at 8 a.m. and the program concludes at 12:30 p.m. The conference presenter will be Carolyn Logan of the Michigan Department of Education and the event will also feature Henry Cade, of Wayne County Regional Education Service Agency, who will discuss mentoring in the United States.

On the agenda will be a review of the requirements for the legislated mentoring programs, available support for and the role of administrators, and a presentation of future concerns regarding the mandates.

The cost for this conference is $45 per person; $40 per person for two individuals registering from the same institution at the same time; or $35 for three or more individuals registering from the same institution at the same time.

For more information, call the College of Continuing and Professional Studies at (313) 432-5731.

The University is committed to working with teachers from pre-service teaching through the entire career life of a professional teacher. In future semesters, graduate credit courses will be offered in relation to the mentoring process.

Madonna remembers accident victims

Madonna University will be holding its annual Remembrance Tree Dedication from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Take 6 Lounge near Kresge Hall on campus.

The Remembrance Tree is dedicated to all the victims of alcohol- and substance abuse-related traffic accidents. There is no charge and the public is invited to attend.

Madonna University's Legal Assistant Club is sponsoring the event and will be distributing ribbons provided by Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) at the event.

Guest speaker will be Jacque Martin-Downs, director of Hegira Prevention, and author of "The Best 10 Values Every Child Needs."

The ceremony will include the sharing of stories, passages from scripture, poems and singing.

New hires

Focus is on communication, personnel

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

In a controversial move, Plymouth-Canton school officials succeeded in convincing the Board of Education to hire two central office staffers last Tuesday night — one in communications and the other in personnel.

Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for employee relations and personnel, told the board that this isn't a case of adding "willy nilly" to the central office staff, but a pressing need.

In the personnel area, that involves health care administration, Goldman said.

Under terms of newly-signed employee contract, school staff members now have a choice of health care providers between two Blue Cross plans and one preferred provider plan. The measure was pushed by the district as a money saver for the district.

The communications clerk is needed immediately to assist Donna Aveck, director of computer services and instructional technology, Goldman said. Aveck has been working long days, building phone mailboxes and reviewing voice mail for the district's 1,600 lines, leaving little time for instructional technology.

"Cabinet is concerned about the Donna's additional workload, and how we address this particular need," said Goldman. The cabinet is comprised of top administrators from each of the district's departments, and three principals.

■ 'I would encourage the board to think of a new employee not simply as a $26,000 position. If we hired a person for 25 years, and assumed that their pay would never go up, the long-term cost would be $1.2-$1.5 million.'

Michael Malony
–school board treasurer

"We continue to reduce support staff. But the work maintains, or increases," Goldman added. "Current staffing levels are causing an impediment to any systemic change we are looking at. We have gridlock in the organization because of our staffing levels."

The board has heard the requests earlier but was reluctant to add to the payroll.

"We heard what you said before, but feel this is important enough that we should bring this back," Goldman said. "We need to have these positions to get the job done."

Board treasurer Michael Maloney said he'd like to "see us get into the regular habit of looking at a head count on paper. I would encourage the board to think of a new employee not simply as a $26,000 position. If we hired a person for 25 years, and assumed that their pay would never go up, the long-term cost would be $1.2-$1.5 million."

Superintendent Charles Little said that in Plymouth-Canton schools, "the history is not there that you get a job for life. We've seen this the last several years."

Maloney also inquired about having Ameritech handle some of Aveck's phone duties and asked that long-term plans be established for departments, and that goals and objectives be outlined for new employees — something he's requested before.

Goldman and Little said that can be done, but that it's a time-consuming task that doesn't take precedence.

"We are a highly people-oriented organization," said Little. "We need to deal with people first, and paper second."

Trustee Carrie Blamer said she surveyed nearby districts to compare staffing. "I'm not exactly sure that throwing another employee in is always going to solve the problem if there doesn't seem to be a plan," she said. "We will never know if we can do it a different way until we try it a different way."

Trustee Jack Farrow said, "If Chuck Little believes we need another person, it's good enough for me. We hold him responsible for the operation of the school district."

The board ultimately passed both motions, with Maloney voting against the hirings.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS

Following is recent information about developments in the Canton community, as provided by Canton's Municipal Services Department:

■ Planning Services is considering site plan with special land use approval for Evola Music, a 11,983-square-foot facility proposed for a location south of Koppernick and east of Haggerty. The building will include warehousing, showroom, lesson and office space for the piano and organ company.

■ Planning Services is considering a site plan with land use approval for Haggerty II Corporate Park, a research park proposed for 100 acres south of Palmer, on both sides of Haggerty. The site plan shows the general layout of the proposed project. The project sponsor will eventually have to submit individual site plans for each building.

■ Canton's Planning Commission will hold its next meeting on Monday, Dec. 2 at 7 p.m. in the main meeting room of the Administration building.

■ Construction is scheduled to begin soon on the D.R. Group Specialty Building, located on Haggerty and Michigan Ave.

■ Infrastructure work is scheduled to begin soon on Cherry Hill Knoll Estates, a 47-home subdivision located on 23 acres north of Cherry Hill and east of Beck. Mass grading of this project has already begun.

For more information about project development in Canton, call Canton Planning Services at (313) 397-5390. Questions about infrastructure improvements and new subdivision construction should be directed to Canton Engineering Services at (313) 397-5405 and Public Works at (313) 397-5441. For assistance with building and ordinance issues, call anton Building & Inspection Services at (313) 397-5400.

completed, every light in every room was turned on," she recalled. "We all stood outside and admired the lights coming from every room in the house."

Parks' mother, Alta, grew geraniums in her bay window. It was filled with tiers of the flowers. "She always figured to have them come into bloom for Decoration Day because the people coming to the cemetery always had to get off (the DUR) at Geddes Road right in front of our house. She sold the geraniums, and usually lilacs were in bloom. She sold bouquets of them to people who took them to the cemetery to put on the graves."

First librarian

Stories included memories of Zehra Palmer who was one of Alta's best friends. On the running board of her Ford coupe, Palmer had a big trunk. She'd fill it with books and set out for Canton, but she'd stop along the way to let Alta take her choice first. Palmer also lent books out of her personal library.

Parks explained that there are not many snapshots from that era because cameras were not common. Some of her family's few photos came from Palmer. "She was the first person we knew who had a camera," she said. "She took pictures and was very generous with them."

That was a time when you didn't need to lock your doors. "The best thing was that we knew everyone and everyone knew us."

To illustrate this small-town warmth, Crichton related a story that involved some Catholic children.

"In those days, Catholics were not allowed to step inside a Protestant church," she explained. "I can remember always on Christmas Eve, we left our church doors open, so those children could stand on the steps. And then when the (church members) passed out candy, they always went out with the candy, they always went out and passed them a sack of candy, too."

Virginia Bailey Parker is a Canton resident, historian and author. She provides the Observer with a series of stories from interviews with longtime residents and their memories of rural Canton Township. The videotaped interviews are at the Canton Historical Society Museum for viewing by the public.

"There's been a couple of incidents where soccer games had to be moved from Heritage Park because of the unsanitary conditions," said township Supervisor Tom Yack.

At Pheasant Run Golf Club, Operations Manager Kevin Mill has tried everything except use a clay explosive gopher to rid the links of the ducks and other waterfowl. He said he's used hot sauce, firecrackers, and dogs. The township also spent an estimated $10,000 for a sweeper and maintenance person to clean up the course, said Mill, who also oversees the problem on park grounds.

Canton officials blame the public feeding of waterfowl for the increased population. However, resident Bob Boyer of Boyer's Meat Processing, who raises ducks, disagrees.

The numerous retention ponds springing up in new subdivisions attract the birds, he said.

"I understand that there is a problem, but they're always going to have a problem over there with the ducks and geese because of all the open bodies of water — even if no one feeds them," Boyer said.

Homeowner Nancy Spencer said she plans to continue her daily feeding routine in the park.

"Well, they're going to have a hard time enforcing it because I'm not going to stop feeding the ducks. They'll starve to death if I don't feed them," said Spencer, a resident who is president of the Canton Homeowner Association and Canton Goodfellows.

She added: "They're going to have to drag me off to jail."

Spencer feeds corn and bread to two brown and two white domestic ducks at Heritage Park. Several ducklings at Pheasant Run have moved to the large pond at the Summit because the little pond at the golf course froze over, she said.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources opposes the feeding of wild waterfowl at any time of the year except under certain emergency conditions, according to information gathered by Parks and Recreation Superintendent Mike Gouin. Some foods, such as bread and popcorn, are not a balanced diet and the feeding of birds also encouraged waterfowl to remain in the area, according to the information from the DNR's wildlife division.

"I feed my birds here a lot of bread it never hurt them. I never heard of that," said Boyer.

He also feeds the ducks shell corn (whole corn) or cracked corn.

Boyer said although the ordinance would be specific to public feeding and not private feeding, he is opposed to it. "Then, the next thing you know is (there's a ban) on private feeding," he added.

The township board reviewed a draft ordinance at a recent study session, but has yet to schedule the issue for official consideration.

which extends through several communities, including Westland and Canton. One of several entrances is located off of Koppernick Road. Another $300,000 is earmarked for the lower Rouge canoe trail.

"We're in the midst of developing a project schedule. Those (Canton's) projects have not been identified as being immediate, but they will be completed within three to five years," said Wayne County Parks Director Hurley Coleman.

He said some of the immediate projects countywide include:

■ a master parks plan to study the entire park system

■ a $7 million water park for Detroit's Chandler Park and

■ $2 million for Hines Park picnic area improvements that will include playscapes, soccer fields and roller hockey facilities.

The county parks and recreation department will have a finite schedule and timeline for projects after the first of the year, Coleman said.

The tax increase is projected to raise $7.9 million in 1997, $8.1 million in 1998, $8.2 million in 1999 and $8.4 million in 2000. Along with parks improvements the money will be used to increase parks staffing and provide for maintenance of the parks.

The Wayne County parks millage represents less than 1 percent of residents' overall taxes.

Canton Township Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter said tax bills were sent out this week. An average homeowner will receive a tax bill of approximately $1,400 based on an average

Community group wants new schools built

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

Plymouth-Canton voters should be asked in March to approve a bond issue of $90 million to $100 million to fund construction of a new high school and two elementary schools in Canton.

The bond also would raise money to renovate existing schools and to buy land in Canton for a middle school to be built with a future bond issue when enrollment warrants.

That was the consensus Saturday at the Community Forum, a group of about 70 Plymouth-Canton Community school officials, employees, and parents who brainstormed with district consultants about how to house students in the future. Saturday's was the final meeting of a series of sessions held this fall.

For the owner of a home valued at $100,000, the yearly tax increase for a $100 million bond issue would amount to an estimated $107. The owner of a $200,000 home would pay an extra $213. The owner of a $300,000 home would pay $319.

"The soonest we would see buildings would be the fall of 1998 or 1999," said consultant Doug LaFerle of Roy G. French Associates of Port Huron and Rochester.

Roy French and the Illinois firm of Perkins & Will were hired for $35,000-$65,000 to help the district plan the bond issue.

Most participants recommended that the board ask voters for the money in one ballot proposal, as opposed to separate ballot issues tied to specific projects. Some said projects would be easier to sell to voters if presented individually.

At the conclusion of their third session early Saturday afternoon, forum participants broke up into small groups to rank options.

A majority favored a third high school to be built on school-owned property at Joy and Beck roads.

While the school would be separate from Plymouth-Canton Educational Park, it would be built on the same large tract of land.

The "flexible program" high school would house 1,600-1,800 students in four "houses" of 400-500 students.

"The assumed program would include educational, administrative and support spaces comparable to the existing high school facilities," said consultants in their report. "It would be designed in zones, or "houses" to allow for the possibility of separating age-grade level or program.

"In addition, it may house some specialty spaces (not an auditorium) and some physical education (including a gymnasium, stadium and athletic fields, but no pool)."

There was strong support for a "neighborhood" elementary school to be built in southwest Canton, and to keep costs down by trading land already owned by the district for a site in that area.

A majority also favored a plan to build an elementary school on property currently owned by the district.

Renovation of all existing schools was strongly supported. Many parents asked why refurbishing isn't ongoing.

August Battaglia of Perkins & Will said that across the country, school districts and communities have entered into partnerships, constructing schools designed to serve both students and the community.

"There's no reason why schools can't be going 'til 11 at night, offering classes for adults on 'Windows 95' and all sorts of things. Schools don't have to be just for 10-year-olds," he said, adding that such schools are more palatable to voters.

A four-year Canton resident, Chris Hail is a Ford Motor Co. executive who took part in the forum. In small group discussion, he made the point that a growing number Plymouth-Canton voters are business people who deal with hard numbers.

If the district is going to be successful in selling the bond to voters, it needs to disseminate facts and figures, he said. "When I look at a tax, it's 'no' until I'm convinced otherwise. Show me facts. Don't give me horror stories, and don't paint me over-rosy scenarios," said Hail, who moved here from San Francisco, Calif.

Hail recommended that the bond amount be kept under $100 million.

One resident asked where the money will come from to operate new schools.

"The board of education has said it won't vote for any bond issue unless there is money available for operations," said LaFerle.

School board member Jack Farrow, taking part in a small group session, commented, "Once burned, twice shy." After building its two newest schools – Bentley and Tonda Elementary – the district delayed opening them for a year due to lack of funds.

10 local properties are eyed for national historic designation

STAFF WRITER

Ten of 25 Canton homes surveyed by architectural historians have been recommended for placement on the National Register of Historic Places.

Of the other 15, one is being demolished this week and another faces the wrecking ball.

For the survey, the Canton Historic District Commission selected 25 homes that members considered to have historic value to the community. The survey was funded by a state grant and compiled by the firm of Kosky & Glenn Associates.

Township trustee and historic district commission member Melissa McLaughlin said the group expected only a few of the properties to be selected for the honorary designation. They were very surprised to see 10 properties nominated, she said.

"It's nice to hear that we're one that was chosen to the national registry and one of the most desirable. We put a lot of work into it," said Nancy Robinson, owner of the Markell House, also known as the Dingleday House.

Nancy and husband Ted moved into the home on Haggerty, just south of Ford Road, in September of 1995. Since then, they invested between $20,000 and $30,000 on the home's restoration, including redoing the pine floors. They also laid brick in the driveway that was obtained from the Riviera Theater on Grand River in Detroit.

They will be applying for national registry designation for several reasons: to offset expenses with tax credits and to protect their home from possible commercial development. Reports have circulated for several years that a cinemaplex might be built on the property to the north of their home.

The Stein-Smith House, 41822 Michigan, will be torn down this week. The property has been for sale since the death of its owner several years ago. The heirs of the estate have decided to demolish the Tudor Revival house to lower the taxes and make the property more marketable for sale, said McLaughlin.

The other home in jeopardy of being torn down is the Taylor House, 5303 Sheldon Road, according to Louis Fischer. His uncle had lived in the home.

Fischer and his wife, Mabel, live across the street at 4896 Sheldon, a home built by Fischer's grandfather in 1897. The cross-gable farmhouse with Queen Anne details sat on 140 acres when John Fischer built it, said Louis Fisher. It now sits on nine acres. The original woodwork is still intact, he said.

The national registry is primarily an honorary designation, although property owners who qualify can receive a 25 percent tax credit if it is used as commercial or rental residential property, said Canton Township Clerk Terry Bennett, also a member of the historic district commission. The state's Mathieu Gast Act also prevents assessment increases on any restoration. The state Senate is also considering a bill that will give a 25 percent tax credit to homes designated historic, said Bennett. The bill is currently in committee.

Locally, the Canton Historic District Commission can designate a home as "historic," which would prevent it from being torn down and protect it from encroaching development, said McLaughlin.

In turn, homeowners would be required to ask the historical commission when making improvements to ensure the renovations are compatible to the history of the home.

The properties on the survey aren't automatically designated as "historic" by the local commission. Owners would have to apply for that designation.

Selected for recommendation on the National Register of Historic Places are the following Canton properties:

Kinyon, 7675 Ridge Road. Built in 1850 by Orrin and Roxanna Kinyon, the home is a one-and-one-half story double pile house.

Hanford, 6430 N. Ridge Road. The Greek Revival farmhouse with asbestos shingles retains its cornices and front portico with square Doric columns. It was built in 1838 by Henry and Margaret Hanford.

Gilmore, 6205 N. Ridge Road. A one-and-one-half story Greek Revival house built with post-and-beam construction in 1840 by John Patterson. Still inhabited by descendants of Patterson.

Boldman, 3339 Canton Center. One of the few (possibly only) remaining examples of this type of Greek Revival architecture form of the basilica type. David Boldman bought the property in 1839 and the house was built between 1840 and 1845.

Blackman, 500 Ridge Road. A vernacular double pile house with Italianate details. Probably built as Greek Revival Upright-and-Wing house. Around 1860, it was enlarged in two full stories and the rear added. The wrap-around porch was added in 1915. The original house built by Darius Blackman about 1838.

Smith, 3704 Sheldon Road. A vernacular brick L-shaped house with addition of Victorian decorative detailing. Built in 1904, it remained in the Smith family until 1994. The property also includes smokehouse, outhouse and two water pumps.

Markell, 1638 Haggerty. Upright-and-Wing form with Gothic Revival and Italianate architectural details. The double upright feature is unusual and the amount of detailing makes it exceptionally fine example of vernacular architectural ingenuity. Original house built in 1843 in Greek Revival style by Levi Markell. Larger gable front section and Victorian details added 1865-72. Also known as the Doubleday house. The Doubleday family lived there 1877 to 1923. They were active in community affairs and politics.

Holbrook, 43655 Joy Road. An example of Gable-front-and-wing house built in Greek Revival style. Original part of house built in 1835 with additions or improvement in 1858 and 1870. Outbuildings include barn, granary, pump house, smokehouse, outhouse, windmill, silos and barn foundation. One of the most complete farmsteads in the survey.

Bradford, 48145 Warren Road. Two-story end-gable house with symmetrical three bay facade built in Greek Revival style around 1835. The larger two-story section was added in 1860. The one-story section was removed from the house and moved across Warren Road around 1908. Farm producer of sweet corn until 1992. The property has been in the Bradford and Wisely-Palmer families since original land grant in 1826.

Sheldon Inn, 44134 Michigan Ave. A state historic site that became known as Sheldon Corners, the Greek Revival building originally was the home of Timothy and Rachel Sheldon who settled on the site in 1825. Because of its location on Chicago Road, it became the stagecoach stop and resting place for pioneers and travelers.

Thanksgiving Day

Native Americans celebrate, but never forget their roots

BY CASEY HANS
STAFF WRITER

Thanksgiving is often thought of as a time to celebrate – a remembrance of when Pilgrims and Indians shared a meal and hospitality.

But for those with North American Indian heritage, it is sometimes fraught with mixed emotions, because of the problems which developed between those who had lived on this continent and those who migrated here from Europe.

"We generally, as a family, just go along with the traditional day," said E.J. McClendon, a member of the Choctaw nation who grew up in Oklahoma who has lived in Plymouth Township for 31 years. "But we often look on Thanksgiving with mixed emotion.

"We were invited to the table and we provided most of the food the Pilgrims ate. We kept them alive.

"It's so sad to think of what these relationships turned into, when they wanted our homes, our land."

Traditional foods

Despite the thoughts that come this time of year, the traditional foods, such as turkey, yams and pumpkin are all foods shared by the McClendon family, as they were by the early Pilgrims and Native Americans. He said he is rather ambivalent about it, "but I enjoy the holiday and what it offers," he said. "We have a lot to be thankful for."

Like many different cultural groups, those with North American Indian heritage must integrate their cultural beliefs with the those of a dominant society with a white European background.

Geo Fuhst, a Chippewa Indian, is a self-employed electrical contractor, a long-time resident of Redford Township and a member of the Redford Union Board of Education.

■ 'Our Thanksgiving is, of course, not done once a year . . . We have Thanksgiving every day. It's more like a mutual reverence of everything in nature.'

Geo Fuhst
Native American, Redford

He explained that the Native American view of Thanksgiving is as diverse as the 500 different nations that make up the North American Indian culture. "We are as diverse as the different European communities," he said. "It's hard to speak for everybody."

However, most North American Indians "have assimilated to society. We're hard to identify, because we don't wear feathers to work or ride horses, obviously."

He said he wants people to be able to look beyond the picture of the first Thanksgiving, and relate to a contemporary view of Native American culture.

"Our Thanksgiving is, of course, not done once a year," he said. "Our religion is based on connection to Mother Earth and Father Sky and all the plants and animals.

"We have Thanksgiving every day. It's more like a mutual reverence of everything in nature."

Special ceremonies

His family will have a special ceremony this week on Thanksgiving Day. "We let each family member choose one favorite dish," he said. "Everyone then goes around (the table) and says 'thank you.' For us, it's not the first day of Christmas season – that's for sure."

Fuhst is a member of a newly formed southeast Michigan group called Indian World, which is trying to help educate the general population about North American Indian culture.

He explained that the shared philosophy is about "living in balance with everything around you" which sometimes is in opposition to the general population.

"We don't set up territorial squabbles," he explained. "Owning property is not like trying to own your grandmother," he added.

In an effort to continue the North American Indian teachings the Indian World group has applied through Oakland University to set up a public charter school academy called the Turtle Island Learning Circle to teach Indian-based education. They are currently looking for a school site.

President of Indian World, Adrienne Brant James, a Southfield resident, is a seventh-generation grandchild of the Ontario Brants who led the Iroquois confederacy there.

A Mohawk, she also views Thanksgiving as an everyday event. She said often people use tobacco-burning as an offering for peace and a ceremonial gesture. It can be done collectively as part of a special ceremony, she said, or individually.

The ceremony "is an acknowledgement and giving of thanks for all of creation and what nature gives us," she said. "It's really kind of a simple thing – it's what makes this creation perfect."

Brant James shares the same frustration with other North American Indians about the traditional Thanksgiving day: "Without the natives who saved the lives of the people who came here, there wouldn't be anything to give thanks for."

That the Pilgrims "turned on the Indians and wiped them out is symbolic of what's taken place here" in this country, she added.

Bennett gets party line vote on 'judicial taxation'

Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, had to settle for a largely partisan victory when the state Senate approved his resolution seeking to curb "judicial taxation."

Senate Concurrent Resolution 278 asks the U.S. Congress to submit to the states a constitutional amendment prohibiting federal courts from ordering local governments to increase taxes to settle cases.

The vote was 23-9 with six not voting. Voting yes were 20 Republicans, including all area Republicans, plus three Democrats, including Gary Peters of Bloomfield Township.

Bennett said the Supreme Court in a 1990 Missouri case upheld the right of a federal court to impose state and local taxes, and 246 similar cases have been brought to the courts. "The Supreme Court, with one sweeping decision, doffed the robe of judge and donned the role of legislator." In that case, the court ordered Kansas City property tax rates raised from $20.50 to $40 per $1,000 of valuation – a total of $1.6 billion.

All nine opposing votes were cast by Democrats, including George Z. Hart of Dearborn and Alma Wheeler Smith of Salem.

Four Democratic senators – including Hart and Smith – issued formal protests in the Senate Journal, saying Bennett's resolution would "limit the ability of the federal courts to address historical discrimination. . . The only thing state government has to say is, 'We're not going to pay.'"

No expungement

Five criminal sexual offenses will be added to the list that will remain on an offender's record forever under a bill sponsored by Sen. Mike Rogers, R-Brighton.

The Senate Judiciary Committee reported out Rogers' bill to add first-, second- and third-degree criminal sexual assault; assault with intent to commit sexual penetration; and assault with intent to commit second-degree conduct.

Currently, only crimes involving life sentences and traffic offenses remain on an offender's record for life. "A sexual offender cannot hide behind a record from which serious crimes have been expunged," said Rogers.

Clinton County Prosecutor Chuck Sherman, in testimony, said, "Sex offenders are more likely to re-offend than any other class of criminals. This bill will help assure that anyone convicted of a sex offense can never again work their way into a position of trust or authority over potential victims."

"Long over due," added Livingston Prosecutor David Morse of the bill. "Parents have a right to know if sex offenders are living or working in their community."

permit and various county yards, bid packages and contracts documentation for state transportation funds.

Granholm expects the county will allow the state access to the records in the FOIA sometime in early or mid-December.

Granholm said the county did not have the attached list with the FOIA request in the original letter and finally received the list on Nov. 25.

"We have requested a 10-day extension," Granholm said.

State legislation

Bennett believes part of the problem is the complexity of the road funding formula in the state transportation act. Bennett said there is "no easy way" to figure out the number of dollars going to the township.

Bennett introduced an amendment to a legislative package that would distribute funds directly to townships — and bypassing county governments — to allow townships to award their own road repair contracts or continue to contract with the county. The bill passed in the Senate on Oct. 2.

As of Wednesday the bills remain in a House Transportation committee as part of the transportation reform package. Bennett was not confident that bill would be acted on this year as only a few legislative sessions remain.

Little progress has been reported in the House Transportation committee, Bennett said.

Bennett was asked what made him think a township would administrate a project better than the county. "I don't know, but the townships would know what's going on."

Wayne County hired former Gov. Jim Blanchard in some kind of consulting or lobbying role, Bennett said. Bennett wanted to know what is the cost, and length, of that contract.

"These are important questions," Bennett said.

"I'm not here to criticize, but to support it. But to support it, I need to know what's going on."

Metroparks director to retire

William P. Sherman on Jan. 10 will end a 40-year career with Huron-Clinton Metroparks, where he started work as a Metro Beach summer beach patrol officer and rose to direct the 13-park operation.

For $1.12 an hour, Sherman's 1957 duties "consisted of directing the parking of cars in the lot, and showing people where to walk, swim and sit. During slow periods, I picked up paper and cigarette butts," Sherman recalled.

"During my very early years, the direction of the Metroparks was land acquisition and development of basic facilities. The pattern was to purchase the land, develop a few picnic areas, a water facility and a nature interpretive center along with some trails.

"Since those early years. . . we have added more facilities: modern tot lots, dance and concert programs, court game areas, boat launches, winter sports and great golf courses," said Sherman-in a farewell column in the agency's newsletter.

The seven-member board of directors is seeking a replacement. Since the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (its formal name) was formed 55 years ago, it has promoted from within, although in 1988 it interviewed more than a dozen candidates from inside and outside the system before promoting Sherman.

"During his eight years as director," said Dave Moilanen, public information officer, "the authority opened a new park, Wolcott Mills, and added many new facilities – the Marshlands Museum and Nature Center, and an 18-hole golf course at Lake Erie; a paved hike-bike trail and Washago Pond activities complex at Willow; and the activities building at Metro Beach."

The five-county HCMA now has 13 parks and an operating budget of more than $42 million. It is financed by a property tax of 25 cents per $1,000 of valuation plus vehicle entry permits, which will remain unchanged next year: $15 for an annual pass, $18 for an annual boat launch pass, free entry and boat launching on Wednesdays.

During the 1980s, HCMA moved its central office from rented quarters in a Detroit office building on the Livingston-Oakland counties border on the west end of Kensington Metropark, the largest and most popular unit in the system.

A native of St. Joseph, Mo., Sherman earned a bachelor of science degree from Northwest Missouri State, where he lettered in football, and a master of education degree from the University of Arkansas.

He came to Michigan in 1953 to teach and coach in Roseville schools.

Safety zone

Rep. Deborah Whyman's bill to allow expanded school traffic safety zones passed the House of Representatives 88-0, and drew support of 37 members who asked to be named co-sponsors. Whyman, R-Canton, drafted House Bill 5847 in response to a problem at her local Hulsing Elementary School, where 315 children have to cross Morton Taylor Road with a 40 mph speed limit. She thinks it will apply to many other schools as Michigan drivers increase their love affair with fast driving.

Under the current vehicle code, a "school zone" can't exist more than 1,000 feet from the property line. HB 5847 would allow the superintendent of schools to ask road officials for a "school crossing" designation on roads with speed limits of 35 mph or more, even if they're more than 1,000 feet from the school. School officials will have to submit traffic pattern studies to the road agency.

It will be up to the road agency to determine whether a 25 speed limit, flashing light or red-green traffic signal is the appropriate response, Whyman said.

The bill goes to the Senate, which has until the end of the year to act

Mack appointed

Wayne County Probate Judge Milton Mack is part of a 21-member task force appointed by the state Supreme Court to find better ways to protect the interests of persons under the care of a guardian or conservator.

Beginning work in January, the panel of judges, lawyers and other officials will explore ways to improve court rules, management policies, and statues while maximizing the independence of protected persons. Calhoun Probate Judge Phillip Harter will chair the panel.

Madonna University dean to serve on national nursing home board

Karen Ross of Madonna University in Livonia has been named a member of the National Association of Boards of Examiners for Nursing Home Administrators (NAB) and will serve on its Education Committee.

Ross is dean of Madonna University's College of Social Sciences and is a Farmington Hills resident.

The mission of the NAB, based in Washington D.C., is to enhance the effectiveness of state boards of nursing home administrators in meeting their statutory and regulatory duties and responsibilities to protect the health, safety and welfare of the public.

Ross joined Madonna University in 1985 as an instructor in the gerontology department and was appointed dean of the College of Social Sciences in 1991. She earned her bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and a doctorate from Wayne State University.

Ross also has a specialist in aging certificate from the University of Michigan.

Madonna University, celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1997, is an independent liberal arts university. It offers men and women associate's and bachelor's degrees in more than 50 professional areas of study, including long-term care administration.

Madonna also awards master's degrees in the diverse areas of business, education, hospice, health services administration and nursing.

Christmas wish: Howard Langston, (Arnold Schwarzenegger) promises his son, Jamie (Jake Lloyd) that he will buy him the most sought-after toy of the season — Turbo Man in "Jingle All the Way."

'Jingle All the Way' lacks cheer

BY BOB THOMAS
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

The trouble with a one-joke movie is that the joke had better be very funny. The one in "Jingle All the Way" isn't.

What was intended to spread Christmas cheer through the holiday season emerges as a downer that a slam-bang special effects finale can't rescue.

The joke: busy executive spends Christmas Eve searching all over town for the only toy his young son wants.

Arnold Schwarzenegger is a hard-driving mattress factory boss who neglects his wife (Rita Wilson) and son (Jake Lloyd). After the father fails to appear at his son's karate demonstration, he vows to make amends. The son is fixated on a TV hero, Turbo Man, and wants to own the much-advertised replica.

But Turbo Man is the hit of the buying season, and it can't be found in any store. Schwarzenegger tries a number of ploys, growing desperate as each one fails.

His quest puts him in competition with another frustrated father, a mailman (Sinbad), who also needs a Turbo Man to square himself at home. Wherever Schwarzenegger goes, Sinbad follows, and their mutual quest starts getting physical.

Schwarzenegger is duped by a shameless con man posing as Santa (a well-disguised James Belushi), who leads him to a warehouse where a motley crowd of Santas assemble counterfeit toys. This raises the propriety of having children watch Santas portrayed as a bunch of crooks. (And why are they all wearing Santa suits if they work in secret?)

It will come as no surprise that the beleaguered father redeems himself at the end, posing as the real Turbo Man.

What is surprising is that the son and wife believe he is a real Turbo Man despite his Austrian accent.

Randy Kornfield's script is inventive in devising one scrape after another for Schwarzenegger to endure. However, the direction of Brian Levant ("The Flintstones") fails to find any real comedy in the adventures. But then, it's hard to laugh at car crashes, explosions, beatings, house break-ins and the forced takeover of a radio station.

Comedy of frustration requires a deft touch, and Schwarzenegger obviously doesn't have it. Nor does Sinbad fare well with a blustery character that wavers between good guy and bad guy.

Phil Hartman is stuck with the role of the smarmy next-door neighbor considered by the neighborhood women as "the perfect husband" (though he's divorced). And Robert Conrad has a few funny moments as the cop who bedevils Schwarzenegger at every turn.

The best performance is delivered by young Jake Lloyd, perfect as the disappointed son.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Opens Friday, Dec. 6

"DAYLIGHT"
Modern-day disaster movie about the aftermath of an explosion that seals both ends of a tunnel connecting Manhattan with New Jersey. Stars Sylvester Stallone.

Opens Friday, Dec. 13

"THE PREACHER'S WIFE"
Remake of the 1947 movie "The Bishop's Wife," a fable about an angel who comes to Earth to heop a preacher's struggle to maintain a congregation. Stars Denzel Washington, Whitney Houston, Courtney B. Vance and Gregory Hines.

"JERRY MAGUIRE"
Romantic comedy about a sports agent who loses his job through an ill considered act of honor. The story follows his comedic journey ton redemption through an unlikely alliance with a young single mother and his single remaining client. Stars Tom Cruise.

"MARS ATTACK"
From the swank casinos of Vegas, through America's heartland and into the inner sanctum of the Oval Office where even the President sits powerless, "Mars Attacks" casts a comedic eye at the hysterical pandemonium wrought as Americans battle an invasion by little green men from Mars. Led by Jack Nicholson, the cast includes Annette Bening, Pierce Brosnan, Glenn Close, Danny DeVito, and Jessica Parker.

Opens Friday, Dec. 20

"THE CRUCIBLE"
Suspenseful drama of evil and personal conscience based on one of the greatest plays of the 20th century. Stars Daniel Day-Lewis, Winona Ryder, Paul Scofield and Joan Allen.

"MY FELLOW AMERICANS"
Comedy about two unscrupulous ex-U.S. Presidents who have nothing in common but their dislike of one another who find themselves compelled to travel cross country together as they investigate a potential White House scandal involving the current president. Stars Jack Lemmon, James Garner and Dan Aykroyd.

"ONE FINE DAY"
An old-fashioned love story for the cellular age. Two career minded people, one male, the other female, determined never to have love disappoint them again, are thrown together for one chaotic day, the only thing they have in common are identical cellular phones and the fear of letting someone get too close. The last thing they expected was to fall in love. Stars Michelle Pfeiffer and George Clooney.

"RIDICULE"
A lavish and colorful drama set in the age of Louis XVI. The tale of a modest country engineer who travels to court, a place where even the slightest misstep can be fatal. He must focus every once of energy on extracting royal favor. The one thing he must not do is fall in love. Stars Fanny Ardant, Charles Berling, Bernard Giraudeau.

"SCREAM"
A thriller about a small town that comes under siege by a murderer who takes all of his cues from the movies. Stars Neve Campbell, Skeet Ulrich, Courtney Cox, Drew Barrymore and David Arquette.

Holiday House open until Dec. 8

A headline in Thursday's At Home incorrectly implied that the The Detroit Symphony 1996 Holiday House and Boutique would be opening Dec. 8. As the story correctly noted, the Holiday House is now open and closes Dec. 8.

A picture of the Symphony's Holiday House at 780 Vaughan Road in Bloomfield Hills, and more information on the house will run in Thursday's At Home.

The 1996 Holiday House hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. Thursday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets may be bought for $6 per person in advance from The Village Barn gift shop, 32760 Franklin Road in Franklin (call (810) 851-7877), through the DSO Music Box Boutique or by calling (810) 646-9186. Tickets also may be bought for $8 per person at the door.

Park aglow with holiday lights

The fourth annual Wayne County LightFest continues through Jan. 1 in Hines Park.

Motorists can enjoy lighted holiday displays set up throughout Hines Park and scheduled to light up evening hours 7-10 p.m. through Jan. 1. Lightfest will be closed Christmas Day.

County Executive Edward McNamara, LightFest sponsors and county commissioners pulled the switch Nov. 21 to kick off the light show at the LightFest entrance.

People who want to view the display will enter Hines Drive at Merriman Road in Westland 2 1/2 miles south of I-96 and proceed eastbound, one way, exiting at Warren Road east of Telegraph in Dearborn Heights. Motorists will be asked for a $5 per vehicle donation.

Westbound Hines will be closed during the display hours.

Parks officials boast that the LightFest is the Midwest's longest drive-through holiday light show. More than 35 displays with 750,000 lights will be powered by more than 400,000 watts of electricity.

And as it does every year, the display has added some variety with new exhibits and twists for the 70,000 cars expected to drive through the display area.

A poinsettia ribbon arch display will be shown near the Merriman Road bridge, lit by 20,000 watts of electricity.

Motorists will be able to drive right through the lights of the poinsettia and under the deer leaping over the road.

Another display features a toy land at the North Pole. It is a combination of a couple of different displays.

That display is located at Perrin Field, just west of Inkster Road.

The event makes about $50,000 annually for the county parks, but that's not the purpose of the display. The event isn't done as a money-maker, but as a benefit for the public.

The $5 donation helps support parks maintenance. That support includes picnic tables, playscapes, picnic areas and baseball diamonds.

Large crowds are expected again.

Food concessions, gift items and Photos with Santa are available at "Santa's Shelter" at the Warrendale picnic area at the exit. Photos with Santa will be $5.

As a special treat for AAA members this year, Michigan Living will feature a $1 off coupon. AAA Michigan's Antique Auto Parade display features a waving Santa reminding drivers to play it safe.

Other displays and sponsors include: poinsettia ribbon arch, NBD Bank; poinsettia wreath, Blue Care Network of Southeast Michigan; American flag, Ameritech; nativity scene, Melody Foods and Ring Screw Works; leaping reindeer, Friends of Wayne County Parks; Parkway express train, NTH Consultants Ltd.; elves' village, Torre & Bruglio; menorah scene, Arbor Drugs and The Farbman Group; gingerbread village, Detroit Edison; Santa's Golf Cart, Friends of Wayne County Parks; and Kwanzaa scene, Lewis, White & Clay, Avis Ford, Lewis & Thompson Agency, First Independence Bank, and Coopers & Lybrand.

North Pole postmark offered this season

The Fairbanks, Alaska Post Office, which includes the North Pole Station, is once again offering its special North Pole postmark this holiday season.

Persons wishing to receive the postmark should do the following:

■ Completely address and apply postage stamps to the envelope or envelopes on which you would like to have the North Pole postmark.

■ Insert the envelope or envelopes into a larger envelope or container.

■ Include a note requesting the North Pole postmark.

Mail to: North Pole Cancellations, US Postal Service, 5400 Mail Trail, Fairbanks, AK 99709-9998

For large orders of addressed and stamped envelopes, the Postal Service recommends sending via Priority or Express Mail. Postmarked cards will enter the mail stream at Fairbanks. North Pole cancellation requests should be received in Fairbanks by Dec. 7.

"This special holiday cancellation is a way to make the holidays a little more special for children," said Carl January, Jr., Detroit district manager, customer service and sales. "The Postal Service endeavors to make the holiday season memorable, festive and bright."

Visit the Postal Service, a non-tax funded agency, on-line at www.usps.gov/.

CROWNING GLORY
Those patients who prefer tooth-colored restorations may be interested to know that significant advances have been made in the fabrication of porcelain crowns. traditionally, a metal substructure was needed to support the porcelain crown. Today, however, the crowns themselves can be reinforced with Lucite and a tooth-colored core material, thereby eliminating the need for the quite-visible metal architecture. In addition, the newer materials sometimes make it possible to prepare teeth more conservatively than with conventional crowns before the crown is bonded with a resin cement, which is tooth-colored. It should be noted that crowns paired with metal substructures are not obsolete. they are still used in restorations of heavy-wear back teeth.
At LIVONIA VILLAGE DENTAL ASSOCIATES, we can take care of all your dental needs, including crowns. Crowns can last from five to more than twenty years, depending on the material used. We're located at 19171 Merriman Road, where all the members of our staff are dedicated to serving you - we will be happy to answer any questions you may have. Our concern is your comfort and confidence - our goal is to help preserve your natural teeth for a lifetime. Please call 478-2110 to schedule an appointment. Smiles are our business.

PIRGIM report lists dangerous toys

By Jennifer Placinto
Staff Writer

Preventing children from being injured or killed while playing with "dangerous" toys is the purpose of the 1996 Trouble in Toyland report, which lists 18 examples of dangerous toys discovered on store shelves.

"Children are still needlessly choking to death on toys and dangerous toys can still be found on toy shelves, despite stronger labeling requirements that went into effect two years ago," said Caroline Schwarz, consumer advocate for Public Interest Research Group in Michigan (PIRGIM) which recently released their annual report on dangerous toys.

PIRGIM members are concerned with the adequate labeling of toys in accordance with the Child Protection Safety Act (CPSA) passed in 1994.

"What we see right now is a phasing out (of old labels)," Schwarz said. However, she added, CPSC did not set a deadline to remove the older labeled products from the shelves.

These older labels may be age specific, but fail to warn of choking hazards. Toys that are 1.25 inches in diameter or less pose a choking hazard for children under 3 and toys that are 1.75 inches in diameter or less are a choking hazard for older youngsters.

The problem with age specific labeling, Schwarz said, is that consumers think it only designates the developmental stage of the child and thus, consumers may purchase these items for younger children.

Increasing the size of toys and toy parts is the most avoidable solution to choking hazards for children. However, for reasons of cost savings and expansion of marketing, some toys are being made with these smaller parts, Schwarz said.

Disney's 101 Dalmations Puppy Pal is one of the toys listed as a choking hazard.

Although the product has a choke warning label, Schwarz said, it is in violation of child safety laws since it has small parts and appeals to children under the age of 3. The "play value" standards apply in this case, Schwarz said.

Toys have play value if they are bright, primary colors, round and chunky and can be operated with a simple push-pull motion.

While choking on toys most frequently occurs in toddlers ages 2 and under, Schwarz was quick point out examples of older children who choked to death on toys, such as a 4-year old who choked on a play guitar string and children as old as 8 and 9 who have choked to death on deflated balloons.

"There are certain types of balloons that are marketed specifically to very young kids," Schwarz said of animal and cartoon character balloons. "We certainly wouldn't mind seeing these gotten rid of."

Schwarz added that she knew of no deaths related to helium balloons made of cellophane.

PIRGIM members also would like to see a limit put on toy pull strings to eliminate strangulation hazards. One toy Schwarz cited as a hazard is Pull Along Pluto, made by Mattel, which has a cord 30 inches in length.

"We think it should be a maximum of 8 inches," Schwarz said.

In the non-profit's group 11 years of operation, PIRGIM reports have resulted in 48 toy recalls and other actions by the CPSC. However, Schwarz noted, consumers have the most influence in the regulation of toys.

One way consumers can make sure toys are choke proof is to bring a toilet paper roll with them when they go shopping. If a toy fits inside the roll, it is a choke hazard, Schwarz said.

To obtain safety tips and the full 1996 'Trouble in Toyland' report, make checks payable for $10 to PIRGIM, 122 S. Main Street, Suite 370, Ann Arbor, MI 48104. To access the report by computer, e-mail with the subject line 'toy' to watchdog@pirg.org.

TASTE BUDS

CHEF LARRY JANES

Forget the house, make gingerbread

When my daughter was two years old I began making gingerbread on an almost weekly basis. Little children seemed to love it —the spicier the better. For special occasions, I would ice this gingerbread with chocolate or lemon frosting. Some days, I split it into layers and would slather raspberry jam all over it. The recipe I used was a nice, traditional one from "Charleston Recipes," the classic cookbook created by the Junior League of Charleston, which I picked up at a book store just down the street from Mother's Restaurant, with a fried oyster po'boy dripping from my lips.

If you ever visit Charleston, pick one up as all good cookbook collections should have a copy.

Seeking perfection

A few years later, I decided to branch out, and after a while, I realized that I was on a quest for the perfect gingerbread. Like most heroic quests, this search has not turned up any ultimates, but I have discovered a few worthy efforts that would definitely fill the void this holiday season.

It is amazing how many people are hooked on gingerbread. People who like it love it and crave it. These people are extremely easy to please, and they are more than willing to help taste the results of your experiments. I generally try out recipes on my kids (confirmed gingerbread fiends, especially when covered with a citrus glaze high in sugar content). I've also made and shipped gingerbread to another victim, Norman Weinstein, a professional food demonstrator and culinary arts teacher who lives in Brooklyn, New York. His idea of heaven is a good science fiction book, and a warm piece of gingerbread.

The sad fact is that gingerbread is on the decline, although it is alive and well in children's books of the 1950s where cheerful housewives ala June Cleaver wait at home for the arrival of their children (i.e. The Beav) at 3 p.m., ready with a great big pan of gingerbread and some ice cold milk. I must have been deprived because I grew up in the 1950s, but my momma never wore pearls and never made gingerbread.

You do not have to be a housebound mother (or father) to make gingerbread. All you need is to put aside an hour or so to mix up the batter and bake it, and then, provided you do not have a huge mob waiting to devour it, it will pay you back for a few days because gingerbread gets better as it ages. I myself never have any around long enough to age, but my English cookbooks assure me that a few days make all the difference in the world.

Sweet conclusions

After years of hands-on experience, I have come to three conclusions about gingerbread: First, the ground ginger must be absolutely fresh. If you, like me, have a quarter-consumed small can of ground ginger covered in dust or other spices from the rack, throw it out. Ginger loses its power after it has been sitting around for nine months or so. If you have access to an ethnic market that sells spices, buy your ginger there or better yet, contact the folks at Rafal Spice in Detroit's famed Eastern Market. (If you plan on doing any holiday cooking this season, refresh your spice cabinet with new spices from Rafal, it's well worth it.) Rafal's is at 2521 Russell in the heart of the bustling Eastern Market area, and is open Monday through Saturday (the best time to shop is during the week when the crowds aren't there). Of course, you can purchase a fresh jar of ginger at the supermarket and it will work just fine.

Second, most recipes are very timid about the quantities of ginger. You can start out mild and end up doubling or tripling the amount. I prefer a heaping tablespoon, which may be too much for the timid, but not enough for others. This is a matter of taste. I suggest you taste the batter before baking. It is still fun to lick the spoon!

Third, never use ordinary molasses. It is simply too bitter, and you don't want bitter gingerbread. Pure cane syrup is the name of the game.

I whole heartedly endorse pure cane syrup made by C.S. Steen Syrup Mills of Abbeville, Louisiana. Four of their twelve ounce cans can be purchased for $10 plus $4.61 shipping (call them at (318)-893-1654). I'm not talking Karo syrup here folks. This is the best. You can also use black or light treacle, a British ingredient available at local fancy food shops or at The Irish Baker, 5472 Schaefer in Dearborn (313) 584-2444.

HOSTESSES

'Deck the Halls'

BY RUTH MOSSOK JOHNSTON
SPECIAL WRITER

Holiday parties mean different things to different people — gatherings can be from the most elaborate to just coffee and cake with a few friends. A wonderful party, whether small or large, elegant or simple, is where you enter the home of your host, and feel welcome.

The month of December does lend itself to going all out — a time of celebration, excess, and indulgence, especially in the area of food. It seems a time when effort is effortless ... or can be made so, by orchestrating properly planned parties and menus.

We would all like to think we have the ability and confidence to serve a surfeit of courses to 50 with ease and elegance. The reality is, not all of us do, or do we care to. Entertaining is as personal as our style of dress. Parties, dinners, and get-togethers should feel comfortable for the host and guests. Everyone has their own traditions and talents — feel a freedom to do what is comfortable.

Three area women share their holiday party plans:

■ Paula Dore-Duffy, Ph.D — research scientist, professor of neurology, chief of the Division of Neuro-Immunology at Wayne State University's School of Medicine, and a resident of Bloomfield Hills, is also a mother of three, and married to Dr. Michael Duffy.

In her spare time, she is a gourmet cook, takes her kids to a variety of activities, sews skating costumes for her daughter, works on many committees, plans elaborate holiday decorations for her home (we are talking a Christmas Tree in every room — trees that all have themes; a Nautical Tree, a Nut Cracker Tree, a Santa Tree, a Pink Tree, Children's Trees — one in each of the kid's rooms, to name a few!), and organizes the Duffy's annual Christmas Day Bash for 50.

This holiday fête on the 25th of December (begins mid-afternoon, and goes through the dinner hour) is not only a sit down event, but formal. Hosts and attendees are properly dressed in festive-dressy-holiday attire.

Rented tables for 6-8 (per table) are delivered days ahead — then elaborately decorated throughout several rooms. Set upon each plate, is a gift, especially chosen for the individual who will be seated in that spot. These beautifully wrapped gifts are hand-picked throughout the year so the "right choices" can be made.

After cocktails and champagne — Christmas carols are sung and accompanied by piano — the children present little piano recitals and then, the elaborate buffet is set.

"Dinner is done with traditional recipes" says Paula. "Spiced meat pate, duck or goose, a rack of lamb or a filet mignon roast (depending on which year), cran-

WISH-BONE DRESSING

Tropical twist: Polynesian Holiday Shrimp Kebabs are a festive appetizer sure to please guests. They are also easy to eat, since shrimp and kebab-sized vegetable and fruit pieces need little or no cutting, and can be prepared ahead of time.

Great finds for the holidays – right to your door

- Want to have your tables set professionally – THE TALENTED TABLE – an entertainment design team of Dorie Miller, Janet Stein, Amy Miller Weinstein and Arleen Miller (One mom, two daughters and a daughter in-law – respectively) have established a new service, based in Bloomfield Hills, to create impeccable and unique table-top arrangements for any special occasion. These four have talent, taste, and great stuff.
  What started out as Mom's compulsion in buying art, cookery items, linens, antiques, decorative items, and dishes – is a unique business concept. I loved Janet's comment regarding her mother – "she doesn't buy one, she buys 3 dozen!" To contact this talented foursome call: (810) 932-1863.
- Bûche de Noël (Yule log) delivered right to your door – Let Le Bistro du Lac bake a delicious traditional Yule Log cake for you. This authentic French restaurant will have their Pastry Chef make your festive sweet ending. This yellow cake is decorated with chocolate frosting to look like bark – meringue mushrooms and candy holly leaves growing out of it. Each log serves 8-10, $26, plus $10 for shipping and handling. To order, call (207) 655-4100, Fax: (207) 655-2472, or E-mail your order: BistroLac@aol.com
- Greenberg's Smoked Turkeys straight from Texas to your front door in a matter of days. The Greenberg's have been smoking only one thing for the past 58 years – turkeys.
  These wonderful smoked birds are hand rubbed inside and out with a secret seasoning mix of spices and salt, completely cooked to perfection over hickory wood in the Greenberg's brick smoke houses, and frozen to maintain their freshness – there are no preservatives! Your beautifully completely cooked bird arrives triple bagged and ready for the trimmings. Place it in your refrigerator until ready for use, if not using six to eight days after its arrival, you can keep it frozen in your freezer for six months.
  The smoked turkey skin is not usually eaten, but makes a great addition to your bones for soup. You can serve this moist delicious turkey; hot, room temperature, or cold.
  Greenberg's smoked turkeys are available year round – they weigh between 6 to 15 pounds – you get the entire bird – not sold as breasts only. The cost is $3.10 per pound plus UPS shipping charges and a $ .25 handling charge (can you believe it in the '90s). Call (903) 595-0725 or FAX: (903) 593-8129

ENTERTAINING TIPS

- In planning your party – determine: what type of party you plan to have – will it be a small intimate affair, a large buffet, a sit down formal dinner for 12, or grazing for 25? Organization is essential! What is your budget? Do you want a caterer or waitstaff?
- If hiring a caterer, book your party far enough in advance to have the party carefully planned.
- Interview your potential caterer – ask lots of questions – discuss menus and the possibility of a tasting? Generally, the food for food prices will be competitive – the extras (wait-staff, bartenders, valet parking, linens, dishes/glassware, and tents) are all priced separately. Most caterers will offer the extras (the Ritz-Carlton will even bring their top-hatted doorman and the red mats if so requested). In the case of the small independent caterer, you may have to make the arrangements for servers, bartenders, rental equipment and all extras on your own.
- Set a catering price and stick to it – don't try to negotiate after you've exceeded your budget. If you add extras, expect to pay for them. Remember to add tax and gratuity to get an accurate figure.
  If one caterer quotes you a price far below the others, it usually does not indicate that you are getting a bargain, but a questionable result. (Reflect back to the contractor that gave you that low bid!)
- Carefully look over rental equipment, make sure it is what you want, and in good condition. Note any problems with equipment – so you wont have to pay for breakage you or your guests didn't cause.
- Make sure you have enough staff present if you want help – general rule of thumb: one waiter for eight guests, two waiters for 10-12. If you are having a bar, one competent bartender should be able to handle up to 50 guests. If hiring for a major holiday – plan on paying double time. There is nothing written that you must have help if you are entertaining a large crowd – it all depends on your level of comfort.
- Run through the evenings events with the caterer and or waitstaff – time of arrival, departure, dress, duties and pay. Usually if the caterer has supplied the servers, they will have had training – check to make sure. If hiring outside servers, run though the evening with them prior to the arrival of the guests and be specific as to what you expect.
- It's always polite to introduce the waitstaff to your family members and to the guest of honor (if there is one) this way the server will know who is to be served first.
- Always treat your employees with respect – never speak to them in a discourteous or peremptory tone – poor behavior of that sort is a clear indication that you are the amateur.
- It is appropriate to give an additional gratuity to waitstaff if you are well pleased.
- Regardless if you are having help or not, you need to be well organized. Determine how many guests will be invited – do you want to send invitations or extend invitations by phone.
- Plan your menu – develop a grocery list for food and spirits.
- Before cooking, set out dishes you will use for serving – get linens, dishes and silverware ready. Determine what accessory pieces or decorative items you will need.
- Have your beverage set-up planned – make sure you leave adequate space for beverages and/or a bar. Be sure to have ample storage space for ice cubes – if freezer space is tight – use a portable thermal container and place in your bathroom tub – keep the shower curtain closed – no one needs to be aware of your lack of space! Always stock your beverage bar with lots of alternatives. Be considerate of those on special diets and those that don't drink alcohol.
- In planning your menu, keep dietary considerations a factor. If serving a multitude of food items, it's not necessary to check with your guest to see if there are any dietary restrictions or allergies. Keep in mind — there are a lot of vegetarians out there. I always ask my guests if they have any dietary restrictions, allergies or absolute dislikes when I invite them!
- Be careful when incorporating nuts into your menu or foodstuffs – allergy reactions to nuts can be deadly – make sure if serving something that includes nuts (which often happens around holiday time), they are not hidden – to be safe, always ask your guests first.
- Looking for musicians for your holiday party? Especially ones you can afford?
  Try calling your local high school – students do music gigs, and even some of the teachers will be happy to work after hours. Check with members of the symphony, as well as musicians from your local church or synagogue.
- Make sure you have enough tables and chairs – always have more than you need, just in case you have a few extra friends drop by.

Morton's pays attention to wine details

BY ELEANOR & RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

As consumers elevate expectations for both wine and food in restaurants, Morton's of Chicago Steakhouse is paying attention.

"Five months ago, the Morton's corporation formed a four-member wine team with the mission of improving wine quality, its service and becoming more innovative in merchandising wine," said Jake Hickton, member of the wine team and Maitre d'/General Manager of the Southfield Morton's.

"Morton's values partnerships. Because the company buys $10 million in wine annually and wine prices are escalating, we're looking at long-term agreements with producers, negociants and shippers, not only to give our 34 nationwide restaurants well-priced wines, but also to guarantee sufficient supply. Essentially, we're locking venders into year-long pricing."

Morton's is becoming a shrewd wine buyer and perception of value is important. They've always claimed that each of their properties is a model of consistency. Now, they're reaching out further to be consumer friendly, particularly with well-priced wines by the glass. The focus is varietal wines, following an American wines and American steaks theme, and an informed waitstaff to serve them.

Since Hickton came to the Southfield Morton's at the end of January, he created a 170-page wine training manual and each staff person goes through a four-week training period.

"On regular tests, the average score of wait-

POLYNESIAN HOLIDAY SHRIMP KEBABS

Yield: 4 main course/8-12 appetizer servings

1/2 cup bottled Italian dressing
1 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon cardamom (optional)
1/4 teaspoon dried hot pepper flakes
1 teaspoon pound peeled and deveined large shrimp
1 large red bell pepper, seeded and cut into 8 slices
8 thick scallions, trimmed to leave 2 inches of green tops
1/2 small pineapple, cut into 1-inch chunks (about 1 1/2 cups)
1/2 small cantaloupe or small honeydew melon, cut into 1-inch chunks or scooped into balls (about 1 1/2 cups)

Directions:

In a shallow dish, combine the Italian dressing, curry powder, cardamom, and hot pepper flakes. Add the shrimp, turning to coat completely. Cover and refrigerate for 15 -30 minutes. Add the bell pepper, scallions, pineapple and melon to the shrimp, tossing to coat the vegetables with the marinade.

Thread the shrimp, fruit, and vegetables onto 4 large (about 12") metal skewers (placing some of each onto each skewer, beginning and ending with fruit), or thread onto small bamboo skewers that have been soaked 30 minutes in water (placing one each of the shrimp, vegetables, and fruit on each skewer).

Grill over medium coals, turning the skewers once, until the shrimp are opaque and the vegetables and fruits are softened, 4-6 minutes.

Note: if you don't want to use the melon, just add more pineapple. The fruit should be on the ends of the skewers because the heat of the grill will be less there.

For a main course, the kebabs should be served over rice, which can be part of the recipe if you wish. For appetizers, the bamboo skewers should be arranged on a platter and served.

PAULA DORE-DUFFY'S FAMILY LE TOURTIÈRE MEAT PIE

Yield: one pie

1/2 pound ground beef (lean)
1 1/2 pounds ground pork
2 cups water
1 medium-large onion — chopped or minced
Salt and pepper to taste
1 medium potato, cooked, then mashed dry
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 teaspoon allspice
Favorite pie crust recipe

OPTIONS:

Increase all spices. For parties, make this dish for hors d'oeuvres by making it in a rectangular pan — cut in squares. Add Chinese or Italian hot or mild seasonings for a different taste.

Directions:

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F.

In a sauce pan mix pork, beef, water, onion, salt and pepper. Cover and cook for 40 minutes — don't let the meat catch on the bottom of the pan. Add additional water if necessary. Cook until meat is tender. Bottom of pan should be moist, but meat should not be floating in water. Remove fat as meat cools and rises to top of water.

Add cloves, garlic powder, allspice and potato to defatted meat. Mix well.

Pour into pastry into shell and cover with pastry dough. (I usually put a little pastry decoration on top).

Bake in preheated oven until brown (approximately 40-50 minutes) until golden brown. Serve hot or cold — with or without ketchup or a favorite sauce.

Pies can be precooked and frozen—if doing it that way - bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes — then reheated to finish.

■ Informational note: this recipe is close in design to the recipe for Rilettes

PAULA DORE-DUFFY'S FAMILY GRATTON RECIPE

Yield: big batch

6 pounds of lean ground pork (shoulder is best, but you can also use butt)
4 large onions, peeled and chopped
5-6 teaspoons allspice
2 teaspoons nutmeg
1 rounded teaspoon ginger
1 rounded teaspoon cloves
Salt and pepper
Dill (optional) (My mother never added this but I like the flavor)

Directions:

Mix the meat and onions into a large French Oven or kettle with enough water to cover the meat by one inch.

Cook over medium-high heat until the mixture comes to a boil — reduce the heat to simmer (approximately 40 minutes) —stirring frequently until the meat begins to stick to the bottom of the pan. At this point, the mixture will appear thick as if the meat will set. Watch constantly! Add the seasonings and cook for another 5 minutes. Remove the pot from your cook top. Pour or scoop into decorative molds, crocks, or storage containers. Let the meat mixture cool - remove any fat from the surface and serve with crackers, water biscuits, toasts, baguettes, etc.

Note: "We eat this for breakfast on toast!" You can also make a patty our of this and fry.

SHARON REINER'S MEXICAN HOT CHOCOLATE

Yield: 2 generbus cupfuls

1/8 cup plus 1 teaspoon cocoa powder
2 tablespoons honey
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons warm water
2 1/2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla (optional)

Directions:

In a sauce pan mix together the cocoa powder, honey, cinnamon, and warm water. Mix into a smooth creamy paste. Add the milk and vanilla (optional). Warm thoroughly but do not boil. Serve.

CLASSIC SHORTBREAD COOKIES

1/2 cup butter at room temperature
1/3 cup powdered sugar-unsifted
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour-unsifted

Directions:

Cream the butter until it is light. Cream in the powdered sugar, then the vanilla. Work in the flour. Knead the dough on an unfloured board until nice and smooth. Spray the shortbread pan very lightly with a non-stick vegetable oil spray. Firmly press the dough into the shortbread pan. Prick the entire surface with a fork, and bake the shortbread right in the mold at 325 Degrees F. for about 30-35 minutes, or until very lightly browned. Let the shortbread cool in its pan for about 10 minutes before you loosen the edges with a knife and flip the pan over onto a wooden cutting board.

If the shortbread does not come right out, tap one edge of the pan. Cut the shortbread into serving pieces while it is still warm.

Let the mold cool before washing in sink or dishwasher.

berry things, and of course; traditional plum pudding — although we always do a Bûche de Noël (Yule log) for Michael's December 25th birthday, as well as a sweet table."

Sharon Reiner knew she wanted to be a farmer since first grade. Seven years ago, Sharon bought a 10 acre farm (Victorian farm house and all) when she was single. Now married to André, and mother to Gunnar (age 5), what started out as a hobby of raising chickens, Black Sheep Poultry and Woolen Co. Inc. was born, or in this case, hatched.

Located in Grass Lake, (outside of Ann Arbor) Sharon's dream has almost been fulfilled. Chicken farming is not new, although by talking to Sharon you would think it is. Her enthusiasm is brimming as she talks about her "first in, first out rotational system." She's not just cleaning out coops, and feeding her flock, she mixes grain (they mill all of their own grain), does all of the sales, marketing, and distribution.

How does Sharon Reiner, organic chicken farmer extraordinaire, see herself entertaining for the holidays? The yearly tradition of chopping down the family Christmas tree with family and friends, is an event they all look forward to every year.

"Going out into the fields and looking for the perfect Christmas tree is hard work. Nothing is better than bringing the tree into the house and smelling fresh pine" says Sharon, her face all aglow.

Their festivity includes lighting a fire in the hearth and having everyone gather around the newly cut tree for trimming. Fragrant cups of hot cocoa and shortbread cookies – made in the brown bag cookie sheep mold, but of course – is the reward for all the hard work. Sharon's cookies and hot chocolate are all made from organic ingredients — after all, it's a way of life!

■ Constantina, owner of Constantina Public Relations, in Southfield, does media representation here in the Detroit Metropolitan area. Formerly, a fashion model, this dramatically-striking, single woman, does not appear to be a gourmet cook — she willingly admits to her lack of finesse in the kitchen — but she does entertain, and with the flair and style one would expect.

In her beautiful high-rise apartment, Constantina has a yearly Christmas Eve gathering, with her closest friends. This party has always been a traditional small, intimate buffet — fat-free of course. Constantina may not cook, but she knows where to order her favorite holiday gourmet items. "I do research" says Constantina candidly, "I know who prepares the very best food."

Victorian invitations sent, cocktail attire required to fit the ornate ambiance — decorations will include: a big tree decorated with antique and elaborate ornaments, crystal; scented bay berry candles burning, and a beautifully decorated table to accompany her catered buffet meal.

To start, a pitcher of Champagne and Crème de Cassis (Kir Royal) — followed by a spit-roasted turkey, asparagus, sweet potato puree and, for dessert, a chocolate concoction Constantina swears by — Entenmann's Chocolate no-fat loaf cake with cream cheese and fat free chocolate sauce, garnished with raspberries.

As guests leave that evening, each is presented with a Christmas gift — one that has been specifically chosen and beautifully wrapped.

staff is 95 percent," Hickton said. "This has enhanced the professional feeling of staff and made them wine credible. Last month our wine sales exceeded projection by 100 percent. Our waitpersons know the wines and can recommend the best choices for the menu item chosen."

And you won't find waitstaff without floor support during peak dinner hours. Hickton (the only person in full tuxedo) is working hand-in-hand with them to maximize the wine and food experience.

This new attention to wine augments a successful spirits program at Morton's which "sells an experience." Whether its Ports, cognacs, the 25 single malts available or small-batch bourbons, the Southfield Morton's excels at brands and matching them with cigars ($10,000 sales per month) in its smoke-friendly environment. Both Hickton and public relations/catering manager Andrea Aretakis are cigar buffs. We took two newly-released cognacs to them for matching.

The name Davidoff is synonymous with the world's finest cigars. They recently extended their expertise beyond tobacco and introduced two cognacs--Davidoff Classic $63.25 and Davidoff Extra $206.48, made by Hennessy especially for Davidoff. Both cognacs were crafted to complement Davidoff cigars. Unfortunately, an August Davidoff plant fire sent 800,000 cigars up in smoke and Davidoff cigars are now hard to find. But experts Hickton and Aretakis came to the rescue suggesting cigar alternatives.

With cognac Davidoff Classic, the preferred cigars had spicy elements such as a darker maduro wrapper that stood up to the full oak character of the cognac. "Basically, any robusto will fill the bill," Aretakis said. And the Zino Robusto did just that. It was a perfect complement to the more robust nature of Davidoff Classic. La Tradition, a double corona and rich, full-bodied smoke with spicy maduro wrapper also harmonized well. Felipe Gregorio Nino is a spicy, peppery cigar with medium body. It displayed the same medium intensity of the cognac and proved a good match.

The finesse of Davidoff Extra cognac called for a medium-light cigar with a Connecticut shade wrapper and lighter tobacco blend. Two Zino cigars (made by Davidoff) did exceptionally well. Zino Veritas with its nutmeg and chocolate-vanilla characters matched the elegance of the Davidoff Extra cognac. Indicating the importance of matching a cognac (or any spirit) with a cigar was the experience of smoking Zino Veritas with the Davidoff Classic. The cigar came off weedy and neither cigar nor cognac were complemented. Zino #4 Tradition with its mild yet full rich character paired with the smooth, rich, caramel nature of the cognac. "It's long draw makes you want to savor the cognac," Hickton said. "Its mildness was overpowered by the bigger, oakier Davidoff Classic."

While some may say, "Big deal," to all the matching, wine and food or cigars with after-dinner pours, when done correctly they not only enhance a dining experience, but allow one to savor the moment. In our hurried lives, we don't get enough of this.

Old-fashioned gingerbread brings back memories

OLD-FASHIONED GINGERBREAD

1/2 cup cane syrup or black treacle
6 tablespoons butter
1 egg
4 tablespoons buttermilk
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 heaping teaspoons fresh ground ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup firmly packed brown sugar pinch salt
3/4 cup dried currants or raisins (optional)

Preheat the oven to 375 degrees F. and line the bottom of a buttered 8-inch round cake pan (2 inches deep) with parchment paper. Melt cane syrup with butter. Beat in egg and buttermilk. Set aside.

In a large bowl, sift together the flour, soda, ginger, cinnamon, brown sugar and salt. Stir in currants or raisins, if desired. Add the egg mixture to the flour mixture and mix well. Bake for 10 minutes in a preheated 375 degree F. oven, then turn the oven down to 325 degrees F. and bake for 35 to 40 more minutes or until a tester inserted in the center comes out clean.

Here's a recipe that makes a more moist gingerbread. The name describes it perfectly.

DAMP GINGERBREAD

9 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups (12 ounces) pure cane syrup
2 cups plus 2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 3/4 teaspoons baking soda
1 tablespoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg, beaten
1 cup whole milk

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Butter a nine inch round cake pan (2 inches deep) and line the bottom with parchment paper.

Melt butter with syrup. Mix well. Set aside. In a separate large bowl, sift together the dry ingredients. Pour the syrup mixture onto the dry ingredients and mix well. Mix in beaten egg and milk. The batter will be very liquid.

Pour into prepared tin and bake at 350 degrees F. for 50-55 minutes. The middle will be set and the edges should have begun pulling away from the sides. Cool the cake in the tin for 10 minutes before turning out on a wired rack.

Pair ham with savory side dishes for noteworthy dinner

AP — This year, team your holiday ham with side dishes that add new flavor notes.

Some suggestions: Sausage, Fruit and Nut Dressing, Garlic Mashed Potatoes, Green Beans with Glazed Onions, and Cranberry, Corn and Pepper Relish.

Purchase a boneless or an already-sliced ham. Ham is fully cooked and requires only a simple reheating before serving.

If desired, glaze the ham with a mixture of 1/2 cup honey and a 6-ounce can of thawed orange juice concentrate during the last 15 minutes of reheating.

A fully cooked boneless ham will feed a gathering of eight to 10 people.

Leftover cooked ham may be refrigerated tightly wrapped, for up to seven days.

Ham does not retain its high quality for long in the freezer because changes in flavor and texture occur. If you must freeze leftover ham, wrap it tightly in plastic and foil and freeze for no longer than two months

SAUSAGE, FRUIT AND NUT DRESSING

1 cup dried apples
12 ounces pork breakfast sausage
1 1/2 cups chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
8 cups crumbled Herbed Corn Bread (recipe follows)
1 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup dried apricots, chopped
1/2 cup chicken broth
1 tablespoon dried sage
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary, crumbled
Salt and black pepper, to taste
2/3 cup chicken broth

Cover dried apples with warm water; let soak for 30 minutes. Drain well and chop.

In a large skillet, crumble sausage. Saute with onion and celery until sausage is cooked through and vegetables are soft, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Place dried corn bread in a very large mixing bowl. Add the apples, sausage and sauteed vegetables, the pecans, apricots, the 1/2 cup chicken broth, herbs and salt and pepper to taste.

Mix well and place dressing in a large shallow casserole. Bake for 15 minutes in a 350- to 400-degree F oven; spoon additional 2-3rds cup chicken broth over top and bake for 10 minutes more.

If making dressing ahead, proceed with recipe through mixing of all ingredients, place in casserole, cover and refrigerate overnight. Increase initial baking time to 30 minutes. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Herbed Corn Bread: In medium bowl, stir together 1 cup cornmeal, 1 cup flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 4 tablespoons sugar. In small bowl, beat 2 eggs and stir in 4 tablespoons vegetable oil, 1 cup milk, 1-3rd cup finely chopped parsley and 1 tablespoon crumbled dried sage.

Stir wet ingredients into dry; stir just to mix and turn batter into a greased 8- by 8-inch baking pan. Bake in a 400-degree F oven for 20 to 25 minutes, until lightly browned. Let cool, crumble and let stand overnight, covered loosely, to dry. Makes 8 cups.

GARLIC MASHED POTATOES

4 pounds small potatoes, cleaned and unpeeled
Two 5-ounce packages garlic-flavored spreadable cheese
3/4 cup canned chicken broth
Salt and pepper, to taste

In a large saucepan, boil potatoes gently until tender enough to be mashed, about 30 to 40 minutes. Drain and transfer potatoes to a large bowl; mash with cheese, adding broth gradually until potatoes are of desired consistency; season to taste.

If serving potatoes immediately, heat broth before adding. If making ahead, cover well and chill up to one day.

To reheat, place potatoes in an ovenproof dish and heat in oven (350 degrees F to 400 degrees F) for 30 minutes. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

GREEN BEANS WITH GLAZED ONIONS

Two 16-ounce bags frozen pearl onions, thawed
1/2 cup balsamic vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon dried thyme
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 teaspoon salt
3 pounds fresh green beans, cleaned and trimmed
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon stone-ground mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons sugar

In a medium saucepan, combine onions, 4 tablespoons of the vinegar, the butter, vegetable oil, thyme, pepper and 1/2 teaspoon of the salt. Heat over low heat until butter is melted; stirring to coat onions.

Place mixture on a baking sheet; roast in a 400-degree F oven for 35 to 40 minutes, stirring occasionally until onions are browned nicely. Remove from oven and set aside.

Blanch green beans in a large saucepan of boiling water just until tender, about 5 minutes. Drain and rinse with cold water; set aside.

In a small bowl, whisk together the olive oil, mustard, sugar, the remaining 4 tablespoons vinegar and the remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt.

In a large bowl, toss the dressing together with the onions and green beans. Place the mixture in a large casserole dish and cover. (Recipe can be made ahead at this point and refrigerated for a day. Bring to room temperature before proceeding.) Bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees F. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CRANBERRY, CORN AND PEPPER RELISH

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 green bell pepper, finely chopped
1 red bell pepper, finely chopped
16-ounce can corn, drained
1/2 red onion, finely chopped
12 ounces fresh cranberries
1/2 cup white-wine vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes
1 tablespoon grated fresh gingerroot

Heat oil in large skillet over medium-high heat. Add peppers, corn and onion. Cook, stirring constantly, for 3 to 4 minutes, until vegetables are tender. Add cranberries; cook and stir for 5 minutes more.

Add remaining ingredients; cook and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool, cover and refrigerate; allow to come to room temperature before serving. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

Make winter meals sunny with citrus

Citrus fruit has traditionally provided a ray of sunshine in bleak and dreary winter menus. Its brilliant colors and fresh, crisp flavors can turn a ho-hum dish into a sensory sensation. Citrus also comes packed with nutrition including its well-known supply of vitamin C, beta carotene (in oranges and red or pink grapefruit) and a host of phytochemnicals that are attracting more and more attention for their cancer-fighting potential.

Lemons may not be one of the first fruits you reach for when preparing meals, but that may change once you consider the facts.

Lemons provide a burst of flavor that's virtually free of fat, calories and sodium. Lemon juice makes a great no-calorie dressing for greens, asparagus, green beans or broccoli. Add it with parsley and garlic to mushrooms sauteed in a bit of olive oil to intensify flavor. Mince and mix together lemon rind, parsley and garlic to create a spicy seasoning perfect for sprinkling over soups, stews, poached chicken or fish.

The taste of limes, although quite distinct from lemons, is also sensation — especially with Mexican foods. Serve it sprinkled over melon slices for dessert or in a fresh fruit salsa made of cubed mango, minced jalapeno and chopped cilantro.

Give pork a zesty Latin flavor by marinating it in lime juice with olive oil, black pepper, fresh cilantro, bay leaf and garlic.

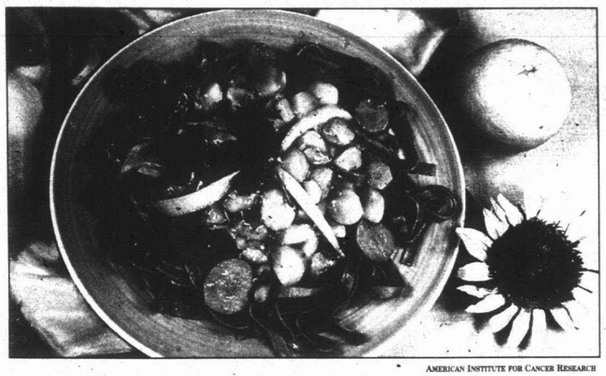
Citrus rind (or zest) contains oils that add extra flavor to food. To get zest, grate the fruit peel on the smallest holes on a metal grater.

You can also use a small-holed zester, which is available in most kitchenware departments. Be sure to remove only the colored part of the peel and avoid the bitter white pith underneath it.

Grapefruit juice is great for sparkling flavor in beverages such as chilled bottle water, hot or iced tea. Sprinkle the juice over a tossed salad to add brisk flavor without fat. Give your barbecue sauce a taste of the Islands that's perfect with chicken by mixing a half cup of sauce with 3 tablespoons of grapefruit juice.

From sauces to quick breads, oranges and orange juice can refresh your usual recipes. Orange-glazed carrots are made by combing 2 tablespoons of margarine, 3 tablespoons of orange juice, 1 1/2 tablespoons of sugar, 6 whole cloves and 1/4 teaspoon of salt in a saucepan and cooking until the sauce is hot. Remove the cloves and pour the liquid over 10 medium sliced an steamed, tender-crisp carrots.

Here's a tasty recipe that will add a blast of summer to your winter menus.



AMERICAN INSTITUTE FOR CANCER RESEARCH

Celebrate citrus: Gulf Coast Scallops is a marvelous marriage of citrus and seafood. These succulent scallops with a light orange sauce inject of blast of summer into your winter menus.

GULF COAST SCALLOPS

- 1 pound fresh or frozen scallops
- 1 9-ounce package fresh spinach fettucine or 1 pound dried spinach fettucine
- 3 cups sliced mushrooms
- 2 cups carrots, thinly sliced
- 3/4 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 3/4 cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon granules
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- Fresh ground black pepper
- Fresh parsley
- Grapefruit sections, optional

Thaw scallops, if frozen. Cut any large scallops in half. Cook pasta according to package directions. Drain and keep warm.

In medium saucepan, stir together thawed concentrate, water, cornstarch, bouillon granules, garlic powder and pepper. Add mushrooms and carrots and saute for 5 minutes. Add scallops and cook and stir until mixture is thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir about 2 minutes more or until scallops turn opaque.

Serve the scallop mixture over pasta. Sprinkle with snipped fresh parsley and garnish with parsley sprigs. If desired, garnish with grapefruit sections.

Each of the 6 servings contains 251 calories and 1 gram of fat.

Everyone knows, 'Christmas is Cookies'

(NAPS)—Ghristmas cookies are the heart and soul of the holidays.

With the right cookbook, baking and giving wonderful cookies can be surprisingly easy.

This year why not leave St. Nick a plate of homemade Gingersnaps, Hazelnut Macaroons, Oatmeal Scotchies or something decadent like Chocolate-Toffee Bars?

Or surprise him with luscious Linzer Tarts, airy Almond Meringues and Pecan Pralines.

"Christmas is Cookies" (and Gingerbread and Spice Cake and Fudge and More...) (Time-Life Books, $9.95) offers more than 100 easy-to-follow recipes for classic Christmas cookies and other holiday favorites.

PECAN PRALINES

Makes 2 Dozen

- 1/4 cup light cream or evaporated milk
- 2 cups granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/3 cup light brown sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups coarsely chopped pecans

Generously grease 2 large baking sheets.

In a small saucepan, warm the light cream over low heat. When bubbles begin to form around the edges of the pan, remove the pan from the heat and cover it tightly to keep warm.

Combine the granulated sugar and water in a medium skillet and bring to a boil over high heat, stirring until the sugar dissolves. Reduce the heat to medium and, gripping a pot holder in each hand, tip the pan back and forth gently until the syrup turns a rich, golden brown. This may take 10 minutes or more.

Remove the skillet from the heat and, with a wooden spoon, stir in the brown sugar and salt. Stirring constantly, pour in the warm cream in a slow, thin stream. Stir in the vanilla and the pecans.

To form each praline, ladle about 4 teaspoons of the pecan mixture onto the prepared baking sheet. As you proceed, space the pralines about 3 inches apart to allow room for them to spread into 2 1/2-inch rounds. When the pralines have cooled to room temperature, transfer them to a serving plate.

Cinnamon rolls have flavor secret

(AP) Pear baby food is the secret ingredient that gives Low-Fat Cinnamon Rolls sumptuous texture and moistness without added fat. The recipe is from "Rise Up to Good Nutrition with Homemade Bread," published by the American Dietetic Association. Each serving contains 1 gram of fat.

LOW-FAT CINNAMON ROLLS

- 2 1/2 to 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 package rapid-rise yeast
- 2 tablespoons nonfat dry milk
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup very warm water (120 degrees F to 130 degrees F)
- 6-ounce jar pear baby food
- 3 egg whites
- 1 1/2 cups whole-wheat flour
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1-3rd cup packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 3/4 cup raisins
- 1 recipe Powdered Sugar Icing (recipe below)

In large bowl, combine 1 cup all-purpose flour, the granulated sugar, undissolved yeast, dry milk and salt. Stir in water and baby food. Stir in egg whites, whole-wheat flour and enough remaining all-purpose flour to make soft dough. On lightly floured surface, knead dough until smooth and elastic, about 4 to 6 minutes. Cover; let rest on floured surface 10 minutes.

Roll dough to 18- by 12-inch rectangle. Brush honey on dough; sprinkle evenly with brown sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Beginning at long end, roll up tightly; pinch seam to seal. Cut into 12 equal pieces. Place, cut sides up, in greased 13- by 9-inch baking pan. Cover; let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 30 to 45 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees F for 25 to 30 minutes or until done. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack. Drizzle with powdered sugar icing. Makes 12 rolls.

Powdered Sugar Icing: In a small bowl, combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 3 to 4 teaspoons nonfat milk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract; mix until smooth.

Pick a 'theme' for your tree

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
SPECIAL WRITER

Each Christmas when I was a child, our family decorated one real 10-foot tree with a host of ornaments. Today, families like Leeanne LaMarre's, have smaller theme trees in every room of the house including the kitchen and bathroom.

A professional design consultant in Bloomfield Hills, LaMarre is currently working on a commission of 12 decorator trees for a Grosse Ile business owner who plans to give them as gifts to employees.

"When we lived in northern Canada, each of us had a tree to decorate. My brother's was rocking horses and mine, Raggedy Ann and Andy," said LaMarre who credits her 11-year old son John for creating the red-and-white cookie cutter tree displayed on her kitchen counter.

"You could do Santas or teddy bears. You could use color themes like silver and gold. But try to coordinate the color with your home."

Red, black and white ribbons stream from the top of a 101 Dalmations tree in the dining room. This is a very special tree. LaMarre plans to donate it to the pediatric ward at Beaumont Hospital.

Two 6-packs of miniature Dalmations (available at Target for $14.99 each) sit in the two-foot-high tree, lit by a strand of 35 white lights. Underneath, a fire hydrant and Dalmatian family from The Disney store await Christmas on a swatch of Dalmation-pattern fabric from JoAnn's Fabrics to complete the scene.

"We're hoping to get donations so we can provide each child in the pediatric ward with a stuffed Dalmatian," said LaMarre.

At Michael's Angel Attic in Livonia, ornaments of every description hang from trees, including dog and cat angels with movable legs ($12-$14.95). Another tree is filled entirely with brown bear angels made from terry cloth ($8.95) and yet another with crystal and gold angels, all lit by a string of 10 angels. Spanish-looking papier mache angels by Lilia Estrada ($42) resemble folk art. Local artists Tami Gardner of Plymouth and Kay Hoehn of Livonia also have handmade angels here.

"They're coming in not only for their trees but to do their whole homes in angels," said owner Lisa Reed as she displayed a primitive-looking wood cow with tin wings by Bobbo ($12.50.) "Angels are really popular now and many people are doing trees with an ethnic theme."

While a kachina doll tree ($7.50-$9.50) is the center of attraction at Native West in Plymouth, it's easy to imagine a southwest or cowboy theme tree decorated with the ornaments found on a wood cactus in the middle of the gallery. Everything from birch bark canoes ($6.50) to wood carved horses, deer and Thunderbirds ($7.50); hand blown glass chili peppers ($7.95); tin animals like howling coyotes $7.50), and a totem topped by an eagle ($14.50) will add a little spice to your holidays.

"A lot of people will have a fiesta theme tree using the red, yellow and green chili pepper lights to give it a festive look," said gallery owner Annette Horn.

Storybook characters by New York designer Christopher Radko fill a Nordstrom tree with magic Humpty-Dumpty ($50), a cat playing a fiddle, and Snow White and the seven dwarfs ($86) bring fairy tales to life. A smaller tree for Baby's First Christmas is color coordinated with pink and blue bears, baby shoes and building blocks ($4-$9).

"What's nice about Christopher Radko's annual ornaments, is all the proceeds go toward finding cures for AIDS or pediatric cancer," said Kathe Daas, of the Nordstrom gallery.

Plymouth Nursery (Plymouth Ann Arbor Rd.) is a major source of tree inspirations with gardener, sportsman and bird trees on display.

On a whimsical note, a Beanie Baby tree is filled with ladybugs and otters ($4.99).

Here's a report from American Express that puts a price tag on Christmas.

According to the American Express Retail Index of 800 consumers, more than one-third of holiday shoppers expect to spend $1,000 or more on gifts in 1996 and overall, about $95 per person.

These estimates are level with what consumers expected to spend last year when asked to project their holiday budgets before the start of that shopping season.

"Shoppers expect to spend a total of $1,160 this season, with an average of $900 being spent on gifts, and the balance going toward holiday entertaining, decorations and travel," said Liz Barrett, a spokeswoman for American Express.

Other details of the survey:

• While department stores remain the number one choice to shop for gifts, there a was 10 percent increase in the number of shoppers who say they will shop at discount stores this year, overtaking clothing stores as the second most-popular place to shop.

• Five-percent more people this year said they would price-shop for their gifts.

• Of those buying gifts for children, 85-percent said they would seek out educational toys.

• Clothing topped the gift choice category, with music/movies a close second. Toys came in third.

'Tis the season: Shopping malls draw people by the thousands at this time of year, but all eyes aren't necessarily on the merchandise. To protect yourself from pickpockets and purse snatchers, be aware of your surroundings and travel light.

Shop safe

Be alert says security pro

When it comes to shopping safety, Don Beasley, director of security for the Taubman Co., said there's no substitute for common sense. In addition, he reminds holiday shoppers to:

• Protect your money. Don't carry large sums or pat your pocket to check for your wallet – a clue to pickpockets. Men keep wallets in inside jacket pockets; women in zippered waist fanny packs.

• Plan ahead. Set a meeting place to regroup should family members become separated. Teach children to seek out uniformed security in case of emergencies.

• Count your packages. Do it each time you stop in a store, restroom or restaurant. Do a quick recount before you leave.

• Store packages out of sight. Lock parcels and coats in your trunk - out of sight and temptation.

• Ask for help. Never hesitate to ask for a mall security escort if you feel the least bit uncomfortable about walking to your car alone.

• Park where you're comfortable. Look for well-lit areas with lots of foot traffic. Use the valet service whenever possible.

• Be aware of surroundings. Pay attention to where you park and the stores that flank your entrance. If you tend to forget, jot the information down. Observe those around you.

• Travel light. When shopping, the less stuff to worry about, the better.

HOLIDAY RETAIL DETAILS

Dressed for the Holidays

Now through Dec. 8, you can put yourself in the holiday mood by taking the annual walk through the elegantly historic Dodge Mansion, Meadow Brook Hall in Rochester Hills.

Designers from the Somerset Collection shopping center in Troy have incorporated seasonal treasures from a select group of stores into the vignettes of each room which is decorated for the holidays with trees and floral arrangements. Santa Claus greets visitors in Knole Cottage, a fantasy playhouse that mirrors the Hall in miniature.

As an added attraction, fashions of the 1920s-40s from the museum's historic collection have recently been "restored" and will also be on display. According to Lisa Balis Ashby, the hall's executive director, the treatment of this year's holiday walk is a departure from past walks to renew interest and enthusiasm in the very special event.

"What visitors will see is truly unique," she said. "One of the nation's largest, most significant historic houses dressed up for the holidays in genuine 1920s-40s detail, with a late twentieth century flair."

Adult admission is $10; Children 12 and under $5; Knole Cottage $1. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 2 and 3 until 9 p.m. For more information call (810) 370-3140.

Berkley welcomes new shop

Local entrepreneurs Michael Tonda and Michael Snell have restored the old convent that once housed the nuns of Our Lady of La Salette parish, on Coolidge just north of 11 Mile in Berkley.

The 1920's English manor now houses gifts to delight home and garden enthusiast under the name "Raphael's Magnificent Possessions." Says Snell, "the setting is filled with an eclectic array of treasures collected from all over the world. You'll be greeted by a warm fire, tranquil music, pleasant aromas and friendly faces."

The pair claim to have the "largest selection of European holiday ornaments in Michigan." The shop debuts on Dec. 2. Hours are: Monday-Wednesday and Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday until 8 p.m. For more details call (810) 546-0194.

Parisian's parent company grows

Proffitt's, Inc. of Knoxville, Tennessee (which recently acquired the department store divisions Younkers, Parisian and McRae's) now adds Herberger's with 40 stores in mostly western states. Herberger's headquarters are in St. Cloud, Minnesota.

The business combinations now make Proffitt's one of the largest regional department store chains in the country with 181 stores in 24 states and annual revenues in excess of $2.3 billion.

Major brands carried in these stores include Liz Claiborne, Marisa Christina, Susan Bristol, Tommy Hilfiger, Nautica, Polo/Ralph Lauren, Guess, Haggar, Levi's, Estee Lauder, Clinique, Lancome, Vanity Fair and Nine West.

Media Play opens in Livonia

Entertainment superstore Media Play opened another metro Detroit location at 30000 Plymouth Rd. in Livonia. The store sells music, books, movies and computer software with thousands of titles and discount prices.

Park Permits for holiday gifts

Nature lovers rejoice! The 1997 Michigan State Park annual motor vehicle permits are now available.

Permits can be purchased for $20 each ($5 each for seniors 65 years or older) at all state parks, plus the sporting goods departments of most Meijer Thifty Acres stores. The permits allow unlimited access to 96 different Michigan parks and recreation areas for one year. Call 517-373-9900 for more details.

Wonders of Wonderland Mall

Holiday retailers at Wonderland Mall in Livonia include Wall of Fame Sports, Hickory Farms, Stockings to Stuff, Detroit Science Center Store, Polar Hood Hats, Venice Mens Wear plus many more.

Shoppers can share their happy holidays by buying a ornament for the Community Hospice Tree of Life, or dropping off non-perishable food items, kids clothes and new toys at the Information Booth. Mall marketing director Robbie Sherman said the donations will be distributed to the needy on Dec. 24.

Massages to go

The Birmingham Neuromuscular Clinic (specializing in stress management, pain reduction and shiatsu massages) offers on-site massages to offices and businesses, plus gift certificates for the holidays.

"That's fully-clothed, on-site 15-minute massages," according to staffers Sarah, Michael, Nancy and Deena. The clinic is on 14 Mile, a block east of Woodward. Appointments by calling (810) 642-6789.

Free watch appraisals

Back In Time International, 112 Peabody St. in Birmingham, offers free, verbal appraisals on vintage pocket watches and wrist watches through Dec. 31. For more details call (810) 540-4646.

Free valet parking

Just pull up your car to the Olga's Kitchen entrance off Wayne Rd., and the Westland Shopping Center's valet staff will park it for free as a gift to holiday shoppers.

The mall continues to grow with the expansion of Kohl's, an addition to Sears, and a new Wicks-N-Sticks.

Skaters Take Note!

Skaters and dancers will find Skatedesign's new store at 612 W. University in downtown Rochester an emporium of stretch spandex. Owner Sue Lyons, herself a competitive ice skater, said the shop carries more than 5,000 yards of fabric, plus beads, sequins and genuine Austrian crystal rhinestones, perfect for creating costumes. Open limited hours at (810) 608-8919.

Hotel offers shop package

The Hotel Baronette, located on a perimeter of Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, offers its annual holiday package for gift seekers. For $79, book an overnight stay (before or after your shopping expedition) which also includes a power breakfast 7:30-9:30 a.m. and cocktails from 5-7 p.m. while hotel staff wrap all the gifts you bought during the day while you enjoy a swim in the pool, or workout in the fitness center. Call (810) 349-7800 for reservations.

Custom dolls look like daughters

A Colorado-based company is taking the doll world by storm, and you're probably thinking 'Why didn't I think of that!'

My Twinn will make a doll replica of your child – or yourself from age 3 to 12, for $149.95. You must send a recent snapshot, plus complete a personalized form, asking you to select specifics like hair, eye and skin color, plus eyebrow and face shape, hairstyle and glasses, freckles, moles or birthmarks!

Call 1-800-469-8946 to order or for more information. The ship date is 4-6 weeks, depending on demand.

Boy dolls will be available in 1997.

Where can I find?

Thanks to the readers who have called in locations for hard to find items! Thanks too, to those willing to sell or giveaway the items that they happen to have in their attics and basements; we've been putting people together!

• We found the Perez Prado recording of "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" at Jukebox Junction in downtown Wayne (313) 722-0643. Plus, reader Robert Hisson offered to make a cassette recording off an old LP he found in his collection.

Hisson is also looking for an April 1945 edition of Ford Times magazine. Anyone got any idea where he can find one?

• Here are some phone numbers for a Tricam Liquid Embroidery Distributor: (517) 685-2332 or (313) 483-3332.

• Several readers offered Guardian ware.

• Someone who will alter old draperies to fit new windows

• A company that will "re-coat" old cooking pans with non-stick materials like Teflon.

• A source for typewriter ribbons.

• King-size flat sheets from Martex in the Trade Blanket pattern.

• The Rickets family of Westland wants laundry bags that hang from the ceiling with zippers on the bottom to let out the dirty clothes.

• Bed pillows manufactured under the name "Blue Heaven."

• Norma Mayette is looking for the name of the catalog that has a Tiger Stadium tin inside that plays Take Me Out To the Ballgame. (It's not Wireless, she contends.)

• Carol Waite needs a Strollachair highchair tray, and Inkor stainless steel cookware.

If you've seen any of these items in your travels, let Malls & Mainstreets know and we'll print the answers. Please call (810) 901-2567.

New Tiffany book is a treat for holiday hosts

How's this for a children's Christmas dinner. . .

Fun? Yes!

In your dining room? No way!

But if you're looking for whimsy, warmth, or wonder to create special tablesettings for the holidays, thumb through "A Tiffany Christmas" just out from Doubleday.

John Loring, Tiffany & Co. director of design, has penned his sixth book for the jeweler. It's $60, and available at bookstores and Tiffany's in Somerset Collection South, Troy.

"A Tiffany Christmas" is a fireside or coffee table delight, designed around the traditions, legends and festivities of the season in the American Spirit.

It is, according to Tiffany's, "a beautiful treasury of photographic images celebrating table settings and decorations in the true spirit of the holiday season, both past and present."

Loring explained the importance of taking extra care in setting the holiday table.

"Christmas is the season when more and everything can be brought to the table to join the celebration – the unexpected, the eclectic, the celebratory – all that glitters, all that's festive."

But whether or not Tiffany candlesticks, china patterns or silverware fit into your home decorating budget, Loring offers state-of-the art arrangements, presenting "festive" like no other designer.

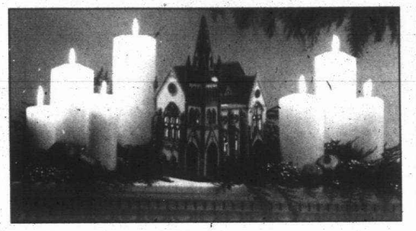
Organize the holidays, then sit back and relax



The key to avoiding holiday stress?

Be organized!

"Getting organized removes the mental and physical burdens that distract you from accomplishing and enjoying the things that are important in your life," said Stephanie Denton, a professional organizer and adviser to Organized Chaos Inc.

Organized Chaos Inc. is a national club dedicated to simplifying home management by helping people organize their lives. Members, who pay $2.50 to join, receive The Chaotic Times newsletter filled with tips and advice on getting organized and simplifying home management.

Contact Organized Chaos Inc., P.O. Box 4120, Grand Rapids, MN 55730-4120.

Time management

•Ask recipients what gift they'd like. Create a master "To Buy" list and never go shopping without it. Map it out by store location before you leave home to avoid wasting time.

•Use your home computer to centralize all holiday planning activities, including dates of holiday parties, travel itineraries, menus and shopping lists, cards sent out and more. Denton suggests home management software such as Microsoft Bob.

•Create a schedule for all the household jobs that need to be done to prepare for the holidays; assign each family member specific tasks.

•Accept that you may not be able to do everything yourself. Hire an ambitious high school student during winter break to help cater a party, wrap presents or perform other tasks you can't find time to do.

•Make a list of gifts and the gift-giver as you open each present to make thank-you notes easy.

Budget management

Beware the holiday spending spree that wreaks financial havoc on your new year!

The International Association for Financial Planning suggests you "leave your plastic at home and check your emotions at the door."

The best approach to control holiday spending, according to the firm is to budget your money carefully.

•Establish a budget. Set an appropriate spending level for each person on your gift list and stick to it.

•Develop a repayment plan for purchases. Plan ahead and start saving now for bills that are deferred, so you don't experience an even bigger cash crunch in January and February.

Shopping pitfalls

•The sales pitch. Beware of high-pressure sales pitches to buy an extended warranty– often the most profitable item in the store for retailers.

The fact is, most failures in electronic products generally occur early in the life of the product, when the manufacturer's warranty is still in effect, or at the end, by which time an extended warranty usually will have expired.

•Store credit cards.Consumers are often offered the chance to save 10 percent or more on their first purchase by getting a store credit card. But, if the consumer pays the balance in full, it could result in a 10 percent savings.

What happens if they don't? Store cards typically carry an annual interest rate of at least 18 percent; some charge as high as 24 percent. In contrast, many bank credit cards carry interest rates below department store credit card rates, according to CN.

•Beware of payment plans that sound too good to be true. Those deferred payment plans that invite you to wait until May or June to pay, or those that offer you to skip a payment or a lower minimum payment should be scrutinized closely.

United Way seeks to link volunteers, those in need

For the sixth consecutive year, United Way Community Services' Tel-Help service will offer the Holiday Connection program from Thanksgiving until Dec. 30.

Holiday Connection serves as a clearinghouse to meet the special needs of the tri-county area that emerge during the holiday season.

It refers families in need to human service agencies; links individuals, families or groups who wish to donate time with volunteer opportunities and matches financial or other resources with agencies serving families with similar needs.

"The demand for resources continues to increase each year," said Virgil H. Carr, president and CEO, United Way Community Services.

"Of the more than 800 calls that Holiday Connection received in 1995, less than 5 percent were from businesses and families wishing to donate goods or financial resources," he said. "Because the need for services has been greater than the resources available, agencies and groups often can't meet all the requests."

Holiday Connection will match the people with special holiday needs, with the human service agency that can provide them the necessary services.

This year a Holiday Connection Wish List was developed, with requests from human service groups during the holiday season as well as some of their year round needs. The wish list is a tool for companies, service and church groups, families and individuals interested in donating items or volunteering, to the agencies or group in need of resources.

In addition, individuals or groups who want to volunteer or give resources such as food, blankets, toys or gifts of money may do so by calling the Holiday Connection and be linked to the agencies that are in need of resources or volunteers for their holiday activities.

A group of employees can volunteer at a soup kitchen or put on a children's party as part of their way of celebrating the holidays. Working directly with Holiday Connection and United Way Community Services' Volunteer Center, the program identifies the soup kitchens and groups that may be in need of volunteers and matches the group of volunteers with the project.

Help ensure a brighter holiday for individuals and families in the tri-county area by volunteering time or donating money or other resources to the Holiday Connection.

If you or someone you know want to lend a hand, or needs a hand, call the Holiday Connection at (313) 226-9888 or 1-800-552-1183 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

■ The wish list is a tool for companies, service and church groups, families and individuals interested in donating items or volunteering, to the agencies or group in need of resources.

Madonna's Toth coaching

(Editor's note: The following story did not run in its entirety in Thursday's Redford-Garden City editions.)

Vicki Toth: New RU coach

Hours after holding the first tryouts last Monday, Toth and Marie Becker-Schluter headed north to Bath, Mi. for a Michigan High School Athletic Association rules meeting.

The ride up was fine, but the ride home was a little tedious through a snow storm that blanketed southeastern Michigan.

Up until now, Toth must have felt only baseball and softball coaches had to worry about inclimate weather.

"It took us forever to get home, but we made it a fun trip and I learned a lot," said Toth, a 1994 RU graduate.

Becker-Schluter resigned last month as head coach after six years as head coach because of a conflict with her schedule. She will remain on probably one more year as an assistant to help the transition, according to athletic director Jim Gibbons.

Three major knee surgeries ended Toth's volleyball career at Madonna University and got her thinking seriously about coaching.

Toth was a freshman at RU when Becker-Schluter, another RU graduate who played collegiate basketball at Saginaw Valley, started coaching. She'd like to emulate Becker-Schluter's style.

"When she started out, she seemed a lot older than she really was," Toth said. "She was tough on us right away, laid down the law, was real mature about everything. As much as Im happy I got the job it's sad to see her leaving the program. I'm lucky to have her there still with me."

Most of Toth's coaching experience has come in club level and at summer camps at Madonna. She takes over a team that returns a strong group of seniors.

"It kind of feels natural (to coach), actually," Toth said. "The first day of tryouts went real well. There is a tremendous amount of potential on this team."

Gibbons predicts a smooth transition.

"Vicki did a great job in the interview. She has a plan," Gibbons said. "She's going to have to fly by herself at some point, but she has a lot of volleyball playing experience, coached in clinics and camps, has the same philosophy as Marie and knows where the program is. We tried to make the coaching transition as smooth as possible and not disrupt the kids."

Two of Toth's knee surgeries came while in high school and the third came during her sophomore year at Madonna. The option was there to return, but it probably wouldn't have been in her best interest, she said.

Toth is carrying a 3.1 grade point average with a major in mental health and minor in criminal justice.

"My doctor strongly recommended I weigh my options before going back," Toth said. "It took me a good eight months before I decided what to do. I decided to put my grades and school ahead of sports."

Madonna strength and conditioning coach Tim DiBeliso is another one of Toth's influences in coaching.

"He's really big on conditioning, running and lifting," Toth said. "If you have a team that's not in very good shape it shows on the court."

Toth remains friends with her former Madonna teammates. She saw them win the NAIA Great Lakes Region championship at home.

"It was hard to go watch some matches early on because I wanted to be out there with them, but I just said 'I've got to forget about the feelings and just go and watch,' " Toth said. "I knew they were going to win and wanted to support them. It felt good to see them win and I know they're going to go a lot farther this year."

College hoops

Four players scored in double figures Tuesday as Oakland University scored an 86-71 men's basketball victory over host Madonna University.

Denny Amrhein led the winners with 19 points. He also grabbed seven rebounds and dished out six assists. Matt McClellan added 18 points and eight rebounds. Kevin Kovach also had 18 points, while Craig Frohock contributed 17.

Christian Emert, a senior guard from Walled Lake Central, led Madonna with 17 points. Junior Kristian Magro added 15 points and nine rebounds, while Paul Whiting (11), Mike Maryanski (10) and Plymouth Salem's Brandon Slone (10) also scored in double figures.

Oakland outrebounded Madonna, 41-32, and hit 10 three-pointers to the Fighting Crusaders' five.

Madonna falls to 0-7.

•SCHOOLCRAFT 139, CUYAHOGA 112 (MEN): Schoolcraft College (1-4) won its first men's basketball game of the season Nov. 23 in the consolation game of the Pete Pavia Tournament in Rochester, N.Y.

Four players scored 20 points or more. Tykie Reeves and Duwan Warmack each had 24; Naron Burkes (23) and Garden City's Pete Males (21).

Kevin Melson added 12.

In the Pavia Tourney opener Nov. 22, Monroe (N.Y.) turned back the Ocelots, 100-80.

Males had a team-high 16 points, seven assists and three steals. Warmack added 17 points, 10 assists and four steals. Burkes and Rich Johnson contributed 12 and 10 points, respectively.

•TIFFIN 77, MADONNA 74 (Women): Madonna University women's basketball team fell to 2-4 on the season with a loss Nov. 21 at Tiffin, Ohio.

Mary Murray scored 16 points and eight rebounds in a losing cause, while Angie Negri chipped in with 15 points and eight rebounds. Katie Cushman scored 14 points.

CC edges Stevenson, 5-3

Bratcher scores hat trick in Shamrocks' victory

Detroit Catholic Central rallied from a second-period deficit to defeat Livonia Stevenson 5-3 in a non-league hockey game played Wednesday at Eddie Edgar Arena.

Eric Bratcher's hat trick carried Detroit Catholic Central to a 5-3 non-league hockey victory Wednesday over host Livonia Stevenson at Edgar Arena.

The win improved CC's overall record to 2-1, while Stevenson is 1-1.

Bratcher opened the scoring from Mike Sharpe and Scott Curtin at 7:59, but Stevenson came back on a breakaway goal at 8:46 by Mike Radakovich from Mike Schmidt.

CC's Nick Lewarne then scored at 11:03 from Dan McLellan and Mike Davis, but Darin Fawkes countered unassisted for Stevenson at 12:50.

At 12:20 of the second period, Stevenson took a 3-2 edge on Fawkes' goal from Johnny May and Mike McCowan, but Bratcher tied it up 24 seconds later on an assist from Mike Porter.

With only eight seconds to go in the second period, Joe Beaudoin scored what proved to be the game-winner from Curtin.

Doug Peacock made 31 saves in goal for the Spartans, while Rickey Marnon turned away 21 for CC.

"It was a hard-fought battle between two very disciplined teams," Stevenson coach Mike Harris said. "It was a great game and our guys never quit. We look forward to seeing them again at their rink."

"Bratcher was outstanding," CC coach Gordon St. John said. "The second goal of his was a major-league shot. He smacked that puck and it was in the net. You don't see them any better than that. He tends to be an offensive player, but he played better in the defensive zone tonight and that will make him an outstanding player if he continues to do that.

"Defensively, we were ineffective. We gave up three clear breakaways and you just can't do that. Marnon made some spectacular saves in the third period. Stevenson's well coached. It was a good game to watch, I'm sure."

The Shamrocks' only loss this year came to the Red Wings' Old-Timers, open the season. The Old Timers, featuring former Wings Joey Kocur and Eddie Mio, won, 9-2.

Brad Karabelski and Dan McLellan will be able to tell their kids in the future they scored the goals.

"I have a problem with losing to anybody, but if we get through it all, and you got to lose to somebody, that's a team you wouldn't have too much of a problem with," St. John quipped. "No team's going to do what Trenton did last year (go undefeated and win the Class A title) That's the one you only dream of."

•MILFORD 3, FRANKLIN 2: In the second game Wednesday at Edgar Arena, Jamie Pulk tallied the game-winner with 10 minutes left for the victorious Redskins.

Ryan Zewatsky and Mark Machnak also scored for Milford.

Franklin was tied 1-1 after one period on a goal by Jeremiah White from Dan Hofelich and Greg Job.

The Patriots then tied it 2-all at 1:27 in the third on a power-play goal by Dan Boyle from Hofelich and Eric Hillebrand.

Franklin outshot Milford, 29-16, as Tom Taylor was in the nets for the Patriots.

"We broke down a little bit in the third period, but it was our best effort so far, even from our rookies," Franklin coach Terry Jobbitt said.

•FRANKLIN 4, LAKELAND 3: Phil Brady was sharp in the nets as the Patriots beat host Milford Lakeland in a non-leaguer Tuesday at Lakeland Ice Arena.

Franklin built 3-1 lead in the second period on goals by Josh Burt (from Chad VanHulle and Hillebrand), Rick Leirstein (unassisted) and Job (from Boyle).

Pioneer eliminates Wayne from tourney

BY BRAD EMONS
STAFF WRITER

Too athletic, too deep and too talented.

That's what Wayne Memorial ran into against Ann Arbor Pioneer in the Class A regional basketball final Wednsday at Southgate Anderson.

Pioneer, behind 5-foot-11 forward Ryan Johnson's 22 points, rolled to a convincing 73-54 victory over the Zebras.

Pioneer, now 20-4 overall, advances to the state quarterfinals Tuesday at Lansing Eastern, while Wayne finishes a satisfying season at 18-6.

Johnson, who is bound for Loyola of Chicago, also got plenty of help on the defensive end from 6-foot junior point-guard Julie Epton, who held Wayne's leading scorer Yalanda Holt without a point for the first 12 minutes and 35 seconds.

Sophomore center Lisa Mattison came off the bench to score 14 points, while Sarah Kutschinski and Epton each added 11.

"They are not a one-person team," Wayne coach Chuck Henry said. "Their defense pushed us out farther than we wanted and we didn't get a look of good looks at the basket. Our girls were just not poised enough. And when we did get the ball where we wanted, we missed some easy shots."

Holt, a 5-11 point guard who has signed with Bowling Green, capped a stellar Wayne career up with a game-high 34 points (believed to be a school record).

Rica Barge, a 5-8 senior forward and four-year starter, added 13, but no other Zebra had more than three.

"As long as we held down Holt and No. 34 (Barge) we had a good chance of winning," Pioneer coach Crystal Westfield said. "We had to take those two players out of the game. I thought Julie did a very good job on defense. She's probably our best defensive player."

While Epton provided the defense, Johnson spearheaded the offense.

Bulldogs deny Harrison Class A championship

BY DAN O'MEARA
STAFF WRITER

One of the basic tenets of football is the need for an effective running game.

Grandville had one; Farmington Harrison didn't.

That spelled the difference between the teams Friday as Grandville scored a 24-17 victory over Harrison in the Class A championship game at the Silverdome.

The Bulldogs stayed on the ground for 56 of their 59 offensive plays and 303 yards. Senior fullback Chris Key led the rushing attack with 140 yards and two touchdowns.

"The fullback kept giving them a second-and-three situation, and it was very difficult to stop him," Harrison coach John Herrington said. "We were playing nine men up front in the box at times, and we still didn't stop him."

Just as important to the outcome, Grandville's defense limited a Harrison rushing attack that had averaged 306 yards per game during the playoffs to only 58.

The Hawks (11-2) countered with the passing of senior quarterback Kevin Bambenek, who threw for a state-finals record 282 yards and a touchdown. He also scored a touchdown on a 1-yard sneak.

After the Bulldogs (12-1) had scored to take a 24-17 lead, Harrison began its final possession from its own 24-yard line with 6:31 remaining.

Bambenek led a late drive, completing five of seven passes and moving Harrison to the Grandville 7 where the drive was stopped with 2:18 left on the clock.

On fourth-and-19 from the 22, Bambenek (15-of-24) threw a slant-in to sophomore Ricky Bryant, who was tackled just 4 yards short of the first down.

Grandville took over and ran out the clock.

"We had trouble getting the ball back; when we got it, we had a shot at the end but couldn't quite come up with it," Herrington said. "We thought we would be able to score, but it didn't seem like we had the ball a whole lot."

Bulldogs had the ball almost six minutes longer (26:51-21:09) and were more effective at controlling it in the second half.

Grandville went 71 yards in 11 plays to start the third quarter, using the first 4 1/2 minutes to take a 17-14 lead after Key's 6-yard touchdown run.

The Hawks tied it with Zack Cornwell's 29-yard field goal. A holding penalty wiped out a long pass to sophomore Mike Hoad, but Harrison ran the same play again for a 28-yard gain. Senior Sean Sarsfield got the first down and fourth-and-1 at the Grandville 17 to keep the drive going.

"If we had scored (a touchdown) there, we could have put a little more pressure on them," Herrington said. "I think the key was the kickoff return and our penalty. They were across midfield, and I knew it would be hard to keep them out after that."

Spartans place 4 on 1st team

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

All sorts of claims could be made, I suppose.

Team of the '90s in boys high school soccer? Warren DeLaSalle. With three first-place finishes and a second in the last seven years, it's a good argument.

For all time, since the state tournament began in 1982? How about Troy Athens challenging DeLaSalle, with figures that match (three firsts and a second) during that span?

Two fine programs, without a doubt. But no team can challenge the dominance of Livonia Stevenson — which delivered its sixth state championship in November.

But more, no one can possibly argue the dominance of the Western Lakes Activities Association in soccer.

Three teams from the WLAA have claimed state championships over the past three years. A fourth team, Livonia Churchill, has twice finished second in the state tournament.

In case you're counting, that's eight championships for the WLAA in 15 years.

And seven seconds. In other words, only once (1987) has there been a Class A state final without at least one WLAA representative.

Now that's domination.

So when the Observer picks its best players, you can understand why many of them are from the WLAA — undisputedly the best league in the state.

Which is where the Observer's coach of the year is from, too. It's Walt Barrett, who guided Livonia Stevenson into the WLAA final and then to the Class A championship.

The state title was the second the Spartans have captured since Barrett took over the coaching duties from Pete Scerri.

Another coach worth noting: Dana Orsucci, the first-year Detroit Cathlic Central coach who guided the Shamrocks to their first ever Class A quarterfinal appearance.

FIRST-TEAM PICKS

Brett Konley, forward, Salem: No other player in the WLAA could match Konley for offensive power.

He scored 24 goals and assisted on 10 others. More, he scored in 10 of Salem's 11 regular-season WLAA games, getting shutout only against Stevenson.

"He's one of the most talented and creative players in the state," said Salem coach Ed McCarthy. "He's got a tremendous shot — he really doesn't have a weakness up front."

Konley, who scored the only goal of the game as a sophomore in Salem's state championship match against Portage Northern, is an Olympic Development Program regional player.

Mark Dietrich, forward, Stevenson: Led the Spartans in scoring with 22 goals and 10 assists for 54 points.

"Obviously Mark had some major shoes to fill with the loss of four (first-team All-Area) players, but he worked his tail off all season long and did an outstanding job," Stevenson coach Walt Barrett said.

Dietrich scored the game-winning goal in overtime in the state Class A final in a 2-1 win against Troy.

He is a first-team All-Observer baseball pick as an outfielder.

"If this were baseball, Mark hit a grand slam in the bottom of the ninth when we were down three in the deciding game (against Troy)," Barrett said. "That's what he meant to us this year."

Jason Roy, midfielder, Stevenson: The 6-foot-4, 190-pound co-captain moved up to the forward position for the state playoffs and averaged one point per game. He finished the year with seven goals and seven assists en route to All-Western Lakes Activities Association honors.

"Just a fearless, gutsy leader," Barrett said. "He is one of the most intense players ever to play for Stevenson. Just one helluva tough man.

"He was determined to take the team on his back along with everyone else. Just a class individual and great leader."

Roy assisted on Dietrich's game-winning goal in the state finals and had the game-winner in the pouring rain in a 1-0 semifinal win over Grand Haven.

Tony Moucoulis, midfielder, Redford CC: Moucoulis scored 17 goals and added eight assists for the Shamrocks. His scoring output more than tripled from a year ago when he had five goals to go with eight assists.

"Tony was pretty much our go-to guy, has tremendous skill with a sweet touch," CC coach Dana Orsucci said. "His vision and passing are excellent. We wanted to direct the offense to Tony. He was like the choreographer of the offense."

Matt Sarkesian, midfielder, Salem: Sarkesian makes his second appearance on the all-Observer first team for a good reason — talent.

One of the area's best all-around players, Sarkesian — Salem's center midfielder — totaled five goals and eight assists this season.

"He's one of the best players at distributing the ball that Salem's ever had," said McCarthy. "And he's very strong defensively, he was always able to get back and make key tackles."

Like Konley, Sarkesian is also highly-regarded in the ODP regional program.

Mike Martin, midfielder, Redford CC: Martin scored nine goals for the Shamrocks, some coming at the most opportune times. He had the game winner in a 2-1 win over Birmingham Brother Rice and both goals in a 2-0 win over U-D Jesuit in the Class A regional semfinal.

He also contributed 11 assists while giving the Shamrocks steady two-way play along with Moucoulis at midfield.

"Somehow, someway, Mike would score huge goals for us," Orsucci said. "His game against U-D was maybe the best game I've seen a high school player play. He has a great shot, attitude and upper body strength. He can switch the ball and is effective on offense and defense."

Jason Bennett, midfielder, Canton: Bennett was valuable for the Chiefs wherever he played.

A midfielder for much of the regular season, Canton coach Don Smith switched him to marking defender for the last couple of weeks and throughout the playoffs. He finished the season with one goal and 11 assists, and a berth on the all-WLAA team.

"He was definitely a very heady ball player," said Smith, whose team reached the regional final before losing 1-0 to Stevenson. "He has a good, solid background in soccer — he knew what to do with the ball.

"When I needed him on defense, he did a great job. He's a big kid, you couldn't take him off the ball. And he's excellent in the air. He really could play anywhere."

Scott Babinski, defender, Stevenson: The 6-3, 180-pound co-captain came up big in several games this season on the offensive end, scoring 11 goals and contributing 13 assists.

"He is one of the most skilled players around who led by example and led by class," Barrett said. "He was our iceman on the backline _ solid, skilled and intelligent. Just a team leader. His disciplined play rubbed off on others."

Babinski was also an All-Western Lakes choice.

Matt Ammons, defender, Canton: There was nothing too flashy about Ammons. He just did his job, which was marking the opponents' best midfielder.

And he consistently did it well.

Ammons scored just one goal this season, but it was a memorable one: He headed in the game-winner against Plymouth Salem in the state district tournament.

"He showed some improvement in our systems, but we still need a lot of work," Jobbitt said. "We are very impressed on how hard each player is working on their great effort."

yards on 15 carries, made a nice return on the kickoff, and the Hawks were called for a face-mask penalty. Harrison was penalized eight times for 85 yards overall.

Grandville started at the Harrison 42 and scored the winning TD in nine plays. Quarterback Dick Morton scrambled 16 yards on a busted play to the 10 and scored on a 1-yard keeper at 6:38 in the fourth quarter.

"Some think we're boring to watch, but we know how to block — bodies on bodies," Throop said. "Our backs ran hard, and we didn't turn ball over except for the interception (by Adam Smerecki at the end of the first half). It was a matter of doing what we do best, coming right at you with tough hard-nosed football."

Harrison scored on its first two possessions to take a quick lead. A penalty for pass interference moved the ball to the Grandville 20; Bambenek passed 19 yards to Sarsfield and carried the final yard.

On second down after a Grandville punt, Bryant got a step on Kirby Jackson and hauled in a pass from Bambenek along the sideline for a 72-yard touchdown. Cornwell's PAT made it 14-0 midway in the first quarter.

The Bulldogs answered with a 75-yard, 10-play scoring drive that ended with Key's 1-yard run. Morton's only completion of the game was a 22-yarder Bryan Pinder to the Harrison 25.

Harrison forced Grandville to settle for a 26-yard field by Zach Elbert. The Hawks had a 56-yard touchdown pass to Smerecki nullified by holding but still led 14-10 at halftime.

"We knew once they got the ball we were going to have trouble stopping them," Herrington said. "They got hold of the ball and kept pounding it at us. We have a lot of guys going both ways, and they wore us down."

Junior halfback Jimmy Le added 64 yards on seven carries for the Bulldogs.

Sarsfield led the Hawks with 54 yards on 11 attempts.

Bambenek stars in defeat

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Farmington Harrison quarterback Kevin Bambenek passed for a record 282 yards Friday in the Class A football final at the Silverdome, and if he had his druthers he would have finished with 286.

Not for selfish reasons, but for his team's sake.

Bambenek's last pass on fourth-and-19 from the Grandville 22-yard line was caught by sophomore wide receiver Ricky Bryant, who was tackled 4 yards short of a first down.

With only 2:10 remaining in the game and Harrison's chances exhausted, the Bulldogs needed just one first down to clinch their first state title with a 24-17 victory.

Bambenek was brilliant in his final high school game.

His 15 pass completions (24 attempts)-and total offense of 265 yards (after a minus-17 rushing yards is subtracted from his passing) are Class A final-game records.

He easily surpassed the all-classes record for yards thrown in one game, held by John Hutchinson of Onsted, who passed for 257 in the 1993 Class CC final against Hartford.

Bambenek scored Harrison's first touchdown on a 1-yard sneak and threw a 72-yard touchdown pass to Bryant. He also had a 56-yard touchdown pass to Adam Smerecki in the first half called back because of a holding penalty.

But Bambenek would gladly trade all of it for another state championship.

"I don't think it really matters how many yards you get," said Bambenek, the starting quarterback when the Hawks won the Class A title in 1994. "The fact is the loss is what matters. It wouldn't have mattered if I threw for zero yards and we won. Coach (Bob) Sutter and (John) Herrington always remind us of the tradition behind us. We have a lot of Hawk Pride, and we wanted it real bad."

Bambenek showed poise on his team's final possession, which started at the Hawks' 24-yard line. He completed four passes, including a one-handed, 15-yard grab by sophomore tight end Mike Hoad that gave the Hawks a first down at their own 47.

The drive eventually ended at the Grandville 7 after Bambenek's fourth-down pass to Bryant.

Herrington said the play was to be a hook-and-ladder, but Bambenek audibled at the line of scrimmage after seeing the defensive formation.It almost worked.

"I saw their safety way over (toward the sideline) and thought I could hit the slant to Ricky," Bambenek said. "You go with your instincts. This year we had no stars, and we needed someone to make the big play. I felt I could bring the team back, but we came up a little short."

In a semifinal win Monday over Monroe, Johnson had 27 of Pioneer's 30 first-half points.

Against Wayne, Johnson had three field goals and a three-pointer for nine first-quarter points as Pioneer built a 16-5 lead.

Wayne turned the ball over 11 times in the first quarter and six more times in the second quater as Pioneer enjoyed a 30-17 halftime advantage.

The Zebras, who shot only 31.4 percent from the floor (17 of 54), never got closer than 12 points the rest of the way.

"We can go really deep and we wanted to give people a break," Westfield said. "Everyone knows their role on this team and did what they were supposed to do.

"We moved the ball well and didn't make many turnovers (only 12). We have good team chemistry and I think we played a great game."

All four of Pioneer's losses have come against quality opponents _ Detroit Cody, Plymouth Salem, No. 1-ranked Flint Northern and unbeaten Howell (their next opponent).

For Wayne, it was satisfying season.

"We were 18-6, co-champs in our league (Mega-Red) and got to the regional after winning the district," Henry said. "We were 34-12 over the last two years and there were some good positive things that occurred. But it ended with few tears, but that's tournament basketball."

Borgess gets past Richard, 61-43

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

Redford Bishop Borgess student manager Angie Montgomery proved to be the next best thing to having a back therapist on the bench.

Montgomery's treatment of senior center Candice Finley's back at halftime of Wednesday's Class C regional final did wonders for the Spartans' chances against Riverview Gabriel Richard.

Finley grabbed 10 of her game-high 13 rebounds in the second half when the Spartans pulled away from a determined Richard team en route to a 61-43 victory at Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher.

The Spartans enjoyed a 35-22 rebounding advantage, including a 23-11 edge in the second half.

Richard assistant coach Barb Gamber is a back therapist, but the Spartans couldn't expect an opponent to cure their ailments.

"Angie was working on Candice's back at halftime because it was so sore," Borgess coach Dave Mann said. "Finley was the star of the game, she really rebounded when it didn't seem like everyone else was."

Junior center Ayisha Smith led the Spartans with 25 points and grabbed nine rebounds, while Finley added 16 points and junior guard Christina Anderson contributed 10.

There might not be a more potent rebounding combination in the state than Borgess' frontline of Finley, Smith and junior forward Koren Merchant.

"I think we should get all the boards," said Finley, admitting that some words from Mann at halftime did as much good as Montgomery's hands. "My back was sore. Coach told us to come out, be aggressive and play our game – but don't rush our shots."

The win sends the Spartans to the quarterfinal for the fourth straight year. Borgess, which has won two of the last three state championships, will play Goodrich at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Oxford High School.

Goodrich is led by all-state guard Carrie Nance, who has signed with Kent State, one of the top teams in the Mid-American Conference.

Richard bowed out of the state tournament with a 19-5 record.

The sister tandem of junior guard Carissa Gizicki and freshman guard Callie Gizicki led the Pioneers with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

"They made some big-time shots," Mann said.

Borgess led only 28-24 at halftime and 38-30 after three quarters before a 6-0 run to start the fourth quarter put Richard's chances in severe jeopardy.

"We tried. They are a great team," Richard coach Jim Duffy said. "I don't know what the board difference was, but it was quite a bit.

"I'm proud of the girls and it was a good season. We always like to play Borgess. We don't quit, give them a full run for their money. Their coach told us it's a shame our two teams have to meet this early. Two years ago we met in the same round and lost only by 12 and they went on to win in the championship game by 32."

The Pioneers will lose seniors Heather Gulyas, Mary Sobczak, Michelle LaMothe, Cheryl Wolan, Carla Cucinella and Devon Brisky to graduation, but return a strong nucleus for next year.

"I think we'll meet again next year," Duffy said. "At least we won't have to battle 33 (Finley) under the boards."

Sophomore forward Shermaine Drake scored a season-high four points for the Spartans and was proudly holding the regional trophy afterwards. It looked a little heavy for the lean Drake. "I actually have something on my arms," Drake said. "You should have seen me a while ago."

Drake's fast break basket after a block by Merchant ended the 6-0 run to start the fourth quarter and gave the Spartans a 44-30 lead. Drake must be doing something instead of just watching in the weight room.

"We get her in there all the time – I don't know what she does – but she knows the location," Mann joked. "Shermaine played a great game, just tremendous. She gave us a nice lift, created turnovers."

Cavalier coupe high on quality, convenience

ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

When the 1982 Chevrolet Cavalier was introduced in 1981, it was boxy, functional, economical, no-nonsense transportation. Because of its bare-bones price, teeny engine that got great mileage and compact size, it became the best-selling car in the U.S. within three years of its birth.

Last redesigned for the 1995 model year, the Cavalier has evolved into something entirely different.

No longer does it have a sluggish engine. Or its unappealing boxy exterior. Or its cramped interior.

What it still retains, however, is its low price — just $12,225 — and its great mileage (depending on the engine and transmission mix it's between 22 mpg in the city and 37 on the highway).

What's changed the most is the Cavalier's appearance. It's still a compact, so you're not going to get four large adults in there without a bit of a struggle. You can seat four, of course, but make sure they're not tall or portly or it won't be easy.

The best thing about this Cavalier is that it's deceptive. It acts more like a Camaro than anything else. Gaze out the front window and you even feel like you're in a sports car.

That's the beauty of the new Cavalier.

Tested was the RS (Rally Sport) coupe. Also available are the coupe, Z24 coupe, sedan and convertible models.

Standard is a 2.2-liter in-line 4-cylinder that provides 120 horses. That's enough to propel this little puppy through the streets and freeways easily. The optional engine on the LS sedan and convertible and standard on the Z24 is a 2.4-liter twin cam with 150 horses.

The 2.2-liter is far from sluggish. Granted, I drove the RS coupe in above 40-degree weather. But even on colder mornings, it really performed well coming out of the box. No problem merging onto the freeways, either.

On the exterior, the Rally Sport looks really neat. It's got flattering lines and curves all the way around and with its rear spoiler, bodyside moldings, body-color fascias and 15-inch aluminum wheels and touring tires, it's really a looker.

Other neat stuff on the Rally Sport include embroidered "Rally Sport" on the front-seat headrests, a cool 3-dimensional decal on the rear quarter panels, tachometer and AM/FM stereo — all standard. It certainly sets it apart from the rest of the Cavalier family.

Standard is a 5-speed manual transmission. The 4-speed electronically controlled automatic transmission will cost you about $800, but there's a traction control system on it, so it's well worth the money. You won't suffer in the performance category with the automatic, either.

I was impressed with the ride quality. Road noise was nearly non-existent.

Look at this list of standard safety features: Dual airbags, 4-wheel anti-lock brakes, child security rear-door locks, a PassLock theft-deterrent system, rear-seat safety belt comfort guides (for children and small adults) and body and side trim revisions that meet the side impact requirements.

Hate maintenance? This Cavalier's for you. Both engines feature extended-life coolant good for five years or 100,000 miles, platinum-tipped spark plugs that don't need service until 100,000 miles and automatic transmission fluid that never needs replacement. All under normal operating conditions, of course.

The Cavalier RS has a rigid body structure and tuned suspension, so you'll get predictable, responsive handling.

The front hood slopes down sharply and disappears from your sight. It was unnerving, at first, because you'd think you wouldn't be able to judge front distance properly. Nothing is further from the truth. What you've got is wonderful visibility instead.

One thing really important to me, lately, is seat-belt comfort. The Cavalier has three-point energy-absorbing seat belts that are really easy to put on and wear in comfort. They don't cut across your neck and are very comfortable to wear.

Got kids? No problem. Standard equipment includes full Scotchgard protection throughout the vehicle. Value is enhanced with a stainless-steel exhaust system as well.

The remote keyless entry system uses a high-frequency radio signal that transmits a coded message to the car, locking or unlocking it. Turns out it wasn't so unique at our local Meijer grocery store.

I pressed the unlock button from about 25-30 feet away and unlocked two other GM products parked next to the Cavalier. The way I noticed was the loud "CLUNK" as all three vehicles unlocked. Pressed the "lock" button and it happened again. Funny.

Almost as funny as the day my mom hopped into her car at the grocery store, started the car, looked back to see if anyone was in the way, and noticed a big brown stuffed bear in the back seat. Her car was parked next to the car she was in! She was so afraid the real owner would discover her mistake she hurried to unload so she could load the groceries into her own car, dropping a bag in the process.

Anyway, the Cavalier is a real sound choice in the compact sedan and coupe market. The price, the size, the mileage, the ride and handling — even the engine and convenience features — make the Cavalier a real value in today's crowded market. Consider it.

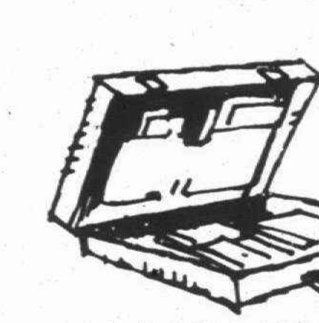
WRITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results–whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise–is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!



2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

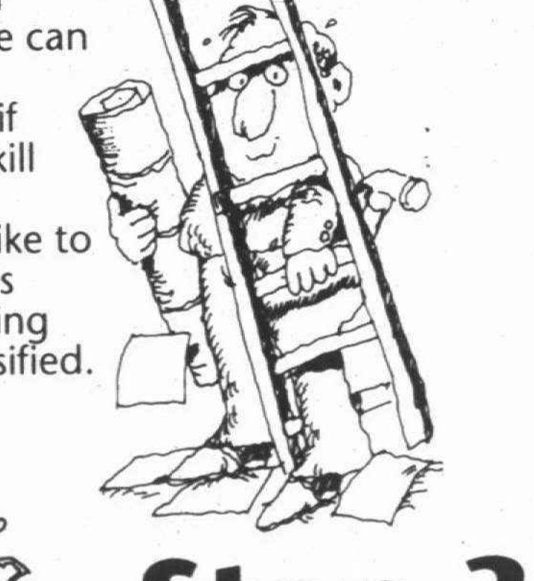
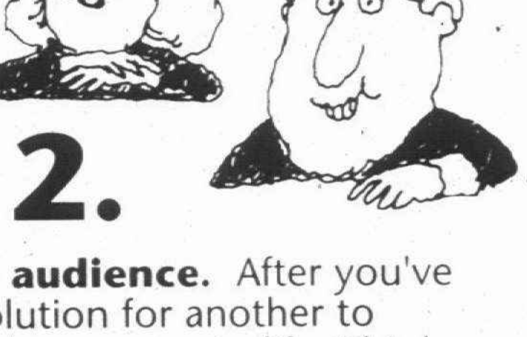
Step 1.

Sell a solution! Your old rattle trap is a teen's dream machine. That old set of golf clubs is sure to be a big hit with a beginner. Here's the point: Your former treasure can bring another pleasure. And if you've got a skill to market or service you'd like to provide–there's someone looking for you in classified.





Step 2.

Aim for an audience. After you've selected a solution for another to seize, bring that person to life. Think about your product or service and its original value to you, then detail its features and benefits to another individual. When you put those benefits into words, other like you will find value too. And that's of value to you!

Step 3.

Contact classified. Give us a call. You'll cash in on the speed and effectiveness of the dynamic classified marketplace. Each day, highly motivated readers are seeking services and solutions for a variety of needs. Turn to the classified pages, and you'll turn your item to be sold into money! It's as easy as 1-2-3!

BUY IT. SELL IT. FIND IT. CLASSIFIED.

WINTERFEST
NOW THRU DEC. 17 ON PBS

Charming cast delivers an unexpected holiday delight

By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate

Noah Fleiss

A cast of charming actors and a sensitive but unsentimental teleplay add up to a welcome holiday surprise in an unexpected family, a USA Network original movie premiering Wednesday, Dec. 4.

Former Oscar™ nominee Stockard Channing (Six Degrees of Separation) stars with Stephen Collins (7th Heaven) and Christine Ebersole (Ink) in this comedy-drama about a driven New York career woman who finds herself unwillingly thrust into the role of surrogate mother.

As the story opens, Barbara Whitney (Channing) is rushing to get ready for a blind date when she gets an unexpected visit from her younger sister, Ruth (Ebersole). Although the two clearly do not get along well, Ruth asks Barbara to look after her children, Matt and Megan, for a few hours.

Barbara refuses, but as she leaves her apartment building she finds Matt (Noah Fleiss) and Megan (Chelsea Russo) sitting in Ruth's car with a note reading, "Back by 10, Love, Ruth."

The next day, Ruth calls Barbara to announce that she is flying to London. Barbara, along with the children and Sam (Collins), her widowed best friend, rushes to the airport to confront Ruth, who babbles that she is a terrible mother and the kids would be better off with Barbara. Ruth boards the plane without looking back.

As days turn into weeks, then weeks into months, Barbara's grudging acceptance of the children slowly turns into affection, nurtured by Sam's open enthusiasm for this "unexpected family."

Then, more than a year after she vanished, Ruth reappears to announce that she is taking back the children.

Screenwriter/producer Lee Rose (A Mother's Prayer) is on well-trodden ground here, with a basic premise that's familiar to anyone who has seen Kramer vs. Kramer or even Debbie Reynolds in My Six Loves. From the moment the handsome and conveniently available Sam murmurs to Barbara how sorry he is that he and his late wife never had children, we don't need a road map to see where this movie is going.

But Rose has a terrific ear for casual dialogue and, as performed by this winning cast under Larry Elikann's loose-limbed direction, big moments sneak up and catch us unaware.

In one scene, Matt asks Barbara why she gave up painting to take a museum job. She shrugs, gives a wry smile, and says, "Because there's this little voice inside your head that says, 'Hey! You're no good!' "

"Oh, yeah," Matt says matter-of-factly, "the same one my mom hears."

Of course, Rose is after bigger game here: she has bone to pick with judges who reflexively award custody to a child's natural mother without adequately considering what's truly in that child's best interest.

Thankfully, however, Rose is intelligent enough to get her message across with subtlety and finesse. Apart from the saintly Sam (Collins is splendid, though), all of the characters are complex and credible. Both Russo and Fleiss are marvelously unaffected young actors. And even when Ruth pulls a heinous maneuver in the custody hearing, we can tell that it's a move made out of sheer desperation, not calculated evil.

an unexpected family may be unconventional holiday fare, but that makes it no less welcome – and only a Grinch would say no to spending a couple of hours with Channing and company.

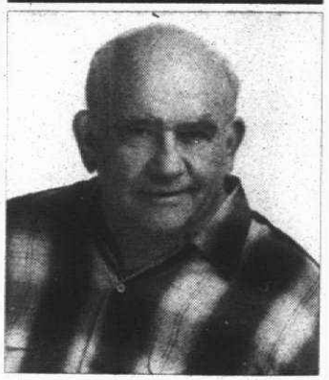
IN FOCUS



Ed Asner provides the jolly voice of Nicholas Claus in The Story of Santa Claus, an animated holiday special offering a new look at how the Christmas figure got his start. It premieres Wednesday, Dec. 4, on CBS.

After Nicholas and his wife are evicted from their toy store with just a bag of toys, they decide to bring the toys to an orphanage. But they are caught in a storm and land at the North Pole where they meet a band of elves.

Betty White and Tim Curry also lend their voices to this project.

Bostwick enjoys 'Fox' trotting in Spin City ensemble

By Suzanne Gill
TVData Features Syndicate

After playing George Washington in two miniseries and the mayor of New York City in ABC's freshman hit Spin City, airing Tuesdays, Barry Bostwick can't be blamed for observing "politics is show business to me."

But unlike most of the people in each of these professions, Bostwick says he has no desire to be the center of attention.

"The need that politicians have to be in the spotlight is foreign to me."

"I started out on the stage doing musicals and things, where you have to have that sort of attitude or else you can't stand front and center and sing a song," observes the man who starred in the original Broadway production of Grease.

"But that doesn't thrill me anymore," Bostwick says. "I don't really need that kind of attention personally in my life. So, I'm able to work on a different level with my acting. It's not just about 'Look at me, look at me.'

"What it is about is ensemble work. You have to be able to play off of other people."

Bostwick's role in Spin City offers him that chance while honing his skills as a comedic actor.

Situation comedy, Bostwick says, is "rhythmic, physical. It's like a dance, a piece of music. There's a pace to it that has to be kept up."

If Bostwick's work in Spin City is like dancing, then his partner is Michael J. Fox, the show's point-of-sale star. And their height difference of 11 inches creates an immediately funny situation.

"We're making our physical height difference work for us," Bostwick says. "We're living with it joyfully."

To minimize the difference, one or both of the actors is often seated in their scenes. At other times, they walk down a hall, shoulder to elbow. One head peeks around a corner, then the other head cranes for a view, higher up.

"Fox has no problem with it," Bostwick says. "He's not insecure about his size. He sees it as just another way for us to be funny."

Raised in San Mateo, Calif., near San Francisco, Bostwick attended college in San Diego. He made his Broadway debut in the title role of Cock-a-Doodle-Dandy, then created the character Danny Zuko in Grease. He won a Tony Award for The Robber Bridgeroom and earned standing ovations in a New York City Opera production of L'Histoire du Soldat.

"I lived in New York for over 10 years, then I started becoming bicoastal in about 1978. I kept a place in New York even up to the early '80s and finally give it up because I realized that most of my work was going to be in California," Bostwick says.

He appeared in The Rocky Horror Picture Show and won a Golden Globe for War and Remembrance. He was a leading man in three Judith Krantz and one Danielle Steel miniseries. And then there was Weekend at Bernie's II.

"What that did for me was it gave me an opportunity to be funny and to work on my physical humor, which is stuff that I am exploring in Spin City."

The series debuted this fall to a chorus of "*Benson*redux" from the critics, comparing Mayor Randall Winston and his chief aide, played by Fox, to the cheerily dim-witted governor and his butler of that 1980s hit. But Bostwick's Winston has quickly and deliberately moved away from the image of benign befuddlement.

"A man like that couldn't run New York City," Bostwick observes.

"So we have been enthusiastically changing him, finding him areas where he can be funny and smart at the same time, finding him ways to wield power in his own universe while Michael still has his universe to control.

"I'm happy with the direction he's going. As the audience sticks with us, I hope they're going to see a real metamorphosis. I think he will become something that is endearing, opinionated, strong and funny at the same time.

"Physically he's sort of based on that John Lindsey-esque figure," Bostwick notes, referring to the patrician former mayor of New York City. "There's always going to be that sort of slight aristocratic feeling about him. He's one of those old-time older sons from the rich families who grew up either to become priests or to become politicians. You either changed the world through their spiritual outlook or you got in there and changed the world from a very practical standpoint."

Though it wasn't his first choice to settle his young family (Bostwick and his wife just had their second child) so far from his parents, the actor is firmly convinced that "if you're doing a series about New York, you better be there, if you want it to have any ring of reality.

"We're out on the streets every other week, shooting a scene in a limousine or on a boardwalk or down at the Battery," Bostwick explains.

"Nobody has come up to me on the street and said, 'Mr. Mayor, Mr. Mayor! What about the sewer problem on 23rd Street?' But I'm expecting that as this show goes on, I will be asked to solve some problems."

SOAP TALK

Mommies taking over daytime

By Candace Havens

Babies, babies everywhere!

Colleen Dion (ex-Brett, Another World) gave birth to a baby boy, Lawrence George Scotti, on Oct. 8.

Larry Scotti, the father of the child, is an operations manager at NBC and has been with Colleen for three years. The couple met and fell in love while Colleen was working on AW. They plan to wed in the near future.

Tracey E. Bregman (Lauren, The Bold and the Beautiful) and her husband, Ron Recht, welcomed their second child, Landon Reed, on Oct. 18. Landon weighed 8 pounds, 12 ounces.

Several readers missed the news about Rena Sofer (ex-Lois, General Hospital). Sofer and her husband, Wallace Kurth (Ned, GH), brought Rosabel Rosalind Kurth into the world on Sept. 17.

Dear Candace: I had to write to express my deep disappointment in The Young and the Restless.

I can't believe Nikki (Melody Thomas Scott) married that doctor! And the idea of Victor (Eric Braeden) going back with Hope (Signy Coleman) is ridiculous. I have been a loyal fan, but I won't be anymore.

After all these years, I thought Victor and Nikki would finally tie the knot again. My friends and I are so angry with this latest turn of events that we are now fans of ABC's All My Children. -Mary C., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Dear Reader: Fans of Nikki and Victor are in an uproar all over the world. Everyone, except the Y&R writers, thought Nikki and Victor would finally be together.

Scott and Braeden, who play the characters, would be more than happy to be matched again. They both miss working with each other.

Dear Candace: Tell me who writes for Days of Our Lives. They must have very sick minds. -A friend in Maryland.

Dear Reader: For now, James Reilly is the head writer. His contract is supposedly up in 1997.

Christmas is a time for enjoying family traditions – whether that means singing carols, decking the halls or gathering around the TV to watch holiday programming.

This year, The Family Channel is making it easy to find your favorite seasonal shows with 25 Days of Christmas, a holiday viewing extravaganza that airs between four and 12 hours of Christmas programming every day beginning Sunday, Dec. 1, and continuing through Wednesday, Dec. 25.

"Christmas is for family," says Gus Lucas, senior vice president of programming for Family. "Families of all kinds can curl up in front of the fire and turn on The Family Channel, knowing they will find the magic of the season."

Headlining 25 Days of Christmas are original movies, musical events and animated specials.

Christmas Every Day, a comedy starring Erik Von Detten, premieres Sunday. Von Detten (Toy Story) plays 13-year-old Billy Jackson, a humbug who wakes up to find that it's going to be Christmas every day of the year until he learns to appreciate the true meaning of the holiday. The movie also stars Robert Hays (Airplane) and Bess Armstrong (My So-Called Life).

Music lovers will want to tune in to Kenny Rogers: The Gift, airing Wednesday, Dec. 4. The country singer teams up with guest star Wynonna to perform songs from his new Christmas album.

And animation fans won't want to miss Aliens First Christmas, airing Sunday. The sci-fi comedy details the adjustment of a family relocated to a planet that doesn't observe the holiday.

There's bound to be something for everyone during the more than 170 hours of seasonal programming, which includes adaptations of such favorites as Yes, Virginia, There Is a Santa Claus, airing Thursday, Dec. 5.

With more than 126 shows from which to choose, 25 Days of Christmas is a good place to turn to celebrate the Christmas spirit.
