Top officials mull pension perk

Full-time elected officials serving at least 10 years would get lifetime health insurance with a pension proposal under consideration by the township board.

BY VALERIE OLANDER

Canton Supervisor Tom Yack and Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter would be eligible for retiree health benefits at age 55 during their current term in office under a proposal being considered by officials.

If re-elected in 2001, Clerk Terry Bennett also would be eligible for the same retiree benefits in the middle of her third term in office.

A proposal being considered by officials would provide retiree health benefits to full-time elected officials if they serve for at least 10 years.

Kirchgatter has served in elective office since 1988 when first appointed, and then elected, to an unexpired term of a four-year trustee seat. Yack was re-elected to his third term in office in November.

Originally, the recommendation was to give the retiree health insurance benefits after two terms or eight years in office, however, officials asked the Elected Officials Compensation Committee to reconsider, said Dan Durack, director of Administrative Services. The committee will meet prior to a board of trustees study session on Tuesday to revise the proposal.

The committee is comprised of Durack, Bennett and trustees John Burdziak and Bob Shefferly. The board of trustees will vote on the issue sometime in early February, Durack said.

"If someone takes 10 to 12 years out of their working life (to serve in public office) that's a lot to ask for someone to go without retiree benefits, especially with Social Security in the shape it's in," said Shefferly, who also supported the eight-year eligibility plan.

The township would pay 100 percent of the group rate for health insurance for the full-time officials, their spouses and dependent children to age 19 after attaining the age of 55.

Photographer discovers her natural focus

BY ZACHARY GORCHOW

For Lori Franzen, photography comes as naturally as the earthly scenes she loves to photograph.

Franzen, an Ann Arbor resident who is an occupational therapist in the Plymouth-Canton School District, has seen her work appear in the pages of Michigan Natural Resources Magazine and won numerous awards.

Becoming a photographer came out of her interests in gardening, traveling, hiking and birdwatching, she said.

"I like activities that have an artistic background," she said. "This kind of pulls together the science and art that have been a big part of my life. This gives me a good basis to photograph because you should know your subjects very well."

Low MEAP scores puzzle school officials

School-by-school results, A2

Plymouth-Canton students scored lower on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program test than they did last year, and school officials want to know why.

The fourth- and seventh-graders who took the state standardized test in October showed an overall decline in math and reading.

"Truthfully, I don't think we can explain it," said Verna Anible, director of instruction for the school district. "We need to look very carefully, do an item-by-item analysis. We want to take a look at our curriculum, and compare it to the state's suggested core curriculum, because that is what the tests are based on."

Plymouth-Canton scores reflected a statewide trend toward lower scores this year.

Parents will receive their children's scores with report cards before the end of the month, said Judy Evola, community relations director. A complete report on the district scores will be presented to the board of education at the 7 p.m. meeting on Feb. 4 at the E.J. McClendon Educational Center, she said.

Overall in Plymouth-Canton, 66.6 percent of fourth-graders achieved a satisfactory rating in math. Among seventh-graders, 65.3 percent were ranked in the satisfactory category.

In reading, 57.1 percent of Plymouth-Canton fourth-graders earned a satisfactory ranking. In math, 50.3 percent of seventh-graders were rated satisfactory.

Inaugural-bound

Traveling with 14 Plymouth and Canton pompon girls to Washington for today's presidential inaugural are Mid-American All Star Pompon Team staffers Dana Grondzieleski, Stacey Gravett and Heidi Balatico.

The three women, all from Canton and all former pompon squad members, now work part time for the team while attending college.

A story about the trip appeared in the Jan. 13 Observer.

Glaucoma screenings

A local optometrists' office is offering free glaucoma screenings this week to help mark National Glaucoma Awareness Week.

Drs. Thomas Cassidy and Brian Pierce of the Vision Center, 43050 Ford Road, will conduct the screenings and offer information about the disease 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Saturday. No appointment is necessary.

About 1 in 50 people over age 35 develop glaucoma. The condition is difficult to treat because symptoms don't often appear until the disease has progressed to advanced stages. The early diagnosis test is simple and painless.

For information on the free screenings, call the Vision Center, 981-2700.

Virtual climbers

A Canton business, International Purchasing Service, is donating a laptop computer to a group of Downriver students following an expedition up Mt. Kilmanjaro in Tanzania this month.

Adventure Expeditions of Wyandotte is coordinating the student project, with students in five area school districts contacting the climbers via cellular phone, E-mail and the Internet for progress reports on the expedition, dubbed the "Climb for Conservation."

Funds raised during the climb will be donated to the Mountain Gorilla Veterinary Project, designed to ensure the survival of this endangered species. Mt. Kilmanjaro is the tallest free-standing mountain in the world at 19,340 feet above sea level.

Labor problems mean trip canceled for some

Last year, West Middle School teacher Jodi Ring confronted what seemed an insurmountable challenge: working with a student from Bosnia who spoke no English.

"He had a difficult time with the word 'the,'" recalled Ring. "He couldn't read, so even the basics were tough."

Ring was amazed at how things began to click when West students attended a science camp in Gregory, Mich. "He held a snake in his hand, and said, 'snake.' He could identify a turtle," said Ring. "We don't have all those things in the classroom. For 2 him to put his hands on these animals and be able to speak about them was real exciting for him."

Students at West and their parents are disappointed that science camp - traditionally a district-wide sixth-grade field trip and part of this year's curriculum at Central, East and Pioneer middle schools - isn't being offered.

Lowell Middle School sixth-graders aren't going either. The field trip isn't contractually required for teachers. Staff at Central, East, and Pioneer volunteered to go.

Grant gives interchange landscaping green light

BY VALERIE OLANDER

Last year the Michigan Department of Transportation denied a request from Canton Township to add another ramp to I-275 at Cherry Hill to alleviate the congestion on Ford Road.

Things are looking brighter, though.

MDOT recently approved a $239,371 grant for landscaping at the Ford Road and I-275 interchange. At least motorists sitting in traffic on Ford Road can enjoy the scenery. A spring planting is planned.2

the recommendation of the Ford Road Task Force, a group of residents that studied the strip several years ago and made various other suggestions such as extending the Downtown Development District.

The beautification of the interchange was listed as a high priority item, said Mike Ager of Canton's Resource Development Department.

"It can look uninviting to people coming to the township. This is our ton district, Anible said it's too soon to explain them.

"We certainly can't at this time. It's something we will look at as we do our item-by-item analysis," she said. "We'll look at what things were different in particular buildings that brought positive results, and those we'll continue to do.

"We'll also look at things done in buildings that we'll want to consider changing if we feel that they may have had some impact on the scores."

The good news is that while scores fluctuate from year to year, "there still is a trend in the district of continuous improvement, which is our goal," said Anible.

"But we are not satisfied with the scores; we're not pleased with them. We still need to strive for improvement."

A cross-section of school personnel will analyze the MEAP results.

"The process will involve Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Pat O'Donnell, myself, the curriculum coordinators, principals, learning specialists, and all of the teachers," said Anible.

"We'll take a look at the tests and items students did well on, and items they didn't do as well on. We'll see if there are ways we can strengthen our curriculum so that students perform better in the areas of their weaknesses."

Teachers and administrators will target test questions that many students missed.

"We'll look to see whether the material is included in our curriculum; whether it's included at the appropriate grade level; and whether enough time, emphasis and review are allotted so that students stay current with that information," Anible said.

A cursory look shows another bright spot, she added.

"When this year's seventh-graders were fourth-graders, there were fewer kids in the satisfactory range. We were successful in moving some from the moderate into the satisfactory category. Not only they did they keep pace in fifth and sixth grade, but they were able to make some higher-than-average gains," she said.

Anible joined the district earlier this school year. Most recently, she worked in Monroe Public Schools as an elementary principal. She also taught in that district at the elementary and secondary levels.

"Plymouth-Canton is an outstanding district. A lot of work has been done on the curriculum, and Pat O'Donnell has been wonderful to work with," said Anible.

Evola noted that variables change each year, affecting scores. "Those variables include different groups of students; different test questions; and this year's earlier testing date which resulted in less time for review after summer vacation," said Evola.

The Observer will examine MEAP test results for area private schools in an upcoming story.

LORI FRANZEN

Resources Magazine also helped spark her involvement in photography, Franzen said.

"It wasn't until I heard about Michigan Natural Resources that I thought, 'I sure would like to do that,' " she said. "I took a photography class in college, but it never occurred to me that I could pursue it in a serious manner."

After winning first place in the Detroit Audubon Society slide contest and first and second place in the Greater Detroit Camera Club Council awards for nature slides in the beginners' division, Franzen's work appeared on the cover of Michigan Natural Resources Magazine.

"I was totally shocked," she said. "I knew I was going to be in the (1995) calendar, but (being on the cover) totally took me by surprise."

Her work also appears in the most recent MDNR publication.

Franzen has also won awards from the Motor City Camera Club and the "Focus on Michigan" photography contest. Her work has also appeared in the Columbus Dispatch and the 1997 U.S. Humane Society calendar.

When Franzen sees a potentially stunning setting for a photo, she tries to isolate the image for clarity and concentrate on exposure, she said.

"Nature photography is bringing order out of chaos," she said. "It's simplifying the subject and the image."

But if the photo develops poorly, Franzen keeps it in perspective, she said.

"Sometimes even if the photograph doesn't turn out, it's the experience," she said. "It's so peaceful to be outdoors in the morning. It just rejuvenates your soul."

Hal Blacher, a member of the Motor City Camera Club with Franzen, said she possesses strong photographic abilities.

"She's a very skilled photographer," said Blacher, a Southfield resident. "Her work speaks for itself."

Blacher, who joined the camera club in 1981, said he has seen impressive progress in the quality of her work since she first began attending meetings.

"She has vastly improved since she first started," he said. "Her compositions are better, her pictures are sharper."

Ray Franzen, Lori's husband, said he enjoys supporting her work.

"I'm all for it," he said. "It works very well for our scheme of things. I like going out into nature too."

The two spend time together, while giving each other space to enjoy their activities, Ray said.

"I might encourage her to go ahead and do something without her worrying that I'm having a good time," he said. "I'll go fishing for two or three hours and then we'll meet up."

Ray Franzen said he admires his wife's work.

"She's got a great eye for things," he said. "Usually, the stuff she picks to enter (in contests) confirms (the family's) belief that she has a knack for this."

main entry to Canton," said Supervisor Tom Yack.

The landscaping project includes a "Welcome to Canton" sign in place of the current sign on the northwest corner of Ford and Haggerty. Another site for a similar entry sign will be located east of I-275.

The Michigan Transportation Enhancement Grant program pays 80 percent of the total project costs of $299,371. Canton will pay the remaining cost, plus an additional $8,980 to Wayne County for administering the grant funds.

Since Canton doesn't received Act 51 money (gas and weight tax) directly from the state for its roads, the grant application had to be submitted through Wayne County Department of Public Service.

Festival catches on as crowds grow, temps drop

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Over 15 years of Plymouth ice festival Saturdays, the high temperature has been below 30 degrees only three times.

And when a high temperature of 65 degrees ruined the 1995 ice festival Saturday, some said the event was in trouble.

But 650,000 attended the festival last year, and the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular is more popular than ever.

The festival's 15-year history was the topic Thursday as premier ice-carver Richard Teeple recalled festival highlights and low lights. The presentation was before the Plymouth Lions Club, meeting at the Water Club Grill.

Teeple, who teaches snow and ice carving at Henry Ford Community College, has been involved with the festival from the start.

It was Scott Lorenz, former Mayflower Hotel co-owner, who founded the event in 1983 in Plymouth with then city manager Henry Graper.

In modern times, the Japanese had kept the art of ice carving alive. Japan is the site of an annual ice sculpting world championship.

"Scott Lorenz spent some time in Japan, he came back and said 'I could do that for the city,'" Teeple recalled.

The 1983 Plymouth Ice Festival was on one day, Feb. 12. There was a $2,000 budget, and attendance was estimated at 25,000.

One notable occurrence was when a father, trying to coax his son out of a snow igloo built on near the Wilcox House, got stuck in a small doorway.

"We had to get a crane to lift the igloo up to get the gentleman out," Teeple recalled.

In 1984, the ice festival was plagued for the first time with warm weather. While the temperature on ice festival Saturday was 40 degrees - tolerable for displaying ice carvings - the ground in Kellogg Park had yet to freeze.

"All the hi-lo equipment got stuck in the park," Teeple recalled. Attendance swelled to 75,000.

As the event continued to grow in successive years, there have been visits from foreign chefs including Russians, Swiss and Japanese. The subjects of ice carvings have ranged from ballet dancers to castles to trains and Cadillacs.

In 1996, the first woman ice carver to win the professional division competition was Angela Snyder.

The carving team of Ted Waker, a former Teeple student, and Jim Burr has been a long-time Plymouth ice festival mainstay. They were the first Americans to win the world championship carving competition in Japan.

Teeple said this year they were scheduled to only do exhibitions, as they plan to try out for the first-ever Olympic ice carving competition.

Lorenz' decision to try an ice festival in Plymouth, Teeple said, has led to a resurgence of interest in ice carving in the United States.

There are currently 27 such festivals and competitions within a six-week period in this country each year.

The last festival run by Lorenz and Graper was in 1989. Pam Kosteva organized the next two festivals, then Mike Watts took over for the 1992 event.

Watts continues at the helm for an event that now draws worldwide attention, evidenced in scores of newspaper and television reports each year.

Finishing touch: Nick Watts of Plymouth carves a wolf for this year's festival. The Plymouth International Ice Scupture Spectacular has grown from a single day that attracted an estimated 25,000 visitors to a six-day event that typically draws some 600,000 people into downtown Plymouth.

The program is open to students who live in the Plymouth-Canton school district or whose parents have a business in the district. Students who live here but attend private schools may apply. Those schools include Ladywood, Divine Child, Mercy, Catholic Central, Plymouth Christian Academy and Agape Academy.

To be eligible for the scholarships and merit awards, students must have a 3.3 GPA and show participation in community or school volunteer efforts.

Chamber concert features potpourri

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra's Chamber Concert will feature various ensembles performing "a little bit of this, a little bit of that." The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 25, 1997, in the Plymouth Canton Little Theatre at 8415 Canton Center Road in Canton.

Ruth Myers, director of the Detroit Metropolitan Harp Ensemble and one of the performers said, "My students and I have joined ranks with Karen Milligan, director of the Children's Ballet Theater and several of her students to produce this new and unique piece." Usually audiences experience a ballet by the dancers being on stage and the orchestra in the pit. "In this performance, the art forms have been integrated, allowing the music and the movement to become a total multi-media experience for the performers as well as the audience," Myers added.

Besides the harp and ballet performance, there will be a piccolo/flute ensemble, a trumpet and string group and several string ensembles. Stephen Goto, violinist, one of the Youth Artist Contest winners, will also be performing.

Tickets for the Chamber Concert are $8 for adults, $6 for senior citizens and college students, and $4 for children K-12. The concert is being sponsored by Lucas Assembly and Test Systems, the P.S. League and the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs.

For tickets or more information, call the Plymouth Symphony office at (313) 451-2112.

Beginning February 2,

your hometown newspaper will now be on your doorstep bright and early Sunday mornings.

It's Sunday.

This means no alarm clock clanging in your ear.

No grabbing a quick cup of coffee before fighting the freeway.

Sunday seems slower-paced for all of us, even if we don't have to dash out the door to work. It's a day to spend time doing what you want to do, not what you have to do.

Like discovering what's happening right where you live. And beginning Sunday February 2, you can do just that because we've moved our Monday papers to Sunday.

Your hometown newspaper will now be on your doorstep bright and early Sunday mornings.

It'll be filled with some familiar features, a few new ones and some that you've been used to seeing on Thursday. It'll be like sitting down and spending what they like to call "quality time" with the whole town. You'll be able to make a career change, find a new place to live, plan your leisure hours, check the sales, a whole lot more, without feeling pressed for time.

And here's another plus: on Monday morning , you'll be the one that starts the conversation with, "Did you read about..."

Currently, the full-time, non-union employees are eligible for the same retiree benefits for themselves, their spouse and dependent children to age 19 upon reaching 55 with a minimum of 15 years of service with Canton Township.

"Most communities, like Livonia, do provide something for full-time elected (officials) and the average number of years is in the 10-year range," said Durack.

According to the current policy for state of Michigan elected posts, officials must serve at least five years in the House of Representatives or the Senate, or a combination thereof.

"This has been a longstanding issue that I've brought up from time to time ... We need to establish some sort of policy," Durack said.

The issue first arose during the 1984 election when former Clerk John Flodin was running for re-election. He had been a Canton employee and elected official for 25 years, Durack said. A policy was to be considered after the election, but Flodin died two weeks before the election. His wife was a teacher and did have her own retirement package through the school district, he said.

"No one has ever taken into account that an elected official has been here that long," said Durack.

Shefferly said the township needs to compete with the private sector and offer an incentive for candidates to run for office.

Full-time elected officials can contribute to a pension plan as other full-time employees do.

a week long at Proud Lake, is now a three-day activity at Camp Sarah Grindley in Gregory, with side trips to nearby Howell Nature Center. Cost is $65 per student.

West parents raised the issue at a recent board meeting. They said teachers have told them bad feelings remain due to the many months it took to reach a contract agreement; and that teachers are refusing to take on duties not required by the contract.

"I'm not sure there is any one reason. I think it is multifaceted," said West Middle School Principal Judy Stone. Sixth-grade teachers have decided as a group not to go, at least at this point. Contractually, it's not a requirement to go."

Ring, 39, who attended science camp as a Plymouth-Canton sixth-grader herself, also is at a loss to explain.

"Kids keep asking, 'Have we done something wrong?' One thing I tell them is that they're not at fault. I tell them, 'I don't know why, but don't ever think it's something you did.'

"All the sixth-grade teachers here are good; they're not lazy, and I sincerely mean that. I have a lot of faith. I haven't given up yet," said Ring, who accompanied Central students and teachers at camp this past fall.

Ring and fellow teacher Lynn Gordon have offered to take West students on their own in the spring - something they think is feasible given all the parents who've volunteered to help.

"We never got an answer," she said. "I don't know if there is a magical number of teachers the district would like to see before they'd say it's okay."

Parent and nurse Joanne Lamar told the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education she is willing to chaperone and take responsibility for whatever medical concerns would arise at camp.

"One of the teachers told me it means a whole lot of work and responsibility. I asked why the teachers don't ask parents to help. Parents are very responsible," she said. "We're willing to help teachers in any way we can. Everyone talks about the parent-teacher partnership. We're disappointed the teachers didn't even consider us in the thought process."

Lamar said that while she realizes some teachers are still "quite upset about the contract and still have a dispute with the district, my daughter is not the district. She is a student."

Parent Del Templeton also is looking for answers.

"As a parent, I'm very upset when some get to go, and some don't. My daughter would like to know why, and so would I," he told the board.

Stone is hopeful something can be worked out. "It is something I am very supportive of. I'd like to see it continued if there's any-way we could facilitate that," said Stone.

"Within the scope of the K-12 years, camp can be one of those top highlights. Frequently, students at class reunions talk about camp as one of their favorite memories."

Board president Mark Horvath asked administration for clarification on the issue.

Board member Dave Artley said, "If we can do it, I think kids are entitled to the experience."

State lawmakers face key labor issues this term

BY TIM RICHARD
STAFF WRITER

Two major labor issues are back before the Michigan Legislature, despite the time lawmakers spent debating them in 1995-6.

First, minimum wage. The House passed an election season hike in the minimum wage, but it died in the Senate Labor Committee, chaired by Mike Rogers, R-Brighton.

Reason: House Bill 4180 hiked the restaurant server's minimum wage, which is pegged at 75 percent of the base minimum, or $2.52. Business argued that servers, with tips, were making far more than the minimum, and that no hike for servers was necessary.

This year, Sen. Loren Bennett, R-Canton, introduced Senate Bill 1 to raise the minimum wage from $3.35 to $5.15 an hour. It would mirror the federal minimum wage change enacted by Congress last year. His bill reportedly didn't touch the server's $2.52 minimum.

SB 1 was denounced immediately by the National Federation of Independent Business when it went to its first hearing before the Senate Labor Committee last week.

"Most businesses in the state already pay above the minimum wage in order to attract and retain quality workers," said Charles Owens, NFIB state director. "However, small businesses currently exempted under federal law should have the flexibility to determine wage levels that the current Michigan law provides.

"Small business owners believe the marketplace, not the government, should determine the wages and prices of business and commerce."

Federal law doesn't apply to firms with less than $500,000 in gross receipts that aren't in interstate commerce.

Worker's comp

Second issue is worker's compensation reform.

Last May Rogers got his SB 895, aimed at cutting fraud in worker's compensation, through the Senate on a 21-16 party-line vote, but it died in the House Labor Committee.

Rogers said his bill would halt fraud and "wouldn't cost injured workers a penny."

"If that's all it did," replied Democrat Ken DeBeaussaert of Macomb County, "we could come to an agreement." DeBeaussaert said Rogers' 895 tried to overturn two court decisions, rewrite workers comp eligibility standards, retroactively terminates benefits for those paid under the old standard _ and generally

Local host families needed for students

How would you like to learn about a foreign land without ever leaving your own home?

Lynne Levenbach, local coordinator for the PAX Exchange Program, and Gideon Levenbach, who represents World Learning, are seeking local families to host international high school students for the 1997-98 school year.

Whether you have young children, teenage children or no children of your own, you can be a host family if you can provide a bed, a place to study, meals and a loving heart.

Teenagers from all over the world dream of coming to America to spend a year as a foreign exchange student, living with an American family, and attending an American high school. They take English language tests, endure personal interviews, save their money, prepare an application, gather references, and then hope that an American family will want them. The students have their own medical insurance and spending money.

The Levenbachs receive hundreds of applications. They will work with volunteer families to help them select the student who is the best match with the family's interest and lifestyle.

Everyday activities will take on new meaning when you share them with a student who is eager to discover the American way of life. At the same time, families will learn and grow as ideas are exchanged and lifestyles compared.

Families can open up a whole new world to your family as well as to the visiting girl or boy.

For more information, call Lynne or Gid Levenbach at (313) 453-8562 or (313) 453-6851.

Term limits have consequences, lobbyist warns

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

A former Speaker of the state House of Representatives believes term limits will eventually lead to a part-time state legislature.

"It will be an evolution. It will be difficult for someone to take six years out of their career, but there will be a natural evolution to a part-time legislature," Gary Owen said. That continual transition may lead to difficulty in reaching a consensus on long-debated issues.

Now a chief executive officer with Governmental Consultant Services, Owen was responding to a question from the audience at the Canton Economic Club at a lunch Friday at Summit on the Park where Owen was the guest speaker.

Owen was elected to the state House in 1972, and served for 10 years, then became Speaker of the House for six years. A native of Alabama, Owen was educated at the University of Michigan, receiving a bachelor's degree in economics and a master's in urban planning.

A Ypsilanti Township resident, Owen works for the second largest lobbying firm in the state. Lobbyists from both major political parties work at the firm, which represents Chrysler Corp., Consumers Power, Masco Corp. and Detroit Auto Dealers Association

Owen believed term limits will carry some consequences for state lawmakers and the general public.

"Now you will have a new group of people who will control the House. (Voters) will be able to keep a group of reasonable group of people in the Senate," Owen said. "But that's just speculation."

In other state politics and policy, Owen predicted:

■Uncertainty of what will happen with the gas tax, but believed there is a "tremendous need" for it.

■It will take at least two years for state lawmakers to rewrite state statutes to govern deregulation of electric utilities.

"In the short-term there will probably be a lot of screaming, but once it's done, it will be better for everyone," Owen said.

■ The state will lose between $600 million to $3 billion in a lawsuit on special education funding to local school districts.

"It is clear it is a mandated program," Owen said. "We didn't pay for it.

"It will be a significant decision and it will change drastically what's going on in Michigan."

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack later asked what the likelihood that the state of Michigan would be "on the hook" for this money when it is the only state that mandated special education programs up to the age of 26.

Owen said the state probably would look for ways to trim the program's costs.

Another lunch guest asked Owen about the future of college education costs.

"I don't believe the state has adequately funded higher education," Owen said. "The state has funded many capital improvements on campuses, and the community colleges, which are funded locally, are doing an outstanding job.

"But I think there will be less and less money available for higher education."

Student loans are available, but many Canton Township residents may not qualify for financial aid, Owen said.

On campaign finance issues and in response to a question on possible reform, Owen remembered one of his re-election campaigns where he spent $15,000 and his opponent delved out $12,000. It was considered the most expensive campaign in the state at the time.

"Now, it's up to a half million," Owen said.

Raising campaign money was called "the most distasteful part of the job," Owen said. "But if you take the private sector out of the process, what do you have left?

"We have a free enterprise system. We may have too much regulation in some areas and not enough in others. But it has was rammed through by the GOP majority without giving Democrats time to study the measure.

And so worker's comp is back as an issue.

The Small Business Association of Michigan is making its reform a 1997 legislative priority. "Recent court rulings are threatening to drive costs even higher and drive away employers," said SBAM's Ann Parker, director of government affairs.

SBAM is calling on the Legislature to "end abuses and close loopholes that drive up worker's compensation costs. She cited Court of Appeals and Supreme Court rulings that have approved claims for workers who:

- Are able to return to work but who refused to do so because they chose to live in other states.
- Developed mental problems from ordinary events of employment.
- Were injured after starting fights or being drunk on the job.

SBAM, with 8,000 members, also said benefit should be calculated on a regular work week, not on overtime or bonuses.

Heintz back

Susy Heintz is back at work for the Engler administration.

"Her title is business and education liaison with the Jobs Commission," said spokesman Jim Tobin. "She has great business connections, knows how to get things done in business and government, and knows our welfare policies."

Tobin said Heintz's jobs will be to "1) promote school-to-work initiatives with business leaders and 2) encourage private business to offer jobs to welfare clients."

"The Sooz" will be stationed in the Jobs Commission's offices in the Detroit state office building at 1200 Sixth. She started late in 1996.

Heintz, 47, moved to Macomb County in mid-1996 to be the Republican sacrificial ewe against Democratic U.S. Rep. David Bonior. She had to fight a primary against the late Gil DiNello and went down as the statewide GOP vote shriveled.

Heintz is the former Northville Township trustee, clerk and supervisor; two-term Wayne County commissioner; SEMTA public transit board member; and head of Gov. John Engler's Detroit office from 1991-95. She left to chair the state Republican Party and left that to make the congressional run in Macomb County after no other candidate could be recruited to tackle Bonior.

Her Christmas card had a return address of Clinton Township.

Madonna OK'd

The State Board of Education has approved Madonna University's new early childhood program as an elementary education minor.

Madonna had its proposal reviewed by two staffs in the state Department of Education – the Office of Professional Preparation and Certification Services and the Office of Health and Early Childhood Education.

The early childhood program has a minimum of 20 credit hours for the minor. The board gave it 8-0 approval without comment during the December meeting.

DEQ on tap

Many nature lovers talk about the state Department of Environmental Quality, but few talk to it.

Their chance will come Monday, Feb. 3, in the Superior Room of The River Place Hotel, 1000 River Place near E. Jefferson in Detroit.

"We want to listen, not lecture," said DEQ chief Russell Harding, who has scheduled sessions for 1-4:30 p.m. and 6-8 p.m.

You'll be asked to fill out a card and given five minutes. Written comments also are accepted. Topics aren't limited.

DEQ publishes a calendar of events and pending decisions every two weeks. To be on the mailing list, write to DEQ Calendar, PO Box 30473, Lansing 48909-7973.

The calendar also is available on the DEQ World Wide Web site, http://www.deq.state.mi.us.

Samples of what's in the DEQ calendar:

- The Air Quality Relative Risk Task Force meets at 1 p.m. on Jan. 23 in Howell at the Park Inn International.
- By Feb. 10, DEQ's Jim Sygo, chief of the waste management division, is to decide on an application by City Disposal Systems to construct a solid waste transfer station and processing plant in western Wayne County. Information: Ben Okwumabua in DEQ's Livonia office at 313/953-0241.

DNA records kept

State Police may now keep DNA (genetic) records on people convicted of heinous crimes under laws sponsored by Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth. The package was signed by Gov. Engler earlier in January.

The laws require records to be kept on convicted murderers and kidnappers, even if they are juveniles. They prohibit the release of a state prisoner without the taking of blood and saliva samples.

"The police have a new weapon in their fight against crime. They will solve more cases and do so more quickly," Law said.

always worked.

"When you look at it from that aspect, how can you argue with that?"

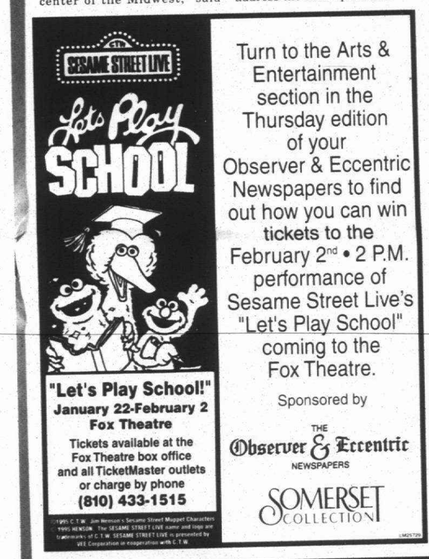
Owen said the right for individuals and groups to access government and address government was outlined in the Federalist Papers.

Owen was asked about casino gambling. Owen believed it needs enough regulation to keep organized crime out, yet not too much to make it restrictive.

"The obvious impact on Detroit is (casino gambling) will position it to be the convention center of the Midwest," said Owen. "It depends on the city of Detroit and how Detroit focuses on it, and how the legislature sets up regulations to be sure it is run correctly."

Owen was asked whether some cities had better economic opportunities in urban areas than Detroit. "That is one of the most complex issues. You've always had the economically disadvantaged in the city.

"The issue always becomes a federal issue, because the state doesn't have the resources. If you're never able to address the K-12 problems, you won't address the urban problems."



Turn to the Arts & Entertainment section in the Thursday edition of your Observer & Eccentric Newspapers to find out how you can win tickets to the February 2nd • 2 P.M. performance of Sesame Street Live's "Let's Play School" coming to the Fox Theatre.

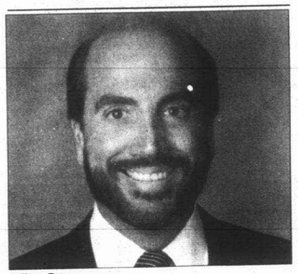
BEAUTY AND THE BEST



Jeffrey Bruce

Simplify your beauty routine

One of the more interesting details of Princess Di's divorce is the fact that she spends $6,000 a year on her underwear. There is no mention of how much she spends on her colonic irrigation, gym fees, aromatherapy, or cosmetics, but chances are it is a significant amount.

It's amazing how readers of celebrity magazines are getting used to such excesses as Mrs. Marcos' shoes, Zsa Zsa's jewels, Ivana Trumps' various nips and tucks, etc. These are definitely what you could call High Maintenance Women. They require endless shopping sprees, designer clothes, lots of jewelry, many vacations, constant attention and lots of upkeep.

In the 90's most women are striving to achieve the most in a limited amount of time usually with a limited budget. Their stimulation and fulfillment in life comes from other sources. We'll call them the Low Maintenance Women.

How can you get optimum results without spending the entire day at the beauty salon? If the only thing you make for dinner is reservations, and if you have full-time domestic help and no children — feel free to stop reading now.

Set aside an extra 15 minutes for a great bath with some essential oils, a big loofah and a glass of something delectable. Take time to look in the mirror and repeat as often as necessary "You look great" or "I like me and I'm going to stay in shape."

You'll save thousands on therapist's bills. Of course the HMW can be found with a personal trainer and a wardrobe full of color-coordinated aerobics outfits, tans that are out of season and definitely achieved out-of-state, never more than 10 feet from their cellular phones, and their foreign cars valet-parked. The highlight of their day is keeping appointments with the plastic surgeon, planning the next tummy tuck, etc.

HMW, as stated, love to hunt down the latest craze in plastic surgery – lips made larger ala Goldie Hawn in "First Wives Club" or the newest flavor-of-the-month plastic surgeon. Save yourself the need to exchange horror stories by always wearing a foundation with sunscreen. Most damage is done by the sun — protection on a daily basis is the best way to slow down the signs of aging. Get yourself a skin care regimen that fits into your time schedule and stick to it.

Avoid stress — there is always a special beauty to a calm, happy face.

There is no end to what a HM gal can spend on her hair. Flying to New York every six weeks to be touched/colored only by the hands of...(fill in the blank) is just the beginning. There are tons of treatments, most of them unnecessary, that can be enjoyed by the sybaritic. Smart women (LM) know that hair style is based on age, weight and lifestyle. For the most part the ideal length is in the middle, between the jaw and the shoulder.

We all know how much trouble long hair can be, but short hair requires some attention as well — constant trimming and coloring if you want to maintain the look. Being handy with different sized rollers, a light hair spray and styling gel can get you through most social occasions.

It would be nice to have The Make-Over Team arrive at your door each morning, and there are probably some women who consider this a necessity. But for the rest, there are a few tips. Pick neutral colors that match your skin tone. Choose long lasting make-up. Use lipsticks that are dewey-matte, and always use lip liner to keep the color on.

Carry powder with you through the day so you touch up that shiny break through. Even if you don't like eye shadow in the day, always wear mascara. If you want to wear the new outrageous shades of nail polish, keep your nails shorter, and remember that dark shades show chips quicker and this along with toe polish can push you towards being a HMW.

The sky is the limit for the HM devotee. After catching the shows in Milan and Paris a couple of times a year, you'll need some weeks at the spa or in the Bahamas to recuperate. It can get tiring remembering who saw you in what last, and very few can afford to wear each outfit once. The LMW knows to base her wardrobe around a few, well-designed pieces in classic colors that last for years, and that to accessorize each season is all she needs to stay up-to-date and interesting.

Jeffrey Bruce's beauty column appears the third Sunday of the month. During February he will visit salons in Romeo, Highland, Rochester, Flint and Livonia. For more details call 1-800-944-6588. Don't forget to send your beauty questions to Jeffrey Bruce, c/o Malls & Mainstreets, The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, 48009.

Internet exhibit is 'dino'-mite game

Dinosaurs from the past and cyberspace links of the future unite to teach families how to use the Internet for information. Wonderland Mall proudly hosts this special program through April.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
EDITOR

Eight major corporations linked expertise to bring "The Cyberspace Safari" a virtual field trip about dinosaurs, from the Detroit Science Center to suburban families and school groups via an Internet program set up at Wonderland Mall in Livonia.

The $750,000 exhibit opened Jan. 16 and will continue through April.

A trip to "The Cyperspace Safari" begins with a 20-minute, multi-media demonstration on using computers and the Internet. Once this "ticket-punching" is complete, the real safari "Dinoscience" begins.

Visitors complete a quiz using Internet links to help find the answers to questions about four different dinosaurs. A five-minute time limit on each question allows guests extra time to explore the Net at their own leisure.

The safari is based on the Dinoscience exhibit in progress at the Detroit Science Center downtown. It was created by the same company (Research Casting International of Canada) that provided the skeletons used in the movie "Jurassic Park."

All presentations are conducted by trained Detroit Science Center staff. According to Mel Drumm, director of the center, more safaris are on the way exploring topics like Flight, Light, Lasers, Physics and the Human Body.

Schostak Brothers & Co., owner/operators of Wonderland Mall, are providing 4,000-square feet of retail space for the project.

"We are delighted to join forces with the Detroit Science Center to make this fun and valuable project a reality, as it enhances our year-round community programs," said Robert Schostak. "It fits well with the changing role we see for community malls, as we work to offer more family-oriented entertainment and educational experiences to our full-service shopping and dining."

The Microsoft Corporation provided all the software programs used. Other sponsors include Intel Corp., (computer processors and memory); MicroAge Infosystems (computer networking and systems integration); Ameritech of Michigan (ultra-speed T-1 phone lines); PCR Personal Computer Rentals (providing 20 workstations); Online Marketing (web site creation and Internet gateway); and WOMC Oldies 104.3 (publicity and corporate support).

"The Cyberspace Safari" is open at Wonderland Mall, Plymouth and Middlebelt roads in Livonia, Monday-Saturday 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday noon to 5 p.m. Groups can contact the Detroit Science Center for reservations (313) 577-8400, ext. 417. Children under 16 must be accompanied by an adult. Fees: $7 per hour for each family using a workstation. $3 per hour, per person for pre-arranged groups. $4 per hour, per individual. $5 per hour, per person for surfing the Internet during non-peak display hours.

Visitors will find the exhibit near the Service Merchandise entrance to the shopping center.

N'land chief plans center's future

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO
EDITOR

John Bemis is all eyes and ears as he strides through the Northland Center in Southfield.

The mall's new manager asks sales associates in a teen apparel store to "turn down the music," then makes note of which mall floors need more polishing.

He pauses to make sure a customer studying the mall directory knows where she's going, then he spies the "Half-Off" sign being hung over the leather jackets in one shop window.

"Those pieces should have sold during the holidays at full price," he muses. "That's quality merchandise and good design."

As Northland's new boss, Bemis is determined to take Michigan's oldest and largest shopping center into the 21st century. At 37, he is one of the youngest mall managers in the country, but responsible for one of the toughest properties at 2.2 million square feet of retail space across 160 acres.

The center is 93-percent occupied so Bemis, a leasing specialist, has been charged with filling the mall.

"I've targeted three categories; Northland needs a full-service bookstore, a quality sitdown restaurant, and some higher-end men's clothing, stores," he said. "And we'll get them because this center is on the cutting edge of what's happening in our business.

"Northland is the first mall to redevelop in a quasi-urban center. We're neither urban nor suburban. We can't be lumped. We can have our cake and eat it to, have all the hot fashion trends our shoppers want, yet maintain standard suburban merchants like Target and JC Penney.

"Our plan for the new year is to fully retain our share of the urban market while at the same time expanding and recapturing the office building trade nearby, in addition to wooing shoppers from north Southfield, Berkley and Oak Park.

"We want to get back our Detroit shoppers who have wandered over to Oakland Mall, Fairlane and Twelve Oaks."

Top job: John Bemis plans to move Northland forward.

Bemis arrived at Northland in November to replace Catherine O'Malley who left to manage Twelve Oaks in Novi. Bemis said he was recruited by Compass Retail Inc., the management subsidiary of Equitable Real Estate Investment Management Inc., (which owns Northland Center) from his position as regional manager of leasing for Schostak Brothers & Co.

A resident of Rochester Hills, Bemis and wife Michelle, have two children, Elizabeth 7, and Michael, 4.

"I bring them over to the mall on my day off, in my jeans, and we shop Northland," he laughed. "We're hoping to spread the word that Northland is a beautiful, safe, quality shopping environment. People who come back and see it since the big remodel last year have lots of good things to say."

Bemis graduated from Central Michigan and managed restaurants for Bennigan's before joining Homart Development where he held various positions in leasing and management. After a stint with Equity Properties and Development, he joined Schostak where he handled specialty leasing and redevelopment planning for eight shopping centers in four states.

He is the son of Don Bemis, former superintendent of Utica Schools and later State Superintendent of Schools. He grew up in Utica, the eldest of four children.

"We're a tight-knit family still," he said proudly. "In fact, my dad stops by the mall to visit and enjoys talking to the staff. I warned them! The people at Northland are such professionals. I feel fortunate to have joined such a team."

Bemis reports that the Northland Center ended 1996 on a high note, with holiday sales up three-percent over last year. He is looking forward to Jan. 27 when he takes a seat on the Board of Southfield's Downtown Development Authority.

"I see the shopping centers of the future as very social places where people are offered a very tactile experience. They will not be sterile consuming environments."

Creme de la Mer

Cult cream classic soothes

At this point in winter, everybody has dry skin somewhere on their body – so what better time to extol the virtues of Creme de la Mer, sold exclusively at both Neiman Marcus and Saks Fifth Avenue at the Somerset Collection South in Troy.

At $155 for a 2-ounce jar, the cream better be invented by a rocket scientist – and it was! It takes four months to make each jar that must be hand-filled according to Julie Leong, company spokeswoman.

"There's nothing else like Creme de la Mer in the cosmetic market and it's truly a fascinating product," she said.

Concocted by aerospace physicist Max Huber to treat a bad rocket fuel burn, the sea-kelp-based moisturizer can be used on the entire face including the eyes. After Huber died in 1991, Estee Lauder stepped in as a backer, and the cream is now made in Lauder's Long Island laboratory.

Avid users claim it fades brown patches, dries up acne without leaving scars, and heals scars - some hospitals use it to aid post-operative healing.

For a long time it was sold through word-of-mouth recommendations from countesses and socialites. Neiman Marcus had waiting lists for the cream.

Super Bowl ladies day

Westland Center, Wayne and Warren roads, hosts a Super Bowl shopping event, Sunday, Jan 26 for women whose significant others are otherwise engaged that day.

Greeters at the mall entrances will pass out coupons and shoppers can register to win a $500 shopping spree. Linda Lee from WYCD Young Country Radio will greet shoppers from 3-5 p.m. in east court.

Gallery announces features

The Art Gallery II at Summit Place in Waterford features the work of Nancy Wurm and Staci Miron through January. Wurm shows a collection of sailing ships in pen and ink and animal sculptures and paintings.

Miron uses watercolors and pastels to create large florals. Her watercolor greeting cards feature skating figures on hand-made papers.

The Art Gallery II is a cooperative of area artists with a permanent display two stores down from Hudson's, open during regular mall hours. For more information call (810) 683-8142.

Outlet center adds hotel

The Horizon Outlet Center in Monroe has broken ground for a two-story 63-room Amerihost Inn Hotel scheduled for a June grand opening. The facility will have an indoor pool, exercise room and five suites with whirlpools.

AmeriHost Inn is one of eight Michigan locations where the hotel chain is doing business.

Agency picks creative director

Jon Greenberg & Associates, a Southfield-based retail design and architecture firm promoted Michael Curtis to creative director from senior designer.

As CD, Curtis is responsible for overseeing design projects from conceptual development through final design. His recent projects have included Samsung Plaza in Seoul, South Korea, Stroud's Home Compass Store in Irvine, CA., and Brookstone and Athlete's Foot stores.

A resident of Ferndale, Curtis holds a Bachelor of Science Architecture degree from Lawrence Technological University.

I got it at Penney's!

According to a Women's Wear Daily Survey, American women voted JCPenney their favorite store to shop for clothing. Macy's, Mervyn's, Nordstrom and Dillard's came in among the top five.

Hair removal salon opens

Spa Thira is open at the Somerset Collection North in Troy. The state-of-the-art spa is one of seven throughout the country that uses softlight laser to "disable" hair follicles. In most cases, according to the company, hair is permanently removed without electrolysis, shaving, waxing – or pain!

Manager Sharon Langford explained that a three-step, non-invasive process removes 50-percent of hair after one treatment with a "nd-yag" very low light laser. A few additional treamenta may be required. A registered nurse and an aestitician work together administering treatments.

Discomfort is minimal according to Langford. After-effects may include temporary redness and puffing.

Spa Thira specializes in removing facial hair, plus hair on bikini lines, underarms, legs and backs. Spa Thira does not offer treatments for men's facial hair because of the strong hormone levels in the area.

Treatment prices vary from $250.

"There is no cutting and no healing involved in the process," Langford said. "It is a wonderful new way to remove unwanted hair and bring you a new level of freedom."

Pond's celebrates 100 years with beauty biz history

Painted ladies: Many modern cosmetic companies got their start in The Guilded Cage Salon at Henri Bendel's New York store.

It's possible that no other industry experiences the constant change that is witnessed in the beauty and fashion industry. New looks — and new companies — explode onto the scene rocking the status quo, and then, sometimes just as quickly, fade into vague memories.

The growth and expansion of this enterprise has been so amazing that the Pond's Corp. recently sponsored a special event at the Parsons School of Design in New York City to honor the beauty industry. "The Changing Face of Beauty" exhibited the fascinating advances in beauty and marked the 150th anniversary of Pond's.

Throughout time, women have been bombarded with home remedies, cure-alls and guarantees from contraptions that promised to reshape their noses and reduce their chins, foreign teas that assured the blooming of a fuller, more beautiful bosom, and modern-day acid washes and preventative moisturizers. For well over a century, the mass media has been successful at convincing women that natural beauty always can be improved upon.

Beauty rituals can be traced as far back as 51 B.C. to ancient Egypt, when Cleopatra would bathe in milk to soften her skin. In the early 1800s, a common practice among women was ingesting arsenic to whiten their skin!

The 1920s witnessed a short trend dubbed "cosmetic beading," when American movie stars like Theda Bara, applied drops of a hot wax-like material to the tips of their eyelashes for a sultry look.

Fifty years later, Farrah Fawcett's "feathered" hairstyle on "Charlie's Angels," took the country by storm. It was copied in some regions for more than a decade.

Today, laser and plastic surgery are available on an outpatient-basis for thngs like lip enhancement, tummy tucks, scar revision and breast augmentation or reduction. The future is sure to hold more amazing developments and discoveries.

The following timeline highlights some of the most amazing and memorable trends, discoveries and advancements of the beauty industry.

• Elizabethan Age, the 1800s: To hide smallpox scarring and to avoid the sunburned appearance of laborers, women apply whiteners to their faces.

• Early 1880s: Women ingest arsenic, vinegar and chalk to lighten their skin. Illness, and sometimes death, follows.

• Circa 1850: Fowler's Solution, a cream with an arsenic base, is developed as a treatment for acne.

• 1886: A crude precursor to today's "peels," "skinning" with acid and electricity is popular for restoring a smooth, more youthful appearance.

• 1890: The arrival of the Gibson Girl heralds America's new ideal. Drawn by Charles Dana Gibson, the model is beautiful, confident, wise and often accompanied by at least one besotted man. To many, she serves as a standard for the beginning of the feminist movement.

• 1910: Makeup finally enjoys widespread use in the United States, 20 years after Queen Alexandra of England begins using cosmetics for evening events.

• 1920: After a mention in a 1911 Vogue report on the beauty habits of other cultures, kohl debuts in America as a precursor to mascara.

• 1928: The suntanned look becomes popular and the first cosmetic sunscreen appears.

• 1938: The Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act outlaws both the use of harmful ingredients in cosmetic products and misleading claims in advertising.

• 1943: With stockings unavailable due to the war, women begin painting their legs with flesh-toned body cosmetics, which spot and blotch in the rain.

• 1952: An amendment to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act is proposed, stating that all cosmetics should be chemically pretested and that all labels should list ingredients.

• 1954: The first cream concealer is introduced to the relief of teen-agers nationwide.

• 1969: Hair is long, and hair dryers go from portable bonnet cases to hand-held blowers.

• 1974: Model Beverly Johnson creates a stir from coast to coast as Vogue's first black cover girl.

• 1980s: The body is sculpted to perfection via aerobic exercise.

• 1981-1988: Baby boomers begin to sag and plastic surgery experiences a 63-percent rise

• 1985 to today: Suntans give way to sun protection.

• 1990: Dermatologists use lasers to help erase lines and fine wrinkles.

The Guardianware Mystery

In the mid-1930s, Guardianware was manufactured and bought by loyal customers across the country who use their beloved pots and pans to this day. Problem is, many of them need replacement glass lids for the cookware and don't know where to find it.

In 1955, Guardianware was sold to the Presto Co. which discontinued the line in 1957. In 1980, the Guardian Service Cookware Company came on the scene to reintroduce the cookware and sell replacement parts. Customers can get more information by calling 1-714-828-0750, or writing Guardian Service Cookware, 8300 Cerritos Ave., Stanton, CA 90680.

THE QUALITY-OF-LIFE FACTOR

When assessing the quality of their lives, older adults are likely to take into account the fact that they have teeth. This indicates both natural teeth and dentures. Among those individuals over the age of 65 who were surveyed about the quality of their lives, almost half thought that having teeth had a positive effect on their appearances to themselves or others. More than 40 percent believed that having teeth affected their chewing and biting, their eating, or their enjoyment of eating. Thirty-eight percent thought that having teeth affected their overall comfort and health. On the other hand, most did not think that having teeth affected their moods, weight, appetite, romantic relationships, or success at work. When it comes to the basic enjoyment of life, however, it seems a good idea to preserve the teeth you have.

Heavenly cake food for angels

Food for the angels, yes indeed! Angel food cakes get their height, volume and lightness from egg whites (which have no fat and no cholesterol). There are calories in angel food cakes so you'll still need to plan for those. Enjoy eating some glorious desserts that can be made with angel food cake.

You can make them from scratch, buy commercially prepared mixes or find cakes ready made in the grocery store. Here are a few tips for making an angel food cake from scratch:

- The more air in the batter, the higher and lighter the cake will be. Handle the fragile foam gently so it doesn't deflate.
- Beat egg whites that are at room temperature.
- Keep the bowl and utensils completely free of fat. Any fat inhibits the development of foam.
- Cream of tartar is an acid that helps stabilize the egg foam. This helps to develop a finer texture and make the cake white.
- Superfine sugar can be used for angel food cakes to give it a finer texture.
- Work quickly when making an angel food cake so you don't lose the lightness of it.
- Always cool an angel food cake upside down.

Dress them up

Cherry Angel Food: Fold in 3/4 cup of maraschino cherries cut in half and add 2 to 3 tablespoons of cherry syrup.

For chocolate lovers: Add 2 to 3 tablespoons of unsweetened cocoa, 1 teaspoon chocolate extract, 2 to 3 teaspoons instant coffee and 1 to 2 tablespoons finely grated semi-sweet chocolate.

Cinnamon swirl: Fold in 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Candy striper: Gently fold in 1/2 to 2/3 cup finely crushed peppermint candy (add more or less depending on your preference).

Lemon zest: Add 1 tablespoon grated lemon or orange peel, or 2 tablespoons fresh lemon or orange juice and/or 1 teaspoon lemon or orange extract.

Very berry: Fold in 1 cup fresh raspberries or frozen, drained raspberries or 1/2 cup fresh pureed strawberries.

The Layered Look

If you want to dress up a commercially bought cake or if you simply go for that layered look and taste, try these suggestions for more height and more flavor; make layers of:

- Low-fat or nonfat pudding.
- Fruit fillings made by spreading 1 cup of any fruit preserve or jam.
- Low-fat or nonfat frozen yogurt, ice milk or non-dairy whipping cream.
- Whole berry cranberry sauce or other ready-prepared cranberry combinations, such as crushed orange cranberry sauce or raspberry cranberry sauce.
- Apple, cherry, blueberry or peach pie filling.
- Powdered whipped topping mix made with skim milk and flavored by adding 1 to 2 tablespoons cocoa to every cup of whipped topping.

Crown your angel food creations with any of the following:

- Flavored syrups made by heating 1/3 cup water, 1/4 cup sugar and 3 tablespoons of vanilla or other extract, coffee or your favorite liqueur until the sugar is dissolved. For lemon or orange syrup, heat 2 to 4 tablespoons lemon or orange juice with 3 to 4 tablespoons sugar over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Poke the warm cake with a toothpick or tines of a long fork. Slowly pour or brush the syrup over the cake, letting the syrup soak in.
- Fruit sauces made from pureeing 1 to 2 cups fresh, frozen or canned fruits, adding sugar to taste (approximately 2 to 6 tablespoons) and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Extracts and liqueurs can also be added.
- Fruit glazes made by mixing 3/4 cup confectioners sugar with 2 to 3 tablespoons lemon juice or 2 to 3 tablespoons orange juice concentrate.

Any of these delicious desserts would be a wonderful ending to a meal or as a snack. Be really adventuresome and use slices of angel food cake to make French toast, a great way to start the day.

Dinner's covered with 1 POT MEALS

NATIONAL CATTLEMEN'S BEEF ASSOCIATION

Comfort food: Betty Rosbottom's Pot Roast with Rich Root Vegetable Sauce makes a sumptuous supper. Serve fork-tender pot roast with mashed potatoes and a drizzle of the delicious sauce.

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Bundled up against the winter cold, people go undercover in Michigan during the winter. This is no time for fancy meals, or fussing. Many of us are still recovering from holiday overindulgences. We're tired, and fighting colds and flu. Simple one pot dinners fit the bill perfectly.

Pot roast tops the list of possibilities. "When you think of American favorites, pot roasts immediately come to mind — they're part of our culture, and everyone has a favorite," said Betty Rosbottom, author of "American Favorites" (Chapters Publishing, 1996).

In creating Pot Roast with Rich Root Vegetable Sauce, Rosbottom said she wanted to preserve the traditional pot roast — gently simmering a beef round tip roast with aromatic vegetables, herbs and seasonings until the beef is fork-tender — but give it a contemporary twist.

Instead of the flour-thickened gravy that mom made, Rosbottom's features a savory sauce — a puree of vegetables and cooking liquid. This richly flavored sauce tastes delicious drizzled over slices of beef and mashed potatoes.

Anna Theresa Callen serves up "One-Pot Italian Classics," in her newly published cookbook (HarperCollins Publishers, 1997). The book offers more than 125 recipes for hearty meals with Mediterranean flavor. From "Soups Like 'Mama Mia' Used to Make," to chicken, beef, veal, seafood, pasta and pizza, Callen's recipes are "tailored to the American kitchen and, for the most part, to ingredients you will find easily in your supermarket."

She recommends making enough soup for at least two meals because soup freezes well. You'll be prepared when the next blizzard hits.

"The more of the meal that goes into one pot — be it a saucepan, skillet, baking dish or casserole — the less there is left of the meal to prepare, cook or clean up," Callen writes.

Each chapter contains an introduction sprinkled with helpful hints. For those of you who add oil to the pot when making pasta, take note. Callen recommends cooking pasta in plenty of water in a large pot. The water in the pot should be heavily salted, and the salt should be added after the water boils.

"I add 2 tablespoons of coarse kosher salt to every 4 quarts of water," she writes. "Never add oil to the water. It will make the sauce slide off the pasta, and you want the sauce to adhere. After the salted water comes to a boil, add the pasta and stir with a long fork or pasta spoon. Cover the pot and let the water return to a boil. Then uncover and cook the pasta at a constant boil according to the time given in the recipe or in the instructions on your pasta package.

Peggy Fallon's "Chicken Dinner In One Pot," (HarperCollins Publishers; 1997) contains over 128 recipes for cooking chicken in a single pot. Chicken Skillet Suppers, Chicken in a Wok, Chicken in a Stew Pot, and Chicken in a Soup Pot are some of the delicious possibilities.

Like Callen's book, this one contains helpful tips and hints, and recipes made with readily available ingredients. "In this book, you will find a chicken recipe to cook in every pot of your 'batterie de cuisine,'" she writes. "In fact, you will probably be inspired to reactivate a few pots that had been relegated to the back of the cupboard.

"Cooking Under Cover: One-Pot Wonders — A Treasury of Soups, Stews, Braises and Casseroles," by Linda and Fred Griffith (Chapters Publishing, 1996) is another book winter weary cooks should check out.

This collection of 175 globally-inspired recipes is a good reference for cooks looking for cover. All of the recipes are prepared by poaching, simmering, braising, roasting, stewing, smothering or steaming. The wine recommendations, which follow each recipe, are something you don't find in many cookbooks.

Linda and Fred Griffith's introduction explains different one pot cooking methods, and includes memories of their favorite comfort foods.

"Virtually every immigrant group brought it's own versions of covered dishes to this country, using cuts of meat that improved in the pot," they write. "In Europe, covered cookery was for centuries the primary method of food preparation. Dishes were cooked for long hours so working families could come home to a hot, hearty meal."

Single malts gain popularity among many wine drinkers

FOCUS ON WINE BY RAY & ELEANOR HEAD

Single malt scotches have attracted today's wine drinkers with unparalleled enthusiasm. Understanding the essentials of single malts enhances their enjoyment. The traditional method of producing any whisky involves steps known as malting, mashing, fermentation, distillation and maturation. But several other factors affect a single malt whisky's character:

- Water: the most important element determining the taste of a single malt whisky. If water is clear, spring water that runs over granite on route to the distillery, the malt will have a fine, elegant flavor. If water percolates through a peat bog, it carries amber color and smoky character to the whisky.
- Malting: Barley, the grain used for single malt whisky, is steeped in water for two days encouraging germination and production of an enzyme (maltase) that converts barley's starch to fermentable sugar. Malted barley is dried over a fire. If that's peat, a Scottish household fuel, it contributes a distinctive smoky character.
- Climate/Air: Oak casks used to age whisky are porous and "breathe" air as alcohol evaporates. A warm, dry climate encourages early maturation, while a sea-side atmosphere produces a salty or seaweedy taste.
- Age: There is no perfect age for single malts, but there is usually an optimum age. Like people, single malts reach maturity at different ages. Choosing the right single malt to match a mood is also an ingredient of enjoyment.

The following are some favorites listed from light to heavy.

- Glenkinchie 10 year – classic Lowland single malt, the heart of Haig & Haig Pinch blend; has medium-to-light body, pale amber color, soft aromatic nose, palate smoothness and a slightly dry finish. A pure spring water source, soft and slightly chalky, explains Glenkinchie's characteristic dryness suiting it to an aperitif pour.
- Glenfiddich Special Reserve 8 year – a Speyside whisky whose water source is Robbie Dhu spring. So important is the water that Glenfiddich owners purchased 1,200 acres of the surrounding hillside to protect it. Aged in Spanish sherry butts and American bourbon barrels, it has pale golden color with elegant aroma of vanilla-oak and just a touch of smoke. A smooth dram, best with a touch of cool water, is an excellent aperitif malt.
- Dalwhinnie 15 year – from the Northern Highlands is full-bodied with a light, fruity aroma, sweet taste and soft, heathery honey-like finish. The distillery has the highest elevation (over 1,000 feet) of any distillery in Scotland, where water is pure snowmelt running over granite.
- Oban 14 year – rich body, pale amber color and assertive aroma, especially its peaty smokiness. Palate is smooth, striking a balance that is dry and smoky with malty, fruity undertones. The distillery lies on Scotland's West Coast and creates interaction of sea air as the casks breathe during maturation. It begins the malts more suited for after dinner.

■ Cragganmore 12 year – golden-colored with a slightly smoky character, dry palate and just a hint of peat. Its origins are Speyside (after the River Spey), Scotland's most famous whisky-producing region located within the Highlands. Taste of this great malt is most influenced by the unusual T-shape of the copper stills.

■ Glenmorangie Madeira Wood 12 year – is a new product in our market. Nosed neat, it smells madeirised, with a burnt-tangy trace. With a drop of water, fresh black pepper emerges with toffee, mint, citrus orange, peach and that intriguing burnt character.

■ Glenmorangie Port Wood 12 year – finishes its aging process for an additional two years in port pipes. The result is a malt with an antique copper color, a complex, sweet-dry flavor and nose with hints of port wine and walnuts.

■ Glenmorangie Sherry Wood 12 year – also new to our market. The nose has full-bodied sherry wine notes with traces of honey and mead. With a few drops of water added, nuttiness develops with scents of vanilla and caramel.

■ The Macallan 18 year – Speyside malt deriving much of its distinctive character from the sherry butts in which it is aged. According to Macallan, whisky has traditionally matured best in oak casks that have contained sherry. Due to the increasing expense and scarcity of these vessels, other distillers no longer insist exclusively on sherry casks. To ensure their supply, The Macallan directors journey annually to the bodegas of Jerez to buy fresh oak casks and pay the sherry producers to age their best oloroso and fino sherries in them for three years. Afterward the casks are shipped to Scotland where The Macallan is matured for 10, 12, 18 and even 25 years.

■ Glenmorangie 18 year – a Highland Malt. The distillery is one of the smallest and most northerly in Scotland. In the late 1980s, Glenmorangie owners, believing that their whisky had a unique bouquet, conducted research with some of the best noses in the world – French perfumers. They identified 17 distinct aromas in the 18 year old. The most common six are: chocolate, cinnamon, honey, mint, rose and vanilla.

■ Talisker 10 year – the only whisky made on the western Isle of Skye, has a dark amber color and powerful bouquet with hints of seaweed and spice. An intense, tantalizing initial taste finishes big, warm, peppery and peaty. Like everything on Skye, it is touched by the sea, and its character is profoundly affected by dark, peaty water.

■ Lagavulin 16 year – distilled on Islay, one of the Inner Hebrides Islands. It is noted for its very firm body and is the most complex of all Islay malts. Initial taste is robust and slightly sweet, offsetting the whisky's dry, salty note. Finish is astonishingly long and powerful, with a peaty, smoky taste.

POT ROAST WITH RICH ROOT

VEGETABLE SAUCE

4 pound boneless beef round tip roast
2 tablespoons olive oil
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
4 medium ribs celery, cut into 1-inch pieces
3 medium carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves or 1 tablespoon fresh thyme
3 sprigs Italian parsley
2 bay leaves, broken in half
3 large cloves garlic, crushed
1 can (28 ounces) Italian-style tomatoes, drained, coarsely chopped
1 can (13 3/4 to 14 1/2 ounces) ready-to-serve beef broth
1 cup dry red wine

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. In 5-quart ovenproof Dutch oven, heat oil over medium-high heat until hot. Add beef roast; brown evenly. Remove roast; season with salt and pepper. Add onions, celery and carrots to same pan; cook and stir until onions are tender, about 5 minutes. Add thyme, parsley, bay leaves, garlic, tomatoes, beef broth and wine; stir to blend. Return roast to pan; bring to a boil.

Cover tightly; transfer pan to oven. Cook in 350 degree F. oven 3 hours or until beef is tender, turning roast over halfway through cooking.

Remove roast; keep warm. Strain cooking liquid; reserve. Remove and discard bay leaves from vegetables. Puree vegetables in blender or food processor fitted with metal blade. Add 2 cups cooking liquid through feed tube with the motor running. (Sauce may be kept warm or reheated in a saucepan, over low heat). Carve roast into thin slices; serve with sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Recipe from National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

CHICKEN AND VEGETABLE RISOTTO

2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil, plus more as needed
1 garlic clove, crushed under a knife
1 small red bell pepper, seeded and cut into 1/2-inch squares
1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium carrot, chopped
1/2 cup canned crushed tomatoes
1 1/2 cups Arborio rice
About 6 cups hot chicken broth
1/2 cup thawed frozen peas
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
2 cups leftover cooked chicken cut into 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, plus more for serving

In a heavy-bottomed Dutch oven, heat the olive oil over medium heat. Add the garlic and cook until fragrant, about 1 minute. Add the bell pepper and cook, stirring often, until tender, about 10 minutes. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the pepper to a bowl, discarding the garlic.

If necessary, add a little more oil to the Dutch oven. Add the rosemary, onion, and carrot. Cook over medium heat, stirring often, until the vegetables soften, about 5 minutes. Add the tomatoes, reduce the heat to medium-low and simmer until slightly thickened, about 10 minutes.

Add the rice. Cook, stirring constantly, until it absorbs the cooking liquid, about 3 minutes. Add 1 cup of the broth and reduce the heat to medium low. Simmer, stirring constantly, until the rice almost completely absorbs the broth, about 3 minutes. Continue adding the broth 1 cup at a time, stirring constantly, waiting until it is almost completely absorbed before adding more. When 1 cup of the broth remains, stir in the bell pepper, peas, salt, and pepper. Place the chicken in the center of the rice. Pour the remaining broth over all and cover. Reduce the heat to very low and cook until the rice is tender and slightly creamy and the chicken is hot, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of the cheese. Serve immediately in warmed bowls, with a bowl of Parmesan cheese on the side. Serves 4.

Recipe from "One-Pot Italian Classics" by Anna Theresa Callen, (HarperCollins Publishers, Jan. 15, 1997; $17.50)

FLASH-IN-THE-PAN WINTER STIR-FRY

3 skinless, boneless chicken breast halves (about 1 pound)
1 tablespoon peanut or vegetable oil
1/4 teaspoon coarse (kosher) salt
2 teaspoons grated fresh ginger
1 garlic clove, minced
2 pounds bok choy or Napa cabbage, cut into slices about 1/4-inch thick (about 6 cups)
1 medium onion, cut into wedges about 1/4-inch thick
6 scallions, cut diagonally into 1 1/2-inch lengths
3 tablespoons soy sauce

Rinse the chicken under cold running water and pat dry. Cut into 3/4-inch pieces.

In a wok or large skillet, heat the peanut oil and salt over medium-high heat. Add the ginger and garlic and stir-fry until fragrant, about 30 seconds. Add the chicken and cook, stirring frequently, until white throughout but still juicy, 3 to 4 minutes. Add the bok choy, onion, and scallions and stir-fry until crisp-tender, 2 to 3 minutes. Add the soy sauce and cook, stirring one minute longer. Serves 4.

Recipe from: "Chicken Dinners in One Pot," by Peggy Falon (HarperCollins Publishers, Jan. 15, 1997; $17.50).

CAULIFLOWER BISQUE

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 large leeks, whites and tender greens, trimmed, well washed and chopped
1 plump shallot, chopped
Pinch dried thyme
1 medium cauliflower, cleaned, cored and broken into florets
1 large russet potato, peeled and coarsely chopped
5 cups chicken stock
1 1/2 cups milk
Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper
1 tablespoon minced fresh chives

Heat oil in a large, heavy-bottomed pot over low heat. Add leeks, shallot and thyme, tightly cover and braise over low heat until leeks are very tender, about 10 minutes.

Add cauliflower, potato and 4 cups stock, increase heat to medium-high and cook, uncovered, until stock just begins to boil, about 5 minutes. Tightly cover pot, reduce heat to low and cook until cauliflower is very tender, 20 to 25 minutes.

Let soup cool slightly, about 15 minutes. Carefully spoon solids into a food processor fitted with the metal blade. Add 1 cup warm stock and process until solids are very smooth.

Return puree to pot and whisk in remaining 1 cup stock and milk. Cook over medium heat until soup is hot but not boiling. Season with salt and pepper. Ladle into heated soup bowls and sprinkle with chives. Serves 6.

Wine recommendation: Foxen Vinyard Chardonnay (California: Santa Barbara County) or another full-bodied California Chardonnay, preferably from the Santa Barbara region.

Here's a low-fat snack for Super Bowl

AP - Light Potato Dipper is a low-fat snack for Super Bowl Sunday – or any gathering of friends and family. The dipper is made with Jarlsberg light cheese, instant potato flakes and vegetable broth.

LIGHT POTATO DIPPERS

1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Jarlsberg Lite cheese
1 cup instant potato flakes
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1 cup vegetable broth

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Mix cheese, potato flakes and seasonings well. Add broth, mix.

For a lacy, crispy "break off" dipper, sprinkle evenly on a parchment-lined (or use aluminum foil, lightly oil-sprayed) 10- by 10-inch baking sheet. Bake for 25 minutes in a preheated 375-degree F oven for 25 minutes or until brown around the edges. Break into free-form pieces.

For a solid, square, flexible cracker-type dipper, spread on a parchment-lined (or oil-sprayed aluminum foil-lined) 10- by 10-inch baking sheet. Pat down with clean hands to make an even layer. Bake in preheated 375-degree F oven for 35 minutes or until beginning to brown. Invert on wire rack, peel off parchment or foil and replace in oven to bake another 10 minutes. Cut into 2-inch squares. Makes 25 pieces.

Serve with a tomato sauce (jarred marinara) or your favorite salsa.

■ "Evita" (USA - 1996). Madonna gets her chance to shine in the role of a lifetime: Argentina's Eva Peron in the musical drama based on the 1976 stage hit by Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber. Antonio Banderas co-stars as the Argentinian everyman who comments on the action.

■ "Shine" (Australia - 1996). The hit at last year's Toronto Film Festival focuses on David Helfgott, a real-life concert pianist plagued by an overbearing father and mental illness. Though perhaps not as inspiring as you may have heard, it does examine the nature of creativity and shows that there are still talented directors populating "The Land Down Under."

■ "The Crucible" (USA - 1996). Arthur Miller adapted his own play for the screen, the story of the Salem Witch Trials in which a spiteful girl controls the fate of a man she had an affair with. Winona Ryder and Daniel Day-Lewis star.

007's Aston at Ford Museum

James Bond's Aston Martin DB-5, the gadget -loaded spy car that starred in 1964's film phenomenon "Goldfinger," will be on display at Henry Ford Museum Jan. 11 through March 9, 1997.

Sometimes described as the car that made James Bond famous, the DB5 appeared in "Goldfinger" for only 13 minutes (ending with bond wrecking the car) but still captured the imagination of audiences worldwide. It proved so popular that it was resurrected for the next Bond film, 1965's "Thunderball."

This particular DB5 –the DP/216/1 – is far more than mere transportation. It is equipped with both offensive and defensive weaponry to assist its driver, James Bond – Agent 007 – whose business was spying on behalf of "Her Majesty's Secret Service."

The car is a film representation of author Ian Fleming's original philosophy about 007: "Bond may go wildly beyond the probable, but not beyond the possible." "On film, the car was an extension of Bond himself," said Donna Braden, a museum curator and one of the planners of the DB5 exhibit. "The cleverness of the car's accessories parallels Bond's clever, quick wit and amazing, unorthodox ways of achieving goals."

Braden points out that the high-tech nature of the DB5 was extraordinary for its time, and is even amazing today. The current DB5 is a restored version, with all the "bells and whistles" of the original car in place but not necessarily in working order.

Museum hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. all week. Admission is $12.50; senior citizens 62 and older $11.50; youth ages 5-12 $6.25; children under five and members admitted free. Special group rates are also available.

A Head-liner

So far, the season could hardly have been better for Eastern Michigan University's men's basketball team, despite last Thursday's disappointing loss at Boise State.

The Eagles' record fell to 12-2 with their loss on national TV early Friday morning (the game started at midnight in Boise) — which isn't too bad at all.

One might think that despite the team's success, Plymouth Salem graduate James Head isn't real happy. After all, he lost his starting position; he comes off the bench now.

This was supposed to be his year.

Don't think for a moment it hasn't been. Head has flourished in his sixth-man role, and — although he's started just twice this season — he's getting in the same amount of court time (24 minutes a game) as last season.

And he's making the most it. Head is third in scoring among the Eagles, averaging 12.1 points a game, and his 6.0 rebounds-per-game average is slightly behind team-leader Derrick Dial's 6.1 (all statistics prior to the Boise State game).

Head also leads EMU and ranks second in the Mid-American Conference in field-goal shooting (62.2 percent); leads EMU and is fifth in the MAC in steals (2.5 per game); and leads EMU and is 10th in the MAC in blocks (0.7 per game).

Head's proven he can hit from outside, too; he's converted 8-of-19 three-pointers, and his three-point percentage (42.1) is best among the Eagles with more than 10 triple attempts.

Last season, Head averaged 6.6 points and 6.4 rebounds a game in helping EMU win a MAC title and reach the second round of the NCAA Tournament.

The Eagles return to MAC action tonight, hosting Bowling Green State at 8:30 p.m.

MSU swimming

Michigan State's men's swim team won its first dual-meet season-opener, beating West Virginia Wesleyan 121-71 Jan. 3. The Spartans lost their second dual, 154-88, to Eastern Michigan Jan. 11.

Mike Orris, a Plymouth Canton graduate, recorded season bests in the 200-yard (1:48.06) and 500-yard (4:49.57) freestyles against EMU. Both are the second fastest times turned in by a Spartan this season.

Orris was also part of the 400 free relay that posted MSU's second-fastest time this season (3:17.45) against EMU. Earlier this season, Orris swam legs on the 200 free relay (1:31.11) and the 800 free relay (7:13.06); both were MSU's second-best times of the season.

Fred Locke, from Plymouth Salem, swam with Orris on the 400 free relay. Locke also is tied for third among the Spartans for the fastest 50 free (22.45), and he's also swam a leg on the team's third-fastest 200 free relay (1:31.567).

Youth floor hockey clinic

A series of youth floor hockey skills clinics and leagues are being formed by the Canton Parks and Recreation Services.

Clinics begin the week of Jan. 27 and are open to boys and girls in grades 1-5. Clinics will be from 3:45-4:40 and 4:45-5:45 p.m. at Field Elementary on Mondays; from 3:25-4:25 and 4:30-5:30 p.m. at Hoben Elementary on Tuesdays; and from 3:45-4:40 and 4:45-5:45 p.m. at Gallimore Elementary on Wednesdays.

There will be a total of six skills clinics, followed by five games on Saturdays beginning Feb. 1 at Summit on the Park Community Center.

Cost is $35 per child. There are no residency requirements. Registration begins at the Canton Parks and Recreation offices, 46000 Summit Parkway in Canton, on Thursday (Jan. 9) from 6-9 p.m. After that, registration will be during regular business hours (8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.) Monday through Friday.

For more information, call (313) 397-5110.

Open skating

Winter means frozen ponds and chances to ice skate outside — and there are several local places to do it.

•Wayne County Parks has several spots open for skating. In Plymouth, there's Wilcox Lake; in Redford, it's Lola Valley; in Livonia, go to Newburgh Lake; and in Westland, slide over to Nankin Mills.

All rinks will be open during the day, weather permitting. In addition, the rink Nankin Mills is lighted and will remain open until 10 p.m.

To get locations of other County skating rinks, or to receive skating conditions, call the Wayne County Parks office at (313) 261-1990.

•Canton Parks and Recreation Services is sponsoring its first Family Skate night from 7-9 p.m. Thursday at the Heritage Park ponds, located behind Township hall.

There is no charge and there are no residency requirements. Warm refreshments will be available, and the ponds will be lighted.

Frosty start, fast finish for Chiefs

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
STAFF WRITER

BASKETBALL

Plymouth Canton's basketball team passed another test.

Livonia Churchill's team might have also.

Canton struggled for a period and a half Friday night before exploding past Churchill on its way to a 66-40 victory in a Western Lakes Athletic Association game.

The Chiefs are now 6-3 overall, 2-1 in the WLAA while the Chargers have yet to win in eight tries this season, three in the league.

"We did all right, considering it was finals week," Canton coach Dan Young said. "We were tired. We had heavy legs early.

"But we fought through it. We're working hard in the classroom and I was pleased with our effort."

Rob Johnson led Canton with 15 points while Nick Hurley scored 14 and was especially helpful to Matt Ammons, who scored 12.

Churchill might have made some progress, too — progress you won't find on the scoreboard right now and certainly won't find in the WLAA standings.

The Chargers are still adapting to the ways of new coach Rick Austin and might have learned a lesson or two in the loss.

"We played good for a while," Austin said. "We played against a good team.

"And you have to play consistently good and you have to play consistently hard. You can't pick your spots, you have to play good and hard all the time."

Austin ordered up a couple of zone defenses

Good effort for Chiefs, but Rocks reign

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR

Isn't it wonderful when both sides in a dual meet end up winning?

No, there were no major surprises during Thursday's swim duel between Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton. The Rocks won, as expected; but the score was a good deal closer than anticipated, which pleased Canton fans — 104-82, at Salem.

The result left Rocks' coach Chuck Olson a bit concerned. "They swam well, and we swam well," he said. "That's as close as I want them to get. They're one of the better teams in our league. They're going to win a lot of meets."

Canton may indeed be one of the better teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association, but Salem remains the defending champion — for the past four years.

And as Olson noted, the last time Canton beat Salem in a dual meet was, well . . .

"It's never happened," he said. "I don't think they've ever beaten us in a dual meet, or in the conference meet."

Thursday's result could provide the Chiefs with a glimmer of hope, that the end of that seemingly endless streak could be near at hand.

"In terms of dual meets, we're pretty tough," said Canton coach Kyle Lott. "We're a lot better this year than we were last year.

"I think we have one more step to take. But if our times continue to drop like they did against Salem, we may take that step this year.

"Time will tell. We'll have to wait and see."

Canton had depth last year, Lott's first as coach, but the Chiefs were lacking the top-level swimmers needed to score big points at large meets, like the conference championships. That's changed somewhat this year.

It was evident against Salem, a team that always seems to possess great talent and loads of depth.

The Rocks did harness most of the firsts, winning five individual events and two of three relays. But Canton's performance was still better than anticipated.

Especially after reviewing their dual-meet opener against Ann Arbor Huron. "The kids did not have a real good meet against Huron," said Lott, "so I really didn't know what to expect against Salem."

Lott figured a heavy workout schedule during Christmas break was part of the reason for the Chiefs' flat showing against Huron, a 30-point loss. Still, when Salem knocked off the very same River Rats' team last Tuesday by 24 points, Lott was more than a bit concerned.

"We went into the meet with the attitude that, yes, Salem is a better team than we are, but we're going to get our times back on track," said Lott.

The Chiefs did more than that. They may not be ready to challenge Salem for the WLAA title just yet, but they're in the league's top echelon.

Of course, that rating's a bit deceiving. The gap between Salem and the rest of the conference is wide.

Mark Dettling was part of four firsts for the Rocks against Canton. He won both the 200-yard freestyle (1:51.97) and the 100 butterfly (55.58), the latter bettering the state cut.

He also teamed with Kyle Petroskey, Tim Buchanan and Nick Corden to win the 200 free relay (1:32.93), and with Petroskey, Corden and Brent Mellis to capture the 400 free relay (3:27.72).

Petroskey won the 100 free (50.88), Otto Geiseman was first in diving (257.20 points) and Luke Woodcock took top honors in the 100 back (1:01.26).

For Canton, Alex Roettgers was the biggest star. Roettgers won both the 200 individual medley (2:05.82) and the 500 free (5:06.54), and combined with Don LeClair, Pat Krause and Curtis Hornick for a first in the 200 medley relay (1:46.06).

Salem survives North challenge

BASKETBALL

This game did not follow the script.

One team had the best record in the Western Lakes Activities Association and had lost just once in eight games. The other was winless in two previous WLAA contests and had just two wins in eight tries.

Logic says the former should roll.

Logic was off-target.

With 1:25 left in the game, North Farmington's Julian Cochran was at the free-throw line shooting a 1-and-1 with the game tied at 56-all.

He missed the first. Salem rebounded, and with just under a minute to play, Nate Gray — who had scored just three points all night — nailed a three-pointer that gave the Rocks a lead they never surrendered in a 64-59 triumph Friday at North.

With the win, Salem improved to 8-1 overall, 3-0 in the WLAA. North is 2-7 overall, 0-3 in the league.

"It was a tough, physical game," said North coach Brian Swinehart. "It was a war. But our kids didn't back down at all."

Salem, coming off an emotional overtime win over Farmington Harrison three days earlier, did not play up to its potential.

"We didn't play real well," said coach Bob Brodie. "We played real sloppy. We had a lot of turnovers . . . we were just careless with it."

The Rocks committed 20 turnovers to just eight for North.

Salem led 9-7 after one quarter but fell behind 23-21 at the half. Were they taking the Raiders for granted, chalking up a win before finishing the game?

"I told 'em (North was) a tough team, that it was a division game and that they had to respond to it," said Brodie.

But the Rocks never really responded. Fortunately Andy Power — who was limited to two points in the first half — found his range in the second.

Power knocked down four triples in the last two quarters en route to scoring 19 points to finish with a game-high 21. Andres Lopez added 10.

North got 14 points apiece from Brad Rivers and Scott Gold. Carter Campbell chipped in with 10, all in the second half, and Cochran had eight points, six assists and six rebounds.

Canton spikes Northville; Salem cruises

With the memory of its five-set, 2 1/2-hour setback in its Western Lakes Activities Association opener two night earlier still vivid, Plymouth Canton's volleyball team rebounded with a solid performance in its WLAA Western Division opener at Northville Wednesday.

The Chiefs got everyone involved in dropping the Mustangs, 15-4, 10-15, 15-7, 15-11. The win improved Canton's record to 11-2-1 overall, 1-1 in the WLAA.

Jessica Orleman and Stephanie Chefan both turned in strong offensive performances. Orleman getting 22 kills and Chefan 12. Nikki Kovachevich and Courtney Wells contributed to those numbers, collecting 19 and 12 assists to kills, respectively.

Defensively, Orleman again led Canton, totaling 24 digs. Jenny Sikora had 22, Wells got 11 and Chefan collected eight.

Kovachevich also had four service aces, with Sikora getting three.

Salem eyes showdown

The team Plymouth Salem meets tonight was the last WLAA team to beat the Rocks in the regular season.

That was nearly four years ago.

Since then, the Rocks have reeled off 36 straight regular-season victories in the league. The most recent in that string was last Wednesday, when they topped visiting Farmington 15-8, 15-5, 15-3.

That made Salem 11-4-4 overall and 2-0 in the WLAA going into tonight's match at Livonia Churchill. And if there's one certainty, the Chargers — who beat the Rocks in the second-to-last WLAA match of the '93 season — will provide a far greater challenge than Farmington did.

Salem co-coach Allie Suffety knows it. "That's what we're looking for (from Churchill)," he said. "We put a lot of heat on them the last two days of practice.

"(The Chargers) don't send a lot of free balls over. We're going to have to dig everything from them."

That was something the Rocks didn't have to worry about against Farmington. Their defensive leader was Melissa Ward — with four digs. Amanda Abraham had three solo blocks to go with five kills.

Jenny Trott led Salem with seven kills and three service aces. Kari Flynn added four kills, nine assists to kills and four aces, and Laine Sterling collected 13 assists to kills.

The numbers will no doubt swell Monday, because the match figures to last a lot longer. Churchill was 13-2-4 overall and 2-0 in the WLAA following Wednesday's win over Livonia Franklin.

The closest race of the evening ended in a first-place tie: Salem's Andrew Locke and Canton's LeClair were each clocked at 23.79 in the 50 free.

Two impressions regarding the season did emerge from the meet. First, Canton is a team on the rise. The Chiefs should indeed challenge for the WLAA's Western Division title, as Olson predicted.

"I believe so, yes," was Lott's reaction to that rating. "I think Northville is very good, and Harrison should be, too."

But Canton has more depth and, with swimmers like Roettgers and LeClair, they now have some top-level talent, too.

Which leads to the second impression — and that is that Salem is still the WLAA's measuring stick. "For our second meet this week and just our second meet of the year, we swam pretty well," said Olson.

And they'll swim even better — you can bet on that.

girls basketball coach Bob Blohm. "If we make it challenging and fun we have the opportunity to educate and motivate students.

"The most exciting part of the opportunity with the Detroit Pistons was to create a developmental strategy to encourage today's younger generation."

School assembly topics include Peer Pressure, Staying in School and Being a Team Player.

Pistons Partner Programs are split into two 1 1/2 hour sessions at each area grade school or junior high that joins.

For a $25 participation fee, participants receive basketball instruction, a regular-season Pistons game ticket, a Pistons T-shirt, a Pistons Particpation Certificate, prizes for skills contest winners and friends and family have the opportunity to purchase a $20 Pistons' ticket for only $10.

Schools who become a Pistons Partner receive a Pistons Partner Plaque and an autographed Pistons basketball. Schools also receive 10 Pistons and 20 Detroit Vipers hockey tickets to be used for the school's Pistons Student and Teacher of the Month.

The program is coming to Observerland. A Pistons Partner Program Program Jam Session was held Wednesday at Garden City Junior High School. The basketball clinic will be held there Feb. 5.

A native of Kalamazoo, the 39-year-old Moreland was raised in South Bend, Ind. and he prepped at Andrew Jackson High School, where he was class president, captain and most valuable player of the basketball team.

He played collegiately at Davenport College of Business in Grand Rapids and Northwood University in Midland.

He was a junior college All-America at Davenport, while averaging 24.5 points per game.

After Gray's three gave Salem the lead, North got off a triple-try but missed. Down the stretch, Power sank two free throws and Gray got one of two to insure the Rocks' victory.

Baptist Park 70, PCA 55: Host Taylor Baptist Park led from start to finish Friday in toasting Plymouth Christian Academy.

The loss dropped PCA to 4-5 overall, 0-2 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference. Baptist Park is 5-2 overall, 1-0 in the MIAC.

The Eagles fell behind 14-8 after the first quarter and things went downhill from there. They trailed 37-25 at the half and 59-36 after three quarters.

Chris DeRenzo's 13 points led PCA. Mike Kimpan added 11.

Taylor Baptist had five players in double figures, led by Scott Lewald and Brandon Hoffman with 14 each.

Notre Dame 85, Redford CC 66: Greg Stempin, a 6-foot-8 senior center headed for the University of Toledo, poured in a game-high 34 points Friday as Harper Woods Notre Dame (7-2, 4-0) defeated Redford Catholic Central in a battle for first place in the Central Division of the Catholic League.

Stempin went one-for-seven from the floor in the opening quarter, but came on during the final three quarters with 14-of-19 shooting.

Chris Young, a 6-foot-10 junior center, led CC (5-3 overall, 3-1 in the Central) with 23 points. Senior guard Marc McDonald added 20.

CC led 20-17 after one quarter, but Notre Dame took a 46-41 halftime lead and never trailed.

The Shamrocks got as close as six points with 4:32 to play before the Fighting Irish pulled away.

with some pressure against Canton and the Chiefs had problems with the test.

After one quarter the Chargers were ahead, 4-3, as both teams were only slightly warmer than the single-digit weather outside Canton's gym.

Joe Cortellini hit a three from the left wing with 5:37 left in the first half and Johnson completed a three-point play with 4:55 to go to give Canton its first lead of the game, 9-6. By quarter's end, it was 20-8.

"We got some good shots against the zone," Young said. "And we were patient. The shots just wouldn't fall.

"I thought we were outstanding defensively. Working against a zone just takes time. Unless you come out firing and make every shot."

The third period turned into a racehorse game and it wasn't long before Austin ditched his zones.

"In the second half we came out and didn't play defense," said Austin, who finds no joy in getting beat and is trying to get that lesson across to his team. "And on offense, we weren't rotating the ball. We like to break a defense down and look for an opportunity. And we weren't rotating the ball."

Shawn Woloszyn scored 11 points to lead the Chargers and did it in the first three periods of the game. He watched in the fourth while his teammates tried to learn they can do things without leaning on their leading player.

Corey Cook scored nine, Justin Mattison seven and Matt Buzewski added five while playing the point.

"Corey Cook worked his tail end off," Austin said. "And Matt Buzewski is a junior whom we're working carefully with at the point.

"He is capable of showing what kind a player he can be. He needs a little more confidence. And maturity."

Churchill's zone was effective against Canton for a while but the Chiefs worked better against it than they did against Walled Lake Central's the week previous.

"We're going to see a lot of it," Young warned, "so we've got to continue to work on our passing and catching."

Churchill brought George Kithas up from the junior varsity "because he has a lot of potential," Austin said. "We brought him up to help us on the offensive side of things.

"Our kids have to know that if they continue to work hard, the breaks are going to fall our way."

Lessons. Not all of them are learned in the classroom.

A new bowling "Vision"

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Call it a resurrection, or even a minor miracle, but like the "Phoenix" that arose from the ashes, Fiesta Lanes on Ford Road in Westland has been taken over by new owners and new management.

They have reopened for business as of last weekend, but it was a monumental task to get this building back in shape.

No more leaky roofs, no more automatic pinsetters that didn't work half the time. Under the direction of Greg Sicilia, this is now a very nice facility.

It was not expected by some to ever be a full-scale bowling center again. The building and facilities were badly run down, the last of the leagues left with bad feelings and even Channel 2 gave it some unfavorable publicity, naming it in the "Hall of Shame."

There were numerous attempts to sell the business and none worked out, so it stayed vacant.

It was up to the owner of the property, Mike Paglia, to make a decision. His choice was the right one, as he hired some very experienced bowling people to operate the facility.

One of the first orders of business was to get a new name to go along with the new image.

Thus we now have "Vision Lanes" added to the bowling community.

One of the very first tasks was to get a new roof. The old one leaked so badly that league bowlers had to get a ball that would react well in water instead of oil.

Automatic scorers were installed, the 32 lanes were stripped and re-surfaced, new masking units were installed.

The ceiling tiles were replaced, the carpets were good, just needed a cleaning, and a separate room was set up for the video games. They were kept separate so the electronic beeps, pings and zings would not disturb the bowlers.

At Vision Lanes, the bowlers come first, ahead of all other functions. The cocktail lounge and food service has been improved and all facilities have been designed to suit the needs of the customers.

There are still a few kinks to work out, and they are looking for more help in the food service and lounge, need a pin jumper and snack bar help as well.

Since this is really aid-season opening, there are new leagues being formed. This will be something for everyone. From Youth Leagues to Senior Citizens.

There will even be an instructional league for beginning bowlers of all ages.

Greg Sicilia grew up in the bowling business, having the erstwhile Cass Sicilia for a father. Cass is well remembered by oldsters for having been the proprietor of Crest Lanes, and later serving the bowling community for many years as Executive Director of the Bowling Centers Association (BCA).

In recent times, the Sicilia family has owned and operated Airport Lanes in Jackson. Greg knows that this house needs a lot of hard work to restore a good public image and he knows just what it takes to bring back the bowlers.

They will be treated with all due respect, the facilities will be nicely kept up and maintained. Perhaps the two most important factors will also be there – a good lane condition and decent food in the snack bar will be the rule.

Vision Lanes is starting out with a short season league on Monday and Thursday nights. There will be plenty of open bowling time available, a great opportunity to get some extra practice, or just go out and have some fun bowling.

Central stops Salem

WRESTLING

If the meet had ended at its mid-point, Plymouth Salem's wrestlers would have been happy.

And, for that matter, still unbeaten in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Alas, the upper weights did the Rocks in Wednesday against visiting Walled Lake Central. Salem got five match wins in the 103-135 range, but just one above it in stumbling, 42-31.

The loss left Salem with a 5-1-1 overall record, 3-1-1 in the WLAA.

Hurting the Rocks' chances for a victory was the absence of 140-pounder Dan Hamblin, who was out with an injury. Had Hambling won by fall, it would have been a big enough swing to give Salem the victory.

Winners for the Rocks were John Mervyn, who pinned Joe Marttile in 3:16 at 103; Dan Morgan, who beat Ryan Parks 12-1 at 112; Eric Coburn, who pinned Scott Aubry in 3:16 at 119; Sean Hughes, who pinned John O'Brien in 1:14 at 125; James Greene, who pinned J.D. Ziarkowski in :42 at 135; and Teono Wilson, who edged Derek Vos 4-3 at 189.

The Rocks host North Farmington Thursday.

On Saturday (Jan. 11), Salem traveled to the 15-team Berkley Invitational, finishing third with 142 points. Novi won with 190.5, followed by Wyandotte Roosevelt with 184.5.

Dan Hamblin was a winner in the 140 division. His brother Charlie also finished first in the heavyweight class, and Wilson won the 189 division.

Greene placed second at 135, with Anwar Crutchfield (152), Coburn (125) and Morgan (112) each taking third. Mervyn (103) finished fifth.

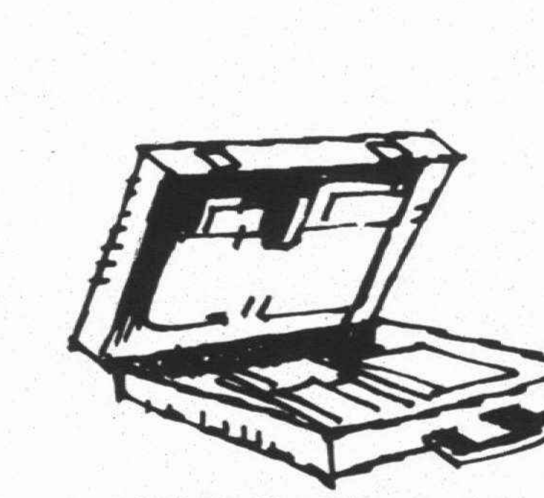
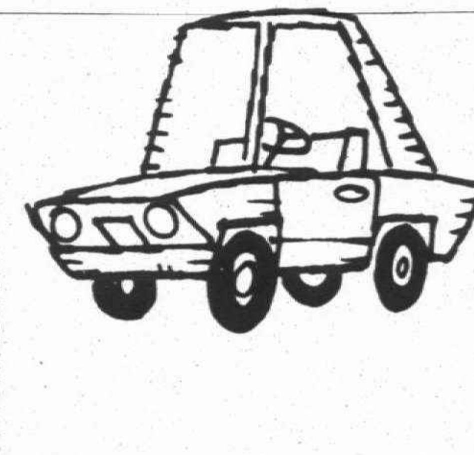
WRITE IT AND REAP!

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

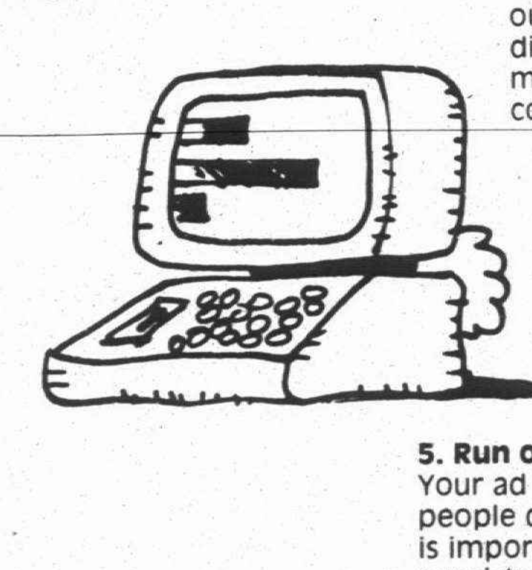


2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.



4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!



5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative.

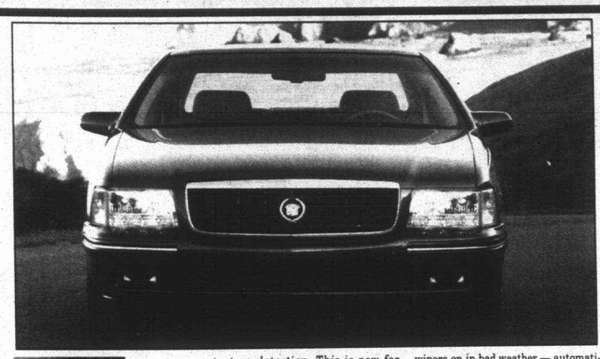
DeVille Concours wins points for comfort, safety improvements

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti NewsFeatures



ROAD TEST By Anne Fracassa

While many of my neighbors were slipping and sliding and crunching their cars to negotiate the first "real" snowstorm of the season, I was tooling around without a care in the world.

I was driving the 1997 Cadillac DeVille Concours, complete with anti-lock brakes, traction control, stability enhancement and a computerized integrated chassis control that aims to keep the car from skidding or spinning out of control. It also is updated in body structure, suspension and brakes.

I'm not always so lucky. Most of the time, when you schedule a test car with all that stuff you'd really like to try out, the road is dry as a bone and the evaluation just isn't the same. The same thing happens when a 4-wheel drive comes in when it's sunny and dry.

Well, for once, it worked out. This DeVille Concours is not only the most comfortable Cadillac I've ever been in, but also it's the safest.

Most cars have anti-lock brakes. A lot have traction control. Most are very stable, and it's getting so that every new-car model year brings the promise of safer vehicles.

It's gotten so that I've almost forgotten what it's like without ABS on a car. Last summer, however, Cadillac gave us a real-life reminder. Maybe it's because the luxury carmaker saw test drivers as getting a little too comfy with the products.

To fix our wagons, Cadillac invited a bunch of us to test some Cadillacs — without ABS. Without traction control. And without a bunch of other safety mechanisms.

I walked away with a new appreciation of those nearly standard safety enhancements. I don't think we can live without these safety tools we've become so used to.

And during a recent week when my neighborhood got socked with between 6 and 9 inches of snow, depending on where you live, the DeVille Concours did a wonderful job of negotiating the highways and byways in inclement weather.

Thanks to the enhancements made on this year's model. Take, for example, the integrated chassis control with stability enhancement and road texture detection. This is new for 1997, and it's a state-of-the-art electronic chassis system that helps drivers control the car on slippery roads or during emergency maneuvering. The system also enhances operation of the standard anti-lock brakes on rough road surfaces.

But it's a little complicated. On snow, gravel and other slippery surfaces, the ICCS system compensates — on its own — when you oversteer or understeer. Like when the car's rear starts to slip, the ICCS applies the brake for the outside front wheel and nudges the rear back into line. You can actually feel the rear of the car straighten out. One Cadillac official called it a "guardian angel; a co-pilot that takes control and provides assistance when you need it most."

The bottom line is that you get a greater sense of control in situations where you might normally have lost control of the vehicle.

Help also comes from Magnasteer, a variable-effort steering system. This provides you with continuous speed-sensitive steering that adapts to changes in the car's speed and road conditions. Again, better control.

The DeVille Concours is also equipped with a Rainsense windshield wiper this year. This system turns the wipers on in bad weather — automatically. You don't have to do a thing. It will accelerate the wipers when you gain speed or a heavy rain is falling, and decreases when the rain lets up ... and will return to pause or park without you touching any buttons.

The only thing you've got to do is place the wipers in the "auto delay" mode. That's it.

Not only are there changes under the sheet metal this year. This new DeVille Concours has changed on the interior and exterior as well.

Let's start with the inside, which has been updated big time this year. There's seating for five, oh-so-comfortable power bucket seats, a center console that's not cumbersome, new instrumentation with analog gauges and better control knobs and buttons on both the climate control and stereo controls.

On the outside, the front fenders, fascia and hood have been restyled for an updated look. Look at the front of the car and it actually looks a little sporty. Yep, I said sporty. The front of the DeVille now has a wider, more aggressive stance and looks even more solid on the road.

Here I go again: The 4.6-liter 32-valve dual overhead cam V8 Northstar system is just so great. This 300-horse engine is so hushed-up quiet, so smooth, so powerful that "responsive performance" just doesn't fill the bill. And it's not so powerful that it's too much. It's just right. Perfect.

DeVille has a first this year — side airbags. This is the first application of side airbags on a domestic vehicle. What the side airbags do is provide an added crush space between the door and the passenger or driver. They're door-mounted, deploy quicker than frontal airbags and provide an extra level of protection.

One more first for DeVille this year — the OnStar system. It's an optional package that includes a fixed — and hidden — cell phone that features two special buttons for OnStar services. It's available on all Cadillacs this year. It's a good idea that enhances safety, security and convenience for the driver.

OnStar provides roadside assistance with location, including police, fire and ambulance; automatic notification of front airbag deployment; theft detection, notification and tracking; an emergency button for medical, fire or police response; a remote to unlock the driver's door, to lock all doors, to flash the car's exterior and interior lights or to honk the horn to help you find your vehicle in a large lot.

If your airbag goes off, the OnStar Center will call you on your car phone. If you can't answer, OC will contact local emergency services and provide them with your vehicle's description and location.

Later this year, OnStar will be capable of providing routing support, a variety of concierge services and locations of hotels, restaurants, dealerships, hospitals, ATMs, airports, car-rental companies and gas stations.

It's a really neat system that I enjoyed thoroughly. The hands-off car phone with its ultra-pleasant "Veronica" voice prompt was especially fun and easy to use.

I could go on and on. Did I like this car? You bet. Would I buy it? In a heartbeat.

The DeVille Concours is fun to drive, luxuriously comfortable, user friendly and kept me safe during a rotten week of weather. Yep, Cadillac's got a real winner here.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Q: During the 1970s, Michael Richards of Seinfeld was in a weekly late-night show. I thought it was Saturday Night Live. Friends say it was SCTV. Which was it? –Lynn Reimund, Deshler, Ohio.

A: Richards was part of the zany cast of ABC's Fridays, viewed by many as a pale imitation of NBC's SNL. Among his fellow cast members was Larry David, who co-created Seinfeld – and who, by all accounts, is the real-life prototype for that sitcom's George Costanza.

Fridays ran from April 11, 1980, to Oct. 22, 1982.

Q: I say that game show host Wink Martindale is between 60 and 70 years old. My friends say he is older. Who is right? Also, who played the father of Mr. Spock on Star Trek? –Emily Sedziak, Erie, Pa.

A: Martindale was born Winston Conrad Martindale in Bells, Tenn., on Dec. 4, 1934, which means he recently turned 62.

Actor Mark Lenard, who recently died, played the Vulcan father of Spock.

Q: My wife and I watched the 1950 Tyrone Power movie The Black Rose. A woman whose name was given as Cecile Aubry played the romantic interest, and we gradually became convinced that she and present-day actress Linda Hunt must be the same person. Are they? –C.C.A., Athens, Ohio.

A: No. Hunt was 5 years old in 1950.

Q: I once saw a beautiful family movie, starring Jessica Tandy, Hume Cronyn and John Denver, about a Smoky Mountains widow who is visited by the ghost of her husband. Can you help me remember the title? –Leoda Watson, Campbellsville, Ky.

A: That was Foxfire, the lovely 1987 TV movie in which Tandy and Cronyn re-created their Broadway roles from a play he co-created with Susan Cooper, who also wrote the teleplay.

Critics claim voting policies taint Golden Globe Awards

By Barry Garron
TVData Features Syndicate

Some call it glitzy, prestigious and the best way to predict who will win Oscars. Others say it's a fraud, a marketing ploy for movie studios and a disgrace to serious journalism.

Both sides agree, however, that the 54th annual Golden Globe Awards telecast, airing Sunday, Jan. 19, on NBC, means big stars and big ratings. Last year, the first time the show ran on network television, 40 million viewers tuned in, and NBC won the night and its time period.

This year's production features awards in 24 categories (13 for movies and 11 for television), with a centerpiece honoring Dustin Hoffman, and promises to be a lavish affair.

But lately the Hollywood Foreign Press Association, which awards the Golden Globes, has come under scrutiny from critics. Some challenge the number of voters involved in choosing award winners, the qualifications of those voters, and association policies that exclude highly regarded journalists who write for large and respected newspapers in other countries.

The association has only 85 members, and at least one-third of them are not full-time reporters.

Many association members write for small, obscure publications in such countries as Lithuania and Bangladesh, where the market for American films is minuscule. Regardless, members need only show they have written four articles a year of any type to maintain membership.

"They qualify as journalists because they do write for a publication overseas and they are the Hollywood correspondents of their publications," says Philip Berk, association president and a reporter for the Argus Group, a South African syndicate.

"Many journalists are struggling," he says. "Many of them have to supplement their income in other ways."

But if association members spend time teaching or running an auto referral service, to name just two outside jobs held by members, do they have the time to watch every new film and sample every TV show, movie and miniseries?

"I think it's a farce," says Mirjana van Blaricom, a Yugoslavian-born film writer who was president of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association in 1992 and 1993. "If you ask me, it's a big joke."

Van Blaricom, a full-time journalist, last year founded a rival organization, the International Press Association, open to qualified journalists of all nationalities. It already claims a membership of 150 and will issue its own awards, the Golden Satellites, at a luncheon four days before the Golden Globes telecast.

The former association president estimates only about half of the Hollywood Foreign Press Association even bothers to vote for the Golden Globe winners. But that charge can't be verified: Ballots are counted by an accounting firm and the actual number of votes is kept secret, even from the association president.

Berk said he did not know how many votes were recorded this year but, based on attendance at screenings, he thought most association members cast ballots.

Even if all 83 eligible members voted (two are not qualified because they failed to turn in enough stories last year), participation is lacking compared to the Oscars.

"Our voting membership is somewhere in the neighborhood of 5,000," says Leslie Unger, publicity coordinator for the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

In Oscar competition, except for picture of the year, each Academy branch makes its own nominations: Actors nominate actors, directors nominate directors, and so on.

"My job isn't to question the integrity of another association's awards," Unger says. "Every ounce of my soul believes in the integrity of our awards. I don't think there are a lot of organizations that can make that claim."

Critics also denounce Hollywood Foreign Press Association membership policies. Only five new members are allowed each year and a single veto from any member can prevent another journalist from joining. Writers from the Times of London and Le Monde of France have been denied membership without explanation.

"There are hundreds of cases of people who are qualified but who are not allowed to join," van Blaricom says.

The tight grip on membership keeps the association from growing too large to serve the needs of members, Berk says. This way members get more of a chance to talk to stars at press events held exclusively for the association.

"If we were to absorb the other so-called hundred credible journalists in Hollywood, it would be impossible to provide opportunities for all of our members to get access to the stars during press conferences," Berk says.

Whether the Golden Globes are early Oscar indicators also is open to debate.

"I don't think we position ourselves to have an impact on the Oscars," Berk says. "But our awards reflect the attitudes of the Academy more so than some of the other bodies that present awards."

Twelve times during the past 17 years a Golden Globe winner for best motion picture also won the Academy Award. In Golden Globe competition, however, movies and TV shows are divided into two award categories: drama and musical/comedy. That doubles the chances a Golden Globe winner also will win an Oscar.

Still, the Golden Globe Awards show gives studios and stars a chance to plug their films in front of millions of viewers. The show also launches the unofficial campaign for Oscar votes.

Oscar nominations are announced on Tuesday, Feb. 11, and the ceremony airs Monday, March 24, on ABC.

The NBC sitcom Fraiser received a 1997 Golden Globe Award nomination for best musical or comedy series. The 54th annual Golden Globe Awards telecast airs Sunday on NBC.

Guiding Light celebrates 60 years

By Candace Havens
©TVData Features Syndicate

For more than 60 years the beacon on Guiding Light has been shining on daytime, and it has attracted generations of fans.

GL began as a 15-minute radio show created by Irna Phillips in 1937, and hit the small screen in June 1952. It is the only radio drama to make the transition to television and remain on the air today.

"For something to last six months in this business is amazing," says Jerry ver Dorn, who plays Ross Marler. "For a show to last 60 years it is phenomenal."

The set on GL is like no other set in daytime. Ver Dorn says part of that is due to a very special woman. "Charita Bauer, who played Bert for 40 years, just took every new person under her wing," ver Dorn says. "I think she sort of established the familylike tone of our set. She often maintained that there was a GL kind of person. They were hard workers with sense of humor.

"On our set you are very much invited to make a fool of yourself, which makes for a wonderful, creative atmosphere. What we are doing is not brain surgery. If someone makes a mistake, we move on."

Through the years GL has seen its share of changes in writers, producers and actors. Recently, Paul Rauch was hired as the new executive producer.

To celebrate the milestone, Rauch has a special week planned. "We have a gala ball celebrating the 60th anniversary of Cedars Hospital on the show," Rauch says.

"It will be attended by the entire cast and the audience will be treated to visits by favorites from the past. The lighthouse, which symbolizes GL, will play a prominent role when friends and adversaries cross paths to keep the light shining."

There also will be changes in the way the show looks. "We will be redesigning and redecorating all the sets with a lushness and romanticism not seen before on GL," Rauch says.

A president's wish: Family leave act hits prime time

By Teresa Ortega
©TVData Features Syndicate

The first bill President Bill Clinton signed into law, the Family and Medical Leave Act, inspired the first drama to include a current president as an actor.

Tuesday, Jan. 21 on CBS, John Ritter, Tess Harper and Anna Chlumsky star in A Child's Wish, about a family that falls into debt and disarray after daughter Missy is diagnosed with cancer.

The story is notable because it was similar real-life instances that prompted President Clinton to sign the controversial act into law in 1993.

Ritter (Hearts Afire) and Harper (A Summer to Remember) play Missy's parents, Ed and Joanne Chandler. The family goes into financial and emotional decline when Ed loses his job because of performance problems caused by Missy's illness.

Wish highlights the difficulties many families faced prior to passage of the Family and Medical Leave Act, which mandates up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave in a 12-month period to care for a seriously ill parent, spouse or child.

Though the film is heavily partisan in its depiction of the political process behind the passage of the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Chandlers' personal tragedy movingly demonstrates the need filled by such protective legislation.

John Ritter and Anna Chlumsky work well together in the many scenes they share, especially during their joint testimony before a congressional review board and in a difficult scene in which Ed Chandler tells his daughter her leg will have to be amputated.

To prepare for her role, Chlumsky met with families who lost children to cancer to hear about their experiences. "It made me realize how lucky I am," Chlumsky says, "and how unlucky some kids are."

Lawrence Horowitz, co-executive producer, says this is the "only time ever that an actual movie has been filmed in the Oval Office, and the only time that a sitting president has been in a movie other than a documentary."

Clinton, Horowitz says, was "gracious" and "put everyone else at ease."

Chlumsky recalls, "It was weird to see him (Clinton) come into the Oval Office," but once the president started casually talking to the assembled cast and crew, she realized that he was just "a totally normal guy."

The president appears in the movie's final scene, in which Missy, at this point clearly terminal, travels to the White House through the beneficence of the Make-A-Wish Foundation, which grants special wishes to terminally ill children.

John Ritter

In this, the film's dramatic culmination, it is both disconcerting and moving to see the president re-enacting for the screen a scene that has actually taken place many times privately during his tenure.

The line between real life, good TV drama and political speechmaking is blurred.

"When you believe something in your heart, it's not acting," Horowitz says, referring to the president's dramatic debut.

Nonetheless, by enlisting the country's most powerful political figure to tell this story, the makers of A Child's Wish are mixing true-tale dramatization with reality television in a manner destined to be controversial.

The issues brought up in A Child's Wish – including but surpassing its focus on the Family and Medical Leave Act – will undoubtedly reverberate long after its airing.

Austin City Limits pushes boundary of country's music

Austin City Limits has never been hemmed in by musical boundaries. The long-running PBS series may have once been regarded as a program that catered to country music, but its 22nd season, which begins on Saturday, Jan. 25 (check local listings), presents a range of styles as broad as the Texas horizon.

The season opens in traditional fashion with a special one-hour performance by country superstar Wynonna but subsequent episodes will offer everything from folk and bluegrass to alternative rock and blues.

In February, audiences will be treated to tributes to "father of bluegrass" Bill Monroe and the late songwriter Walter Hyatt. Lyle Lovett, Shawn Colvin, Jimmie Dale Gilmore, Junior Brown and Marcia Ball are among almost a dozen stars who honor Hyatt, who died in a plane crash in May 1996.

Austin City Limits will showcase acclaimed alternative rock acts Son Volt in March and Sheryl Crow in April. The new season also will feature guitar virtuoso Eric Johnson, blues-rock guitar prodigy Kenny Wayne Shepherd and the honky-tonk rhythms of the Derailers and Dale Watson.

Country music keeps its hat in the ring with performances by Mary Chapin Carpenter and Wade Hayes, as well as a new "Songwriters Special," featuring Waylon Jennings, Kris Kristofferson and Willie Nelson, airing on Saturday, Feb. 1.

Austin City Limits was inspired by the burgeoning music scene of Austin, Texas, in the early 1970s, and has featured more than 250 regional and internationally known artists on its stage over the past 21 seasons.

Austin City Limits has become one of television's longest-running music series largely thanks to its continuing association with traditional country music. But as this season's diverse and distinctive lineup illustrates, the series' scope has expanded beyond its titular borders. "It's not just country music," the program's catch phrase proclaims, "it's this country's music."
