Post office site rankles some

Subdivision and condominium residents bordering Griffin Park are upset with the location of Canton's new post office. The federal government recently bought five acres of the 37-acre park for the facility.

Reality set in Wednesday morning for residents of the Embassy Square subdivision and Pheasant Glen Condominium Association when employees of Canton Township's Public Works Department began removing playground equipment from a portion of Griffin Park.

Five-acres of the 37-acre park was sold to the U.S. Postal Service in March for a new $4 million postal branch to ease overcrowding at the Westland center. The 27,000-square-foot post office will front Canton Center Road, just north of Cherry Hill where Fire Station No. 1 is currently located.

The technical directions come from Cable Coordinator Scott Zuchlewski as he speaks into a headset to three volunteer camera operators at Canton Township's new state-of-the-art studio.

Three small monitors in the control room show the various camera views. Camera three is the one that's rolling on the "live to tape" segment of "Canton Contact," a weekly talk show on Channel 12 hosted by Ken Voyles, communications coordinator. Canton Police Capt. Alex Wilson is the featured guest.

Fire Marshal Dave Champagne is watching from the control booth and shows no signs of stage fright as he awaits his turn for the next cablecast of "Canton Contact."

Zuchlewski is operating the switcher, a control board that allows him to choose between camera angles. As the lights dim on the set, Zuchlewski rolls a pre-taped film of the Summit center building, which serves as a backdrop for the ending credits that begin to roll – compliments of graphic operator Cori Zglichzynski. Dave Harris had been controlling the audio board throughout the show.

Character building is focus of seminar

BY RENEE M. SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER

When it comes to building character in our youth, moral and ethical relativism doesn't work. A clearly defined sense of right and wrong does.

That was the message heard by the 34 community leaders from Canton, Plymouth and Northville who participated in the Community Youth Initiative's three-and-a-half-day "Character Counts!" training seminar last week in Canton Township Hall.

The Character Counts! Coalition is a national, nonpartisan, grassroots initiative based on voluntary citizen action. It was formed in 1993 by the Josephson Institute of Ethics in California and now claims more than 60 community, civic, business and educational organizations in its membership.

Character Counts! emphasizes six "pillars of character" – responsibility, citizenship, caring, respect, fairness and trustworthiness.

"These six core principles transcend cultural, religious and socioeconomic differences," said John Forenti, one of the seminar's presenters. Forenti is a lead teacher at an alternative high school in California that serves young people on probation within the justice system.

According to a Community Youth Initiative press release, the Character Counts! seminars train participants to return to their communities and motivate others to "identify and elevate community role models, recognize and support the needs of parents, and assist young people with developing ethical decision-making skills."

FIREWORKS CASE

Canton police will be enforcing the state's fireworks law as they did last year, despite a pending court case challenging the statute's constitutionality.

Public Safety Director John Santomauro said he isn't expecting a much different ruling from the state Court of Appeals when the three-judge panel convenes May 13 to decide whether or not the less restrictive federal fireworks law supersedes the state law.

The appellate case was filed by the owners of Burda Bros., a Michigan Avenue business targeted by police for selling illegal fireworks in 1995. Charges for the 1996 arrests of nine employees of Burda Bros. and Tri City Fireworks are pending in 35th District Court.

"We're certainly going to see what the ruling is going to be, but the Court of Appeals already ruled on it once, saying the Michigan law is constitutional," said Santomauro.

In January, the Court of Appeals ruled in a Lansing case that federal law only addresses the packaging and classification of fireworks for interstate shipment and doesn't address the sale or use of fireworks within the state.

Canton police already sent out warning letters to Burda Bros. and Tri City Fireworks saying police will be taking strict enforce-

PLYMOUTH CANTON 97 School Board Election

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of stories about the upcoming Plymouth-Canton school election, candidates and their views.

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

When voters go to the polls on Monday, June 9, they will elect one of three candidates to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education. The seat is being vacated by longtime trustee David Artley, who decided not to seek re-election.

Candidates for the four-year seat include Carol Bollman and Suzanne Dershem of Canton Township and Roland Thomas Jr. of Plymouth Township.

In recent interviews with the Observer, the school board hopefuls explained why they are running.

Bollman is running because "I honestly don't want to see Roland Thomas back on the board, and I told him this. He was not in favor of the committees we have, such as the long-range planning committee and the housing and facilities committee. He feels they have too much influence.

"Committees are what we need," said Bollman. "We have parents and staff involved, as opposed to the administration saying, 'This is the way it's going to be.'"

Bollman said she has a "history of being involved in both special and regular education, with three chil-

Spring blooms in time for annual Wildflower Walk

BY KEVIN BROWN
STAFF WRITER

The annual Miller Woods Spring Wildflower Walk is 1-4 p.m. Sunday rain or shine, blooms or no blooms.

Because it's been a cool spring, the annual Walk could be scheduled for just the right time, said Friends of Miller Woods committee member Dot Balogh.

"I think our timing can't be better this year, spring is late and the flowers are slow to bloom," Balogh said. "There are 10 natural acres of wildflowers, we try to gear it to the end of April or beginning of May."

While four or five varieties were blooming early this week, more than a dozen varieties of wildflowers at Miller Woods were expected to bloom in time for the Wildflower Walk.

Miller Woods is on the north side of Powell Road between Beck and Ridge roads in Plymouth Township. The land is home to a forest which draws researchers from the University of Michigan, due to its age.

It is owned by the Plymouth-Canton school district. School officials have discussed the option of selling the woods.

"We hope that it will be protected as an educational tool," Balogh said. "We hope they will make Miller Woods a central part of their science curriculum. It would be good for the children."

For more than 10 years now, the Friends of Miller Woods has lined paths with branches, laid wood chips on paths and tried to keep the woods free of debris. The group also backed putting up a four-foot high fence around the woods. "You don't find dogs in there anymore," Balogh said, adding that helps maintain some of the unique plant life.

During the Wildflower Walk, leaders take small groups through the woods and identify plants. Of wildflowers now blooming, "Trillium is probably one of the most showy that people come to see," Balogh said.

Some other wildflowers include Adders Tongue which features a mottled leaf. "The plant itself is just as interesting as the bloom," Balogh said. Soloman's Seal is tall for a wildflower at up to 18 inches. Other favorites include Dutchman's Breeches, Wild Geranium, May Apple and Jack in the Pulpit.

The Friends of Miller Woods expect more than 100 will turn out for the event, as in past years.

ics and a clearer and crisper picture," said Zuchlewski.

Previously, the township's limited programming was cablecast using Continental Cablevision's equipment in a building on Ronda Drive near Mettetal Airport.

Franchise agreements with Continental and Ameritech New Media Enterprises provided Canton government with a $325,000 grant to buy equipment and a 5-percent cut of the cable companies' gross revenue for the next 15 years.

About $300,000 has been spent on equipment and another $231,544 in franchise fees has been spent on interior construction of Canton's new studio, located at the Summit center.

"We're hoping to have eights hours per day of programming," said Zuchlewski.

The news magazine show "Canton This Month" will air 7 p.m. Friday, June 6, and will feature 30-40 minutes of locally produced "on the scene" newscasts filmed throughout Canton. The remaining 15-30 minutes of the show will spotlight a national affiliate news service, GSTN or Government Services Television Network.

Last month, "Pheasant Run Digest" premiered with local golf pro Dave Forestman, who will give lessons, tips on buying new golf clubs and golf etiquette pointers.

Plans are also in the works for Summit center programming, such as an aerobics show with aerobic instructor Kathy Fordell and a cooking show hosted by a chef from Summit Cuisine, which provides food service to the Summit.

"We'll be looking for new Canton programming. We can do internal training videos and we'll make the studio available to groups like the Canton Historical Society. There's just so much we can do with this," said Voyles.

Beginning May 13, the township will take over the cablecasting of township board meetings from Continental. The meetings are taped and cablecast unedited three times a week.

Renovations in Canton Township's board room are planned for the fall. Four remote cameras will be installed, allowing one person in a nearby control room to operate them. New audio and lighting are also expected to be installed.

"Our potential viewership is every one of the 15,000 or 17,000 households that have cable. With good programming on they're going to be stopping and taking a look, they're not just going to be clicking by the character generator," said Voyles.

dren having gone all the way through the school system. Having served on the facilities committee, I am aware of problems and conditions in buildings and shortcomings in the curriculum."

Bollman says she's "willing to listen to more than one opinion, able to analyze situations, and make a decision based on the interests of as many students as possible, and based on as much information as possible."

Dershem said she decided to run after becoming involved with the education of her son, a second-grader in the district. "I've been in the PTO at Bentley Elementary, attended school board meetings, and worked on the bond election. I really believe in public schools," she said. "I think that is a strength of society. I think public schools need to be strong and managed well."

A chemical engineer, "I am a clear thinker," said Dershem, who also attended the public forums on the bond issue. "I make good decisions and can ask the right questions to get the right answers. Once I decide to work on something, I put my energy toward it. For the next four years, this will be my life."

Dershem is accustomed to dealing with hourly employees "on up to the plant manager" at Castrol, where she works in the company's industrial division.

She joined the district's legislative action committee at the invitation of Superintendent Charles Little, and has consulted with Plymouth-Canton's state legislators regarding funding under Proposal A. Dershem also served on the citizens' election committee to help pass the bond at the request of the district.

While Thomas decided not to run for re-election in 1995 because "we needed a changing of the guard, my intention has always been to return to education in some form or fashion.

"When I looked at the experience level on the board and at some of the things going on with respect to education, I accelerated that plan," he said. Thomas did not favor the $79.7 million bond issue proposal approved by voters March 22.

Thomas, whose background is in finance, planning and analysis, said a new job in customer service at Ford has "changed my perspective. People who come to the board of education with questions deserve a response. That is one of the communication issues.

"One of the strengths I bring is the ability to help design a process which brings to the board the kind of information they need to do their job and to communicate with the public," he added.

In the past, the board held workshops which "enabled us to better understand the district," said Thomas. "That is part of what this board doesn't have."

Election registration deadline is May 12

BY M.B. DILLON
STAFF WRITER

If you're not yet registered to vote in the Plymouth-Canton school district and want to participate in the June 9 election, you have until May 12 to do so.

Voters will elect a trustee to fill the school board seat of David Artley. Vying for the four-year term are Carol Bollman of Canton Township, Suzanne Dershem of Canton Township, and Roland Thomas Jr. of Plymouth Township. Artley has decided not to seek re-election.

To register to vote, you must be 18 years old on the day of registration, and a resident of the school district. The school district does not register voters.

To register, you must go to your local clerk's office or the Secretary of State's office.

Elizabeth Adams, elections clerk for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, handles all absentee voter requests.

Unlike other municipalities that automatically send out absentee voter applications to senior citizens, the school district mails applications only to those on its list of 1,400 individuals who've previously voted absentee.

"You don't get one until you request one," said Adams. "All you have to do to get on the list is call." Adams' number is (313) 416-3095.

Applications will be available up until 2 p.m. Saturday, June 7, at the E.J. McClendon Center, 454 S. Harvey in downtown Plymouth.

"The office will be open June 7, the Saturday before the election, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. for people to come in and pick up an application. As of that day, they would not be able to take it out of the building. They would have to vote here," said Adams.

Residents of any age may vote absentee if they expect to be out of the community on Election Day, or meet other criteria, said Adams. They include:

- having reached the age of 60;
- being physically unable to go to the polls without assistance;
- being prohibited from attending the polls because of the tenets of religion;
- being unable to vote due to confinement in jail while awaiting arraignment or trial;
- being appointed as an election inspector in a precinct other than the precinct in which the voter resides.

"Those are the grounds on which voters may base a request," said Adams. "If they want to be on our permanent list, it's a matter of a phone call and they'll be on it. We need their name and address. Basically, that's it."

Voters needn't provide proof of registration. "I look up their voter cards. That is the proof," said Adams.

Absentee applications will be available by May 20 or before she added.

Adams welcomes calls from anyone with questions about how or where to vote. Her number is (313) 416-3095.

Also on the ballot will be two Schoolcraft College trustees running for re-election. Seeking six-year terms are Richard DeVries and Carol Strom.

CANTON CONNECTION

Keeping roads, teens safe

These days, prom season unfortunately sometimes involves more than just formal attire and corsages for the young women. It can mean an increase in the number of intoxicated teenagers tempted to get behind the wheel.

With that in mind, the Canton Public Safety Department, Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Mothers Against Drunk Driving have teamed up to enforce a zero-tolerance policy against substance and alcohol abuse.

The enforcement period began last week with Plymouth Canton High School's junior prom and will continue through all traditional, end-of-the-school-year celebrations.

Community policing teams have issued notices to motel owners advising them of the legal penalties for renting to minors for the purpose of alcohol consumption. Parents have also been notified about changes in state law which took effect three years ago. Current law states that any adult who owns or controls premises used by minors to consume alcohol may be charged with a misdemeanor offense, punishable by imprisonment for up to 30 days and/or a fine of not more than $1,000.

Students have been advised that local police will pursue stepped-up enforcement around proms and other activities and Plymouth-Canton security teams will be present at all functions.

The public safety department, school officials and MADD are also planning special awareness programs to be presented to students the week prior to graduation and prom celebrations.

Scholarship winners

Two local students have been named recipients of $1,000 scholarships awarded by the Target retail chain.

Jaclyn Ther of Canton and Maureen McInerney of Plymouth are two of some 1,500 scholarship winners nationwide. The local winners will be recognized by the Canton Target store in a special ceremony on May 10.

Now in its second year, the Target All-Around Scholarship Program was created to recognize students who are committed to their communities through volunteer service, family and education programs. The program's top prize, a $10,000 scholarship, was awarded this year to a Stockton, Calif., teen.

Gunmen hit Haggerty Road motel, escape with cash

The Fairfield Inn on Haggerty Road was the target of an armed robbery April 23.

The two robbers entered the lobby of the hotel about 11 p.m. asking if a guest by the name of "Williams" had checked in to the hotel, police said. After learning no such person had checked in they left, but returned about 20 minutes later.

The clerk told police that one of the robbers, described as a black male wearing a horizontal striped shirt and black pants, jumped over the counter and showed her a semi automatic pistol.

A guest walked in during the stick up, police said. The guest told police he knew something was awry because two people were behind the counter. Typically there was only one. The guest attempted to walk to the elevator when the second robber forced him to the ground and took his wallet.

The robber who had jumped behind the counter emptied the cash register and both fled.

Approximately $377 was stolen in the robbery, police said.

ment measures against distributors of illegal fireworks in 1997.

"At this point Burda Bros. hasn't made decision whether to sell fireworks this year or not," said Burda's attorney Rob Mullen.

Last year, Don and Patricia Linn, owners of Tri City Fireworks, their daughter, Dawn Linn, Efim and Elissa Burda, owners of Burda Bros., and four of their employees were arrested in a raid by police in connection with the sale of illegal fireworks.

Altogether, 11 counts were filed against them for conspiracy to possess fireworks, penalized by one year in jail and/or $1,000 fine, and fireworks possession, which carries a possible jail term of 90 days and/or $100 fine. Efim and Oleg Burda were both charged with obstructing a police officer in the performance of duty.

The 10-month-old case has been delayed numerous times for various reasons – the latest of which is the pending Court of Appeals ruling on the previous 1995 case.

District Judge John MacDonald said the trial against the nine defendants could begin prior to the appellate ruling if assistant prosecutor Ray Walsh doesn't want to delay it any further. Reportedly, Walsh wants to go ahead with the trial.

MacDonald said he would schedule the trial accordingly, although "it doesn't make sense to spend time on a trial if the Court of Appeals is going to rule differently than I do."

Mullen said Burda Bros. and Tri City Fireworks were selling fireworks last year under an injunction.

Originally, District Judge Ron Lowe ruled in the favor of the defendants. A circuit court judge overturned the decision and then the appeals court issued a stay of the circuit court decision. Police and prosecutors claim the ruling didn't reverse the circuit court decision, but halted enforcement of it.

"All this has just put the fireworks industry in precarious situation because they don't know what they can sell or not," said Mullen.

"There's such an inconsistent enforcement throughout the state and in Plymouth and Canton, the circuit court judge as well as the district court judge rulings have been vague – until they've decided, it's just creating a huge legal mess," he added.

Schoolcraft College

Trustees OK campus improvement plan

By Ken Abramczyk
Staff Writer

Trustees at Schoolcraft College approved a $26.3 million master plan that will bring expanded study areas and classrooms to the Livonia campus.

On April 23, the board authorized the master plan, 5-1. Chair Patricia Watson, vice chair John Walsh, trustees Mary Breen, Brian Broderick and Dick DeVries supported the plan, while trustee Steve Ragan voted against it. Trustee Carol Strom was absent.

The plan cost the district $15,000. It was completed by the architectural firm of Straub, Pettitt and Yaste.

Ragan opposed the plan because he wanted more board involvement in the plan and land use reviews.

"I do wish we had been involved earlier, and allowed to comment earlier," Ragan said.

Walsh was impressed with the report, but would have wanted to have more input. DeVries supported it because the board needed to submit it to the state, but he said he also "wasn't happy" with the process.

Trustees received a copy of an original plan in February with items added to it in March after administrators met with students and instructors.

Schoolcraft College administrators outlined proposed improvements at the main campus in Livonia and the satellite campus at the Radcliff Center in Garden City.

Butch Raby, Schoolcraft's vice president of business services, first outlined the plan for trustees in February.

"The undertaking is to try to develop a plan over what we need over the next decade," Raby said. "This is probably something we'll have to do again every five years.

"All of this is to make Schoolcraft the best educational institution we can in having the right amount of space and the right kinds of space. Those are the goals, and that's on a 10-year horizon."

The master plan includes laboratory renovations at the Forum Building, renovations to the Liberal Arts Building, expanded student seating in the Liberal Arts, Applied Science and Forum buildings and the Radcliff Center, and the expansion of the Media Center.

Trustees have approved budget adjustments for $56,000 for the Forum Building, $130,000 for the Liberal Arts Building, $200,000 at the Radcliff Building and $40,000 for the library.

Six 500-square-foot classrooms will be renovated in the Liberal Arts Building to become four 750-square-foot classrooms. A 2,500-square foot study area will be constructed at the west entrance.

Students can expect to obtain larger study areas in the Applied Science Building with the renovation and expansion of two west entrances into a 6,000-square-foot lobby/student study space/and vending machine area. A similar 1,800-square-foot addition is planned for the Forum Building.

Space concerns aren't anything new at Schoolcraft, Raby said.

"I don't think you'll find any agency or company that has exactly the space it needs," Raby said.

In 1998-99, improvements proposed are a lab consolidation at the Radcliff Center, equipping each classroom with a facility computer work station, expanding the Metallurgy Lab in the Applied Science Building, and the creation of office space in all buildings for part-time faculty and an expansion of distance learning capabilities.

The plan highlights additions and expansion at the Radcliff Center to include Garden City Junior High School, but Raby reiterated that would only occur if Garden City trustees had indicated that they were willing to sell the site to Schoolcraft.

GOP backs Senate bill to curb crash lawsuits

By Tim Richard
Staff Writer

Drivers who crash on state roads would find it tougher to sue the state, counties and cities for road flaws under a bill passed by state Senate Republicans.

Too tough, say Democrats.

"Gross negligence is virtually an intentional act," objected Sen. Chris Dingell, D-Trenton.

"This could save the state $10 million a year on claims we've been paying," said the sponsor, Republican Leon Stille of Spring Lake.

The Senate passed the bill April 23 on a party-line vote – park. They're just absolutely devastated," said Kathy Rokakis of Embassy Square.

She added, "There could have been another place to put it, it didn't have to go in the park."

The U.S. Postal Service is moving quickly with its plans to build the service and delivery center and has already submitted site plans to Canton's Planning Service Department.

The federal government is exempt from local ordinance when building a public facility, said Community Planner Jeff Goulet. The only discrepancy from Canton's ordinance is a taller, eight-foot high ceder fence that will be surrounding the rear parking lot and loading docks. Canton requires a maximum height of six-foot for fences.

"They like to follow the local rules and regulations. They would need a variance for the eight-foot high fence. We agree with that, though," said Goulet.

Trees and landscaping also will be located on the outside of the ceder fence to "soften the view" of neighbors living in Embassy Square and Pheasant Glen, he said.

The site plan shows the fence 80 feet to the south of the Edison Corridor and 28 feet from the Pheasant Glen property line. A brick wall will block the view from mail loading vehicles. The loading dock and parking for 22 loading vehicles are located to the north of the postal building. Employee parking for 79 cars is in the rear of the building.

Rose Lahiff, president of Pheasant Glen Association, said the plans are "basically the same" as those discussed at a meeting with residents last summer. The residents biggest concerns were the view they would have at the rear of the building and parking lot and they also wanted to ensure the building didn't abut their property.

"We're much resigned that this is what's going to be here. The trees look like they are of a good size (according to the site plan) and the fence is higher so we won't be looking at cars and a parking lot. It seems the federal government is working with us to make it as attractive to us as possible," said Lahiff.

At the front of the postal building a landscaped berm along Canton Center will separate the entrance and exit areas. The exit is to the north or farthest from the light at Canton Center and Cherry Hill to make left hand turns out of the post office easier, said Goulet. There also will be a mail drop off lane and parking for 32 customers.

The one-story building will be made of brick and limestone bands with a glass entry way.

The planning commission will review the site plans May 5 and then the township board on May 13. The township's engineering department will be the last step in the site plan process.

Postal officials were unavailable for comment as of press time.

Canton's Board of Trustees agreed to sell the property for about $100,000 less than their original asking price of $125,000 per acre. The 4.6 acres would have sold for $579,750 at the original asking price. The postal officials rebuffed that offer with a purchase price of $2.50 per square foot or $474,720.

However, Township Supervisor Tom Yack has said the price can be justified because the township had additional input during the site planning process.

Beanie Baby 'clinic' marks animal hospital opening

In celebration of "National Pet Week," Alsager Animal Care will host a Beanie Baby Clinic from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, May 4. Bring your Beanie Babies and for $2, each Beanie Baby will receive a health exam, health certificate, and a $2 coupon good for future care on any family pet. All proceeds from the clinic will be forwarded to the Detroit Zoo Veterinary Hospital Fund. Beanie Babies will not be available for sale at this function.

The Beanie Baby Clinic is a way for Alsager Animal Care to open its doors to the Canton community. After 14 years with the hospital, Dr. Mark Alsager has ventured out on his own to become the owner and primary doctor of the animal hospital.

Dr. Mark Alsager is a graduate of Michigan State University with an interest in feline medicine. A member of the American Animal Hospital Association, and the Michigan Veterinary Medicine Association, Dr. Alsager has been practicing in Canton for over 14 years.

Dr. Judi Fleischaker is a graduate of Colorado State University and has over 12 years experience in emergency and critical care. Dr. Fleischaker, a member of the Veterinary Critical Care Society, has special interests in canine reproductive problems, purebred dogs, as well as exotic pets.

Joining Drs. Alsager and Feischaker and three additional part-time vertinarians, and three veterinary assistants, three technicians, and three receptionists. Alsager Animal Care Center is an American Animal Hospital Association certified hospital and has recently upgraded all laboratory equipment in order to improve patient care. Alsager Animal Care Center offers services including dental care, geriatric medicine, and cat grooming, and provides specialty prescription foods. The center will soon offer dog grooming to its list of services.

A member of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, Alsager Animal Care Center will celebrate its formal grand opening and ribbon cutting ceremony 5 p.m. Monday, May 5. Chamber and community leaders will be on hand to share in the festivities and introduce this business to the Canton community.

Alsager Animal Care Hospital is open 7:30 a.m.-7 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Wednesdays; 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturdays; and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Sundays. For more information, or to schedule an appointment, call 459-5070.

ADDITIONAL PUBLIC COMMENT
Kate Shaver, 1039 Longfellow, representing Embassy Square Homeowners Association, addressed the Board with her concerns on the funds created by the sale of Griffin Park West. Ms. Shaver said that she and the people in her neighborhood would like to see some of the proceeds used to upgrade and maintain Griffin Park East. Ms. Shaver was interested in seeing Griffin Park East evaluated for liability concerns. Discussion took place regarding Embassy's HOA participation in the landscaping plan of the USPS and the improvements to the new park and existing Griffin Park East.

OTHER
Treasurer Kirchgatter stated that a study session would be scheduled for April 29, 1997, for the purpose of discussion regarding the proposed Theater. She added that the study session, proposed regarding Willow Run Tradeport, was canceled due to some of the Township's representatives being unable to attend the meeting.
Trustee McLaughlin said that Commissioner Patterson's office had received complaints from the residents at the Sheldon/Palmer area, specifically Nowland Estates regarding excessive noise from low flying jets flying into Willow Run airport. She said that the office had advised those residents of the Homeowner's Action group and had noted their complaints.

ADJOURN
Motion by LaJoy, supported by McLaughlin, to adjourn the meeting at 9:11 P.M. Motion carried.
The above is a synopsis of actions taken at the Regular Board meeting held on April 22, 1997. The full text of the approved minutes will be available following the next regular meeting of the Board on May 13, 1997.

House lawmakers split on aid to 13 at-risk schools

BY TIM RICHARD

STATE GOVERNMENT

There was little "common ground" when Democrats in the state House of Representatives pushed through a $10 million bill to aid 13 at-risk elementary schools.

"This aid should be general, not specific," objected freshman Rep. Judith Scranton, R-Brighton, summing up the Republican argument that it's wrong to create new categorical aid programs.

"I searched diligently for common ground," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Lingg Brewer, D-Holt. "This bill looks at some schools with obvious and certified problems. This has been tried in Texas, Tennessee and Flint. Results were phenomenal."

House Bill 4443 won approval April 22 on a nearly party-line 55-52 vote. Supporting it were 53 Democrats and two Republicans. Opposed were 52 Republicans. Absent were two Democrats.

All area lawmakers voted with their parties.

The Senate is likely to kill it as another Democratic attempt to compile a record of advocacy rather than accomplishment.

Rep. Jessie Dalman, R-Holland, said the bill benefited 13 school buildings: one in Battle Creek, three in Detroit, four in Grand Rapids, one in Highland Park, and four in Muskegon.

"The best use of that money is to add it to (general) appropriations or to professional training," said Dalman, "rather than just 13 buildings."

She noted the state is being sued for a half-billion dollars or more over categorical aid in the Durant case, now before the state Supreme Court.

HB 4443 would provide selected schools:

- A full day of kindergarten.
- A mentoring program for improving reading skills.
- A 17:1 pupil-teacher ratio for kindergarten through third grade.
- A teacher training program for target schools.
- "A parent training program designed to enhance home enrichment and support for the school curriculum."
- A "family resource center" with a certified social worker and nurse.

Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, lost his amendment to require that phonics, the use of speech sounds, be offered as a reading alternative. The vote was 43-61 with five absent.

"English is a phonetic language," said Cropsey. "This would not be a mandate. It would be one of the approaches."

This time it was the Democrats' turn to accuse the GOP of ignoring the lessons of recent history.

Said Rep. Jim Agee, D-Muskegon: "In the new school code, we went to a general powers act. A school district could do anything that wasn't prohibited. The other side (Republicans) wanted local control.

"Now, they are attempting to dictate not just the curriculum but a specific technique."

Here is how area lawmakers voted on the Cropsey phonics amendment:

Yes – Lyn Bankes, R-Redford, Bob Brown, D-Dearborn Heights, Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, Deborah Whyman, R-Canton.

No – Eileen DeHart, D-Westland, Tom Kelly, D-Wayne.

The bill is likely to be referred to the Senate Education Committee. Refer to House Bill 4443 when writing to your state senator, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

Republicans for, Democrats against – and sent it to the House, where its prospects appear dim.

'Pick' case

The bill was prompted by a 1996 state Supreme Court decision in the case of Pick vs. Gratiot County Road Commission. The 4-3 majority ruled that road officials can be sued if they fail to post warning signs or signals at hazardous spots such as intersections.

"We were very pleased when Pick (victory) came down," said Wayne J. Miller, Bingham Farms attorney who filed a brief on behalf of the Brain Injury Association of Michigan. "We have had one case on hold for two years pending the result of Pick.

"Motor vehicle accidents are a very significant cause of brain injuries," said Miller. "When there are less means of compensation, there is less of an incentive (for road agencies) to do a good job."

Miller said previous appellate court decisions have swung "so far to the right" in favor of road agencies that it was "gratifying the Supreme Court drew the line on this insanity."

He blamed "the Engler administration and the Republican hierarchy" in the Legislature for reducing injured people's chances to collect and taking the pressure off safety efforts.

The high court decision last June 5 sent the case back to a circuit judge for trial. The majority opinion was written by Justice Michael Cavanagh (D) and signed by James Brickley (R), Conrad Mallett Jr. (D) and Charles Levin (Ind.) with Patricia Boyle writing a concurring opinion.

What bill does

The Senate bill amends the Governmental Immunity Act to:

- Say there is "no liability for failure to install a guard rail if failure was in conformance to generally accepted engineering standards."
- Give immunity unless there was "gross negligence" by the road authority, defined as "conduct so reckless as to demonstrate substantial lack of concern for whether an injury results."
- Limit damages by a person who had no auto insurance.
- Provide governments an "absolute defense" if the injured or killed driver was drunk or on drugs and was more than 50 percent at fault. If the driver were less than 50 percent at fault, damages could be reduced.

"The premise of the bill," said Dingell, "is that there's a huge amount being paid to undeserving persons for imaginary negligence by MDOT (Michigan Department of Transportation)."

Dingell said engineering standards are "a guide, not the final answer," in road design.

Stille called his bill "a reasonable compromise" because it provides for some liability over guard rails. "We pay out more, as a state, than all Midwestern states combined. Michigan is No. 3 in the entire Union payments."

Fiscal impact

Democrats said the GOP exaggerated the savings in the bill.

Stille said the average payout over the last 10 years has been $16.8 million a year, and the highest payout was $28.5 million in 1985.

A Senate Fiscal Agency analysis showed that in fiscal 1995-6 the state paid out $9.1 million in road claims. In three of the last 10 years, the annual payout has been more than $20 million.

No statewide data were available for highway negligence payments by county and municipal authorities, said the SFA.

Walkers head to Hines Park for fitness program

Wayne County parks is encouraging people of all ages to break out their walking shoes and head on over to Hines Park and participate in the Walk Michigan events.

Walk Michigan is an annual fitness program organized by Michigan Recreation and Park Association to promote good health and to highlight the many recreational facilities in Michigan. Walkers of all ages have an opportunity to participate in walks sponsored by Wayne County parks, and enjoy the beautiful parks.

Registration for Walk Michigan is easy. To register for a Walk Michigan event, simply attend the event, and fill out a registration card. Each time you come to a Walk Michigan event you will fill out a registration card. All the cards will be entered in the drawing for, the grand prize trip for two to Mackinac Island and the Governor's Annual Bridge Walk.

"Walk Michigan is a very popular program," said Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara. "It is popular not only because of the obvious health benefits, but also because of the great scenic routes in the Wayne County parks. Walkers will also enjoy seeing the improvements to the parks as a result of the new millage that was passed last August."

For more information on this or any other Wayne County parks program, call (313) 261-1990.

Beanie Baby raffle, race to benefit MADD

Two events are scheduled in May to benefit the Wayne County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

MADD will conduct a Beanie Baby Raffle at 6 p.m. Saturday, May 10, at The Animation Station, 298 S. Main Street, Plymouth. People have an opportunity to win a basket full of about 12 Beanie Babies.

The winner need not be present at the time of the drawing to win. Tickets are courtesy of Alphagraphics, and cost $1 to enter the raffle. They can be purchased at the Animation Station or people can call MADD at (313) 721-8181 for more information.

Carol Nalepka, MADD spokesperson, said the basket was created through the generosity of a woman who also lost a relative in a drunk driving accident several years ago.

The woman called MADD and notified the group she had about six or seven Beanie Babies to donate. The Animation Station stepped in, offered to help MADD and displayed the babies, and the basket grew.

"It's one of those things where we didn't have to do anything," Nalepka said.

The second annual 5-kilometer MADD/Caryn Casaz "Run From The Heart" is scheduled for May 17 at Merriman Hollow in Hines Park in the memory of Amy Alexander and Caryn Casaz who were killed in separate accidents in Hines Park.

Runners and walkers will proceed east on Hines Drive 2.5 miles, then turn around and return to Merriman Hollow.

Walkers are welcome. People who are interested can contact MADD at (313) 721-8181 for forms and more information. Registration begins at 8 a.m. the day of the run.

Money raised from both events goes to help MADD give support to families who have lost loved ones in drunk driving accidents, appear at trials involving fatal drunk driving accidents, create victim impact panels, fund red ribbon campaigns and guest speaker visits at local high schools.

Canton was the end result of last October's Kick-Off Rally for the Community Youth Initiative. About 175 people attended that rally to establish a common denominator of action for positively affecting the behavior of community youth and adults.

The genesis of the seminar actually began two years ago when Canton Supervisor Tom Yack wrote a letter to community leaders regarding community values. "We got a lot of response," he said.

Last year, Yack met Pat Maliszewski, a Character Counts! of Michigan representative and also one of the seminar's presenters, when both were guests on WJR-AM radio program about community values with Kevin Joyce. Shortly afterwards, Maliszewski contacted Yack about conducting a seminar.

"This program really provides balance. It's simple. It not only cared about kids but cared about adults," said Yack.

Thirty-four participants from the police, educational, social services, church, civic and business communities attended the seminar, which according to Yack cost $25,000 and included all materials.

Funding came from participating organizations, including Plymouth-Canton Schools, Growth Works, Plymouth and Canton townships, Canton Community Foundation, Canton Firefighters Foundation, Mich-Con, and the Edison Foundation.

Tax dollars were not directly involved, said Yack.

"There's no reason to have any tax dollars per se," he said.

'You think you're ethical and then you go home and copy software or you have 14 items and you're standing in the fast lane that is for 10 items or less.'

Joan Noricks

–Canton Community Foundation executive director

"We're not talking about creating new programs. You won't see a line item in our budget for Character Counts!"

Yack also said that the Community Youth Initiative will oversee future programs related to Character Counts!, providing the motivation and funding.

Seminar sessions included role-playing within assigned groups. During these sessions, questions regarding added responsibility for teachers, separation of church and state, and invasion of parental privacy were presented and countered.

"There's a lot of latitude to bring in your own ideas as long as you adhere to the basic principles," said Maliszewski. The objective is not to do a moral lobotomy on the young, but to affect positive behavior as a result of the six principles."

The sessions also included self-examination of personal attitudes. Participants learned about the six pillars of character one-by-one and what they mean to everyday decision-making.

Joan Noricks, executive director of Canton Community Foundation, called it an eye-opening experience.

"You think you're ethical and then you go home and copy software or you have 14 items and you're standing in the fast lane that is for 10 items or less. It makes you wonder, 'Am I as ethical as I think I am?' It makes you think," she said.

Sue Davis, director of community service for Growth Works and member of the Plymouth-Canton school board, said the Plymouth-Canton community should get a pat on the back for sponsoring the seminar.

"What I think is fascinating is that this community sees the need to do something like this. This is a fairly unique thing. And there's no fear of turfdom. We should all be grateful that there are people who have gotten together to do this."

If the Character Counts! program is ideally implemented, community groups across the board – civic, social, religious, business and educational – will speak the same language. "We're all together in unity. Our definitions are the same now. I think it's going to be everywhere," said Canton Public Safety Officer Daniel Antieau.

Peggy Schneider, a counselor at Hoben Elementary School, said the big question facing the participants was how to translate the tenets of Character Counts! into action.

"It's important to go at a slow pace so that it's not just a here and there Band-Aid effect. How does it incorporate into things we're already doing? For me, it will be important to have a plan, have an approach that will encompass the six pillars," she said.

When asked how the community will evaluate the Character Counts! impact upon the community, Yack cited measures such as the school drop-out rate, cheating, perceptions of employers hiring youth, red cards in soccer and ejections from baseball games.

Results will take time.

"We believe this is lifelong, not a program you begin and end in five years and say 'We're healed,' " said Yack.

SC to honor leaders, graduates at Saturday commencement

Schoolcraft College will graduate approximately 930 students at its 32nd annual commencement Saturday, May 3.

Hillegonds

The graduates, especially those with advanced technical skills, face a vigorous job market, according to Schoolcraft placement personnel.

Commencement ceremonies begin at 6 p.m. in the Physical Education Building. Paul Hillegonds, president of Detroit Renaissance and former state Speaker of the House of Representatives, will deliver the commencement address and receive an honorary degree.

Hillegonds became president of Detroit Renaissance in 1997 and is charged with tapping the corporate resources of Metro Detroit's largest companies to foster economic development and urban renewal.

The son of a minister, Hillegonds was first elected to the Michigan House of Representatives in 1978 as the Republican representative from Allegan County. He subsequently became Republican Leader, Co-Speaker and Speaker of the House.

He has been a political science instructor at Hope College and is a resident of Plymouth Township.

Other honorary degree recipients are Harry Greenleaf, the longest serving member of the college's board of trustees, and Kenneth Hulsing, a founder and former president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board of Governors.

Greenleaf

Greenleaf, former member of the board of trustees at Schoolcraft College,served three six-year terms from 1977-85 and held positions of chair, vice chair and treasurer.

As a legacy to Schoolcraft students, he established the Harry and Audrey Greenleaf Endowment.

A 36-year employee of Ford Motor Company, Greenleaf has worked tirelessly for the advancement of education. He was a board member of the Detroit Area Pre-College Engineering Program for minority students, a trustee delegate to the Michigan Community College Association, a founding board member of the Schoolcraft College Development Authority, and a member of advisory committees at his alma mater, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Greenleaf has engaged in many community activities, including membership on city committees, board memberships at his church and the Jaycees, and leadership involvement in the Republican Party. He is a resident of Livonia.

Schulz

Hulsing, founder and former president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board of Governors, exhibited a long, distinguished and devoted service to scholars in his roles on the board.

A former engineer at Detroit Diesel, Hulsing served as a board member and president of the Engineering Society of Detroit. He was board president of the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital Association and the Horizon Health Systems and a member of the Michigan United Way and the Foundation for Educational Opportunities of Wayne County.

His community commitment has been demonstrated by involvement in the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Salvation Army, the Plymouth Rotary Club, as well as serving as board member and board president of the Plymouth Canton Community Schools. An elementary school has been named in his honor.

He lives in Plymouth Township.

Edwin A. Schulz will be a Distinguished Alumni Recipient. Schulz, a certified public accountant and partner of Sutherland and Yoe, is a 25-year member in his accounting firm.

Schulz, a resident of Plymouth for more than 40 years, is characterized by his long-term commitments. Schulz graduated from Schoolcraft in 1972 and earned his bachelor of business administration from Eastern Michigan University.

He is a member of the American Institute of CPAs and a past chair of that organization's Accounting and Auditing Committee.

Schulz's memberships include the board of directors of Community Literacy Council, the Plymouth Chamber Leadership Committee and the Plymouth Fall Festival Board of Directors. He is past president of the Plymouth Rotary Club, the Plymouth Rotary Foundation and a trustee of the

With the economy healthy and the state's unemployment rate lower than the national average, graduates — in particular those with skills in technical fields and computers — should have little trouble finding jobs, said Elaine Gerarge, Schoolcraft job placement technician.

"I find employers are asking us for job candidates with high skill levels," Gerarge said.

In the Schoolcraft graduating class, popular majors are science, engineering, registered nursing, business administration, criminal justice and liberal arts.

The following are local residents among the Schoolcraft Class of 1997:

Helewski

Livonian Sherril Helewski did not have a smooth road to her graduation to receive an associate degree in computer information systems.

She graduated from high school in 1981 and decided to go to college when she and her husband were about to divorce. The couple reconciled, but she realized she had no salable skills.

Her first day at Schoolcraft was almost her last. She was in her math class when she realized she had missed her first English class the day before.

She ended that first day at college shaking and crying in the office of Sirkka Gudan, assistant dean for academic and assessment services. She even stopped by her husband's shop and told him she would drop a class. He told her, "You can't quit when you've just started."

She admits she was completely unhinged that day. "I look back on it now and laugh," she said.

Still, she had hard work ahead of her. "It was all uphill," she said. "I struggled in English and math and got one-on-one tutoring. I lived with my tutor in the Learning Assistance Center every day."

"Getting a degree is one of the biggest accomplishments in my life. I've grown up a lot and gained a lot of self-confidence. This is the first time I've finished something I started.

Arnold

Teresa Arnold of Westland didn't want to go to college and was not interested in marriage after her first marriage dissolved.

Arnold slipped on ice in a parking lot where she worked in March 1992 and as fall approached, she still was laying on the couch, staring at the ceiling. She decided to resume her college career and enrolled at Schoolcraft.

Her first class was Speech, and as an ice-breaking exercise, the instructor sent Teresa and Todd off to the cafeteria to conduct a 15-minute interview and introduce each other to the class.

At the end of the class, the instructor asked if the students would be willing to have a soft drink with the person they interviewed. Teresa said yes and Todd was waiting for her after class. She, however, had to pick up her daughter, and Todd thought she wasn't interested.

Fate intervened again, and Teresa and Todd were paired as study buddies. Three months later, they decided to marry.

On May 3, they will graduate together, both with business degrees.

Silvestris

Teresa, Lisa and Sandra Silvestri of Livonia will give the Silvestri family a lot to celebrate on May 3 when they graduate with associate degrees.

The three women, ages 25, 24 and 21, actually are a little behind their sister, Nancy, who graduated last year, though all four entered at the same time.

The sisters didn't plan to graduate at the same time, but all are working full- or part-time.

Teresa and Sandra took morning classes and spent their afternoons working in the family-owned Villa Bakery in Garden City. Lisa has a job at an office supply store in Livonia, works in the bakery on the weekends, and could take classes only at night.

Teresa will graduate with a liberal arts degree, plans to work in the medical field, and may continue her studies. Lisa, already working in the office supply store, majored in general business.

Sandra, who studied office information systems, will be married next November and hopes to find work in her field.

Waltsgott

Once Letta Waltsgott of Garden City sets her mind to something, there is no stopping her. Waltsgott wanted to go to school, but there was always something that stopped her — finances, feelings of inadequacy, a new marriage, children and a divorce.

Ten years after high school graduation, she enrolled in Schoolcraft because she felt a community college would be less intimidating that a bigger school. She used the Learning Assistance Center for tutoring and career counseling. Three years ago, her brother was violently killed, and at the same time she was accepted into the occupational therapy program, she took over the raising of her sister's three children.

It has taken her four and a half years to get her degree, maintaining an A-minus average. She has worked part-time, gone to school and taken care of her three children and her sister's three children who range in age from three to 18 years.

Waltsgott plans to transfer to a four-year university.

Area chiefs, county officials spar over county jail costs

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER

The leaders of a group of western Wayne County police chiefs believe Wayne County should house more convicted misdemeanants, including ordinance violators.

County officials believe they have more than delivered on the county jail services, but that they have no legal obligation for housing local ordinance violators.

While the two sides continue to discuss a 10-year county jail millage set to expire this year, it is apparent the two sides don't agree on the way the county's jail operates.

Wayne County voters approved 1 mill in August 1988 to acquire, construct or operate jail misdemeanant or juvenile detention facilities.

That money also could be used for adult penalty options such as work release, home detention and community restitution. One-10th of a mill was earmarked to acquire, build and operate a juvenile offender work/training institution.

Last week, Garden City Police Chief David Kocsis said he was "wrapping up" a letter outlining the chiefs' opposition to the millage request. He expected to send it within days.

"I just don't feel there is any meaningful dialogue," said Kocsis. "They're not even cognizant that we have a disagreement. I think it's evident that they don't care what our position is."

Mike Duggan, assistant county executive, has offered to meet with the chiefs and other suburban leaders to discuss the county millage. He presented a report on April 18 to members of the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of leaders from 18 communities in western Wayne County. Included are the cities of Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, and Westland, and the townships of Canton, Plymouth and Redford.

Duggan told them the millage money was raised for the county

What locals paid

The August 1988 millage brought Wayne County the following from the western suburbs in 1996: $1.3 million, Canton Township; $391,000, Garden City; $3.2 million, Livonia; $11.7 million, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, $882,000, Redford Township, and $1.2 million from Westland.

But these communities also paid outside communities to house misdemeanants and many ordinance violators in jails there. In 1996 that included Canton, $94,422; Garden City, $63,586; Livonia, $302,266; Plymouth and Plymouth Township, $186,000; Redford Township, $425,724, and Westland, $225,493.

Jail spat continues: The Dickerson Detention Facility in Hamtramck housed more than 6,000 inmates from suburban district courts in 1996. That facility's operations are financed through a nine-tenths of a mill and Wayne County's general fund, but police chiefs and community leaders from western Wayne County still question why they need to spend money in outcounty jails to house misdemeanants.

When Jim wanted better care—
his friends suggested a move to The Arnold Home.

It's a common story. A loved one goes to an assisted living or nursing home, expecting good care. Then the realization sets in that the care is not what was expected. When that disillusionment hit Jim, his friends suggested he move to The Arnold Home. Residents have a choice of beautifully appointed and affordable one bedroom apartments or deluxe private rooms. A supportive staff gives Arnold Home residents the assistance and encouragement to remain active, involved and independent. Is Jim happy? Ask him. "These people give you personal attention. I like the fact that health care service is individually developed for each of us. There's just a lot of peace of mind here." If you'd like peace of mind, call the Arnold Home at 313-531-4001 and ask for Mary Cobello. The Arnold Home guarantees your satisfaction.

obligations, "but we are not going to pick up the city and township obligations," Duggan said.

"If someone wants to talk about releases or the crime problem, I'll meet with you. But if the purpose is to browbeat us, it will be a short meeting."

Duggan reported that the county promised 1,220 beds, yet delivered 2,720 beds. (See related story.)

"Look at what's happened since 1992," Duggan said. "Local judges now have the tools to lock up offenders. Crime is down 12 percent in Wayne County, and 6,000 criminals were locked up in Hamtramck."

County obligations

Duggan said the county lacked pretrial beds that needed to be added, and it was the county's responsibility to provide them. "We were releasing hundreds of pretrial felons."

The county formed a task force, and the state cracked down on juvenile crime.

"There was a shortage of (juvenile) beds, and Gov. Blanchard wanted us to contribute to it," Duggan said. That meant $3 million a year for an expansion of beds in the state juvenile system.

Duggan said the county's legal obligations under 100 or more years of state law were determined to be as follows: pretrial felons, felons sentenced to less than one year, sentenced misdemeanants and 50 percent of the cost of the state's housing of juvenile delinquents.

"We promised to spend $3 million more," Duggan said. "Today we are spending $16.5 million."

Most other district courts operate on a countywide basis. If communities wanted to give fines received from offenders to house criminals, Wayne County would take it, Duggan said.

Duggan still faced his share of detractors.

Still seeking answers

Livonia Mayor Jack Kirksey thought the costs of $1 million for prisoners in Wayne County, and spending another third of that to send elsewhere, was "excessive." That totaled about $4 million over four years.

Duggan said the county must set aside 360 beds for misdemeanants, of which about 200 or 220 were from the suburbs.

"It's not fair of you to say, 'pick up the city's tab,' " Duggan said. "You leave out of the equation of what you get in fines."

In 1996 Wayne County housed 103 misdemeanants, 69 felons and two ordinance violators from Livonia's 16th District Court.

But Livonia paid Isabella County $302,266 to house misdemeanants, many of who were ordinance violators. That cost $30 per day per person before July 1996, which was increased to $34. Those prisoners did not receive early release.

Livonia police do not make any distinction between misdemeanants and ordinance violators in housing prisoners outcounty, only that they are considered misdemeanants. A majority of those are city ordinance violators, said one police official, but those actual figures were not compiled in any report.

"If Livonia (taxpayers are) paying $1 million a year, that is a pretty significant amount for a facility we really don't use that much," Kirksey said later. "For us to pay (the county) an additional $35 (per prisoner), it is salt in the wound.

"It's cheaper for us to use Isabella County. The Wayne County jail is not a cost-effective solution. We want to do our best to support the county, because it is keeping the criminals off the street."

Kirksey believes if Wayne County negotiated with CWW three major points (that is increase the number of available beds, ensure inmates serve the entirety of sentences and reduce the cost per day charged by Wayne County), the CWW may endorse the millage.

No certainty

Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack asked Duggan what part of the millage proposal would outline any "certainty of punishment" of sentences to prisoners.

Duggan said that was a good question. "Prisoners are not serving the entire time they are sentenced to," Duggan said.

Yack added: "I think the reason they are sent elsewhere is the certainty of punishment. You must operate at a higher cost. It is $35 elsewhere. Sixty dollars is a bad deal."

Yack said later: "The chiefs have dealt with this issue for four or five years now, and you can sense their frustration.

"They thought when the issue was raised that it would include misdemeanors and ordinance violators, but Mike wants to make that distinction. He has documentation that says otherwise."

Yack said corrections officials would cost less than deputies used to oversee the facilities.

"It would be great to make this work, but it's a heck of a lot of money if you take the money we send to them and the amount of money we spend ourselves."

"I'm not optimistic that a solution can be found, but maybe someone will take a different approach."

Jail stats fail to impress police

Staff Writer

Wayne County's Dickerson Detention Facility in Hamtramck detained 6,033 inmates from Wayne County suburban communities and townships in 1996, including 1,115 sentenced felons, 3,782 sentenced misdemeanants and 1,098 ordinance violators.

That included 513 people convicted of crimes in Westland: 111 felons, 298 misdemeanants and 103 ordinance violators. It included 174 inmates for crimes committed in Livonia, or 69 felons, 103 misdemeanants and two ordinance violators.

Redford sent 352 inmates there, while Garden City sent 161. The 35th District Court, which services Canton, Plymouth and Northville townships and the cities of Plymouth and Northville, sent 219 convicted criminals there.

Mike Duggan, assistant county executive, broke down the statistics at a meeting on April 18 with the Conference of Western Wayne, a consortium of leaders from 18 communities in western Wayne County.

Duggan had hoped to ease the concerns with his report, which he called "good news" from a county standpoint. But he failed to alleviate everyone's concerns over the use of county millage money.

"The most important thing to me is the bottom line," Duggan said. In 1992, the first full year the jail was open, Wayne County saw 20,000 fewer crimes committed than in the previous year, according to Michigan State Police.

"Crime in Wayne County remains today 12 percent below the levels before the new beds were added," Duggan's report stated. "Locking up more than 10,000 additional prisoners a year has contributed to making Wayne County a safer place."

Duggan: Promises kept

During the 1988 millage campaign for voters to approve a new one-mill levy for jail operations, Wayne County promised 230 new pretrial beds in the downtown jail, a new 840-bed facility for sentenced felons and misdemeanants and about $3 million more in new state beds to lock up juvenile criminals or about 150 new beds.

The county added 314 new pretrial beds to its downtown facility, the 840-bed Dickerson Detention Facility in Hamtramck was built three years after the millage passed, and $16.5 million was earmarked annually for 870 new state beds for juveniles by 1996.

The total beds promised during the millage campaign was 1,220. The county delivered 2,724 since the 1988 millage campaign, Duggan said.

The Nathan report

In 1986 a lawsuit was filed against the county, claiming it was failing to meet its legal obligations in providing jail beds. Hundreds of pretrial felons were being released, as were misdemeanants.

The county's legal obligations to house prisoners were pretrial felons, felons sentenced to less than one year, sentenced misdemeanants and 50 percent of the cost of the state's housing of juvenile delinquents.

Gov. James Blanchard wanted the county's commitment of $3 million a year for a major expansion of beds in the state juvenile system.

A citizens task force was created by the Wayne County Circuit Court in the lawsuit. The court hired the firm of Nathan and Associates to analyze the need for new county jail beds.

Completed in the spring of 1988, the Nathan Report concluded that 1,070 new beds were needed to house pretrial felons, sentenced felons and misdemeanants.

In June County Executive Edward McNamara recommended to the task force a new millage for the recommended beds and additional beds for the state juvenile system.

Jail budget

In 1988, the county's budget for jail and state juvenile beds was $56.7 million. In 1996, that figure was $113 million. The jail budget more than doubled during that same time period, from $35.7 million in 1988 to $75.6 million.

The nine-tenths of a mill raised $26 million, the one-tenth $3 million for the county youth facility.

But the 1996 expenditures of nearly $43 million dwarfed that revenue, as the county used nearly $17 million in general fund monies for jail operations and its 50 percent split with the state on youth beds for $16.5 million.

tention that ordinance violators now were distinct from misdemeanants. That distinction was never made before, Price said.

Price suggested that Wayne County should be the "gathering point" for all misdemeanants.

Duggan said he would sit down with any committee on the jail issue, but again reiterated that Wayne County was billing communities for ordinance violators as it has under state law for more than 100 years.

The city of Grand Rapids sued to force Kent County to pay for housing ordinance violators in 1980, but the Court of Appeals ruled that since Grand Rapids was a city getting the fine revenue from the ordinance violators, the city had the clear responsibility under the 1846 Act for paying for the prisoners.

But Price responded that even the county's prisoner forms did not distinguish ordinance violators from misdemeanants. Duggan again said the county would house ordinance violators, if communities wished to give fine revenue to Wayne County.

Kocsis said he found it "odd" that Wayne County was just building a juvenile facility this year, when the one-tenth mill was levied in 1988.

Kocsis said later wants to know why other major counties, namely Macomb and Oakland, house their misdemeanants at no charge to local communities.

"And if (Wayne County is) so overwhelmed and over budgeted, why just stay with one mill?" Kocsis asked. "Why are the residents of Wayne County paying for medical treatment of state prisoners?" Kocsis acknowledged that some of that cost — $6.6 million since 1992 — was attributed to misdemeanant prisoners.

The 1987 ballot language states nothing about juvenile beds, only that funds were earmarked for detention facilities, which were not built, Kocsis said. Kocsis would like to see the state involved in the discussion.

Talks won't end

Despite the disagreements, Kocsis believes their opposition can change if the police chiefs are given the right information.

"If you give us all the information we need so we can understand it, we may support it and say 'hey we were wrong.' "

Westland Mayor and CWW chair Robert Thomas later said the board needed additional information.

"We will decide as a board what we want to see from the millage," Thomas said. "We are spending a lot of money for the county jail and we are spending a lot of money outcounty."

'Smile Walk' aids disabled kids

The first annual "Walk a Mile for a Smile," a five-mile family walk, run, stroll or roller blade, will help benefit the developmentally disabled children receiving dental care at the Detroit Institute for Children at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 10.

The event will be held at Merriman Hollow in Hines Park at the Merriman Road entrance between Warren and Ann Arbor Trail in Westland. It is sponsored by the Grottoes of North America, a masonically affiliated fraternal organizations with groups located throughout the United States and Canada.

All proceeds from this walk will go to the dental program at the Detroit Institute for Children.

For years the Grottoes have been providing aid to children with cerebral palsy and are now undertaking the job of raising money to help pay for the dental care of handicapped youngsters.

Pledge forms and more information are available by phoning John Brown at (313) 941-3475 or Bob Livingston at (313) 261-0983.

The Almatta Grotto of Dearborn, a group of "people helping people," has already donated approximately $3,000 to the Detroit Institute for Children's dental clinic. The dental clinic at the Institute provides a full range of dental care, including cleanings, restorations, root canals, and simple extractions for children with disabilities.

About 950 patients, including siblings of patients, receive care from the dental staff who specialize in serving the needs of physically or neurologically impaired children. In most cases, these youngsters are not welcomed in a general dental practice because their treatment is time consuming, difficult, and requires special training.

Many dentists are also uninterested in treating these youngsters because they are poor, with only a $9,000 median annual family income.

A special effort is made to educate these families regarding oral hygiene. Because many of the children are multiply disabled, simple things like brushing the teeth become more difficult. These youngsters also usually require more frequent dental visits because the medications many receive for muscle spasms and seizures cause extreme swelling in the oral cavity demanding more complex care.

Each year more than 4,000 children and their families from all over Michigan seek the specialized medical and rehabilitative care provided at the Detroit Institute for Children, a United Way funded agency. "Walk a Mile for a Smile" is one fundraising support activity.

In the brief live auction, beginning at approximately 6:45 p.m., attendees can bid on a Harley Davidson jacket donated by the Detroit Renegades, seats in the WXYZ-TV's luxury box at the Palace for a Pistons game next season, a golf outing at the Woodlands contributed by Waste Management of Michigan or a billiards party for 20 Snookers Pool & Pub.

The silent auction, beginning at 5 p.m., will feature nearly 100 items, including golf outings, a wheelbarrow full of gardening items, sports memorabilia, oriental rugs, fine wine, lunches with celebrities and politicians and many more items.

Sponsors for the event include St. John Health Systems, Greenman's Printing and Imaging in Livonia, Madison Bank and the Plumbing & Heating Industry of Detroit.

Restaurants and caterers along the corridor will serve up a "Taste of Eight Mile" for the meeting. The Red Oak Steak House will grill steak and chicken appetizers on site for guests.

Admission is $8 for members and $18 for nonmembers. For tickets call (810) 559-8633.

'Little miracles'

Animal rescue groups to participate in adoptathon

Marie Skladd is hoping to start off May with "a lot of little miracles."

The executive director of the Livonia-based Michigan Animal Adoption Network (M.A.A.N.), Skladd is one of hundreds of volunteers from Detroit-area animal rescue groups and shelters who will be participating in the second annual Pet Adoptathon on Saturday and Sunday, May 3-4.

An "international event" that involves animal welfare organizations across the United States, Canada and Mexico, the Pet Adoptathon resulted in thousands of dog and cat adoptions last year.

Skladd, whose group will be showing animals for adoption at the Livonia Pet Supplies "Plus" store at Seven Mile and Middlebelt, is expecting equally impressive results this weekend.

She is quick to point out, however, that the Pet Adoptathon is about much more than numbers.

"The Pet Adoptathon is a high-profile event, and it has a well-known sponsor in the Iams Company, so the dogs and cats that are up for adoption get extra exposure," Skladd said.

"Last year, the Pet Adoptathon provided happy endings to a lot of 'miracle' rescue stories. Animals that were saved from some pretty grim circumstances wound up being adopted. People saw these dogs and cats, and fell in love with them. Now they're enjoying wonderful lives."

Miracle finds Valerie

Skladd recalled a 2-year-old calico cat turned over to M.A.A.N. after being hit by a car. The cat was found near Toledo by a local woman who drove the animal up to her son, a veterinarian in the Detroit area. After treating the cat, the veterinarian called M.A.A.N.

At first, Skladd worried about finding a home for the cat because, in addition to its injuries, it was missing part of its tail — probably as a result of abuse.

Then during the Pet Adoptathon, the cat met Valerie Heyner of Farmington Hills. Heyner and the cat hit it off immediately, and she took the feline home. Appropriately, she named the cat, "Miracle."

Sara not a cat but ...

Then there is the story of "Sara," a yellow Labrador retriever who was adopted last year by a Livonia couple. Found wandering in a field, Sara had a badly damaged rear knee.

The animal shelter that found Sara considered euthanizing her because her knee problem was so severe. Instead, the shelter turned Sara over to a rescue club member, who later took her to the Pet Supplies "Plus" store in Livonia, where M.A.A.N. was holding its Pet Adoptathon weekend.

The couple who adopted Sara just happened to be going to the store with a friend who was looking for a cat, when they saw Sara. They were quickly captivated by Sara's friendly personality, so they adopted her and had her knee problem corrected by a veterinarian.

"It's almost like fate how Sara's owners found their perfect pet at the Adoptathon," said Skladd. "These are the cases that stand out, but most adoptions that take place aren't nearly so dramatic.

"Very few animals up for adoption were rescued from situations as bad as Miracle's and Sara's, and fewer still have physical ailments. Basically, these are very healthy, well-adjusted dogs and cats that have wound up being displaced through no fault of their own."

Animals offered for adoption by M.A.A.N. were often part of unwanted litters of puppies or kittens, or pets who lost their home following the death or divorce of an owner.

In need of homes

Dogs and cats of all ages will be available for adoption at the Pet Adoptathon, as will both mixed-breed and purebred animals. All animals have received complete veterinary exams and are up to date on shots.

Anyone who adopts a pet during the two-day Adoptathon will receive a free "starter kit" complete with Iams Puppy or Iams Kitten food, as well as helpful literature on dog and cat care.

"We're happy to be supporting the Pet Adoptathon," said Kelly Vanasse, manager of communications for The Iams Company, who has adopted dogs herself. "There's a special feeling you get by providing a home to a displaced dog or cat, and this is something Iams wants to encourage."

Skladd knows that feeling very well. In 1990, she was coming home from work in Detroit, when she spotted a shaggy dog wandering along Jefferson Avenue by itself. After trying unsuccessfully to locate the dog's owner, Skladd took the animal home.

Because Skladd already had a house full of pets, she began calling friends to see if there was anyone willing to adopt the dog. Friends started calling friends, and soon Skladd was contacted by Lynn Woodsen, at the time a newscaster for WRIF radio, who adopted the animal.

"I've been hooked on finding homes for displaced dogs and cats ever since," said Skladd.

Anyone who would like to help her in this effort by adopting a dog or cat is invited to visit the Livonia Pet Supplies "Plus" across Seven Mile from the Livonia Mall on Saturday and Sunday during the Pet Adoptathon.

A large and lovable selection of pets will be available for adoption between the hours of 11 am-9 pm on Saturday, and 1 pm-6 pm on Sunday.

In addition to M.A.A.N., other groups participating in the Pet Adoptathon include the Michigan Humane Society in Westland, and the Michigan Animal Rescue League. For more information, contact 1-800-990-4343.

Animal kindness week begins with annual pet Adoptathon

All three Michigan Humane Society metro area shelters — including the one in Westland — are preparing for an adoption extravaganza to be held May 3-4.

Adoption hours at Westland and Rochester Hills shelters will be extended for the Pet Adoptathon that weekend from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday and the MHS Detroit shelter will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. both days, said Michele Mitchell, MHS community relations director.

"We'll have special activities, drawings for prizes and refreshments. it's really like a big party for the animals and the celebrating somes in each time we send a cat or dog home with a new family."

The Pet Adoptathon kicks off national "Be Kind to Animals' Week." More than 1,000 shelters nationwide will take part in this year's event. In 1996, 700 pet adoption centers found homes for more than 12,500 homeless animals during the first Adoptathon.

"We adopted (out) over 300 animals," Mitchell said. "Our goal this year is 350."

Everyone who adopts an animal from the Michigan Humane Society during the Adoptathon will receive a framed Polaroid photo of their new pet, along with a complimentary pet care kit from Iams. All visits are eligible to enter a drawing for three one-night stays at the Ritz Carlton in Dearborn.

The Westland shelter is at 37255 Marquette, just east of Newburgh. For information, call 9810) 852-7420.

Resident completes naval exercise

From World War I to Operation Desert Storm, the United States has fought side-by-side with the military forces of allied nations all over the world. To ensure success on many future battle field, the U.S. Navy regularly trains with foreign military units.

In March, Seaman Dale Anderson, the son of Richard and Diane Anderson of Canton, along with the rest of the Sailors assigned to the amphibious command ship USS Blue Ridge, completed Exercise Tandem Thrust-97. The month-long training exercise held in and off the coast of Eastern Australia tested the Navy's ability to work jointly with Australian military.

Anderson felt the multi-lateral exercise increased the operational readiness of the ship and other military units involved and enjoyed the opportunity to train with other forces.

"Tandem Thrust was an excellent opportunity for the American and Australian navies to practice working together," said Anderson, a 1995 graduate of Plymouth Canton High School.

Anderson, a two-year Navy veteran, is a communications specialist on the 18,000-ton Blue Ridge where he transmits and receives messages linking his ship with other naval activities. His role during the course of the exercise allowed operations to run smoothly.

Dale Anderson

Tandem Thrust was a large combined military exercise that is held every two years in the Western Pacific. This year it involved 43 naval ships and more than 25,000 Sailors and Marines.

Conducting exercises like tandem Thrust helps the Blue Ridge maintain stability in regions of the Western Pacific and Middle East that have strategic and economic importance to the United States.

The Blue Ride is uniquely designed to act as a command and control ship throughout the Pacific. With high-tech radars and communications equipment, the 630-foot ship provides valuable real-time information to Navy and Marine Corps units. Once an amphibious assault has been launched, the Blue Ridge provides command and battlefield coordination support to Marine forces on shore and Navy ships at sea.

Although participating in exercises like Tandem Thrust and various other naval missions overseas can be very demanding, it's important for Anderson, and ships like the Blue Ridge, to maintain a U.S. presence overseas. In order for the Navy to successfully carry out its mission of peacetime forward presence and crisis response, regular training exercises with foreign military forces are a must.

As the turn of the century approaches, the Unites States and its allies are becoming more involved with worldwide regional conflicts and humanitarian operations. Tandem Thrust-97 ensured the Navy is able to work hand-in-hand with foreign countries to maintain global peace, and that Sailors like Anderson will have the proper training they need to successfully complete their mission.

FAA: Metro Airport security ranked at bottom of heap in '95

(AP) – Detroit Metropolitan Airport ranked worst in the nation for detecting hand grenades, guns and other metal weapons, according to Federal Aviation Administration documents cited in a new book.

The documents were part of FAA tests in 1995 conducted at the nation's largest and busiest airports, a Detroit newspaper reported last month.

The findings are presented in "Flying Blind, Flying Safe," by Mary Schiavo, inspector general of the U.S. Department of Transportation from 1990 to 1996. Schiavo provided copies of the FAA documents to the newspaper.

They stated that security checkpoints at Metro found 77 percent of the metal weapons, compared with a detection rate of more than 90 percent at most of the nation's 18 other large airports.

Metro's checkpoints detected 93 percent of the weapons in 1994 tests.

"To drop to 77 percent, that's pretty low," Schiavo told the newspaper from her Columbus, Ohio, home. "That means a quarter of the test items are getting through. To put it in real terms, those test items are guns and hand grenades."

The book also stated that airport checkpoints spotted only 23 percent of plastic explosives in 1995 FAA tests.

Schiavo said Metro's record is similar to that of other airports, except those that hand screen, because metal detectors don't pick up plastic explosives.

FAA spokesman Eliot Brenner confirmed that the agency tests the checkpoints, but said it is illegal to release results. He refused to comment on the Ms. Schiavo's findings.

"We don't want to give an guidance to those who would do the traveling public harm, where they might have some success," Brenner said from his Washington office.

The results show that security employees likely were not opening enough bags that were shown to contain suspicious items by checkpoint X-ray machines, Ms. Schiavo said.

Airlines at Detroit Metro hire private security contractors to staff the airport's carry-on luggage checkpoints.

Northwest Airlines, the airport's largest carrier, questioned whether the tests were done at its checkpoints or at those controlled by other airlines.

Northwest last year hired a new security contractor, spokesman Jon austin said. But he said the move was not a response to Detroit Metro's poor showing in the 1995 tests.

"We thought we could improve operations by making a change," he said.

Travelers have nothing to worry about, Austin said. Northwest has tested the security checkpoints and found that they "score right where we want them to be," he said. "But, unlike Ms. Schiavo, I'm not going to reveal what that is."

Metro spokesman Mike Conway declined comment.

Plymouth-Canton station marks 25th anniversary

WSDP, 88.1FM, is celebrating 25 years of service to the Plymouth Canton Community in 1997. The station is planning a reunion for alumni and many other special events throughout the year.

The reunion is Saturday, Nov. 1, 1997, at Canton's Summit on the Park. Interested alumni can contact the reunion voice mail at (313) 741-4572. The station has also developed an internet web page to keep alumni updated. The page was created by Dean Varton, 1989 Plymouth Salem graduate. The station also received internet service from World Wide Net (WWNET) of Livonia. "The assistance of Dean and World Wide Net was incredibly valuable. We couldn't have done it without them" said Bill Keith, station manager. The page can be accessed at the following address: http://www.wwnet.com/~wsdp.

Day of Prayer

Government does have a role

Perhaps you have had the chance today to take part in one of the Canton events marking the National Day of Prayer. There's still time to attend tonight's "Community Concert of Prayer" hosted by Canton Free Methodist Church. About a dozen area congregations are expected to participate in the free, 90-minute program, which begins at 7 p.m. in the church, 44815 Cherry Hill, east of Canton Center Road.

Setting aside a single day each year to promote spiritual awareness – in addition to religious holidays for various faiths – has merit. While much separates us in the modern world, prayer can and should be harnessed as one of society's great unifiers. The power of prayer, when its intentions are pure and all-inclusive, is that of a communal beacon. Expressions of personal faith can and do serve as a compass in the search for common ground, and as a reminder that whatever we accomplish as individuals, progress is measured on the achievements of the whole.

The idea for a national prayer day isn't new, nor is it some underhanded conspiracy cooked up by the political right to push its way into the American mainstream. It has roots dating back to the Continental Congress and has been endorsed by nearly every U.S. administration, including that of President Bill Clinton.

To those who question government's role in helping set the nation's religious and moral agenda, we urge a refresher course on the Constitution. The phrase "separation of Church and state," which many people mistake as part of the Bill of Rights, is in reality the way federal courts, particularly the Supreme Court, have interpreted the First Amendment over the last 100 years or so. The Observer continues to view such rulings as an agreeable and fair application of constitutional law. But that doesn't mean government is automatically excluded from fostering a greater sense of spirituality among its constituents.

The language from the Bill of Rights actually reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." This is what makes putting nativity scenes on municipal hall lawns illegal (a constitutional violation only compounded by adjacent placement of Hanukkah Menorahs.) The same language can also be viewed as an endorsement for a prayer breakfast, with representatives from different faiths, held in a publicly owned building; or individuals coming together for a few moments of silent prayer, as many Canton residents were scheduled to do in a ceremony today outside the township administration building.

Religion plays a quintessential part in American life. To ask that our government, which is – according to the Constitution – nothing more than a representative extension of the people, turn a blind eye and deaf ear to anything that even hints of religious expression, is unrealistic and maybe even unhealthy.

Canton has made observances such as those that mark the National Day of Prayer a priority. As long as they are inclusive and don't promote one faith at the expense of others, we see nothing wrong with continuing to emphasize the role of prayer in the community.

Restoration begins

Lake lowered: Over the last two weeks Newburgh Lake – an impoundment of the Rouge River – has lost about 9 feet of water from its deepest areas. Excavators have started removing 390,000 cubic yards of soil contaminated with polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) from the lake. Another 230,000 cubic yards of additional sediment will be excavated to increase the lake's depth. The project is expected to take more than a year. Hines Drive between Newburgh and Haggerty is closed to motorists.

Ameritech dials wrong number

■ The two new area codes will be costly to business and residential customers.

What telephone area code are you in – this week?

Ameritech, the Illinois-based phone company that used to be called Michigan Bell, has a customer relations fiasco on its corporate hands as western Wayne County prepares to change from area codes 810 to 248 and from 313 to 734.

Two years ago, Ameritech split part of the old 313 area code into 810. One would have thought the planners might have foreseen the growth in business and avoided a second change.

The two new area codes will be costly to customers.

Homeowners will have to inform their puzzled out-of-the-area friends about changes. In some cases, they will wonder why neighbors just a block away have different area codes.

Businesses will have to print new business cards, stationery, invoices and pamphlets. Ameritech won't help out with any of those costs.

Some of the confusion could have been avoided if Ameritech had assigned different or longer codes for car and cellular phones. Most of those users program their numbers so that they are punching just a couple of digits anyway.

Much of the problem resulted from overselling of telephone "services" for cellular, fax, vehicle and computer calls.

The comedy of errors began in 1984 when a federal anti-trust suit broke up the old Bell system and resulted in a series of new regional operating companies, or Baby Bells, like Ameritech.

Meanwhile, there is a weekly barrage of news releases from would-be competitors complaining that Ameritech is resisting their entry into the market by requiring those who would use another service for nearby long-distance calls to dial a five-digit prefix (e.g., 10-288 in the case of AT&T).

Meanwhile, Ameritech is before the Michigan Public Service Commission seeking rate increases for a gobbledygook of residential bands known as A, B, C Call Plan 50, Call Plan 400, Call Plan Extended and Call Plan Unlimited. Said Attorney General Frank Kelley on March 4:

"MPSC should be particularly skeptical of Ameritech's proposal to increase local exchange rates in Michigan when it is currently reducing local exchange rates in its other states ...

"While Ameritech is proposing to increase some residential customer rates by $1.25 per month in Michigan, the company has proposed the following rate reductions in its other states ..."

The attorney general cites free Touch-Tone in Ohio and Indiana; residential cuts of 55 cents a month and business cuts of 50 cents to $7.55 in Ohio; residential and business cuts of 41 cents a month in Indiana ("fourth reduction in two years"); and both residential and business cuts in the millions of dollars for Illinois.

Ameritech's customer relations fiasco seems to become worse by the day.

Headline wrong

The inaccurate and inflammatory headline in Sunday's edition undermines public understanding of the focus of the Road Committee. ("Growth slowdown could ease road woes," Sunday, April 27).

The Road Committee was specifically charged with gaining an appreciation of the general public's perceptions of road conditions, capacities and safety. We will be relying on the print media to convey our deliberations and publicize public hearing opportunities for citizen input. Inaccuracies and hot button terminology may attract attention, but they also mislead the public we seek to serve.

As members and others present can attest, not once during the entire two-hour committee meeting were the words "growth" and "slowdown" or "control" ever used in combination let alone raised as a means to ease road problems. The simple fact is that Canton's growth is market-driven and inevitable. One function of the Road Committee is to recommend means to best accommodate that growth while meeting the transportation needs of today's citizens as well.

I hope future reporting efforts will assist in meeting our objectives.

Diaper Drive successful

The Plymouth Salvation Army, which services Canton, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Plymouth Township, would like to thank all of the people who helped to make our first Diaper Drive a success.

Thank you to the caring individuals and families who made such generous donations of disposable diapers, disposable training pants, baby wipes and miscellaneous items.

Thank you to the following businesses and government offices who allowed the Salvation Army to place a collection box on their premises: Canton Township Hall, Canton Library, Danny's (downtown Plymouth), Hiller's, Kmart (Canton), Kroger (Sheldon/Ann Arbor Road), Kroger (Sheldon /Ford Road), Northville City Hall, Northville Library, Northville Township Hall, Plymouth City Hall, Plymouth Library, U.S. post office (Penniman location), U.S. post office (Beck Road) location), and Shopping Center Market. Through your support, we have helped to baby some bottoms.

Additional donations are always welcomed and can be dropped off at the Salvation Army Headquarters in Plymouth at 9451 S. Main.

POINTS OF VIEW

Improving driver training will pay off

This newspaper and others have written too many stories about new, young drivers in our communities who died or were involved in serious accidents.

Perhaps it was one or more of these that finally pushed our state lawmakers to remedy Michigan's deficient driver education program. Given primarily through the public schools, it was a program that was cost rather than quality-driven.

Since 1980, mandatory drive time had been whittled from six to four hours plus testing and classroom instruction had declined from 30 hours to 22. In addition, students who took the driver education course given through the public schools didn't even have to take a road test.

Public schools' driver education instructors flatly said they couldn't cover all the necessary information in the time allotted. Many parents acknowledged they were afraid to drive with their children while they were learning. And, theoretically, a 16-year-old could get his license with less than four hours drive time.

That was then. Now, a new state licensing law requires drivers younger than 18 to prove their driving ability on the road and over time. And it requires parental involvement. A three-step licensing process took effect April 1. The process is specific:

■ To obtain a learner's license, a teen must be at least age 14 years, 9 months old; complete the first-round of a driver education course approved by the Michigan Department of Education including six hours of on-the road-driving with an instructor; pass a vision test and meet health standards set by the Secretary of State; and obtain written approval from a parent or guardian.

Judith Doner Berne

■ To gain an intermediate license, a teen must be at least age 16; successfully complete six months of practice driving; complete the second round of a driver education course approved by the Michigan Department of Education; have no convictions/civil infractions, license suspensions or crashes; and complete a minimum of 50 hours of behind the wheel practice driving, including 10 hours of night driving that is certified by a parent or legal guardian. Then he or she must pass a road test conducted by a state-approved independent examiner. It includes stopping, turning and parallel parking.

■ To obtain a full, unrestricted license, a teen must be at least age 17; hold an intermediate license for six months; and complete 12 consecutive months without a moving violation, crash, license suspension or violation of the graduated license restrictions.

Revising driver education to demand more skills and responsibility from the student driver and greater involvement by parents is going to pay off for all of us down the road.

However, a couple of speed bumps remain. Taking the road test out of the hands of the Secretary of State and giving it to independent licensees – an individual, company or school district – was obviously done to keep costs down.

No set fees for road tests is another area of concern. I'm sure state lawmakers figure that competition will direct the price, now hovering in the $30 to $40 range. It would be unusual for a new system not to have start-up problems. But, the state must remain accountable for making sure that the part of the licensing process now in the hands of the private sector actually works.

Depriving inmates of rights costs taxpayers

May 1 is Law Day, and our high school kids are being told that "ours is a government of laws, not of men." It comes just a few days after the TV series on "Ivanhoe," featuring bad Prince John, the guy who was forced nearly 782 years ago to sign Magna Carta, indicating that somebody besides the monarch has rights.

We are teaching prison inmates something quite different this Law Day.

First, our state in 1994 passed a crippling amendment to the Open Meetings Act saying prison inmates have no rights to public documents. What does that mean in practice? Can't they even have their own prison records, health records, stuff like that?

No, not as a matter of legal right, members of HASTA (Hispanic Americans Striving Toward Advancement) told me recently. They are in a minimum security institution on East Parnall Road in Jackson. The important point, in my mind, is that most of these guys are going to be out pretty soon.

If they want anything, it's up to the Department of Corrections to decide whether they can have it. There is no rule of law. They were eliminated from the law, remember? What lesson will they take home with them?

The Department of Corrections (DOC) found FOIA an intolerable burden. Each inmate was filing an average of 1.3 FOIA requests per year, mostly for their own records.

Up Lansing way, there's a big trial going on in Ingham Circuit Court – John C. Cain, et al. vs. DOC. It's a class-action question of inmates' property rights. It began nine years ago and has been expanded to include access to courts, use of telephones, use of typewriters and computers.

Ken McGinnis, the Engler administration's director of DOC, talked about the suit in an "Off the Record" interview Sunday on public TV. Asked if inmates had any inherent constitutional property rights, McGinnis made the incredible reply: "None at all."

Tim Richard

There is no written law, enacted for better or worse by the Legislature or voters. "Our basic position," said DOC spokesperson Marjorie Van Octen, "is we have the right to decide what prisoners can have and how much they can have."

Many, including fellow journalists, fishin' buddies and lawyer friends, argue that inmates have "no rights at all." The heck they don't. Check the U.S. Constitution, Art. VIII of the Bill of Rights. Check the Michigan Constitution, Art. I Sec. 16.

And check recent Michigan history. For a dozen years, our prison system was run not by our elected governor but by a federal judge, a very liberal Kennedy Peace Corps appointee named Richard Enslen. By screwing up on inmates' rights, our leaders cost us hundreds of millions of tax dollars making corrections in Corrections.

I have observed two things about inmates during several visits. Many have huge arm and upper torso muscles. They also know appellate law.

I'm uncertain, however, how many could support themselves once they get out. We have a prison industries system employing 2,400. That's out of some 40,000 prisoners. Six percent.

Last year, our legislators passed a new prison industries law supposedly allowing more firms to contract with DOC for prison labor. The catch is that they can make only products not normally made in Michigan or even the United States. They are supposed to compete with Asian products.

Even that measure was opposed by the prison guards' union and the state AFL-CIO.

What are we teaching the inmates about work? That they should go to Taiwan or Thailand upon release to hire out their skills?

I have a wild notion that guys who are working, and learning a skill, will have less time to develop torso muscles, fashion weapons, file tons of appellate briefs, and look for ways to aggravate John Engler.

Tim Richard reports on the local implications of state and regional events.

Volunteers get things done

Based on a memo drafted on the last Friday of the life of Michigan's former governor, George Romney, the Presidents' Summit for America's Future took place this week in Philadelphia.

A star-studded cast – including President Bill Clinton and former Presidents George Bush, Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford and retired Gen. Colin Powell – considered how to provide each child with a stable relationship with at least one adult, a safe place to go after school, adequate health care and marketable skills.

Reflecting on the goals of the meeting is sad work. It's bad enough that the structure of many American families has deteriorated so that providing a stable relationship with a grown-up and finding a safe place for kids to go after school are national goals.

And it's a social indictment that providing adequate health care and marketable skills for the 15 million children in poverty is a matter for national debate.

I would offer two observations about the summit and the chances that anything concrete will come out of it.

First, star-studded casts and elevated speeches might make fine TV, but in themselves they don't get much done. For the summit to have any impact at all, the organizers must find ways to get out of the spectacle in Philadelphia and into the reality of countless communities and home towns across Michigan.

That means a whole lot of people will have to be jolted out of their present habits into something new. Local employers will have to go beyond mere words to encourage their workers to get out and volunteer. Local service clubs like Rotary and Kiwanis will have to step up the already-high level of community caring. Organizations such as school PTOs and churches will be asked to look outward as well as inward.

Second, the premise behind the summit – that the best way to achieve these sadly simple, overwhelmingly valuable goals is by igniting a new burst of volunteer service – is significant.

It suggests that central social assumptions of prior years – that it was the job of families to provide adult role models and safe places for kids; the job of schools to provide marketable skills to students; and the job of society to make sure decent health care was available to all – have in some large degree come apart.

Had this summit taken place in the 1960s, the predictable cry from well-meaning liberal types would have been for more governmental involvement, revitalization of social service agencies, more spending for schools. I didn't hear much of this coming out of Philadelphia. Even President Clinton's call for Congress to appropriate $2.5 billion for a five-year reading program for third-graders sounded kind of stale.

Philip Power

Why this sea change in public attitude? Certainly, constant right-wing yapping about the evils of government has contributed. But I believe a more fundamental factor is the widespread perception of poor productivity of virtually all governmental agencies, from the federal level all the way down to individual communities.

Take it from a grumpy old reporter: The single toughest statistic to get out of government is the one that measures the number of concrete outcomes delivered – potholes filled, kids given marketable skills, immunizations provided to families – and then to try computing the cost per unit.

The bureaucratic apologists will tell you that budgets are not organized that way, that the demand for hard cost per unit of outcomes is unrealistic, that congressional or legislative appropriations are in such a form so as to make such calculations impossible.

Hogwash. The main reason government's productivity is terrible is that governmental units have no incentive and therefore little reason to measure their own productivity. What you can't measure, you cannot manage.

And the reason most folks think the best and most productive way to achieve the goals of the national summit is through volunteers and voluntary agencies at the local level is that they are very highly productive. Take your local Rotary Club: Its administrative overhead for community service projects is virtually zero. Take your local church's feeding program for poor people: Its administrative costs per person fed are a fraction of the government's social service agencies.

That's why the emphasis at the summit was on voluntary and not-for-profit groups. It's the right place to start.

KAREN MEIER

From Uruguay to Plymouth by way of E-mail

Andrea and Gustavo – I just now heard from them! Can you believe it? Andrea and Gustavo! All the way from Uruguay! Who would've thought!

You ask, who are Andrea and Gustavo? Well, I'll tell you. I'll tell you right now. OK. Here goes – ready or not.

Andrea and Gustavo. From Uruguay. They are ... They are ... They are ... I don't know! I don't know who they are!

I know this: they sent me an E-mail letter just now. They sent it to my computer in the upstairs of my house. Right here in North America. In Plymouth. In the blink of an eye! That astounds me.

And Andrea told me, and this was a little bit frightening, and I quote, "I got your name through the Net." Through the Net? She got my name through the Net? Yikes! How did that happen?

As you know, I am not handy with computers, E-mail, Internet, worldwide Webs, those sorts of things. They baffle me. Easily. So, I'm telling you, if you happen to be handy with computers, maybe you can help clear this up.

You see, all I have is an E-mail address and that's it – no Web page, no Web site, no Webs, Nets, or anything else, just an E-mail address. Is it possible that just by having an E-mail address my name got out there, in the Net somehow?

Now, this Uruguayan family who has my E-mail address also knows my name, even the Mrs. part. They know about my work with Down syndrome research and my work raising awareness and hope for children with Down syndrome. This far-away family knows this about me.

I'm glad, that's good. Very good. But how did this happen? This Net, this Web thing, whatever, seems to have a mind of its own, and it's so far-reaching. I guess in this case, that's good.

So little information

In the letter from Uruguay, Andrea writes, "There is so little information (here) I didn't know what else to do." So she contacted me thousands of miles away, in a different hemisphere for pete's sake, to get answers. And I'm more than happy to help out.

"I live in Uruguay," Andrea explains, "a country with only 3 million people of population and Nutritional Intervention is not a known subject. It is very important for me to know about other experiences, because for what I've been reading, I think of putting my baby into a nutritional program, but it is difficult to make a decision when the subject is not much known and it refers to your kid's health. The truth is that I have to do all the research on my own."

"I'm so happy to be able to tell her, and Gustavo, that that doesn't have to be anymore. I can tell them research has been done – some; the results are encouraging and promising, and hope, health are out there, but, most of all, I can tell them, there's no need for them to start at square one with this.

They don't have to be "on their own" anymore. So there it is: the huge, baffling, long-armed, electronic mail system CAN be a very good thing!

That letter from the other side of the world demonstrates how good can come out of this computer-electronic-gizmo age. Computers can benefit in real, very real, ways. We can reach out (to places we're completely unfamiliar with) and help one another (even those we'll never meet). Computers can connect us in very positive ways, no matter how far away we live.

Speaking about far away, here's something that made me realize the vast distance this E-mail letter traveled. In her letter, Andrea said it's autumn in Uruguay now and winter's coming. What a funny thing. Here it's spring and summer's on the horizon. It's all upside down, opposite. Far away.

Intriguing differences?

After reading that, I looked up Uruguay in the encyclopedia to see what other intriguing differences there might be between there and here. I always figure far away places for being very different. Vastly different. But as I read through the pages in the encyclopedia, I didn't see "vastly different."

I saw differences, but I saw similarities, too. For instance, the country of Uruguay and the state of Michigan are nearly equal in size in terms of square miles. (Uruguay happens to be the smallest of the South American countries). And another thing. Michigan and Uruguay have a lot of water around them and in them and

Stars brighten music scene

When Norma Atwood retired as music director at an Ann Arbor church, she decided not to sit around and do nothing. She formed community youth choir.

Most people retire to stop working and begin a leisurely lifestyle. Not music teacher and performer Norma Atwood of Canton.

She recently retired as director of music for First United Methodist Church in Ann Arbor but in keeping with her frenzied lifestyle she quickly took on another project.

Inspired by her work with youths as a music teacher at Arnoldt Williams music store in Canton, Atwood created The Rising Star Singers four months ago. The community youth choir, she explained, gives children the rare opportunity to share what they have learned in music classes.

"As I was working with children or teen-agers in private study, I realized they weren't being given the opportunity to perform outside in the community," said Atwood, also a former music director at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Westland. "By forming a performance group it gives them the opportunity to put to practice what they are learning."

Working with The Rising Star Singers gives Atwood a sense of freedom that she didn't have with the church choirs.

"They're performing songs that are secular as opposed to sacred; they're sort of upbeat musical songs," she said. "One is 'Catch a Falling Star,' an old standard. Another has to do with friendship. I like to bring them upbeat songs that they can sing and move to and bring a message.

"Basically, this is a combination of music and movement, which does not happen too much in the church situation. The other groups I have directed have been more Christian-oriented. I also worked with older folks."

Her goal with The Rising Star Singers is to develop different performance packages, so the group can perform in a variety of settings – summer festivals, organization meetings and senior centers. Atwood also hopes to use the creative abilities of the 30-member group.

She has pegged a handful of students, including 13-year-olds Shawn Tanner of Westland and Justine Blazer of Canton, to sing solo. Courtney Pickard, 9, of Canton, and her sister Chelsey sang the Mary-Kate and Ashley Olson song "I Am a Cute One." Another girl in the group sings and plays the guitar. Students in the group show off their talents during rehearsal with the hope that they can bring it to performances.

Blazer is hoping that the group can incorporate more pop songs into its repertoire.

"I've like to see us sing 'Lean on Me' – the pop version that has a dance with it," she said.

The group has practiced its skills during private performances at a home and at Ernesto's Restaurant. On Sunday, June 1, The Rising Star Singers will perform as part of "Family Fun Day," a celebration of Michigan's 160th birthday and Michigan Family Day at Domino's Farms in Ann Arbor. The event runs from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and includes animal shows, a display of antique bikes, cars and fire engines, police and fire department demonstrations, arts, crafts and bake sale, face

'90s technology gives auction a boost

BY SUE MASON
STAFF WRITER

Karen Carroll and Wynona Frost each needed to raise a few dollars relatively quickly to make sure they get to Anchorage, Ala., and Lake Tahoe, Nev., respectively.

The idea they happened upon is combines the thrill of bidding at an auction with the technology of the 1990s – Lunch! with the some metropolitan area's notables with bidding by fax or the mail.

"Let's Do Lunch!" is the Detroit duo's way of cementing their spots on the current Leukemia Society of America's Team in Training.

"It's a wonderful creative idea," said Denise Figurski, campaign director for the society's Michigan Chapter, of the fund-raiser. "They thought for small business people and the average person it would be a great way to go one-on-one with some interesting people."

Carroll, a cyclist, and Frost, a walker, have committed to raising a minimum of $3,800 each to be a member of LSA's Team in Training. A national program, team members commit to training for a marathon or cycling event and raise money to help fight leukemia and its related cancers.

In return, the twosome are provided with coaches to help them train and prepare for the Mayor's Midnight Sun Marathon in Anchorage and the Lake Tahoe Century Ride in Lake Tahoe as well as their airfare, accommodations and entry fees.

"This is really a great program because it's a win/win program," said Figurski of Team In Training. "Participants get to do something they would never think they could do. They raise money for a good cause and get to go on a really great trip."

A popular fund-raiser, more than 600 walkers, runners and cyclists have participated in the Michigan Chapter's Program. In fact, the chapter topped $700,000 for 1996.

painting and Andy the Robot from Huron Valley Ambulance. Tickets are $2.50 in advance or $3 at the door. Children age 3 and younger are admitted free. For more information, call (313) 930-5032 or (313) 996-0070.

The Rising Star Singers rehearse weekly at Arnoldt Williams. Although auditions were held in January, Atwood is looking for new members.

Those interested in trying out can call (313) 453-6586. There is a $50 membership fee which helps cover the group's expenses.

Atwood explained that youths can benefit in many ways by joining The Rising Star Singers.

"No. 1, you are being given the opportunity to perform and show your talent and to nurture your talent; you learn what performance is all about," she explained. "Two, you get to meet kids from all over.

"It's a social as well as musical experience."

Atwood persuaded voice student Blazer to join the group.

"I thought I could meet new people and have a chance to perform," Blazer said. "There's not a lot of singing groups for kids our age where we can perform."

Tanner joined the group because she "loves to sing."

"Everybody told me I had a good voice. Singing is what I want to do with my life," she said.

■ 'There's not a lot of singing groups for kids our age where we can perform.'

Justine Blazer

Atwood, who also teaches Kindermusik and private music classes at Arnoldt Williams, admits that running The Rising Star Singers "takes a lot of energy." But it's not as difficult as she imagined.

"Basically, I found in developing it that there was a lot of interest out there," she said. "When I mentioned it, the kids were very excited about having a youth performance group. It was not as difficult as I thought it would be.

"But the development of it certainly does take time and energy."

Atwood's dream is to take the children out on the road.

"I'd like to see them get the opportunity to bring their talents not only in this community but outside this community.'

beautiful beaches to go along with the water.

And because of that, lots of tourists flock. And Detroit (our biggest city) and Montevideo (their biggest city, and capital) are both situated on the water. And the similarities didn't stop there. There were more!

I shouldn't have been surprised, though. I should've realized similarities existed even before I opened any reference book. All I had to do was look at that E-mail letter from Andrea and Gustavo, at what they were doing on behalf of their child, at their hope, at their devotion to their family, to see that some things are the same – no matter what hemisphere.

If you have a question or comment for Karen Meier, a Plymouth resident, call her at 953-2047, mailbox number 1883, on a Touch-Tone phone, write her at The Observer Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia 48150, or reach her at her E-mail address: FamilyRoom@worldNet.att.Net.

The chapter also provides team members with fund-raising supplies to help meet their goals. Frost and Carroll used those materials to put together their "Let's Do Lunch!" benefit and "really manage to get a nice diverse group of people," Figurski said.

The VIP lunch list that Frost and Carroll came up with includes Deputy Wayne County Executive Michael Duggan, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, attorney Geoffrey Fieger, WCSX radio personality Jim "JJ" Johnson, Crain's Detroit Business associate publisher/editor Mary Kramer, Macomb County Prosecutor Carl Marlinga, Detroit Police Chief Isaiah McKinnon, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara (lunch for two), Detroit Deputy Police Chief Benny Napoleon, Detroit Pistons Dance Team coordinator Shay Scott and newspaper columnist Charlie Vincent.

In lieu of lunch, WXYT Newstalk Radio personality Ike "Mega Man" Griffin is offering an hour with him at the studio, while WDIV-TV news anchor Carmen Harlan's offer is a studio tour during the 5 p.m. broadcast. Michigan Lt. Gov. Connie Binsfeld and first lady Michelle Engler have contributed an autographed PJ Huggabee Bear.

The minimum bids are $100. The highest bidder is entitled to Lunch! with the selected VIP. Lunch will be at their convenience and expense.

Bidding will be strictly by fax and mail, and bids can be submitted for one or more VIPs. They must include the bidder's name, full address and day and evening telephone numbers. Bids must be received by midnight Wednesday, May 7.

The bids can be faxed to (313) 533-9256 or by mailing them to TNT Auction c/o Frost, 19504 Bretton, Detroit 48223-1269.

The duo also has set up at Bid Hotline – (313) 438-2506 – for bidders to ask questions and check on or up their bids.

Winners will be notified within a few days of the end of the auction and will have three days in which to make payment. Hopes are to raise at least $3,800, Figurski said.

"I think this is a wonderful idea and I hope it goes well," she added. "If it does go well, we'll make a yearly thing and add more VIPs to the list."

As for people interested in participating in Team in Training, an informational meeting will be held in July. Runners will be competing in the Honolulu Marathon in December or the Disney Marathon in January, while riders will be entered in the El Tour de Houston in November.

"There's nothing nicer than being in Hawaii in December," said Figurski. "For the last three years, the day we've left for Honolulu has been snowy. The trip is a wonderful break from reality."

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
by Chris Knight

FULL DISCLOSURE IS THE BEST STRATEGY

You are about to list your home in the Plymouth and Canton areas. Since you have lived there for many years, you know that it is not perfect. There's a leak in the basement that is noticeable only after a heavy rain, the garage door sticks, the toilet in the master bath works like a fountain, and the dishwasher is prone to work stoppages.

Any home has some quirks. When it is time to sell your home, you have a choice of either making the repairs or letting the buyers know what the problems are, especially any potentially serious problems. Some buyers will want a structural inspection so that they will have a good idea about what they are getting into. Even if the buyers don't ask for an expert to look at the house, it is the seller's responsibility to disclose any defects in the property that they know about. A concealed problem may come back to haunt you after the closing. Many lawsuits involve undisclosed defects, and the settlement of these cases makes the cost of repair or the price concession during the sales look like a real bargain.

For solid advice when buying and selling real estate, consult Chris Knight at Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real estate, 313-453-6800.

Good CROP of food

For the depot: Three hundred walkers took to the streets of Livonia last October and raised more than $18,000 during the 1996 Livonia CROP Walk for Church World Service. Also benefitting was the St. Vincent DePaul Food Depot in Wayne and the Christian Communications Council's Meal on Wheels program which each received checks for $1,855.64. Last week the Rev. Dr. Thomas P. Eggebeen (from left) of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Dr. Chuck Sonquist of St. Matthew's United Methodist Church went to Wayne to give the check to depot manager John Bolde. The Livonia CROP Walk has become one of the top 100 such walks in the country. Held on the first Sunday in October, organizers have already set a goal of 350 walkers and $25,000 in pledges.

5 women honored by Scouts

Five women have been selected to receive the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council newest honor, "Women of Distinction" Award.

The council's 1997 "Women of Distinction" are Karen Wilson of Plymouth, Laurie Berry of New Boston, Mary Ann Fogle of Saline; Dr. Alice Roelofs and Patti Schebil, both of Ann Arbor.

The honorees will be feted at a luncheon set for 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 21, at the Ypsilanti Marriott, 1275 S. Huron St. Ann Arbor Mayor Ingrid Sheldon will emcee the celebration.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council launched the new award program as part of its year-long celebration of Girl Scouting's 85th anniversary. The honorees are women whose commitment to community life exemplifies the highest ideals of Girl Scouting.

Tickets for the awards luncheon cost $25. Reservations can be made through Wednesday, May 7, by calling Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at (313) 971-8800 or (800) 49-SCOUT, Ext. 224. Proceeds from the luncheon will support Girl Scout programs.

Wilson is president of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board of Directors and member of the Northwestern Community Services Board of Directors, Plymouth Community Arts Council and Administrative Board of Plymouth United Methodist Church.

As president of Central Distributors of Romulus, she is the first woman to serve on the Anheuser-Busch Wholesale Advisory Panel.

She also is a member of the Romulus Drug Task Force Committee and has been responsible for alcohol awareness programs in junior and senior high schools.

Berry is vice-chair of the Monroe Chapter of the Karmanos Cancer Foundatiion. She has been chair of the Christmas walk for two years and chair of the community outreach program of Hospice of Monroe.

She is the founder and leader of the Diabetic Support Group of Monroe County and the Ostomy Support Group of Monroe and has chaired the Walktober Fest for Diabetes for four years.

Berry also is a member of the State of Michigan's Tech 2000 Committee and the Stephens Ministry at Community Lutheran Church in Flat Rock.

The 1996 recipient of the Athena Award, presented by the Monroe Chamber of Commerce to its businesswoman of the year, she owns and operates the Home Care Shoppe in Monroe.

Fogle has served as board member of Saline Community Hospital and Saline Area Chamber of Commerce, secretary-treasurer of Saline Community Directions (senior citizen housing), treasurer of American Legion Auxiliary, co-chair of Saline Hospital's Pumper Power Race, co-chair of Picnic in the Park, member of the Saline Kiwanis and coordinator of Christmas in April.

The vice-president and branch officer of the Saline office of Comerica Bank for 10 years, she was Saline's Citizen of the Year in 1993.

Roelofs is founder and president of Adult Learning Systems, which serves developmentally disabled and mentally ill adults and children.

She has worked with Amnesty International and with the American Friends Service Committee to help refugees and political prisoners. She has tutored migrant workers and refugees in English as a second language.

Fogle has written several books on practical living skills, guides to help people become accustomed to their local communities. She consults with other agencies to promote community integration and human rights.

Shebil is an active member of the Board of Directors of SAFE House/Domestic Violence Project. As commercial lighting manager for Gross Electric in Ann Arbor, she helped with the construction of SAFE House.

She also coordinated the special lighting at Washtenaw Community College for the Hands-On Museum auction and provided pro bono lighting consultant services for the Ann Arbor Historical Society and the Ann Arbor YMCA.

In cooperation with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Office, Schebil developed a SCUBA diving program for at-risk teen girls for Huron Valley Girl Scout Council and has helped with fund raising for the annual Huron Valley Girl Scout Golf Open.

New Morning School opens up enrollment

A limited openings are available for students in full day kindergarten and first grade and fourth through eighth grade at New Morning School in Plymouth.

The school's mission is to provide individualize skill development in a personalized environment, fostering student responsibility, positive self-esteem and positive interpersonal relationships.

The key ingredients of a New Morning school education are an individualized educational program, respect for the student and his or her learning style, goal setting and problem solving and 12-1 student teacher ratio.

Students receive instruction in Spanish, art and music. Specialized science and computer science are part of a curriculum that emphasizes problem solving. Students at all levels have direct access to computers.

New Morning School is a state-certified and licensed non-profit school and the only prekindergarten-eighth grade cooperative school in Michigan. Parents aide in the classroom, clean the building, lend their personal skills to special projects, and assist in raising money for the school.

New Morning School is at 14501 Haggerty Road, Plymouth. For more information, call the school at (313) 420-3331.

ANNIVERSARIES

Smith

James and Mary Smith of Redford celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception given by their children.

The couple exchanged vows on April 12, 1947.

They have two married children – Lawrence Smith and wife Judy and Janice Conway and husband Robert, all of Redford.They also have four grandchildren and one great-granddaughter – Rob, Amy and Jim Conway, James Smith and daughter Stephani of South Carolina.

He retired from the Ford Motor Co. in 1980, and they have enjoyed traveling since then.

Berry

Bill and Joan Berry of Livonia celebrated their 40th anniversary during a weekend at a surprise location with the children and grandchildren.

The couple exchanged vows on April 27, 1957, in Farmington. She is the former Joan Berry.

Forty-year residents of Livonia, the Berrys have three children – Sue Perlin of Novi, Nancy Rothenhoefer of Syracuse, N.Y., and Charlie Berry of San Diego, Calif. They also have four grandchildren.

He is an employee of the Ford Motor Co., while she works with Dr. Donald Silver. They are very active at Christ the King Lutheran Church in Livonia and enjoy golf, bridge club and traveling.

Conn

Harry and Vicki Conn were the guests on honor at a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party, given by their children in Westland on March 29.

The Conns, three-year residents of Windsor, Wis., were married on May 13, 1972, in Garden City. She is the former Vicki Sylvester.

They have four children – Amy, Audrey and Alane, all of Windsor, Wis., and Darren of Livonia.

He has been on active duty in the U.S. Army and holds the rank of sergeant major. She is employed by Bell Laboratories in Madison, Wis.

They are active in the State of Wisconsin Technical College System and the U.S. Army Noncommissioned Officers Association. Their interests include hiking, bicycling and coaching athletics.

As part of their anniversary celebration, they plan to hike portions of the Appalachian Trail in the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia in June.

Cyr

George and Elizabeth Cyr of Clinton Township celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a renewal of wedding vows during Mass Sunday, April 20, at St. Louis Church, and at a small reception for family members and friends, held in the parish hall.

The couple exchanged vows on April 19, 1932 at St. Martins on the Lake Church in Detroit. She is the former Elizabeth Klee.

The couple has 13 children – Mary Ann Brehmer of Madison heights, the Rev. Richard Cyr of Sterling Heights, Tom Cyr of Algonac, Jacqueline Whalen of Anchorage, Alaska, Paul Michaels of Harper Woods, Gary Cyr of San Jose, Calif., Doug Cyr of Livonia, Janet Mowid of Roseville, Donna Derey of Clinton Township, Bernadette Coats of Canton, George Cyr of Harrison Township, Diane Keucken of St. Clair Shores and Geralyn Daughterty of Cookesville, Tenn. They also have 42 grandchildren and 54 great-grandchildren.

Hospice to hold training day

The Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute's hospice program will offer a training program in May for caring men and women who want to make a difference in their community.

The volunteer training sessions will be 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., beginning Saturday, May 3, at the Institute's East Regional Office, 15111 Thirteen Mile Road at Hayes in Warren.

The program will include training in communication skills, loss and grief issues, legal documents, and the history of hospice.

According to Volunteer Coordinator Cathy Dominici, hospice volunteers run errands, spend time with bereaved children, fulfill special wishes, and provide support to terminally ill persons and their families.

"Energetic and optimistic people who are sensitive to the needs of others, make great volunteers," she said. "Through simple acts of kindness, everyone benefits from and experiences the healing power of human presence."

For more information, call Dominici at 1-800-KARMANOS (527-6266).

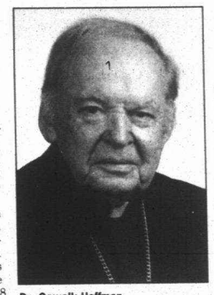
Church welcomes ex-radio show host



Dr. Oswalk Hoffman

Dr. Oswald Hoffman, for many years the voice of "The Lutheran Hour," will visit Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church-Livonia on Sunday, May 11, to help it celebrate a triple anniversary.

Members will celebrate the 20th anniversary of the church and the 150th anniversary of The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod as well as the dedication of its new educational wing and fifth anniversary of the dedication of the new anniversary.

Hoffman will preach at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services. There also will be a catered dinner, featuring four entrees, at 1 p.m. in the Livonia Campus Parish Center . Tickets for the dinner are $12 for adults and $8 for children.

Hoffman was the featured weekly speaker of "The Lutheran Hour" for 33 years until his retirement in 1988. During his tenure, he became widely recognized as one of the U.S.'s outstanding churchmen.

Early in his career, he served as an instructor at Bethany College, Mankato, Minn., and then the University of Minnesota as a classical language instructor.

As an leading Protestant church leader, he received the Gold Medal Award in 1992 from Religious Heritage of America and the Secretary of Defense Award for outstanding service to military personnel, particularly those serving overseas.

An author of numerous magazine articles and several books, his latest work is his autobiography, "What More Is There to Say But Amen." The book include stories of his early days as a pastor and White House visits with Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon.

Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church-Livonia is at 14175 Farmington Road, north of I-275. For more information, call the church office at (313) 522-6830.

Dick Clark highlights annual MCF dinner

The legendary (and ageless) Dick Clark will bring his rock 'n'roll show to Motown in May to benefit Detroit's Barbara Ann Karmanos Cancer Institute.

MCF's 15th annual dinner will be Saturday, May 10, at Detroit's Westin Hotel. Cocktails will be at 7 p.m., followed by dinner and entertainment at 8 p.m.

Appearing with Clark will be Freddy "Boom Boom" Cannon, the Coasters and Little Anthony and the Imperials. Honorary chairs for the event are Marilyn and Kenneth Way.

"Every seat is a good one when it's filled to fight cancer," said Ken, chairman of Lear Corporation, the Southfield-based automotive supplier. "Marilyn and I are proud to take this leadership role in Detroit's cancer effort."

Proceeds from the event support the institute's programs, including advanced research aimed at improving the diagnosis, treatment and detection of aggressive cancers. To date, the dinners have raised nearly $6 million.

Tickets for the event are $750 per person for patrons, $500 for friends and $250 for guests. Patrons also will enjoy a pre-gala celebration Wednesday, May 7, at the Way's Bloomfield Hills home.

For more information, call Amy Cannon at 1-800-KARMANOS (527-6266).

The Karmanos Cancer Institute is one of the nation's leading cancer research, treatment, education and outreach centers.

The institute is affiliated with The Detroit Medical Center and Wayne State University.

This offer is available for new line-of-credit relationships only, and is subject to change without notice. APR's effective as of April 1, 1997.

Western Wayne WIC holds open house

An open house at the Western Wayne County WIC (Women, Infants, Children) Clinic Wednesday, May 7, will showcase an achievement by two state agencies in offering one-stop health services for pregnant women and young children.

The open house will be 1-3 p.m. at the clinic in the Wayne County Family Independence Agency Child and Family Center, 253 Ecorse Road, Taylor.

"This is an excellent partnership between two government agencies to simplify the system for the people we serve and to increase the likelihood of their use of services available to them," said Marva Livingston Hammons, FIA director.

Supported by the Michigan Department of Community Health, it is the first WIC clinic ever to be housed in an FIA facility. Since it opened last December, the clinic has provided health assessments to more than 550 women and children.

WIC provides food to improve the diet of pregnant women, women with young children and infants and children. It also provides nutrition education and health screening and referrals to appropriate health and social services. The clinic also began providing immunizations in February.

"We want to expand upon this one-stop convenience concept for people in need of services offered by the Michigan department of Community Health and the Family Independence Agency," said James Haveman, MCDH director. "Why should people have to go all over town when one-stop services can be arranged with cooperation by two state departments. We need more of this kind of effort."

"The FIA's role to identify and facilitate service delivery to WIC clientele, knowing that 70 percent of WIC clients receive public assistance," said Samuel Chambers Jr., director of FIA/Wayne County.

For more information about the open house, call the Western Wayne WIC Clinic at (313) 295-8320.

Brochure helps sort out care and products

Every day, millions of senior citizens face questions about health-related products and services they see in the marketplace, get in the mail, read about in the newspaper and hear about on radio and television.

Unfortunately, it can be difficult for consumers to tell the difference between facts and fiction when it comes to selecting a health care product or service.

That's where the Federal Trade Commission and Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley come in. They have teamed up to provide a new brochure, "Who Cares," that helps consumers, especially senior citizens, spot misleading or deceptive claims and where to get information.

The large print booklet covers such topics as hearing aids, changing prescriptions and nursing facilities.

"The information contained in the brochure provides a useful tool for protecting our citizens," said Kelley.

The brochures are available by writing to the Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 30123, Lansing 48909 or Health Care Fraud Division, P.O. Box 30218, Lansing 48909.

Whalers are Plymouth

It's official.

The Ontario Hockey League hockey club tore away the final vestiges of its former identity by officially changing its name to the Plymouth Whalers.

That has been the plan since the Whalers opened their new home, Compuware Arena in Plymouth Township last fall. Before making the change, the Whalers (in existance for seven years) had been known by many names, such as the Detroit Compuware Ambassadors, the Detroit Junior Red Wings and, most recently, the Detroit Whalers.

What the Whalers never had before was a permanent home, like the one they now enjoy on Beck Road near M-14. In their first season at the new arena, the Whalers drew more than 110,000 fans, an average of 3,430 per game — for a team that finished fourth in the OHL's West Division.

"It just makes sense," said Whalers' assistant general manager and marketing director Kerry Kerch, who announced the name change. "Since day one, Plymouth and its surrounding communities have welcomed us with cooperative support. Our fan-base is mostly from this area. It's our way of giving back and saying thank you."

Wildcats go to finals

The Plymouth Salem/Western Wayne Wildcats 13-year-old girls basketball team romped to a 51-35 victory over the Rochester Raiders in the AAU state South Regional finals last weekend to advance to the state championship game.

Wildcat team members are Stephanie Szezechowski, Mirisa Sarkesian, Katie Kelly, Jenna Van Wagoner, Dawn Allen, Sara Schupra, Mary Lou Liebau, Marlene Dietrich, Sheri Grubaugh, Summer Smith and Stephanie Phillips. Coaches are Dave Van Wagoner and Bob Liebau.

Koufax tryouts

The Plymouth Salem Sandy Koufax baseball team has another tryout scheduled for 1-3 p.m. Sunday on Field No. 10, located behind Salem HS.

All 13 and 14 year-old boys who are or will be attending Salem HS this fall are invited to try out.

For further information, call Aaron Rumberger at (313) 453-4003.

Good Counsel golf

The annual Our Lady of Good Counsel Golf Outing is scheduled for May 31 at St. John's Golf Course, located at 14830 Sheldon in Plymouth.

The format for the day is two shotgun starts, at 7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Cost is $85 per person, which includes 18 holes of golf, cart, lunch and dinner. There will also be a silent auction during dinner.

All proceeds go to the OLGC athletic programs.

Registration deadline is May 12. Checks should be made payable to the OLGC Booster Club (please indicate your foursome). To register, mail checks to Rick Huetter, 10110 Creekwood, Plymouth, MI, 48170, or to Mike Girskis, 9032 Cobblestone Cr., Plymouth, MI, 48170.

For further information, call Huetter at (313) 416-9177 or Girskis at (313) 454-0847.

Soccer signup

It's time to register for the Canton Soccer Club's fall season.

Open registration will be 6-9 p.m. Thursday, May 29; 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 31; and 5:30-9:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 11. All three registration sessions will be in the lower level meeting room No. 3 at the Canton Township Municipal Offices, 1150 S. Canton Center Road.

Players new to the program must bring a copy of their birth certificate, their social security number and a check payable to the Canton Soccer Club (registration fees are based age and ability of the child).

The Canton Soccer Club was been designated as one of the 10 best soccer clubs in the U.S. at a U.S. Youth Soccer Association symposium in Bowling Green, Ohio.

The CSC was represented at the symposium by Brian Finnerty, director of coaching and player development, and his assistant, Randy Prescott. Both are members of the Detroit Rockers.

Recreation news

The Canton Parks and Recreation Services is sponsoring its annual Kids Fishing Derby Saturday, May 11 at Heritage Park.

The park's ponds will be stocked with rainbow trout. Prizes will be raffled off each hour.

The competition is open to Canton residents only; boys and girls 15-years-old and under. They must supply their own bait and equipment.

Entry fee is $1, to be paid the day of the event. A fishing license will be provided at check-in.

Advanced registration is required, in person at the Parks and Rec offices, 46000 Summit Parkway in Canton, or by calling (313) 397-5110.

Anyone interested in submitting items to Sports Scene may send them to sports editor C.J. Risak, 36251 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI, 48150, or may fax them to (313) 591-7279.

Salem's seeking another title shot

BY STEVE KOWALSKI
STAFF WRITER

So this is what it's come to, a coach suggesting there be a metal detetector at Saturday's 27th Annual Observerland Boys Track Relays.

How times have changed.

Certainly, one wasn't needed at the first Observerland, way back in 1971.

Boys didn't wear earrings back then.

"We need a metal detetector, only for Plymouth Salem runners," joked Salem coach Geoff Baker, whose team lost points and a certain Observerland championship last spring because one of his runners was disqualified for wearing an earring.

OBSERVERLAND TRACK

The DQ meant the Rocks had to share the title with Westland John Glenn, this year's overwhelming favorite. As the Rocks step off the bus, Baker probably will feel like a bouncer checking IDs at a bar.

"The jewelry stays home," Baker said. "We're not there to make a fashion statement, we're there to run hard and win."

One coach immune to this problem is Detroit Catholic Central's Tony Magni, whose school code doesn't allow jewelry. If his runners are wearing hats to the meet, Magni said, they better have the bill facing forward.

"I don't even like hats," Magni said. "We go out to eat and they want to wear their hats."

Redford Union is the site of this year's race, which starts at 3:30 p.m. with the field events. The preliminaries begin at 6 followed by the finals at 6:30.

"We need a meet like this to get us fired up," Baker said. "If you can't get excited about Observerland, running under the lights, in great weather which I hope we have, then you shouldn't be running. It brings out the best in everybody."

Glenn might spoil everyone's time.

Rocks rule opener; Chiefs' bats boom in 2nd

The first game meant more. It counted toward the Western Lakes Activities Association standings.

When considering the two double-header opponents, however, league considerations were secondary. After all, this was Plymouth Canton vs. Plymouth Salem.

So saying Salem's win, a 5-2 victory in the opener of last Saturday's double-header, meant more than Canton's 6-4 victory in the nightcap would be foolish.

Tom DeMetsenare stopped the Chiefs on six hits and two walks, striking out five in seven innings for Salem in picking up the first-game win. Ryan Dahlman lasted six innings, surrendering five runs on eight hits — six for extra bases — and a walk, with three strikeouts, for Canton.

The big blow in the first game came in the first inning. Salem's Ryan Rumberger, who also doubled in the game, smacked a two-run home run in the first to give Salem a lead it never relinquished.

Dave Barker and Jamie LaGrow also had two doubles apiece for Salem, LaGrow knocking in two runs. Jeff Opalinski's solo home run in the sixth inning accounted for one of Canton's runs.

In the second game, the Chiefs scored five times in the second inning off of Salem's Jason Cox. Opalinski started the rally with a double; Pat Van Hull, Andrew Copenhaver, Kyle Richardson, Neil Wildfong and Pat Noonan added run-scoring base hits.

Copenhaver and Noonan each ended up with two base hits, Copenhaver scoring twice.

Ben Tucker was the winning pitcher, going the distance and allowing four runs on seven hits and five walks, with nine strikeouts. Cox took the loss for Salem.

Canton 6, Northville 4: On Monday, the Chiefs broke a 3-3 tie with three runs in the seventh inning to improve to 6-7 overall, 2-3 in the WLAA's Western Division.

Jason Mortiere started and pitched five effective innings for Canton in a game played at Northville. He allowed three earned runs on four hits and five walks, striking out three.

Canton led 2-1 going into the bottom of the fifth, but Mortiere walked two and then gave up a two-run double, prompting a pitching change to Mike Rourk. Rourk surrendered three hits and a run in the final two innings, but got the pitching win.

Doubles by Dave Kwiatkowski and Ray Horton resulted in a run for Canton in the sixth, tying the game at 3-all. In the Chiefs' seventh, Nate Copenhaver walked and Pat Noonan tried to sacrifice bunt him to second — however, the throw to second was late, and both runners were safe.

After Jeff Opalinski reached base on a bunt single, Scott Vigh replaced Joe Willey on the mound for the Mustangs. Kwiatkowski greeted Vigh with

SOCCER

If Plymouth Salem's girls soccer team is starting to grow up, it picked the right time.

The Rocks hosted traditionally tough Troy Athens on Saturday and sent the visitors away with a 4-4 tie, twice coming back from two-goal deficits.

Then Salem entertained North Farmington. The Rocks weren't particularly good hosts at that, scoring all nine goals Monday to raise their record to 4-3-2.

"We've played the pretty tough part of our schedule already," Salem Coach Doug Landefeld said. "We're a young team. We keep hoping we're getting better.

"It gives the girls a chance to feel good about themselves. I think we're headed in the right direction."

Against Troy Athens, the Rocks found themselves down 2-0 but rallied to tie on goals by Janel Davis and Mia Sarkesian — only to see Athens take a 3-2 lead just before the half.

Troy Athens scored the first goal of the second half to hike its margin to 4-2 but Salem came right back, cutting the gap to a single goal on Sarkesian's second goal of the game and tying it with seven minutes to play on a goal by Jodi Coyle.

"It was a back and forth type of game," Landefeld said. "We made a lot of mistakes, but to come back twice to tie it, I was pleased with that.

"We shouldn't have been in that position to begin with, but . . ."

Sarkesian scored three times in the Monday game while the Rocks got singles from Davis, Coyle, Patty Wong, Andrea Weinman, Kristina Senuch and Jenifer Storm.

Goalie Jenny Fitchett notched the shutout, her first.

Canton 4, Farmington 0: Farmington gave Plymouth Canton a good battle, but the Chiefs' girls soccer team prevailed in the end.

Also in the beginning, as Emile Meier notched a goal midway through the first half of Canton's victory Monday night at Farmington.

"They were scrappy," Canton Coach Don Smith said. "They gave us a pretty good battle. We came to life in the second half. They're a pretty good team."

Lisa Reissenweber, who assisted on Meier's goal, had a stellar scoring night with a pair of goals plus two

SOFTBALL

Maybe the Rocks should have saved some of that offense.

Last Saturday, Plymouth Salem's softball team smashed visiting Dearborn, pushing across 29 runs in sweeping the non-league double-header, 10-3 and 19-16. Should have really built some confidence in the offense, right?

If it did, it didn't show on Monday when the Rocks hosted Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division rival Walled Lake Central. The Rocks managed just five hits and, even though their pitcher — Shannon Coultas — surrendered just three, she also walked 16.

Which is why the Vikings won 9-0, which kept them atop the Lakes Division. Salem slipped to 6-8 overall, 2-5 in the WLAA and 2-3 in the Lakes.

Central took command from the start, scoring four runs in the first and adding two more in each of the next two innings. Maureen Buchanan had Salem's only extra-base hit, a double.

Last Saturday against Dearborn, Coultas was more on-target, giving up just two hits in the opener, walking six and striking out six. Salem led 9-0 after two innings and coasted from there.

Jill Schmalhurst led the Rocks' attack with two hits; Buchanan and Carah Best each chipped in with a double.

The second game was all offense, with Becky Hattle earning the victory for Salem. Hattle allowed 15 hits and six walks, with two strikeouts; included was an eight-run sixth inning that brought the Pioneers back from a 13-7 deficit to a 15-13 lead.

The Rocks rallied, however, in the seventh. Schmalhurst and Buchanan started it with back-to-back singles; a pair of Dearborn errors allowed Salem to fill the bases.

Kristan Los then emptied the bases with a double to centerfield, putting the Rocks back in front. Los finished the game with four hits, including a double and a triple.

Best added three hits, with a double and a triple, and Stefanie Volpe had two hits, one a home run. Becky Esper and Rachel Krumwiede also had two hits each, as the Rocks pummeled Dearborn's pitching for 18 hits.

Canton 11, Northville 0: Plymouth Canton routed visiting Northville Monday with a five-inning mercy, improving the Chiefs' record to 13-1 overall, 4-1 in the WLAA's Western Division.

Gretchen Hudson got the pitching win, stopping the Mustangs on two hits. She struck out three and did not walk a batter.

Nikki Kovachevich led the assault for Canton, going 3-for-3 with three RBI. Elizabeth Elsner had two hits and two RBI, and Tara Biro, Sarah Freels and Karen Dougher each had two hits.

That showed last Saturday, when the Chiefs collected four-straight victories at the eight-team Chelsea Tournament en route to a championship.

In the final, Sarah Carson was the winner, beating Jackson Northwest 8-2. Freels' three-run double in the first inning was the key hit for Canton; Dougher and Elsner each had two hits.

In the semifinal, Canton dumped Columbia Central 4-2; Biro had three hits, and Kovachevich and Kristen Witt each had two. Erica Hancz tripled in one run, helping Hudson get the pitching win.

Canton also defeated host Chelsea 5-3, thanks to a three-run homer in the sixth by Elsner that made it 4-0. Litwin added two hits; Carson was the winning pitcher.

In their tournament opener, the Chiefs outscored Trenton 9-6. Hancz had three hits, while Jillian Gross had two and two RBI, and Litwin had a hit and two RBI. Hudson was the winner, as Canton built a 9-2 lead and breezed from there.

Chiefs handle Patriots

GOLF

Plymouth Canton collected its second win of the Western Lakes Activities dual-meet golf season at the expense of winless Livonia Franklin, by a 233-263 count Monday at Whispering Willows in Livonia.

The victory pushed Canton's mark to 2-3 in the WLAA. Franklin is 0-4 overall, 0-3 in the WLAA.

The Chiefs were led by Alyson Young with a 54. Sandra Pavlo added a 56; Lindsay Miller shot 61 and Jessica Dumas had a 62.

The Patriots were led by Beth Parnell with a 54.

Plymouth Salem

They knew what they were in for — trouble. And that's just what the Rocks got when defending Class B-C-D state champ Grosse Ile paid them a visit for a non-league meet Tuesday at Hilltop.

The Red Devils were on target, shooting a school-record 169 in posting the victory. Salem scored 216.

Kathy Lott led Grosse Ile with a 39.

Salem played without Katie Collins, who was out due to illness. Katie Murinas shot 47, Jessica Hedges had a 54, Julie Licata had a 57 and Chrystal Kopacz scored 58.

It was not a good day for the Rocks, particularly after they shot a 192 in beating Walled Lake Western, which shot 202, Monday at Hilltop.

The win over Western evened Salem's WLAA dual-meet record at 1-1; the Rocks are 1-2 in dual meets overall.

Collins led Salem Monday with a 43. Murinas followed with a 44, Hedges shot 49 and Kopacz had a 56.

Canton and Salem travel to the Pinckney Invitational Friday.

Madonna cranks it up as NAIA tournament draws near

COLLEGE

Madonna University's softball team ran its win streak to six in Monday's double-header with Concordia College, played at Livonia's Ladywood HS.

That, however, was as far as the streak would go. After the Lady Crusaders' 8-1 triumph in the opener, the Cardinals scored five unearned runs to beat them 5-1 in the nightcap.

On Tuesday, Madonna began its streak anew by sweeping Albion College, 10-1 and 16-1, both in five-inning mercys at Albion. The two wins gave the Crusaders eight wins in their last nine games and improved their record to 28-16-1 overall.

Albion fell to 7-30; Concordia is 32-14.

The schedule may be hectic, but Madonna must prepare for the NAIA Great Lakes Section Softball Tournament, which the Crusaders host beginning today through Saturday at Ladywood HS. In today's opening round, second-seed Mount St. Joseph (OH) goes against third-seed Cardinal Stritch (Wis.) at 2 p.m.; Madonna, the first seed, plays Marian (Wis.) at 4 p.m. Both games are at Ladywood.

The winners meet at 2 p.m. Friday; the losers meet at noon Friday in the double-elimination tournament. The first game of the championship round will be at noon Saturday; if necessary, a second game will be played at 2 p.m. Saturday.

In last Tuesday's first game, Dawn Shaffer slugged a grand slam home run in the second inning, her sixth homer of the season, to spark a six-run outburst. Marissa Mittleman added two doubles among her three hits and drove in three runs; Jamie Vickers had three hits and two RBI; Jeanie Baxter (from Redford St. Agatha) had two hits and scored three runs; and Jamie Heins had a double and two RBI.

Shanna Price was the winning pitcher, allowing one run on five hits and one walk over five innings, with two strikeouts. The win improved Price's record to 14-7.

In the second game, Shaffer was even more formidable. She riddled the Britons for four hits, including a double and a triple, and four RBI.

Stacey Piontkowski had three hits and an RBI; Heins and Vicki Malkowski each had two hits and two RBI; Baxter had two hits and an RBI; and Ann Bagazinski (from Livonia Franklin) had two hits and scored four runs.

Janell Leschinger was the winning pitcher; she worked the first four innings, giving up one run on four hits without issuing a walk, striking out three. The win boosted her record to 5-3.

Against Concordia Monday, Angie VanDoorn handcuffed the Cardinals on four hits in the first game; she allowed one earned run, running her record to 9-5.

The game was tied at 1-1 going into the bottom of the sixth inning. Madonna broke that tie by scoring six times in the inning.

Shaffer and Baxter each had two hits in the game, Baxter driving in a run. Christy Riopelle had a hit and two RBI.

In the second game, Price surrendered five unearned run on seven hits and three walks, taking the loss. Audra Block worked five innings for Concordia, giving up no earned runs.

Madonna 6-8, Aquinas 3-0: On Sunday at Ladywood HS in Livonia, the Lady Crusaders got solid pitching and better hitting in dispatching Aquinas College twice.

In the 6-3 opening game win, Madonna outhit the Saints 9-4. Stephanie Dye had two hits, one a double, and drove in two runs to lead the attack; Dawn Shaffer added two hits, and both Jeanie Baxter and Melissa McGue contributed a hit and an RBI.

Shanna Price gave up three runs on four hits and two walks, with three strikeouts, to earn the pitching win.

In the second game, Angie VanDoorn tossed a five-hit, one-walk shutout, striking out four in six innings. Madonna force the eight-run mercy rule by scoring six times in the bottom of the sixth, making it 8-0.

Big bats in Madonna's 11-hit attack belonged to Ann Bagazinski, Shawna Greene and Jamie Vickers, each with two hits; Vickers and Greene scored two runs apiece.

Shaffer and Stacey Piontkowski both had a double and two RBI, and Baxter had a hit and an RBI.

Madonna 7-12, Tri-State 2-1: The Lady Crusaders made quick work of Tri-State University Saturday in Angola, Ind.

Madonna totaled 27 hits in the double-header sweep, with Dawn Shaffer getting three hits and an RBI in the first game and adding two hits and two RBI in the second.

Vicki Malkowski chipped in with four hits (in eight at-bats) and two RBI; Melissa McGue was 3-for-5 with an RBI and three runs scored; Jeanie Baxter was 3-for-7 with five RBI; and Jamie Vickers, Shawna Greene and Stephanie Piontkowski each had two hits and two RBI.

Shanna Price stopped Tri-State with six shutout innings, allowing three hits and striking out four to earn the first-game victory. Angie VanDoorn was the winner in the second game; she worked four innings, allowing no runs on one hit and two walks, striking out six.

Chiefs come close

TRACK

Plymouth Canton's girls track team went to the Cougar Invitational meet in Grand Rapids and almost came back a winner.

Canton missed first place by a solitary point Saturday, scoring 132 1/3 to winning Haslett's 133 1/3 total in the nine-team meet.

" It was a good meet," Chief Coach George Przygodski said. "It was good to get out of town and see some teams from across the state. We're off to a good start."!

The Chiefs won three events but were second or third in many others.

Erin Stadd took the 100 meter hurdles with a time of16.5, just .4 better than third-place finisher Amy Sonnanstine's time.

The 400-meter relay team of Kim Robertson, Tiffany Williams, Doris Igwe and Nkechi Okwumabua turned in a winning time of 53.2 and Nancy Hoffman captured the 300 hurdles in 48.7.

Okwumabua was second in the 100-meter dash in 13.2 while Becky Wolfrom was runnerup in the 3200 mates at 12:09.0

Two Canton relay teams finished second. The quartet of Robertson, Williams, Hoffman and Becky Uryga was runnerup in the 800 relay while Williams and Hoffman teamed with Crystal Alderman and Uryga to take second in the 1600 relay in 4:19.6.

Brandi Bernard was third in the discus with a throw of 105-9, Amanda Grube was third in the shot put with an effort of 32-3. Kim Theeke took third in the high jump with a jump of 4-8.

Canton's 3200 meter relay team of Bernard, Sara Rucinski, Angkana Roy and Uryga was third with a 10:19.8 clocking.

Wolfrom was third at 1600 meters (5:37.0); Uryga took third in the 400 (1:02.6) and Bernard was third in the 800 (2:30.0).

"Urgya had an oustanding day," Przygodski said. "She participated in four events and did very well.

"Tiffany Williams had a outstanding meet. And so did Stadd, that was her best time in the 100 hurdles.

"And Wolfrom, that's the best double in the 1600 and 3200 that she's ever had. Everybody ran very well."

Salem 103, Farmington 34 (boys): Last Thursday, Plymouth Salem ran its dual-meet record to 2-1 overall, 1-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association, with a rout of host Farmington.

The Falcons are winless in three duals, 0-2 in the WLAA.

Rob Hawley paced the Rocks with three individual first-place finishes: in the long jump (18-feet, 6 1/4-inches), and both the 110-meter (15.15) and 300-meter (41.4) hurdles.

Dave Hester also won two events for Salem, the discus (128-0) and the shot put (40-5).

Other individual winners for the Rocks were Mike Shull in the 100 (11.16); Scott Kingslien in the 200 (23.3); Matt Fair in the 400 (53.94); Andy Briggs in the 800 (2:08.6); and Ian Searcy in the 1,600 (4:45.6).

Shull, Lawrence Nunn, Chris Mason and James Chapman combined to win the 400 relay for Salem (46.7); Nunn, Shull, Mason and Kingslien were first in the 800 (1:37.16); and Kingslien, Jon Little, Kevin Conte and Fair took top honors in the 3,200 (9:11.64).

Glenn was the runaway winner of the Elks Relays and has lost only to Ann Arbor Huron in five dual meets. Salem, CC and Farmington Hills Harrison are the strongest challengers.

The Rockets could lend comfortably after the field events, where they are favored in both the long jump and high jump relays and are strong contenders in the throwing events.

Livonia Franklin has the best pole vaulter, senior Paul Terek, who has already cleared 15-6, but the Rockets have a chance to score there, too, with Randy Glenn and Mike Rebant each clearing 12-0.

The Rockets are led by one of Observerland's top athletes, senior David Jarrett, who set a new school record last week (23 feet, 6 1/2 inches) in the long jump.

Joining Jarrett in the long jump are Tim Moore, who has leaped 21-1, and Andre Dawson, who has jumped 19-7 1/2.

The high jumpers include Mike Phillips and Moore, who have cleared 6-2, and Devin White, who has cleared 5-10.

"By the end of the field events, they could be kicking butt," Baker said.

Jarrett also runs the open 100 meters and could contribute in the sprint relays. The 400 relay is intact with sophomore Reggie Spearmon, seniors Steve Hester and Aaron Stephens and junior Harden James recording the area's second best time at 44.3.

The same will run the 800 with the possible exception of Jarrett, who may be the anchor.

"I imagine we'll probably be put in that role (of favorite)," Glenn coach Jess Shough said. "We've always been contenders. If we have a chance to do well, we have to do so in the field events. That's where we've had success and hope anyway to keep doing that."

Salem's strength is in the distance events, where juniors Scott Kingslien, Andy Briggs and Ian Searcy excel.

Rob Hawley gives the Rocks hope in the hurdles.

"We're going to try to score in every event and by the time the end of the meet comes around, maybe we're hanging around," Baker said. "That's our philosophy."

CC should be boosted by the return of its top thrower, Brian Douglas, who has battled mononucleosis all spring.

Even without Douglas, the Shamrocks have three of the top six shot putters, led by Dan Dominguez with an area best toss of 53-2 1/4. The Shamrocks' foursome of Wayne Brigee, Craig Skalski, John Faunce and Chris Laney also have the area's best 3,200 time (8:25.0).

"We should do well in the discus, shot and distance events," Magni said. "According to what you see in the paper and at the Elks Relays where no one was even close, it's going to be Glenn (in first). But I tell my guys if you can't be first, get a trophy. That's our goal."

Harrison's foursome of Keith Battle, Chris Knox, Jerrard Johnson and Jason Sharpe, have the best time in the 400 relay (43.4) and 800 relay (1:30.3).

Senior Nick Shaieb, who has Observerland's best throw in the discus with a toss of 162-7, gives the Hawks hope in the throwing events.

The Hawks are 4-0 in dual meets and won the Novi and Milan Relays.

"We've always been close but no cigar," Harrison coach John Reed said. "We have strength in our balance. We have ability to score in every event opposed to being just heavy in sprints."

Livonia Stevenson might not challenge in the team standings, but the Spartans distance relays will be tough. They have the area's best distance runner, Rob Block, clocking the top time in both the 1,600 (4:36) and 3,200 run (9:51.3).

a sacrifice fly, scoring the go-ahead run and bringing in Noonan with another run on a throwing error.

Opalinski then stole third and raced home on a wild throw to third, making it 6-3 in favor of Canton.

Kwiatkowski, Horton and Van Hull each had two hits and an RBI for Canton; Horton had two doubles.

Last Friday, Walled Lake Western defeated the Chiefs 7-2, behind the five-hit pitching of Kevin Thomas. Mortiere took the loss for Canton, allowing five runs on four hits and seven walks in five innings, with two strikeouts.

"I'm happy with the way we're playing, both defensively and hitting the ball," said Canton coach Scott Dickey. "You just can't walk that many."

The game was tied at 2-2 until the fifth, when Mortiere walked the bases full then surrendered a three-run double to Jason Brewer.

Canton tied it in the fourth on Noonan's double, Opalinski's run-producing triple, and Kwiatkowski's RBI single. Kwiatkowski finished the game with two hits.

W.L. Central 5, Salem 2: Walled Lake Central stayed atop the WLAA's Lakes Division, thanks to a three-run, sixth-inning rally Monday at Central.

The loss dropped the Rocks to 7-6 overall, 1-4 in the Lakes.

Kurt Berlin started for Salem and carried a 2-2 tie into the sixth inning. After the first two hitters singled, Salem coach Dale Rumberger summoned Kevin Niemiec to the mound.

A sacrifice moved the baserunners to second and third, and Joe Paletta followed with a sacrifice fly to center. When the runner at second tried to advance, the throw went to third — but it was wild, allowing the runner to score, making it 4-2.

Steve Crepeau then followed with a solo home run for the Vikings.

Salem's only runs came in the first. Ryan Rumberger and Alec Ras started it with singles; a double-steal moved them to second and third, and Dave Barker's single scored them both.

Andrew Higgins was the winning pitcher for the Vikings. He also had two hits for Central; so, too, did Dan Drapal.

PCA 3-4, Adrian Madison 2-1: You know things are going well when, after giving up the go-ahead run in the top of the eighth inning, your team scores twice in the bottom of the inning to keep your win streak alive.

That's just what happened to Plymouth Christian Academy against visiting Adrian Madison Monday, in a double-header played at Griffin Park.

With the first game tied at 1-1 after seven innings, Madison scored a run in the top of the eighth to go up 2-1. Chris DeRenzo's RBI single tied the game in the bottom half of the inning, then Derrick Isensee drove home James Jones with the game-winning run.

Jim Speier, who allowed one run on two hits and two walks, striking out seven in three innings of relief, was the Eagles' winning pitcher.

DeRenzo, who singled in Randy Dahlman with PCA's first run in the opening inning, and Dahlman and Isensee had two hits apiece.

In the second game, Isensee doubled in a run in the first inning and the Eagles scored twice more on errors as PCA breezed to the victory. Jones struck out seven and didn't walk a batter in guiding PCA to its eighth-straight victory.

The Eagles are 10-3. Madison fell to 3-7.

Reissenweber assisted on a goal by Melissa Marzolf in the first minute of the second half then scored twice in a row to sew it up. Marzolf assisted on one of the final two goals.

The final two goals also came in the first seven minutes of the second half and the Chiefs limited the Falcons to three shots while putting 21 on goal themselves.

Kristin Lukasik was in goal for Canton to help the Chiefs raise their record to 7-0-1.

IS SPRING YOUR TIME FOR FUN OR WEEKEND OVERTIME?

It's your choice: You can spend this springtime playing softball, shooting golf, or fishing. Or you can work for a company that forces you to work weekends.

That can't happen when you work at The Budd Company, because weekend work is strictly voluntary. If you want big, overtime paychecks, the work is always there. But if you want to set aside time for rest, relaxation and family fun, you can. With no penalty or threat to your job security, either.

Right now, Budd has the following openings on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd shifts:

Tool & Die Makers
Troubleshooting and die maintenance experience is required, large body-panel experience preferred.

Electricians/Electronics
Robot programming experience preferred.

For both positions, you must have a Journeyman card or eligibility.

We offer excellent compensation and benefits, including pension plan, 401(k), and performance bonus. Please apply in person, between 7am and 4pm at our plant located at the corner of Charlevoix and Conner in Detroit. For more information, please call (313) 823-9314. Or mail your resume to: The Budd Company, Dept. 0427, 12141 Charlevoix, Detroit, MI 48215.

NRC considering deer hunting changes

OUTDOOR INSIGHTS

BILL PARKER

Some of the most radical changes in years to Michigan's deer hunting regulations could be approved next week when the Michigan Natural Resource Commission meets on Wednesday and Thursday at the Lansing Center.

Some of the changes suggested by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources include establishing a stand-alone antlerless deer permit in certain areas of the state that would be sold on a first-come, first-served basis. A hunter would be able to purchase these permits at a rate of one-per-day until that specific Deer Management Unit's quota is reached.

The traditional antlerless permit lottery would continue, but the application deadline would be moved up from Sept. 24 to August 1 so the stand-alone permits could be used during the early archery season.

Boundaries of some of the state's Deer Management Unit's may also be changed to allow more antlerless permits in areas of high deer density.

Most of the proposed changes are in an effort to reduce Michigan's flourishing deer herd from 2 million to approximately 1.3 million.

There is also a possibility that the NRC will adopt a buck management strategy that would limit the second-buck tag for use exclusively on a buck with no less than four points on one side of his rack. This strategy is an attempt to enable more bucks to reach the second and third year of antler development.

Stay tuned on this issue.

Salmon Stakes success

Saturday's 19th annual River Crab Salmon Stakes charity fishing tournament was a huge success. Not only did the tournament raise $100,210 to fight child abuse and neglect and aid family counseling services statewide, but there was also a record catch of 1,375.13 pounds of salmon and brown trout.

The tournament, based at the River Crab Restaurant in St. Clair and held on the southern waters of Lake Huron, has now raised over $900,000 to aid family service agencies across the state. The late Chuck Muer and his friend Al Tyrrell started the tournament in 1985.

The biggest catch of the day was a 15.70-pound King salmon. The largest steelhead weighed 5.55 pounds, the biggest Brown trout weighed 9.6 pounds and the largest Coho salmon weighed 3.4 pounds.

Volunteers needed

Friends of Pontiac Lake Recreation Area and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources are looking for volunteers to help spruce up the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area on "Spring-Clean Our State Park Day", Saturday, May 18. The park is located north of M-59 of Gale Road in Waterford Twp.

The event, which will run 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will help remove household debris, auto parts and other trash from the perimeter of the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area.

Scouting groups, nature and sporting clubs, businesses, church groups, individuals and families are invited.

"Last year we cleaned out more than 30 tires, an engine block, and sofas and chairs from our woods," said Fred Tyszka, supervisor at the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area. "It's sad that people use our park to dump their trash. Now we need help from the community to clean it up."

Volunteers should bring their own gloves, rakes and shovels. A free lunch will be provided to all who help and Clarkston Disposal will provide a dumpster for the collected trash.

Call (810) 666-1020 for more information.

Fish ladder dedicated

If you've ever had dreams of catching steelhead on the Huron River upstream from the Flat Rock Dam those dreams can now turn to reality.

Thanks to a combined effort of concerned citizens, the Huron River Fishing Association and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, a fish ladder has been built and is operating at the Flat Rock Dam. The structure, the largest volunteer-built fish ladder in Michigan, will allow steelhead and other fish to pass over the dam and continue upstream as far as the Belleville Dam, opening miles of the river to quality fishing.

The Flat Rock Fish Ladder will officially be dedicated at 1 p.m. Saturday in Flat Rock.

Anglers and hunters are urged to report their success. Questions and comments are also encouraged. Send information to 805 E. Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax information to (810) 644-1314 or call Bill Parker, evenings at (810) 901-2573.

Area schools top CC's academic tourney

St. Robert Bellarmine in Redford Township won the fifth annual Invitational Eighth Grade Academic Team Tournament held in March at Catholic Central High School.

St. Robert's won its first first place in the tournament. The school has entered each year of the tournament and fared well consistently under the tutelage of Rose Dugas.

Invitations were sent to about 60 schools. A field of 16 teams was chosen to compete in a day long series of games to challenge the skills of seventh and eighth graders in the area.

St. Michael's School in Livonia placed second. They, too, have entered each year and placed in the top half of the schools entering. Susan Lininger has led the team to the top group each year.

Another five-year "veteran" squad is the team from Our Lady of Good Counsel School in Plymouth. This year they finished third overall under the direction of Pat Fair.

The fourth-place winner was a newcomer to the CC Invitational this year. Hartland Farms Middle School, coached by Pat Richards, rounded out the top squads.

All participants in the tournament received certificates of participation, as well as breakfast and lunch served by the CC Quiz Bowl Moms. The schools placing in the top four, received trophies for their accomplishments, along with the opportunity to vie for an academic award to attend CC.

Other schools in this year's tournament were: Livonia's St. Edith, Garden City's St. Raphael, Redford's Our Lady of Loretto, Redford's St. Valentine, SS. Peter and Paul of Detroit, Northville Christian School, Gaudior Academy in Redford Township, South Lyon Middle School and Central Middle and West Middle schools both from Plymouth Canton.

Schoolcraft plans summer orchestra school for students

Young musicians can perform with a professional string orchestra during Schoolcraft College's Summer Music School.

The school, which is for older elementary through high school students, is divided into two two-week sessions.

July 14-25 features solo piano and piano duets instruction. During July 28-Aug. 8, the focus is on chamber music and piano concerto performance with the live performance.

The cost is $245 for a two-week term. For information or to schedule an audition time, contact Donald Morelock (313) 462-4400, ext. 5218.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile Roads, just west of I-275.

Ameritech grant funds tech training at Madonna

Most of the time Michigan's independent colleges compete with each other for students, faculty and funds. However, this week, thanks to an Ameritech grant, they worked side-by-side to develop ways to integrate technology in the classroom.

Ameritech granted $110,000 to the Michigan Colleges Foundation to create the Ameritech Faculty Development Technology Program — a technology training program for faculty at 11 of MCF's 14 member colleges. The program was launched at Madonna University this week.

Other workshops will take place this summer at Madonna University, Calvin College and Albion College.

Ameritech-Michigan President Bob Cooper urged workshop participants to get involved. "Whether your familiarity with electronic communication tools is just beginning, or relatively advanced, I encourage you to participate fully in all of the workshops and to share your expertise," Cooper said.

Every Michigan college is faced with the challenge of integrating technology in the classroom. "Pooling our human resources and ideas, along with Ameritech's grant makes the task less daunting," said Bill Liebold, MCF president.

Liebold said that rather than prescribe a one-size-fits-all solution, the collaborative effort helps each college build training solutions that fit the individual institution's needs.

At the program kickoff, more than 85 college representatives from across the state participated in one of the following three workshops:

■ Teaching with Technology — an introduction to e-mail, the Internet, and presentation software.

■ Distance Learning — a session on two-way interactive video and creating curriculum for use with the technology.

■ Support staff issues — a workshop to help those who work in the help desk capacity develop solutions to their problems.

Workshop teams will get back together during the summer to develop curriculum on the three issues. A wrap-up and sharing session will be scheduled in the fall.

"All of the materials developed in the workshops will be put in a 'toolbox' on the MCF web site to facilitate communication, planning and idea sharing," Liebold said.

The Michigan Colleges Foundation is a non-profit corporation organized in 1949 to provide an efficient and effective medium through which business and industry can invest in Michigan's independent colleges. MCF is one of 38 similar state and regional associations throughout the nation.

Ameritech has supported MCF for more than 40 years, and in that time has given more than $1 million to the 14 member schools. The $110,000 grant to fund the technology program is nearly double Ameritech's annual average for MCF.

Ameritech serves millions of customers in 50 states and 40 countries. Ameritech provides a full range of communications services, including local and long distance telephone, cellular, paging, security monitoring, cable television, electronic commerce, on-line services and more.

One of the world's 100 largest companies, Ameritech (www.ameritech.com) has 66,000 employees, 1 million shareholders and $23 billion in assets.

Thyme has uses time after time

MARTY FIGLEY

Next week is National Herb Week, and to celebrate that fact, the International Herb Association of Mundelein, Ill., has announced that thyme (Thymus) has been named the herb of the year.

This annual celebration was established by the INA in 1992 to "inform the public about how herbs affect all of our lives."

Thyme has been used for centuries as an incense in religious ceremonies and to fumigate. The balsamic fragrance of the plant spoke of graceful elegance and was an expression of praise and admiration. It has antiseptic properties, recorded by the Roman poet Virgil (70-19 B.C.).

Young ladies often embroidered a sprig of thyme and a bee on the tunic of their knights so the knights would return safely to them after battle.

Why the bee? It was probably used because folklore ascribed the bee as a messenger and because the flavor of honey from the thyme nectar gathered by bees is reportedly outstanding. There are numerous other folklore stories about this little plant.

Shakespeare referred to thyme in his writings – "I know a place where the wild thyme blows..." It was also used in Christ's manger where it imparted a sweet, clean fragrance.

Growing

Thyme is a very easy herb to grow, undemanding and yet rewarding. There are more than 400 varieties of the species and when they are grown close to one another, may crossbreed. That undoubtedly explains why there are so

Little items, big sale

Many minis: These are just two of the 300 dolls and 700 pieces of furniture featured in the sale of a museum-quality miniature collection 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday-Saturday, May 2-3, at Miniature Makers' Workshop, 4515 N. Woodward in Royal Oak. Call (810) 549-0633. The 18th century harpsichord shown here is by Ralph Partelow of Colorado and the doll by Paulette Stinson of Indiana; the "Gone With the Wind" dolls are by Stinson. Many of the pieces, handcrafted on the standard of one inch to the actual foot, are by nationally known artisans. Among the area craftspeople whose work is featured are Sue Foucher of Farmington Hills and Elizabeth Staryk of West Bloomfield. The one-of-a-kind work of many of the artisans was displayed in the 1993 "Masterpieces in Miniature II" show co-sponsored by the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association and Miniature Makers' Workshop.

The nomenclature of the plants can get quite confusing, but some of them are so alike, only trained specialists can tell the difference.

Not all will survive in zone 5, but many of them will and they do contribute much to the herb garden. It is a versatile plant that can cascade over a rock or low wall, fill in pockets in the patio, billow around stepping stones and be quite at home in a container.

Thyme originated in the Mediterranean countries and does best when the soil isn't too rich. Overly fertilized, rich, heavy soil and too much water probably kills more thyme plants than does neglect. They like well-draining, porous soil and most varieties prefer full sun. If you keep them pruned, new growth is encouraged.

I grow five kinds of thyme in my garden and love them all. I believe my favorite is Lemon Thyme (Thymus x citriodorus), which I find flavors green beans to perfection. It grows around a small sundial in the garden.

Common or English Thyme (T. vulgaris) is a staple plant that has a more upright growing habit, doesn't spread as readily as many of the others and is another excellent culinary thyme.

Golden Thyme (I don't know the variety – there are several) adds a golden glow among the stepping stones, and blends prettily with a dark green Creeping Thyme (again there are many). One of the first plants I put in the garden was Woolly Thyme, which grows among the rocks in the little garden under the dogwood tree.There are so many varieties that you must make your own decision about preferences. You can choose from those with culinary or ornamental purposes.I have used the creeping varieties to make little wreaths, and especially enjoy the garden when they all bloom in their pink, blue or lavender dresses. The leaves also add a sweet scent to potpourris.

Cool sophistication gives warm welcome

At Home Editor

Cool sophistication that extends a warm welcome. That describes the Bloomfield Hills residence of Rick and Joyce Inatome and their four children.

It could be said that the style reflects the Inatome reputation. Rick Inatome, president and CEO of Inacom Corp. and American Speedy Printing, is known as a business visionary. The house is visionary – contemporary and timeless, dramatic and comfortable.

Inatome will be honored as Michigan's Man of the Year at the Golden Jubilee Cinderella Ball of the American Lung Association of Michigan's Women's Committee. The ball, which supports programs designed to promote healthy lungs, will take place Friday, May 2, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Dearborn.

"When we were out in California everything was pastels," Joyce Inatome said. "About two years ago I couldn't stand pastels. I tried to get something more dramatic."

She wanted something that was comfortable at the same time. For example, the carpeting was peach.

"It was a 'look but don't touch' look."

Taupe was the solution. As the color throughout the first floor, it allows subtle touches that speak softly while they make an impression. Accents come from black, tan and white tones.

The family has lived in the house for eight years. It was designed by TMP of Bloomfield Hills and built by Joyce Inatome's father before he retired. His custom home building company was William J. Kitchen and Sons.

The foyer features a high, soaring ceiling and a black-and-beige area rug. Round columns bear what resembles marble but is actually made up of strips like decoupage. This marble appearance is found in other places around the house, including at the staircase and on other walls.

Sunlight pours into the sunken great room through large rectangular windows. Recessed lighting provides illumination from overhead. Furnishings include a metal floor lamp, and a low, square coffee table with legs in a dark, graceful curve. A pattern in upholstery on chairs is similar to the design on a vase.

One end of the room is cozy, a little room in itself, featuring an antique white cabinet with cylindrical, scroll-like handles that houses the TV. The area rug pattern here, in taupe and dark shades, looks like a mosaic.

White columns stand under a speckled granite island counter in the kitchen; drawers and other storage space are under the granite top as well. Sink fixtures are black. Chairs at the island and at a long table in the spacious room are black metal, but their slightly rough texture keeps them from appearing cold. Over the table hangs a chandelier with a sleek design.

The dining room features a large, black granite table with gold decoration on the legs. The upholstery on the curving chairs contains a pattern of Oriental lettering. Leaves flow upward on the chandelier. At one end, by the sheer drapes of the window, is a pair of plain, translucent Japanese screens. The window looks onto a small Oriental garden.

White pillars give an architectural accent in the family room. Nearby walls are textured, covered with polymer that was sprayed on with a pressurized gun over the old wallpaper. Small flecks of gentle light can be seen.

Rick Inatome also is chairman of Liberty Business and Industrial Development Corporation; and co-president of Michigan Future Inc., a think tank of Michigan industrial leaders. Gov. John Engler appointed him to the Michigan Jobs Commission Board and to chair the advisory board of the Michigan Information Network.

Inatome is being recognized at the Cinderella Ball for his distinguished business career as well as his dedication to civic and charitable projects and organizations.

Residents from Beverly Hills, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Canton, Farmington Hills, Franklin, Orchard Lake, Plymouth, Rochester Hills, Troy and West Bloomfield are among those on the 1997 Cinderella Ball Committee.

Also at the ball, Michelle Engler will be honored as Michigan's Woman of the Year; the Heritage Award will be given to Art and Mary Anne Van Elslander; and a painting by renowned portrait artist Patricia Hill Burnett of Bloomfield Hills will be auctioned. Entertainment will be by Mel Ball and Colours.

Tickets to the event range from $175 to $1,000 each. For more information and tickets, call the American Lung Association of Michigan at (810) 559-5100.

Roofing: you get what you pay for

Q: I noticed that my shingles are curling on my roof. I know that it is an indication that I will need a new roof soon. I have contacted some local small companies, as well as larger ones. I was shocked to see huge price differences. Could you explain how it is they come up with these?

A. Pricing variations could be the result of several different factors. Here are some details about where I think the differences in pricing may be:

1. Lumber – Depending on how long your roof may have been leaking (if at all), you may need some new wood underneath your new shingles. Some contractors opt to add in an amount the they think may be necessary to cover this cost. Being that no one really knows how much rotted wood may be on the roof until if it stripped, some contractors will not figure on any lumber in their estimate which helps to keep their bid lower.

2. Shingles – One contractor may bid a job using a 20-year shingle, yet another may be bidding the job using a 25-year shingle. The price difference on the 25-year shingle is small per bundle,but it adds up quickly on an entire roof.

3. Strip vs. recover – Stripping a roof is always more expensive than a recover (installing new shingles on top of existing). Local and state codes require a roof to have no more than two layers so the contractor should bid accordingly.

4. Insurance – Any time you have any work done to your home, make sure that the contractor carries insurance. This will always add to the price, however, if the contractor who does not have insurance falls off your roof, guess who he must sue. The answer would be you personally as your homeowner's insurance would not cover the claim. Ask the contractor, before they start the work, for a copy of their current insurance policy if you are concerned.

5. Here today, gone tomorrow – Unfortunately, I have seen several cases of the "smaller contractor" getting the job due to the low bid, and then taking off with the deposit, never to return to do the work. Make sure the person doing the job is licensed through the state of Michigan, so someone can hold them accountable if they decide to do this.

6. Slope – Never seeing your house, I am assuming that the roof has at least a 4/12 pitch. This is the minimum requirement to shingle a roof. Otherwise the contractor would need to apply a torch down material instead of conventional shingles. This means that if a roof has too low of a pitch, shingles cannot be applied due to poor ice, snow or water runoff. Shingle manufacturers will also avoid the warranty if shingles are applied to anything less than a 4/12 pitch.

7. Venting – A roof needs to breathe so roof vents and soffit vents are a must. Some contractors like to install roof vents which are fine, but others prefer to use ridge vent which makes the roof look nicer. Ridge vents are more aesthetically pleasing, however they are much more expensive than the standard vent.

Summer Sounds

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

After a lackluster 1996 summer concert season, the lineups at a host of area venues show more promise for this season with Beck, Counting Crows, Ozzy Osbourne with Black Sabbath, Queensryche, Patti LaBelle and the Winans already confirmed.

"It looks like it's going to be a really nice summer," said Dianna Frank, promoter for Ritual Inc. "I don't know what this means for the regular shed tour like a Herman's Hermits reunion but we're busier than ever this year. There's Beck (at the Phoenix Plaza), but if you look on the bigger end of things there's, at Pine Knob, Marilyn Manson, Dave Matthews Band, Counting Crows, 311. It's starting out good."

Ritual books shows at a variety of Detroit-area venues including Industry, Clutch Cargo's, the Phoenix Plaza, and 7th House in Pontiac; Pine Knob Music Theatre in Independence Township; and St. Andrew's Hall/The Shelter and State Theater in Detroit.

Jeff Corey of Palace Sports and Entertainment's marketing department agrees with Frank.

"On first appearance I would agree. I'm not sure if it's totally the case when we see the end of the schedule versus last year. But we've announced many more shows at this point in the summer than we have last year or previous years," Corey said.

Pine Knob Music Theatre in Independence Township is hosting a variety of top-notch acts ranging from the gospel group The Winans to shock rockers Marilyn Manson. So far tickets for nearly 35 shows have gone on sale for Pine Knob Music Theatre and Meadow Brook Music Festival which are owned by Palace Sports and Entertainment.

Besides an improved line-up Pine Knob is boasting more than $1 million in improvements which will include lawn fixed seating by the end of the season.

"Over the past three years we added lawn video screens, roaming vendors and additional stairways to improve the experience of our concert-goers with lawn tickets," said Tom Wilson, president of Palace Sports and Entertainment.

"We are doing this since Pine Knob's growing annual attendance means more of our guests utilize the lawn for seating. Adding the bleacher seating this summer will increase our capacity so more concert-goers will be able to

MOT's 'Marriage of Figaro' captures Mozart's genius for melody

BY FRANK PROVENZANO
STAFF WRITER

Nearly at the completion of his one-year apprenticeship with the Michigan Opera Theatre, bass singer Frank Pitts has arrived at a revelation. "Opera is not just the 'Fat Lady' singing," said the Rochester Hills resident.

That type of light-hearted understatement is perfectly suited for the flowing spectacle of "The Marriage of Figaro," considered by critics and audiences alike as the most entertaining operatic comedy ever.

MOT's production of Mozart's well-known opera, featuring Pitts and several local residents, opens this Saturday and runs through May 17. An additional performance was added in response to the unexpected strong public demand. Increasing ticket sales along with MOT's expanded 1997-98 performance schedule are sure signs that Motown is gaining international recognition for another type of music.

Few other operas are as accessible as Mozart's masterpiece. Novices merely have to appreciate Figaro's familiar aria "Non piu andrai" ("Say good-bye now to pastime and play, lad"), the finale to Act I, to grasp the broader dimension of melodrama put to song.

"The genius of Mozart is that he plums the depth of emotion and delineates characters with music that's perfectly structured, yet highly expressive," said David DiChiera, MOT general director. "He summed up the Classical period and ushered in the Romantic period."

For those who consider opera esoteric and designed exclusively for the trained ears of multi-lingual aristocrats, think of "The Marriage of Figaro" as "Seinfeld" in the realm of recitative and aria – opera for every man. The lasting influence of comedy, as they say, is in the sub text, or what isn't said explicitly. For wit and characterization with an ever-twisting slapstick timing, "The Marriage of Figaro" is an operatic can't miss.

While "Seinfeld" is a show about, well, nothing in particular, Mozart's deft transformation of Pierre Beumarchais' controversial play has the appearance of a harmless slapstick adventure about, well, "Yada, yada, yada..." Of course, some may ask questions about meaning and historical context.

On a superficial level, "The Marriage of Figaro" takes place on the day of Figaro's wedding to Susanna. Both are servants of the Count and Countess Almaviva. The Count tries cunningly to win Susanna's "favor" before the marriage. Spin offs from the main story line, to use Seinfeldean logic, is a lot of "yada, yada, yada" with amorous characters eventually finding hormonal closure.

On Stage
What: "Marriage of Figaro," an opera in four acts by Mozart presented by the Michigan Opera Theatre
Where: Detroit Opera House, 1526 Broadway, Detroit
When: May 3,4,7,9-11, 17; 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Friday, Saturdays; 2 p.m. on Sundays.
Tickets: $20-$75; (313) 874-7464, (810) 645-6666.

But more importantly, there's a strong revolutionary aesthetic running through Mozart's opera.

In the late 18th century Europe, there was a fermenting undercurrent of class resentment between the peasantry and bourgeoisie. In the early 1780s, Beumarchias' play was banned because it presented a servant, Figaro, who proves superior – at least in matters of the heart – to his master, Count Almaviva. After the Vienna Emperor Joseph II was convinced that all political inflammatory elements were discarded from the play, Mozart's adaptation was allowed to open. That was 1786, three years before the French Revolution destroyed the ruling European aristocracies.

Nineteenth-century German composer Richard Wagner, whose opera "The Flying Dutchman" carries on in a much heavier Romantic spirit, noted how Mozart's opera transcended the times. "Beaumarchais' play contains cunning and calculating beetles while in Mozart they are transfigured into human beings."

While unflinchingly comedic, the opera is hardly uncomplicated, said John Paul White, a professor of music at Oakland University and professional opera singer. "The style of 'Figaro,' which is basically talking on pitch is modern musical theatre," he said. "And until then, it was unusual for an opera to focus on very common people."

"The Marriage of Figaro" also presents an uncommon opportunity for Joe Pokorski of Rochester Hills. In the role of Don Curzio, Pokorski faces the challenge of singing with a stutter as the serious, yet difficult-to-take-seriously barrister. At 23, he is one of the youngest and most promising cast members.

"There's an excitement and thrill when performing at the (Opera) House like your body is being torn in half," said Pokorski, who has appeared in MOT's "La Traviata and "La Boheme." Two days after "The Marriage of Figaro" closes in mid May, Pokorski will travel to Germany, where he'll sing lead tenor in the international cast of "Phantom of the Opera."

Meanwhile, longtime MOT performer Frank Buchalter of Troy, brings an every man approach to his role. By day, Buchalter is the program director at WKQI-FM. Beginning on Saturday, Buchalter, who's performed with MOT since 1979, will sing in the chorus.

"I tell people, 'My (musical) interests range from 'Hootie and the Blowfish' to Mozart,'" he said. "I'm just happy to be one of the peasants."

attend our most popular, sellout-type shows."

The lawn fixed seating will allow 1,350 more patrons on the hill making the total capacity at the venue 16,624. By the beginning of the 1998 concert season concession stands will be built underneath the new seating area.

Other improvements planned for the summer include expanding the Pine Knob Courtyard, resurfacing the areas of the main parking lot, and adding landscaping and painting throughout the grounds. The venue will also switch to Independence Township's public water supply.

Mary Oleniczak, executive director of the Ann Arbor Summer Festival, said "some bigger named stars" are coming to the series which runs from June 21 to July 13 at the Power Center, Burton Memorial Tower, Lurie Carillon, and Blanche Anderson Moore Hall at the University of Michigan.

Junior Brown and the Saline Fiddlers Philharmonic kick off the festival Friday, June 21, with country singer Tammy Wynette, pop act the BoDeans, R&B's Neville Brothers, comedy act Capitol Steps, and diva Betty Buckley set to perform during the 14th annual season.

Rhythm and blues and jazz are on the docket at Chene Park Music Theatre on the Detroit River waterfront. Patti LaBelle, Isley Brothers, George Duke, Bobbi Humphrey, Will Downing and Phil Perry are among the confirmed acts. Chene Park promoter Thom Pride said that the "Jazz on the Beach" series at Belle Isle will return this summer.

Package deals

Music fans will get more bang for their buck this summer as package tours become more frequent. The Lilith Fair (Sarah McLachlan, Paula Cole, The Cardigans, and Fiona Apple), R.O.A.R. Tour (Iggy Pop, Sponge), Ozzfest (Ozzy Osbourne, Black Sabbath, Pantera among others), Fruit of the Loom Country Comfort Tour (Hank Williams Jr. Travis Tritt), Warped Tour (Mighty Mighty Bosstones, Social Distortion), Furthur Festival (Bob Weir, Mickey Hart), and Blues Music Festival (B.B. King, Robert Cray Band) are confirmed.

H.O.R.D.E. Festival organizers said that the festival featuring Neil Young, Morphine, Widespread Panic, and Primus is tentatively set to hit Pine Knob Sunday, July 27-Monday, July 28.

The Big Top Festival – rumored to include techno artists Banco de Gaia, BT, Spring Heel Jack, Fluke, Faithless, and Ninja Tunes' DJ Food, Coldcut, and Kid Koala – is also tentatively scheduled to come to Detroit this summer. Other techno packages are in the works.

Details on the Lollapalooza Festival were not available at press time but are expected to be announced soon.

Country concert promoter Nathan Vestal of Rochester's Southern Exposure public relations and promotions firm has Collin Raye, Crystal Bernard, and selected country music "baby bands" tentatively scheduled to perform at the Phoenix Plaza Thursday, June 26.

Radio station festivals are hitting the circuit again this year. CIMX-FM (88.7) will have its "89X Birthday Bash" with Beck, Pavement, Soul Coughing, Sloan and Dr. Octagon, Wednesday, May 28, at the Phoenix Plaza Amphitheatre in Pontiac. Its sister station CIDR-FM (93.9) is hosting "Riverfest" on Sunday, June 29, at the Phoenix Plaza. Morphine, Odds, Patty Griffin, William Topley, Thornetta Davis, Whiskeytown, and Stewart Francke are among those performing at the concert which benefits Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Metro Detroit.

Details about WHYT-FM (96.3)'s "PlanetFest '97" will be released within the next couple of weeks, according to Mark Wuggazer, the station's marketing director.

"What we're working on is even bigger and better than last year and that's not just hype. We're looking at securing a really major league superstar headliner and that ain't no joke," he said.

WWWW-FM's Budweiser Downtown Hoedown is returning to Hart Plaza in Detroit Friday, May 16-Sunday, May 18. Headliners include Burning Daylight and Diamond Rio on Friday, May 16; Buffalo Club, Mark Wills, David Lee Murphy, Mark Chestnutt, Holly Dunn and Patty Loveless on Saturday, May 17; and David Kersh, Jeff Wood, Kevin Sharp, and John Berry on Sunday, May 18. The free festival starts at noon every day.

"It's a much better value overall," Corey explained about multi-act shows. "It's a longer show. There's more acts. We haven't seen some of the package tours that were out last year like Lollapalooza, House of Blues shows that were very popular last year. If you add those to the mix – we're assuming that we're going to get some portion of those – it really makes for very strong season."

Benefit spotlights music for the heart

FAR Conservatory of Therapeutic and Performing Arts in Birmingham will present nationally-known pianist David Syme in a concert to benefit persons with disabilities 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 7 at The Community House in Birmingham.

Tickets are $25 per person and includes Afterglow. For tickets and more information call (810) 646-3347.

Proceeds will benefit therapy, art instruction, athletic training, and leisure services for children with special needs.

Syme is well known to Detroit audiences for his appearances with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and for classical concerts in venues such as the Lincoln Center, Kennedy Center and major halls in 11 European countries. A Juilliard trained pianist, Syme is called "The Human Jukebox" for his uncanny ability to recall and play thousands of songs on the piano. Since 1990, the West Bloomfield resident has become known to millions of radio listeners through his live, call-in request shows. He has played favorite songs on radio stations from coast to coast, including WJR in Detroit. This is the second time Syme will give a performance to benefit FAR Conservatory.

"Last year's performance was great for children and adults," said Connie Lott, FAR Conservatory executive director. "David and his band do a wide repertoire of songs that are popular with everyone."

FAR Conservatory opened in June 1974 with classes in drama, music, art, dance, and ice skating. FAR continues to provide innovative services to its clients, and has expanded its challenge to serve all children, adolescents and adults with special needs. Students have a range of disabilities that include mentally and emotionally impaired, closed head injured, autistic, learning disabled, speech impaired, deaf, blind, and physically impaired.

If theater macabre is more to your liking, then attend the tale of "Sweeney Todd" — The Demon Barber of Fleet Street," now being staged by the Henry Ford Community College theater and music departments. Stephen Sondheim's seven-time Tony award-winning musical provides audiences with an evening of unique and gruesome entertainment that is strictly intended for the undaunted theatergoer.

Filled with maniacal characters and an eerie operatic score, "Sweeney Todd" is a return to Henry Ford's choral credits after a six-year hiatus from musical productions. Director Dale Van Dorp selected this undeniably challenging show intentionally. He wanted to create a presentation hailing America's greatest contribution to the history of theater — the modern American musical.

"To return quietly would be out of character for our program," states Van Dorp. "Instead, we chose to take a more difficult path." Not only is the show demanding in regards to the score, but the set, costumes and effects are also extremely involved.

Consisting of a complex story with many separate avenues, the primary plot revolves around an exiled barber who returns to his London town to seek revenge on the judge who wronged his family 15 years earlier. Sweeney soon befriends the amorous and eccentric Mrs. Lovette, owner of a failing meat-pie shop. Mrs. Lovette informs Sweeney that, after his banishment, his wife committed suicide and the judge took possession of his daughter Johanna. She then suggests that he rekindle his barber practice in her upstairs flat. Sweeney agrees in hopes that Judge Turpin will soon pay a visit for a throat-slitting shave. However, his lust for revenge and hatred takes precedence, and the judge isn't the only one with whom Sweeney decides to share a solitary shave. Mrs. Lovett is delighted at the bloodshed which provides her with "fresh meat" for her pies (with the price of meat, what it is).

Playing the impending role of Sweeney Todd is Jim Pencik, and Mrs. Lovett is played in cryptic fashion by Sara Bono. Listen carefully to the words of their duet, "A Little Priest." As one of the show's more amusing song, it's too good, at least.

Kudos to the orchestra, led by musical director G. Kevin Dewey, as they play a continuous and precise rendition of Sondheim's score throughout the show. The nine members of the company easily croon their demented cacophony above the trumpeting notes, though the orchestra is perhaps a little too resounding for the frangible vocals of some of the show's more primary characters. For those not familiar with Sweeney's story, these lost lyrics may be a hindrance in following the story line.

The foremost voice to hear belongs to that of Katherine Schmidt, playing Johanna. Obviously well-trained, her songs carry on an operatic resplendence that is thoroughly enthralling; listen for "Green Finch and Linnet Bird." Laurence Fron, playing Judge Turpin, also has a powerful voice, particularly in "Johanna (Mea Culpa)." As the Beadle, Russell Amerson deserves praise for his noteworthy performance on "Ladies in Their Sensitivities."

The acting ability of Mary Wescott who plays the Beggar Woman is delicious. Calling her the "half-crazed beggar woman" simply doesn't do her justice. Grasping the leer of hideous insanity was an undertaking she was more than prepared for.

Set crew chief Jim Piche has done an admirable job on the set, making its multitude of swinging buildings and stairways more than comprehensible. Judith Fletcher-Barber has done nicely on costumes, save for Johanna's wig which is too conspicuous, even for the theater.

The Henry Ford Community College theater and music departments deserve hand for a valiant effort on one of the century's most provocative musicals. Perhaps audiences won't have to wait another six years for the next.

Musical: Jim Bencik stars as Sweeney Todd, and Sara Bono, Mrs. Lovett in Henry Ford Community College's production of "Sweeney Todd— The Demon of Fleet Street."

'Volcano' is a blast when L.A. gets blobbed by lava

JOHN MONAGHAN

Who says movies aren't educational?

At one point in the $100 million "Volcano," a flaming lava ball shoots from the top of the burbling inferno and heads for a passel of bystanders.

"Don't move," warns our hero, a dead-serious seismologist, "until you know where it's going to land."

The relative trajectory of lava balls isn't the only thing I learned from the movie. I also discovered that, despite their bottomless bag of computer-generated tricks, Hollywood disaster pictures have advanced little since the days of "Earthquake" and "The Towering Inferno."

Of course, well-developed characters and stories aren't what we go to these movies for. Rumbling explosions, deadly lava, general mayhem – this is where "Volcano" really delivers.

The action starts at the La Brea Tar Pits, where volcanic activity had made it one of Los Angeles' major attractions. A moderate earthquake coupled with rising water temperatures in the bubbling pools have at least one scientist (Anne Heche) concerned about the city's future.

Tommy Lee Jones plays the head of Los Angeles Emergency Management. He's understandably skeptical until his morning commute past the tar pits includes exploding manhole covers, a skyful of gray ash and those deadly, unpredictable lava balls.

L.A.-haters, including those who live there, will especially enjoy watching Wilshire Boulevard's glitzy storefronts buried beneath a spreading blob of lava.

The movie includes close encounters with the lava in storm drains and subway tunnels and though you have the ubiquitous shot of the guy running with his clothes on fire, the casualties are far less than a good Schwarzenegger film.

City workers and volunteers race the clock to set up barricades to divert the menace from nearby neighborhoods.

Jones now enjoys the same movie status as Gene Hackman. He's good in whatever he's in, and he does hold together the dopiest elements of the story. We could probably have done without the romantic interest between him and Heche, the young actress who played "Donnie Brasco's" beleaguered wife.

The ultimate disaster of "Volcano" is the same one that befalls any movie with a battalion of screenwriters. Some characters that were important in an earlier draft make way for someone else's concept.

Such is the fate of the self-centered entrepreneur whose Beverly Hills high rise plays a major role in battling the gusher. We don't even get the satisfaction of seeing his pride and joy topple (preferably on him) because he walks out of the picture 10 minutes prematurely.

Instead we get "Volcano's" lame attempt at settling L.A.'s much-reported racial tension in a subplot between a policeman and an agitated resident. I wanted out when a little kid, looking for his mother, points to the soot on the faces of both black and white survivors, and says, "They're all the same."

I like seeing stuff blow up as much as the next guy, but just once I'd like to meet someone I believe is actually going through it all. Director James Cameron promises things will be different when his "Titanic" sails into theaters later this year, but my guess is that special effects, not plot points, have been the reason for all his last-minute tinkering.

ROMANCE

Local romance writers are passionate about love

BY KEELY WYGONIK
STAFF WRITER

Steamy covers and passionate love scenes – you can't judge a book by it's cover, and there are many misconceptions about romance novels.

"Romance novels are all about family values and commitment," said Ruth Ryan Langan of Farmington Hills author of 45 romance novels, and one of the keynote speaker at "Tap the Source of Romance," the sixth biennial conference, sponsored by the Greater Detroit Romance Writers of America. "They're just wonderful stories about falling in love."

The conference 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, May 3, at the Livonia Holiday Inn Conference Center (Six Mile Road exit at I-275) offers a resource for writers of all genres. Admission is $60 per person, call (810) 627-1722, (810) 471-5908 or (810) 469-0569. Walk-ins are welcome.

According to statistics compiled by Romance Writers of America, romance readers range in age from 18 to 82. The average is 39 years old. Forty-five percent of them are college educated, and 50 percent work outside the home. Romance sells – 48.6 percent of all mass market book sales are romance novels.

Reading romance novels started out as a hobby, and became Patti Shenberger's career. "The more I read, the more I learn," said Shenberger of Clarkston is membership chairwoman of the Greater Detroit Romance Writers of America, and a published author. "Romance novels are what I like to read, and what I like to write. People are so busy, there's still romance, but sometimes it gets shoved to the back burner."

Shenberger writes short romantic stories, two were published by "Star," and a non-fiction article she wrote was in "Romance Forever."

Writers and aspiring authors from the U.S. and Canada will meet at the conference to attend workshops, have their work critiqued, and meet with other authors. There will be an all day book fair and book signing by Elizabeth Atkins Bowman, Marian Edwards, Kelly Ferjutz, Elizabeth Manz, Maris Soule, and Shelly Thacker.

Anne Stuart, a published author for over 20 years, is the other keynote speaker.

Also speaking are editor, Karen Taylor Richmond; Literary Agents Damaris Rowland and Deborah Herman; Reviewer, Pam Cohen; and Private Investigator, Michael C. Shipman.

Shelly Thacker of Redford will be signing copies of her latest book, "His Forbidden Touch."

"We are not housewives," said Thacker. "We are serious professionals, well-educated, articulate woman. Romance is moving into hardcover. Romance is the most optimistic fiction, it's about love, commitment, lasting relationships, real values."

Marion Edwards of Livonia author of three romance novels, started writing romances after someone gave her one to read.

"I fell in love with them," she said. "They're so uplifting. In these books the women always win. After reading one you feel, 'Yes! I can conquer the world.'"

Romance writers put a lot of heart, and hard work into perfecting their craft. "There's still an element of sexism about romance novels," said Langan. "We're considered housewives turned writers. But I work nine to five seven days a week. The books have to be well-written and plotted to be read."

Forever romantic, romance writers "love the whole concept of falling in love."

"Romance novels are pure entertainment," said Langan. "They're for anyone who loves a good, quick read. I have so many stories to write, I'll have to live to be a 150 to write them all.

The Greater Detroit Romance Writers of America, a non-profit organization, offers manuscript critiques, market information, educational speakers, an opportunity to network with others in the industry, and serves as a support group for writers trying to launch or maintain a successful career in this very competitive market.

For more information about the organization, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Patti Shenberger, 6019 Mary Sue, Clarkston, MI 48346, or call (810) 623-9162.

Also of note:

■ Three multi-novel Michigan authors – Nancy Gideon a.k.a. Dana Ransom and Rosalyn West, DeAnna Pyle a.k.a. DeAnna Talcott, and Maris Soule, will be at a book signing "Romance in the Afternoon," 1-3 p.m. Friday, May 2, at Books Connection, 19043 Middlebelt, (at Seven Mile Road across from Livonia Mall). Call (810) 471-4742 for more information.

Romance novel: "Falcon on the Wind" was Shelly Thacker's first published romance novel.

R&B singer finds maturity to pursue a musical career

CHRISTINA FUOCO

Growing up in Milwaukee, rhythm and blues singer Eric Benet was enraptured by music.

"I was raised in a really musical, singing environment. I sang in the gospel church choir. I've been singing for about as long as I can remember. I had always hoped and prayed to make a career of singing," explained Benet, 27.

"It took awhile before I reached a level where I was mature enough to know that it was possible and so I could be brave enough to say, 'OK. I'm going to puruse this as my livelihood to support myself and my family."

Benet's parents had other aspirations for their child.

"Coming from a conservative city and conservative parents, their design for me would have been to not drop out of college and continue the route of graduating and getting a nine-to-five job or getting my master's degree. I guess that's what every parent wishes for their child. But I wasn't feeling that. The music was a little bit too strong to deny inside of me."

Benet recently celebrated the release of his debut solo album "True to Myself" (Warner Bros.) and will sing songs from the record on Sunday, May 4, when he opens for Erykah Badu at St. Andrew's Hall.

Written and co-produced by Benet with the team of George Nash Jr., Demonte Posey, Roger Troutman, and Christian Warren, "True to Myself" opens with the self-titled track he describes as an "anthem to my daughter." In the slow grooving, backbeat-laden song, Benet sings "Some people live their whole life/And they'll never see/The only way to find true happiness/Is to thine own self be."

"It's like a song that I wrote as if I were to die tomorrow and I had to give my daughter some advice and put it in a song," Benet explained. "We're all on our own little journeys. I had to deal with a lot of growing up in the last couple years. It's the way I want to live the rest of life after going through all the (stuff) I had to go through."

In 1992 Benet, his sister Lisa, and his cousin Nash released an album on EMI as the group Benet. Shortly after its release Benet's girlfriend, with whom he had a daughter, India, died in a car accident. (He and India, now 5, recently appeared in a public service announcement for Fox television promoting social awareness.) The emotional pain of his girlfriend's death inspired many of the songs on "True to Myself."

"For me, it's best to write from pain. That's usually where the songs come from. That was a hard song to record let alone to perform."

He doesn't perform the song live anymore but not because it unleashes a flood of emotion.

"I can't do it the way I want to with my singers and the arrangements – the way it should be. To put a long story short, I can't really afford it right now," he said with a laugh.

The album "True to Myself" varies in style from jazz-tinged songs ("I'll Be There") to R&B ballads ("Feminity" "Let's Stay Together") to funk ("Just Friends" and "Spiritual Thang"). To add color to the album, Benet experimented with a B-3 organ, strings and conga on songs like "Chains," which offers a portrait of life in the real world.

"It's about being in situtations we all have the power to change but are afraid to. Things like sexual abuse and drug abuse," he was quoted as saying.

Eric Benet opens for Erykah Badu at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 4, at St. Andrew's Hall, 431 E. Congress, Detroit. Tickets are $20 in advance for the all-ages show. For more information, call (313) 961-MELT.

Write Christina Fuoco at The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 36251 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia, or you can leave her a message at (313) 953-2047, mailbox No. 2130.

Performing Sunday: R&B singer Eric Benet will perform songs off his debut album "True To Myself" (Warner Bros.).

• Local alternative rockers the Vudu Hippies are hosting a benefit for the FRIENDS Alliance Network, the only human service agency organized and managed by people with HIV/AIDS, Sunday, May 4, at the Magic Bag, 22920 Woodward Ave., Ferndale. Tickets are $7 in advance at Ticketmaster outlets for the all-ages show. Doors open at 6 p.m. For more information, call (810) 645-6666 or (810) 544-3030.

DINING

Newest Deli Unique is the place for power breakfasts

BY ELEANOR & RAY HEALD
SPECIAL WRITERS

For bagel noshing it's not. For power breakfasts, where cellular phones are kept busy, it is. Business professionals are mixed with friends out to lunch together. Dinner hours are very casual at Deli Unique of Bloomfield Hills.

Due to conservative signage regulations in Bloomfield Hills, the Kingsley Inn and Suites, still in the process of major renovation, has no marquee for Deli Unique, housed in the hotel's former coffee shop. Its transformation from a 1950s atmosphere has made it a combination of typical New York style deli and good family restaurant seating 100.

The only promotion before Deli Unique's opening in late February was the Unique Restaurant Corporation's (URC) newsletter. Loyal patrons of URC dining spots, now numbering 12 in Oakland County, acted as field soldiers spreading the word. Former coffee shop regulars have joined the ranks for breakfast and lunch.

URC's 38-year-old owner Matt Prentice has kept his deli roots alive with the Deli Unique concept. His vision, however, extends far beyond this. His corporation, under the direction of managing partner Keith Schofield, has full responsibility for food services at the Kingsley. Extensive renovation and redesign of the Kingsley's former dining room to URC's 13th restaurant Northern Lakes Seafood Company is in progress.

Auburn Hills resident Tim Wilkins, with 18 years restaurant experience in the Machus corporation, signed on with URC last October. He assumes Food and Beverage Director responsibilities at Northern Lakes scheduled to open in early June.

Ray Grimes is chef at the Bloomfield Hills Deli Unique. Together with manager Lea Proteus, he keeps the food dished out on premise while simultaneously filling faxed-in lunch orders. If you take this lunch route, ask for the special fax-in order discount.

Looking for a relaxed lunch hour recently were Sue Jarvis of Oxford and Lisa Wylin of Waterford, who dubbed Deli Unique "a great place to meet a friend for lunch." Jarvis, President of Aristocat Limousine Service located in the annex next to the Kingsley, estimated that she'd had lunch at Deli Unique about 20 times since the opening. Her favorite is Crab Pasta Salad, a tri-color rotini pasta tossed with broccoli and tomatoes in housemade ranch dressing, $7.50 for the large and $5.25 for small. She also said the soups were "great" and the housemade corned beef "excellent."

Wylin called the decor "mod, stylized and comfortable." She praised both the good service and her Turkey Reuben "with lots of meat."

Billed as Grrrrreat Omelettes, they are the morning eye opener features at an average of $5.75 each. There's lox, eggs and onions, and a lox platter, but not bagels, lox and cream cheese. For lunch or dinner, the specialty of the house is corned beef. You can order it as a Dinty Moore, a Reuben, URC Deluxe or Double Deli with pastrami. All sandwiches are $6.95. There are burgers, traditional $4.50 and turkey served with teriyaki glazed mushrooms and onions $5.25 or a Vienna Dog $3.50.

Hearty Chicken Noodle Soup $2.25 for a cup and $2.75 for a bowl is monikered "gentile chicken soup" by Schofield. It's definitely hearty with chunks of chicken, carrots, onions, celery and tender egg noodles. At the same price, there's soup of the day, traditional mushroom barley and low-cal Russian cabbage borscht. Following a Jewish theme, however, is Yiddish Cheeseburger. This is where you can get lox on a bagel with tomato, onion and cream cheese! And there's Bubbi's Favorite, slow roasted brisket on a grilled onion roll with horseradish. Bubbi, in case you're unfamiliar, is Jewish for grandmother.

A kid's menu designed by Lea Porteus' nine-year-old son Collin, a fourth grader at Northwood Elementary in Royal Oak, completes a family-oriented eating experience. There are crayons, too!

Realtors try to balance the unrealistic demands of both buyers and sellers

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Residential real estate transactions can be smooth or rocky.

Buyers who know where they want to live, what they want in a home and how much house they can afford before contacting a Realtor will greatly expedite the process.

Sellers who can separate emotional attachment from market value and maintain quality showing condition also will greatly expedite the process.

You would think this goes without saying. But it apparently doesn't.

"I've had client sellers who may have an unrealistic goal in terms of pricing," said Diane Howard, sales associate with Real Estate One in Plymouth. "They may have been in their homes for a while and they're not in touch with market values.

"That can also work the other way," Howard said. "Buyers can only spend X-amount of dollars, but they would want more than they could buy."

There are other roadblocks besides sellers and buyers trying to squeeze each other financially due to lack of knowledge or greed.

Things like the condition of the house

"Sellers get very comfortable in a house," said Tracey Toppa, a Realtor with Century 21 John Cole Realty in Redford. "It doesn't mean that a potential purchaser will look at it like they do. A lot of people can't see beyond clutter.

"I recommend when city inspections are required, like Detroit and Westland, they don't wait until they sell to get an inspection," Toppa added. "Usually they're good for a year or two. What if repairs take a long time?"

A seller with a sentimental attachment to a house can bog down the process, said Al Girardot, a Realtor with the Prudential Great Lakes Realty in Troy.

■ 'I asked them if they had an idea where they wanted to live. They said they had pretty much narrowed it down to somewhere between Sterling Heights and Waterford and Clarkston and Ferndale.'

John Newman
Realtor

"They'll say something like, 'I built these cabinets myself and they have to be worth blah, blah, blah,'" Girardot said. "It's extremely hard to tell them sometimes someone else may not even want them."

Girardot recalled several instances where empty-nesters still had the growth lines of their children in highly visible places that probably would mean nothing to buyers except a fix-up project.

Buyers can save time and avoid aggravation by focusing their search.

John Newman, a Realtor with Max Broock in Birmingham, described a recent experience with first-time buyers.

"I asked them if they had an idea where they wanted to live. They said they had pretty much narrowed it down to somewhere between Sterling Heights and Waterford and Clarkston and Ferndale," Newman said.

"I said we can't be driving all over the countryside. Come into the office. We're going to take a little trip on a computer," Newman said.

Buyers also should sort through needs and wants. How important really is a fireplace, first-floor laundry, two-car garage?

"If they say they need a basement, I'll ask why," Newman said. "If they're into woodworking, that makes sense. But if they need a basement because someone told them, maybe they don't. If they're 23 years old, they probably don't have a lot of stuff.

"There's confusion, sometimes, on the style of house they want and how big a house they think they have to have," Newman added.

Buyers can get a sense of what specific markets offer by visiting open houses. They can find out exactly how much they can borrow by getting a mortgage pre-approval. That's a big time-saver and shows a real commitment.

Here's a few other thing buyers and sellers can do to enter the real estate client hall of fame.

■ Sellers – Open rooms by storing some furniture and bulky collectibles. Thoroughly clean garages, basements and closets. Throw things out. Make sure the house is available for showing.

■ Buyers – Line up and price home inspection and legal services before you need them. Know the source of money for the mortgage down payment and closing costs. Be available for walk-throughs.

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

Q. I am interested in your impressions of the New Buffalo area, which I understand is booming as a condominium developmental area.

I am from out of state and am concerned about investing in that area.

A. In attempting to answer your question, I have recently visited New Buffalo. As a reult of that trip, I have learned that it is both thriving and dynamic in terms of its waterfront development.

There are a substantial number of condominiums being constructed in addition to a substantial number already built and sold and there is also talk of opening up casino gambling in the area.

As in any other situation for out of staters, it is important to understand the consequences of purchasing a condominium in Michigan, including the operational aspects of the condominium association, particularly when there are many non-resident owners frequently not on the premises.

It is important to review the condominium documents with counsel in Michigan who is best suited to both analyze the condominium documents, as well as the other issues regarding the operational and management structure of the condominium association and its financial condition.

Robert M. Meisner is an Oakland County area attorney concentrating his practice in the areas of condominiums, real estate, corporate law and litigation. You are invited to submit topics that you would like to see discussed in this column, including questions about condominiums, by writing Robert M. Computer attacks paperwork delays

Buying a new home or applying for a refinance can be slowed by waiting for a home loan. The whole process – the offer, the loan application, the credit report, the appraisal report and the paperwork – is taking place as the home buyer daily watches interest rates ebb and flow and the process often doesn't get resolved until the very last day of escrow.

"It is often said by loan originators that the choke point in processing a new mortgage or a refinance is the appraisal report – most of the other components of a new loan can be head in 24 hours or less," said Michael Schafer, president of United Systems Software.

The process of appraising is still basically the same that it was in 1950s, but new technologies are being introduced into the field that are saving consumers days of waiting.

The appraisal process used to go something like this: An appraisal order is sent and may sit a half day or more before it is accepted by the appraiser. The appraiser schedules and completes the home inspection, then returns to the office to complete the paperwork: First, the photos must be developed – and this can mean driving to the local photo store to develop photos in lousy weather. Then it's time to spread the photos on the desk to determine which goes with which address.

Next the paper version of the report must be prepared. This means printing and collating multiple copies of an 1- to 12-page Uniform Residential Appraisal Report. Maps must be cut out and pasted. Then photos must be glued on the maps and a property sketch must be drawn. Then flood maps and plat maps must be to complete the job. Then, all the pages must be collated properly and additional copies made before the final report can get packaged and mailed.

Overnight delivery can add an extra $10 to $15 to the price tag; hand delivery can be expensive, too. Mailing the report may take two or three days, and faxing a 12-page, legal-size fax paper with photos is not fun. Once the appraisal report arrives at its destination, it might be routed through as many as three people's hands before reaching the right one, and the appraiser has no proof of it being received.

Electronic data interchange eliminates these bottlenecks. Appraisals can be ordered, created and delivered electronically with modules such as United Systems' AppraisaLink.

Use of this new technology enables a loan originator to send an appraisal order to the appraiser's electronic mail box on the Internet. A copy of the order can be sent via pager, to reach the appraiser in minutes. The appraiser can acknowledge and accept this order in minutes from the field. Digitized photos are automatically inserted into the report.

An appraiser can collate, bundle, copy, package and electronically deliver an appraisal to the loan originator's desk, saving days in the final process and saving the consumer days of wondering how their new home fared in the appraisal process.

Key factors to selecting a mortgage lender

MORTGAGE SHOPPING

DAVID C. MULLY

A newly released survey, Citibank's Report: "Americans Talk About Home Mortgages," underscores the importance that personal relationships play in determining how consumers select a mortgage lender, how they prefer to apply for a mortgage and which additional products and services they would like to see offered by their lender.

As a consumer of mortgage services, do you see your own needs being addressed here? Are these the factors mortgage lenders should be improving on to serve you best? Let me know if you agree or disagree.

The survey, commissioned by Citicorp Mortgage Inc. and conducted by Roper Starch Worldwide Inc. in a random telephone sample of 1,012 Americans, found that 78 percent of those who responded considered a pre-existing relationship important in choosing a mortgage provider. Other methods of choosing a lender were a referral by a friend or family member (72 percent), recognition of the lender's name (65 percent), information provided in the workplace (52 percent) and a referral from a real estate broker (50 percent). Only the rate being offered scored higher (90 percent).

Interestingly, among those who say it is "very important," the survey indicated that women place greater emphasis on a pre-existing relationship with a lender than men (52 percent vs. 41 percent).

Americans prefer personal contact over new technology in the application process

The preference for a personal relationship was also evident in the way Americans said they would prefer to apply for a mortgage. With little variance by factors such as age, gender, region, household income or education, an overwhelming majority of respondents (84 percent) said they would prefer to apply for a mortgage in person. This is surprising when loans by mail, fax or phone are becoming commonplace.

Applying by telephone was the second-most-preferred method, mentioned by 6 percent of respondents. Americans in the 44-54 age group, those planning to refinance a current mortgage in excess of $10,000 showed a greater preference for a telephone application than the general population (10 percent, 11 percent and 26 percent, respectively).

Newer technologies such as the Internet (3 percent) and video conferencing (1 percent) still have a long way to go in winning the hearts of potential mortgage customers. Not surprisingly, those in the 18-34 age range are a little more willing to use the Internet (6 percent) than those 35 and older (2 percent).

Americans want to expand their relationships with mortgage providers

The strength of the lender relationship was also reflected in the variety of

Mortgage rates down

WASHINGTON (AP) – Interest rates on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages slid to 8.08 percent this week but remained above 8 percent for a fourth consecutive week, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said Thursday.

After sinking to 7.56 percent during the week ended Feb. 20, the rate climbed to a seven-month high of 8.18 percent the week ended April 3, just after the Federal Reserve tightened monetary policy. It's remained above 8 percent since and was 8.16 percent last week.

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for those refinancing mortgages, averaged 7.62 percent this week, down from 7.71 percent a week earlier.

On one-year adjustable rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.86 percent this week, down from 5.89 percent.

The rates do not include add-on fees known as points other products or services that respondents said they would like their mortgage lender to provide. Specifically, they most often mentioned property and/or casualty insurance (33 percent), equity loans (29 percent) and car loans (20 percent).

Americans seem satisfied with the performance of their mortgage providers.

In keeping with the survey's overall findings that relationships play an important role in driving mortgage decisions, just 3 percent of respondents said they experienced frustration with a mortgage representative who was unavailable or lacked knowledge.

The two items that do cause some frustration are application paperwork/ documentation and the length of loan-approval time. Twenty-two percent are concerned about paperwork/ documentation and 21 percent about loan-approval time. Interestingly, however, a higher percentage of respondents in the western part of the United States (27 percent) believed documentation was the most bothersome part.

Other milder frustrations were: uncertainty that an application would be approved (5 percent); getting or not having enough money to qualify (5 percent); and lack of confidence that their best interests are being considered (4 percent).

I consider the information from this report to be important to all mortgage lenders. It reinforces what I've been saying for a long time now, that is, consumers should take time up-front to choose a mortgage lender they can trust and who will explain all the details of the mortgage process to them. Especially for those new to the home-buying market, the entire mortgage process will generally be more enjoyable if they don't shop only for the best rate.

Questions about your home

BY POPULAR MECHANICS
FOR AP SPECIAL FEATURES

Q. I have an oil-fired furnace, and I change the oil filter every other year. However, if an oil-fired furnace ignites properly, and gets an adequate amount of fuel oil when it ignites, is there any point in installing a new fuel nozzle? Can anything else go wrong with a fuel nozzle in addition to getting dirt in its orifice? What is your opinion concerning the need for replacing a fuel nozzle on an oil-fired furnace?

A. Homeowners often make the mistake of visually inspecting their furnace and concluding that it works properly and efficiently. An oil furnace that functions without generating an odor, puff back or rumbling noise may not be operating efficiently.

Several operating features must be at peak performance for an oil burner to be efficient. Some of these features are draft over the fire box, stack temperature, gas concentration, smokiness of the exhaust and the proper oil-spray pattern for the shape of the combustion chamber. Because of the complexity in considering all these things, tuning up an oil burner is generally a job for a technician trained in oil-burner repair and maintenance.

The oil-burner nozzle, which directly affects the spray pattern, can have problems aside from dirt clogging its orifice. A nozzle can get overheated, because of an improper burner tube setting or back pressure in the combustion chamber, and it can develop gum and sludge formations on the inside and outside.

Nozzles have slots precisely ground in the inner tip which cause oil to swirl as it is forced through the orifice. These slots can become coated with sludge and gum, and in some cases it is practically impossible to see whether the slots are thoroughly clean without using a microscope.

A nozzle orifice is polished to a glasslike finish. If it becomes clogged, and you try to clean it with a wire or pin, you can ruin the finish. This will cause streaks in the spray. Considering that a nozzle costs about $10, we would certainly recommend replacing it every time the oil burner is tuned up.

Q. I have a problem inside my unheated attic. During the winter, frost and ice form on the attic roof. I have 6 inches of fiberglass insulation on the attic floor. The attic has two windows, and if I leave the door leading to the attic open, this seems to prevent frost and ice from forming. Is there a moisture problem? A new roof was installed about 12 years ago.

A. The frost buildup on the underside of the roof deck in the attic is not a moisture problem, it's a ventilation problem. Even with a vapor barrier under the insulation, some moisture will always find its way up to the attic as a result of open joints or seams in the vapor barrier, cavities in walls or open sections around vent pipes and interior chimneys. In an adequately ventilated attic, the air movement will dissipate the moisture to the extent that frost will not develop on the cold surfaces.

You indicated that there are two windows in the attic. Are they closed? Quite often attic windows are kept closed, otherwise, they allow rain and snow to enter. If the windows are open, are they located so that they provide cross ventilation?

According to the Federal Housing Administration's minimum attic ventilation requirements, the ratio of the total unobstructed ventilation opening to the attic floor area should not be less than 1/150th except when a vapor barrier is used on the attic floor, in which case the ratio may be 1/300th.

If you are concerned that rain will enter the attic when the windows are open, you might consider replacing the windows with louvers or jalousie type windows which, when open, will deflect rain.

Jamey Kramer's REAL ESTATE FACTS

The "Original" Real Estate Column

Homeowners Assurance!

You've just signed a contract to sell your home. The transaction is expected to close in 45 days. Now that it's time to make the purchase of your next home, is it safe to assume that the sale of your existing home will close on time?

As the saying goes, "It's not over 'till it's over." When you sign a contract to sell your home, you are making a commitment to provide a deed on the terms specified in the agreement. The buyers are making a commitment to pay the purchase price at closing, upon those same terms and conditions.

If all parties carry out their obligations, then the sale should close on time. Never the less, obstacles sometimes cause delays, and even an occasional "No Sale!" If the buyers plan to secure a mortgage loan in order to complete the purchase, they must be approved by the lender first. Buyers who have been pre-approved for a loan offer greater assurance of a timely closing than do buyers who have not yet made a loan do buyers who have not yet make a loan application. After all, what if you learn on day 43 that their loan has been rejected? Before accepting an offer to purchase, it is wise to ask your agent to advise you on the buyers' financial qualifications.

If you are planning to purchase another home, be certain that the purchase is "contingent" on the sale of your existing home. Otherwise, you may be responsible for completing the purchase, even if your present home does not close.

Sound complicated? Selling a home is complex, but need not be complicated. Your sale representative is familiar with the process and can advise you each step along the way. The advice is invaluable.

PRAYER TO the Blessed Virgin - O Most Beautiful Flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my neccesity. O Star of the Sea, help me & show me that you are my Mother. O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven & Earth, I humbly beseech you, from the bottom of my heart to help me in my necessity. (Make your request) None that can withstand your power. O Mary conceived without sin, pray for us that recourse you. Holy Mary, I place this prayer in your hands. (3 times) Say this prayer for 3 consecutive days then publish it & will be granted to you. KD
