Low turnout is primary concern

The Wayne County Commission race is the only locally contested one in Tuesday's primary. Voters will also select a county prosecutor and weigh in on two tax renewals. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The race for the 11th District Wayne County commissioner's seat highlights Tuesday's primary for Canton voters.

Republicans Rob Bovitz and Fred Bolden square off for the right to run against incumbent John J. Sullivan in November. Both candidates, township residents, say they are confident.

"Things are looking good," said Bovitz. "I'm already focusing on Sullivan."

Bolden was a little more low-key.

"I think I have a pretty good shot," he commented. "I've been working on this campaign for two years."

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

"We're expecting about a 15 percent turnout," said Canton Clerk Terry Bennett. "There are not a lot of contests if you're voting Republican. There are some on the Democratic side."

The township mailed about 4,400 absentee ballots for the primary. Thus far, a little more than 2,600 have been returned.

"They've been coming in unusually slow," said Bennett. "We usually get almost all of them back."

The primary is a partisan election – meaning no split tickets between Republican and Democratic candidates. Ballots with splits and over votes will not be counted, Bennett said.

It will be Canton's first election with its new voting system. Bennett said all

Cha-ching: Events have Canton cash registers ringing

Sports tournaments in Canton are having a positive economic impact on local businesses.

The National Archery Target Championships were held at Heritage Park this week while an 80-team girls' fastpitch softball tournament was played at Canton Softball Center. Both kept hotel and restaurant cash registers ringing.

"We've been sold out since (July 27)," said Fairfield Inn Manager Melissa Johnson. "It has had a huge impact on our occupancy."

Old Country Buffet Community Representative Elaine Murad told a similar story.

"We've seen added guest counts for both lunch and dinner," she said, "especially from the archery tournament."

Combined, the tournaments brought in several thousand people to Canton for a week, Parks and Recreation Manager Bob Dates said. To encourage local business patronage, the township helped put together a welcome package. It included coupons and maps, among other items.

Max & Erma's Restaurant was one business that participated. General Manager Rob Ramey said a buy-one get-one free hamburger deal was offered as well as other coupons.

"We've seen an increase of about 800 customers at lunch," he added. "That's pretty substantial."

The flow of archers and softball players kept business at a steady level all week, Ramey said.

"It has been really nice," he commented.

Murad took an even more proactive approach in bringing customers into Old Country Buffet. She and a company mascot went to the archery tournament.

"It didn't just fall into our laps," Murad said of the added business. "There are many restaurants in the area people can patronize."

Recruiting customers isn't a new trend, she added.

"I make it a point to get involved," Murad said. "The purpose of the program is community awareness. It will generate higher guest counts."

Rose's co-owner Rich Costantino said neither tournament has made much of an impact on his restaurant.

"We've been busy," he added, "but not because of the archery tournament."

The opposite is true for Fairfield Inn.

According to manager Johnson, the National Archery Association booked the hotel months in advance. Archers are occupying 40 of Fairfield's 133 rooms.

Burglar hits second township condo complex

BY SCOTT DANIEL

sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

Less than a week after a series of break-ins at a Canton condominium complex, six more were recorded at a different development Wednesday.

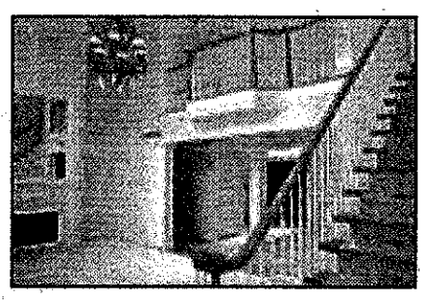

Jewelry and cash were stolen from units in the Bedford Villas condominiums on Haggerty Road south of Ford. According to Canton Police Sgt. Charles Raycraft, the break-ins are definitely related.

"I don't think it's unusual," he said of the short time frame between the incidents. "When a criminal has an area they're doing well in, they'll come back."

Carriage Park Condominiums, which sit just east of Canton Center Road and south of Ford, were hit between 1 and 2:30 p.m. on July 27. Raycraft said more than $50,000 worth of jewelry, cash and other items were stolen from 13 units.

"They're easy to carry," he said of the

Like a million dollars

Canton Township, a rural farming community turned bedroom community, is taking its place alongside Plymouth, Northville and the Grosse Pointes as a place with million-dollar homes.

A brand new $1.45 million home located at 8740 N. Ridge has been on the market since last fall, while it was still being built. The 6,800-square-foot French chateau-style home sits on a two-acre acre lot and has five bedrooms, five full bathrooms, two half-baths, four fireplaces and a walkout basement complete with potential guests' quarters.

"We're ready to go," she said. "We're feeling very comfortable. We've done our homework."

Additional staff will be on-hand at each precinct to help ensure a smooth day.

"We've tried to take all the precautions we can," Bennett said.

As has Bovitz. He has spent about $15,000 on the primary.

"The hard thing is getting past the primary," said Bovitz. "The last few weeks have been a strong effort. I have to take the primary seriously."

He has concentrated his campaigning in Canton and Huron townships. Bovitz said he has spent a lot of time in both communities.

As for Bolden, he has done a lot grass roots-style campaigning in all of the 11th District communities.

"I wanted to give them a chance to let them know who I am," he said. "I want them to know I'm concerned about the community and that I want to help the community."

Bolden said he has had to take a more hands-on approach because he has spent less than $1,000 on the campaign.

"That's the limit I felt was appropriate," he added. "I'm not big on fund-raising."

Judge unopposed – at least for now

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

While there are a number of hotly contested races in Tuesday's primary election, one race in which there won't be a runoff is for 35th District Court judge.

As the result of a mistake by the Secretary of State's Elections Bureau, two local attorneys won't be able to challenge incumbent Ron Lowe for the six-year term on the Aug. 8 ballot.

However, both are making attempts to meet and beat Lowe in the November general election.

Peter Bec of Plymouth Township and William Selinsky of Northville Township are petitioning the Michigan Court of Appeals to reverse a May ruling by Wayne County Circuit Court Chief Judge Michael Sapala which kept them off the ballot.

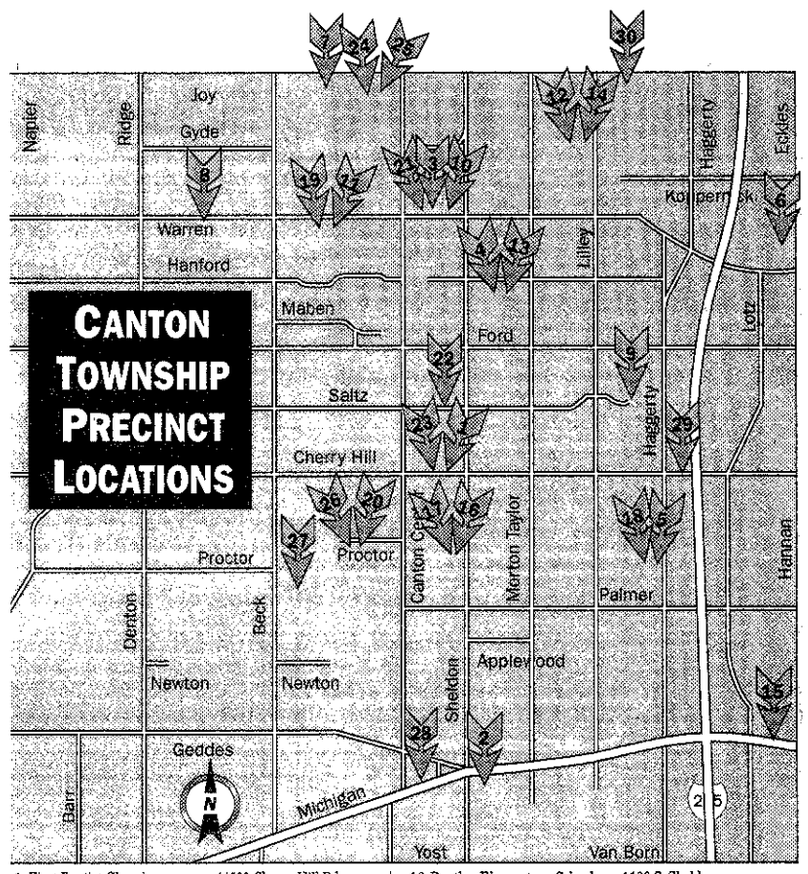

The attorneys claim they failed to get the required number of petition signatures to be put on Tuesday's ballot because of a mistake by the Secretary of State's office, a mistake admitted by the Elections Bureau. However, Sapala ruled he had no jurisdiction to put the pair on the ballot, and chastised the two for failing to know the law.

Both are asking the Appeals Court for immediate consideration in an effort to get a ruling which would put them on the November ballot to challenge Lowe.

"While I filed an appeal, I'm resigned to the fact that no one will do anything about this," said Bec. "Judge Sapala made a big, big mistake. He should have put us on the ballot and let the chips fall where they may. However, I'm pursuing the appeal so this situation doesn't occur again."

Selinsky said he's hopeful for a hearing date to be assigned within 14 days.

"I'm hopeful the Appeals Court will take a look at the case," said Selinsky. "If not, then there's nothing left to do and Judge Lowe will win by virtue of no one running against him."

Some county winners chosen Tuesday

BY RICHARD PEARL
STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

It may be "only" the primary election, but the results Tuesday will be pretty much final for two countywide races, including the high-profile decision on who will be the next county prosecutor.

That's because the Democratic Party winners in the Aug. 4 vote for both Wayne County prosecuting attorney and treasurer will have no opposition in November's general election.

Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Headlining Tuesday's election will be the vote deciding the successor to retiring Prosecuting Attorney John O'Hair. Five candidates are running: Deputy County Executive Michael Duggan of Livonia, attorney Sharon McPhail of Detroit, Chief Assistant Prosecutor George Ward of Plymouth, term-limited state Sen. Virgil Smith of Detroit and Detroit attorney Jennipher Colthirst.

Meanwhile, county Treasurer Raymond J. Wojtowicz of Hamtramck is being challenged by four other Democrats in his run for a seventh consecutive four-year term: Term-limited state Sen. George Z. Hart of Dearborn, collections manager Sandra Pace Campbell of the Detroit treasurer's office, Detroit city council legislative aide Beverly Kindle Walker and Tamara Layne Sordi of Lincoln Park.

Also seeking re-election is Sheriff Robert Ficano of Livonia, who is running for a fifth consecutive four-year term. He is facing six other Democratic primary candidates.

Four are Ficano deputies: Brian Patrick Keating of Dearborn Heights and Detroiters Richard A. LeGreair, Darron McKinney and Marvin Taylor. The others are security specialist Darren T. Yarbrough and Ronald Smith, both of Detroit.

The winner will face Republican Party candidate Timothy R. Beck of Detroit in November.

Wayne County will have a new county clerk and register of deeds, but not until after Nov. 7.

Democrat Veronica Massey of Detroit, chief deputy county clerk, is vying with fellow contenders Gerald F. Dziedzic of Allen Park and Cathy M. Garrett of Detroit for the chance to succeed her boss, Teola P. Hunter, who is retiring as clerk.

Dziedzic retired four years ago after 36 years in the department. Garrett is a political newcomer.

The Democratic winner will face Reform Party candidate William A. Heimiller of Livonia in November.

The pending retirement of longtime register of deeds Forest G. Youngblood has prompted 14 Democrats to seek the chance to succeed him.

Among them are three candidates from western Wayne County: term-limited state Rep. Thomas H. Kelly of Wayne; real estate agent and political activist Jim Netter, also of Wayne and Michael D. McMicken of Dearborn, one of Youngblood's top executives.

Other candidates include Bernard J. Youngblood of Grosse Pointe Farms, a third cousin to the incumbent; former county commissioner Edna Bell of Detroit; and Edlisha Bell, John A. Bernard, James L. Burks, Michael A. Collins, Robert D. Miller, John E. Shannon, Gloria Jean Steward, Myron H. Wahls and Brian J. Watts, all of Detroit.

The Democratic winner will face Republican Willie J. Cambell of Detroit on Nov. 7.

Two tax issues are also on the ballot across the county: Propositions O and P.

Proposition O is a general operating fund tax of just under 1 mill – in which taxpayers pay $1 for every $1,000 of taxable value – and is up for a 10-year renewal.

Money from the tax supports existing services such as the arrest, detention and prosecution of criminals.

Proposition P is a quarter-mill county parks levy that, among other things, has helped the parks department upgrade restrooms and picnic areas, pave in-line skating and bicycle paths and install signs in the county's nine major parks plus the 15 major recreation areas along Hines Drive.

first home in this price range built on speculation in Canton, said Mike Gladchun, co-owner of Re/Max on the Trail in Plymouth, the Realtor listing the home. He co-owns the business along with his wife, Mary.

"It's spectacular in every respect," Gladchun said. Every fireplace is unique, every ceiling pitch is different and the home has the "finest of everything" – including exotic hardwoods such as teak and mahogany, granite countertops, custom cabinets, functional exterior shutters and Grohe faucets, worth an estimated $500 apiece. The top-of-the-line stainless steel appliances carry the Dacor and Bosch brand names.

The master suite is 400 square feet, and upstairs a bonus "studio" area measures 527 square feet.

The home's even wired for stereo surround sound throughout – the buyer needs only to supply the actual sound equipment. Gladchun said a prospective buyer has already ordered a mahogany piano to move into the study, which has mahogany cabinetry. They plan to use the room as a music listening room.

"Electronically, it's the latest and greatest," Gladchun said of the house.

Hidden treasure

All high-tech and luxury features aside, however, one of the home's biggest selling points is its discreetness. Gladchun said it's designed for people who want the best of everything – but don't want to flaunt it. Trees help shield it from the road.

Even the builder wants to be discreet, Gladchun said. He asked that his name and company name not be used in this article.

Romancing the buyer

Marketing the home has been challenging. Aerial photography and advertising in Crain's Detroit Business, Homes & Land magazine, local newspapers and the Dupont Register has cost Re/Max a "small fortune," Gladchun said. The aerial shot helps "romance" the targeted buyer more than a traditional photograph.

So what does this million dollar home cost per month? Roughly $9,200, if the buyer makes a standard 20 percent down payment of $290,000, Gladchun said. That includes about $800 per month for property taxes.

But most high-ticket home buyers pay cash rather than finance, he said. And these buyers tend to be self-employed entrepreneurs or, less commonly, CEOs of large corporations. Both types of buyers tend to have families.

"The times they are a'changing," Gladchun said of Canton's big-ticket homes. Compared to neighboring Northville and Plymouth, Canton has just begun to offer high-ticket luxury homes because of aggressive development and Canton's central location between Detroit and Ann Arbor.

Canton has other homes valued at $1 million or more, but the Ridge Road house is the newest. Most of the other million-dollar homes are in the same area of northwest Canton, Gladchun said.

Who are the million dollar homeowners?

A local restaurant owner, a dentist, a small business owner and a lottery winner make up the ranks of some of the million-dollar homeowners, said Tom Yack, township supervisor. The lottery winner's home has an indoor pool.

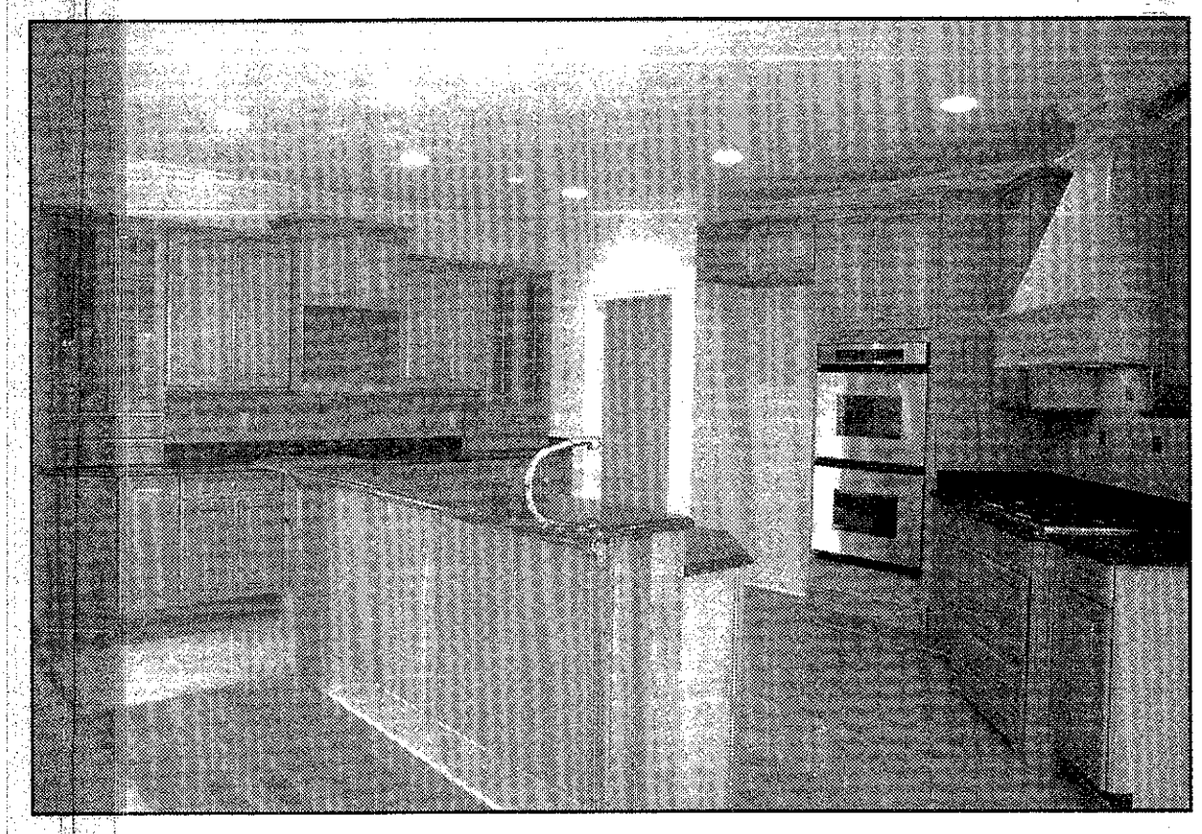

Canton is still thought of as a bedroom community – a haven for commuters working all over southeast Michigan. Doctors working at Ann Arbor hospitals, Oakland County business owners and auto company executives are among the commuters calling Canton home.

Location, location, location

Northwest Canton in particular has many big-ticket homes.

Source of pride

Area homeowners say they enjoy living among the big-ticket homes.

"These homes are certainly a source of pride in our northwest quadrant," said Chuck Suppnick, vice president of the Northwest Canton Homeowners Association and a Pilgrim Hills resident. "The fact they are 'built in the woods' makes these homes especially appealing."

"Of course, many of our homes including ours, from 2- to 4,000-square-feet, are also built in the woods. That is what makes northwest Canton so special," Suppnick said.

His wife, Cheryl, said she's become spoiled by the privacy of their home and that she and her neighbors have all been very vocal about protecting that privacy from encroaching development. Northwest Canton homeowners were particularly vocal in opposing a charter school in the area and in opposing Heron Ridge North, a luxury housing development.

Indoor soccer a rea[illegible] Rockers coach tell[illegible]

BY SCOTT DANIEL
STAFF WRITER
sdaniel@oe.homecomm.net

Indoor soccer isn't for the faint of heart.

That was the message Detroit Rockers Head Coach Drago had for guests at the Canton Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday. If you're going to attend games at Compuware Arena this fall, he said, be prepared for excitement.

"If you haven't seen indoor soccer you will be surprised," Drago said. "It's like a human pinball game because it's so fast."

The Rockers, which play in the National Professional Soccer League, will play 15 games at the Plymouth Township arena this season. Other games will be at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

"It's a cross between basketball and hockey," Drago said. "When you come to the arena, don't forget to bring your ear plugs. That place is going to rock."

The Rockers have been around for about a decade. Detroit, which bills itself as the hardest working team in America, won a championship in 1992.

Drago, who has coached for the past several seasons, was a soccer player for years himself. He told the audience that size and skill are not always the key factors in making a champion player and team.

"It takes attitude and preparation," said Drago. "In the game of sports, you don't get a second chance."

He said he pushes his players. [illegible] that includes eight [illegible] runs in training camp.

"I tell them, 'when you can't do it anymore, think about holding that championship trophy. That's what you're running for,'" said Drago.

One player or person can't succeed by himself, he added.

"To be a successful person you have to rely on the team," said Drago.

He wants the Rockers to play with passion and energy, he added.

"I love to call my team the Unleashed Hounds," Drago joked. "The power they play with is extraordinary."

The coach described Canton, Plymouth and Michigan as a hotbed for soccer.

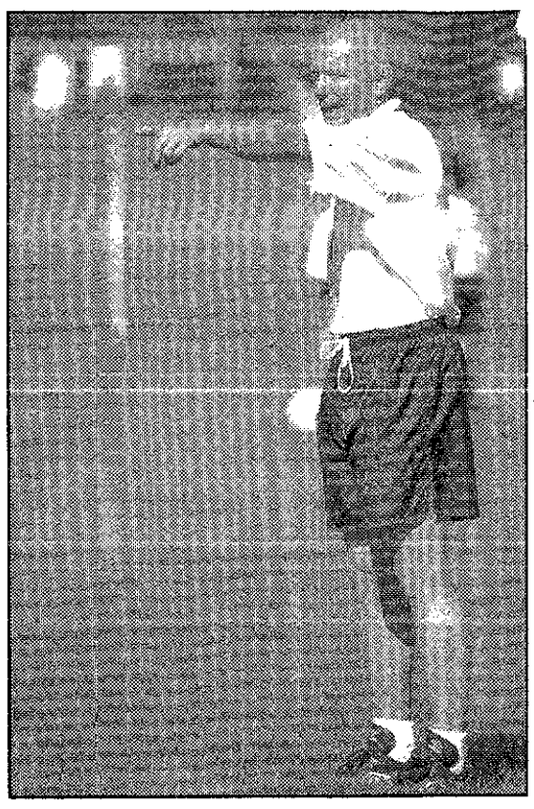

"More than 35,000 kids are registered to play soccer in the state," said Drago.

Indoor soccer must bring those players and their families into the stands to succeed, he commented.

"We will be a major sport in this city," said Drago. "We're still growing and want to be part of this community."

He thinks he has the right product to sell.

"We are in the business of bringing smiles to children," Drago said.

[illegible], arrested in Canton of Internet sex sting

A 59-year-old Warren man was arrested Wednesday night in Canton Township by Wayne County sheriff's deputies conducting a cybersex sting.

Robert Mohs, an army reserve sergeant who has worked in the insurance industry the last 12 years, was arraigned Thursday in 31st District Court in Hamtramck on felony sex charges after he tried to meet a 15-year-old girl and her 12-year-old cousin.

If convicted, he faces up to 20 years in prison. He is being held in county jail in lieu of $250,000 bond.

According to Sheriff Robert Ficano, the arrest by the sheriff's Internet crimes task force took place at the Dearborn Music store on Ford, where Mohs had gone to meet what he thought were the two girls. He had actually been chatting via the Internet with undercover investigators since May 12.

Mohs, who moved to Michigan last October from Washington state, is married and has three adult children.

COP CALLS

Four Canton juveniles were recently arrested by township police in relation to separate breaking and entering incidents.

The first occurred July 27 in the Holiday Mobil Home Park on Geddes Road. Canton Police responded to a call of a breaking and entering in progress shortly before 2 p.m.

A victim called saying two young males were inside her home. Both suspects had fled the scene by the time officers arrived, according to police reports.

Officers received information that both suspects lived inside the mobile home park. Police investigated and eventually arrested two 16-year-old males, reports said.

Both were taken to the Wayne County Youth Home on home invasion charges.

The second incident occurred July 28.

A man in the 500 block of Buckingham chased a pair of suspects from his home at about 5 a.m. He was unable to catch either, reports said.

Canton Police were called to the scene. Officers caught one of the suspects in a wooded area adjacent to the home, reports said. The second suspect turned himself into police the following day.

ADVANCEMENTS IN FOOT CARE
— presented by —
Canton Foot Specialists
Dr. Steven Watson
Dr. Michael Lefkowitz
HOW TO RESOLVE HEEL PAIN
It's usually a symptom of Plantar Fasciitis. That first step out of bed in the morning really catches your attention - it feels just like someone poked you in the heel with a knife. But after walking for a few minutes, the pain slowly disappears. Heel pain is very irritating, but rarely serious. Poor biomechanics - A flat foot, high-arched foot, or abnormalities in your gait stresses your plantar fascia. Custom orthotic devices - if you have a foot deformity, a custom shoe insert from a podiatrist can compensate for the deformity and distribute pressure to your foot more evenly. Nonsurgical Care consists of Medications, Ultrasound, Shoe Changes & Orthotics. See your podiatrist if symptoms persist or other foot problems arise.
We specialize in non-surgical relief of heel pain.

Duck deadline is Wednesday

Don't let your summer slip through the quacks before trying your luck with an adopted duck.

For those needing a translation, that means the second Great Canton Duck Derby is fast approaching. This year's event is set for noon Saturday in Heritage Park.

Plastic ducks, which will "race" across the park pond in a battle for prizes that will go to owners, are available for $2 each. Groups of 3 and 7 can be adopted for $5 and $11, respectively. Big spenders can go for the "slam duck" package of 30 for $50.

Adoption papers are available at Summit on the Park, the township administration building and the Canton Public Library through Wednesday.

Prizes include round-trip airline tickets, a $1,000 Savings Bond and a color TV-VCR combo.

The derby is being sponsored by Jack Demmer Ford, Northwest Airlines, Bank One, Holiday Market and St. Joseph Mercy Health Systems.

For more information on the derby, call the parks and recreation department, (734) 397-5110.

Youth forum honors PCA teacher

The National Youth Leadership Forum this week celebrated the contributions of Pat Frye in helping high school students pursue their career interests. Frye, an educator at Plymouth Christian Academy, nominated students to attend forums where they are given the opportunity to explore the field of law, medicine or defense, intelligence and diplomacy.

Students are nominated based on demonstrated academic achievement and an interest in one of the three core fields of study on which the NYLF focuses. The young scholars from around the nation who attend the forums are introduced to industry leaders and participate in rigorous reality-based simulations that challenge their problem solving skills and encourage them to take leadership roles in whatever career path they choose.

"We are the host hotel," Johnson said. "We have the tournament staff and the Olympic team. It's a great group. We've enjoyed having them at the hotel."

Baymont Inn & Suites sits adjacent to Fairfield at the Ford and Haggerty roads intersection. General Manager Rob Schaad he has also been booked solid.

Archers rented 38 rooms while more than a dozen came from the softball tournament. Schaad said its made traditional slow times, such as Sunday night, busy.

"We're usually lucky to have 60 of our 99 rooms filled on Sundays," he added. "It makes it nice for us."

The township has even felt an economic boost. Summit on the Park Manager Debbie Bilbrey-Honsowetz said a number of meetings were used by archery tournament members.

"I believe it's having a positive economic effect on the township," she added.

Police are looking for a suspect described as a black male between the ages of 25 and 35, 6 feet tall, approximately 180 pounds and a medium complexion.

No dollar value was given to Wednesday break-ins.

According to police reports, a female resident of Bedford Villas entered her home at about 1:30 p.m. and noticed her entry door was half open. She called out to see if anyone was inside and the suspect appeared at the top of her stairs pointing a gun.

The woman fled from the condo and ran to a neighbor's home, Raycraft said. She then called 911.

She was uninjured in the incident. But the woman later discovered jewelry and a handgun had been taken from her home.

Police arrived at her home minutes after the 911 call. There were no signs of the suspect, Raycraft said.

"There's a good possibility he's using a vehicle," he added.

Raycraft said he's not sure why the suspect is targeting condominiums.

"It could be because they're attached and it's easy to go from one to the other," he said.

As in the Carriage Park break-ins, entry was gained to most of the Bedford Villa condos through door walls, Raycraft said.

One of the units had an unlocked door, he added.

The suspect passed himself off as a meter-reader in last week's break-ins. He even made contact with a Carriage Park resident telling them not to worry about him being in the area.

Raycraft said the suspect made no such contact at Bedford Villas.

Anyone with information about the break-ins should contact Canton Police at (734) 397-3000.

Police listed several safety tips to minimize the chances of a break-in at your home:

- Lock all doors, windows and door walls even if you're only leaving for a short time.
- Report all suspicious persons or activity to the police department.
- Do not keep large amounts of cash or valuables in the home. Use a safe or safety deposit box from a bank to store valuables.
- Record the make, model and serial numbers on your electronic equipment, cameras, etc. to assist tracing any items that have been recovered by police.
- Leave outside security lighting on at night.
- When leaving on vacation, have a trusted friend or relative watch the home.

OFFERING GRADES KINDERGARTEN–5TH IN FALL OF 2000

FREE "LIVING TRUST" SEMINAR
"What You Ought to Know About Living Trusts"
(What you don't know could cost your family thousands of dollars!)
If you own a home...or you have assets worth at least $100,000...you owe it to yourself--and your family--to get the facts on living trusts. If you think you're protected with a simple Will...think again...A Will guarantees that your estate will go through probate, which means that your family may not be able to take possession of your estate for many months, or even years!
Plus, if your estate is over $675,000, your family may owe estate taxes which could amount to 37-55%.
This means that your family may have to sell some assets just to pay the estate taxes!
A living trust avoids all this by avoiding probate and minimizing estate taxes. Plus, a living trust will protect your estate if you become incapacitated during your lifetime by avoiding a conservatorship. This means that your estate will be managed as you see fit, not as a court-appointed guardian sees fit.
To find out more about the benefits of living trusts, attend one of these free seminars...

Turtles spared consequence of the jet age

STAFF WRITER
rpearl@oe.homecomm.net

■ The turtle kept digging down into the smelly, quicksand-like muck, said Craig, who was soon up to his elbows in it and wondering 'where that snapping mouth' was.

They had lived with the airport's noise and fumes for as long as 10 years and they were comfortable.

So it was understandable that, when moving day came, they didn't want to go. Some even tried hiding.

But that didn't work, because they really had no choice: A new runway was coming and either they left, or the big road graders would fill in their home – likely with them in it.

Nevertheless, the struggle to get them to move has been successful: Since May 6, 32 "residents" of Pond No. 5 at Wayne County's Detroit Metropolitan Airport – all painted or snapping turtles – have been spared the consequences of the jet age.

Volunteers

Thanks to their 18 volunteer rescuers, they're now in the safer, friendlier and healthier environment of Sumpter Township's Crosswinds Marsh, a wetlands preserve several miles southwest of their noisy, dirty old homes.

The saga began last year after it became known that Metro's sixth and newest jet runway would require filling-in one of the airport's storm-water retention ponds, replacing it with a long, wide parallel drain.

Several airport employees had noticed turtles living in the pond – No. 5. Cathy Morse of Romulus, airport environmental manager, knew something had to be done.

So, as the turtles began emerging from the pond's mud in May, she organized a rescue. It proved so popular among the volunteers from the airport, the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and other agencies that six subsequent rescues were conducted in June and July. At least one more is planned, Morse said.

'Deep concern'

County Airports Director Lester Robinson praised the volunteers for having "such a deep concern for nature that they would slog through ... water and mud – on their own time – to make life more comfortable for these turtles."

Wearing chest-waders or hip boots and gloves and carrying fishing dip-nets, the volunteers – including adults and pre-teens – waded into the drained, 15-acre pond's mud and muck, seeking turtle tracks or the critters themselves.

Hand me the chisel: Dr. Orin Gelderloos and Catherine Morse help notch the shell of a 15-pound snapping turtle. This will allow the turtle to be identified later if a future study is done at Crosswinds Marsh.

Many turtles were caught sunning themselves, but some would start burrowing into the soft, smelly mud to escape.

After capture, they'd be put in containers of water and transported to Crosswinds, which replaced wetlands taken for airport expansion. Crosswinds has won awards.

"Understandably, not all of these animals seem grateful to be rescued," said Westland resident Brian Lassaline, a Metro spokesman and volunteer turtle-hunter. "But once they are released at the wetland site, they seem as contented as can be."

Dangerous tale

Bill Craig of Livonia, Metro's superintendent of heating and cooling and River Rouge activist, recalled grabbing the tail of one snapping turtle that was determined to stay in the pond.

The turtle kept digging down into the smelly, quicksand-like muck, said Craig, who was soon up to his elbows in it and wondering "where that snapping mouth" was.

"I decided it was not the place I want my hands," he said, and let go.

Morse's top "muckers" include Larry Bean of MDEQ; Bean's friend Dave Misfud of Detroit, who's also city of Ann Arbor herpetologist; and Darrin Bauer, Crosswinds Marsh naturalist.

Morse said it's as if "they've got some kind of radar" for turtles. "Those three guys, because they've just done a lot of turtle stuff all their lives, they just get in the pond and go at it," she said.

The largest catch so far was a snapper that weighed 15.5 pounds. Orin Gelderloos, University of Michigan-Dearborn natural sciences professor, recorded information about it and marked its shell for future reference by ecologists.

CORTISONE INJECTIONS INTO JOINTS- HOW OFTEN IS SAFE ENOUGH?

Physicians often turn to cortisone injections in treating inflamed joints. The use of cortisone for an irritated knee, wrist, ankle or shoulder is similar to the effect of water on fire. Any textbook that deals with treatment of joint disease devotes space to describing the uses of cortisone joint injection in rheumatoid arthritis, gout, psoriatic arthritis, and ostcoarthritis. Other text chapters include illustrations of proper technique for injecting joints and bursas and tendons.

While authorities agree that joint injection is useful, there are no two experts who can come to common ground on the number of time a physician can inject your knee or shoulder and not cause harm.

No research to date shows that injection softens cartilage or injures bone. One concern about injections is that they can cause infection, but that complication results from a break in technique rather than a danger from cortisone itself. Another worry is that after an injection in your knee you will not feel pain. Then you will cause injury because you will not stop putting strain on the point. However, doctors use only a small amount of anesthesia during the procedure, and the capability to feel pain returns within minutes to a few hours.

Another misconception is that you can have no more than 3-5 cortisone injections a year in any joint. No research has proved this valid, how many injections are enough comes out of your need and response, and the safety of the injections depends not on limiting them but on the careful technique of the doctor each time he injects.

Banks Dishmon VP/COO

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Our endorsements for Tuesday's election

Canton voters planning to cast a ballot in Tuesday's primary face an interesting dilemma. The only contested local race is on the Republican side of the ballot. Other key races – for countywide office – are on the Democratic side.

Voters must choose one party's ballot in this closed primary. Voting on both sides, intentionally or by accident, will result in a spoiled ballot and a wasted vote.

Republican candidates for Congress (Carl Berry) and U.S. Senate (Spence Abraham) are running unopposed. Democrats unopposed include Debbie Stabenow (U.S. Senate) and Lynn Rivers, incumbent congresswoman.

Everyone will be able to vote for non-partisan judges and on the two Wayne County tax renewals.

With that in mind, here's a recap of the candidates and proposals endorsed by the Observer in recent weeks:

Wayne County Commission, District 11. We support Republican Ron Bovitz for the nomination over Republican Fred Bolden. The winner will face Democratic incumbent county commissioner John Sullivan in November.

Bovitz is a CPA whose background in finance should help him deal with county budget issues. While he has adopted the Republican party line on many issues, he understands the dynamics of the commission and the need for compromise.

Here are our countywide picks; all of them are on the Democratic side of the ticket. There are no countywide Republican primary runoffs this year.

- Wayne County Sheriff – Robert Ficano
- County Prosecutor – Michael Duggan
- County Treasurer – Raymond Wojtowicz
- Clerk – Veronica Massey
- Register of Deeds – Thomas Kelly
- Judges

The Observer did not make endorsements in the non-partisan Third Judicial Circuit Court. Ten candidates are running for two openings; these terms end in January 2007.

- Wayne County millage renewals (Props O and P)

Vote yes on Proposition O, a renewal for 10 years of operating millage (about 96 cents per $1,000 of taxable valuation), and yes on Proposition P, a renewal for five years of parks millage (about 25 cents per $1,000 of taxable valuation).

LETTERS

■ Duggan: Right for job

My old friend, John O'Hair, is retiring after 17 years of dedicated service to the people of this County. We wish for him all of the good things he deserves in his retirement.

On Aug. 8, we will elect Wayne County's next prosecuting attorney. Choosing my candidate for Wayne County prosecutor was an easy one. I know all four Democratic candidates for the prosecutor's office and choose to support Mike Duggan. As a former police officer and chief law enforcement officer in the city of Taylor, from 1970 through 1997, I know how important the job of Wayne County prosecutor is in helping our local authorities deal with social and criminal problems.

I have had the unique opportunity to work with Mike Duggan for 14 years, while I was mayor of Taylor and for the past three years as Wayne County director of public services. I have come to appreciate his vision, leadership and zeal in getting the job done. I have met with Mike Duggan and numerous police chiefs and discussed social, political and criminal justice issues and I am certain that Mike Duggan is the right man at the right time for this important law enforcement job.

Our local police officers and government officials need a strong partner in the battle against crime, drugs and violence, while building a more just society. Mike Duggan has been endorsed by the Wayne County Police Chiefs as well as the rank and file police officers around the county. He will help us fight crime and improve the quality of life for us all.

Cameron G. Priebe
Taylor

■ Supporting Duggan

I am the president of the Wayne County Government Bar Association, representing all of Wayne County's Assistant Prosecuting Attorneys.

In the election for Wayne County Prosecutor, many issues are being debated. Our boss, John D. O'Hair, is retiring and a new prosecutor will be elected on Aug. 8. There are no Republican candidates in the race, so the winner of the Democratic Primary will be the next Wayne County Prosecutor. This is a position that is important, but few people know much about it. How should a voter choose from the five candidates?

Let us help you. It's an election that's most important to us. This election decides our new boss. The vast majority of the assistant wayne county prosecutors, 112 out of 138 veteran assistant prosecuting attorneys, and 8 out 10 administrators, are endorsing Mike Duggan. Our experience gives us the best insight into the prosecutor's office and we know all of the candidates. That should tell you something. We endorse Mike Duggan over all others, even the current chief assistant and a former division chief.

And don't just take our word. Check Mike Duggan's record. As deputy county executive for Ed McNamara, he's successfully brought suit against gun manufacturers and dealers, who sell to children and convicted felons. He's successfully sued owners of abandoned crack houses. He's revitalized public transportation. He's helped bring health care to the working poor. He's even been at the forefront of bringing the Lions back to Detroit. He's impressive, even without our endorsement.

In terms of the criminal justice professionals, there are more supporters than only prosecutors. The Wayne County Chiefs of Police, the Michigan Association of Police, the Police Officers Association of Michigan, Wayne County Detectives Association and many others have endorsed Mike.

On Tuesday, Aug. 8, join us in voting for Mike Duggan for Wayne County Prosecutor. The Wayne County Assistant Prosecutors have spoken. We want Mike Duggan to be our boss. He will aggressively lead our fight against crime in Wayne County.

Robert W. Spada
president, Wayne County Government Bar Association

■ Bidding farewell

It is a sad day indeed as member of Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church lose a true friend and servant to the community. Dr. Jerry Smith, music director for the church, is leaving his position after many faithful years of service which began in 1973.

For many, including myself, the music at Ward is one of the most enjoyable and uplifting aspects of worship. The music programs at Ward are simply phenomenal. Nearly every service is like attending a professional concert. Thank you so very much for your service Dr. Smith. I am confident that we will find this departure to be your gain and Ward's severe loss.

Best wishes to you and your family Dr. Smith, you have brought so many closer to God and his word with your wonderful music.

SC restaurant set to open

The American Harvest, the restaurant operated by Schoolcraft College's renowned Culinary Arts Department, is set to open for lunch Thursday, Aug. 31.

The American Harvest offers a quiet, formal venue for entertaining business clients or gathering with friends. All foods are made fresh daily, with menu choices including breads, soup, salad, assorted entrees and a wide choice of desserts. All items are a la carte. Lunch is served Tuesday through Friday from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m., and reservations are recommended.

The restaurant will close December 12 for final exams and reopen in January.

To make reservations, call (734) 462-4488.

International dinners

The popular international dinners, prepared by second-year students in the International Cuisine class, continue this fall. Each Thursday evening, diners enjoy a sumptuous five-course meal drawing from the dishes of a particular area or country. This year's dinners spotlight regional American, Mediterranean, authentic Mexican, Italian, French, Singaporean, Swiss, North African, Scandinavian, Thai, Spanish and Caribbean cuisine.

Dinners include wine and a brief presentation on the origin of both the food and wine.

The dinners are $28.95 plus tax, except for the French dinners, which are $31.95. Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling (734)462-4488. Service begins at 6:45 p.m.

For an unusual dining experience, come to a Grazing Night, on these Wednesdays: Sept. 20 or 27; Oct. 25; Nov. 1 or 29; or December 6. Diners mingle in the Culinary Arts kitchen and sample a wide variety of dishes created under the guidance of Certified Master Chef Jeffrey Gabriel, owner of The Farm Restaurant in Port Austin. Grazing Nights are $15 per person. Call (734) 462-4423 for reservations.

The Professor's Pantry is another opportunity for community members to enjoy the products of Culinary Arts students. Each Tuesday through Friday beginning Aug. 30 specials such as fresh bread, pastries, soups, pasta and salads and dressing are on sale between 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Students will help you

Once again, Culinary Arts students will help you enjoy a happy, stress-free Thanksgiving. The Culinary Arts Department will prepare a complete dinner, ready for pick-up the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. Included with a 14- to 16-pound oven-ready turkey are stuffing, a fresh vegetable, yams, relish, gravy and complete directions. Fresh breads, pies and cheesecake can be purchased to compliment the meal. You can order a Thanksgiving dinner starting Oct. 25 by calling (734) 462-4491.

The American Harvest Restaurant and Professor's Pantry are located in the Waterman Center on the north end of Schoolcraft's Livonia campus. Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads, just west of I-275.

College classes offered on Internet

Registration is open now for hundreds of fall community college courses available online through the Michigan Virtual University. These courses are provided by 21 Michigan community colleges and transfer to all of Michigan's 28 public community colleges.

Coordinated by the Michigan Community College Virtual Learning Collaborative, the course list includes such subjects as accounting, biology, business management, chemistry, English composition, government, math and QS-9000 quality standards. It also includes a variety of computer topics such as programming languages, Web development, networking, operating systems, and software applications such as Microsoft Office.

The Michigan Virtual University serves as a central access point for online courses. It does not create curriculum; rather, it serves as a broker to make courses available to students across the state via the World Wide Web.

"We've seen tremendous growth in the number of students taking online courses," said MVU President David Spencer in a press release, "with nearly 3,100 in the colleges' online courses for the semester that ended in May, and more than 1,660 over the summer — in line with national growth statistics." According to International Data Corp., the number of undergraduate and graduate students in online college courses nationally will have tripled from 1998 to 2002.

The biggest advantage, Spencer says, is convenience — being able to do course work when it's convenient to the student. In addition, students may be able to find courses not offered at their local college, and may take courses from more than one college at the same time.

MVU's first full semester was just one year ago with the fall 1999 semester. MVU also offers non-credit courses provided by Michigan four-year colleges and universities and commercial training companies.

Don't Sweep Metro Airport Mess Under the Rug

Vote Chief Assistant Prosecutor

GEORGE WARD

YOUR NEXT

WAYNE COUNTY PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

George Ward will get answers...

As reported here, George Ward started the legal probe at Metro Airport:

"The question to be confronted is, why did Wayne County pay at or near levels that constituted 'full payout' and still get no credit for the disposition value of vehicles which were only 1-1/2 years old?"

–George Ward, Chief Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, Wayne County –in The Observer & Eccentric, Thurs., May 27, 1999

The state of Michigan followed up. Its July 3rd report lambasted the McNamara/Duggan administration for paying out millions of dollars in public funds on unauthorized subcontracts at Metro Airport.

In court papers, the chairman of the Wayne County Commission says that as a result of cronyism and nepotism at the Metro Airport, the attitude of many airport employees is "They got theirs, when do I get mine?"

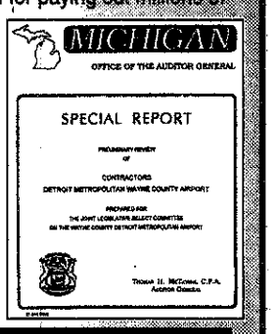

"What can I say? We screwed up," Mike Duggan told The Detroit News (7/16/00).

But it's worse than that. It's a crime. It violates the state's Safe Keeping of Public Moneys statute.

The state's final Metro Airport audit report is expected after the new prosecutor is elected. Will wrongdoers be held accountable? Or will the whole mess be swept under the rug?

Don't destroy "Checks & Balances".

If George Ward is your new prosecutor, he will get to the bottom of the scandalous mishandling of public money at Metro Airport.., even if it takes a grand jury petition. No one is above the law.

George Ward is the most experienced & best qualified

"Ward's actions in single-handedly prosecuting a band of young hoodlums who 10 years ago murdered a Grosse Pointe businessman...are well known in this community... The two worst offenders finally were imprisoned for life terms in state prisons, all because Ward kept his eye on his objective: to send killers to prison."–The Grosse Pointe News, April 13, 2000–Endorsed Ward

"If I had the ability to choose my successor as Wayne County's Prosecuting Attorney, without hesitation, it would be George Ward. George Ward is not a politician. He is a prosecutor deeply concerned about our community with a solid record of performance in law enforcement. He is a career prosecutor whose only ambition is to enforce criminal laws with fairness and to serve the people...as he has done so well for the past 14 years as my chief assistant."–John D. O'Hair, Wayne County Prosecutor

"Ward has been there for 14 years, and echoes all of O'Hair's fine qualities–moderation, integrity, absolute fairness and decency."

Teen wins first national archery title

Olmpians Scavotto, Johnson take top honors

BY MONICA PUGNO
STAFF WRITER

If U.S. archers shoot as well in Sydney, Australia, as they did this week at the National Archery Target Championships in Canton, the United States will walk away with several medals.

U.S. Olympians Karen Scavotto of Enfield, Conn., and Butch Johnson of Woodstock, Conn., captured the women's and men's recurve bow titles, respectively, Thursday.

For 18-year-old Scavotto, a 2000 Olympic Team member, it was her first national outdoor championship in the senior division. Her tournament total of 2,681 points shattered the previous tournament record of 2,655, held by Denise Parker (Salt Lake City, Utah) since 1991.

"It feels great," Scavotto said. "I won the Junior Nationals, but this is against the best of the best. It's very exciting.

"I really wanted to have a good tournament so I'd have extra confidence before Sydney. I'm looking forward to just experiencing the whole Olympics. I've been doing well all year against international competition.

"I have confidence that I should do well. I just want to do my best. There are many good archers. Any one of them could win the gold."

Scavotto's Olympic teammates, Janet Dykman (El Monte, Calif.) and Parker, finished second and third, respectively. Dykman totaled 2,584 points, while Parker had a score of 2,556.

Johnson won his third career title with a 10-point victory over defending champion and 2000 Olympic teammate Vic Wunderle (Mason City, Ill.). Johnson scored 2,662 points to Wunderle's 2,652. Jay Barrs (Salt Lake City, Utah) was third with 2,614.

The men's recurve competition was much closer than the score indicates. Coming into the final day on Thursday, Wunderle was only six points behind Johnson. He cut the deficit to four points before fading at the end.

"It could have went either way," Johnson said. "It was good for spectators. Personally, I like having a big lead. It's more comfortable."

Wunderle said he was not disappointed to finish runner-up to his teammate.

"It was nice to see Butch shooting well," Wunderle said. "It's good to see the whole team shooting well. It's exciting for us going into the Olympics. We've got a good team that's practicing hard to do our best and bring back some medals."

The men's team won the gold medal at the 1996 Summer Olympic Games in Atlanta.

"We have a real strong team again this year," Johnson said. "I think our chances are really good."

This week's tournament is the final event prior to the 2000 Summer Olympics in Sydney, Australia, for the women's team. The men will compete at the Grand Prix of Poland before leaving for Sydney.

Compound champions

Meanwhile, in the compound competition, Christie Bisco (Raymond, Maine) and Dave Cousins (West Jordan, Utah) were the top finishers of the women's and men's divisions, respectively.

Bisco, 18, won her first national title in the senior division of the women's compound bow division. She had a four-day total of 2,747 points to earn the victory. Mary Zorn (Warrenville, Ill.) edged Michelle Ragsdale (Tucson, Ariz.) for second place, 2,723 to 2,722.

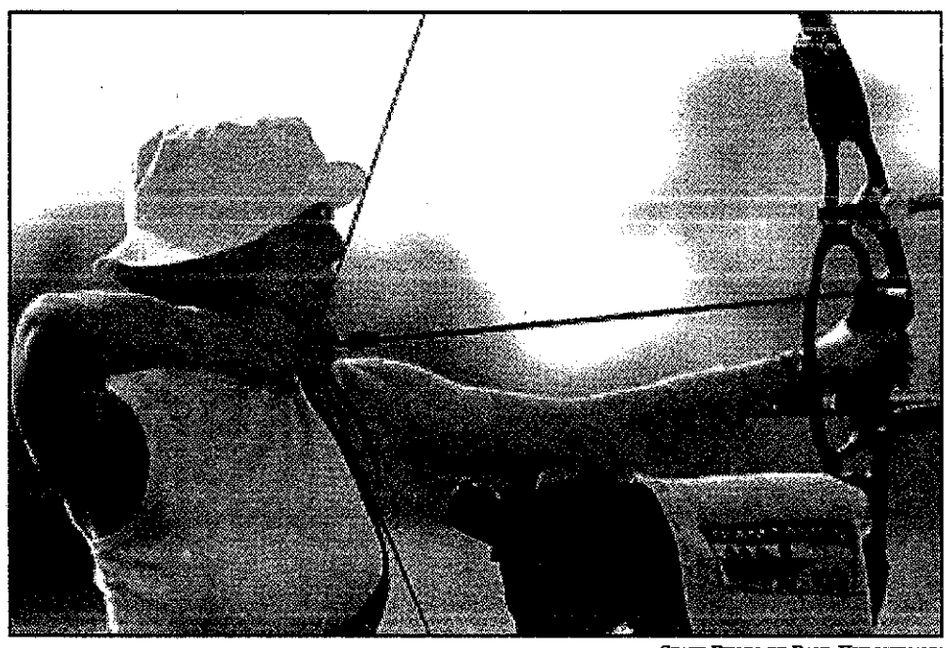

Cousins used a tournament record of 2,808 points to claim his second straight title in the men's compound division. Rich Freitas (San Leandro, Calif.) was second and Jeff McNail (Sandy, Utah) placed third with 2,766 and 2,752 points, respectively.

TARGET MEET

Actress Geena Davis was watching television one summer day in 1996 when something caught her eye.

"I was watching the Olympic Games in Atlanta," Davis said Thursday while competing in the National Archery Target Championships in Canton. "They had a lot of coverage of archery because the men's team was doing so well. I thought 'that looks kind of fun.' I thought it might be something I would be good at."

Four years later, Davis is one of the top women archers in the nation. She came into this week's competition at Heritage Park ranked 10th in the country among women who use recurve bows.

Davis shot a combined score of 2,399 points to finish 12th among U.S. women. A year ago at the national tournament in Ohio, Davis placed 29th.

"I'm happy. I'm doing much better than last year," Davis said. "It's fun. It's very addictive."

Davis, whose name has been on the credits of such films as Tootsie and Thelma and Louise, never thought about playing any sport until she starred in the film A League of Their Own.

"It wasn't until A League of Their Own that I realized I had some untapped athletic ability," the Oscar winner said. "That's what inspired me to take up a sport. I learned so many skills while making A League of Their Own.

"After making the movie, I decided I should take up a sport. I was casting around and saw archery on TV. There was something about it that appealed to me."

Davis enjoyed the sport so much that last fall she tried out for the U.S. Olympic Team at the Olympic Time Trials.

Canton golfer crowned Burger King champion

BY BRAD EMONS

"Have it your way" was the motto for golfers Friday in the 21st annual Burger King Junior Golf Tournament held at Westland Municipal Golf Course.

Westland's Ryan Buja, who will be a sophomore at Livonia Churchill High School, and Livonia's Matthew Courtright, an incoming 10th-grader at Stevenson High, both turned in impressive nine-hole rounds.

In the Boys 11-12 age division, Joel Cheesman of Canton shot a 44 to finish two strokes ahead of second-place finisher Mike Dolmetsch of Livonia.

Buja, who did not make the Churchill varsity squad a year ago, finished with the low total of the day, a 36, en route to the Boys 15-16 age division title. Westland's Cole Muncy was runner-up with a 37, while three others tied for third at 38.

Buja, overcoming a drive over the fence which cost him a stroke on the par-4, 342-yard No. 5 hole, turned in one of his best rounds ever.

"I've been playing a lot of golf, I've really been working on my game," said Buja, who can be found in his spare time playing Livonia courses Whispering Willows and Idyl Wyld, along with Canton Township's Fellows Creek. "My drives had been slicing to the right, but my irons have been good and today I played a lot of good second shots."

Tryouts start Aug. 14 at Churchill and Buja is determined to make the varsity cut.

"I shot 48 and 50 during the tryout rounds last year, this year it's three rounds," he said. "Hopefully I'm good enough this time."

Courtright, meanwhile, has varsity experience. He played in three matches a year ago as a freshman for the Spartans.

On Friday, Courtright was steady, making six pars and just three bogies, scoring a 3-over 37 to win the Boys 13-14 title.

This summer Courtright finished fifth in the Kensington Junior with an 83. He also had one top 10 finish on the Power Bilt Junior Tour.

Continual practice and a 10-day trip last month to Ireland has helped Courtright elevate his game.

"We played seven rounds with the Irish kids as part of the People-to-People Sports Ambassadors," Courtright said. "I've just practiced a lot more and it's been paying off.

"I feel I'm hitting further and a lot better. I'm bigger and strong than I've been, and that's helped out my game."

His 37 was three shots better than fellow Livonian Sean Sachau, who was runner-up with a 40.

Redford's Leshuk snags 'em like a pro

BY PAUL BEAUDRY
STAFF WRITER
pbeaudry@oe.homecomm.net

Fishermen usually have no trouble talking about their adventures, hence the term "fish tales."

Bob Leshuk of Redford Township is no exception. And his whopper of a tale is no bull.

Leshuk, you see, loves to fish and fancies himself a pretty good fisherman.

His wife thought he was pretty good too and pushed him to get out and enter one of those bass fishing contests you hear about or see on TV.

Turns out he did alright.

Leshuk ran (maybe trolled is a better word) with the shooters for three days — the guys who enter these contests for a living and own their own charter boat or might even have their own column in a magazine, newspaper or maybe even talk about it for a living.

And by the time the last scale had fallen on the Canadian Open Canada/USA Pro/Am Challenge — held just outside of Windsor, right off of Peche Island where Lake St. Clair drains into the Detroit River — Leshuk wound up catching more big fish than just about everyone out there.

There were 75 amateurs in the field and his three-day combined weight of 52.5 pounds on a five-fish a day limit beat all of them. In fact, he beat all but two of the 'professional' fisherman out there and was less than a pound away from beating everybody.

"It was a good time," said Leshuk, the 42-year-old tool-and-die maker. "I've been fishing a long time and been in a couple of tourneys — stuff like some Goodfellow tourneys on Orchard Lake for fun and for charity — but nothing like this."

Granted, Leshuk was able to sandbag a little bit the contest. He's been fishing Lake St. Clair for about three years, taking a lot of pike and some small mouth bass.

And in the last couple of months or so, he's been going out about three times a week or so — starting at about Grosse Pointe Farms and ending up out by MetroBeach off of 16 Mile Road. But entering a big contest like this?

"My wife (Svetlana) kind of pushed me into it," said Leshuk. "She said 'you've been doing this a lot of a few months, why don't you do it and see if you can get your money back?'"

People who worked with him thought it was a super idea too. After all, if he could go out and catch 15 or 16 bass in a day, he could win this. Leshuk even approached his boss with the idea of coughing up the entry fee and, in return, he'd give him a piece of the action.

"I told him if he sponsored me, I'd give him six percent of anything I won over $1,000 and two percent if it was less," said Leshuk, "and he said 'nah, nah, nah.'"

So for three-straight days (with a different pro each day), Leshuk went out, starting at 7 a.m., ending at 4 p.m. and fished around a bit.

The rules were simple. You could catch as many bass as grabbed the bait, but you could only keep five at a time in your cooler. Catch a sixth, one of them had to go back.

At the end of the day, you brought your fish in to get weighed. Points were deducted if any of the fish you brought in didn't survive the journey. The one with the most combined weight in the three days, won.

"I figured that after the second day, I was in the running," said Leshuk. "The first day, I caught 16.4 pounds, but on the second day, I caught 19.25. I turned to the pro before we went out on the third day and told him I figured that if I could catch 15 pounds or so, I'd be in the top three."

So he went out the third day, with a little chop on the water and a notion to use a crank-bait lure instead of a tube jig. It worked.

"It was kind of rough out there, compared to the other two days," said Leshuk. "The first day was kind of calm and there was more chop the second day. On the third day, with the way the water was, you could see the fish going into the shallows, getting the minnows, then heading out into deep water. I told the pro that I knew how to crank-bait this lake and do well with it. He told me to go ahead and try it."

At the end of the day, Leshuk reeled in 16.85 pounds worth of bass. Now, all he had to do was wait and see if it was good enough.

"We all thought I was close, because there was one guy who was close and a couple more people to come in," said Leshuk. "They started calling the names of the amateurs and they'd done the fourth and third place finisher. My mom (Romaine) turned to me and said "Where is your name?"

Turns out, it was the last one called — in the spot for first place. Not only did he win the tourney — the lone American amateur in the top five — but first place was a brand new 14' Smoker Craft Pro Mag boat, complete with a motor and trailer.

"My boss's jaw dropped when he saw the boat," said Leshuk, who has since traded the boat in and got something bigger and more to his liking.

Leshuk's going to keep on fishing and maybe think about joining the Chevy/Mariner Bass Tour or just getting into a few more tournaments.

"But you need sponsorship to do that," said Leshuk. "I'd like to do that some more. I've gotten letters and some invitations to go in some more tourneys. But we'll see what happens. I just enjoy fishing."

Records are easy targets for Junior Olympic archer

BY MONICA PUGNO
STAFF WRITER

Jared Juntunen of Shingle Springs, Calif., should shoot in the rain more often.

The 12-year-old archer broke as many records as rain drops fell during the 116th National Archery Target Championships this week at Heritage Park in Canton.

Juntunen, a member of the Junior Olympic Archer Development team, became the first Cadet shooter (12 and under) since 1984 to score more than 1,370 points for one FITA (The Federation Internationale de Tir a l'Arc) Round. A FITA Round consists of 36 arrows shot at each of four distances (30, 25, 15 and 10 meters) for a total of 144 arrows.

Juntunen broke the record, not once, but twice. On Tuesday, he set a new record for a FITA Round by firing a score of 1,399 points — just missing his goal of 1,400. Two days later, he broke his own record by shooting 1,403.

"It means a lot to me," Juntunen said about breaking the record. "I've always dreamed of breaking records."

Juntunen also set records for most points from 30 meters (347), 25 m (355) and 15 m (354). The only record he didn't break was from 20 meters. But he already holds that record.

His four-day total of 2,802 points was also a new record and was more than 100 points ahead of runner-up Maxwell Van Pelt of Boulder, Colo. A perfect score (all 10s) is 2,880.

What's the key to his success?

"I practice a lot," Juntunen said. "I'm home schooled, so I can practice whenever I want. I shoot every day for an hour-and-a-half to two hours. I shoot about 130 arrows a day.

"Plus, I have had really good coaches — Olympic coaches. I think that helps my performance a lot."

The second oldest of five boys who all target shoot, Juntunen knows his records won't last long. His younger brother Andrew, 8, is already determined to break Juntunen's records as soon as he's old enough to compete in the Cadet Division.

"He expects to shoot like me," Juntunen said. "He gets mad when he doesn't beat me. It's a pretty friendly rivalry. I don't think my record is safe. He's shooting awfully good."

When he's not shooting arrows, Juntunen enjoys playing on the computer, hanging out with his friends and being in the Boy Scouts.

Juntunen's ultimate goal is to go to the Olympics. But that's a long way away.

"For now, I want to do well at the next Junior World Trials, which are in two years," he said.

"It was an amazing experience," she said. "I never thought I'd do that in any sport."

Despite not making the team, Davis was still planning to go to the 2000 Summer Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia, in September as a spectator, but her schedule prevents her from going.

She is starring in her own TV show, "The Geena Davis Show," which will air on ABC this fall starting at 9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays. She also plans to do the movie Stuart Little 2 this winter.

Although her schedule is full, Davis hopes to compete in as many archery tournaments as she can.

"I hope I get to keep it up now that I'm doing so well," she said. "My goal is to see how good I can get. If it leads to the trials, that's great. I'm improving all the time."

Arsenal snares another USASA title

SOCCER

Repeating as a champion is one of the most difficult tasks to achieve in the arena of sports. But that surely didn't stop the Southfield Arsenal in its quest to repeat as a national champion.

The Arsenal, made up of 22 adult soccer players from Oakland, Wayne, Macomb and Ingham counties, competed in the United States Amateur Soccer Association (USASA) tournament this summer and won its second straight national title the weekend of July 21-23 in Philadelphia, Pa.

In the most dramatic of forms, the Arsenal edged the Texas Legends in the national championship 1-0 on an overtime "Golden Goal."

"It doesn't get any more exciting than that," said Raad Sana, the assistant coach and manager of the Arsenal.

Around 220 teams competed in the tournament, spread over eight different divisions: Men's amateur, men's over 30, men's U-23, men's U-20, women's amateur, women's over 30, women's U-23 and women's U-20. The Arsenal, representing the Michigan Premiere Soccer League, won the men's amateur division, becoming the first team from Michigan to repeat as a national champions.

Before the Arsenal captured the title in 1999, it had marked the first time since 1962 a Michigan contingent won this division.

"This is exciting to be the first team from Michigan ever to repeat," said Sana. "Teams have repeated before in the past, but never a Michigan team."

After escaping as the state champion in the MPSL, the Arsenal headed west to St, Louis, Mo., the weekend of June 16-18, to contend for the Midwest Region title, which the Arsenal won via a pair of victories. The Arsenal first topped the Illinois AAC Eagles 2-1 before nipping the Milwaukee (Wisc.) Bavarians 2-1 in the championship match.

In the national semifinals two weeks ago, the Arsenal posted an impressive 5-1 triumph over Pennsylvania Ukrainian Nationals, setting up their title game showdown with the Legends.

In that thrilling match, Kevin Messing set up Scott Babinski (Livonia Stevenson/Michigan State) with the game-winner, as Babinski one-timed a volley into the back corner of the net from 15 yards out, setting off a mass celebration.

"It was a beautiful goal," said Sana. "He didn't have much time to get the shot off, so Scott turned and fired it into the goal. It was just a beautiful one-timed shot."

For now, most of the members of the Arsenal to either go back to coaching their highs school or club teams; or for some of the younger players, report to training camp at their respective universities. But Sana wanted to give thanks where credit was do.

"The players went out their and earned this," he said. "But I also wanted to thank Iraqi-American Sports Club, which has sponsored us the last 10 years. They supported this team all the way through. We wouldn't have been there if it wasn't for them."

NATURE NOTES

TIM NOWICKI

Look closely, you might see mites mating

It might be a stretch to talk about mites, but I thought I just might try it. We seldom see them because they are mighty small, most are about a millimeter long — some are smaller, some are bigger, maybe 2-3 millimeters long.

Mites are a 00common and abundant organism related to spiders.

Like spiders, mites have eight legs that attach to a body part called a cephalothorax. A cephalothorax is a fusion of the head and thorax we associate with insects. This area is then connected with the abdomen, but there is no distinct boundary between the body parts.

If you spend any time looking in rich forest soil, you probably saw a red velvet mite. Like their name suggests, they have a velvety appearance and they are a scarlet red color.

If they were not red in color, contrasting with the neutral browns and grays of the decayed leaves on the forest floor, most of us would never recognize they existed.

Most of their time is spend under leaves, or just under the surface of the soil. There they hunt for small animals. Obviously VERY small animals. Actually, red velvet mites are big as mites grow, so they hunt for smaller mites and springtails.

Some mites are plant eaters and many are parasitic during part of their life.

There are several groups of mites that are red in color. They can be seen in the water if you take the time to go dipping with a net. They are easy to see because of their color, but upon closer inspection you may see other small critters that swim around in a similar manner.

During a recent class at the nature center we collected some mites in a water sample.

In addition to the red water mites, small dark colored mites were also collected. They were visible with the naked eye, but a dissecting microscope allowed me to see much more detail.

Aquatic mites do not have webbed feet to help them swim. They do, however, have more hair-like projections on their legs than terrestrial mites. Those extra projections help to push more water as they flail their legs while swimming.

The first mite I looked at seemed strange because it had legs in front and in back. It was difficult to focus in on it very well because it was moving through the water quickly. So I isolated another specimen and contained it in a smaller body of water so I could see more details.

Its body was protected by a shield that had protrusions on it, almost like small horns, or knobs. This was very different than the first specimen.

Then it dawned on me, the first specimen I looked at was probably a mating pair of mites, that would explain the two sets of legs.

Wow, it's not every day one sees mites mating.

These mature individuals had already passed through an immature stage where they attached themselves to another aquatic animal and derived nutrients from the host.

It may have been attached to a crayfish, or a dragonfly nymph. Both are large enough that they would not have been affected by this minuscule free-loader.

And from my observations, it looks like there will be other little mites searching for a host in the near future.

Tim Nowicki is a naturalist at Independence Oaks park in Oakland County.

QUEST COLUMNIST

DOUG NOVACK

The Millenium 600, a sailboat race from Port Huron to Chicago, happens only once every 25 years.

And as a 15-year-old rookie sailor, I felt fortunate to be part of the experience.

As the the youngest member of Don Cochran's crew of nine, which consisted of eight men and one woman, I certainly felt a rush as we departed from Port Huron for the start of the race on Saturday, July 15.

Our 38-foot Beneteau, called XS, was among 39 registered for the race. Approximately 32 finished the race, which totals 600 statute miles.

In Class 3, our boat was fourth in a field of 10. We were the third smallest boat among the 39.

Ahoy, matey: Livonia resident Doug Novack, 15, rode a sailboat from Port Huron to Chicago this summer.

It can get pretty confining in a boat our size because you only have 38 feet in front of you, and 10 to the left and right, but we had a lot of fun.

The total elapsed time for the 600 miles: 4 days, 12 hours, 8 minutes and 57 seconds.

My dad (Alan) and older brother (Geoff) have taken part in Port Huron-to-Mackinaw and Chicago-to-Mackinaw races. My mother (Cheryl) got me started on small boats on Kent Lake when I was 10.

This, however, was a whole different experience. Six days on the water can get pretty exhausting. My job was to change the mast on the foredeck and have the sails catch the wind as much as possible.

My schedule was six hours down time and 12 hours on duty each day. The main thing is to keep your concentration and stay focused during the race.

The second and third day it got very wavy and windy. At night it gets really cold and windy, dark and damp. You have to have the right change of clothes or you'll start to catch a cold. You have to bundle up a lot.

When we hit the uphill straights of Mackinaw we started bouncing around and I got a bit weasy.

On Lake Michigan — on the way down to Chicago — a big burst of waves 8-10 feet high hit and blew out our sail. I had to come up on deck, put on the jumpers, pull the old sail, assemble a new one and take the old one down. I had to wear a harness and I got soaking wet because it got so wavy and rocky.

But we got pretty lucky during the trip because there were no storms or rain. We also had plenty of wind.

We could see the land most of the time, but sometimes we lost sight of the Michigan shore. Going past the sand dunes near Ludington was beautiful. We also went around Beaver and Manitou islands.

Our boat was one of the few that had a refrigerator. We ate mostly sandwiches, granola bars, trail mix and dry foods. We had plenty of water and pop. Once we heated up some frozen chili to warm ourselves up.

The crew got along pretty well. Things are not always upbeat, but there were few arguments.

Everyone on the crew was anxious to finish and get on shore when we got to Chicago. You can't blame them because they'd been on a boat for awhile.

Once we finished, we hung out at the Chicago Yacht Club. It felt really good to go in and shower, and sleep on a bed that doesn't rock back and forth. I stayed with the guys and we made a few repairs to fix everyting that was broken.

It was a day and a half before we left. Going back to Mackinaw (300 miles) seemed to take forever. Near Ludington we couldn't catch much wind and it was kind of a drag. Sometimes we were at a standstill and it felt like we were going nowhere. We just looked at the sand dunes.

Once we finally made it back to Mackinaw we encountered a power outage on the island. The only thing they were serving was barbecue food — hamburgers and hot dogs. We certainly didn't expect it, but it still tasted pretty good.

Doug Novack will be a sophomore at Livonia Stevenson High School this year. He plays on the football team there, wrestles and runs track.

Bowling Centers Association works quietly but effectively

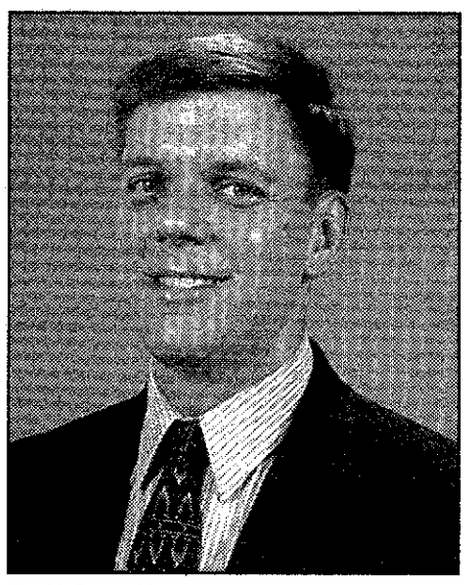

Let us take a look behind the scenes of bowling and find out about a group that is not very visible to average bowlers but remains a vital part of this sport.

As bowlers, we do not see what takes place with the Bowling Centers Association of Michigan, headquartered in Lathrup Village. Its activities influence a lot of what is happening at your favorite bowling centers. Scott Bennett is the executive director of the BCAM and pretty much runs the show. Bennett grew up in Flint, went to Michigan State University and became involved with "Big Brother and Big Sisters" in Genessee County. During his tenure there, he organized an annual fundraiser bowling challenge which raised more than $150,000.

TEN PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Scott Bennett

New leader

When the position became available with BCAM, due to the retirement of Cass Sicilia, Bennett was selected as the new leader.

One of his early moves was to establish and promote a BCAM insurance program for affiliated bowling centers. More recently, the BCAM became the driving force behind the movement to expanded high school bowling. Last year, the high school bowling program more than doubled in numbers with more than 300 high schools. The BCAM is working with more than 15 high school conferences to promote and expand the high school bowling teams. As you may have read here earlier, the state champions are Plymouth Salem in the boys division and Waterford Mott in the girls division.

Overall, the purpose of the organization is to help member bowling centers operate successfully, holding seminars on lane conditions and promotion strategies. "We try to address the needs of the proprietors by providing training in certain aspects of the business" Bennett said. "All of this trickles down to the customer, the bowler."

Regional contact

There are about a dozen local BCA organizations in Michigan for which Bennett is the regional contact. They are reviewing a sensational new program called "Mega Strike," in which bowlers will be able to enter a weekly contest to throw strikes in certain designated frames. It is average-based, so that a lower average bowler will have it easier than the high average or big shooter, the ultimate national prize for the year to be $1 million, with lots of secondary prizes to be given out along the way. If it is approved, you will get all the information here later on.

One exciting piece of news that came out of the BCAM's annual meeting July 17-19 at Boyne Highlands is a new tie-in between bowling and the Cartoon Network. You will shortly see such characters as Fred Flintstone bowling along with his friends. There will be packages from Post cereals which will have bowling offers as well. This all ties in to the fast growing youth market.

Where the sport is going

There were discussions on where the sport is going, with the new balls and lane condition including the "Sport of Bowling" condition, which places most of the scoring on a bowlers skills rather than super balls on easy conditions. The use of sand traps on the lanes was not even discussed this year.

Most bowling centers in Michigan are members of the BCAM, but like any trade organization, there are dues and fees. Therefore, not all centers choose to join. Michigan is second in the nation in terms of percentages for membership, Bennett said. "Those centers that are members seem to have the greatest success."

It was also announced that the high school bowling conference has been designated a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, which bring in more dollars because contributions are tax deductible.

Next time you go bowling, think of all the activities behind the scenes that are unseen, but together make this sport more fun for all.

GIRLS HOOP TRYOUTS

Canton's girls basketball team is having tryouts beginning Monday, Aug. 14 in the Canton Gymnasium. Tryouts for varsity begin at 9 a.m., followed by junior varsity at 10:30 a.m. and freshmen at 11 a.m.

Players must have a sports physical by the first day of practice. Any physical taken on or after April 15 is good for the 2000-2001 school year.

VARSITY LIONS NEEDED

The Canton Lions varsity football team is still accepting applications for the upcoming season. Any boys 13-14 years old who are under 160 pounds and are interested in playing football should contact Matt Meares at (734) 416-1469.

Also: The Canton Lions will have their annual golf outing/dinner dance at Pheasant Run Saturday, Aug. 26. Those interested should call Kirk Carlson at (734) 459-7827.

CANTON DUCK DERBY

Canton Parks and Recreation is hosting the 2nd annual Great Canton Duck Derby Aug. 12 at Heritage Park.

Fee is $2 to adopt one duck, $5 to adopt three ducks or $11 to adopt seven ducks. Those who adopt seven or more ducks will receive a special Canton Duck Derby pin.

Entrants can adopt a duck at several locations, including the Canton Parks and Recreation office in the Summit on the Park or at any special event throughout the summer, including the Concerts in the Park.

The fun starts at 11:30 a.m., with the race time set for 1 p.m.

Each duck adopted will be entered in the Great Canton Duck Derby and be eligible to win hundreds of prizes, including two round trip airline tickets on Northwest Airlines, $1,000 savings bond, Red Wings' autographed items, Pistons' autographed basketballs, stereos, camcorders, golf and a Summit gift certificate.

For more information, call Duck Central (Canton Parks and Recreation) Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. at (734) 397-5110.

GLENN NEEDS RUNNERS

The Westland John Glenn High School boys cross country team is seeking interested runners, particularly in coming fall ninth and 10th graders.

A cross country meeting will be at 9 a.m. Monday, Aug. 14 at the high school.

GC GOLF PRACTICE

Practice for the Garden City High boys golf team begins at 8 a.m. Monday, Aug. 14 at Garden City Junior High School.

Coach Ron Pummill wants all candidates to bring a pitching wedge.

YOUTH BASEBALL TRYOUTS

•Tryouts for Livonia Travel's 11-year-old and 10-and-under baseball teams for the 2000 season will be Sunday, Aug. 13 at Bicentennial Park (field No. 8).

Both are competitive teams and will play in the Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation.

Tryouts for 11-year-olds will be from 1-3 p.m. (call Bill Leins at 734-261-4712) followed by the 10-and-under from 3-5 p.m. (call Chip Wyer at 734-425-1808).

Livonia Travel will also be forming a 14-year-old team for the 2001 season. For more information, call Bill Leins at (734) 261-4712.

•2001 season tryouts for the 2000 AAU National Invitational champion Novi Expos, a 14-year-old travel baseball team, will be from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 27 at the Novi Sports Park, located at Eight Mile and Napier roads.

For more information, call Paul Flavin at (248) 380-5142.

FOOTBALL OFFICIALS CLINIC

The Greater Detroit Official's Alliance will stage its fifth annual football clinic for all levels of high school officiating from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 12, at Hazel Park High School.

Registration is from 8-8:30 a.m. The cost is $5 at the door (includes lunch and information packet).

The following conferences are urged to attend: Western Lakes, Oakland Activities, Catholic League, Detroit Public School League, Michigan Mega, Macomb Athletic and Catholic Youth Organization.

Arena Football official Paul Engleberts will be one of the keynote speakers. The clinic will cover rule intrepretations, mechanics and play situation. Metro area assigners will be in attendance. There will also be a session for officials with less than three years experience (includes MHSAA required rules meeting).

For more information, call Bob Williams at (313) 937-3578.

Essay contest strikes a note with students

When I was 6, my mother suggested that I try my hand at the piano. She was never one to force me to take lessons (ballet, tap, guitar and voice were my idea, later on), but grandma Chomin was a different story. An iron-willed woman who came to the U.S. from Ukraine shortly before my father's birth, grandma insisted, but in clever ways.

It seemed only natural to her that if she bought an old upright piano from a southwest Detroit church where she cooked for the priests, how could I say no. Of course, she and mom, who was as clever as grandma, were right.

Even though I ended up writing about music instead of playing it, I developed a love for violins, brass, percussion, guitar and wind instruments.

Inspiring young people

Not everyone has a grandma like I did, but luckily there are people like the members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra Volunteer Council who are working to nurture a love for music in young people. Earlier this year, they came up with their own clever way to do just that by holding a "Why I Love Music" Essay Contest that awarded thousands of dollars in prizes.

Like many of the winners, Jessica Williams probably won't pursue a career in music, but she enjoys playing and listening to it nonetheless. A junior at North Farmington High School, Williams plays piano and sings in the choir at North Farmington High School.

"It was easy to write; it probably took two hours," said Williams, who won first prize in the high school division. "I listen to music all the time. I come home from school and play Bach. Music is important to me because it changes my moods and helps me escape from things."

Musical garden

Music helps Lauren Karcz focus her attention on the task at hand. Karcz won first prize in the middle school division with a creative essay about the joy of playing in a "musical garden." A ninth grader at Warner Middle School in Farmington Hills, Karcz began playing cornet in fifth grade and recently switched to trumpet.

"Sometimes when I'm doing my homework or writing and can't think of anything, I'll put on music," said Karcz. "It helps me to relax and concentrate on what I'm writing."

Appreciating music

Candice Wagner learned to appreciate music early, so writing the essay that won her second prize in the high school division was easy. Her father Corbin plays French horn with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and she is a former member of the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra. Even though the Bloomfield Hills teenager has no plans to pursue a career as a symphony musician, she'd still like to stay in the field as a Christian pop artist.

Overwhelming response

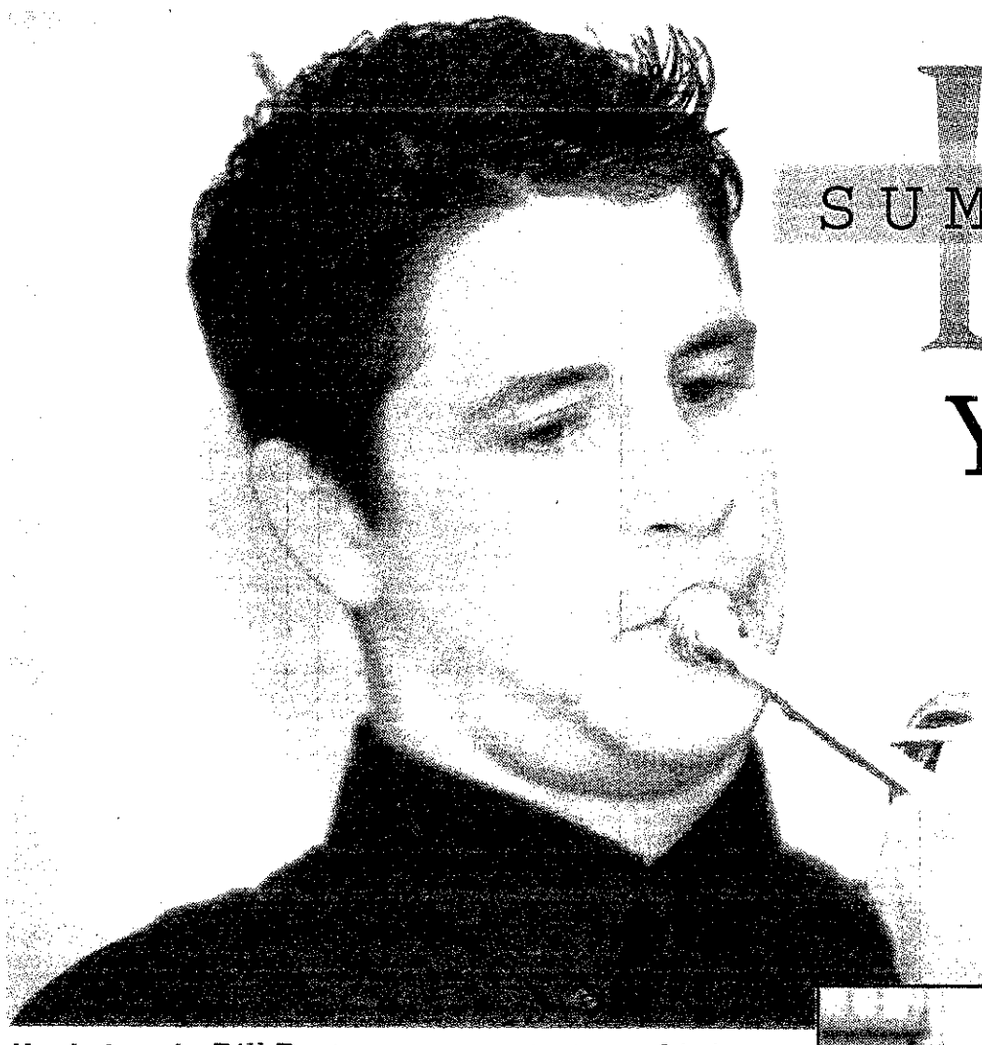

Ellie Tholen is delighted so many students took time to write down their feelings about music, since this was the first time the contest was held. She hopes the council will do it again next year.

"It was extremely successful, with over 800 entries," said Tholen. "We didn't know how far we'd reach, but we reached as far as Lansing and Brown City, and that's important because we wanted to do something for children. The Volunteer Council has a strong interest in education. We learned music plays an extremely important role in the lives of many talented writers."

Mary Ann Gibson was as amazed as Tholen about the response to the contest she chaired. It makes all the time she's been devoting to the Volunteer Council since 1981 worth it.

"We needed an education and outreach activity and a way to reach a future audience," she said, "and it looks like there's a greater interest in music than we realized."

SUMMER INSTITUTE

DSO Young musicians thrilled to play with the pros

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

Bill Baxtresser gently lays his trumpet in its case during a break between sessions of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Summer Institute at Oakland University in Rochester Hills. Baxtresser is serious about becoming a professional musician and it shows in his every move, even the way he dresses.

The down-time gave him a chance to catch his breath and prepare for an orchestra rehearsal with conductor Charles Burke of Canton and DSO musicians who sit alongside students – it's the highlight of his day.

Baxtresser has been working eight hours a day Monday through Friday for the last two weeks to improve his performance technique.

"I love having a firsthand experience with the DSO musicians," said Baxtresser, a sophomore at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills. "You can't get it anywhere else."

Rachel Parker couldn't agree more with Baxtresser about the lack of opportunities in the area for middle, high school and college students to receive orchestral training with professional musicians. Parker and Baxtresser had just taken part in the brass and percussion ensemble rehearsal led by Ramon Parcells, the DSO's principal trumpet and an orchestra member for 18 years.

This was the first time Parker had the chance to work closely with musicians from a world-class orchestra, even though she's attended several intensive summer programs including Blue Lake, Interlochen and the New England Music Camp.

"It's a great opportunity for any age musician because it offers a diverse selection of groups, from ensembles to chamber groups and trios," said Parker, a French horn player from Farmington Hills.

Sharing experience

Felix Resnick is one of more than 30 DSO members who are sharing their experience. A violinist with the DSO since 1943 and the conductor of the Birmingham Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra, Resnick led the string ensemble rehearsal. The students were preparing for a concert where they would apply everything they've learned over the last two weeks.

"I think it's a very good thing because they're getting a lot of practical, hands-on experience that's preparing them for the real world performances," said Resnick.

It was the sectional rehearsals with DSO musicians like Resnick that brought Heather Riggs to the DSO Summer Institute. In the past, Riggs attended the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp where she said she felt more like a number than a member of an orchestra.

"It's more individualized attention than you get at the bigger camps," said Riggs, who will be attending Wayne State University on a full scholarship this fall.

Becoming a professional

As he rested on a bench outside the music room before the brass and percussion ensemble rehearsal, Parcells talked about the hard work and discipline required to become a professional musician. "The Summer Institute is one more music venue for students," said Parcells, a West Bloomfield resident who attended the Boston Symphony Orchestra's Tanglewood Institute during his college years. "They learn perseverance and to make judgments on the spot. In the performing arts it's

Enjoy the 'Sound of Music' under the stars

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

Time is running short to enjoy the "Sound of Music" at an outdoor concert. But don't despair – the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra is blasting into town with a salute to America at Pine Knob Music Theatre on Wednesday.

The "Splash of Pops" tour features selections from the orchestra's most recent original recording of the same title on RCA Victor. From The Star Spangled Banner to Doodletown Fifers, the orchestra will muster up a program of patriotic American favorites.

Guest soprano Lisa Vroman, who starred as Christine in the San Francisco production of The Phantom of the Opera for six years, adds a touch of Broadway to the second half of the concert as she performs Rodgers & Hammerstein's The Sound of Music, Andrew Lloyd Webber's Unexpected Song, Richard Rodgers' Overture to State Fair, and Irving Berlin's Blue Skies. Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture, a work often associated with the Boston Pops' annual Fourth of July concert, closes the program.

"It's all music of a celebratory nature that lifts the audience and gets them on their feet," said Boston Pops conductor Keith Lockhart. "A lot of times we try to focus on ways the audience is used to seeing us. They associate us with the Fourth of July and celebrating the country's birthday.

Music to celebrate: Keith Lockhart will lead the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra in a concert at Pine Knob.

In addition to patriotic music, the Splash of Pops tour celebrates the 100th anniversary of Aaron Copland's birth with Three Dance Episodes from his cowboy ballet Rodeo, and Laurie's Song from The Tender Land, which the orchestra premiered in 1943."

On the road

Lockhart is trying to get as much rest as possible before beginning the tour of summer music festivals in Michigan, Virginia, New York, and Ohio the second and third weeks in August. Pine Knob is the second stop of the tour which opens at Interlochen Center for the Arts in northern Michigan.

Lockhart has spent a good deal of time on the road recently. The week before beginning the "Splash of Pops" tour Lockhart was teaching young students at the Brevard Music Center in North Carolina. Earlier this spring, the orchestra performed Copland's music at Symphony Hall in Boston and then did a series of concerts at Hatch Shell on the Charles River Esplanade, taped four new programs for the PBS series "Evening at the Pops," and played Boston's Fourth of July Pops concert which drew more than 400,000 people.

Mentoring youth

Now in his fifth season as conductor of the Boston Pops Esplanade Orchestra, Lockhart also directs the Boston Symphony Youth Concerts. He was just a kid with a TV set when he first saw a Boston Pops concert in 1970-71. The first time he'd seen the orchestra live is when he was facing the musicians on stage as conductor.

"It's part of all of our obligations in the arts to mentor as many people as we can," said Lockhart. "The Boston Symphony has always been about outreach down through its 116 years."

'Why I Love Music' contest a winner with students

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN

lchomin@oe.homecomm.net

More than 800 students couldn't wait to express their feelings about why they love music in a recent DSO Volunteer Council contest. It was then the difficult job of a panel of journalists, musicians and educators to wade through the entries and select six essays.

The result is that six students are $3,500 richer because of their love of music.

Taking first place ($1,000) in the high school division was Jessica Williams of Farmington Hills. Second place ($500) went to Candice Wagner, Bloomfield Hills, and third ($250) to Sara Doherty of Lansing.

In the middle school division, Lauren Karcz of Farmington Hills won first place ($1,000). Sara Bartle of Brown City won second place ($500), and Leah Nurenberg of Bloomfield Hills took third ($250).

Program helps musicians

Preparing young musicians for the professional music world is the ultimate goal of the Summer Institute and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's education department. Since the institute was founded last summer education director Daisy Newman has seen "a 40 percent improvement in the proficiency level of participating students."

"We're very pleased," said Newman. "We had an experienced partnership with Oakland University. We offered college credit to junior and senior high school students who were required to take additional classes in orchestral literature and music theory, write a paper and take a final exam. There was such interest in this that Oakland University is going to rethink the whole thing and come up with a plan for next year. We're excited about the response."

Newman sees the Institute as a continuum of the Civic Orchestra and vice versa. Both are extremely valuable when it comes to preparing students for the concert stage. The only problem, said Newman, is that after three years with the orchestra students opt for Interlochen, Blue Lake or Aspen.

"The goal is to expand our season to keep our children home," said Newman. "What the other camps don't have are the DSO musicians. It's absolutely incredible to hear students at the beginning and again at the end of the institute. The growth is amazing and results from the very high standards ingrained in the DSO musicians."

The Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra will hold auditions Friday-Sunday, Aug. 25-27. For an appointment call Sam Nordrum at (313) 576-5164. The orchestra will rehearse 2-4:30 p.m. Saturdays at Orchestra Hall for the first concert of the 2000-01 season – Saturday, Oct. 28.

The decision to make music his career came late for Lockhart. In fact, not until college did he consider becoming a conductor even though he'd taken piano lessons since age 7. Prior to joining the Boston Pops, Lockhart served as associate conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony and Cincinnati Pops orchestra. Since 1998, he's been music director of the Utah Symphony in Salt Lake City. Lockhart succeeded John Williams as conductor of the Boston Pops.

He is only the third conductor of the orchestra since 1930 when Arthur Fiedler was at the helm.

"It was the realization that I could be involved with and love something 50 years down the road that made me decide to pursue a career in music."

By that time, Lockhart could have quite a few recordings under his baton. Encore, released in March, was his sixth as orchestra conductor and highlights the best of the Boston Pops. Their seventh – The Latin Album, recorded in May and scheduled for release Sept. 26, offers "a little bit of everything, from mariachi to salsa and tango."

"It's frightening for someone who's only been conducting the orchestra for five years to have a greatest hits album," said Lockhart.

maximum accountability."

Maximum accountability is the message Burke sends all year long to students in the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra, the DSO's youth training orchestra. Burke conducts the Civic Orchestra in addition to serving as music director of the Summer Institute. By the middle of the second week, he was exhausted from running to sessions to coach students from around the metro Detroit area who range in age from 10 to 25.

He'll have little time to recover before heading to Interlochen to serve as a liaison to the DSO during their one-week residence at the summer art camp in northern Michigan. It's part of his duties as the DSO's assistant director of education.

"It was a fabulous experience," said Burke. "We had an increase in numbers and an increase in musicianship. Next year we could go up to 150 from the 90 students we had this year."

Vanessa Jones, a cellist from West Bloomfield, and Lisa Riddering, a Troy bassist, were returning to the institute for their second year. They are two of the students who rehearse with Burke and the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra from September to May.

"It's an amazing environment to be in," said Jones. "You can progress more in two weeks than you can during the whole school year."

"I always wanted to be a professional musician," added Riddering. "I had so much fun. I learned so much technique."

Difference a year makes

Ramone Horst was one of 20 students who waited in front of Orchestra Hall in Detroit to catch a 7:30 a.m. bus to the Summer Institute. This is his second year in the intensive program.

"Last year I couldn't play well but this year I felt on top of things," said Horst, a bassoonist who begins studies at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills this fall.

At age 10, Elizabeth Wendel was the youngest student at the institute. She's not certain whether she'll become a professional musician but she knows she'll always love it.

"It's nice because they treated me with the same respect as if I were older," said Elizabeth, who recently moved to Clinton Township from Rhode Island.

The Summer Institute changed Dan Plonka's life.

"I was here last year and it's when I decided to become a musician," said Plonka, a student at Bowling Green University.

Plonka, Parker and the others are the reason Ellie Tholen volunteers time to assist the DSO's education department in training young music students. She's enjoyed every minute of the process, from watching Parcells rehearse the brass and percussion ensemble to a jazz improvisation session with Rodney Whitaker and Omar Butler, both alumni of the Detroit Symphony Civic Orchestra.

"Rodney and Omar played and answered questions, such as if jazz is improvisation why do you have to learn to read music," explained Tholen, a Birmingham resident.

"The reply was that you don't have to if you're a genius, but the more tools you develop the better off you'll be."

They call it the CIA.

VICTORIA DIAZ

Within its hallowed halls, the order of the day often involves strict discipline, the gathering of information, and missions that can seem wellnigh impossible.

It's not the Central Intelligence Agency, however, but the Culinary Institute of America, a temple of learning in Hyde Park, N.Y., and the opening backdrop for this new and gripping real-life drama by the author of "The Making of a Chef."

As our story begins, six men and one woman are gathering at the CIA to participate in a grueling culinary exam. Those who successfully complete the test will attain the status of Certified Master Chef. To some gourmets, it's a highly prized, almost worshipful position. To others, it's nonsense, since to them it seems more wrapped up in competition than in pleasing people via good food.

In any case, the exam involves 10 long days of sweat, occasional tears and sometimes even bloodshed (one of the chefs encounters a sharp and wayward knife). Each aspirant is expected to work 12-16 hours daily, preparing cuisine as diverse as American, classical and to-the-letter Escoffier French, and Asian. With each food category, the chefs must whip up a four-course meal for 10 people, usually in about four hours. They are also expected to demonstrate a fluent, practical knowledge of things like charcuterie and patisserie. They are tested on paper and on-the-spot. They are coached and examined on non-cooking matters such as sanitation, restaurant management and tableside service.

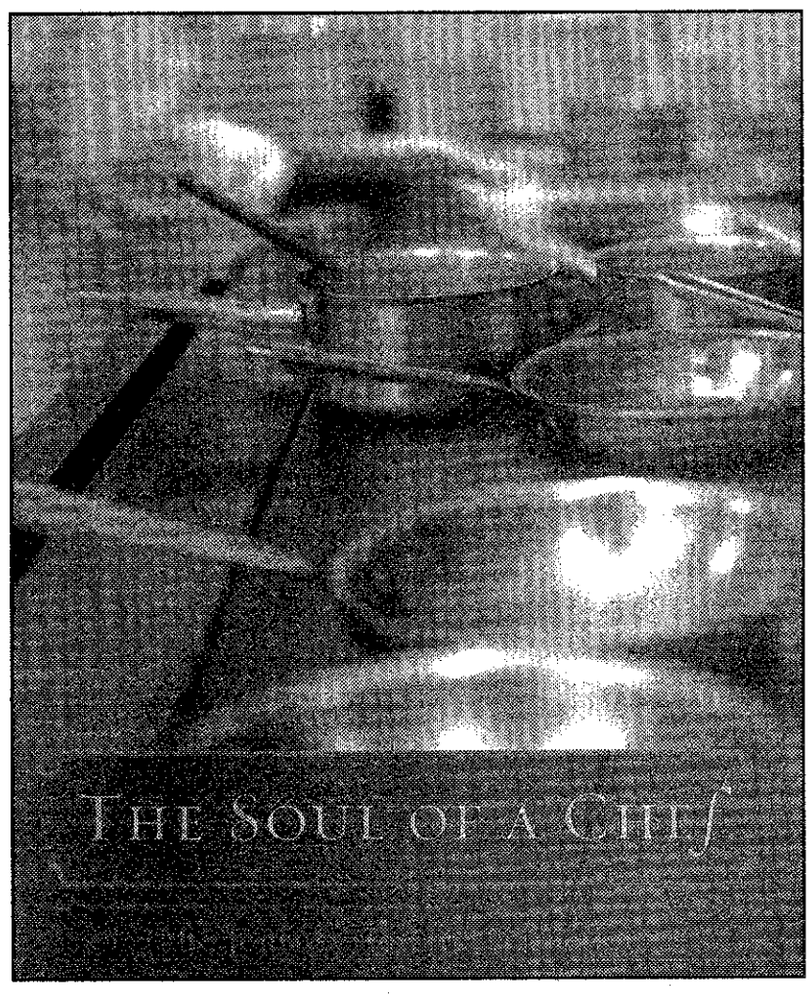

Some surprises are always thrown in along the way, too, just in case anybody is thinking of relaxing or taking a deep breath.

"I feel like I could puke,'" one of the chefs, suffering a bad case of the jitters, says early on.

It's easy to see why. I was led into the fray by Michael Ruhlman's strong and vivid prose, and my hands started to feel a little clammy at this point, too.

Competing chefs

One of those competing for CMC status is Brian Polcyn, owner-chef of the lauded Five Lakes Grill in Milford, and an instructor in the Culinary Arts Department at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. Of six chefs on the staff at Schoolcraft, Polcyn is the only one not a Certified Master Chef. Perhaps this is at least part of the reason why he is back to try the (in)famous test a second time, having missed the mark on his first attempt.

■ The exam involves 10 long days of sweat, occasional tears and sometimes even bloodshed (one of the chefs encounters a sharp and wayward knife).

Author Ruhlman has a hunch it's more complicated than that, however. Here, trying to uncover the reasons why, he concludes that the answers lie in the soul of a chef.

To shed some light on the subject, he takes us to three very different places and acquaints us with three very different chefs: Polcyn, as he sweats the details at the CIA; Michael Symon, a savvy Cleveland restaurateur with no plans to morph into a CMC; and Thomas Keller, proprietor of an acclaimed Napa Valley dining spot called The French Laundry, who claims he learned to make a success of his kitchen by meticulously cleaning his family's bathroom when he was a kid.

Having once been a student at the CIA himself, the articulate Ruhlman makes for an especially sensitive tour guide into the heart of a chef. Readers with an interest in fine food and the often-frenzied drama (Ruhlman calls it "zooey") that goes on behind the scenes in professional kitchens will find "The Soul of a Chef" a four-star literary experience. Those who are curious about what makes certain people tick will find its pages chock-full, packed down, and overflowing with food for thought.

Recipes

Included at the back of the book are 17 "select recipes" from the three featured chefs. Maybe you'd like to try your hand at Duck Terrine with Shiitake Mushrooms and Orange-Ginger Sauce (Brian Polcyn) or Slash and Burn Grouper with Crab Tater Tots, Avocado, and Red Pepper Coulis (Michael Symon) or Cream of Walnut Soup (Thomas Keller).

If you're a little fuzzy right now on what a terrine might be, or a coulis, or even a shiitake mushroom, not to worry. Once you've finished "The Soul of a Chef," you'll know all that, plus much, much more – and it will have proven a joy to learn about.

DISCUSSIONS

What some consider William Faulkner's best novel, The Sound and the Fury, will be the subject of the next book discussion at the Canton Public Library, 1200 S. Canton Center Road. Published in 1929, the book about a declining group of Mississippi aristocrats, was a radical experiment in form and technique in its time. The discussion is set for 7 p.m. Aug. 21 and is sponsored by the Friends of the Canton Public Library. Advanced copies of the book are available. Call (734) 397-0999.

■ World mysticism experts Timothy Freke and Peter Gandy will discuss their new book, The Jesus Mysteries, at Borders Books & Music in Farmington Hills 7 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 23. In the book the authors present evidence that the Jesus of the New Testament is a mythical figure and the Gospels are actually Jewish adaptations of ancient Pagan myths of the dying and resurrecting godman Osiris-Dionysus. The event is free and registration is not necessary. The store is located on Orchard Lake Road north of Thirteen Mile. Call (248) 737-0110.

USED BOOK SALE

The Friends of the Canton Public Library will hold a used book sale Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 26-27. Hardcover books will sell for $1, softcover for 50 cents. The library is located on the west side of Canton Center Road between Cherry Hill and Palmer, just south of Canton Township Hall. Call (734) 397-0999.

POETRY GROUP

■ Bring your writings or your favorite poems to the Plymouth District Library from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. the second Sunday of the month. The format is tailored to the group's likes, and time is divided among the participants. Upcoming date is Aug. 13. Call Don Hewlett at (313) 272-3548 for information. The library is located at 223 S. Main, Plymouth.

STORY TIMES

■ Story times and projects are planned for each Wednesday through Aug. 9 at Waldenbooks, 30200 Plymouth Road, Livonia. Pre-school (3-5 years) meet from 10:15 to 11 a.m., and school age (5-12) meet from 11 a.m. to noon. Call the store for details, (734) 261-7811.

■ The next Kindermusik story time is set for 9:30 a.m. Monday, Aug. 14, at Plymouth Coffee Bean, 884 Penniman in Plymouth. Parents and their children are invited to enjoy free 20-30 minute interactive programs of story telling, music and movement during "Story Time with Miss Karen." Instructor Karen Onkka Schanerberger is a licensed Kindermusik educator at Evola music in Canton. Call (734) 454-0178 for information.

READING PROGRAMS

■ Summer reading programs at the Plymouth District and Canton public libraries are under way with both children's and teen offerings. For children pre-K to teen years, the libraries are offering "Score Big With Books," highlighting the fun and excitement of sports. The 2000 Teen Summer Reading Program is "Hula Hoops' and Hacky Sacks," a decade-by-decade look at the second half of the 20th century. Register and obtain more information for all programs at the readers' advisory desk on the main floor of the Plymouth library, 223 S. Main, or call 453-0750; in Canton, visit the library at 1200 S. Canton Center Road, or call 397-0999.

■ Gift certificates to Wonderland Mall, Buddy's Pizza, Borders Books, and other area stores will be raffled off weekly as part of the Livonia Public Library's summer reading programs, which continue through Aug. 12. Stop by any of the three branches – Carl Sandburg, Seven Mile near Middlebelt; Alfred Noble, Plymouth at Farmington; and Civic Center off Farmington east of Five Mile – and sign up for youth or young adult programs.

SUMMER ART TILE FAIR

Members of the Village Potters Guild in Plymouth will exhibit their clay tiles in Pewabic Pottery's Antique & Contemporary Summer Art Tile Fair 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 13 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Tickets are $5. For information, call (313) 822-0954.

CALL FOR SINGERS

The Schoolcraft College Community Choir will hold auditions for new members 7:30-10 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 29 in room 310 of the forum building on campus, 18600 Haggerty, between Six and Seven Mile Road, Livonia.

Director Mark Perrine invites experienced singers of all voice parts to call to set up an audition. This season's repertoire includes music by Handel, Britten, Brahms, and Holst. Choir members are invited to try out for solo and small ensemble opportunities.

To schedule an audition, call Perrine at (313) 937-0975.

FINE ARTS FESTIVAL

Canton wildlife photographer Ted Nelson, Livonia painter Patrick J. Freer, and Observer photography columnist Monte Nagler are three of the artists showing their work in the first SnapOne Fine Arts Festival 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday-Sunday, Aug. 18-20 at the Novi Expo Center.

Admission is $6 adults, children under 12 free. Proceeds benefit the Capuchin Soup Kitchen. For more information, call (810) 227-5183.

Among the other exhibitors are Art Leaders Gallery, West Bloomfield, and Brother Vincent from the Capuchin Soup Kitchen. There also will be a mixture of media including glass, sculptured handbags, jewelry, metal art, and hand dyed silk scarves.

SUMMER DANCE INTENSIVE

The CounterGroove Dance Company wants to teach people to "Survive the Moment" through dance at its Summer Intensive continuing through Aug. 12 at Wayne State University. For more information or to register, call (313) 577-4273.

Suits, fur, skins are in for fall

CARI WALDMAN

Every year about this time, my thoughts start to wander towards fall fashion.

Sitting at the beach still donning this season's thin strapped tank top and backless shoe, I force myself to focus on the moment and enjoy the last month of summer. But at the same time, there is a welcoming comfort in the thought of a butter soft leather coat, football games and making soup on Sundays. Any way you look at it, each season has its highlights.

I know I must not be alone on this. At least a dozen readers have emailed in recently, asking for the next season's trends. So, ready or not. September is just around the corner. And luckily for us, fall is about luxury and shine. Ahhh, something to look forward to.

The Statements.

There has been a return to feminine dressing for a few seasons now. So the 80's lady continues.

And in five words, 'the return of the suit ' sums up the biggest statement of the year.

So if you want to invest in one key look, perhaps, this may be the strongest buy.

This time around, the best new suits are shining in rich herringbones and concentrated tweeds. Designers are using graphic bold and vibrant prints and patterns on everything from spike stiletto shoes to dresses.

And across the board, there is wide focus on color and detail, with an emphasis on rich hues like saturated evergreens and reds.

The Details.

Fur trim details will be spotted on everything from suit jackets, sweaters and even the occasional dress.

From Sable and mink, to faux fur trims, from chocolate to black, a generous dose of fur will be one way to kick up your wardrobe. Crocodile skin and alligator skin also will storm the season, as well as Asian inspired details and asymmetrical cut tops and skirts.

So what are we going to wear are you wondering? The looks sound rich and somewhat easy to wear, but expensive. So start saving.

There certainly are options for the individualist who wants to create her own look. The fashion story for fall remains lady-like and the key word is polished. Believe me, the clothes are great for this next season.

But Relax. Please, there is certainly no need to rush what's left of summer. There are bigger problems, like how to interpret these trends in between seasons when it's cold enough to wear tweed in the morning and then warm enough for that tank top by noon.

Oh, we can figure that one out next month.

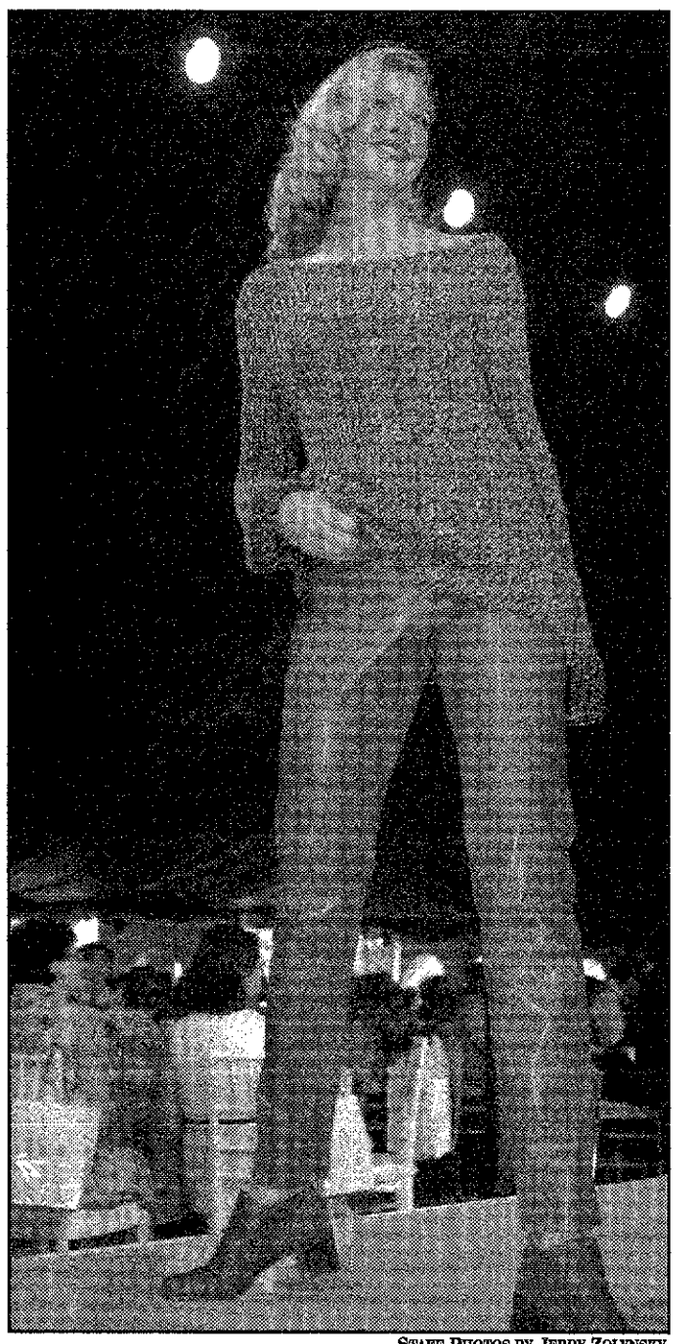

Stay tuned.

Designing for every figure

BY SHARON DARGAY
STAFF WRITER

The solitary gold leaf on Dana Buchman's press packet seemed to say it all:

Expect to see luxury, texture and bold, rich color this fall.

Buchman's designs, paraded on the runway Friday at Oakland University's Meadow Brook Hall, fulfilled every expectation.

Buchman designed the garments, from feminine, tailored suits to sexy taffeta skirts and shimmery copper bead blouses, to flatter women of "all sizes."

"Women come in all shapes and sizes and there are diverse ways to be beautiful," she told the audience at Meadow Brook's Mode du Concours fashion show. "My job a designer is to design for us all."

The Mode du Concours event was part of a weekend celebration that includes an art exhibition and reception, classic and antique automobile display and tours of the historic hall.

Concours d'Elegance, the auto exhibit, runs from 9 a.m., to 4:30 p.m., today. Tickets are $20 for adults and $10 for children, age 13-17. Call (248)370-3140 for tickets.

Tours of Meadow Brook Hall include a glimpse into the life of its former owner, Matilda Dodge Wilson. Her clothing and accessories from the 1940s are on display in the mansion's living room through this month.

Cheryl Hall Lindsay, regional fashion and events director for Saks Fifth Avenue, sees a hint of the 1940s in Buchman's fall collection.

"It has modern sophistication and it's easy to wear, even though it's a throw back to traditional lines. It's retro inspired, back to the forties."

The fall, midwinter and holiday collection a smattering of animal and snake print fabrics, a touch of fur tailoring and lots of luxurious, soft and almost snuggly cashmere and wool.

"The melange of texture and luxury in fabric and color is really fabulous," Hall Lindsay said. " It's eye candy colors ranging from pink and charcoal, acid green to cobalt blue.

"It just makes you feel better."

The Buchman collection, a division of Liz Claiborne, Inc., includes seven labels, and is known for exquisite fabrics, fine detailing and consistent fit.

"I think Dana Buchman is, in my opinion, every woman's designer. She understands what flatters a woman's body and she designs clothing to compliment and flatter a woman's figure," Hall Lindsay said.

"She's not designing only for the runway," she said. "She's designing for the real world."

Party at Fash Bash and help the art institute

BY SHARON DARGAY
STAFF WRITER

Denise Demers Stein remembers walking down the spiral staircase and looking up at tall suits of armor during childhood field trips to the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Until I was an adult, I didn't completely appreciate it," said Demers Stein, Bloomfield Hills, a member of the DIA's Founders Junior Council and co-chair of Fash Bash, the council's major annual fund-raiser.

She hopes future adults will cherish their own pleasant memories of the art institute and build a lasting and supportive friendship with the museum.

And she knows the Founders Juniors Council plays a strong role in fostering "life long relationships" between children and the DIA.

"The real purpose of the Founders Junior Council is to bring young friends to the museum. Our job is to have the museum be an inviting place for young people.

"Our main purpose is to bring young people in."

Fash Bash, scheduled for Aug. 11, won't draw many youngsters but will benefit them indirectly by raising funds for Founders Junior Council-supported exhibits and programs.

Tickets for the jam packed evening of fashion, entertainment and food, are $30, (individual), $45, (sponsor), and $175, (patron).

Patrons attend a private reception with strolling supper, desserts and a live auction at the State Theatre in downtown Detroit. They also get exclusive seating for the fashion show at the Fox Theatre and an invitation to the After Glow at the Tiger Club at Comerica Park.

Individual and sponsor ticket-holders may attend the fashion show at 8 p.m. and the popular After Bash at the State Theatre.

Tickets are available at all TicketMaster outlets and at the Fox Theatre box office. Or by calling (248)645-6666.

Dayton Hudson's produces the fashion show in Minneapolis before bringing it to Detroit and then taking it to Chicago.

"We make it unique and fabulous in each market," said Michelle Shulman, Hudson's manager of special events and publicity. "I think each year we surpass the prior year."

With its Nightlife theme, Fash Bash will transform the Fox Theatre stage into Studio 54 and other hot night spots as a backdrop for clothing created by designers including Donna Karan, Ellen Tracy, Jean Paul Gaultier and more.

Queen Latifah and 1970s disco diva Gloria Gaynor, headline the show, which includes performances by New York acrobat troupe, Antigravity, and KISS ARMY.

For the first time in its 30-year history, Fash Bash will move from a week day to a Friday night.

"We wanted to make it fresh and we were looking for an opportunity to keep people downtown," Demers Stein explained. "We feel that Fash Bash is different from other events. It's a party night and not just another charity event."

Retail, style and special store events are listed in this calendar. Please send information to: Malls & Mainstreets, c/o Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, 805 East Maple, Birmingham, MI 48009. Fax: (248) 644-1314. Information must be received by 5 p.m. Monday for publication the following Sunday.

WHERE CAN I FIND?

This interactive feature is dedicated to helping readers locate merchandise that's difficult to find through reader feedback. If you've seen or are looking for an item, call (248) 901-2555 and leave a message with your name and phone number. We publish readers' requests for merchandise twice. If you don't hear from us or see information about the item within a few weeks, we were unable to locate it. When we find an item owned by another reader, rather than for sale at a store, we will call you. But, please, be patient; we handle an overwhelming number of requests each week.

TRAVEL

All aboard

Treat yourself to a culinary adventure

Grand Traverse Dinner Train is an ideal way to take in 60 miles of northern Michigan landscapes and savor the gourmet cuisine of Chef Steven Michalski.

The dinner train offers two tours each day of operation departing from Traverse City at 12:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. on weekdays and noon and 6 p.m. on weekends. Excursions take up to 3 hours.

The excursions roam the Boardman River Valley and Pere Marquette Forest, for a 60-mile tour, while tuxedoed staff present a five-course gourmet meal, prepared from fresh ingredients aboard by Michalski and his talented crew. One of the many distinct features of the Grand Traverse Dinner Train which sets it apart from rail dining establishments in the country, is the menu of four entrees presented to passengers once boarded. The cost for the dining excursion is an all-inclusive ticket price of $75, covering the rail fare, meal cost, tax and gratuity.

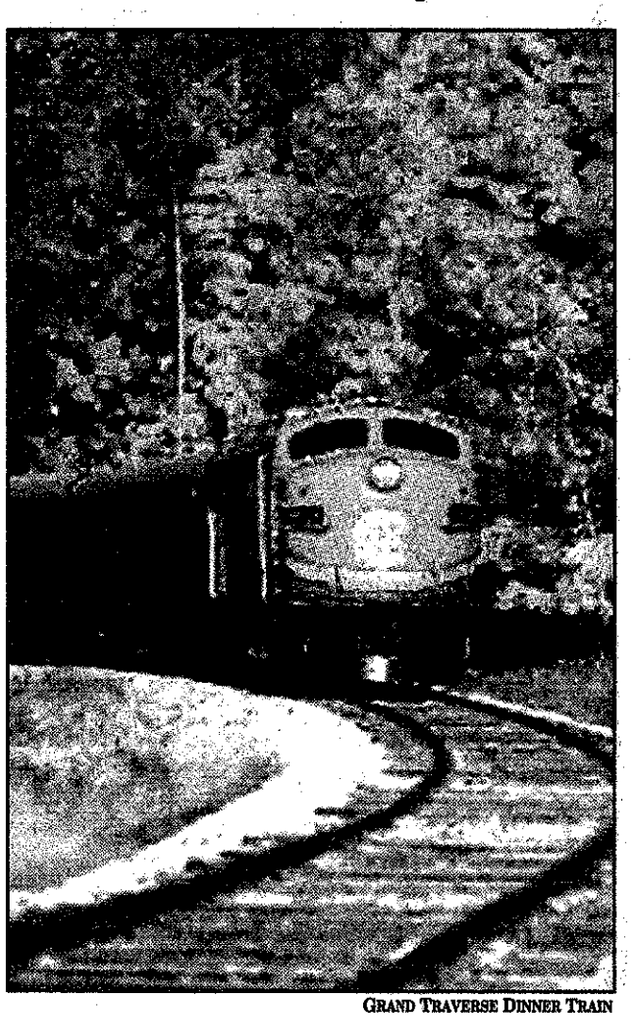

The historic Traverse City Railway Station provides an elegant staging area for the company's events.

Once on board the nostalgic dinner train, and as the sun sets on the horizon, passengers relax in the company of their guests in luxuriously appointed, Pullman-style carriages. Halogen lamps mounted on the outside of the train illuminate the scenery during evening departures, as the train ambles through woodland settings.

The dinner train accommodates a total of 224 passengers. Four dining cars seat 56 passengers.

The train is climate controlled and outfitted with full service bars and rest rooms for the comfort of on board passengers. All dining tables seat four passengers each and are centered on windows, to provide clear view of the route for all passengers.

These Pullman-style dining cars, dating from 1936 to 1939, and for three decades ran from San Diego to New Orleans as part of the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited.

GRAND TRAVERSE DINNER TRAIN

Terrific train: Take an excursion down memory lane and enjoy dinner too aboard the Grand Traverse Dinner Train.

Two matching 1500-hp diesel locomotives, which power the train, were built in 1950 by the Electro- Motive Division of General Motors in LaGrange, Illinois. The type that ushered in the Golden Age of cross-country train travel for the Santa Fe Super Chief, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Burlington and others following World War II, these locomotives spent their youth in the Northwest Pacific and are two of only 100 remaining in the country.

The kitchen car once was a baggage car in service from 1936. Positioned in the center of the consist, this coach now houses two full-line kitchens, complete with all the modern conveniences to service the articulated dining cars.

Operating year round, on Saturdays in winter and early spring, three to five days a week during July and August and seven days a week in the fall season, the 1950's vintage dinner train escorts more than 20,000 guests a year throughout the Grand Traverse region.

It is an excursion down memory lane for those who can recall the glory of cross country travel, and an opportunity to discover un-chartered territory for newcomers, both to railway travel and the Grand Traverse region.

FOCUS ON WINE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Napa's Mondavi goes forward to tradition

A visit to the Robert Mondavi winery in California's Napa Valley is a reminder that with decades of experience, this winery is advancing forward to the past.

At first, this may seem strange, so here's the explanation. "Evolution of wine awareness worldwide caused us to pause and think about California and the international role of the Robert Mondavi Winery," said Tim Mondavi, managing director and winegrower.

As son of the winery's founder Robert Mondavi, Tim worked at the winery every summer since its founding in 1966. Once graduated in 1974 from the University of California at Davis with a degree in enology and viticulture, his full-time involvement has grown. Today, he guides the expression, style, and quality of all the Robert Mondavi family of wines in addition to participating with his father and brother Michael in the strategic direction of the company.

Currently, much of that revolves around the To Kalon Project, the first major refurbishing of the 34-year old mission-style landmark Robert Mondavi Winery in the heart of the Napa Valley. "We think it's an indicator of where not only Robert Mondavi wines, but the whole industry is headed in the 21st century," Tim said. "With this project, our new winery is looking forward to the past."

This means that Robert Mondavi Winery is returning to traditional oak fermentations and gentle gravity-flow winemaking for its ultra-premium and luxury cabernet sauvignon wines. The name To Kalon, honors the vineyard of the same name surrounding the winery.

Proof in the tasting

Among top European producers, wines are all about an expression of the place, including the soil, climate, and best grapes suited to the conditions. The French call this terroir.

In 20th-century California, a winemaker's influence rather than the place prevailed. "We're now reaching a better balance between the two concepts," Tim Mondavi said. "The dynamics between land, cellar, and vine must be expressed in the wine."

This is easily understood if you conduct a comparative tasting of ultra-premium Robert Mondavi Winery cabernet sauvignons. Tim's wife Holly is a renowned chef. Her food suggestions accompany our tasting notes.

■ 1997 Robert Mondavi Winery Stags Leap District Cabernet Sauvignon $45 is elegant, what we call a "pretty" wine. It showcases the blackberry, black currant fruit characters so prevalent in the best cabernets from the Stags Leap District of Napa Valley. Lengthy, with good grip and round tannins, it is outstanding with fillet of beef or veal with low-level spicing, a simple potato gratin and parsley-garnished fresh green beans, cooked crisp tender.

Spirits Pick

White spirits, those that are colorless and clear, are gaining in popularity. The newest and best in the category of flavored vodkas is Grey Goose Vodka L'Orange from France $31. In breakthrough packaging that uses magnifying glass to create a 3-D image of a Paul Cezanne still-life adds to the attraction. "There are other citrus-flavored vodkas," said John Lossia, owner of Merchants Fine Wines in Royal Oak. "Grey Goose is the best infused, making it better than the others." Lossia suggests Vodka L'Orange on the rocks with a lemon or orange peel or an orange slice on the edge of the glass. We tried it as a new-age vodka and tonic with Schweppes – a very refreshing summertime tall cocktail.

TOMATOES RED AND RIPE

PLUMP AND DELICIOUS, 'LOVE APPLES' ARE READY FOR YOU TO HARVEST

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK

Bright red, they're summertime beacons that brighten supermarket aisles and farmers markets with their warmth. Their sweet, ever-so-slightly pungent aroma never fails to draw a crowd.

From the cherry and grape to Roma and beefsteak, the beloved Michigan-grown tomato is making its annual, much anticipated appearance.

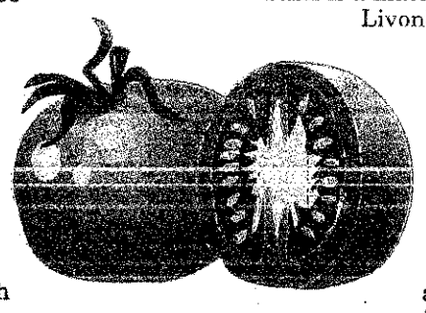

Firmly entrenched in the American garden and marketplace, you'll find tomatoes in recipes around the world: Italians simmer them in sauces, Mexicans mince them for salsa, the French cook them in ratatouille and the Spanish use them in gazpacho.

Linda Girard grows tomatoes and other crops for a living with her husband, Mark, at Rowe's Produce Farm in Ypsilanti.

"They look pretty nice, even though the weather's been kind of goofy," Linda said. Michigan has received enough rain for this year's crop to be a good one, she said.

Nutritious

Tomatoes deliciously add valuable nutrients and antioxidants to the diet. Naturally low fat and nutritious, they are an essential ingredient in countless American and ethnic recipes.

Low in calories, tomatoes are rich in dietary fiber, vitamin C, beta-carotene, potassium and iron. They also contain significant amounts of lycopene, a potent antioxidant that has been linked to lower cancer incidence in a number of scientific studies. Cooking tomatoes actually enhances the lycopene content by breaking down cell walls and making the phytochemical more available.

People love to slice them raw on sandwiches, sprinkle balsamic vinaigrette on them or cut them up for a little salsa. Cooks add them to soups, create fish sauces with them and mix up spaghetti sauces.

Farm fresh

Fresh Michigan tomatoes are at the peak of their flavor from July to September. Girard expects soon people can pick their own at Rowe's farm within a few days with bushels of tomatoes available next week. She advises pickers to call first to check availability.

"You want to look for some that don't have bad spots from settling on the ground. If they grow a little crooked or are scratched, that's OK," Girard said.

"You want to take the stem off so they don't poke each other."

They should be a little soft when picked. If they are going to be used right away, pickers can choose a riper tomato. If they have started to ripen, they will continue ripen on their own once they are picked, Girard said.

Girard likes her tomatoes fresh off the vine with a little salt, but people enjoy them on bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches or salads, she said.

Michigan vine-ripened tomatoes "have such a great taste" when compared to hothouse tomatoes, she said.

Make me a match

With the herbs also now available, tomatoes and basil is a match made in heaven for Beverly Len of Livonia.

She loves the pungent taste of basil with the tomatoes. "It permeates them," Len said. She enjoys the two flavors in her Presto, It's Pesto recipe.

She loves to slice a "really good red tomato" and flavor it with basil, olive oil, balsamic vinegar and shredded mozzarella.

"I like to roll up the basil like a cigar, and use scissors to cut it. You end up with strips of basil." That herb is then used as a topping.

Her favorite tomatoes are stemmed cherry tomatoes, which she grills or broils with just a sprinkle of sugar. "The sugar melts and 'caramelizes' them," Len said.

Tomatoes and basil also mix well with zucchini and a generous amount of garlic for another topping on a chicken breast on a bed of rice, Len said.

More tips

According to the California Tomato Commission, ripe tomatoes should be completely red or reddish-orange, have a sweet subtle aroma and give slightly to gentle palm pressure.

The commission recommends that to maintain their delicate flavor, do not refrigerate tomatoes. Cold temperatures cause tomatoes to lose their flavor and change in texture. Store them at room temperature.

Basil flavors tomatoes well

Beverly Len's basil went wild this year, much of it going to seed early.

"I can't stand to waste basil, so I harvested and headed for the kitchen," said Len, who lives in Livonia.

If you love basil, Len says to "hold on to your taste buds" for this recipe.

PRESTO, IT'S PESTO

2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
1 large garlic clove
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Italian seasonings (Spice Classics, etc.)
2 to 3 cups fresh basil, stems and all
1/8 cup sauvignon blanc (optional)

Wash basil and pat dry. In a food chopper, add olive oil, garlic, salt & Italian seasoning (chop). Add basil, small amounts at a time, until well chopped. Yields approximately 3/4 cup.

Remove pesto to a small bowl and stir in sauvignon blanc.

PASTA

Cook your favorite pasta, el dente, and drain as usual. Toss 2 tablespoons of pesto per 1 1/2 cups of cooked pasta. Add 6 quartered cherry tomatoes.

Serve hot as a side dish, or cold as a salad with bread sticks or garlic bread.

What to look for when purchasing your tomatoes

Most fresh tomatoes sold in supermarkets are firm, but not yet ripe. That's because soft, ripe fruit is easily bruised, even under today's highly controlled shipping conditions.

But the fruit will ripen properly and develop good flavor and aroma if kept at room temperature, between 55° F and 70° F.

Select tomatoes at various degrees of ripeness and keep them at room temperature. Use the ripest fruit first, just as you do with bananas and avocados.

Never refrigerate a tomato that is not fully red or ripe. Cold temperatures destroy flavor and stop the ripening process. Once fully ripe, a tomato can be refrigerated, but only for a few days; any longer results in flavor deterioration.

To enjoy fresh tomatoes at their peak of flavor, use when fully ripe.

Ripe tomatoes should be completely red or reddish-orange, depending on variety. They will have a sweet, subtle aroma and will give slightly to gentle palm pressure.

To hasten ripening, place fresh tomatoes in a brown paper bag or in a fruit ripening bowl. As the fruit ripens, it emits a natural gas – ethylene. This gas speeds up the ripening process when confined around the fruit in a closed bag or fruit ripening bowl.

This same ethylene gas can also be commercially applied to fresh tomatoes and other fresh fruits. This external application initiates the natural ripening process in such fruits as tomatoes, apples, bananas, and citrus. Numerous studies show that externally applied ethylene does not change flavor or nutritional potential.

Convention the icing on the cake for decorators

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Betty Bourne of Redford craves sugar.

But it's not what you think. It's the look of cake decorations or what cake decorators call "sugar art" that is so appealing and fascinating to Bourne.

"It's not so much that it's an attraction, it's an addiction," Bourne said explaining why she's looking forward to the 25th Anniversary International Cake Exploration Societé's Sugar Art Show and Convention, Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 12-13, at the Renaissance Center Marriott Hotel in Detroit.

"There will be 1,200 cakes on display with different types of frostings and decorations," said Bonnie Santoro of Redford. Santoro creates "sugar art" – flowers out of icing for the cakes – while Bourne makes the actual wedding cakes.

For couples who are getting married or bakers and decorators, the show is a chance to see what confections artists can create, such as a 1958 Cadillac convertible.

What: The 25th Anniversary International Cake Exploration's Societe's Sugar Art Show and Convention.
When: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 12-13.
Where: Renaissance Center Marriott Hotel, in Detroit.
Tickets: $5 per person at the door, $2 will be donated to "Paws with a Cause." For more information, visit www.ices.org, or call (313) 702-5934.

Michigan participants

An entry from 30 Michigan participants features 25 cakes situated around a single cake with a large banner that proclaims this year's convention theme – "Caring & Sharing."

In fact, the Michigan contingent used 25 different techniques – one on each cake – for its exhibit, including airbrushing, pulled sugar and Vincent marketry decorating methods, the last of which is similar to an inlay of wood in a floor. Another method – smocking – is similar to the technique used with fabric, explained Kris Jablonski of Redford, who is the events coordinator for this year's convention.

It's the Michigan group's way of paying tribute to the different techniques for the 25th annual show, Jablonski said. "There are so many techniques and they (Societé members) bring so many ideas to the show."

Artists mix and stir sugar and chocolate, then pour and mold, bake and form, blow and pull, press, swirl and cut the material into edible art.

"These cakes are totally different," Santoro said. "For example, European cakes have a lot of fruit or marzipan, while the Filipino cakes use tropical flowers and unusual colors."

Tomato taste

Try a little salsa, sauce in dishes

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Here's recipes that work great with fresh tomatoes.

Tomatoes can be peeled quickly by dropping them in boiling water for about 30 seconds. They can be seeded by slicing them in half, across the core, then rinsed with cold water.

The first recipe features an excellent homemade salsa. (Remember to use rubber or plastic gloves when handling and cutting jalapeno peppers.) The peppers, cilantro and garlic can be adjusted accordingly to fit your own personal taste.

If you prefer a thinner salsa, run it through a blender. If not, chop the tomatoes large enough so they can be slightly cooked without completely liquefying.

The second recipe features a delicious sauce to be served on top of grilled fish, such as a tuna, halibut or salmon. The third recipe highlights oven-roasted tomatoes.

SALSA

- 3 medium tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
- 2 tablespoons jalapeno peppers, seeded, rinsed and chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped Vidalia or white onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 cup snipped cilantro
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1/2 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon sugar

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Bring to a slow boil over medium heat, then simmer immediately and let cool. Refrigerate. Serve with Tostitos or other corn chips.

Recipe courtesy of Taste Editor Ken Abramczyk.

SAUCE PROVENCALE

- 2 ripe tomatoes, peeled (about 1 pound)
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 tablespoons chopped shallots
- 1 teaspoon finely minced garlic
- 2 tablespoons basil, chopped
- 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- Salt to taste (if desired)
- Freshly ground pepper to taste

Cut peeled and seeded tomatoes into quarter-inch cubes. Set aside.

Put the vinegar in a mixing bowl and add the oil, shallots, garlic and chopped herbs. Mix, then add tomato. Add the lemon rind, salt and pepper. Blend well with a whisk.

Recipe reprinted and adapted from The Seafood Cookbook: Classic to Contemporary by Pierre Franey and Bryan Miller, copyright 1986, Times Books.

OVEN-ROASTED TOMATOES

- 6 medium tomatoes, sliced crosswise 1/2- to 3/4-inch thick
- Olive oil
- Salt, pepper and sugar

Heat oven to 300 degrees F. Line two baking sheets with aluminum foil; generously rub with oil.

Arrange tomato slices in a single layer on prepared baking sheets. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and sugar. Roast until the tomatoes shrivel, the edges start to turn brown and most of the liquid around the tomatoes has caramelized, about 1 hour.

Roasted tomatoes will keep four or five days in the refrigerator.

change in texture. Store them at room temperature, just as you would bananas.

There are many ways to enjoy tomatoes – cooked in sauces, juice or soup, or raw in sandwiches or salads.

If you didn't plant any tomatoes this year take a ride out to Rowe's Produce Farm where you can pick your own.

There's nothing sweeter or juicier than a tomato off the vine.

Rowe's Produce Farm, 10570 Martz Road, Ypsilanti, expects to begin offering u-pick tomatoes at their farm within the next week.

Bushels of tomatoes for canning will be available for purchase within the next two weeks. Call (734) 482-8538 for information.

Glazed grilled salmon

Summer's here and the time is right for grilling in the heat. Try this delicious and healthy Alaskan salmon recipe.

GRILLED ALASKA SALMON WITH RED CURRANT GLAZE

- 1 cup red currant jelly
- 4 (4 oz. each) Alaska salmon steaks, thawed if necessary
- Salt and black pepper
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons Balsamic vinegar
- 2 teaspoons Dijon-style mustard
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- Fresh berries, to garnish

Melt 1/2 cup jelly in small saucepan over low heat. Season salmon steaks with salt and pepper and brush with melted jelly. Place salmon on well-oiled grill 5 inches from coals. Grill 10 minutes per inch of thickness, or until fish flakes when tested with a fork. Turn halfway through cooking. Meanwhile, melt remaining 1/2 cup jelly in another saucepan over low heat. Stir in lemon juice, vinegar and mustard. Whisk in olive oil and season to taste with salt and pepper. Place each salmon steak on a plate. Spoon 2 tablespoons red currant-mustard sauce around steaks. Garnish with berries.

Mustard flavors chutney

FRESH TOMATO CHUTNEY

- 1-1/2 tablespoons mustard seeds
- 1/2 tablespoon sugar (see note)
- 2 tablespoons finely minced fresh coriander leaves (sometimes labeled "Chinese parsley")
- 1-3 small green chilies, chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 small tomatoes, halved
- 1 small mild onion such as a Bermuda or Vidalia, halved

Place a skillet over medium heat and add mustard seeds. Toast seeds until they begin to pop. Place seeds, sugar, coriander, chilies, pepper and lemon juice into a food processor or blender. Mix until ingredients form a paste.

Add tomatoes and onions. Pulse on low speed carefully, until tomatoes are just barely broken down into small pieces. Be careful to not over-process.

Let stand at least one hour at room temperature before serving, although a longer period, up to 8 hours, is preferable for the flavors to blend and mellow. It can be stored covered, in the refrigerator, for up to three days.

The convention gives bakers, cake decorators, and Societe members a chance to meet and exchange ideas.

"It really is a way to interact with people from all over the world," Jablonski said.

Although this is an art show, the entries won't be judged. For the participants, being allowed to display their work is honor enough.

The edible art featured at the convention is a high art form, said Jablonski, a graduate of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts program, and a cake decorator.

Jablonski said he's learned about gumpaste – a form of sugar flowers – and rolled fondant, popular in parts of Europe, South America and Australia, by attending these conventions.

Fill up on fiber with oranges, raisins and bulgur

■ Fiber is a a key component in diets that feature fruit, vegetables, grains and beans, and these plant-based diets have been iinked to a host of health-promoting benefits in hundreds of research studies.

For many years dietary fiber was commonly called "roughage," and its most important role in a healthy diet was thought to be its contribution to improved digestion.

Today, however, we recognize that fiber has a lot more to offer. It's a key component in diets that feature fruit, vegetables, grains and beans, and these plant-based diets have been linked to a host of health-promoting benefits in hundreds of research studies.

Health experts recommend 20 to 35 grams of fiber a day for most people in order to reduce the risk of chronic diseases like cancer and heart disease. Americans currently eat an average of only 11-14 grams of fiber a day, so there's lots of room for improvement – through a diet rich in fruits, vegetables and grains.

If you eat two to four servings of fruit, three to five servings of vegetables and six to 11 servings of cereal and grain foods each day (as recommended in the USDA food pyramid), you should easily reach the 20 to 35 gram goal.

Start the day with a whole-grain cereal that contains at least five grams of fiber per serving (check the nutrition label for fiber content). Boost that amount by topping your cereal with fiber-rich wheat germ, raisins, bananas or berries.

Keep fresh fruit on hand for snacks. Avoid peeling fruits and vegetables, since eating the skin provides a lot more fiber. To cook them, steam or microwave until just tender-crisp.

Most people consume plenty of grain products, but for adequate fiber, choose whole-grain products such as bulgur, barley or kasha, as well as whole-grain breads, cereals and pasta. Put more beans in your meals by adding some to soups, stews and salads, and by occasionally substituting dishes made with beans (lentil soup, veggie chili, bean burritos) for dishes made with meat.

Can't you just take a fiber supplement? These products don't have all the nutrients that high-fiber foods do, and they don't contain the cancer-fighting substances found in fruits, vegetables, grains and beans. So, you're far better off getting your fiber from real food. Just remember to take it slow when increasing the fiber content of your diet. Add a little at a time to allow your digestive tract to adjust, and be sure to drink at least eight cups of fluid a day.

ORANGE AND RAISIN BULGUR SALAD

1 cup bulgur (uncooked)
2 cups hot water
2 teaspoon or 2 cubes low-sodium chicken broth (optional)
1/2 cup raisins
2 oranges
1 1/2 - 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 tablespoon orange juice
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon sugar (or less to taste; optional)
4 teaspoons olive oil

Place bulgur in saucepan with water and broth granules or cubes. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat. Checking frequently, simmer 15-18 minutes until liquid is absorbed and bulgur is just tender.

Place raisins in a small bowl and cover with water until plump. Meanwhile, peel oranges and cut into sections.

To make the dressing, whisk together juices, cinnamon, sugar and oil.

When bulgur is done, transfer to a large strainer. Remove excess water by shaking the strainer or, if necessary, squeezing by hand.

Whisk dressing again quickly, pour over salad and toss gently.

The salad can be served immediately but will taste better if the flavors are allowed to develop for 30 minutes or more. It can be prepared ahead and refrigerated, covered, for 1 to 2 days.

Chili cooks and salsa makers are being sought for two cookoffs in Plymouth this fall.

The Michigan State Chili Championship occurs Saturday, Sept. 9, in an open air (but covered) pavilion called "The Gathering" in downtown Plymouth.

The Great Lakes Regional Chili Cookoff occurs Saturday, Oct. 7, at The Gathering in Plymouth.

Both cookoffs include salsa contests.

The winners of the Sept. 9 competition (one chili and one salsa) will be automatically entered in the World Championship Chili Cookoff Sunday, Oct. 1, in Las Vegas.

The chili winner also gets $1,000. The salsa winner gets $100.

The winners of the Oct. 7 competition (one chili and one salsa) will be automatically entered in the October 2001 World Championship Chili Cookoff.

The chili winner also gets $1,000. The salsa winner gets $100.

The chili entry fee is $35 for members of the International Chili Society, $65 for others.

lets, anise, chocolate, and coffee notes. Tannins are more evident and to soften them during the youthful period, try crispy duck breast, with a cassis-sage jus.

■ 1997 Robert Mondavi Winery Cabernet Sauvignon Reserve $120 is a melange of black fruits. A full, rich, round wine with coffee and chocolate nuances. This wine of opulence and generosity calls for classic leg of lamb with garlic and rosemary, accompanied by small roasted potatoes or Tuscan white beans.

■ 1997 Robert Mondavi Winery To Kalon Vineyard Cabernet Sauvignon $150 (available soon) is an expression of black cherry, violets, cigar box aromas and earthy characters. Of all the cabernets, it is the most Bordeaux-like and food focused. Holly Mondavi suggests a simple pasta tossed with olive oil and fresh mushrooms or a tomato-basil sauce. A grilled veal chop is also a good choice.

While enjoying these wines, consider this marvelous Robert Mondavi quote: "Wine is the natural gift of our creator. It is one of our most enjoyable foods. It has been with us since civilization began and is a part of our heritage, traditions, and the gracious way of life. When used intelligently, wine feeds not only the body, but the soul and spirit, stimulating the mind, making life happier and more creative."

MEDICAL BRIEFS

Immunization clinic

St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia will offer an Infant and Child Immunization Clinic from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 17. Please use the south entrance off Levan Road. Cost is $5 per child no matter how many immunizations are given.

Health care professionals from St. Mary Hospital will administer the vaccines. All state-required immunizations will be administered pending availability of serum, including hepatitis B and Hib, for children under age 18. Please bring all available immunization records with you. No registration is required.

Children need 12 to 16 doses of different vaccines before their second birthday to be protected from serious childhood diseases. These shots can be administered in about five visits to a health clinic or private physician. For more information, call (734) 655-8940.

Hospice training

The summer volunteer training program for Community Hospice & Home Care Services begins Monday, Aug. 21, and runs six nights ending Thursday, Aug. 31. Classes will be held at the CHHCS offices on the northwest corner of Warren and Venoy in Westland Aug. 21, 23, 25, 28, 30 and 31.

Volunteers are needed to serve individuals and their families in Western Wayne County and Oakland County. In addition to patient care, special volunteer needs include hairdressers/barbers, masseuses, musicians, singers, craftsmen, office help and people willing to offer companionship.

The training program is offered free of charge. Participants will learn about the hospice care concept, effective communication skills, family dynamics, grief, bereavement and spirituality. Interaction among attendees is encouraged.

For more information or to register for the training, call (734) 522-4244.

Blood drive

The American Red Cross will sponsor a community blood drive at St. Mary Mercy Hospital 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 24, in the hospital auditorium. The American Red Cross encourages area residents to join hospital employees and volunteers to donate blood.

The message from the American Red Cross is urgent: Blood supplies are critically low. Please donate blood before the upcoming Labor Day holiday.

St. Mary Mercy Hospital is located at 36475 Five Mile Road at Levan. Please use the Five Mile entrance. To schedule a time to donate, call St. Mary Mercy Hospital at (734) 655-2907. Walk-ins are accepted, but appointments are preferred.

Chemically free

The Multiple Chemical Sensitivity Friends extends an invitation to attend their next meeting 2-5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 13, at Heritage Park in Farmington Hills, between 10 Mile and 11 Mile, west side of Farmington Road.

Bring chairs and a potluck dish with the ingredients listed. No fragrances, please. For more information, call (248) 349-4972.

Quick and accurate decisions needed in the emergency room

BY RENÉE SKOGLUND
STAFF WRITER
rskoglund@oe.homecomm.net

Emergency room doctors must have nerves of steel and bulls-eye diagnostic ability.

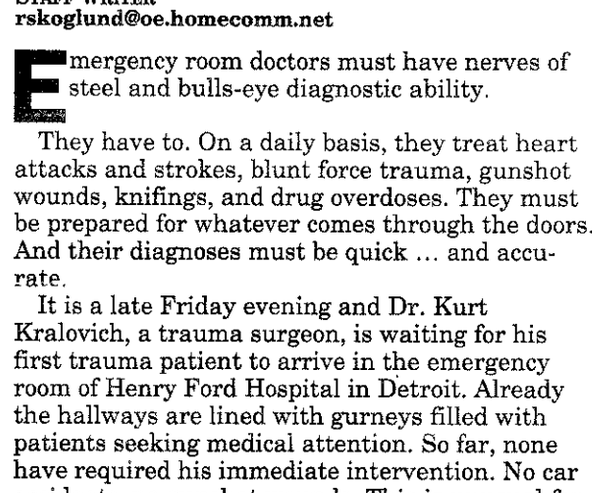

They have to. On a daily basis, they treat heart attacks and strokes, blunt force trauma, gunshot wounds, knifings, and drug overdoses. They must be prepared for whatever comes through the doors. And their diagnoses must be quick ... and accurate.

It is a late Friday evening and Dr. Kurt Kralovich, a trauma surgeon, is waiting for his first trauma patient to arrive in the emergency room of Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit. Already the hallways are lined with gurneys filled with patients seeking medical attention. So far, none have required his immediate intervention. No car accidents, no gunshot wounds. This is unusual for the Level I trauma center.

At 33, Kralovich is among the youngest staff trauma surgeons in the state. His peers refer to him as "trauma magnet" because he often sees the most severe cases whenever he is on duty. Ask Kralovich which cases he enjoys treating the most, and the answer borders on dark humor.

"Abdominal or vascular gunshot wounds, morbid as it sounds, are the most kind of fun," he says.

Kralovich begins his 36-hour shift at 7 a.m. and finishes the next day or "whenever the work is done." He thrives on this routine. He loves practicing trauma medicine. "It's the ability to take care of everything, the chest, the abdomen. I can take care of non-operative situations as well. It is the least limiting of disciplines."

Command station: Irene Goodman, an emergency room nurse at St. Mary Mercy Hospital, finds little time to sit down during a busy shift.

Need for trauma care

According to the American College of Surgeons, injury is the leading cause of death for Americans ages 1 through 44. More than 145,000 people die each year from injuries, 88,000 for unintentional injuries caused by car crashes, fires, falls, and so forth, while 56,000 die from violence-related causes.

Research indicates that reducing the length of time between injury and definitive trauma care can reduce both preventable death and permanent disability rates dramatically.

The emergency room at Henry Ford staffs 19 full-time physicians, eight part-time and 47 residents. In addition, eight trauma surgeons are on call. The ER is divided into four categories – three based on acuity and one for pediatrics. However, some patients – those with an unstable heart rate and blood pressure – go straight to the resuscitation room. It has to do with the "Golden Hour."

"That's when early intervention can really make a difference," says Kralovich.

The "Golden Hour" is actually one to two hours post-accident. It's the time when doctors deal with cardiac and respiratory injuries, blood loss, collapsed lungs, pulmonary contusions and problems breathing. Incoming trauma patients are assessed according to the "ABCDE" protocol:

A - Airway: Is the person breathing and awake to protect the airway? "If they're not exchanging air, anything you do won't matter," says Kralovich.

B - Breathing: Does the patient need a tube to inflate the lung or drain fluid?

C - Circulation: Has there been a drop in blood pressure due to loss of blood? Is blood reaching the extremities? "This is a whole body issue," says Kralovich. "A normal person can lose about one-third of his blood before you see a drop in blood pressure."

D - Deficits: Is the patient conscious? Eyes open? Able to follow commands? What about motor skills?

E - Exposure: This is a systematic check of the entire body. If a person's unconscious, they can't talk. Small fractures could be overlooked.

So could bullet wounds. "For every hole we have, we have to account for either a bullet or a through-and-through. And when it crosses the abdomen, you have to think what organs it has passed through," said third-year surgery resident Mystan Gurkin.

Increased ER activity

As usual, Dr. Steven Chabala's shift in the emergency room of St. Mary Mercy Hospital in Livonia is busy. He's tending a bleeding ulcer, kidney stones and angina. He's also treating a man going through heroin withdrawal, not an uncommon case in the hospital's ER.

"It's a big problem for us," he said.

Like Kralovich, Chabala loves his job. "I like patient contact under circumstances when difficult decisions need to be made."

The days when an emergency room doctor could "sack out" for an hour are long gone, said Dr. Ash Gokli, chairman of emergency medicine at St. Mary Mercy.

Last year, 37,000 people visited the hospital's emergency room, which has 27 exam rooms, four designated for trauma. Gokli's constant goal is to shorten the time patients are seen and treated. When a patient with a possible spinal injury comes in strapped to a back board, the objective is to "clear" that patient off the board within 10 minutes.

"The doctor eyeballs the patient with one goal in mind: Do we X-ray or not X-ray?" he said.

Gokli has overseen many changes in the emergency room during the last five years – a 33 percent decrease in waiting time, a 50 percent increase in satisfaction, and a quicker turnaround time for X-rays and labs. He's not above a bit of bragging. "There is nothing Henry Ford can do that we can't. People get the gold standard of care at St. Mary Mercy."

The majority of the patients seen at St. Mary Mercy's ER are elderly and suffer from pneumonia, kidney problems, sepsis and stroke. Motor vehicle and industrial accidents made up 10 percent of usage, and chest pain accounted for another 10 percent. Overall, ER usage is on the rise.

"More people are using the emergency room because they are picking up on signs of heart attack quicker," said Gokli.

However, the emergency room is not just for life-threatening conditions, he added. "Don't be afraid to come in with a sore throat and fever."

Real life

As with other hospitals, the emergency room of Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills is a place of human drama. Nursing home patients arrive on Monday mornings unconscious and unaccompanied by family, teenage girls learn they are pregnant, and young mothers travel long distances seeking the best care for their infants.

Often all the acute care and the trauma beds are filled, and patients spill into specialty rooms, like orthopedics. "When things get busy all these little divisions go away. We treat them anywhere and everywhere we can," said Dr. Sanford J. Vieder, one of 14 ER physicians on staff at Botsford.

GM encounters speed bumps on electronic highway

What happens when you try to merge the fast-paced world of E-commerce and the new ways of doing things offered by the Internet into the buttoned-down culture of the world's largest corporation?

PC MIKE

MIKE WENDLAND

A lot of frustration, that's what. That was the bottom-line assessment given by Mark Hogan, the president of e-GM, the E-commerce division of General Motors as he reviewed his hard-charging new unit's impact in its first year of operation. While Hogan was generally upbeat in outlining the many accomplishments and opportunities his 150-person e-GM unit in a Webcast for journalists, there was no hiding his disappointment over some of the internal obstacles.

But the frustrations are to be expected. Whenever change is rapidly introduced into any organization, people squirm. And with a new unit that works on "Internet Time" with technology that is changing literally every day, "Hogan's hackers," as some have good-naturedly dubbed his e-GM workers, are encountering:

- Corporate bureaucracy, where long-established manufacturing procedures and organizational resistance to change often work at cross-purpose to the need to move at Internet speed.
- Footdragging by GM's 7,700 dealers, who are worried that any online sales operations by e-GM will cut into their profits.
- A lack of cooperation by United Auto Workers members, who see extra work if the 'Net allows customers to custom design vehicles exactly as they want.

Straightforward

Hogan was refreshingly straightforward as he talked about those kinds of challenges.

"We've been working hard on the culture piece. We want everyone in the company to be thinking about what the Internet can do to make us a more-effective company," Hogan told journalists. "We underestimated the importance of the training and integration piece with the traditional business. It's the No. 1 challenge."

Despite the speed bumps, e-GM is setting the pace for personal technology use among automotive manufacturers. Its best known product is the OnStar navigation system, thanks to a media blitz featuring TV spots starring Batman in his OnStar-equipped Batmobile.

OnStar uses the Global Positioning System satellite network and wireless telephone technology to link a driver and vehicle to the OnStar Center, where advisers can deliver immediate, personal help 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Hogan said e-GM's efforts are helping OnStar add more than 1,500 subscribers per day. Onstar is expected to be available in one million vehicles by year-end. Building on the OnStar service, GM will be offering this fall in-vehicle Internet access on 32 of 54 of its models, beating everyone in the industry.

The success of e-GM can perhaps best be seen in the fact that the Ford Motor Co. has just announced a partnership with wireless phone company Qualcomm to put the Internet in all its vehicles by 2004. Ford's new Wingcast system, though, won't start showing up in some of its vehicles until late next year.

Ford, too, sees the 'Net in every driver's vehicle.

"What we would like to do is build the car into one of the most prominent nodes on the Internet," said Harel Kodesh, a former Microsoft vice president who Ford lured away to become president and chief executive officer of Wingcast.

But Wingcast has a lot of catch-up to play. GM is clearly in the lead on all this.

"More than ever before, we have to be where our customers are," said Pat Morrissey, e-GM's director of communications "And customers are on the Internet, and they are demanding the convenience and efficiency the 'Net makes possible. That means we have to also be there to listen and respond and do so a lot faster than the way this industry has traditionally responded."

Customer input

So in addition to bringing the Internet to customers in the vehicles, e-GM is looking for ways to bring customers into dealer showrooms through the Internet.

Through its GMBuyPower Web site (gmbuypower. com), it has found an audience of more than a million people each month who visit the site for product information and online incentives. That Web service, the company believes, directly led 20,000 people last year to give up cars from competitors and buy GM vehicles.

And it's all just starting. While the first year has been bumpy in spots, Hogan knows he has the green light from no less than GM's chief operating officer, Rick Wagoner.

Wagoner calls e-GM one of the company's "top priorities for the year" and said Hogan has done a great job.

That's the kind of endorsement that reporters tend to ignore as PR fluff. But that kind of endorsement that isn't meant for reporters. It's really aimed at the corporation's own employees. It tells them in no uncertain terms to cut the red tape and learn what it means to do business in the new economy, on Internet Time.

Mike Wendland covers the Internet for NBC-TV Newschannel stations across the country. He is the author of a series of Internet books. Emergency from page D4

Michelle Cowan of Detroit has health insurance, but it won't allow her 5-month-old son, Devon, who's having respiratory distress, to be admitted overnight. It's late morning and she's been at the hospital for several hours while her son received breathing treatments. Most likely, she'll be transferred to another hospital.

"It's bad for the patient and difficult for us," said Vieder. "Here's a child we've cared for, are capable of caring for, and they will put them in an ambulance and cart them across town."

Like Providence Hospital in Southfield, Botsford has experienced an increase in ER activity since the closing of Sinai Hospital in Detroit. Also, more patients are using the emergency room as their primary care center.

"We're seeing a greater volume. We're seeing much higher acuity. Patients are not getting the routine care they got in the past, and so when they show up here they're sicker," said Vieder.

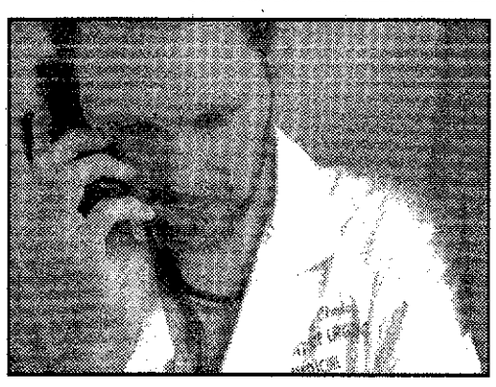

Susan Schoen of Livonia, an ER nurse for 20 years, could not imagine working anywhere but an emergency room. "It's not knowing what's coming through the door next. It gets in your blood."

However, emergency rooms are not all about blood and guts. They're about care and compassion ... lots of it.

"I don't care what ER you are talking about, ER medicine is the safety net of society. It's the one place people can go irregardless of race, religion or economic status. We treat everybody and anybody," said Vieder.

Design can be 'green'

HARRELL SCARCELLO

That great philosopher Kermit the Frog once sang, "It isn't easy being green." Now its easier to incorporate environmentally sensitive design principles into office, health care or home design.

Use recycled, reused or renewable materials. Long-term operating costs often are lower. And "green" design can increase productivity and ease indoor air quality problems. The U.S. Green Building Council (www. usgbc. org) is an fine source.

In furniture, look for particle board with formaldehyde-free recycled content, such as wheatboard or strawboard. Vertical surface fabrics for workstations can be recycled polyester. Wool and ramie are natural fabrics. Veneers can be FSC-certified wood with water-base stains and low-VOC polyurethane coatings.

When selecting building materials, look for low toxicity in manufacturing, use and disposal; remanufacturability and/ or recyclability; durability; ability to be reconfigured and flexibility.

Seek out local suppliers to reduce transportation costs. Use recycled content materials if natural ones are unavailable or too expensive. Consider the way a material is cleaned.

Wool carpet, cork and linoleum are environmentally sensitive flooring. Ceramic tile is available with 55-percent recycled glass. For lighting, use energy efficient fluorescent T-5 lamps and electronic ballasts. Skylights and natural lighting reduce energy consumption.

"Green" materials often have a softer, more authentic feel than slick, synthetic options. There is also a psychological appeal to natural, honest things.

Harrell Scarcello, ASID, is principal of Scarcello Associates Inc., a Bingham Farms firm specializing in interiors. Scarcello is president-elect of Commercial Real Estate Women-Detroit, chairwoman of the Design Review Board for Bingham Farms and past president of the Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers. Small development of big houses going up

Drew W. Duhn, fairly new as an independent builder but with nine years experience as a superintendent and holder of a building construction management degree from Purdue University, intends to finish English Meadows.

His company, Briarstone Building, has two spec houses and five lots available in the small detached site condominium community off South Boulevard east of Opdyke in Bloomfield Township.

"Bloomfield Hills schools is the major attraction, competitive prices, expressways nearby," Duhn said. "We tried to design a house to a size that fits the area with an exterior, I think, that appealed to people in the past."

The result is 3,400-square-foot colonial, with four bedrooms, 3-1/2 baths and a traditional Colonial period appearance. The price ranges from $420,000 to $465,999 depending on lot.

But in some cases, Duhn's plan is just a starting point for what ultimately can be built.

He's willing to accommodate individual custom plans that typically move walls and allow for larger kitchens and bedrooms. "We work with other peoples' plans. The two I've sold, they've blown up the home bigger," Duhn said.

"What happens is someone will call and say they've been considering the area," said Doug Mason, sales representative. "I put a packet in the mail, they develop a list of questions, then we'll sit down with the builder and take it from there."

The draws?

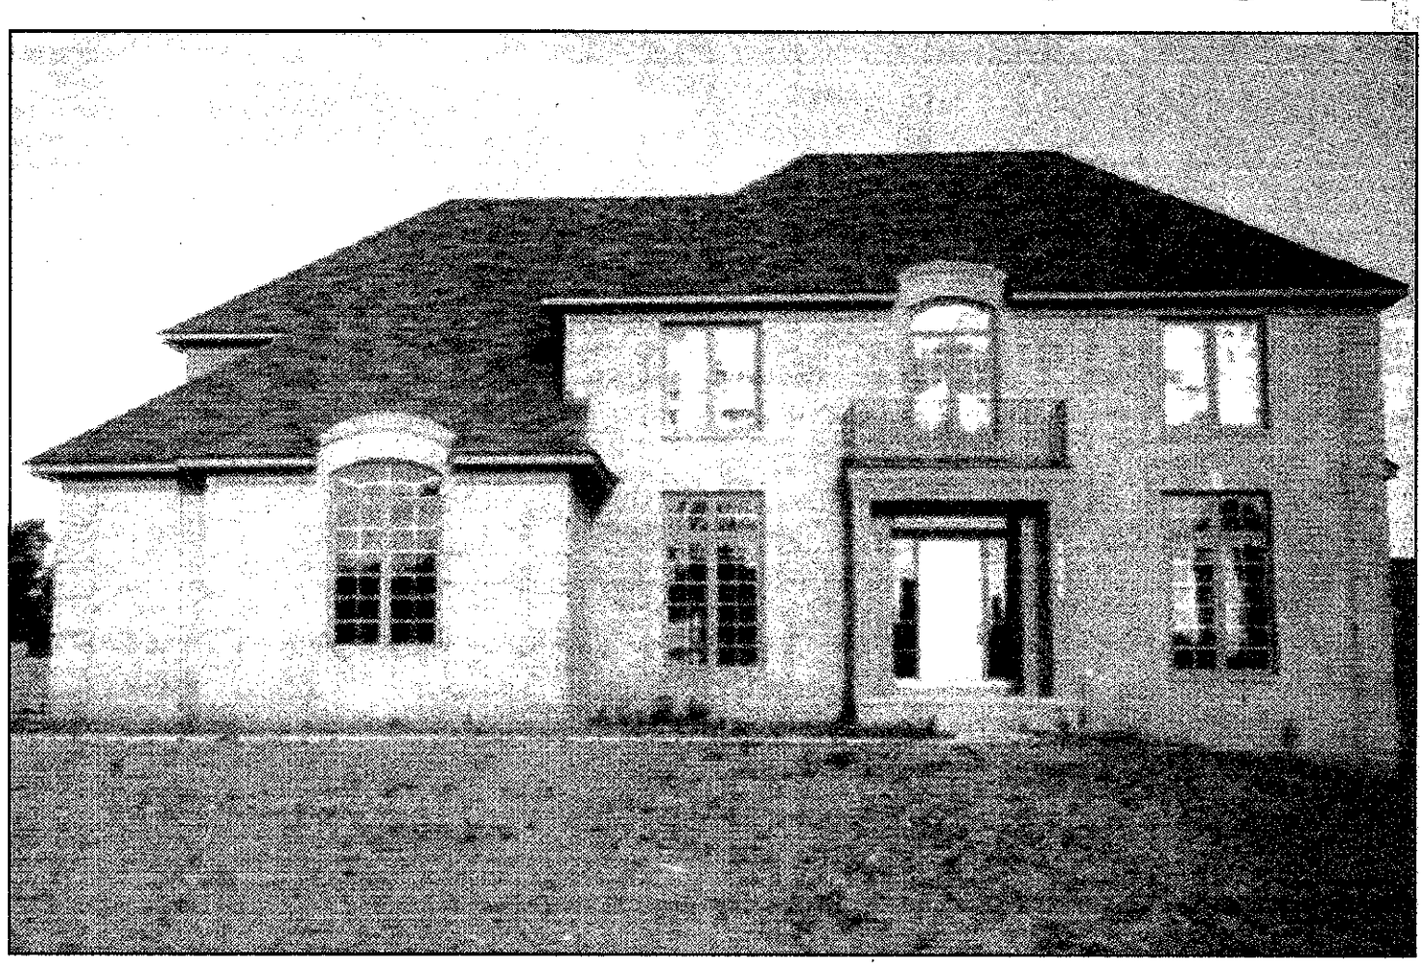

"Number one, they have to appreciate the location," Mason said. "It's a two-street, cul-de-sac sub (18 houses). It's a small, intimate community. You're in the northeast corner of Bloomfield Township ... Bloomfield Hills School District.

"It's very close to I-75 access, very close to Great Lakes Crossing, very close to DaimlerChrysler," Mason said.

The Palace of Auburn Hills, Meadow Brook/ Oakland University, the Pontiac Silverdome, the Somerset Collection and the charm of downtown Birmingham also are nearby destination points.

"Other than that, it's bang for the buck," Duhn said. "They like pricing."

"I think Drew puts people at ease," Mason said. "He's really user-friendly. I think people are really comfortable working with him. I think he develops a lot of trust and rapport from the get-go."

Ready to show: The Williamsburg is a 3,400-square-foot two-story colonial with four bedrooms and 3½ baths in northeast Bloomfield Township.

Duhn's model, the Williamsburg, features a two-story foyer, living room, dining room, butler's pantry, kitchen/ nook, family room with two-story ceiling, a den off the family room, half bath and a laundry with tub on the main floor.

Four bedrooms are upstairs.

The master with pan ceiling contains a separate tub and shower, two-sink vanity, separate dressing area and walk-in closet. A second bedroom contains its own bath while bedrooms three and four are serviced by a separate bath.

The home also includes a three-car garage; basement; fireplace; double oven, dishwasher and microwave; wood or ceramic in the foyer; carpeting throughout; and eight recessed lights.

"You put usable space down, bedrooms up. The hip roof – people like," Duhn said.

English Meadows is served by city water and sewers. There are no sidewalks.

The property tax rate is now $32.28 per $1,000 of state equalized valuation, half of sales price. That means the owners of a $440,000 home there would pay $7,100 the first year.

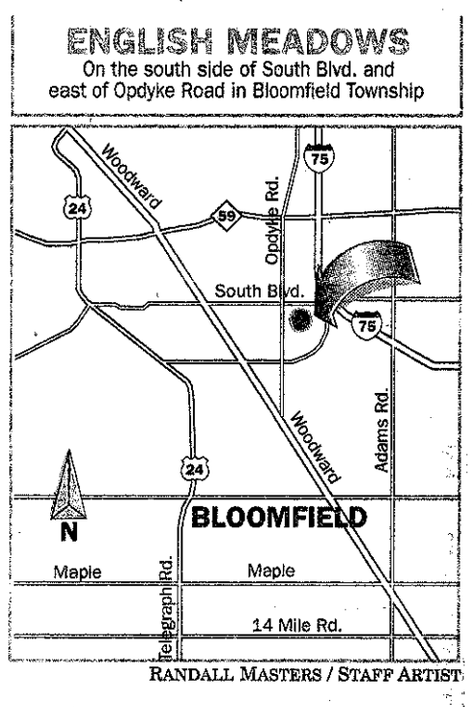

The annual association/ maintenance fee is $200.

Eric Hall and Carol Haynes-Hall are buying a house in English Meadows for themselves and their children, Cierra and Terrence.

"We wanted to stay in Bloomfield. We're there now," Eric said. "English Meadows gave us a look we were looking for. We couldn't beat the price.

"We got good-sized rooms on the first and second floor. We added square footage to the kitchen," Eric added. "With Drew, you can definitely work with him. Even though he's young, he seemed to have a knowledge base. He's very personable. It worked great for us."

The spec houses at English Meadows can be visited by appointment. Call Mason at (734) 416-1222.

Victoria Park

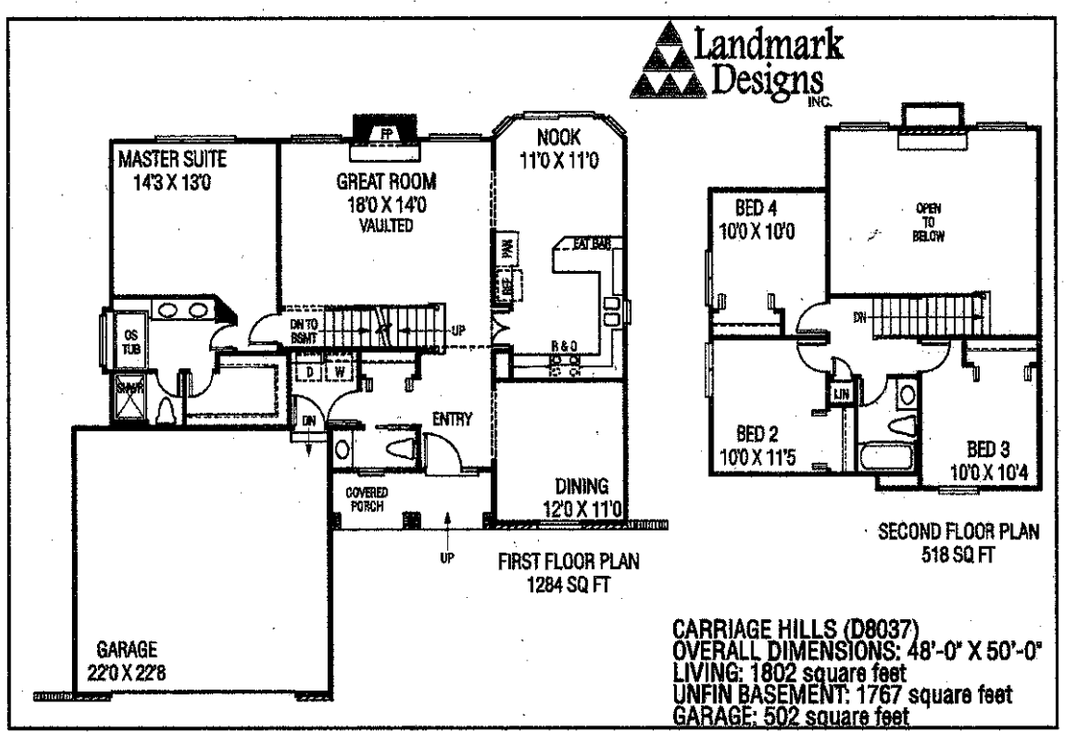

If the convenience of a condominium is in your future, with value, craftsmanship and location a high priority, consider Victoria Park Condominiums at M-59 and Michigan Avenue in Howell. Victoria Park Development, Inc. is offering these outstanding duplex units with standard features that include • low monthly condo association fees afforded because of extensive city services, • city streets, • street lights and sidewalks, • concrete driveways, • large 1700 sq. ft. units to accommodate kitchen eating area, • generous master suites, • central air, • nine foot basement, • picturesque walk out units, • and no look alike buildings; each offers custom colors and stone work. One and two story units are available with up to three bedrooms and two and a half baths.

Victoria Park is just a milé from historic downtown Howell and a multitude of good restaurants and specialty shops. Michigan Avenue is tree lined with sidewalks and Victorian street lights turning into the development. The "Park" itself contains 31 duplex buildings, that means only two units per building. The developers has preserved almost 13 acres of natural wetlands in their present state as well as wooded areas around the perimeter of the property. The streets that traverse the site will be public and wide enough to accommodate on street parking. Look for our informational billboard on I-96 3 miles East of exit 137.

Model homes are open daily noon to 6 p.m. and by appointment.

Brick and wood combine on Carriage Hills

Accents of brick provide a pleasing visual effect to the exterior of the Carriage Hills (D8037). Total living area for the two upper floors is 1,802 square feet. It has an unfinished basement.

The exterior of the Carriage Hills is a combination of brick and wood. The windows each have a different look to provide the face of the home more curb appeal. The brick facade extends to the rear of the home to give the daylight basement a unique look.

The large covered porch leads to the front entry where the formal dining room is immediately to the right through an archway. For convenience, this large open room is located within steps of the kitchen for meal service on formal occasions.

A set of double doors hides the kitchen from the view of the great room. An abundance of counter space and an eating bar expands the usability of the open kitchen. To enjoy the sun, patio doors bring natural light into the breakfast area and offer access to the backyard.

Through an archway is the large great room, which offers a feeling of spaciousness with vaulted 13-foot ceilings and large windows on either side of the fireplace.

Between the entry and the great room are the stairs both to the second floor and the unfinished basement beneath. On the backside of the stairs are the utility and a half bath.

The master suite takes up the left side of the main floor. A private full bath includes a soaking tub enhanced with a garden window, an oversized shower, an enormous walk-in closet and a double vanity. The spacious suite is bathed in light from the three windows facing the backyard.

Three second-floor bedrooms share a full bath and linen closet. Each bedroom has a large closet and windows to provide extra light.

The Carriage Hills would stand out in a country setting as well as in the city.

Finishing the basement could provide more bedrooms, a game room, a family room or any other type of extra room that might be needed.

For a study kit of the Carriage Hills (D8037), send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road East, Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (specify plan name and number of kit).

For a collection of plan books, send $20 or save by ordering the kit and collection together for $34.95. For faster processing, call (800) 562-1151, or visit the Web at www.landmarkdesigns.com

Underwriters Lab recommends testing of fire sprinklers

■ Building managers and property owners can verify whether the sprinklers in question utilize "O-ring" components by contacting the sprinkler manufacturer or UL.

Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL) is urging property owners whose buildings are equipped with dry sprinklers that have "O-ring" water seals to have samples of those sprinklers tested immediately.

These sprinklers may not operate in the event of a fire because they may require higher water pressures to operate than may be available in the building.

Dry sprinklers account for less than 3 percent of all installed fire sprinklers and are generally found in locations with harsh environmental conditions, characterized by wide variations in temperature, humidity and corrosive conditions, such as attics, car ports, cold storage structures, parking garages, warehouses, and unheated portions of buildings.

UL strongly recommends that building owners and managers whose buildings are equipped with dry sprinklers immediately contact their sprinkler installation and maintenance companies to assess the installation(s) in question and determine the appropriate corrective actions, including replacement.

May not work

As announced by UL more than a year ago, laboratory testing indicates that these sprinklers may not operate in the event of a fire because they may require a higher pressure to operate than is available in some buildings. UL has received recent reports of incidents in which dry sprinklers failed to operate in a fire, resulting in property damage.

The results of UL's on-going investigation, and input from community experts, led to a revision to the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 25 Standard for Inspection, Testing and Maintenance of Water-Based Fire Protection Systems.

The revision, which became effective a year ago, reduced the time interval for testing or replacement of these sprinklers from 50 years to 10 years after they have been in service.

However, recent data indicates that immediate testing of dry sprinklers equipped with "O-ring" water seals is advisable. Several locations equipped with sprinklers in service less than 10 years have required elevated water pressures to operate.

To date, UL has conducted operational tests on more than 300 samples taken from more than 40 different installation locations. These tests indicate that 49 percent of the samples required pressures greater than seven pounds per square inch (psi) to discharge water and 20 percent required pressures greater than 40 psi to discharge water from the sprinkler.

Pressure problems

The installation requirement for water pressure established by the NFPA is 7 psi. A pressure of 40 psi may exceed the water pressure available in some locations.

According to UL vice president, Jim Beyreis, "The majority of dry sprinklers manufactured during the past 30 years have employed the use of an 'O-ring' water seal. Many of these 'O-ring' sealed sprinkler constructions have not operated properly because the water seal assembly stuck and did not allow water to flow."

Considering the environmental conditions many of these sprinklers may be exposed to, Beyreis indicated that a frequent test or replacement interval is necessary to provide the desired level of protection. "Several sprinkler samples did not operate as intended because of exposure to harsh environmental conditions," said Beyreis.

Any dry sprinkler, regardless of construction type or year of installation, showing signs of corrosion should be replaced. In light of the most recent data, UL urges immediate testing or replacement of dry sprinklers incorporating an "O-ring" water seal regardless of the year of manufacture or installation location.

Building managers and property owners can verify whether the sprinklers in question utilize "O-ring" components by contacting the sprinkler manufacturer or UL.

Building owners desiring to have installed sprinklers tested should have representative samples of these sprinkler models removed from the installation and sent to UL for testing. Before representative sprinkler samples can be submitted to UL for testing, it is important to consult directly with the sprinkler manufacturer or through their customer service representatives for information regarding removal and replacement of the test samples, as well as the applicable terms of the manufacturer's warranty.

Once samples have been properly removed and packaged according to the instructions, sprinkler samples can be sent directly to Kerry Bell at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), 333 Pfingsten Road, Northbrook, Ill., 60062 (847) 272-8800, Ext. 42629; for operational testing.

Free tests

In keeping with UL's not-for-profit, testing for public safety mission, UL will conduct these operational tests at no cost to the submitter during the course of UL's investigation, with the exception of expenses related to sprinkler removal, replacement, shipping and handling.

"Fire sprinklers have an excellent field record and have saved countless lives and reduced property damage," said Beyreis. "UL is investigating the continued reliability of sprinklers equipped with O-ring water seals, because of recent field reports and the associated tests results, and is considering a proposal to revise the appropriate UL Standards for Safety with respect to O-ring water seals."

UL is an independent, nonprofit, global product safety testing and certification organization that has been dedicated to public safety for more than 106 years. UL has been investigating and listing automatic sprinklers for fire protection for more than 90 years.

To obtain further information about UL, visit their Web site at www.ul.com .

Manufactured homes to rise Aug. 18

■ The show runs noon to 8 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays.

A transformation will take place Aug. 18-27 at the Novi Expo Center when 20 new modular and manufactured homes temporarily "rise" from the parking lot into a completely landscaped setting.

The homes are part of The Michigan Modular & Manufactured Home Show, a show designed to display and sell manufactured and modular homes to consumers, as well as to educate the public about the quality, affordability and appearance of the homes.

Veteran Detroit Tiger Hall of Fame Broadcaster Ernie Harwell will be at the show noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 19, for autographs and baseball talk.

Kids can enjoy clowns, face-painting and balloon animals on the weekends.

The show runs noon to 8 p.m. weekdays, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays. Adult admission is $5; senior admission is t $3; kids 17 and under get in free.

The Expo Center is at I-96 and Novi Road.

Coupons are available at all Damman Hardware locations, Southeast Michigan Bank One locations, at participating MMHA member retailers or online at www.michhome.org

Consumers can call (517) 349-3300 or visit www.michhome.org for additional information on the home show.

The show, sponsored by the association, will feature factory-built homes with a variety of styles, exteriors, floor plans, amenities and decorated interiors.

Factory-built homes are constructed in a controlled setting and enjoy the efficiencies of factory production and a protected environment.

They are then transported to homeowners' sites where they are placed on property and are ready for living – a time frame that's usually measured in weeks, not months.

Nationally, and in Michigan, factory-built homes represent about one-third of all new housing starts, the association claims. This figure includes manufactured homes built to a federal code, and close cousin modular homes built to state codes.

Visitors will be able to stop into a number of booths where they can discuss placing houses within manufactured home communities.

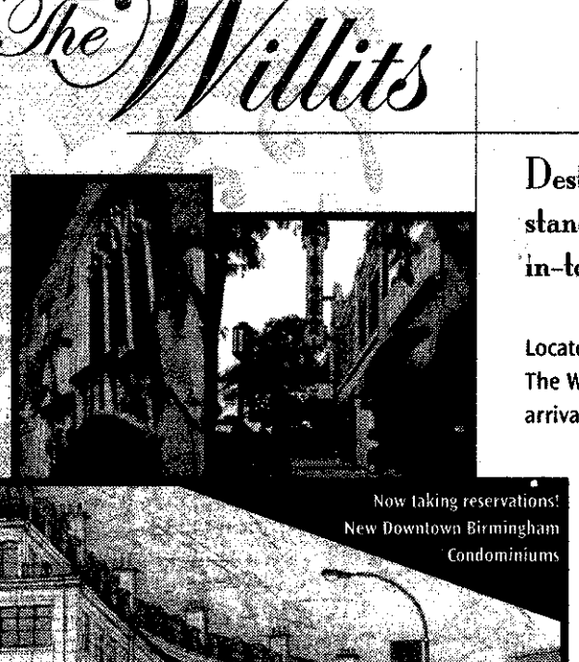

Other booths will feature lenders and related home products. Home retailers will be on-hand to discuss the placement of homes on private property.

PUBLIC NOTICE
CRANBROOK TO SELL PRIME PROPERTY IN BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP
Cranbrook Educational Community will sell 2.52 acres of land located in the Township of Bloomfield in Oakland County, Michigan. The property is located on the South side of Manor Road with access off Harrow Circle, approximately one mile Northeast of downtown Birmingham. The land, located at 1277 Harrow Circle, is zoned R-3, single family residential with a minimum lot size of 22,000 sq. ft. The site includes a 1½ story residence, built in 1950, containing 1,677 sq. ft. of living area and an attached two-car garage. The Rouge River forms the property's Western boundary.
Cranbrook has developed a Request for Proposal (RFP) calling for a minimum bid of $1 million for the property. Interested buyers are asked to submit a sealed proposal indicating their cash bid along with any terms for the purchase of the property by September 8, 2000. Once all bids are received, Cranbrook will disclose bids and entertain counter-offers for a period of two weeks after disclosure.
A copy of the RFP can be obtained by contacting George Hedgespeth, Vice President of Finance and Administration at (248) 645-3111.

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"IS THIS HOUSE THE RIGHT ONE FOR YOU?"

Sometimes, the more houses you see the more confused you become. This is not an unusual phenomenon at all. How do you decide which property is the best possible choice for you? Here are three major guidelines:

DOES IT SATISFY YOUR GREATEST NEEDS?

No property is perfect. Nor will you be ecstatic about every single feature of a certain house. The real issue concerns your most important requirements that cannot be compromised. Bedrooms are usually one of these primary factors. The number of bathrooms are also high on the list. Amount of living area is also a key element for those who are moving up to more space as well as those downsizing. Does the location provide you with access to the schools you prefer? How about other life style issues such as shopping, entertainment, and transportation?

IS IT AFFORDABLE?

Most people buy at the limit of their financial ability. Although this is not unusual, such a decision on your part will require that you become aware of all the costs involved in owning a particular property. Some of these costs include the mortgage payment of principle, interest, insurance, and property taxes as well as heating, cooling, electricity, inside and outside maintenance. Also, how much money will be required immediately to decorate or make repairs before or shortly after taking occupancy?

IS IT A GOOD INVESTMENT?

How much will this home be worth in the future? No one really knows the precise answer to this question, but there are indicators that can give you a good idea about the future value of a home you are considering. Is the area desirable and in demand by home buyers? What has been the trend in prices locally in the past few years? Is this floor plan popular with a large number of potential buyers? Does the property have any major drawbacks that will always limit its appeal in the future?

ADVICE: Only you know if a home satisfies your needs. To determine affordability, rely on your local mortgage lender for his or her advice. Let your Realtor® advise you on the merits of this property as an investment.

Utility: Look out for thieves, scams

Someone appears at your door claiming to be a utility worker who says he's there to read the meter in your backyard. If you're home, it looks legitimate to any onlookers. If you are not home, they go to a back door and break in.

That's been the tactic that a band of thieves and scam artists have used to victimize Detroit Edison customers in Detroit area communities during the past week.

"Detroit Edison is dismayed to hear that thieves and scam artists are preying on our customers," said Michael Lynch, the utility's director of corporate security. "Unfortunately, each year there are numerous unscrupulous individuals who pose as utility workers. These criminals can strike at any time and have devised many seemingly legitimate reasons and diversions in order to steal goods and scam people."

It is a felony for people to impersonate public utility workers, whether or not they actually gain entrance to a home and commit a crime.

To avoid being a victim, Detroit Edison offers these suggestions:

- Ask for identification whenever anyone approaches your home. All Detroit Edison employees and contractors carry ID cards that display their photos.
- If you are not sure about an employee's identification, or to verify work to be done in or around your home, call Detroit Edison at (800) 477-4747.
- Do not allow entry into your home to people who claim to offer a Detroit Edison refund. Detroit Edison employees never deliver cash refunds or "rebates" to customers' homes. All account transactions are handled through the mail or at a Detroit Edison customer office.
- Do not pay for tree trimming work performed by Detroit Edison or a Detroit Edison contractor. The utility does not charge for line clearance work. Additionally, before trimming crews enter a neighborhood, customers are sent notices about the work to be done.
- Call the police if you believe the person is a thief or scam artist.

Geothermal system can cut monthly bills

Tired of high heating and air-conditioning bills? Now you can get safe, reliable, energy-efficient heating and cooling from an environmentally friendly system that can save you up to 60 percent on your monthly energy bills.

■ A geothermal system transfers heat from the earth to the home in winter and vice versa in the summer.

Typically, homeowners give little thought to their heating and cooling system until after they've installed a conventional system and are surprised to learn there may have been a better solution for both home comfort and their wallets.

That solution is a geothermal heating and cooling system, an idea that has attracted a growing number of homeowners and businesses in the United States, Canada and Europe since the mid-1970s.

The idea behind geothermal technology is simple. A geothermal system simply transfers heat from the earth to the home in winter and from the home back to the earth in the summer.

There are two types of geothermal, air and water. Water is by far the more common because it is much more compact. Air geothermal cooling requires long tunnels through the soil, which is unworkable in most residential areas. Here's how a water geothermal cooling works:

A water-based solution is circulated through a loop of small diameter underground pipes. For forced air heating, this solution absorbs warmth from the earth and carries it to the geothermal unit, which compresses the extracted warmth to a high temperature and delivers it to the home. For forced air cooling, the process is reversed, resulting in cool, dehumidified air.

WaterFurnace International offers a complete line of residential and commercial geothermal systems that gives consumers more for their energy dollar.

Its new Synergy3 system provides forced air heating, forced air cooling and hot water for radiant floor applications all in one unit.

The hot water generated can be used to heat various sized zones, from bathrooms to the entire house, while still getting forced air heating where needed and air conditioning in the warmer months. The hot water mode offers options, including heating tile, wood or ceramic floors, and towel racks.

For more information about geothermal systems, call (800) 436-7283.

Closing costs primer

"Why do we need owner's title insurance if a lender's title policy was obtained?" Good question.

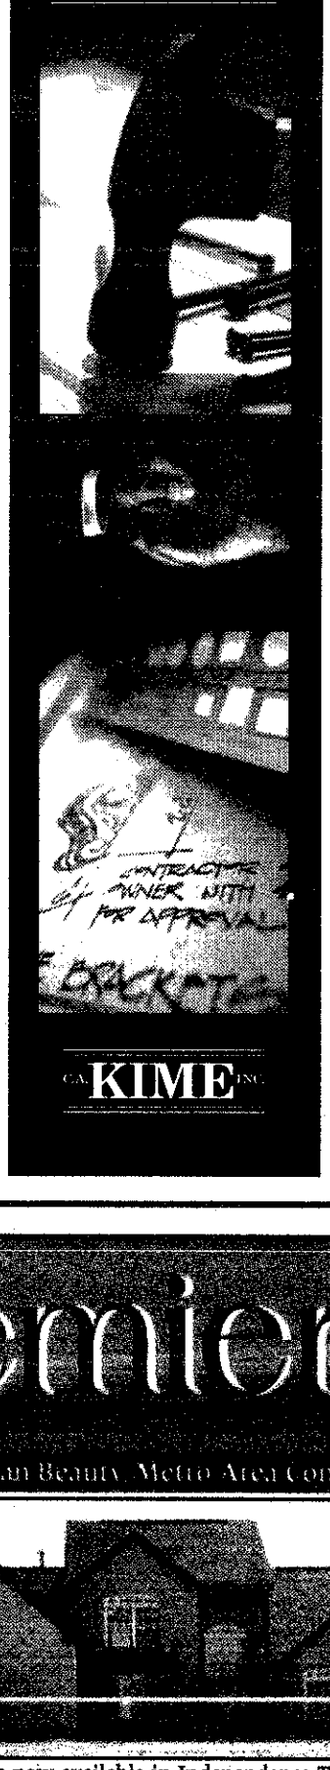

There are two types of title insurance: coverage that protects the lender for the balance of the mortgage, and coverage that protects the buyer's equity in the property.

Like hazard or homeowner's insurance, you may never need it, but it can save your home if you do. Owner's title insurance protects the buyer from defects in the title that are not discovered until after the closing.

For instance: a person dies without a will and an unknown heir steps forward to claim ownership; you have liens against your title because of a previous owner's failure to pay taxes; or deeds have been forged.

In all of these cases, title insurance protects the home buyer from the financial losses that might arise.

If your message isn't in front of the people who are ready to buy, it's like having no jewelry in your jewelry case.

What's the best way to reach the people who are ready to buy what you have to sell?

Our network of hometown newspapers:

■ When, without prompting, more than eight in 10 adults choose newspapers as their primary source of local shopping information...

■ When more than three in four adults agree that newspapers are their "most useful" source of shopping information...

■ When more than six in 10 adults say they look at newspaper advertisements before they shop...

■ When we reach more homes in our hometowns combined than any other newspaper

...it's time for you to make us a big part of your advertising strategy.

Job fair: The Observer & Eccentric, HomeTown Newspapers Job Fair is a good deal for employers and job seekers alike.

JOB FAIR

BY KURT KUBAN
STAFF WRITER

If the first four Job Fairs sponsored by the Observer & Eccentric and HomeTown Newspapers were any indication, the fifth will have much to offer serious job recruiters and job seekers.

Organizers of the event, which will take place Sept. 20 at Burton Manor in Livonia, tout a number of benefits over the many other job fairs that have popped up in recent years.

The last Job Fair, held March 29, attracted 115 recruiters, the most in the event's history. Those recruiters were able to pull from a pool of over 2,500 job seekers. Organizers expect the next Job Fair to draw the same kinds of numbers.

In addition, unlike the more specialized fairs that target a certain industry or field, the Job Fair is all about diversity.

"Our Job Fair is becoming a good, general job fair. We are not specialized," said Rick Ficorelli, director of marketing for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Job searches are yucky so be prepared

Q. At age 52, I feel uneasy about re-entering the job market. I have been taking computer classes, and I am close to being certified. But where is the best place to start a job search?

S.B.

A.. For what it's worth, almost nobody feels good about starting a job search. I don't care how wonderful your credentials are, how smooth your interviewing skills may be or how curious you are about new industries. Looking for a job is, well, yucky (I'm a wordsmith).

JOB SEARCH

GEORGE HAYES

The first thing to do is prepare. Analyze what you want to do and what you are good at doing. Practice interviewing and networking with your spouse or a friend. Put together a good resume. Buy some new shoes.

Make lists of (a) networking and industry contacts, (b) headhunters and (c) college placement offices or church organizations that might help.

Preparation is important, but it is ongoing. Don't wait for this phase to "end" before launching.

Next, start pounding the keyboard, the streets and the dial pad. Set up networking meetings with former associates and business contacts. Ask the people in your computer classes if they have any ideas. Call recruiters and try to schedule appointments with them (if you can't get a meeting, at least send a resume). Check out organizations that offer free help (LDS Employment Services in Farmington Hills is one). Get your resume on the "Michigan Works!" web site. Scan the O&E religiously and fax, e-mail or snail mail resumes if

"We have a big cross-section of recruiters. We get hospitals, banks, temporary agencies, and grocery stores, as well as many others."

Joan Morrison, a recruiter for the Farmington Hills-based Virginia Tile, has attended all four Job Fairs. She has successfully hired employees at each.

"It is one of my best job fairs. I really like the quality and volume of candidates that attend," said Morrison, noting she will be looking for warehouse, customer service and administrative positions at the upcoming fair.

"Typically I will take 150 resumes, and hire two or three candidates. However, I hired seven people from the last Job Fair."

This will be the second consecutive Job Fair held at Burton Manor, located at 27777 Schoolcraft. Event organizers believe the venue is advantageous because it is positioned just off of I-96 near Inkster Rd.

"It is centrally located and the freeway really helps," Ficorelli said.

Toni O'Connor, a recruiter for Comerica Bank, said the location has been a big plus. She hired over 20 people at the last fair for Comerica's Operations Center in Livonia.

"Burton Manor is definitely a help, because it can draw from so many areas, including our own immediate area in Livonia," she said. "It is easy to get to and easy to find."

The upcoming fair will also mark the return of Larry "The Job Coach" Goldsmith, a radio personality who offers listeners advice and hints about finding jobs and, more importantly, getting hired. Goldsmith, who can be heard on WPON-1460 AM, was at the last Job Fair to help job seekers polish up their interviewing skills.

Ficorelli said he was amazed at how many people consulted Goldsmith and took advantage of his advice.

"He had a line of people waiting to talk to him all day long," Ficorelli said. "He was so busy, he couldn't even get out for lunch."

Ficorelli said Goldsmith is just another reason the Job Fair offers recruiters and seekers a perfect atmosphere to connect. Other perks include a copy machine for people to run-off free copies of their resumes, and free parking and admission for job seekers.

"We have learned something after each of the previous four fairs, and we are constantly trying to improve it," Ficorelli said. "Our objective is to make the Job Fair as smooth and productive as possible for both the recruiters and job seekers."

Morrison said the efforts of organizers are the main reason for the event's success.

"As long as I continue to hire people, and even if I walked away empty handed, I would continue to attend because of the high level of organization and support," she said.

For more information, call Meg Lyczak, (734) 953-2068.

you meet half the qualifications outlined in an advertisement. Follow up your resumes with phone calls when possible. Send brief thank you notes to the people you meet. This must all be done simultaneously. It's a multi-pronged attack, not a sequential one. It might feel uncoordinated. It will be.

Within the context of yuckiness, maintain a positive attitude. Smile a lot when you meet people.

Q. I've been working steadily half my life and have made good money by some people's standards. We don't have a lavish lifestyle and I watch the pennies. Still, I don't seem to be making much progress financially. What's the secret?

A. Nobody has revealed the secret to me, either.

I listened to an audio program several years ago about getting several streams of income going at once. The guy on the tape said that JOB stands for Just Over Broke. He said that conventional work is simply trading hours for dollars and that's not the way to get rich. This made sense to me and I began working on my streams. To date, most of them have evaporated, one is a trickle and the others are mud puddles.

But I think the fellow was on to something. Most of us grow up with the idea that if you work hard and keep your nose clean, you're going to do well. Now, Americans always believe that if a little of something is good, a lot must be real good. So we work harder and harder and expect the rewards to be in direct proportion to our efforts. But that's not exactly the case, is it? Some people say the trick is to work smart, not hard. I like the sound of this. Unfortunately, I don't know exactly what it means. The idea probably has to do with developing the ability to see opportunities and having the courage to take educated risks. It probably entails re-investing resources into ventures with a high-probability of above average returns. It could mean preserving and protecting what you already own.

A Community of Caring. Henry Ford Health System

It's about more than medicine.

It's about meeting the changing needs within our community and creating a healthy environment. It's about recognizing commitment from each of us as members of the community. Exploring diversity. It's about caring on your terms. We are Michigan's sixth largest employer and one of the nation's leading health care providers, offering a seamless array of acute, primary, tertiary, quaternary and preventative care backed by excellence in research and education.

VICE PRESIDENT, PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Reporting to the Senior Vice President of Planning and Strategic Development, you will be responsible for the development and implementation of internal and external communication programs for various groups throughout the system. Additional responsibilities include recommending marketing programs to achieve institutional goals, monitoring perceptions of various audience groups and managing the special events office, as well as managing media relations, and acting as the official spokesperson for the system when necessary. You will also serve as a consultant to business unit public relations offices.

Requirements include a Bachelor's degree in Public Relations and Communication or related field, and 10-15 years of experience in public affairs, including at least five years as a senior public affairs executive. A Master's degree or post graduate work and/or workshops and seminars related to public relations and market communications is preferred. Experience supervising a minimum of ten professionals in a public affairs organization with an annual operating budget of at least $2 million is also required, as well as excellent management and client/customer service skills. Experience with a health care system directing and coordinating media relations, special promotions, internal communications, and all publications at a local and national level is highly desirable.

For prompt consideration, please forward your resume to: Henry Ford Health System, One Ford Place- 1B, Detroit, MI 48202; Fax: (313) 874-6101; E-mail: ekai1@hfhs.org. AA/EOE Employer

■ The Neon is strong in its class for interior space and engine power.

But don't despair... the new, 2000 Neon is here!

BY STEVE SCHAEFER
© AUTOWIRE.NET - SAN FRANCISCO

It's time to say goodbye to Plymouth, the workingman's friend since 1928. With little to distinguish itself as part of DaimlerChrysler in the post-merger international car market, the brand will be put to rest after the 2001 model year.

But don't despair. The new, very-much-improved 2000 Neon is here, and the last Plymouth perfectly represents the entry-level brand in its final days. And don't worry about buying an "orphan." Neons will still be sold by Dodge dealers for years to come, and the same Chrysler dealership that sold you your Neon will still be around to service the car.

As part of the transition, the Plymouth Voyager minivan has become a Chrysler. The Breeze sedan is retired, but its Chrysler twin, the Cirrus, now offers a lower-level model to fill in.

Prowler, the limited edition, factory-built hot rod, remains for now, but will roar off into the collector-car sunset next year. It never really seemed much like a Plymouth anyway.

But the Neon deserves attention. The original smiley concept car won awards at auto shows way back in 1991. In January 1994 the debut models went on sale as the first of the 1995s. Blessed with class-leading room and power,

Neons have racked up 1.5 million copies sold since then. For 2000, the new cars have expanded interiors, run more quietly and offer more standard features.

Although it is more familiar today, the Neon's cab-forward design was pretty radical when it arrived. The huge, raked-back windshield delivers more room up front, which, when combined with a 105-inch wheelbase (an inch larger than the old car), gives the new Neon mid-size space inside a compact body. Headroom and legroom are generous, and hip room is 1.6 inches greater up front and 2.3 inches broader in back. The soaring ceiling lets you wear your best Stetson.

DaimlerChrysler thoroughly updated the Neon to reflect the turn-of-the-century return to edges; there is a neat crease down the side of what used to be a softly rounded panel. The rear bumper and taillights turn up in a smile, and the front of the car is more evocative, with slightly more oval headlamps and a little spot of chrome on the protruding, chromed grille.

The car looks more sturdy and rigid, which it actually is. Bending stiffness is increased by 37 percent and torsional stiffness is up by 26 percent. Wide front pillars may be part of the price, but the ride and handling benefit, and I detected no annoying squeaks or rattles in my brand new test car.

The Neon boasts 132 horsepower from its 2.0-liter, 16-valve four. Normally, I prefer a manual transmission in this kind of car, but my test unit arrived with an automatic. While hardly a performance car, the Neon performed quite competently in day-to-day driving and zoomed briskly up to 70 mph on the freeway. The automatic transmission has just three forward speeds, which makes the car rev higher, spreading the acceleration out over fewer gears. Surely this is a cost issue, but the competition offers four- and even five-speed automatics now.

The Neon is strong in its class for interior space and engine power. Pricing is another strong suit, with base prices starting below $13,000, including destination charges. My test car came in at $15,380 with Customer Preferred Package 22G. This $2,510 package groups popular features like air conditioning, power windows (front only!) power locks and mirrors, keyless entry system, theft deterrent system and alarm, 15-inch wheels and tires, a tachometer, fog lamps, and leather-wrapped steering wheel and shift knob.

The Neon obviously is built to a price point. I was amazed to find a car with power front windows and manual crank rear windows. And there's that matter of the three-speed automatic. All that notwithstanding, after a week living with the Neon, I warmed to its good, solid charm as its overall strength and competence emerged. With a reasonable purchase price, excellent fuel mileage of 25 city, 31 highway, and spacious interior, it's worth your consideration and a test drive.

Effective gas mileage tips

As gas prices remain in the stratosphere and families struggle to salvage affordable summer vacations, consumers are exploring options to combat the pain at the pumps. The most effective weapon and the suggested first line of defense is a full tune-up, but there are several other ways drivers can beat gas prices. Here are five effective ways to maximize fuel efficiency this summer:

- Keep your engine tuned up and make sure your air and fuel filters are clean. Also, a new oxygen sensor alone can improve gas mileage by as much as 15 percent. And the whole job-the tune-up, the new filters and the oxygen sensor replacement-can be done with just a screwdriver and a wrench and costs less than three tanks of gas.
- On the highway, don't exceed the speed limit. According to the EPA, a vehicle loses about 1 percent in gas mileage for every mile per hour over 55 mph.
- Pack light. Extra weight kills your fuel efficiency. In fact, every 200 pounds of unnecessary weight shaves one mile per gallon off your gas mileage.
- Properly inflate your tires. According to the Department of Energy, every pound per square inch of tire under-inflation wastes 4 million gallons of gas per day in the U.S.
- Accelerate and brake smoothly. If you smooth out your driving, you'll lower your vehicle's demands for fuel.
