Builder cited for 'messy' site

■ Canton residents pleaded with the planning commission Monday to do something about sloppy construction work and other problems left behind by one area developer.

Developers will soon be getting some lessons in being good neighbors, if the Canton Township Planning Commission has its way.

"It's a nice thing to do business in Canton," said commission chairman Vic Gustafson. Developers and contractors should keep their work sites tidy and should not impact neighboring property owners. "If that can't go on in a gentlemanly basis, we can put it into motions. The only thing that seems to get the attention of builders is a stop work order."

Residents complained at the commission meeting Monday about Singh Development projects, which they said are messy during construction and leave them with drainage and lighting issues after completion.

Unwelcomed guests

"They're not good neighbors. They've never been good neighbors and they never will be good neighbors," said resident Jack York, whose Cherry Hill Road home is just south of the Wyndchase Townhomes project.

Since the apartments have been completed, a spotlight has shone onto York's property, and he [illegible] his property.

"Nobody even came to me and asked if I was satisfied with (the lighting)," he said.

Further, during construction, contractors left mud covering the roads, which caused the dust to fly into York's home. Contractors are prohibited by Wayne County's soil erosion division from tracking mud onto roadways because the mud

Bus drivers seek safer Isbister route

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Plymouth-Canton school bus drivers insist their Isbister Elementary route needs to change because transporting students is currently "an accident waiting to happen."

Kevin Mason drives Plymouth-Canton school bus No. 85, picking up and taking home Isbister students every day. The toughest part of his job comes when school lets out and he's driving a bus loaded with students which has to make a dreaded left turn from Canton Center Road onto Ann Arbor Road.

"When I have to make the left turn onto Ann Arbor Road ... the traffic is going full speed and it's dangerous," he said. "And, when the roads are bad, I've had to wait 10-15 minutes for a big enough hole because the tires may spin, and I don't know if the other drivers can stop. It's simply dangerous."

Mason said unlike many schools in the Plymouth-Canton district, there is no school speed zone near Isbister.

"If you go to Eriksson and Field ... they get a school zone and buses turn into traffic going 25 mph," said Mason. "Here, traffic is going full speed on Ann Arbor Road. They need a light here."

Mason's isn't the only complaint.

Van Buren voters say 'yes' to tax renewal

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER
tschneider@oe.homecomm.net

A tiny turnout gave an overwhelming approval Monday to a renewal and small increase in the tax rate on non-homestead properties in the Van Buren Public Schools district.

The 605-113 vote on the single ballot question means the district will continue operating programs planned for the current school year, according to Superintendent Larry Tabor. The tax revenues that were under consideration Monday contribute as estimated $10.5 million of the district's $48 million budget.

"I'm very pleased that people got out and renewed the millage and I'd like to thank the people for their support of it," Tabor said .

"It's nice to look at the results and not see any pocket where they are dissatisfied."

Returns show the closest vote was at Rawsonville School, in Ypsilanti, where the proposal to renew 17.88 mills on commercial and industrial property

Rally to show 'Canton Cares'

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER
cmarshall@oe.homecomm.net

Canton residents will gather Sunday afternoon at Heritage Park for a patriotic "Canton Cares" rally. Rally organizers hope the event will help residents grieve the losses of Sept. 11, and at the same time celebrate the American spirit the attacks failed to destroy.

"The Sept. 11 tragedy affected each and every America," said Canton Township Supervisor Tom Yack. "We wanted to join together as a community to begin the healing process."

Although nearly a month will have passed since Sept. 11, the community still needs to grieve, said Debra Bilbrey-Honsowetz, Chief of Recreation and Facilities.

"We need to come together in times of crisis. I think the community is still coming to terms with what happened and what could still happen, but the true American spirit says we'll come together and we'll beat it," she said.

"For whatever reasons, before all this happened, the country was growing more divided, but since, we've seen such great unity. That's what we have to celebrate. We all have something in common. We're all American."

The event will feature music, singing and inspirational readings designed to celebrate the spirit of America.

"Canton Township has really pulled together and started working on this rally," said township employee Chris Haas, who served on the committee to organize the rally.

"I think we're trying to rally everyone together to honor the people that lost their lives on Sept. 11, but we are still trying to end everything on an upbeat note."

The event will be held rain or shine, and people are encouraged to wear red, white and blue clothing. Haas also suggested bringing lawn chairs.

Such court sports as tennis and basketball involve a great deal of quick lateral movements that invite sprains. Injuries to the Achilles tendon and other tendons are also common. Woman reports attempted assault

An 18-year-old Canton woman was the victim of a home invasion and attempted sexual assault early Tuesday morning.

According to police reports, the woman was sleeping at her Brooke Park Street home at approximately 5:15 a.m. when the assailant woke her. He was attempting to remove a piece of her clothing. The woman screamed at the suspect to get off of her and then she began to push him away. Reports said the culprit then left her home without further incident. No injuries were reported.

The Canton woman described the assailant as being shorter than 6-feet, wearing baggy jeans and a dark shirt. She was unable to get a description of his face because it was covered.

The woman told police that she saw a 16- to 17-year-old man looking in her window on Saturday, Sept. 29. She described him as being dark complected with dark hair. She was unable to tell police if the two suspects were the same person.

Proposed sign changes leave businesses cold

BY CAROL MARSHALL
STAFF WRITER
cmarshall@oe.homecomm.net

■ The ordinance came to the board Sept. 24 for a first reading and was tabled after public input.

To some, the ordinance changes seemed to be a sign of discourtesy. Canton business owners scolded the township board of trustees last week for not including them in the sign ordinance revision process.

"Tonight is the first public meeting with the sign ordinance on the agenda," said Canton business owner and resident Tim Ford. He criticized the board for not including business owners in the township's ad hoc committee which in February examined signs and made recommendations about ordinance changes.

The ordinance came to the board Sept. 24 for a first reading and was tabled after public input.

"The business community is disappointed that the township administration has chosen to make significant changes in the sign ordinance without consulting the business community with details until seven weeks prior to this first reading," Ford said. "Had the business community been on board since January, the feeling of being rushed would not be felt."

The revisions in the sign ordinance will affect nearly every sign in the township. Maximum sign size will be 24 square feet, half of what the township currently allows.

The standard size for signs is about 32 square feet, said Ford.

"I've consulted with a number of light manufacturers," he said. "They told me the standard is 4-by 8-feet because that's the size of the light bulbs."

More thorough research into manufacturing standards would serve the township and the business owners well, said Greg Greene, Canton businessman and Chamber of Commerce vice president.

"No business owner likes to have to spend more money than they have to, but still they want to be professional," he said. Costly custom light bulbs and parts would be an unnecessary expense. "I say carry on, but I wish the matter would be investigated a little more thoroughly."

Menu signs will be prohibited, as will signs that sit atop a pole. Signs will be required to include a masonry base.

There are very few changes to the ordinance, except the size requirements and the prohibition of menu signs, said Township Supervisor Tom Yack.

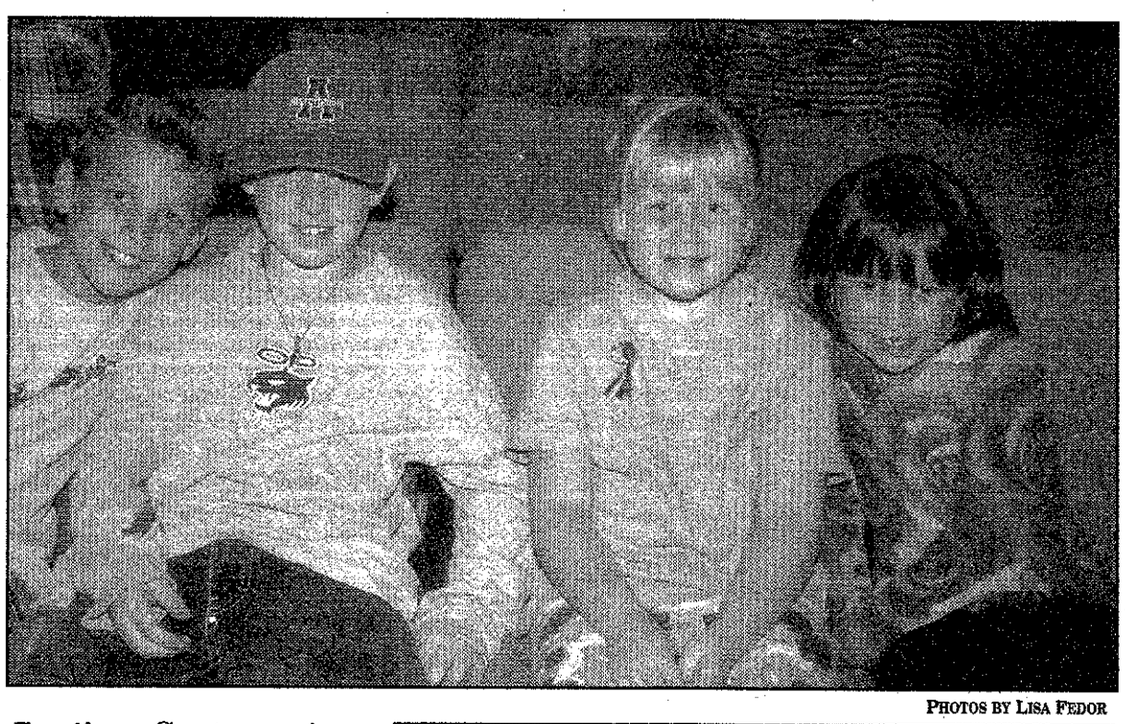

"The township right now has the authority to condemnation of a non-conforming sign," he said. "But we have never exercised it." He added the township is not likely to condemn non-conforming signs that already exist, but would require the signs to be changed when the business changes hands, or when a closed business abandons the sign.

Although current signs will be allowed to stay put, a sign change will be required after the business closes, or if it requires site plan review, according to the new ordinance.

The smaller, less-conspicuous signs could do even worse than affect business owners; it could be dangerous, according to 58-year Canton resident and business owner, Duane Bordine.

"I do feel it's going to be a traffic hazard if you're looking for new businesses on Ford Road," he said. "I don't believe we need anyone driving too slow on Ford because people like to pass you and show you their gestures."

and raise the ceiling to 18 mills still passed by a 34-11 vote count. The widest margin was at Precinct One in Belleville High School, where 203 voted "yes" against 26 who voted "no."

Even absentee voters went for the tax renewal and increase by 17-8.

The overall margin was 84.3 percent in favor, 15.7 percent opposed.

"I'm always nervous. You can't take anything for granted," Tabor said as the results were being tallied. "The issue is getting that message out. If they don't have a clear understanding of what they're voting on, you could be surprised.

Turnout throughout the day was slow and light, according to workers at several polling places.

At Tyler Elementary in Belleville, only 33 people had cast ballots by 3 p.m., said precinct chairman Greg McAtee. The final count when the polls closed at 8 p.m. was 68.

■ 'The schools need the money. Belleville High School is falling down as we speak.'
–voter Reggie Miller

At Belleville High School, precinct chairwoman Donna Benton classified the turnout of 229 as "rather light."

"I don't think it was a well publicized election but the people who do come in seem to know what they're voting for," she said.

The 718 of 29,459 registered voters equals a turnout of 2.4 percent. That figure was a slight increase over the 1997 renewal, when 690 people voted, Tabor said.

Voter Reggie Miller of Belleville said she supported the renewal and increase "because these schools need the money."

"Belleville High School is falling down as we speak," she said after voting. "They need new tennis courts, new football fields and a whole lot more."

Tabor said he understands Miller's concerns and added they will need to be addressed eventually.

Monday's proposal though was strictly for operating money. It will provide an additional $300,000 or so in next year's budget before the Headlee Amendment kicks in and reduces the rate in future years, he said.

can run into drainage ditches and can clog storm sewers, explained commissioner Melissa McLaughlin.

"If we negatively impacted (York's) property, we're going to fix that," said Singh representative, Mike Kahm. "But unfortunately the nature of construction is messy."

Singh's representative was at the meeting to request an amendment to the township's future land use map on the northeast corner of Haggerty and Cherry Hill roads. The developer will request a rezoning of the property from office zoning to medium-high density residential on the 1.85 acre parcel. The rezoning will enable Singh to expand the Wyndchase project.

Seeing the light

Glenn Brothers' property sits adjacent to the property at Haggerty and Cherry Hill. He and his three neighbors, the last single family homeowners at that corner, will be landlocked by Singh's developments, he said.

Brothers approached the commission on several other occasions to discuss the problems he has at his home. Headlights constantly shine into his home, and his property has also been flooded because the new development is improperly drained, he said.

Brothers requested the construction of a high wall to shield his house from lights, and from the view of Singh property garages, but so far has not received an acceptable plan from Singh.

Brothers has created a lengthy video, which he said he will share with the developer and the commission.

"I'll give one to all of you so you people will have an understanding of how these projects impact us," he said.

The developer's pervasive presence and disregard for nearby homeowners has been a problem for the last 18 months, said Daniel McCausland, who lives just north of the Wyndchase development.

"The people that live there are excellent. They're quiet, professional, very nice. It's the developer you've got to deal with," he said. "I've been insulted by the owner of the company. I've been called ignorant by the owner of the company. They've flooded me out. In this whole area, you've got flooding and rotting, flooding and rotting."

Although commissioners agreed with residents' complaints, they stated the property should be used for residential rather than for office or commercial buildings.

The commission instructed Kahm to address the construction issues, and voted 7-0 to approve the amendment to the special land use map. The rezoning will on the commission's Oct. 15 agenda.

Plymouth-Canton bus drivers have complained to the Board of Education that transporting children home from Isbister is of "great safety concern."

Plymouth-Canton school buses, because of an agreement with residents who live along Canton Center Road between Ann Arbor and Joy roads, can't depart Isbister and travel south on the gravel portion of Canton Center Road. Instead, buses must go north and make a left turn from Canton Center Road onto a heavily-traveled Ann Arbor Road.

"The traffic on Ann Arbor Road has become nightmarish for school bus drivers. It's an accident waiting to happen," said bus driver Del Templeton. "Of the 10 buses that serve Isbister, only half would need to turn left to head towards Joy to travel safely. I think the residents of the street would understand this."

Deputy Superintendent Jim Ryan has been working to alleviate the situation after a grievance was filed by bus drivers.

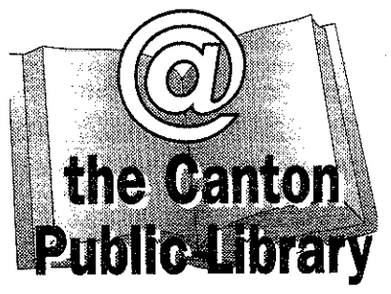

"The bus drivers have a legitimate concern," said Ryan. "Getting a light there is the best solution. We'd like to continue to honor the agreement with the residents along Canton Center Road."

Ryan has been working with Jim Anulewicz, director of public services for Plymouth Township, to determine the protocol for putting a light at the busy intersection, which would be operative during school hours.

"Between the constant traffic and high speed it's very dangerous," said Shirley Czapla of Canton, who drives bus No. 99. "To go through with a bus loaded with kids is very dangerous. Nobody wants to help you, but if something happens ..."

Until a light can be erected at the intersection, drivers see driving south on Canton Center as the best solution.

"It is not safe for the drivers to make a left hand turn onto Ann Arbor Road," said driver Jeannette Toth. "We are asking to reconsider the use of Canton Center Road until a traffic light could be put in place. By doing this the drivers would be able to safely take the children home."

Q & A

Q: Why do many pro golfers insist their caddies carry the golf balls in their pockets?

A: This practice is called "warming the eggs". Many pros believe that warming the golf balls help them fly farther. While warming does enhance the elasticity of the ball, it would require illegal means to raise the temperature of the ball to get any significant benefits from it.

■ Life in the jungle

I'm pretty hard to hate. I can be as annoying as the next guy, I suppose. And I will allow that there may be room for some for dissent on the degree of my lovability. I do have ex-wives, after all.

Still, all things considered, I'm a hard guy to hate.

They hate me in Taoshan. I think it was my shoes; they took inordinate attention to my shoes. Bass, two-tone browns. Real nice. The meeting room floor was hard pack dirt, and I think they were waiting for me to flinch at the thought of getting those chic American two tones all boogered up. You get a lot of hard pack dirt in Taoshan. I'd been there before; Northern China, four hours north of Harbin, 60 miles from Siberia, with a population of Mongol, Chinese and pack horses. Americans are news in Taoshan.

It could have been Alabama or Wisconsin. I've been hated for stupid stuff before. But it was in Taoshan where they hated me for my shoes.

They hated my shoes, my money, and my fake Rolex. They hated me for living in a nice house. They hated me for vacationing in Jamaica. They hated me for having good teeth and a first class ride home. They hated my house in the suburbs and they hated my golf clubs. They hated me, and they like hating me. They hated me for everything about me without knowing anything about me. They hated me and they hated my Shanghai associates, and my Taiwanese partners. This is not about China. It's about hate. Before Taoshan, I never suspected I could be hated for having cool shoes. I thought you had to know me before you could hate me.

Apparently, I am hated other places as well. Places I've never been. But they still hate me. Out in the desert, the wind howls and the AK's ring out in celebration and unison. They know how to focus out there in the wilderness. It's not Atlanta. They aren't too busy to hate. It's simple, focused and satisfying. Hate brings clarity.

They hate me and they hate you. They hate us and now they are killing us. I saw a picture of a man doing a pretty good swan dive out of floor 106 of the World Trade Center. He probably started his day fixing the copy machine. They hated him. They hated the woman rearranging a picture of her husband on her desk in an office cubicle when the Boston to LA flight made an unscheduled stop on her floor. They hated the Captains of Finance surveying the New York skyline from their penthouses, wondering why that 757 was flying so low. They hated the family from Iowa who saved their money for a New York vacation and made it to the top of the WTC observation deck. Somebody is going to have to bring in hairbrushes so they can DNA match what is left.

I'll bet you want to know why they hate us.

They hate us because we won. In a couple hundred years we put this country so far ahead of the rest of the world, it's not even a horse race. Piece of cake. The Soviets never had a chance. The Chinese are going to make great capitalists, they just don't know it yet. Anyway, you keep score, anyway, you add it up, game over, we win. God knows we're not perfect. But you and I and our daddies and mommies and their daddies and mommies did something right, enough right to be, as they say in the travelogues, "The envy of the world." We're it because we did it right. They hate us because the USA is the number one top dog. No one is blowing up Ecuador.

They don't much care if we are liberal or conservative or happy or sad, or rich or poor. They don't care about innocence or guilt. They don't care if we agree or disagree. Ironically, Americans are finally united in one supreme spiritual bond. We are targets. Men and women, parent and child, sister and brother, finally stand together. (But uhhh...not too close together.) We are the New Americans: Bogeys in the line of fire.

They are killing us because they can. They don't have a strategic plan. There is no territorial front. There is no Liebestruam in this war. They don't REALLY believe we are going to change Middle East policy as a result of terrorism. Heck, they don't WANT us to change Middle East policy. No one is even admitting that they did it. They are not interested in our capitulation, because there are no demands for it. They would much rather just hate us. They are killing us because it makes them feel better. We check our Palm Pilots, and make sure our kids make it to the dentist and the soccer game. We say, "Golly, how could they do this?" Ladies and gentlemen, they are killing us because it brings them joy. They are killing themselves because killing us gives them joy. And virgins. Don't forget the virgins. It is the tenth month of the second year of the Twenty First Century and grown men are flying jets into skyscrapers in order to spend eternity with seventy virgins. If you listed, very close, you can hear Rod Serling introduce this episode.

You ask why are they doing this? You couldn't possibly understand. We are officially out where the busses don't run.

My daughter asked me why, too. I assure you while my lovability may be debated in some quarters, hers is not. And she asked me why.

So I had to tell her. She's confused. She doesn't hate anybody.

Personally, I want some retribution with a capital R. It was just a pair of shoes, you want to hate me for THAT? Five thousand people that couldn't pronounce Jihad, much less die for it, didn't deserve to be hated either. Five thousand people never had a chance to hate back.

But I also don't want to carpet bomb some pissant Afghan village to the Stone Age just to slake the bloodlust spurting in my snake brain. At least I don't think I do. But then again, my daughter isn't lying under 300 tons of fax machines and office partitions.

OK, so I'm confused too. We might want to savor our confusion. It's called a moral dilemma. That's an academic way of saying we ain't them yet.

But clarity is coming. When it does, I think we're all going to be a little less lovable.

Welcome to the jungle.

■ Bless the heroes

In the events that occurred Sept. 11, 2001, I must speak out as an American citizen, veteran and a person that loves and will defend this nation at any cost.

I am presently unemployed (layoff) since March 1, from one of the major auto companies. I thought that was the "darkest day" of my life after almost 17 years of service and being almost 52 years old. All that is minor compared to what has happened last month. But the thing I want to bring out is to tell those who are in law enforcement, fire and those who serve our communities, not only here in Michigan, but nationwide as rescue or volunteers, how much they are appreciated.

What we saw in New York and Washington, as many Americans were hurt and dying, there were those that were there for us "to protect and serve." How many of those police, fire, rescue and volunteers went back into that "hell" to try to save others, only to lose their own lives trying to save others? My heartfelt condolences to their families, relatives, sons, daughters and friends.

We take our police, fire, rescue and emergency personnel too lightly. These people were here for us day after day and many think "well, that's their job." Would you want their job? I, for one, would not!

The next time you see a police person, fire, emergency worker, or whoever serves the public, at least say "good morning" or "good afternoon," or shake their hand and smile or say "hi." Myself, to all those who serve the public, whether you are on the streets, in an office, or just helping, this is America and God bless it, to those that serve us, "God Bless You All."

■ Cartoon backfired

When reading the (Sept. 20) Observer, I noticed the cartoon on the Opinion Page. Who thought that was funny?

I feel that every American should own a flag, not wait to buy one in case of a disaster.

Right now, every home in the United States should be flying our flag. That's the trouble with the American people – they take too much for granted.

That's my opinion. God bless America.

Repent now

I don't think anything has affected our country in such a strong way as the tragedy in New York. It has "raped" every American of the greatness our country has known since its founding.

We should have seen it coming; it was only a matter of time. God has started to take His hand of protection off our country and if we don't repent and turn back to Him, we will see much more of what we saw on Sept. 11. We must remove ALL other gods and put God back where He belongs.

If you look at history, God has always protected any country that followed Him, but He has also allowed the enemy to come in when He was no longer the center of that country. Our country was founded as One Nation under God and that is where it received its greatness and protection. The one and only, true, living God was the center of everything our country did. He was the center of our families all the way up through our government.

Approximately 40 years ago, someone didn't like the fact that God was in our schools, so instead of standing firm and keeping Him there, we kicked Him out.

Look what has happened since: disrespect, drugs, rapes, shootings. As we have seen Him removed in other places, we have seen that same decline.

Not only have we kicked God out of our schools and government, we have allowed other gods to enter. We have allowed people from other countries to come to America and bring their gods with them. It's good for other people to come, but they must leave their gods back home. God is a jealous God and tells us to have NO other gods before Him.

If people don't want to be in a country that places God first, then let them go to a country where God is not wanted or welcomed. Let them go to a place where He doesn't bless the country and its people.

It was good to see when the tragedy hit that our leaders went back to the One who they knew could help them. Let it not stop there! If we want our country to remain great and free, we must remove all other gods and put God back in all the places where He has been removed.

Let us put Him back in our families, schools, businesses and government. Let us once again be One Nation under God!!

May each one of us say like Joshua, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Then and only then will we see our country restored to where it once was!

A chance for peace

I begin with a quote from John Lennon: "Imagine there's no countries. It isn't hard to do. Nothing to kill or die for, and no religion, too. Imagine all the people Living life in peace."

This is a beautiful image, but unfortunately, today it seems far from reality. As we are all aware, there is a great conflict growing between the United States and Afghanistan. Both nations have begun the mobilization of their armed forces, preparing themselves for battle, building up arsenal and troops as we speak. The possibility of war lingers in all of our minds.

We were all shocked, saddened, and outraged by the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, and with good reason. A horrendous crime has been committed, not only against the thousands of victims and their families, not only against the United States, but against the entire world. However, as tempting as it may be to seek vengeance, war is not an acceptable response to tragedy. A war fueled by thirst for revenge will only result in the death of thousands more civilians and soldiers, both Afghan and American.

Answering violence with violence is no way to honor to those who have died; such action will only nourish our anger and poison justice. If we wish for justice, we must seek it out rationally, and avoid violent impulse – for, as Mahatma Gandhi noted, "there is no road to peace; peace is the road."

Let's take a look at the people of Afghanistan. There are roughly 25 million of them. Afghan children today can expect to live about 46 years; in that short lifetime only 30 percent will become literate. Their nation has been suffering through a drought for the past two years, and the Afghan people live under conditions of unimaginable poverty. They engage in a daily struggle for survival, without any hope for the improvement of their standard of living.

And now they are frightened. Tens of thousands of Afghans are fleeing their nation, their homes, fearing an impending U.S. attack. They are leaving behind everything they know – their very way of life – out of fear of a vengeful foreign power. Now that is what I would call terrorism.

We must remind ourselves that this is not a fight against a religion, or a nation, but a small, elite group of extremists. Some argue that our goal should be to enter Afghanistan and crush the terrorists, naïvely assuming that civilians would be left untouched. However, this is a completely unrealistic plan. There are no central bases for terrorism. These terrorists are not easy to identify; they live in villages amongst everyday people, with wives and children, working typical jobs. Trying to hunt down individual terrorists in this environment would be nearly impossible.

Even from a purely nationalistic standpoint, a war could only lead to disaster for American soldiers. Every foreign attempt to invade Afghanistan in the last 800 years has met with miserable failure, and it's doubtful that the United States would be able to beat those odds. The U.S. Army would be no match for the unfamiliar terrain, the harsh conditions, and especially the Afghan army. In the end our troops would be overwhelmed, and many Americans would die for a vain and futile war. There is no need for such tragic loss of life to occur.

I urge each and every one of you to do what you can to prevent this war, starting now. Write letters, send e-mails, sign petitions, participate in rallies; do what you must to put a stop to any more pointless bloodshed. Anti-war is not pro-terrorism; it is pro-peace. Do everything in your power to support the thousands of innocent people who would certainly die if war erupted. Death only begets death. Let us choose peace, and show that we will not succumb to the temptation of violence.

Massive retaliation for the Sept. 11 attacks will not cease terrorism; it will only perpetuate it. Together we can carve out our future, not with the sword, but the olive branch.

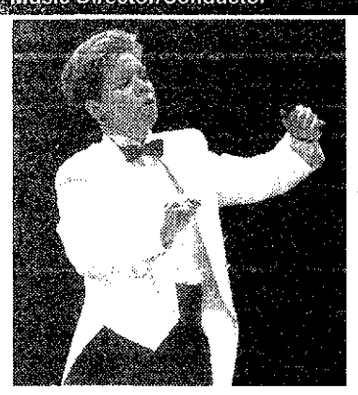

I leave you with another quote borrowed from the great John Lennon: "All we are saying, is give peace a chance."

House approval of 3rd judgeship is right move

It's about time.

Nearly a decade ago local officials began pushing the state for a third judgeship in the 35th District Court. Now, it looks as if that could actually happen, with the first significant progress on the most recent proposal coming last week. The Michigan House of Representatives voted 106-1 in favor of a bill authored by Rep. Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, that would create the new judgeship along with other changes in the district court system.

There are caveats of course. The bill has to pass in the Senate and it requires Gov. John Engler's signature before the end of his term next year. In these complicated economic times, when other state and international issues dominate the agenda, that's no sure thing. The Senate has plenty of ammunition to shoot the bill down, should it choose that route. A just-completed study from the state Court Administrative Office failed to recommend the additional judgeship as part of its review of several district courts.

Then too, there's language in the bill that would require Westland's 18th District Court to absorb the 29th District in the city of Wayne, an idea that sparked opposition in both of those communities last spring.

Even Patterson tacitly acknowledges those hurdles. "It will be interesting to see who gets it through the Senate. It's out of my control now," he said, reacting in rather low-key fashion to the bill's passage in the House.

Still, Patterson deserves credit for rightly picking up a cause few would have bothered with. That he would champion the additional judgeship is completely in keeping with his character as a legislator who pays serious attention to constituent services.

Regardless of the current bill's chances, the issue has merit.

Almost everything that affects the legal system in southeastern Michigan has changed since the district court system was put into place by the legislature some 32 years ago. Population has shifted, traffic patterns are different, as are trends in education, employment and technology. Even our views on crime and the way society deals with it are radically different than they were in the 1960s.

Recent changes in state law also play a role in how many people walk through the doors of the courthouse, just north of downtown Plymouth, each day. The limit on civil cases handled at the district level went from $10,000 to $25,000 several years ago. Also bumped up was the limit on property theft/damage cases heard at the district level – from $100 to $1,000. Those changes, we note, were made by the same legislature that repeatedly turns a deaf ear toward allocating or shifting additional resources to cover the burdens it dumps on our local courts.

Nowhere has there been more impact than the five communities covered by the 35th District Court: Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships, along with the cities of Plymouth and Northville. In fact, Judges Ron Lowe and John McDonald (along with help from a visiting judge several times a week) preside over criminal and civil matters for a geographic area that contains 84 square miles and nearly 140,000 people. Figures compiled by court administrator Kerry Erdman indicate the court last year handled 44,778 cases, an average of 22,389 for each judge. That's nearly twice the 12,735 average handled by Michigan district judges during the same 12-month period.

The Michigan House of Representatives has done its part. The state Senate and Gov. Engler have an obligation to provide judicial relief and adequate representation on the district court bench.

Metro oversight efforts fall well short of mark

In what strikes us as one of the more bizarre moves coming out of Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport – even on the airport's own supercharged zaniness scale – it now appears we'll be treated to dueling oversight committees to monitor construction and other contracts handed out by the county executive. Much as we'd like to believe two such groups will provide an extra safeguard for taxpayers and double the integrity of the letting process, we're a tad skeptical.

The Wayne County Commission announced its endeavor last week, calling the group a stakeholder's committee. It will consist of Airport Director Lester Robinson (a county employee), representatives from Northwest Airlines, a smaller airline, concessionaires, employee unions, the Detroit Chamber of Commerce and the state Bureau of Aeronautics and could begin meeting in the next week or two.

The Michigan Legislature meanwhile is set to trot out a similar effort by week's end. Sen. Glenn Steil, R-Grand Rapids, has said he will introduce legislation setting up a group to monitor and approve airport contracts. Steil, you'll recall, is heading up the legislature's ongoing 18-month "investigation" of airport practices.

Let's not dwell on the political timing of these developments, except to note that intelligence efforts by both factions – who seem to know exactly what the other is planning and when – seem far superior to anything cooked up of late by federal authorities. Their potential effectiveness, however, is fair game. And that's where we see some real problems.

The set-up for the county's committee is lacking in key areas. To begin with, it doesn't have the power to award contracts or even change the way contracts are let. All it can do is review proposals, suggest changes and hire auditors to do a little Monday morning quarterbacking. This might be sufficient if recent contract history at the airport didn't include charges of favoritism, cronyism and plain old poor financial judgment.

But even if the contracting process was a model of ethical behavior to this point, the idea that a so-called watchdog group made up almost exclusively of interested parties – whose members benefit both directly and indirectly from its decisions – can meet its stated goal is just asking for trouble.

Finally, there seems to be some confusion over how the stakeholders will reach consensus. Namely, will they meet in private to hash out the good, bad and ugly on airport deals or will those actions be discussed under the full glare of the media – and public – spotlight? Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said the committee would be encouraged to meet publicly and would in any case make minutes of its meetings public.

While the legislature is still hammering out the details of its contract oversight committee, there are signs of trouble there as well. For example, we've seen nothing to indicate this latest effort will be free of the us vs. them politics dominating the legislature's Metro agenda.

Also, there is real danger in removing contract decisions from the local level and sending them to Lansing. Not only does it unnecessarily bog down the process, but in the end, it lessens accountability further. Just look at some of the recent school financing decisions for a clue as to what the impact might be on the airport and its primary users.

We'll give this much to the state committee. At least it will be subject to the requirements of the Michigan Open Meetings Act.

The Observer believes both efforts are less than genuine and will ultimately come up short. In particular, the Wayne County Commission should take a second look at its plan, to broaden both the committee's membership and mission.

And it goes without saying that any effort to clean up questionable contracting practices at the airport must be wide open and fully accountable to the public. A lack of timely public disclosure and scrutiny is responsible for much of the airport's contracting mess in the first place.

■ CCW response

Mike Malott's article on CCW restrictions (Observer, Sept. 6) requires a response.

First, his comment on the airport: "As it (the new CCW law) is written, critics contend, the law would not allow officials to keep a permit holder from carrying a weapon right up to the gates." Federal law prohibits the carrying of firearms on FAA owned or leased property, as well as attempting to carry a firearm (or other hazardous material) through an airport security checkpoint. So carrying a firearm at the airport is already illegal, and did not need to be addressed in the new CCW law.

Second, as far as the restrictions go on where a firearm may be carried: The state of Vermont has no restrictions on carrying a concealed weapon. There is no requirement of any kind for a permit to carry a concealed weapon. Yet in spite, or perhaps because of this, Vermont has one of the overall lowest crime rates in the nation. (see www.huppi.com/kangaroo/L-toughcrime.htm) According to John Lott, PhD, in his book "More Guns, Less Crime," Vermont ranked 49th in murder rate/100,000 residents, and 50th in rape/100,000. (second edition, tables 2.3 and 2.4 pages 31 and 32).

Schools are "gun free zones," yet we are all familiar with Columbine. How many are familiar with Pearl Mississippi and Joel Myrick? Assistant Principle Myrick, using a handgun, stopped a deranged teen, who had already killed two and wounded seven, from leaving the high school and continuing his massacre at a nearby junior high. (see www.reason.com/0006/fe.ks.loaded.html)

Law abiding citizens don't need the restrictions, and criminals won't follow them.

■ What has happened?

Not more that a month ago, and certainly during the last eight years, the words "patriotism," "patriot," "prayer" and "God" were used by some in this country as a condemnation. A condemnation of those who were thought to be a threat to our country. A condemnation of people who pray, who go to places of worship, who believe in family values, who believe in the entire Bill of Rights and not just the "popular" Amendments.

What has happened here? Why do I now see and hear more people that speak of patriotism during conversations, who fly the American flag, who talk of uniting instead of dividing?

Why are Veterans so cherished now? Were they less valuable? Were they less knowledgeable on the then "unimportant details" like how to display or fold "Old Glory?"

Why aren't we being bombarded by demonizing media messages about those "church people," those "militia gun nuts" and those "over-patriotic" hunters and country bumpkins who we all need to "keep an eye on" as foretold by the likes of Janet Reno?

What's happened to us? Where is our resolve to smoke these "dangerous" patriots out from their gun shows and their Boy Scout meetings? Why is that guy next to me crying when he hears the national anthem or Amazing Grace? He never even stood or removed his hat before. Why doesn't he still blab about his new SUV while he and his pals sip beer and laugh at me for standing and putting my hand over my heart?

What's wrong with you people? Aren't you getting the message from the media? Didn't you read the latest column from Hugh McDiarmid or Deb Price, or Mitch Albom?

Or were those messages falling on deaf ears all along? Or, perhaps were we too busy to care either way? Were we indifferent to the Boy Scouts, the "church people," the gun nuts, the hunters, the veterans and the "patriots" because we weren't affected?

I know what it is. We are they, and they are we. We have been lied to and propagandized into despising one another and our real enemies have been laying low and waiting. Waiting for the right moment, for the exact number of people left standing during the national anthem, the fewest people in church, or for the numbers of Scouts to dwindle to a handful.

Our enemies have been waiting to see what they wanted to see, our VA hospitals in ruins, our gun clubs vacant and our streets without flags waving.

And they were right to do so.

They counted on having us cower and hide because we've all been spoonfed the nonsense that says "turn the other cheek" no matter what, patriotism is for wannabe soldiers, and that church is for "suckers" and the weak minded.

But, we've showed them. We've lost a great many souls in the last week and we probably will lose more. But, my last question is this:

What now? Will we go back to sitting down during the national anthem? Will we scoff at the Scouts, laugh at the hunters, fear the law abiding gun owners and leave the church once we feel "saved?"

We've got a choice to make, we're down but not beaten. When we get up, will we stand united forever this time? Or, when this is over if it really does end, will we become hateful and complacent again? Will our children and grandchildren have to clean up another skyline after someone else knocks it down? Will they have to bury more of their dead brother and sister Americans because we didn't "do it right" this time?

I pray we don't.

So for now, let's just say ... "See you in church" or "at Scouts, "at the gun club," "at the neighborhood picnic," "at the blood drive," or at the fence for coffee.

We need to "get back" people, it's not too late.

■ CCW had no role

An open letter to state Sen. Philip Hoffman (R-Horton):

By what logic do you connect Michigan's CCW law and the recent attacks? Are you saying that terrorists will apply for CCW permits and carry them onto planes? Last I heard, it's still quite illegal to carry a gun past the security checkpoint, let alone onto the aircraft. Will we all be safer now if people can't take a legally carried handgun to the Metro Airport parking lot? Do you think they are going to shoot at planes from the parking lot?

How many people have been shot in Michigan airports by CCW permit holders? I think the total is zero, but maybe your information is better than mine. Tell me if you have some information that I am missing? Did these terrorists carry guns onto these planes using Michigan CCW permits? I thought they had box cutters. Is your bill going to address Michigan's concealed box cutter permit law? Did these terrorists have permits for their box cutters or were they bold enough to do it without permits? How will we stop people from carrying box cutters into the Metro Airport parking lot? Do you have a bill for that up your sleeve? I for one actually wished the crew and every passenger on those doomed planes could have had a weapon on them.

Then we would have 5,000 people alive today in that case. Too bad you appear to be just another politician proposing irrelevant solutions to a non-existent problem and mugging for media time on the backs of this tragedy.

■ Salute to firefighters

I am a Detroit firefighter who went to the funeral for six fallen firefighters a couple of years ago. Today I am retired because of an injury where a house collapsed on me. I spent a year out of a year and a half in the hospital. It has been hard trying to deal with the separation of this tragedy knowing I cannot go to the aid of my fallen brothers and sisters.

This is a direct strike against the most guiltless of our country. None of us are political. We are just workers janitors, brokers, firefighters, storekeepers, baby sitters, delivery personnel, mail room personnel and someone's loved one. I shed many a tear for those who gladly risk their lives every day for the love of his or her fellow man.

Salute to my comrades

Boom is over, and with it fun and games in state budget

Next year's election will be the biggest in years.

With Gov. John Engler leaving office, the governorship is up for grabs.

Term limits will purge most sitting members of the state Senate.

Ambitious House members are jostling to move up. Poised to run for the state House are shoals of local politicians.

Phil Power

Those contemplating the wonders of running would do well to remember the old adage: Be careful in what you wish for; you just might get it.

The fact is that the 10-year boom that made holding office so much fun – plenty of revenue to pay for both tax cuts and more spending – is over.

Done. Finished. Instead, financial experts are predicting Michigan's economy is heading into a downturn comparable to the tough times in the 1970s and early 1980s produced by the Arab oil embargo and the Gulf War in 1991.

Tax collections were headed south even before the terrorist attacks on Sept. 11. With a full-blown recession almost certainly in the cards, the revenue picture looks very, very bleak. It's clear the state budget that begins this week (on Oct. 1) is based on wildly optimistic revenue estimates, and some in Lansing are saying the budget for next year could be out of balance by $1 billion or more.

That puts candidates who were looking forward to more fun and games while in office in a real bind. The obvious financial policy remedy is to cut costs and – gasp! – raise revenue. But advocating the obvious becomes tough in a competitive and uncertain election year.

When it comes to cutting appropriations, most Democrats roll their eyes and look for ways to sidle out of the room. Most Republicans are fixated on cutting taxes. Both are utterly unprepared to answer the simplest questions about what they would do about the state's financial situation if elected.

In an attempt to be helpful to those running for office, I offer two modest proposals.

First, postpone the scheduled reduction in income and business taxes until the economy picks up. Freezing the present rates at current levels would yield around $200 million in revenue this fiscal year and almost $600 million next year. Although this isn't going to cure budget shortfalls of $1 billion, it ain't chicken feed.

Second, stop burying our heads in the sand about imposing sales taxes on purchases made over the Internet.

There is no doubt that shopping on the 'Net is the wave of the future.

Customers accustomed to pointing and clicking with their mouse are perfectly aware they aren't paying sales tax when the FedEx package arrives.

The Michigan tax form has a line where taxpayers can enter the 6-percent sales tax owed on purchases made from retailers who do not have a physical presence in Michigan. Hands up, everybody who has meticulously kept records and entered the appropriate 6 cents on every dollar spent!

Treasury estimates that not taxing purchases made on the Internet will cost Michigan $240 million this year. With retail sales still surging on the Internet, the revenue lost is likely to increase substantially in years to come. (While we're at it, consider that not taxing out-of-state retailers is in fact a 6-percent penalty against companies that have stores in Michigan and provide jobs to our residents.)

The fact is that the 10-year boom that made holding office so much fun – plenty of revenue to pay for both tax cuts and more spending – is over. Done. Finished.

From his position as chairman of the National Governors Association, Gov. Engler is leading an attempt to set up a collection system for taxes on Internet purchases. Some 20 states have already signed up, not including Michigan, yet.

The bill stalled in House Tax Policy Committee this spring, where conservatives assailed it as a new tax that will stifle the promise of e-commerce. Leadership managed to bypass Tax Policy by running a new bill through House Commerce. Once it reached the floor, representatives narrowly approved the measure in a 57-50 vote.

I realize neither of my modest suggestions are as much fun as having it both ways, as we did in the 1990s. But any candidate with even a shred of responsibility is going to have to come up with some plausible policy for resolving what, as of now, looks like a very tough economic dilemma.

■ Misnamed store

A recent front-page article in the Canton Observer (Sept. 6) was about the new family Video Store on Canton Center and Hanford.

This is my response, a wake-up call to our community. The name of the store "family" is misleading. Their back room with adult pornographic material is hardly "family" friendly.

A few years ago, because of this, their Westland store was picketed – apparently to no avail, for now they are here in Canton.

Here are some reasons we shouldn't allow pornography in our community:

1. Pornography promotes sexual behavior which fosters or enables the spread of the AIDS virus and other sexually transmitted diseases, most of which are increasing at alarming rates.

2. Sexual immorality and promiscuity are promoted by pornography. The behaviors and attitudes encouraged by pornography are specifically forbidden by virtually every religion in the world...and for good reason. The image of God in mankind cannot abide the deviance and unwholesomeness portrayed and depicted in pornography.

3. Pornography and sex addition can ruin marriages. It is immoral to treat women as objects for use and abuse. Rape, child molestation and other aggressive sexual behavior is both caused and promoted by pornography.

We can get rid of these "back rooms" if enough people complain and take their business elsewhere.

■ Families left out

As swiftly as Canton seniors herded out of Sheldon Place on Aug. 13, with even greater speed, they decided Sept. 18 to move out of the Holiday Inn Express. Threatened with being left on their own in 30 days if they did not take immediate action, they hastily, and perhaps irrationally, made what for some may be a lifelong decision to move away from their families and community to government subsidized units as far away as Wyandotte, site unseen.

Despite attempts by some family members to persuade seniors to delay the decision for two days so they could seek legal council and/or have time to inspect the offerings, a decision was made by the seniors to select units immediately.

Most rational beings would never make a housing decision without first researching the location and weighing all of the factors that will subsequently impact the lives of not only them, but their families as well. Seniors planned months or years in advance for their move to Sheldon Place.

I have the utmost empathy for the residents of Sheldon Place, who, if evaluated by a psychologist, may be deemed to be suffering from post traumatic stress syndrome.

I have no respect for those parties who are exploiting their vulnerability. Shame on HUD for increasing their revenues on the backs of these poor, displaced seniors and for failing to put political pressure on the housing authorities. Shame on the insensitive housing authorities who refuse to give these homeless seniors "next available" status on their waiting list. Shame on anyone who has dehumanized these seniors into believing they should be grateful for "any" roof they have over their heads. They deserve better.

Family members have been strategically excluded from meetings involving housing decisions and options available to their senior loved ones. Case in point: After families and residents were told Aug. 31 that no "important" meetings would be held without families being invited, a clandestine meet was held for "residents only" on Sept. 13. At that time, a finite number of subsidized units in Belleville and Ypsilanti were offered to Sheldon Place seniors on a first-come, first-served basis. Not until Sept. 20 did I find out that the additional units offered at the Sept. 18 meeting were in Ypsilanti Township and not Ypsilanti, as stated. This could have been factored in before choices were made.

If the relocation options of the residents are considered "unimportant" business by Ms. Hauck, then what is "important" business becomes a lingering question.

Family members suggested that counselors be brought in to talk to the distressed seniors. It never happened. A meeting with Eldercare lawyers was also promised. It never materialized.

Divide and conquer seems to be the order of the day. Ms. Hauck continually attempts to proselytize the residents into a they (family) vs. us (residents) mentality, stating publicly that her obligation is to the residents, not their families.

I am almost certain senior management at National Church Residences will give kudos to Ginnie Hauck for swiftly leading her "flock" out of the Holiday Inn Express, just as she led them out of Sheldon Place N. I am less certain that what she led them to was prudent.

■ More Malott bias

OK, I think we all get the message that Mr. Malott does not support PA 381. He does not need to keep taking his shots with the pen to make it any clearer.

Sen. Hoffman's bill, now SB 502 addresses exactly what Mr. Malott addresses in his column: No guns past security check points. It was passed with the input and support of the NRA and MCRGO.

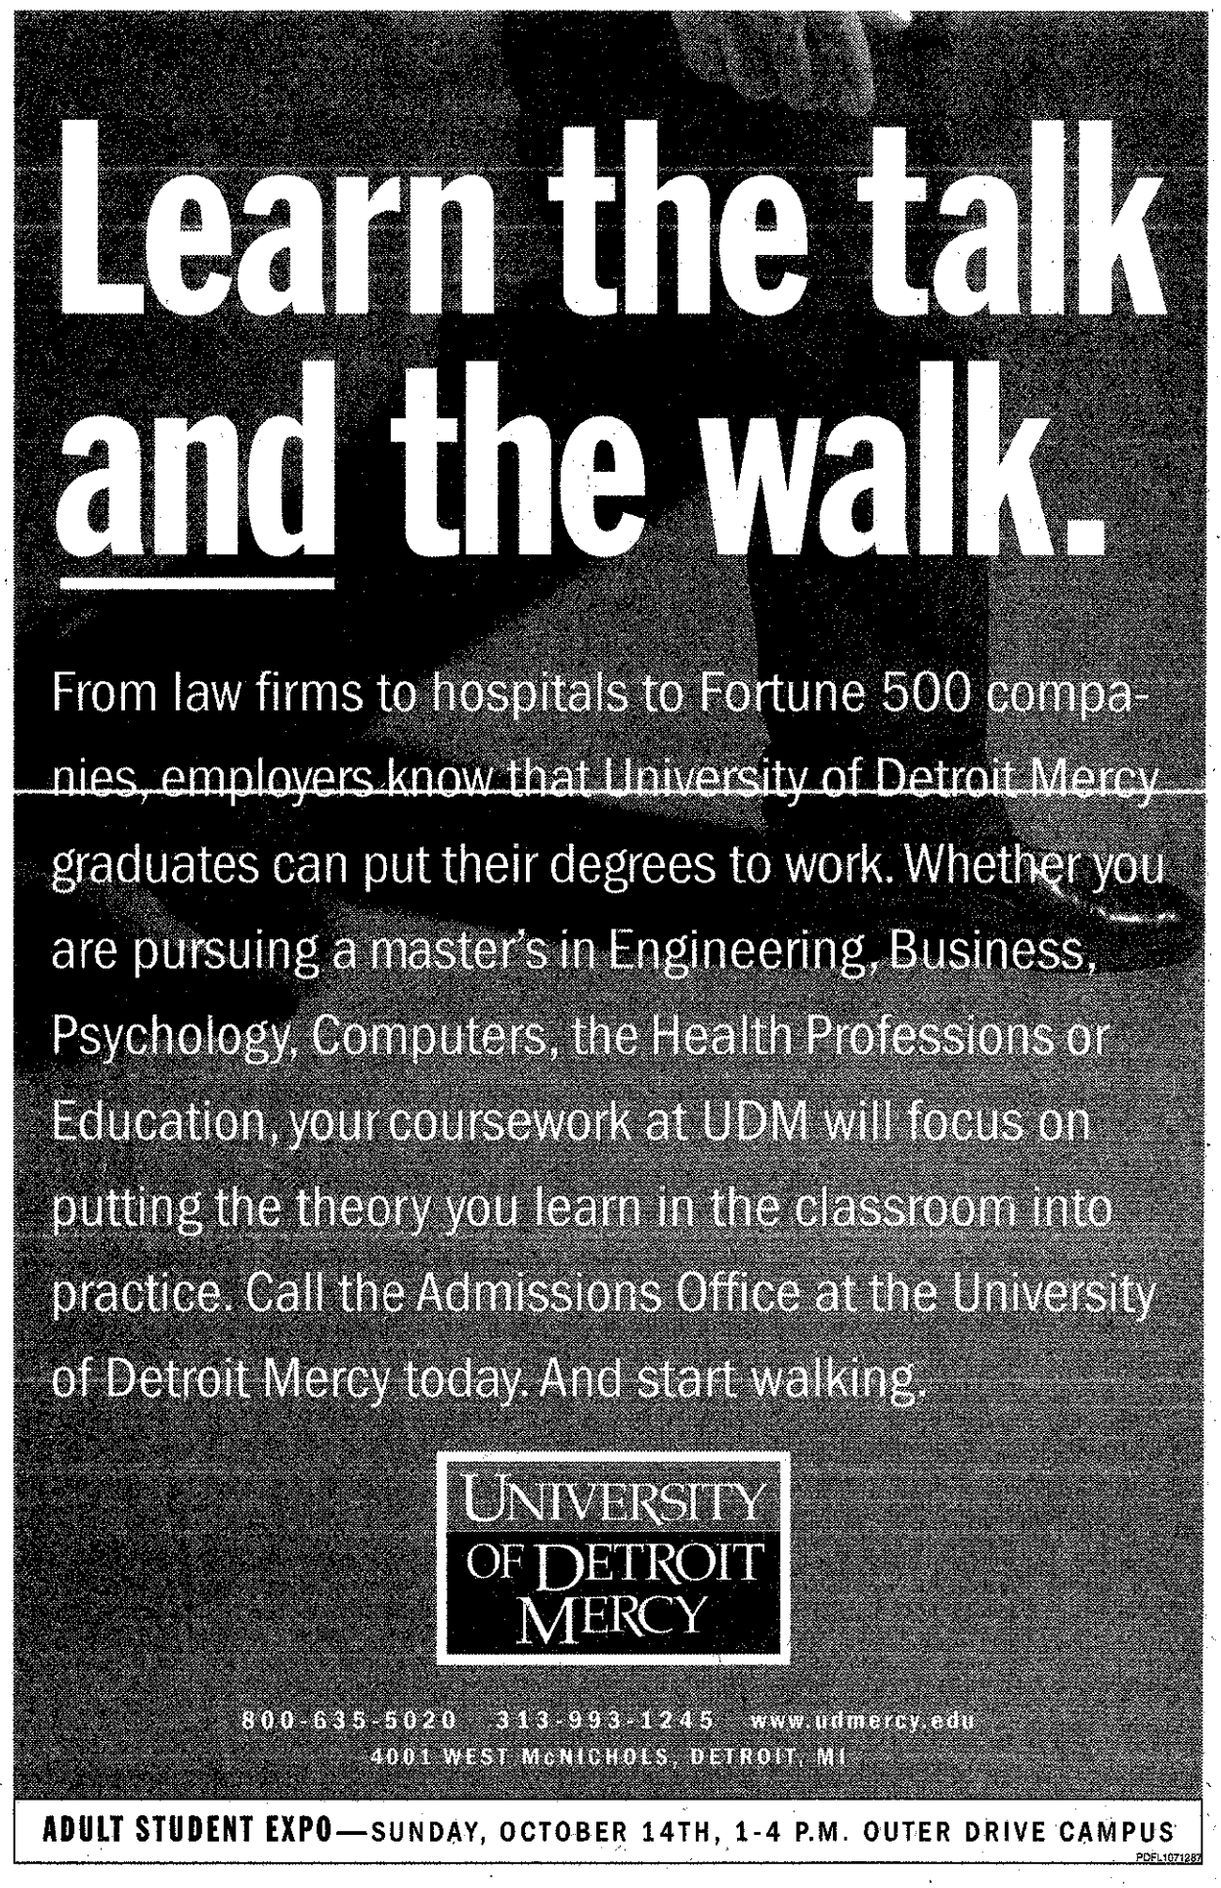

All passengers and friends/families have to pass through metal detectors anyway, so it is only a logical addition to have the state law match the federal (though prosecuting offenders under federal law would be the logical choice).

Guns on airplanes?

Of course not! Perhaps Mr. Malott should move along to something else, since the people that will cause the problems he seems to dwell on will NOT be those carrying LEGALLY.

Legislature passes compromise education funding bill

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

Local school districts "are likely celebrating" the passage of a compromise education budget bill in the state Legislature Wednesday, Sept. 25, according to Brian Whiston of Oakland Schools.

The compromise avoided the worst of the cuts proposed earlier this year, restoring basic funding for districts to $6,500 per pupil for the current school year.

But the restored funding comes at the expense of "categoricals," specially earmarked accounts for programs like summer school for elementary students, reading recovery programs and professional development for teachers. Some categoricals have been trimmed, others eliminated.

For local districts, it means the cuts aren't as deep as they had feared.

Urban schools affected

Those most likely to suffer cuts will be older, more urbanized school districts that are more heavily dependent on those categoricals, said Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield.

Even for them, the losses are "cuts to the increase," the administration is quick to point out. All schools are getting more money than last year, when the basic allowance was $6,300 per pupil.

The state is in the second year of a three-year budget. A slowing economy meant that lawmakers had to pare back, but when they failed to reach agreement in the spring, Gov. John Engler ordered an across-the-board 5-percent cut.

That could have been costly to some districts, although the amounts varied. Walled Lake, for instance, would have lost more than $1 million.

Another district hard hit would have been Rochester, losing $855,000.

The compromise, worked out in conference committee and passed by the House Thursday, Sept. 20, and in the Senate Wednesday, Sept. 25, brought back the per pupil "foundation grants" to the level schools had originally anticipated.

Taking the money instead from those special programs, lawmakers found a way to trim $149 million from the budget for the current year, dropping the budget total from $11.139 billion to $10.989 billion. Next year's budget of $11.3 billion got trimmed $302 million, said Whiston, who serves as legislative liaison for the Oakland Intermediate School District.

It was the newest categorical programs that got cut first, said Todd Harcek, aid to Rep. Marc Shulman, R-West Bloomfield. Summer school for elementary students, a program intended to assure that youngsters get extra instruction if they still can't read by the time they leave third grade, was cut altogether.

That could be a problem for some districts, Whiston said. Waterford, as an example, had launched a summer school program for the first time last year. Now with no funding, it will likely have to be cut immediately.

Another reading program, reading recovery, got trimmed $25 million this year and $30 million next year, but was not eliminated altogether.

Professional development programs for teachers were axed entirely, effective this year.

One new categorical, Parent Involvement & Education grants, also known as PIE grants, was spared trimming for this year. The $45 million program is intended to teach parents how to work with their youngsters to improve school performance. But the program gets cut altogether next year.

Whiston said that poses a problem for school districts expected to gear up to start the new program this year only to have to cut it next year.

Republicans for the most part were pleased with the final compromise. Harcek explained districts had lobbied lawmakers primarily saying they wanted to keep the "foundation grants," per pupil funding, at the previously set levels.

Aaron Keesler, spokesman for Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, agreed that the main goal was preservation of that basic school district funding.

'Rainy Day Fund'

Democrats, on the other hand, mostly objected. Sens. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-South Lyon, and Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield, both argued that the state should have been willing to dip into its budget stabilization fund, the "rainy day fund," to keep spending at anticipated levels.

"We are talking out of one side our mouths when we say programs like 0-3 preschool, reading assessment, parenting education and professional development are critically important, and out of the other side when we say they are going to have to be delayed. It's wrongheaded. We are saying these things should be done, but not on our dime."

Smith argued the rainy day fund should be use, "that's what it's there for."

Peters said the state has already dipped into the rainy day fund, for more than $70 million. And since education is supposed to be the state's priority, it should have for schools, too.

"That's the purpose of the fund, to smooth out dips in the revenues in our cyclical economy and make sure we have continuity in our programming. This is a short-sighted approach to budgeting and education," Peters said.

In the Senate, the education budget was approved in a 22-13 vote.

In the House, the budget passed 62-44.

Maurice Hines ON STAGE

Back in time: Take a trip to the 1950s with Maurice Hines and friends in "Guys and Dolls."

starring in 'Guys & Dolls'

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
SPECIAL WRITER

It was a time when guys were guys and girls were...dolls. Guys and Dolls, a romantic comedy featuring the lives of Times Square gamblers, comes to the Fisher Theatre Oct. 9.

Making his Detroit debut as Nathan Detroit, actor Maurice Hines will take the audience on a song and dance rollercoaster ride set in 1950. He leads the 28-member cast through Oct. 28.

"This is a show for fun, happiness and laughter," said Hines, a native New Yorker. "This is a perfect show for this time (referring to the need to move on from news of recent terrorist attacks in New York, Virginia and Pennsylvania.)"

Nathan Detroit needs to win big so he can marry his fiancee of 14 years, Miss Adelaide, played by Alexandra Foucard. First, however, he needs to come up with $1,000 to ensure the continuation of his craps game. He takes a chance betting a fellow gambler, Sky Masterson (Brian Sutherland,) cannot convince one Sergeant Sarah Brown (Diane Sutherland) of The Salvation Army to accompany him to Havana. The performance follows these gamblers and their respective others as true feelings are unveiled.

"I think it's a wonderful show," Hines exclaimed, "but it's not so much about what I think. It's what the audience thinks."

Hines rides into Detroit high on the wings of success. "At the Arena Stage in Washington, we broke the 50-year attendance record," he boasted, "and at the Wolftrap in Virginia, we had 7,000 people standing on their seats screaming their applause."

Hines attributes the show's success to the cast and crew. "There is a lot of young talent," he said. "We bring a new energy to it."

"This is the best cast I've worked with since I worked with my brother (Gregory Hines)," he added.

Detroit is just one of 50 cities to land the revitalized performance, scored by Frank Loesser and written by Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows. Produced by Richard Martini, Jonathan Reinis, Adam Friedson, Allen Spivak and Albert Nocciolino, the new 50th anniversary production will feature a multi-racial company directed by Charles Randolph-Wright with choreography by Ken Roberson.

Hines started entertaining at the age of 5, appearing first with his brother as "Hines Kids" and then with his brother and father as "Hines, Hines and Dad." The trio opened for Judy Garland and Ella Fitzgerald just to name a few. Consequently, he lists Garland and Fitzgerald among his role models. Others include: Lena Horn, Carol Channing, Sammy Davis and Fayard Nicholas.

Hines's talent extends beyond stage performing. He is also an accomplished director, choreographer, screen actor and recording artist.

"I love doing everything," he said, highlighting his roles in Harlem Suite (director, choreographer and actor) and Jelly's Last Jam (actor). He also directed The Radio City Spectacular as the first African-American director for Radio City Music Hall.

His Broadway credits include Eubie!, Bring Back Birdie, Sophisticated Ladies and Uptown...Its Hot!, for which he received a Tony nomination. In addition, Hines received a Helen Hayes Award nomination for his current role as Nathan Detroit.

Yet it was his first role in Guys and Dolls that he considers a career highlight.

THEATRE

Theater company opens season with 'Bodyland'

BY JENNIFER PLACINTO
STAFF WRITER

Imagine a world where death doesn't only encompass funeral planning, but also decisions about selling the deceased person's body parts and struggling with the moral and ethical issues that entails.

It may not be too hard to fathom when we consider all the people on waiting lists for donated organs they may never receive.

This futuristic possibility of buying and selling human body parts and advances in biotechnology is played out in Bodyland, a production showing at the Furniture Factory, the old Weber Furniture Factory building on Third Street in Detroit which has been renovated as a performance space.

Directed by Erika Block for the theater company Walk & Squawk, Bodyland opens Thursday, Oct. 11, to anyone who wants to choose their own entry price.

"It's up to people," Block said of the cost. "We want them to come. One person gave us a loaf of bread."

Closed since a brief opening last year in October, flooding in December put the newly renovated factory back under construction. Now Walk & Squawk Performance Project, which has a long-term lease of the building, is getting ready for it's first full season.

"It's huge because we have this really packed season," Block said. "We're now able to present other artists."

The idea was taken from a play Block wrote in 1987. Rewritten as a collaborative piece, a thread of the former play was used as a springboard for the improvisation piece about a dad and daughter who must decide what to do with their wife/mother's body parts after she dies.

Bodyland focuses on the impact the sales have on families and questions, ". . . how much of who we are is wrapped up in our physicality," Block said. "Do you take some of that person's being or identity with you?

"It's about raising questions, not answering them."

Sip & Squawk

Talk backs after the show, called Sip & Squawk, allow performers and professionals to talk with audience members about their questions and differing perspectives.

"Everything we're doing is a new kind of work," Block said. "It's not just going to the theater."

The name in itself, Walk & Squawk Performance Project, is pretty unforgettable and that's what artistic directors Erika Block and Hilary Ramsden were counting on. With Ramsden's focus on movement and Block's on writing, they wanted a name that conveyed the group's goal of combining movement, language and sounds and giving them equal play.

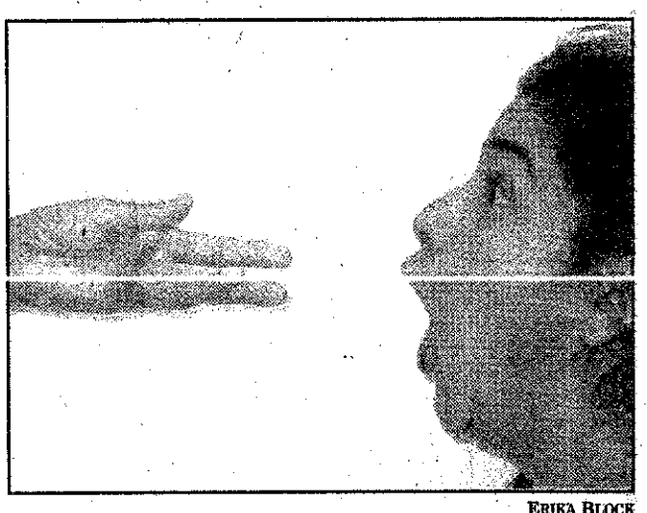

"For most people, it's kind of unusual," Ramsden said. "I guess it's the way we work. We look at the issues and characters from a different perspective than most."

Re-reopening

On Oct. 20, the Furniture Factory will celebrate its first anniversary with a party after the performance of Bodyland. And the new interior will be on display.

"We have a wide open 15,000-square-foot building with this very cool mix of art deco, 1920s retail space," Block said. "We did as much as we could (without) changing the basic features of the building."

They put up walls, moved a staircase and created a second-floor lobby which overlooks the lower lobby. A wall of glass, made of windows and French doors, allows division of the space without blocking natural sunlight. New plumbing, electrical and modern bathrooms were added. And the 100 seats inside the performance area are moveable, allowing for new settings for every performance.

ERIKA BLOCK

From within: Yvonne DuQue puts her full voice forward as she practices her part in Walk & Squawk's Bodyland, premiering Oct. 11.

"For Bodyland, we're going to take the place apart and put seating all over the place," Block said.

"It's an intimate space which is kind of raw," Ramsden said, adding that it's reminiscent of Chicago or New York theaters. "It's a very different experience if you're sitting 5 feet from a performer or 10 feet from a performer as opposed to sitting 50 or even 100 feet away."

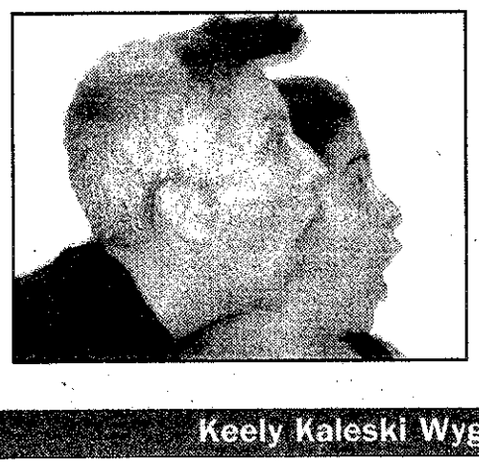

They also have plans to use the building's iron and steel awning for small outdoor performances.

The Furniture Factory is open to other media to promote artists from around the nation and world. It features space for a gallery, classes, theater, dance and musical productions.

"It's unusual for here," said Block. "It's not that it's such a unique concept outside this area."

Kimberly Johnson of Kimberly Consulting in Birmingham saw the Furniture Factory as a perfect opportunity to complete what wasn't done at the Detroit edy," he said with pride.

Hines prefers not to look back on his success however, having no intention of slowing down. He'd rather look to the future.

"Once I'm finished with Guys and Dolls, I'll start on the movie version of Yo Alice, a hip-hop version of Alice in Wonderland," he said. It was written, composed and arranged by metro-Detroiters Lee Summers and Timothy Graphen.

While Hines's busy schedule doesn't allow time for vacations, he does plan to make the most out of his three-week stay in Detroit.

"I am so thrilled to be coming to Detroit," he said. "I'm from the Motown era and I've wanted to come there for a long time. I plan to see everything and everyone."

Upon learning the company would perform in Detroit, he requested that complimentary tickets be sent to Aretha Franklin. "She is the Queen after all," he quipped.

Opera House. While she was managing director at the Opera House, there were plans to build a small performance space.

"I was very disappointed that that phase did not go forward," Johnson said.

She thinks the Furniture Factory will spur commercial development of that area of Third Street and attract cutting-edge artists.

"Without it there, we really . . . in terms of cultural life, don't have it all," Johnson said of Detroit. "Definitely, it's very, very important for Detroit's national and international arts reputation. You can't have a great city without being able to attract great artists."

The Furniture Factory

Some $650,000 in renovations were made to the old Weber Furniture Factory on Third Street in Detroit to make way for a performing space.

Money was raised through a serious capital campaign.

"We've done it very cost efficiently," said artistic director Erika Block, adding approximately $150,000 was donated in services and goods.

Now Walk & Squawk, the resident theater company, is ready to open the first full season and it's packed:

■ Walk & Squawk is putting on two theater productions: Bodyland, a play about buying and selling body parts, which runs Oct. 11 - Nov. 11. The Last NightStand, a comedy about humans, goldfish, entrances and exits, runs April 11 - May 12.

■ On Tour at the Furniture Factory is a presentation of national and international artists whose work pushes aesthetic and political boundaries. Shows in October and March.

The costs for On Tour and Walk & Squawk are $18 on Sundays, $24 Fridays and Saturdays or $20 with 7-day advance purchase.

■ WDET at the Furniture Factory – Monthly live shows hosted by WDET personalities spotlighting emerging and established Detroit musicians Thursday nights beginning Oct. 25 in an intimate work space. Runs through April. Cost is $10-12.

■ Gallery – Exhibit Nov. 6. In 2002, begin rotating exhibits four times per year.

■ Factory passes are available for $175. With the purchase of eight tickets, buyers can use the tickets for any performance they'd like and have free admission to open tech, free parking, and free drinks in the café.

Tiger-trainer takes circus to new heights

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
SPECIAL WRITER

Sara Houcke's performance with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus gives a whole new meaning to "Beauty and the Beast."

The 5-foot-10 flaxen-haired stunner with a pierced tongue and navel looks more like a runway model than a tiger trainer. She steps into the cage that she shares with her tigers and the ferocious animals melt at her feet.

"The relationship, it's not the usual act you would see where the man comes into the ring, throws the chair, there's a lot of screaming and the cats are jumping everywhere," said Houcke, who appears with the circus at Joe Louis Arena now through Sunday, Oct. 7.

"I do a lot of petting. I feed the meat from my hands. There's one-on-one contact. You see the tigers and the lions jumping everywhere. Here it's a much smoother, easy-going act."

Her nickname, the Tiger Whisperer, a play on Robert Redford's character in the film The Horse Whisperer, comes from the way that she communicates with her tigers. Houcke whispers – or "whuffles" as she calls it – to the cats, cuddles and caresses them.

During this year's performances, Houcke works with four different kinds of tigers – standard, white with stripes, snow white and golden tabbies – all of whom stand at an average height of seven feet tall and weigh 400 pounds. Houcke's interest in tigers is a relatively recent one, although the circus has always been in her blood.

Houcke, born March 22, 1977, in Torquay, England, is a seventh-generation circus performer. Her father, Sacha Houcke, is a famed French animal trainer while her mother, Judith Benson, is a former English professional dancer, turned trapeze artist. Sacha Houcke and Sara's younger sister Kerin now also tour with Ringling Bros.

Who: Sara, "The Tiger Whisperer," and the rest of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus
When: Times vary, Thursday-Sunday, Oct. 4-7
Where: Joe Louis Arena, 600 Civic Center Dr., Detroit
Tickets: $10, $15, $17.50 and a limited number of VIP tickets, call (248) 645-6666.

"I grew up with it," Houcke said about the circus. "I love it. I wouldn't want it any different. It seems so normal to a person now. I've done it all my life. It's in me."

She began her circus career at age 2 as a clown in Switzerland's Circus Knie. At 17, she moved from her parents' home in Switzerland to Germany to work with another circus. By that time, Houcke already had experience performing with camels, elephants, horses, rhinos, hippos and zebras.

"It was harder than I thought it would be to leave home, to not have mom around you all the time. It's not a piece of cake."

Her job wasn't easy, either. Houcke was hired to run the animal department for the circus.

"I had to get the feed, find veterinarians in every city, set up and set down, everything that belonged to taking care of the animal," said Houcke, who speaks four languages.

At the age of 19, she found tigers fascinating and soon thereafter "realized that they weren't very many female tiger trainers. And there aren't all that many tiger acts going on, either."

Three years ago, she was able to bring that idea to fruition when she moved to the United States to work for Ringling Bros. The cats' owner, Josif Marcan, taught her how to work with the animals. Meanwhile, Houcke found it important to focus on creating a relationship with the cats, whom she watered, cleaned and fed so she could get to know them.

She and the tigers know each other so well that they can read their moods, explained Houcke who enjoys clubbing in the towns in which she is performing.

"Sometimes it'll work good, sometimes it won't. I can't put my head into the head of the tigers to see what is going on that day. If I'm nervous, the cats will be nervous that one day. If I'm uptight about something, the cats will feel it and mess around with me."

"They totally feel my mood. I have to be happy about going in there."

Conversely, Houcke respects the tigers' ever-changing moods.

"They come up and you know that they want to be petted. We stay out of conflict that way, too. If he's in a bad mood, I won't push myself on him. If the tigers' in a good mood, if they're doing all right, I'll go in and approach them. ... They're like human beings. If you're in a bad mood, you don't want someone nagging you about it."

Houcke remains close to the tigers outside of performances. She parks her "home," a 45-foot RV that she pulls from city to city, next to their cages.

Since Houcke joined the circus, she has become a media darling, the focal point of advertisements and commercials, as well as the topic of interviews with The New York Times, People, Details, The Today Show, CNN Showbiz Today, Inside Edition and other media outlets.

"It's been pretty amazing for me. It wasn't something that I was going to expect to come out of it."

Film plays game of good cop-bad cop

BY JAY M. GROSSMAN

"You have to decide if you're a wolf or a sheep, if you want to go to the grave or if you want to go home."

— Det. Sgt. Alonzo Harris

Searching for this summer's gritty police drama? Look no further than Training Day, a fast-paced action thriller that explores the fine line between cops and criminals.

Det. Sgt. Alonzo Harris (Denzel Washington) is a 13-year veteran with the Los Angeles Police Department. He is a jaded cop, someone who lost sight of why he's carrying a badge and gun. That tricky animal known as justice is no longer a question of right or wrong to him.

"It's not what you know," he tells his new partner, rookie Jake Hoyt. "It's what you can prove."

Officer Jake Hoyt (Ethan Hawke) wants to join Harris and his undercover unit so he can work his way up to detective and buy that nice house in the suburbs. Fresh from the academy, he still believes a good cop can make a difference.

The movie stretches over a 24-hour period in which Hoyt has a chance to impress Harris and show he has the stuff to make a good undercover officer. Harris, meanwhile, has other plans for his new partner.

I liked this movie on many levels, starting with Denzel Washington. He's created a complex character in Alonzo Harris, a detective who still believes somewhere in his heart that he's out there doing good for the community. When Hoyt questions his tactics at one point, Harris explodes in his face and recites the number of arrests and convictions he's made over the years.

At the same time, swaggering around in his black leather coat and heavy gold chains, you know that Harris is anything but a good cop. He believes he is a wolf among the sheep. He might be there to protect the sheep, but he's still a wolf.

Ethan Hawke also gives an edge to his performance. It quickly becomes clear this man is willing to blur some lines if that's what it takes to earn his detective badge. And when he finally turns on Harris, it's not because of justice.

One warning: This is a violent movie. Nearly all the characters have some blood on their hands and a gun by their side. Rush Hour 2 is for the family – this one's for adults only.

Also look for cameo performances by music stars Snoop Dogg, Dr. Dre and Macy Gray. Overall, I give Training Day

Drama: Denzel Washington and Ethan Hawke star in "Training Day."

STREET SCENE

The Faint promises to leave a lasting impression

STEPHANIE A. CASOLA

I wanna dance with Todd Baechle. I'm sure he's a much better dancer than I am. There are some things you just know.

Todd Baechle is the somber-voice singer and synth-player of Omaha, Nebraska's post modern rock revivalists, The Faint. On the first listen to Danse Macabre, the latest by The Faint, I knew Baechle and his bandmates were no strangers to the dance floor.

But when I called the fluffy-blonde musician last week, he didn't sound like he was in the mood to chat – nevermind dance. He answered his cell phone while traveling somewhere near Jacksonville, Fla., and all I could hear were the rumblings of his bandmates – his brother Clarke Baechle (drums), Jacob Theile (synthesizer), Joel Petersen (bass) and Mike Dappen (guitar) – who all must've been in that van too long. It makes it hard to hold a conversation, still we managed. And I learned all about this band I've just started to admire, though they've been around for quite some time.

Faint memories

"We started playing together in 1994, basically it was the same band with some different members," said Baechle simply. "In 1997 we decided to call ourselves The Faint. It took a while for us to agree on a name."

You see, the band didn't want to limit itself by offering up the wrong moniker. They sought a name that would describe the music, but not completely define it. After all, a lot has changed in the past seven years.

"When we first started out, we played in a folk setting where we would sit down," said Baechle. "It was like low-fi folk music... Our sound has just kind of evolved over the years."

Don't expect to unwrap a copy of Danse Macabre, and hear anything remotely folk-like. These days the band sound more like a morose hybrid of 80s synth-heroes like Thomas Dolby or Duran Duran drenched in modern electronica.

"We just got tired of the indie guitar sound," said Baechle. While loud guitars are still paramount, its the synthesizer that's stealing everyone's attention. The instrument has becoming increasingly more prevalent in The Faint's music and is probably the reason the band earns so many comparisons to counterparts of 80s New Wave. But the ME decade never sounded quite like this.

The Faint

Well aware of references to that retro-inspired, future-minded sound, Baechle admits he doesn't think "anybody likes to be labeled."

Popularity aside

"We try not to consider really what's popular," he said. "We want to kind of think of things for ourselves. We really try to make what we want to."

And so, punk rock mentality lives. But the world surrounding this band sounds so much darker these days, as Danse Macabre comes across more like a collection of grim fables than mindless disco hits. There is no real explanation for it, but the CD seems appropriately timed at this, the start of the spookiest season.

"Well, we had been touring a lot on the last album, Blank-Wave Arcade. For a couple of years we'd been playing these songs. We were trying to move forward and be more interesting with our electronics. It turned out a little bit darker. We still wanted it to be fun to play, fun to watch and fun to dance to."

And from the spacey start, Agenda Suicide, to the solemn Ballad of a Paralysed Citizen that ends the record (and my only complaint is that it isn't nearly long enough), Danse Macabre is easily danceable and fiercely unforgettable.

"We hope people will come out and dance with us," invited Baechle.

All I can think is... me first!

The Faint gets high-tech with fancy lights and moody fog, 8 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14, Magic Stick, Detroit. Tickets $8-$10 for this 18 and older show. Call (248) 645-6666.

DINING

Get your fill at Loving Spoonful

BY CHRISTINA FUOCO
STAFF WRITER

A Schoolcraft College graduate, Shawn Loving had his mind set on combining his cooking skills with the ability to give back to the community.

After nine years away from Michigan, he has returned to do just that. On Tuesday, Sept. 18, Loving opened Loving Spoonful in Farmington Hills, his fifth restaurant venture and first in Michigan.

Loving recruited his employees through Schoolcraft and his other alma mater, Golightly Vocational School in Detroit.

"Largely because I was born and raised on the east side of Detroit, I'm a big fan of cultural progression here and a big fan of Schoolcraft College, which is my alma mater."

Located in the former Copper Creek restaurant, Loving Spoonful offers eclectic dishes such as rye and pistachio-encrusted whitefish, herb and garlic pork tenderloin and napoleon potato tower.

Loving prides himself on keeping up with adventurous ingredients.

"I can take a very light herb and mix it with a strong fish and have it balance. It challenges you to be able to (accomplish) what the customer needs," said Loving, who lives in Wixom.

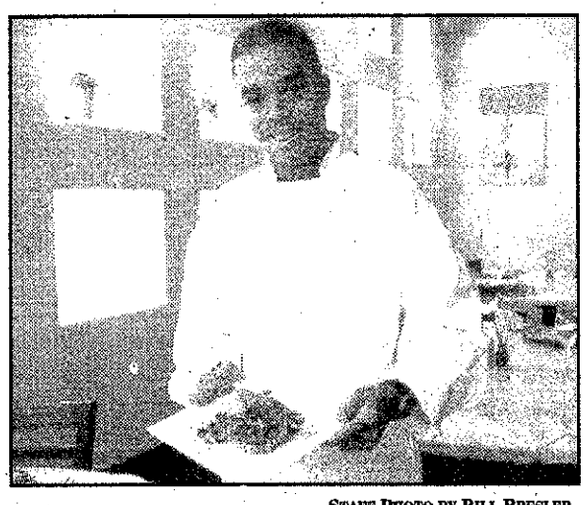

"I'm intrigued by quinoa, a new grain that's being used a lot. I like the fact that guests ask me (about) the way it is being paired with a lamb dish. The restaurant is involved that way."

He takes quinoa and blends it in lamb trilogy: grilled loin chops, roasted lamb sausage and Moroccan spiced lamb patty.

In keeping with his goal of maintaining customers' satisfaction, Loving prints his menus in house, allowing him to frequently change available dishes.

"Having tasty food, not having food that is pretentious or not understandable (is the goal). It's very important that the customers understand what they're eating. These days, it's an honor to have people come into your restaurant."

Cooking has long been an important part of Loving's family. He learned to cook from his mother, whom he considers "a home chef," and his father, a dietitian at a hospital.

By the spoonful: Chef Shawn Loving serves up the restaurant's fried red tomato appetizer.

"I loved Thanksgiving and Christmas time when I could watch my friends and family smile and eat and do all those things," Loving said.

Schoolcraft College gave him the opportunity to study and compete abroad. His travels have taken him to Bangkok and Singapore, among other places.

"As a chef, one of the most important things is to travel and share ideas with other chefs," Loving explained.

He honed his craft at Chef Keith Famie's former Royal Oak venture, Les Auteurs, as well as the Ponchartrain. Nine years ago he left Michigan to work for at Disney World in Orlando, Fla., where he opened the Garden Grill at Epcot Center's The Land. There vegetables and herbs are grown hydroponically (in a nutrient solution rather than soil). He aided a cultural task force in EuroDisney and opened two Race Rock Cafes, one in Orlando and the other in Las Vegas, Nev. His fourth restaurant venture is Fountainview Espresso.

Loving hadn't necessarily planned on opening a restaurant in Michigan. While he was searching for locations for his new venture, metro Detroit made the most sense.

"I was trying to find a location. We looked at Chicago, New York, cities with all the conventions of bigger cities. There was a lot of talk about how this area could use another 'destination' restaurant location," he said

A building off the ninth hole of Farmington Hills' Copper Creek Golf Course was a prime location. Loving Spoonful's spacious dining room and oversized windows overlook the course. The airy room spills into a two-level deck peppered with glass-top patio tables and beige chairs.

He dubs it "a very casual dining experience where the true emphasis of the restaurant is the food."

With the opening of Loving Spoonful, Loving himself is becoming a mentor. The title "chef" almost makes him laugh. He explained that he's humble, and frequently learns from his staff.

"I always second guess myself. ... I've gone back to Schoolcraft and to have (students) call me 'chef.' I don't know how to take that," he said with a smile.

His modesty goes along with the motto of Loving Spoonful, which he explained.

"It's cuisine from the heart. Food that's simple and tastes very good."

SQUEEZE THE DAY

LYNN WALDSMITH PAWLIK

Making the most of a 24-hour day

I was a sophomore at Michigan State when I first learned the Latin phrase "carpe diem," which means "seize the day."

While lecturing about literature and history, my humanities professor, a nondescript but brilliant little man, would fill me with such inspiration that I was ready to burst.

"Live your life to the fullest people," he'd proclaim as he paced around the classroom. "Grab life by both hands and don't let go. Seize the day!"

For the most part I've managed to follow that advice, or at least I've tried to. And while I may not be the young, gung-ho, somewhat naive optimist I was then, I often pause and remind myself to seize the day.

Now that I'm older and so much wiser however, I'd like to suggest a slight revision of the carpe diem mantra. "Seize the day" implores you to go for it, to take some risks. That's fine, of course. But at this point in my life, I think "Squeeze the day" is perhaps more appropriate.

Why? Because, like you, I'm pressured by the demands of parenthood and all of life's obligations. From Barney songs in the morning to bath time and goodnight kisses at night, I struggle to keep my sanity.

I'm also stressed by deadlines, neverending to-do lists, home improvement projects, etc. As my calendar gets more full each day, I strive to keep things simple.

My 5-year-old daughter has a simple way of looking at time. There's school time, play time and rest time. It's just today, tomorrow, and yesterday. (Of course, she also describes the past in terms of "last night" and "last week" and even "yester Christmas." But she hasn't really mastered the concept of thinking long-term, and what better way to squeeze the day than that.

In fact, despite the overwhelming responsibilities and headaches they bring, my children allow me to squeeze all I can out of life. The way they look at the world makes me laugh and marvel at how honest and beautiful they are.

For instance, when the subject of Canada somehow came up at the dinner table recently, Eileen stated emphatically, "My friend Rosie lives in Canada."

"She does?" I said.

"Yeah."

"Canada, really?"

"Yeah." Then I thought about it for a minute.

"Oh, you mean Canton, honey. Canton is a city like Plymouth. Canada is a country like the United States."

"Yeah. You say can, like the scarecrow in the Wizard of Oz."

This kindergartner kind of logic makes my head spin, yet at the same time I treasure it because I see her growing and learning right before my eyes.

Then there's Erin, my wonderful wild-child. Almost 2 years old, she revels in life's simple pleasures with gusto — eating spaghetti, for example, until she's left with an orange face that makes her look like Fred Flintstone. Gargling her milk, screaming with delight, imploring me to read the same book over and over again, and wearing her big sister's ballerina tutu all day long.

When she and I were alone one afternoon after the terrorist attacks, I turned on the TV for a minute to catch the latest news. As I watched the rescue and recovery workers comb through the mountain of rubble that had once been the World Trade Center, I began to cry. Erin, though not understanding why I was sad, patted my arm and said, "It's 'kay mom. It's 'kay mom."

I looked at her and hugged her with all my might. All the despair and hopelessness I felt at that moment melted away.

So that's why this column will be called Squeeze the Day. I hope to share some insights about family life and how we manage to discover life's little pleasures in the midst of our hectic schedules. And how there are times, usually when you're ready to drop from sheer exhaustion, that you get to squeeze your kids and everything is OK once again.

Lynn Waldsmith Pawlik is a freelance writer and mother of two children. She and her husband live in Plymouth.

KEMNITZ CANDIES GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Sweet success

Original candy recipes still popular with owners, customers

BY KIMBERLY A. MORTSON
STAFF WRITER
kmortson@oe.homecomm.net

"Forest Gump was wrong ... you do know what you're going to get if you know what you're looking for," said Everett Smith, husband of Kemnitz Candies owner Cindy Smith.

Smith is referring to the special design each handmade chocolate from the Plymouth candy shop features on the top. The unique marker enables chocolate lovers to literally "read" what kind of filling is inside the candy before they take a bite.

"Every design isn't necessarily a universal code but it's something we've been doing since we bought the place from the Kemnitz family 30 years ago," said Cindy Smith.

Cindy and her family marked the 50th year the small candy store has been in business in Plymouth the weekend of Sept. 28 with free giveaways to customers and an anniversary cake.

"I think we've been successful because we offer a quality that we feel is superior," said Cindy. "Aside from still handmaking a majority of our chocolate candies we offer services like gift wrapping, shipping and special orders."

Cindy's mother, Audrey Hamlin and grandmother Marie Swain, purchased the downtown Plymouth store from George and Betty Kemnitz in 1969.

"My grandfather was in real estate for years and knew my grandmother wanted to do something in business for herself. He called her one day and said there was a store downtown for sale and did she want to go look at it. He didn't even tell her on the phone what kind of business it was," recalls Cindy.

Going strong

Thirty-two years later the Smith family still owns the Ann Arbor Trail business. Cindy said they never changed the name from Kemnitz because they wanted a smooth transition and didn't want people to initially compare the two families and how they did business.

"In time people came to realize we bought the store from George," said Cindy who believes the original owner has since passed away.

Aside from being new owners, little has changed in the candy store since it opened in 1951. Cindy said they still use all the same recipes the Kemnitz family introduced 50 years ago as well as the candy making equipment, processes, chocolate molds and many of the quality ingredients.

"The recipes, the quality and the chocolate have not changed," said Cindy. "In some instances we really have to hunt around for the fine products that go into making our candy. Many companies have down-sized over the years or closed and we've had to find different vendors who carry these products to insure we're selling the same class of candy we did years ago."

Cindy has since purchased the rights to the candy store from her mother. However, her husband Everett, both her parents and her uncle David Swain are still involved in handmaking the countless batches of candy that are produced at their off-site kitchen in Plymouth's Old Village.

"Cindy's mom has always been the wheel in the middle of the wheel ... she makes things happen around here," said Everett, "and Merle is big on quality control."

Although Audrey will be cutting down the time she spends in the kitchen because of recent knee surgery, her husband Merle has no plans of leaving. "I have an investment here," said Merle, 73. "I'm here to make sure everything is how it's suppose to be. Even though I've been making these recipes for 30 years I still get the book out every time. This is work. It takes me eight hours just to clean one machine and no matter what happens to us there has to be candy.

Benefit to support cancer center

BY LAURIE HUMPHREY
SPECIAL WRITER

Organizers of the St. Mary Mercy Hospital annual Hollywood Nights fund-raising event are counting on more than prayer to draw a crowd Oct. 18. They are serving up The Platters.

"This will be an entertainment packed evening," promised Sherri Fletcher, director of fund development and volunteer services at St. Mary Mercy Hospital. "We've got Bowzer's (from Sha-Na-Na) Rock & Roll Revue and The Platters coming."

The event, held at Laurel Manor Banquet and Video Conference Center in Livonia, begins at 6 p.m. Tickets must be purchased before Oct. 16 by calling (734) 655-2907.

Fletcher and a team of 18 have worked non-stop since last year's event to make this one just as successful. They hope to raise more than $200,000 for the hospital's new Cancer Center, scheduled to open in late spring/early summer of next year.

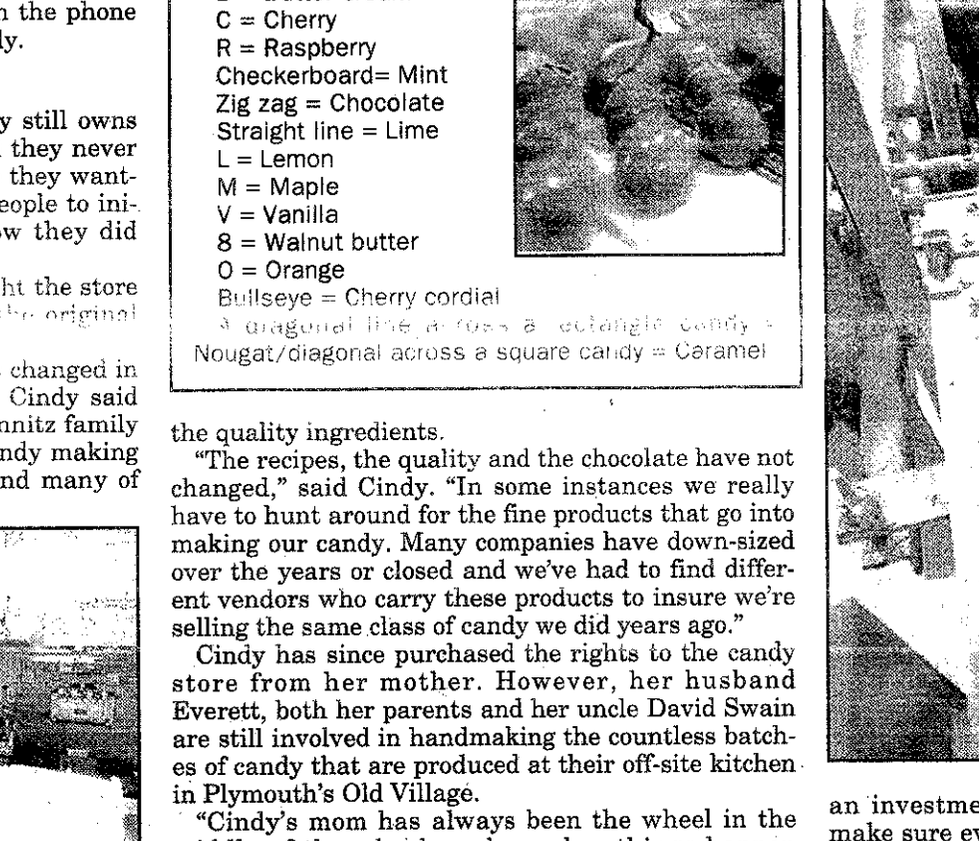

"This is actually the kickoff of fundraising events for the Cancer Center. It's a multi-million dollar project," said Fletcher.

In addition to live music, the night will feature a 50-50 raffle, with a guaranteed cash prize of $1,000; a suit donated by Pat Manno Clothing and Tailoring Company of Dearborn; a $1,000 acoustic guitar from the Guitar Shop in Canton; and an overnight stay at the Livonia Marriott.

"The food you donate helps provide food for each recipient family," stated Pingilley. "It does something else ... it provides hope. Participating in the food drive is a tangible way to express thanks for what God has provide for you by providing for others in our community."

food was in November of 1998 and donations helped them fill 200 boxes. Pingilley said in 1999 350 boxes were delivered and in 2000, 500 boxes distributed.

"We initially just donated nonperishables to stock the Salvation Army food pantry but we received so much food the following year we decided to take on other organizations," said Pingilley. "Our heart has always told us to help the folks of Detroit. We knew the Lord would lead us where the donations were needed the most."

The Plymouth pastor said the Keebler organization has been generous enough to donate a semi-trailer for the church to store and sort the canned and boxed food until distribution. "They've helped us tremendously," added Pingilley.

The collection dates for the fourth annual event are Oct. 20-21; Oct. 24; and Oct. 27-28. Donors are asked to leave bags of food behind their cars when you come the Wednesday, and Saturday and Sunday services over consecutive weekends. If you have a donation and are not a member of the church, bags of food may be brought into Guest Services inside the church 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Oct. 22 through Friday, Oct. 26.

"You don't have to buy everything on the list," said Pingilley. It is our desire to help those less fortunate than ourselves and your donations will not only provide meals for needy families but help us in our goal of having a consistently stocked pantry."

"but I can tell you it's good stuff. The dinner will capture the essence of their culinary abilities."

Hollywood Nights has raised more than $1 million for the hospital since it's creation nine years ago. Nobody is happier about its success than its creator, Carol Cassie, president of First Title in Livonia.

"It's inspiring that the residents and business people are coming together to make Livonia a better community for [illegible] and expand is to everyone's advantage."

The Platters

Cassie began Hollywood Nights as a way to give something back to the community that had supported her business. In seeking a benefactor, she found that "St. Mary had done a lot for this community. There were a lot of fund-raisers taking place, but nothing for the local hospital."

She set up the annual charity event with the intention of running it for three years, then handing it over to hospital staff. She is back to help this year after a six-year hiatus.

"I came back to help the Cancer Center," she said.

Cassie credits hospital staff and John Del Signore, owner of Laurel Manor, with making the event what it has become, a success.

"Every year, we give the hospital at least $150,000," said Fletcher.

Last year's contribution resulted in a new stereotactic biopsy table and probe for breast cancer detection. "Now it can be detected sooner and there is less chance of disfigurement if a woman needs a mastectomy," she explained.

"This event is for the community," Fletcher said. "Everyone in the community will benefit from having a more comprehensive care facility right here, because when you're not feeling well, it's better to stay close to home."

Fletcher expects about 900 people to attend the ninth annual event. She predicts that "not only will they thoroughly enjoy the evening, but they will leave with a warm feeling inside knowing that they are helping someone, maybe even themselves."

Tickets prices for the black-tie optional event are $75/person for general admission, $150/person for V.I.P. admission. More expensive tickets include preferential seating and a gift.

Our customers expect to see something in those cases."

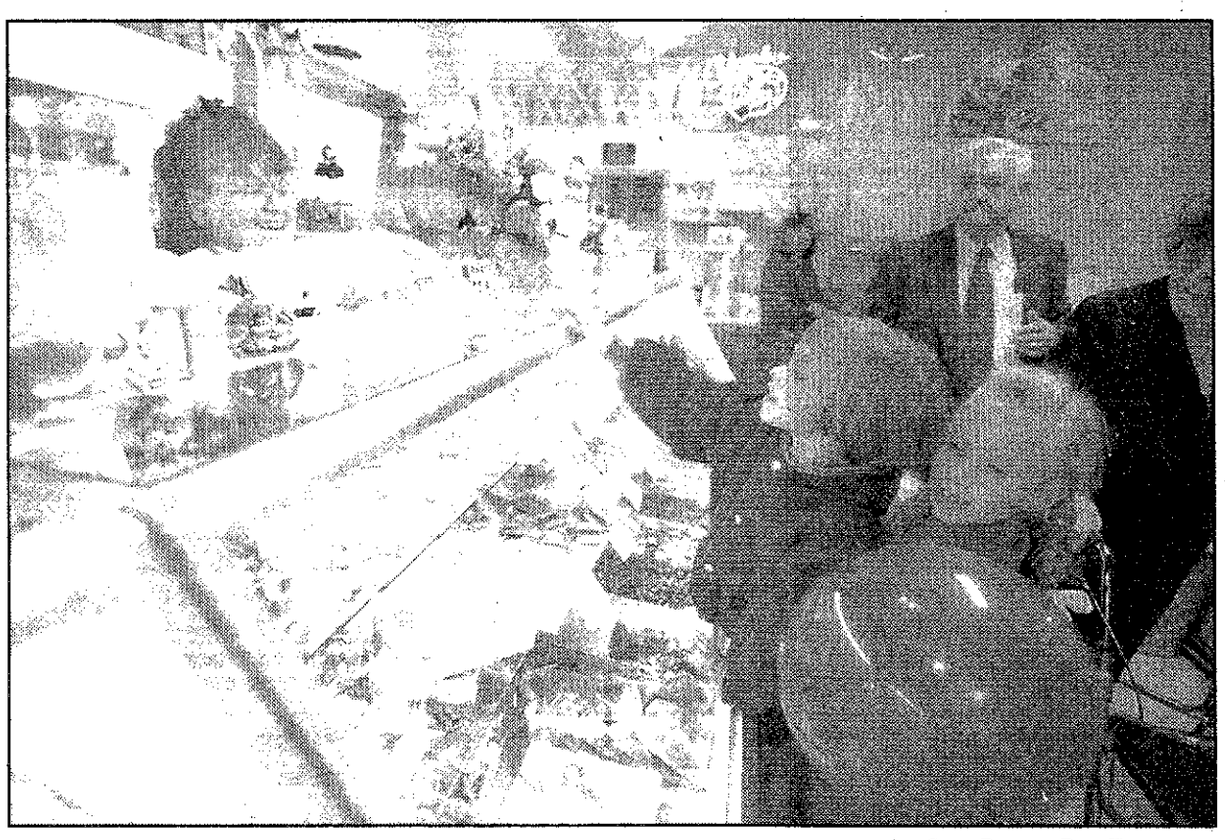

It's the thousands of customers that have come through Kemnitz Candies door that keeps Cindy excited and encouraged about the business. "It's incredible the amount of people that we talk to and have gotten to know over the years. Kids who came in here when I was in high school are now bringing their children," said Cindy.

Everyone's like family

The two full-time employees Smith employs, Renatta Adams of Livonia and Rebecca Hamlin of Canton, say the family atmosphere has always been an appealing quality to not only themselves but their customers.

"I've worked here on and off for 15 years," said Adams who designed and baked the cake for the 50th anniversary celebration. "I get a kick out of people who bring their children in and say 'This used to be mommy's favorite' or 'Daddy used to get this candy when he was your age.'"

Customer Gertrude Fuchs of Livonia said the White Chocolate Pecan Bark has been a longtime favorite of hers. "My son used to buy me a pound of the bark on special occasions. He died five years ago but when I'm out that way I still stop and buy some," said Fuchs who first discovered the shop years ago while lunching downtown at the Mayflower.

Of the dozens of hard and gummy candies, gum drops, nonpareil's and other confections — the handmade clusters, bark, patty's and cordials prove to be the most popular.

Cindy says the biggest sellers are cherry cordials, turtles (pecan delights), coconut clusters, pecan bark and their deluxe assortment box of handmade chocolates. Another favorite are their milk, dark and white chocolate bunnies, chicks, ducks and other figures the Smiths make

Read the Instructions.....

Whenever we purchase a new appliance or piece of equipment, we should always carefully read the instructions or manual that accompanies it. It is a good idea to file this information away for future use, in case the item breaks or doesn't work properly. God has given us the Bible, which has wonderful instructions for our life. However, unlike these instruction manuals, the Bible is not something that we should put away and read only when something in our lives is not working right. Just as we should keep a good relationship with repairman and mechanics who can help us when something breaks down, we should also maintain a good relationship with our Lord. We should be aware that we will always need our Heavenly Father's help, and remember that God's loving kindness is always there for His people. The Bible tells us that if we draw near to God, He will draw near to us, and if we seek the Lord, He will answer us and deliver us from all of our fears.

Blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose trust is the Lord.

Rotary youth program seeks local teens

If you are a full-time high school student between the ages of 15-18 and are looking for an opportunity to expand your horizons, live in another country, learn a new language and culture then the Rotary Club of Plymouth wants to hear from you. Applications for outbound youth exchange placements are now being accepted.

According to Jan Eisen, Rotary International sends over 7,000 students each year on exchange to another country. Two types of exchanges are available. The first is a year-long exchange where students are placed in another country with one to four Rotarian host families. In this exchange the student becomes part of the household and community and is considered their host family's son or daughter for the duration of the visit. The student attends school and is encouraged to participate in school activities as well as Rotary sponsored activities and projects.

The second type of exchange is a six to eight week exchange where the student will visit a foreign country for three to four weeks and a youth from that household will stay with your family for the same amount of time.

"There are dozens of host countries to choose from and typically students are placed in one of their top choices," explains Scott LaRiche.

Applications for student exchanges are available at www.studentexchanges.org/. Local clubs interview all applicants and recommend the students they deem appropriate for exchange to the Rotary District Committee.

Interviews with the District Committee take place in mid-November and successful applicants are notified in December. There is an application fee and parents are responsible for purchasing an open-ended round trip airline ticket to the country assigned.

Contact Jan Eisen at (734) 416-1865 or Scott LaRiche at (248) 348-1030.

Elias stable

Homer Elias, the well-liked defensive line coach for Plymouth Canton's football team, remained in serious but stable condition Tuesday at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital.

Elias collapsed last week with what is still an undiagnosed brain injury. According to Canton HS athletic director Sue Heinzman, Elias was apparently conscious but didn't seem able to recognize those around him.

Elias is also employed as a security guard at Canton. He played college football at Tennessee State prior to joining the Detroit Lions in 1978. He was a guard with the Lions through 1984.

Sarkesian at it again

A week earlier, Mia Sarkesian made her first goal of the season an important one when she netted the game-winner in a 1-0 Notre Dame win over Nebraska. Last Sunday, she added to her legend by scoring another game-winner — the sixth in her collegiate career — in a 2-1 overtime win over 19th-ranked West Virginia.

The senior midfielder from Canton (Plymouth Salem HS) started with a free-kick cross on the right side from Amanda Guertin to Mary Boland, whose header from the left post went across the goal mouth to Sarkesian at the opposite post. From there, she headed it into the net for the game-winning goal, 12:05 into OT.

Sarkesian also drew an assist on Boland's goal nine minutes into the second half, spring her loose with a through ball that Boland carried into the box before blasting a shot past West Virginia keeper Melissa Haire. The Mountaineers knotted with a goal from Chrissy Abbott with 19 minutes left in regulation.

Notre Dame, ranked fourth in the nation, improved to 8-0-1 and 3-0 in the Big East.

Players of the Week

■ Madonna University's Donna Birkenhier, a senior middle hitter on the volleyball team, was named the Wolverine Hoosier Athletic Conference player of the week. The Dearborn native totaled 30 kills in three matches with a .397 kill average. She also had 15 blocks for the Lady Crusaders, who went 3-0 for the week.

Madonna leads the WHAC with a 5-0 record. The Crusaders carried a 13-6 mark into this week.

■ Dan Knapp, a forward for the Compuware Ambassadors, is the North American Hockey League's player of the week. Knapp collected nine points last week in three Ambassador wins, starting with a goal and two assists in a 7-4 victory over Cleveland.

In a weekend series against Chicago, Knapp had two goals and an assist in a 6-4 triumph and a goal and two assists in a 4-1 win.

Rocks still perfect

Canton fails to slow down Salem scorers

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

It started at about the midpoint of the second quarter.

Plymouth Canton's Katie Cezat had scored a basket a minute earlier to push the Chiefs' lead over Plymouth Salem to 16-12. Cezat's first basket, scored with 6:48 to play in the second quarter, had given Canton its biggest lead, 14-9.

With 4:04 to go in the half, Salem's Kelly Jaskot knocked down a long jumper to narrow Canton's lead to two — and to start the Rocks on a roll that would provide them with a lead they would not relinquish.

There were some queasy moments for Salem down the stretch, but the Chiefs couldn't overcome the deficit that began with Jaskot's second-quarter basket. It ended with a 46-39 win for the Rocks on Canton's court, leaving them unbeaten through nine games and 4-0 in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Canton fell to 5-4 overall, 2-2 in the WLAA.

"They're a good team," said Canton coach Bob Blohm of the Salem squad. "They handle the ball well, they don't turn it over, they're solid defensively and they're a smart team.

"When you get two players on the floor like Jaskot and (MaryLou) Liebau, it creates problems."

Which is what the two seniors did to Canton all evening. Jaskot's second-quarter basket started a nine-point run for the Rocks, taking them from four points down to six up.

It wasn't all offense, to be sure. The Chiefs were pressured into five turnovers in a five-minute span of the second quarter and 17 for the game. Salem had 13.

Salem's turning point, which took them into halftime leading 23-19 (Canton led 10-9 after one quarter), didn't end with the intermission. The Rocks started the third quarter [illegible] 10-2 and preventing a field goal for 5:49 of the period. They outscored the Chiefs 16-7 in the third to open up a 39-26 advantage entering the fourth.

After that, it was experience that won out. Canton never surrendered; the Chiefs reversed the tables in the fourth quarter, outscoring Salem 10-2 and with 1:52 still to play it was a five-point game (41-36). But the big plays went to the Rocks down the stretch.

Amy Szawara and Jaskot both missed the front ends of one-and-one free throws, but Liebau rebounded the ball

Whalers look solid during 3 games in 3 nights stretch

The Plymouth Whalers proved something last weekend.

Three games. Three nights. The opener and the closer in that stretch on the road. Sounds very rough.

And it didn't start well for the Whalers, who played at Sarnia Friday, came home to host Windsor Saturday, then played at Windsor Sunday. In Friday's opener against the Sting, the Whalers got the game-tying goal from Mike Smith 3:35 into the third period.

That sent the game into overtime, which proved no favor to Plymouth — 4:11 into the extra period, Kris Newbury slipped a shot past Whaler goalie Jason Bacashihua to give Sarnia a 3-2 OT win.

Plymouth still gets a point for a tie, but Sarnia earns two points for a win.

The Whalers never led in the game. The Sting opened the scoring with a goal by Juris Stals with just 51 seconds left in the first period; Greg Campbell knotted it for Plymouth with an unassisted goal 3:02 into the second. Five minutes later, Eric Himelfarb regained the lead for Sarnia — which is the way it stayed until Smith's score in the third (from Karl Stewart and George Nistas).

Bacashihua had 18 saves in goal for the Whalers. Cory Campbell made 24 for the Sting. Plymouth outshot Sarnia, 26-21.

Losing like that in the opener of a three-games-in-three-nights stretch sounds like trouble, but for the Whalers it was just a warm-up. On Saturday at Compuware Arena, a big game from defenseman James Wisniewski (from Canton) carried Plymouth to a 5-2 victory, and on Sunday at Windsor Arena, three third-period goals lifted the Whalers to a 5-2 triumph.

On Saturday, Wisniewski sparked a five-goal second period with a pair of power-play goals scored 86 seconds apart. He also had two assists in the game.

St. Clair wins showdown with SC

BY C.J. RISAK

cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

The bottom line was this: Schoolcraft College's volleyball team was good Tuesday when it hosted St. Clair County CC in what figured to be the match to decide first place in the Michigan Community College Athletic Association's Eastern Conference.

It's just that St. Clair was a little better. And when you have two teams that rank among the best in the NJCAA (St. Clair is ranked No. 1), a little can go a long ways.

■ VOLLEYBALL

Which is why Tuesday's match went five games, with the Skippers just managing to edge SC 30-27, 26-30, 30-19, 27-30, 15-11.

St. Clair's win snaps the Lady Ocelots' win steak at 17-consecutive match wins. SC is now 23-3 overall, 9-1 in the conference. St. Clair is also 9-1 in the conference, having lost earlier this season at home to SC.

Indeed, the Ocelots three losses this season have all come against St. Clair.

"I felt the keys were serve receive — it was not as good as it was the last time we played them — and in the last game, we let down a little bit," said SC coach Tom Teeters. "And our serving was real weak. We're used to getting more aces than that, with fewer errors."

Indeed, the Ocelots committed 18 serving errors while collecting 14 aces. Fran Hamilton led SC with four aces; Kerstin Marshall (Livonia Franklin) and Ioana Vescan had three aces each.

The Ocelots did have their chances. In the last

Spartans stop Rocks

Essential in the design of a blueprint for victory is creating opportunities.

But that's just the first step. Doing something with those opportunities is what ultimately wins games.

In Wednesday's Lakes Division showdown between Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Salem, the host Rocks came out strong against the state's top-ranked Spartans, controlling play in the game's first 15 minutes and for most of the second half.

But the chances Stevenson got, it converted, which is why it won, 2-1.

The victory clinched the Western Lakes Activities Association's Lakes Division crown for Stevenson, which improved to 14-0 overall and 4-0 in the division. Salem slipped to 8-6-2 overall, 3-1 in the division.

The Spartans will host Plymouth Canton, which beat Farmington Harrison 4-1 Wednesday to secure the WLAA's Western Division title, for the league championship on Oct. 17. Stevenson beat Canton 2-0 on Sept. 19.

"That was very poor," was Stevenson coach Lars Richters' evaluation of his team's performance Wednesday. "Against a team of Salem's caliber, it's never going to be easy, I promise you. That's the message I gave them at halftime."

It didn't seem to sink in with the Spartans in the second half, and that nearly proved fatal. Salem scored with 25:16 left, then a minute later put two shots from point-blank range off the crossbar.

"We really let them back in it," Richters said. "But this will be a good lesson for us. Some of it's been too easy. If we don't learn the lesson now, it will cost us later."

Certainly Salem began the game with far more energy, dominating play for those opening 15 minutes, rarely allowing a Spartan incursion into its territory. But the Rocks failed to get a quality shot on goal in that span.

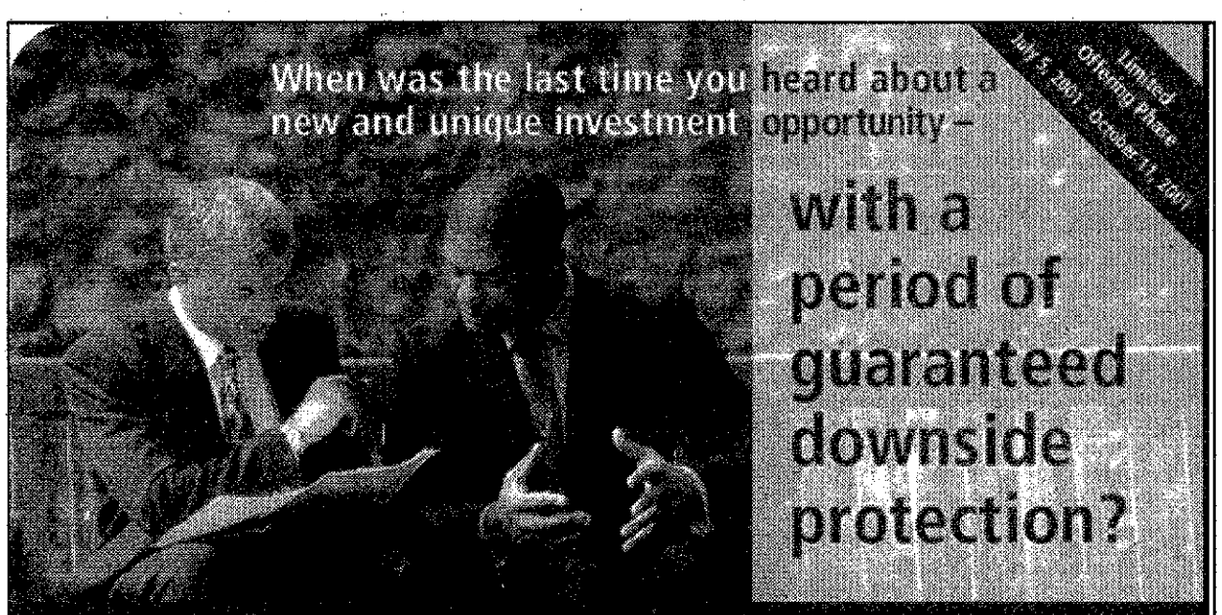

Then a letdown in front of their own goal altered the momentum. An unmarked Paul Johnson took a pass from Stevenson teammate T.J. Djokic inside the Salem box and made no mistake, drilling his shot past keeper Tavio Palazzolo.

With 23:38 left in the first half, the Spartans had the lead. Two minutes later, they doubled their advantage.

Djokic was tripped inside the Salem penalty area and with 21:33 left he was awarded a penalty kick. He converted, and it was a 2-0 game.

"When the first goal went in, it hurt us a bit," said Salem coach Ed McCarthy. "And so did the second goal. But at halftime, we still felt we could win this game. We were playing that well."

X-COUNTRY

It was a middle-of-the-road kind of finish at last Saturday's Grosse Ile Invitational for both Plymouth Canton's and Plymouth Salem's boys cross country team, but not for Salem's Justin Hajduk.

Held at Elizabeth Park in Trenton, the Invite featured seven teams (Saline had two). Saline finished first overall with 43 points, followed by Brighton (50), Canton (52), Salem (84), Saline's B team (130), Taylor Kennedy (197) and Taylor Truman (202).

Hajduk led all runners, finishing first in a meet-record 16:12 — just outdueling Saline's Dustin Voss, who also broke the previous meet mark with a 16:13. Brighton's Kevin Gienapp was third (16:39) and Canton's Aaron Lanning placed fourth (16:56).

Strong pack running aided the Chiefs. Their other scorers were Pat Pruitt, ninth (17:20); Jon Western, 12th (17:29); Steve Debien, 13th (17:29); and Matt Rymond, 14th (17:31). Other Canton runners were Brandon McClellan, 16th (17:45) and Ross O'Hara, 24th (18:16).

Salem remaining scorers included Chris Vraniak, 10th (17:23); Jason Lewis, 20th (17:56); Randy Bearden, 25th (18:17); and David Anderson, 28th (18:32). Other runners for the Rocks were Benjamin Brockschmidt, 34th (19:59) and Blake Heidenreich, 35th (20:09).

The Rocks were also represented at the eight-team Dearborn Divine Child Falcon Invitational, where they finished second with 59 points. Dearborn Fordson was first with 50.

Jim Leddy led Salem and all other runners, placing first overall in 17:00. Adam Warner was next best for the Rocks, finishing 11th 18:05, followed by Mike Horgan, 14th (18:16); Erik Ness, 16th (18:27); Bill Stemmerman, 17th (18:29); Jason Poniatowski, 25th (19:05); and Mike Jahn, 32nd (19:56).

Salem runs in a Western Lakes Activities Association tri-meet against North Farmington and Farmington today at Cass Benton. Canton goes against Walled Lake Western and Northville in a WLAA tri-meet today at Cass Benton.

Salem girls run 3rd

Plymouth Salem's girls team divided its team for two invitationals Saturday, and both managed to bring home trophies with top-three finishes.

The Rocks' 'A' team placed third at the Grosse Ile Invitational, held at Elizabeth Park. Saline's 'B' team was first with 38 points, followed by Saline's 'A' team with 47 points. Salem had 60, followed by Brighton (71) and Plymouth Canton (142).

Kristin Mastic was the Rocks' top finisher, placing 10th in 20:54. Next best for Salem was Stephanie Hajduk, 12th (21:16); Kim Wood, 13th (21:31); Lauren Kane, 14th (21:32); Jill Grey, 16th (21:50); Erin Jensen, 19th (21:59); and Liisa Keski-Hynilla, 21st (22:07).

At the Divine Child Invitational, Salem's 'B' team was second with 92 points. Top Rocks were Monica Przebianda, ninth (21:33); Lianne Griffiths, 13th (21:52); Halle Burton, 15th (21:56); Kim Mason, 23rd (22:33); and Allison Sponseller, 32nd (23:01).

The Rocks also had a 'C' team at the Falcon Invitational, with Meghan Galvin as their top placer (38th in 23:26). Other 'C' scorers were Abbie Shaw, 43rd (23:37); Susan Woodard, 44th (23:48); Andrea Griffiths, 48th (24:05); and Jackie Gauthier, 49th (24:07).

Salem takes on WLAA rivals North Farmington and Farmington in a WLAA tri-meet today at Cass Benton.

Dearborn won the eight team meet with 44 points.

Adam Warner paced Salem, placing fifth in 17:54. Next best for the Rocks was Mike Jahn in 19th (17:54), followed by Jarrod Bailey, 21st (19:18); John Israel, 32nd (20:39); George Placinta, 38th (21:46); and Yair Leventhal, 43rd (21:55).

Four Salem girls also competed at Tuesday's Freshmen/Sophomore Invitational. Kim Towne placed 29th (23:26); Alyssa Borowy was 35th (24:27); Summer Kassem was 36th (24:31); and Rikki Sowinski was 42nd (25:38).

Rockets get better of Chiefs

GOLF

This one was tough to take.

Plymouth Canton's golf team suffered a bit of deja vu Monday in a Western Lakes Activities Association meet at Hilltop, losing 163-164 to Westland John Glenn. The loss left Canton at 5-3 in the WLAA; Glenn is 5-4.

What bothered Canton coach Tom Alles was that in his eight years as Canton's coach, his team has played on the back nine twice — meeting John Glenn both times and losing both times, each by a single stroke.

The Rockets' Jeremy Fendelet and Jason Lang were co-medalists, each shooting a 37. Rick Sudak was next best with a 43, followed by Keith Fukuda with a 46. Chris Marinkovich, 50, and Jim Rawson, 52.

Canton's top scorer was Jason Brand with a 38. Andrew Wagner was next best at 41, with Ryan McKendry at 42, Scott Oliver at 43, Tim Son Hing at 47 and Ryan VanLoozen at 51.

The Chiefs play Walled Lake Western today at Bay Pointe, then complete their WLAA dual season by hosting Farmington Friday at Hilltop.

Playoff dreams close to reality

GRID PICKS

BRAD EMONS

Three Observerland schools have achieved the magic number (six wins) and are already in the state playoffs.

They include unbeatens Farmington Hills Harrison, Livonia Clarenceville and Redford Bishop Borgess.

Two more are knocking on the door this weekend — Westland John Glenn and Plymouth Canton, both at 5-1.

Canton faces 5-1 Walled Lake Western with second place at stake in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Glenn, meanwhile, has already wrapped up the Lakes Division crown and will face winless Farmington this Friday in its homecoming game.

Wayne Memorial (4-2), helped by a forfeit victory in its season opener against Romulus, needs to win two of its final three to make its first playoff appearance since 1990. The Zebras have home games with Lincoln Park and Taylor Truman before finishing with John Glenn.

The 3-3 area teams — Redford Catholic Central, Redford Thurston, Livonia Stevenson and Lutheran Westland — must all win out in order to make the postseason.

CC has not missed the playoffs since 1994, while Stevenson has gone the past two years. Thurston and Lutheran Westland have never made the postseason.

As far as the race among your prognosticators, Emons maintained his lead after going 11-3 last week (tied with Paul Beaudry). Dan O'Meara and C.J. Risak correctly picked nine out of 14 games.

So the season tally stands: Emons, 73-14; O'Meara, 68-19; Beaudry, 67-20; Risak, 66-21.

Here is a quick look at this weekend's action:

FRIDAY'S GAMES

(all at 7 p.m. unless noted)

St. Agatha (2-4, 1-3) vs. Mt. Carmel (1-5, 1-4) at Wyandotte H.S.: The Aggies, beset by injuries, will not make the postseason after three straight appearances. They snapped a three-game losing streak with a 26-12 win over Ecorse. Mt. Carmel is coming off a 36-8 loss to unbeaten Taylor Light & Life. PICKS: St. Agatha — Emons, Beaudry, O'Meara, Risak.

Liv. Franklin (2-4, 1-3) at Farm. Hills Harrison (6-0, 4-0): Even the New England Patriots would have trouble in this one. These Franklin Patriots, however have competed with two tough Western Division foes the past two weeks, losing 28-12 to Plymouth Canton and 14-9 to Walled Lake Western, both 5-1 teams. Franklin may have one edge in this matchup — the kicking game. Soccer player Andy Siefert has been a pleasant surprise so far this year. PICKS: Harrison — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak; New England – None.

Liv. Stevenson (3-3, 2-2) at N. Farmington (2-4, 2-2): Stevenson is fighting for its playoff life. Its a contrast of quarterbacking styles. The Spartans' Bill Marsack likes to run (93 yards in 12 carries against Salem), while North's Rich Hegstrom likes to throw (12 of 18 for 157 yards vs. Farmington). PICKS: Stevenson — Emons, Risak; North — O'Meara, Beaudry.

Farmington (0-6, 0-4) at Westland Glenn (5-1, 4-0): The Rockets got a sterling performance last week from Andrew Peiffer in a thrilling 24-21 Lakes Division OT victory over Walled Lake Central. Farmington, a 29-7 loser to North last week, faces an uphill climb. PICKS: John Glenn — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

Lincoln Park (1-5, 1-4) at Wayne (4-2, 3-1): The Zebras have a legitimate shot at making the state playoffs. Wayne rebounded last week after a dismal 22-6 showing against Garden City to beat Ypsilanti, 17-13. Lincoln Park is coming off a 15-6 loss to Woodhaven. PICKS: Wayne — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

Romulus (0-6, 0-5) at Garden City (2-4, 0-4): The two newcomers to the Mega Conference's Red Division have had little success thus far. Romulus, which forfeited a season-opening 21-14 win to Wayne when it used an ineligible player, is seeking its first official victory. The Eagles fell last week to 5-1 Wyandotte, 28-0, while Garden City lost to 5-1 Allen Park, 35-0. PICKS: Garden City — Beaudry, Risak, Emons; Romulus — O'Meara.

Red. Thurston (3-3, 2-3) at D.H. Crestwood (3-3, 2-2): Thurston's playoff aspirations took a severe blow after Friday's 14-12 loss to River Rouge. Crestwood defeated Redford Union, 22-6, as Ray Castillo had 122 yards rushing and two TDs to go along with 14 tackles. PICKS: Thurston — O'Meara; Crestwood — Emons, Beaudry, Risak.

Redford Union (1-5, 0-3) at Gib. Carlson (1-5, 1-3): Carlson, a 33-12 loser last week to Blue Division leader Southgate, owns a victory over River Rouge. RU, which fell 22-6 last week to Crestwood last week has only one victory (against Dearborn Heights Robichaud of the Gold Division). PICKS: Carlson — Emons, Beaudry, Risak; RU — O'Meara.

Liv. Clarenceville (6-0, 5-0) at H.W. Lutheran East (2-4, 2-4), 7:30 p.m.: East is coming off a 32-31 triple OT loss to Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook as Adam Crawford scored four TDs in defeat. Clarenceville continues to steamroll through the Metro Conference. The Trojans have outscored their six opponents so far this year, 299-20. PICKS: Clarenceville — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

Northville (3-3, 1-3) at Liv. Churchill (1-5, 0-4): Northville is coming off a 61-20 drubbing against Harrison, while Churchill found the offensive going tough in a 36-0 defeat against Canton. Churchill has played the Mustangs tough in the past. PICKS: Northville — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

W.L. Western (5-1, 3-1) at Ply. Canton (5-1, 3-1): This battle for second place in the WLAA's Western Division is definitely the best matchup of the night. Western is coming off a 14-9 win over Franklin, while Canton beat Churchill, 36-0. The winner is in the playoffs, the loser has to wait another week. PICKS: Canton — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry; W.L. Western — Risak.

Ply. Salem (1-5, 1-3) at W.L. Central (4-2, 3-1): Central suffered a tough overtime loss to John Glenn last week. The Vikings have speed and a potent offense led by left-handed thrower Ryan Trailer. Salem fell last week to Stevenson, 23-7. PICKS: Central — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Macomb Lutheran North (5-1, 5-1) at Luth. Westland (3-3, 2-3), 1 p.m.: North is coming off a 36-13 Metro Conference victory over Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett as Joe Lefevre rushed for 108 yards and two TDs. Lutheran Westland found itself in a tough bind, losing to unbeaten Clarenceville, 46-6. PICKS: North — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

Redford CC (3-3, 1-3) vs. Warren DeLaSalle (2-4, 0-3), 7 p.m. at E. Detroit: The Shamrocks haven fallen on hard times following a last-minute 26-21 defeat to University of Detroit-Jesuit. CC must now win out to make the state playoffs. DeLaSalle is coming off a 43-10 loss to Orchard Lake St. Mary's, a team which was defeated earlier this year by CC. PICKS: CC — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

SUNDAY'S GAME

Bishop Borgess (6-0, 3-0) vs. Det. East Catholic (1-5, 0-3), 1 p.m. at Det. Denby: The unbeaten Spartans are the area's biggest surprise. They continued to roll after last week's 44-6 drubbing of Detroit Loyola. East Catholic fell to Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, 13-8. PICKS: Borgess — Emons, O'Meara, Beaudry, Risak.

Cubs put CC's playoff plans in jeopardy

FOOTBALL

Redford Catholic Central is in very real danger of missing its first trip to the state football playoffs since 1994 after losing to University of Detroit-Jesuit on Saturday night, 26-21 at Keyworth Stadium.

On the other hand, even with the loss to the Cubs, the Shamrocks have a better shot at returning to the Prep Bowl at the Silverdome than U-D does.

The Shamrocks ran into a fourth-quarter buzzsaw with the Cubs' offense and quarterback Marc Zera – who led U-D to 19 points in the final period for the win.

The loss drops CC to 3-3 overall and 1-2 in the Central Division and will need to win its final three games to insure a playoff spot. Ironically, even with the win, the Cubs can't qualify for the CHSL playoffs, despite improving to 4-2 overall and 2-2 in the Central.

An Orchard Lake St. Mary win over Brother Rice on Saturday would leave those two teams advancing to the playoffs. If Rice beats St. Mary and CC beats 2-4 DeLaSalle, a three-way tie between CC, U-D and St. Mary sends the Shamrocks to the playoffs. But if CC loses to the Pilots, the league and state playoffs are out.

Derrick Brooks opened the scoring for CC with a 39-yard TD run on the second series of the game. The Cubs came right back as Zera hit Sean Cassleman with a 4-yard scoring pass to tie the score at 7-7.

After a scoreless second quarter, Ryan Rogowski gave CC a 14-7 lead as he stopped a U-D drive by picking off a Zera pass on the CC 5 and returning it 50 yards. He scored five plays later on a 3-yard run.

Zera started the fourth with a 15-yard run to tie the game, but CC came back with a 15-play, 64-yard drive with Brooks going the final 15 yards for the score and a 21-14 lead.

But Zera led U-D again, using a four-play drive and hitting Lonnie Hurst for a 37-yard touchdown. But Landon Langham deflected the extra point and CC held a 21-20 lead.

The Shamrocks had to punt on their next possession and the Cubs took over on their 16. Thirteen plays and 84 yards later, Sean Roland ran in from the 5 to give the Cubs the touchdown and win.

The Cubs outgained CC, 368-247, with Zera completing 17-of-32 for 227 yards. Derrick Brooks led CC in rushing with 15 carries and 92 yards, while Rogowski had 42 yards on four carries. Tom Jakacki was 5-of-12 for 76 yards, completing three for 49 yards to Ryan Wrobleski and two more to Rogowski for 27 yards.

Rogowski also led the way on defense with 12 tackles, while Blaic Naysmith had eight.

Roeper powers past PCA; Agape tumbles

BASKETBALL

Bloomfield Hills Roeper did what everyone else has been doing to Plymouth Christian Academy's girls basketball team of late — charging out to a big lead in the first half and coasting to the win.

Roeper, now 3-1 in the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference, built a 27-12 advantage by halftime in easing to a 44-27 victory. PCA fell to 2-7 overall, 0-3 in the MIAC.

"It seems to be the pattern of late," said PCA coach Annie Malcolm of her team's first-half troubles. "We shot poorly from both the line and the field.

"We had a hard time putting the ball in the basket."

Indeed, the Eagles made just 3-of-16 free throws. Amy Brandt's eight points led PCA in scoring; Shannon Murray was next best with seven.

Sarah Pernick was tops for the Roughriders with 10 points. Sondra Morris added nine.

One of the Eagles' bright spots was the defensive play provided by Megan Roupas, particularly in the second half as PCA limited Roeper to 17 points.

Whitmore Lake 48, Agape 36: The Wolverines fell behind quickly and the Trojans repulsed a second-half rally in the non-conference game.

Whitmore Lake (2-6) led 16-10 after one quarter and 32-16 at the midpoint. Agape (9-2) shaved 10 points off the lead in the third quarter but "that was as close as we got," coach Chuck Henry said.

The host Trojans got 23 points from Nicole Salanin and 14 from Melissa Sparks. They also made all but three of their 19 free throws.

Agape, which was 8-for-15 from the line, was led by Lisa Ther with 11 points and Rikkia Swilley, who scored 10.

Ladywood 61, Borgess 37: Livonia Ladywood (7-3, 4-1) remained in a tie for first place in the Catholic League's Central Division Tuesday with a home-court victory over Redford Bishop Borgess (0-5, 0-5).

Ruthie Sventickas, a junior forward, finished with a team-high 16 points for the Blazers, who led 39-22 at intermission. Sventickas scored the first three baskets of the second half to give Ladywood a commanding 45-22 lead.

Lauren Hesano and Jana Beumel scored 12 and 11, respectively, for Ladywood. Junior forward Christin Jury grabbed nine rebounds.

Borgess was led the Liz Ann Charlies with 16. Natosha Smith chipped in with 11 and Tara Charles finished with 10 to account for all 37 Borgess points.

Borgess was 10 of 19 from the free throw line, while Ladywood was three of five.

Chiefs blast Glenn; Rocks roll

PREP SOCCER

Nine players scored goals for Plymouth Canton in the Chiefs lopsided 10-0 soccer victory over Westland John Glenn Monday at Canton.

Brad Westlund paced Canton, which led 7-0 at the half, with two goals and an assist. Four others had a goal and an assist each: Nick Rolfe, Evan Baker, Jason Lenahan and Brandon Dugan.

Zak Juntila, Ryan Busse, Mike Davis and Erik Durance also scored goals for the Chiefs. Alex Popescu collected two assists and Patrick Zemanski had one.

Greg Musser and Kris Holowicki were both in goal for the shutout.

The win pushed Canton's record to 12-1 overall.

Salem 6, W.L. Western 0: Jared Lamborn scored three goals to ignite Plymouth Salem's victory at Walled Lake Western Monday.

Kevin Peurasaari, Kevin Savitskie and Ryan Fazio also netted goals for the Rocks, with Fazio adding an assist. Shane Smith picked up two assists, and Brian Popeney and Jeff Bennett got one assist apiece.

Tavio Palazzolo and Popeney split time in goal for the shutout.

PCA 6, Agape 1: Plymouth Christian Academy got back on the winning track Saturday with a non-league win over crosstown rival Canton Agape Christian.

The Eagles improved to 7-3-2.

Matt Gallagher's two goals led PCA. Drew Gallagher, James Bauslaugh, Rob Treadwell and Ryan Kazmarek contributed one goal apiece. Rob Hough scored for the Wolverines.

On Friday, the Eagles played Michigan Independent Athletic Conference foe Bloomfield Hills Roeper to a scoreless tie, which Roeper won in an overtime shootout by a 4-3 margin.

Mark Ericson was in goal for PCA.

after Jaskot's miss and got fouled herself. She hit both to end Canton's eight-point run and extend Salem's lead to seven.

On the Chiefs next possession, Liebau stole the ball and got it to Jaskot, who was fouled. This time she hit both free throws, and with just 28.2 seconds left the Rocks' lead was nine.

"Our seniors really stepped up," said Salem coach Fred Thomann, "not unlike the job (Canton's) seniors did to us last year. Our girls had (this game) marked on their calendar going into the season.

"It's not easy to play in this gym and it's not easy to play against his team. They're always well prepared."

Salemhas six seniors on its roster; Canton has two.

That lack of experience showed for the Chiefs down the stretch when — with the clock ticking away and Salem clinging to that five-point lead — they failed to foul the Rocks, allowing precious seconds to get away.

Free-throw shooting in the clutch didn't help Canton, either. Although the Rocks missed two one-and-ones, they fought back with four makes and ended up 5-of-8 at the line in the last 1:17. Canton was 2-for-5 in the last 4:23. The Chiefs also had three turnovers in the last 2:30 and lost that rebound on a missed free throw.

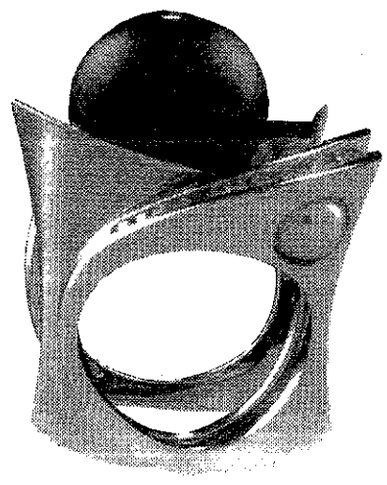

"We hung in there pretty good," said Thomann. "Also, we're getting better. We've made a nice jump since the beginning of the season."

Leading scorer in the game was Liebau with 18 points. Szawara had 10 and Jaskot eight. Kristen Lake paced Canton with 11 points; Briana Wolcott added 10.

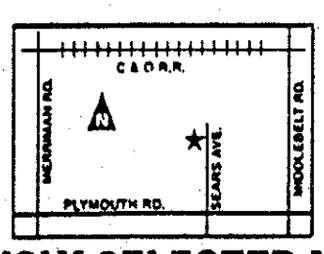

Blohm wasn't unhappy with his team's performance. "I thought we stepped up and handled their pressure pretty well," he said. "Overall, I was pleased. We're still trying to get some game experience, and our execution can get better."

It was Salem that did the executing on this night. Next year, the Chiefs will have six seniors on their varsity, and maybe it will be their turn.

Madonna crushes Concordia

MEN'S SOCCER

It wasn't much of a test Tuesday for the Madonna University women's soccer team.

The Lady Crusaders, who led 7-0 at halftime, allowed just one shot on goal en route to a 10-0 victory at Concordia College.

Madonna, now 5-4 overall and 3-0 in the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference, was led by Becky Guibord's hat trick.

Christen Shull (Plymouth Salem) added two goals and four assists.

Other MU goal scorers included Megan Thiry, Susannah Bryant, Claudia Finn, Jessica Betson, and Emily Neiiendam.

It was the first collegiate goal for both Finn and Betson.

Emily Jackson (Farmington Hills Harrison) contributed two assists, while Thiry, Bryant, Nicole Allevato and Michele Vettraino (Livonia Stevenson) had one each.

Jennifer Barker (Stevenson) had to make just one save, while counterpart Jackie Waterhouse made 12 for Concordia (2-6-1, 0-3).

•ILL.-SPRINGFIELD 5, MADONNA 1 (MEN): On Saturday, host Illinois-Springfield (3-6-1) exploded for three goals in the final 11 minutes to put away Madonna University (6-6).

Ismail Yakicki scored in the 79th and 88th minutes, while John Milkovic notched his second goal of the game in the 86th minute.

Goals by Savas Poyraz (35th minute) and Milkovic (49th minute) stake Springfield to a 2-0 lead before MU's Zach Wilkes cut the deficit to from Jonathan Johnson off a nice cross from Matt Rozek.

Springfield outshot the Crusaders, 10-7.

Matt Strabbing (Plymouth Canton) made 13 saves.

•SCHOOLCRAFT 2, TRITON, ILL. 2 (MEN): A penalty kick by Tom Eller (Livonia Stevenson) with only 10 minutes left Saturday gave Schoolcraft College (8-1-1) the tie against host Triton (Ill.).

Mike Thomas (Stevenson had the other goal for the Ocelots, who were tied at halftime, 1-1.

Matt Gasparotto (Farmington) was in goal for Schoolcraft.

On Sept. 27, Schoolcraft blanked visiting Lansing CC, 8-0.

game, they opened up a 5-1 lead — only to have it quickly slip away to a Skippers' 6-1 run.

Andrea Kmet (Westland/Franklin) had a superb hitting game, collecting a team-best 27 kills with a .386 kill percentage. She also had six digs and two aces, but committed six service errors.

Hamilton had 14 kills (.355) and 11 digs, Carly Szajnecki contributed 13 kills (.308), Kellie Kern had 30 set assists and seven digs, and Vescan totaled 27 set assists.

With SC now in the NJCAA's Division II, these two teams figure to meet at least a couple more times. "It'll be tough," said Teeters. "We should be able to serve better and serve receive better.

"The key then will be to play consistently. We were just a little tentative in our serving and passing tonight."

From now on, with each meeting the importance will increase.

Madonna sweeps Thunder

Madonna University completed the first half of its Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference volleyball season with a perfect 6-0 mark by trouncing Tri-State University 30-13, 30-13, 30-8 Tuesday at Tri-State. The Lady Crusaders improved to 14-6 overall; Tri-State is 0-4 in the conference, 0-6 overall.

Lauren Ban's 11 kills (.643 kill percentage) led Madonna. Laura Lesko contributed eight kills (.333), Donna Birkenhier (1.000) and Marylu Hemme (.667; Plymouth/Livonia Ladywood) each had seven kills, and Jennifer Frost (.714), Tera Morrill (.625; Westland/Livonia Franklin) and Hayley Myers (1.000) each had five kills. Hemme also had eight digs.

Natalie Sayre had 34 set assists, three service aces and six digs, Amanda Suder (Plymouth Salem) had four aces and nine digs and Elizabeth Frecsko had three aces and five digs.

Twisters secure LSFL division crown

■ SEMI-PRO

The Michigan Twisters secured the Lake Shore Football League's Northern Division championship Saturday with a 55-0 rout of the Motor City Cougars at Willow Run HS.

The Twisters take on the Lorain County (Ohio) Steelmen, the LSFL's Southern Division runner-up, at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 13 at Willow Run.

The Twisters, 8-1 for the season, were supposed to take on the Michigan Rattlers of Battle Creek in their last regular-season game this Saturday at Willow Run, but the game was cancelled and the Rattlers were kicked out of the league for "unacceptable public conduct on the field of play" last Saturday in their game against the Battle Creek Rage.

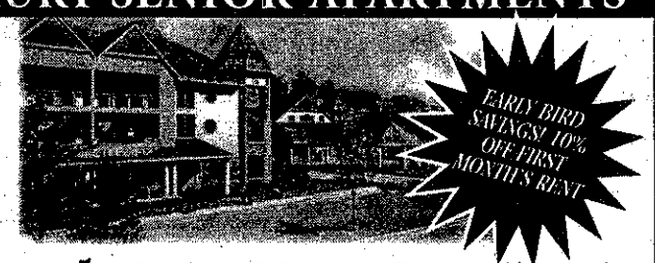

In their win over the Cougars, the Twisters dominated on both sides of the ball. The defense scored two touchdowns, one by Tim Simon on a 49-yard interception return and the other by Tim Hohl (from Canton) on a 13-yard return of a fumble on a kickoff.

All told, the Twister defense, led by linebackers Bob Pensari (Canton), Aaron Brothers (Canton) and Chuck Lauber (Westland), who totaled 23 tackles, limited the Cougars to seven yards on 41 plays.

Offensively, Twister quarterback Rob Elswick played a quarter-and-a-half, completing 6-of-11 passes for 106 yards and two touchdowns, one a 23-yard strike to Reggie Brandon (Wayne) and the other a 24-yard toss to Anthony Leighton. John Robinson (Redford), who took over for Elswick, had one completion: a 42-yard TD toss to Frank Niscoromni (Farmington).

Jason Gibson added 65 rushing yards on five attempts, scoring on runs of 19 and 30 yards, and Ben Ferguson (Garden City) got 64 yards on five tries, Jaquan Wright had 53 yards on five carries, and Ryan Trentman contributed a 19-yard TD run. Chuck Petitpas (Livonia) converted seven extra-point kicks.

Lions' varsity, freshmen win

■ JR. FOOTBALL

The Canton Lions varsity improved to 2-2 with a 24-6 win over the Redford Rangers in a junior football league game Sunday at Central Middle School. The Lions scored first on a touchdown pass from Marcus Ossana to Colin Toth. Kevin Minor kicked the first of his three two-point conversions to make it 8-0.

Ossana made it 16-0 when he ran 80 yards to paydirt in the third quarter. The Lions closed their scoring on a fourth-quarter TD pass from Konrad Konsitzke to Matt Kennison.

Defensive standouts for the Lions were Taylor Fox, Jonathan Wood, Joe Sander and Kennison, who snared two interceptions.

The Canton Lions junior varsity team dropped its third straight game, 6-0, to the Rangers, who scored the game's only touchdown early in the third quarter.

The Lions received strong defensive play from Nick Dunleavy and Chris Hasse, who both recorded interceptions.

Offensively, John West, Vernon Stewart and Chris Fischer turned in solid efforts.

The Lions freshmen squad drubbed the Rangers, 20-0, to raise its record to 2-1-1.

Nick Wright, Myron Puryear and Chris Stewart scored TDs for the winners. Defensively, the Lions were led by Stephen Mehrer, who had an interception and a fumble recovery. Anthony Seling also had an interception and Puryear added a fumble recovery, as did Jake Peterson.

Steelers' JV wins

The Plymouth-Canton Steelers varsity football team suffered a tough 16-10 loss Sunday to the Farmington Rockets, evening their record at 2-2. The Rockets built a 16-2 lead, the Steeler points coming on a safety following a bad snap on a punt, but Kevin Bradley scored on a 50-yard run in the fourth quarter to pull the Steelers to within 16-10. That, however, was as close as they got.

The Steelers junior varsity improved to 3-1 with a 21-0 win over the Rockets. Steeler Dalton Walser scored on a 30-yard pass from Adam Powers, which followed a 40-yard pass from running back Deshon McClendon to Walser to open the game. After the Steelers' defense stopped the Rockets, Jim Judge rambled 70 yards for a TD to make it 15-0. McClendon had a 30-yard scoring run late in the game to seal the victory.

The Steeler freshman were not so fortunate as they stumbled to 1-3 with an 18-0 loss to the Rockets. The Steelers had impressive efforts from David Wilcox, Danny Norris, and Jeff Greer on offense and Malik Rich, Kyle Good, Christian Salata and C.J. Gregory on defense.

The Steelers 2001 Homecoming starts at 5 p.m. Saturday at Central Middle School.

Good Counsel takes title

The Our Lady of Good Counsel varsity football team (7-8 grades) captured its Catholic League division championship with a one-sided 40-18 victory over St. Scholastica Saturday.

Good Counsel got going quickly and never let up. Matt Lyons scored on touchdown runs of 39 and 51 yards, Matt Sweda scored on a 44-yard run, Matt Czajkowski reached the end zone on a 16-yard run (following a Kyle Gendron fumble recovery) and caught a 16-yard TD pass from Steve Paye, and Gavin Ambrosi scored on a 29-yard pass from Daniel Schultz.

The undefeated Crusaders begin their quest for the Catholic League City Championship with a quarterfinal playoff game against Our Lady of Refuge at 1 p.m. Sunday at Orchard Lake St. Mary.

The Good Counsel junior varsity squad also clinched its Catholic League divisional title and remained unbeaten with a 28-6 win over St. Scholastica. Quarterback Ben Vaughn ran for two touchdowns and Ryan Houska also ran for two TDs. The Crusaders travel to Detroit Country Day to play St. Hugo's Sunday in a crossover game.

The Yellow Division JV team played St. Agatha to a 7-7 tie against St. Agatha. Kevin Sullivan scored the lone touchdown for the Crusaders. Their crossover game is also Sunday against St. Hugo.

The fourth grade freshmen team defeated Livonia St. Michael 7-6. Kevin Delapaz scampered for a 60-yard touchdown run. Their last game of the season will be against St. Anne's Sunday. In their final game of the season, the third grade Crusader team finished undefeated with a 7-6 triumph over St. Michael. Mike Bernie scored the only touchdown for the Crusaders and ran in for the extra point, too. The 3rd grade team finished with a 5-0 record.

Even without their coach's halftime warning, it should have been apparent to the Spartans by the time the second half was 10 minutes old: Salem was not going to surrender. The Rocks kept coming after Stevenson.

Fourteen minutes in, their relentless attitude paid off. Jarod Lamborn put the ball to Brian Popeney, whose shot from 20 yards out was deflected by Stevenson defender Joe Lubinski. Unfortunately for the Spartans, the ball floated over the outstretched arms of keeper Charlie Knoll and into the net, making it 2-1.

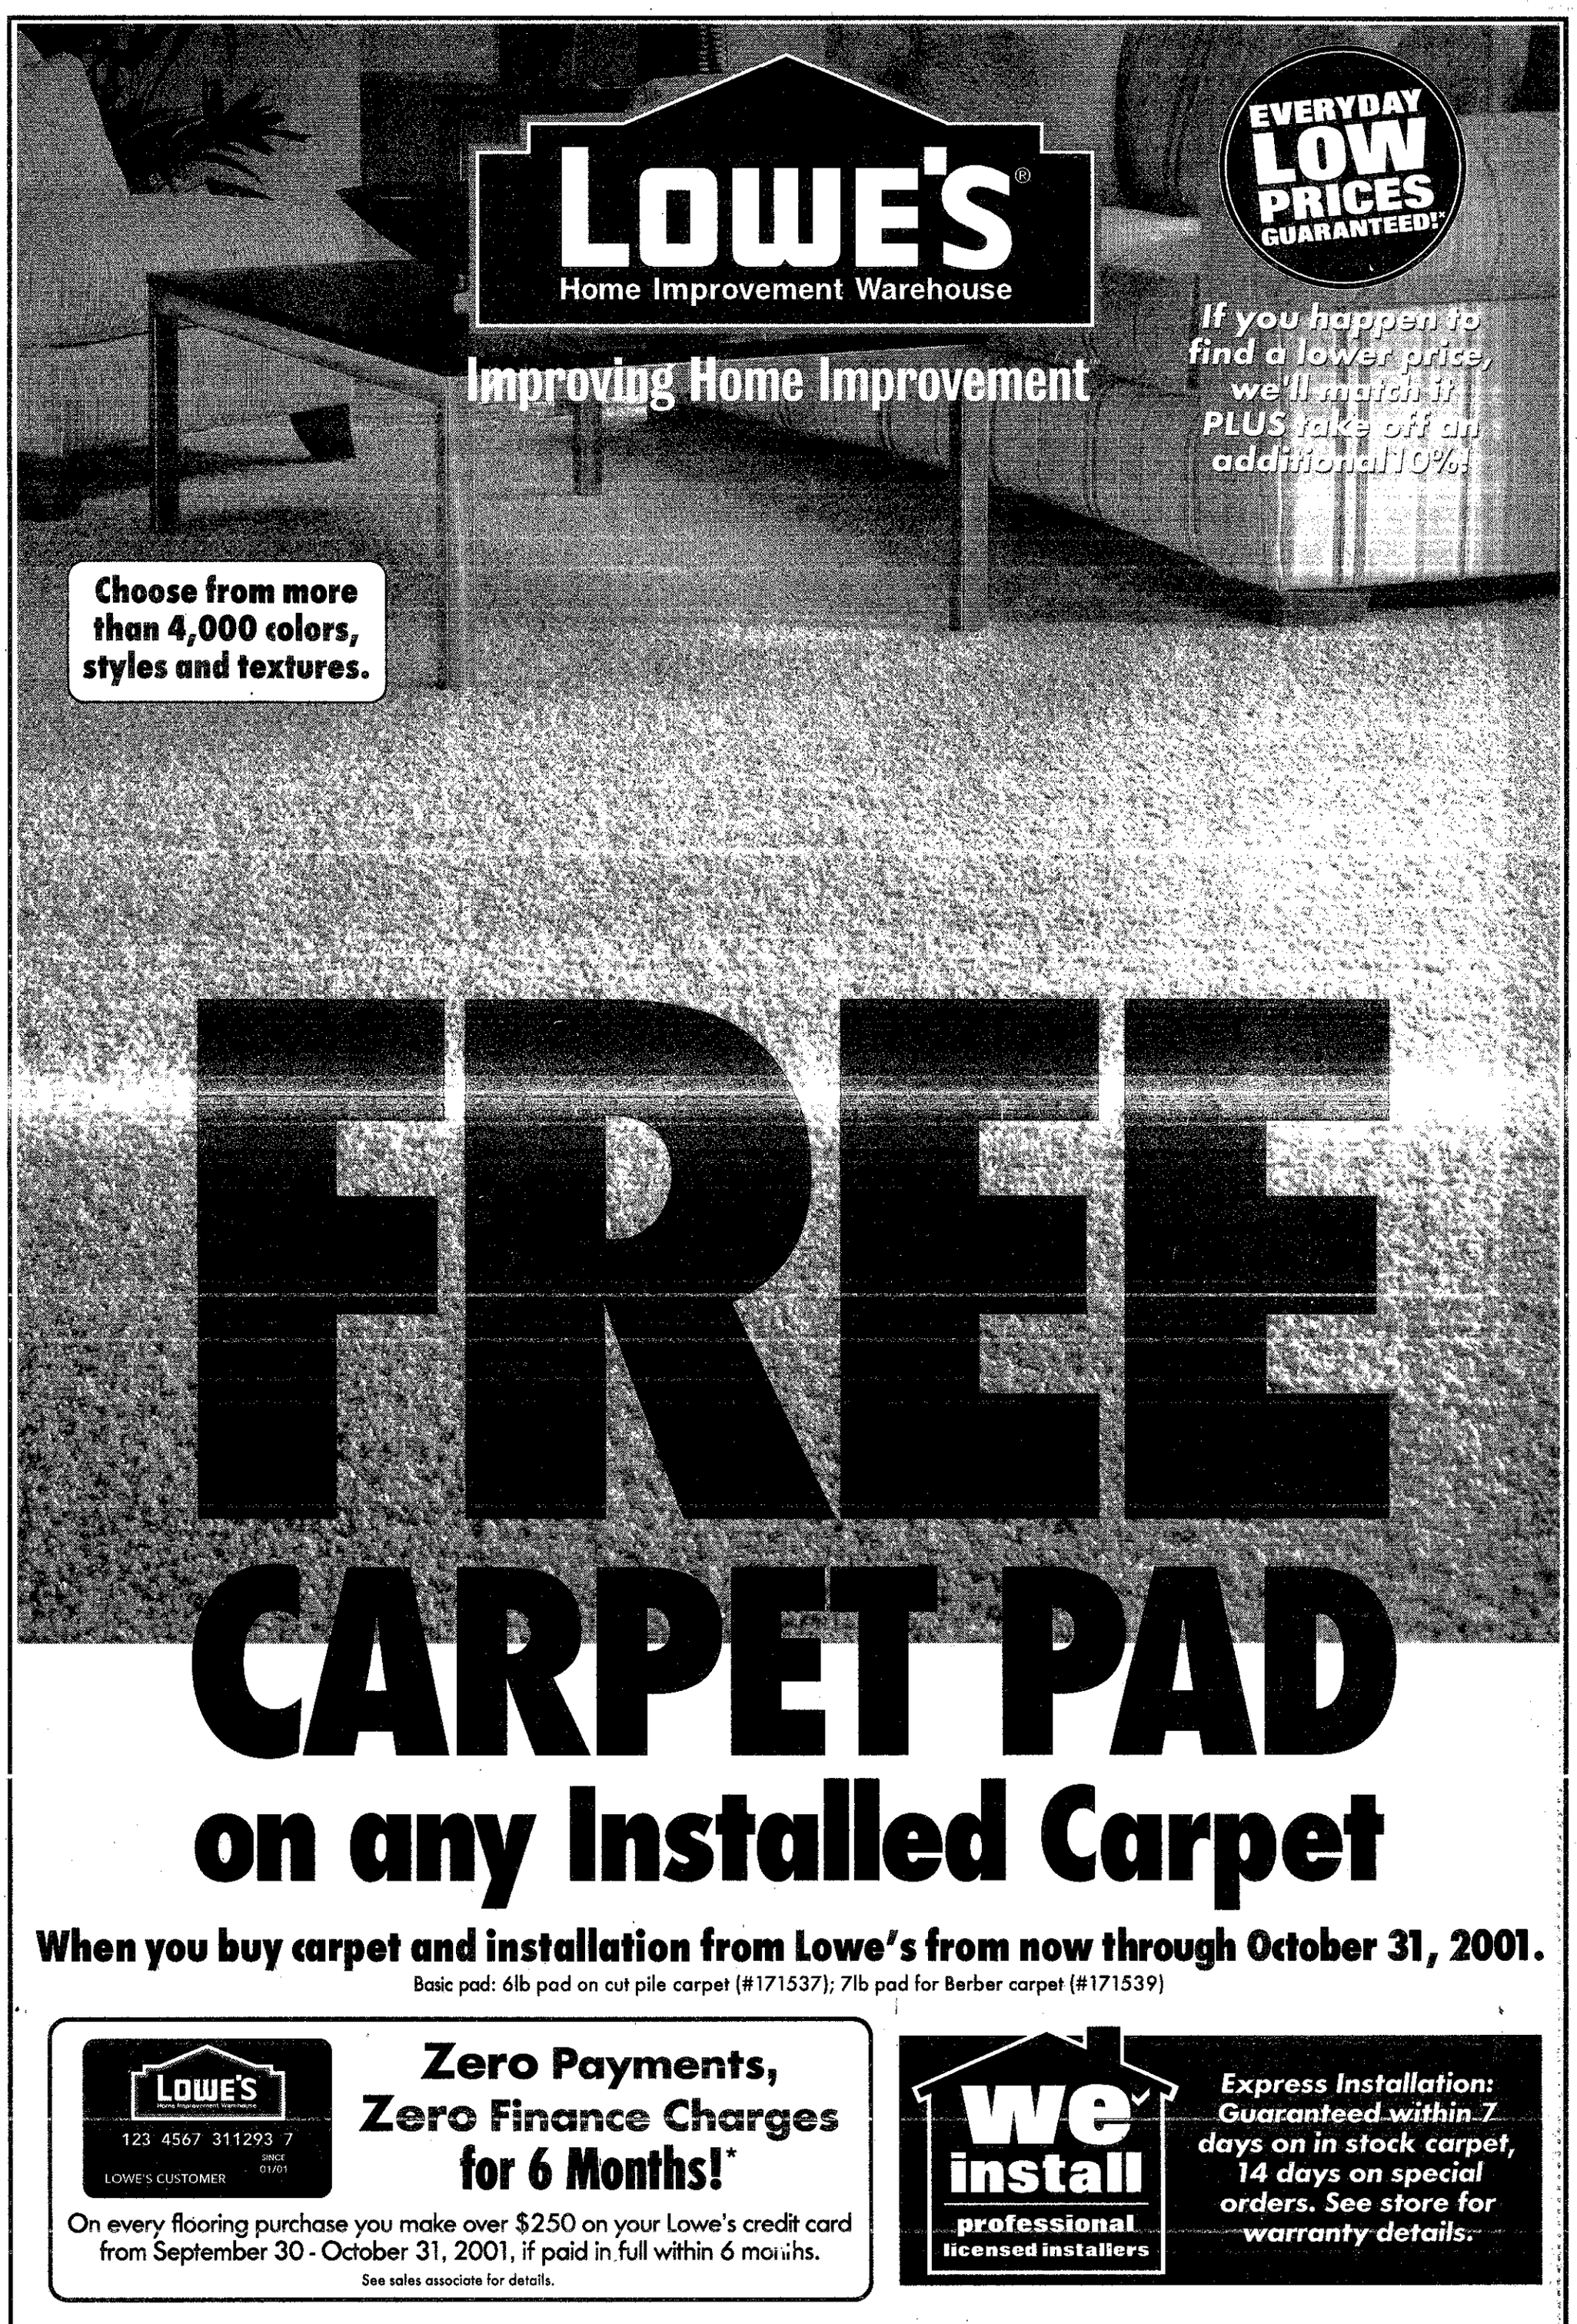

The Rocks could smell blood. Their attack gained energy, and one minute after Popeney's goal it very nearly paid off.

A Salem free kick from 35 yards out ultimately reached Kevin Savitskie in a crowded Stevenson goalmouth. Savitskie's hard header rang off the crossbar above Knoll, rebounding to another Rock, who drilled a shot right back on goal — and again, off the crossbar.

It would be the last scoring chance Salem would have. A wasted opportunity.

"Despite the loss, now they know we can play with anyone in the state," said McCarthy. "Overall, I'm content with the way we played. Even with the loss, we can take some momentum from this game into the (state) tournament."

For the Rocks, a win would have been nicer to build on.

Expanded business can be sued

REAL ESTATE QUERIES

ROBERT M. MEISNER

We live in a subdivision and the neighbor across the street has been using his property for commercial use in violation of the covenants of the subdivision for a long time. He recently changed the nature of his business, and he now has many cars parked in front of his house. Can he claim that the association acquiesced to his commercial activity?

In a similar case, the court of appeals rejected the argument of the defendant that there was an unjustifiable delay in bringing suit or that the delay in doing so caused the defendant prejudice.

There was also an argument brought by the defendant that the association had not enforced the restriction against all owners and was therefore barred by the doctrine of waiver. However, the court said that while many other individuals were operating businesses in violation of the covenant against commercial use, these businesses were innocuous.

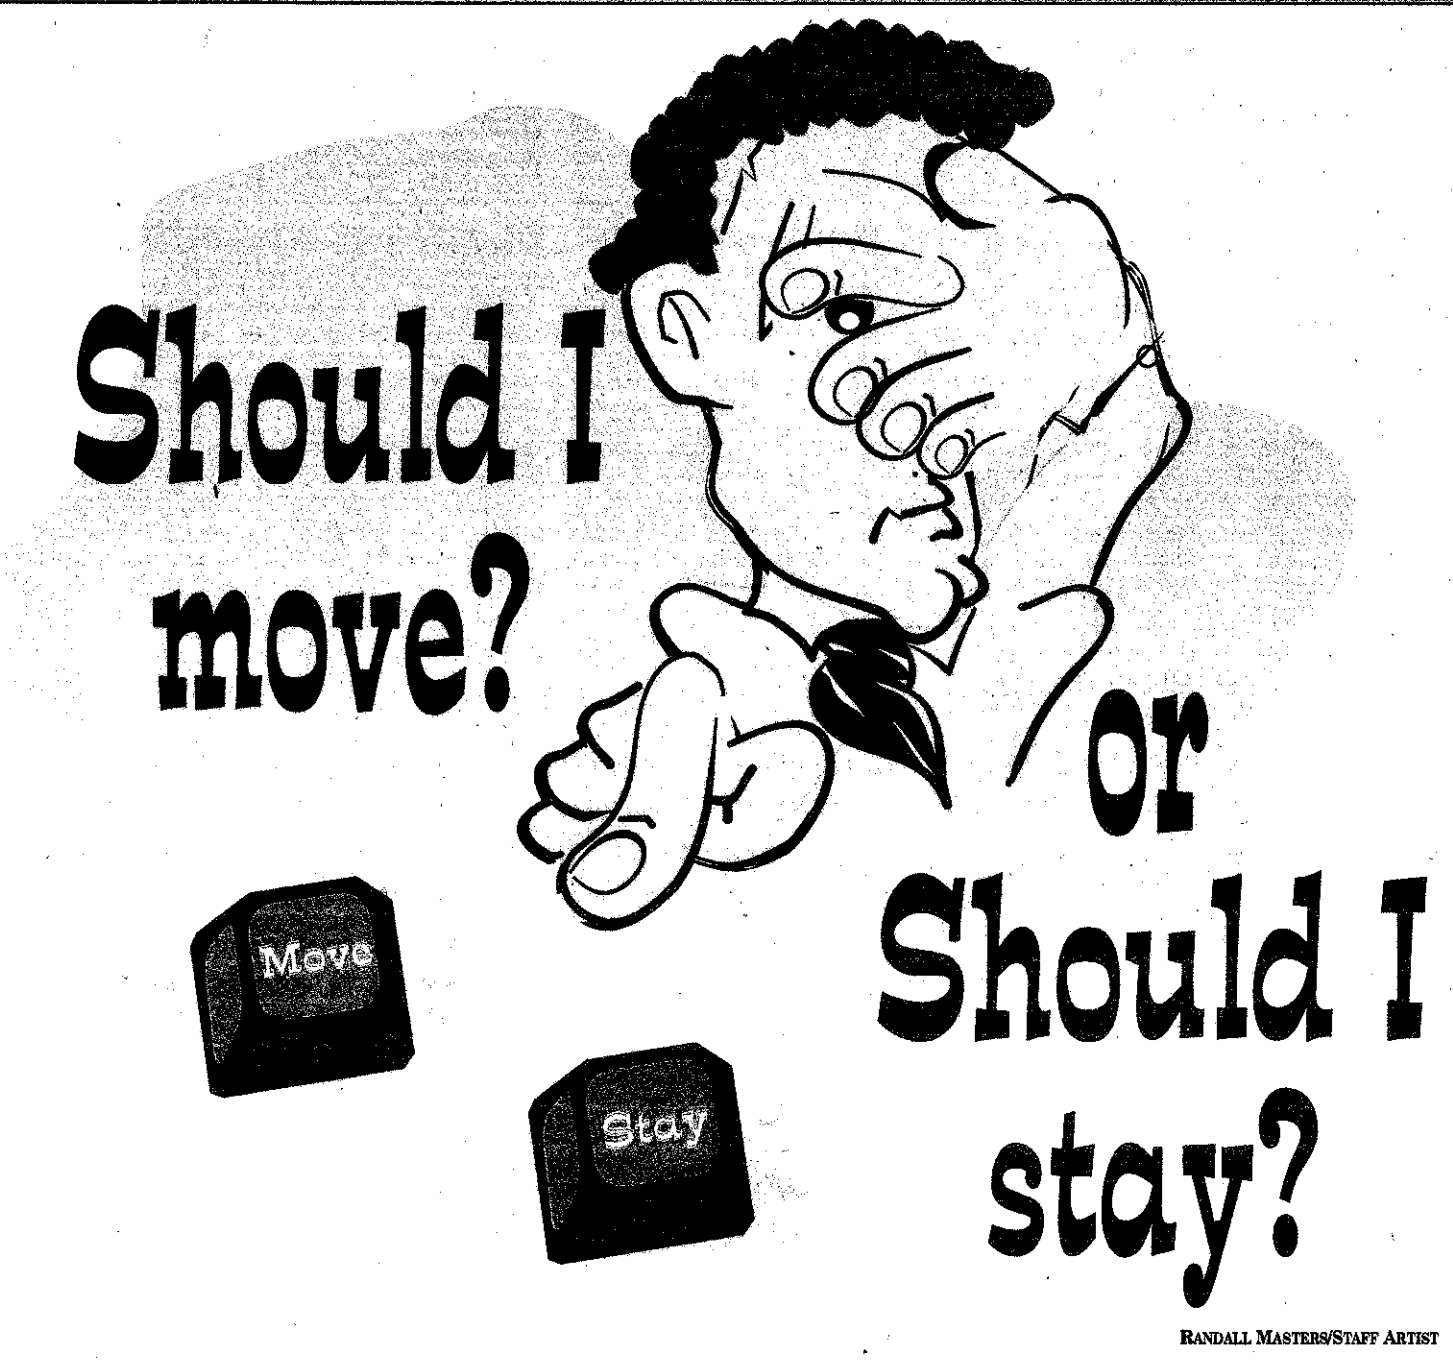

The appellate court recognized that the trial court had had an opportunity to view the neighborhood and conclude that no other property came close to defendant's in terms of commercial activity.

Therefore, you or your association may have a basis to bring an action against the commercial use, assuming that you have the legal ability and enough money to do so.

Helen Jakubus has lived in her Redford bungalow for 50 years and has no intention of relocating.

"Why should I move? I like the neighborhood. It's quiet. People are nice to me. The kids are good," she said.

"When my husband died (30 years ago), the insurance man said, 'Don't sell your house. Think twice. I have people sell (immediately) and they're sorry to this day.'"

Relatives help Jakubus take care of the home and her health is good.

Oren and Jeryline Gilkey Jr. moved next door to Jakubus about a year and a half ago. They had lived in a house in Detroit for about 18 years, cashed out and tried apartment life for a couple of years. They tired of the noise.

"It's close to her job, close to my job," Gilkey said. "I guess she just liked the houses in Redford. We knew we couldn't afford a house in Livonia."

People move for all kinds of reasons.

The need for less room, more space. A job transfer. Better educational opportunities for the kids. Marriage, divorce or death.

Then there's retirement. Health concerns. An inability or unwillingness to tackle maintenance chores. Financial problems. Discomfort with a changing neighborhood.

On the move

"The general rule of thumb is that every seven years people tend to move nationally," said Gail Madziar, spokeswoman for the Michigan Association of Realtors.

"Some people move mainly for financial gain every three to five years," said Stuart Baker, a counselor at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. "I think most people move in times of transition of one kind or another."

"If they're relocating or buying a new home in the area, they usually need more space," said Mary Rettig, a Realtor with ERA Alliance in Farmington Hills. "Or they want to get out of an apartment.

"Or they want new surroundings. They've been in the house for a while and they're just ready to go," Rettig added.

The decision to move isn't always the right one, said Jeff Decker, an associate broker with Wilhelm & Associates in Clarkston.

"The financials have to be the bottom-line look on things," he said. "My own parents were looking at selling their home. I was looking at their current payments, location, quality of the home and looked at where they would be moving.

"I told them, 'it's my opinion, you're better off staying where you are,'" Decker said.

A couple of empty bedrooms and the constant up-and-down stairs prompted his folks to consider a move, Decker said. For now, they're staying put.

Rebecca Meisner, associate broker with Weir Manuel Snyder & Ranke in Birmingham, doesn't believe that the monetary decision to stay or go is controlling.

"The financials have to be there – you can't do it if you can't afford it, but people normally move for psychological reasons," she said.

Emotional experience

Moving can be an emotional experience under the best of circumstances, Rettig said.

"Usually for sellers in the home 10 years or more ... they have so many memories and they want the people who buy it to be like them, enjoy it, take care of it. It's the human psyche.

"Buyers, they're excited about moving into a new home, moving out of a smaller space, emotional about some of the expenses and ... the upkeep of a home," she said.

Too many major life changes all at once can lead to stress and health problems, mental health experts maintain.

A change in residence was listed just below trouble with a boss on a social readjustment scale developed by Thomas Holmes and Richard Rahe at the University of Washington.

But, as Baker pointed out, a decision to move rarely happens in a vacuum.

Death of a spouse, divorce and marital separation rank 1-2-3 on the Holmes/Rahe stress scale. A change of address can compound the stress level of those events.

So no sudden decisions, please.

"I would want someone to slow down, take a pause and ask, 'What is this really about? Is there fear involved here or is this a good, well-thought out decision?'" said Bari Berkowitz, M.A., L.L.P.

She's a psychotherapist and life coach in West Bloomfield specializing in adult life transitions.

"That's what gets people in trouble – making decisions unconsciously without processing through," Berkowitz said. "You have to slow down and take the emotion out of it."

A problem neighbor, for instance, isn't always a good reason to jump into a relocation. There's no guarantee that you won't find a blockhead waiting for you in your new digs or a problem won't move next to you anyway.

After the decision

Sellers and buyers - folks usually are on both ends of the spectrum during the moving process – can help themselves immeasurably once they decide to move.

"If you're a seller, you must make it (house) as fresh, clean, open, bright and light as possible," Meisner said.

"Ask a friend to go through the house, literally walk through as a purchasing person would and be honest about what they see," Decker said.

Realtors generally speak with one voice about what buyer's can do.

"Get pre-approved for a mortgage," Rettig said.

"Those consultations are free," Decker added.

No-cost mortgage? No way!

MORTGAGE BITS

TIM 'TIMBO' PHILLIPS

Jumbo shrimp, plastic glasses, metal woods, pretty ugly. An oxymoron is a combination of contradictory or incongruous words. I think of them as words that cannot modify one another, or words that cannot belong together and still make sense. I get amused when I hear this one: no-cost mortgage. I get amazed when borrowers actually believe it.

Did you ever see a magician shuffle three upside-down cups and ask a viewer to find a hidden ball? The illusionist can make the ball appear or disappear wherever he desires.

Your loan officer can often so the same thing with costs. You may not "see" the costs – and some may claim they do not exist – but be assured the expenses are real and you will pay for them.

There are essentially three ways for borrowers to cover the essential costs associated with their mortgage: pay cash out of pocket, use the equity in their home, or have somebody else pay for them. That "somebody" could be a seller, if you find one willing. It could also be your lender, who will usually put you in a loan product that will produce a sufficient "yield" to cover your costs. If a lender does cover a your costs, he will certainly recoup that money in some other way.

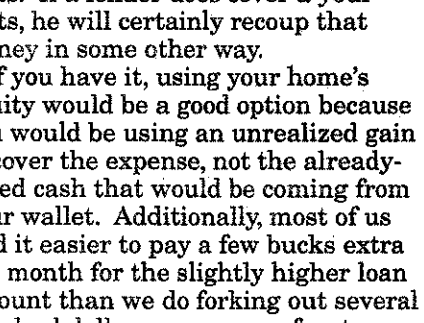

If you have it, using your home's equity would be a good option because you would be using an unrealized gain to cover the expense, not the already-taxed cash that would be coming from your wallet. Additionally, most of us find it easier to pay a few bucks extra per month for the slightly higher loan amount than we do forking out several hundred dollars or more up front.

Taking a higher interest rate and asking your lender to cover your costs is a good idea if you have little or no cash or equity, or if you plan to be in the loan for only a few years. You will have slightly higher monthly payments because of the higher interest rate, but only for relatively short duration.

Mortgage rates dip to lowest levels in 3 years

Mortgage rates around the country this week dropped to their lowest levels in nearly three years.

The average interest rate on 30-year fixed-rate mortgages fell to 6.72 percent, down from 6.80 percent last week, according to the nationwide survey released by Freddie Mac.

It marked the seventh week in a row that 30-year mortgages have been under 7 percent. This week's rate marked the lowest level for 30-year mortgages since they averaged 6.69 percent the week of Dec. 18, 1998.

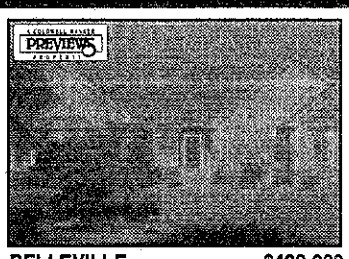

Fifteen-year mortgages, a popular option for refinancing, dipped to 6.23 percent this week, compared with 6.30 percent the previous week, and is the lowest level since Oct. 9, 1998.

A year ago, rates for 30-year mortgages averaged 7.88 percent and rates for 15-year mortgages averaged 7.53 percent.

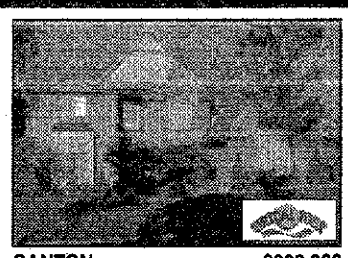

On one-year adjustable-rate mortgages, lenders were asking an average initial rate of 5.45 percent, down from 5.58 percent the previous week. This week's rate was the lowest since Oct. 30, 1998, when the rates on one-year ARMs averaged 5.42 percent. Last year at this time, ARMs stood at 7.21 percent.

These rates do not include add-on fees known as points, which averaged around 1 percent of the loan amount for all three types of mortgages.

This pretty kitty is Ice. She is a two-year-old Domestic Shorthair female who was owner surrendered to the shelter because she kept having litters of kittens. Unfortunately, it was easier for her owner to give her up than have her fixed so there wouldn't be any more litters! Ice is a really sweet and gentle cat who would go great in a home with children. She has a friendly personality and is very well-mannered-two qualities her new owners are sure to love!
To give this kitty a loving place to call home, visit the Michigan Humane Society Westland Shelter.

Lexus GS 430: People Like It

By Anne Fracassa
Avanti News Features
avanti1054@aol.com

HOUGHTON LAKE, Mich. – It turned heads. It's a joy to drive on long, long trips.

Great Trunk space.

Acceleration is phenomenal.

And it made people friendly.

ANNE FRACASSA

Located in the middle of Michigan's mitten, Houghton Lake is the largest inland lake in the state. It's known for its abundance of walleye, boating accessibility and also for its wintertime sports like ice fishing and snowmobiling.

People don't generally see beautifully styled luxury cars of this kind of quality up here, so you can imagine it caused a bit of a stir at the local Wal-Mart and Marathon station. People wanted to talk about it, look at it and ask a lot more questions than I wanted them to.

Heck, all I wanted to do was get out of the parking lot and go back to the cottage, for Pete's sake.

Lexus stomped on the mid-luxury market a couple of years back when it introduced the GS 400 sedan. I drove it then and like the spunk it had.

But this new GS 430...the only thing I can complain about is the "in-the-glovebox" multi-CD changer. I think you need a jet pilot's license to be able to operate it.

I don't really ask for a lot out of the cars and trucks I test. I only want to be able to operate nearly everything with out tearing through the massive manuals that come in every vehicle these days. I played with the CD player for a while, then just left it alone. My husband did, too, and he couldn't figure it out, either.

The styling of this vehicle is not only eye-catching, but also slim and sleek. It glides through the air with the greatest of ease, really. Power is provided by a 4.3-liter V8 with 300 horses that are quieter than a church mouse. Lexus says it can accelerate from 0-60 mph in a hair under 6 seconds.

I didn't time it, but I can tell you that when you needed to move quickly, that power was there. Whether pulling out of the subdivision, out of the school parking lot into a four-lane, 50 mph speed limit road, or passing on the freeway, you would never have a worry.

Lexus engineers helped the engine along through the use of Variable Valve Timing with intelligence, or VVT-i. What this system does is optimize valve overlap throughout the engine's speed range in all operating conditions. What that means to you and me is that power is there when you need it, no matter whether it's summer or winter, spring or fall.

The engine is married to a 4-speed automatic transmission that is outfitted with E-Shift. No, it's not like e-mail or anything and it's not a dot-com either. E-Shift allows you to let the transmission shift normally, or automatically, or you can control the gear shifting through the use of buttons. What that lets you do is have a more "spirited" driving experience if you want it.

Lexus says it can accelerate from 0-60 mph in a hair under 6 seconds.

Let's go inside for a minute. You'll find leather surfaces all around that are very, very, very comfortable. Once strapped in, you'll feel very secure with the seating surfaces enveloping you in comfort. It's a good three-hour drive to the lake, and never was I fatigued, tired, uncomfortable or cranky when I got out. Hard to believe, I know, that I would ever get cranky.

When the kids jumped in the back seat the first day of the test, they got all excited. In the middle of the dash is a screen. Sorry, children, it's not a TV, I told them as they asked where the VCR was located.

It's a touch-screen navigation system that's one of the most accurate I've seen. Available as an option, the system uses DVD-based technology to store the map data, rather than the way it was stored before, on a computer hard drive. Also available on the touch screen are control functions for the stereo and climate control systems.

Because it's located so strategically, both the driver and passenger can access the screen with ease. Even in the brightest sunlight, there weren't any problems seeing the data on the screen, either.

Because Lexus is very safety conscious, the safety protocol placed in the vehicle is more than adequate. We're talking about stuff like the standard front and rear crumple zones, reinforced passenger compartment and three-point seatbelts for all five seating positions, of course.

And it's even got the dual front airbags. But this Lexus goes one - no, two - further with front seat-mounted side airbags and side curtain airbags for the driver and front passenger. All five seating positions also have adjustable headrests. And, of course, there are tether brackets in the rear for the child safety seats.

On the techno side, you'll find standard ABS with a brake assist feature that determines if you're braking for an emergency and compensates for it.

The Vehicle Skid Control feature helps keep the GS 430 straight when detecting understeer or oversteer. It controls the vehicle through torque intervention or by causing the car to brake individual wheels to keep you straight.

Taking my daughter cross town to the doctor for a sudden sinus infection proved to be a task. She wanted a McFlurry for the ride back (she, like most kids, dislikes visiting the kind doctor) and as we were waiting for the order in the drive-thru, a gentleman pulled around and informed me my rear tire was flat.

Irritated as all get-out, I parked the Lexus on level ground and called AAA. It would take at least 90 minutes to get to me. Considering the other daughter was out of school in 45 minutes, I had to get out to change it myself, all the while mumbling that I didn't need this.

Imagine my surprise to see a full-size spare in the trunk. Everything went smoothly and I was on my way, albeit pretty dirty, in about 20 minutes. No harm, no foul.

It was an interesting week in the GS 430, to say the least. If you can afford to pay $50,000 for a luxury car, that is a vehicle well worth owning.

THE Observer & Eccentric NEWSPAPERS

Fabulous FURNITURE

Families love to gather in the dining room

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

Homeowners love their great rooms or living rooms or family rooms, but talk to them about where they may feel closest to their children, and they may say the dining room.

With the holidays approaching, homeowners will be looking to have the entire family over for a big family gathering.

That takes planning and coordination, and perhaps, a new dining room table or hutch.

A dining room table that once was sufficient for a family of four or five may now need more room for the grandchildren or an extended family of stepchildren.

"It's one of the first things they have to address, especially if they are building a new home," said Ken Kucab of McLaughlin's Furniture of Southgate and Novi. Dining room tables remain one of the more consistent aspects of furniture sales there, said Kucab.

Customers often want a casual look, not just a wood top or Formica, either, often a granite, Corian or tile top.

"You have all kinds of combinations with a wood base or metal," Kucab said.

■"Before they shop, they should get the dimensions of the area where the chairs and tables will go."

–Don Wurm
owner of Laurel Furniture

Casual is a good transitional look with contemporary, he added.

Accessories are multi-faceted. "Wine racks and buffets are what people are buying," said Kucab.

"Cherry is still very popular, but you also have maple that people really like," Kucab said.

Don Wurm, owner of Laurel Furniture in Plymouth, sells a lot of solid oak and cherry Amish furniture for the dining room.

"Before they shop, they should get the dimensions of the area where the chairs and tables will go," Wurm said. "They should think about how many people will be sitting at the table and whether they need a buffet or side table."

Wurm likes the options offered by Amish furniture. "They do offer nine or 10 different sizes," Wurm said.

Wurm notices an increase in customers at this time of year. "You are seeing people who want to plan ahead for the holidays," Wurm said.

Customers also look for china and curio cabinets to accompany that dining table set. Sideboards offer the set up for a buffet table. "You can have a full table, and people can serve themselves from the buffet," Wurm said.

"The most popular furniture, though, is the Amish," Wurm said. "It's big with me because there's eight finishes, two different woods and customers like that."

Kevin Konat, owner of Classic Interiors in Livonia, says many customers now look for a more formal look with cherry and mahogany.

"We have a lot of people in their mid-20s to mid-30s look for pieces with marble or granite tops, and they like a sideboard or server with it," Konat said. "People who are older like the more traditional look."

Today's architects also design homes with windows and glass in the dining rooms, so there isn't as big a demand for big china cabinets, Konat said.

Hardwoods frequently used in making furniture are ash, cher-

Fabulous FURNITURE

From traditional to contemporary, homeowners have many style options

BY JOAN BORAM
SPECIAL WRITER

■"The most important factor in a successful design is a design flow that runs through the house and represents the owners' personality."

Mark Morganroth
president of Sherwood Studios

What is your definition of a "livable" home? Or a "comfortable" room?

Whether we decide to furnish a room or an entire house, we bring with us certain preconceived ideas of how we want to live, and how we want to be seen by others. Chances are we know what we don't want, even if our "wants" aren't clearly defined. However, when faced with the myriad furniture styles available, we're often overwhelmed and unable to say, "That one."

Sometimes a professional interior designer is just what we need to help us make decisions, reconcile our private and public images, and live happily ever after.

For example, clients of Ed Postif, president of Edward Postif Inc., a Plymouth-based interior design firm, recently bought a ranch home in a subdivision, built sometime in the 1980s. Ardent golfers, the couple wanted their contemporary-style home to have the convivial warmth that they enjoyed in the club house.

"We decided to create a combination library-dining room. The clients only used the dining room once a year, for Thanksgiving, and then they only had one guest," says Postif.

"To create an intimate, friendly, conversation area with a pub look, I used sage-green velvet on a custom-made banquette and on two antique chairs. The large TV was installed in a custom-built unit made of old barn pine wood."

Complementary

Postif used arts-and-crafts furniture and William Morris fabrics throughout the house. Although the furniture and fabric designs were popular in the late 19th century, the strong and simple lines of the furniture style, accented by prominent oak grain, complement the contemporary architectural style of the home while adding warmth and character. The fabric designs, typically in quiet greens, gold, ruddy madder reds and deep indigo blues, add a note of quiet elegance to the pared-down integrity of the furniture.

"I like to incorporate antiques to finish a room," says Postif. "When we've selected upholstered pieces and rugs, I'll add English or French or early American pieces, a chair or a side table perhaps, to add character and warmth. The patina of oldness – little cracks, dark old brass, and duller finishes - contrasts with shiny new pieces and adds a sense of history."

French antiques generally are "Provincial" – rustic country pieces – or the classic Louis XV, XVI, or Empire. Louis pieces typically have curving lines, and decorative add-ons, such as bouquets, baskets of flowers, swirls and scrolls. Definitely luxurious, they're also delicately proportioned and airy in feeling.

Empire pieces were a product of the Napoleonic era. Napoleon wanted to disassociate himself from royalty, but he also wanted his regime to have historical antecedents: Empire style draws on the Roman Empire for inspiration, and is characterized by classical lines, columns and laurel wreaths, and the Napoleonic bee. Often, there are gold touches.

Traditional 18th century English taste ran to large, chunky, dark furniture: pieces designed by Adam, Chippendale and Sheraton during this era are orderly, symmetrical, and architectural. Very classic and clean, they often feature columns, pediments, or fretwork. Early in the 18th century, walnut was commonly used for furniture, but in mid-century, when trading with ry, maple, oak, pecan, teak, rosewood, mahogany and poplar. Softwoods include cedar, cypress, fir, pine and redwood.

An appropriate finish adds the final touch of beauty to wood furniture. Clean finishes allow the markings and grain variations of naturally beautiful woods to show through. Tinted or opaque finishes change the color of the wood. Finishes can vary the look of a piece, making it appear smooth and sophisticated or rough hewn or rustic.

the Caribbean colonies flourished, mahogany became the wood of choice.

Postif frequently turns to Chris Pray, owner of Europe Direct Warehouse in Ferndale for antique furniture and small pieces. Franklin resident Pray travels to Europe several times a year to replenish his stock of British and French antiques. His workshop also provided the custom banquette and barn wood TV unit for Postif's clients.

"It's the best place I know to find a big selection of excellent pieces at excellent prices," says Postif.

According to Mark Morgenroth, A.S.I.D, president of Sherwood Studios in West Bloomfield Township, most people have a theme, such as contemporary, traditional or eclectic, in mind when they decide to decorate.

Show your theme

"The most important factor in a successful design is a design flow that runs through the house and represents the owners' personality," says Morgenroth.

"Years ago, most design was traditional, but within the past ten years, there's been a trend towards warm contemporary. It's characterized by straight lines, no carving or columns on the wood, no skirt on the sofa. Earlier contemporary was colder and starker, employing polyester lacquer finishes and, often, formica."

Today's contemporary style uses rosewood, mahogany or natural oak with a clear finish. It's apt to have rounded arms and puffier cushions.

An earlier contemporary sofa may have been covered in leather, but today's Ultrasuede is warmer than leather and, says Morgenroth, "Nothing wears or cleans as well as Ultrasuede."

Traditional furniture, which still has many proponents, is more detailed and is [illegible] than contemporary. Woods are stained, with a matte finish. The stain gives a softer look, especially when a special brush is used to add black dots, adding a "distressed" look, to make the furniture seem older and mellower.

■ "Once, nobody would have dreamed of putting an heirloom table next to a modern sofa. But if the pieces are of good design, it's ideal for a lived-in look."

Bill Wolf
owner of Newton Furniture

"Most of my clients are referrals," says Morgenroth. "They've seen my work in friends' homes, and they liked what they saw.

What do you like?

"When they come to the studio, I ask them what they liked and didn't like about the house they had seen. I also visit their house and we chat about their lifestyle. Then we walk through the studio and they tell me what pieces they like, and which they don't like. Invariably, they will pick a certain style.

"Based on what they tell me and what I've observed, I'll put together a design scheme. Sometimes a client will tweak it a little, but they almost always accept the overall scheme."

Bill Wolf, CEO of Newton Furniture in Livonia, has observed that his clients are getting away from super casual and veering towards transitional, a combination of traditional and country.

"Once, nobody would have dreamed of putting an heirloom table next to a modern sofa," says Wolf. "But if the pieces are of good design, it's ideal for a lived-in look. Country is coming back, but it's not as "precious" as it was in an earlier incarnation. It has a more handcrafted look than other styles."

American country is characterized by simple and honest lines. [illegible] Woods are maple, [illegible] chairs, hutches, pedestal or trestle tables. Sofas and chairs are high backed with ruffled skirts. Rustic country is more roughhewn and basic: the hunting lodge look, or southwestern or Mexican designs are examples.

European country styles were often adaptations of sophisticated urban or court furniture adapted to country living. Styles vary from the painted light woods of Swedish country to the warm wood tones of Provence, Italy, or England.

Finding the look

Like Shakespeare, Wayne Bondi, staff interior designer at Gorman's Fine Furniture, Troy, refers to the ages of man, winnowing the Bard's seven to three. "Young people want the 'look.' Comfort means nothing: They'll sit on boards of they perceive it's in. Their look is contemporary, period. Sleek, leather, no frills for this group.

"Young families want furniture that's indestructible and dirtproof. Comfort is nice, but it's a bonus. They want something that will last practically forever, or until the youngest goes to college. A favorite piece for this group is the "chair and a half." Under 60 inches, it's just the right size for a mother and small child.

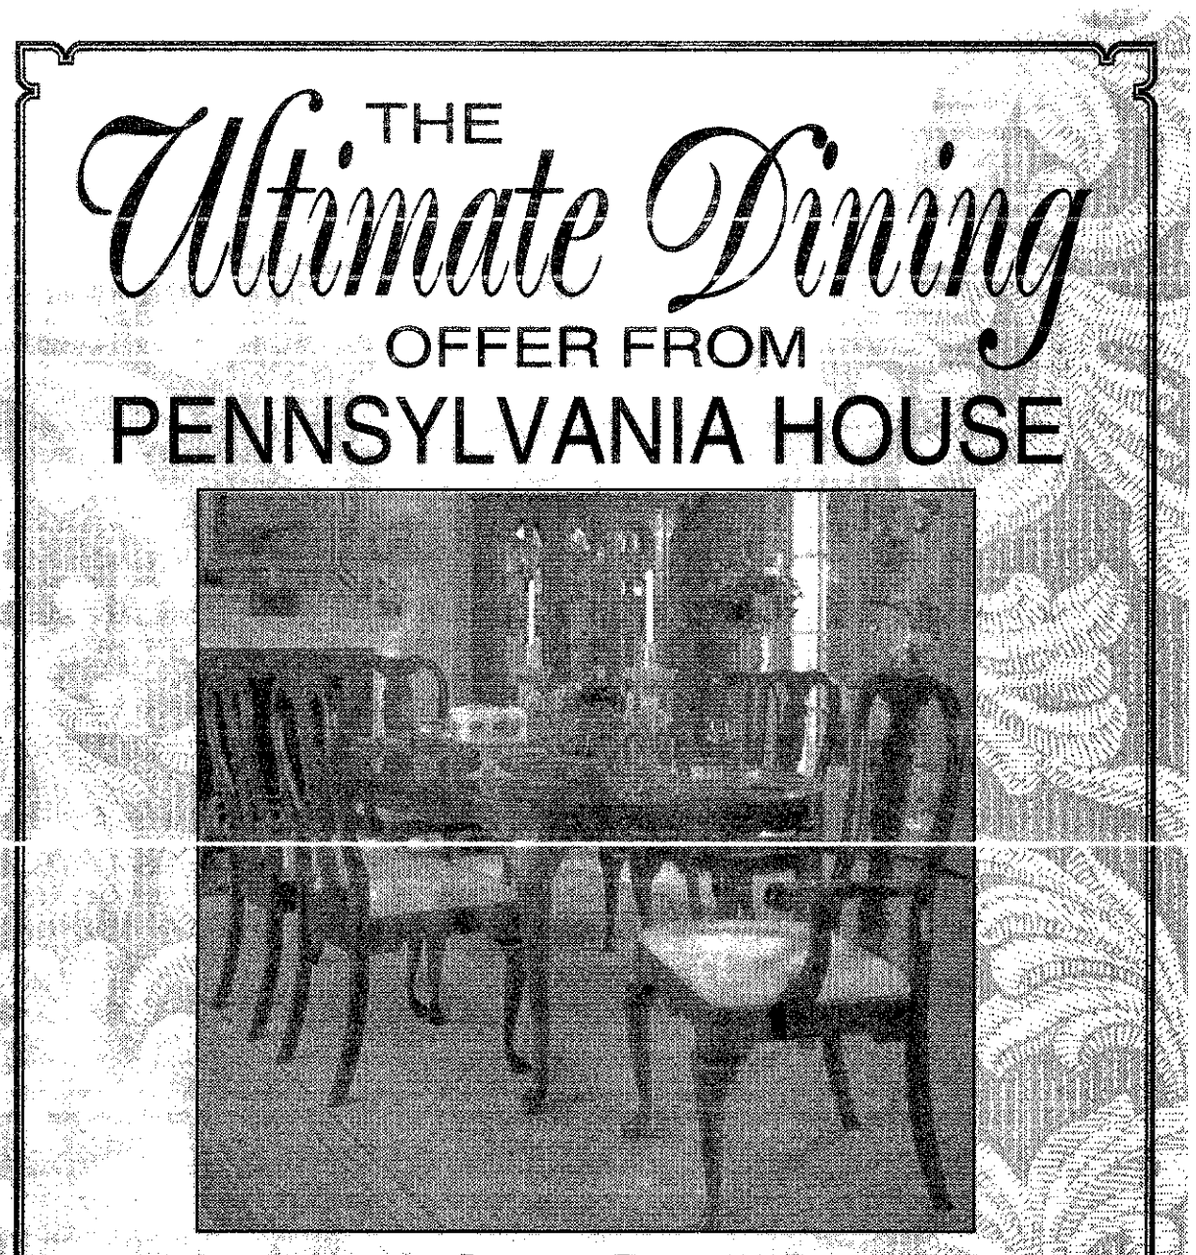

"Finally, the kids are gone, and comfort is the main thing. Warm traditional is popular with this group. A clear line sofa, not too bulky, with a damask or woven cover. Often, they'll finish the new décor with an ornate accent piece, such as a large gilded mirror with carved [illegible] of the Italian Renaissance style. I think it's a reaction to the first two stages of their lives."

Tile can bring color, excitement into your kitchen

A spring look: Create an indoor garden on a kitchen countertop with the a la carte Floral Collection and Border Trail.

BY CORINNE ABATT
SPECIAL WRITER

Choosing tile for your home can be an awesome task.

The good news is there's lots of exciting tile out there and plenty of experts willing to help you make wise choices.

Michigan boasts a strong tile tradition, due in large part to the influence of the historic Pewabic Pottery of Detroit. Today, many tile showrooms are located in the areas of Wayne and Oakland counties, offering everything from tumbled marble and slate to highly glazed ceramic tile.

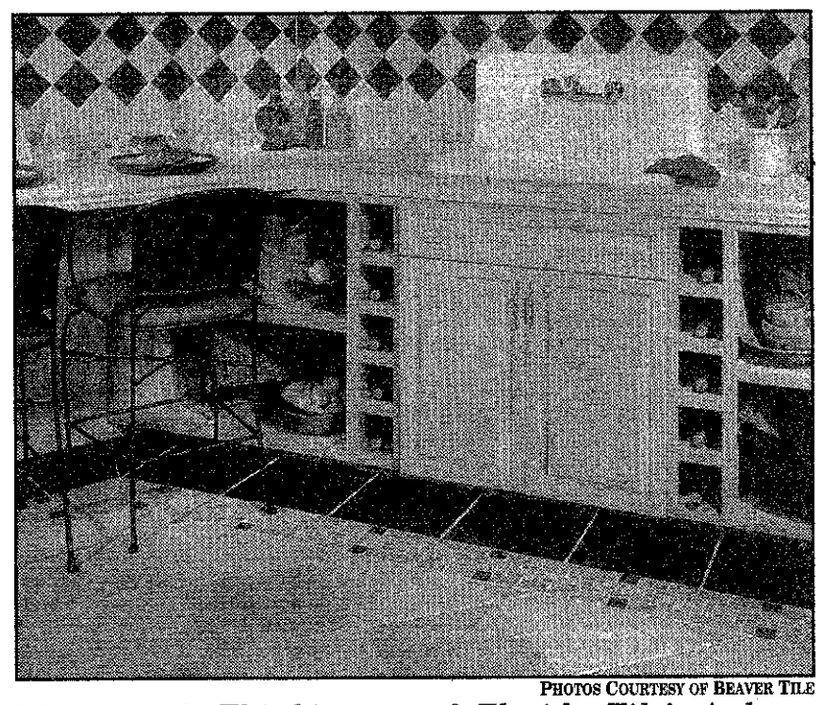

Nancy Coucke, showroom manager for Virginia Tile in Farmington Hills, said there are "no rules" on what you can mix.

"We're seeing a lot of mixing of materials - metal with slate, glass with slate, ceramic or tumbled marble with slate," Coucke said.

"In the kitchen, tumbled marble for the backsplash can be combined with granite countertops and a tile- covered center island." The tile island in the showroom display is topped in a brilliant, indigo blue, edged in white with a small green motif running through it.

"There's tile to fit every lifestyle, French country, contemporary - any period," Coucke said. "There's also a trend toward using larger size tiles, even for backsplashes. These require less grouting and the larger the tile you use, the larger the space will look, especially on the floor."

Many tiles come in multiple sizes. Customers may even design their own tile floor "rugs" for a particular area. Choose plain tile for the background, edge the rug in a coordinating color and design a center medallion or deep border. There are some stunning examples to start your creative juices flowing.

It's natural: Thinking retro? Florida Tile's Ankara Portfolio provides lots of options for creating the look of the past.

Popular produce

While scenes of fruits and vegetables for kitchens remain popular, people are always thinking about resale in this area, she added. "The Midwest is conservative, much more so than the West Coast, for instance," Coucke said.

The wholesale-only Beaver Tile showroom in Farmington Hills will, if your builder or contractor sends you there, make you feel like a kid in a huge candy store.

Linda Fawkes said the showroom is arranged by color. Fawkes likes to ascertain a customer's taste and style before touring them through what is truly a dazzling array of products. There are more than 80 drawers of still life and figurative designs, if you decide to go with pictures on tile.

"Right now stone and nostalgia are big." Fawkes said. "The stone look is classical.

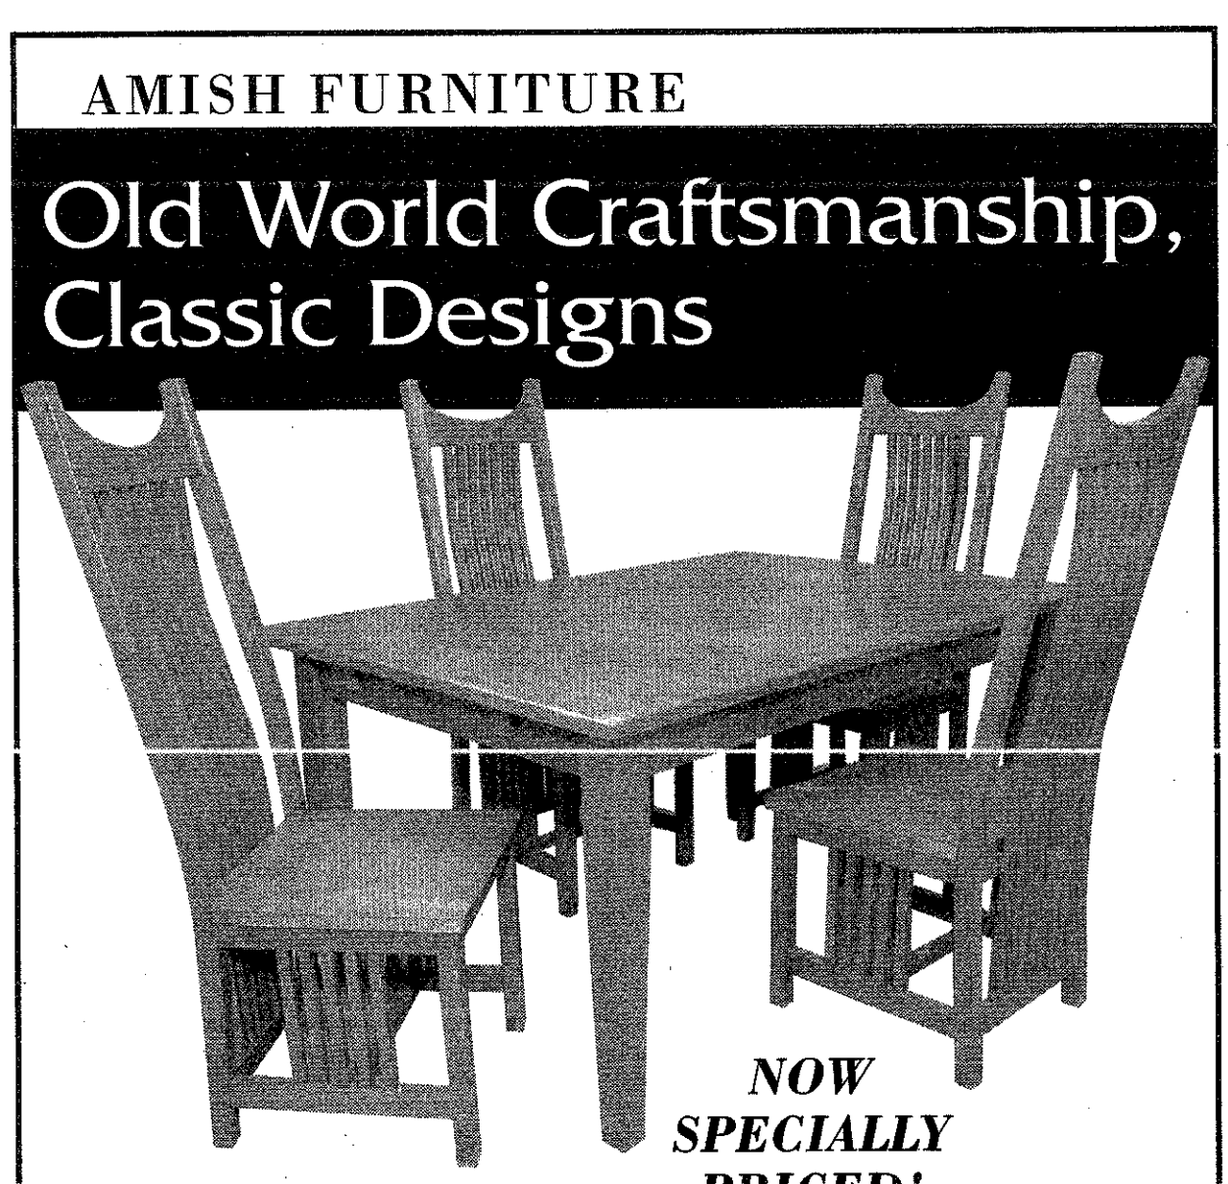

"People like color, but are afraid of it. Anything with nature is very popular, especially in Michigan."

For those with summer and/or retirement homes up north, tiles with pine branch motifs, acorns, Michigan fish, birds and flowers are golden.

Whatever period your home and decor, it's there, with retro among the most requested. Want to recreate the look of small black and white mosaic tile in a turn-of-the-century house? It's there. Love the look of Florida Art Deco from the '20's and '30s? No problem.

Fawkes said many customers come prepared with paint samples, swatches of fabric or wall covering and pictures. These narrow down the choices and help you find tile to fit your home and your personality.

Customers now have more choices in kitchen cabinets

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

Since most of us spend more waking hours in our kitchens than anywhere else in the house, it's not surprising that we pour a lot of our decorating energies in the cabinets and accessories.

"There's still some movement toward contemporary designs, but I think the traditional, solid woods, like the light maple, cherry and light oaks are taking over right now," said John DeGiulio, owner of DeGiulio Kitchens in Dearborn.

There are many more accessories today, with features like lazy susans, two tied dividers and desks in the kitchen complete with hanging filing systems.

"Kitchens are much more customer oriented than they ever used to be, because the customer is so much more aware" said Loreen Keeth, vice president of Top Shop in Farmington Hills. "You have to make the kitchen fit the homeowner and their way of life. It's an individual thing. And each one is styled to that individual."

Choices abound today compared to 15 years ago, she said, when customers chose from either white cabinets or light, medium or dark oak.

"All of a sudden there are colors and different styles of wood," Keeth said.

"People gravitate toward the new. Kitchens are much more fun than they used to be. You're allowed a lot more creativity. You're not locked into somebody's idea of what it should be."

Most moms don't stay in the kitchen eight hours a day, seven days a week anymore, Keeth added.

The kitchen has become central base for crafts; homework, entertaining and time to relax around a fireplace to appreciate the warmth of home and family.

"It's the core of the family and

DESIGNER'S CORNER

Kitchen

Today's consumers are looking for comfort and function, as well as style, when selecting furnishings for the kitchen.

It is important to select the correct size and shape dinette table for the space. There should be a minimum of 30 inches walking space around the table – 36 inches is ideal.

Maple and cherry for cabinetry and flooring seem to be the current woods of choice. Light, clear finishes have become very popular. Consumers are opting for dinette sets with more than one finish. Painted finishes and colored stains, in combination with woods that blend with cabinetry and flooring, are a popular trend.

Family dining habits have changed dramatically in recent years. Meal time has become much more casual. The designs of kitchens have changed as a result. Many builders are incorporating eating spaces built into the counters for "on-the-run" meals.

Duane Petrowsky

Fabrics and accessories are being used to bring color, pattern and warmth to the kitchen. Fabrics for window treatments and seat cushions bring warmth and color to the area. Accessories on tabletops, walls, counters, and above cabinets give the kitchen life and personality.

Dining

Longevity is key in the mind of the dining furniture buyer. Homeowners are looking for styles that will transcend time and stay in style through changing trends. Because of this, traditional and transitional styling remains popular.

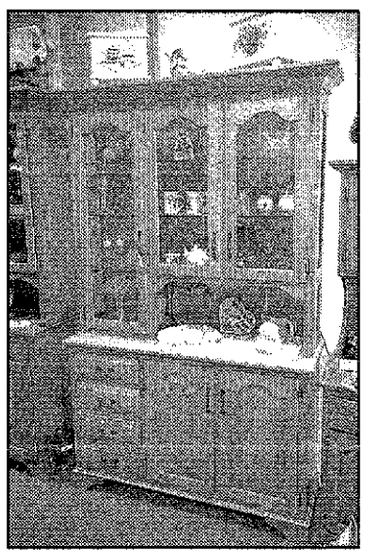

For a more formal look, traditional styles with carving in darker woods that resemble European antiques are used. In contrast, cleaner lines and simple detailing keep the Louis Phillipe style in demand for those wanting the look and feel of understated elegance.

Today's consumers are becoming more comfortable mixing different styles in the same room. It is no longer required to buy an entire matching dining room set. Rather than a standard china cabinet many people are choosing sideboards with accessories and artwork to add interest and character to the dining room.

In smaller rooms where the use of a china cabinet is prohibitive, scaled down non-traditional dining pieces such as hand painted secretaries, curios and chests are being introduced. These accent pieces supply storage and display space as well as a warm and comfortable dining atmosphere.

Appliances integrated into kitchen cabinets

BY LISA LUCKOW-HEALY
SPECIAL WRITER

The days of mainstream appliance choices have given way to popular brands now boasting professional lines that emulate high-end kitchen designs. Even high-end manufacturers are appealing to a wider audience with a greater array of models to suit a multitude of needs.

General Electric advertises its Monogram Collection featuring commercial type stainless steel appliances. This relatively new line of appliances can also be discreetly integrated into cabinetry for a high-end kitchen type of look and feel.

"One of the biggest trends in kitchen design is hiding appliances using panels that match the kitchen cabinetry," said Stephen Kuch, kitchen and bath specialist, KSI Kitchen & Bath Showrooms in Livonia. "The customer wants to make the kitchen look as if no appliances are apparent."

Sears features Kenmore, its own brand of appliances. Kenmore has a new line called Kenmore Elite. This is the premium line of kitchen and laundry appliances Sears claims will provide high performance without sacrificing the value Kenmore customers have come to expect from the brand.

Kenmore Elite products are being marketed as those with high-end features and more contemporary styling. Sears designed the line with Kenmore French Curve styling to mirror what the company claims is a European trend to softer-looking, contoured appliances.

Bosch, a high-end German appliance brand, now features 24 dishwasher models to suit a wide range of budget and styling needs. Bosch dishwashers have come to be recognized for their quietness, energy efficiency and cleaning performance.

Bosch appliances are more expensive, but boast a reputation for quality and performance that often outweighs the need for competitors' trendy, less expensive offerings.

The built-in look is another trend in appliances. Brands such as Sub-Zero and Kitchen Aid feature premium, built-in home refrigeration. But consumers can also find the built-in look with less expensive brands.

Appliance trends are constantly changing to meet consumer needs.

"Customers are asking for built-in refrigerators, wall ovens and microwaves, slide in ranges and professional looking lines," said John Hillawi, appliance manager, EXPO Design Center in West Bloomfield.

■ 'One of the biggest trends in kitchen design is hiding appliances using panels that match the kitchen cabinetry. The customer wants to make the kitchen look as if no appliances are apparent.'

kitchen and bath specialist at KSI Kitchen and Bath

■ 'Many people are matching appliances to their cabinetry by using trim panels.'

John Hillawi
appliance manager at EXPO Design Center

"Many people are matching appliances to their cabinetry by using trim panels. Stainless steel is another preferred appliance surface. Black comes in second as many countertops now feature darker colors."

According to Kuch, trends in kitchen design to compliment appliances have their positives and negatives.

"The appliance garage, a kitchen cabinet accessory, takes up lots of counter space," Kuch said.

"It houses steam when a person leaves a coffeemaker on inside the garage. The steam from the coffeemaker can damage the inside wood ceiling of the garage. On the flipside, the appliance garage helps hide small appliances."

Kuch also said that many customers love over-the-range microwave ovens for the sake of convenience and the kitchen space savings.

"From a design standpoint, the customer is only losing 3 inches of upper cabinetry space in a standard kitchen."

New appliance trends showcase exciting designs and a multitude of choices. But the ongoing trend is quite clear: The end result is still dependent on the customer's personal preferences and budget.

the core of the home," Keeth said.

When planning a new kitchen or making changes to an old one, it's important to identify the space that will be used and it's important to decide if you want an open or closed area, according to an Internet Web site, www.homestore.com.

"Some serious cooks are appalled by the idea of a space where they can't concentrate in solitude, or where messy pots are in view," the Web site said.

"The two main poles in kitchen style are country and contemporary. Beyond that, there are period, geographical, romantic, gourmet and eclectic styles."

Oak cabinets popular

Styles come and go, but Dave Stapleton, owner of New Concept in Livonia, said oak kitchen cabinets have been "popular for 100 years and probably will be for another 100 years."

The lighter oaks are more popular than the dark. More and more people are asking for glazed finishes on their cabinets. They start with a stained wood and take either a darker or lighter stain as a contrasting color that gets picked up in the crevices.

Distressing the wood and making it look antique is another popular technique.

"The other extreme would be the very clean, very polished look using things like aluminum accents," Waller said. "You can pretty much create anything that you want."

Light maple and other natural looking woods are making their way into a growing number of homes, Stapleton added.

Cherry is another popular wood that a lot of homeowners are asking for, according to Carmen Hancock, president and owner of Kitchen Plus in Livonia.

While white is still popular in kitchens, Hancock doesn't see it as a current trend. She does, however, hear a lot more people asking for creams and light toned yellow on their cabinets.

■ 'The No. 1 question is: "Can you get me more room in my existing kitchen?" '

Dave Stapleton
owner, New Concept Kitchens & Bath

Homeowners are also looking for convenience by adding loads of accessories to their kitchens that ultimately make their lives a lot easier, like roll-out trays and shelves, fold-out pantry racks for pans and lazy susans in all sizes. Roll-out trash containers with a multitude of bins for recycling are requested a lot, too, Stapleton added.

"The number one question is: 'Can you get me more room in my existing kitchen?' " he added.

Efficient design patterns to make the most of an area is essential. Builders sometimes are more concerned about cost and less focused on whether or not they're creating space that can't be used, Stapleton added.

Start with work triangle

"I always start by trying to get the work triangle," he said. "The triangle consists of the sink, stove and refrigerator. We're looking for the most convenient set up for the person working in the kitchen."

Gail Fefkorn, sales manager for Kitchen Suppliers, Inc. with showrooms all over metro-Detroit including Canton, Livonia and Waterford, has seen a lot more homeowners adding glass accents to their kitchens.

"Your countertops – going to Corian or granite – really puts in a nice touch, too," Fefkorn said adding that moldings also play a big role in making the kitchen look stylish.

Homeowners are looking for high end, rich effects.

"In the past we used to sell far more entry level type cabinets in the showroom," she said. "Customers are taking their equity and putting it into their homes. They're going for custom and semi-custom cabinets.

"Believe it or not, even though everyone says sales are down, maybe the traffic isn't what it used to be, but people are spending money," Fefkorn said. "They're making their homes, their homes and giving it a nice custom look."

Homeowners are also opting for highly decorative cabinets with elaborate trims, moldings and appliqués.

This trend is also seen in the Tuscany-style kitchen, known for a tremendous amount of detail, especially in the cooking area around the range. It calls for decorative housing for the ventilation system and it lends itself to more bulky looking cabinets.

Islands in the kitchen

Islands have become as common in kitchens as the sink. They come in all different styles and colors and take up more space than they did in the past.

One island type gives the appearance of floating, because they're placed on bun legs so the cabinets don't go to the floor.

"The one thing that doesn't change in the kitchen, is that it is still very much the heart of the home," Hancock said. "Families are smaller and kitchens are becoming larger to accommodate activities; eating and entertaining. Everyone still ends up in the kitchen.."

Do your homework about what is available so you won't be disappointed after the job is done, DeGiulio advises.

"The important thing is to visit the showrooms before you decide on anything. Get some design expertise with in-home consultations and see the designs before you actually buy. They must see the door sample, and they should have a design before they buy the kitchen."

DeGiulio also sees more and more kitchens designed for two people. When the husband and wife are working they also share the duties of cooking, he said.

A Company that has the solutions for your tub trouble

When was the last time you did a fantastic job cleaning your bathroom, only to realize the tub still looked less than stellar?

If the finish on your bathtub is chipped, peeling, faded or permanently stained no amount of cleanser and scrubbing will do the job. The bathtub needs to be fixed.

Visit our 12,000 sq. ft. factory showroom located in Madison Hgts. where we sell over 6,000 bathtub liners and wall surround systems annually. We also sell a complete line of Whirlpool, soaker tubs and hydrotherapy massage tubs.

Reglazing is an option, but only a temporary one. There's no guarantee the finish won't go bad again,and the reglazing process is difficult and involves many dangerous chemicals.

The bathtub could be replaced, but there is even more mess involved, not to mention the cost.

There is another solution, though,and Budget Bathtub Liners Co., with showrooms in Lincoln Park and Madison Heights, has the answer: a new bathtub liner or total complete system consisting of bathtub Liner and Wall Surround system.

One of the hottest trends in bathroom remodeling, bathtub liners and wall systems fit over not only existing bathtubs, but also ceramic walls in your bathroom. That means less mess and less time between what your bathroom looks like now and a completely new appearance.

For a limited time only, bathtub liners are on sale from $389 installed. Complete systems, which include bathtub liner and wall surround, are on sale from $1295. That's about 50-75% less than the cost of replacing an old tub and ceramic tiles which average about $3,000 to $5,000 and more..

Budget Bathtub Liner is able to offer the low prices, according to Dean Hartley, because of the large volume of business it does.

"We're the largest distributor of Acrylic Bathtub Liners and Wall Surround Systems in the country," Hartley said. "I'm proud of that."

When a homeowner places an order for a new liner, employees take 15 different measurements and several photographs of the existing bathtub. The measurements and photos are then sent to the company's factory, where a custom liner is made using one of 750 molds in stock.

In addition, seven colors and faux marble finishes are available along with a complete line of Delta and Kohler fixtures.

All Bathtub Liners and Wall Surround Systems are made of DR/ABS Owens Corning High Impact Acrylic and carry a Lifetime Warranty. This is the same material football helmets, and bowling balls are made from and the liners are about three times the thickness of those found at home improvement stores and are guaranteed not to chip or peel and to retain their finish. In addition, installation, which can usually be done in one day, is guaranteed.

Budget Bathtub Liners Co. is at 25170 John R. Madison Heights and 3387 Fort St., Lincoln Park between Emmons and Champaign adjacent to Mickey Shorr. The showroom is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.. Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m, Sundays. Make your rooms vibrant with these flooring options

BY KEN ABRAMCZYK
STAFF WRITER
kabramczyk@oe.homecomm.net

When homeowners want to truly add dynamic looks to their home, they often look down at the floor.

Flooring options remain as varied as homes themselves, especially in the kitchen where wood, ceramic tile and laminates can be used. In the dining room wood and carpet remain popular.

The dining rooms is one of those rooms that can stand out in a home, says Mike Riley, owner of Dalley Carpet stores in Livonia and Canton.

"The dining room, along with the bathroom, are places where people can get a little more daring with colors," said Riley. "It's not uncommon for homeowners to use dark green, dark red and dark blue on the wall, so they use colors in the carpet to match."

Textures are used often to conceal footprints, Riley said. Borders also are used in a formal setting, said Riley. "They might have a floral print in the center, then a solid color on the border," Riley said.

Luanne Acevedo, a sales representative at the Tile Shop in Farmington Hills, said her company sells a lot of a natural stone tile for dinettes and kitchens, and it's even used in the dining room.

"We're seeing a lot of limestone, used with a little bit of marble and granite," Acevedo said. "It's very popular, because of its natural look. It's kind of rustic looking and very elegant."

Some limestone features traces of fossils and shells in the rocks.

Kitchens

Customers also prefer the neutral tones in the kitchen and porcelain tiles, said Acevedo.

"Porcelain is more durable and flexible than ceramic," Acevedo said. "When ceramic tiles chip, you will see a red clay color. When porcelain chips, you will see the (tile's) same color."

Homeowners also place the tiles in a diagonal pattern for a change of pace, and often the floor contains granite and marble tiles for a change of pace, Acevedo said.

Popular porcelain tiles are the Pietra Dorata, a grayish, natural toned tile; the Cairo Porcelain, containing pink and rose tones, and the Basalito Biacca, which has a rough finish with white tones and neutral colors, Acevedo said.

Hardwoods, laminates, vinyl sheet goods and even cork are popular in the kitchen and dinette areas, Riley said.

"The gloss level of the vinyl looks better than it did at one time," said Riley. "Now they're making vinyl look like ceramic tile and hardwood. The vinyls made by Armstrong and Congoleum now have a natural stain and natural tile look."

Get out wet mop

Laminate is popular because you can wet mop the floor. "You can't wet mop hardwood, and they have a look of ceramic or wood," Riley said.

Laminate floor is comprised of an inner core and an outer layer of wood or plastic veneer that can simulate wood, marble or granite.

Gray and terra cotta are popular laminate colors, Riley said.

Engineered hardwoods are different from the 3/4-inch hardwoods. "When you put in the 3/4 inch wood, it's difficult to pull out your dishwasher to service it," Riley said. "Engineered floors are not as thick."

Floors are pre-finished, but customers can order it unfinished.

"Finishes contain aluminum oxide, which makes a very hard finish on the floor," said Riley. "That's where they are going with finishes, performance and durability."

Choices run the gamut with maple, oak, ash and hickory.

With ceramic tile, customers want the larger tiles of 12-by-12-inch and 24-by-24-inch. "The look is more natural and you have less grout. With a bigger tile, you have less grout and less maintenance," Riley said.

Then there's cork floors, comparable in price to ceramic tiles. "Cork floors are extremely durable, they are more forgiving and easier on your legs," Riley said.

Hardwoods popular

Of course, you can take a walk on the wild side with exotic hardwoods. Oak and maple remain the most popular domestic choices for wood floors, according to Cole Martin, president of BeaverHome.com, but there is great interest in the new exotics from South America. BeaverHome.com offers hardwood flooring online. That Web site works with a Brazilian company that is in complete compliance with the principles and criteria of the Forest Stewardship Council to help protect reforestation of native Brazilian trees.

"Jatoba is the russet color of autumn leaves, while Macaranduba is somewhat darker," Martin said. Jatoba is a Brazilian cherry, while macaranduba is also known as ironwood.

"Both are three times harder than oak, so you can imagine how durable and low-maintenance they are."

Tere Bresin, a New Jersey designer, said hardwood flooring has skyrocketed in popularity since the early 1990s.

"Hardwood floors are classic and classy. They are clean looking, natural and warm, and they suit every decor. They are also easy care, and doctors may recommend them because they don't trap animal dander, dust, pollen and other allergens."

Wine storage units fit many rooms

BY MARY KLEMIC
STAFF WRITER

Wine cabinets have come out of the cellar.

Today's wine enthusiasts can store wine in units that are attractive and functional, sophisticated in both appearance and technology.

A customer can select a unit in the Sub-Zero 400 Series in wood or stainless steel. The metal shelves are rustproof and have wood facing. Some units include a shelf that tilts slightly toward the front so bottles can be displayed.

"(A unit) can be totally integrated in cabinetry, or under a counter," said Ginger Trevarrow, at the Trevarrow showroom in Auburn Hills.

The storage pieces are at home in a kitchen, bar area, recreation room, walk-through entertainment area or butler's pantry.

The series features humidity control – to prevent corks from drying out – ultraviolet-resistant glass doors and a service alert indicator. Doors also come in a solid style. The units can tie in to the security system of a residence.

Each unit has two separate temperature zones that can be set between 38 and 65 degrees Fahrenheit. Wine that is being prepared for serving that day can be kept in one section while other wines can be kept in a different section for long-term storage.

■ '(A unit) can be totally integrated in cabinetry, or under a counter.'

Ginger Trevarrow

The smallest model in Sub-Zero's series is the five-shelf, under the counter unit that holds 46 bottles. The largest model stores a total 147 bottles on 14 shelves.

In between are a 14-shelf unit that holds 132 bottles, and a model that features a two-drawer base for additional food and beverage storage. The latter holds 78 bottles and has a display shelf for six bottles.

Suggested retail prices range from $1,900 to $4,500.

Kenmore offers a 2.5 cubic foot wine storage model – 26 inches high and 18-5/8 inches wide – that fits quarter- and half-barrel kegs. The unit is priced at $245.

"It's self-defrost. There's no freezer at all," said Larry Grace, refrigeration specialist at Sears at Oakland Mall in Troy. "It's insulated well."

Wine storage units to be built into walls can be special ordered through KitchenAid, Grace said. Features include canted wine racks to hold 60 bottles. The cost is around $500.

Add a designer's touch to your home

Adding a creative designer touch to your room is easy. Making that designer look reflect your own personal style is even easier. Using a designer painting technique can give your room a professional look and reflect your personality – without the professional price.

Sponging and ragging are two popular painting techniques that use multiple colors. Deciding which colors look best doesn't need to be a difficult task. By using the Color Key System at your local Devoe/Fuller-O'Brien paint store, you can combine colors that create a mood - and a personal touch.

The Color Key System divides colors into natural, harmonizing mood palettes of "warm" and "cool." Whatever paint combination you pick, you can be sure it will harmonize. You can be creative, daring and have confidence that the colors match. And your room will have a designer feel.

Now that you've picked some colors, it's time to paint. The painting technique sponging blends colors and gives the room the feeling of an impressionist painting.

When sponge painting, first put on the basecoat and let it dry.

After the paint is dry, use a natural sea sponge available at your local paint store and dampen it in water. Then touch the side of the sponge to the paint and blot it on some newspaper. This will prevent your sponge from depositing too much paint on the wall.

Countertop, backsplashes can make a kitchen look marvelous

BY LISA LUCKOW-HEALY
SPECIAL WRITER

Say good-bye to a lackluster surface and hello to variety and mix of textures.

Homeowners are beginning to appreciate the special effects of glass, metal and tumbled stone on countertops and backsplashes.

They are also opening their eyes to using two different materials together for a more interesting mix and, at the same time, a cost savings.

"I don't think there's a rule of thumb to what you do with your countertop and backsplash materials," said Phyllis Schoenherr of Beaver Tile in Rochester. "It's about what people like in color and texture.

"Tumbled stone with glass and metal give your kitchen that mix of textures for excitement. Some materials give off the look of fabric when mixed with simple surfaces."

According to Schoenherr, customers are seeing more handpainted tiles. Beaver Tile features an artist who does just that.

"I worked with one customer who collects Depression glass," Schoenherr said. "She had a big Hoosier. Our tile artist painted tiles to pick up this theme in blues and soft grays.

"I think the handpainted tile look is something people enjoy looking at. They want special backsplashes. Very few customers I've worked with stick to a monochromatic look."

Granite and limestone are two other popular, hard, natural surfaces. Kitchen and bath stores and tile distributors are seeing these materials used all the way from the countertop surface into the backsplash for ease of maintenance.

"When my customers turn to me for advice, I often suggest using granite or Corian on the island surface, and a laminate or other type of surface on the countertops and backsplashes for and interesting mix, and a cost savings," said Carrie Adams, CKD, Kurtis Kitchen and Bath Centers in Livonia.

"Customers are also doing a lot of fun things with tile inserts and patterns for variety, and oftentimes, better wearability."

Laminate countertops and backsplashes are still popular, particularly for budget-conscious consumers. However, many people are getting away from the high-laminate look in favor of more variety.

"There are so many variances to every surface design choice," said Gary Henley, kitchen designer, Farmington Cabinet Co. Inc. "The majority of our jobs are laminate or Corian, but many of my customers are working with tile or tumbled marble.

"Often, they don't know enough about these surfaces and how to integrate them into their kitchen design. It's my job to point out new products and choices. I can show a customer a beveled edge laminate countertop if that's what his or her budget can afford.

"It's like shopping for a computer – you don't always know what you need so you explain your needs."

Henley said the average cost of a simple, U-shaped kitchen surface with a Corian countertop and sink (not including the backsplash) with installation is approximately $5,000 to $5,500. The same kitchen in a laminate surface, not including the sink or backsplash, is in the $1,500 range.

"Resale-wise, Corian, tile, tumbled marble and granite are good values," Henley said.

Schoenherr believes that when customers comes to Beaver Tile, they've already made the surface decision.

"Whether it be tile, granite or limestone, for example, they want us to help them put the design – the color and texture – together," Schoenherr said.
