Pie man: Jim Grutza at work in his Ann Arbor Road store. The Canton resident believes owning a business and community involvement go hand-in-hand.

Pizza shop owner slices his time for a variety of causes

Walk through the front door at Jim Grutza's Papa Romano's restaurant on Ann Arbor Road and the first thing you notice, stacked against the front wall, is dozens of boxes of gourmet nuts being sold as a fund-raiser for the Plymouth-Canton Kiwanis Club.

That tells you all you need to know about Grutza, a Canton resident and community-minded business owner who hasn't yet learned how to say no to a good cause.

"I've never said no," Grutza says with a laugh. "But I've compromised a few times."

Not very often, though. Grutza is one of the busiest, if not most visible, community activists. He's been president of the Kiwanis, and now serves as a regional lieutenant governor. He's on the board for the Plymouth International Ice Sculpture Spectacular. He's heavily involved with projects involving the schools.

"I get around," he said, laughing again.

It's been that way ever since he arrived in town when he bought his first Papa Romano's, the old carry-out/delivery store at the corner of his current development. He got into the pizza business by chance, after working for years as a plant manager for a titanium service center in Farmington Hills and, before that, as a line supervisor at Chrysler's Warren Stamping plant.

After getting divorced in 1986, Grutza found himself in need of extra money, so he took a second job delivering pizzas for the Papa Romano's in Farmington Hills. But when a promotion at his main job forced him to Water project angers some

■ Members of the Northwest Canton Homeowners Association are upset over placement of a water main extension on Napier Road.

The Napier Road water main extension project will be the topic of a public meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at Summit on the Park Banquet Center in the PDC room.

- What: Public meeting on water main extension
- When: 7 p.m. Monday, Feb. 25

Kristine Sanders, neighborhood coordinator for Canton Township, said the meeting would provide homeowners in the area an opportunity for discussion and questions regarding the project.

And Cheryl Suppnick, a resident of Napier Road and member of the Northwest Canton Homeowners Association, said she and other residents will be there with plenty of questions. It won't be the first time the homeowners' group has been at odds with the township over projects in the area.

The association was instrumental in getting the stretch of Napier from Warren north to Ann Arbor Road designated a Natural Beauty Road in 1994. Suppnick said it is the only Natural Beauty Road in Wayne County and they don't want anything done that could cause the road to lose that designation.

At issue this time is whether the installation of a water line on the east side of Napier from Warren to Ann Arbor Road will, in Suppnick's words,

Canton to see $3 million in new road work

BY JACK GLADDEN
STAFF WRITER
jgladden@oe.homecomm.net

Canton residents may not be dodging as many orange construction barrels this year as they did during some major road projects in 2001.

Wayne County has released a list of 10 projects for the township totaling just over $3 million.

"It's going to be a quieter year this year," said Wayne County Roads spokesman John Roach.

He said the county road projects weren't affected by Gov. John Engler's budget shuffling, although the county expects to lose about $2 million in state gas tax and vehicle registration funds.

"For this year we can absorb the hit," he said. "If it continues beyond this year we might have to start scratching some projects."

The biggest project on this year's list is reconstruction of the Rouge River bridge on Canton Center south of Palmer. Roach said the $990,000 project would involve closing the bridge and resurfacing Canton Center for half a mile on either side.

Timetables have not yet been set for any of the projects.

Another project on the list, which Roach said "may not happen this year," is paving Lotz Road from Warren to Ford. That project was on last year's list, but Roach said there were some right of way problems that slowed it down.

"That's always true with a gravel road paving," he said. "You have to increase the right of way and that means acquiring land from individual homeowners."

Other resurfacing projects on the list include:

- A half-mile stretch of Canton Center just north of Geddes.
- Cherry Hill from just east of Canton Center to just West of Lilley.
- Haggerty from Van Born to Michigan Avenue.
- Cherry Hill from Beck to Canton Center.
- Ridge Road from Cherry Hill to Ford.
- Palmer from Canton Center to a half mile east of Morton Taylor.
- Sheldon for one-fourth of a mile north of Ford.
- Resurfacing and widening Cherry Hill from Woodward Road to Beck.

Roach said next year should see the return of some major projects, including the reconstruction and widening of Warren from Canton Center to Sheldon.

PSO student program culminates with concert

BY BRAD KADRICH

bkadrich@oe.homecomm.net

Plymouth Symphony Orchestra executive director Darlene Dreyer and conductor/music director Nan Washburn are proud of the PSO's "Instrumentorship" program.

For Feb. 16 concert-goers, it was easy to see why.

Sixty Plymouth-Canton middle schoolers joined the musicians of the PSO for a side-by-side performance at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, a culmination of the program that puts young musical students together with professionals to give them a better appreciation of music.

And from all accounts, it worked.

"It was fabulous," Dreyer said. "The children add a very unique element to the program. To see them blossom through the program is an indescribable feeling, the joy on the kids' faces, to see them rehearse and work hard, and then have this wonderful opportunity to play."

The students joined the PSO to play a selection from Dvorak's New World Symphony. That came after a couple of months where the students worked on the musical piece themselves, then worked with mentors in the "Instrumentorship" program funded by Vis-

Late-night lumber load arouses police suspicion

COP CALLS

A Canton police officer, on patrol near Canton Center Road and Saltz about 2:15 a.m. Saturday, became suspicious when he saw a blue pickup truck with a load of lumber in the area.

Considering the time of day (or night) and the proximity of a large construction site, he stopped to question the driver.

The 26-year-old Detroit man at first said he had bought some stuff at Home Depot, but after the officer asked him for receipts, he admitted stealing the lumber from a nearby building site.

He was taken into custody and his truck towed.

Later that morning, after a detective confirmed that the truck contained 50 2-by-6-by-10-foot boards and 223 2-by-4-by-8-foot boards, valued at $662, the man was cited for misdemeanor larceny.

The detective accompanied the man to the tow site to retrieve his truck, then followed him back to the construction site where he put the lumber back in the exact area he had taken it from.

Hitchhiking thief

Police were called to Kroger on Canton Center shortly after 7 p.m. Wednesday on a report of a shoplifter fighting with the store manager.

When a police officer neared the scene, he saw a man with no shirt on running north on Canton Center with another man chasing him. The first man was in the roadway attempting to get a car to stop.

The police officer stopped and arrested him.

The store manager, who was chasing him, told police he was monitoring the store's closed circuit TV system when he observed the man put several bottles of liquor into a shopping cart.

He then walked to an area behind a stack of boxes and stuffed five bottles of liquor into his pants, socks and sweatshirt. As he attempted to leave the store, the manager confronted him.

At that point the man began taking the bottles out of his clothes. As he tried to leave, the manager grabbed him but he broke away and ran out of the store.

Minutes later he was in the back seat of the patrol car.

Breaking and entering

A man wearing a large hooded coat broke into Benito's Pizza about 6:40 a.m. Thursday.

His actions were caught on the store's surveillance camera. A tape from the camera showed the man pounding on a window at the back of the store, according to police reports.

Minutes later he reached through the window and unlocked the door. After entering the store, he went to the cash register and took an unspecified amount of money.

Police said the man shielded his face from the security camera at all times.

Home invasion

A 19-year-old resident of the 8000 block of Honeycomb told police a man entered her home about 3 a.m. Friday and took an unspecified amount of money.

The woman said she woke up and saw a white male dressed in black and wearing a ski mask inside the home. She yelled and asked him to identify himself.

The man left. Police believe he entered the home through an open door.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to call Canton Police at (734) 394-5400.

Chase bogs down on Michigan Avenue

A 23-year-old Canton woman led police on a sometimes high-speed chase Wednesday night before getting stuck in the mud on Michigan Avenue west of Beck Road.

Charges against the woman are pending the results of a psychological examination.

According to police reports a 1989 gray Lincoln Town Car had been reported taken without the owner's consent about 10 p.m. Wednesday. A Canton police officer spotted the car about an hour later at a gas station at Michigan Avenue and Haggerty.

The officer turned on his overhead lights and told the woman to shut off the car's engine. As the officer was getting out of his patrol car, the woman drove away and headed southbound on Haggerty.

With the police officer in pursuit, she continued into Van Buren Township, where a Van Buren officer joined the chase. She turned west onto Ecorse, then north on Belleville Road. Police said she twice tried to ram the Van Buren patrol car.

After turning east on Van Born she hit speeds of about 70 miles per hour. The pursuit continued, with the woman eventually ending up on Michigan Avenue. A Canton police officer used a tire-deflating device at Michigan and Lotz Road.

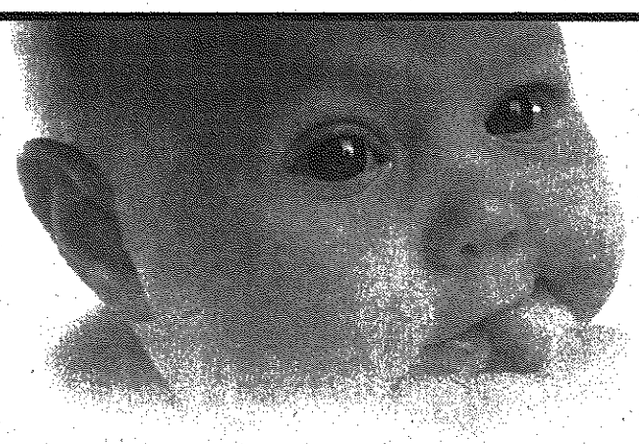

The woman ran over it, but continued going with two flat front tires. Heading west on Michigan in the eastbound lanes, she almost struck several other vehicles, police said.

She tried to turn in the median west of Beck Road, but got stuck in the mud. She then tried to run from the scene, but Canton and Van Buren officers stopped her. She was arrested and taken to the Canton Police Department.

The Saturday night performance capped a weekend when the students took part in a pair of rehearsals along with the PSO musicians.

"It gives them the sense of participating in the professional process," Dreyer pointed out.

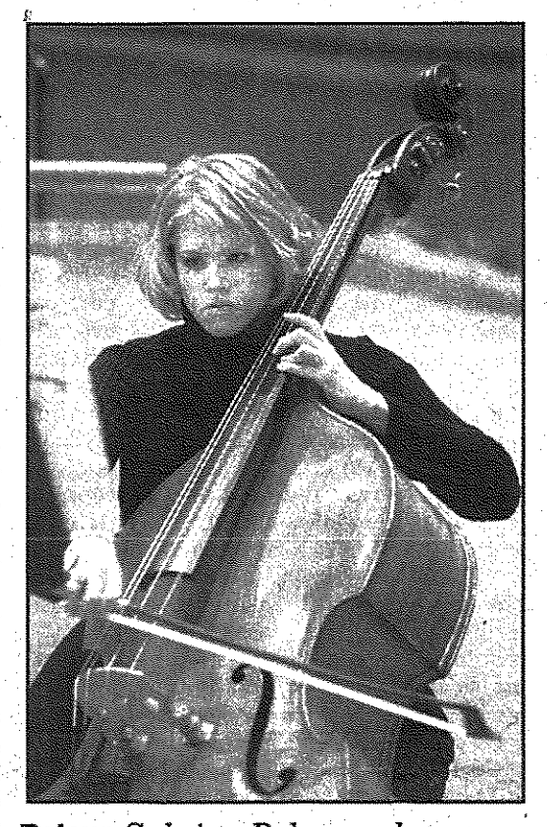

It also gave the students an unprecedented look at the inner workings of a professional symphony.

Opportunity

"I thought it was a wonderful opportunity for our students," said elementary musical specialist and co-director of the Middle School Orchestra Erin Zurbuchen. "I was very pleased with the experience."

It wasn't just playing the Dvorak piece that made it a valuable evening for the students, according to Zurbuchen. The presence of composer Michael Daugherty also added to the experience, she said.

"The entire concert, not just the part our kids played in, really caught the kids' attention," Zurbuchen said. "They were fascinated to hear Michael Daugherty's piece, fascinated by the fact he was a real composer and by the style of the piece. His music was so well thought through, and he did such an excellent job of taking people through the piece, the kids really understood what was going on. That made the experience that much better."

"desecrate the Natural Beauty Road."

Residents along the east side of that stretch of Napier depend on wells for their water supply. And while some are perfectly happy with that situation, Township Engineer Tom Casari said several residents have had problems with the wells.

"At least one has had to truck water in for the past several years," he said.

To a certain extent, Casari said, there's a "health and safety issue" involved with extending the water line.

"We don't care if they bring water up Napier Road," Suppnick said. "We can't fight progress. But the desecration of flora and trees could lower the point system (for a Natural Beauty Road designation).

"If that numbering system goes below a certain level, we could lose that designation."

Casari says the township does not want to cause that to happen.

He said the township is proposing to have the water line installed using a process called "directional boring" to minimize any damage to trees and shrubs along the way." He said that process is "less evasive" than digging an open trench.

But Suppnick isn't so sure.

"The township says 'we'll bore under the trees,'" she said. "Trees are one thing. But what about this natural scrub that will not be replaced. That's part of the natural beauty."

Suppnick said if the township is going to put in the water line, "We say put it in the center of the road."

Casari said typically Wayne County will not allow a water line to be installed in the middle of a roadway.

"In case of a break it can pretty much destroy a roadway," he said. "And if you have to fix something, you're always tearing up the road."

Casari said the township is attempting to acquire easements outside the road right of way from homeowners in areas where the easements don't already exist.

"We don't want to mess it up," he said. "If there's a way to do this without messing it up, that's what we want to do."

Bread, coffee set for Mayflower

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER
tbruscato@oe.homecomm.net

Signs of retail life will soon be appearing at the Mayflower Centre in downtown Plymouth.

Last Friday, Downtown Plymouth Ventures, the real estate holding company which owns the $13 million project, turned over space to Starbucks Coffee and Panera Bread. With signed leases, the two companies will soon be decorating their first-floor spaces with familiar motifs.

Those companies represent the first two tenants at the Mayflower Centre. According to Mark Baker of Downtown Plymouth Ventures, there are two more businesses with signed letters of intent to move into the Mayflower. They include a gift shop and a high-end art gallery.

"We should be at the white-box stage sometime in April or May," said Baker, referring to when the dry wall and concrete will be completed for tenants to bring in their own interior finishing crews.

While the retail, office and condominium space will be ready for tenants in a couple of months, Baker admits it could be upwards of a year-and-a-half before the entire building is leased out.

All of the 11 condos remain available for sale. The prospective buyer for the $1.2 million corner condo that overlooks Kellogg Park has backed out. However, Tri-Mount Vincenti vice president Craig Smith said he expects all the condos to sell.

The living spaces range from 3,500 square feet to 6,500 square feet with purchase price extending from $600,000-$1.2 million. Each condo unit includes a second-floor loft and an outside terrace.

Financial problems forced construction at the Mayflower to stop for nearly six months in 2000 when Tri-Mount owner John Vincenti ran into funding shortfalls. However, investors teamed with Vincenti to form Downtown Plymouth Ventures, which then secured a $10 million bank loan to complete the Mayflower.

travel, he had to give it up.

Creative financing

But fate smiled on him. Shortly after that, a Papa Romano's franchisor called him and said the Plymouth store was available, with a catch — a $120,000 catch. Freshly divorced and devoid of that much cash, but with a desire to own his own business, Grutza needed an angle.

"I formed a corporation and sold stock to friends and relatives who had the money," he recalled. "Then I paid them off and owned my own store."

Grutza had long known he wanted to own his own business. It's part of a work ethic he picked up growing up as one of 12 children. He did the standard kid-job things: paper routes (first for the Shopping News, then the Detroit Free Press), worked at a party store and the Dairy Queen. He learned early to fend for himself.

"When you have that many kids in your family, you learn independence and work ethic real fast," he said. "There's not a lot to dole out, so you learn quick."

He's parlayed that into a successful family business. His wife of 11 years, Margie, did the decorating of the Ann Arbor Road store. Their children (three daughters from a previous marriage for him; two sons for her) all worked there. He and Margie owned stores in Canton and Westland, but sold them to concentrate on the Plymouth business.

"We decided to sell those and put all our efforts under one roof," Grutza said. "Unless you have six pairs of eyes, it's hard to keep up."

Dad-like boss

Papa Romano's employees nearly three dozen people, most of them teenagers or young college students looking to earn the extra buck. To them, Grutza is part baby-sitter, part father figure, all boss. He yells at them when necessary, coddles them when they need it, helps them any time they ask.

It's part of his effort to foster a family atmosphere, and help the young people get started on life's right track.

"I have a Golden Rule that I don't ask anyone to do anything I wouldn't do, and I think they see that," Grutza said. "You get respect from the kids that way. You have to earn that."

The kids seem to respond to Grutza's methods.

"Just like any boss, he can get on your case when he needs to," said 21-year-old Mike Mayer, Grutza's second-in-command. "He's always been a good guy, helped me out when I needed it."

Mayer lowers his head and smiles slightly. "I'm not sure I want him to hear this," Mayer says quietly, "but he's probably the best boss I've ever worked for."

People around town echo the sentiment. Grutza frequently provides pizza for various school fund-raisers. He's bought hats for hockey teams. He provided the food for the afterglow event following a Plymouth Symphony Orchestra concert last weekend.

"We've gotten the reputation that we're willing to help," Grutza said. "The community helped make us, so it's important to give back."

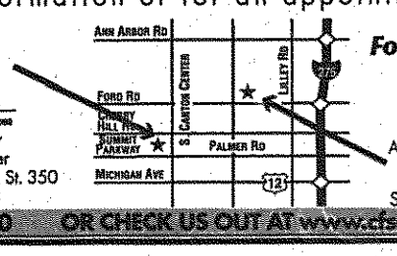

"Without a doubt, Jim is one of the most community-minded people I know," Mann said. "If we had more people as dedicated and committed to the community as Jim Grutza, this would be an even better community."

For Grutza, the reasons for being so involved are easy. Aside from being able to mingle with people — his favorite part of owning the business — and knowing what's going on, Grutza knows where his bread is buttered, so to speak.

"All of that has helped us to be successful," Grutza said. "That's why I don't hesitate to give back."

Ask the Orthodontist

"Cross-bites"

I frequently get asked about "Cross-bites". Cross-bite is an improper overlap of the upper teeth to the lower teeth. There are anterior (involving the front teeth) cross-bites and posterior (involving the back teeth) cross bites. In this article we will focus on posterior cross-bites.

A posterior cross-bite is when the back upper teeth are on the inside of the lower teeth. This can cause problems such as too narrow a palate for speech, improper biting relationship which potentially can lead to jaw joint problems (TMD), insufficient room for teeth to erupt and subsequent crowding due to smaller size of the dental arch, and a cosmetic issue due to a narrowness of the face and smile.

The cross-bite is easily corrected by an orthodontist, so long as the patient is still growing and the palate has not fused, meaning the bones of the palate having merged together. The correction involves a palate expander and is most commonly done between the ages of 6½ and 13½. Determining the best age for correction involves many options and is best discussed with an orthodontic specialist. In our office, as many orthodontists have concurred, the most reliable correction is with a fixed or non-removable appliance due to greater control by the parent and orthodontist. Choice of appliance is on an individual basis and best determined after consultation.

Parents with any orthodontic concerns for their child should contact an orthodontist concerning the need for orthodontic treatment. As a dental specialist, an orthodontist has elected to limit his practice to this specific area of expertise and has received additional training by an accredited dental school for advanced education.

You may see or write us at our office for topics that you would like discussed in this bi-weekly column. The office is located at 35200 Schoolcraft Rd., in Livonia. (734-261-8860).

Democrats in driver's seat on airport authority deal

BY MIKE MALOTT
HOMETOWN NEWS SERVICE
mmalott@homecomm.net

"All the old rules are out" when it comes to approval of the John Engler/Ed McNamara deal to put Detroit Metro Airport under the control of a state/county authority.

Because the deal must be endorsed by lawmakers with a two-thirds majority — in order to give it immediate effect so that Engler and McNamara can appoint its members — it puts the Democratic caucus in the driver's seat in a legislature where Republicans usually have full control.

The issue may also divide the party. Sen. George Z. Hart (D-Detroit) criticized the agreement saying it would give too much power to the Wayne County Executive.

Hart said he will attempt to amend the proposal when it comes up for a vote, expected to come within the week, to increase the Wayne County Board of Commissioners representation on the new authority and diminish the executive's.

McNamara said Friday that he had been predicting easy passage of the bill until members of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners voted Thursday, 11-0, to oppose the agreement.

Ken Brock, spokesman for Sen. Burton Leland (D-Detroit), said the senator was pleased with the deal overall. Leland had been most concerned with avoiding anything like a state takeover of the airport. Although the state gets a seat on the authority, he said it is not inappropriate for the state to have that say because Metro serves the entire state.

Leland is taking the concerns of the Wayne County board seriously, but he doesn't see that as a deal breaker, Brock said. Leland is encouraging commissioners and the executive to work out their differences so the legislature can pass the bill.

The announcement that Gov. Engler and Executive McNamara had reached an agreement took many in Lansing by surprise, unaware any talks were going on between the two regarding the airport.

In fact, McNamara said that although they had talked about such a compromise "from time to time" they "only got serious about it last Friday," Feb. 15. They met at a function for the opening of the new midfield terminal at Metro Airport, he said.

Steil pleased

Sen. Glenn Steil (R-Grand Rapids), who is chair of the Senate Airport Review committee that has been reviewing airport finances, said he is pleased with the deal.

"This is exactly what I have been asking for," he said.

He said he is not concerned that the county executive gets the majority of the appointments to the authority.

"Right now, everything is under Ed McNamara's control," he said.

He said the fact the deal includes requirements for competitive bidding, conflict of interest policies and an audit committee address his concerns about the operations of the airport in the past.

"This and the new terminal will make the airport a first class facility for a long time to come," he said.

Steil and McNamara may not have seen eye to eye on very much regarding the airport, but McNamara would agree with that point.

He said the combination of the new terminal and the authority will take the airport "to a higher level."

He said his motivation for agreeing to the deal now was that the county board's new procurement ordinance is too restrictive. Had it been in place earlier and affected the construction of the new terminal, the terminal would not yet be done and construction would not have come in within budget.

McNamara said his timing has nothing to do with the gubernatorial race, although Republicans believe that may be the reason. Since Attorney General Jennifer Granholm served as Wayne County's Corporate Counsel for four years while several of the questioned contracts were let, the airport has become an issue in her bid for the governor's office.

The deal may end the legislative review of airport finances, but it will have no impact on criminal investigations of past airport contracts. The Michigan State Police have been asked to review the information uncovered by the senate committee. Federal investigators have been looking into loans issued to the county by a contractor and at a noise mitigation program. "We haven't seen anything that you would call a smoking gun, but there have been a lot of questionable things that could lead to deeper investigations," Steil said.

McNamara disagrees with that.

"It's so political that you'll probably never hear back from them," he said. "They are investigating, but they will probably decide they don't want to have anything to do with it."

Here are deal details

- Detroit Metropolitan Airport will be put under the control of a 7 member board of directors.
- 2 appointed by the governor, 4 by the Wayne County executive and 1 by the Wayne Board of Commissioners.
- Legislative approval is needed to create the authority, and a two-thirds majority is needed to give it immediate effect. That would enable McNamara and Engler to name the members themselves. If lawmakers fail to give it immediate effect, the appointments would have to wait until 2003 and be made by their successors.
- The independent authority would manage both Metro and Willow Run airports, although they would remain Wayne County-owned facilities. The authority would have the power to adopt ordinances governing the airport and name law enforcement personnel.
- The board would include a 3-member audit committee, to review airport financial activities. The authority would be required to use competitive bidding when selecting contractors and must adopt policies regarding conflict of interest.
- The authority would appoint the airport director, but current director Lester Robinson is expected to stay on in that post for the time being.
- Engler and McNamara drafted a 50-page bill implementing the details of their deal, and the already introduced Senate Bill 690 will serve as the vehicle for the legislation. Sen. Glenn Steil (R-Grand Rapids) had introduced that bill to put the airport under the control of an authority. McNamara said he expected the issue will come up for a vote as soon as Tuesday, Feb. 26.

FOCUS ON WINE

RAY & ELEANOR HEALD

Area chefs creatively pair food and wine

Each of its seven years, the Michigan Culinary Food & Wine Extravaganza, held at Mac & Ray's in Harrison Township on Mardi Gras, has been an artful display and tasting of food and wine from metro-Detroit's finest restaurants.

This year, a panel of media judges evaluated 18 participating restaurants, solely on the basis of how well their particular dish matched the wine served with it. Attendees had their say with a People's Choice Award for the event's best restaurant.

Best Food & Wine Pairing went to Cafe Cortina of Farmington Hills. Proprietor Adriano Tonon and his team of chefs served a tasting portion of handmade gnocchi with a delicate porcini mushroom, truffle oil sauce and parmesan crisp, paired with the 2000 Jermann Pinot Grigio.

Cafe Cortina narrowly edged out Steve & Rocky's of Novi, by about a point. Along with the Golden Mushroom, these were the only three restaurants with an average score in the 90s, in the opinion of the judges.

People's Choice

This year, 800 attendees at the event helped raise $50,000 to support aspiring chefs through scholarship awards and to raise money to send a team of Michigan chefs to the World Culinary Arts Salon, held every four years in Germany.

The People's Choice First Place award went to Steve & Rocky's of Novi. Proprietor-chefs Steve Allen and Rocky Rachwitz served warm house-smoked salmon with vermouth sauce, enhanced with coarse grain mustard and complemented by potato pancakes. The dish was paired with the 1999 Trimbach Reserve Pinot Gris.

"This award tells me," said Allen, "that we're on the right track. We have a sense of what diners come to Steve & Rocky's to eat. Some chefs cook their favorite food. I cook what my diners tell me they like. Yet, I personally like this dish because it showcases harmony among all the ingredients." He credits his wine salesperson Melissa Fisher of the distributor L&L Wine World in Troy for nailing the wine match.

In second place was Mac & Ray's of Harrison Township. Executive Chef Jeff Baldwin served rack of lamb with a merlot sauce, paired with 2000 Penfolds Thomas Hyland Shiraz. Southfield's Golden Mushroom took third place with its applewood house-smoked salmon with boursin cheese on crispy root vegetable chips, drizzled with sundried tomato oil, paired with 1999 Rowland, Jill's Vineyard, New Zealand Pinot Noir.

WINE PICKS

The best of both worlds exists for chardonnay in winter. Wines from the newest vintage (in this case 2000) are being released along with the last of the 1999s, generally single vineyard and reserve bottlings. Early-release 2000s are upfront fruity and the 1999s have mellow oak overtones and lots of finesse. Rankings from our recent tasting of chardonnays:

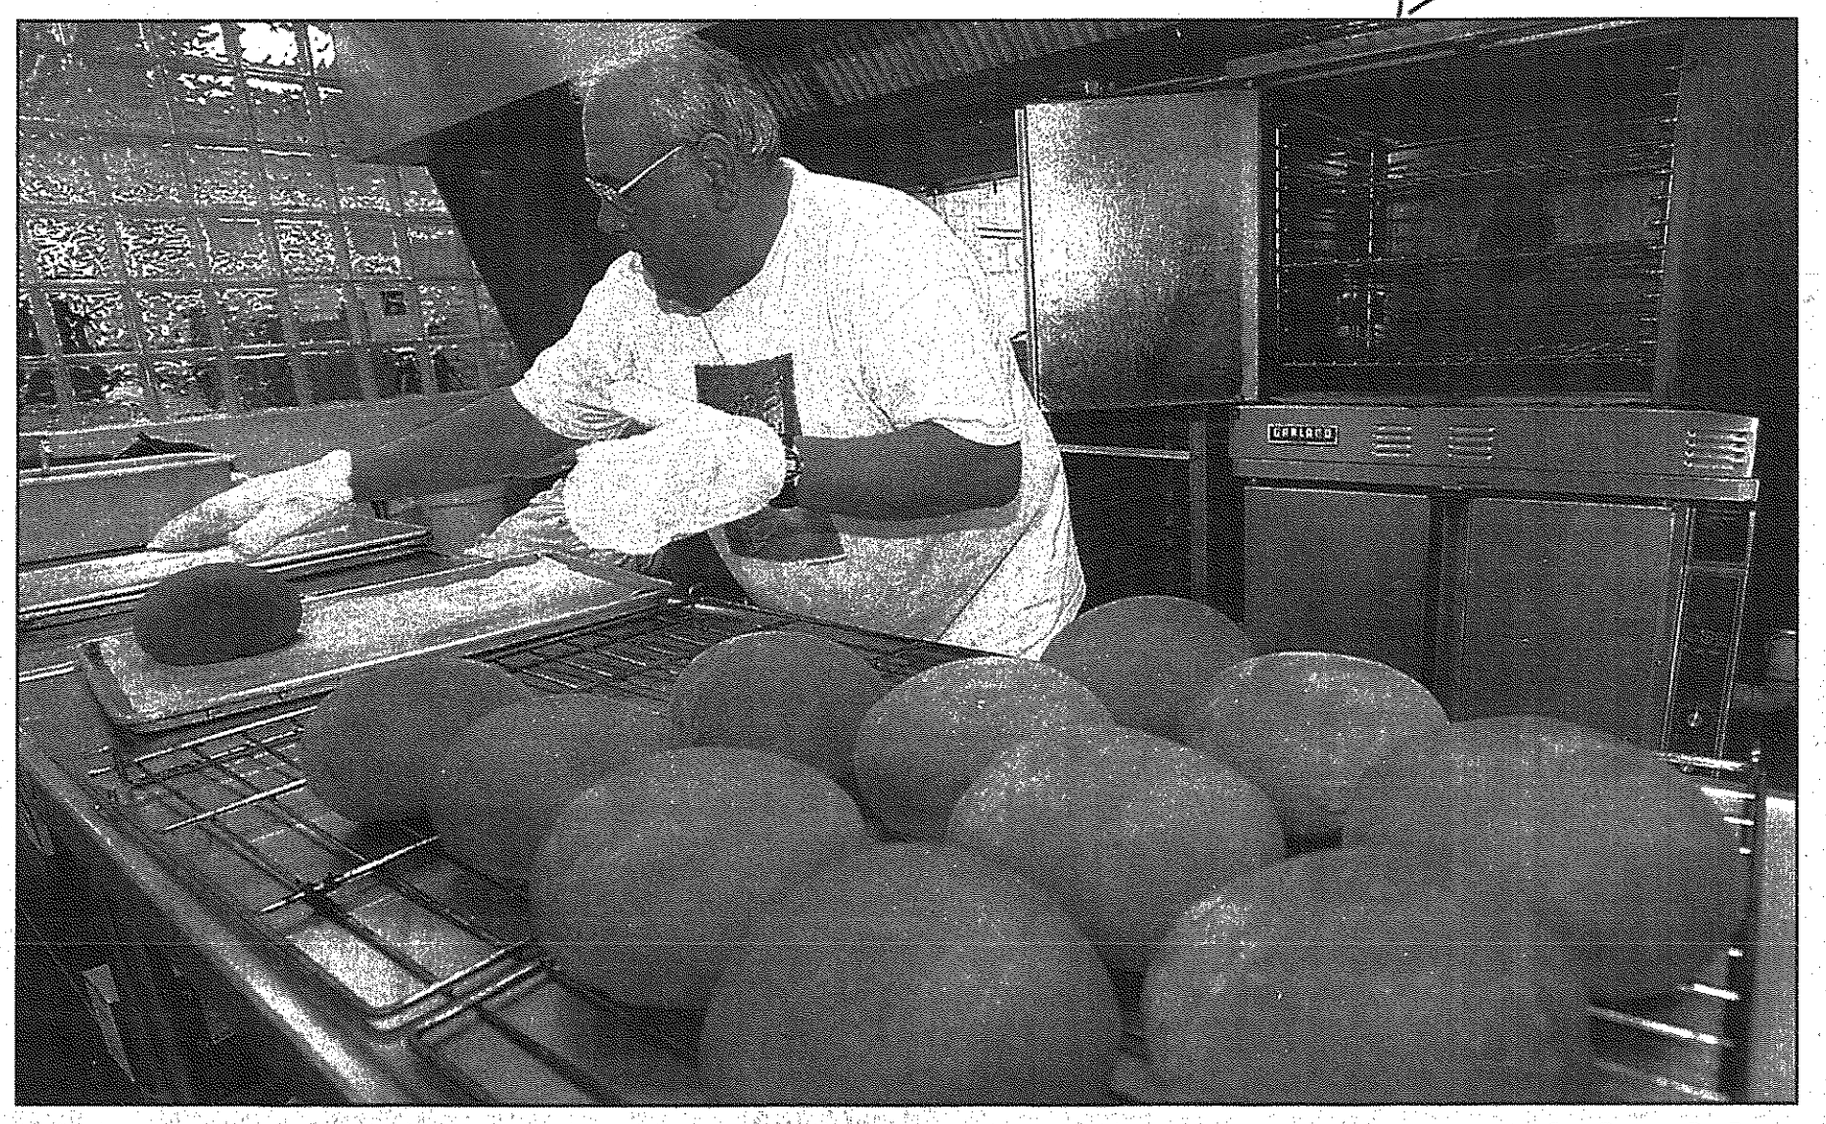

Outstanding: 1999 Joseph Phelps Ovation $47 and 1999 Kunde Reserve $35.

Excellent: 1999 Beringer Private Reserve $35; 1999 Chateau St. Jean Belle Terre Vineyard $24; 1999 Chateau St. Jean Robert Young Vineyard $25; 1999 Kunde Kinneybrook Vineyard $22; 1999 Kunde Wildwood Vineyard $22; 2000 Marcelina $22; 2000 Chateau St. Jean Sonoma County $14 (exceptional value!)

Very good: 2000 Frei Brothers Reserve $17; 2000 Chateau Souverain $14; and 2000 Geyser Peak $16 (great with spicy shrimp creole).

Bread & Soup

Foods to warm the body and soul

Mmmmm. One whiff of freshly baked bread or a simmering pot of soup is enough to send a comforting glow from head to toe on a cold winter day. Soups and breads warm the body, provide nutrients like vitamins and minerals, and relieve life's stresses, but even more than that these comfort foods greet all walking through the door.

Brother Vincent Reyes is fond of saying he doesn't bake bread at the Capuchin Soup Kitchen because he needs to, but because the aroma is a way of welcoming men, women and children coming in from the street. The kitchen serves 2,000 meals a day at two locations in Detroit in addition to delivering meals for shut-ins.

This snowy February morning the soup kitchen's pastoral director would begin making his honey whole wheat bread with the old-fashioned sponge method – warm water, yeast, sugar or food for the yeast, salt and enough flour to make a batter. Reyes bakes 17 loaves every Wednesday.

Behind him a kettle of pea soup bubbles and simmers slowly. Chef Alison Costello started the soup the day before by making a stock from 40-pounds of ham, bone and shavings. Nothing goes to waste at the soup kitchen. Every scrap of meat and vegetable counts when making soup to feed 500 hungry people.

"I love wheat bread," said Reyes. "It's hearty with a wonderful crust. I love the texture and flavor. Soup and bread are comfort foods. It reminds people of the time when they were a kid. Most people love homemade bread."

Feeding a crowd: Chef Alison Costello stirs the pea soup she made to feed 500 people arriving for lunch on a snowy February day.

Good-for-you ingredients

Like many comfort foods, soup, when made from the wrong ingredients, can ruin a healthy diet. Dr. Bob Roman knows first hand the devastating effect certain foods have on the body. As a Farmington Hills pediatrician, he's seen a dramatic rise in the cases of Type II Diabetes and attributes it to a fast food diet. Cooked from scratch doesn't necessarily translate to better for you. A lean stock is essential not only for a tasty but a nutritious soup. Save the water from cooking vegetables and potatoes. It contains valuable nutrients. Throw in the outer leaves of cabbage, lettuce, kale, the tops of celery, beets and chard.

"Soup isn't always good for you," said Roman, a Bloomfield Hills resident who in his spare time takes cooking classes at Schoolcraft College in Livonia. He began volunteering at the soup kitchen, chopping vegetables and ladling out soup, in August.

"It depends what's in the soup. Begin with a chicken starter, nothing too high in fat or salt. Put in vegetables and meats, lean meat like chicken or turkey sausage. No bacon. A soup if cooked right can be your whole meal. When we're having a 6-inch snow day and you come in, it makes you feel warm all over."

There's nothing like stirring a pot of soup and inhaling the steam rising from the mingling carrots, thyme and tomatoes. Herbs and seasonings add flavor to a soup. Costello says, "nothing's written in stone at the soup kitchen. Ingredients vary depending on what's on hand. Great soups require quality ingredients. It's all about educating the palate."

Donations enable Costello to cook most of the meals from scratch using not processed, but whole foods because she believes "people poison their bodies enough."

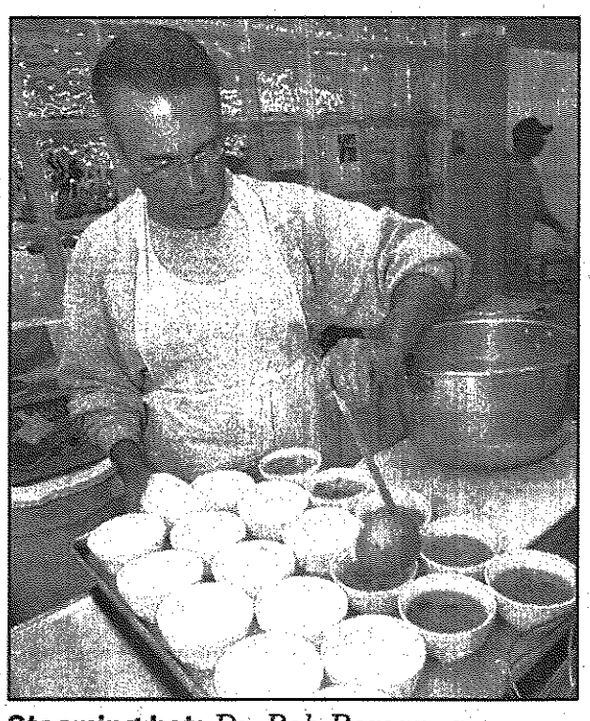

"I make lentil, chicken noodle, mushroom barley, bean soup, vegan soup, as long as it has a lot of stuff in it," said Costello who's worked as a chef at the Moneytree downtown and Pronto in Royal Oak. "But it's the seasonings that give it flavor – bay leaf, thyme, chervil, and of course fresh garlic. Oregano has a tendency to be too strong, basil for sweet flavor. I prefer using white pepper over black because it's stronger. Lots of times I add sugar to tomato-based soup, and dill in chicken soup from Brother Rick Samyn's Earthworks Garden in summer (a program to grow food to feed the poor).

"Soup isn't fast food. You have to watch it and cook it slow. You can't rush soup."

HONEY WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

Capuchin Soup Kitchen Recipe

- 1 quart warm water
- 2 tablespoons dry yeast
- 2 tablespoon salt
- 4 cups whole wheat flour (for sponge...additional flour as needed.)
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/2 cup powdered milk
- 1/2 cup uncooked oatmeal
- 2/3 cup pre-soaked raisins

(optional)

In mixer bowl add warm water, powdered milk, yeast, salt and honey. Mix well.

Add whole wheat flour to make batter for initial "sponge." Mix well using wooden spoon or wire whip for about 10 minutes. Cover and place in warm area and let rest.

After sponge has risen and bubbled (about 45 minutes) add oil and oatmeal and raisins (if making raisin style...they should be plumped in hot water for at least 1/4 hour before being added.)

Add more whole wheat flour as needed to make dough. Knead dough until it begins to pull away from bowl. Dough should be kneaded until it has a rubbery and silky texture.

After dough gets to silky texture stage continue to knead 10-13 minutes longer. Let dough remain in mixing bowl and let rise until double in bulk. Punch dough down, knead the dough for another 2 minutes. Transfer dough to table and cut into four equal sections.

Form loaves and let rise to slightly less then double in size. Bake in pre-heated oven at 375 F for 15 minutes, dropping temperature to 325 F and continue baking for another 20 minutes. Bread should have nice dark brown crust. Remove from oven and put on cooling racks. Do not put in bags until cool otherwise crust will get soggy. This bread will freeze well. Makes four loaves.

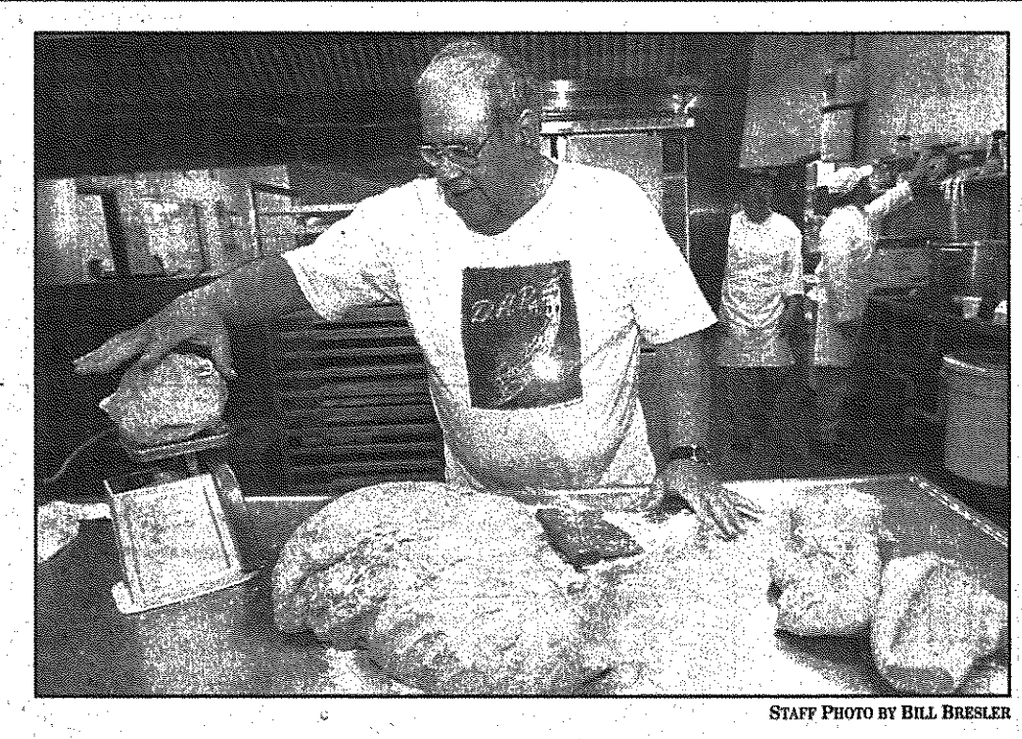

THICK PEA SOUP

"ALISON'S SPECIAL"

- 1/3 pound butter
- 2 pounds diced celery
- 2 pounds diced onion
- 2 pounds diced carrots
- 2 bay leaves
- 8 pounds dried split peas
- 2 ham bones
- 5 gallons ham stock
- 5 pounds ham scrap
- 1-2 tablespoons of black pepper
- 3-5 pinches of nutmeg
- 5-6 tablespoons thyme
- 3 cups butter and 3 cups flour

to make roux

In large stock pot heat up 5 gallons of ham stock to simmer. Braise vegetables in butter.

Scaling: Brother Vincent Reyes quips that scaling is what snakes and bakers do. Here he uses a scale to weigh two-pounds of dough before shaping it into a peasant loaf.

To braised vegetable add dried peas, bay leaves and other seasoning. Add mix to 5 gallons of simmering ham stock. Cook until peas are split and tender. Remove bones from ham. Using wire whisk, add roux slowly, small amount at time. Stir until smooth and continue to simmer for half hour.

This soup is best made a day or two before. The flavor will improve if given time to "age" for a couple of days.

The roux will enhance the flavor and thicken the soup. Excellent served with a crusty bread in a large bowl on a cold day. Makes 5 gallons of soup or enough to serve 40.

until it's all bubbly, about 30- to 45-minutes, adds more flour to make a dough, enough to make it silky and pull away from the pan."

"For sixteen loaves I use 16 ounces of oil," he said. "It adds to the texture of the bread. It makes it a little more moist. Honey adds moisture because it absorbs moisture from the air. You knead it till silky and let it raise until double in bulk and punch down."

Reyes then uses a dough cutter and scale to separate the dough into 2-pound peasant loaves.

"This is called scaling. It's what snakes and bakers do," he quips.

Reyes never loses his sense of humor. Baking bread helps him remain upbeat while helping the people who come to the soup kitchen for assistance. Reyes began baking out of necessity while working as a chaplain at a Chicago hospital's trauma center. Reyes would bake up bread stuffed with marinated vegetables, mozzarella and drizzled with a little oil as a way of dealing with the stress.

"It was Level One trauma and I was starting to dream about things," said Reyes. "I began making bread as a stress release but it ended up being a way of taking care of the staff, to feed them and provide something pleasant to take a break from gunshots, stabbings and beatings. There's something about taking a break and talking between crisis. They're not used to being taking care of so I had to kind of come in the back door so I could care for them."

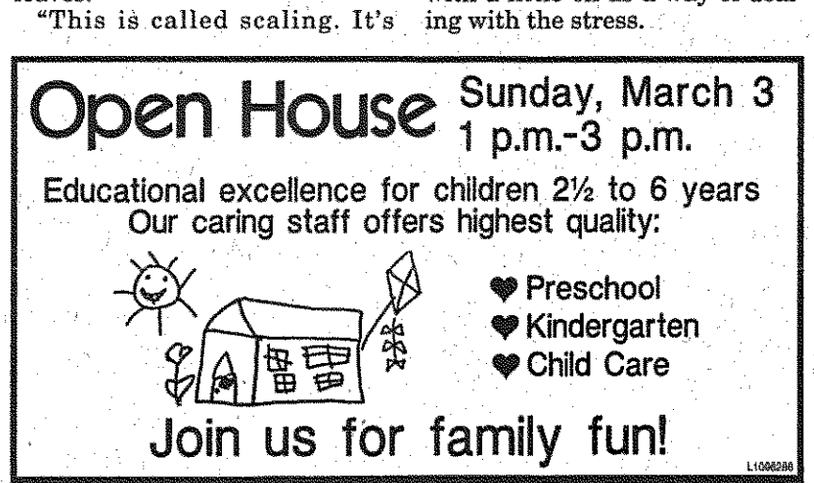

Caring for people is what the soup kitchen is all about. The Capuchin Soup Kitchen opened Nov. 29, 1929 in a hall on the north side of the monastery on Mt. Elliott. Friars Herman Buss and Frances Spruck were inspired by the work of friar Solanus Casey who was the doorkeeper at the time. He fed people because they were hungry, sometimes 200-300 people every day.

"They served soup, bread and coffee," said Reyes. "From the beginning we always had volunteers. In the history of this place we never ran out of food."

That includes hot and steamy, whole wheat bread fresh from the oven.

"Bread is always a surprise," said Reyes. "For some it's the first time they've had bread come out of the oven that hasn't been processed. Bread feeds the whole person. Bakers are very fortunate because baking bread is very tactile. I find myself wanting to share something very sacred and beautiful. There's something about breaking bread with people. You don't have meals with people you don't like. There's something sacred about getting together and baking and breaking bread."

Fish cakes healthy, flavorful

(AP) – There's good tangy taste and appealing crunch to this slimmed-down version of fish cakes. But the ingredients are chosen with some thought, so there are only about 9 grams of fat per serving.

Lime peel and sharp mustard are the high flavor elements for fish patties coated in cornmeal and cooked in a little oil.

The recipe is from Better Homes and Gardens 3 Steps to Weight Loss (Meredith, 2001, $19.95). The book is based on a healthy eating plan devised by Dr. Lawrence J. Cheskin, director of the Weight Management Center at Johns Hopkins University.

Fish Cakes With Green Goddess Sauce

(Preparation 30 minutes, cooking time 8 minutes)

- 12 ounces fresh or frozen skinless white fish fillets (such as haddock or cod)
- 1 beaten egg
- 1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 4 teaspoons light mayonnaise dressing or salad dressing
- 1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1 tablespoon snipped fresh parsley
- 1 teaspoon finely shredded lime peel
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons cornmeal
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 recipe Green Goddess Sauce (recipe follows)
- Chives, optional

Thaw fish, if frozen. Rinse fish; pat dry with paper towels. Cut fish into 1/2-inch pieces. Set aside.

In a medium bowl, combine egg, bread crumbs, onion, mayonnaise dressing, mustard, parsley, lime peel and salt. Add fish; mix well. Shape into twelve 1/2-inch-thick patties. Coat both sides of the fish patties with cornmeal.

In a large nonstick skillet or on a nonstick griddle heat oil over medium heat. Add half of the fish cakes. Cook for 4 to 6 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, gently turning once. Remove from skillet. Repeat with the remaining cakes. Serve with Green Goddess Sauce. If desired, garnish with fresh chives.

Green Goddess Sauce

- 1/4 cup plain fat-free yogurt
- 1/2 cup light dairy sour cream
- 3 tablespoons snipped fresh tarragon
- 2 tablespoons snipped fresh chives
- 2 teaspoons lime juice
- 1 clove garlic, minced

In a blender container or food processor bowl combine yogurt, 1/4 cup of sour cream, and tarragon. Cover and blend or process until smooth. Transfer to a small bowl. Stir in remaining 1/4 cup sour cream, chives, lime juice and garlic. Store any remaining sauce, covered, in the refrigerator up to 3 days and serve with salad greens.

many who attended the event did not hesitate to come up to us and say, "I read you all the time. Do you want to know what I liked best?" They thought Big Rock Chop & Brew House (Birmingham) had awesome marinated, grilled beef tenderloin with house chop sauce, matched with 2001 Penfolds Rawson Retreat Cabernet-Shiraz. They praised the original Crews Inn (Harrison Township) creation of Tuna Salmon Tempura in a Sushi Roll paired with the 2000 Joseph Phelps Sauvignon Blanc. Readers also thought the nicely-kicked up Creole Shrimp and Avocado Salad, presented by McCormick & Schmick (Troy), with the 1999 Flora Springs Sangiovese was a daring wine pairing that worked.

In reading this, did you catch that the winning wine pairings were both white wines, not red? And from the same grape variety? Pinot grigio is Italian for pinot gris, which is French. The wine styles are different and that's what made the matches.

Chefs cook up benefit for colleague

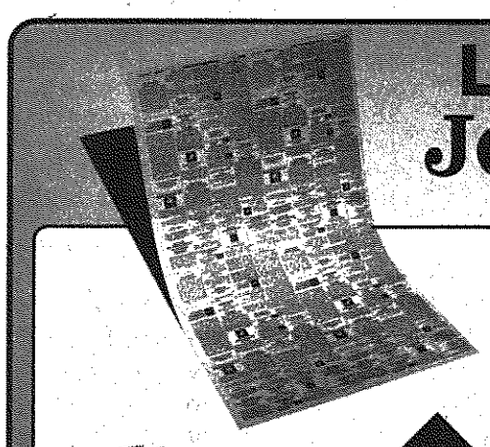

Master Chef Milos Cihelka will come out of retirement to join with eight other chefs to prepare a benefit dinner for Chef Joseph Yezeik, formerly of the Epic Restaurant Group. Yeziek, who has been diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumor, has undergone extensive chemotherapy treatments to help battle the cancer. Unfortunately, Yeziek is too ill to work and does not have insurance to help cover the costs of the treatments.

Executive Chef Shawn Loving of Loving Spoonful has gathered nine of the most talented chefs in the Metro Detroit area to prepare a Dinner Extraordinaire benefit to help raise monies for Yeziek and his family. The benefit will be held at Loving Spoonful in Farmington Hills, Monday, Feb. 25 at 6:30 p.m. The all-inclusive menu is $125 per person.

Joining Chefs Milos and Loving are Executive Chef Brian Polcyn, Five Lakes Grill; Master Chef Dan Hugelier; Master Pastry Chef Joe Decker; Executive Chef and Director of Culinary Arts at Schoolcraft College Bruce Konowalow; Master Chef Jeff Gabriel; Master Chef Kevin Gawronski, and Executive Chef Chris Misiak.

"I'm thrilled to be in the company of these masters and to be doing something good for someone," Chef Loving said. "Everyone is donating their time and 100 percent of the profits will go to Joe."

BOOKS

Elmore Leonard novel swings, sings

Tishomingo Blues, by Elmore Leonard (William Morrow, $25.95).

BOOK BEAT

VICTORIA DIAZ

■ Ultimately moving everything right along is Leonard's trademark dialogue, drawn with all the just-right measures, cadences, rhythms and lyrics.

Like down-and-dirty Mississippi Delta blues? Like high diving? Like Civil War re-enactments?

Then jump into this latest crime novel by Detroit's own Elmore Leonard. Though on the surface it may seem to be a strange composition, Leonard not only makes it work, he makes it swing and sing, and adds a nice dollop of zing along the way.

The Tishomingo of the title is the Tishomingo Lodge & Casino in Tunica, Mississippi, where diver Dennis Lenahan has come to perform his splashy, daredevil stunts.

One evening, just as he is getting everything set up, and is on his mark to make his first practice dive, he happens to witness a murder on the grounds below.

Therein, of course, hangs our tale.

Should Dennis go to the police? Probably that wouldn't be so productive or so safe, since the perps and the local cops seem thick as thieves.

Where's his protection, then? Should he run? Should he try to hide? Should he stay where he is, and desperately hope that some solution turns up?

Enter one of Leonard's typically vibrant characters, an African-American guy out of Detroit named Robert Taylor, a major league blues aficionado who hasn't come to Mississippi to play the slot machines at the Tishomingo. ("Robert was too cool to be a tourist. Robert wouldn't visit a site, Robert was the site.")

As we will learn, this charming fellow has mixed motives. But on the other hand, he may be the only person able to protect our nervous hero, Dennis.

Also enter Charlie Hoke, the "celebrity host" at the Tishomingo, who is, shall we say, preoccupied with his former career as a pitcher for the Tigers (he once struck out Don Mattingly and Wade Boggs, among others). Charlie provides persistent comic relief in this sometimes gory tale.

Before it's over, we get to know the sly Tishomingo manager Billy Darwin, the murderous Arlen Novis, local trailer park "mogul" Walter Kirkbride, and Germano Mularoni, a Detroit drug kingpin who shows up on the eve of the area's big Civil War re-enactment, his comfort-loving heart set on playing none other than Ulysses S. Grant.

The handsome Dennis, who obviously enjoys living "on the edge," attracts his share of women in the course of the action-adventure tale.

There's his devoted landlady, Vernice, who provides him with life-sustaining TV dinners; perky TV reporter Diane Corrigan-Cochrane; and a lovely gal named Loretta, who knows how to make a mean Naughty Child Pie.

As in most of Leonard's fiction, many of the players in Tishomingo Blues fall somewhere between dangerous and dumb as a doorknob – and the author knows just where to place them on the razor's edge to make them fun and fascinating.

Another stellar attraction in this cinematic novel is the Delta country itself, with its bloody, bluesy history and its modern-day trappings of motels, gambling halls, and soybean fields nudging the Big Muddy.

Ultimately moving everything right along is Leonard's trademark dialogue, drawn with all the just-right measures, cadences, rhythms and lyrics.

Listen as the silky Robert Taylor talks to Dennis one night about the birth of the blues:

" ' You know what B.B. King said the first time he heard T-Bone Walker? He said he thought Jesus himself had returned to earth playing electric guitar. They cool, John Lee (Hooker) and B.B., and Stevie Ray's fine. But you know where they came from? What they were influenced by? The Delta. The blues, man, born right here ...' "

Packing with confidence is in the bag

STYLES & SENSIBILITIES

ED NAKFOOR

I was overcome with a major case of anxiety last week on the way to the airport, and it had nothing to do with security concerns, long lines or missed connections. In fact, I wasn't even the one taking the trip.

You see, I was driving a friend and her two young daughters to catch a mid-morning flight to Disney World. It was a perfect day for flying and I was a little envious of my friend, having not yet planned a winter getaway myself. At the same time, though, I was relieved I didn't have to concern myself with packing, which is a major thorn in my side.

Whether traveling for business or just some R-and-R, my intent is to pack efficiently, yet I find myself in the same predicament time and again: It's the night before I leave, piles of clothes cover my bed, the luggage waits to be zipped shut, and the ticks of my alarm clock sound louder and louder as if I need another reminder that I'm wasting time.

So I've resolved that going forward I'm shedding my baggage – figuratively and literally – with a little help, of course, from some local packing pros.

Get packing

I'll admit I was a little intimidated speaking with Lynn Portnoy. As owner of the women's clothing boutique in Southfield that bears her name, Portnoy is known for her packing prowess of traveling with only one piece of luggage.

I was embarrassed and started to fidget in my chair, especially when she told me she pulls out what she thinks she'll need for a trip and then returns 90 percent of it to the closet.

Portnoy speaks about packing with great confidence and ease, and has written a series of how-to books – Going Like Lynn – devoted to the subject. Although she bills them as "a liberating series of travel guides for women," her advice knows no gender.

For example, packing for Portnoy begins with the type of clothing already at home. She advises lightweight fabrics for layering, neutral colors and subtle patterns.

"You should be able to travel to California and New York in February with basically the same items," she said.

■ I was embarrassed and started to fidget in my chair, especially when she told me she pulls out what she thinks she'll need for a trip and then returns 90 percent of it to the closet.

If you think you'll need a sport jacket, wear it, plus any other heavy items, on the plane as this saves precious space for bulkier pieces, like shoes.

Speaking of which, pack two extra pairs in addition to the one you're wearing because in Portnoy's opinion, and mine, "if your feet hurt, trip's over." And don't forget to leave behind those heavy shoetrees. Better to roll a belt or stuff a pair of socks inside to help the footwear keep its shape.

One caveat, though, about shoes. Keep the sneakers at home, Portnoy said, especially when venturing overseas. "To pickpockets, sneakers are a sure sign you're a tourist."

Finally, I asked Portnoy what to pack for a trip of about a week. Her recommendation: "Three pants and six shirts plus a sport coat which should match most of the pant-shirt combinations." She knew I needed some reassurance that this would be enough.

"No one knows you when you're away," she said. "Wear something twice, it doesn't matter. It can always be dry cleaned." As for more formal clothes, it shouldn't be an issue. Besides, the best restaurants in any town hardly require a jacket or tie anymore.

Carry on

The key then to successful packing is common sense. And the perfect carry-on combines the right dose of style, durability and great functionality. At the Tumi store at Somerset Collection, I struck gold.

For the uninitiated, Tumi is a nothing less than a complete packing system.

Since 1975, Tumi has been designing luggage, daypacks, handbags and travel accessories known for their patented, durable fabrics, modern styling and special touches like magnetic closures in lieu of cumbersome snaps or buckles, and a serial number registration system to help reunite owner with lost baggage.

Store manager David Poppe said most of what I liked would fit within the airlines' carry-on size limit of 22 by 14 by 9 inches.

The Expandable Gentlemen's Duffel does just what the name says and is available either as a hard side or unstructured model, with or without wheels. It's constructed of Fusion Z nylon, a Tumi-patented fabric that can withstand greater friction – i.e., overzealous baggage handlers.

Inspired by high-tech running shoe fabric, Tumi's T-Tech Collection boasts the sleek look I was craving, and one bag in particular grabbed my attention with its firm bottom and flexible topside that housed all sorts of nooks, hooks and pockets.

There was even room to slip in a laptop, protected by a Tumi computer sleeve, and a Tumi travel pack or two to organize shirts, underwear or even dirty laundry.

Indeed, the skies seem a whole lot friendlier right about now.

Williams festival fills desire for drama, delights

BY VICTORIA DIAZ
SPECIAL WRITER

Strolling the streets of New Orleans' famous French Quarter can be like going back in time, or stepping inside a movie, or finding yourself suddenly transported to another land.

This dreamy aura perfectly enhances the memorable spirit of the Tennessee Williams/New Orleans Literary Festival, scheduled each spring to closely coincide with Williams' birth date of March 26.

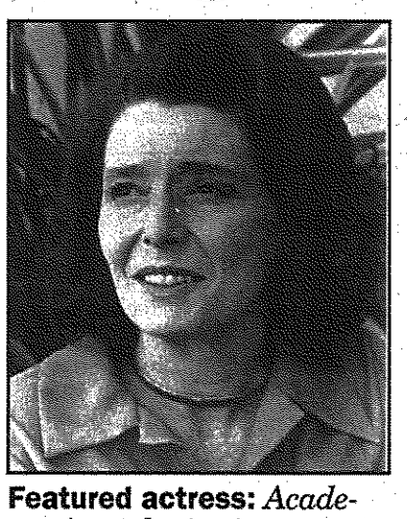

Set this year for Wednesday-Sunday, March 20-24, the crowded Fest (average attendance is 8,000) will be headquartered, as always, at Le Petit Theatre du Vieux Carre, 616 Saint Peter Street.

If you are into stretching your legs, almost every part of the celebration can be accessed on foot. One main exception: play performances at the Contemporary Arts Center, 900 Camp Street, within the Warehouse Arts District.

During its 15-year history, the event has played host to such literary luminaries as Wally Lamb, Philip Caputo, Sascha Feinstein and Barry Unsworth.

This time around, attendees will be treated to classes and panel discussions featuring Pulitzer Prize winners Jonathan Yardley and Rick Bragg, Nelson Algren Award recipient Melissa Bank, and best-selling biographer David Maraniss, plus dozens of others.

Guests may pick and choose among the dozen or so 75-minute master classes offered at $35 per session. Or, if you prefer, buy a pass to all for $375. This pass will get you into panel discussions and a Wednesday evening reception at the Crescent City's Historic Collection, 529 Royal Street, too.

Featured actress: Academy Award-winning actress, Patricia Neal, headlines this year's festival.

A Tennessee Williams Festival would be nothing without drama, of course, and this one offers participants a dazzling variety from which to choose.

At 7 p.m. March 21, Oscar winner Patricia Neal will kick things off via a staged reading of Williams' Portrait of a Madonna at Le Petit Theatre.

DIVERSIONS

Different photos come out of the ordinary

FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Want some ideas for different kinds of photographs – pictures that will grab the viewers' attention and make them say, "What is this and how did you do it?"

All it takes is to make the ordinary different.

For example, everyone likes to photograph flowers. But let's make the ordinary different. A trip to your local glass shop is all it takes. A piece of textured shower door glass placed between the flowers and your camera will produce stunning effects similar to an impressionistic painting.

Textured glass is available in many styles (even colors), so the possibilities are endless. Use your imagination to shoot other subjects through textured glass.

Another way to make the ordinary different is to use a super wide angle lens 20mm or less. The distortion you'll get by moving in close to your subjects will amaze you. Move in close to a friend or to your family pet. Try sighting straight up a tree. The resulting distortion will produce dramatic and unusual results.

We're all so accustomed to photographing people so that we can see their faces. How about shooting them from their backs or doing a photo theme of hands or feet? This would certainly make the ordinary different.

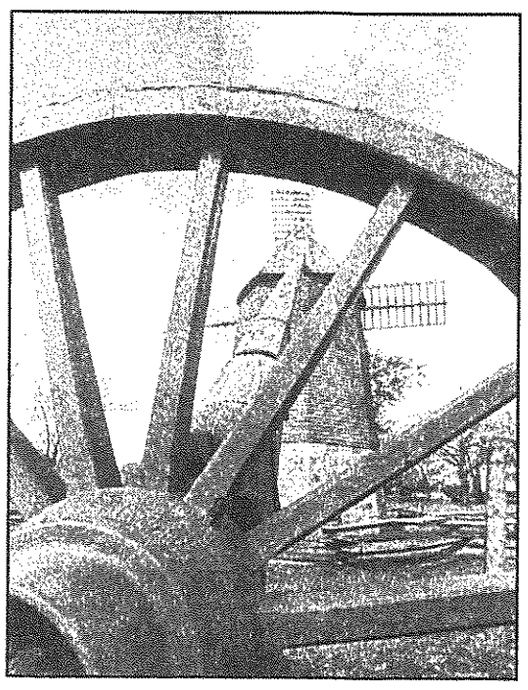

While we're talking about people pictures, consider placing someone in an unlikely setting. For example, shoot an elegantly dressed model in a junkyard or a friend in a tuxedo on a farm. These photographs will definitely get attention.

Try taking a common prop such as a red rose and place it somewhere in the composition of a series of pictures. This "common denominator" will tie a set of photos together and will earn you accolades from family and friends.

Rather than just an ordinary picture of the famous windmill in Dearborn's famed Greenfield Village, I wanted to do something different.

By using an extreme wide angle lens, moving in close, and "framing" the windmill through itself, I could get the effect I wanted. A small aperture made sure everything was sharp and in focus from front to back.

All-WHAC honorees

For the second-straight year, Madonna University's Kathy Panganis has been named the all-Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference player of the year in basketball and coach Marylou Jansen was selected the conference's coach of the year.

Panganis, a 5-foot-11 forward, led Madonna in scoring, averaging 16.1 points; she also grabbed 5.6 rebounds a game.

Jansen guided the Lady Crusaders to a 20-8 regular-season record and a second-straight first-place finish in the WHAC with an 11-3 mark. Thursday's win over Concordia in the opening round of the conference tournament was the 100th of her career at Madonna (against 78 losses).

Also named to the all-WHAC first team was 5-6 senior point guard Carissa Gizicki, who averaged 8.5 points, 4.4 rebounds and an NAIA-best 6.6 assists per game. Lindsay Simmon, a 5-11 junior forward, was named to the all-conference third team after averaging 12.5 points and 7.0 rebounds, making 60 percent of her floor shots.

Mahogany Fletcher, a 5-7 guard (from Farmington Harrison) who shared the team's captaincy with Panganis and Gizicki, was selected to the all-WHAC defensive team. Fletcher averages 9.1 points and 2.7 steals a game.

For Madonna's men's team, only 6-5 freshman forward/guard Noel Emenhiser was honored. Emenhiser was named to the all-WHAC third team and the all-newcomer team after averaging 15.2 points a game. In conference games, his 17.4 points-per-game average was third in the WHAC.

Madonna's men's team finished its season at 6-26.

There were some all-academic performers for both teams as well. For the women's team, honorees were junior Nikki Blaszak (3.78 grade-point average with a criminal justice major), junior Lindsay Simmon (3.69 GPA with an elementary education major) and junior Loriann Tschirhart (3.35 GPA in business administration).

For the men's team, Madonna's Aaron Cox, a junior, was selected (3.84 GPA in social studies/history). Andy Power, a senior guard at Siena Heights (from Plymouth Salem), was also named to the team (3.62 GPA in criminal justice).

Players of the Week

■ Kathy Panganis, a senior forward at Madonna University from Allen Park, averaged 20.5 points and 10.5 rebounds in two games, figures that earned her Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference player of the week honors.

■ Ra'Sheida Edwards, a junior forward at Adrian College and a Schoolcraft College graduate, was named Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association player of the week. Edwards scored 40 points, grabbed 25 rebounds and had eight steals in a pair of Bulldog victories.

Salem advances to final

BY RICHARD L. SHOOK
SPECIAL WRITER

Stick around, there could be more.

Plymouth Salem defeated Livonia Stevenson, 49-47, Friday night in the semifinals of the Western Lakes Activities Association playoffs to avenge an earlier defeat on the Rocks' home court.

They could meet again, as both have been placed in the same district of the state high school basketball tournament at Stevenson in two weeks. The draw for that will be Monday.

By winning Friday, Salem (13-6) will meet Westland John Glenn (13-6) for the WLAA Tournament title at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Northville HS.

Meanwhile, Stevenson (12-7) plays Farmington Hills Harrison (10-9) in the consolation game at 5:30 p.m.

"It was a good game," Salem coach Bob Brodie said. "We were fortunate to win. Our kids kept coming back and our seniors just didn't want to lose their last game at home."

The Rocks held a 26-21 halftime lead but the Spartans posted a 15-6 third quarter and led, 44-42, with 3:01 left.

The score was tied, 46-46, after Dave Hoskins turned a pass from Andy Boyer into a layup with 1:21 to play.

Stevland Davis caused a turnover some 45 seconds later but Matt McCowan stripped him of the ball as he was about to go up for a layup with 37 seconds to play.

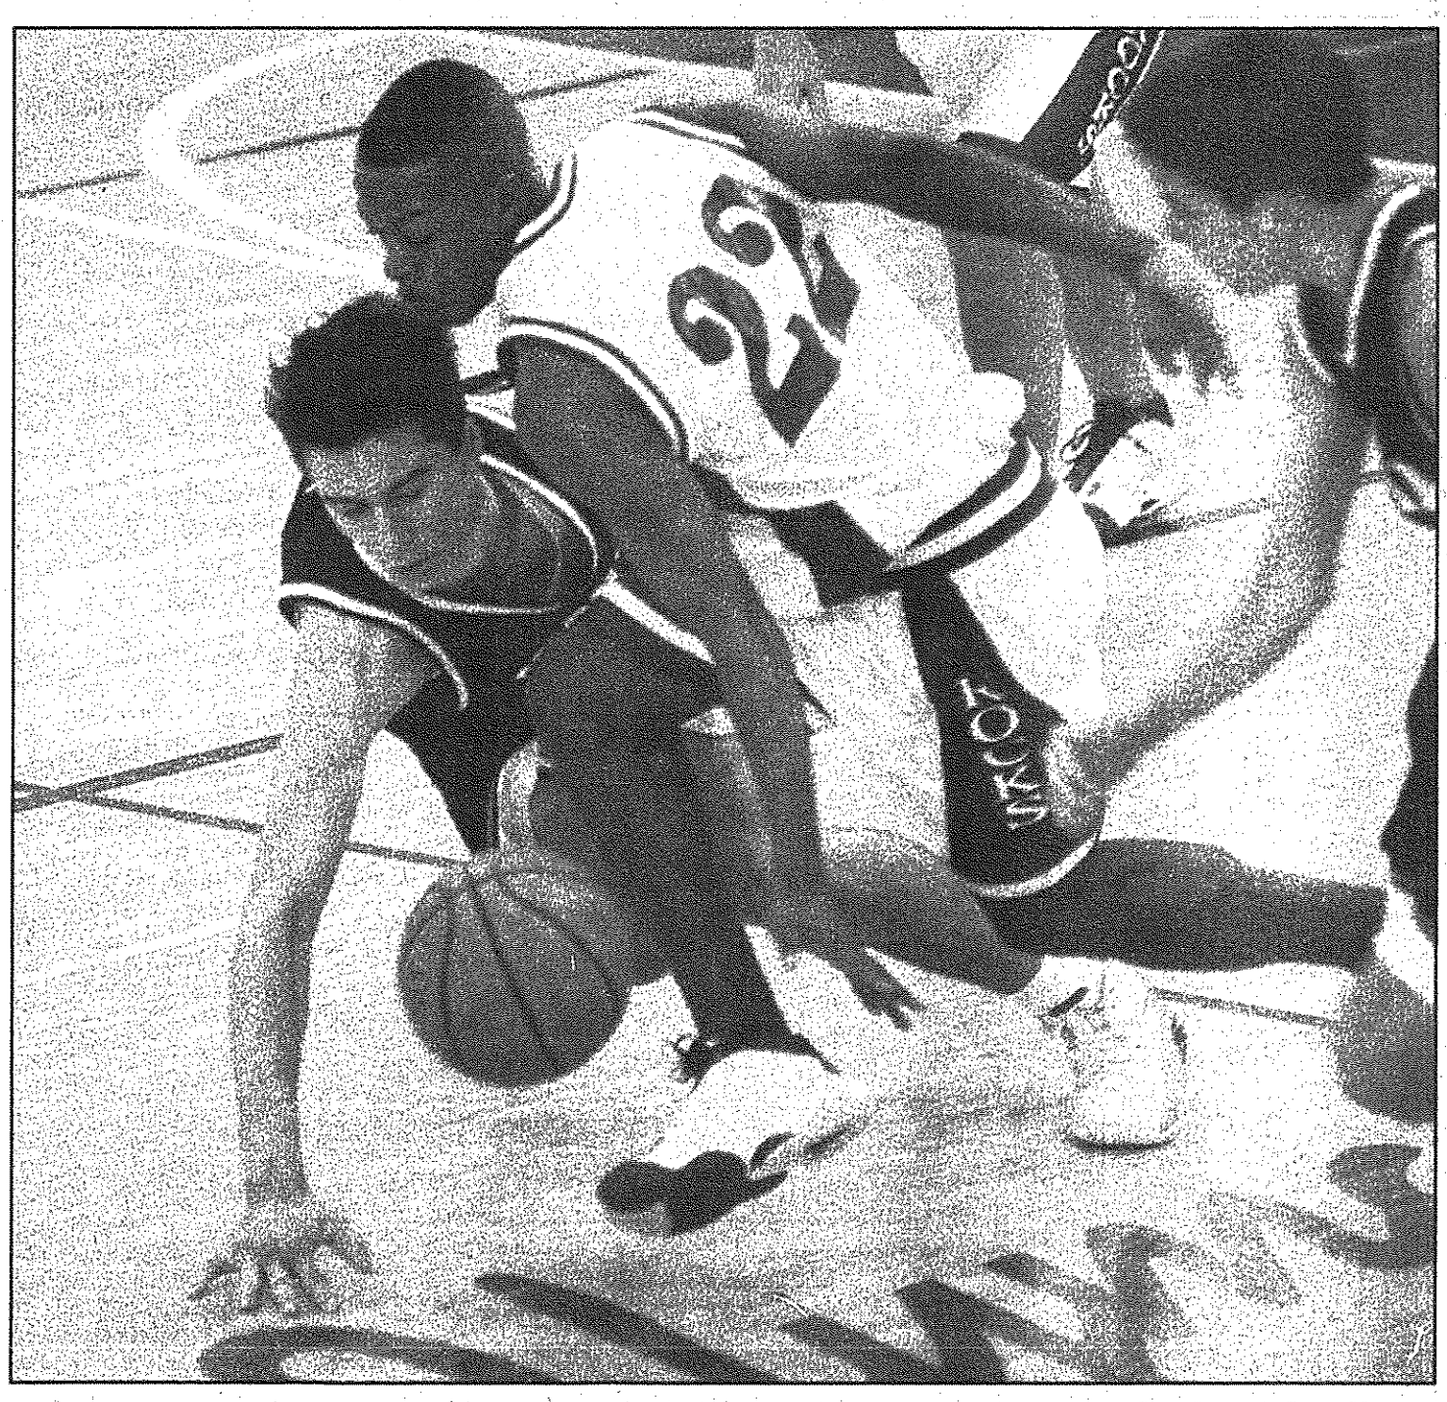

Salem inbounded the ball but missed a shot, with Brady Pastalaniec garnering the rebound and putting it back up for a layup that made it 48-46 with 29 seconds to play.

Stevenson missed a triple try with Pat Abraham getting the rebound. He was fouled at the other end and made a free throw with four seconds to play to make it 49-46.

The Spartans rushed the ball up the floor and were fouled attempting a game-tying three-point shot as time expired.

"We wanted to foul," Brodie said,

■ Plymouth Salem was fourth in the nine-team meet at the Farmington Training Center with a 141.65.

Tri-Farmington had its best league meet in its six years as a unified gymnastics team Thursday, finishing second in the Western Lakes Activities Association championships.

Led by senior Chelsea Keesling, Tri-Farmington had its third-highest score of the season, a 145.40 that was second only to Northville-Novi's 146.80.

Plymouth Salem was fourth in the nine-team meet at the Farmington Training Center with a 141.65. Livonia Unified, which had the Division II all-around winner in junior Mary Moreau, was sixth (138.30), Plymouth Canton seventh (135.25)and Wayne-Westland ninth (123.30).

"The team that has the most perfect meet is going to win it," Tri-Farmington coach Jeff Dwyer said. "Northville-Novi was solid in all four events.

"Our balance beam hurt us. Usually, it's one of our stronger events, and today it was just average."

Tri-Farmington still had the second-best beam score with a 36.15, but it was considerably less than Northville-Novi's 37.35.

"We beat three good teams — Hartland, Salem and Brighton," Dwyer said of the final standings. "Those teams are scoring in the low 140s, too. We took second place and a trophy and, hopefully, we'll keep the momentum going in the regional."

Tri-Farmington will attempt to qualify for the state meet by finishing among the top three teams March 2 in the regional at Hartland. The state finals will be March 8-9 at Rockford High School.

Livonia's Moreau had a 35.55 total to finish ahead of three Salem girls — Ashley Aquinto (35.10), Melissa Drake (35.05) and April Aquinto (34.55) — and win the Division II all-around competition.

"I never really expected it, so I was pretty excited when they called my name," Moreau said, adding it was definitely a career highlight.

"It's the first time I've taken first in anything. I placed ninth in the state last year, but this is a little better, taking first in the all-around."

Moreau's score wasn't her all-time best, however. That remains a 36.25.

In the process of winning the all-around, she was first on vault (9.2) and second on bars (8.75); she tied for fourth place on beam and seventh on floor with a pair of 8.8 scores.

"Vault is always my best; that's what I specialize in," Moreau said. "Bars was one of my best scores, and I had one of my better floor routines. I hope to do my best at the regional."

Agape holds on to defeat PCA

■ BASKETBALL

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

The chance was there for Plymouth Christian Academy. But Canton Agape Christian stole it.

Twice.

In a game in which the gap separating the two city rivals never reached double figures, the Wolverines made just enough big plays down the stretch to upend PCA 64-59 in a non-league basketball game Friday at PCA.

Agape improved to 14-4. The Eagles fell under .500 for the first time this season at 8-9.

"This was a game that we hoped to be in a position in the fourth quarter to make plays and win," said Agape coach Chuck Henry. "And we did. Close games usually go that way."

The game's outcome started to sway in the Wolverines' favor with Paul Chrenko's basket with 5:41 left to play, a basket that gave Agape a 53-51 lead. After two missed free throws by PCA's Ben Baloga, Charlie Henry drained a three-pointer and the Wolverines led by five.

The Eagles continued to battle, but never again drew even. Agape's lead was seven with just over a minute to play when Baloga knocked down a triple; after the Wolverines' Jordan Napier made 1-of-2 free throws, Baloga repeated the act, hitting another three to make it 61-59 with 39.6 seconds left.

Josh Anthony matched Napier, converting 1-of-2 at the line to give Agape a three-point lead — which left the door open for PCA. But the Wolverine defense was up to the challenge.

The Eagles' plan, according to coach Doug Taylor, was to try and work the ball back to Baloga for a game-tying shot, but it never worked. On their next pos-

Crusaders' season ends

MEN'S HOOP

Well, everyone scored for Madonna University. And all but two players scored for Siena Heights.

Thing is, there were 12 Saints who scored. Madonna only had eight players left on its roster. And yet, while quantity was part of the reason the Crusaders' men's basketball team saw its season end with a 104-75 loss at Siena Heights Wednesday in the opening round of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference Tournament, it wasn't the only one.

Experience and depth of talent were factors as well. Siena Heights, ranked No. 2 in the NAIA, took a 50-31 lead by halftime thanks to a 40-22 advantage in shots taken.

Another element in Madonna's demise: three-point shooting. The Crusaders converted 7-of-21 from beyond the arc (33.3 percent); the Saints made 19-of-43 (44.2 percent).

Siena Heights improved its record to 28-4 while advancing to the WHAC semifinals, played Saturday. Madonna ends its season with a 6-26 mark.

Five Saints reached double figures in scoring, led by Nate Bradford with 18 points. Sean Carlson had 14, Steve Biggs scored 13, Myron Gray had 12 (and five assists) and Jason Miller finished with 11. Andy Power (from Plymouth Salem HS) totaled nine points (3-of-4 on three-pointers), three assists and two steals.

Madonna got 20 points from John Bennett (from Livonia Churchill), 14 from Joe Kofahl, 11 from Jimmy Woodworth and 10 points and four assists from Tony Jancevski (Plymouth Salem).

Madonna wins tourney opener

WOMEN'S HOOP

BY C.J. RISAK
SPORTS EDITOR
cjrisak@oe.homecomm.net

Couldn't allow this one to get away.

The T-shirts had been printed, cookies had been baked, everything was planned. Now all Madonna University's women's basketball team had to do was make sure they came through with a win when they hosted Concordia College in Thursday's opening round of the Wolverine-Hoosier Athletic Conference Tournament.

The Lady Crusaders did all they that was required, without wasting time. They went from a 14-10 lead with 12:07 left in the first half to a 34-11 advantage seven minutes later, never allowing the Cardinals any closer than 20 points after that in posting an 82-47 victory.

The win was the 100th in coach Marylou Jansen's six-year career at Madonna, which is exactly what the T-shirts and cookies proclaimed. The presentation following the game, made by senior point guard/co-captain Carissa Gizicki, caught Jansen by surprise.

"I had no idea," the Crusaders' coach said. "I guess they were plotting this for awhile. I was wondering what they were going to do if we had lost this game."

That was never an issue after the first 10 minutes. No. 1-seeded Madonna, which improved to 21-8 (the most wins in a season in school history), was simply far superior offensively and defensively than the No. 8-seeded Cards, who finish at 6-21.

"The last time we played them at their place, we beat them by just nine," said Jansen. "This time we were really focused."

The driving force behind the Crusaders' first-half point spree was senior guard and co-captain Mahogany Fletcher (from Farmington Harrison). She started the scoring run by nailing a three-pointer, then made a steal and scored a layup 19 seconds later to boost Madonna's lead to 19-10. Fletcher added another basket and a free throw in the 20-1 romp, eventually finishing the half with 13 points (on 5-for-5 shooting), three rebounds and three steals.

It wasn't just an offensive show, however — although that was pretty good. The Crusaders did make 20-of-32 from the floor in the first half (62.5 percent). But just as telling was their defensive effort.

Playing mostly a zone, Madonna managed to limit the Cards throughout the first half, allowing a mere 21 shots and seven baskets. Equally important, Concordia's all-conference guard, Sandy Reynaert, was just 1-of-9 in the first half.

"To hold her to nine shots is phenomenal," said Jansen. "We knew we had to get out on some of their shooters.

"As a coach, I couldn't ask for anything more."

Reynaert was neutralized throughout the game, converting 4-of-24 shots and scoring 16 points. Carey Musko added 15.

In comparison, everyone on Madonna's roster scored — and in the first half. Fletcher finished with 16 points, Lindsay Simmon had 10 and Kathy Panganis — the WHAC's player of the year — scored nine while having to play only half the game. Courtney Rehbine also had nine, and Nikki Blaszak netted eight. Limiting the number of minutes for her players in the first two rounds of the tournament was a concern for Jansen, and in this game it was accomplished. No one played more than Gizicki's 22:40.

Madonna met Spring Arbor Saturday in the WHAC semifinals. The winner of that game advances to the WHAC final against the Cornerstone/Tri-State winner, scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at the highest remaining seed.

Ocelots relish a perfect season

COLLEGE HOOP

BY BRAD EMONS
SPORTS WRITER
bemons@oe.homecomm.net

The Schoolcraft College men's basketball team completed a regular season of perfection Wednesday night.

And the Ocelots hope to duplicate the same feat in the postseason following an 89-53 triumph at home over Wayne County.

Schoolcraft, ranked No. 1 in Division I of the National Junior College Athletic Association, ran its season record to 26-0 and claimed its third straight Eastern Conference title behind a balanced scoring attack.

Mike Williams, a 6-foot-7 forward from Detroit City, scored a team-high 17 points, while guard Javon Clark added 16 on five 3-pointers.

Others in double figures included Westland John Glenn's Yaku Moton-Spruill with 15. Ronald Dorsey came off the bench to score 13. Delvar Barrett contributed nine, all in the second half.

Schoolcraft led 38-18 at halftime despite making only nine of 23 free throws.

"Some of our guys have never played for a title before and I think they were a little nervous," said Schoolcraft coach Carlos Briggs, a former SC All-America guard who has guided the Ocelots to a 133-23 record in five seasons. "But we rebounded the ball fairly well, defended and played unselfish basketball.

"And in the second half we made some foul shots (11 of 15)."

Wayne County, 13-9 overall and 8-5 in the conference, was led by Jason Williams' 15 points. Aaron Perry added 10.

Schoolcraft, meanwhile, completed a 13-0 conference slate and heads into next week's Michigan Community College Athletic Association playoffs as the favorite.

"This means a lot because I've never won a conference championship," said Schoolcraft floor general Rulon Harris, a transfer from second place Flint Mott. "Going undefeated crosses your mind, but we just had to take one game at a time. And once the games accumulated we felt nobody could beat us. We could only stop ourselves."

The road, however, gets much tougher now.

Looming are Mott, ranked No. 1 in Division II, and Western Conference champion Lansing CC in the state tourney.

"We just have to do what we've been doing, which is doing our schoolwork, working hard in practice and listening to our coach," said Harris, a Detroit Mumford High grad who has signed with the University of Detroit Mercy.

Schoolcraft has a first-round bye in the state playoffs and will host Monday's winner, either Macomb or St. Clair, 7 p.m. next Wednesday.

But for now, the Ocelots, who cut down the nets afterwards, could savor the moment.

"This championship was really not expected," Briggs said, who guided the Ocelots the NJCAA Nationals last year in Hutchinson, Kan.

Gill's goal spree boosts Salem

HOCKEY

What a way to finish a truly memorable regular season.

Dave Gill did just that for Plymouth Salem's hockey team, scoring five goals in the Rocks' 11-2 victory over Walled Lake Western Friday at the Plymouth Cultural Center.

Salem finishes its regular season with a 19-1-3 record.

Kevin Wilson also had a superb game, scoring three goals and assisting on another. Mark Nagel added a goal and three assists, Mike Crowley had a goal and an assist, and Dan Valentine scored a goal.

John Schultz had the most points on the night, collecting seven assists. Steve Jacobs had three assists, Andy Thackaberry had three assists, and Brad Proodian totaled two assists.

Scott Stukel was in goal for Salem, which led 6-1 after one period and 10-1 after two.

Salem 4, Country Day 3: Two goals and an assist by Kevin Wilson were enough to propel Plymouth Salem to a non-league victory over Detroit Country Day Thursday at City Arena in Oak Park.

John Schultz and Dave Gill also had goals, with Gill's third-period goal supplying the Rocks with the margin of victory. Brad Proodian contributed two assists.

Steve Welsh faced 19 shots on goal for Salem.

CC 0, G.P. North 0: The league title was on the line between the No. 1 ranked Division 1 team and No. 1 ranked Division 2 team. Redford Catholic Central and rival Grosse Pointe North went scoreless against each other in their second to last game before state playoffs begin Monday.

"We played hard but we didn't make the scoring chances we had," said Shamrocks hockey co-coach Todd Johnson. "In a game like that, even the little plays become crucial."

Johnson said goalie Jim Blanchard stopped all 18 shots-on-goal as did North goalie Dan Vasquez, who made 24 saves.

Rocks' run ends in regional

WRESTLING

Plymouth Salem's wrestlers got to the state team regional tournament but could advance no further, losing in its regional semifinal 42-20 to Howell Thursday at Novi HS.

"With what we had, I was happy with everything," said Salem coach Greg Woochuk, adding that he was hopeful all seven Rocks who qualified for the state individual regional would advance (the tournament was Saturday).

The Rocks, competing without three key wrestlers, could not match up with Howell. Their match winners were Mike Goethe by decision at 125 pounds; Nathan Dillard by pin at 135; Tony Kennard by major decision at 145; Adam Schaefer by major decision at 152; and Pete Bobee by pin at 119.

Out of the lineup with injuries were Mike Dendrinos at 112 (finger) and Phil Portellos at 171 (knee). Also missing was Quentin Arndt at 189, who left the team.

"Throw our three kids in and we might have won," said Woochuk. "But then we would have hit Hartland."

Hartland defeated Howell 40-27 to advance to the state quarterfinals against Davison.

For Salem and Canton, which had five qualifiers, those who survive the regionals advance to the state finals March 7-9 at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

DePorres knocks out CC

BASKETBALL

Redford Catholic Central's playoff hopes were left gasping for air in Thursday's Central-AA Division semifinal at Schoolcraft Community College.

The Shamrocks succumbed to a collective weary legs and shortness of breath following a 69-53 loss to speedy Detroit St. Martin DePorres.

DePorres, led by junior guard Brandon Cotton's 28 points, improved to 17-1 overall. And in the process, the Eagles garnered a spot in the Catholic League championship game, 4 p.m. Sunday at the University of Detroit Mercy's Calihan Hall where they'll square off against defending champion Warren DeLaSalle (15-3).

CC, which last won a Catholic League title in 1997, falls to 12-5.

The Shamrocks' Tom Jakacki scored the game's first basket, but DePorres quickly seized the lead and control of the game, jumping out to a 17-12 first-quarter advantage and a 33-21 halftime advantage.

CC got as close as 10 with 5:03 to play, 54-44, on a basket by Ryan Clark. But the Shamrocks could not dent the margin below double digits.

"I don't know if it's part emotion, but I figured would could fight through it," CC coach Rick Coratti said of the fatigue factor. "When we cut it to 10, we got a steal, but then we punted it away early in the fourth quarter."

DePorres was simply too quick and too skilled in the backcourt, forcing the Shamrocks to play a cat-and-mouse game.

"Their game plan is our strength," DePorres coach Durand Shepherd said. "And I think our legs prevailed because we feel we can run with anybody. CC does it (fast-break) from start to finish. We like to run too, but not for the entire game. We try to pick our spots.

"We played great and we were prepared properly for this game as far as stopping their fast-break. We did a great job sprinting back in defensive transition and locating their three-point shooters."

DePorres shot 51.7 percent from the field (29 of 56) and committed just 11 turnovers.

Starting point-guard Billy Swain added 10 points, while backup guard Gordon Ziegler also tallied 10. The third starter at guard, Radayl Richardson, scored eight to give the 6-foot Cotton more than ample support.

"We call those three guys 'The Three Amigos,'" Shepherd said. "You just can't check one, you have to check all three because they're all good at the game.

"We played unselfishly, we had the court spread and made that extra pass."

Senior center Ryan Clark had eight of his team-high 14 points in the final quarter for CC, which shot 40.3 percent from the floor (25 of 62) while being limited to a pair of three-pointers.

Jakacki added 13, while Ryan Wrobleski added 10.

"It's kind of disappointing," Coratti said. "We looked like deer in headlights a couple of times.

"I told them at halftime to try and not let them score in the paint, but they got a lot of transition points. Every point (in the second half) was in the key or on putbacks."

session, Dan Carty slipped in the corner and had the ball stolen from him by Anthony with :24 left.

A foul sent Charlie Henry to the line, where he made 1-of-2 with :20.7. PCA again wanted to work the ball to Baloga for a triple-try, but instead Clay Welton tried to force a three from the corner. Agape's Paul Chrenko blocked it and grabbed the ball before Drew Gallagher fouled him with :11.7 left. Chrenko made 1-of-2 to secure the win.

"Both times we set a double screen to get the ball back to (Baloga)," said Taylor. "We missed some shots we should have made. They shot the lights out and we didn't."

The difference, both coaches agreed, came from beyond the arc. Agape made 10 triples; PCA had three.

The Wolverines were led by Napier with 21 points. Charlie Henry had 14, Alex Tarnowski scored 10 and Anthony netted nine. The Eagles got 16 points from Baloga, 14 from Welton, 10 from Xander Younce and eight from Ben Pew.

The Eagles' inside game kept them in front in the first half. They led 14-10 after one quarter and pushed their advantage to 19-10 in the early stages of the second quarter before Agape scored eight-straight points to pull to within one. PCA held on for a 23-21 halftime lead.

The Wolverines started the second half with more focus — "I wanted them to get some fire in their belly, to play with more emotion," said Chuck Henry — scoring the first eight points. "That was huge for our confidence," the Agape coach said.

But, as the game's closing minute indicated, neither team was able to build an insurmountable lead. It just came down to Agape's defense over PCA's offense.

North Farmington 46, Canton 43: Plymouth Canton had the lead for a large part of Friday's game at North Farmington, except for when it counted most — at the end.

"We led throughout the game," said Canton coach Jeremy Rheault. "We had some costly turnovers and didn't make some key baskets we needed to make down the stretch."

Both teams are 10-9 overall.

The Chiefs led 14-8 after one quarter and 22-20 at the half. They increased their advantage slightly after three periods, to 36-33. Jason Priebe led Canton with 13 points.

adding he wanted it before a shot was attempted. "The worst we could do was go into overtime."

The first shot didn't go down, assuring Salem of the victory, and the final one was made to make it 49-47.

The defeat was crushing for Stevenson, which edged Salem, 51-45, on Feb. 8 on the Rocks' floor.

"I'm sad because I wish the guys could have gotten to the championship game," Stevenson coach Bill Dyer said. "The people should know how hard they worked the last two years, making this program better. Our seniors have really worked hard."

Stevenson, which made half its 10 free throws, put three players in double figures. Guard Matt Bartnick scored 14, center Nick Ehlendt scored 11 and forward Chris Severson had 10.

The Spartans held the Rocks to 31 points in the final three quarters. But it's a measure of how far the program has come in two years that the players were devastated by the loss; coming close isn't good enough any more.

"We played good defense," Dyer said. "I was surprised we didn't make it happen. All our guys thought we were going to win that game.

"It's tough to come this far, to be in control, to have the score tied up, with the ball, and see all that happen."

The Spartans did an excellent job of harnessing the Rocks' excellent forward, Dave Hoskins.

He scored 16 points "but he earned every one," Brodie said. "They were hanging all over him. Our guards did a tremendous job defensively. We got a lot of key steals on the perimeter."

Hoskins also blocked an estimated half-dozen shots in a fine all-around game for the Rocks, who made 6-of-10 free throws.

Abraham scored 15 points and Pastalaniec had nine.

Severson and Lindon Ivezaj did a good job of denying Hoskins the ball, occasionally with weakside help.

"We tried telling our guys to do all their work before he gets the ball," Dyer said.

Salem roared out to an 18-12 lead after trailing, 10-7, with 3:46 left in the first quarter. But the Rocks were held without a point for more than four minutes of the second, which let the Spartans survive their own cold spell.

"We struggled a bit," Brodie said. "Livonia Stevenson is good. They're well-seasoned. They have a good inside game and a good outside game.

New procedure eliminates need for hysterectomy

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
SPECIAL WRITER

Carol Maynard had menstrual bleeding for an entire month and was close to needing a transfusion when she met a doctor who performed a relatively new procedure that eliminated her need for a hysterectomy and dramatically cut her recovery time.

"I think more women would go to the doctor sooner if they thought there was an alternative to a hysterectomy," said Maynard, 52.

After weighing options, Maynard chose to have the thermal balloon procedure that has been used locally for about three years to treat functional menorrhagia.

"If I can do this for a patient and accomplish the required results, most times they can go back to work the next day," said Maynard's physician, Dr. Charles Cash, an obstetrician-gynecologist with Oakwood Healthcare System.

"This makes sense for patients and they need to know about it and decide if they want to pursue it," he added. "They can go on-line or talk to friends. Patients need information and education."

'This solved my problem without altering my body. My uterus is still there and intact and I haven't changed anything. I feel good about that. I guess the thought of a hysterectomy would make me feel old.'

– Carol Maynard patient

There are some 650,000 hysterectomies done in the U.S. annually. About 25 percent of women, or 150,000 patients, who get hysterectomies need it to treat menorrhagia, which is caused by a build-up of the uterine lining that produces excessive blood loss during the menstrual cycle.

Cash defines excessive blood loss as having to use more than eight sanitary pads every day and menstruating for more than seven days.

The recovery time for hysterectomies can range from eight hours to five days in the hospital, with an additional two to six weeks before returning to regular activity.

Maynard went to the hospital at 6 a.m. and returned home at noon. Aside from cramping for a short time after she left the hospital, she didn't experience any pain and could have returned to work the following day.

"I haven't had any bleeding since," the Northville resident said. "I don't have to worry about where I'm going to be when the bleeding starts. I would go days where I could go through an overnight pad every hour. Once it was gone I didn't have to worry about anything."

Non-invasive

The procedure is a non-invasive technique that involves a Federal Drug Administration-approved balloon device that is inserted into the uterus, inflated and filled with heated sugar water. The water is warmed to 188 degrees Fahrenheit and cooks the cells in the uterine lining.

Before the month-long period began, Maynard didn't have a period for nine months and she thought she wouldn't have one again. Then the bleeding began and wouldn't stop. By the time she saw Cash, Maynard was told she had lost half her blood.

Maynard had to stay off her job as a high school teacher at Wyandotte Public Schools for five weeks to rebuild her strength. Cash told her that if she had lost any more blood she would have needed a transfusion.

"A lot of other women I talked to had a lot of bleeding, but it stops," she said.

Cash first gave Maynard hormone pills, but a month later she had her period and was flowing somewhat heavy again. More importantly, she didn't want to take the hormones, because she felt they were artificial and she was worried they might cause cancer.

"When they did the procedure from that day on I had no bleeding," Maynard said. "For me it worked perfectly. Dr. Cash told me there was a chance it might not solve the problem, but I wanted to do it, because I didn't want to stay on the hormones. I don't trust them. I'd rather let nature do it."

Alternative

Maynard said she would have put off having a hysterectomy for at least a year if that was her only choice.

"I wouldn't want to have to go through the surgery and the thought of a hysterectomy," Maynard, 52, said. "This solved my problem without altering my body. My uterus is still there and intact and I haven't changed anything. I feel good about that. I guess the thought of a hysterectomy would make me feel old."

The thermal balloon procedure made sense to her, because it had fewer risks and a quicker recovery time.

"The procedure offers an alternative for women who don't want to undergo treatments such as hysterectomy, which can result in other problems," said Cash, adding that the thermal balloon insertion is considered an easier and less invasive procedure than other techniques.

The thermal balloon procedure is considered successful if the woman has normal or less periods.

"Eighty five percent have much lighter periods and a third of that 85 percent don't have any at all," Cash explained.

The thermal balloon technique isn't used to treat fibroid, adhesions or endometriosis, which is a normal uter-

Drug-coated stents

New fix for coronary artery disease

Michigan Heart and Vascular Institute of Saint Joseph Mercy Health System of Ann Arbor (SJMHS) has been named as one of 70 sites nationwide in a trial to evaluate a new treatment for patients with coronary artery disease.

The trial will evaluate the safety and effectiveness of a stent treated with Paclitaxel, a medication that may prevent the artery from closing back up.

Typically, a patient with coronary artery disease (buildup of plaque in the artery) is treated with angioplasty — a procedure where a balloon is inserted into the artery and a mesh-like tube, or stent, is placed in the artery to relieve the blockage. For 20-26 percent of these patients, the artery closes back up, a condition called restenosis, due to scar tissue that grows through the mesh. Arteries can close back up within a year of angioplasty; for some patients it may occur in six months or even within one month.

The new procedure utilizes drug-coating technology. Patients would receive a stent treated with Paclitaxel, an antiproliferate drug that inhibits or reduces restenosis.

"The initial data looks promising," says Dr. Michael O'Donnell, a cardiologist with SJMHS. "Studies in the United States and Europe have shown very few patients to have restenosis two years following the implementation of the stent."

One difference about this study from other stent trials is that the Paclitaxel-coated stent will be used on patients without prior intervention on narrowed arteries.

"Other advancements such as the recent vascular brachytherapy where the site is treated with a small amount of radiation were limited to patients who previously had stents. This new study will involve patients who have never been treated for coronary artery disease," adds Dr.O'Donnell.

If the coated stent proves successful, it could increase long-term survival rate and reduce the number of open-heart procedures. That, in effect, could reduce costs.

Saint Joseph Mercy Health System began enrolling patients Feb. 4. If you're interested in participating in this study, call (734) 712-2027.

ine lining that is in an abnormal location. Also, women who want to have children shouldn't have the thermal balloon.

"The person would likely be sterile, but this is not a form of sterilization," said Cash, adding that a tubal ligation is often done at the same time as the thermal balloon procedure to ensure sterilization.

In Michigan, the procedure takes place in the hospital while the patient is asleep or under a local anesthetic. In other states, like California, however, the procedure is often done in doctors' offices.

Oakwood

Cash introduced the thermal balloon procedure to Oakwood Hospitals in 1999. Since then approximately 150 patients have received the treatment.

"There were trials worldwide three or four years before that," Cash said.

"A lot of people aren't aware of this alternative to a hysterectomy," said Cash, who is director of education for Oakwood's OB-GYN Residency Program and chairman of its Institutional Review Board.

"What's neat about gynecology is that it's high-tech driven," he added. "Patients need to ask their doctors what's available. The days are gone when a doctor said, 'This is what you need to do,' and walks out of the room. When you have an informed patient it makes for an easier care of that patient and it makes for a rewarding interaction. Many women don't want a hysterectomy."

There are psychological and physiological results from a hysterectomy that must be considered, he added.

For instance, after a woman has a total hysterectomy, with the uterus, ovaries and tubes removed, the woman will go into menopause. Many women experience depression because they've lost an organ.

"The beauty of (the thermal balloon procedure) is that the patient still has her uterus and there are no complications or side effects with respect to damaging bowel, bladder and blood vessels," Cash said. "It's a very clean procedure in that sense. It's much more economical in terms of cost and the price the patient has to pay out of her daily life."

Opting for the new procedure gave Maynard a new outlook.

"It's the best I've felt in my life," she said. "I look younger. I don't have the same worry. I can get up in the morning and I know I'm not going to have any bleeding. After five weeks of bleeding you get depressed and you say, 'When is this going to stop?' "

Aspirin: more effective than other drugs in preventing heart attacks

Giving heart attack patients a combined low dose of the anticoagulant drug warfarin with low-dose aspirin does not prevent second heart attacks or strokes better than aspirin alone, researchers report in today's Circulation: Journal of the American Heart Association.

A study among heart attack patients at 78 Veterans Administration medical centers found the blood-thinning benefits of daily aspirin are not enhanced by concurrent treatment with low doses of the more expensive blood-thinner warfarin (Coumadin), which is given to reduce risk of bleeding, report principal researchers Louis D. Fiore, M.D., and Michael D. Ezekowitz, M.D., Ph.D.

"We had hoped this might double the effectiveness of the drugs, but it didn't," says Fiore. "Lower anticoagulant levels of warfarin simply had no effect on preventing subsequent heart attacks or strokes. It was a bust."

Both drugs slow blood clotting. Blood clots can block vessels that carry blood to the heart, causing a heart attack, or to the brain, causing an ischemic stroke. Aspirin affects the blood platelets. Warfarin inhibits circulating clotting proteins in the blood.

Fiore and colleagues at the Department of Veterans Affairs Cooperative Study Program, in New Haven, Conn., conducted a randomized, open-label study comparing aspirin alone with combined aspirin and warfarin in preventing death, second heart attacks, strokes and major hemorrhage in 5,059 heart attack survivors, average age 62.

Patients were given warfarin (1.5 to 2.5 International Units) and 81 mg of aspirin administered daily, or 162 mg of chewable aspirin alone daily. That latter dosage is in accordance with antithrombotic therapy guidelines. The standard dose of warfarin for treating heart attack patients is 2.5 to 3.5 units.

Patients began therapy within 14 days of suffering a heart attack and were followed for an average of 2.7 years.

Among the combined therapy group, 17.6 percent of patients died, compared with 17.3 percent in the aspirin-only group.

A SECOND OPINION

Obtaining a second opinion regarding the need for a knee replacement operation is commonplace. Both the public and the medical community accept the idea that this operation is possibly risky. Therefore, alternatives to knee surgery need a full hearing, if you, as a patient, are to make the best decision.

The same holds true for the medical care of your arthritis. At present, your doctor can treat the major arthritis conditions such as osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, fibromyalgia, polymyalgia rheumatica, and gout in a number of ways. Your physician determines his course of treatment mainly by the scientific evidence available. However, because evidence in the medical literature often is lacking, personal experience and judgment play a role. For example,in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, methotrexate is considered the best initial drug. In the case it doesn't suffice, what drug should the doctor add? No consensus exists to say enbrel, remicaide, azulfadine, plaquenil, or immuran are best to add, or if any combination of these or other drugs would do better. In osteoarthritis, there is no firm conviction that non-steroid drugs are superior to acetaminophen.

Then there is the mix of your doctor's personality and your own. In arthritis, the relationship may be long and appointments frequent. Certainly, you will fare better with the physician you like and who gives you the time you need to explain your condition and its treatment.

In arthritis, there are different styles of treatment. Between patients and doctors, there will be different relationships. It is not just your right, but your responsibility to find a fit that provides you comfort and understanding.

Unusual colonial built at Edgestone Estates

A unique colonial with both an upstairs master suite and a downstairs bedroom are among floor plans available to buyers at Edgestone Estates North in Sterling Heights.

Twenty-one platted houses will complete the 72-home community off Dequindre north of Long lake Road (18 Mile) just east of the Troy city limit.

"We give a lot of quality features," said Joseph M. Saylor, vice president with Saylor Building. "Value per square foot attracts people and as they investigate further what's included — Pella windows and hardwood floor in the foyer — that helps close the deal.

"We have a sterling reputation," Saylor continued. "Dad (Jack) has built more than 600 homes in Sterling Heights."

"These houses pretty much sell themselves," said Elizabeth M. Phipps, sales agent. "They (prospects) are impressed with the cabinets and spaciousness of the kitchen. They like that the foyer extends all the way to the top of the house.

"They love the bay windows (an upgrade) and like the master suite," Phipps said.

"We're close to M-59 and I-75," Saylor said. "We're close to shopping ... Beaumont Hospital."

"Sterling Heights is a very popular, economical place to live," Phipps added. "The Utica school system is a draw."

Six plans, three traditional colonials, the colonial hybrid and a couple of story-and-a-halfs, are offered at Edgestone Estates North.

Prices range from $259,900 for a traditional colonial of 2,280 square feet with four bedrooms and 2½ baths to $309,900 for a story-and-a-half of 2,950 square feet with four bedrooms and 3½ baths.

All plans include at base price a two-car, attached garage; fireplace; first-floor laundry; dishwasher; carpeting; and basement.

A separate tub and shower in the master is included at standard price in five of the six plans.

The model, a traditional colonial of nearly 2,770 square feet, features a two-story foyer, living room, dining room, a kitchen/nook with island and built-in desk (standard) and a step-down family room.

All four bedrooms, including the master, are up. Two of the three secondary bedrooms have walk-in closets. A full bath with combination tub and shower also is on the second level.

The new generation of this plan (1240) has the same square footage but extends the family room and relocates the fireplace, slightly alters the traffic pattern of the upstairs master and eliminates walk-in closets in the secondary bedrooms.

Base price is $289,900.

Brick and wood siding are primary exterior materials on all houses in the community.

Edgestone Estates North is serviced by city water, sewers and sidewalks.

The property tax rate is $28.67 per $1,000 of state taxable value, half of sales price for new construction. That means that the owners of a $290,000 home there would pay about $4,200 the first year.

For now, buyers pay an association fee deposit of $150 when moving in, with the subsequent fee, if any, to be determined by a majority of residents.

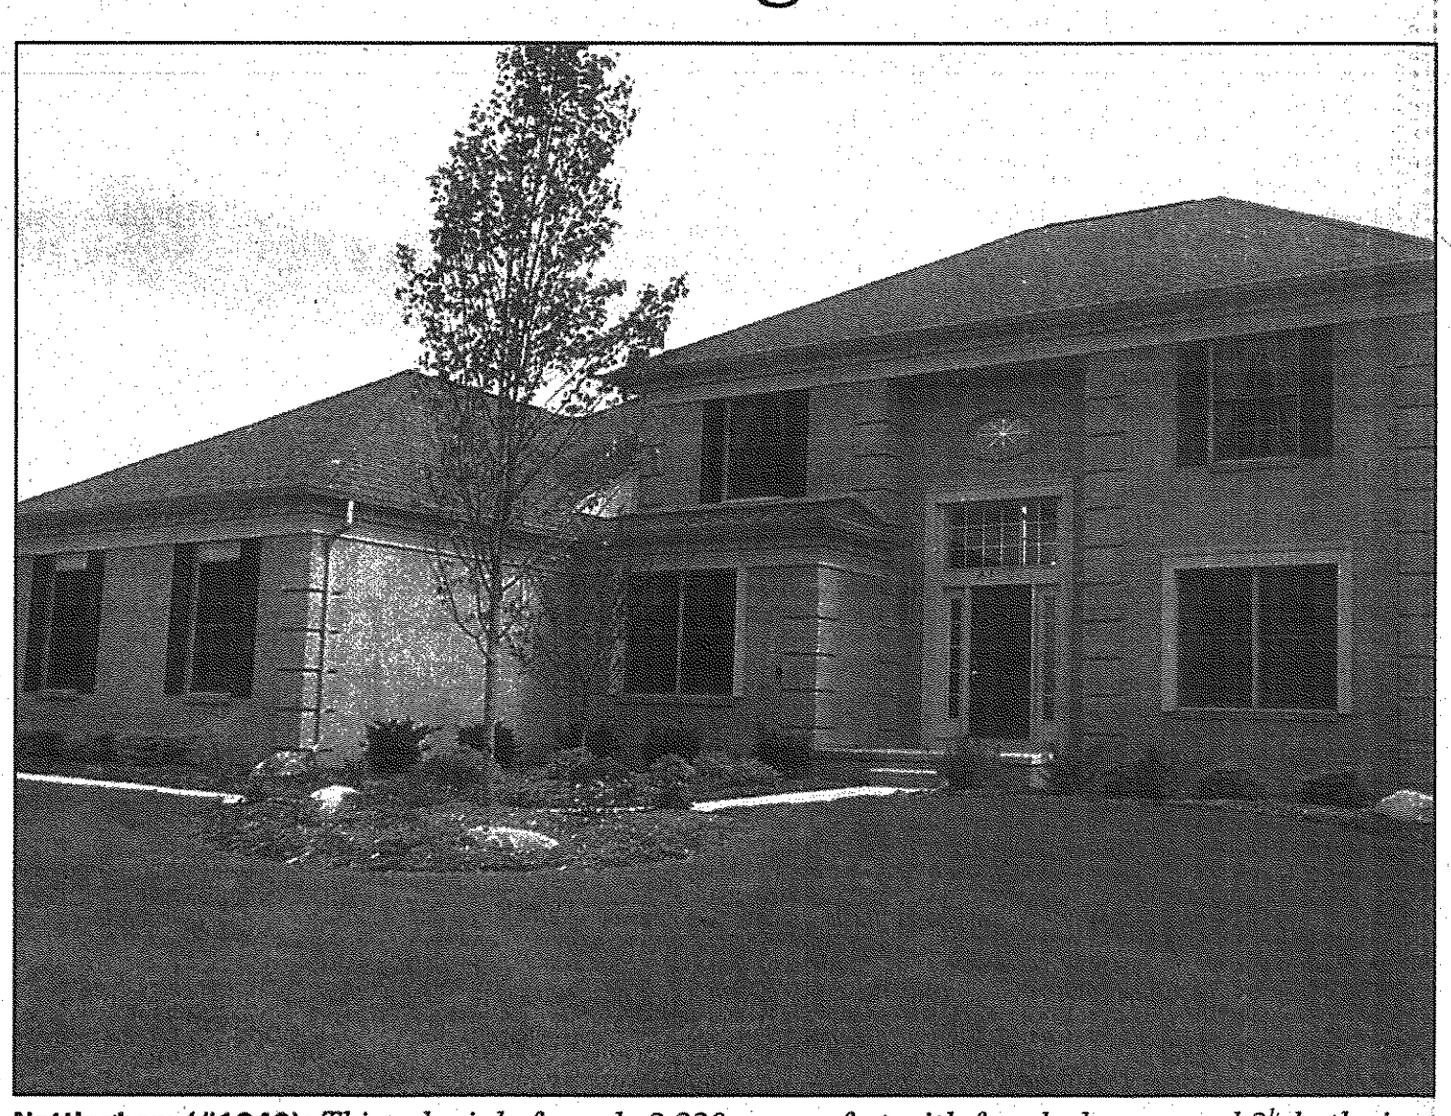

Mike and Mary Bargowski, along with daughter, Kelly, live in a colonial.

"Pretty much the major thing for us is we liked the way the model home looked and Saylor Building had a good reputation when we checked them out," Mike said. "A lot of contractors had been with them 10 up to 20 years."

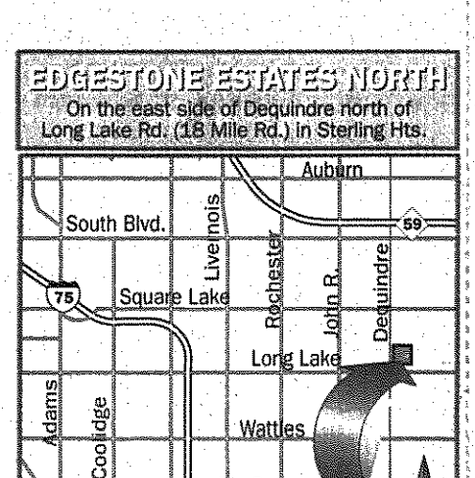

A main living/entertaining area that flowed well and a home office, both provided by the floor plan, were especially attractive, Bargowski said.

"Any little problem we had, Joe was pretty much available," he added. "Everything, he made good on. Fairly quickly, too."

The sales office/model at Edgestone Estates North, (586) 726-0466, is open noon to 6 p.m. daily, closed Wednesdays and Thursdays. Saylor's e-mail address is sales@saylorbuildingcompany. com

Nottingham (#1240): This colonial of nearly 2,220 square feet with four bedrooms and 2½ baths is one of six homes available at Edgestone Estates North.

New drywall offers installation benefits

(NAPSA) – Drywall is such an indispensable building material that it's often taken for granted.

It's versatile, inexpensive and, with a little practice, can be easily installed by do-it-yourselfers. It especially comes in handy when finishing the basement of that new home.

But perhaps the most remarkable feature about drywall is how it has remained almost unchanged since it first became a popular building material in the 1950s. For decades, one brand of drywall was essentially the same as another.

However, that's no longer the case. The company that invented drywall has introduced the next generation of the material, a stronger, easier-to-install panel that delivers better-looking finished results.

These new panels can be scored with a knife and snapped into pieces more easily during the cutting process, producing edges that need less sanding and creating a neater look around doors, windows and electrical outlets.

The neater edges also form tighter seams that require less filling with joint compound for a smoother surface.

In addition, the board is stronger and more rigid, making it easier to carry and install. Homeowners and contractors alike will find that these new panels go up quicker with less labor and fewer broken, wasted pieces.

The board's rigid core means panels stay flat and store easily, so weekend construction warriors can leave them for extended periods of time without worrying about warping.

Whatever finish the homeowner chooses — paint, wallpaper or decorative plaster — will look good.

The face paper of the new Sheetrock Brand Gypsum Panels, from USG Corporation, bonds strongly to the gypsum inside, which results in fewer blisters and easier finishing.

For more information about Next Generation Sheetrock Brand Gypsum Panels or to receive a free booklet on installing and finishing drywall, call (800) USG-4YOU, or visit the company's Web site at www.usg.com

Vaulted great room at center of ranch plan

The Nicholls (409-32) is a wide, sprawling home that has many unique characteristics.

The covered porch has two pillars that give the look of a colonial home.

The garage is large, having three bays. Because this home normally would sit on acreage, one bay has a straight drive-through opening into the back yard. This is ideal for driving large lawn mowers through or a tractor, if needed, as well as being able to put a car in the back of the home.

The den and master suite are on the right side of the entry of the 1,981-square-foot Nicholls.

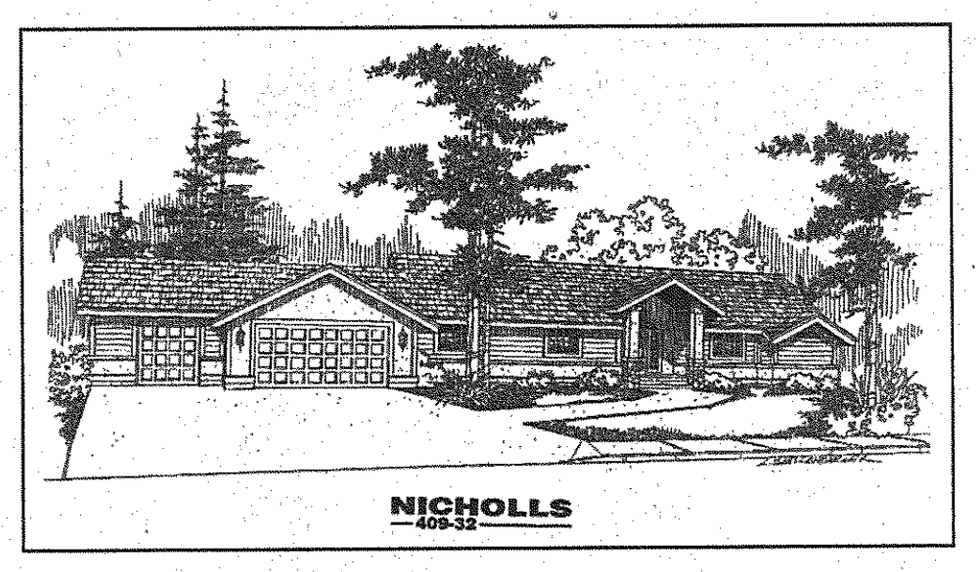

The den could be used as an office, library, nursery or simply as a getaway for mom and dad at the end of the day.

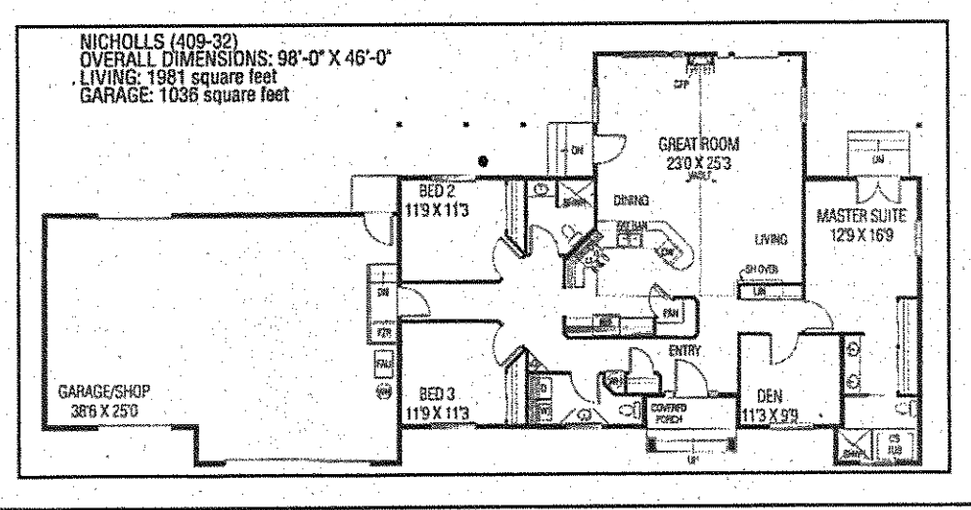

The master suite has French doors that open into the back yard and a long main suite area. The master bath has a tub and shower, separated by a pocket door from the sinks and closet.

A huge great room with a sloping vault is the main attraction of this home. A gas fireplace is on the back wall with large windows surrounding it. A door opens into the back yard on the left side.

An area marked living room is in the right front corner and the dining room is adjacent to the wide kitchen.

A large walk-in pantry is across from the entry, next to a row of cabinets in this C-shaped kitchen. An eating bar faces the great room. A built-in dishwasher is on the end of the cabinets. The kitchen is open and would allow the cook to join in family gatherings.

To the left of the entry is the utility room, elongated to include a half bath. Bedroom 3 is next door with a large window facing the front yard and long wall closet.

Between bedrooms 2 and 3 is the door leading to the large garage. This is convenient for unloading groceries and for entering the home when it is wet and rainy outside.

Bedroom 2 is a mirror of bedroom 3 and adjacent to a full bath with a shower.

The Nicholls would be beautiful in a wooded setting on a large piece of land. It would be an ideal home for a family with teenagers or for the empty nesters that need rooms for the family when they visit.

Cabins allow escape from life as usual

FOR AP SPECIAL EDITION

Whether nestled by the mountains, woods or water, a cabin is both a cozy form of shelter and a rustic approach to architecture. And it's all the more snug when jam-packed into not much more than a few hundred square feet.

Architect Dale Mulfinger and writer Susan E. Davis, authors of The Cabin (Taunton Press, $34.95 hardcover) — which nearly begs the question why anyone would want to live anywhere else — say that everyone has a cabin memory.

Maybe it's a childhood summer camp cabin, with memories of bunkmates and toasted marshmallows. Maybe it's a secluded honeymoon cabin. Or maybe it's the humble getaway to which the family retreated when the kids were young.

Whatever its purpose, a cabin is typically constructed from basic materials. But a cabin is more than the traditional log structure of Abraham Lincoln lore.

The authors found that a cabin can be converted from a picture-postcard Vermont country school or even an abandoned garage, or rigged from a do-it-yourself cabin kit. Several cabins pictured in their coffee table book were built by the owners, themselves.

What gives a cabin its cabin-ness?

The authors say a cabin offers simple shelter; its location is selected for its connection with nature; overlapping activities occur within the compact space; and everyone feels right at home.

Typically a crackling fireplace or wood stove enhances the welcoming environment. Poised to live in harmony with nearby nature, some cabins include a prominent porch, inviting activities to expand into the outdoors.

"Back to nature. Solitude. Simplicity. Escape. Intimacy. Self-sufficiency. Romance. Refuge. Resourcefulness. Nostalgia.

"These are the feelings that cabins evoke, and they're at the root of my passion for this elemental building form," writes Mulfinger in the introduction.

He's based in the Midwest where he started researching cabins with his students at the University of Minnesota and subsequently became known as a "cabinologist."

"I've had an intimate connection with cabins my entire life," says his co-author Davis, based in New York. "When I was four in 1947, my parents put my brother and me in the back of a little Chevy coupe and we drove to Cape Cod from Rochester, N.Y. I spent my entire childhood all the way through college staying in cabins in Cape Cod."

After her brother moved to Minnesota, lakeside cabins there enticed her.

"A cabin is among the most basic forms of shelter," Davis says. "You walk outside and you are immediately in nature. A cabin allows you to realize Thoreau's dream of escaping from the hectic pace of urban life. The cabin is a classic American getaway that offers a place for dreaming, inspiration and relaxing."

The log cabin became an American icon when its symbol was adopted for William Henry Harrison's 1840 presidential campaign, says Davis. "After that, various other presidents built on that heritage."

Log cabins were among the first structures that were built in the U.S., says Davis, adding that the earliest American log cabins were made by Scandinavian settlers.

One cabin featured in the book takes its inspiration from the owner's Scandinavian background, showing off a diamond-shaped window and primary colors. The owner is Kristina Lindbergh, whose grandfather, aviation hero Charles Lindbergh, built cabins for her grandmother Anne.

When it came time for architect Jeff Shelden, who designs cabins for clients, to create his own, he used wood recycled from an abandoned railroad trestle.

That cabin, featured in the book, has less than 500 useable square feet. "A cabin is a pretty conceptual term," said Shelden. "One guy will think of a cabin and by the time he is done with what he wants, he has built 9,000 square feet. And somebody else like us would have a lot less."

"Doing the book really made me think about small spaces," Davis says. "We limited our book to cabins no larger than 1,200 square feet. That was hard, because there were many beautiful spaces up to 2,000 square feet.

"Some of the so-called cabins in the Adirondacks are actually 40-room extravaganzas, even though they are made out of logs. But we felt that the essence of a cabin is intimacy in a very small space. It's sharing warmth and shelter in a very small, enclosed space," Davis says.

A guest cabin featured in the book with just 210 square feet, including bathroom shed, cozies up to a Wisconsin forest.

"A cabin is a place to live differently from your normal life at home," Shelden says. "It's hard to say that about a lot of places because most people want to take it all with them. There's less space, there are different things to do."

Let's Talk About Real Estate

"PRICING FOR PROFIT"

What factors should you use when deciding to set an asking price on your home? Keep in mind that the asking price is an important decision because it will greatly affect the amount of showings that you will or will not obtain from interested buyers. Here are some points to consider:

The Amount You Have Invested

Although it is very vital for you to know what your total investment has been until now, the buyer really doesn't care. He or she will evaluate your property by comparing it with similar homes on the market. Don't make the mistake of adding your original purchase price and all improvements together in order to arrive at the asking price.

The Money Needed To Buy The Next Home

You should not set your asking price based on the amount of money you will need to buy the home of your choice. Again, the buyer doesn't care about the sum of money you may need. Your asking price must be supported by actual market data that will justify the fairness of your asking price.

The amount your Neighbor Received

It is also a mistake to price your property based upon the amount a friend or neighbor received for his or her home. Remember, every home is unique because it rests on a unique parcel of land and has features that differ from every other house.

ADVICE: The best thing to do is to list your property with a Realtor. He or she can present you with all the up-to-the-minute facts about recent sales and current listings. This information can guide you to the best possible asking price that doesn't scare buyers off and still bring you maximum profit.

Michigan Humane Society ADOPT-A-PET

This Week's Featured Pet

Boomer is a four-year-old Sheltie/Spaniel mix male who was found stray wandering the streets of Sumpter. Luckily, he was picked up by a good Samaritan who brought him to the shelter to give him a chance at finding a new home. He is extremely cute with a copper and white wavy coat and chocolate eyes. Since he is small, he is the perfect size for anyone who is looking for a dog that won't require tons of room to run around in. In addition, he would make a wonderful family pet since he is super friendly, well-mannered, and has a huge heart to share with everyone!

To make this dog your new special pet, visit the Michigan Humane Society Westland Shelter, (734) 721-7300
