What's in a name?

When Canton trustees were reviewing names for a proposed township park at Ford and Ridge roads Tuesday night, one suggested name was Yack Park.

Supervisor Tom Yack modestly declined the honor, even though Trustee Robert Shefferly, who said he suggested the name, tried to convince him otherwise.

When Trustee Phil LaJoy, who is running for state representative, chimed in with Shefferly, saying he thought Yack Park was appropriate and that Yack deserved having a park named after him, the supervisor grinned, shook his head, and said, "Phil, I won't vote for you. I'll take your lawn sign down."

Trustees eventually agreed on Patriot Park, following the pattern set by Heritage Park, Independence Park and Freedom Park.

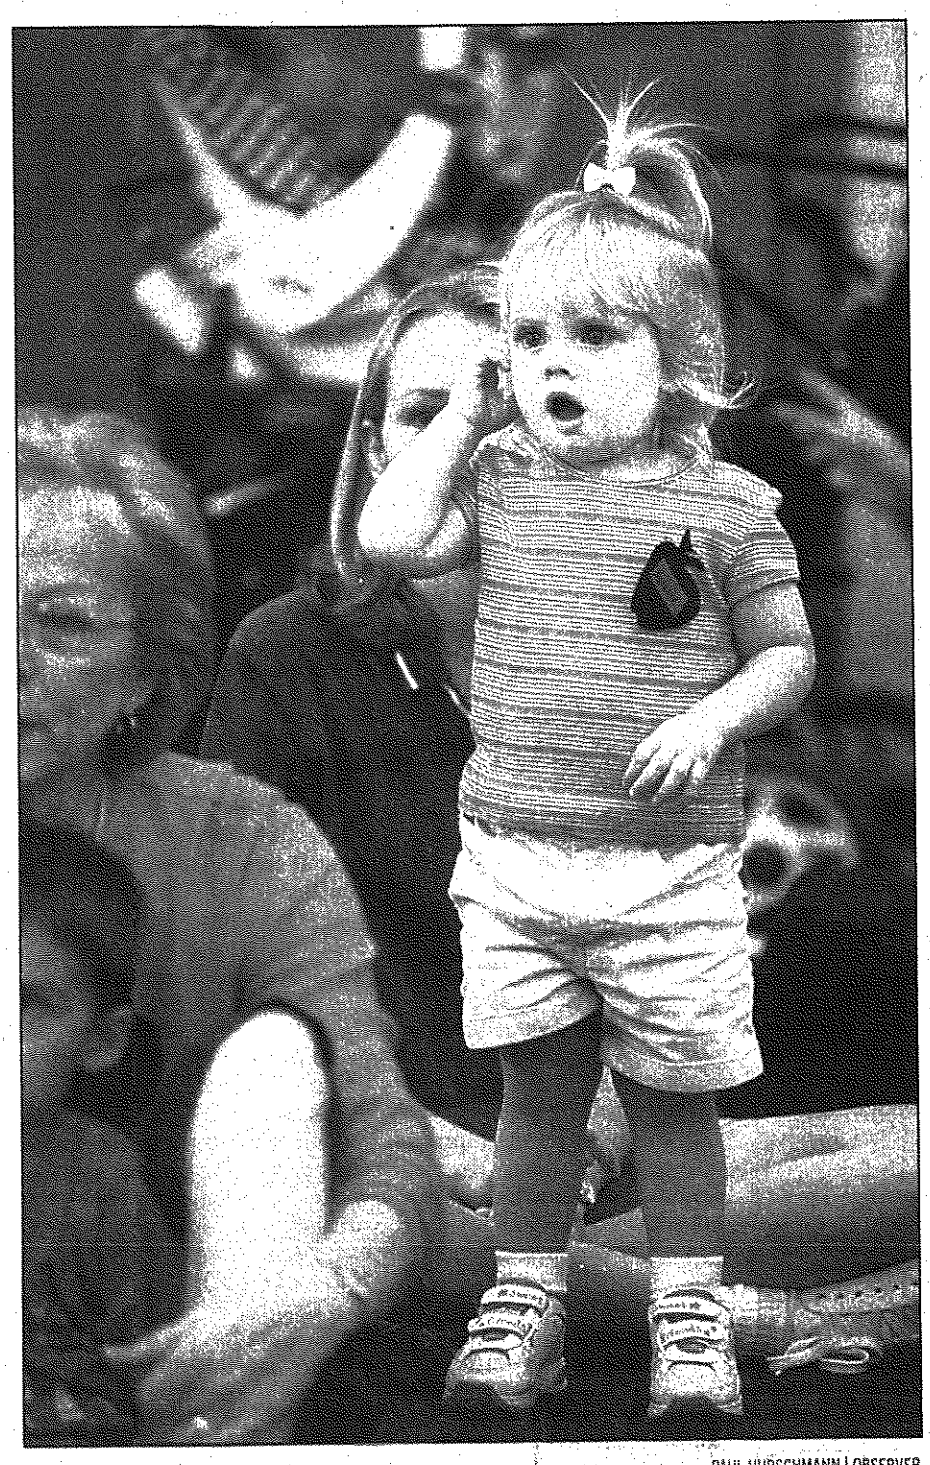

Tall order

Varsity and JV cheerleaders from Salem High School got more than they bargained for at a recent car wash fund-raiser when Canton firefighters stopped by with one of the township rescue rigs. Team members Lisa Stemmerman, Kristen Bernacik, Courtney Gariepy, Courtney Gromacki, Kim Martin, Heather Cornell, Ashley Schopieray and Missy Lachowski scrub the rig while Imari Patel and Emily Arble await their turn.

The car wash was held in the parking lot of the Rite Aid store at Ford and Canton Center roads.

Patriot Park is likely name for Ford, Ridge site

BY JACK GLADDEN
STAFF WRITER

Canton Trustees got their first look Tuesday night at the proposed design for a new township park at Ford and Ridge roads. For the most part, they seemed to like what they saw.

The 134-acre site, which extends west of Ridge and north of Ford to Hanford, was the subject of controversy last year when the township was considering a partnership with Wayne County to build a 15-acre water park on the site. That plan was dropped after nearby residents protested and trustees were divided on the issue.

The new plan, developed by planning consultants Carlisle/Wortman Associates, calls for a mix of passive and active recreation facilities.

Leisure Services Director Ann Conklin, who presented the concept plan to the board at the Tuesday study session, said the plan was developed after a series of public meetings where residents offered their input and the formation of a steering committee that reviewed the various ideas.

"We had three different visioning groups," she told the board. "One in May when about 10 people showed up and two in June that drew 20 and 40 people."

After those meetings the steering committee made some changes to the plan, she said.

"About a month ago we had a meeting and 50 people showed up. The steering committee met again. After tonight's meeting with the board we'll schedule another community meeting," Conklin said.

The proposed park would contain picnic areas, ballfields, a nature center area, a dog park and a series of 6- to 8-foot-wide walking trails. The main entrance, off Ford Road, would feature a fountain that would serve as an ice skating rink in the winter. The park would also have an east entrance off Ridge Road.

Sally Elmiger, of Carlisle/Wortman, said almost 90 people were involved in the visioning sessions and a survey of residents was also conducted during Liberty Fest.

"Nature walking trails were number one in both the visioning sessions and the survey," she said.

She said the park is designed using a "pod concept" where different activities can be clustered, so a picnic area could be adjacent to an area suitable for a pickup basketball game for example.

In the plan, which Conklin stressed is a concept, not the final plan, the south ballfield area would feature two ballfields, the fountain/ice skating rink, parking, two picnic pavilions with restroom facilities and play equipment.

The west active area would contain two soccer fields, a dog park, parking, two picnic pavilions with restrooms and play equipment.

Conklin said the dog park was num-

Residents launch local service club

The Exchange Club of Canton is looking for a few good members. In fact, it's looking for a lot of good members.

If you've never heard of the Exchange Club of Canton, that's because it's just getting started.

A handful of Canton residents, including Richard Piwko and David Loveland, who were members of Exchange Clubs in other communities, decided in July that the growing community of Canton needed its own club. They set about to make it so.

An organizational meeting was held on Aug. 7 at Palermo's restaurant and temporary officers were elected. But the fledgling club got its first project off the ground even before that meeting.

A call to Liberty Fest Parade chairman Fred Bolden, who subsequently joined the club, led to members passing out American flags at the parade. About 550 flags were distributed to kids, according to Loveland, temporary secretary

Budget cuts to end weekend bus runs

BY TONY BRUSCATO
STAFF WRITER

In an effort to make up for budget cuts in transportation funding, athletic directors at Plymouth-Canton Educational Park will ask parents to help with the driving to some weekend sporting events to save the district money.

Last year, Canton and Salem high schools spent $137,000 to transport teams to games, meets and invitationals. However, as part of $1.2 million in cuts ordered by the Board of Education for the 2002-2003 school year, the athletic department transportation budget has been slashed by $37,000, leaving Canton and Salem with only $50,000 each to spend on busing.

"Most parents prefer their student-athletes be bused to events, but we have to make up about $18,000," said Sue Heinzman, Canton High School athletic director. "Cuts need to be made somewhere."

Both Heinzman and Salem Athletic Director Tom Willette said weekday sporting events won't be affected. However, the weekend meets and invitationals will be the events for which the district may ask parents to help with the driving.

"The weekend trips are the most expensive because the invitational or tournaments are not the usual 2-4 hour events, but many times 4-10

Woodside campaigns to 'make difference'

You can't blame Karen Woodside for having a sense of deja vu, even though she hopes the feeling doesn't turn out the same way.

Woodside, the former Northville Township supervisor who is battling Plymouth's Mike Gerou for the new third judgeship in the 35th District Court, can be excused if she feels like she's been here before.

Eight years ago, she and Gerou finished just behind the top two vote-getters in the 1994 primary, won by Steve Boak, with Ron Lowe finishing second. Lowe leapfrogged Boak in the general election

Car left in field leads to arrest

A 22-year-old Canton man was arrested early Tuesday on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property.

A Canton police officer spotted a 2002 Ford Ranger sitting in the weeds off Lotz Road north of Van Born.

He investigated and found the truck unoccupied.

A short distance away, the officer saw a 1994 Lincoln Mark VIII and noticed parts missing from the car.

Two seats from the Lincoln, valued at $1,000, were sitting in the bed of the Ranger.

Officers located the owner of the truck through a records check and went to a home on Haggerty Road where the owner was a resident.

They spoke to the resident, a 59-year-old Canton woman, and learned that her son had possession of the truck earlier in the evening.

The woman spoke to her son and convinced him to come home. He was taken into custody without incident.

There was no sign of forced entry and police have no suspects.

TIRES CUT

Between 2 and 8:30 a.m. on Sept. 16, a resident of the 8200 block of Nectar told police, someone slashed the two left side tires of the vehicle she was using.

Police reports said the damage appeared to have been done with a large knife. Damage was estimated at $250.

The incident occurred between 11 p.m. Sept. 14 and 2 p.m. Sept. 16. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

There were no witnesses. Police have no suspects.

COINS STOLEN

Sometime between Sept. 11 and Sept. 16, a resident of the 41200 block of Old Michigan Avenue reported, someone broke into his home and stole $1,000 worth of coins.

He said some rolls of coins under a TV set were taken as well as a five-gallon water bottle filled with coins.

The thief or thieves apparently broke locks on his living room window and pushed the window open.

GRILL STOLEN

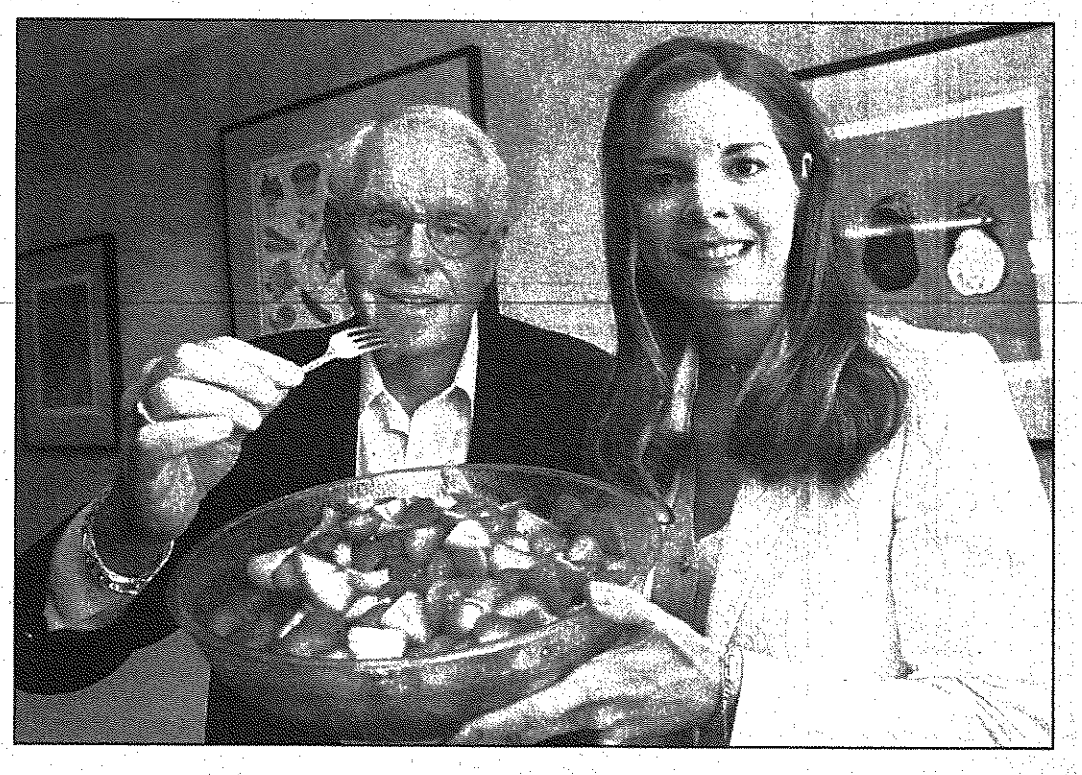

A Northville resident reported to Canton Police that a grill she was using in Heritage Park was stolen between 4 p.m. Sept. 15 and 5:15 p.m. Sept. 16.

She said she was using two barbecue grills for an Agape school function.

She left the park about 4 p.m. on Sept. 15 and left the grills unsecured.

When she returned to pick them up the next day, one grill was missing. It was valued at $500.

Tom Marek and Suzanne Thomas Hughes, co-chairs of this year's Culinary Extravaganza, invite area residents to come and sample food and wine from some 60 area restaurants, caterers and beverage supplies on Sunday in the Waterman Campus Center at Schoolcraft College.

'Extravaganza' is benefit for Schoolcraft scholarships

Planners are busy putting the finishing touches on Culinary Extravaganza 2002, a celebration of food and wine, presented by the Schoolcraft College Foundation from 2-5 p.m. Sunday in the Waterman Campus Center.

The event features some 60 restaurants, specialty markets or beverage supplies throughout the metro area and raises money for student scholarships. Organizers hope that this year's event will raise at least $100,000 to help students reach their educational goals.

Co-chairing the event are Suzanne Thomas-Hughes, loan center manager and senior loan office at Flagstar Bank and Tom Marek, vice president of corporate food service at Ford Motor Co.

Both are members of the Schoolcraft College Foundation Board and both have been planning the event with a committee of volunteers and Schoolcraft staff since early spring.

"The restaurants go all out for this event," said Thomas-Hughes, who has co-chaired the culinary fund-raiser for the last four years. "This is a special event. There's a lot of contrast in foods and every year it gets better," she added.

Marek, president-elect of the Schoolcraft College Foundation, is serving his first year as co-chair of the event. Although new to the culinary committee, Marek knows the food business.

Before joining Ford Motor Co. nearly 10 years ago, he worked as a regional vice president for business services for Aramark for 29 years. He's looking forward to this year's event.

"This is a fun event. It's not stuffy. It casual and fun with amazingly good food," said Marek.

And lots of it.

The event will feature pan-seared scallops from Papa Joe's Gourmet Market, shrimp nachos from Sweet Lorraine's Cafe, oyster's on the half shell from Tom's Oyster Bar, soups from Zoup!, seared sirloin with bordelaise sauce from Atlantis Restaurant, cappuccino from the Cadillac Coffee Co., gold-medal winning wines from the Michigan Grape & Wine Council and Pelee Island Winery and more. Eventgoers can also sit in on a free wine seminar and tasting and will be treated to a live auction with packages that include:

- Dinner for eight in your home prepared by a Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts faculty chef. Wine is included.
- Northern Michigan getaway weekend which includes a two-night stay at the Weathervane in Charlevoix and dinner at Latitude (a member of the Epoch Restaurant Group) in Bay Harbor and Tapawingo in Ellsworth.
- Wine tasting for 30-50 people by Beauliew Vineyard. Includes five wines, glassware and speaker.
- A chance to brew your own beer and dinner for eight at Local Color Brewing Company in Novi.

Tickets at $50 per person are still available and can be charged to Visa, Mastercard or Discover by calling (734) 462-4670. Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads in Livonia.

Marchers begin season with a sweep

New show rounding into form under second-year director

BY DIANE HANSON
CORRESPONDENT

Picking up pretty much where they left off last year, the Plymouth-Canton Educational Park Marching Band once again pulled off top honors at their season competition opener Sept. 14 at Novi High School.

The Flight I State Champs for seven years running captured the evening's Flight I first-place trophy, all three caption awards for Best Music, Best Marching and Best General Effect, and the highest score – 70.55 – of all 16 competing bands at Novi's Fanfare Invitational.

The Plymouth-Canton show – the last competition performance of the evening – was delayed a half- hour due to impending inclement weather.

The 6,000 spectators packing the stands, along with hundreds of marchers, were ushered into the school building as raindrops began to fall and a loud clap of thunder rang out during the conclusion of West Bloomfield's performance.

"I'm proud of you," Band Director Clayton Wachholz later told his 163 marchers as they gathered on the damp grass of the end zone at the conclusion of the awards ceremony. "You did a good job."

And his performers agreed.

"I think it was a strong performance and we just have to keep working at it," said Salem junior Ryan Noe, a third-year trumpet player. "It felt like there was a lot more passion and intensity. Of my three years with the band, this is my favorite show so far."

Kelly Courtney, a Salem sophomore percussionist, was equally enthusiastic. "I'm really excited about this year's show," said Courtney, who wields the second-largest base drum. "Last year we didn't have a marching drum line in the show and this year it is back and I'm so lucky that I get to be a part of it."

"I love the show. I think the drill is fun, the music is really good and I'm just having a great time!"

That's the kind of enthusiasm characteristic of this year's band according to Wachholz.

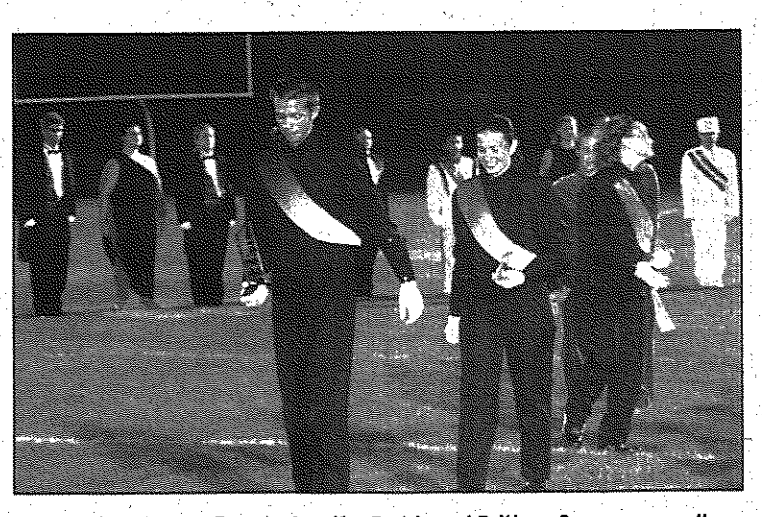

"What's different between this year's and last year's bands is that they have a lot more confidence in themselves right now and I think they really enjoy playing the music," he said.

"When you have that – students who want to go out and perform because it is fun for them – it is a really great motivator. It is the kind of thing that helps you to not have a bad show; to go out every show and do the best you can do," Wachholz added.

And this year's show – "Elasticity" – with design staff Jonathon Ovalle, Alan Spaeth, Mitch Roger, Michael Tarr and Don Hill, is turning out to be another innovative compilation of intriguing music and dynamic, fast-paced drill that brought the Novi spectators to their feet.

"It looks like the crowd really enjoyed the show," said baritone saxophone player Dustin Shea, a Canton senior. "We got nice feedback from the audience."

Said Wachholz, "It is kind of a quirky show, but it has a lot of potential and the audience will love it. I think it is very entertaining and they will probably chuckle at times. It has its intriguing moments and also ones that will knock your socks off. The whole idea of being elasticity is really going to be pronounced at the end of the show – there will be a huge release."

Drum majors Jeremy French, Jennifer Bodrie and Brittany Summers are all smiles as they head back with a bevy of trophies.

The Plymouth-Canton show is yet unfinished with some two minutes of music and drill to be added before the 8- 1/2-minute program is complete. Wachholz says he hopes to have it nearly finished by the Bands of America Regionals in Toledo on Sept. 28.

"I think I can speak for all of our staff; we're very pleased where we are at right now," Wachholz said.

The next P-CEP competition performance will be the Michigan Invitational at Eastern Michigan University's Rynearson Stadium on Sept. 21. There will be no performance at Chesaning on Oct. 5 as previously reported.

Storytime is library 'best-seller'

BY TEDD SCHNEIDER
STAFF WRITER

First words, first steps, first time sleeping through the night. In Canton, you could almost add first storytime session to the list of baby and toddler milestones noted by parents.

The popular program is back this fall at the Canton Public Library and many sessions are booked solid. But there are openings for toddler and pre-school sessions beginning in October and the library will repeat the infant program as well, said Kristen Tierney, children's program specialist.

"It has been extremely popular here," Tierney said. "I think parents like it because it's a chance to have a positive first experience for their kids at the library."

Storytime is available for children aged 1 month to 5 years. The program is broken into blocks for babies 1-5 months; 6-11 months; toddlers 12-23 months; children 2-3-½; and children 3-½-5.

There are two weekly, half-hour sessions for infants. The program for older kids runs four weeks, also with half-hour sessions once a week. A choice of days is offered.

The sessions for nearly newborns are actually geared toward parents, Tierney said. "We give them ideas on how to introduce books and reading." There is also a "refresher course" on nursery rhymes, which can be difficult to remember if you haven't heard one in 20 or 30 years, she added.

For older infants, there is a group reading with something age appropriate. "We try to make it interactive with lots of bright pictures," Tierney said.Kids in the oldest group attend the sessions by themselves. It's often the first time they're at the library without a parent. "It's a fun group to work with. We get into longer stories and humor comes into play," Tierney said.

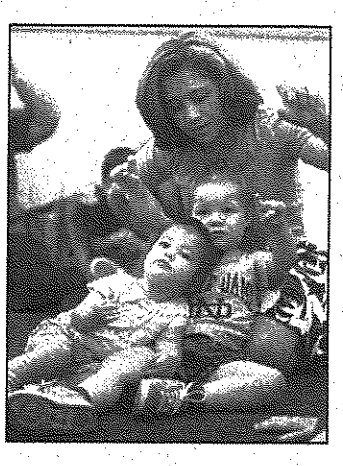

Upcoming storytime sessions include:

- Children 12-23 months – Oct. 14-Nov. 7 with registration beginning Oct. 8
- Children 3-½-5 years – Oct. 14-Nov. 7 no advance registration required.

The first three days of registration are limited to Canton residents, with non-residents able to register beginning on the fourth day. Programs without registration are open to all children.

BUS

hours," said Willette. "We are paying to have a bus driver sit there. And, many of those events are further away than league contests."

Heinzman and Willette give examples such as cross country, swimming, wrestling and golf in which only some team members qualify for tournaments and invitationals. And, depending if they win or lose, athletes could wait hours for their next competition.

"We are not eliminating any of the trips, we're just looking at alternative ways to get there and save some money," said Willette. "Many parents don't work on the weekends, and maybe they'll be willing to help us. Most of the parents are usually at the events, anyway."

Both athletic directors believe a solution could be for students to be bused to events, with parents taking them home. However, some parents aren't pleased with a decision to cut transportation.

"I would like to see equity," said Leslie Greeneisen of Canton, whose freshman daughter, Julie, is on the Canton swim team. "When the football team is away, they all ride buses back and forth from the games. Besides, do you trust your child to go somewhere with someone you don't know driving?"

Deb Madonna of Plymouth said she would rather pay for the transportation than have her son John, a senior on the Canton cross country team, ride with another parent or student.

"They should make it an option for kids who want to use the bus, figure how much we need to pay," said Madonna. "You trust most parents are good drivers, but you don't know their driving record. Whether it's a safety issue or money issue, if they need the money divide it out and raise it."

Heinzman said there are some options, but not very good ones.

"We can look at alternative funding, like using game money. But, we need that for uniforms and equipment," she said. "Another option is to cancel events. But, I'm not going to make that decision."

Thus far, Plymouth High School has been spared the transportation problem because it only has underclass teams playing this year.

"It hasn't affected us yet, but it will next year if they don't reinstate the transportation funding," said Terry Sawchuck, Plymouth High School athletic director.

PARK

ber eight on the list of ideas submitted by residents.

"The thing we get the biggest complaint about is that we don't have a dog park," she told the trustees.

The eastern side of the park would feature more picnic pavilions, more soccer fields, more ballfields or a football field, a basketball court and numerous restrooms and parking areas.

A playscape area would include the playscape and a spray park, another feature cited by residents in the survey.

A proposed nature center area would include a small observatory, picnic pavilion and amphitheater and a pond with a fishing deck.

About half the park would be open space, with wetlands and trees. Nature trails would wind through the entire site.

Trustees also reviewed a list of 14 suggested names for the park, ranging from Peace, Patriot, Liberty to Glacier, Prairie, Meadow, Woodlands on the Ridge, Meadow on the Ridge and Trails on/at Ridge.

They generally agreed that their choice would be Patriot Park, following the pattern established with the existing Heritage, Independence and Freedom parks.

After the plan is reviewed by the steering committee and following another public input session, it will eventually be presented to the Planning Commission and finally to the Board of Trustees. Conklin said she anticipates presenting the plan to the board sometime in December.

Physical Therapy UPDATE
Hands On Center
Presented by Hands On Center For Physical Therapy

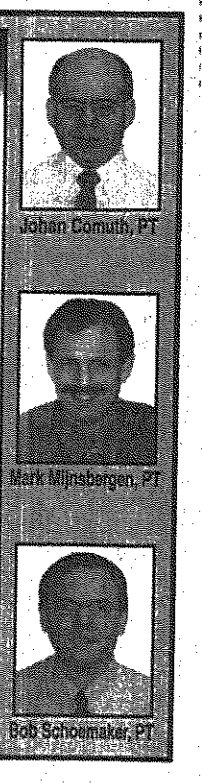

A SLIP OF THE VERTEBRA

The most common cause of low back pain in adolescent athletes is a stress fracture in one of the vertebrae. This condition, called spondylosisysis, usually affects either the fourth or the fifth lumbar vertebra in the lower back. If the stress fracture weakens the bone so much that it is unable to maintain its proper position, the vertebra can start to slip out of place. This condition is called spondylolisthesis. If too much slippage occurs, the bones may begin to press on the nerves. Pain usually spreads across the lower back, feeling like a muscle strain. Spondylolisthesis can also cause spasms that stiffen the back and tighten the hamstring muscles. Initial treatment is always conservative and usually involves physical therapy.

As October is National Spinal Health Month, the staff at the HANDS ON CENTER FOR PHYSICAL THERAPY would like to invite those of our readers who are experiencing back or neck pain to ask their physician for a referral to our practice, conveniently located in Plymouth, at 650 South Main Street (evening appointments available). We also provide treatment for pre- and postpartum back pain, work and sports-related injuries, bone and joint problems, and TMJ dysfunction. To learn more about our wide range of services, call 455-8370. Most insurance plans accepted.

P.S. Spondylolysis/spondylolisthesis usually require exercises designed to help stabilize the spine by strengthening the back and abdominal muscles.

Saberettes make spirit grow for PHS teams, classmates

BY JILL HALPIN
CORRESPONDENT

Plymouth High School may be the newest entry on local sports rosters, but school spirit is already growing strong, thanks to the Saberettes, the 20-member freshman pom-pon team.

Traditionally, high school pom-pon teams perform only during home football and basketball games. The Saberettes are setting a new standard in school spirit by attempting to support as many school teams as they can. In addition to performing at all home PHS football and boys basketball games, the team is also making appearances at PHS soccer games, according to Saberettes coach Lynn Balogh.

"I have also talked to the girls basketball coach about performing during some of their games. We are trying to be supportive to as many teams as we can," said Balogh.

Balogh, also a dance teacher at Masters of Dance Arts in Canton said, "We want to bring support and encouragement to all school teams. Many of these teams are real powerhouses for our school and we want to provide as much encouragement as we can."

Having the Saberettes work to support other high school groups was part of a master plan, according to PHS Principal Dr. Michael Bee.

Bee said he worked closely with PHS Athletic Director Terry Sawchuck to create something unique at the new high school.

"Our vision was to create something special to help all of the students feel attached to their school," said Bee. Having the pom team and the cheer leaders work together with other teams helps foster a sense of family and unity within the school, Bee said.

"When you come into our weight training rooms, you might see the girls basketball teams using the rooms at the same time as other teams; working together," Bee said. "That's what we are trying to promote. We are setting the bar in a different place."

The award-winning Saberettes were formed in June and spent most of the summer in intensive practice. The group attended a week-long Mid-American pom camp in Mount Pleasant in July and took top honors for their kick-line performance and original routine. They currently practice at least six hours a week and their hard work is paying off. The team received accolades for their performances at the Plymouth Fall Festival.

"It was hard to believe that this was a new team. They did a great job," said Plymouth resident Gina Sloan, who attended the festival with her sons, Anthony and John Sloan.

of the club. That fits in with the organization's dedication to its goals of Americanism, community service and youth activities.

Piwko, who was recently elected state president of the 26 Exchange Clubs in Michigan, said he wanted to start a Canton club because he thinks the growing community is right for it.

"I live in Canton," he said, "I was a member of the Wyandotte club, I have a business in Monroe. It seems like I was always on the road."

The club has about 15 members at the moment, Piwko said, but it needs at least 20 to be chartered.

"We've got quite a few interested people," Piwko said. "But we're looking to build up membership."

The Exchange Club is a service club similar to Rotary, the Elks and the Kiwanis. But members boast that it was the first such service club in the country.

"It began in Detroit in 1896 as a booster club," Loveland said. "There's a plaque at the top of the Penobscot Building commemorating that. In 1911 they changed the name to Exchange Club."

The reason for the change in name and focus, according to Piwko, was that the founders

The Exchange Club is a service club similar to Rotary, the Elks and the Kiwanis.

realized the only way to maintain the organization was "to give back to the communities."

In addition to the club's focus on Americanism, community service and youth activities, the group's national mission is the prevention of child abuse.

"We do programs on shaken baby syndrome, fetal alcohol and child abuse so the public is aware of these problems," Loveland, a pharmacist, said.

But the focus is on local community involvement and service. Unlike the international span of other service clubs, the Exchange Club is limited to the United States.

The Canton club meets at 6:30 p.m. the second and fourth Wednesday of the month at Palermo's restaurant, off Ford Road in the Murray's Discount Auto strip mall.

There is a one-time membership fee of $25 which stays with the local club. Quarterly dues are $35.

Anyone interested in joining the group, or in more information, may call Loveland at (734) 207-8943 or Piwko at (734) 231-2688.

Q & A

Q. Who invented the ice cream cone?

A In the late 1800s, Italo Marchiony emigrated from Italy and soon went into business in New York City with a pushcart dispensing lemon ice. Success soon led to a small fleet of pushcarts. The inventive Marchiony was inspired to develop a cone, first made of paper, later of pastry, to hold the tasty delicacy. On Sept. 22, 1903, his application for a patent for his new mold was filed, and the patent was issued to him on Dec. 15, 1903.

HOT TOPIC OF THE WEEK

■ National Dog Week - Sept. 22-28! Dogs have long been touted as "man's best friend," but throughout the years they've been one of humankind's best helpers, too. The partnership between people and dogs has been solidly established for thousands of years. In prehistoric times, dogs may have served a function as watchdog. Later, shepherds realized their value for herding and protecting livestock and hunters have used dogs to flush out and retrieve game. Dogs have been used to pull carts loaded with packed goods or harnessed to sleds for transporting goods across snow-covered areas.

Many police departments use dogs to sniff out illegal drugs and explosives, track and hold criminals and to track missing persons. Because dogs are intelligent, reliable and highly trainable, they have carved out a niche as helpers to people who are blind, hearing impaired or confined to a wheelchair.

Marking 9/11

Canton Parks Manager Russ Heatwole presents a plaque to Canton Fire Chief Mike Rorabacher during a tree dedication ceremony on Sept. 11. The township Leisure Services Department donated the tree – planted outside Fire Station No. 1 – for a memorial to firefighters who lost their lives in the terrorist attacks. Canton Public library employees and volunteers also donated money to the fire department to mark the first anniversary of the attacks. The money will be used to buy equipment for the fire prevention unit, Rorabacher said.

Women's Resource Center seeks volunteers

The Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft College seeks volunteers who will serve as peer counselors to the center's clients. The WRC offers a variety of services to the college and the community.

Peer counselors provide support, primarily to women who wish to enter or re-enter college, research new careers, find referrals for or information about services, or talk through a difficult situation.

Volunteer peer counselors are specially trained in listening skills and serve both walk-in and telephone clients on campus.

Volunteers must be women with adequate free time, who enjoy helping other people, are good listeners and can empathize with people. Trainees complete 48 hours of training over eight weeks. Training classes begin in early October, and it is critical that trainees attend all sessions.

After training, the volunteer works with a mentor and completes three sessions in the WRC before counseling independently.

As a peer counselor, volunteers work one three-hour shift each week and are expected to commit to the WRC for nine months.

There is no cost for these training sessions.

To find out more about volunteering, contact Kathryn Randall at (734) 462-4443. Schoolcraft College is at 18600 Haggerty Road, between Six and Seven Mile roads, just west of I-275.

Anyone living in the Plymouth-Canton School District is an in-district (college) student at Schoolcraft and pays the lowest of three tuition rates.

WOODSIDE

that year and won what was then an open seat on the bench.

Woodside hopes it's a slice of history that will repeat itself. She finished a distant second to Gerou, capturing 3,757 votes in the August primary, but had an excellent finish in Canton. She also carried Northville, though by slimmer margins.

"We're working hard," said Woodside, a Northville resident who is an assistant Wayne County prosecutor. "We can make history and be the first female judge in this court's history."

Woodside served as Northville Township supervisor from 1996-2000. She was a long-time member and past chair of the township's planning commission and Zoning Board of Appeals.

She's been an assistant Wayne County prosecutor for 13 years, right now serving in the appellate department. She said she has argued cases at every level of the judicial system. Her family has been in the community, she said, since 1980.

She was Michigan Prosecutor of the Year in 1996, was on the 35th District Advisory board and helped get the courthouse rebuilt after the 1999 fire, and serves on various State Bar of Michigan committees.

"I think I can make a big difference," Woodside said. "I know the law, our kids have gone through the schools here, and I think I have the pulse of the community. I think I have what it takes to apply the law toughly but fairly."

Like her opponent, Woodside, a member of the YWCA Board of Trustees who is also involved with Northville Youth Assistance, sees a large number of youthful offenders as one of the bigger challenges facing judges in the 35th District.

She thinks after-school programs and positive contacts with police agencies can help stem the problem.

"If we can turn around a youthful offender, that can make a huge difference," Woodside said. "If a kid establishes a rapport with the police in a positive way, it can be a good thing."

But perhaps the biggest challenge the court faces is the glut of drunk driving cases that come before judges. Along with drug cases and landlord-tenant disputes, drunk driving is one of the most-seen type of case seen by judges here.

Lately, she pointed out, there have also been cases where potential thieves are "jumping the counters at pharmacies" in attempts to steal drugs. At least one such case has happened recently at the Plymouth Kmart.

"It's frightening that one of five drivers on the road between 9 p.m. and 2 a.m. is driving drunk," Woodside said. "The laws are on the books ... I will enforce them. If people have substance abuse problems, we'll help. But if you get behind the wheel, that's no different than picking up a weapon."

Woodside said the third judgeship created in the 35th District was a much-needed move, although she waited until the deal was signed by the governor before she started campaigning. In a court where the presiding judges see some 22,000 cases apiece each year, the third seat will be crucial.

With one of the busiest prosecutor's offices in the country (Wayne County), Woodside said the new judgeship would make the court "more efficient."

"I was shocked and pleased they were able to get it through the legislature and signed by the governor," Woodside said. "We've needed it for a long time. I do think it'll make it more efficient, and should solve the caseload problem."

Woodside has been a homeowner's president, has spoken to groups including homeowners associations, DARE graduations and Mothers Against Drunk Driving. She's been involved with the scouts, Northville Parent-Teacher Association, youth mentoring programs, and she coached girls' softball.

Like her opponent, Woodside says community involvement can say a lot about a candidate.

"It shows you're committed to the community," Woodside said. "I think I have an exemplary record of community involvement. I think you have to have someone who is involved in the community to know the community.

"I know the law, and I know the community," she added. "I believe my record is unmatched."

A lot of primary voters agreed with her, as Woodside edged magistrate Eric Colthurst for the second spot, beating him by 300 votes in Canton to earn a spot in the general election. Woodside said that by the time the election is over, she will have spent an estimated $100,000 trying to convince voters to help her repeat history. Why should they?

"If you look at the combination of experience, I bring a larger breadth of experience," Woodside said. "I bring a different perspective than (Gerou) does."

GEROU

pair finished one-two in the 10-person August primary and square off in the general election.

Gerou hopes to exchange his Main Street shingle for the black robe of the judiciary.

"I've been practicing for 16 years now," Gerou said. "I had a vague idea I wanted to be a Main Street attorney, and I achieved that. It's been gratifying, but after you've done it for a length of time, you want to do more. I believe I can do a better job than a lot of the judges out there."

It's Gerou's second attempt to gain a seat on the bench. He lost in the primary in 1994, when Ron Lowe finished second in the primary but beat Steve Boak in the general election. Ironically, Gerou and Woodside finished just behind Lowe in the primary. The district court seat appeals to Gerou because of its ability to impact the local community. Although judges don't create law, he said, they do have the responsibility of interpreting and applying it.

"District court is where the rubber meets the road," Gerou said. "Although it's not a judge's job to make law, we find out what legislation works and what doesn't."

Gerou knows that drunk driving and drug offenses are among the biggest categories of cases seen in the 35th District Court. He supports the court's outreach programs and the teen court program, and has other ideas about things that might work for the court.

However, he doesn't want to talk much about them until — and if — he's elected, because he hasn't had a chance to talk to Lowe, Chief Judge John MacDonald or court administrator Kerry Erdman yet.

"I have some ideas and I've briefly discussed them with them," Gerou said. "I'm a team player. I have some ideas, but I don't want to announce them in the paper."

While he calls drugs a perplexing problem, Gerou said the biggest problem facing the 35th District Court is getting youthful offenders turned around "so they become law-abiding, productive citizens, not repeat offenders."

According to Gerou, most of the crime committed in this country is done by offenders 20 years old or younger, and much of it by repeat offenders. Gerou, a mentor for Growth Works, the Plymouth-based youth assistance program for at-risk youth, hopes adding a third judge to the 35th District Court will allow the time to deal with what he calls "this crucial problem."

One idea, he said, would be to require juvenile offenders to report at the end of their probation to the judge, who would monitor the offender's progress through the probation process.

"I'd like to talk to the (other) judges and see if we can spend more time on the juvenile cases," Gerou said. "There may be viable reasons why this idea won't work, but it's an idea worth exploring."

Gerou thinks his experience and community involvement are assets that will help him should he win the election. He's built his practice "from square one," including learning how to run it from a business standpoint.

"One thing they don't teach you in law school is the business end of things," he said. "I have a solid business background. I've always tried to provide the services I would want if I were the client."

Gerou said he's had experience in every kind of law practiced in the 35th District Court – civil complaints (from plaintiff and defendant perspective), landlord-tenant disputes, misdemeanor and felony criminal cases.

He points to his "long-term commitment to making a difference in our community" as a strong indictor of his qualifications for the job. He's mentored at Growth Works, taken part in career days in the public schools, coached baseball, T-ball, basketball and football, served on the board of the Plymouth Family YMCA and helped get All Saints Catholic School built.

"This (involvement) provides me with valuable insight into many facets of our community that will help me impart our community values into my decisions on the bench," Gerou said.

In the primary, at least, he convinced a substantial number of voters of his qualifications. Gerou finished first, easily outdistancing Woodside with 6,073 votes. He figures by the time the general election is over, he'll have spent between $100,000 and $150,000 to convince voters he deserves a shot. Why should they give it to him?

"When people run for judge, they give you a resume, and there's an implied promise they'll be good at the job," Gerou said. "I think you should look beyond what someone does for compensation. I've tried to make a difference, in my profession and in my community.

"I'll let other people be the final judge, but I'm pretty proud of my accomplishments."

Series on Edison is 'once-in-a-lifetime'

BY PAUL R. PACE
STAFF WRITER

It's a "once-in-a lifetime opportunity," says Brian Golden of the Farmington area's Blue Circle group.

Members are presenting a three-part series at the Longacre House in Farmington Hills beginning Oct. 1 about the life and times of Thomas Edison.

Nationally recognized Edison experts will bring their knowledge and experience from Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, the Ann Arbor Hands-on Museum and Rutgers University in New Jersey.

"This is the first time these three speakers will have spoken together," said Golden.

Each week will focus on a different aspect of Edison. The first week will follow the chronological history of Edison's life and experiences. Learn how this prolific inventor developed his lab and how he formed his team of trusted "muckers" that worked side-by-side with him at Menlo Park.

The second week highlights key inventions that still evolve today.

The final evening will focus on the inventor's nonstop drive to create impacted the world. He was awarded more than 1,000 patents. Not surprisingly, Life magazine named him "Man of Millennium," said Golden.

On Oct. 1, William Pretzer will be the guest speaker. He is a curator of Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. He has published numerous articles on museum studies, technology education, design history and the history labor and technology in the printed trade.

On Oct. 8, the speaker is John Bowditch, who is curator at the Ann Arbor Hands-on Museum.

He is a historian of technology with a special emphasis on the 19th century.

He was director of the Lowell Museum in Lowell, Mass., as well as curator of industry at Henry Ford Museum for 21 years.

On Oct. 15, the speaker is Paul Israel, Ph.D., from Rutgers University. He is a historian of technology in the 19th and 20th centuries. He established himself as the preeminent authority on the life and work of Edison with the publication of "Edison: A Life Invention" in 1998, which was the winner of the Dexter Prize of Society for the History of Technology.

Tickets to the events are $59 for all three nights or $30 per individual night. They are available at Longacre and in downtown Farmington at the Farmington Bakery, Books Abound and Big Apple Bagels or call Tracy Freeman at (248) 476-8323 or Golden at (248) 701-8112. OUR VIEWS

Forum is chance to speak on Ford

Canton residents have a chance tonight to help shape the future of the township's main commercial thoroughfare. We urge them to take it. The Canton Downtown Development Authority will host a public visioning session 7 p.m. at the Summit. The session, part of an ongoing effort to design a more customer- and business-friendly road, is free and open to the public. There are even door prizes to encourage attendance.

Yes, it's a school night and we know people are busy with all sorts of obligations and probably a few more entertaining options than a quasi-government meeting. But there are good reasons for spending an hour or so talking about things like ingress, egress, signage and foliage.

Most residents probably drive Ford Road regularly, if not daily. And most patronize its typical suburban mix of shopping centers, office, restaurants and gas stations. So do thousands of people from surrounding communities.

But most probably don't give Ford Road a passing thought when they write checks to cover their property taxes. Burdensome as they are, local taxes would be even higher if Canton didn't have a thriving "downtown."

Working on ways to ease congestion and transform Ford Road into a more prominent gateway for Canton won't be easy. The state holds the upper hand when it comes to any kind of redevelopment – even setting speed limits – on a road that retains its M-153 designation on Michigan maps.

The Observer believes residents do have a role to play here. And whatever short and long-term changes are made, Canton residents and businesses will feel them first and foremost.

'Over-malling' just isn't a problem here

Developers like to call them "neighborhood shopping centers." But let's face it – the term "strip mall" is much more descriptive, not to mention easier for headline writers.

Whether Canton has too many of these centers became an issue at last week's planning commission meeting. The particulars were over a special land use hearing for a proposed shopping center off Cherry Hill, west of Canton Center. The proposal was eventually tabled when outstanding concerns between the developer, commissioners and residents couldn't be resolved.

But during the discussion, the fact that this would be the 30th strip mall inside township limits and questions about possible tenants were raised. Vacancies at other centers were mentioned. So was a seeming sameness to the tenant mix at many centers. "Over-cloned" was the way commissioner Karl Zarbo creatively put it.

We just don't see it that way. Vacancies at most centers in recent months have been quickly filled, despite the slowing economy. (Check out the new shops at the intersection of Canton Center and Sheldon Center.) And we note that where new subdivisions go, strip malls usually follow. It's the natural order of development in Canton and similar communities.

Death penalty: Is it time?

Capital punishment is an emotional issue, one that many people have deep and defensible beliefs about both for and against. Some people are convinced that the possibility of a death sentence if caught and convicted is enough to deter someone from taking a life.

Others believe the death penalty is extreme and the threat has little to do with stopping someone from committing murder. Although Michigan hasn't executed anyone in more than 150 years, there is a new call to reinstitute the death penalty. Some influential people, including Farmington Hills Police Chief William Dwyer , are stirring the pot.

The rebirth of the capital punishment movement stems in part from a recent string of high-profile police killings. Although we acknowledge that the death of a police officer in the line of duty is terrible and tragic, is it proper for capital punishment supporters to use these horrible acts to support such a drastic change?

Death-penalty advocates would probably say you have to strike while the iron is hot. Yet, it doesn't seem right that a question no one was talking about last year is poised to become the next big thing and placed before voters, perhaps in 2004.

Seeking a death penalty referendum now – or in the near future – smacks of opportunism. And when advocates link it to the recent deaths of police officers, aren't they saying – consciously or not – that the taking of a law enforcement officer's life demands a harsher penalty than that meted out for anyone else?

Cruiser support

We are a swimming family that relocated to the U.S. from the U.K. last fall.

Our daughter's school counselor put us in touch with the Cruisers as something we might like to pursue, as she had been part of a competitive swim team in the U.K. We will be eternally grateful as the Cruisers became her and her brother's second family as the months have passed.

I firmly believe community teams such as the Cruisers have so much to offer, that they complement school swimming and produce young athletes who are a credit to the community. Both my son and daughter started at Cruisers the week they started school and it was the swimmers that they met there who stopped by and took the time to check out if they were OK in school, made sure that they had someone to eat their lunch with and understood what was going on around them.

School swim season here in the U.S. is short. Swimming is a tough sport where fitness is key, it requires specialist skills that do not translate to other sports. Land-based sports can and do cross train and to some extent you can with swimming, but the bottom line is you can't swim without water but runners can run just about anywhere.

Teams such as Cruisers provide a necessary feeder of new and young swimmers to the community schools. They teach competitive swimming skills that are rarely covered in learn to swim programs. They give competitive experience to novice swimmers, they encourage parents and older swimmers to become involved as officials and volunteers that run meets. Without community teams such as Cruisers where would the officials and coaches come from who officiate for school meets?

The loss of pool time at Canton High School will challenge the Cruisers. They will no longer be solely based in their community, some swimmers will not be able to make longer trips to an alternative pool, the sense of community and continuity will be lost.

The situation as it stands now appears to penalize those in the community least able to control the situation, that is the swimmers themselves.

Silent ticket

Dick Posthumus has chosen Loren Bennett as his running mate for governor. Loren Bennett has been a state senator representing an area which includes the Charter Township of Canton. This Charter Township has over 70,000 people in it.

The original intention of Charter Township governance has been corrupted in order to bring in state money to finance local schemes. Sen. Bennett's wife is the township clerk and is responsible for – among other things – acting as the elections clerk and counting votes.

The local government in the Charter Township of Canton have been taken by the notion that government should be profitable. They run a catering hall, a golf course, an exercise club, a swimming pool and are involved, all the province of private enterprise – and not government. All of these enterprises are financed by state money one way or another. The local government of Bennett's hometwon is apparently aggressively practicing Socialism. Loren Bennett and his wife are aware of this – but he has been silent on this and many other issues.

Perhaps that is why Posthumus chose Loren Bennett as a running mate. He can count on him to keep his mouth shut.

The water quality of southeastern Michigan is notoriously bad. Not only the beaches, which are closed regularly because of human waste and industrial pollutants, but the drinking water. This is the water that is pumped into our homes and we are charged money for.

Loren Bennett's answer: silence. Dick Posthumus' answer: silence.

A vote for Dick Posthumus and Loren Bennett is a vote for failure.

Wrong direction

Canton Township's population jumped 34 percent in the last decade, according to the census, up from 57,040 in 1990 to 76,366 in 2000, with dozens of new subdivisions built in the once mostly rural area. The township added more than 8,000 new homes, condominiums and apartments.

Ten years after I first bumped heads with Canton Supervisor Tom Yack about the mindless future to which he was leading the township, I am still reading articles like this and drawing the same conclusion about the man and his machine that I had about them way back then. Using the same words I used a decade ago, now more appropriately than ever, I can summarize Tom Yack's overall effect on Canton Township:

"Well, DUH! Who (other than Tom) didn't see that coming?" Understand that I am not faulting his leadership skills, which are commendable. He has exceptional abilities to set goals, put the necessary teams in place, and then achieve those goals. It is his chosen goals that are suspect.

Under Yack's direction, a beautiful, peaceful, rural community has been raped – transformed into a traffic-clogged nightmare. In his eyes, perhaps, this is "Progress." What you're seeing in Canton is the result of an administration that got in bed with developers many years ago, bowed toward the money, and ignored the tax-paying constituents. So what if gridlock forces commuters to spend another 30-40 minutes a day sitting in near-motionless traffic? Gridlock is the inevitable result of decisions that Yack championed more than a decade ago. Unfortunately, widening the roads still means the same thing today as it has meant in the past – that more development will take place (except now the taxpayer has funded infrastructure improvements instead of the developer) and, in a very short time, even more vehicles will be sitting on those widened roads, equally motionless.

Urbanization, sprawl, and traffic gridlock appear to fit within Tom Yack's definition for "Quality of Life," but he is wrong. This is "Quantity Trumps Quality: The Art of Compression." During Yack's tenure, Canton Township has come to epitomize the words of Edward Abbey: "Growth for the sake of growth is the ideology of a cancer cell."

Hypocritical stance

I'm writing in rebuttal to a letter submitted to the Observer by Janusz M. Szyszko that was published on Sept. 12.

Szyszko attempts to speak for the majority of Catholics when he shares his opinion on the topic of abortion as well as the issue of Jennifer Granholm accepting funds from Emily's List and taking a "pro-choice" stance. In fact, Szyszko claims that the pro-choice/anti-abortion stance is one taken by the majority of Catholics. I believe that nothing could be further from the truth and that Szyszko's stance is an attempt to remain lukewarm on this issue for fear of offending anyone. And yet, abortion is offensive, in fact it's murder.

The label "pro-choice" is a mere marketing scheme used by the politically correct and morally cowardice to defend a position that allows them to wash their hands of the blood of innocents. And I believe that Catholics have no part in this movement if we are going to follow the teachings of Jesus Christ.

Szyszko can claim that the majority of Catholics support free choice and reference his interpretation of the doctrine of free will. However, that logic is twisting the representation of God's gift of free will as taught by the Catholic Church.

I don't believe for a moment that our Creator would want us to follow the teachings of Christ while espousing the murder of children in the name of "choice." True "pro-choice" actually chooses life in the end. Abortion does not have to be the end result. Adoption along with responsible behavior should be the cornerstone that "true Catholics" embrace. Abortion is a permanent solution to a perceived temporary problem.

Jennifer Granholm cannot walk the razor-thin line and remain true to the teachings of Christ and the Catholic Church. Her supporters cannot either.

In my opinion, you cannot call yourself a Catholic and then turn your head as an innocent is murdered in the name of choice.

Granholm is accepting money from organizations that support abortion and she wants support, votes and money from her Catholic community. She cannot do both and stand on the moral high ground. I certainly support her "free will" choice to stand on one side of this debate or on the other. But real Catholics don't straddle the line of abortion. And they don't serve as lectors on Sunday and turn around on Monday and accept support and funding from the abortion industry.

While we as Catholics shouldn't judge Jennifer Granholm or her supporters, we should be discerning at the polls and when interacting with our Clergy and our Church leaders. Any Catholic engaging in heretical behavior should be ex-communicated.

QUOTABLE

'I've never run in the gear before. But I've been training for it ... My wife thinks I'm crazy.'

Canton Fire Capt. Ken Arble, who plans on running the Oct. 27 Marine Corps Marathon in Washington, D.C., in his 25-pound firefighting gear

Unique opportunity to preserve UP forest land

Phil Power

Last week was a good one for stewardship of Michigan's great places.

Gov. John Engler and the Michigan chapter of the Nature Conservancy announced the start of a campaign to buy 390,000 acres of largely wilderness land scattered throughout the Upper Peninsula. The present owner, the Kamehameha Schools Trust of Hawaii, announced in July it intended to sell the land to the highest bidder by the end of this year; best guess is the price will be in the neighborhood of $150 million.

This colossal once-in-a-life-time opportunity is obviously too large for a single bidder. Instead, the governor and the Conservancy are working to put together a very broad public-private coalition including state government (the governor has asked the Natural Resources Trust Fund for $20 million) and federal government (the Michigan congressional delegation has been asked to lobby for federal funds).

Also included is Michigan's philanthropic community (the governor has asked the biggest foundations in the state to meet with him in a couple of weeks to discuss the project). Corporations and individuals will be asked to help as time goes on.

The thought is to work out a deal with a timber company that would allow it to practice selective cutting on most of the property to preserve healthy forests and clean waters, but to guarantee public access to the land for hunting, fishing, hiking and snowmobiling.

A likely outcome is for the timber company to wind up owning title to the land, but subject to a "conservation easement"; this system has been field-tested in similar (but much smaller) deals in New York and New Hampshire.

A little land — the watershed for the Two Hearted River, the site of Ernest Hemingway's famous short story, for example — would be carved out for preservation by the Conservancy.

The deal offers a great combination of win-win outcomes:

- The land would continue to be timbered and to provide jobs vital to the economy of the Upper Peninsula. The land would also stay on the local tax roles, thereby preserving revenue base for strapped local governments.
- The public would be guaranteed continued recreational access to the land, which means fisherfolk, hunters, hikers and snowmobilers would continue to enjoy the north woods they love. The woods are important draws for the UP's tourism industry.
- Piecemeal development would be precluded. UP residents still remember with anger a company that thought to develop some of these lands near Au Train and put up long white picket fences to keep undesirables out. Once broken up and developed, this land can never be put back together.

Obviously, a deal like this is by no means a sure thing. There are a lot of moving parts involved, increasing the chances something could go wrong. Reasonably enough, the Kamehameha Schools intends to conduct a public auction to sell the land to the highest bidder.

That's why a sweeping public-private coalition on behalf of the people of Michigan is needed to demonstrate wide and deep support and, maybe, scare off some exploitative but rich potential bidders.

So far, opposition has been minimal. Most people in the UP are deeply skeptical of plots hatched up by "trolls below the bridge." But so far as I can tell, most Yoopers recognize this deal is so big and important that it needs statewide support. Local government officials by and large are positive, and the area's congressman, Bart Stupak, is taking a careful look at the details.

Local government officials by and large are positive, and the area's congressman, Bart Stupak, is taking a careful look at the details.

The one sour note was sounded by the ultra right wing Midland-based Mackinac Center for Public Policy, whose reflex arc supporting pure market-based activities is as strong as the salivary glands in Pavlov's dogs. "A state land grab," charged Diane Katz, director of science, environment and technology policy at the Center, conveniently ignoring the fact that title to the land will wind up in the private sector.

The record should show that I am not a neutral party in all this. I'm the chairman-elect of the Michigan chapter of the Nature Conservancy, so I'm biased in favor. But I think that for this enormous and unique property — certainly one of the last great places left undeveloped in Michigan — to come on the market just now is an opportunity that simply cannot be squandered.

If you'd like to support what we're trying to do, please write the Nature Conservancy at 101 East Grand River, Lansing, MI 48906. Or you can call at (517) 316-0300 or email at tnc.org.

You probably never want to be that driver either

I never want to be that driver. You know, the one you read about. Little mistake, lifetime of guilt.

First time it almost happened, I blamed the circumstances. Pulling the car out of the Busch's mall onto Newburgh, just about dusk, stopped completely just before the stop sign, just like you're supposed to do.

I'd looked left, glanced right where a stand of nearly chest-high decorative grass decoratively blocks the view, started to turn.

All of a sudden, a skateboarder was there, right bumper, steps away. He stopped. I stopped. Inches apart. After a glance, he kept going. Kid behind him actually waved appreciation for me having stopped.

After I got my breath back, I looked at the grass and shook my head. "Damn, they need to move that," I thought.

Since then, I've spotted other sites around town where bushes, flowers and trees make it tough on drivers. There's a gas station on Farmington.

But often we drivers make it tough on ourselves, too.

Next time it happened, I had nothing to blame. Purely a chance meeting that almost happened. It didn't. Boy on a bike, slicing out of the swim club parking lot and me pulling away from a day at the pool.

I'd looked around and just accelerated, and at that, I'd only accelerated just a bit. But we both hit the brakes pretty quickly.

Again, it was close.

I remember it wasn't long after that I had read about that teenager hit and killed bicycling at Laurel Park Place. It wasn't the driver's fault, it was an accident. The cyclist pulled out in front of the car. And I remember thinking about that poor driver.

Another time, I was heading to the store, pulling out of our subdivision. Thought about this again just a week or so ago when a letter writer to this newspaper referred to the white lines that mark cross walks as "the on-deck circle." It's an apt analogy for the way some people drive.

I never wanted to be that driver. But there I was distractedly pulling up to the intersection, going from a sidestreet to a mile road. I glanced both ways at the about-to-open road, but not at the sidewalk as I slowed and readied for my quick acceleration to get up to traffic.

All of a sudden, near my passenger door, there was a walker. He obviously wasn't going very fast. And he would have avoided me. But he had already been in the crosswalk when I'd gotten there.

Felt like the ugly invader to his already claimed land. I backed up and waved sheepishly, deserving a lecture and making sure it was a self-delivered.

Now one daughter is driving; another is nearly there. Sometimes I get that look or even the "Oh Dad" as I try to putter at what I figure is a safe speed down my winding street with lots of cute little faces playing and riding and running, and too many cars clogging up the road.

Yes, I know the speed limit is 25, but we don't need to go that fast.

Those close calls may not have happened yesterday, but they're hard to forget.

We have one driver in the neighborhood, woman in a SUV. Sort of has a lead foot. Some teens in the area drive too fast, too.

If I'm sounding like a crochety old bag of wind, I apologize. But I'm guessing they've never had that close call.

Or maybe they didn't see the eyes of their neighbor, their friend or their own child when they've stared down fate and won.

Sure we all have some place to hurry off to. Something important to do, to see, to get to, to be.

But I'm guessing they'd never want to be that driver either.

LETTERS

Supports OLGC priests

I am a member of Our Lady of Good Counsel parish. I drive by the protesters every Sunday when I attend church.

I believe abortion is wrong and I think every adult who is going into church when they pass the protesters already have their beliefs on abortion. When I attend church on Sunday, I am not going there to hear Jennifer Granholm speak to us.

I am not going there to hear our priests talk about her or her positions. I am going there to pray at Mass to give glory and thanks to God.

Several letters have complained about what our priests have said or not said.

I have heard both Fr. John Sullivan and Fr. Doc Ortman, in public as Mass was about to begin and in private, state that our Catholic teaching is pro-life.

We believe in life from the moment of conception to our last natural breath. I took no offense at Fr. Doc's article in our church paper, because he was simply stating we all have to make choices every day but we have the Word of God to guide us to make the right choice.

I give my full support to our priests.

Common Ground Sanctuary's

ART IN THE PARK

Friends gather to help crisis organization

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN
STAFF WRITER

Artists and organizers agree there's not a friendlier fair than Common Ground Sanctuary's Art in the Park Saturday-Sunday, Sept. 21-22, in Birmingham's Shain Park. Heidi Rehak Loby thinks that's because the event benefits the nonprofit agency dedicated to helping youth, adults and families in crisis.

This year the 28th annual Art in the Park expands to 190 exhibitors in addition to offering entertainment, children's hands-on activities, a showcase for students with disabilities from the Kennedy Center in Pontiac, and a silent auction to benefit Common Ground Sanctuary. For more details about the event, visit the Web site at www.artinthepark.info.

"I'm an art fair junkie. I drag my husband to them all year long," said Rehak Loby, special events coordinator. "What I really love about this art fair is nearly 100 percent of the artists donate pieces for the silent auction and every penny goes to Common Ground Sanctuary. The tent is 20- by 60-feet and it's full. People know we're raising money to help kids and families and for that reason people are friendly to us."

Rehak Loby is hoping the silent auction raises more than the $10,000 it did last September. A June 13 fire at the Royal Oak shelter gutted the interior so the auction, booth and application fees, and T-shirt sales are more important than ever.

"The shelter concentrates on helping teens," said Rehak Loby who lived blocks away from the building for 10 years. "They're helping them with serious family issues and job placement. What's so wonderful is that one artist heard about the fire and called from Metamora to donate. It was a big financial setback. That's why we're working so hard on Art in the Park this year."

Nancy Clark is one of the volunteers who's made Art in the Park so successful over the years. The Bloomfield Hills resident has served on the artists committee for two decades. Committee members do everything from organizing applications and forming a jurying committee to placing artists on the map once they're accepted. But Clark applauds all of the volunteers who last year made it possible to raise a total of $160,000.

"Back then it was much more simplistic and smaller," said Clark. "If we raised $5,000 it was a lot of money. It was kind of grass roots. It started to grow with everyone's ideas. Our reputation kept getting better and better.

"This year I'm excited about the new artists. I like that. We try to keep the show new. I'm anxious to see it in person."

On the other hand Clark likes the relationships she's formed with artists throughout the years.

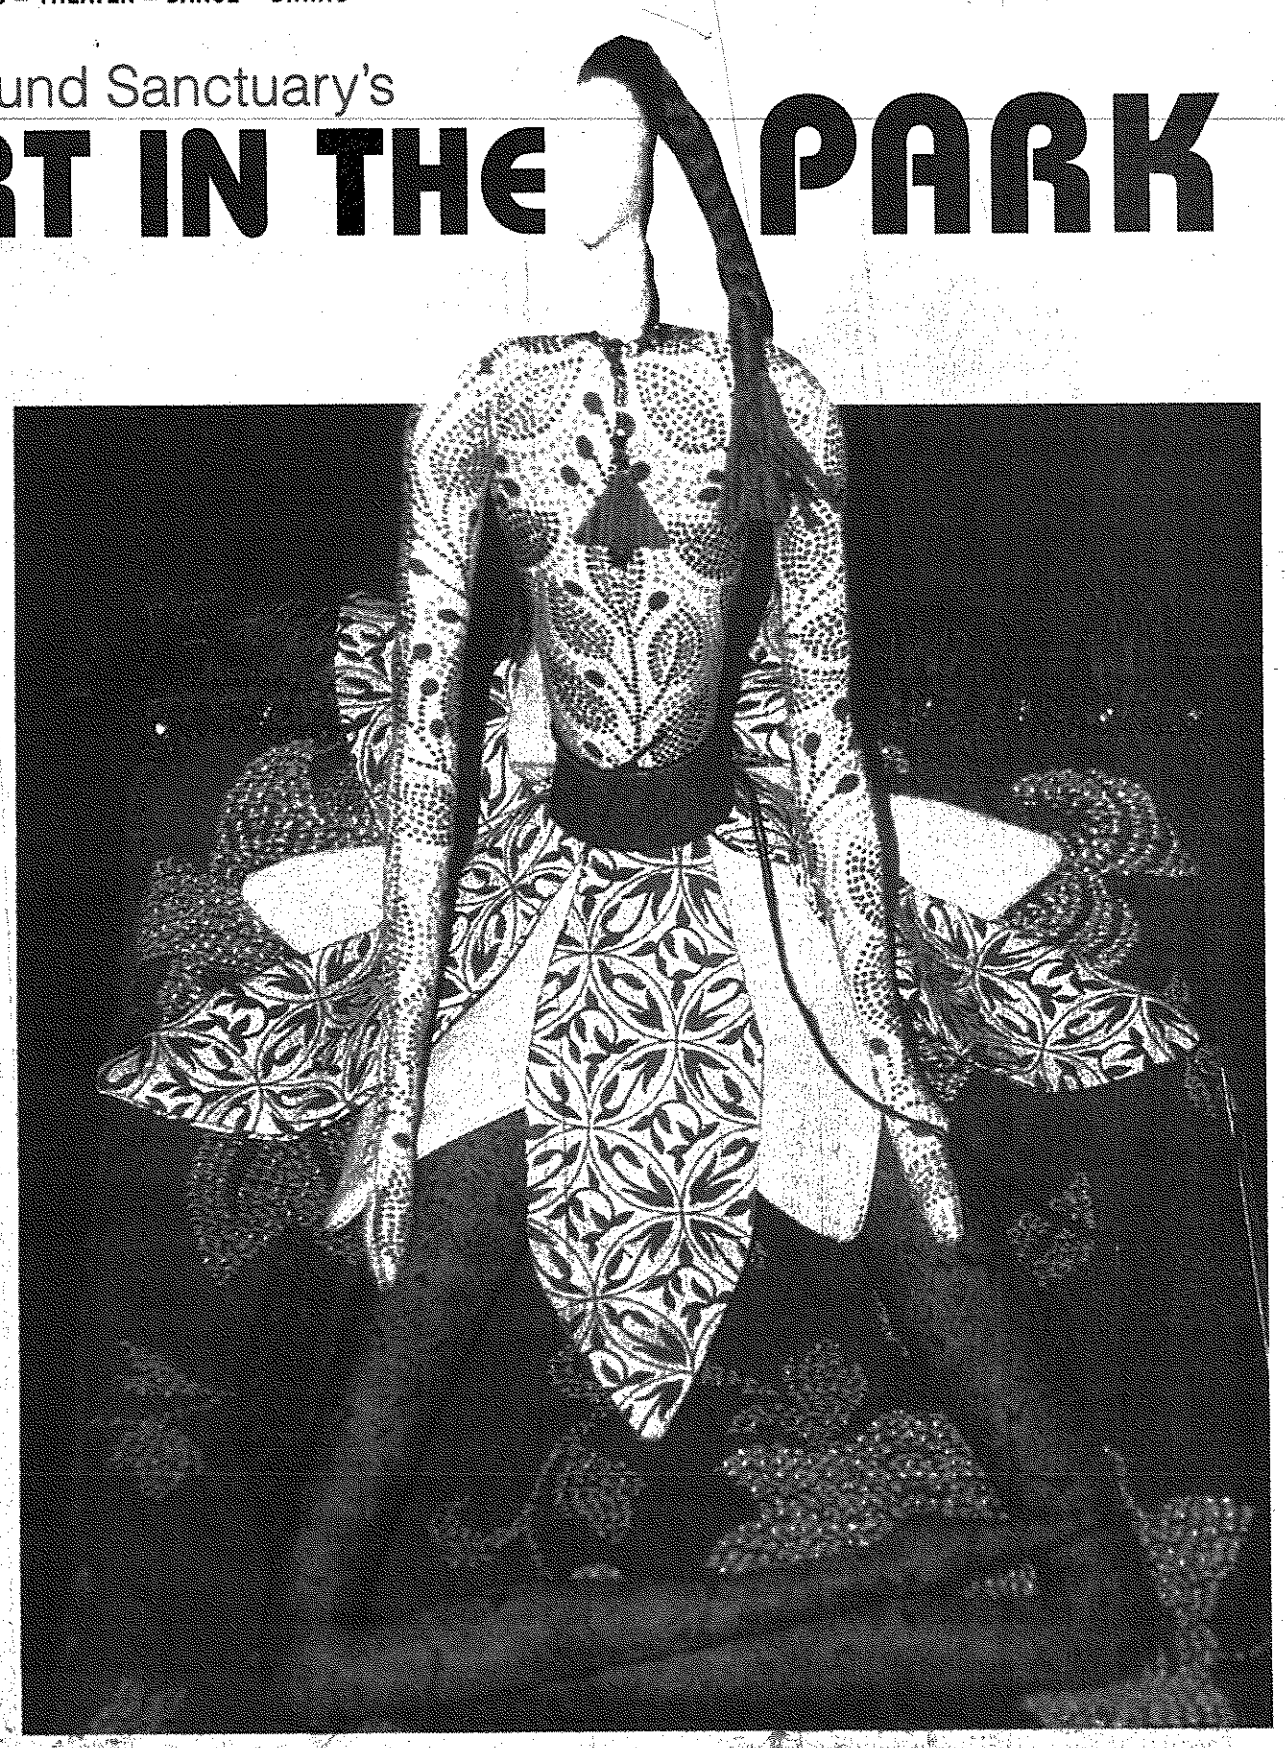

"Artists end up being like family," said Clark. "When I'm traveling throughout the country and see them we end up giving each other hugs. We all realize Art in the Park is for a good cause. I have teenagers and it's good to know those crisis lines are open and other services are available including a youth guidance program. The event also promotes art in the community."

Elena Aranaoutova of Bloomfield Hills is one of the local artists taking part in the fair. She will show lacquer paintings of figures, portraits and still life in 30-shows in Washington, Chicago and Philadelphia this year but it's her first time in Art in the Park. Born in Russia where her father was an artist, Aranaoutova creates paintings to wear as pins or to display on walls.

Try authentic Cantonese cuisine

BY ELEANOR HEALD
CORRESPONDENT

EATING OUT

Asian cuisine continues as a taste trend across the U.S. Yet frequently, Cantonese Chinese takes a bottom rung on the preference ladder. That is, unless you've experienced Hong Hua in Farmington Hills, where the food and service work at convincing you that authentic Cantonese Chinese cooking is arguably superior to all other Chinese regional cuisines.

Confucianism and Taoism, which influenced the course of Chinese history, also developed the culinary arts. Confucianism focused on taste, texture and food appearance. It also placed emphasis on the enjoyment of life, to the extent that food and friends are inseparable. Taoists were concerned about the life-giving attributes and nutritional value of various foods.

Cantonese cooking embraces both philosophies. It was the first Chinese regional cuisine to hit American shores when Chinese immigrants from Canton came to build the U.S. railways in the 1800s. They had difficulty trans-

Following grows for Chamber Music Society series

Lois Beznos seems calm considering the Chamber Music Society of Detroit opens its 2002-2003 series with the Juilliard String Quartet 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 21, in the Seligman Performing Arts Center in Beverly Hills.

Why shouldn't she be? Beznos has almost completed the 2003-2004 season when the Farmington Hills-based organization celebrates its 60th anniversary with an extraordinary lineup. Of course this season's first concert alone promises an evening to remember with the world premiere of Gunther Schuller's Quartet No. 4. Although not commissioned by the Chamber Music Society of Detroit, Beznos and the organization regularly ask composers like Samuel Barber to write music for the series. This season the Kalichstein-Laredo-Robinson Trio with New York Philharmonic principal violist Cynthia Phelps premieres a new piece by Stanley Silverman Saturday, Dec. 14.

But first the internationally-renowned Juilliard String Quartet performs Schuller, Mozart and Beethoven. In addition to concerts for the Chamber Music Society of Detroit and Philadelphia, the ensemble has two tours of Europe scheduled and in spring a visit to Japan and the Far East.

"Every concert is almost a highlight," said Beznos, president of the Chamber Music Society of Detroit and a Franklin resident. "Pianist Krystian Zimmerman makes few appearances so we're delighted that he'll be here in April. Yefim Bronfman (pianist), Gil Shaham (violin) and Truls Mork (cello) is an exciting combination of musicians. We want to present the highest caliber of musicians from all over the world."

Beznos has to plan ahead to sign the best so knowing she can count on sponsors for the $450,000 budget is essential. For the first time ever, one has stepped forward to ensure the future of chamber music, at least for the eight concerts this season. Scott Shuptrine Fine Furniture & Interior Design, now celebrating its 75th anniversary, is the overall sponsor with others such as Marx Layne & Company and Aldingbrooke Terrace and Townhome Rentals contributing for specific concerts.

"It's a partnership with Scott Shuptrine," said Beznos. "What we have in common is great quality and chamber music began in the home so it's only fitting that they're joining us."

Beznos attributes chamber music's spread in popularity to the caliber of artists and ensembles they're able to present with sponsors help – that and pursuing their mission to educate the public about chamber music. Each season the Chamber Music Society of Detroit brings in a quartet to serve a two week residency in metro Detroit. In October and May elementary to college students will hear the Miami String Quartet perform in schools. Afterwards, they'll be invited to attend the ensemble's May 17 concert with classical guitarist Pepe Romero.

"Counter to national trends we've seen a huge increase in subscriptions," said Beznos now in her 16th year with the Society, seven of them as president. "The majority of subscribers are in Oakland County but the base is building in other parts of the area. The subscription base increased 70 percent in two years. The organization is becoming more prominent in the country. I attribute it to programming the highest level of musicians, only providing the best there is. Audiences like hearing music in an intimate hall. Chamber music is a beautiful art form and seems to be growing in popularity judging by our series.

"Over the years we've become much more structured and professional. We're reaching a broader public. Our reputation is growing nationally and internationally."

Pas/Cal pops with fashion-conscious flair

BY STEPHANIE ANGELYN CASOLA
STAFF WRITER

Detroit's Pas/Cal seemed to materialize out of thin air.

Maybe it was the band's chance to open some of the most-talked about local shows this year – like The Waxwings packed CD release party or the Museum of New Art's well-attended fashion event "Five Walks."

Maybe it was a pocket full of luck.

Beyond the kitschy vintage stagewear and the tongue-in-cheek names of its members, Pas/Cal's irresistible indie pop holds up like fine fabric. Together since 2001, the music sounds dreamy like Belle and Sebastian and as shimmery as Tahiti80.

Singer Casimer Pascal said it started accidentally. He had been in a "very, very serious band" called Asha Vita when guitarist Gene Corduroy approached him with a dare – to write a three-minute pop song as fast as they could.

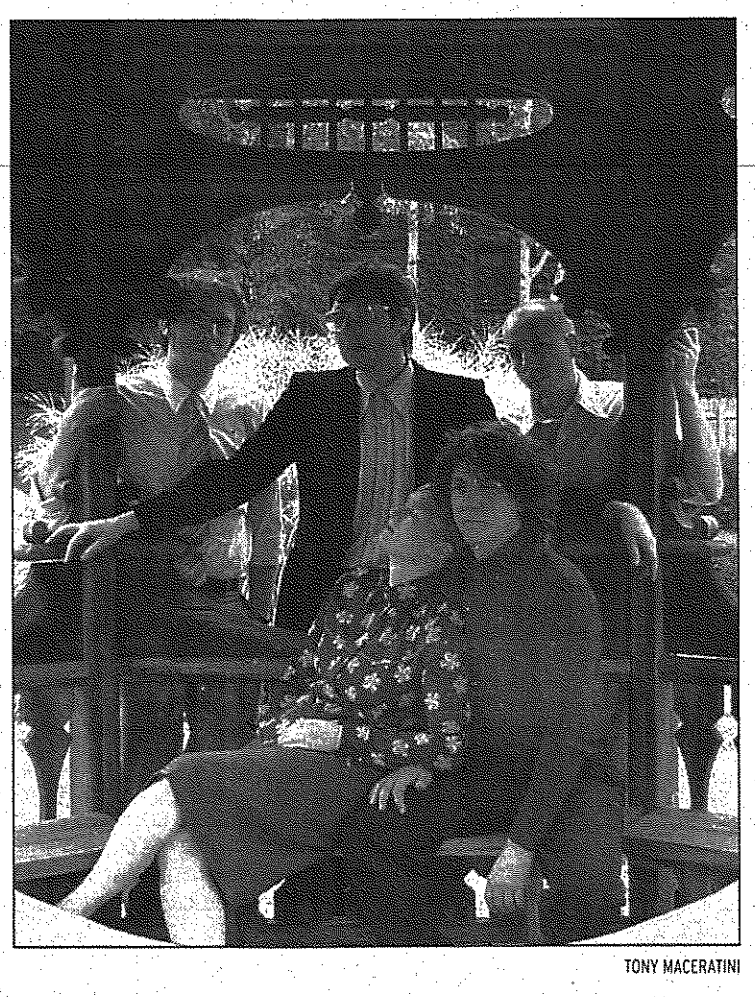

"The simple things always worked out the best," recalled drummer Little Tommy Daniels.

Initially a recording project among founding members Pascal, Daniels and Corduroy, the band soon added bespectacled bassist Nathan Burgundy. Bem and Richard Panic, a Southfield resident, joined on for live shows. "We are totally do-it-yourselfers," said Pascal.

Words like natural and spontaneous sprung to mind upon listening to Pas/Cal's latest Le Grand Magistery E.P., The Handbag Memoirs. A barrage of key changes and chord progressions sneak out behind catchy melodies.

"Pas/Cal does that, captures the complexity of a song with accessibility," said Daniels.

But it doesn't rush through material. The band is full of perfectionists, right down to elements of production. Corduroy, formerly a Rochester resident, said there are still snippets of songs they started he "can't wait to get back to."

TONY MACERATINI

Pas/Cal is Nathan Burgundy (left to right), Casimer Pascal, Bem, Little Tommy Daniels and Gene Corduroy. Catch the perfect pop this Thursday and Friday in Detroit.

And Pascal is constantly writing lyrics – often while he's driving. He often leaves messages on his bandmates' voicemail with the warning "don't erase this."

From this collaboration, songs like I Wanna Take You Out (in Your Holiday Sweater) and The Bronze Beached Boys, scamper along with all the flight and energy of a cross-country Kerouacian adventure, never bothering to check the rearview mirror:

"Please leave your notebooks at home/You can write all about it in the morning/Not today/We should go and catch air/Let the sun dye our hair/Like the bronze beached boys of the summer."

At a time dominated by garage rockers who strut onstage in jeans and tee's, Pas/Cal flirts with sophistication.

"I think style has always been important to all of us," said Daniels.

Corduroy admitted his own fashion sense was derived from a lack of money. "I could never afford Polo," he said. "It was always K-Mart. When I got older, I tried to find something that no one else would have."

On regular visits to the library, Pascal hides copies of Vogue and GQ inside the latest edition of Rolling Stone to keep up. "I'm so bought and sold on the whole rock n' roll mystique," he said.

It makes sense then that Bem, a West Bloomfield native, is also a fashion designer. "I'm into clothes," she said. "I love everything about fashion. I'm really interested in the way people dress."

Burgundy, formerly of Westland, was drawn to the "regal, refined quality." He prefers to wear pastels onstage – lots of pinks and pale blue hues.

"As a band, we have to sell ourselves," he said. "In Detroit we really stand out."

But Pascal's quick to point out that the music isn't defined by the boundaries of 8 Mile or Jefferson Ave. "We're making music for the world, not just Detroit."

The band admits it's been a little lucky, a little spoiled. Pas/Cal played its first show at Detroit's Magic Stick – where most upstarts claw for a little stage time. These musicians wouldn't settle for less.

"We're not going to be just another rock band," said Daniels.

Pas/Cal opens for The Creation, with The Sights, 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 19, the Magic Stick, 4120 Woodward Ave. in Detroit. Catch them headline with special guests The Millionaire$$$, Kalkaska, 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 20 at the Lager House, 1254 Michigan Ave. in Detroit.

Pas/Cal rewind

A musician's earliest memories can be telling, and sometimes embarrassing. Guess which member of Pas/Cal said the following:

1. "I remember my favorite song was The Lord's Prayer. I really tried to get it down."

2. "The first song I remember liking was Abracadabra."

3. "My mom's guitar was left in the closet. I decided to take (it) to my new apartment. I thought maybe I'd learn something."

4. "I played piano when I was very young. My life was just based upon music."

5. "I had a banjo and that was basically my first drum."

6. "I guess the first thing that grabbed me was The Beatles' Yellow Submarine. I watched that movie all the time when I was little."

ART

"I use 0-size brushes and a magnifying glass," said Aranaoutova. "I use silver powder on the back then protect it with lacquer and paint over. The same with gold leaf. Some look like classical portraits from museums but there's also some fun stuff like kittens."

Like Aranaoutova this is Julie Langensiepen first year at Art in the Park. The Beverly Hills fiber artist graduated from Pratt Institute of Art in New York with a degree in illustration but chose to go into designing soft sculpture instead. She'll bring everything from dolls to small purses, creatures, and dogs and cats which are machine sewn and then stitched together by hand. Currently her work is on display in Janice Charach Epstein Gallery's Limitless Visions show at the Jewish Community Center in West Bloomfield, the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Center, Ilona Gallery in West Bloomfield, Catching Fireflies in Berkley and Grand Rapids, and the new Dogma and Katmantoo in Ann Arbor. In October she demonstrate her doll making as part of the Our Town exhibition at The Community House in Birmingham. She will also be in Birmingham Temple's November show in Farmington Hills and the BBAC Holiday Show.

"I like the reaction I get from people," said Langensiepen. "It's definitely the fun side of me. What I like about it is the hands on. It's tactile. People want something to hold and touch.

"And I like meeting new people. I'm excited about Art in the Park. It's a wonderful festival. I hope a lot of people come."

George Landino's been doing Art in the Park for 26 years and even though scheduled for surgery soon he's committed to offering his whimsical wood boxes and wall pieces sure to make everyone smile. The West Bloomfield artist exhibits at several shows a year including the Ann Arbor Art Fairs.

"It's for Common Ground Sanctuary and it helps so many kids in stress. It's a local show and so many friends and former students come to see me," said Landino who taught art at Birmingham Groves High School for 38-years. "One student from 1962 now lives in Oregon and is stopping by to see me. I have to be there."

Author offers publishing workshop

Author and publisher, Leonard Charla found writers, professional speakers, executives, and aspiring authors asking him the same questions over and over again.

"They most wanted to know how to get their books published," Charla says. "Southeastern Michigan has a large number of authors and professional speakers. Far too many of them have not found a publisher willing to produce their books.

"With all the changes in publishing and information technology in the last ten years, self-publishing has become both feasible and affordable.

Charla gathered information and will present it in seminar form, Bootstraps College Self-Publishing seminar, on Saturday, Oct. 5 at the Troy Holiday Inn, Rochester Road at I-75, Troy.

The class will run from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tuition is $50 and includes course materials. Course materials are available separately at $29.50. Students may register by writing to Countinghouse Press, Inc., 6632 Telegraph Road, #311, Bloomfield Hills, MI 48301, or by calling (248) 642-7191.

Charla started and is the CEO of Countinghouse Press Inc. He has been a published author for many years and has been self-publishing since 1997. He became a publisher with his first cookbook, Never Cooked Before/Gotta Cook Now!

Charla also is a lecturer and speaker. He has teaching experience as adjunct assistant professor at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and The College for Creative Studies in Detroit and at Cranbrook Academy of Art.

"Writing a book is hard work," Charla said. "And publishing a book is equally difficult. Neither of those projects, however, is as tough as marketing the book once it has been published."

He added that a self-published author can keep a book in print to meet continuing demand, not always the case with books published by large publishers. Also, fewer editorial or publishing decisions are within the author's control when a large publisher is involved.

The Bootstraps College Self-Publishing Seminar is designed for budding authors to "pull themselves up by their bootstraps" and publish their own works. Self-publishing has always existed, but it became much more feasible with development of personal computers in the mid-1980s. Now, improvements in word processing have brought easy, desktop-based self-publishing within reach of all authors.

The seminar provides an introduction to the world of self-publishing and to the many opportunities it affords the author, including chances for expression, recognition and economic rewards that flow from the author's creativity and efforts.

Authors will discover how to edit their work form content and grammatical errors standpoints; how to obtain copyright for their work; what to consider in designing the book; how to plan and execute marketing and publicity for the book; and the opportunities available to the self-published author for reviews, distribution, and fulfillment of orders.

"Going the self-publishing route saved 18 months to two years over the agent/publisher method," Charla said. "It gave me the ability to exercise complete editorial and creative control over my book."

CANTONESE

planting traditional cooking for a number of reasons. Immigrants were principally men, from a Chinese culture where women did all the cooking.

Unfamiliar ingredients caused unsuccessful adaptations. To compensate for a lack of traditional flavors, overcompensation in the use of sugar and soy sauce became common. American Cantonese was born!

LET'S BE GRATEFUL

Hong Hua, translating as "grateful," has owners that are bent on presenting traditional Cantonese dishes to Americans. Getting their start in Montreal, partners Danny Yu, Gary Yan, Shetwei Seto and Chef Peter Chan have been together for 20 years. Chan is the brilliance behind the traditional Cantonese dishes. His partners are masters at pleasing customers and running a business that showcases Chan's cooking. At 17 years old, Chan began cooking in Hong Kong restaurants and eventually found his way to the famed Far Eastern, a members only dining club.

Hong Hua opened two years ago in a free-standing building, formerly occupied by a Bill Knapp's. The owners created an atmosphere that subtly announces an oriental eatery with lots of understated American casual elegance from white tablecloths to warm cherry wood and soft-toned fabrics and carpeting.

The menu is extensive, so Danny Yu offered navigation tips. His first suggestion was to begin with a soup, either Premium Wonton in Soup, which has both the fragrance and taste of homemade chicken broth, or Shredded Duck and Mushrooms in Thick Soup. Chinese black mushrooms and a housemade duck stock create the authenticity.

FROM APPS TO MAINS

A Deep-fried Stuffed Crab Claw or Roasted Spareribs were Yu's appetizer proposals. The succulent spareribs are not steamed first, as is frequently the case. They are slow cooked while being basted with Chef Chan's special sauce.

At this point in the meal, I'd be viewing a whole Peking Duck, to be carved tableside, arriving to my table of four (a little Confucianism!). A bargain at $32, it serves four in two separate courses: Crispy skin with pancakes and green onions; and shredded duck meat with Chinese vegetables and steamed rice. Peking Duck requires ordering a minimum of 24 hours in advance.

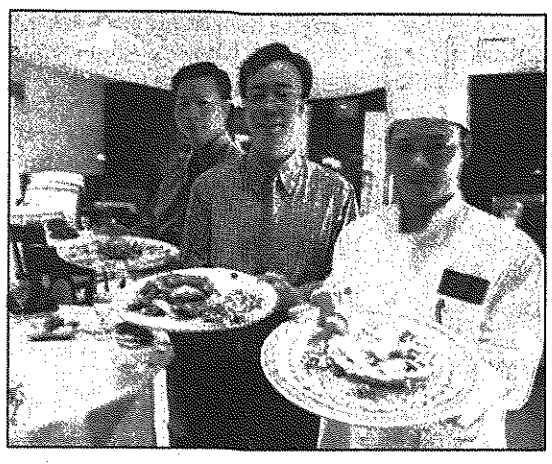

Seafood dishes are the number one choices of regulars at Hong Hua. Many are prepared with grouper "because," Yu said, "it has good texture. We buy it fresh; never frozen and we do not freeze it once it is delivered from Florida." He suggested that the best preparation was Fried Fillet of Grouper and Vegetables in a spicy X.O. sauce, another of Chef Chan's culinary secrets.

"The basic difference between Szechuan and Cantonese," Yu said, "is that Szechaun dishes taste stronger because of the spices. Cantonese is lighter and, I believe, healthier. With traditionally-made Cantonese dishes, you get to taste the purity of top-quality ingredients that are not masked by sweet, sour or heavy spices."

Eleanor Heald is a Troy resident who writes about dining, food, wine and spirits for the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

Ten free trees will be given to each person who joins the National Arbor Day Foundation during September 2002.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit foundation's Trees for America campaign.

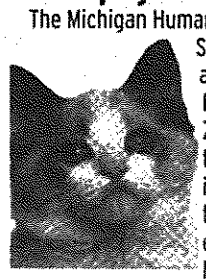

The trees are the American redbud, white pine, sugar maple, white flowering dogwood, pin oak, red maple, birch, silver maple, red oak and Colorado blue spruce.

They will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Oct. 15 and Dec. 10, with enclosed planting instructions. The 6- to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members will also receive a subscription to the foundation's colorful bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, and The Tree Book, with information about tree planting and care.

To receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Ten Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Sept. 30, 2002.

Gardeners catch rays, praise with super sunflowers

BY MARTY FIGLEY
CORRESPONDENT

When At Home Editor Mary Klemic and I visited many sunflower growers in Wayne and Oakland counties, we found all the people most enthusiastic about the contest. We hope they had as much fun as we did.

Some of this year's winners have won before. The youngest participant is 11 months old. (We didn't ask the ages of the adults.) Two people from each county won two prizes, one in each category.

We are happy to announce here the Wayne County winners of the 2002 High Hopes Sunflower Contest.

TALLEST SUNFLOWER

First place, 14 feet 6 inches – Ron Brzuch of Canton. Brzuch grew the tallest sunflower, which topped out at 14 feet 6 inches! Quite a show!

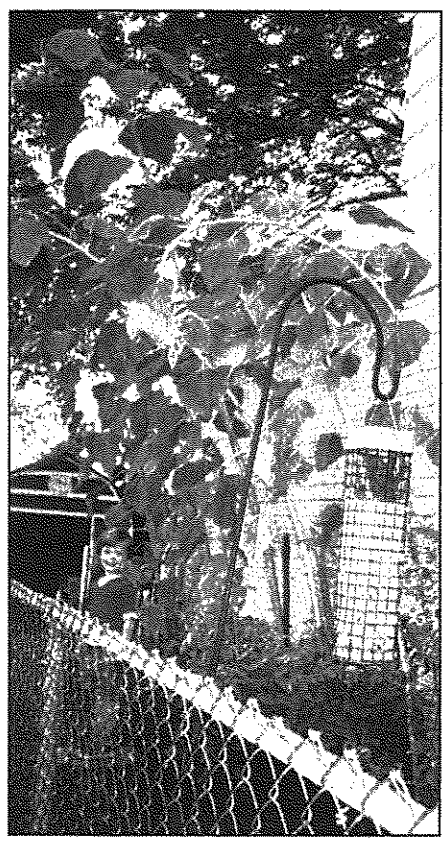

His subdivision, Sunflower Village, has a contest each year and he has won there. This is the first year he has participated in our contest.

Ron wasn't home when we visited. His wife, Donna, told us he says, "I believe soil preparation is very important, and mixed compost into the soil to prepare it for the plants."

He used no fertilizer, just water.

Second place, 12 feet 5-1/4 inches – Kelly Newman of Livonia.

Kelly, age 3, started a seed at a kindergarten roundup. The family thought it would die because of the cold and rain in the spring, and planted nine more, but they all survived. At that time Kelly chose one as hers, and it became the winner.

MARTY FIGLEY

Kelly Newman stands among the tall sunflowers at her home. Her winning sunflower measured 12 feet 5-1/4 inches.

'I used kitchen waste and nitrogen fertilizer to build the soil. They receive lots of sun and we give them lots of water.'

Kerry Hlady
Canton

The plants grew along a side of the house in a location that was very sunny in the morning. The automatic sprinkler system was directed to the bed.

The family also put stakes into the ground to support the plants and mounded soil around each plant for support. When they removed the mounded soil, they found roots growing along the stem.

Third place, 12 feet 5 inches – Kerry Hlady of Canton. Kerry has a bed devoted to sunflowers (with a few vegetables). It is edged with railroad ties and has plastic fencing to keep the critters out.

"I used kitchen waste and nitrogen fertilizer to build the soil," Kerry said. "They receive lots of sun and we give them lots of water."

Last year he saved seed from his second place winners (height and seed head) in our contest. He plans to dry some seeds in the oven and give some to the birds.

Kerry also came in third place in the largest seed head category, with a seed head 15 inches in diameter. Two of his plants had 15-inch seed heads.

LARGEST SEED HEAD

First place, 17 inches – Dawn Goryca of Livonia.

Second place, 16 inches – Jill Goryca of Livonia.

The competition for the largest seed head in Wayne County was quite a close race! Dawn and Jill Goryca of Livonia planted their sunflower seeds at their family garden plot at Greenmead.

Dawn is 11 years old and Jill is 12 years old. Their sister, Renee, 9, helps in the garden.

Kits help you build workbench

BY JAMES AND MORRIS CAREY
FOR AP WEEKLY FEATURES

Construction in our family goes back several generations. Our great-grandfather was a master plumber; our grandfather and his brother built fishing boats.

Later, as the fishing industry in our area waned, our grandfather decided to take a stab at commercial building construction and later, home building.

With a plumber, a boat builder and a homebuilder, we had an unusual amount of exposure to construction while growing up.

Although our father wasn't a builder he was an avid do-it-yourselfer. Without his interest in woodworking, plumbing, painting and just general tinkering, who knows what field we might have wound up doing for a living?

Our dad's workshop was originally our grandfather's construction company workshop.

The top of the workbench frame was fashioned with solid 2-by-12 fir planks.

We both have workbenches with built-in vises and use them regularly for every imaginable home-maintenance task. We know that not everyone has the time, money or tools that it takes to create a fancy workbench like our father's. If that describes you, read on.

BUILD A WORKBENCH

With a small list of lumber and a few special connectors, you can build a workbench that will challenge most others for strength, durability and cost-effectiveness.

A bench can be built using a kit that you partially create. An American company that manufactures metal connectors for wood construction offers a bracket kit that comes with steel connectors, screws, a lumber list and assembly instructions.

Since the kit only comes with a list, you have the freedom to select the type of wood you want to use, and buy it separately.

There is some cutting that must be done. Even if your dimensional lumber is cut to length, you will have to make a few notches in the plywood countertop and the shelf below it (six locations altogether, each 1½ inches by 3½ inches). With the steel connecting brackets, this job is perfect for assembly with the screws provided.

Although the bench height in the plan is exactly 3 feet from the floor, you can vary from this standard depending on your preference. Remember, this is your workbench. Changing the height won't cost a cent, and might prove to be a wise decision if your height varies much from average.

The depth of the bench is just under 2 feet, and the length is exactly 4 feet. If you build the bench according to the plan's width and depth, the project can be built with a half-sheet of plywood – one-fourth sheet for the bottom shelf and one-fourth sheet for the bench.

By buying extra brackets, more plywood and a couple of extra 2-by-4s, an additional shelf or two can be added. Or you can forget the extra shelves and use the material to extend the length of the bench. Or you can do both.

The project should take no more than an afternoon. Gathering material should take longer than the assembly. About the only thing that you could do wrong is to cut the notches in the plywood in the wrong direction; this project really is that easy.

Make tracks for railroad gardening fun

Railroad gardening is popular in the gardening world. It's a fascinating hobby that will appeal to the whole family.

Garden Spot

Marty Figley

What could be more fun than having your own train town in your own back yard? Little buildings, people and plants, and a train with track the correct gauge, make it all seem real.

You can make your train garden be anything you wish and have your own outdoor empire! The finished garden will need about 72 square feet of space.

An outdoor train needs some basic materials, and then the sky's the limit.

Generally a starter set consists of an engine, a couple of cars, track for a circle configuration and a power supply. The size of the track of these railroads is 1-3/4 inches in width. Virtually all trains made by leading manufacturers run on the same width track.

If you wish to buy the parts separately, you'll need 12 pieces of straight track, enough curved track for a circle, and an extra curve for siding. The switch can be on the left or right side at the end of the siding stop.

WHERE

The first step is to decide where you want your train garden to be. A flat area is a good place, but some elevation can add interest.

Look at the traffic flow in the yard, where you will want people to be to see the train, where people and animals naturally walk.

Be aware of trees; they may be messy and the leaves will need to be raked.

If the foliage is dense, flowering plants won't bloom well, and if it's very dense, there won't be enough light for plants to grow.

To ensure safety, install a GFI (ground fault interrupter) in the electrical system. Be especially careful about the electricity and the power pack, which will control the speed and direction of the train.

TOOLS

Because the ground will freeze and thaw in the winter, you will need a sub roadbed to allow the track to move.

The tools you'll need are: garden shovel, stakes, hammer, string, scissors, crushed stone, a short 2-by-4 piece of lumber, level, tamper, wire cutters, small paintbrush, garden hose or sprinkling can, screwdriver, tape measure and pencil.

Lay the track on the ground to get an idea of where you want it to go. Lay the pieces close together and when you're sure, drive stakes in the ground around the outer edges of the track. Tie string around the stakes so you'll have a guide to dig up the grass after you have taken up the track.

If you wish, apply an herbicide to kill any weeds; wait a few weeks before you put in any plants.

To assure good drainage, dig a shallow trench 5 to 6 inches wide and 3 inches deep. It doesn't have to be perfect.

Find a stone that looks real, such as crushed limestone, chicken grit or findings. Don't use round stone or river rock – it's too light and will wash away. Pour the stones slowly and when the trench is half full, pack it firmly with a tamper. Repeat this process.

Put water in the trench to help pack the stone down and when it's all even, tamp again.

Now lay the track, being sure the connections are tight. Connect each piece firmly, being sure the train will run smoothly on the track.

To hold the track in place, use small stones between the ties. Make sure all is level, side by side and length. Adjust the stones as necessary.

Be careful to keep gravel out of the switch. Brush it out with the small brush, then water the track and stone bed to settle the rocks. When it is dry, check the level again.

Gently put the train on the track and test run it slowly at first until you get the feel of running the train.

PLANTS

You'll want plants for the garden, so keep them in scale. Use dwarf plants or those that can be pruned to scale. Boxwood and juniper are particularly good. Also, Alpine plants are fine – just be sure they get good drainage.

Start with shrubs and ground covers such as creeping thyme (there are many short ground cover plants), then add flowering plants. A hardwood mulch, finely chopped, is also a good cover.

Several strategically placed rocks will make the landscape more realistic.

When you have everything in place, have a gold spike party! Wear a striped hat like the real railroaders wear and have a great time.

Keep the track clean with a sanding block or a track-cleaner locomotive. Hobby shops are bursting with ideas and equipment. Do take advantage of their expertise.

This is what past refrigerator was like

I have a friend by the name of Diane Armstrong who writes a column in my hometown newspaper way up north in Timmins, Ontario, Canada. She gave me the suggestion of writing about the refrigerator that I grew up with.

I'm sure that when you are done reading this, you will concur that both the writer and the refrigerator are over the hill.

Appliance Doctor
Joe Gagnon

In the winter you could hear the sounds of the horse-drawn milk wagon as the rubber tires would make crunch noises on the packed-down city street and the soft-spoken delivery man would pick up the empty bottles and place two fresh ones by the entrance door.

He always knocked twice to make sure you knew the milk was there. If you didn't retrieve these glass bottles, you would end up slicing the frozen top cream into a dish.

In the kitchen was a creature that looked like a cabinet and stood higher than I did at age 10. It had two doors with shiny chrome hinge hardware, and a flat steel drain pan that lay underneath the product right on the floor.

The top compartment wasn't a freezer, but simply a storage area where a block of solid ice – weighing about 40 pounds – would be placed to provide a cold temperature for the lower compartment.

Both interior sections were lined with metal walls and steel shelving to help contain the cold.

It took several days before the block of ice would melt and I would have to pull out the drain pan and carry it over to the sink to empty it. I always had to be careful not to hit the handle of the hand pump that supplied the fresh water inside the house.

This is a description of our refrigerator in my young days. I remind you that the ice machine of today wasn't yet invented.

During the dead of winter, the ice came from the Mattagami River, which is 50 to 80 feet deep and has a current strong enough to carry lumber down to the Feldman Lumber Mill.

Some big contraption of a moving saw, drawn by a horse, would cut through the 3 feet of frozen ice. There was an engine on this thing and chains of all sorts that would haul the huge blocks to the shore, where another conveyor belt would place them into wagons.

This left an area the size of an ice rink with wide open water exposing steam, as we used to call it, rising straight up into the air. We knew how dangerous the river could be in the summer, having lost several friends to drowning, but in the winter after ice cutting it would look absolutely frightening.

It was only the next day that the hole was covered with a sheet of ice and in just a week a dozen children with shovels in hand would clear off the new, smooth ice for a hockey game.

The ice was stored in a building that looked about three stories high and half a block long. It had signs all around that said "No Trespassing," and the people who put them there meant business.

I remember only once in my life that I saw the inside of this building. It was during a hot July when my father took me there to pick up some ice.

It was awesome to stand in front of 40 feet of ice when you were only 4 feet tall. The ice was coated all over with sawdust. (There was plenty of that around, as Timmins has always been a huge lumber-bearing part of the world.)

About twice a week during the summer months, a covered wagon would come down the street and a huge man would use big prongs to grab a block of ice and walk right into our kitchen.

He would place the ice right into the upper part of our refrigerator, and my mother always gave him a piece of pie and a glass of milk right out of the refrigerator.

Stay tuned.

Joe Gagnon can now be heard on WWJ-950 and WXYT-1270. He is a member and past president of the Society of Consumer Affairs Professionals. His phone number is (248) 455-7281.

and used natural fertilizer, and watered them well. They heard about the contest from their "next plot" gardeners who are anxious to hear the results, as are many other people who garden there.

The girls were surprised to find how heavy the seed heads were.

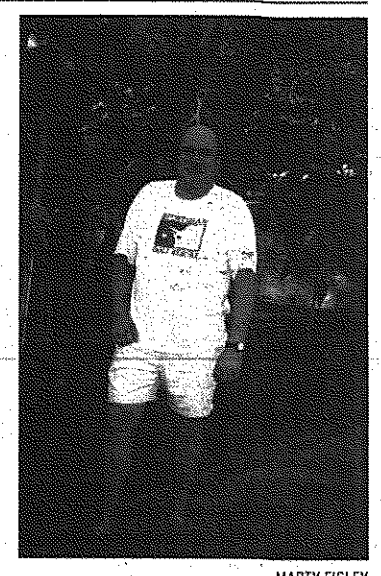

Although the weather has been beastly, the sunflowers grew well, with Miracle-Gro being the preferred fertilizer. Much sun and water seemed to do the trick.

Space limitations don't allow me to share stories about some of the other people who joined in this contest, but we want to thank you all and wish you well when you participate next year – and we hope you do!

And much appreciation to English Gardens for sponsoring this event.

Prizes will be awarded 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 21, at the English Gardens store at 6370 Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield.

You're welcome to attend and talk to the winners to find their secrets of growing large sunflowers.

Kerry Hlady was a double winner, for growing the third tallest sunflower and the one with the third largest seed head.

Biking has been great experience

OK, so you've been mountain biking for some time now and are looking for a new challenge. Why not give racing a try? You will have never ridden a bike as hard but you will have so much fun and meet so many great people you will be hooked after your first race.

I never thought I would get into racing when I first started mountain biking. Heck, when I first started I couldn't even do one lap on the four-mile Maybury State Park trail without stopping two or three times to rest.

Then as my fitness started to go up and I missed competing from my high school days I decided to enter a race. My two goals were to not come in last and have fun. So I signed up for a beginner race and not only did I not come in last, I finished in the top five. I was hooked!

Five years later I look back on that day and it is still one of the biggest highlights of biking life.

Along the way I have met so many great riders and friendly people it's hard to hit a trail and not see someone I know or have crossed paths with because of racing.

There is something great about getting together each weekend with so many people who share the same love of mountain biking. Sure, during the race competition can be high, but afterwards swapping stories, comparing results and meeting new riders is priceless.

The following comments can be found on the Michigan Mountain Biking Associations, (www.mmba.org), web site about racing.

"Why would I want to race? Everyone has their own reasons for racing: The speed, camaraderie, competitiveness (with yourself and others), social aspects, spectating, kids races, a point series, pain, challenge, awards, beautiful courses, motivation for training, fitness, etc.

"The racing experience will inevitably provide memories of accomplishment, whether you win a race or just suffered harder than you thought you ever could just to see that darned finish line. You'll have stories of good luck, bad weather, and pain. The challenges you'll battle on the race course will certainly put perspective on the lessor challenges of your everyday life."

Another benefit of racing is how much more fun rides become as your fitness goes up. You will ride harder then you ever have before in your first race. Getting caught up in all the hype and electricity is easy.

So if you keep this up you are going to want to train to be faster. As you train your fitness goes up. Now those fun rides are even better because you can ride all day at an easy pace. So now you are ready to head out to your first race. What should you expect?

Well the hardest part of mountain bike racing isn't cornering or climbing. The biggest obstacle is the anxiety everyone feels as they roll up to the starting line before the race. I still get butterflies and jitters before every race.

Racing can be humbling and inspiring at the same time. You will soon find out you are not as great a rider

Plymouth racer finds new life on wheels

Local rider finds health, happiness on pro mountaing biking circuit

With college just a few months away, Plymouth native Kelli Emmett, 25, wasn't thinking about competitive sports.

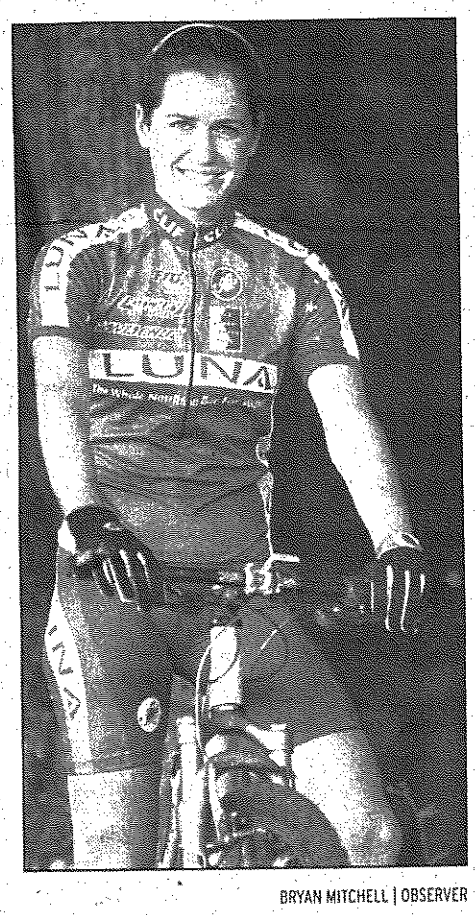

Back then the Plymouth Canton High School graduate had other things on her mind, like having a good time with friends. After all, she wasn't even living a healthy or athletic lifestyle at the time.

Fast forward two years and the Western Michigan University 20-year-old began re-evaluating her priorities.

Emmett, after much encouragement from her brother and dad, took them up on the idea of cycling – a decision she made with some apprehension, but one she has never regretted.

"I think a lot of people would really be surprised to hear I'm a professional athlete," said Emmett.

mountain bikes throughout the United States and the world.

After her family got her on a bike she hooked up with other riders at WMU. At the time, however, she never considered becoming a competitive racer because of a lack of confidence left over from her high school days.

She eventually befriended Billy Gillespie, of Billy's Bike Shop in Galesburg, Mich., who saw the potential Emmett possessed. He urged the future pro to give mountain bike racing a try.

"I don't believe in hype to motivate," Gillespie said. "I just told her she could do it and to practice, practice."

So that's what she did. She joined Billy's mountain bike race team and learned from her new coach and supporter. He made sure she was fit to her bike properly and off she went.

"Billy said, 'Just go for it,'" she explains. "So I did. I did OK in my first race and thought, 'I can do this.'"

She ultimately started racing competitively and the result was consistent progress in races, taking the state by storm.

Then in 1999 she started hitting national races across the country. At the 1999 National Collegiate Mountain Bike Championships she took third place and even won the women's expert 19-24 year old class in the National Off-Road Bicycle Association (NORBA) National at Mt. Snow, Ver., dubbed one of the toughest race courses in the country.

Then, in 2000, Emmett returned to the Collegiate National Championships, where she'd finished third the previous year, and won the race. She said that race has undoubtedly been the best of her career so far.

"I had a mechanical problem with my bike early in the race," she explained. "I thought, 'oh forget it, I'm done, I can't win.' But I just kept going and before long I caught the lead girl and passed her halfway through the last lap!"

So Emmett decided to turn pro and move to Colorado, "to get into the mountains for training," she said.

This is her third year as a professional mountain bike racer, which she admits has had as many ups as downs. One of the big up sides was signing on with the "Luna Chix" - an all-women's mountain bike team. The title sponsor, Luna Bar, a nutritional energy bar marketed toward women made by the Clif Bar Company, started the team this year. They haved received much attention and become quite popular on the mountain bike circuit.

Emmett particularly enjoys working along side teammate and world mountain bike champion Alison Dunlap, who she considers her most admired cyclist.

"She is the best athlete out there," according to Emmett.

Emmett says the team gets along really well and she likes all the attention they get.

Yankee Air Museum dedicated to aviation lore

BY MARGO DEWEY
SPECIAL WRITER

Imagine you are on a mission with 10 other crew members aboard a Boeing B-24 bomber. It's World War II. Bullets are flying everywhere. You are 20 years old, a pilot in the U.S. Army. Within just a few minutes of being airborne, an engine dies.

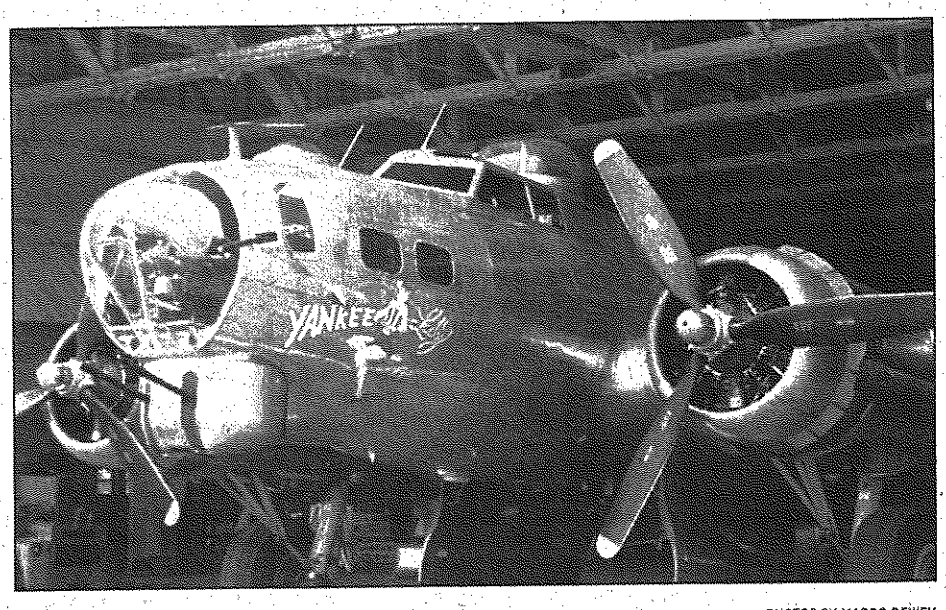

Your only thought at this time – "let's land this lady"!

This is not a fictitious moment in history. This was reality for Dick Bodycombe, a retired major general who was honored with a purple heart for saving his comrades during one life threatening mission in WWII. Bodycombe, an Ann Arbor resident, can remember every detail of that flight.

"We were fighting the Germans at the time," he said. "I was flying a B-24 which is a little bigger than the B-17. The Germans were shooting at us constantly. We crashed on an island off of the Yugoslavian coast. We survived, and three of us received a purple heart."

Bodycombe said he was just 20 years old when he faced that life threatening moment. Many of his comrades on that flight were only 17 years old.

"That plane was really a bear to fly," he said. "It was a good thing I was a big guy. I think that's why I was told to fly that one. You had to really work at it to get it in formation because it had two big fins."

The Yankee Air Museum will fly visitors on the "Yankee Lady" Boeing B-17 bomber for $400. The fee includes membership in the Yankee Air Museum.

The history of aviation is packed with many stories that are still unfolding from generation to generation.

These stories continue to be a part of our past and present through the dedicated efforts of a unique group of people

On Sunday, Sept. 22, the Yankee Air Museum Foundation will host "Founder's Day Open House. For $5 participants can enjoy a pancake breakfast and a tour of the hanger and museum artifacts.

The event begins at 9 a.m.

"Visitors can also pay $400 and enjoy a ride on the B-17," said. Stevens. "This is an incredible experience for anyone. The flight is a half hour and for $400 you also become an official Yankee Air Museum Foundation member."

There are group tours available as well as tours designed especially for school children and seniors.

RACER

"Its fun. One time I was in a race and a guy rode up behind me and asked me to marry him!" she said. "The enthusiasm toward the team is great."

The Plymouth native said another one of the highlights of this race season came in the short-track mountain bike race at the NORBA National in Wisconsin, where she placed sixth.

Emmett attacked early on in the race, putting herself out front and creating a gap between her and the rest of the field.

This forced other racers to wear themselves out chasing her down while teammate Dunlap settled in behind the chase.

Then, when Emmett was caught, Dunlap was able to zip past everyone for the win.

"Alison (Dunlap) and I had a chance to work some team tactics in that race," Emmett said. "My legs were feeling good and I worked hard to help her win the race and still took sixth place. That was super rewarding."

These days it's not hard to see why Emmett is eager to give advice to anyone interested in mountain biking or cycling in general considering her background.

Emmett believes the most important thing to remember is to enjoy what you get into whether it's cycling, another sport or anything in life.

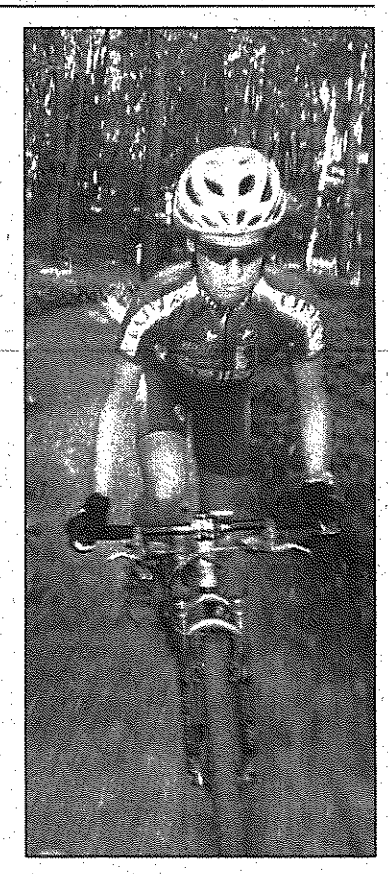

"There are more great opportunities than ever to be a professional women athlete these days but the biggest thing is you have to have fun!" she said.

While simultaneously wrapping up this racing season and finishing school, Emmett is focused on her "ultimate" goal, the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece.

She feels competing in the Olympics is an achievement every athlete dreams of.

And when asked if she thinks she will really do it she says straight forward, "Well, yeah!"

There's no doubt Emmett has overcome her lack of confidence and is taking on bigger personal and professional challenges.

as you thought, but at the same time you might also find out you're better than you thought.

Knowing what to expect is a big part of calming those pre-race jitters. Here is some useful advice so you don't have to learn it the hard way:

■ Sign up for a beginner race. These are geared toward racers with little or no experience in mountain bike racing and are usually shorter than sport or expert races.

■ Make sure your bike is in good shape and tuned up before the race. Don't save repairs or adjustments until the night before the race.

■ Carry spare tools and tubes with you. Mountain bike racers have to be self-reliant. You cannot accept outside help or replacement parts once the race has begun. If you get a flat, you have to fix it or you're in for a real slow race.

■ Chain damage is still the number one problem with mountain bikes. Keeping your chain clean and well-lubricated will help, as will frequent chain replacement. Periodic inspection of your chain for wear, stretch and damage may save you a long walk home.

■ Drink lots of fluids before and during the race. An athlete should always drink plenty of water, but this is of particular importance prior to a race. Be sure you have a water bottle with you at all times. During the race a good rule of thumb is to take a drink every 15 minutes.

■ If you are in a multi-lap race, arrange to have someone pass you drinks and maybe food during the race.

■ Pre-ride the course to note the difficult spots and passing opportunities.

■ Try to pre-register for a race. This makes it less hectic on the day of the race. It is also usually a few dollars cheaper to pre-register for local races.

■ Be polite. Be tolerant of others' mistakes. Wait for a location where there is plenty of room before attempting a pass. Allow faster riders to pass you. Tell riders you are about to pass that you are passing on the left or right.

■ The number one rule? Have Fun!

So now you are ready. Well it's a good thing you live in Michigan, because we have a great racing scene here in our state.

With a few promoters and races almost every weekend around the state it's easy to find a race that fits into your schedule.

For more information, race calendars and mountain biking in general go to the MMBA's web site at www.mmba.org or call (248) 288-3753.

You can also check out my site on the web at www.mountainbikemichigan.com for info, race calendars and photo galleries. The three promoters in the state are Tailwind (www.tailwind.net) or call (248) 634-6178, Fun Promotions, (www.funpromotions.com) or call (616) 453-4245 and High Gear Racing, (www.highgearracing.com).

who represent the Yankee Air Museum in Belleville which is located on the property of Wayne County Willow Run Airport.

PASSING HISTORY ON

Bodycombe, now 80 years old, is passing down his own personal moments of aviation history to his three grandchildren.

"I have written down several things that are now on display at the Yankee Air Museum," he said. "We're finding that children, especially in the ninth or 10th grade, really begin to appreciate the stories we are sharing with them."

Founded in 1981 by Dennis Norton, an Ann Arbor resident and a commercial developer in Ann Arbor, the Yankee Air Museum preserves southeastern Michigan's aviation history. Visitors can take a step back in time and enjoy an indoor and outdoor aircraft display as well as an historical museum library of artifacts and literature located in several rooms in the upper level of the historic hangar.

"The display room topics include the representation of various eras in history including WWI aviation, WWII, Korea, Vietnam, Women in Aviation and information on the B-24 Liberator Bomber," said Southfield resident Jon Stevens, the Yankee Air Museum president. "We are still working on cataloging various items, but once everything is cataloged, we will have approximately 250,000 items on display."

Some of the artifacts include the original uniforms of soldiers in WWI and WWII as well as vintage cameras used by soldiers and reporters. There are hundreds of stories including one story of a lady who could keep up with "the Army boys" who fixed the aircrafts – "Rosie the Riveter."

In 1941 Henry Ford assisted the U.S. war effort by developing an assembly-line type facility for the production of heavy aircraft at Ford's Willow Run plan, which is now part of the airport.

HISTORIC RESTORATION

"The Yankee Air Museum is not only a place to learn about aviation history, but it also allows each one of us a chance to be a kid again," said Stevens. "We get to live the dream of getting into one of these historic planes and become a part of a crew that fought for the freedom of our country. We intend to have this museum here for a long time. Last year we signed a 30-year lease with Wayne County."

Many of the planes on display at the Yankee Air Museum have been restored by hundreds of devoted volunteers who make up the Yankee Air Museum Foundation (YAMF). There are more than 2,000 YAMF members throughout the U.S. who are actively involved in historic aviation restoration.

"The Yankee Air Museum hangar itself was purchased in 1983," said Stevens. "The inspiration to have the hangar was to acquire the B-24 'Liberator' for display, which was one of the planes constructed in one of Ford's (Henry Ford) automotive factories."

Other vintage aircrafts on display include the A-7 Corsair II which went into combat over Vietnam from the flight deck of the USS Constellation in 1968. The Lockheed C-60A (Lodestar) has a history linked with the infamous Amelia Earhart.

During World War II the U.S. Army used the aircraft for training and for transporting personnel and freight.

"The Model 18 version of the Lockheed C-60A was originally designed as a successor to the Lockheed Model 14-C, the earlier model 10 Electra which Amelia Earhart flew," Stevens said.

Several of these restored planes can be seen today flying in the sky during various Yankee Air Force airshows scheduled throughout the U.S.

Many aviation enthusiasts have already enjoyed watching the restored B-17 G "Yankee Lady" take flight.

"It was restored in 1986, and was flown in 1995," said Stevens. "It took nine years and thousands of volunteer hours of work to restore this vintage beauty."

LABORS OF LOVE

Some of the individuals who worked on the B-17 G are retired aviation maintenance workers of commercial airlines. Their passions just to be near an airplane ignites the energy that allows some of these individuals to volunteer 10 to 14 hour days, 6 days a week to making this legendary aircraft flyable.

Approximately 15 years ago, Fred Lockwood of Saline retired from his position as a maintenance manager for Northwest Airlines. He couldn't stay away from airplanes, and he was drawn to the Yankee Air Museum to become a part of this "flying history."

"I enjoy this work a lot," he said. "I like taking one that's busted up, and I like to try to make it fly again. These planes are a part of our history, and it's very important that they will be around not only for my kids but for many generations."

Lockwood has worked in the commercial aviation industry for more than 50 years. He said even as a kid he enjoyed building model airplanes.

"I hope more people come out and enjoy the history of these planes," he said. "It's important to remember why they were built."

Milan resident Norm Ellickson, also now retired from Northwest Airlines, was Lockwood's supervisor. While being interviewed, he was working intensely with Lockwood on a broken wingtip of the B-17.

"For me, this isn't work," he said. "It's something I truly enjoy. I often spend up to 80 hours a week out here trying to get these planes flyable again."

Plymouth resident Michelle Plawecki is a member of a new foundation created last February that will enhance the efforts of the Yankee Air Museum. The Michigan Aerospace Innovation Foundation is targeted to gather the seed money for a second hangar that will provide additional space to display even more artifacts of aviation history.

"We want to build an establishment that will showcase even more in-depth history of aviation," she said. "We need to display more of the events involving women in aviation history."

Plawecki, a former Wayne County Commissioner, is in charge of networking and making the necessary contacts to gather grant money to build a new hangar.

"We're hoping by next year, which is the 100th anniversary of flight, to have enough money to at least begin promoting the idea of constructing a second hangar at the Willow Run Airport," she said.

GO WITH GOD.....

Life is a journey! One does not arrive here a fully developed human being, and the task of becoming fully human is often compared to a long and sometimes perilous -though hopefully joyful and interesting- journey. But it is a journey where, for the most part, we don't know where we are going to end up, or in many cases, where we are likely to pass or even what we should pack for the journey. Some people are in the habit of packing a tool kit when preparing for a vacation to help deal with the contingencies of travel, and particularly with the possibility of automotive breakdown. In the same way, we should give some thought to what kind of "tool kit" we should carry with us on our journey through life. What virtues and values should we carry? What kind of education should we pursue, and what are the lessons of faith to carry with us? Whatever else we take on our journey through, we should always take God with us as a traveling companion and guardian of our lives. As our Spanish-speaking friends say before a journey, "Vaya con Dios," or "Go with God."

There is great gain in godliness with contentment; for we brought nothing into this world, and we cannot take anything out of this world;
R.S.V. 1 Timothy 6:6-7

Livonia teens remodel their church youth center

BY DIANE GALE ANDREASSI
CORRESPONDENT

While their friends flocked to the malls and beaches the last few days before school began, a group of teens chose to spend their time fixing a youth center building at Mt. Hope Congregational Church in Livonia.

"We really want to inspire other kids to do good things in their communities," said Tonya Kozakowski, 15, a 10th-grade student at Churchill High School in Livonia.

The brightly painted walls and small remodeling jobs in "The White House," a tiny structure in the back of the church on Schoolcraft between Middlebelt and Merriman roads, was to be a surprise for the youth pastor, Justin Olivetti. The White House is used for youth group meetings.

With fatigue furrowing his young brow, Arthur Holtz, 15, an 11th-grade student at Stevenson High School, explained what he had done for the last 11 1/2 hours Thursday: "Painted, painted and (pause) painted."

"Justin has done so much for us that we want to do something for him," said Abi Schafer, daughter of the church pastor, the Rev. Steven Schafer.

Volunteer youth leader Sal Palland was amazed to see the teens show up for the three-day volunteer work that began daily at 7 a.m. and continued to 7 p.m. By 6:30 p.m. on the first day, paint samples from the brightly colored walls were splattered over the bodies of the volunteers.

"You can see they're having a little fun, too," said the Rev. Schafer as he held up one teen's blue arm.

BRIGHT IDEA

The idea to fix The White House developed during a youth ministry program attended by nine youths from the Mt. Hope Congregational Church youth group last month. Ranging in ages from 12 to 18, they roofed homes and did all kinds of maintenance, carpentry and decorating jobs for poor families in Rantoul, Ill.

When they returned home, they wanted to do something in their community. They immediately thought about surprising Olivetti, Palland said. Olivetti has added a lot to the youth program in the two years he's been in the position, and his efforts are appreciated by a lot of people, Palland added.

"It feels so good to do something for someone else without being obligated or paid," said Holly Antal, 15, a 10th grade student at Churchill.

Roderick Brandon, 14, said the labor was good for them in a lot of ways."We've grown well spiritually and physically."

The White House was designated for the youth in the community shortly after the Columbine High School shootings in Littleton, Colo., two years ago.

"We thought that we as a church should do something to give kids a safe place to go," the Rev. Schafer said. "Not just for our kids, but kids in the community."

Kathy Kozakowski, Tonya's mother and a youth leader with Palland and Eunice Brown, was moved to tears as she explained how comforting it is to know that the youth group is available for kids to spend their time.

"I was surprised that these teenagers would agree to do this work," Palland said. "We're thinking about the anniversary of Sept. 11 and how the teenagers are working to do something positive."

Local businesses donated food and other gifts for the remodeling, including Mike Kozakowski, who laid the sub-floor before the teens put in the new kitchen tile, as well as Sam Goody, Media Play, Dixon's Bible Book Store, Blimpie Sub at Schoolcraft and Merriman, McDonald's at Five Mile and Middlebelt roads, AAA Heating and Cooling, and Target.

The Mt. Hope Congregational Church youth meetings are 6-8:30 p.m. Wednesdays for junior high school students and 6-8:30 p.m. Sundays for senior high school students.

The groups are available to all teens regardless of religious affiliations.

Clerk Bennett announced a new feature found on Canton's Web site for voting information.

PUBLIC HEARING: Item 1. Public Hearing on Proposed Millage Rates and FY 2003 Budgets. Treasurer Kirchgatter declared the Public Hearing on the Proposed Millage Rates opened at 7:04 p.m. The proposed maximum millage rates are as follows:

	2001 Millage Rate	Proposed 2002 Millage Rate	Increase (Decrease)
Charter millage	1.5100	1.7100	0.2000
Fire Special Assessment Millage	2.9400	2.7400	(0.2000)
Police Special Assessment Millage	4.4000	4.4000	(0.0000)
Total	8.8500	8.8500	(0.0000)

These millage rates are required to balance the proposed FY 2003 budgets. The Fire and Police Fund are supported almost entirely by the special assessment millages that were approved by the voters in 1976 and 1977.

Director Minghine stated the Board will conduct a Study Session on October 1, 2002, which is open to the public, at which time the Board will go over the budgets in detail. The purpose of tonight's meeting is to receive citizen comments regarding the proposed millage rates and budgets. The overall rate is unchanged at 8.85 mills. The Charter millage is moved from 1.51 to 1.71 and the Fire millage has moved down from 2.94 to 2.74 and the Police is unchanged at 4.4 mills.

1st for Rocks

This doesn't happen every day. In fact, according to Salem golf coach Rick Wilson, it may be the first time ever for the Rocks in competition.

In a Western Lakes Activities Association dual match against Livonia Franklin Sept. 11 at Idyl Wyld in Livonia, Aaron Cheesman got a hole-in-one, acing the 150-yard third hole with an eight iron. According to records available to Wilson, that's the first time a Salem golfer has gotten a hole-in-one in competition.

But it's not a first for Cheesman. A junior, he got his first ace at Hilltop last year. He shot a 37 for the round at Idyl Wyld, tying for medalist honors with two others. However, it couldn't save Salem from defeat as Franklin emerged with the meet victory.

Whalers stung

The Plymouth Whalers dropped its final game of the preseason 6-3 to the Sarnia Sting Saturday in an Ontario Hockey League game played at the Compuware Sports Arena. The Whalers led 3-1 halfway through the first period. The Sting came back and tied it up before the first intermission.

Rick Arnaldo tied the game for Sarnia and Danny Fritsche sent home the game winner with nine minutes left in the second period. Sarnia added two more goals to seal the deal. The last was an empty netter by Tyler Hunchuk.

Tickets remain available for Plymouth's home opener Saturday, Sept. 21, at Compuware, against the OHL champion Erie Otters. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Call (734) 453-8400.

Hockey rematch

In a rematch between the 2002 NAHL Roberson Cup and USA Hockey Junior A National Championship contenders, the Compuware Ambassadors and the Pittsburgh Forge battled at the Island Sports Center in Pittsburgh, with Compuware winning twice.

In the opening game Friday, the Ambassadors got three goals from David Rohlfs – the third coming in overtime – to beat Pittsburgh 3-2.

On Saturday, the two teams were tied at 2-all until Compuware's Frank Furdero scored at the 7:52 mark of the third period. Goalie Larry Sterling made that stand up for a 3-2 victory.

Lions split

The Canton Lions went 1-1-1 Sunday against the Belleville Cougars in Week Two of their Western Suburban Junior Football League schedule.

The varsity squad was upended, 32-12, by the Cougars. The Lions varsity won its opener on Sept. 8, 20-6 over the Farmington Rockets. The Lions junior varsity squad improved its record to 2-0 with a 20-6 victory over Belleville. The JV defensive unit has not allowed a point in two games. The Lions' freshmen unit tied the Cougars, 6-6.

This Sunday is Homecoming for the Lions. All alumnus are encouraged to attend and be recognized at halftime.

Salem attack proves too much for Stevenson

SOCCER

Sometimes it takes a little luck to win a championship.

When Salem met Livonia Stevenson Wednesday in a soccer match that usually decides the winner of the Western Lakes Activities Association Lakes Division, it wasn't luck that made the difference.

The Rocks earned this one, coming out aggressively after the three-time defending league champs, taking an early lead and withstanding a Spartan rally, then getting the game-winning goal with 16:17 to play for a 2-1 victory at Stevenson.

Salem improved to 7-4 overall, 1-0 in the WLAA's Lakes Division. Stevenson, ranked third in the state, suffered its first loss; the Spartans are 6-1-1 overall, 0-1 in the division.

Both Salem coach Ed McCarthy and Stevenson coach Lars Richters agreed: Two players were the difference in this match, and they both played for the Rocks — senior co-captains Kevin Savitskie and Brian Popeney.

Each had a goal, with Popeney setting up Savitskie's first-half strike and Savitskie starting the play that resulted in Popeney's game-winner.

"My hat's off to those two," said Richters. "They're two of the best players around. It's hard enough to defend one real good forward, let alone two.

"They're certainly the best twosome we've played against."

Through the first 30 minutes of the match, the Rocks dominated the action. And the pressure paid off when Popeney gained control of the ball at midfield, carried

Chiefs just too tough for Zebras

Dutch Morrell scored three goals to carry Canton past Wayne Memorial 8-0 in a Western Lakes Activities Association soccer match Monday at Canton.

The Chiefs improved to 4-3-2 overall, 2-0 in the WLAA. The Zebras, in their first season in the conference, dropped to 4-2-1 overall, 0-2 in the WLAA.

SOCCER

Alex Popescu added a goal and an assist for the Chiefs, with Ryan Busse, Matt Tomasso, Pat Zemanski and Ryan Lenahan also scoring goals. Brad Westlund, Brandon Dugan, Jeremy Romer, David Mintz and Andy Cortellini had assists.

Kris Holowicki started in goal for Canton, but was replaced by Steve Mischung eight minutes in.

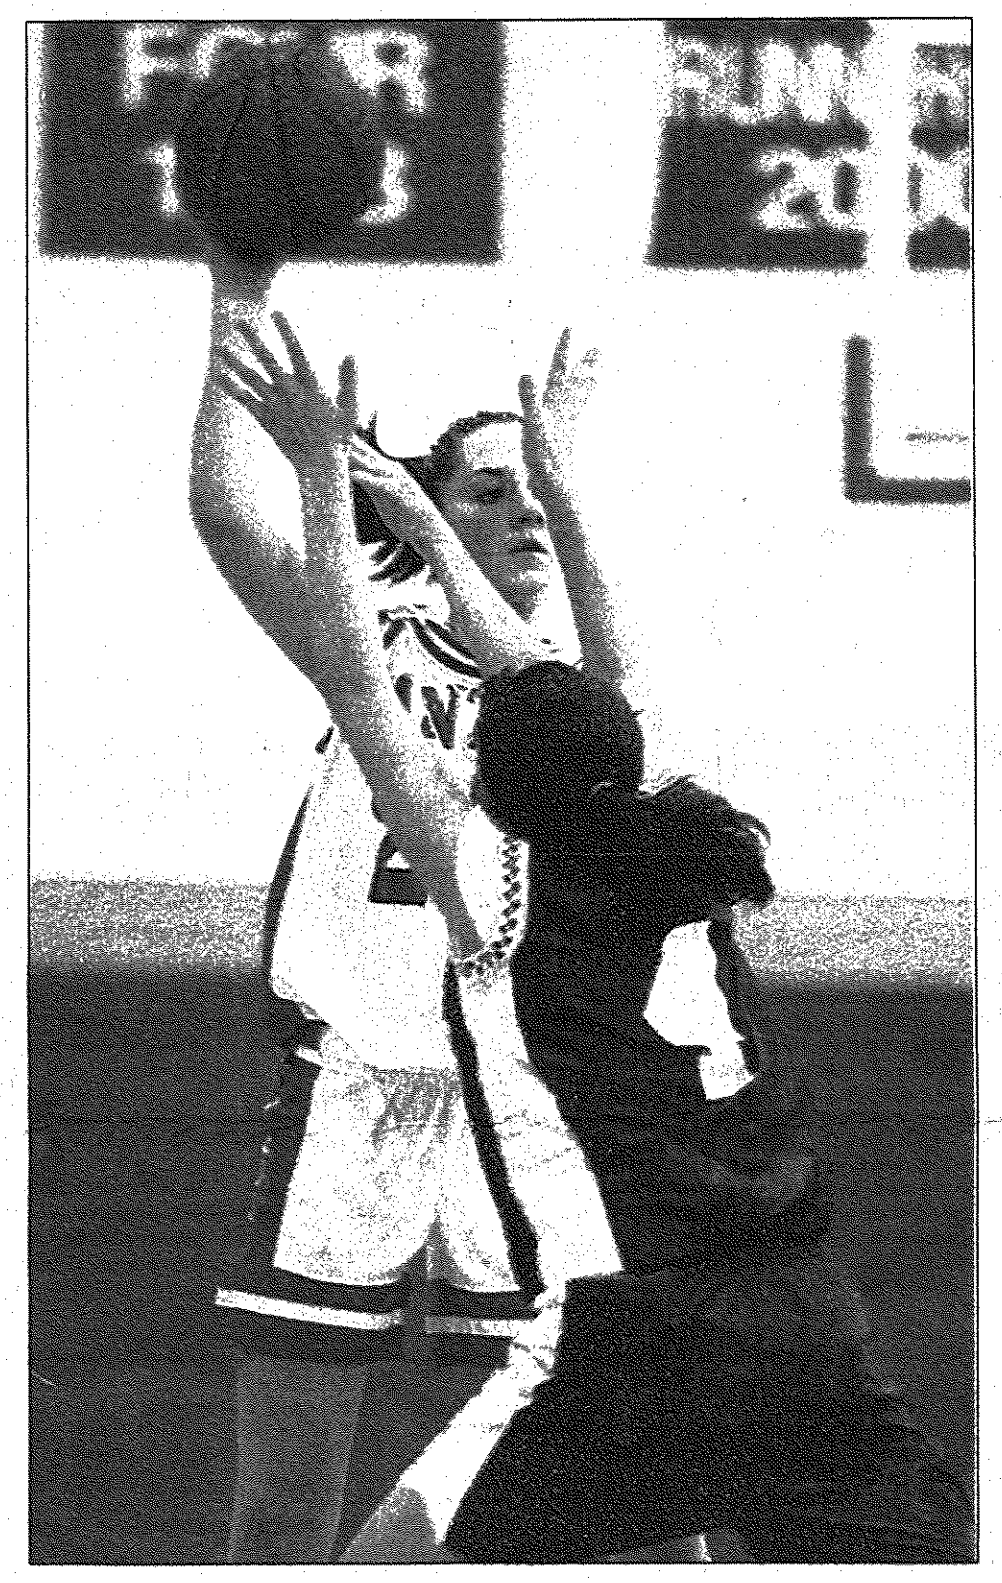

Salem 5, Franklin 1: The Brian Popeney-Kevin Savitskie combination continued to click for Salem in the Rocks' victory at Livonia Franklin Monday.

Each player scored two goals and assisted on another for Salem. Popeney's first goal, assisted by Steve Shull, gave Salem a 1-0 lead in the first half; Savitskie's first goal, assisted by Popeney, made it 2-0 at the half.

Popeney scored early in the second half, assisted by Savitskie, to put the Rocks up 3-0 with Savitskie's second goal, assisted by Brandon Ross, making it 4-0.

The Patriots (4-4-1 overall, 1-1 in the WLAA) got on the board when Taylor Babowski put a shot past Salem keeper Jeremy Boothroyd. Chris Conlisk got that one back for the Rocks, assisted by Parker Stinar.

Canton 2, A.A. Huron 1: Alex Popescu scored two goals and that was enough to carry Canton past Ann Arbor Huron Saturday at Canton. Pat Zemanski and Brad Westlund earned assists for the Chiefs. Kris Holowicki was in goal for the victory.

Marian's ball-hawking defense, like this applied by Claire Aubrey (4), was a problem for Canton all game long. Katie Cezat (with ball) led the Chiefs with 10 points.

Marian crushes Canton

BY C.J. RISAK
STAFF WRITER

This was certainly unexpected.

Birmingham Marian came into Tuesday's non-league basketball game at Canton HS with a .500 record. Those losses, however, came against two top-notch teams in Flint Northern and Detroit Country Day.

Canton was trying to recover from its first loss of the season, suffered last Thursday to Northern — which is ranked second in the state. And although the Chiefs ended up losing to the Vikings by 13 points, they were ahead in the game until late in the third quarter.

So Tuesday's game seemed an ideal test for both squads. But it turned out to be otherwise.

The Mustangs lived up to their end of the challenge. Using their superior team quickness to great effect, they harassed Canton continuously.

And the Chiefs response? Well, there wasn't one. They fell behind early and never really answered the call, eventually folding in the fourth quarter and settling for a 60-39 loss.

Marian improved to 3-2. Canton slipped to 4-2.

"I never would have thought we would come in here and get a 20-point win," said Marian coach Mary Lillie-Cicerone. "I would have been happy with a two-point win.

"Canton always plays a good

Young Rocks splash past Chiefs

BY C.J. RISAK

Just a few short years ago, Yvonne Lynn was one of Salem coach Chuck Olson's best swimmers.

Now she's coaching the Canton team, and on Tuesday night, her Chiefs went up against Olson's Rocks in a Western Lakes Activities Association dual meet at Salem.

Think Olson pulled some punches for his former star?

Think again.

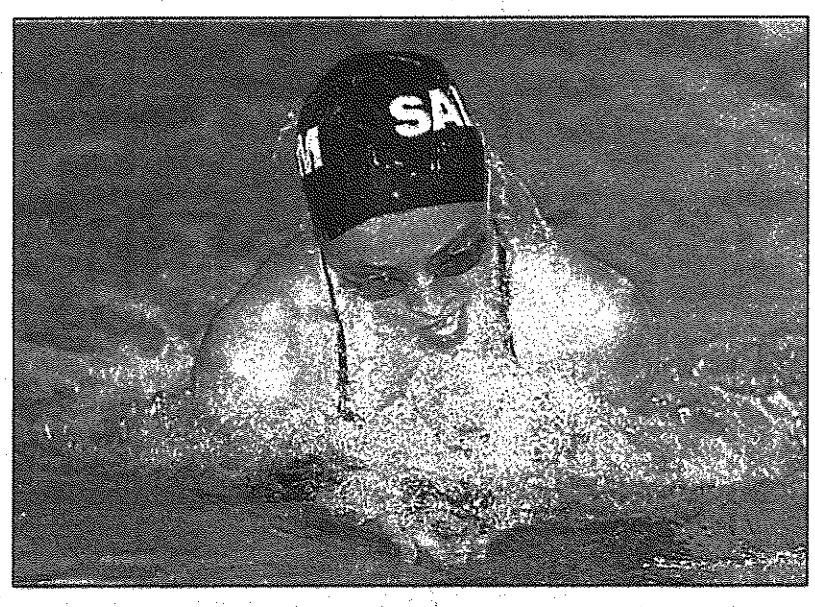

"You've got to do what you've got to do," said Olson after Salem toppled Canton, 118-68. The Rocks are now 1-1 in dual meets; Canton is 0-1.

Ten days earlier, the two cross-campus rivals had met in the WLAA Relays. Livonia Stevenson and Northville were the top teams on that day, but Salem was third and Canton fourth.

It seemed evident Olson wasn't ready to allow the Chiefs to gain any ground.

"They've got a lot of friends on that other team," said Olson of the Rocks-Chiefs rivalry. "And we always get a good crowd for this meet.

"But (Canton) will do all right. They're not bad."

Kelsey Lincoln was instrumental in Salem's win over Canton, collecting wins in two individual events and two relays.

Still, eight of the 12 firsts went to Salem swimmers, including all three relays. Freshman Kelsey Lincoln and sophomore Heather Michalsen paced the Rocks with two individual wins and two more in the relays.

Lincoln placed first in the 200-yard freestyle (2:06.81) and 100 breaststroke (1:13.22), while Michalsen won the 200 individual medley (2:23.91) and the 500 freestyle (5:48.23).

Lady Ocelots rule Mott Invitational

Winning six of seven matches, Schoolcraft College's volleyball team marched to the Flint Mott Invitational title last weekend, improving its overall record to 17-4.

The Lady Ocelots opened on Friday with wins over Clark State (Springfield, OH) 30-6, 30-26 and Genesse 30-22, 30-15. They picked it up where they left off on Saturday, winning a tough match against St. Clair County CC 37-35, 30-25, but then ran into trouble, losing to Owens Tech (OH) 30-21, 22-30, 15-5.

SC wasn't down for long, however. The Ocelots bounced back to defeat Glen Oaks 30-13, 30-17; St. Clair again 30-28, 30-21; and, in the final, Mott 30-28, 30-25.

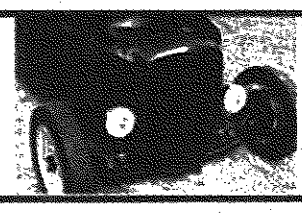

Team leaders in attacking were Holly Soldenski with 56 kills (.260 kill percentage) and Carly Szajnecki with 49 (.333). Noelle Swartz (Canton/Westland John Glenn) had 36 kills, Stephanie Koslowski had 26 (.355) and Katie Drews (Livonia Stevenson) had 24 (.269).

Swartz also had 47 digs, six service aces and five blocks; Szajnecki collected 19 digs, eight aces and five blocks; Soldenski finished with 18 digs and six blocks; Koslowski got 15 digs and six aces; and Drews totaled seven blocks and five aces.

Ioana Vescan led the Ocelots with 169 set assists (11.3 per game) and 11 aces; she also had 25 digs. Meghan Mitchell had a team-high 57 digs, Desiree

Salem boys seek better finish; Canton 3rd at Ludington

After a good (if not great) showing at the first Western Lakes Activities Association Cross Country Jamboree last Thursday at Cass Benton, Salem boys coach Geoff Baker had hoped for continued progress at Saturday's New Boston Huron Invitational at Willow Metropark.

He didn't get it.

The Rocks, competing in one of three division, finished fifth out of 10 teams with 152 points. Ann Arbor Huron won the division with 67 points, followed by Milford's B team (8-14 runners) with 88, Grosse Ile with 136, and Dearborn Fordson with 143.

After Salem were Livonia Stevenson with 168, Sylvania (OH) Northview with 175, Monroe with 193, Livonia Churchill with 217 and Woodhaven with 221.

"A couple guys ran pretty good," said Baker. "But as a team we didn't run well at all. This is the first time we've run two races in a week this season, so I guess I can cut 'em some slack on that.

"But you can only pat them on the back and say 'That's okay' for so long. By the end of September we'd better get it together, or it'll be too late to put anything together."

The Rocks were expected to challenge for the WLAA championship, but they haven't shown that kind of overall ability thus far. However, Justin Hajduk continues to impress; he finished first at the New Boston Huron race in 16:08, two days after winning the upper division at the Jamboree in 16:30.

Next best for Salem at New Boston was Randy Bearden, 16th in 17:09, followed by Jim Leddy, 32nd (17:37); Eric Ness, 47th (18:02); Adam Warner, 56th (18:08); Jimmy Walsh, 60th (18:21); and Jason Lewis, 65th (18:33).

At last Thursday's Jamboree, Salem would have finished second to Northville in the upper division (officially, it was a non-scoring meet), the Mustangs totaling 54 points to the Rocks' 61. Stevenson would have been third (75), with Walled Lake Central fourth (96), Canton fifth (100) and Churchill sixth (118).

Hajduk placed first overall in 16:30, followed by Canton's Aaron Lanning (16:39) and Stevenson's Matt Gillespie (16:50) and Sean O'Halloran (16:58). The Rocks other runners were Bearden, 11th overall (17:28); Warner, 12th (17:29); Leddy, 17th (17:54); Ness, 20th (18:02); and Walsh, 23rd (18:11).

The key for Northville was placing three runners in the top nine: Clark Paciorek, sixth (17:10); Tim Dalton, seventh (17:13); and Joe Lunn, ninth (17:18).

Other runners for the Chiefs were Jon Western, 10th (17:24); Steve Kress, 16th (17:51); Steve Cheek, 32nd (18:32); Dave Galea, 40th (19:16); and John Madonna, 43rd (19:35).

Last Saturday at the Ludington Cross Country Invitational, Canton finished third overall in the 25-team race with 136 points, trailing only Fremont (64) and Benzie Central (114). Lanning placed first overall in 16:45.95. Other Chief runners were Western, 15th (18:03.32); Kress, 21st (18:17.51); Cheek, 24th (18:20.97); Galea (19:19.74); Sam Manees (19:35.14); and Madonna (19:56.37).

SALEM GIRLS 1ST

A poor performance at the WLAA Jamboree last Thursday served to inspire the Salem girls at Saturday's Warren DeLaSalle Invitational at Stoney Creek Metropark.

The Rocks finished first in the 10-team Division One race with 45 points, followed by Birmingham Groves with 74.

"Coming off a dismal performance at our league Jamboree on Thursday, it was good to see the girls respond to the beating we took by getting a little angry and competing the way we are capable of on Saturday," said Salem coach Dave Gerlach. "I could tell our kids were not emotionally excited for our meet Thursday, since it did not count for any league standings, and we went on and ran very conservative.

"I challenged them to come out on Saturday and run more aggressively in the front end of their race. They did that and ran away from the rest of the field."

Amanda Kassem led the Rocks, placing sixth in 22:02. Liisa Keski-Hynnila was seventh (22:13), Lauren Kane placed ninth (22:29), Lianne Griffiths was 11th (22:39), Monica Przebienda was 17th (23:09) and Stephanie Hajduk finished 19th (23:11). At the Jamboree last Thursday at Cass Benton, Kassem finished 21st (21:33), Hajduk was 32nd (21:59), Erin Jensen was 33rd (22:00), Meghan Galvin placed 36th (22:12), Lauren Medley was 39th (22:25), Katie Dondzila was 40th (22:36) and Sheena Haddad was 41st (22:37).

Salem 7th at Adrian; Canton victorious

Not particularly good, not particularly bad.

That sums up the performance of Salem's golf team at Monday's 17-team Adrian Invitational, played at Lenawee Country Club.

The Rocks finished seventh, but their team score of 322 was just 10 strokes behind the winning total posted by Haslett (312).

Brighton was second with a 314, followed by Okemos (315), Saline (316), East Lansing (319) and Grand Ledge (320). One stroke behind Salem were Adrian and Temperance Bedford at 323.

"I thought 320 would be a good score for us," said Salem coach Rick Wilson. "And we were close to that. We were competitive today."

Joe Pomorski earned a medal (presented to the top 10 finishers) for Salem with a 76, placing him sixth. Other scorers for the Rocks were Aaron Cheesman at 81, Pat Shaw at 82, Charlie Suder at 83 and Andy Thackaberry at 85.

Seniors (55 and older) get to bowl and receive a ball at a reduced rate.

There will also be a special charity squad for the Taylor Rotary at 1 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 5, in which all proceeds will go to the Polio Plus program.

On the Wednesday 7:30 p.m. squad, the PBA men will oil the lanes to the specifications of the pro tour.

That is a chance to bowl on the same conditions that the big name bowlers use.

All entrants must use their 2001-02 yearbook averages based on 21 games.

Each pro bowler is given a minimum of a 220 score to be added to that of their amateur partner.

The youth pro-am will be held at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 5 with the youth competitors cut into four divisions based on averages.

Youth bowlers may enter for $45 without a new ball given out.

There will also be a pro tour qualifying for those who are good enough to fill in the three open spots held open for this opportunity to bowl against the best in the world for the pros cash prizes.

The top prize money is at $40,000.

Among the world class bowlers expected to compete are: Parker Bohn III, Pete Weber, Walter Ray Williams, Jason Couch, Chris Barnes and Robert Smith.

Spectator tickets are available in advance for the early pro-ams to the qualifying rounds, match play and the televised stepladder finals.

Entry fees for the Pro-am are $149 for adults, $139 for seniors, $75 without ball and $65 for seniors less ball.

For more information, call Taylor Lanes at (734) 946-9092.

■ Some people can be so thoughtless about others.

Even in this hallowed sport of bowling we can find isolated cases where a few people will commit for a league season, come to the league meeting partake in the buffet and at the 23rd hour call up the league secretary and cancel out at the last minute, the day before the season starts.

They should not be allowed to bowl in a league this season, at the least. It actually happened to league secretary Mildred Weed of the Greenfield Mixed League.

She had to turn away others earlier who really wanted to bowl in this league on Friday nights at Country Lanes in Farmington Hills.

Now they have an unbalanced league, one team short and a uncontested match for some team every week all season long.

If you have a mixed team of two men and two women, give Mildred a call at (248) 348-2096.

This is a nice social and competitive league with a lot of good people of all ages and averages, your team could just be the right fit.

Shamrocks vs. Warriors: Top teams to tangle – again

BY BRAD MONASTIERE
STAFF WRITER

One of the most storied football rivalries in the state will have a new chapter added to it Saturday night.

A pair of undefeated teams clash when top-ranked Catholic Central (3-0) takes on Birmingham Brother Rice (3-0) for a 6 p.m. kickoff at Birmingham Groves High School.

This will be the 47th meeting between the two programs since 1963, with the Shamrocks holding a 25-20-1 edge in the all-time series, counting Prep Bowl contests.

Lately, the series has been dominated by the Warriors, thanks to wins in 2000 (24-0 and 24-7) and 2001 (21-14). Prior to that, CC had won seven of the previous eight meetings, dating back to 1996.

Brother Rice coach Al Fracassa said the game with the Shamrocks is always important for both schools.

"It's a big game and I'm sure they want to get back at us because we've won the last couple games with them," he said. "The schools have a great deal of respect for another, and Tom Mach is one of the best high school coaches anywhere."

For his part, Mach agreed that both teams hold each other in the highest respect, and said it's always a memorable battle.

"The game is a great attraction for fans. It's the one they all want to talk about," Mach said. "Both programs have been good over the years, and it always seems to come down to one touchdown or one big play by either team."

Catholic Central is currently ranked No. 1 among Division 1 teams, while Rice holds the top spot for Division 2 teams. CC is the defending Division 1 state champs, and was ranked second until Utica Eisenhower lost its opener.

Rice opened a lot of eyes around the state with its resounding 34-20 win over Farmington Hills Harrison at the Pontiac Silverdome Aug. 31. The Warriors put an emphatic end to the Hawks' 36-game winning streak thanks to the stellar quarterback play of Doug Pickens, who threw four touchdown passes in the win. The Warriors also recorded tight wins over Oxford (35-28) and Madison Heights Bishop Foley (35-27).

Fracassa said the team will have to keep its mistakes to a minimum to beat the Shamrocks.

"You've got to play with no mistakes to beat them," he said. "They have a lot of kids back from last year, and watching them on film, they look as strong as ever."

The Shamrocks have a quick and strong defense that has allowed only 25 points in their first three games. Offensively, quarterback Dave Thomas leads another run-oriented attack that benefits from a technically sound offensive line and a deep stable of running backs. Junior Derrick Brooks and sophomore Eric Vojtkofsky have emerged at the top of the depth chart, and while they don't have sprinter's speed, can read holes well and have a second gear once they get through the line of scrimmage.

"I've been very pleased with the play of our special teams," Mach said. "Our defense needs to do a good job of containing their offense because they've scored a lot of points in their games. We need to contain their receivers and get pressure on the quarterback."

The winner of this game won't necessarily have a free pass to the Prep Bowl, held at Ford Field this year. The Shamrocks battle Detroit Country Day Sept. 28 while the Warriors take on Warren DeLaSalle, both tough opponents, particularly after an emotional matchup like Saturday's game is sure to be.

CC EDGES DEPORRES

In typical CC fashion, the Shamrocks didn't overwhelm an opponent Saturday night, but there also wasn't much doubt as to who was the better team.

The Shamrocks used a couple of long scoring drives to defeat Detroit DePorres 24-10 at Kraft Middle School in Redford.

CC was able to mix the run and pass effectively, keeping the Eagles quick and dangerous defense off balance.

"They are one of the most talented teams in the state in terms of offensive players," Mach said of the Eagles. "We had trouble stopping them a couple of times. It was a real bend-don't-break defensive game for us."

After a fumble recovery by Dan Moore, CC quarterback Dave Thomas found wide receiver Alex Wojcik for a 26-yard touchdown pass, giving the team an early 7-0 lead.

Justin Brantley's field goal made it a 7-3 game early in the second, but CC took full control of the game from there. An 18-play drive ate up most of the second quarter clock, and ended with a 25-yard field goal that gave the home team a 10-3 lead at halftime.

CC took the third-quarter kickoff and drove 75 yards in 10 plays to take a 17-3 lead. Sophomore RB Eric Vojtkofsky scored from three yards out. He added another score, this time from one yard out, with 6:36 left in the fourth quarter to finish the scoring. The game was delayed by 30 minutes because of lightning in the fourth quarter.

"Those long drives really helped us," Mach said. "They run a lot of the same stuff on offense Brother Rice does, so it was a real good win at a good time for us."

DePorres outgained CC 323-308 in total yards despite taking the loss.

Thomas completed 6-of-8 passes for 119 yards and one score. Junior RB Derrick Brooks led the team with 83 yards rushing on 21 carries. Despite losing the yardage battle, CC forced three DePorres turnovers, while not turning the ball over.

Crusader men, women suffer their 1st losses

Madonna University's men's soccer team suffered its first loss of the season Tuesday at the hands of Denison University, 2-0 in Granville, Ohio.

Madonna falls to 4-1 overall.

The game was scoreless after the first half, but it took Denison only 3:42 to break the tie after the break. Ryan Mills scored unassisted to give Big Red the advantage.

Chad Huber put the game out of reach for Madonna when he scored unassisted at 57:53 and preserve the win for Denison (4-3).

Both teams played a physical match, logging 11 fouls apiece. There were also three yellow cards given, Madonna receiving two and Denison one.

James Miller paced the Madonna attack with four shots. Zach Wilkes had three shots and Casey Cook had two. Joe Suchara (from Livonia Stevenson) was in goal for the Crusaders.

Madonna 4, St. Francis 0 (men): Two first-half goals by Salvatore Piraine helped propel Madonna University to victory over St. Francis (Fort Wayne, Ind.) College Saturday at Livonia's Greenmead.

Joe Suchara (from Livonia Stevenson) got the shutout in goal for the Fighting Crusaders. He made two saves.

Madonna didn't waste much time taking command against the Cougars (3-3-4 overall), with Piraine scoring his first goal 4:45 into the match, assisted by Nick Szczechowski (Salem HS).

Dan Kurtinaitis made it 2-0 at 8:05, fielding a pass from Gary Bell and putting into the net. Piraine's second goal, scored at 11:05 after a steal by Shane Smith, increased the Crusaders' lead to 3-0.

Casey Cook got the game's final goal, scored on a header 1:14 into the second half. Smith earned the assist.

Lindsey Wilson 5, Madonna 1 (women): Lindsey Wilson (3-2-0) came back to score the game's final five goals to deliver Madonna University (3-1-2) its first loss of the season Saturday in Columbia, Ky.

Madonna scored the first goal of the contest at 11:24 of the first half when Sarah Pack (Canton/Westland John Glenn) put the ball past Lindsey goalkeeper Donna Harris. Natasha Hale tied the game for Lindsey at 25:23.

The score remained tied as both teams headed in for the break. It only took Lindsey a little more than four minutes to take the lead after halftime, as Latoya Linton scored on a pass from Hale at 49:02.

Lindsey then went on a scoring rampage knocking the ball into the net twice in less than two minutes. The first came at 66:22, Sarah Chandler putting one in with help coming from Nora Ohrnberg. Then at 68:06 a familiar combination found the net for Linsey as Linton scored her second goal of the game with help coming from Hale who tallied her second assist and third point.

The game's final goal came at 73:36 when Madonna added to its misery by scoring on itself.

Brother Rice gets the better of CC with a shutout win

As a prelude to this weekend's football game between Birmingham Brother Rice and Redford Catholic Central, the soccer teams from the two schools played a rugged game Monday afternoon, with the Warriors coming out on top.

Rice pulled out a 1-0 home win over the Shamrocks, dropping CC's record to 3-5 on the season, 1-2 in the Catholic League. Last year, CC went winless in the regular season.

Shamrocks coach Joe Nora said his team played much better in recent losses to Rice and Warren DeLaSalle (3-0 on Saturday) but isn't satisfied with its improvement over last year.

"I asked the guys on the bus if they were happy with three wins, and they said no," Nora said.

The coach said his team played hard against Rice and appeared to carry the play at times, but couldn't cash in when it counted the most.

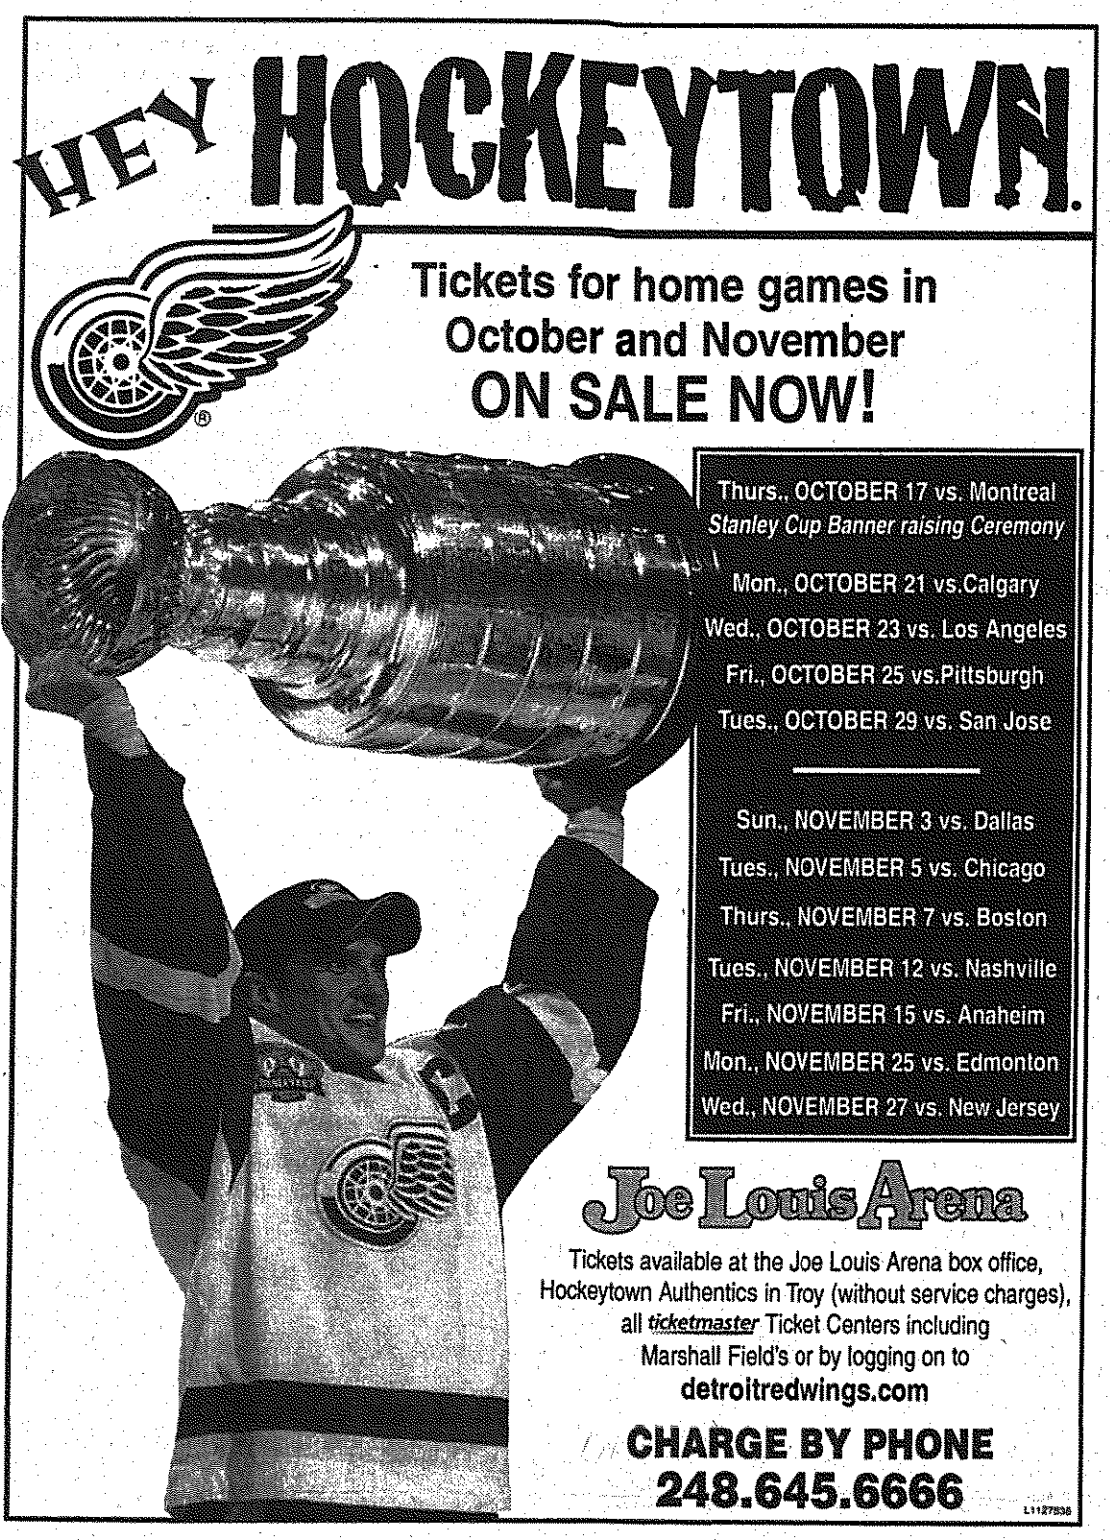

"It was an intense game," he said. "We had one breakdown that led to their goal. If we weren't generating any chances, I'd be really worried. But we are, and I know those will come around for us."

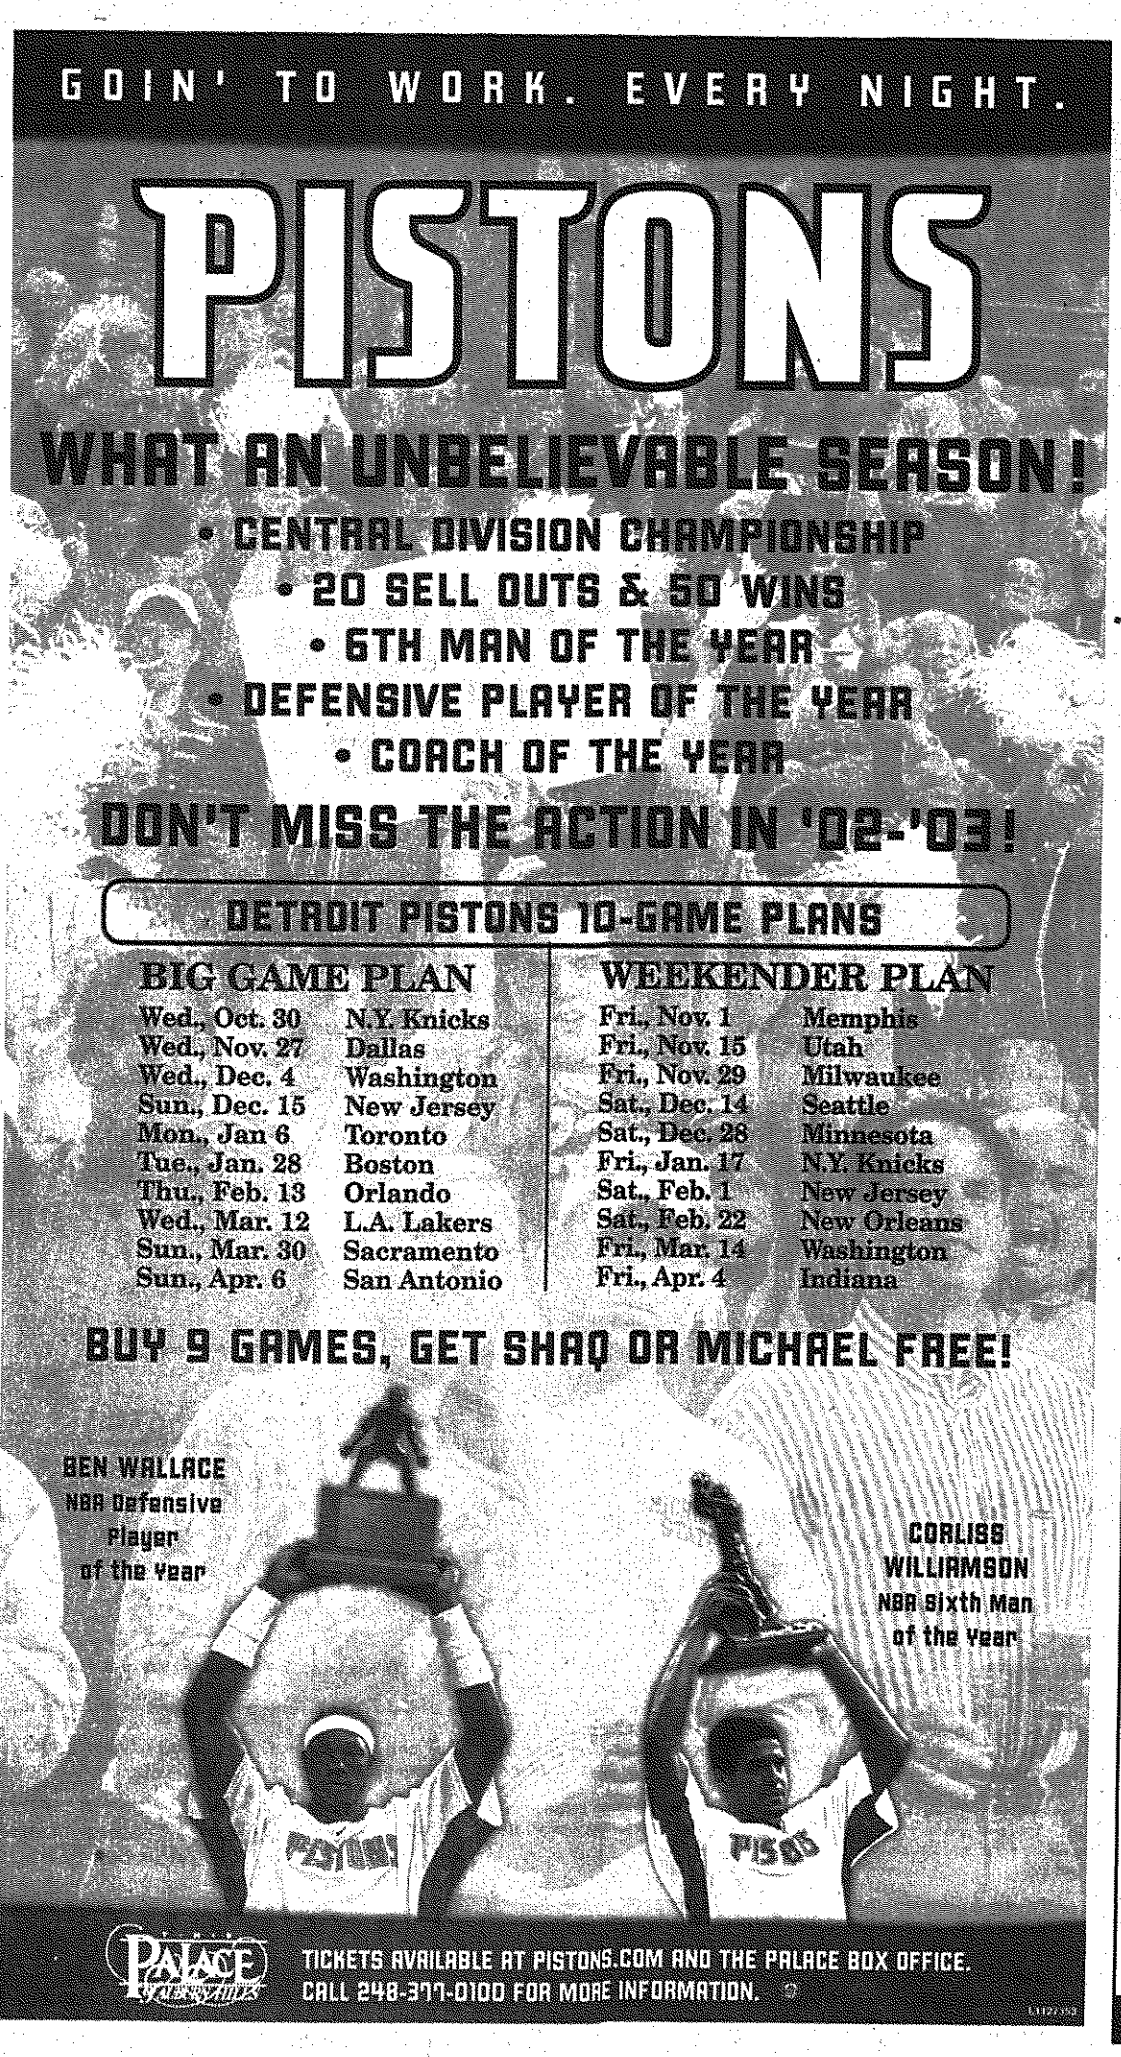

Saturday, the Shamrocks lost to Warren DeLaSalle, the No. 1 team in the state, 3-0.

"We played really well coming off a bad performance against Salem," Nora said. "They got their goals off a penalty kick and two crosses that were just perfect. We couldn't have defended them any better than we did."

Nora said his main concern was getting the team healthy.

"Just when we get some guys back, we seem to lose three more," he said. "I know we'll be better once we get our full lineup on the field."

EMU BASEBALL GOLF TOURNEY

The Eastern Michigan University eighth-annual Varsity Baseball Alumni and Friends Golf Tournament will be Monday at The Majestic at Lake Walden Golf Course in Hartland, with former EMU standout John "Mud" Clay honored with the Ron Oestrike Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award.

Clay is the seventh award-winner, having become EMU's first modern All-American in baseball.

In 1968, a rare pitching performance resulted in a no-hitter against Western Illinois, propelling EMU into the NAIA National Tournament. Clay signed with the Detroit Tigers in 1969, but served in Vietnam from 1969-71, earning a bronze star in 1970.

Today, he is an elementary principal in the Howell public school system.

The golf tournament is $125 per person, with hole sponsorships available at $100 each. Included in the golf package are 18 holes of golf with cart, breakfast, dinner, gifts and raffle prizes.

Proceeds benefit the EMU baseball team. For more information, call EMU head coach Roger Coryell at (734) 487-0315.

MARIAN

man-to-man defense, but I think they got frazzled by our pressure and never really recovered."

In last week's loss to Northern, the Chiefs played great in the first quarter and good in the second. After two minutes of the third, they packed it in.

Against Marian, they never got unpacked. The Mustangs' constant pressure forced 16 first-half turnovers, allowing them to take a 13-9 lead after one quarter and extending it to 23-17 by the half. All that kept them from an even larger cushion was erratic shooting: 9-of-27 (33 percent) from the floor in the first half.

The Chiefs were lucky to be that close. But they did little in the second half to take advantage of their good fortune.

They made one run at Marian. After falling behind 30-19 two minutes into the third quarter, they scored seven-straight points to narrow the gap to four, with Katie Cezat at the free-throw line trying to make it three. She missed, but Canton rebounded — only to miss the putback. Then they missed another putback. And another after that.

The Mustangs answered by scoring eight-straight points, taking a 38-28 lead after three quarters. A 9-2 Marian run opened the fourth. Game over.

"I thought we were going to make a run at them in the third quarter," said Canton coach Bob Blohm. "Then we had another turnover.

"Passing and catching. We didn't do either. We had 30 turnovers. We never got the ball where we wanted it. It was frustrating. They played better defense, were more active than we were."

The Mustangs also found an offensive source, a problem that's plagued them this season. Meghan Garrity, a junior guard, poured in a career-high 21 points — 11 in the first quarter — to jump-start the Marian attack. Mallory Milczarski added 11.

Only Cezat reached double figures in scoring for Canton with 10. Christina Redd added eight.

"We're quick," said Lillie-Cicerone, "but we're not great offensively. (Blohm's) having the same problem I'm having, no real point guard. No one wanted the ball for them."

Blohm could hardly argue. "We had no confidence with the ball in our hands," he said, noting that he used every starter in simply trying to get the ball inbounds successfully against Marian's swarming defense.

Then he added, "I guess we'll be studying a lot of tape on how to handle pressure."

That seems a good idea. We can't afford to do that when our league play begins."

Agape 51, Detroit Urban 10: Canton Agape Christian took nothing for granted at Detroit Urban Christian Tuesday, racing to a 14-2 lead after one quarter and stretching it to 26-6 by halftime.

The win gave the Wolverines a 6-1 record. Detroit Urban is 2-4.

Amy Henry paced Agape with 19 points and eight steals. A.J. Creps chipped in with 12 points and 16 rebounds.

Ann Lawson led Detroit Urban with seven points.

Ladywood 39, Woodhaven 23: Senior guard Lauren Hesano scored a team-high 15 points to go along with five steals and four assists, as Livonia Ladywood (3-2) gained a non-league triumph at Flat Rock-Woodhaven (2-3).

The Blazers won despite hitting eight of 27 free throws.

"I thought we played well enough to win," Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said. "We came out the second half and got a comfortable lead, but then we relaxed."

Senior forward Ruth Sventickas added 14 points, while Bethany Jury contributed eight rebounds.

Lindsey Allen scored 13 to lead the Warriors, who shot eight of 22 from the line.

"We've got to shoot better free throws," Gorski said. "Right now we're shooting about 33 percent from the field. We're settling for jump shots instead of getting the ball inside.

Ladywood 38, G.P. North 31: Transition defense was the key in Livonia Ladywood's non-league win Saturday over Grosse Pointe North (2-1) in the Beverly Hills-Detroit Country Day Showcase.

Ruth Sventickas led the victorious Blazers, who outscored North 17-10 in the second half, with 18 points. Bethany Jury added eight points and eight rebounds.

Beth Bingham led the Norsemen with eight points.

"Both teams played very good defense," Ladywood coach Andrea Gorski said. "We gave up some transition hoops in the first half (tied 21-all), but in the second half we cut down on their transition game and that was the difference."

Huron Valley 60, Bethesda Christian 29: Senior forward Lauren Merian put on quite an offensive performance Tuesday night.

The senior forward dropped in a career-high 31 points to go along with 13 rebounds as Westland Huron Valley Lutheran opened Michigan Independent Athletic Conference play with a lopsided victory over host Sterling Heights Bethesda Christian.

Huron Valley is now 4-2 overall and 1-0 in the MIAC.

Bethesda, outscored 35-13 in the second half, falls to 0-4 and 0-1.

"Offensively we were very patient," Huron Valley coach Kris Ruth said. "We did a good job of reversing the ball and getting into Lauren in the post."

Sophomore guard Becky Schultz added 10 points and seven steals for the victorious Hawks.

Emily Bernheardt led Bethesda with 10 points.

Churchill 60, Lincoln Park 53: Karen Anger, a junior forward, scored a game-high 22 points and sparked a fourth-quarter run by hitting seven of nine free throws Tuesday as host Livonia Churchill (2-3) rallied past the Railsplitters in a non-leaguer.

Senior guard Kelly Verellen added 17 points. Her two free throws gave Churchill a 55-52 lead. Sophomore guard Robyn Johnson added five points, including a three-pointer, as the Chargers outscored Lincoln Park, 26-15, during the final eight minutes.

"We just outlasted them (Lincoln Park), I think they got a little tired and we scored some easy baskets," Churchill coach Rod Windle said. "We also made our free throws down the stretch."

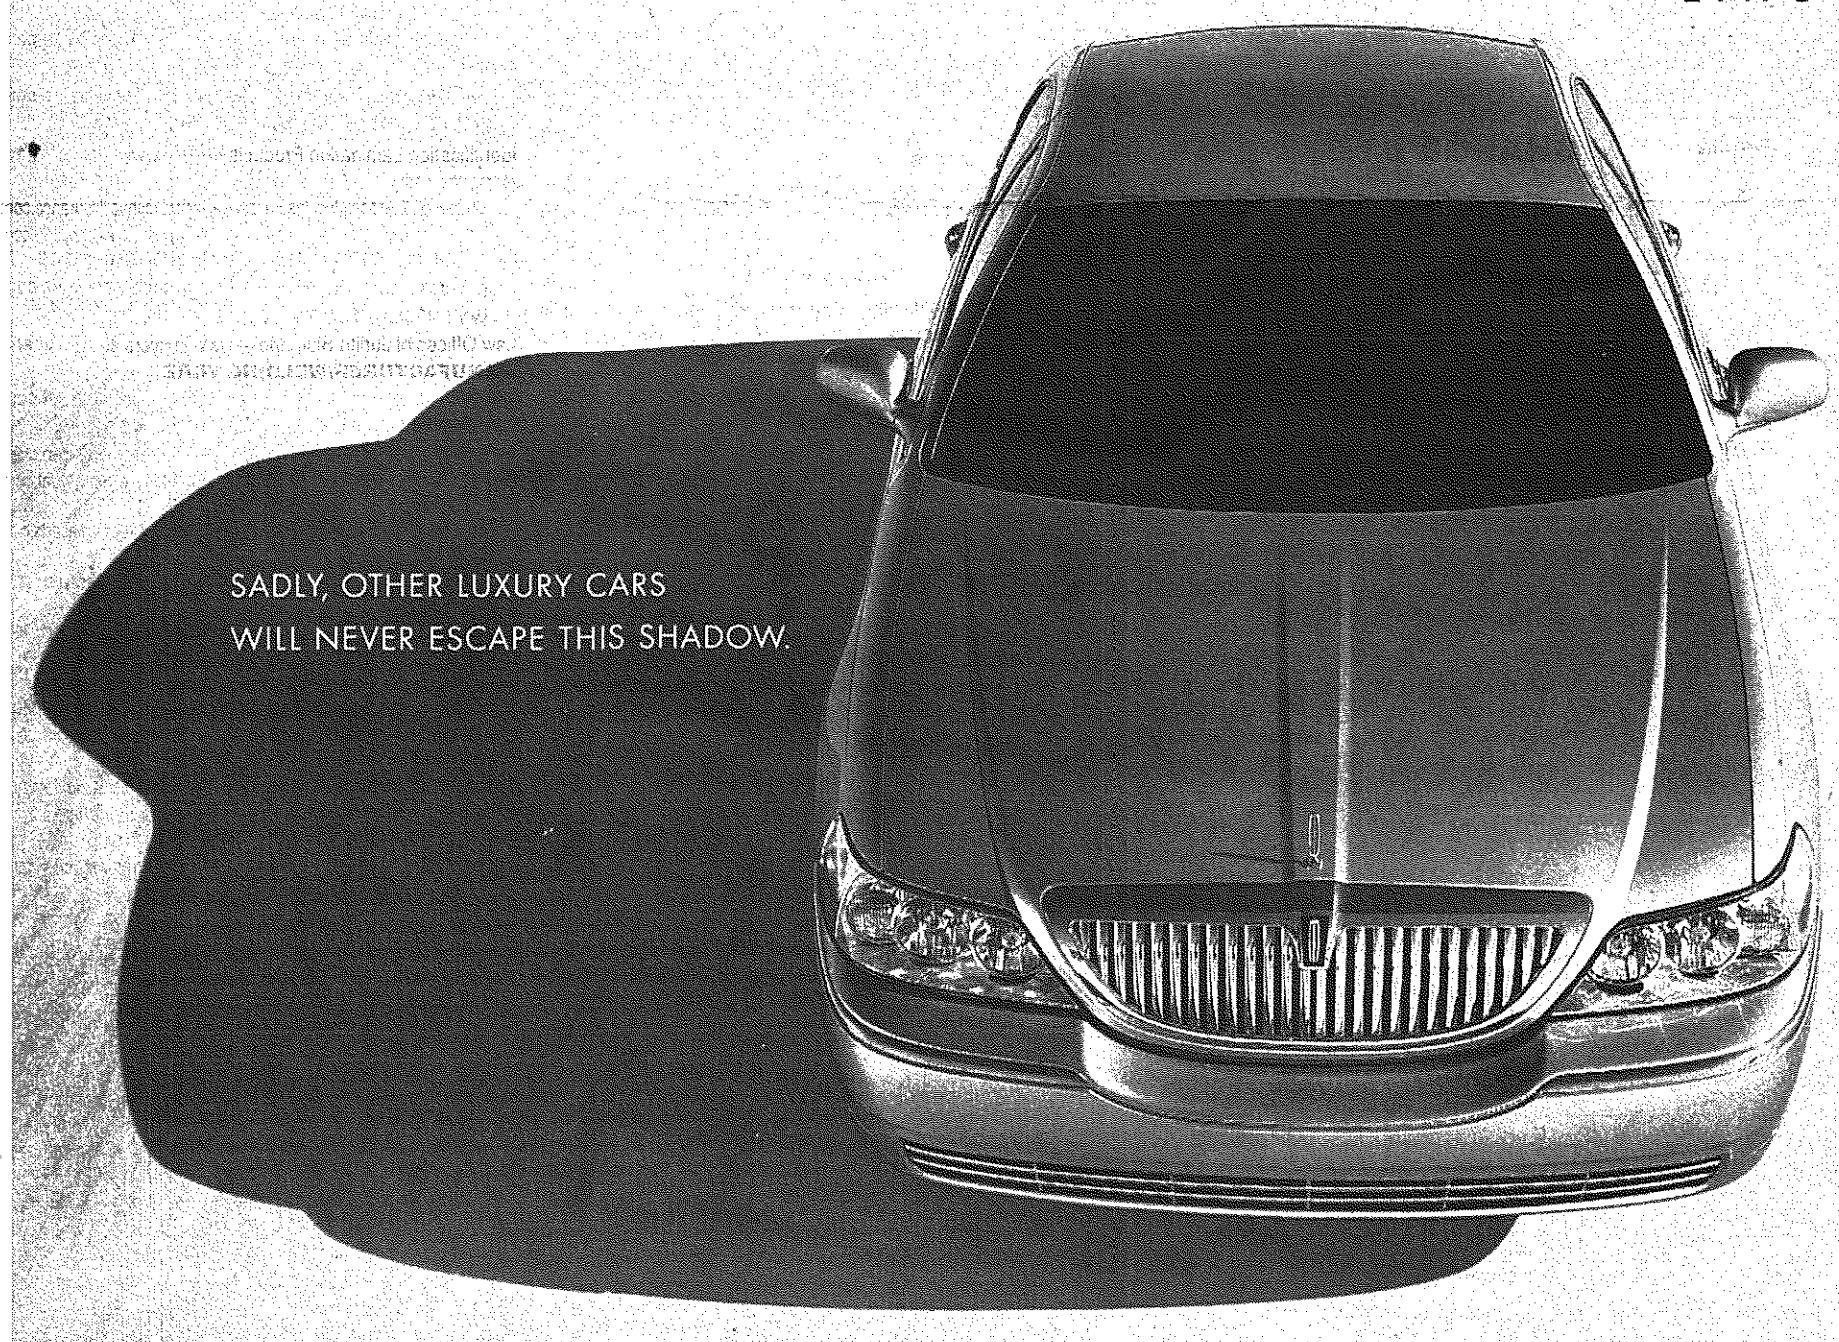

Churchill was 15 of 21 from the foul line, while Lincoln Park made 20 of 26.

Jackie Marr, a senior forward, led Lincoln Park with 21. Tiffany Durham, a senior center, added 15.

Alex Derian-Toth finished second for Canton in the 100-yard breaststroke.

ROCKS

They combined with Lisa Gullikson and Nicole Genrich to capture the 200 medley relay (2:01.33) and with Danielle Powers and Amanda Newman to finish first in the 400 free relay (3:59.44).

Newman, Alicia Dotson, Genrich and Powers teammed for a win in the 200 free relay (1:48.52).

The Rocks also got a win from Ashley Aquinto in diving (196.40 points).

For Canton, a pair of firsts went to Allison Goldsmith, in both the 50 (26.25) and 100 (57.57) freestyles.

The Chiefs also got wins from Emma King in the 100 butterfly (1:05.64) and from Susie Patrick in the 100 backstroke (1:09.36).

Although it was nice to win, Olson wasn't all that happy with his team's performance. "We were all right," he said. "We just were not real sharp.

"They've been off (from competition) since the relays meet, and we worked them very hard (Monday)."

Then Olson added, "We're getting better. We've just got to get some people moving.

"We have quite a bit of work to do."

If there's a key stretch in Salem's dual-meet schedule, it'll be in a seven-day span in October, when the Rocks host defending WLAA champ Stevenson (Oct. 3) and then swim at Northville (Oct. 10).

Canton's biggest remaining dual meet will be at Western Division rival Northville Sept. 26.

it down the left wing and crossed it to the far post. It initially appeared to be too far to cause any damage, but Savitskie elevated enough to head the ball past keeper Michael Maciolek for a 1-0 Salem lead at the 34:38 mark.

"I think the combination of Savitskie's speed and Popeney's playmaking caused all sorts of problems for them up top," said McCarthy. "This game really meant a lot to them. They knew Stevenson was the third-best team in the state."

The Spartans started to regroup and gain some momentum in the final 10 minutes of the first half, and they carried that into the second. When Salem keeper Tom Huls could not gather in a loose ball in the box, Paul Johnson somehow got it to Greg Lechowicz, and he chipped it over the out-of-position Huls to knot it at 1-1 with 33:23 left in the game.

For the next 10 minutes, the Rocks were backpeddaling as Stevenson pressured. One defensive play perhaps reversed the momentum: Three Spartans broke in on goal with only Steve Shull back on defense, but Shull made a sliding stop to defuse the attack.

After that, it was Salem's game. Following several misses — "I thought for sure we were due to get one," said McCarthy. "We created so many chances" — a throw-in to Savitskie got the game-winning play started.

Savitskie played the ball into the left corner, where Matt Wielechowski beat the Stevenson defender and passed it back to Popeney. His screened shot from the left side got past Maciolek and the Rocks had their game-winner.

"Our plan was to come out quickly and try to put them on the defensive," said Richters. "But we came out slowly, and that's the one thing we couldn't afford to do."

Of course, Salem didn't mind. As McCarthy said, "I'm very happy."

Week 4 a pivotal one for contending area football squads

It's soul-searching time for a lot of high school teams.

After the third game, teams usually have a pretty good indication if they are lucky or good, a play away or building for next season, doing it with talent or with smoke and mirrors.

Prep grid Picks

Paul beaudry

I bring this up because this is crunch week for a lot of teams. Yeah, there are coaches and teams (and fans) that pretty much know their fate by now regardless of what happens. A win or loss really won't matter.

But there are others where hope still springs eternal.

Lose, and you can pack in the season. Win, and you can start thinking that your team might just get into the playoffs.

Friday will seal the fate for a lot of teams.

As for the season record, Brad Emons is a phenominal 33-2 (10-1 last week), C.J. Risak is 28-7 overall and managed to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that pigs can, indeed, fly by going 10-1 for the week.

And me (speaking of a seal), I was just this close (the visual image here is that of Lions' coach Marty Mornhinweg holding out his hands shoulder-width apart at Monday's press conference) to being undefeated. But instead, it was a Lion-esque 7-4 for an overall of 25-10.

On with the show.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
(All 7 p.m. unless noted)

Churchill (2-1, 1-1) at John Glenn (3-0, 2-0): Do you get the idea that the Rockets are thriving without the prospect of facing Harrison for a league title? As for me, I love a Cinderella story with the best of them, but Glenn has outscored its opponents by about a 3-1 margin - something too much for the Chargers to over come. PICKS: John Glenn - Beaudry, Emons Risak.

Robichaud (0-3, 0-2) at Redford Union (2-1, 1-1): We've had a little problem with the Panthers this season. The first week, I was flat out wrong with the pick. Last week, our crew had a little miscommunication and picked them to play Shepherd - a game that didn't happen. I can just hear Judy Tomasaitis - wife of RU coach Miles - now: "What is that idiot going to do next?" The idiot is going to pick... PICKS: RU - Beaudry, Emons, Risak.

Garden City (2-1, 2-1) at Dearborn Fordson (3-0, 3-0): The Cougars looked very, very, very good last week in beating Taylor Truman, 62-7. There is a big difference between Taylor Truman and the Tractors. it might be more like the first two weeks, when the Cougars scored just 15 points. PICKS: Fordson - Beaudry, Emons, Risak.

Stevenson (3-0, 2-0) at Salem (1-2, 1-1): Speaking of my less than stellar picking, the last two weeks I have picked against Stevenson, only to have Tim Gabel and the Spartans remind me why I am looking up at the rest of the pack. OK, OK, you've convinced me - for now. PICKS: Stevenson - Beaudry, Emons, Risak.

St. Agatha/Bishop Borgess (0-2, 0-0) vs. Detroit Holy Redeemer (1-1, 0-0) at Hamtramck Keyworth: Last season, the Borgess coaching staff used to ride me all the time for picking against them. And they used that to advance to the Division 8 semifinals (OK, they had a wee bit of talent). This year, the Baggies have to show they can win before I'll pick them. PICKS: Redeemer - Beaudry, Emons, Risak.

Shepherd (3-0) at Redford Thurston (2-1), 7:30 p.m.: No seriously, a Redford team is taking the field against Shepherd this week. And the Eagles will find they face a team that actually can say they beat Harrison. (pause) No, silly. Not Farmington Hills Harrison, but plain old Harrison from the Jack Pine Conference. And the Eagles will also find a team that has a 70-point scoring margin advantage in just three games. PICKS: Shepherd - Beaudry, Emons, Risak.

Franklin (0-3, 0-2) at Wayne (0-3, 0-2): The temptation is to say that someone's got to win, but that is obvious. A 3-0 win might not be out of the question by someone. Wayne has given up 154 points in three games. Franklin, however, has blistered the end zone for a total of 14 points in that same stretch. PICKS: Franklin - Beaudry, Emons; Wayne - Risak.

Hamtramck (0-3, 0-3) at Clarenceville (3-0, 3-0), 7:30 p.m.: Wow. You're kidding me, right? PICKS: C'ville - Beaudry, Emons, Risak.

Cranbrook (3-0, 2-0) at Lutheran Westland (2-1, 1-1), 7:30 p.m.: Let me say right now, do not be surprised if the Warriors catch the Cranes napping. Yes, Cranbrook is 1B to Clarenceville's 1A as far as talent goes in the league. But LW has a pretty good defense and a decent offense to, at the very least, put a scare into the Cranes. PICKS: Cranbrook - Beaudry, Emons; LW - Risak.

Canton (2-1, 1-1) at Walled Lake Western (1-2, 1-1), 7:30 p.m.: Western's only win was against Wayne, while Canton's only loss was to John Glenn. Yeah, there's a world of difference, but Western is not the easiest place to play. Just thought you'd like to know that. PICKS: Canton - Beaudry, Risak; Western - Emons.

Saturday's Game

Catholic Central (3-0, 0-0) vs. Brother Rice (3-0, 0-0) at B'ham Groves, 6 p.m.: You'd think a game with these two powerhouses would just have people foaming at the mouth in anticipation. Yet, CC coach Tom Mach offered a stirring "Both teams respect each other, but go after each other really hard." Rice coach Al Fracassa coughed up this lockerroom bulletin-board gem: "Both schools respect each other." Respect? Rice and CC? Love and respect? What parallel universe is this?

Just know this: CC's defense has given up 22 points all season and Rice is the team that snapped Harrison's (yes, that Harrison) 36-game winning streak. And also know that CC has lost its last two games playing at Groves. PICKS: CC - Emons; Rice - Beaudry, Risak.

Paul Beaudry is an editorial department staffer for the Observer Newspapers and can be reached at (734) 953-2122 or by e-mail at pbeaudry@oe.homecomm.net.

Hire own inspector to be sure

I am purchasing a condominium which is fairly expensive, but I'm concerned about the fact that there have been apparent variations from the plans and specifications that were filed with the municipality. What should I do?

Most purchase agreements provide that the developer will construct the unit in accordance with the plans and specifications filed with the applicable municipality.

The municipality has the responsibility to ensure that the developer has constructed the units in accordance with the plans and specifications. But that doesn't always occur.

You are best advised to hire your own inspector to determine whether, in fact, the developer has complied with the requirements of the purchase agreement and to otherwise contact the municipality to determine whether, in fact, it has been vigilant in enforcing its ordinances against the developer.

If you aren't satisfied with the fact that this has occurred, you may wish to reconsider your purchase to the extent it is possible to extricate yourself from the purchase agreement.

Realtors savor good clients

BY DOUG FUNKE
STAFF WRITER

Real estate really is a people business even though houses and condominiums are at the center of a transaction. You don't have a deal unless you match buyer and seller.

So what makes for a good client, a memorable relationship? Are you recalled fondly or with disdain? How do Realtors measure a successful encounter?

As that famous songstress Barbra Streisand so eloquently put it, "People, people who need people, are the luckiest people in the world."

Honesty and loyalty rank 1 and 1A for Carol Mitchell, associate broker with Century 21-217 in Oxford.

"If you don't have honesty, you have nothing," she said. "Instead of trying to hide facts, tell the truth. Why are you moving? You can't help them if they try to cover up. Or buyers will say they can afford something higher and it's way out of their price range."

Honesty goes for Realtors, too, Mitchell added.

"With sellers, I'm entirely brutally honest on feedback. They need to hear what's wrong and what's right. Buyers, if they're not pre (mortgage) approved, I don't bother. I want to keep them in reality."

Buyers who change agents in midstream or at the wire after a lot of work on her part rankle Mitchell.

"If they are loyal to you ... they deal directly with you," she said. "They don't go calling all Realtors. When you know exactly what they're looking for and you're on the same wavelength, you take care of them.

"When you click with people, it's fun," she added. "It's like family. You work hard for them. When the sale's done, I truly miss them.

"When you find out they're not honest, not loyal, not doing what they're supposed to, you drop them," Mitchell said.

Clients willing to dialogue and willing to respect his expertise draw rave reviews from Jack Kuijala, a Realtor with Jack Christenson Inc. in Troy.

"Good communication would be number one – laying out what they want, what their plans are, what their timetable is," he said. "Setting up an action plan – how we do this, who will be responsible for what."

While well-meaning family, friends and colleagues may have the best of intentions, they often don't know specifics about real estate submarkets, Kuijala added.

"Transferees knew the market where they came from and people they work with here may give them some ideas. But you have to bring them up to speed about what's really going on," he said.

And that applies to folks who have lived in the same house for a long period of time, the experts say.

"With good clients, it goes a lot smoother," Kuijala said. "I've had a number of unpleasant clients – don't return calls, say they will do something then not follow through and don't explain why or why not.

"If your personalities clash and you're not getting along, sometimes you're better off referring to someone else or letting go," he said.

Deborah Nicholson, broker/owner of Great Rate Realty in Oakland County, appreciates clients who appreciate her time both at work and away from the office.

"The client who calls at 4 o'clock on Sunday and wants to see a house at 4:15 ..." she said, her voice trailing off. "A good client knows you're a human being, you have other clients and a personal life."

Nicholson also appreciates when clients appreciate her expertise and professional experiences.

"I love it when you go to give someone the latest market analysis and he says the guy down the street said he got X amount of dollars so that's what he wants," Nicholson added. "Everyone tends to pad."

Barb Brunette, affiliated with Real Estate One in Livonia, prefers clients who let her do her job and executive produce the process.

"Personalities have to blend," she said. "You can't please everybody. I know that."

A story illustrates the point.

"I did a market analysis and was right on with price," Brunette said. "My seller told me when I could take a picture of her house. Then as I stood out in the street to take it, she stood next to me and told me where to take it. She literally positioned me.

"This is really a red flag up front. She was very demanding. I got six to eight calls a day asking what's going on. That one I ended.

"They (clients) have to have faith and confidence you get the job done," Brunette added. "I want them to respect my knowledge, my advice."

She related another story.

"I gave my market analysis and the seller's mother, a retired Ford line worker, told her what to ask. Offers are coming in nearer to what I said. If you hire me, listen to me."

Sandy Doner, associate broker with Remerica Hometown III in Canton, says that upwards of 85 percent of her business today results from previous satisfied customers.

"Those that go above and beyond, referring other clients to me, they're certainly very memorable," Doner said. "All of my clients are great people. We have a lasting relationship. Clients for life is the motto you like to have in real estate."

Mortgage Bits

Tim 'Timbo' Phillips

Refinance may assist with debts

Many homeowners are enamored by the thought of being able to "write off" home mortgage interest.

It is very appealing to be able to relieve high-cost consumer debt – credit card balances, student loans, furniture payments and even overdue collections – with a tax-deductible loan against their home.

Sometimes it makes sense, sometimes it doesn't.

I know some of you would prefer a root canal to a mathematics lesson. But keep in mind that dental work won't save you a load of money over the years whereas consolidating your debts might.

Here is a simple way to determine whether or not a refinance is in order for you.

All we need to do is use a "weighted average" to determine your effective interest rate for your entire debt load. Let's presume you have three debts: a $150,000 home mortgage at 7 percent interest, a $30,000 automobile loan at 10 percent interest and $20,000 of credit card debt at 16 percent interest.

In this scenario, your mortgage represents 75 percent of your total debt, the car loan is 15 percent of your total debt and your consumer debt is 10 percent of your total debt. These are the relative "weights" of your total debt.

Now, simply multiply these "weights" by the respective interest rates, then add those numbers together.

Seventy-five percent of your mortgage rate equals 5.25 percent. Similarly, 15 percent of your car loan rate is 1.50 percent, and 10 percent of your consumer interest rate is 1.6 percent.

Add the results to get a weighted interest rate of 8.35 percent. In other words, when home mortgage rates drop below the low eights, you can consider a consolidation refinance a viable option.

With mortgage interest rates and home equity line rates at record lows, it probably makes sense for most borrowers to look at consolidating at least some of their debt.

Your mortgage loan officer or financial planner can help you fine-tune your calculations to better account for transaction costs and tax implications. But at least you can now better determine if the glitzy "consolidate now" TV and radio commercials apply to you.

Tim Phillips is a mortgage loan officer serving all of Michigan. You may reach him at (734) 797-5522, or via e-mail at PhillipsHQ@comcast.net.
Homebuyers should always consult a professional for guidance specific to their situations.

HomeTownLife.com receives strong real estate response

"Our new Internet portal, HomeTownLife.com, is turning out to be a fantastic tool to assist local real estate professionals and home buyers."

That's the word from Dan Sutton, general manager of HomeTown Digital, Inc.

The site presents to Web users real estate classified ads from the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Mirror Newspapers and HomeTown Newspapers.

Through a special agreement with the Realcomp II, Ltd., the site also receives daily updated listings from the multi-list service, as well as information about listing brokers and real estate agents.

In August alone, according to Sutton, HomeTownLife. com contained:

- 10,528 residential listings
- 1,775 vacant land listings
- 1,574 condo listings
- 192 multi-family listings
- 5,907 agents and 235 real estate offices

"That's a fantastic range of local real estate listings offered on our site," said Sutton.

"Web users can search the site in lots of ways. They can get detailed information, often including photos, by entering a location and/or price range.

"Listings also show the agent and the broker through whom the property is offered," he said. "Or users can start with their preferred broker or agent and find what properties are listed by them.

"Either way, it's simple and convenient," Sutton said.

Users flocked to the site last month. According to Sutton, from Aug, 1-26:

- 6,154 individual MLS listings were viewed a total of 17,093 times.
- 222 listings were viewed 10 or more times. Of these, 60 were sold in August.
- The average price of the top viewed listings was $152,700.

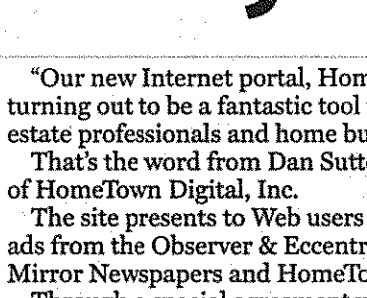

Sutton speculates that many viewers using the HomeTownLife.com site were in their 20's and 30's and looking for their first home.

"First time home buyers often form a firm attachment to their agent who provides good service," he said. "That agent is likely to get their business the next time they enter the real estate market."

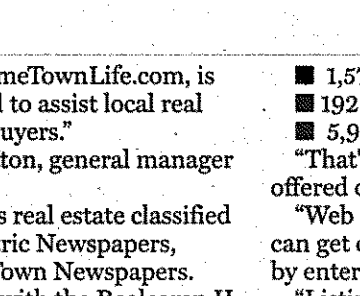

Since going live early this year, HomeTownLife.com has attracted an average of 3 million page views per month. These represent more than 400,000 unique visitors to the site per month. Web users like the site; more than 90 percent of the visitors are repeaters.

Users of the site can also place their classified ads directly in the Observer & Eccentric, Mirror and HomeTown Newspapers. All they need to do is click the appropriate button and compose their ad for transmittal to the newspapers' classified departments.

Dan Sutton can be reached at (734) 266-2500 or at dsutton@hometowndigital.com.
