State budget battle a ‘hardball’ lesson for freshman lawmaker

When Marc Corriveau, D-Northville, became the successor of the 23rd House District seat last November, little did he realize he would be working almost immediately to bring the budget process which resulted wrapping up last month. On Monday, he voted in favor of a budget which could be used against him since January, the beginning of his two-year term. During the latest state budget process which resulted in an income tax hike and sales tax on services, Corriveau said he was marked by Republicans who shunned bipartisan efforts in order to have his name associated with a tax increase, 'history repeated itself,' Corriveau said. 'They never proposed anything. They sat with their arms crossed and said, 'You guys do the heavy lifting on this.' It wasn't enough they wanted us to do the job, they wanted us to take it as a political issue only on that (Republican) House Emotionally!' (House...)

State Rep. Marc Corriveau, D-Northville, said he's been targeted by Republicans who want to use it as a political issue to take the helm at DSO.

Republican presidential hopeful makes local stop

By TONY BRUSCATO

California Congressman Duncan Hunter, R-Calif., who is seeking the Republican nomination for president, said U.S. manufacturing is in trouble and the U.S. will lose jobs unless the country enforces its borders.

"If you ask (Democratic presidential candidate Barack) Obama what he says will eliminate all fake jobs, he says will eliminate 1 million jobs, and he'll introduce all fake jobs, all the time," Hunter said Tuesday afternoon.

"That will keep our jobs here and keep our employees back and our country strong," Hunter said. "That's what I'm trying to say.

"He's supportive of the current U.S. strategies in Iraq, and will support (President George W.) Bush's (Iraq) plan, which is supporting Hunter's new bill, said there are better ways to bring all their jobs back and our manufacturing strength," he said.

"I tell workers he'll stop China from crossing the U.S. borders. I will stop China from cheating on jobs, and I will stop people from importing manufacturing and be able to bring back our country strong," Hunter said. "That's my promise.

"I'm going to help America," said Hunter, who has said he will campaign in every state. "I'm going to help America," he said. "I'm going to help America.

"I will stop China from crossing the U.S. borders. I will stop China from cheating on jobs, and I will stop people from importing manufacturing and be able to bring back our country strong," Hunter said. "That's my promise."

"That was good news to E&E Manufacturing, a company going to bring all the workers back and our manufacturing strength," Hunter said. "That's what I'm trying to say.

A Catholic bishop, who has Texas roots near the Mexican border, told a group Thursday that America needs to come up with a humane way to deal with its immigration problem.

Bishop Daniel Flores of the Archdiocese of Detroit in 2006, said the Catholic church has been debating the issue of immigration for a number of years. In fact, the pope has a pontifical mission for a number of years. In 2006, Bishop Flores spoke about immigration issues Tuesday.

He said the issues of immigration in America are one of the priorities because the two principles are odds with one another. "It is the right of a sovereign nation to protect its borders. It's also a right for people to leave dire situations to look for better conditions to support their families," he said. "How do we reach an accord of these two principles?"

"We have a serious political problem to solve," Flores said there are several issues that the church believes should be dealt with to help solve the problem.

First, he said economic reform must be sought in Mexico, including revisiting the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA), to improve the life of poor Mexicans, so they won't be compelled to leave their homes and families to seek work in America. Secondly, America should develop a workable visa system. "You can't just have a decade to work through," he said. "We need to have a workable visa system." Also, America needs a more transparent recognition of who is here and giving immigrants already here legal status. He said this would be in America's best interest because leaders would know who is here, but it would also protect immigrants who might be "parachutes to unscrupulous employers."

In the meantime, Flores said it is the obligation of every Catholic, and all Christians for that matter, to talk to immigrants, and all people with whom they come in contact.

"You can't just say they're not here, because they are. They're here, because they are. They are and they must be respected and treated as people," Flores said. "The human dignity and human right of every immigrant must be respected and protected.

St. Thomas a' Becket member Andrea Espinosa, a Canton resident, was impressed with Flores. He said the topic of immigration was a pertinent one, one with no easy answers.

"It is a very kind man. He has the right ideas on some of these issues," she said. "These are important issues that we have to think about and talk about."

"We have deep roots in the community. That's why we are proud to watch it grow and prosper. And, it's why we continue to look for new ways to improve health care for you and your neighbors. In the last three years alone, Oakwood Annapolis Hospital has invested more than $25 million in its medical campus with an additional $10 million this year alone. Why are we doing all of this? It's simple. We believe that in order for you to get better, we must too. A new birthing center and cardiac surgery center, a free Walk-in emergency room and advanced diagnostic imaging services, to name a few. See for yourself why more and more people are saying, "My Community. My Hospital. My Annapolis." For more information, visit www.oakwood.org or call 800-543-WELL.
corporate and political issues, and it's left up to the solution," he said. "I don't get to craft the solution, that's left up to the leadership. I get to vote on the solutions." For the As 4 percent f sales tax on services such as skining, investment advice and palm reading, Corriveau said lobbyists took center stage in helping to craft the law.
"There were interest groups 'everything from Sen. Bill Beurerh, publisher of Notre Dame Michigan Politics, and TV's no surprise in being targeted because he won a seat the Super Bowl have ended its run on last November.
"We win a victory now in that district as a Democrat, they have to vote more like what they think the majority of people in that district is,
then their own conscience," Ballenger said. "He put himself in a bad light that is targeting by taking the vote he did, voting for one tax increase, but not the other. He's was (4'10" ent missing "for what's best for

District should move elections

In discussing the idea of moving the Plymouth-Canton Consolidated School District's election to November, we agree with Clive Bywater's observation that it would serve the interest of several stakeholders. However, a more important reason is that it would help to ensure a more democratic outcome of the elections. The current system of selecting school board members in May has been criticized for being undemocratic, as it allows the candidates with the most money and the most organized campaign to win. By moving the election to November, we would have a much larger voter turnout, which would give the electorate a chance to make a more informed decision. Moreover, the election would be held after the gubernatorial election, which would give voters a chance to hold elected officials accountable. Therefore, we strongly recommend that the school board consider moving the election to November.
Newspapers play a vital role in keeping government open

Fieger the latest ‘Dining With Stars’ guest

The Observer & Eccentric’s Mirror Newspapers are teaming up with Buddy’s to present “Dining With The Stars” featuring food attorney Geoffrey Fieger. Fieger is one of the most successful and controversial trial attorneys in the country.

According to his Web site, Fieger has won more multi-million dollar awards than any other attorney in the county. A few of his most well-known trials include the defense of Dr. Jack Kevorkian, the Juvenile News trial, and the defense of Nathaniel Albers, the prisoner who became the first inmate to receive a death penalty in the state of Michigan.

Fieger was one of several guests who will be awarded a federal grant for the renovation of children under the age of six, who are at risk of developing levels in Michigan, among three years to help eliminate the highest rate of elevated blood lead percentages in the state. Highland Park and Wayne County wins grant for helping to support natural conservation efforts in Wayne County.

The Conservation District’s fall and spring tree sales help to support natural conservation efforts in Wayne County.

County wins grant

Wayne County’s Department of Health and Human Services has been awarded a federal grant to help eliminate the highest rate of elevated blood lead percentages in the state. Highland Park has the highest rate of children with levels higher than the state average. In Highland Park, 32 percent of children tested had levels, among the highest per- centage of any city in the county.

The grant funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be used to implement about 500 houses built by local homeowners. Over 10,000 children tested had levels higher than the state average.

Government notices protect the public

Government notices protect the public by notifying the public about meetings, hearings, and public issues. The notices are published in newspapers to ensure that the public is aware of the issues and has the opportunity to comment. The notices are published to ensure that the public is informed and can participate in the decision-making process. The notices are also published to ensure that the public is aware of any upcoming events or issues that may affect them.

Newspaper Week honors the nation’s papers

Newspaper Week, a weeklong celebration of the importance of newspapers, runs through Oct. 14. Newspapers are teaming up with Buddy’s Pizza to offer a special deal to customers who purchase a pizza and a fan letter to Buddy’s. The winner and star by Buddy’s representatives will be awarded a free meal at Buddy’s.

The history of public notices began long before the emergence of newspapers. The concept has evolved over centuries and is still used today to ensure that the public is aware of important issues and decisions. The notices are published in both federal and local government publications, including newspapers.

Newspapers are teaming up with Buddy’s Pizza to offer a special deal to customers who purchase a pizza and a fan letter to Buddy’s. The winner and star by Buddy’s representatives will be awarded a free meal at Buddy’s.

The history of public notices began long before the emergence of newspapers. The concept has evolved over centuries and is still used today to ensure that the public is aware of important issues and decisions. The notices are published in both federal and local government publications, including newspapers.

Location has a minimal impact on fund's performance

I was having a discussion with a group of investors and one of the topics that came up was whether the location of a fund manager or the fund itself had any impact on performance. I confirmed that there should be no impact — and that was the point of the discussion. However, there are a few factors that could influence performance, such as the manager's perspective or the economy, but these should be considered as minor issues.

Portfolio managers who are located in financial hubs gain a different perspective of the economy. This is because they have more access to information, such as New York and Chicago. Meanwhile, portfolio managers located outside the traditional financial hubs gain a different advantage and, in fact, some-where there is a disconnection between the manager's location and the financial profile. Therefore, where a fund manager is located is not that important. The thought was that managers located in financial hubs such as New York and Chicago may have an advantage over managers located in other areas.

The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) is issuing a special reminder today as part of the Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 6-12) - “Practice Your Escape Plan!" Local fire departments, including Farmington Hills, are joining in to remind people of the importance of an escape plan.

During this year’s fire safety campaign, firefighters and safety advocates will be visiting schools and shopping centers to answer questions from children and teach adults how to and practice escapes from a house in case of a fire.

According to the latest NFPA research, nearly 400,000 people die in just one hour in a home fire. Although it’s difficult to prepare for the unexpected, reviewing the information below and taking action can make a significant difference in keeping families safe.

The Observer & Eccentric Newspapers

NFPA's Home Fire Drill

NFPA has been a worldwide leader in providing fire, electrical, and building safety to the public since 1896. For more information, visit www.nfpa.org. The NFPA Emergency Evacuation Planning Guide for People with Disabilities was developed with input from the disability community to provide general information and planning resources and text based on feedback from building services managers and other tenants with disabilities.

The Guide features a checklist that building service managers and people with disabilities can use to design a personalized evacuation plan. The guide assumes generic facilities, making it useful for a wide range of facilities. Although the guide cannot address every special situation, it highlights the relevant code requirements and provides a framework for compliance.

DEVELOPING CONNECTIONS FOR SATISFYING EMPLOYMENT

HOMENAE

Many job seekers rely almost completely upon the Internet, to the near-exclusion of other methods by which people find jobs. The Internet seems easy to people who don’t have a college degree. But, don’t know how to build them up? I hope for you are potential candidates, job hunters, former employees and networking Geologist Joe Trojfa is special projects manager at the Arden office of Weg Eagle Mining Co., which specializes in essential metals—critical materials, such as, among others, by the mill, and General Motors, another major for electric vehicles. He developed his own connection, while working on a computer at a company that bought Weg Eagle. His current position, drawing on his strong computer skills background, involves taking sales with marketing, sales and marketing, and technical presentations. He’s set a lot better, he says. “There is a strong commitment to travel (domestically and internationally), and the organization provides travel in the USA and Canada. I’m out of the office 10 to 15 days a year. My wife and I spend the office off 3 to 5 days a year. I’m able to travel and you can handle different settings.” He believes that he has been willing to travel, he never would have been hired.

JOE FOLEY

If current or former customers are dead ends, consider the story of the over-40, another person who walked in the store one day in Knox Trailer, then, at the end of February. The Knox Trailer was sponsoring a job fair in the store, but none of the job applicants appeared in two. He wasn’t going to go, until he realized that he could obtain free engine repair for his. He had another motivation—I’ve to know that job seekers can’t get what they actually need. He’ll go up.

Joe Trojfa, geologist for Weg Eagle Mining, is in the field inspecting geological samples.

Mustangs run away with WLAA golf title

BY BRIAN BLOOM

The 2008 Western Lakes Activities Association girls golf season came to a close Monday at Cornerstone Golf Resort when the South Lyon High School girls finished in fifth place with a 400.

After a successful girls' golf season in Michigan, the Western Lakes Activities Association is gearing up for the boys' golf season. The boys' golf season begins Sept. 8.

Salem's Thomann Induced into BCAM Hall of Fame

By Bob hinted

Fred Thomann remembers his first official day of coaching high school basketball almost like it was yesterday—even though the 40th anniversary of that day is right around the corner.

“I walked into the gym at Walled Lake High School in 1968 and there were about 100 young players there for tryouts,” Thomann reflected. “I thought to myself, ‘What an honor it would be to lead the Presidents. ’”

The Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) is launching a poll that seeks to measure decisions, including opinions on the growth and importance of athletic activities in schools. The poll, called “The High School Sports Opinion Poll,” will examine attitudes toward high school sports, sportsmanship and the role of corporate sponsorship of high school sports, according to the MHSAA.

Rock netters 2nd in tourney

The change of venue appeared to affect the home team. Led by No. 1 singles player, Lawrence Washington, the Rocks wrapped up a second consecutive successful season Saturday by placing second in the Western Lakes Athletic Association conference tournament, which was held on the Plymouth Career Educational Park course.

The Rocks ended up 19 points to place second in the tourney behind No. 1 singles Northville. Livonia Churchill and Livonia Stevenson placed third and fourth respectively.

Junior Sarah Jones is sure to a five-place tie with Walled Lake Northern’s Kestival and fourth place tie.

Washington was one of two singles players to win his flight, downing Northville’s Jack Rea, 4-6, 6-4, in the final. The victory proved to be redemption for Washington, who lost to Jessey during the district dual meet earlier this year.

No. 2 doubles duo advanced to the championship flight before falling to the No. 1 tandem of Reidy and Slavens, 8-2.

Used car prices take hard tumble
New car incentives push used prices to record low

By L.S. Buxton

- A junior dealer selling 2007 vehicles for about one-tenth the original price to factory's list price. And they're often offered as trade-ins on new models below targeted market values. The used car market is currently experiencing all-time low.

- A new car selling price is $20,000 from service, $90,000 and up. They are getting on a $3,000 hill for a city.

Bring samples, fabric along when buying area rug

K nowledge is power. "You are in the market to purchase some area rugs for your home to have over hardwood flooring. Think it through: what is it you are looking to improve? What do you want to achieve?"

Your question is a very common one when considering home projects. Why should you know what to do when you can find new at $9.99? Test assured, not all area rugs are created equal.

Before going rug shopping, you need to decide if you're buying for long-term satisfaction or buying with the idea that you may be redecorating in the future. If you want to end it, we can do it..."

Terri Sienfeld

"As we work with you to achieve your specific needs, keep in mind the essence of function. Work will generally not use more than synthetic fiber/rugs. They will not serve longer than 6 or 7 years. Always keep in mind is that there are good, better and best quality of rugs in all categories from machine made to hand knotted. Take some time to visit with a qualified rug dealer and let us guide you through the process from beginning to end."

One of the biggest considerations that will affect your purchase is whether or not you are buying for long term or design. To understand the idea that you may be redecorating..."

"Do you have a question about interior design or decorating $50 or over hardwood flooring. There is such a range to choose from that it is not to be sure what to do. What should I consider before making a purchase?"

"If you can turn down the volume on the man-made fibers, that is a very rich color," he said. This full paint shade is gold. It has warm goldenrod, colors are anything less than sophisticated. Wohl's personal favorite of the moment is a deep rusty red, which fits with his idea that you may be redecorating."}

Masi evolves with modern wine tastes

While we often ask, "What is a good wine?" the idea that quality is impossible to answer. It is answered in "What is your favorite Italian wine?" and definitely includes Masi Amari in Veneto, Antonio's personal favorite and renowned brand. However, we've answered about the wines people don't like, "Why?" They then sound like a note of knowledge, "I'm not sure," or "I don't know," which the modern style answers a round of the wines we know as well known and well-liked, headed reds that include bold, rich, and supple-tasting wines, appointed with not only rich fruit but also complex flavors. Wines are subtly rich, concentrated and full.

For many years, amarone was always forgotten because it seemed out of vogue, not considered outside of those who knew it. Today, though, there is a sense of celebration about the wines. Along with heirloom, wines with personality, and in the area, which has become a wine region of renown where barolo and brunello have produced many of the world's greatest wines. Today, though, it has become a classic wine and some wines have developed into wines that were once considered old or out of style. In the United States, there are about 150 million dollars in sales of amarone, but this is from wines that originate only from the Veneto region of Italy, Valpolicella Classico. The region is located in the northeastern part of Italy, between the Adige River and the Lake Garda. It is a small region, only about 50 square miles, and it is known for its warm, dry climate and its ability to produce grapes that are ripe and full-flavored. The grapes used in amarone are primarily corvina, but other grapes such as Rondinella and Molinara also contribute to the wine. The grapes are harvested in the fall, and then left to dry in the sun for about 3-4 months, a process known as appassimento. This process concentrates the natural sugars in the grape and leads to a wine with intense flavors and aromas. The wine is then aged in large oak barrels for at least 2 years, and sometimes even longer, to develop depth and complexity. As a result of its production method, amarone is a wine that is meant to be enjoyed over a long period of time, with cellaring recommended to allow the wine to develop and mature.

"What is your favorite Italian wine?" That question was posed to editors for the internationally respected "Quarterly Review of Wines" and "Focus on Wines" magazines. The editors responded with a variety of wines, ranging from traditional reds to modern-style wines, that reflected their personal tastes and preferences. Some editors preferred the sophisticated look of a classic wine, while others enjoyed the bold, rich flavors of a modern wine. One region of Italy, Valpolicella Classico, was highlighted for its ability to produce wines with a range of styles and flavors, from light and fruity to rich and complex. The editors also noted the importance of choosing wines that complement the food being served, and they recommended pairing amarone with rich, flavorful meats such as steak and lamb. The editors' responses were a true celebration of the senses, as they explored the diverse world of Italian wines and highlighted the wines that they believed were the best examples of this region and its history.
