Canton asks state for road cash

Officials say more is needed to address problem

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Canton has spent $10 million during the past decade to fix neighborhood streets and county roads, fighting a losing battle as pothole-ravaged roads continue to crumble.

"It's a perfect storm in Canton Township," Clerk Michael Siegrist said.

Canton siphoned the $10 million from the township's general fund — money that could have been spent elsewhere — to complement cash-strapped Wayne County, which has jurisdiction over township roads, but lacks the money to fix the problem.

Now, Canton is imploring the state to allocate a larger share of road dollars to townships by creating a new fund and letting local officials work with counties to determine where the money is most needed for repairs.

By passing a new resolution, the Canton Township Board of Trustees is asking the state to help narrow the funding gap for townships.

"Townships are ground zero (for bad roads)," Siegrist said.

Local officials say Michigan Public Act 51, intended to provide money to fix roads, provides money directly to cities, but not townships. Rather, the money for Canton is funneled through Wayne County, which prioritizes projects in all the townships in the county.

Siegrist said the new resolution is not intended as an insult to Wayne County.

"This is in no way meant to be a criticism of Wayne County," he said.

Canton officials say they are asking the state Legislature to adopt legislation ensuring accountability for Act 51 dol-

Excitement ran high at Liberty Middle School as fourth- and fifth-graders from area schools worked hard to avoid elimination Feb. 28 during the Plymouth-Canton Community Literacy Council's fifth annual Youth Spelling Bee.

Elena Schongalla, a Hulsing Elementary School fifth-grader, correctly spelled every word she was given and won the bee. The runner-up was Suraj Makunur, a fifth-grader from Gallimore Elementary School.

programs to promote adult literacy in the area. Founded in 1985, the Community Literacy Council has made a "big difference" in the lives of many families who live and work in the community, according to its executive director.

Andrea Hug explained the goal of CLC is to "assist adults who have limited English language abilities in developing vital reading, writing and communication skills" to help them participate in their community and reach their potential in life.

CLC strives to help overcome language barriers by offering free literacy tutoring to adults via one-on-one instruction or small conversation groups. A large number of CLC students speak

Schlack announces campaign for state House

Gary Schlack of Plymouth, a U.S. Army veteran, former substitute teacher and small businessman in the logistics industry, has announced his bid for the Democratic nomination for the 20th District seat in the Michigan House of Representatives. The district, represented by first-term Rep. Jeff Noble R-Plymouth, includes the communities of Plymouth and Northville and part of Canton. Schlack has been on the campaigned trail since last April.

"I am running because I believe in helping those who can't defend themselves and, as an expecting father, I want a better life for my son," he said.

"We need an economy that gives everyone a fair shot, that protects public education, that rebuilds our crumbling infrastructure, that provides public safety and makes sure no one has to make the choice between filling their grocery cart or filling their prescription."

Schlack is hosting a campaign launch fundraiser 6-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 20, at the Canton Brew Works, 8521 Lilley Road. The public is invited and encouraged to attend.

Growing up in southwest Detroit, Schlack was class president during his senior year of high school and was president of his fraternity. Before the start of his junior year, Schlack temporarily left college and joined the U.S. Army, earning the Global War on Terrorism Service Medal.

"The army taught me about the importance of selfless service to our country and gave me the moral courage to al-

English as a second language. Tutoring sessions can help students communicate with their child's teacher, talk to their doctor or simply order from a menu at a restaurant.

"The efforts of the CLC tutors have a lasting impact on the students and the community," Hug said. "Many students secure better employment or become active in their children's schools or other civic organizations. Often, students develop lasting friendships with their tutors."

CLC services are free. Tutors receive comprehensive tutor training that enables them to provide the gift of literacy one word at a time.

lars used by county road commissions and public works divisions. The resolution also asks that the new fund be created for township roads.

The township board also cast a vote of support for a resolution supporting the recent state legislative initiative allocating $175 million for road repairs, amid widespread complaints by motorists about road conditions.

The latest moves also come as Canton last year created a local roads task force to study the township's road problem and issue recommendations to the township board for how to address it. A report is expected in spring.

Township Trustee Sommer Foster, who serves on the task force, said she is hopeful the group can "come up with a solution and plan to move forward" with initiatives to improve Canton roads.

"I drive on the roads every day and I see how bad they are," she said.

Even with the state's infusion of $175 million in new transportation dollars, officials say the state's funding gap for infrastructure, which includes more than just roads, still looms at $2.5 billion or more.

State Rep. Kristy Pagan, D-Canton, said she and some other lawmakers had tried to get an additional $50 million for road repairs. But she said the House Appropriations Committee voted it down.

In recent days, Wayne County has sent road crews to patch some of the worst spots for potholes in Canton, including stretches of Sheldon, Haggerty and Morton Taylor roads.

Township Supervisor Pat Williams

Canton officials are trying to secure more state dollars for townships to fix roads. FILE PHOTO

has been in frequent contact with Wayne County to get potholes fixed. He put the situation bluntly: "There is no area in Canton that is not under siege from the potholes."

But officials say Canton and communities across the state need a better fix than patching.

Canton has spent millions of dollars of general fund money during past years to help repair 208 miles of neighborhood streets and 59 miles of county primary roads. But Canton's ability to fix roads is limited and officials would like to see a state funding model that ensures Canton and other townships get their share of road money.

The resolution, sent to state lawmakers representing the Canton area and to Gov. Rick Snyder, cites concerns that deteriorating roads are impacting home values and have reached a level "that is unacceptable by community standards."

Canton is sending the resolution to state Rep. Jeff Noble, R-Plymouth, state Sen. Patrick Colbeck, R-Canton, the Michigan Townships Association and the governor.

ways stand up for what you believe in," he said.

After returning home, Schlack graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Michigan

State University and began serving the community as a substitute teacher for Plymouth-Canton Community Schools and Northville Public Schools districts. After exploring different career paths, Schlack chose to work in logistics, where he learned the need for quality roads and small business values.

Schlack held an internship for the then-U.S. Sen. John Kerry's campaign for president in 2004 and was a volunteer for both President Barack Obama's re-election campaign in 2012 and U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's presidential campaign in 2016. Schlack is married to his wife Bridget and an expectant father to the couple's first child.

MIAT, SPIRIT HOST FIELD TRIP

More technically skilled workers are needed for quality jobs was the message to career advisers at a breakfast/lunch event hosted March 1 by MIAT College of Technology and Spirit Airlines. High School career counselors, educators and workforce development specialists from around Michigan learned about career opportunities in aviation, energy, wind power and HVACR. The group began the day with tours and demonstrations around the MIAT campus and equipment areas, then traveled by bus to visit the new Spirit Airlines Maintenance Hangar at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, where representatives discussed the many possibilities for those interested in employment with the airlines. MIAT College of Technology is at 2955 S. Haggerty Road in Canton. For more information, go to www.miat.edu.

The Kingdom of God is coming — and it's here

Cultural Relevancy

Dean Johnson
USA TODAY NETWORK —
MICHIGAN

On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 14, Nikolas Cruz packed his AR-15 semi-automatic rifle and multiple magazines in a duffel bag and took an Uber ride to Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Fla. He was dropped off at the school at 2:19 p.m. He entered the school and pulled a fire alarm to flush students out of their classrooms and into the hallway. He began firing, killing 17 people and wounding 14 more. Cruz dropped his rifle on the third floor of the building and ran out of the school, blending in with fleeing students. He walked to a Walmart, where he purchased a soda at the Subway restaurant there. He then walked to a McDonald's and lingered there before leaving again on foot. Two miles away from the school, in the city of Coral Springs, he was stopped and arrested by a police officer. Police originally took him to a hospital emergency room because he was experiencing "labored breathing."

The Old Testament prophets proclaimed that the world is not the way it is supposed to be. They spoke about "the current order of things" (i.e. the way things are) in this world filled with sin, evil, violence and injustice. It's what the Apostle Paul in Galatians 1:4 called "this present evil age." We don't have a hard time believing that that's the age we live in.

But the prophets also spoke about a coming time they called "The Day of the Lord." Jews later began to call it "The Kingdom of God." This will be a time when sin and evil will be purged and God's perfect reign will be restored. The Bible also calls it "This Age" and "The Age to Come."

The prophets and later Jews pictured a definite break between the two time periods. One will end (you'll see it!) and the other will begin. It won't be subtle. It'll be a gigantic, cataclysmic event. So if you're living in the troubled now, the one big question everyone has is, "When will it come?" Jesus addressed that question in Luke 17.

He said that in one sense, the Kingdom of God had already come. "It is in your midst," he said. This was actually pretty offensive to people who heard it. How can you say The Kingdom of God has come, when we still live in a world of school shootings and cancer and loneliness and sexual harassment and racism and broken families?

Jesus was saying that since he had come, the restoration of God's reign was already beginning in the hearts of those who received his message.

But Jesus went on to say that in another sense, the Kingdom of God is not yet here. The fullness of God's reign is, obviously, yet to come. There will come a cataclysmic, observable time when things are made right. So the challenge for us now is to live as Kingdom people, with Kingdom values, as we labor in this troubled world. The Kingdom of God is both now and future. It is already and not yet. It is both here and still coming.

Where's fiscal responsibility?

Does anyone remember the good old political days? Back when Republicans claimed that Democrats were the "Tax and Spend" Party and they were the "Fiscally Responsible" ones?

My, how the worm has turned. Since the arrival of President Donald Trump, the Republicans have morphed into the "Borrow and Bow Down" Party.

The $22 trillion we owe means nothing; the fact that we don't pay down one penny on that debt and in fact, borrow just to pay the interest accrued means nothing, and so what if the Treasury announced the would be borrowing $441 billion just to get the government through the first quarter of the year.

Forget about the $566 billion trade deficit last year with the majority going to China, which will then loan us more to pay them the interest on the money we already owe them. The "Bow Down" portion of their new name, is what they did when they passed his "Huge" tax giveaway, which will result in more loans from China.

These Republican lackeys won't be around when our Financial House of Cards comes tumbling down, but by gosh they got a pat on the head from their master.

About Hilltop

I spent an evening in a crowded little clubhouse just off Powell Road, amidst an ethereal fog of rain drenched snow melting with more than 50 local Plymothians to hear a presentation by Billy Casper Golf, the current managing entity of Hilltop Golf Course.

The room was anchored by a boardroom table configured of a puzzle of smaller tables at the center of this compact clubhouse, where sat the "citizen" advisers, hand-picked to advise a Township Supervisor on their view to Hilltop's fate, after a series of "meetings" leading to a May decision.

The agenda was for Billy Casper Golf representatives to convey their perspective on 6 years of running Hilltop for a fee of 11-17 percent of gross revenues. The course has run an average deficit of $70,000 on revenues of roughly $600,000. A newspaper article alluded to impending disaster Billy Casper Golf is requesting $1.5 million to keep the course open.

From a fiscal perspective with a proactive business plan, raising greens fees $5, more appropriate 50 person golf outings, better inventory management, leaner F&B and other ideas make this eminently solvable problem. So what is the fuss?

The corporate Billy Casper representative gave a rock solid, statistically driven, even headed analysis that rivaled the best Marriott Golf presentations I have been a part of.

Someone raised the specter of an easy land grab for development. Someone said Pheasant Run did a better job.

Someone said they hadn't played Hilltop in 10 years.

The most alarming statistic from Billy Casper Golf was the fact that the near home ZIP code of 48170 had declined in "played rounds" over the past few years by something more than 2,000. Local support is critical. Hilltop is a beautiful, tough, short course.

At the conclusion, everyone applauded. But then, almost lost in the shuffle, was a poignant comment by a Plymouth resident who had served a "year ago" on a citizen committee concerned with land use, which recommended, unanimously, that, "Hilltop should be kept a golf course, that the open space, the maintenance included in this use, and the asset to the community was the highest and best use."

Everyone wants a fiscally responsible asset. We also want some open space. Some trees clustered in fall color grandeur or spring's first buds that somehow keeps at bay suburban claustrophobia.

On guns in schools

Donald Trump clones Rep Jim Runestad and Rep. Gary Glenn, both Michigan Republicans, introduced Legislation in the state House to arm teachers. Following the NRA mythology, their key to solving gun violence is more guns. We already have more guns than people in the U.S.

These Republican representative still want teachers to gun up as somehow this will protect students in a class room shootout. I assume these two representative have not been in a public school recently. Public school teachers, including our daughter, do not want to be holding a gun when a SWAT team assaults her school. Teachers' daily classroom jobs are stressful enough to teach and not play Annie Oakley.

Conveniently missing from the legislation of these two representatives as well as Trump's proposal is who pay for teacher's being armed, trained and equipped? Who pays from the inevitable lawsuits following any teacher involved in a school shooting?

The only benefactors in this legislation are gun manufacturers and their NRA representatives. Ask any teacher what is needed most in classrooms and it is school supplies, not guns.

When are enough guns enough? According to the NRA, never.

Plan mass transit without Oakland

Wayne and Washtenaw counties must move on with a well thought out regional transit plan without support from Oakland and Macomb counties. Voters in Wayne and Washtenaw supported the RTA millage in 2016 and I feel they would do it again if given another opportunity.

It is time to move on and do what is best for the residents of Wayne and Washtenaw by showing the rest of the area how successful a coordinated, well-run and efficient public transportation system can be.

Thanks, Beaumont

I recently had a rather harrowing experience.

I went to a Beaumont doctor in Canton for a checkup and was referred to a specialist for an examination. I met the specialist at Beaumont Wayne and was examined.

My imaging specialist began to prepare some images and then stepped out for a moment. Upon her return I was asked to take an EKG (an electrocardiography). I agreed and shortly after the specialist arrived and began giving me information and options.

Long story short I had been tired and weary for some time. Through the simple and tried processes at Beaumont they identified the problem and worked toward a solution.

I have no end of praise for my primary care physician who has cared for my family for a long time. From my mother-in-law, to my wife to my children, this doctor has been steadfast, knowledgeable and supportive through many trials. I never imagined one of these trials would be me.

During my stay at the Wayne City Beaumont Hospital I was treated with care, respect and professionalism.

I am overwhelmed with gratitude to the young woman who noticed one small item and then responded to it. She has profoundly changed my life for the better.

That, apparently, is the Beaumont way. Thanks, Beaumont! Why not get a checkup and listen to your doctor? I bet you'll be glad you did!

Where did the money go?

I live in Northville. I just had my taxes done and I took note that on my property tax, at the bottom, were the words RESA ENHANCEMENT.

My total for this RESA enhancement was $329.86 and $332.82 for a grand total of $662.68 for last year.

I am not happy about this. Your article talked about Plymouth. So, Plymouth got $5.9 million. Well, what did Detroit get? What did Westland get? What did Taylor get? What did Garden City get? What did Northville get?

I am not into collecting money and then redistributing that money. This is socialism. And of course it passed as it was to the advantage of people in many districts as their home values are less than in Northville or Plymouth. I am fairly sure that Detroit made out well.

United we protect

Another morning spent crying over the news compels me to write. Another mass school shooting compels me to act.

But while my actions alone may not make a difference, if we unite we can make America a safer place for our children. Here are three easy steps:

1. Contact your representatives in Washington and Lansing, and demand they act to protect our children. Ask them to do their jobs!

2. Vote in all elections. The Nov. 6, 2018, election is critical. If our current representatives won't do their jobs and protect our children, they must be replaced.

3. Vote only for candidates who will stand up to the National Rifle Association (NRA) and support common-sense gun regulations.

Our children deserve a country where they are safe at school. Together we can make that happen.

PREP WRESTLING

CC claims five individual titles

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

It was another performance for the record books Saturday for Novi Detroit Catholic Central's wrestling team at the MHSAA Division 1 individual stae finals at Detroit's Ford Field.

The Shamrocks boasted five champions, a pair of second-place finishers and had 13 placers out of their 14 state qualifiers.

CC is 26-3 in the individual finals over the last six years.

"Overall, a very satisfying day," said CC coach Mitch Hancock, who guided the Shamrocks to a Division 1 team state championship the previous week in Kalamazoo. "Anytime you set a record with 13 state placers, you're happy with that. Almost the entire lineup placed. Fourteen state qualifiers, five champs ... another CC record. That's four times we've had that and three in a row."

Three-time winners

Ben Kamali (119 pounds): The senior, headed to wrestle at the University of Virginia, defeated Waterford Kettering's Mark Brado, 9-4, in the finals to finish 35-1 on the year while winning his third straight state title.

"I don't know if I've seen a light-weight wrestle through positions as good as he does," Hancock said. "It doesn't matter what position he's in, he just wrestles really hard in every position. I think that's what separates him from a lot of other individuals. He never shuts down, never quits in any positions."

Kevon Davenport (145): The junior went 41-3 overall to also claim his third individual state title as he defeated Bay City Western's Vic Schoenherr in the finals, 7-1.

"Just the confidence level that he has is remarkable," Hancock said. "When he steps on the mat, there's no doubt he's going to win in his mind and that's impressive."

New champions

Easton Turner (215): The junior finished 39-1 overall, capped by a 4-2 vic-

PCA's Malcolm looks to end his career on a high note

USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

When Matt Malcolm first stepped on the basketball court at Plymouth Christian Academy, he tended to stay away from traffic and launch long shots.

Although the senior more often than not found the range from behind the 3-point line, his game has evolved into more of a two-way threat — able to still shoot it while taking the basketball to the rack.

And as Malcolm, 17, closes out his four-year varsity career with the Eagles, he is ensconced in the school record book with a career points total around 1,300 as the Class D districts begin.

"I think I'm just attacking the rim now, I've been doing a better job," Malcolm said about how his game has evolved. "(PCA head coach Matt Windle) has forced me to become more of a slasher rather than a 3-point shooter. Freshman year, I was kind of intimi-

A long, skipping shot bounced past Livonia Churchill senior goalie Chris Sergison, enabling Allen Park to tie Saturday's Division 3 boys hockey regional final 3-3 with about six minutes to play in the third period.

But when Churchill teammate Zach Vendittelli realized what had happened, he turned to other players on the bench and delivered a message.

"I really felt bad for (Sergison)," Vendittelli said. "I was, like, 'Man we own him one' because he bailed us out so many times."

That's exactly what happened, with Vendittelli's goal at 1:54 of the third overtime at Allen Park Ice Arena giving Churchill a 4-3 victory. Sergison needed a bit of luck (a shot hit the crossbar in the first OT), but he was strong with several big-time stops to keep the Chargers alive.

Advice pays off

On the winning goal — the third of the game for the 5-5 Vendittelli — he rushed down the right wing, cut in on Allen Park senior goaltender Jarod Potasnik and remembered something his cousin told him.

"I was looking to where (Potasnik) was sliding to, where he kind of dipped his shoulder, he dropped early," Vendittelli said. "I thought I'd try shooting right here."

Vendittelli pointed to the space between the arm and body: "My cousin's a goalie and he said if you can put it right here, it's really hard to see."

When the red light flashed, the entire Churchill bench stormed onto the ice and mobbed Vendittelli along the opposite side of the rink. Moments later, Chargers head coach Jason Reynolds gave Sergison a big, long bear hug.

"Chris has been with us since his freshman year," Reynolds said. "He waited patiently as a backup behind Andrew Broyles, when he was our starter. Andrew was a regional championship goaltender last year and I really wanted to see Chris win this one."

"Chris has never complained, he's the first one on the ice most days and he's the last one off the ice most days. And there's maybe nobody who deserves this more than Chris. I'm really happy for him."

Shaking it off

Sergison said his coaches and teammates were quick to back him up after the long, bouncing goal scored by junior forward Dylan Alchin.

"It was a bad goal to give up. Just had to shake it off, keep my head in it," Sergison said. "I knew my team was going to battle for me and they ended up prevailing in the end. It's great."

And what did Reynolds say to him during the emotional postgame hug?

"He said, 'This one's for you.' It's my first year starting," Sergison said. "I had shoes to fill (Andrew Broyles) and it's great to be able to fill those."

Vendittelli was the spark-plug all night for the Chargers (14-11-3), who advanced to Wednesday's scheduled D-3 quarterfinal against Grosse Pointe Woods University-Liggett.

After Allen Park's Mathews opened the scoring on a shorthanded breakaway, the Chargers responded at 14:57, when senior forward Josh Friend knocked in a rebound.

On the play, sophomore defenseman Keith Peterson's point shot was tipped on goal by senior forward Carter Swider and the puck caromed over to Friend on the right side of the Jaguars net.

Churchill then took a 2-1 lead midway through the second on Vendittelli's first goal. He picked up a pass that Peterson banked off the half-wall and got past the defenseman before ripping a shot past Potasnik.

"(Vendittelli) has enough heart to fill this entire arena," Reynolds said. "He is the exception to every rule in hockey when it comes to size and how you should play. He is absolutely fearless. He's bound to be a future captain on this team."

Vendittelli then scored early in the third, stripping the puck from an Allen Park defenseman and snapping a shot into the cage.

Jags respond

But less than a minute later, the Jaguars answered to get it to within 3-2. Josh Donigan one-timed a shot past Sergison.

Then came the flip shot by Alchin that suddenly sent the game into an emotional back-and-forth through two eight-minute overtimes and into the third extra period.

"We just knew coming in we had to keep battling," Churchill senior forward and co-captain Conor Burnette said. "We've been through so many overtimes. We just had to keep trucking. We knew our goalie had our back."

"That one went in, it wasn't his fault, it took a bad hop. He jumped right back in the there and started making great saves again. He did a great job."

Allen Park coach Jeff Mason, whose team finished 14-10-4, wasn't surprised his team responded after falling behind, 3-1.

"Our third periods have been our best period all year," Mason said. "Even being down one goal, we were still confident going into the third."

"When we got that tying goal, from that point on, I thought we controlled a lot of the game. But a few bounces here and there don't go our way. That's the game of hockey."

Mason said the game very easily could have ended with the home team enjoying a wild celebration.

"It came out in the slot there and our guy, it kind of jumped on him," Mason said. "At that point, we already had two guys deep and he got caught once it jumped over his stick — odd-man rush the other way. We told our boys from the third period on, just throw a puck at the net and see what happens. That's exactly what happened on the winning goal."

tory over Blake Wingate of Temperance Bedford in the final.

"Just a blue-collar, hardworking young man," Hancock said. "He's worked extremely hard all year and has had a fantastic season, despite a shoulder issue that he might have to have surgery on pretty soon. He persevered after a few difficult times during the season, was able to stay healthy and win a state title. We're excited for him."

Derek Gilcher (135): The sophomore rallied in the final to defeat Oxford's Sergio Borg, 8-5, and finished 35-9 overall.

"His tenacity is impressive and his ability to overcome obstacles," Hancock said. "He was down in that match 3-0, but I don't ever think he (had) doubt in himself or the work he's put in. He works extremely hard and has a bright future."

Josh Edmond (130): The sophomore, a transfer from Orchard Lake St. Mary's who became eligible at the semester break, went 24-0 this season, capped by a 7-4 win in the final over Jenison's Jarred Riggins.

Edmond was a Division 2 state-runner-up a year ago.

"Very, very talented young man and just a likeable kid, too," Hancock said.

"He's got a great sense of humor off the mat. He's just a well-rounded young man and I'm just happy to see him win his first title."

Runners-up

Cameron Amine (152): The junior, who finished 43-3 overall, was denied his third state title by Davison freshman Alex Facundo in the final, 4-2.

"I think Cameron wrestled extremely well," Hancock said. "Alex Facundo is very good. I give Cameron a lot of credit. He was ranked No. 1 at 160 a majority of the year and, had he really wanted to, he could have gone up to 160 and won his third title, but Cameron is a guy who feeds off competition."

Facundo went undefeated this year (25-0), which included a win over Davenport in the team state finals.

"So I give (Amine) a lot of credit staying put at 152 and wrestling Facundo," Hancock said. "Both guys are ranked in the top 10 nationally. I think it says a lot of who he is and his character. In these days, you see guys avoid match-ups, but not him, so that's pretty cool."

dated and content to stay behind the 3-point line."

Malcolm's changing style of offense also gives him the occasional chance to rise up and dunk it.

"Five (dunks) this year," said the always-smiling son of Greg and Annie Malcolm, who now sports a neat goatee and perfectly coiffed hair. "You think you're too tired to do it, but the adrenaline just lifts me up there."

A grand milestone

Also lifting up Malcolm was the sequence of events that enabled him to reach the coveted 1,000-point mark, during a home game this season against Lansing Christian.

"It was a half-court shot, actually, at the end of the third quarter," Malcolm said. "I just kind of chucked it up there and it went in. In my head I was thinking, 'I think that was 1,000, on the dot,' and it was."

"Coach didn't realize it, but I was fine with that. I didn't want a big deal. My mom told me later."

In the several weeks since, he has helped the Eagles end the regular season on a 7-2 run to even their record at 9-9 entering the district. Malcolm is averaging 18.5 points per contest.

"That killer instinct doesn't come naturally to him," Windle said. "And over the years, he's really developed into looking to get the buckets we need him to get and being more aggressive and attacking the rim, shooting shots under pressure. I've seen that mentality grow, develop and really improve over the years. Now he's starting to create shots off the dribble, getting to the rim."

It remains to be seen whether PCA can follow the postseason script that the school's volleyball team did on its way to the 2017 Class D state championship.

"I'm feeling very confident and, yes, the volleyball team has motivated us to step it up and, hopefully, bring a state championship in basketball, too," Malcolm said.

Turning the page

Regardless of how the postseason plays out, Malcolm said he is certain his career as a competitive basketball player is ending once that final game has been completed.

Malcolm, who carries a 3.9 grade-point average, is leaning toward attending Hillsdale College to pursue academics — not accolades on the basketball court.

"A lot of smaller colleges contacted me, but I realized that I think it's just time to focus on school," Malcolm said. "It's got to end sometime. I still love playing, but not enough for college."

He then broke into a wider grin than usual and went out on the floor to practice some free throws.

His coach also was smiling a little bit, talking about what Malcolm has meant to the PCA boys basketball program.

"I'm really glad we've had him the last four years. He's really a great example of a student-athlete to have here at Plymouth Christian," Windle said. "I'm just proud to have coached him the last three years."

more was 37-8 overall, after losing to Temperance Bedford's Austin Emerson in the final, 5-1.

"If you had told me eight weeks ago that Steven would have been in the state finals, I would have told you that you were wild," Hancock said. "So that's how far he's come in eight weeks. You've got to give credit to our coaching staff for preparing him the right way. He just never stopped believing."

More placers

The Shamrocks placers were freshman Dominick Lomazzo (38-10), who took third at 125; senior Stone Moscovici (37-9), seventh at 125; senior Aidan Wagh (38-10), seventh at 171; senior Rory Cox (39-7), seventh at 189; sophomore Logan Sanom (40-10), eighth at 140; and sophomore Brendin Yatooma (34-12), eighth at 189 (losing 2-1 to Cox in the final blood round).

CC junior Joe Urso (35-12) went 1-2 at 145 and was involved in three one-point decisions.

Stevenson dominates South Lyon Unified in final

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

It's the month of March and Livonia Stevenson's boys hockey team is on the march once again.

The Spartans spotted South Lyon Unified an early goal and then reeled off nine unanswered to capture their fourth straight Division 2 regional title with a 9-1 victory Saturday at Eddie Edgar Arena.

Top-ranked Stevenson (23-5) moved into the quarterfinals scheduled for Tuesday at the University of Michigan's Yost Arena against Trenton.

Stevenson, which ended the game after two periods because of the eight-goal mercy rule, won its fifth regional crown in the past six years.

"It's been great. It's probably the best team we've had out of all my three years," Stevenson senior defenseman Connor Jakacki said. "My sophomore year was great, too, and last year was great, too. But this time of year, we always seem to clutch up and just find a way to win, survive and advance."

South Lyon Unified (13-12), the inaugural Lakes Valley Conference champion, struck first on Anthony Joseph's goal from Jack Marchand and Jake Heffernan.

But the Kensington Lakes Activities Association champions quickly answered, getting a goal from Josh Suzio (from Seth Lause) at 7:15, followed by Jack Williamson's unassisted short-handed goal at 10:59 of the first period after the Spartans successfully fought off a South Lyon five-on-three power play.

"We were happy we were up 2-1 and understood we didn't play our best hockey and so we knew we had our best hockey in front of us," Stevenson coach David Mitchell said. "The message wasn't to panic. We didn't suddenly need to flip switches, we just needed to stay the course, clean up our details, play an honest game and play the right way."

"It was a slow start, but we weren't worried though," Jakacki said. "With Will (Tragge) in net, we're always confident."

The Spartans stormed out of the first intermission, scoring seven times, with junior Jaydon Spears notching on a power-play goal from Easton Schlatterbeck and with only 51.1 seconds left in the second period to make it an eight-goal margin and a running clock.

During the period, Stevenson scored four times on the power play after SLU took five penalties.

"Just more pucks to the net, more shots ... more end zone time, obviously," Jakacki said of the first intermission message by Mitchell. "The power play, we really stepped it up from the last two games. We struggled the first two games of the playoffs, but the power play definitely picked up in the second period."

Senior defenseman Jake Beaune had a pair of second-period power-play goals to raise his season total of 22, while Adam Hillebrand, Brendan Preiss, Lause (power play) and Pat McGowan also found the back of the net.

Other Stevenson assists went to Williamson (two), Beaune (two), Decina (two) Steven Hunt, Jakacki, Schlatterbeck, Spears, Preiss and Austin Adamic.

Here are some other takeaways:

SHOT DIFFERENTIAL

Stevenson outshot South Lyon, 40-10, as South Lyon changed goalies at the 8:33 mark of the second when Nolan Smith came on for starter Andrew Lowen following Lause's power-play goal.

"We took some penalties that we didn't need to take," South Lyon coach Bill McCreary said. "Their speed took control and it kind of snowballed from there. But I was proud our guys, they competed. They just let it slip away. You give them an opportunity and they're going to put it in the net. That's a very good hockey team."

INJURY REPORT

Two of the Spartans' top players, senior defenseman Kevin Stefanick and senior forward Julian Decina, were in street clothes with injuries.

"Injuries are part of the game and it provides other people opportunities to step up," Mitchell said. "And right now, guys are doing that. Everybody battles it at this time, but we'll see what happens come (the quarterfinal)."

"Two of our main players are out, but we've played without them for like five games now. I think we're ready and ready for whatever else comes," Jakacki said.

LOOKING BACK

South Lyon Unified graduates nine seniors: Ryan Bigler, Alex Coutts, Gavin Ross, Adam Zebly, Ashton Jones, Gavin McPherson, Charlie Assemany, Jake Heffernan and Brendan Stanfield.

"I'm excited," McCreary said. "Certainly we're losing some good guys, but we have a lot of good guys coming back and the feeder system is solid and always excited for next year."

South Lyon went 9-1 this year to win the Lakes Valley Conference.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Grand Blanc stymies Novi again in KLAA final

Brad Emons
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Thanks to a player named Goliath, Grand Blanc made a giant exit Friday in its final boys basketball game in the Kensington Lakes Activities Association.

The Bobcats, who will be leaving to join a new conference next year after being voted out of the newly configured 14-school KLAA, got a team-best 25 points from Robert Goliath Mitchell in a 69-64 victory before a spirited home crowd against Novi.

Mitchell had only two points in the first half, but there was a reason.

"I came late to practice and that's why I didn't start the game," the 6-foot-1 senior guard said. "I had only two points, but I wasn't worried about it. I was trying to get my team the win. I was just thinking to do whatever you have to do to get it done. I had a 'got to get it' mentality."

Mitchell heated up in the third quarter, scoring 13 of his team's 17 points, including three triples.

"I sat out the whole first quarter and it was a learning experience," Mitchell said. "I felt I let my team down and I got to go out to show we're brothers and teammates. I had to come back and show them."

Under first-year coach Mike Thomas, who guided Kalamazoo Central to a pair of Class A state championships (2010-11), Grand Blanc won its 12th straight to improve to 17-3 overall.

"It feels good, because I've been out of the game for six years and just playing in March is something special," Thomas said. "I got up this morning and got on my knees and thanked God for allowing me to be able to coach as a head coach in March."

The Bobcats, who got off to a slow start against Novi's zone defense, trailed 8-5 after one quarter, but pulled ahead 25-17 with a late first-half flurry.

Novi got as close as one to end the third quarter, 42-41, thanks to junior guard Giovanni Miles's nothing but net 50-foot shot from beyond the half-court line for a 3-pointer at the buzzer.

But the Wildcats (12-8) couldn't get over the hump in the final quarter as Grand Blanc kept the Wildcats at arm's length by making 15-of-26 foul shots.

It was the third time Grand Blanc had beaten Novi this season, following 71-53 and 68-63 wins in KLAA Gold Division play.

"They're aggressive, they've been an aggressive team all year," Novi coach Brandon Sinawi said of the Bobcats. "Again tonight, they were more aggressive than we were, especially on the offensive glass. We had a hard time in that first half and then it continued in the second. I think that was the biggest difference. The match-ups are good, but they're just hungrier each time we played them."

Only four players scored for Novi, with the 6-3 Miles and the 6-4 senior guard Traveon Maddox Jr. leading the way with 25 and 24 points, respectively.

Senior center Tariq Woody added eight and senior point guard Trenderon Hankerson contributed seven.

"I think we missed too many easy ones," Sinawi said. "I thought we had a good game plan. We got to the basket with Tariq, Traveon and Trenderon ... it's just we didn't make the ones. And it wasn't just missing them, it was the times that we missed them. I thought Giovanni hit some big shots for us, Traveon at times, but we came up short in that category."

Grand Blanc had more balanced scoring, with 6-5 senior forward Jackarus Smith adding 18 points and 6-4 senior Lonell Martin contributing nine.

Here are some other takeaways:

CLOSE CALLS

In the two previous KLAA playoff games, Grand Blanc escaped with a 62-60 overtime win over Wayne Memorial and a 66-61 double-OT victory against Westland John Glenn.

"They've bought into all the things we've preached about," Thomas said. "This was a team that was 9-12 last year ... just to be able to change the culture that fast. We have eight seniors and usually it takes a little time. You could tell they were special right away, just by the way they bought in."

ZONE PRINCIPLES

After losing the previous two meetings, Novi decided to come out in a zone defense and it worked during the first quarter as Grand Blanc made only 2-of-16 field-goal attempts to trail, 8-5.

"We just thought we'd throw them a curve ball a little bit," Sinawi said. "They scored only five in the first and then we went away from it. That's the decision I take. If I had it back, maybe we would have stayed in it a little longer or maybe go back to it at a different time. But hats off to them. They were the better team tonight. They've been a great team all year, so congratulations to them. We got to gear up for next week."

Grand Blanc outscored Novi in the second quarter, 20-9, hitting 9-of-17 shots from the floor.

"We've been prepared for it," Thomas said. "It just seems like a tradition in the KLAA. They watched film on us and Westland John Glenn gave us a 1-2-2 and Wayne gave us a 1-2-2. We've been working on it for the last week or so. I didn't expect them to play it that early, but we were prepared for it."

SPLIT ALLEGIANCES

Novi assistant coach Kevin Hankerson, father of Wildcats senior point guard Trenderon, had to miss a special performance Friday by his oldest son in the first round of the Horizon League tournament at Little Caesars Arena.

Kameron Hankerson, sophomore guard at Wisconsin-Green Bay, put on a show with a career-high 36 points, including seven 3-pointers, in a 93-81 win over the University of Detroit-Mercy.

While the KLAA championship game was starting, Kevin Hankerson's wife watched the game on her iPad in the bleachers.

"I'll watch the replay on ESPN3," Kevin said.

Waves of Catholic Central skill bury Rocks

Tim Smith
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

From wire to wire March 1 — and that was only about 36 minutes worth of hockey — Novi Detroit Catholic Central displayed some slick and sick moves against Salem.

The uber-talented Shamrocks walked the line, dangled and connected on tape-to-tape saucer passes while dominating as though they were continuously on the power play.

Catholic Central (23-3-1) scored five times in the second period and ended an 8-0 mercy rule win when senior forward and co-captain Brendan West scored just 90 seconds into the third period at USA Hockey Arena in Plymouth.

"Actually, it was a little bit lucky but I got a stick on it," West said about the game-ending goal. "It was a really good pass, I got a stick on it and it went five-hole, but it was a good play by (senior linemate Dylan) Montie to get it to me."

Indeed it was. Montie floated a soft pass from the bottom of the right circle over to West (two goals, assist), stationed near the left post. He quickly put the puck past Salem junior goalie Austin Goleniak to make it an eight-goal spread and conclude the evening's proceedings about 15 minutes early.

West was one of seven players with multiple points; a total of 10 got on the score sheet. Also scoring twice was junior forward Zach Borchardt, while junior defenseman Brendan Hill (one goal, two assists), junior forward Mitch Morris (goal, assist), senior forward Jared Lee (goal, assist), junior defenseman Luke Collins (two assists) and Montie (two assists) garnered two points each.

Catholic Central outshot Salem, 26-3, playing a flawless, totally engaged game. On a night when the Rocks (11-13-1) couldn't generate much of an attack, Shamrocks players protected junior goalie Zach Allan (who posted the shutout) by diving and sliding to block sporadic Salem shots.

"That's what it takes to win a championship," West said. "We lost that last year, I think we took the little things for granted."

"This year we're concentrating on those little things and it's going a long way for us, and I believe if we keep doing that we can bring home another state championship."

Those words must be music to the ears of Catholic Central head coach Brandon Kaleniecki, who chuckled when asked if he can't help but sometimes turn into a fan to marvel at the immense skill his players display night after night.

"We try not to, we try to keep focused on improving areas," Kaleniecki said. "They're doing a great job, we've been on a great run. My job is to make sure we keep focused and keep pushing."

Kaleniecki said the win over Salem was similar to the 8-0 mercy over Northville; both the Rocks and Mustangs have enjoyed time in the top 10 rankings for D-1 this season.

"Obviously the result was the same, it seemed like the flow of play was the same," Kaleniecki said. "We'll take it. They're a good hockey team and we got off on the front foot. So that when you get up a goal or two early that makes a huge difference."

Veteran Salem head coach Ryan Ossenmacher said his team knew exactly what it was up against in facing the Shamrocks.

"They're a fantastic hockey team, they're one of the better high school teams I've seen since I've been around," Ossenmacher said. "I'm not disappointed in our guys at all. I thought we competed pretty well. Obviously, we didn't generate a lot of opportunities."

Catholic Central opened the scoring with 13:08 left in the first period, when Morris weaved through Salem defenders and deked Goleniak before sliding the puck into the goal.

It took about 10 minutes for the lead to be doubled. With 3:47 remaining, sophomore forward Kyle Gaffney roofed a shot from between the circles.

Hill's wrist shot from the left circle snuck inside the far post just 55 seconds into the middle period, and that jump-started CC's five-goal outburst which blew the contest open.

COLLEGE RECRUITING

Harrison's Walker is heading for KSU

Marty Budner
hometownlife.com
USA TODAY NETWORK — MICHIGAN

Trey Walker is one of those rare three-sport athletes.

The 6-0, 175-pound senior has played football, basketball and baseball ever since entering Farmington Harrison four years ago. When Walker graduates this spring, he will leave the Hawks athletic program with nine varsity letters.

While he enjoys all three sports, baseball is Walker's passion.

Walker will play Division II baseball next year at Kentucky State University, which competes in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. He will tell you playing multiple sports ultimately helped him get to the Frankfort-based university.

"I don't really believe in specializing in one sport," said Walker, who signed his national letter of intent last December. "I just feel like you should play all sports and then let it dictate, based on how well you play those sports, what you want to play in college.

"Even when I was in eighth grade going into high school, I knew I was going to play all three sports for four years. That was my goal. The idea was to be a top athlete in anything you do. I'm glad I did that and it was probably one of the best decisions I made, athletic-wise.

"I feel it definitely helped me out, with things like speed and jumping, moving around quicker, strength, especially from football," he added. "Weight lifting in football, I think, helped me hit the ball harder and farther in baseball and throw harder and faster. It really helped me out a lot."

Walker decided in spring his junior year that he really wanted to concentrate on baseball and his talent eventually caught the eye of KSU head coach Robert Henry. Walker entertained other baseball offers from Alabama State, Jackson State, Radford University and U-M Dearborn, but Kentucky State was his choice.

"I had a couple coaches looking at me, but I went down and had a personal workout with coach Henry and I took a little visit around the school," Walker said. "I loved the campus and I really love what coach Henry is trying to do with the program. He is really all about developing baseball players and trying to get the best out of you. I just thought it was the best fit for me."

Walker has proven to be a versatile baseball player for Harrison head coach Dominic Carino.

Last year, for instance, Walker not only expertly handled his shortstop duties, but was asked to fill in at outfield on occasion and did a standout job on all fronts with a .919 fielding average. Offensively, he finished with an excellent .385 batting average and a .501 on-base percentage.

An honorable mention all-district player last spring, Walker's strength is his hitting and speed. When he gets on base, he's always a threat to steal. He also plays travel baseball with the Michigan Bulls and batted .405 last summer.

Walker plans to see where his college baseball experience takes him. Whatever happens, Walker will still have that coveted degree — he plans to major in accounting — to fall back on.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
